VOL. XXV "All The County News For Everybody" MOCKSVILLE, N. C., FRIDAY, JANUARY 2, 1942 "All The County News For Everybody" NO. 15

CHRONOLOGY OF HISTORIC 1941 GIVEN

NO OFFENSIVE TILL 1943 -- CHURCHILL

British Prime Minister Winston Churchill predicted to Congress that the United States and Britain will launch a world-wide offensive in 1943 to "beat the life out of the savage Nazis" and their allies.

Addressing a joint informal session held in the Senate, the British war leader declared the smashing British successes in Libya are "only a foretaste of what we have got to give him (Hitler) and his accomplices wherever this war may lead us in every quarter of the globe."

Some of the highlights of Mr. Churchill's speech which was wildly cheered were:

The United States, united as never before... have drawn the sword for freedom and cast away the scabbard.

What kind of a people do they (the Japanese) think we are? It is possible they do not realize that we shall never cease to persevere against them until they have been taught a lesson which they and the world will never forget?

The United States have been attacked and set upon by the three most powerfully armed dictator states, the greatest military power in Europe the greatest military power in Asia... you do not, I am certain, under-rate the severity of the ordeal to which you and we have still to be subjected. The forces ranged against us are enormous. They are bitter, ruthless.

We have, therefore, without doubt, a time of tribulation before us. In this same time, some ground will be lost which will be hard and costly to regain. Many disappointments and unpleasant surprises await us.

Not all the tidings will be evil. On the contrary, mighty strokes of war already have been dealt against the enemy—the glorious defense of their native soils by the Russian armies and people. Wounds have been inflicted upon the Nazi tyranny and system that will fester and inflame not only in the Nazi body but in the Nazi mind.

The boastful Mussolini has crumpled already. He is now but a lackey and a serf, the merest utensil of his master's will... he has been stripped of all his African empire.

There are good tidings also from the blue waters. The lifeline of supplies which joins our two nations across the ocean without which all would fail—that lifeline is flowing steadily and freely in spite of all the enemy could do.

I am so glad to be able to place before you members of the Senate and the House of Representatives at this moment, when you are entering the war, the proof that with the proper weapons and proper organization, we are able to beat the life out of the savage Nazis. What Hitler is suffering in Libya is only a sample and foretaste of what we have got to give him and his accomplices wherever this war should lead us in any quarter of the globe.

Immense strides have been made in the conversion of American industry to military purposes and now that the United States is at war, it is possible for orders to be given every day which in a year or eighteen months hence will produce results in war powers beyond anything that has been or foreseen in the dictator states.

Churchill and a staff of 80 military experts arrived in Washington on the night of December 22. The object of the visit is to lay plans for an allied war council in fighting the war and to pool the resources of Britain, Canada and U. S.

Simultaneous conferences are being held in Chungking and in Moscow. At the latter place Anthony Eden, British foreign minister, has been for two weeks where he and Stalin are reported to have reached a unified goal. Japs bomb Manila after it had been declared an open city, killing women and children and destroying public buildings and famous churches.

Philippine defenders still holding out but constant reports are issued of reinforcements being landed by the Japs. The greatest need is fighter planes but the Philippines are 6,200 miles away and bombers recently sent there took a month to arrive, travelling a route of 10,000 miles. President Roosevelt promised help in a message sent Monday night and said their freedom would be redeemed. Many expect, however, to see the islands taken by the Japs before sufficient help can get there to turn the tide. This country has a large number of fighter planes but they must have their wings removed, be crated and shipped, thus being in danger of being sunk. Fighters cannot fly the distance under their own power. Meanwhile the Japs are reported within 35 miles of Manila.

Many observers think that the all-out stand against Japan will be made at Singapore.

Moscow communique continues to tell of Russian advances all along the front and recapture of 332 towns and much equipment both north and south of the capital.

Russians recapture highly important town of Kerch in the Crimea. Germany has not been routed in Russia but neither have the Nazis been able to stop the Russian advances.

In Libya the English forces continue to push the Nazis back and Churchill predicts destruction of the German forces.

TIRE RATIONED
In this country automobile tires will be rationed, beginning Jan. 5. Tire rationing boards will be set up everywhere and only those who are engaged in essential services for health, safety, industrial and commercial operations can get new tires.

Labor and management agreed that there will be no strikes or lockouts during the war; disputes to be settled by peaceful means handed by a War Labor board.

HERE & THERE

QUIET CHRISTMAS

Christmas in this section was the quietest known in years. Many boys in the service were home for the holidays and there were many family dinners and reunions. Some 12 to 15 were locked up during the holidays, Sheriff Bowden said. Only one person was locked up on Christmas eve and Christmas day. A shortage of liquor due to sugar scarcity and the fact that many young men were in the service are attributed by realistic police officers to a quiet Christmas generally reported everywhere.

When he finishes he will be awarded a commission as a second lieutenant in the Army Air Forces. Cadet Ferebee had been at the Air Corps Replacement Center at Maxwell Field, Ala., since Sept. 18. COUNTY DEFENSE COUNCIL ANNOUNCES MORE ACTIVITY

At a meeting of the Davie defense council last week further plans were made for defense in the county and reports were heard on what has already been done. E. C. Tatum, chairman of the council, presided.

W. M. Pennington reported that six airplane warning stations had been located at strategic places in the county and that each station makes a daily report to Raleigh.

Plans were laid for the establishment of an emergency medical service in the county which would function through the doctors of the county, volunteer nurses, public health nurses and inactive nurses. Red Cross courses in first aid and lay home courses would be taught. Mrs. Margaret Green of Cooleemee was named as representative of the council for the service. It was decided to ask the doctors of the county to supervise the organization of the emergency medical service.

Mr. Tatum reported that the recent aluminum drive in the county had been highly successful and D. C. Rankin, county agent, was named chairman of a scrap iron committee for the council. All scrap iron will be salvaged wherever found in town or on the farms and the metal sold through authorized channels in aiding the war effort.

Wade Furches was named chairman of the "food for defense" committee and Mr. Furches reported that during the recent campaign Davie farmers had signed the agreement to contribute to increase foods for defense in 1942.

Home gardens were also discussed and Miss Florence Mackie, home demonstration agent, said that the increase of home gardens was one of the major objectives this year.

Mrs. George Apperson of Cooleemee stated that in 1942 a concerted effort would be made to have more Davie women become members of the various home clubs throughout the county so that they could work together for the increase of home gardens.

V MEN
Mr. Tatum appointed five men in the county to serve as "V for Victory" men. They are B. C. Brock, J. B. Cain, C. B. Hoover, Robert S. McNeill and Rev. P. L. Smith.

It was also reported at the meeting that steps had been taken to guard vital points in the county against any possible sabotage. Officers have been sworn in and are serving as guards at the plant of the Erwin Mills, as well as guarding the water supply.

The state has placed guards at the bridges in the county where houses for guards have been erected and telephones will be installed. Similar precaution has been taken at the sub-station here of the Davie Electric Membership Corporation.

If there are any trucks in the county that have not been registered, Mr. Tatum requests that it be done at once. Aid may be secured at the courthouse either from Sheriff Bowden or Patrolman Gibbs.

Mr. Tatum pointed out that the activities of the council in Davie would conform with the local needs. He not only urges the support of all citizens for the county against any possible sabotage but also said the council would welcome any suggestions from citizens in further providing any local precaution needed during war.

Governor's Report

Governor Broughton makes the following report on agriculture progress in this state during 1941:

Notwithstanding our unprecedented industrial growth, North Carolina still must be classified as predominantly an agricultural state. According to latest available figures, we rank third in total acreage in cultivation, and are not less than approximately third or fourth among the states in the Nation in the total value of our agricultural products. Gratifying improvement has been experienced in the price of those major crops in which North Carolina leads, and the farmers of our state are in better position than they have been in many years. Sound diversification is not simply being preached; it is being practiced. Approximately one hundred thousand farm families during this year pledged themselves to support the food and feed program that was initiated during the year, and a great majority of them have made good on these pledges. This has been one of the best feed years in our history. There has been a great increase during the year in the purchase and distribution of good livestock. There are more first class cattle in our state at the present time than ever before in our history. In a program inaugurated this spring, in cooperation with the Department of Agriculture and the Prison Department, a revolving fund of $25,000.00 was established for the purpose of pure bred livestock in the cattle-grazing counties of the West and the distribution of this cattle on virtually cost basis to the farmers in the East. Under this plan nearly 1,000 high grade cows, steers, bulls and heifers have been acquired by Eastern North Carolina farmers. While the operation was not intended as a money-making plan, it has been soundly handled and has shown a net profit of $900.00 for the year. The plan will be continued and enlarged in its scope during the coming year. The effort is to make pure bred, high grade cattle available to small farmers throughout the state.

The General Assembly of 1941 enacted a broad program of progressive legislation beneficial to agriculture. It has been hailed by agricultural leaders and farmers generally throughout the state as the most comprehensive and progressive program ever enacted in the state. The services of the experiment station, the extension service and of the Department of Agriculture were broadly expanded and improved under this program. For the first time in our history an adequate marketing system was set up. These enactments are now in successful operation. The influence of the new enactments is being felt by farmers in every section of North Carolina.

Good Agricultural Outlook

The Agriculture Department announced a favorable economic outlook for agriculture in 1942 despite entry of the U. S. into war, due to the expanding war effort and prospective accompanying rise in industrial activity, employment and wages. Agriculture Secretary Wickard said 1942 production goals call for more milk, eggs, pork, beef, canned vegetables, peanuts and soybeans, and a cut in production of wheat, cotton and tobacco. Mr. Wickard also said the millionth ton of American food shipped to Great Britain under the lend-lease system has arrived safely.

Check Farm Equipment

Since agriculture is responding so eagerly to the war call there will be a lot of extra work put upon farm machinery and equipment. So there comes the suggestion for using this winter as a time to repair and recondition farm machinery that it will be ready for the coming demands for heavy duty. The manufacturers of farm machinery expect to be able to have those needed parts of steel at hand, but you can't tell what spring will bring and you may find that delivery on orders will be difficult to fill. Farmers have already been warned that new machines and equipment for the coming year is to be curtailed, so this idea of spending winter checking over the farm equipment and being ready for the farm battle front is a sensible one our readers will agree.

Watch For Colds

With the increased amount of work and the number of people who are engaged in it, the usual warning at this season regarding common colds, should mean something. Some colds cause a greater loss of time from work and school than any other ailment, the warning against them should be of importance. There are a few general rules that can be followed that might help in preventing them. A cold can persist in hanging on and becoming severe in its nature when you find your home treatment has failed. Then consult your physician. Remember that during times like today an influenza epidemic is very apt to occur and such a prediction has already been made for this winter. At the first sign that you have a cold, watch your diet by eating light, nourishing food and drinking plenty of water and fruit juices. Stay away from folks who have colds. If you are especially run down you are more apt to catch cold so get plenty of rest. Health officials suggest the way to build up the system against colds is to include milk, eggs, fruits and yellow vegetables on your diet. So go to it—and stay well!

Boss Jones was asking old Uncle Joe how were the boll weevils in his cotton. "Lor', Boss, dey's et all dat cotton up." "Well, that's too bad, Joe, but you will get your parity check." "Nawuh, Boss, when I went to de mail box dis mawnin' dey was a boll weevil sittin' in dare. I ask him what wuz he doin'?" He say, "I'm waitin' fer de parity check, sa'!"

Highlights Of The Sunday School Lesson

"The Sunday School lesson for January 4 is, 'The Life of Christ: Studies in the Synoptic Gospels.' (Matthew 1, 1-17; Mark 1, 1-14; Luke 1, 1-4; Acts 1, 1-5)."

There are a greater number of Sunday School teachers and officers in the United States and Canada than there are soldiers in the armies of both countries. These more than two million men and women are all volunteers, doing difficult work tirelessly, week after week, throughout the years, animated by motives even higher than patriotism. They constitute the largest and most effective "social service" group in the land. This volunteer Christian army motivated by ideals of loyalty to Jesus Christ, are one of the shaping forces of the nation. Their loyalty to Christian teachings is a major antidote to the various "isms"—of which materialism is perhaps the worst—that threaten to poison our civilization. This week they begin, as a course of six months' lessons upon the Life of Christ, as portrayed in the first three Gospels; called "the Synoptic Gospels" because they deal chiefly with the same body of facts. The Fourth Gospel, written later, is more in the nature of a spiritual interpretation of the Life of Jesus.

Three Men: Three Viewpoints. Oldest and shortest of the three Gospels is that written by Mark, the romantic figure of the young man who, as Paul's companion, fell down and then came back. The date was between 65 and 70 A. D. He got his facts mostly from Peter; so that his Gospel of Peter. The other two synoptists made use of Mark's earlier book.

It has been conjectured that Mark was the son of the woman who provided the "large upper room" for Jesus and His disciples; and that he himself was the young man who had fled from the Garden of Gethsemane, leaving his garments in the clutching hands of the soldiers. If so, Mark had a first-hand knowledge of Jesus. Mostly, though, he reported the testimony of Peter. His narrative is clear cut, factual and objective; a series of memoirs, rather than a symmetrical biography.

Another of the Gospels was written by a man who had been reclaimed by Jesus; and of the three synoptists the only one who was an apostle. Matthew was a renegade Jew, an outcast, a grafting tax-collector, who had apparently grown rich out of his nefarious calling. He wrote his story of the Jews. He frequently quotes the Old Testament, and he stresses the Messianic hope. He begins the genealogy of Jesus with Abraham; whereas Luke, with his more universal approach, begins with Adam. Matthew dwelt predominantly upon the teachings of Jesus, whereas Mark confined himself more largely to events. Matthew more fully tells of his own conversion in a single verse, and omits all mention of the feast which he gave for Jesus.

The only scholar and trained historian of the three was Luke, the cultured Greek physician, who based his gospel and the Acts upon careful research. In the generation that had elapsed between the death of Jesus and the records of the evangelists, the Story of the Life had been told by eye-witnesses, or by those who had heard them; and there were doubtless many fragmentary writings afloat. With were also presented. Mr. Sanford told of the building of the lodge hall and how the investment had well been justified through the years.

Jacob Stewart and H. C. Meroney, the only two members who have been continuously associated with the lodge for more than 50 years, were given special recognition.

D. C. Rankin, new lodge master, told the audience that good Masons were good citizens and that as such were taking their part in keeping America free, a concept both of the citizens at large and tenets of the Masonic order.

Rev. H. C. Sprinkle, the newest member of the lodge, made the principal address of the evening. He not only emphasized the necessity of lodge members aiding their country in the war but also of helping to inculcate the doctrines of Christianity and Masonry in winning the peace: justice, liberty, love of fellow man, dignity of the individual and trust in God.

Members of the dinner committee of the Eastern Star were Mrs. Roy Holthouse and Mrs. P. G. Brown, co-chairmen, Mesdames Rena Sheek, Z. N. Anderson, H. C. PROJECTS

Four-H Club boys of Buncombe County have started 13 Hereford and Aberdeen Angus calves on feed as projects for 1942, reports C. Y. Tilson, farm agent of the N. C. State College Extension Service.

FARM MACHINERY REPAIRS

According to the farm equipment industry the present plan for allocating raw materials will permit the manufacture of only 73 percent of the equipment desired by the U. S. Department of Agriculture to be absolutely necessary. The farm equipment industry has been operating this year at about 120 to 140 percent of last year. If, according to present plans, it is forced to cut down to 80 percent of last year, some manufacturers will be able to produce little more than repairs.

Faced with this machinery shortage, Secretary Wickard is launching a nation-wide farm machinery repair drive. Each farmer will be urged to (1) check his machinery, (2) order necessary parts from dealers, and (3) notify his county defense board if parts cannot be obtained. Every effort will be made to keep the wheels turning on much machinery that normally would be discarded in 1942.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture is also urging all farmers to sell their scrap metal for use in defense production. Farm agents and county defense boards will give farmers all possible assistance and information, including estimates of prevailing prices for scrap.

PLENTY

The United States food industry is in a position today not only to meet wartime needs of its own citizens and armed forces, but can continue feeding its allies as well.

The War Department has sent a memorandum to commanding generals regarding settlement of claims resulting to farms and crops from the recent maneuvers.

MARYLAND
Maryland has been selected by the Bureau of Industrial Conservation of the OPM for launching its program to increase salvage of waste paper, rags, scrap metal, and rubber.

FARM MACHINERY REPAIRS

According to the farm equipment industry the present plan for adopting raw materials will permit the manufacture of only 73 percent of the equipment necessary. The farm equipment industry has been operating this year at about 120 to 140 percent of last year. If, according to present plans, it is forced to cut down to 80 percent of last year, some manufacturers will be able to produce little more than repairs.

Faced with this machinery shortage, Secretary Wickard is launching a nation-wide farm machinery repair drive. Each farmer will be urged to (1) check his machinery, (2) order necessary parts from dealers, and (3) notify his county defense board if parts cannot be obtained. Every effort will be made to keep the wheels turning on much machinery that normally would be discarded in 1942.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture is also urging all farmers to sell their scrap metal for use in defense production. Farm agents and county defense boards will give farmers all possible assistance and information, including estimates of prevailing prices for scrap.

PLENTY

The United States feed industry is in a position today not only to meet wartime needs of its own citizens and armed forces, but can continue feeding its allies as well.

The War Department has sent a memorandum to commanding generals regarding settlement of claims resulting to farms and crops from the recent maneuvers.

DAVIE SCRAP METAL DRIVE OPENS JAN. 14

DEALERS CAN SUPPLY ENOUGH PARTS NOW

U. S. WAR PLANS ARE STUPENDOUS

In a Tuesday speech on the state of the nation, President Roosevelt outlined the war program for this country necessary to win the war. The size of the program caused legislators to gasp and applaud. Largest ever attempted by this or any other nation, industrial leaders, including Henry Ford, said it could be done.

Here are the important details in the program:
This year 60,000 planes; next year 125,000.
This year 45,000 tanks; next year 75,000.
This year 20,000 aircraft guns; next year 35,000.
This year 3,000,000 tons of shipping; next year 10,000,000.

COST
The cost of the program this year is estimated at 56 billion dollars, more than of the estimated national income, averaging $427.80 for each man, woman and child in this country. At present we are spending 15 percent of the national income on national defense.

The program will require 15 million workers; at present there are engaged about 5,200,000 on defense work.

EXPEDITIONARY FORCES
The President said it would be necessary to carry the war to the enemy, indicating that, unlike the last war when there was only one American expeditionary force, this time there will be many. Some forces will be defensive, some offensive. They will be stationed throughout the world wherever needed.

WHEN WAR WILL END
The President said the war would end "just as soon as we make it end—by our combined efforts, our combined determination to fight through until the end—the end of militarism in Germany, Italy and Japan."

Henry Ford said it might be possible to end the war in 1943 if war production meets the President's program. Some war analysts agree that the war may end in 1943 or 1944; if production lags, not before 1946.

The President said production must not be only "slightly superior" but so overwhelming that the Axis nations can never hope to catch up with it. Roughly, the program means more than doubling present airplane production this year; building 8 times as many ships.

The President said the war would be long, hard, costly, bloody; that it would mean more taxes and bonds; that we had already tasted defeat and would meet more setbacks; that it means dislocation of lives and occupations of millions.

PEACE
The President said the world was too small to provide living room for Hitler and God; that Hitler has substituted the Bible and Cross of Mercy for "Mein Kampf," the swastika and naked sword.

The President said this country was fighting complete destruction of the war lords and their militarism; fighting for freedom of speech, freedom of religion, freedom from want and freedom from fear everywhere in the world.

The President also said that this country was determined not only to "win the war but also to maintain the security of the peace that will follow." This latter phrase implies not only armies of occupation after the war but some kind of a league of nations that has the power to enforce peace.

OTHER WAR NEWS

The American Philippine army is fighting a brave but losing battle, the resistance being to delay the Japanese as long as possible. Some observers think the highly fortified fort of Corregidor may be able to hold out for months. Some air reinforcements have reached the Philippines as bombers are reported to have sunk more than one destroyer and damaged other Jap vessels near Davao.

Russia continues her remarkable successes against the Nazis, reporting 572 villages recaptured and 10,000 Germans killed in the first five days of this year. It is significant that some of the war booty taken includes food and ammunition, not war materials that an army would leave behind in any withdrawal. Captured German prisoners had sufficient clothing to withstand any Russian winter of 20 below zero.

China scores her greatest success of the 4½ year war against Japan, surrounding 100,000 troops and causing heavy casualties in Japan's third failure to take Changsa.

The British continue to lose ground in Malaya and the Japs now have troops and an air base only a hour's flight from Singapore.

Following the Churchill-Roosevelt conferences 26 allied nations sign an agreement to prosecute the war jointly and not to make a separate peace. Unified war command also achieved. Gen. Wavell in charge of all Allied forces in the Far Pacific; Changkai-shek in China and some other areas.

NEW BUDGET

The President sent the new budget to Congress Wednesday. It called for expenditures of 59 billion, the largest budget of any country in the history of the world. The budget requests 9 billion in new taxes, anticipates a national debt of 110 billion. Increased taxes are expected from income taxes, corporation excess profit, estate and gift, excise taxes. A general sales tax is opposed.

Boy Scout Chairman

SCOUTS HOLD ANNUAL MEET

At the annual meeting of the Davie district of the Uwharrie council of Boy Scouts held last Friday night at the courthouse reports were heard of the year's work, plans made for the new year and officers elected.

RED CROSS TOTALS $464

Voluntary donations to the Davie chapter of the Red Cross for War Relief now total $464.68. It is reported by Dr. W. M. Long, chairman.

