

County Gives Cordial Welcome To Visiting Business Executives

Reported Impressed By This Northwest Section

Industrialists were welcomed to this county Saturday in stops on tours that carried them into 11 counties of Northwest North Carolina.

About 300 persons were on the trips into the Northwest area last Saturday. More than 100 of them were visiting executives from all sections of the United States; the rest were business leaders of Northwest North Carolina.

Counties visited included Alexander, Alleghany, Ashe, Caldwell, Davie, Forsyth, Stokes, Surry, Watauga, Wilkes, and Yadkin, all members of the Northwest North Carolina Development Association. Wayne Corpening, President of the association, said Saturday night that "several corporation executives told me they've been into other areas and never seen the great potential they found here!"

John F. Watlington, Jr., of Winston-Salem, president of the Wachovia Bank and Trust Company, also said that probably "the most important thing the visitors saw was the spirit, the character and the integrity of our people. Those characteristics were both noticed and well-received by our visitors."

Mr. Watlington said that of course he knew of nothing definite as this time as far as new industry was concerned but in the long run he said he felt confident that the area would profit from this tour and visit.

Vice President George Watkins of the Container Corporation of America at Chicago said he believed he could speak for all the visitors:

"This was a great public relations job. I think the thing that impressed everybody here is the ring of sincerity in the people we talked to."

The visiting industrialists and their hosts were divided into three tours for Saturday's trek, with two big Greyhound buses on each tour.

Tour No. 3 visited Davie County on the last leg of the journey Saturday afternoon.

Davie County representatives met the tour in Taylorsville, passed out brochures on Davie County, and rode the two buses into the county with the industrialists. Those meeting the group in Taylorsville included: G. N. Ward, D. J. Mando, Gordon Tomlinson, Hugh Larew and John Brock.

D. J. Mando and Hugh Larew used the microphones to tell the visitors about Davie County's heritage, its economic and industrial factors. The group was met at the city limits by the Mocksville Police Car and escorted through the town. The group was taken by the Davie County Hospital and the new consolidated high school plant.

A stop was made at the Davie County office Building in which was displayed many of the products manufactured by local plants. There they were greeted by local business and civic leaders. J. K. Sheek welcomed the group to this area and refreshments were served.

Knox Johnstone and P. J. Johnson boarded the buses and made the remainder of the trip with the group to Tanglewood Park where the Wachovia Bank and Trust Company was host at a barbecue supper.

Bootlegger Gets Prison Sentence

Robert Lee Dunn was sentenced to prison for a term of 12 to 15 months Tuesday by Judge A. T. Grant.

Judge Grant sentenced Dunn to prison after he failed to raise the money for a fine of $500 and cost imposed upon him in county court last week. Last Tuesday Judge Grant adjourned court until Wednesday to give Dunn a chance to raise the money, pay the fine and leave for Ohio. However, Dunn was unable to raise the money and has remained in the local jail for the past week.

In court Tuesday, Atty. Claude Hicks told the court that Dunn had been unable to raise the money for the fine and asked that the court be as merciful as possible.

In addition to the prison sentence, Judge Grant ordered Dunn's car confiscated and sold.

Dunn was arrested on March 30 by Sheriff Ben Boyles and was charged with illegal possession when ten half-gallon jars of white liquor, plus another partly filled jar, were found in the trunk of Dunn's car.

On another charge of possession, Dunn was sentenced to eight months, suspended for five years on condition that he pay the cost of the action and not molest his parents in any way and not violate any laws of the state.

Nominations Are Sought For Jaycees Junior Citizenship Award

Paul Reichle, chairman of the Junior Citizenship Awards Committee of the Mocksville Junior Chamber of Commerce, announced this week that he was accepting nominations for the annual Junior Citizenship Award.

Any organization can submit any number of nominations. However, all nominations must be submitted to Mr. Reichle.

The applications must be accompanied by an original essay of the nominee on some local problem or phase of community development.

"All the committee wants is an opportunity to view how these junior citizens think on the problems of this community. We have suggested the general subject of future development of Davie County and the relation of the writer thereto. The essay can be either general in scope, or it can deal with any specific category of which the boy or girl is familiar. All we are interested in is that it represents the thinking of the individual — we are not interested in a literary composition," said Mr. Reichle.

From the applicants, eight of the most outstanding junior citizens will be selected. The accomplishments of these boys and girls will be publicized and they will be honored with certificates. From this number, the judges, yet to be named, will select the county winner. The county winner will be announced at the high school graduation exercises in May.

VIVIAN MCKNIGHT of Advance is a candidate for graduation from Gardner-Webb College, and is slated to receive her diploma May 25. She is a secretarial student, and is a cheerleader.

$573 Raised To Date For Cancer Fund Drive

A total of $573 has been raised to date by the Davie County Unit of the American Cancer Society. The month of April was designated as Crusade Month.

A road block was held on Saturday, April 25, with members of the Jaycees and Lions Club of Mocksville participating. A collection of $173 was taken at this time. On Tuesday night, April 27, a house to house canvass was made by approximately 30 local residents and a total of $250 was collected at this time.

John Brock, campaign chairman, also announced $150 from other sources that has been turned in to him.

Several other communities in the county plan collections and all the coin collectors in the business establishments have yet to come in, according to Mr. Brock.

"The public has responded to the plea that cancer is an emergency that can only be met by all-out effort," he said. "It was in the best tradition of American get-togetherness that these volunteers operated. One thing is certain — by bringing our life-saving literature into practically every home, more and more adults will turn to regular health checkups as the best safeguard against cancer. Our volunteers were just as busy distributing free life-saving information as collecting funds."

Davie Vs Mills Home Here In Night Game

By JOHNNY WARD

The Rebels of the Davie County High School will play two night contests during the next week as the close of the 1959 baseball season is fast approaching.

The Davie nine travels to Spencer to meet North Rowan in a night game on Thursday night, May 7. The locals then return home to play host to the Baptist of Mills Home on Tuesday night. Game time is 7:30 p.m. at Rich Park.

This week the Rebels lost two games in the North Piedmont Conference play. The conference record now stands at 3 wins and 8 losses.

Last Thursday the Bulldogs of Thomasville downed Coach Bill Peeler's squad 9 to 4. The local nine pounded out 12 hits, but errors proved to be the difference as Thomasville had only four earned runs.

Outfielder Joe Whitlock collected 3 hits for Davie, while Fred Pierce, James Latham and Charlie Whitaker added two hits each. Bruce Driver, who was relieved in the fifth inning by Duke Jordan, was the losing pitcher. The locals stranded 11 men on the base paths.

On Tuesday evening the Davie nine bowed to Statesville 8 to 3. The Statesville Greysounds lashed the locals with a 14-hit attack. Although most of their hits were scattered effectively by pitchers Carl Jacobs and Bruce Driver, the visitors took advantage of every possible break to win the game.

James Latham and James Edwards collected two hits each for the Rebels. Ronald Spry singled in two of the three runs. Catcher "Mole" Spry collected his first hit of the season.

Thus far in the season the batting average leaders are as follows: James Edwards .424; James Latham .326; Ronald Spry .275. Ronald Spry leads in runs batted in with 14. James Edwards has 8.

Pvt. Ray G. Boger In Basic Training

PVT. RAY G. BOGER

Pvt. Ray G. Boger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Burley A. Boger, Route 2, Mocksville, has been assigned to Company B, 1st Battalion, 1st Training Regiment at Ft. Jackson, S. C., for eight weeks of basic combat training. Upon his arrival at Ft. Jackson, he was issued clothing and given a complete physical examination and a comprehensive battery of aptitude tests to determine the Army duty assignment for which he is best fitted. As part of his basic training he will be taught rifle marksmanship under the Army's new Training program. In Training, he will learn to use an M-1 rifle by firing at pop-up targets at varying ranges and on terrain which duplicates combat areas. He will also be taught drill, tactics, camouflage, military courtesy, first aid and other subjects. He will learn how to throw a grenade, fire in pitch darkness, crawl under barbed wire with machine gun fire overhead, and defend himself in simulated chemical, biological and radiological warfare situations. During his seventh week of training, he will march 13 miles with full field pack to a bivouac area to spend a week living in the field and learning to integrate the skills he has been taught. After completing basic training, he normally will receive a two week leave before reporting for his next assignment.

LOGGERS CHOOSY West coast loggers are discriminating. They have learned that just like any crop, trees must be harvested when they are ripe to bring the greatest returns. In addition to selective harvesting of individual trees and blocks of ripe timber, the modern tree farmer follows the practice of weeding: cutting out deformed trees and the remaining growing timber trees that crowd each other so they get more sunlight. This assures uniform tree growth and a better crop.

Social Security Corner

"COMMENTS ON MISINFORMATION"

Most everyone in our area knows a recent claimant that came to the social security office to file for benefits. We call her "Helpless Hepsibah." Helpless Hepsibah was under the impression that when she filed her application she could get benefits all the way back to when she was 62 years old. Helpless Hepsy was 66 when she filed her application. Instead of going back until she was 62, Helpless Hepsy could only get benefits for 12 back months. Now Hepsy hadn't worked any since she was 62 and had she filed her application when she became 62, she could have started drawing benefits for every month up to the month that she filed. Helpless Hepsy had planned on using all this back money in helping to fix her house. When the social security man asked her why she hadn't filed her application when she was 62, she said that her neighbors told her that if she waited she would get it all in a lump sum anyway. "Poor Helpless Hepsibah!" She only got 12 months' retroactive benefits. Helpless Hepsy told us that her neighbors were sure that she could get benefits back to when she was 62 and she just couldn't understand the social security people's position in this matter. Hepsy should have known that her "friends" were always willing to give her advice. Having lived as long as she has lived, Hepsy should have known that friends and neighbors are always willing to advise anybody on anything. Poor Helpless Hepsy was a little mad at the social security people because she didn't get her checks all the way back to when she was 62. Now Hepsy wasn't mad at her neighbors or herself, she was just mad at the social security people. You know Helpless Hepsy; you see her every now and then. Make sure you don't become a Helpless Hepsibah. People who have social security problems of any kind or people who have questions of any kind about social security should avoid Helpless Hepsy's neighbors like the plague. Take your questions and your problems to the social security office at 105 Corriher Ave., Salisbury, N. C., either in person or by mail, or if you wish, by telephoning ME 3-4512. You neighbors may advise you on how to fix your TV set, but when it comes to social security, get the facts from your social security office.

Boost corn and cotton yields with 45% nitrogen, Side-dress with Du Pont NuGreen

SIDE-DRESSING WITH DU PONT "NUGREEN" feeds corn and cotton vital nitrogen at the most important point in plant growth. "NuGreen" is high in concentration. It contains 45% nitrogen that penetrates into the root zone and combines with soil particles to give corn and cotton steady nourishment throughout the most important part of the growing season. SIDE-DRESSING WITH "NUGREEN" speeds breakdown of crop residues... encourages root growth down to moist subsoil. "NuGreen" saves time and labor, too, because there's less material to handle... you get 45 lbs. of actual nitrogen in each 100-lb. bag. "NuGreen" comes in free-flowing shot form that spreads easily and uniformly; it's non-corrosive and works well in any type of application equipment. "NUGREEN" is also ideal for top-dressing pastures... supplies high-quality nitrogen for an extended grazing period of protein-rich feed. For profit-boosting yields of corn, cotton, or any other crop, order Du Pont "NuGreen" fertilizer compound today.

DR. CHARLES LEIGHTON Is Pleased To Announce The Recent Opening Of His Optometric Office At 2 Court Square, Mocksville, N. C. EYES EXAMINED - GLASSES FITTED

SO THIS IS NEW YORK

By NORTH CALLAHAN

The Great White Way may become the Big Silver Screen again if present indications continue. The movies are moving from Hollywood to New York—or at least, many of them are. Most any day now you can run across a film company shooting scenes in the Bronx or catching a vista of Brooklyn or making panoramic shots of Manhattan. Crowds still cluster around to get a glimpse of the stars. Last year the movie industry spent over a hundred million dollars making pictures in Gotham and 1½ times this much is forecast to be similarly spent here this year. Well, the movies started here. Since the West Coast has grabbed two of our major baseball teams, we might as well snatch some of the "moon pictures" from there.

Dr. Francis Reynolds was doing some research for a network radio show here and the question arose as to whether or not the wife of President Cleveland was present for his second inauguration (she couldn't have been for his first, for he was married in the White House). George M. Amerny standing by said she was not present. How do you know, he was asked. "I was there," he replied. "I covered the story as a reporter for the New York Times."

The cops in this town along with a lot of other folks let out huge sighs of relief when Fidel Castro finally left. He had not been officially invited in the first place and these revolutionaries being what they are, it appeared that he would have his own scalp lifted by a bomb or bullet at any moment. Cops watched and people waited as "The Beard" moved around at the taxpayers' expense. Fidel didn't commercialize much, however. It is said he was approached by the Smith Brothers, by a safety razor firm and by the Castro Convertible people who make lounges.

Corey Ford says so many books have been written about the day something or other happened, that he is going to turn the tables and write about the day nothing happened. Others have already beaten him to the day Lincoln was shot, the day Christ died, Hiroshima, Pearl Harbor, are Alamo and Appomattox. The only thing Corey can think of that has not been written about the Civil War is what was in General Lee's pockets when he surrendered. To prepare for his momentous volume, he has equipped himself with two railroad timetables, a telephone directory, a map of Toledo, Ohio and a Christmas card. This seems to have earmarks of a masterpiece.

A woman here tells with a straight face that when she and her 6 months old son recently returned by ship from a trip abroad, at the customs inspection, an official looked at her huge pile of baggage and asked what articles of value she had acquired in the past six months. "Well, there's the baby—" she glibly said. The customs official stared at the sleeping infant in her arms, then smiled and waved her through with all her baggage. "Madam," he said, "original works of art are exempt from duty."

Go ham Gatherings: a man planning to go on a vacation who went to his bank and was refused a loan, bought a fish, wrapped it carefully and then put it in his safe deposit box there as he left town for a month. . . Grand Teton National Park, fabulous mountain resort enlarged by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., will open at Jackson, Wyo. on Memorial Day. . . Dr. Carlton Fredericks says men are better weight-lifters than women. Men, he avers, diet because of worry about their health. Women for appearance's sake. . . More movies may be made here now but fewer legitimate shows. In 1926 there were 94 Broadway shows, today there are 28. . . a forthcoming television show is said to be in the making about a lady detective entitled "Private Eye-ful."

'Rebels' Set New Conference Record

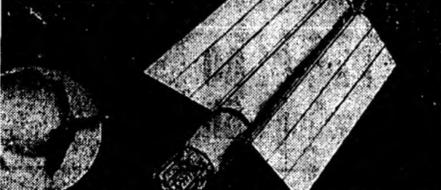

By JOHNNY WARD

Thus far this season the Davie County High School Rebels have compiled an overall record of four wins and nine losses. Although this isn't very impressive, the local team has accomplished a feat that no other team in the North Piedmont Conference has ever done. . . W. C. Clary, secretary of the Western North Carolina High School Athletic Association, the three back-to-back homeruns on April 21 was a new record in the North Piedmont Conference. The three consecutive round-trippers came in the third inning of the game with the Lexington Yellowjackets. Hitting the homers were James Edwards, Ronald Epy and Joe Whitlock. Mr. Clary also offered his congratulations to the Davie boys for setting this new record.

Stewardship

This land was my father's. Now it is mine. Often, as I work upon it, the words of Genesis come to me: "In the beginning, God created the heavens and the earth." And I think, too, of those other words from the same Book: "The Lord God took the man and put him in the Garden of Eden to till it and to keep it."

God entrusted the precious soil to us, and it is our duty to use it well. But he gave us stewardship of something even more precious—our souls. Just as we must care for the land, so must we enrich ourselves, spiritually. And the place in which to cultivate our souls is the Church.

Let us take a lesson from the land, which when well used is wonderfully productive, yet when neglected brings only aridity and erosion. Let us care for our spiritual as well as our physical fields. Let's go to church!

Copyright 1959, Koister Adv. Service, Strasburg, Va.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Davie . . . A Well Balanced County

It is only natural that we desire more industry in this county. Certainly another industry or two might help to make for more local business, more employment and perhaps a little higher standard of living. But even as it is, Davie is a well balanced county.

The old saying of "count your many blessings" can apply to counties and communities as well as people. Certainly Davie has much for which to be thankful.

We have 34 manufacturing plants in Davie County, including four large plants that employ more than 100 persons each. We have three plants that employ from 20 to 99 employees and 27 plants that employ from one to 19 persons. All in all, there are 1,923 persons employed in Davie County industry. This of course does not include the number of persons that daily make trips to their work in industries located in Winston-Salem, Lexington, or other nearby towns.

The industrial payroll in Davie County totals $4,804,000 per year.

Now for agriculture . . . of which the total value of farm crops runs over $8,000,000 per year. There are 1,865 farms in Davie on which 1,540 people are employed in agriculture.

Retail business . . . we have 144 retail establishments in the county plus nine wholesale houses. These two businesses employ a total of 456 people.

The median family income in Davie County is said to be $4,200 . . . which means that 40 per cent of all Davie families have this yearly average, while the family income for 50 per cent of Davie families runs more than $5,000. Only 10 per cent of the families in Davie County have an income of less than $2,000.

Basing it on any type of ratio as to size, few counties, if indeed any, can match Davie's economic picture. It is something for which we all should be proud and constantly work to make better. We must continue to grow and improve our resources. We can do this by staying alert to the constantly changing times and keeping our best foot forward.

