Golf Course, Development Get Initial OK

By Richelle Bailey
Davie County Enterprise-Record

A new golf course and housing development that could bring 350 families to Davie County was approved by the county planning board last week.

The planners unanimously approved a request from Oak Valley Associates to rezone property from Residential Agricultural and Industrial to Residential R-20 Special Use and Residential R-12 Special Use.

The request was originally submitted as General Use, but was amended to special use by the planning board.

The 560.5 acres is off N.C. 801 in Advance between Underpass Road and Smith/Carter Creek.

Attorney Henry P. Van Hoy represented Oak Valley Associates Limited Partnership.

"This is the first time in a long time that Davie County has a chance to hit a home run," said Van Hoy.

Van Hoy said the development would be planned and controlled.

A golf course and open space will consume 218.3 acres and 342.2 acres will be used for development. Only 1.4 homes will be allowed per acre, he said.

"The reason we want to rezone to both R-20 and R-12 is because we want both to develop neighborhoods," said Van Hoy. "Each neighborhood will have its own identity. We want to be able to appeal to different aspects of people."

Van Hoy said Oak Valley wanted to build this development in Davie County for many reasons. He said the county offers a good visual and residential environment.

The development could promote tourism and recreational resources.

"I can't believe someone wouldn't think this place would be beautiful." According to Van Hoy, all the utilities of the development would be underground and would be a looped

Rollins Named New Director For Chamber

The Davie County Chamber of Commerce has selected a home-grown businessman to lead the way in promoting Davie County.

Lee Rollins, who operates Sweet Lovers Haven on Depot Street, was named the executive director of the Chamber of Commerce at a reception Tuesday morning. Rollins will begin his new duties this week.

Rollins, who was selected from a pool of 68 applicants, was chosen because of his strong ties to the community and to business leaders, said Mike Hendrix.

"We looked for a person who would be just as comfortable with an executive at our largest industry as with a struggling small business owner or with a farmer trying to save the family farm," Hendrix said.

Rollins has served as president of Mocksville Business Associates, was a member of Leadership Davie in 1992, and worked on the All-American City Award, in which Mocksville/Davie County was a finalist. He is a member of the Mocksville Zoning Board of Adjustments and the Davidson County Community College Small Business Center Advisory Board.

Rollins is a graduate of Davie High School and a recent graduate of High Point University where he earned a bachelor's degree in business administration.

Rollins said his first task as director would be to talk with Chamber members and find out what they think the chamber of commerce needs to be doing.

And as a service organization, Rollins said he thought it was important for the chamber to make itself visible by getting more businesses and people involved.

County Delays Landfill Decision

By Laura Williams-Tracy
Davie County Enterprise-Record

Dumping Davie's garbage in Forsyth County is the least expensive way to handle solid waste, the county commissioners learned from an engineering firm's report Monday.

But the county commissioners, who must make the final decision on the county's trash, decided to spend two more weeks considering the vote before deciding whether to build a new, high-tech landfill or join a regional landfill in Winston-Salem.

Commissioners are feeling the heat to make a quick decision about the landfill. If they vote to join Winston-Salem, they want to do so before Oct. 9. Meeting that deadline could save the county money by avoiding a long-term requirement to monitor the Davie County landfill after it is closed.

County Manager Ken Windley said Monday that if the board approves the regional plan, garbage would begin being hauled out of the county in the next two months.

Dan Miles of the Winston-Salem Utilities Commission came to the board's regular meeting Monday afternoon to make a pitch for his city's proposal. He called the proposal a partnership that is fair to both sides.

"We would all be in this together as a partnership. We believe that's the incentive," Miles said.

Miles said Davie County garbage haulers would pay the same amount to dump trash in Winston-Salem as would haulers carrying Forsyth County and Winston-Salem trash.

Another incentive is the report the commissioners received Friday, which projects the Winston-Salem deal to be cheaper than building a new landfill that meets expensive state regulations for controlling groundwater runoff from garbage piles.

According to the report by Dewberry and Davis of Raleigh, building a Davie County landfill would cost $69 for every ton of garbage dumped. That number could increase to $79 per ton over 10 years.

Shipping the garbage to Winston-Salem would total about $47 per ton of garbage dumped. That number could increase by $2 per ton over the first five years to $72 after 10 years. Those numbers include the cost of building a central hauling station here where garbage could be packed onto larger trucks for the trip to Winston-Salem.

Both of the figures include money to continue the county's recycling program.

Windley said the findings of the study confirmed what he had already guessed; that the partnership was cheaper.

"We gave them the perimeters to evaluate this and they came up with the figures," he said. "It gives me a better level of confidence that we are on the right track."

Windley plans to talk with representative from Browning Ferris Industries (BFI) this week to investigate allowing that solid waste company to operate a county transfer site.

Picnic Next Week

The 113th annual Masonic picnic — with all the food and fun of years past — will return to Mocksville next week.

Carnival rides and games, including bingo, will be held at Clement Grove (behind the Brock Center on North Main Street) nightly Monday-Friday.

On Thursday at noon, the famous picnic dinner will be held, following a musical program by the Davie High School band, Oxford Orphanage Choir, a group from the Masonic and Eastern Star Home. The guest speaker for Thursday's program will be Graham Pervier, Forsyth County manager. He is a Mason and is master of Forsyth Lodge No. 707.

The picnic is sponsored by Davie County as Masonic Lodges in Mocksville, Furling and Advance. Proceeds benefit the Oxford Orphanage.

Steve Long, magician, will perform each night under the arbor. Nightly musical entertainment at 8 includes: Crystal Heart, Monday; Southland String Band, Tuesday; Backstreet, Wednesday; Davie Melody Boys, Thursday; and The Harvesters Quartet, Friday.

Which Is Worse? Hurricanes Or Enduring Floods?

People living along the Mississippi River levees don't usually have to worry about the threat of hurricanes. But pound for pound, most of them would be willing to match their Mississippi River flood of 1993 with the two most recent deadly hurricanes, Andrew and Hugo. The flooding still going on along the Mississippi may ultimately top Andrew and Hugo for total damage. The death toll from the flooding may equal or surpass the hurricanes by the time the water recedes.

But which is worse -- to be living on the coast watching a storm with 100 mph winds churning a path toward you? Or would you rather see flood waters inch their way higher and higher until you home is under water?

The truth is, losing your home by any means is no picnic. But if we had to pick a poison, a hurricane almost seems like the more humane way to go. A hurricane comes and goes within a matter of hours. It's a fierce storm, and there is no way to resist it. Homeowners have a few hours to board up the windows, load the car with valuables and get out of town. They come back when it's over.

Flood victims don't have it so easy. Along the Mississippi, they have spent day after day shoring up levees with sandbags. They have moved valuables to upper floors, thinking that would be high enough. The floods went higher. They have built personal levees around their homes. The floods went higher. They have used every type of plastic and flood control device to keep out the river. Most have failed.

They have worked endless hours on sandbag brigades trying to resist the flood. But the Mississippi River has not always respected hard work. With flood waters rising more than 40 feet in some areas, no amount of sandbags seemed enough to hold out the water. After resisting the floodwaters for days, some victims have seen the soggy levees give way -- unleashing the floodwaters finally across their property.

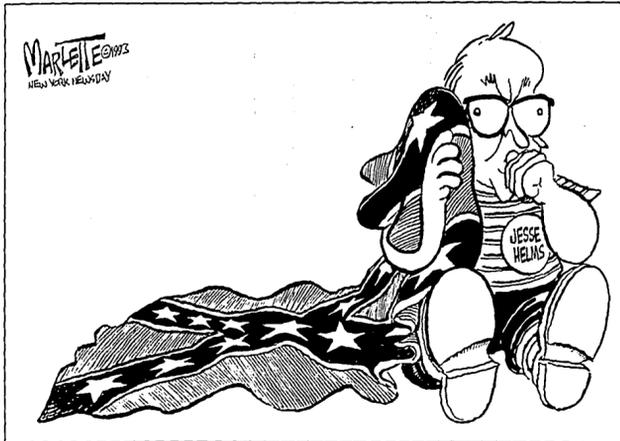

Hurricane victims don't try to stop the winds. They just hunker down in shelters and wait for it to pass. They get to begin the cleanup immediately. Flood victims have to wait for the waters to recede, and that could be days.

Floods don't wreak havoc with public utilities in the same way a hurricane does. But on the Mississippi, entire towns have been without water because their treatment plants have been swamped.

The victims tend to be different. The Atlantic and Gulf coasts are heavily populated, and any time a hurricane goes ashore, thousands tend to be affected. Mississippi River flooding victims have primarily been farmers, and thousands of acres of cropland are underwater. A half-mile wide river has swollen to five miles wide and more. Some towns have been flooded when the levees have given way. But the largest cities, such as St. Louis, had levees that could withstand the threat.

But whether it's flood or hurricane, being forced from home is a great tragedy. Our hearts go out to the victims, and our respect for the forces of nature have been again confirmed.

Don't Blame Government

To the editor:
I am writing in response to the letter from the Cooleenme resident who says the "government is out of control."

National government is far removed from the governmental processes of Cooleenme. In so saying, answer this question: What does the landing on the moon in 1969 by the United States have to do with the Cooleenme town meeting?

If you are going to hold the government responsible for such an accomplishment, do it with pride. It takes a powerful government to orchestrate a project of such vast scope that benefited so many as mankind in such a small amount of time.

The crux of the matter is that people who are afraid of change and will not compromise need someone to blame other than themselves -- so they blame the government.

Something Wrong With Court System

To the editor:
Last week's letters by Beth Link and the Rev. J.W. James were just what we need to bring out the fact that something is wrong with our society. My own experience after two years and four months of delaying tactics proved that fact. I have witnessed several court proceedings and was surprised at the ignorance of some lawyers. Concerning the James letter, Judge Davis is still operating the Court under 19th century rules, as prescribed by the Bar Association. Today's courts are more interested in procedure than justice.

Masons Seek Picnic Contributors

To the editor:
Another year has passed swiftly and it is time again to plan for another special day when we come together for the annual Masonic Picnic. This year will be our 113th event and will be held on Thursday, Aug. 12.

As in years past, we will be able to make this a memorable occasion with your help. Well-filled baskets of delicious food are needed to make the dinner the highlight of the day. Those who attend each year always have favorable comments concerning the quality and abundance of the food, and good fellowship is enjoyed by all.

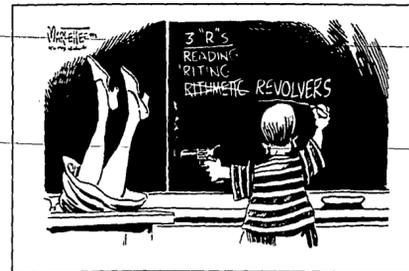

Please have your food on the table, ready to serve, no later than noon. You may drive up to the tables, where the men will unload your food and park your car for you. Be sure to register with the girls at the center table and receive a basket contributor ribbon.

As you know, the proceeds from this picnic enable the Masons to help support the Masonic Orphanage at Oxford and you will be able to see and visit with some of these children from the orphanage at the picnic.

If for any reason you find it impossible to bring a basket this year, please remember this worthwhile cause with a cash donation. Join us for fun, food and fellowship on Thursday, Aug. 12, for the 113th year. We look forward to seeing you and we are counting on you.

3 Year Olds Would Make Great College Students

You can learn a lot of great things in college. Go to Princeton University, and you could learn proof that if "n" represents any whole number larger than two, there is no solution to the equation $x^n + y^n = z^n$.

Mike Barnhardt

A Princeton University mathematics professor has produced a 200-page argument that he says proves Fermat's last theorem.

If the whole idea of n's and x's and z's has you bumfuzzled, don't worry. I've been to college and have no idea what the theorems are all about. When professors and teachers talked about such stuff, my brain froze. They told me there was a real use to all of the "new math," that learning it would help my thinking skills. Sometimes I think too much anyway. I told them.

The teachers kept talking. And the C's and D's, the kind without "nd" powers that are easy to understand, kept showing up on my report cards.

Just when did we get away from addition, subtraction, multiplication and division? Just when did we begin to teach students how to solve a problem rather than balance a checkbook?

Unbalanced checkbooks have ruined more lives and marriages than any theorem. But wait dear, let me prove to you that if our balance on July 10 represents "y," and checks I've written since then equal "z," and multiply each by the nth power to equal our current balance, then there is no way that the checks I've written caused our account to be overdrawn. Try that, and you'll be looking for a new mate. Try the same argument with the sheriff, and you'll have a new place to live as well — in the jail.

So when did we change to this new way of studying math? I think the change happened sometime during the 1960s. LSD was big on college campuses about that time, too. That brings another good question: Which altered more brains, Fermat's Theorem or LSD?

College professors are big on trying to prove simple things. I remember one professor who spent 2½ class periods — that's about eight hours of my valuable time — arguing with students about his hand. He held it in front of his face and told us to prove to him that it was there.

"You can't fool me," I said quickly. "I see your hand and I see your face and I see your hand in front of your face so your hand is in front of your face." I sat back and waited for the praise for catching on so quickly. The professor glared and called me a simple-minded hick. I was crushed. I thought the guy was kidding. I spent the rest of the semester sitting in the back of the class dreaming about all the parties (The real reason to go to college) I was missing.

That professor was serious. And the other students actually did spend hours arguing with him. I sat in the back, dejected and disinterested. I managed a "C" only because I got the help of a dorm mate who actually understood such arguments.

Maybe those arguments make your brain think in more logical terms. Maybe it is good that colleges are teaching students to think to the nth power.

I do know one thing. Three year olds would make great college students. They wouldn't settle for any proof to a theorem or proof to a simple hand in front of the face. They would ask "why," something professors like to hear.

Answer Still 'Blowin' In The Wind'

When I was a freshman in high school, my best friend and I played guitars and sang their songs. It was the 60s and folk music was about peace and love and freedom, and no one did it any better than Peter, Paul and Mary. I still pull out my guitar occasionally and play "Cruel War," "Lemon Tree," "Where Have All the Young Girls Gone," and even "Puff the Magic Dragon," and I'm back in the 60s. It was a time of war, when peace became a rally point for thousands of people, young and old; it was a time of re-examining traditional values and testing new ones; it was a time of civil rights and freedom marches and of violent anti-war protests. It was the perfect time to take up tambourine and acoustic guitar and sing about injustice, about an end to intolerance and about promoting brotherhood. Peter, Paul and Mary, along with a host of other folk singers, led the way with their music. Songs suddenly took on a new role. Now instead of just singing about new love, lost love or star-crossed love, songs had a message; the lyrics were about the times and issues of the day. They were gentle and not so gentle reminders of the need to come together, to be more politically and socially accountable and to find a way to look beyond skin color, religious or ethnic differences and allow everyone the same opportunity and freedom.

The 60s have come and gone, the Vietnam War ended and times have changed. Or have they? We may not be "at" war, the Berlin Wall may be down and communism no longer a serious threat, but the battles are far from over. The newspaper headlines tell us that the skirmishes have just moved closer to home. Our most serious threats are on our own streets and in our own neighborhoods. It's racial violence, drug-related crimes and assaults and a shocking lack of respect for human life.

Lynn Hall

that leads to random and senseless violence from which no one is safe.

After 30 plus years together, Peter, Paul and Mary are still singing and performing, and were in the area recently. I mentioned that I'd like to go and see them and my children turned up their noses. "That's old stuff, mom."

Old? Yes, the music has been around awhile, but it's hardly irrelevant "old stuff." A few weeks ago, sitting on a blanket at Walnut Creek Amphitheatre, listening to the trio perform the songs we loved in the 60s, one thing was for certain: the messages were as important and as relevant as ever. What about Bosnia? The Middle East? South Africa? The Los Angeles riots? Terrorism? Skinheads? Drive-by shootings? Child abuse? The murders, rapes and assaults making front page news daily in our hometown papers?

The lyrics may be "old" but hardly out of date. It shouldn't surprise us to find that Peter, Paul and Mary are still singing, "How many deaths will it take till he knows, that too many people have died?" And as sad and disheartening as it may be, the answer is "still blowing in the wind."

Police Looking Into DCH Break-In

Mocksville police are looking into an attempted break-in at Davie County Hospital.

Would-be thieves apparently tried to cut through the roof to gain entry to the pharmacy area.

Officer K.L. Hunter received the call at 8:15 a.m. Tuesday, July 27, and found where medicine in a vault area had been damaged by rain.

The rock rooftop to the hospital had been cut in two areas. No estimate was given for damage to the roof, although approximately $100 worth of medicine was damaged.

Golf Course Planned

system from N.C. 801 to U.S. 158. The main entrance to the development will be off of N.C. 801. Several emergency entrances will be reserved.

Letters from Advance and Smith Grove fire departments were presented, saying that fire access was good in the proposed plan.

A letter from the Davie Schools Superintendent Dr. Bill Stedel was also presented and said the development would not adversely affect the school system.

"This project enhances life," said Van Hoy. "This project would bring people here and would work with the community."

Van Hoy said the development would rid the county of the huge industrial zone and would cure what he called the present problem with a gun club.

Bo Davis, a developer with Davis Marketing, discussed the overall marketing strategy.

He said the development would revolve around golf lovers. He said the golf course would be open to the public to play on any given day or memberships would be offered. There will also be a pool, tennis club, golf house, and a park for children.

"This is affordable country club living. This is a golf club community style at affordable prices," said Davis.

Golf Pro Arnold Palmer helped design the proposed course. Davis said the group brought Palmer here because he is loyal to this area. He plays in the Vantage Golf Tournament every year at Tanglewood and was a graduate of Wake Forest University.

In the developed area, there will be three sections of housing, low, middle and high price ranges. Each section would have a separate entrance.

"This place gives green space and price ranges. It offers what the public wants," said Davis.

Land designer Brad Davis said the development is situated in a valley, which is fundamental in providing open space. He said there will be two oak trees at the main entrance to serve as a landmark. He also said there will be a steep valley hillside that can be seen from the clubhouse. The first half mile of the entrance is open space, so the golf course can be seen.

Terry Bralcy, chairman of the Davie County Council of Economic Development, said his committee unanimously supported this project.

"This place will be the envy of many places in North Carolina. I have never worked with or seen such planning as has gone into this project. This could be Davie County's greatest asset. This could be the premier project not only of North Carolina, but of the entire United States," said Bralcy.

Board Member Bert Bahson and Board Chairman Robert Dwiglins were concerned with why the request wasn't submitted as special use property instead of general use property. Special use makes the developer go by specific plans, while general use allows re-zoning for a variety of uses.

"I don't want it to be on the map but nowhere else," said Dwiglins. "We would like to have some control over what is said is actually done. The people of Davie County need guarantees."

The planning board unanimously recommended to county commissioners that the development request be granted.

Indecent Liberties Charge Is Upheld

Judge Robert W. Johnson found the state's evidence convincing enough to order Jose Terry Dales Jr. bound over for trial in Superior Court on a charge of taking indecent liberties with a child in a probable cause hearing in Davie District Court last week.

Dales, of Duke Street in Cooleman, is charged in connection with incidents involving a 14-year-old girl. The girl testified that Dales had touched her in an inappropriate manner on "my private parts." She testified that this had gone on for three years, but she did not tell anyone until she went to live in South Carolina.

Judge Johnson order Dales bound over for trial in Superior Court on the felony charge.

Teen-Ager Sentenced

A 16-year-old Davie County youth, Mickey Wayne Roseman, was sentenced to 24 months in jail as a committed youthful offender in Davie District Court last Thursday.

Roseman had been charged with two counts of breaking and entering to a motor vehicle and two counts of misdemeanor larceny, simple possession of marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia.

The felony breaking and entering charges were reduced to misdemeanor tampering with a motor vehicle under a plea arrangement and the possession of drug paraphernalia charge was dismissed.

The breaking and entering charges stemmed from two separate incidents, one on April 6 and one on June 28. Stereo equipment was taken from both cars. The equipment was recovered. The marijuana charge occurred on June 23.

Roseman was on probation for another breaking and entering to a motor vehicle charge.

Roseman's attorney James Myers, said his client's was a "sad case." "He said the defendant had dropped out of school after eighth grade and was finding it difficult to find a job.

"I hope what ever sentence you impose will be a lesson for him so that he can get his life turned around," Myers said.

Marine Lance Corporal Brant Yandell communicates with aircraft in his military job.

Davie Man Helps Marine Unit A Key To Success In Air

Yandell, son of Steve and Anne Yandell of 33 Creekwood Dr., enlisted in the Corps shortly after graduating from Davie High School in 1991.

During Operation Desert Storm, Yandell's squadron, an element of the 4th Marine Expeditionary Brigade, took part in one of history's greatest military deceptions. As the largest Marine amphibious force to be assembled in more than three decades, the 4th MEB waited off the Arabian coast poised to strike, but never did. Though these Marines never directly engaged the enemy, their presence was a key ingredient in driving Iraq's military machine out of Kuwait.

As the enemy braced itself for an amphibious attack across the beach, coalition forces struck from the desert to the south and west. On the coast, Iraqi forces were taken by surprise. By the time they realized their mistake, it was too late, and in the resulting panic their fate was sealed by coalition air power that decimated the fleeing Iraqis as they attempted an escape on the road to Basra.

Currently, Yandell's squadron is setting back into work at Cherry Point after a recent deployment to Puerto Rico for Ocean Venture '93, a joint U.S. forces exercise.

Friday At Noon Deadline To File For A Town Office

Friday at noon is the deadline to file for election to public office in Mocksville, Coolemece and the Bermuda Sanitary District.

Anyone interested in running for one of the non-partisan offices should register with the Davie County Board of Elections, Davie County Courthouse, during regular business hours before Friday, Aug. 6 at noon.

The filing fee for each seat is $5. Two town commissioner seats are open in Coolemece, but only one candidate, Robert "Buck" Smitherman, has filed for election. One candidate, Bill Cranfill, is the only candidate for mayor.

In Coolemece, the terms for mayor and commissioners are for four years.

In Mocksville, all incumbent board members, James Wall, Buster Cleary, Thomas Fleming, Steve Walker and Dr. Francis W. Slate, and one new challenger, Linda H. Barnette, have filed for a seat on the town council. This is the first year for a non-partisan and four-year staggered terms for the commissioners.

The three candidates who receive the highest number of votes will be elected for four-year terms, while the two who receive the next highest number of votes will be elected for two-year terms.

Incumbent Mayor D.J. "Nick" Mando is the only candidate to file for the mayoral seat. That is a two-year office.

William C. Hancy is the only candidate for a four-year term on the Bermuda Sanitary District.

Davie Man Held In Kidnapping

A Route 4, Mocksville, man is expected to be extradited to South Carolina to face charges of kidnapping and carrying.

Rodney Lee Kennedy, 27, was apprehended last week as he tried to cash a stolen check at a Salisbury bank. Police scuffled with Kennedy and took him into custody.

The check that led to his arrest was reported to be in a car that was stolen in Myrtle Beach, S.C., after its owner, Michael E. Page of Charlotte, was beaten, robbed and left in a wooded area. Page was vacationing at the beach.

Kennedy is being held in Rowan County Jail under $50,000 bond. He also faces charges in Rowan County of possession of stolen goods, forgery and uttering and delaying, obstructing and resisting an officer. He is expected to appear in Rowan District Court Aug. 9 on those charges.

Teens Seriously Hurt In Wreck

Yvonne Foster, 19, of Route 4, Mocksville, was taken to N.C. Baptist Hospital.

Pratt was listed in satisfactory condition in intensive care with a broken spine and wrists. Foster was listed in satisfactory condition.

Damage to Pratt's car was estimated at $2,500.

Roads Public Hearing Scheduled

There will be a public hearing to assign names to the private roads in the northern half of Davie County that is divided by I-40.

The paper signs that are still up have faded white and the numbers may no longer be legible. "We are aware that some of these signs did not stay up very long and everyone living on these private drives may not have seen them or may not have called in yet, so if you think your private drive qualifies for a name, please contact me at the Planning and Zoning Department - 634-3340."

If your private drive qualifies for naming (by having two or more dwellings on it), it should have been identified by the field verification workers. They have posted a bright yellow-green paper sign, that refers to the drive by a number at the bottom

More Charges Are Filed

Additional charges have been added against four youths accused of kidnapping and shooting two Bermuda Run teenagers in July.

Davis, Bryan and Cedric Caldwell are facing additional charges related to other robberies in the city. Davis faces four additional counts of armed robbery. Bryan has been charged with possession of stolen goods and Caldwell faces three more counts of armed robbery and larceny of a motor vehicle. Police say those charges stem from robberies in the parking lots of the Holiday Inn North and On the Fringe restaurant.

All four of the men were in Forsyth County Jail with bond set at $500,000 each. Another $20,000 was added to David, Bryan and Caldwell's bond.

Jermaine Tyrone Davis, 17, of 2001 Lime Ave., Axtown Leon Bryan, 17, of 1917 Lime Ave., Anthony Denard Caldwell, 18, of 1844 N. Trade St., and Cedrick James Caldwell, 16, of 1444 N. Trade St.

Correction
A caption under the front page photograph last week incorrectly identified a teen-ager as Will Edwards. It was Will Dwiggin.

Davie High Students Visit In Europe

By Laura Williams-Tracy
Davie County Enterprise-Record

Davie High students traveling in Europe recently learned to depend on each other for a vital skill — language.

Responding with the time to the question, "Que hora es?" makes perfect sense to Janet Robertson's Spanish students.

And Susan Wall's French students were quick to interpret the menus in street cafes.

This nine-day trip was the first taken by language students at the high school, and it was planned to make students excited about the language and country.

The group of eight students, two teachers and one parent, left for Paris June 23 and spent the first four days in France. They visited the crowded city of 14 million people and saw such French national treasures as the Arc de Triumph, Notre Dame, Eiffel Tower and Montmartre, the highest point in the city.

On several days the group ventured into the countryside to see the Loire Valley and Versailles.

"Now they get excited about France," Wall said. "When I'm teaching I get very excited about the country and now they do too."

Lanette Lagle, a parent on the trip, she was sure that Frenchmen are romantic when a street artist gave her a kiss after she bought his painting.

The Spanish students said they enjoyed visiting France but were at a disadvantage when they needed to speak. "We were completely dependent on each other in each country," Robertson said. "I wouldn't want to venture into a country if I didn't know the language or wasn't with someone who did."

After four days in France the group loaded on a train for a 15-hour ride to Madrid.

During the night, students were amazed to learn that at the Spanish border, the train they were riding was lifted completely off the track and equipped with a new set of wheels.

Spanish train tracks are not uniform with those across Europe, and the wheels must be changed to allow the train to continue, Christina Cassidy said.

"We got up the next morning saying 'we were in the air last night.' Everybody thought we were crazy."

The four days in Spain were spent visiting the Royal Palace of King Juan Carlos, the Prado Museum, a monastery and the medieval city of Toledo, where artisans make gold jewelry.

Those who had not been to Spain said they expected it to be similar to Mexico, but found it much cleaner and more modern. "It was a city of gold and marble," Wall said.

The students said one of the few things they disliked about both countries was the citizens' poor driving habits. Roads have no traffic lanes and driving a car is a never-ending battle to get where you are going, they said.

Motorists who end up in wrecks spend a few minutes yelling at each other and then simply drive away, never reporting the wreck to police.

"I couldn't get used to the way they drive," said Brad Lagle.

Some American foods were more expensive in Paris and Madrid than in the states. "A Big Mac at McDonald's was $6," Robertson said. "A Big Mac at home could cost up to $5 and a Big Mac at home was $6."

But the students found that Europeans are interested in American culture. Lipos to the movie "Indecent Proposal" were long, and several stores boasted T-shirts and men's ties adorned with American flags.

One In A Series Of Five Commissioned Paintings by Samuel D. Bissette

During 1986, Mocksville Savings Bank, ssa commissioned Samuel D. Bissette to paint a series of watercolors of the Mocksville Masonic Picnic. This was done in an effort to preserve this historical event in color for the present and future generations to enjoy.

Mr. Bissette was born in Wilson, NC in 1921, and has lived since in eastern North Carolina. He was associated with the Savings and Loan industry for many years and retired as President of Peoples S&L, Wilmington in 1977. He became interested in painting in 1970, and sought instruction with University of North Carolina, Wilmington, artist Edwin Voorhees of North Carolina, and John Pike of Woodstock, N.Y., noted watercolorist and illustrator.

His specialty is watercolor painting, but he has also worked in other media. His style is traditional transparent watercolor with representational subjects taken from field trips in the United States and abroad. He has done a number of group painting projects coordinating subject matter, and method of presentation, for corporate sources. For personal satisfaction, he paints steadily from his best material from a wide range of subjects that include everything except portraiture.

His work, primarily in watercolor, is widely distributed throughout 40 states in the U.S. and several countries abroad in individual, corporate, and public collections.

Mr. Bissette's work has been shown in selected exhibitions throughout North Carolina as well as in Washington, D.C. and New York City. Between 1974 and 1982 his work won seven awards from the North Carolina Watercolor Society, and juried competitions including First Place in Spring 1975 show.

His selected professional affiliations include American Watercolor Society (ASSOCIATE); North Carolina Art Society; Saint-John's Museum of Art, Wilmington, N.C. (Exhibiting Artist), and Watercolor Society of N.C.

Shoaf Renews Faith In Today's Teenagers

GREENSBORO — With drugs, thefts, kidnapping and shootings becoming increasingly popular among America's youth, it sure is nice to meet somebody like Raleigh's Craig Shoaf.

Shoaf is the type that renews our faith in today's teenager.

He is a strapping 6-1, 205-pound blonde. He flirts with the cheerleader types. He doesn't use his spare time hitting the streets but rather, opposing running backs. If he picks up a gun, it's to go hunting with his father. If he steals something, it's an errant pass from the opposing quarterback. And the strongest drug he takes resembles Ny-Quil.

So with all this going for him, think of how his father felt last week while standing on the sidelines of Jamieson Stadium, watching him play the final high school football game of his life in the prestigious East-West All-Star Game.

Earl Shoaf was one proud papa.

Shoaf and brother Ronnie grew up in Cooleman. Their dad, Hubert, who still lives on Main Street, brought them up right. Earl remembered what he was taught and passed it on.

Fortunately, Hubert's genes were also passed on. Like Earl, Craig listens to his father. Because of it, his father calls him hard-working, dedicated and competitive.

What better compliment could a son receive from his dad?

Ward Greet 70 Prospects To First Football Practice

By Ronnie Gallagher
Davie County Enterprise-Record

Davie High School football coach Randall Ward saw a shirt he liked at the East-West clinic last week.

"Sorry dear, football's here," was the message emblazoned on the front.

Ward laughed because his wife Vickie knows all too well about the life of a football coach.

"It's a good thing she likes football," said Ward after Monday night's first football practice of 1993. "She doesn't see a lot of me. I tell her, 'I'll see you about Thanksgiving.'"

Ward, starting his fifth season as head coach at his alma mater, finally got home Monday at 11 p.m. His adrenaline was still flowing, despite being a little discouraged from the turnout. A total of 70 prospects attended the first practice.

"I was kind of disappointed," he said. "But the good thing was that the guys who did show up had a good practice. There was a lot of enthusiasm about what we were doing. So I'm pleased with that."

Ward, a former 1,000-yard rusher at Davie, said this is a special time for him.

"It's a feeling you get a Christmas time," he said. "I was ready. I was at the school at 9 a.m. and had high expectations all during the day. There's so many last-minute things going through your mind, like getting the field ready."

Ward will keep 30-32 on the varsity and around 39 on the jayvee team. But his senior class does have talent and he was happy that the players were in good shape.

"I was well-pleased with the shape we were in," he said. "It wasn't bad outside. We were lucky to have a good day."

Davie practiced from 6:30-9 p.m. but Ward said he may cut the start back 15 minutes.

After 2-Year Hiatus, Lankford's Golf Game Isn't Suffering At All

By Ronnie Gallagher
Davie County Enterprise-Record

Jeffrey Lankford spoke with Bermuda Run's Uly Grissette recently. Grissette, a pro golfer, is sidelined from the Nike Tour with an injured wrist.

"He's probably never struggled like he is now," Lankford said of his former Davie County High School and N.C. State teammate. "It's got to be tough."

Lankford, an assistant pro at Twin Cedars Golf Course in Mocksville, played a couple of rounds with Grissette. The best thing that came out of it was his advice.

"Hurtin' his wrist may be a blessing in disguise," Lankford said. "He can get away from the game for a little while. His attitude will be good when he goes back out."

Grissette would do well to listen, Lankford is speaking from experience.

Currently, Lankford is playing perhaps the best golf of his career. His confidence is at an all-time high.

And ironically, it's because he turned his back on the game.

Methodist Coach Glad Matthews Is Coming

By Ronnie Gallagher
Davie County Enterprise-Record

Methodist College baseball coach Tom Austin was looking for righthanded pitching when he went recruiting this spring.

He got what he wanted in Forbush High School and Mocksville Legion star Scott Matthews.

Matthews signed with Methodist during the summer while helping Post 174 to a 28-10 record and a Southern Division regular season title.

"We're real excited," said Austin. "We think he can help us."

Matthews will be joining one of North Carolina's top college baseball programs. A member of the Dixie Athletic Conference, Methodist has a good history. It has been invited to 13 consecutive NCAA tournaments and has finished as high as third, that coming in 1992. A year earlier, it was fourth.

This past season, Methodist matched the Legion's record of 28-10 and was placed in the NCAA Regional in Rocky Mount at N.C. Wesleyan. But it lost two straight.

Matthews is better off pitching for Austin than against him. Methodist led the nation in stolen bases this past season with 164.

Baseball Notes

Austin is glad to have him. He said he first heard about Matthews through a note in the mail from Matthews' high school coach. He kept up with the off-speed specialist as he led Forbush to an 18-8 season and a berth in the 2-A quarterfinals, where it lost to Cherryville.

Matthews was eventually named to the North Carolina Baseball Association all-state team.

"We lost several pitchers from last year," Austin said. "We think Scott has a lot of potential and that he'll keep improving, especially since we're getting him into one sport year-round."

Methodist, which is located in Fayetteville, will play 8-10 games during its fall season. Matthews will get a good look during that stretch.

"That's a critical time for freshmen," Austin said.

Big League Wrapup

Whether Davie County teenagers play for the Mocksville Legion or for one of the area's two big league teams, the results are the same.

Mocksville won the regular season of the Southern Division but didn't outmatch Alan Chapman's Davie National Big League, which won its district regular season with an 11-5 record.

Boyd As Hot As The Temperature

Sean Boyd, a freshman at North Davie Junior High, is having quite a summer on the golf course. Boyd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Boyd of Brevard, has been touring the state with the state team. Boyd also played in the Future Masters Tournament in Alabama July 9-11.

There were 719 boys participating, some from as far away as Africa and Spain. Boyd was one of the few North Carolina golfers to make the cut. In fact, after one day, he was second, one shot behind the leader.

Boyd is currently playing in the 44th annual Junior Amateur Championship of the Carolina Golf Association in Charleston, S.C. Aug. 3-5. He has placed third in two previous appearances.

As a freshman, Boyd will be eligible to play for Davie High School next spring. Davie County High School had no one participating in last week's East-West all-star games in Greensboro and Winston-Salem.

In fact, Davie hasn't had a player since 1989 when Andre Frost played. A total of 13 former War Eagles have played football and basketball. The first seven participants were in football: John Grimes (1963), Ed Bowles (1962), Ronnie Spry (1966), Edgar Osborne and Randall Ward (1967), Fred Bailey (1968) and Allen Burger (1970). Then, basketball took over, sending the next four War Eagles to that sport: James (1970), Dwayne Grant (1977), Jill Amos (1980) and Angie Browder (1984). The last two players were in football: Chris Jacobs (1984) and Frost.

Davie coaches Jack Ward, Bill Peeler and Mike Carter have coached in the games. West: The Winner For one of the few times in recent years, the western part of the state dominated the East-West all-star games.

The West won both basketball games and the boys soccer match. The girls tied in soccer. The only East win came in a 10-7 football victory.

The Central Piedmont Conference made a name for itself as well. Dudley's Dorian Wilson shared Most Valuable Player honors in the West's 103-95 boys basketball win.

Grimsley boys basketball coach Robin Linkins helped work during East-West Week in Greensboro but took time out to talk about last basketball season — and Davie County.

Linkins remembers vividly the day he picked up a newspaper and saw Davie had defeated number two seed Reynolds in the first round of the Central Piedmont Conference tournament. His eyes almost popped out of his head. "Our guys had really been pointing toward Reynolds," he said. "I was afraid they'd have a letdown, facing Davie (the seventh seed)." He went straight for his players to recruit them to be focused. "Every time I saw one of the players that day, I said something about Davie winning," Linkins said. "They were really focused for it." That was evident in the Whites'

107-69 win. In fact, Davie seemed to bring out the venom in Linkins. In the first game between the two during the regular season, Davie actually led at halftime. Linkins ripped his team during intermission. "That was the worst I got all year," he said.

Linkins also pointed out that he tried to help Bubba Coleman as much as possible with the recruiting process. "Every college coach I saw this year, I told them they should recruit that kid," he said. "They'd talk about Milton or (Linwood) Skinner or Reynolds but I always said something about Bubba too."

Recruiting was no problem for his team. All five starters: Rayshon Seymour, Mike Workman, Sean Stimpson, Milton Williams and Matt Kovank received basketball scholarships. Guards Kovank and Williams are going to Maryland and Loyola of Maryland.

But even with the talent, Linkins said he would have found a place for Coleman in that starting lineup. "He would have started for me," Linkins said, indicating he would have moved the 6-4 Kovank to the three spot and moved Williams to the two guard.

Linkins still remembers how impressed he was with Coleman during the 28-point tournament run last basketball season — and Davie County. "When the game had been decided, I saw four of their guys throwing it up from everywhere," he said. "But right to the end, Bubba was hustling, competing and working hard."

Where Will Bubba Go? Coleman was still debating on where to go to college as late as last week. He was all set to continue his education at UNC-Chapel Hill, when some late recruiting by Wingate's baseball coach had him thinking. "Every time I saw one of the players that day, I said something about Davie winning," Linkins said. "They were really focused for it." That was evident in the Whites'

Hendricks Going To State John Hendricks' father went to Davie High. His grandparents still live here.

The only problem is, Hendricks isn't playing his baseball here. Instead, the 15-year-old star is leading his Kernersville all-star team to national prominence.

Hendricks and Kernersville won the North Carolina 15-year-old championship in Forest City last week by battling through the loser's bracket.

Kernersville had to defeat Brevard twice and did it behind Hendricks, who had a two-run homer in each game.

He pitched a five-hitter in a 9-2, first-game win over Brevard. He finished with four RBIs. In the second game, a 17-5 rout, his homer helped Kernersville capture the state title.

Hendricks and his teammates traveled to Easley, S.C., for the regionals, where they will meet the South Carolina champion.

Davie jayvee baseball coach Jim Lighte got more than he bargained for when he traveled to Atlanta last week for a game between the Braves and his beloved St. Louis Cardinals. He also got to see the remnants of a fire. Lighte had tickets on the night a caterer set the Fulton County Stadium press-box on fire. Lighte said he was in his hotel room preparing to leave when he just happened to turn on the television and see the report. He stayed away until around 9 p.m. and the game finally began at 10. There was just one problem. Lighte had seats just below the pressbox. "Everything was charred," he said. And the worst part was, Lighte had to move — way down the third base line. "We were almost in the cheap seats," he said.

Davie American's Big League entry placed third at 8-8. A total of eight Davie players made the league all-star team, coached by Chapman and Lee Linville.

From the champion Nationals

were Brad Chapman, Ron Armstrong, Chad Newsome and Jack Fowler. Armstrong and Fowler were among the top sluggers in the league. Both finished with four home runs. Armstrong batted .525 on the season.

Davie American, coached by Hunt and Bobby Bowers, placed Jason Tomberlin, Thad Cassidy, Cody Seagraves and Matt Salt. The all-stars lost quickly in the state playoffs, however, and it was painful. Both losses were in extra innings.

Lankford

the week-long PGA Qualifying School, one of the more grueling stretches for a golfer.

It was like a dream. He was actually a professional golfer, just like Ben Crenshaw. Just like Jack Nicklaus. He would be able to travel with his wife, Angela.

Angela, like Lankford would be paired with the likes of Tom Watson. The days of romping around Hickory Hill Country Club with the Shelton boys as a kid was only a distant memory.

But the dream ended so quickly. After one year, his sponsors backed out. He didn't finish in the Top 125, losing his PGA Card. To play in a tournament, he had to call sponsors almost daily.

He was relegated to the Jordan Tour for two seasons, which he likened to Triple-A baseball.

"The competition is good but they don't treat you as well," Lankford remembers. "On the Tour, your meals are taken care of and everybody sets up your hotel reservations. The Jordan Tour is a lot like minor league baseball."

Lankford mentions baseball frequently, perhaps because that was his other love as a kid.

"Baseball and golf swings are a lot alike, just on a different plane," he explained. "A lot of your baseball players are good golfers."

And like a good minor league player, Lankford was ready to be called up again to the big boys. He played well as a Jordan member, making the cut in all 12 tournaments. But calling sponsors was damaging to his pride.

"I tried for a while," he said. "It just got old. Calling people was getting stressful. We were moving back home (to Davie County from Greensboro) and I was having no luck in getting sponsors. So I decided to take a break."

Forgetting Golf
Taking a break is punting it mildly. Lankford put the golf bag away — period. "For two years, I didn't pick up a club to hit balls or anything," he said.

The clubs were replaced by shovels and hammers. He went to work in construction with his uncle, Donnie Lankey.

Lankford looked out of the window at Twin Cedars, watching golfers soaked with sweat in the 95-degree heat.

"We'd work on a day like this," he said with a smile. "I wondered a lot of time what I was doing out there."

Meanwhile, he and Angela moved into a home near Cornutier Road. "Our families grew up only about a mile and a half apart," Lankford said. "But I never met her until college. She was rooming with Lily's girlfriend at the time."

Whether he was shoveling sand or getting out of a sand trap, Angela would support him.

Thanks to another of Lankford's former N.C. State teammates, Todd Phillips, she is back to supporting a golfing husband.

Let's Play Golf
Phillips kept in touch. In February of 1992, his group needed one more player for a foursome at Tanglewood.

Lankford gave in. He played. "I can't remember the exact score but I was surprised at how well I played," Lankford said.

His confidence renewed, he became the assistant pro at Twin Cedars two months later.

Being in familiar surroundings helped him ease back in the game.

"I know basically everyone who plays regularly here," he said. "As suddenly as Lankford forgot about the game, the memories captured his spirit again. Thoughts of picking up his first club at age nine seemed like yesterday. So did his 1978 N.C. Junior Championship in Gastonia. He remembered the thrill of winning a Furman at Hilton Head while at N.C. State.

And there came last month's North Carolina Open.

Winning The 'Big One'
Lankford had played in other tournaments but the N.C. Open in High Point was the biggest for club pros. During the first two days, Lankford stayed within shouting distance of the leaders and went into the final round one shot back. "Playing with the leaders, he hit-and-four of the first 10 holes. He caught them at number six and took the lead for good one hole later.

"There's a little pressure when you start a round but you calm down," Lankford said. "When you have the chance to win, you feel the pressure again."

When Rick Morton birdied and eagled late while Lankford was bogeying the 15th, it all could have come apart. But this is where the time off from the game helped.

"When you're younger, a bad couple of holes you may panic a little," the 29-year old said. "The older you are, it helps your attitude."

Lankford calmly hit a couple of long and true drives down the fairway that helped him sew up the prestigious victory.

"Driving is the best part of my game," he said.

He won $4,200, more than he ever took home from a tournament on the PGA Tour.

It didn't take long for word to spread. Davie County was once again cheering for Jeffrey Lankford.

"It was great," he said. "I got home that day about 4 p.m. and the phone rang constantly until 8. Me and Angela finally went out to eat just to get away."

His secret to success may be that he won't allow himself to be saturated with the game.

"I hardly play at all unless it's a tournament," he said.

That may change, however, if his scores continue to improve.

"It's fun again," he said. "That's the main thing that made me decide to get back into it."

And Lankford finally admitted what everyone at Twin Cedars wanted to hear.

"I'd like to give qualifying another chance," he said, aiming once again at the PGA Tour. "Me and Angela have talked about it. If I can find a sponsor again, I'd love to try it. I'd definitely like to be involved with golf one way or the other. I'm working toward being a head pro somewhere."

"It's the greatest thing in the world to watch your son do something good on the field," Shouf said just before the opening kickoff.

It's even better when the son excels off the field. Before the game even began, the NCISAA's Dick Knox presented Craig with a plaque for his academic prowess. He had one of the game's top grade point averages.

"I'm probably prouder of that than his football," Shouf said.

Craig followed in his dad's footsteps. Earl, a 1966 graduate of Davie, led the War Eagles to their best season ever in 1965, when they finished the regular season undefeated. He was rewarded with the starting quarterback role in the North-South All-Star game. He later played a couple of years at Appalachian State University and then came home to coach at Davie High in 1970.

But when he left coaching two years later to join Crescent Electric, his football days appeared over. He moved to Raleigh and began his own company.

"I didn't go in a football game for seven years," he said. "I was afraid I'd miss it. Then, Craig started playing."

That gave Shouf a chance to return to his favorite game. He coached his son in little league and Pop Warner. The "old Earl Shouf" began retraining.

"My wife always wanted me to be nice to Craig as the other boys," he said with a smile. "But you expect more from your own son."

Craig was short and chunky back then, according to his father. His first position was tackle.

Shouf cringed. "I thought, 'Gosh, I don't want my kid to be a tackle.'"

But Craig shot upwards in height and weight. He started for Earl Smith's Raleigh Millbrook team as a sophomore. He was all-conference as a junior. By the time his senior season rolled around, Shouf was completely immersed in his son's career.

"Craig's so much different than I was," Shouf said. "I was a nervous wreck. He just goes with the flow."

Shouf was asked about his demeanor while watching his son. He grinned broadly.

Earl Shouf Craig Shouf

"Too many people in Davie County know me," he laughed. "I'm not very calm. I lose it every now and then. But I try to keep quiet on the sidelines and not embarrass him."

Oh yeah, Shouf was on the sidelines for every game Craig played at Millbrook. He ran the chains just to make sure.

"I wanted to be as close to him as I could be," he said. And get this. The active booster club member seldom missed practice and even helped line off the field on Friday morning.

"In the last three years, I probably haven't missed five practices," he said. "The ladies in my office tell me they're glad when football is over so I can go back to work."

And when a game ended? "People would ask me about it and I'd say I had to watch the film. I didn't watch the game. I watched one player."

The routine was the same each and every Friday.

"A group of 10-to-20 people would end up at my house after a game," Shouf said. "We'd get some pizza and hamburgers for the kids and sit down to watch Friday Night Football. Then we'd watch the game film. Some dads paid to have it taped. We'd do that until 1 or 2 in the morning."

Craig dislocated his elbow in the seventh game and didn't play again until the playoffs. Millbrook defeated Purnell Sweet but lost in the second round to Greenville Rose, finishing 10-2.

The end of Craig's career hit his father hard.

"It's been a great four years of high school," Shouf said with a sigh. "It's gone the fastest I've ever seen. It will be hard not going to football practice in the fall for the first time in eight or nine years."

He will still follow Millbrook athletics. His 14-year old daughter Suzanne is a cheerleader who has played basketball, tennis and run track. Whether Shouf attends every cheerleading practice, however, is yet to be determined.

Craig was recruited by many schools — whose enrollments were smaller than Millbrook's 2,000 student body.

"I left that completely up to him," Shouf said of the recruiting process. "He's a big N.C. State fan. He decided to go there and be a student."

That's why the East-West game intrigued Shouf so. Millbrook had players who signed with North Carolina and N.C. State — but they weren't in the game. Craig was.

"I wondered what this week would do to him," Shouf said. "It will be interesting. He'll either be gang-bro or say, 'This is it.' He told a reporter from Raleigh that he may try and walk on at State."

That's fine with his dad. "I don't want him looking back in three to five years and regret not trying."

Craig wasn't in the starting lineup but played most of the all-star game at linebacker. Many times, he was the one dragging down Antione Hard of Maiden and Tyrone Westmoreland of South Fredell, the top two all-time masters in North Carolina history.

His dad and Uncle Ronnie watched from the sidelines, wearing press passes given to them by a reporter.

"I never told him this but he's a much better player than get some pizza and hamburgers for the kids and sit down to watch Friday Night Football. Then we'd watch the game film. Some dads paid to have it taped. We'd do that until 1 or 2 in the morning."

Whether Craig ever plays another down, his father is satisfied with the results. Sports aided the maturing stage.

"Playing sports keeps a kid active and out of trouble," said Shouf. "Being with teammates, pulling together — it helps later on."

That was pretty much the same philosophy Hubert laid on Earl many years ago. Shouf remembers vividly the things he heard the next and has passed it on to Craig.

For instance? "I tell him to turn off the lights," Shouf said. "That's all I ever heard."

"It was basically dark when practice ended," he said. Ward would have liked more bodies on the field and not just players. He has only five assistant coaches on a coaching staff: David Hunt, Jerry Callison, Cary Powers, Tim Shuford and Jerry Walser. Walser coaches include Jeff Ward, David Gilbreath and Devore Holman.

* The team's Photo Day is scheduled for Saturday morning at 9 a.m.

* Tailback Hamilton Cutrell missed the first day of practice. The speaker was in Tennessee running in a national track meet.

Boosters Club Recruiting

There are seven ways to be a Davie County High School Athletic Booster, according to president Don Cassidy.

* General Membership: $15. War Eagle Club: For $25, you get your name in the football program.

* War Eagle Sponsor: For $75, your name in football program, an all-events pass for one person and name in the 1993-94 yearbook.

* War Eagle All-Events Sponsor: For $125, your name in the program, an all-events pass for two people and name in yearbook.

* Corporate Eagle Club: For $200, your name in program, all-events pass for two people, name in yearbook and halftime sponsor.

* Stadium Eagle Club: For $400, name in program, all-events pass for two people, name in yearbook, halftime sponsor, two season passes with four press box seats.

* Youth Passes: For $25, an all-events pass. Make checks payable to Davie High Athletic Boosters Club, P.O. Box 222, Mocksville, N.C. 27028.

