Man Guilty Of 2nd Degree Murder

Victim's Widow: 'I Want This Man To Think About My Husband Every Day'

By Jackie Seabolt
Davie County Enterprise Record

A grieving widow's letter written to her husband's killer was read in Tuesday's Superior Court session.

Todd Garner Ellis, 36, pleaded guilty to second degree murder and robbery with a dangerous weapon in the Aug. 22, 2006 slaying of Roosevelt Shaleive Williams, 37, of Winston-Salem.

Ellis entered the courtroom in shackles accompanied by his attorneys, Vince Rabil and David Freedman. After being sworn in Ellis told presiding Judge Steve A. Balog he did understand the charges against himself.

Prosecutor Greg Brown said that evidence would show that the victim, Williams, was reported as a missing person to the Winston-Salem Police Department by his wife on Aug. 23. After search and investigation by Davie Sheriff's officials and the SBI information was received by Ellis' brother after Ellis told him that he had shot a black male in the garage of his home at 295 Rhynehardt Road, Mocksville.

Ellis indicated that on Aug. 22 he had been in an on-again-off-again relationship with Vickie Lynn Steelman. Steelman told officials Williams was making a delivery of crack cocaine to the couple's home.

When Ellis came in Steelman and Williams were sitting beside each other and there was discussion of sex for exchange of additional drugs. "Mr. Ellis said when he walked in he saw Williams with Steelman with that his penis was out. He said he just snapped." Ellis had a .45 caliber gun which he unloaded into the body of Williams.

Ellis said Steelman then took Williams' wallet and the drugs. Ellis said that Steelman assisted in disposing of Williams' body by putting it on a couch, loading it onto a pickup, and leaving North Carolina. "They went to Virginia to an area familiar to Steelman from a previous relationship and left the body."

Ellis later took law officers to the body.

Steelman remains incarcerated on charges of robbery with a deadly weapon and accessory after the fact to a felony. Her case had not been heard yet.

Brown said Williams' widow was in the courthouse but did not wish to be present as he presented the facts of the case. "She has indicated she cannot speak but has given me a short letter to read."

Rabil told Balog there were several of Ellis' family members in the courtroom who had written letters on his behalf. He said Ellis had married when he was 19-years-old and worked and supported his family until he met Steelman. "Our client has no record. Ms. Steelman has a long record was well as the victim

Advance Man Faces Charges

By Jackie Seabolt
Davie County Enterprise Record

A man on parole for crimes in Georgia is in Davie Detention Center, charged with a number of felonies.

George Davidson Daniel "J.R." Shaw, 28, of 380 Potts Road, Advance was arrested Dec. 28 for first-degree burglaries, second-degree burglaries, larceny after breaking and entering, assault on a law enforcement officer inflicting serious injury, resisting a public officer, injury to real property, and three counts, selling giving beer to persons under 21.

Shaw

According to Davie Sheriff's Detective Lee Whitesides, he was called to assist third-shift officers around 7:50 a.m. on Dec. 28.

The night before, officers had responded to a report of property damage and burglary at a home on NC 801 South in Advance. According to Whitesides, the resident reported a man had broken a window and tried to gain entry into the home. The sound of the glass breaking woke the resident and she asked the burglar what he was doing. The man responded he was coming inside, then got scared and ran away, Whitesides said.

Officers patrolled the area and found an intoxicated Shaw nearby. Whitesides said that when an officer confronted Shaw he resisted and broke two of Deputy Kevin Barker's fingers on his left hand. Officers used minimum force to subdue Shaw, but he escaped and was later found nearby by a tracking team from the Department of Corrections.

Earlier that night officers responded to another burglary on Potts Please See Burglaries - Page 4

Students Face More Graduation Requirements

By Beth Cassidy
Davie County Enterprise Record

With the holiday break just over and the newness of high school just beginning to wear off, it might seem too early for ninth graders to start thinking about putting on the cap and gown.

But new graduation requirements mean planning is more crucial than ever. Students who entered high school in 2006 will face exit standards that are more rigorous than those in the past, said Ann Graham, director of testing and accountability for Davie County Schools. The standards, revised by the school board, will affect those in the career, college technical and college university preparation courses of study.

Students will be required to perform at or above an achievement level of III on five end-of-course tests, in Algebra I, biology, English I, civics and economics, and U.S. history. They must also complete a graduation project.

Graham said the revisions came about as a result of policy changes by the N.C. Department of Public Instruction and the State Board of Education. Those students in the occupational course of study do not have to meet the same requirements. Instead, they must meet the standards of the course of study they are taking, Graham said.

The graduation project is patterned after the culminating project recommended by the Please See Graduation - Page 4

Social Services Director Retires

By Jackie Seabolt
Davie County Enterprise Record

The field of social work has evolved tremendously in the last several years and one Davie woman has been witness to those changes first-hand.

Karen Smith has spent the last 38 years with Davie Social Services. She retired as its director at the end of last month but that doesn't mean Smith will ever stop being a social worker.

Smith's career began in 1968 when she applied for a job at DSS. "I applied as a social worker thinking I'd stay a couple of years, and here I am," she says.

She had just received her undergraduate degree in history from N.C. State where she had planned on becoming a history teacher. "After my student teaching I knew that wasn't for me. My roommate in college said I was always a social worker, I just didn't know it," Smith recalls.

After landing the job with DSS she went back to school at UNC Chapel Hill and received her masters degree in social work.

In 1976 she was promoted to supervisor. Then in 1993 she became director. "My whole career has been here."

But Smith is no stranger to Davie County. She grew up in the William R. Davie area and several family members still live there.

Smith has seen lots of changes in her line of work. She recalls when she began her job the population of Davie was probably not yet 20,000 and the area was definitely much more rural.

Back then the major problems her work dealt with were things like children without supervision or people not having enough to eat.

Today, domestic violence, substance abuse, and more serious issues are the ones facing those in social work. "Basically, the problems we dealt with when I first came here were a lot simpler than they are now."

Smith believes many families don't have a good support system like they once had. "Back in the

Some Changes You Might See In The New Year

We didn't twiddle our thumbs in 2006, and we don't plan to start in the New Year. The newspaper had a good year, and we have our readers and advertisers to thank for it.

We've got a few new things in store for 2007 — more use of color photos, two new editorial cartoonists and — at last, some would say — a Sudoku puzzle. We also want to do a better job with our obituaries. For that, we need your help.

Nationwide, newspaper readership may be shrinking, but not in Davie County. The Enterprise-Record broke through the 9,000 circulation barrier with a subscription campaign in the fall, adding about 260 new subscribers. In our best weeks, sales have hit 9,300.

Rack sales have always outpaced subscriptions, but the difference is no longer so large. Our subscriptions have topped 4,000 for the first time. We have had several subscription drives in recent years that targeted newcomers.

The county's growth has been an opportunity and a challenge. Newcomers may not know that reading the Enterprise-Record is a requirement of good citizenship. We haven't hesitated to tell them that we are part of their orientation to the county.

On the editorial page, we're living up to a commitment to change our cartoonist regularly. We subscribed to Glenn McCoy's cartoons for about two years. We are switching to two others, Stuart Carlson and Jack Higgins.

Carlson works for the Milwaukee Sentinel and was named the nation's best cartoonist in 1991 by the National Press Foundation. Higgins is a Pulitzer Prize winner and works for the Chicago Sun-Times.

Deeper inside, you will find a new Sudoku puzzle. Sudoku is the latest craze in newspapers. Created in Japan, the puzzles have become a staple of newspapers around the world. So why not here? Sudoku might not make you smarter, it might not lift the SAT scores at Davie High, but they are head-scratchers. Don't dismay if you have trouble with the puzzles. The editor can't do them, either.

Now for obituaries. The obituaries are among the most-read items in this and any newspaper. We're not satisfied that we're doing a good enough job with them. We need your help.

First, if your loved one dies, we want to publish a photo of him. It helps our readers identify him. Second, we want more information about the person — more than just the two or three sentences we have traditionally published. That's just not enough to sum up someone's life.

If your father dies, we want to know about the 20-pound catfish he caught, or his hole-in-one at Pudding Ridge. We want to know that he loved music so much he made his children take piano. We want to know that he flew kites. If your mother dies, we want to know about her secret apple pie recipe, about the quilts she stitched, or about her blue ribbon at the Center Fair.

We want to humanize the obituaries, but it will require your help. A loved one's death is a difficult time, but please take a moment to dig out a good picture and jot down a few of the significant moments from that life.

We do not charge for our obituaries. We want to honor the memories of our residents and readers when they die. Third, we want to print personal memorial tributes in the newspaper. If a Davie resident who is close to you dies, we'd love to have your own brief reflection on his life — what he meant to you, and why. Those should be submitted within two weeks of the death.

We're delighted to be with you week after week. You provide our livelihood. You are our board of directors. As always, tell us when you're pleased, or not. Happy New Year.

Primp Our School?

There have been all kinds of ideas about what to do for Davie County High School. Voters will be deciding one proposal in May. But here's yet another idea I heard bantered about on New Year's Day. It won't cost the county anything.

We should contact the folks at ABC television who sponsor the show "Extreme Makeover: Home Edition." On the show, someone's home is given a major face lift by the television show's crew — for free. They could do a job on Davie High. There is a similar show, "Punk My Ride," for cars. Our show could be called "Primp My School."

Education More Than Bricks And Mortar

To the editor:

Davie County is a great place to live. I have lived here most of my life. I am proud of the quality education that my son is receiving at Pinebrook Elementary. I serve on the Pinebrook School Advisory Committee and am amazed at the hard work and effort being exhibited by faculty and staff daily. I am also saddened to hear, not only from Pinebrook but from other schools as well, that staff and faculty are not encouraged to question or offer advice to anything that might run contrary to the mandated status quo.

I write this letter hoping to be heard as part of a solution and not part of the problem. I'm having a hard time getting to the real truth and it seems that perception might well be reality. The truth seems to be floating in a sea of "pat answers" and hidden agendas particular to whom you're talking. There is a real need for honesty in this second high school process and the ramifications that will have on education in Davie County.

I'm concerned about innovation and the type of education needed for the 21st Century, and there seems to be no major discussion about this that is driving the need for another school. Enrollment numbers seem to be the driver and yet those numbers seem to fluctuate depending on who's talking. Yes, the current high school is crowded, but it's been crowded for years since the 1980s and the drive time to the school was never an issue. Other high schools operate with more students, less infrastructure and higher test scores which, granted, is not always the best quantifier of success. So, the real question is, "Will the second high school, when built, actually better educate our children?"

I'm still not convinced that we have a plan of action to educate our children to meet the needs of a global 21st Century society. Are we discussing and implementing state of the art, "out of the box" techniques for educating all of our children? We are fortunate to have great technology resources, thanks to the Mebane Challenge, and yet it is being proposed to cut technology assistants in next years' budget. New bricks and mortar will not educate our children. I have not seen or heard the board of education mention a 21st Century curriculum plan that shows definitively where we need this new facility as a "tool" to better educate our children. If we had a definitive plan, we might find a need for many "tools" to educate for excellence.

I am for a second high school if it is built in response to an innovative curriculum that targets every child and can be implemented and achieved by building another facility or two or three. I am more inclined to fight for a better educational delivery system that is more bottom heavy (teacher/student needs) driven with a greater number of excellent teachers with the ability to lead in an innovative, cutting edge, real world manner.

We are in a budget crisis. The school board had a $400,000 loss last year based on its year-end audit, and the county is having to replenish the drained fund balance. This is coupled with the need to cut $800,000 at mid-year due to budgetary miscalculations and revenue shortfall and we have yet to open Ellis. It is at this point that I feel that there is a justice issue to consider. Any proposal which takes away teacher contact time with any students, takes dental coverage away from employees that can least afford it (Will dental coverage be taken away from all, including administration?), doesn't provide adequate (one nurse per school) nursing positions to all schools, cuts technology positions, cuts hours from food services, and increases lunch cost is not providing for excellence nor "Taking the Lead" in education. These are only a few of the administrative team's recommended budget cuts that strike at the core of direct student services (is it not about the children), yet no substantial sacrifices have been proposed for reducing school administrative support at the executive level.

Where are our priorities? There will need to be major budget increases to cover the additional expenses associated with the second high school as state funding will not cover all needs. So, in addition to a tax increase for the bonds, what will the tax increase need to be for staffing and operations and tennis courts and football stadiums and tracks and ... It has been stated that the two schools will be the same, equal for all.

What is the back-up plan for educating our children if the bond does not pass? If the second high school is so badly needed, then the county commissioners should be bold leaders and build it without a bond vote or get some wealthy benefactor to build it for the county and then lease it back. Again, how will this endeavor be paid?

I do know that bonds will equal a tax increase and that the additional operating costs for second high school will equal a tax increase. I'm willing to pay more for these tax increases, but I want to know how much and for what specific goal? Will these tax increases better educate our children? Will we have lower student/teacher ratios? Will our curriculum be one of excellence for the 21st Century educational needs beyond our current offering of excellence? Will the new "Early College," a small version of the ninth grade academy concept, not take many of the ninth graders off of the current Davie High campus? The county and I need to know all facts, the truth.

The question still remains, "What are the innovative programs going to look like and how will the programs drive the need for additional facilities?" Thus far, the second high school is the only viable recommendation proposed by our school board. I ask, "Have we really explored all educational opportunities and facilities that $400 or so million can provide?"

Please, I want to help and support the right plan, a bold plan for all of our children's future, an innovative plan for Davie County Schools to truly "Take the Lead" in education. Help me do this by providing a strong vision for taking education in Davie County beyond the debate and discussion about bricks and mortar to implementation of a forward thinking, visionary education for all of our children.

Weapon Should Have Been Displayed More Discreetly

To the editor:

Why was it necessary for "Sheriff Andy" to display a large firearm while he was out shopping with members of the law enforcement community and young children? (Thursday, Dec. 21 issue) While I understand that he is sheriff and probably always has a weapon, certainly he could have been a little more discreet.

Passing On An Act Of Kindness

Amy had been there. A single mom, her children's names had been on Mocksville's Angel Tree at Christmas. She had done her shopping for toys at local churches.

She knows what it is like to love her children but not have enough income to provide presents at Christmas.

An employee at Horn's Milestone Restaurant in Mocksville, she says that Dr. Tom Torpy and an anonymous donor she calls "Mr. D" put a miracle in her path.

Mr. D wanted to help needy children have a happy Christmas. He made a big donation.

Amy went to her manager, and the money went to work.

Nineteen children were blessed by the man's generosity: 3-year-old and 5-year-old girls living in "sad conditions" with their mother; two girls ages 5 and 6 being raised by a single father; an 8-year-old boy being raised by his grandmother; 10-year-old and 8-year-old victims of a house fire; a 2-year-old girl born with a facial deformity; a 2-year-old girl who's mother is expecting another child; a 4-year-old Down's child who's mother is out of work and expecting another child; two boys ages 12 and 14 with a father who is a recovering addict/alcoholic; a single mom raising a 6-year-old boy and an 8-year-old girl. The money also helped an elderly couple, the woman who recently underwent triple bypass surgery and man with Alzheimer's, buy gifts for their grandchildren, ages 4, 6, 8 and 11, and their great-grandchildren, ages 2-10.

Amy says it isn't important who she is, but she wants the anonymous donor to know how much he means to so many people. "Sir, the tears, hugs, kisses, thank you's will stay with me a lifetime. Thank you for allowing me to be an aiding angel."

Amy got plenty of help from co-workers Anita, Theresa and Emily, and from Chuck, Renee, Amelia Daniel, Lola, Twyla, Terry and Barbara King.

"Without your enthusiasm, foot work and phone calls, we may not have reached as many children," she says. "We just pray everyone had a great Christmas and some day, will pay this donor's kind act forward."

The world needs more people like Amy - people who are not afraid to accept help when they need it - people willing to accept a kind deed and then pass it on.

Has someone ever helped you without asking? Pass on their kindness.

Children Once Had To Invent Games To Play

Bleak January! Christmas trees have been taken down and hauled away or stored for next year and decorations have been carefully put away. New Year's resolutions have been made and some already broken. Some are already thinking about income tax. Colds, flu and pneumonia are a threat. Snow is a possibility. Of course, that could be delightful or awful, depending on your age, state of health, etc. Trees are bare - even birds fly farther south. And I grow a year older.

I'm looking forward to February and those first lovely blizzards. To me, that promises that spring will come again this year. February is a month to get over January and prepare for March, which is an unpredictable month. One of the biggest snows I remember was right at the end of March. Sometimes it's awful and sometimes it isn't bad at all. At least, you know that spring is on the way.

I was thinking of activities available to children nowadays as compared to those when I was growing up. We actually had to think of ways to entertain ourselves in our free time. If there had been places to go, like parks or playgrounds, unless they were within walking distance, there was no way to get there. We had to invent some of the games we played. I remember one little incident when I was a young child that I'm not proud of.

A lady and her little girl came to town from out in the county to do some shopping. I think they were distant cousins of ours. The mother left her daughter at our house to play with me while she shopped. I thought that was OK and I suggested every game I could possibly think of and she didn't want to play any of them. Finally, I took her back to my bedroom and told her she could stay there and that I was going to lock the door. I shut the door and left. Of course, the door didn't have a lock, but she didn't know it. Sometime later, mama discovered her lying on my bed crying. That's not the end of the story. I still remember the incident. I didn't do that anymore.

Another little cousin from out in the county used to come with her mother. I was always glad to see them come because the mother always gave us two nickels to get an ice cream cone apiece.

Something happened recently that brought to mind something that happened a long time ago. It must have been around 1936. My sister was in the fifth grade at school and I took her and our little neighbor boy, who was in the first grade, to school every day in our little Whippert automobile. The little boy lived with his grandparents and his aunt. This was before Mocksville had stop lights. It seemed to be a fact that the cars going from north to south had the right of way at the square, over those traveling from east to west. I was almost to the middle of the square going north and a truck was coming up depot hill. We were both going slowly and the driver was looking directly at me, I thought. Of course, I expected him to stop but he didn't. He rammed into the side of my car. Fortunately, we were not hurt except for my sister's bruised arm. The truck driver said he didn't see me. The little boy went home and said, "Grandma, I'm not but 6 years old, and I've already been in a wreck, but it was not Miss Louise's fault." His aunt said, "Bobby, were there many people around?" He said, "Oh yes. In less than five minutes there were 10,000 people there." I'm afraid he exaggerated a little, I think maybe four or five people did come around.

Not too long ago I wrote the words to the first verse of "October Gave a Party" and I couldn't remember the rest. I was so pleased to know that somebody knew and remembered all of it. Thank you,

Wade Groce, for sending me the entire song, which follows:

October gave a party
The leaves by hundreds came
The chestnut, oaks and maples
And leaves by every name.

Louise Stroud

Miss Sunshine spread a carpet
And everything was grand
Mrs. Weather led the dancing
Professor Wind the band.

And in the shady hollows
As hide and seek they played
The party closed at sundown
But everybody stayed.

Professor Wind played louder

They flew along the ground
And then the party ended
With jolly hands all round.

I want to thank everyone for the nice cards and letters and prayers for me during the past several months of my illness. At this time I am still a patient at Davie County Hospital, but I hope I will be able to walk again soon.

Theft On The Day After Christmas

To the editor:

It was the day after Christmas. Santa's runners on his sleigh had hardly had time to cool down. I was off of work on that Dec. 26 and was planning to do some chores around my house. Two in particular come to mind, but first, some geographical info on my property. My house sits about 800 feet off NC 801. Well, that said the first chore involved working on spreading the gravel at the end of my driveway at the street (highway 801). The second was to put up a new mail box at the street.

I gathered my tools, a shovel, rake and a mattock for the gravel along with various other tools to install the mail box. After scraping the gravels with the rake and mattock I started work on the mailbox. I had to go back to my house to get more supplies. So, I loaded most of the tools in the truck except the mattock which I left propped against the road marker at the end of my drive. It took me about three minutes to go and get the supplies.

Driving back down the driveway with-in clear sight I saw a car stop and pick up/steal my mattock. I can describe the make and model of the car, and tried to follow them. But to no avail. I called the police and filled out a report.

Now, this may seem trivial to some and this may seem humorous to some. But, I assure you it was neither to me. I have to assume one of two things went through the perpetrator's mind. Being at the end of the driveway they thought the mattock was trash to be discarded or, they are an out right thief.

Whichever it was, I figure they needed that mattock more desperately than I. So merry Christmas ya filthy animal.

Road. The resident came home and found the front door of his home kicked in, the residence ransacked, and several items stolen.

And another burglary investigation occurred on NC 801 South. The resident there reported she woke and saw an unidentified man standing over one of her children who was sleeping at the foot of her bed. He identified himself as Shaw. The resident said he was intoxicated and wanted a ride. Whitesides said that the resident attempted to appease Shaw by offering him something to drink and a cell phone to call someone for a ride. He later left the home without incident.

After Shaw's arrest officers were investigating one of the crime scenes and were informed by a source that someone was at Shaw's residence and there had been a party the night before involving underage drinking.

Officers found Shaw's girlfriend Chelsea Arlene Boddard, 18, whose address is listed the same as Shaw's on her arrest report at the home.

Whitesides said that while being interviewed Boddard began giving officers information about Shaw breaking into homes and returning with stolen items. "She went from room to room and identified stolen property that was seized," Whitesides said. "The property recovered has an estimated value of $4,000 at least."

Boddard voluntarily agreed to come to the sheriff's department and give a statement and helped identify stolen items that came from specific burglaries.

She was arrested for accessory after the fact and possession of stolen property, both felony charges.

There are four major components of the project: the research paper; a related project or product; a portfolio that traces the development of the project and serves as a summary and reflection of the student's experience; and a presentation to a panel of school staff or community members.

"The related project or product is a tangible product related to the student's field of study and/or research topic and can be a service that would benefit the school or community. Although the project culminates in the graduation year, students will be prepared with specific skill activities beginning in their ninth grade year, or earlier," Graham said.

Five burglary cases were closed as a result of the items seized from Shaw's home, and a possible sixth is pending.

If they pass the course but score below a III, they may take a retest within three weeks of receiving the score of the first test.

Rabil said that Ellis was that former bail bondsman and was the reason he owned and carried a gun. "That day he just snapped," Rabil said. He said that after Ellis shot Williams his first impulse was to report to the sheriff but that Steelman offered to help cover the crime and suggested the location in Virginia to dispose of Williams' body. "He's not the type of person that does something like this. It was not premeditated."

Ellis then stood and spoke. "I'd like to apologize to the victim's family and I'd also like to apologize for all I've put my family through."

"Your honor this is a tragedy all the way around," Rabil concluded. Williams' widow was brought into the courtroom and Brown read her letter aloud. "We can't begin to express the impact this evil act has imposed upon us. The death penalty cannot be an option. I want this man to think about my husband every day."

At the end of Brown's reading Williams' widow wept. Ellis will spend the next 18 years minimum in prison.

With all the above going on what else will this busy 61-year-old have time to do. Smith plans to travel and she wants to visit national parks in the United States and other countries. She also plans to spend time with her family.

And if you ask Smith if she could back and do it all again would she? She doesn't hesitate as she answers, "Yes."

Beautiful Land Scaping For Your Lawn, Call: Dirty Digs

It may be the middle of winter now, but spring will be here before we know it, and lawns across Clemmons, Lewisville and Davie County will be begging for attention.

Dirty Digs and owner Tom Jones are the ones to call. If your lawn, trees or land needs heavy duty attention, look no further. Fall is the ideal time for making those improvements.

Free estimates available
So as you can see, Dirty Digs provides many things to many people. Whether your project requires only one or two of their services or is a more complex job and would be better served by an integrated approach to an array of services, give Dirty Digs a call now for a free estimate.

Get your spring projects scheduled now
With the season change rapidly approaching, schedule your projects with the Dirty Digs professionals now so you can be among the first to get finished this spring.

They use small equipment for jobs in tight spaces and larger equipment appropriate for projects requiring heavier lifting. Remember that spring is an excellent time of the year to tackle those outdoor projects that you have been thinking about all winter. Give Tom at Dirty Digs a call today at (336) 749-0465.

Now offering additional services
Dirty Digs has evolved and is now offering many additional services to better serve their clients who often had to turn to several contractors to complete projects they had in mind. To make it much simpler, Dirty Digs became a 'general purpose' service.

They did this by forming two alliances - one with a professional landscape designer/installer and one with a certified arborist.

Dirty Digs' landscape and hardscape services include soil preparation and seeding along with design and installation of mulch beds, trees and shrubs, installation of retaining walls and back filling/final grading. Hydro seeding and hydro mulching will also be available soon.

Their tree services, which are performed by a certified arborist, include treatments, repair, revitalization, trimming, removal of trees, land clearing and stump removal.

Davie Residents Highlight Christian Bookstore Concert

Eight, 9, 13, 17, 22, 37 and 40 - winning numbers for some kind of lottery? No, these were the wide range of ages of the performers who took their talents and put them on display at a concert hosted by the Master's Loft Christian Bookstore in Winston-Salem. The concert was performed Friday evening, Dec. 8 with all the acts being from Davie County. "I had been working with the management of the bookstore for some time about the possibility of an event like this and with the Christmas season upon us things just fell into place for this date," says the Serving Him Ministry's Mike Drayton. "My 9-year-old grandson Austin had already been scheduled to fill the 2-hour concert period but as that was such a big time slot for such a young person, it was necessary to find others to share the load with thus creating the Austin Hunter and Friends Concert." The theme of the evening's concert was "Come Celebrate Jesus with Us". Thirty songs were performed by the acts with the youngest performer being 8-year-old Meghan Donley and the oldest being her father, Bob Donley. Austin Hunter was the featured performer and opened by performing the Avalon Group's hit song "New Day". Each time Austin Hunter completed a set another Davie talent would get up and take over the performing duties. The list of performers along with Austin Hunter, Meghan and Bob Donley included Holly Furches, David Boone, Lisa Matthews, Amanda Reavis and Jordan Reavis. The master of ceremonies and presenter of all acts was Drayton. "The show went well and was a huge success," says Drayton. "The Master's Loft stated that the concert drew a larger than normal crowd for a Friday night and that they were pleased with what they saw and heard. We did all this to glorify God and I thank all the performers for putting forth their best to make this the joyous event that it was." The Master's Loft bookstore is considering having the group back again sometime in 2007.

Wrestlers Beat No. 3 Tabor; CPC Win Streak At 27

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

After allowing the final 28 points in a 41-30 loss at East Burke on Dec. 20, Davie's wrestling team was down and out heading into a seemingly impossible assignment against visiting Mount Tabor on Dec. 21. Not only were the Spartans ranked No. 3 in 4-A, sixth-ranked Davie had as many losses (five) as it had the previous three years combined. But the War Eagles made a tremendous turnaround with major Central Piedmont Conference implications on the line, beating Tabor 45-33 to reinvigorate their bad-luck season. Despite suffering a series of key injuries, a determined and gritty effort kept their CPC winning streak (27) and hopes for a sixth straight CPC championship alive.

Assistant coach Howard Riddle said the rewarding win over the last team to beat Davie in the CPC was nothing short of amazing. Tabor throttled Davie 52-12 in 2000-01, but Davie hasn't lost since in the league. "We went to East Burke and couldn't beat a good middle-school team," Riddle said. "I felt awful. I thought we wrestled pitiful. If we would have wrestled like we did (against Tabor), we would have beat the heck out of East Burke. We wrestled like we can, and we wrestled with so much emotion. Some from last year's team were there - Aaron Hollifield, Timmy Allen, Russell Hilton, Garrett Parks - and it made our kids feel good. It was night-and-day difference from East Burke. That about guarantees us (one of two state-playoff berths from the CPC)." In the first match at E. Burke, Davie dismantled Fred T. Ford 71-9. The winners were Travis Coforth, Zach Vernon, Chris Ange, Joel Barnett, Jake McKay, Ethan Curtis, Floyd Collins, Michael Marendy, Josh Burcham, Aaron Peoples, Kevin Whitley and Jesse Cousins. The War Eagles came out smoking against E. Burke, with Cousins, Goforth, Ange, Barnett and Collins building a 30-13 lead with pins. But they closed with a thud, losing six straight and slipping to 13-5. It hurt that Jake Boger didn't make weight at 189. Davie responded from the awful loss better than anyone could have imagined. The Tabor win was remarkable in many ways, but the most remarkable thing about it was half of Davie's eight wins came from freshmen and sophomores. Davie started five freshmen, two sophomores, five juniors and two seniors, but one junior (Collins) and one senior (Derrek Abendroth) are first-year high-school wrestlers. "We stepped it up," head coach Buddy Lowery said. "Tabor might win the individual state, but we're getting better." Freshman Vernon came in 6-7, and sophomore David Oakley came in with a three-match losing streak and 11-9 record. Both came up big, at 125 and 130, to give Davie a 12-0 lead. "It was pretty cool to get six for the team," Oakley said. "As a sophomore it was even better. The home crowd gave me an adrenaline rush. "There's a lot saying we weren't supposed to (beat Tabor). They've got a lot of good upper weights. At the beginning of the year, no, we weren't supposed to beat them at all." A pin by Ange (20-1) at 135 was no surprise. The match's signature moment went to Barnett at 140. His 5-2 win over Robbie White for a 21-0 lead left the War Eagles marveling. "They sent a JV kid out and Ange pinned him," Riddle said of a strategic move that backfired on Tabor. "They moved their 135 up to wrestle Barnett, the kid Ange wrestled in the finals of a tournament. (White's) pretty good, but Barnett wrestled his tail off. I mean wrestled his tail off." "They bumped one of their best guys up to Joel, and when Joel beat him that really upset them," Curtis said. "They tried to dodge Ange and Joel threw them off and swung the momentum our way. Joel wrestled smart." "Joel's match was the turning point," Whitley said. "That's when I knew we would pull it off."

Buzzer Beater Newman Makes Winning Shot For North Davie Boys

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

In a game that exceeded all definitions of craziness, the North Davie boys basketball team beat visiting Downtown 54-52 on Dec. 18 when Alex Newman hit a rabbit-out-of-the-hat shot from just inside halfcourt with all zeroes on the clock.

Newman, a bona-fide leader at point guard, had five points when the fourth quarter began, at which point North trailed 35-30. When the final horn sounded, Newman had 18 points. He was Mr. Clutch in the fourth, hitting two free throws with 16 seconds left for a one-point lead. That made him six of six at the line in the fourth.

Let coach Matt McPherson describe the epic play.

"I told Cole to get the ball to half-court or we didn't have a chance," he said. Please See Wildcat Boys - Page B5

North Overmatches South Wildcat Wrestlers Capture 14 Of 16 Weight Classes

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

The North Davie wrestling team's skies are bright blue without a cloud. Not even its hard-to-please coach, Ron Kirk, could find any fault with North's near-perfect 79-12 pummeling of visiting South Davie on Dec. 19.

The undefeated Wildcats (8-0) put their largest point total and pins in four matches, won their fifth straight in the series and carved up South's three-match winning streak. By capturing 14 of 16 weight classes, they left Kirk with very little to nitpick.

North played your turn, my turn from start to finish. That means there was one pin after another, with North winding up with 10 of the match's 11 pins. The exception was Shane Carter's first-period pin in the second matchup at 93. The North pins belonged to Clifton Bodenhamer (83), Calob Howard (103), Shelton Sales (119), Jake Linhart (125), Tanner Bledsoe (130), Jordan Farmer (152), Casey Ferebee (160), Ricky Bell (171), Ward Wilson (215) and Christian McGougan (250).

Farmer has dramatically improved since the early season, improving to 4-3 with a third-period pin.

"That's the type of match he would have lost two weeks ago," North assistant coach Jamey Holt said.

"What he did to pin the guy was something I never would have thought he would have done," said Kirk, whose team has won 63 in a row. "He hooked his head and brought him back. It was something he'd seen or done in practice. The score was 1-1 at the time." McGougan may not be one of North's seven unbeaten, but he put on a first-period clinic to run his record to 7-1, and his high-school potential is immense.

"The one loss he had he was winning by five or six points," Kirk said. "With his body size, the way his frame is built and the length of his arms and legs, wrestling might be his best sport. He's just got to learn the technique. He's the kind of heavyweight that could wrestle a 260- or 270-pounder if he learns the second half." Please See North/South - Page B4

Absher's Torrid Shooting Not Enough

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

SALISBURY - The Davie boys basketball team's 1-2 fade in last week's Sam Moir Christmas Classic overshadowed a marvelous shooting exhibition by sophomore guard Drew Absher, who scored 22, 20 and 17 points in the seven-team spectacle at Catawba College.

Absher was the big reason fifth-seeded Davie held off No. 4 South Rowan 70-60 in the first round. He was the reason Davie gave No. 1 East Rowan a run in the first half of a 66-53 loss in the semifinals. And he was the reason Davie wasn't embarrassed in a 66-53 loss to No. 2 West Rowan in the consolation for third place.

"Absher was awesome," East Rowan coach Greg McKenzie said. "We did some box-and-one and triangle-and-two in the first half, and he still burned us (for 14 points). I think he should have been a little more aggressive in the second half looking to shoot. He was probably a little too unselfish at times in the second half."

Absher is one of those shooters who expects every shot to go in. Most of them did as he shot better than 50 percent overall and hit 12 of 26 3-pointers for the tournament. The 5-10 lefty was a shoo-in for all-tournament honors.

"He's a player," McKenzie continued. "When you can pull up and shoot a 3 on the break, that's big-time. I always say if you can shoot pull-up jumpers on the break, you can play somewhere (in college). He's something. He's a great kid, too."

Unfortunately for the War Eagles, Absher was often all they had going for them. They exited with six losses in seven games. They haven't tasted back-to-back wins since Dec. 1.

Davie 70, S. Rowan 60

Matt Van Hoy had a spurt to remember in the first quarter of a payback win over the Raiders, who handled Davie 67-62 a week earlier in Landis.

The 6-2 wing poured in 10 points in the first 3:30, putting him on an incredible pace for 91 points.

Van Hoy settled for 18 points on 6-of-9 shooting. He added 11 rebounds for his second double-double of the year, which qualified him as a Raider killer. Both double-doubles have come at South's expense.

"I always get pumped for South. It's something about that game," Van Hoy said. "They knew Drew was the shooter, so they pushed out more on the 3-point line, and that left the high post wide open. They got the ball to me and I was just lucky. It's more Eric (Lowery) and the other guards dishing it in there."

Van Hoy was only half the story. Absher torched the nets in the second quarter, raining in 14 points in a span of four minutes. The second was a 3-point contest that included South's David Wolford and Derek Davis. South closed the half with seven 3s, while Davie countered with six.

The fireworks ended with Davie leading 38-32.

Davie Sports From January, 1989

Ivey Clontz and Beth Mashburn scored 10 points apiece as Davie's varsity girls basketball team planted Parkland 60-25. Shawn Smoot added nine points and five assists as Davie attempted 64 shots to Parkland's 29.

Foul problems to star Clifford Dulin short-circuited Davie's varsity boys in a 73-52 loss to Parkland. Jimmy Greene came up with 16 points and eight rebounds, and Ryan Parker scored 10. But it wasn't nearly enough as Davie stumbled to 1-7.

North Davie's seventh/eighth girls edged South Davie 42-41 in overtime behind Dot Spauhan's 18 points. April Oliphant played a key role by pulling down 14 rebounds and taking three charges. Amanda Key was big with 10 points and 10 rebounds.

North overcame Kim McClelland's 19 points. Katina Wagner added nine for South, but McClelland fouled out with three minutes left in regulation.

Robert Scott hit a tiebreaking layup with 24 seconds left as S. Davie's seventh-eighth boys squeezed out a 47-45 win over North Davie. Bubba Coleman led South with 13 points. Scott and Kevin Grubb had 10 each, while Jason Phelps had nine on three 3-pointers.

North was led by Tyrone Martin's 16 points. Brad Mechem had two 3s for 10 points.

Scott Hansen (17 points), Allen Cooper (14) and Chip Carter (11) carried N. Davie's freshman boys to a 62-57 win over S. Davie. The Tigers stayed close behind Chris Gregory (28) and Randy Brewer (21).

S. Davie's freshman girls used a 10-4 run in the fourth to edge out a 21-20 win over North Davie. South was led by Alecia Hayes (11 points), North got six from Andrea Gentry and Lori Sluder.

Davie's JV girls destroyed Parkland 59-10 even though it went 12 of 45 at the foul line. Tiffany Fleming had 11 points, Kim Eaton 10 and Kelly Kowalske eight.

Davie's wrestling team won a showdown with Parkland, which was 9-0 and ranked seventh in the state. Jody Shore had Davie's only pin. Davie got decision victories from Kurtis Potts, Scott Beauchamp, Jamie Caudle, Scott Page, Eric Blankenship and Kendall Chaffin.

You can kill a lot of ducks off the beaten path. Billy Lagle, Jeff Jordan, and Dick Jones bagged these birds on a beaver pond near High Rock Lake.

Change Tactics In Areas With Low Hunting Pressure

Off The Porch By Dick Jones

Sometimes you just don't shoot well and I was not something better.

We were 30 minutes into what was planned as a short morning duck hunt and I had not cut a feather in my first four shots. As I was thinking about my poor performance, a single mallard drake skimmed over the trees in front and to my left. He was not headed for the decoys, but just passing over on some destination known only to him. He was dead about a second after I saw him crashing into the thicket to my left.

I quickly replaced the shell in the right barrel.

Within two or three minutes, I saw four or five birds heading for my son in law, Jeff. When Jeff shot, one bird went down hard and one was hit, but still flying strong. He peeped out of the group, headed for me, and one more shot put him on the water.

I loaded my gun and two wood duck drakes swung right in front of my little blind. They were no more than 20 yards and I shot my first duck double of the year.

We were hunting a beaver pond on a feeder creek above High Rock Lake. I had invested a lot of time making the arrangements to hunt here, but the effort was paying off.

Most water fowlers assume that, to get good shooting and not fight a crowd, you have to travel to the coast. This does not have to be the case if one plans and does the homework.

It is true that easily accessible hunting areas are often so crowded as to prevent anyone, including the early arrivals, to have a good hunt.

Once, on High Rock, we had set up early and just at hawking hours two guys came in and set up in front of us during the most productive time of the day. Of course these things only happen on opening day or the Saturday after, but those days are the best times to hunt. The hunting pressure on public areas causes most ducks to shy around those areas after opening day. We kept hunting those public areas though, and we had fun and killed ducks, but I wanted something better.

I began to look into areas that held waterfowl with less pressure and came on a couple of ways to accomplish this.

I knew there were numerous beaver ponds in the area and began research to find a way to hunt them. By asking enough questions I managed to find a couple of spots that were not only good places to hunt, but they were not hunted by anyone else. I gained access to the spot but we still had to get all the stuff there. Carrying 36 duck decoys and guns a mile into the woods is not my idea of fun. I asked permission to use a four wheeler and got it.

I put everything in the canoe - guns, dog, and decoys. I used the canoe as a sled and pulled it through the woods with the four wheeler. It is remarkable how well a canoe pulls in such a situation. It is pointed on both ends and makes a perfect sled. When we got to the water we floated to our spot and hunted in solitude. It is a good idea to clear any such plans with the owner. It is also a good idea to remember to put paddles in the canoe. I made that mistake and we were lucky that the water was low enough to wade. Sometimes you just have to think outside the box.

Once you have found a low pressure spot, don't burn it up with use. Ducks are smart and will quit using a place they get shot at a lot. Resist the temptation to overuse a good location. I believe that hunting a place every two weeks will not have an adverse effect on the birds. Two days in a row will clear them out. This means that one hunt in the early season, two in the second season and maybe three in the last season is about all the pressure a place can stand.

Even then you are not shooting at the same birds because different groups are migrating through.

Still, six good hunting days is a lot more than you can get in a high pressure area so the discipline pays off.

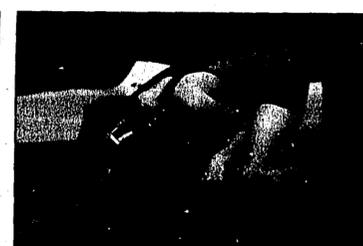

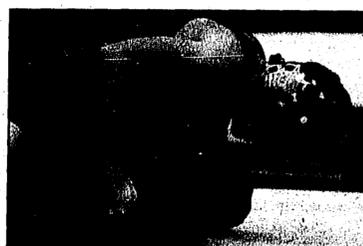

Remember too that, when you are hunting an area that experiences low hunting pressure, you can change your tactics and still be effective. Fewer decoys will often work just as good. I don't call as much. The birds just don't need as much coaxing to come into a spot where they haven't experienced danger. I often carry just three decoys. I rig them up on a string and make them swim. Hunted that way they are more effective than a dozen that don't move.

We got 11 ducks and a Canada goose before we left. With three people hunting, it was not the best duck hunt we ever had, but it was pretty good. My lab, Ernie, got to make a lot of retrievals and even forgave me for my inferior judgment.

The other guys are still riding me about forgetting the paddles, though.

Travis Goforth iced the win over Tabor with a first-period pin. Joel Barnett had the biggest win, 5-2, at 140. And David Oakley had a pin that put Tabor in a 12-0 hole.

Tabor got six points at 145, but Curtis continued his strong ways with a third-period pin at 152. His 16th win in 18 tries provided 27-6 breathing room.

The Spartans ruled the upper weights, pinning Davie four times in five matches to cut the margin to 33-30. The only Davie win in the stretch was Jake Boger's pin at 189. Lowery saw Tabor's total domination at the top coming.

"You're going to get pinned by those suckers up there," he said. "From 160 to 215, they're dang good."

Then, with the outcome hanging in the balance, Davie (14-5, 2-0 CPC) got big-time efforts from guys who have been taking their lumps. Whitley got a crucial pin at 103, making it 39-30 despite giving up eight points. Cousins lost 2-0 at 112, but he still did his part by only giving up three points. That ce-

Lowery said. "We acted like we knew what we were doing."

Notes: The War Eagles host West Forsyth Jan. 25 at 6 p.m. that will likely decide the CPC title. Will they have Rusty O'Connor (dislocated knee cap) back? "I don't think so," Riddle said. "That does hurt. You never know, but I doubt it." Will Davie have Justin Miller (shoulder healthy)? "Maybe," Riddle said. ... When Lowery was asked about the West showdown, he said: "We might get 10 more people hurt by then, the rate we're going." ... Barnett's big win moved him to 16-4. ... Davie took five of six JV matches from Tabor. Josh Money, Garrett Cookson and Bryan Markland got pins, and Jesse Hilton and Cody McEwen won decisions. ... The War Eagles went to Mooresville Jan. 3 for a JV-varsity doubleheader. They compete in a tournament at Orange Jan. 6. They have a JV-varsity DH at Reynolds Jan. 11.

Freshman Jake Boger came through with a first-period pin at 189.

Limping Along: Girls Lose Two Of Three In Moir

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

SALISBURY - The Davie girls basketball team entered last week's Sam Moir Christmas Classic at Catawba College without a winning streak all season. The tournament was the same story.

For Davie, which won the first game but lost the next two to place fourth in the seven-team event.

The War Eagles are limping along at 5-9. Coach Debbie Evans never knows what to expect. They play OK one minute and struggle the next.

Take the last two games at Catawba. They did far more right than wrong in a 57-48 loss to top-seeded North Rowan, pushing the Cavaliers to the final minute. But their play in the first half of a 49-44 loss to No. 3 West Rowan in the third-place game was worse than uninspired, resulting in a 30-17 halftime deficit.

Davie 45, S. Rowan 39

The War Eagles caught a break and capitalized on it when a block-charge call went their way with 68 seconds remaining in the first round against the fourth-seeded Raiders. Dribbler Tonisha Turner and a South defender had a giant collision at midcourt with Davie leading 40-39. The ref whistled block. The South coach went bonkers, punched the seat with his fist and got a technical foul.

Meisha Fowler hit one of two technical-foul free throws, then remained at the line to hit one of two for the foul call. Turner was supposed to shoot the latter ones - the refs confused No. 5 Turner with No. 15 Fowler - and that left the South coach even more exasperated.

Fowler and Kellie Brown tacked on three more free throws in the final 42 seconds as fifth-seeded Davie overcame 27-percent shooting, 27 turnovers and a 39-31 rebounding deficit.

At that point Davie was in a 2-4 stretch, with both wins coming over South.

"Fortunately we got the call and we made enough free throws at the end," Evans said. "You can't do anything about that stuff (in regard to the wrong shooter), so we were just taking what we could get."

Seven quick points by Fowler got Davie off to an 11-2 lead, but Davie sputtered for the next six minutes and found itself in a 13-13 tie.

Every time Davie needed a big basket, it found one. Brown nailed a 3-pointer in a defender's face 10 seconds into the fourth to give Davie a 31-27 lead. Before that, Brown was one of six from for Davie, which won the first game but lost the next two to place fourth in the seven-team event.

The War Eagles haven't reached the Moir finals since '02, but they came within a play or two of doing it against a semifinal opponent that won for the seventh straight time. Their bid came up short because they fizzled out in the final three minutes after closing to 51-48 on a Fowler 3.

North (9-1) featured three 6-footers. Davie has no such height. Davie overcame that disadvantage in the first half, but was outscored 22-11 in the second. "We were a few box-outs short," Evans said. "That's what cost us. About three or four possessions in a row we gave up second and third shots. If we would have done a little better job on the boards in the second half, we would have been right there in position to beat a quality team."

The War Eagles got off to a slow start, trailing 12-3 after four minutes. But they surged back with a 10-1 run capped by Amber Parrish 3-pointer.

North used a 9-2 run to take a 33-24 lead in the third, but Parrish went crazy late in the third, scoring eight points in less than two minutes. She buried a 3 moments after reentering the game, hit three free throws after getting fouled on a 3-point try and scored off the dribble to close the gap to 46-41.

That made Parrish three of three from the field in eight minutes of action.

"Amber can be stroaky," she said. "She is a good shooter. Maybe it's finally clicking (for Parrish and Brown)."

Parrish had twice gone scoreless and was averaging 3.8 points before putting up 11. Brown enjoyed her first double-figure game with 10 points, four rebounds, three assists and two steals. Turner cracked double figures for the second time with 10 points and four assists. Fowler had 10 points, five rebounds and three assists.

Davie shot better than it had in nine games, placed four players in double figures and had hope of a substantial upset until missing 10 of 12 shots in the fourth.

North's duo of Shemeika Brown (21 points on 8-of-12 shooting) and Sierra Ingram (14 points, 13 rebounds) proved too much for Davie. They hit 13 of 24 shots. The rest of the Cavs hit four of 18.

Still, Evans came away encouraged.

"We didn't give up," she said. "We kept fighting. We did a better job of hitting shots, and we had girls step up. I don't feel like we took a step back. We put a lot of good minutes together."

W. Rowan 49, Davie 44

Nothing worked for the War Eagles in the first half. They had 14 more turnovers than field goals (19 to five), didn't score in the second until 6:14 had elapsed and dug a 30-17 hole.

They made a strong comeback, closing within four twice in the fourth. But it was too little, too late.

The biggest bright spots were

Turner (nine points on perfect shooting) and Brittany Wharton (five points on perfect shooting). Fowler had 12 points, four steals and three assists, while Garrett had seven points and nine rebounds. Owens contributed four points, five boards and four steals.

Davie shot 27 percent for the third time in four games and committed 30-plus turnovers for the third time this season.

REAL ESTATE WEEKLY
By Debbie Prachel
Owner/Broker ERA Premier Realty

Make the Most of Newly-Constructed Homes
Start from scratch. Debbie can help you decide what design options not only fulfill your needs but best fit your budget and your home's resale value. She can also help you to familiarize yourself with the new neighborhood; guide you throughout the construction process; and get you set up with crucial services like moving companies (one of many major tasks a nationally-known business can group in a single program, such as ERA Real Estate's Select Services).

