NEWS OF LONG AGO.

What Was Happening In Davie Before The Days of Automobiles and Rolled Hose

(Davie Record, April 13, 1905)

Mrs. M. E. Swicegood has been quite ill, but is much better.

A. T. Grant, Jr., made a business trip to Raleigh Monday to look after some matters before the Supreme court.

Mr. and Mrs. Numan Reid spent last week in town the guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. N. Chaffin.

W. M. Beard has been appointed overseer to cut out a new road from Godby's bridge to County Line.

Miss Nannie Douthit, of Clemmons is the guest of her sister, Mrs E. H. Morris.

Mrs. Jameson has returned home from a visit to relatives at Salisbury.

W. R. Meroney, of Salisbury, spent last week in town with his father's family.

Mr. Squires, who has taken the superintendency of the building of the new Presbyterian church here, entered his work Monday morning. His brother will join him soon.

The following tax listers have been appointed for Davie county: Farmington, F. P. Cash; Clarksville, T. M. Peoples; Calaboln, A. A. Anderson; Fulton, A. M. Garwood; Jerusalem, W. D Foster; Mocksville, A. T Grant; Shady Grove, W. A. Hendricks.

The murder case of Bob Williams for killing Lewis Laird, and the negro, Jim Smith, for killing another negro, was continued at the April term of Davie Superior court.

Mrs Amanda White, wife of Mr. John White, of near Pino died at her home April 4th. leaving a husband and eight children.

Mr. J. S. Smoot, of near Kappa, is stepping high—another girl.

Miss Beulah Current, one of Mocksville's charming young ladies spent spent Saturday and Sunday the guest of Miss Minnie Ratledge, near Kappa.

About 40 young people gave Frank Stonestreet a surprise party on his birthday. All present had a big time.

Mrs. Lelie Burton, wife of James Burton, was buried at Fork Church last Sunday. Mrs Burton was the daughter of Mr. J. H. Peebles

Miss Lizzie Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Williams, of Bixby, was buried at the Primitive Baptist church near Fork Church last Saturday. She died of typhoid fever.

On the evening of March 31st, Miss Mollie Bailey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Bailey, of near Advance, died of tuberculosis. She was a devoted member of Elbaville M. P. church. She will be sadly missed in her community

Mrs. C. S. Brown and little daughter, Ollie, spent Saturday night at Cooleemee with Mr. J. M. Mrs. Granger.

R. A. Dwiggins and son Sam, of near Jericho, made a business trip to Woodleaf one day last week.

Mrs. S. A. Walker, who spent last week with her daughter, Mrs. John Whitley, near Kurfees, has returned to her home at Kappa.

R. A. Allen, who holds a position in Salisbury, spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Allen, near Jericho.

And Asheville has went and gone anti Josiah—heap much. (Wonder what Josiah was running for 25 years ago. Editor.)

A Mocksville Boy Writes

Editor Record:—During the past year or two I have read the 'News of Long Ago" column in The Record with interest, and every week these notes bring to mind some incident that happened in Mocksville that I can remember furthur back than I like to admit. Wonder how many remember when:

The sheriff and a party of deputies shot John Eaton (colored, and known as Beef John) to death in the north end of town in his cabin while trying to arrest him? Phoenius Bailey was sheriff, I think.

When the postoffice was in the south end of the Old Kelly Hotel, and Mr Jim Kelly was postmaster. I believe that he was a democrat, and was appointed by Cleveland. He was succeeded by Mr. E. H. Morris, and the postoffice was for a long time located in the Weant Building. Tom and Sam Bailey, John Naylor and a Leonard boy, served as clerks.

When the railraod from Winston terminated at Mocksville, and the turn-table was in front of Horn's flour mill. Later when the road was completed through to Charlotte, a committee of Mocksville business men headed by Lawyer Tom Bailey gave a watermelon feast to the negro workers under the walnut trees near where Green's mill now stands.

The night the bank of Davie was robbed. This happened on Sunday night. The Saturday night before Paul Hardison and I worked in the back of the same building "running off" one side of the old Davie Times. We talked about what we would do if robbers should come that night.

When Sanford & Williams tobacco factory was running full blast and worked a great number of negroes and a number of white men. Mr. Willie Smith was the boss and Mr O. L. Williams manager. I worked there as "tag boy" putting tin and paper tags on plugs before they were pressed. Robersons tobacco factory was in the north end of town, and was burned.

The night the old Kelly Hotel burned It stood where the Court House is now, and was a large log building. Mr. Jim McGuire lost his old bicycle, and Holloway Pass a nice bird dog in this fire. Only one person was injured; Miss Austin.

When Mocksville had such a "hot" ball team; some of the players being South Grant, Tom Parnell, Guss Granger, Roland and Harold Early. I believe Turner Grant was the first one to even master the art of the "curve ball" in Mocksville, and he was quite a pitcher for a time. Later Harold Early, Ben Woonard and Armitte Sheek served as pitchers.

The first phonograph that ever came to Mocksville was on display af Sanford's store. It was equipped with tubes to go in the ears of the listener. The next one was "imported" by T. J. Byerly, and was of the "horn" variety, and of evenings he would place it on the vacant lot where the Anderson Building now stands and the town loafers would gather around to hear the music.

When the furniture factory was started, and a number of men were brought from Atlanta to start it off--Marvin Waters, Luke Apperson, a Mr. Andrews, and a number of others. Mr. Waters, I believe, was the only one to remain in Mocksville. The tobacco factory was then closed, and Mr Willie Smith was made foreman of the furniture factory.

When E. H. Morris was editor and owner of the Davie Record and Frank Stroud was his "printer boy", "Puny" Hunt sold soda water and candy, bicycles, typewriters and campaign buttons; there was no restaurant in town; Ed Griffin was the only barber, and done painting on the side.

If you remember all these things you are getting near the middle of your allotted time, and should be wise enough not to believe all the politicians and editors say. They lied back in those days, and they're still at the same old game.

Community Banquet A Big Success.

Omitted From Last Issue.

Cooleemee March 23.—The Community Supper held last night in the Town Hall and under the supervision of the Ladies Aid Society was a great success. The Hall was practically filled with the leading citizens of the town.

Rev. N. C. Duncan rector of the Episcopal Church was Toastmaster to the occasion.

Mr. J. W. Zachary general manager of the Erwin Cotton Mills was the principal speaker. Mr. Zachary mentioned the fact that the long looked for sewage system was about to become reality as the contract was in the hands of a construction company and a car load of piping was now on the railway siding.

The speaker stated that he appreciated the wonderful work of the different churches in the village and commended the cooperate spirit existing between them. He mentioned especially the work of the Clinic in charge of Mrs. Green, and stated that it was a new undertaking in the village and results already show that it is a great success.

The Mill manager commended the residents of the town for their efforts to keep the yards and streets in a clean and sanitary condition, and in the landscape gardening which adds much to the beauty of the town. He further urged the folks to plant flowers and shrubbery, in an effort to make the charming village more beautiful.

Rev. N. C. Duncan stated that to the mill management goes much of the credit for the work done in the town, and the beautification of the streets and grounds. He stated further that Mr Zachary was in a large way responsible for the success achieved by the churches and the high type of citizenship exemplified in the residents.

The following representative and leading citizens also made short talks: Rev. M. Luther Barnes, Baptist pastor; Rev. T. J. Houck, Methodist pastor; Mill Superintendent T. C. Pegram; Mrs. Green, nurse in charge of clinic; Mr. J E. Smith, manager of J. N. Ledford Co; Miss Victoria Byerly, Mr. C. W. Farrar, of Salisbury, district manager of Carolina Motor Club

F. R. LEAGANS.

FOR STATE SENATOR.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for State Senator from the 24th Senatorial District, composed of Wilkes, Yadkin and Davie counties, subject to the Republican Senatorial Convention, which meets at Yadkinville on Saturday, April 19th, and would appreciate your support If nominated and elected to this important office, I will do everything possible for the upbuilding of this district, and will be found standing for the things that will help the entire citizenship. The voters are urged to attend the Davie county primary and convention, which will be held at the various precincts on Saturday, April 5th, and at Mocksville on Monday, April 7th.

Let's Be Honost.

We want to talk to those people who make it a practice of doing their trading with Chain Store and Mail Order houses—bargain hunters.

Has it ever occurred to you that there will come a day when the breadwinner of the family may be taken sick, or old man Hard Luck hits you, as he has a habit of doing sooner or later. Now when this time comes what are you going to say to the Independent Merchant when you realize that you must have credit to help you along until the head of the house gets wells or obtains a poition in place of the one he lost when the Chain Store put the Independent Merchant that he was working for out of business?

Here is what you have been doing, and likely are still at it, you go to the Chain Store, pay cash for what you buy and carry it home yourself, when you get home you find out that you have forgotten the yeast cakes that you left off your list of supplies. You step to phone and call up the Independent Merchant and tell him to send you three yeast cakes, and wind up the conversation by telling him to charge it, that you will stop in and pay him the next time that you come up town, also to rush the delivery as you must have these yeast cakes right away as you are expecting company to supper and want to serve some fresh rolls.

Now what the Independent Merchant should do is to tell you to get your yeast cakes from the same store where you are spending your cash, and if you are in such a hurry to crank up your benzine buggy and go after them, then when you get back home figure how much you have saved by trading at the Chain Store, you will find out that you have used from ten to 15 cents worth of gas and oil, the wear and tear of your car, and not taking your time into consideration, these three yeast cakes have cost you right around 50 cents, depending on the distance that you have to go. But instead of telling this backsliding customer the plain truth, Mr. Independent Merchant says: "All right, we will send them on the next delivery, thank you."

Then he hangs up the receiver, has a clerk put up the yeast cakes, sends them a mile or more to the customer, charges up 15 cents on his books, which he will get someday, maybe, and wakes up to the fact that he has lost 37 cents on this deal, and that is not the end of the transaction, by a long shot. The first of the month comes along and Mr. Merchant sends you a statement through the mail, and right here these yeast cakes show up on the wrong side of the ledger again Two cents for a postage stamp and the stationery, and if you neglect paying for them by the first of the following month there is another two cents charged up on this transaction, and if the merchant would figure his time worth anything he is out at least 50 cents for accommodating you. We defy any expert accountant to get any other result.

These remarks are not the result of a disordered brain, but hard, cold facts, and we could give names and places if necessary.

It is time these conditions were changed, and if you do not help change them the time is not so many years distant when there will be no Independent Merchant to answer to your demands as he is doing now.—Oxford Menace.

Onslow farmers are removing stumps from their fertile lands. A special campaign for this purpose was recently begun in this county by the farm agent.

WELFARE NEWS.

(MRS. QUEEN BESS KENNEN, Superintendent of Welfare)

At the close of the first half of this term we made a survey of our school attendence in Davie county which gave us the following information:

Total No. Pupils enrolled in County	3,117
With an average attendence of	2,653
No between the ages of 7-14	2,093
Not under compulsory law	1,024
Making perfect attendence	684
Of this number there were not under the law	128

Of the 3,117 pupils more than one-third 1,051 are conveyed to school on trucks and of the other two-thirds a total of 494 are reported to have to walk as much as 2 miles and more.

Of course our low average of attendance is reported in the schools where the children have the greater distance to walk, bad roads and rainy weather causing more sickness Interesting letters have been received from most of the teachers giving light on their particular attendance problems and giving some very splended plans in use to further voluntary attendance. I shall quote from these in a later article We are beginning to realize that school attendance rests to a great extent upon the teacher as well as upon the parent and our best attendance comes not because of the compulsory law but through the co-operation of all concerned.

To we people of Davie county our school attendance has not only an educational value but also a money value, for since the state has provid a huge fund to help equalize the cost of running our schools we share in proportion to our average daily attendence. In fact we received last year exactly $44,909.85 almost $45,000.00 and figuring this on our daily attendance we received just $12.20 for every child every day they were in school. If we think over this we can see why the Board of Education and the County Commissioners think it important to have a Welfare officer to look after attendance and just why that Officer has been diligent in the matter. As a result the school tax this year was 56 cents on the hundred dollars worth of property and it was 67 cents the year before. The amount of $1 10 less on the thousand was happily felt by all our taxpayers I state these figures that parents may realize that when they allow their children to stay out of school without a good excuse each day costs the tax payers another $12 50.

Next week we will give Davie county's rating in attendance as compared to the other counties or the state and which our schools are in the lead.

FOR STATE SENATOR

I hereby announce my candidacy for the State Senate from the 24th Senatorial District. If nominated and elected, I will do all in my power to reduce the taxes in this District, by advocating a state system of taxation for schools, and also for a fair land valuation, and other property Please go to your primary on Saturday, April 5th, at 2 o'clock, p. m., and vote for your choice.

Think Grant Will Win.

Mocksville, March 30.—Politics in Davie County is warming up. With Mrs. Queen Bess Kennen, of Farmington and Attorney B. C. Brock, of Mocksville, in the race for State Senator in this district on the Republican ticket, the politicians are actively engaged in getting their forces lined up for their favorites. The Senatorial convention will be held at Yadkinville on Saturday, April 19th. Some think that A. T. Grant Jr., will receive the nomination, although he is not a candidate. Mr. Grant has represented this county in the Legislature for nearly thirty years, and has been in the Senate from this district for one or more terms The fight is warming up and no one can tell what will happen when the Republicans of Davie, Yadkin and Wilkes gather at the convention. The Republican County convention will be hold in Mocksville on Monday, April 7th, and the choice of Davie Republicans will most likely be endorsed by the Wilkes and Yadkin delegates.

The Democrats in Davie County are lining up behind their favorite candidate for United States Senator. From present indications it is thought that Senator Simmons will carry Davie in the June primary. There are a number of Bailey men in the towns and villages throughout the county, but the rural districts seem to be strongly for Simmons—Winston-Salem Journal.

Fork News.

Mrs. Dewey Aaron, and small son Price, left Tuesday evening to join her husband in Norfolk, Va., to make their home there where he has accepted a position.

Mr and Mrs. W. D. Hodges, and Mrs. Mamie Carter, spent Tuesday in Winston-Salem.

Miss Iva Aaron who has been very sick with flu, is some better.

Mrs. Sarah Williams has been very sick this week.

Mrs. R. Paul Foster and wee son R. P Junior were pleasant visitors here last Sunday.

Mrs. J. Frank Burton, and children, of Advance R. 3, spent Sunday here with relatives.

New Teacher For Cooleemee High School.

Cooleemee March 22. Miss Theo Dedmon has accepted the position on the High school faculty made vacant by the resignation of Mrs. C. S. Maxwell.

Miss Dedmon is a popular young lady of the town and it is expected that she will fill the position with honor to herself and the school.

Dry Men Needed.

It is any wonder prohibition enforcement fails in some districts when the enforcement officers are wets. It is pretty hard to enforce a law if one is in sympathy with the law breakers. It is being advocated now that drys be employed as enforcement officers and if the plan is followed out, there should be a decided change. The Ledger is not in sympathy with employing bootleggers and former bartenders as sleuths to ferret out the stills and dives, even tho they may know the places better than the men who never frequented such places. A man who will turn on his own kind will never make a good official.—Tripp Ledger.

Read This And Weep.

When 2,000 Democrats of North Carolina got together in Raleigh for the Jackson Day Dinner, at least 75 per cent. of them appeared to be drunk—some ingloriously drunk, some hilariously drunk, and some indifferently drunk.

Most of the 2,000 Democratic office-holders, political aspirants and political small fry that attended the dinner arrived in Raleigh shortly after noon Saturday. The elevators of the Sir Walter Hotel were kept going at a dizzy pace transportating various groups to various rooms where parties were being held. The hotel bell boys were kept busy carrying 'chasers' to the whoopee-makers. And the corridors of the hotel responded with back slapping and loud talk. It is a wonder the hotel did not float a way.

And, what a time they had at that dinner. There was noise in the Raleigh City Auditorium from the minute the doors opened until the crowd had dispersed. Some of the diners were so pepped up that they had to let loose a loud Indian warhoop and a 'whoopeee' every once in a while. One man from Ashe county sat at his place in a sort of drunken stupor and every time a speaker raised his voice to thunder out something about the 'Immortal Woodrow Wilson,' the 'principal of Jefferson and Jackson,' the new, revitalized, reorganized and militant Democracy,' et cetera, this bird lifted his head for a mement and said, You're right buddy.'

When Senator Simmons' letter explaining his absence and expressing regret at being unable to attend the boos and cat calls drowned out the speaker. Those in charge of the program, anxious that the widely-advertised 'party harmony' should prevail at the dinner, became excited, arose from their seats and made frantic motions to the audience to stop—after they grew tired of booing. And, as soon as the booing stopped and everything was restored to quiet for a moment, some guy in the back of the hall rose from his seat and shouted. 'That's a helluva excuse.' And the crowd cheered.

The crowd was 90 per cent. for Bailey, or so it seemed. There were a dozen or so men at the dinner who wore red carnations in the bottonholes of their coats. It was first thought that they were the Simmons supporters, because there were so few of them, but they, too, cheered for Bailey.—Elizabeth City Independent.

Two Subscribers Went Up Into The Office To Pay.

(North Carolina Christian Advocate)

The one an honorable business man, the other a driver of hard bargains. The one when told the amount necessary in order to pay back dues and put his subscription one year ahead, said that he would gladly pay it and then added, "this is not all I owe."

Then he explained that in looking over his accounts he found that he had sent his paper to his father, but had failed to pay a three year's subscription. Furthermore, he had found from a survey of his records that he had failed to pay a year's subscription about ten years ago. Then he concluded by saying, "I am going to give you a check for all this." And he did.

The other subscriber when reminded that he was due two years' subscription curtly replied, "I never subscribed; stop my paper." But all the while he had been taking the paper from the postoffice and the law says that is equivalent to a subscription, even if he had not subscribed.

The first of these two men lives in Salisbury, N. C. We will not name the dwelling place of the other man, for fear the people of that section will say we are trying to hurt their town.

Prohibition seems to be more of a war than an experiment.

Cooleemee Young People Win Two Efficiency Banners.

(By F. R. Leagans.)

Cooleemee March 31.—The Annual Convention of the B. Y. P. U., of the South Yadkin Association comprising Davie and Iredell counties met at Harmony Baptist church yesterday. An attendance of between five and six hundred were present for the interesting and enthusiastic meeting of the young church workers.

Mr. C. B. Winberry Associational president presided. Miss Ruth Henry of Cooleemee, Rev. B. E. Morris, of Statesville, Rev. J. Andrew Morgan, of Cary, western field worker for B. Y. P. U. Department, and Mr. Gordon Fox, of Mooresville were the speakers for the meeting.

Special music was furnished by Cooleemee Junior Quartett and a solo by Miss Thelma McDaniel also of Cooleemee.

In the business session Mr. Winberry was reelected president for president for another year. Next convention will be held at First Baptist church Statesville on the fifth Sunday in March 1931.

Efficiency banner were awarded as follows: Senior Adult department. Adult number 1 of Cooleemee. Intermediate department. Intermediate number 1 of Cooleemee and Junior banner to Juniors of First Church Mooresville.

A report of the simultaneous training program put on in the churches of the association last week showed that almost one thousand had completed one of the courses given. Cooleemee with 179 awards led the association with Western Avenue, Statesville, second with 125.

Cooleemee has a grand total of 316 awards for the current convention year. It will be remembered that this department holds the State banner for efficiency for the year ending June 20, 1929.

Few people seem as important as the man who is trying to land a sucker on a "proposition."

To Speak Saturday.

Mrs. Jane S. McKimmon director of Extension work in North Carolina, will deliver an address in the court house at Mocksville Saturday evening April 5th, at 7:30 o'clock. The public is urged to be present and hear this gifted speaker. Ladies especially invited.

Lonnie Don't Like Gang

Lonnie Bowles, a white man, of Davie county, who has been serving with the Iredell county road forces as trusty, walked off Thursday afternoon without advising any one of his destination. Mr J. A. Heath, superintendent of the county chain gang, in reporting the affair, stated that Bowles was not with the regular chain gang at the time of his escape, but was with an up keep force in Bethany township in charge of Mr. Brown—Statesville Daily.

Bowles was sentenced to five months on the roads at the recent term of Davie court. He was carried to Iredell on Monday of last week, and only served about two days. We understand that Sheriff Cope warned the Iredell officer to keep a sharp look out on Bowles or he would escape.

S. W. Bowden Passes.

Mr. S. W. Bowden died at his home near Bethlehem church Saturday afternoon at four o'clock, following an illness of some time, aged 86 years. The funeral and burial services were held yesterday afternoon at Bethlehem Methodist church, Rev. A. R. Bell conducting the services. Mr. Bowden is survived by his widow and nine children, six sons and three daughters. Two brothers, C. L. Bowden, of this county, and Watt Bowden, of Indiana, survive. Mr. Bowden was a Confederate Veteran, and served during the war with honor to himself and his country. In his death the county looses one of her best citizens, a man who will be sadly missed in his community. Peace to his ashes.

J. W. Ratledge and A. T. Grant, made a business trip to Elkin yesterday.

Presbyterial Will Meet In Mocksville.

Many women of the local Presbyterian churches are planning to attend the Winston Salem Presbyterial which meets in the Mocksville Presbyterian church April 15-16. The counties represented are Forsyth, Davie, Davidson, Stokes, Alleghany, Ashe, Surry, Yadkin and Wilkes counties. The principal address will be made Tuesday night by Dr. Walter L. Lingle, president of Davidson College. Mrs. G. V. Patterson, Gastonia, who is synodical president, will be one of the speakers.—Winston Sentinel.

The Craven County Mutual Exchange now has a membership of 177 farmers. This exchange is conducted at little cost to the members yet saves them considerable money in buying and selling.

MOTHER---
The Drudge:

Mother Used To Be A Drudge.

There Was No Help For It.

Some Mothers Are Still Drudges. But They Needn't Be.

ELECTRICITY—The Modern Servant has knocked the drudgery out of housework wherever it has been given an opportunity. Always on tap, always "a-rearing to go," electricity today is adding years of brightness and happiness to countless thousands of housewives who have taken the trouble to find out just what electricity can do in the home.

We invite attention to the quality of the electric service rendered in the communities served by us, and particularly to our liberal merchandising policy which, because of low prices and conveniences and comforts in a degree that would be impossible under ordinary circumstances.

MADE especially for the man who has no expert knowledge of painting. The skill he lacks is put into Kurfees Auto Enamel at the factory. It brushes on smooth and even. Doesn't show brush marks or "laps." A quart and two hours' time make the old car look like new. It dries hard overnight. Come in and let us show you samples of the new colors.

Did you ever notice that the hit dog always sets up a howl.

Patronize the home merchant, the home doctor and lawyer, the home insurance man and the home newspaper.

Did the Democratic party in Davie county abolish the office of Welfare Superintendent during the two years they were in power? The echoes don't answer.

Less cotton and more cows—less tobacco and more hogs might do more to bring prosperity to Davie county than Hoover, Al Smith, Bailey or Simmons all combined.

All of the Al Smith men are not dead—some are sleeping, but they will wake up in time to vote in the June primary. The fight between Simmons and Bailey will be as hot as it was between Hoover and Smith.

Here's hoping that the Republicans who attend the Republican State Convention at Charlotte on the 17th, will remain sober and in their right minds. A love feast is what the party needs instead of a booze feast.

As we go to press only two candidates have been mentioned for the State Senate from this district—Mrs. W E. Kennen and Attorney B. C. Brock. The Senatorial convention will be held the 19th of April, at Yadkinville. Those who want to run for Senator will have to hurry or wait six years.

The Record actually knows one Republican who says that he is going to vote for Simmons in the November election. Well, what can we do about it. Up to the hour of going to press we haven't heard of a Republican who will admit that he is going to vote for Josigh Bailey.

Had you ever thought where the money would come from to run our schools, to build and maintain our roads, to feed our aged people, to run our courts and pay all other expenses, if all our citizens would invest their money in government bonds, Reynolds stock or other non taxable stocks or bonds? Seems to us that this is something almost as serious, if not more so, than the chain store menace.

It is only a little more than two months until the democratic primary. The Simmons and Baily supporters are putting out much political dope. Both sides are claiming a big victory. One enthusiastic Bailey man in Davie is predicting that Bailey will defeat Simmons in the June primary by a vote of five to one. The Simmons supporters are not so enthusiastic, many saying the race will be very close.

Up to this good hour some ten or more candidates have blossomed out, or are about to blossom out, for the office of sheriff in Davie. The candidates are all good fellows, but many may be called but only one will be chosen. The columns of The Record are open to any and all of our subscribers who have any suggestions to make that will be to the best interests of the county, to the party, or to the fellows who are thinking of throwing their hats into the ring.

John Jacob Raskob, Republican wet man and Chairman of the National Democratic executive Committee, or what have you, has donated more than $17,000 to help fight prohibition. And this is the fellow that Josigh run all over North Carolina two years ago, begging the voters to get behind and help elect Al Smith. Is it any wonder that the prohibition democrats in this section are going to soak the said Josigh in the June primary.

The Republican county convention will meet at the court house in Mocksville on next Monday, April 7th. At this convention delegates will be named for the various Republican conventions, the Senatorial, Congressional, Judicial and State Conventions. A new county chairman and secretary is to be elected, together with the county executive committee Delegates to the Senatorial Convention will be instructed as to who the county wants as their candidate for the State Senate. Up to this hour there seems to be but two candidates in the field for the Senate—Mrs. Queen Bess Kennen, of Farmington, and Attorney B. C. Brock, of this city.

Census Enumerators For Davie.

The census enumerators for Davie county will get on their jobs today. They have thirty days in which to find out who lives in the county. Following is the list of enumerators for the county:

Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Gobble and family spent Sunday afternoon in Davidson visiting their relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Naylor and daughter Ruby spent Saturday night with her parents Mr. and Mrs. J. F. White

Misses Bessie and Rachel Chaffin were shopping in Winston-Salem Saturday.

Miss Annie Renegar returned home Saturday from Winston-Salem where she spent a week with her sisters Mrs. J. M Current and Mrs. T. W. Anderson.

Messrs. Felix and J. B. Gobble spent Monday night in Lexington on business.

Local Greeks in Celebration.

It was an occasion of interest and note that the local Greek colony promoted in the form of a banquet last night at Hotel Charlotte in Celebration of the hundredth anniversary of their land from the tyranny of the Turks, an event that brought the local members of this race into an impressive formation and one that was both instructive entertaining and profitable.

It requires an occasion of this kind to demonstrate to the public not only in what force the Greeks have found this community a place of favor for them to inhabit, but, also, the fine looking and markedly intelligent type of this race that abounds among us. The visitors and special guests of last night's happy and pleasant affair could not have come away without having been decidedly imprinted with this phase of the assembly.—Charlotte News, March 25th.

Find Two Stills In Hunt For One.

Cooleemee, March 28.—Sheriff K. L. Cope and a crew of deputies composed a raiding party Tuesday night in response to an anonymous report that there was a still in operation near Bixby, in the southeastern part of Davie county. When the spot was located, a fifty gallons outfit with one hundred and fifty gallons of beer was found.

It was evident that operators were not for away as there were many signs found to bear out the theory that a run was in preperation. The evidence included a pile of dry cedar wood cut, split and placed near the boiler.

While leaving the scene by a different route the officers stumbled over a second outfit, resembling in appearance and construction the first.—Charlotte News.

Mrs. Swisher Passes.

Mrs. Mary Swisher died at her home near Sheffield shortly after midnight Friday, following a stroke of paralysis which she suffered about two weeks ago. Mrs. Swisher was about81 years of age, and is survived by two sons, Marshall and Floyd, both of this county; two brothers, A. M. Stroud, of County Line, and H. S. Stroud. of Statesville; and one sister, Mrs. C. D. Crouch, also of Statesville. The funeral and burial services were conducted by Rev. A. G. Loftin, assisted by Latta B. Ratledge, and the body laid to rest in Hickory Grove churchyard Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. In the death of Mrs. Swisher, Davie county looses one of her oldest and best women—a woman who was loved and respected by all who knew her She was always doing good, and her memory will be held in high esteem by all those with whom she came in contact during her long sojourn in this county. 'Mary hath chosen that good part which shall not be taken away from her." Luke 10:42

Davie Entertains Yadkin.

Saturday evening, April 5, 1930, at Clement Grove, or some other suitable out-door spot, Davie county Post No. 174 of The American Legion will hold a big barbecue meeting with the view to increasing interest in the post and building up its membership. All service men of Davie and Yadkin counties are cordially invited to attend the barbecue and participate in the meeting.

It is understood this gathering of service men will be featured by an address by Dr. C. L. Sherrill, of Statesville, Department Vice-Commander of The Legion.

The Record, which has consistently supported the Legion in all of its local undertaking, is glad to publish this notice and urges all men who are eligible to membership in the organization and who have not joined hitherto to come out and help make the occasion a success.

Reynolds-Lybrook Cow Wins.

A cow in Iowa won second place while third, fourth and seventh went to cows of the Reynolds-Lybrook herd.—Winston Sentinel.

Four-H club boys of Yadkin county are caponizing their cockerels and selling them at good prices. E. E. Gough received $124 27 for one shipment.

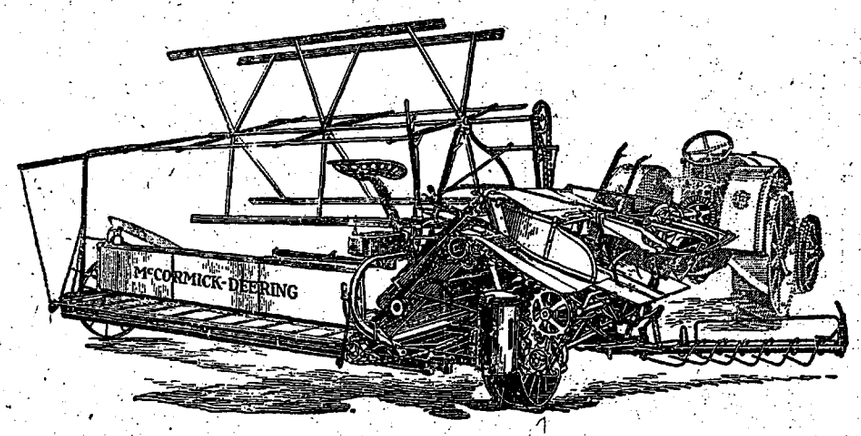
Implements--Repairs--Service
MR. FARMER:-

Are you going to buy any machinery for the farm this year? If you are, consider carefully before you buy three important points:

(1) The Make. Is it standand and will the manufacturer stay in business to furnish repairs?

(2) Will the machine or implement perform satisfactorily for a long time at a low cost?

(3) When your machine breaks or wears, can you get repairs through your local agent?



We have sold, for fifty years standard makes of farm machihery. We have always kept repairs. We believe the International line of farm implements the best on earth and we have found the upkeep cost very low. We have handled, for many years, Oliver and Chattanooga plows in car lots and keep a big stock of Points and other parts.