Football Practice Begins

Assistant coach Jerry Callison works with two War Eagle prospects. Davie began its 1993 football practice Monday night.

If It's August In Davie County, It Must Be Time For War Eagle Football Practice

As they prepare for their Aug. 14 scrimmage at North Rowan, Davie High School football players and coaches ready themselves with exercise, weightlifting, getting the equipment ready and meeting the parents.

A total of 70 prospects came out for the varsity and jayvee teams.

Hamilton Cutrell is all business as he lifts weights before practice.

Assistant coach Cary Powers sets up a table full of equipment before Parents Night.

Other Davie Teams Started Practice, Too

If Pete Gustafson had a special feeling about the first Davie High School soccer practice, you couldn't blame him. This is finally what he considers his team and his team only.

"This team represents the first kids I started with," said Gustafson, entering his fourth season.

Despite coming off a 2-13-3 record, Gustafson said attitude around practice was uplifting. He has plenty of returning starters, including nine seniors, all of which saw action in 1992.

Among them are Ben Edwards, Scott Tutterow, Barry Zimmerman, Brent Ward, Joseph Ashburn, Brian Carter, Cam Koike, Bryan McNeil and Devin Speas.

"Most have played indoors all winter and Optimist in the spring," Gustafson said. "They're high right now. Ben is a returning all-conference player and Ward and Zimmerman are leaders. It's a good group."

Dan Calhoun and Matt Young, only sophomores, saw a lot of action also.

Gustafson welcomed 40 to the first practice, a few more than usual. Gustafson credited youth coaches like Jim Henderson, Joel Edwards and Tommy Evans as three of the main reasons the interest is growing in Davie County.

He is also expecting more. "Four or five are still on vacation," he said.

The first day of practice saw the players work 1-on-1 and on skills development drills. The team is practicing from 9-11 in the morning and 6:30-8 at night.

Gustafson was pleased with the conditioning of his players. "I took 20 to (Appalachian State University) camp," he said, "so they're a step ahead. The blisters are gone."

The team will be working mainly on offense. It had a hard time scoring last year. Defense, however, won't be a problem.

"We have all of our defensive players back except (James) Coulston," Gustafson pointed out.

"If we can score two goals, we should win. I fully expect us to be better. This is a group that can win 10 games. It all depends on how well we can generate offense."

"We missed a lot of easy shots last year. We're working on shooting drills. We need to maintain possession better. Last year, we'd have 30-40 turnovers a game."

Gustafson, a former star at Appalachian State, is as pumped up as his players.

"I'm excited about this group of kids," he said.

Gustafson will field a varsity and jayvee team. His first scrimmage is Aug. 16 at Salisbury.

Girls Tennis

Wow. That's what any coach would say when greeted by the talent Mary Ann Rankin saw at her first Davie High School tennis practice Monday.

Rankin saw five starters return from an 8-6 season a year ago and she expects the improvement in conference. "We're losing Grimsley and Dudley, so that's a win and a loss," she said. "Reynolds and Mount Faber usually have someone who can step right in. I'm expecting to finish third."

Rankin saw 15 come out for her team, not as many as last season. But the talent is there.

Number one seed Carrie Brown returns for her senior season. She was all-conference in 1992.

The only starter she loses is Kathy Civart. But numbers three through six are back: Tami Ramsey, Beth Campbell, Kelly Archer and Jenny Mando. They should all move up a spot.

"We're in better shape than we were last year," Rankin said. "Several went to camp at Wake Forest. Ramsey's played a lot this summer and has taken lessons."

Rankin will choose her number six player from a group that includes Tiffany Harris, Laura Pittman, Page Archer, Allison Buckner, Tonya Mauldin and Lori Vogler.

"We did some conditioning and played some challenge matches," she said. "We'll be doing that for the first two weeks."

Campbell is nursing a sprained ankle, suffered during a summer camp. "But she's dedicated and she'll be back," Rankin said.

Soccer Registration Underway

The Mocksville/Davie Parks and Recreation Department will have traveling soccer teams this fall. Anyone wishing to play on the Under-16 team has to be born between Aug. 1, 1977 and July 31, 1979.

The dates for Under-14 are between Aug. 1, 1979 and July 31, 1981.

The dates for Under-12 are between Aug. 1, 1981 and July 31, 1983.

Registration deadline is Aug. 22. There is a $25 fee, which includes insurance and registration fee. There will be no more than 15 on a team.

To register, come by the Brock Gym offices between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. For more information, call Lee Boyette at 634-2325 or 634-3877.

Eckelson Wins

Ronda Eckelson of Davie County won her first race at Farmington Dragway.

Eckelson finished first after six rounds of racing. She had a reaction time of .082. She won a trophy, hat and gift certificate.

There were two other women in the finals: Crystal Wynn and Kim Platt.

The Dragway was sponsoring Turkeyfoot Night at the Farm.

Tennis Tournament

Bermuda Run Country Club will host the Davie County Junior Tennis Tournament Aug. 5-8. Play is open to all players who live in Davie County. Players ranked in the state's Top 30 are not eligible.

The age divisions will be 18, 16, 14 and 12 in girls and boys singles and doubles play.

To enter, send a 3x5 index card with name, address, phone number, age and birthdate. Also, players should list the division they wish to play, tournament experience and number played on high school team.

Checks should be made payable to Bermuda Run Tennis.

Entry fee is $10 for singles and $16 per doubles team.

Players can call Bermuda Run pro Bill Appelt on Wednesday, Aug. 4 for first round match time.

Bullock Plays

Davie County's Pat Bullock played on the Winston-Salem senior women's 3.5 team that went to Mobile, Ala. for the USTA League Tennis Sectional Championships Sunday.

Bullock teamed with Mary Lih Slate won a doubles match, 6-2, 4-6, 7-6 in a 3-0 win over Bowling Green, Ky.

The team then lost to Lafayette, La. 3-0.

Fishing

Area fishermen were successful in recent tournaments.

Jeff McBride and Rick Parrish of Advance placed first at Buggs Island in the Kernersville Bass Anglers Tournament. They caught 24.83 pounds. McBride also had theunker, a 4.19-pound catch.

Danny Erving of Woodleaf teamed with Ron Lander of Salisbury to place second in the July 17 ARC Bass Tournament on High Rock Lake.

They caught 15.31 pounds and won $700. The winners won $1,500 with 18.03 pounds.

Erving also caught theunker, a 10.66 pounder, worth $440.

Paul Breedlove of Advance teamed with Kernersville's Scott Pope to place third in the Central Carolina Bass Tournament at High Rock Lake July 24.

The pair caught a total of 18.91 pounds, eight pounds less than the winners. Breedlove and Pope shared $250. The first place winners took home $670.

More Fishing

The Piedmont chapter of the Atlantic Coast Conservation of N.C. group of fishermen hoping to preserve coastal recreational fishing, will have an organizational barbecue Aug. 5.

For tickets or information, contact Bill Neely in Statesville at 704-872-6626 or 704-873-8961.

Weightlifting

North Davie athletic director Ron Kirk has announced times and dates for weightlifting sessions for football prospects.

Weightlifting sessions will be each Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 5-6:30 p.m. The sessions will continue until the first practice, Aug. 18.

Salisbury Golf

The fourth annual Salisbury-Rowan Home Builders Association Fall Captain's Choice Golf Tournament is scheduled for Sept. 16 at Corbin Hills Golf Course.

The entry fee is $40 per entrant, which includes green fee, cart, dinner and beverages.

This tournament is open to all golfers. For more information, call Mike Julian (704-636-0131), Kathy Stallens (634-0100) or Mac Butler (638-0101).

Softball Championships Thursday

The Mocksville/Davie Parks and Recreation Department's men's open and men's church softball championship games are almost set.

Softball

The men's open title game is scheduled for 7 p.m. and the church title contest is set for 8 p.m. Thursday at Rich Park.

One title has already been decided in midweek games. The Panthers are the 1993 champions.

Men's Open

The men's open regular season champion Airtite is already in the 7 p.m. final after defeating second place Hart's for the third time this season Monday night.

Hart's fell into the loser's bracket and was waiting on the winners of two other games: C&D Enterprises-Quik Lube and Sheffield-Sentry. Those winners will play and then take on Hart's Wednesday at 8 p.m. for the right to meet Airtite.

Men's Church Things have not gone according to plan in the 13-team church league tournament.

All four of the top seeds have already lost in the double elimination event.

Third-seeded New Union and fourth-seeded Victory 1 will play in the winner's bracket game.

In loser's bracket play, Liberty and First Methodist square off, as does Turrentine and Fork.

Turrentine is the big story. Going into its game with Fork, it had already defeated Concord and Blaise.

Co-ed Softball

If co-ed softball means anything, the sport is booming in Davie County.

The largest co-ed softball league ever will begin play Aug. 16 at Rich Park.

A total of 15 teams have signed up to play.

In fact, there are so many teams that play will be on both the softball field and the baseball field.

Airtite Qualifies

Airtite has qualified for the North Carolina NSA Class D tournament, to be held Aug. 20 in Charlotte.

Airtite accomplished the feat by placing ninth in the Western North Carolina state tournament in Charlotte. Barrington hosted the eastern tournament and the top 16 from each will now meet. Airtite did it the hard way, winning three come-from-behind games.

After splitting its first two games, it was forced to win the third against Mark Machine. The prospects didn't look good after Airtite fell behind 9-0.

But Alan Chapman's grand slam began the comeback and Airtite finally squeezed out a 13-12 win in eight innings.

In two other games, Airtite trailed 4-0.

Brian Osborne was the leading hitter in the tournament, going 12-for-23. Brian Pitts was 10-for-19. Jason McCray was 10-for-20 and Andy Everhardt 10-for-22.

Basketball In The Summer

Dinkins Takes 34 To Catawba Team Basketball Camp

SALISBURY — Although Davie County High School was still searching for a boys varsity basketball coach, it didn't prevent 34 War Eagles from participating in the recent Catawba Team Summer Camp.

Jaycee boys coach Mike Dinkins, who is 52-28 over his four years, took the players alone. "I didn't have any problems," Dinkins said. "It was a lot of fun and we played a lot of games." Davie put four teams in the camp, A-4A, A-team and a 4-A, B-team competed on the varsity level. Two jaycee teams, one with ninth graders and two eighth graders, and another with upcoming sophomores, also competed.

The A-team in the 4-A ranks was the most successful. It went 8-4 in the league before losing in the semifinals of the tournament. "We lost two games in the last five seconds or the record could have looked real good," Dinkins said. Shelby won the title. The B-team finished 8-8 and also gave Shelby its toughest test, losing by only one point. "And we missed a layup with 30 seconds left or we could have won that one," Dinkins said. The A-team consisted of Jared Eure, Deryl Wilson, Chad Alexander, Jason Smith, Chad Lanier, Eric Shook, Scott Tutterow and Jason Tutterow.

Barnhardt Puckett Murphy Vaughters
The B-team had Josh Ward, Scott Van Hoy, Jonathan Vaughters, Kevin Robertson, Jason Murphy, Lee Puckett, Clay Jones and Chris Dinkins. "I got to see some kids play and have them get used to each other," Dinkins said. "We like to get the North Davie and South Davie kids together, especially the ones who will play for me on jaycee next year." "And the good thing was that all of our teams were at least .500." As the only coach, Dinkins got his fill of a sport he says he adores. "There was one day I coached 17 games," he said. "If there was a conflict, I'd send a couple of the older players over to coach. But it wasn't as hard as I thought it would be."

Camp winners But what really set Davie County apart was the individual and 3-on-3 competitions. Josh Barnhardt, a rising freshman, won the Hot Shot Trophy. He scored points by connecting from different spots on the floor. "That was the fourth year in a row we've had somebody win the Hot Shot," Dinkins said, referring back to Brent Wolf and Robin Coleman (twice). Tim Gilbreath, Dony Smith and Jason Harbour also teamed up to win the 3-on-3 in their age group. A team of Eure, Wilson and Alexander made the finals of their division before being beaten.

Playing AAU Ball Helped Newsome

Emeralds Went To Nationals

It was difficult for Maria Newsome to get accustomed to the style of play in AAU basketball this summer.

For once, she wasn't the biggest player on the floor. The 6-3 Davie County junior played on the prestigious Greensboro Emeralds team that went to Chattanooga, Tenn. for the national tournament.

But it wasn't smooth sailing. Greensboro played only four games before being ousted. "One team from Florida beat us by 40 points," Newsome said.

Newsome started two games and said her high game was six points. And although growing an inch since last year, she was still dwarfed on occasion.

"It was really hard," she said. "I'm not used to all the competition. I'm used to being the tallest girl in the conference and I was playing against girls a lot bigger. There was one who was 6-9."

The team did participate in the Friendship Games, which was for the loser's bracket teams. In six games, Newsome said she performed much better.

The Emerald practices were tougher than the games. Every weekend for the past few months, Newsome and her teammates would meet for practices — some which last 2½ hours and others which lasted four.

But it has all been worthwhile, she said.

"I think I improved a lot," she said. "I'm stronger in rebounding. They taught me some new moves. And I handle the ball better."

Perhaps the most important part of the AAU tournament was that Newsome was seen by hundreds of college coaches.

And they obviously noticed. Added to the letters she has already received, two schools from New York ("Columbia was one and I can't remember the other," she said) and one from the University of South Carolina.

"There was a bunch of college coaches there," Newsome said.

While in Chattanooga, the team traveled the area, visiting, among other stops, an Aquarium and a Confederate Graveyard.

The Emeralds haven't broken up just yet. Newsome said the team was going to the Junior Olympics in Washington, D.C., which is just fine with her.

"I just love to play basketball," she said. "That's all I've done this

Playing With Dolls

Mocksville Women Are 'Addicted' To Hobby

By Laura Williams-Tracy
Davie County Enterprise-Record

With grown daughters of their own, you might think Shelbi Greene and Carol Staph would have outgrown playing with dolls.

But in the past two years their collection of handmade porcelain dolls has grown to more than 100. And the creating continues.

"You get addicted," Greene said. "You are thinking of a person and the doll ends up looking like that person."

For Greene, two dolls have been made in the likeness of her son, Bryce, who along with her husband, was killed in a plane crash several years ago.

"It's good therapy for me," she said.

Her first and favorite doll, a well-known Sugarbriches-style china and cloth baby, is named after her son. Staph said she started making dolls so that she could design them for her daughter's collection, which also includes the popular Madame Alexander dolls. By making the dolls, Staph said the dolls were more sentimental.

Her favorite doll is a tall, all-porcelain girl in a Davie High Dancing float outfit. The doll was made as a gift for Susan Wolf, the dance team advisor at Davie High School.

Making the dolls takes diligence and a steady hand. The heads and hands of the cloth-body dolls are poured in a mold and fired in a kiln.

The more expensive all-porcelain dolls endure the same process for a torso, arms and legs.

Carol Staph shows her favorite doll, made in the likeness of a Davie High School Dance Ensemble member.

After the porcelain has cooled, each dollmaker sands the porcelain until it is smooth and begins painting the delicate features — eyebrows, eyelashes, peach lips, teeth, painted fingernails and blushing cheeks.

While the paint dries, work begins on the cloth bodies, which are hand-made. The cloth bodies are filled with small, plastic pellets which help the dolls hold their shape. The pellets provide enough weight and structure that the dolls can sit up on their own.

Finally the heads and hands are attached to the bodies and baby clothes are sewn or bought for the dolls. "More are ordered in bulked packages or sleeping gowns.

The women also make china dolls from stuffed animals by replacing the stuffed face with a painted face.

Staph said the dolls, which range in price from $65 to $250, can be customized for anyone. They also make good baby shower and Christmas gifts. But she said it's not a gift a child should be allowed to play with. Each doll is signed and numbered, and some that are made for babies play music from a small music box inside.

Both women say they have gotten attached to some of the dolls but plan to show them at some upcoming craft fairs.

Walker-Howell Couple Married In Morganton

The wedding of Shelly Lynette Walker to Neal Edgerton Howell was held Saturday, July 17, at Mt. Home Baptist Church in Morganton at 11 a.m. Officiating at the double-ring ceremony was the Rev. Jerry Gamble.

A program of wedding music was presented by organist, Joy Gamble; pianist, Sandy Smith; and soloists, Lanny Smith and Meda Smith.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, Melvin Walker, wore a gown of candlelight ivory satin enhanced with pleated portrait collar encrusted with beads, sequins and pearls, chapel-length sleeves, and a fitted bodice. Her full skirt extended to a portrait length in front; and a chapel-length train in back. The gown was lavishly embellished with lace and enhanced with beads, sequins and pearls. She wore a crown of ivory and red roses, attached to a fingertip veil of ivory bridal silk illusion.

She carried a lace fan with silk flowers of red and ivory roses.

Melita Whisnant, bride's sister, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were: Hope Howell, bridegroom's sister; Barbara Mull, bride's cousin; and Sheri Smith.

Henry Howell was his son's best man. Ushering were: David Howell, bridegroom's brother; Bryant Edgerton, bridegroom's cousin; and Chris Finch.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Walker of Morganton. She is a graduate of Freedom High School and is attending the University of North Carolina at Greensboro, where she is a major in junior anthropology.

The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Howell of Mocksville. He is a graduate of Davie High School and attended Forsyth Technical College. He is employed by Food Lion Inc. in Advance.

Following a honeymoon to Gatlinburg, Tenn., the couple will make their home in Mocksville.

Reception
The bride's aunts, Lena Lail, Betty Lawing, Gail Lawing, Christine Chandler, Becky Mull and Shirley Perkins hosted a reception in the couple's honor in the church fellowship building immediately following the wedding ceremony.

Bridal Showers
Friday evening at 6:30, the bridegroom's parents hosted of a two bridal showers; one at the home of the bride-elect's sister, Mrs. Melita

Mrs. Neal Edgerton Howell ... was Shelly Lynette Walker

Whisnant. Assisting Ms. Whisnant were: Lem Lail, Shirley Perkins, Kathy Crowe and Lucy Barger.

Hostesses for another shower were: Trilda Stephens, Marlene Campbell, Ophelia Fortune, Diann Grady, Joy Gamble and Alisia Dale.

Couple Plans May 28 Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Allie J. "Buck" Carter of Route 2, Advance, announce the engagement of their daughter, Janice Faye Carter of Raleigh to Charles John Neff III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles John Neff Jr. of Richmond, Va.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Davie High School and the University of North Carolina at Greensboro, with a bachelor's degree in nursing. She is employed as a supervisor in cardioracic surgical unit at Wake Medical Center in Raleigh.

Neff is a graduate of Eichel Senior High School and Denison University, Granville, Ohio, with a bachelor's degree in economics. He is a senior sales representative for Mallinckrodt Medical in Raleigh.

The wedding is planned for May 28 at Fork Baptist Church, Mocksville.

Club Awards Door Prizes

The Cooleemee Senior Citizens met July 26 in the fellowship hall of the First Baptist Church with 40 members and six visitors present.

The meeting was called to order by the president.

The group sang "Will There Be Any Stars," followed by prayer.

The assistant chaplain had the devotions.

The minutes were read, the treasurer's and sunshine reports were given.

Door prizes were won by three people.

A program of gospel music was presented by The Gobble Sisters from James Crossroads Baptist Church.

Mike Garner from the Mocksville-Davie Recreation Department gave a report on several trips.

Anyone interested should call the Recreation Dept. (634-2325).

Final plans are being made on the trip to Holy Land USA for the Cooleemee Senior Citizens.

The next meeting will be Aug. 9 at Ridenhour Arbor. Bring sandwiches, a drink and something in a brown bag for an auction sale.

Post Office To Open At Lunch

People in the Advance area who want to buy some stamps during their lunch hour will be able to do so - for a while.

The Advance Post Office will be open at lunch for a trial basis, until Aug. 20. Workers had been closing the post office for lunch.

The post office will be open from 9 a.m. - 5 p.m.

Wake Forest Vice President To Retire After Year's End

Wake Forest University vice president will retire after this year. John G. Willard, vice president and treasurer, will retire from their administrative assignments on Jan. 1, 1994.

President Thomas R. Hearn praised Willard for having managed the university's endowment "so that our investment results have been consistently among the best in the nation."

Willard, a native of Farmington, joined Wake Forest in 1958 as assistant treasurer. Although he did not hold endowment responsibilities at the start of his career, Willard oversaw its growth from $15 million to its current level of $400 million.

In February, the Chronicle of Higher Education ranked Wake

Forest's endowment as the 40th largest in the country. In 1992, Wake Forest's 10-year endowment performance was ranked 10th in the nation by the National Association of College and University Business Officers.

An extraordinary feature of Wake Forest's endowment is the large amount of real estate in its portfolio. Willard recalled that when he joined Wake Forest, its real estate holdings beyond the main campus consisted of two gasoline stations with a total value of $8,900. Today, the holdings are valued at $50 million. Among the nation's universities, only George Washington University has a higher percentage of real estate in its endowment portfolio.

"Most of that real estate has come to the university through gifts," Willard said. "We have bought very little, and it has been an excellent resource for Wake Forest."

Willard, 62, also supervised the transformation of Reynolda Village from the estate's working buildings to a shopping-office complex. More recently, his responsibilities have focused on renovations and tenant recruitment for two other Wake Forest-owned properties, Reynolda Center, the former AT&T Building on Reynolda Road, the University Corporate Center, the former RJR World Headquarters Building.

Until 1988, Willard supervised the university's accounting operations and played a key role in preparing an annual budget for presentation to the university's trustees.

Willard will continue to consult with the university on endowment management.

Educators Attend Resources Event

A workshop was held recently in Salisbury for educators to learn hands-on ways to teach through our natural resources.

The lessons were integrated into every subject area and correlated to the objectives set forth by the North Carolina Competency-Based Curriculum. Four teachers attended from Davie County: Carol H. Cozart, North Davie Junior High School; Rachel "Van" Fagan, Mocksville Middle School; Duane Hartsell, Mocksville Middle School; and Traci S. White, Mocksville Elementary School.

This "Down-To-Earth Workshop - A Natural Resource Education Project" was sponsored by the Rowan, Cabarrus, Davie and Iredell Soil and Water Conservation Districts. A total of 50 teachers attended from these four counties. Representing the Davie Soil & Water Conservation District and assisting at the workshop were Tim Latham, district resource specialist and Lib Turner, district office manager.

Lesson activities for the week included Project Wild and Aquatic Wild, conducted by Mike Campbell and Terry Shankle, with the North Carolina Wildlife Resources Commission; Project Learning Tree, conducted by Leon Harkins and Barry New, N.C. Cooperative Extension Service; Project Soil, conducted by staff members of the Soil Conservation Service; and the Stream Watch Experience, conducted by George Norris and Jeff Burton with the N.C. Division of Water Resources.

Anyone who is interested in attending a similar workshop next summer should contact the Davie Soil and Water Conservation District at 634-5011.

Two From Davie Attending FCD Leadership Workshop

Two Advance students attending Forsyth County Day School will participate in LEAD '93 (Leadership Effectiveness And Development) Aug. 9-12.

Stephanie Sutton is a senior class representative, and Brian Weeks is captain of the wrestling team.

The purpose is to help identify students with strong leadership potential and teach them fundamentals of effective leadership. The workshop teaches participants to understand and develop personal styles and capabilities, while stressing effective communication, conflict management, and group motivation.

"Our purpose is to help student leaders become positive, effective role models for their peers both at school and in the community," said Karen Kowale, director of Forsyth County Day's college counseling.

"One of the objectives of the program is to include students who have the desire and potential to be leaders, as well as those who hold elected offices in their schools," she said. "We hope to build skills that will not only help the students in high school and college, but carry over into their personal and professional lives after graduation."

In addition to workshops, students receive practical tips from community leaders and volunteers.

FORGIVENESS BRINGS REDEMPTION

By The Rev. Hampton Morgan

He was enjoying a quiet life in suburban Cleveland, Ohio. A retired auto worker, he was known and loved in his community. Married, with an adoring wife, children and grandchildren, he had successfully hidden, for many years his secret and shameful past. Or so he thought.

Then, in the mid-1980's, it all began to unravel for John Demjanjuk. Evidence surfaced that he was not the peaceable Ukrainian immigrant everyone thought him to be. He was, in fact, a Nazi mass murderer named Ivan the Terrible. Holocaust survivors remembered him as the notorious gas-chamber operator of the Treblinka Concentration Camp, a sadistic man who reportedly tortured Jews moments before they were gassed to death.

The U.S. Justice Department found enough evidence to substantiate the accusation. After lengthy deportation hearings, Demjanjuk was stripped of his U.S. citizenship and deported to Israel in 1985. There he stood trial, and in 1988 was convicted and sentenced to death.

Last week, the Supreme Court of Israel overturned the conviction. World War II documents supplied by Russia cast doubt on the identity of Demjanjuk as Ivan the Terrible. Nevertheless, the Court held that there was compelling evidence that Demjanjuk had served at Travniki, a training facility for death-camp guards, and at Sobibor, another Nazi death camp. He may yet stand trial for those crimes.

Throughout, Demjanjuk has maintained his innocence. A simple case of mistaken identity, he has claimed. Apparently, it now seems that he is right. John Demjanjuk is not Ivan the Terrible.

Yet clearly, he is guilty of terrible deeds committed long ago. Thus, many Holocaust survivors have demanded that new charges be brought and that Demjanjuk be put on trial once more in Israel. Moreover, the Justice Department has, so far, denied him the possibility of returning home.

There are -- oh so many! -- John Demjanjuks in this world. The only thing differentiating them is the degree of their offenses and sins. But the degrees are important. We measure them mainly in terms of human and social cost. The sinners who operated the gas chambers of Hitler's terror incurred a horrible social cost, measured in millions of innocent deaths. It is still being measured in multiplied millions of nightmares and traumatized memories. A museum was recently dedicated in Washington, D.C., to make sure that the citizens of our fair land do not forget how great was the cost of those grave sins.

But the sinners who cheat on their taxes, steal from their employer or file falsified insurance claims also incur a social cost. Though it pales in comparison to the Holocaust, it still is urgent that it not be overlooked or minimized. These sinners, like John Demjanjuk, also have a past to hide and hope that no one uncovers it.

The Psalmist asked, "If thou, O Lord, shouldst mark iniquities, Lord who could stand?" The answer is implied in the question: no one. Social and human costs vary according to the sin. But one thing is quite certain: all have sinned. Before God no one can stand guiltless and innocent.

Though all share guilt, clearly we have trouble letting go of one another's offenses. "How often," asked Peter, "shall my brother sin against me, and I forgive him?" As many as seven times? Jesus said to him, "I do not say to you seven times, but seventy times seven." (Matthew 18:21-22)

One can understand the need to severely punish the John Demjanjuks of the world. The community of nations simply must declare, in the strongest way possible, that such atrocities cannot go unpunished. Yet there is no room for forgiveness? Especially when one has left the sin behind and started a new life?

John Demjanjuk's fate is largely out of our hands. But the fate of the neighbor, friend or family member who sinned against us is not. We hold in our hands the power to release them from the guilt of their sin against us. They will still have to answer to God. But when we forgive, a redemptive process begins. God's Spirit is released to truly change a hardened heart.

NORTH CAROLINA DAVIE COUNTY COURT OF JUSTICE
Superior Court Division
Before the Clerk
92-M-240
Davie County, Plaintiff vs.
Amos Stewart Brown, Defendant

NOTICE OF RESALE OF LAND UNDER EXECUTION

By virtue of a certain execution directed to the undersigned from the Superior Court of Davie County, an upset bid having been submitted within the time allowed by law, and pursuant to an Order Directing Resale entered in the above action against the judgment debtor, Amos Stewart Brown, I will on the 5th day of August, 1993, at 10:00 a.m., at the Davie County courthouse, in the City of Mocksville, North Carolina, sell to the highest bidder for cash to satisfy the execution, the parcels of real property hereinafter set out.
The execution was issued pursuant to judgment duly recorded in the office of the Clerk of the Superior Court of Davie County, and the execution is in the amount due under the judgment, including costs, in the amount of $11,000.00.

The following described property is located in Mocksville Township and Cabarrus Township, Davie County, North Carolina:
The real property listed for taxes for the year 1992 in the name of Amos Stewart Brown, the judgment debtor, and described as follows:
50.17 acres, more or less, situated in Mocksville Township and described and identified as Parcel 81, on Tax Map 03, Davie County Tax Office, and in a will recorded in File 78-E-113, Davie County Clerk's Office, and in a deed recorded in Deed Book 47, page 178, Davie County Registry, to which said records reference is hereby made for a more particular description of said land.

The opening bid at the resale shall be the upstart bid of $50,000.00. The successful bidder at the sale will be required to deposit with the Sheriff immediately upon conclusion of the sale a cash deposit of 10% of the bid to be made in the amount of $5,000.00. The successful bidder is required to pay the full balance of the purchase price in cash or certified check when the Sheriff tenders to him a Deed for the property.

Should the successful bidder fail to pay the full amount of the purchase price as bid at that time, he shall remain liable on his bid as provided for in the North Carolina General Statutes. The sale will be held open for ten days for upset bids as required by law.

This sale will be made subject to all prior liens, assessments, restrictions and easements of record, if any, outstanding taxes and all local improvement assessments against the above-described property not included in the judgment in the above-entitled cause.
This the 5th day of July, 1993.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING BEFORE THE BOARD OF COUNTY COMMISSIONERS FOR THE FOLLOWING ZONING AMENDMENTS
NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, pursuant to the requirements of Article 20-B of Chapter 53 of the General Statutes of North Carolina and Article XIII of the Davie County Zoning Ordinance that the Board of County Commissioners of Davie County will hold a public hearing in the Davie County Administrative Building, Mocksville, NC on Monday, August 9, 1993, at 7:00 p.m. The following proposed zoning amendments will be considered:
A) Oak Valley Associates Limited Partnership represented by Attorney Henry P. Van Hoy submitted a request for a Special Use Permit to develop a public recreational facility to include a public golf course and related amenities. This facility would be located off the west side of Highway 801 between Underpass Road's (S.R. 1658) intersection and Smith/Carrara Creek intersection with Highway 801. A map showing the exact boundary lines of this property may be reviewed in the zoning office. This property is further described as being parcels 8, 11, 12 and 12.01 of Davie County Tax Map E-8; and parcels 133.01, 168.04, 166.05 and 167.0 of Davie County Tax Map E-7.
B) Ben F. Powell submitted a request to rezone property from Residential R-20 to Highway Business - Special Use Zoning. This property is located off the west side of Farmington Road approximately 1 mile south of Interstate 40. The property is further described as being a portion of parcel 28 of Davie County Tax Map F-5. M. Crawford proposes to expand this existing Beechtree Place hardware business as well as a pro for the development of a large animal hospital clinic to be operated by Doctor James E. Meeker, DVM.
C) J. Emory Crawford submitted a request to rezone property from Residential R-20 to Highway Business - Special Use Zoning. This property is located off the west side of Farmington Road approximately 1 mile south of Interstate 40. The property is further described as being a portion of parcel 28 of Davie County Tax Map F-5. M. Crawford proposes to expand this existing Beechtree Place hardware business as well as a pro for the development of a large animal hospital clinic to be operated by Doctor James E. Meeker, DVM.
Signs advertising the public hearing will be posted on each of the three locations listed above. All parties and interested citizens are invited to attend said hearing at which time they shall have an opportunity to be heard in favor of or in opposition to the proposed changes. Prior to the hearing, all persons interested may obtain any additional information in these proposals which will be in the possession of the Davie County Zoning Enforcement Office in the County Administrative Building, Mocksville, NC, on weekdays between the hours of 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. or by telephone at 634-3340.

Health Dept. To Have Night Clinic

Beginning Tuesday, Aug. 10, the Davie County Health Department's Clinic will be open on Tuesdays until 7 p.m.

Dennis Harrington, health director, said: "The reason for this extended time is to allow working parents an opportunity to obtain needed health care and immunizations for their children."

"Our children's health is a top priority," Harrington said. "The Davie County Health Department is committed to increasing the immunization levels of children 2 years old or less."

It has been estimated that for every dollar spent on early childhood immunizations, $10 are saved in later medical costs.

The North Carolina Immunization Program reports that only 60 percent of North Carolina's children are properly immunized by 24 months of age. This means that 4-out of 10 children in this state are not properly immunized.

According to the 1990 Census, there are approximately 800 children under the age of 2 in Davie County. If 40 percent of North Carolina's children 2 years of age or younger are not properly immunized, then based on the 1990 Census data, approximately 320 of Davie County's children 24 months of age and younger have not been age-appropriately immunized.

According to the N.C. Department of Environment, Health, and Natural Resources' Healthy Children and Teens Program, in 1992, Davie County reported 843 children eligible for Medicaid-supported health care services which includes vaccinations. In the 1991-1992 fiscal year, only 333 (38 percent) of Davie County's 843 Medicaid eligible children received a health care check-up!

171 of the 333 children were screened at the Health Department. The reported ages of the 333 Davie County children screened in the 1991-1992 fiscal year were:

Age	Number Screened
Birth - 1	188
2	42
3-5	52
10-20	21

"The Davie County Health Department would like parents to join with us in our efforts to improve the health care of our future citizens," Harrington said.

The extended clinic hours scheduled for Tuesdays (5-7 p.m.) beginning Aug. 10 will provide Davie County parents with an after-work hours opportunity for their children to obtain proper immunizations at no cost and/or a well child health screening.

"The extension of the Tuesday Health Department Clinic hours of operation," Harrington said, "is an effort to meet an evergrowing demand for more access to preventative health care services."

One goal of the Year 2000 National Health Objectives is to age-appropriately immunize at least 90 percent of America's children by their second birthday. By providing after-work clinic hours, the Health Department hopes to achieve this goal in Davie County.

For more information on how to schedule your child for a Tuesday evening health screening or immunization, please contact the Health Department at (704) 634-5985.

Hearing Screening Set For Mocksville

Mocksville - Electronic hearing screenings will be given at the Belkone Hearing Care Centers on Friday from 10AM to 1PM.

Professionally trained Hearing Aid Specialists will be at our office at (Nationwide Insurance, 281 N. Main St.) to perform the screenings.

"Anyone who has trouble hearing is welcome to have a screening using modern electronic equipment to determine if the loss is one which may be helped. Some of the causes of hearing loss will be explained, and diagrams of how the ear works will be shown."

Everyone should have a hearing screening at least once a year - even people now wearing a hearing aid or those who have been told nothing could be done for them. Only a hearing screening can determine if you are one of the many a hearing aid can help.

The free hearing screenings will be given Friday from 10AM to 1PM at Belkone Hearing Care Centers, 281 N. Main St., To avoid waiting, call for an appointment. Or, if you can't come in, call (1-800-331-2884) for in-home service.

Man Claims Town Violated His Rights

By Mike Barnhardt
Davie County Enterprise Record

COOLEEMEE - The town board's refusal to apologize to a Davie man could end up in court. Keith Hodgson claims that his Constitutional rights to free speech were violated at an April 12 public meeting when Mayor Bill Gales refused to allow him to speak after someone had made a comment about Hodgson. Hodgson says that others were allowed to speak at will at that meeting, and the mayor should have afforded him that same right.

Last Monday, he asked for an apology and a promise he wouldn't be treated the same way again. "If you want to deal with me tonight, fine," Hodgson said. "After that, I'm not going to deal with you any more. If we settle this tonight, I'm not looking for any money from you." After Monday's meeting, and the mayor's refusal to apologize, Hodgson said he would take the town to court. "If it goes any further, I won't stop," he told the board. "The taxpayers will be paying for your mistakes. It could cost you a lot of money."

Right To Speak At Meetings Limited

COOLEEMEE - Residents wanting to speak at meetings here will no longer be allowed to speak without being on the town board's agenda. On Monday night, Mayor Bill Gales announced that the board was ending a practice of leaving a place on the agenda for public comment. He did not ask for the opinions of members of the town board before announcing the change. He said the practice had been given as a courtesy for town residents, but had been abused by people offering unconstructive criticism for media attention and for personal reasons. All requests to be placed on the agenda should be made on the Thursday prior to the town meeting, and the subject must be pertinent to current town business, the mayor said.

Masonic And DEU Picnic Saturday

The 109th Annual Masonic and DEU Picnic will be held at Clement Grove in Mocksville Saturday, Aug. 14.

This picnic is held annually in the interest of the Masonic Lodge, the Davie Educational Union, support of North Carolina Central Children's Home of Oxford, and for higher education of boys and girls of Davie County. At 3 p.m. there will be an address delivered by Dr. William H. Turner, associate professor of sociology Winston-Salem State University, Winston-Salem. He is a native of Lynch, Ky.

He earned his undergraduate degree in sociology and philosophy from the University of Kentucky. He took additional studies at Howard University and was awarded the master's and doctorate of philosophy in sociology and anthropology, specializing in race and ethnic relations and Afro-American studies from the University of Notre Dame in 1974.

Turner has lectured in colleges and universities in the United States, Italy, England, and in Africa, including South Africa. He is the author of more than 30 published articles, poems, and four book-length manuscripts, including the only book devoted to African Americans in the Appalachian region: Blacks In Appalachia.

Turner serves as a consultant to the Appalachian Regional Commission, The National Science Foundation, The Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, The Kellogg Foundation, Municipal Agencies, Educational Institution.

Annexing Proposal Reaches Next Step

COOLEEMEE - The town board is expected to vote on an annexation report at a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Aug. 16. If approved, it will lead to a public hearing on two proposed annexation areas, scheduled for Sept. 20 (Time and date to be announced later).

Last Monday night, Mayor Bill Gales told a group of concerned area residents that anyone wanting to speak about the proposed annexation could do so at the public hearing. "Everybody will have the opportunity to say whatever they like about annexation," he said.

The annexation report, available for public viewing at town hall, includes specific boundaries for the proposed annexation, as well as some of the expected revenues and costs.

If finally approved, the annexation would become effective at the end of December. Before the public hearing, all property owners in the proposed area will be notified by mail.

Last Days Busy For Filing For Cooleemee Office

The political race in Cooleemee took on a new look during the last days to file for election last week.

At the beginning of the week, only one candidate had filed for one of two commissioner seats, and one candidate had filed for mayor.

Now Denny Creason, Lynn Vogler, Robert "Buck" Smitherman and Darrin L. Hartness will race for two, four-year-term commissioner seats. Incumbent Mayor Bill Gales, Jackie Morton and Bill Cranfill are vying for mayor. • Denny Creason, 60, 10 Marginal St., spent 1 1/2 years on the Cooleemee Town Board in 1988-89, and now he wants to return. After an unsuccessful bid in 1989, Creason filed for election to a four-year term as a commissioner last week. At that time candidate turnout appeared low. "I didn't want to see the town become not incorporated," because of a lack of people to govern the town, he said. As a town commissioner, Creason said he would like to see the tax rate remain steady and the town continue to provide three basic services: police protection, garbage pickup and street lights. He said the town needed to spend money cautiously. Creason is retired from Ingersoll-Rand Corp. • Lynn C. Vogler, 38, says she thinks it's time for some new blood on the Cooleemee Town Board. She ran unsuccessfully for the board two years ago and has tossed her name in the hat for commissioner this election season. A native of Davie County and resident of 27 Erwin St., Cooleemee, for eight years, Vogler said she wanted to see town residents better informed about town policies and projects. Many times people are misinformed about issues, she said. Vogler said she would push to keep the town's tax rate steady. "There are too many elderly people on fixed incomes to raise taxes," she said.

He said the town needed to see the town become not incorporated. "I feel like I get a lot more for my 10 cents for Cooleemee than my 50 cents for the county," Creason said.

Slow Driving Rates This Dad As Very 'Uncool'

After years of thinking otherwise, I discovered this week that I am decidedly "uncool."

That's the verdict of no less an authority than my 12-year-old son, who should know.

He spent last week visiting two aunts and their families. He returned with the news: They're both cool. His other aunts and uncles are cool. Even his mom is ... cool. His grandparents ... cool.

But not Dad.

There is a critical element in coolness judging for 12-year-old boys. One critical element is the speed you drive on the highway. One of my sisters, by his report, drives in wild abandonment of the posted speed. The uncles don't even see the signs. And his mother got a speeding ticket last year. That's bonafide proof of being cool. Even his grandparents are ... cool.

His father, a square, plods along at 55 in a 55 mph zone. Sometimes 60. And 65 in a 65 mph zone. Sometimes not that fast. And in a 35 mph zone ... 35. It takes us more than five hours to get to the beach.

There may be some speed aberrations, but not while Paul's in the car with me. While he's watching, I actually stop at stop signs ... not just roll through the intersection while looking both ways. I don't pass on yellow lines. I don't berate slow drivers in front of me. I don't get agitated and work out my frustrations on the highway.

That does sound pretty uncool.

If the Highway Patrol and my insurance premiums aren't enough motivation, I'll keep driving this way until Paul reaches 16.

I've only got four years to impress him with the need to drive safely. Drivers education classes don't seem to work for most teenagers. Gruesome pictures of wrecks have an impact for only a few days.

Teenagers, equipped with $20,000 cars, are prone to spin tires and drive wildly. The wreck reports in the newspapers and the hefty insurance premiums for teenagers bear testimony that young people shouldn't be on the highway.

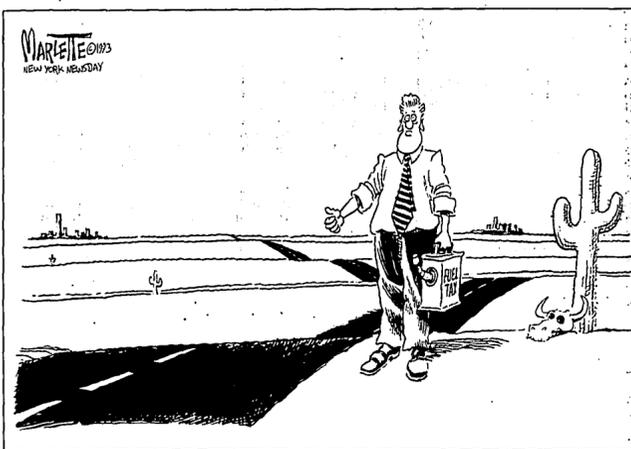

But they are.

I've got my own driver's education course planned for Paul before he gets behind the wheel. I'm going to send him to the courthouse to see how much fun it is to pay for those tickets. To pay for the lawyer's fee. To pay the court fees. That's not very cool. I'm also planning to take him to some of the wreck scenes we photograph. That should make an impression on anyone.

It worked for me. Too many trips to fatal crashes convinced me there's nothing so important, nothing that can't wait, nothing worth risking your life for in a car wreck.

I'm hoping he'll be uncool behind the wheel, too.

- Dwight Sparks

Send Message To Winston

To the editor:

My sympathies are with the families of the two Davie County youths who were robbed, kidnapped, and shot in Winston-Salem July 22. I understand very well the post-traumatic stress these families have experienced. The crime is an almost exact repeat of an incident experienced by four other Davie County youth three years ago, one of them my son. This was a case of black youths preying upon white youths. Our boys were fortunate - the numbers were four on four.

It is part of the Davie County youth culture to spend weekend evenings, and hard-earned dollars, at popular Winston-Salem spots. These boys were graduates of Davie High School who have since gone on to productive jobs, the military, or college, unlike the young murderers who were presumably from a nearby housing project. They too were held up at gunpoint, abused with racial slurs, and then searched. The smallest of the four was then taken from the group by two of the perpetrators while the others presumably held (concealed) pistols on the remaining three from Davie County. The one taken was, for no apparent reason, thrown on the ground then stomped on and beaten. This necessitated a trip to the emergency room.

It was approximately 36 hours and several phone calls before anyone at the Winston-Salem police department would talk with us or even acknowledge that an investigation was in progress. We were told that someone would get back to us. That was three years ago. The story was never reported in the Winston-Salem Journal. The current story did make the local section but was not front page news. Is this a common occurrence in Winston-Salem? How many other ordinary law-abiding people have been terrorized, victimized, physically or emotionally maimed? While you struggle to put it behind you in the short term, the long term scars are permanent. Your innocence and your trust are never the same. You are vigilant and you try not to admit to fear and anger.

While this serious social disease is interminably debated for its root causes - poverty, upbringing, there is one reason why young men such as these attempt to get away with victimizing others, and it is very simple. It is because they believe they can. It is generally accepted that our law officers, judges, and politicians bear responsibility for addressing this menace. However, there is an additional weapon in the arsenal and it is even more powerful - economic. The merchants, developers, and business people who profit from the dollars spent by Davie County residents and others should heed a clear and strong message. Citizens will not tolerate this outrage. Your places of business will be avoided and word will be spread about when and where and how much this is happening. High school and college students will be warned about the dangers of going out on the town in Winston-Salem. Ordinary people should be able to expect a reasonable degree of safety and freedom of movement in a modern city such as Winston-Salem.

Lipscomb Barbecue A Success

To the editor:

I would like to thank each and everyone who helped make the Port-A-Pit BBQ for Chad Lipscomb such a success. Whether you helped in selling tickets, made a cake or volunteered your time on Aug. 6, I really do appreciate all you've done. Also, thanks to everyone who bought tickets. Without you it could have not been such a success. Again, thanks to everyone who helped.

Ahh-Chooo: Candy Just Ain't The Same Any More

There I was, a modern guy at the drug store checkout line, with a couple of cans of hair spray in hand.

The woman behind the counter began to check my items, but I paid no attention to her.

My eyes were riveted to one of those "impulse buy" items placed strategically below the counter where you couldn't miss it, right where I expected to catch up on the big headlines in the latest edition of "National Enquirer." I really wanted to know if Burt Reynolds really was having a homosexual affair or if Loni Anderson really was running off with Burt's best friend's stepfather's brother's cousin.

My eyes bulged in amazement, and I had a look on my face like I had been trapped in some sort of time warp.

Mike Barnhardt

The checkout woman called out what I owed four times before I finally looked up. The look on my face must have been amusing, according to her reaction. Maybe she had seen the look before.

"It's candy," she said.

I was still shocked.

"It's a gag," she said, obviously trying to ease my trauma and work me out of the zombie-state so I could give her a couple of dollars for a can of hair spray. "Kids buy it."

I was speechless. The check-out woman laughed as I handed her money. "Really, it's candy," she said. "People really buy the stuff."

Still, I couldn't speak.

Right there on the impulse buy shelf was this huge green nose with bold and big purple letters that simply said, "SNOT."

I couldn't believe that a drug store would sell candy snot.

This was the place where you get pills to keep that stuff from running out your nose. This was the place where you bought tissues to wipe the stuff you couldn't keep your nostrils. This was the place where you bought vitamins to keep the stuff in its place. This was a place where you expect clean items to be sold.

Candy snot?

It was true. There were also these Garbage Pail Kids cards and candy and stuff. They looked worse than snot.

And I thought gummy bears were yucky.

I remember going to the store as a kid and dreaming about all the candy selections. Chocolate, chocolate and more chocolate. A few nutty candy bars, some caramels, maybe even a jawbreaker or two. We thought those long sticks containing flavored sugar were wild. And to really break loose, you could get a tiny six-pack of flavored water in different colors, each in a tiny wa bottle. Really bad kids bought the candy cigarettes, which are hard to find any more.

I guess candy cigarettes aren't good for kids, teaches them the wrong things. Candy snot is much more appropriate for the 90s. How could a store replace candy cigarettes with candy snot?

I just wonder if there had been snot in the store when I was 8. Would I have bought it? Would I have bought some Garbage Pail stuff that looked a wino's barf? Would buying such stuff have turned me into a mannerless little brat who liked to watch big people make faces while I ate candy snot?

It could be the fault of the older generations. If we didn't think candy snot was such a yucky idea, the kids probably wouldn't like it. The same goes for music, dancing, television shows, just about everything. Kids want to do what we don't want them to do.

Maybe I'm just getting old. When you don't understand candy, that's a sure sign you've probably seen more days than you've left to see.

If I had only checked my own purchase more carefully, I would have realized that I am getting old. I try to hang out with younger friends to keep young, but last weekend one of them called me "Helmet Head."

It was the hair spray. Young guys don't use much hair spray any more. And making your hair look bigger than it really is isn't cool, especially if you glue it in place with half a can of hair spray.

Sorry, but it's hard to be cool at my age. I may quit trying, because I'm keeping my helmet head, and I'm staying away from any candy called snot.

Lawyers Aren't So Bad After All

With all the lawyer bashing going on lately I wanted to take this opportunity to stand for our barristers. All you Mocksville lawyers, listen up. You can probably relate.

My husband, Jeff, is getting his first taste, no matter how sour, of real life in the courts this summer. He's also been getting a few winks from strange women and some steely stares from their husbands.

He went recently with another attorney to get the story on an alienation of affection suit. That's the one where the husband sues another man for stealing his wife — as if the woman was an innocent bystander with the brains of a cantaloupe.

Well this woman may not have had a brain, but she had a good part in this scam alright. In fact, I think she's got a real talent for it.

Jeff's firm is representing the man who wooed this woman away and is now the victim of a lawsuit. The husband and wife reunited and are out to get this third guy.

As Jeff entered the room to hear the testimony, the woman leaned forward and gave him an interested look.

Laura Williams-Tracy

The husband, doing his best Clint Eastwood imitation, turned to Jeff as if to say, "Go ahead punk, make my day."

As the testimony began, Jeff began to get a little uncomfortable. This woman kept admiring him. Her husband was brooding under the collar.

This went on for a while. Jeff managed a few strained smiles.

The lawyer in charge could feel the tension in the room and excused himself. Jeff escaped the stiffness and followed closely behind.

On the outside, Jeff met the couple's attorney and casually introduced himself as the summer law clerk.

"What's your name again?" the plaintiff's lawyer asked, his eye brows making a point.

"Jeff Tracy," he responded.

"Do you have some identification on you?" he asked, the curiosity pecking in his voice. "Come in here," he said, pulling Jeff back into the room with the husband and wife.

"This is the summer clerk," he announced proudly.

"This is not the man you are suing, nor the man you had an affair with, ma'am."

Oh Clint demanded the drivers license.

But the wife miffed, "I didn't think it was him or he had lost a lot of weight."

