Central Telephone Makes Change In Rate Periods

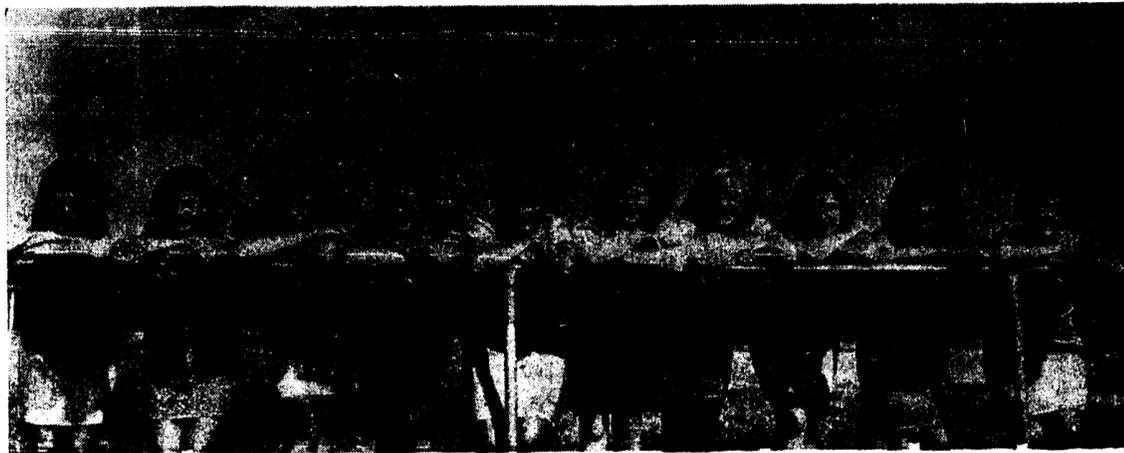

A new change in rate periods for long distance telephone service can mean savings for North Carolinians according to Avery Watson, local Central Telephone Company manager.

"Essentially this change will mean more hours at which the lower rates can apply," Mr. Watson said. For example, the day rate for intrastate calls has applied from 4:30 a. m. to 6 p. m. With this change, calls placed between the hours of 7 a. m. and 5 p. m. are charged at the day rate. The evening rate, which is lower than the day rate, applies from 5 to 7 p. m., rather than 6 to 8 p. m.

The lowest rate for long distance calls is the night station-to-station rate. Previously this rate was in effect between the hours of 8 p. m. and 4:30 a. m. It now extends from 7 p. m. until 7 a. m. weekdays and is effective all through weekends. This rate, is even lower if caller dials the call himself between midnight and 7 a. m.

"Rate periods for interstate calls can be found in the introductory pages of your telephone directory," Mr. Watson said. "These same rate periods now apply to calls within the state. The uniform rate periods will certainly make things less confusing for the customer, allowing him to place his calls earlier and at the same time save some money."

This fall, save some money. It's a good way to keep that good feeling you get at harvest time.

Look. Farming is risky business. You know it. We know it. So when you have a good year, you ought to put away something for the bad years. That just makes good sense. Now when you sell your crops, everybody will be urging you to "save at Blank Bank." But we think you should save at Branch Bank. And here's why. Nearly 100 years ago, BB&T started serving farmers. And over the years, we've done everything we could to make banking easy and convenient for our farm customers. Special loans, special financing plans, even farm management services. Today, we're still doing exactly what we started out to do. And we've been at it so long, we can't help but believe we do it a little better than most people.

Nobody can win this war for you

October has been designated Industry Litter Prevention Month in North Carolina. The North Carolina malt beverage industry, in support of this program, is sponsoring a state-wide series of dinner meetings to promote community action against the problem of litter. Throughout the year the beer industry, among many others, sponsors a wide variety of litter prevention activities designed to encourage community-action programs. But all the efforts of these public-spirited citizens are useless if you forget. The war against litter cannot be won for you; you've got to win it for yourself—and for all of us. Remember... products don't make litter, people do.

For further information on how you can help in the war on litter, write North Carolina Malt Beverage Control Institute, Box 2858, Raleigh, N. C. 27602.

Dixie Classic Fair To Feature Youth Activities Program

A broad program of youth activities has been planned for next month's Dixie Classic Fair, including the construction of a Youth Pavilion.

The Sounds of '68, a nightly Battle of the Bands, will be staged in the new building and all young people will be admitted free. The pavilion also will house Election Central, where the students' balloting for the presidential candidates will be announced each night.

A Teen Age Rodeo, the first to be held at the Fair, will be conducted each afternoon, Tuesday through Friday, on the track in the grandstand area. This is open to all Northwest student drivers who previously have qualified by taking a defensive driving course in their home counties.

The Youth Pavilion was built at the suggestion of the Junior Fair Board, which has been responsible for planning this year's activities for young people.

The building is an open-sided structure, measuring 60 by 40 feet, and is located just north of Bolton Boulevard between Memorial Coliseum and the food concession stands. It is equipped with a permanent stage and dressing rooms, a concrete floor, and adequate lighting and electrical outlets for various types of performances.

The Battle of the Bands will christen the facility on opening day Tuesday, October 8, at 7 p.m. There will be performances by four area bands or combos that night and four new ones on each succeeding night of the Fair.

Winners of the week's performances will be announced by a judging committee Saturday night. Cash prizes of $100, $75, $50 and $25 will be awarded the top four. Emcees for each night's show will be station personalities from WAIR and WTOB in Winston-Salem.

Young people in the Northwest area may recommend bands for the week's shows by writing to the Band Screening Committee, Dixie Classic Fair, Box 7525, Reynolda Station, Winston-Salem 27109. These must be received by Saturday, September 28.

The Teen Age Rodeo will begin each day at 4 p. m., Tuesday-Friday. Each participant will be scored on the basis of his driving and a written test given with a defensive driving course in his home county.

Winners in the boys' and girls' divisions will receive prizes valued at $650. The Winston-Salem Automobile Dealers Association, co-sponsor of the rodeo, will provide the cars to be driven and $400 of the awards money.

Election Central in the Youth Pavilion will be manned by members of the Junior Fair Board each night. Ballots in the mock presidential election will be attached to each student's ticket to the Fair. After the ballots have been counted each night and the results posted, a single ticket will be drawn. The student whose name is on the ticket will be awarded $50 and another $50 will be given to his school. Tickets will be distributed through the schools in the county-Northwest area.

Drive Organized To "Fight Litter"

The fight against litter is really getting organized this month.

In twenty cities across North Carolina, public and law enforcement officials, legislators, civic and industry leaders will gather at dinner meetings where the details of one industry's drive to help eradicate the blight of litter will be spelled out. The Governor has issued a proclamation designating October as "Industry's Litter Prevention Month"; these meetings will demonstrate what the malt beverage industry is doing, and invite other industries to launch their own programs. The Governor's proclamation calls on all industries for continuing cooperation in anti-litter campaigns.

On the national, state and local levels, the brewing industry has long been one of the leaders in fighting litter. A charter member of Keep America Beautiful, the United States Brewers Association recently decided that more intensified Litter Prevention efforts were needed at all levels. The current drive, which is part of their continuing program, is the result. Those attending the dinner meetings will receive specially prepared "Industry Litter Prevention Guide", which details the steps in mounting a campaign; they will be invited to take action, not only for the month of October, but as a continuing public education project. The cooperation of all interested civic groups is also invited.

For its part in the campaign, the malt beverage industry has prepared hundreds of thousands of litter prevention materials for free distribution to the public. 10,000 posters for use in retail stores will be distributed by the State ABC Board. In addition, some 100 malt beverage wholesalers will distribute thousands of decals, litter bags, and related Litter Prevention materials.

The theme of the campaign is simple. A hand with a string tied around a finger and the words, "Fight Litter", sum it up. Unless we all remember not to litter, this fight cannot be won; when we do remember, our neighborhoods, cities and countryside will become again as beautiful as they were before the blight of litter.

Magazine Drive In Mocksville

The students in grades 4 - 8 in the Mocksville School District are again conducting their annual fall magazine drive. Some students will ask you to look through a list of quality magazines. You most likely will have some in your home at the present time. This student will be able to place you a new order or renew a present subscription.

Our school will earn good commissions on your subscriptions, new or renewal. The money received will help satisfy needs not normally provided for by school budgets.

In addition to the money earned, our magazine programs contribute, economically and culturally, to the community and gives every student a chance to do something for the school, as well as to develop himself personally.

"Should you have a renewal order or be interested in a new subscription and no student calls on you, please call the school at 634-2740. Your support is greatly appreciated", stated Vernon Thompson.

Ken Eaton Heads

Brevard Freshmen

Kenneth Dwight Eaton has been elected president of the freshman class at Brevard College.

Mr. Eaton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Eaton of Route 2. He is a 1968 graduate of Davie County High School.

Ken Eaton And His Speech

Letter to the Editor:

The following is the speech that Ken Eaton gave to the Brevard Freshmen Class in his campaign for President of the class. I am very proud to say that Ken was elected to be our next freshmen president.

"First of all, I'd like to thank Al (his friend) for presenting my introduction. But to be quite frank, what Al has said of me should be of little importance to you. This is all in the past, and we must now be concerned with the present and what I can do for you.

I feel also that I should explain why I haven't put up posters for publicity. Perhaps you figured I wasn't interested in running. Well if you did, you're dead wrong. You see, there was this man who lived on this earth many, many years ago. I have studied this guy and have come to love what he said, the things that he did, and what he stood for. Not that I understand everything about him, heck, he couldn't. But I'm sure all of you have had at least a casual acquaintance with him. The guy's name is Jesus. So I asked myself, would he put up signs saying, 'JESUS FOR PRESIDENT' if he were running in my place. It didn't take long before I decided, no, he wouldn't. He had come to serve, not to receive; but putting up these are not bad. I am not trying to say that John and the others running for office are wrong; quite the contrary, it does a lot of good for them. I have made some posters without any reference to me. I have tried to make them so that you will think about what you're doing when you vote. So why is Kenny Eaton running, then? To see that the best qualified person gets elected. It could be that John is better qualified than I am, and if he is, I hope he wins. It's all up to you to decide. No one knows for sure who's the best man-only you can think one of the candidates better than the other.

I cannot make any proposals or promises. I can only say that if I am elected, I'll work for you, not around you. Before I make any decision big or small, I will ask myself, 'What would Jesus do if he were in my shoes?' I must also tell you that I am only human and if elected I'll make mistakes. But I will do my darndest to do my best.

If, between now and Friday, you have any questions to ask me, please feel free to do so. I feel that I should say something concerning the shorts issue. I believe that somewhere both the administration and the students should compromise and give a little to make the whole thing fair. Since when did clothes make the man, anyway? I end my speech with a beautiful statement by Frances Willard: 'I am but one, but I am one: I cannot do much, but I can do something: what I can do, I ought to do, and by the Grace of God I will do.'

Thank You!"

You may be wondering why I sent Ken's speech to the Enterprise. The main reason is because I've never heard and I doubt that you have heard a campaign speech anywhere, in which the candidate really put Jesus first and himself second. Usually they say that with God's help and your help we will work together and let it go with that. With Ken's speech went a lot of guts and courage because it wasn't easy to do what he did. I also wanted you to know that many people of Davie County in a real sense, didn't realize they had a person of this kind. Thank you very very much for your time and space to print this letter.

Sincerely yours,

Larry Lanier

BETTER BREAKFAST MONTH

"Live and let live" is a useful philosophy in many ways. And I subscribe to it. But when it comes to nutrition I have to admit there is one area in which I probably have the tendencies of a "meddler". I have never been able to understand why some people aren't more interested in having a good breakfast each morning. I've heard all the arguments - that "there isn't time" and "food that early makes me sick" and "I'm skipping breakfast for weight control". But these excuses simply don't square with good sense, I say this both as a lay person and as a physician.

Take the hustle and bustle that so many people complain about. What better way to avoid some of it than to get up early enough (and this includes getting to bed early enough) to enjoy a good breakfast. One's family is unique and being together around the breakfast table may be even more important in this day of father's traveling so much and often staying downtown for evening business engagements.

Whatever, the family that eats breakfast together with time for some pleasantries is going to be more prepared to withstand the rush of the day's activities.

Research studies indicate better performance at work and school when breakfast is adequate. Dieters who include breakfast in their day's eating are more satisfied and better able to control their eating for the rest of the day.

Breakfast has always been regarded as important, and also probably a privilege, as is indicated in much history. When the Dutch first settled in America every new bride received a waffle iron with her initials and the date of her wedding carved into it. Obviously, these pioneers attached importance to breakfast as a major meal.

But most of all, one should remember that breakfast means "fast". This is the crux of why I have trouble understanding people who don't want breakfast. You have, after all, fasted all through the night and your body certainly needs food when you get up, both to make up for the fasting and in anticipation of energy needs to come. Waiting for lunch is simply too long a time since the last meal or snack unless you wish to put stress on your body that isn't necessary and probably is harmful.

So bring out the pancakes, the waffles, the eggs and bacon, the cereal - whichever of these you prefer for a given morning. Add fruit or fruit juice, milk, and your favorite hot beverage. I simply don't believe that it is very many breakfasts that cause weight control problems. The absence of a good breakfast, on the other hand, may well over the years cause or be involved in problems of varying nature.

There aren't many things about today's man that low-priced electric service doesn't play a part in. It does a lot for what it costs. You could say it's one of the biggest personal values. Fact is, a dollar spent on electric service today is worth twice as much electric service as it was 30 years ago. Pretty impressive - particularly when you think of how the price of almost everything else has gone way up.

Senator Sam Ervin Says:

These are unusual times for our country. There is a growing division and discontent in many aspects of our country's life. Our society is being tested. Things we recently took for granted are being questioned. Cherished institutions are being changed, sometimes for the better, more often not.

All this leads me to say that there is an increasing public awareness and concern with the tendency of the Supreme Court to assume legislative responsibilities and, in the guise of constitutional adjudication, to substitute its own view of proper policy for those of Congress, the States, and local communities.

During the debates on the Omnibus Crime Control Act last spring, the Senate took a close look at recent decisions in which the Court has clearly trespassed upon the legislative powers of the States and Congress in the field of criminal law. The Senate chose not to accept provisions which I had sponsored which would have exercised Congress' constitutional power to limit the Court's appellate and habeas corpus jurisdiction. I am pleased to say that it did adopt, by decisive votes, other provisions which I supported which symbolize Congress' opposition to the Court's assumption of legislative power. These votes constituted a clear warning that Congress will not long tolerate the creation of an oligarchy of nine men, who impose their own legislation upon the country by 5-4 or even 9-0 votes.

The present controversy regarding the nominations of Justice Fortas to be Chief Justice and Judge Thornberry to fill the resulting vacancy involves many important questions, but at the heart of the matter is the Senate concern about returning the Supreme Court to the exercise of judicial power marked by self-restraint. The vitality of the Senate's responsibility to "advise and consent" is challenged in this dispute.

Subtly, but importantly, the constitutional function of the Senate has been attacked by the joint decision of the Chief Justice and the President to permit the Chief Justice's resignation to be effective upon the confirmation of his successor. On other occasions, the Senate has considered the qualifications of the nominee against the demands of the office. On this occasion, the Senate has been faced with the task of choosing between an incumbent and his successor.

With respect to the qualification of the nominee, the Senate must investigate a nominee's past actions and examine his constitutional philosophy if it is to properly perform its duty to "advise and consent." Where a nominee has already sat upon the Court, consideration of his past decisions is the best way to proceed with this task. A nominee should be willing to discuss not only general constitutional philosophy, but should be willing to discuss how he has applied his philosophy in concrete cases. During hearings upon the recent Supreme Court nomination of a kind of "Judicial 5th Amendment" was asserted to shield the nominee's views from Senate scrutiny.

This emphasizes anew that constitutional process must be observed if we are to restore the Court to its proper function. Careful selection of those who serve upon the Court is the most effective way to accomplish this. In performing its "advise and consent" duty, the Senate too has an awesome responsibility, and it should not make its judgment upon the basis of friendly assurances of the technical competence of the nominee. Along with other Senators, this is the task I have been performing in recent days.

News From Davie High

CYNTHIA GLASCOCK

Davie's first sock-hop of the season was held last Friday night, Sept. 20. Music was provided by Invaders Combo. The familiar faces of this combo belong to Bill Anderson, Freddie Wall, Charles and Tommy Williams, Mark and Phil Fuller, and Steve Randall. Davie Rebel license tags are now on sale. These may be obtained from the Pep Club for $1.25. The Davie High Band presented a half-time show at the game last Friday night. Arrangements of "The Stripper" and "Stranger on the Shore" were used. Majorettes presented a fire routine to "Stranger on the Shore".

YOUR COUNTY AGENT

It is the time to relax and enjoy outdoor colors, says Leo Williams, Extension Agent, Davie County. Fried or barbecued chicken or turkey is ideal for parties and outdoor cooking. With fried chicken or a barbecue you are sure to please the family. For better chicken flavor sprinkle with a meat tenderizer before frying or applying the sauce. For a time saver serve barbecued chicken, apple sauce, potato chips, bread and ice cream for dessert. With this there is no baking of potatoes or salad fixing.

Here are some reminders for barbecuing chicken:

1. Let the charcoal burn about 15 to 30 minutes before starting the barbecue. The briquets should start to turn white before placing broilers on the grill.
2. Start broilers with skin side up - a low even heat is desirable.
3. Turn chicken often (about every 5 to 10 minutes) depending upon the heat of the fire.
4. Baste with sauce each time the broilers are turned.
5. Allow about 1 1/2 to 2 hours for barbecue chicken to cook well done.
6. Test for doneness by twisting drumstick. The bone should slip out of the joint easily. The wing joint should open easily. If the chicken passes this test it is ready to serve.
7. For variety try different sauces. You can have a mild sauce, hot sauce, tangy, spicy and savory sauces.

William says remember that if you want best results, cook slow over glowing coals not flame, keep proper distance from heat and cook until done. Also, barbecued chicken cooked to a golden brown will have a pleasing aroma that will tantalize your nostrils and excite your appetite.

COUPLE MAKES DOLLS TO SELL

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Cleary of 518 Church Street Extension have just completed making over 200 pillows dolls for a salesman out of West Virginia. This order took approximately two weeks to fill.

Mr. Cleary, who retired from Hanes Hosiery in 1962 on a disability, does all the cutting out of materials used to make the dolls. Art Foam in large rolls is bought in a variety of colors and he uses pinking shears to do the cutting. "When the fish start biting again, I will have to give up this job," he commented when interviewed. "But I do like to help out when I can."

Mrs. Cleary is the seamstress. She makes the pillows first, stuffs them with shredded polyfoam that they buy in 30 pound burlap bags, then dresses the dolls. The doll figurines are bought. All the sewing is done by hand and each doll is a special creation with a careful choice of blending colors.

Other handicraft that the couple have made include artificial fruit and flower arrangements, pictures made of flowers stapled on plywood, etc. One unusual arrangement was made by using an antique coffee pot, painting it with gold paint, and then, filling it with a variety of flowers. Mr. Cleary has made a unique door knocker-it resembles a woodpecker-and when you pull the cord, it really works!

UNLESS...Although the Democratic Party--the N. C. version of it--is not shouting with happiness, indications as of October 1 were:

1. Bob Scott will win November.
2. The 1969 General Assembly will be in control of Democrats.
3. The Democratic Party may lose two Congressmen from N. C.
4. All State offices are safe for another four years.
5. HHH will run in third place come November 5.

However everything moves so fast nowadays that predictions always trail off with "...unless something unexpected happens."

The Negro vote in North Carolina, solidly for Hubert Humphrey, could possibly catapult him into second position.

WHOSE LOSS? This Cherry Point pilot had trouble with his jet, had to bail out. He was afraid his parents in Dallas, Texas might hear of the accident. So, when he reached a telephone he placed a call to them to say he was safe-but the plane was a total loss.

There was a slight pause on the other end of the line. Finally, his father drawled: "Well, that's too bad, Son. Now tell me, are those planes insured, or do I have to pay for it?"

$6,000...Meredith College, thanks to good friends like Carolina Power & Light Co., is better off than it used to be. However, it is not yet able to run one-page advertisements in Time Magazine. The cost, in black-and-white, is $6,000 for one insertion.

Meredith had the ad in a recent issue of Time, and some Baptists wondered how come. It was a gift of Time, Inc. which has been featuring privately endowed colleges for many, many months now. About a year ago it was Wake Forest; then Davidson.

This week: Athens College, Athens, Alabama, oldest institution of higher education in that state.

 BACK TO DAYTIME...Only calm students and calmer policemen prevented real trouble after the Broughton-Enloe football game in Raleigh one night last week.

Although both schools are in Raleigh, there was a lot of "bad blood", and rough remarks, shoving, etc., after the game.

It seems only a matter of time until all football games--and possibly basketball, too--will be played only in the afternoon...where integrated schools are involved. This will cut attendance, of course, but is less expensive than fights, riots, and deaths....