Cole Cotton and Corn Planters can't be beat. There are more of these planters in Davie than all others combined.

When we sell you any of the above machinery, we are selling you a line which we can service quickly. We have, this year doubled our space for repairs which assures you of still better service. What does a ten day break-down during harvest cost?

THE NEW JOHN DEERE—
The General Purpose Tractor That Does All Farm Work

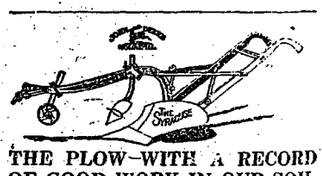
You have wanted a tractor that will do all farm work—plowing planting, cultivation, disking, harvesting, thrashing, mowing, raking—all field jobs besides all the belt jobs—

—a dependable tractor with which you can do your work in less time at lower cost, with less help, and with less drudgery. It's here for you—the John Deere General Purpose Tractor.

This new tractor is of standard design—does all farm work within its range of power and does every job equally well.

Besides its ability to operate all standard John Deere tractor machiens including the grain binder, drills, plows, manure spreader etc., it can be equipped with power mower, power sweep rake and planting and cultivating attachments.

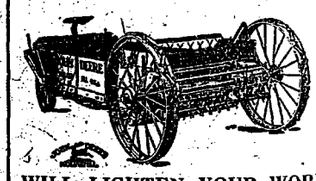
We'll be glad to tell you all about this new tractor. Drop in at our store any time.



THE PLOW—WITH A RECORD OF GOOD WORK IN OUR SOIL

In this territory there's no need to experiment when buying chilled plows. The long-standing reputation of John Deere-Syracuse chilled plows for good work in our soil has eliminated all gussing.

John Deere-Syracuse plows of the No. 1463 and 1464 Series are for gritty or gravelly soils, turf or stubble. The sloping landside prevents furrow from breaking or caving in.



WILL LIGHTEN YOUR WORK AND DO IT BETTER

Here is the low-down, tight box, three-beater spreader that makes the work easier for both user and horses while doing and exceptionally efficient job.

It has the BEATER ON THE AXLE to reduce draft and release manure close to the ground for more uniform spreading—manure does not drift.

It has the BOX-ROLL TURN to prevent tipping, to allow short turn-arounds and to shorten wheel-base for using spreader in close quarters.

Turn this package over and read the back

THE WORDS on the back of the package still mean what they say. No "extras," which do not contribute to the quality of the smoke, are included in the price of Camels. Just the utmost smoke-enjoyment that modern science can put into a cigarette.

That statement was on the first package of Camels manufactured and has been on every one of the billions of Camel packages sold from that day to this. When it was first written, other cigarette manufacturers were giving away flags, pictures of actresses, pictures of ball players—almost anything that would make the smoker think he was getting something extra for his money. The makers of Camels believed the smoker wanted a cigarette sold strictly on its merits, with all of its cost put into quality—a cigarette made of such excellent tobaccos—so perfectly blended—so mellow—so fragrant—that it would win its own way.

The vast popularity of Camels is a tribute to that four-square policy.

NEWS OF LONG AGO.

(Davie Record, April 20, 1905)

B. F. Stonestreet is a juror at Federal court in Statesville this week.

Mr. Thomas Griffith and children, of Clemmonsville, visited relatives and friends here last week.

Rev. J. M. Downum, of Statesville, spent Monday in town shaking hands with old friends.

Rev. J. P Rodgers, of this city, spent last week at Reidsville, assisting in a meeting.

The new store of Bailey & Martin is nearing completion and they hope to be able to open for business the last of this week.

The Baptists have purchased the Clint Austin lot on North Main street next to J. P. Green's and will erect a parsonage and later a church.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Rockett, who have been living in Mocksville for more than a year have moved to Thomasville.

Mr. Abner Green and wife of Walkerville, Ont., Canada, are visiting Mr. Green's father and mother on Depot street.

The snow came down in a hurry Sunday evening, April 17th. We fear great damage resulted from the freeze Sunday night. It is thought that very little fruit escaped.

M. L. Godby who has been engaged in the whisky business at Walnut Cove, has returned to his home at County Line.

Miss Lillian Smoot and Mr. John Koontz were married at the home home of the bride last Tuesday. It was a quiet home affair, only relatives being present.

Mr. A J. Daywalt, of Kappa, invited a number of young ladies to enjoy a good dinner in honor of her son Luther's birthday, the 13th inst. Those present were Misses Gusta Griffith, Minnie and Lizzie Smoot, Minnie McDaniel, Lizzie Daniel, Lizzie Prather, Edna and Ella May Walker.

Mrs. Martha King died at her home near Redland on April 9th. at an advanced age.

W. F. Bailey, of Advance, has purchased the distillery of J. C. Sommers & Co., of Salisbury. Taylor F. Bailey will operate the distillery. The consideration was $6,000.

Miss Fanny Tolbert and little brother James, of Advance, spent the week-end with relatives and friends at Cooleemee.

J. F. Stonestreet, of Jericho, spent Sunday in Mocksville. Must be some attraction for Frank out there.

Mrs. Earle Kurfees and little son Gilbert, spent one day last week with Mrs. R. L. Walker, near Kappa.

Mrs. R. A. Dwiggins and son Sam, attended the funeral of Mr. Bill Nolly at Liberty last Sunday.

Drs. Jones and Watkins of Advance, have disolved partnership. Dr. Jones now holds forth at J. F. Smithdeal's.

Easter services will be held at Macedonia church Sunday, beginning at 10 o'clock.

Some men grumble over the size of their income tax, and others wonder how rich they will feel when they have one to pay.

Few American men marry rich girls for their money, but it is a strauge phenomena that few rich girls fail to get offers of matrimony.

Charlotte Observer.

In the campaign of 1928 Josiah W. Bailey, in his extreme zeal for Al Smith, preached mightily for religious tolerance and denounced the preachers and other leaders of the Protestant churches for their activity against Smith. These preachers and religious and moral leaders were, as every one knows, opposing Smith because of his well known opposition to prohibition and his pro-liquor views and Tammany affiliations, but Josiah W. Bailey accused these preachers and moral leaders of religious prejudice and pictured and denounced them as opposing Smith because he was a Roman Catholic. Bailey, in his blind devotion to Governor Smith, both in the pre convention campaign and in the Fall campaign of 1928 tried to make himself appaer as the very archangel of religious tolerance, religious liberty, and breadth and liberality of thought in religious matters.

The Greensboro Daily News, in its issue of Novemoer 3, 1928, in reporting Mr Bailey's speech delivered in Greensboro the night before said: "Mr. Bailey denounced those who are opposed to Governor Smith because he is a Catholic, and appealed for a decisive answer to such a campaign next Tuesday."

In view of these facts, it will be interesting to read an editorial from The Biblical Recorder, Mr. Josiah W. Bailey, editor at the time, which editorial was reprinted in The News and Observer of October 21, 1896, unber the heading "Political Points," quoting editorials from various North Carolina papers. The editorial from The Biblical Recorder, Mr. Josiah W Bailey, editor, was as follows:

"Robt. M. Douglas, Candidate, Roman Catholic.

"It is asking too much of a free people to call upon them to vote for a Roman Catholic; it is asking too much of a people whose fathers were burned at the stake by Roman Catholics; it is asking too much to ask the people to vote for a man whose first allegience is to the Pope of Rome—an Italian, an aspirunt to all the power on earth, a schemer after the Government of the United States, pretended to the throne of God himself—and yet there is a candidate before the people for Associate Justice of our Supreme Court, a pronounced Roman Catholic, Robert M. Douglas, of Greensboro. Let it be called narrow, bigoted; but if the people are true to themselves and to their country, they will hold Rome off at every point."

And they say Mr. Bailey is running on his record—which record? What he said in 1896 or what he said in 1928?

WM. R. DALTON

Reidsville, March 21.

Population Reports Sent To Washington.

Washington, April 2.—Hardly had President Hoover been counted today in the 15th decennial census, upon which will be based a re distribution of the seats in the house of representatives, before widely separated communities of the country began to repart that they had finished their task.

A Missouri district, an Idaho district and one from New Jersey reported to census headquarters here before the offices closed at 5 o'clock this afternoon that they had finished the tally of their residents.

The best way to have your employer appreciate your importance with the firm is to get sick and let him eo your work for a few weeks. Of course, this plan will prove disastrous unless you are important.

Tragedy Of Misguided Youth.

That "flaming youth" that the public hears of so constantly—or has heard—flamed down at State College in the form of a straw vote, taken on the prohibition question. The Technician, the college paper, imitating the Literary Digest, conducted a poll on the modification or repeal of the law.

One student, evidently one of these play-to the galleries type, who likes to dramatize himself by heroics, expressed his opposition to the Eighteenth Amendment by using his own blood to mark the ballot and appending a note that his act was "in memoriam to the 1,360 persons who had been killed by those trying to enforce the prohibition laws." A bit of stage play, typical of swaggering youth which takes itself very seriously!

We wonder how this youngter would make his "in memoriam" to those who have died a drunkard's death prior to the amendment; how he would pay tribute to a mother's tears, a wife's heartache; to men who could not keep their jobs, and thus could not provide for their families all because they could not "stay off" it.

Of course he might say that these same men are going to get their drinks. Perhaps some of them are. But many of them are not. There are others coming on, however, who will be discouraged, at least, because of the risk and the expense attached to getting their drinks. At any rate, nobody has any inclination to raise a memorial to those who have been victims of the curse of drink.

Also, we wonder if he would raise a memorial to rascals who have died because they deliberately broke the laws of the country for their own gain. Not for anything would we imply that a bootlegger deserves to be shot. But somehow it seems difficult to martyrize a man who gets shot committing a felony. He goes into the things with his eyss open, knowing that he is defying law and order. He bootlegs not because he is a martyr working for the repeal of an unjust law, but because he believes he is smarter than the government and smarter than the majority of people who passed the law.

We have only pity for the poor deluded youth who would give his own blood so dramatically to defy the purveyors of shame and death. —Winston Journal.

The Cow.

The dairy cow's a thing of charm she lifts the mortgage from the farm and makes the farmer's life more sweet, and sets him down on easy street. Where'er the dairy cow is queen, a Country prosperour is seen, and dairymen, in joyful ranks, are packing bullion in the banks. Why plug along the old sad way, producing cotton, corn and hay, and putting up a bankrupt wail if one year's crop should chance to fail? There is a better method now—the method of the dairy cow; this critter always earns her keep, and piles up riches while you sleep and pays the taxes and rent; and here in Dixie, gents, we have the climate and the feed, and all conditions dairies need. So let us boost the Holstein cow, which beats the old breech loading plow; the Guernsey and the Jersey too, as smooth as any cow in view. Let's talk up dairies, milk and cream, safest money-making scheme.—Apologies to Walt Mason.

Next Sunday the churches of the city will be open as usual, and, if you feel that way, you can listen to the preachers without going to any expense.

The Brother Held Out.

The recent cold weather brought to mind a recent happening at a Clay county country church many years ago, when conditions were quite different from the present. It will be remembered that around 40 years ago corn sold in Clay county at 8 and 10 cents a bushel. One Sunday morning the congregation gathered at this country church for morning worship only to find there was no coal in the bins and no way to start a fire. Then some of the brethern bethought that they had their wagon boxes out in the yard full of corn and that the grain would make a good hot fire. So they went out and carried armsful of corn into the church. Then began a dissention as to whether or not it would be sacriligious to burn the food which God, in His mercy, had vouchsafed to them during the summer months. Some took the stand that God could never approve of the burning of his food; others held that a bushel of corn could be sold for only ten cents and that a bushel would go much further in keeping the fire burning and the church warm than ten cents worth of coal. The majority vote prevailed and a hot fire was built with the corn. But one brother, whose faith was more stalwar insisted he would never permit his body to be warmed with a fire made from God's food and so sat by himself, through all the services, in a far, cold corner of the building.—Clay Center Times.

Farm Roads Needed.

A practical method of "farm relief" is for every state to adopt a program of building farm-to-markets will allow

In the past the city dweller has received most of the advantages accruing from the building of the highways. The farmer, though one of the foremost taxpayers and producers, has not been given his share of improved roads.

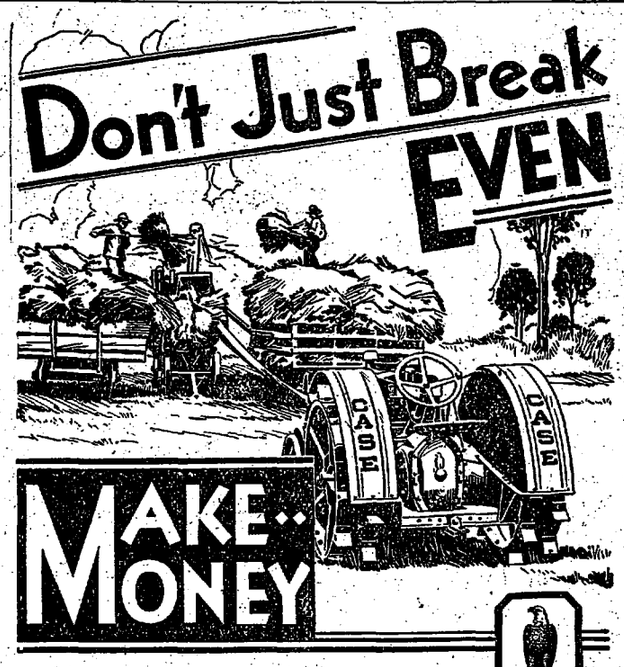
Social and commercial contact with the outside world, through the medium of low cost, hard surfaced highways, makes for more progressive and prosperous agriculture.

So long as millions of Amercian farmers are kept from their markets during many months of the year, by unimproved roads, there will be a serious farm problem It is the duty of every state to give agricultural districts roads which are practical for travel all the year round.

The Readin' Voters.

Some of the political leaders who may have beed puzzled over certain changes that have come to pass in the folks who, in times gone were ready and eager to line up with the boys, but who have lately developed the stubborn disposition, may find a point in explanation in an incident related by The Stanly News-Press. It has to do with the father of 10 or 17 sons whom he had raised up to vote the Democratic ticket. But one of the boys did not hold to the political faith of his father, and when the father was asked to explain why the boy had voted the Republican ticket, he replied that he had tried to raise the boys up in the fear of God and Democrats to the bone, "but John, the ordinary cuss, got to reading." The voters of the present day are readers of the papers and are given to doing their own thinking. Therein is developed the circumstance that is vexing the politicians of the present time.—Charlotte Observer.

We are never sure that we are right, but we always try to be certain that we are honest in what we think.



THE difference between making a good profit in threshing or just breaking even is often a matter of preparedness. You can make money with a Case Thresher because with it you are prepared to thresh efficiently all kinds of grain, even when conditions are difficult.

You can set the feeder to feed high or low to the cylinder. This increases the threshing action in wet or tangled grain and it enables you to thresh faster when the grain is dry. No other thresher can give you this advantage.

The all-steel cylinder is accurately balanced. Perforated concaves, also of steel and unbreakable, and non-clogging steel finger grates make complete separation certain. . .over 90% of the grain is removed from the straw before it even reaches the straw rack. Counterbalanced straw rack and grain pan do their work thoroughly and smoothly.

The result of all this is that you can do a clean job of threshing in the toughest grain, without slugging and with minimum power.

Don't just break even this year. Make money. You can do it with a Case Thresher. Come in and see us. We will be glad to tell you more about it.

The big excitement is over until the next Republican county convention which will be held some time in July or August. The Senatorial race was rather warm while it lasted.

Business is not so bad. In less than one hour last week we put four new subscribers names on our books and we didn't have to go out and hunt them up; they were all volunteers.

If the democrats were so anxious to abolish the county welfare office seems to us that they would have done so while in office for two years in the county. The hot campaign promises are easily broken and the Republicans in Davie are not easily fooled by the little politicians who promise many things but do nothing.

Many of the best Democrats in the county are loud in their praise of the good work done by the Welfare officer in Davie. Even some of the higher up democratic officials have showered praise upon Mrs. Kennen. This is not our fight, but when a democrat held this office in Davie for two years we didn't go around howling to abolish the office. Every county needs a welfare officer and a county demonstration agent. We are sorry that the State will not come across with their part of the salary so that Davie could employ a good county agent We are wondering if our democratic friends are opposed to county commissioners employing a county agent. Did they raise a howl during all the years that a democrat held this job? Would they raise a howl if the present welfare officer was a democrat instead of a Republican? They didn't when a democrat held this office for two years.

Old Folks Not All Dead

J. T. Angell tells us that the old folks are not all dead in Davie county He remarked that in one day last week there were five men in his store whose ages ranged from 80 to 89 years. The total ages of the five men made a grand total of 420 years. Those who visited his store that day were: David Shuler, 80; S. C. Gowans 83; Hence Clement, 89; Henry Call, 82, and J. M. Cain, 86. Three of these old men served in the Cofederate army, S. C. Gowans, J. M. Cain and Hence Clement. They are all in fairly good health, and look as though they are good for at least five to fifteen years. With a good healty climate, good water, and other good things to drink in Davie, we are not surprised that our citizens live to a ripe old age.

How Many In Mocksville.

Ten years ago The Record man made a guess on the population of Mocksville and his guess was 1147. When the census was completed, it was found that we had 1146, and we only missed the number by one. The census is being taken now, and our guess is that we will have a population of 1477. To the one who guesses the nearest to the correct number their name will be printed in this paper, and he or she will be presented with a brand new dollar bill. Send in your guesses at once, so that we will have them before the figures are made public, which will be sometime before the first frost.

George W. Booe Passes

Last rites for George W. Booe, 88, of 874 North Liberty Street, who passed away Saturday morning at a local hospital after an illness of several months, was held at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. J. Mock, 142 North Liberty Street, Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Dr. C. C. Weaver and Dr. J. K. Pfohl conducted the services. Interments followed in Joppa cemetery near Mocksville. Services at the grave were in charge of the Masonic Lodge at Mocksville.

Mr. Booe served throughout the Civil War as a member of the Thirteenth North Carolina Regiment and in the cavalry. He was said to have been the first man in Davie county to volunteer as a private.

Born near Mocksville in an Indian fort on June 30, 1841, Mr. Booe spent his early life in Davie county His grandparents came to this section from Heidelberg, Germany, in 1760. He was the oldest member of Winston Lodge 167 A. F. and A. M He was also a member of Centenary Methodist church and the Men's Bible Class. He was married to Miss Sallie Bessent, who passend away in 1877. He later married Miss Olivie Rights and she died in 1884.

Surviving are one son William H. Booe, and one daughter, Mrs. J. J. Mock, both of this city; one grandchild and one great-grandchild.—Winston Journal.

CHEVROLET

It's wise to choose a SIX!

It is wise to choose a six-cylinder motor—the only way to get six-cylinder smoothness. Six-cylinder smoothness takes out vibration and roughness. This saves motor, chassis, body, passengers, and driver.

The Chevrolet is a six. Yet it sells at a price that anyone can afford to pay. And it lasts longer, because of fine materials, oversize parts and a big, smooth, 50-horsepower six-cylinder engine that always "takes it easy."

With all its six-cylinder smoothness and power the New Chevrolet Six saves gasoline and oil, through modern efficiency—overhead valves—high compression power—latest carburetor—long-wearing pistons—crankcase ventilation—air cleaner. Thus Chevrolet brings truly modern transportation within reach of all who can afford any car. Chevrolet economy also means sincerity in manufacture. To illustrate:

Chevrolet valves are adjustable—to save replacing. Chevrolet molded brake lining greatly reduces brake upkeep. The rear axle inspection plate on the Chevrolet means accessibility. The whole car is full of such evidence that true economy comes from advancement and refinement. There are four extra-long, chrome-vanadium springs controlled by hydraulic shock absorbers. They are mounted lengthwise, in the direction of car travel, with self-adjusting spring shackles to maintain quiet.

Modern low suspension and extra wheelbase give the Chevrolet Six good proportions. The front view is distinguished by the honeycomb radiator. The gasoline tank is at the rear for safety and finer appearance.

Chevrolet beauty instantly says "Body by Fisher"—style, quiet, safety—Fisher composite steel-and-wood construction—non-glare windshield—adjustable driver's seat—deeper cushions—greater leg room—clearer vision—finer fabrics and fitments.

There is just as much extra value throughout. BY ANY STANDARD the Chevrolet Six is the wisest choice in the low-price field . . . with its six-cylinder valve-in-head motor . . . with full scientific equipment . . . with Body by Fisher . . . with four long semi-elliptic springs, long wheelbase, low suspension, rear-mounted gasoline tank, honeycomb radiator and all the other features of this day and age.

Speedy Toys in Europe

Children in Europe are demanding speed in their toys. Six-year-old Marlo Conterio recently appeared on the streets of Paris on his motor-driven unicycle. Three-year-old Warner Kimpel, son of a famous German auto racer, has his own electric racing car, and Alfredo Bonifatti, aged four, drives through the streets of Rome on a tiny, but speedy, motor cycle.

Dorothy's Mother Proves Claim

Children don't ordinarily take to medicines but here's one that all of them love. Perhaps it shouldn't be called a medicine at all. It's more like a rich, concentrated food. It's pure, wholesome, sweet to the taste and sweet in your child's little stomach. It builds up and strengthens weak, puny, underweight children, makes them eat heartily, brings the roses back to their cheeks, makes them playful, energetic, full of life. And no bilious, headachy, constipated, feverish, fretful baby or child ever failed to respond to the gentle influence of California Fig Syrup on their little bowels. It starts lazy bowels quick, cleans them out thoroughly, tones and strengthens them so they continue to act normally, of their own accord.

Millions of mothers know about California Fig Syrup from experience. A Western mother, Mrs. J. G. Moore, 119 Cliff Ave., San Antonio, Texas, says: "California Fig Syrup is certainly all that's claimed for it. I have proved that with my little Dorothy. She was a bottle baby and very delicate. Her bowels were weak. I started her on Fig Syrup when she was a few months old and it regulated her, quick. I have used it with her ever since for colds and every little set-back and her wonderful condition tells better than words how it helps."

Don't be imposed on. See that the Fig Syrup you buy bears the name, "California" so you'll get the genuine, famous for 50 years.

Nine Words on Grain of Rice

Legs Needed

Another person who apparently is all thumbs is the hitch-hiker.—Arkansas Gazette.

Don't let SORE THROAT get the best of you . . .

FIVE minutes after you rub on Musterole your throat should begin to feel less sore! Continue the treatment once every hour for five hours and you'll be astonished at the relief.

Working like the trained hands of a masseur, this famous blend of oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other ingredients brings relief naturally. It penetrates and stimulates blood circulation and helps to draw out infection and pain. Used by millions for 20 years. Recommended by doctors and nurses. Keep Musterole handy—jars and tubes.

To Mothers—Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

MUSTEROLE

LIGHTS of NEW YORK

By GRANT DIXON

Homelike

Will James, the celebrated cowboy author-artist who wrote "Smoky" and other horse stories that have gone over big, was in New York recently. "Bill," as he is known to his friends, spent years in the saddle as a cowboy, roaming all over the cattle states of the West. Now he has a big ranch in Montana and spends most of his winters writing at San Antonio.

"Bill" invited me to his room at the Algonquin, and when he opened the door and I stepped in, I stepped on a Navajo blanket and spied another one on a couch.

"I always carry 'em with me when I travel," said James. "They're the only things that will keep me from getting so homesick that I'd hit the trail right out for the West."

Meaningless

One of the more meaningless details of New York life is the business of supplying references when one wants to move into a new apartment. A friend of mine, a dramatic critic, is lodged in a towering, exclusive building. He informs me he had to pass close scrutiny before he was allowed to sign a lease.

Yet his neighbor on the top floor is the proprietor of a speak-easy across the street. He is a relative of one of New York's most notorious gangsters. He is politically powerful, though, and once a year gives a huge ball in his own honor at one of the better hotels.

His apartment is a fortress. The door is of armor steel. He didn't like ordinary windows, so he had a church supply house make him stained glass windows.

The Vanishing German

There are, even at this late date, five German bands in New York, and if you look hard enough you may find one playing on a street corner. But the business isn't what it used to be. Variety reports that the average income for each man in these bands was a dollar a day last year. They used to get "throw money" by playing in front of speakeasies, but the police chased them away.

Al Fresco Dinner

Alexander Mazzone, a gatekeeper on the Long Island railroad, has a lunch hour from noon to 12:45 p. m. No trains pass his gate during that time, but Alexander feels that he should not leave his post even then.

So, promptly at noon, he gets out a folding table, sets it between the rails, spreads a cloth and serves himself a lunch. It is only fair, thinks Alexander, that he and not some foolish motorist should get bumped in case an unscheduled train should arrive during the noonday.

A Hot Fire

Sam White smelled a fire the other day and turned in an alarm. He was in a building at the foot of Manhattan, and in that district a single alarm brings out more apparatus than two or three would farther uptown. When a dozen or so pieces of fire-fighting machinery had arrived Sam discovered that the fire had been in the rear of his trousers. He had put his pipe in his hip pocket. Naturally, the newspapers made much of the story.

The next day a veteran newspaper man told me that none had written so clever a headline as a friend of his had written twenty years ago concerning a similar occurrence. The headline was: "Sixty Firemen Rush to Blaze in One Pair of Pants."

Increased Interest in Good Books Universal

Chicago.—Books will supplant jazz as the pass word to popularity in the new decade.

A well informed mind will be the open sesame to social leadership in the thirties, as the ability to entertain musically was the badge of popularity in the twenties, according to Ellsworth D. Foster, managing editor of the World Book.

"Indications on every hand point to an increased interest in good books," said Mr. Foster, in an address before a group of college students here. "Interest in good books is not confined to any class of society or to any particular age group, but is practically universal.

"Children are no longer content with light literature but demand meat in their reading, going to the same books as those used by their elders for their information about things in general."

Blue Bandanas New Fad of French Women

Paris.—The answer of the women of Paris to the craze of red suspenders which is sweeping the masculine element of France is the blue bandana. No smart French woman would think of blowing her nose in anything but a blue handkerchief these days, and the larger the bandana the better.

INVALID DEVOTES LIFE TO OTHERS

Seattle Doctor Is Practical Idealist.

Seattle, Wash.—A practical idealist, whose credo is "service" and who gives a philosophy of cheerfulness to those who are down, such a man is Dr. Frank R. Loope of Seattle.

For eighteen years he has been bedridden.

A reporter walked into the "office," a big sun porch, as one of two telephones at his bed rang and the doctor proceeded to aid a World war veteran in getting out of jail.

Doctor Loope lay flat on his back, the two telephones within easy reach, letter files at the side of his bed, a checkbook on the covers, magazines, papers, cigarettes and a radio at hand.

And there he directs almost innumerable enterprises—aiding individuals to overcome physical handicaps.

The physician picked up a specially framed mirror and focussed it on his guests. He is unable to turn his head, but he can move his eyes and arms. Thus he is able to follow the movements and expressions of any one in his room.

Finds Jobs for Unemployed.

Under the general title of "sunshine industries," Doctor Loope is the directing genius behind a wheel chair store, a repair store, is building up a fund for an industrial home for shut-ins and arranges hundreds of programs for invalids.

The industrial home—where those aiding themselves would be able to live close to their work—is his big dream.

In addition to that work, Doctor Loope finds positions for those who have been handicapped. He distributes radios, gives advice, acts as father confessor to hundreds of persons, advises as a physician and arranges for medical attention.

His telephone rang constantly during the interview.

The soldier was paroled to his custody, then a hysterical woman telephoned. Calm tones replied to shrill voice, and then, ironically, an organization that had obtained his telephone number called to ask him to buy two tickets to a dance.

Conducts Column.

The doctor is not a wealthy man, in fact he frequently encounters difficulty in obtaining funds for his many enterprises, in addition to those needed for himself.

For years after he was stricken, the doctor related, "I felt I was terribly abused." Then he adopted the philosophy of "Sunshine and Smiles," the title of a column he conducts for shut-ins in the Seattle Star.

"I don't preach. I serve," he said. "Help the shut-in to help himself—to keep himself away from his troubles."

Although bedridden eighteen years, Doctor Loope is no invalid. He is more healthy mentally by far than millions who have complete use of their bodies.

Disease Kills Canadian Geese Wintering in U. S.

Ocracoke, N. C.—A malady that resulted in extermination of thousands of wild Canadian geese has made its appearance among migratory fowls wintering along the Carolina coast. The disease results from undernourishment and from feeding in localities where the bottoms are covered with mud.

During windy weather game taking refuge along the island here could be picked up or easily caught by small boys. They put them in goose ponds, where they soon died.

In some sections the shores are strewn with dead game that has been washed in by the tides. A gunner going out during the close of the season could expect four to six of his bag of eight to be underweight and unsuitable for food.

Street Car Conductor Now a Soviet Chieftain

That, literally, is the story of A. S. Bandurin, whose designation as secretary of the council of people's commissars of the R. S. F. S. R. (the largest of the groups constituting the Soviet union) has been announced.

Bandurin has for years been an active Communist and prominent in party circles. However, he held no official post. Until this appointment he earned his living as a conductor on a Moscow tram. His elevation, as may be supposed, has stimulated conversation in trams and this writer has heard several weary conductors asked when they would become commissars.

French Military Medals for 45,000 War Veterans

Paris.—Twelve years after the war 45,000 French soldiers are to be awarded the military medal, formerly one of France's highest war honors. The medals will go to men cited for bravery and wounded during the war, but who have since received no further recognition.

Leper Grateful

Cedar Rapids, Iowa.—Forty years ago V. King loaned a sobbing boy 20 cents so he could see a show. King received news of a leper's death recently and with it a check for $2.57. It was the entire estate of the boy he had befriended.

WILD ROSE MOST POPULAR FLOWER

More Than Million Votes Cast in Contest.

New York.—The people of the United States named the wild rose as the national flower in the American Nature association campaign just ended. Rechecking of the more than a million votes shows the wild rose rolled up a total of 492,811 votes out of the 1,067,672 votes cast. It gained a plurality of more than 150,000 votes over the columbine, the nearest contender.

The wild rose won in every state except Colorado, Florida, Minnesota and Washington.

Pennsylvania, with 111,256 votes; Ohio, with 78,648; New York, with 68,885, and Wisconsin, with 59,779, led the country in number of ballots cast. Washington supported the columbine more vigorously than any other state.

Only seven votes separate the rose and its rival in South Dakota. More than 6,000 people, Americans living outside the 48 states, are represented in the "No State" column.

The columbine had 261,451 backers, who threatened, during early December, to sweep under the rose in a flood of votes. When the contest closed, however, the leader was still gaining.

More than 65 per cent of the vote was divided between the two leaders and there is no question of these being the national favorites. The violet, goldenrod, American beauty rose, phlox, daisy, dogwood and mountain laurel, which finished in the order listed, never had a chance of victory. All other flowers received but three and one-half per cent of the total.