1993 Session Ends With A Marathon

By Sen. Betsy L. Cochrane

The 1993 Session of the General Assembly came to a close in a bizarre fashion with a 21-hour marathon. We convened at 10 a.m. Friday and adjourned at 7:30 a.m. Saturday. It was not pretty, thanks to the Speaker holding out for $4 million for N.C. Central University in Durham and the Senate leadership saying "No." I do not know which prevailed — reason or fatigue.

I do know who prevailed this session — the governor.

Initially, the Senate gave him $7.2 million for his Smart Start Program, but he eventually got $20 million. We opposed the $35 million for the Automotive Technology Center, but he got that and $5 million for American Airlines.

While Jim Martin was governor, North Carolina led the nation in industrial recruitment four of five years without such incentives. North Carolina was second that fifth year. Some incentives are appropriate and expected, but even the House Appropriations Chairman joined in our arguments against this new direction for North Carolina.

In the wee hours, a health care bill was passed that does little more than keep the issue alive until the short session. It gives small businesses more clout in buying health insurance and allows hospitals to cooperate with one another without violating anti-trust laws. It requires insurers to use the same claim form and involves the leadership of the legislative and executive branch in the commission that will continue to address the issue of health insurance.

During this marathon session, the Senate passed a new Sentencing Structure Plan and an $87-million prison bond. The two together address the "revolving door" prison/parole problem. The bond builds some 4,000 more prison beds, many for repeat and violent offenders, which means we have a place to keep them. The bond also includes some beds for the boot camp concept for first offenders. They will be rehabilitated as they help build the prisons.

The new sentencing structure sets in place minimum terms that the criminal must serve before even being considered for parole. This is truth in sentencing in that the public will know how much time will be served by the prisoner for certain. The bill also increases from 20 to 25 years the number of years a convicted murderer must serve before they can be considered for parole.

In this 1993 Session, the General Assembly ratified bills that lower the blood alcohol content for a DWI conviction to .08. One new law forbids the sale of pistols to unemancipated minors under the age of 18. Another allows a husband to be prosecuted for raping their wives and makes it a general misdemeanor to assault a sports official. By changing the way prisoners are sentenced, the new law forces violent and repeat offenders to serve longer sentences.

Ratified bills allow consumers to buy prescription drugs at any pharmacy, not just the health plan's restricted choice. One law allows doctors to use non-traditional medical practices. Another requires doctors to inform patients when they refer them to a diagnostic center that the doctors own.

New principals will have three-year contracts rather than tenure, and school buses may drive up to 45 mph. Principals are required to report violence on school grounds to police. Computer software is exempt from local property taxes.

Davie, Yadkin Girls Learn About Scouting At Camp

By Laura Williams-Tracy
Davie County Enterprise-Record

FARMINGTON — A bush comes over the room as 85 Girl Scouts raise their hands, thumbs touching pinky fingers in the traditional Girl Scout pledge sign, and become silent. "Give me a helping hand," one counselor calls out to some noisy girls with heads down their backs. As they hush, the afternoon program, a lesson in traditional African song and dance, begins. As the Senegal drums beat louder, the girls' voices lift inside the lake house at Camp Seven Springs. Many of the girls were Browns-and Girl Scouts before they spent the week boating, swimming and making crafts. But almost 60 earned the rite of passage into the club through a partnership between the Girl Scouts and the social services departments in Davie and Yadkin counties. Social workers often find girls who wouldn't have the opportunity to attend camp during the summer. Riding on vans, the girls were picked up each morning from their rural homes and taken to the camp near Farmington. "These are children who don't get these kinds of programs during the year," said Lavette Brooks of the Tattletale Trail Girl Scout Council.

Many found the week of recreation an unusual change from their routine. For some it was the first time they had ever dunked their head under water in the lake. It took others several days before they mastered the confidence to jump off a dock on the water. But confidence is exactly what organizers are hoping to build. "This helps them feel good about themselves and elevate their self-esteem," Brooks said. Since 1988 the scout council has been providing confidence-boosting activities at the free camp including paddle boating, canoeing, crafts and nature explorations.

Political Races Set To Go In Towns

But Vogler said she would support annexing outlying areas of the town if it would help the town and those people being annexed. Vogler works at Crown Wood Products in Mocksville. Darrin L. Harness, 24, of 43 Duke St., is a new-comer to Cooleemee politics, but he's already gotten his feet wet on some of the issues. Last week he filed for election as commissioner. Harness, a computer specialist for Rowan Salisbury Schools, served on the committee that decided to allow the YMCA to operate the Cooleemee pool this summer. Harness said it was important that the pool stay open to provide recreation for young people — otherwise they will go swimming in the Bull Hole. Harness said he also wants the board to listen more closely to the concerns of the town's older population. He said he is concerned that those people's needs are not always considered when town policy is being made. Harness moved to Cooleemee two and a half years ago when he married, Lisa King, a life-long resident of Cooleemee. A native of Gastonia, Harness said he liked the town quickly and wanted to get involved. "I think it's time that young people get involved in government and bring some new and different ideas." He is a strong supporter of the Cooleemee fire department and wants to see full-funding continue. As a member of the board, Harness said he would work to improve the appearance of the town. "I'd like when people drive through Cooleemee to say, 'That would be a nice place to live.'" Incumbent Mayor Bill Gales is the only mayor this eighty-year-old town has ever had. And he wants to remain mayor. Gales, 66, of 22 Ruffin St., filed for his third four-year term to the board last week after taking the entire filing period to consider his candidacy. Gales said he wanted to think the decision through before filing, and he had been encouraged by friends. Gales said his primary goal for the town is to bring a new industry there. The town's tax base does not include any industry after Burlington Industries closed several years ago. "I think it's a big need," Gales said. "We need to expand the tax base."

Gales said he would also like to see improved relations between members of the board. The board could work better together and do more planning, he said. Gales is a retired purchasing and personnel manager for a Salisbury aluminum company. Jackie Morton, 66, of 9 Ruffin St., says she wants to be the "People's Mayor." She wants government meetings to be more open to the public, and in cases of annexation, she will do what the people want. Morton served four years on the board when the town first incorporated, but lost a bid for mayor in 1989. She's been keeping herself busy and community-based organizations in several cities. He is also a member of Emmanuel Baptist Church in Winston-Salem, Prince Hill Masons and The N.A.A.C.P. The program will also feature Yadkin Star Baptist Church junior choir, Lexington, Castle Heights Church of Christ choir, Winston-Salem; Friends in Christ Mocksville Community choir, Mocksville; and The Sensational Gospelaires of Salisbury; and disco and music by John Redmond of Harmony. Bingo, rides, discs, food and many other attractions await those visiting the picnic.

Annexation Plans Ongoing

One area goes from the town limits on Junction Road, cuts across and includes Duck Pond Road, goes across Gladstone Road and includes SR 1117. The other area includes much of North Cooleemee, and includes properties on the southeast side of N.C. 801, including portions of the Edgewood development. More detailed maps of the proposed annexation areas are on display at the town hall. "According to the annexation report, the town could expect $50,000-$60,000 more in revenues in 1994-95, but would lose almost $2,000 during the first six months of annexation.

Services the town would provide include police protection. The report said the extra area, which would raise the town's population from 974 to 1,260, could be covered with the current three-person police force. Now the town has one officer per 325 residents that would go to one officer per 420 residents. Garbage collection, with 120 new customers, would increase the town's cost by more than $12,000. The town would receive additional state Powell Bill funds to maintain any streets taken into the town system, the report said. It also said the town would have to pay for street lights, with 17-19 additional lights expected.

Clean Water Act To Restrict Development

By Laura Williams-Tracy
Davie County Enterprise Record

For most people getting a good glass of water means turning the faucet on. People in Mocksville will find out that clean water has a further reaching impact on their lives in October when new state rules that protect river intakes go into effect.

The rules may strongly affect land values — hitting hardest those people who invested their savings in land rather than the bank.

Public Needs To Know

On Aug. 17 at 7 p.m. and Aug. 19 at 12 p.m. at the Davie County Library, town officials will hold public information meetings for landowners to learn about the upcoming rules. Town officials will present a map of the proposed restricted development areas. Zoning officials will be at the hearing early to answer questions from landowners about their particular lots.

After the hearings, the town board must approve those proposed regulations and ratify the maps.

The General Assembly passed the first watershed regulation rules in 1989, and since then environmentalists and developers have fought to change them. Now, by state mandate, towns and counties are working with their own geography to find out which landowners must obey.

The rules limit the amount of ground surface that can be covered with cement, asphalt, homes, buildings and other surfaces that stop rainwater from seeping into the ground.

Who's Affected

In Mocksville and areas one mile but from town limits, landowners west of U.S. 601 are most affected.

Town officials will be protecting the Bear Creek River intake area and an area north of the Coolesville intake.

Residents in the Bear Creek critical area will be restricted to six percent development of their land. Landowners in that area are located generally in a half-mile arc west from the intake. The intake is 1/4 of a mile north of where Bear Creek intersects with County Home Road.

The Bear Creek protected area extends 10 miles north of the intake and extends east to U.S. 601. Those residents will be restricted to developing 12 percent of the land area.

Land south of the Bear Creek watershed is the Coolesville protected area. There landowners may develop 24 percent of the land area.

All town residents are encouraged to attend the public meetings, and those with specific questions about their land may ask questions at that time.

Residents who live outside the city limits will learn how they are affected later this year. The county's plan for watershed protection is due in January.

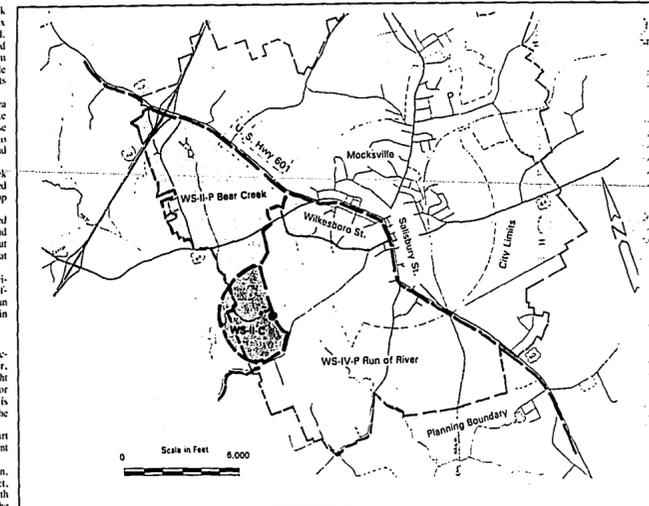

Where It Hurts

Mocksville's Public Works Director, John Grey, and Town Manager Terry Bralley, said they have fought these state-imposed restrictions for years. But they admit the battle is over. Now it's a matter of making the process as painless as possible.

"We realize this is going to hurt people," Grey said. "We don't want to hurt people unnecessarily."

Many critics of the watershed plan, including Grey, argue that in effect, people who live in rural areas with their own wells will be restricted the most. And their sacrifices will go to protect people who live in town, who use the river instead of wells, for drinking water.

For Bralley, who serves on the county's economic development board, the restrictions could have serious implications for recruiting more businesses to Davie County.

This map shows area in Mocksville that will be affected by new watershed regulations. Other areas in the county not shown here will also be affected.

With limits on the percentage of land that may be developed, Bralley said the restrictions will require potential developers to buy much more land than they need for their businesses.

Higher land costs could push those businesses to other counties where the land might not be as severely restricted.

Where It Helps

Forcing people to consider what goes into drinking water may make people think more about protecting the environment, Grey said.

"It may make people more aware of their environmental responsibilities. It will reach more deeply into their lives to protect drinking water."

Man's Questions Go Unanswered

By Mike Barnhardt
Davie County Enterprise Record

COOLEEMEE - Jim Thompson went to the town board meeting here Monday night looking for some answers.

He didn't get them. "I put it to you to pay up or get out of the game," he said to Mayor Bill Gales. Thompson said that when the town incorporated, Gales said property taxes weren't needed, but would have to be levied because they were state-mandated and that other revenues would provide the town enough money to operate.

"Yet, you've doubled the taxes. Do you remember?" Gales didn't respond to the question, but said: "You've got the floor. Go ahead."

Thompson said the residents were promised state grants to fix sidewalks

Textile Heritage Day Set

COOLEEMEE - Saturday, Oct. 2 will be Textile Heritage Day in Cooleemee.

And organizers of an annual festival here honoring the textile worker and the textile mill village way of life hope the official title will be proclaimed statewide.

"We might help add to Cooleemee's prestige by drafting a letter to the governor and asking him to do the same and mention the festival in his proclamation," said Thurman Miller, president of the Cooleemee Historical Society.

The CHA will have an open house from 4-7 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 21 at the Zachary House, CHA headquarters and museum site. Hotdogs will be served and old-timey music will be featured. Residents can get an update on plans for this year's festival, as well as volunteer to help with the events, Miller said.

South Named Hillsville Manager

Davie's former county manager has taken a new job as town manager for Hillsville, Va.

Larry South resigned in October as county manager under pressure from several county commissioners. Since then he has started South's Distribution Company, a South wholesale distributor of snack foods and sportswear.

But South said he continued looking for work in and out of government.

Hillsville officials announced last week that they had selected South from a pool of 120 applicants. He begins work Aug. 16.

As manager of Davie County, for three and a half years, South was the head administrator for departments that served 30,000 county residents. Hillsville has a population of about 2,000 people.

He will earn $31,500. He was paid 45,256 as Davie County's top administrator.

Hillsville is on U.S. 52 about 20 miles north of the North Carolina and Virginia borders.

South is originally from Ashe County and said he is familiar with southern Virginia where he will work and make his home.

"I'm looking forward to the variety of duties and maintaining a quality level of services with limited resources," he said.

South said his distribution business will continue to supply vendors in the Triad area.

and renovate the recreation. They got neither.

Most of the town's money is spent on administration and police protection. "For years, we got along just fine without it," he said.

Thompson said garbage and weeds behind the shopping center made neighboys afraid to go into their back yards, and asked if Cooleemee street names the same as streets in Mocksville would be changed with the county's new E911 system.

Gales didn't answer the questions, but said Thompson he would talk with him "one on one."

"Why not now, with all these people here?"

"This is not what these meetings are for," Gales said.

Thompson chastised the board for letting an intern tell them what to do while not allowing residents to voice their opinions.

Hart's Is New Men's Open League Champ

Number 1 Airtite Falls To 2nd Seed Twice

By Ronnie Gallagher
Davie County Enterprise-Record

A regular season title is nice but the Hart's Pitza men's softball team will tell you a tournament championship is even sweeter.

After losing its first three encounters of the season to regular season champ Airtite, Hart's gained revenge by winning two straight in the double-elimination tournament at Rich Park Thursday night.

Hart's took the open title with 15-9 and 11-9 victories.

There were still some anxious moments in the seventh inning of the second game, however.

Trailing 11-9 with Alan Chapman on base, Airtite's Rick Allred came to the plate. He was 7-for-7 with six RBIs in the doubleheader.

But he popped to second base and one out later, Airtite's year-long domination of the league had ended.

First Game

It took only two innings of the first game for Hart's players to prove to Airtite — and to themselves — that this would be their night.

Kenny Shore, Chad O'Neill, Chris Keller, Ron Whitlock and Perry Creason all had hits, and Jerry Marrs a sacrifice fly in the four-run rally that put Hart's ahead, 5-1 going into the third.

New Union Beats Liberty For Church Championship

New Church Champ A Cinderella No Longer

By Ronnie Gallagher
Davie County Enterprise-Record

After New Union had finally defeated Liberty for the Mocksville/Davie Parks and Recreation men's church league softball championship last week, all coach Randy Groce could think about was the team's first year.

"Five or six years ago, we were on the bottom," he admitted.

But there is a secret to New Union's emergence as a power in the local church league since then. Groce's motto is, "Play together, stay together."

Once the whipping boy, New Union is now doing the whipping. It split with Liberty in the final night of the double-elimination event, losing the first game, 16-12, before taking the title, 11-3.

Groce said he remembers being told once by a recreation official, "Randy, on paper, you shouldn't win a game," due to the talent and the experience on other clubs.

Groce's reply? "Paper doesn't mean much."

First Game

In front of what recreation athletic director Joe Boyette called the biggest crowd at Rich Park in the past three or four years, it appeared defending champion Liberty was prepared to burst New Union's bubble.

Liberty overcame a 2-0 lead by exploding in the second inning. It sent 15 men to the plate, rapping out 12 hits and scoring 10 runs.

Before New Union could record an out, Jim and Craig Michael, Tony Renegar, Kenny Stone, Todd Bumgarner, Kent Hancock and Brent Wall all reached base. Stone had the inning's big hit, a triple.

"We fell down defensively," Groce said. "But we kept our confidence up."

By the end of the third, New Union had tied the game at 10.

Randy Keller scored in the bottom of the second and then New Union added seven more in the third. Groce, Steven Dyson, and Terry Prevette had doubles, while Edwards and Keller streaked triples. Eleven men came to the plate.

"We're the type of team that never gives up," Groce said.

Brent Wall's double in the bottom of the third helped Liberty to a 12-10 lead but New Union came right back to tie it again in the fourth. Michael Swisher had the big hit in a two-run inning.

Liberty finally took the lead for good in the bottom of the fourth. Jim Michael doubled and scored after singles by Craig Michael and Renegar.

Brent and Billy Wall scored for Liberty in the fifth for a 15-12 lead and Stone singled and scored in the sixth for the final score.

Shane and Steven Dyson, along with Keller and Edwards, all had two hits for New Union, while Brent Wall had four for Liberty.

Groce said his teammates weren't upset over the loss and instead, began gearing up for the second and deciding game.

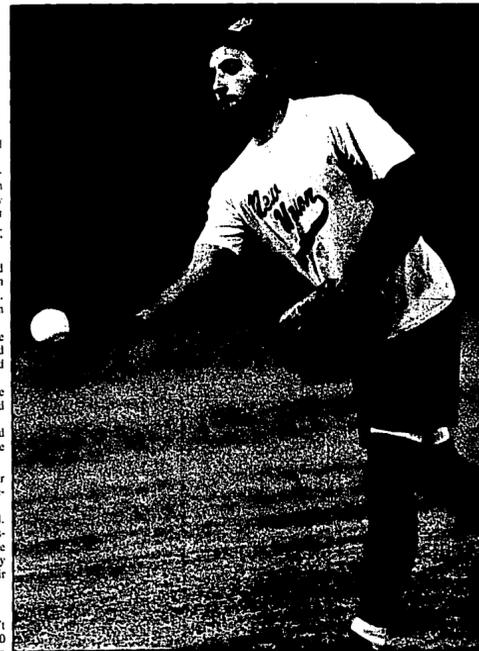

"I told them to keep their heads up," he said.

"We'd been in this situation before. We discussed what we wanted to do. Against a competitive team like Liberty, you want to get ahead early and make them play catchup. Usually, their momentum will go the other way."

Second Game

New Union's second-game strategy didn't work immediately. Liberty jumped out to a 2-0 lead in the top of the first on the strength of a Brent Wall single and a Billy Wall double.

NASCAR 'Golfers' Coming Aug. 24

Want to play a round of golf with Harry Gant, Benny Parsons or Ned Jarrett?

How about Glenn Jarrett, Derricke Cope, Geoff Bodine or Pat Patterson?

Area golfers will have that chance when Race Care's second annual charity golf tournament is held Tuesday, Aug.

24 at Hickory Hill Country Club near Mocksville.

Organizers hope to raise $5,000 for the Piedmont North Carolina Fireman's Association and Camp Celebrate (a camp especially for severely burned children).

Entry fee for the Captain's Choice tournament is $100 per player. The field is limited to 80 players who may sign up individually or as teams.

The fee includes 18 holes of golf, cart, lunch, range balls, beverages, snacks, a golf shirt and more than $5,000 in sponsor prizes.

Entry fee for the Captain's Choice tournament is $100 per player. The field is limited to 80 players who may sign up individually or as teams.

Anyone interested in playing in the tournament, or in becoming a sponsor, should contact Race Care; 704-332-1191 or call Hickory Hill golf pro Steve Forrest at 998-8746.

Race Care is a national, non-profit charity organized to support fire departments and rescue squads.

What's So Funny?

Walser Brings Playoff Experience

Thanks to the hiring of Jerry Walser, the Davie County football staff has some recent playoff experience.

Walser, a 1987 graduate of West Davidson High School, did his student teaching last fall at Thomasville High School, which happens to have one of the state's winningest football teams.

He coached the offensive line for Allen Brown as the Bulldogs made it to the 2-A semifinals. They were the defending state champs.

"I had never experienced the playoffs in anything in high school," he said. "It was something new and exciting. It made you want to come to work every day."

It's doubtful the Central Piedmont Conference will show him the type of running back he saw last year. Thomasville had to stop the likes of North Davidson's Smyke Wagner, Forest Hills' Kevin Lohr and Maiden's Antoine Ikard.

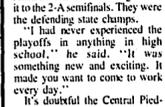

"Hard — he was a man," Walser said. "For several weeks, we saw quality running backs. There were a couple at Southwestern Randolph and Mount Airy too. I thought Lohr (head-coach for Florida State) was as good as Ikard."

Walser said winning won't make you relax. He was more nervous when Thomasville was in the midst of its 13-game winning streak.

"It was difficult to sleep at night," he said.

When asked if he would bring what he learned in the playoffs with him to Davie, Walser said that wasn't necessarily needed.

"I don't have to bring that with me," he said. "It's already here from what I see."

Walser will be attending the University of Alabama this year on a swimming scholarship.

Tribble then went to Nashville, TN, to compete in the YMCA National Swimming and Diving Championships. He helped the men's team to a fourth place finish. Combining with the women's team, Winston-Salem was sixth out of 200 teams.

Tribble's contribution was a seventh place finish in the 50 freestyle (25:01). He was also a member of the third place 200 medley relay (1:51.66) and the fifth place 800 freestyle relay (8:12.50).

Hendricks In Nationals
John Hendricks, who has relatives in Davie County, is going to the 15-year old regional baseball tournament in Deerfield Beach, Fla.

Hendricks pitched a four-hitter to lead Kernersville over Eastley, S.C. for the divisional championship.

Kernersville will have to defeat another home team, meeting Florida in the first round.

Sharpe Advances
Zane Sharpe of Advance, playing in the boys 14, was one of only three players from the Winston-Salem area to win in the North Carolina Closed Junior Tournament last week.

Sharpe, playing at Durham's Hollow Rock Tennis Club, beat Ryan Boward, 6-1, 6-3.

In the next round, he fell to third-seeded Alex Miletic, 6-2, 6-2.

Rowan Winning
Can it be true? Is Rowan County on its way to a state Legion baseball title?

A David Treveler grand slam broke a scoreless tie in the fourth inning and led Rowan to a 5-4 victory over Scotland County in the first game of the North Carolina American Legion finals in Laurinburg.

Whatever Happened To...
Many Mocksville Legion baseball fans still wonder what happened to Todd Wallace.

The Starmount catcher was a starter for Dale James in 1990 and was a consistent .300 hitter. He was one of the most popular students at his high school and was eagerly awaiting football season for B.W. Holt. He was projected as one of the Northwest 2-A Conference's top returning players.

But during the Southern Division playoffs, he wrecked his car on the way home to Yadkin County after a game. He was severely injured and suffered paralysis.

Last week, Holt was asked about Wallace.

"He's a dispatcher for the county," Holt said. "He's still in a wheelchair but he's doing okay."

Hunt's Sibling
David Hunt always jokes about the times he tried to talk his son, Andy, out of joining the high school coaching ranks.

"He doesn't listen to me," Hunt said last fall.

This fall, Andy finally convinced his father to let him coach in the position.

The 1989 graduate of Davie High School has been hired at Perquimans High School in Hertford, which is in the eastern part of the state.

"It's between Elizabeth City and Edenton," said the elder Hunt.

Perquimans County is a 1-A school. He will teach history and probably coach the defensive or offensive line.

Cuthrell Runs
Some fans gasped when they went to watch Davie County's first week of football practice and didn't see tailback Hamilton Cuthrell.

Not to worry, said coach Randall Ward. His star speedster had some other business to attend to.

Cuthrell was one of a number of athletes traveling to Knoxville, TN, for the AAU Junior Olympics Tri-City Relays.

Remembering The 1993 Legion

Legion Team Needs To Rid Itself Of Hyphenated Title

With Roman County streaking toward a state Legion baseball championship, here's some final thoughts on American Legion baseball.

Last week, an Associated Press story told of a suspect taken into custody. The story referred to him as a "robber-murderer."

Does everybody have a hyphenated title, nowadays?

The Southern Division of American Legion baseball surely does.

Lexington is no longer Lexington. It's Lexington-Davidson, thank you.

Mount Airy is now Mount Airy-Surry County, North Wilkesboro suddenly became Wilkes County.

And let's not forget our own Mocksville-Davie.

Legion coach Dale James explained that some teams change their name to include the county because players don't come just from the city but from all around the area.

But Post 174 players come from several cities spread over three counties.

Does that mean the team here should be called Mocksville-Davie-Yadkinville-Boonville-Yadkin-Clemmons-Lewisville-Forsyth?

Listen, ditch the hyphen. Whatever city you play in, that's your name.

The team here is not Mocksville-Davie. It's Mocksville.

And it's Salisbury, Kannapolis, Concord, Lexington, Mount Airy, North Wilkesboro, Mooresville, Albemarle and Statesville. Okay?

Ronnie Gallagher

Mocksville baseball fans, coaches and players will be the first to admit that Legion baseball isn't Mister Rogers' Neighborhood. But they all agree that it is bordering on the ridiculous.

Another Mocksville Legion season ended pretty much like they all do — with coaches, players and fans upset and bitter over the way American Legion baseball is run.

Has a commissioner ever made a decision and stuck by it?

Consider, James said, the Mocksville-Lexington series:

- Lexington asks for a day off before the series begins and is turned down. But Post 8 still wins Game 1 in Mocksville on a Saturday night.

- When it rains Sunday afternoon, Lexington's players are sent home — at 6 p.m. Officials didn't wait for the 7:30 p.m. starting time to let the umpires decide the game's fate. Why? Because they knew they'd play. The field wasn't that wet. It was simply a ploy to get that day off to rest Lexington's slim pitching staff.

- Even Post 8 fans said the rainout was a surprise. Several were asked and all said they couldn't believe there was no game.

One, from North Davidson, said his family had been at High Rock Lake when it began raining. On the way home, however, they decided to stop by Holt-Moffitt Field to watch the game. He was amazed to find the game had been called off. He said the field was playable.

So, Area 3 commissioner Neil Davis says the rain date for the series is gone. There will be a doubleheader on Wednesday, with a game at Lexington at 2 p.m. and another, if necessary, in Mocksville at 7:30 p.m. The Lexington Dispatch even prints it that way.

James was excited, going into Wednesday with a 2-1 lead. "Nobody is going to beat us twice in one day," he said confidently. "I'm looking forward to Wednesday."

- In the sixth inning of Tuesday night's game (that's right, the sixth inning) James is told that no, Davis has changed his mind. There won't be a doubleheader on Wednesday. The series is being given another rain day. Now, there will be a game on Wednesday and one on Thursday, giving Lexington's pitchers yet another day off.

The reason was that the heat would be too much on Wednesday at 2 p.m. A source from Lexington said Post 8 really begged off because it knew it would make no money at 2 p.m. on a Wednesday.

- A confused Mocksville team loses Wednesday and Thursday and its season comes crashing down after a regular season title, which included a 15-game winning streak.

"It's bad for the players," James said. "But the 18-year olds have seen it before. They're not dumb. They see how things work. (Lexington) kept getting time to bring their big boy (Mitch Dellinger) back. Everybody kept hee-hawing around with the politics of the thing. The kids got tired of it."

A 28-10 record did nothing to cheer James up after Legion officials once again wouldn't make a decision and stick with it.

"You say something and then you don't really mean it," James exclaimed. "I was really disappointed when they ruled against a doubleheader on Wednesday. We pitch our pitchers a certain way thinking that's the case."

The best-laid plans are always thwarted, I guess. It's just sad that the kids have to suffer from it."

For some reason, Mocksville Legion officials don't give awards at its final get-together. So the Enterprise-Record will:

Most Valuable Player: Campy Walker. Not only did he lead the team in at-bats (139) and hits (50) but he made them count. Sure, there were games he struck out. But when it was time to produce, he did, leading the team in RBIs (40), beating the nearest competitor by seven. And don't forget, he was the undisputed leader of the team.

Most Improved: David Vogler. He went from a .277 average to .394, leading all regulars.

Rookie of the Year: J.J. Sparks. Of all first-year players, Sparks came away with the most clutch hits, especially in a pinch-hitting role. He had a couple of homers, 25 RBIs and a .351 average.

Pitcher of the Year: Marcus King. The Davie senior had the first undefeated season in memory (6-0) and is 11-1 over the last two years. He has a year of eligibility left.

Coaches Award: To Bryan Johnson. Did anyone work harder or pull for his teammates more than Johnson? And just for good measure, he hit a cool .329.

Clark, Powell Are Eels Of The Year

Hickory Hill Swimmers Hold Year-End Awards Banquet

The Hickory Hill swim team held their awards banquet Saturday night, July 24, in the club dining room. Meagan Clark and Austin Powell were voted by their teammates as the recipients of the Ron Brown Eel-of-the-Year awards.

This award was to honor the top swimmers who worked hard, were dedicated, and represented the ideals of what makes a "champion."

Gretchen Umberger was awarded the David Sanford "Spirit" Award for her outstanding effort to improve, striving to be the best one-can-be, giving 100% at all times and supporting her teammates with sportsmanship conduct.

Other awards presented were "Coaches' Award," "Most Dedicated," and "Most Points".

The Coaches' Awards were given for attitude, improvement and effort. Recipients were Meredith Bridgewater, Jenny Broadway, Andrew Barber, Kristy Armstrong and Dusty Wheaton.

The "Most Dedicated" awards were based on attendance and effort when at practice. Winners were Adriene Bridgewater, Brad Clark and Lauren Davis.

The "Most Points" awards are based on the swimmers' performances at the swim meets and points earned for the team. The top point swimmers were Meagan Clark and Austin Powell for the 10 and under division while Larry Umberger and Felicia Swan won the 11 and up division.

A number of swimmers were recognized for their attendance and improvements with movie passes, ice cream coupons and blow pops.

Medals were awarded to Seth Newman, Ryan Powell, Erik Crutchfield and Brad Clark for setting a Hickory Hill Pool Record in the medley relay event. Additional swimmers were recognized for setting team records. These swimmers were Meagan Clark, Felicia Swan, Erin Umberger, Eleanor Bailey, Stephanie Carter and Seth Newman. Relay team records were set by Caroline Steel, Meagan Clark, Nancy Vogler and Emily Harpe; M.C. Steel, Bailey, Carter and Swan; and a free relay team of Seth Newman, Erik Crutchfield, Ryan Powell and Larry Umberger.

The Eels and their families enjoyed a chicken and carry-in dish feast prior to the awards and all enjoyed a final dip in the pool to end a great season.

A special thank you was extended to Donna Powell and Nancy Clark for being team mothers and league representatives. Coaches Karen Umberger and Kathy Cozart were presented thank-you gifts.

Hart's Takes Open League Title

Hart's Jeff Blalock makes a leaping stab at a high throw as Airtite's Alan Chapman slides in safely.

Hart's Chris Keller puts on the brakes when he sees the ball already in Brian Simpson's glove.

Brit Osborne and Alfred then knocked in runs to pull Airtite within 5-3.

But four straight hits to lead off the fourth produced five more runs for Hart's. Jeff Blalock, O'Neill, Keller and Whitlock scored one. Marris then stroked a grand slam home run off the glove of Jason McCray for a 10-3 Hart's lead.

Alfred's three-run homer in the fifth pulled Airtite within 10-6 but it couldn't shut down Hart's pumped-up offense. It added five in the top of the seventh. The big blows were two out singles by Keller and Whitlock, as well as a Creason double.

Andy Everhardt's two-run blast to centerfield in the bottom of the seventh led a three-run, Airtite rally that fell far short.

Whitlock went 4-for-5 to lead Hart's while Shore and Keller each had three hits. Creason, Mike West and O'Neill each had two. Alfred was 4-for-4 with 5 RBIs. Osborne and Chapman each had three hits and McCray and Everhardt two apiece.

"We knew we only had to win one game so we were probably too relaxed," said Airtite third baseman Brian Pitts.

Even with Alfred, the league's most feared hitter, Airtite couldn't overcome the momentum Hart's had built in the first game. Its only lead came when Parker singled home a run in the first inning.

But Shore's two-run homer, scoring Russ Whitlock, and two errors, put Hart's up to stay, 3-1 after two innings.

Alfred was still Alfred, however. He sent a mammoth, solo shot into the trees in the third, bringing Airtite within 3-2.

Hart's scored three in the third and four more in the fourth for a 10-3 advantage.

Creason, Marris, Troy Bailey, West and Russ Whitlock all had hits in the third. After Brian Simpson's run-scoring double for Airtite, Marris led the Hart's fourth with a two-run homer.

It was here that Airtite finally started showing some life, scoring three runs in each of the fifth and sixth innings.

Ron Angus, Tony Renegar and Andy Everhardt had hits in the fifth. Airtite missed out on a run when Everhardt was thrown out at home.

RBIs by Simpson and McCray, along with a sacrifice fly by Tim McCullough, made it 10-9.

Hart's added an insurance run in the bottom of the sixth on West's two-out, RBI single.

Airtite's last chance in the top of the seventh saw Chapman reach base on an error. After Alfred popped out, another error put Everhardt on base. With two outs, Parker's line drive was caught in leftfield to end the game.

"It was about as even as you can get," said Pitts.

Creason, Marris, West and Russ Whitlock all had three hits in the victory for Hart's. Simpson and Parker had that many for Airtite with Alfred, McCray and Angus getting two hits each.

Notes:
• Recreation officials said it was the largest softball crowd at Rich Park in the last four years.

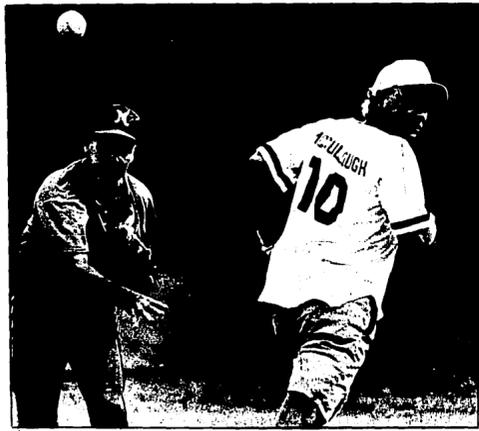

• Marris plays on Airtite's tournament team on weekends.

• Hart's suffered only three losses this year, all to Airtite.

• Hart's was on a roll, coming into the final games. After Airtite dropped it into the loser's bracket, it waited for Sentry to edge Quik Lube, 6-5. Hart's then routed Sentry, 14-1.

• Besides Hart's, Airtite also defeated Quik Lube in the tournament.

• Airtite and Hart's tied for the regular season championship with 10-2 records. But Airtite was given the tournament's top seed because it defeated Hart's twice.

Tim McCullough turns back to watch the throw to first by Mike West.

New Union

Steven Dyson's homer in the bottom of the first cut the margin in half and New Union finally took the lead for good in the second. Three hits, one by Groce, put New Union up, 3-2.

New Union began pulling away in the third, scoring five runs for an 8-2 advantage. Edwards, New Union's starstop, slugged a two-run homer. Steven Dyson, Swisher and Tony Prevette also scored in the inning. Dyson had a triple.

Liberty's last gasp was in the fourth when Gary Blalock tripled and scored, narrowing the margin to 8-3. But three New Union runs in the bottom of the fourth sealed the verdict. Neither team scored again.

Groce gave as much credit to the team's fans as he did any of the players.

"Whatever the team does, I keep the congregation informed," he said. "We get a lot of support from the church."

Those fans had a lot to cheer about in the second game. David Allen and Groce led the way with three hits apiece. Terry and Tony Prevette and Edwards chipped in with two.

"You get to thinking about how we were," Groce said, reminiscing once again. "But you put some country boys on the field and keep them together and you can win."

He chuckled about his team's first championship a couple of years ago.

"When we won it then, we were called the Cinderella team," Groce said. "Of course, that was on paper — which New Union proves year after year, doesn't mean much on the softball field."

Notes:

- New Union was the third seed in the tournament. Liberty was the fifth seed.
- Liberty saw a different team from the regular season. In the last confrontation, Edwards, Groce and Allen were missing from the lineup.
- New Union's Keller hit two home runs in the second game but both were outs. There is a two-homer limit and Dyson and Edwards had already the team's quota.
- Blalock and Michaels led Liberty in the second game with two hits.
- Shane Dyson was the winning pitcher for New Union.

The Panthers: These Midget Girls Win Big

Panther Power

Panthers Capture Midget Crown

The first softball team crowned as champions in Davie County was also the youngest.

The Panthers, coached by Joe Boyette, Tonya Dillard and Hubby Carter, defeated Sandra Jordan's Sluggers, 9-6 last week to win the Mocksville/Davie Parks and Recreation Department's midget girls title.

Despite losing in the finals, the Sluggers were the story of the tournament. They finished low in the regular season but knocked off the champion Beaves in the semifinals, 9-7. The Panthers then defeated the Tigers 6-4 to set up the championship showdown.

Players on the Panthers include Jessica Dillard, Molly Speer, Tosha Hunter, Donna Pennington, Brandi Crofts, Julia Angell, Mandy Carter, Kimberly Carter, Stephanie Hepler, Jerri Ann Angell, Lisa Stanley, Jamie Potts, Mariani Beyerly, Katie Groce and Amanda Cole.

The Sluggers were led by Tiffany Nichols, Sally Boyette and Angela Collins.

Also on the Sluggers were Elizabeth Sain, Anna McClamrock, Larissa Lookabill, Marissa Johnson, Becky Little, Jill Scamon, Katie Beaver, Tara Swinson, Ellen Foust, Amanda Collins and Brandi Beck.

Grady McClamrock was Jordan's assistant coach.

Tiffany Nichols goes down low to field this grounder.

Yadkin Valley News

By Mrs. Ruby McBride

Yadkin Valley Correspondent
The Men's Bible Class had Sunday School lesson with Ed Smith at his home on Yadkin Valley Road last Sunday. He has cancer and needs all our prayers.

The Ladies Sunday School class enjoyed breakfast at the K&W Restaurant last Tuesday, and then enjoyed looking in a craft shop on Tren West.

We then went to Meadowbrook Manor, and visited Lillian Smith and Dulcie Hauser. She was still thrilled over having her 96th birthday, and the gifts she had received and cards. Ruby McBride and Lorena West visited Lucy McBride this week at Davie County Hospital. She is better and able to sit up some during the day. She celebrated her birthday the first day of August and had a birthday cake for her visitors.

Ruby McBride and Gladys Hayes visited Virginia Walker Friday evening. She is about the same.

Toots and Hazel Riddle visited Harvey Fletcher on Thursday evening. Lori Fletcher visited Ruby McBride and Blackberry Cottage Friday morning.

The wedding is planned for Sept. 4 at Greens Chapel Methodist Church, Linwood.

I want to thank you for all the things that you've done over the years. Not only for me but for the rest of the family and friends as well. You raised six children during some hard times, even having to watch one die at a young age. You've spent more than 25 years looking after the elderly and sick. I wish you had been the one to attend the nursing program. You would have been great at it. When I walk across that stage this week to receive my diploma, I accept it on behalf of you.

I love you.

Ramsley starred in this drama while earning her degree from Catawba College.

Woman Relishes Role As Theater Students' Mentor

By Laura Williams-Tracy
Davie County Enterprise-Record

Freda Ramsley who pulls otherwise-voice-by students onto stage for a musical production of "Damn Yankees" or "Bye, Bye Birdie."
Hiding their fears aside, she casts the amateur actors in roles as an Etic look-alike or singing 1930s baseball players, gives them their stage cues and a booster shot of much-needed self-confidence.

When the lights dim and the curtain goes up, the magic begins.
Fame on a small Davie Community theater stage or behind the scenes of high school dramatic production may not have been what Ramsley envisioned for herself 30 years ago.
Back then she had to muster the same confidence to stand up before a crowd of strangers and belt out some notes.
She was the best actress among area high schoolers in her native Texas home, and she received a full scholarship to study theater at the University of Texas.

But taking on a fast-paced career in theater left many questions for Ramsley, the mother of two daughters.

Would she join a star-studded cast and tour the country, or choose to have a family and settle down?
"I dreamed of going to the Royal Academy of Dramatic Arts. I would have been in class with Peter O'Toole," she said with a laugh. But few aspiring stars survive the lifestyle, even fewer make the headlines.

Instead she married Charles.
Ramsley had two children and moved to Mocksville. It was much later that she decided to complete her theater degree at Catawba College.

Ramsley started teaching drama in Davie County schools almost seven years ago, and started a full-time position teaching technical theater at the high school in 1988.

With teaching, Ramsley held on to the thrill of the stage, she said, but she wasn't missing out on a lifestyle filled with home, family and church.
In the past year, Ramsley's repertoire of plays has included "Dolls".

a high school production about teenage pregnancy: "Arsenic and Old Lace" with the Davie Theater Company; "Damn Yankees," the high school's first major musical; and "Bye Bye Birdie," a Rock-n-Roll story about Elvis being drafted into the Army.

Through all the tryouts, dress rehearsals, and set design pow-wows, Ramsley has found that one element of theater holds true: all of the hard work in the world can't replace talent.

"If they've got it there is just no doubt about it," she said. Those with enough desire can perform to a certain level, but those students who enter the dramatic program with raw talent go far beyond.

Students and friends have given Ramsley dramatic masks for her collection.

Several of Ramsley's students have continued beyond high school and community theater and found success.

Some are enrolled at the N.C.
School of the Arts in Winston-Salem.
Others are touring with professional companies, with high expectations for the future.

But preparing students for acting outside of high school and the community can be difficult in Davie County, Ramsley admits. Her biggest handicap is that there is no theater for students to learn about creative lighting for special effects. There's little stock for costumes and set designs. And little money for any of that to change.

For her battle against the elements to bring theater to the county,
Ramsley has received the Davie
County Arts Council's Arts Advocate Award. She describes the award as a Purple Heart for keeping it all going, despite it all.

The Arts Council helps sponsor many of Ramsley's projects. And in turn, her students have performed plays in the schools, helping to spread arts around the county.

"The value of this art form is powerful, and you can see it in people's reactions and in the actors," Ramsley said. "It broadens the confidence of the presenters in other ways, because it's true that all the world is a stage, and we are merely the actors."

Golden Age Club Hears Band

The Davie County Golden Age
Club met Aug. 4.

The club was entertained by the

A covered dish meal is planned for September.

The meeting was closed with members singing their theme song. Al Thomson dismissed with prayer. The next meeting will be Sept. 1 at 10 a.m. at the Rotary Hut.

Breastfeeding Peer Group Starts

Davie County Health Department has an established Breastfeeding Peer Counseling Program for the women of Davie County.

The program is a part of the North Carolina Women, Infant, and Children's (WIC) Supplemental Food Program.

The program provides support to pregnant and breastfeeding women through individual counseling sessions, telephone consultations, and home visits.

A support group is also a part of the program. The Davie County Breastfeeding Support Group meets at the Health Department on the 2nd Tuesday evening of each month from 6-7:30 p.m. Each meeting consists of an educational session on a particular breastfeeding topic and an opportunity for breastfeeding mothers to share personal experiences.

A baby's immune system is not completely mature at the time of birth. Therefore, the first breast milk that the baby receives shortly after birth called Colostrum, may be considered the baby's first immunization. Colostrum directly provides a newborn with germ-fighting antibodies that will protect him from disease. Breast milk is most helpful in protecting the baby while his immune system is still developing.

Breastfeeding also can lower a baby's risk of allergies. Some infants, especially in the first few months, tend to have intolerances or allergies when drinking milk-based or even soy-based formulas. There are infants who will be introduced to several brands of formulas before finding one that can be tolerated. Most infants will tolerate breast milk with problems.

Research has shown that pregnant and breastfeeding women who receive support and information about the importance of breast milk are more likely to continue breastfeeding for at least six (6) months. Because breastfeeding is not instinctive, support groups are needed and have become very popular in the United States.

Please contact Vicki Frye, breastfeeding peer counselor, at the Davie County Health Department for more information about breastfeeding and how to enroll in your local support group at (704) 634-5985.

All That Jazz The lunch crowd in downtown Mocksville will be treated to some jazz music from the Steve Blake Jazz Duo this Friday. The performance will be the last of the Davie Arts Council's PB&J series, which featured the Southland String Band (pictured above), in July.

Perfect Love Casts Out All Fear

By Shirley Cottle

Most of us are fearful of something. I know a lady who is afraid of cats. She will not meet in a home where a cat is a pet. I can understand that, as I am fearful of a lot of dogs. Even though we have had a lot of dogs in our children's growing up years, there are some I am still fearful of and they sense it. Their reaction to my fear is to be on the defensive, and their fur stands up and they growl. And that in turn increases my anxiety, and it is a 'no-win' situation.

Fear can make us think we are in 'no-win' situations in many areas of our life. On the job, it may be the fear of learning a new technique and for many it is learning to live in the world of computers. In the home situation, you may think that nothing you do seems to please, and the fear of confrontation takes its toll. In the all too many cases of physical abuse, the fear of exposing your abuser holds you in its grip. Or it can be the situations of facing an illness, or loss of a loved one. The fear of any of these and more that are personal to you, can put up a wall that seems to have no door of escape.

Yet I have found when I was most afraid was when I thought I was trying to do it all alone. When I called on those I loved to help me, my anxiety and fears lessened. My no-win situation became a possibility of overcoming, or at least of understanding.

In the New Testament writing of our Bible, 1 John 4:18, are these words: "There is no fear in love, but perfect love casts out fear, because fear involves punishment, and the one who fears is not perfected in love. We love because He (God) first loved us." We have that someone, Jesus our Christ, who loves us completely, and can help us overcome our fears.

It takes courage and faith to overcome fear, a hope that knows the door is there, and a knowledge that the perfect love of Christ will guide and direct us so our fears become surmountable and our anxieties are permeated by peace.

What are you most fearful of today? A kind computer instructor and patient companion have given me courage in this modern field of technology. In my relation with dogs, I am beginning to understand that fear begets fear. In my daily devotional walk with Christ Jesus, I am learning to listen more, be patient, be an encourager, and respond to others' fears with kindness and love.

Are you trying to face your fears alone? There is one who stands ready to help. You need only to speak His name, and His perfect love will make your fears surmountable and your anxieties disappear as peace rules your heart. Ask Him today.

Shiloh Baptist Plans Event

Shiloh Baptist Church at 628 E. Depot St. in Mocksville will celebrate the first anniversary of its pastor, the Rev. Donald Ray Jenkins, on this Sunday at 5 p.m.

The Rev. Dr. John Bee Moore, choir, and congregation from True Fellowship Jenkins Missionary Baptist Church in Weldon, will be the special guests.

Under Jenkins' leadership, Shiloh has purchased 3-1/2 acres of land adjoining the church, refurbished the parsonage, and seen an increase in financial contributions from its members.

Jenkins, a native of Weldon, received his undergraduate training at N.C. Central University and his graduate training at Pembroke State University and the University of North Carolina at Greensboro. He is working on his doctorate in English from UNC-G.

In addition to his pastoral duties, Jenkins teaches English at Winston-Salem State University.

Jenkins is married to the former Linda Diann Swann of Laurinburg.

College Funds Keep Coming

Lexington Furniture has paid the first installment of a $50,000 pledge to the Davie County Campus of Davidson County Community College.

Smith Young, the chairman of the company's board of directors, came to Mocksville last week and presented the $10,000 check to the Chamber of Commerce.

Terry Bralley, Mocksville's town manager and a member of the Council of Economic Development, said Lexington Furniture's pledge puts that group just $50,000 away from its $600,000 fund-raising goal for the college. The economic development council has not put a deadline on when its members hope to finish raising funds, but Bralley said the council was waiting on a few requests that are still pending. Those contributions would quickly complete the group's goal.

Bralley said the money will be used to furnish the building and provide computers once construction is complete. The building is being built on U.S. 601 across from Davie High School.

Lexington Furniture employs about 385 people in its Davie County plant.

Home Health Aide Gives Joy To Patients

By Patricia Williams-Tracy
Davie County Enterprise-Record

Nurses Aide Joyce Cregar has been known to climb into windows for patients who were locked out of their homes. And she's raided her closets for clothes for clients who didn't have any.

Cregar has created a special relationship with each of her patients, especially Steven Poteet. She's been visiting him for almost 17 years. And although he cannot walk, he has no difficulty showing Cregar he enjoys her visits. And Poteet's parents enjoy her visits too. When she visits, Cregar helps with his baths and helps his parents, Monion and Josephine Poteet take care of their disabled son. Since he was born 49 years ago, Poteet has always lived at home. His mother, father and three sisters cared for him, and despite his disabilities, he always went on family vacations to the beach and often visited the mall. Poteet has been able to remain at home because of the regular visits by Cregar from the Davie County Health Department Home Health office. Nurses and aides from the office visit handicapped and sick patients all over the county, giving them the care they would get at a rest home with

Cregar and Blair check Poteet's blood pressure.

"She'll do anything she can. She's very cooperative. He loves her to death."

Band Students Raising Money For Paris Trip

Fruit sales, barbecues, car washes, and doughnut sales are among many fund raising events past and future that Davie High Band members are trying to raise money for a December trip to Paris.

The band will march in two parades during the New Year celebration. But first, each of 100 band members must raise about $1,500 for his ticket.

Band Director Kathy Ferebee said the band boosters have planned many opportunities for the students to earn credit toward their trip by selling items.

The group has just kicked off a fruit sale. Hamlin oranges, navel oranges, grapefruit and tangelos in 20 and 40 pound crates will be sold.

Ferebee said the students will be taking orders from friends and neighbors. The fruit will arrive in December.

Later in the summer students will have a yard sale, a candy sale, a raffle ticket sale, and a Farmer's Almanac and Calendar brochure sale.

For every sale the student earns credit toward the trip. In all, Ferebee said students have earned a total of $40,000 toward the $150,000 total cost of the trip.