The Rose

A rose is a rose is a . . . strawberry . . . is a mountain ash???

Gertrude Stein might have disagreed. But any member of the garden set can tell you that the strawberry and the mountain ash are among some 2,000 species of trees, shrubs and herbs that comprise the rose family.

Now that spring has started green thumbs itching, the most celebrated member of the family — called the "Queen of Flowers" — will be getting royal treatment in gardens throughout the country. And with good reason. The World Book Encyclopedia reports that roses account for more than 50 per cent of the value of all cut flowers sold in the United States.

The popularity of the rose is further verified by the fact that four states: New York, Georgia, Iowa, and North Dakota — and the District of Columbia have adopted it as their state flower.

The rose has even crept into our language. Life is a "bed of roses" for the man who's doing well for himself. And ever since the Greeks defeated the Persian king Zerxes in 479 B.C., supposedly after planning the battle secretly in a bower of roses, "sub rosa" has been used to describe anything hush-hush.

Both saints and sinners have claimed the rose for their own.

Hindu mythology relates that one of the wives of Vishnu — the preserved of the world, in the Indian religion — was found in a rose. Turks believe the rose originated from the perspiration of Mohammed. While the Christmas rose is said to have first sprung up at the feet of a shepherd's daughter who had no gift to present to the Christ Child.

On the other hand, Cleopatra is said to have covered the floor of her palace with roses a foot and a half deep when she entertained Mark Anthony.

And Eve reportedly chose a white rosebud to take with her when she was banished from the Garden of Eden.

Arlington Cemetery

The 100,000th person was laid to rest recently in Arlington National Cemetery, an expanse of tree-shaded Virginia hills overlooking Washington, D. C. He was a World War I veteran.

Established of grim necessity during the Civil War, the cemetery will be filled by 1970 if the present average of 90 burials a week continues. The Army Quartermaster General's Office is studying ways to make more efficient use of Arlington's 420 acres. Space may be gained by closing some roadways and walks.

The cemetery land, often called the most hallowed ground in the United States, originally was part of a grant made to a ship captain, Robert Howsen, for bringing colonists to the New World, the National Geographic Society recalls. The patch of wilderness inhabited by Indians and wild animals meant little to the seafaring man. Howsen sold the property for six hogsheads of Virginia tobacco.

About 1,100 acres eventually were acquired in the Arlington area by John Parke Custis, stepson of George Washington. Custis' son, George Washington Parke Custis, built a white-columned mansion atop a hill in the tract. Robert E. Lee married Custis' daughter and became master of the estate, which he abandoned after the outbreak of the Civil War.

On May 24, 1861, the Union Army took possession of the house and surrounding hills to present Confederate cannon from being planted there to menace the Capital.

After the first Battle of Bull Run thousands of Union troops bivouacked on Arlington's hills, turning the peaceful slopes into an armed camp. Field hospitals were hastily built.

Three years later, wounded and sick soldiers crowded Washington's military hospitals. Many died. Others were brought from nearby battlefields for burial at the Capital. Soon military cemeteries at Soldier's Home and in neighboring Alexandria, Virginia, were filled.

General Montgomery Meigs, Quartermaster General of the Army, persuaded President Lincoln to use Arlington as a military cemetery. Lincoln gave his permission after a visit to the field hospitals.

An order of June 15, 1864, established 200 of Arlington's acres as a national cemetery. The first recorded burial, however, occurred May 13 when Private William Chrisman, Company G, 67th Pennsylvania Infantry, was interred beneath a cedar tree.

Private Chrisman today lies with such military heroes as Generals John J. Pershing, Philip H. Sheridan, and Henry H. Arnold; explorers like Admiral Robert E. Peary, first to reach the North Pole, and Admiral Charles Wilkes, discoverer of the Antarctic continent. One President, William Howard Taft, is buried there. The cemetery contains the graves of 230 men who went down with the battleship Maine in Havana Harbor.

On Memorial Day, 1958, Two Unknown Soldiers of World War II and the Korean War were placed alongside the Unknown Soldier of World War I in honored crypts. These nameless heroes represent 4,724 other unknown soldiers buried in Arlington and 151,804 unidentified war casualties who rest in United States military cemeteries throughout the world.

Senator Jordan Reports:

By SEN. B. EVERETT JORDAN

WASHINGTON — Evidence is mounting rapidly that the farm program is in serious trouble. In fact, more and more members of Congress from farm states feel that unless drastic action is taken, the farm program as we have known it could "blow up."

A great many people, inspired and encouraged by critics and enemies of farm price support programs, have a tendency to feel that too much politics is involved, and pass off the overall farm problem as something members of Congress have no desire to tamper with in a year preceding a Presidential election.

The problem goes much deeper than that, and it is one that merits serious thought and consideration by all citizens and taxpayers. We must not overlook the fact that our farm surpluses cannot be suddenly dumped on the market. Any solution must necessarily be gradual and systematic, or we will disrupt our entire farm economy, which has tremendous influence on our overall economy.

As a member of the Senate Committee on Agriculture and Forestry, I have found that one of the most serious difficulties we have in formulating new farm legislation at this time results from the wide differences in policy among the various farm organizations.

The controversy surrounding wheat offers a good illustration. It will be most difficult for Congress to come forth with a positive wheat program this year largely because the American Farm Bureau, the National Grange, the Farmers Union, and the National Wheat Growers Association all have proposed different measures.

At the same time, the Department of Agriculture is insistent upon its own program. Such a situation makes it most difficult for Congress to enact effective legislation.

More important, our wheat surpluses are mounting at such a rate that in the absence of legislation this year we will have a grave situation in the very near future.

We in North Carolina have more than a casual interest in this particular problem. First of all, between 25 and 30 per cent of our farms produce wheat commercially. Our annual acreage allotments amount to about 300,000 acres. Furthermore, with our poultry and livestock production increasing as it is, wheat and other grains are fast becoming a major factor in our farm economy.

In the long-run, we have an even greater stake in the future of the wheat program. If the wheat program is abandoned, it will undoubtedly endanger the cotton, tobacco, and peanut programs.

At the moment, the outlook for wheat is dark, but I am most hopeful that Congress will be able to pass some kind of stop-gap legislation concerning wheat that will help restore public confidence in the entire farm program. This will be difficult under the circumstances, and it will mean that all wheat growers will have to take acreage reductions next year, especially the large wheat growers, but in the long run it will be in the best interest of agriculture as well as our overall economy.

Senator Ervin Says:

WASHINGTON — In last week's column I promised to go into more detail about the provisions of the recently passed labor reform bill, the so-called Kennedy-Ervin Bill.

Included in the major provisions of the bill are these safeguards:

Unions are required to file financial reports and union officials are required to report possible financial conflicts of interest.

Persons convicted of certain felonies are barred from union office within five years after their release from prison.

Criminal sanctions are imposed for embezzlement of union funds, false reporting, false entries on books, failure to report, or destruction of union books.

Union members are authorized to sue for recovery of funds embezzled or misappropriated by union officers.

America's working men and women are guaranteed the fundamental right of the secret ballot in selecting their union officers and a majority of the members of a local union are permitted to remove crooked officials at any time.

Fair election procedures, regular elections, due notice of all union elections, and the opportunity to nominate opposing candidates are provided.

"Sweetheart" contracts are hit by penalizing the giver and taker of a bribe in labor-management relations.

Comprehensive detailed reporting of union economic and administrative data is compelled so the members and public may know what is happening.

Terms of national officers of unions are limited to five years and local union officers to three years.

The vicious "hot cargo" clause in the trucking industry is outlawed and the enforcement of existing contracts containing such clauses is prevented.

It prohibits picketing for nine months where a union has had an election and lost it.

Picketing for extortion is outlawed.

Loans to union officers by employers or unions are prohibited.

Solicitation or payment of fictitious fees for unloading cargo from interstate carriers is prohibited.

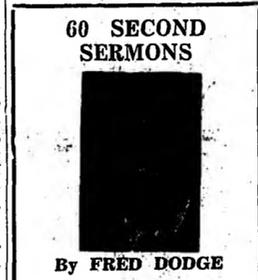

Fiduciary obligations are required of union officials.

It outlaws use of union funds for personal enrichment rather than for legitimate union purposes.

The Kennedy-Ervin bill requires national unions to file reports on local affiliates they place under trusteeship, establishing standards for imposing trusteeships and limiting the duration of such trusteeships to 12 months unless the national union can provide proof of the necessity for an extension.

Safeguards for trusteeship funds are provided.

Legislating in labor-management relationships is not an easy assignment. I feel that progress has been made by the Senate so that corruption in some unions and some management can be eliminated or drastically reduced below the intolerable conditions that now exist.

By FRED DODGE

TEXT: "The way to be happy is to make others so"—R. G. Ingersoll.

Two small boys had quarreled. The bigger boy was eating a piece of cake. The other was crying.

"Why is John crying," their mother demanded.

"Because I won't give him my cake," replied the elder boy.

"Is his cake all gone?"

"Yes," was the answer. "And he cried when I was eating that, too!"

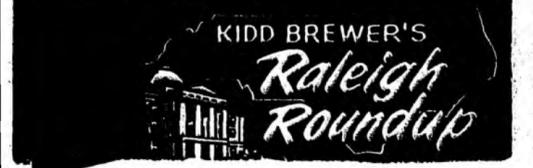

Man constantly searches for happiness. When he reaches one happiness he stretches for another. The ends that make him happy may change, but his search is never finished.

This constant straining for happiness thrusts our world ahead at a dizzy pace. Men perform incredible miracles as they seek greater happiness for themselves.

Searching for happiness is not evil. The end is worthy. The means man sometimes employs are unworthy. The thief seeks greater happiness through stealing; the murderer seeks satisfaction by taking a life; the alcoholic would find happiness in drink and the glutton in over-eating.

Happiness is never an end in itself, for the end is always beyond today's achievements. Happiness is found along the way. If we take the other fellow's cake while satisfying our desires, we make sorrow. Happiness eludes us. The stupid man would capture happiness. The wise man creates it.

SEARCHING . . . With campaigns for Governor, U. S. Senator etc., now less than a year away, it begins to look as if our North Carolina politics in 1960 may not be as interesting as suggested a year or two ago.

John Larkins of Jones County and Terry Sanford of Cumberland County are still the leading candidates for Governor. You hear talk that State Treasurer Edwin Gill may run. We rather doubt it. If he does, Gill will be one of the oldest candidates for Governor this century.

We do not believe that Attorney General Malcolm Seawell will be a candidate for Governor or for any other office save the one he is now holding. Although the name of Lt. Gov. Luther Barnhardt crops up now and then in gubernatorial talk, Tarheels as a rule do not promote their lieutenant governors to the top spot. At least three of them have tried it — Dick Fountain, Sandy Graham and W. P. Horton — within the past 25 years and all failed. Also, Barnhardt has the added disadvantage of being from west-of-Raleigh.

Speaker of the House Addison Hewlett of Wilmington, while no doubt popular with fellow legislators, is not well known to voters over the State and thus cannot at this time be regarded as a likely candidate for Governor.

This leaves Dr. Beverly Lake of Raleigh. He will have some support from States' Rights groups and those who feel strongly that this State is following too closely the path of moderation in our approach to the segregation question as it applies to schools. Lake may decide to run. Nevertheless, the two-page article in the current issue of Time lauding Governor Hodges and the manner in which we have handled the racial problem should prove discouraging to him.

Ag. Com. L. L. Ballentine could make a good run — and might make it — if he would. But he has a good position, and so does his wife, Mrs. Bessie Ballentine, head of the N. C. Auto Dealers.

Will they risk them? As to the U. S. Senate race (?) in 1960, prospects for much excitement are dim indeed.

Unyielding of the late Kerr Scott's portrait before a joint session of the General Assembly this week revives talk that, only 13 months after his passing, there seems to be nobody of the Scott type on the N. C. political scene.

In fact, we heard only this past week end that some of the Scott disciples are still searching for a leader and may request J. Melville Broughton, Jr. to run for the U. S. Senate against incumbent Everett Jordan.

Well, this may be; but one ardent Scott follower — and one of his most loyal appointees and the man who did most for his administration — will be in there pitching for U. S. Sen. Jordan. That is Dr. Henry Jordan, his brother, and Kerr Scott's chairman of the State Highway Commission during the 200 million dollar rural highway building program.

FLY SERVICE . . . Sidney Harris last week told of a narrow escape which occurred on a huge airliner as it zoomed across the country crowded with men, women, and children. I am going to repeat it here, for all of us who fly occasionally have had interesting — and widely varying — experiences.

Harris got on the plane, found himself seated next to one of the officials of the airline. They discussed air services, passenger courtesy, etc., and the official said that sometimes the airlines get credit for efficiency, courtesy, and thoughtfulness occurring accidentally.

"Let me tell you a true story. When I boarded one of our planes a few weeks ago, I sat down in front of a woman traveling with two youngsters — a boy about seven and a girl about 10. About a half-hour out, the woman took the children by the hand and walked up the aisle to the lavatories. She put the little boy in one, and she and the little girl went into the other. The little boy was in here only a minute, walked out by himself, and sat down in his seat just behind me. 'Well, just then a man sitting in front of me with his wife got up and went forward to the lavatory which the little boy had just come out of. I noted that he failed to lock the door after him. Right after this, the woman and the little girl emerged from the lavatory just across the aisle. The woman opened the door of the opposite lavatory just a crack, whispered something rapidly, closed the door and proceeded to her seat, and was obviously startled to see the little boy already sitting there."

"She shrugged and buried her face behind a large magazine. A few moments later the man came out with the strangest look on his face, and walked back to his seat. His wife asked him what was the matter."

"Golly, those stewardesses think of everything," the man said, mopping his brow. "How do you mean?" his wife inquired. "You'll hardly believe this," the man said, "but one of them just opened the door and told me not to forget my zipper — and I almost jumped out of the window."

The man riding alongside Harris chuckled again. "I suppose I should have leaned forward and told him the facts," he sighed, "but I just couldn't bring myself to spoil his wonderful story. Imagine the reputation our stewardesses are going to have in his home town."

NOTES . . . Floyd Patterson, heavy weight champ most of you saw on television last week, was born in Cleveland County, N. C., near the village of Waco, in the summer of 1935 . . . If a bill now in General Assembly passes, youngsters under 18 buying beer will be in violation of the law, and thus share the guilt along with those selling it to them.

UNCLE DAVE FROM DAVIE Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

I see where England wants us to let 'em have some squirrels fer their parks in London. This could bring on international complications, might be a job fer the United Nations. Do they want 'em on lend lease or do they aim to pay us cash on the barrel head? This could git to be a global squirrel situation, and we might find it necessary to come to the aid of all under-squirrelled nations. Does the present administration have a definite squirrel policy?

Estes Kefauver is shore to fight the squirrel deal with England. He's not interested in nothing but the coonskin supply and would probably ask fer a Senate investigation if we sent squirrels to England. This would bring the State Department into the squabble. They would contend that the squirrel angle could very well git over into the rabbit angle, and from there it might involve the world supply of cabbage. That would bring the Agriculture Department into the thing.

But most of them Congressmen we sent to Washington would contend that if the free world is short on squirrels, we should come to their aid. When a feller gets to be a Congressman he gets overcome with the giving spirit. But I figger we're supplying the world with everthing else so why not throw in a few squirrels?

We had a real good session at the country store Saturday night. One young feller said he was born on credit and he aimed to be buried on credit. In that one sentence he summed up the modern deficit finance system better'n a Congressman could do it in 12 pages in the Congressional Record.

And one feller was accusing Ed Doolittle of holding the lantern fer his wife to chop some wood the other night. Ed said he must have took in fer somebody else on account of him being too much of a gentleman to let his wife chop wood after dark. But Ed did allow as how they was having a little scandal in his family. He said the teacher told his grandson he was too skinny and he ought to drink more milk. The boy told the teacher he couldn't git no increase in his milk rations on account of there not being enough now fer the hogs. The boy was just joking but the teacher took it serious and notified the welfare department. Ed says the neighborhood has been full of uplift-ers all week I nvestigating the matter and he figgers they'll arrest of the hogs afore it's over.

I see where the Queen of Holland says the Dutch was depending on the United States. It'd be a fair question to ask the good Queen if she knows anybody on earth today that ain't.

Yours truly,
Uncle Dave

Social Security Corner

"COMMENTS ON LOST BENEFITS"

Miss Nancy Prim is a little provoked. Ordinarily, she is very even tempered, but right now she is just plain provoked. She is a bang-up good teacher. Now 68 years old, she is still going strong in the teaching profession.

As a school teacher in North Carolina, Nancy Prim came under social security in 1955. Because of her age, and the special provisions of the social security law in May, 1958. At this time, she was old enough, had worked long enough and needed only to file an application to be entitled to social security benefits. Miss Prim knew all this. She did not file her application, however, until January, 1959. Miss Prim did not file her application before January, 1959, because her friends and associates told her that as long as she continued to earn over $3600 a year, she could not get social security benefits. Here is where Miss Prim made her big mistake. She was taking professional advice about a professional subject from people who were not professionals in that field. It is not surprising that Miss Prim was misinformed. She should have brought her questions to the social security office. You know it and I know it: somehow Miss

Prim didn't get around to the social security office.

When she finally did get around to asking her social security representative about her social security problems, it was too late to get some of the money she could have gotten had she come to the social security office in the first place. When she came to the social security office, she found out that no matter how much money you earn you can get social security benefits for any month you do not earn in excess of $100.