This amount falls far short of the $2,000 quota for the county. Some nearby counties such as Iredell, Surry, Caldwell and Davidson have already reached their quota and it is hoped that Davie will shortly reach hers. All donations are voluntary. See your local chairman or make your donation of any amount at any of the numerous places throughout the county where funds are gladly received and turned over to the county chairman's office. Or make your contribution directly at Dr. Long's office.

Employees of C. C. Sanford Sons Co. and of Sanford Motor Co. have donated 100 percent. Officials of the concerns had previously reported donations of $50 each and the total for the entire organizations is $173.25.

W. J. Johnson department store also reports further donations, making a total donation for the store to date of $152.25.

You Can Get Cash For Your Scrap Iron, Steel

The Agricultural Workers Council of Davie county has made arrangements to buy all scrap iron and steel in the county. This metal is badly needed by the government.

Everybody, especially farmers, is asked to bring their scrap metals to the Davie Brick & Coal Co. between Jan. 14 and 24 inclusive.

The metal will be bought for cash, 45 cents per 100 pounds, by Swartz & Co., licensed junk dealers of Salisbury. Sam Stonestreet at the Davie Brick & Coal Co. will act as agent for the Salisbury concern, buy the metal and pay for it. All of the metal must be at least 3/16 of an inch thick.

A nationwide campaign for the collection of scrap metal is now being put on to help win the war and help furnish raw materials for the stupendous war program.

Look around the house, barns, attics for all of the scrap metal you can find. It is worth nearly half a cent per pound. Bring the metal to Mr. Stonestreet between Jan. 14 and 24.

The Agricultural Workers Council is composed of the extension service, farm security workers, soil conservation service personnel and vocational agriculture teachers. D. C. Rankin, county agent, is chairman and his office will give you any additional information you wish.

COTTON GINNED

There had been ginned in Davie county up to December 13, a total of 1,938 bales of cotton. To the same date a year ago, there had been ginned 3,128 bales. Despite the small crop in 1941, farmers received higher prices for the 1941 crop than for that produced in 1940.

HOMES

The county welfare department is interested in locating homes in which children in need of foster home care can be boarded, as well as boarding homes for aged people who receive Old Age Assistance but do not have anyone with whom they can live. Anybody interested in boarding either children or aged persons are asked to get in touch with the welfare department.

Air Raid Warden

T. C. PEGRAM

BLACKOUT AT COOLEEMEE

Cooleemee will have a practice blackout soon and T. C. Pegram, superintendent of the Edwin Cotton Mills, has been chosen air raid warden to have charge of the preparations.

Mr. Pegram attended a meeting in Charlotte last Friday where details of the blackout for all towns in the Charlotte district which embraces Cooleemee were discussed.

There is a huge amount of work to be done in preparing for a blackout if actual war conditions are simulated, Mr. Pegram said.

"I expect to have between 30 and 40 assistants to aid in the work," he said. "Members of the local lodge of the P. O. S. of A., Boy Scouts and lay Red Cross workers in first aid will constitute the main assistants."

"All light switches in the Cooleemee district will be pulled—in the mill, the homes, the business houses. Every citizen must be accounted for before and after the raid. First aid units must function. People must know what to do during an air raid."

The blackouts are under the direction of U. S. Army officials of Tampa, Fla., the Third Interceptor Command.

Mocksville has been placed in the Statesville district by army officials.

The Charlotte meeting was under the direction of Mr. Palmer, Charlotte fire chief who is air warden for the district, and a representative of the civilian defense.

The date for the blackout has not been announced.

PLANNING ALLIED STRATEGY IN THE WHITE HOUSE

Prime Minister Winston Churchill of Great Britain and President Roosevelt seem in high spirits as they meet in the White House. From their conferences resulted a united war effort and pledge of no separate peace by 26 nations.

Next week, the week of Jan. 12-17, every farmer in Davie is asked to check over every machine on his farm, examine for worn parts, see what will be needed and either buy the needed parts or place his orders with his farm machinery dealer.

The request is made by the Agricultural Workers Council of the county, a part of the nationwide campaign to get all farmers to take care of their farm machinery needs for 1942 now instead of later.

It is pointed out that there will be a greater demand for food in 1942 and that farmers must produce more with fewer men. All of the existing farm machinery will be badly needed and the government has undertaken to supply enough metal to keep all machinery in repair.

At present all of the Davie county farm machinery dealers have a sufficient supply of parts to take care of all needed repairs.

Departure of young men into military service and war industries will place a hard strain on farm labor that machinery will help to relieve. A farm machine that has all of the needed parts, is properly lubricated and correctly adjusted is ready to do a big job: provide food for the armed forces and civilian population. Now is the time to be prepared, it is pointed out.

Davie Tire Board Announces Rules

S. M. Oll, P. S. Young and P. B. Blackwelder were named the tire rationing board for the county.

Mr. Oll said that B. I. Smith, chief of police of Mocksville had been appointed tire inspector for Mocksville and Dick Everhardt for Cooleemee.

The first step in getting a new tire is to get an application from a tire dealer. The inspectors then inspect the tire and report whether the tire is unfit for further use or can be re-capped. The result is then turned over to the tire rationing board for final decision.

The county ration quota on new auto tires for the month of January allows Davie County only 14 tires for passenger cars, motorcycles and light trucks, with 22 tires for trucks and buses. Only 12 inner tubes for passenger cars and 18 tubes for trucks and buses can be sold in this county during the month of January.

JAPAN WILL BE BOMBED WHEN PROPER TIME COMES

NEW YORK. — When the time comes, American bombing attacks will be launched against Japan and Japanese-held areas in the Far East in accordance with carefully drawn plans.

These plans are, of course, secret. Every contingency is being counted on—even if the Japanese were to strike Singapore, Britain's Far Eastern naval bastion, the Philippines and the islands of the Dutch East Indies.

Despite the necessary secrecy of this strategy, it is possible to draw some conclusion about points from which Japan and its possessions may be bombed and see why there may be some delay before the United States launches big-scale air attacks.

Since the crux of the problem of carrying on a successful air war against Japan is bridging the tremendous distances separating continental America from the Far East, it is going to take to get the American offensive organized.

More planes, pilots, navigators, mechanics and radiomen must be shipped or flown to the Far East. New bases of operation must, in some instances, be established. Long lines of communication from our factories and training fields must be set up and put into smooth operation.

What Points
From what points will the United States strike?

The most logical base is Vladivostok, at the tip of a narrow strip of land abutting Japanese-dominated Manchukuo, the former Chinese province of Manchuria.

But Vladivostok is in Soviet Russia, not at war with Japan. Only 660 air miles from Tokyo's vital war industries—legitimate military targets—it will remain closed to American planes bound for assaults on Japan unless Russia elects to open a second front or the Japanese themselves open the attack.

While Vladivostok would be an ideal operating base, others of importance exist. American airmen must gradually blast their way toward actual assaults on the Japanese seat of empire. Air armies, like ground armies, move forward by a process of victory and absorption.

Batavia, Java, the seat of resistance in the Dutch East Indies to Japanese aggression, is only 630 air miles from the front where the British are fighting to oust the enemy from the Malay peninsula.

American-made planes with Dutch pilots at the controls already are taking a toll of Japanese ships, indispensable to both offensive and defensive action.

Philippine airfields are another important base of operations if they can be defended. They are only 640 miles or less from Japanese-held Hongkong, which unquestionably is being furnished as an air and naval base for Japanese operations to the south and south-east.

And still another base is the Chinese mainland. These glimmers of N. C. State College, where the Japanese are pushing their way into the mainland, are being used to install home water systems.

Long-range bombers based here easily can strike at French Indo-China, jumping off a point for the Japanese push through Thailand and on into Malaya.

F. D. R.'s SON GETS HIS WINGS

On completion of his course at Randolph Field, Tex., the West Point of the Air, Captain Elliott Roosevelt (left), son of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, has his wings pinned on by Brig. Gen. Hubert R. Harmon. A reserve officer on active duty with the Air Corps, Captain Roosevelt was assigned by the War Department to the Sixth Reconnaissance Squadron at Muroc, Cal.

A successful and far-flung offensive by China and its Allies against troops, which for more than four years have made it a battleground, would create new bombing bases closer to Canton, Shanghai and Japan itself.

Singapore is not to be overlooked. It can maintain contact for supplies with Manila, 1,500 miles away by air, and Singapore-based bombers can strike at Japanese lines of communication to French Indo-China.

Australia can become the supply depot and departure point for vast air operations against Japanese expeditionary forces. It would be no trick to fly bombers the 1,950 miles from Port Darwin to Manila or the 1,650 miles to Batavia.

Carrying on a successful air war against Japan is to quote Stephen Early, white house secretary, a matter of time on account of the distances involved.

United States to the Philippines, 7,500 miles as the crow flies via Hawaii, and much longer by a safe convoy route.

United States to Brisbane, Australia, 6,800 miles. United States to airports in India via South America, the Belgian Congo and Egypt, 14,000 miles.

Dutch Harbor, Alaska, in the Aleutians to military targets in Japan, almost 3,000 miles.

The problems of time and distance are vast but not insurmountable, and listed here are not all the cards in the deck of strategy. Japanese planes based on carriers attacked Pearl Harbor. It is reasonable to assume the United States navy can repay that visit in the same way.

SYSTEMS

Following a visit of H. M. Ellis, extension agricultural engineer of N. C. State College, to several Warren County farms, where the Japanese are pushing their way into the mainland, are being used to install home water systems.

It took Wake Island to show us why they use the phrase, "tell it to the marines."

PANAMA PREPARES FOR AIR RAIDS

While two sentries stand guard, a worker is shown piling sand bags around the sentry box to protect the men from possible flying shrapnel, at an important road junction near the strategic Panama Canal. The armed forces on guard at the Canal Zone are ready for any emergency.

26 ALLIED NATIONS SIGN PACT AGAINST AXIS

AGREE ON NO SEPARATE PEACE

Twenty-six nations, including the U. S., Britain, Russia and China, signed an agreement pledging their military and economic resources in a final fight against the Axis and banning any separate peace. The nations also subscribed to "a common program of purposes and principles" embodied in the Roosevelt-Churchill "Atlantic Charter."

The signatories of the declaration include Australia, Belgium, Canada, Costa Rica, Cuba, the Dominican Republic, Czechoslovakia, Salvador, Greece, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, India, Luxembourg, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Nicaragua, Norway, Panama, Poland, South Africa and Yugoslavia. The declaration may, it said, be "adhered to by other nations which are, or which may be, rendering material assistance and contributions to the struggle for victory over Hitlerism."

The War Front
The Navy said it had evacuated Cavite and the Army announced Japanese troops entered Manila which earlier in the week had been declared an open city by General MacArthur, commanding the U. S. Forces in the Far East. Before entry of the Japanese, American and Philippine troops were withdrawn and all defense installations removed or destroyed.

General MacArthur earlier reported the enemy had "mercilessly bombed" churches, hospitals, convents and schools and other civilian installations in Manila after it was declared an open city, whereas they had only attempted bombing military installations previously. The President sent a message to the Philippine Islands pledging that their "freedom shall be redeemed and their independence established and protected."

Production For War
OPM reported $78,212,000,000 has been authorized for war purposes. The President told a press conference that although present spending is at the rate of 27 percent of the estimated 1942 national income of $100,000,000,000 production will be stepped up so that by next July 1 the nation will be spending at the rate of $50,000,000,000 a year—or half the national income.

Asked about reports that Canadian, British and U. S. production would be pooled, resulting virtually in the end of the Lend-Lease program as such, the President said that military resources have been pooled since the Japanese attack. The matter of repayment would be adjusted, he said, and would largely depend on where the articles sent other nations were used.

Ships
The Maritime Commission said the ship-a-day goal in launchings of new ships has been reached and by the second quarter of 1942 delivery should reach two ships a day. The Commission took over 16 Finnish ships that have been tied up in U. S. ports. The Navy announced launching of a destroyer, a floating workshop and a minesweeper, and said keels were laid for two more destroyers. The Navy also said it is converting the French liner Normandie into an auxiliary.

Labor Supply and Training
President Roosevelt denounced as "stupid" and "unjust" the increasing discharges of loyal, efficient workers in American industries "simply because they were born abroad or because they have foreign-sounding names." He said such unfair discharges endanger "the very trusts and disunity on which our enemies are counting."

OPM Associate Director Hillman announced almost 2,500,000 persons have been enrolled for training for war industry work since July 1, 1940. He asked vocational schools to expand their courses to permit use of all their facilities on a "round-the-clock" basis. Some war contractors are planning to employ as many new men in the next six months as they have in the last eighteen, he said.

Autos and Tires
The OPM banned all sale of new passenger automobiles and the SPAB approved an OPM plan to halt production of these vehicles "within a few weeks." The temporary ban on the retail sale, delivery, purchase, or lease of new passenger cars and of new light and heavy trucks will remain in effect until January 15, at which time a permanent rationing program will be put in effect.

OPM delegated to the Office of Price Administration authority to withhold all new tires except for essential health, safety and industrial services. OPA set up tire-rationing boards in each county of the nation and issued regulations providing no tire can be obtained even for "essential" users unless a local garageman appointed as inspector has certified the need, the local board has approved the applications and the number of tires sold in each county is within the county quota. New tires were defined as those used less than 1,000 miles. No new restrictions were placed on the sale of retreaded or recapped tires.

Prices
Price Administrator Henderson set maximum manufacturers' prices for household cooking and heating stoves and for cigarettes, and issued a temporary schedule for rugs and carpets. He sent a letter to all wholesalers and retailers of sugar stating the responsibility for keeping stable the price of sugar now rests with the nation's retailers. He set top prices for 39 grades of imported green coffee, and revised previous schedules for some 1,800 fats and oils, as well as for Douglas fir doors, paperboard and cotton goods.

Opportunities For War Service
The War Department announced it will employ American-born civilian pilots between 21 and 40 to ferry aircraft from U. S. factories to nations receiving Lend-Lease aid. The Air Corps will train a limited number of men 20 to 27 years old in meteorology. Both groups may receive Reserve commissions. Third and fourth-year medical cultural commodities are at a high level with record production of many items. The general level of prices received by farmers during the month ended December 15 was 42 points above the corresponding period last year. OPM granted farm equipment manufacturers 83 percent of materials used in 1940 for new machinery and 150 percent of 1940 materials to produce spare parts.

China Looks Ahead

Time was when the Chinese soldier was despised by his neighbors because to the peace-loving Chinese soldiering was not an honorable sort of business. The war lords couldn't get many volunteers to fight in battle and consequently hired the soldiers as a purely business proposition. All of this has changed in today's China where upon the shoulders of her soldiers China is making plans to place the heavy burden of reconstruction after the war.

Chinese soldiers plant small vegetable gardens often quite close to their army camp with often each army unit keeping two pigs and sometimes a goat to vary the food supply. When they are transferred they pass their goods on to the neighbors. Each officer and man in the Chinese army spends at least two hours a week in what they term "labor service" which is helping build roads, dig wells, make parks and playgrounds, build houses, dredge rivers and work in the fields. They can also learn a trade while being in the army and under the guidance of experienced workers.

China has difficulty in caring for her wounded soldiers. In the Chinese Red Cross there are only 481 doctors to care for four million men. But they are busily establishing training schools where in three months men can obtain basic medical knowledge to treat common ailments. These schools are helping solve a real problem.

For a long number of years China has been struggling to gain a foothold in bringing a backward nation into new being, building a new China and with this training offered the soldiers today, having them meet the people in a friendly and co-operative basis for work and training, China is heading for a reconstruction that will surely repay her for her great patience, courage and perseverance.

Restricted News

It was to be expected that there would be a soft pedal put on the publishing of news, that it would not remain unhampered and uncensored by the government during time of active warfare. This doesn't make a newspaperman happy but he realizes the necessity for a reasonable amount of government restraint. The public says give us the news full and free—the enemy learns what is going on and why "the easy way." If we will but regard censorship in wartime as a means of protecting the lives of our men and the safety of our military equipment, then not to censor the spilling of military information through the pages of the press is actually criminal. This field, that of printing the news, is not without its unwise and careless editors, and to trust them as a whole with the issuing of news at their own discretion and using their own judgment as their yardstick might permit the safety of our nation and its people to be gravely endangered.

As a subscriber mentions, we hope that the censorship will work with the same satisfaction here as it has in Great Britain. We wish to give the people the necessary news but not conflict with their liberties, for after all, that is one of the reasons for which we fight!

Censorship must not stop constructive criticism of the government, the issuing of social, political, economic and diplomatic services. To keep a restraining hand but not place a blot on the power in the American's freedom of his press.

We Need Them

Should commerce be shut off with the islands let us consider what would be the economic importance of loss of trade with the Philippines. The first three imports of importance to the United States are sugar, manila hemp and coconut products. The importance of the coconut oil is great enough that shutting it off would cause despair in the soap business since they depend upon this oil to make the lather. As a starter you might consider the amount of coconut that comes in butter substitutes, confections and explosives. Almost all of the coconut oil used here comes from the Philippines. Take the case of manila hemp. Since this makes the strongest rope and since rope is used in all the important industries, we would miss the loss of 90% of the manila rope coming from the Philippines. We might not be inflicted with such a hardship if we lost the 14% of sugar importation which was the amount used by the United States from the islands.

Franklin And Lee

Two famous Americans were born during this month, on January 17 and 19. First that of Benjamin Franklin, a scientist, inventor, and statesman, the second a military genius and a greatly renowned soldier. Franklin was like Lincoln in being a self-made man who reached the heights, a famous humorist and capable of exceptional tact. He took part in the drawing up of our Constitution and the issuing of the Declaration of Independence. Due to this fact he was a decided help in ironing out matters of state. All will remember his humorous remarks from "Poor Richard's Almanac."

Then rises the figure of Robert E. Lee, the great general of the Civil War, respected by the northland and beloved by the southern states. We have long past the bitterness that came with and followed the war and have rightly recognized the worth of those men who fought in a battle for a cause in which their heart told them they were right. Be it south or north, there is no boundary line in the naming of real Americans, especially such as Franklin and Lee.

We are approaching the time when a good test of character will be shown by managing to do without many of those things you have always taken for granted.

In the best society eligibility now refers to whether you can get an auto tire or not.

"DISTINGUISHED SERVICE CROSS"

Highlights Of The Sunday School Lesson

The Sunday School Lesson for January 11 is, "The Infancy and Boyhood of Jesus."—Luke 2:35-35, 39, 40.

When God wants to do something new and great for humanity, He starts with a baby.

Does this mean that an inscrutable Providence is preparing a new crop of human life, qualified and to dominate the different sort of world for which the nations are warring? Is our hope and help to be in the cradles of the race?

The Woman Who Was Worthy

Once, long ago, when God wanted to give the world a fresh start and a new opportunity, He sent His message to a little town in Galilee where dwelt a young maiden who had kept untarnished the fairest dreams of girlhood. Mary was ready for her great mission. For Gabriel told her that she, who knew not a man, was to be visited by the mysterious Holy Spirit and bear a Son. His name, given before birth, was to be Jesus, for He would save His people from their sins.

The modest maiden was over-awed; yet her fine spiritual qualities made her docile. She was the Lord's handmaiden. With a quiet courage that was heroic, knowing full well the slanders and evil gossip that awaited her, she accepted songfully the destiny that was laid upon her. Before we dwell upon the Child Jesus, we should remember Mary, and all the dreaming, spiritually-minded mothers since. Motherhood is the link between human greatness and the divine purpose.

By Way of a Babe

At two points mankind are equal—in the cradle and in the grave. There no artificial barriers run; all lines of distinction are non-existent. When God decided to reveal His greatest thought to the world, He chose a manger-crib, in the stable of an overcrowded khan. The art of the ages has loved to portray the Bethlehem Babe with a halo about His head, and the tiny body irradiating glory. Not so was the reality. The infant who tender hands laid in the manger's straw was just such a red and wrinkled baby as uncounted millions of mothers in all the world have welcomed. Theology stresses the uniqueness of Jesus; Scripture emphasizes His likeness to our ordinary humanity. All of mankind met on a level at the Christ Child's crib. Every mother's babe is sanctified by Mary's Infant Son.

It is symbolic that Jesus was born amidst the weary horses and donkeys—doubtless the only animals in the stable—and that He was crowded aside by the press of a turbulent life and time that found no room for Him in the inn. To the end of His life He was to know deprivation and hardship and loneliness, a sharer of the common lot of the burden-bearers of the world. He was born in the obscurest part of a public caravansary, and He was buried in a borrowed grave, after years of homeless wanderings. Is it any wonder that "the common people heard Him gladly," since He was so obviously one of themselves?

Childhood's Best Friend

This Bethlehem-born Boy never lost His sense of understanding of childhood, and His fellowship with little children, even after He became a busy, famous Teacher, they felt free to cling to His robe and to hold His hand—sometimes to the scandal of convention-encrusted adults.

The whole world of childhood has been the recipient of this spirit of Jesus. He knew, and we are learning after Him, that the child is more than an undeveloped adult; that he is a personality, and a potent factor in all the affairs of the world. The child's qualities, said Jesus, are characteristic of the Kingdom of God. Blessed are they who live in the radiance of surrounding childhood.

Jesus was born in one small town, and grew to maturity in another; the big city crucified Him. Both Bethlehem and Nazareth today and penitent Jerusalem, too, are crowded with lavish memorials of the Boy and the Man whom they never understood or appreciated in His lifetime.

A Small Town Boy

In the simplicity of small-town life, Jesus grew to maturity and into favor with God and man. Hill-girl Nazareth was an ideal place for the Boy. He did the conventional home chores, and He watched the imperial procession of cosmopolitan life pass Nazareth's doors, on the way from Damascus to Jerusalem and the port cities. He learned Joseph's trade as carpenter; and when Joseph to help the funds for infantile paralysis. About 400 attended last year and about $50 was netted for the fund.