Ferebee said fund raising campaigns are usually more intense on years like this one when the band is planning an ambitious trip. Three years ago the students went to London.

Ferebee said the band welcomes donations from individuals and businesses to help the group meet its goal.

School Briefs

School Board OKs Superintendent

Davie Schools superintendent Dr. Bill Steed is doing a good job, according to a recent evaluation by the board of education.

"He rated really well," said Nancy Groves, board chairperson.

"The board thinks Dr. Steed does a very good job, is very professional and highly skilled."

Groves said Steed keeps board members informed of happenings in the system, and works well with the staff.

"He really cares about the children. Any decision he makes are for the children and the school system," Groves said.

Students Start School On Aug. 18

The schools' summer vacation is almost over. Teachers in the Davie County System report on Aug. 11, with the first day for students on Aug. 18.

Year-Round Schools Study Begins

A task force of school personnel and parents will begin studying the year-round schools concept this September. The committee eventually will make a recommendation to the school board.

Dr. Sam Houston, Mooresville Schools superintendent, is expected to speak at the group's first meeting, scheduled for September.

Local Money Budget Approved

Davie Schools had to make some changes in the proposed 1993-94 budget when a request for a 15 percent increase in county funds was reduced to a 7 percent increase by county commissioners.

Goals: a half a vocational position, five locally-paid teachers and $30,000 for Chapter 1 (remedial reading) programs and an exceptional children's position. Added over last year: 2-3 percent pay increase, 2 percent pay supplement for non-certified staff, a liaison officer for the system, staff development to prepare for the transition to middle schools.

The schools also didn't receive money to expand Mocksville Elementary School to allow a complete transition to the middle school concept.

Central Carolina Gets Contract

Davie board of education members Monday night awarded a three-year contract to Central Carolina Bank, the best of three proposals submitted by local banks, according to financial officer Tammy Test.

Two Appointed To Planning Group

School board members David Owens and Marlene Shamel were appointed to a committee with superintendent Dr. Bill Steed to make an agenda for the board's annual planning session.

Health Agreement Is Approved

Davie schools and the Davie County Health Department have teamed up to provide health care for Davie students.

The agreement approved by the board of education and county health board is the same one used for the past three years. "The main emphasis is that we provide the very best health care possible for the students of Davie County," said Dr. Bill Steed, superintendent.

Also, a committee including Steed, board members David Owens and Marlene Shamel and Dr. Nancy Dominick and Betty Griffith of the school staff, will begin studying a possible family life education policy for the schools.

School Board To Meet On Sept. 7

The board of education will next meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 7, because the regular meeting date falls on Labor Day.

Community Supports Davie Schools

Community support helps make Davie schools a success.

Board of education members on Monday night learned some statistics about community support for the schools:

- more than 4,000 volunteers logged 31,538 hours helping schools;
- 261 businesses became school partners;
- 1,438 residents participated in community functions held in school facilities;
- "I think the numbers are complimentary of the community," said Dr. Bill Steed, superintendent, "and that's one of the strengths our schools are built on."

"I think the success of our school system is the fact the community reaches out toward the schools in an effort to make them better."

Board member Marlene Shamel thanked Mike Hendrix, community schools coordinator, for his part in joining the schools with volunteers.

A group of volunteers appointed Monday night included advisory councils for each school.

Child Care Available
In All Schools
Child Care is available in Davie County for all students in grade K-6. The program is offered by the Davie Family YMCA.
TIMES:
Before School: 6:30 AM until School begins
After School: end of School until 6:00 PM
MONTHLY COST:
Before School: $15 for non-YMCA members and YMCA members
After School: $18 for non-YMCA members and $8 for YMCA members.
Students whose families are not members of the YMCA may join the YMCA as a youth member for $6.00 monthly and that qualify for the cheaper child care rate for YMCA members. The YMCA turns no one away due to inability to pay. Those in need are encouraged to inquire about financial aid.
PROGRAM: Activities include arts & crafts, values education, sports, games, field trips and homework study time. All students in the YMCA Program will be taken to the YMCA Facility in Mocksville one afternoon each week for swimming and other activities. The program fee includes all expenses including field trips and a daily snack.
Contact the Davie Family YMCA for more information at 634-6345.

Cards of Thanks

JONES
The many expressions of sympathy and acts of kindness extended to us during the loss of our loved one are acknowledged with deep appreciation.
The James H. Jones family
Perhaps you sent a lovely card, or sat quietly in a chair. Perhaps you sent a floral piece. If so, we saw it there. Perhaps you spoke the kindest words. As any friend could say. Perhaps you were not there at all. Just thought of us that day. Whatever you did to console our hearts. We thank you so much whatever the part.

Family of the Late Joseph James RUSH
Our sincere thanks and appreciation to our family members and the numerous friends for sharing with us during the death of our husband and father, John Rush. Each deed of sympathy was received with gratitude. Special thanks to the kitchen committee at St. John's A.M.E. Zion Church, Winoona, Sonya & Reginald.

Weekend Wrecks Claim Life Of Two Davie Residents

Two Davie people died and another is in critical condition following separate traffic accidents last weekend.
Linda Sue Sims Sapp, 43, of Advance, died when the van she was driving crashed head on into a pickup truck on N.C. 801 Saturday morning. The driver of the pickup, Ernest Gene Peebles, 75, of Route 3, Advance, is in critical condition at N.C. Baptist Hospital in Winston-Salem with head injuries and broken ribs.
On Sunday night, William Terry Bass II, 23, of 178 Montview Drive, Mocksville, was killed when the motorcycle he was driving jumped a curb and sent him crashing head first into the brick YMCA sign on Cemetery Street.

Masons: 'Re-Take' Communities

By Mike Barnhardt
Davie County Enterprise Record
Prince Hall wouldn't be proud of today's Masons.
That's the message Dr. William Turner brought to the more than 200 people on hand for the 109th annual Masonic and DEU Picnic Saturday afternoon at Clement Grove.
Turner, a Winston-Salem State University professor and authority on rural blacks and blacks in Appalatchia, said black leaders aren't doing their job. "I don't think we should be in a picnic mood right now."

He joined the Masonic Lodge 12 years ago because his father and grandfather were Masons. He hasn't been to a meeting since 1984, he said, because the Masons aren't doing enough to help their communities. He said black leaders such as the Rev. Jesse Jackson and Oprah Winfrey also aren't helping their people. "They're just talking," Turner said.

"I am increasingly disappointed with the many black organizations... institutions... leaders. Their numbers are high... but the quality has never been as low as it is right now."
Prince Hall, who founded the Masons, was a leader who helped his people to better lives. Today's Masons, Turner said, are all decorum and formality.
People join clubs just to be a club member, he said.

"I stopped joining them. I said I'm going to start being a better husband, a better father... and stopped being a better joiner."
Growing up in rural Kentucky, he said Masons were shrouded in fable and folklore, but were the real pillars of the community. "Are we doing today what a social-reforming mentor meant?"
"Somewhere, those people aren't around anymore doing the things

Golf Course, Development OK'd By County

By Laura Williams-Tracy
Davie County Enterprise-Record

Developers of Oak Valley received approval to rezone land for the 560-acre housing development Monday night and withstood criticism that a nearby sewer plant couldn't handle the increased development.
The Advance development will sport a public golf course designed by Arnold Palmer, and when fully developed will be home to 750 mid to upper income families. Within the development, similarly-priced homes will combine to create separate neighborhoods.

"It's not intended just to be a rich man's paradise," said Attorney Hank Van Hoy, who was representing the subdivision's developers.

There will be no locked gates or security guards and the general public may play golf on the public course. The development is located off N.C. 801 between Underpass Road and Smith/Carter Creek.

Cooleemee OKs Annexing Report; Hearing Sept. 20

COOLEEMEE - Two areas became a step closer to being annexed into town Monday night when town commissioners on a 2-1 vote approved an annexation report.

The report, which outlines the proposed areas as well as providing information such as costs and revenues, is available for public inspection at town hall.

Commissioners Bill Cranfill and Grimes Parker voted for the annexation report. Hayden Beck voted against, and Bob Jordan was not present.

The public will get a chance to comment on the proposal at a meeting on Sept. 20, tentatively scheduled to be held at the VFW building on N.C. 801. All property owners in the proposed annexation area will receive a letter describing the plan.

Mayor Bill Gales allowed one resident, Keith Hodgson, to speak at Monday's meeting. Hodgson called the board "thieves" for proposing to annex against wishes of the residents, and said the town was bypassing some areas that should be considered first.

If approved, the annexation will become effective at the end of the year.

Davie Law Enforcement Officers Helping Illinois Flood Victims

Davie County residents have a chance to help people in another small town that has been flooded by the Mississippi River.

Members of the Davie County Law Enforcement Association will be collecting items donated by the community at Willow Oaks Shopping Center this Saturday.

N.C. Highway Patrol Trooper L.A. Amos said volunteers will be collecting goods starting about 9 a.m. in the parking lot.

All of the donations will go to Kampsville, Ill., a small town similar to Mocksville.

Amos said the mid-westerners need baby food, diapers, dog and cat food, cleaning supplies, bottled water and other staple goods. No donation is too small, but organizers ask that items be put in boxes for easier transport.

A truck is being donated by Salem Leasing and a driver was volunteered to deliver the goods to the flood-soaked area.

"The association encourages everyone to remember those who are in the midst of a tragedy very similar to our state in 1989 during Hurricane Hugo," Amos said.

Old Fashioned Pope Still Appeals To Modern World

He's old fashioned. He's out of step. He's an antique refusing to keep up with modern times.

He's also the most popular man in the world.

The Roman Catholic Church staged a gathering for him last week in Denver. An estimated 375,000 came.

What is it with Pope John Paul II?

Why is this man — so out of touch with the age — able to appeal to the entire world? President Bill Clinton, after pushing hard for abortions, took it on the chin from the Pope ... and never complained. It's amazing to watch the Pope travel the world and have such a profound impact on people and governments.

He, perhaps as much as presidents Ronald Reagan and George Bush, contributed to the collapse of the Iron Curtain and the communist eastern European states.

But the Pope is so old fashioned. So unbending in his beliefs. So dogmatic.

Doesn't he realize his stand on abortion no longer has the world's support? His position on birth control is laughed at. Why shouldn't priests be allowed to marry? And why can't women be priests?

Hasn't he heard of women's rights? He should be afraid of being sued.

Pope John Paul II must read the newspapers. He must be painfully aware that he's out of touch. God bless him for it. His unyielding stand in the face of modern times must be a large part of his appeal — and the success of the Roman Catholic Church. Unlike many of its Protestant counterparts, the Roman Catholic Church has resisted the temptation to bend with the times. Protestant denominations have made many concessions. Coincidence or not, those same mainstream denominations have seen drastic losses in memberships in the past 30 years. The United Methodists, the Presbyterians, the Episcopalians have lost millions. My own tiny Moravian denomination has felt gradual losses almost yearly.

The Roman Catholic Church now counts 28 percent of the United States among its numbers — impressive figures for a church so "out of touch." Protestant churches account for 56 percent.

The Catholic church is not without its troubles. While Protestants have had problems with sex and television evangelists, the Roman Catholics have not dealt head-on with sexually aberrant priests. Polls also say most American Catholics do not agree with many of the Pope's positions on birth control and sexuality. They may not agree, but they still revere him. And he sets the standard.

Protestant churches do not have a central figure — a papal counterpart — to keep the church's message pure. When the Protestants formed 500 years ago, they made one radical departure from their Catholic roots. No popes. They had seen the abuses in those days.

Most Protestant denominations are led by committees or congresses that are too easily swayed by modern times. They are short on principle and long on compromise. Their declining numbers prove it.

There are some issues with which the church should forever be out-of-touch. Faith can't be compromised. In a confused world, the Pope stands out as a steady beacon of goodness. And a hungry world longs to hear that message.

Community Makes Picnic A Success

The 113th Annual Masonic Picnic is now history and once again it was a great success. On behalf of the Basket Committee and all of the Masons of Davie County, our sincere thanks to everyone who helped in any way.

Proceeds from the tickets sold for the dinner, plus contributions from those who were not able to prepare a basket, totaled over $3600. We know those of you who participated are pleased that you had a part in making a larger contribution to the Oxford Orphanage this year.

Our thanks again to Tyson Food for their donation of chickens and to our local Lowes Foods for allowing the ladies in the deli to fry the chickens for us at no charge. The children from Oxford Orphanage who attended the picnic had a great time and certainly enjoyed all of the good food. Attendance was good from people of all areas, and fun and fellowship were enjoyed by all as the delicious food was consumed.

Thanks again to every person who helped to make the 113th Annual Masonic Picnic a great success. We'll be looking forward to seeing you next year at the 114th.

Hairy Situation: Guys Are The Ones Shaving

What's happening to America? In the 60s and 70s, guys started to let their hair grow long. Women started cutting their hair shorter and shorter. That wasn't too bad.

But then women started to let their hair grow again. That wasn't the problem, except the hair they were letting grow wasn't on their heads. It was on legs and armpits.

And the men are starting to shave in places that aren't meant to be shaved — arms, legs, chests. You name it, they shave it. Some men have even opted for the totally hairless body.

It was probably a man who first decided that women should shave their legs and armpits. From what they (women who shave) tell me, it's no picnic to slide the razor up and down the legs every morning. That's right, every morning.

It sure beats the alternative. I don't know of many. (Actually, I don't know any, but I'm sure there are a few out there somewhere, probably the same ones who eat tree bark for breakfast and bathe once a month whether they need it or not) guys who like their women with hairy legs or armpits.

Personally, I don't want to be with any woman who has more body hair than me. Maybe it's not fair that us guys can let our body hair grow forever. Those who are really lazy can let their beards grow, as well. And who cares. The way society has been looking at it, the more hair a man has the more manly the man is.

So why would any man want to shave their hair if they weren't into some weirdly-erotic sport such as swimming?

That's the newest fad among men. Apparently, there are a lot of women who like that look on guys. Hair on the head, but no body hair anywhere else. Andre Agassi made the look fashionable at Wimbledon when he bared his once hairy but now bare chest.

Think about it. Shaving body hair would be quite a chore for many guys. You know, the kinds with enough hair on their chest to fill a big pillow. The kind with hair extending across their shoulders and down their back. The kind who don't have to worry about getting sunburned legs at the beach because sun can't penetrate through the multiple layers of hair.

These are usually the guys who wear tank tops to restaurants and lift their arms for everyone to see several times a minute. Get a shirt guys. Hairy armpits and pepperoni pizza don't mix. Cover it up.

I had always heard that women love to run their fingers through thick wads of chest hair on men. Shave it off, and there's no finger running — just finger sliding.

That's something I've never had to worry about, or should I say look forward to. At last count, I have 17 chest hairs. Seventeen chest hairs aren't enough to run fingers through. Seventeen chest hairs aren't enough to shake a pinky at. There are more pimples on my chest than there are hairs.

But shave them off and go for the fashionable "slick" look.

No way. I'll keep my 17 hairs. Maybe some day I'll grow up and get a chest full and be a real man.

If It's Really Important, Don't Give It To Mom

I was sitting in the Charlotte airport last week waiting for my son's plane to arrive and to pass the time. I picked up a copy of USA Today lying on the seat beside me. As I thumbed through the paper, I came across the section where they run short news items from each state and something caught my attention. I felt the blood drain from my head and I saw spots before my eyes. Frantically, I grabbed my billfold and began searching through the 251 pieces of scrap paper I keep tucked into the space meant for currency. It wasn't there. I'd lost that, too.

The article I'd come across said that no one had come forward with the winning ticket to claim the $1.9 million Lotto in Virginia and the money was going to be put back into the lottery pool. Whoever had won, had apparently lost the ticket. I was just about to throw myself down on a runway in the path of a 747 when fortunately I remembered I hadn't bought a Virginia lottery ticket. In fact, I've never bought a lottery ticket. It's just when something is lost, I panic, assuming I'm the one who did it.

I wasn't always this way. I grew up in a very orderly home and considered myself an orderly person. When my children were young and it was up to me to know where they took off their shoes, where they left their jackets and at whose house I'd dropped them off that morning, I was quite capable of doing so. Now I can't find my own shoes, can't remember where I dropped my car keys and often forget my way home. My mother, generous soul that she is, tells me not to worry. I'm too young for senility and this is just a case of being very busy and having too much on my mind. I've hoped and prayed she was right, because I checked and my insurance doesn't cover chronic scatterbrainedness. I've misplaced so many things that it's become a kind of joke at work. Five out of five workdays I come tearing into the office anywhere from five to 15 minutes late because I couldn't find my — shoes, glasses, car keys, notebook, purse and occasionally the front door.

Back when I was in college I used to drive over to Post, Texas, to visit my grandmother for a weekend, and would usually spend a good deal of time helping her find her glasses, nail file, a thimble, a certain book or recipe, or a deck of cards. I thought it was kind of funny how she misplaced things and often they'd be sitting right out in plain view. Of course, my grandmother was at the time what I considered "old," and therefore, I considered this pretty normal for her advanced age. I changed my mind the week I lost my pay check, my watch, two sets of earrings and happened to mention that Ryan had been awfully quiet the last few days, only to be reminded that he has been in Louisiana for two weeks. At home, my kids say the family motto should be, "If it's important, don't give it to mom." That's why I wasn't at all surprised or offended when I mentioned to someone a purchase I was considering making. "Have you lost your mind?" she demanded. "Probably," I replied. "And when I find it, I sure hope my car keys are with it."

Advance Woman, Mocksville Man Die In Accidents

Saturday morning's wreck occurred about 10:30 a.m. on a curve in front of Vogler's TV and the former Fishel's Store. Robert Fishel was working as a lawnmower at the store when he looked up and saw the crash.

Fishel and others went to help the accident victims. "I was in World War II, and I had seen tragedy before," Fishel said. "You get a little more used to seeing people pretty tom up."

He quickly realized that Peebles, a friend and customer at his store for 30 years, was one of the victims. He also recognized Sapp, who had lived in the area for several years.

N.C. Highway Patrol Trooper J.R. Allred said that Peebles crossed the center line in the curve, causing the collision. He doesn't know why. No charges had been filed.

Peebles has not gained consciousness, and therefore Allred hasn't been able to talk to him about the wreck.

Sapp was pronounced dead at Baptist Hospital. Traffic was rerouted onto Peoples Creek Road for two hours.

Motorcyclist Killed In Mocksville
Bass lost control of his motorcycle just before 8 p.m. Sunday.

Witnesses said the motorcycle was being driven at a high rate of speed on Cemetery Street, coming from Rich Park toward North Main Street. It began to wobble and shake just before the wreck, they said.

The motorcycle struck the curb on the left of the road, causing it to overturn and throw Bass into the YMCA's brick sign. He suffered massive head injuries, and efforts to revive him by Mocksville police and fire personnel were not successful.

Mocksville Police Officer T.L. Tilly estimated Bass was driving the motorcycle at 15 mph, and didn't slow before he hit the curb. The motorcycle traveled 116 feet after hitting the curb.

Golf Course And Development OK'd By County Board

County commissioners voted to rezone the property from Residential Agricultural and Industrial to Residential R-20 Special Use and R-12 Special Use. And that was the only action the developers needed to begin work on the golf course and single family homes.

But Van Hoy and the developers engineer, John Phillips, came under attack by a member of the Davie Environmental Action League for the poor track record of the operator of the sewage treatment plant that will serve the neighborhood.

Johnathon Withson said that Rayco Utilities has had numerous violations at its Davie County sewage treatment plant and that it had failed to complete basic paper work for the Department of Environmental Management.

He asked the board to delay a vote on the rezoning until the citizens were assured that Rayco could handle the neighborhood's sewage.

Van Hoy responded that it was illogical to link the rezoning with the sewage treatment operations. Only the Department of Environmental Management and the state Utilities Commission have the power to regulate sewage treatment, not the county commissioners, he said.

"We are not Rayco, but we have an interest in seeing that Rayco operates its plant correctly," Van Hoy said. Oak Valley residents would complain the loudest about sewage malfunctions nearby because those residents could smell the results from their homes, he said.

Phillips responded to Withson's claims about violations by saying that all plants have some routine violations. In its last report, Rayco had three violations while the town of Mocksville's plant had five similar violations.

Commissioner Diane Foster admitted that the board had no control over Rayco operations, but asked that if any problems were detected that Oak Valley representatives let the board know about them.

"You folks are smart enough not to sink this kind of money in a project and then pull it," Foster said.

Commissioner Jeff Harrison said he was concerned that the development would put a burden on the school system, which would absorb many new students moving to the area.

But Van Hoy said the tax payers in Oak Valley would more than make up for the burden they placed on the present school system.

At an average price of $174,000 per home, Van Hoy said at full development of 750 homes, Oak Valley would add $131 million to the Davie County tax base. At the present tax rate, residents would contribute in excess of 10 percent of the tax revenue.

Van Hoy told the Board of Commissioners that Oak Valley, an upscale, carefully planned neighborhood, was exactly the type of development the county was looking for. With the rezoning, 61 percent of the land will be developed for homes. Another 38 percent would be the golf course and open green space.

The development has been planned by Hubbard Realty, Turnpike Properties, Ramey, Inc., and Davy, Marketing Group. It is patterned after two similar developments outside of Charlotte and Raleigh.

Houses are expected to range in price from $100,000 to more than $300,000.

4.3% Jobless in Davie

Davie County's unemployment rate increased slightly from May to June, but remains low.

According to the Employment Security Commission of North Carolina, the June rate in Davie County was 4.3 percent, up from 3.9 percent in May.

June jobless rates for surrounding counties: Davidson, 6.9 percent; Forsyth, 6.3 percent; Iredell, 6 percent; Rowan, 6.3 percent; and Yadkin, 4.5 percent.

County Agrees To Join Regional Landfill Group

By Laura Williams-Tracy
Davie County Enterprise-Record

Davie County will ship its garbage to a regional landfill in Winston-Salem and will close its own landfill by October.

County commissioners voted Monday night to join the partnership after two weeks of studying other options. An independent study the board received two weeks ago confirmed that the Winston-Salem/Forsyth County landfill partnership would be cheaper than building a new, high-tech landfill here.

Commissioner Larry Hayes was the only member of the board to vote against the partnership, saying that the board imposed unrealistic deadlines on itself and didn't study all the options.

"I think we had a big decision here, and maybe not enough time was spent making it. I wasn't ready to make a 20 year commitment," Hayes said.

Hayes said he would have like the board to consider other landfills besides Winston-Salem's and look at more intensive recycling efforts.

Other commissioners wanted to make a decision on the landfill before October. Meeting the October deadline would save the county money by avoiding a long-term requirement to monitor the Davie County landfill after it is closed.

Hayes said he believed the October deadline wouldn't stick, and the board really had more time.

Now that the initial decision to ship the garbage to Forsyth County has been made, Hayes said he will support the project.

Shipping garbage to the Winston-Salem/Forsyth will cost $47 for every ton of garbage dumped. That number could increase by $2 per ton over the first five years of the contract to $72 after 10 years. That figure includes the cost of a transfer station.

Building a landfill in Davie County could have cost $69 per ton of garbage in the first year, with the number increasing to $79 after 10 years.

Hayes voted along with the other board members in contracting with DSA Design Group to provide engineering services for closing the Davie County landfill and designing a transfer station.

County Manager Ken Windley also confirmed Monday that the county would build and operate its own transfer station — a central clearing house for household garbage to be packed onto larger trucks for the trip to Winston-Salem.

Windley said he had talked with officials from Browning Ferris Industries (BFI) about a transfer station but was not able to work out a contract.

Drought Doesn't Stop Melon Growers

The drought didn't stop R.J. Markland of Advance from bringing in a bumper crop of cantaloupes and green beans.

He irrigated, and had cantaloupes weighing over 19 pounds.

At the other end of the county, Thomas Boger planted a cantaloupe in his yard. It yielded a 16-pound melon. He didn't irrigate.

"Were there other big melons on the vine?" Boger said. "It was the only one. I grew it right there in the front yard, between my house and the road."

Boger bought the seed at the Southern States store. He put water to the young plant, but quit. "It was so dry I didn't even bother." He didn't fertilize either. "Whatever it had, Mother Nature put it on it," he said.

Markland's melons came from seeds that have been saved for more than 50 years by the Barnes family.

Markland, who lives off N.C. 801 between Fork and Advance, started growing the seeds last year. "We've been saving the seed for 50 years," he said. "Coy Barnes grandpa saved the seed for all those years."

He didn't let the drought wither his melons. "I watered them about every day, two to three hours a day," he said.

He was equally proud of his green beans. "I picked 23 bushels off of three rows and I've still got beans."

Man Arrested Smoking Cocaine At Picnic

A Route 1, Hamptonville man was arrested Friday night after officers working security at the Masonic Picnic saw him smoking crack cocaine.

Darrell Wayne Ireland, 29, was charged by Mocksville Police Asst.

Chief Wayne Stoneman with possession of cocaine, possession of drug paraphernalia, and carrying a concealed weapon. He was taken into custody in lieu of a $3,000 bond, pending a Sept. 9 first-appearance hearing in Davie District Court.

Mocksville Officers K.L. Hunter and J.V. Parsell were working security, and were told that someone was smoking crack cocaine. When they approached Ireland, they saw him drop a tube to the ground, Stoneman reported.

The metal smoking tube contained burned residue on one end and what appeared to be a cocaine rock in the other, the report said.

Cochrane On Committee

Sen. Betsy L. Cochrane (R-Davie) has been appointed to serve as an alternate on the Human Resources Committee of the Southern Legislative Conference for 1993.

Cochrane has also been appointed to serve on the 1993-94 Developmental Disabilities Task Force Committee of the National Conference of State Legislators Assembly on the Legislature. The Task Force on Developmental Disabilities reviews and makes recommendations for state legislative action developmental disabilities policy issues, including innovations in services for people with developmental disabilities, the impact of federal policy changes on states, and financing of state-supported services. It is chaired by U.S. Rep. Gary H. Blumenthal of Kansas.

Minor Road Name Changes Approved By County Board

Davie County planners who are trying to eliminate duplicated road names in the county met little opposition Monday night during a public hearing on proposed name changes.

Only two residents disagreed on the name of a dirt path leading to farm land near Rainbow Road. And the board delayed a vote on that road to research names that can be used.

Bobby Jenkins, who lives at the end of the road in a mobile home, suggested that the road be called Jenkins Trail.

But one of the landowners said he wanted the road to remain what it has always been known as: Farm Road.

"We don't want to pay taxes for a somebody else's name on our road," Gary Tresh said. The board decided to delay the decision on that road, but approved changes for Angell Road Extension to become Angell Road; for Goodwill Heights to become Goodwill Heights Place; and for Main Church Road Extension to become Main Church Road.

John Walker also received approval to name a dirt road behind Saleen Construction after his father, Hall Walker.

The road will become Hall Walker Lane.

Drug Free Picnic A Success

More than 300 people turned out for Drug Free Davie's second annual cook-out recently.

That number includes more than 100 young people, the ones the group hope to reach with their message that drugs can ruin lives. "We've really been blessed," said organizer Daniel Brown. "We had a great response from the whole county."

We'd like to give thanks to God and everybody who came out. The day included free hotdogs for everyone, and t-shirts for the young people. Speakers included Davie Sheriff Bill Wooten. Several businesses also helped make the day a success, Brown said. "We had a real good time."

Davie Has Top Health Director

Davie County Health Department Director Dennis Harrington was named Health Director of the Year by the N.C. Association of County Commissioners. Harrington received the award at a Durham meeting last weekend and was presented an award by Commissioner Larry Hayes Monday.

Grey Named To Tri-County Board

Mitzi Grey has been appointed to the Tri-County Mental Health Board.

The Davie County Board of Commissioners approved Grey for the board Monday night. Grey replaces Nick Lay who resigned. The term lasts until Oct. 1995.

Grey is a nurse with a Masters Degree in Adult Education.

Rehab Center Approved

Davie Commissioners approved rezoning of a two-acre tract of land that will be used for a neurological disease rehabilitation center. The board rezoned the land on off Vanzant Road near U.S. 64 from residential 20 to highway business special use.

Ben F. Powell plans to build a 4,500-square-foot center where patients with neurological diseases can be treated. The center will not produce medical waste.

County OKs Large Animal Clinic

A landowner near Farmington Road and I-40 will be able to expand his hardware business and develop a large animal hospital on about nine acres of land.

J. Emory Crawford, owner of Beechtree's Ace Hardware, and James E. Meeker, DVM, received approval of a rezoning request to change the land from Residential 20 to highway business.

This Kid's Memories Of The 'Cheap Circus'

At first, I wasn't going to the Masonic Picnic this year. My goodness, after seeing that commercial advertising the thing, I figured it would be too crowded.

You saw that commercial on cable TV, right? There appeared to be about 10,000 people packed on the midway.

But then, I saw the rides. There were double ferris wheels and intricate roller coasters. I changed my mind. I went — but I didn't see one double ferris wheel.

Well, of course that commercial wasn't our carnival they were showing. We're not stupid. We knew what we were getting.

We were getting what all small towns get: the cheap circus. The commercial only tried to give us the illusion of the greatest show on earth. On three of the nights, we were told, it is Family Night. All rides for one price.

Yeah, too dang much. But we weren't upset. That's just the way it is in small towns. Barnum and Bailey ain't coming here.

When you grow up in rural America all your life, you get used to the cheap circus. Actually, the 113th Masonic Picnic brought us one of the better small town carnivals around.

But the commercial still reminded me of when I was a kid. My dad wouldn't take me to the real circus. We went to the cheap circus — the kind they set up in the shopping center parking lot.

Each fall, it all comes back because this is the time every small town has its cheap circus. I begin thinking back to my youth when I hoped I'd enjoy the most for my father's entertainment dollar.

Ah, what memories....
* Have you ever noticed that the people operating the rides are scarier than the rides themselves?

I mean, when did they let Manson go? And I don't trust anybody who spends his paycheck to get a tattoo with a typo in it. I remember a guy who had "Hell's Angles" etched on his arm.

The cheap circus tells us how scary and exciting a ride is. But how great can a ride be if you bring it in on a pickup?

'Remembering Davey'

Through Racing Business, Correll Got To Know Allison

By Ronnie Gallagher
Davie County Enterprise-Record

Danny Correll couldn't believe what he was hearing.

The phone call came from Talladega, Ala., one day after NASCAR favorite Davey Allison had lost his life. The voice was pleading for anything Correll had at his Wheels business showcasing Allison.

"I'm only a mile from the crash site," he told Correll. "I've sold everything. I've got to have something."

Correll shook his head. "A lot of things are happening with Davey Allison collectibles," he said. "But to have dealers calling the morning after his death trying to make a buck, well, I thought that was a little crude."

Allison's death on July 13, resulting from a helicopter crash at the speedway, hurt Correll just as much as anyone else in Allison's legion of fans. It didn't surprise him that the fans lined the highway on the day of his funeral, holding signs stating, "We Love You, Davey!"

Allison, Correll said, was racing's "Everyman." He was friendly and never shunned his fans. In fact, he considered himself one of them.

"We had done a shoot in Charlotte in May of 1992," Correll remembered. "Davey came down with the other drivers. But he wasn't in a hurry to leave. He talked about taking helicopter flying lessons and talked about helping his brother, Clifford, start a racing team."

Correll and son Jason visited the garage area on Friday of the recent World 600 in Charlotte. They got another glimpse of

'Endowment Game' Friday Night

By Ronnie Gallagher
Davie County Enterprise-Record

Davie County will play its second preseason scrimmage — make that glorified scrimmages — Friday night at War Eagle Stadium against its neighbor, the West Rowan Falcons.

Actually, North Carolina High School Athletic Association officials do not call it a glorified scrimmage. They call it the first annual "Endowment Game."

It is supposed to be an 11th game for schools with half of the gate going directly to the NCHSAA's Endowment Fund. The other half is split between West Rowan and Davie County.

For instance, if Friday night's take is $2,000, the NCHSAA gets $1,000 while each school receives $500.

"Even if we make only $500, it's still $500," said Davie athletic director Buddy Lowery.

The game, which begins at 7:30 p.m., is "real" in the sense that tickets will be sold for $4 and concessions will be available. Teams will

Football Edition Coming Aug. 26

After recording its best season since 1987, Davie County's football team is heading into a new conference.

Can the War Eagles continue their upswing and finish even higher in the Central Piedmont Conference?

That's just one of the questions that need to be answered. Here are some others:

- What really happened to Brocke Walker's football career at Wake Forest?
- What War Eagle never ate grits or pinto beans before coming to Davie County?
- Can you play football with one hand?
- Who is Freddie Ferkel?
- Are third graders too young to play football?

• How about some facts and figures about the new schools in the CPC?

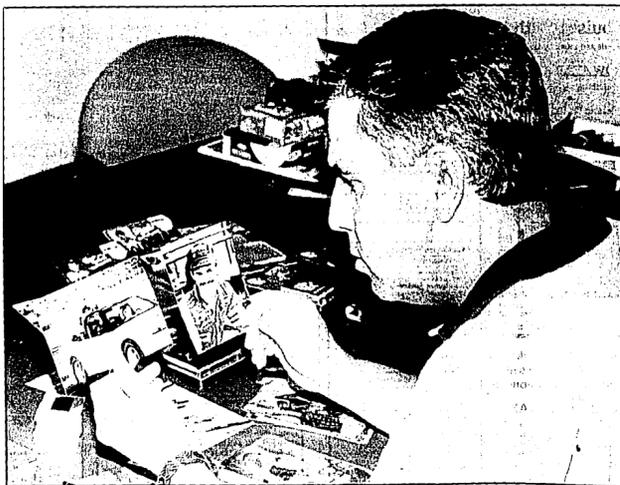

• How about some facts and figures about the schools in Davie's new junior high conference?

• Who made up the best football team in Davie High history?

• What former Davie coach is the winningest coach in South Carolina over the last 10 years?

Find out the answers to these and many more next week in the annual Davie County Enterprise-Record Football Edition.

Don't miss it.

Coolidge's Danny Correll, owner of 'Wheels', worked with NASCAR fan favorite Davey Allison on several occasions.

Correll

of why Allison is such a fan favorite.

"The drivers pulled their cars in to the garage and most would get in the back of the rig to get away from everybody," Correll said. "Davey sat out in full view and wouldn't try to hide. He was genuinely a friendly guy."

Correll watched Allison approach fans in wheelchairs and not only give an autograph but stay with them for five minutes or so, just talking. He'd take pictures. If someone had a Davey Allison cap on, he considered them a friend.

"Davey was a cut above most of the drivers," Correll said. "He had a big heart."

'Wheels' Is Rolling

Correll has had the opportunity to meet the top NASCAR drivers through Wheels, a racing collectible card and hologram (a three-dimensional card with depth perception) business, located in the Mocksville Marketplace shopping center.

"We started in 1989 in mail order," he explained. "We opened a couple of shops and gradually worked our way into it. We decided we wanted to be in the manufacturing end."

Wheels' top project to date is in the works, a "Rookie Sensation" featuring Rookie of the Year drivers, including Allison (1986) and Alan Kulwicki (1987), who also lost his life during the next year in a plane crash. The 38-year-old Kulwicki died April 1.

It will also feature Rusty Wallace (1984), Richard Petty (1959), Doug Cooper (1964), Pete Hamilton (1968), Dick Brooks (1969) and Larry Smith (1972), among others.

"A lot of the older guys who never got the exposure will be in there with the big boys," Correll said.

Correll doesn't go to all the races, just when there is business to be done. But the 1971 graduate of Davie High School enjoys NASCAR.

"My uncle and Junior Johnson owned coon dogs together," he said. "I usually go to about a third of the races, usually on Friday and Saturday."

"It's the number one spectator sport in the world," Correll continued. "And it's getting bigger. They race 30 months a year with an average crowd of over 100,000. All of the races are televised. There used to be one racing show and now there's six or seven. Even the Home Shopping Network, which never did anything on racing, is now into it."

Which only helps his business.

"Our schedule is full," he said.

Response Is No Surprise

The enormous response from the fans on Allison's death didn't surprise Correll.

"NASCAR fans are a loyal bunch," he said. "When something like this happens, they pull together. NASCAR has come to the front because of the character of drivers like Allison and Kulwicki."

But Kulwicki's death didn't have as much of an impact as Allison's, Correll tried to explain.

"Alan scrapped his way to the top. He was a Winston Cup champion. He did it on his own. "But the Allison's had so much exposure over the years with Donnie, Bobby, Davey and Clifford. And Neil Bonnett was real close to them. So that Alabama gang was a close-knit bunch. The fans thought they lost more because he was such a part of history. There were more Davey fans."

Davey Allison after his first NASCAR victory.

Wheels tried to send flowers but Correll was told no.

"They had been bombarded with flowers, cards and letters," he said. "There was nowhere to put it all. They could never read all the cards and letters."

So Correll made a donation to the Allison family and the Head Injury Foundation.

"I don't know a lot of Davey Allison fans," Correll admitted. "I know a lot of (Dale) Earnhardt fans."

Barnum and Bailey will give us real slideshows, a true Ripley's Believe It Or Not experience.

Not at the cheap circus. My dad had to pay two bucks for us to see things like "Huge Midgets."

Huge midgets? There were regular-sized guys waving to the crowd. And then, the ringmaster piped up.

"That's right, ladies and gentlemen, they range from 5-8 to 6-2... the world's largest midgets."

"Hey dad, we're getting ripped off," I cried. "We went to another tent, paid another two bucks and saw another rip-off: the 'Invisible Mute.'"

We sat there looking at nothing for 30 minutes.

"That's right, ladies and gentlemen. He's a mute... and invisible! What are the odds?"

"Dad, let's get out of here." Then, they brought out what was billed as the first strapping zebra.

"Dad, it's a horse. We're getting ripped off again."

The cheap circus asked for volunteers out of the audience for the trapeze act. All of the acrobats had fallen to their death on the first night.

Dead acrobats... geez, what kind of a memory is that for a young kid?

What had my dad brought me to? Elephants in heat as an attraction? Come on.

And let's not forget "The Haunted Camper." I remember an old geezer motioning me toward him.

"I ain't getting in there with you, old man," I said. "Grow some thumbs and we'll talk about it."

When I start sweating profusely whenever I think of the cheap circus.

In fact, I didn't go to a real circus until last year, when I was 36 years old. I told Joan to get in the car. We were going to Winston-Salem for the Barnum and Bailey Circus. I had been deprived of real entertainment for too long.

We even bought the most expensive tickets so we could sit on the front row and watch this great spectacle.

What stayed with me, though, was when an elephant moved right in front of us and relieved itself. Missouri hasn't seen flood waters like this. It looked like Niagara Falls — and it received the biggest response of the day.

Joan and I looked at each other. We were thinking the exact same thing.

Now that, ladies and gentlemen, is real entertainment.

Endowment

line up and play as if it were a real game, and unlike a controlled scrimmage, no coaches will be on the field and no team will run 12 to 20 plays consecutively.

Also, the statistics and final score will not count.

"If we win, we're counting it," joked Davie coach Randall Ward. The Endowment Game is played in place of an open date or a team's second scrimmage. Davie played its first scrimmage Saturday night at North Rowan.

School officials are banking on a good crowd. At least, they're hoping the fans show up because it is a simulation of a real game.

Considering Lowery will have to pay the crew of referees a total of $250, the clock-keeper $25 and three policemen $150, he needs a large crowd in attendance.

"There's a lot of things people don't know," Lowery explained. "Some sports pay for everything else. We can use the money."

The Endowment Fund is heading into its final year of a three-year program that is investing money at 8 percent interest. The money will assure that state playoffs in all sports will never have to be cut back due to dollars and cents.

This is a one-year experiment that will also have games in basketball, baseball and soccer.

NCHSAA director Charlie Adams recently told the News & Record in Greensboro, "It's a free financial game. It doesn't count in the won-loss record, even though it's played like a real game. We haven't had much feedback one way or the other about that but I'm sure we will as the year goes along."

Maybe the schools can asterisk the result.

Some athletic directors and coaches have related their displeasure with the plan through the media, saying schools are struggling with finances and need more of the take.

Later in the school year, coaches will vote on whether the game will continue and whether the score will be counted.

Adams said he will recommend that the school cut be upped to 75 percent.

Ward said there are some positives from the Endowment Game besides extra funds.

"Even though it won't count on the record, it still gives us a game under our belt," he said recently. "We'll get a good look at our players under game conditions."

Davie will play its "real" season opener Aug. 27 at North Fredell.

Davie County Soccer

Davie High's Pete Gustafson, beginning his fourth season as coach of the War Eagles, shows Dan Callahan how it's done.

North Davie Will Field Soccer Team

Varsity Boys Will Play On Football Field For First Time

Davie County soccer coach Pete Gustafson is finally seeing the results of all the hard work he has put into building a program from the ground up.

He smiles when thinking about his boys soccer team playing on the school's football field for the first time.

"I consider playing on the football field my greatest achievement besides getting my college diploma," he said.

And then, last week another goal became a reality.

There is going to be junior high soccer.

At least, North Davie will compete in the new Piedmont Middle School Conference. A 7-8 grade girls soccer team will perform in the fall and the boys in the spring.

South Davie will not field a team.

Gustafson said tryouts for North Davie will be held Aug. 23-26 from 3:15-5 p.m. Each prospect needs a doctor's note and a school release to participate. The 6-to-10 game schedule begins Sept. 20. Players will be responsible for their own cleats, shin guards and game shirts.

Karen Umberger, who already coaches the high school swim team, will coach this squad.

Gustafson said new North principal Larry Bridgewater initiated the plan to get a team.

"I think it's wonderful," Gustafson said. "A lot of these girls already have experience. South won't have a girls team but I hope they consider having the boys play in the spring."

Gustafson said he would support Umberger by bringing his varsity boys to the games after their practice.

"She's pretty organized," he said. "She'll do a good job."

It's just another step in the overall soccer program that Gustafson has been such a huge part of over the last four years.

"It's fulfilling to see," he said.

Varsity's Goals
After two weeks of practice, Gustafson said he has his four team goals:

Number One: "We've placed a minimum of finishing in third place," he said. "That goal is obtainable and challenging."

Number Two: "We want to give up a minimum of two goals and score a minimum of two goals." If we adhere to two goals on offense, we'll do better than anyone ever imagined."

Number Three: "We want absolutely no discipline problems."

Number Four: "We need to communicate better on the field."

With all that said, Gustafson is now hoping he has communicated with his team and those goals will be realized. Practice, he said, has been good.

"I'm very excited about our defense," he said. "And our goalies are playing well. We have four who are strong. I've never had such depth and such talented goalies."

Two players are still not at full strength. Bryan McNeill has been in Greece on an exchange program. He returned to practice last Thursday.

"He came in after about 30 hours of transportation," Gustafson said.

Ted Boland hasn't been able to practice since being injured in a recent kidnapping. He hasn't received his release yet. But Gustafson is expecting him out as well.

There are 20 jayvee players and 17 varsity.

"The junior class is small," Gustafson said. "But we have 15, 16 freshmen, which is excellent."

Joe Rambotham is again the jayvee coach.

Salisbury Scrimmage
Davie saw its first action Monday when it traveled to Salisbury for a scrimmage with the perennial playoff Homers and their star, all-state Sappio Venn.

Venn scored two goals but Davie won the match, 4-3.

Gustafson was worried about offense but got plenty, thanks to senior Cam Kolke and sophomore Eric Prim. Both scored two goals.

"I had just brought Eric up from the jayvees," Gustafson said. "He wasn't in there 10 seconds before he scored."

Each team had about 20 shots but Davie's goalies, Scott Tutterow and Ben Forrest, played well.

"We'll have to see how they do in tough situations," Gustafson said. "Scott is a little quicker but Ben has more experience."

Midfielder Brent Ward drew praise, as did defensive players Ben Edwards, Jonathan Dixon and Matt Young. Dan Callahan had the duties of stopping Venn and Gustafson said he did a good job.

"We played four 20-minute quarters," he said. "We gained some valuable experience."

Senior goalie Scott Tutterow (on ground) knocks away a shot by Tim Fisher while teammate Barry Zimmerman waits to help.

Roller Hockey Sheets Finds A New Sport

By Rebekah Halley
Davie County Enterprise Record

Mocksville teenager Jason Sheets recently found what he thinks could be his future career...hockey.

Not ice hockey. Not street hockey. But roller hockey.

Sheets, the son of Darlene and Keith Sheets, started playing roller hockey a month ago at David Howard's new program at the Skateland skating center in Clemmons.

"I had a bunch of friends that wanted me to try out as a goalie and so I decided to go for it," said Sheets.

He said there is good reason why he plays goalie.

"I'm quick and I've got good balance," said Sheets. "All you really need is good balance."

Howard said roller hockey is a new sport in the South. He said the only skill required is to know how to skate. He said the rest can be taught to a player.

What is it?

Unlike ice hockey, roller hockey has no blue line and no offsides penalties. Each side has five players and matches consist of two eight-minute periods. Instead of a puck, a hard rubber ball the size of a baseball is used. Players either wear rollerblades or four-wheel skates.

The only pads the players must wear are knee pads. A lot of emphasis is placed on speed and skating skills.

Sheets is an eighth grade student at South Davie Jr. High School, where he plays baseball and used to play football. He said he likes roller hockey better than either sport.

"You get hooked on it (roller hockey) because there is more action," said Sheets.

Sheets said he has been skating for two years and hopes one day he can play professional hockey.

"I would like to play professional hockey," said Sheets. "I would make lots of money and I love the sport."

Area Teams

There are three teams that play out of Clemmons and they are collectively called the Clemmons Eagles. The "A" team consists of six-to-13-year-olds, the "B" team consists of nine- to-13-year olds, and the "C" team consists of the 13-to-17-year olds. Fourteen-year-old Sheets plays for the "C" team.

The Clemmons Eagles recently competed in a seven-team regional tournament in Harrisonburg, Virginia. Their first place finish earned them berths to compete for the National Junior Olympic title in September.

"I think we can win it if we keep practicing and do as well as we have," said Sheets.

Boyd Finishes Summer Season

Sean Boyd, a freshman at North Davie Junior High School, won his age division at the Salisbury Junior Golf Tournament at the Country Club of Salisbury.

Playing from the men's tees, Boyd shot an even-par 71 the first day and followed that with a 76.

There were 130 youths playing up to the age of 18. Boyd not only won the 14-15 age group but finished second overall.

Boyd also placed fourth in the 14-15 division in the Carolina Golf Association Junior Tournament, held at the Country Club of Charleston, S.C., which was built in 1786.

Playing from the championship tees, he shot 81-75-76. There were 44 golfers in his division, which was cut to 22 for the final round.

Boyd one-putted nine greens on Thursday and 10 on Friday.

Boyd, who lives in Bermuda Run, ended his summer with six first place finishes.

The new craze sweeping not only Davie County but across all of America is roller hockey.

Leadership Davie County

Leadership Davie County (LDC) is designed for anyone who has opportunity for leadership within an organization and the community and an interest in personal and community development. The program offers organized learning experiences to acquaint participants with topics and issues related to local government, the environment, economic development, education, human services, and law enforcement.

The seminar series will build participants' leadership skills in the areas of planning, communication, conflict resolution, coping with change, decision making, team building, time management and problem solving.

For further information or to request a LDC brochure and application, contact Don Lanning at DCCC's Davie County Office located at 200 Cherry Street, Mocksville, NC 27026, Telephone: (704) 634-2885.

Basketball Camp

Youngsters Come To Learn The Fundamentals

Danny Watts has conducted a basketball camp at the Davie Family YMCA over the last few weeks for elementary age children.

"It's just a fundamental camp," Watts said, "so hopefully they'll know something when they begin playing. It's amazing how little they know."

Watts had almost 30 girls in the first session but had only four in kindergarten through third grade. The 4-6 grade camp had 12 campers.

Helping Watts were Brad Kander of Mount Tabor High School, as well as Corey Deese and Gerald Roberts, recent graduates of Davie High.

Myers Expecting Volleyball Team To Be Favorite In New League

Davie County High School volleyball coach, Sherrie Myers looks at seniors Shannon Umberger, Tracy Robbins, Tracie Schrest and Amy Mason during pre-season workouts and feels a sense of pride.

Those four were here when I got here... she said. "They stuck it out with me and I appreciate their support. It's been a growing process for all of us."

Going into the 1993 season, she thinks it is time for results. Big results.

Davie has made the state playoffs in this sport in all eight years since becoming a 4-A program but has always been ousted in the first round, including last year when the War Eagles finished 11-3 in the Central Piedmont Conference and 16-10 overall.

"I expect making the playoffs," she said. "And we want to win once we get there. Our rising jayvee players have fit right in and I feel real good about our chances."

Leading the way are Umberger, who is 6-0, and junior Maria Newsome, who has grown an inch to 6-3.

"I have my Twin Towers back," beamed Myers. "Maria's timing in blocking is incredible. But so is Tracie's. I expect her and Tracy Robbins to have a couple of blocks per game too. Robbins is playing extremely well. So is Katie Desch. And I think Jonnie Willard has grown."

With the new CPC being formed due to realignment, Davie may finally be the favorite after years of finishing second to powerful West Forsyth. But the Titans lost several key players, including Player of the Year Amanda Key. They also lost their coach. With the talent returning at Davie, its reputation is already building. At summer camp, college coaches were asking about the War Eagle players.

"I'd like for us to get out of West's shadow," Myers said.

Soccer Registration Begins

The Mocksville/Davie Parks and Recreation Department will have traveling soccer teams this fall.

Anyone wishing to play on the Under-16 team has to be born between Aug. 1, 1977 and July 31, 1979.

Area Sports

The dates for Under-14 are between Aug. 1, 1979 and July 31, 1981.

The dates for Under-12 are between Aug. 1, 1981 and July 31, 1983.

Registration deadline is Aug. 22. There is a $25 fee, which includes insurance and registration fee. There will be no more than 15 on a team.

To register, come by the Brock Gym offices between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

For more information, call Joe Boyette at 634-2325 or 634-3877.

Davie Soccer

The Mocksville/Davie Parks and Recreation Department will hold youth soccer registration for boys and girls for its leagues at Pinetuck Tuesday, Aug. 24 at the rec offices.