The wild rose, despite criticisms to this effect, is not the flower of England; that emblem is the cultivated rose. The campaign did not designate one particular variety of wild rose, but left it possible for each community to feel that its local representative of the genus was the choice of the country.

Bethel College Co-Eds Seeking Dates by Ads

Newton, Kan.—The co-eds of Bethel college, located here, are apparently lonesome and they have admitted it.

After having admitted it, they have set about to remedy the situation by seeking attention from the male members of the collegiate world. The girls used the student paper, the Bethel Collegian, and in their advertisement asked eligible men to call at the "dorm hangout."

Not only have the co-eds advertised for "dates" but they have added special attractions to the dormitory. All have "chipped in" to buy a number of card games. The advertisement suggested "that the boys were cordially invited to come and participate in these games."

To add to the attractiveness of the dormitory a "fat woman's club" has been organized for the purpose of attaining boyish figures. Members are exercising daily and dieting.

Collector Finds Dagger in 'Red Sultan's' Scepter

Paris.—Recently a Parisian antiquarian was handling one of his most prized possessions, the gold and jade scepter of Abdul Hamid the Second, the "Red Sultan" of Turkey. He suddenly heard a click and, to his great astonishment, drew forth from the scepter head a glittering dagger.

The discovery recalled many stories of the sultan, who was called the "Great Assassin" because of his frightful massacre of Balkan and Armenian subjects and who never dared sleep in a bed because he feared assassination for himself.

Manx Cat Owner Takes Insurance for Liability

Leominster, Mass.—Lawrence F. Marshall has insured himself against personal liability that might result from his Manx cat scratching or biting anything. A Hartford (Conn.) company issued the policy after securing a veterinarian's voucher that the cat was in good health.

The policy stipulates $5,000 as maximum for injuries to or for the death of one person and $10,000 for injuries to or for the death of more than one.

The cat is a male, weighs 14 pounds, and is eighteen months old.

U. S. Parley Reporters Give British Thrill

London.—The freedom with which the American newspaper correspondents approach the members of their delegation to the five-power conference astonishes and, at the same time, amuses the columnist of a well-known London daily.

"It is a constant delight to me," writes the commentator, "to see and hear the American newspaper specialists at the naval conference approaching their own delegates—the big men who are trying to agree on small navies.

"The correspondents are like so many small submarines suddenly bobbing up from nowhere and confronting these political battleships fearlessly—and the statesmen like it, too. It is brotherly, natural, homelike."

Russian Soviet Puts Ban on Time-Honored Kissing

Moscow's latest edict is "Thou shalt not kiss!" according to travelers recently returned from Russia, who relate that the Soviet chiefs, not content with abolishing church, crown, marriage—and other institutions beloved of man and woman—are now conducting a furious campaign against the kiss. The campaign will come as a shock to those who knew Russia in the good old days before the war, when friends, relations, comrades, and countrymen embraced each other whenever and wherever they met—sometimes as many as twenty times a day. A kiss approximated to a handshake or to a lifted hat then. "In no land," declared Alexandre Dumas pere in one of his travel books, "have I seen people embrace each other so much as in Russia." Now propaganda has invaded literature, and the latest novel from Moscow ends with this last page advice: Eighteen-year-old heroine to her lover: "A kiss? Young man, do you realize what a kiss means?"

Historian Must Have Overlooked This Fact

The erection of a statue in France to the woman inventor of Camembert cheese led Judge Otto Rosalsky of New York to say:

"Nobody will dispute the invention of Camembert, but the French have a bad habit of claiming all inventions, all. Did you know that they claim to have invented the airplane, the phonograph, the telephone, the submarine and the locomotive? Well, they do.

"The French remind me of the town of Peebles. A visitor said to his Peebles host:

"'Fine town, Peebles.'

"'Yes,' said his host, 'yes, you bet Peebles is a fine town.'

"'That? Why, that's William the Conqueror, a Peebles man.'"—Detroit Free Press.

No Laughing Matter

Admiral Hugh Rodman, who commanded the American battleship squadron with the grand fleet during the World war, tells this in his book, "Yarns of a Kentucky Admiral":

"I had on my staff during the World war a British officer who adored London Punch. One day one of my aids said to him jokingly:

"'Captain, don't you think that British jokes are so obscure that one needs an interpreter to explain them?'

"'Mr. X——, he replied, 'I want you to understand that British jokes are not to be laughed at!'

"This yarn went the rounds of the grand fleet," pipes the admiral, "and my good friends, the Britishers, appreciated it as much as we did."—Kansas City Star.

Early Sailing Vessels

The earliest depicted sailing vessels are those of the middle predynastic era of Egypt, found on vases dating from 7000 to 5000 B. C.

Advice to the Lovelorn

Keep your eyes wide open before marriage, half shut afterwards.—Franklin.

Only one oil is good enough for household equipment, says chemist

Chemists, mechanics and lubrication experts say only one kind of oil is good enough for your expensive mechanical devices—the best. To get best results from your sewing machine, vacuum cleaner, lawn mower, washer, electric fan, refrigerator and other household appliances, you should use an oil that not only lubricates, but also cleans and protects.

3-in-One Oil is different from all others, because it is a scientific blend of animal, mineral and vegetable oils. It gives you the best properties of each. It dissolves and works out dirt, protects against rust and wear and gives the most efficient lubrication, thus eliminating unnecessary repairs and replacements.

Naturally such oil costs more to make, but it really costs less to use. Play safe; insist on 3-in-One Oil. At good stores everywhere, 15c and 30c sizes. For your protection, look for the trade mark "3-in-One" printed in Red on every package.

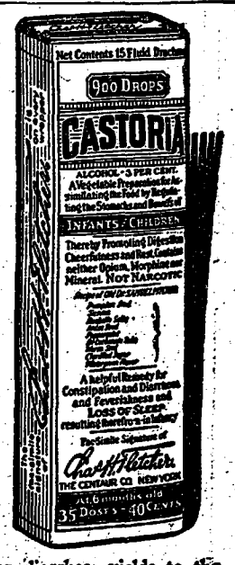
The upsets of Children



All children are subject to little upsets. They come at unexpected times. They seem twice as serious in the dead of night. But there's one form of comfort on which a mother can always rely; good old Castoria. This pure vegetable preparation can't harm the tiniest infant. Yet mild as it is, it soothes a restless, fretful baby like nothing else. Its quick relief soon sees the youngster comfortable once more, back to sleep. Even an attack of colic, or diarrhea, yields to the soothing influence of Castoria.

Keep Castoria in mind, and keep a bottle in the house—always. Give a few drops to any child whose tongue is coated, or whose breath is bad. Continue with Castoria until the child is grown! Every drugstore has Castoria; the genuine has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper.

Best Laxative For CONSTIPATION COLDS

"I wonder where the devil I am!" Leslie murmured.

Then his thoughts turned upon the fighter whom he had knocked out. That knock-out, Leslie admitted, was more or less accidental. If the unknown stranger had not turned his head obligingly as an owl hooted, he would probably have won; but who was he, that he should stand guard outside the Hanby home at night?

Leslie presently dropped into a troubled sleep. When he awoke, there was the smell of strong tobacco in his cell. He looked into the twinkling eyes of Luigi Bartoli, strong man, coiner, and, alas for his impetuous temper, a double murderer.

"Where am I?" Leslie demanded.

Luigi was easily moved to mirth. This seemed an excellent jest.

"If I tell you," he answered, "thees happen to me!" He made the expressive gesture of cutting his throat. "You come with me. If you make-a much noise, I break-a your neck, so!" Again the graphic action of a man bending back the neck of a victim until the cervical vertebrae snapped. "Now!"

Leslie knew that this stocky jailer had the power to inflict such a punishment. His forearms were enormous, and his chest measurement could not be less than fifty inches.

Along a narrow stone corridor, lighted by an overhead electric lamp, went Leslie and his jailer. Luigi paused outside a metal-sheathed door, and knocked. Apparently he was bidden to enter, for he gripped Leslie by the wrist and pulled him in.

Mr. Appleton and two companions stared him. It was a room fifteen feet square, well furnished, and artificially lighted.

"Ah!" said Mr. Appleton benevolently. "Here we have Mr. Barron, sir." He turned to a good-looking, well-dressed woman, who was smoking a Russian cigarette. "I have the highest respect for this young gentleman's family."

"He Is Quite a Nice-Looking Boy, Isn't He?" the Woman Said.

"I don't like your way of showing it," Leslie snapped.

He had seen by this time that the third person was the wild faun, wholly at ease in a big chair, puffing at a cigar.

"He is quite a nice-looking boy, isn't he?" the woman said, in a low-pitched, charming voice.

"The Barrons are all good-looking," said Mr. Appleton. "I have commented before on the Grecian cast of Mr. Leslie's head."

"Have the kindness to leave my head alone," Leslie growled.

"Certainly, certainly!" Mr. Appleton assented. "My attentions to it last night were dictated by motives of caution, not of hatred. Others were dependent upon me, and I must consider them. Mr. James Delaney here, formerly a power in the ward politics of our common city, seemed at the moment to be a corpse. You are younger, stronger, and fleeter of foot than I. I did not think you were in a frame of mind which would permit me to wish you good evening and disappear. Had you reported my presence to Mr. Hanby, a search would have been instituted which might have had unpleasant consequences."

"A search will be made," Leslie snapped, "and, believe me, it will have unpleasant consequences for you all!"

Appleton was urbane, unruffled.

"What makes you suppose that?"

"Because I shall be missed."

"But will you? That's the point."

"Why shouldn't I be missed?" Leslie said heatedly. "The Gray house isn't a hotel where one checks out and is promptly forgotten."

"Fortunately for us," said Mr. Appleton, "you did check out."

"That silly lying doesn't impress me."

Leslie was annoyed that the wild faun and the woman found in his assurance something almost humorous.

"But you have checked out—oh, dear me, yes!" Mr. Appleton took from his pocket the letter that Leslie wrote to Celia. "Miss Hanby will find this tomorrow. The references hidden from us will be clear to her. You have had a quarrel, it seems, and, with the folly I expect from youth, you have decided to go away. Very well, Mr. Barron, you have carried out your threat. Do you think Miss Celia will sink her pride to send out an alarm for you? No! 'This stupid, unappreciative lad,' she will say, 'will come back later to be forgiven. He shall find that there are others to console me.' Her parents, being still amazingly wrapped up in themselves, will not worry. Until I read this, I was a little perturbed at the situation; but you have clarified it."

Leslie opened his mouth to speak, but thought better of it. He was about to remind Appleton that the household would be alarmed because he had gone away in evening clothes, leaving his other belongings in disarray, and had neglected to take his automobile.

"We have attended to all that," Appleton said kindly, guessing his thoughts. "Oh, dear me, yes! A lifetime of a business in which detail plays so important a part is a great aid. I shall presently pack your grip. I have keys to every room in the house. I shall bring them to you here. Your car will be removed by James. It will be in Philadelphia by noon. Tomorrow night you would not recognize it. James has an interest in the business. You will be our guest here for a time."

"Where are we?" Leslie demanded.

His spirits had fallen. The Barrons were accustomed to his absences and long silences. The unfortunate letter would exasperate Celia. For some weeks, at all events, he would be an unsought prisoner.

"In Westchester county," replied Mr. Appleton. "We are the guests of one who is dear to me." He bowed with distinguished courtesy to the lady. "You will have no opportunity to escape."

"Am I held for ransom?"

"You are held because it would be inconvenient to let you go."

"You said it!" James commented. "So mighty inconvenient that it wouldn't make me sleep no worse if I had orders from the chief to croak you!"

A sudden panic swept over Leslie. He was not used to consorting with criminals. The sense of real danger came to him. He had no chance to escape, and at least two of three men were openly hostile. It must be that he was imperiling the success of some secret affair. The two might sway Appleton to their views. He glanced at them wildly.

"You can't get away with murder!" he cried.

"We should not try," Appleton told him considerately. "It would be an accident. Your body would be picked up in the sound. We might even arrange that it should be clad in a swimming costume. I rather think the Thimble islands would be suitable—somewhere near Stony creek."

"Why frighten the nice-looking boy?" suggested the woman, in her caressing voice. "It is only if we think he is trying to escape that we should have to do that. Really and truly, Mr. Barron, we are not murderers or kidnapers.

"You will be held until a certain deal that we are putting through is successfully accomplished. Your treatment depends on yourself. Luigi will be your jailer. Look at him, Mr. Barron, and judge for yourself whether it would be wise to try to escape. He has carried a grand piano on that broad back of his. Luigi has a system which has proved very effective with another uninvited guest here."

"He eat-a out o' my hand now," Luigi said proudly. "Thees one, too!"

Assuredly Leslie could expect no mercy from Luigi, the strong man. So there was another prisoner! Leslie felt lonely and fearful. Why had he allowed himself to take offense at Celia? Celia! It was hard work to keep tears from his eyes as he thought of her. Perhaps she would never know how much he loved her. If cruel death took him here among these hardened men, she would think of him as one who allowed the irritation of a moment to overcome the affection he had protested.

Even in that moment Leslie wondered by what magic of authority the little plump man controlled such ruffians as these. There was no question of his dominance; and this was the same quiet, modest, affable person whom Leslie had grown used to seeing at the Hanby table, the man who rarely ventured an opinion, and listened deferentially to those of others! Of the three, Appleton seemed the most sinister and alarming.

CHAPTER IX

The day on which, as the Hanby family supposed, young Barron had taken his early morning departure, saw the arrival of half a dozen visitors. His absence was in a measure overshadowed. Mrs. Hanby spoke of Leslie, and hoped that there had been no quarrel. Celia assured her mother that he was no more than a friend, and that she was well satisfied to be rid of him for a little while.

Dina Hanby put her arm about the girl's shoulder.

"Do you expect me to believe you?" she asked. "I wonder what was in that letter he wrote to you!"

"Here it is," Celia said. "If you can interpret what he means by threatening to 'jump off the road for good,' I should like to know."

"I don't understand references to a 'wild faun,'" said Mrs. Hanby.

"That was nothing," Celia replied. "Here's dad with his house detective. Not a word to them! I'm going to play tennis with my new cousin. He looks most attractive. I've often wanted to contrast Ann Arbor and New Haven."

Dina looked at the two as they sauntered to the courts. Leslie had been very unwise to go just now, she thought.

"You two look as if you were conspiring," she said to her husband.

"I'm reminding Bill of what he said a few weeks back. He remarked that it was beneath the dignity of a lord of the manor to do his own sleuthing. Bill was boosting himself for the job."

"Have I fallen down?" Bill demanded.

Hanby's bantering tone ceased. Dina could see that something worried him.

"Bill," he said, "you have; but I shame myself, too. I assumed, rather illogically, that when Miss Selenos proved merely an emerald in disguise, we had been making mountains from molehills. Seymour's letter puzzled me; but when nothing happened, I put that aside. There was one other threat."

"The woman who said that Red Kerr was killed because he was like you in build? Oh, Bill, you don't think that was anything serious?"

"It prevents us from being dull," replied her husband, laughing. "I find I rather thrive on suspense, and certainly this house has given us enough surprises one way and another. I'm now due to show it to Tom Burton. He's a man who always has a hobby—some sort of bug or other. I've got to listen. Lords of the manor have their duties."

"Do you think he's nervous?" Bill Pelham asked, as he disappeared.

"Not a bit," replied Mrs. Hanby. "He's getting annoyed, and that means that he wants to fight. His mental reactions are quite simple. Look to your laurels, Bill, or he will get ahead of you in this affair. I wonder if there is anything in it!"

Some Original Ideas of American Builders

While siding and shingle exterior coverings for homes did not strictly originate in this country, being largely modifications of existing methods brought over by the early settler-artisans, the availability of the materials and suitability to native architectures give houses sheathed in siding or shingles a distinctly American flavor.

Houses covered with rough hewn siding boards, or clapboards, and crudely split shakes, or shingles, directly succeeded the first log cabins of the early colonists in this country. These materials have been refined by improved methods of manufacture into types which are individually appropriate to the variations of modern colonial architecture and to the architectures of other countries in American adaptations.

Cedar and pine and other durable native woods are used in modern manufacture of shingles and siding, which are frequently stained to enhance their appearance and resistance to weather. Wood siding and shingles have integral insulating value in themselves, increasing comfort and fuel economy in the winter and keeping the house cool in summer.

First to Cross Australia

The first journey across Australia was made in 1844-45, by Frederich Wilhelm Ludwig Leichhardt, who went from Germany to Australia in 1841. Setting out from Darling Downs, in the south of Queensland, he made his way to Port Essengton (Northern territory), the most northerly tip of Australia.

Lesson for April 13

THE CHILD AND THE KINGDOM

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 18:1-14; 19:13-15.

GOLDEN TEXT—Suffer little children, and forbid them not to come unto Me: for of such is the kingdom of heaven.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus, the Children's Friend.

I. The Greatest in the Kingdom of Heaven (vv. 1-4).

1. The disciples' question (v. 1).

The prominence given to Peter in connection with the announcement of Christ's purpose to build the church and the payment of tribute with the money in the fish's mouth, provoked jealousy on the part of the other disciples. The transfiguration scene revealed the divine person and the program of His kingdom. Seeing that the kingdom was to come to realization despite the tragedy of the cross, disciples wished to know their place of rank in the kingdom.

2. Jesus' answer (vv. 2-4).

He taught them by placing a little child in their midst.

(1) Condition of entrance into the kingdom (v. 3). The great question was as to whether they were really in the kingdom. Their behavior revealed the fact that they needed conversion. Before they could even see, much less enter into, the kingdom, they must be born from above (John 3:3, 5). (2) Whosoever possesses childlike humility is the greatest (v. 4). The child is dependent, lowly and modest. Those who have been born again, or converted, have these characteristics.

II. The Lord's Identification With His Believing Ones (vv. 5-9).

1. Receiving the believer in Christ's name is receiving Christ (v. 5).

Through faith in Christ we become God's children and so completely is our life interwoven with His that He regards treatment of us as treatment of Himself.

2. The peril of causing a believer to stumble (vv. 6-9).

To cause to stumble means to give occasion for a moral fall. The particular reference was to the carnality and selfishness which were expressing themselves in their contention for preeminence. Their behavior was not only an injury, but a stumbling block to others. Everything causing one to stumble, though it be as vital as hands and feet, should be removed.

III. Believers Are Specially Cared for by the Heavenly Father (vv. 10-14).

1. They are under angelic guardianship (v. 10).

So precious is the believer in God's sight that angelic messengers are provided (Heb. 1:10). These angelic messengers have access to the very throne of God, even beholding His face. So high is the honor bestowed upon believers that the highest angels are sent to guard them.

2. The Son came especially to save such from their lost condition (vv. 11-14).

The Heavenly Father does not will that any one of these should perish. They are objects of the Father's seeking love. The salvation of the humble believer has been secured by the incarnation and the sacrifice of the Good Shepherd.

IV. Jesus Receiving Little Children (Matt. 19:13-15).

We should carefully note the setting of this text. Jesus had been speaking of the sanctity of marriage, which is the bulwark of the home. Into the sacred enclosure of the home comes childhood to complete and ennoble it.

1. Children brought to Jesus (v. 13).

Doubtless they were brought by their parents. Many parents today who are careless as to themselves, desire to bring their children into touch with Jesus Christ.

2. Rebuked by the disciples (v. 13).

They regarded children as too insignificant to engage the Lord's attention. Christ places high value upon children.

3. The disciples rebuked by Christ (v. 14).

These words uttered by the Lord have placed a peculiar dignity upon the child. It is Christlike to care for children and no service in the world pays such large dividends.

4. Christ laid His hands upon the children (v. 15).

ONLY A DOCTOR KNOWS WHAT A LAXATIVE SHOULD BE

Danger lies in careless selection of laxatives! By taking the first thing that comes to mind when bad breath, headaches, dizziness, nausea, biliousness, gas on stomach and bowels, lack of appetite or energy warns of constipation, you risk forming the laxative habit.

Depend on a doctor's judgment in choosing your laxative. Here's one made from the prescription of a specialist in bowel and stomach disorders. Its originator tried it in thousands of cases; found it safe for women, children and old folks; thoroughly effective for the most robust man. Today, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, as it is called, is the world's most popular laxative. It is composed of fresh herbs and other pure ingredients. You can get it, in generous bottles and ready for use, at any drugstore.

Oddities in Mishap

An automobile driven by a Norway (Maine) man sideswiped another car, cutting off the mudguards and running board, shot through a fence, plunged down a ten-foot embankment to the covering of a lake, tipped over and was bent and twisted beyond repair. But neither the windshield nor a headlight or window was broken; the driver was not injured and not a drop of coffee filling the bottom of a dinner bucket was spilled.

A dog doesn't pretend; but a cat does.

Upset Not Serious if Bowels Get This Help

When you're out-of-sorts, headachy, dizzy, bilious, with coated tongue, bad breath, no appetite or energy—don't worry. It's probably constipation.

Take a candy Cascaret tonight and see how quickly your trouble clears up. No more headache; no gas on stomach or bowels. Appetite improves; digestion is encouraged. Take another tomorrow night and the next night. Get every bit of the souring waste out of your system. Then see how bowel action is regular and complete.

Cascarets are made from cascara, which doctors agree actually strengthens bowel muscles. Ten cents at all drug stores.

Cheery Words

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., complimented on his recent gift of $2,000,000 to the University of Paris, modestly changed the subject by means of an anecdote.

"The French are a wonderful people," he said. "Consider how gallantly, back in 1914, all our French waiters and cooks and chauffeurs sailed off from New York to die.

"'Good-by, Monsieur Louis. I'm off to make sorties instead of entrees.'"

WHEN IT LOOKS DARK to any weak, nervous or ailing woman, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription comes to her aid. Women in every walk of life today say Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a reliable medicine. It is made from roots and herbs, sold by druggists, in both fluid and tablets.

One who used it said: "One bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription did more for me than all the other medicines I have ever taken. I was in very frail, delicate health, suffering with severe backache and other distress. I took everything that was recommended. Finally I learned of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it was this medicine that corrected my trouble and restored me to good health. I never had a return of the weakness afterward, thanks to the 'Favorite Prescription.'"—Mrs. Emma Burch, 208 Seventh St., Columbus, Ga.

Albie Booth Thrives on Baseball

HARD work seems to agree with Albie Booth of Yale. The mighty little warrior of the gridiron has served his days in football and basketball, but his activity will not end until the scholastic year is finished. He started baseball, his third sport, and by so doing let himself in for a continuous athletic program which started back on September 15 and will run until June 21. That means more than eight months of continuous competition.

In spite of the long stretch over which he has been competing he is stronger, healthier and heavier. Albie has learned a lot of things in his first year as a varsity athlete and as a sophomore, and not the least important one of these is how to eat. Albie is working his way through college partially by waiting on tables at the "Y" club. There is plenty of hash for the one who slings the hash, and a net gain of between fifteen and twenty pounds since the football days is the result.

An Albie Booth with a tonnage of merely 137 or 144 pounds, as his weight was listed in football, was bad enough to the opposition last fall; what will opponents do when he carries 160 pounds or so? The good little man may become a good big man in no time. Such weight would put Booth out of the midget class. The more important question for Yale is whether Booth at 160 pounds will be the whirling, dodging, elusive star he was when he was in the 130s. His extra weight did not slow him up the least bit in basketball. Yale appears to have no ground for worrying about its heavier Albie Booth.

Albie Booth.

One peculiar part of the baseball situation this year is that it is the first time at Yale that Booth has not had to go out and battle through the first part of the season before having his superiority recognized. Mal Stevens was often quoted as saying that Booth was not Yale's best back and every one knows how Booth was "just a back" during the first couple of games—until he showed he could handle the pigskin in a manner that delighted the spectators.

In basketball the same thing happened. Booth had trouble in making a place on the team. The many available veterans attracted the eye of Elmer Ripley, the coach, and Booth was a substitute—but only for a while. When he finally came into his own, Ripley paid him the high compliment of calling him the greatest competitor he ever saw play basketball.

In baseball it is different. Joe Wood has seen Booth play ball. He watched him carefully during his freshman year and Freshman Coach Clyde Engle told him what he didn't find out for himself. Booth's baseball reputation means something to Wood, and Booth therefore finds himself already assigned to a regular birth at shortstop.

Rely on Frankhouse

Fred Frankhouse, whose effective pitching was a big help to the St. Louis Cardinals last year, is being relied on to materially help the team along again this season.

Phillies Look Good

Better hitting and better pitching will put the Phils in the first division of the National league race this year, in the opinion of Manager Burt Shotton.

He picks Alexander to win a game a week and sees better hurling from the younger pitchers who didn't have the experience last year.

Hurst, he believes, will hit up with O'Doul and Klein, and Sigman, a 1929 recruit, may be one of the leaders.

Freight Conductor Made Coach at Naval Academy

Granted a six-months' leave of absence, Freight Conductor E. F. "Kid" Mohler of the Los Angeles division of the Southern Pacific railroad, has gone east again to coach the United States Naval academy baseball team for the second year. Before becoming a railroad man, Mohler was a star in the Pacific Coast league, performing with the Oakland champions of 1902 and later as playing manager of the San Francisco Seals. Old fans remember him as the pivot man of Oakland's famed double-play combination of Franks-to-Mohler-to-Streib.

Mohler's seniority with the Southern Pacific dates from 1920, but prior to that he worked for the railroad intermittently from the time of his retirement from baseball in 1912. His friends say he railroads like he used to play baseball—with everything he has.

Red Sox Get Promising Recruit in Odd Manner

Tom Oliver, who has a good chance to hold down the regular center field berth with the Red Sox, came to the club in a roundabout way. Last year he was a sensation with Little Rock of the Southern league and big league scouts came bidding for him, including President Bob Quinn's representative.

Little Rock raised the price and all the scouts moved out, leaving him eligible for the draft, and Connie Mack took him. In January Mack decided he didn't need another outfielder and asked waivers on him so he could be sent back to Little Rock.

At this point Quinn stepped in again and got him at the waiver price, decidedly cheap.

WRITES NAME ON ROLL OF HONOR

Orval Martin Wins Much Glory for Purdue.

Not alone through its championship football and basketball teams has Purdue won glory in the Big Ten during the record breaking season, 1929-'30. The Boilermakers boast another champion in Orval Martin, long distance runner extraordinary, whose latest feat was the winning of mile and half mile events in the same night at the conference indoor meet at the University of Minnesota.

The records show that in five meets in which he has competed since he began his career as an intercollegiate athlete at Purdue, Martin has won seven Big Ten championships. This was made possible by doubling up in the mile and half mile runs as he did at Minneapolis. At the 1929 outdoor meet at Northwestern last June he won both these events. He also won the individual Big Ten cross country championship in the annual meet at Ohio State last fall.

The ideal height of a heavyweight fighter is six feet or an inch or so taller.

There have been shorter ones and taller ones but they were exceptions.

There is also an ideal height for pitchers. Nearly all of the great stars you may mention were six footers.

In fact six feet is more important to a baseball pitcher than a heavyweight fighter.

A pitcher who can throw them downgrade will have more speed than one who must make them go straight ahead.

For that reason scouts are always looking at the big boys and passing up those who are under five feet eleven.

Cornell and Princeton have met on the football field 20 times since the rivalry began in 1891, with the former being victorious on only four occasions.

Four pitchers managed to win 20 or more games in the major leagues last season. They were Pat Malone of the Cubs, Bob Grove and George Earnshaw of the Athletics and Wesley Farrell of the Indians.

Most of the players who will captain major football teams this year are centers. The best three centers of the East in 1929—Ticknor of Harvard, Siano of Fordham and Andres of Dartmouth, are among the football captains of 1930.

Ticknor of Harvard was almost a unanimous choice for All-American center last year but give Andres the same opportunities and he probably would excel Ticknor. The Harvard system calls for a roving center, and a roving center has a vast advantage over the stationary type of pivot man such as Andres.

"Gabby" Street, new manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, suggests an additional column for the baseball box scores as food for thought in the hot stove league.

"The box scores omit a very important column," says Street, "and that is the EJ column—errors of judgment.

"Manual errors we expect—everybody makes them. But the real errors are those of judgment, like throwing to the wrong base, stealing when the next bag is occupied, being picked off a base through carelessness, trying to steal home with the bases filled, nobody out and your best hitter at bat.

Lester Patrick, the Connie Mack of the ice hockey game, believes the baseball magnates are too set in their ways. He suggests a few new arrangements in the national game to make it more profitable.

The best thought he brings out is that of limiting a star like Babe Ruth to American league territory when the fans of Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and Brooklyn would like to see him more often.

Or Hornsby of the National. How many times has he been seen in Washington and Detroit?

Baseball is a staid game. In some ways we like it for that reason.

Bill Roper, Princeton's coach, felt so bad that his team was beaten by Chicago last fall that he said he was going to quit coaching. The 1930 campaign, he now says, will be his last as Tiger mentor.

Roper attributes the defeats of his team last fall to the fact that the preceding spring he held no spring practice, letting his men go in for track, baseball and the other spring sports. This year, however, in preparation for his final season he is putting on three weeks of work in fundamentals. "We're going to have a great team," he says, "a young team and perhaps a starless team."

William T. Tilden believes he has unearthed the future tennis champion of the world in the diminutive person of twelve-year-old Etienne Van Der Berg, the son of the Dutch professional at the Hotel Californie club.

Tilden was so impressed with the boy's play that he has been devoting hours daily training him and will enter handicap events in the most important tournaments with him.

Young Etienne has played tennis since he was six years old.

Bride Tells Her Secret

"FOR a young bride of twenty-one to lose her vitality and pep is disastrous, almost a sacrilege," says Mrs. George E. Pillow, of Franklin, Va. "That, however," she continues, "is just what I did."

"I had only been married a few months to an athletic husband, who went everywhere and did everything. I tried to keep up with his pace, and simply collapsed under the strain. I never was really ill; just sallow-skinned, depressed, and lifeless. Swimming, dancing, golf, I just couldn't face them. When I began to lose my clear complexion, I was desperate.

"Then one day a girl friend came to pay me a visit. In the bottom of her little bag of clothes lay a crystal-clear bottle—Nujol! A short woman-to-woman talk—a telephone call to a neighboring drug store—and my future happiness was settled.

"That was a year ago. Now I too am never without Nujol, which has brightened and cleansed my body like a cake of pure soap. I eat, sleep, swim, and hike with the enthusiasm of a child. My complexion is all it used to be—and best of all—I am my husband's little pal again."

The wonderful thing about crystal-clear Nujol is that it is not a medicine; it contains no drugs—it cannot hurt even a baby. It is simply the normal internal lubrication which your body needs. Let Nujol clear the poisons out of your body (we all have them), and flood the sunshine of happiness into your life.

Beauty, Charm, Clear Skin—How Can They be Won?

It sounds like a fairy tale, but millions of people have proved it. So can you. Get Nujol at any drug store—sold only in sealed packages, with the Nujol trademark. It costs but a few cents and it will make you feel like a million dollars!

A stingy man has few friends—and needs few.

There would be more hermits if it were not perilous to live alone.