One of the features of the event this year will be the March of Dimes campaign. Coin boxes will be placed at important points over the county and the Boy and Girl Scouts and the schools will aid in this feature of the fight against this dreaded disease.

In discussing the need of a campaign this year Mr. Holt said that the President had pointed out the fact that infantile paralysis broke out in some places last year near army camps and that the funds were available to combat it quickly. It was also pointed out that in the post-war period the money would be needed both to help children who were afflicted and carry on research.

Chairmen of the various sections of the county were announced by Mr. Holt: Mrs. Roy Holthouser, Mocksville, vice-chairman; Mrs. J. E. McNeely, and Mrs. Sam Carnes, Cooleen; Mrs. J. P. LeGrand, Mocksville; Mrs. Era Latham, Cana; Mrs. G. V. Greene, Fork; G. H. C. Shutt and Clint L. Dillon, Advance; Miss Vada Johnson, Farmington.

TOBACCO

Farmers of Wilson County have been busily engaged during the past few days in getting out tobacco flue wood and preparing tobacco plant beds, reports Assistant Farm Agent J. A. Marsh.

He doubtless succeeded to the responsibility for the family. Engrossed in these common ways, Jesus yet had a life apart, in communion with the Father whose will He had come to do. Who can understand the "long, long thoughts" of any boy; much less of this One who early knew Himself to be on the highest mission of all?

Unlike most of us, Jesus did not lose the fine qualities of childhood—its simplicity, its faith, its friendliness, its expectations—as He grew into maturity. Most of us do.

The Boy Jesus is forever the exemplar of the life that kept on growing to the greatest end.

"We the members of the boards of stewards of the Davie Methodist charge, representing six churches, and meeting in one body at Hardison church Dec. 28, do offer the following resolution:

"Whereas, much is being said about the reputed immoral conditions existing around our army camps, including illegal and legal liquors being dispensed, the transportation of many immoral women around these camps, with other infringement upon the rights of these boys by outside influence; and since many if not all of these boys are without instruction in the Japanese and some other languages of countries with which our nation is at war, and since many missionaries are being recalled from these countries who are conversant with those languages; there fore be it resolved;

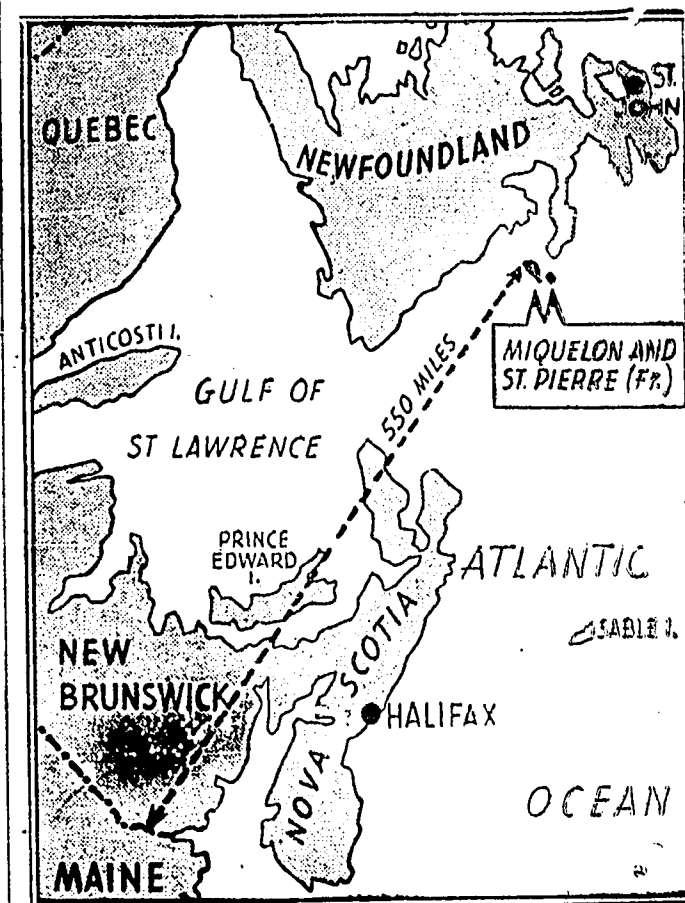

"That we appeal to our boards of missions to use their influence to the utmost, with our government, to have these returned missionaries cooperate with the chaplains of our army camps, to help offset the immoral influences above referred to, and also to teach our soldiers the rudiments of the languages with which they are conversant."

FARM QUESTIONS ARE ANSWERED

Question: What treatment is recommended to rid poultry of lice?

Answer: One of the best de-lousing products is sodium fluoride. This powder may be applied in any one of three ways, says T. T. Brown, Extension poultryman of State College: By the pinch method, by dusting, or by dipping. The dipping method is the most economical. One ounce of the commercial sodium fluoride is mixed with one gallon of water to make the dipping mixture. The water should be tepid. Hold the wings over the back and submerge the birds feet first until only the head remains above the solution. The feathers should be thoroughly ruffled to insure the fluid reaching the skin.

Question: How can beef be preserved on the farm?

Answer: The most popular method of preserving beef is by corning, says Mrs. Cornelia C. Morris, Extension specialist in food conservation and marketing. Cut the meat in five or six pound chunks and rub with salt. Pack the pieces in a clean vessel of hardwood or stone ware and cover with a brine made of one and one-half pounds of salt, one ounce of saltpetre, one-quarter pound of sugar or syrup, and one gallon of pure water. Leave the meat in this pickle for about two weeks and then smoke lightly to improve the flavor.

Question: What is the AAA soil building payment for turning under a green manure crop?

Answer: Under the 1942 Agricultural Conservation Program, one unit (or $1.50) is offered toward your soil building goal for turning or disking a good growth of crimson clover, vetch, Austrian winter peas, soybeans, cowpeas, velvet beans, rye, fall seeded oats or barley, wheat on a non-wheat-allotment farm or mixtures of these crops.

Question: Is there any AAA soil building payment for establishing a permanent pasture?

Answer: Yes. E. Y. Floyd, AAA administrative assistant of State College, says two units ($3.00) is offered for the establishment of a permanent pasture. However, a sufficient pasture mixture must be sown on land properly prepared, including the application of sufficient phosphate, potash and liming materials, where necessary, to assure a good stand. The pasture mixture must contain a full seeding of legumes and grasses (other than timothy and redbud).

Question: Should I select eggs of some definite weight for hatching purposes?

Answer: Best results are usually obtained from eggs that weigh 24 ounces to the dozen, says C. Parrish, Extension poultryman of N. C. State College. In addition to the weight, hatching eggs should be clean, fresh, well-formed, of good shell texture, and of a color conforming to the requirements of the breed. Eggs that are round, small, short, thin-shelled, or those that have ridges around them, should be

Question: How should I care for forest tree seedlings received from the nursery?

Answer: Seedling trees are delicate and require good attention, says R. W. Graeber, Extension forester of State College. Seedlings arrive from the nursery packed in wet moss. The roots must be kept moist at all times. It is best to plant the trees as soon as they are received. However, if it is necessary to keep them for a few days, they should be heeled-in in light, well-drained soil. To do this, dig a trench break bundles, spread trees in the trench, and cover roots and part of the stems and pack firmly. Keep the soil moist until time to plant the trees.

News Chief

In Columbia network's New York headquarters, Paul White, news chief, directs the dissemination of war news—keeps in 24-hour contact with CBS reporters from Russia to Malaya.

Let's Learn From Tilford Moots!

Do you remember Abe Martin? Well, if you do, that sort of dates you because it has been several years since that homely rural philosopher, along with Will Rogers, passed on. Anyhow Abe Martin was almost as popular as Will Rogers 20 years ago and one remark he made then we have never forgotten. It ran like this:

"Tilford Moots says he is going to quit farmin'. World wars come too far apart to make it pay!"

Now, good folks, what we wish to say is this: Let's learn a lesson from Tilford Moots. Let's realize that a world war does present money-making opportunities such as we may never have again. Let's make all we can while we can. For once, luck has favored Southern farmers. Horrible as war is for humanity as a whole, it does offer the South a truly wonderful and unexpected chance to make the inevitable shift from crops farming to crops-plus-livestock. We should indeed seize this opportunity and work as we have never worked before to meet the nation's demand for more feed and food.

Furthermore, let's not only try to make money while we can but to save money while we can. The last time there was a world war, too many farmers spent money like drunken sailors. With cotton selling at 40 cents a pound, they just couldn't believe that 10-cents cotton would ever come again. "Southern farmers seem to have a genius for letting money slip through their fingers without any of it sticking," old Dr. Knapp used to say. So it was in World-War-I, and when deflation came, too many had made no preparation for it.

CENSUS TO HELP DEFENSE EFFORT

RALEIGH. — North Carolina's 1942 census, to be taken by the U. S. and State Department of Agriculture during January, will be used throughout the State as an accurate compilation of agricultural information "essential in planning food for defense programs."

"Cooperation of farmers in furnishing tax lists with farm statistics and other information for the census is a patriotic duty that will yield money and satisfaction dividends," Farm Census Supervisor W. T. Garriss of the State Department of Agriculture, said today.

Information farmers will furnish the tax lists during the next forty days will include data on acreage, livestock, farm machinery, population and poultry. "North Carolina is the only Southern State conducting a farm census and as a result the agricultural leadership is better prepared today to cooperate in the 'food for victory' campaign and in the defense movements," Garriss emphasized.

"Farmers will volunteer agricultural information at tax listing time and the tax lister will forward county summaries to the Department for publication and distribution to agricultural agencies and leaders, particularly those working with the 'food for defense' programs," he added. "The names of farmers giving farm census information will be regarded as confidential."

Every county in the State will participate in the 1942 farm census which has been conducted for 25 years.

DAVE THIRD IN INLISTMENTS IN U. S. NAVY IN DECEMBER

Since the advent of the declaration of war, the Navy Recruiting Station in Salisbury, headquarters for this district, state that they have accepted for enlistment in the Navy and Naval Reserve a total of 165 young men during December. Volunteers all! Of this total amount, Davie county placed 3rd among eleven counties by contributing 26 young patriots. In these eleven Northeastern counties, of which Salisbury is the enlistment center, the following number of applications and enlistments were effected during December:

Rowan 53, Iredell 35, Davie 26, Davidson 21, Catawba 19, Alexander 5, Wilkes 3, Surry 2, Yadkin 1, Ashe 0, Alleghany 0.

The apparent lack of a patriotic response in the northern counties may be partly due to the greater distance to Salisbury and partly due to misinformation. The latter fault is amended herewith: Up till the present time, the Navy does not participate in a draft program. Young men between the ages of 17 and 35 may be accepted and may choose their own date of departure. Volunteers for either the Navy or the Naval Reserve can be accepted at once and receive all the benefits of the Navy's trade training program. Draft selectees may also be accepted and those who have already received their physical examination and have been placed in the Class 1-A group, may be enlisted in the Navy only with the written consent and approval of their local draft board. Married men without children may be enlisted with the written consent of their wives.

List of men from Cooleemee enlisted in Navy through Salisbury Recruiting Station in month of December, 1941:

Albert T. Trexler, Glenn E. Trexler, James E. Benson, William Blalock, Edward Carter, Jr., Giles A. Myers, Hubert F. Shof, Charles Jordan, Charles E. Nall, John A. Messick.

In addition to the above, Eugene Bailey, of Cooleemee, enlisted in the Navy in Greensboro during the month of December.

ARMY WILL GET 1,300,000 MEN BY NEW DRAFT

Officials estimated that 1,300,000 men would be made immediately available for the armed services by the February 16 registration of those aged 20 to 44, inclusive, who are not already on selective service rolls.

President Roosevelt's proclamation Monday setting the mid-February date for listing of unregistered men subject to combat duty under the new selective service law will affect about 9,000,000 men.

Officials said it was expected that this group would include the following class 1-A men, available for immediate call to duty:

20-year-olds, 600,000; 21-year-olds (who have reached that age since the last registration), 300,000; 36-to 44-year-olds, 400,000. 915,000 IN RESERVOIR

Army expansion plans are military secrets since the start of the war. However, the last official word was that some 915,000 men in the presently registered 21-35 group would be called before the army dipped into the new registrants.

With over 1,800,000 men already in the army, the new registration will place the nation in position to put over 4,000,000 men under arms without calling any classes under 1-A and leaving out of account any men under 20 who may be accepted as volunteers.

The new selective service act provides for registration of all citizens and most aliens aged 18 to 64 inclusive, although only those aged 20 to 44, inclusive, are subject to combat duty.

Mr. Roosevelt's proclamation made no mention of those outside the 20-44 group.

USE EXISTING MACHINERY
In the technical language of the proclamation, the February 16 registration order applies to men born on or after February 17, 1897, and on or before December 31, 1921. The existing machinery will be used.

Registration, between the hours of 7 a. m. and 9 p. m. (local time), is to take place in the United States, Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico.

Selective service headquarters is preparing a new questionnaire which will develop more information on skills than does that used heretofore. The purpose is to learn what special abilities the registrants have with an eye to use in war industries or home defense of some are not inducted into the armed services.

SUMMARY OF WAR NEWS

The weekly summary of war news attempts to do two things: give you the highlights of important events in this war around the globe and interpret major developments.—Editor's Note.

Perhaps the outstanding war news of the week insofar as this country is concerned was the appointment by President Roosevelt of Donald Nelson as one-man boss of all war procurement and production in the United States. Mr. Nelson, formerly an executive with Sears, Roebuck, has been with the government since July, 1940, and his appointment is welcomed by everybody as a necessary step to speed war output.

General MacArthur and his army in the Philippines are making a remarkable stand against superior forces and some observers think he will be able to hold out for a considerable time. His principal job is to hold as many Japanese as possible busy until the Allies can reinforce Singapore and the Dutch East Indies.

The British continue to lose ground in Malaya. The Japs have taken Kuala Lumpur, capital of the Federated Malaya states an important rubber center. They are only 150 miles from Singapore, close enough now to launch daylight air raids which are beginning to be intense.

The Japs have also taken two Dutch islands in the East Indies.

More planes are badly needed for the defense of Singapore and the Netherlands East Indies and some have already arrived. Gen Wavell has arrived in the Dutch East Indies and started counter attacks.

In Libya the British continue to pursue the fleeing Germans and a pitched battle is expected along the road from El Aghela to Marada where the Germans have stopped.

Russia continues her remarkable drive against the Nazis and even the latter admitted a shortage of men to defend certain vital positions. Leningrad sees food trains again entering the city, signifying that the siege is lifted.

Where will Hitler strike next? Many observers think that it will be in the Mediterranean. Troop concentrations are reported in Crete and Greece and the island of Malta, which blocks the way of Nazi troops to Africa, is being bombed.

Where is the U. S. fleet? Navy Secretary Knox did not say where it was but he did say it was not idle. A highly significant statement by Knox was that Hitler was the first enemy this country had to lick and that Japan could easily follow. This means that the Allied strategy is not to allow heavy reinforcements to be drawn into the Pacific by Japan and that we may reasonably expect to suffer further losses to the Japs until the right time comes for retaliation. Berlin claims 21,000 tons sunk in Atlantic convoy.

The O. P. M. extended the ban on sale of new cars and trucks to from Jan. 15 to Feb. 2. After that they will be rationed.

Director Hershey of the selective service said that married men with one child would continue to be deferred for military service until an army of 7 to 8 million men had been raised.

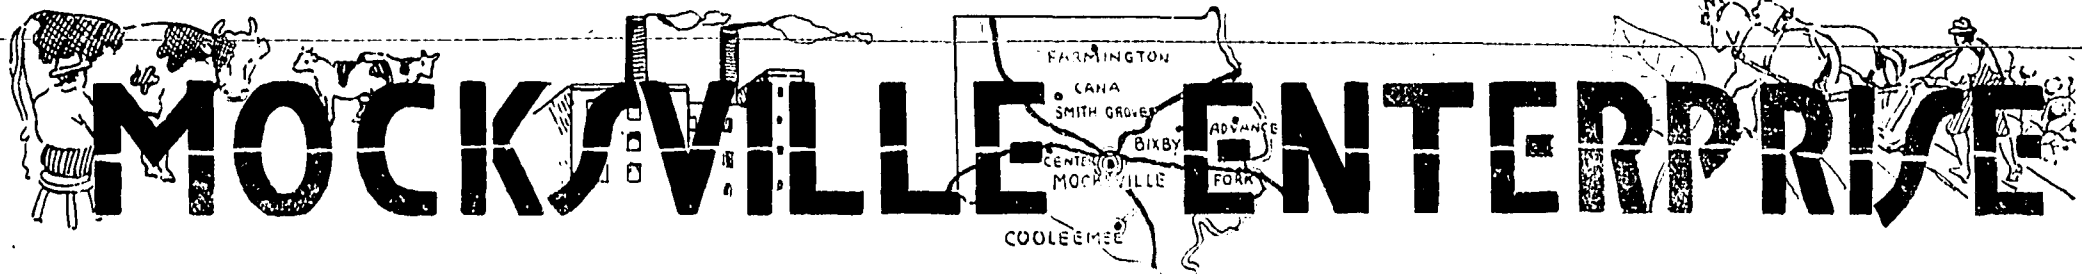

U. S. Navy reports tanker sunk by submarine 60 miles off Long Island, New York. This is the closest that enemy submarines have approached to the U. S. coast.

Japs adopt Nazi tactics in conquered countries when they announced they will shoot anybody caught injuring Jap soldiers or hold 10 persons as hostages for every act of violence in the Philippines.

Daylight Saving To Appear Again

U. S. Senate and House conferees have agreed on a daylight saving bill that would advance all clocks in the country ahead one hour. The bill would become effective 20 days after the President signs the bill.

HOME CLUBS MAKE PLANS FOR YEAR OF WARTIME

A statewide plan for home demonstration work for 1942 has been received by Miss Florence Mackie, Davie agent, which stresses wartime needs.

During this year each club member will see non-club members in each community and encourage them to join, both white and colored.

Home assignments and club questionnaires for members will be attached to lesson sheets and on Achievement day recognition will be given those who have not missed a meeting.

Training schools for agents are also planned when subjects for two months will be discussed and Miss Mackie will give this information to the clubs the following months.

The theme of home demonstration clubs is "Thrifty and Health for Better Living" and the monthly schedule follows:

January — Family planning plans for 1942.

February — Living above the safety line with foods for health.

March — My clothing needs—minimum essentials for wardrobe.

April — Futurity security through conservation — house furnishings and equipment; garden and farm equipment.

May — Whole grain products and their use.

June — Home care of the sick.

July — Food conservation—filling the canning budget.

August — Planned recreation.

September — Wise use of time and money—weighing of choices and values.

October — Clothing clinic repair, care, cleaning.

November — Building strong, sturdy bodies.

December — Housing repair and improvements for happier living.

WE ARE AT WAR

(AN EDITORIAL)

We are at war. What does it mean for us? It means many things. Here are some that are already evident.

First it means a long, hard, costly, bloody war. No student of the war has estimated that the war will end before 1943; that it may last longer than that. The end will come only when this country produces enough to whip the Axis.

It means not one but many expeditionary forces. A global war, Americans may fight both in Europe and Asia. An army of seven to eight million men is now planned; eventually it may rise to 10 million.

The goal set this year by the President is 65,000 planes, 45,000 tanks, 8 million tons of shipping; much more in 1943. Can we do it? Industrial leaders say we can. But management and labor in the automobile industry are still squabbling about the ways and means of conversion.

President Roosevelt has appointed Donald Nelson head of the War Production Board, our Beaverbrook. He says he does not care how many toes he steps on just so he gets the job done. Let's hope he means it, that he is hard-boiled and tough as nails. He has the biggest administrative job any man has ever faced in the history of the world.

The war means that all young men in this section will be gone, either in the armed services or in defense industries.

There will be a shortage of farm labor and all farm machinery must be utilized. That's the reason why all farmers are urged to have their machinery repaired now and get the necessary repair parts. Not only will more women be at work on the farm but it is likely before harvest that many city people will be taught how to run farm machinery.

Farm prices look higher than they did last year. We had about half a crop of cotton and tobacco in Davie last year but the money received was about equal the year before. This year, given a normal crop, the farmer will have more money than last year.

The government pegged farm prices for major commodities last year at 85 percent of parity. They are now around 95 percent. Whether the proposed price control bill makes it 110 or 120 or leaves it at present levels, the farmer has a better prospect than in 1941.

Textile mills in this section also face a year of full employment. Wage increases have already assured more money for workers than a year ago.

Retail prices will probably rise some higher, despite a price control bill. Inflation last year is estimated to have cost the American people 2 billion. But there is no indication of runaway prices as in World War 1.

War this year calls for the expenditure of 56 billion—more than half of the national income. Overnight we will find we cannot buy many things, as it happened in cars and tires. Shortages for civilians are already seen in such things as wool, cosmetics, industrial alcohol, sugar for soft drinks and whiskey. The list can be multiplied many times over. Eventually it will cover all non-essentials.

Shortages exist now in 14 commodities that we import and 17 that we produce at home.

Apparently there will be plenty of food and we suggest that every woman in Davie county fill every possible fruit jar this year.

Of course there will be heavier taxes—7 billion in addition to the present revenue is sought. What form the taxes will take is not known just yet. But the government appears determined to do two things: stop inflation and keep anybody from getting rich out of this war.

More taxes and compulsory saving are means of stopping inflation. So is the buying of government defense stamps and bonds. We are going to see some new kinds of taxes. Perhaps not a general sales tax because the poor pay more than their just share. But such things as a payroll tax or some plan of compulsory saving as England has in effect may be experienced. Here the government takes a portion of each week's wage and then returns up to a given amount after the war. Income, corporation and all kinds of steep excise taxes of course are certain as death.