Registration fee is $20. The league starts Sept. 25 and runs through Oct. 30. Play will be held on Saturdays and Sundays.

Registration deadline is Aug. 27. It can be brought by the office from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m., or mailed to the rec department, 644 North Main Street, Mocksville, N.C. 27028.

Co-ed Softball

The Mocksville/Davie Parks and Recreation Department's co-ed softball league has begun.

A total of 14 teams are entered. Games will be played each Monday and Thursday at Rich Park. Three contests will be played each night, beginning at 6:30 p.m. and both the softball and baseball fields will be used.

"People are noticing us. Coaches are calling me wanting to play us because they want the competition."

Last season, Myers complained that she couldn't get her players motivated. That won't be a problem this fall.

"This group is motivated," she said. "They show more enthusiasm and I like that. They have more confidence."

Davie will use a new offense and also use the back row attack more. "It's hard to defend against it," Myers said.

Other varsity members include Judy Ellis, Amanda Signon, Janis Barney and Shannon Allen.

"We've got talent," Myers said. "My job is easy. They know what to do."

Jayvee Team

After a few years away from coaching, Laddin Lakey is back. Lakey will take over the jayvee girls volleyball team from Angie Sluback, who is on a leave of absence.

Lakey has had success coaching. He led the jayvee girls to a CVC title before Myers took over that team.

"I think he's ready to get back into coaching," said Myers. "We have a good rapport. He's willing to learn and we're going to work together and learn together."

"It's a little over-scheduling," she said. "It's unlike any other sport. It's a totally different concept. Even substituting is different from basketball. The positions are highly specialized." The jayvees were co-champions with West Forsyth last year.

"They have a lot to learn," Myers said. "I can see the potential, though."

Summer Challenge Youth Learn Opportunities

By Laura Williams-Tracy
Davie County Enterprise-Record

"That's it," Stacy Spease, 14, announces making her way quickly away from a pile of brush at Pinebrook School. "There's a snake over there. A big snake." Six other students drop their work on the butterfly garden and move hesitantly toward some bushes. A squirming black mass is spotted. Cooperative Extension Agent Daryl Blackwelder charms the non-poisonous black snake into his hands for the students to get a better look. Snakes were an occupational hazard last week for Spease and the other students, ages 14 to 16, who are part of the Summer Youth Challenge.

During a six week period, the students, who are considered more likely than most to leave school before graduation, spend each day examining their own skills, making friends, and helping the community. One of their summer projects included clearing brush to create a butterfly garden for 5th-graders at Pinebrook.

Spease has learned she won't work at the snake cage at the zoo one day. Some mischievous friends toss a pinecone against her back as she sees the snake. She screams and runs.

Her friend, Vernice Harris, 16, of Colesence, has learned that she is a pretty good public speaker and might want to be a lawyer or a reporter after she finishes at Davie High School. Before the summer camp, Harris said she didn't give much thought to her future.

But during the six weeks, the students often had to speak in front of groups, and Harris found out that she liked it.

"It's very fun," Harris said of the summer program. "It's not only involved in helping the community but setting goals for ourselves."

Kimberly Blue, a Davie school psychologist, has led the group during the summer, taking them to SciWorks in Winston-Salem, on an overnight trip to Appalachian State University, to camp near Asheboro, to Lake Meyers and to the movies. But it's not all recreation.

The students are required to write each day in a journal, talk in groups about their skills and act like they are going to work.

If they show up on time, participate and behave, they earn a paycheck through the federally funded program.

It amounts to about $1 an hour, but it keeps the students from breaking the rules or skipping a day.

The goal is to teach the students some pre-employment skills, Blue said. Hopefully that will get them thinking about their futures and will spark an interest in a future full of educational opportunities.

The students also speak to counselors from Winston-Salem about their feelings. Blue said that has helped some students deal with quick tempers. And they have learned to deal with their reactions.

"Those kids have a good time even when they are working," Blue said.

On the last day of the summer program, the students were planning to go shopping for school supplies for the upcoming year.

Fortunately there aren't any snakes at the mall.

Harris and Stacy Spease have become fast friends.

Daryl Blackwelder caught the non-poisonous black at Pinebrook School. Many of the summer workers were afraid of the serpent.

Shannon Jones, Phillip Williams, Tina Barnes, Ann Marie Edwards, and Clifton Redmon get directions on the garden from Sue Howard, Daryl Blackwelder and Eric Mesmer.

Head-Spillman Couple Speak Vows

Lisa Michelle Head of Cooleemee and Eddie Austin Spillman of Mocksville were united in marriage Saturday, Aug. 14, at 6 p.m. at Jerusalem Baptist Church in Mocksville. The Rev. Joe Collins officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents and escorted by her father, wore a sheath bridal gown of poly shantung designed with a sweetheart neckline, fitted bodice with basque waist and cap sleeves with a small pouf. Alencon lace, pearls and sequins adorned the bodice, hemline and circular detachable chapel train. She wore a circular headband, fitted to the crown of the head, heavily beaded with sequins and pearls in leaf cluster designs attached to a two-tiered pouf and a fingertip veil.

The bride carried a cascade bouquet of white roses, lilies, baby's breath and ivy adorned with pearls and tiny fuchsia buds.

The bride's sister, Lori Harrison of Salisbury, was matron of honor. Tammy James of Cooleemee and Melanie Grubb of Advance were bridesmaids.

The bridegroom is a 1982 graduate of Davie High School. He is the son of Billy Smith of Salisbury, brother-in-law of the groom, was best man.

Cheeks-Frye Couple United In Marriage

Cherry Kristine Cheeks and John Joseph Frye, both of Mocksville, were united in marriage on Friday, Aug. 13, in a 7 p.m. ceremony at Calvary Baptist Church. The Rev. Jim Gryder officiated the double-ring ceremony.

Wedding music was presented by Mrs. Nancy Ward, pianist, and Hugh Gaither, soloist.

The bride was escorted and given in marriage by Taylor Cheeks, her son, and Bryan Cheeks, her brother. The gown, designed by Jessica McTintock, featured a fitted, beaded bodice and an off-the-shoulder neckline and sleeves, with Irish-linen lace trim. The gown was made of embossed ivory satin with a floor-length train. The back of the gown consisted of a second-layer skirt with scalloped edges and a bow attached to the waistline. The hat was made of ivory satin and decorated with scalloped lace, pearl beads, sequins, and ivory roses. The waist-length veil was arranged in a double layer at the back of the hat.

She carried a bouquet consisting of ivory and pink roses with pearl and lace streamers.

Miss Joanna Dyson of Mocksville was maid of honor. Junior bridesmaids were Miss Holly Cheeks of Cleveland and Miss Kimberly Misenheimer of Mocksville, sisters of the bride. Miss Jackie Naylor served as acolyte.

John Frye served as his son's best man. Groomsmen were Bryan Cheeks of Mocksville, brother of the bride; Stephen Frye and Jonathan Frye of Mocksville, brothers of the groom.

Mrs. Jane Dyson was director. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Misenheimer and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Cheeks; and granddaughter of John F. Penninger and the late Willie Penninger and Mr. and Mrs. Vernon M. Cheeks. She is a graduate of Davie High School and attends Rowan-Cabarrus Community College.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Frye and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Nemethy and Mr. and Mrs. Lester E. Frye. He is a graduate of Davie High School and attended Forsyth Technical Community College. He is employed at GameWell Manufacturing Co., Salisbury.

Following a short honeymoon trip, the couple will make their home in Mocksville.

Reception Immediately following the ceremony, the bride's mother hosted a reception in the fellowship hall of Edgewood Baptist Church.

The guests were served chicken puffs, minis, nuts, vegetable tray and dip, punch, and wedding cake. The ivory wedding cake consisted of four heart-shaped tiers at the bottom, a fountain in the middle, and an additional three tiers at the top. The cake was topped with a glass heart and lace and was decorated with pink silk roses.

Assisting in serving were Mrs. Ruth Cheeks, Mrs. Emily Couch, Mrs. Brenda Penninger, and Mrs. Sue Caudle. The reception was catered by Mrs. Ruth Gaither and Mrs. Frances O'Neal.

Rehearsal Dinner

On Thursday evening, a rehearsal dinner hosted by the groom's parents was enjoyed by approximately 50 guests.

The traditional groom's cake was served for dessert.

Out-of-town guests included the groom's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Nemethy of Columbia, Mich.; Vince McKinney and Gert Nemethy of St. Joe, Mich.

Social Events

Miss Joanna Dyson hosted a miscellaneous bridal shower for Miss Cheeks on Sunday, July 11, at the Dyson's home.

Miss Cheeks was honored with a miscellaneous bridal shower on July 17. Hostesses, family of the groom, were Mrs. Emily Couch, Mrs. Linda Gaither, Mrs. Tressa Ebright, and Miss Crissy Couch at the Gaither home.

Barbecued Chicken Continues To Be Part Of Southern Culture

Southerners get into long discussions about the best way to prepare barbecued chicken.

The consumption of barbecue chicken in the South is part of what defines the culture of the area. Southern barbecue chicken is served frequently at political functions, church socials, civic clubs, family reunions and potluck suppers.

There are a number of areas in the south where the barbecue is famous and the techniques for preparing it are varied, ranging from vinegar and hot-pepper to mustard-and-tomato-based recipes. It can be served in pieces with the bone in or removed from the bone and chopped. But despite the barbecue technique differences everyone (no matter where they were raised) will agree there's no substitute for southern barbecue chicken.

The N.C. Poultry Federation suggests a tasty sauce you will surely love... our vinegar-flavored favorite.

For more chicken barbecue recipes, send a self-addressed stamped envelope to: Grilled Chicken Recipes, c/o N.C. Poultry Federation, 4020 Barrett Drive, Raleigh, N.C. 27609.

Vinegar-Flavored Grilled Chicken

4 broiler-fryer chicken quarters
2/3 cup white wine vinegar
2/3 cup water

3 tablespoons margarine
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons garlic salt

1 tablespoon coarsely ground pepper

In small saucepan, place vinegar, water, margarine, Worcestershire sauce, salt and pepper; bring to a boil.

Brush sauce on chicken. Place chicken on prepared grill, skin side up, about 8 inches from heat. Cook, turning and basting liberally with sauce every 5-10 minutes, about 60-70 minutes or until fork can be inserted in chicken with ease. Makes 4 servings.

Couple Plans September Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Leonard announce the engagement of their daughter, Deana M. "Dee" Leonard, to Kevin Todd Sheek, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Sheek.

They will be married Sept. 18 at 2 p.m. at Shiloh United Methodist Church. Miss Leonard is a 1985 graduate of Central Davidson High School and graduated in 1987 with an associate degree in criminal justice from Davidson County Community College, where she was named to the dean's list. She attended Appalachian State University in Boone and is employed with Cracker Barrel in Burlington.

Sheek is a 1983 graduate of West Davidson High School and a 1988 graduate of Davidson County Community College with an associate degree in electronics engineering technology. He is employed with General Electric as an electrical/mechanical engineer in the medium voltage division.

Reception

A reception was held in the church fellowship building immediately following the wedding ceremony. Guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Driver.

Rehearsal Dinner

The parents of the groom hosted a rehearsal dinner in honor of the bride and groom. The guests included the wedding party, family, and out-of-town guests.

Bridal Showers

On June 27, Julie Crews and Johnnie Sue Driver hosted a miscellaneous bridal shower at Eatons Baptist Church fellowship hall. Special guests included Mary Crews, bride's grandmother; Connie Call, groom's mother; Bernice Hyman, groom's grandmother; and Mary Thompson, groom's aunt.

Kim Driver and April Cave hosted a lingerie shower at the bride's home on July 24.

Co-workers of the bride honored her with a miscellaneous shower at Thomson Crown Wood.

Musicians Entertain E.D. Club

The East Davie Senior Citizens Club met Aug. 9 at Bethlehem Methodist Church fellowship hall with 18 members and three visitors present.

Hollis Smith called the meeting to order with roll call by Lilly West and then Ruth Barney had devotions. She read Psalms 23 and read a poem, "What Am I Worth To God?"

Entertainment was music and singing by Tom Horton and Bill Clineard. Lawrence West returned blessings on the food.

The club meets the second Monday in each month.

Visitors of Mrs. Patsy Ward, and her husband Bill, for the past 10 days were her sister and niece, Ms. Margaret C. David of Hollywood, Fla., and Ms. Joan Roston of Fort Lauderdale, Fla. Another sister, Mrs. Jalia C. Kenney of Thomasville came for a three-day visit during this time. While the ladies were here they visited friends and relatives in Winston-Salem, Clemmons, Advance and Mocksville.

On Sunday, Aug. 8, a family reunion was held at the Ward home. Approximately 35 people enjoyed the luncheon and reunion, coming from Charlotte, Wingate, Mocksville, High Point and Advance.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Jones have returned from an eight-day trip to Canada. They attended the National Pretrial Plant Association meeting in Vancouver and Vancouver Island. They toured many gardens, both public and private. Mr. and Mrs. Jones enjoyed seeing Whistler Mountain in British Columbia and other points of interest in the area. This past Sunday, Aug. 15, the Joneses attended the Carolina Hosta Society meeting in Raleigh.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Stockton and son Alex have returned from a two-week vacation. They went to Miami, Fla. and boarded a cruise ship for Nassau and the Bahamas, then to Co Co Cay Island for diving and skydiving. While deep-sea diving they observed an airplane crash. Returning to Miami the Stocktons then went to Key West, Fla. for five days of fun. Instead of renting a car for touring, they rode the Key West Harley's which they found very exciting.

Master Matthew Clutz of Greensboro was a weekend visitor of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Lee Barnhart and was a visitor at Methodist Church.

Mrs. Edith Zimmerman visited cousins Florine and James Black in Lexington Sunday afternoon.

Sympathy is extended to the Sapp family in the accidental death of Mrs. Linda Sue Sapp on Saturday.

Among the visitors at Methodist Church Sunday for worship were Roy Barney of Mocksville and Mrs. Ruth S. Collette of Winston-Salem.

Miss Janna Jones of Morganton was a weekend visitor of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Jones. Janna and her fiancé, Leslie Watson of Boone attended worship service at Methodist Church.

Alex Stockton is leaving Friday, Aug. 20, for a weekend of orientation and entering State College this month. His parents, Jerry and Kay Stockton, accompanied him.

Tony Hackett left this past weekend to enter Western Carolina University in Cullowhee. His parents, Frankie and Dian Hackett accompanied him to the mountains. Robert Lee Robertson underwent by-pass heart surgery last Friday at Baptist Hospital. At present he is still in ICU. Prayers and get well wishes go out to him.

Jack Vogler underwent throat surgery last Friday at Forsyth Hospital. He is at home now, but is scheduled for more surgery this Thursday. Mrs. Vogler (Lillie) is in poor health and their daughter, Barbara V. Waldrop underwent gall bladder surgery last week. Barbara is recuperating satisfactorily, but unable to help out her parents. Her husband, George, has been taking the responsibility. Our prayers and best wishes go out to this family.

Youth Goes To 4-H Congress

Davie County 4-H member Scott Stanley of Route 6, Mocksville, was a delegate to the 46th Annual State 4-H Electric Congress

July 12-14 at Western Carolina University in Cullowhee.

Dwight Moore, coordinator of agricultural engineering for Duke Power Company, accompanied the delegate.

Stanley, 15, was selected for achievement in his 4-H electric projects.

Duke Power provided the trip and helped sponsor the congress.

The event was conducted by the North Carolina Cooperative Extension Service.

 Harry and Ellen Rawlings have company again. Harry's mom Mary Rawlings and Les Helber have been visiting and sight-seeing for the past week, but will return to their homes in Holiday, Fla., soon. It was good to see them. Bill Koch Jr. who has been drafted by the N.Y. Mets also came with his parents Bill and Delores and sister Kristen. Bill Jr. has chosen to use a four-year baseball scholarship to Clemson University over the Mets offer at this time. Congratulations. Kathy and Bob Ellis family and friends have returned from their vacation in Key West, Fla., just in time for Nora Latham and Ethan Boger's birthday. A great time was had by all. Amy has returned to Florida for the school year. We will miss her. Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Gentry and family spent last week at Myrtle Beach and Ocean Isle. DeWilla Smith and Teresa Correll were dinner guests of Mrs. Elma Dall Sunday.

'Let Thy Glory Be Over All The Earth'

The clock radio beside my bed clicks on every morning at five-thirty. The sound of WSJS radio disc jockey Glenn Scott is the first voice I hear. Usually, he is introducing the news, read by his partner Smith Patterson -- another familiar early-morning voice. For a long time, it seems, the news has been all bad. Another murder in Forsyth County sometime during the night. A $250 billion tax increase passes the House of Representatives by one vote. More Serbian atrocities visited upon the Muslims in Bosnia.

I'm beginning to wonder why I continue to begin each day this way. What deep-seated need do I have to fill my mind with death, destruction and decay even before the first rays of sunlight peek over the horizon? It takes most of the morning to climb out from under the discouragement that frequently envelops me. Some days I never rise above it.

I like Glenn Scott. I enjoy his banter with Smith Patterson. But starting the day with bad news does nothing good for my soul. This is one of those bad habits I think I need to break. Surely there is some good news with which I can greet the dawn.

The book of Psalms is an often transparent window into the thoughts and experiences of some of Israel's most famous poets and song-writers. The first hour of the morning seemed, for many of them, a non-negotiable time to be spent with God and nothing, or no one, else. "I rise before dawn and cry for help," wrote one of the poets. "I hope in thy words." (Psalm 119:147) Prayers, petitions and intercessions for the day ahead marked this writer's first hour. Then came the reading of God's Word, with sufficient thought and meditation to allow it to inspire hope. Sounds better than the morning news any day!

The first hour of the day was, for others, a time dedicated to praise and music. David, Israel's greatest king as well as her most revered song-writer, arose from his bed to exclaim, "Awake, my soul! Awake. O harp and lyre! I will awake the dawn! I will give thanks to thee, O Lord, among the people! I will sing praises to thee among the nations." (Psalm 57:8-9) Perhaps I should retreat to the shower to try this one. I can think of a few people in my house who probably would not find my praise all that appealing at five-thirty.

Incidentally, David went on to add: "For thy steadfast love is great to the heavens, thy faithfulness to the clouds." I don't recall ever hearing anything like that affirmed on the morning news! Several years ago a United Methodist pastor told my congregation of going through a period of severe depression and burn-out. He was very close to leaving the ministry. But God intervened in an unusual way to renew his spirit and revitalize his desire to continue in the ministry. He stated that, as a result, one of the changes that he made in his daily routine was to begin the first hour of each morning with the good news of the Bible. "I determined, he said, "not to read the newspaper before reading God's Word." "There's time enough later," he continued, "to face the bad news in the world." I heartily agree. Now that I have written this, I suppose I will have to do it. I'm sorry, Glenn. You too, Smith. Keep up the good work. I'll join you at six-thirty. Maybe, but first, I need some good news. I'm getting really tired of saying, as my first words of the day, "Oh no. Not another murder!" With David, I need to be saying, "Lord, thy steadfast love is great to the heavens, thy faithfulness to the clouds. Be exalted, O God, above the heavens! Let thy glory be over all the earth!"

Schigellosis Spreading; No Cases Reported In Davie

According to the North Carolina Department of Environment, Health, and Natural Resources there has been an increase in the number of reported Shigellosis cases in Davidson, Guilford and Randolph counties during the past two months.

As of Monday, Aug. 9, Davidson County had reported 15 confirmed cases and 57 suspected cases of Shigellosis.

Shigellosis is spread through personal contact, when infected people do not properly wash their hands following bowel movements, and then handle food and drink. Carriers may develop and transmit Shigellosis infection without showing any signs or symptoms of illness.

The symptoms of Shigellosis include: diarrhea with abdominal pain, cramps, nausea, vomiting, fever, and blood, pus, or mucus in stools.

Certain steps can be taken to reduce the risk of transmission. First, proper hand washing will reduce the risk of spreading Shigellosis. Everyone should wash their hands thoroughly after using the bathroom and before handling food.

Second, using a small brush can help remove organisms from the finger-nail area.

Finally, it is important that adults teach children the proper way to wash hands and monitor this good health habit. Also, parents should always wash their hands after changing their child's diapers and properly dispose of the diapers.

Dennis Harrington, Davie County's

Health Director, says, "The Davie County Health Department has mailed notices to local day cares, nursing homes, rest homes, restaurants, schools, the Davie County Emergency room, and physicians notifying them of the outbreak and asking them to report any suspected cases(s) to the Health Department."

If you or a member of your family experiences any of the symptoms described above, contact your physician or the Davie County Health Department (634-5985) for assistance.

"We are happy to report that to date," Harrington said, "Davie has had no documented cases of Shigellosis, but we want to keep our guard up so that this outbreak does not spread to our county's citizens."

Hi! My name is Lisa Michelle Foster and I celebrated my first birthday August 7. I enjoyed a Barney cake. Helping me celebrate was my mommy and daddy, Jerry and Cindy Foster, and my big sister, Jessica, my grandparents Lucille and Spurgeon Foster and Tom Copey my cousins, great-aunt Leona Hepler, and aunts and uncles and my friends. I would like to thank them all for my nice presents.

Hello! My name is Joshua Michael Beaver. My birthday is August 16 and I turned the big "1". We had hamburgers and hotdogs and all the fixings. I had a Christy Trucking cake that looked just like my daddy's trucks that everyone else ate. Then I had my own Christy Trucking cake all to myself. My parents are Steve and Cindy Beaver. My two sisters are Christy Beaver and Brandi Beck. Grandparents are Carl and Brenda Roberson and Helen Beaver. Great-grandparents are Sadie Burton, Holland and Betty Chaffin and Emma Dudley; also my aunts and uncles and friends and my babysitter grandma Harris were there to help me celebrate. I would like to thank everyone for all the nice clothes and toys and for a great birthday!

Hi! My name is Houston Neil Stodghill and I just celebrated my first birthday on Sunday, August 8. I had an afternoon party at my home, given by my parents. I had a Teddy Bear cake, ice cream, chips and drinks with my family and friends. My grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Claude Beck of Mocksville and Mr. and Mrs. Mary Stodghill of Hendersonville, N.C. I also have a great-grandmother, Mrs. Nellie Stodghill of St. Petersburg, Fla.

Picnic Tradition Continues With Plenty Of Food

By Laura Williams-Tracy
Davie County Enterprise-Record

In all its 113 years, every North Carolina governor — except one whose ranch has not surprisingly been forgotten — has at one time snacked on a home-grown Davie County tomato sandwich during the Masonic Picnic.

The picnic has become such a deep-rooted tradition that county government workers get the afternoon off to attend. Many downtown attorneys and business people also left work early to head up Main Street for the afternoon.

Entertainment this year included a chorus of about 20 children from the Oxford Orphanage and a speech by Forsyth County Manager Graham Pervier.

For the 13th year, members of the Masonic and Eastern Star Home played tambourines, bells and beat

In a week of events all designed to raise money for the Oxford Orphanage and Masonic and Eastern Star Home in Greensboro, Masons from Mocksville, Advance and Farmington expect to exceed last year's earnings of $24,000. Of that, $17,000 will be donated to the Mason-sponsored homes.

Children Enjoy Life At Oxford Orphanage

By Laura Williams-Tracy
Davie County Enterprise-Record

With memories of a red-headed Orphan Annie perched in a window dreaming of a family, one might be surprised to hear children's reactions to their home at the Oxford Orphanage.

"I love it," says Sherry Harris, 17.

Her sister, Christy, 16, has a more tempered opinion. "It's a place to call home, but it's more like being with your friends."

Their home life doesn't include a mother to help with Algebra homework, or a father to take them to football games. Their homes look more like college dorm rooms than those with white picket fences.

But many of the orphans say they'd rather live at the private Masonic home in Granville County than remain in the abusive situations many of them escaped.

Few of the children are without living parents, like the typical definition of an orphan. Instead they have been placed in the orphanage to get them out of otherwise unhappy home situations.

Eric Austin, 17, chose the orphanage over his father's home a year ago.

"It took a while to get adjusted to it all," he said, especially to the label orphan. "I spent a lot of time with my counselor, and she's like a mom — the mom I don't have."

Now Austin said he feels more like he added 150 brothers than lost a family.

Sibling ties are made at the orphanage. At J.F. Webb

High School, where Austin will be a senior this fall, he said the orphans stand out from the other students. But not for expected reasons.

"You can always tell the orphan kids. They are always together."

Austin, the editor of the orphanage's campus newspaper, knows how strong the ties among Masonic Orphanage residents become. Inside the pages of "Campus Tracks" are notes and song dedications between friends. More stories include information about students who have out-grown the home and left to pursue their own families and careers.

And by living at the home, the students have a better chance of reaching their goals than they might have had coming from their previous homes.

Every student who performs well in school and gets accepted to a North Carolina university receives a full scholarship.

Austin and the Harris sisters plan to use their scholarships to study nursing.

Teresa Holdreem, who directed the student chorus at Thursday's Masonic picnic, said the children have a good life at the orphanage thanks to the donations of Masons across the state.

"I know some of them would rather be with their parents than in the orphanage," she said. "But the people there want to do everything to help them have a better life."

Holdreem said when she began working with the students, she had to work hard to earn their trust.

"It took a while for them to realize that I wasn't going to leave them."

Sherry Harris, Eric Austin, Christy Harris and Michelle Reeves enjoy the picnic.

Saturday Party To Recruit Textile Day Volunteers

To encourage recruits for Textile Heritage Festival duty, the Coolleemee Historical Association is hosting an open house from 4-7 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 21. Performing Live will be the Junction Road Band playing old timey music. There will be hot dogs, drinks and tours of the on-going restoration site at the Zachary House/Recreation Center building at 14 Church St.

"We have begun to gain some national recognition for the work we are doing to preserve our heritage here," said Thurman Miller, CHA president. "but nothing has been achieved without the generosity and hard work of our members, friends and neighbors."

Coolleemee's four-year-old history organization was recently informed by the American Association of State and Local History that it will be honored with their most prestigious national award at its annual convention in Columbus, Ohio on Sept. 9. CHA recently won a similar award in Rowan County from Historic Salisbury, Inc. Last Spring, Coolleemee's passion for history was featured in the national magazine titled Historic Preservation and the group is still getting calls and letters from across the United States in response to the article. This summer, members of CHA were interviewed by a senior editor of National Geographic Magazine about the roots of country culture in North Carolina's piedmont section.

Miller says that completion of the on-going restoration work on the first floor of the Zachary House is critical to the festival's success. The state's first public museum on the forming of a Carolina cotton mill village will be housed there and it is scheduled to open on Oct. 2. "We still need a lot of help from people to finish sanding, stripping wood molding, painting and so on."

Lynn Runley, 1993 festival coordinator, needs to recruit at least 125 volunteers for the festival. "We need folks to commit themselves to at least six hours the day of the festival, the night before or for Sunday afternoon clean-up duty." Every member of the festival staff may purchase a staff shirt from the festival at minimal cost. "Van drivers and their vans are still needed for Oct. 2. Shuttle vans are being planned for travel between parking lots and the festival site on Church Street as well as between the festival and the river boat rides at the Junction.

"We want everyone who attends the Festival to have a good time, not have to wait in long lines, and to be cared for well. Especially our older folks deserve this kind of attention and it will take people-power to make sure everything runs smoothly."

Anyone who cannot attend the open house but who wants to volunteer may call CHA at 284-6040 and leave their name and number.

Jettie Presnell Joins National Guard

Davie High School Senior Jettie L. Presnell has joined the ranks of the N.C. Army National Guard in Salisbury.

Private E-2 Presnell will attend local weekend training meetings with her unit during her senior year, and ship to Fort Jackson, S.C. in June of '94 following high school graduation.

Following completion of Army Basic Training in August of 1994, she will attend advanced training (9 weeks) and complete a light wheel vehicle mechanics course also at Fort Jackson. Presnell will return home to Davie County, rejoin her Guard unit for weekend training and annual training during the summer, and complete her remaining reserve obligation.

In joining, Presnell takes advantage of the Guard's advanced promotion program. By having completed two years of Army ROTC at Davie High School, she is awarded an enlistment pay grade of E-2 (a 21% pay raise) which will enable her to earn an additional $200 per month during her training period. In addition, she takes advantage of the Guard's delay training program and will assist area recruiter SFC Bruce Gasperson in recruiting activities.

Presnell plans to continue her education as well with the help of the National Guard's $7,000 GI Bill package and $2,000 state tuition grant. She attends Edgewood Baptist Church in Coolleemee and resides with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Larry W. Presnell in Mocksville. She is also a member of Davie High's ICT Program and VICA. Presnell is assigned to Co. E 130th Aviation, North Carolina Army National Guard, Salisbury.

The N.C. National Guard continues to recruit interested high school juniors and seniors for part-time military service opportunities in aviation maintenance, transportation, diesel mechanics, military police, communications, infantry operations, and field artillery. Starting pay is $6.25 per hour and up. Call the Guard in Mocksville at 634-2633.

Cochrane On Study Group

Sen. Betsy Cochrane has been appointed to serve on the University of North Carolina Education Study Commission, which is composed of 12 members, six of them Senators.

This 12-member commission is directed by statute to study the undergraduate education at the University of North Carolina, including incentives for quality teaching, evaluation of faculty teaching, remedial services for undergraduate students, standards for coursework, and the use of teaching assistants. University funding issues will be studied also.

The commission is directed to study education quality issues, including the effect of research on the teaching mission of the University System and the relative quality of all 16 campuses compared to peer institutions.

"I am flattered to have been appointed to this prestigious Commission. We certainly face a challenge in meeting the directives of the study," Cochrane said.

Jonathan Craig Cleary celebrated his 2nd birthday July 25, 1993, with a Pool Party at his Grandma's. He is the son of Heather Cleary of Coolleemee and John Cleary of Mocksville. Grandparents are Harold and Cathy Lanning and Robert Hampton of Coolleemee. Gary and Diane Cleary of Mocksville. Great-grandparents are Gladys Hampton, Lola Lanning and the late Glenn and Joan Snyder of Coolleemee. Mr. and Mrs. Wade Cleary of Mocksville. I want to thank my Mommy for the party and all my little cousins and big friends for helping me to celebrate and for all the wonderful gifts. I love everybody!

Hi. My name is Kevin Whitley and I turned one year old on August 11. I had a party at my house on Friday with my Momma, Daddy and big brother Sam, Aunt Cindy, Uncle Keith and cousins Brad and Andy. My Papa R.B. was there and my favorite friends Mr. Randy, Mrs. Regina, Candie and Rusty Miller. We had Cookie Monster cake and ice-cream, straw berries and punch. Thank you all for my great presents and for sharing my special day.

sticks to music. Ruth Watson, a Greensboro native, has come every year with the same. "This is a nice change from the home, and it's a great thing you do here," she said. "I don't think it could change for the better." Mason Chris Anderson, one of this year's organizers, is a fourth generation Mason. He said going to the picnic has become a welcomed family obligation among Davie families. "You take off and go to the picnic. It's just a tradition around here," he said. "Everybody got involved years ago and they kept coming. One hundred and 13 years is a lot of tradition." During the rest of the week, about 8,000 people turned out to ride carnival rides and see the nightly entertainment. With almost 400 Masons in the county, Anderson said the planning for the picnic almost takes care of itself. "It's been going on so long, it's not like we have to tell people what to do anymore," he said.

Clement Street Becomes One Way

Clement Street between Depot and Gaither streets in downtown Mocksville is now a one-way street. The town has paved the parking lot behind the former Sears building and shops on the west side of Main Street. A one-way Clement Street will enable motorists to access the parking lot and to drive north from Depot Street to Gaither Street.

Participants Wanted For Leadership Davie Course

Are you interested in becoming a leader in Davie County? Do you think that Davie County needs more and better trained leaders? Perhaps you would like to be a more effective leader. Could you encourage your fellow citizens who have leadership potential, or would you yourself take the initiative to become better trained for a leadership role in Davie County? If your response to any of these questions is yes, then you and your fellow citizens should enroll in "Leadership Davie County" (LDC). You can further develop your skills and acquire the necessary information to have an influential voice in the way Davie County grows and develops during these next 20 years and beyond.

A joint venture of the Davie Futures Committee and Davidson County Community College, the program aims at addressing the need for more effective community leadership and has two main purposes:

- to enhance one's leadership potential through an organized series of learning experiences designed to acquaint participants with community issues and problems; and,
- to develop and/or enhance individual leadership skills for citizens willing to lead.

"Leadership Davie County" is recommended for anyone who has an interest in providing leadership within an organization, whether it be private business and industry, public service, the church, civic or community groups. "Leadership Davie County" offers organized learning experiences for participants that will acquaint them with local problems and practices. Through a variety of seminar activities pre-cooled by a two-day retreat, participants will explore topics and issues relevant to local government, education, human services, law enforcement, environmental concerns and economic development of the county and region.

intense focus on developing one's leadership skills in the areas of negotiation and building trust, planning and goal setting, communications, conflict resolution, coping with change, decision-making, team building, time management and problem-solving. Persons selected to participate will devote one day each month to the program. An orientation day will be held on Sept. 29 and one overnight retreat Oct. 26 and 27. The one-month seminars begin Nov. 17 and end May 27. Each meeting will be held on the third Wednesday enabling participants to easily schedule the event days the program meets. Meetings are held locally except for the retreat. Tuition for the year-long program is $275 and is payable by the first class session to "Leadership Davie County." Scholarships can be established for worthy individuals by Davie County residents or by businesses or industries and should be made payable to the Davie County Foundation, designated for "Leadership Davie County" and the individual to receive the scholarship.

For further information or to request an LDC brochure, contact Don Lanning at 634-2885 or 220 Cherry St., Mocksville.

Under The Umbrella

There hasn't been much of a need for an umbrella in recent months in Davie County, but Sara Beth Snow, 7, daughter of Jimmy and Elaine Snow of Route 1, Mocksville, got a chance to use one last Friday in Mocksville.

Joseph Trivette Choral Teacher

Joseph Trivette has been hired as the new choral music director for Davie High School.

Trivette plans to form two new ensembles, a Men's Glee Club and the Davie Chorale.

These groups will perform regularly for the community and various high school competitions across the state.

Trivette is a recent graduate of Appalachian State University, and he holds a bachelor's degree in music education and piano performance. He was a 1988 recipient of the North Carolina Teaching Fellows Scholarship and was a two-time winner in the School of Music's Concerto-Aria competition.

Trivette said he has high expectations for taking the high school's vocal program in new directions.

And students interested in choral activities should contact Trivette through the school office. These ensembles will rehearse after school hours.

Teachers Attend Ag Workshop

Two area teachers recently attended a workshop to learn how to incorporate agriculture into the classroom.

Maria Agrillo, an eighth grade teacher at North Davie Junior High School, and Amanda Heitemann, a second grade teacher at Clemmons Elementary School, attended workshops in Asheville and Raleigh, respectively.

The program is designed to foster a greater appreciation of agriculture among the state's youth. Under the direction of the N.C. Farm Bureau Federation it provides teachers with a variety

Warm Weather Should Continue

Weekend weather is expected to be continued warm, until Sunday, when temperatures will drop slightly.

According to the National Weather Service, Friday will be partly cloudy, with highs in the upper 80s to low 90s. Saturday will be continued partly cloudy, with highs in the mid-80s to low 90s and lows in the mid-60s to mid-70s.

Sunday is expected to be fair and cooler, with highs in the 80s and lows in the 60s to low 70s.

Students Need Host Homes

Many foreign students who had grand plans of spending a high school year in the United States have had their plans washed out because of floods in the mid-West.

The EF Educational Foundation for Foreign Study, a non-profit international student exchange organization, is hoping to place several of those students in Davie County.

Ron and Patty Brown are local sponsors of exchange students and have more information about housing students. Host families provide students with a bed, meals and a home for the duration of their 10-month stay.

If you are interested, contact the Brown's at (919)998-6454 or call (800) 44-SHARE.

Watershed Rules Anger Town Residents

By Mike Barnhardt
Davie County Enterprise

Usually, when the town of Mocksville holds a public hearing, it's because they want to hear public opinion before making their decision.

Last week, over 200 town residents turned out for public hearings about new watershed protection regulations. They learned that the town's hands are tied. The state is making the town enforce the law, which could severely punish certain landowners.

Town Attorney Hank VanHoy said Mocksville leaders did everything they could to keep the proposed legislation from becoming law. They asked for help from area residents, and received very little.

"Our efforts fell on deaf ears. We could hardly stir five people," he said. "Don't kill the messenger, because we have no choice."

In passing the legislation in 1989, the General Assembly simply said they wanted clean drinking water supplies. They directed another state agency to come up with the rules.

The rules strictly restrict development in certain watersheds, especially in the "critical" area a mile upstream from the town's Bear Creek water plant. Development is also restricted in areas south of Yadkinville Road to the other side of I-40.

In addition, portions of southern Mocksville fall into the county's watershed protection area for the Cooleemee plant.

Town Manager Terry Bralley said Mocksville may be affected more than any other town. The town had spent more than a million dollars extending a sewer line into the protected area.

SAT Scores High

Davie students have again scored well on the SAT tests - rating higher than the state and national averages.

But that's not news to school officials like Dr. Bill Steed, superintendent, and Mike Hendrix, testing coordinator.

They expect students to do well, and the SAT, taken by most students planning to attend a four-year college, is just one way to measure how schools are doing.

"While we're pleased, people need to caution that this is one indicator," Steed said.

The key to having high SAT scores, Steed said, is identifying students who plan to go to college and get them in classes at Davie High School that will prepare them for that challenge.

"I think our teachers continue with the high expectations we have for students in certain classes, and our students perform well," Steed said.

The key to SAT scores is a counseling program for parents and students," he said. "You've got to get kids in the right classes, where they want to go."

Hendrix agreed, and said the high school and school system weren't doing anything special to improve SAT scores. "I truly don't think the high school puts special emphasis on it," he said.

Hendrix said one factor that could help students is the fact that in 1990, the state began paying for students to take the PSAT test, a pre-SAT test that helps prepare younger students for the bigger test a year later.

The average for last year's graduating class at Davie High School was 906, the same as the previous year. The state average was 859, and the national average was 902.

Davie students ranked ninth among the state's 100 counties, with 48.5 percent of students tested. Davie students ranked seventh in the verbal part of the SAT test and 10th on the mathematical portion.

Dr. Slate's Portrait Going Up At Hospital

By Laura Williams-Tracy
Davie County Enterprise-Record

Dr. Francis Slate has the unusual distinction of knowing all of his friends and neighbors on the outside and the inside.

A surgeon at Davie County Hospital for almost 35 years, Slate has examined and operated on a large population of Davie County residents.

In the early days after arriving in Mocksville from South Africa with his wife, Daphne, Slate's practical ranged from delivering babies at the county hospital to removing bullets from shooting victims.

And during those years, Slate has served as a county commissioner and on the town board of Mocksville, where he is running for his second elected term.

Slate retired from medicine 18 months ago. Friday, 150 friends, government officials and former employees gathered at the public library to see the unveiling of Slate's portrait that will soon hang in the hospital.

"We are honoring a man who has made all of our lives better in Davie County," said Buster Cleary, a Mocksville town councilman and former county commissioner. One of Cleary's last motions as a commissioner last winter was to have a portrait of Slate hung at the hospital.

Dr. Earl Watts, who worked with Slate in the 1960s, said Slate was endearing to his patients because he was always congenial. He always treated his patients like people, and never ignored the concerns of family members.

"He had the courage to always be available."

And even in the days before doctors wore beepers, his wife, Daphne, was always able to track him down for a patient in need.

Business Garbage Collection Costs May Rise

By Laura Williams-Tracy
Davie County Enterprise-Record

In August Davie Sanitation customers saw their garbage rates go up from $11 to $12.54 each month because of high-tech garbage regulations.

Now industrial customers are awaiting an increase as well.

In the past few years Davie County residents have been asked to reduce, reuse and recycle.

And while they've increased the work they do to take care of garbage, rates have increased.

County Manager Ken

Windley said because of new state regulations, recycling and landfills are more expensive. Garbage rates are going up all over the state.

The August rate increase for residential pickup was granted to help offset the rising cost of dumping a ton of garbage, which increased from $30 to $45. Starting in October, the county's municipal garbage will be hauled to the Winston-Salem/Forsyth County landfill.

County Commissioners voted Aug. 16 to begin sending trash to Winston-Salem instead of continuing to dump the garbage here. The commissioners would have had to build a multi-million dollar landfill here to meet state regulations.

Windley said another factor increasing garbage rates is the county's recycling program. Every year the county spends almost $300,000 for county-wide recycling pickup and the result of those materials.

But once the aluminum cans, paper, glass and plastic are sold, the county only recoups about $35,000, said Assistant County Manager Jim Stockert. In effect, the garbage pickup program subsidizes much of the recycling costs.

Construction companies have also felt the pinch of increasing garbage rates. The cost of dumping demolition materials has jumped from $17 per ton to $39 per ton.

Windley said some construction companies didn't consider the increase earlier in the year when they bid jobs and are now seeing the increased garbage rates cutting their profits.

Russell Barber of Davie Sanitation said industrial customers have already received letters warning them of a pending rate increase.

Although tipping fees increased in August to $45 per ton, industries have not paid more to cover the increase.

Barber said his company may consider new ways to fairly distribute the cost. Now, industries that dump 10 tons of garbage pay the same pickup rates as an industry that dumps 50 tons of garbage. Barber said a new method of charging customers by the weight they dump may be devised.

Picture of Africa: Joy Mixed Among Vast Poverty

He looked the same. But inside, things were different. One of those "mountain top" experiences had hit him square between the eyes.

A long-time friend stopped by the office Tuesday, only a few days after returning home from Africa.

Some tourists go to see the jungles. Some go for a safari into the lion and elephant country. Some go to see the majestic scenery.

Dr. Steve Craver, a Moravian minister, missed all that. Instead, he saw the poverty. He went along with a group on a buying expedition for a Winston-Salem rug shop, a store with heavy ties with the Moravian Church and Old Salem. The church has a big mission in Africa.

There were severe limits on what he could carry along. But Steve wanted to take the children in the villages a tiny gift. Something fun ... and light weight.

He took balloons. Distribution turned into a nightmare. He couldn't speak the language. The children flocked around him to grab the balloons. Some got 10 ... some none. They were quickly gone, and Steve returned to the mission. A half-hour later, a small boy came there looking for a balloon. He was a polio victim. Despite his paralyzed legs, the boy had dragged himself across the ground for a half-hour to get ... a balloon.

And they were gone. Steve said he sat down beside the boy -- unable to talk because of the language barrier -- and unable to fulfill his wish.

Polio is a common problem in the remote villages. Steve saw a number of victims. They dragged themselves along in the dirt, pulling along with their arms, leaving their knees and feet calloused. Always last to arrive. Always at the end of the line. Always forgotten.

Steve had to do something. He reached into his pocket and fished out the only thing there -- nail clippers. They were shiny. Steve demonstrated how they worked and gave them to a delighted boy.

Steve is the pastor of Friedland Moravian Church and knew an African pastor from seminary. He didn't go as a rug expert. There was an empty seat in the four-wheel drive truck the buyers would be driving across Africa. He filled it. He and the rug buyers traveled more than 2,500 miles across Kenya and Tanzania, bumpy miles often across rutted, dirt roads.

He was there for a month -- long enough for all the images to soak in. In one village, the church was filled and overflowing with villagers who came to see the Americans. Their visit was an event. Actually, they have some contract with American products on a regular basis. Coca-Cola -- the only safe drink -- was common.

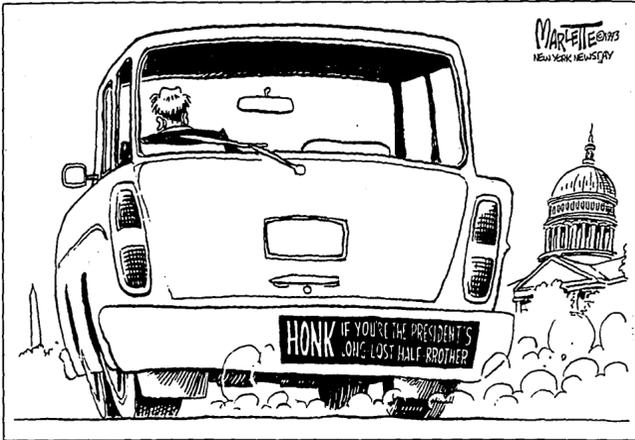

They may have been dirt poor, but the church reverberated with their joy. Steve didn't understand a word, but he felt God's spirit. They may have worshipped the same God, but there were vast differences in culture. The villagers lived day to day with no ambitions -- grubbing a livelihood by selling charcoal to the cities.

One missionary had learned never to give them anything free. Make them buy it -- even Bibles. That's when they value it. He introduced them to tomatoes. He grew them, and sold them. Now the villagers grow them. He buys their tomatoes, now.

Perhaps that minister should come home and run the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

By the way, Steve is happy to be home.

It's Time To Make Criminals Pay For Crimes

To the editor:
Whenever someone commits a crime, it seems that the accepted excuse is either he was mistreated as a child or he suffers diminished capacity (doesn't have the IQ of a rocket scientist). Therefore, they are not responsible for their behavior. When a person commits a crime and then goes to great lengths to cover it up, they know what they did was wrong. You cannot say that the second it took to pull the trigger they snapped and didn't know what they were doing for just that length of time. Anyone who buys that are the ones that need a shrink, and from past verdicts there are quite a bunch who are that stupid.

If by chance they are convicted, the criminals are put in air conditioned prisons, with a law library, gym equipment equal to Nauticals, much better comfort than a lot of law abiding citizens have and better than the criminal was used to. It seems to me the inmates wrote the rules. They say the prisons are crowded so they have to release known felons back on the law abiding citizens or spend big bucks to build new, (more modern) prisons to house the criminals. What's wrong with investing in a bunch of rocks and sledge hammers and let the criminals work and sleep in shifts, that would help solve the crowding, and keep them from being bored. Maybe they might get the message that they are in prison, not a country club.

By furnishing them body building equipment, it not only costs the taxpayers, it puts the criminal in better shape to break the neck of their next victim. What next? Target practice?
In the last couple of weeks I've heard numerous authorities on crime agree that ghettos, unemployment, low paying jobs, upbringing are the main reasons for crime. That is probably so, but how are we to furnish jobs of that caliber to teenagers with little or no education? There are quite a few people with college educations that are unemployed, or at best, under employed. So until someone comes up with a magic wand to instantly educate these criminals, to qualify for a good paying job ... until then I believe my solution is the best one on the table.

Store Owner Upset With DHS Policy

To the editor:
I am writing this letter to inform the community that may not be aware of some of the new policies that the high school has adopted. Along with the new dress codes that I'm sure students have made their parents aware of, the school is also refusing the usual delivery of flowers and balloons from local florists. As the owner of Sisters II of Mocksville, I am asking the community to speak out.

The florists owners in Mocksville do not expect the schools to let the deliveries interfere with the educational process, but are asking that previous procedures be allowed. Previously, we have left deliveries in the office, a student assistant would notify the recipient that they have a delivery and the gift remained in the office until the student left school.

The most upsetting point is the fact that the florists have always been more than willing to support the high school in every way possible, but now the school has chosen not to support us in return. We have always advertised in yearbooks, recognized the honor cards and educator's passports, given discounts on the items needed for homecoming and graduation, given donations, door prizes, whenever possible, and allowed items to be borrowed and used at no charge. My staff and I always make a point to participate in any fund raising events associated with any school as I'm sure the other florists do also.

The problem that will soon arise is that your children will be the ones to pay for the school's new ruling. Aside from the fact that parents and friends will not be able to acknowledge a high school student's birthday or special accomplishments with delivered gifts, the florists owners will be forced to withhold all high school related activities from their budgets to compensate for the business lost.

We florists are just the newest businesses in Mocksville who are being "punished" by the high school. Have you ever wondered or checked to see where your money for uniforms or pictures goes? Is the school system supporting the community that supports them or are you sending your money elsewhere?

Parents, please join us in letting the high school officials know that your children enjoy the surprise of flowers and balloons. And most of all, let them know that you want to support the businesses that support your children's needs and interests. It has only been a few years since I was a student at Davie High, and I have always been more than willing to continue to support the school. However, in order for me to continue my support, I now have to ask you to support my employees and I and all of the other florists of the community.

You, Too, Can Be Featured In 'Sports' Illustrated

What makes a sport? Some would argue that race car drivers aren't athletes, because all they do is drive cars. Sure, it gets hot in those cars, but it gets hot on the highways in the summer, too. Are highway workers athletes just because they work in the heat? Face it, race car drivers are athletes. It's a sport, and people who participate in sports are athletes. If it isn't a sport, why would such established magazines as "Sports Illustrated" cover the NASCAR guys? They wouldn't. Or would they? Looking over a recent issue of that magazine, I looked to my favorite section, "Faces in the Crowd," where athletes young and old from across the country are featured. I found out that there doesn't have to be a ball for it to be a sport. You can make a sport from just about any activity. Here are some examples from that issue. Jerry Shelton of the Alabama baseball team was featured. Baseball is my favorite sport, but I had never heard of this record-setting third baseman. I looked at his photograph first. His eyes were crossed. His teeth were broken and crooked. He was bruised. It seems that Jerry Shelton had set the NCAA record as a batter who had been hit by the most pitches, 52 times, including four times in one game. Ouch! There was Steve Cavalin of Santa Rosa, Calif., who according to Sports Illustrated, used a roundhouse-backhand combination to win a world title. I expected him to be a kickboxer or something macho like that. Then I read more. It seems he hit his opponent with a pillow. It was a pillowfighting championship. That Steve Cavalin sure can swing a mean pillow. Gail Redmond of Reno, Nev., suffered a back injury last year, but came back, with the help of Buster, to win the International Camel Races. Anyone who is brave enough to get on the back of one of those creatures is more than an athlete — they're brave.