Three Mothers Agree

When mother is tired, nervous or ill the whole home is upset. For her family's sake, every mother wants to be well and strong. These three women tell how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helps them to care for their families.

Mrs. H. Dolhonde, 6318 York St., New Orleans, Louisiana

"Before my last baby was born, I started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I got such good results that I named her Catherine Lydia. I have six older children and five grandchildren, too. I am now taking the Vegetable Compound again because of my age. I eat and sleep better and I do all my housework, and my washing. I will do my best to answer letters."

Mrs. Harold Goodnow 36 Cane St., Fitchburg, Massachusetts

"I cannot praise your medicine enough. After my baby came I was rundown. I had to go to bed often through the day. I took three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I felt like a different woman. If any mother has those tired feelings I advise her to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

Mrs. Lloyd R. Blasing, 115 So. Ohio St., Anaheim, California

"After my baby came I was so nervous and tired that I felt miserable. One day a booklet was left at our door and after reading it I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I am now on my fourth bottle and I feel much stronger. It has helped me in every way and I feel sure that other women in rundown condition will pick up if they will only take a few bottles."

Republican Convention Meets.

The Republican county convention met at the court house Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Chairman Boyles called Attorney Armand Daniel to the chair. C. F. Stroud and C. W. Hall were named as secretaries. A roll call showed that all the 11 precincts in the county were represented. W. E. Boyles was re elected chairman of the Republican County Executive Committee, and C F. Stroud was re elected Secretary. After delegates were elected to the State, Congressional, Judicial and Senatorial Conventions, a vote was taken then for Senator from the 24th Senatorial District. Seven ballots were taken before the convention made a choice for Senator. On the 7th ballot A. T. Grant received 34 votes and B. C. Brock received 27 votes, giving Mr. Grant a majority of seven votes. On the first ballot Brock received 28½ votes, A. T. Grant 17¼ votes and Mrs. Kennen 14⅔ votes. After the convention finished work, A. T. Grant made a short speech He was followed by B. C. Brock, who intimated that he would enter the June primary and fight for the nomination. While the convention didn't wind up with a love feast, there was no fighting. J. S. Daniel, F. A. Foster, S. C. Stonestreet and K. L. Cope. The convention was in session four hours.

To correct a statement of Lee Hampton, which appeared in Tuesday's Winston Journal, we will say that we were pledged to nobody in the Republican county convention.

The convention unanimously endorsed John R Jones for Solicitor in district.

WANTED—To do all kinds of brick work and plastering.

Bridge For Prizes Held Unlawful as Crap Shooting.

Blytheville, Ark.—Honors are even between bridge and dice in the court of Municipal Judge W. D. Gravette. As long as Blythevill women play cards for prizes without interference from police, Judge Gravette will be lenient with crap-shooters.

Judge Gravette announced his policy in assessing a light fine against a young man who pleaded guilty to rolling the bones.

"It is as much a violation of the laws to play cards for prizes as to shoot craps for money, and as long as one practice is permitted I do not purpose to inflict severe punishment on those arrested for the other," the judge said. "That applies to social games among friends, not to those caught in gambling houses."—Russellville Times.

Republican Senatorial Convention.

A convention of the Republican party of the 24th Senatorial District, composed of the counties of Wilkes, Yadkin and Davie is hereby called to meet in the courthouse in Yadkinville, North Carolina on for the purpose of nominating a state senator on the Republican ticket and transacting such other business as may come before the convention. The counties of this district are each respectively entitled to one delegate and one alternate for each two hundred votes or fraction thereof, cast for the Republican nominee for Governor in the last general election. This March 19th, 1930.

WADE REAVIS, Chairman.
W. E. RUTLEDGE, Secretary.

There was plenty of frost and ice in this section on April 7th and 8th. We fear that the fruit has been badly damaged.

Read This, Ladies.

A Miltonvale woman sent to a mail order house a few days ago to buy a dress. The dress came alright, but it was not what it was represented to be, so she sent it back, and her money was returned to her. She took the check sent her by the mail order house, went to a Miltonvale store and bought a better dress for less money, and paid for it with the mail order house check, which is just another instance to prove that it pays to trade at home. We can vouch for the truthfulness of this story, as we saw the check.—Miltonvale Record.

NEWS OF LONG AGO.

(Davie Record, April 27, 1905.)

Mrs. A. Z. Taylor has purchased the Baptist parsonage for $925.

G. W. Crotts, of Fork Church, was a business visitor here Monday.

It is thought that a good deal of fruit escaped the recent frosts and freeze.

C. B. Webb, of Statesville, was a business visitor here Monday.

Mrs J. A. Douthit, of Bower, visited her daughter, Mrs. E. H. Morris, several days last week.

The Dr. Brown farm near Liberty church was sold last week to W. R. Clement, of this city. The consideration was $3,200.

Miss Carolyn Joyce is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Green, on Depot street.

Attorney A. H. Eller, of Winston, was in town Monday looking after some legal business.

Frank Rattz, of Fork, has moved his family to town and they are occupying the Call house, recently vacented by Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Rockett.

Commencement exercises of the Cooleemee graded school will begin April 30th, and will close May 2nd.

R. S. Anderson, postmaster at Calahaln, passed through town Tuesday on his way to Fork Church, where he was married at three o'clock to Miss Lennie Call.

A. T. Grant, Jr., T. M. Brock, G. H. Graham, C. A. Hartman, W. A. Bailey and A. C. Cornatzer attended Federal court in Statesville last week.

Miss Mary Clement who has been in poor health for some time, died in her chair suddenly early Sunday morning. Her remains were laid to rest Tuesday afternoon in the Clement graveyard.

William H. Nolley died at his home near Liberty on the 15th, with heart disease, leaving a widow and two children. The body was laid to rest on the 16th, in Liberty graveyard. Mr. Nolley was one of the best men in the county and will be sadly missed by a host of friends.

A. C. Wood has moved from Advance to Rutherfordton, where he is operating a veneering sawmill.

Mr. Charles Robin, who lived near Macedonia, died last Wednesday. He leaves a wife and a host of friends. The body was laid to rest in Bethlehem graveyard.

Dr. H. F. Baity, of North Wilkesboro, is spending several days in Cooleemee this week.

The many friends of Rev. Thos L. Trott, of Cooleemee will regret to know that he has accepted a call to Durham.

Carolina Giant Dies.

Arthur Harris, of Pitt county, who died recently was one of the biggest men living in North Carolina as far as height and weight is concerned. He was seven feet three inches tall and was superbly formed man. It is said that on one occasion he whipped seven men in a fair fight. When he was 30 years old he weighed 390 pounds but before his death at the age of 46, he had put on considerable weight so that his avoirdupois exceeded 450 pounds. The undertaker who prepared his body his body for burial declared he was "hard as nails." A special casket had to be made for him.—Ex.

Weather During March As Cold As February.

Did you know that the month of March was about as cold as February this year? J. P. Molen, meteorologist at the airport station of the U. S. Weather Bureau, near Friendship, reports that the average temperature for the month was 45.3 degrees, as compared with 44 6 for February. The mean minimum for March was 33.1 as compared with 30.8 for February, while March's average maximum was 57.5, a degree under the preceding month's.

The highest temperature for the month was 73 on the 13th as compared with an 81 maximum during February.

There were fourteen, days with freezing temperture or below, as compared with eight last year. For the last ten days of the months the mercury reached 60 only one occasion.

The humidity on the whole was the lowest of any month since the establishment of the station in November, 1928. The atmospheric pressure was likewise the lowest in the two and one half years' history of the bureau, the average being 29 91. Humidiiy readings were 76 at 8 a. m., a mark tied in April 1929; 47 at 12:20 p. m., and 58 at 8 p. m., record low readings.

The wind was hefty, averaging 9.2 miles an hour, but below the March wind of 9 4 a year ago. The highest wind occurred the 24th, blowing at the rate of 33 miles an hour out of the southwest.

There were six killing frosts, one of these occuring the last day of the month. Rainfall was rather light, totaling only 2.21 inches, of which 1.20 fell on the 7th. The month had 69 per cent possible sunshine and eight days with 100 per cent. solar visitation.

Millions For Curiosity

What would you say to a statement that one concern spends ten millions of dollars a year and employs eighty thousand men and women, merely to pander to the average American's sense of curiosity? You'd say it wasn't so; that there would not be a chance in the world that such an investment would pay dividends; that people aren't that curious. Yet it's a fact, altho you might quibble some a bout the meaning of curiosity. The Associated Press, which deals in news and news only, does spend ten million dollars a year and does employ some 80,000 people in securing and distributing this news to the dailies of the United States. The dailies print it because the average American is curious as to what is happening to his neighbor, and his fellow man. You might argue that a great deal of this news is informative. Perhaps ten per cent of it Most of it, as a matter of fact, is simply the out of the ordinary events. It deals with the shortcomings of humanity, of its hard luck, its disasters. The entire gamut of human emotion is played in the news of the day. So the spending of ten millions of dollars, by one organization alone, is a trifle when it comes to the total amount spent for satisfying humanity's curiosity.—Ex.

Newton Cow Gives Good Test Showing.

Prince's Golden Bess 434206, a purebred Jersey cow owned by J. O. Lutz, of Newton, N. C., has completed another official production test in which she yielded 630.75 pounds of butterfat and 12,484 pounds of milk in 365 days. Bess was started on this test when she was just eleven years of age, and with this record again qualified for the Registration of Merit of the American Jersey Cattle club. Her sire is Nettina's Meridale Prince, and her dam is Sultan's Golden Beatrice.—Hickory Record.

Sherman's Army Visits Here 65 Years Ago.

It has been just sixty five years since Sherman's army went pilgrimaging through this section of North Carolina. The associate editor of the Union Republican tells us that there were sixty thousand men in this army and that they proceeded to help themselves to everthing they fancied as they rode through the State. It was only a few weeks later that General Lee surrendered to General Grant and his army.

But there were some gentlemen among Sherman's army as well as a lot of hangers on who were following the army to get what they could out of it by robbing, pillaging and otherwise mistreating a defenseless people.

A detachment of the army under the command of General Stoneman, who was a clean-cut gentleman, swept across Isedell and Yadkin counties and on into Virginia. They burned the cotton mill that was located at Eagle Mills, Iredell county, but left in act the old cotton mill at Elkin, Surry county, owned by the Gwyns. That evening they pitched camp at Jonesville, Yadkin county, the late R. R. Gwyn invited some of the head officers over to his house to dine and after that it is said that a guard was placed around his mill with orders to shoot any soldier attempting to set fire to it and this is why it was saved.

A widow living in Jonesville had an iron kettle in which she boiled water to make rye coffee. There were no stoves in those days. One of the straggling soldiers came to her and seeing the kettle hanging on a tine over the fire seized it and carried it to camp. She promptly went to the camp and complied to the lieutenant in charge. He went with her and she recovered her kettle and he not only performed this fine service but he also detailed a soldier to guard her home and she was not further molested.

When word was received that the Yankees were coming the Jonesville peole hid all their silverware and other valuables and all the horses were rounded up and quickly carried to the fastness of the Brushy Mountains. The soldiers learned that the horses had been carried away and were debating the question as to whether to hunt for them when they saw through a field glass the outline of a well with an old time windlass on the top of Star's Peak on the Brushies and thinking it was a cannon decided not to make the trip to search for the horses.

But that has been sixty-five years ago and most of those who took part in the struggle have passed on. There's not a single person living in old Jonesville now that was there sixty-five years ago when Stoneman's army encamped on the hillside of that old town.

This is now a re-united country. Old scores are forgotten and we are all now under one flag, one country and Southerners fight just as hard and just as fierce for the Stars and Stripes as their fathers did under the banner of the stars and bars.

Stole Radio From Burke School.

The past week two young boys of Burke county stole a $165 radio from one of the schools in that county brought it to the vicinity of High Point where they traded it for $4 and a pint of liquor. The boy were arrested when they went back home and officers came from Burke and located the instrument and carried it back to the Burke school.—Ex.

This Really Happened-- Who Is To Blame.

Here is what happened in another town and is happening every day in this and other town's that neglect to advertise We have plenty of good merchants here to demand ten times the trade they are getting if they would advertise.

Here is the story:

"A man entered a store and made a small purchase. As the merchant was wrapping it up for him the customer pointed to a package under his arm and said.

'I wonder it you would mind wrapping this up a little better for me. It got kinda damaged in shipping?'

'Not at all,' said the merchant. 'What have you been getting?'

'Some kind of pateded salt. I've been reading about in the farm magazines,' replied the customer.

"It was announced in an advertisement the other day that they had just got in a carload lot and was selling it at a special price in 10 pound lots so I sent for some to try it out. It's something new I guess, but I thought I'd try it out on this special offer.'

'What did it cost you?' queried the store keeper. The customer told him.

'Huh' snorted the storekeeper.

'Special, my eye! They just hooked you, that's all. I have it right here and sell it every day at ten cents a pound and you don't have to take it in ten-pound lots either.'

'The duce you say!' returned the customer. 'Don't that beat all? I have been reading it in the farm papers for quite a while and thinking I'd try some, but I didn't know where to get it until I read it in advertisement the other day, and then I sat down and sent in my order.'

'Better trying buying it at home the next time,' announced the proprietor a little acidly, as he handed him the re wrapped package.

'You'd saved a dollar on this.'

'Thanks for the advice,' returned the customer with his hand on door latch. 'Now let me give you some advice. 'You better try advertising what you have to sell in the local paper, and at what price. I'd have bought some from you a long time ago if I'd known you carried it, but you sat back and waited for me to come in and buy it.'

'The advertisement told me they had it, and I bought it from them. Probably a lot more of your customers did the same thing, and I don't see that you can blame them if they did. When a business house lets me know it has something I want I am going to buy it from them instead of going some place else to ask if they have it. If you don't care enough for your customers to inform them what you sell, you'll continue losing business to those firms that advertise their goods and prices."—Ex.

2 Representatives Enter Primary Fees.

Washington, April 8.—Two well known members of the house, Mr Hammer, of the seventh district, and Mr. Doughton, of the eighth, informed their friends today that they had complied with the formality of entering their names with the state board of elections, and they will be candidates to succeed themselves. Mr. Hammer knows he is safely launched, because he has received a receipt for his $50. Mr. Doughton has a clear road, as usual, but Mr. Hammer has an opponent, and therefore will have to run two campaigns this year.

Two cars of demonstration fed hogs from Jones county brought the seven growers a net profit of $3,027.50.

Olive Branch.

A statement of contributions, receipts and disbursements from the beginning of the work and including a statement published February 6th 1929, also an acknowledgment of contributions and assistance that does not appear in the tabulation of receipts.

United States Senator W. E Brock contributed $100 00 in addition to the $25.00 itemized below. Of this amount $49.16 has been spent (48.00 for a steel gate and $1.16 for freight) and $50 84 remains unspent. Mr. J. F. Johnson paid a high price for the wood on the ground, so that a payroll could be met on one occasion. Mr. J C. Charles supplied fertilizer at his cost and included drayage. The workmen who rebuilt the wall worked at reduced wages, and our newspapers have contributed space free of charge. These are valuable contributions and are so acknowledged without them the work would not now stand in its completed condition.

The Simmons-Bailey fight doesn't seem to show much improvement.

Politics makes strange bedfellows sometimes. Be sure you are right and then sit down.

No reason why Davie shouldn't give at least a thousand Republican majority this fall if the right kind of a ticket is nominated.

It takes a good deal of cash, much gasoline, a big bunch of good cigars and a lot of voters to get a political job in these strennous times. If you are short on cash, better get you a job and go to work.

It is hoped that at least six or more prospective candidates for sheriff on the Republican ticket will decide not to enter the race between this date and July. Two or three makes it interesting but eight or ten makes it distressful.

With three candidates in the field for the State chairmanship of the Republican party there is no reason why the party shouldn't get a good man. Duncan, Newell and York are all good men and either of them would make a good chairman.

Peace and harmony should prevail among the Davie Republicans. Nothing would please the Davie democrats and Hon. Lee Hampton more than a local fight among the Republicans in Davie. Why not bury the tomahawk and forget all the past unpleasantness.

The same laws that prohibits the manufacture and sale of liquor prohibits children under 16 years of age driving automobiles. Do the good men and women of this section want The Record to help uphold these laws or do they want one inforced and the other ignored. Blackberry pie has nothing to do with law enforcement.

This is Republican Convention week. A number of Davie Republicans attended the Judicial Convention which met at Wilkesboro yesterday, and a number will go to Lexington today to attend the Congressional Convention. Tomorrow is the big day at Charlotte, where the Republican State Convention will meet. A good delegation from Davie will also attend this gathering. On Saturday the Senatorial Convention will meet at Yadkinville and a big crowd of Davie radicals will no doubt be present for this occasion. It is not known just what will happen in the Yadkin county seat. This is Davie's year to name the Senator, which they did in Mocksville on the 7th. It is not known whether Mr. Brock and Mrs. Kennen will enter the June primary for this nomination. It is thought that Yadkin and Wilkes will confirm the nomination of Davie's candidate —A. T. Grant.

Boy Scout Clean Up Campaign.

The Boy Scouts of Mocksville, 30 in number, sponsered a clean up campaign for Mocksville Wednesday and Thursday afternoon and Saturday morning. The trucks made their rounds through the town, hauling off 20 truck loads of trash. The Scouts are indebted to Sanford Motor Co., Charles Tomlinson, Mocksville Grocery Co., Horn-Johnson Co., C. C. Sanford Sons Co., and G. G. Walker. About the first of May the boys will give another day to this clean up work.

Mrs. McCormick Wins.

On the face of practically complete returns from the Republican primary in Illinois Tuesday, it appeared that Ruth Hanna McCormick has won over Senator Dineen for the senatorial nomination. The nomination on the Republican ticket in that state is tantamount to the election.

Singularly enough, if Mrs. McCormick is elected she not only will be the first woman ever to be elected to the national senate but the first woman in the history of the country who was the daughter of a senator, the wife of a senator and a senator herself.

Be it recalled that Mrs. McCormick learned her political strategy at the knees of her father Mark Hanna, who in his day was the maker of presidents and the master hand in the art of political manipulations.

She was instrumental in the campaign that elected her husband, the late Medill McCormick, to the national upper house and she has now defeated the man who defeated her husband for the nomination in 1924.—Elkin Tribune.

Nineteen Are Killed.

Isleta, N. M., April 11.—A fast Santa Fe mail train today crushed a pickwick Greyhound motor bus, killing nineteen persons, all passengers on the bus.

The accident was the worst in the history of western bus transportation. The train sideswiped the stage as the driver tried frantically to swing it clear of the oncoming locomotive and the terrific impact so mangled the bodies that late today identification of three had not been made. Eight persons were injured seriously.

Two survivors said the driver slowed up but failed to stop at the crossing.

Demolished by the collision, the bus was ignated by flames which licked over it from the gasoline tank. Clothing was burned from badies of the several victims.

Two bodies and part of the bus were carried a half a mile by the sweeping train, which was able to slacken its pace and stop a mile and a half past the crossing where the tragedy occurred.

Most folks can't stand too much prosperity. Perhaps the picture shows and the radios and the automobiles are blessings in that they prevent the major portion of the race from piling up a lot of money and becoming cross grained and crusty. All these things keep the race poor and humole and hustling.

Mrs. F. F. Walker and daughter Miss May, and L. B. Forest, of near Kappa, were in town Monday.

A Whale of a District.

Now that Davidson county has a candidate for Congress, our folks will perhaps give more study to the territory that comprises the seventh district. One of the first conclusiont reached will be that it is a whale of a district.

Reference to the highway map, for instance, shows that the shortest continuous highway route, keeping within the district all the way, from Mulberry Gap on the north edge of Wilkes county to the South Carolina line below Rockingham, 18 184 miles. This route woeld lead through North Wilkesboro, Yadkinville, Mocksville, Lexington, Asheboro, Biscoe and Rockingham.

There is a shorter route from the northernmost point in the district to the South Carolina line, by state highway, but it is not so much shorter after all By taking Highway 80 south from Mocksville and crossing Rowan and Stanly, in the eighth district, the South Carolina line in the seventh district is reached below Wadesboro only after traveling a total of 162 miles.

The most compact grouping of counties is aloog the southern edge. West to east the highway distance is 87 miles there, keeping to the counties touching the South Carolina line, these being Union, Anson, Richmond and Scotland If one turns northeastward from Scotland into Hoke the distance across the southern end of the district, east to west, exceeds 100 miles.

Davidson is approximately the center county of the district, from north to south, but the center of populotion is perhaps a little farther down. If only eligible voters were taken into account perhaps the center of the vote would be in this county, though the center of the Democratic vote is to the south eastward.—The Dispatch.

Mrs. R. L. Booe Passes

Mrs. Robert L. Booe, aged 63, died at her home on Salisbury street Thursday morning at one o'clock, following an illness of some time. Death resulted from heart trouble. The funeral services were held at the Baptist church Friday afternoon at three o'clock, Rev. W. B. Waff, her pastor, and Rev. V. M. Swaim, conducting the services. The body was laid to rest in Rose cemetery. Mrs. Booe is survived by her husband, four sons, Dr. J. Grady Booe, of Bridgeport, Conn., Braxton Booe, of Mocksville, R. 2; W. Bryan Booe, of Winston-Salem, and Dr. Isaac Booe, of Concord. One daughter, Miss Effie Booe, of this city, survives, together with two brothers, A. J. and C. F. Anderson, of Calahaln township. Mrs. Booe was a member of the Baptist church, and was held in high esteem by her many friends. In her death this community looses one of its best women. To the aged husband, the sons, daughter and brothers. The Record extends sympathy in this sad hour.

Chain Store Tactics Verge On Fraud.

The agitation against chain stores of all kinds, and its resultant effects on the chain store business, is one of the wonders of 1930. Starting a f months ago at Shreveport, where "Hello World" Henderson threw his radio station into the fight, the campaign to educate the people has swept over the entire country. Independent stores have learned many things they had never as much as imagined heretofore. The policy of making short-weight standard brand package goods for the chains has proved to a fact. The public, not knowing the difference, has ought the short weight goods believing them to be cheaper when, as a matter of fact, the slight saving in price was offset by the lesser quantity.

It is said that at Watertown, where a chain store manager was arrested and fined for selling a short-weight package the store quit because when the manager started to weighing out his packages he found most of his stock was illegal and he dared not sell for fear of further arrests.

The Ethan Enterprise last week had this item:

"There is on display at the Security State Bank a can of Van Camp's Pork and Beans sold by local merchants—weight 1 lo., 4 ounces; also a chain store can of Van Camp's brand made for chain stores—weight 1 lb., 2 oz. Henderson is right."

The chain store is a menance to the country. Its growth has followed persisted misrepresentation of methods used by the independent stores. The smaller chains of stores prospered in the beginning because they bought lots of merchandise and foisted them off onto the public as standard goods. The average man who buys something "cheap" will not make a complaint when it fails to give the service it should.

Henderson, at Shreveport, has done the country a distinct service Now, if the independent stores will only step into the fight and aggressively go after busieess and good will, they will keep the chains on the run. As the Hayti Herald puts it:

". . . while public sympathy is overwhelmingly with the independent merchants at the moment mere sympathy alone will not suffice to keep him up front, nor will it last forever. If he is to make the most of the present opportunity and if he is to entrench himself unassailably, it is up to the independent merchant to adopt the good features of the chain stores that have brought them success, and the aggressive tactics that have kept them before the public. In other words, the independent merchants should dress up their stores attractively; he should advertise his wares to the public. These identical tactics have served the chain stores well and they can serve the independent merchant, the man who throws in with his community for better or worse, but that does not mean that one must blind himself to the evident shortcomings of all too many independent merchants, shortcomings which have directly permitted the chains to gain the ascendency over the independents."

The End Of The Joy Ride.

(From The Aberdeen Pilot.)

North Carolina, as well as the rest of the nation, has, as Capt. Nathan O'Berry, State treasurer, says, been having a joy ride. It has been a gay one, and expensive, and now the end seems to have come. Already we are paying the bill, and we have much more yet to pay We talk about unemployment, about the condition of the farmer, about our tax burden, about our prospect of farm relief, about the high standard of living, but the Pilot makes bold enough to predict that the whole troublesome orgy of pleasure and tribulation is about to be swept up in a pile and the entire mess dumped in to the junk heap. We have boasted of our prosperity in North Carolina, and in the United States, and deluded ourselves into the belief that we were riding on the top wave, and that we were becoming great producers, and thereby justified in becoming great consumers, in stacking up the thousands of automobiles, in building roads, schools, and other things indefinitely that take money. But we have kidded ourselves, and now the expert accountants are working on our balance sheet, and they are about ready to throw into us the scare that it is to be the beginning of a positive reform or the beginning of the deluge.

We have built good roads, but brethren we built them with borrowed money. Not we, but people elsewhere who now hold our bonds built those roads. We have built school houses, but more bonds are standing against them, and our schools, like our roads belong to the folks who hold the bonds We have mortgaged our holdings, State county and municipality, and the Pilot is told that bonds due on public construction of one short or another will mount up to $500,000,000. Instead of doing these things ourselves we have gone the gait of the prodigal because our credit was good enough to permitt it Now we have the roads, and the public utlities and the paved streets, but the cold clammy truth is that they are not ours. We are merely tenants at the will of the men who provided the money, and before they are ours we must pay about $500,000,000 to redeem them, and each year we must pay some $25,000,000 in interest from our State, our counties and our towns and school districts. If we never built another school house or another foot of road, or another village street we have that charming bit of debt, interest and annual principal payments which if we pay the principal in 50 years will call for $35,000,000 a year for an indefinite period.

We may think we have been prosperous, and that we have done these things with money we have been producing from our products. But we have been going in the hole at least $30,000,000 a year in the last 15 years. In the next 15 years we are destined to dig up at least $30,000,000 a year to pay the fiddler, and right now we are talking about tax reduction.

It is time to think seriously of our plight. On top of this staggering load of debt that has to be reduced and on which interest must be paid right along we have also the current public expenditures for the maintenance of schools, public institutions, public utilities and all those things to carry on; which has been a load for all of us all the time we have been riding on this wave of indifferent folly. As certain as the sun rises in the heaven it is impossible for us to go ahead as we have been and keep our heads above water. Our day of joy riding has come to an end, and whether the taste in the mouth is pleasant or not, we may as well sip the cup of the truth in the matter. It takes $5,000,000,000 a year now to run the United States. In 1920 the taxes levied by the State were a little under $5 000,000. In 1926 the levy was almost $26,000,000, and since then the climb has been going on, although the Pilot does not have the exact figures. And now we are about to issue another $10.000 000 of State bonds.

Now we have these things to pay, and the interest, and still have our ordinary daily costs of living and everything that goes with it, but we have no extraordinary income to pay the calls for taxes that must be met to pay interest and sinking fund and redemption, and which must come. It is the end of the joy ride. Now we dig.

Statesville Man Drowns

Salisbury, April 11—Driving his automobile off the Fourth creek bridge in Western Rowan county, Fred B. Phifer, 55, of Statesville, was drowned today when he was pinned beneath the car.

Sheriff Ray Lyerly and Coroner C. E. Brown, who investigated the incident, declared it was a case of suicide. Phifer was released from the State Hospital at Morganton about a week ago after having undergone treatment for about three months.

According to a boy working in a field nearby, Phifer drove his car on to the bridge, stopped it and got out, peering into the water.

The boy told officers that the man got back into his automobile and drove it off the side of the bridge into the water. The machine was submerged, only the wheels being visible above the water. An alarm was given and the body was recovered about a half hour later.

Phifer is survived by a wife and one child.

We often wonder what some people had to talk about before the prohibition laws were passed.

A Bad Practice.

"If you were to visit a sick friend, even though he was very ill, you would not tell him how badly he looked, and that you thought he was a very sick man," says the Roxboro Courier. "Of course not make him feel better, or help his condition. Well, that is any number of our best business men, from the banker down to the street loafer, are doing every day in this good town. They are all talking hard times, and most of the merchants will tell their customers how hard times are and how gloomy every thing looks. Well, we hear it so much that it is almost impossible not to catch step and go along with the majority. But we are not going to do it for candancy, times are no harder in this neck of the woods than they have been before. Of course; as stated, times are hard with some, and will always be, but the average man is living better today than he ever lived before, and this takes in the farming class as well as the laboring class who are working for a wage.

"It is expected that the loafer and the man who has no job and does not want one, is going to talk hard times, but the merchant, the banker and all other business men know that times are largely a state of mind, and if we continually talk hard times, the first thing you know we will have hard times sure enough, for it will scare every body and what money they have will be carried home and put in an old stocking and put away, consequently withdrawn from circulation and thereby help make hard times.

Now Mr. Banker and Mr. Merchant, stop talking hard times, for you know you have the goods and when any one comes in who is worthy of credit he is going to get it, provided of course, the money is worthy of credit he is going to get it, provided of course, the money is wanted for some worthwhile business. You might draw the line and say you would not make any loan for the purchase of something that would not add to the earning power, or for goods which you knew the applicant did not need any man who is worthy of credit can get it, and get all he needs right in this good town whether it is cash or merchandise. We have seen times when money was much tighter than it is today, but we have never seen the time when we really needed a loan that the banks could not in some way arrange for us to get it and we no exception.

"Don't do anything to make hard times, but let's do everything possible to make these times better."—Ex.

Back To Nature.

'Tis Springtime and man yearns for the woods and the waterbrooks, for the fish hooks and the worms, for the pleasures of a communion with nature. Nature and human nature are so interlinked the seasons overpower us with their grandeur and majesty. Who is not inspired by a jaunt through the grand mountains of North Carolina or by a swim in the mighty ocean so near us? Here we forget our puny troubles and worries—for a time. It is no wonder that President Hoover did away with his elaborate ship and hastens away to the humble streams back in the country. Men fight for fame and fortune and when they win these they return to the joys of their childhood, fishing beside the rivers and hunting in forest It is back to primeaval nature after success has been won in life.—Concord Observer.

It is remarked that some people's only assets are their debts, but anyway these debts prove their ability to borrow money.

Josiah W. Bailey, Champion of Religious Tolerance.

In the campaign of 1928 Josiah W. Bailey, in his extreme zeal for Al Smith, preached mightily for religious tolerance and denounced the preachers and other leaders of the protestant churches for their activity against Smith. These religious leaders were, as everyone knows, opposing Smith because of his well known opposition to prohibition and his pro-liquor views and Tammany affiliations, but Josiah W. Bailey accused these preachers and moral leaders of re religious prejudice and pictured and denouncing them as opposing Smith because he was a Roman Catholic. Bailey, in his blind devotion to Governor Smith, both in the preconvention and in the Fall campaign of 1928, tried to make himself appear as the very archangel of religious tolerance, reliberty, and breadth and liberality of thought in religious matters.

The Greensboro Daily News, in its issue of November 3, 1928, in reporting Mr. Bailey's speech delivered in Greensboro the night before said; "Mr. Bailey denounced those who opposed to Governor Smith because he is a Catholic, and appealed for a decisive answer to such a campaign next Tuesday."