The social security office has retired people divided into two categories: (1) fully retired and (2) partially retired. The first category is easy to define: anyone who does not earn in excess of $1200 in a calendar year is considered to be fully retired. Partial retirement is when the person earns in excess of $1200 but less than $2080. Also, you are considered partially retired no matter how much money you make in a year providing there are one or more months during the year in which you earn less than $100.

Miss Prim had met the definition of partial retirement because no matter how much she earned during the teaching year, there were three months during the year in which she had no earnings: June, July, and August. Had Miss Prim come to our office in 1956, when she became 65, she would have been informed of her right to these monthly checks.

When she did file in January 1959, she was told that she could get checks for the months of June, July and August of 1958. Had she filed in 1958, she could have gotten benefits in both 1958 and 1957. Her benefit of $103 a month means that she lost $618 because she relied on the advice of friends. If Nancy had been a self-employed person instead of a wage earner, she could have gotten benefits for any month in which she did not render substantial services in self-employment regardless of the total amount of her earnings in a year.

Take advice from your neighbors about non-professional things if you want to do so, but when it comes to important professional matters, see a professional. Your social security office is located at 105 Corriher Ave., Salisbury, N. C. Telephone number is ME 3-4512.

Grain Storage

With the harvest season for small grains only a few weeks away it is time for farmers to start making plans for adequate grain storage. Farmers that are forced to sell grain at harvest time often have to sell on a very low market. By having good storage facilities the farmer can hold his grain until the seasonal rush at harvest time is past.

Any farmer who needs additional storage is urged to come by the ASC Office and look into the Facility Loan Program. Loans can be made that cover up to 80 percent of the cash cost of storage bins. This program is often overlooked by farmers who could use it to a great advantage. It can mean many dollars to any grain farmer.

Wheat Mixtures

Grain farmers are again reminded that the regulations pertaining to wheat mixtures have been changed. Starting in 1960 the following mixtures will be classified as wheat:

- Oats, containing more than 20 per cent wheat by weight.
 - Barley, containing more than 25 per cent wheat by weight.
 - Rye, containing more than 10 per cent wheat by weight.
- It has been a practice for many farmers to sow mixtures of wheat and other grains for feed. It will affect many of our farmers. Any farmer who has been seeding mixtures of wheat should remember this change when seeding grain next fall.

Cotton Purchase Plan Announced

Under a recent change in ASC's price support program for cotton over 90 per cent of the cotton produced in this state will be supported by a program of direct purchases during 1959. This cotton which is eligible for price support will be purchased by the Commodity Credit Corporation and will be offered for sale by approved local sales agencies as well as by the New Orleans CSS Commodity Office.

To be approved as a local sales agency, an agency must have had recent experience in merchandising cotton and must have entered into a cotton sales agency agreement with CCC. The cotton will be sold by the local sales agency at the highest price offered. But in no event at less than 110 per cent of the "Choice B" support price plus carrying charges. During August and September there will be no carrying charge. During October carrying charges (in points per pound) will be 10, Nov., 25, Dec., 40, Jan., 55, etc.

According to the State Office these details of the sales program to local sales agencies are not being developed. Copies of the Sales agency agreement will be released and made available to interested persons by the New Orleans Commodity Office, New Orleans, La.

Soil Testing Recommended

The ACP Program for 1959 provides several instances where the government shares with the farmer the cost of conservation practices requiring application of lime or fertilizer. Although a soil test is not mandatory under any of these practices it is strongly recommended in every case.

ACP practices which should be preceded by a soil test include establishment of permanent pasture, additional vegetative cover in crop rotation, application of liming materials on farmland, improvement of permanent pasture, and others.

The need for lime on North Carolina soils is great and even with the cost-share assistance available through ACP only a small fraction of our needs are being met.

Farmers which plan to carry out practices this fall should have their soils tested and order their lime now in order that their needs will be met. There are many soils in this state on which the standard fertilizer or liming rule does not apply. Some soils require an initial application of more than two tons per acre, while on others application of any lime would be wasted. The only way to determine the lime and fertilizer requirements of the soil is by a soil test on a representative sample. Containers for taking soil samples may be obtained at this office or from other agricultural agencies.

SMALL GRAIN IN DAVIE COUNTY

This year practically every barley field that we have noticed is anywhere from ten to 20 percent smut heads. Four or five years ago there were not over two or three fields of barley that we noticed in the county with smut heads.

This smut can very easily be controlled. According to the latest census report approximately 5,000 acres are seeded to barley. With ten to 20 percent losses due to smut, this is a considerable amount of money lost when it can be so easily controlled. Each barley producer should check his field and determine the losses that he will have on his farm and figure on treating barley seed to stop this unnecessary loss before seeding barley in the fall.

All that is necessary to treat barley for smut is to soak seed in water four to five hours then tie it in plastic bag from 40 to 60 hours depending on temperature, then take right from plastic bag and seed. If it is impossible to get barley seeded when it is taken from the plastic bag it will have to be dried to prevent germination. This is about 80 percent effective against smut.

Keep farm machinery in top operating condition with a good preventative maintenance program.

Uncle Dave Blasts Forth On Finishing Of New School

Urges Immediate Action
On Bond Issue For Plant

By GORDON TOMLINSON
"Good morning, son!" said an old gentleman as he pushed through the office door one bright sunny morning last week. "I thought I'd drop by and talk about a matter that's been on my mind for quite sometime now." Looking up I recognized the old gentleman as our own "Uncle Dave," the man behind our week-column of homespun philosophy concerning both national and world affairs.

Taking his seat at my request, Uncle Dave began: "What's holding up the finishing of the new high school? I noticed in your paper a few weeks ago where some sort of bond issue was being contemplated. Since then I have awaited further word, but you've said nothing else about it. What gives?"

I explained to Uncle Dave that plans were underway preparatory to the bond issue, but that such matters took a little time. I pointed out that of course, the bond issue would affect taxes, and that the matter needed to be considered carefully from all angles.

"Taxes... hell!" snorted Uncle Dave. "There are too many selfish people in this world that concern themselves only with how much taxes 'I' have to pay and never consider for a minute just what the taxes provide."

"With that opening blast he began: "Just think back to when this country was first settled. Those early settlers did not have any taxes to pay... but they didn't have anything else, either. They had to provide their own protection from the Indians and wild animals. This they did by giving their time standing guard, turn after turn. Other services, they also had to provide themselves."

"Now, back in those days if they needed a school building or any other public building, they banded themselves together in groups of workers and built the thing. Back in those days they had little money, but they had plenty of time.

"Do you know what progress is, son?" Apparently Uncle Dave's question was purely rhetorical because before I could utter a word he said:

"It's killing yourself in the effort to gain more time!" My puzzled expression only caused him to get more wrapped up in his subject.

"Look at us today. Certainly we have made progress from the early days of our colonial forefathers in material ways, but we haven't improved our attitudes. The drive today is to make more money so we can buy more time and labor saving devices. Our homes are full of all types of modern appliances to make work easier... yet the cost of acquiring and maintaining these devices makes it necessary that both husband and wife work 40 to 50 hours each week to pay for them. But I'm getting a little off from what I started out to say," said Uncle Dave, scratching a bearded chin.

"The point I want to make is since the beginning of time man either had to contribute his time or possessions towards making his community a better place in which to live. However in today's rat race, who can or wants to contribute time?"

"Our system of taxation was derived from the philosophy that everyone should contribute to the needs and welfare of a community according to his ability to do so. We gripe and we complain, yet if we sit down and figure it out, we are getting more value returned for our tax dollar than any other dollar we spend.

"Now take this finishing of the high school for instance. It's got to be done, sooner or later. The longer you wait the more it's going to cost and the more that will be needed. The finishing of the school will be worth many times more than it will cost.

As Uncle Dave took himself a chew of tobacco, I injected the thought that perhaps one of the

Negro Fined For Resisting Arrest

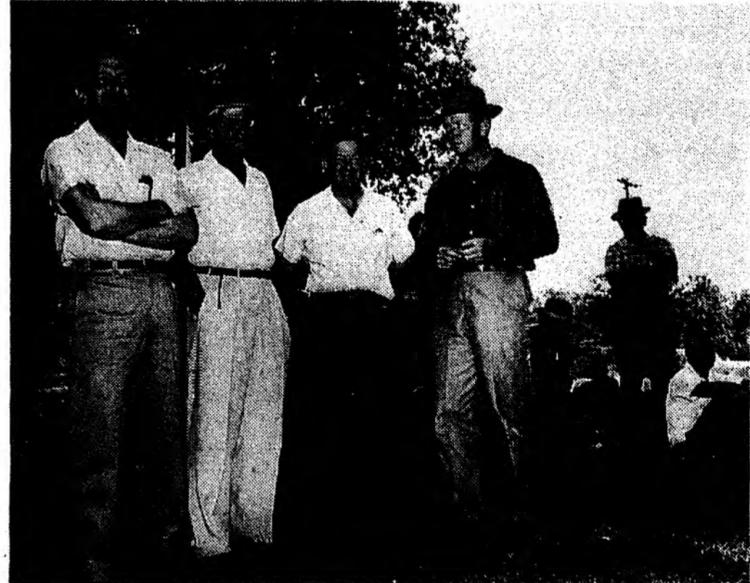

A Negro man was convicted of operating a car intoxicated and resisting arrest in Davie County Court, Tuesday.

John Frank Hairston was fined $150 and cost on the charge of operating a car intoxicated and $50 and cost on the charge of resisting arrest. His wife, Annie Lois Hairston, and Sarah Holman, were found not guilty of interfering with an officer.

Deputy Sheriff Ray Sowers testified that he attempted to arrest Hairston on the charge of driving drunk on May 3rd only to have the Negro break away and run into his home nearby. Deputy Sowers said that Hairston threatened him if he came into the house after him.

Deputy Sowers sent back to Mocksville and Sheriff Ben Boyles secured a warrant and with Deputy Avery Foster went to Hairston's home. As they were attempting to arrest Hairston, a scuffle ensued and Hairston attempted to reach for a gun hanging on the wall. Sheriff Boyles testified that when he did this he hit him on the head with his gun.

Hairston was finally brought to jail and was charged with resisting arrest and driving drunk.

Coolmeemee Bank Sponsors Davie-Rowan Farm Tours

Tuesday, May 5th, was a fine day for farming, but it was also a fine day at Coolmeemee for a farming tour. The Durham Bank and Trust Company's first Farm Field Day brought farmers, bankers, lawyers, preachers, and others together to observe farming operations in Davie and Rowan Counties.

Among the visitors to Coolmeemee for the occasion were: T. Holt Haywood, owner of Arden Farms at Clemmons; Paul Wright, Jr., President, Durham Bank and Trust Company; Marchant Cottingham, vice president, Erwin Mills; George Coble, Ajamance Farm Agent.

A cavalcade of around 50 automobiles carried the visitors to the T. C. Hendrix beef cattle farm where they inspected the Hendrix Hereford cow and calf herd, and heard a panel of experts discuss the feeding of steers on pasture with limited grain.

The group next visited the H. M. Bailey Truck Farm, where they examined tomato plants over six feet high, growing in the Bailey plastic greenhouses. A panel discussed this operation, as well as the producing and marketing of truck crops.

A highlight of the day for the 80 persons present for the tour was the lunch served by the Woodleaf Home Demonstration Club at the Woodleaf High School gymnasium. Following lunch, C. W. Tilson, general manager of the Central Carolina Farmers' Exchange at Durham, spoke on "Co-operative Purchasing and Marketing." Hugh Lyery of Cleveland, Route 1, pointed out the value of "Rabbits as a Supplemental Farm Income," and Lester P. Martin, Jr., attorney of Mocksville, spoke on "Advantages of Incorporating the Farm."

The Leonard Gabbert and Sons dairy farm was the next stop for the group. Here the visitors inspected the Gabbert's herd of over 100 purebred Holstein cattle, and heard Gabbert and his sons, Roger and Herman, comment on proper care and feeding of herds, and the importance of keeping proper records. The Gabberts conducted a type demonstration with particular emphasis on just how type and production are related.

At Kenneth Hoots' general farm the group saw year-round pasture for hogs, cattle and sheep, and heard a discussion on operations of this type.

The tour was planned by Charles F. Bahnsen, Manager of Durham Bank and Trust Company's Coolmeemee Branch, with the cooperation of Rowan County Farm Agent, P. H. Satterwhite; and Davie County Farm Agent, Leo Williams.

Patrolman Scores Lying Witnesses In Wreck Case

A man with a lengthy criminal record was found guilty of beating a 65 year old man with an iron poker in Davie County Criminal Court, Tuesday.

Judge Grant sentenced Joseph Tucker to 18 months, suspending it for two years on the following conditions: That he pay a fine of $100 and cost; pay the hospital and medical expenses of his victim, Bob Campbell of the Smith Grove community; refrain from visiting or molesting Bob Campbell in any way; and refrain from use of intoxicating liquors for two years.

Tucker faced four charges in county court Tuesday: Assault with deadly weapon; reckless driving; driving after revocation; and breaking and entering. However, the cases of reckless driving and driving after revocation were dismissed after the state's witnesses told the court they didn't know who was driving the car that collided with them on May 2.

State Highway Patrolman R. C. Blalock testified that he took out warrants against Tucker on the charges of reckless driving and driving after revocation, and against Alvis Gene Foster on the charges of aiding and abetting in these charges on the information given to him by Alice Faye Wood and Geraldine Campbell. However, both women on the stand said they did not know who was driving the car that collided with them on May 2 at Bixby.

Patrolman Blalock told Judge Grant in open court that there had been "more lying" connected with this case than any since he had been in Davie County. That the two women called him aside Tuesday morning and told him that they couldn't remember who was driving.

Judge Grant told the two women that he was satisfied that there had been collaborating with the defendants Tucker and Foster but that he had no choice but to dismiss the charges. He ordered that the prosecution be termed frivolous and malicious and that Alice Faye Wood and Geraldine Campbell be taxed with the cost of the action and remain in jail until the cost was paid.

Bob Campbell testified that Tucker came to his home late in the evening after the accident of May 2 and had been drinking. Campbell said that Tucker wanted to pay for the damages done to Geraldine's car, his daughter, if she would take up the warrants. When Campbell told him that he couldn't do anything about it, Tucker became abusive and began cursing and pushing the 65-year-old man around.

Testimony indicated that Campbell and Tucker and others were in the yard when the trouble first started. Campbell said he went back into the house and locked the door. Tucker broke the door open and came into the house and began beating Campbell with the iron poker, inflicting injuries about the head and body which required Campbell to be hospitalized.

Both Campbell and his wife testified that Tucker threatened to kill "everyone of them."

After sentencing Tucker, Judge Grant said that he would find no probable cause in the charge of breaking and entering, leaving the way open for the prosecution to take it to the Grand Jury and Superior Court should the need arise.

MORE ABOUT Uncle Dave Blasts
main concerns was: "How much will it increase my taxes?"
"With eyes blazing, Uncle Dave shot back:
"Wouldn't you be willing to give three or four days of your work to provide adequate facilities for the children of your county?"
"Sure I would," says I.
"Well, figure it up," said Uncle Dave. "The amount you will have to pay in taxes certainly won't exceed what you will earn . . . or lose, if you want to look at it from the standpoint of giving up that much time . . . in those few days. And, such a ratio should remain true for all individuals . . . those that have more, pay more . . . those that have less, pay less. That's our American system . . . the system under which we have operated since early colonial days!"
Uncle Dave got up to leave.
"Too many people try to make whipping boys out of our schools by continually harping on their cost of operation. Actually the schools are the best investments we can make . . . with money of our interest. Without schools, we have no future.
"Urge the board of education, the county commissioners and the citizens of Davie County not to delay this matter any longer . . . let's do it now. Of course there will be a few selfish individuals who will yelp about taxes, but that has always been the case. There are always some who have to be drug by their heels because they think only of themselves, looking at every matter in the light of what is good for me is good for Davie County . . . and not from the more realistic standpoint of what is good for Davie County is bound to be good for me!"
"Well, I gotta go now. But I am interested in you and the rest of these Davie Countians getting busy and doing something about finishing this school. Son, time waits for no one . . . not even me."
With that he stomped out the door, leaving me much impressed and wishing that we had a school auditorium so that the parents of the children at the Davie County Consolidated High School could hear him speak.

Chevy pickup pulls through "bottomless" pastures to keep stock fed!

"At the Hall Bros. Dairy Farm, Montgomery, Ala., they say this 4-wheel drive Chevy will go anywhere to keep stock fed—even through hub-deep muck that makes it a fight all the way. And yet after a full year of it—no mechanical trouble of any kind!"
That Chevy pickup may not win any beauty awards (till it's cleaned up). But it's sure walking off with the top prize for dependability. And that's standard Chevrolet procedure. Put a Chevy truck to work and it keeps on working until you say quit. Not before.
We aren't claiming that every Chevrolet truck is turning out to be a miracle-worker and averaging 100,000 miles before a valve job. (Even though some are going 150,000!) You're sure to find, however, that you can't buy more truck dependability at any price. And that's borne out by the fact that more truck owners put their faith, and their payloads, in Chevrolets than in any other make.
Take your load and schedule figures to your Chevrolet dealer. He'll specify the best way to handle both and save in the bargain.

No job's too tough for a Chevrolet truck!