And let's not forget 7-year-old Ernest Corpus of Luling, Texas. According to Sports Illustrated, he "surpassed all expectations" to beat 20 others to win the World Championship Watermelon Seed Spitting Competition. Sorry, you NASCAR naysayers. If pillowfighters can be featured in Sports Illustrated, then Dale Earhardt's bumping is a sport. If camel racing can be featured in Sports Illustrated, then driving around Talladega Motor Speedway at 200 mph is a sport. If watermelon seed spitting is a sport, then spinning tires at Bristol is a sport. And such features in such prestigious magazines gives hope to all of us weekend athletes (Hey, I can call myself an athlete according to these standards), that maybe someday we can have our picture in a sports magazine. Let's see, maybe I could be featured for setting a record for putting the most address labels on a newspaper. The way I see it, those of us who do that are athletes, and that makes newspaper address labeling a sport. Anyone for a quick game of labeling?

Pets Pose Perplexing Problems

My sister called me last weekend with grandiose ideas of getting a puppy. He'd be cute and fun and would keep her company after her roommate gets married and moves away. Getting a pet is a wonderful idea, I said, but there are some things any potential pet owner needs to know before adopting a furry friend. First of all, don't get one of those primping little lap dogs. Pets can be vain. I read in TIME last week that there's a veterinarian in California who makes his living giving plump pooches liposuction and tummy tuck surgery. Personally, I've never worried too much if my cat, Chloe-Festus, looks better in a bikini than I do. Another thing to look out for is pets who are sneaky and who move in to a household and take over. A friend of mine's parents got a new dog while he was away at college. The dog learned that it could get more attention if it refused to eat unless from someone's hand at the dinner table. When my friend returned home from school for spring break, he discovered that not only was the dog eating from the table, but it had taken his seat. My friend ate in front of the T.V. that night. When getting a new pet, you also have to be very careful about what it is allowed to eat. Peter Blitzen — why by the way had the coolest pet name ever — belonged to a distant aunt. But Peter Blitzen bit the dust one New Year's Eve after a wild night of partying. Legend has it that Aunt Eva left out a cheeseball for her party guests to munch on while they awaited the new year.

Laura Williams-Tracy

Unfortunately, Peter Blitzen got carried away and consumed the massive-in-diameter ball of cheese in his tubular-shaped body. The combination proved lethal, and that was Peter Blitzen's last holiday. Potential pet owners also need to be weary of those mean breeds. I had another friend whose father's dog was known to be pretty mean, and she was afraid to turn her back on this vicious animal. At feeding time she would take the bowl of Alpo outside and drop it in front of this pit bull. Once it was on the ground, she would tip-toe backwards away and circle the outside of the house three times before running in the front door. Apparently this dog had a reputation for jumping people from behind. Also, pets can be very difficult to keep healthy. Always make sure your dog has good eyesite. A friend's dog once had to wear contact lenses. And another got a cast on his leg after a nasty fall. He hobbled around the house holding his leg out like he was making a left-turn signal. We painted on the cast: "You should have seen the other guy." And finally, make sure you have a mentally stable pet. After countless hours at the vet trying all sorts of strange diagnosis, my vet finally broke the news to me that my persian leads a very stressful life. The result: like many other people, Chloe-Festus just isn't the same without his morning laxative. "Oh the things we do for our pets," I said to my sister. "Maybe I won't get one after all," she responded.

Not All Pleased With Oak Valley

To the editor: The Davie County Board of Commissioners' approval of Oak Valley Golf Course development is unreal. They are not concerned for the people of our county, except a few who will profit from their decision. We'll be affected in many ways. Why isn't the one acre per house still not in effect for the eastern part of the county? The land value of surrounding property will skyrocket. This will cause property taxes to go up. With most people wanting out to sell their land, this will be a great tax increase. With 750 homes with two cars per home, this will be 1,500 cars added to the Hillsdale area. We are going to see a lot of Clemmons-like changes in this area. Most of these homes will be built by people from out of the county. This means thousands of jobs will be taken by these new homeowners. Some of these people will have almost two years before they have to pay taxes on their house, while using our tax dollars for their benefit. Out of 750 homes, there probably will be several hundred school children. Our schools are full now. Where are we going to put them? If the sewer plant can't handle the waste, there will be a problem with raw sewerage and smell. You and I, our children, and their children, will be paying for this development in many ways. I hope Mr. Hank Van Hoy and our commissioners are happy with their support of Oak Valley Golf Course development. For my self and a lot of people I've talked to, we are very unhappy. William H. Blackwelder Jr. Sheffield

Dr. Francis Slate speaks to a crowd of well-wishers at the unveiling of his portrait last week.

Slate Portrait Is Unveiled

Green Clardy, a nurse at the hospital, presented Daphne Slate a dozen red roses for all phone calls she took from nurses, secretaries and EMS workers who were relaying messages to Slate.

Slate reminisced about his memories of Mocksville Friday, and the early days at the hospital. Back then it was a 28-bed hospital that had very little room but a lot of duties.

"Some how it all got done," he said.

Slate remembered accidentally swapping shoes with another surgeon one time after a long night's work. The next morning each doctor arrived at work wearing the wrong shoes.

Another nurse once taped his shoes to the floor of the operating room so that he would stop moving around so much.

And Slate said he was sure the reason his son, Kenneth, is not a shy person is because he was born unexpectedly in the hallway of the hospital, in view of all the patients, doctors and visitors.

But the reason Slate said he and his wife stayed in Mocksville was because of the close friends they made in their neighbors and patients.

"The real reason to become a nurse or doctor is to take care of those patients. And the patients here were trusting and appreciative."

Learning A Lesson

Using Someone Else's Checkbook Creates Trouble

A Mocksville teenager learned an important lesson about writing checks out of someone else's checkbook in Davie District Court last week.

Mary Jo Hatley, 17, of Rt. 7, was given a two-year suspended sentence after pleading no contest to two counts of common law forgery.

Hatley had been charged with two counts of forgery of an instrument and two counts of uttering a forged instrument, which were felonies. In a plea arrangement, she was allowed to plead to misdemeanor common law forgery, the uttering charges and a misdemeanor larceny charge were dismissed.

Hatley was charged with taking a checkbook belonging to Jim and Iona Reavis. Her attorney, Grady McClamrock, said Hatley wrote checks for $300, and then lost the checkbook. After that time another $1,700 worth of checks were written on the account. "She did sign a bunch of checks, but did not cash all of them."

McClamrock said Hatley was a good student and a volunteer at the middle school. He said someone told her taking a checkbook was a good way to get money.

Judge Jessie Conley ordered that Hatley be placed on probation for three years, pay a $200 fine and court costs, make restitution for the checks and perform 100 hours community service work.

Mocksville Attorney Hank Van Hoy tells public hearing audience that town must enforce watershed rules.

Residents Balk At Watershed Rules

"Madison Angell is one of the few who have been fighting the legislation all along. He owns 22 percent of the land in the Bear Creek protected area.

"It isn't fair and it doesn't guarantee clean water," he said.

"I've planned for my retirement out of this," Angell said. "We have seen something nice place in Raleigh that will eliminate any industrial development in this area. I've planned for it for 30 something years and now it's taken away."

He asked town officials if there was anything residents could do?

"Davie County has always been known to stand up and speak. It's been a lead county. Do we have any grounds or do we have the guts to do it (lawsuit)?"

Van Hoy said a lawsuit by private citizens is possible, but would be costly and lengthy. "It may be unconstitutional to let DEM (Department of Environmental Management) write law," he said. "I don't think any of us ought to stand there and take it. The town has fought the hard fight and it stood alone."

Jane Hicks urged the residents at the hearings to band together to fight the law.

"I'm angry and I'm very angry," she said. "There's no reason we have to sit here and take it. The legislature is controlled by us."

"We're destroying our financial planning. You're destroying our property without just compensation," Hicks said.

"A letter from every one of us to each of our representatives every week would mean a lot. And don't let up."

It could be more expensive not to fight the rules, she said.

Principal W.G. Potts watches progress on parking lot in front of Davie High School. — Photos by Robin Fergusson

School Becomes Construction Site

Educational facilities are expanding in Davie County.

No where is that more evident than on U.S. 601, where an addition to Davie High School is being constructed across the highway from a Davie campus for Davidson County Community College.

Both projects are on schedule, although a parking lot at the high school wasn't ready for the beginning of school.

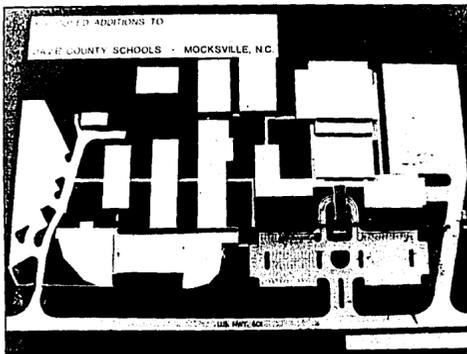

New principal W.G. Potts said that has worked out well, with teachers parking behind the school, providing more supervision in areas usually traveled mostly by students.

"It's been inconvenient for us, but we expected that," Potts said. "I couldn't ask for a better staff. They have been very understanding."

Students have been cooperative as well, and have a minute extra between classes to avoid the construction areas, Potts said.

For now, air conditioning units help buffer construction noise, where a new media center and other rooms are being constructed between the old school and the highway.

The construction will allow the schools to move ninth graders to the high school, and convert the now junior high schools into middle schools housing grades 6-8.

This diagram shows the configuration of new building, drive and parking lot planned for Davie High School.

Host Families For Students Needed

Davie High Career Counselor Rex Hobson is looking for one more family to host a German apprentice student this fall.

CRF exchange students spend 10 weeks in the United States, living with an American family and learning about our lifestyle. The students work for four weeks in a local industry and attend school for four weeks.

Hobson said the students will be arriving in late September and will stay until the beginning of December. Families are expected to give the exchange student a place to sleep and meals and show them some points of interest in our area.

Hobson said a family with children in school would be ideal, but other families would also be considered. Interested families should call Rex Hobson, career counselor, at 634-5905 or 634-3181.

McMinn Receives Certification

Air Force Staff Sgt. Sandra G. McMinn has been named the recipient of the adjunct faculty certification for national cryptologic school.

Selection was based on the individual's exemplary duty performance, job knowledge, leadership qualities, significant self-improvement and other accomplishments.

McMinn, a defensive countermeasures technician, is the daughter of M. Gail Long and stepdaughter of Douglas R. Long of Route 7, Mocksville.

Her father is Aaron E. Veach of 159 Matthews St., Rural Hall.

Her husband, Robert, is the son of Kenneth and Mary L. Coon of 10910 N. 75th Drive, Peoria, Ariz.

The sergeant graduated in 1978 from Davie High School, Mocksville, and in 1993 received an associate degree from Hawaii Pacific University, Honolulu, Hawaii.

Lilly Howell

Program Honors Workers

Two Davie teens have been honored by the Davie County Summer Youth Employment Program.

Kendra Howell, 14, of Mocksville, and Heather Lilly, 17, of Advance, each was named an exemplary participant.

Howell is the daughter of Flavia Howell and Gilbert Cockerham. A rising freshman at South Davie Junior High School, she hopes to attend Mitchell Community College and become a cosmetologist.

While employed at the Davie County Public Library, she learned to deal with the public and the importance of details in the library. Her supervisors were Joanna Darnall, Deborah Seaton and Ruth Hoyle.

Lilly is the daughter of Jean Lowery of Advance and the parent to Blake Booie. She is engaged to be married to Ramsey Booie of Advance.

She plans to attend Forsyth Technical Community College in September to receive a high school diploma, and plans to pursue a two-year degree in criminal justice from Davidson County Community College. She wants a four-year degree in criminal law to go along with a career as a juvenile probation officer.

Lilly worked at the Davie Family YMCA, where she learned typing, filing, telephone communication skills, computer skills and social skills. Her supervisors were Ann Blackman and Vickie Galiter.

Navy Recruit Completes Training

Navy Seaman Recruit Melanie L. Bowman, daughter of Bert E. and Judy M. Huffman of Route 4, Mocksville recently completed basic training at Recruit Training Command, Orlando, Fla.

During the cycle, recruits are taught general military subjects designed to prepare them for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 occupational fields.

Studies include seamanship, close-order drill, naval history and first aid. She is a 1991 graduate of Davie High School.

from Advance - Glenda A. Burton of Route 2, Alison Suzanne Davis of Route 2, Jamie Yvette Frye of Route 1, Pamela Potts Harpe of Route 4, Brian W. Pitts of Route 3, Steven Gary Smith of Route 1, and Amy J. Wagner of Route 1.

from Mocksville - Tony Gray Booe of Route 7, Mary Kennedy Collett of 167 Dogwood Lane, Jennifer Nicole Cooper of 315 Magnolia Ave., Peggy Ann Cowden of Route 1, and Bessie Aime James of Route 3.

Student In 'Who's Who'

Tom Williamson has recently been nominated as a "Who's Who" student.

He is eligible to apply for a $1,000 scholarship to be awarded later this year. The foundation's name, founded in 1967, is "Who's Who Among American High School Students."

Williamson The award is to recognize students for their achievements in academics, and is awarded to only five percent of all high school students in the United States.

A biography will be published in the "Who's Who" book and distributed to colleges and universities all across the nation. The book will be out in the late fall. He plans to attend Wake Forest/Bowman Gray to study "medicine" and become a CT heart surgeon. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bennett P. Williamson.

Davie Helps Flood Victims

On Monday morning, a Salem Leasing transfer truck headed from Davie County to Kampsville, Ill.

It was loaded with bottled water, flour, chicken, food, clothes and other items - all donated by Davie residents and businesses for flood victims in the small town.

The effort was headed by the Davie County Law Enforcement Association, which came up with the idea. Members helped residents to load items on the truck all day Saturday and on Sunday morning.

"Most of it is from individuals, people concerned about other people," said Sanford Frye.

About 78 families in Kampsville suffered tremendously when the Mississippi River reached record flood levels. Their homes are in bad shape, covered with mud inside and out, Frye said.

The law officers picked Kampsville because small towns are the last to receive help from larger organizations, and because people in that area helped farmers from this area with donated hay during a drought several years back.

"They sent a lot of hay back when the drought was so bad. They've helped us out and we're returning the favor," Frye said. "We talked to the mayor and chief of police, and the help is going straight to those who need it most."

Storm Pounds Into Davie, Ripping Roof From Building

It was too late and too quick for most Davie farmers and gardeners, but when a thunderstorm pounded the county last Friday afternoon, it brought with it something folks around here haven't seen much of in the past couple of months - rain.

The rain came down in sheets, bolstered by high winds and sharp bolts of lightning.

Limbs were torn from trees, and in a few cases, trees were toppled down, one which blocked Deadman Road.

At the old Royster fertilizer building off N.C. 801 between Farmington and Hillsdale, the storm made more of a mess of what neighbors were already calling an eyesore.

The wind apparently whipped into the building through the mostly open back, lifting half the roof off the back of the building, sending it over the top onto the parking lot in front, narrowly missing a pickup truck.

"If it had been six inches over, it would have smashed that pickup truck," said Lester Hockaday, a neighbor. He said another neighbor was working outside and saw the roof being ripped from the building. "He said he jumped in a side ditch. He didn't know what was happening," Hockaday said.

Hockaday said the building has been vacant for about a year, not long after new owners weren't allowed a general zoning change.

"That old building has been there or 25 years. It wasn't worth much to start with," he said.

Members of the Davie Law Enforcement Association organized flood relief effort.

Harrington Named Top Health Director

On Aug. 14, Davie County's Health Director, Dennis Eugene Harrington, M.P.H., was recognized as North Carolina's "Outstanding County Health Director" by the N.C. Association of County Commissioners.

The Association honored Harrington for his dedication and achievement in a special ceremony during this year's conference, held at the Sheraton Imperial in Research Triangle Park, Durham.

Harrington came to Davie County four years ago after serving as Scotland County's health director for five years, and the Nutrition program director for five years prior to that. He holds a bachelor's degree in public health nutrition and a master's degree in health policy and administration from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Harrington has represented public health concerns on many state and local boards and committees.

As an active member of the N.C. Association of Local Health Directors, he has served as secretary/treasurer (1989), vice president (1990), president-elect (1991), president (1992), and past president (1993), as well as, the chairperson of the Department of Environment, Health, and Natural Resources/Department of Human Resources (DEHNR/DHR) Policy and Planning Liaison Committee.

As president of the local health director's association, he presented a joint proposal to the 1992 General Assembly on financing public health care in North Carolina. Harrington is a regular speaker on public health issues to various state legislative committees.

Harrington has also been appointed to serve on various state commissions and boards such as the Governor's Commission on Infant Mortality (1985/1986), Governor's Commission on Health Policy and Information (1992), North Carolina Coalition on Healthy Youth (1992), North Carolina Access to Care Project Advisory Board (1992), and the N.C. Healthy Kids Project Team (1993).

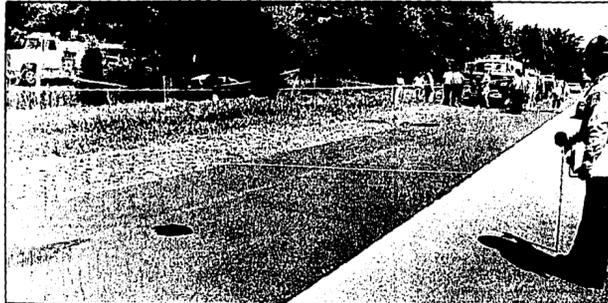

In Davie County over the past four years, he has been active in many aspects of public health.

He has served or currently serves on several boards and organizations such as the Northwest CARE (Comprehensive AIDS Resource Emergency) Consortium, Davie County Hospice Board, Davie County Home Health Advisory Board, Davie County CAP Program Advisory Board, Davie County Child Protection Team, Davie County School Health Advisory Committee, Davie County Home & Community Care Committee, and the Davie County CAN-STOP (Community Action Now To Support Teen Outreach Programs) Advisory Council.

N.C. Highway Patrol Trooper C.D. Jones investigates three-vehicle wreck Saturday afternoon on I-40. — Photos by Robin Ferguson

Three Vehicles In Wreck On I-40

A wreck on I-40 near Rainbow Road Saturday afternoon sent two cars across a lane of oncoming traffic.

A 16-year-old Evelyn Smith, was taken to Forsyth Memorial Hospital with injuries.

Damage to Harburger's truck was estimated at $500, to Fountain's car, $3,000, and $2,800 to Thromer's car.

According to a report by N.C. Highway Patrol Trooper C.D. Jones, Stephen Joseph Harburger, 23, of Indianapolis, Ind., was charged with failure to reduce speed to avoid a collision after the pickup truck he was driving struck a car in the rear, causing his truck and another motorist to cross the median into oncoming traffic.

Harburger's 1979 Dodge struck in the rear a 1985 Mazda driven by Valerie Elizabeth Thromer, 23, of Asheville. Thromer was attempting to pass Fountain at the time, Jones reported.

Fountain's Mazda began to spin in the lane and stopped on the side of the road. Thromer and Harburger's cars went across the median and across the west-bound lane of traffic.

Harburger's 1979 Dodge struck in the rear a 1985 Mazda driven by Valerie Elizabeth Thromer, 23, of Asheville. Thromer was attempting to pass Fountain at the time, Jones reported.

Fountain's Mazda began to spin in the lane and stopped on the side of the road. Thromer and Harburger's cars went across the median and front of oncoming traffic at just the right time without being struck.

Damage to Harburger's truck was estimated at $500, to Fountain's car, $3,000, and $2,800 to Thromer's car.

Saturday and the two cars crossed in front of oncoming traffic at just the right time without being struck.

Preserving History

Group Looking For Buyer To Restore House

By Laura Williams-Tracy
Davie County Enterprise Record

One of Davie County's oldest residences has less than a year to be bought or its place in history won't be secured.

Even though the McGuire-Setzer house on Jericho Road is listed on the National Register of Historic Places, there's little protection for it from bulldozers. Trustees of the property left to the Davie County Library by the late Mary and Jane McGuire have listed it with Preservation North Carolina, a non-profit foundation that sells historic homes.

During the next year, the society will try to find a suitable buyer for the house — someone who is willing to restore the building while following restrictions that ensure its historical preservation as one of the oldest original buildings in Davie County.

If a historical buyer isn't found, the lot could be sold for its market value and the house could be lost forever.

When the two-story log house was built in 1825, Davie County was wilderness, inhabited by hunters and trappers and few families other than the Daniel Boone family.

An early, distant relative of the McGuire sisters built the house and detached kitchen just south of Mocksville. The property traded hands over the years and was eventually sold back into the McGuire family in 1880 to the sisters' grandfather, Dr. James McGuire.

His old medical books are among the few items left in the weather-worn house.

The McGuire will states that 10 percent of the interest of the $300,000 estate should go toward upkeep of the house. But Hugh Larow, one of the estate's trustees, said at that rate, the trust would never accumulate enough money to restore the house. Just to get the grass cut each month costs $50, he said.

The trustees want to honor the McGuire's wishes and preserve because of its age and unaltered state. No important Civil War generals or presidents ever slept there, but the building is important as an example of early 19th-century Piedmont architecture, Larow said.

"(The McGuire's) weren't George and Martha Washington," Larow said. But the age and condition of the house make it interesting to history buffs. "It's rare to find a home this original," Larow said. "The floor is still original and the house hasn't been partitioned off. It's almost like it was when it was built 170 years ago."

That may be because no one has lived in the house since the 1930s. Bill Murphy of Preservation North Carolina agreed that the house was unusual among the historic properties his group tries to sell.

"This one is a little pristine jewel," he said. Since July his office has had about 25 inquiries from prospective buyers, and he predicts that they may find a suitable buyer. In its next quarterly newsletter, information about the house will be sent across the county. The house is being advertised at $20,500, which includes the lot.

Both Larow and Murphy said they were flexible with the price to allow the buyer more money to renovate the house.

"The name of the game is preserving it," Larow said. Once renovated, there is little chance of the house being used as anything other than a private home, Larow said. At one point there was talk of a museum for Davie County history, but Larow said the house wouldn't make a good site.

A museum should be in a modern building that is accessible to the public and has safe space to keep artifacts, he said. Putting those things in an old house leaves them open for vandalism or fire.

While it is structurally sound, the house will need considerable improvements before anyone could live in it, Larow said.

One of the two chimneys is in ruins. The house needs new wiring, plumbing, insulation, heating and air conditioning and a bathroom and kitchen added.

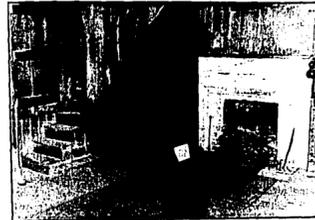

But when completed, Larow said the old structure could be made into a beautiful and historically significant home.

Whatever the house brings when sold will go into the library trust to buy books.

Appointments to see the McGuire-Setzer House may be made by contacting the Historic Preservation Foundation of North Carolina, Inc., P.O. Box 27644, Raleigh, NC 27611-7644 or calling (919) 823-3652.

"This one is a little pristine jewel."

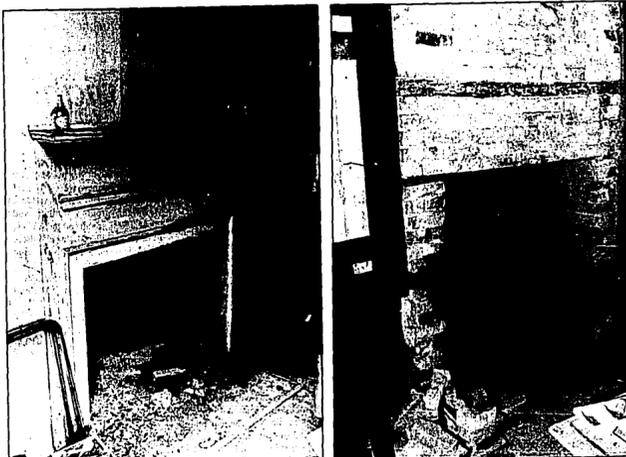

— Bill Murphy, Preservation North Carolina

House is unchanged since it was built 170 years ago.

McGuire-Setzer House was built on Jericho Road in 1825, during the time of Daniel Boone.

Parts of the house are in ruins and will need many repairs before someone can make it their home.

The house and detached kitchen on 1.8 acres are for sale and ready to be restored.

Davie historians hope someone will buy the home and preserve its heritage.

Paige-Webb Couple Married Aug. 21

Camilla Ann Paige and George Webb were united in marriage on Sunday, Aug. 21, at 5 p.m. at the Tanglewood Chapel in Clemmons. The Rev. Gilbert Pierce officiated the double-ring ceremony.

A program of classical wedding music was presented by Mike Hendrix, organist, Mike Wilson and Cindy Wilson, duet.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents and escorted by her father, wore a formal gown of white Schiffler lace over a tulle bodice. The floor-length gown featured a high neckline with long Victorian sleeves and a sheath style bodice embellished with sequins and seed pearls. The train flowed to chapel length and was encircled with lace. The bride chose a matching Victorian hat accented with white ribbon, French netting, clusters of baby's breath and miniature dried roses.

She carried a hand-held bouquet of white roses, white daisies and freesia bound by white flowing ribbon.

Joni Brooke Paige, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Donna Lanning of Mocksville and Laura Gillikin of Charlotte.

Wayne Webb served as his son's best man. Groomsmen were David Boger of Elgin Air Force Base, Fla., and Brian Baysinger of Cleveland, N.C.

Andrew Paige of Mocksville, cousin of the bride, was the ring bearer and acolyte.

Ruth Smith of Advance directed the wedding. The guest register was kept by Diane Fowler of Charlotte and programs and fans were distributed by Patricia Davis of Mocksville, cousin of the bride. Honored guests were Jackie Plot and Susan Barnes, both of Mocksville.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack D. Paige of Mocksville. She is a graduate of Davie High School and attended the University of North Carolina at Charlotte. She is employed as a medical secretary for Salem Surgical Associates, P.A. in Winston-Salem.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Webb of Farmington. He is a graduate of Davie High School and is vice president and operations manager for Secure Data, Inc.

Following a wedding trip to Bermuda, the couple will live in Mocksville.

Reception
Following the ceremony, a reception was hosted by the bride's parents at Walnut Hall in Tanglewood.

A catered dinner of barbecue pork and chicken accompanied by potato salad, baked beans and slaw was served. A four-tiered wedding cake with basket weave icing, topped with fresh flowers was also served.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Davis, uncle and aunt of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Howard greeted guests. Servers were Trish Paige, the bride's aunt and Jewell Stokes, both of Mocksville, and Mandy Easter of State Road, sister of the groom. The disc jockey, Bryant Williams, played favorite songs for the couple.

Rehearsal
On Friday evening, the groom's parents honored the couple with a rehearsal dinner at Cherrie's Cafe in Clemmons.

Guests included the wedding party, out-of-town family and close friends. The groom took this time to present his groomsmen with their gifts.

Social Events

On June 27, a miscellaneous shower was given at the Smith Grove United Methodist Church's but by Trish Paige, Joni Brooke Paige, Jewell

Stokes, and Donna Lanning, all of Mocksville.

Laura Gillikin hosted a luncheon and lingerie shower at her Charlotte home on July 18.

A miscellaneous shower was given by the bride's co-workers at the New Market Grill in Winston-Salem on July 21.

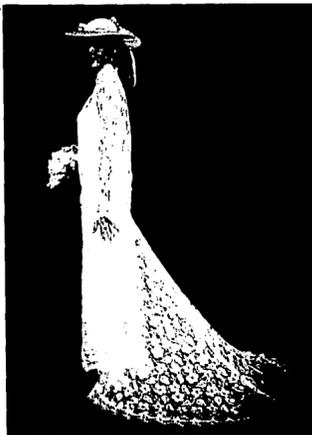

A household and garden shower was given by Louise Pierce, Kim Harris, Linda Gregory, Ollie Wood and Glenna Hendrix on July 24 at the home of Louise Pierce of Mocksville.

On July 31, Bill and Sandra Davis of Mocksville honored the couple with a cook-out.

The groom's aunt, Edna Martin, hosted a miscellaneous shower on Aug. 1 at her home in Winston-Salem for family members.

On Aug. 14, Joni Brooke, the bride's sister and Monica Taylor of Winston-Salem, hosted a dinner at Darryl's at Brookstown for the bride.

A bridesmaid breakfast was given by Beth Bowden of Mocksville and the bride's mother at Cherrie's Cafe on Aug. 20. The bride chose this time to present her attendants with their gifts.

Couple Speaks Marriage Vows

LuAnn Carriker of Route 5, Mooresville and Alan David Steelman of Route 2, Harmony were united in marriage Saturday, Aug. 21, at 8 p.m. at Vanderburg United Methodist Church. The Rev. Robert W. Combs officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her parents.

Ms. Daphne Neel was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Laura Rust, bride's sister; Susan McCarter, bride's cousin; and Lisa Eakes, Miss Leigh Ann Moore, bridegroom's niece was junior bridesmaid.

Truman Steelman was his son's best man. Ushering were: Gary Steelman, bridegroom's brother; Tommy Carriker, bride's brother; Kent Moore, bridegroom's brother-in-law; and Keith Moore.

Child attendants were Kristen Graham, who was a miniature bride, and Patrick McCarter, miniature bridegroom.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Edward Carriker Jr. of Route 4, Mooresville. She is a graduate of South Iredell High School and attended Pfeiffer College for two years. She is employed by Beacon Sweets Inc.

The bridegroom is the son of Truman Steelman of Route 2, Harmony, and the late Mrs. Betty Steelman. He is a graduate of North Iredell High School and is employed by Port City Electric Company.

After a honeymoon in the Tennessee mountains, the couple will be at home at Route 5, Mooresville.

Reception

The bride's parents hosted a reception in the church fellowship building following the ceremony.

Refreshments included lemonade punch, wedding cookies, nuts, mints, cheese straws, vegetable tray, dip, crackers and a cheese ball.

The bride made her wedding cake consisting of three tiers over a fountain. Straws from each side of center cake led to two smaller tiers. The cake was topped with a rolled fondant orchid, decorations and pearls.

Tucker-McKnight Couple Married

Sunni Leigh Tucker and Matthew Littlejohn McKnight were united in marriage Sunday, Aug. 8, at 2 p.m. at Bixby Presbyterian Church. The Revs. David Daniel, pastor of Bixby Presbyterian Church and Franklin Hurd, father of the bridegroom, officiated the double-ring ceremony.

A program of wedding music was presented by Shirley Cornatzer, pianist; Bobby Easter, keyboardist; and Mike Wilson, soloist.

The bride was escorted by her cousin, Rocky Cope, and given away by him and her mother.

Amanda Tucker was her sister's matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Hilary Wilson, bride's aunt of Advance; and Yvon Neal, groom's sister of Mooresville. Lauren Cornatzer, bride's cousin, was a junior bridesmaid. Ashley Cornatzer, bride's cousin, was flower girl.

Von McKnight was his son's best man. Groomsmen were Michael McKnight, groom's brother; Mark McKnight, groom's brother; and Michael Neal, groom's brother-in-law, all of Mocksville. Matthew Wilson, the bride's cousin, served as ring bearer.

Dawn and Matthew Singleton, cousins of the bride, gave out bird seed bags.

Glenda Mills, aunt of the bride, kept the register.

The bride is attending Davie High School. The groom is a graduate of Davie High School. He is employed by Roy Nance.

Following the wedding ceremony, a reception was held in the Bixby Presbyterian Church fellowship hall.

After a wedding trip, the couple will reside in Mocksville.

'93 Center Fair Seeks Displays Of Old Crafts

The annual Center Fair, a one-day event, will be held Saturday, Sept. 11, at the Center Community Building.

This is the only agricultural fair in Davie County and attracts a large number of people. This annual event is sponsored by the Center Volunteer Fire Department and the Center Community Development Association.

For the past several years, local craftsmen have begun bringing their crafts to sell and demonstrate how they are made. The number of old style crafts entries and vendor displays are increasing each year and we would like to carry on this trend.

Also invited are antique tractor and vehicle displays. We are hoping to continue to bring back to life the crafts and skills of the past.

Help is needed to make this happen. Join the activities at the Center Fair if you have a craft or skill to share.

Also on this date, pork barbecue will be sold.

Details for attending the fair are as follows:

LOCATION: Near Mocksville, at 1-40 at U.S. 64, Exit No. 168.

DATE: Sept. 11 (No rain date)

TIME: Setups should be complete by 9 a.m. and stay until at least 4 p.m.

COSTS: Any vendor selling type display will cost a flat fee of $10. A non-selling display will not be charged.

SETUP STYLE: Outdoors. You will need to bring your own tables, chairs, No electricity. Grass and shade trees. Do not sell food.

RESERVATION: Contact Shirley Barron by calling (704) 492-7554 or send check made out to: Center Fair, Route 7, Box 533, Mocksville, NC 27028.

Couple United In Marriage Aug. 21

Lynda Loretta Lowtharpe and Michael Todd Bowers were united in marriage in a 7 p.m. candlelight ceremony Saturday, Aug. 21, at New Hope Baptist Church in Statesville. The Rev. Dale Ellis officiated and music was provided by Ms. Doris Childers, pianist; Mrs. Nancy Smith, organist; and Mrs. Cindy McDaniel, soloist. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Lowtharpe of Route 4, Statesville. She is a graduate of North Fredell High School and Mitchell Community College, where she earned her associate applied science degree in business administration. She is employed in the office of J.C. Tenney Distribution Center. She is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Bill Seamon.

Mrs. Michael Todd Bowers ... was Lynda Loretta Lowtharpe

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Southern of Route 15, Statesville. He is a graduate of Statesville Senior High School and is a volunteer firefighter for Cool Springs. He is employed with the city of Statesville.

The wedding was directed by Mrs. Becky Smith, cousin of the bride. Miss Tamara Willard, friend of the bride, attended the guest register and distributed the wedding programs.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a formal gown of bridal satin and embroidered organza. The bodice featured a deep v-neckline decorated and embroidered in pearls and iridescents. The basque waistline formed a beaded point in the center front.

The long fitted sleeves held embroidered shoulders and formed a calla point at the wrists. Her full skirt featured pyramid of lace appliques on the bottom front and a semi-cathedral length train. This held organza cutouts which were embroidered with pearls and iridescents. The bride wore a strand of pearls and pearl earrings. She also wore a diamond tennis bracelet given to her by the groom.

Her headpiece was a double tiered fingertip-length veil of English illusion which held a satin rolled edge attached to a band of pearl sprays, sequined crystals and iridescents. Her headpiece was made and designed by her aunt, Ann Carter. The bride carried a single long stem rose accented with greenery and babies breath.

centered with magnolia leaves. Also displayed was the bride's portfolio along with childhood pictures of the bride and groom.

The refreshment table was covered with a crimson linen cloth with an ivory lace overlay. The centerpiece was a large arrangement of crimson and ivory roses along with two hurricane lamps on each side.

The guests were served chicken salad and pimiento cheese rolls, fresh veggies with dip, sausage balls, cheese wafers, cheese ball with crackers along with a variety of sliced cheese, chips with dip, minis, sweet midgets, dill pickles, nuts and a frosty punch.

An ivory on ivory three-tiered wedding cake was placed on a separate round table covered with an ivory linen cloth with an ivory lace overlay. The cake was decorated with fresh crimson roses which flowed around the cake. The cake top was a bouquet of six crimson roses accented with greenery and babies breath.

The cake was served by Mrs. Becky Smith, cousin of the bride. Others assisting with serving included Mrs. Ann Snider, aunt of the bride; Miss Tina Southern, friend of the bride; and Mrs. Lori Lowtharpe, sister-in-law of the bride.

The bridesmaid bags were made by the bride's aunt, Ann Carter and arranged in two standing baskets. The bridesmaid bags were distributed by Jansen and Meghan Smith of Lexington.

A rehearsal dinner hosted by the groom's parents was held at 7:30 p.m. Friday night at New Hope Baptist Church Fellowship Hall.

Approximately 15 guests were served barbecue, sesame chicken, baked beans, green beans, mashed potatoes, cole slaw, rolls and the traditional chocolate groom's cake. Assisting with the serving were Ms. Karen McDaniel, Ms. Cathy Moore, Ms. Rachel Fox and Ms. Margaret Sebastian.

Following a wedding trip, the couple will make their home in Statesville.

Yadkin Valley

By Mrs. Ruby McBride
Yadkin Valley Correspondent

The new Sunday school rooms at Yadkin Valley is supposed to be ready for use by the middle of September. We all will be glad to have them ready.

Remember all the sick. There are many on the list. From our church is Alvin Wood, Jack Canlie, and Fald Smith. Also remember Harvey Fikher.

Lorena West and Ruby McBride visited Louise Peters Monday at her daughter Lita's home on Peak Road in Clemmons. That evening Kathleen Black went with us to Zelma and Foy Reavis and daughter. We enjoyed our visits with them. We left there and went down the road and visited Thoma Smith. We enjoyed our visit with him also and think he did too. They all live at Turkey Foot.

Lorraine Dilly took Mary Carter and Ruby McBride out to lunch at Cherrie's in Clemmons for Ruby's birthday. We all enjoyed the lunch and fellowship together on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Steven, Hollis Smith, Lorane Foster, Ruby McBride, and Irene Hutchens all went to see Mrs. Mabel Allen at the Davie Village Rest Home on 64 east of Mocksville. They had lunch together, and went to the YMCA and enjoyed being together.

Mrs. Hazel Riddle visited Mrs. Annie Williams at Meadow Brook Terrace on 801 this week.

Forrests Have Reunion

More than 100 people attended the Forrest Family Reunion at Center Community Building Aug. 15.

Members of the Forrest family are descendants of Jesse, James and Missouri Forrest, who had four children and moved to Davie County. They are buried in Fork Cemetery, and their children lived in Davie and Davidson counties and in Arkansas.

Family members came from all over western North Carolina, Kentucky and Tennessee for the reunion, which is always held on the third Sunday in August.

The bride-elect is a 1991 graduate of Davie High School, and plans to graduate from Mitchell Community College with an associate degree in business administration in Spring 1994. She is employed part-time as a pharmacy technician at K-Mart in Statesville.

Caskaddon is a 1991 graduate of West Heddell High School and plans to graduate from Mitchell Community College in Spring 1994 with an associate degree in criminal justice. He is employed by ASMO Inc. in Statesville as a production line supervisor.

The wedding is planned for Oct. 23 at Union Chapel Methodist Church in Mocksville.

Diabetes Group Starts

A support group is being formed to share concerns and difficulties of diabetes and complications such as vision impairment.

The meeting will be Tuesday, Sept. 21, at the Davie County Library conference room, 7-8 p.m.

"The group will help you to feel less isolated, feel better about yourself, more comfortable with your diabetes and vision loss," said Mary Nothstine, diabetes counselor.

"The more we know and learn about the worst disease of them all, the better we can do right when it comes to self care."

The "Davie Dynamic Sharpshooters" support group is free. There will be guest speakers.

Contact Nothstine for more information at (704) 284-2504.

Class Of '68 Plans Reunion

The Davie High School Class of '68 will hold a reunion the weekend of Oct. 1 and Oct. 2.

Class members are planning to sit in a group at the Davie High-South Sticks football game which begins at 7:30 p.m. in the football stadium, and will "hang out" at C's following the game.

A catered meal, social and dance will be held on Saturday, Oct. 2 at the Davie Family YMCA on Cemetery Street (near Rich Park) beginning at 6 p.m. Cost is $15, and an additional $10 for a photograph.

If planning to attend, contact by Sept. 10 Creola G. Rogers, Route 1 Box 109, Mocksville NC 27028, (704) 492-5162; or Vickie Ward at (704) 634-3464.

Terrier Time Terriers Converge On Davie

Terrier lovers from up and down the Eastern Seaboard converged on Davie County last weekend for the annual show of the Tarheel Terriers.

They came from Florida, Ontario, Canada, New York, South Carolina and Virginia. The judge came from North Wales, England for the show at the Thoroughbred Training Center off Cana Road.

But to the judge, John Broadhurst, these dogs called Jack Russell Terriers in the United States, were just hounds. And they're used for hunting.

"I've got me own pack of 'em and I'm looking for the dogs that I could work back home. I'm looking for the dogs that could get to foxes, not too big, not too small, a dog with good bones that could go anywhere," Broadhurst said.

The terriers were judged in three weight classes, in smooth rough coat and every thing in between. Forget AKC recognition, the center faniers maintain their own blood lines.

Tedd Ridler of Long Beach, Long Island, N.Y., was making one of his rare appearances at a show away from New England. "It's interesting to see how they do things in other areas," he said.

"These are working dogs. Most of the people hunt their dogs - groundhog, opossum, raccoon. In England, they use them for fox hunts," Ridler said.

The dogs sell anywhere from $100 to $1,200.

"They're a hip and popular breed to have right now," Ridler said.

Martin Promoted

Leonarda S. Martin has been promoted in the U.S. Air Force to the rank of staff sergeant.

Martin, a financial management specialist, is the daughter of Faustino J. and Eleonora J. Sarinas of 100

Balboa St., San Francisco. Her husband, Air Force Staff Sgt. Robert J. Martin, is the son of James R. and Josephine Martin of Mocksville.

Apple Harvest On The Way

North Carolina farmers will harvest more than eight million bushels of apples in 1993, according to the N.C. Department of Agriculture. September is peak harvest time.

More than 550 farmers raise apples commercially in the state, with the bulk of production centered in Henderson County. Varieties include Red Delicious, Golden Delicious, Rome, Granny Smith, Cortland and others. Growers are expecting to harvest 90 percent of a normal apple crop this year. Prices should be reasonable.

"Reports indicate that it will be a high quality crop and consumers should see a plentiful supply of North Carolina apples at roadside stands, farmers markets and grocery stores," said state Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham.

World War I Veterans To Be Honored With Medals

The nation is mustering its World War I veterans one last time to honor them with a special medal commemorating their wartime service on the 75th anniversary of the armistice that ended "the war to end all wars."

The medal is intended for every living U.S. veteran of World War I, estimated by the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) at between 30,000 and 40,000.

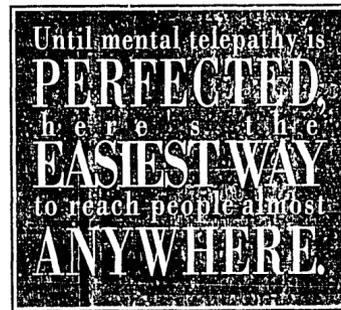

Designed by the U.S. Army Institute of Heraldry, the medal is sponsored by the Chicago-based McCormick Tribune Foundation and is being presented to veterans under the auspices of the departments of Defense and Veterans Affairs.

Secretary of Veterans Affairs Jesse Brown said, "It is fitting that we honor these World War I veterans whose service and sacrifice had such a profound effect on world history. But it is particularly fitting that we can extend this special honor on the 75th anniversary of that war's end."

The first medals will be presented at ceremonies in Chicago Aug. 30, during the annual convention of the Veterans of World War I of the U.S.A. VA will then distribute the medal to veterans beginning Sept. 1. Officials hope to have the bulk of the medals distributed by Veterans Day, Nov. 11, 1993, the 75th anniversary of the Armistice that ended World War I.

To receive the medal, World War I veterans or their representatives can obtain an application from the nearest VA Regional Office or call toll free 1-800-827-1000.

Comics Shop Opens In Town

Pete Hansen is hooked. He's an addict, and his addiction at one time cost him $450 a month.

Now, along with friend Keith Hubbard, he's trying to turn that addiction into a profit.

The life-long friends are addicted to comic books, and have opened a comic book store on Salisbury Street in Mocksville.

"We've been collecting them since we were 8 years old," Hansen said. "I've thrown away one book away my whole life."

"I would gather a collection, and get rid of it dirt cheap. I got tired of getting rid of it dirt cheap."

Despite that claim, Hansen said he is selling collector's comics cheaper than other major retailers. "I've got books for half of what Hero's sells them for."

Weekly give-aways of Valiant books are planned, and a contest is being held for two books - the death of Superman and Batman breaks his back. "Batman got his back broke. That's really big news," Hansen said.

"It's a cheap form of entertainment. They're developing more talent, and the art work is amazing."

Comics are available for children and adults.

"We're trying to reach all these people," Hansen said. People want stuff and don't know where to go for it.

"The last five years, it has just exploded," Hubbard said of the interest and availability of comics. "It went from less than 100 titles to 400 or 500."

Their store now has about 8,000 comics, much from their personal collection.

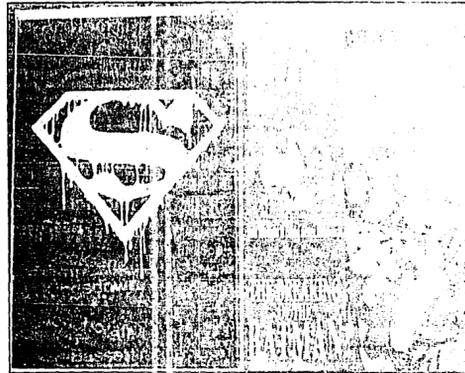

The store is open from noon-7 p.m. Tuesday-Thursday and from 10 a.m.-8 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

Do they still have time to read while operating a business?

"I read every one in front of my face," Hansen said. "I'm enveloped with all the story lines."

Tri-County To Assess Special Needs

The Tri-County Mental Health, Developmental Disability and Substance Abuse Board of Directors and staff will collect public input on the developmental needs of adults, children and special need populations in Davie County, Sept. 8.

The hearing will be from 7-9 p.m. at the Davie County Senior Citizens Luncheon at the Brook Building, 622 N. Main Street.

People interested in appearing at the public hearing to express concerns or raise issues are invited to reserve time on the agenda at the public hearing by contacting Ms. Bess Lott, Tri-County Area Mental Health Office at (704) 637-5045, 121 West Council Street, Salisbury, NC 28144. Please call or write for reserved time no later than Sept. 3. Individuals will be limited to five minutes and are requested to bring a written copy of their comments for distribution to the panel.

Tri-County will hold public hearings in Davie, Iredell and Rowan counties. Information obtained from these meetings will be used to develop a Developmental Disability Plan to be submitted to the North Carolina Division of Mental Health, Developmental Disability and Substance Abuse Services by February 1994.

A public hearing for Substance Abuse Services will be held in the coming months.

Recreation

Notice has been received that a special state election will be held Tuesday, Nov. 2, to decide a Constitutional Amendment and four bond referendums. The 14 voting precincts in Davie County will be open to allow electorates to cast their vote.

The electorate of the Town of Mocksville, the Town of Cooleemee, and the Bermuda Center Sanitary District will be electing officials to serve respectively at the same time.

For the first time the Town of Mocksville election will be non-partisan, with the three commissioner candidates receiving top votes being elected for four years, the fourth and fifth places being elected for two years.

There are six candidates for the five seats. Mayor D.J. Mando is unopposed.

The mayor and commissioners for the Town of Cooleemee are also non-partisan, with four year terms. Cooleemee electors will select their mayor from three candidates and two commissioners from four candidates.

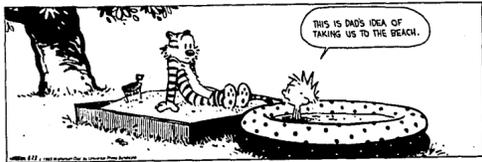

The Bermuda Center Sanitary District electors will elect one board member to serve a four year term, and only one candidate filed.

Deadline for registering, or making precinct changes to vote in any of the above elections, is Monday, Oct. 11.

Absentee applications may be filed by, or on behalf of, any elector by a member of their immediate family for voting by mail Monday, Sept. 13 - Tuesday, Oct. 26, 5 p.m. The only exception being for sickness or disability for which application may be filed until 5 p.m. Monday, Nov. 1.

Davie Boys Take First Prize In KidsFest Singing Events

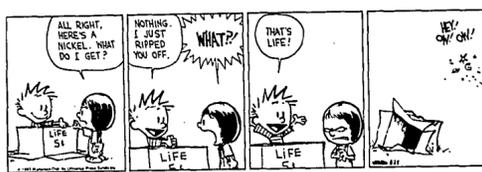

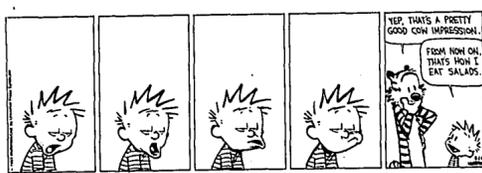

The annual KidsFest was held Aug. 14 and 15 at the Hannon Convention Center in Winston-Salem. The festival has included a talent competition for the past four years in which children from all over the state compete. Brad Hudson and Jason Barney of Advance were the winners of the group category in the 11-14 age division. They performed a vocal duet of "When I Get Carried Away". Both are voice students of Julie Campbell and they attend North Davie Junior High.

The two have also competed this summer as soloists in several competitions. On July 17, Brad was chosen as the overall winner of the Rogersville, Tenn. Talent Show. Jason received second place honors July 31 at the N.C. Singing Convention Talent Competition near Greensboro. Then on Aug. 7 he won the Children's Division of the Gospel Gold Talent Search in Dahlonega, Ga.

Brad Hudson and Jason Barney performed vocal duet.

Families Could Benefit From Habitat Group

By Lauri Williams-Tracy
Davie County Enterprise-Record

Many of Davie County's residents live in sub-standard housing and face monthly rent bills with little chance of ever improving their conditions. A group of citizens wants to help those families buy houses by starting a Davie County chapter of Habitat For Humanity, a program that combines volunteer work with low monthly payments to jumpstart a network of new homeowners.

Graduates of the last class Davie Leadership have chosen the project as a tangible product of a year-long class about making a difference in their community. And they are finding this is a need that could make a big difference.

According to Karen Smith, director of social services and a graduate of Davie Leadership, more than 800 owner-occupied homes in the county are not fit to live in. And that doesn't even include rental properties.

What's more, for those looking for rental assistance from the federal government, the waiting list is a year long.

"It's more than we think," she said. "I think a lot of people don't believe we have a sub-standard housing problem here because they don't see it."

Ben Edwards, a senior at Davie High and president of the student council, has seen the needs in another country and knows what an impact better housing can make.

During the summer he spent two weeks building homes for Habitat for Humanity in Guatemala. He saw a family of 13 move from a mud-packed house into one built by his group.

"And they were middle class compared to everybody else," Edwards said. Edwards made a promise to the group that the student council will get involved in the project. And organizers are hoping to include other students.

Diane Crofts and her husband David have worked on many building projects with their church. And as a masonry teacher at the high school, David Crofts is hoping to make the houses a hands-on learning project for the students, she said.