Frilly living and frilly thinking will pass from the boards. There will be less entertaining and more family fireside conversation; more walking and more reading; more appreciation of the common bond of a neighbor striving for the same end; less keeping up with the Jones' because the Jones' won't have anything either. Yes, life will be much simpler and far less "soft."

Is it all worth it? Well what is liberty worth? The American answer is whatever it costs.

Dr. Gwynn Is Forum Speaker

The next forums to be conducted in Davie county will be held on the afternoon of January 29 at Coolemees, and the evening of the same day at Mocksville.

The meetings were planned for afternoon and evening in order to better accommodate the speaker.

L. S. Shelton attended a meeting in Atlanta last week of the dealers of J. I. Case farm machinery.

Farm Women Show Sound Sense In War Program

No. 1 Man

Pvt. John W. Castell is the first soldier of the 75,000 men in the armored force. Stationed at Fort Knox, Ky., he is the first man in the 1st squad, 1st platoon, 1st company, 1st battalion, 1st regiment, 1st division and 1st corps in the armored force. He hails from Bloomfield, Ky.

Without fuss or feathers, 27 farmers' wives gathered in Chicago to draw up a "wartime platform for American farm women."

The 27 farmers' wives, picked by Farm Journal and Farmer's Wife as representatives of the nation, were determined that, as far as they could manage it, the heller-skelter, out-of-kilter of World War 1 should not happen again. With stout good sense, they therefore agreed that:

"For most farm women the biggest challenge of patriotism will be to do what they are already doing—only to do it better. An extra dozen eggs may be more vital than knitting an extra sweater or an ill-fitting sock."

"It is the duty of every woman who can spare time from her home to volunteer with existing organizations. We need no new ones."

"We call on draft officials to draw physicians for the armed services largely from cities . . . and not from rural communities which are already seriously under-served. We urge all rural women to recognize the impending shortage . . . and to fortify themselves . . . by taking current training on home nursing and first aid."

"We (pledge) a family garden on every farm . . . Conserve the year's food needs of the family . . . By preserving our own food we undertake to release the commercial pack for urban people, Red Cross needs and our allies overseas."

"Food production is as essential to winning the war as the production of munitions . . . Draft boards should determine the condition toward victory of each boy. Voluntary enlistment should stop."

"We recommend that school schedules be adjusted to free children for farm work during seasonal peaks . . . without sacrificing . . . standards."

"We urge WPA officials to terminate non-essential projects to release labor for farms."

MRS. ANDERSON DIED FRIDAY

Mrs. Mary Poindexter Anderson, 93, widow of A. A. Anderson, a Confederate veteran, died last Friday morning at 10 o'clock at the home of a son, W. N. Anderson, in Calahalan township.

Four sisters and a brother also survive: Mrs. J. G. Huff, Sanford; Mrs. Evans Benbow, East Bend; Mrs. Augustine Speas, Winston-Salem; Mrs. Minerva Martin, East Bend; Charlie Poindexter, Portland, Ore. Sixteen grand children and 18 great grandchildren likewise survive.

Red Cross Aid Is Appreciated

People of the bombed out areas of Downpatrick, England, have sent a letter of appreciation to the Davie county chapter of the Red Cross for the clothing they sent. The letter has been forwarded to Dr. W. Woodrow, Henry, James and M. Long, county chairman, and it was from Phoebe Maxwell, all head of clothing of county Down of the Women's Voluntary Services for Civil Defense.

Have you donated to the Red Cross war relief fund yet? All donations are voluntary and no houses to house canvass is planned. See your community chairman or make your donation of any amount at any of the central points in the county or at the chairman's office at the Mocksville hospital.

Coolemees, as shown below, is getting down to work towards 100 percent contributions.

Other donors reported this week are H. B. Holden, Mrs. Ida Nail, Mrs. J. E. Owings and Davis Potts. Help this most worthy cause now. Davie's quota is $2,000 and has a long way to go. Mayor Caudell urges everybody to have a part in helping to relieve pain, hunger, want and suffering that is coming.

PRICE CEILING SET FOR TIRE RE-CAPPING

The government has clamped price ceilings on charges that may be made for retreading tires and served notice that prices of used tires would be fixed within a few days to halt "serious profiteering."

At the same time two other major moves were taken bearing on the war effort on the home front.

The nation's top-ranking medical officers — surgeons general James C. Magee of the army, Ross T. McIntyre of the navy, and Thomas Farran of the public health service — appealed for enrollments in the nursing profession.

Unless thousands of young women promptly enter schools of nursing, they said in a statement a present shortage of nurses will "grow more critical."

The office of civilian defense announced it was preparing a victory garden program such as was carried out in World War I when householders were urged to grow their own food.

"The purpose of the program," the OCD said, "is to sponsor in every community victory gardens. The produce from a community garden, divided into plots and worked by individual families would go to the families doing the gardening. Produce from gardens managed and worked as community undertakings, as well as surpluses from home gardens, could be used for school lunch projects and emergency food needs."

Effective January 19 the retread price scheduled becomes effective January 19 and was ordered into effect, Price Administration Leon Henderson said, because profiteering in used and retreaded tires had reached a point where it "cannot and will not be allowed to continue."

"Your government cannot permit price to determine who can afford and who cannot afford to buy second-hand tires in this time of war," he asserted. "The public must be protected from exploitation."

As defined in the order, "retreading" is the process of removing old rubber down to the fabric and application of new rubber to the tread surface and side walls. "Top capping" means the application of new rubber to the tread surface only, "camel back" is the material used.

Surviving are the husband, four sons, Melvin, Marvin, Clarence and Charles Turner of Cycle; three daughters, Misses Dora and Ada Turner and Mrs. Eva Royal, all of Cycle; one brother, John Day of Cycle and one sister, Mrs. Nancy Hudspeth of Cycle.

The funeral will be held Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock at Oak Grove Baptist Church, of which she was a member. Rev. Cleo Simmons, Rev. Richard Day and Rev. Fred Mathis will conduct the services. Burial will be in the church graveyard.

Theft Investigated By S. B. I. Agent

Guy Scott, member of the State Bureau of Investigation, is in Yadkinville this week working on several cases the most recent of which is the theft of $140.00 made of Roland Legans, operator of Reavis' Service Station, while he slept in his home near Brooks Cross Roads on Sunday night.

According to deputy sheriff Ed Wishon who first investigated the theft, no clues have yet been found that would indicate who took the pocketbook from the Legans home. The pocketbook, with only a check for fifteen cents left, was found near the service station by Donald Reavis, Legans' brother-in-law, early Monday morning.

U. S. FORCES WILL FIGHT ANYWHERE

WAR COSTS UNPREDICTABLE

The President, in a message to Congress, said he had directed Federal agencies to arrange a new schedule of war production calling for 60,000 planes in 1942, including 45,000 combat craft, and 125,000 in 1943, including 100,000 combat units; 45,000 tanks in 1942 and 75,000 in 1943; 20,000 anti-aircraft guns in 1942 and 35,000 in 1943; 8,000,000 deadweight tons of merchant ships in 1942 and 10,000,000 in 1943.

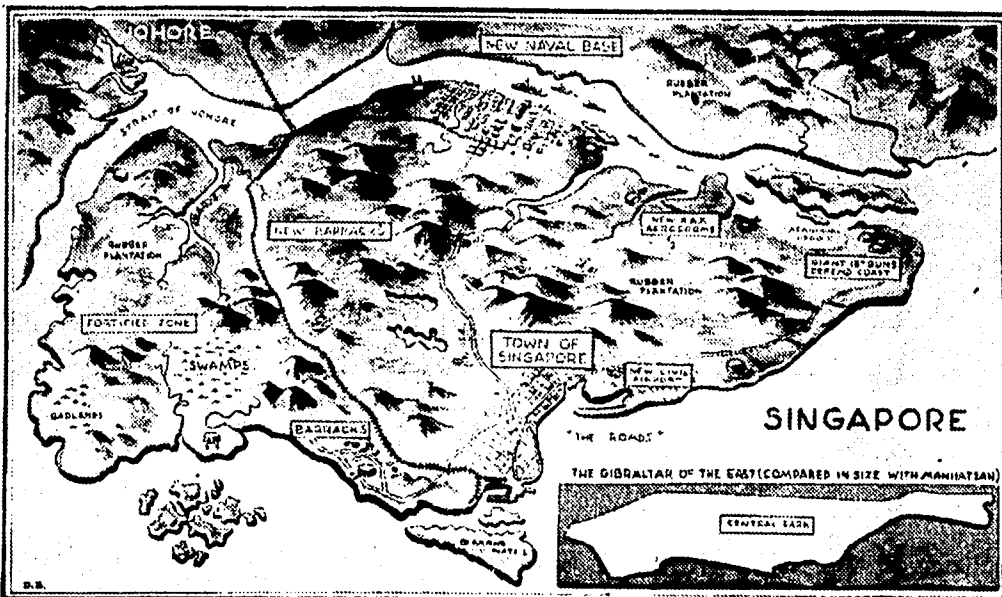

The President told Congress he would order the U. S. armed forces to a world-wide front to find the enemy and "hit him and hit him again whenever and wherever we can reach him." He said U. S. forces would take up positions if necessary in the British Isles, the Far East and on all oceans and bases within and without the New World necessary to protect the Western Hemisphere.

The President proposed total expenditures in the fiscal year 1943 of $77,000,000,000. Of this $56,000,000,000 would be for the war. He said total war expenditures are now at the rate of approximately $2,000,000,000 a month and may surpass $5,000,000,000 a month during fiscal 1943. The President said he could not predict ultimate costs "because I cannot predict the changing fortunes of war," but he proposed an increase in tax collections to $27,000,000,000. He asked careful Congressional consideration of income taxes collected at the source, payroll taxes, excise taxes and taxes on State and local government bonds.

Mr. Roosevelt said expenditures for farm aid, work relief and youth aid would be reduced by the end of 1942 fiscal year $600,000,000 from last year and will be reduced another $800,000,000 next fiscal year when the total cost will be $1,400,000,000 or about half of the sum for the present year.

Singapore—Military Jewel of the Far East

This map gives an idea of the size of Singapore, mighty British island fortress at the crossroads of the Far East sea lanes, and key to domination of the rich Dutch East Indies and the Philippines. Insert map of Manhattan, gives its comparative size. Under severe attack by Japanese forces pushing down the Malay Peninsula, the Singapore forces are reported battling fiercely.

Management reported increased pooling of aircraft production facilities within the industry and with the auto industry, and concentration on superior types of planes. The OEM said in almost every month of 1942 additional plants will begin production of planes with parts supplied by industrial pools.

The War Department reported at least one plant of each of the 13 types required for the munitions program was completed in 1941, making a total of 28 now in operation. The announcement said 28 more will begin production soon.

OPM Director Knudsen announced the auto industry must double its scheduled war output to handle $5,000,000,000 additional war contracts. OPM formed a 10 - member industry-labor committee to study conversion of the industry to war products.

Labor Secretary Perkins reported 15,000,000 workers will be engaged in war production by the end of 1942—three times as many as were so employed in the fourth quarter of 1941. There will be only a relatively small increase in total employment, however, Miss Perkins said, because many persons now working in civilian-goods industry will be shifted to war work. WPA announced 3,800,000 persons were unemployed in December, 100,000 less than the previous month.

Conservation of Materials
OPM announced industrial conservation programs will be set up in more than 30 industrial centers to wreck old machinery and equipment to salvage needed materials; to minimize waste and spoilage, to handle scrap and speed its return to users.

OPM also recommended elimination of special deliveries of milk and substitution of everyday delivery for daily delivery to conserve tires. The agency recommended manufacturers simplify the types of bottles and other containers and eliminate those not necessary; ordered all tin and lead scrap under rationing control, restricted use of ethyl alcohol in toilet soaps, meat washes, rubbing alcohol, candy glazes; cut use of certain materials in manufacture, of vending machines dispensing cigarettes, food, candy and other items; cut the amount of wool for civilian use to 80 percent of last year; and restricted the use of copper in certain radio parts.

OPM granted permission to auto manufacturers to make 204,848 cars in January in order to use up parts already made before the plants are converted to war production. Congress passed a law permitting the President to order daylight saving time to save electric power.

Prices
The President sent a message to Congress asking for provision for a single price administrator for all prices in the price control legislation now under consideration. The OPM issued a pamphlet, "How to Stop Inflation," explaining in non-technical language the causes of inflation, measures taken in other countries and what can be done here to keep prices down. The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported wholesale prices are now at the highest level since 1939—17.6 percent above this time last year.

Civilian Defense
The President appointed James M. Landis, Dean of the Harvard Law School, as Executive of the Office of Civilian Defense to direct the civilian defense program under the general supervision of Director LaGuardia, who is also Mayor of New York City. The House and Senate passed and sent to conference a bill appropriating $100,000,000 for civilian defense. OPM asked its regional directors to obtain from State and city governments all possible equipment needed by the auxiliary firemen, policemen, air raid wardens and other volunteers. Director McNutt of the Defense Health and Welfare Services set up in each of the 48 States a State Nursing Council on Defense to promote recruiting of student nurses and enrollment of 50,000 young women in nursing schools in 1942.

Agriculture
The Oklahoma Agriculture Defense Board established an experimental "machinery bank" to provide a reservoir of spare parts for farm equipment. All have not previously registered.

Idle farming equipment on Oklahoma's 32,000 farms will be centrally located, repaired and made available to farmers as they need it.

OEM announced that for the first time in recent history, U. S. imports from Latin America have been larger than exports. U. S. trade in Latin America, the agency said, was one-third larger than in the corresponding period of 1940 and about 75 percent larger than in the first three quarters of 1939. The State Department elevated the U. S. legations in Paraguay, Ecuador and Bolivia to the rank of embassies in "formal recognition of the importance of developments" leading to Pan-American solidarity. Under Secretary of State Welles left Washington to attend the Pan-American conference for foreign ministers at Rio de Janeiro January 15.

The White House announced the U. S., Britain, the Netherlands and the Dominion governments agreed to a unified command in the Southwest Pacific area with all sea, land and air forces under Gen. Wavell of the British Army, with Lt. Gen. Brett, of the U. S. Army Air Forces, as next in command. Gen. MacArthur, commander in the Philippines, reported his lines holding against renewed Japanese attacks. The Army and Navy reported sinking of three enemy cargo ships of 10,000 tons each, one enemy transport and more than a score of Japanese bombing and fighting planes. The Marine Corps announced that new reports showed that the defenders of Wake Island had sunk one cruiser, four destroyers, one submarine and one gunboat before succumbing. The President cited the entire Wake garrison for heroism.

The White House announced the RAF dropped more than 2,000,000 American pamphlets on Nazi-occupied France stressing the historic ties between the American and French people. The pamphlets included pictures of the Statue of Liberty and quotations from the President's speeches.

The President set February experimental "machinery bank" for selective service registration of men from 20 to 44 who parts for farm equipment. All

Guns Defend Corregidor

The great guns of Marshall Battery open up with a roar from the "concrete battleship" on Fort Hughes, a little island near the main fortress of Corregidor. These guns are ready to blast any Jap ship within range of the island. The Nipponese opened their offensive against Corregidor and its sister forts with a five-hour bombing attack. The War Department said, "There was no material damage to installations on the island."

Inflation Or Ration

In the very beginning, before England became so war-wise, they made the grave mistake of allowing inflation to almost ruin their chances for holding out for these three years. To the highest bidder went the spoils, the wealthier able to afford butter, eggs, milk and cream deprived the poor since there wasn't enough to go around and not enough money to buy it if the supply had been plentiful. Consequently hardship came to England with its first fever of inflation. Finally the majority were heard, those poor who could put up with this no longer and yet be asked to fight for their loss on the field of battle! The government listened and decided on the course of rationing. When you say 'ration' to many an American he immediately feels pinched and less fervent over the cause. In England the principle of rationing meant that since there was a limited quantity all men must fare alike, controlling price and temper and collapse of the much heralded British morale. The Englishman asked for rationing and his government gave it a try. Today the price of commodities is no higher than when rationing first began. Would we ask our government to ration us in our daily bread, morning milk and breakfast eggs? Perhaps not until we tried inflation first.

We are going to undergo the evil of inflation unless we wisely follow through with rationing which has already started. As the story goes in the Manchester Guardian, over in England where there are so many children in need of milk and eggs, the healthier folk with no young ones of their own, are going without their ration of eggs in order to supply the children. This isn't propaganda, it is England, and it might well be spoken of America.

One Good Thing

A subscriber remarks that there is one good thing this war is doing for our children as she sees it. It is teaching them that they must not expect too much of life. Too many parents have not trained their children in this respect, letting them grow up expecting the same understanding and devotion in the world outside as that they received in their home. They soon find this is too rosy a picture since before long life brings its disappointments and heartaches to test them. The average child, so sheltered in the past, has not been equipped to meet the situation. Present conditions of the world compel parents to open their minds to their children and through convincing them of the rough going ahead, that there are still many happy surprises left to them. To take what comes with such pleasing and good grace is a quality that might well be stressed in the grown-ups as well.

Getting Down To Scratch

Sacrificing is finding its way into homes and we are slowly losing the frosting on our cakes, you might say. With smart men's fashion experts finding a ready market for long underwear, our rubber shortage affecting teething rings for babies, mamma without a girdle, papa without a golf ball, the children with wet feet because of no galoshes, all of us losing the soft cushions that have made our life cream on berries, we are knowing that we don't like this war business a little bit! We can do without the icing as long as we can have the cake. But all signs point to our having to forego cake and then we will take our meal dessertless and consequently keep our figures. Bear in mind that as symbolical as these new 'longies' that are covering the male form, woolly and streamlined, they aren't scratchy. So typical of the rest of what we are in for before this war is over—not scratchy but not smart.

About Blackouts

They have found out that during blackouts, you can see more by not looking directly at the objects you wish to see. The idea is to sort of look out of the corner of your eye, and this isn't really the corner but a certain circular zone outside the center of the eye. Due to our increasing bright lights Americans have not developed those certain nerve centers which aid in seeing in the dark. There is a suggestion made by a psychologist that we can train ourselves to have blackout eyes by practicing at home at night with the luminous buttons sold as markers for electric switches. When you have a moonless night he suggests that you practice looking at gaunt trees, following their trunks and branches and through accustoming your eyes to the darkness you might bring the tree into more detail.

Farm Machinery Dealers Need Orders For Parts

Farmers are being advised to order repair parts for their tractors, plows, and other machines at the earliest possible moment. "There's an important reason," says D. S. Weaver, State College agricultural engineer, "and it's not the usual 'Shop Early and Avoid the Rush' sort of appeal."

Here's the way the Extension Service specialist explained it: "The Office of Production Management is prepared to give farm machinery manufacturers priority on metals, BUT not until they receive orders from their dealers. BACKED UP BY BONA-FIDE ORDERS FROM CONSUMERS."

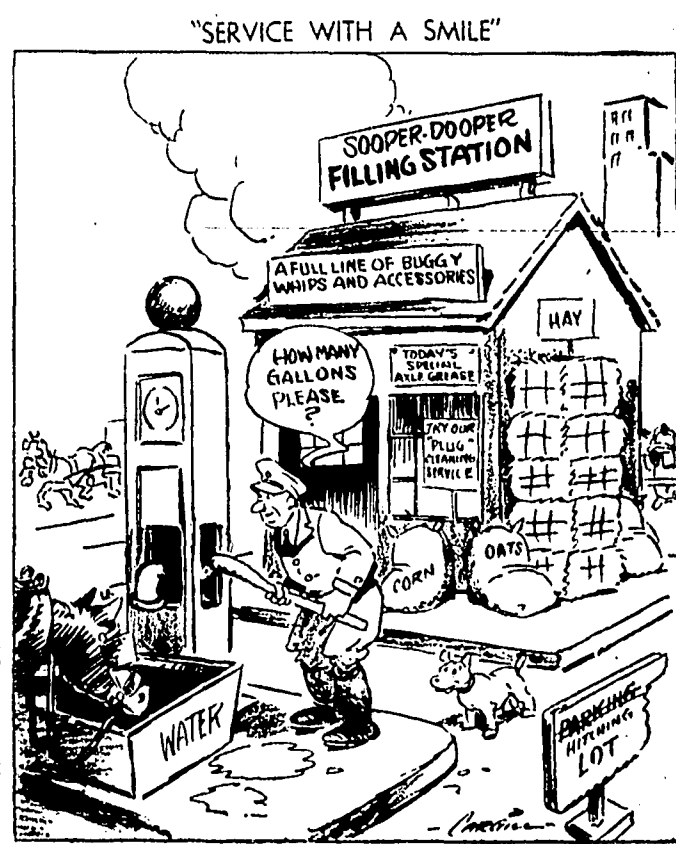

Therefore, says Weaver, farmers must determine now what parts they need to put their machines in good order for the 1942 season. Then, they must place orders immediately for these parts.

The usual practice of waiting until just before a machine is needed in the spring, and then going to town for a repair part, will not work this year. There won't be any repair parts there, unless the order is placed at once.

"In the 'Food for Freedom' program farmers must produce more food with fewer men," Weaver pointed out. "Greatly increased use of farm machinery is indicated. To meet the demand for new machines would require the manufacture of 20 to 25 percent more tractors, plows, combines, etc., than were produced in 1941."

"On the other hand," he declared, "there is only enough metal available for 75 to 80 percent as many farm machines as were manufactured last year, even with priorities on metals. This shortage must be made up by better use of all present machines."

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE!

Highlights Of The Sunday School Lesson

The Sunday School Lesson for January 18 is "John the Baptist and Jesus."—Luke 3:1-6, 15-17, 21, 22.