Rebels At Lexington In Final Game, Friday

By JOHNNY WARD The Davie County Rebels will travel to Lexington to meet the Yellowjackets in the final game of the season Friday afternoon. Carl Jacobs is slated to start on the mound for the local nine. Last Thursday night Davie was edged out by North Rowan, 4-3, in an extra inning contest. North Rowan scored 3 unearned runs in the sixth inning. Davie managed to get only four hits. Carl Jacobs, who pitched superb ball for nine innings, was tagged for the loss. He walked only one batter. On Tuesday night the Rebels were again downed by one run as the Baptist of Mills Home took advantage of a fifth inning throwing error to defeat the locals 2-1. Coach Bill Peeler's team had several chances to score as ten runners were stranded on the base paths. Davie's lone run came in the last inning. Fred Pierce, who collected two hits, led off with a walk. Then with one out, James Latham singled in the only run. The locals came very close to winning the game as Joe Whitlock drove the left fielder up against the fence for the final out. Bruce Driver was the losing pitcher. The Rebels were hampered in the Mills home game by the absence of their leading hitter, James Edwards. Edwards suffered a bad cut on his hand in an accident over the week end. There is still a question as to whether or not he will see action in the Friday game at Lexington.

Two pioneer surgeons were honored at Statesville Sunday on the fifth anniversary of the opening of Iredell Memorial Hospital.

Oil portraits of the late Dr. Henry Fletcher Long and Dr. Thomas Goode, Jr., were unveiled during impressive services in the lobby of Iredell hospital. About 150 people attended.

The portraits were donated to Iredell Memorial Hospital by the board of directors of the now dissolved H. F. Long Hospital.

John P. Long, III, two-year-old great grandson of Dr. Long, and Tommy Deaton, 12, grandson of Dr. Goode, unveiled the handsome portraits. Young Long is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Long, Jr., of Hickory, and Tommy Deaton is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Paul M. Deaton, 581 Greenway Drive.

W. E. Webb, Jr., head of the H. F. Long Hospital board, said in presenting the portraits that he hoped they would stand as a "continuous memorial to the two pioneers of medicine who gave so much to the Statesville community."

"I hope these two portraits will bear witness of that feeling of humanity and love which was possessed by these men."

Dr. J. H. Nicholson, who heads the board at Iredell Memorial Hospital, accepted the gifts "with gratitude."

He singled out the late surgeons as laying the foundation for Iredell Memorial Hospital.

Dr. John Rosser, chief of the surgical staff of Iredell Memorial Hospital, called the physicians "two great surgeons."

He said the theme of American Hospital Week, "More Roads to Recovery," is appropriate. "There are many more roads to recovery now than in their early days of surgery, largely due to the pathfinding of such giants in their field," the speaker said.

Dr. Rosser reviewed at length the careers of Dr. Long and Dr. Goode.

He pointed out how Dr. Long graduated from Maryland Medical College in 1892 at the age of 23. Until 1900 he did general medical and surgical practice locally. At that time he was associated with his father, Dr. J. F. Long.

In 1900 Dr. H. F. Long and Dr. Junius Hill took over the Billingsley Memorial Hospital, which was the first hospital opened in Statesville. In 1905, after five years as surgeon in the new hospital, Dr. Long founded his private sanatorium which he owned and operated until 1933. The sanatorium was merged with the Duke Foundation under the name of H. F. Long Hospital, Inc., in 1933.

Dr. Long organized the first training school for nurses in Statesville in November, 1901. Among the lengthy list of honors won by Dr. Long was his admission as a charter member to the American College of Surgeons, founded in 1913.

The beloved surgeon died at 9:50 a.m. July 28, 1939, at his home on North Center Street. His wife, the former Carrie Allison, was at the ceremony Sunday.

Attending the ceremony from here were: Dr. and Mrs. W. M. Long and children, Mrs. Ken Clark of Charlotte, William Long and Luther Long; and Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Sanford and children, Gail Sanford and Miss Caroline Sanford. Dr. Long is a son of the late Dr. H. F. Long and Mrs. Sanford is a daughter.

Jack Masten, son of Mrs. Rhodesta Masten of Route 5, Mocksville, graduated from recruit training May 2 at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

The graduation exercises, marking the end of nine weeks of "boot camp," included a full dress parade and review before military officials and civilian dignitaries.

In nine weeks of instruction, the "raw recruit" is developed into a Navy Bluejacket, ready for duty with the fleet.

Seniors Plan For Future

On May 26th, 144 seniors of the Davie County High School will receive their diplomas and step further out into the road of life.

What are their plans for the future? A recent issue of the high school news publication presented these individual plans and aims, which we will attempt to summarize here.

Of the 144 graduates, a total of 56 or 39 per cent, plan for further schooling. Thirty-six have indicated plans to enter colleges this fall. Twelve have announced plans to attend business college and eight to entering training or to trade schools.

Sixteen of the boys have indicated that they will probably enter some branch of the military service.

The remainder of the graduates, a total of 72, have indicated they will immediately seek employment or get married or both. Of this number eight have indicated they hope to work at Western Electric in Winston-Salem and seven at Hanes Hosiery.

The end of high school is a big turning point in the life of any individual. Decisions at this time become most vital for they usually determine the destiny of the individual. It speaks well of our young men and women to see that they can face up to responsibility and chart their own course.

Obscene Mail

The American public, if it wants to, can destroy the half billion dollar a year mail-order business in obscenity which is having such disastrous effects on teen-age youngsters, Postmaster Worth Hendricks stated this week.

The judgment as to what is obscene is actually in the hands of the citizens of Mocksville and other communities throughout the nation.

All the average citizen needs do if his home is invaded by unsorted and unwanted mail soliciting the sale of filthy, lewd, and lascivious films, slides, pictures or other obscene and pornographic material is to complain to the Post Office Department. This is done by mailing the objectionable material itself, and the envelope it came in, with a signed note of protest to the local Postmaster.

An investigation is then made by the Post Office Department's Inspection Service. If their findings justify action to ban the material from the mails, the Department's General Counsel then issues such an order. If the sender of the obscene literature protests the Department's ruling, the matter may then be taken to the nearest United States District court for decision.

Where the material in question is clearly pornographic, criminal action is usually taken by the local prosecuting authorities with the cooperation of the Post Office Department. Convictions in such cases provide for both jail and dollar fines for the dealers in obscenity.

Testimony given recently in Washington by Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield before the Subcommittee of the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee indicates that no longer do dealers in smut and dirty pictures serve only a few adults. Instead, they are increasingly soliciting youngsters, sending their unwanted and unsorted material indiscriminately and without conscience, into the homes of the nation.

The Post Office Department is intensifying its efforts to clean up the mails. Its chief opposition in doing so comes from those who reap huge profits from unrestricted mailings, and from some misguided individuals who confuse liberty with license, and in so doing unwittingly give aid to these dealers in obscenity.

Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield, in discussing the scope of this social menace, has publicly stated that "It is my deep conviction — frequently expressed to individual members of this Congressional Committee, religious and educational leaders, newspaper editors, and citizen groups that one of the most serious moral and social problems in the United States today is the multi-million dollar mail order traffic in obscenity.

"In spite of the frustrations and the legal complications, and even the court decisions, I feel a responsibility to the public to attempt to prevent the use of the mails for indecent material, and to seek indictments and prosecutions for such offenses, even though it may be argued that it falls in the class of material concerning which there have been previous rulings favorable to the promoters. It seems to me that only by this method can the dimensions of this problem become clearly established before the courts and the Congress and the American public."

County Jails

County jails are "the blackest disgrace in American local government," reports the May Reader's Digest in an article of this title by Lawrence Lader. Many of the "foul, vermin-infested" structures are more than 100 years old.

Some are firetraps where prisoners have burned to death. Of 586 county jails inspected by the U. S. Bureau of Prisons, in 1954, 383 were rated "fair," 170 "poor" and 24 "bad." Only nine were rated "good," none "excellent."

Every state was covered by the survey, which disclosed such conditions as these: in Illinois, several boys were held in jail without a hearing for 24 days. In Virginia, a diabetic sentenced to a detention farm received no insulin and died the day after he was admitted. Homosexual prisoners in Georgia were allowed to administer vicious beating to other prisoners. A man sentenced to a Maryland jail for "drunk driving" died the next day — of a brain hemorrhage. A prisoner in a Tennessee jail was beaten to death by guards last July.

Jails such as these annually receive more than two million Americans. Many of them are juveniles and average citizens facing minor charges. Yet they are herded together with thieves, murderers, and homosexuals. Dr. E. Preston Sharp, head of Philadelphia's Youth Study Center, charged recently that a 13-year-old girl held as a material witness spent seven months in a Pennsylvania county jail with thieves and prostitutes.

Such conditions have led many states to undertake dramatic reforms. One of the most effective of these has been in Wisconsin, which recently established a state-wide training program for sheriffs, deputies and jailers. The state has also taken many prison jobs out of the grip of political patronage and placed them under civil service. No longer forced to devote much of their energy to getting re-elected, prison staff members can do their jobs more effectively.

Wisconsin and seven other states: California, Michigan, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Pennsylvania and Virginia — have prison inspectors who are empowered to set and enforce standards.

What reform can accomplish is symbolized by the Santa Rita Rehabilitation Center in Alameda County, California. This jail provides courses and workshops that give prisoners instruction in dozens of trades.

Origin of the $ sign is a mystery. The most widely accepted theory is that it evolved from the Spanish abbreviation "Ps" for pesos, the National Geographic says. Scholars have noted in old manuscripts that the "s" gradually came to be written over the "P," making a close equivalent of the internationally known $ mark.

SENATOR SAM ERVIN SAYS

WASHINGTON — The McClellan Committee on which I serve heard testimony of corruption under the guise of unionism last week. We investigated the payments of extortion money from several business firms to secure so-called "labor peace" in the New York City area.

Extortion Racket.
I was sorry to learn that some of the leading newspapers had submitted to the payment of extortion as revealed by the testimony of their officials before our committee. In order to get their papers delivered they had made these payments indirectly to the worst element of hoodlums and gangsters who had muscled into the unions in order to practice this lucrative extortion racket. To the credit of the newspapers that were involved in this practice it must be said that they told the committee as a result of our hearings on the matter that this sort of avaricious racket would not be tolerated now. It is indeed a sad time in our country when this crooked practice reaches into the newspapers whose officials apparently felt that it was necessary to try to buy protection from gangsters. As one newspaper official testified it is the type of practice that his publication would be quick to condemn editorially.

"This is further evidence that Congress must pass anti-racketeering legislation this session such as is included in the Kennedy-Ervin Labor Reform Bill which passed the Senate by a vote of 90 to 1.

North Carolina Projects
During the past week I appeared before the Senate Appropriations Committee along with Senator Jordan to request public works appropriations for several North Carolina projects, including the Morehead City harbor and Wilkesboro Dam. Our requests are reasonable, justified and are indeed modest.

We are hopeful that these funds will be approved by Congress and that the bill will not be vetoed by the President as has been the fate of our previous efforts.

To Dedicate Center
On Saturday, May 16, at 3 p.m., I am to speak in Richmond, Va., at the dedication of the National Park Service center for visitors at the Richmond National Battlefield Park. This center will serve the area around Richmond and such famous battlefields as Seven Pines, Savage Station, Glendale, White Oak Swamp, Gaines Mill, Malvern Hill and Mechanicsville. So many North Carolinians fought with the Confederacy in these battles under the leadership of Hill, Hoke, Pender, Ramseur, Ransom and Wilcox in the summer of 1862. Union General McClellan was repulsed and Richmond was saved. The center to be dedicated is located on the site of the famous Confederate hospital.

As further evidence of the significance of the battles around Richmond to North Carolina, such regiments as the 4th, 7th, and 18th from our State lost more than 50 per cent of their numbers in the Seven Days battles.

UNCLE DAVE FROM DAVIE Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:
I see by the papers where the telephone companies plan to put out a pamphlet telling folks how to talk on the telephone. They claim people don't know how to talk on the phone. After living on a party line for thirty years I'm convinced they don't know when to shut up. I hope the telephone company devotes a chapter to that angle of the matter.

And it would help if they'd put in a chapter about church suppers. It takes 664 phone calls, typing up the party line 5,312 minutes — average 8 minutes to the call — to round up fifty women for one church supper. I hope the telephone folks look into this matter too. In fact, it might be a good idea for them to let me write the pamphlet.

Well, it looks like the situation in Washington is normal. Them Congressmen, I see, is fixing to set aside some money to reclaim more land for farming. And in another part of the same paper I see where the Agriculture Department says there's too much land under cultivation and wants to reduce the acreage on cotton and wheat. Everything normal and going in the general opposite direction, Mister Editor.

My old lady says she gets tired of hearing me holler all the time about them Congressmen, claims it ain't going to change nothing. I told her I'm like the fat lady at the church revival. When somebody handed her a song book she said she couldn't sing, but she shore did like to holler fer the Lord.

My old lady says the folks that's always knocking the Government ain't public spirited. I'm always a little suspicious of these public spirited fellers. Take Ed Doolittle for instance. When Ed's kids was in school he was all the time hollering fer better schools. Now that his kids has grew up he's quit hollering fer better schools and is hollering fer old age pensions.

But I ain't as bad as the editor of the Catoosa County News in Georgia. I was reading where he printed his paper upside down the other week, claiming that since the country, especially the part around Washington, was upside down, he aimed to keep his newspaper in style.

About the most serious news I've saw in the papers lately is this statement from a Yale astronomer that he's found a hole in the Milky Way. He didn't explain what serious results this could have, but I reckon it means civilization might spring a leak. Actually, Mister Editor, I think it's done sprung a leak and this could mean the bottom is about to fall out.

Yours truly,
Uncle Dave

News of Long Ago

MARCH 13, 1918

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Ijames spent Thursday in Winston-Salem shopping.

N. T. Foster has moved his family into the Lee house just beyond the depot.

W. I. Wilson of Rt. 1, and Chal Miller of this village spent Wednesday in Winston.

Dr. Charles Anderson, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Statesville, was in town Thursday afternoon a short while.

T. J. Swing, one of our Davie boys who enlisted in a hospital unit some time ago, has arrived safely in France his friends will be glad to learn.

Work on the new Baptist Church is progressing nicely. When completed this will be one of the prettiest churches in this section of the State.

LAST MONTH... Political prophets hereabouts say the N. C. General Assembly will end its present session between June 5-15. Pay ends June 3.

Teachers, State employees, and State institutions will be unhappy at the treatment they receive. Most other taxpayers will be happy.

As we go into the last month of stress and strain, there is still a lot of grouching, both in the Legislature and out, about the withholding plan for State income taxes. However, administration strength is sufficiently ample to withstand the objections.

As we see it, nothing on the legislative scene is more certain than that each taxpayer in North Carolina in 1960 will have to undergo a double dose of State taxes. Payment of this year's State income tax will come as usual on April 15 — and on Jan. 1, 1960, we will begin paying next year's.

THE NEXT ONE... The next Governor, whether it be John Larkins, Terry Sanford, or whoever, will be faced with the definite necessity of going to the Legislature and the people with a demand for more taxes.

Although the Legislature now in session seems successfully to have sidetracked a sales tax on food, it has set the stage for this action by the 1961 Legislature.

DIAMONDS... As others have for lo, these many terms, House employees will this year come up with a nice love-gift for their boss, Mrs. Annie Cooper, chief clerk.

This time it will be a diamond necklace which will cost in the neighborhood of $1,500... or about $7 each for the 200 odd employees on the House side of the 1959 General Assembly.

MINK... Speaking of fine things, how would you like to provide some little sparrow with a mink-lined love nest?

If interested, come to the Brewer's here in Raleigh.

My wife a few days ago hung out her mink coat for airing in preparation for the usual summer storage. After a time, she happened to glance out the window and what to her wondering eyes should appear but birds perched on that mink. They gouged holes in it, making off with little tufts to refurbish their nests.

The garment will never be the same again. But we do have the distinction of having the only mink-lined bird nests in Raleigh.

HELMES ON COUNCIL... Jesse Helms, executive director of the N. C. Bankers Association, surprised everybody here two years ago by running for the Raleigh City Council.

Not only that — and despite some formidable opposition — he made it through the primary and was fifth in number of votes among the seven winners. During his two years on the Council Helms never ran from a controversy. To many of his friends, he seemed rather to run headlong into them.

Time came for Council candidates again. Helms was one of the incumbents to try for it again. He had plenty of opposition again.

But Raleigh seems to like Jesse Helms. When the votes were all in, he had come in with fifth place again. A tribute to conservatism.

REID, TOO... However, it was left to Jim Reid, whom all of you have heard on WPTF sports-casts or seen on television. He had never been in any kind of politics before. Jim came up with the surprise. He led the ticket in the 14 man race for City Council.

A Wake Forest alumnus and a nephew of the famous Dr. A. C. Reid of WF, Jim is now associated with WTVB in Durham. But he maintains residence in Raleigh and manages the WTVB office here.

HOLTON WINS... David Holton of Edenton, like Helms and Reid, is an alumnus of Wake Forest. Dave, a native of Winston-Salem and a son of Gene Holton, leading Republican attorney and political leader for the first third of this century, played mean full back for Wake in 1931-35.

Holton has been prominent in Statewide political campaigns for some while. He was active in Scott's campaign for Governor, parted with Scott, backed Lenoir, came to Raleigh as an Umstead appointee to head the State Division of Purchase and Contract. Parting with Hodges, Holton resigned, moved back to Edenton. He decided to run for mayor. He made it last week, beating out the incumbent and a former mayor in a three cornered race.

If Holton wants good advice on how to run a town, he has only to visit the man who played half-back on the team with him at Wake Forest. He is John Gold, city manager of Winston-Salem.

GREAT GRANDSON... An interesting development occurred in the race for mayor of Whiteville, down in Columbus County. Elected to the post was Titus Williamson.