Check into the builder's track record. You can do this by visiting other developments they've constructed and by speaking with the residents. Also, you may want to contact the Better Business Bureau to learn about their reputation and how long they've been in operation.

Know the neighborhood. Visit your local town planning office and look into what will be built nearby in the near future - where there's some construction growth there may be more, and you'll want to decide what kinds you wish to live around.

For professional advice on all aspects of buying and selling real estate, you can reach Debbie at ERA Premier Realty, 336-998-7777 or 336-909-1284, or contact her email address at debbie.prachel@era.com or visit her website at www.era-premierrealty.com.

It looks awkward but you can pull a canoe almost anywhere you can drive a four wheeler.

Remember too that, when you are hunting an area that experiences low hunting pressure, you can change your tactics and still be effective. Fewer decoys will often work just as good. I don't call as much. The birds just don't need as much coaxing to come into a spot where they haven't experienced danger. I often carry just three decoys. I rig them up on a string and make them swim. Hunted that way they are more effective than a dozen that don't move.

We got 11 ducks and a Canada goose before we left. With three people hunting, it was not the best duck hunt we ever had, but it was pretty good. My lab, Ernie, got to make a lot of retrievals and even forgave me for my inferior judgment.

The other guys are still riding me about forgetting the paddles, though.

"After we established the high post, that left the 3-pointers wide open for Drew, and he made the best of it," Van Hoy said.

"Eric did a great job pushing the ball, and I made some shots that I should make," Absher said.

While Absher mixed in four assists with his 22 points, Darius Hall delivered 13 points and 13 rebounds. Lowery had six points, six assists and four rebounds.

Reserve James Mayfield came up big inside, scoring eight points after averaging 0.6 through nine games.

"James plays his heart out," Van Hoy said. "He'll go all the way across the court for a loose ball."

Davie was resilient. A 5-0 run pulled South (5-6) within 47-43, but Absher answered with a pull-up jumper in the lane. South edged an 18-footer to cut Davie's lead to 51-48, but Lowery triggered a 7-0 run with a 3-pointer that made amends for back-to-back turnovers. Mayfield struck 30 seconds later, his fourth field goal without a miss.

The War Eagles held on by hitting 10 of 15 free throws in the fourth - not bad for a team that was shooting a dismal 54 percent. They shot their best field-goal percentage (44) in five games, shrugged off career-high scoring by Wolford (22) and Davis (20) and ended a four-game series losing streak. They also stopped a season losing streak at four.

"Gosh, that's something we've worked and worked and worked on," the coach said of free-throw shooting. "We've actually changed our philosophy of how we work on them, and maybe it's working a little bit."

E. Rowan 66, Davie 53

Absher's rocket launches and the Mustangs' 14 misses from downtown allowed Davie stay within 31-27 in the first half of the semifinals. When Absher fed Hall for a transition layup 30 seconds into the third, Davie was within two and playing precisely the way the coach hoped it would.

"We were feeling good," he said. "In my opinion they're the best team in the (Central Piedmont Conference). They won the conference tournament last year, and you're talking about basically the same guys - and with the addition of (6-1 Shawn) Eagle."

Davie's momentum was shortlived. The Mustangs (9-1) went on an 11-0 tear for a 42-29 bulge, and Davie never recovered. Davie shot a respectable 44 percent, but East pulled away with ease because it shot a torrid 58 percent in the second half.

Few teams in the state are as effective at swinging the ball around and hitting 3-pointers. The Mustangs are, believe it or not, as small as Davie, but they play with supreme confidence.

"You know they're so capable of doing that," Absher said. "We tried 2-3 zone and we tried 3-2. And they're so good at getting to the basket. You've got to hope they don't shoot real well. A lot of times we were half a step late getting there, and that's all they need. That's the hard thing."

Absher posted his seventh 20-point game and handed out four in double figures, led by 6-3 Jamal Carpenter, who did whatever he wanted while amassing 10 points, eight rebounds and seven assists.

Lowery dished the ball efficiently, which is no surprise. He had eight assists against two turnovers. That marked his 10th game with at least six assists.

Notes: E. Rowan earned its first Christmas tournament title since '75 with a 71-64 double-overtime win over Salisbury. ... The War Eagles play at Mooresville on Jan. 3, at Reynolds Jan. 5 and at home against North Davidson Jan. 9.

 balance. He's got good balance. He's gotten stuck in situations and he's come out of them with natural ability."

Part of the fuel in Bodenhamer's engine comes from Holt's practice lectures. He pinned in the second for an 8-0 mark.

"He's getting better on his technique because Jamey stays on his rear end all the time," Kirk said with a laugh. "He has sloppy spells, but then he readjusts and does a good job. If we can just get him to stay on his toes and stay intense. But you can't complain too much."

South's Carter didn't get a showdown with 7-0 Tyler Lee because Lee was sick. So Carter settled for spoiling Brandon Roy's starting debut with his third pin in as many tries.

"Roy didn't wrestle bad," Kirk said. "Carter's got good technique."
 Kirk said Howard was "not a happy camper" because he didn't get to meet Carter at 103. Breaking fire, he pinned Justin Lanning in 25 seconds. Lanning had won three of four.

140 Matt Cusack in practice, and that has paid huge dividends for Sales, who stuck previously-unbeaten Curtis Magee to give Sales eight pins in eight matches.

"Sales' technique just keeps getting better," Kirk said. "Of course, having Cusack makes him better than he would have been. Shelton won't let go of Cusack in practice. I mean if Cusack does something to him, he'll come right back at him."

"I like to see those every now and then. Kids need to go through those because that's coming in high school."
 Nearly everything for North came with ease, even when Ferbee made just his second appearance at 160. The result: his

"Linhart came to wrestle," he said. "We wondered where that's been in practice and other matches. He worked a clinic and he was winning like 15-2 when he pinned him. He was doing tils, was doing different pin combinations and different reversals and tides."

The onslaught grew when Bledsoe squared his record within two minutes. "I think he was tired of 108," Kirk said. "He should have won both of the ones he lost, and he was ready to get back on track."

 Christian Lee overpowered his 135 foe 19-7. Cusack took a forfeit (he was 7-0 with seven pins) and Collin Eichhorn escaped Jun San Filippo 5-4 to preserve his perfect record at 8-0. It was his second straight 5-4 win.

"It was a good match," Kirk said. "I like to see those every now and then. Kids need to go through those because that's coming in high school."

Wilson usually wrestles at 189. A bump up to 215 made his first-period pin more impressive.

Swicegood, Hendricks Power South Girls

South Davie's girls basketball team did not place a single scorer in double figures in the first five games. But South showed vast improvement in a 37-32 win at North Rowan on Dec. 18.

Ashton Swicegood delivered 12 points and Cara Hendricks backed her with 11 as the Tigers won their second straight after an 0-4 start. The duo combined for eight of South's 11 field goals.

"Ashton and Cara were so beat up," coach Doug Ebersbach said. "It looked like football out there. Ashton took a ball to the nose, and she got hit in the stomach. Cara got hit a couple times. Cara was ill and still played."

South jumped out to a 15-9 lead, but it was close all the way. South's lead was dwindled to 20-19 at halftime, and it led 27-25 after three. Hendricks was the primary reason for that, doing all her scoring in the first 18 minutes.

"Cara is so good underneath," Ebersbach said. "But Swicegood made sure South pulled it out, scoring half her points in the decisive fourth. A 19-18 loss at South in the first meeting made this win all the more meaningful."

"They're playing together and that's why we're winning now. They're all giving what they can," he said. "We should have beaten them here. We all wanted to get this one back, and I knew we could do it. And to do it on their court was great."

The Tigers, who had been held below 20 twice, surpassed their season high in points by eight. Ebersbach was all smiles because eight players scored and because Kelsey Lane burst out of obscurity to hit three of four free throws in the fourth. Lane had not attempted a free throw all year.

"Kelsey's foul shooting helped us out," he said. "I told the girls at the beginning of the year if we can make our free throws and layups we can win these games. Kelsey's a very good free-throw shooter. I've watched her shoot in practice and she can do it. They've all got different strengths."

The one downside was a season-ending injury to Caitlyn "KK" Brake, whose right knee gave out one game after she had broken into the starting lineup. She hurt the left knee last spring in soccer.

"When I saw her get hurt I thought it was a shake-it-off hurt," Ebersbach said. "Then I looked at her again and subbed her out. On the bench the girls said: 'She's really hurt.' I saw she was getting ready to cry. She's a tough cookie. If she cries, she's really hurt. I hate to see her get hurt again. I thought: 'One season. Come on, KK. Get through one season without going to the hospital.'"

Coaches Pleased With Wildcat Girls'

The North Davie girls basketball team's confidence jumped another notch when North steamrolled visiting Downtown 48-15 on Dec. 18. The Wildcats entered the holidays with a five-game winning streak and 8-3 record after their fourth victory by 25-plus points.

"We could have beaten anybody (that night)," coach Trish King said. "We were working it around for the best shot."

It was certainly an all-for-one, one-for-all display as the Wildcats produced 12 different scorers. Laura Shelton continued to flourish with eight team-high points: She has become instant offense as the team's sixth girl.

"Her anticipation is unbelievable," assistant coach Chris Lum said.

"She's a great defender," King said. "She thinks quickly on her feet. She's everywhere."

Janna Dixon continued to impress at point guard. She could have scored a lot more than four if she wouldn't have been so busy finding others.

"She has so much natural talent," King said. "She did everything in her power to get the ball to girls who needed to score. She had a wide-open layup and slowed down to give it to a girl who hadn't scored yet. She sees the floor so well, and she can thread the needle."

Liz Hartman had seven points and Britani Stewart six as North rolled to a 26-7 halftime lead. But four players contributed four points (Kali Whitaker, Dixon, Latrinda Tillery and Madi Pratas) and Alex Keiser had three, and that's why the coaches appreciated this win all the more.

"I see Hartman gaining more and more confidence every game," King said. "Tillery (a 6-0 center) played a great game. She hit a jump shot from 10 feet, and she was boxing out very well."

There's more. Stewart has developed into a vital defender at the top of North's 1-3-1 defense.

"Without her defense we wouldn't be where we are," Lum said. "At the top she makes point guards nervous because she's got long arms and she's very aggressive. She may not get the steal, but she's definitely the one that causes it."

And then there's Whitaker, whose gritty style of play has won the coaches' hearts.

"She set a pick that any college coach would have been proud of," Lum said. "The girl literally ran her over and she just jumped right back up. She's very coachable and whatever you tell her to do she's going to do."

The Wildcats have road games against Forsyth Country Day on Jan. 9 and West Rowan on Jan. 11. Both begin at 4:30.

N. Davie 48, Downtown 15 - Laura Shelton 8, Liz Hartman 7, Britani Stewart 6, Kali Whitaker 4, Janna Dixon 4, Latrinda Tillery 4, Madi Pratas 4, Alex Keiser 3, Rebekah McCann 2, Katie Davis 2, Kayla Comarizer 2, Sadie Lagle 2.

Redmond Saves The Day At The Line For South Boys

When Denzel Redmond of South Davie's boys basketball team stepped to the free-throw line with 1.5 seconds left and visiting South trailing North Rowan by two, Redmond was having his worst game of the season.

All was forgiven when Redmond came through, making both free throws to force overtime. South outscored North 7-0 in OT to steal a 47-40 victory on Dec. 18, and Redmond had three of those.

"Redmond had a rough game," coach Brent Wall said. "He didn't shoot well at all. Then he made the two free throws and scored the first two points of overtime. It was all she wrote after that."

You can also attribute the win to Darius Wilson and Patrick Whaley. Wilson hit six of eight foul shots on a day his teammates combined to miss 15 of 26. He nearly doubled his season high with 12 points. Whaley, meanwhile, contributed a season-high six points, including a big 3-pointer in the fourth and another basket in OT.

South used a 14-9 spurt in the fourth to catch North. Whaley and Kenyatta Brand connected from beyond the arc, after South had gone three periods without a trey.

The Tigers came in down and out with a 1-4 record, and they nearly let a team escape that lost the first meeting 43-19. At least they were tough at pedal-to-the-metal time.

"It was a super team effort," he said. "We had different people step up at different times. (Braxton) Grant played a lot of minutes because of (Shannon) Dillard's foul trouble."

Notes: Redmond, the top scorer at 10.7 points a game, matched his season low with 10 points. ... The Tigers play Downtown at home on Jan. 5 and at Erwin on Jan. 8. Both begin at approximately 5:45.

 said. "Cole threw it in at the foul line, and that's when my head went down. Alex split two defenders and let it go just inside the halfcourt line. He was in the jump circle when he let it go."

The bomb was nothing but net, triggering a wild celebration.

"I saw somebody's momma running out on the floor," McPherson said. "Somebody knocked me off my feet. It was nice, but we should never have been in that situation."

The Wildcats gained their third win in a row, raising their joyous record to 9-2. But they hardly looked like an 8-2 team in the second quarter, when Downtown scored 19 of 23 points for a 27-15 halftime advantage.

Things went haywire in the second half. First, the Wildcats dug deep and outscored Downtown 15-8 in the third. They kept surging to take a five-point lead in the fourth.

But they couldn't shake Downtown.

"We could have easily put this team away if we'd just made easy shots," he said. "We couldn't catch the ball, we lost our focus and they took it to us."

But all's well that ends well. Newman got plenty of help, including 13 points from Blake Simmons.

to the basket, he can score a ton."

Wallace DuHart (eight points) was a major factor, hitting two tying free throws in the fourth.

"He came up with a bunch of good steals," he said. "He had hustle plays and made tough passes."

Matt Rembielak went scoreless in the first half, but wasn't fazed, hitting a fourth-quarter 3-pointer that gave North its first lead since the first quarter. He had two other field goals.

"He struggled shooting the ball, but he hit a 3 when it counted," he said.

And, of course, Alex Newman was dynamic with the tension level at its peak. He has become North's leading scorer, averaging 8.9 a game.

"When we get behind or the game's on the line, his competitive streak comes out," he said. "And he's going to make people play their best."

Notes: Downtown, which popped four 3s in the first half, dropped to 4-4. ... Rembielak is averaging 7.5 points, DuHart 6.2 and Simmons 6.1. ... The Wildcats have road games against Forsyth Country Day on Jan. 9 and West Rowan on Jan. 11. Both begin at 4:30.

Resolutions To Improve My New Year

A little late, I've finally developed my set of New Year's resolutions, realizing that I need to change my bad habits.

I couldn't turn on the television last week. My New Year's resolution is to learn how to do that for myself. We have a new cable box, and it has changed everything that used to work for me. The rest of the family learned quickly how to manage the new clicker. I had to get my 7-year-old to turn on the set. Late one night, I wanted to watch the Clint Eastwood western, "Pale Rider." I missed the show because of my inability to adapt to new technology.

I'm also going to learn how to drink out of a different coffee cup in the New Year.

Over Christmas, I realized that I have become a quirky old man, so set in my ways that I am a prisoner of my own devices. I only drink coffee out of a white ceramic mug — a Moravian-style mug I bought 25 years ago. I bought two at the time. Only one survives, and I'm careful not to drop it.

I only drink Starbucks Columbian coffee. Nothing else tastes as good. I only drink coffee I brew, unless I'm forced to be polite. Please don't offer me coffee if I visit your home. I have become an insufferable snob about coffee.

For Christmas, my sweet daughter-in-law gave me a new coffee cup. It's white on the outside, red on the inside.

I've used it several times now. The coffee tastes ... almost the same. Because I love my daughter-in-law, I'm going to drink out of that cup, but I try not to look over the rim. I don't want to see red.

Also, I've resolved to give better advice in 2007. While my oldest son was home for Christmas, he recited his reading material, which was heavily weighted with dull non-fiction and some self-help books. I suggested he should find something lighter, such as Thomas Hardy's novels. The 19th century English author's style of writing makes for a good night's sleep. Instead, I should have told my son to read Hemingway.

Also for the New Year, I am resolved to grow more tomatoes and flowers. My bride deserves a better crop than I produced last year. I'm going to learn from my mistakes. If the mild weather holds, maybe I should plant in February and get a jump on spring and have the first homegrown tomatoes of the neighborhood.

I've resolved to go camping this year, not just talk about it. I'm going to take my boys to the mountains, search for wild flowers and sleep outdoors. We're going to climb mountains until our legs ache and our feet are blistered. We're going to step across tiny mountain streams, look for trillium in the Smokies, and stretch our arms around the big trees in Joyce Kilmer Forest.

I'm going to catch a fish this year — a big one. Digging through old photos, I found a picture of my biggest catch of all time — a two-foot shunk. I can do better than that.

I'm going to fly my kites higher this summer at the beach. I'm going to string a thousand feet ball of twine together and launch my kite to the heavens. People on the beach will walk and by stare up into the sky wondering where my kite is up there.

I'm going to be more open minded in 2007.

My teenager wanted to rent the Al Gore movie, "An Inconvenient Truth" last week at the video store. His teacher recommended it. I refused, saying I was a Republican. I also wanted a light comedy, not a movie about doom-and-gloom, woe-is-us, the sky is falling because I didn't recycle my yogurt cup and I drive an SUV. That was stubborn of me. I'm going to rent that movie and let him watch it. By himself.

Bad Reputation Cake

How did fruit cake get such a bad reputation? I've been eating one this week that's very good — in small servings.

The traditional Christmas dessert, unfortunately, has been made badly so long that it has become the butt of many jokes. The cake usually suffers from too much fruit and not enough liquor. Also, old fashioned fruit cakes are so big they never get consumed. My cake has lots of nuts. It's small. It's good, but I don't want another until next Christmas.

THE PRESIDENT PUSHES THE ENVELOPE BY CLAIMING THE POWER TO OPEN AMERICANS' MAIL WITHOUT A WARRANT:

In The Mail ... Be More Responsible To Mother Earth

To the editor:

This wonderfully mild winter got me interested in global warming. According to Al Gore's film An Inconvenient Truth, there are devastating results to come in the next 20 years of our lives if the illusive someone doesn't do the illusive something. I learned that the major factor is the increase in carbon dioxide levels in the atmosphere.

There are things we as individuals can do. We can plant a tree. One tree times millions of people means carbon dioxide taken in by millions more trees and sweet oxygen given off. If we don't like doing leaves in the fall, how about planting evergreens? Winter is a good time to plant trees around here, because they are in the dormant stage.

In the movie The Holiday, Catheron Diaz is mystified when the coffee pot isn't springing to life when she flips the switch. In England, where she's spending the holiday, we learn they actually unplug the coffee pot when not in use. I was surprised to see on a

Never Stop Climbing The Mountain - You Are Never Alone

To the editor:

Some days I know how I got this far. Most days I totally understand. Other days I get confused. Everyday I hold on to my Lord. On days I can't hold on tight enough - those are the days God carries me completely. He makes sure I'm never alone. He is with me on good days, hard days and the "I'm so unsure" days. When I smile he is with me. When I cry he is with me. When I have days like today, when I don't know how I feel, he is by my side.

I have climbed the biggest mountain over the last 16 years and I haven't climbed it alone. My daughter Misti Anne Mathena has a birthday Jan. 10. Misti Anne would have been 31 years old. She was murdered 16 years ago, when she was 14 years old. That is my mountain. My journey up that mountain has never been easy. Some days I progressed steadily. God gave me determination. Other days I couldn't hold on and fell back to the bottom. Not just once, but numerous times. Every time I got a little higher up and fell shorter distances. I didn't think I couldn't make it to the top, but with God's help I kept trying. God's arms steadied me and let me rest in them until I had strength to try again.

It was three years before I could take a deep breath or see any color other than gray. I held on to her for 13 years and I was strong enough to let Misti Anne go. Then I reached the top of my mountain.

Sheriff Should Wear A Gun

To the editor:

It has been several weeks since the election that saw Andy Stokes defeat Danny Chandler for sheriff, and yet there are still folks out there who seem to be campaigning against him. Whether you were a supporter of Andy Stokes or not, it is time to acknowledge his win and give him a chance to do his job without criticisms that have little substance. The letter to the editor last week criticizing him for wearing a firearm while participating in the "Shop with a Cop" program was really unnecessary. The man is a law enforcement officer who is on duty. We need to stop looking for ways to diminish his position in the community, and start giving the man the support he is going to need to do the job the way Davie County expects it to be done.

If you're not happy with him, you can always vote someone else in office in 2010.

But know this, a customer of mine was in my store this past Tuesday with a concern about her child being threatened with violence at Davie High. She called the sheriff's department, and 10 minutes later, Stokes arrived and spoke to her personally. He didn't send a deputy to handle it, he got involved himself. That is the kind of community policing the county needs. Andy Stokes told me while campaigning that he would be a sheriff out and about in the community.

He's proving himself true. Danny Chandler showed a tremendous amount of grace and dignity in defeat. There are those among us that can take a lesson from him.

Mike Gunning, Mocksville

National Geographic show that 40 percent of an electrical appliance's energy usage is expended just sitting there waiting for us to turn it on. Why don't we unplug or use a surge protector's switch to shut the flow of electricity before it gets to the appliance? Forty percent could have a nice side effect for our electric bill, too.

Our gasoline fueled cars contribute carbon dioxide. How many trips could we cut out? Could we buy a hybrid car this year and park the SUV more?

I'm also contacting and urging others to contact our leaders in Washington about our concerns via email at www.congress.org.

Our children and grandchildren need us to take responsibility and to teach them responsibility to Mother Earth. Otherwise, Mother Nature will be responsible for making Wrightsville and Toppal beaches disappear, among her many acquisitions if her ice caps continue to melt and her oceans rise 20 feet in 20 years.

How Does Flagstaff Do It?

To the editor:

As a follow-up to my letter published Dec. 28, the first sentence contained a typo: It should have read, "...increasing volume of trash along our roadways ..." not "among."

Over the holidays, I had the pleasure to spend time with my oldest son in Flagstaff, Ariz. I was surprised to find out that in a small town of only about 53,000 people (Only 10,000 more than Davie), Flagstaff has, not 1, not 2, but three high schools.

Davie County covers about 265 square miles while Flagstaff covers 65. It makes me wonder how they managed to squeeze those three schools into such a small area.

Crossing Guard Says Thanks, Offers Safety Tips

To the editor:

All travelers on North Main Street, Mocksville ...

I am the big guy in yellow that starts your day with frustration at North Main and Cemetery streets each weekday morning. I started directing traffic at the beginning of this school year and want to thank each of you who pass through between 7:30 and 8:15 a.m. for your patience and kind remarks. It's been a learning experience for all of us.

Although I have never directed vehicular traffic, I am a retired air traffic control specialist and feel that I do have some sense of spacing and traffic flow. My number one priority is, (as with ATC), safety. As an employee of Mocksville Police, I am afforded the same authority as a police officer in controlling traffic, without the ability to enforce traffic laws by issuing citations. However, I do have a cell phone with MPD on speed dial. If I observe a motorist breaking the law or intentionally disobeying my directions, I will call MPD and report them.

Why am I writing this letter? It is twofold.

First, I want to thank all the regular travelers on North Main and Cemetery for showing me respect and following my flapping arms every day.

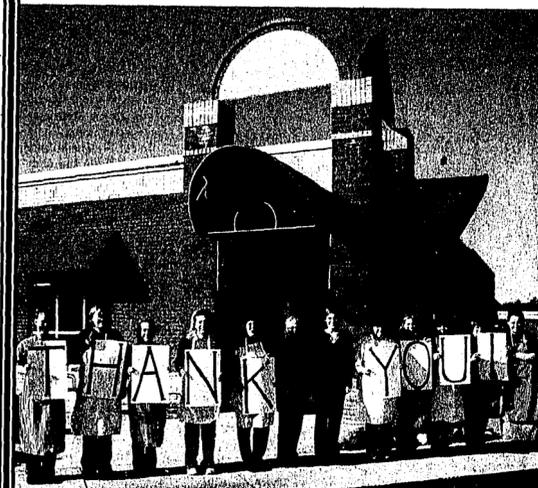

Second, I would like to list some helpful hints that may increase safety, minimize your delay and help me do a better job. With safety as my number one priority I consider my other priorities to be:

1. Keeping the school buses moving. Sure, you have to get your child to school and then get to work, too. But how many kids are in your car? That bus has 40 to 50 kids on it. It's simple math.
2. Keep the big rigs movin'. It's not that they're more important, just bigger. The semi's, dump trucks and cement trucks that frequent Main Street are heavy. They are hard to stop and slow to start. When possible, I will allow them to maintain their momentum so that they can clear the intersection with minimal delay.
3. Everyone else the same. Whether you are going to school, to the YMCA, to work or wherever, you each have the same right to clear this intersection with as little delay as possible. My job is to accomplish this task. Easy, huh?
4. Helpful hints:
 1. Use your turn signals. Unlike a traffic light, I can see you approaching a long way off. If you have your turn signal activated to turn on to Cemetery Street, I can more easily adjust traffic flow and minimize your delay. Do not wait until the last minute to turn it on. Your signal should convey your intention; "Hey you, in the yellow...I want to turn up there," not, "Look out, here I come." If you are north bound on Main, turn on your left turn signal when you pass Hallander Street. When southbound, turn on your right signal when you pass Spruce Street. When exiting Cemetery Street, signal which way you want to turn so I will know where to stand in the intersection. I don't want to get run over any more than you want to run me over.
 2. Follow directly behind the vehicle in front, one to two car lengths behind. Do not crowd the centerline, do not ride the curb. This allows me to see your turn signal. (See Hint 1.)
 3. Hang up the cell phone. For cryin' out loud, how important is that call? Is it more important than the safety of you or your children? Not only does it divert your attention from approaching this dangerous intersection, it makes it hard for you to use your turn signals. (See Hint 1.) Go ahead and make that call after you are through my space. You may risk your life if you wish, do not risk mine.
 4. Do not drive with your emergency flashers on. I can not tell which way you wish to turn, or if you are turning at all. (See, Hint 1.)
 5. If you have your headlights on, use low beams. Not only does it blind me and other drivers, it obscures your turn signals. (See Hint 1.)
5. Do not speed, but keep your speed up. The speed limit on both streets is 35 mph. Any faster is dangerous. Driving at 5 mph is too. Safety is most important, but you can hinder the safe and expedient flow of traffic if you are crawling through the intersection. As long as I am waving you through, keep moving. I am not going to expect you to stop on a dime.
6. Do not crowd the intersection. Because this intersection is not a crossing street, there are no white lines painted on Main to indicate where you are supposed to stop. That is why my truck is parked at the curb with a traffic cone placed at the rear bumper. This cone is your line. When I direct you to stop going northbound, stop with the front of your vehicle at this cone. If southbound, leave 2 to 3 car-lengths between you and the crosswalk. If exiting Cemetery, stop at the white line painted 2 to 3 car-lengths from the corner. The large school buses entering and exiting Cemetery Street need this extra room to swing wide while negotiating this turn. You do not need to stop half-a-block away, either. I am in control of traffic exiting Cemetery, so if you top that hill and see me standing there flapping my arms, be prepared to stop - at the line.
7. Do not crowd the intersection. Because this intersection is not a crossing street, there are no white lines painted on Main to indicate where you are supposed to stop. That is why my truck is parked at the curb with a traffic cone placed at the rear bumper. This cone is your line. When I direct you to stop going northbound, stop with the front of your vehicle at this cone. If southbound, leave 2 to 3 car-lengths between you and the crosswalk. I am in control of traffic exiting Cemetery, so if you top that hill and see me standing there flapping my arms, be prepared to stop - at the line.
8. Once you are stopped, stay stopped. Don't be a creeper. Often I will have a car stopped and turn my back to direct oncoming traffic, only to turn around and find that same car has crept up behind me. Don't do that. It scares me. You are not gonna go until I direct you to, so please don't crowd me.
9. Pay attention to me. Sure, be aware of the other traffic, but pay more attention to me. I am not going to have you pull in front of someone else. I am there for your safety. While stopped and waiting, this is not the time to dial/answer your phone, fix your makeup, fill your pipe, discipline your child or read your map. Watch me. You can do those things later.
10. Temper, temper. I won't get mad at you if you get confused and don't understand who I'm flapping my arms at. But if you get angry with me and impede traffic by wanting to stop and cuss me out while I'm trying to do my job or, worse yet, try to circumvent me by disobeying my lawful directions, be prepared for a visit from Mocksville's Finest. They will explain the law to you. Remember, I have a cell phone.
11. Pick a different time. If you need to travel through this intersection on a daily basis (to work, to the YMCA, whatever) plan to go before 7:30 a.m. or after 8:15 a.m. if you have a choice...if not, I look forward to seeing you.
12. Exit through Park Drive. If you are dropping your child at school and heading back toward town, consider exiting via Park Drive to Main Street.
13. Do not stop in the intersection. If you want to know where to go to renew your license or car tags, don't stop in front of me, in the middle of traffic, to ask me. It not only impedes the flow of traffic, it distracts me from my job. Don't stop to say Hi. I have made many friends since moving here two and 1/2 years ago. I love you all dearly. But my mind is on moving vehicles. I'm not looking at you in the car, I'm looking at the car and the car's turn signals. (See Hint 1.) If you wave to me each morning, don't be mad if I don't wave back. My waving to you could be misinterpreted as a direction to another driver and lead to an accident. If you have a comment or suggestion for me, go directly to the MPD office and talk to the chief. He will be most interested (and perhaps amused) at your suggestions.

It was written with the goal of increased safety. I hope you all had a great holiday and wish you all a safe and prosperous New Year.

Bob Boles enjoys a fishing trip to the coast.

and because of that, she said, she wanted a place like his.

Boles' sister, Barbara Culler, said besides his family, one of the people who would miss Boles most was his longtime friend, Willie Mae Bracken.

"They really loved each other. They were together 51 years. She would fix dinner for him every night, and he would go there, but he always went home at night. They kept separate houses. They were asked the question many times why they never got married, and the answer to that was that they thought if they got married, they'd end up divorced. 'You don't mess with a good thing,' they said."

Culler said Bracken's child, two grandchildren, and one great-granddaughter loved Boles just as much as he loved them, but knows Bracken is hurting most.

"She's probably going through a very rough time right now. She's going to be very lonely," Culler said.

Dull's friend and inspiration is gone, but she will never forget the man who always remembered to put a little peanut butter on the thick-slabbed bologna sandwiches Boles served to his customers.

"Bob was not a millionaire in terms of money, but he was a millionaire in terms of friends. That is what I would love people to be able to say about me one day. He was just a sweetheart."

and stabbed Mr. Lawson in the leg." Lawson received a total of 16 stab wounds.

Brown said that Boles became armed and fired two shots at Angell, but he was not hit. "At some point Mr. Angell got the gun and shot Mr. Boles multiple times along with multiple stab wounds. During the course of the investigation the missing money to pay for the fuel, 1,350 dollars, was found in Mr. Angell's possession."

Boles, 74, was hospitalized the day of the incident and Brown said that he was receiving hospice care. Boles' sister, Barbra Culler, who was at her brother's bedside, was spoken to via phone during the proceedings to verify he was alive.

"The state believes the evidence will show assault to inflict serious injury on the three victims. We believe this is an appropriate plea at this time," Brown said.

Presiding judge Steve A. Balog explained to Angell, "Mr. Boles was gravely injured. I want to make sure you understand he did not die from the injuries inflicted you could be brought back and prosecuted for that homicide."

Balog said that there could be legal contests concerning the amount of time that has elapsed since Boles received his injuries.

"There is no agreement in this plea that you would not be prosecuted should he die. They're not giving up that option in exchange for this plea," Balog said.

Parker told the judge he had known Angell and his family for a long time. "There has been a lot of emotion in this county concerning this case. Nothing I say should minimize the pain and suffering of the victims and their families, but everyone is entitled to representation."

Parker said that he had received death threats since becoming Angell's attorney.

"Since an early age Kirston has been on his own. He got good help from his grandparents, but he's raised himself since he was 8 years old. He's been exposed to things he never should have."

Parker said that the defense was in agreement with everything from the state with the exception of Angell taking the gun from Boles and shooting him. "They were wrestling with the gun and two shots were fired," Parker said that one of the shots did hit Angell.

Parker said that Angell was working three jobs at that time, but was also using a variety of drugs. "He had left one job and was on his way home to change clothes before he went to his next job. He walked in to get a table and saw the money at the table and thought 'there's my next supply of drugs.' He couldn't turn loose of the drugs and was caught in a vicious cycle."

When Angell was given the opportunity to address the court he apologized to his family and the families involved. "I'm sorry, to Mr. Boles and his family."

Several family members in the courtroom cried.

Balog sentenced Angell to a total of 25-33 years in prison and ordered him to enroll in a substance abuse program. "Good luck to you, son," Balog said.

Following Angell's sentencing Brown concluded with the announcement, "Mr. Boles sister, Barbra Culler, is still verifying Mr. Boles is still alive. It's 10:18 a.m. on Jan. 3."

Boles died later that evening.

According to Brown, after the death of Mr. Boles 'the body was taken to Baptist Hospital for autopsy.

Brown said until the results of the autopsy are received there will be no determination on charges against Angell.

It could take several weeks before those results are in, according to Brown.

Brown said that if Mr. Boles death is "a proximate cause of the actions of the defendant then he could be convicted with both the assault and a murder charge at some point and time, according to Brown.

Brown said that the doctor who performed the autopsy is reviewing all documentation relevant to Boles medical history and the injuries he received.

"We have no ability to make any decision at this time," Brown said.

Parker has not spoken to his client since his sentencing, and though he says his legal obligations to Angell were relieved after the plea he continues to work on the case. "There's victims on both sides of this case. It's a sad, sad situation all the way around."

Parker remembered when he saw Angell shortly after his arrest. "He was nothing more than a scared kid crying his eyes out over what he'd done. I've never had a client act more remorseful than Kirston did."

Parker thinks the plea was right for the case and says he hopes the state won't pursue a murder charge against Angell. "Let Mr. Boles rest in peace and let my client serve one-third of his life in prison."

Parker said that a first-degree murder charge would be hard to prove. "I've seen no evidence of premeditation or deliberation from my client."

Parker said the case was an emotional one for him and he thinks that if Angell could have had better circumstances in his life, things may have been different.

"Kirston should not be a throw-away human being despite what he's done. If there's ever been a case that defines the word sad, it's this one."

He and the Title I coordinator discovered what had been done and realized it needed to be corrected, and that is why the cut of one position, which translates to both teachers, is being recommended as a possibility.

"We will continue to fund one position, but we can't do the other half, so they won't be able to do their half. If we could find the funds for every school to have two, we'd love that, but we don't have the money for that. The resources have to go to the highest risk schools. All schools now will have one First Steps teacher, to make them uniform," Lane said.

Lane said the First Steps teachers could move into different positions, possibly into the classroom.

Deborah Smink, finance officer, said the possible elimination of dental coverage would save $87,000.

"This is one of the things we're looking at," she said. "Insurance costs continue to rise. This policy is costing us $87,000 per year, but we don't feel it is providing much for our employees."

Smink said dental coverage has been provided for at least the past 10 years, and with the cut, all employees would be affected, from the superintendent down. Of 115 school systems statewide, 60 have some type of plans available to employees, but Davie was only one of 13 to offer dental coverage, Smink said.

When the state set the mandated monthly minimum pay of employees, Smink said they needed to make changes in the pay scales of all employees, because "a cafeteria worker starting out was making the same as one who had been there eight years. When the state does things like that, we have no choice but to adjust the cost of a lunch."

The price of an adult lunch increased in 2006, but Lane said they hope they will not have to make adjustments this year, but will do what needs to be done.

The state recommendation is for one nurse for every 750 students, and Davie has one for every 650 students. Lane said one nurse at the high school addresses the needs of 1,800 students, but the nurse at William R. Davie works with 350 students. The budget recommendations include the possibility of no full-time nurse at Ellis.

"We will continue to maintain the state recommendation, and every school will have a nurse, but not all day," Lane said. "They may share a nurse, and planning will be done based on where the greatest needs are."

Smink said, "We have over 800 employees, and in order for us to be the best guardians of our resources, we have to look at those positions and make sure we are making the best use of them for our students. We are looking at every single employee, and asking, 'Are we getting the most bang for our buck, in order to give the best quality education for our students?'"

Lane and Smink said they wanted to address the budgeting process, including why it has been perceived that the school board suffered a loss of $400,000 in its general fund this past year.

"When the budget process was started in 2005," Smink said, "there was a projection that $540,000 would be needed from our fund balance (which is like a savings account), to pay our expenses, because the county only gave us two percent, and we receive the majority of our money from the county. On top of that, we had the state mandated discretionary reduction, where they give us our allotments, but we have to give some back. That amount was around $203,000. As it turned out, we only had to pull just over $401,000 total, so we actually did better than we thought we would."

"Our audit shows that we had a deficit of $638,000 in our fund balance, but we used $401,390, and the remainder, $237,464 was Mebane money. We received a whole lot of money in the spring 2005, and it made our fund balance jump up, so it looks like we spent a whole lot of money in 2005-06, but that's because the Mebane money was in there. It wasn't broken out into a separate line item," she said.

This past spring, in doing planning for the 06-07 budget, Smink said they were told by the state to plan on a salary increase of five percent for teachers and three percent for others. When the General Assembly adopted its budget, those amounts jumped.

"Teachers ended up with an eight percent raise, administration seven and all other non-certified employees received a five and a half percent raise," Smink said. While the average increase was 8.13 percent, Lane said, that was for newer teachers. Tenured teachers received a 14 percent raise.

Added to that, Smink said, was the state mandate that minimum monthly salaries must be at least $1,676.

"We had people who were relatively new making less than that. You take that number times the number of employees, and it adds up quickly. And we never saw that coming."

Together with teacher supplement increases, including taxes and benefits, the increases ended up costing $465,885 more than had been projected.

Smink said this year, they weren't hit with the discretionary reduction, but are suffering the loss of $140,000 in sales tax.

"We can't keep using our fund balance for recurring expenses," Smink said, and because of that, in planning the 07-08 budget, cuts are being considered.

As far as the concern raised that the board needs to make cuts mid-year because of a large budgetary shortfall, Smink said, "There is absolutely no validity to that statement at all. There is no shortfall. We are right on track with our budget, and we are at mid-year."

"We're not a for-profit organization. The money we're given, we need to use for salaries and the education of our students. Our goal is to use the financial resources we're given, [not keep a big fund balance]. We're no different from people who plan a household budget. If your utilities - cable, electricity, phone have gone up, and your income hasn't, you look at what you can cut back on so you can live on a day-to-day basis. We're looking at ways we can accomplish the same goals but with less money," Smink said.

Lane added, "We're here for the kids. Our responsibility is to be prudent users of tax money. We're just trying to look at everything to make sure we're using our assets wisely."

"There was a statement made that staff and faculty are not encouraged to give their input. That is simply not true! Anytime anybody has a question or is confused, my door is open, my phone line is open and my email

REAL ESTATE WEEKLY

The Newly-Constructed Home
Determine if "new is for you." Despite the shiny, new bells and whistles associated with a new home, you might prefer an existing house. Purchasers of existing homes avoid contributing to suburban sprawl, enjoy the stability of established neighborhoods and infrastructures, and don't need to worry about today's fast-paced home construction industry. New home buyers, on the other hand, may be most attracted to the ease of brand-new homes with minimal maintenance concerns and a pre-planned neighborhood structure.

Another option is the brand-new home that's already built. While this may be a rarity in a booming market, Debbie can help find one for you that can help eliminate surprises. Not to mention, it will likely fast-forward passed the inconvenience of other unfinished homes still in the construction phase around you.

For professional advice on all aspects of buying and selling real estate, you can reach Debbie at ERA Premier Realty, 336-998-7777 or 336-909-1284, or contact her email address at debbie.prachel@era.com or visit her website at www.era-premierrealty.com.

"Common Sense Religion"

The modern Christian world is hopelessly divided into hundreds of different churches each having its own distinctive name, doctrines, rituals, and organization. It defies common sense to think that all of them can be right.

North Davie Ruritan Install Officers

The North Davie Ruritan Club held its annual Christmas Banquet on Dec. 11.

After a meal prepared by the folks of Union Chapel United Methodist Church, the officers for 2007 were sworn in by the chair of the Ruritan Foundation, Steve Tulbert.

Bill Shelton read a list of scholarships and other humanitarian gifts made by the club during 2006 which totaled almost $10,000. It was a year to be proud of, he said.

Shelton then performed his annual comedy skit which was followed by a group rendition of "Silent Night," the pledge of allegiance and the presentation of a wrapped poinsettia to each of the women present.

Anyone who wishes to join in trying to make North Davie a better place should call the president, Charles Eaton at 998-3766, or the vice president, Tony Blakely, at 998-7196.

Leadership Group To Construct Shelter At South

The leadership class of Davie County has submitted a project for construction of a 24- by 36-foot multipurpose shelter behind the cafeteria and gymnasium at South Davie Middle School.

The shelter would be available for classroom instruction and activities more conducive in an outdoor environment, as well as provide space for student interaction outside the walls of a traditional classroom.

The proposed project would be built of treated lumber and asphalt shingles with a concrete pad, electricity and trash receptacles. Existing landscaping would be refurbished as well adding new landscaping.

According to Anne Holland, project chair, "The art project will provide an alternative learning environment for students by allowing more space than is available in the traditional classroom. It will also be a way for teachers to reward students for good behavior by allowing them to eat lunch outside. Plus, new landscaping will unify the school's entrances make the rear of the school more attractive."

This project would benefit the school and community greatly, she said.

Teachers must coordinate use of the media center, cafeteria or unsheltered outside areas for activities. Middle school students need movement and interaction that only an outdoor space can provide. Teachers would have an opportunity to take students away from the confines of a classroom and provide an alternate environment for learning and movement, Holland said.

Students frequently request permission to each lunch outside of the noisy and crowded confines of the cafeteria as a reward for a good behavior or performance. There are four small picnic tables on an unroofed patio. The shelter would provide a place to take a class to be sheltered, more controlled environment for lunch or other special celebration or event.

The project would provide for improved esthetics at the rear of the school. This project would provide an opportunity to unify the entrances with common landscaping and improved visual appeal.

Leadership Davie County, headed by Jim Cochie of Ventlab, is a community leadership program provided through Davie County Chamber of Commerce. The program provides opportunities to develop and enhance community leadership by planning, communication, decision-making and problem solving with a focus on understanding self, others and the community.

Farm Loans May Be Available

The N.C. Farm Service Agency (FSA) announced the availability of funds targeted for socially disadvantaged (SDA) individuals who want to purchase or operate a family-size farm in fiscal year 2007.

In Fiscal Year 2006, which ended Sept. 30, North Carolina Farm Loan Programs made 85 SDA loans totaling more than $11.8 million. This was 18 percent of the total loans made and 16 percent of the total dollars loaned.

In Davie County, SDA farmers benefited from $11.8 million in farm loans disbursed in fiscal year 2006.

"This special financing is for people who have been subjected to racial, ethnic or gender inequality without regard to their individual qualities. SDA members include women, African Americans, American Indians, Hispanics, Asian and Pacific Islanders and Alaskan natives," said Melissa M. Hodges, Davie County FSA farm loan program manager.

The SDA program provides direct and guaranteed assistance in the form of farm operating and farm ownership loans. Direct loans are made to applicants from FSA. Guaranteed loans are issued by lending institutions, but typically 90 or 95 percent of the loan is guaranteed by FSA.

Operating loans may be used to purchase livestock, equipment, feed, seed and other business related expenses. Repayment terms run from one to seven years.

Ownership loans provide capital to purchase or enlarge a farm, construct or improve buildings, promote soil and water conservation and pay closing costs. Direct ownership loan terms are up to 40 years. Guaranteed loan terms are established by the lender.

Qualified candidates are provided information and assistance to develop sound management practices, analyze problems and utilize available resources essential for successful farming operations to cope with the changing agricultural environment.

SDA loan applicants do not receive automatic approval. Individuals must be U.S. citizens with a satisfactory history of meeting credit obligations, have sufficient education, training or experience managing or operating a farm, possess legal capacity to incur debt and be unable to obtain credit elsewhere.

Contact the FSA office servicing Davie County at 248-2687 or USDA Service Center for more loan information.

Wrestler Shows How Good He Can Be Ange Extends Tear To 58-1

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

Technically, Chris Ange's 7-1 win against Leesville Road in Saturday's five-team round-robin at Orange High was just a spark that ignited a 33-0 tear in an eventual 51-30 victory for Davie's wrestling team.

But for Ange, it was a chance to make a statement. Consider the chance seized. The senior's growing reputation moved several notches higher because his victim was Billy Edwards, who is ranked No. 1 in the 4-A state at 130. Edwards placed third in the state as a sophomore, fifth as a junior and had one loss as a senior.

The 7-1 win moved Ange's sensational senior record to 30-1. He is working on an incredible run, ending last year with 28 straight wins to make him victorious in 58 of his last 59.

It's not like Ange hasn't pulled off his share of eye-catching moments. He went 41-10 as a sophomore, finishing second in the Midwest Regional and going 1-2 in the state meet. But he remains under the state radar because last year he came down with pneumonia and missed all of February's main events.

While Edwards and the other opponents at Orange might have been startled by Ange's emphatic win over Edwards, Davie coaches Buddy Lowery and Howard Riddle were not surprised at all. "He's been through the wars," Lowery said. "He had a bad experience last year with getting pneumonia before the regionals. He would have done well last year in the state."

"I don't think Edwards was expecting Ange to be as good as he is," Riddle said. "Other than people in our conference and people who have seen Ange wrestle regularly don't know how good he is because last year was the year he would have broken through at the state tournament. He would have placed in the state, no doubt. They don't give him much respect because he didn't qualify. They didn't know he was sick."

Ange's career numbers are rather gaudy. He went 45-4 in his abbreviated junior season, and he's 120-19 in his Davie career. He's on the cusp of cracking the top 10 in career wins.

Wrestlers Make Lowery Proud

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

If you're going to get Davie's wrestlers, you better get them now. Plenty of opponents are taking advantage of a Davie team that isn't nearly as menacing as it usually is or will be in the near future.

The War Eagles have lost by one, 11, nine and five points. With four losses by a total of 26 points, they are not far from being 24-5 instead of 20-9. With all the injuries - the latest on the injury front was Jesse Cousins' falling to the shelf after trying to come back two weeks ago - you could if, if and if yourself to death.

But coach Buddy Lowery refuses to lean on excuses. He said Davie will benefit for the experiences of being in hard-fought matches. What's made his most losses since 1977-78 easier to handle is the way Davie responded from a 37-32 setback against Orange in the opening acts of Saturday's tournament at Orange; consecutive wins over Pinecrest (46-21), Durham Jordan (45-18) and Leesville Road (51-30).

"It's going to pay off," Lowery said. "We grew up a lot Saturday," assistant coach Howard Riddle said. "Orange is a very good 2-A team, and we had a chance to beat them."

The War Eagles overcame an 18-3 hole against Orange, the first three points coming from Travis Goforth. Chris Ange, Matt Garretson and Joel Barnett cut the margin to 18-17, and Ethan Curtis lifted Davie in front 23-18.

Orange had a 31-23 lead going into 189. Justin Miller had a 7-2 lead. But just when it seemed Davie was about to pull within 31-26 with Jake Boger, who pinned his man, and Aaron Peoples, who closed the match with a three-point win, coming up, Orange shocked Miller with a pin that clinched the decision.

What made the loss tougher to take was the War Eagles forfeited at 122 and 125, as they did all day. David Oakley was sick and Zach Vernon was out of town.

Lowery stood by Miller, a freshman who will play a key role for three more years. He likely beats Orange with better conditioning, but he missed significant time with an injury.

"That's a nine-point swing. But he wrestled hard," Lowery said. "He's going to be a good one, if he figures out how good he can be. He's got all the tools to be a good one. He's got a freshman and he's learning. He shot for a takedown and sometimes you've got to know when to let the clock run, baby. You're winning 7-2 and you've been and you're not in the best of shape."