CANDIDATES...Yes, it is like this after-dinner speaker said the other evening after telling a few good stories about candidates.

It does seem there are more political jokes this year than ever...and a lot of them are running for office.

HALF-CENTURY...They had more trials in Raleigh last week of young men who refuse to be drafted. This seems to be a rather common thing now all over the nation--from Cassius Clay on up...

It's a far cry from 50 years ago this past month. The month was September, the year 1918. This fellow was 22 years old. A graduate of State, he resigned his job with the Agriculture Extension Service in Raleigh (Boy's Agriculture Clubs) to report to Field Artillery Camp at Camp Zachary Taylor in Kentucky. Being in food production work, he could have continued in his position. But he did not.

His name: Kerr Scott. His father, Bob Scott, was at that time on the State Board of Agriculture.

NECK...This awful stretch of dry weather calls for some more looking backward. It was 35-40 years ago when we had this big drouth over most of North Carolina. For months prior thereto the favorite song of everybody was: "Oh, it ain't gonna rain no mo', no mo'. It ain't gonna rain no mo'."

Things got serious. Then somebody, no doubt dog tired of the song said people had no business saying it wasn't going to rain anymore. They'd better stop singing that song--or it might not. This slowed up the song a little...but not much. "How in the heck can I wash my neck? It ain't gonna rain no mo'."

One old gentleman in the community--he was about 85 and a weather prophet of sorts--would sit on his big porch, and rock, looking through squinted eyes at the parched fields. But he never forecasted rain...muttered he'd never seen anything like it...that it was a sign of the end of time.

TALKER...And as one oldtimer remarked the other day: "There's only one man on the face of the earth who can out-talk Hubert Humphrey...keeps n and on...and never quits. His name is Jim Gardner."

COME WINTER...The football fiasco at UNC on September 21 had been over only a few minutes when one of the fraternity houses at Chapel Hill quietly raised a banner which read: "Happiness is...the Basketball Season."

Letter To The Editor

Mocksville, N. C.
Sept. 26, 1968

Dear Editor:

Recently I had surgery at Davie County Hospital. I wish to express my appreciation to Dr. Slate, we are fortunate to have such a splendid surgeon in our community.

Dr. Long, who has the ability to restore one's confidence in doctors.

The Nurses, who boost moral with a pleasant word and smile though they must have been tired from unpleasant and endless tasks.

The Kitchen Staff, who serve delicious meals and try to fill the needs and wants of individuals.

Out of town visitors commented on the new wing saying it was better than most hospitals and equal to the best in the state in equipment and convenience.

If any should be unfortunate enough to be sick, I hope they will be fortunate enough to enter Davie County Hospital.

SCHOOLDAY FOOD

National School Lunch Week's theme for October 13-19th is "School Lunch Aids Good Health." There is much more to this theme than just a catchy slogan; the part the school lunch program plays in improving the overall health of the growing child has been amply documented since the inception of the National School Lunch Program in 1946.

In spite of this evidence, many teachers, administrators and parents remain unconvinced or, perhaps worse, unaware of the value of the school lunch program. To many people the school lunchroom is simply a filling station rather than a living laboratory and, in too many cases, it is not used to its maximum capability.

Since its beginning in 1963, National School Lunch Week has served to focus attention on the important part the school lunch program plays in the total education and good health of today's children.

AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER

Putting-you-firsts:

(A quick tour of some of the thoughtful new features the 1969 Chevrolets offer that other cars in Chevrolet's field don't.)

Headlight washers

You push the windshield washer knob and hold it, and your headlights come clean.

Fluid is diverted to two jet nozzles at each light lens. (Outer lights only on duals.)

The spray removes up to 80% of accumulated dirt.

The feature is standard on 1969 Corvettes. It comes with the hidden headlights available on Camaro, Caprice and Kingwood Estate Wagons. It is available on all other models except Corvair.

Heated glass

In a moment your rear window will self-defrost.

Because we've built onto it a network of tiny ceramic stripes capable of heating the entire surface.

Fog and frost disappears quickly and quietly. You just flick a switch.

The heated rear window is available on the 1969 Caprice Coupe and Impala Custom Coupe.

Pushbutton tire chains

You press a button on the instrument panel and the rear tires get a shot of "liquid tire chain."

You spin your wheels once, wait a moment, and you're off—with traction you wouldn't believe possible on slick ice, or packed snow.

Available on all 1969 big Chevrolets.

Steering wheel lock

When you own a car as desirable as the 1969 Chevrolet, you don't take chances.

When you leave it, you lock it. Not just the doors.

You lock the ignition, steering wheel and transmission lever, too.

Our new lock on the steering column takes care of all that.

Standard on all 1969 Chevrolets, Chevelles, Chevy Novas, Camaros and Corvettes.

Sorry, car thieves.

Power steering plus

The 1969 Caprice, Impala and Camaro are available with a new type of power steering.

Variable-ratio power steering. What it does is give you faster steering with fewer turns of the wheel.

Variable-ratio power steering is particularly helpful in short, full turns.

And parking becomes unbelievably easy. You'll see.

Walk-in wagons

The tailgate swings open like a door on most of our 1969 station wagons.

Which in itself is no big deal. But wait, there's more.

We've built a concealed step into the rear bumper.

You simply step up, over, and in.

(The way we build our wagons, you can do it without bumping your head, and without acrobatics.)

Walk into a wagon soon as your Chevrolet dealer's.

'69 Impala Custom Coupe

Putting you first, keeps us first.

Mr. and Mrs. Barry Deal and Billy Ellis of Winston-Salem and three students from Catawba College in Salisbury were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Spillman. Barry Deal left Monday for service in Okinawa.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Howard James, Monday, Sept. 30, a daughter, Judy Ann, in the Davie County Hospital. Both are doing fine.

Weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Newsome were Mrs. Newsom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Whitson.

Mrs. John Harding and Mrs. O. R. Allen spent the weekend in Henderson with relatives; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Guy; Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Lassiter and family; and Mr. and Mrs. Burley Horton.

Wednesday afternoon the Homemakers Club of the Pino-Farmington Community met at the home of Mrs. Nell H. Lashley with Mrs. Charles Lashley as co-hostess. The meeting began with inspiring and timely devotionals led by Mrs. Gene Miller. She spoke of the great need of thinking and practicing of right values in our everyday living. This we need to emphasize in our association and dealing with our neighbors and other nations. Spiritual values practiced make for better relations.

After a business session, Mrs. Miller presented the program, "A Good Home for All Who Care". She showed slides depicting many arrangements in building or remodeling that would make for better housekeeping. She showed the improvement that outdoor yard-keeping make in the home appearance.

During a social hour the hostesses assisted by Debra, Cecil, and Mary Lashley, served refreshing plates of pound cake, ice-cream, nuts, cheese curls, and a cooling drink to the guests. Mrs. H. C. Boger, a visitor won the door prize, two finger jewels of Swedish weaving.

TIME SAVERS

By Stephanie Davis

Full is on the way, and so the busy housewife faces fall cleaning time. Fall cleaning is a big job, because with open windows and children in and out all day, summer makes a lot of dirt! The Aerosol Division of the Chemical Specialties Manufacturers Association offers these tips:

(1) An all-purpose aerosol cleaner will do all over the house with you. Spray it on walls, windowsills, blinds, porcelain, tile and metal — it will even loosen dirt on the floor.

(2) Dust-catching spray will speed your chores along. Use it on your dustcloth to pick up the dust from furniture — and on a dust mop to clean the floor.

(3) Windows are a big job — especially when some of them haven't been cleaned since you put up the screens last spring. To make it easier, buy an aerosol window cleaner. A flick of the finger — and your windows sparkle! Another hint — try window spray on mirrors and chromium appliances, too.

(4) A combination rug and upholstery cleaner — some of these aerosols come with a brush attachment — will do rugs and upholstered furniture double fast. For stubborn stains — try an aerosol spot lifter.

(5) The final touch — furniture polish. Get one of the new spray products with lemon oil or lemon wax added, and when you've finished the wooden furniture, go ahead and shine up the vinyl, leather and metal pieces as well.

Yes — aerosols are time savers. They eliminate unnecessary items and get the job done faster. Lots of them are "double duty" products, which saves space in your cleaning closet. Try the handy aerosols, and you, too, will be able to say, "I never saw this house so dirty — and never got it clean this fast!"

Savings Bonds Sales Are Up

Savings Bonds and Freedom Share sales in Davie County during August were $25,746.00. For the year, cumulative sales amounted to $191,231.00, according to Knox Johnstone, volunteer head of the Savings Bond Program in Davie County.

"We are extremely well pleased with the outstanding sales record being achieved by the Savings Bond Program in North Carolina and want to commend the Bond buyers who are making this great record possible," said Mr. Johnstone.

National 4-H Week Set For October 6-12

More than 75,000 Tar Heel 4-H members will join hands as three million youth in 50 states and Puerto Rico observe National 4-H Club Week, Oct. 6-12.

The 4-H'ers have chosen the theme, "4-H - A World of Opportunity," points out Dr. T. C. Blalock, state 4-H leader at North Carolina State University. "Our focus is to expand 4-H to all boys and girls, ages 9 to 19, regardless of cultural, racial or economic background," he said.

"We are just completing another year of 4-H work, and it is only appropriate that we try to reach others through our program," Blalock emphasized. "The 4-H program helps members choose projects or everyday learning experiences that fit them and the places where they live. They learn why's as well as how's in stressing science," he reported.

Some of the other purposes of the special observance are to encourage more young men and women to volunteer as 4-H leaders; to recognize the important contributions of parents; and to tell the public about the program's accomplishments.

The 4-H program is part of the national educational system of the Cooperative Extension Service in which the U. S. Department of Agriculture, State Land-Grant Universities and local counties share.

Tar Heel 4-H'ers receive training through programs conducted by N. C. State University and the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service through county agricultural and home economics agents.

Because of its exceptional ductility, commercially pure nickel can be drawn into fine wire less than one-thousandth of an inch in diameter. A pound of such wire will stretch 80 miles.

Bathtub Pills

Sixty years ago, aspirin was made in bathtubs because pharmaceutical manufacturers could not find any economical alloys that could provide the required corrosion resistance. Today the purity of the product is taken for granted because aspirin is made in vessels of nickel stainless steel.

About People

The man who can really in living union of the mind and heart, converse with God through nature, finds in the material forms around him, a source of power and happiness inexhaustible, and like the life of Angels. The highest life and glory of man is to be alive unto God. And when this grandeur of sensibility to him and this power of communion with him is carried, as the habit of the soul, into the forms of nature then the walls of our world are as the gates of heaven. By-G. B. Cheever

An Example To Be Followed

EDITORIAL — MORGANTON NEWS HERALD

Two North Carolina counties have given a demonstration of both education-mindedness and persistence that this and other counties must admire.

They are McDowell and Davie counties where voters defeated school improvement programs in special elections last year but returned to the polls again recently to give the go-ahead for better public schools. It's obvious, even from this distance, that enough residents changed their minds to reverse the negative action of the year before because they became sold on the need for school improvements.

The significance of these two recent elections shouldn't be lost on Burke citizens who will soon have the opportunity to do something positive for our own lagging schools.

To want better schools isn't a question of keeping up with the Joneses. It may be argued that Burke County isn't as populous and wealthy as Mecklenburg or Guilford and some of the others and therefore can't do as much—but it can do something within the easy reach of its resources.

Look at Davie and McDowell, which are much smaller counties than Burke. In the same census count which gave Burke credit for 52,701 residents, Davie had 16,728 and McDowell 26,742 population. This means that Burke has over three times as many citizens as Davie and about twice as many as McDowell, and yet the residents of these counties didn't plead inability for lack of resources. Instead, they tailored their school programs to their special needs and their resources. And this is what Burke's three school systems, lagging by reason of financial neglect and public interest, are seeking to do.

McDowell and Davie residents have proven their persistence and their desire to improve the educational opportunities provided for their young people. They have demonstrated what surveys have shown—that more adequate financing for the public schools is the No. 1 need in North Carolina today.

This is the fact that Burke County should recognize and act accordingly.

Amendments To Face Voters

North Carolina voters will be called on to decide the fate of two proposed amendments to the state constitution November 5 in addition to casting ballots for the men they want to serve them during the next four years.

Both amendments affect the General Assembly. One would alter the method of setting pay for state legislators, while the other would rewrite the constitutional provisions governing apportionment.

The constitution now allows members of the General Assembly $15 daily for their services for 120 calendar days of a regular session and 25 days of an extra session. They also receive $20 daily expenses during that period.

Under current living costs, the $35 daily pay and subsistence is considered modest. To make matters worse, there's no pay after 230 days, and every session since 1956 has exceeded that number. The 1967 session, for example, ran 149 days.

The proposed amendment would remove from the constitution the present limit on legislative pay and authorize the General Assembly to fix the pay and allowances for its members. To discourage abuse of this authority, the constitution would not allow any legislature to raise its own compensation. Instead, any increase voted could only take effect for the next session. This limitation, plus the power of the voters to defeat any legislator who voted for extravagant pay increases, should keep legislative compensation increases within reason.

The second amendment is prompted by the so-called "one-man, one-vote" ruling of federal courts. The amendment would revise the provisions of the constitution prescribing the method of establishing districts for the election of state senators and representatives.

The U. S. District Court ordered in 1965 that the present constitutional provision for apportionment of representatives—one for each county and the remainder to the larger counties—be invalid since it did not allow representation in proportion to population.

The General Assembly, in response to this decision, reapportioned the state. Among other things, it had to set up multi-county house districts, whereas the constitution states that each county will be a separate house district.

This amendment must take place, but merely means that the constitutional language will be changed to conform to the court order. The language change would make no difference in practice or in the number of representatives and senators for who a citizen could vote.

Little has been said during the current campaign about the two amendments, and the wording of both on the 1968 election ballots are wordy and hard to understand.

"North Carolina," official publication of the N. C. Citizens Association, pointed out in its current edition:

"As is often the case, the language printed on the amendment ballot is obscure and offers the voter little idea of what he is voting for or against."

But they both are important, for if approved they will mark historical departures from past practices and traditions.

Parked Vehicle Causes Accident

Linda Carter Vest, 25, of Route 1, Advance, was charged with improper parking Thursday, October 3, when the 1963 Chevrolet she was operating was involved in an accident.

State Trooper R. L. Beane investigated the accident. He reported that Toni Lorraine Parker, 21, of Route 1, Advance, driving a 1961 Oldsmobile, going north on RPR 1452 came across hillcrest and saw the other car parked on the roadway with the headlights on. Miss Parker swerved left and her car struck the other in the right front.

Damages were estimated at $100 to the Oldsmobile and $300 to the Chevrolet.

Smoot Is Re-elected ASC Head

J. N. Smoot of Route 1, Mocksville, N. C. was recently re-elected as a member and Chairman of Davie County's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee at the annual county convention. He and other committee members will be responsible for administering farm-action programs in the county for the next year. The other members are John F. Orrell, Vice-Chairman, and Luther W. West, Regular Member.

Terms of office for county committeemen are on a 3-year basis, with one new member normally being elected each year at a convention of newly elected community ASC committeemen. The situation varies, however, according to the number of actual vacancies on the committee. In addition, first and second alternates are elected for 1 year each. The newly elected alternates are R. G. Allen, First Alternate and Wade Dyson, Second Alternate.

The ASC farmer-committee system is unique. No other group of citizens has so direct a voice in developing and running Government programs. Farmers eligible to take part in programs administered by the committee first elect community committeemen, who in turn elect county committeemen. While the county committee is in actual charge of administering the program locally, the community committeemen lend operating assistance where needed and are particularly responsible for keeping their neighbors informed about the programs available.

The elected committeemen are not Federal officeholders. Congress holds the Department of Agriculture responsible for program activities, and the Department in turn relies on the judgment and leadership of the locally elected farmers and the county office employees. The county office serves as the headquarters for farmer business connected with program participation.

Poem heralds Birth

Lt. and Mrs. Russell G. Pearson, Jr. of Hanford, California announce the birth of a son, Jon Stephen, on Sept. 24th. Mrs. Pearson is the former Theresa Foster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Foster of Route 3.

When it comes to originality it happened this way: Upon learning of the new arrival, Mrs. John Frank Garwood, a neighbor of the Fosters, was preparing a congratulatory card to send the new parents. When Susan, her daughter found out, Seven lbs. and 11 oz?

That baby boy sure bounces!
Watch him laugh, see him cry
Those years go by and by!

Watch him go from diapers to pants
Ah-Ha!-he's beginning to prance.
Look, he's going from couch to chair
To you (maybe) he's floating on air.

Looks just like his daddy, "ay"??
Eyes and ears and mouth and say,
Isn't that a tooth of prey?
Bless my soul, he's on his way!

Cute little fellow, isn't he though
Way out there in California-O!
Watch him go from crawl to stand
By your side holding his hand.

NATIONAL 4-H WEEK

OCT. 6-12

OCTOBER

"Expand 4-H" is the focus of this year's National 4-H Week observance, October 6 to 12. Emphasis will be on 4-H benefits reaching more young people through the Head-Heart-Hands-Health program.

During 4-H Week, appropriate activities will be arranged nationally, and in each State, county, and nearly every community. Efforts will be made to acquaint more boys and girls of all cultural, racial, and economic backgrounds with 4-H. They will be invited to "Join 4-H - A World of Opportunity," whether they live on farms, in towns, cities, or suburbs.

Adults too are advised that 4-H is for them. They are reminded that if they become volunteer leaders they can enrich their own experiences in guiding, teaching, and serving youth. They can also acquire a well-deserved sense of achievement. Specific aims of National 4-H Week are to:

Acquaint the public with the new, enlarged 4-H program, and the many ways young people may take part. Encourage more youth, 9 to 19, to join 4-H. Urge more men and women to volunteer as 4-H leaders. Recognize parents' contribution to 4-H, and strengthen their cooperation. Report the year's 4-H accomplishments and plan future work.

More than half of today's three million 4-H'ers in all 50 States and Puerto Rico belong to clubs. Many participate in other ways. For example, nearly a million now take part by television. On TV, 4-H offers educational series with suggestions for doing "projects" at home. Another approach is through special interest groups. Older boys and girls, for instance, may enroll in a 4-H money management workshop. On completion they may form another interest group.

In the modern 4-H program, members choose projects or "everyday learning experiences" that fit them and the places where they live. They learn "why's" as well as "how's" in stressing science. Youth going into farming and choose specialized projects. Boys and girls with particular needs - due to economic, social, health, or other causes - receive more than usual aid and encouragement. Disadvantaged youth are being served more than at any time in the past. Attention is also being given to youth problems relating to personal values, career exploration, and accomplishment of goals.

4-H'ers do varied projects in science, agriculture, home economics, personal development, community service, leadership, and citizenship. Many kinds are open for choice at every age. Some are in:

Agricultural production and marketing - including meat animal, dairy, poultry, garden, and field crops.

Engineering - electrical, automotive, tractor. Conservation - forestry, wildlife, entomology, recreation, beautification, soil, and water.

Management - farm, home, money, town and country business. Family living - food and nutrition, clothing, grooming, furnishings, home grounds, child care.

Personal development - health, safety, career exploration, leadership, and citizenship.

Other popular projects include arts and crafts, dog care, horsemanship, emergency preparedness, and public affairs.

4-H is Extension's youth program: 4-H is part of the national educational system of the Cooperative Extension Service in which the U. S. Department of Agriculture, State Land-Grant Universities, and counties share. The Federal Extension Service gives national leadership, and the State Extension Services give State leadership. Professional Extension agents, aided by local advisory committees and the educational resources of their State Land-Grant Universities, conduct programs based on local needs.

About half a million volunteer leaders serve 4-H coast to coast. Of these about two-thirds are youth-minded adult men and women, and others are older 4-H'ers called junior leaders. Two non-Government organizations work with the Extension Service to coordinate private support and perform numerous other important functions. They are the National 4-H Service Committee, 59 E. Van Buren Street, Chicago, Ill., 60605; and the National 4-H Club Foundation, 71000 Connecticut Avenue, Washington, D. C. 20015.

Friends of 4-H are valued: 4-H appreciates its many friends in civic groups, business, industry, agriculture, education, foundations, and other fields. Their public-spirited assistance benefits 4-H in every State and county here and in other lands. They generously supplement public funds for 4-H to finance citizenship education, leader training, teaching and technical aids, youth awards to stimulate interest and achievement, public information services, and international programs.

More information about 4-H, or 4-H Week, may be obtained from any County Extension office or the Cooperative Extension Service of any Land-Grant University or the Federal Extension Service.

Davie ARC has meeting

The Davie County Association for Retarded Children recently held its first fall meeting. The newly elected officers presided at this meeting. They are as follows: President - Mrs. Elizabeth Anderson; Vice-President - Mr. Bill Gales; Secretary - Mrs. Sydna Sanford; and Treasurer - Mrs. Edwina Long.