Although one of the most progressive little cities in the State, Whiteville is not old in years. It so happens that Williamson, now fortyish, is the great grandson of Col. T. S. Memory, first mayor of Whiteville.

FABRIC DOCTOR... Fred Dodge, astute, erudite and able manager of the N. C. Association of Launderers and Cleaners, is becoming internationally known — or at least what he produces is running in some 50 cities.

Fred came up with a column idea. He would write a column about clothes care related to dry cleaning, etc., and let cleaning plants buy it and run it as advertising in the local papers. That's what they are doing — buying it and running it all over the U. S. — and in Canada, too.

The idea has already copped for him a national prize of $300, and a lot of honor, prestige and prominence for North Carolina business.

Senator Jordan Reports:

By SEN. B. EVERETT JORDAN

WASHINGTON — I have asked the Senate Appropriations Committee to make about $2.8 million available for 13 badly needed water projects in North Carolina during the coming fiscal year.

The President's ill-advised policy of "no new starts" in water project construction has put North Carolina in an unusually difficult position. Even with full cooperation at this time, we still will be many years in catching up with water development work in all sections of the State. Cutting off or abandoning projects that have gone through the survey stage and have been authorized puts us even further behind.

The funds we do need are not grants or handouts. They represent sound and prudent investments in a growing and progressive State.

There are two major construction projects in the State which need funds immediately. They are the Wilkesboro Reservoir on the upper Yadkin River and the Morehead City Channel and Harbor. I asked the Committee to appropriate $1,000,000 to begin the Wilkesboro project and $1,370,000 for the Morehead City project.

Two other major projects, both in the survey stage, involve the Cape Fear River Basin and the Neuse River Basin. I asked that $25,000 be made available for the Cape Fear survey for the next year and $60,000 for the Neuse survey. Both these surveys have been hanging fire too long and need to be speeded up.

I also requested the Committee to make additional funds available for Surf City and New Topsail Inlet, Lockwood Folly Inlet, Shallotte River and Inlet, Drum Inlet, Bogue Inlet, Pamlico and Cucklers Creek, Wright's Creek, Rollover Channel, and the Dismal Swamp Canal.

There is a great deal of work that needs urgent attention along our coastline. For this reason, I emphasized the need for funds to study inlet projects. It is absolutely necessary to stabilize our inlets to reduce damages caused by repeated hurricanes.

do YOU awake fully rested?

you can beat the heat with an ELECTRIC HEAT PUMP

The sleep you get—or don't get—pretty much sets the pace of your day's activities, especially in the hot-weather months. This factor was borne out dramatically in a recent survey on air conditioning by the National Association of Home Builders.

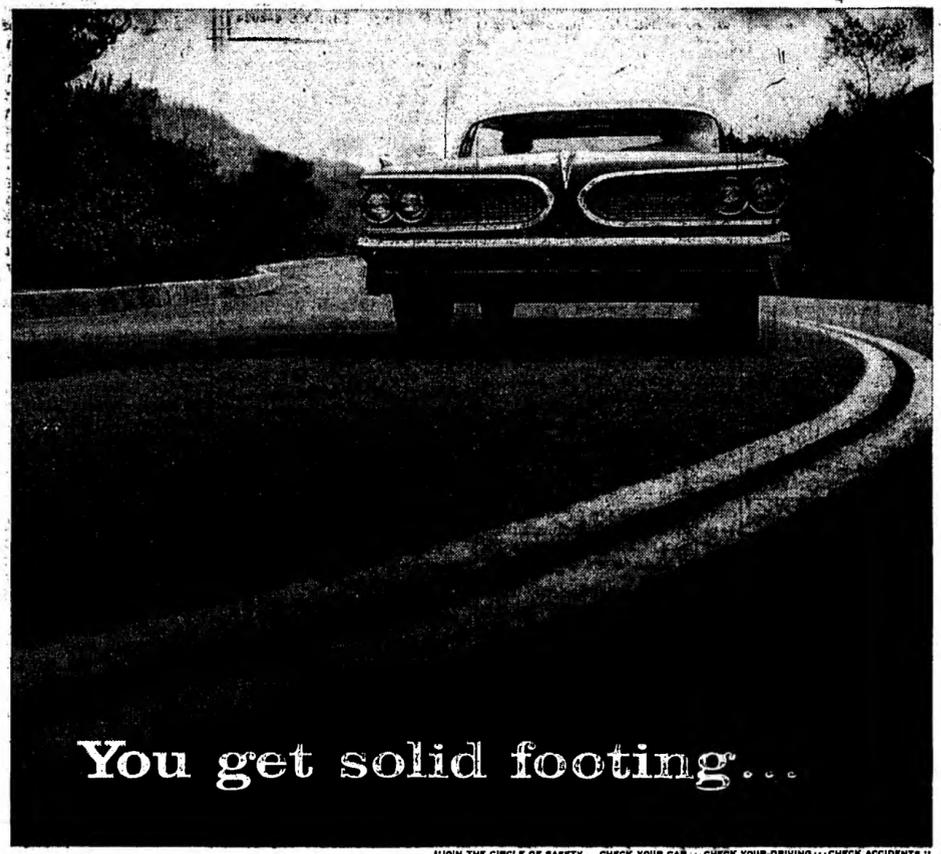

In answer to the question "Do you awake rested?", 95% of adults living in air conditioned homes answered "yes", as compared with only 60% of adults living in non-air-conditioned homes. Adults in the air conditioned homes averaged one more hour of sleep per night.

The electric heat pump cools and heats automatically, using only air and electricity. No flames, fumes or flues, so the heat pump can be installed in any convenient spot. Also, because nothing is burned, there is no soot, so the house stays cleaner. Filters assure pollen-free air year 'round.

Ask at your Duke Power office for more details about the electric heat pump. Duke Power neither sells nor installs heat pumps, but will provide the names of qualified dealers in your area.

You get solid footing...

...in a road-hugging Wide-Track Pontiac!

You control this car with a vivid sense of security, a new sense of balance. It has a steadier stance because it has a wider track. Its wheels are five inches farther apart. You cling to curves and corners with much less lean and sway. You drive with a feeling of confidence, security, complete control. This is without a doubt the easiest handling automobile you could possibly choose. Wide-Track design does not widen the car—only the stance. It's the big reason Pontiac is now first in sales in its price class.

THE ONLY CAR WITH WIDE-TRACK WHEELS

Dotted lines show conventional wheel positions. Pontiac's wheels are five inches farther apart. This widens only the stance, not the car itself. Pontiac hugs tighter on curves and corners. Sway and lean are considerably reduced, ride is smoother, steadier.

MEANS BETTER LIVING

Our natural advantages of climate are probably the greatest single asset to better living in North Carolina. Both our summer resorts and winter resorts are world famous. Retirement-age people are coming into the State from elsewhere. In years to come, this group will grow and grow if our hospitality matches our natural advantages.

Enlightened communities like Tryon, Pinehurst and our coastal towns recognize that "legal control" of the sale of beer and ale is the reasonable solution in the interests of better living for which these areas are especially endowed.

Rev. and Mrs. Archie Jones, Missionaries To Ecuador

Rev. and Mrs. Archie V. Jones of Belhaven, N. C., were appointed missionaries to Ecuador by the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board at its regular monthly meeting in Richmond, Va. Mr. Jones is pastor of Missionary Baptist Church, Belhaven, where he has served since Sept., 1956.

Mr. Jones was born in Davie County, where he lived on a farm until he was about 10 years old. Then he moved with his family to Mocksville, the county seat. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Jones, Yadkinville Road, Mocksville.

He received the associate of arts degree from Mars Hill College, the bachelor of arts degree from Wake Forest College (now located in Winston-Salem) and the bachelor of divinity degree from Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary, Wake Forest.

Mrs. Jones, the former Julia Hough, is a native of Mecklenburg County. She received the associate of arts degree from Mars Hill College and the bachelor of arts degree from Meredith College and attended Southeastern Seminary.

She taught English and Spanish in Ellerbe, for one year and worked among the Mexicans in San Antonio, Texas, for the Southern Baptist Home Mission Board one summer.

Mr. Jones said the idea of becoming a missionary "first began to take root" in his life when he was a college student. "One night about 11 o'clock, in the prayer room at Mars Hill College, I yielded my life to the will of God," he said. "I promised God that night that I would follow the leadership of his Spirit wherever he might call me."

"Four years elapsed before a final positive decision was reached about foreign mission service. The Holy Spirit led me gently and carefully in this decision, and I say with a great thrill that God had truly begun to take his proper place in my life."

Mrs. Jones said that when she was a seventh-grader she attended a church camp. "One night, when a missionary to China spoke to us, I accepted Christ as my Saviour," she said. "I felt at this time that God wanted me to become a missionary. This conviction became stronger and more vivid as time passed; therefore, I began planning to that end."

Mr. and Mrs. Jones have two children, Gwendolyn, three, and Archie Valejo, Jr., one.

They were among the 20 new missionaries appointed at the May meeting of the Board.

'Rebels' End Baseball Play

By JOHNNY WARD

The curtain has come down on the third baseball season at the Davie County High School. This season the Rebels ended up in the cellar of the North Piedmont Conference. In conference play the locals posted a 3 and 11 record. Overall they won 4 and lost 12.

Actually the team has been much better than the record shows. However, the lack of experience has greatly hampered some of the boys when the pressure was great.

This has been the first year that the Davie High School has had a losing baseball team. Both previous years the Rebels ended up in second place.

Coach Peeler is doing a lot of rebuilding this year and expects to have a much better team next year and one that will give plenty of trouble in conference play.

This season the Rebels got good pitching, but it has been the defense and the failure to get the hits when needed that have most plagued the team.

The only losses this year via graduation will be Carl Jacobs, Fred Pierce, James Edwards, and Joe Anderson.

Last Friday the Rebels met the Yellowjackets of Lexington in the final game and were downed 9 to 3.

After being behind 1 to 0, the Rebels roared back to grab a 3 to 1 lead. But as has often been the case this year, the defense faltered to setup several scoring opportunities of which the Yellowjackets took advantage. Most of the reserves saw action and it was David Jordan and Edward Bowles, who both came off the bench to start their first game, that led the hitting with two hits each. Fred Pierce also had two hits.

During the past season pitcher Carl Jacobs has carried a very large part of the pitching load. He has pitched 63 and two-thirds innings, winning four games and losing seven. He posted a very low earned run average of 2.222 runs per game.

Bruce Driver and David Jordan have also seen quite a bit of action on the mound. Of the 84 runs yielded by the three Davie pitchers, only 38 have been earned.

James Edwards led the hitting with a .378 average. Ronald Spry led in runs batted in with 14. Some of the other batting averages are as follows: James Latham, .295; Ronald Spry, .265; Fred Pierce, .241; Joe Whitlock, .225; and Joe Anderson, .207. The team batting average was .217.

Seven Million Women Observe National Home Demonstration Week

Nearly seven million homemakers who take part in home demonstration work each year, observed the 14th National Home Demonstration Week from May 3 to 9. Most of these women live on farms and in rural non-farm areas. Others live in towns and cities. Some are young, some older. Some are newly married, others have children and even grandchildren! But all are eager to become more efficient homemakers and better citizens, which is the long-range goal of the home demonstration program.

The "Quality of family living" is the major point of emphasis in today's home demonstration program. Special stress is placed upon the common concerns of the home—family relationships, food, clothing, shelter, and financial security; also important are educational, social, cultural, and recreational opportunities which must be used to best advantage.

The way home demonstration work is carried on varies with the needs and interests of participants, and also with the areas where they live. Intensive education is carried on with about 1 1/3 million homemakers through more than 65,500 organized groups in all 50 states and Puerto Rico. These homemakers select their own volunteer local leaders, of whom there are now about 615,000.

The leaders are trained and assisted by home demonstration agents who are in continual touch with sources of the latest research information, and who provide professional guidance for the entire program. The leaders serve in several different ways — for example, as project or organization leaders — and contribute greatly to the development of better homes and communities.

Home Demonstration agents in addition to their work with women in organized groups, assist more than 5 1/2 million other homemakers through special workshops, demonstrations, home visits, bulletins, and other ways. They demonstrate new methods, visit families to advise on individual plans and problems, and appear on radio and television programs to describe and show more efficient practices.

BAH! It's all a passing fancy! Some folks resist change mightily. They don't like to progress. Who are we to argue about it? We'll just tell you smart ones a few facts about Chevrolet and let you make up your own minds! No matter how you look at it, there's only one 1959 car in the leading low-priced 3, and that's Chevrolet. Proof? Plenty of it, and we'd be glad to show you. But first let us tell you the story. Until we get together, and we hope it's soon, here's a fact to chew on: What America Wants, America gets in a Chevy! That means you get the quality you want—thoroughgoing workmanship. The styling you want—all new all over again. The performance you want—brisk and thrifty as only Chevy can make it. You get more for your money with a Chevy—and we're just the folks who can prove it! Why not today? This Biscayne 2-Door is Chevrolet's lowest-priced model, but you'd never know it to look at it! Pennington Chevrolet Company Inc. License No. 789 Mocksville, N. C.

SO THIS IS NEW YORK

By NORTH CALLAHAN

I have a letter from Bernard Baruch dated Oct. 8, 1955, the last paragraph of which says, "If you see that Winston Churchill ever comes to see me, you pound on my door." This was received just after a previous trip of Mr. Churchill here, and a few of us who had expected to meet him one evening were prevented from doing so because the great Englishman developed a bad cold. So it is not hard to imagine that on this recent trip, I appeared at the door of Mr. Baruch duly armed with my letter from him.

Of course it had already been announced that Mr. Churchill was making only a personal visit to Washington and here and was seeing only a few old personal friends. But I thought that if I could just meet him, shake hands and pass along a word of greeting this would be something to cherish and to tell my readers and friends for a long time to come. The kindly doorman delivered my letter and I waited in the lobby. A few secret service men and policemen drifted about but paid little attention to me. The doorman came down and said I was to come up, whereupon my spirits rose.

But on arriving at the proper floor, we were met by Mr. Baruch who, despite his 88 years, hopped on, shook hands and explained as we went down what the situation was.

It was simply that Mr. Churchill had so advanced in years and feebleness since his last visit that Mr. Baruch was not making any appointments for him — not even for the Baruch family. There was no question about my coming — Mr. Baruch held my letter of invitation in his hand. We sat down on a lounge, he put his arm about my shoulder and asked earnestly that I take his word for it, that Mr. Churchill up there in the apartment simply could not see any visitors. "I just have to protect him, even though I should like to introduce you," he concluded. Although I argued some and was deeply disappointed, I could see that the matter could not be pushed further — even by a reporter — friend. Mr. Baruch said he would give Mr. Churchill my greetings, so I thanked him and said goodbye.

walked out to the edge of Central Park, looked dispiritedly at its greening expanses ushering in the welcome spring. Then I caught a downtown bus. Standing and hanging on to a strap, I saw a man with a familiar-looking face, gray, wavy hair and prominent nose standing nearby. "Aren't you Mr. Charles Malik, president of the United Nations General Assembly?" I asked. He smiled and nodded. I remarked I was glad to see he rode the bus with the rest of us. As we rolled along, I asked him about the UN and the present world situation. His answers were direct and highly intelligent. Was he optimistic about the current conference at Geneva? No. Were the western powers keeping their eyes sufficiently open? He hoped so. May-be it would end with a face-saving statement which would seem to satisfy all, yet not mean anything. Would the dispute then come to the UN? He doubted it. Why do people in some parts of the United States dislike if not distrust the United Nations? He shrugged and said it was a matter of education. Then the United States has had comparatively little experience as an international nation, he added, and this attitude is somewhat natural. Woodrow Wilson found that out, to his cost. The bus stopped at 43rd Street. Mr. Malik smiled, said goodbye, and got off.

Checking on the background of Charles Malik, I found that he was born in Lebanon 53 years ago and went to American schools there. Then he came to Harvard where he received his master's and doctor's degrees, later teaching philosophy there and at the University of Beirut. From 1953 to 1955, he was the Lebanese ambassador to the United States, and last fall was elected president of the 13th General Assembly of the United Nations. He has attended every such session and helped form the UN. My impression of Dr. Malik is that he is a just and genial gentleman, and an able administrator.

MORE PROOF...it pays to feed PURINA

George Harrison herd at Yadkinville

1,357 lbs. more milk per cow

George Harrison, Yadkinville, milk producer, has good cause to be a firm believer in the Purina Dairy Program. His 20 cows jumped from an average of 9,726 lbs. milk per cow in 1957 to 11,083 lbs. in 1958.

"This shows exactly how much the Purina Program has helped me and my herd," says Mr. Harrison. "And, since these are DHIA records, I know they tell the whole story."

"Purina's Program is good for a cow from the time she's born until she leaves the herd," Mr. Harrison adds. "Calves on Purina get off to a good start. Heifers grow up in a hurry, freshen young, and start right in producing like grown cows."

See us for details of Purina's Dairy Program. Learn how successful dairymen like George Harrison are raising large, high-producing herd replacements and increasing per-cow production the research-proved, four-square Purina Way.

A Salute To The Graduates

On Tuesday night the 1959 graduates of the Davie County Consolidated High School will walk across the stage at the Mocksville school auditorium and receive diplomas. These diplomas signify the satisfactory completion of high school study and is a definite turning point in the life of each.

This is the third graduation held by the new Davie High School since its consolidation three years ago. Each graduating class has grown progressively larger in number, from 109 in 1957 to 144 this year.