Despite giving up the forfeits, Davie matched Orange in pins (3-3) and individual wins (7-7).

"I called (Orange's coach) Friday and he said, 'You know who you're wrestling first, don't you?'" Lowery said. "If we'd wrestled them later in the day we might have beat them, when we could get in the groove, get the kinks out and get in the flow. At first we're looking around and trying to figure out what it's like."

Overall Davie gave an outstanding effort.

Junior Barnett was brilliant at 140, going 4-0 with all pins. Senior Ange (130), freshman Garretson (135) and junior Curtis (160) also went 4-0.

Lowery looked at Garretson's day in amazement. The freshman appears to be a gold nugget. "He's a pinner. I'm going to tell you, he's going to be fun to watch the next few years," he said.

You know Garretson, who broke into 135 to 130, is a genuine future star when words like that come from a coach who normally is cautious with praise. "When he's on top, he's working to pin your butt," Lowery continued. "He's not trying to ride you much. He's a little out of control every now and then, but he's the kind you like to see. I mean he looks like a 145-pounder wrestling 135. He's pretty hard core."

New Girl's Lineup Sparks 34-Point Win

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

WINSTON-SALEM - What a difference three straight days of practice made for Davie's varsity girls basketball team.

After the War Eagles played a disastrous first half in a 49-44 loss to West Rowan in the third-place game of the Sam Moir Christmas Classic, coach Debbie Evans let them know their play wasn't acceptable. It sure looked like they listened.

In Friday's Central Piedmont Conference game at Reynolds, the War

Eagles suddenly looked more like the team that Evans think they can be, demonstrating steely resolve in a 70-36 drubbing of the Demons.

Yes, Reynolds is 1-12 and 0-5 in the CPC. But Davie (6-9, 2-2) needed a jolt, and maybe this is the start of something. Evans inserted four new girls in the starting lineup, subbed five at a time and the result was the most points and highest shooting percentage (39 percent) since a season-opening 79-22 rout of Mooresville, along with the fewest turnovers (17) in five games.

"It was just trying different looks and see if that would cause a spark for us. We needed a mix-up to give us a spark," Evans said of starting Amber Parrish, Rebecca Riddle, Lauren Walker and Carly Pratas alongside regular starter Morgan Owens. "(Assistant) coach (Jeff) Walton and I told them all week it was time for them to step up, and I think they took things upon themselves and had determination that they were ready to get things done. And they were able to tonight."

Astonishingly, six players more than doubled their season scoring averages. The six were Joni Garrett (14 points on 6-of-12 shooting, 7 rebounds, 4 steals), Parrish (10 points on 4-of-7 shooting, 3 assists), Owens (8 points, 7 rebounds), Walker (5 points), Riddle (4 points, 6 rebounds, 2 blocks) and Pratas (4 points, 5 rebounds, 3 assists).

There was more. Meisha Fowler matched her average with 14 points off the bench, her efficiency resulting in 5-of-9 shooting. Tonesha Turner had six points, six assists and no turnovers. And Sarah Evans had three points, nine rebounds and two assists as Davie ripped off 23 points above its season average. Please See Girls - Page B5

Tigers Catch Fire, Blow Out 3 Opponents

A .500 record at this point in the season would have been inconceivable when South Davie's boys basketball team was wobbling at 1-4. But the pain of losing by nine, three, three and 12 points has gone away.

The Tigers have made enough strides to win four of five for a 5-5 record, including convincing victories in succession over Booneville (49-31), Yadkinville (54-36) and Downtown (49-35).

The only setback during the 4-1 surge was 55-44 on the road to a ridiculously talented Knox. Denzel Redmon had 15 points and Darius Wilson 12 (for the second straight game) as South put up a stirring fight in defeat.

"Knox is as talented a team as I've seen at this level," coach Brent Wall said. "And for us to be within three with 2:30 left in the fourth quarter shows what we can do. We beat them in the second half."

"We'd like to have another month to go or a tournament to play in because I think we'd be a force to be reckoned with."

South won going away against Downtown. The 14-point win was significant because 9-2 North Davie needed a desperation lunch at the buzzer as Alex Newman to escape the Warriors 54-52.

"Downtown has a couple really good athletes, but when my athletes come to play we usually do OK," he said. "(Assistant) Germain (Mayfield) and I were talking the other day about how we'd like to have another month to go or a tournament to play in because I think we'd be a force to be reckoned with."

Redmon sparked a 15-7 lead over Booneville by scoring nine of his team-high 11 points in the first quarter. Reserve guard Nathan Jones enjoyed a memorable moment in the third, scoring nine points in an amazing outburst.

"He scored nine in about three minutes," he said. "He can come in and explode. He brings high energy any time he's in the game."

Yadkinville stayed within 10-8 in the first, but it couldn't stop Redmon and Kenyatta Brand in the second. They poured in 12 and nine points, respectively, to account for all of South's offense. Redmon finished with 22 and Brand 21. Brand was absolutely money at the foul line, going 10 of 10.

"Redmon got in the lane and our halfcourt trap created a lot of opportunities for him," he said. "Once he gets in the paint he's got a pretty good shot."

"Brand hasn't been attacking the basket. He's got a nice outside shot, but he's got upper-body strength and he needs to concentrate on getting to the hole like that."

South's momentum accelerated against Downtown because Dillard towered over nine first-quarter points that ignited a 15-7 lead and because Brand got the hot hand in the third, when a 24-23 deficit turned into a 35-29 lead. Please See SD Boys - Page B6

Worth Noting

Davie's varsity girls drilled Reynolds 70-36 behind Joni Garrett's 14 points, seven rebounds and four steals. Meisha Fowler and Amber Parrish had 10 and 10 points, respectively, while Tonesha Turner had six points against the turnovers.

Davie wrestler Joel Barnett went 4-0 with all pins in a tournament at Orange. Chris Ange overmatched a Leesville Road opponent who was ranked No. 1 at 130. And freshman Matt Garretson and Jake Boger went a combined 7-0.

Davie wrestling has two unbeaten 7-0 Chris Barnhart at 189 and 4-0 Shane Carter at 102.

Nathan Jones of South Davie's boys scored nine points in three minutes during a 49-31 win over Booneville. Denzel Redmon has 22 and 21, respectively, in a 54-36 win over Yadkinville. And Shane Carter had 16 and 15 in a 54-36 win over Booneville with 15 points.

Taylor Moore of Davie's swimming tacked up four first-place wins in two relay events and two relay wins in 100-70 loss to Reynolds.

Ashton Swicegood and Ashley Joyner of South Davie's girls combined for 18 points in a 36-22 win over Booneville.

Freshmen Sparkle Once Again For Davie Swimming

Davie's swim teams never match up with the Forsyth County teams in the Central Piedmont Conference. Last week Reynolds won 100-70 over Davie's girls and 118-50 over Davie's boys.

But the tougher part of the schedule has hardly faded. Moore and Autumn Jones. When Moore wasn't winning the 200 free and 500 free, Jones was winning the 100 free. When Moore and Jones weren't piling up points in individual events, Rachel Mackintosh, Moore and Jones were taking Reynolds down in relays. The victorious relays included Katelyn Jones and Summer Holland.

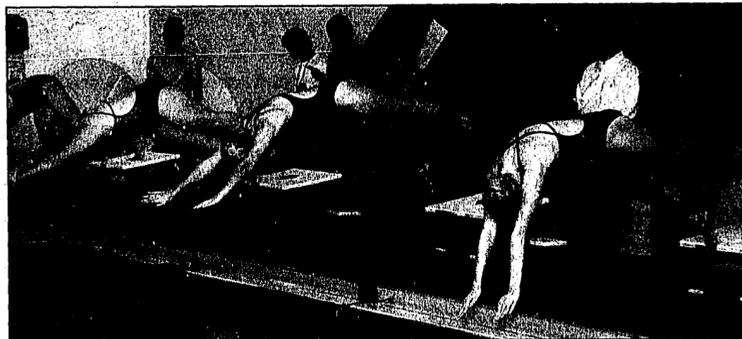

"Like usual Reynolds is a strong team," coach Jennifer Richardson said. "But they aren't as big as they were in previous years. They lost quite a few swimmers to Reagan. So even though we lost, we lost by a smaller margin."

The Davie girls gave Reynolds fits, with Holland and A. Jones placing second in the 200 free and 200 IM, respectively.

Drew Esposito was the top performer for Davie's boys, taking second in the 100 fly and 500 free. Daniel Wendel was responsible for Davie's other top finish, second in the 200 IM.

But Davie also grabbed second in three relays, with Timmy Stilling, Grady Carter, Justin Lee and Dillon Manship in the 200 medley; Esposito, Manship, Lee and Wendel in the 200 free; and Wendel, Stilling, Lee and Esposito in the 400 free.

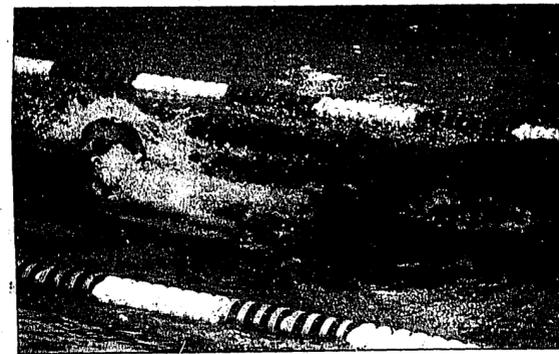

Richardson was happy about other developments. Among them were Carter knocking nine seconds off his backstroke and freshman Caitlin Tutterow placing an outstanding third in the backstroke with a time that was almost 10 seconds faster than the other time she swam it. And then there was Mackintosh, who once again shaved seconds off her butterfly, and Rebecca Hendrix, who delivered her best breaststroke of the season.

The Davie female swimmers are no longer a pushover. They gave Reynolds a battle in a 100-70 loss.

Old School Davie Sports From 1959

Joe Whitlock of the Davie Rebels basketball team stole the ball and put in what appeared to be the potential winning basket with 45 seconds left against Children's Home. But a call by one of the officials nullified the basket in an eventual 46-41 loss.

Barry Southern and Whitlock scored 16 and 12 points, respectively, in a thrilling game that saw 15 lead changes. The Rebels fell behind 6-0, but that was the largest deficit they would face.

Whitlock gave Davie a 24-23 halftime lead by hitting a shot from behind the halfcourt line as the horn sounded. Davie got solid rebounding from Bob York and "Boots" Huske.

Later in the week, the Rebels lost 49-34 to Asheboro. Davie was hampered by the loss of guard Ann Graham, who was sidelined by an illness.

Betty & Howard Edwards

Edwards Siding & Windows

Johnny Walker could not believe it. After eight years of staining, sealing, sanding and painting, his home looked new with almost no maintenance at all.

That's because he called Betty and Harold Edwards, of Edwards Siding and Windows.

"The heat, the sun, the weather continually wore down my deck and front porch," said Walker of Winston-Salem. "You could wash; you could paint; but you couldn't keep it white," he said. Walker estimated that he was staining and painting at least twice a year, until he finally contacted Edwards Siding and Windows.

The experienced professionals at Edwards Siding covered Walker's rear deck with white vinyl, and replaced all of the wooden railing with durable vinyl railings. The anti-slip vinyl flooring which covered the wooden deck floor is also treated to prevent chipping; and can be hosed off for simple cleaning.

"They are very good to work with," said Johnny Walker of Betty and Harold Edwards' company. The Edwards worked with the Walkers to design a customized fit for their existing home, with just the right style and appearance that they desired. Walker and his wife were so elated with the clean, virtually maintenance-free decking that they decided to do their front porch and walkway as well.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Tran of Winston-Salem also called Edwards Siding and Windows, to replace the railing around their home, and the trim for their windows.

"I was very pleased," said Tom Tran of the work which Edwards Siding did for his home. So pleased that he called his father, in order to get the same work done on his father's home.

"They are good at what they do," he said. Betty and Harold Edwards have owned and operated Edwards Siding and Windows since 1978. They are licensed and insured, beginning their business when aluminum siding was in vogue. With the advent of vinyl siding and windows, the Edwards have seen their volume of business explode.

"We stay kind of busy," said Betty Edwards of the sunrooms, screened in porches, vinyl decking and vinyl replacement windows which their company installs. Edwards Siding does both residential and commercial work. They have done jobs for a number of construction companies, including John S. Clark and McNair Construction.

Edwards Siding has installed vinyl siding and windows for churches, restaurants, motels, apartment buildings; and has been contracted with the United States Housing and Urban Development. With both residential and commercial customers, Edwards Siding uses high grade materials, such as Norandex Reynolds, to give their customers the longest life and best look of their products. They also offer a labor warranty. Call (336) 764-0885 for more information.

Edwards Siding gives FREE ESTIMATES on customized decking, railings, sunroom or screened-in porch additions, vinyl siding, and all work to be performed. They will sit down with each client to create that beautiful new sunroom or renovate an existing deck. In all that they do, Edwards Siding strives to please their customers with personal service and the most professional job possible.

"Most of our work is done through referrals," said Betty Edwards. "We have built our reputation through others' recommendations."

saw anywhere from a slide over 100 career matches to as many as 200-plus, a better measure of Ange's rank in the Davie archives rests in career winning percentage. And he is right up there on that star-studded list. Scotty Spry is No. 1 at 971 (101 wins, three losses).

Neil Comarizer is second at 964 (106-4). The only other star above Ange's .863 is Patrick Lowery's .904 (150-16). Spry, Comarizer and Lowery combined for six state championships. Ange currently ranks ahead of greats like Aaron Hollifield (.863, 182-30), Russell Hilton (.850, 126-32), Adam Connor (.829, 107-22), 2005 state champ Timmy Allen (.841, 132-25), 2006 state champ Garrett Parks (.829, 107-22), Adam Bailey (.820, 123-27) and Brad Pack (.812, 125-29).
"Davie has produced eight different gold medalists, including Scott Beauchamp (1989), Jon

Ward (1993), Spry (1993-95), Comarizer (1995-96), Lowery (2002) and Ryan Boehm (2004). Now that Ange has dropped from 135 to 130, now that Edwards couldn't solve the Ange riddle, Ange seems primed to make a run at becoming Davie's fourth state champion in four years.
"He's been 131, 132 and getting to eat," Lowery said. "But he'd like to win a state championship, and you've got a defending state champ from Watauga at 135, and he's bad news. Ange said: 'I might as well see this weekend where I stand.' Ange hasn't had many (tests) like that."
"You never know who's go-major decision without warning. He was 1-3 coming in. But ...

"In two of them we put him out there to dodge some people, and he had to take it for the team," Riddle said. "He wrestled a state champion from Morehead and a top-ranked kid from East Forsyth. If you put him out there every match, he's going to be much better than a .500 wrestler as a freshman, and that's good."
Freshman Boger made a loud and clear statement, pinning three in as many tries at 215. Who would have thought that after he entered at 8-8.
"And he wrestled a couple guys that were men," Riddle said. "The Orange guy (that Boger pinned) was put together, a real physical kid, and he outwrestled him. He's getting over being a freshman."
The coaches have lots of reasons for optimism. Sophomore Peoples went 3-1 at heavy-weight, as did junior Goforth at 119. Freshman Jake McKay and junior Floyd Collins went 2-1. Miller went 2-2.
Collins' role in Davie's ninth straight 20-win season probably hasn't been mentioned enough. He has won 10 of 15 at 160 despite weighing 147. That's gutsy stuff, especially when you consider he didn't wrestle the past two years.
"He's strong enough, quick enough and athletic enough that he can wrestle 160," Lowery said. "He can eat all he wants to, which he likes. We're trying to groom him for down the road."
The War Eagles won 34 of 49 individual matches, and in the final match of the day, they built a 33-3 lead over Leesville Road in textbook fashion: Ange wins 7-1, followed by pins from Garretson, Barnett, McKay, Curtis and Collins.
"We were winning big and looking good," Lowery said with pride. "Maybe they just wanted to go home."
Notes: Ange is 30-1, Curtis 25-2 and Barnett 25-5. The other winning records: Peoples 20-8, Goforth 21-11, Collins 10-5, Kevin Whitley 15-13, Boger 11-8, Miller 10-9 and Garretson 5-3. ... The War Eagles are 2-0 in the Central Piedmont Conference heading into conference dates at Reynolds on Jan. 11, at home against North Davidson on Jan. 23 at 6 and at home against West Forsyth on Jan. 25 at 6. ... Davie will get a lift when sophomore Rusty O'Connor returns. That could be any day. He was 9-5 before injuring his knee. "He will be back," Lowery said. "He did some running and stuff Friday. But he'll have to take it slow."

Girls ...

Coach Becky Miller of the JV girls talks to Elyssa Tucker.

JV Girls Bounce Back From Worst Loss

The Davie JV girls basketball team's slump hit rock bottom in the first round of a holiday tournament in Asheboro. Davie lost 51-28 to Southwest Randolph, and its fourth loss in five games was its worst of the season.
The War Eagles got a much-needed turnaround in the consolation, rallying past High Point Andrews 42-38.
Davie was a clunker against SW Randolph. The only good that came out of it, coach Becky Miller said, was the defensive efforts of Jennifer Booth, Morgan Merrifield and Erin Naylor. Merrifield led Davie's scoring with seven points. Ashley Smoot and Naylor had six each.
"We were slow on the court and had lots of turnovers," Miller said. "The holiday break was not kind to us. We were four of 17 from the line."
The HP Andrews game was strange. Davie dominated the first quarter 15-5. Andrews dominated the second 14-4. The War Eagles trailed 35-30 at the end of three, then dominated the fourth 12-3.
They used excellent balance. Smoot had nine points. Machel Gadsden and Maleia Stevenson had seven each. Naylor had six, Merrifield five and Elyssa Tucker four.
"We played much better," she said. "In the second and third we hurried too many shots and didn't rebound well. But in the fourth we moved the ball inside more and drew fouls."
Tucker and Naylor helped save the day, teaming to hit four of four free throws in the fourth. Davie hit 10 in all in the fourth and went 17 of 31 for the game.
"That definitely got us the win," she said.
Notes: Lee County didn't show for Davie's next game in the tournament, a forfeit that lifted Davie's overall record to 9-5. ... Smoot was named to the all-tournament team. ... Miller said Merrifield had back-to-back solid games on defense. ... Davie's JV teams play at West Forsyth on Jan. 12, at home against East Rowan on Jan. 16 and at South Rowan on Jan. 19. SW Randolph 51, Davie 28 - Costner Merrifield 7, Ashley Smoot 6, Erin Naylor 6, Machel Gadsden 5, Maleia Stevenson 2, Asia Streed 2.
Davie 42, HP Andrews 38 - Smoot 9, Gadsden 7, Stevenson 7, Naylor 6, Merrifield 5, Elyssa Tucker 4, Kaycee Dixon 2, Jennifer Booth 2.

"Everybody stepped up and played with confidence," she said. "You could look at any number of things and pull out some positives. They worked hard (last) week and had their minds set to do some good things."
Parrish got Davie rolling. Fifteen seconds into the game she threw ahead of the pack to set up a short basket for Riddle. In a 42-second span, Parrish nailed a 12-footer and a 3-pointer, the latter giving Davie a 9-6 lead.
"That's stuff that builds your confidence and builds confidence in one another," she said. "It was contagious and fed off to everyone else. That was definitely a big plus early in the game."
Then it was Fowler, who checked in with around three minutes left in the first and promptly went off, scoring seven points in a span of 65 seconds on a rebound putback, a 3-pointer and a short jumper on a pass from Turner.
"Fowler had her mind ready to play just like the rest of them did," she said.
Davie was flawless in the first, draining 10 of 19 shots as seven different players put in points.
Pratapras made her presence felt after only appearing in five games because of an injury. She handed two assists to Parrish in the early going. Then in less than a minute, Pratapas scored off an offensive rebound before dishing to Owens for a 29-17 lead.
Fowler was involved in two highlight moments that spanned 19 seconds. She rebounded a missed free throw, dribbled out, turned and popped a 3. Garrett picked up a steal, passed to Fowler and Fowler gave it right back to Garrett for a fastbreak layup.
At halftime Davie had all the points it would need, leading 37-17. It finished with a 48-30 rebounding advantage. For good measure, it outscored Reynolds 22-11 in the fourth.
"Pratapras has had trouble getting completely healthy and she's in as good a health as she's been in all year," Evans said. "And being able to have three days of practice in a row is something we haven't been able to have. And it paid off tonight all the way around."
Notes: The Demons hit a 3 with 7:32 left in the second quarter. They didn't score again in the second. ... The War Eagles play at home against West Forsyth on Jan. 12, at East Rowan on Jan. 16 and at home against South Rowan on Jan. 19. The games begin at 6 p.m.
Davie 70, Reynolds 36 - Joni Garrett 14, Meisha Fowler 14, Amber Parrish 10, Morgan Owens 8, Tonisha Turner 6, Lauren Walker 5, Rebecca Riddle 4, Carly Pratapas 4, Sarah Evans 3, Kellie Brown 2.

Landon Harris All-Tournament For JV Boys

Landon Harris of Davie's JV basketball team made the all-tournament team in Asheboro by scoring 36 points. Unfortunately, Davie lost two of three.
Davie was man-handled by Southwest Randolph, 62-44, in the first round. Harris tried to keep Davie in it with three 3-pointers and 16 points.
Davie bounced back with a 51-44 win over High Point Andrews. Brandon Hill and Harris led the way with 14 and 12 points, respectively. They got help from Jacob Robertson and Jermaine Harris, who scored nine each.
Davie (7-7 overall) suffered a close loss to Grimsley, 53-47. J. Harris had 12, Hill 10 and L. Harris eight.
The War Eagles are 0-3 in the Central Piedmont Conference. They play conference games at West Forsyth on Jan. 12, at home against East Rowan on Jan. 16 and at South Rowan on Jan. 19.

Boys 0-4 In Unforgiving CPC

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record
WINSTON-SALEM
Davie's varsity boys basketball team has shown flashes of promise, but it can't maintain the effort.
The War Eagles' futility in Friday's Central Piedmont Conference game at Reynolds was summed up in three parts of a 65-42 defeat.
Two free throws by James Mayfield cut Reynolds' lead to 5-4 halfway through the first quarter. But Reynolds scored six points in 22 seconds, working the low post for two and following that with a four-point play in which a 3-point shooter was fouled. Just like that it was 11-4.
Dennis Redmon and Matt Van Hoy buried 3s to rally Davie to 22-18 with 1:35 left in the second, only to see the surge disappear with five unanswered Reynolds points in 30 seconds.
And Davie was staying in the game when Darius Hall, Eric Lowery and Sean Miller scored four buckets in the first three minutes of the third to keep Reynolds' lead at 34-26. But seldom has it been able to play a strong game from start to finish, and this one was no different. After Hall closed the gap to eight, Reynolds blew it open with a 9-0 run.
As a result, Davie tumbled to a frustrating 5-10 overall and 0-4 in the unforgiving CPC.
"We're where we want to be (at 34-26), and we're not shooting well," coach Mike Absber said. "If we're making some shots, that keeps them out of their comfort zone. But we kept shooting poorly, and all of a sudden they got in a comfort zone and started making some shots. Then they're hard to defend."
Scoring a season-low 42 points, the War Eagles endured their third loss in a row and their seventh in eight games. Reynolds, led by Rod Kirby's 20 points and seven rebounds, improved to 8-8 and 4-1.
Reynolds didn't shoot well in the first half, but the War Eagles couldn't take advantage because they committed 13 turnovers and shot even worse at 6 of 20. They wound up with 24 turnovers, the most in 13 games.
The Demons only hit two 3-pointers. But Davie couldn't cope with their quickness and leaping ability. The Demons would simply shoot it and go get it, leading to a 43-22 advantage in rebounding.
"They're not big. They're not like some of the teams they've had in the past," Absber said. "But their quickness and athleticism is tough. Still the same quick, scrappy bunch, and Kirby's tough inside. Two keys were taking care of the ball and rebounding, and we got scolded in those two areas. And we didn't shoot very well (30 percent)."
Drew Absber was hot in the three-day Sam Moir Christmas Classic, draining 12 of 26 3-pointers. He went cold at Reynolds, scoring a season-low nine points. Hall did have his fourth straight double-figure game in scoring (11 points). Van Hoy had seven. Mayfield hit four of four free throws for six.
The War Eagles' margin for error is minimal against the good teams on a schedule that will only continue to be grueling. They absolutely have to shoot well and play like there's no tomorrow. They had their chances in this one, but they missed 31 of 44 field goals and nine of 22 free throws.
"We played four different defenses in the first half to keep them offbalance," he said. "In the second half we didn't have that opportunity because when they made that (9-0) run, we had to go man-to-man."

South Turns A Corner

Long Sees Vast Improvement In Wrestling Tigers

Everything looked bleak when South Davie's wrestling team started the season. Now coach Perry Long is seeing things he could not have envisioned when South started 0-2.

Long beamed at the vast improvement of the Tigers, who have won five of six for a 5-3 record. The only loss during that time was to undefeated North Davie.

"We're coming along well," he said after two home wins last week - 60-30 over Lexington and 66-36 over Thomasville. "They're wrestling much better than when we went to West Rowan (for a preseason scrimmage). If we wrestled them now, we'd beat them. We're really coming along."

The start of 2006-07 was miserable for the Tigers, who lost 72-18 to East Alexander and 63-30 to Arand. They might have nearly as many losses as the previous two seasons combined, but collectively they're an example of perseverance and hard work.

tin Lanning, Shane Carter, Curtis Magee, Landon Hurt, Jon San Filippo, J.J. Morrison, Chris Barnhardt and Mick Spillman.

Carter, a 103-pounder who took a forfeit from Thomasville after pinning his other four opponents, and 189-pounder Barnhardt continued their scrappbook seasons. Barnhardt, who is 7-0 with four pins and three forfeits, has superior physical skills for a seventh grader.

"He's pinned all his opponents in the first period," he said. "He's real physical and he catches on to moves real well. And he's one of those seventh graders who had never wrestled before. I want to see him pushed so when next year comes he'll be that much better."

Barnhardt's attributes go beyond his perfect record. He has helped Spillman become a solid heavyweight, and he hasn't let success change his approach.

granted, and I like that in him." A number of Tigers have taken giant leaps. The best examples are a trio of seventh graders: Spillman, Morrison (171) and Tavin Gaither (160).

South Girls Wake Up, Whip Warriors

South Davie's girls basketball team was pretty lifeless during a three-game losing streak in which South was blown out by Knox, Boonville (19-13) and Yadkinville (43-16).

against visiting Downtown and whipped the Warriors 36-22. Coach Doug Ebersbach couldn't have drawn it up any better.

Ashton Swicegood and Carmen Grubb sparked South (3-7) to a 12-1 first-quarter lead. Swicegood was strong all game at point guard, scoring in every quarter for 10 team-high points.

Ebersbach said. "She wants to pass. I've been on them to pass if they're not hot, but she was hitting so I had to yell at her to take the shot, take the shot. And they were on her, too. They were trying to trap her, but she was still scoring. In the first half it was one right after another."

It was Swicegood's second double-figure performance, a team high. But Ebersbach got just as much joy out of watching Joyner control an 8-5 South advantage in the second and finish with a season-high eight points.

Brand scored seven of his 10 in the third, hitting two 3-pointers. Dillard finished strong for 15 points. Redmon scored 13 for his seventh double-figure performance.

"They had nobody that could match up with Dillard," he said, "Brand struggled shooting, but he made some when we needed them."

Benge In Select Group

Davie junior quarterback Garrett Bengé has been nominated as an Old Spice Red Zone Player of the Year. As a result of this achievement, Bengé is among a select group of players who are eligible to be selected as a national Red Zone Player of the Year and be honored in a full-page feature in USA Today in February.

For the sixth straight year, Old Spice is recognizing high-school football players who go above and beyond the call of duty. The program honors athletes who are able to elevate their play and step up when the heat is really on. These athletes embody leadership, performance, desire and serve as examples to their teammates on and off the field.

Making A BIG Difference Adults And Students Helping Davie Program To Grow

Big Brothers Big Sisters of Davie County is in the midst of an exciting time.

"Our program is really growing. With the start of the school year, we have had lots of new children sign up for our services," said Izzy Tutterow, coordinator. "We have the best, most committed volunteers of any organization I know. I'm so proud to be a part of this process. I see firsthand the difference the Bigs make in the lives of the Littles."

On Sept. 6 and 7, BBBS held a Big Buddy Recruitment at Davie High School. Big Buddies are typically high school students who are matched with an elementary age student. The Bigs spend at least one hour each week with the child at one of the local YMCA After-school sites.

"We had an amazing turn out," Tutterow said. "The response was overwhelming."

Over the course of the 2 day recruitment, there were more than 75 students who stopped by to sign up, get additional information and take home an application for the Big Buddy Program.

"We are very excited to have Little Buddies at all six YMCA after-school sites this year. The YMCA program managers and site coordinators have been wonderful to work with and really help us get the word out to the children and their parents," said Tutterow.

She is working to get all of the Little Buddies matched with a Big Buddy.

Go Red For Women

Heart Healthy Seminar Luncheons Planned

Listen up women, there's something you should know.

It's no secret, but many women are not aware that heart disease, the disease that causes heart attacks and stroke, is their No. 1 threat.

In fact, it kills twice as many women as cancer. Here is a chance to take control of that No. 1 threat and learn how to prevent complications caused by heart disease.

"Now, what I want you to do is tell all of your friends, so that they can do the same," said Andrea Collins of the Davie County Health Department.

"In an effort to empower women to love and take care of their hearts through healthy lifestyle choices, we are celebrating Go Red for Women in your area during February. Go Red for Women is a nationwide movement celebrating the energy, passion and power women have to work together to eliminate heart disease."

Join Healthy Yarkin, Healthy Carolinians of Davie County, Healthy Carolinians of Stokes County, and Wake Forest University Baptist Medical Center Heart Center in celebrating Go Red for Women. A series of Go Red luncheons will be held in an effort to raise awareness in women about their risks for heart disease and to educate women on the importance of knowing signs and symptoms of heart attack and stroke.

Events are scheduled for the following dates & locations:
 • Healthy Yarkin, Wednesday, Jan. 31, Yarkin Senior Center, noon-1 p.m., contact April Pardue at 679-4651 or healthyinc@yadtel.net, registration deadline, Jan. 26;

CJ Myers celebrates his 7th birthday

On Wednesday, Dec. 6, 2006, I celebrated my seventh birthday. I started out by celebrating with my classmates at Cornatarz Elementary where I had snowman shaped doughnuts, Spongebob crackers, ice cream and juice. A special thanks to Mrs. Dalton and Mrs. Blakley for letting me share my special day with my friends.

Then my family gave me a small party at my house. After opening all my gifts, we were served cake, chips and ice cream.

On Saturday, Dec. 9, I had a John Deere party. My guests and I were served a John Deere cake, ice cream, peanuts and chips. A special thanks to my Granny for hosting my party at her house.

My dad and mom are Cliff "Brad" and Michelle Myers. My little brother is Ryan Caleb Myers of Smith Grove. My maternal grandparents are Lindsey and Joyce Fishel of Cornatarz. My paternal grandmother is Faye Myers of Smith Grove. My great-grandmother is Mac Starr of Cornatarz and one special great aunt is Carolyn Atwood of Cornatarz.

I would like to thank everyone for my gifts but most of all for helping me celebrate my birthday. Having all of my special friends and family there was the greatest gift of all.

A special thanks to my dad for making my John Deere cake, it was so delicious. Love, CJ.

Hi, we're the Osborne brothers, and just like you we had birthdays this past year.

I'm Joey, the oldest, and I turned 8 years old last Aug. 19. I'm a second grade student in our home school, J&C Christian Academy.

Hi, I'm Charlie, and I turned 3 years old the day after Christmas. Someday I'll be a student, too.

Our Mommy and Daddy are Karl and Joanne Osborne, and we live on East Maple Avenue.

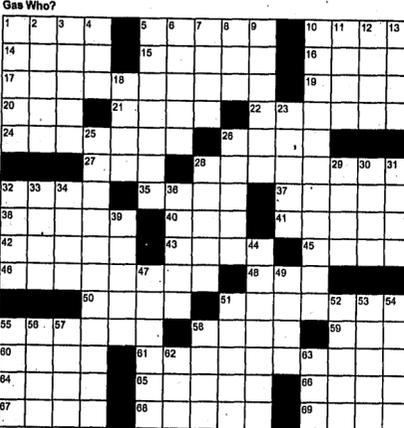

We go to Fellowship Baptist Church in Advance, and love our Sunday School teachers, and Preacher Wayne, but most of all, we love Jesus! Joey was baptized there last June.

We had great birthday parties at our Mom-a-rie's house (our grandma, Marie Jones), and our aunt Lela and uncle John Butero were there, and other family members from N.C., Georgia, and by phone our Grandpa Wilford from Florida. Thanks to all for the great gifts, cards, and phone calls from family, church family, friends, and neighbors. Birthdays are great! See you next year.

Getting Back To Good Old Home Cooking

By Robin Lowder
Davie County Enterprise Record

We have been eating all those candies, cookies and goodies for over a month, and our bodies and stomachs are screaming for some good down-home cooking.

The temperatures are dropping and we are all looking for comfort foods. Dried beans are a great comfort food and provide a wealth of nutrition. Beans can add flavor, texture and color to the table.

The many varieties and characteristics of beans make them a versatile vegetable. They can be used in just about any type of dish from salads to desserts, even as desserts. Serve them as a side dish or main dish.

food pyramid as vegetables and is included with the meat category, allowing them to serve double duty, so-to-speak. Beans are full of fiber as well as protein and complex carbohydrates. They are low in fat, calories, sodium and are cholesterol free.

One more good reason to add beans to the daily diet is the fact that they contain soluble fiber which helps to lower the levels of damaging LDL cholesterol in the blood. Beans contain good sources of iron which could be important to those who don't eat meat.

Consumption of beans can cause a little digestive distress for some people, but don't let that out weigh the healthy benefits gained by adding more beans to your diet.

There are three ways to purchase beans: dried, pre-cooked canned or pre-cooked frozen. Dried or frozen are your best bet because they allow you to add the seasonings of your choice while cooking. Although, when time is not on your side, canned beans are a tasty alternative and can be spiced up for any occasion. I know for quite a few readers that cooking dried beans is old hat, but for some people who are just learning how to cook it might seem intimidating.

Here are some basics to cooking dried beans. First, sort through the beans to remove any debris, pebbles or busted and dark beans.

Next, soak the beans before cooking. Soaking beans allows them to absorb water which helps to dissolve the starches that cause intestinal discomfort, returns moisture to the bean and reduces cooking times. Soak beans for 4-8 hours. Drain the beans after soaking and rinse them, add fresh water before cooking.

Check the individual packages for cooking times. The exception to this is for split peas and lentils, they do not need to be soaked and only require about a 30-minute cooking time.

Bring beans to a boil, reduce the heat and simmer them for 1-2 hours. Boiling beans until done can cause the beans to break apart and the skins to separate. You can add things such as ham, ham hocks, bacon or streaked meat, garlic, onion, parsley, oregano while they are cooking. Believe it or not it is better to add salt or acidic ingredients like vinegar, wine, tomatoes or citrus juices after the beans are tender because these can slow the cooking process.

After the meal you can store leftover beans in the refrigerator for up to five days. Cooked beans can be frozen for up to six months.

If not sure how much to cook here is a simple guide: 1/3 cup dry beans equals one cup cooked beans; 1/2 cup dry beans equals one and one-half cups cooked beans; 2/3 cups dry beans equals two cups cooked beans; 2 cups dry beans equals six cups cooked beans.

Cooking dried beans is easier than you think.

Easy Great Northern Beans
1 pound of dry Great Northern beans or Navy beans
8 slices bacon, cut into small pieces
1 small red onion, diced
1 tablespoon salt
2 teaspoon black pepper

Sort through dry beans and discard any debris, pebbles or beans that are broken or busted open. Place beans in a large stockpot, add 10 cups of water and soak for 4 hours. Drain beans, rinse and add fresh water. Place pot on stove and bring to a boil. Reduce heat to low and simmer for 1 hour. Add salt and pepper and continue cooking.

Meanwhile place bacon in a skillet over medium heat and start to cook bacon, add the chopped onion and cook until bacon is crisp and onion is soft. Reserve 3 tablespoons of the bacon drippings. Drain the remaining bacon and onions. Add the reserved drippings to the beans along with the cooked bacon and onion. Cook beans until they are tender and serve. Refrigerate leftovers promptly.

Pinto Bean Cake
Submitted by Jean B.
1 stick butter
1 (15 1/2 oz.) can pinto beans, drained (reserve liquid)
2 eggs
1 and 1/2 cups self-rising flour
1 and 1/2 tsp. cinnamon
1/2 cup chopped pecans
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon allspice

3 cups Granny Smith apples, diced
1 cup raisins
1 teaspoon vanilla

Grease and lightly flour a 9 x 13 x 2 inch pan. Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Cream butter. Add sugar and beat until creamy. Drain beans, reserving liquid. Place beans in blender and process until smooth. Add to butter mixture along with eggs. Beat until well blended.

Sift together the flour, cinnamon, nutmeg, and allspice. Add to creamed mixture. Mix until blended. Stir in apples, raisins, vanilla, and nuts. Mix well. Pour into prepared pan. Bake 40 minutes or until cake tester inserted near center comes out clean. Makes 12-15 servings.

Easy Great Northern Beans
1 lb. box confectioners' sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 tablespoon bean juice
1 stick butter
1 to 2 tablespoons milk

Combine all ingredients. Beat until smooth and creamy. Spread over cooled cake.

Hush Puppies
Vegetable or canola oil for deep-frying
2 cups self-rising cornmeal mix
1/2 cup seasoned flour
2 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons grated onion
1/2 teaspoon seasoned salt
1 cup milk or buttermilk
1 egg, beaten

In a deep fryer or heavy, deep skillet, heat 2 to 3 inches of oil over medium heat to 375 degrees. In a mixing bowl, combine cornmeal mix, flour, sugar, seasoned salt and onion. Add milk and egg; mix well. Let stand for 5 minutes.

Drop batter by tablespoons into hot oil. (The key to hush puppies that aren't greasy is to let your oil get hot before dropping them in). Fry until golden brown, turning several times. Drain on paper towels. Makes about 15 hush puppies.

On Sunday, Jan. 7, a surprise birthday party was given to Mrs. Rose Caudle of Farmington at the Farmington United Methodist Church.

The party was given by her children and her husband, John, and boy was it a surprise. Mrs. Caudle had come to the church thinking that she was helping in the planning of a surprise party for someone else. She walked in, with a flower in hand (for the other surprise) and was surprised to see family and friends

Patricia Moore, who has been employed for the past 17 years by Davie County, retired from her job in the tax office. On Friday, Dec. 29, she was the guest of honor at a reception in the Davie County Administrative Building. This gave her co-workers, family, and all the people who have had the opportunity to know her, a chance to reflect on the success she has enjoyed during her career with the county. Pat is married to Albert Moore, and they have a daughter, Elizabeth.

Congratulations to New Union's softball pitcher, Tray Stewart. The holiday season was extra special for him, as he got married in December. Best wishes to his new bride, the former Tina Henley.

Gerald Henley is at home after his extended hospital stay. Lucille Beck remains a patient at Davie County Hospital. Brandi Drye's great-grandmother, Sadie Burton, is in Davis Hospital in Iredell County. Please keep these families on your prayer list, along with neighbors Don Teague, Jeanie Allen, and John McClamroch.

New Union United Methodist Church will be starting an Outreach Ministry on Jan. 22, at 10 a.m. at the church office at 1446 Sheffield Road. It will be a morning of bingo fun, and will be all free. For about an hour, beginning with a devotion and a prayer, attendees can play 10 games of bingo to win prizes and can enjoy some light refreshments. Everyone is invited.

I've also been notified that the history committee has 2005 and 2006 ornaments for sale at $10 each, along with 12 remaining tapestry throws at $50 each. If interested in purchasing or if you have any questions about bingo, call 751-7567.

Lucas Reeves celebrated his birthday on Jan. 9, the same day as Oreg and Deann Reeves' anniversary. Elizabeth Moore and Tara Wooten have birthdays on Jan. 10, while new parents, Lee and Amy Gobble celebrate their wedding anniversary on that date, followed by Lee's birthday on the 12th. Also on gathered in her honor. Mrs. Caudle turned 80 on Dec. 24. For years, she has planned her own birthday party. Something small with a handful of family and friends who would gather at her home to enjoy a piece of cake. This year was no different, though it was her 80th birthday, she wanted it small and simple.

Her children obviously had other plans. The surprise party was beautifully done. There was a collection of items that Mrs. Caudle had worked on through the years; handmade quilts, a decorated jewelry box, and an oil painting, among other things. Rose has always been talented and creative in sewing, painting, gardening, and crafts.

Her children had put together a collection of pictures of Mrs. Caudle and her family from years past. They served some delicious hot d'oeuvres, punch and a beautiful rose cake made by Debbie Spillman, who is one of Farmington's community chefs.

Mrs. Rose Caudle was born in Indiana on Dec. 24, 1926. She moved with her family to North Carolina when she was about 12 years old and graduated from the Farmington High School in 1944. Rose married her husband, John Caudle, on Nov. 21, 1944. During the birthday party, Mr. Caudle gave his wife, Rose, a kiss and said "Happy Birthday to my bride and my best friend". He also stated that this was "pay-back" for the surprise party that she had given him on his 80th birthday. The couple have a beautiful family of two daughters; Patricia Wood and Linda Smeltzer, and son, Robert Caudle, with 5 grandchildren and 8 great-grandchildren.

Her children send this message: "Mom has always been an inspiration to us. She shares her love and compassion with all she meets." Mrs. Caudle and her husband, John, are members of the Farmington Baptist Church and she is a member of the Red Hat Revelers.

Happy Birthday Rose. We wish you many more birthdays to come.

County Line News

By Shirley Thorne
County Line Correspondent

Our community has welcomed 2007 with great joy and optimism. Many of our added pounds and inches to our waistlines but enjoyed the dinners with relatives and friends as we closed out 2006. And no, we haven't been annexed by Farmington.

We regret any inconvenience the mix-up of our news with Farmington's news last week may have caused. Also the photo of the Salem Christmas program was that of Wesley Sloan and Tanner Kooz, not William and Tanner Kooz.

The United Methodist Women of Salem will meet at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 10, in the church fellowship hall. The program "The Call to Prayer and Self Denial" will be led by Margaret Ann Shew. The women invite others to join them for the program and fellowship immediately following.

The men of Society Baptist Church will meet for breakfast at 7 a.m. Saturday, Jan. 13, in the fellowship hall. After breakfast the men will have a work day beginning at 8 a.m. All men of the church are asked to come for breakfast and then help make needed building repairs.

The Clarksburg Seniors will meet at 11 a.m. Tuesday, Jan. 16, in the fellowship hall. Dinner will be followed by games and fellowship. The group welcomes other seniors in the community to join them for dinner and a fun afternoon.

The V-Point Ruritans thank everyone who came to their breakfast this past Saturday. The Ruritans next breakfast will be Saturday, Feb. 3. The group will meet at 7 p.m. tonight (Thursday) at the V-Point Building for their regular monthly meeting. Following supper and brief business, Edgar Cartner will present the program, "What Is Ruritan?" The Ruritans always welcome new members.

Marshall Godbey was surprised with a birthday dinner at the Golden Corral of Mooresville Saturday afternoon, Dec. 30. Marshall was 86 years old Dec. 25. Immediate family members attending included his daughter and son-in-law, Ruby Marie and Tony White, and his siblings and their spouses Myrtle Alexander, Ray and Lorene Godbey, Leonard and Jennifer Godbey, and Louise Isley. Many other relatives attended, including local residents John Cartner, J.P. and Judy Cartner, Lavette Stroud, and Calvin and Lisa Phelps and son C.J. Marshall, we wish you a healthy and happy new year of life.

We send birthday wishes to former County Liner Mary Ellen Walker, who celebrated her 91st birthday Jan. 6. She resides at nearby Guilford Road. Sadie was an active member of the Clarksburg Seniors and the Clarksburg Homemakers Club. She was laid to rest beside her beloved husband at the Harmony Cemetery.

We also extend our deepest sympathy to the family of Honorinda Correia, who died last Thursday at Davis Regional Medical Center. She was reared in Massachusetts but for the past 10 years had made her home with her son and daughter-in-law, Dean and Priscilla Correia, on Godbey Acres Lane off Godbey Road. She was a devoted mother, grandmother, and great-grandmother and was laid to rest Saturday in the nearby cemetery of Salem United Methodist Church.

We send get-well wishes to Cecil Cartner, Paul Morgan, Diane Owens, and Jean Seamon. Cecil was hospitalized last week with a heart condition but is recuperating at home. Paul was Ruby's first visit to County Line in 10 years.

Four of our County Line couples have recently celebrated long-term wedding anniversaries. We send congratulations to Brown and Virginia Porter upon their 65th anniversary on Dec. 24, to Herman and Esther Campbell upon their 65th anniversary on Dec. 24, to Paul and Lois Cartner upon their 73rd anniversary on Jan. 6, and to Lester and Gladys Walker upon their 66th anniversary on Jan. 10. We wish each of you many more years of happiness.

Our community extends its deepest sympathy to the family of Sadie Finchum Smith, who died at Davis Regional Medical Center Dec. 28. She and her husband Thomas Woodrow Smith, who died in 1998, moved to our community in the early 1950s and made their home on NC 901. After retiring from a life of farming, they moved to nearby Guilford Road. Sadie was an active member of the Clarksburg Seniors and the Clarksburg Homemakers Club. She was laid to rest beside her beloved husband at the Harmony Cemetery.

We also extend our deepest sympathy to the family of Honorinda Correia, who died last Thursday at Davis Regional Medical Center. Morgan was hospitalized with pneumonia but is recuperating at home. Diane Owens was hospitalized with an infection and is recuperating at home. Jean Seamon has been hospitalized for knee surgery at Davis Regional Medical Center. Peggy Kooz continues to work at Miller's Restaurant (part of the teen-cruising area in the 50s and 60s). Well, I missed the turn to Miller's because I kept looking for J.C.'s. On my third pass-thru I saw the little Dairy Queen and then the adjacent road to Miller's, which is now the Carolina Cafe. Yes, J.C.'s has been torn down.

This summer I bought some glassware from someone who lived on Reedy Creek Road. Well, when I went to get it, I was again saddened to see a favorite summer Sunday afternoon hang-out - the Reedy Creek Drag Strip - now an overgrown field next to woods. I paused to share some memories with the owner's son, who runs an auto repair and tire business there and gets an occasional drag strip visitor like me. The crowning blow to my teen year memories and hang-outs was a friend from North Myrtle Beach telling me that the Myrtle Beach Pavilion was closing and being torn down. Our family loved the beach and went seven or eight times to North Myrtle each year between Easter and Labor Day. We seldom went to the beach without going to the Myrtle Beach Pavilion. School friends Johnny and Gary Barker and the Catalinas played there in the summer. How could "they" tear down such a great historic place? Needless to say, the year 2006 brought some crushing blows to my teenage memories and hang-outs. Here's hoping that some of you still cherish the good times you had at the above places. As I begin each new year, it is my desire to be closer in the image of Christ Jesus. This is my sincere wish for each of you as you begin 2007.

Kinderton News

By John Godwin
Kinderton Correspondent

Our second annual Christmas decorated house contest was great. With so many houses decorating it made Kinderfon such a fun place to drive through, especially when the sun went down and the lights came on.