After the business meeting, Bob Hoyle gave report on the summer recreation program that the A. R. C. had sponsored for the retarded in Davie County. The program was held this year for the first time and was a great success. Notonly did all the retarded participating in the program enjoy it but the workers and volunteer help did also.

To the 20 members present, Mr. Hoyle showed a movie taken of the various activities in which the group took part. "The Davie County Association for Retarded Children would like to publically thank all those who so generously gave of their time to work with the children and also all those who donated supplies. We say a special thank you to Mrs. Carolyn Beaver who directed the program," said Mrs. Anderson.

How big is the eye of a hurricane? Is it true that the eye is sometimes completely clear while for hundreds of miles on each side the sky is filled with clouds?

The eye of a hurricane is never more than a few miles, usually less than five. It is true that sometimes in the middle of the great storm—in the eye, so to speak—the sky overhead will suddenly appear blue. Winds will calm down and for a few minutes a strange stillness will descend—with roaring winds just a few miles distant in all directions. This is the very center of the circular motion of the winds (counter-clockwise), the hub of a great blowing circle.

All-America Roses Announced In June -- Sold In October

For many years All-America Rose Selections award winners have been introduced in June, preceding the fall that they go on sale.

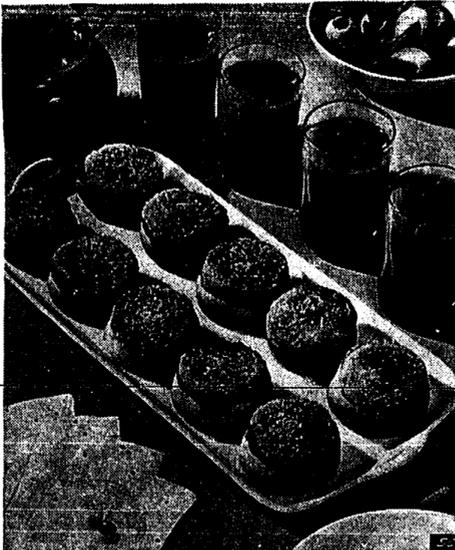

AARS explains that this unusual procedure has been set up particularly for the edification and protection of buyers of roses.

Each year the All-America award winners are sent, at no charge, to about 136 AARS accredited public gardens scattered throughout the nation. They are sent early enough so that they can be planted and will be in bloom at the time of the June announcement of the award winners.

AARS has such confidence in the ability of its testing program to channel awards to only outstanding roses, that it insists that they be made available for public viewing long before they are offered for sale. Rose enthusiasts will thereby have every opportunity to examine the winners before buying them — no one ever need buy an AARS winner sight unseen, or from an over-colored catalog picture.

Inasmuch as the sales of All-America award winners always top those of any other roses, it is obvious that the owners of the winners are not jeopardizing their sales by this extensive pre-viewing program.

Pizzas For Parties

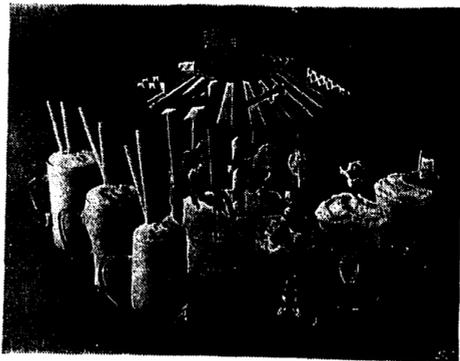

Join the pizza parade with these petite pizzas. Even the least experienced teen-age cook can toss them together as the gang gathers. Here's the Borden Kitchen way for a "presto" party.

Teen-Age Party Pizzas (Makes 20 pizzas)

- | | |
|---|---|
| 1 (9-1/2 oz.) package
Big 10 Flaky Biscuits | Pasteurized Process
Cheese Slices |
| 1 (8-oz.) can tomato paste | 1 (3-oz.) can Grated
Parmesan and Romano
Cheese |
| 8 singly wrapped slices (one
8-oz. pkg.) American,
Pimento or Swiss | |

Place biscuits on a baking sheet. Bake in a moderate (375°F.) oven, 10-14 minutes or until golden brown. Cool. Carefully split biscuits in half crosswise. Spoon about 2-3 teaspoons tomato paste onto each biscuit half. Cut cheese slices into quarters. Place one quarter on each pizza. Sprinkle each with grated parmesan and romano cheese. Return to a moderate (375°F.) oven, 3-5 minutes, or until cheese melts and tomato paste is thoroughly heated.

Everyone can catch the brass ring when 'round the merry-go-round are glasses of cool, colorful frosted shakes. Youth is served with pop-and-pour tab tops.

For parties on the patio or indoors, nestle glasses in cracked ice or colorful ice cubes. Simply tint cubes with food coloring to match the general scheme or shade of shake. Take this a step further by wrapping the ice bucket or tub with a complementary plastic coated fabric or foil.

The Borden Kitchen reports that canned frosted shakes... strawberry, vanilla, chocolate and chocolate fudge... retain all their peak flavor and goodness for twelve months if kept refrigerated.

Every party, every guest, is sure to get a good shake from this new quartet.

Everyone sleeps better with bedside security

Administration views other schools

Approximately 10 members of the administrative staff of the Davie County Schools, including principals, supervisors, and James Everidge, superintendent, visited the Salisbury Supplementary Educational Center, Overton Elementary and Knox Junior High School in Salisbury Tuesday, October 1st.

The group was interested in the elementary school because of the recent bond issue passed in the county and in the Supplementary Education Center for its program and possibilities. They toured the nature trail, and one principal made appointments for three classes to be brought to the Center.

Lunch was served at Knox Junior High School.

Soil Conservation News

"The legislation establishing the Soil Conservation Service stipulated that the work to be done by the new arm of the federal government would be for the benefit of all the people," said Charles W. Bartlett, State Conservationist for SCS in North Carolina.

"Therefore, in our progress toward a goal of conservation use of all of our land, we provide urban people also with the information they need for their own planning and development." The theme for September for the Soil Conservation Service's national magazine, SOIL CONSERVATION, is Soil, Water, and Suburbia.

"Nature knows no man-made boundary lines," said Bartlett. "Big cities are getting bigger, and so are their problems. The Department of Agriculture can assist cities in meeting their environmental problems through agriculture-based technical knowledge. Although an attractive countryside cannot be more than a partial answer to the need to upgrade the quality of man's environment, the space for growth is in rural America.

Through conservation and development of natural resources, rural areas can be ideal sites for communities of tomorrow in which the desecration of natural beauty and the ill effects of urban sprawl will be unknown."

Mr. Bartlett said, we must plan land use wisely. Once open space is lost it can seldom be regained. The land capability maps available through soil and water conservation districts, can tell you what areas are better suited to parks and other open space than to construction. The maps can also show you where the best agricultural land is located.

The State Conservationist pointed out the importance of taking definite steps to control erosion on land being developed for urban uses and roads, and of taking a positive interest in the work rural landowners are doing to help keep water clean.

"Clean air is a common problem for town and country people, too" he said. "In some places smog does more damage to crops than insects, believe it or not. Natural beauty and recreation opportunities are environmental factors largely encompassed in wide land-use and the management of water resources. However, they cannot be incidental, they must be planned."

We are now working with city officials, planners, engineers, and others in North Carolina. One very important contribution made by Soil Conservation Service is the soil survey, with interpretations for urban uses. The basic surveys are made by the Soil Conservation Service in cooperation with North Carolina State University and others. They have been the foundation for rural land use and conservation planning for decades. They can be interpreted for urban use, and provide a wealth of information.

We have helped towns to solve needs relating to water supply, recreation, flood prevention, drainage, and other problems.

We are becoming more and more involved in many programs that involve the welfare of people in the small towns and cities, but our efforts need not be limited to so-called rural municipalities. We believe that the cities belong to us, too-as the seats of government and the primary sources of trade, capital, and manufactured products. We are glad when opportunities are created for a good life within city limits.

We believe, also, that there must be a greater mix-of open space and natural beauty within the city-and of greater opportunity for employment in rural areas and in our small towns and cities.

No longer is suburbia a thing apart from the central city-and it is not a thing apart from rural interests.

"As long as there is a need for land-use information, for techniques to control erosion, or prevent erosional debris from fouling our watercourses, the 88 soil and water conservation districts in North Carolina and the Soil Conservation Service have a stake in the development of suburbia and the cities of tomorrow."

Shelton Completes Insurance Training

Bobby J. Shelton, 439 Gwinn Street, local representative for Mutual of Omaha and United of Omaha, has recently completed the comprehensive insurance course offered at the National Sales Training School session in Pittsburgh.

The school was held at the Gulf Building under the direction of Jack Haff, training director. It is the first step of a formal educational program established by Mutual of Omaha to provide its representatives with the advantages of professional training methods.

Mr. Shelton was chosen for the National Sales Training School through a selection interview analysis. On the average, only one out of eight applicants is able to pass the rigid entrance requirements.

Mr. Shelton is associated with the George Richardson Agency in Winston Salem.

CHILDREN...How many school children from throughout North Carolina were in attendance at the big Hubert H. rally held in Charlotte last Thursday?

At least one busload went from Raleigh. Mayor Daley of Chicago says he can come up with the size of crowd wanted for almost any occasion...50,000? 100,000?

But this thing of kids getting out of school for a 300 mile lark—just to say you have a big crowd—seems to be stretching it a little far.

Then, down in Atlanta on Friday, high school students were permitted to attend the downtown rally for Richard Nixon. This was part of their civics class assignment. They were shown during their homework, tossing teams of confetti out of an upstairs window.

Who has the power to arrange such tomfoolishness? Busloads of children to Charlotte to make crowds and confetti tossing from Atlanta windows as civics homework?

IMPRESSED...Simmons Fentress, North Carolina native who used to work for the Raleigh News & Observer, has for several weeks been on the campaign trail with Richard Nixon.

Fentress left Raleigh some ten years ago to become associated with Time Magazine's Atlanta bureau. Since that time, he has been nearly everywhere, including Vietnam.

It may be that Nixon has a memory equal to that of Jim Farley, who used it to help FDR so much 30 years ago. At any rate, Fentress is quite impressed by it.

Shortly after the beginning of Nixon's campaign earlier this year, Simmons Fentress was assigned to cover his travels for Time. He introduced himself to the candidate, who immediately said: "Oh, yes, remember that morning in Atlanta...?"

CHANGE...Incidentally, Fentress on October 1 swapped candidates. He was moved to Humphrey's entourage; and another correspondent, Hays Gorey, begins Nixon coverage. This is the way Time has of keeping the fresh approach

ODDISMS...Since all the presidential candidates have visited, are now visiting, or will soon visit this State, it might be interesting to discuss their little peculiarities picked up by reporters traveling with them.

1. Hubert Humphrey admits that his wife sometimes finds his private moods unbearable. He drives his office staff too long and late hours...chiding them more often than cheering them.

2. George Wallace is afraid to fly and broods constantly about the weather. Nevertheless, he stays with his aging jet. He smokes cigars incessantly.

3. Edmund Muskie is a lint-picker, say the reporters. He is always rolling up small balls of lint from the seams of his pockets and flicking them about the platform. He watches the floor...as if looking for something... during introductions. He recently saw a pin and ignoring completely the man speaking, he got up, picked it up, and placed it neatly on a table next to the speaker's stand.

4. Richard Nixon has an elephantine memory...for names, faces, and events. His mind retain minute details, facts and figures. He has little patience with slothfulness. In 1960 one of his aides made a miscue. There was real trouble. But the man is a chief assistant this time; and there is a sharper handling of details. Reports are that Dr. Billy Graham has given Nixon advice on speaking...and dealing with people.

5. Now what about the lovable, bumbling Spiro Agnew? His hair is always just right. And not a wrinkle in his suits. But newspaper and radio correspondents accompanying him swear they know exactly what he will be wearing the next day...and from day to day.

I S T H E R E O N E ? Question...and observation: Is there a pickup truck in North Carolina that doesn't have one or more Wallace stickers on it?

REPUBLICAN MEETING

A Republican meeting will be held Monday, October 14, at 7:30 p.m. at Jerusalem Fire Station. Everyone is urged to attend.

EXPERTS...The informal pollsters (finger-in the wind type) say Democrats in this State will win by about 100,000 votes come November 5. In this prediction, they do not include those Democrats on the national ticket, it seems. Anyway, they think that Abe Fortas' good friend, Sen. Sam Ervin, will lead the ticket. Well, not if LBJ has anything to do with it.

SMALL ONES...The inside information out of Detroit is that Ford will come out next March with its new car to compete with Volkswagen. General Motors will not be out with its smallie for two years yet.

Meantime, there is a quiet... though powerful... movement underway to put governors on cars. Safety engineers say too much power...

In August, foreign cars were outland in this State by Chevy (4,213), Ford (3,862), Plymouth(1,544) and Pontiac (1,541). Foreigns (1,522)

To Editor

Dear Mr. Tomlinson: You can inform Mr. Crouse that he is mistaken about the only survivor of the Davie County School Directory for 1916-1917. Sophie Meroney Hodges is still alive and still driving her own car.

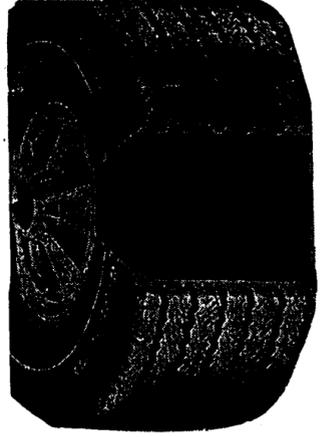

I enjoy very much all of the articles pertaining to the past, and always look forward to the paper and seeing articles of years gone by.

Thanks and sincerely,
Sophie M. Hodges

"A ONE-WAY TICKET TO HELL" is the name of the new display in the library. It deals with the dangers and tragedy of DRUG ADDICTION. DR. FRANCIS SLATE will speak on DRUG ADDICTION in the Main Library on Monday, November 4, 1968, at 7:30 p.m. All persons interested in learning about drug abuse are urged to attend.

From Tuesday, November 15 through Friday, November 18, the library will present a program of slides on THE GOVERNOR'S MANSION OF NORTH CAROLINA. The program will be presented at 3:30 p.m. each day to all persons interested.

The answer to last week's QUIZ QUESTION: What did Ethan Allen, Aaron Burr, John Brown and Jefferson Davis have in common? This: All of them were chiefs of state of alien governments within the United States. QUIZ QUESTION No. 2: What word does the following definition define? "It is a dark red that is yellow and less strong than cranberry, paler and slightly yellow than average garnet, bluer, less strong, and slightly lighter than pomegranate, and bluer and paler than average wine." The answer will be in next week's column.

Most of us will agree that books are your best friends: they'll help you, they'll entertain you, they'll make you feel good—and they are always there when you want them. Yet how often we hear folks say they just have no time to read a book or that life is too short to read books. But the truth is that if you read only 15 MINUTES A DAY you will read 1/2 book a week, 2 books a month, 24 books a year, and ONE THOUSAND BOOKS in your lifetime. Which is equal to going through college five times and will make you an authority on any subject you choose.

Try reading 15 minutes a day for a week. You might get the habit. There is a vast world of information just waiting for your discovery. It's all in the books at the Public Library.

*Iredell and Davie
(House District No. 39)*

Who he is

He is president and publisher of the Statesville Record & Landmark. He is a graduate of the University of North Carolina, a veteran of World War II, a Methodist and a Mason.

He has served as President of the Statesville Chamber of Commerce, chairman of the Mitchell College board, exalted ruler of the Elks lodge, was twice president of the Daily Press of North Carolina and is now a member of the State Board of Higher Education.

Where he stands

He doesn't straddle issues. A life-long Democrat, he has been among the first to call his own party to account when he felt it was off course.

He stands for the basic virtues of honesty and frugality when dealing with other people's money. He does not believe anybody should be permitted to handle public funds who has not either taken an oath of office, sworn to be honest or required to post bond.

He stands for continued progress in North Carolina, with honesty and efficiency in government, equality under the law and opportunity for all to advance according to ability.

He does not believe progress is possible without order — or order without justice. He, therefore, favors strict enforcement of the law, prompt administration of justice and penalties suited to the crime, with mercy reserved for those who deserve it.

Dental Advances
Nickel alloy parts of a new dental cutting tool can be made to vibrate up to 50,000 or more times a second, far higher than the frequency of audible sound.

Ultrasonic Washers
Ultrasonic waterless washers for cleaning glassware and intricate instrument parts use intense high-frequency sound waves, generated by vibrating nickel or nickel alloy parts to replace the usual water agitator or pump.

Longer Engine Life
A complex nickel chemical in motor oil increases the life of certain automobile engine parts by decomposing and producing nickel oxide which is plated out at points of load, thus reducing the rate of wear.

Tasty Trick: Potato Cookies

Eminently practical, instantly whipped potatoes and Danish flavor margarine help the teen-age cook turn this good trick—Potato Drop Cookies. Here's how the Borden Kitchen does it:

Potato Drop Cookies
(Makes 4-dozen 2-inch diameter cookies)

1/3 cup Danish flavor margarine	1-1/4 cups Borden Instant Whipped Potato Flakes, dry form
1 cup sugar	1/2 cup chopped walnuts
2 eggs, separated	1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
2 (1-oz.) squares unsweetened chocolate, melted	1-1/2 teaspoons baking powder
	1/2 teaspoon salt

In a large-size electric mixer bowl, beat margarine until light and fluffy. Gradually add sugar; mix well. Add egg yolks. Stir in melted chocolate, potato flakes and nuts; mix well. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Stir into creamed mixture. (NOTE: Mixture will be dry and crumbly.) In a small-size bowl, beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Fold beaten whites into chocolate mixture until well blended. Drop by teaspoonfuls onto greased baking sheet. Bake in a moderate (350°F.) oven, 15 to 20 minutes or until cookies are set. Cool slightly before removing from baking sheet. Frost cookies with chocolate icing.

ABOUT YOUR HOME

If you are lucky to have several apple trees in your yard, you have probably already put away apple sauce, dried apples, baked canned apples and just plain canned apples for future use. Apples may be combined with raspberries or cranberries to make a fine complement to fowl or pork. Small spiced apples, often colored a bright red, give a festive touch to any meal. Apple juice and cider are two possibilities. Apple juice is delicious served cold by itself or combined with almost any other fruit juice. When choosing apples for juice or cider, remember that the varieties with the most juice give the greatest yield and are easier to work with. Apples with a yellow color don't make a juice or cider with as good a color as red-fruited varieties. The apple can be grown with some success in almost every agricultural soil in North America, except in light sands and black mucks.

If trees could talk... they'd report woods arsonists at once!

PROTECTING ROSES FOR THE WINTER

Roses, like people, need extra protection during the winter. Wherever temperatures drop below 15 degrees, roses should be given winter protection. All-America Rose Selections, a group of professional rose growers, hybridizers and introducers of fine varieties, have pooled their vast combined experiences to lay out a simple routine of winter protection. It is practiced in their own extensive test and display gardens scattered throughout the United States, and they recommend you use the same easy steps of procedure in protecting your roses. When growth is well hardened, usually after the first freezing frost, when the cold weather is here to stay—follow this routine:

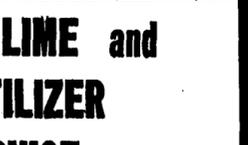

MOUND — Mound a pile of loose earth up, over and around each plant to a height of about 12" and firm. Prune the canes of the roses so that only 4" to 6" of the tips remain exposed after mounding. The purpose of this mounding is to protect the plants from rapid changes of temperature and to guard the canes against winter wind and ice damage.

TRIM

TRIM — After a hard frost or two, but before the ground freezes, prune all canes of your hybrid tea, floribunda, and grandiflora roses back to 18". This makes it easier to work around them in providing winter protection, and prevents them from becoming battered by the wind and ice of winter.

SPRAY

SPRAY — Remove all dead stems, leaves, and debris, raking carefully around each plant. Spray the entire plant and surrounding soil with a good fungicide and insecticide to prevent carrying over of diseases and insects on and about the plant. Waistlines are in again. They may be emphasized by broad bands, buckles or bows. Colors seem to be muted rather than so bright. Black and grey are good for daytime wear.

MOUND

MOUND — Mound a pile of loose earth up, over and around each plant to a height of about 12" and firm. Prune the canes of the roses so that only 4" to 6" of the tips remain exposed after mounding. The purpose of this mounding is to protect the plants from rapid changes of temperature and to guard the canes against winter wind and ice damage.

L-6, 3 Panels, Photo or 1 Col. Mats

Where winters are really severe with temperatures zero and well below, another two to four inches of mounding, as well as a covering of evergreen, fir or pine boughs, will provide adequate protection. Avoid materials that retain moisture.