In view of these facts, it will be interesting to read an editorial from the Biblical Recorder, Mr. Josiah W. Bailey, editor at that time which editorial was reprinted in the News and Observer of Raleigh on October 21st, 1896, under the heading "Political Points" quoting editorials from various North Carolina papers. The editorial from the Biblical Recorder, Mr. Josiah W. Bailey editor, was as follows:

Robt. M. Douglas, Candidate, Roman Catholic

"It is asking too much of a people to call upon them to vote for a Roman Catholic; It is asking too much of a people whose fathers were burned at the stake by Roman Catholics; It is asking too much to asked the people to vote for a man whose first allegiance is to the Pope of Rome—an Italian an aspirant to all the power on earth, a schemer after the United States; pretended to the throne of God Himself—and yet there is a candidate before the peoplen for Assnciate Justice of our Supreme Court, a pronounced Roman Catholic, Robert M. Douglas, of Greensboro. Let it be called narrow, bigoted, but if the people are true to themselves and to their country, they will hold Rome off at every point."

And they say Mr. Bailey is running on his record.—Which record? What he said in 1896 or what he said in 1928?—Wm. R. Dalton, Reidsville, N. C.

The Hugh Chatham Memorial Hospital

At the meeting of the Western North Carolina Annual Conference in Charlotte, in 1928, a committee consisting of Rev. Dr. H. K. Boyer Dr. T. A. Hathcock, and W. H. Webster, was appointed to investigate the neediest places for the establishment of Hospitals in the territory occupied by our Conference. This commission brought back their report to the Annual Conference in session at High Point in 1929, recommending the establishment of a Conference Hospital in the town of Elkin.

The Hospital was made possible by a gift of fifteen acres of virgin timber land in the town of Elkin, from the Chatham Manufacturing Company; by further gifts of $20,000.00 from the citizens of the town of Elkin; and $20,000.00 from the family of Mr. Hugh Catham, deceased, and $40,000.00 from the Duke Endowment.

The Hospital is situated on a plateau one mile from and overlooking the Yadkin River and Valley. It is fourteen miles from the Blue Ridge Mountains on the north and overlooks the foothills of the Brushy Mountains on the east.

It is within one thousand feet of the U. S. Highway No 21, and North Carolina Highway No. 26, from the Great Lakes to Florida. The nearest hospital of any king is thirty-six miles, so that this Hospital not only serves the Church, being in the exact center of the Mt. Airy District, but also serves a local need.

We expect this Hospital to be open and ready for patients by the time the Annual Conference meets in Greensboro, North Carolina, in 1930

The Christian Church from its beginning included in its heavenly work care for the poor and the sick. Hospitals owe their origin to Christianity.

The M. E. Church, South has 15 hospitals in foreign lands and 11 in our own country.

At the end of 1930, God willing there will be one in Durham and one in Elkin.

The Goldren Cross

During the coming year these Methodist Hospitals will treat thirty thousand patients, most of whom will get well. They will spend halt a million dollars in free service to the victims of misfortune on whose doorstep sickness and want have met together. These healing mercies will lighten the faces of ten thousand sick ones, succoured by the Good Samaritan of Methodism.

The Golden Cross Society is the golden hearted ministry of healing, bearing your kindness to sick babies, to ill and anxious mothers and to distressed wage-earners, thrown by sickness out of job and wage. It literally means life itself to many. The gift of a child is carried as sweetly and as swiftly as the gift of a millionaire. The Golden Cross is the Heart Throb of Methodism.

There are five hundred thousand people in Southern Methodism ready to enroll in the Golden Cross if they understand Such an enrollment would send Good Samaritan mercies along all the highways of need.

The Golden Cross Button is the Badge of Kingdom Aristocracy It will identify you. Enroll in the Golden Cross

Competition is the life of business but it makes the other fellow hustle as well as his competitor.

Time flies—only two months until the blackberry pie season will be upon us, and watermelons and cantaloupes to follow in short order.

There is still some hope for the country. We notice that the sale of new automobiles has dropped off this year to about half the number that were sold up to the same date last year.

Wanted — An honest man to make the race for the Legislature from Davie county. If you know such a man, advise us that we may get busy and get his name before the voters.

Last week was Republican convention week in this section. The politicians and office seekers were kept busy moving from one convention to another. Of course Mr. Jones paid the freight.

Why should the Republicans in North Carolina worry about whether Simmons or Bailey gets the nomination for U. S. Senator? It is up to the Republicans to do every thing in their power to defeat who ever the democrats nominate.

If the dancing and card parties are wrong during the Lenten season, seems to us that they would be wrong at any other time. All depends how you look at it. Most preachers claim it is wrong to dance or play cards at any time.

The Good democrats in Charlotte treated the Republicans mighty nice last week while they were holding their convention in the Queen City. Of course we don't expect them to vote for our candidates, but if they do, we would be very much obliged.

Some of the newspapers are yelling loudly that the prohibition poll being taken by the Literary Digest is padded—that the wets were supplied with more tickets than the drys, and that many people have voted two or three times. We don't know about this, but we do know that thousands of wet and dry folks in this section didn't even receive ballots. Most of the northern states are voting as they pray—very wet, while many of the southern towns and cities are voting dry with the exception of a few cities in Louisiana and a considerable portion of Florida. The Digest vote will not give the whisky boys in North Carolina anything to drink stronger than branch water, no matter how big a wet majority they poll. North Carolina has a prohibition law that lays the Volstead law away back in the shade, and this law was passed by a majority of nearly eighty thousand if our memory serves us right.

Cooleemee Man is Seriously Injured.

Cooleemee, April 21—F. R. Garwood, prominent insurance salesman of this town, was critically injured and his wife, Miss Charlie Belle Young and Miss Ethel Young were slightly injured when the Chrysler coupe in which they were riding overturned on the Florence-Charleston, S. C., highway about 2 o'clock Sunday morning.

Mr. Garwood was unconscious when taken to a Kingstree hospital, but this afternoon was said to have revived. His injures were not definitely determined, but his lungs were thought to be seriously smashed, a large piece of flesh was taken from a leg and he suffered head injures. The three women in the car were only slightly hurt and returned to Cooleemee.

The party was enroute to the Magnolia Gardens in Charleston, S. C., when the mishap occured.

New Democratic Chairman.

The Record has been informed that Attorney R. S. McNeill has resigned as chairman of the Davie county democratic executive committee, and that H. A. Sanford has been elected county chairman to succeed Mr. McNeill. If we are not mistaken Mr. Sanford was chairman of the Davie county citizens' executive committee two years ago. Mr. McNeill is manager of Josiah Bailey's campaign in Davie this year, while Jacob Stewart, Esq., is looking after the interests of Senator Simmons in this county.

Jones Is Nominated.

Solicitor John R. Jones, of Wilkesboro, was again nominated for this important office at the Republican Judicial Convention which was held at Wilkesboro last Tuesday. Mr. Jones has made fine record during the four years that he has filled this office. He will be elected in November by an overwhelming majority.

Presbyterians At Mocksville.

The Winston-Salem Presbytery consisting of Ashe, Davie, Alleghany, Forsyth, Surry, Stokes, Wilkes and Davidson counties held one of the greatest meetings in its history Tuesday and Wednesday. The services were held in the First Presbyterian Church of Mocksville, with the Mocksville and Cooleemee Auxiliaries serving as joint hosts to the assembly.

Mrs. E P. Gray of Winston Salem, the presbyterial president, was in the chair and presided over the general sessions.

The addresses of welcome were delivered by Mrs. C. G. Woodruff of Mocksville and Mrs. Irwin P. Graham of Cooleemee. The response was rendered by Mrs. C. C. Hale of Mt Airy.

Twenty-one auxiliaries were represented with a record attendance, and all present appeared to regard the assembly as a wonderful meeting.

Pageant, "A visit and a Vision," by Cooleemee Auxiliary.

Duncan State Chairman.

James S. Duncan, Greensboro lawyer, was elected chairman of the republican state executive committee in the closing minutes Thursday of the 1930 convention at the Charlotte Armory-Auditorium, described by party leaders as the greatest convention ever held by North Carolina republicans.

Elections of Mr. Duncan, who in the last General Assembly represented his senatorial district at Raleigh, came on the first ballot after he had received almost 200 votes more than the required majority

Jake F. Newell, Charlotte lawyer long prominent in the party in this state, came second and outdistanced O. R. York, of High Point, favorite of many of the G. O. P. higher ups.

Postmaster Sheek has received his re appointed as postmaster for another four years, his second term having expired this month. Mr. Sheek has made an excellent postmaster and his hundreds of friends throughout the county will be glad to learn that he is to continue handling the U. S. Mails in our town.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Call and son, of Wilson, spent the Easter holidays here with Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Call and Miss Martha Call.

WSJS On The Air.

Radio Staton WSJS, the Winston-Salem Journal-Sentinel went on on the air Thursday evening at 7:15 o'clock with their dedicatory program which lasted until 11 o'clock, p. m. The program consisted of an announcement by George Cross, prayer by Bishop Rondthaller, an address by Editor Martin, of the Journal, a short talk by Mayor Cohen and a varied musicial program. The Mocksville String Quartette and Mrs. A. W. Andrews of this city, were on the program. The reception was very good in Mocksville. This station broadcasts on a frequency of 1310 kilocyles. An interesting talk was make Thursday by Manager O'Neil of the WSJS station, explaining the workings and construction of this new broadcasting station. Hundreds of Davie folks enjoyed the initial program Thursday evening.

A big delegation of Davie Republicans attended the Republican State Convention at Charlotte Thursday. So far as we could learn they all behaved themselves—remained sober and in their right minds.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and cause a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or even increasing the dose.

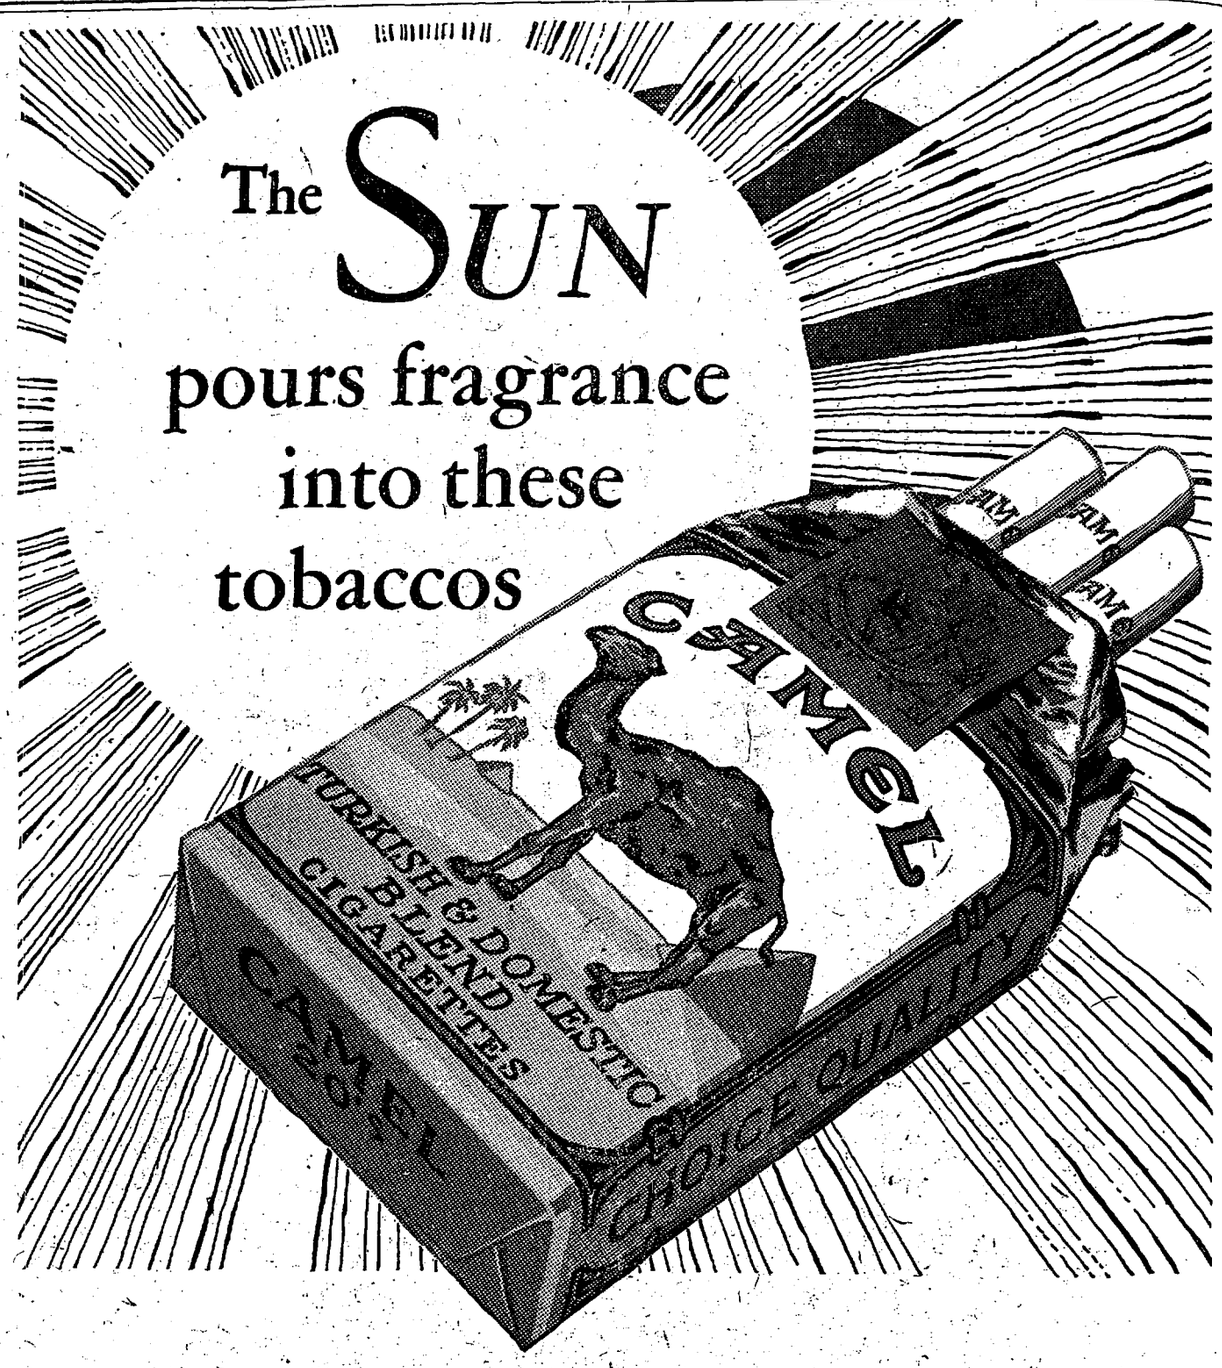
"CURB SERVICE"



LONG BEFORE the choice leaves of golden Turkish and velvety brown Domestic tobacco are selected for Camel Cigarettes, nature's own alchemy has worked a miracle in them that no effort of man can hope to duplicate.

Every tiny leaf-cell is irradiated—stored full of goodness by the clean, pure vigor of the sun!

Our share in the making of Camels is to see that all of the fragrance, mildness, mellowness, aroma—in a word all of the natural goodness of these sun-ripened tobaccos is preserved and developed—then to combine them into the smooth, delightful harmony of the famous Camel blend, and manufacture them into cigarettes by the most modern methods known to the industry.

100,000 OF GERMAN SOLDIERS MISSING

Many of Them Buried in Nameless Graves.

Berlin.—Eleven years after the war 100,000 German soldiers are still missing.

Most of them are believed to lie in mass graves in foreign soil, dumped there by the enemy and no record kept of their identity. But a healthy percentage, 10,000 perhaps, are believed to be alive and to have remained "somewhere in Siberia," disinclined upon liberation to go back home to a shrewish wife or to face financial or other difficulties, says the Chicago Tribune.

Of these 10,000, many undoubtedly live in bigamous bliss, married to a Russian girl who may or may not have been informed about the frau back home in Germany.

43,251 Were Prisoners.

Of the hundred thousand missing, 43,251 were last heard of as prisoners of the French. What hapened to them beyond that is not known. By far the greater part probably died in French army hospitals or on their way there, in the opinion of the German Reich association of former war prisoners, which has just issued a report on the situation. They were likely buried in mass graves and no adequate effort made to keep any record of their identity.

A greater number, 51,213, were last heard of as prisoners of the Russians. Most of these are assumed to have died in the epidemics that swept the badly managed Siberian prison camps from time to time. The number of dead probably made it difficult for the not too efficient Russian hospital and burial services to keep tabs on indentification.

To this day the association is kept busy disposing of rumors as to what happened to Germany's hundred thousand missing. Sometimes the rumors are investigated. Sometimes they are absurd on their face and without investigation receive immediate and emphatic denial. Of the latter variety is the rumor which persists in springing up now and then in Germany that the French and Russians maintain secret prison camps where German soldiers are still being confined.

Canard Branded.

Another rumor goes to the effect that France forced thousands of German prisoners to join her foreign legion in North Africa. The German Former Prisoners' association brands that one as a canard manufactured for the purpose of maintaining hatred between Germany and France.

The story was probably suggested by the fact that about 60 German prisoners at the end of the war chose to join the foreign legion rather than be repatriated to the fatherland. It is also true that many of these had pasts that were not unclouded and preferred not to go back home.

Other German missing are scattered about the world, buried in the soil of the far flung battlefields where they fought and fell. The former German colonies in China, Africa, the Balkans, Italy, Turkey, and the seven seas—the latter holding the hundreds of Germans who went to sea in U-boats and who never came back—all these figure in the list.

Finally, there are those Germans confined in Siberian prison camps who when set free chose to stay. One Berlin daily, the Zwoelf Uhr Blatt, estimates the number at a good 10,000 and remarks that 10,000 German mothers or wives still have a chance to see their long lost soldier men alive.

West Virginia's "Gretna Green" Sets New Record

Wellsburg, W. Va.—This "Gretna Green" for elopers of the tri-state district achieved a new record in 1929, 3,360 couples having secured their licenses from the bureau here. Even the record cold day of the year—the Saturday following Thanksgiving day—when the frigid blasts seemed unbearable, 17 young, hopeful couples made their appearance and secured the necessary permits to wed.

Chinese Have Hundreds of Monetary Systems

Shanghai.—There are hundreds of different monetary systems in China. Almost every small settlement and city has its own system and when a person from one village wants to buy something in another he must make a number of complicated calculations before he knows what he must pay.

Woman's Back Talk Costs 60 Days More

Washington.—Back talk to the judge, telling him where to go, cost Miss Dorothy M. Davis, twenty-four, a sentence of sixty days in jail on top of thirty already decreed her by Police Judge Hitt here.

Judge Hitt did not hear the remark, but his attention was called to it and he thereupon notified a brother magistrate who held over the young woman suspended sentences in two dry cases.

WIDOW OF BANDIT NOW REVIVALIST

Husband Electrocuted, She Turns to Evangelism.

Philadelphia.—Mrs. Gertrude Doris, widow of Frankie Doris, noted Olney bank bandit who was electrocuted in the state prison at Rockview with three companions for the murder of Policeman Harry M. Cooper in 1926, has become a revivalist. She is attached to the Salvation Army citadel, Eighth and Vine streets, where she is devoting her life to alleviating the sorrows of others.

Commandant Stainthorpe said that Mrs. Doris had been regularly enrolled as a "Soldier of the Lord," and was assigned to the district centering around Eighth and Vine streets. Her probationary period over, she has assumed the Salvationists' uniform.

Recently she appealed to those who entered the citadel to forego the ways of sin. Standing on the platform the young woman avows "the racket" can never pay.

"Crime doesn't pay. There's nothing in the racket, in any racket. It's a losing game," she exhorted her hearers. "Some who lose go to the chair, the others, in the long run, go to jail. And the women, their fate is even worse; you have seen them pass on their way to the Philadelphia General hospital; then oblivion."

The widow of the bank bandit, who has admitted she was once a racketeer, left the old ways on the night after her husband, with Francis Bentley, William Juliano and William Curry, attempted to rob the Olney Bank and Trust company, and were captured after Policeman Cooper had been shot down.

She obtained work in a department store and early last fall began to attend the Salvation army meetings. A few months ago she had a long talk with Commandant Stainthorpe and began her period of probation for service with the Salvationists.

New Cuban Highway to Open New Tourist Route

Havana.—La Carretera Central, or Central highway, now under construction throughout the island, is rapidly nearing completion and it is expected that by early spring most of the provinces will be linked together by this great paved highway.

While it was first estimated that the highway would cost $74,000,000, the total cost when completed will be $95,000,000. Approximately $30,000,000 of the $80,000,000 recently negotiated by the Cuban government through the Chase National bank in the form of 5½ per cent bonds will be used to complete payment for construction of the highway.

Under the present schedule of construction 8,254 people are employed by the Warren Brothers company of Boston and the Compania Cubana de Constratistas in actual construction work. Havana province is complete, with Pinar del Rio 78.30 per cent completed and Matanzas 70.20 per cent completed.

The increased number of American automobile tourists noted in the Havana province this year is largely attributed to the Central highway, which when completed, will attract even more visitors who heretofore have barely left the city limits of Havana and know very little of the rest of this fertile island.

Prefers Cell, After 27 Years, to Paris Freedom

Paris.—"I am a meditative sort of person, judge. Please give me the maximum prison sentence."

So, after 27 years in prison, Nicolas Billois was returned to prison for 10 years more. Nicolas, a stocky, clean-shaved, gray-haired, mild-mannered Frenchman, prefers prison life to modern French civilization.

Billois originally was sentenced to 27 years in prison. He protested bitterly when his long term was shortened because of his exemplary conduct and that he was once again a free man.

He left the prison and a few days later was arrested for setting fire to an airplane hangar. Billois confessed he set fire to the hangar because he wished to return to prison.

"I am a philosophical meditator," he said, "and I enjoy thinking a great deal in my prison cell. I set fire to that hangar because I got tired of going about in this so-called civilized world. Please give me the maximum sentence for my crime."

He got it.

Old Edict Brings Fine

Dijon, France.—An edict of 1777 raised its dusty head to bring to justice a man who unluckily threw a dead rabbit into the river at Dijon. The edict was promulgated in 1777 by the stately council of Louis XVI, which got hot with rage because dead rabbits were occasionally thrown into French rivers. When a man at Dijon was caught throwing a rabbit into the river he was arrested and heavily fined on the strength of this edict.

Novel Peace Plan

Philadelphia.—A modern "Garden of Eden" comprising 1,000 acres to serve as a symbol of peace and good will among men and as a monument to the century of peace between the United States and Canada, may be built in the Great Lakes region, if plans promulgated by the Philadelphia branch of the National Association of Gardeners materialize.

TELLS HOW 'SHOW ME' STATE GOT ITS NAME

Lack of Dress Suit Led to Catch Phrase.

Columbia, Mo.—Those who use the "show me" quotation probably never paused to wonder how that catch phrase, which has made the state of Missouri famous and which has been repeated countless times in many lands, originated. So popular has the phrase become that it is now used as a state slogan, a title for the newest humor publication at the Missouri university, and is carried in the banner of the state National Guard.

Col. Willard D. Vandiver, a Virginian by birth, but a Missourian at heart, is accredited for this bit of often used original humor. Thirty-one years ago Colonel Vandiver was a member of a naval committee inspecting the naval yard at Philadelphia. After the inspection, the naval committee was invited to stay for a banquet given that evening by the Five o'Clock club of the city.

Had No Dress Suit.

"I had no idea of attending a banquet," said Colonel Vandiver, "so I forgot to bring along my dress suit, and so did Governor Hull of Iowa, who was a member of the military committee. We were the only ones who did not have dress suits, so we planned to go to the banquet without them.

"But when I arrived later I found Hull had rented one, and that I was the only one who was not prepared for the occasion. During the toasts, Governor Hull was called upon and he eulogized Philadelphia, even declaring that the tailors there had made him a dress suit on only 15 minutes notice.

"I was called on next, and didn't know whether to crawl on top of the table or under it. I finally decided to make my speech the meanest one possible."

It Didn't Fit Him.

Colonel Vandiver abused the city roundly and then turned on Hull to repay him for the embarrassment he had caused him, ending his speech with these words: "His talk about your hospitality is all bunk; he wants another feed. He tells you that the tailors, finding that he was without a dress suit, made him one on 15 minutes notice. You heard him say that he came here without one, and you see him now with one that doesn't fit him. That is the reason you see him with one and me without one. I came from a state that raises corn, cockleburs, and Democrats; I am from Missouri. You've got to show me!"

Colonel Vandiver did not know at that time he had nicknamed a state and had spoken what was to be a world famous slogan.

America Leads in Child Study, Expert Claims

Denver.—America is more than 20 years ahead of Europe in its application of child psychology, according to Justin Brierly of Columbia university, expert on child psychology. Brierly visited his home here recently after making a study of conditions in orphanages, day nurseries, and institutions for dependent children in foreign countries.

Brierly's report, which will be submitted to Columbia university, the League of Nations, and the child labor bureau of America, included studies made in various institutions in England, Germany, France, Sweden, Italy, Ireland, Scotland, and Wales.

While mental or psychology tests are applied to the subnormal child in many institutions in Europe, Brierly said that no mental or emotional tests were given to normal children.

"Such tests are common in our public schools," he said. "We have long considered the emotional and the mental test absolutely necessary for the welfare of the normal child. In Europe the opinion is just the opposite."

He said he found only two psychological clinics in London and that they were on a trial basis, compared with hundreds in America.

Lack of finances was his explanation of this slow progress.

Virtually all the countries of Europe have established juvenile courts, patterned after the one Judge Ben Lindsey first established in Denver, Brierly said.

Expectant Dads Find Champion in This Man

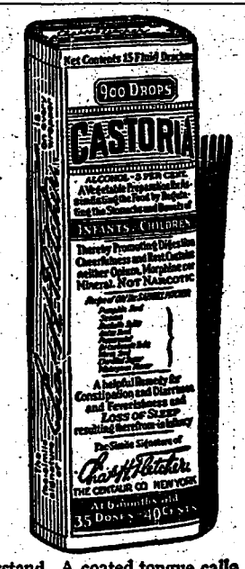
St. Louis.—A whimsical volume which makes a plea for "expectant fathers" is being published here.

New and revolutionary plans for the father's comfort during the period when the stork is expected are dealt with in "Expectant Fathers—Their Care and Treatment," by Douglas Vass Martin, Jr., St. Louis author.

Correct diets and exercises are prescribed and an outline for a new type of hospital—the paternity hospital—where fathers may have recreation and entertainment while waiting for the announcement, is suggested by the author.

The volume is dedicated to fathers the world over, "those patient, suffering heroes, scorned by doctors, humiliated by head nurses, but destined to pay the bills for the babies."

Restless Children



Children will fret, often for no apparent reason. But there's always one sure way to comfort a restless, fretful child. Castoria! Harmless as the recipe on the wrapper; mild and bland as it tastes. But its gentle action soothes a youngster more surely than some powerful medicine that is meant for the stronger systems of adults.

That's the beauty of this special children's remedy! It may be given the tiniest infant—as often as there is any need. In cases of colic, diarrhea, or similar disturbance, it is invaluable. But it has everyday uses all mothers should understand. A coated tongue calls for a few drops to ward off constipation; so does any suggestion of bad breath. Whenever children don't eat well, don't rest well, or have any little upset—this pure vegetable preparation is usually all that's needed to set everything to rights. Genuine Castoria has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper. Doctors prescribe it.

Says Men Want Pals, Not Patients!

SHE was engaged! She was the happiest girl in the world. A round of teas and parties, a whirl of pleasure, and she began to wonder what was the matter. Too tired to go out—and he—was he becoming tired of her?

It was at this point that Miss Margaret Belden of Los Angeles woke up to the fact that something had to be done about it. "Men want pals, not patients" she writes. "I went right to my doctor. Do you know what he said? Rest—and Nujol!

"With a prayer in my heart and Nujol in my medicine cabinet I began to fight back to being the healthy, robust, happy girl I had been before. Two months passed. No more tears—no more worrying, no more bad dreams. Today I beat him on the tennis court, and although he can out-swim me, I make him work doing it. It's good to be happy. It's good to be free, physically, and be able to share, any time, in sports or dancing or anything else with the one you love!"

Here's another one who has learned that the simplest and surest way to be well and full of good spirits is to clear the bodily poisons out of your system regularly. Not with powerful drugs, but normally, naturally, easily. Doctors and nurses recommend such a natural treatment as Nujol, because this crystal-clear liquid isn't a medicine at all! It cannot harm even a little baby! It contains absolutely no drugs. It is simply internal lubrication that your body needs like any other machine.

Good looks and good spirits—do they spell popularity? You know they do! Get a bottle of Nujol tonight in any drug store. Sold in sealed packages only—trademarked "Nujol." Insist on Nujol by name. It costs but a few cents—and it will make you feel like a million dollars.

Doctor's PRESCRIPTION when system is sluggish; costs nothing to try

When your bowels need help, the mildest thing that will do the work is always the sensible choice. Take a laxative that a family doctor has used for all sorts of cases of constipation. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is so pleasant to the taste, so gentle in its action, it is given children of tender age and yet it is just as thorough and effective as stronger preparations. Pure senna, and harmless laxative herbs; ingredients that soon start a gentle muscular action. Avoid a coated tongue, bad breath, bilious headaches, etc. Every drug store has Dr. Caldwell's famous prescription in big bottles. Or just write Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, Monticello, Ill., for a free trial bottle.

"This is certainly rubbing it into the house detective," Pelham grinned. "What next, Junior? Do I salute you hereafter?"

"We begin our investigation at daybreak," Junior continued. "If any people are there, we shall have a better chance to surprise and overpower them."

"Does Dina know?" Pelham asked.

"No. This is one of the few times we had a secret from her. She would worry. You know, old man, there may be danger. You're a deputy. It will be up to you to arrest them. That's why we are taking you along. Junior wanted to do the stunt alone. Observe his sullen face. He thinks we are going to steal his stuff."

"That cheers me;" Pelham said. "I'm ready." He put a large hunting-knife in his pocket, and some cord. "No trained house detective ever ventures on a man-hunting expedition without a small ax. Junior, forget the difference in our rank, and call me one."

When the boy had gone, he turned to Hanby.

"Gl, old top," he laughed, "I've been d—d gloomy the last few days, but I honestly believe you've hit on something good!"

"I don't know thout good," said the other slowly. "If the sanctuary holds the key to the mystery, I don't imagine we shall see poor Burton alive again. You see, he blundered right into the thick of things. If I'm right he ran into the bunch that killed Red Kerr. I think that note was a forgery."

The long, creeper-clad front of the Gray house faced the south.