Our last year's four winners were not able to win two years in a row so everyone was decking the halls. Aixa Dias of WXII 12 was our celebrity judge. She loved Kinderton and was so much fun to work with. Carl Naylor of Millstone Lane loaned a big Ford SUV from All American Ford to use as our Prize Patrol wheels. We decorated the luggage rack with Christmas lights and sparkling garland and hung a wreath on the grill. Judging the four best was not easy. Aixa chose the top four to get a sign in their front yard to be, John Brown and Norman Deaton of 257 Old Towne, Susan Culbertson of 104 Waverly St. James and Carolyn Money of 134 Millstone Lane, and Tony and Debra Moore of 173 North Fork Drive. Aixa chose Sean, Kelly, and Katie Hines of 218 Townpark Drive and Jean Harpe of 295 Old Towne Drive for special recognition and they were given a certificate. Everyone worked so hard this year I can't imagine how pretty Kinderton will be next year.

Happy Birthday to Katie Hines. She celebrated her 6th birthday with a big party with many friends at her home. We will be having yoga classes through Davidson County Community College at our Kinderton Club House beginning Thursday, Jan. 11 from 9:30 - 10:30. There is still time to call 751-2885 and register.

Bill and Jean Saunders had a birthday party for their daughter and son-in-law Raymonda and Gon Shelton. Their birthdays are 1-day apart.

Contest Judge Aixa Dias.

Kelly, Katie and Sean Hines at their home.

A Thought
Another year has past and gone,
And memories of our loved ones linger on.
As we approach this new year,
Let us think more of friends we hold so dear,
And live the best we can each day.

And humbly bow our heads and pray,
That God knows best and no mistakes make,
So serve Him and I am sure we'll wake
To a joyful reunion in the sky
With all our loved ones by and by.
Love and Happy New Year!

'10 Great Dates' Starts Jan. 19 At Cornerstone

Cornerstone Christian Church, NC 801, Farmington, will sponsor "10 Great Dates," 10 dates designed to put the sizzle back into marriages.

10 Great Dates is an opportunity for couples to have time out to build their marriage and to enrich their relationship. It combines fun dates and marriage education skills.

The concept is simple. First, couples meet together as a group. Each session begins with a short video date launch, where the theme for that particular date is introduced. Then, couples experience their own "great date" by going out with their partner. Couples learn to communicate better, process anger and resolve conflicts, appreciate differences; encourage each other, develop spiritual intimacy, balance busy lifestyles and more.

It is appropriate for all ages and stages of marriage. Cornerstone is at 1585 NC 801 N. 10 Great Dates starts at 6:30 p.m. on Friday, Jan. 19. There is a $10 registration fee that covers the cost of the book that goes along with the dates. Other upcoming date nights are Feb. 2, 16, March 2 and March 16. The fee covers all date nights. Child care is available for children age infant through middle school. The children will be fed, with donations accepted. Call 998-0600 to register for 10 Great Dates and for child care.

Missionaries Visit At Jericho

From Nov. 2-5, Jericho Church of Christ hosted Mike, Sandy and Jon Roberts, a missionary family from Guyana, South America.

They stayed with two families and enjoyed some of North Carolina's attractions like Grandfather Mountain, pit-cooked barbecue and Pee Wee football games. Mike also updated the congregation on Sunday morning on his mission efforts in the town of Adventure in Guyana.

In April, Jericho sent a team of 12 members to Guyana to assist Mike and Sandy with their work. The team consisted of Margaret Curtis; Brad Dyer, Deacon of Missions; Harold Dyer, Deacon of Education; Jan Dyer, Neal Essic, Elder; Janet Forrest; Tony Forrest, Deacon of Evangelism; Bobby and Bonnie Grigsby, Youth Group Leaders; Chuck and Lee Ann Taylor, Youth Group Leaders; and Dr. Tom Torpy, Minister.

During the team's 10-day stay, they conducted a Bible School in the morning, did door knocking and Bible studies in the afternoon, and held a crusade at the church at night. Attendance at the YBS grew from a first day group of 40 to a final day attendance of 156.

The crusade's attendance likewise grew substantially from a first night's count of 35 to a final night attendance of 105.

Each of the team members considered it a blessing to have the opportunity to visit a Third World country because it gave them a greater appreciation of the luxuries they enjoy in the U.S., while at the same time, seeing how people find joy and satisfaction in the simple pleasures of life. Mike and Sandy were gracious hosts for the team and church members were happy to be able to return the hospitality on their visit to Mocksville.

Church Helps City Rebuild

In the past several months, members from Jericho Church of Christ have made three trips to New Orleans to help with the rebuilding efforts resulting from Hurricane Katrina.

Fifteen members from the congregation have taken these trips to volunteer time and skills to the people of New Orleans.

The group, with others from South Fork Church of Christ in Winston-Salem, participated in Operation Nehemiah, a rebuilding effort that began almost a year ago. This effort is led by the Carrollton Avenue Church of Christ in New Orleans. Fred Franke, the leader of Operation Nehemiah, has a plan for the effort to meet the physical and spiritual needs of people, to keep the Churches of Christ alive in New Orleans, and to strengthen the bonds among them, making New Orleans a mission field.

While in New Orleans, the group from Jericho helped with many tasks including gutting houses, hanging sheetrock, making plumbing repairs, painting, distributing food, moving families, working in the warehouse that the church has set up to distribute clothing, and whatever else needed to be done. They also helped to rebuild the Carrollton Avenue church building.

The group moved an elderly couple into an apartment they had rented. They had lost everything and were thrilled to now have a bed, a small table, two chairs and three lamps. Janey Sell, a member from Jericho who has participated in two of the trips, stated, "Evidence of Katrina's damage was all around us, but there was also evidence that a threefold cord is not quickly broken" (Ecclesiastes 4:12). The people were bound together, sustaining and upholding one another.

Putting back together the lives of these people who suffered such extensive loss will take years. The need for skilled help, continued funding, assistance in getting supplies, volunteers, prayers and encouragement will be ongoing.

If interested in being a part of this Katrina Relief effort by sending supplies, and/or joining or sponsoring a work team, contact Brad Dyer at 751-0745.

Do not store up for yourselves treasures on earth, where moth and rust destroy, and where thieves break in and steal. But store up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where moth and rust do not destroy, and where thieves do not break in and steal. For where your treasure is, there your heart will be also.

Dear Readers:
To honor their memories, the Enterprise Record welcomes you to submit written memorials about Davie County residents who have recently died. Often, our readers and friends have died with too little said about the significance of their contribution to this county and to us.

Obituaries are prepared under difficult circumstances by families stressed by a flood of emotions and decisions. A day after the funeral, families remember important facts that should have been included.

We hope this can be a column that allows our readers to properly remember and honor their late friends and relatives. We invite you to send your personal reflections.

Some guidelines:

1. Submit the memorial within a month of the death.
2. Please limit yourself to 100-150 words or less.
3. Include a photo of the deceased if you have one.
4. The memorial must be about a Davie County resident or former resident.

As with our letters to the editor, the memorials must be in good taste. They must be signed with an address and telephone number for verification. They can be submitted by mail to the Davie County Enterprise Record, PO Box 99, Mocksville, NC 27028 or by email, ernews@davie-enterprise.com. Submit the memorials by noon Monday of the week to be published.

Exams will be Jan. 18 and 19, said Principal Penny Hedrick.

First period exams will take place from 8:15 to 11:15 a.m. Thursday. There will be a 45-minute lunch, with bag lunches being offered. Hedrick said there will be a choice of a ham or turkey sandwich or peanut butter and jelly, along with other items in the bag. Students may also choose to take their lunch. If they order a bag lunch, those orders will be taken this week and will have to be pre-paid. Lunches will be eaten in the classroom of the exam that preceded lunch.

Following lunch, students will be given a short break before second period exams begin at 12:15. Those exams may conclude by 3:05, the normal release time, but could last until 3:15. Hedrick said because of additional field test questions being included, she expects each exam to take at least three hours, if not more. She said buses may be held, and parents would have to wait in the parking lot if they arrive before students are done.

On Friday, third and fourth period exams will begin at the same times as on Thursday, and bag lunches will again be offered.

Seniors who are exempt from exams do not have to be present.

Hedrick said, "I am asking for the cooperation of all parents. Students need to be in school on time and no early dismissals. We have to adhere to a very structured exam schedule."

A financial aid workshop will be held at Davie High School on Thursday, Jan. 25 at 6:30 p.m. in the media center. Representatives from the counseling department, from College Foundation of North Carolina (CFNC) and from Catawba College will cover aspects of the process of obtaining financial aid for students to attend college. This is a must workshop if your child is a junior or senior planning to attend a two- or four-year college.

Third grade students are working on multiplication facts. The children are making up rap songs, playing with flip charts, listening to rhyming songs, creating stories and playing with wrap up cards to help memorize times tables. As a student completes one of the times tables facts they earn a part of an ice cream sundae to be added to the classroom bulletin board. When they complete all times tables they will then earn an ice cream sundae party.

Mrs. Carter's fifth grade class has begun a unit on Tall Tales. They are enjoying working with similes, metaphors, personification, alliteration, and other figurative language. Students are sad to learn that their long-time assistant, Christine Ward, retired before Christmas break. Kim Strickland and Jerri West were welcomed to fifth grade. They are already a part of the CES family, but will be working in fifth grade. The 5th grade would like to say congratulations to Jerri Fisher, one of the 5th grade teachers, on the birth of her new little girl.

Fourth graders have a lot to look forward to this semester like a trip to Raleigh and the Writing Test. Mrs. Dyson's students are learning about nutrition through an integrated reading and science unit. Students used microphones to read and perform a "Pyramid Exploration Theater" which teaches the students about healthy food choices on a day to day basis.

Kindergarten students are studying winter weather. Since students completed a tour of Letterland, they are working on making words. They are learning about word families and rhyming words. The kinders are working on being able to tell likenesses and differences of objects. They are working on matching sets and numbers. Kindergarten is excited about the addition of Agnes Lipnik as a new assistant.

The second grade classes of Mrs. Blank, Mrs. Harpe, Mrs. Moore, and Mrs. Potts have completed reading Charlotte's Web and have been exploring some website activities about the book to enhance their reading. Students enjoyed learning about many customs from other countries and making crafts that will help remember them.

Christmas was the theme for the fifth graders the final week before break. Students studied holiday words in language arts and read the stories, The Velveteen Rabbit and The Polar Express. Mrs. Whaley's third graders have written New Year's resolutions, which consisted of most students wanting to make good grades and to be the best they can be. They started the novel, Charlotte's Web, which is a book about friendship, affection, trust, life and death. Students discuss and complete activities after reading each chapter. They will watch the video after finishing the book and complete a Venn diagram of the similarities and differences between the book and video. Students started writing letters to other students through the Wee Deliver mailing system. The children think it's great getting a letter from a fellow student. They write letters in cursive handwriting and will be doing other assignments in cursive, too. Students decorated the classroom with snowflakes and wrote stories about winter.

educators, we've got to find those intelligences," he said.

Landry has written for other publications as well and admits his mind is always working. "My wife says if I get bored, there's my trouble," he said, laughing.

When asked if he has enjoyed his role in administration as much as teaching, he said he has the best of both worlds now, since he is administrator by day and teacher by night.

"I just love what I do. I see myself as a good military man - I'll go wherever I'm needed, and every place I've been has been special to me. I have learned something everywhere I've gone."

"I had a job offer this past summer. The pay would have been better, but it only took me one moment to say 'No.' All the memories I have of Davie County, all the parents I know, those relationships I formed when they were younger, and now with their kids and even their grandkids. Why would I ever want to give that up? At this stage in my life, that means more to me than anything else."

"Pinebrook is a great school, just great. I have a 2-year-old grandson who lives in Oklahoma, and I hope when he goes to school, some principal out there will take care of him the way I try to take care of these children."

As a principal, Landry wears many hats - and sometimes, the occasional billboard or apron.

Parents driving their children into Pinebrook may have noticed Landry directing traffic from a painted-on box in the road, since the traffic flow has been handled differently this year. Landry said his main objective in switching where buses and cars enter the parking lots was to get traffic off the road and away from the interstate overpass. Except for one scary incident when he was almost hit, Landry said his plan has been successful.

Other days, he can be found dishing up lunch in the cafeteria, sometimes humming along to the music that plays on Fridays.

He said he tries to visit as many classrooms as he can each day, keeping strong the connection he feels not only to the students, but to the staff as well.

"I've got a great staff," he said, "and one of the best assistant principals (Lynn Marrs) anywhere. I never have seen it as principal and assistant principal - we're the administrative team."

A published author, Landry talks about the theory of multiple intelligence - the theory that all people are gifted in at least seven areas, whether it's math, public speaking, photography, writing, or cooking.

"The whole theory is that as

Davie High Renovation Plans Scaled Back

By Beth Cassidy
Davie County Enterprise Record

Davie school board members got a look last week at the cost estimate for renovations that may take place at Davie High School, if the May 8 bond referendum that includes $9 million for those renovations passes. Generated by Fuller Architecture, the proposed renovations include the largest ticket item, mechanical renovations and new roofs. Superintendent Dr. Steve Lane said the two-pipe mechanical system, which includes heating and air, plumbing and electricity, was put in place when the school was constructed in 1956. When the media center and auxiliary gym were added 13 years ago, they received a new mechanical system, which is also a two-pipe system. The biggest problem is with heating and air conditioning. "It's a primitive system, and it can't keep the climate adjusted," Lane said. "If you have a hot day in the winter, you can't use the air conditioning, once the system has been converted over from air to heat. If you have a cold day in summer, you can't use the heat. A new four-pipe system would allow for that and would allow each classroom to have control over their climate."

New sloped roofs will be added to allow a place to run heating and air ductwork and electrical conduits. The projected cost of both is $5.06 million. The older buildings on the campus will receive renovations, including flooring, paint, ceilings, wiring, wall relocation and exterior renovations. The dining hall would receive minimal renovations, mainly to the exterior, and the main entrance to the school would receive major renovations, to create a safer and more secure environment. "There are a lot of safety issues, both with the entrance and throughout the school. It was built very open, but we know, from Columbine, that it is safer to enclose schools. We are trying to make Davie more enclosed," Lane said.

Marijuana, Cocaine Found In Apartment

By Mike Barnhardt
Davie County Enterprise Record

A Mocksville teen was arrested Monday night after police found nearly 14 pounds of marijuana and eight grams of cocaine in a unit at Sunset Apartments.

Kevin Lee Harrison, 19, of 5555 NC 801 S., was charged with felony possession of marijuana and cocaine, with possession with intent to sell each drug, and with possession of drug paraphernalia. He was placed in the Davie Detention Center in lieu of a $10,000 bond, pending a Jan. 25 appearance in Davie District Court.

Mocksville Police Detective Nelson Turentine said that Officer Jason Sheets received a call about 8 p.m. that an odor of marijuana was coming from Apartment 15.

minister," he said.

The day started with a brief ceremony on the square in Downtown Mocksville. The group marched down Depot Street to the church, singing hymns along the way. At the church, they were greeted by the Agape Faith Church choir.

Pastor Nettye Barber-James led the prayer, thanking God for Dr. King.

"We embrace that dream ... the path that he took," she said. "We have been enriched, enlightened and empowered by your word. 'You are our Lord. You are our God. There's something more important than our differences," she said. "We can be empowered to love our enemies."

Principal Apologizes Students Suspected Of Throwing Urine Onto Davie Bus

By Dwight Sparks
Davie County Enterprise Record

West Forsyth High principal Kurt Telford has sent an apology to the Davie High principal for an incident following a basketball game in Clemmons on Friday.

The Davie athletic bus was trashed. At least one bottle was thrown on the bus containing what might have been urine.

The Davie players and cheerleaders abandoned the bus and rode home with their parents.

"A letter of apology is going to the principal, and I hope she will share it with the team," said Telford. "I want our kids to play hard, and win or lose, be good sports. Keep it between the lines on the field, and don't do anything that's gross."

The West and Davie junior varsity teams played in Clemmons while the varsity teams played in Mocksville. Telford attended the

Honeymoon's Over For Davie Superintendent

Davie schools superintendent Steven Lane's honeymoon must have ended last week. As his first anniversary rolls around, he's no longer the new guy to be given a little slack while he adjusts to the surroundings. He gets the credit and the blame now.

Last week's headline, "Superintendent Tries To Clear The Air," was a sign of trouble ahead.

Lane has a brewing insurrection among the troops. How he settles the ruffled feathers of school teachers will determine his tenure and, indirectly, the prospects of a school bond referendum in May.

Among items on his chopping block for next year's school budget, Lane has eyed an $87,000 dental plan for school personnel, some teacher aides and teacher training positions.

Teachers have flinched because they are being asked to shoulder the cuts when they see profligate spending at the system's Cherry Street headquarters. Nonessential bureaucrats have been added while classroom positions are being axed. While teachers are being examined and rated by a host of national and state tests, the administration threatens to take away some of their resources.

Lane's problems don't end there.

He ordered subordinates not to talk about a list of cuts he had prepared. Maybe they keep quiet at Lane's former post at Iredell County, but in Davie County, when you tell someone not to tell, they always do. Lane is an ex-Marine, schooled in military discipline, and his leadership style reflects that. Teachers don't share that training.

Lane stated last week that his door is always open. The teachers have plenty to tell him, but he will have to go to their doors to hear it.

There are other problems.

The superintendent unveiled an updated plan for Davie High's make-over last week. The architectural drawings are unsettling. A month ago, Lane had planned to demolish three of the oldest buildings on the campus — C, E and H buildings — and build replacement classrooms. The new drawings are completely different. Now, the existing buildings will be refurbished, not replaced. The school entrance will undergo a massive reconstruction. On top of that, all the walkways will be enclosed for safety reasons.

The remaining students at Davie High will walk from building to building through $1 million of air conditioned corridors. The existing awnings are unsightly, but should they be replaced by something this grand?

Another $2.1 million will be spent to modify the front entrance for safety purposes.

Davie High is fenced. An armed deputy patrols the grounds. Mounted cameras offer surveillance of the campus. Should we spend another three million dollars for safety? For the entire $9 million project, Davie High gets nothing but cosmetics, barriers and improved air circulation.

For the same money, the school system could build something Davie High could be proud to have — an auditorium, perhaps. The auditorium was nixed because there isn't money to build one at the new high school.

In the whirlwind of changes and architectural sketches, nobody has asked the public what it wants at Davie High — or at the new high school proposed at Smith Grove. The plan is being hastily developed by Lane and his architect with little regard to other ideas. The school board got an update on the plans last week, but the members have surrendered the reins. Parents and teachers from Mocksville and Coolemans communities should get a voice in how that $9 million will be spent. Similarly, eastern Davie parents and teachers should get some voice in the plans for that new building.

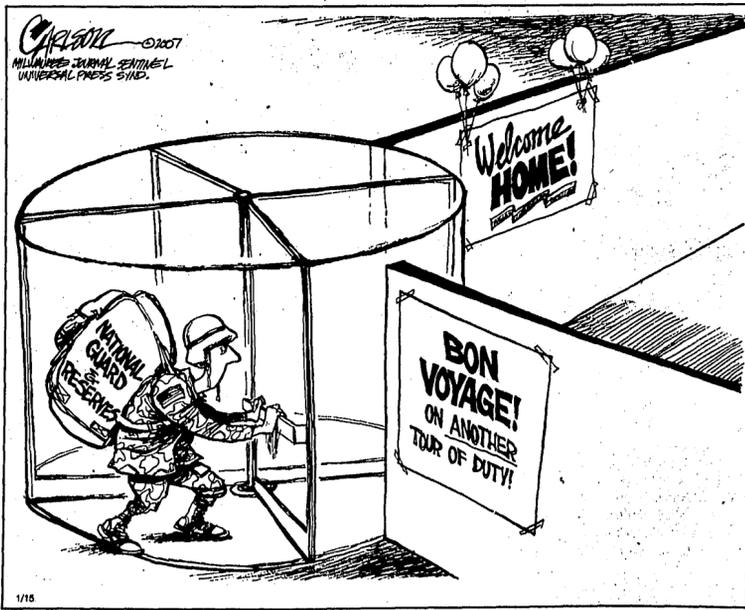

At Davie, some, no doubt, would prefer to abandon the site if it is that exposed to intruders. Surely, sanity and the pocketbook should be considered. A fire is a bigger statistical threat than a terrorist attack. The enclosed corridors add to the danger of a fire.

For a decade, the public has made fun of the high school's wall. The architect's corridors and the newly improved wall will make that old project seem cheap.

Lane is juggling all these issues — school construction, budget constraints, teacher unrest — at once. It's a Herculean task, no doubt, made more difficult by the self-imposed time constraints. This pell-mell race to build a second high school doesn't have to be so reckless. Lane had been counting on his teachers to help sell the plan.

It may be easier — and more appropriate — to ask the public what it wants before the plans are set. Otherwise, the public's only chance to be heard is at the ballot box.

A Second High School Would Cause Problems

To the editor:
I firmly disapprove of the decision to divide Davie County with another high school; for this would cause more problems than it would alleviate.

Firstly let's look at the current problems which face Davie High that contributed to the decision to build another high school: overcrowding; the facilities aren't modern enough; and a long commute for North Davie people.

These problems should simply be dealt with by building a more modern school on the current site, or building one elsewhere in the county and then putting the current facilities to another use. The long commute would still be a problem, but the pros of having one high school certainly outweigh this insignificant con.

Davie County High School is one of the few things which unites and unifies this county other than the lines on the map. Though few admit it, we live in a county divided. The line which divides the county is blurry in some places and bold and dark in others, but it certainly exists. Though the middle class if the chief economic group on both sides of the county, a much larger upper class lives on the north side, while many families on the south side live near the poverty line. In middle school, this division caused tension and bad feelings between the schools. Having graduated from South Davie last year, but having a lot of friends at North also, I can speak from recent memory.

Although both middle schools have almost identical blueprints, North Davie is a much more modernized school while South seems a bit drab and run down. Thus, it is automatically assumed that North provides a superior education just because more money gets poured into the school. I have often been referred to as a "dumb South kid."

School Construction Site Not A Good Neighbor

To the editor:
I have owned property that adjoins what is currently the William Ellis Middle School construction site for 37 years, having lived on that property for the last 24 years. I never imagined I would experience some of the things that I have over the past two years when I first found out that a new middle school would be built. Since most of my fellow Davie County residents will never experience living next door to a school construction site, I would like to share with them some of what it is like.

1. There has been no communication from the school board to the adjoining property owners about what to expect during any phase of construction.
2. Dust and dirt are in the air and on Highway 801 the majority of the time. At times the dust has been so bad that I could barely see the work site from my house. Any rainfall causes mud and dirt to wash into my driveway and yard. Even more mud finds its way to my driveway as it is slung from vehicles leaving the work site. The mud in my driveway has been so bad at times that it required a shovel to clean off. Most construction sites are required to keep the roadway clear but apparently not the new middle school.
3. Putting in of a sewer line just for the school created even more dust and dirt on Highway 801. Mud from the sewer lines runs through my front yard whenever it rains.
4. Traffic hazards are common in front of my house as drivers drive on the wrong side of the road attempting to avoid the mud.
5. Mud runs across the back of my property from two silt ponds that were built to collect runoff water. The silt ponds also attract quite a few mosquitos.
6. During certain phases of construction, work was done with bright lights at 2 and 3 a.m. with cement trucks going in and out during these hours.
7. Work crews often work seven days a week.
8. Phone service has been disrupted as workers have cut phone lines on several occasions.
9. The land was given for the school but part of my front yard will be taken so that a turning lane can be added on Highway 801 for the school entrance.
10. Trash finds its way into my yard either from the back of while my peers at South Davie called students at North "rich stuck-up snobs." After getting to know each other at the high school, freshmen can learn that, for the most part, these stereotypes are exaggerated or simply wrong. The feud which existed while we were in middle school dissipates and we no longer think of discrepancies in economic level, but are unified as students of Davie High.

If another high school was built, solving the problems which do exist at Davie (which could be solved by other means) would be nothing compared to the problem of social division which it would fuel. We wouldn't learn the lesson now taught of accepting other people, but would rather have the ideals of separatism further ingrained into our way of thinking. When a group of students was selected to give their collective opinion about a new high school, they said they would rather have one school. Mrs. Hedrick wrote off their opinion by saying that students are resistant to change. Maybe they should consider that the students - the people this decision will affect - have actually thought through the positive and negative consequences of the available options and have made an informed decision, not just a loose opinion based on natural tendencies.

I wish that they would have considered the opinions of students and the negative social repercussions more heavily before deciding to have two high schools. If they would have, I think the final plan agreed upon by the school board would have been much different. I realize that are probably much wiser and more educated than I am, but before making a decision which will so heavily affect generations of students, they should have put themselves in the shoes of a student and confronted the problem from another angle than that of a man or woman behind a desk.

Lions Continue To Serve

To the editor:
As the population of Davie County increases, requests for assistance for the visually and hearing impaired persons become more frequent. The Lions is a civic organization with open membership primarily dedicated to serving the financially needy who need vision or hearing care. The Mocksville Lions Club contributes to community projects that impact visually and hearing impaired people. Youth services are a part of Lions dedication, including education scholarships, YMCA partnerships and the Leos of South Davie

Middle School, a service club. The members of Lions involve the community in service by selling blind-made brooms, birthday calendars, raffle tickets and citrus fruit. As more services are provided by Lions, we are grateful to many in our loving, caring and giving community who help us provide hope and care to many needy in Davie County. Thank you, Davie County, for your support and participation for 51 years.

Judge Owes An Explanation

To the editor:
I am extremely disappointed to learn about the non-existent sentence recently given to Robert Michael Trotter by Judge Mark Klass. Judge Klass, I would like an explanation, and I think those who voted for you and every person in Davie County deserves to know how you could give a person convicted of not one or two but 14 counts of felonious embezzlement by an officer could receive five years of probation?

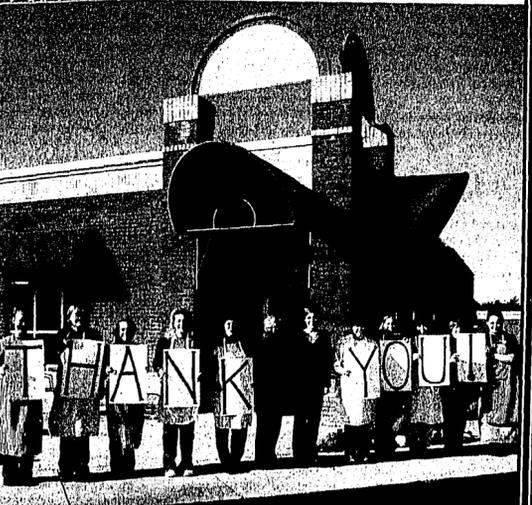

According to the reports, Mr. Trotter could have been sentenced to almost 23 years, and what do you give him? Probation.

I am very sorry that I voted for you now, and you can be assured that the future will be different and I strongly recommend that the people of Davie County consider other possible courses of action. I also note that Trotter must perform 100 hours of community service which I also think is absurd as the last place he should be is in the community.

This is another instance where the Davie County Sheriff's Department has escaped serious damage, and I hope the new Sheriff Stokes really reviews all that has transpired under previous administrations and starts over. Judge Klass, we the people of Davie County would very much like your response.

varsity game and heard about the incident there. He and Davie principal Penny Hedrick talked about it during the game.

He said on Tuesday that the culprit was caught, and appropriate disciplinary action was taken. The suspect was not a member of the basketball team.

He said the incident didn't appear to be a conflict between the teams.

The Davie County Enterprise Record received an unsigned letter Tuesday saying some Davie girls provoked the incident. The letter said the girls used foul language and a racial slur. The retaliation included "hurling trash on to the bus along with depositing urine and spit on the seats of the same bus that the remainder of the athletes and cheerleaders would have to ride back to the high school on."

Telford said competitive bantering is unavoidable between the schools, but this crossed the line.

"There's no excuse for what our kids did," he said. "There's a competitive rivalry between West and Davie. Let's keep it on the field. After the field, that's it. In some years we're going to beat them. In other years, they're going to beat us.

"I was at Mocksville sitting in the stands when I got the report. That's not representative of what we want."

He said he was also upset that the Davie students were denied their postgame meal they had planned. He said he wanted to make it up to the team.

"As you enter and go from the front parking lot to the back, it's not very well lit, and if you look up, you can see exposed wires. I don't like to use the word cosmetic, but in the process of creating this safer, more secure environment, we will be addressing that, just by the nature of the renovations."

Those renovations are expected to cost around $2.1 million.

Old, covered walks between C and G buildings would be replaced with new enclosed walks that would provide better lighting and an easier interior transition between buildings. Lane said as students pass from one building to the other, moving toward the bus parking lot, they must go through several sets of doors. Each time a door is opened, wind, rain, and cold enter, and the doors close loudly, which is a disruption.

Additionally, there is the security issue of an open door, he said. Enclosed connectors would provide a safer transition, and students would no longer have to battle the elements as they change classes. Walks would be air conditioned, so the climate inside would match that in the walkways.

Chases, which run above the ceiling and below the roof, would be constructed to provide passage for heating and air ducts and wiring, and plumbing and electrical systems. The walks are projected to cost $322,680.

Other covered walks would be replaced with new open-air covered canopies, and chases for mechanical systems would be put in place. That work would cost $657,580.

The areas of the media center and new gym, as well as other newer construction areas, would be analyzed to determine where improvements are needed. One example is the corridor in K building between the band room and the choral room, which needs new flooring and ceiling material. At $3 per square foot, that would cost around $150,000.

The $8.3 million of renovations, added to $700,000 set aside for fees, testing and miscellaneous, come to $9 million. Lane said he, Larry Bridgewater, director of operations, Tom Evans, maintenance director and the architect will meet with the faculty at the high school to determine "how best to serve their needs."

From now to the time the bond passes, if it does, Lane said adjustments may have to be made as prices change, but the targeted renovations would probably not change.

If the bond does not pass, Lane said, "then we will continue as we have been. We have the state and local capital outlay fund, and will continue to use that to do the best we can to patch things together, but that's only $1.5 million on the local side for all the needs.

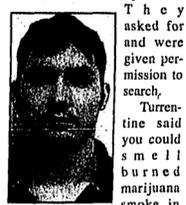

"We owe it to everybody to try to get caught up, which we haven't been able to do with the high school. We're all working together to maximize the resources that are available.

"We really appreciate the commissioners' support, but it will take something on the order of a bond referendum to address these needs. Hopefully, our citizens will see that need and step up to the plate May 8."

"It was packaged to sell, being in separate bags. He actually had the price list stuck in the bag with the marijuana."

Man Guilty Of DWI After Responding To Wife's Wreck

By Jackie Seabolt
Davie County Enterprise Record

A Davie man was found guilty of drunk driving despite his lawyer's best attempt to convince the judge otherwise in the Jan. 11 session of district court. Robert Frank Fulmer was arrested Nov. 5, 2005 after a high-way patrolman stopped him at a traffic accident near US 64 and NC 801 east of Mocksville.

According to testimony by Trooper Michael Dalton, he was called to the scene of a single vehicle accident around 10:45 that evening. Dalton said that when he arrived several local agencies were on the scene.

"What was your purpose at the scene?" Assistant District Attorney Wendy Terry asked Dalton. "I was there to investigate the collision and interview potential witnesses," Dalton said.

Dalton testified that when he arrived, the vehicle involved in the accident was being driven away from the scene by an unknown person and Fulmer was starting to leave the scene in another vehicle. That's when Dalton found out Fulmer was the husband of the woman involved in the wreck and had requested her vehicle be taken to a nearby fire department.

Fulmer's attorney, Jerry Grimes of Davidson County, objected during the prosecution's questioning of Dalton.

Grimes argued Dalton had no basis to stop Fulmer since he was not the one involved in the accident and that if he stopped him based on information he received from other third party witnesses at the scene, then those witnesses should be present so they could be questioned as to what they told the trooper; otherwise, the trooper's stop would be based on hearsay.

Terry objected. "An officer is allowed to go to the scene of an accident and investigate," Grimes responded. "He observed Mr. Fulmer pulling off in a car not involved in the accident then hollered at him to pull over, that's an unlawful stop."

"Talking to somebody is not against the law, there's no stop that violates Mr. Fulmer's criminal rights," Terry said. "He did not have a legitimate reason to stop him," Grimes said.

The judge told both parties that under the circumstances and in lieu of the information the trooper had at that time, he was entitled to stop Fulmer about the accident.

Dalton went on to testify that after he stopped Fulmer he was approximately 2-3 feet from him and noticed an odor of alcohol, Fulmer's speech being slurred, and his eyes appearing glassy and red.

Dalton said that after Fulmer exited his vehicle and was inside the trooper car he asked him if he'd had anything to drink. "He said he'd had a few drinks earlier in Lexington at the AMVETS Post," Dalton said. Fulmer was then taken to Davie County Detention Center and received an intoxication test shortly after midnight.

Grimes then began questioning Dalton, "In the process of your conversation with Mr. Fulmer did he not advise you he'd left the AMVETS Post and gone home?"

"Yes," Dalton answered. "He'd gone home and got called out about the wreck," Grimes stated. "He got to the scene, his wife had been taken to the hospital, and he asked that her car be taken to the fire department for safekeeping."

In closing Grimes asked the court to review the totality of the evidence.

"If Mr. Fulmer had been involved in the wreck he'd have the right to leave the scene for medical assistance and he should certainly be allowed to leave to seek medical assistance for his wife."

He is a free-born American citizen on the side of the road, what is the basis for stopping a person driving a motor vehicle if an officer doesn't know if he's involved in the accident or not? He stopped a man during the course of going to seek medical assistance for his wife. If his wife hadn't had a wreck he would have not have been there," Grimes concluded.

Judge Wayne L. Michael found Fulmer guilty of DWI and sentenced him to 30 days in jail, suspended 12 months. He was ordered to pay $100 plus court cost, receive a substance abuse assessment and treatment, surrender his license, not to drive a vehicle until licensed, and perform 24 hours of community service.

Reflections

By Alice Galther

*As I look back on the heroes of yesterday,
Who braved the path for freedom long ago,
Who carry the scars from the battle,
Would I have been ready to go?*

*When I think of the brave Harriet Tubman,
Moses was her famous name,
Could I have conducted her railroad?
Or sat quietly by and complained?*

*If I held the vial of chemistry,
Of the great scientist Charles Drew,
Who gave to the world blood plasma,
Would I have continued to see it through?*

*If I held the racquet of Althea Gibson,
From the streets of Brooklyn to Wimbledon,
Would I have weakened from racism,
Or fought valiantly to win the crown?*

*If I sat in the seat of Rosa Parks,
On the Montgomery bus that day,
Would I have sat unremoved, although scorned,
Or got up and sadly walked away?*

*If I had marched in the shoes of Dr. King,
From Selma to Capitol Hill,
Would I have complained with aching feet,
And been content just to stand still?*

*I know I would join the many heroes,
Very willing to sit, to march, and to speak,
And do my best to bring about change,
That all mankind might see.*

O Yes! I'd pray and sit, and march, and speak - I'd pray and sit and march, and speak - I'd pray and sit and march and speak.

Match Of The Year West Forsyth Wrestling Has Davie's Attention

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

When Davie's wrestling team hosts West Forsyth on Jan. 25 at 7 p.m., in the match of the year, the War Eagles will bring a formidable pedigree of conference, regional and state titles. The Titans were a slumbering program for many years, but they boast a stronger resume this year.

When West's current crop of seniors were freshmen in 2003-04, the War Eagles rocked West 56-9 on its mat. The teams staged three extra-charged showdowns the past two years, and Davie captured each one, all of them lacking suspense.

Davie was ranked No. 1 in 4-A when it hosted No. 9 West in 2004-05, and Davie stomped the Titans 50-6. Davie went to West last year with all the Central Piedmont Conference marbles on the table, and Davie romped 34-15. A few weeks later, they squared off in the state quarterfinals at Davie. The No. 2 and eventual state champion War Eagles mounted a 32-15 lead, forfeited the last two weights and celebrated a 32-27 victory over a West team that was 35-4 and ranked third.

Jan. 25 will be another season-changing match, as long as Davie sets the stage with a home win over North Davidson on Jan. 23. But this time West is the favorite, and a prohibitive favorite.

The Titans are 24-3, with two losses to out-of-state teams and one by three points to perennial power Riverside.

Their 103-pounder has 30 wins. Star Joey Smith is a fourth-year starter at 112. Chad Rhodes is 37-4 at 119. They have a third-year starter with 25 wins at 130. Their 135 has 30 wins. Transfer Lawrence ...

starter with 20-plus wins at 145. Their 152 has 20-plus wins. Their 189 has 30-plus. Josh Downs is a state contender at 215. And their 235-pound heavyweight has 30-plus Ws.

"Smith is a stud. He could win it all this year," West coach Mike Bryant said of his 112. "Downs has a shot at winning it all at (215)."

Bryant inherited a long-suffering program in 2001-02, and the rebuilding process was painful - three wins his first year with 12 wrestlers and seven wins with 16 wrestlers in 2002-03. Bryant took West to new ground his third year, going 22-9 for its first winning season in 12 years.

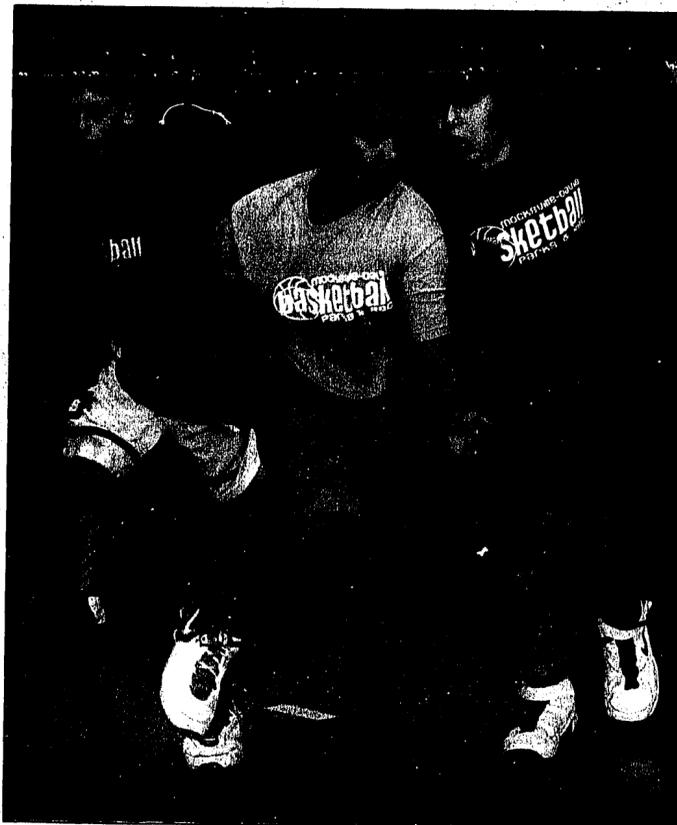

West has increasingly amplified its success, going 23-3 with 45 kids in 2004-05, going 36-5 with 50 kids last year and building around four state qualifiers on a 54-deep team this year.

That's a four-year run of 105-20. Davie is 22-0 all time against West, but the last three stick in the Titans' minds, and they're salivating to return the favor.

"That's all Durwood (Pack) talks about," Bryant said of West's longtime athletics director. "Last year I asked him: 'Would you rather we win the conference or state?' He told me: 'I want you to win the conference.' I said: 'Oh, my gosh.' It's pretty big for the school and for the AD. Our AD probably wants it worse than anybody."

Approaching a big match is an old hat for Davie coach Buddy Lowery, who's been ultra successful in his 31-year career. His record is 557-87-2 with 15 regional titles and three state championships ('94, '95, '06). The War Eagles have hammered CPC competition for 22 years, going 114-11. They haven't lost a CPC match since 2002 state last year, vs. Mount Tabor, 14-32, at 140. Jesse Leonard is a fourth-year

Barber Doing Phenomenal Things In Wrestling

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

To say Jared Barber is a standout wrestler is like saying the North Pole is a little chilly. The South Davie Middle eighth grader is not elite. He's whatever comes after elite. Off the charts is a pretty fair description.

Barber could easily become one of the greatest ever in a county that has a glory-filled past in the sport. Becoming one of the top three of all time isn't out of the question.

"Jared's technique is phenomenal for his age level," said North Davie's 27th-year coach, Ron Kirk. "Technique-wise, he's probably a second-year high-school wrestler, maybe a third-year high-school wrestler. Jared will probably be the next Scotty Spry or Neil Comatzer - somewhere between those two. He'll be a two-, three-, maybe even a four-year state placer. For his weight class (he weighs 167), that's a big burden to put on his shoulders, but it very well could happen."

Those comments from a man who is not one to get carried away when describing an athlete. Barber, who also seems destined for football greatness as a running back and/or linebacker, does things on the mat beyond your imagination. He's a five-time state champion, winning the gold in the second, third, fourth and fifth grades. He entered the USA Kid-Cadet Regional Freestyle and Greco championships once and came away with a gold medal.

He's won the national championship four times in five tries.

If that's not enough, he went 10-0 with eight first-period pins in the Virginia Challenge on Dec. 15-17. That's regarded as the fiercest middle-school tournament in the country.

It goes without saying that Barber would change Davie High's team right now.

"In fifth grade he was as good as anybody I had at South Davie," Davie assistant coach Howard Riddle said. "He's a really gifted athlete. When you put time and effort into wrestling, and you're a good athlete, things that look hard for other people look easy for him."

Barber went undefeated for South Davie in 2005-06, but decided not to wrestle for the Tigers this year. "That simply wasn't enough competition."

This tells you all you really need to know about Barber. In the Virginia Challenge he bumped up from 170 to

Worth Noting

With Davie boys swimming leading by one point over N. Davidson, 400 free relayers Justin Lee, Timmy Stilling, Drew Esposito and Daniel Wendel won by 17 seconds to clinch an 85-82 victory.

Melisha Fowler of Davie's varsity girls scored six of her team-high 14 points in the final 2:20 to preserve an emotional 51-47 win over W. Forsyth.

Eighth-grade wrestler Jared Barber went 10-0 in the Virginia Challenge, a national tournament. He had eight first-period pins.

Ashton Swicegood of S. Davie's girls scored 10 points, hitting double figures for the third time in five games, in a 44-26 loss to Erwin.

Shannon Dillard scored 13 points, giving him 28 in two games, as S. Davie's boys steamrolled Erwin 48-20.

Alex Newman of N. Davie's boys amassed 16 points, six rebounds and three steals in a 40-39 loss to Forsyth County Day. Matt Kemblelak hit three 3s in a 47-24 loss to W. Rowan.

N. Davie's 11-0 wrestling team has five with 11-0 records: Calob Howard, Shelton Sales, Matt Cusack, Collin Eichhorn and Ricky Bell. An injury likely ended Tyler Lee's season at 10-0.

Girls Get Pivotal Win Over West

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

It might be a stretch to conclude that after beating West Forsyth 51-47 here Friday that Davie's varsity girls basketball team is here to stay in the race for the Nos. 2-3 spots in the Central Piedmont Conference. But Davie does at least appear more than capable of contending with everyone except Mount Tabor, which is running away with the regular-season lead.

In the first of two CPC home games last week, the War Eagles lost 54-44 to North Davidson. But they played with energy, focus, aggressiveness and were tied with 4:47 remaining. Their season could have all but slipped away in a pivotal showdown with archrival West. Instead, they might have saved it with a giddy 51-47 victory.

"We've been playing fairly well but not quite enough to build confidence," coach Debbie Evans said. "This is a big confidence booster for them individually and as a team."

West scored with 46 seconds left to cut Davie's lead to 49-47. West sent a grizzled veteran to the line in Melisha Fowler, and she cemented it by hitting a pair of free throws that squared Davie's CPC record at 3-3. West fell to 3-4.

"She's had two years of (varsity) experience, and I certainly feel confident with her up there," Evans said. N. Davidson 54, Davie 44

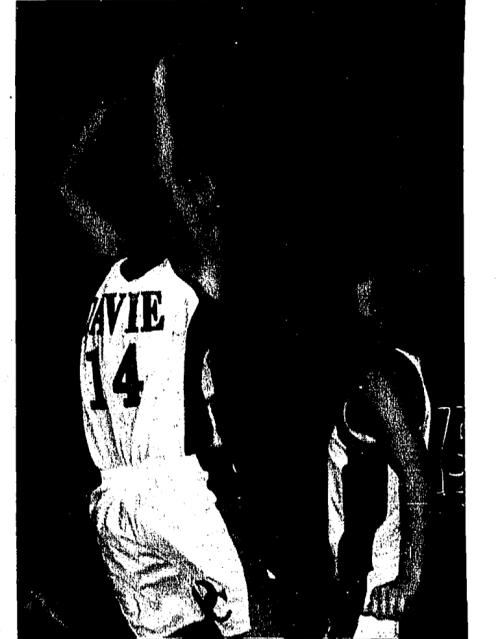

The War Eagles got off to a shaky start. But after digging a 9-2 hole, a 3-pointer by Tonesha Turner jumpstarted a surge that saw Davie pull within 21-19 at halftime.

The keys in the first half were Sarah Evans (six points, four rebounds) and Joni Garrett (five points, five rebounds). The entire third quarter and half of the fourth were about Davie answering every move North made. Evans' three-point play put Davie in front. Turner fed a fastbreak layup to Fowler to tie the score. Evans flew down for a tying bucket. Turner drained a go-ahead 3. Rebecca Riddle's putback tied the score at 42.

"We did some good things," Evans said.

Evans, a 4.6 scorer coming in, and Riddle, a 1.7 scorer, were major factors. Evans had 13 points and seven rebounds while hitting five of seven field goals and three of three foul shots. Riddle, who has improved dramatically since last year, scored nine on 4-of-8 shooting.

"Sarah had some big baskets," the romp by Mount Tabor that snapped a 42-match winning streak in 2000-01. Their current streak in the CPC is 28.

But these are hardly vintage times for the War Eagles (21-9, 3-0 CPC), who are missing countless parts to injury, including Jesse Cousins at 112. That has pressed freshman Jesse Hilton into 112, and he doesn't even weigh triple digits. The injuries have made one of Lowery's most inexperienced teams even less experienced.

West is eager for some revenge, which will make it more difficult for Davie. The margin will depend largely on whether Davie's losses are three- and four-point decisions or technical falls and pins. If Davie's wins aren't pins, it could be in deep trouble.

"If we get a little better this week and get a little better next week ..." Lowery said. "You've got to win the ones you can, and if you can get a pin, you better get a pin. We can wrestle with them. We've just got to get a break here and there. We'll wrestle good I'm sure. We've got to wrestle good. They're pretty good and they'll be sky high."

Few thought the War Eagles had any chance against Mt. Tabor, and they stunned the third-ranked Spartans 45-33 to keep the CPC streak alive. West, though, is an entirely different matter.

The candid Bryant has good reason to feel confident, and he doesn't hide it. "We're solid all the way through," he said. "I've got my money on our guys this year."

A subplot is Bryant's friendships with some of the War Eagles, particularly stars Chris Ange and Ethan Curtis.

"That Mount Tabor win was really big for Davie," Bryant said. "Ange called me after the match and said, 'You would not believe how it went.' He's my buddy. He wrestled with us in the offseason. It's been like that for me for several years. I've ended up being close with some of those Davie kids because they work out with us in the summer. (Aaron) Hollifield went to Disney with us. I would love for Chris to win the state this year, if he doesn't face my kid. He's a great kid and he deserves it. I've known Ethan since sixth grade when he worked out at Smith Grove. That doesn't mean we're not going to put somebody out there and try to beat them. I do it for the kids. I don't teach at the school. I just love the sport."

Notes: In the only match last week, Davie pounded host Reynolds 54-18. It got wins from Justin Miller, Jake Boger, Aaron Peoples, Kevin Whitley, Travis Goforth, Zach Vernon, Ange, Matt Garretson, Joel Barnett and Jake McKay. ... Curtis' 20-match winning streak ended in a 6-1 loss at 152. ... Davie needs a spirited home crowd for West. Assistant coach Howard Riddle said the environment helped against Tabor. ... While West looms large on the schedule, the War Eagles can't afford to ignore East Rowan at East on Feb. 1, not after the Mustangs lost 43-22 to West. "East is a tough little team," Bryant said. "They're all technical. They don't just fall over on their back."