The modern rose of today is a hardy breed. The All-America Rose Selections winners and other quality introductions from the major rose nurseries have hardiness bred in. They will withstand the rigors of winter with just a little help from the home gardener.

YOUR COUNTY AGENT

SOIL TEST - A SOUND BUSINESS GUIDE

The lime and fertilizer requirements vary according to the soil conditions and crops to be grown. Recommendations for general areas and average farming practices are given by the Experiment Station and Extension Service. However, more specific recommendations can be made through the use of accurate soil tests.

Leo F. Williams, County Extension Chairman, reminds that free soil tests are available to North Carolina farmers through the Soil Testing Division of the North Carolina Department of Agriculture. Sampling boxes, mailing cartons and information sheets along with directions for taking samples are available locally from county farm agents, vocational agricultural teachers, and soil conservationists. They may also be obtained from the Soil Testing Division, North Carolina Department of Agriculture, Raleigh, North Carolina.

After the soils are tested in the laboratory, the results must be interpreted. Lime and fertilizer recommendations are then made, based upon the results of the soil tests and management practices. For more efficient use of lime and fertilizer, the recommendations should be for the crop rotation rather than an individual crop. For example, on some crops such as peanuts, better utilization of potash is generally obtained by applying high rates of potash to the previous crop than by direct application. Sampling a field once during each rotation cycle or once every two to three years should be sufficient for most farming conditions.

Collect your samples now so that you can get a prompt report and have time to make plans for next year. The Soil Testing Laboratory is generally rushed during January, February, and March, and your test results may be delayed.

The Production of Good Roses Is Expensive

Despite the many inventions that have made modern farming an increasingly mechanical operation, the rose plant of today is still a "hand made" product. The slow and complicated procedure of changing wild plants into prize winning garden hybrid roses, such as the new All-America award winners, is extremely expensive because of the large amount of hand work that just cannot be eliminated.

To begin the process, a machine first lays long strips of plastic across the field. This material is used to control weeds and preserve moisture. At the same time the machine punches holes in the plastic at regular intervals. Cuttings of wild roses (usually Multiflora) are then planted by hand in the holes at a carefully prescribed depth. The cuttings form root systems and are allowed to grow for a full year.

The following spring and early summer, teams of budders go down the rows carrying the prepared stems of selected rose varieties from which they cut "eyes" or buds and insert them into the basal stems of the wild rose plants. It takes at least three years for a man to become proficient in this delicate operation, but when he has become skilled, he can insert as many as 3,000 buds a day.

The second man of the two-man team completes the budding operation by wrapping a special strip of rubber around the stem of the wild rose, so that only the "eye" of the bud is exposed and free to grow outward.

By fall the bud has grown a short stem and the top of the wild rose is then cut off just above the bud. Now all the food and water from the wild roots can flow into the new stem.

During the following season the newly made plant is fed, watered, weeded, cultivated and banded until it matures into a healthy full sized rose bush. Diezins occurs in the late fall after

Money - Important; Pride in Performance - Vital

Salary checks are important! No mistake about that. Still, salaries cannot pay anyone his or her true value. At best, the salary check is a token payment for work performed or services rendered.

For example, can one place dollar value on these people: A lathe operator who is always on the job and follows his foreman's direction with expert skill. A nurse who cares for a ward of elderly people and their senile demands.

A teacher who stays after school to help a student with a problem he couldn't understand in class. A tailor who weaves a patch so expertly, the torn dress looks good as new.

Protective Beauty

The brilliant "chrome" finish on the steel bumpers of the modern automobile is actually imparted by multi-layered nickel-plating under chromium. The nickel layers provide the durable, bright foundation, and shield against corrosion, nicks, fumes and abrasions.

By William Friday, President University of North Carolina

The four campuses of the University of North Carolina have always had responsible student leaders who have contributed much to the progress of the University, and this year is no exception.

We were pleased last month to welcome to our four campuses a total of over 9,100 new undergraduates including 3,500 at Chapel Hill, 3,000 at Raleigh, 1,800 at Greensboro, and 880 at Charlotte.

With these new students, the University's total enrollment this fall stands at approximately 34,977. This figure includes 15,477 at Chapel Hill, 2,407 at Charlotte, 5,771 at Greensboro, and 11,329 at Raleigh.

The students are now busily engaged with their studies and with a wide range of extracurricular activities, designed to enrich their lives and to make their University experience more rewarding and meaningful.

Responsible Group

The University's students this year are better prepared academically than for any preceding year, are generally serious-minded young people who are working hard to obtain an education, and have been given a greater share of responsibility in the affairs of the University.

As President of the University, I join the four Chancellors in soliciting the support of our new students in University improvement and look forward to working with the returning students, who have already demonstrated their desires to support the University when the opportunities arise.

The intellectual and cultural opportunities open to students this year—through a great program of concerts, plays, and lectures—are better than at any other time in the University's long history. Our facilities have been strengthened, our physical facilities have been enlarged and improved, and all indications point to a creative year of achievement.

Channels of communications between the students and the administration have always been open, and we encourage a continuing exchange of ideas and information. A spirit of free inquiry and free expression has been and still is a cherished tradition.

INTERCAMPUS PROGRAM

Working together on an extensive intercampus program of student activities are the officers and members of the All-University Student Council, composed of students from all four campuses of the University.

The council is composed of 31 members, seven from each of the four campuses plus the three officers. The delegates from each campus are authorized to represent the student body from the campus from which they are selected.

The officers for this academic year are Woody Huntley of Wadesboro, president; Sarah Sheffield of Raleigh, secretary; and Wes McClure of Pendleton, S. C., treasurer, who is serving his second term as president of the Student Government at North Carolina State. All the officers this year are from North Carolina State.

According to the council's by-laws, the officers shall be from the same campus, and each campus shall hold these offices only once during a period of four years, thus providing a complete rotation among the campuses every four years.

Major objectives of the council, as stated in its constitution, are:

—To represent the opinions, interests, and welfare of the student bodies of the University of North Carolina, and to act as a means of liaison between the student bodies of the University and the administration, providing that the rights of the respective student governments are abridged in no manner whatsoever.

—To coordinate and initiate activities promoting more harmonious relations among the student bodies of the University of North Carolina.

In carrying out its purposes, the council meets at least twice each semester. At least one meeting per year is held on each campus.

In all of its work, the council seeks to fulfill the needs of consolidation at the student level, to bring the students from the four campuses together in a working organization, and to involve the students directly in work with the University's general administration.

ALL-UNIVERSITY DAY

One feature of this year's council program was "All-University Day" held on Saturday, September 21, when State and Carolina played their annual Atlantic Coast Conference football game. At the game's half-time, the council announced the selection of Miss Anne Jackson of Fayetteville, a sophomore majoring in French at the University at Greensboro, as the All-University Queen. Miss Jackson was crowned by Governor Dan Moore, Chairman of the University's Board of Trustees.

President Woody Huntley has said that the council this year will make regular reports of its activities and actions to the student governments, will issue periodic reports to the student bodies through the campus newspapers, and will work closely with the University's general administration in reaching major goals of the four-campus University during the current school year.

He envisions a year of "constructive cooperation" and said he and other council members are looking to the four student bodies for ideas and for participation in the council's work.

One of the main goals this year, President Huntley stated, will be to publicize the availability of the four campuses of scholarships for needy students.

"We have," he said, "an excellent base on which to build, and we hope to make the council this year a real legislative task force."

Like their predecessors before them, I am sure that the students who are enrolled on our four campuses this year will make the University a better place for their having been a part of it.

Salt Water Conversion

An additional seventy trillion gallons of fresh water a year will be needed in the U.S. by 1975. Nickel-containing alloys that can stand up to corrosive salt water and to the heat and cold of conversion, are in the forefront of materials for new seawater conversion equipment.

Giant Machines

Giant new machines capable of boring a six-foot diameter hole through 180 feet of rock in less than two weeks are speeding development of International Nickel's mines in Ontario and Manitoba. The raise borers can complete a job in one-quarter of the time it used to take.

Calder's "Man"

Alexander Calder's sculpture "Man," a 67-foot, 46-ton nickel stainless steel statue created for Expo 67, has been given to the city of Montreal by International Nickel. Composed of 3,280 feet of stainless steel sheets, 102 strips and 4,000 bolts, the largest work of the renowned sculptor will be permanently displayed in a park.

PLANT ROSES IN THE FALL -- IT'S EASY

All-America Rose Selections, noted as a highly experienced group of hybridizers, growers and introducers of fine roses, have long urged gardeners throughout the temperate regions to plant roses in the fall. From their own 24 years of growing experience and their unequalled testing facilities spread throughout the country, the members of AARS long ago learned the advantages of fall planting in all but the more northern areas of the United States.

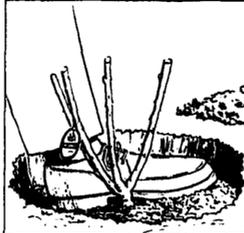

Although rose plants make little or no growth in the fall after they are planted, the ground settles firmly about the roots during the winter and the plants are established and ready to start active growth with the event of warm weather, long before most spring roses are purchased and planted. Planting roses in the fall is a very easy procedure. Simply carry out the few fundamental practices shown in the accompanying diagrams.

After you have your location chosen and the ground prepared, get your roses, prune all canes back to 18 inches, trim any damaged roots and as soon as possible. For roses that will give satisfactory and outstanding performance, choose the All-America award winners, all of which bear the emblem on a green and white identification tag attached to each plant.

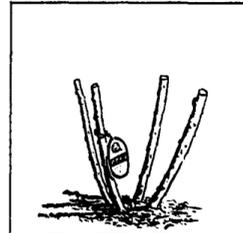

1. Prepare and fertilize bed. Dig hole 15" to 18" wide and as deep. Add quart of peat moss mixed with 1/2 cup of fertilizer. Mix well with soil. Form a mound in center and position rose on mound.

2. See that roots are spread out naturally and that bud union (swelling at base of stems) is level with ground. Scatter several inches loose soil over roots and firm well with foot.

3. Fill remainder of hole with water and allow to drain. See that the bud union remains at ground level.

4. Fill remainder of hole with soil and tamp. The plant is now ready for the mound of soil which will protect it against rapid freezing and thawing during the winter.

5. Mound soil around and over plant to a height of 12". Remove protective mound in the spring after growth starts.

SOUTHERN

INNOVATIONS THAT SQUEEZE THE WASTE OUT OF DISTRIBUTION / SOUTHERN RAILWAY SYSTEM, WASHINGTON, D. C.

What's so super about our Super Cushion® couplers?

They turn BUMPS into bumps.

Not long ago a big "bump" when freight cars were coupled could mean big trouble for fragile freight. Not so now, though, with our Super Cushion underframe cars — another money-saving, better-service innovation by Southern Railway. Today, thanks to these hydraulic-cushioning devices, you'll find delicate, expensive electronic equipment, breakable bottled goods, rolls of newsprint... anything that needs special care

... traveling in our Super Cushion service. And shippers realize important savings from lowered costs of packaging, crating and bracing.

Super Cushion service is just one of many Southern Railway innovations. Some you can see, some are hidden behind the scenes. Some have resulted in basic improvements in rolling stock, some have resulted in entirely new, precedent-breaking ways to do things faster and better. All add up to good news for shippers and consumers alike, for they help squeeze the waste out of distribution.

Innovations and improvements that enable us to squeeze the waste out of distribution benefit all who live in the Southern-served South. By reducing total cost of transportation they help combat today's trend of steadily rising consumer prices. They attract new industries into the South and help industries already located along our lines to grow and expand, providing more and better hometown job opportunities. All of us benefit!

There are better things to fix in the middle of the night than a heating unit.

Over the years, flameless Electric Comfort Heating has demonstrated excellent reliability. The only moving parts in most systems are in the standard thermostats. So the system does not require frequent lubrication and replacement of parts. In addition to being trouble-free, it's also comfortable. Because Electric Comfort Heating gives you gentle, even warmth all through the house. Duke Power doesn't sell or install heating equipment. But we'll gladly give you the name of an Electrical Modernization Dealer near you. And give you more good reasons why the switch is to electric heating.

New Jeffco Plant Begin Operations In December

A new manufacturing plant is about half completed within our area.

The building, now under construction, is located on highway 158 across the Yadkin River in Davie County, approximately 500 ft. west of the intersection at 801.

The factory, to be known as Jeffco, Inc., is a subsidiary of B & H Beauty and Barber Supply Co., the main office of which is now located at 201 1/2 South Stratford Road in Winston-Salem. The company at present has a Jeffco manufacturing plant on North Liberty Street, which will continue to operate for awhile.

The new structure will have about 30,000 sq. ft. of floor space and is being constructed on a portion of a 13 acre tract purchased by the company and, according to the president, W. P. Harrison, is just the first of long range planning for the tract - which, may at sometime, include a modern motel and other types of businesses as the development progresses - possibly a complete shopping center.

Although the first part of the Jeffco plant will be housed in the 30,000 ft. structure, and will begin operations about Dec. 1, another 20,000 sq. ft. to be added, is already on the planning board and will be added as business warrants - thus making it a 50,000 sq. ft. plant eventually. "and if the need arises we will expand it even further", said Harrison.

To begin with, Jeffco, Inc. will employ about 30 people. Products to be manufactured in the new plant will include mostly metal supplies for beauty and barber shops... items such as wall racks, dryers, hydraulic chairs, roll around trays, etc.

The company is the largest beauty and barber supply company in the south, with accounts in North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia and has a wholesale business that extends beyond even that area.

As has been mentioned, W. P. Harrison is president his brother, P. W. Harrison, vice president and Anne J. Adams is secretary-treasurer of the company.

Zeno Adams will be in charge of Jeffco, Ray J. Smith, in charge of equipment and Henry Hunter is sales manager for both Jeffco and B & H.

School Bus Hits Auto

A Davie County School bus was involved in an accident Monday, October 14, at 3:45 p.m. 5.6 miles north of Mocksville on RPR 1406 at intersection with RPR 1408.

State Trooper A. C. Stokes investigated the accident. He gave the following report:

The bus, being operated by Thomas Wayne Wallace, 17, was making a left turn into RPR 1406. The driver turned the vehicle too sharp and struck a 1963 Ford being operated by James Ray Whisenhunt, 18, of Route 5, who was attempting to stop.

Damages to the bus were reported at $150 and to the car $200.

Wallace was charged with driving on wrong side of road.

Davie Court Needs Are Cited

The needs for Davie County in the new court system to be activated in December of 1970 were outlined last week in a letter from the Administrative Office of the Courts to Glenn Hamner, Davie County Clerk of Court.

Davie County will be asked to provide:

Adequate space for Clerk's office...One courtroom...One Judge's chamber...One Grand Jury room and one Petit Jury room...Two conference rooms...Space for law library...Office space for one solicitor, one magistrate, and one family counselor.

Bert M. Montague, Director for the new system, said in his letter:

"Although there will be a number of implementation problems, it seemed to be the consensus that the number one problem will be the provision of adequate and suitable space. The abolition of all inferior courts and the resulting concentration of all judicial business in the county courthouse will create need for additional space. I have made an estimate of the court operations and judicial personnel for whom space should be provided in your county courthouse, and this estimate is enclosed. It is based on our experience with the implementation of the new court system in other districts, the projected Judicial Department personnel structure which will be established in the various counties of the Twenty-Second District, and upon our conversations of last week and subsequent discussions with the Resident Superior Court Judge.

Democrats Hold Dinner On Saturday

The Davie County Democrats will hold a fund raising dinner on Saturday night, October 19th, at the Davie High School Cafeteria.

County Chairman Broadus Melton said that efforts were being made to secure a top-name speaker for the occasion. All of the local candidates will be present.

Tickets may be secured from John Guglielmi or members of the precinct committee.

Alton M. Brown Named Director Of District Health Department

Alton M. Brown of Spartanburg, South Carolina, has been appointed director of the Davie-Wilkes-Yadkin Health Department by the North Carolina State Board of Health and the District Board of Health. He assumed the duties effective October 1.

Mr. Brown is a graduate of North Brook High School, Lincoln County, North Carolina, and Lenoir Rhyne College, Hickory, North Carolina. He completed teachers training at Appalachian State University, Boone, North Carolina, and received the masters degree in public health from the School of Public Health, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Michigan. His prior experience includes three years as a public school teacher and athletic coach at Marshville, North Carolina and Ellenboro High School, Ellenboro, North Carolina.

As a commissioned officer in the reserve corps of the United States Public Health Service during World War II, he served in the United States, Egypt, and China. Later, he was assigned to Greece with the United States foreign aid program and to Libya as executive officer to the medical officer in-charge of the Public Health Division.

Mr. Brown was formerly employed by the North Carolina State Board of Health in the Clay-Cheroke-Graham Health District.

The board agreed at an Aug. 6 meeting with watershed trustees that there was room for the plans of both boards in the bed of Elisha Creek.

The town is planning - and has $385,000 to finance its plans - to build a sewage treatment plant and additional sewer lines. About two miles of the proposed lines would follow the bed of Elisha Creek between Milling Road and U. S. 158.

The watershed trustees are eyeing this same part of the creek bed as a reservoir for one of nine dams in a proposed $2.2-million flood control project. And they are convinced that eliminating it would kill their entire project.

The dam in question is not proposed for construction until 1970, and even then its construction depends on a series of federal appropriations. Consequently, members of the town board agreed - without a formal vote - in August to proceed with plans for laying the sewer line through the proposed reservoir area. When and if the lake-type reservoir is built, they agreed, they would add tall manholes to their sewer line.

D. J. (Nick) Mando, Mocksville's mayor, said this week that board members are "now definitely against the whole project."

"There is more involved than we had anticipated," he explained. Mando said members of the board had been thinking in terms of six or seven foot high manholes when they approved tall manholes. Now, he said, it appears the manholes would have to be up to 30 feet high.

Mando said members of the board had been thinking in terms of six or seven foot high manholes when they approved tall manholes. Now, he said, it appears the manholes would have to be up to 30 feet high.

Mando said a meeting to resolve the "conflict in either opinions or ideas" has been tentatively scheduled for Tuesday, Oct. 29. Darwin L. Coburn, chief of the water pollution division of the N. C. Department of Water and Air Resources, and Elmer Graham, assistant state conservationist in charge of watersheds, have been invited.

"We want to let them clear the air," Mando said. "If they're opposed to it down there, that will put us in the clear."

Handicapped Workshop Discussed

The work of the Rowan-Davie Vocational Rehabilitation Workshop at Ellis Crossroads was discussed Tuesday for members of the Mocksville Rotary Club by Bob Hoyle of Cooleemee. Mr. Hoyle is a member of the board of directors of this workshop.

This workshop is dedicated to the training of the physically and mentally handicapped persons for productive work. Handicapped persons sixteen years of age and older are being trained here and placed in public work.

Mr. Hoyle revealed that four persons from Davie were now being trained in this workshop and twenty more are being processed towards this end.

Mrs. Alma Anderson of Callhain is working full time with the workshop training some of the girls to be nurses' aides.

Mr. Hoyle said that Davie had a bus that picked up the Davie participants in the program and carried them to and from the workshop.

A special invitation was issued to the people of Davie to visit the workshop and see the work that is taking place. Mr. Hoyle said that the workshop would appreciate gifts of various materials for use in the training program.

Dr. Ronald Gantt had charge of the program and introduced Mr. Hoyle. President O. K. Pope presided.

James E. Kelly was inducted into the club as a new member by Graham Madison.

Steve Beck was a special student guest.

Rebels Trounce West Rowan

Rebel Halfback Bryant Smith goes for a gain against the West Rowan Falcons aided by the blocking of Ralph Naylor (66)

The Davie County Rebels will take on the strong Mooresville team here Friday night in an important North Piedmont Conference game. Kickoff is set for 8 p.m.

The Rebels posted their third straight football victory last Friday night in defeating arch-rival West Rowan in the Falcons' homecoming game, 20-0.

Coach Jim Conger's Rebels led by one touchdown as the two teams locked in a defensive battle in the first half. But Davie County broke open the close game with a third-quarter score.

The Rebels took advantage of West Rowan mistakes. The Falcons had three passes intercepted and they lost the ball twice on fumbles. Two pass interceptions set up the two second-half touchdowns.

West recovered a Davie fumble at the Rebel 20 in the second quarter, but the Falcons couldn't cash in on the opportunity. West moved down to the one-yard line and fumbled the ball back to the Rebels.

Davie took a 7-0 lead in the opening period when quarterback Ronnie Shoaf hit end Donnie Everhardt on a five-yard touchdown play. Everhardt kicked the extra point.

In the third quarter, after a pass interception by Shoaf, halfback Steve Zimmerman scored on a two-yard run. In the final quarter Zimmerman intercepted another pass and later scored on a one-yard run. Everhardt kicked extra points after each touchdown.

Davie had 13 first downs to eight for the Falcons. The Rebels rushed for 195 yards and limited West to 68. West had 69 yards passing to 20 for the Falcons.