Back of the present war lie potentialities greater than the war itself. Events are filling a John the Baptist role. From every corner of the globe come daily signs of the deeper, wider significance of the times. Nations are uniting one with another, and finding also an over-mastering unity in themselves. All look, more or less definitely, toward the ending of ancient ill and a more just and brotherly order of society.

Even now we may see, emerging behind the day's tragic happenings the foregleams of a Great Plan. In the ripeness of time, the Ruler of all is displaying His purposes, and calling upon wayward mankind to repent; to be done with lesser things and to find life in its full possibilities in devotion to the will of God.

None of the news of battles stirs us as much as these evidences that humanity is entering upon a new era of social solidarity, animated by the noblest purposes. Whoever has eyes to see or ears to hear may find in the press and radio a daily summons to make ready for the coming of a common life that mirrors the justice and love of the Eternal.

Signs Of The New Day
No one man today is fulfilling the role of John the Baptist. He may yet appear, on the air, in the newspapers, in a book, or in the wilderness. His authentic voice will be recognized when it comes. In the meantime, the daily news measurably fulfills the role of a Preparer. We are being made ready for something grander than ever we knew. Out of this war is coming the Great Peace.

From the educational world come tidings of a turning to religion on the part of students—a revival of chapel services and interest therein; and a repudiation, born of the young people's own innate sense of truth, of the shallow, sophisticated and materialistic notions that have prevailed for a generation. Straighter thinking is teaching them that mere sense titillation is not an adequate objective of life.

Throughout the world there is a phenomenal increase of circulation of the Bible. Even in Germany the Bible is selling more copies than "Mein Kampf." New China is avidly reading unprecedented more copies of the Bible. The "New Life Movement," led by a Christian president down into the long dormant masses of the people.

Books, magazines, articles, newspapers, lectures and forums are all expressing, to an unprecedented degree, the public interest in religion. Roman Catholics and Protestants are vying with each other in an emphasis upon the essentials of the faith they hold in common.

Paganism's Final Struggle

An intense cult of paganism preceded the preparation of both Germany and Japan for world domination. They have forced an issue which is really a struggle between heathenism and Christianity. We are now in a world war to determine whether pagan selfishness or Christian altruism shall rule the human race. We are all anew summoned to Jordan's brink, to hear the message of John the Baptist and his successors.

It was from a dedicated life that the Preparer's message came. The devotion of his parents found fruition in him. Could we lift the lid that hides the deepest sentiments of human hearts we should behold a noble spectacle of fathers and mothers whose supreme desire and purpose in life is that their children may fulfill all their own frustrated dreams of nobleness and achievement. Among the truly "successful" men and women of history we must write down the names of godly Zacharias and Elizabeth, who gave to God and to the world John the Forerunner.

Living For Great Goals

This sublime truth of dedication emerges afresh in our world at war. Heedless youths have entered the armed forces to find themselves dedicated to the noblest mission of patriotism and world service. Parents who at first grieved over separation from their sons are finding spiritual exaltation in the thought that they have been able to dedicate them to country and humanity and God. It takes the sting out of life, and removes the carking cares of pettiness, to live for a great and holy with the ravages of war.

COOLEEMKE

Mrs. James K. Bruton reports that two departments at the Erwin Cotton Mill; namely, the electrical shop and the dye house have contributed 100% to the Red Cross War Relief fund in Cooleemke. Contributors from the electrical shop are: A. T. Lewis, Glenn James, J. W. Ward, W. F. Benson, J. F. Grimes Jr., Abe Howard, W. V. Keller, Glenn McIntyre, Paul Tutterow and W. W. Campbell.

Contributors from the dye house include: C. L. Isley, H. B. Isley, K. L. Pierce, Brady Blivins, Dave Lazenberry, Hill Myers, Howard Harris, Kelly Payne, James McConneyhead, Elmer Barber, Charlie Whitaker, Arthur Lazenberry and Jesse Clement.

Other individual contributors are Annie Riddle, Rev. F. J. Stough, Miss Victoria Byerly, Mrs. A. B. Byerly. There have been many group contributions and many anonymous contributors who have deposited money in the boxes at various points in town.

It is hoped that each of the other departments of the mill will also contribute 100%. Heads of each division have been asked to keep a list of individual contributors.

Our generation, submerged by a wave of stupidity and materialism has sought relaxation and refreshment and release in night clubs and kindred shallow diversion. The result has been calamitous. Better the way of John and Jesus and Moses and Paul, who went into the desert for preparation. In the vastness of solitude, the soul gets strength to expand; and vision to discern the essential from the non-essential. This retreat which we all should seek may be a field, a forest or a hall bedroom; the place matters little so long as it provides alone-ness for one's self and one's mind, and communion with one's God. History is made within human heads and hearts, rather than one battlefield.

Today's Call

Stern and rugged and austere John's first call was to repentance. And that is the first call to our own day. We are being tragically and tremendously punished for our sins. There is no nation, and no individual that may not sincerely cry, in this dark hour, "God be merciful to me a sinner." Unless we truly repent and believe the Gospel we may not expect God to bless our arms with victory. Repentance, restitution and reform—these are the three R's, declared by the Baptist, that we are afresh being taught in the primary school of suffering.

Nor can we miss the message that John the Baptist was primarily a witness, a testifier, an announcer, a herald. That function Jesus passed on to all His friends; they were to be His witnesses. Suppose all Christians everywhere were by a common impulse, awakened to the duty of witness-bearing. How the correspondence columns of our newspapers would be filled with Christian messages! Public men would get from their constituents such letters as they never had before—some of them echoing Jesus' searing words to the Scribes and Pharisees. Simple sincere and natural words of testimony would be spoken by friend to friend. Every disciple of Jesus would become a finger-board, pointing the Message, "Behold, the Lamb of God, that taketh away the sin of the world."

Proving the Point

A dispute arose between the captain and the chief engineer of a freight concerning the importance of their respective jobs. Each one claimed that he had the most important post.

"Without me to run your blooming engines, where would your ship be?" asked the engineer.

And, the captain replied, "What good would running your engines be if I didn't have brains enough to steer the ship in the right direction?"

Each one claimed that he could do the other's job, so they agreed to "swap." The engineer went up on the bridge and the captain went below to tend the engines.

In a short time, the captain shouted to the engineer at the bridge. "Hey, engineer! he called. 'Come below. Your engines won't work.'"

"Oh, that's all right," said the engineer. "I've run your ship ashore!"

Scrap Metal Sales Aid Farmers And Red Cross

Scrap iron and steel is needed in the defense program . . . the American Red Cross needs money for emergency work . . . farmers want to help in the war effort in every way possible.

Dean I. O. Schaub, director of the State College Extension Service and agricultural representative on the executive committee of the State Defense Council, suggests a way for farmers to serve—to "Scrap the Japs With Scrap."

In Hoke County, he says, a one-day scrap metal collection campaign was conducted, and farmers brought in more than 300,000 pounds of discarded farm machinery, tractors, gas engines, automobiles, fence wire, etc. They sold the scrap to licensed dealers at from 40 to 55 cents per 100 pounds.

"Instead of pocketing the money received for the scrap, most of the farmers turned a most of and donated the cash to the Red Cross," Dean Schaub reported. "In this way, the farmers provided metal for guns and munitions, and for the manufacture of farm machinery, while donating to the Red Cross more money than they otherwise would have been able to give."

Dean Schaub suggested that the scrap metal collection campaigns which will be conducted in other counties this month be patterned along the same lines as the Hoke County drive. A theater in Raeford offered free movie tickets to farmers who brought in 500 pounds or more of scrap, and other prizes were offered by merchants who advertised in a special edition of the local newspaper.

"Scrap iron and steel is absolutely necessary in the present method of manufacturing new steel," the farm leader explained. "There are thousands of tons of scrap on farms of North Carolina which should be put to use in the National war program."

Farm People Asked To Grow 'Victory Gardens' In '42

Gardens for Victory!
That slogan for farm people is to be counterpart of the Army's and Navy's "Remember Pearl Harbor!"

The State College Extension Service, through its farm and home agents, subject matter specialists, and administrative leaders, is organizing the "Victory Garden" campaign. An effort will be made to help every one of North Carolina's 278,276 farm families to grow a year-round garden in 1942. Backyard gardeners in small cities and suburbs of large centers of population also will be encouraged to grow "vegetables for vitality and victory."

Lewis P. Watson, Extension horticulturist of State College, has been appointed chairman of the garden campaign committee. He and his coworkers are planning to place a garden placard in every rural home in the State.

On the placard, Watson said, will be a garden calendar, showing the best planting dates for various vegetables, and the amounts of seed and varieties recommended. Also on the placard will be a Daily Foods Essential budget, listing the amounts and kinds of food needed to keep a person healthy and strong throughout the year.

"This Second World War is different from the First World War in many ways," said Watson, "but there's no changing the fact that food, of the right kinds and amounts, is needed for strength."

"However," he added, "we are going to try to avoid some of the gardening mistakes of the 1917-18 period. We are going to discourage the planting of gardens in soil not suited for vegetable growing. We don't have the seed, fertilizer and other materials to waste on gardens planted in backyards and other places where cinders, bricks and rubbish constitute the 'topsoil.' Plant a garden, but be sure it produces vegetables."

January, February Best Month To Prune Shrubs

There are two schools of thought on the question: When is the best time to prune shrubbery?

James G. Weaver, floriculturist of N. C. State College, thinks the best season to prune flowering shrubs in North Carolina is probably during January and February. This is contrary to the usual advice; which is to prune in the spring after the flowers fade on spring-flowering plants.

Weaver says that pruning in January and February stimulates new growth and increases vigor. Wounds caused by the cut heal more quickly, and this helps to keep the plant free from diseases.

The floriculturist says that the principal objection to winter pruning is that wood is cut out that would flower in a few weeks. This is not so serious, he said, if care is taken. Only the old and less vigorous twigs and branches should be cut out.

"Every gardener should understand the reasons for pruning," Weaver said. "The first reason is, to renew the wood. All dead wood should be removed. Also it is a good practice to remove the older branches every year or two, so the young vigorous shoots will have more room for development."

"The second reason is to increase the profusion of bloom. By correct pruning you get more twigs and as a result, a corresponding increase in flowers."

"Third, to keep ornamental twigs attractive. Some plants are used for the color effect of their twigs in the winter, such as the red and yellow-stemmed dogwoods. The younger shoots always have the brightest color."

"The fourth and fifth reasons," the floriculturist concluded, "are to make young shrubs 'bushy' and to offset the loss of roots at planting time."

Lamp Brooder Takes Another Job Of Hen

A home-made lamp brooder, which can be built for from $5 to $7.50, is suggested by C. F. Parrish, Extension poultryman of State College, for use by those persons who formerly raised a few chicks with hens. Artificial incubation has robbed the hen of hatching her eggs, and now the small brooder takes another of her jobs.

"Of course," Parrish pointed out, "the bricks, oil and electric brooders are used by poultrymen with large flocks. But for the farmer who wanted to raise a small flock, the hen was usually used for brooding purposes."

"Thousands of farm families have pledged to increase poultry production as a part of the Food - for - Freedom campaign. The homemade lamp brooder will solve their problem. The brooder holds from 50 to 60 chicks, and from 150 to 200 chicks can easily be brooded per year with this equipment."

The brooder is constructed in two parts: The bottom section houses the lamps; the top section accommodates the chicks. The tray that separates the two sections is covered with 26 to 28-gauge tin. The tin side is placed downward, next to the flame of the lamp, and the top part of the trap is covered over with one inch or more of sharp, coarse, dry sand. The chimney of the lamp should be one to one and one-half inches below the metal tray which divides the two sections.

Parrish said that the brooder "is of simple construction, easy to operate, and is heated by one to three lamps, depending upon the severity of the weather. It should be operated in a protected place, such as under a wood or wagon shed."

50 YEARS AGO—COOLEEMEE COUPLE

The above is a picture of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Byerly of Cooleemee, who have been married 50 years. They celebrated their Golden Wedding anniversary at their home on Davie street last Saturday night. (This picture was taken shortly after their marriage in 1892.)

BELOVED COUPLE HONORED ON THEIR "GOLDEN WEDDING DAY"

Lovely indeed was the reception given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Byerly last Saturday evening by their children to commemorate their Golden Wedding. The couple was joyfully happy on this memorable occasion and were overjoyed as their 106 guests called to participate in the celebration and to wish them "Bon Voyage" on their continued journey through life.

For the occasion, the Byerly home was artistically decorated with a profusion of white and yellow flowers.

Mrs. Johnny Byerly of Kannapolis, assisted by Rev. F. J. Stough, pastor of Cooleemee Methodist church, greeted the guests at the door. Receiving with Mr. and Mrs. Byerly were their ten children: Mesdames Arthur Smith and G. H. Motley, of Mocksville, route 4, Mesdames Wilburn Dayvault and Oscar Wyrick and Miss Mary Byerly, of Cooleemee; Messrs. J. H. Byerly and Clyde Byerly, of Cooleemee; Johnny Byerly, of Kan-

Cooleemee Preparing For Any Eventuality

Classes in First Aid will begin in Cooleemee just as soon as they can be organized. This 20-hour First Aid course is designed to teach how various accidents should be properly treated, and emergencies, such as broken bones, cuts and lacerations or any kinds of shocks, should be handled. This invaluable instruction will be made available to both men and women.

Classes in Home Nursing, including bed care of sick people, which, in normal times, would consist of diet care of infants, care of welfare cases, etc., will now in our present emergency, embrace in its scope instruction on how to take care of soldiers and evacuees.

Those interested in this special Red Cross work—and there should be many—are requested to communicate at once with Mrs. J. K. Bruton. Time and place for the classes will be announced just as soon as the number desiring to take the training is determined.

Seed Show At Greenville Will Be State-Wide Event

Poor seed are like shells that fail to explode, says A. D. Stuart, Extension seed specialist of N. C. State College. Neither will help win the war. "Furthermore," he declared, "it costs just as much to manufacture a dud shell as it does a live shell, and it costs just as much in fertilizer and labor to produce a poor crop with low quality seed as it does to produce a good crop with good seed."

Stuart says that farmers interested in better seed will have an opportunity to see the very best that North Carolina produces when the annual meeting and seed exposition of the N. C. Crop Improvement Association is held at Greenville, N. C., January 30 and 31. "This is a state-wide event," he pointed out, "and farmers from the mountains, as well as the Piedmont, Coastal Plain and Tidewater, are invited to attend and to exhibit seed."

No entry fee is charged for exhibits entered in any class. "If you have some corn, or lespedeza, small grain, soybeans, cowpeas, peanuts, cotton, tobacco, potatoes, crimson clover or exaltaria seed of which you are proud, send it along," the seedman said. "Then come to the show yourself and compare your seed with the other fellow's."

Exhibits should be mailed or expressed to R. R. Bennett, Pitt county farm agent, Greenville, N. C. An entry blank may be obtained by writing to the N. C. Crop Improvement Association, State College Station, Raleigh.

Stuart also called attention to the crops judging contests for 4-H Club members and vocational Agriculture students to be held on the closing day of the exposition, Saturday, January 31.

and flanked with golden candelabra holding yellow candles, formed the centerpiece for the dining-room table, where Miss Victoria Byerly presided. She was assisted in serving by Mesdames Joe Garwood, O. C. Rambeau, J. H. Byerly and Misses Mary Riddle and Inez Sain.

Throughout the evening, Miss Margaret Kirk, at the piano, played beautifully appropriate music.

During the course of the evening, Mr. and Mrs. Byerly were "re-married," with Rev. F. J. Stough "officiating." The "wedding" was lovely.

Mrs. Ray Byerly presided in the gift room, where the many gifts were viewed by the guests of the evening.

Mrs. Jack Byerly had charge of the register, wherein all the guests placed their names.

Out-of-town guests who came to Cooleemee for the party included Louis Archenbalt, of Elizabeth, N. J.; Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Lowery, Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Cohen and children, Betty Sue and Julia Ann Cohen, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thompson, all of Salisbury; Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Gentles, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Gentles, and Miss Zonnie Gentles, all of Winston-Salem; and Mr. and Mrs. Armand Daniel of Mocksville.

Mr. and Mrs. Byerly have been two of Cooleemee's most highly respected citizens for 50 years. Their multitudinous friends share their joy upon reaching their fifty-year goal ("golden" mark).

WAR BRINGING MANY QUICK CHANGES IN LIVING

OUTLOOK IS CLEARER

Today there probably isn't anybody in this country—farmer, villager or city man—who doesn't know we're all of us in this war. Of course, everybody knew right after Pearl Harbor that we were in for a fight. But not everyone knew what that fight was going to mean to the civilian; what he could do, what was expected of him.

Well, we know now. We know that in addition to producing as it never has before—on the farm and in mine and mill and factory and office—civilian America is going to have to sacrifice, conserve materials needed for the tanks and guns and planes and ships and uniforms and all the hundreds of things needed to create a victorious army and navy.

This war already is in the mail order catalogues, you might say. And pretty soon it is going to show up in the clothing stores and in the five and tens and almost everywhere else. We know now that we're going to have to make the old car do and the old tires do and perhaps the old suit or dress as well. We're going to get along with less of a lot of things before we lick the Japs (who have shut us off from rubber and other vital supplies) and whip Hitler.

We know these things now, but there is something else we should realize, too. And that is that the government, short of depriving our armed forces of the materials these forces need to beat the Axis, is doing everything it can to see that no one lacks tools with which to produce, food to eat and clothes to wear, fuel to burn and a stout roof over his head.

The government is controlling prices to guard us against ruinous inflation. The government is trying to assure tires and autos to fulfill essential services in every community. The government is seeing to it that there will be enough farm machinery in good repair to take care of the all important 1942 crops.

Here's the way the 1942 program for farm equipment has been handled by the Office for Production Management's priorities division.

The basic problem was to mesh this program with the Department of Agriculture's program for food; to provide more machinery where it will be needed and to curtail production where—as with wheat—the agricultural plan calls for smaller crops.

The Russians Return to Kalinin

Once more the Russian banner flies over Kalinin, where this picture was made, as the Soviet forces recaptured the city, driving the Nazis back all along front. Buildings burned as the Reds reentered the city are shown.

It's obvious that since farm equipment is manufactured entirely of materials vital to the armed forces—the kinship between tank and tractor is apparent—the problem had to be considered cautiously. There was a second factor, too—the certainty that many more civilian plants must be converted to war work.

What the OPM has done is to hold down on materials for new machinery (to about 33 per cent of the 1940 level) while raising the quantity ear-marked for repair parts manufacture to approximately 150 per cent of the 1940 output. Repair, whenever possible, is the thing, and the OPM has asked that farmers begin these repairs as quickly as possible.

Here's the way it works out: The agricultural program, for example, calls for increased production of pork and lard, milk and eggs, in 1942. And so new machinery used to produce these foodstuffs will be available in greater quantity than machinery for raising and harvesting wheat, because the agricultural plan calls for a 16 per cent reduction in wheat acreage.

The tire rationing program is another example of the government's effort to keep essential services functioning under conditions of all-out war. The Japanese took away the tires from our pleasure cars when they blocked our Pacific import lanes. But that isn't going to hamper farm work. You can still get tires for farm vehicles—if you really need them. The physician can still get tires, and the veterinarian. And the folks who decide whether or not these tires are needed will be, in most cases, neighbors—the local garageman, and a local rationing board probably no further distant than the County Seat.

As for that car you use for trips to town, Price Administrator Leon Henderson makes several suggestions about that. He suggests you drive slowly, because fast driving burns up rubber; he suggests you double up with a friend when you can, thus making one set of tires do the work ordinarily done by two; he suggests you be careful not to scrape against curbs and take it easy over the bumps. Remember, too, that tires which have been recapped or retreaded often last almost as long as new ones, and cost a lot less.

Anyone who can think back to the last war and the inflation which came of it can't help but realize that it is as necessary to control farm prices in wartime as it is to control prices in industry. In 1918 the U. S. farmers had an income 24 per cent above their buying power in 1913, even allowing for the high price of goods. But by 1922 the slump which followed the inflation had carried farm incomes way below the 1913 level. The Price Administrator, whose job is to see that everybody gets a fair deal and also to stand guard against such evils as another inflation, has indicated that there may be upward revision of prices on certain agricultural commodities under the Prices Control Act "to bring existing standards into line with special standards set up for farm products." The maximum price of raw cane sugar already has been raised 24 cents per 100 pounds.

Here are other effects of the war upon American living as our effort broadens and quickens, as sources of supply are cut off, as factories are converted to military production, and as government moves to conserve materials for our soldiers and sailors.

Manufacturers of woollens will get just half as much new wool as they got in 1941. They'll mix this with reworked and reused wool, and waste. . . . Because the Japanese invasion of British Malaya has cut off the source of 80 per cent of our usual tin imports, only half as much tin may be used in 29 different items, and none at all in these items after March 31. . . . The list includes household furnishings and jewelry and toys and enamelware. . . . There'll be no more foil, too, to wrap cigarette packages and candy and gum.

Pork Consumers Want Lean Meat, Not Lard

Mr. and Mrs. Average American want and insist upon small, lean cuts of pork, says Prof. Earl H. Hostetler, animal husbandman of N. C. State College. "They don't want lard, when they buy pork," he declared.

The desirable type of hog to produce now, as always, Prof. Hostetler said, is a fast-growing, easy-feeding, prolific type that will yield desirable cuts of pork at live weights from 200 to 240 pounds. To produce such a hog requires proper feeding, including adequate amounts of protein to build muscle and lean meat, and to aid growth.