Graduation is an event that should be shared by all relatives and friends of the graduate. However, until a new auditorium can be built, it must of necessity be restricted to the graduate and parents and what few others can crowd into the building.

The word "Commencement" is often used in connection with graduation exercises and is very appropriate. The graduation from any school only indicates preparedness and readiness to assume obligations and actually start out on the road of life.

Education is a never ending process. This is only the third graduating class in the endless procession of many more to come. Each year hereafter there will be another and then another. Each fall at the beginning of the school year there will be another group of youngsters entering school for the first time.

Also, this is the time of year that the elementary schools hold their promotional exercises marking completion of eight years of school and the entrance into high school of their students. This observance, too, should be cited as a tribute paid to those who will soon be our future citizens.

We are proud to join in the salute to the 1959 Graduating Class of the Davie County Consolidated High School. To each and everyone, we wish life's best.

The Memorial Poppy Program

On Saturday, May 23rd, the American Legion Auxiliary will offer the familiar red "buddy" poppies on the square in Mocksville. These tiny crepe paper flowers have been made by disabled veterans in hospitals and workshops across the nation. They have fashioned them as skillfully as crippled hands, broken bodies, and tired minds would allow.

The "Buddy Poppies" will be offered to local citizens to wear in honor of a disabled veteran. In return a donation is asked to help further the program of rehabilitation for these men who gave so much for their country.

The poppies you will see being worn by local citizens this week end are the hand-made product of men who fought for our country's freedom and who still suffer from the ravages of war. They will be worn in the remembrance of those who made the supreme sacrifice on the battlefields of the world.

Price Tags On Crime

There definitely seems to be a trend today in our judicial system of putting a price on justice. More than ninety per cent of all sentences meted out in our courts of law involve merely the payment of a specified sum known as a "fine" and the costs involved in handling the case.

In the majority of the cases justice is simply served by the payment of a fine and the cost. These cases involve the minor violation of the law usually through the use of an automobile or the commission of some other act that is not a serious grievance against society or a direct malicious threat to safety or welfare of others.

However, the mere payment of a fine and cost becomes questionable for an individual that continually violates the law and accesses to himself a long criminal record. Also, the deterrence factor that should be present in every court conviction suffers when others get the idea that if they have "money enough to pay off," they can get by with anything.

It appears that for some people today, crime is merely a matter of economics . . . the big question being: "How much will it cost me if I'm caught?" Talking to these people you will find that they have little concern for the fact they have been convicted of a serious violation of the law, their attitude being: "I got off for only $100!" or some other such statement.

In too many cases today, a crime bears a price tag. If you can pay the price . . . you will suffer little for the commission of the crime. As a result, the old axiom of: "Crime does not pay!" . . . is becoming questionable . . . if considered only in the light of economics.

Respect for the law can only be taught in ratio to the seriousness of the violation. To the average layman, the payment of a $25 fine for a violation of the motor vehicle law is much more severe punishment than the payment of $100 for the malicious beating and threatening of another with a deadly weapon. Therefore, when he hears of a perpetrator of a crime of a deliberate and vicious nature being allowed merely to pay his way out, the average man cannot help but wonder about the justice of our courts.

The purpose of this editorial is not to advocate prison sentences, but is merely to think aloud on the question of what should be the role of money in a court of justice. The trend towards "paying out" of trouble is certainly not confined to any one court or any one locality. It is apparently true all over the nation, and becomes most significant when it is realized that our crime rate continues to rise.

Skiing is an ancient mode of travel, the National Geographic Magazine says. Scientists in Norway and Sweden have found skis dating from 4,000 to 5,000 years ago. As early as A.D. 1200, Swedish soldiers were using skis in winter campaigns. Skiing became a popular sport in the 19th century.

SENATOR SAM ERVIN SAYS

WASHINGTON — On last Saturday afternoon I spoke at the dedication of the visitor center and headquarters for the Richmond National Battlefield Park in Virginia.

Dedicatory Speech
The dedicatory services called to mind words quoted by Abram J. Ryan, the poet laureate of the Confederacy, in the headnote to his poem entitled "A Land Without Ruins." The headnote is: "A land without ruins is a land without memories — a land without history . . . Crowns of roses fade — crowns of thorns endure."

The Richmond National Battlefield Park, containing 691 acres, is located in a land storied in memories and history. This is true because it is located in a land which has suffered ruins and worn a crown of thorns. As the capital of the Confederacy, Richmond was the chief military prize of a fratricidal war, which lasted four long years and sent about 530,000 Americans to untimely graves. Of those so dying, thousands were killed or mortally wounded in battles and skirmishes fought in areas lying within or near the Richmond National Battlefield Park. Two motives prompted me to attend the services. One, external and objective, was to witness the dedication of the new facilities there. The other, internal and subjective, was to do reverence to those brave men of the North and those brave men of the South, who fought near Richmond for causes they believed right and whose silent tents are now spread "on Fame's eternal camping ground."

Valor and Sacrifice
It is well for us to call to mind the valor and sacrifice of those who wore the Blue and those who wore the Gray. The men of the North fought to preserve the Union, and the men of the South fought to preserve the States. As a consequence, all Americans have inherited a country whose Constitution contemplates "an indestructible Union composed of indestructible States."

If we are to do full reverence to those who wore the Blue and those who wore the Gray, we must do more than call to remembrance their valor and their sacrifices. We must dedicate ourselves to the preservation of the America they bequeathed to us.

Foes Within and Without
This America, I pointed out in the speech, is threatened by foes within and foes without. The foes without are the Communist nations which strive to erase all human dignity and all human freedom from earth's surface. Sometimes it seems that the foes within pose a more serious threat to America than the foes without. It is certainly easier to devise a defense against external foes.

The foes within are those who seek to destroy our "indestructible

Union of indestructible States" by reducing the States to meaningless zeros on the nation's map and concentrating all governmental powers in the Federal government. If they should succeed in their objective, their success would sound the death knell of liberty in America. This is true because "the States are the only breakwater against the ever pounding surf which threatens to submerge the individual and destroy the only kind of society in which personality can survive."

60 SECOND SERMONS
By FRED DODGE

TEXT: "All service ranks the same with God . . . there is no last nor first." — Robert Browning.

Shortly after a foreign-born family moved from next door, a mother found her little girl in tears. The girl explained that she was crying because the family had moved away.

"Why?" asked her surprised mother. "I didn't know that you cared that much for them."

"I didn't," confessed the little girl, "but now that they have gone there's nobody I feel better than."

It is natural to want others to think that we are superior. Everyone needs to feel important to his world. That is a healthy attitude.

However, when we declare a place of birth, a language, a custom, a physical handicap, to be a mark of inferiority, we are not playing fair. It is cowardly to depend on situations which others cannot control to give us our "better than" feelings.

We should try to excel, of course. But let us not make rules so that we, alone, can win. That is the child's way. It shows our inability to meet life's challenge with imagination and mature courage. The world needs constructive effort to benefit all men. Each of us is important to meeting that need. Let's not waste time erecting "better than" pedestals to stand on.

SO THIS IS NEW YORK
By NORTH CALLAHAN

In a couple of months thousands of Rotarians of all ages, shapes and sizes will come to New York City for their international convention. It is the golden anniversary of this organization which has behind it a half-century of commendable community service. My comment has no connection with chamber of commerce boasts but it does seem fitting that these key people of the world should converge on its largest city to drive a golden spike in the semi-centennial milepost.

The Rotarian, fine magazine of the organization, calls attention to some classic remarks about New York: "One hears," wrote Thomas Wolfe who spent his greatest years here, "the hoarse notes of the great ships in the river and one remembers suddenly the princely girdle of proud, potent tides that bind the city, and suddenly New York blazes like a magnificent jewel in its fit setting of sea and earth and stars." And F. Scott Fitzgerald whose worst years were played out here observed: "As the ship glided up the river, the city burst thunderously upon us in the early dusk — the white glacier of lower New York swooping down like a strand of a bridge to rise into uptown New York, a miracle of foamy light suspended by the stars . . . From that moment I knew that New York, however often I might leave it, was home." One who has never seen the city but who knows it better than most who have, is Helen Keller, lovely deaf and blind woman. "Cut off as I am," she said, "it is inevitable that I should sometimes feel like a shadow walking in a shadowy world. When this happens, I ask to be taken to New York City. Always I return home weary, but I have the comforting certainty that mankind is real flesh and I myself am not a dream." Even the cynical H. L. Mencken who was here often in his tempestuous life stated, "New York is not all bricks and steel. There are hearts there too, and if they do not break, then they at least know how to leap. It is the place where all the aspirations of the Western world meet to form one vast master aspiration as powerful as the suction of a steam dredge."

It is interesting to note what is recommended for the Rotary visitor who has three days to spend here: start out the first morning on a tour. It can be a boat trip around Manhattan, requiring three hours and $3.50, or by bus from Rockefeller Center to the Statue of Liberty, or if you're feeling really ritzy, you can take a 3 seat helicopter and fly six miles up and down the town for $5 a person. In the course of your travels you will undoubtedly land at Times Square where you can lunch at a drugstore counter for roughly what it costs at home, or if you prefer the theatrical atmosphere, drop around to Sar-

TOURIST DOLLAR . . . Two years ago this State altered its tax structure so as to attract more industry. If the coastal and mountain counties which depend upon tourists so much for their income are to compete with Florida, New Orleans, New York, and other such areas for the tourist dollar, other far reaching changes must be made in our legal approach to a whole nest of problems brought into sharp focus each time we discuss ABC stores, beer, and wine elections, and pari-mutuel betting.

SMITH AND WEINER . . . We received reports last week about two stars of the gridiron in this State of the late 40's and early 50's. Art Weiner, All-American end at UNC in the Charlie Justice days and one of the very best to play that position in the entire history of collegiate football, was last week made an assistant vice president of big, sprawling nationwide Burlington Industries. Art has been with this firm since he quit coaching at the University in 1953. A native of Newark, N. J., Weiner's wife is the former Marion McCall of Chapel Hill. They and their three children moved to Greensboro (from New York) last week.

NUB . . . Billy Smith, better known at Fayetteville and around Wake Forest as "Nub," was one of the greatest backfield men we have watched — when he was having a good Saturday. Broken-field running was his specialty; and we have seen him reverse the distance virtually to his own goal posts before finding that opening. No player in high school ever showed greater promise. Wake Forest turned heaven and earth to get him. There were times when he seemed to be the collegiate All-American that he had been in high school. But problems soon beset likeable Nub. Studies bothered him. He fell in love. His good Saturdays became not so numerous. Finally, he quit school . . . and the Baptists wept bitter tears. The report we received on Nub Smith seemed to be right in keeping with his do or die antics on the football field. Friends in Fayetteville have learned that Smith is now one of the top brass in Fidel Castro's Army in Cuba. Nub married a beautiful little girl here in Raleigh, but whether she is with him in Cuba, the rumor didn't say.

BACK HOME . . . Counties and cities in North Carolina — and throughout the nation — are finding it increasingly hard to bring in enough money to make ends meet. After Uncle Sam and the State get their'n, you don't have much left.

That's why Currituck County and Cartaret County want to revive dog racing. These counties have little in the way of industry or agriculture. When the dogs were running, money was flowing, and there was an air of prosperity all round. It is true that too much of this income went out of the counties, out of the State, and out of the South. But enough of it remained to make the people want to see Old Rusty — that mechanical rabbit the hounds never catch — run again. Now it is impossible to say what the final fate of the bill to return the dogs to North Carolina will be. For 60 hours last week it was moving faster than any greyhound, but then it was slowed down a little by the Finance Committee boys. An extremely muddy track may lie just ahead.

We have visited Currituck and Cartaret since the closing of the tracks. We have friends in both counties. If the matter were left to the voters of those counties, the measure to bring dog racing back to their respective communities would pass without serious difficulty.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR . . . Claude H. Farrell. All are tops.

of State College to succeed C. Bostian is Dean Colvard, head of the School of Agriculture and native of Ashe County.

An effort will be made this summer and fall to reorganize and refinance the N. C. Wildlife Clubs, dormant or dead as an effective statewide organization . . . since its executive secretary Ross Stevens resigned to return to Michigan about five years ago.

Nobody around here seems to know just why Mrs. Ethel Perkins Edwards resigned as executive vice president of the N. C. Education Association . . . we have seen one or two letters to the editor lambasting the organization for her demolition — she hopes to remain with it. In announcing her resignation from the top spot, Association President S. Weaver gave no reason. He was asked why Mrs. Edwards was quitting. But he declined to say, remarking this would have to come from Mrs. Edwards . . . As of last week, she was not saying . . . but still maintained President Weaver knew, etc. . . and the consensus around here is that the powers — that — be in the N. C. Education Assn. decided they needed a new face — and preferably a male face — at the top. Our information is that the organization has more members, more financial strength than ever. Nevertheless, there is some dissatisfaction with top management in NCEA. But they won't find more efficient, effective assistants anywhere than John G. Bilde, Dr. Amos Abrams, and — more recently — Claude H. Farrell. All are tops.

Mr. Tomlinson
Davie Enterprise-Record
Mocksville, N. C.
Dear Mr. Editor:

I seen by the paper last week that Uncle Dave was down to your office. "I declare that man is so busy hollering about them Congressmen and things like that, he never tells me anything. I would have sent that nice Tomlinson feller a jar of my strawberry preserves, if I had known about it."

Mr. Editor what I'm writing to you is this, I know I read in your paper how much the School Bond Issue was going to be, but I clean forgot it and I've lined my pantry shelves with the paper, so would you print it again, and tell me just what it all covers. My memory is sort of slipping away from me now. But I do like to read and digest things before I go vote on them. Thank you!

Yours truly,
AUNT IDA
P. S. This will be a lot more fun and create much more interest to let "Aunt Ida" be anonymous. She can answer "Uncle Dave" when he talks of the Bond Issue. However, if you wish to know who "Aunt Ida" is I will tell you, if you decide to use this.

Dear Aunt Ida:
We have not printed how much the school bond issue is going to be because the amount is not definite until it is definitely decided and called for by the Davie County Commissioners and Davie Board of Education. Also, what the bond issue covers will depend upon the amount decided upon.

As the issue will have to be submitted to the vote of the people of Davie County, I am sure you will have plenty of opportunity to "read and digest" all about it before casting your vote. At the present time the concern is getting this matter in shape to put to the vote of the people.

I am sure you realize that at the present time we have only a half-finished high school plant in Davie County, which was built entirely out of money accruing from the state. Davie County, as such, has not put any money into building this new school. Naturally, the foremost and major part of the bond issue will concern itself with completion of these facilities.

Yours truly,
GORDON TOMLINSON
P. S. I have shown your letter to the old bachelor, "Uncle Dave." He says he would enjoy "passing the time of day" (as he puts it) with you and discussing most any matter. He said, however, that you certainly were typical of all the women he knew in that while proposing to give answers you proceeded to ask all the questions. He said to tell you that both of us would appreciate strawberry preserves you so kindly offered.

di's on West 44th where one fit apt to find actors dining with their associates. Should you land down town at eating time, there are a number of good places. (To me the most interesting is Fraunces Tavern where George Washington said farewell to his officers 175 years ago, and the food is still good).

Other recommendations which can apply to any visitor are seeing the United Nations, an easy walk from the Grand Central district where one gets a taste of foreign lands and people within four towering walls. Seeing a television show is one of the most popular things to do and it is best to write for tickets well ahead of time, for the out of town-er is more welcomed and can get tickets this way easier than the local resident. Night clubs are gingerly suggested, standing room at the Latin Quarter near Times Square being inexpensive, the average charge for dinner for two at most of them, however, being around $20. (I like to ride up the 65 story elevator of the RCA Building to the Rainbow Room from where one can see Jewel like Manhattan far below.) For wives who wish to bargain hunt, there are Klein's, Gimbel's and Macy's. Naturally evening brings the Broadway shows, the most distinctive part of the entertainment side of this city. Again write in for tickets before you come or you'll be at the mercy of the scalpers — who charge all the way up to $50 a piece for last minute seats.

ASC Support Rate For 1959 Crop Grain Sorghums Announced

The support rate on grain sorghums produced in this state during 1959 will be $1.64 per cwt. according to Zeno O. Ratcliff, Jr., ASC State Chairman. This support rate shows a drop of 31 cents as compared with the rate that prevailed in 1958. According to Ratcliff this just follows the trend set by all other grains except wheat. The percent of parity support rate on barley, grain sorghums, oats, rye, and rice was dropped from 70 to 60 per cent of parity. "In the case of corn the support rate dropped from 77 per cent of parity in the commercial area to 65 per cent of parity in all counties. In the case of soybeans the drop was from 70 to 64 per cent of parity.

This support rate of $1.64 per cwt., which will prevail in every county in this state, is based on the national average support price announced earlier at $1.52 per cwt. for 1959 crop grain sorghums grading No. 2 or better.

Price support on grain sorghums in this state this year will be carried out as in the past through farm and warehouse stored loans and purchase agreements. Support will be available from harvest time through Jan. 31, 1960. Grain sorghums price support loans mature March 31, 1960.

Discounts for 1959 will be the same as for 1958. Grade No. 3 grain sorghums containing not in excess of 13 per cent moisture will be discounted five cents per cwt. Grade No. 4 containing not in excess of 13 per cent moisture will be discounted 10 cents per cwt. Smutted, discolored, and mixed grain sorghums will be discounted 5, 7 and 3 cents per cwt., respectively.

ASC Official Urges That Farmers Plant Reapportioned Cotton Acreage

Under ASC's release and reapportionment program on cotton acreage for this year farmers who receive acreages that have been released by another farmer and do not plant this acreage cause the state and county to lose planting history and consequently some of the future state and county allotment.