Social Security In Davie County

It is especially important that people approaching age 65 visit a social security office well before they reach that birthday. Robert C. Thomas, social security district manager, reminded Davie County residents today. Until Medicare came into the picture, it was natural for a person to wait until he was on the point of retiring before he contacted social security about his retirement benefits. If he waited a few months there was no particular problem, because retirement benefits can be paid retroactively for up to 12 months.

Now, however, every person nearing age 65 must decide whether he wants the doctor bill insurance part of Medicare. Thomas added, and this insurance protection is not retroactive not is it automatic. A person must sign up for it in one of the three months just before he reaches 65, if he wants his coverage to begin with the month he becomes 65. If he waits until the month he reaches 65 -- or either of the three months that follow -- to enroll, his coverage will be delayed 1 to 3 months.

Persons who completely miss their first enrollment period, which begins 3 months before they become 65 and ends three months after that month, will have to wait until the next general enrollment period -- the first three months of each calendar year -- and they may have to pay a higher monthly premium than the present $4 per month, Thomas said.

For more information about the Medicare program, contact should be made at the social security office. The Salisbury office, which serves this area, is located at 105 Corriher Avenue, and it is open from 8:30 to 4:30, Monday through Thursday, and until 7:30 each Friday.

Presbyterian Churches Get New Look

The Mocksville Second & The Mt. Vernon United Presbyterian Churches will have a new look in the future, says F. D. Johnson, Jr., the pastor. "IMPROVE OR MOVE" is the challenge presented to the Churches by the pastor, as its goal for the present.

The Mocksville Second Church which was built in 1910 is being remodeled. The present wooded structure when completed will be bricked. Stained glass windows will replace the present windows, the inside will be completely remodeled with two additions, a ladies polor and a larger pastor's study.

The educational united of the church was remodeled last year. A manse replacing the old manse built some years ago was built in 1964.

At the Mt. Vernon Church, Woodleaf, the same type work is being done. Stained glass windows replaced the old windows at Mt. Vernon in 1964. The educational unit there is being remodeled with the addition of the dining area added to the church replacing the "Hut" that has been used for this purpose through the years. Mt. Vernon will be bricked also. The cost of this work will exceed $25,000.00, but is in keeping with what is needed today to improve our sanctuary and to do His (THE LORD'S WORK). We hope that this work will be completed by spring," says the pastor.

Freshmen Trip West

By: Steve Blackwelder

Halfback Ricky Phelps scored two touchdowns in the first period to lead the Davie freshmen to a 26-0 victory over West Rowan. The Rebels now have a 3-1-0 record.

After receiving the opening kickoff, the Rebs drove to the falcon 36 yard line. Phelps sprinted around the right end for 36 yards and a touchdown. The point after the touchdown failed.

With only a few minutes left in first period, Phelps rambled from the Falcon ten yard line to score his second touchdown. Once again the point after the touchdown failed.

Halfway through the second quarter, quarterback David Poplin hit Robert Dwiggins with a 50 yard touchdown pass. Fullback Ronald Boger added the extra point by plunging into the end zone from the two yard line, leaving the score 19-0 at the half.

Both the Falcons and the Rebs played a tight defensive battle in the third period. "Monk" Blalock and Phil Martin spearheaded the Davie defense.

In the closing minutes of the game, quarterback Poplin broke loose and sprinted 85 yards for Davie's final touchdown. Blalock added the extra point on a two yard plunge. The final score was Davie 26 and West Rowan-0.

Davie had 9 first downs, 127 yards rushing, and 103 yards passing. The Rebs were penalized a total of 55 yards.

The Falcons had 5 first downs, 20 yards rushing, 41 yards passing, and were penalized 20 yards.

Davie 12 7 0 7 - 26 West Rowan 0 0 0 0 - 0 D.C. - Phelps 36 yard run (point failed) D.C. - Phelps 10 yard run (point failed) D.C. - Dwiggins 50 yard pass from Poplin (Boger extra point) D.C. - Poplin 85 yard run (Blalock extra point)

Davie vs East Rowan

A second period drive and brilliant play by the defensive team led the Davie Jayvees to a 7-0 victory over East Rowan. The Jayvees now have a 4-2-0 record.

The first quarter was a stiff defensive battle between the two teams. The Davie defense was led by co-captain Darrell Harpe.

The Rebels got on the scoreboard in the second period when a 60 yard drive led by Craig Ward put the Rebels down to the four yard line. A four yard plunge by Robert Ridge gave Davie the score. Terry Cook added the point making the score 7-0 at halftime.

Several times in the third quarter East threatened to score. But each time the stiff Rebel defense proved to be too much for the Mustangs.

The fourth quarter saw the ball change hands many times with neither team threatening to score.

Davie County 0 7 0 0 - 7 East Rowan 0 0 0 0 - 0 D.C. - Ridge 4 yard run (Cook kicked the point)

4-H

Davie Academy 4-H Club
The Davie Academy 4-H Club met October 7, 1968. President, Paula Shew, called the meeting to order. We then said the pledges to the 4-H and National Flags. Larry Cartner then lead us in devotions. Our Secretary-treasurer, Jerry Koontz, then read the minutes, called the roll, and asked if there were any new members. There were seven new ones. Jerry then recorded their names in the register. President, Paula Shew, then asked if there were any old business; it was to bring the record books so they could turn them in. We then discussed some new business-our 4-H float. We have some pretty good ideas.

After the business we then turned the program over to Mrs. Rachel Stroud. The program was on "Dental Care." We then adjourned and had refreshments. Also a little play by Christa Tulbert was presented.

Respectfully submitted,
Linda Jones

Safety Poles

New stainless steel light poles installed by the Minnesota Highway Department are designed to break-away at their base when struck by a motor vehicle, reducing to a minimum damage to both pole and vehicle.

Safety in Stainless

Because of nickel stainless steel's toughness, as well as its gleaming appearance, the material is used for doors on modern bank vaults and to make safe deposit boxes.

TAXPAYERS ASK IRS

Question-and-Answer Column No. 68-42

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q — When my return was audited, your examiner said I owed $50 more in tax. I don't agree. Is there any way I can protest this assessment without getting involved with legal fees and so forth?

A — Yes, you may request a district conference at which you can present your side of the dispute to an impartial third party. It is not necessary to lodge a formal protest to obtain a conference or to engage legal counsel.

Procedures for requesting a conference are outlined in a letter you will receive from IRS setting forth the results of the examination of your return.

Q — I just took a job which requires me to do a lot of traveling. For tax purposes will I have to keep track of the money I spend on the road?

A — If you account to your employer for these expenses and your reimbursement does not exceed these expenses you will not have to report them on your tax return. Employees who are not reimbursed for their business travel costs should keep records of what they spend and claim a business expense deduction for them when they file their income tax returns.

For details on record keeping, send a post card to your district director. Ask for Publication 463, Rules for Deducting Travel, Entertainment and Gift Expenses.

Q — I give my maid money for her bus fare. Do I have to pay social security tax on this as well as her wages?

A — Yes. The Social Security tax applies to the total amount of cash paid to a household employee for wages and transportation. The value of any bus tokens or meals or other non-cash items you provide is not covered by this tax. However, if cash is given in lieu of these items it constitutes wages.

Tax payments for the July, August, September quarter are due October 31. Any person who has paid $50 or more cash wages in a quarter to an employee for household services (cleaning, gardening, etc.) must file and pay this tax using Form 942.

Q — I took quite a few chances on a car our local fire department raffled off this summer. Can I take a charitable deduction for the cost of these tickets?

A — No, you cannot. They are considered to be gambling losses which are deductible only to the extent of gambling winnings.

Anderson Completes Recruit Training

Marine Private Robert E. Anderson, 18, son of Mrs. Calvin O. Burrell of Route 4, Mocksville, N. C., was graduated from eight weeks of recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot here.

He will now undergo from two to four weeks of individual combat training and then, after leave at home, will report to his first Marine Corps assignment.

The intensified Marine recruit training emphasizes rigid physical conditioning and survival techniques, both at sea and ashore, to develop self-confidence and endurance. Marksmanship with the M-14 rifle and .45-caliber pistol are equally stressed, and close order drill instills the traditions of Marine Corps teamwork.

A thorough study of basic military subjects, hygiene, first aid and sanitation, and the customs, courtesies, history and mission of the Marine Corps serve to polish the new Marine's recruit education and prepare him to join the Marine combat forces.

Growth Metal

CHARLOTTE . . . The many-page spread on Mr. and Mrs. Richard Nixon (one photo showing her in tears after the 1960 defeat) . . . in the current issue of Life Magazine begins with a four-color shot in Charlotte. It looks like good advertising for the queen city; and an interesting insight on the Nixons from the day they met.

POLLS SHOW . . . Another unusual political development—in this most unusual year—is that George Wallace is not taking many votes away from the Republicans.

He's getting them from the Democrats . . . by the millions. But the polls show that less than five per cent of the GOP voters are moving from Nixon to Wallace. This would indicate that it could be nip-and-tuck between those two in North Carolina. But for what positions? First and second? Or second and third?

NEW PARTIES? . . . Dr. Charles Carroll, retiring State Superintendent of Public Instruction, is an able and long-time watcher and analyst of the political scene. Especially from the N. C. viewpoint.

Now that he is leaving it, he can be a little more outspoken in his beliefs and ideas.

At any rate, he opened up a little the other day at a luncheon at which two or three other members of the Council of State were present. Dr. Carroll said—and he may be right—that he would not be surprised at a complete party realignment. He didn't elaborate . . .

But there is something akin to it going on right now . . . on the national scene. The conservatives are voting Republican, with the liberals voting the Democratic ticket. Then, of course, you have more and more of this "voting for the man" business.

Enough of this shifting . . . here and there . . . and you might find . . . out there . . . two or five years hence . . . a Conservative and a Labor Party . . . as in England. Southern Democrats are much more conservative, for example, than most Northern Republicans.

BLACK CLAUS . . . At a meeting of some managers of merchants associations and chambers of commerce held in High Point last week, the matter of what color a Santa Claus should be received attention. At least one organization has already received a formal request for a black Santa Claus for its Christmas parade this fall. Another reported they had followed the practice of having two Santas—one white and one black—for two or three years.

Which brings up the question: Is Santa black or white? It's difficult to imagine a black polar bear up around the North Pole—where Santa lives. But, still and all . . . as they say . . . can little Negro boys and girls get the same thrill as white children from a snow-white Santa Claus?

Another problem for Christmas parade planners this year.

WALLACE WORKERS . . . GOP gubernatorial Candidate Jim Gardner keeps saying that State employes are more or less forced to go along with the Democratic Party. This used to be rather the case—but it is considered old hat now. An example of the new approach is that some few State employes this year are out-and-out for George Wallace—with Wallace stickers on their car (not the one they drive to work) . . . bumpers. And a very few HHH signs on any Raleigh cars.

CRIME . . . The story goes that this teen-ager all but had this appointment to the Naval Academy at Annapolis. Know why it went to the alternate instead?

Because the boy's record—going back over three years—showed that he had assisted another boy in shoplifting a crate of drinks from a supermarket. He had been convicted. And, although the crime was not much . . . and only carried the costs of court . . . it went down on his record . . . forever.

Within the past 30 days over 100,000 four-page booklets showing the serious nature of shoplifting have been distributed to high schools all over the State. This is a joint effort of the National Retail Merchants Association, the N. C. Merchants Association, distributive education teachers, and local trade organizations. Conviction of shoplifting in North Carolina can lead to a six months' jail sentence . . . a $100 fine . . . and, not the least, a police record to stand in the way of future employment and scholarships.

WHY EPISCOPALIAN . . . Willie Richardson was known by every newspaperman in Raleigh for 50 years. He died here a few weeks ago.

He was private secretary to Gov. Cameron Morrison. And then for many years he handled publicity, bulletins, etc., for the N. C. Department of Agriculture. He was against W. Kerr Scott in 1936 when Scott ran for Agriculture Commissioner; and was replaced by Louis (Hop) Wilson in early 1937.

After that, he went to the N. C. Department of Health as one of the most outstanding publicists on the health front in the nation. He was not known as a churchworker.

Willie became an Episcopalian. Among his papers has been found five simple statements on "Why I Am An Episcopalian". These are now being featured by the Good Shepherd Church here.

Library News

The recently renovated Governor's Mansion of North Carolina will be shown on slides in the Main Library, each afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, October 15th through October 18th. This is an entertaining program about one of North Carolina's most important buildings, the slides having been loaned to the library by the North Carolina Department of Archives and History. We feel sure that many of our friends will find these slides enjoyable and the public is cordially invited to view them.

"Drug Addiction" will be the topic discussed by Dr. Francis Slate in the Main Library on November 4, at 7:30 p. m. There is a widespread realization of the urgency of this growing problem in our society today, and the Davie County Public Library is fortunate in being able to present Dr. Slate as speaker on this timely topic. Teen-agers and adults will want to hear what he has to say. The public is welcome.

A display, "The Drug Scene," strikingly presented in the vestibule exhibit case at the Main Library, is arousing much interest.

Willing to Serve the People of Davie County

To My Many Friends in Davie County:

J. P. HUSKINS

I have always felt that one's religious or political activities are of a very personal nature and that no person has the right to assume or to expect others to necessarily follow their lead. On the other hand, I feel equally strong that if anyone is in position to clarify or explain issues or actions, they are certainly entitled to be heard, regardless of whether or not you agree with their position.

For these reasons, I want to say a few words about the upcoming election for the North Carolina House of Representatives. The good people of Iredell County were gracious enough to send me to the Senate for three terms. Consequently, I feel I can speak with some knowledge of our state's needs and of the type men and women who can best serve these needs.

J. P. Huskins has proven to me that he has courage, integrity, and intelligence. His knowledge of state government is well known, especially in the all-important field of higher education. He numbers among his many friends a great number of state and national leaders.

With no disrespect or ill-will intended for either of his Republican opponents, it is my judgment that the election of J. P. Huskins will best serve the interests and needs of North Carolina, Iredell and Davie Counties. Furthermore, I have great respect for the judgment and wisdom of Iredell and Davie voters. I heartily recommend to them the candidacy of J. P. Huskins, especially so since both the House and the Senate of the 1969 North Carolina General Assembly are going to be overwhelmingly Democratic.

Again, may I say that one's political views are one's own personal business; and yet the hoped-for result of all political activities, good government, is not achieved by being silent on all occasions.

I deeply appreciate this opportunity to once again say "Hello" and "Thanks" to the best people I know, anywhere.

Sincerely,

Jimmy Johnson

James V. "Jimmy" Johnson

What Sam told his mule....

Years and years back, Sam Rumpus talked to his mule. What he said made sense, then and today. Mrs. W. A. Bost remembered seeing it in The Progressive Farmer, published by the late Dr. Clarence Poe.

Over the hill trailed Sam, behind a mule drawing a plow. Said Sam to the mule:

"Bill, you are a mule, the son of a jackass, and I am a man made in the image of God. Yet, here we are hitched up together, year in and year out. I often think it is a partnership between a mule and a fool, for surely I work as hard as you, if not harder. Plowing or cultivating we cover the same distance, but you do it on four legs and I on two. I therefore do twice as much work per leg as you do."

"Now we are preparing for a corn crop. When the crop is harvested I give one-third to the landlord for being so kind as to let us use this small speck of God's universe. One-third goes to you and the balance is mine. You consume all of your portion with exception of the cobs, while I divide mine among seven children, six hens, two ducks and a banker. If we both need shoes, you get 'em. Bill, you are getting the best of me, and I ask 'Is it fair for a mule, the son of a jackass, to swindle a man — a lord of creation — out of his subsistence?"

"Why you only plow and cultivate the ground and when fall comes I must cut, shock and husk the corn all by myself, while you look over the pasture fence and hee-haw at me. All fall and most of the winter the whole family, from Granny to the baby, picks cotton to help raise money to pay taxes and buy a new harness and pay the interest on the mortgage on you. And what do you care about the mortgage? Not a darn, you ornery cuss. I even have to do the worrying about the mortgage on your tough, ungrateful hide."

"About the only time I am your better is on election day, for I can vote and you can't. And after election day I soon realize from the way the men act that I voted for, that I was just as big a jackass as your papa."

"And that isn't all, Bill. When you're dead, that's supposed to be the end of you. But me? The parson tells me that when I die I gotta go to h—l forever. That is, Bill, if I don't do just as he says. And most of what he says keeps me from getting any kick out of life."

"Tell me, Willyum, considering these things, how can you keep a straight face and look sodumb and solemn?"

Kappa Club

Kappa Homemaker's Club met Oct. 10, 1968 at 2 p.m. at the community building with Mrs. Oscar Koofitz presiding. The ten members joined in singing the United Nations Hymn.

After the minutes, the Safety Leader, Mrs. Betty Prevette told of a number of poison plants that are growing around our homes.

Plans were made for a Halloween Program Oct. 26, 1968 at 6 p.m. at the community building. Proceeds will go for the remodeling of the kitchen.

After the business session a poem, "Making a Home" was read by Margaret Daywalt, House Furnishing Leader, who presented the lesson on, Better Living at Low Cost.

The hostess served Orange Salad, Spooky Cookies and orange drink.

Tetterow Named Vice President

David Tetterow, Route 4, a student at East Carolina University, has been named second vice president of Kappa Upsilon chapter of Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, at ECU.

Officers were installed by Dr. James W. Butler, chapter advisor and APO Presidential Representative.

Other service projects of the fraternity are the traditional White Ball for the benefit of the Crippled Children and Adults Society during the Winter Quarter, aid to the mail campaign of Eastern N. C. Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association before Christmas, and judging of events in the annual spring camporee of the East Carolina Council of the Boy Scouts of America.

NEWS FROM YOUR

COUNTY FARM AGENT

How does your lawn "measure up"? Does it enhance, or detract from the general appearance of your home? If you do not have an attractive, thick lawn the trouble may stem from lack of lime and fertilizer. Lawns, just as field crops, have definite lime and fertilizer requirements and these needs are not supplied by the natural fertility of our soils, according to Leo F. Williams, County Extension Chairman.

Acid soils, or soils low in PH, are a major contributing factor to poor lawn growth. Many of the difficulties encountered in attempting to establish a satisfactory lawn result directly or indirectly from soil acidity. Low PH, or acid soil, can cause an essential nutrient such as phosphorus to become "unavailable" to the grass, and at the same time an element such as aluminum may become toxic. Acid soils also provide a more favorable environment for disease organisms and weaken the "resistance" of the grass to disease.

In addition to lime, adequate amounts of nitrogen, phosphorus, and potassium are required to establish a good lawn cover. Neglect of the lime and fertilizer requirements of lawn areas leads to sparse and slow growing grass, the encroachment of undesirable grasses and weeds, and poor color. Proper lime and fertilizer care of lawns is based on a soil test. A soil test will indicate the present lime and fertility levels of your soil. Suggested amounts of lime and fertilizer and how they should be applied are given on the soil test report returned to you, as well as approximate dates to apply the fertilizer.

Now is the time to seed a cool season grass. Get a soil test made if you are experiencing difficulty with getting a satisfactory lawn cover. Soil sampling supplies and instructions for taking the soil samples are available at your County Extension Office.

SCHOOLDAY FOOD

What is your child having for lunch this school day? Is he or she eating a well balanced meal, or simply filling up on a hurried snack containing more "empty calories" than vital nutrients?

Does your child's lunch consist of - a serving of lean meat, fish or poultry, or a meat substitute; two or more vegetables or fruits or both, in raw or cooked form; whole grain or enriched bread; butter and oil - or is it just a skimpy sandwich, potato chips, and a piece of candy? Or is it anything at all?

Malnutrition has a foreign ring to most American ears. Malnutrition, we think, is something that happens to people of foreign countries. Recent surveys by the United States Department of Agriculture and public health agencies show that well over 50 percent of the American people are undernourished. Some are undernourished because they are too poor to buy the proper food. Too many, however, are undernourished because they don't know what their bodies require or they are too busy to eat a proper meal. Most of our citizens today can afford to eat well, but there are many who cannot. There are those who are at the lowest end of the income scale, earning $3000 a year or less. There are those who, because they are out of the mainstream of the American economy, often go unseen. They are the elderly, the blind, the handicapped, dependent children, and those without education and skills needed in today's world to be a wage earner.

To these groups we must give special attention - especially in helping them improve their dietary levels. And we can do this through nutrition education and through application and effective rise of the Federal food assistance programs.

Babies do not grow and develop properly; young children are slow to learn; older children continue to fall behind intellectually and physically with the world around them. Surveys show that some teenagers have food intakes that fail to supply the recommended dietary allowance for each of the nutrients. Some fail to supply two-thirds of the recommended amounts and these we rate inadequate or poor. Teenager's diets studied to date are most likely to fall short of the allowances in calcium, iron, and vitamin C.