The distance from the extreme boundary of the building and the wire that inclosed the thicket was not more than fifty feet.

When dawn came slowly down the skies, it found Hanby cutting methodically at the wire fence. When the others had passed in, he twisted the cut ends together, so that no passerby would notice that an entrance had been made.

Permitting impetuous youth to bear the brunt of the opposition offered by the undergrowth, the expedition pushed its way forward. Ahead of them they heard the brook, and were eager to come to it.

The three soon stood in an area lighted from above by the early light filtering through a screen of leaves. There was a chlorotic, eerie quality about this illumination. The stream flowed to them out of the darkness, and a few yards below it disappeared into a black channel.

"Can we work upstream?" Hanby asked.

Junior made an examination.

"It seems impassable. This place has been cleared out for some special reason—probably because the brook makes that sharp turn, and they had to smooth it out."

"Exactly, Sherlock," his father gibed. "Even I see that; but why?"

Junior, in answer, clutched the father's arm. He pointed upstream to the tunnel from which the water poured in unvarying volume.

"What's that?" he demanded.

Peering into the shadows, the others could see that the stream carried a burden—a large dark mass that came steadily toward them. Sometimes it was completely immersed, and then it seemed to lift itself from the water, as if it were a huge animal swimming.

"G—d!" cried Hanby. "It's a man's body." The thing was now almost at his feet. He nerved himself to stoop down for a closer inspection. "It may be poor old Tom Burton!"

Shuddering a little, he turned the corpse over so that its face could be seen. The sightless eyes of Adolf Smucker stared up at him.

Death had not been kind to that mean and evil face. Smucker had come to his end in agony and fear, and those emotions were graven on the face at which the three stared. His neck, in life thin and bony, was now black and swollen. On his narrow forehead was a purple bruise, stretching to the roots of the sparse hair.

"Thank God it wasn't Tom!" Pelham whispered.

"Perhaps, if we wait long enough, he'll come by," Hanby said gloomily.

He was depressed to think that he had allowed Junior to come with him. There was no doubt now that danger lay ahead of them. He knew he could not expect his son calmly to leave his father and his friend to face it alone; and if anything should happen whereby not all of them returned, what would Dina do?

Why had they murdered Smucker? And what was Smucker doing here?

"Well," he said aloud, answering his own question, "speculation is silly and time-wasting. We've got to follow the stream. We can't do it down here, but the channel is easily seen from the outside."

The three made their silent way along the narrow path, each with the conviction that at the end of it something of a vaguely dangerous character would be found.

Pelham cautioned his companions to proceed more carefully.

"D—n it," he said crossly, "why walk upright? For all you know, some one's looking along rifle sights at you this very moment. Crouch, man, crouch!"

"It's too early for anyone to be about yet," Hanby said. "At that, I think your advice is good."

Suddenly he stopped and picked up a fountain pen. On a silver band around it were the initials "T. B."

"It's Tom's!" he whispered. "That letter was a forgery, after all. He's somewhere here. God save him from Smucker's fate!"

Hanby put the pen in his pocket and pushed on.

"Appleton lied," he said a minute later. "Look—the lake wasn't filled in, after all!"

The path led them suddenly, with a right-angled turn and a quick descent, to the stream level again. It ran through a hollow a hundred yards in length. The place was a natural amphitheater. Coarse-meshed wire had been stretched from side to side, and was so densely overgrown that the hollow, as observed from the roof of the Gray house, seemed but a natural part of the five acres that had been a lake.

"Who did it?" Junior whispered.

"Why was it done?" Pelham answered.

"We've got to cross this, if we're to find out," Hanby said.

He led the way, keeping to the edge of the leafy wall of this natural tent. He stopped them with a gesture. The odor that floated toward them was unmistakable.

"Coffee!" they whispered in unison.

Hanby went on even more warily than before. When he stopped the two behind saw the reason. He was looking down a narrow tunnel piercing the solid earth, shored up with timbers, as mine passages are protected from the caving in of rocks or earth. It was from this passage that the coffee odor came. No light was to be seen at its end.

With a Roar of Anger, He Sprang at the Crouching Lad and Had Him by the Throat.

Hanby measured fifty paces before he stopped. Apparently he had run into solid ground. Then he saw that the passage bent sharply to the left; and when he turned his eyes, he could see light coming from a doorway. It was not daylight, but came from some artificial source.

The doorway amazed them. It was cut in a solid stone wall—masonry of the same sort as that of the Gray house.

"Dad!" Junior whispered excitedly. "This is our house—I'm certain!"

The three intruders passed through the entrance. It seemed odd that it had no door. The light which enabled them to dispense with the flashlight came from a low-powered electric bulb in the masonry ceiling of a large chamber. The insufficient illumination showed the room to be almost ten feet in height, and filled with piles of lumber.

New for the first time they heard voices. They drew back into an unlighted chamber, of whose dimensions they could not judge. Here they waited, having for the moment no set plan of action. Junior's guess seemed to be a correct one. For some reason which might soon be discovered, the owner of the Gray house was allowed to use only one-third of his cellar space. Unknowns occupied the rest, and had piled lumber in it. More than that—unknowns made their homes here and breakfasted here.

When the distant voices ceased, Hanby turned on the flashlight and looked about him. They had strayed into a storeroom. On shelves were potatoes, onions, carrots, pears, and apples. The floor was of concrete, and an electric light bulb was the source of illumination.

"I bet I'm paying for their juice!" Hanby whispered.

He stopped suddenly. At last he heard footsteps. The three took what cover they could in the corners.

Luigi entered, and switched on the light. It was Junior whom he first saw. With a roar of anger, he sprang at the crouching lad and had him by the throat.

Hanby remembered those dreadful bruises on Smucker's neck. He raised the heavy cane and brought it down on the strangler's head with all his strength.

"Thanks, dad!" said Junior, making an effort at superb calm.

Bill Pelham, with a yachtsman's skill, trussed up Luigi with knots that the ruffian could not break when he came to. The whole thing had occupied only a few seconds, and had made little sound. Luigi's cry of rage, apparently, had brought no one to investigate its cause. They left him to lie in a corner, covered with sacking. The odds were growing more favorable.

Hanby was amazed to see Bill Pelham stop before another narrow door and slip a key into the lock. He had not noticed that his friend had taken a bundle of keys from the man he was binding.

Pelham worked quietly. The oiled lock made no sound. Darkness was on either side of the door. As it swung open, the three, listening intently, heard a sound as of a man sighing.

"Celia! Celia!" sighed the unseen.

Leslie Baron blinked at them in amazement. For weeks—or so it seemed—he had looked only into the cruel face of a jailer; and now he saw Celia's father, Celia's brother, and Bill Pelham. His face was bloodstained, and there was a deep cut over one eye, but he sprang to his feet readily enough. They could see that he was practically unhurt.

* * * * * * * * *

While the bird sanctuary was being violated, Mr. Appleton drank his early coffee and took his cereal and fruit in his customary unhurried way; but ill humor sat on his florid face, and the eyes peering through his thick lenses no longer looked childlike and bland.

Three people were in the room with him—the woman who had a dozen years ago supplanted his wife, Jim Delaney, and Luigi Bartoli. Jim had been a bully all his life, a man who had innumerable times proved the fatuity of the axiom that every bully is a coward. By his side stood the big Sicilian, gesticulating wildly, and voluble beyond words.

"You murdered a man unnecessarily," said Appleton coldly.

Stripped of the exuberant verbiage interspersed with parenthetical remarks in his native tongue, Luigi's story was this:

He had gone into the little room that was Smucker's cell, there to sleep off some strong wine, and to escape from the observant eye of John Delaney. While slumbering, he had suddenly awakened to find that Smucker had stolen his knife and was about to slit his weasand. He had not murdered the man. He had done what he did to save his own life. In moments of vinous rage he did not properly estimate his own strength. He had been horrified to find Smucker lifeless, but Luigi contended that not a jury in the land would convict him of murder.

Working Principle of Explosive Engine Old

The basic idea of the explosive engine was conceived long before the appearance of steam. In 1680 Huygens described an explosion motor which was to be operated by discharging a quantity of powder to drive the air out of a cylinder and raise the piston. To that point, his engine relied on a force somewhat similar to the working principle of those today, but the useful work was to be done by the piston being forced down by the pressure of the atmosphere against it, thus lifting a weight or doing some other task. There is no record that this engine ever was operated. The steam engine of 1705 functioned on about the same plan, that is, steam was used to lift the weight of the piston, and after this was done, the atmospheric pressure was relied upon for the real work. After Huygens, almost 100 years passed before inventors caught the vision of rotary motion from their engines. His idea simply involved a piston and a cylinder.

Lesson for April 27

GIVING UP ALL FOR THE KINGDOM

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 19:16-30.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Giving Jesus First Place.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Giving Jesus First Place.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Shall We Use Our Money?

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Stewardship of Possessions.

The lesson title is likely to be misunderstood and the teaching misapplied. Christ did not directly, nor by implication teach that eternal life could be obtained by parting with possessions.

I. A Certain Young Man (v. 16).

For a full view of the characteristics of this man, see Mark 10:17-30 and Luke 18:18-30.

1. His virtues.

(1) Courageous (Mark 10:7). He was of high standing—a rich young ruler (Luke 18:18, 23). To come to Jesus at this time might mean ostracism, but with manly courage he came. (2) Earnest (Mark 10:17). He knelt before Jesus, thus showing earnestness and sincerity. (3) High aspirations (v. 16). He wanted eternal life. Though taken up with the things of his present life, he felt the need of preparing for a life beyond. (4) Pious and moral (v. 20). From his youth he had conformed to God's moral law. (5) He believed that Christ could inform him of the "good thing" to be done to inherit eternal life.

2. His errors.

(1) About Christ (v. 16). He esteemed Jesus to be good, but did not apprehend Him as God; otherwise he would have known Him not merely as one who did good, but as one who is essentially good; that is, God. (2) Concerning himself. He thought he was good and that he could do something good. (3) Concerning eternal life. He thought that it could be obtained by good works. He did not know that the only way to gain eternal life was to receive it as a gift from God (Rom. 6:23).

II. The Lord's Dealing With Him (vv. 17-22).

Jesus skillfully led the young man to see his errors.

1. His question—"Why callest thou me good?" (v. 17).

Before giving him a chance to answer He declared that only God was good, as if to say, "I am good, and therefore God." He was God manifest in the flesh, and repudiated the thought of being known merely as a good man.

2. Jesus' answer to the young man's question (vv. 17-20).

"If thou wilt enter into life, keep the commandments." Christ met him here on his own ground, namely, that of the law. He took the young man's level that the young man's real worth might be revealed (Rom. 3:19, 20).

3. Christ's command (vv. 21, 22).

Replying to Christ's citation of the commandments of the law, the young man asserted that he had kept them from his youth. Yet in his inner conscience he knew that there was something lacking. When he had to make the supreme decision between Jesus and his possessions, he chose wealth.

III. The Relationship of the Rich to the Kingdom (vv. 23-26).

This teaching concerning the peril of riches was most timely. Covetousness was fast taking hold of the people.

1. It is difficult for the rich to enter into the kingdom (vv. 23, 24). This difficulty lies not in the possession of riches, for a man may possess great riches and be an heir of the kingdom. Money in itself is essentially good. It will help the poor and help bring the gospel to the lost. The difficulty lies in trusting in riches.

2. Entrance into the kingdom, though difficult, is possible (vv. 25, 26).

(1) It is possible for the grace of God to sanctify riches, to open a man's eyes that he may see his downward course and repent, to change a man from self-seeking to self-sacrificing.

IV. Rewards for Following Christ (vv. 27-30).

Those who turn their backs upon their kindred and possessions for the sake of Christ shall receive an hundredfold in this life, and eternal life in the world to come.

Obedience

Obedience is the secret. Not slavish obedience, but sympathetic, loving eager obedience. "His delight is in the law of the Lord." May the law of holiness be to me welcome as the light, sweet as the flowers, more to be desired than much fine gold.—W. L. Watkinson.

In Company With Jesus

Get into sympathy with Jesus. Seek His presence, seek His help. And walking through the world in His company, you will be as balm in the bleakest weather, a benediction in the wildest scene.—James Hamilton.

The Duty of Friendship

The only duty of friendship is that we and our friends should live at our highest and best when together. Having achieved that, we have fulfilled the law.—Randolph Bourne.

Always use best oil—say expert mechanics

When you consider how much you paid for your sewing machine, vacuum cleaner, lawn mower, washer, and other expensive devices, don't you think it's foolish to try to economize on oil? The very best costs only a few cents a year—and is really cheapest in the long run.

3-in-One, a scientific blend of mineral, vegetable and animal oils, is made especially for lubrication of household devices. It cleans and protects as well as lubricates. 3-in-One costs more to make than ordinary oil but it costs less to use. If you knew what expert mechanics know about oil, you'd never use anything else around the house. At good drug, grocery, hardware, department and general stores, in 15c and 30c bottles and cans. For your protection, look for the trade mark "3-in-One" printed in Red on every package.

Way to Get At a Cold Is Through the Bowels

As soon as you catch cold, the pores close; perspiration is checked. Gases and waste can't escape through the skin. That's why your doctor's first advice in case of colds is a mild laxative like cascara. Medical authorities agree it actually strengthens bowel muscles. You get cascara in its most pleasant form in candy Cascarets.

Remember this when you catch cold; whenever breath is bad; tongue coated; or you're headachy, bilious, constipated.

Why resort to harsher things when Cascarets activate the bowels so quickly, so harmlessly and pleasantly—and cost only a dime?

TOOK IT TO BUILD HER UP

Strengthened by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

La Junta, Colo.—"After my little daughter was born, one of my neighbors persuaded me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to build me up. The first bottle made quite a change in me. I got an appetite and can sleep much better, I am not so nervous as I was. I have six children and do all my own work. I can do so much more now than I could when I began taking the Vegetable Compound and I shall certainly recommend your medicine whenever I have an opportunity."—MRS. JOHN OSBORN, R. #2, Box 216, La Junta, Colorado.

Good Advice to Young Girls

Mrs. Corbitt

Waycross, Ga. — "When I was a young girl around 16 or 17 years of age, suffering with functional disturbances and backaches, my mother gave me Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It was not an unpleasant medicine to take and relieved me so much that I have no hesitancy in recommending 'Favorite Prescription' to girls who are suffering as I did when maturing into womanhood. It is what I would give to my own daughter if she had need of such a medicine."—Mrs. Emma Corbitt, 1112 Ann St.

UNUSUAL DISHES

Boil a cauliflower and drain. Add a pinch of salt and nutmeg, a dash of vinegar to a pint of the water in which the cauliflower was cooked. Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter and when it is light brown, add to the sauce. Pour over the cauliflower on a hot platter and serve.

Grilled Sardines.—Grill half a dozen sardines in a hot pan and pour over them melted butter which has been thickened with a little flour, moisten with hot water, add a little vinegar, dash of mustard, salt and pepper. Pour hot over the sardines.

Lentil Salad.—Boil two cupfuls of lentils until tender, season with garlic cut fine or with chives and serve on lettuce leaves with a good seasoned french dressing.

Peaches With Grape Juice.—Stew fresh peaches, remove their skins and cover them with grape juice and allow them to stand for two hours. Drain them, place them in a dish in which they are to be served and cover them with sugar flavored with vanilla. Take the grape juice, add sugar to taste, boil up and pour over the peaches.

Salad Beaucaire.—Chop coarsely, celery and endive, season with oil, vinegar, mustard, and let stand for an hour before serving. Just before going to the table add chopped boiled ham, a sour apple diced, moistened with a little tarragon vinegar and mayonnaise.

Mutton With Vegetables.—Trim mutton cutlets and place side by side in a saucepan. Cover with well seasoned stock and simmer for an hour and a half. Take equal quantities of turnips, onions, celery and twice the amount of carrots. Fry in butter until they begin to color, beginning with the carrots, then the celery, onion and then turnips. When all are done simmer in a little stock. Place the cutlets on a hot platter with a heap of the vagetables in the center. Serve with mashed potatoes.

SEASONABLE DISHES

As we are getting the larger sized oranges this season, one may use them for fruit cups and for gelatin desserts, making a pretty table decoration. Fruit cocktails are attractive served in orange or lemon cups.

Fruit in Orange Cups.—Cut the oranges into half, remove pulp and all the membrane. Chill on ice until ready to fill. Take three oranges, two slices of pineapple, one-fourth cupful of banana and one-fourth cupful of nut meats. Mix and add a bit of lemon sirup, fill cups and serve on a paper doily covered plate. One may add a dozen finely cut marshmallows instead of the sirup, if preferred.

Serve the above with whipped cream as a dessert, or as a salad, using mayonnaise and you have a three-in-one recipe.

Lamb Patties.—Take two pounds of the shoulder of lamb ground, mix with two tablespoonfuls of finely chopped onion, salt and pepper to taste. Mold into small cakes about an inch thick and wrap around with a thin slice of bacon. Fasten with a toothpick, dredge lightly with flour on both sides, then brown on a hot frying pan with a very little suet. Place in the oven to finish baking. Garnish with parsley and serve.

Grapefruit Tapioca Pudding.—Take one-third of a cupful of quick cooking tapioca, add one and one-half cupfuls of boiling water and cook until clear, stirring frequently. Add three-fourths of a cupful of sugar, one cupful of grapefruit juice, mix well and serve with sections of grapefruit and orange in each sherbet cup. Top with sections of both fruits.

Grapefruit Salad.—Dissolve a package of lemon gelatin in one-third of a cupful of boiling water and add one and one-half cupfuls of grapefruit juice, one-half cupful of orange juice, one tablespoonful of lemon juice, three-fourths of a cupful of diced celery, two tablespoonfuls of chopped pickles, one tablespoonful of chopped pimento. Set away to mold. Serve on lettuce with mayonnaise dressing. Add one cupful or more of shredded salmon or tuna fish and you have a fish salad. Use the unsweetened gelatin for the fish salad, three tablespoonfuls—and the other ingredients the same.

Sinbad's Punch.—Take a quart of grapefruit juice—this may be bought now in cans in many markets—two ounces of honey strained, one-half cupful of grenadine sirup, three bottles of ginger ale and just before serving add the whites of two eggs beaten stiff.

THE "GOLD BRICKS"

Through a Woman's Eyes

by Jean Newton

A SAD, SAD STORY

THERE'S a sad story on the wires—one of the saddest ever told. But it has its funny side, and that's why I'm telling it here.

It's about the son of an ex-sultan of Turkey, who actually has to work for a living. And with all the rich women in the world!

Of course it cannot be said that Prince Abdul succumbed to this hard fate without a fight. Oh, no. The fact is that he tried everything else first; that is, every rich wife who would have him.

The favorite son of the former sultan, Prince Abdul Kadir, was once worth $50,000,000. However, when Turkey became a republic he found himself expelled from the country with a little over $1,000 in his pocket. Strangely, it seems that great as was his own peculiar type of Oriental charm, it suffered somewhat from the loss of $50,000,000. For hardly had he become poor when his two young and beautiful wives deserted him.

However, mindful of the power of his compelling persuasiveness with women, Prince Abdul did not lose heart. It was merely another wife that was needed, and one rich enough to blot out that little incident of a throne and $50,000,000.

He did find a rich Hungarian woman, but, inconsiderately, she soon deserted him, without even a money settlement. And the prince tried still once more. And then, after his fourth wife walked out and left him, he made the great decision. It was hard to make up his mind, but he realized it was really the only sensible thing to do. European women were too fickle. It was a rich American girl, an heiress from this land of wheat and oil and five and ten-cent stores, who would be the solution to his problem. So, quite frankly, he let it be known that he was available for any American girl who was both charming and rich enough. Which, of course, made his story of peculiar interest to us.

Hard as it may be to believe, this happy hunting ground for impoverished and dissolute titles turned out to be not quite so good as it used to be. And the Turkish prince, finding himself still available, has been reduced to working for a living. To that end he has applied to the minister of labor in Hungary for permission to join a gypsy orchestra as a violinist.

Sad, sad story. But these are strange times, let me tell you.

Class Distinction

There are only three classes of people, so far as money goes; those who don't get along on what they have; those who just do and those who save something.—American Magazine.

PLANNING THE MEALS

PLANNING the meals is a real business that takes time and thought, training and knowledge of foodstuffs and food principles.

Not until the housemother is able to take her mind off getting food enough to sustain life can we hope to have much intelligence in regard to a balanced meal.

Bread and meat and potatoes, enough to satisfy hunger, is the important thing in the minds of a large part of our population.

It takes real genius to make a little go a great ways in food and money.

As meat is largely liked because of its flavors, a good sized family may have a good hearty meal, providing there are plenty of vegetables, with a very small piece of meat. Cook the meat a long time to get all of its flavor, add the vegetables—carrots, potatoes and onions—and let them cook until well done; they will be well seasoned with the extractives of the meat and a small piece will be satisfying. With this meal they need a good coarse bread, like corn or graham, to add bulk.

Where it is possible get the cornmeal from a water mill, have all the germ left in it and buy it often so that it will never get rancid. Such cornmeal makes the most delicious mush, for mush and milk and to fry, is a good breakfast food, and especially good for Johnny cake.

A good dish of well-cooked oatmeal with milk, top milk or cream, according to the purse, makes a most sustaining breakfast. With a piece or two of toast and milk or coffee for drink, one may be well satisfied until noontime.

Many of our food experts are recommending the mono-diet. That is eating one food at a meal, not mixing proteins starches and sugars.

What is one man's meat is another's poison, and we have to work out our own diet largely. Our bodies all seem to be working with the same kind of machinery, but we cannot treat them as we do a machine, as no two function exactly alike.

Home-made bread is much more nourishing than that bought at the baker's, if it is properly made. For toast one may keep a baker's loaf as it drys out and does not leave a pastry center as the home-made bread often does when toasted.

How It Started

"THE ALMIGHTY DOLLAR"

DOES this trinity of words smack of the materialistic Twentieth century? Does it bear all the earmarks of the purely practical up-to-the-minute go-getter? Does it bristle with the philosophy of the hard-boiled practitioner that business is business?

Wrong again!

For taking all the guesses you want, you would never possibly hit upon the fact that the phrase "The Almighty Dollar" in which money is apparently deified was coined by that famous and gentle literary craftsman Washington Irving, and incorporated in his book, "The Creole Village," published in 1837.

BUGS BUZZ AROUND

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

BUGS just buzz around
And look for trouble;
People I have found
Who make theirs double.
Moths are always flyin'
In the flame,
People always tryin'
Much the same.

Seems you just can't paint
And not git flies in,
So perhaps it ain't,
It ain't su'prisin'
How mankind will follow
Somethin' noo,
Stories they will swallow
Like they do.

Just can't keep their wings
From things to stay from,
Keep away from things
To keep away from.
Moths are always flyin'
In the flame.
People always tryin'
Much the same.

Why We Do What We Do

by M. K. THOMSON, Ph. D.

WHY WE ARE AFRAID OF HELL

WE ARE only mildly afraid of hell as compared with the terror that it held for our fathers. It is said that Jonathan Edwards delivered his sermons on hell with such awful vividness that his congregation actually clung to their seats for fear of falling in.

There is no clear notion of just what sort of place hell might be. Authorities differ as to the exact location of hell and the nature of the reception that one is likely to receive. But all are agreed that it is a form of punishment. People living in warm climates, or extremely fearful of fire, think of hell as excessively warm, while those living in the cold climates think of hell as excessively cold, many times worse than the frozen north, because a warm hell would be a heaven for the Eskimos.

The psychology of the belief in hell may be seen in the fact that if justice is to be done in the next life there must be a place of punishment as well as a place of reward. The notion of rewards and punishments is so fundamental to our present existence that human beings cannot conceive of life anywhere without these two great forces. The belief in one is as necessary and logical as belief in the other.

To some people heaven and hell are the personification of the two fundamental principles of rewards and punishments which visit every act of every individual.

Some writers explain the popular conception of heaven and hell as another illustration of the tendency on the part of human beings to read their own motives and point of view into the workings of natural phenomena that they do not understand.

Science and invention with all the modern improvements in mechanical devices and the multiplication of luxuries for the common man have made us more interested in this world that were our fathers.

NUTTY NATURAL HISTORY

BY HUGH HUTTON

THE LONG-NOSED SNOOP

THIS inquisitive creature is noted for having more curiosity than nine cats. It lives in coffee roasters because it likes the aroma, but sets out daily in search of a sewing circle where it can pick up crumbs of conversation. When young, the nose and ears are quite long and large, but the nose through use is gradually worn off in key holes. When five years old, the snoop becomes quite decrepit.

In ancient times the snoop was a water bird, and had large flat feet for walking on mill ponds. Today, having left the water because there was nothing there to investigate, the snoop has legs but no feet.

The body is a peanut, and the head a filbert with a clove nose. The ears are split lima beans and the legs toothpicks. The inquisitive expression is pen and ink.

Good Breeding

Good breeding is the result of much good sense, some good nature, and a little self-denial for the sake of others.—Lord Chesterfield.

"Lucile is the Happiest Girl"

So many mothers nowadays talk about giving their children fruit juices, as if this were a new discovery. As a matter of fact, for over fifty years, mothers have been accomplishing results far surpassing anything they can secure from home prepared fruit juices, by using pure, wholesome California Fig Syrup, which is prepared under the most exacting laboratory supervision from ripe California Figs, richest of all fruits in laxative and nourishing properties.

It's marvelous to see how billious, weak, feverish, sallow, constipated, under-nourished children respond to its gentle influence; how their breath clears up, color flames in their cheeks, and they become strong, playful, energetic again. A Western mother, Mrs. H. J. Stoll, Valley P. O., Nebraska, says: "My little daughter, Roma Lucile, was constipated from babyhood. I became worried about her and decided to give her some California Fig Syrup. It stopped her constipation quick; and the way it improved her color and made her pick up made me realize how run down she had been. She is so strong and well now, and always in such good humor that neighbors say she is the happiest girl in the West."

Like all good things, California Fig Syrup is imitated, but you can always get the genuine by looking for the name "California" on the carton.

Yadkinville, April 19 —Nominated for the State Senate by acclamation in the 24th Senatorial District convention of Republicans here today, former Senator A. T. Grant, of Davie, in a speech of acceptance characterized the chief issue before the people as that of taxation. He declared, "The farming industry has been taxed to death. It is now time to bring in some of the other industries in the State and let them help bear the burden." Senator Grant declared that farms and personal property now pay 66 per cent. of the hundred million in taxes raised by the State.

This senatorial district is composed of Yadkin, Wilkes and Davie. It is one of the most populous if not the most populous senatorial district in the State and is one of the few that is overwhelmingly Republican. The convention today from the time it was opened by district executive committee Chairman Wade Reavis until its close was characterized by harmony and good will. Attorney F. J. Great Revival On At Baptist Church

By F. R. Leagans.

Cooleemee, April 19.—What appears to be one of the greatest outpouring of the Holy Spirit, is being manifest at the Baptist church. Dr. C. H. Myers of First Church, Mooresville, is preaching to a capacity house each evening at 8:00 o'clock

Wednesday and Thursday evenings he delivered masterful and soul stirring sermons, and a great host of listeners answered his invitation for reconsecration, and prayed that God Mighty have his way with them during the services.

Friday evening he brought his greatest theme, "Sin, What it is and Does" The following general outline was used: 1. It Binds. 2 It Blinds 3. It reproduces and multiplies. 4. It seperates.

About fifty voices sing in the choir at each service, and the music directed by Messrs. C. B. Hoover, A. R. Marley and L. Jeff Davis, adds a very interesting and enjoyablefeature to the service.

The quartetts by L. J. Davis, A. R. Marley, Miss Ethel Young and Mrs. A. D. Walters; the duetts by Messrs. Davis and Marley, and the solos of Miss Thelma McDaniel are uplifting and inspirational.

From fifty to seventy five attended the prayer services sponsored by the B. Y. P. U.'s, immediately preceeding each prayer service.

Rev. W. L. Dawson Is Claimed By Death.

Rev. W. L. Dawson, aged 66, who for nearly 40 years had served various charges in the Western North Carolina conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, died Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock at his residence in Greensboro afteman illness of nine months. He was superannuated at the last conference gathering at High Point in October.

During his long and useful ministry he served almost a score of churches or circuits and also acted about the time the United States entered the world war as evangelist for the conference.

Flexible Capacity
Ten to thirty tons in 60 minutes

THAT'S the wide range of work output you get with this Case Silo Filler.

You can run it with whatever power you have available, whether it is a ten horse power engine or a large tractor. In either case, the machine makes efficient use of all the power.

You can put on enough teams to keep three men busy throwing on the corn, and finish the job in a hurry, or you can cut down the number of wagons and men to suit your needs.

Est. 1842

Here's how the cutting mechanism works:

1. Two notched and grooved feed rolls and a ribbed shear plate firmly hold the material for the cutting knives. The plate has a specially chilled cutting edge.
2. The Case has four knives, mounted on an unbreakable steel disk at the most efficient cutting angle. Cutting is uniform—at a minimum of power.
3. It is easy to grind Case knives accurately because they have a straight cutting edge.
4. No experience is necessary to set and adjust the knives. Anyone can do the job.

We recommend the Case Silo Filler—let us tell you more about it.

Holding a Consultation

IT is getting along about bed time—the paper read and lessons prepared—so we see the Jonses engaged in conversation.

They are talking about shoes—commenting on the splendid service they have had from the last pair each of them bought—but it will soon be time to buy again.

These good, sensible people have long ago learned that it pays to buy good shoes. This does not necessarily mean that they pay a high price, but there's one thing they do insist upon and that is quality—the high quality that is found in International Made "Star Brand" Solid Leather Shoes.

Our "Star Brand" shoes are famous for their long wear—and good looks too—and the interesting thing about this happy combination is that our prices are so moderate, for we could not begin to sell such fine shoes—such true values at prices so attractive were it not for the many manufacturing economies and other advantages passed along to us by the International Shoe Company, the makers of "Star Brand" shoes.

Yes, Mr. and Mrs. Jones, Sis and Bud are coming back to see us. They are coming back for shoes again because they bought good "Star Brand" shoes the last time.

Suppose you come too.

NEWS OF LONG AGO.

What Was Happening In Davie Before The Days of Automobiles and Rolled Hose

(Davie Record, May 11th, 1905.)

J. B. Willson left Mocksville last week for Statesville. We understand that he is thinking of going to Texas.

Great damage was done to farm lands in Davie last week. It was the hardest rain we ever witnessed in Mocksville. The lands were badly washed.

Mr. Joe Howell and family, of New Orleans, are spending the summer at their summer home near Pino. Mr. Howell brought a car load of horses, dogs, fine chickens and rabbits with him.

The election in Mocksville passed off quietly on the 2nd. A. M. McGlamery was elected Mayor; F. M. Johnson, J. B Johnston, V. E. Swaim, G. E Horn and E E. Hunt were elected Commissioners.

Mrs. J Lee Kurfees and little daughter are visiting relatives in Winston.