According to H. D. Godfrey, ASC State Administrative Officer, 3,810 North Carolina farmers released 14,837 of their allotted cotton acres for reapportionment to other farms in the county. This action by the releasing farmer, according to Godfrey will maintain the planting history of the releasing farmer without any further action on his part. However, unless the farmer who receives the released acreage plants this acreage, the county and the state will lose allotment in proportion to the releasing farmer.

The production of cotton in this state alone is nearly a 50 million dollar annual business, to say nothing of the handy raw materials this provides for our many cotton mills. With the recent revival of interest in the planting of cotton in this state Godfrey said "it would be a shame for us to lose county and state allotment which can mean so much to us in the future."

Principal counties involved in this release and reapportionment of cotton acreage are Cleveland, Cumberland, Lincoln, and Rutherford. It is interesting to note that every acre of cotton released in these heavy cotton producing counties was requested and reapportioned to other farmers in the county. According to Godfrey, all but nine-tenths of an acre of the nearly 15 thousand acres that were released were reapportioned to other farmers in the county. If all of this cotton is planted it will do much to retain planting history in this state, he said.

Tobacco and Cotton Measurements

Reporters will soon be visiting cotton and tobacco farms for the purpose of determining planted acreage. Prior to these visits these reporters will be given thorough training so that they will be able to do the best job possible. In Davie County photographs are used for making acreage determinations. These photographs are enlarged to a certain scale. The reporters take the necessary measurements and then plot the planted acreage on the photograph.

After the reporter returns the photograph to the County Office the acreage is determined. This is done by use of a very precise instrument called a planimeter. Any deductions are then taken from the gross acreage to give the area planted to the crop in a given field.

This method of measurement has proven to be highly accurate. We urge all farmers to cooperate with these reporters when they come to measure the crops. We want to get the most accurate job possible on every farm.

Conservation Through Vegetative Cover

Conservation-conscious North Carolina farmers spent more than $13.7 million in 1958 for insurance against vital farmland washing or blowing away. According to H. D. Godfrey, ASC Administrative Officer, the Federal Government, through the Agricultural Conservation Program, paid back to them on a share-the-cost basis $6.8 million of this.

The Federal Government shares with farmers up to one-half of the out of pocket cost of carrying out conservation practices in recognition of the fact that conservation of the Nation's agricultural resources is the nation's responsibility; not just the responsibility of the farmers who are the present time are farming the land. "Our city folks should be grateful to these farmers who are spending their own money to assure today's children that they will have sufficient food and fiber in future years," Godfrey said. "We should also be thankful that the Congress 23 years ago saw fit to pass the Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act which has permitted the ACP to accomplish near-miracles in preserving our resources for today and tomorrow."

According to Godfrey, there are several types of conservation practices under the ACP that are available to farmers in this State. In addition to the all important vegetative cover practices, there are several types of drainage practices, forestry practices, water conservation practices providing for the construction of farm ponds, and others. The principle which permits the Federal Government to pay part of the cost of carrying out these practices is based on the fact that every one of these practices is designed to conserve the vital topsoil, which once lost can never be regained, and to conserve the water that falls on the land. The cost of carrying out these conservation practices is considerable greater than the immediate return to the farmer or to the persons to be fed from the land. Conservation is a long-term project, an expensive project, and one in which the government must take a hand to see that conservation is carried out to the extent needed.

ASC Official Announces Barley Support Rate

The State ASC Office today announced that the price support rate for 1959 barley in all North Carolina counties would be 88c per bushel. Zeno O. Ratcliff, Jr., ASC State Chairman, explained that this 88 cents rate for North Carolina was based on a national average support price of 77 cents per bushel for grade No. 2 or better barley. He further compared the 88 cent rate for this year with the rate that prevailed last year of $1.05 per bushel for No. 2 or better.

Price support will be carried out as in prior years through farm and warehouse stored loans and purchase agreements. Support will be available from harvest time through Jan. 31, 1960. Loans will mature on Feb. 29, 1960. According to Ratcliff this brings to three the support commodities for which a 1959 support rate has been announced. Other rates previously announced include a $2.00 per bushel rate for wheat in this state and $1.64 per hundred-weight rate for milo.

WORMY CALVES MAKE POOR COWS

Infections often go unnoticed and adequate control is frequently neglected. As cattle numbers increase and improved pastures allow the dairymen to carry more animals per acre, we would expect the parasite problem to become even more severe.

A recent survey by a member of the Veterinary Section at N. C. State College shows the problem to be a serious one. Slaughter houses throughout the state were visited and material collected from the stomachs of about 200 animals at the time of slaughter. Approximately 90 per cent of the calves and yearlings examined had worms.

With the coming of spring pastures and the release from many of the chores associated with winter management of cattle, there is a tendency on the part of some cattle producers to overlook important summer management details. Dehorning, castrating, providing creep feed for calves, controlling flies, rotating pastures, providing salt, fresh water and shade, making certain that the bull used is fertile and that the cows are being settled, and keeping a close check for abnormalities such as pink eye, foul foot, and internal parasite damage include the more important details that must be attended to during the spring and summer.

Attention to these details will be an important factor in the returns obtained from the cow-calf operation. None of these jobs are time-consuming but it is important that the cattle be observed regularly and that these details be attended to on schedule.

Social Security In Davie County

"Can I pay something and get social security?" This question, according to J. G. Liebensberger, manager of the social security office in this area, is asked many times. It indicates that many persons believe they can elect to pay social security taxes and thus become eligible for benefit payments. Social Security coverage is voluntary only for ministers, for certain employees of non-profit organizations and state and local governments.

To effectively control parasites in the herd it will be necessary on most farms to treat all animals from 6 months of age to freshening twice each year with phenothiazine. Anytime is a good time to start with early spring, and early fall being preferred.

Important Summer Management Details With The Beef Cow Herd
By Dr. E. R. BARRICK, Extension Animal Husbandry Department

1. Good Sanitation: Dirty, damp quarters are ideal places for the parasite eggs. Don't feed hay on the ground.

2. Separate Calves by Age Groups: The older animals usually have more worms and therefore shed more eggs in their manure. Calves that have just been weaned will become quickly infected with parasites if thrown in with a group of yearlings and bred heifers.

3. Don't Overgraze - Rotate and Renovate Pastures: The parasite eggs that infect cattle are located near the bottom of the blades of grass - usually not more than one inch above the ground. Unless a pasture is grazed very close the heifers will not pick up large numbers of eggs.

4. Provide Fresh, Clean Drinking Water: Parasite eggs can be picked up in stagnant drinking water.

5. Keep Calves on High Ground: Calves and young heifers should be housed so that drainage from the herd is away from them.

6. Provide Plenty of Feed: Parasites become a real problem only when you have a heavy infection plus underfeeding. Supplement pastures with grain, hay or silage.

By this time all of the early dropped calves have been castrated and dehorned and if creep feeding is to be practiced, the creepers should be available to the calves. Flies are beginning to be a problem and early treatment will keep them under control.

Mr. Liebensberger stated that the self-employed person is the only one who individually reports his earnings and pays his taxes for social security purposes. He must be able to substantiate the income reported, and it must have been earned from bona fide self-employment.

A BIG CATCH IN A LITTLE BRANCH . . . Cory Cozart and Troy Draughn are shown above with a big 10 1/2 lb. Carp which they pulled from a little branch running behind their house on Mumford Drive. The fish is believed to have gotten into the branch from a fish pond during a heavy rain.

Man Sentenced On Six Charges In County Court

A North Coolemees man gave notice of appeal Tuesday in Davie County Court after receiving suspended sentences amounting to 36 months and fines of $560 and cost in six cases.

AN IMPOSTER

Charles F. Gold, Commissioner of Insurance, states that a white man described as 50 to 55 years of age, with sandy grey hair has been reported to be traveling over North Carolina in a 1950 Ford automobile, color black, bearing a Georgia license plate. Such individual is wanted for obtaining money under false pretenses resulting from contacting elderly people who in most cases are unable to buy insurance, and telling them that he can write them a hospital policy and that in about two weeks he will return with the policy. He is reported to have collected money and issued a plain receipt. These receipts have been signed by the following names: R. J. Dalley, J. E. Grant, J. E. James, J. E. King, W. D. Lee, Ira Davis, J. R. Dalley, Odell Haskell Lloyd, J. S. Moon, R. E. Bailey, and O. H. Lloyd. The man has never returned to those from whom the money was collected.

It would be helpful if anyone having information regarding such a person would furnish full details to the North Carolina Insurance Department.

Big Fish Caught In Branch Here

Many fishermen choose a nice lake which they know to be well stocked with fish. Others choose the river or the ocean. Few, if any, would cast their line in a shallow branch.

Recently, however, a shallow branch in the northern section of Mocksville yielded one of the best catches of the year. This was a ten and a half pound carp and was pulled out of the branch by two 12 year old boys.

The large carp was found in a branch that runs behind the home of Charlie Cozart on Mumford Drive in Mocksville. The fish was pulled from the branch on Sunday, May 17th by Cory Cozart and Troy Draughn, with the assistance of Mr. Cozart. The two boys had spotted the fish and sought out Mr. Cozart's help before they attempted the capture.

Mr. Cozart believes that the fish must have come from J. C. Jones' fish pond on up the branch and got out of the lake during a heavy rain. Anyway, the fish is now safely salted away in a deep freeze, ready to be eaten at some future date.

While naturally it is unofficial, this is believed to be the largest fish ever caught within the corporate limits of the Town of Mocksville.

Opening Service At New Union Church

New Union Methodist Church will hold the first service in the new church, May 31, at 11 a. m. The Rev. John Carper, Thomasville District Supt., will preach the sermon.

The church, in its final stage of being completed, is valued at approximately $35,000. All the furnishings will be new. The old church will soon be torn down to make additional available space for the cemetery.

"The church expresses sincere appreciation to everyone who has made any contribution to the building program. Most especially, we appreciate those who are serving so faithfully on the Building Committee," said the Rev. D. D. Broome, pastor.

The committee is composed of the following: Howard Reeves, chairman; Leroy Dyson, Wade Wright, Willie Reeves, Munzy Dyson; and Mrs. Howard Reeves, secretary and treasurer.

A practice game with Lexington will be played at Rich Park, Thursday night, May 28, at 8 p. m. by the Davie County American Legion Junior Baseball team.

Johnny Ward Is Winner Of Jaycee Citizenship Award

Johnny Ward is the winner of the Junior Citizenship Award for 1959. He is the son of Mrs. John E. Ward and the late Mr. Ward of the Smith Grove Community.

The award, an annual presentation by the Mocksville Junior Chamber of Commerce, was presented to Johnny at the graduation exercises Tuesday night. The presentation was made on behalf of the Jaycees by Jim Latham, club president.

The Junior Citizenship Award is presented each year to the young man or young woman who, in the opinion of a secret group of judges, has contributed most toward good citizenship. These contributions entail actual participation in various activities of home, church, school, and community. Also taken into consideration by the judges is an original essay written by the nominee on a topic of his own choosing.

Previous winners of this award have included Henry Shutt, Alton Sheek, Johnnie Ruth Ellis, and Z. N. Anderson.

Johnny Ward has been very active in affairs at the Davie County High School. He is valedictorian of his class; president of the Beta Club; vice president of the glee club; sports editor of the school newspaper; student band director; official scorerkeeper for athletics and sports correspondent for the Davie Enterprise-Record, and is actively engaged in many other activities of the school.

He is active in the Boy Scouts and is currently serving as Assistant Scout Master of Troop 502. He has earned his own spending money since he was in the 5th grade by picking cotton, mowing yards, and other such activities, plus his work at home.

He is a member of the Smith Grove Methodist Church and is currently president of the MYF. He is a member of the official board of the church and past member of the commission on finance. He is also a member of the Macedonia Moravian Band.

For an essay, Johnny wrote on why he wanted to be a teacher, pointing out that it is one of the most vital of all activities, "affecting as it does the happiness and well being of children who are to be citizens and therefore the shapers of the future and the masters of tomorrow."

In summing up why he wants to be a teacher, Johnny said: "May I use my ability and the knowledge that I have been able to acquire and will acquire to teach the future citizens of Davie County to live upright, Godly lives, making our county the best county, so that in the future years our citizens will be proud to say 'I was educated in Davie County!'"

Local V.F.W. To Present Comedy

The local Veterans of Foreign Wars announced today that arrangements have been completed for the presentation of a big new musical comedy called "Around the World in a Daze." The show will be staged at Mocksville school auditorium on the nights of June 11 and 12.

The action of the show, as indicated by the title, takes place all over the world. Casper Perkins, winner of a trip around the world for two, takes his landlady, Mable Mullins, with him on this hilarious adventure. At each stop, they are introduced to new sights and excitement by two charming airline hostesses, and each stop seems more exciting than the last.

One outstanding scene takes place in the land of fairy tales, where Casper and Mable acted out by a group of children from the second and third grades.

A trip around the world would not be complete without a visit to the city of fun and frolic, Paris; and our travelers are thoroughly entertained with a spectacular floor show in the famed Folies Bergere.

A professional director who has had special training will arrive approximately two weeks prior to the presentation of the show. She will work with the VFW on try-outs, rehearsals, publicity, and other phases of production.

Around The World In A Daze is a fast moving entertainment for all members of the family. Costumes, especially designed for each number are beautiful, music lively. Watch for Around The World In A Daze to be presented by the VFW with all local talent, on June 11 and 12.

THE SCHOOL BOND ISSUE

House Bill 927 was introduced last week in the General Assembly by Rep. B. C. Brock. This bill gives the necessary authority to Davie County to issue up to $1,700,000 in school bonds if approved by the vote of the people.

Davie County school officials have been awaiting the passage of this bill almost from the day the legislature opened. This was the first of several steps needed to put the issue to a vote of the people.

The sum of $1,700,000 is the maximum amount of school bonds that can be issued. This does not mean that the bond issue will be for that amount, but will probably be for less. The amount of money needed will of course be dependent upon how broad a program is undertaken.

The maximum project involving the $1,700,000 bond issue includes a building or renovation program for every school in the county. There are other proposals of course narrowing the program down and involving less money.

Number one on the list is of course the completion of the new consolidated school plant. Limping along now for three years with partial and inadequate facilities, the conditions there are becoming critical.

For instance: Members of the graduating class this year spent three years at the new school. With a class of 144 in number, they had no place to assemble to elect class officers . . . discuss class problems, etc. When they entered this school three years ago they had every right to expect that the citizens of the county would have needed facilities there in a period of three years.

Classroom space is now overcrowded and larger freshmen classes continue to enroll every year. At the present time classrooms are of necessity having to be used as lunchroom space, office space and for music rooms, etc. A makeshift cafeteria can be tolerated as a temporary measure, but becomes intolerable after a long period of time.

The State of North Carolina requires physical education as a necessary unit of education. At the present time there are no facilities, whatsoever, at the local high school other than a playground area. During inclement weather, there can be no classes in physical education.

To some people an athletic program at a high school may be considered a luxury, just as some people consider indoor bathroom facilities a luxury. However, just as the modern trend of living has been towards indoor toilets and bathrooms and away from outdoor privies, the athletic programs of the schools of the nation have developed until today they are as much an integral part of school life as reading, writing, and arithmetic.

For three seasons now, with the fourth coming up next year, the Davie High School has put out teams under all sorts of handicaps and odds. Many have been critical of the won and lost record of the teams.

However, if one considers the handicap under which the teams operated such criticism changes to wonderment as to how they have done as well as they have.

The Davie High School has no field on which to either practice or play football. For practice they ride a bus to Cooleemee and use their facilities. For games, they dress at Cooleemee and ride to Rich Park to play. At Rich Park there are no facilities to accommodate visiting teams . . . their players . . . their bands . . . their students . . . or spectators. As a result, some of our neighboring teams are refusing to come to Mocksville saying: "You can't accommodate us!" Can any student, teacher, coach, or citizen of the county take pride in that?

Out of a student body of around 900 boys and girls there are several hundred that want and deserve the chance to play at basketball, regardless of whether they ever make varsity players or not. But the Davie High School has no gymnasium. Basketball practice must be limited to the few that can be carried by bus to the gyms at Mocksville and Cooleemee. This not only is a difficult situation for these few high school cage aspirants, but also interferes with the elementary school programs of both Mocksville and Cooleemee whose facilities they use.

For any extracurricular school activity, the students must go off the school campus to either Mocksville or Cooleemee. Even then the auditoriums at Mocksville or Cooleemee will not accommodate the entire student body. And at graduation time, parents are required to have tickets in order to get in to see their children graduate.

We believe that the children and citizens of Davie County deserve better than this. We believe that Davie County can certainly afford to have better.

There are few churches in the county, if any, that have not had several building and enlarging programs during the past ten years. It was more than 10 years ago since Davie has done anything about its schools. Certainly a building program on the part of the growing churches is indicative that additional school facilities are needed.

The need for completing the new school is recognized by practically every good citizen of the county. It is a job that has got to be done either this year or next or the next. The longer it is put off, the more it is going to cost. In fact, it would probably have been better for all concerned if it was finished two years ago.

It is apparent to all that there has been too much "dragging of feet" on the proposal to submit the bond issue to the vote of the people. The people of Davie County deserve the right and the chance to say whether or not they want the necessary facilities for their children. This right should not be denied nor delayed by the board of education, the county commissioners, or anyone else.