Barber ...

190 to face a defending national champion from Ohio. Barber sliced him to shreds, 9-3.

As a sixth grader Barber faced a guy who placed fourth in the state in Ohio and a sophomore who placed in the state in Florida. Barber defeated both. Even his losses are impressive. As a sixth grader he lost 3-2 to a junior state champion from Massachusetts and lost 4-2 to a state champ from Ohio.

Barber's overall tournament record is 164-21. But here's the important part: He has one loss when taking on someone his age, and that was 1-0. Barber met that same kid two more times and twice got revenge by one or two points.

Barber's size will make his transition to high school more difficult than if he were a lower weight. But Kirk wouldn't put him in the same breath as Spry (state champ in '93, '94, '95) and Comatzter (state champ in '95, '96) if he didn't think Barber was the real deal.

"If you're a freshman in the lower weights, you mostly face freshmen and sophomores," Kirk said. "In the upper weights you get those juniors and seniors who are football players and have a lot of muscle. I know technique overrides muscle nine out of 10 times, but it makes it harder to do. But I really think Jared will be the next Neil Comatzter (who won it all at 160 and 189)."

North assistant coach Jamey

Holt echoed that.

"What's going to help Jared is he's going to be a lot like Timmy (Allen, a '05 state champ)," he said. "He's going to wrestle 189, but he's going to wrestle like he's a 135-pounder. I mean he's going to tilt people, he's going to shoot in and he's going to be real good on his feet. You'll see some 189-pounders that know a bunch, but usually they've got two or three basic takedowns that they'll do."

Barber's emergence at Davie in 2007-08 will mean so much more than most folks realize. "The thing about having Jared on your team, he's going to make everybody around him that much better," Kirk said. "They're going to get sick and tired of getting walloped and wore out everyday at practice, and it's going to make them better wrestlers."

Aside from all his titles, it's the intangibles that make Barber a rare breed. "I have no idea what a college person trains like because it's been so long since I've been around college wrestling and stuff," Kirk said. "But I'm sure that Jared trains close to what some of those college guys do." "His work ethic is unbelievable," Holt added.

Plus, there's no questions about Barber's character. If he ever needs slap in the face to refocus, he's got big brother Adam, 22, to provide it. Adam is a 24/7 coach and role model to Jared and twin brother Jacob, who has eye-popping abilities in football and baseball.

"Our guys don't look at him and say, 'He's from South Davie. What's he doing here?'" Holt said. "Our kids are eager to work with him."

"When he came up here before the season, he was teaching (Jordan) Farmer. Don't do this. Do this. Try that," Kirk said. "He doesn't just go in there and pummel you, then walk away like I'm God's gift to wrestling. He tries to help you, and that's a great character."

There's another eighth-grade sensation in North Davie's Matt Cusack. "He won an AAU national title last year, and in the Virginia Challenge he went 8-2 to earn third at 135. Despite facing the No. 3 middle schooler in the nation and then a multiple state champ, Cusack was undaunted, going all three periods in both losses. When Cusack faced the fifth ranked 140-pounder in the nation, a high schooler from Tennessee, he lost by four points."

Next year Barber and Cusack will join a Davie team that will be loaded for several years.

"Barber's going to be an impact right away," Riddle said. "We have a really good group of freshmen this year, but he'll be something that will be special and really help us as a freshman. With everybody we've got coming back, and Jared and some of the other eighth graders coming up, we'll have a full lineup. We're going to have depth and talent."

Old School Davie Sports From 1979

The Davie girls basketball team defeated West Rowan 54-43 as Deanna Thomas scored 15 team-high points despite picking up three fouls in the first quarter. Jill Amos had 13 points and Rhonda Bullabough eight.

Thomas poured in 19 points as Davie trounced Trinity 62-36. Amos and Mary Gardner added 13 and 12, respectively.

Meanwhile, the Davie boys blew a pair of substantial leads. They suffered a 52-50 heart-breaker to West Rowan, which didn't lead until the final two minutes.

The War Eagles led 28-15 at halftime, but got outscored 22-12 in the fourth and lost on a shot in the final three seconds. Steve Fleming (16), Randy Athey (13) and Barry Chunn (10) were double-figure scorers for Davie.

Fleming and Athey pumped in 21 each against Trinity, but it wasn't enough as Davie squandered an 11-point halftime lead in the third to lose 75-58. Trinity dominated the fourth quarter 29-12.

PUBLIC NOTICE REGARDING CONSIDERATION OF FEDERAL STANDARDS PROPOSED BY AMENDMENTS TO THE PUBLIC UTILITIES REGULATORY POLICIES ACT ("PURPA")

Issued: January 18, 2007

The North Carolina Association of Electric Cooperatives ("NCAEC") hereby gives public notice that it will host and facilitate the administrative proceedings required to implement standards in the Energy Policy Act of 2005 (EPA Act 2005), which amended the Public Utilities Regulatory Policies Act of 1978 (PURPA), on behalf of the following of its member electric membership corporations ("EMCs"):

- Brunswick Electric Membership Corporation
- Carter-Craven Electric Membership Corporation
- Central Electric Membership Corporation
- Edgecombe-Martin Electric Membership Corporation
- Energy United
- Four County Electric Membership Corporation
- French Broad Electric Membership Corporation
- Hallfax Electric Membership Corporation
- Jones-Onslow Electric Membership Corporation
- Lumbee River Electric Membership Corporation
- Piedmont Electric Membership Corporation
- Randolph Electric Membership Corporation
- Rutherford Electric Membership Corporation
- South River Electric Membership Corporation
- Ti-County Electric Membership Corporation
- Union Power Cooperatives
- Wake Electric Membership Corporation

EPA Act 2005 proposed five new federal standards under Section 111(d) of PURPA for consideration by, among others, certain non-regulated electric utilities (such as EMCs, or as they are commonly referred to, "electric cooperatives"). In addition, other EMCs may consider the standards on a voluntary basis. In each instance, the participating EMC will consider and determine "whether or not it is appropriate to implement such standard[s]" within certain defined time lines based on evidence collected from interested persons after public notice and hearing.

The five new PURPA standards proposed for consideration by EPA Act 2005 are set forth below. A copy of the complete legislative language relevant to these standards is posted online at www.ncaec.com/purpa/purpadefault.htm. Any EMC member unable to access the web site who desires a copy of the legislative language should contact NCAEC by mail [ATTN: PURPA Coordinator, P.O. Box 27306, Raleigh, NC 27611-7306], or by email at purpa@ncaec.com, and a copy will be provided at cost. Note that despite the mandatory nature of the content of the standards, EMCs are not obligated or required to adopt any of them. Rather, by participating in this process, each EMC will consider each standard and subsequently determine whether adoption is appropriate:

- Net Metering. Each electric utility shall make available upon request net metering service to any electric consumer that the electric utility serves. For purposes of this paragraph, the term "net metering service" means service to an electric consumer under which electric energy generated by that electric consumer from an eligible on-site generating facility and delivered to the local distribution facilities may be used to offset electric energy provided by the electric utility to the electric consumer during the applicable billing period.
- Fuel Sources. Each electric utility shall develop a plan to minimize dependence on one (1) fuel source and to ensure that the electric energy it sells to consumers is generated using a diverse range of fuels and technologies, including renewable technologies.
- Fossil Fuel Generation Efficiency. Each electric utility shall develop and implement a ten (10)-year plan to increase the efficiency of its fossil fuel generation.
- Time-Based Metering and Communications. Not later than eighteen (18) months after the date of enactment of this paragraph, each electric utility shall offer each of its customer classes, and provide individual customers upon customer request, a time-based rate schedule under which the rate charged by the electric utility varies during different time periods and reflects the variance, if any, in the utility's costs generating and purchasing electricity at the wholesale level. The time-based rate schedule shall enable the electric consumer to manage energy use and cost through advanced metering and communications technology. (This reflects the opening paragraph of the standard; the second paragraph of the standard lists some of the types of time-based rate schedules that may be offered; and the third paragraph provides that each electric utility subject to the first paragraph shall provide each customer requesting a time-based rate with a time-based meter capable of enabling the utility and customer to offer and receive such rate. The full text is available online at www.ncaec.com/purpa/purpadefault.htm.)
- Interconnection. Each electric utility shall make available, upon request, interconnection service to any electric consumer that the electric utility serves. For purposes of this paragraph, the term "interconnection service" means service to an electric consumer under which an on-site generating facility on the consumer's premises shall be connected to the local distribution facilities. Interconnection services shall be offered based upon the standards developed by the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers (IEEE) Standard 1547 for Interconnecting Distributed Resources with Electric Power Systems, as they may be amended. In addition, the standards and procedures shall be established whereby the services offered shall promote current best practices of interconnection for distributed generation, including but not limited to practices stipulated in model codes adopted by associations of state regulatory agencies. All such agreements and procedures shall be just and reasonable, and not unduly discriminatory or preferential.

Please note that the participating EMCs purchase all or a considerable amount of their full power requirements either from North Carolina Electric Membership Corporation ("NCEMC"), or from large investor-owned utilities, such as Progress Energy or Duke Energy, under long-term full requirements contracts. For this reason, the EMCs would not likely be able to adopt certain of the PURPA standards, most notably Standards 2 (Fuel Sources) and 3 (Fossil Fuel Generation Efficiency), and its ability to effect aspects of other standards may be limited as well. Commenters are urged to take such limitations into account when presenting their views.

For the EMCs to fully consider the views of their members and other interested persons regarding the standards, NCAEC will follow the procedural schedule set forth below (each component of which is more fully addressed in the ensuing portion of this notice):

- Initial Comments: to be submitted on or before April 6, 2007.
- Reply Comments: to be submitted on or before May 11, 2007.
- Public Hearing: to be held on May 23, 2007, commencing at 9:00 a.m. at the North Raleigh Hilton, 3415 Wake Forest Road, Raleigh, North Carolina 27609-7330.
- Determination: to be rendered on or before August 7, 2007.

Notice. Any interested person may obtain at cost a copy of the relevant portions of EPA Act 2005 at the offices of NCAEC following the procedures explained above.

Initial Comments. These comments (if possible) should be typed (double spaced) and paginated, with appropriate headings so that readers will clearly know which of the five standards is being addressed. The comments should identify the name of the commenting party along with the address, telephone number, and (if available) the email address of the commenting party. NCAEC requests that at least three copies of the comments be mailed to the following address:

PURPA Coordinator
NCAEC
P.O. Box 27306
Raleigh, NC 27611-7306

Alternatively a single copy may be electronically filed by emailing the document(s) to NCAEC at purpa@ncaec.com. Comments will be posted online and NCAEC will make copies of comments available at cost to anyone who requests a copy.

Reply Comments. The purpose of reply comments (which should conform to the format described above for initial comments) is solely to respond to arguments made in another person's initial comments. Therefore, it is important that the person submitting reply comments clearly identify the initial comment(s) to which he or she is responding and the points (preferably with page references) in the initial comment(s) which he or she is addressing. The filing instructions described above for initial comments should be followed for reply comments. NCAEC will post all reply comments online and will make copies of the reply comments available at cost to any interested person that requests a copy.

Request To Participate in Public Hearing. Any interested person who desires to participate in the public hearing should notify NCAEC in writing (either by mail at NCAEC's office address noted above, or by email at the email address noted above). The notification should indicate at least the following: (i) the name and address of the person requesting to participate; (ii) whether the person filed initial and/or reply comments; (iii) whether the person desires to make an oral presentation and if so, the anticipated length; and (iv) whether any special accommodations need to be made for the presenter. If no requests to participate in a public hearing are submitted, there will be no hearing (which fact will be noticed online at least one week before the scheduled hearing), in which case the evidence considered will be the initial and reply comments.

Hearing. The hearing will be held at the North Raleigh Hilton, 3415 Wake Forest Road, Raleigh, North Carolina 27609-7330, and will be presided over by an impartial third party selected by NCAEC. The procedures to be followed at the hearing will depend in part on the number of participants (persons) proposing the same position(s) are urged to consolidate their presentations, and will be determined by the presiding officer with the goal of ensuring a full and fair record on the issues. It is expected that a one-day hearing at one location will be adequate, but if that is not the case, the hearing will continue on ensuing days, and possibly at alternative locations, until completed. The purpose of the hearing is to collect evidence in addition to that found in the written comments; a person need not participate in the hearing for his/her written comments to be considered. A transcript of the proceeding will be posted online and made available to any interested person at cost.

Determination. The Determination to be made by each EMC regarding whether or not it is appropriate to adopt and implement any of the five standards will be in writing, will be based on findings supported by evidence in the record, will be posted on each EMC's web site and will be made available for any interested person at cost.

We urge persons interested in this matter to contact us with any questions concerning any of the items discussed above. Thank you in advance for your interest.

Boys Now 0-6 In CPC

The Davie varsity boys basketball team is struggling about as badly as could be. Last week Davie staggered to 0-6 in the Central Piedmont Conference, losing 63-53 to North Davidson and 72-58 to West Forsyth. Both were at home.

Center Darius Hall and power forward James Mayfield kept Davie close to North in the first half. Hall had 11 points, nine rebounds and two assists at the break, while Mayfield hit three of three shots and grabbed four rebounds as North took a 27-26 lead into intermission.

Mayfield scored five points in less than a minute to give Davie a 31-30 lead, but the War Eagles were undone by a 10-0 North run in which Davie went four-plus minutes without a field goal.

North improved to 13-4 overall and 3-3 in the CPC. Hall finished with 14 points and 14 rebounds, his seventh double-double. Drew Absher had 14 points. Mayfield, who was averaging two points a game, went five of five from the floor for 11 points. Eric Lowery had 11 points and five assists.

But Hall did not get a shot in the third, when North pulled out to a 43-35 lead. Matt Van Hoy, Davie's No. 3 scorer, was ill and didn't suit up.

Hall, Absher and Lowery staked Davie to a 5-2 lead over West. But the rest of the half was miserable. Davie didn't score for 8:49 and watched West reel off 26 unanswered points.

That halftime margin was 41-17, and that's with Absher draining three 3s in the final 78 seconds of the half.

West (8-10, 3-4 CPC) ran the floor at the breakneck pace and repeatedly sprinted down for easy layups. Davie outscored the Titans 41-31 in the second half, but obviously the damage had been done.

West's agile big men, Kyle Boardman (21 points, 12 rebounds) and Allan Jones (16 points, 10 rebounds), overwhelmed the War Eagles. And two more Titans scored double figures - Phil Kostelic (15) and Justin Johnson (12).

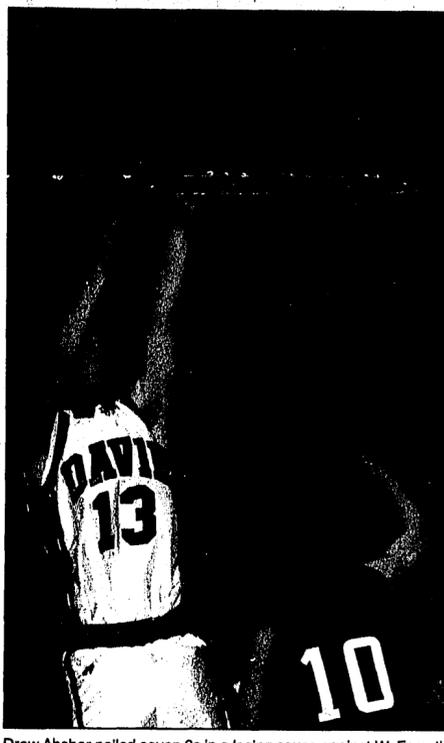

Absher did all he could to prevent a fifth straight loss, nailing seven of 16 3s for 24 points. He has eight 20-point games. Hall (11 points, nine rebounds) scored 10-plus for the sixth time in a row, but no one else got more than four as Davie limped to 5-12.

Notes: Kenny Rivers, a star receiver who missed the last nine football games with a broken foot, finally healed up to make his basketball debut. He came off the bench to score four points on 2-of-4 shooting. He added four rebounds. ... West was fresh off an 88-66 loss to North Davidson. ... The War Eagles play at home against South Rowan on Jan. 19, at Starmount on Jan. 24 and at home against Reynolds on Jan. 30.

N. Davidson 63, Davie 53 - Drew Absher 14, Darius Hall 14, James Mayfield 11, Eric Lowery 11, Alex Williams 3.

W. Forsyth 72, Davie 58 - Drew Absher 24, Darius Hall 11, Kenny Rivers 4, Eric Lowery 4, James Mayfield 4, Zeb Cope 3, Deonte Dismuke 2, Matt Van Hoy 2, Dennis Redmon 2, Alex Williams 1, Sean Miller 1.

Congratulations to Our Final FOOTBALL CONTEST WINNERS!!!

First Place = $25 and the Cap to Ron Lovelace, Sr.

Second Place = $5.00 to Douglas E. Peebles

Football season has all but ended and with just a couple of NFL playoff games and the Super Bowl remaining we now turn our attention to BASKETBALL!! BUT before we hunker down in front of the fire to enjoy some great college and pro hoops we still have some unfinished business...our FINAL FOOTBALL CONTEST WINNERS.

Ron Lovelace, Sr. pulled out the win in our last contest of 2006 bringing home the bacon with just 9 missed games out of a large number of college bowls.

Coming in a close second place with 10 misses was Douglas E. Peebles. The bowls were especially tough this year with several upsets and poor performances by traditional powers. How many would have thought Ohio State would lose the national championship game. And how many could have predicted an undefeated season for Boise State? That's why they play the games folks. And now ... ON TO BASKETBALL!!

ALL CONTEST ENTRIES MUST INCLUDE A FULL MAILING ADDRESS AND PHONE NUMBER!

Those without this info will be disqualified. WE WILL NOW BE MAILING ALL CHECKS TO THE WINNERS. THANKS! First Place Winners may pick up their Ball Cap at the newspaper office.

Sarah Evans led Davie against North Davidson with 13 points and seven rebounds.

Rebecca Riddle had nine second-half points in the tough loss to North.

coach said. "She worked hard on the boards and she brought a lot of energy. That's a solid performance."

"Rebecca got where she was supposed to be on our press-break. She's worked hard. Any time she's struggling at something she says: 'Coach, what do I need to work on?' She keeps working. The past two games she's played well."

Riddle caught a Fowler pass and converted it in one motion, drawing Davie to 46-44 with 3:30 left. Davie, though, didn't score again. The culprit: After controlling the boards for three quarters, North won the rebounding battle 14-6 in the decisive fourth.

Still, the War Eagles played their brains out against a team that improved to 10-6 and 5-1 in the CPC. You could question their shooting touch (below 30 percent for the ninth time), but not their passion.

"I told them not to lose confidence in our teamwork because I think there was a lot of that," Evans said. "I hate it for the girls because there was a lot of good stuff out there."

Davie 51, W. Forsyth 47

Early it appeared guard Amber Miller and 6-5 center Elizabeth Maas were going to bury Davie by themselves. Miller hit two 3s in the first quarter and Maas had four points before the game was three minutes old.

But Davie (7-10, 3-3) completely dismantled them in the second and third. Miller went 20:07 without a field goal, while Maas went scoreless for 23:03. They got hot in the fourth to finish with 18 and 10 points, respectively. But Davie was in control by then.

"We were slow defensively, especially getting out on (Miller)," Evans said. "And we didn't cover (Maas) up enough early. They played last night and maybe (Maas) wore down. Joni did a good job of cutting in front of her and getting steals."

A Garrett free throw ignited a 20-4 Davie blitz in the second. West (9-9, 3-4) went on runs of 7-0 and 6-0 in the second half, but the War Eagles' heart and resilience kept them in the lead each time. A Fowler-to-Evans connection thwarted the 7-0 West rally, and a Carly Pratapas-to-Morgan Owens play quelled the 6-0 West uprising.

Kellie Brown was stellar with 10 points and six rebounds on 3-of-5 shooting from the floor and 3-of-4 accuracy from the line.

"She's been working and things clicked for her," Evans said. "She handled the ball strong, knocked down shots and was focussed in. I hollered at her at practice about crashing the boards, and in the first half she kept us in the game with some offensive rebounds."

After Owens scored four quick points midway through the fourth, Fowler did the rest. Mired in a severe slump, the lefthander returned to the spotlight in clutch fashion, scoring nine of her team-high 14 points in the fourth to atone for eight points in a span of seven quarters.

Fowler whipped through man-to-man defense and pulled up in the lane to give Davie a 46-

39 lead. West pulled within two before Fowler kissed a high-arc shot off the glass with 55 seconds left. Then came her big free throws with 18 seconds left.

"A couple of them were the kind you say: 'No, what are you doing?'" Evans said. "And then you say: 'Ooh.' Fortunately those shots went down."

But balance was the real difference. Owens sank all four free throws for six points. Brittany Wharton (five points) buried three of four shots, including a 3, and added two steals. Garrett had five points, four rebounds and three steals. Evans had four points and nine rebounds. Turner, Fowler, Garrett, Amber Parrish and Pratapas handed out two assists each.

Davie, which had its fewest turnovers (16) in seven games, has played much better since Evans changed her lineup approach into musical chairs at Reynolds. She's subbing liberally and everyone seems to be playing selflessly.

"All 10 of them did something to help us win, and they all felt like they contributed," she said. "We did that to get a spark after the Catawba tournament, and we're making the most out of that. I feel like everybody can contribute, and the past few games they all have at different times."

Notes: The student section's exuberance spurred Davie. "A big crowd and West Forsyth is always going to get your adrenaline flowing," Evans said. "It's hard not to feed off of that."

The War Eagles play at home against South Rowan on Jan. 19, at Starmount on Jan. 24 and at home against Reynolds on Jan. 30. ... You can't get too carried away when a team hasn't won back-to-back games all year. "I just hope they keep working together," she said.

Swimmers Sweep N. Davidson

The Davie swim teams pulled off a sweep of visiting North Davidson last week. The girls breezed 102-68 and the boys slipped by the Black Knights 85-82.

"Not only a win, a double win," said an elated coach Jennifer Richardson. "Finally we have two victories to cheer for. The swimmers were so pumped for this meet."

The Davie girls maintained a healthy lead the whole way. Autumn Jones (200 IM, 100) and Taylor Moore (100 butterfly, 500) paced the War Eagles with double wins individually, while Rachel Mackintosh tacked on a first place in the 50. On top of that, Davie grabbed all three relays: Katelyn Jones, Summer Holland, Rebecca Hendrix and Mackintosh in the 200 medley; A. Jones, K. Jones, Moore and Mackintosh in the 200 free; and Mackintosh, Holland, Moore and A. Jones in the 400 free.

There wasn't an event in which A. Jones, Moore and Mackintosh didn't finish at the top.

Lee

T. Stilling

mers (Mackintosh, K. Jones, Moore, Bethany Little, Holland and A. Jones) are forces to be reckoned with," Richardson said.

K. Jones swam a season-best 1:16.83 in the 100 back. Moore, Holland and Little put on a show in the 100 butterfly, finishing 1-2-3. And Hannah Cartner knocked a whopping 11 seconds off her 100 backstroke.

Daniel Wendel (200, 100 fly) and Drew Esposito (500, 100 breaststroke) posted a pair of individual wins apiece to lead Davie's boys to a hard-fought win. Justin Lee added a first in the 100 backstroke.

But it was the 400 free relay team that clinched victory in the final event. Davie had a one-point lead before Lee, Timmy Stilling, Esposito and Wendel sealed the deal.

"We knew we had to place first in the 400 free relay to win," she said. "The pressure was on, but they pulled through like I knew they could. Our relay had a time of 3:52.63 and North came in at 4:04.15 - 12 seconds later."

"As usual, the relay members of Stilling, Lee, Wendel, Esposito and (Dillon) Manship prove to turn in first places at almost every meet."

That's not all. James Kuell did the 50 free in 29.19, substantial improvement from his first try (34.86). Chase Macalone shaved an amazing 11 seconds off his breaststroke, as well as 11 seconds off his 200 free. Manship performed an outstanding 26.30 in the 50 free, proving even though he's new to the team that he's a valuable part of the 200 free relay, Richardson said.

Joel Stilling must have slept well that night. Not only was he apart of two relays, he also did the butterfly and 500 free - two grueling events. "Hats off to his valiant efforts and his personal record in the 100 fly," she said.

Timmy Stilling seems to trim seconds off his 100 free at each meet, and now he's down to 1:02. Davie's Senior Night is Jan. 19 against West Forsyth.

Third Quarters Doom JV Girls

If only Davie's JV girls basketball team could have played the second half how it played the first half.

In the first of two Central Piedmont Conference games last week, the War Eagles were tied, 16-16, at halftime at North Davidson. They were not the same team in the second half, getting outscored 21-7 in a 37-23 defeat.

At West Forsyth, the War Eagles went into the half trailing 12-11. But the third quarter was reminiscent of the third at N. Davidson - a 16-4 West run left Davie gasping in an eventual 42-22 loss.

While Davie met most of coach Becky Miller's standards against West, the North loss was disheartening.

"We played our worst game," she said. "We played with no energy, didn't shoot well and didn't box out."

Davie missed eight of 13 free throws. Machel Gadsdon led its scorers with seven points. Costner Merrifield and Jennifer Booth had four each.

Even though the third quarter doomed Davie at West, the War Eagles, for the most part, played exactly how Miller wanted.

"We played one of our best games," she said. "We were strong defensively, patient on offense and finally moved the ball around to find our shots."

But once again, the War Eagles were haunted by missed free throws. They went seven of 19. The two-game skid overshadowed a surge by center Gadsdon, who scored 10 points and is averaging eight in the last three games.

Ashley Smoot and Erin Naylor had five apiece.

"Gadsdon has been real strong down low the last two games," she said.

Notes: The War Eagles' third two-game losing streak left them 1-4 in the CPC and 9-7 overall. ... They play at South Rowan on Jan. 19 at 4:30.

N. Davidson 37, Davie 23 - Machel Gadsdon 7, Costner Merrifield 4, Jennifer Booth 4, Elyssa Tucker 3, Maleia Stevenson 2, Ashley Smoot 2, Kaycee Dixon 1.

W. Forsyth 42, Davie 32 - Gadsdon 10, Smoot 5, Erin Naylor 5, Stevenson 4, Dixon 3, Asia Steed 2, Booth 2, Morgan Wyatt 1.

Christian Lee of North Davie's undefeated wrestling team has been a solid performer at 135, winning six of eight matches.

Holt has a word with Aaron Doby, who is 10-1 at 112.

Calob Howard has been automatic at 105, winning 11 straight times.

Shelton Sales has been unstoppable at 119, pinning 11 opponents in as many tries.

North Wrestling Dominates As Always

North Davie's wrestling team is so good in so many weight classes that space in the paper is almost too limited to do this team justice.

The 11-0 Wildcats were their usual dominant self in wins over Brawley (63-30), North Iredell (75-13) and West Rowan (80-9). Six of them are still undefeated. Calob Howard (103), Shelton Sales (119), Matt Cusack (140), Collin Eichhorn (145) and Ricky Bell (171) are all 11-0 and Tyler Lee is 10-0. All of Shelton's victories have been pins, Cusack has 10 pins and a forfeit and Howard's closest win is 12-6.

Wow. "Cusack is on his own level," coach Ron Kirk said. "Howard works a clinic. Sales is very fluid in everything he does."

Yes, there are many reasons why North is averaging 9.4 pins and 12.5 wins per match. One of those reasons is heavyweight Christian McGougan, a 6-3, 235-pounder who produced three pins in three matches to lift his record to 10-1.

"He has the best balance and coordination, and he can get out of situations like a 103-pounder can," he said. "For a big guy, that's phenomenal. Technique-wise, he wrestles like a lower weight instead of a grinding heavyweight."

The best example was McGougan's first-period pin against W. Rowan.

"He got flipped, did a headstand and came out of it," he said. "He wound up with the guy underneath of him and pinned him. That would have been a 10 in gymnastics."

Tyler Lee's unbeaten season took a cruel twist against West Rowan, when he got slammed, suffered an injury and was likely lost for the remainder of the season.

"He got dropped on his head, and he's got a compression fracture on one of his vertebrae in the middle of his back," Kirk said. "It's painful and sore. That's going to hurt (our lineup)."

The story of the Brawley match was Clifton Bodenhamer. He spotted his 85 opponent a 5-0 lead, then showed the grit to storm back for a 9-5 win. That preserved his unbeaten record at 9-0, although he absorbed his first loss in the next match.

"He got taken down straight to his back, but he kept plugging away and took the guy to his back," he said. "He just wrestled hard. And that (Brawley) kid was pretty stout."

Aaron Doby is 10-1 at 112. Zack Summers is 8-2 at 125, Christian Lee is 6-2 at 135, Max Lum is 5-4 at 152 and Tanner Bledsoe is 4-3 at 130.

"Doby wrestled pretty smart (in a 6-3 win against N. Iredell)," he said. "That was a real good match."

"Summers is seeing things coming without even thinking about it. He's got that feel for it. Christian Lee is starting to get that feel for things, too. He's catching onto things a lot better."

Notes: Unbeaten Eichhorn squeaked out a pair of 5-4 decisions before shifting gears and recording three straight pins. "I told him I was tired of 5-4 decisions," Kirk said. ... Matt Dyson pinned N. Iredell in his starting debut at 217. "He finally made weight and wrestled good," Kirk said. ... North has lost two starters to injury, including Jordan Farmer at 152. A broken ankle closed his year at 4-3. ... North has 66 straight wins. "I hate it's going to be over with soon," Kirk said. ... North claimed five of six preliminary matches. Tyler Hobson and Jachawn Martinez defeated N. Iredell, while Mark Graham, Trevon Faulkner and Nathan Pearce took down W. Rowan. ... The Wildcats visit South Davie on Jan. 17 and host Lexington on Jan. 25. Both begin at 4:30.

Dillard, Tigers Steamroll To 4th Straight Win

The South Davie boys looked at themselves in the mirror after a 55-44 loss to giant Knox and said: "We can play." The Tigers haven't lost since, pushing their winning streak to four with a 48-20 dismantling of host Erwin last week.

Not only are the Tigers 6-5 after a 1-4 start, they have steamrolled everyone during the streak, winning by 18, 18 and 14 before torturing Erwin 21-6 in the first half.

"The Knox game was a big morale boost for us. We went down there and learned we could play with a lot of teams," coach Brent Wall said of his basketball team. "At first we thought we were better than we were, and we've gotten a lot better. I don't want that attitude to come back because we've got three excellent teams left to play, and two of them have beaten us."

Wall had several reasons to be happy, starting with the five players who opened the game: Davis Absher, Mattieu Sawicki, Dominique Dismuke, Adam Smith and Caleb Oswell. Although none had seen serious minutes all year, they scrapped like crazy while staying even with Erwin for four minutes, 4-4.

"Five players got a chance to start that hadn't gotten to play much, and they played very well," he said.

With the usual starters on the floor, South outscored Erwin 12-2 in the second. Shannon Dillard was a big part of the latest chapter in South's feel-good story, scoring 13 team-high points. That gave him 28 in two games.

"Dillard was a beast again," he said. "It's hard to find somebody at this level that can rebound with him."

Denzel Redmon was steady once again. His nine points gave him eight or more for the 11th time in as many games.

Foul trouble sent Darius Wilson to the bench, but P.J. Neely picked up the slack with six second-quarter points.

"Neely gave us excellent minutes," he said.

And then Nathan Jones got into the act during a 14-0 blitz in the fourth, scoring six points in a hurry. It was his second out-of-nowhere explosion in four games. No wonder Walls calls him "The Microwave."

"He scored six in about two minutes," he said. "It was a total team effort - all 15 of us."

The Tigers' final three games are at home: Jan. 18 against North Davie at approximately 5:15, Jan. 19 against Forsyth Country Day at 5:45 and Jan. 25 against Downtown at 5:45.

S. Davie 48, Erwin 20 - Shannon Dillard 13, Denzel Redmon 9, Nathan Jones 7, P.J. Neely 6, Kenyatta Brand 5, Caleb Oswell 3, Braxton Grant 2, Darius Wilson 1, Patrick Whaley 1, Adam Smith 1.

North Can't Recover From Stewart's Foul Trouble

At halftime of the North Davie girls basketball team's game at West Rowan last week, the Wildcats appeared poised to run their winning streak to seven. They outscored West 12-5 in the second quarter, building a 17-12 lead.

The third quarter was a total about-face. West ruled those six minutes 11-0, and North couldn't recover in a 32-24 defeat.

"The first and second half were like two different games," coach Trish King said. "We were looking good. I thought we were the better team. This is the first game I've been disappointed."

While Britani Stewart doesn't overwhelm anybody with her scoring (3.4 average), she puts the starch in North's defense. But she was saddled with her third foul two minutes into the third and was sent to the bench. That proved to be North's undoing.

With Stewart watching, West's six-foot center took over, finishing with 14 points, or eight more than North's high scorer.

"We just couldn't do anything right (in the third)," King said.

"One thing that made a big difference was Stewart getting her third foul. She may not rack up a lot of points, but she's a very good defensive presence on the floor. And (West's big girl) is who Stewart was manhandling."

Alex Keiser led North (9-4) with six points. Janna Dixon and Liz Hartman had five each.

Lauri Shelton and Stewart had four.

Another factor in the loss: North wasted smart and precision passing from Dixon and Shelton.

"Dixon made some awesome passes and we couldn't finish them inside," she said. "Shelton made some great passes and we couldn't finish them."

Earlier in the week, the Wildcats swallowed host Forsyth Country Day whole, 30-15. Dixon and Kayla Cornatzer paced the rout with eight and seven points, respectively.

"Cornatzer got hot in the third quarter and hit some good baskets," said assistant coach Chris Lum, who filled in for an absent King.

Everyone played well as North needed a 14-0 lead.

"We got some real nice passes from Dixon, Shelton and Keiser, and those three broke their pressure," Lum said. "Hartman had some assists."

It was Dixon's fifth game with eight or more points. Stewart was third with six points.

The Wildcats play at South Davie on Jan. 18 at 4, at Summit on Jan. 25 at 4 and at home against Downtown on Jan. 29 at 4:30.

N. Davie 30, FCD 15 - Janna Dixon 8, Kayla Cornatzer 7, Britanti Stewart 6, Rebekah McCann 3, Tyler Anderson 2, Liz Hartman 2, Alex Keiser 2.

W. Rowan 32, N. Davie 24 - Keiser 6, Dixon 5, Hartman 5, Laura Shelton 4, Stewart 4.

Wildcat Boys Do Their Best In Two Losses

Sometimes you can give all you have and still not win. That was certainly true in the North Davie boys basketball team's 40-39 loss at Forsyth Country Day in the first of two games last week.

The Wildcats led most of the way, including 12-7 after one quarter, 21-13 at halftime and 28-25 after three. But instead of celebrating a 10th victory in 12 games, they missed the game's last shot and were left with two losses to FCD by a combined seven points.

But coach Matt McPherson told them to keep their chins up. "That was the best team basketball we've played," he said. "I was really impressed with the way we played after two weeks off. Last game (in a 54-52 win over Downtown) we won on a last-second shot. This time we didn't make it. It's a good learning experience."

Alex Newman was superb in the first half, scoring 13 points. He cooled off but still finished with 16 points, six rebounds, three steals and two 3-pointers. It was his fourth double-figure scoring night in five games.

But the reason North fell short was FCD's big man, who dropped in 12 fourth-quarter points after going scoreless in the first half. He's so talented it was only a matter of time before he asserted himself.

"They've got one of the best low-post players I've ever seen," McPherson said. "When he catches it on the block, it's two points. We gave up a lot of size and weight to him, and we kept him scoreless in the first half. He got the ball in the second half and did a great job."

Sean Newman gave North a big lift by scoring seven of his nine points in the fourth. Matt Rembielak had seven.

"We had an opportunity to score (at the end) and didn't get a quality shot," he said. "They had only lost one game."

North was electric in the first three possessions against heavily favored West Rowan. Rembielak and A. Newman buried three triples for a 9-1 lead. Then came a meltdown, with West outscoring North 22-1 the rest of the half.

"They went man, and you can't drive the lane on that floor," he said.

Rembielak hit three 3s for 11 team-high points. A. Newman had eight points, five rebounds, three steals and two assists. The Wildcats (9-4) cut the deficit to 10 in the third and had the ball. The bottom line, though, was West was just outright better.

"They have athletes that are a lot quicker," he said. "It didn't really get out of hand until the last five minutes. We just couldn't space the floor to beat them."

The Wildcats play at South Davie on Jan. 18, at Summit on Jan. 25 and at home against Downtown on Jan. 29.

FCD 40, N. Davie 39 - Alex Newman 16, Sean Newman 9, Matt Rembielak 7, Blake Simmons 3, Brandon Dunn 2, Peter Fields 2.

W. Rowan 47, N. Davie 24 - Rembielak 11, A. Newman 8, S. Newman 3, Dunn 2.

South Girls Crumble In 4th Quarter

After three quarters, South Davie coach Doug Ebersbach had every reason to believe his girls basketball team was going to have a shot at winning its second straight game.

Host Erwin led 7-6 after one, it was 18-13 Erwin at the half and South was only down 24-20 going into the fourth.

But South hardly looked like the same team in the fourth, falling apart and losing 44-26. Erwin scored 20 of the quarter's 26 points.

"We were hanging right with them," Ebersbach said. "We were doing a good job. It was not so much the other team beat us as much as we beat ourselves."

The loss dropped South to 3-

8. Ashton Swicegood and Cara Hendricks did everything the Tigers needed to give them a chance. Swicegood delivered points in every quarter to finish with 10 for the second straight game. It was her third double-figure effort in five games. Hendricks overcame a slow start to score eight.

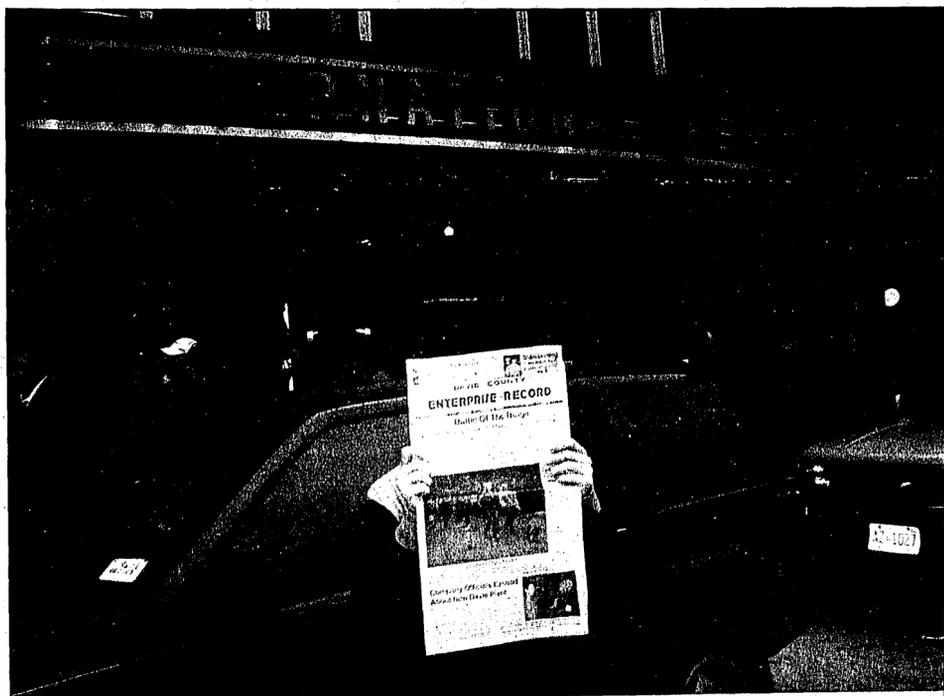

Swicegood and Hendricks, however, got little offensive help as no one else had more than two. "Ashton's been a constant," he said.

South had a tall task in Erwin, which has all eighth graders. South, by contrast, is a mix of seventh and eighth.

"That made a difference," he said. "And I had three players out. There's a lot of maturity difference between seventh and eighth graders."

The Tigers' final three games are at home: North Davie on Jan. 18 at 4, Forsyth Country Day on Jan. 19 at 4:30 and Downtown on Jan. 25 at 4:30.

Erwin 44, S. Davie 26 - Ashton Swicegood 10, Cara Hendricks 8, Ashley Joyner 2, Myshia Turner 2, Shakela Mayfield 2, Carmen Grubb 2.

Spotlight on Business

Country Club Rug & Fabric Care

"If it's cleanable, we clean it."

The succinct business philosophy of Joe Choplin speaks volumes about the mission of Country Club Rug and Fabric Care. Joe, who owns the well-known cleaning service along with his son, Chris, takes personal pride in delivering quality cleaning to every customer, regardless of the item.

"We clean just about everything," Joe says. "We clean just about everything, from carpets, upholstery, oriental and special rugs and bedding to suede, leather, animal skins and outdoor furniture cushions," he explains with a note of pride. "What the dry cleaner can't clean, we will."

And they make it easy. "We come to your door, pick up your items to be cleaned and deliver them back to you," he adds. "Or you can drop them off to us if that's easier for you."

Joe and Chris try to work within a 50-mile radius, focusing on local customers and their needs. Along with cleaning, they will also travel to the customer, move the furniture to pick up the rug and when they return, place the rug and furniture back in place. There is a minimum charge for this service.

An array of professional services. Some of the other professional services Country Club Rug and Fabric Care offers are:

- Pick-up and delivery
- Rug cleaning
- Rug Washing
- Fabric cleaning
- Teflon protector
- Repairs
- Moth proofing
- Deodorizing
- Specialized spotting
- Rug blocking
- Storing

"We have a large drying room with fans and dehumidifiers where we hold the rugs up to dry," Joe notes. "That process usually takes about 24 to 36 hours for an average size oriental rug."

Regular cleaning promotes rug longevity

Joe loves to educate customers on what gives long life to a rug and explains that there are an assortment of reasons why people should clean them, regardless of whether they are located in a home or business.

"A clean rug has brighter, clearer colors and the wool is glossier," he says. "If this isn't reason enough, washing a rug also protects it. When a soiled rug is used, solid particles cut the fibers and accelerate wear. If a rug is to be stored, then washing it to protect it from carpet beetles, moths and mildew is a good idea."

Joe said another motive is to discover the rug's true condition. "The first washing of a newly-acquired rug may disclose virtues and faults. One may discover brilliant colors and attractive design details or painted areas and permanent stains.

"Ultimately, the truth is

In business since 1991

Joe started his carpet cleaning business in 1991 and has been at his current Country Club location, 5723-F Country Club Road, since 1996. He notes that in addition to their complete line of services, Country Club Rug and Fabric Care also sells rug padding and rug protectors.

So take a good look at your rugs. Chances are they need some attention and professional cleaning will enable them to last longer and retain their beauty.

One quick call to Joe, Chris or Roxie at 766-8195 or 788-0862 makes the process quick and easy.

Heath built the covered bridge that holds the buggy he restored.

Unique Advance Man Takes Advantage Of Retirement To Create One-Of-A-Kind Home

By Mike Barnhardt
Davie County Enterprise Record

ADVANCE - The Amish buggy that Clay Heath restored for the women at Gemini Hair Fashions to use during the Advance Christmas Parade may have seen its last ride.

With Mrs. Claus in tow, the women dressed as reindeer and were to pull the buggy up NC 801. He's not sure if it was the "up" part or lack of participation, but he heard of some grumbling after the parade.

"That may have been the first time and the last time," Heath said. "Now, I don't know what to do with it."

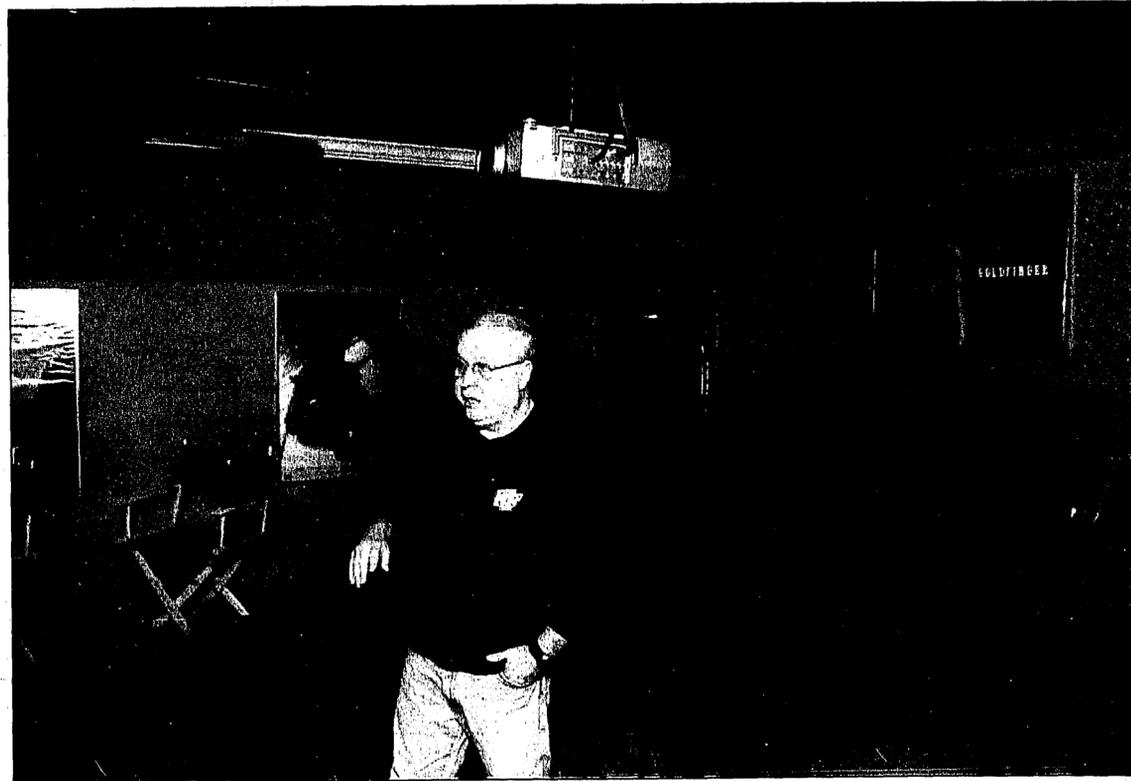

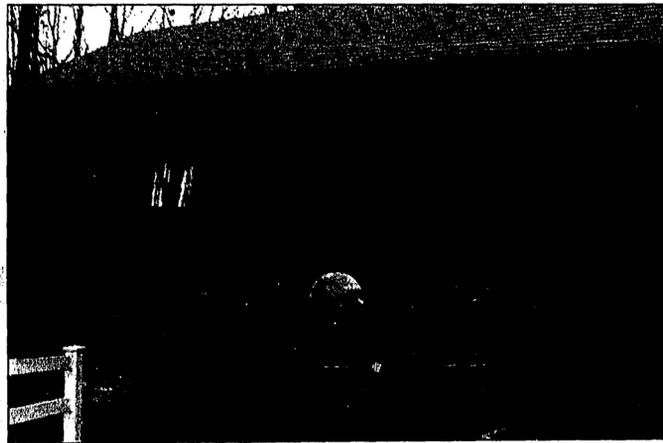

The buggy does look right at home in Heath's March Woods neighborhood, sitting quietly underneath the covered bridge.

That's right, covered bridge. The 36-year-old has been busy since retiring as a computer worker at RJR four years ago. The buggy and covered bridge he built are just the tip of the iceberg.

From the outside, other than the bridge and buggy, the home is unassuming, nothing to distinguish it from others in the neighborhood.

But one step inside, maybe two,

Davie YMCA Has Many Options For Favorites

It is the month for resolutions. Eat better, exercise more, lose weight, quit smoking - these are among the perennial favorites.