Quite a number of friends and relatives met at Mrs. Polly Kurfees on the 8th and celebrated her 90th birthday. She was as jolly as most any of those present.

Arthur Allen, of Jericho, has accepted a position in Winston.

Misses Sallie Everhardt and Annie Martin, of Augusta, are visiting relatives in Salisbury this week.

Mr. Jesse Butler's baby, of R. 4, got right badly burned one day last week.

Miss Maggie Foster, of Augusta, has gone to County Line to teach school.

Jasper Barnes, of R. 4, has gone to Thomasville, where he has gone to work in a chair factory.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Marsh, of Salisbury, visited relatives on R. 4, last week.

Old Uncle Abner Steele, one of the old-time darkies died here last week. He was nearly 80 years old, and was an ex slave. He was respected by all the people regardless of color.

Miss Mary Turner, of Davidson, is spending several days with Miss Bessie Foster, at North Cooleemee

Misses Sadie and Effie Brown, of near Mocksville, spent last week with relatives and friends near Cooleemee.

H. T. Smithdeal, of Advance, has sold his store building and old tobacco factory, together with a half acre of land, to Gannon Talbert. The consideration was $1.700. Mr. Smithdeal will go to Spencer, where he will engage in the manufacture of ice. It is said the Smithdeal store building will be converted into a wholesale grocery store.

Advance high school will close on May 26th.

William Hunter, who went to Advance last week to storekeep for Joe Sheets, has returned home, Mr. Sheets having closed his distillery pro tem.

O. L. Williams spent Sunday at the home of Capt. Chas. Bahnson, at Farmington.

Enos Smith, a prominent citizen of Farmington, has returned to his home from Winston.

A doctor says "a child who practices every day on the piano will not develop the habit of fingernail biting." This is true. We have known several who bit the piano instead.

This Newspaper Advertising Proving Successful.

This paper has been advised by Foster & McClamroch, local Case dealers that they are very well pleased with the results of the advertising campaign they are now running in these pages. They report an unusual amount of interest has been been aroused in their product through this local advertising which is tied up with the big Case national advertising campaign.

Mr. Foster said today to one of our representatives, "The modern farmer is fast turning to power farming. He realizes if he is going to stay in the farming business that he must make a profit. He realizes too; that if he is going to make this profit he must reduce his cost of raising crops and that he cannot do this with old, out-of-date equipment. He knows that he cannot farm today as his father did in yesteryears, and that the only way is to be up-to date, which means that he must use modern machinery."

"We certainly are gratified, indeed, to see the way our farmers are taking to modern equipment. We lay much of this increased interest to the splendid cooperation the farm press and your publication have been giving to modern farming. The publicity given this very much worth while project is having a truly wonderful influence We would like to take this occasion to express our gratitude to The Davie Record for the splendid results we have obtained from our advertising campaign. We have received inquiries from local farmers whom we had no knowledge were even in the market. Many of these farmers have already placed their orders for modern farm machinery and many more will do so shortly."

Blind Production.

Production of farm crops without regard to the demand therefor was the bane of agriculture recently declared Secretary of Agriculture Hyde, who warned that governmental farm relief measures will be useless "unless each individual farmer intelligently plans his production." Secretary Hyde said he wanted to emphasize that in order to obtain a higher level of prices than prevails now it appeared necessary to reduce rather to increase 1930 production and that the problem must be met on the farm.

"Agriculture's leadership has formulated and secured the enactment of the agricultural marketing act which established the federal farm board backed by half a billion dollars of public money and clothed with far-reaching powers in applying collective thinking to that great problem of the new decade—the problem of modern cooperative merchandising of crops livestock.

"But all this will break down unless each farmer intelligently plans his production," the secretary continued. "The individual farmer owes a duty to himself to make his efforts profitable. We cannot do this if farmers work against each other. We can po it if we work with each other."

Proclamed Hon. Citizen

Athens —Senator King of Utah spoke so movingly of American regard for Greece at a banquet here that he bought tears to the eyes of his listeners. The audience included members of the government, American Minister Skinner, and American Greeks. Mayor of Athens proclaimed Sen. King an honorary citizen of Athens.

Newspaper Ideals.

Every newspaper publisher wants his newspaper to be the best. The difficulty is in the differences of opinion as to what constitutes the best newspaper. An editor asked his readers how he could make his paper ideal, with the result:

"Cut out the crimes, the murders, the sensational divorce case reports," said the nice people.

"Cut out the accidents, the railway and steamship disasters," said the people who "couldn't bear" to read such things.

"Cut out the politics" said the old-fashioned woman. "I don't understand it and haven't time for it."

"Cut out the woman's page," said the feminist with the strong mind. "It's mushy, trashy, trivial; an insult to our sex."

"Cut out the sports and theaters" said the intelctual. "Both are bad influences, and both have received altogether too much notice."

"Cut out—," began another and still another, but we beat them to it.

"Stop all of you," we cried. "On second thought, we decided to cut out ourself. It is no use trying to publish the ideal paper until we come across the ideal reader."

Without readers no newspaper can live, and until humanity has come to live an ideal life there will be no ideal newspaper, for nobody would read one that spoke only of virtue and never of evil. Newspaper; for nobody would read one that spoke only of virtue and never of evil. Newspapers are published to print the news; the nature of the news is what people make it.—West Springfield News.

Notes and Comment.

We are suffering this warm, sunshiny spring morning, with a severe attack of spring fever. This is a most insidious malady, weakening the mind, almost entirely destroying the will power, so affecting the eyes that we can't tell when we need a shave, and so degrading the moral sense that we shamelessly plan to get away with almost anything in the way of a paper rather than do the work necessary to make a good one. Its effect on the body is equally disastrous, bringing about a total collapse of the muscles, with the exception of those used in steering a car. Those used in cleaning a car are in especially bad shape, while those that come into play in raking the lawn or cleaning up the garden are quite useless. Spring fever puts one on the bum, physically, mentally and morally, and nothing but the sternest necessity induces us to even attempt what looks like an impossible task—that of writing a column or two of stuff that will fill up the paper and not lose us any subscribers. In the grasp of this fell disease and in possession of a new car we feel that we entitled to lots of sympathy, because we just have to try to work. —Mille Lacs Messenger.

Atlanta Is Growing.

Atlanta, Ga., April 22.—Population of Atlanta is 266,557, a gain of 62,396, or 35.6 per cent since 1920, Dr. Elizabeth Broach, supervisor of census for this district, announced today.

The tabulation included only the borough of Atlanta. Census officials said no figures were available yet on population of greater Atlanta.

Cotton Growers Meet.

Iredell County, E. J. Troutman, A. J. Beaver, J. A. Craven, P. L. K. Deaton, A. Y. Neel and R. H. Kennedy; Catawba county, M. M. Smyre; Rowan county, W. D Graham, G. F. Houck, Charlie Miller, H. F Graham, Davie county, J. W. Green.

Mr. E. J. Troutman was elected as Chairman and S. P. Jones, Secretary Mr. R. L. Shuford, Newton, N. C., present Director was unanimously nominated to succeed himself to represent this District.

Mr. Shuford was present and gave a report of the Association and the outlook for the future of the Co-operative Association, working with and through the Federal Farm Board. He stated that the Association was borrowing money at a very cheap interest rate and that the outlook was very bright for the future of Co operative Marketing,

Mr. C. F. Houck from Rowan County, Mr. M. M. Smyre from Catawba county and Mr. R. H. Kennedy, Iredell county, were appointed on a resolution committee to draw up resolutions to offer to the convention:

Mr E. J. Troutman, Mr. A. J. Beaver, Mr. P. L. K. Deaton were duly elected for poll holders to meet in Statesville May 9th to count the ballots and make the final report to the office at Raleigh, N. C.

Be it resolved that the Delegates of the Thirteenth District of the North Carolina Cotton Growers Co operative Association in Convention assembled on this 16th day of April 1930, go on record as endorsing the efforts of the North Carolina Cotton Growers Co operative Association and various County Boards of Agriculture in the Counties composing this District Iredell, Rowan, Davie and Catawba, in their efforts to induce farmers to grow cotton of a better staple of 1" to 1 1-16" by standardizing on one or more good varieties and eliminating all short staples, varieties of 7 8 or less.

E. J. TROUTMAN, Chairman,
S P. JONES, Secy.

Visit Any Live Town

And you will find that the merchants of the town are good advertisers. Not one or two of them, but every merchant of any consequence in the town is an advertiser.

As a result of the combined advertising, the many good, well written advertisement filled with prices and good sales arguments, there is attracted to the town, a regular host of buyers who spend their money for the merchandise the merchants of the community have to sell.

A survey of the town will show that the advertising is not left to one or two merchants to bear the burden of the sales promotion, while a large number of free riders sit back and attempt to reap the reward of their fellow's enterprise.

Every one advertises.

Any community that has a group of good, live merchants who advertise with well written ads and back them up with the merchandise methods, is going to grow and prosper, and business will continue to get better and better.

Heflin Gets Hot.

Washington, April 22.—A heated attack upon Chairman Raskob of the Democratic national committee and Henry C. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, was made in the senate today by Senator Heflin, Democrat, Alabama, as the lobby committee resumed its examination of Curran concerning his organization's activities for repeal of the prohibition law.

Referring to testimony before the committee by Rascob and Curran, the Alabaman shouted that he was sorry Curran had not been "locked up" and said the Democratic chairman "stands disgraced before the American people."

Heflin recalled that Curran, when asked by a committee member whether he would favor armed revolution against prohibition replied that he would "cross that bridge when he got to it." The Alabaman added:

"I am sorry the committee did not lock him up. If he had been an ordinary man no doubt he would have been locked up. But Mr. Curran has millions back of him. Mr. Curran comes here representing the European program to lay down our law and to set up the barroom business again and Alfred Smith is to be the candidate. God pity the Democratic party."

Democracy Has A Virile Foe.

The personnel and the proceedings of the Republican State Convention held in Charlotte recently along with evidences of compactness and power of party organization, made a deep impression upon at least some loyal and life-long Democrats who were interested spectators on the side lines.

One old line regular Democrat, and he happens to be an ardent supporter of Mr. Bailey as he was of Governor Smith told the Observer that he belived it was the finest Republican State Convention ever held in North Carolina. He had taken the trouble to mix incognito among the delegates in the hotel lobbies on the eve of the convention and to go to the convention hall and observe at least a part of the proceedings, and he was very much impressed by what he described as the high tone of the personnel and demeanor of the delegations, the apparent seriousness that was written upon their faces and the evidences of a virile and efficient party organization.

The Democrat was prompt to express himself as convinced that the Democratic party in North Carolina needs to do all in its power to bring about a condition of harmony and peace within the party to the end that it will be able to continue to cope successfully with its ancient foe. The Democratic party, he was convinced, has a foe to reckon with that it did not face in former years.

The convention, true to forecasts, turned out to be one of the largest ever held in the State, and made a fine impression by the business like character of its proceedings and the lack of evidences of strife and bitterness. Even in the election of the new State Chairman, Mr. J. S. Duncan, who received a very decisive majority of the votes on the first ballot, there was little evidence of bitterness, even though that was the issue that was expected to bring about the greatest division in the ranks, if there was to be division. —Charlotte Observer.

The city of Elkhorn, Wis., has so much money in its treasurer, the disposal of the surplus is a problem. Elkhorn is too far from Chicago, it seems, to be annexed.

Think We Are Beaten.

In a strong and well written editorial in last Sunday's Minneapolis Tribune Arthur Brisbane says that behind most of the ignorance, disease, misery and crime of the country stands the whiskey bottle, speaking a truth that every thinking man knows to be the truth. It is the truth now and it was the truth fifty years ago, long before the passage of the prohibition laws to which Mr. Brisbane attributes most of the evils of the present situation.

In one paragraph he says: "In Great Britain there is no prohibition. Wine and beer are sold as usual, but whiskey is taxed so heavily that the average man cannot afford it." Mr. Brisbane thinks this is a better and more effective arrangement than our prohibition law It would be of no value if it were not enforced.

The constitutional amendment and prohibitory laws enacted by the United States would, if enforced, completely wipe out the traffic in intoxicants. Not even the most confirmed opponent of prohibition contends that drinking is a good thing. In fact, all admit that the use of intoxicants is an unmitigated evil. Admitting this to be true, it follows that what is wrong with the situation here is not our law, but the failure to enforce it Enforced, the law would make effective what is perhaps the noblest effort the world has yet seen to free man from one of his most deadly enemies. The argument, now so commonly used, that we are not strong enough to enforce it, is to argue that this great people is so weak, so deficient in moral stamina and will power, that we must, like the weakling who cannot resist his appetite for drink, let it have its way with us.

Mr. Brisbane mentions the traffic in drugs as having some part in the orgy of crime and corruption that he attributes principally to the prohibition laws, but he does not, apparently, think that laws against the use and sale of illicit drugs should be abandoned.

If Mr. Brisbane would use his potent pen in holding up to the scorn of the people the officials, sworn to enforce the laws who connive at its violation we believe he would be doing his country a real service. To tell the people that this government is powerless to enforce laws that express the will of ninety per cent of the population is distinctly not a service.—Mille Laco Messenger.

Monroe Bank Closes.

Monroe, April 22.—The Bank of Union, with deposits of around $775,000 and resources of more than a million dollars, failed to open its doors here this morning.

Closing of the bank was decided upon by the board of directors, a statement said, for "the protection of depositors."

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and cause a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or even increasing the dose.

Mrs. G. D. Shutt, of Lexington made a trip to our town one day last week and Miss Ella Shutt accompioned her home.

C. J. Taylor motored to Lexington and Yadkin College recently.

C. E. Faircloth and Charlie Hall made a business trip to Winston one day last week.

W. C. Pierce, of Harmony, the popular Delco dealer in that hustling little town, was in Mocksville Wednesday and gave us a pleasant call. While here he left a life saver for a year's treatment of Record! Mr. Pierce has just returned from Chicago, where he attended a meeting of Delco dealers, and reports a fine time spent in the windy city. He is very enthusiastic over the new Delco gas which is being put out by his company.

Guy Boger, of Winston-Salem, has our thanks for a couple of frog skins. James Hendrix, who also lives in the Twin City, contributes a steel engraving of George Washington.

Advice From One Of The Advisory Committee

I was much surprised to see my name in the Mocksville Enterprise of April 24th, 1930, as a member of the Baily Advisory Committee, never having been approached on the subject by any of the Bailey supporters.

However, since I am on the ADVISORY COMMITTEE, my advise to the Democratic voters is to support a man who has served us long and well, a man who has always fearlessly voted his convictions. That Man is MR. SIMMONS, and I am supporting him.

Sincerely,

(Miss) JONH E. SMOOT,

Mrs. Garwood Passes.

Mrs. Lizzie E. Garwood, 78, died Thursday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Dora Mason, at Statesville. Mrs. Garwood fell several weeks ago and broke her leg while visiting her son near Oak Forest. Surviving is one daughter, Mrs. Dora Mason, of Statesville; one son, Offie Garwood, of Oak Forest; two brothers, W. B. Mason, of County Line and P. H. Mason, of Statesville, and four sisters, Mrs. Watt Turner and Mrs. Pink Flimaster, of Statesville; Mrs. Frank Stroud, of Oak Forest, and Mrs. Frank Crater, of High Point. The funeral services were held Friday at 11 o'clock at Society Baptist church by Rev. Mr. McSwain and the body laid to rest in the church graveyard.

Mr. E. H. Morris in cleaning off his lot the past winter, through which a branch runs, got about ten cords of wood. In looking over his pile of stove wood taken from this lot he lists the following kinds of wood found in the town of Mocksville: Ash, Cedar, Chestnut, Copal, Wild Cherry, Dogwood, Elm, Hickory, Hazelnut, Locust, Maple, Mulberry, Black Oak, White Oak, Pine, Persimmon, Poplar, Sasafras, Sourwood, Willow, Apple, Peach, Pear—a total of 23 varieties.

Mrs. W. A. Allison and Miss Ossie Allison gave a lovely course luncheon at their home on Maple Avenue. Pink tulips were used for center piece. Covers were laid for Mrs. Chas. Vaughan, of Richmond. Mesdames William Tucker, Falls Tomlinson, William Kinsel, of Charlotte and Mrs. Clinard LeGrande of Mathews, Mrs. B. C. Clement and Mrs. J. K. Meroney of this city.

Birthday Dinner.

On Sunday April 20th, 1930, about seventy five relatives and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. C Koontz and gave Mr Koontz a surprise birthday dinner. It being his 53 birthday. There was a large table and plenty of good eats which was enjoyed by everyone present. Those coming from other places were Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Graham, Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Cartner and family of Kannapolis, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bowles, Mr. and Mrs. Atbe Koontz, of Lewisville, Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Cartner and family, of Winston Salem, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Byerly and family, of Cooleemee. Everyone went away wishing Mr. Koontz many more happy birthday. ONE PRESENT.

"You fool!" said Appleton, coldly nomous. "I do not object to your ling him. It is the manner of dis- ling of the body that stamps you an imbecile. Why didn't you bury where nobody could find it? What dness made you put it in the eam? It is beyond recovery by us, the others will find it, and they hold it like a club—not over you Jim, but over me. You will find it rts you, too! Well, it's done now, we know that it will be discov- d. Also we know that the men we dealing with will make capital out it." Appleton's icy rage grew with thought of the disaster. "I shall the sufferer—I, who thought that er tonight I should have no worries the world!" He pointed at Luigi. od this mass of clay from Paler- 's underworld, who has had sanc- ry here, and food and drink, when should be in an Italian jail, has ice imperiled us!"

"That isn't fair, Fred," the woman ested. Alone of them she seemed be in no fear of him. "Kerr, or apin, or whatever his real name s, got that job because he knew re was some mystery here, and he ed to blackmail us. Some one ist have given us away. Either gi had to get him, or we might all re been discovered."

"Stupid!" he commented crossly. hy do you all persist in misunder- nding me? You seem to think I worrying about the death of an es- ped convict, when I am only remem- ring that Luigi, instead of conceal- the body here, must throw it in lake, under the impression that ere was an end of it." He waved hand to the Sicilian. "Go! Re- mber, we need all your strength day. Sleep, if you want to. Jim ll call you when we are ready."

Luigi' great carcass bowed, and imated itself with relief. His was child's mentality. He bowed to em all. Jim liked his cooking. "I getta you your breakfas', Jeem," said, smiling. "I make-a the toma- garlic, and potato you like."

He took his way to the storeroom gly. After the meal he would eep. After that, there would be rk for him that no other man here ld perform. Jim Delaney was onger than most men, but he was like Luigi, who had carried a and piano on his back.

"You see, Jim," said Appleton, when e Sicilian had gone, "that we are w in the position of dealing with ople who hold something definite ainst us."

"They're in as deep as we are," id Jim.

"Nothing of the kind! We may spect them of a dozen murders, but hereas we have only suspicion they re a corpus delicti—actually the dy of the crime. They can't help ding it. It has cost me a great al of money and time to make it rtain that they must find it. That's e of the exasperating things!"

"Forget it, Fred," the woman said. iting his head. "Two weeks from w we'll be in Europe, living like rds."

"There's risk in the whole affair," pleton retorted. "If the deal goes ough safely, they will use their owledge to cut my price. If I re- se, they will pay, perhaps, but y'll get me for Luigi's foolishness. they are discovered, they will have accuse me to save themselves. ck doesn't keep on. It was sheer ck that the police dropped the Red apin case when they found the angled body of an old cell mate who d threatened to kill him. This thing urries me. Of course, you might k the body at the culvert, but you uld most likely be seen. Safer, chaps, to let things go. See that igi is ready when we need him."

Jim walked to the storerom, calling e Sicilian by name. This cellar had en so constructed as to be sound- oof.

It was Junior's quick ear that heard m first, as he passed the door of elle Barron's cell.

"They'll find that man and know re here," he whispered.

"We'll get him as he's finding him," anby said.

There were four now who crept ward the storeroom. They entered it st as Jim was kneeling by Luigi's le, untying his bonds. It was Les- e who made the first spring at him. m had not a chance. Outnumbered, ken by surprise, unable to rise to s feet, his struggle was futile. Side side, he and Luigi nibbled viciously gainst gags.

When the door opened, Burton ood up and clenched his fists. He new that some day Luigi's inherent te of torture would lapse into some ch exhibition of violence as would ill him. Burton had great ideas of ordic racial pre-eminence. He would ow that even in their moments of ging, the Nordic strain was the oroughbred one.

"Ah!" he said satirically. "The ttle Luigi! Good morrow, Cali- an!"

Not until that moment had Hanby ally liked Burton. It was as he saw m standing braced for punishment, d unafraid, that there came a ange of heart.

"Tom, old man," he said, "Junior, ill, and I are here. We've trussed p two gallows birds. How many ore are there?"

When the light was turned on, it was seen that Tom Burton had suffered at his warder's hands. His face was thin and lined, his body bruised and aching. There were tears in his eyes as he shook his rescuers' hands.

Burton had little to tell. He knew only that the infamous Appleton, who had tipped him into the pit, ruled here absolutely. Burton had seen only Luigi, Jim, and Smucker. There might be others of whom he had not heard. He had no idea for what purpose Appleton had made his home here, or that he had been imprisoned beneath his cousin's house.

"We're here to clean out this place," Hanby said. "You'd better come along with us."

The searchers made slow progress, because they were as yet unaware of the number of inhabitants this subterranean fastness concealed. The general layout was speedily made clear. The large cellar with the lumber was the main feature. Then there were three little cells, a kitchen, a storeroom, and one other apartment. It was through the doors of this last that by straining their ears they could hear the faint hum of human voices.

While they were wondering whether to attempt to force an entrance, or to wait until the people within came out, they were relieved of making the decision. Mr. Appleton stepped out. He looked into the mouth of an automatic pistol in Hilton Hanby's hand.

"Poor Old Huckleberry Hawk!" She Mocked.

For a moment flaming hate looked out of his eyes; then it died away. He was again the bland and suave little man whom they had known so long.

"I dislike revolvers," he said gently. "Furthermore, I am unarmed. You have something to say to me?"

"Quite a lot," said Hanby. "I trust you and your friends have been comfortable in my house. I begin to understand now on what you expended so much money. Mr. Douglas was puzzled about it. You are going to tell me why you spent it."

There was no question but that a look of relief passed over Appleton's face at what was virtually a confession that his purpose remained a secret.

"Call it a fad," he observed benevolently. "This living underground is nothing new. The famous duke of Portland, as you no doubt remember, constructed a ballroom and a riding school under the lake of his famous Welbeck Abbey estate. Consider me a humble disciple."

"He did what he chose on his own property. You are trespassing on mine."

Appleton sighed profoundly.

"That makes a difference, I admit. Well, Mr. Hanby, charge me what you think is a fair price for my tenancy and I will pay."

"There's another charge, too," Hanby reminded him. "Murder! It doesn't matter whether you strangled Smucker or your strong-arm men did it. You'll have trouble dodging the chair!

"When you have made a complete confession, duly witnessed and signed, I shall turn you over to the police. Appleton, your goose is cooked, and you ought to have sense enough to know it. Why have you been scheming for years to get possession of this place? Why did you keep tenants away?"

"It was a fad," Appleton returned blandly. "Every man has one. You, for example, desired to be the owner of an estate. Well, that was my ambition, too. I have lost. You have won. Why, then, not be generous and let me go?"

He made a movement as if he wished to lead them away from the door. He did not notice that Pelham slipped behind him and produced a bunch of keys. Appleton was only aware that the door opened suddenly and he was pushed into the room.

It was the only apartment well furnished. Breakfast things were on a small table. In a chair a woman, still pretty, but no longer young, was smoking a cigarette. She jumped up in alarm.

"What's the matter, Fred?" she cried. "Who are these men?"

"Mr. Hanby," Appleton began amiably, "is incensed at discovering our retreat. Having found nothing irregular, he decides to accuse us all of murder. You are witness that this poor creature"—he pointed to Burton—"assaulted a giant huckleberry hawk intent on his destruction."

"My G—d!" cried Burton, incoherent in his anger. "He asked me to look at a giant fuchsia moth!"

"There is no such thing, of course," Appleton said pityingly. "You can see that his mind has gone. I had him put under partial guard. I shall admit that he suffered from a homicidal mania? He assaulted Smucker directly he came in, and later, unfortunately, he killed the poor fellow There are witnesses to this."

"As to Smucker," continued Appleton, "he came here for the sole purpose of setting fire to the Gray house and killing its owner and all its inmates. I kept him here because I liked and respected Mr. Hanby and his family." Appleton's keen eyes were fixed on Hanby's face. "If Mr. Hanby denies knowledge of Smucker's avowed enmity, I shall be greatly surprised."

"We found him with matches and gasoline all ready to set fire to your house," the woman contributed.

"I don't doubt it," Pelham said dryly; "and I don't doubt that you were glad enough to stop him. If he had burned the Gray house, you would have died in its ruins. So far you haven't made out a case."

She shrugged her shoulders.

"If you don't want to be reasonable," she said, "that is your affair. If you want a murder trial, with a relative of the Hanbys in danger of hanging, call in the police. Two credible witnesses saw the murder committed."

"Madam," said the professor coldly, "you lie!"

"Poor old huckleberry hawk!" she mocked. "You've probably forgotten very conveniently, but you'll be hanged, for all that, if the police ever know about it!" There was a certain insolence about her that compelled admiration. "We may as well tell the truth," she went on. "Fred and I have been fond of each other for years. His wife wouldn't consent to a divorce, and my husband can't be located. Fred arranged this place where we could be undisturbed. He didn't fill in the lake completely, as you've no doubt found out. He fenced it with barbed wire, and planted thorn hedges to keep out trespassers."

Scot First Brought Navel Orange North

The United States owes the successful introduction of the naval orange to the late William Saunders, horticulturist. It is not certain, however, that the trees which were introduced by Mr. Saunders were the first which had been brought to the United States, though they were the first to come into successful bearing. The late Thomas Hogg of New York, in an account published in 1888, stated that about 1838 a wealthy Scotch planter in Brazil determined to manumit his slaves and remove with them to the United States. He settled on an island in middle or southern Florida and then returned to Brazil and secured a collection of plants for introduction, which he consigned to Mr. Hogg, who at that time conducted a nursery at the corner of Broadway and Twenty-third street, New York city. Among these plants were several naval orange trees. After the plants had been held in a greenhouse for a year, in order to allow them to recover from the effects of the long sea voyage which they had undergone, they were forwarded to the owner in Florida. During the Seminole war the owner was charged with giving aid and comfort to the enemy, and the entire collection of plants was destroyed by the United States troops. The owner then moved to Haiti.

Where Tornadoes Occur.

Tornadoes seldom occur outside the United States. The Mississippi valley reserves them mainly for itself, says Nature Magazine. Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri run neck and neck for funnel-cloud honors. Nebraska easily takes second place. Then comes Mississippi, Alabama, Iowa, Illinois, the Dakotas and Minnesota. Outside this region the whirling cloud seldom strikes. It is unknown in California. New England is never visited.

At the Training Camp.

The recruit had hurried off to the drill grounds without his rifle. Some of the other rookies would be along soon, so stepping into a canteen he telephoned his company sergeant to have one of the boys bring it along.

"What's that you forgot?" asked the sergeant.

"My gun."

"Your what?"

"My gun. You know, G-U-N. G as in Jerusalem, U as in Europe, N as in pneumatic."

Lesson for May 4

PROMOTION IN THE KINGDOM

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 20:17-28.

GOLDEN TEXT—The Son of Man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give His life a ransom for many.

PRIMARY TOPIC—How to Become Great.

JUNIOR TOPIC—How to Become Great.

I. The King Foretells His Death and Resurrection (vv. 17-19).

1. The King on His way to Jerusalem (v. 17).

This is His last journey to the beloved city. He took the twelve disciples aside from the traveling pilgrims to make known unto them what was before them. As they journeyed, he went ahead of the disciples. The courage thus shown by the Lord amazed the disciples who were following in fear (Mark 10:32).

2. The betrayal and death foretold (vv. 18, 19).

He went forward, fully conscious of the awful tragedy of the cross. He for the third time since the transfiguration tells the disciples of His approaching sufferings and death. But they are so filled with their ambitious schemes that they do not understand Him. The treachery of Judas, the fierce persecutions by the chief priests and scribes, the unjust judgment, the delivery to Pontius Pilate, the mockery, the scourging, the crown of thorns, the cross, the hanging between two malefactors, the nails, the spear—all were spread before His mind like a picture! Though He knew all this, He pressed on, not of necessity, but deliberately. The joyous outlook upon the victory which would be accomplished by the shedding of His blood led Him forward. He went courageously, for He knew the time had come for the accomplishment of His Father's will.

3. The resurrection foretold (v. 19).

Truly, this would have been a dark picture had the resurrection not been made known. The resurrection life beyond is always seen as the issue of the cross. The blessedness of the life beyond this "vale of tears" should induce us to press on. Christ is the grand example. (Heb. 12:2).

II. The Ambitious Request of James and John (vv. 20-23).

1. The request (vv. 20, 21).

This request was made by their mother. The request was for a place of prominence in the kingdom. It is not wrong for mothers to be ambitious for their boys, but they should know that life's pinnacles are exceedingly dangerous. It is desirable that parents should get places for their children near to Jesus, but the vain ambition of the world should not occupy their minds.

2. Jesus' answer (vv. 22, 23).

He spoke directly to the men, not to their mother, declaring that they knew not what they were asking. He showed them that the way to this position of glory was through suffering. The cup which they were to drink was of great agony. The way to the places of glory in the kingdom of Christ is by the path of lowly and self-forgetting service.

III. How to Be Truly Exalted (vv. 24-28).

1. The angry disciples (v. 24).

When the ten heard of the request of James and John, they were filled with indignation against them. Their displeasure did not arise from the fact that they were free from the same selfish spirit, but that these two had thrust themselves to the front.

2. Greatness among the heathen (v. 25).

The rule of the world has always been by the strong hand. The standards have not been moral excellence, but worth, station, and power.

3. Greatness among Christ's disciples (vv. 26, 27).

The standard here is in sharp contrast. The way to the place of prominence in Christ's kingdom is the way of self-abasement. To give is greater than to receive. To be serving some one is much better than to be served. There will be degrees of rank in Christ's kingdom, but this rank will be character, not position, or authority. The spirit of Christ substitutes "the greatness of love for the love of greatness."

4. Christ is the supreme example of greatness (v. 28).

All who will be great should study and imitate Christ. Let them forget self and serve others, even to the giving of their lives.

Courage, Unspotted Life

Then said Mr. Holy-man, there are two things that they have need to possess who go on pilgrimage: courage and an unspotted life. If they have not courage, they can never hold on their way; and if their lives be loose, they will make the very name of a pilgrim stink.—John Bunyan.

Being Satisfied

To be satisfied with what you have, but never with what you are, means growth and joy.—Young People.