Mocksville Complimented

"Mocksville Modernized With Dial . . . Money plus Time plus Teamwork equals New Telephone System for North Carolina Community."

This is the title of an article, complete with pictures, appearing in the March-April issue of "Public Service" magazine. This is a national publication of the Central Electric and Gas Company and subsidiary telephone companies and goes to employees throughout the United States. Here is a portion of what the article has to say:

"It cost in excess of $227,000. It required more than two years of engineering, planning and construction.

"It has 800 subscriber lines, 1,200 terminals and associated equipment, to provide local and long distance service of the most modern and efficient type.

"First, you must understand something about the town of Mocksville and its citizens. Basically, Mocksville is a residential town moving quickly to becoming a city. Many of the folks who live there work in nearby Winston-Salem in the large Western Electric plant, Reynolds Tobacco Company, P. H. Hanes Knitting Co., and Hosiery Mill.

Others work in one of the several large industries located in Mocksville: the Heritage Furniture Company, Hanes Furniture Co., manufacturers of school and office furniture, three garment factories and two large feed mills. The residents are energetic, progressive people who are vitally interested in projects that will assure the continued growth and development of this community. They fully realize the role that modern communications play in attracting and retaining business and industry in a community, as well as providing for their individual safety, welfare, and pleasure.

"Because of their foresight, Mocksville has been growing rapidly and so has its communications system. During the past 12 years the number of telephones in the community has increased from 303 to 1,203, or over 297 per cent. To provide the quality of service Mocksville subscribers want and deserve has necessitated an ever-increasing investment by the Company. During the 12 year period, Jan., 1946 to Dec., 1958, the plant investment of the Central Telephone Company has increased 1259 per cent. The total current investment is over $396,000."

The article goes on further to describe the office building and equipment.

Too often the people who live in a community take things for granted. It is very nice to be recognized and complimented in the manner which this article does.

The Living Scriptures . . . by T. H. . . . To The Democratic Law-Makers Of The World

SENATOR SAM ERVIN SAYS

WASHINGTON — The opposition by some leaders of organized labor and some management in this country to the Kennedy-Ervin labor reform bill recently passed by the Senate convinces me that the bill should become law.

I have been working on this bill for a long time; labor reform legislation is urgently needed and my service on the McClellan Committee has provided an opportunity for me to determine the need.

Hoffa Opposes
Teamsters President James Hoffa opposes the bill and is leading a battle to have the legislation killed in the House of Representatives. He declares that the Kennedy-Ervin bill is too stringent. I can understand his opposition to it because it would regulate some things he apparently does not want regulated. Some businessmen are opposing the bill because they say it is too weak. How they can reconcile their views with that of Hoffa in opposing the bill I cannot understand. Hoffa knows what is in the bill; he knows it would eliminate corruption uncovered by the McClellan Committee. Those who oppose the bill on the theory that it is too weak should read the bill carefully and find out what the bill contains.

Traditional View

The Kennedy - Ervin bill, as well as all bills of this nature, is opposed by United Mine Workers President John L. Lewis. He seems to put his opposition on his traditional view that relationships between labor and management should be left entirely to them and that there should be no interference whatever in the form of legislation in this field. He seems to feel that local and state laws against embezzlement, should be sufficient to handle the problem if the laws are enforced. That view is sound to the extent that much of the corruption would be eliminated if the laws were enforced. We found on the McClellan Committee that in many cases local officials had not undertaken to enforce the laws because, one is led to conclude, of the union's political power.

My view is that the type of opposition to the Kennedy-Ervin bill indicates a pattern that defeated the Kennedy-Ives bill last session and that may well defeat effective labor reform legislation now. If some labor leaders and some leaders of management continue to oppose the bill there is no way to predict what will be the outcome.

Anti-Trust Laws

Hoffa's arrogance in what has been interpreted to be a threat of a nation wide strike in the event Congress passes certain legislation has strengthened the McClellan bill which would put transportation unions under anti-trust laws. Personally, I have not favored extending anti-trust laws to unions generally. But as a result of the attitude manifested by Hoffa,

UNCLE DAVE FROM DAVIE Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR: I was reading a magazine piece where the U. S. Treasury Department has now got one of them electronic machines that'll count paper money. That's the most encouraging news to come out of Washington this season. A heap of folks was under the impression they had done quit counting it. Judging from the way them Congressmen was spending it, I figured they was just handling it by the pound.

And I see where some feller has invented a new dance step called the Washington Glide. He says he patterned it after Ike's golf swing. If we're going out fer things like that: I've got a few steps I'd like to suggest, like the Farm Price Climb, the Tax Cut Tango, or the Balanced Budget Boogie.

I saw a piece in the papers last night where the taxpayers is footing the bill fer 871 employees to drive them Congressmen and Senators around. I got a hunch the taxpayers wouldn't mind it so much if they knowed some of those big boys had any idea where they was going and what they'd do when they got there.

60 SECOND SERMONS

By FRED DODGE

TEXT: "Heart-break is a starting point, not a stopping point." — Eff Thomas.

"Why do you want your love letters back?" asked the girl who had broken her engagement. "Are you afraid that I'll take them to Court?"

"No," sighed the heart-broken young man, "but I paid to have those letters written by an expert and I may use them again some day."

There is no despair like the despair that stabs a rejected lover. Most of us have suffered this acute pain. However, the world's great and growing population proves that heart-break is not fatal and that healthy lovers recover from "broken" hearts. They live full and successful lives. They are happy. This doesn't mean that one heart-break is not as deep or complete as another. It does mean that those who pick up the pieces and move on, have the maturity and mental health to find real happiness among the world's vast majority of joys.

Heart-break is real and sincere. However, we often find that we were not heart - broken over an individual, but over something we thought that individual stood for and was. When we realize this, we can manage our heart-break and, with a whole and free heart, continue our search for the happiness which ultimately becomes ours.

ment has now got one of them electronic machines that'll count paper money. That's the most encouraging news to come out of Washington this season. A heap of folks was under the impression they had done quit counting it. Judging from the way them Congressmen was spending it, I figured they was just handling it by the pound.

And I see where some feller has invented a new dance step called the Washington Glide. He says he patterned it after Ike's golf swing. If we're going out fer things like that: I've got a few steps I'd like to suggest, like the Farm Price Climb, the Tax Cut Tango, or the Balanced Budget Boogie.

I saw a piece in the papers last night where the taxpayers is footing the bill fer 871 employees to drive them Congressmen and Senators around. I got a hunch the taxpayers wouldn't mind it so much if they knowed some of those big boys had any idea where they was going and what they'd do when they got there.

The fellers at the country store Saturday night got to talking about them alphabet agencies they got in Washington. One feller held out that some of 'em couldn't spell good enough to handle the situation. Fer instance, he said, the pamphlets he gets from the Agriculture Department always abbreviates "barrel" with "bbi" when anybody knows that barrel ain't got but one "b" in it. Ed Doolittle allowed as how that's because them Government folks always do everything up to the last notch and that the extra "b" stood fer the bunghole in the barrel.

I'm mighty interested in the outcome about this feller in Baltimore that got caught strolling stark naked to the corner store fer a pack of cigarettes. When the law got him he said, "This is the way God made me." As technical as our courts is getting, he might win his case. But I've got a idea that the Judge will convict him on one of them bear traps lawyers manages to git into the statutes. He'll probably rule that God made him that way but God didn't create him with the cigarette habit, therefore and whereas he is guilty ipso facto and E Pluribus Unus.

Speaking of Judges, one in England ruled the other day that a wife's value goes down with the years. A feller was asking $700 because his wife run off with another man. The Judge held that a wife gets more troublesome ever year and that this feller was entitled to only $210 due to depreciation. Seems they got mighty fine Judges in England. Over here the Judge would rule the husband gets fat, bald, and stingy and fer that reason a wife that'll live with him increases in value.

Yours truly,
Uncle Dave

KIDD BREWER'S Raleigh Roundup

THE JUGGERNAUT . . . Although at some time between now and June 15 — generally accepted date for adjournment—the 1959 N. C. General Assembly will be engaged in lovefeasts, handshakes, apologies, and general forgiveness, all is not sweetness and light on the hill.

The administration's juggernaut rolls on relentlessly crushing friend and foe alike. It's all—or nothing at all. Soars linger over the minimum wage battle. Division deepens and tempers flare as the machine grinds into dust any hand lifted against it. It's a no-holds barred game.

And while the withholding tax will be adopted and while the catohall Dept. of Administration will still be around with us and while the highway setup will continue for a time as now constituted, these administrative victories have not been won without casualties.

The infighting has been bitter, sometimes ruthless, and the wounds will be still existent and bleeding when sides are chosen in State political contests a year hence.

TRIBUTE? . . . At least one Raleigh scribe voiced the opinion a few days ago that the prestige of Gov. Luther Hodges has increased during the four months the Legislature has been in session.

We will agree with this. At least it would seem so, for the average Governor we have had in North Carolina during the past 40 years has been content merely to hold to his gains during this second Legislature. It's a tribute to the incumbent that he takes the hard road.

Here we have Governor Hodges in his fifth year as Governor and dealing not with his second Legislature, but with his fourth, counting a special session — and we would say he is flexing his muscles more and using the power of his office more on this one than the others.

SUPER STRUCTURES . . . We have noted several attempts in the current legislative session to alter the strengths of various department heads.

Hints of curtailment of power for State Welfare Supt., Ellen Winston, for State Auditor Henry Bridges, for Public Instruction Supt., Charles F. Carroll have been tossed about in hotel ball sessions; and more than hints have reached the floor of the House and Senate.

We noted recently a super structure attempt — or at least the suggestion of one — on the built-in authority of Insurance Commissioner Charles Gold. Somebody wants Charlie to have help on insurance decisions.

Without going into the advantages or disadvantages of setting up a board or commission to decide on insurance rates, etc., we would say offhand that it would be next to impossible to improve upon the ideal of fair play shown by Gold in his various decisions.

And as it is with Auditor Bridges, it is with Commissioner Gold; he must go before the people for approval of his program each four years. If his decisions are bad, then the voters can set him straight — just as they can with Supt. Carroll or with any other of the elected officials.

For the Legislature to play with elective positions seems to be short-circuiting the power of the people.

MAKE IT TEN! . . . A number of little cities in North Carolina which were well under 10,000 by the 1950 census are now girding their loins to make it over the top for the nose-counting coming up again next year.

At least two of them — Washington and Lumberton — have already made it. Lumberton did it officially by bringing in U. S. Commerce Dept. officials and paying for a special count.

If there is an outside chance you can make it to 10,000 in 1960 now—not next year—is the time to begin working on it.

THE BIG ONES . . . Experts say that Charlotte, whose population ran to 134,042 in 1950, will go to 205,000 by census time next year.

Winston - Salem, which tried so hard to make it to 100,000 in 1950 — all in vain — has had a special count since the 87,811 official census figure and is now over 100,000 and is expected to go to 140,000 in 1960. Greensboro in third place at 74,389, should have 119,000 by next year, say the experts.

Durham, 71,311 in 1950 should go to 97,000; Raleigh, 65,679 in 1950 to 85,000; Asheville, 53,000, to 56,400; Wilmington, 46,043 in 1950 is expected to go only to 45,793; High Point, from 39,978 to 63,000; Fayetteville, 34,715 to 55,000; Kannapolis, from 28,443 to 32,400; Rooky Mount, 27,879 to 35,000; Burlington, 24,650 to 32,500; Gastonia, 23,069 to 38,000; Wilson, 23,010 to 30,250; Goldsboro, 21,454 to 30,000; and Salisbury, from 20,102 in 1950 to 22,950 in 1960.

If these predictions hold, High Point will replace Asheville as the sixth largest city in the state; Fayetteville will scrouge out Wilmington for eighth position; and Gastonia, in 13th place in 1950, will be 10th, jumping over Kannapolis, Rocky Mount and Burlington.

Senator Jordan Reports:

By SEN. B. EVERETT JORDAN
WASHINGTON — Events in the past two weeks have thrown the tobacco program into a desperate fight for its life.

It has been common knowledge for some time that the tobacco program has been a sore spot with Secretary Benson. It is the only commodity that has proven through the years that it can operate in the black under a system of stable price supports and rigid acreage controls. Tobacco is the only farm commodity that is still supported at 90 per cent of parity, by law, and the tobacco program has proven the weakness of the flexible price support program Secretary Benson has advocated for many years.

Quite naturally, any time a problem comes up in tobacco, Secretary Benson suggests that flexible price supports, or supports based on previous year's market averages, is the answer.

Repeatedly, Congress has turned a deaf ear on such suggestions for the simple reason that flexible price supports have all but ruined the other commodity programs.

All along, due to the soundness and success of the tobacco program, it has been the feeling that Secretary Benson would not make a real fight on tobacco. But what has happened in the past two weeks proves that he is determined to revamp the entire tobacco program and do everything in his power to put it under flexible price supports.

The bill I introduced in the Senate to stabilize tobacco price supports, and which was approved by the Senate last week, turned out to be the battleground for Secretary Benson in his efforts to do away with parity supports on tobacco.

Until the last minute, in fact, up until the time the bill was being debated on the floor of the Senate, Secretary Benson had indicated he would go along with it, but reluctantly.

He had stated very clearly to the House Committee on Agriculture that the tobacco freeze bill was an improvement over present law and that it would help to regain many of our foreign markets.

Then, on the day the bill was being debated in the Senate, he sent a letter to Sen. Allen Ellender, Chairman of the Senate Committee on Agriculture, stating flatly that he opposed passage of the legislation.

By taking such a position, he now openly admits that he will accept nothing that he himself as not advocated.

Such an attitude accomplishes nothing, and the action of the Senate in passing by a vote the tobacco freeze bill, proves once again that it recognized the tobacco program as the most responsible and reasonable part of our entire price support system. In spite of his efforts to destroy it, I am confident that Congress will not allow him to get a stronghold.

Social Security Corner

By S. W. MILLER, Jr., Field Representative

"COMMENTS ON LOST BENEFITS"

Miss Nancy Prim is a little provoked. Ordinarily, she is very even tempered, but right now she is just plain provoked. She is a bang-up good teacher. Now 68 years old, she is still going strong in the teaching profession.

As a school teacher in North Carolina, Nancy Prim came under social security in 1955. Because of her age, and the special provisions of the social security law, Miss Prim reached retirement age in May, 1958. At this time, she was old enough, had worked long enough and needed only to file an application to be entitled to social security benefits. Miss Prim knew all this. She did not file her application, however, until Jan., 1959, because her friends and associates told her that as long as she continued to earn over $3600 a year, she could not get social security benefits. Here is where Miss Prim made her big mistake. She was taking professional advice about a professional subject from people who were not professionals in this field. It is not surprising that Miss Prim was misinformed. She should have brought her questions to the social security office. You know it and I know it: somehow Miss Prim didn't get around to the social security office.

When she finally did get around to asking her social security representative about her social security problems, it was too late to get some of the money she could have gotten had she come to the social security office in the first place. When she came to the social security office, she found out that no matter how much money you earn you can get social security benefits for any month you do not earn in excess of $100.

The social security office has retired people divided into two categories: (1) fully retired and (2) partially retired. The first category is easy to define: anyone who does not earn in excess of $1200 in a calendar year is considered to be fully retired. Partial retirement is when the person earns in excess of $1200 but less than $2080. Also, you are considered partially retired no matter how much money you make in a year providing there are one or more months during the year in which you earn less than $100.

Miss Prim had met the definition of partial retirement because no matter how much she earned during the teaching year, there were three months during the year in which she had no earnings - June, July, and August. Had Miss Prim come to our office in 1956, when she became 65, she would have been informed of her right to these monthly checks. When she did file in Jan., 1959, she was told that she could get checks for the months of June, July, and August of 1958. Had she filed in 1956, she could have gotten benefits in both 1956 and 1957. Her benefit of $103 a month means that she lost $618 because she relied on the advice of friends.

If Nancy had been a self-employed person instead of a wage earner, she could have gotten benefits for any month in which she earned no more than $100.

What Every Veteran Should Know

Cost of Emergency Treatment of veterans in private hospitals may be paid by the Veterans Administration only if the medical care was for service connected condition. W. J. Wilson, Davie County Veterans Service Officer, stated.

Mr. Wilson said the medical emergency must have been such that an attempt to secure admission to a VA Hospital would have been hazardous to the veteran.

The VA may assure full medical responsibility in such cases if the emergency treatment is reported to the nearest VA Hospital or regional office within 72 hours after admission of the veteran to a private hospital, according to the county veterans' service officer.

The agency says it cannot pay private hospital bills for veterans who elect to receive treatment in non-VA facilities as a matter of choice rather than necessity. A veteran who has paid his private hospital bill for emergency treatment of a service-connected condition may file a claim for reimbursement by the VA.

The county service officer said reimbursement claims can be approved only if proof is submitted that the emergency required the veteran to be taken to the nearest private hospital for treatment and would not have permitted his admission to a VA hospital. Further information and assistance may be secured from your county veterans service officer, who is located at Lynn Haven Nursing Home, Mocksville, or Robert F. Curran, District Officer, N. C. Veterans Commission, 202 Frye Bldg., Hokeory, N. C.

In addition to the above named folders, your local social security office now has a generous supply of OASI - 35 "Your Social Security." This booklet contains general information pertaining to all phases of the Social Security Law. It is a handy home reference guide if you have questions as to your family's rights under the Social Security Program. All of the latest amendments are included and it is the most up to date folder now available to the public.

If you desire one of the folders mentioned, send a letter or postcard to your local social security office at 105 Corriher Ave., Salisbury, N. C.