"Because swine are fed chiefly on grain, which tends to produce fat, particular care is needed to provide sufficient protein of the right quality in their ration," the State College leader advised. "Important as they are in hog rations, none of the cereal grains furnish protein of good quality. It is necessary to use efficient protein supplements."

Prof. Hostetler pointed out that North Carolina produced approximately 90,000 tons of cottonseed meal from the 1941 cotton crop. "In this material," he said, "hog raisers have available a protein supplement of proved efficiency when used in combination with tankage or fish meal."

"It is especially valuable to reduce costs of protein supplement used with grains, to produce firm pork, and to aid in providing properly balanced, efficient and economical rations for swine of all ages."

"Selection and use of a good protein supplement is usually the most important factor in swine feeding. Results from the N. C. Agricultural Experiment Station show that a mixture of animal and plant proteins makes an excellent supplement to corn for fattening hogs."

SUMMARY OF WAR NEWS

The weekly summary of war news attempts to do two things: give you the highlights of important events in this war around the globe and interpret major developments.—Editor's Note.

During the week the war continued to go against the Allies in the Pacific. Jap forces have reached within 50 miles of Singapore and this strategic point is under constant air attack.

Observers both in England and this country are showing great concern over the possible loss of Singapore. Senator Connally of Texas, chairman of the foreign relations committee, expressed his private opinion that Singapore would fall. The loss of this base would be a serious loss and would entail hard fighting later to recapture it.

There are signs, however, that Allied strength is gathering in the Pacific. President Roosevelt said help was on the way. U. S. Bombers are in action over Malaya.

The Russians recapture Moshalsk, 57 miles west of Moscow, and continue to make gains all along the front except in the Crimea where the fighting has been hard. Moscow announces the weather as 40 below in that city.

Submarines are very active off the Atlantic coast, with five American ships destroyed recently, two off the North Carolina coast.

At 2 a. m. on Feb. 2 daylight saving goes into effect until six months after the war. The bill covers all interstate commerce activities and federal government, all clocks being turned ahead one hour, for the purpose of saving electricity.

After long discussion all 21 of the Latin American countries agree to sever relations with the Axis at a conference in Rio De Janeiro.

Donald Nelson, war production head, announces a "streamlining" of the war effort. He sweeps OPM into the discard places a single man at the head of six different divisions of war production with authority to "get the jobs done." He also announces no more automobiles produced after Feb. 1.

Congress is now working on a bill that would limit profits during the war and require all "special interest" groups including labor unions to file financial statements with the government.

Famed Mule Dies In Her 44th Year

A 44-year-old mule that has been owned by Mrs. Mary F. Carter of route 4 for the last 39 years died on Jan. 19. Named "Roadie," this mule could and did plow garden and truck patches when she was 42. Mrs. Carter said this faithful mule helped to raise eight children, which are now all married and most with families.

"Roadie" was bought when she was five years old. Black and fat, she got sick in the barn lot. Neighbors and a son-in-law took a bed quilt, rolled "Roadie" upon it and carried her inside the barn where she died a peaceful, comfortable death.

Insofar as is known "Roadie" was by far the oldest mule known in this section.

In a tragedy that stunned this entire section, one young woman of Mocksville was killed early last Friday morning and two other persons were gravely injured in an automobile accident west of Swearing creek near Lexington on highway 64.

Mildred Lucile Horn, 29, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Horn of Mocksville, was apparently instantly killed. A. T. Grant, Jr., 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Grant of Mocksville, driver of the car, is in the hospital at Lexington with a fractured skull and brain lesion. He regained consciousness for the first time Sunday and, barring untoward developments, is expected to make a slow but eventual recovery. Miss Josephine Cooley, 26, third occupant of the car who operated the Mayfair Beauty Shoppe here, is in a Charlotte hospital where she was removed for an emergency operation. Her spinal cord has been severed well up her back and no hope is held that she will ever be able to walk again, being paralyzed.

The occupants of the car drove over to Lexington Thursday night to visit Mr. and Mrs. Gray Hendricks, the latter having been associated with Miss Cooley in the beauty shop here before her marriage.

RETURNING HOME

The trio were returning home when the car left highway 64 at a curve about two miles west of Lexington and plunged down a 10-foot fill to within about four feet of Swearing creek. Sheriff Bowers and Deputy J. L. Evans of Lexington were quoted as saying after an examination of the scene that marks indicated the car traveled 95 steps on the left shoulder of the road, then turned over on the hard surface for 31 steps when pulled back on the highway and rolled down the fill. Miss Cooley was quoted by Sheriff Bowers as saying the car was not going at an excessive rate of speed when the accident occurred but that the driver was blinded by lights of an approaching car.

The accident is thought to have taken place shortly after midnight and help did not arrive until after 2 o'clock. Both Miss Horn and A. T. Grant were thrown from the car and Miss Cooley, who was not thrown from the vehicle, pulled herself out of the car that was tilted on its side with the lights still burning and began to blow the horn. Later she wedged a seat cushion against the horn which blew until the battery ran down and attempted, though seriously injured, to crawl to the highway for aid.

LOSES BLOOD

A. T. Grant lost considerable blood as he lay unconscious on the ground in the freezing temperature and it was necessary to give him a blood transfusion at the hospital, as well as later to drain his spine twice to relieve the pressure on his brain injury. His skull was fractured at the back near the top of his head.

Miss Cooley is thought to have received her initial back injury by a seat in the car, a Lincoln Zephyr that belonged to A. T. Grant, Sr. Miss Horn died from head injuries.

Dempsey Koonts, who lives on the highway near the accident, was said to have been the first person to reach the scene, not visible from the highway. He said his brother, Clyde, who also lived nearby, telephoned him at 2:10 a. m. that he thought a serious wreck had taken place. Koonts said he dressed, went to (Continued on page eight)

Get More Cotton Cloth For Tobacco Plant Beds

Results of efforts to obtain additional cotton cloth for tobacco plant beds, together with plans to help tobacco growers protect plants from damage by blue mold, were announced today by the Department of Agriculture.

Arrangements have been made with the textile industry through OPM officials to have four to five million yards of cloth distributed through usual trade channels during January and February in addition to sixteen million yards already contracted for this year's use.

The Department has informed wholesalers and retailers who have not yet been able to obtain cloth that orders are to be placed through regular suppliers. In spite of this additional cloth, the Department indicated that the total supply likely will be about one-fourth less than is needed to meet usual farm requirements.

The Department will launch an educational campaign to help farmers control blue mold and will appeal to all tobacco growers to protect all surplus plants in order that they may be made available to growers who may not have enough plants.

The Department said that despite efforts to obtain cloth for plant bed covers, there will be many instances in which farmers will need to use cloth of different specifications from that which they normally prefer to use. Also, the Department urged that farmers make the best possible use of any cloth carried over from the 1941 growing season.

READ CAREFULLY — THIS MAY SAVE YOUR LIFE SOME DAY

Should an air raid come to your community, you can do your part while protecting yourself. Remember these six simple rules:

1. Keep calm and cool.
 2. Stay home.
 3. Put out lights.
 4. Lie down.
 5. Stay away from windows.
 6. Don't telephone.
- Don't run—walk. Don't scream—be quiet. Don't crowd into public places. If the raid starts when you are away from home, lie down under shelter. Keep your mouth open by rolling your handkerchief and putting it between your teeth. Put your hands over your ears. Protect the back of your head. Don't look up.

In the house, go into your refuge room and close the door. Make yourself comfortable. Relax. If bombs fall near you, lie down. A good place is under a table with sturdy legs, or a strong couch turned upside down.

Keep away from windows. Don't look out. Shut off gas furnaces, ranges, or water heaters, and their pilot lights. Shut off electrical connections. Put out all lights you cannot closely screen, so no light reaches the street—the light that's out or covered tight will never guide a Jap!

If an incendiary hits your house, go put it out with a spray (never a stream, jet, or splash) of water. It will burn out rapidly under a fine water spray—a splash or stream makes it scatter molten metal. When it is out, go back to shelter.

The chance your home will be hit is very small. Keep cool. Stay off the streets. Again we say—keep cool!

Appoint one member of the family for your home warden to remember all rules. Mother makes the best!

Stay quiet indoors or under shelter till the "all clear" sounds.

Don't believe wild rumors. Don't crowd. Don't scream. Don't telephone. Don't start disorder or panic. Do what the Air Raid Warden tells you to do. Be strong, be calm, be orderly. Lick the aggressors — everyone can help. Do your share!

Farmers Now May Apply For New Tires And Tubes

Farmers of North Carolina are eligible to apply for permission to buy new tires and tubes for farm implements and trucks used in moving food products to market, the U. S. Department of Agriculture has been informed by the Office of Production Management.

G. Tom Scott, chairman of the North Carolina USDA War Board, has outlined the procedure for farmers wishing to purchase new tires and tubes.

First, Mr. Scott said, obtain application blanks at your local rationing board. Take this application to an inspector for the board and obtain a statement from him that the tire or tube to be replaced cannot be repaired, recapped, retreaded or otherwise placed in usable condition. If the tire or tube can be repaired, the farmer will be notified and he will, of course, be unable to secure new products.

Next, present the statement of the inspector to the rationing board with an explanation of the purpose for which the new tire or tube is to be used. Farmers are eligible for new tires and tubes for farm tractors and other implements for which they are essential, and for trucks moving farm products and food to market. Tires and tubes may not be obtained for trucks which transport such products to ultimate consumers. Tires and tubes may not be obtained for any purpose unless they are to be mounted immediately, Mr. Scott pointed out.

If the applicant meets the standards of the local rationing board, a certificate will be issued allowing the applicant to purchase from any dealer, providing the board has not already reached the monthly total of certificates it may issue, Mr. Scott added.

Farm Boys And Girls Launch Victory Drive

North Carolina's 60,000 4-H Club members are ready to embark on a seven-point Victory Program, according to L. R. Harrell, 4-H Club leader of the N. C. State College Extension Service.

The basis for the program was laid down in a discussion of civilian defense at a recent conference in Washington between 4-H Club leaders and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The program calls for: (1) interpreting to the community the four freedoms: Freedom of speech, Freedom of Worship, Freedom from Want, and Freedom from Fear; (2) making every effort to produce and conserve needed foods in 4-H Club projects; (3) saving for victory—prevention of waste, collecting scrap metals, burlap, old paper, etc.

(4) Developing individual and community health; (5) learning useful technical and mechanical skills and volunteering for civilian defense work; (6) practicing the democratic procedure; and (7) understanding the social and economic forces at work in this country through discussion groups and other organized activities.

Harrell explained that the seven-point program is a wartime revision of a program which North Carolina club members and their local leaders have been carrying forward for the past year and a half.

In commenting on the program, Mrs. Roosevelt put in a strong plea for activities which develop a better understanding of democracy and produce better health and nutrition among young people.

Friendship

No man knows, particularly in modern times, when death or deep injury punks unwittingly at our sleeve.

In an older person time has often eased the path that leads to the crossing of the bar. Death or injury, however, to a younger person leaves us stunned.

So it was with the accident that occurred to three of the fine young people of Mocksville last week. All of us felt a deep personal grief, even though few of us have been able to express it.

Lucile Horn, A. T. Grant and Jo Cooley were three lovable young folks. Full of life and laughter, it was great fun to be around them. Efficient though they were in their work, life was still something to enjoy in that untold measure given only to wholesome and buoyant youth. Perhaps without realizing it they had one of life's greatest possessions: a capacity for friendship that flourished more and more as their horizon widened.

Press Award

We would not be human if we did not find pride in the award given the Enterprise last week by the North Carolina Press Association for the best community service rendered by any non-daily newspaper in the state last year. The award is doubly welcome since it was the second consecutive year that this newspaper received such recognition.

Much of the credit for the articles that won the prize goes to D. C. Rankin, our hard-working, able, conscientious county agent. A sincere effort was made to select some farmer who typified to a high degree some outstanding phase of farm accomplishment advocated for 1942 by the county board of agriculture.

In order to cover the program fully it was necessary to run nine articles. While it perhaps seemed a little too ambitious for a paper of our size and involved considerable time and extra expense, we are glad that we did it and that we were fortunate enough to win first place for the second time.

It is a joy to a newspaper to serve its community to the limit of its ability and resources.

Upon a prize-winning newspaper, however, two obligations entail: one is to maintain a standard and the other is for the editor not to take himself too seriously. We assure our readers that we shall continue to strive to publish a good paper and that our hat will continue to fit.

Highlights Of The Sunday School Lesson

The Sunday School Lesson for January 25 is, "The Temptation of Jesus"—Matthew 4:1-11; Mark 1:12, 13; Luke 4:1-13.

War brings great and subtle temptations. So it is timely that today's lesson deals with the dramatic experience of Jesus, and with the whole large theme of temptation.

In war, a nation is tempted to lose its poise, and to become ridden by panic, fear or hate or small selfishness. Our national character and mission were never more obligatory upon us than now, as Great Britain has shown.

Thus another name for temptation is opportunity. The war is our chance to prove our best selves as well as a seduction to release our worst. As human Jackals prowl over battlefields, intent on loot, so there range impulses which, in time of peril, put personal gain, personal safety, personal advantages ahead of the great principles of patriotism, heroism, steadfastness and service. Many of us will have our souls proved by the present war.

Danger to the best

Lying on the surface of our lesson is the truth that nobody is beyond the power of temptation. It came to the Son of God Himself; it comes to every one of us.

Not only did temptation come in all its perilous reality, to the sinless Saviour, making clear that the best of men are not beyond its reach; but it also came hard on the heels of an ecstatic experience. In a mood of exaltation, Jesus had been baptized in the Jordan by John. He had been attested by the Forerunner, and by the Voice from the clouds. This was the Master's highest moment, up to that time.

Then it was that reaction came. Jesus was led—yes, led by the Spirit—into the wilderness, to confront a challenge to all that His baptism had made real. One version of the Scripture says that He underwent every kind of temptation; a truth expressed later by Paul in his familiar assertion that Jesus was "tempted in all points. Like as we are." If Jesus could be tempted, then even the holiest men and women are not immune. Life at its highest is a

Shallow intellectuals, who of late years have most effectively done some of his errands, repudiate all belief in the devil. But we cannot ignore the second actor in the great wilderness drama we are studying. He is explicitly in the Bible here as elsewhere; and he is definitely at work in the world. Without his prompting and assistance there never could have been such diabolical deeds as the Japanese perpetrated in Nanking, or as the Germans have done in Poland. Satan has many aides, but he himself is the master mind, loose in the world for a season.

Dr. Henry Sloane Coffin, a scholar of distinction who has kept his head amidst the vagaries of other intellectuals, puts

It is the devil tried something more subtle: he proposed that Jesus give a presumptuous exhibition of God's care and of His own sonship, by casting Himself down from the pinnacle of the temple. "Prove the Scripture," But again the Tempted man wielded the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God, before which Satan cannot stand: "Thou shalt not make trial of the Lord thy God."

In the third temptation, Satan urged Jesus to a short cut, a compromise, in coming to His kingdom. "Make terms with me," said the evil one, after showing Jesus the kingdoms of the world, "and you can have it all." Satan was the first appeaser. Again Jesus confounded the devil with the Scripture declaration of God's sovereignty.

Then Satan fled; and in his stead came angels to comfort the Victor in the combat.

Farm Classes Being Held

PINO. — At the meeting last Monday night the Pino grange discussed the statewide major project for 1942, "Defense for North Carolina Farm Homes Through Farm Home and Community Improvement Program."

Mrs. Queen Bess Kennen, lecturer of the grange, directed the program for the evening which seeks to increase food and feed production and in every farm home and conserve soil, forest and water.

Miss Florence Mackie, home agent, outlined the goal of farm women for this year. Selmer Neskaug and Jack Barnes led a round table discussion on general farm improvement. Paul B. Walter rendered special music and a group composed of Mary Lee McMahan, Lois West, Jean Furches, Dorothy Leagans, Martha Rose Miller and DeWilla Dull sang a song.

Mrs. Hanes Yates and Clay Allen served refreshments to 27 members and a number of visitors.

FARM CLASSES

Beginning last Wednesday night, Mr. Neskaug, agricultural teacher at the Farmington school will hold a series of ten evening classes for adults on better farm living. Various subjects will be illustrated by film strip and movies. All farm folks are invited to attend these classes at the grange hall.

squarely up to us the inevitable choice between a real devil and a devilish human nature. He says, "There are sinister factors mightier than himself with which a man must grapple. . . . There are malignant forces—call them 'trends,' 'lags,' 'urges,' 'obsessions,' collective movements or collective inertia or call them plain devils—and they are viler, more brutal, more dangerous than we are at our worst. There is a malignant control over our earth. One can say many true things about earth's goodness and pleasantness, but its dominant factor, 'the prince of this world,' is neither good nor lovely. Not to recognize this is to spend our days in a fool's paradise. Healthy religion has always insisted that our world is spiritually dangerous. "Watch and pray, that ye enter not into temptation."

Satan's assault upon Jesus was an attempt to make Him doubt God. He proposed an easy way, instead of the hard way for Christ to fulfill His mission. At the root of every temptation that comes to mortal is this assumption that God does not mean what He says. If we really believed God, do you suppose that the world would have carried on as it has done for a generation, or that the present war would be raging?

First of Satan's appeals to Jesus, the hungry roamer in a desolate wilderness, was to turn stones into bread. In other words, put material satisfaction first: Jesus countered with the sublime and universal truth, exemplified in His own conduct, "Man shall not live by bread alone."

Then the devil tried something more subtle: he proposed that Jesus give a presumptuous exhibition of God's care and of His own sonship, by casting Himself down from the pinnacle of the temple. "Prove the Scripture," But again the Tempted man wielded the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God, before which Satan cannot stand: "Thou shalt not make trial of the Lord thy God."

In the third temptation, Satan urged Jesus to a short cut, a compromise, in coming to His kingdom. "Make terms with me," said the evil one, after showing Jesus the kingdoms of the world, "and you can have it all." Satan was the first appeaser. Again Jesus confounded the devil with the Scripture declaration of God's sovereignty.

Then Satan fled; and in his stead came angels to comfort the Victor in the combat.

Country Learning Fast How To Fight World War

This country is learning fast how you must go about fighting a World War. We are learning that it isn't enough to be united in our feeling about the war, but that we must be united in action, too. And that we must be realistic—prepared for a long hard pull.

Nothing better shows the need for realism than the fact that a lot of people thought tire rationing wasn't going to last. A lot of people thought that because we might be ready to turn out synthetic rubber at the rate of 200,000 tons a year in 18 months or so tire rationing regulations could be relaxed immediately.

Price Administrator Leon Henderson killed that idea, pronto. He called it "a false hope," and said it is entirely possible that every pound of synthetic rubber that can be produced will be needed for military use.

We will do well to avoid all easy optimism, all the trends indicate that things may get a lot tougher for the consumer before they get better. But things will get tougher for Hitler and Hirohito, too.

As for unity in action, we took a long step toward that on the broad and all-important war production front when the President established the War Production Board, with Donald M. Nelson as its chairman. That action cleared the way for concentrated attack, under a single leadership, on the job of converting our huge national industrial plant from the users of peace to the work of war. And that's how we'll beat the Axis.

The past few days have shown that Americans can unite on action in other spheres, too. The Office of Production Management's campaign to salvage waste paper, and scrap metal, and rags and old rubber, now has been organized in 16 states, and OPM is calling on the operators of the nation's 1,700,000 retail stores to help. Now that we're in this war and faced with critical shortages of materials needed to make weapons and equipment, nothing is waste—nothing should be thrown away.

All that comes under the general head of conservation. There's another side to this conservation business, too, at which we will all probably have to become experts. That's nothing more than taking care of things—from garden hose to tractors. That's just keeping the old bus running and being careful of its tires because it may be a long, long while before you can get another helping.

Speaking of tractors, the OPA probably has headed off a threatened rise in farm equipment prices. The increase was to have been based on increases slapped on original equipment tires by the four major rubber companies. The rubber companies withdrew the increases at OPA's request.

So far as the consumer is concerned, the prescription looks like "the mixture as before—" but in much larger doses. The great diversion dam of war needs already has impounded more of the things to which we are accustomed than we realize, many of us won't realize it until present stocks in the hands of dealers—often these stocks are large—have been exhausted. But then we'll see the war reflected on the druggist's counter and in the clothing and many other places—beside the auto dealer's.

Another thing we can expect is conservation through substitution and simplification. Substitution merely means the use of some other material for a material needed for military purposes. The Nazis who've had to do a lot more of it than we probably will, call such products of substitution "ersatz." Simplification means stripping a machine, or a household appliance, of every bit of unnecessary material.

A good example of simplification is the "Victory Model" bicycle at which OPM officials looked the other day. It weighs only 34 pounds as against a 55 pound average for last year's models. America's bike manufacturers will turn out 750,000 of these machines as against 1,827,000 of the larger models made in 1941. That'll save 30,000 tons of steel and a lot of nickel and copper. The tires are smaller and mostly reclaimed rubber.

Consumers will have to make sacrifices, but the OPA is making every effort to see they don't have to pay excessive prices for the things they need. . . . Sugar prices shouldn't rise until present stocks in the hands of retailers are exhausted and then only fractionally, if at all. . . . there's no shortage of any foodstuff in sight although sometimes people create temporary local shortages by "runs" based on false rumor. . . . The OPM's order allocating cellophane is going to make a lot of things look a lot different. . . . It'll change the packaging of cosmetics and soaps and razor blades and jigsaw puzzles and punch boards. . . . Cigarettes will still come done up in cellophane where the manufacturer has eliminated the use of tin foil. . . . There's been a rise of ten cents a thousand in the price ceiling above the so-called "ten cent brands" of cigarettes but they shouldn't cost you any more over the counter. . . . The retail price has been on that basis for some while. . . . The Office of Civilian Defense has enlisted the nation's 1,500,000 Boy Scouts for the duration. . . . They'll assist civil defense units in emergencies. . . . The OCD has launched a Victory Garden Program. . . . Idea is more and larger vegetable gardens in every community.