The first steps are being taken now, said Neal Essie, vocational director for Davie County Schools and a member of Leadership Davie. The group must go through a lengthy process of becoming incorporated and getting charter papers from the national organization. That can take a year, but in the meantime, organizers can begin work on the house.

Essie said the group hopes to begin organizing committees in September. Already 100 people have expressed interest in the project by Essie said they still want more members.

The committees will identify families that need help. Other committees raise money and coordinate building schedules. A nurturing committee stays in contact with the family after the house is completed to make sure they pay their interest-free mortgage payments.

Most families who move into the homes end up getting a $40,000 house for about $15,000, Essie said. But they must also pay back with what is known as "sweat equity."

Each family that buys a house through Habitat must help build that house or another that is being constructed.

Those interested in joining can write to Habitat for Humanity Davie County, P.O. Box 101, Advance, NC or calling Diane Crofts at 998-8800.

Diane Crofts, Neal Essie, Ben Edwards and Karen Smith are organizing a Habitat for Humanity group in Davie.

Spiritual Resources God's Perspective

By The Rev.
Hampton
Morgan

Someone came by the church a couple of months ago trying to sell us an aerial photograph of our facilities and land. The view from above was an interesting perspective. Details which routinely escape my notice at ground level stood out so clearly. Moreover, the photo was a record of what was going on at the church that day. The vehicles in the parking lot, for example, indicated who was there, and who should have been, but wasn't! Such details I would not have noticed standing on the ground.

It is good to be reminded that one's own point of view is of necessity limited. Each observer of any event is limited in what she sees by a number of factors. This is why after a traffic accident, the police and insurance people want to speak to several witnesses. This is also why seven officials will be present on the playing field during a college football game this fall. The perspective of each is essential if the game is to be called fairly.

No human is an objective observer of reality or truth. Even what we know about ourselves is highly subjective and limited. As a child, I once let a friend pressure me into sealing a bottle of hot soap pop out of the back room of a little country store. Though raised with a clear knowledge of the wrongness of that action, I was totally amazed to find how easily I could be pressured to do something I knew to be wrong. It was a memorable moment of self-awareness. It has helped me ever since to refrain from over-estimating my ability to resist temptation.

One of the psalmists must have also been surprised to learn that he did not know himself as well as he had imagined. In Psalm 139 David prayed for a clearer insight into the darkness of his own motives and actions: "Search me, O God, and know my heart; test me and know my thoughts. See if there is any wicked way in me, and lead me in the way of everlasting life."

Centuries later, another believer counseled his fellow Christians to strive for a realistic and truthful view of themselves. Writing in Romans 12, Paul said, "By the grace given to me I say to everyone among you not to think of yourself more highly than you ought to think, but to think with sober judgment, each according to the measure of faith that God has assigned."

David and Paul each confessed the limits of an individual's own perspective of self. Both appealed for a recognition of the divine perspective. In the Judeo-Christian view, only God is completely objective. Only God possesses the whole truth about the world and those who inhabit it. We cannot truly understand our thoughts, motives or actions apart from seeking the counsel and word of the God who is truth and love.

But how can that divine perspective be known? How can God's truth be grasped and understood? The Judeo-Christian answer is the word of God as revealed in the scriptures. Both in the stories, as well as in the commandments and declarations of the Old and New Testaments, any seeker will find pertinent and pointedly personal words from God about one's own life. The writer to the Hebrews described it this way: "Indeed, the word of God is living and active, sharper than any two-edged sword, piercing until it divides soul from spirit, joints from marrow; it is able to judge the thoughts and intentions of the heart." (Hebrews 4:12) The following verse, which often goes unquoted, is just as forceful: "And before [God] no creature is hidden, but all are naked and laid bare to the eyes of the one to whom we must render an account."

The point is not that God sees and knows everything about us. Or that God is keeping a record of what he sees and will judge us on the basis of it. Both statements are biblically true, and certainly worth a sober reflection. The point is that God wants us to have the benefit of his perspective on our lives so that we can think and act differently.

With God's perspective much of the moral confusion about right and wrong can be ended. True change becomes possible because we know what sins need to be confessed and what deeds need to be forsaken. God's perspective will help us attain a realistic view of our weaknesses and our ability to resist temptation. God's perspective is a breath of fresh air in a world that really needs an objective word of judgment and hope.

Arthur Dean Wins Door Prize

By Margaret Potts

Arthur Dean, president of the Advance Senior Citizens met Aug. 16 with 10 members and three visitors present.

Arthur Dean, president, called the meeting to order. Taylor Howard, chaplain, read Psalm 121. Mike Garner told about trips coming up and senior programs. "Happy Birthday" was sung to Ivey Young and Frank Bonadvis.

Arthur Dean won the door prize. Louise Stroud entertained on the piano. She also told about Miss Lizzie going to the Book Center, and also Miss Lizzie's disappointment with her sweepstake.

Hillsdale Dentist Recognized

Jerry Allen Hauser, D.D.S., received the Academy of General Dentistry's Fellowship Award during a special ceremony at AGD's Annual Meeting July 19 in San Diego.

The Academy is the second largest dental organization in North America. Its 33,000 members are dedicated to continuing dental education in general practice. To earn the Fellowship Award, AGD dentists must complete more than 500 hours of continuing education within ten years and pass the Fellowship exam.

Hauser graduated from the University of North Carolina School of Dentistry in 1982. He maintains a private practice in Advance.

Hauser and his wife, Tammy, have three children: Jacob, Bryce and Cullin.

Hauser is a member of the American Dental Association, the N.C. Dental Society and the Forsyth County Dental Society. He is also a member of the University of North Carolina Dental Alumni Association and the Delta Sigma Delta Dental Fraternity. He received the Delta Sigma Delta Undergraduate Award for highest Academic Achievement in 1981.

Hauser is past zone governor and current district treasurer of the Piedmont District of the Baritan National. He is a member of the Smith Grove Baritan Club, the "Cliff Notes" singing group and Holy Family Catholic Church. Dr. Hauser is a member of the Davie Family YMCA Board and the Winston-Salem Metro YMCA Board.

Roy Adams and sons Adam and Zachary of Davie County, Phil Vance of King and Charles Spear at radio-controlled airplane field in Davie County.

Radio Controlled Airplane Club Seeking New Field In Area

The Winston-Salem Radio Control Club has been advised their model airplane flying site of many years has been sold for future development of a golf course and housing project.

Although calling themselves the Winston-Salem Radio Control Club, for the purpose of gaining national recognition, the membership includes only residents of Forsyth, Davie and several of the surrounding counties. The club encompasses an age group of from 7 to 70.

The Winston-Salem Radio Control Club is seeking a new location for their model airplane flying field and a site not too far removed from their present location. The club would like to lease or purchase a piece of property that would be suitable for a flying field.

Their requirements are simple as they are looking for farm or grazing land that is fairly level and free of trees and wires. Actually, the club requires only about seven or eight acres on which pit, landing parking facility and a miniature runway could be constructed, preferably an out of the way location, but with some sort of access road. The additional requirement for the club's miniature airplanes is that they require about 25 or 30 acres for actual flying space.

Interested parties in Davie County need to contact Charles Spear of Mocksville by calling 704-634-2397.

Davie Farmers May Be Eligible For Disaster Help

Disaster assistance is available to Davie County farmers who have suffered recent crop losses because of this summer's drought according to Lanny Collett, county executive director of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service and Robin Hampton, county supervisor of the Farmers Home Administration which serves the county.

FmHA's disaster emergency loans were authorized on Aug. 10. Still other ASCS disaster assistance such as the Emergency Feed Program, the Emergency Feed Assistance Program and authority for hay and grazing acreages under the Conservation Reserve Program and the Acreage Conservation Program have been authorized by ASCS in the need for these types of assistance.

Producers who have suffered losses to their crops and/or livestock should contact their local ASCS and FmHA offices to find out details of how the agencies can be of service, according to Collett and Hampton.

"We are going to do all we can to show our farmers that Team USDA is working well in our area," Hampton, the FmHA supervisor said.

Both agencies plan to make maximum effort to get the best information and the most disaster relief possible for the farmers in this area. Farmers may contact their local ASCS office at 634-2487 and their local FmHA office at 634-5681 for more information. Application sign up periods for ASCS services will be announced soon. FmHA can receive emergency loan applications now, but farmers will have until early April, 1994 to file an application since the extent of their losses may not be known at this time.

Davie Artist's Work To Be Featured At Artworks Show

Artworks Gallery is presenting a two-person show of mixed media watercolor and cast paper pieces by Kate Magruder and pencil and turpentine wash drawings by E.O. Hill. The exhibit will run from Friday, Sept. 10 - Saturday, Oct. 9.

The opening reception will be Friday, Sept. 10, from 7 to 9 p.m.

Besides being an artist, Hill, of Davie County, is a licensed pilot, judge, ham mill operator, farmer, and arts administrator.

Hill works primarily in various drawing media because, as he puts it, "color gets in the way of what I am trying to say in my work."

About his drawings, Hill says that it "is usually representational in content though I am also quite concerned with the more abstract relationships of positive and negative space in and around the work."

Much of his work is not matted so that the piece can "become part of the wall on which it is displayed." He maintains that the abstract part of his work is the "music that takes along the words. The words are the content."

"The texture of the marks and the use of line and surface texture" are important elements. He often builds tones with graphite and pencil marks which he then brushes with turpentine, working the brushes both with and against the marks.

In other drawings, Hill uses masking tape and rubber cement to hold the light areas. At other times he prefers to build tones by grinding graphite, which he then applies to paper with brushes and turpentine. Because so many of his drawings incorporate extensive brushwork, he considers himself an artist who "paints" in black and white.

Hill followed a rather circuitous route to full-time artist.

Even though he loved to draw as a child, his first college experiences were in the area of academics. First he studied engineering at N.C. State University, then liberal arts at Wake Forest University.

He honed his lifelong love of drawing in Florida at the Ringling School of Art and Design, where he earned a BFA in advertising and commercial art. Two years later, in 1969, he received his MFA in drawing and design from the Instituto Allende, which is part of the University of Guanajuato in San Miguel de Allende, Mexico.

He returned to North Carolina to work in advertising and marketing, which in turn led him into the areas of development and construction. Moving further and further away from his art, Hill eventually became the owner of four newstands.

Fifteen years ago, however, he decided to take the plunge to full-time artist.

Hill has always been active in the art world. He has been an Exhibiting Member of Associated Artists since 1968 and served on the Board in the early 1980s.

Hill taught for the Winston-Salem Arts and Crafts Association (now the Sawtooth Center for Visual Art) when it was located at Hanes Community Center.

For the past eight years (and 1974-77), he has served on the Board of Directors of the N.C. Arts Council. He chairs the Council's Visual Arts Panel, which approves grants for artists and arts organizations.

Hill has two grown daughters. He and his second wife live on a farm in Advance where they raise horses.

Senior Trotters To Visit Farm

The Senior Trotters met for their regular meeting on Aug. 12. There were 26 members and seven visitors present.

Vice president Peatline Seaford called the meeting to order. The group sang "Ourselves Christian Soldiers" and Ruth Tutterow had devotions.

Helen Chaffin reported that anyone that would like to visit their tobacco farm and see the modern machinery used would have the opportunity to do so at the September meeting. Others will stay at the building and play bingo.

Marie Miller told about a Florida trip planned for November. Anyone interested should contact her soon.

Nancy Tutterow gave a report on the Senior Advisory Council meeting. Ginger Morrison will be coming to work in September as senior services coordinator. She will be working from 20 to 30 hours a week.

There will be a small fee charged for senior classes at the Senior Center. Davidson Community College will no longer offer these classes free to senior citizens.

John and Jo White were congratulated on the birth of their first grandchild, Jean and Ernest Seamon had their son Jonathan and his family with them and they were welcomed.

Following the business meeting, club members were invited to visit the three tables loaded with vegetables, fruits and grab bags that the members had brought to sell.

John White had the blessing before a meal of fresh vegetables, pinto beans, fruit, watermelon, apple pie and lemonade.

Friday Night's Game: Davie at North Iredell

Love Expects Another Close Game

A word of advice to the fans who travel to Iredell County Friday night to catch the Davie County-North Iredell season opener.

Be prepared for a down-to-the-wire thriller.

Two seasons ago, Kyle Duncan boomed a 42-yard field goal to defeat what seemed to be a better North team, 17-14.

Last season, Ty Gryder boomed a late field goal to defeat what seemed to be a better Davie team, 3-0.

But that isn't all. In the past few years, there have been scores of 7-6, 13-7 and 12-7.

Raider Charles Love, entering his 18th season as head coach at North, doesn't expect anything different in 1993.

"It's been a rivalry for a long time," said the North Rowan High School graduate.

"The kids in the Harmony area intermingle with the ones from Davie. It's a fun game for us.

"It's a rivalry where the county lines meet and that's always good. It's us and Alexander Central where the lines meet the other way. The fact that they're both 4-A schools gives our kids something."

Last season, North finished 6-4 in the Foothills 3-A Conference, grabbing one of the playoff spots before losing to Lincolnton, 21-0.

"Lincolnton frosted us," Love shrugged.

But it was still the eighth time in the past 10 years of Love's teams has made the postseason so his program is firmly established.

How is his team expected to fare this season?

"South Iredell is picked first and the rest of us are picked second is what it boils down to," the popular coach joked.

Davie will see a collection of talented running backs that Love is counting on heavily.

"I feel we have six quality backs," he said, pointing to John Jackson, Tony Allison and Kevin Millsaps as the front-runners.

Jackson was the quarterback last season but has been replaced by Ed Wright, a junior.

Davie's offensive line will have to control Jabbar Stevenson, a junior who is already a two-year starter. He is 6-3, 300.

"He's a huge man," said Love.

Love has only two returning starters on offense and says his line is big but young.

"At times, they're pretty good," he said.

"Other times, we have communication problems."

Love also thinks this year's game will be better execution-wise. Both played Endowment Games last week.

"A lot of people have knocked the Endowment Game. But it gives us a chance to work on our kicking game and Davie has a good one with West Rowan."

"This is usually our first game or Davie's first," he said.

"So there has always been a lot of wrinkles to get out. I think this time, you'll see two better football teams."

Friday's Opponent:

North Iredell

Nickname: Raiders.

School Location: Olin.

Game Site: North Iredell Stadium, 7:30 p.m.

Records: Season opener for both teams.

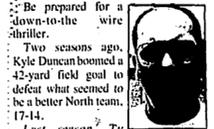

Last Year: North Iredell defeated Davie, 3-0.

Last Year's Records: Davie finished 5-5 overall and 4-3 in the Central Piedmont 4-A Conference; North finished 5-5 overall and 4-2 in the Foothills 3-A Conference.

Coaches: Davie: Randall Ward 31-42 in seven years; North: Charles Love (91-95-3 in 18 years).

Players To Watch: Davie: RB Jared Eure, RB Hamilton Cuthrell, DB Deryl Wilson, LB Mike Agrillo, North Iredell: QB Ed Wright, RB John Jackson, RB Kevin Millsaps, DL Jabbar Stevenson.

Overview: North Iredell has been a playoff team in eight of the last 10 years...Davie is coming off its best record since 1987...North has a new quarterback this season as Jackson moves to the backfield...North Iredell met North Rowan and Davie played West Rowan last week in the Endowment Game.

Davie County's backfield will consist of quarterback Deryl Wilson (32) and backs Jonathan Vaughters (34) and Jared Eure (22). Hamilton Cuthrell, who was absent, will also see action.

'The Offense'

New Quarterback, Veteran Backs Returning

With no Bubba Coleman and no tested quarterback on the 1993 Davie County football roster, coach Randall Ward will be leaning heavily on his running backs.

This appears to be the perfect year to do that. Ward has a talented stable of runners in all shapes and sizes that may very well be the best group in the Central Piedmont Conference this year.

"We have the capabilities of running inside or out," he said. "Teams that are consistent, whether it's high school, pro or college, have to move it consistently on the ground. We'll try to use the pass to complement that and keep the defense off-guard."

The Backs
Jared Eure will lead the offense. He was the team's leading rusher last season with 541 yards.

He averaged 4.8 yards per carry and should better that. He was also the team's leading scorer with 32 points.

"He's one of the better backs in the league," Ward said. "He's got good feet to go with speed and power. He's also one of our team leaders."

Davie will also boast the fastest man in the Central Piedmont Conference in Hamilton Cuthrell, who runs a 10.4 100 meters. He ran for 327 yards last year, scored 24 points and is the perfect compliment to Eure.

"Hamilton has great speed and if we can get him into the open, nobody's going to catch him."

There are plenty of capable backs that Ward can call on. Junior Jonathan Vaughters bulled for 72 yards in the Endowment Game last week. Eric Shook is small and quick. Tim Bracken is tall and lanky. Kyle Duncan, who will be relied on

'The Defense'

Linebackers The Big Strength For War Eagles

Davie County football coach Randall Ward thinks his defensive line can be strong.

But if a runner gets by the front wall, look out. He is about to be pulverized by a corps of hard-hitting linebackers.

Jared Eure, Kyle Duncan and Mike Agrillo form a group that plays football because of the contest.

That makes Ward, a former running back himself, smile.

"That's where we have strength," he said. "Those linebackers will lead the defensive effort for the War Eagles this season."

"We're aggressive on defense and do the fundamental things well," Ward said. "We won't be as big as some people but we'll have to use good technique."

The Line
Ward lost a valued part of his defensive line in sophomore Kelvin Dewalt, who isn't with the team this year. He started as a freshman when he already weighed 225.

Ward will now choose a new noseguard from a group that includes Lee Mollman, Steve Moore, Bryan Eagle, Rodney Crofts and Anthony Smith.

"They'll have to work hard in the pit," he said. "We have a lot of inexperience there."

Among the defensive linemen are seniors Todd Corvin, Darrell Bryant and Chris Cornatzer. Corvin, who turns into a headhunter once he hits the field, is one of the top returning linemen in the CPC, despite his lack of weight. The 6-3, 208-pounder moves well and finds the ball, according to Ward.

Michael Hunter, Zach Graham, Kevin Caudle and Mark Atwood will also see time.

Caudle was a starter last season as a

IRS Was Waiting For Sitterle, Birmingham After Game

Preparing for yet another high school football season...

Did you know Davie County once had a football coach who played on a professional football championship team?

Allen Sitterle, who was here in 1979-80, was Pittsburgh's last cut in 1974. He ended up in Birmingham of the World Football League. The team went undefeated and won the World Bowl.

You've heard the wild stories about the NFL. Sitterle said, yes, every one is true.

"We were one of the few teams that paid the players right up until the end of the season," he said. "We always packed our place."

"When we played the World Bowl, the IRS had surrounded everything and confiscated all the equipment to pay the bills. One of the guards let me sneak my helmet out."

That helmet is now hanging in his office at Daniel High School in Clemson, S.C.

Sitterle, an offensive lineman, also tried out for

Notebook

Miami and Philadelphia of the NFL and played in the Canadian Football League before finally getting into high school coaching. But his NFL memories will last forever.

"We had a lot of fun," he understated.

Excuse Davie linebacker coach Tim Shulford if his mind wanders every now and then. His wife is expecting their first child. The due date is Sept. 6.

"That's all you think about every day," Shulford said.

Davie County football fans probably won't see as fiery a coach as they will in Week 3 when Starmount's B.W. Holt visits War Eagle Stadium. He takes no junk from anyone and never has.

"In my first year, we tied the first game with North Iredell 0-0," Holt said, remembering back to 1979.

The little 'ol local paper said, "Starmount hasn't changed. It still can't score." I thought it took some shots at our kids.

The next week, Starmount beat a talented Surry Central team 28-0. Holt began seeking out his local paper's sportswriter.

"The little reporter was walking around and I said,

"Come over here and explain to my kids why they can't score."

Holt showed a satisfied grin. Starmount went on to win six games that year and has never stopped.

Junior Justin Carter has realized a goal this season. He is wearing number 85, the same number as father Mike when he played at Davie County. Now, Justin would like to realize another goal by matching his father's record. Mike played on the 1965 team that finished the regular season 10-0.

Arnold Solomon, author of the third annual North Carolina Prep News, is known as the state's "Football Guru" but said most of his inspiration to succeed came while attending Pfeiffer College from one of the Falcon coaches.

That person happened to be baseball coach Joe Ferabee of Mocksville, a pretty fair quarterback in his own day back in the 1930s at Mocksville High School.

Solomon listed Davie's power rating at 96.9 at the end of last year, which put it third in the Central Piedmont Conference, behind only West Forsyth (107.9) and North Davidson (101.1).

But in the preseason predictions, Davie was still chosen to finish only fifth.

You can understand why North Davidson wanted to stay 3-A, where it is 20-3 over the past two years. When the Black Knights were 4-A from 1985-88, they were 12-27.

The North Carolina Prep News has Deryl Wilson listed as one of the state's top junior and Kelvin Dewalt as one of the best sophomores. Unfortunately, Dewalt, a 6-1, 240-pounder, is not on the team this year.

Former Davie quarterback Tommy Eanes begins his first season as head coach at East Surry this week. Former Davie coach Mike Carter is beginning his fifth season at Mooresville.

WDSL (1520-AM) won't be carrying Davie football but it will air all North Carolina Tar Heel games, beginning with the Aug. 29 Figskin Classic against Southern Cal in Anaheim, Calif. Coverage begins 40 minutes before each game with ACC Today.

Eure Has Way Of Scaring Opposing Quarterbacks

What kind of a reputation does Jared Eure have on the football field?

If you listen to North Davie's quarterback Zac Everhart, it's one legend after another.

Everhart has a photo in his home from two seasons ago when he quarterbacked the Black Knight jayvees. The picture shows Everhart being pummeled to the ground by Eure, a headhunting linebacker.

Everhart's parents have even said he shudders when thinking of it, acknowledging it is the hardest hit he's ever endured.

So imagine what Everhart will be thinking Oct. 22 when he lines up over center and looks straight into the eyes of his nemesis, now a chiseled, 6-2, 200 pound senior.

Eure smiled when he heard the story. Making a hit like that is something all linebackers dream about.

"You don't feel anything," he said. "Once you hit them, numbness goes all through your body. You get real excited. You see them on the ground and know they won't be running there again. It feels really good. And I think the key to this year is going to be defense..."

Compliments continued last season during his junior year. After Davie defeated Dudley, a fan approached Ward and said, "You didn't tell me you had another Seagraves."

He was speaking of former Dudley fullback-linebacker Dell Seagraves, now a starting linebacker for Pittsburgh.

Eure is destined to follow Seagraves into college. He has heard from ACC schools but said he'd like to attend North Carolina A&T and play for Bill Hayes.

"It's not too far from home and they've got a good program," he said.

Eure sometimes marvels that he is even playing football. After performing well during his youth league days, his career suddenly stopped dead in its tracks.

As a seventh grader at North Davie Junior High, he complained of his legs hurting when he walked.

"I was real bowl-legged," he said. He was forced to have an osteotomy, a surgical operation of dividing a bone or cutting out a piece of a bone.

"They broke both my legs."

Eure said. "I didn't think I'd be able to play again."

Casts were placed on his legs for around five months and extensive rehabilitation followed. He didn't play football in the seventh or eighth grade but did play basketball as an eighth grader. He finally got back on the field as a freshman. He has had no further trouble.

While he has some hard hits to his credit, Eure said he likes offense better. "Once I get the ball in my hands and the blocking does its job, it's just me and my choice of where to go."

He proved his durability in one drive against West Forsyth's vaunted defense. Down 24-0, Eure carried the ball 12 of 13 times on an 87-yard scoring drive. Among the runs was a 31-yard romp and he finished with 100 yards rushing, the only player to reach triple figures against the Titans last season.

"At first, I was tired," Eure said, "but then, I realized it was something I just had to do. I love to run with the ball."

Now, he wants his team to do something good against West —

'Waiting It Out'

Duncan Had To Wait For Releases On Knee, Heart Before He Could Suit Up For Davie

Kyle Duncan was stunned. He had heard of Reggie Lewis of the Boston Celtics dying of a heart condition. But him? Kept out of sports because of his heart?

With the first game approaching, Duncan, a senior, is running in shorts. He isn't practicing in pads, doing something he loves — creaming opposing runners. It's hard to do that carrying a heart monitor.

All of this occurred because of a knee injury suffered while playing basketball.

Confused? Duncan explains. "I was playing basketball at Tanglewood about a month and a half ago," he said. "I jumped and when I came down, my knee popped. I couldn't walk on it. I went home. It didn't start swelling until the next morning. I had sprained it."

He was given medicine that upset his stomach.

"I had a reaction to it," he said. "It gave me an irregular heartbeat."

That isn't the type of thing a player like Duncan wants to hear. The 5-11, 200-pound hulk wanted to play football. He wanted to hit people and make it hurt.

"I was scared," he said. "I wanted to make sure it was okay. That's why I went to get tested. I didn't know what to think. But the doctor said he'd call me if it was anything major — and he hasn't so I feel a lot better about it."

The days of taking medicine for his knee, stomach and heart are apparently over.

"I still have to wait for a release," he said. "I've already gotten a release on my knee."

So it appears the dream of playing football will continue. He has been playing since the seventh grade when his family moved here from Florida.

"The thing I like best about football is the contact and seeing everybody playing as a team," he said. "It's fun."

But when he gets that one good hit, there's nothing like it.

"On kickoffs, I like to open-field tackle somebody," he said. "I forgot who it was against last year, but I gave somebody a real good shot."

Laughing, he added, "It about knocked the wind out of me."

Playing linebacker is what Duncan wants to do when he finally puts on the pads.

"I didn't get to play it last year," he said. "I played defensive end. Hopefully, I'll get to this year. But I'll play anywhere."

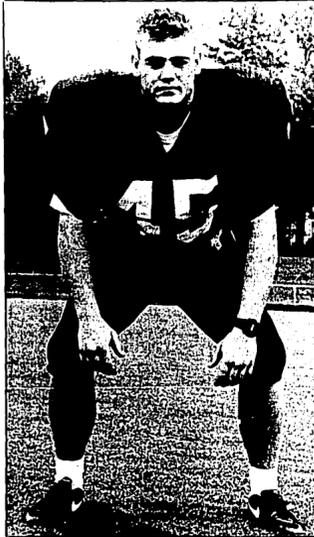

He never mentioned it but he is a pretty fair fullback when given the chance. He started in junior high for undefeated teams but has not run much during his high school days.

Even last year, although running only six times, he still covered 88 yards, a 14.2 average.

One of the runs came in the South Rowan game, where he took a handoff 62 yards up the middle for a score.

He is also a good kicker. He booted field goals in the first

'Center Of Attention'

Bryant Likes Touching The Football First

There are two plays from the 1992 Davie County High School football season that stick out in Darrell Bryant's mind. They aren't memories from the scrapbook.

The first occurred in the third period of the opener against West Rowan. Bryant, Davie's center, remembers a play going to the outside as he tried to block a defender.

"I grabbed a safety and I fell — and then he kicked me in the helmet," Bryant said. "I pushed him off and he got in my face. I don't remember exactly what happened then. I was going back to the huddle and a referee patted me on the side and said, 'Son, see ya, you're out.'"

The second occurred in a 25-16 win over Dudley.

"I drove my man back and somebody hit my from behind," he said. "I fell and heard a pop. I fractured my arm."

Even today, the long, ugly scar is a constant reminder that playing center is not for the weak of heart.

"Can Anybody Center?"

It appears to be an accident that Bryant is even playing the position.

Bryant's family moved from Pitsboro to Lenoir to finally Mocksville, only three days before practice in his sophomore year.

"Coach asked, 'Can anybody center the ball?' Matt Sluder was the only one to go up there so I thought I'd jump in on this. After a couple of games, it grew on me."

Davie's line coach David Hunt wasn't surprised Bryant could adapt to the position.

"He's got real good feet," Hunt praised. "He's a better athlete than a lot of people think."

Hunt told of the time Bryant picked up a ball and threw it 50 yards in the air with ease.

His throwing won't help Davie this year. His centering and blocking will. And although the center gets less media attention than the quarterback, he's still fond of his spot.

"I like being in the middle of everything," said Bryant. "I'm the first to touch the ball. It gives my mom and dad a thrill.

"Coach Hunt gave us a piece of paper that said no matter what we do, we're not going to get our name in the newspaper. He gives us a hard time about that. But as long as we get the win, it doesn't bother me."

Hunt said, "Their glory is to read about one of the backs. There's a lot less personal glory. A lineman has to put the team ahead of himself."

Bryant enjoyed playing with quarterback Bubba Coleman last year.

"Last season was real cool," he said. "Bubba had the big name. It's the greatest feeling in the world to get up off the ground with Bubba standing over you saying, 'Good block. I appreciate that. Way to go.' As far as satisfaction, that's all we're going to get."

Using His Head

What is it like to play center? "To me, it's knowing you have to get off the ball quickly," Bryant explained. "Generally, you'll have the biggest guy on the other team in front of you. He may not be the best, but he's the biggest. North Davidson had a guy like that. All I could do is throw my body

Corvin A Defensive Force

When anyone asks Todd Corvin how the Davie County football team will fare in 1993, he simply points back two years. "This is the same team we had when we won the championship as jayvees," he said. "We were 9-1 and now, everybody's bigger and stronger. We're going to be pretty good."

"How good?"

"I think we can win the conference," he said.

One player who is bigger and stronger is Corvin, who has grown an inch and gained 20 pounds. Line coach David Hunt likes what he sees.

"He'll do well through his head instead of physical prowess," Hunt said.

Corvin is one of only 11 players weighing over 200 pounds. But he's strong.

"I worked outside a lot on my uncle's farm," he said. "I'm in pretty good shape."

Hunt said smarts will help.

"He's a smart kid," Hunt said. "He can outthink his man. His technique is better than the ordinary kid."

Corvin will probably start on both sides of the ball but he knows where he'd rather be.

"I like defense a lot," the 6-3, 208-pounder said. "You get to use your body more. Offense is too restricted. You can't use your hands."

On offense, there is also little satisfaction for a lineman.

"When a back has scored a touchdown, he'll come back over and tell you thanks. But most people who go to high school know you and know where you play."

Corvin and Hunt enjoy each other's company — sort of.

"He's pretty good," Corvin said with a smile. "We have our conflicts sometimes because we like to pick on each other."

Hunt may joke with his linemen, but he knows who can help him.

"Corvin's going to be a good high school tackle," he said.

A Transformation Occurs

Although Corvin thinks of himself as a rah-rah guy now and then, he talks softly most of the time, that is, until he hits the gridiron.

"When I get on the football field, I'm a different person," he said. "I change somehow. I get more aggressive. I'm real competitive and I have a lot of willpower. I don't like to lose."

Davie is going into a new conference and Corvin has heard fans say the War Eagles will do well.

"People say it's going to be easy but some of those country boys from Starnount are pretty big," he said.

"But I'm glad we're in a new conference. I didn't like going to Greensboro. It was just too long of a trip. It would wear you out."

However, he won't forget last year when he was a part of victories over Dudley and Grimsley.

"Beating those Greensboro schools was fun," he said. "They like to run their mouths a lot. I'd like to play them again — so we can beat them again."

Corvin also plays baseball for Hunt but says there is no comparison between the two sports.

"Football is my favorite sport, by far," he said. "The more contact I get, the better it is. In baseball, there isn't much contact."

Small colleges have contacted him.

"I'd like to play in college somewhere," he said. "I'd also like to get into pre-med."

Corvin doesn't want to hear somebody say he is too small to make it as a lineman.

"If somebody tells me I can't do something, I like to prove them wrong."

He also has a goal for his senior year.

"I want to make all-conference on one side of the ball," he said.

Don't tell him he can't, okay?

Variety Of Sports Keep Cuthrell In Shape

Some coaches worry all summer about what kind of shape their players will be in once preseason camp begins.

Davie County coach Randall Ward didn't have to worry about Hamilton Cuthrell.

Whether it is gymnastics, lifting weights, track or karate, Cuthrell is going to stay busy.

Track appears to be his claim to fame. He was sixth in the state last year during the 4-A meet in Chapel Hill. He has run a personal best 10.4.

He could rejoin the gymnastics fraternity after high school. That was his first love. Even karate is something he excels in.

One might think football is last on the list, considering he never played until his freshman year. But don't tell that to Duke, Wake Forest, Appalachian State or Western Carolina, among others. They all want Cuthrell.

"I've heard from a lot of them," the Davie County senior tailback said. "I've received a lot of letters. They want me as a good student-athlete."

But which sport does Cuthrell enjoy the most?

"It all depends on what comes next," he said.

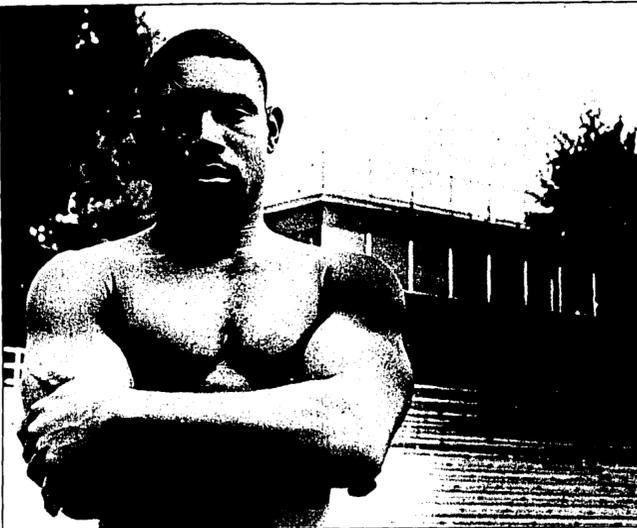

Cuthrell didn't even make the first week of practice. He was busy running in AAU Junior Olympics. He placed third nationally in the 400 relay.

But now he says, "I'm ready to concentrate on football."

Football was just as easy for him to master as his other activities. His family moved to Davie County at the start of his freshman year at North Davie Junior High. He had never put on the pads while at Wiley Junior High in Winston-Salem. That school had no athletic program.

"At the time, I was in gymnastics but I was in a rut," he said. "Football looked fun and I had always wanted to play. I thought I'd do it on a trial basis. But I excelled."

His first game was against arch-rival South Davie and it was a slow beginning. "But once I went to practice, Jared (Eure) and the other guys told me not to worry about it. The second game, the nervousness wore off. Everybody on the team became like my brothers."

He has improved each year since. Several times last season, Cuthrell thrilled the fans with his blazing speed.

"Track helps by keeping me in shape," he said. "I can practice on my strides, make them longer and cover more ground."

Cuthrell said there's nothing like being in the open field.

"It gets real quiet," he said. "It's like nobody else is on the field but me. All I have to do is cross the line."

Getting into track was an accident.

"I was eight years old," he remembered. "Me and my brother were hanging around the house bored. My sister wanted to try track so my dad started kidding us about going out there. We thought why not? My dad said we wouldn't stick with it for long. But we beat everybody we ran against."

"I stopped for about five years until I ran for North Davie. I was first in my first race so I kept running."

Cuthrell was the Central Piedmont Conference's Player of the Year but his sixth place state meet finish hurt.

"The minute is over. I was devastated," he said. "But later, I figured I did have a pretty good school year. It was just somebody else's time to shine. I had one more year."

Now, football is on his mind, and like track, he has goals in that sport too.

"I want to help us get a winning season and put Davie on the map," Cuthrell said. "I think we're underestimated."

"We're underdogs so there won't be any pressure. When you're number one, everybody is saying, 'Wow,' but as underdogs, you don't worry about what people say. We're going to have fun playing."

Karate is just something else Cuthrell says helps him focus in on football.

"It helps my concentration and flexibility, which is good for running the football," he explained.

He'll now join Eure to form perhaps the best backfield in the CPC this fall. And he hopes it leads to a college scholarship.

"I want to go to college and fulfill my potential," he said.

He just hopes that whatever college that may be, it has enough sports to keep him active year-round.

Cuthrell is the type that has to stay busy.

Agrillo Following Father, Brother

Davie County's top three linebackers this season are Jared Eure, Kyle Duncan and Michael Agrillo.

The only difference is that Eure and Duncan look like linebackers. They appear to be brawny and tough. You look at them and think, "Now, that's a linebacker."

And then, there is Agrillo, who stands 5-11 and weighs 182. With no shirt on, he isn't going to scare many people. He looks too light for the position. But put on the pads and send him after a ballcarrier and it is another story.

"I'm quick and stay low to the ground," he said. "That's what you need. The coaches like it. They want a low, quick game."

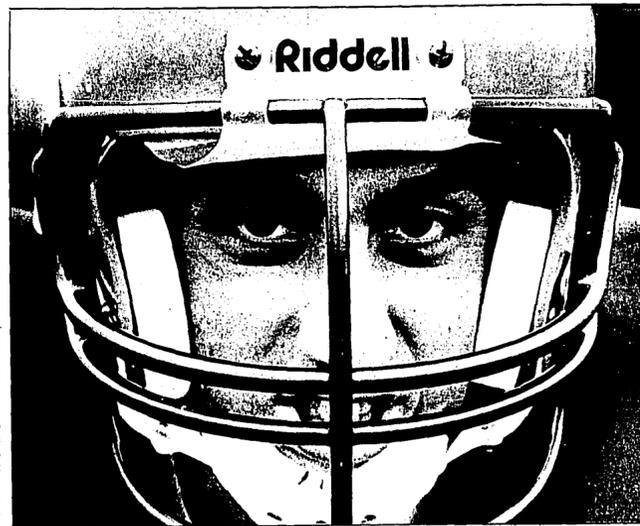

Last season, Agrillo played defensive end but always seemed to be in on the tackle.

"I guess I was in the right place at the right time," he said. "I was just lucky, I guess."

Or maybe it was the family tradition of finding ballcarriers and making the big hit.

His father was a noseguard for Norwich University in New Hampshire. And only five years ago, brother Paul was a senior linebacker for Davie.

Paul and my dad both give me pointers — during and after the game," Agrillo said. He can still remember his older brother playing back in the 1987-88 seasons.

War Eagle opponents will get an up close and personal look at Davie linebacker Michael Agrillo this season.

"I never missed a game," he said. "He was an outside linebacker like me."

Agrillo also managed to snatch the same number (53) as Paul.

"It feels kind of weird," he said.

He would like to accomplish a feat his brother's team never could. He wants to play in the postseason. The War Eagles haven't made it since 1984, when the school was still J-A.

"I think we're definitely going to the state playoffs," he said. "We may not have as many out this year but everyone is working together and they want to play. Nobody is loafing. Everybody is hustling. Everyone is real friendly too.

There's no little groups. We do things together."

It was six years ago when the Agrillos moved from Long Island, N.Y. Football was as foreign as grits.

"In New York, they played but it was too far from where I lived," he said.

He had to get used to many things as a sixth grader, one being a new sport (football with the Lewisville Titans), new friends and new food.

"I never had grits until I came down here," he said. "Pinto beans — I still don't eat them. I never had iced tea but I drink it all the time now."

Thinking a minute, he mused. "I'm used to everything now. Yeah, I'm a southern boy."

And a southern boy in Davie County means one thing: wanting to beat West Forsyth.

"I played with those boys on the Titans," he said. "I grew up with them. They never talk trash but they do want to line up against me like the old days."

A word of advice to his former adversaries: Agrillo may not be the biggest linebacker Davie puts out on the field — but don't take him lightly.

Ward Happy With The Big Numbers On Jayvee Team

What more could Randall Ward ask for? His Jayvee team is packed with 37 players, including 16 freshmen.

"I feel real good about the Jayvees," he said. "We have a good blend of sophomores and freshmen."

Leading the way could be quarterback Neil Cornatzer, a sophomore who played almost the entire season in 1992 after an injury to Josh Ward. He got valuable experience as a freshman.

But Ward may bring him up to the varsity, if that happens. Andy Ward, another freshman, could get the starting nod.

Running backs include James Clement, Shawn White, Clipper Garwood, Dustin Allen, David Daye, Frankie Tatum, Shane Campbell, Justin Foster, Damian Lewis and Eric Bracken. Six of those are freshmen.

Clement will be the leader of that group. Ward said the sophomore has grown bigger, stronger and has speed and power.

Top linemen will be Sam Griffin, Derek Foster and Jason Boger. Griffin and Boger each weigh around 215 while Foster is 180.

Other linemen who will contribute are Paul Keeton, Jake Marion, Brian Moore, Derrick Dulin, Chris Meacham, Dusty Smith, Chris Martin, David Koontz and Allee Boyce.

The line has plenty of size. Moore is the largest at 230 while Dulin stands in at 213. Boyce, only a freshman, is already 6-3, 190. All told, 12 players weigh at least 175.

Among the wide receivers are Josh Nail, Tommy Andrade, Jason Harbour, Zach Stokes, Ted Simmons, Chuck Jones, Kevin Boger, Alan Lakey, Eric Eaton, Jon Walsler and Tee Bahusson.

Tight ends are Chris Dinkins, Seth Newman and Jason Murphy.

Several players will go both ways but the defensive setup is still being determined.

"In order to build," he explained, "you've got to have a good foundation. We've got some good athletes on the Jayvee team and we hope to continue it right up through the varsity. These boys are working hard."

Cantrell Quickly Goes From Field To The Sidelines

Brian Cantrell, Davie County High School's first-year football coach, remembers his first practice.

"It was the first time I've been on the opposite side of the ball and the first time I'd done the coaching instead of running my tail off. "It was a learning experience. "I basically just walked around and got the feel of everything."

Cantrell

There are a lot of firsts for the 24-year old, just out of Western Carolina University. When he accepted Davie's offer to teach on a Tuesday, he was here by the next afternoon. It was the first time he'd been out of the western North Carolina mountains.

"This is my first time away," he said. Cantrell attended Edinville High School near Hendersonville, which had only 500 students. Cantrell was one of the athletic "stars," playing football, basketball and track. Edinville played larger schools so Davie's 1,000-plus student body isn't intimidating.

"We played bigger schools like Brevard, so I'm used to schools like Davie," he said. "I'm ready to go. I've met all the coaches and liked everyone I met."

Cantrell will be in the "School-Within-A-School" program, teaching math. He may also coach basketball at one of the two junior highs. Math and coaching is exactly what he hoped to be involved with.

"I've wanted to be a math teacher and coach since the tenth grade," Cantrell said. "My coach and math teacher was one and the same. I've always wanted to work with kids and get into that team competition."

Now, he has his chance. When Davie visits North Iredell Friday night, the former high school receiver will be Davie receiver coach.

"I think being a receiver myself will be very helpful," he said. "I've come in pretty fresh. It wasn't that long ago that I was out there so I know what the players are going through."

Cantrell said he gets satisfaction from watching his players "strive to go that extra mile to succeed."

And how will he feel Friday night when he steps onto the field for the first time as a full-fledged coach?

"It will be different but I'm looking forward to it," he said. "I'm hoping to see my receivers do what they're supposed to and pull down some good catches."

And although going to a workout every day can make for some long days, it may still be better than when he was a player.

"I'm not as tired at the end of practice," he said with a grin.

The Coaches:

The following are profiles of the other Davie County coaches for the 1993 football season.

Randall Ward: Head coach....beginning his fifth year at Davie....15-26 career mark....former 1,000-yard rusher at Davie....received football scholarship to Wake Forest, where he was a member of Wake's only ACC title....made state playoffs in his first year at Davie....has had two winning seasons in CPC in his four years....Took West Rowan to two straight playoff appearances before coming to Davie....was assistant coach at Davie back in early 70s....teaches P.E. and health....also coaches golf.

David Hunt: Offensive line coach at offensive coordinator....beginning his 17th season at Davie....has also coached at 1-A Princeton before coming here....his baseball teams have won six of the last seven CPC titles, advancing to the 4-A semifinals this past spring....attended Appalachian State University....teaches history.

Cary Powers: Defensive back coach....beginning third season at Davie....was all-conference defensive back in high school at Asheboro....served in the Army....attended Appalachian State University....also coaches boys track.

Tim Shuford: Linebacker coach....beginning third year at Davie....played high school football at Statesville....attended Appalachian State University....teaches science....also coaches girls track.

Jerry Callison: Offensive back coach....beginning second year as Davie assistant, although he teaches at South Davie Junior High....spent several years as head coach on junior high level....attended West Virginia Tech....teaches math....also coaches basketball at South.

Jeff Ward: Defensive back coach....beginning his third year as volunteer assistant....former star and graduate at Davie....has coached successful teams at Shady Grove....attended Appalachian State University.

Devore Holman: Defensive line coach....beginning fourth year as volunteer assistant....was all-conference player at Davie....played in college at Winston-Salem State University.

David Gilbreath: Offensive line coach....beginning his second year as volunteer assistant....has coached basketball at North Davie....pastor at Eaton's Baptist Church....attended The Citadel.

Jim Lightler: Trainer....beginning second year in that position....played baseball at Ball State University and graduated from Southern Illinois University....has coached jayvee baseball team to three titles at Davie.

Home Away From Home

Walsler Likes The Rural Feel Of Davie County High School

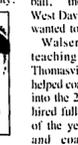

Jerry Walsler could take his pick of teaching positions this year. He chose Davie County.

"I had three or four choices," he said, "but the decision was based on the best placement for me. Davie County was the most similar to the background I came from."

In other words, a country boy has made sure he'll remain one.

"Davie is very similar to my high school (West Davidson), just bigger," he said. "The area and population are about the same and there are a lot of other factors. I enjoy a rural-type setting."

He also isn't far from his parents' home in Tyro, where he still lives. It isn't surprising he is in the coaching profession. His father was one

Walsler

Some of my first memories was being around the football field — with a ball and playing ball. — the 1987 graduate of West Davidson said. "It's all I wanted to do."

Walsler did his student teaching last year at Thomasville High, where he helped coach the Bulldogs deep into the 2-A playoffs. He was hired fulltime for the last half of the year, teaching English and coaching the jayvee baseball team to an 8-10 record.

The easy-going Walsler is perfect for his teaching position at Davie — the school-within-a-school program. It's something that needs patience.

"I'll be working with the at-risk kids, which gives them a head start to make the transition from middle school to the high school," he explained. "We want them to get off on the right foot. The type of student you're dealing with, well, most of the student body at Thomasville is that type of student."

And when Walsler sees a student achieve in the program, it makes everything he does worthwhile.

"It's unbelievable when one succeeds," Walsler said. "It's the equivalent of hitting for the cycle or scoring three touchdowns in a game."

"Coaching and teaching — there's no difference. So many people think coaching is hollering, screaming, cursing and kicking dirt. But that's not it. When you coach, you teach. If you coach wide receivers, for instance, why can't you coach World History?"

Walsler had the chance to coach in one of the most prestigious programs in the state last year at Thomasville. But he is already putting that out of his mind.

"It's memories I'll remember forever," he said, "but that's in the past. I'm in Davie County now. This is my future."

So far, he likes what he sees. "I've been very impressed with how things are done here. And the kids have shown exceptional effort."

Coaching is much harder than when he played at West, he said.

"As a player, you show up, put on your equipment, practice and leave," he said. "As a coach, you're there in the morning for pre-practice stuff, you practice, you stay after practice and see what you accomplish." ed, you think about what you need to do — and then go home, lie in bed and worry about it."

Being around coaching his entire life enabled him to see the other side of the profession, not just wins and losses.

"Things just have to fall in place," he said. "I didn't have to coach long to find that out. You have no control over it at all. Sometimes, it's better to be lucky than good."

Davie has never had much luck in football but Walsler said the 5-5 season in 1992 is something positive.

"I don't see why Davie can't continue building on the success it's had and get to the next level," he said.

as a defensive player, can also play well in the backfield.

"We have really good size there," Ward said. "Jared is 200, Han is 185 and Vaughn is 195. Duncan is around 200."

Ward has been alternating junior Deryl Wilson and sophomore Neal Cornatzer at quarterback. "It's one of those look-see things," he said. "We're real pleased with Deryl's development. As far as Neil, we haven't decided whether to bring him up (from the jayvees). But if we keep him, we want to use him."

Marnie Lewis, a senior, could also quarterback. After leading the jayvees to the CPC title as a sophomore, he sat out last year. "With him, he needs a lot of reps in practice," Ward said.

Ward's eagle back has to be the most versatile member of the backfield.

"He has to be a runner, a receiver and a good blocker," explained Ward. "He may be split out or put at tight end."

Ward is currently looking at Jerome Carter, Mark Mason and Shook.

"All three are looking good," he said. "Each one will give a type of strength to the program."

Receivers

Seniors Ron Armstrong, Mike Williams and Dujwan Jones, along with juniors Matt Sain and Richard Carter, are the wide receivers. Josh Ward, Scott Rumble, Lee Mollman and Justin Carter are the tight ends.

"Armstrong has real good hands and speed," Ward said, "and he's gained weight and strength. He'll do a good job. Williams has good hands too."

Jones is a first-year senior and Carter a first-year junior.

At tight end, Ward said he liked Carter's good hands and speed. Rumble is nursing an injured thumb. Ward has moved from quarterback to tight end and his 6-2 frame came in handy in the endowment game, where he caught two passes.

Mollman is one of the only sophomores on the varsity. He already stands 6-1, 190 and has good technique, according to the coach.

The Line

Ward said many of his linemen are interchangeable because they're all about the same size.

Returning is center Darrell Bryant, a 6-2, 200-pound center. He missed several games last year due to an arm injury.

Chris Cornatzer will be back. He has gained 25 pounds of muscle since last year and is creeping toward the 200 mark. Kevin Robertson, a 187-pound lineman, will also see action.

Tackles can be picked from Rodney Crotts, Michael Hunter, Steve Moore, Matt Sluder, Zack Graham, Kevin Caudle, Todd Carvin, Anthony Smith, Bryan Eagle and Mark Atwood.

Ward has only eight linemen over 200 pounds. Like Cornatzer, Moore has added strength and pounds, standing 222 pounds. Eagle at 250 pounds, and Smith at 240, are the largest players.

"These guys really work on technique," said Ward. "They're all hard workers. What they lack in size, they make up with determination."

"We're not real big," he said. "But we get off the football and get after people — and that's the name of the game."

sophomore.

"Starting helped him," said Ward. "He's got good strength — he's worked hard in that area."