Some people willingly try new foods; others are meat and potato eaters. Some students remember pleasant meals; others recall plates of cold spinach, threats of "no dessert" until every bite was eaten, or "eat it because it's good for you." One of the factors that determine an individual's food habits is his early background - his parents place of residence, income and family size. Food habits are influenced by the variety of foods their mothers served at home and the way in which foods were served.

Disliking foods can be traced to being forced to eat it. The food preferences of parents often influence the foods served at home and in turn influence children. High school years are a time of experimentation in foods. Adventurous teenagers are eager to try many types of foods, such as clams and lobster, maybe even eggplant just to say they have tried it.

Recognizing the need for early and continuous nutrition education, the Congress in 1946 passed the National Lunch Act, which led to the establishment of lunch programs in most of the schools. These programs insure the adequacy of a school age child's diet by supplying at least one-third of his daily nutritional requirement. The National School Lunch Act set up what has come to be known as the Type A lunch. The Type A lunch supplies the minimum requirements for one-third or more of your child's daily nutritional needs including:

1. One-half fluid whole milk.
2. Two ounces of lean meat, poultry, or fish; two ounces of cheese; one egg; or one half cup cooked dry beans or peas; or four tablespoons of peanut

Airman Teddy W. Boger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman S. Boger of Rt. 3, Mocksville, N. C., has completed basic training at Lackland AFB, Tex. He has been assigned to the Air Force Technical Training Center at Chanute AFB, Ill. for specialized schooling as an aircraft maintenance specialist. Airman Boger is a 1967 graduate of Davie County High School.

butter or an equivalent of any combination of the above listed foods. To be counted in meeting this requirement, these foods must be served in a main dish.

3. A three-fourths cup serving of two or more vegetables or fruit. Full strength vegetable or fruit juice may be counted to meet not more than one-fourth of this requirement.

4. One slice of bread, or a serving of cornbread, biscuits, rolls, muffins, etc.

Sponsored by the Golden Age Club, the event featured well-filled booths of varied goods and attractions manned by men and women dressed in old-fashioned clothes. The men dressed in red and white striped button-up vests and wore carnival type hats. The women wore colorful sun and hat bonnets that framed their smiling faces. They wore plain and fancy aprons.

There were several booths: A long table of hand fashioned fancy work, including the reversible fellowship name quilt; Christmas nylon wreaths and many other varied items.

The booth of dried arrangements and live plants and potted plants made appeal to flower lovers.

The refreshment booth furnished food for the hungry. The white elephant booth had bargains in odds and ends.

The herb booth exhibited fragrant hand-gathered herbs and spices, jellies and jams.

The apron booth had an array of fancy aprons fit for a queen. The next booth was not only tempting to look at but had an enjoyable culinary aroma.

'69 Impala Custom Coupe

Just sitting there, this '69 Chevrolet can do four things competitive cars can't:

It can wash its headlights.
It can apply liquid tire chain to its rear wheels.
It can silently defog or defrost the rear window.
It can keep you cool or warm automatically with Comfortron — the self-adjusting air-conditioning system.
And once you've added all these wonderful devices to a new Chevrolet, you just can't imagine why anyone would give a second thought to a second-place car.

The headlight washers and liquid tire chain for traction on slippery roads are operated at the touch of a button from the driver's seat. So is the silent new rear-window defroster. Invisible ceramic strips on the glass heat up to keep the window clear.
Also available: Chevrolet's Light Monitoring System that lets you know from inside if all your outside lights are working, full four-speaker stereo, a smooth 3-speed Turbo Hydra-matic transmission. All in a car made quieter, made stronger, made more comfortable. Now at your Chevrolet dealer's.

We've said it before, and we'll say it again.
Match this, you other '69s!
Putting you first, keeps us first.

RE-ELECT

CHARLES "BUDDY" ALEXANDER

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE FOR RE-ELECTION

AS COUNTY COMMISSIONER OF DAVIE COUNTY

WOULD APPRECIATE YOUR VOTE IN THE

NOVEMBER 5TH ELECTION

TO OUR FRIENDS IN IREDELL AND DAVIE COUNTIES

On behalf of Gilbert Boger and Homer Tolbert who were elected to the House of Representatives, 39th district, in 1966 and are running for re-election, we would like to point out the following facts:

Gilbert Lee Boger

(1) Following their election, and after consulting with the people to find their feelings regarding issues, we feel they represented ALL the people in a fair and impartial way.

(2) On weekends our Representatives met with the voters to discuss issues pending before the General Assembly.

(3) Despite accusations to the contrary, they did succeed in getting bills passed for Davie and Iredell County. For example House Bill 732 providing for election of school board members in Davie County was passed and Davie voters this year have elected their members at the time of the primary elections. House Bill 570, which would have given Iredell voters the same privilege, was killed in the Senate after our representatives got it through the House.

Homer Tolbert

(4) Since the General Assembly adjourned, on numerous occasions Rep. Tolbert and Rep. Boger have helped the people with their problems.

(5) During their stay in Raleigh, we were proud to note that both of our representatives conducted themselves as Christian gentlemen.

Signed: Committee for the re-election of Tolbert and Boger

B. G. Westbrook is shown at left congratulating Roger Gabbert for joining the Liming Campaign. Mr. Gabbert, who owns a farm in Coolemece, is president of The Davie Farm Bureau, and he supports the Liming Campaign and urges other farmers to participate also.

Lime Promotion Campaign

Davie County is one of about 80 counties in North Carolina that has opened a Lime Promotion Campaign this fall in an effort to do something about over-acid soils. "Acid soils are cutting our crop yields and lowering our farm profits," said B. G. Westbrook, County Agricultural Agent.

"We are joining other counties in the state to call this problem to the attention of farmers and people with an interest in farming," Westbrook added.

"Our estimates show that Davie County farmers could profitably use many more tons of lime than they are currently using.

"Such an increase in lime usage could mean an estimated $450,000 more in farm income for the county, Westbrook continued.

The Lime Promotion Campaign is being tied in with soil testing, since a soil test is the only sure way of knowing the exact lime needs of soil.

Organizations other than Extension agents who are cooperating in the lime promotion campaign in Davie County are: Davie Farm Bureau, Grange, Dairy Head Improvement Association, Lime and Fertilizer Dealers, Pork Producers Association, and Davie Old Belt Tobacco Farmers Association.

All-New 1969 DODGE POLARA

A buck never bought so much before at the Dodge Boys'.
SO MUCH BEAUTY

SO MUCH ROOMINESS

Take a look at Dodge Polara. It's all-new from top to bottom. Clean. Low. Handsome. And Polara doesn't just look longer. It is longer than other low-priced cars. See for yourself. At the Dodge Boys'.

For years, Polara's given you much more room inside than other cars. This year's Polara's even better. With more shoulder room, hiproom and rear legroom. You get big-car room without a big car's price.

SO MUCH LUXURY

SO MANY NEW IDEAS

How many low-priced cars give you carpeting and big, foam-padded seats as standard equipment? Or concealed wipers and a big, handsome instrument panel? Plus a big, 230-hp V8? Polara does.

Exclusive with Dodge is the optional, turnpike Super-Lite. It lights the road far beyond the normal low beams without offending oncoming drivers.

NO WONDER THE DODGE BOYS ARE HAVING THEIR BIGGEST TURNOUT IN HISTORY.

BAD LUCK...Just when the Republican Party in North Carolina seems on the verge of a recovery from a low-rating poll, two events occur—neither expected to make votes for the GOP:

1. A recent executive secretary of the party is under indictment for alleged violation of stock (not cattle) laws.
2. A prominent legislator goes to prison for larceny.

When Jim Gardner was running for Congress in 1966, everybody said he was born with a horseshoe around his neck. But now the bad breaks are gradually pulling down the estimate of his votes in November.

COMPARISON...Due to the importance of the candidacy of George Wallace this time, it is difficult to predict how the votes will compare in the General Election on November 5.

In 1960, John F. Kennedy ran behind Terry Sanford by 713,136 to 735,248. But four years ago Lyndon B. Johnson ran ahead of Dan K. Moore by 800,139 to 790,343. This shows how times have changed!

This time, Lt. Gov. Robert Scott will far outdistance Hubert Humphrey. Jim Gardner should also receive more votes than Richard M. Nixon. However in 1960—when Nixon last ran—he received 655,420 ballots to 613,975 for Robert L. Gavin.

And—to show again the burden Gardner has to carry—even Barry Goldwater received more votes than Bob Gavin in 1964—624,844 to 606,165.

THE CHAMP...Know who is the all-time champion Republican vote-getter in North Carolina—including all state and national offices? Here's a hint. His initials are RMN. His vote of 655,420 eight years ago is the highest ever recorded by a Republican in North Carolina.

ALARMING...Despite the various insurance and medicare programs, hospitals still find it difficult to collect accounts.

With the vast majority of these institutions, you have to have everything pretty well squared away before you can get out!

The great Memorial Hospital in Chapel Hill must be different.

When it was a building many years ago, there was question about the necessity of this tremendous hospital within ten miles of Duke Hospital. It seemed like a mighty big to-do for such a small city.

Some people even said that since it was a State institution, citizens might be a little slower about "settling up" than might be the case otherwise. Be that as it may, the multi-million-dollar plant was built, it is now one of the most important cogs in our North Carolina hospital machinery. Nobody will ever be able to estimate the good it has done, the lives it has saved, in its brief span of years.

However, and nevertheless, even State institutions should and then consider the health of the financial situation. The story in Chapel Hill is that Memorial Hospital now has over $600,000 in debts of discharged patients. If correct, this is enough to drive many a smaller hospital—hard put to make ends meet—completely out of existence.

The question now seems to be: who permitted—or how did—this debt become so large? And what is being done to collect these thousands and thousands of hospital bills...due our Memorial Hospital at Chapel Hill?

THE DRIVER...You may not think about it when you hear his rig rumbling through the night, but the man behind the wheel could be a leader in one of the Nation's most unusual religious organizations.

Out West and up North—along the highway trails—you find the skidmarks, the tracks, of Christian Workers in Transportation, Inc. Many a rugged truck stop has a table, a desk, a slot beside the cash register reminding the drivers at all hours of the day and night of this organization begun in Cherryville, N. C. in December of 1964.

Preliminary meetings had been held in Greensboro and Salisbury before the group was finally set up as a non-profit organization around Christmas four years ago.

Its offices are now in Concord—130 Piedmont Drive. It is difficult to associate truckers, brakemen, aviators, and longshoremen with the ever-beckoning finger of Christianity. However, read this paragraph from one of their tracts: "...The purpose of witnessing is to reach the great masses of humanity who are not Christians. We hope to do this by personal witnessing and by having truck stops across the country hold church services for those away from their homes on Sunday..."

Well, it all goes to prove: never judge a book by its cover. And it is appropriate that Christian Workers in Transportation had its beginnings, and maintains its home, in North Carolina. Why? Because this State ranks near the top of the ladder in the trucking industry.

PEARSON NIECE...The high society levels of Washington-Baltimore-Annapolis, Maryland, have been buzzing since early Sunday, October 13, when thrice divorced Owen J. Spell, Jr., was found dead in the Annapolis home of Mrs. Anne Pearson May, niece of Drew Pearson, syndicated columnist well known in North Carolina.

Spell had been stabbed in the chest. Mrs. May has been charged with the murder and is free on $15,000 bail. Friends report that he and Mrs. May, 37, were engaged and planned to marry. Spell was an Annapolis business man and restaurant owner.

Four Corners

The baptizing was held Sunday night at Courtney Baptist Church. There were 11 additions to the church.

Mr. and Mrs. George Laymon and Debbie Nance were Sunday luncheon guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gray Laymon. Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Shelton and Con of Mocksville were Sunday night supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Shelton.

Grover Elmore and Clarence Elmore, and Jack Trivetter attended the Automobile races at Charlotte Sunday.

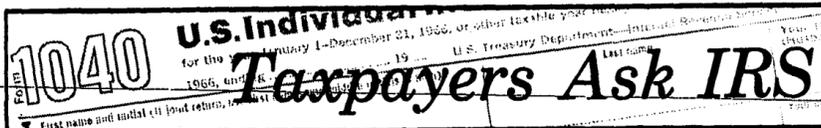

Mrs. Nannie Burgess is still a patient at Davie County Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Lowery of Mooresville, Mrs. Byrd Peete, Mrs. Kathleen Cranfill, Retta Cranfill and Nancy Seaford visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Baitly Lowery and Lee Lowery, Sunday.

This community extends sympathy to Mrs. Helen Ratledge in the death of her grandfather last week, Joseph Chaffin.

"Mommy's at school", little Kathy Short told photographer Jim Barringer last week, "and Daddy's out selling AGRICO products. I'm picking some flowers for the house so it will look real pretty when they get home," she concluded. This might have been the conversation of the 2 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Short, Crestview Drive, Mocksville that is pictured here. Whatever was said we feel that all will agree that whatever this little "doll" does will be all right with anyone.

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q - I want to make a contribution to my political party. Can I deduct it on my tax return?

A - No, the law does not allow an individual to take a deduction for contributions to political parties.

Q - I made a profit when I sold my house. Is it true I won't have to pay tax on it if I use the money to buy another house?

A - On the sale of a personal residence, the tax on any gain from the sale is postponed providing you purchase and occupy another home within a year at a price equal to or greater than the "adjusted" sale price of your old home. This section of the law is discussed at length in IRS Document 5017, Selling Your Home. Send a post card to free copy.

Q - I'm buying U. S. savings bonds to help pay for my son's education. How should I go about this so I don't have to pay tax on the interest?

A - The interest earned on a savings bond should be reported by the owner of the bond. If you purchase the bonds in your child's name as owner then any tax liability will be his. Unless the interest earned on the bonds and his other income amounts to $600 or more, no return need be filed by him.

If you have your child elect to report the bond interest each year rather than wait until the year they are cashed in, then your child should file a return showing this bond interest the first year you start the plan. No further return will be required until the child has $600 or more income a year. Keep a copy of this first return to show that the interest has been reported on a yearly basis.

This transaction is a gift to your son. If you give more than $3000 to him during the year, you may be liable

The library is fortunate in being able to present Dr. Slate as speaker on this timely subject.

Have you seen the display on drug addiction, "One-Way Ticket to Hell", currently being shown in the Main Library?

Watch for the special table of books on Christmas Crafts which has been arranged for your convenience in the Main Library. HAROLD M. ODOM
 DEMOCRAT COUNTY COMMISSIONER
 Willing to Serve the People of Davie County

GRIER COTTON COMPANY
 Cotton Merchants
 POST OFFICE BOX 427
 STATESVILLE, NORTH CAROLINA 28677
 TELEPHONE: Area Code 704 873-3251

To the Folks of Davie County:

As you know, J. P. Huskins is now a candidate for a seat in the North Carolina legislature, representing Iredell and Davie counties.

J. P. Huskins is one of our outstanding citizens; he has done more than any one I know for the promotion and development of this area.

He has served as president of the Chamber of Commerce and, during his term as president, he used much of his time and energy in promoting this community.

He has been chairman of the trustees of Mitchell college. Since 1955, when the Mitchell College foundation secured Mitchell college and made it a community college, Jay has worked constantly for this institution and his influence and untiring efforts have done much to make this college an educational institution in which our whole area takes pride.

He has consistently promoted our local museum. In 1960 he was voted Statesville's outstanding citizen.

We who know him well know that when Jay Huskins goes to Raleigh as our representative he will wear no man's collar; the only thing that he will consider is the welfare of the people in Iredell and Davie and the interest of North Carolina.

For the past 20 years or more, J. P. Huskins has boosted everything that would promote the welfare of this area. Through his sense of propriety, he is not inclined to toot his own horn. Therefore, we folks in Iredell and Davie (whether Democrat or Republican) owe it to Jay to go out and see that he is sent down to Raleigh.

R. D. Grier

BIRTHDAY PARTY FOODS.....

Birthday parties today are far more elaborate than when I grew up, but the ultimate enjoyment of a birthday party still is food. Ice cream and cake are without a doubt still the leaders.

But before I get around to talking about how you can vary the birthday party menu, it is interesting to note the variety of things people do nowadays to give the party extra interest.

A birthday party today has come to resemble, in many respects, the field trip one expects in school. A trip to the zoo, a ball game, an ice skating party, a swimming gala, a picnic, a theatre party, tobogganing in the wintertime or a visit to one of the many amusement parks—all these kinds of things may be involved in a birthday party whether the celebrant and guests are city or suburban dwellers.

This doesn't rule out yard games, or indoor games if enough space is available, or as we used to be able to do, hire a pony for pony rides around the back yard. But the biggest trend is the field trip type of party, with other mothers helping you handle the youngsters safely and effectively, if necessary.

Ultimately, though, you get back home and the refreshments are the climax of the affair. Well, you're going to want to plan it so that things are pretty well prepared before you go out, and fast-to-fix when you get back.

Obviously you can have all the utensils, paper plates, cups, balloons and so forth set up in advance. With plastic spoons and forks the whole business is disposable, eliminating vast clean up afterwards.

As for food, besides ice cream and cake with candles, you should try to give the children foods that will contribute to their daily nutrition needs and at the same time be fun.

This is the only way to beat the rap of otherwise risking the spoiling of appetites for regular meals but only feeding the kids "junk". It won't matter if appetites are thrown off a bit or dinner consumption cut down somewhat if the children have already had some of the food their mothers would have wanted them to have for dinner.

So this brings up the four food groups. Consider the fun your guests can have with bite-size fresh fruits in season. Set out in bowls for the children to help themselves, grapes, strawberries, cut-up watermelon, canteloup, apples, pears, peaches, plums will be a hit. And for vegetables, remember carrot, celery, and cucumber sticks and sliced tomatoes.

If you want to get into a meat course, hamburgers and cheeseburgers with piping hot buns are always a favorite. Smaller bites suggest cubes of cheese, little cocktail sausages, or small chunks of beef, the latter perhaps cooked over a hibachi. With milk as the beverage, all this can be very festive and at the same time excellent nutrition.

Pvt. William Tatum In Infantry Training

Army Private William N. Tatum, 19, son of Mrs. Lucy J. Tatum, Rt. 5, Mocksville, completed nine weeks of advanced infantry training Oct. 4 at Ft. Polk, La. His last week of training was spent in guerrilla warfare exercises.

During his guerrilla training, he lived under simulated Vietnam conditions for five days, fighting off night attacks and conducting raids on "enemy" villages. He was taught methods of removing booby traps, setting ambushes and avoiding enemy ambushes.

Pvt. Robert A. Ellis With U. S. Marines

Marine Private Robert A. Ellis, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther G. Ellis of Route 1, Advance, N. C., was graduated from eight weeks of recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot at Great Lakes, Ill.

He will now undergo from two to four weeks of individual combat training and then, after a leave at home, will report to his first Marine Corps assignment.

The intensified Marine recruit training emphasizes rigid physical conditioning and survival techniques, both at sea and ashore, to develop self-confidence and endurance. Marksmanship with the M-14 rifle and 45-caliber pistol are equally stressed, and close order drill instills the traditions of Marine Corps teamwork.

A thorough study of basic military subjects, hygiene, first aid and sanitation, and the customs, courtesies, history and mission of the Marine Corps serve to polish the new Marine's recruit education and prepare him to join the Marine combat forces.

"Devil's Copper"

Nickel was named by the miners of Saxony in 1654, when they were unable to smelt copper ores that — unknown to them — contained nickel. They thought the devil had cursed their ore so they called the tough metal "kupfer-nickel" or "Old Nick's copper."

Mrs. Mary Carter Studies Insurance

Mrs. Mary B. Carter, Rt. 5, local representative for Mutual of Omaha and United of Omaha, has recently completed the comprehensive insurance course offered at the National Sales Training School session in Miami.

The school was held at the Firm's Regional Home Office. It is the first step of a formal educational program established by Mutual of Omaha to provide its representatives with the advantages of professional training methods.

Mrs. Carter was chosen for the National Sales Training School through a selection interview analysis. On the average, only one out of eight applicants is able to pass the rigid entrance requirements.

Mrs. Carter is associated with the George Richardson Agency in Winston-Salem.

Leading Consumer

The United States was the world's largest consumer of nickel in 1967, using an estimated 352 million pounds. Total free world consumption during the year was estimated at 825 million pounds.

RESERVE CHAMPION BULL honors in the SHORTHORN division of the Beef Cattle show at the 101st N. C. State Fair in Raleigh on Tuesday, October 15, went to BEAR CREEK SHORTHORN FARM of DAVIE COUNTY. Exhibiting winner is ARCHIE MASENCUP.

Jayvees Down N. Iredell

By: Steve Blackwelder

The Davie JV's rode the passing arm of quarterback Craig Ward for a 26-13 victory over North Iredell.

Early in the first period Ward tossed a ten yard pass to halfback Danny Correll for the touchdown. The point after the touchdown failed.

In the closing minutes of the first period, Ward again passed for a touchdown. This time Bob Koontz was the receiver of the pass which covered 14 yards. Terry Cook added the extra point.