DONALD NELSON HEADS WAR PRODUCTION BOARD

OTHER WAR NEWS GIVEN

The President established a War Production Board headed by Donald M. Nelson, former mail-order firm executive and more recently Executive Director of SPAB and Priorities Director. The President directed Mr. Nelson to "exercise general direction over the war procurement and production program," to supervise the OPM and issue production and procurement directives where necessary to all other Government agencies. The President said Mr. Nelson's decisions shall be final. Vice President Wallace and other members of the SPAB, now abolished were made members of the War Production Board.

In letters to OPM Directors Knudsen and Hillman and other production officials, Mr. Nelson said "we must enlarge all our previous activities . . . all our facilities . . . must produce 24 hours a day, 168 hours a week." OPM Director Hillman, speaking in Washington, said the nation's force of workers in war industries must be doubled or tripled, more women must be trained and brought into the labor force to take the place of men going into the armed services. He asked employers not to bar aliens in war industries except in plants turning out secret weapons.

Director Odum of the OPM Contract Distribution Division said a plan has been prepared to set aside one percent of all available materials to assist small manufacturers in keeping their plants going until they can be converted to war use. He said the nation's entire production facilities—all of those "hidden away in thousands of cities and towns and villages"—must join in the total war effort. He asked all mayors to have every manufacturer in their cities register at the nearest OPM Contract Distribution Division field office and to "go after war contracts with every ounce of ingenuity and energy they possess."

The War Front

The Navy Department reported the sinking of five enemy vessels in Far Eastern waters—three transports and two large cargo ships. The announcement brought to 25 the total of Japanese vessels reported definitely sunk by the Navy and Marine Corps in the Pacific. The Navy also announced two allied merchant vessels were attacked by Axis submarines off Long Island. Throughout the week Gen. MacArthur reported heavy land and air fighting in the Philippines but said American and Philippine troops were putting up effective resistance and U. S. losses were low.

Army

War Secretary Stimson announced the Army will be increased from the present total of 1,700,000 men to 3,600,000 men this year. Combat air units and armored units will be doubled; 32 motorized divisions will be added, and at least 50 more military police units for guarding production facilities will be created. Instead of the originally scheduled 10,000, more than 90,000 privates will be selected to attend officer-training schools. All training centers and posts will be enlarged and five temporary tent camps will be set up. To make 2,000,000 more men eligible, the Army will lower age limits for aviation cadets from 20 to 18 years, make married men eligible, and change educational qualifications by eliminating college credit requirements.

Selective Service Director Hershey said the Army increase could be accomplished without calling up men with dependents. He said there are now 1,000,000 men in class 1-A but not yet called, and 900,000 more men can be obtained by reclassification of other men and from those men who will register February 16. He said deferment cases would be re-examined but deferments will continue to be given where possible to avoid undue disruption of family life. He said married men with one or more children probably will not be called until an Army of 7,000,000 to 8,000,000 has been built. He estimated 10,000,000 is the top number of men the U. S. could mobilize for service even with lowered physical standards.

Labor Disputes

The President abolished the

Navy Honors Kearny Officers

Here are four of the fourteen officers and sailors of the Kearny who were rewarded by the Navy for "heroism, gallantry, and devotion to duty." Lieut. Robert J. Esslinger (top left), Ypsilanti, Mich., engineer officer, and Lt. Com. Anthony L. Danis (bottom right) of Washington, D. C., commander of the Kearny, were awarded the Navy Cross. Ensign Reuben Perley, Jr. (top right), Riverside, Calif., and the destroyer's executive officer, Lieut. Eugene S. Sarfield (bottom left) of Brooklyn, N. Y. received official letters of commendation.

National Defense Mediation Board and established a National War Labor Board with NDMB Chairman Davis as Chairman. Four commissioners will represent the public, four will represent employees and four, industry. The new Board has wider authority than the old Board and can arbitrate or mediate disputes as it sees fit except that it cannot disregard existing labor legislation.

The Maritime War Emergency Board established war bonuses for sailors on merchant ships.

Autos

The OPA announced auto rationing would begin February 2 in the same manner as tire rationing. Of the 202,000 cars in the industry quota for January, about 150,000 cars will be stored with dealers who promise not to sell without permission—probably not to be granted before January 1943—and then only at OPA-established prices.

OPA issued a schedule of prices for "retreadable" tire carcasses and "retreads" and forecast a ceiling over all used tires "in the very near future." Federal Loan Administrator Jones announced plans to increase synthetic rubber production capacity to 400,000 tons by pooling of resources and skills of the rubber and oil industries if priorities can be obtained on steel needed to erect plants. OPA Administrator Henderson said tire rationing would probably not be affected because of increasing military needs for rubber.

Censorship

Censorship Director Price, after consultation with newspaper, magazine and periodical editors, announced a code of conduct which publications were asked to follow in handling information in order to prevent information of a military nature reaching the enemy. Prohibited, unless officially released, are most details of military, naval or industrial establishments, casualty lists, damages to war facilities, movements of troops and ships, weather reports except of certain types, and movements of the President or of official military or diplomatic missions.

Agriculture

Agriculture Secretary Wickard said goals have been revised to call for the greatest agricultural production in U. S. history, with particular emphasis on the production of oil-bearing crops such as peanuts and soybeans. The corn goal was stepped up by five million acres in order that there be feed supplies to continue expansion of meat, dairy and poultry production. Dry edible bean and dry pea production increases were called for. An additional five million provision made for an increase bushels of rice was asked and over 1941 of more than 18 million cases of canned fruits and vegetables.

Civilian Defense

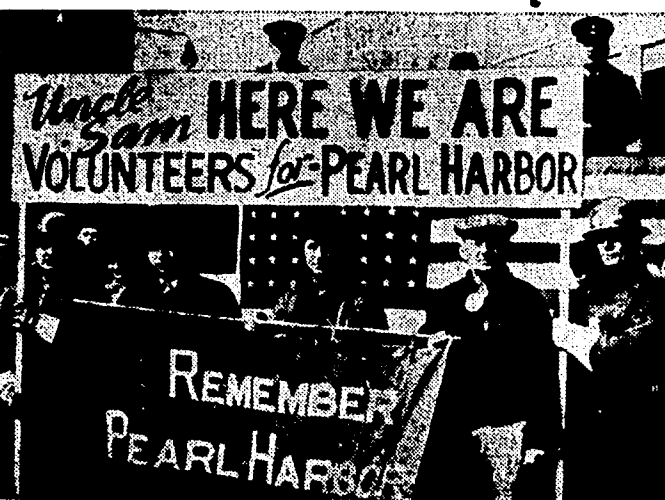

The OOD announced 3,516,600 volunteers have enrolled in the various civilian defense services, including 1,423,755 assigned to training or duty in the protective services. The Office also announced a Victory Garden Program under which all families in any community can jointly till community gardens, use the produce themselves and give the surplus to schools and institutions.

Surgeon General Parran told the U. S. Conference of Mayors in Washington "the enemy has planned and in my opinion will use bacteriological warfare when ever possible." He asked the mayors to begin at once to take every possible precaution.

Conservation

The OPM Bureau of Industrial Conservation opened a program to mobilize the nation's 1,700,000 retail stores in a continuous drive to salvage materials—wastepaper, scrap metal, old rags, rubber—needed to produce weapons for the fighting forces. Signers will display window emblems signifying their part in the "Salvage for Victory" program. The shopping public was asked to help conserve tires, trucks, and paper by carrying home bundles instead of depending on delivery service. Consumers of natural gas in nine States, mostly in the Midwest were asked to cut consumption as much as possible.

They 'Remember Pearl Harbor'

Shipworkers who volunteered to go to Pearl Harbor parade past the reviewing stand at the Brooklyn, N. Y., Navy Yard before leaving for the Hawaiian naval base heavily damaged by the Japanese. Several hundred of the workers were called for work in repairing the damage.

Home-Grown Fruits Will Help 'National Offense'

In 1941—or until December 7—the United States was engaged in National Defense. In 1942 the United States is engaged in "National Offense."

Miss Mary E. Thomas, Extension nutritionist of N. C. State College, says the change from "defense" to "offense" re-emphasizes the need for every American to be well fed. Fresh fruits, she says, must be present in generous amounts for a healthful diet.

"We were alarmed when the results of recent studies by the Bureau of Economics were announced," Miss Thomas declared. "They showed that half of the people in the United States were inadequately fed . . . yet, half of our people don't get the foods they need for maximum efficiency."

"Now that America needs to put forth every effort to win this war, there's all the more reason to stress nutrition," she continued. "It would be different if we couldn't grow fresh fruits and vegetables, but there is no excuse for any farm family to do without these protective and vitamin-rich foods."

The Extension specialist says that science has proved the old saying, "An apple a day keeps the doctor away." She declared, "In the apple, Nature has prepared for us the most compact package of health-giving food that we possess."

Miss Thomas says that a complete fruit garden for the average farm family can be planted on a half acre of ground. Experimental investigations have shown that an orchard of one-half acre in size is more profitable for the average farm than an orchard of one acre or more. "No farmer, if his work is properly managed, should be handicapped or delayed by a fruit garden," she concluded.

The Woman's Club of Cooleemee held the regular monthly meeting in the community hall at 7:30 in the evening of January 16.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. M. H. Ridenhour. The subject of this meeting was "Food and Nutrition" in relation to the National Defense program. Mrs. Margaret Green stressed the subject of conservation and preservation of foods, the necessity of raising food for home consumption, and the necessity of an adequate diet as being essential to our national fitness. In her talk, Mrs. Green told the club members what constituted an essential diet and gave the protective foods necessary for maintaining health. She closed the discussion with this thought: "Eat what you want after you've eaten what you must."

In connection with the classes to be formed in Home Nursing and Care of the Sick, Mrs. Green asked that the Woman's Club give money to be used for the purchase of a doll to be used in these classes for demonstration purposes.

Miss Florence Mackie held an open discussion on what could be done to cultivate a taste among families for the essential foods. Several suggestions were made by the members.

The First Aid class being conducted by Graham Gobble joined the Woman's Club to hear T. C. Pegram give a talk on preparation for air raids. Mr. Pegram warned the group that the situation was far more serious than the majority of people realize, and that we must unite in cooperating with the raid wardens for protection. He gave the essential precautions to be used during a raid and the preparations that should be made immediately in each home. He stated that the one outstandingly important fact was calmness under all circumstances. Mr. Pegram asked that the telephone lines be kept clear, and gave the signals for a raid.

LOCAL TEACHER

Daughter of John Marshall and Sallie Call Horn, Lucile Horn was born in this county on June 3, 1912. She graduated at the Mocksville high school in 1929, was salutatorian of her class, and graduated at Woman's College of the University of North Carolina in 1933. She taught in the Cooleemee schools for six years and for the last three years had been a member of the Mocksville high school where she taught the seventh grade. Member of a prominent family, her father is the popular district supervisor of state prison camps.

She is survived by her parents and a sister, Irene, who is secretary to E. M. Holt, general manager of the Erwin Cotton Mills at Cooleemee; by her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Horn of Davie county.

The funeral, one of the largest ever held here, was at the Baptist church at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, conducted by Rev. E. W. Turner and assisted by Rev. R. M. Hardee and Rev. A. T. Stoudenmire. Interment was in the family plot in Rose cemetery. The floral tributes were abundant.

Pallbearers were A. M. Kimbrough, Jr., Grady Ward, Gailther and Rufus Sanford, Dr. S. A. Harding and C. F. Meroney, Jr. Flower girls were Mesdames A. M. Kimbrough, Jr., Joe Patner, R. S. McNeill, Gailther Sanford, W. M. Long, Grady Ward, C. F. Meroney, Jr., Jim Kelly, Buren Stout, Misses Pauline Daniel, Mary and Jane McGuire, Helen Page, Lucille Walker, Marjorie Mosley, Margaret Smith, Christine Warren, Delia Grant, Peggy Skinner and Nancy McIver.

Among the out-of-town guests at the funeral were: Winston-Salem: Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Dellinger, Mrs. J. Lee Diggins, J. I. Morris, Bud Flynn, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Blackwood, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Blackwood, Jr., Mrs. Alvin M. Brown.

Salisbury: Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Rike, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Stilwell, Mrs. J. R. Mize, Ernest Mize, J. S. Warren, Mrs. Ragdon Femister, Boone, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Council, Lillington, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Stout, Danbury, Rud George and J. J. Taylor; Statesville, Mrs. J. D. Pope and H. L. Foster; Boone, E. F. King; Lenoir, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Fitzgerald, Z. V. Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Peck, A. J. Justice, W. B. Pugh; Concord, Lewis Peck; Greensboro, Miss La Vade Minor, Mrs. John Minor; Winston-Salem, C. J. Call; Brevard, Mrs. Melvin Gillespie; Sanford, Mr. and Mrs. Jester Adcock; Elkin, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Beddingfield; Mount Airy, W. E. Sparger, J. H. Kelly; North Wilkesboro, J. G. Hackett; Newport News, Ben Harris; Raleigh, T. O. Little; Rockwell, Cal Miller; Cherryville, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hoyle; Claremont, Mrs. O. H. Coulter.

Expressions of sympathy at Miss Horn's death were seen in all walks of life. A colored prisoner at the prison camp, Leroy Rhinehart, wrote a letter of condolence. Local Boys Scouts raised funds among themselves to buy a funeral wreath. In lieu of flowers Mr. and Mrs. Gailther Sanford made a contribution to the Orphans Home at Barium Springs in memory of Miss Horn.

SOLDIER

A. T. Grant, Jr. was home on leave from Camp Gordon, Ga. where he is a private soldier. He has been in the army for 10 months and his excellent physical condition will, it is stated, help him to pull through. Extremely well liked and member of a noted local family, his father is a widely known attorney and former legislator. An elder brother, Brewster, who was one of the most brilliant young men of this section of the state, was killed in an automobile wreck near Kannapolis 13 months to the day prior to the accident last Friday.

A skilled technician, Miss Cooley bought the Mayfair Beauty Shop more than two years ago from the former Miss Ruth Smith. She is very popular and her manifold friends are deeply distressed at her permanent injury.

SUMMARY OF WAR NEWS

The weekly summary of war news attempts to do two things: give you the highlights of important events in this war around the globe and interpret major developments.—Editor's Note.

One of the most significant developments of the week was the agreement of this country and Britain, later the other anti-Axis countries, to pool their munitions, shipping and raw materials to defeat the Axis.

This means that the Allies will be able to concentrate men and equipment from time to time wherever they are most needed.

In the biggest naval battle since Jutland the Japs have suffered their first naval loss of the war in the Macassar strait. Out of a huge armada of 100 ships which was bent on an invasion on Java, the Japs are estimated to have lost 31 ships and a third of their men. They still have, however, 65 ships and 150,000 troops, now said to be split in three groups. The battle, now in its sixth day, continues.

Singapore is now seriously threatened by the Japs who are only 40 miles away and the British order north shore of the island evacuated in preparation for seige.

U-boats are now operating the entire length of the Atlantic coast, 15 ships, mostly tankers, having been sunk within the past week. Latest reports of subs are off the Texas coast. Lady Hawkins, Canadian liner, sunk in Atlantic with 250 believed dead.

Churchill faces criticism in House of Commons for failure of British to hold the Japs and Rommel in Libya. Criticism is against members of his cabinet rather than himself who are accused of being inefficient. Churchill takes all blame, refused to fire subordinates and asks for vote of confidence which he is expected to get.

In Libya Rommel forces counter attack and drive the British back 150 miles to within 40 miles of Bengazi. Another big tank battle is expected soon in this area.

Russia continues to smash holes in the German lines west of Moscow and German defense lines were being constructed all the way back to Berlin, a Russian spokesman said.

TROOPS IN EUROPE

American troops, said to be enough for a regiment, have landed in northern Ireland. Reports have also been made of Americans landing in the East Indies.

PRICE CONTROL

While the new price control bill passed by Congress does not go far enough according to President Roosevelt, he is expected to sign it. The bill gives a price administrator the authority to put ceilings on prices, the base for such ceilings to be prices from Oct. 1 to Oct. 15, 1941.

Ceilings on farm prices would be in a class by themselves. They would be fixed at the highest of one of the following: 110 percent of parity, average market prices from 1919 to 1929 or the October 1 or December 1 market level. Parity is the average price of 1909-1913 inclusive.

RATIONING

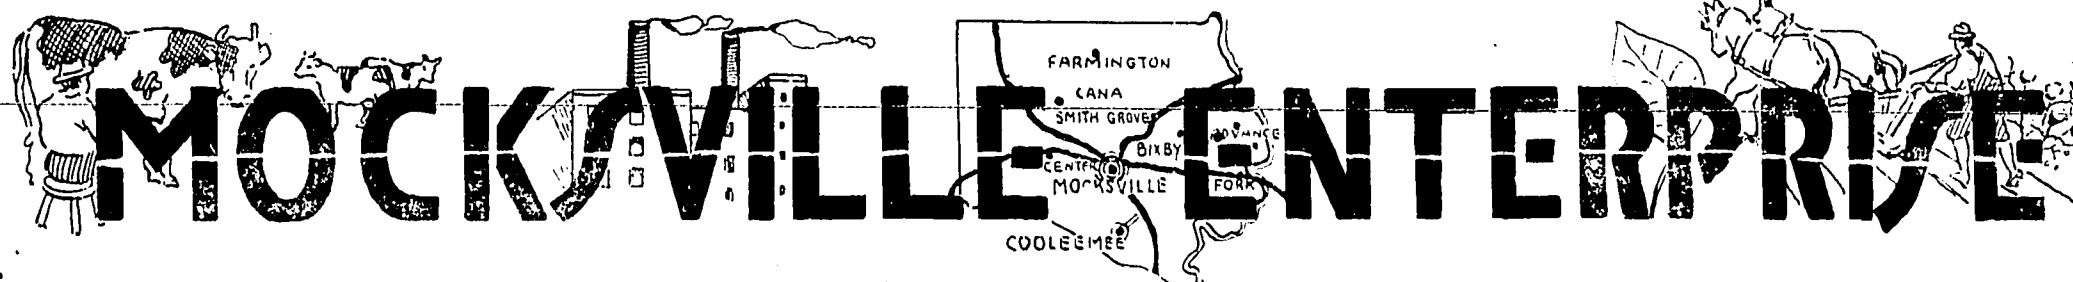

Sugar may be rationed and already many retailers in this section are allotting purchases. Much hoarding of this commodity is partially responsible. War in the Philippines cut off a million tons this year but Cuba has a surplus of more than this amount. The government expects to use the Cuban supply to make alcohol for high explosives. Distillers in this country wish to use some of the surplus corn and wheat in this country to make alcohol but the government has not authorized them to do so.

GOVERNOR CONGRATULATES THE ENTERPRISE ON AWARD

Governor Broughton has written a letter to the editor of the Enterprise congratulating the paper on winning the "best community service" award of non-daily newspapers.

"I am writing not only to congratulate you upon the recent award made by the North Carolina Press Association but to say that the articles in your paper which were responsible for his award were read by me with great interest.

"These articles in my opinion made a fine contribution to the all-important 'Food for Freedom' drive in the state and nation. These excellent articles were widely read and the fact that the award was based on them has given added emphasis to this excellent agricultural program.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Many of our friends and acquaintances in the newspaper fraternity were extremely kind in their editorial comment. We quote one below from the Elkin Tribune by Harvey F. Laffoon, editor and publisher of one of the best weeklies in the state that has thrice won the "general excellence" award of the N. C. Press Association:

"The Mocksville Enterprise won the trophy for the best community service, described by the judges as a 'powerful presentation of a farm program.' Ollie McQuage, editor and publisher, deserved that honor if ever a newspaper man deserves anything. He is constantly thinking of and searching for ways and means to make The Enterprise serve the people of his community more and better. And the pages of his paper each week reflect that interest and tireless aggressiveness to that end. We know the fullness of pride one has in being recognized for 'general excellence,' but to do a superior job in 'community service' is something tangible and definite. Ollie McQuage deserves that recognition, and the patrons and friends of his paper should rejoice with him in having received it at the hands of unbiased judges who know such values when they see them."

TRUTH ABOUT PEARL HARBOR

Japan was able to make a successful attack upon America's great Pearl Harbor naval base on December 7 because the two highest United States commanders in the Pacific failed to heed repeated "war warnings" from Washington of a surprise Japanese assault at any moment.

This was the conclusion announced by the White House in making public the report of a special commission, headed by Justice Owen J. Roberts, which went to Hawaii and conducted an investigation of the Pearl Harbor disaster for President Roosevelt.

The commanders named as responsible for failure to be prepared for hostile attack and charged with "dereliction of duty" were Admiral Husband E. Kimmel, commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet, and Lieut. Gen. Walter C. Short, commander of the army's Hawaiian department. Both already have been removed from command. The White House announced that action to be taken on the basis of the report is "under study." The charges may lead to courts martial for both officers.

Others apparently were exonerated of responsibility for Hawaii's unpreparedness when Japan struck.

Not only were these two commanders warned for weeks in advance, but a Japanese submarine was actually sunk by U. S. forces off Pearl Harbor approximately one hour and fifteen minutes before the main Japanese assault.

In addition, plane detectors had picked up the presence of aircraft 130 miles off Pearl Harbor 53 minutes before they actually arrived to unleash Nippon's deadly attack.

Yet no "alert" was sounded until after the Japanese launched their full-scale air and submarine action at 7:55 a. m. Hawaiian time.