Justin Carter, Tim Bracken and Kevin Robertson will be the defensive ends.

"Nobody is returning in that position," Ward said. "We moved Kevin there from linebacker."

The Linebackers

Eure, Agrillo and Duncan will be three of the top linebackers in the league. But while Eure and Duncan are big bodies, Agrillo is deceptive at 5-11, 182.

"Mike did a good job last year," Ward said. "He's a little bit sneaky but he always finds the ballcarrier."

Scott Rumble, Matt Sluder, Jonathan Vaughn and Jerome Carter are also linebackers.

Secondary

Junior Deryl Wilson may be on track for an all-conference season after starting all of last year. The aggressive hitter leads a secondary primarily made up of juniors.

One senior who will see plenty of action in the secondary is Ron Armstrong. He will be surrounded by Eric Shook, Wilson, Mark Mason, Matt Sain and Josh Ward.

Seniors Dujwan Jones and Marnie Lewis will also be defensive backs.

"Mason and Sain are real aggressive players," Ward said. "But if you're not aggressive, you could never play back there. You need to have that mentality of wanting to hit people."

Ward said his defense doesn't have as much experience as last year.

"We have moved players around and I'm pleased that they are accepting their roles," he said. "Now, we're adjusting to the positions. We have some good athletes."

Bryant

 experience. We loved the mountains. When we were going from Pittsboro to Lenoir, we always came through here. Mom and Dad fell in love with Mocksville. They really did. So we decided to move here. I think it's just great."

And he wants to make the most out of his final year of high school.

"I think we have a chance to go further than any team," he said. "Last year, we went 5-5 and everybody said that was really good. To me, well, I don't know about that. It was just borderline. I think we have a much better team so if we don't do really well, it will be a letdown."

"I think we're going to give them heck."

Bryant would love for a stroke of luck to hit him this year and have a college notice him.

"I'd love to go," he said. "I've looked at some colleges in Kentucky and Virginia. But I'm kinda on the small side. That could change. I could get super-big over my senior year — which is what I'm counting on."

Eure

 like win.

"They always talk junk about Davie," he said.

He will get a chance to knock heads with a former classmate in Brian Meyers, West's projected starting quarterback, who Eure said still lives in Davie County.

"Me and Brian used to be friends in the eighth grade at North but he moved away and has been talking junk ever since," Eure said. "I want to beat them. This is my last chance."

He thinks his last chance will be his best chance at the playoffs.

"We've got a good team," he said. "Last year, we did real well at 5-5. This year, we can be better and hopefully go to the state playoffs."

Davie coach Randall Ward likes that type of attitude from his team leader. And Eure thinks it's important for people to know what kind of leader he is.

"I'm not a rah-rah person," he said. "I like to lead with my pads."

Zac Everhart knows that all too well

Duncan

 two games of his varsity career as a sophomore although he has seldom kicked since.

But he knows where his real position is — middle linebacker.

"I like to be stuck right in the middle," he said with a big grin.

So he's doing his best, running and cheering on his teammates while he waits for the release.

"I feel good," he said before the North Rowan scrimmage. "I'm just going all out. But it's hard not practicing. I will probably miss the scrimmage and the first game.

"I get out here whenever I can," he continued. "The last two weeks, I didn't do anything. I was at home sick."

Duncan said his knee is doing better.

"I'm running on it now. I'm just trying to stay in shape so I won't get behind. The coaches said I had to earn my spot."

It appears Duncan will be out on the field sooner or later. And that's better than not being out there at all.

"I don't know what I'd have done if I couldn't play," he said.

Yesterday's Heroes

1965: Davie County's Most Glorious Season

Remember when Earl Shoaf scored the only run to beat Billy Champion and win a state baseball championship for pitcher John Parker and Davie County?

People probably think that was Shoaf's greatest sports moment.

Think again. Shoaf, as well as 31 other teammates, will say the greatest thing to ever happen to them while at Davie County High School was the 1965 football team.

For a school that has never enjoyed very much success in the sport, this was the pinnacle. The Rebels — as they were called then — went undefeated in the regular season. The defense gave up only 26 points in those 10 games. The offense scored 368.

That's an average final score of 36-2, folks.

The team had three players receiving postseason honors. Receiver Ronnie Foster went to the Shrine Bowl. Ronnie Spry went to the East-West Game. And Shoaf started at quarterback in the North-South Classic.

Just mention the season to any of those players and they're full of stories. Last week, for instance, Mike Carter, a member of the team, talked about his scrapbook, check-full of articles from Davie's most glorious season.

That doesn't surprise Shoaf. He said his mother always kept a scrapbook, too. Everybody did.

"It was wonderful," Shoaf said recently. "The greatest thing in the world was going to the restaurants on Saturday, the day after a game."

"We Knew It Right Then" Shoaf said all of the players on the 1965 team knew they had a chance for a magical season in the third game against Mooresville.

"Even though it was early in the season, we knew that was the big game," said Shoaf, the team's quarterback.

Davie scored first but Nayrex Barnhardt broke his arm and was carried off the field. Mooresville eventually took a 7-6 lead.

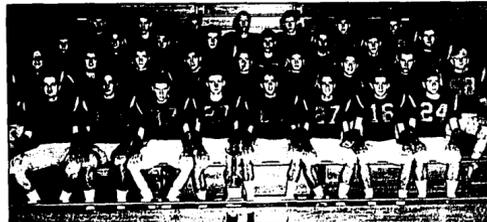

With time running out, coach Jack Ward pulled one of his famous trick plays. He ordered a hook-and-lateral.

"They ran that play to my side," said current Davie High coach Randall Ward.

"Ronald Beck was supposed to lateral to me but we couldn't pull it off. So Jack called it for the other side."

This time, it worked. Shoaf tossed a strike to Beck, who turned and lateraled to Donald Beck. He took it in for the score and the win.

"We knew it right then," Shoaf said. "We knew we could be real good. When Nayrex got hurt, that fired us up. We really wanted

nipped Chase in the second week, 6-0. But something happened after the third game. The Rebels were on one of those rolls. Please See 1965 — P. 8D

'Nub' Didn't Stop McCulloh From Playing

Carl McCulloh is adamant about two things. Call him "Nub" and don't feel sorry for him.

The nickname is self-explanatory. He was born with no left hand.

While he has never seen it as a handicap, others have. After finishing high school at Cooleemee in 1956, and a year at the local mill, he went to heavy equipment school. He wanted to operate a bulldozer.

"There's the first time they looked at the hand," he said last week from his Edgewood Circle home. "They said I couldn't do it. If a contractor doesn't know you, he won't give you a chance."

The football field was a different story. McCulloh jokes that the nub actually was pretty helpful.

"One thing about it," he said with a sly grin, "they could never call me for holding." Good Teams Even without a left hand, Cooleemee coach Jack Ward saw a ballplayer in the making. He allowed McCulloh to practice with the varsity as an eighth grader, a real honor back in those days.

"I never really thought about the nub," he said, "since I was born this way. Coach Ward never looked at it as something that could keep me from playing. There wasn't any special treatment. I was like anybody else on the team. I just went out and played as hard as I could and saw how hard I could make those pads pop."

McCulloh anchored the defensive line on a 1955 Cooleemee team that will go down as one of the county's best-ever. He weighed around 215 pounds, which was huge for that time period.

"Our line averaged at least 200," he said. "Big Ed Holland weighed about what I did."

McCulloh had trouble finding a uniform to fit him.

"I had to wear canvas pants," he laughed. "That was rough. Several games, I didn't play in a regular uniform." After he helped lead Cooleemee over Northwest of Winston-Salem, 20-19, in the opener, Cooleemee won four straight by a combined score of 123-0.

"I recovered a lot of fumbles," McCulloh said. The Indians went on to nine straight victories, which brought the school's winning streak to 19. Thomasville then defeated Cooleemee in the final game, 6-0.

"It was really nothing more than a scrimmage," McCulloh said. "It didn't count against us in the conference."

McCulloh gave most of the credit for Cooleemee's success to Ward.

"Coach Ward was a darn good one," he said. "He told us if we wanted to play, we had to hustle because there was somebody on the side to take our place. I had to really work at it. But I only missed one game — when I hurt my knee.

I wanted to play and Jack wouldn't let me." The most satisfying win of his senior season was a 26-2 victory over Mocksville at Rich Park.

"It used to be a big rivalry," said McCulloh. "If you ever wanted a fight, just have a bunch of them come down here or a bunch of us go up there."

everybody's family worked in the mill. We were all alike. We were just Cooleemee people."

But playing for the high school was prestigious.

"When we'd go to a lot of places, they'd try to intimidate us," McCulloh said. "When we went to Boonville, they had markers on the field like a graveyard with our names on them. We won."

"Another time, we went to Troy. Now, we never went out there to hurt anybody but you know, things will happen. Several of their players went home with broken legs and broken arms. It wasn't deliberate. We just played hard ball."

"But at one time, Cooleemee was considered the best." McCulloh was asked if opposing teams ever talked junk to him because of his nub.

"No," he chuckled, "because we usually won. We were always talking junk to them instead of them talking to us."

What Happened?

CRASH LANDING

Wake Forest Coaches Never Gave Walker Fair Chance

BOONVILLE — Brocke Walker stood in centerfield at Rich Park almost every night during the summer of 1989. The world, it seemed, was his.

He had been drafted as a high school senior by the Milwaukee Brewers. He had already accepted a full football scholarship to Wake Forest. He was the darling of a Mocksville Legion baseball team that went all the way to the state championship series.

"I used to stand there looking at all those fans," he said, wearing a faraway look. "It was really great. I was hoping it would continue."

Four years later, he still carries hero status in this small Yadkin County community. He sat on the front porch of his parents' home recently, addressing his athletic career. Almost every sentence was cut short by the honking car horn of a passerby. He threw up his hand at every single one.

Yes, Brocke Walker is still king here — and always will be. Unfortunately, his gargantuan feats while at Starmount High School are now just memories.

Right now, he should be preparing for his fifth and final season as a Wake Forest quarterback.

Instead, his playing career appears over.

What happened? Walker really isn't sure. His demise was so sudden that even now, it is a blur. A year ago at this time, Walker saw himself as the starting quarterback for the retiring Bill Dooley. There were three other quarterbacks on the roster — incumbent Keith West, junior Jim Kemp and freshman Rusty LaRue. Although he was number two behind West, he felt it was his job to win.

Walker had always done well when given the opportunity. After a redshirt freshman season, he saw action in three games in 1990. In the spring, he went head-to-head with West. His team won the spring game as he threw for 125 yards, two touchdowns and — most importantly — no turnovers.

But West was still given the job in the fall of 1991. Walker saw action in six games, including a 7-for-11 afternoon against Northwestern, where he threw for 135 yards.

So last fall, when his redshirt junior season arrived, Walker was pumped.

"I stayed all summer working out and doing everything the coaches wanted," Walker said. "I passed all my running tests with superlatives. I was stronger — my arm was stronger."

But Walker was befuddled. A week into fall practice, his reps were being cut. In the team's second scrimmage at Groves Stadium, he was in on four plays while Kemp and Larue each got 15 snaps.

Walker questioned Deacon quarterback coach Jerry McMann.

"His exact words were, 'Someone has to get the short end of the stick.'"

Walker said. "He said they had made a calculated decision. We had too many quarterbacks. He said he wouldn't embarrass me by putting me on the scout team."

Walker still shudders at the confrontation.

"All along it was, 'We think you can do the job. You'll get your shot.' And when they got other people, they cut me short. He said, 'You're going from number two quarterback to number four. You're not going to get any reps in practice.' He made no bones about it."

McMann gave Walker another familiar speech, the one about being a good enough athlete to play another position. He wanted Walker to try out at wide receiver.

"I told him I thought that was bull," Walker said.

Walker had a viable option in baseball. He made sure his scholarship money was intact and left the football team.

"It all happened in three days," he marveled.

"Everything was going smoothly. I was looking forward to the season ... and just like that, I wasn't playing football anymore."

"I had talked to Coach Dooley," Walker said. "He said everything I wanted to hear to my face. He knew I was disgusted."

Wake coaches insisted they wanted him to be a part of the team — only at a different position.

"I said no. I was under the impression — given by them — that I'd get my shot at quarterback. I had done nothing wrong. On the stat sheet, I was equal or better than anybody I was battling with."

Walker did give receiving a try — for two days.

"But I wasn't happy getting up in the morning. I wasn't happy going to practice. Those are things I never thought I'd say."

When Wake opened the season at home in a loss to North Carolina, Walker was not on the sidelines. He was traveling to Western Carolina to watch brother Campy play.

He decided he'd play his final year of baseball in the spring and forget his final two years of football eligibility.

"I talked to Coach Dooley, my dad, and I prayed a lot but I felt that was best," Walker said.

The hard part was having two football roommates, including West. Harder still, was sitting through Wake's most successful season in two decades.

"There were nights it hurt deeply," he said. "I should've been a part of that but they didn't throw it in my face."

And then, Wake Forest received a bid to the Independence Bowl.

"Bow-bid night was tough," Walker said. "I'll remember it forever. They were calling home telling their parents to make plans for New Year's in Shreveport (La.). I wanted to be able to call home to my parents."

Walker didn't go to Shreveport and watch Wake pull out a heartstopping, 29-28 win over Oregon. He and fiancée Angie Stinson went to Atlanta for North Carolina's Peach Bowl win instead.

"To this day, I still haven't seen the tape of that game," he said.

Tougher still was facing his still-giddy, Starmount High School worshippers while watching brothers

Dustin and Denver play last fall.

He quickly grew weary of trying to explain what happened to his friends and neighbors.

"It was tough at first," he said. "Everyone would say, 'Why did you leave? We thought you'd do this or that.' It was awkward trying to explain it all at the first couple of Starmount games. I didn't want to tell the whole story because there was more than they knew was going on. I didn't want to sound like I was whining."

The Football Guru Speaks

Football Guru: Solomon Talks High School Football

Arnold Solomon, 53, of Kannapolis is the author of the annual North Carolina Prep News, a 112-page magazine exclusively directed toward prep football in this state. He also puts out a weekly high school football newsletter. He travels across the state studying the sport. Recently, he sat down with the Davie County Enterprise-Record to talk high school football.

Enterprise-Record: How did you get interested in high school football?

Arnold Solomon: "I became interested in entering newspaper football contests. I've always liked high school football. Anytime you go to a newsstand, you'll find everything you want on college and pro. So I thought I'd work on power ratings for high school football. I had done it before so I thought I had an advantage."

E-R: How do you determine power ratings?

Solomon: "They are developed by team strength and a great deal relies on the point spread the week before. People may ask, 'How can you rely on that? A team may have run up the score or have been upset.' But it tends to balance out over the course of a season. A team will get more points in my system by playing away. They can lose on the road and gain points, depending on who they play."

E-R: How much time goes into putting the North Carolina Prep News together?

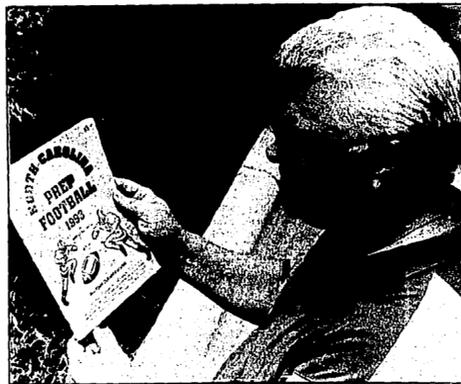

Solomon: "I send out my survey to all coaches in early January. I receive half of them by the end of that month. As it comes in, I get it ready. By the time I get all of the information compiled, I finish by mid-June."

E-R: How do the coaches respond?

Solomon: "Extremely well. Each year, it's getting better. This year, I was concerned. Because of realignment, some just didn't have their schedules yet. But once they started coming in, I surpassed the number I had last year."

E-R: Why did you up your Top 300 Seniors List to a Top 500?

Solomon: "One reason was that I got better response. They gave me more information this year. I tell the coaches to list all the players they feel can absolutely play some level of college ball. We didn't want somebody who would be wasting some recruiter's time. So they responded with players who could play at Notre Dame or Podunk U."

E-R: Your prognosticator, Freddie Farkel, is amazingly accurate in picking winners each week. Who is he?

Solomon: "It's a strange name I came up with about 12 years. In the newsletter I was doing, I wanted something eye-catching. So in my first newsletter, I called it 'Freddie Farkel's Fearless Friday Forecast.' He does the power ratings for the high schools. He's usually 80 percent right."

E-R: You have stated your pet-peeve is unsportsmanlike conduct and taunting. How bad has it gotten?

Solomon: "Extremely bad. You don't need to flaunt your abilities because 10 teammates helped you score that touchdown. I have seen it getting worse. The players try to mock what they see in college and pro. But the crowd sees it. They know who scored. To me, flaunting is rubbing it in on the other team."

E-R: How many games do you attend each fall?

Solomon: "Probably 15 to 20. I go to one every Friday. If you count the jayvee games, it's probably 30 to 40. I just enjoy the excitement and watching young kids improve. It's a joy to watch them as they progress."

E-R: Is there a favorite school or area you enjoy visiting?

Solomon: "I like going to the western part of the state. It's fabulous to look out at a dark, green, beautiful, grassy field with the mountains and a blue sky in the background. They are immaculate up there and do a great job with their fields."

E-R: Why do teams like Richmond County, Thomasville, Starmount and Kannapolis always win while a school like Davie County struggles?

Solomon: "Number one, it's become a tradition. Number two, they always seem to come up with the perfect coach for that area. How long has Allen Brown been at Thomasville? B.W. Holt has been at Starmount for a number of years. The towns live for high school football every fall, every Friday night!"

E-R: How special is it to watch football at a place like that?

Solomon: "It's absolutely special. They treat you like a king. I went to Edneyville to see a 1-A game. It was apple season. When I got there, they had a bushel of apples waiting on me. They knew I was coming. They're proud of where they live and football helps promote their community."

E-R: How does football bring a community together?

Solomon: "All we tend to hear about is racism. But if you go to a Friday night football

A Tale Of Two Coaches

Success Hasn't Made Sitterle Forget Davie County

CLEMSON, S.C. — Allen Sitterle began his high school coaching career at Davie County. In two years, his record was a mediocre 9-10.

Now, look at what he has accomplished in the 12 years since he left.

- He coached Charlotte Independence to a 22-8 record in three seasons.

- He coached Spartanburg (S.C.) High School to 63 wins in 78 games during a six-year tenure.

- He is 42-2 at Daniel High School over the last three seasons.

- He has coached four Shrine Bowl quarterbacks, including Mark Maye and Chip Ferguson.

- His teams have played in four South Carolina state championships. He has won the last two 3-A state titles at Daniel.

So no one should be surprised if Sitterle never, ever thought about Davie County.

But ironically, he says that with every victory, he thinks back to the 1979-80 seasons.

Sitterle says all of his accomplishments have been made possible by his beginning in Mocksville. While going 5-5 and 4-6, he learned how much he didn't know.

"I was loud," said the former offensive lineman at N.C. State and in the World and Canadian football leagues. "After going through the college and pro situation, high school was so different. I really didn't have a good concept of what I wanted to do. I walked into a situation and wasn't ready to handle it."

The 26-year old Sitterle found only 23 varsity players and no jayvee team.

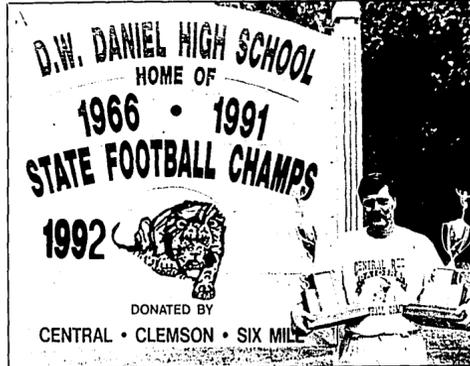

"I remember coming in the first day and looking at the rosters," he said. "I thought a school with 1,000 students would have more players. The first year was a struggle. But we did manage to get 25 on the varsity, 18 on the jayvees and 57 ninth graders."

Sitterle enjoyed quick success, going 3-0 before losing five of the final seven. Injuries curtailed the talent, taking out quarterback Scott Pratt, among others.

"Actually, I thought that was a great season," he said. "But we knew we had a lean class of seniors coming back in 1980."

Again, Davie began 3-0. After improving to 4-2, the team lost four straight by an average margin of 22 points.

For a person who had always been successful in the sport, the losses were hard for the sometimes-volatile Sitterle to handle.

"I tried to do too much," he said. "You think you know everything but you don't. I see people wanting to be a head coach at 24, 25 years old. I shake my head and tell them they're crazy. You have to pay the price."

"Because I played, I had limited coaching experience. Most get into it at 21. I started at 25. There's a big difference in coaching and playing. As a player, you're told how to do it, you see how to do it — but you don't understand all the techniques until you teach it yourself."

He leaned on athletic director Bill Peeler.

"I'll always have a lot of affection for him," Sitterle said. "Everyone I did something wrong, Coach Peeler was always able to put his arm around me. He had been a head coach. He understood the pressures. Bill was great to be around."

Sitterle said his biggest enjoyment here were the people and the lifestyle.

"I'm an inner city kid from Pittsburgh," he said. "This was so different, so much slower pace of life. We loved it. There was a big farm behind our home with cows, practically in our backyard."

As much as he loved the rural setting, by 1981, he was gone, taking the job at Charlotte Independence, which had never produced a winning season. With the help of Maye and Ferguson, Sitterle went 6-4, 7-3 and 9-1. Maye's teams were exciting. Final scores of 49-48 or 40-39 were not uncommon.

But again, the thing Sitterle remembers most involves Davie County fans.

"My first game in Charlotte, I came out for warmups and there were about 50 people from Davie County there. I thought that was unbelievable. They were such nice people."

Sitterle continued moving south, taking a job in Spartanburg in 1984, where he stayed for six years. He made two state finals, losing both.

'B.W.'s Team'

Holt Has Molded Starmount's Rams Into 2-A Powerhouse

There's a problem with the Starmount High School football team. But it has nothing to do with the coaches, the players or the fans.

It has to do with just getting to the stadium to watch the team.

Ask anyone from the school and directions vary. Go down 421, you're told. Turn on 21. Then find Longtown Road. Regardless of how you go, he prepared to drive through a dark, secluded forest. You wonder if there can possibly be a school way out here in the woods of western Yadkin County.

Ask Ram coach B.W. Holt and his directions are more simple.

"Just follow the stars."

Those stars, painted by the school's cheerleaders on Longtown Road, cover about three miles. You finally come up a hill where the stadium lights beam over the treetops.

Getting there is the hard part. Once you've taken a seat in the stands, the easy part comes — watching one of the state's top 2-A programs.

"We're kinda hard to find," admitted Holt, Starmount's 14-year veteran coach. "We're out in the boonies a little bit."

But when it comes to winning football, Starmount is Main Street USA.

A newspaper once wrote that Holt "epitomizes what a high school coach is." He is a large man who stalks, not walks. His furrowed brow commands respect. His gruff voice instills a will to win.

Kids want to play for this man.

"I picked up a freshman Monday and brought him to practice," Holt said recently from his substantial office, which takes up the entire top floor of the football pressbox. "He told me, 'Coach, I've always wanted to play for Starmount. I've got butterflies.' That made me feel pretty good."

When the player joined his teammates for the first practice, he heard the speech Holt gives every season.

"We feel like we can win the state championship," Holt tells the players. "If you don't believe in that, turn in your stuff right now and go home. We won't get mad at you. Don't come out here not believing."

Davie County sports fans have grown close to Holt and Starmount, considering many of the top Ram athletes play Legion ball here. They have watched the Brocke Walkers, the Chad Triplets and the Russ Hardens come in with a serious, winning attitude, thrust into their heads by Holt nine months before.

"If you can get it ingrained in them, that's a lot of it," Holt said.

On Sept. 10, they'll see another side of Holt, not the dotting father who watched his son, Stu, play baseball, but rather, a fiery football coach who won't accept losing.

He had that same attitude when he came to the Mocksville school 14 years ago.

"The thing that impressed me was when the superintendent said it had always been a football community," he said.

After coaching at Randolph, Southwestern Randolph and Franklinton, Holt had found a home.

He was 6-3-1 in his first season, "which was really scary," he said. After one losing season, he began a string of playoff appearances matched by few.

"I read where the schools with the most playoff vic-

While he was building the football program, he also built a family within the community. Starmount has only 600 students but the support encompasses much of Yadkin County.

He controls the county youth leagues, which have players from third grade through eighth. Every staff has at least two people that he coached in high school. He orders his assistant coaches to visit the games and speak to the kids and parents.

He also built the image of the program.

"If you think you're one of the top programs in North Carolina, that's why I went," he laughed. "But I've figured this out. To win a state championship, so much is just luck."

Whether luck or good football breeding, Sitterle has realized two straight titles at Daniel, which is located in the shadow of Clemson University. He has been there since 1990, recording seasons of 13-1, 15-0 and 14-1.

But why leave one of the state's largest schools for Daniel, which has only 600 students?

"It was a family decision," Sitterle says. "Spartanburg has a very high crime rate. The living conditions here are better. This is a beautiful area."

His outlook on winning has changed in 14 years.

"I told my 15-0 team they may be the greatest high school team ever. But I told them, 'I'll see if you're successful 20 years from now when I see what you're doing.'"

While Daniel may be in the shadow of Clemson, it isn't overshadowed.

"This is football country — it makes it easier to coach," he said. "From the time the boys are 12, they're selling concessions at the stadium. They've grown up around a big-time program at Clemson and look up to those players. We have two starters at Clemson now."

Is there pressure?

"Well, they're talking three-peat around here."

Even with his 136-35 career coaching mark, Sitterle isn't looking to leave Daniel. Wife Elaine likes the area. Daughter Jennifer, a junior, is a cheerleader. Daughter Bridgett, a sophomore, is the team trainer. And 11-year old Dylan is always hanging around the players.

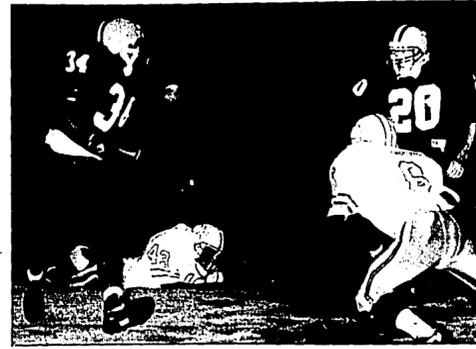

Sitterle said, "Daniel's motto is, 'Football is a family tradition.' And everyone wants to help anyway they can — just like it was back in Davie County."

Sitterle smiled.

"You know, I had my only losing season in Davie County but it changed me a lot just to get that opportunity. It was a real learning experience. There aren't many places you can go and make mistakes and still come out looking good. So I'll always have good memories of being there."

The Endowment Game

Jonathan Vaughters (34) takes a pitch from quarterback Neil Cornatzer (20). Vaughters scored Davie's only touchdown against West Rowan.

Lewis Wins Endowment Game

Marnie Lewis doesn't want to hear about any endowment fund or asterisk or stats that don't count.

To the Davie County senior, his team's last-second, 9-6 victory over West Rowan was just as satisfying.

Lewis made the most of Kevin Caudle's fumble recovery in the waning moments of Friday night's game. He booted a 32-yard field goal with only five seconds remaining Friday night for the winning points.

After quarterbacking the jaycee team to a 9-1 record and a Central Piedmont Conference title two seasons ago, he sat out in 1992. But he has now made the fans remember his name.

"The game depended on me," he said. "I was on the sidelines warming up and had a clear mind."

It was his first field goal attempt ever. It had plenty of distance but Lewis was holding his breath as the ball sailed toward the uprights. "I looked up and saw it hooking a little bit too much," he said. "I was like, 'Don't hook don't hook ... Yeah!'"

The kick brought an end to a game marred with nine turnovers, six by West Rowan. The contest was played on a field drenched by a pre-game downpour.

Rain Didn't Keep Fans Away

Even with the torrential rains, the fans came, which was good for both teams. The first annual Endowment Game sent half of the gate to the state association while the teams split the rest.

But the teams showed first-game jitters, tumbling the ball back and forth throughout.

West reached Davie's 16-yard line in the fourth quarter but defensive lineman Todd Corvin made a tackle and broke up a pass to snuff out the drive.

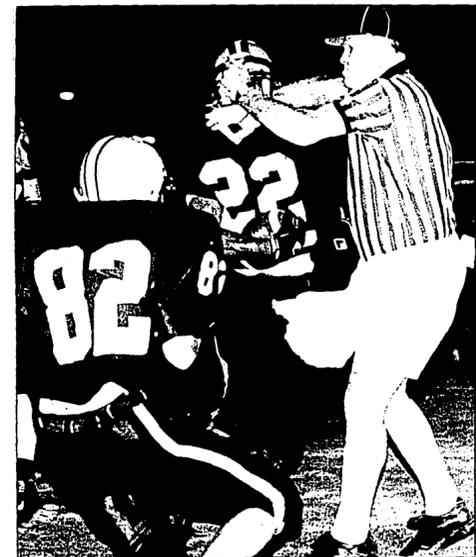

Both teams then began fumbling back and forth. With 3:15 remaining, a loose ball that put Davie in position to put the game away. But Eure fumbled it back on the West 11 with a minute left.

Then, Caudle pounced on the last one, setting up Lewis' heroics.

Lewis was happy, even when he was reminded the game didn't really count. "In my book it does," he said.

Lewis

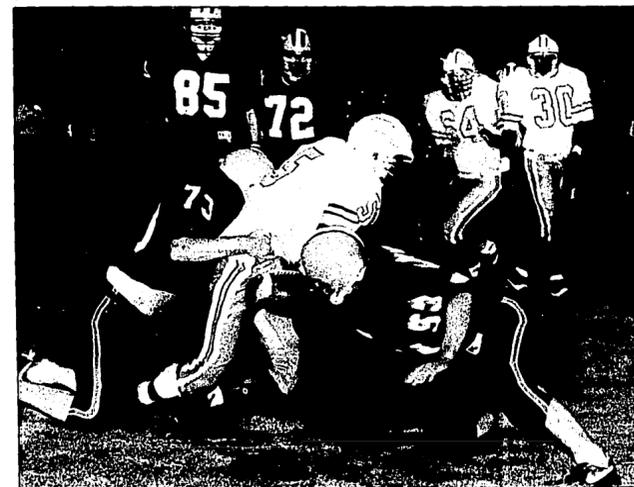

Jared Eure (22) finds an unwelcome guest in his path — the referee.

Even a win that doesn't count, like the Endowment Game, can make fans happy.

Amy Champ and Kim Beaver perform for the Davie High Band at halftime.

Todd Corvin (73) and Mike Agrillo (53) put the hit on this West Rowan player during Davie's 9-6 victory Friday.

'Another Kind Of Football'

Reznicek Will Replace Football With Rugby At Harvard

"Matt Reznicek played two seasons of football at Harvard University and called it quits.

But he'll still play football — sort of. "I think I'll go out for rugby this year," he said last week from his Mocksville home. "My roommate played it last year. It's like football without the pads."

"Football with the pads wasn't to Reznicek's liking since arriving on the the Massachusetts campus in 1991.

He first played on the freshman team, which finished 5-1 in the Ivy League. "I split time at defensive end," he said. "That's what I played my last year at Davie."

He still wasn't on the Crimson varsity as a sophomore, instead being one of many on the jayvee squad. But the team played only three games.

"There were so many people on the team that everybody only got in on a few series," he said.

"I just didn't enjoy last season too much. I'm not going to play this year."

While football may not have been pleasing, the college life of Harvard suited him just fine. The economic major has made friends from across the country.

He has had roommates from San Francisco, Chicago, New Jersey and Miami. That's okay with Reznicek, who has lived in Nebraska, Chiengo and North Carolina.

"It was nothing at all," he said of meeting students from vastly different backgrounds. "I just went up there, met some people and fit in."

One of his roommates tried out for Harvard's rugby team last year and his talk about the sport got Reznicek interested. Harvard was ranked third in the country last year.

The school has an A, B and C team so almost anyone can play. A hundred or more players may try out.

"They start you out on the C team and as you get better, they move you up," Reznicek said. "You just show up."

"I really don't know that much about the sport as far as the rules. It's European. They play it a lot in foreign countries."

Just because Reznicek has forgotten football, a sport he has excelled in since a youth, it doesn't mean he won't go back to school in shape. He has worked at Cow Creek Ranch all summer.

"They play rugby in the fall and the spring so it's something for me to do all year," he said. "But I've been to a couple of games and I can pick it up. I'm looking forward to it."

Reznicek

Greene Wants To Be Redshirted

As he has the previous two years of his college football career, Chad Greene knows he is the number two quarterback at Western Carolina University, behind senior Lonnie Galloway.

The junior from Forbush High School knows he will finally get his chance to start next year after Galloway graduates.

But he wants more than just one year of starting. So he is going to take a chance this season. "He wants to be redshirted."

"I know it doesn't happen much, but I hope I can," he said.

Greene, a former Legion baseball star in Mocksville, didn't redshirt his freshman season. In fact, he became the first freshman to start for Western since 1962. But it has been tough playing a reserve role.

"Midway through last year, I was getting frustrated," he said. "A lot of people don't realize it, but after two weeks in pre-season, I was ahead of Lonnie. Coach (Steve) Hodgkin talked about a rotation system — me and Lonnie knew that wouldn't work. I said, 'Lonnie's been here longer, let him start.'"

Hodgin called Greene in for a talk and said he would help him transfer if he wanted. It wasn't the first time that subject had come up.

"My whole freshman year, I thought about that," he said. "Due to injuries in 1991, he got to start against highly-touted Georgia Southern and was beaten, 28-0."

"After watching for three weeks with my arms folded, I was nervous," Greene said. "In the opener of his sophomore season, he played late, throwing touchdown passes of 67 and 32 yards in a 42-6 win over Mars Hill. But he played sparingly from that point as Galloway led Western to a 7-4 record. Only a 14-12 loss in the season finale kept it out of the playoffs.

But the Catamounts are favored to win the Southern Conference this fall.

"Everybody's real excited," said Greene, just back from spending the summer in Myrtle Beach, S.C. "We won't surprise people this year. I hope nobody gets the bighead."

Greene said Cullowhee is the place to be in 1993.

"My freshman year, I'd look in the stands and it would be only half-full," he said. "Last year, when we played Marshall, it was really packed. We look for every game to be that way this year."

Greene credited the coaching staff, noting, "We're more stable. We've had the same coaches four years. We have a real good relationship with Coach Hodgkin. He's a real nice guy."

Greene said he has improved dramatically since entering Western.

"My passing is a lot better," the 6-2, 195-pounder said. "I've just matured. I know when to throw it and where to throw it."

So if he feels so good about his game, why redshirt in his junior year?

"It will give me two years of starting," he said. "Greene said if Western is in the midst of a championship run and Galloway goes down to injury, he would gladly forget his redshirt status and head for the huddle.

"But if we're something like 2-8 and he gets hurt, I'll stay on the sidelines. It won't be hard doing that. I've done it for two years."

Greene has been working out at Forbush and working with the quarterbacks. There is no comparison between college and high school, he said.

"In high school, if you get into the secondary, that's it. You're going to score. But in college, the defense is quicker. Defensive linemen can run you down."

Greene began rifling through the Forbush field and grinned.

"I'd love to get back out here knowing half the stuff I know now," he said.

Chaffin Is Wingate's Top Senior Lineman

Below are sketches of college football players with Davie County ties:

Kendall Chaffin
Wingate
Sr. Offensive Lineman
(6-4, 270)

Was one of five players from Davie at Wingate two years ago (joining Stan Blair, Billy Blackwelder, Dale Parrish and Gary Blalock). He is the only one left. He moved from defensive to offensive line as a sophomore and started. Last season was an all SAC-8 lineman for Steve Wilk's Bulldogs. Stands 6-4, 270 pounds. He is expecting to have his best season and is one of the leaders on the team. Wingate is predicted to finish in the middle of the pack.

Kevin Goolsby
N.C. A&T
Fr., Offensive Lineman
(6-4, 300)

Goolsby received a full scholarship to the most successful team in the MEAC. He stands 6-4, 300 pounds and will play for Aggie coach Bill Hayes, formerly of Winston-Salem State. Goolsby was a two-year starter for Randall Ward and played both sides of the ball. He was the biggest player in the Central Piedmont Conference last year. No word on what side of the line he'll play or whether he will be redshirted.

Gerald Roberts
N.C. A&T
Fr., Wide Receiver
(6-1, 165)

Roberts has joined his high school teammate Goolsby on A&T's roster. He is a walk-on for Hayes. As a wide receiver for Davie last year, Roberts caught seven passes for 132 yards, including two for touchdowns. He averaged 18.4 yards per catch, second on the team. He was fourth in scoring with 20 points. He was also second on the team with two interceptions. Roberts has deceptive speed and good hands and could play before his career is over.

Corey Deese
N.C. A&T
Fr., Running Back
(6-1, 190)

Like Roberts, Deese is a walk-on at A&T. He is coming off a good senior season at Davie, where he was ranked high in many statistical categories. Deese the team's fourth leading rusher with 264 yards on only 51 carries, good for a 5.2 average. He averaged eight yards on three catches. He was one of Davie's hardest hitters and could play defense for Hayes. Coaches at Davie say Deese is practicing with the Aggies currently but may wait until spring practice to officially join the squad.

Gray Boverter
North Carolina
Soph., Wide Receiver
(6-1, 182)

The former Mocksville Legion star seems to have recovered from last year's anterior cruciate ligament injury, suffered in the first week of practice. He will back up Corey Holliday at split end. He was redshirted in 1991. He came from West Forsyth where he was a N.C. Top 30 player after a 45-catch-891-yard senior season. He has already made an impact this fall. In the first pre-season scrimmage last week, he caught a 43-yard scoring pass from quarterback Mike Thomas.

Stu Holt
North Carolina
Jr., Deep Snapper
(5-10, 220)

Holt is a non-scholarship player beginning his third season on Mick Brown's team. The former Mocksville Legion player from Starmount High School will be the team's deep snapper. He played for his father, B.W., lettering four times in football and baseball and three in wrestling. He had 84 tackles as a senior. He was a two-time all-conference player in football and baseball at Starmount. He is majoring in English.

Campy Walker
Western Carolina
Redshirt Fr., Safety
(6-0, 195)

Walker didn't play last season while being redshirted. He was recruited as a linebacker but is serving time in the defensive backfield while he works to get bigger and stronger. Going into this season, Walker is a second string safety who should see quality time for Steve Hodgkin on a Catamount team that is favored to win the Southern Conference. Walker was a quarterback in high school, leading Starmount to another 10-plus win season. He just finished his final year of eligibility with the Mocksville Legion team.

Walker

continued from P. 2D thing is the most overriding question. But at the time, I had football on the brain."

Walker did attend a Los Angeles Dodger camp this summer and was 2-for-2 in a simulated game. But the scout said there was no room in the organization.

So Walker has resigned himself to softball ("I've moved to the next level," he laughs) and looking for a job near Charlotte, where Stinson currently works. Walker has a degree in sociology with a concentration in business. Their wedding date is Feb. 5.

It is that degree that gives Walker satisfaction that he chose Wake Forest.

"I didn't make the wrong college choice," he said. "A degree from Wake Forest means something. And I made a lot of good friends. But there were goals that didn't get accomplished."

Those goals were not in the classroom but on the playing field.

"I was really ready last year," he said. "I knew the system, the caliber of competition and the people I was up against. I was confident I could get the job done."

A year later, the hurt and confusion of being treated unfairly — from his point of view — is still evident.

"It would have been different if I had looked at film or on paper and saw I wasn't making the grade," he said. "It would have been easier. But for them to reach into a hat, so to speak, and pull my name, well, it didn't sit well. It was all such a weird situation."

Brocke Walker enjoys the adulation the people of Booneville still give him. But if he is going to be a hero, he'd like to earn that right.

In his eyes, Wake Forest wouldn't let him.

Mount Tabor Favored In CPC Race

It may be considered the "new" Central Piedmont Conference this fall but in many eyes, it is an old face favored to win the 1993 championship. Despite many losses, West Forsyth is picked by many to take the title. But Bob Sapp's Mount Tabor team may have something to say about that. He actually has more talent returning from a 5-5 team.

Mount Tabor (4-3, 5-5): Sapp's enthusiasm brought a bit of pride back to a moribund football program. The school is even more pumped up this season, with 28 returning lettermen and a whopping 16 starters back, eight on each side of the ball.

Leading the way is 5-10, 200-pound fullback Laymarr Marshall, an all-conference runner in 1992. Bernard Cole, a senior running back also returns with quarterback Kyle Riddle, who should be the best passer in the league. When he throws, look for Bobby Jones to be on the receiving end. He started as a freshman last year.

Defensively, all-conference defensive back Daniel Webster is back, along with 5-2, 255-pound lineman Kelvin Jones and Mark Meir, who helped beat Davie last year with a fumble recovery for a score. Brothers Joey and Matt Ellison can play both sides of the ball. Both are 270 and Joey was all-conference last year.

West Forsyth (7-0, 9-3): Russell Stone's team will still be strong, despite the losses. Twenty-one lettermen return. Derek Cernak, a three-year starter, is the team leader. Brad Boverender should have his best receiving year after a 15 catch, 349-yard junior season. Rico Porter and DeCarlos West are speedsters. West had 580 yards and four scores last year.

Dee South will lead the defense. He had five interceptions in 1992. Linebacker Joey Douglas was in on 100 hits. David Fleischhauer was hurt in the second game last year but the 6-4, 228-pound junior should be an impact player. Danotric Scott and sophomore Kory Latham should help. Reynolds (2-5, 3-7): Dave McConnell will use Jonno Legins, a running back and secondary. Legins may be the best athlete in the league. He led the team in tackles, fumbles caused and interceptions.

Reynolds was only 3.7 but played three freshmen, five sophomores and eight juniors.

game, you'll find blacks, whites — and you'll find them as one. All of the politics are behind them. Football is a unifying factor. You get black, white, rich, poor, doctors, textile workers — they are one family and as I see it, sports is the only place that happens."

E-R: What are your thoughts on realignment?
Solomon: "It's very important to keep parity in sports. I don't know if we need to do it every four years. Six to eight years would be more realistic. Maybe even every five years. I really don't know how they come up with a particular number. But schools do change so much in a four-year period."

Solomon

E-R: Is there parity?

Solomon: "In the Foothills Conference there is. I was doing my power ratings and noticed that West Irdeell, the last place team, was only 10 points weaker than the first place team, South Irdeell. So it's there in some cases."

E-R: How has the NCHSAA helped with your magazine and newsletter?

Solomon: "They've been a tremendous help. They've never turned me down for anything. They know I'm trying to promote the sport. I talked to Rick Strunk and he said he has heard nothing but praise."

E-R: How has the media responded to your magazine and newsletter?

Solomon: "The only ones I've never heard anything from are the two TV stations in my backyard, Channel 3 and Channel 9 in Charlotte. They've never responded in any way, shape or form. However, from Concord eastward to Wilmington, I have received a great deal of praise. I've been on television and radio and had a lot of interviews, mainly by phone."

E-R: What is it like when the tables are turned and you are interviewed?

Solomon: "With all the phone calls, I think I got burned out last week. I don't look at myself as doing anything outstanding. I wanted to do something no one had before. It's helpful from the young kid just getting into football to the college recruiter."

E-R: What colleges get the N.C. Prep News and newsletter?

Solomon: "It goes as far west as Brigham Young. Some of the super powers like Oklahoma, Syracuse, Michigan State, Florida get it. All of the ACC teams except Florida State get it. Army and Navy are on the list ... Kent State, Cornell, so it's spreading."

E-R: How do schools like Oklahoma and BYU hear about it?

Solomon: "Some hear about it at the coaching clinic in Greensboro over the summer. That's where I've met most of the ACC coaches. I also send out a letter to every college in the United States that has football — major or small — to indicate what I have. How popular is it? We'll find out next year if they screw."

E-R: Is this a full-time job?

Solomon: "To a degree, it's become that. I did resign my position with a Charlotte firm. I'm in purchasing and I'm still looking for work. But the extra time was why I could expand it."

E-R: What's in the future?

Solomon: "I've thought about doing other things regarding football — more on the recruiting side. And I've thought about doing something with basketball."

1965

Over the final seven games, Davie never scored lower than 25 points:

- Monroe fell 40-0.
- West Rowan lost 63-6.
- Troutman was crushed 59-0.
- West Forsyth was no match, dropping a 33-0 decision.

By this time, Davie was ranked number one in the state. The 6-0 record and shutout over 4-A team would add to the team's reputation, right?

"I'll never forget this," Shoaf said. "We won big over a 4-A team and dropped to number three in the polls. Bunn beat somebody 14-12 and moved to number one. That was a letdown."

But it didn't stop this rumbling train of a football team:

- The Children's Home was beaten, 39-7.
- East Rowan lost 25-0.
- In the regular season finale, North Rowan's Cavaliers were annihilated, 57-0.

Davie County, in Ward's 10th season as coach, had finally given him and the school — and the community — its first championship.

"We had a few 7-3 seasons before 1965 but we had never been able to win the conference," Shoaf said. "But there were 19 seniors on that team. We knew we could do it."

Shoaf-To-Foster

Shoaf was the leader but wasn't a classic drop-back passer. He was short and ran much better.

"I wasn't a quarterback who threw a long way," he said, "but I was accurate. I'd just throw the ball short to Ronnie Foster. If it was anywhere near him, he'd catch it."

"I was better at the bootleg. I'd run or throw it to Ronnie. And we had a lot of trick plays."

Shoaf said the scores could have been even more astounding had Ward left his starters in.

"There were a lot of games the first string didn't play in the second half," he said. "We led West Rowan 50-0 at halftime. There's no telling what we could have done."

In fact, Shoaf liked playing defense better than quarterbacking.

"I really enjoyed playing linebacker," he said. "It's a lot better to hit somebody than to get hit."

The Playoff Game

The only thing Davie didn't accomplish was being the first team to win the school's first playoff game, a feat that still hasn't been realized.

"I had a fever of 102 degrees," Shoaf said. "I shouldn't have played. I kept getting sick and throwing up if I did it again, he'd throw me out of the game."

Davie trailed only 14-13 entering the fourth quarter but then Asheville exploded for two touchdowns and a 26-13 victory.

"They platooned," Shoaf sighed. "They were bringing bigger, fresher players on the field. We had 10 guys going both ways."

"I don't know what happened. A couple of fumbles hurt us. But that's the bad thing about the playoffs. Only one team is going to end the season on a good note."

Some of the players from that team stayed home to raise families. Others like Shoaf, who is in Raleigh, and Foster, who is on the North Carolina coast, moved away.

But they will always share that one common bond forever: they were part of Davie's most glorious football season in the history of the school.

"Everybody was really behind that team," Shoaf said fondly. "It was something that hadn't happened before."

Or since.

Jack Ward

said fondly. "It was something that hadn't happened before."

Or since.

Holt

Carolina, you need the facilities," he pointed out.

His office is proof of that. It has a grand view of the football field. There's a Ram's head mounted on the wall.

"I can name probably 20 people who helped build this," he said. "And many are parents whose kids aren't here anymore. College coaches come in here and say, 'Hey, this is nice.' I think people respect us a great deal."

Holt won't settle for his equipment to be anything but attractive either.

"About seven or eight years ago, we didn't have a logo," he said. "I didn't want a Ram on the helmet because it didn't look decent. It looked like a goat. So we went with the five-point star. The fans and players like that."

Those fans visit every Wednesday after practice and feed the players. Sometimes, there's 200 people enjoying a big cookout.

"We're a big family," Holt said. "Our athletes have made a lot of people happy around here."

Starnount made fans outside Bunnville happy in 1992. After years of 10-plus win seasons, the Rams finished 7-4, losing in the first round of the playoffs.

"Forbush beat us last year so we made some people on that end of the county happy," he said. "And we blew some others. So we have some debts to pay this year."

Holt

"We're a big family. Our athletes have made a lot of people happy around here."

B.W. Holt

With a hearty laugh, Holt said, "I can't believe I'm complaining about a 7-3 record. But at Starnount, that's not good. I might get fired if I have another 7-3 season."

It's doubtful that will happen. Holt is a staple in the community and already knows what type of talent he has coming up. "He already predicts eighth grader Tony Hill has the potential to be one of the best Starnount has ever had."

"I don't like word, 'rebuild,'" he said. "When people say that, they're already giving an excuse for losing."

There is another problem concerning Starnount's football team. Holt needs more bleachers.

For practice, Chris Charles, a talented quarterback at Elkin last year, has transferred in. One afternoon, he gasped when he saw about 75 people watching practice.

"What are all those people doing here," he asked Holt, who told him they were there to see him and his teammates.

Holt leaned back in his chair and smiled.

"We need bleachers and a concession stand just for practice," he said. "Those people out here are not all parents either. They are just people who follow Starnount football."

And how do all of the fans get there?

"Why, they follow the stars, naturally."

The Contest

It's Time For Your Favorite Contest!

The sports editor hates limited space in this newspaper. The reason is, it limits the space of which I can poke fun, berate, ridicule, tease and laugh in the face of the hundreds of Davie County Enterprise-Record football contest entrants.

Every year, you people bring the nation's toughest contest by assuring everyone in Davie County you will be the one to take $250 from the publisher's pocket by choosing all 18 games correctly.

And every year, you fail. We publicly try to humiliate you in the newspaper by giving you anything-but-illustrious awards and nicknames.

And you still come back for more! Those Titans are always good, aren't they? West by 6.

North Rowan at Kannapolis: Go with the home team on this one, Kannapolis by 4.

UNC vs. Southern Cal: Sorry John Robinson, you're gung down, UNC by 10.

Other winners: Reynolds, North Davidson, Eden Morehead, Mount Tabor, Lexington, South Iredell, Hickory, East Rowan, Concord, Burlington Cummings, West Montgomery, Starvation, Florida State.

The Games
I'll try. The sports editor was 226-94 last year.

Davie at North Iredell: These teams take turns beating each other. Last year North won, Davie by 3.

NC Calhoun at South Rowan: South matches its win total from last year, Smith by 7.

West Forsyth at Currier: Those Titans are always good, aren't they? West by 6.