Midway through the second quarter halfback Terry Cook took a handoff from Ward and galloped 40 yards for a touchdown. Cook's try for the extra point failed.

A few moments later, North Iredell got their first sustained offensive drive. Fullback Boyd Campbell led the drive to the Rebel one yard line. There North Iredell's quarterback Perry Campbell plunged from one yard out for the touchdown. The kick after the touchdown was no good.

The first half ended with Koontz scoring again, this time on a 32 yard pass from Ward. Cook added the extra point leaving the score 26-6 at halftime.

The third and fourth quarters were tight defensive battles with North Iredell managing to score only once. Perry Campbell dashed from the five yard line adding six points to the scoreboard. Boyd Campbell added the extra point.

The Rebs had 5 first downs, 82 yards rushing, 64 yards passing, and 70 yards of penalties.

North had 11 first downs, 148 yards rushing, 20 yards passing and 65 yards in penalties.

DC-Correll: 10 yard pass from Ward (kick failed)
DC-Koontz: 14 yard pass from Ward (Cook kick)

Sam Ervin

The system is well recognized as a part of getting enough money to remedy particular problems, and in many instances the Federal Government can help a great deal, but one often wonders if we are creating a system of subsidies that is stifling initiative in the process of having to run to Washington with almost every problem under the sun. There are side effects in this outlay of funds. Federal spending is at such a high level and forms such a portion of the cash flow in the country that the consumer and the taxpayer are aware of both inflation and the fact that there are no "free" Federal monies. The applicants for these programs soon learn that the distribution process is not at all even.

One of the aspects of centralization of power in Washington has developed into a constant irritating force in the public schools of the country. For many years, the Federal Government gave out funds with no effort to dictate local school policies. All that has shifted now. Indeed one often wonders if Federal policies have not lost sight of the prime objective of the schools which is to educate the pupil. Children are bused miles beyond their neighborhood school to satisfy the social whims of some planner in the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. Years ago students had to walk to school. Now they often have to ride beyond the bounds of reason.

We are confronted today by a national fear of crime. Paradoxically, in spite of our great peril from crime rates which rise by the month, we are greatly divided as to how to cope with it. In my judgment, we will not make much progress in our efforts to control crime until we recognize that the certainty of punishment is the greatest deterrent of criminal acts.

We have prided ourselves on the responsiveness of government to the people, and these are some of the matters that are foremost on the hearts of those who move the country in new directions.

Much of the dissonance abroad in our country can be traced to the war in Vietnam, centralization of governmental power in Washington, and the failure of our society to be effectively control crime. These are the major forces shaping the lives of all of us, and how the Nation deals with them is of immense importance.

Almost everyone wants the war in Vietnam to be concluded, but it is apparent that there are many shades of opinion as to just how this can be accomplished. This is the foremost issue confronting the country, but it is certainly not the only one troubling us.

There is widespread concern about the effort underway to make the American people conform to certain goals designed by Federal planners. These planners are convinced that with an open Federal checkbook and enough bureaucrats sitting on the banks of the Potomac, they can remake America according to their blueprints. Fortunately for the country, "Potomac fever" subsides once one leaves Washington. We find that people still have their own opinions about how they should live. Anyone who has come to Washington to try to obtain some of the "free" Federal money soon learns that there are a lot of strings tied to these outlays, and problems that once could be ironed out in a matter of minutes over a cup of coffee in the country seat can take months and years when they are brought to the massive complex of cement and granite buildings here.

Outdoor School Laboratories

School openings recently called attention to "outdoor" laboratories.

The idea of having a living laboratory on school grounds for the benefit of all students was commended by Charles W. Bartlett, State Conservationist, USDA Soil Conservation Service, with headquarters in Raleigh.

"Teaching and learning can take place effectively on occasional days away from the enclosure of the classroom," Bartlett said. The parking lot beside the school, practice football field, oval track and a clump of bushes will provide worthwhile experiences. Natural amphitheaters, grouping of trees in semi-circle fashion, stream or pond-side benches, and other semi-defined areas can provide natural and effective learning "rooms."

Teachers in the natural sciences, social science, art and mathematics as well as civic groups and clubs will utilize the outdoor laboratory for instruction and pleasure.

Students can observe the effects of plants and animals on each other in these outdoor laboratories. They can observe growing plants and develop an appreciation of a natural environment. The larger school grounds can be developed to include nature or conservation trails, wildlife areas, ponds, and woodland management areas. "School boards can obtain through their local soil and water conservation districts free technical help from the Soil Conservation Service in planning and developing an outdoor laboratory," Mr. Bartlett said.

312th Unit Is Cited As Outstanding

The 312th Medical of the Army Reserves, now serving in Vietnam, has been termed as an outstanding unit. This unit, which was called to active duty last April, includes approximately twenty from Davie County.

A letter written by Thomas J. Thorne, Brigadier General Commanding U. S. Army Reserves, recently appeared in the Winston-Salem Journal and read as follows:

An Outstanding Unit

On April of this year, the 312th Medical Unit of the Army Reserves headquartered at Winston-Salem, was called to active duty. The unit is now serving at the 2nd Surgical Hospital, Republic of Vietnam. Prior to the call-up, the 312th was assigned to the 120th US Army Reserve Command.

I would like to share with you readers a letter that I received from the commanding officer of that unit, Lt. Col. Eaton R. Caldwell, Jr., of Statesville, N. C.

"Our advance party, including myself, three other officers, and four NCOs arrived here 5 September 1968. Our main body arrived in three increments of 75, 74, and 74 men in late September. "It was quite difficult here with all the flap at home about the Reserves not coming, etc. We weren't treated exactly like welcome new tenants. However, to the surprise and dismay of the Regular Army units to which we were assigned, our people did arrive without any problems. I am somewhat resigned to the fact that we would have to lose a few people. Every officer and enlisted man immediately went to work 12-hour shifts, seven days per week and by now the 2nd Surgical Hospital personnel know we are here to do our job as well if not better than any Regular Army outfit! What we may have lacked in combat skill, these men more than made up for in enthusiasm and devotion to duty.

"On Oct. 1, we had 200 beds operational. On Oct. 20, we will have 300 and soon after will have 400.

"General, you would be proud of every man in this unit. "It seems relatively safe here, no fits of fright, etc., despite two mortar-rocket attacks. "The disident Reserves who yelled so loud at home didn't make it easy for our men to come without protest or incident. But, to a man, they are doing their job in an outstanding manner and we hope to finish this tour with a record "second to none."

ROWAN-DAVIE CAP UNITS ARE MERGED

Merging of two squadrons of Civil Air Patrol took place last week at the Rowan County Squadron CAP headquarters on Woodleaf Road.

Merging of two squadrons of the Civil Air Patrol was the highlight of the weekly meeting Tuesday night at Rowan County Squadron CAP headquarters on Woodleaf Rd.

The Mocksville Squadron, comprised mainly of the pilots in Davie and Rowan counties, and the Rowan County Composite Squadron, made up of professional senior members and 20 active cadets, were united under charter 32002.

The new squadron will be called Mocksville-Rowan Composite Squadron and will carry the Rowan County original charter 32002, which is the oldest charter in North Carolina.

The Mocksville-Rowan Squadron has two planes, A T-34 and an L-17, maintained and kept in readiness at the Salisbury Airport. Capt. Roy West, of Lexington, group one commander, stated "With the uniting of these two squadrons, we have the largest and will have the best group in the state of North Carolina and will continue working until we have the best group in the United States."

The new squadron commander is Major Harvey Beck of Mocksville, who was commander of the Mocksville Squadron. He has been in the Civil Air Patrol for approximately 15 years.

Capt. James P. Williams of Salisbury is the new deputy commander of cadets and has been in the CAP for three years. Last year he served as commander of the Rowan squadron and had had four years experience in the U. S. Air Force of which the CAP is an auxiliary. He is in charge of the cadet recruiting and training program.

Capt. Williams plans to visit several local high schools in an attempt to emphasize the importance CAP training can offer young people. This cadet program is open to those between the ages of 13 and 18.

It is requested that parents, wives, brothers, sisters etc. send us on a postal card the name and address of their serviceman in Vietnam. We will compile these and publish a directory of Davie County men in Vietnam in the very near future.

Please use postal cards to send us these names and addresses. Do not telephone as we will be unable to accept this information via telephone.

Citizens of Davie County will join others throughout the nation when they go to the polls next Tuesday to vote in the general election.

All Davie voters will be given five ballots with some, depending on the precinct, having as many as 6 or 7 to vote.

The official ballots are pictured elsewhere in this issue to familiarize voters with the ballots and candidates.

Polls will be open from 6:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. in what many think will be the largest voter turnout in years.

Ballots to be voted in Davie County will include:

PRESIDENTIAL

Humphrey and Muskie; Nixon and Agnew; Wallace and Griffin. (Griffin appears on all North Carolina ballots because General Curtis Lemay was not selected as Wallace's running-mate until after the deadline for the ballots had passed.)

Governor: Robert W. Scott and James Gardner. Lt. Governor: H. Pat Taylor; Don Garren. Secretary of State: Thad Eure; John P. East.

Man Killed By Shotgun

Claude Calvin Ijames, 26, of the Boeotown community, was shot and killed Friday night after an argument at the home of another man.

Clement Howell, 64, also of the Boeotown community, was charged with murder.

The Davie County sheriff's department said the shooting occurred while Ijames and Howell were fighting at Howell's home. They said Ijames ran from the house into the yard and was shot with a 16-gauge shotgun.

Ijames was born in Davie County to Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt Ijames. He worked for the Hanes Corporation and was a member of the Mainsville A.M.E. Zion Church.

MEN'S BREAKFAST AT UNION CHAPEL

The men of Union Chapel Methodist Church will have their monthly breakfast on Sunday, November 3, at 7:30 a.m. in the Fellowship Hall.

All men of the church are urged to be present.

Please Delay Calling!

We are asking the cooperation of the public in not calling in to this office to find out the election returns next Tuesday until after 11 p.m.

There will be five ballots to vote and an anticipated record turnout of voters will make the counting process a slow one. We are tied in with a state and national network to report the presidential, congressional and state races.

Precinct officials are being given the order to count the presidential ballot first and report; then the state and congressional ballots. Inasmuch as the local ballot will be one of the last to be counted, it is not expected that results of the local ticket will be available until eleven or after.

On election night we are usually deluged with telephone calls wishing to find out the election results. These calls tie up the lines and make difficult for precinct officials to call in the results.

We are happy to provide what information we can, but we cannot provide it until we obtain it and we cannot obtain it unless we have some free telephone lines.

Davie's vote will be reported on television and radio just as soon as we can get the information. We ask the cooperation of the public in delaying the phone calls until after 11 p.m. to give us this chance.

You don't have to be rich.

When Bob Scott becomes Governor, all you'll need to reach him is a 6¢ stamp. Or a telephone call. Or just knock on the door and walk in.

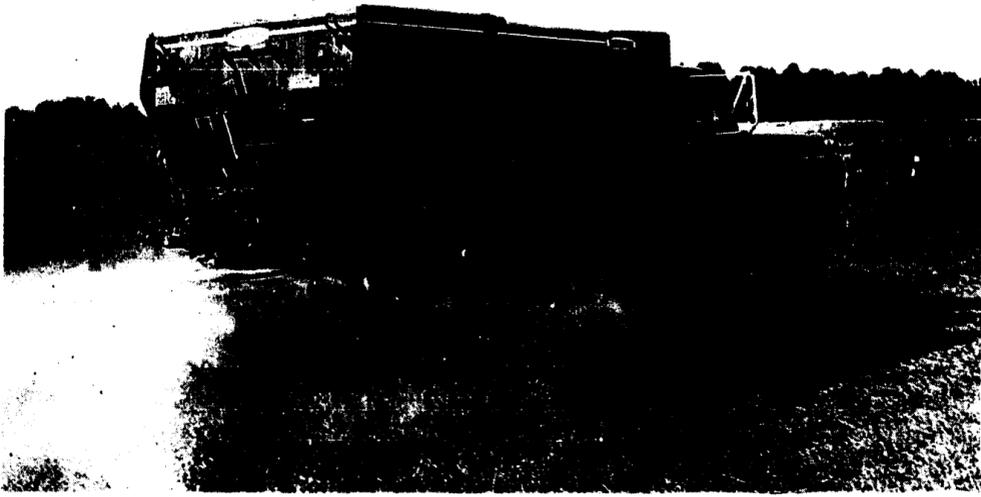

His door will be open. To everybody. Anybody. No matter who you are, what you do, where you come from, or what you have in mind, Bob Scott will be your Governor and available.

His opponent, Jim Gardner, started a "Fat Cat Club." Contribute a thousand dollars and you get special stationery and a direct pipeline to the Governor's office—special access to the Governor.

With Bob Scott it's different. He's for the people, not special interests. You can reach him. Use a 6¢ stamp. Call him on the telephone. Or just knock and walk in. Bob Scott's door will be open—Full Time.

Vote for a better North Carolina. Elect Bob Scott your Governor.

Lime spreader trucks are aiding in the LIME CAMPAIGN being conducted by County Agricultural leaders. Trucks can apply lime much faster and easier now than in the spring, because of the weather and the spring rush. County Agents report that our soils are naturally acid, and by properly liming the Davie agricultural income would be increased on-half million dollars.

Lime early! This is the advice given farmers that have not limed fields in the past three years. The reason for this suggestion is that most all of our crops grown in Davie County have high lime requirements. Pasture, soybeans, hay, small grain, corn, tobacco, and even our lawns need liming at least every 3 - 5 years.

How much lime should be used? Only a soil test can give this answer. However, most soils need about two tons every 3 - 5 years. Farmers and home owners can get soil testing supplies from all Agricultural Agencies and lime and fertilizer dealers. This is a free service offered by the North Carolina Department of Agriculture.

B. G. Westbrook, Agricultural Agent, says "that the soybeans acreage has been increasing each year. Yields and profits have been reduced because of the need for lime." He advises people to soil test now and plan to lime before Christmas for good crop yields next year.

Parole System Is Explained

The North Carolina parole system was explained to members of the Mocksville Rotary Club on Tuesday.

Marvin Wooten, chairman of the North Carolina Board of Paroles, told the Rotarians that the objective of the parole board was to make the state a better place in which to live and at the same time "light a candle of hope for those convicted."

"We believe that it is in the best interest of society to return an individual under supervision to a productive life by showing faith and interest, rather than to have an embittered individual following the completion of a sentence", said Mr. Wooten.

Mr. Wooten assured the Rotarians that no one was paroled without a thorough and complete investigation. He said that three out of 4 persons paroled, successfully completed their parole stipulations.

Mr. Wooten revealed that his board considered over 7,000 cases last year; 4,000 cases were investigated; and 1900 paroled.

Peter W. Hairston had charge of the program. Phillip Head of Lexington, with the State Department of Paroles, introduced Mr. Wooten. Chester Blackwelder presided in the absence of O. K. Pope.

Special guests included Don Pennington of Statesville; Rufus Brock of Mocksville, and Nelson Tutterow, student guest.

Tony Lyerly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Lyerly of South Main Street, Mocksville, has recently assumed duties as business manager of Creek Peebles, campus newspaper of Campbell College. He was formerly copy editor for the paper.

A New Bob Scott

Bob Scott made an unexpected appearance in Hamlet Monday.

He arrived in town at 4:36 in the morning, calling on Mr. and Mrs. Lois Chavis.

And, even though he showed at such an early hour, no one seemed to mind. His appearance even assured the Democratic Party of another faithful supporter.

That's because the Bob Scott we're talking about is Bob Scott Chavis, a healthy, 7-pound, 2-ounce lad born to Mr. and Mrs. Chavis of Hamlet.

Democratic Senatorial nominee Dr. Bill James escorted the youngster into the party ranks, and predicted a great future for him.

Young Bob's namesake, the Democratic gubernatorial nominee, immediately wired his congratulations and thanks to the Chavis family.

At last report, the state's newest Democrat, Bob Scott Chavis, was doing fine. The blue-eyed blond was making noises, which some partisan nurses interpreted as, "Vote for Bob Scott."

Symphony Drive Enters Last Week

The membership drive of the Davie County Chapter of the North Carolina Symphony Society enters its final week today. Drive Co-Chairmen, Hugh Larow and George Martin state that the drive is going well and that they hope it will be completed within a few days.

The Chapter is seeking to raise $1,650, to support two appearances of the North Carolina Little Symphony in Mocksville next spring.

Chapter president, Dr. Henry Sprinkle, urges area residents to give their support to this effort to bring North Carolina's professional orchestra to Davie County in 1969.

Membership prices are as follows: $5.00 for a single; $8.00 for a joint; $1.00 for a student (to attend evening concerts); $25 to $99 for a donor; and $100 and above for a patron.

In March the full North Carolina Symphony Orchestra divides to form two Little Symphony units. Known as the Little Symphonies East and West, these 25-member units tour until May, one in eastern North Carolina and the other in the western part of the state.

Local officers emphasized that memberships support both the children's concert and the evening performance for adults. They also pointed out that a membership will admit the bearer to all of the evening concerts throughout the state sponsored by the North Carolina Symphony Society.

Last year there were 38 such evening concerts given. Complete tour schedules will be sent to each subscriber prior to the 1968-69 season, which will begin in November.

Anyone wishing further information about the membership drive should contact Hugh Larow at 634-2362.

Mrs. Rocky Johnson's 1st grade pupils made their own Halloween masks this year! In case you are wondering just what they are made of - here is an explanation. Paper plates were used for a base, then black construction paper added, and, if you look closely . . . the hair on those faces is strips of old newspapers. Just above the witch face in the center is the word "BOO" in bright orange crepe paper. Should you see any of these tonight at your house when the "Goblins" come to call . . . you will know who made these attractive items.

Camel Caravan Enjoys Forest Lake

The Camel Caravan met the Facile Folk Deal on October 26, at Forest Lake Family Camp and was conquered.

The Camel Caravan Trailer Club is a group of 41 families from Winston-Salem and nearby towns. Each month when the weather permits they go for the week end to a family camp that can accommodate their Airstreams and other large trailers, with about half of the members present at the monthly rallies. When Mr. John A. Helderman of Winston-Salem, Camel Caravan Wagonmaster, who had previously inspected Forest Lake, confirmed the reservation, he repeated the club's request for music on Saturday evening. The Facile Folk Deal, a folk singing group composed of Misses Katie Glascock, Elizabeth Hall, Patricia Hendrix, and Pam Leary of Mocksville, was asked to provide the program.

The four young ladies began singing together a year and a half ago as the Twenty-four Strings and a Song, and changed the group name to the Facile Folk Deal about a year ago. In the time they have been singing together they have performed for various civic clubs in Davie County, political rallies, conventions, church organizations, and language festivals, and have been in several talent shows. This was their first occasion to entertain a group of family campers. It may be the only time they will be scheduled to follow a Jack O' Lantern pumpkin cutting contest on any program.

The Camel Caravan began arriving at Forest Lake Camp on the Coolemeem Plantation with a lone Airstream as the vanguard on Thursday evening. By Friday evening, most of the trailers had arrived with the remainder and their guests on hand by dark on Saturday evening. The Caravan campers had chosen to park all together on the "daisy" area of the camp which was designed for large trailers. Several of the trailers flew the American and North Carolina flags from masts at the front; one had wind chimes tinkling in the strong breezes of the weekend; and another was ready for the season with a picture of a Halloween pumpkin in the window.

Saturday evening the Camel Caravanners, along with other campers, gathered in the Recreation Barn of the camp for a Jack O' Lantern contest. Nine pumpkins had been distributed and teams formed to cut and decorate them. The entries ran the gamut from a conventional Halloween face to pumpkin heads that smoked live cigarettes, wore dark sunglasses and chiffon scarves, golfer's caps, or displayed other decorations. The imagination displayed and excellence of workmanship made selection difficult but the Judge, Mr. Otto Feistmann, well known art collector from Asheville, finally made his decision before the entries were overcome by their own smoke and fireworks and awarded the first prize, a collection of laquered gourds, to Mr. and Mrs. John A. Helderman of Winston-Salem. The prizewinner wore a hat decorated with a red bird and had hair of green leaves with tiny birds tucked into the greenery.

The Facile Folk Deal performance was the main event of the evening with the singers accompanying themselves on their guitars through a repertory of folk songs. They were so well received that, having rushed in from Chapel Hill and postponed their supper in order not to disappoint the campers, there was danger that the enthusiasm of the audience would result in acute hunger for the performers. Misses Glascock, Hall, Hendrix and Leary made fast friends for Davie County of all who heard them. Caravan officials commented that the girls had provided one of the most pleasant entertainments that had ever been offered the club.