In naming Kimmel and Short, the Roberts commission confirmed findings made late in December by Secretary of the Navy Knox, after a flying trip to Hawaii. Knox reported that the total navy and army casualties in the Japanese attack included 2,897 men killed and 869 wounded. The battleship Arizona, the former battleship Utah, used as a target ship, a minelayer and three destroyers were sunk, and the battleship Oklahoma was hit and capsized. Neither Knox nor the Roberts commission have disclosed what other naval ships were hit and damaged by bombs. The commission report explained that anything of military value to the enemy had been deleted.

The heavy casualties were suffered, the Roberts commission said, because the Japanese attack at 7:55 a. m. on Sunday, December 7, was a complete surprise to both Admiral Kimmel and General Short.

They had been told from Washington as early as November 27 that the situation in the Pacific was becoming increasingly dangerous and that war was a momentary possibility.

They had been adequately informed from Washington that war was imminent the board found. They had been warned to prepare against an air raid. They failed to confer upon the warnings and the measures to be taken under them. They refused to believe an air attack possible. Consequently the Japanese raid was a "complete surprise."

One result of their lack of collaboration, the board said, was that Short believed the navy was operating reconnaissance flights far off shore, when it was not, and that Kimmel thought the army was operating devices which would detect the approach of planes, when these were actually in service only a few hours each day.

But, while the board pinned major responsibility upon the two officers, it found numerous other contributing factors:

Effective Japanese espionage — which could not be adequately countered under peace time conditions.

Japan's disregard of international law in making the attack before declaring war.

Emphasis in warning messages sent from Washington on sabotage and the possibility of a Japanese attack in the western Pacific rather than at Pearl Harbor.

However, the blame was placed squarely upon Short and Kimmel, who in the opinion of the board "failed to make suitable dispositions to meet such an attack" and "failed properly to evaluate the seriousness of the situation." He added:

"These errors of judgment were the effective causes for the success of the attack."

It noted, too, these striking incidents.

A destroyer and an airplane teamed up to sink a small Japanese submarine just outside Pearl Harbor, 43 minutes before the attack. It was reported to the chief of staff at the naval base. No additional alert orders were issued.

The army's aircraft detectors were operated four hours daily, from 4 to 7 a. m. On the morning of the attack they shut down as usual at 7, 45 minutes before the Jap airplanes struck. At one of them a non-commissioned officer learning to use the devices, was given permission to continue operating. At 7:02 he discovered what appeared to be a large flight of planes north east of Oahu, about 130 miles distant.

At 7:20 he reported his discovery to an inexperienced lieutenant. The latter, knowing that certain American planes might be in the vicinity, assumed the planes shown by the detector to be American planes and took no further action. The planes were tracked toward the island and then lost.

HEADED BY ROBERTS

The board which conducted the inquiry was headed by Associate Justice Owen J. Roberts, on leave from the Supreme court. Its other members were Admirals William H. Standley and J. M. Reeves, both retired, Major Gen. Frank R. McCoy, retired, and Brig. Gen. Joseph T. (Continued on page four)

The Roberts Report

On the front page of this week's paper is the detailed story of what happened at Pearl Harbor. It is humiliating and almost unbelievable.

Two facts stand out. One is the lack of cooperation between the heads of the army and navy. The other is the failure to recognize the supreme importance of air power in modern war.

Admiral Kimmel and General Short had a number of conferences just before Pearl Harbor disaster but they did not even discuss what the other was doing about protection of Pearl Harbor. The navy had no off-shore nor in-shore patrol. The army had nothing but what they called "alert number 1," which meant being on guard from just before dawn to 7 a. m. Airplanes were bunched together on the ground to prevent sabotage and at the same time make a perfect target for the Japs.

Both commanders had seven warnings in six days before Dec. 7. The warnings came from Washington, yet nothing was done.

It was even thought that an air attack by the Japs was impossible. Such a mental attitude ignored the lessons of the war and makes everybody wonder if the rest of the high ranking brass hats of the army and navy are similarly hidebound in their concepts of modern war.

Obviously the Roberts report makes a demand for a unified command imperative all along the line. While Kimmel and Short should be punished for their lack of performance of duty, at the same time the report can but cause us to reflect on the "business as usual" attitude of this country in 1941 and the lack of accurate foresight by many of our non-military and non-naval leaders.

This, however, is no time for recrimination and abuse. We are at war. We should welcome the Roberts report with all of the shame that it brings to American history, quickly rectify the mistakes that are stated and implied, resolve that "remember Pearl Harbor" shall yet be the cross that brought us the light of unity and a truly all-out effort for victory in the shortest possible time.

Groundhog Day

Here we come right around to "Groundhog Day" and even if you are of the school of thought, who can't take much stock in this sort of weather forecasting, you still are going to ask if the groundhog saw his shadow on Feb. 2. No one around here seems to be able to tell us how this business started and most every one treats it as a joke. If the groundhog does get a view of his shadow and creeps back for six more weeks of winter we don't remember at the end of that time whether or not it was the fault of the groundhog. If the day is dark and he doesn't see his shadow between sunrise and sunset, do we go out and spade the garden and sit down to order garden seeds because winter is over (according to groundhog rules)? Don't forget the fellow who used to make weather prognostications by a goosebone back in grandpa's day, got just as big a kick out of it as you do over this groundhog method.

FARMERS MUST HAVE SEED TESTED BEFORE OFFERING IT FOR SALE

A new seed law which has been in effect since July of last year but has been generally ignored by farmers is one which makes it unlawful for any person to sell seed or offer for sale any agricultural seeds that have not been tested for purity and germination by the seed laboratory and found to meet certain specifications. It is pointed out that the words "any person" means dealer, farmer or anyone selling seed.

C. H. Lutterloh, Chief Field Seed Inspector, and A. S. Bynum, Seed Inspector for this section of the North Carolina Department of Agriculture, says that farmers of Davie county are violating the revised North Carolina Seed Law. In order to avoid any trouble with farmers disposing of their seed, D. C. Rankin, county agent, lists the summary of the provisions of this law. They are as follows:

1. The name and number of secondary noxious weed seed per pound shall be shown on the label.
2. The sale of seed containing primary noxious weed seed (Johnson grass and Bindweed) is prohibited.
3. The sale of small grain (wheat, oats, rye and barley) containing more than 100 secondary noxious weed seed per pound is prohibited.
4. The sale of seed containing more than 2,500 dodder seed per pound is prohibited.
5. Seed containing more than 500 dodder seed per pound shall be designated as "Low Grade Seed" and shall be labeled with a red tag.
6. The sale of seed containing in excess of 3% total weed seed is prohibited, except Carpet grass and Dallas grass which shall not exceed 5%.
7. All seed offered for sale shall have the official North Carolina seed tag attached to each bag or container.

8. Seed sold by farmers is not exempted from the labeling requirements of this act except when they sell to a seed dealer.

Farmers having seed to sell are requested to send a sample of these seed to the Seed Laboratory, North Carolina Department of Agriculture, Raleigh, N. C., for germination and purity test. This service is performed free, and requires only the trouble and postage of sending seed to the laboratory. The county agent has a very limited supply of envelopes for sending these seed to the laboratory.

Law Violation

Any violation of the provisions of this act is deemed a misdemeanor and is punishable by a fine not to exceed $500. Davie farmers are being warned to take no chances and to make sure that any seed sold or purchased is properly tagged.

For further information, farmers are invited to call at the county agent's office, see an agriculture teacher or write to the N. C. Department of Agriculture, Raleigh.

"Be Sure With Pure Seed" is the motto for the season.

Save Your Old Papers

Do not destroy your old newspapers and magazines. They are valuable and the government will need them.

EQUIPMENT

United States military authorities say that to build an army, 250 pounds of cotton are required for each enlisted man, with frequent replacements of clothing articles necessary.

"ELEVATING OUR SIGHTS"

Highlights Of The Sunday School Lesson

The Sunday School Lesson for February 1 is, "Jesus Calls Four Disciples."—Luke 5:1-11.

All over the United States and Canada there is arising an urgent call for volunteers for all varieties of war work. While the demand is continuous, the response has already been magnificent.

In the realm of religion—whence, even the economists and scientists say, our ultimate help must come—the need for leadership is greatest.

Leadership for the Common Man

While we have been scanning the horizon in vain for a new Luther or Savonarola or Calvin or Wesley, we have overlooked the example of Jesus. As he recruited leaders for his great enterprise, he found them among workmen engaged in humdrum tasks. That his first followers were four smelly fishermen, in bedraggled cotton robes, wet from their work on the water, men of no learning or public position, is a tremendous teaching for our times.

Our new leadership must come from the rank and file of preachers, teachers and laymen, who have no aspiration for leadership, but are fired by a new zeal for doing well in their own sphere whatever they can for Christ and country. One consecrated workman may set a whole shop ablaze with patriotic devotion and idealism. The least of preachers may indoctrinate his congregation and community with Christian standards. The teacher in Sunday school or public school may kindle the fire that will make his or her charges into high-souled patriots.

That is how the leadership which the critical hour demands is to be produced. In such service, as was the case with the disciples of Jesus, new abilities will be released, new vision will be achieved, and the whole land will be sown with men and women whose one consuming purpose will be to serve to the utmost their country, their world and their God.

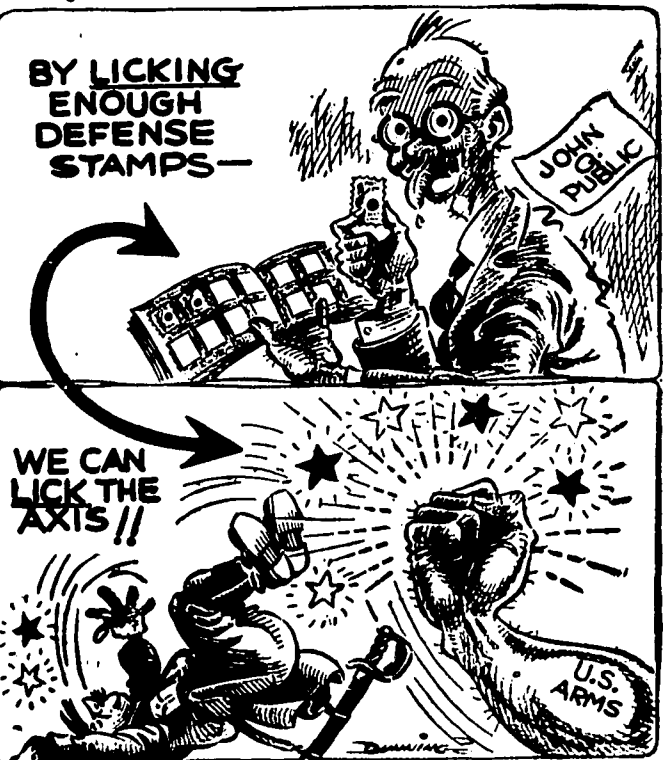

One person's new task may be the recruiting and teaching of a Sunday School class. Another's may be in the organization of local war service. Another may start neighborhood prayer meetings and discussion groups. Some may establish reading circles, to clarify and quicken thinking upon present issues. Others may become interpreters and exemplars of what Christian hospitality may mean, especially to service men. Still others may organize money-raising, for relief and war purposes. Another may set his neighbors to singing, and to community good cheer meetings.

Each of us may find a way to express his own personality to the uttermost outreach, and with no ham-stringing thoughts of becoming a "leader." Just do the task; leadership, like most of the other best things in life, is a by-product of noble purpose and activity. The tasks first laid upon the new disciples were of the most ordinary sort, suited to their common-place capacities, but calculated to make them the forefront of a movement that was destined to change the world.

FIRE DESTROYS VESTAL HOME

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Vestal near Prospect Church was completely destroyed by fire Saturday afternoon about 2 o'clock. The fire, of an undetermined origin, was first noticed on the second floor by Mrs. Vestal and her daughter who were in the yard. Mrs. Vestal managed to save only a very few household articles. The house was a complete loss. Mr. Vestal was not at home at the time of the fire. He has been working in Murphy for several weeks. The Vestals formerly lived in Yadkinville where Mr. Vestal was superintendent of the county jail.

MORE ABOUT

Pearl Harbor

McNarney, an active air corps officer.

The investigating board which spent 20 days in Hawaii looking into the surprise onslaught and fixing responsibility, noted that on November 27, 10 days before the Japanese attack, the chief of military intelligence advised army officials in Hawaii that peace negotiations with Japan "had practically ceased, that hostilities might ensue and that subversive activity might be expected."

On the same day, the chief of naval operations, Admiral Harold R. Stark, messaged Kimmel that Japan was expected to make an aggressive move within a few days.

Stark's warning to Kimmel said an amphibious expedition was indicated against the Philippines, Thai, the Kra peninsula, or possibly Borneo.

There were subsequent warnings in the next few days but the board said that these messages "did not create in the minds of the responsible officers in the Hawaiian area apprehension as to probable imminence of air raids." It added:

"On the contrary they only served to emphasize in their minds the danger from sabotage and surprise submarine attack. The necessity for taking a state of war readiness which would have been required to avert or meet an air raid attack was not considered."

CONSIDERED RAIDS

General Short, Admiral Kimmel, the commandant of the 14th naval district, Rear Admiral C. C. Bloch, their senior subordinates and principal staff officers had considered the possibility of air raids, the Roberts Commission found, but "without exception they believed that the chances of such a raid while the Pacific fleet was based upon Pearl Harbor were practically nil."

The attack on December 7, the commission said, "was therefore a complete surprise to each of them."

The commission, discussing activities of Japanese spies and agents, said it was apparent now that the Japanese had obtained complete information through their intelligence service and apparently knew that no task force of the navy was anywhere in the sector northeast, north and northwest of the Hawaiian islands.

They evidently knew, the report said, that no distant airplane reconnaissance was maintained in any sector and that up to December 6 no inshore air patrol was being maintained around Oahu island.

From maps, the report said, the Japanese knew the exact location of vital airfields, hangars, and other structures and where certain important naval vessels would be berthed.

The responsible commander in the Hawaiian area, the report said, had "prepared plans, which, if adapted to and used for the existing emergency, would have been adequate."

"Had orders issued by the chief of staff and the chief of naval operations November 27, 1941, been complied with," the commission concluded "the aircraft warning system should have been operating; the distant reconnaissance of the navy and the inshore air patrol of the army should have been maintained; the anti-aircraft batteries of the army and similar shore batteries of the navy as well as additional anti-aircraft artillery located on vessels of the fleet in Pearl Harbor, should have been manned and supplied with ammunition, and a high state of readiness of aircraft should have been in effect."

NONE MAINTAINED

"None of these conditions was in fact inaugurated or maintained, for the reason that the responsible commanders failed to consult and co-operate as to necessary action based upon the warnings and to adopt measures enjoined by the orders given them by the chiefs of the army and navy commands in Washington."

Both officers and men responded immediately when the attack began, the commission said, and exhibited "initiative, efficiency and bravery in meeting the raid."

But the army and navy commanders, the commission said, had failed to make "suitable dispositions" to meet an attack and had "failed properly to evaluate the seriousness of the situation."

"These errors of judgment," Roberts and his four associates declared, "were the effective causes for the success of the attack."

On December 1, the director of naval intelligence issued a bulletin, saying that Japanese fleet movements "indicated clearly that extensive preparations are under way for hostilities."

A last warning was sent from Washington one hour and 22 minutes before the attack advising that an almost "immediate break in relations" was expected. Every effort was made to expedite it, but it did not arrive in time "due to conditions beyond the control of every one concerned."

NO PATROL

No "inshore" patrol was in effect prior to December 7, the board found, except such as might be incidental to training and maneuvers, and that took place only on weekdays, during the hours of daylight. The same situation applied to reconnaissances far off shore.

"Means were available," the board said, "for distant reconnaissances which would have afforded a measure of security against a surprise air attack."

An anti-submarine and anti-torpedo net guards the entrance to Pearl Harbor. Customarily it was closed at night and open in the day time. On the morning of December 7, it was opened at 4:58 for the entrance of two mine sweepers, and left open. A small Japanese submarine slipped in about 7 o'clock. It was sighted at 7:45 and sunk. The net was ordered closed at 8:40 a. m.

The Japanese force which struck at Pearl Harbor was estimated at 150 to 200 fighting planes. No additional alert was ordered after the submarine was discovered inside the harbor, and at 7:55 the planes struck. Most damage was caused by aerial torpedoes launched from planes.

Under the state of readiness which had been prescribed for army aircraft prior to the attack, they were required to be ready for flight only after four hours notice. Moreover, to prevent sabotage, they had been closely grouped on the flying fields, by plan, instead of being dispersed for greater security and greater ease in taking to the air.

Concentrated, they made an easy target for the Jap fliers, and the latter damaged or destroyed them to such an extent that "very few fighter planes were able to take the air" during the attack. A few, however, did get into the fight, with marked success.

U. S. DEPT. OF AGRICULTURE SUPPORTS EGG PRICES

OTHER WAR NEWS GIVEN

The Department of Agriculture announced it will increase purchase of eggs to support market prices at a level at least 85 percent of parity. The Commodity Credit announced it will offer 100,000,000 bushels of wheat for sale to aid livestock producers to attain new production goals. Agricultural Marketing Administrator Henderson reported more than 2,650,000,000 pounds of agricultural commodities valued at $300,000,000 had been shipped to Britain under the Lend Lease program up to December 1. He said the war in the Pacific had not changed the basic program for agricultural operations—"we are continuing heavy purchases to make available the vital supply of foods for England and Russia."

Chairman Nelson of the War Production Board abolished the OPM and transferred its functions regarding production, purchasing, priorities, materials, civilian supply and subcontracting to a new streamlined organization under the Board. In addition, Mr. Nelson created under the new Board a progress reporting and a planning unit to suggest improvements from time to time.

Mr. Nelson stressed two fundamental differences between the old and new organization: an increased amount of authority and a more definite delegation of responsibility to promote speed. He said the main objective of the new organization was the full mobilization in the war effort of every national resource, large and small.

Mr. Nelson named Ernest Kanzier to convert auto industry facilities to war use. Mr. Kanzier will have complete authority to do whatever is necessary, Mr. Nelson said. He said that he expected to appoint as many other men with similar authority for other industries as are necessary.

Navy sank three enemy merchant ships off Tokyo Bay and torpedoed a 5,000-ton enemy vessel in Binanga Bay.

The Office of Facts and Figures, coordinating the information activities of all Federal agencies to keep the public informed of the war effort, issued a 62-page booklet, "Report to the Nation," outlining the defense and war programs from the beginning to the present. In separate chapters the report discusses price control activities, alien control, economic warfare, production of all necessary war items, civilian defense, war financing and all other phases of the national effort.

Autos, Trucks And Tires
The WPB ordered all production of passenger cars and light trucks for any purpose halted February 1. The announcement of the order said all military demands can be filled from the stockpile of autos that will be on hand by that date and which cannot be sold without Government permission. OPA announced that there is no prospect of rationing for used cars or of commandeering of private cars. OPM amended the auto freezing order to permit transfer of title to any vehicle under the terms of installment contracts drawn up before Jan. 1 and repossession of any vehicle involved in a breach of such contract. The agency also amended its tire freezing rules to allow clergymen to purchase new tires and tubes.

OPA put a ceiling price on materials used in retreading used tires.

Permission was also granted to the Railway Express Agency, Inc., to make an emergency additional charge of 10c per package sent at first, second or third-class rates.

Army

War Secretary Stimson announced completion of plans for the formation of a 6th Armored Division and two additional all-Negro units: an infantry division and an air pursuit squadron. The House passed and sent to the Senate legislation appropriating $12,500,000,000 to provide 33,000 new Army planes and equipment for them.

Navy
President Roosevelt asked Congress for $15,960,000,000 for the Navy and signed a bill authorizing establishment of a special limited-service Marine Corps composed of World War veterans and older men to be used in patrolling and guarding vital facilities. The Navy announced that students in school or college who have not yet reached their 20th birthday may enlist in the Naval Reserve with permission to complete the current school year before reporting for duty.

Civilian Defense
President Roosevelt asked Congress for $100,000,000 to be used by the OCD for aid and protection of civilians. Congress authorized the appropriation and formally placed the responsibility for civilian protection with the OCD. The FBI announced it will conduct special war traffic schools for police of 120 strategically located cities. The War Department announced that in cooperation with the OCD it will establish six more schools to teach civilian defense workers protection against chemical weapons such as incendiary bombs.

Labor
Labor Secretary Perkins reported hourly earnings of wage earners in manufacturing industries rose 1.5 percent to a new high of 78.1 percent—15 percent above the same time last year. Average hour worked per week (40.3 hours) were 4 percent above last year and weekly earnings ($32.81), 2 percent higher.

Labor Director Hillman announced regional labor conferences will soon be held in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Columbus, Ohio "to bring labor organizations into the war effort on their own ground." Labor organization officials, Government officials and representatives of universities and colleges will attend the meetings.

Ships
The Maritime Commission awarded contracts for construction of 660 vessels. This brought the total of Liberty ships contracted for to 997. Labor Director Hillman proposed a plan to place shipyard workers on a six-day 48-hour week in the Atlantic, Gulf and Great Lakes zones.

Priority Unemployment
President Roosevelt asked Congress for $300,000,000 to aid workers who lose their jobs temporarily because of conversion of civilian industry to war production, if the worker is willing to take special training to fit him for a war industry job. Under the program workers would receive a weekly benefit payment equal to 60 percent of regular earnings, but in no case more than $24 a week in benefits for 26 weeks. The Federal grant would make up the difference between unemployment compensation paid by the State and the 60 percent war dislocation benefit.

The WPA announced it is working on a program to shift to WPA rolls those workers dislocated by the war who do not fall within the scope of the program outlined by the President.