Some will succeed, some will stumble and others, come March, will join the ranks of those vowing to try again next year.

Officials at the Davie Family YMCA say that not going it alone is the answer to keeping those New Year's resolutions.

The YMCA is encouraging families - not just individuals - to make lifestyle changes.

"We have worked for more than 150 years to build strong families, and see first hand, the power of a supportive community and family in achieving goals," said Sarah Tolbert.

Here are some of the opportunities available at the YMCA, located on Cemetery Street in Mocksville.

• Schedule a free visit.

• Check out classes for every member of the family from parent/child classes for infants and toddlers to specialty classes for youth, adults and seniors.

• Meet with a trainer and get a fitness assessment.

• Enjoy family together time at family nights and events.

• Check out a variety of volunteer opportunities.

• Join a club like Teen Leaders or Active Older Adults.

ONLY $25.00 TO ANYONE WHO NEEDS HELP BUT HAS NEVER BEEN TO A CHIROPRACTOR BEFORE

(Or Hasn't Been in A Long Time)

Dear Friend, being a complete chiropractic adjustment. I am pleased to announce that I have opened my clinic, BodyCare Chiropractic, PLLC in Clemmons, N.C. In the past 8 years since I became a chiropractor, I have helped many people feel better and live healthier, more productive lives through chiropractic care. And now, I have opened a clinic in Clemmons and would like to introduce even more people to the many benefits our profession has to offer. For instance, chiropractic care may be able to help you if you are suffering from any of the following conditions:

- Migraine headaches
- Lower back pain
- Numbness or soreness in your arms or legs
- Constant fatigue, lack of energy
- Muscle spasms, sprains & strains
- A whole host of other problems ranging from dizziness to ringing in the ear.

These symptoms can be caused whenever the vertebrae in your spine are out of alignment, because these "misalignments" directly affect your nervous system.

Fortunately, if you are suffering from any of these problems, or similar affliction right now, they may be relieved or eliminated by proper chiropractic treatment (commonly called adjustments). So if you have always wanted to "check out" chiropractic care and see what it can do for you, now is the best time to do it because...

For one week only, $25 will get you all of the following services (normally $200 to $400).

What does this offer include? Take a look at what you will receive...

Andrew D. Leach is thankful for the packages from Davie he has received in Iraq.

Packages To Iraq Help Keep Soldier Spirit High

Andrew D. Leach was in Iraq for Christmas - but the packages he received from Davie residents made his time there more bearable.

Actually, the packages made it enjoyable.

A Senior Airman with the US Air Force, Leach had the following to say about the support received from Davie, especially that from his grandmother's (Olivia Talbert of Advance) church, Advance United Methodist.

"I have received so much mail and support from a number of people. It has been the most uplifting, helpful system of support for a troop deployed to this place.

"The Christmas cards and packages were great! If I could not use it or if I got too much of something, don't you worry, the guys got it.

"It was so neat: box upon box from all over Davie County and other areas came to every airman in my detachment. Our orderly room was jam packed! Candy, books, letters, hygiene supplies were busting through the roof!

"I am amazed at the amount of love and support we have from the families, friends and people we don't even know. I personally got a lot of letters from my grandma's area. A lot of the letters had glitter on them. It looked like a Christmas tree in the DCUs. I am overwhelmed with how many people are willing to take their time and money to help a troop with members they don't even know.

"Thanks for all your support this holiday season! I hope everyone had a good Christmas and has a happy 2007."

His address: SRA Leach, Andrew D., 57 JLIT/424 (AFA), APO AE 09366.

His parents, K. Denise and Neil C. Leach Jr., are also thankful for the support from Davie.

"As grateful parents of two active duty soldiers, we want to express our gratitude to the community of Advance United Methodist Church and loyal readers of the Enterprise for making it a Christmas to remember for our son, SRA Andrew Leach USAF. He is based in Iraq and has repeatedly expressed to us how receiving mail from home helps encourage him while driving in the convoys.

"Homesickness and loneliness are always companions of our soldiers so far from home. "He is very proud to be able to help those in need, but danger is near every time he gets behind the wheel of his truck.

"Continue to keep him and all his companions in your thoughts and prayers during this time of war."

Annie Lee Caudle Wright is the oldest living sibling of the original 10 brothers and sisters who gathered for their annual family reunion on Saturday, Jan. 6 at Rock Spring Baptist Church fellowship hall.

Everyone brought a favorite covered dish and enjoyed reminiscing about times past. More than 50 people were there.

Ann Wright is also known in our area as the "persimmon pudding lady". You may or may not have had a chance to sample one of her baked creations if you have ever attended the dine-in portion of Sheffield-CalahaIn Volunteer Fire Department's fundraiser supper. She nearly always donates a persimmon pudding for the events, but getting a portion before David Beck discovers it takes some planning. She's willing to sell them, too, so if you're a fan of persimmon pudding, you can call her at 704-546-2269 to get your name on the list.

"Lucille Beck, who has been a patient at Davie Hospital for several days, is scheduled to go to Davie Place this week. Hilda Kenton is at home after a hospital stay.

Janita Keaton celebrated her birthday on Wednesday, Jan. 17. Former New Union UMC pastor, Galen Hahn, has a birthday on Jan. 18, shared by Grayson James and Brenda Anderson. Shirley Gallier's birthday is Jan. 20. Jan. 22 is the birth date for Zachary Sherrill, Dot Keller, and new grandpa Bryant McClamroch. Tuesday, Jan. 23 is the date for Janet Dyson's special day, and Suddie Helton follows right behind with hers on the 24th.

Chris and I met Harold and Sharon Collins a long time ago, when they moved in next door to us in Winston-Salem. Although they both became AT&T employees and moved to many cities around the country, we never lost touch. Last week they visited here from their current home in California, on their way to visit with Harold's family in South Carolina. I was surprised to learn that Sharon's family has roots in Davie County, since I knew that she was born in Santa Monica, Calif. Her great-grandmother, Mary Bracie Mock, along with her husband (not sure of his name) and their children, lived here before wagon training their way to Salida, Kan. I was also told that Mary's brother-in-law, Henry Polindexter Mock, was a local circuit preacher here in Davie County. After traveling to Kansas, Mary's husband was bitten in the eye by a rattlesnake and died. She had already given birth to 11 children, but eventually met a man by the last name of Hanson, who had gone to Kansas from the Denver, Colo. area. She married him and took on the rearing of his children, too. They had several more offspring, making a total of 22 children that she cared for in her lifetime. Wouldn't it be interesting to have videos or movies of our ancestors?

Many of us have used the Sheffield Community Building on many occasions, but did you know that a separate Sheffield Recreation Center adjoins it? It has a tennis court and a picnic arbor. Unfortunately, vandals caused damage to both in years past, but a recently reactivated committee is working to get everything spruced up for the community's use. Plans include eventually adding children's playground equipment. Families will be able to picnic and play tennis on a first-come basis, but can also reserve the arbor by calling Larry Dyson at 492-5712. The recreation center is set up as non-profit corporation, so you can make tax deductible donations that will help to get it running and to keep it going. This is a great asset for our side of the county. Call Larry Dyson about the recreation center, but if you want to reserve the community building, you should call Mary Lou Teague at 492-5729 for information about rates and availability.

Another asset in the community is the Assembly Circle on property operated by New Union United Methodist Church. Although located outdoors, it is ideal for use by youth groups or other Christian organizations. Picnic tables are available. Larry Dyson can provide further information about this site.

An Outreach Ministry of New Union Church will begin on Jan. 22 at 10 a.m. at the church office at 1446 Sheffield Road. Brenda Bailey said that it will be a morning of bingo fun, and everything will be free. For about an hour, beginning with a devotion and a prayer, attendees can play at least ten games of bingo to win prizes and can enjoy some light refreshments, too. Everyone is invited. Also, the History Committee has 2005 and 2006 ornaments for sale at $10 each, along with twelve remaining tapestry throws at $50 each. If interested in purchasing or if you have any questions about the bingo, call 751-7567.

Although it's still a couple of months away, please mark your calendars now about the spring Sheffield-CalahaIn Volunteer Fire Department barbecue supper. Traditionally held on the first Saturday in April, the event falls on April 7 this year. Since that is the day before Easter, the fire department board of directors voted to offer only take-out orders this time. There will be tables set up, however, for anyone who wants to sit down to eat their take-out meal before driving home.

Hello, my name is Tyler Mason Creel. On Dec. 17, 2006, I turned two years old. My parents are Rob and Kerri Creel. My maternal grandparents are Tim (Poppy) and Debbie (Mimi) Bailey. Paternal grandparents are Bobby and Nancy Creel.

My Mommy and Daddy planned a huge Elmo party with a very special Elmo cake that was used as my theme. My Daddy had a delicious luncheon that he prepared for all the guests attending. Another special event was on my birthday I was featured on "Who's Turning 2" on television.

Also celebrating at my party were my Uncle Clint, my Aunt Kati and her fiance Marshall, my great mammaw Sue Ward, great-grandparents Leon and Nellie Bailey, Wanda Filppin and friend James, and Mike and Mandy Bailey and Parker.

Thanks to everyone for helping me celebrate my second birthday and for the many presents I received.

Little Lambs Founder To Speak At First Baptist Of Mocksville

Renate Kurz, founder of The Little Lambs Ministry in Carol Stream, Ill., will speak at the First Baptist Church in Mocksville at both of the Feb. 4 Sunday morning services at 8:30 a.m. and 10:30 a.m.

Kurz is a German woman who grew up in Communist Russia until she was 17. She and her husband came to the United States in 1984. Her husband, Waldemar, works with the Bible League in Chicago which furnishes Bibles to many countries in their languages.

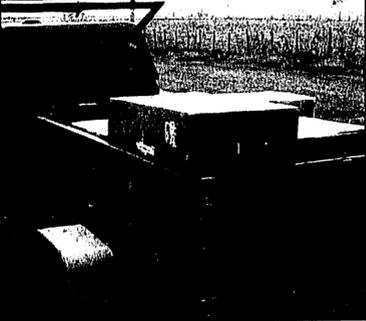

Little Lambs Ministry was established in 1992, to help the thousands of orphans in Russia and the Ukraine. The state-run orphanages in these two countries have thousands of children living in state-run homes. The orphanages in the Ukraine are given $3 per child for their needs a year by the government.

Little Lambs send teams from the United States to work as volunteer missionaries in these orphanages in the summer months. Visit the website www.littlelambs.com to learn more.

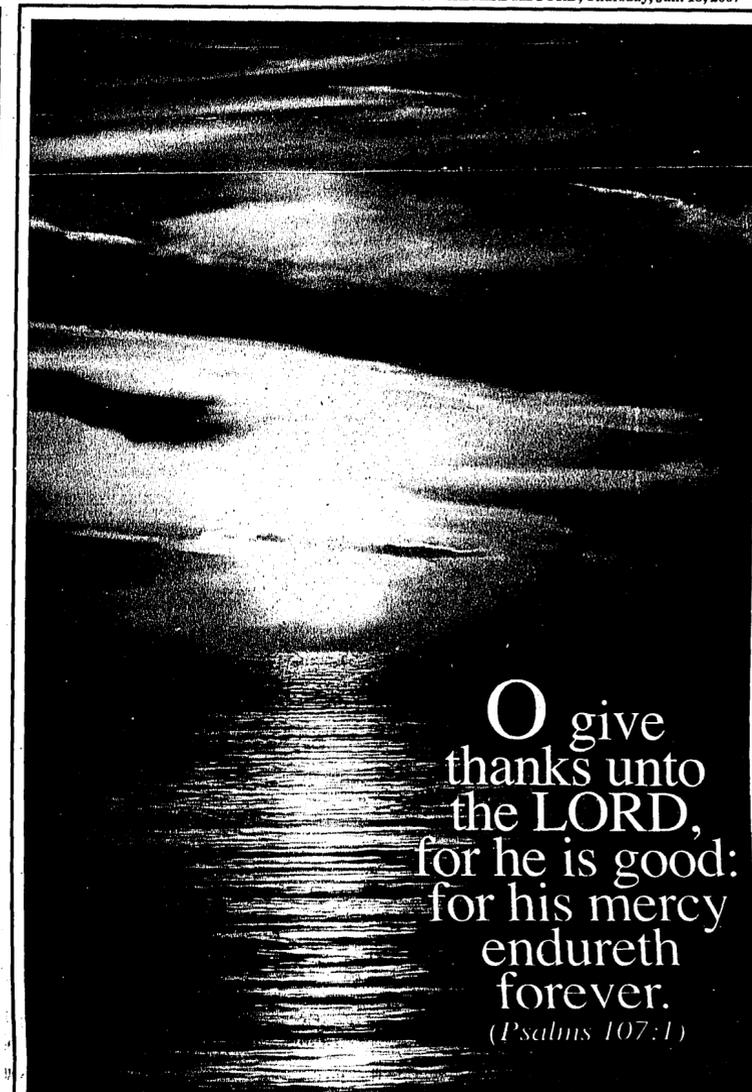

Kurz is interested in having young college students travel there for a month in May, June and July. Through their relief program, large shipments of clothing, shoes, hygiene items and peanut butter are shipped for these homes several times a year. The US government allows larger non-profit groups to send these items free four times a year for orphanages to the former Soviet Union countries.

Jerry and Linda Harmon, former residents of Davie County who now live in Iredell, are planning their 12th trip to the Ukraine. Several churches in the area have provided shoes for two orphanages each year for the last five years, including First Baptist Church of Mocksville, Turrentine Baptist, Society Baptist and Fork Baptist of Davie County, others from the Iredell, Rowan County area and individuals. They are also able to send many jars of peanut butter and clothing through The Little Lambs Ministry during the winter months to clothed and feed hungry children.

Call the Harmons at 704-528-3741.

Many jars of peanut butter and warm coats are being sent this month to the Little Lambs Ministry for the March shipment to The Ukraine.

Give thanks unto the LORD, for he is good: for his mercy endureth forever. (Psalms 107:1)

Dear Readers:

To honor their memories, the Enterprise Record welcomes you to submit written memorials about Davie County residents who have recently died. Often, our readers and friends have died with too little said about the significance of their contribution to this county and to us.

Obituaries are prepared under difficult circumstances by families stressed by a flood of emotions and decisions. A day after the funeral, families remember important facts that should have been included.

We hope this can be a column that allows our readers to properly remember and honor their late friends and relatives. We invite you to send your personal reflections.

- Some guidelines:
1. Submit the memorial within a month of the death.
 2. Please limit yourself to 100-150 words or less.
 3. Include a photo of the deceased if you have one.
 4. The memorial must be about a Davie County resident or former resident.

As with our letters to the editor, the memorials must be in good taste. They must be signed with an address and telephone number for verification. They can be submitted by mail to the Davie County Enterprise - P.O. Box 99, Mocksville, NC 27028 or by email, ernews@daivie.com. Submit the memorials by noon Monday of the week to be published.

Clay Heath built this room on what once was a deck.

Heath built this wooden replica of a Harley Davidson motorcycle for his son.

Heath ...

Continued From Page C1 and it becomes evident that this home is like no other. "This is stuff I enjoy doing to get away from computers," he said. "I had a list of little projects."

Heath moved to the home in 1998. He married his high school sweetheart - Weeta - in the late 1960s - in 1999. She works at Gemini, and between the two of them and her customers, the ideas keep coming.

Weeta had lived in Vermont, so the covered bridge idea was inspired by her.

Heath turned a back deck into an extra room, complete with tile floor and stained glass, both inspired by quilt patterns. His wife is a quilter. He installed the sauna that sits in a corner of the room.

Enter the hallway, Heath is sure to point out the book case he built with the rolling ladder from an old hardware store in Clemmons.

It's easy to walk right past the elevator.

Elevator? And it goes up?

It looks like a one-story home.

The elevator goes to an upstairs home theater he built in the attic storage space. More on that later.

Heath's sister had trouble climbing the stairs to see a movie in the theater. His wife came home and said some of her clients had elevators in their homes.

"The next thing I know, I was throwing my steps out in the yard."

The working elevator light has 10 numbers. It can't be that far up.

"We don't have 10 floors, but we have 10 feet," Heath said. "The light goes on every foot."

The elevator is built so that when it is up, the wall downstairs looks exactly like the inside of the elevator. They enjoy hearing from guests who walk into what they think is the elevator - then realize it's stopped above them.

He put in that annoying elevator music - but it was - annoying. That was turned off quickly.

On the ride up, it doesn't take long to get a hint of what lies ahead. First there's a glimpse of that silvery gold hair, then the sultry look and finally the skirt blown up by the wind from beneath the city streets.

Just as Marilyn Monroe appears on the back wall of the elevator shaft, you're at your destination.

The movie theater.

From the box office outside to the marquee to the posters, it's obviously a movie theater.

To the left entering the room, there's a mock concession stand. To the right, next to the highest-level comfy chairs, there are a couple of speakers like ones used at drive-in theaters. His son's friends had no idea what those were.

Look up, and there's 310 fiber optic lights barely poking through the ceiling. The tiny lights were installed by Heath, randomly flicking on and off, mimicking the night sky.

Under foot, there's soft carpet. It took several calls before he could find someone to install the thick fabric he had salvaged. There are plenty of more chairs for friends, and the projection system allows for more space - more chances to soak in the ambience.

"We can be watching a movie up here, and hear nothing downstairs," he said.

Of course, there's a refrigerator, an odd-sized one built into the wall. It, too, has a story. Heath found it at Lowe's, did the measurements, and went home to work on the project. No need to buy the refrigerator until he needed it, he thought.

By the time the room was ready for the fridge, that model had been discontinued. And it was an odd size. Two more were found at another Lowe's, and both were damaged in the warehouse. Luckily, the store found Heath another of that model that hadn't yet sold. He's pretty sure the delivery guys who had to take off doors, maneuver it up steps and remove moldings, in the heat of the summer with no air conditioning upstairs, won't be back.

There's also an office upstairs, and a barber chair (His wife is a hairdresser) that he restored.

"Our house is a combination of Ripley's Believe It Or Not and Barnum & Bailey," he said.

Downstairs, there's a wooden, framed replica of a Harley Davidson he made for his son. He made the plantation shutters that adorn the house, what he calls easy but monotonous work.

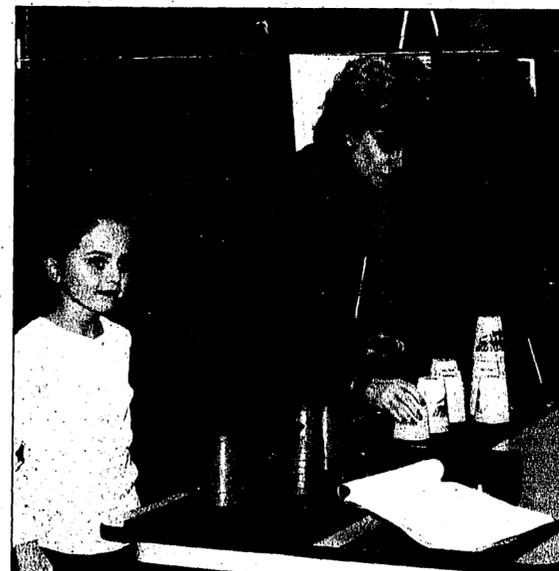

There's the wooden toolbox his dad used, with it's many handles for drawers. Only one is broken, and Heath said that visitors almost always pull on that handle first. "A lot of folks will ask what it is, what's the story behind it. They almost always open the only broken door."

There's more, additions and renovations even Heath can't mention in a short interview. He talks about slowing down, but he also talks about saloon doors to the deck turned into a bonus room, and a stone wall with gate extending from the house.

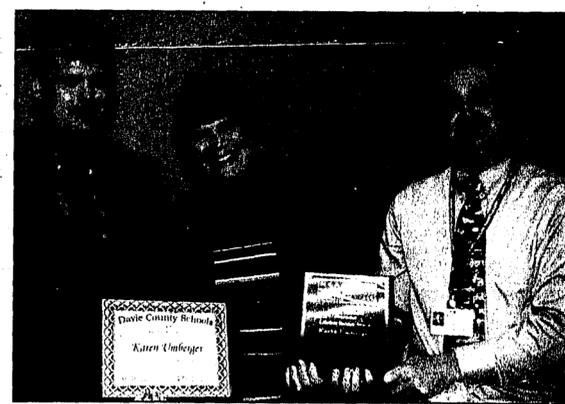

"RJR never worked me as hard as this house has," he said.

"We had the home built, but from Day 1, it's been changed non-stop. We love the neighborhood and we love Davie County."

were given at the January Davie Board of Education meeting. Emma Slabach, daughter of Gary and Angie Slabach, was recognized for her talent in stacking. Emma, 6, is in kindergarten at Shady Grove Elementary School. She has recently gained national attention as a World Champion Sport-Stacker, which involves taking cups and assembling them in formations and then disassembling them as quickly as possible.

In presenting the award, Carol Livengood, who has known Emma since she was in preschool, said, "I think she has a wonderful spirit and a humble heart." Karen Umberger, a PE teacher at Shady Grove, received the PE Lifetime Achievement Award on Nov. 17 from the state PE association. She has been in education for 21 years and is in graduate school working on an advanced degree. Last year, she received National Board Certification.

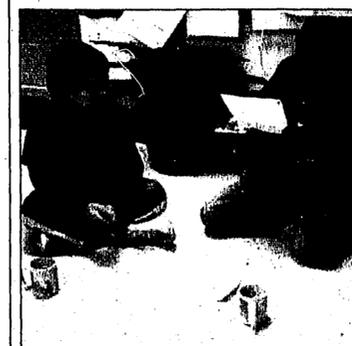

Maureen Moore, executive director of public relations, said, "We are proud of Karen's many accomplishments, including the fact that after 21 years in education, she still continues to get better." Shady Grove Principal Cary Powers said Umberger "does a lot to help out in the community, not just the kids at school."

Twelve students from Pinebrook Elementary School were recognized for character education. Each month, students from each school are recognized for outstanding character traits. The teacher who nominated them tells why that particular student was chosen.

Coolmece Elementary
Third grade social studies students are studying the life of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Students made a timeline of Dr. King's life. The classes have discussed what an impact King made in history. They are studying bones and muscles in science. They are labeling bones on the skeletons they made. The classes are reading Charlotte's Web. Mrs. Whitaker's class has started book projects. They are making floats for a Charlotte's Web Book Parade. Each float consists of a scene from the book.

Second graders are studying economics. They are learning to understand terms like "goods and services." They are beginning to add 2-digit numbers with regrouping. To help them learn this concept teachers have used pennies and dimes as the students add. They continue to use interesting novels during Aeculation. Freckle Juice and Julie B. Jones is (almost) a Flower Girl are two books being used.

Fifth grade students are working hard in math, reading and writing. Mrs. Carter's class is studying geography and landforms. Mrs. Reynier's class is studying Canada. Mrs. Fisher/Fleming and Mrs. Shoffner's classes are studying the United States. Each student is researching a state and doing some type of project with it.

Kindergarten students are learning about the winter weather. Students read The Mitten by Jan Brett. They compared the stories and made their own mittens. In math, students are learning about likenesses and differences.

William R. Davie Elementary
Mrs. Dyson's and Mrs. Pulliam's first grade class has been studying life in the forest. The children walked into a classroom that was turned into a forest. They were greeted by a mounted bobcat hiding in plants at the door. Upon walking into the room, they met a mounted black bear standing on all four legs next to the board at the front of the room. Next to the large fish tank, they saw a black bear rug on the floor and when they looked up on a shelf they saw a large tom turkey mount. The class was excited about seeing the animals, being able to touch them and get up close to them during writing time. A little later in the day, they spotted the mounted trout hanging on the wall at the front of the room. Each child had a turn holding a moose horn from Canada and explained they would not like to carry two of them around on their head all day and night. In math the children are working on counting money and recalling numbers. They enjoyed writing receipts in class and pretend shopping for items they would like to buy.

Mrs. Alexander's second grade students planted two Amaryllis plants and are watching them for growth. The students voted to name the plants and the winning names were: Lovely and T.J. They measured the plants every Friday and are keeping an on-going journal of progress. In math, they have been focusing on double-digit addition with regrouping. In reading group, students are studying animals in winter. They are learning about hibernation and adaptation during cold weather. Weather has been the topic of discussion in science and they look forward to having Lanie Pope visit the classroom.

Students in Mrs. Maynard's third grade class will finally be enjoying their multiplication ice cream sundaes. In math, students are learning how to subtract by regrouping and how write number words to 999.1 n reading, students are studying the Chinese New Year. They found it interesting that wearing black or white, or even saying four are considered taboo. They were interested to find that the Chinese New Year lasts for 15 days. One story they read was The Chinese Legend and The Ballad of Mulan. To wrap up this story, students compared the legend of Mulan to Disney's Mulan. Students are learning about cause seasons and day and night in science. They can't wait to start learning about the Solar System.

Cornatzer Elementary
Guidance has begun a grief group with Hospice. It will involve several students. Thanks to all who supported the Holiday Support Campaign, many families benefited and the school family was brought even closer together.

Frizzle and Friends has responded to many letters the past few weeks and looks forward to many more. Students involved have been mature and responsible in the responses. A Pennies for Patients campaign will begin in February to help support children with leukemia. This was a huge success last year. Cougar PALS will help with this campaign as they continue to meet and learn more about diversity and being a strong community, said Jenny Watkins, school counselor.

Fourth grade communication students have been reading, learning suffixes, prefixes and compound words. They have been practicing writing skills as they fine tune for the writing test in March. They enjoyed a special activity in December when the Davie Arts Council funded a program for writer and photographer Diana Green to spend a week with them on a writing project titled "My Inside Outside Self."

Mrs. Green took photographs of the students in poses that they felt represented themselves. She then led a writing activity in which students wrote about how they felt other people saw them, and how their inner self and feelings contrasted with that outside perception. The photographs and writing have made an eye-catching display in the fourth grade hallway and attracted a lot of attention. Parents are encouraged to drop by and see and read the results of this worthwhile project.

In math classes students have been working on two and three digit multiplication, adding and subtracting decimals, percentages, division skills, rounding numbers, learning about multiples and factors, comparing fractions, and estimating.

Just before Christmas fourth graders finished a social studies unit in which they learned about the life of early settlers in North Carolina. Mrs. Doss's home-room students worked in groups to prepare a computer PowerPoint presentation on North Carolina Native American Indian tribes that they shared with parents and students. A fun project that students enjoyed was to design and make a Christmas tree ornaments representing state symbols. The finished projects adorned trees in all three classes.

Fourth grade has started a science unit in which students are learning about electricity and magnetism. They are having lots of hands-on fun doing experiments in which they are discovering how static electricity can bend a stream of running water, how to create a simple circuit and make a bulb light, how to put a switch into the circuit, the difference between series and parallel circuits, and the many uses that magnets have. Fourth grade hopes that, as many parents as possible will attend the science fair Feb. 6.

Fourth grade is proud of its recent Cougars of the Week: Parker Correll, Austin Vandall, Corie Crane, Brittany Nicholson, Linda Willard, Abby Stone, Braden Rampersad, Jason Trivette, Alyssa Dudley, Madison Peary and Hannah Wright.

Fourth grade days are always full and busy, but students always find time to read. Mrs. Day is proud of her top readers for December: Melanie Richiolo, Jordan Barle, Joe Nobles, Kara Rice and Giselle Rodriguez. In Mrs. Stiller's class the top accelerated reading points earners are Jacob Latham, Kelsie Stanberry, Carrie Harney, Yaffit Kopel, and Laura Barney. Mrs. Doss's December bookworms were Jamie Longworth, Breanna Parker, Diante Allison, Luis Moreno, and Miranda Wheeler.

Third graders continue to hone writing skills. They continue to learn cursive and try to perfect it. In math they are working on place value, mastering addition and subtraction facts and beginning to learn multiplication facts. Mrs. Basley's class is reading Sarah, Plain and Tall and learning about frontier communities. Mr. Brunelli's class is reading Charlotte's Web. Miss Byerly's class is reading biographies and learning about famous people all over the world.

Student of the Week, Jan. 8: Davis Osborne, Jahmouire Lane, Colton Nichols, Julianna Mullen, Javon Stevenson, Sidnee Everhardt, Katlyn Walter, Alex Evans, Daphne Bowman, Cameron Tahminen, Mason Williams, Sha'veh Martinez, Cameron Cregar, Carlos Hernandez, Parker Froelich, Kayla Torres, Toni Burke, Jacob Miller, Hannah Melton, Randy Smith, Zach Frye, Tatum Edwards, Diana Castorena, Olivia Bowman, Daniel Jordan, Megan Reynolds, Lex Sodlik.

It's snowing in Ms. Hendrix's kindergarten class. The children are seeing snowflakes and building snowmen. This month our class will be talking about winter. We will discuss snow, snowmen and fun winter activities. We will understand more about the seasonal changes and how we can stay warm. Winter clothing will also be a topic of discussion. The children will read exciting stories about the different articles of warm clothing. We will also learn about different polar animals, their habitat, and what they like to eat. We will also learn about Martin Luther King Jr., friendship, and discuss our dreams.

Mrs. Beaver and Mrs. Melton's first graders are ready for an exciting new year in 2007. They have read many books about the winter season, including their favorites, "Pink Snow and other Weird Weather" and "The Snowy Day." The weather in 2007 has definitely been warm and weird, so the children wrote their own Weird Weather books. The young writers wrote about alligators, horses, skunks, puppies, money, video games and balloons raining from the sky. Their advice is be careful on the next rainy day. You never know what may fall from the sky.

Miss Hockaday's second grade class is off to a great start in the new year. We continued our study of symmetry by making symmetrical snowflakes, which the students really enjoyed. We also created puffy polygons by using marshmallows and toothpicks. In reading we have read several stories discussing friendship and investors, such as George Washington Carver. Our class is also working on a research project with Mrs. Choate, our media coordinator on the story, "The Mitten" by Jan Brett.

Students in Mrs. Strickland's third grade class have had an exciting few months with the birth of Mrs. Strickland's baby, Nixon.

While she stays home with Nixon until Feb. 5, Mrs. Mary Sine has been the interim teacher. The class enjoyed being a part of the annual third grade's Christmas Around the World and especially enjoyed the Moravian Love Feast at the Davie County Library. Students wrote about each place they visited and collected souvenirs from each country in their travel bag. The students also enjoyed their Christmas party and thank Mrs. Waxman, Mrs. Stowers and Mrs. Cookson for helping with the refreshments. Everyone enjoyed a great holiday and returned eager to learn. Students have made snowflakes, snow pictures and snow poems. They have written New Year's resolutions and accomplishments in 2006. The students were especially excited to receive responses from their pen pals at Shady Grove before Christmas and are writing them back using the computers. The students love math and are working on multiplication facts as well as fractions. After reading several Christmas novels before the holidays, the class has returned to the textbook and read an interesting article about penguins. The third grade will also be performing at the January PTA meeting on Jan. 30 and look forward to dancing for you.

Friday was Pajama Day in the fourth grades of Mocksville Elementary, as well as the other grades here. We were demonstrating courage as our character trait of the month. It did take courage to arrive in our Sponge Bob jammies and our Tweeetle Bird slippers. We wrote about what courage meant to us as an individual, and as a country. We read about Martin Luther King and wrote a report on his life. He was truly a courageous individual. We culminated the day by having hot chocolate and cookies on the rug while our teacher read us warm and fuzzy stories. What a great day.

Mrs. Melissa Turner's fifth grade class had a fun-filled week. We read about Leonardo da Vinci and the Renaissance. We also learned about Sir Isaac Newton's Laws of Motion and the Lewis and Clark Expedition, while on our field trip to Horizons. We ended the week Pajama Day to show our courage to have fun and be different.

production of The Rainbow Fish on Jan. 24.

The first grade classes are reading books about changes. They are reading "Ruby in Her Own Time" and "Jan's New Home". The children are learning how everyone does things when they are ready, such as riding a bike or learning to read.

They are learning that although changes can be hard, there are usually many good things that happen when changes are made.

The classes are learning about the continents and oceans of the world. They are using songs and activities' with the Smart Board to help them remember the names of the continents and their location. They will be learning about how children in the continents are like us and differences.

During math students continue to focus on problem solving and are trying to find solutions for one problem.

The second grade classes of Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Blank, Mrs. Potts and Mrs. Harpe are studying a science unit on weather. The students are graphing the weather for January at home for a class extension project. Weather graphs are due Feb. 1. Students are reading and discussing the science unit-The Sun, the Moon, and Stars. Second grade classes are learning why there is day and night and gaining understanding as why they have four seasons-spring, summer, fall and winter.

In math the students have continued to use Venn diagrams by graphing their favorite vegetables. Students continue to practice math facts in subtraction and will learn subtraction math.

Facts up to 18 this year. Students -continue to practice regrouping with 2-digit addition.

The fourth grade teachers have decided that since 4th grade is a huge writing year they are going to allow students to write about their week. The highlight of the week has been learning about slavery and the way it affected North Carolina. Students talked about Martin Luther King and discussing the impact he had on the way of life in the United States. In math students are wrapping up multiplication and have started division. They presented book talks about mystery. The fourth grade classes held individual spelling bees and determined classroom champions that will compete in the school-wide competition. Fourth grade students have been collecting materials for Mr. Harvey a Pinebrook citizen who will soon be heading back to Iraq.

Crime Down, Arrests Increase

Mocksville Police Chief Robert Cook presented stats to the town board members during their January meeting proving that officers are producing a higher level of supervision to the town.

"When you compare 2005 to 2006, the crime rate in Mocksville is down," said Cook. "Thanks to more officers on staff, Mocksville is a safer place."

- forcible breaking and entering, down 1/3;
• shoplifting, down 1/3;
• forcible breaking and entering on a vehicle—down;
• assault on females, down;
• DWI, down 1/3.
Cook noted that a number of arrests related to narcotics had increased. The department was able to address these violations now that more officers were on force, he said. Cocaine arrests went up by a half and marijuana arrests by a third, Cook said.

Citrus Fruits Add Flavor To Any Recipe

By John Lowder Davie County Enterprise Record

It's Monday morning and you get out of bed dragging but no matter what, one quick whiff of that orange juice or those grapefruit slices and you get the energy to tackle the world.

There is something about the smell of fresh citrus fruit that wakes you up and gives you a great sense of energy before you even take that first taste. Don't you just love that tickle of your nose when your fingers dig in and start to peel a fresh orange or the squeeze of a lemon slice?

Citrus fruits give your food flavor, zing, vitamins and antioxidants all at once.

Now, the markets are full of great selections of oranges, lemons, grapefruits, pomegranates, tangerines and tangelos.

Some of the less common fruits available this time of year are things like the kumquat, which is a grape-sized orange which can be eaten whole. The flavor of a kumquat is intense and may be a bit sour, but it can be used to enhance pork and chicken dishes.

Another fruit worth a try if you have never had one is called an Ugli fruit. It is a cross between a grapefruit and mandarin orange but looks like a grapefruit in an ill-fitting skin. The fruit is sweet and juicy, the peel comes off easily and the fruit pulls apart into tidy segments and it is virtually seedless.

The peel from citrus fruits contains essential oils which can be used to flavor dishes or added to cleaning products to help cut grease and is used as scents for deodorizers and candles. The juice of citrus is used for juices and other beverages and it is used in all kinds of marinades and sauces. Of course we know how good the meat of the fruit tastes to eat out of hand or added to salads and such. Citrus juices are a natural meat tenderizer. The zest of the lemons, grapefruits and oranges can be candied for an extra special treat to eat or use in baking.

When purchasing fruit be sure to pick fruit which is heavy for its size, has a thin skin and does not have bruising. Fresh citrus fruit will keep longer if it is stored in the refrigerator. Add fun and flavor to dishes with fresh fruit, juice, frozen fruit juice or even lemonade (it makes a great marinade for chicken).

I would like to take the time to dedicate this week's column in loving memory to a dear friend, co-worker and loyal reader of Robin's Recipes, Beverly Arnold. I met Beverly when I started working with Coldwell Banker almost four years ago. She is one who truly touched so many lives and supported her friends in whatever endeavors they may have chosen. When I started writing this column, Beverly immediately ordered a subscription to the Clemmons Courier and went to the office and asked for any back copies she might have missed. I knew then I had a great cheerleader in my corner.

Someone is always bringing food to the office, and of course at some point each day the conversation would turn to food preparation or childhood favorites. Beverly once told me that one of her favorite things was her mother's dressing at Thanksgiving. Her mother did not have a recipe as such and she said her mother would just put the ingredients together and the dressing would cover the outside of the bird to be cooked. Beverly said her mother's dressing was so good that it was often the debate over who was going to get the leftovers to take home that was just as much fun as the holiday itself. I will always treasure the tips and memories she shared with me.

Tangy Citrus Salad 6 cups fancy greens 4 cups torn spinach 1 cup sliced red onion 2 pink grapefruit, peeled and sectioned 2 navel or blood oranges, peeled and sectioned Dressing: 3 tablespoons honey 2 tablespoons lime juice 1 teaspoon grated lemon peel 1/3 teaspoon ground ginger 1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg 1 tablespoon toasted sesame seeds 1/3 cup canola oil Combine all dressing ingredients in a clean pint jar with a lid. Shake to mix well. Wash and pat the greens and spinach dry. Combine greens in a large bowl, add red onion slices and fruit segments. Pour dressing on salad just before serving.

Grilled Chicken with Lemon Dill Pasta For chicken 4 boneless, skinless chicken breasts 3 tablespoons fresh lemon juice 1/3 cup olive oil or canola oil 1/2 teaspoon seasoned salt 2 teaspoons dried rosemary Pound each chicken breast thin and place into a large plastic bag. Combine the remaining ingredients in a small bowl mixing well. Pour over the chicken in the bag and coat the chicken well. Place in the refrigerator and marinate for 1 hour. Remove chicken from fridge 30 minutes prior to cooking. Place chicken on a heated indoor grill and cooked until chicken is no longer pink. About 3-4 minutes per side. Longer if chicken is thicker.

Citrus Iced Tea 4-5 family sized tea bags 1 quart of boiling water 3 tablespoons frozen lemonade, slightly thawed 2 tablespoon lime juice 1/4 cup honey 1/3 to 1/2 cup of sugar (depends on how sweet you like your tea, may substitute Splenda) Enough water to fill remainder of gallon pitcher For garnish, you can add slices of oranges or blood oranges. Hang tea bags on the inside of a gallon pitcher. Pour 1 quart of boiling water over tea bags and let sit for 5 minutes. Remove tea bags. Add sugar and honey. Stir well. Add lemonade, orange juice and lime juice. Stir well. Add enough water to fill the pitcher and mix well. Add orange slices for garnish. Serve over ice.

REAL ESTATE WEEKLY

New Kid on the Block: Moving With Children Keep your kids in the loop at each stage of the move. They don't have to get a vote, but it helps everyone for them to get increasingly used to the idea of this change. Bring them along when you look at houses, make them familiar with the new area you're moving to, investigate its attractions and explore some of this on the Internet. Other neighborhood kids may grow distant when they know a friend is leaving. This is hurtful to your own children, but try and explain that some kids aren't yet mature enough to handle it another way, and that it isn't your kids' or even the others' fault. Minimizing transitions and heading off family disputes are essential to a smooth move with children. Try and arrange visits to the new school and meetings with the new teachers before the school year or semester starts. Make bedroom assignments in the new house as soon as possible to avoid sibling strife. Above all, be open and patient. If you pay the right attention, you will be letting your children know that, move or no move, the most important people in their life aren't going anywhere. For professional advice on all aspects of buying and selling real estate, you can reach Debbie at ERA Premier Realty, 336-998-7777 or 336-909-1284, or contact her email address at debbie.prachel@era.com or visit her website at www.era-premierrealty.com.

Those recognized from kindergarten were Hannah Seamon, daughter of Donald and Cynthia Seamon, and Aaron Blank, son of Bradley and Heather Blank. Seamon's teacher, Mrs. Holt, said, "Hannah will always be doing the right thing. She is respectful to adults and children." Blank's teacher, Ms. James, said of Aaron, "He is respectful and compassionate. He is eager to help and is always setting a good example for all the other students."

From first grade, Renee Marshall, daughter of Chris and Paula Marshall, and Amelia Correll, daughter of Lewis and Susan Correll were selected. Marshall's teacher, Mrs. Miller, said, "She is compassionate and very responsible. It is a joy to have her in my class."

Correll's teacher, Mrs. Drane, said, "Amelia is the ideal student teachers dream of. She is always considerate and ready to lend a helping hand."
From second grade, Abi Waters, daughter of Michael and Angie, and Gracie O'Brien, daughter of David and Lori O'Brien were selected. Waters' teacher, Mrs. Cope, gave the example of Abi's "true character" by telling a story about how she gave away ice cream she had won to someone, but did not look for recognition for doing so. "She has a real, pure heart," Cope said.

About O'Brien, her teacher, Mrs. Moore, said, "Gracie is a wonderful young lady. She is very respectful and responsible."

From third grade, Makayla Hardin, daughter of Chris and Dawn Hardin, and Michael Rauen, son of Andrew Rauen and Angela Landy (Scott) were selected. Hardin's teacher, Ms. Van Offeren, said, "Makayla is what every teacher hopes will come through the door on the first day of school. She is kind, compassionate and helpful."
Rauen's teacher, Mrs.

Orsillo, said, "Michael is a born leader. He leads by example. He is a peacemaker and is extremely compassionate."
From fourth grade, Morgan MacDonald, daughter of Bruce and Jayne MacDonald, and Brooke Hedgspeth, daughter of Dale and Diana Hedgspeth were selected. MacDonald's teacher, Ms. Hicks, said, "Morgan was diagnosed with a heart condition this past year, and she has faced this situation above and beyond courage and maintains an A-B average. She comes to school every day with a smile and is a great inspiration."
Hedgspeth's teacher, Mrs. Davis, said, "Brooke always has her homework and is always the first to volunteer. She displays a lot of self-discipline in the classroom and as a talented soccer player."

From fifth grade, Lee Fortescue, son of Scot Fortescue and Wendy Sechrist (Chris), and Will Bracken, son of Ken Bracken (Lisa) and June Harding were selected. Fortescue's teacher, Mrs. Waters, said, "Lee is responsible and one of the most compassionate students I've ever had. You never hear an unkind word about another person come out of his mouth. He is a leader and a friend."
Bracken's teacher, Mrs. Dalton, said, "Will comes in every day with a wonderful smile. He is a hard worker and a friend to everybody. He is also honest, because he showed me a test I had scored too high, and pointed out a problem he actually got wrong."

Becky Call, a Mocksville resident, recently received a $3,000 annual scholarship to attend Southern College of Optometry (SCO) in Memphis. Call is one of 123 first-year students at SCO, which offers the four-year doctor of optometry degree.
A graduate of Davie High School and the University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill, she is the daughter of Perry and Linda Call, also of Mocksville.

Rumors began circulating a couple of weeks ago that a private club with topless dancers had opened in Cooleemee.

And according to Davie County Manager Terry Bralley, that's when county zoning officials and local law authorities began investigating.

"Our priority is to investigate and make sure whatever activity is going on is not in violation of state and federal law; that's our concern now," Bralley said.

"The establishment, Matthew's, is inside a former gas station at 7675 NC 801, just outside the Cooleemee area," Bralley said.

"Driver, who resides at the coast," Bralley said that Driver leased the property to Matthew Mussen to be used as a pool/gym room and was not aware of anything inappropriate going on.

"The property is zoned Highway Business, which does permit an adult establishment, but only under certain conditions:

No adult establishment can be located within 1000 feet of a residentially zoned or residentially used property, church, or school.

There are three churches in the area, along with school property.

County Attorney Robert Price said that reports and complaints that an adult establishment was operating was investigated very much like any zoning violation would be. "We determined that, in fact, we believe an adult establishment was being operated there. We do have, in our

Davie High students will soon have another option when it comes to choosing the classes they want to take - an option that could lead to an associate college degree or future credit towards a bachelor's degree.

Davie County's Early College High School is a collaborative effort of Davie County Schools and Davidson Community College. It's known as the Learn and Earn Early College program and it would enable high school students to earn an associate's degree or two years toward a baccalaureate while acquiring high school graduation credits at the same time.

Davie Superintendent Dr. Steve Lane and Dr. Mary Rittling, president of Davidson Community College gave a presentation on the program to commissioners at this month's county board meeting.

Lane reported 63.5 percent of North Carolina students complete four years of high school. "We need to reach out and find a way to help these kids that they haven't been offered before," Lane said.

Rittling told commissioners the program is in progress in Davidson County and gives students a chance to excel. "We started with 103 students in September, and we still have 103 in January."

No tuition or fees are paid by the students or their parents, with the exception of some college textbooks.

It has the largest student population of any of Davie's elementary schools, but has the smallest cafeteria.

Soon, that will change.

A project that will expand the cafeteria and add other needed space is in the works at Shady Grove Elementary School. According to Principal Cary Powers, it is a project that is long overdue.

"From 10:40 a.m. to 1:40 p.m., the classes come through continuously, every five minutes. We serve over 30 classes now, in a single serve line. Our cafeteria staff, teachers, and teachers' assistants have done a wonderful job working with what we have, but this has obviously not been an ideal situation. We're fortunate to have such well-behaved children. That has helped so much, since the facility is pretty much maxed out," he said.

Once the expansion is completed, the size of the dining room will be almost doubled, from around 1,200 square feet to 2,310 square feet. An additional serving line will be added, and some of the kitchen equipment will be updated.

It Really Is Winter
The warm temperatures that ushered in January finally gave way to more winter-like weather last week when an inch or so of ice and snow blanketed Davie County, adding a glisten to the camellia. For more photographs, please turn to page C10. - Photo by Robin Snow

A New Plan Offers Solution For Davie High

The wagons are circling. The competing camps are stocking gun powder for a pitched battle over the Davie County school bond referendum this spring.

Advance folks will assert their right to a new high school. Mocksville and Cooleemee folks will say it isn't fair for some to have a new school while their children are left in a dump. Taxpayers will wonder if the $37 million bond is too expensive. All of them are right.

Davie High is too far from Advance. The new school-old school division could cause a crippling discord that will haunt school debate for decades. And the tax impact will be so sharp that officials want to soften the blow with a 25- or 30-year lending term instead of the usual 20 years.

Before the ink was dry on the current bond proposal, many were asking for an alternative plan, knowing defeat was probable. Tragically, the art of compromise has been forgotten.

Cooler heads outside the school system have quietly floated an alternative that makes a lot of sense. Everybody gets something, but nobody gets everything.

It goes like this: Build a new Davie High for grades 10-12 in the center of the county. Convert the old campus into the 9th grade academy that we've heard so much about. Save taxpayers the $9 million of proposed improvements at the old campus.

The geographic center of the county is roughly at US 158 and Sain Road - 8.4 miles from McDonald's at Hillsdale. Without the 9th grade, Davie High would have a cozy 1,200 students. The existing campus has plenty of good facilities to comfortably house the freshman class.

Fifty years ago, Davie High was built at the population center of Davie County. Cooleemee was larger than Mocksville then. The rest of the county was thinly populated. The entire Advance postal district was served by one man, the late Oscar Poindexter, father of county commissioner Richard Poindexter. Advance has 10 mail routes now.

Re-centering the school makes sense. Defusing the ticking bomb on the school debate makes sense, too.

Superintendent Steven Lane and the Davie County Board of Education learned nothing from the 2003 debacle. They have repackaged the old proposal, adding improvements for the old campus. Those improvements include $3 million to make that abominable wall even bigger. The wall was built a decade ago to hide the ugly buildings behind it, and it has been the object of taxpayer scorn.

We should have learned several lessons from the 2003 referendum. First, Davie County likes its one-for-all, all-for-one attitude. It certainly helped us through the days of racial integration. The single high school is a powerful, uniting force that brings together children from Cooleemee, Bermuda Run, Farmington, County Line, Fork, Mocksville, Four Corners, Advance and Greasy Corner. As the letter from 9th grade student Greg Nuckolls in last week's newspaper demonstrated, students enjoy the diversity and the chance to meet new people. When Lane surveyed the students, he found they didn't want to divide the school.