Children Like Own Church

Children of Bournemouth, England, have taken to the idea of replacing the Sunday school by a special afternoon service of their own at St. Michael's church. The little ones are supplying their own readers of lessons, choir, organist and warden. The church at Kew has also established a special chapel for the use of children under eight years of age.

Oil should clean and protect as well as lubricate—says household expert

The oiling of household devices presents a problem different from that of factory equipment, says a nationally known housekeeping expert. Household appliances are not used constantly and therefore collect dirt and rust when idle. Consequently, oil intended for general household use should clean and protect as well as lubricate.

3-in-One, a scientific blend of mineral, vegetable and animal oils, does these three things better than any other oil. It costs a little more to buy but much less to use, for it will save you many dollars in repairs and replacements on sewing machines, vacuum cleaners, lawn mowers, washers, the electric motors of fans, refrigerators, ironers and similar household devices. At good stores everywhere, in 15c and 30c sizes. For your protection, look for the trade mark "3-in-One" printed in Red on every package.

Stuffed Spareribs With Sweet Potatoes

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Pork spareribs are one of the less expensive meat cuts which can be made most appetizing if carefully prepared. A stuffing containing tart apples adds greatly to the flavor and piquancy of the dish.

The meat, like any cut of pork, must be well done without being dry. After browning spareribs quickly in a hot oven, reduce the temperature and cook slowly at moderate heat until tender. Do not add water. The full directions given by the bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture follow:

Roast Stuffed Spareribs.

- 2 sections of spareribs
- 1 cup fine dry bread crumbs
- ¾ cup diced salt pork
- ½ cup chopped celery
- ½ cup chopped onion
- ¼ cup chopped parsley
- 5 tart apples, diced
- ½ cup sugar
- ¾ tsp. salt
- ⅛ tsp. pepper

Select well-fleshed rib sections that match. Have the breast bone cracked so that it will be easy to carve between the ribs. Wipe the meat with a damp cloth. Prepare the stuffing as follows: Fry the salt pork until crisp and remove the pieces from the skillet. Cook the celery, onion, and parsley in the fat for a few minutes and remove them. Put the apples into the skillet, sprinkle with the sugar, cover, and cook until tender, then remove the lid and continue to cook until the juice evaporates and the pieces of apple are candied. Mix the apples with the bread crumbs, crisp salt pork, cooked vegetables, salt, and pepper. Lay one section of the ribs out flat, sprinkle with salt and pepper, and spread with the hot stuffing. Cover with the other sections and sew the two together. Sprinkle the outside with salt and pepper and rub with flour. Lay the stuffed ribs on a rack in an open roasting pan and sear in a hot oven (480 degrees Fahrenheit) for 20 minutes, or until the meat is lightly browned. Reduce the oven temperature rapidly to very moderate heat (300 to 325 degrees Fahrenheit) and continue to cook for about an hour longer, or until the meat is tender. Remove the strings before serving the stuffed spareribs on a hot platter. Surround with candied sweet potatoes, prepared as below:

Candied Sweet Potatoes.

Boil six medium-sized sweet potatoes until they are fairly tender, but not done. Allow the potatoes to cool, skin them, and cut them lengthwise in halves. Arrange the pieces in one layer, in buttered baking dishes or a shallow pan, and do not pack them close together. Boil one cupful of corn sirup or maple sirup, one-half cupful of brown sugar, three tablespoonfuls of butter, and one-fourth teaspoonful salt until slightly thickened. Pour the sirup over the sweet potatoes. Bake in a moderately hot oven (375 to 400 degrees Fahrenheit) 45 minutes to one hour. Turn the pieces carefully while cooking and brown them on all sides.

HELPS FOR HOUSEKEEPERS

When dyeing or tinting clothes at home be sure the dye is completely dissolved before putting in the material and use sufficient water to cover it. Stir continually and keep the material loose during the entire process.

Some Welcome Dishes for the Table

By NELLIE MAXWELL

"Anyone who can assemble, prepare and cook an appetizing, wholesome meal should feel that it is an achievement. A well balanced meal takes information, knowledge, training and application."

These recipes have been gathered from various sources; some will like to try them as they are not common:

Salmon With Sauce Piquant.—Take three-quarter inch slices of salmon, place in a saucepan with hot fish broth, adding a touch of fruit juice or vinegar. Simmer fifteen minutes. Remove from the broth, wipe dry, place on a hot platter and serve with the sauce prepared as follows: Melt a quantity of butter, flavor to taste with tarragon vinegar, pepper, mustard, fennel and any spices liked. Stir over the heat until cooked, move to the back of the range and add the yolk of an egg to thicken. Serve at once.

Bisque of Herbs.—Chop together a handful of lettuce, sorrel, spinach, a small onion, a little celery and chervil and cook with two tablespoonfuls of butter until soft, stirring constantly. Add three tablespoonfuls of flour with four cupfuls of cauliflower water; add a beaten egg and serve with croutons.

Fresh Perch.—Prepare six fresh perch and marinate them in two tablespoonfuls of olive oil, a sprig of parsley, a little pepper and salt, allspice, bayleaf and other spices. Keep the fish in the marinade for an hour. Remove, roll in crumbs which have been seasoned with spices and cook until a golden brown. Serve with a butter sauce.

Stuffed Egg Plant.—Cut egg plant into halves lengthwise, remove the inside and make of this a stuffing by chopping fine and adding chopped parsley and onions. Stuff the egg plant with the mixture and place in a casserole with plenty of melted butter. Simmer over a slow fire until all is well cooked. Cover the top with bread crumbs, add a little melted butter and keep hot until served.

Panama Salad.—Place a slice of pineapple on a bed of lettuce. Lay sections of orange on pineapple slice to form a cone. Garnish with a cherry cut into points. Add a bit of green pepper for cherry stems or chop it and sprinkle over the orange.

The first ancestor of the sandwich family was a meat sandwich. They are substantial things, often meant to take the place of a full meal or the main part of a meal.

The meat sandwich, is often a dainty affair, but its meant to satisfy hearty appetites and is filling and practical. Ham as the meat for sandwich filling would no doubt receive the most votes, so we'll serve a few as follows:

Ham Sandwich.—Mix one cupful of chopped ham, one sweet red pepper chopped, one tablespoonful of olive oil and one-half teaspoonful of made mustard. Spread on buttered bread.

Tastes differ as to the amount of fat used—many prefer to remove the fat. The ham when used in slices should not be too thin; spread with salad dressing and thin slices of sour pickle, or lettuce may be used between the bread. Also some prefer the pickles served separately.

Ham Sandwich Delicate.—Lay thin slices of cold boiled ham on buttered bread and sprinkle with powdered sugar and ground cloves. This has a flavor like the edge of baked ham.

Ham and Egg Sandwich.—Chop equal parts of boiled ham, hard cooked eggs and cucumber pickle, mix with salad dressing and add salt. Spread on buttered slices of any kind of bread.

Ham and Currant Sandwich.—Mince very fine enough cold boiled ham to make a cupful. Mix with it one-half cupful of currant jelly and a saltspoonful of paprika. Work to a paste, adding a tablespoonful of chopped capers and spread on thin strips of whole wheat bread.

Ham Loaf for Sandwiches.—Take two cupfuls of cooked ham, one-half cupful of bread crumbs, one small onion chopped, two canned pimentos, a tablespoonful of chopped green pepper and one-half cupful of tomato soup. Add enough water to moisten. Bake in a loaf. Slice when cold and use as filling with lettuce.

Ham With Chowchow Sandwich.—Mince sufficient boiled ham to make a solid cupful and enough chowchow and mustard pickle to make one-fourth of a cupful. Mix enough of the liquid mustard from the bottle to soften to the spreading consistency. Use on buttered rye or whole wheat bread.

Bedtime Story for the Children

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

"You must be careful not to get your feet wet, you know," said Father Turkey.

"Yes," said the little turkeys, "Mother was telling us to be very careful not to get our feet wet for the first four weeks of our lives, for if we do we will never be strong or well turkeys.

"If we're careful—well, then we will be strong and well turkeys."

The little turkey drew a long breath, for he had said all that without stopping.

Father Turkey laughed and said,

"Well, anyway, you know just what you should do. Your mother teaches you very well."

"Why did you ask us if we were spring turkeys, dad?" asked the little turkeys.

"Didn't you know whether we were or not?"

"Yes, I knew," said their father, "but I wondered if you had heard of the autumn and of Thanksgiving."

"No, mother hasn't told us about Thanksgiving," said the little turkeys.

"Is Thanksgiving something to eat, daddy?"

"No, Thanksgiving is something which eats us. That is, we are supposed to be good food for Thanksgiving and for Christmas, too."

"We are going to be eaten?" asked the little turkeys, in frightened voices.

"Cheer up, little turkeys," said Father Turkey. "It sounds quite dreadful to you now, but it won't when I explain it to you.

"And it is best for me to explain it to you. Then some one else won't have to explain it to you—some one else who might not understand the whole thing.

"You see," said Father Turkey, "Thanksgiving Day is a day when they give thanks for all the fine things they have in this world.

"When some people came over to this country years and years ago they set aside a day upon which to give

"Yes, I Know," Said Their Father.

"Well, it's a day that is kept year after year after year, and in order to celebrate it in great style they have turkeys to eat.

"It's a great honor that they pay us.

"They also have turkeys for Christmas which is a day still greater than Thanksgiving Day.

"And more than the compliment that they pay us is the fact that we're fed so well and given so much to eat before Thanksgiving Day that we never have to hunt for our food. We are given all the goodies we want, and we are made fat in the most delightful fashion.

"To be sure, all of us aren't eaten, but it doesn't matter whether we are or not, for we don't know it when we are, and we do know all about the delightful days beforehand, when we eat and eat and gobble and gobble and gobble and eat!

"When your mother was looking after you I kept watch all the time to see that no harm came to you.

"I warned her whenever danger was near.

"I will teach you now to roost in the trees, and I will teach you how to put your heads under your wings.

"Yes, you're fine spring turkeys, you are!"

VEGETABLES LOSE COLOR

The bright, attractive coloring and firmness of texture of vegetables often are lost by poor methods of cooking, especially poor methods of boiling. All vegetables become soft or mushy and discolored when cooked a long time.

Interesting Ways of Serving Lettuce

Who ever heard of cooking lettuce? The bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture, among others interested in trying out new ways with familiar foods. Braised lettuce, preferably of the iceberg type, is an excellent change in the way of a green vegetable. The suggestion of bacon flavor given by using bacon fat makes the lettuce especially tasty. Here's how it's prepared:

- 2 large hard heads iceberg lettuce
- 4 tbs. bacon fat
- Salt
- Pepper

Cut each head of lettuce into four pieces, taking care that a portion of the center stem is left on each section to hold the leaves together. Heat the fat in a large skillet, put in the lettuce, cover, and cook for 30 minutes, or until the lettuce is tender. If much liquid is drawn out of the lettuce, discard some of it during cooking. Turn carefully if necessary. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and serve on a hot platter.

How to Drape Dress Over Shoulders

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A dress that does not hang properly from the shoulders never looks well. On rather stout or on round-shouldered figures alterations sometimes have to be made in a foundation pattern before the material is cut. The illustration shows how this may affect the shape and size of the armhole unless special attention is given to it. In illustration A the back was raised at the shoulder seam so that the shoulder line was kept in the original position while the dress was balanced at the underarm seam. The extra goods at the bottom of the armscye remained unaltered. This change can be made after the material is cut, but all changes are best on a foundation pattern which serves for future uses.

As the changes in illustration B necessitate cutting they can only be made on a foundation pattern. A dart which has been taken in the front is equalized by cutting and separating the parts of the pattern in the back. These changes do not alter the size of the armhole. If the armscye is altered the sleeve will have to be altered an equal amount in order to keep the same relation between the edge of the sleeve and the armscye.

Detailed suggestions, with many illustrations, on fitting dresses and blouses, may be obtained by writing to the bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture, which has prepared a helpful bulletin on the subject, No. 1530-F.

Spring Suits Are Interesting

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY

Not are you going to wear a suit this spring, but what kind of a suit are you going to wear? that is the question. Now that you know you want a suit—for every style-alert woman does this season—just what type will you choose?

It is not such an easy matter to decide upon the spring suit as it might at first thought appear. Indeed, what with an infinite variety of materials, colors, contours challenging to a final decision the adventure of suit hunting becomes a breath-taking experience. The quest for a suit leads from the strictly tailored to most alluring softly-feminine types.

However, whether you choose a navy or black classic, a shortjacket suit, or a three-quarter coat and matching skirt, or perhaps a novelty type feminized with such beguiling details as capelets, peplums, boleros, nipped-in waistlines or belted effects, the fact remains that a chief fascination of this season's suits are the materials from which they are made. Perhaps never in the history of a generation, at least not in the memory of this day and age, have the media of which suits are created offered such a wide range of weaves and winsome colorings.

Outstanding in the list of new suitings are loose-woven lacy tweeds which make a daring play on color, sponsoring not only the very bright shades but indescribably lovely pastels as well, also most intriguing mixtures. The suit modeled in the picture is the more striking because of the handsome and unique material of which it is made—a cheshire tweed of wiry but lacy texture in a red, black and brown mixture exploiting a diagonal pattern. The flared inset gives graceful movement to the skirt. Suntan kid oxfords and a beige hat complete the costume.

For the business girl who aims to look correctly tailored, yet not severely so, this suit of colorful mien would be just the thing. The several colors intermingled in the weave of the tweed admit of many blouse changes, so that whether enroute to schoolroom or office, one's appearance each day may be refreshingly different. The program, for instance, might include for today a beige crepe or satin just-over-the-hip blouse; for tomorrow a tuck-in of lacquered red shantung, followed later in the week by a sleeveless model of brown handkerchief linen or pique. Of course each blouse would be complemented with accessories of related colorings. Brown kid shoes, even red ones with hats to match accent the chic of the costume.

A struggle between an owl and the engineer of an electric express train has been reported at Linkoeping, in southern Sweden. The bird, probably attracted by the headlights of the locomotive, burst against one cab window and broke the glass. Well inside, it sank its claws into the shoulders of the motorman and attacked him with its bill. The engineer could not leave his grip on the switch, and a fierce battle ensued while the train raced on its way. At last the motorman succeeded in strangling the bird, which was an unusually large specimen.

First Auto Speeder?

Another record is shattered. A man named Auto Jim Quinn has long claimed the distinction of being the first man arrested in America for auto speeding. That was in 1903. Now comes along a statistician of the auto industry who says the honor should go to Thomas W. Sherin of Minneapolis, who was dragged into court in that city in 1902 and paid $10 for driving his auto more than ten miles an hour.

Acidity

The common cause of digestive difficulties is excess acid. Soda cannot alter this condition, and it burns the stomach. Something that will neutralize the acidity is the sensible thing to take. That is why physicians tell the public to use Phillips Milk of Magnesia.

One spoonful of this delightful preparation can neutralize many times its volume in acid. It acts instantly; relief is quick, and very apparent. All gas is dispelled; all sourness is soon gone; the whole system is sweetened. Do try this perfect anti-acid, and remember it is just as good for children, too, and pleasant for them to take.

Any drug store has the genuine, prescriptional product.

IOWA PAIR HAVE FIVE SETS OF TWINS

Their Only Worry Is Finding Alliterative Names.

Council Bluffs, Iowa.—To most fathers the arrival of a pair of twins comes as a shock, but Andrew Koger has become inured and only smiled when informed his wife had given birth to their fifth pair.

Pride shone from his glance as he announced: "They told us before there were several families with four sets of twins. Now it's a cinch we've got them beat."

Married in 1905, Mr. and Mrs. Koger half expected twins when they learned their first baby was coming, for there were twins in both branches of the family.

They were disappointed the first time, however, when Orren, now twenty-four, appeared. High hopes faded three years later when Ellery was born and almost disappeared two years later, when Bessie made her appearance.

Then hope flared again and was rewarded with the appearance of Clyde and Claude in 1913. Abbie and Addie followed in 1915, and Floyd and Lloyd came in 1920.

Said Andrew to his wife, as she fed the latest arrivals:

"I told you so. There's twins and twins on both sides. There'll be more. You wait and see."

Two years passed before Jean and Jeannette showed up, and the parents named them and sought more alliterative names for use in case Andrew's prediction was fulfilled in greater portion.

Jack, now five, interrupted their search, and they began to believe the twins had ended, but last year hope was renewed.

Now Koger, who is forty-eight, ruminates as he works for the Union Pacific transfer in Council Bluffs, and his wife, forty-two, wonders as she works about the house, for more alliterative names may be needed.

"You never can tell; it may be the will of God; if more come, they will be taken care of and they will be welcome," Koger explained.

And little Jack, who, his father says, "by right should have been a twin," wonders and asks why people say "he's a single," as though that was something of which he should be ashamed.

American Students Will Tour Sweden

Stockholm, Sweden.—The first American student tour of Sweden, conducted by Prof. George M. Stephenson of the University of Minnesota, will take place this summer, according to plans made by a committee appointed here. Many prominent American educators have shown interest in the venture and the American advisory committee includes Prof. John A. Walz of Harvard university, Prof. Adolph S. Benson of Yale university and Prof. Robert Herndon Fife of Columbia university.

Limited to twenty-five undergraduates, the party will sail on June 27 on board the liner Gripsholm. The tour will combine sight-seeing with a series of lectures at the Stockholm university. Places of historic interest as well as the plants of some of Sweden's most important industries will be visited.

Under Knife 50th Time Due to His Experiments

Baltimore, Md.—Dr. Frederick H. Baetjer, internationally known Hopkins roentgenologist, is again at the hospital for an operation, at least his fiftieth, due to his dangerous work. Doctor Baetjer has lost in succession nearly all his fingers.

The rays have affected both his arms and caused the loss of one eye. He also has undergone several skin grafting operations. Doctor Baetjer's associates refer to him as the "last of the old guard." A pioneer in his field, most of his associates have paid with their lives for their investigations. Though often urged to retire, Doctor Baetjer refuses to give up his work.

West Still Has Cattle Rustlers to Bother It

Arizona cattle rustlers stole 30,000 head of cattle, valued at $1,500,000, last year, according to an estimate by Hoyt Medler, secretary of the live stock sanitary board.

"There is more rustling going on in this state now than at any time in history," Medler declared, explaining that many Arizona bootleggers rustle cattle as a side line.

Kerosene Can Found Source of Long Years

Hastings, Minn.—Austin Knapp, ninety-six, Civil war veteran, believes not only wealth but also health comes from the soil, and the fountain of youth is in a kerosene can.

A spoonful of sand and a sip of kerosene are the daily health givers which Knapp credits with aiding in his longevity.

He says he intends to live another ninety-six years if he can.

CLOSE MOUNT VERNON ROOMS TO OCCUPANCY

Erect New Building to House Society Members.

Washington.—Never again will the bedroom where George Washington slept be occupied by an ordinary individual.

The Mount Vernon Ladies' association, a group of women from the 48 states who control and manage the Washington mansion, 18 miles south of the National Capital, have just finished an improvement at this historic place which means that the home of George Washington henceforth will be sacred from modern occupancy.

Since it was taken over by this group of women, restored and opened to the public, it has been occupied only three days of each year. That was when the Mount Vernon ladies came in May for their annual inspection visit. Then the mansion was closed to the public and at night the ladies slept in the historic Washington bedrooms. Now this will be a thing of the past.

New Building Nearly Ready.

Workmen are putting finishing touches on a handsome new building within the limits of Mount Vernon, which will be occupied by members of the Mount Vernon staff who live there, and has sufficient space so that when the ladies make their annual inspection visit they can sleep in the new building instead of in the mansion itself.

The new building is a low, rambling structure, copying the original architecture as closely as possible. It has strictly up to date modern features, however, including a three car garage and all necessary plumbing and bathroom equipment. It will fit into the landscape so that the average tourist visiting Mount Vernon will hardly be able to distinguish it from the original buildings.

Visitors Increasing.

The number of tourists visiting Mount Vernon is increasing in number from year to year, until now the historic estate nets an income from admission fees of more than $150,000 annually. No other historic spot in or near the Capital has an equal drawing power. Last year the total number of visitors was more than 600,000.

Twenty-five cents is the price of admission, and the mansion is open six days a week. A bill providing for its being taken over by the government is now pending in congress, and though this legislation will meet considerable opposition, there is a possibility of passage.

Operated by the government, the admission charge undoubtedly would be abolished. Only one government building in Washington has such a charge—the Lincoln museum, which is housed in the dwelling where Lincoln died.

The admission fee there is necessary because the house is not government owned.

Fabled "Lost Grass" Is Found on Western Farm

Bellingham, Wash.—The fabled "lost grass" of Europe, amazingly rediscovered recently on an Oregon dairy farm, is in such a heavy demand that the government experimental station wonders how the world managed to get along over a century without it.

The story of this strange grass is a romance of a far western stump farm. One year a peculiar pasture grass was found to die early in summer, when all growing conditions were in favor of green things. As soon as autumn rains fell the same pasture turned a dark green, as the dead grass suddenly returned in exultant resurrection.

Government experts were asked to study the field.

Examination of the plant revealed a bulbous root and bulb-like seed pod. The government agricultural experts could hardly believe their eyes. They all agreed that as nearly as could be determined it was the long lost, much written about grass which sleeps or hibernates while other varieties are green, then thrives best in the winter when food for live stock is low. It forms a perfect turf even under heavy snow or ice.

Experiments have been carried on in Australia, New Zealand, Alaska, Oregon, California and in Scotland, the original home of the pasturage.

Not only is the strange grass a perfect food for cattle, but the turf-making qualities make it valuable for winter lawns and parks and for golf course greens.

Various experimental stations of the Department of Agriculture are working to increase a supply of the "lost grass" for the increasing call from farmers and seedsmen.

Dog "Jailed" for Hunting Dead Master at Burials

Belfast.—Police "arrested" a dog which followed every funeral that passed through the streets, hoping, officials believed, to find his dead master. The dog invariably trotted underneath hearses.

The animal was placed in a dogs' home.

Swede Invents Umbrella to Be Carried in Pocket

Stockholm.—A regulation size umbrella which can be folded together and tucked away in an overcoat pocket or a lady's handbag has been invented by C. A. Kihlstroem in Stockholm. It has telescoping shaft and struts and weighs only a few ounces.

FIVE-YEAR-OLD BOY KNOWS HIS BIBLE

Quotes Items From Scriptures With Facility.

Cincinnati.—If some person were to approach five-year-old Jacques D. Rietze and maternally lisp, "Ith 'e 'itty boy 'appy?" she'd probably receive some such amazing reply:

If the minister should walk into the Rietze home and query of Jacques, "What was the greatest factor contributing to the defeat of the Ephraimites at the Jordan?" the boy likely would reply: "They didn't know their pronunciation."

Since he was four Jacques has been studying the Bible. He has learned more of its contents in that time, perhaps, then the average individual learns in a lifetime.

He knows and can furnish identities of Nebuchadnezzar, Belshazzar, not to mention the more public characters of Moses, Noah, and Abraham. He can deliver a sermon, quote scripture, and define "metaphysics," as well as "ecclesiastic."

His one handicap is speech. So zealous is he to impart his knowledge of religious subjects to listeners that the words fairly tumble out of his mouth. Consequently, he is rather difficult to understand in speech, as well as subject.

Like normal boys of his age, he delights with his toys, but even at play he mumbles Biblical quotations to himself. Once a passage is read him he never forgets and can repeat it verbatim.

His mother first acquainted him with the Bible. A few preliminary readings, however, and Jacques took the initiative to learn more. Mrs. Rietze cannot explain her son's unusual acumen and is fearful that he may become "not enough like other boys." However, when attempts are made to divert his mind to other subjects his day is spoiled, his mother declares.

A month ago Jacques was ill. Noticing the distress of his mother, he calmly assured her, "Don't worry, mother. Christ will cure me."

An Old Goat Pasture Now Colony of Wealth

Toronto.—In the suburban village of Forest Hill there is perhaps a greater concentration of wealth and power than in any other place of its size in Canada. Scarcely more than half a dozen years ago a large portion of the site of the "millionaire village" was a goat pasture. Small boys used to drive cows to and from wooded fields night and morning.

To make it easier for his sons to find the right pasture field among many wooded fields, which looked more or less alike, one farmer placed a sign bearing the words, "Forest Hill," on a small hilltop.

From that sign the village took its name when it was incorporated in December, 1923.

Earns More Than Hubby; So Wife Loses Alimony

Butte, Mont.—That large and increasing class of Americans, divorced husbands, won a material victory over the equally large class of divorced wives, in court the other day when District Judge Frank L. Riley ruled that an ex-wife is not entitled to alimony if her pay check is larger than her ex-husband's—this, assuming there are no children in the wife's custody.

Night Golfing on Tiny Links Is Latest Fad

Syracuse, N. Y.—Night golf, made possible through floodlighting miniature courses, is becoming a country hobby, according to A. H. Clarke, lighting expert, who has completed installation of lighting equipment for a score of such "midget" links in California, Florida and North Carolina.

Illumination is provided by 18 500-watt floodlights, equipped with diffusing lenses to eliminate the glare.

Turn Natural Gas to Glass in New Process

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Conversion of natural gas into "Vinlyte," a glass product, was announced as a distinct forward step in the glass manufacturing industry today by Dr. W. A. Hamor, assistant director at Mellon institute. Although the new product, in its crystal transparency, closely resembles glass and possesses qualities lacking in ordinary glass, Vinlyte does not weather well.

Cleanliness, but Hard on Rest of the Outfit

After a 12-day voyage we arrived at Brest, France, in July, 1918. We marched to the Pontanazan barracks that afternoon. Our outfit was assigned to two barracks, with a promise of a bath on Wednesday.

Water was very scarce there, and at each end of the barracks assigned to us was a barrel of water for drinking purposes.

I happened to get up about two o'clock in the morning and leave the barracks. On my return I saw Mike Connors in the barrel taking a bath. I told him that he should have known better, as the water was very scarce there. He said he knew that, but he really did need the bath and couldn't wait any longer.

"We'll drink out of the other barrel at the other end of the barracks, then," I commented.

Denver Boy ... is a Winner

Every mother realizes how important it is to teach children good habits of conduct but many of them fail to realize the importance of teaching their children good bowel habits until the poisons from decaying waste held too long in the system have begun to affect the child's health.

Watch your child and at the first sign of constipation, give him a little California Fig Syrup. Children love its rich, fruity taste and it quickly drives away those distressing ailments, such as headaches, bad breath, coated tongue, biliousness, feverishness, fretfulness, etc. It gives them a hearty appetite, regulates their stomach and bowels and gives tone and strength to these organs so they continue to act normally, of their own accord. For over fifty years, leading physicians have prescribed it for half-sick, bilious, constipated children. More than 4 million bottles used a year shows how mothers depend on it.

Mrs. C. G. Wilcox, 3855½ Wolff St., Denver, Colorado, says: "My son, Jackie, is a prize winner for health, now, but we had a lot of trouble with him before we found his trouble was constipation and began giving him California Fig Syrup. It fixed him up quick, gave him a good appetite, made him sleep fine and he's been gaining in weight right along since the first few days, taking it."

Miniature Farms

Government officials estimate that there are 5,000 farms of less than three acres in this country to which individuals gave their entire time last year. In taking the 1930 agricultural census, areas of less than three acres will not be listed as farms unless they produced as much as $250 worth of farm products in 1929. Small areas of more than three acres will be classed as farms regardless of the value of products if the land is actually being farmed.

Pianos to Fit Horses

In order to transport pianos over mountain trails or difficult roads, an enterprising German manufacturer has constructed a special type of the instrument, which permits it to be carried on horseback. The piano has a U-shaped lower section which fits the animal. Other pianos are made dismountable so that they can be transported in several packing cases on the backs of mules, and assembled on delivery, because the instrument would be ruined were it to be hauled over many of the trails for hours, and often days, in a cart drawn by oxen.

Mrs. I J. Wooten who has been very sick is improving.

The Easter Service held from New Union held from New Union church Easter Sunday was attended by a large crowd. Several ministers took part in the different features of the program. Special singing and instrumental music was furnished throughout the day by Misses Eschol and Cana Stroud, Ila Beck and the Marlow brothers.

The cut off cast away telephone line is nearing completion which will extend from Sheffield to Turkey Foot.

Messrs W. T. and W. M. Dyson and families spent the Easter holidays with relatives.

Mrs. Elias Smith and Miss Cana Stroud spent Friday in Statesville shopping.

Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Craver, Mr and Mrs. Charlie Brogden, of Greensboro were among the Easter visitors.

Our Special Offer on Kelvinators
Expires Saturday, May 3rd

ACT NOW----Save Money and Begin to Enjoy Life More

Housewives who are using Kelvinators are enthusiastic over the service they get from this wonderful appliance. Kelvinators not only promote health, protect food, save money and make life more enjoyable generally, but they actully save the housewife time when it is most needed.

The new Kelvinator, with its several new features, is easily the most complete electric refrigerator that has ever been produced-It performs service in the home which the housewife of even a few years ago did not dream of. In fact it is one of these things that are so good, so worth while, so utterly desirable that it would appear to be almost "too good to be true." It IS true though, and the cost of operation is almost insignificant when compared to the service performed.

Not only is the cost of operating a Kelvinator extremely reasonable-probably much lower than you have any idea it could be-but the first cost is extremely reasonable. Under our special offer almost any housewife on our lines can afford to install and use a Kelvinator.

Don't let this opportunity pass. You at least owe it to yourself to carefully investigate the Kelvinator and what it will do for you and your family. Through our special offer you can have one of these wonderful appliances installed right away, and enjoy the comfort, pleasure and economy it will do for you and your family. Through our special offer you can have one of these wonderful appliances installed right away, and enjoy the comfort, pleasure and economy it will bring to your home while paying for it through easy monthly payments.

This offer ends on SATURDAY, MAY 3. INVESTIGATE AND BUY NOW-AND HAVE NO REGRETS.

Do you really know your cigarette?

YOU'RE PARTICULAR about the other things that are so intimate a part of your personality. What about your cigarettes? There are several hundred grades of leaf tobacco. What kind of cigarette do you smoke?

If you smoke Camels you smoke the choicest tobaccos grown. For the famous Camel blend is based on the use of tobaccos of superlative quality. It is only from them that you can expect that smooth, rich, mellow mildness and that fragrance and aroma found in such perfection in Camels.

We buy the right tobaccos . . . the very choicest delicate leaves of Turkish and Domestic. In their curing and preparation we use the most modern and scientific methods. And we alone possess the knowledge of the marvelous Camel blend.

That's why Camel is able to furnish real cigarette pleasure to more millions than have ever given their patronage to any other cigarette.

Some Here.

The back seat driver usually knows just how the car should be driven and as a rule is free to express an opinion on the matter. Every community has a lot of back seat drivers. They have no public spirit of their own and are never a part of any community project, yet they always know how these things should be done. No car driver has any use for a back seat driver and the average community has just about as little use for the fellow while he never takes part in the community projects, at the same time is always ready to knock and tell how it should have been done.