Sunday, The Camel Caravan was left in charge of Peter W. Hairston, Jr., Forest Lake Manager, and Miss Hope Hall, of Mocksville, the receptionist and camp attendant on Sunday afternoons. Miss Hall and Mr. Hairston organized and participated in all types of games and sports and received repeated assurances that Davie County would see the Camel Caravan again.

With Lake Myers Campground and the new Forest Lake Family Camp, Davie County is becoming one of the leading counties in the State, outside the mountain and seashore areas, in the facilities offered family campers for overnight accommodations while traveling and destination-point camping resorts.

To The People Of Davie County

We have stated time and again that a Representative should keep in close touch with the people of the district so he could honestly represent their views in the General Assembly. We have done our best to do this, and if re-elected to the State House, we will continue to represent all the people fairly and honestly.

This is a contrast to the views of our former Senator, Jimmy V. Johnson, who stood in the Davie County Court House at a public hearing concerning the election of school boards in 1965, and told the people of Davie County that although 90% of the people wanted to elect the school board, he was going to kill the bill. This same Jimmy Johnson is chairman of the Democrat party of North Carolina, and is asking his "friends" to vote for our opponents.

We were able to return to the people of Davie County their right to elect their school board.

We want to continue to represent the feelings of the majority of you people.

HUMPHREY NEEDS BAGLEY

But YOU Need

"VINEGAR BEND" MIZELL

That's right . . . Hubert Humphrey needs Smith Bagley. Hubert knows he can depend on Bagley to support the Great Society and its free spending programs.

AND . . . BAGLEY HAS STATED POINT BLANK THAT HE IS SUPPORTING HUBERT HUMPHREY.

Smith Bagley voted for LBJ at the Democratic National Convention in 1964. He pledged his support to Hubert Humphrey in 1968. Those two actions alone tell you a great deal about the kind of Congressman Bagley would be . . . HE WOULD BE A RUBBER STAMP FOR THE GREAT SOCIETY.

Sending Smith Bagley to Washington to watch over your tax dollars would be very much like sending a goat to guard a cabbage patch.

Wilmer "Vinegar Bend" Mizell, on the other hand, is a solid and a proven Conservative. His record in public office proves it.

As Chairman of the Davidson County Commissioners, Mizell instituted numerous new services to the people - including the state's first county operated ambulance service. YET THE TAX RATE WAS NOT INCREASED BY ONE RED CENT.

Mizell believes your tax dollars should be spent with the same respect with which you earned them. He resents reckless government spending as much as you do.

Be sure to cast your vote for a proven Conservative. Vote for "Vinegar Bend" Mizell for U. S. Congress.

CONGRESSIONAL RACES... It now looks as if the GOP—with all the Republican swinging—may pick up a net of one seat in North Carolina.

In the Third District, David N. Henderson is expected to win. Thus no changes there.

Due to his nitty-gritty, night and day work—plus a goodly amount of money—Nick Galifianakis of Durham will probably win. As in the case of Henderson, there will be no run-away Democratic victory in the Fourth.

The fact that Nick is already in, helps alot. This may make the difference in the Third and Fourth Districts.

Good Democrat Voit Gilmore, due largely to sheer hard work and an unusual type of campaigning, should take out a win the Eighth District. It won't be easy. The Democrats in Rowan got their come-uppance two years ago; and should be more on guard this time. This is the county to watch in this particular race.

The steady word leaking to Raleigh from Greensboro—where both candidates live—is that William Osteen, Republican, will defeat Richardson Preyer. This is a hard one to guess... in the revamped Sixth District.

Now up in the Fifth, Forsyth County is the key. If it can carry the load, then the Democrats might take it. Smith Bagley has been going after it hot and heavy. However, this might be close enough so that any kind of Republican sweep might be sufficient for a GOP victory...and that is the way it is seen from here.

Despite what you may have read or heard, consensus around Raleigh is that James Broyhill will defeat Democrat Basil L. Whitener in the all-mixed-up Tenth District. Either way, the State will lose a good man.

Roy Taylor will win in the Eleventh—despite the narrow squeak of two years ago...when Buncombe County, like Rowan, went wildly Republican.

Then, if things go as calculated, the Democrats will have the following districts: One, Two, Three, Four, Seven, Eight, and Eleven. The GOP will have Five, Six, Nine, and Ten. But, again, a few votes shift in two or three of the districts could change the entire picture.

THIRD PARTY?...This State of North Carolina, unlike most of its sisters in the South, has never gone running off after a third party. It might do so this time...with Richard Nixon running a strong second.

Although the Democrats have the machinery—and have been shaking the bushes a little for Hubert Humphrey lately—it is difficult to see him anywhere but third. But Negro strength, which is supposed to get the word from Dr. Reginald Hawkins this weekend, could change the picture.

AND TOBACCO...Back in 1952, shortly after Dwight D. Eisenhower was elected President, there was some fear expressed around North Carolina that he might not understand or be sympathetic with tobacco controls. Worry!

After all, he was the first Republican to become President after acreage controls. There was alot of visiting, telephoning, arm-twisting, pressuring. Much of this was done by Harold Cooley. Sooo, the control program went right along under the GOP President just as it had under Presidents Roosevelt and Truman. No trouble at all.

But then came the great society. And, almost from the day of its birth, tobacco—not alcoholic beverages—has been one of its targets.

Well, it has finally paid off. It was announced last week that daily cigarette purchases in the first half of 1968 were down by two million packs from the same period in 1967. A drop of two million packs per day from a year earlier!

Radio and television stations—with urging from their master, the Federal Communications Commission—point to the dangers of smoking.

And North Carolina grows 68 per cent of all cigarette (flue-cured) tobacco. Thus nobody will be able to measure the great economic loss that has come to this State through the attacks from Washington on tobacco. No wonder that Lt. Gov. Bob Scott frowns on the LBJ-HHH Democracy!

THE BIGGEST...The Republicans could hardly have come up with a bigger fish than the one they pulled in here last week. His name? None other than Col. William T. Joyner, the only man living who on two separate occasions has been the keynote speaker at the State Democratic Convention.

He is all-out for Richard Nixon. Said he in making the announcement: "Never before in my lifetime have I seen a situation which posed such deadly danger to our nation...danger of internal collapse."

This comes from a man who has served as chairman of the State Highway Commission, as chairman of the State Board of Elections; and is the son-in-law of the late Gov. W. W. Kitchin...and said to be "hot" for Scott.

Col. Joyner's father was Dr. J. Y. Joyner, one of the founders of our State educational system and former State Superintendent of Public Instruction. If memory faileth not, Col. Joyner is also the brother-in-law of the late L. P. McLendon of Greensboro.

Needless to say, there was much eyebrow-lifting when the Joyner endorsement was made... and that good Democratic newspaper, the News & Observer, all but ran it edged in black. It was carried on the page with the death notices.

Letter To Editor

Dear Sirs:
 Please send me another copy of Enterprise of October 24, 1968. I chanced to be included in the "Old Picture" of the old Bethlehem School, back in 1918. During the First World War I was living at Farmington and was Methodist pastor of Farmington Circuit. About the close of that war, teachers of the schools got scarce. County Superintendent, (I believe his name was Bradley), asked me to help out as a substitute teacher. I taught at Bethlehem one year and at Farmington one year. I once had that picture but somehow lost it in moving around.

I am enclosing check for my RENEWAL to the Enterprise. By the way, I expect that I am one of the "older" subscribers to your paper.

One other word about this group: They were excellent children—some of the boys almost as large as I was, —like Grady Bowden and Oscar Riddle. My associate teacher, Mrs. Effie Smith, yet living at Redland, was one of the nicest persons I was ever privileged to work with. I could not get gotten along without her help, because she was an experienced teacher and I was not.

I wish you well in your work in the newspaper business.

Fraternally yours,
 J. W. Vestal

New safeguards for the rights of servicemen who are tried before military courts-martial were enacted into law during the final days of the 90th Congress. On October 24th, the President signed into law an act to modernize the Uniform Code of Military Justice.

The measure incorporates some of the most pressing reforms which I introduced last year following a lengthy study by the Senate Subcommittee on Constitutional Rights. Separate House and Senate bills were introduced on this subject, and in the end, the House-bill carrying my amendments won final approval.

The Act makes the first substantial revision of the 1951 Code of Military Justice. The revision seeks to promote a greater degree of fairness in military trials. It provides remedies for many of the complaints which have come to the attention of Congress in this field over the last decade. One of the Act's key provisions provides the accused with lawyer-counsel at Special Courts-Martial.

The Act recognizes that young men away from home for the first time in their lives are in need of some protections of their basic rights. Oftentimes, servicemen come into their military environment without the mature judgement that would prevent the disciplinary problems that arise. The remedy of the courts-martial, even for lesser offenses, has frequently been to give the offender a bad conduct or dishonorable discharge. The accused goes home with a lasting stigma on his life. To insure that the servicemen receives a fair and impartial trial, the Act provides that he shall have the benefit of legally trained counsel to conduct his defense.

Another important feature of the Act is that it establishes for the first time a military judiciary which is independent of much of the old "command influence" at courts-martial proceedings. Formerly, law officers received their efficiency ratings from their immediate commanders, and charges have been made that this practice exerted unfair "command influence" at trial proceedings. Under the new provisions, these law officers will be rated for their efficiency by the Judge Advocate General. The measure also seeks to preclude military commanders from giving members of courts-martial derogatory ratings based solely upon their judgments rendered at military trials.

In addition to these safeguards, the Act seeks to expedite courts-martial procedures where the ends of justice do not suffer. Under the new Act, the accused can now ask for a trial by the military judge alone. The single judge court has great potential for manpower savings. This election on the part of the defendant is already a procedure afforded to civilians in Federal district courts. There are difficulties in military justice. The primary purpose of the military force is to defend the security and independence of our country. The Act seeks to avoid stifling

J. P. HUSKINS

I have known Jay Huskins and Lester Martin, Jr., for many years and it is a pleasure for me to commend both of them to my friends in Iredell and Davie as Democratic candidates for the legislature from the 39th house district.

Jay Huskins's life and work have been an open book since he came to Iredell county 22 years ago and there are no pages that have been hidden from public view.

Although head of a demanding and growing business, he has always found time to lend a hand, either as chief or Indian, in support of individuals and causes concerned with the development of Iredell county as a whole. This is a tradition of service he would continue in the General Assembly of North Carolina.

It was my privilege to serve with Lester Martin in the 1961 session of the legislature. I found him not only alert to the needs of the people back home, but competent to serve them at the state level. He is an outstanding attorney, solicitor of the Mocksville Recorder's court, and is active in civic, church, fraternal and educational affairs, at the local and state level.

Both these men are known across the state. They would receive good committee assignments in a legislature pre-destined to be Democratic; and they will be able to make their voices heard in the uncertain times that lie ahead.

About People

In the absence of the pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church the Sunday morning services were conducted by the Rev. J. A. Hudson. His subject was "Lay Hold on Eternal Life."

Mrs. Helen Dalton and Mrs. Janie Wilkes were hostesses to the meeting of the Ladies' Community Club at the home of their mother, Mrs. Flora Mock, Friday evening, October 25, at 8 p. m. The president, Mrs. Cora Lee Studevent, presided. Following the devotions, the meeting was opened for business. The matter of doing something for the sick and needy in the community was discussed. It was decided that the club prepare a basket for Mrs. Evelyn Campbell who has been confined to her home for several weeks. At the close of the business, refreshments consisting of pimento cheese sandwiches, ham salad sandwiches, Doo Dads, potato chips, mints, nuts, pecan pie and punch were served to eight members. The table was beautifully decorated with the Halloween motif. Bingo was played with Mrs. Eva Mae Campbell being the winner. The meeting adjourned to meet at the home of Mrs. Minnie Campbell, Friday evening, November 22.

SILENT AMERICA TO SPEAK UP?

The outcome of the 1968 presidential election is going to be determined by lower middle class, white Americans, a University of North Carolina political scientist predicts.

The millions of shopkeepers, mechanics, trade union members, policemen, firemen and small farmers who are being called "the forgotten men" in this campaign are going to be heard Nov. 5, says Prof. Earle Wallace, a specialist in American government.

"These are the people who have not been heard in recent years," Prof. Wallace explains. "They feel they have been ignored. Regardless of which party wins the election, any future administration is going to have to listen to these people."

Prof. Wallace does not believe the presidential election will be thrown into the U. S. House of Representatives.

"The race is going to be a close one between Nixon and Humphrey, he thinks. "Neither candidate will get a majority but one of them will be elected. George Wallace's support will fade as the election draws nearer. This has been the case with all third party candidates in history."

The UNC professor points out that George Wallace is now attempting to bind electors to him in the states he expects to carry in the election. The third party candidate wants the electors to agree to let him cast their presidential votes so he can try to bargain with Nixon or Humphrey between the Nov. 5 election and the time the electoral votes are cast.

If George Wallace succeeds in getting enough electoral votes pledged to him in this manner, he and "the forgotten men" he represents could select the next President of the United States.

"Of course George Wallace doesn't really approve of either Nixon or Humphrey," the UNC professor explains, "but if forced to make a choice, his ideology is much closer to that of Nixon's."

Many of "the forgotten men" supporting George Wallace are Democrats who are caught in a financial squeeze which denies them both affluence and welfare," Prof. Wallace observes.

"Public attention has focused on the plight of the slum dwellers the disadvantaged, the denial of rights and privileges of the Negro," he illustrates.

"Civil rights laws, government programs and the general concern of government and foundations have not concerned him except to order him to integrate HIS schools and HIS neighborhoods. George Wallace is speaking the language these people have been longing to hear."

Mayor Daley and his cops might have been "out of tune" with liberals and the young in Chicago, the UNC political scientist says, "but they may well have been "very much in tune" with the majority mood of America."

The UNC professor points out that George Wallace is the strongest third-party presidential candidate to appear on the scene since Teddy Roosevelt.

The former Alabama governor is playing a unique role in the current race. Experts agree his candidacy is probably hurting the Republicans more than the Democrats, yet he may be the man to assure Nixon's election if he manages to get enough electors pledged to him.

"Few believe George Wallace can actually win, but regardless of the outcome he has already had considerable to say about issues in this campaign and he might well have the power to choose our next President," Prof. Wallace explains.

"He has already pushed the law and order issue at the top of the list and it seems certain he will have enough success so that whoever the next president is, there will be significant changes in executive policies affecting such activities as desegregation guidelines and bussing of school children away from neighborhood schools."

Political experts also agree that George Wallace has managed to forge an impressive new coalition of the disaffected, but they are hesitant to speculate on the number of his supporters.

"George's 'folks' come from the silent America and no one knows their number," Prof. Wallace says. "But they are unmistakably there and they are going to speak up Nov. 5."

PIEDMONT CRAFTSMEN FAIR TIME AGAIN

The Piedmont Craftsmen, Inc. will present their fifth annual Crafts Fair November 15 and 16 at Memorial Coliseum in Winston-Salem, North Carolina.

Piedmont Craftsmen is a southeastern regional organization composed of 117 craftsmen and 79 associate and patron members from most of the southeastern states. It is incorporated as a non-profit, educational organization to promote the crafts of this area and to provide the craftsmen with a sales outlet for their works. It also gives the public an opportunity to see and purchase quality handcrafts.

This group has realized amazing growth since its inception five years ago. It was organized in February of 1964 by 11 craftsmen and 3 non-craftsmen. The first Crafts Fair was held in Old Salem in November of 1964 with 25 craftsmen exhibiting in individual and joint booths and 14 in a community booth. By contrast, this Fair will feature 80 craftsmen members showing in 60 booths; and 67 of the craftsmen will actually be manning their own booths. Fifteen of the new craftsmen members will be participating for the first time: Eight of these new faces are teachers from the Famous Penland School.

Traditional and mountain crafts will be shown at the Fair; but the majority of the crafts are contemporary, one-of-a-kind items. Some of the crafts to be exhibited for sale are: pottery, painted tinware, woodworking, stitchery, jewelry, enameling, stuffed toys, batik, weaving, hooking bookbinding, hand blown glass, candles, lapidary, blockprinting and monoprinting, marquetry, basketry, welded sculpture, shuckery and laminated and slumped glass. One of the highlights is a Craftsman's Choice Booth, where each craftsman will show what he considers the finest example of his craft. These collectors' items will be for sale as well as on display. Another popular booth is the Christmas Boutique which features unusual items made by both associate and craftsmen members.

In addition to crafts booths and continuous demonstrations, patrons of the Fair may visit a "Sidewalk Cafe" where they may sit down and have a cup of coffee and piece of cake or pastry (made by some of the finest cooks in the South). Bakegoods may also be purchased to take home.

All of the craftsmen's work has been juried by a Standards Committee, and all work is original as to design and technique. Several members have won national recognition in their field, and many others are well known regionally.

Besides an annual Crafts Fair, Piedmont Craftsmen were invited to design and present a crafts section for The Southern Living Show presented in Charlotte, North Carolina, in March. This show is sponsored by SOUTHERN LIVING MAGAZINE next Spring. Piedmont Craftsmen will have the Crafts Section in The Southern Living Show to be held in Atlanta March 1 through 9.

The Fifth annual Piedmont Craftsmen's Fair promises to be the biggest and most exciting ever staged in the Piedmont. Door prizes made by the various craftsmen will be given away during the hours of the Fair. Hours are 10:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m. on Friday, November 15, and 10:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. on Saturday, November 16.

Cooking Convenience, Too

Double Ovens Are Quick To Clean

What's better than one self-cleaning oven? Two self-cleaning ovens, of course.

The cooking convenience of a double oven range plus electric oven cleaning efficiency is available now in Hotpoint's Hallmark Hi/Low Range.

The lower master oven not only cleans itself automatically, but the shelves and removable porcelain panels (sides, back and bottom) from the upper oven, as well. Merely remove the upper oven panels, place them in the lower oven, and set the easy controls. That's all the effort required to make two dirty ovens clean as brand new.

All types of food soils are removed for approximately 75 per cent cleaning. That's about 1/2 the cost of using conventional oven cleaners, and with none of the work involved.

And, of course, the surface units can be used while the ovens are cleaning.

This beautiful, efficient Hotpoint range also has a built-in, two-level exhaust system. Surface and oven cooking vapors and odors are removed from the kitchen and condensation of grease and moisture on walls and woodwork is reduced, too. The range can be vented from the outside or with a recirculating filter accessory kit, ductless venting is also possible.

Adding an attractive stylishness to every kitchen, the new Hi/Low range's oven doors feature opaque black glass. When the oven light is turned on, however, they become "see-through" allowing you to watch your meal cook. Available in the most sought-after colors, including sunny new "Harvest," this 30-inch Hallmark Range will bring decorator styling and increased cooking enjoyment to any home. But, most important of all, it will free a homemaker from one of her most unpleasant household chores — oven cleaning.

Stylish Hotpoint double-oven range features elegant black glass windows in both doors.

Tractor Trailer and Car In Wreck

An accident occurred Sunday, October 20, at 3:15 p.m. in front of Miller's Diner-Restaurant on the Statesville Road.

Sgt. Lonnie Tutterow of the Mocksville Police Department investigated the accident. His account is as follows:

A 1960 Pontiac being operated by William Nichols, Jr., 43, of Winston-Salem and a 1969 Chrysler being operated by David Asbury Rish, 41, of Lenoir, had stopped for a car to make a left turn into Miller's. A tractor-trailer, being operated by Jerry Luke Owens, 28, of Kannapolis, and owned by Byrd Motor Lines of Lexington, failed to get stopped and hit the Chrysler in rear knocking it into the Pontiac.

Damages were estimated at $100 to the Pontiac, $700 to the Chrysler and $150 to the tractor-trailer.

Post-Aux. At V A Hospital

Five new Auxiliary members were added: Mrs. Catherine Wheeler, Mrs. Blanche Lagle, Mrs. Katherine Hall, Mrs. Thea Brown and Miss Debbie Brown.

Ralph Hall was re-instated to the Post.

Drug Auxiliary Hears State President Talk On Project

Mrs. Donald Chapman, president of North Carolina Drug Auxiliary met on Wednesday, October 16th at the Salisbury Country Club with members of Rowan-Davie Drug Auxiliary to speak on a state-wide drug auxiliary project of preventing poisonings.

Mrs. Chapman urged that each home be a poison control center and said all labels should be on drugs and products with instructions for antidotes if they should be accidentally swallowed.

One of the aims of the auxiliaries of the state will be to place the book, "Clinical Toxicology," in as many areas of the state as possible. The book lists all common household products and their toxicity and antidotes. It is suggested that book be placed in hospitals and nursing homes where someone would assume responsibility to answer questions for antidotes for poisoning 24 hours a day.

Mrs. Robert Hall, president of Rowan-Davie Auxiliary presided. Mrs. Robert Hoyle, program chairman, introduced the state president.

Mrs. John Brown and Mrs. E. R. Fuller were hostesses for the meeting. Mrs. Frank Skinner won the door prize. Mrs. Frances Walters was a visitor. Mrs. Horace Steadman was welcomed as a new member.