Unity is worth keeping. Watauga County - another one high school system - has just had this same debate and decided to build one new school for everybody.

If Davie pools the 9th grade onto one site, teachers will have the luxury of focusing those students on their education without the distractions of upper classmen. The academy is a new wrinkle in education that is working well in other places. Lane promoted the 9th grade academy during his first months on the job.

By keeping the upper grades together, Davie High will have the large pool of students necessary to offer a broader curriculum than would be possible with two smaller campuses.

The clock is ticking, but it is not too late to scuttle the school board's plan for something everyone in the county could embrace. Otherwise, we will again fight our version of the Civil War. No matter which side wins, we all lose.

We need a plan we all can embrace - a plan that respects the taxpayers' wallets and serves the needs of the students of our community. Everyone is willing to fix this problem, but nobody wants to be the victim.

'Big' Hospital Care Not Up To Par

To the editor:

I'm a 54-year-old female and have been a nurse since 1973. I have been battling breast cancer since 2002 and thought I had beaten it until I went for my oncology visit last September a year ago. I had still been doing well on oral medication until I became really sick in December. I was taken to the emergency room and admitted at a community hospital. Guess what? You can park there for free and you don't have to walk a country mile to get inside. But, that's not the most appealing feature. You feel like a person there, not a number waiting to be picked. This happens to be the hospital in which I work, but I was on a floor where the nurses did not know me and had no reason to give me anymore special treatment than any other patient. Each time I turned on my call light, it was answered almost immediately. There was always someone there asking if they could help. My potty chair was emptied very soon after using. If I requested snacks or nourishments, they were brought almost immediately. My trash was emptied several times a day, not only by the housekeeping staff, but by the nursing assistants. All I can say is a big thank you.

On Dec. 20, I was transferred to a large "magnet" hospital because that's where my oncologist is. The lady in admitting was very nice and got my admission done quickly. I got to my room, which was very nice and pretty. The nurse came in shortly to start my admission. Before she had gotten started good, I received a phone call about discussing my bill. I told the lady, "If I live to get out of there, I would discuss it then, if not she could discuss it with my family that was left." When someone is so sick, I think it is extremely rude to call and bother them with financial questions. Most of the nurses and caregivers were polite enough but most weren't seen very often. Thank you very much to the one (I think she was a CNA) who got the special bed for me because I could not lie down to sleep. Now on to a few of the problems: The trash wasn't emptied for the first three days. The washcloth from my first shower was in the shower for three days. Almost every time I got fresh ice water, my family had to go and ask for it. My son went to the desk and asked if I could get a banana and was told yes, you can go to the cafeteria and buy it. Due to my illness, I just could not eat the food, it's not that it wasn't okay, that was just due to my condition, however, I could drink chicken noodle soup. One day I called for some and finally got it after the fourth call. I was physically so weak that I could hardly walk, now the staff saw the need to put a green fall bracelet on me. Now would you not think someone with a fall risk bracelet should be offered help to get a shower. Well, two days I was offered help. One of the days I was told to call when I was ready and I called approximately 10:45 and haven't seen anyone yet. My friend that's a nurse came after getting off work and helped me with a shower. The other day that help was offered was when one of my family members went to the desk and had a few heated words. A caseworker came in for a few minutes and then a staff member came in and sat down and said, "What can I do to make you happy?" I said help me with a bath and he did. I was receiving heparin and blood almost each time I was given an injection and my gown would be soaked with blood across my abdomen. Finally, the day for me to come home arrived and the lady taking me out came with the chair and said, "I hear you have an attitude and are ready to get out of here." I said you are so right.

I sincerely hope that none of you are afflicted by cancer and get as sick as I was and I certainly apologize if I was rude to anyone. But if you read this and recognize yourself from anything I said, I hope it will make you a little more compassionate and caring and I hope you are never on the receiving end of the kind of care I received at the second hospital. You definitely have room for improvement.

To everyone who has been praying, sent a card, called or brought food, thank you so much. This is such a great place to live.

Renovation A Bad Business Decision

To the editor:

Sometimes, in the minds of our county commissioners, what appears to be the right thing to do, turns out to be a bad business decision for the taxpayers. Davie County has some vacant space in the Brock building on Main Street. On surface, it appears to be a smart move to use this space for county services, which are now renting space from private landlords; thus, saving taxpayers monthly rents. Let's look at the details and you draw your own conclusion.

At the board of commissioners meeting Jan. 16, county commissioners approved by vote of 5-0 to spend $375,000 previously unbudgeted dollars, to renovate vacant space at the Brock Building. These dollars came from interest received from invested monies. In oversight, these dollars were not budgeted as revenue.

Plans are to relocate the Davie County Board of Elections and the DMV (Davie County Drivers License office) to the vacant space at the Brock Building. These moves are part of the county's overall plan to operate all county functions in county owned facilities; thus, eliminating paying rents. This logic sounds good, if revenues were plentiful; but in times when revenues were in short supply and property taxes were increased, all facts needed to be examined carefully to assure good business decisions for the taxpayers. Bear in mind that our taxes will increase again as the school problem is addressed. Elimination of rent payment is a good business decision, when the payback is 10 years to seven years or less. In slim revenue times, a 10-year payback is not the most advantageous use of our dollars.

The way you arrive at your pay-back is simple. You divide the rents you're paying into the dollars you have to spend. Rents for these two operations is approximately $3,000 per month or $36,000 per year. When you divide $36,000 into $375,000, your pay-back appears to be 10.4 years. But when you take into consideration that the $375,000 properly invested returns better than 5% interest, you have to factor into the equation approximately $19,000 per year return on your $375,000 investment. This puts your payback at 22 years. In the eyes of this taxpayer, a 22-year payback is an extremely questionable business decision for the taxpayers of Davie County. I doubt very seriously that any of our commissioners would invest their personal money in a business decision for a payback of 22 years.

Everyone should understand that there are always two sides to every story. I'm sure the county staff and commissioners have their reasons for moving in this direction, but it seems to me that we should let the space at the Brock Building stay vacant, if the cost to renovate is $375,000. If they could renovate for $150,000 or less, the business deal looks better.

Maybe the idea of moving the Drivers License Office to the Brock Performing Arts Center is incompatible with a public facility used mostly for social and art functions, which includes children in daily attendance.

The Drivers License Office is strictly a business operation, a commercial business generating high traffic. It is more favorable and perhaps safer to locate this highly used office in a commercial site, such as its present location.

Student Will See Things Differently

To the editor:

In response about "A Second High School Would Cause Problems ..."

I am an old Army brat, having gone to six grade schools, two junior highs and three high schools. One of those grade schools was in an local school for two years while I lived in England.

I never had problems going to different schools while growing up. I made new friends easily. All my kids went to several different grade schools and graduated from Davie High.

Davie County is growing and Davie High School is overcrowded. To replace the current school would two to three years. In five to 10 years you would still have to build a second one anyway. Upgrading the current and expanding it while school is in session is not a good idea. One of my high schools did that for a year and a half. Just disrupted classes. Build a new one now and 20 to 30 years, Davie County will need a third high school anyway.

Since I last attend my last high school, they had to add two more high schools in the same town. Population growth is natural. No different here in Davie County.

Everything from Greg Nuckolls' point of view seems so narrow and not looking at all of Davie County, and only at the present year or the next one. He is more worried about negative social repercussions than what is good for all of Davie County. The county has had to add new grade schools and upgraded several others. I am sure the Davie County has taken into consideration what the students have said; but what is best for Davie County what really counts.

When he has graduated and 10 years from now, I believe he will see things differently.

Pregnancy Centers Valuable

To the editor:

Each January on the third Sunday and following week of the anniversary of Roe vs. Wade, Sanctity of Human Life week is observed. There will be a large group of concerned citizens who will be in The March for Life in Washington, D.C. and other states.

There will be a march in Raleigh we are given the opportunity to take a stand, to speak up and express our moral convictions that in January of 1973 our Congress signed a law that took away the rights of American citizens, our unborn children. This law has been an incredible weapon that has done more damage than anything our enemies across the waters in the other countries could have planned against us.

Today and each day, 3,108 unborn children lose their lives as they have fewer rights than our spotted owls, eagles and other animals on our endangered list. Nearly one million of North Carolina's unborn children have lost their lives due to this law. These numbers represent untold stories of their lives could have been. Thousands of NC couples wanting to adopt can not and some go to foreign countries to do so at a great cost.

There are 15 licensed abortion clinics in our state. Many are being one in our hospitals. There is a story of a NC OB/GYN doctor who performed abortions but has had a change of heart. One of three abortions in our state is in Charlotte. Go to www.ncrl.org. The Heart to Heart Campaign is running TV ads in Charlotte area.

Our alternative to this crisis is found in the 71 pregnancy centers in NC.

You can help us through prayer, being a volunteer, and making donations. We have needs of good used baby clothes, packs of diapers, cribs, car seats and maternity clothes. It is by the Grace of God that we have faithful donors and churches who support us. There is a center in Davie County.

Right now, the Pregnancy Centers in NC are having a Spare Change For Life Campaign by giving out baby bottles for churches and other groups to save their change to help us. Many of our local churches have called to order these bottles to give out on Sunday.

By going to the site mentioned above you can see how a group of teens at a school in Beulaville did this fund raising program. Yesterday at our local center, a group from Statesville Senior High called wanting to help us.

Money Should Be Spent For Qualified Teachers

To the editor:

I have been listening, watching, reading, contemplating and thinking about the current issue of schools in Davie County. The decision concerning creating another high school is a serious proposition whether a family has children in the system or not. The decision affects almost everyone.

Many years ago Davie County had four high schools, and in the mid-50s the citizens decided that one high school would serve the students and their parents better. Then in the late 70s, the citizens felt that the ninth graders would be better off in a junior high school, and as a result, North Davie and South Davie Junior High schools were built.

This is the common pattern that educational planners put forth to the voters and taxpayers. The planners are trying to offer the best plan to meet and solve the problems facing the educational system. The one high school in Davie County has worked well since the 50s. The junior high school concept obviously did not work well enough because it was dropped and the middle schools were created. They must be working well because Ellis Middle School will open in the fall.

That brings me to the issue of a second high school. The main problems that I hear and read about are population, dropouts, discipline, test scores, and of course, there are others. The overcrowding in the classrooms will probably not change whether Davie County has one high school or two. If there are 29 students in six English, history, or math classes now, then there would be 29 students in three English, history or math classes in each school. The only way to solve the overcrowding in the classroom is to hire more qualified teachers. That, of course, requires more money. That is where the money should be spent.

Next is the dropout problem. According to figures I have heard and seen, the ninth grade is where the dropout problem is the greatest. For every 100 ninth graders who enter Davie High School, facts I have read reveal that only 71 will graduate. The 29 dropouts present a problem. How do we solve it? By the way, if the ninth graders get to the 10th grade, the number jumps from 71 to 93 who will graduate out of that 100. That is significant. I think the ninth grade academy is worth considering. Recently, the Jan. 12 Winston-Salem Journal had an article about the success at Carver High School's Ninth Grade Academy. Quoting from the Journal, "New students are welcomed into a ninth grade academy, a version of a school-within-a-school that has a core group of teachers and a small space within the school where the students spend most of the day." The principal was quoted as saying, "The transition between middle school and high school is difficult. We figured we needed to get a better handle on the kids."

That brings me to the problem of discipline. Again quoting from the Journal and the principal, "Keeping ninth graders away from bad influences is a large part of why Carver officials decided to start the program, because discipline cases tend to increase during the freshman year. So far, the school has seen fewer discipline problems among the ninth graders this year." So if we look at 600 freshmen at Davie next year, 50 to 60 will supposedly be enrolled in the early college program. What will the school system do for the other 125 who will potentially drop out? The ninth grade academy is an option we in Davie County should seriously consider before it is too late. According to Laura Schultz, a division manager for Talent Development High Schools at Johns Hopkins University, "Ninth grade academics are being used at more schools around the country."

These are some ideas to think about as we continue to discuss and debate the issues.

Dwight L. Myers, Mocksville

Athletics, Academics, Pride: One High School Only

To the editor:

It's easy to determine what is the most disputed topic in Davie County. The issue over one or two high schools. It has been argued and debated over for many years. There have been countless letters to the editor on this topic, some support two high schools, others supporting one. There are others who support the idea of a mega school or a freshman academy. It seems like everyone in the county has an opinion on it as well. Many are willing to argue until they are blue in the face, but how many of them would actually listen to a student's opinion on the matter and take it seriously? I don't believe many would. After all it is us Davie County students' lives and educations you're arguing about as if it were a political debate. If you want to know what this county really needs, then listen to a student who is living the choices you make. We deserve to be heard and have a voice in this issue. It is not a trivial issue whatsoever, it is a major part of our lives. I'm determined to find a way to voice my opinion. So please Davie County, hear me out.

A few weeks ago the Davie Enterprise printed the results of a poll of middle school students regarding the high school issue. Many of those students supported the idea of a mega school. One giant up-to-date school that could properly house all the Davie High students. I believe this option is what is best for the students and would make the most people happy. The mega school would still have the phenomenal football program, the dedicated teachers, and the reputation of an excellent school. Davie High should be put in a building that is incredible on the outside as it is on the inside. The campus looks run down and old. It gives off the impression that Davie is a mediocre school and that is absolutely not true. We need a building that matches our personality.

If you are now or have ever been a student at Davie High and have experienced spirit week, you know the magnitude of pride students have for their school. Davie High is the one place that brings Davie County together. It makes us all equal no matter what side of the county we are from. We don't have the issue of a "rich" school and a "poor" school. We don't have to worry about violence between opposing schools. We are all one school, we have a common thread. Davie High gives the county a sense of community that I don't think you can find anywhere else.

If we had two high schools, all this would be lost. The beautiful golden thread that held us all together would be cut in half and ruined. There would be more arguing and pickering among residents than there ever was before decisions were made. All you would ever hear is "This school has all good athletes." "Why did that teacher go there? I wanted my kid to have her, that is unfair." "How come this school has newer textbooks than that one?"

I think there would be more unhappy people if there were two high schools than there would be happy people. A mega school would be a compromise.

Too often in this issue I hear, "The high school on the east side of the county would have more money than the one on the west side of the county." What is even worse is some of the answers I have heard to this issue, "It's going to be that way because there are generally more wealthy people on that side of the county, that is just the way it is." "That is just the way it is. What if Martin Luther King Jr. had said, "That is just the way it is," and gave up on the civil rights movement? What is Mahatma Gandhi had said, "That is just the way it is," and conformed to the ways of the world and used violence to solve conflicts? What if the founding fathers of our great country had said, "That is just the way it is," and not tried to make a nation of their own? Does any good come out of saying, "That is just the way it is," and give up on trying to make things fair and equal for everyone? What if all those influential people had accepted "That is just the way it is," and not tried to overcome that tainted mindset?

Here and now in Davie County, we have the opportunity to overcome all of that, keep our outstanding athletics program, our prestigious academics and our county pride. The answer: a mega school. Not the buildings we are in now, which I think look like jail buildings when it rains outside. A mega school.

If you don't think this is in the best interest of the students, ask one of them for their opinion. More than likely they will give it to you. We do have opinions on what shapes our future and the world we live in.

Man Faces Mushroom Charge

A Mocksville man was arrested Monday for growing psilocybin mushrooms - the kind used to get high rather than to saute alongside a steak. Bradley Thomas Torpy, 29, of 953 Hardison St., was charged with possession and maintaining a dwelling for the manufacture of psilocybin mushrooms, and with possession of drug paraphernalia. He was taken into custody in lieu of a $15,000 bond, pending a Feb. 1 appearance in Davie District Court.

The project includes the addition of a conference room, two classrooms, two offices, and two restrooms. Powers said they have no conference room, and he has had to squeeze as many as 12 people into his office, which holds four comfortably. County commissioners got a first-hand look at the overcrowding in the dining room last year. Powers said, when some of them, along with Jim Stockert, finance officer, and Terry Bralley, county manager, visited during lunch, staying to share a meal with students. The project is expected to cost $954,462 and consists of two phases, the first of which started recently. Director of Operations Larry Bridgewater said the cafeteria expansion will not begin until school is out, and the projected completion date is Aug. 17. "It might not be done until after they get back [from summer break], but we'll just work with that, if that's the case," he said. Powers said the cafeteria will expand toward the road, if facing the school, and the other additions will take place between the main structure of the school and the cafeteria, providing a connection between the two. The county provided the bulk of the financing, $750,000, according to Deborah Smink, finance officer. The remainder came from public school building capital outlay funds, which are funds the school system receives from the state for construction projects. Powers said, "I want to thank the county commissioners, the school board and Dr. Lane, for seeing this need and addressing it. Our community is very excited, and we're all just very grateful and excited for this."

Dinners are $7.50 a plate which includes 1/2 chicken, baked beans, slaw, roll and dessert. The hours are 11 a.m.-6 p.m. at First Methodist Church on North Main in Mocksville. Baked goods can be delivered to the Mocksville/Davie Parks and Recreation Department on Wednesday, Jan. 31 anytime before 5 p.m. or at the church on Feb. 8 before 9 a.m. Plain pound cakes and brownies with no frosting work best. "Volunteers are always needed to make Special Olympics the successful program that it is. Your help is needed as coaches, committee members, and as one-day workers," Streit said. "To make the port-a-pit a success we will need volunteers to sell dinners before the event, and persons to cut and wrap cake, pack plates at the church, particularly 10 a.m.-noon, and deliver orders to the businesses for lunch." If you can help, call 751-2325 and talk to Streit.

Senior Democrat Official Speaks Here

The Democratic Women of Davie County met Jan. 16 for the regular monthly meeting at the Pier 601 Seafood Restaurant in Mocksville.

Business included a brief discussion of the upcoming school bond referendum, and making final plans for the Tea at the Senior Center on Feb. 12 at 1 p.m.

President Sue Nokovich read a thank-you note from the coordinator of the Domestic Violence Shelter, Mazie Laurence, secretary, reminded the members of the two-week period, Feb. 17-March 3, for precinct meetings, and asked all precinct leaders to plan a meeting during this period. The Young Democrats Convention is in Greensboro on March 24. Ben Holmes, a young Democrat, will represent Davie County. In April, the Davie County Democrats will hold their annual Democratic Convention. All Democrats in Davie County should plan to attend this important meeting, said Mazie Laurence. Go to the website www.daviecountymdemocrats.org for more details.

Matilda Phillips is the secretary of North Carolina Senior Democrats. She is a political activist and was the first woman elected to the Randolph County Commissioners Board. She served as vice chair of the board in 1977-1978. In addition to the numerous political offices held, Phillips has found time to be a Girl Scout Leader, UMW President, youth leader, Sunday School Teacher, and substitute teacher.

Phillips entertained the women as well as informed them about the necessity of precinct organization, and gave some ideas about forming precincts. She related her personal experience with illness and its devastating cost. She advised the group to do everything possible to keep Medicare and Medicaid insurance out of the hands of private companies. She told the group about the spiraling cost of healthcare. With the new Medicare Prescription Drug Plan, many seniors have hit the "donut" point where the plan no longer covers the cost of prescriptions. For retired seniors living on fixed incomes, paying full price for prescriptions is a hardship. Phillips told the group that healthcare reform was on the Democratic agenda for attention soon, and she urged the group to support it.

The Democratic Women of Davie County will meet Feb. 20 at 6 p.m. at Pier 601 Seafood Restaurant.

Sue Nokovich listens to Matilda Phillips at the January meeting of the Democratic Women of Davie County.

Churches Called To Action

Black churches can help keep the dream of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. alive.

That's the message the Rev. Savales Squire gave when members of the North Cooleenec Concerned Citizens Organization gathered for a MLK Celebration on Jan. 15.

The Rev. Barry Melton, president of the concerned citizens, served as the master of ceremonies. Also on the program were the Rev. Johnny Ray Rice Jr., who gave the invocation, Deacon Michael White, and Antinene Arnold, who read a poem.

Officers of the association also include Genelle Watkins, vice president, and Marilyn Rice, secretary. Program committee members were Rice, Ernestine Harding, Michael White and Francis James.

Following are excerpts from Squire's speech.

"I believe the times in which we live now present a unique opportunity for the black church in America.

"In spite of the great strides we as a people have made over the past few decades, there is still much left to be achieved. Many minorities still live without adequate health care in America. While more money is being allocated for the rebuilding efforts in Iraq, funding for programs like Head Start and Upward Bound are cut, programs which help insure equal opportunity for minorities who wish to enhance their education.

"While small business growth has been on a steady incline, many minorities are still denied access to capital to start or grow business ventures. In many cases, we are still the last hired and the first fired and although our country prides itself in its democratic process and equal justice for all, minorities still make up the greater percentage of the prison population, which is the largest prison population in the world.

"With these and many other issues continue to attack the minority community head on, the opportunity for the black church to become a beacon of hope has never been greater.

"What the black church must accept as its challenge is the need for salvation and liberation. Salvation will bring our people to the understanding of the saving grace of God through Jesus Christ. Salvation is necessary if we are to be in relationship and constant communication with God.

"The black church from its inception has preached this message to countless souls throughout our land and country. What we must include in our sermons, in our Bible studies and in our evangelistic efforts is the message of liberation. Salvation frees the spirit from the sin curse, and brings one into a saving relation-

"It means we no longer will be silent while our girls and women are used as objects of entertainment and sexual gratification in rap videos and movies. No longer will the black church be silent as the leading cause of death for young black men in America is homicide and the leading cause of death of young black women in America is HIV/AIDS. No longer will we be silent as our states and our federal government continue to build larger prisons and at the same stroke of a pen, write out programs that assist those who are in need of a quality education."

- The Rev. Savales Squire ship with God. Liberation, however, brings about a deliverance of the mind that says I am and can become all that God has ordained one to be.

"In the Gospel of John, Chapter 5, we are presented with man who has been suffering from an illness for 38 years. He is lying at the Pool of Bethesda when Jesus walks by and begins to ask him if he wants to be made whole. After this man begins to share his reason for not being made whole, Jesus begins to share with him what I believe he is sharing to the black church today. He begins to share with this man three simple statements: to rise, take up his bed, and to walk.

"For the black church to begin the process of lifting our people from the conditions in which we live, as Jesus gives the command, we first must rise. It means we no longer will be silent while our girls and women are used as objects of entertainment and sexual gratification in rap videos and movies.

"No longer will the black church be silent as the leading cause of death for young black men in America is homicide and the leading cause of death of young black women in America is HIV/AIDS.

"No longer will we be silent as our states and our federal government continue to build larger prisons and at the same stroke of a pen, write out programs that assist those who are in need of a quality education.

"Once we have come to the point of making a stand, Jesus then commands the black church to take up its bed. In other words, we are to take up our testimony. We must be active in sharing our experiences with someone else. If God saved our homes, then we must share with someone who is about to lose their home. If God delivered us from addictions in our lives, then we must share with someone else who is bound by their own addictions.

"Not only that, but if we have areas of expertise, then we must share with someone our knowledge and wisdom. It is the Rev. Jesse Jackson Sr. who once said, "The blessed of us must help the rest of us."

"When Jesus commands a man to walk, He is telling him it's time to take action. It is time to move forward. Regardless of how long he had suffered by the Pool of Bethesda, it was time to walk.

"If the black church is to be relevant and effective in the social struggle of our people, we must begin to walk. We must walk in the classrooms of our students and expect every teacher to see our students as achievers, not distractions.

"We must walk to our legislative offices, both locally and nationally, and demand our interest be at the top of the agenda.

"We must walk to our businesses and say be fair and do right by us or we will collectively take our money elsewhere.

"Most importantly, we must walk with unity to the wounded of our society, the poor and those that have lost hope, putting aside our own egos and personal agendas and say to them I am your sister.

"We as the black church have a rich heritage in which we stand and continue to build upon. Let us walk hand in hand and heart to heart as we endeavor to correct the faults of this world.

"Let us stand in unity and say we are 'sick and tired of being sick and tired,' and that we will create an atmosphere of empowerment for all people.

"Let us sing together, shout together and praise God together. Let us work together, cry together and help one another together in making the world a brighter place for every individual.

"Let us, as the words of the Negro National Anthem so powerfully and courageously states, 'Let us march on till victory is won!'"

Barnett Fights His Way To Wrestling Stardom

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

Joel Barnett of Davie's wrestling team is the stuff of Cinderella stories. Last year as a varsity sophomore, Barnett was an obscure part on a powerhouse team that won the 4-A championship with a 42-1 record. A year later, Barnett is a remarkable success story with the second-most wins on a team that took a 28-match winning streak in the Central Piedmont Conference into the week.

"We knew he was going to improve, but I don't think we knew how much," assistant coach Howard Riddle said. Barnett was perfect in limited duty as a North Davie seventh grader, going 2-0 with two pins. He became a star in eighth grade, winning 15 of 17 decisions and placing third in the conference meet. Three years later, he's a vital force at 26-5. But getting to this point was not easy.

Barnett wrestled JV as a freshman. Last year he earned a permanent role in the varsity lineup, but it was a frustrating ride. In a perfect world, he would have competed at 125. But the team needed freshman Rusty O'Connor at 125, so Barnett had to swallow his pride and bump up two weight classes to 140.

While O'Connor soaked up applause for going 22-17 at 125, Barnett was tossed into the meat grinder. While Aaron Hollifield, Russell Hilton, Adam Mellwain, Garrett Parks, Kyle Smith, Chris Ange and Josh Barnes took turns hammering their way to 40 and 50 wins each, the take-one-for-the-team Barnett was mired in the brutal shadows of 16-24. He endured a pair of three-match losing streaks, followed by a five-match dry spell.

Barnett wasn't bad. He could have done something at 125. But he was stuck in a bad spot.

"Last year he made 125 early in the year," Riddle said. "He barely qualified for 140, and he did the best he could. He took a lot of beatings."

"I was weighing at 130, and the pounds I gave up were a lot of muscle," Barnett said. "I mean you can tell it a whole lot on the mat. I ate a full meal when I certified for state, and I weighed in at 130. I would have to eat a whole lot for a couple days just to make a certain amount of weight, because you can only go up so much. I had to do that a lot of times."

You have to be iron tough to go through such irrelevance, especially with virtually everyone else basking in the sunlight while Davie was celebrating a joyride that peaked with a 41-23 state-final triumph over previously-unbeaten Cary in front of screaming home fans.

Sympathetic teammates helped Barnett fight through his troubles.

"It was rough at first, but I had a lot of upperclassmen backing me up," he said. "Timmy Allen was always giving me support. A lot of people were helping me out."

Barnett closed last year with five wins in nine matches and came into 2006-07 ready to erase all doubts.

Enough about being a no-name. He came with the attitude that said: I'm going to show what I've got.

Barnett has done just that. Only one War Eagle has more wins (Chris Ange at 31-1). He started the year with two first-period pins. After losing to R.S. Central, he responded with nine straight wins, six of which were pins. Since dropping three of four, Barnett has been brilliant, winning 13 of the last 14. His 26-5 record features 19 pins.

Coaches gave him glowing praise. "He might be a 135-pounder now (instead of 140)," coach Buddy Lowery said. "He's tough and hard-nosed. He's banged up right now, too. He's got hurt ribs."

Hard To Figure Girls Play Well In Spurts

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

There have been highs and lows over the course of the Davie varsity girls basketball team's season, and Davie experienced more highs and lows last week in the Central Piedmont Conference.

On the heels of a spirited 51-47 win over West Forsyth, the War Eagles went to face an East Rowan team that was 2-3 in the CPC. Time for the first winning streak of the season, right? Nope. They sleepwalked through the first half, dug an insurmountable hole and lost 51-46. As a result, they slipped to 3-4 in the league and 0-7 in games following a win.

What does maddeningly-inconsistent Davie (8-11, 4-4) do next against visiting South Rowan? It bolts to a 26-10 lead, nearly blows it all and then cruises to a 55-40 win with the most points in four games.

Can Davie start building some momentum? It can't without ever putting together back-to-back wins. It's a wonder coach Debbie Evans hasn't lost her mind.

"It was time to put wins back-to-back, but we weren't able to do that (at

Wildcats Roll

Calob Howard of North Davie rolls to 13-0 at 106 with a second-period pin over South Davie's Tyler Watt. The Wildcats' 73-18 blowout marked North's sixth straight win over South and its 68th straight win overall. For a story and more photographs, please turn to page B6.

Brand Hits Heroic Shot In 5th Straight Win For South Boys

The common greeting "how ya doing" is really not necessary with South Davie boys basketball coach Brent Wall. The answer is apparent in South's record since the last week of December: 5-0.

The Tigers' season hit a new high with last week's 40-39 thriller over visiting Forsyth Country Day. The win was extra special because South lost the first meeting decisively, 51-39.

The loss at FCD dropped South to 1-4. But Kenyatta Brand didn't play in the first meeting. Not only was he in uniform in this one, it seemed appropriate that Brand made the heroic shot with 1:30 remaining.

Brand had paved the way with 14 points when the fateful play flowed through his hands. The score was tied at 37 and South (7-5) was struggling to hold off the Furies. Brand let one fly from beyond the arc. It might not have been the smartest shot, considering he didn't look smooth going up, but it certainly looked sweet kissing off the window and banging through the net.

The clincher was Brand's fourth 3-pointer of the night. "It was from 22 feet, off one leg, and it banked in," Wall said. Brand and Denzel Redmon carried the load as South broke out to a 13-9 first-quarter lead. Shannon Dillard came alive in the second quarter, and South had a 24-21 lead at the break.

But the Tigers lived on the edge. They blew a comfortable lead early. They charged in front 35-25 in the third, but kept Wall and assistant Germain Mayfield nervous by allowing FCD to close the third with seven unanswered points. They blew another lead in the fourth, and that's why Wall left a little unsatisfied.

"We held on," he said with a sigh of relief. "We missed a lot of easy shots in the first half that could have (blown it open). If we would have run our secondary break more crisp, we could have gotten a lot of easy shots. We felt good coming out with a win, but we let them back in it when we shouldn't have. We should have stepped on their throat when we were up 10."

Despite the nerve-racking moments, there was plenty of good to be found for South: Redmon nulled a pair of 3s for 10 points, his 12th straight game with at least eight points. Brand hit double figures for the fifth time. Center Darius Wilson created havoc on defense, as usual.

"What Darius gives us is quiet stuff," Wall said. "He got on the boards and his defensive effort is really good. He plays

Female Swimmers Flirt With Landmark Win

The Davie girls swim team came tantalizingly close to a landmark win last week, losing 86-82 to visiting West Forsyth. The War Eagles were tied or ahead until the last three events.

The War Eagles lost ground with 1-3-4 finishes in the 100 back. They finished first and third in the 400 relay, but needed to sweep the top two spots. Despite falling short, this was definitely a small victory.

"That would have been a history-making win," coach Jennifer Richardson said. "In my four years of coaching we haven't beaten West. Even though losses always hurt, we placed first in seven of 11 events. Our usual powerhouses of (Autumn) Jones, (Taylor) Moore and (Rachel)

Moore A. Jones Mackintosh Frye

Mackintosh made sure of that." Moore and Jones grabbed two individual wins apiece, and Mackintosh took one. The four-some of Mackintosh, Summer Holland, Moore and Jones captured two relays.

Bethany Little, Katelyn Jones and Rebecca Hendrix helped keep Davie in contention with second-place finishes.

"Kudos to Little, who swam the not-so-favorite 100 fly and 500 free," Richardson said. "She still managed to shave some time off her fly. Katelyn Jones continues to knock time off her 100 backstroke."

While the girls built confidence for Thursday's Central Piedmont Conference championships at Winston-Salem State University, the Davie boys ran into a buzzsaw, losing 130-39.

"What a strong boys team they have," she said of W. Forsyth. "They swept the meet with all first-place finishes. (Drew) Esposito, (Daniel) Wendel and (Justin) Lee took a lot of second-place finishes with great times, but nothing could touch West with some of their first-place finishes coming 5-10 seconds before us."

Esposito and Wendel were second twice each, and Lee was second once. Those three, along with Dillon Manship, were second in a relay.

This was Davie's final home meet, and seven seniors were honored. Richardson had kind words for each one.

On Esposito, she said: "He makes regionals in every event he swims, he's a powerful relay member and he's qualified for regionals all four years and made the state last year."

Brandon Landreth: "He has taken 10 seconds off his backstroke and he's a great leader."

Lee: "He's a team captain and four-year member. He's made regionals four times and the state last year. He's an awesome team leader."

Manship: "This is his first year on the team, and he brings personality to the team. He swam the 50 free at 26 seconds and he's a strong 200 free relay member."

Miranda Esposito: "She's a team captain, and she's versatile and flexible. You can put her in any event and she'll give 100 percent. He's a great leader and very dependable."

Alyssa Norsworthy: "Her breaststroke has improved eight seconds since the beginning of the season, and she can be found at the end of the pool cheering for teammates."

And don't forget Dustin Frye, who swam for three years before becoming team manager as a senior. Richardson considers him a coach's dream.

"He is at the Y before any of us arrive," she said. "The lane lines are put out, the table is set up and he's ready to lifeguard during warmups and then time during meets. After the meet he stays and helps put lines back, clean up and get things back in order. He is so dependable and overlooked."

JV Boys Shock West, Then Crash To Earth At South

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

The Davie JV boys basketball team's pattern has been encouraging at times and frustrating at others. The roller-coaster ride dipped with consecutive losses to Grimsley, Reynolds and North Davidson, ascended with back-to-back wins over West Forsyth and East Rowan and then veered downward Friday when Davie came up short at South Rowan.

With four games remaining, coaches Terry Mitchell and Larry Habegger are left to guess what to expect from the War Eagles, who are 9-10 overall, 2-6 in the Central Piedmont Conference and have lost eight of 11.

They entered halftime at rock bottom, courtesy of three straight losses and a 36-23 first-half pounding inflicted by the Titans.

Habegger, a former basketball player for Wake Forest, was calling the shots that night because Mitchell was out of town. He overheard the West coach's halftime message, which stirred memories of a Lefty Driscoll tirade when Wake was playing Davidson during Habegger's ACC career. Then the colorful talker told a story, the War Eagles bought it, and they came out of the locker room breathing fire.

"Our locker room was adjacent with the door to the West Forsyth locker room," Habegger said. "Their coach was just ranting and raving. I tell them a few things that I think are important, and then I started listening (to West's coach). So I told them a story about my days at Wake when we played Davidson at the Greensboro Coliseum in '68 or '69. Davidson was ranked in the top five in the country. They were renovating the locker room, and there was only a petition between Wake and Davidson. And Lefty is just ranting and raving and yelling every word you can imagine that you don't want your kids to hear. Our coach said: 'Just listen.' So I told them that story and said: 'Just listen to that. They're talking bad about y'all. If I had a little pride in myself, I'd be going out there and trying to change his opinion.' They came out and played great."

The War Eagles were absolutely flawless in the second half, outscoring West 28-10 in the third and 15-10 in the fourth.

Steven Wilson scored 11 second-half points after scoring four in the first half. Brandon Hill scored 10 second-half points after scoring five in the first half. Jacob Robertson scored seven third-quarter points after scoring two in the first half. And Landon Harris hit two third-quarter 3s after scoring four points in the first half.

The get-well win saw four players record double figures, led by Wilson and Hill with 15 each. Alex Marion hit two 3s to match

Harris with 10 points. Robertson had nine points as Davie finally broke into the CPC win column.

"I was very pleased with them," Habegger said. "The entire starting five (Marion, Harris, Atticus Lum, Hill and Wilson) did a very good job. Wilson is a good kid. I like Steven. Hill played well. I think that was his best game of the year, and he's consistently been the best performer."

"Our next five contributed very well, (including) Robertson and (John) Lattimore. Even the kids that didn't get to play were very supportive. In the last five weeks, that's the best performance I've seen. If these kids had performed at that level consistently all year, it would truly be a very special team."

A huge start by Harris set the stage in a 62-58 win over visiting East Rowan. Harris went four of four from 3-point land to fuel a 25-8 onslaught in the first. He added a fifth long ball to finish with 18 points.

Harris' fifth triple was perhaps the shot of the game. It came after East had crept back to 32-28 with 4:15 left in the third.

East had other chances. But in each instance, Davie had the answer. East closed to 48-41 with four minutes left before Marion buried a 3 from the left corner. East closed to 51-43 with 3:23 left before Hill burned a double-team at the high post by dumping it down to Harris, who powered up for an "and-one." He completed the three-point play at the line, and that was it.

Wilson hit eight of 11 free throws for 20 points. Robertson nailed six of seven foul shots for 11 points. Marion hit a pair of 3s for 10 points.

"Wilson hit free throws, he had few turnovers, he stayed under control and he finished," Mitchell said. "He's a very good athlete."

Now the bad news: Davie regressed at South Rowan, scoring six points in the first quarter, trailing 22-14 at halftime and losing 52-45.

Mitchell talked about what could have been had the War Eagles converted high-percentages shots, and he lamented what might have happened had they regained the lead in the fourth and been able to return to a 3-2 zone. They cut the late deficit to three on two occasions, only to hit a wall each time.

"We missed a lot of close shots," he said. "We were playing a 3-2 zone and giving them a lot of trouble. They got up by four, held it out there and we had to go man-to-man. And they are too quick for us to play them man."

Hill led with 13 points. Marion hit two 3s for the third straight game to score 12. Wilson had nine.

Notes: S. Rowan won the first meeting 69-67. ...Jermaine Harris was the No. 1 scorer (12.8) through 14 games. But he moved back to Texas during the holidays. ...Marion has surged with 10, 10 and 12 points in the last three games. ...Wilson's streak of double-figure scoring ended at four against S. Rowan. ...Landon Harris has a team-best 10.1 average. Wilson is at 9.6, Hill 7.9, Marion 5.8, Robertson 5.5 and Lum 4.5. ...The War Eagles play at Reynolds on Jan. 30, at home against North Davidson Feb. 2 and at home against West Forsyth Feb. 6. ...While the War Eagles showed just how good they can be in the second half at West, they haven't developed a killer instinct. But Habegger remains a believer. "This is a good group," he said. "In all my years of coaching with basketball, I think this is one of the best groups of kids. But they haven't experienced the will to win yet."

For 24 minutes. The Mustangs (16-1, 6-0 CPC) hit seven 3-pointers in the first quarter, 12 in the first half and 17 in the game. That's not easy to do even with nobody guarding you in practice.

Justin Vanderford and Kurt Misener were lighting it up, capping six triples each as East mounted leads of 23-11, 42-21 and 64-36. Point guard Spenser Davis was amazing as East netted its 13th straight win, amassing 14 assists, nine rebounds and no turnovers.

As rough as the final score looks, the War Eagles weren't bad offensively, hitting 46 percent of all shots (22 of 48) and 47 percent of their 3s (9-19). They outrebounded East 38-24. It was their best field-goal shooting in 11 games and the top rebounding margin of the season.

Davie's Matt Van Hoy, who had dipped to 22 points in the previous four games, broke loose for 17 points and 11 rebounds. He made seven of 10 shots, including three of six 3s. Drew Absber nailed half his shots for 16 points. Eric Lowery had 11 points and five assists. Darius Hall only got five shots, hitting three. He did manage 12 rebounds, four blocks and two assists. Alex Williams came off the bench to scrap for seven team-high rebounds.

E. Rowan) she said. "We've still got a chance to do that, but we're running out of time. It's going to be hard to catch North Davidson (for second place). It's going to be a battle for the third spot now."

Mount Tabor (8-0 CPC) has run and hid in first. North is second at 6-2. The derby for third is a log jam between Davie (4-4), West Forsyth (4-4) and E. Rowan (3-3).

E. Rowan 51, Davie 46

This was a tale of two halves. The first half was disturbingly familiar as Davie spotted East a 12-2 lead and trailed 30-18 at the break.

"I don't think we've won a first half all year except for Mooresville and Reynolds," Evans said. "It's hard to dig out of a double-figure hole. We were too soft in the first half, especially with our defensive rebounding."

The War Eagles were a different team in the second half, their fullcourt pressure creating eight turnovers in the third and 10 more in the fourth. Rebecca Riddle's putback to close the third trimmed the margin to 42-30. Then, four minutes into the fourth, Tonisha Turner buried a 3-pointer, Amber Parrish drained a floater and suddenly the deficit was down to 44-39.

The War Eagles sucked all the oxygen out of East. Unfortunately, it was too little, too late. "We fought back hard, like we have at other times throughout the year, but we came up five points short," she said. "Our defensive pressure certainly affected them in the second half, but against a good team like that, you've got to play more than the second half."

Riddle converted four of seven field goals for nine points, and Turner matched her with they proved themselves right," she said. "And Tonisha was actually the one who said that. She was really focused. Offensively and defensively she had a big game. She's a good shooter and they were falling for her tonight."

"Fowler is confident with her shot, and everybody feels comfortable when she's at the free-throw line."

But the War Eagles play in spurts, and they had a shoddy stretch in the second. South revived itself with a 14-2 run, Davie didn't score in the final 3:38 of the half and Brown was responsible for the only two field goals in the final 6:32.

Davie came out equally cold in the third. But despite only scoring two points in the first 6:31 of the third, South couldn't cut into the lead because, for the quarter, it shot zero of eight from the floor and two of eight from the line.

The first field goal by either team in the third came with 1:28 on the clock, and it was a banked 3 by Fowler. But after going 7:17 without a field goal, Davie buried three treys in the final 88 seconds of the third, including two by Turner, to send South reeling at 41-28.

That's the kind of crazy night it was. "Go figure," Evans said. "I don't know. I don't have those answers. I just know that picked everybody up and put the pressure on them."

Davie kept the lead comfortable in the fourth by hitting three of four field goals and eight of eight free throws. For more reasons that Evans can't explain, a team that was shooting 54 percent from the line (168 of 313) hit 14 of 16 foul shots.

"You could look back at almost every loss and pick up some missed free throws and we would have won several of those," she said. "Brown was excellent with eight points, six rebounds, five steals and four assists. She converted four of six shots, and she's been steady for three straight games."

"Another strong game," she said. "The last three games she's had those kind of performances. She's picked up her rebounding. Offensively she's been stronger - assists, points, all the way around."

Sarah Evans played a key role on defense, harassing South's top weapon, Taylor May, into 2-of-15 shooting.

"Sarah's an aggressive defensive player," she said. "Sometimes that gets her in foul trouble, but she did a good job of fronting her and being physical enough to not let her get comfortable in the paint. We needed that because that's their strong point. (Morgan) Owens and Riddle picked up for (injured) Joni, and we had to have it."

Letdown At SR Leaves Bitter Taste For JVs

Davie's JV girls basketball team took one step forward in a 64-29 drubbing of visiting East Rowan, then two steps back in Friday's 43-41 loss at South Rowan.

The South loss was bothersome because Davie (10-8, 2-5 Central Piedmont Conference) annihilated South in the first meeting, leading 33-10 at halftime of a 58-34 decision.

"It was very frustrating," coach Becky Miller said. "They outrebounded us really bad. We're still not boxing out like we need to."

Miller was upbeat after the War Eagles overwhelmed E. Rowan to snap a two-game losing streak. Twelve players scored, the game was over in the first quarter (Davie 19, East 3) and they exceeded their scoring average by an astonishing 29 points.

"We really needed that," she said. "It's a big confidence boost."

Machel Gadsdon paced the scoring parade with 13 points. Asia Steed came out of nowhere with 10 and Ashley Smoot provided eight.

"Steed had herself a game," she said. "(Gadsdon, Steed and Smoot) scored those points playing only half the game. Steed scored on some offensive rebounds, but she hit a couple outside shots, too. We did a lot of really good things."

The War Eagles hardly resembled that team three days later at South Rowan, getting outscored 10-3 in the second to lead 19-16 at the half. South broke a 41-41 tie. Davie had a chance to force overtime with a two, but it lost the ball.

The manner in which Davie lost the lead for good left Miller with a bitter taste. "We didn't want to have to go man-to-man because we don't do well in man defense," she said. "And we gave up two easy, easy baskets at the end of the game."

The exasperation spoiled Costner Merrifield's 10 points. She had scored in all but three games, but this was her finest offensive hour. Gadsdon added nine. The center has blossomed, scoring at least seven in five consecutive games.

"Gadsdon is turning into quite a leader," Miller said. "Notes: The War Eagles have slumped to drop five of eight games and seven of 11. ... They play at Reynolds on Jan. 30 at 5, at home against North Davidson on Feb. 2 at 4:30 and at home against West Forsyth on Feb. 6 at 5.

Bledsoe, North Take South Wrestling Apart

North heavyweight Christian McGougan pins Mick Spillman to run his record to 12-1.

North's Mark Graham (back) controls Tony Deese before pinning in the third.

Aaron Doby and South's Curtis Magee battled hard, with Curtis winding up with a third-period pin.

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

Several elements of the North Davie wrestling team's 73-18 romp at South Davie last week shouldn't have come as any surprise. Calob Howard had a big showing at 106. Shelton Sales (122) and Matt Cusack (155) were dazzling as usual. Collin Eichhorn (148), Ricky Bell (174) and Christian McGougan (250) were also impressive in their vintage form.

But there was one surprise development. North's Mark Graham pinned his 86 opponent in his first appearance on the mat. His debut earlier in the week was a forfeit win.

How much has Graham flourished down the stretch of a 13-0 North season? Clifton Bodenhamer is 10-1 with seven pins, and Graham beat him out to get the nod against the crosstown rival.

"We're still challenging in practice," coach Ron Kirk said. "It gives them incentive. Bodenhamer has had a good season, and the lineup could change again."

The rematch was not much different than the Dec. 19 meeting at North, which was 79-12. The Wildcats took care of business with eight pins and 13 wins in 16 weight classes. The sixth straight triumph in the series ran North's winning streak to 68. South hasn't topped North since 2002.

"We're making mistakes here and there, but we're about as good as we can be," Kirk said.

"I don't want to say too much. Last time I bragged on them we wrestled like crap the next match."

The Wildcats got pins from Graham, Howard and Sales to take an 18-12 lead. After Zack Summers cruised 15-0 at 128, Tanner Bledsoe (133) and Christian Lee provided pins. Nathan Sheets got a forfeit at 143 in his starting debut before Eichhorn and Cusack gave North seven additional pins. Pin by Casey Ferebee (163) and Bell (174) extended North's run to 49-0.

Matt Dyson got a forfeit at 218 before McGougan closed the door with a pin.

Howard (13-0 record), Sales (13-0), Summers (10-2), Eichhorn (13-0), Cusack (13-0), Ferebee (5-1), Bell (13-0) and McGougan (12-1) continued their wondrous seasons. And the 'Cats aren't slouches at 133 and 138 - Bledsoe moved to 6-3 and Lee to 7-3.

And North was relentless even though it's lost three starters to injury in three weeks. Tyler Lee was 10-0 when a back injury ended his season. Max Lum was 5-4 before breaking his wrist. And Jordan Farmer was 4-3 before breaking his ankle.

Bell's victim was J.J. Morrison, who had won three of four matches. Heavyweight McGougan also knocked off a solid foe. Mick Spillman had won five of seven.

"Bell's a natural," Kirk said. "I didn't realize until the other day that he's related to Ray Bell, who was the wrestling coach at West Forsyth for about 15 years. Ray was a college wrestler, so Ricky may have some of his uncle's genes in him."

The biggest monster in this one was Bledsoe, who dropped the hammer on his 133 counterpart in 8.4 seconds, the quickest pin of the year. "He put him in a basic ol' headlock," Kirk said.

South's top guns provided all its points. Shane Carter's fifth pin of the season at 96 improved his record to 6-0. Curtis Magee pinned Aaron Doby in the third to improve to 5-1 and hand Doby just his second loss in 13 decisions. And Chris Barnhardt pinned at 192 to improve his record to 8-0.

The Tigers (5-4) have won five of seven matches. North is responsible for both setbacks. Coach Perry Long could take solace in the fact that South pushed seven of North's eight pins into the second or third periods and that Aaron Veach (128), DeVonta Scott (148) and Jon San Filippo (155) fought like crazy to avoid pins.

"We gave a good effort," Long said. "We wrestled better than we did the first time, and they've got a great team. Any time you take a guy to the third period (like South did in five losses), anything can happen."

San Filippo wrestled an excellent match (against Cusack, a national champion), Cusack got back points, but Jon wrestled smart."

Notes: North claimed three of five preliminary matches. Will Cope (85) and Aubrey Apperson (114) survived one-point decisions, while Jake Linhart pinned at 121. South's wins were six-pointers by Justin Lanning (95) and Jordan Hendricks (173). ... North routed host Thomasville 83-12 before visiting South. ... South has two matches left: Jan. 24 at Thomasville at 4:30 and Jan. 30 at Kiser at 5. There are three remaining matches for North: Jan. 25 at home against Lexington, Feb. 1 at home against Brawley and Feb. 2 at Forsyth Country Day. All three begin at 4:30.

"He stayed after it and he's improved as much as anybody," Riddle said.

"He won a big match against Mount Tabor and he's going to have a tough match against West Forsyth."

Barnett said the hard knocks have made the storybook rise all the more fulfilling.

"It made me a lot better for this year," he said. "It made me want to prove myself even more to the team. Instead of hoping I wouldn't get pinned, they're expecting a pin out of me. Sometimes you've got to push through the hard stuff to get to the sweeter end of it. It makes you realize how bad it could be, compared to how good you're getting."

First place in the CPC is on the line Jan. 25 when Davie hosts West Forsyth. The JV match is scheduled for 6, the varsity at approximately 7. The War Eagles visit East Rowan Feb. 1 at 6. Davie hosts the CPC Tournament Feb. 3. The state-dual playoffs begin Feb. 6.

Minor, North Boys Tie Record For Wins

Matt McPherson's North Davie boys basketball team thrashed visiting Summit 45-19 last week to tie the boys' season record for wins (10) during the 14-year history of middle-school play. McPherson was also coach of the 2003 eighth-grade squad that went 10-3. That team was led by Tom Kuell (14 points per game), Whit Merrifield (11.1) and Tyler Baity (9.6). The Wildcats (10-4), who registered the fourth blowout by 26-plus points, have three games to set a new victory record. They jumped to a 15-2 lead in the first quarter, thanks to Blake Simmons' six points. Justin Minor took over in the second, scoring six of 13 points as the halftime margin swelled to 28-2.

Minor finished with 10 points as North snapped a two-game slide. He was one of 11 scorers, including Simmons with six, Matt Rembielak with five and Sean Newman and Ryan Foster with four each. "They didn't have any size," McPherson said. "A lot of people played and a lot of people scored." The Wildcats have a makeup game at South Davie on Jan. 24. They visit Summit on Jan. 25 and host Downtown in the season finale on Jan. 29. N. Davie 45, Summit 19 - Justin Minor 10, Blake Simmons 6, Matt Rembielak 5, Sean Newman 4, Ryan Foster 4, Brandon Dunn 3, Parker Lee 3, Lake Slabach 3, Alex Newman 2, Will Beeson 2, Brad Deal 2.

Keiser, Hartman Ignite 29-Point Win For North Girls

Alex Keiser and Liz Hartman of North Davie's girls basketball team struck for six points each in the first quarter last week against Summit. When the final horn sounded, the visitors still hadn't topped those 12 points. The Wildcats (10-4) punished Summit 41-12, and they did all they needed in a 25-6 first quarter. Talk about an early knockout. "We scored eight points in the first 30 seconds with our press," coach Trish King said. "They couldn't get the ball in bounds, and when they did we would intercept the pass and go in for a basket. We looked like we were running the most awesome press in the world." "We ended up pulling the press off after I saw that they weren't as strong. We don't want to humiliate a team." Keiser and Hartman settled for eight points apiece. It was Keiser's fourth outing with eight or more and Hartman's fifth game with five-plus. "Keiser is probably our most consistent player," she said. "She always does the job that we want her to do. She's a leader." "Hartman has really improved a lot." Janna Dixon and Laurn Shelton had two points each, which hardly tells the story for those two. "They were dishing it right and left," she said. "There were several times Shelton was within range and could have shot it, and she fed it inside." King has seen great strides from Katie Davis and Sadie Lagle. "Katie has played very well," she said. "She was boxing out, rebounding and doing all the right things. Lagle is a seventh grader that's coming on strong." And then there's Kali Whitaker, whose impact on the team can't be measured by points. She's a hard-nosed defensive specialist. "She is probably the most aggressive player in practice," King said. "If we want to give somebody a hard time in practice, we put her on them." What provided extra satisfaction is the fact all 12 girls who suited up scored, including five points from Davis and four from Kayla Comatzer. The Wildcats have three games remaining: Jan. 24 at South Davie at 4:30, Jan. 25 at Summit at 4 and Jan. 29 at home against Downtown at 4:30. N. Davie 41, Summit 12 - Alex Keiser 8, Liz Hartman 8, Katie Davis 5, Kayla Comatzer 4, Laurn Shelton 2, Britanni Stewart 2, Rebekah McCann 2, Kali Whitaker 2, Janna Dixon 2, La-trinda Tillery 2, Sadie Lagle 2, Madi Pratas 2.

South Girls Win With Ease Over Forsyth Country Day

When South Davie's girls basketball team played at Forsyth Country Day on Dec. 14, the Tigers were 0-4, they looked pretty bad while falling behind 8-0 and had to grind their way to a 21-14 win.

In last week's rematch at South, the Tigers (4-8) grabbed a first-quarter lead and never looked back, winning 34-23. Few envisioned four wins after the rough start. "When we were shaking hands, the FCD coach said: 'Coach, that doesn't even look like the same team. Man, they've really improved.'" South coach Doug Ebersbach said.

Ebersbach gave his reserve seventh graders something to remember, starting all five and letting them play most of the first quarter.

"I really enjoyed putting the seventh graders out there," he said. "I wanted to do that at a home game so they could get their names called out because they've been real supportive of the eighth graders. They played four or five minutes and held their own. Then everybody gave them a round of applause when the eighth graders checked in."

"The eighth graders hit the floor running. They got after it and did an excellent job." The Tigers surged to a 16-6 halftime cushion, and the reason was as simple as Ashton Swicegood, who exceeded FCD's first-half scoring by herself with eight points. Even though she didn't score in the second half, she is averaging 9.3 in the last three games.

"I think one (of her baskets) was a 3-pointer and they gave her a two," Ebersbach said. "She did a great job as usual. I can always count on Ashton to put some points on the board."

The Furies failed to get back in the game. The main reason was Cara Hendricks, who maneuvered twice inside in the first 65 seconds of the third to give South a 20-6 lead and prompt a FCD timeout. Hendricks scored all 10 of her game-high points in the second half, lifting her average in the last three games to 11.54 to go, that was the dagger.

"Cara was definitely the breakout player," he said. "You can always count on Cara because she's real aggressive. She just does not let up."

Kelsey Lane nailed a baseline jumper - seconds after entering the game - to make it 22-6. FCD rallied to 25-18, but Carmen Grubb made sure South stayed out of harm's way, driving in, getting slapped in the face and still scoring. She went to the line and completed a three-point play. With 1:54 to go, that was the dagger.

Notes: Grubb maintained her streak of scoring in every game. ... Low-post forward Myshia Turner has contributed points in three straight games, but offense doesn't reflect her true impact. "She's been a rock the whole season," Ebersbach said. "She's always fighting underneath. I think she plays a really good game and really works hard. She never misses practice. I just think she's a heckuva player." ... The scheduled date with visiting North Davie is Jan. 24 at 4:30. South closes with a home game against Downtown on Jan. 25 at 4:30.

S. Davie 34, FCD 23 - Cara Hendricks 10, Ashton Swicegood 8, Carmen Grubb 5, Ashley Joyner 4, Myshia Turner 4, Kelsey Lane 2, Shakela Mayfield 1.

 a free safety in the middle of the halfcourt trap, and that was working again."

One of the defining moments was a late loose ball that Wilson won by going horizontal.

"He just flat-out dove for it - just reckless abandon," Wall said. "And the ball went out on them." Guys who didn't score - like

P.J. Neely, Caleb Oswell, Patrick Whaley and Raheem Martin - made a difference as South reached a peak by beating a team that had one loss. The Furries beat North Davie 40-39, and North beat South 50-47 on Dec. 7.

"I think Summit's eighth/ninth team might have beaten them," he said. "We're playing good. We've figured out who plays what roles. "Neely came in early in the first half and gave us some good minutes. Oswell and Whaley did, too. They didn't score, but they got rebounds and played defense. Raheem doesn't have to score. I don't need any points out of Raheem. All I need is the hustle that he gives me."

Old School Davie Sports From 1981

Davie's JV girls basketball team lost 65-51 to Thomasville despite 12 points and 20 rebounds by Lisa Mayfield. Saundra Forrest had 15 points and eight rebounds. Tirena Anderson contributed eight rebounds for Davie, which shot 26 percent (18 of 70).

Dale Barneycastle (122), Rayvon Davis (129) and Tommy Eamhardt (135) had consecutive pins, but it wasn't enough as North Davie's wrestling team fell to 5-6 with a 47-27 loss to Thomasville. Carey Gregory had a win at 81.

Keith Lunsford's 15 points led North Davie's JV boys to a 44-25 romp over Thomasville. Jerry Riddle and John Talbert had eight and seven points, respectively.

North Davie's varsity boys got double figures from Ronald Foster (18 points), Jeff West (13) and Donald Blackwell (10) in a 60-46 win over Asheboro. Uly Grisetete was the top rebounder. Darren Peebles had 14 points in a 66-30 North blowout over South Davie. Russell Anderson led South with seven.

Michelle Deal's nine points were the difference as North Davie's JV girls defeated South Davie 29-19. Tammy Crawford had seven points and team-high rebounds.

Davie's wrestling team got wins from Dar-Martin (108), Cleora Jones (115), Keith Barneycastle (122), Randy Ferguson (148) and Greg Dunn (188) in a 48-15 win over West Rowan. Davie got decisions from Marc Cain (128), Thad Bullock (158) and Billy Lagle (198).

The Hickory Hill Women's Golf Association held a par ringer tournament. Jane Campbell, Betty Morris and Happy Gregg tied for title with 6 pars. Campbell won the birdie tree for December with 4 birdies.

Angie Browder's 18 points weren't nearly enough in the North Davie varsity girls' 51-30 loss to Asheboro. North defeated South Davie 51-47 behind Kim Ward's 15 points.

Donna Hendrix had 14 points and Sharon Young 10 as Davie's varsity girls upset undefeated Thomasville 43-39. Curtis Johnson poured in 24 and Shannon Pulliam added 15 as the Davie boys beat Thomasville in a 60-59 squeaker.

Cheerleading Clinic Friday

There will be a Winter Warm-up Clinic for rising kindergarten-eighth grade cheerleaders on Jan. 26 (clinic at Central Davie) and Jan. 30 (performance at Davie High) from 4:30-7 p.m. The cost is $30, which includes a T-shirt and admission to the basketball game.

This is not a team camp. Cheerleaders are encouraged to attend as individuals. This is a camp designed to work on individual skills for the upcoming cheer season. Every individual will cheer at the home basketball game. Clinic participants will cheer the third and fourth quarters of the girls game and the first and second quarters of the boys game. The performance will end with a dance during halftime of the boys game.

Local Church To Reflect On History Liberty AME Zion Church Celebrates 128 Years

By Jackie Seabolt
 Davie County Enterprise Record

Reverend Dr. Bertha Pittman, 66, began as pastor at Liberty African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church in June 2005. It's a church that's been in existence for 128 years and this Sunday, Jan. 28, members will pay homage to the church's long tenure in Davie County.

An anniversary kick-off service was held on Dec. 10 with guest speaker Reverend Herbert Warren Jr., presiding Elder of the Salisbury District Western North Carolina Conference.

And this Sunday at 11 a.m. Reverend Dr. Michael E. Ellis, former pastor at Liberty, and now presiding Elder of the Greensboro District, West Central North Carolina Conference, will speak. After a dinner at 1:30 p.m. in the fellowship hall the ending services will begin at 3 p.m. with The Right Reverend George W.C. Walker Sr., presiding Prelate of the Piedmont Episcopal District, as the speaker.

According to Pittman the church has 25 active members. "We are a small congregation," Pittman said. But she said they are expecting at least 150 people for the Sunday service.

Eller Wease Hargrove, 70, is a Davie County resident who has been attending Liberty as long as she can remember. A n d Eveline Patterson, 63, and her husband and the perpetuation of the African Methodist Episcopal Zion connection. Dedicated persons whose names will never be mentioned in the great archives of history such as: Will Clement, Lomax Oakley, Thomas Neely, and Mary Hunter as remembered among the original members who sought to maintain the integrity of the church as a viable force in the midst of grave turmoil.

In 1925 the present structure was rebuilt with grateful appreciation to John Hopson, Sally Neely, Lula Clement, Blanche Oakley, Maggie Hooper, James Ijames, Bessie Ijames, Ida Ijames, Robert Neely, Amanda Neely, Arthur Miller, Essie Miller, Andrew Patterson, Estella Patterson, and Zelma Flint.

Since Liberty's inception the members have carried on the legacy and rich heritage of its founders. One such member is Sister Vernell Maxwell Barger (Aunt Nell), who is the oldest living member at 95, and she still lives alone.

Under the leadership of Rev. Jaine Crawford the church was bricked at a cost of $1300 along with the help of other pillars of the church: Lorenzo Maxwell, Miller Clement, Paul Fowler, Vernell Maxwell, Johnson Ijames, Freddie Ijames, Martha Ijames, Eliza Flower, Louise Carter, Robert Pulliam, Dottie Pulliam, Pruitt, Annie M. Shanks, Estella Patterson, Eller Wease Hargrove, and others.

Under the leadership of Rev. Lewis Hunter, who is now Bishop of the Southwestern Delta Episcopal District, the sanctuary floor was restored and carpeting added.

Rev. James Milton's leadership led to the roof being replaced, a steeple being added, and the installation of central air and heat.

While Rev. Mildred Lawson led the church the fellowship hall was enlarged thanks to the expertise of members Richard S. Cuthbertson Sr., now the caretaker at Camp Dorothy Walls, and his cousin, John Cuthbertson. Pews were added on the pews thanks to Sister Eller Wease Hargrove. Also, the piano was replaced.

Many of the former pastors have gone on to become outstanding leaders in communities and cities all over the United States and abroad.

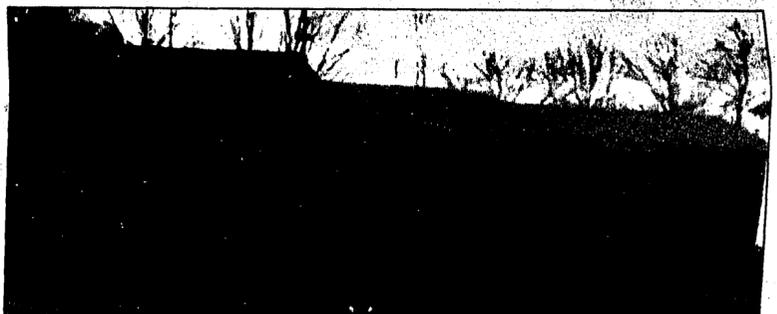

Liberty is now on the move. They are concerned for the battered, the bruised, the homeless, and the broken hearted. They judge no one, and only ask that no one judges them. Their faith teaches that only God judges by the life we live and the service we give.

This closes another chapter in the life and legacy of Liberty AME Zion Church, but they have blessed assurance even better days are coming as they join forces with the Lord Jesus Christ "to preach the gospel; to heal the broken hearted; to proclaim liberty to the captives; to bring deliverance to those captured by sin; and to look to God from whence cometh all our help."

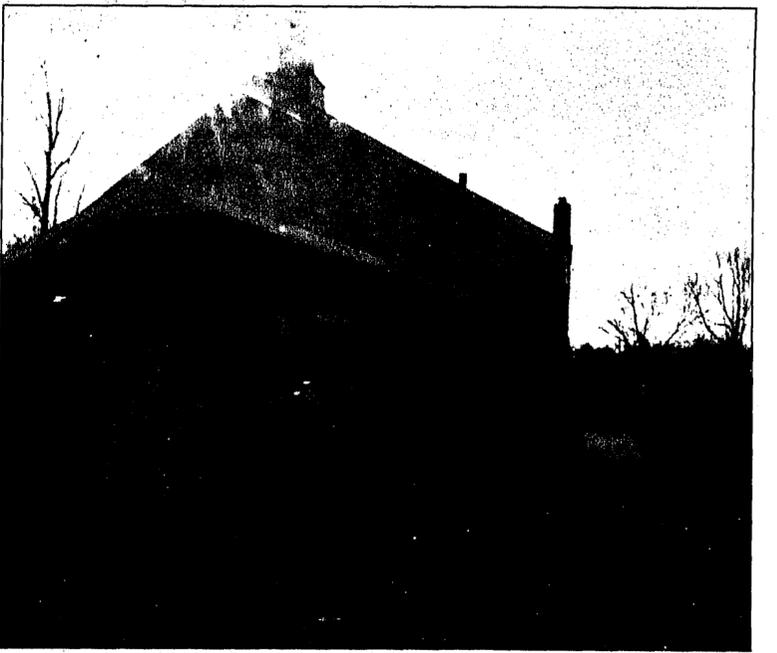

Yes, they do have a reason to praise the Lord.

Part of the anniversary services at Liberty will be an afternoon dinner served in the fellowship hall pictured above.

The church, rich in history, is nestled on a parcel of land off Gladstone Road. Pittman (right) talks with Hargrove and the Patterson's about the church's past 128 years.

Ira Ijames Celebrates 103rd Birthday

More than 100 guests, including friends and family, celebrated with her at Autumn Care on Saturday, Jan. 13 for food, fun and fellowship.

Special tributes were offered by several grandchildren and great-grandchildren, such as songs, cards, poems, and gifts in honor of "Grandma Ijames."

"Thank you to everyone who attended, brought and served food, offered prayers or did anything," said Minister Beverly King, who coordinated the event along with Vanessa Barker. Both are grandchildren.

Michael and Larry Naylor, also grandchildren, put together a slide show of Ijames' life.

Alice C. Gaither composed an original poem for the occasion, and great-grandchild, Brandon King, played the keyboards and sang, "I'll Supply Your Needs." Mr. and Mrs. George Martin provided the birthday cake.

A letter from President George W. and Laura Bush was sent, offering "heartfelt wishes for joy and happiness" on her birthday. "Your generation has contributed to the character and strength of our nation," the letter said. "You teach us important lessons and set an example for America's youth."

Four generations of the family were present. She has six living siblings.

She had been married to Roosevelt Ijames for 55 years when he died in 1987.

Following are some of the tributes given to Grandma Ijames.

"She is a part of our hearts, such a good and great grandmother. God bless you with many more years," said the Rev. and Mrs. Robert Bailey.

"Mother never whipped us but always threatened, 'I'm going to tell your daddy,'" said son, John Ijames.

"Happy 103rd birthday with lots of love," said Reggie, Valerie and Linda Sales.

"Joyous times of cooking with Grandma, homemade bread, corn fritters, persimmon

Ijames made quilts as presents for all of her grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Many nieces and nephews also attended, including Pastor Nettye Barber, who called Ijames "a mighty woman of strength."

"A testament of God's love, life and longevity," said Helen

"Sis" Scott. "What a marvel to be a part of mankind for 103 years."

Opal Stone remembers "a quilt made for me that I will cherish for many years to come."

"Grandma made my first paisley suit," said Judy Ijames. "I remember the smile she had on her face when she saw me try it own."

"I'm so grateful to have Grandma Ira in my life for the past 18 years," said Ashley Sales. "I love her very much, even though she calls me lazy."

Henderson-Miller Engagement Announced

Jim and Donna Henderson of Mocksville announce the engagement of their daughter, Haley Jean Henderson to Stuart Thomas Miller, son of Larry and Sharon Miller of Greensboro. They will be married on May 19 at First United Methodist Church in Mocksville.

The bride-elect is a 2002 graduate of Davie High School and earned a communications degree from Appalachian State University. She is employed as a program administrator for communications with Guilford County Schools in Greensboro.

The groom-to-be is a 2000 graduate of Northeast Guilford High School and earned a marketing and management degree from Appalachian State University. He is employed as a manager for Lowe's Home Improvement in Greensboro.

Two precious lives.
Two beating hearts.
Two people worth protecting.
Why can't we love them both?

The mystery of life. Mother and child. Both of their lives are precious. Both are deserving of our love and protection. On this ominous anniversary of Roe versus Wade, we, the undersigned, mourn not only for the loss of 40 million unborn children - but also for their mothers, who have been wounded by the abortion industry. Please stand with us in love on behalf of them all.

Foil Packets An Easy Way To Cook

By Robln Lowder
Davie County Enterprise Record

Scouts and campers have used the technique of cooking in aluminum foil packets for many years.

It is also one of the easiest ways to cook in the kitchen.

By using foil packets, there is virtually no mess, little prep time and you can prepare a variety of foods at one time. This way of cooking pleases everyone, especially if the grown-ups want fish and the kids want chicken. Foil packets make it easier to accommodate even the pickiest of eaters.

Cooking in packets can be a healthy way of cooking because you use little or no fat. A great way of cooking for people who have little or no time that still want a tasty home cooked meal.

Sealed packets create a small pressure cooker effect in the oven. The only hard part is to match the vegetables to the meat in order for both to cook evenly in the same amount of time. There is nothing more dreaded than over cooked meat and under cooked vegetables or vice versa.

Just because you are not using pots and pans to boil, saute and fry doesn't mean you have to give up on taste cooking in foil packets. As a matter of fact this gives you an opportunity to use those fresh herbs, rubs and spices even more. Foil packet cooking allows you to cook for one or two people or a crowd. You can prepare the packets the night before and place them in the refrigerator. Just allow them to sit out for 15-20 minutes before placing them on a baking sheet and putting them in the oven. This will help the meat cook much faster.

Fruits can also be prepared this way. Sliced apples placed on a sheet of foil that has been sprayed with butter flavored cooking spray, topped with some cinnamon, raisins, vanilla and a little brown sugar can be a delightful dessert. Baked pears are another great choice. Canned creamed soups aren't used just for casseroles; they make a great sauce in pork and chicken packets. Rarely will you use a whole can for this style of cooking; you just need to refrigerate the unused portion for another use. Not all foods are practical prepared this way - things such as pastas and cakes may prove to be quite difficult.

Here are a few good tips to remember when cooking with foil. Heavy duty foil works best because it can stand up to the heat and will hold up to the pressure created by the steam inside the packets. The heavy duty foil is less likely to be punctured. Make sure your seals are tight and you leave just a little room for the steam to circulate around the food during the cooking process. Lightly coat the foil with non-stick cooking spray. Cut the vegetables and meats in uniform pieces to ensure even cooking. Place the food in the center of the piece of foil then layer your meat and vegetables then top with any sauces and seasonings. Seal tight, bake as instructed in the recipe. Once done, be sure to pierce the packet or cut it open with scissors or a knife in order to let the steam escape so that you do not get burnt. Place each packet in individual plates and enjoy.

I know there are pre-made packets on the market, and I also know that they can get a little pricey. A roll of heavy duty foil can be cheaper and you can get more packets out of it to stretch a tight grocery bill.

Be creative with vegetables and spices. Who knows, the kids may even ask if you can make another dish in the packets the next night. I know I am all for anything that gets me out of the kitchen faster when I have a busy schedule.

Teriyaki Chicken Packets
4 (5 oz.) chicken breasts, boneless/skinless, pounded thin
1 medium yellow squash sliced
1 medium zucchini squash sliced
1 small red onion sliced
1/2 cup carrot sliced matchstick style
1 cup broccoli chopped in small pieces
2 teaspoons minced fresh ginger root

Farmington News

Farmington Correspondent

Members of the Farmington Ruritan Club, Larry Holbrook, Jackie Lane, John Caudle, Chip Essic and Wee Brock, met at the home of John and Sarah Pilcher on Saturday, Jan. 13 to install a rail on a ramp built by his son, Darrell.

John was a charter member of the Farmington Ruritan Club and spent 40 years serving the community and serving with perfect attendance record for the entire 40 years. John was forced to resign from the club due to medical problems. Larry Holbrook, the club's president, said "We want John to know that his contributions to the club will never be forgotten and that we all were glad to have been able to assist him and his wife, Sarah, in the building of the rail."

The Farmington Ruritan Club meets each second Thursday evening at 7:30 at the Farmington Community Center. You are invited come and enjoy a meal and see how you can become a Ruritan member serving the Farmington community. Call Larry Holbrook 998-2068, Neal Essic at 998-0800 or John Caudle at 998-3718.

I would like to thank everyone who came to our community meeting on Jan. 8 to show support and concern regarding the 65 acres behind the Farmington Community Center. There were some who said that they would be against having more ballfields, anything noisy, allowing hunting, or having a skate park. It seemed that the majority of residents would like to see the land kept as natural as possible and have trails available for walking, biking, and horses. Maybe have an "all purpose" field to use for ball practice or family recreation - something that the whole family could enjoy.

After hearing the concerns of community residents and learning that the county would not be able to provide a county park on the property, Mr. Louis Smith and his wife Martha decided to donate the property to the Farmington Community Association. This was a generous contribution to the community and we appreciate it greatly. Now that the land is deeded to the community center, we will be working closely with the Davie Cooperative Extension, NC State University, and volunteers to plan and provide a natural area with trails and access to fishing for families to enjoy.

We will also be looking for ways to incorporate education into the plan. There are so many types of habitat on the property that we want to take advantage of and make available for the community to enjoy. The open fields will be leased to local farmers, for the time being, to provide funds for an endowment that will be started to provide future funding for projects on the property. This endowment will be available as a way for community residents and local companies to donate funds toward projects.

The Farmington Preservation and Beautification Committee will be working closely with the Farmington Community Association in planning, funding, and organizing volunteers. If you would like more information on how you can help, as a volunteer or financially, you may call me at 998-0825 or email at farmingtonce@gmail.com. The Farmington Preservation and Beautification Committee will meet on Thursday, Feb. 15 at 7 p.m. at the Farmington Community Center.

The Farmington Art Studio is off to a good start. I stopped by on Saturday and found instructor, Bruce White, teaching a group called Beginning Freestyle Landscape Painting. They were trying out brush strokes and painting techniques and seemed to be having a lot of fun. The studio will be having open studio on Fridays from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. Bring your supplies, come when you can, and leave when you want. In February, they will be offering Water Color and Sculpture classes. For more information, call 940-3178. In the last Farmington News article, I had mentioned that John and Sara Pilcher with their new ramp rail, and the Farmington Ruritan members who built it, Larry Holbrook, Wee Brock, John Caudle, Chip Essic and Jackie Lane.

Rose Caudle was given a surprise birthday party at the Farmington Methodist Church and then later stated that she was a member of the Farmington Baptist Church (mistakenly). Rose has been a long time member of the Farmington

Poet To Be At The Brock

The Davie Arts Council will present Phillip Shabazz on Thursday, Feb. 1 at 7 p.m. at the Brock Performing Arts Center. Shabazz is recognized as "one of the most inspiring individuals in the arts". He intertwines cultural experiences with tones of blues and jazz that create a colorful window into his life. This performance will wind up an eight-week poetry and creative writing residency with Davie middle and high schools. Several students who participated in his residency will join him on stage to perform their works. All tickets are $8 and are available at the Davie County Arts Council box office 751-3000, www.daviearts.org. The Brock Performing Arts Center is at 622 N. Main St., Mocksville.

Sheffield-Calaha News

By Janice Jordan
Sheffield-Calaha
Correspondent

Sheffield-Calaha Volunteer Fire Department members and their families gathered at the Sheffield Community Center on Saturday evening, Jan. 13 for their annual banquet.

Traditionally held after the preceding year has passed, it has become an opportunity to publicly acknowledge members of the department whose contributions were outstanding. Many community residents signed the charter back in 1976 that enabled Sheffield and Calaha to have its own fire protection, and some of the original signers were invited as guests.

Among those present was Hazel Frye, who signed the charter, along with her late husband, Enoch Prevette. Cecil Allen, a charter member, attended with his wife, Lena Mae, and several other family members. Ann Wright, whose late husband Wade was a firefighter for many years, was there, too. Many other guests and some family members of current firefighters are relatives of deceased firefighters, so the event was meaningful for them in several ways.

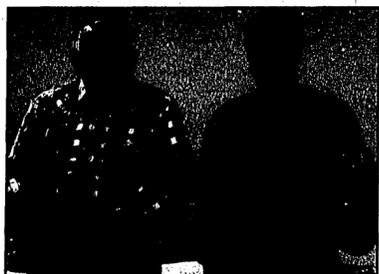

On hand to help Chief David Beck with the presentation of awards that night was guest Jerry Myers, a volunteer firefighter at William R. Davie Fire Department. He is employed by Davie County within the Emergency Management Department, and his duties include fire investigation and emergency response training. Accompanying him was his wife, Gina. Jerry told the audience about a recent meeting of the Davie County Firefighter's Association, where a deceased firefighter was inducted into the Hall of Fame. He explained that nominations for the honor had been submitted to an independent party, who evaluated the candidates, without regard for identities of department represented. As a result, the late Frankie Allen from Sheffield-Calaha was chosen.

Sheffield-Calaha firefighter and current chair of the board, Gary Allen, accepted the award on his family's behalf at the association dinner and at Saturday's Sheffield-Calaha banquet. In the audience was Frankie Allen's widow, Jeanie Allen, daughter-in-law, Alysa, and granddaughter, Kliaire.

The next awards presented were also special, as surprise recognition was given to six members, who have remained active within the department since its inception over 30 years ago. Bronze statues of a firefighter, mounted on a base with an inscribed plaque, were presented to Paul Beck, Jerry Myers, Jim Reilly, Carl Dyson, Ed Galther, and David Allen. Although none of the men had any prior knowledge about the awards and thus were a bit caught off guard, it was easy to see that all of them felt honored. The audience response indicated that they felt the recognition of the men was well deserved.

The final award was for the Sheffield-Calaha Firefighter of the Year ending 2006. Selected by the previous four recipients of the award, this winner was considered for number of hours of service volunteered during the year, hours devoted to training and drills, any other contributions to the benefit of the department, and attitude and performance. A volunteer firefighter at the department for about four years, and also a member of the department's board of directors, this year's selection was Chris Jordan. As his wife, I realized that writing this week's column would be easy, or perhaps quite difficult, considering the circumstances. But I decided to simply approach it as I have when writing about past winners, and let facts speak for themselves.

Basically a quiet man, who definitely avoids the limelight and wants no part of public speaking, Chris is none the less no stranger to volunteer work. Since I know quite a bit about him, there are a few things I can get away with saying about him. For example, he donates whole blood to the Red Cross regularly, having surpassed the six-gallon mark. He has recently begun donating platelets, hoping that an ill child may benefit. He worked for a major floor covering distributor during summer vacations in high school, and after college graduation, joined that same company on a full-time basis. Although his time away from work was limited, with the encouragement from a neighbor, who was a full-time police officer for the city of Winston-Salem, he took a rigorous course in law enforcement to become certified, and joined the police department reserve division. After six years of continuous service, and having attained the rank of sergeant, he was transferred to work at his employer's main facility in Georgia. That move forced him to resign his volunteer police work. During his 25 years with the company, he was a part of helping it grow into the second largest carpet manufacturer in the country. When the company was sold to its largest competitor, he chose to move back to his native Winston-Salem to begin the next phase of his life. Having a father-in-law whose roots are in a country upbringing, Chris long ago discovered an interest in cattle and a love of farm land. After exploring property in several counties around Forsyth, he found land on Sheffield Road that suited just what he had in mind. It didn't take long for both of us to realize that we wanted to live on this farm. After years of raising poultry and Black Angus cattle, Chris has scaled back, but still makes several hundred rolls of fescue hay each year that he sells to cattle and horse owners.

After I had been drafted to serve on the local fire department board of directors, Chris heard more about the people in our community who volunteer their time with the department. That was the nudge it took to make him decide that he would join the department himself. He calls participating in the department's activities his positive stress. Like everything else in his history, he has approached being a firefighter with the attitude that if it is worth his time, it is worth doing it right. That includes continually getting training, and spending any available free time on projects for the department. The personal results have been positive, as he has been able to forge friendships that might not have happened, in addition to his personal satisfaction of making a contribution to the community.

Before enjoying the great meal prepared by the New Union Women's Fellowship at the banquet, we attended breakfast that morning at Center United Methodist Church. Anyone who has attended one of their benefit breakfasts has come to expect a consistent quality, and their cooks have never disappointed. Although we arrived late, the food was still being served fresh and hot, and we were invited to linger as long as we wanted. Other people had the same idea, as I spotted Pat and Albert Moore enjoying conversation with a table mate. Nearby were Frankie O'Neal, his wife Tracy, and daughter Taylor, who were talking with other family and friends. Jim and Pat Reilly came in the door to get in the food line at the same time that we did. Doris Williams was helping with the breakfast, as usual. Although I was able to exchange a few words with her, I have still not been able to find out any details about her wedding last month. But she seems happy, and will experience another major life change when she soon retires from her job with Davie County. She's such a pleasant person to know, and I certainly wish her well. I knew her brother, Ken Clodfelter, for many years before I met Doris, as he worked at the same company where my husband and I were employed.

Doris's daughter, Carla Prevette, does a wonderful job running the Center Preschool program. They are accepting applications for the 2007-2008 school year. For more information, call Carla at 492-5735 or Sandra Autry at 940-3753. Lone Hickory Volunteer Fire Department invited members of Sheffield-Calaha to participate in the live burn of a house in Yadkin County on Saturday. Courtney, Buck Shoals, and Lone Hickory each sent a truck, and the Yadkin County Air Truck was there, too to refill air pack bottles. Attending from Sheffield were Dell Foster, Karen Jordan-Foster, Adam Trent, and junior firefighter, Timothy Campbell. Sheffield's three-person team, led by Dell, went inside with a hose line, and experienced first-hand what will happen and what might occur, as fire is often unpredictable. Timothy learned some of the ways that he can assist the firefighters from the outside while at a fire scene. The certified training class was offered through Surry Community College. Sheffield sends their thanks to Lone Hickory and their Chief Buddy for the invitation and for the breakfast provided.

Condolences are offered to Brandi Drye, her mother, Cindy Beaver, and all the other relatives and friends of Mrs. Sadie Cope Burton, who died Friday, Jan. 19 at the age of 84. Email me at jffordan@hotmail.com or telephone 492-5836 with any information you have to be included in this column.

Thanks to everyone who attended the breakfast at Wesley Chapel last Saturday. It is always the third Saturday of each month. Thanks, also, to everyone who work and make it possible for Wesley Chapel to continue this work for missions.

Two members of our congregation are in need of prayer. Vernon Dull and Virginia Murray are having some health problems. Please include them when you pray.

The Pino-Farmington Homemakers club had its January meeting at the home of Lella Essic with seven members present. President Marie Miller presided. Joan Cress read the minutes in the absence of Secretary Toby Hawkins. Delicious refreshments were served to everyone including Janie Dixon, Jean Smith, Carolyn Boger, Joyce Shields and Nora Latham.

Bob and Kathy Ellis and I went to Reidsville last Saturday to visit my grandson and his wife, Ethan and Allison Boger. They have a 3-month-old beautiful little boy, Reid. We were the babysitters while Ethan and Alli went to the George Strait concert. On Sunday morning we went to church with them at The City Church of Greensboro. "Common Sense Religion"

The modern Christian world is hopelessly divided into hundreds of different churches each having its own distinctive name, doctrines, rituals, and organization. It defies common sense to think that all of them can be right.

Atlas Orthogonal Adjusting

Hi, my name is Dr. Maureen Work. I would like to tell you about myself and my practice.

I became a chiropractor because of the relief I gained through receiving chiropractic treatments. Over twenty some years ago, a car accident left my back so tight it was an ordeal to relax my back muscles in order to fall asleep. Seven years of discomfort later, a friend talked me into seeing a chiropractor. After receiving my first chiropractic adjustment, I could not believe the changes I felt in my back and neck. I was able to sleep better; my back and neck muscles felt loose, and I felt great. I know it was the best thing I ever did and it was a turning point in many aspects of my life. I knew I wanted to share chiropractic with others after the relief I had experienced without drugs or surgery. So, three years after my first adjustment I resigned from my job (office manager/accounting) and enrolled at Palmer College of Chiropractic to become a chiropractor. I graduated in 1999 earning both my Bachelor of Science and Doctor of Chiropractic degrees simultaneously and attended post-graduate classes in order to become certified in the Atlas Orthogonal Precision Adjusting technique.

I ran my own successful practice in Illinois for the past 7 1/2 years before coming to Clemmons. I am proud to announce the opening of BodyCare Chiropractic, PLLC located at 2419 Lewisville-Clemmons Road in Suite 5, Clemmons. I introduced the ATLAS ORTHOGONAL PRECISION ADJUSTING technique in Ottawa, IL and now it is exciting to introduce and exclusively offer this technique in Forsyth County. Atlas Orthogonal Precision Adjusting is a gentle, specific, non-manipulative chiropractic technique that brings your head and neck into alignment by means of a precision instrument adjustment. The precision adjustment is based on specific x-ray findings translated over to the Atlas Orthogonal Instrument. The adjustment itself is a percussive wave lasting 80 milliseconds. Most patients adjusted with the instrument say they did not feel the adjustment. It gently and painlessly adjusts the vertebrae in the upper portion of the neck and creates a flow of correction through the rest of the spine and body. This technique is the forefront of technology in regards to precision adjusting and minimal force. Atlas Orthogonal Precision Adjusting is one of the adjusting protocols incorporated in my practice in determining your care since every case is unique.

It is important for you to know that all chiropractic techniques produce results based upon each individual body's ability to heal and the severity of existing conditions. It is also important to remember that healing is a process and not an individual event, time is definitely a factor.

I know first hand the benefits of being under chiropractic care for 17 years and being adjusted with the Atlas Orthogonal Precision Instrument for the past 7 years. I look forward to speaking with you and answering any questions you have regarding CHIROPRACTIC CARE. I can be reached at (336) 766-3993.

Dear Readers:

To honor their memories, the Enterprise Record welcomes you to submit written memorials about Davie County residents who have recently died. Often, our readers and friends have died with too little said about the significance of their contribution to this county and to us.

Obituaries are prepared under difficult circumstances by families stressed by a flood of emotions and decisions. A day after the funeral, families remember important facts that should have been included.

We hope this can be a column that allows our readers to properly remember and honor their late friends and relatives.

We invite you to send your personal reflections. Some guidelines:

1. Submit the memorial within a month of the death.
2. Please limit yourself to 100-150 words or less.
3. Include a photo of the deceased if you have one.
4. The memorial must be about a Davie County resident or former resident.

As with our letters to the editor, the memorials must be in good taste. They must be signed with an address and telephone number for verification. They can be submitted by mail to the Davie County Enterprise Record, PO Box 99, Mocksville, NC 27028 or by email, emews@davie-enterprise.com. Submit the memorials by noon Monday of the week to be published.

DHS Students Make Bears, Raise Money For Camp

The Davie High School Interact Club completes community service projects each school year.

After last year's successful book drive for the Victory Junction Gang Camp in Randolph, and the joy club members received helping children with life threatening illnesses, choosing another project for Victory Junction was easy.

Club members researched what the camp needed by using the camp website at www.victoryjunction.org. They were touched by the fact that each child leaving the camp takes home a "Special Bear" but read with concern that Victory Junction was in constant need of more handmade bears.

The students downloaded the unique pattern for the bear design but found that although the group had the funds to buy the materials to sew the bears, the group did not have enough skilled sewers.

The idea was born to collaborate with Katherine Stewart's apparel design class to see if they could help with this project. After reviewing the bear pattern and finding it too complex for new students, Stewart thought her class would be experienced enough by the end of the semester to make 12 bears.

The collaboration between the two groups and the success of this project. He said it has helped the students learn about the desperate situations in other children's lives and that they can make a difference.

He hoped this will lead to more involvement between the academic classes and clubs on campus. His club could never have been successful without Mrs. Stewart's cooperation and total support for the project.

As the Interact club advisor, Jim Moore was impressed with vs. West Forsyth basketball game on Jan. 12, and collected more than $210.

After the Davie students returned from semester break, members set up collection tables during lunches. They will ask the faculty and students to make donations to the cause and sign the cards. The club's goal is to raise another $200 and then send the bears and the money along to Victory Junction.

Second quarter Spanish classes are going well. Kindergarten classes finished learning the numbers to 10. They practiced math concepts like sequencing and counting backwards. They are working on farm animals.

First grade classes finished learning the numbers to 30. They practiced math concepts as well: sequencing, adding, and more, less, or equal. They are learning about plants and animals on the farm.

Second grade completed a numbers unit, learning the numbers to the 70s. They integrated math concepts like odd and even. They are working on a unit of family vocabulary. They will integrate the numbers they know, learning how to ask and answer questions about age.

Third grade studied the numbers to 100. They are learning to read and write the words for these numbers. After the new year, they will begin a unit about the family.

Fourth and fifth graders practiced numbers to 100, including reading and writing these words. They learned how to tell time in Spanish and ask for the time. They begin learning vocabulary about the school, beginning with the subjects they study.

Several classes enjoyed authentic games from Spanish-speaking countries. Second and third grade classes that have earned 25 good-behavior points played pinolitos. This is a spinning top game from Latin America, similar to the dreidel game played at Chanukkah. The fourth and fifth grade classes with 25 points played "Serpientes y escaleras," "Snakes & Ladders". This game from Mexico is the inspiration for "Chutes & Ladders". Both games gave the students the opportunity to practice numbers while having fun.

At the end of the quarter, every student will receive a newsletter summarizing the vocabulary covered this nine-weeks.

Third grade students have been reading Charlotte's Web. They enjoyed the story and are looking forward to a trip to see the play next month. Students have been learning about Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. to understand why his life is celebrated.

Mrs. Wyatt and Mrs. Fulton's kindergarten students thoroughly enjoyed learning about polar animals this week. Not only did we read about and discuss a variety of polar animals, we experimented with blubber to get a better understanding of how polar animals can survive in their frigid environment. We also used a Venn diagram to compare and contrast the Arctic and Antarctic regions.

Math was exciting as students were formally introduced to some new shapes called spheres, cylinders, cones and cubes. The kids were amazed at how many "everyday" household items could be classified as one of these shapes.

Mrs. Fletcher's second graders have been learning about weather. They have talked about the three important parts that make up the water cycles. The class enjoyed reading books such as Cloudy with a Chance of Meatballs, Pickles in Pittsburgh, The Cloud Book and Hurricane.

The class also charted the rainfall for a week, and have been making predictions and plotting temperatures throughout the month. We learned that weather can be interesting and fun.

Mrs. Crater's third grade class has been rather busy since the new year. We are reading fables this week and practicing small fable plays to put on for our class.

We have been learning a lot of new lessons from these plays. In math, we have been reviewing our multiplication facts along with many other skills such as division, line graphs and fractions. For social studies, we have been reading Time For Kids to stay current with the news in our country and the world. We also started a map chapter so we can read information on many different types of maps. We have added adjectives to our grammar lessons. Next month, we will be studying many famous black Americans during Black History Month. We have had so much fun this month.

Our class has just finished reading the true story of Orville and Wilbur Wright. The biography focuses on the brothers' journey from their bicycle shop in Ohio to the winds of North Carolina. In keeping with the theme of biographies, the students completed an African-American scavenger hunt.

The students are currently working on an autobiographical newspaper. Each student has enjoyed telling about themselves along with important people and their most memorable event. Students have also drawn cartoons.

The students in Mrs. Cockman and Mrs. Nage's class have been working to meet their Accelerated Math and Accelerated Reading goals for the second nine weeks. These following students have made their Accelerated Math Goals: Abby Daniels, Taylor Nelson, Nadia Carlson, Alexis Callison, Antonio Gabino, Kayla Beck, Jac Crickard, Claudia Evans, Alex Frye, Lindsey Gale, Tyler Galyean, Nathan Hass, Joana Leon, Colton Orrell, Summer Scardino, Will Vaughn-Jones and Kellie Viers.

Several students just completed a study of paleontology and presented their research and Please See Schools - Page D5

William R. Davie Elementary
Karen Prince and Angie Anderson's kindergarten classes have been continuing to learn the letters and sounds in Letterland. They recently met Walter Walrus. Their lessons included a walk outside to study the weather. They also enjoyed the story of "The Ugly Duckling" and used the Smart Board to find swan pictures. In math, they learned to use a balance scale and how make shapes on a geoboard.

Mrs. Meagher's fifth graders have been working on citizenship. Students have been assisting the kindergarten classes as they prepare for Jump Rope for Heart. In addition to counting, several of the students have been helping an injured Mrs. Johnson by shelving books in the media center. In the class spelling bee, Maggie Meagher and Peter Perez won for Ms. Ireland's class; Anna Beth Carter and Sam Nesbit won for Mrs. Meagher's class. Students are studying for the school Spelling Bee next week. Taylor Mohat is the newest member of the History Club. She recited the 43 presidents in order. Students who have recited the presidents move on to states and capitals. During regular class time students have been studying westward expansion in social studies. Students are building covered wagons and preparing presentations about what they have learned. In math, they have mastered divisibility and will be moving on to a fun geometry unit. Lanie Pope from WXII will help wrap up a weather unit before a tour of the world's biomes.

findings in a variety of ways. Some students created powerpoint presentations to present their information to the class. Others shared their learning with presentation boards. They learned a great deal about the job of a paleontologist and then wrote a 10-day diary about their life as if they were a paleontologist. The fifth graders recently went on a field trip to Horizons in Salisbury. They learned about Sir Isaac Newton and the laws of motion. They also had a lesson on the journey of Lewis and Clark.
Mrs. Flynn and Mrs. Cook's first graders are enjoying reading about penguins, snow and other winter topics. Now the question is are we going to have some of that winter weather? We hope so. Our boys and girls are doing a fabulous job in Writers Workshop. We are really trying to tell the best stories we can using sparkle words and lots of interesting details. We love to share our stories with each other in the special Author's Chair.

Writing Their Dreams

The fourth grade at Mocksville Elementary were given the challenge of writing what their dream for the future would be using Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. as their role model. They displayed their creative writing and pictures on a central bulletin board entitled "Every Good Thing Starts with a Dream". The students pictured joined the rest of the school as we celebrated the character trait - courage. Are you courageous enough to wear your pajamas to school? From left: Chavin Peebles, Katie Koontz, McKenzie Hall and Erika Baltazar.

Pincensive Incentive

North Davie students Kali Whitaker, Sean Gifford, Brittani Stewart, and Haynes Shelton, along with Principal Wanda Shaffner, accept a $6,425 check from Vulcan executives Mitchell Whitaker and Bert Bond. Vulcan Materials, Smith Grove Quarry is one of North Davie's Golden Opportunity Business Partners. The money will be used to fund North Davie's Pincensive Program and a staff retreat. This is just one example of Vulcan's dedication to education and community service.

I AM YVT

Yadkin Valley is a local company, made up of people you know. Like Accounting Supervisor David Williams. Once the checkbooks are balanced, David begins his "second career" - helping others. He coaches his daughter's sports teams; fundraises for Relay for Life and other local charities; volunteers at the New Hope Pregnancy Center; does committee work at church; and helped to build Yadkinville's first Habitat for Humanity home. Like any good accountant, David is very thorough - working through the lives of every person he meets.
