TOWN AND WATERSHED WORK OUT COMPROMISE

The Mocksville Town Board and the Dutchman's Creek Watershed District may have a solution their problem of sharing the same creek bed.

Members of the two boards met together last week and worked at a compromise in which "both gave a little", according to Mayor D. J. Mando of Mocksville.

The watershed trustees agreed to build a dry reservoir in the creek bed instead of the lake-type one they had hoped to build.

And members of the town board agreed to put a cast iron sewer pipe through the creek bed, rather than the less expensive terra cotta pipe they will use elsewhere, so it can be covered with water during the 20 or so days the reservoir will be flooded each year.

The town is planning -- and has $385,000 to finance its plans -- to build a sewage treatment plant and additional sewage lines. About two miles of the proposed lines would follow the bed of Elisha Creek between Milling Road and U. S. 158.

The watershed trustees are planning to use this part of the creek bed as a reservoir for one of nine dams in a proposed $2.2 million flood control project.

C. W. Phillips, chairman of the watershed trustees, told town board members in August

He said, however, that the proposed reservoir is a "No. 3 priority" and is not scheduled for construction until 1970. By then, he said, the property owners should "feel the benefits of the Mocksville sewer system."

that obtaining easements for the property around the reservoir would be almost impossible if the reservoir were not a permanent lake.

The board agreed, at that time, to the lake-type reservoir, but learned later that the tall manholes they would have to build to maintain an underwater sewer line might have to be 30 feet high rather than six or seven feet as they had thought.

Darwin L. Coburn, chief of the water pollution division of the N. C. Department of Water and Air Resources, and Elmer Graham, assistant state conservationist in charge of watersheds, met with members of the two boards Tuesday night.

Coburn told the boards he would try to get an additional $65,000 in federal funds to pay the difference in cost between a cast iron sewer line and a clay one.

Phillips said yesterday that he still feels that easements would be more difficult to obtain without the proposed lake.

Ingersoll-Rand Adds Manufacturing Unit

Ingersoll-Rand Company announced last week that the Mocksville, North Carolina plant will be expanded to include the manufacturing of parts used in portable air compressors now being assembled here.

The announcement was made by D. J. Feaster, General Manager of the Portable Compressor Division, who said, "This action is another step in the divisionalization and growth pattern of the Company."

The Mocksville plant has been assembling portable compressors for the last three years and recently began the assembly of the "air-ends," the heart of the compressors. The parts used in assembly are currently being made at the Company's Painted Post, New York facility.

Feaster added, "Our projected growth and deeper penetration into the world-wide markets for portable compressors prompted this major capital expenditure."

Building plans and specifications are now being finalized and construction of the 100,000 square foot addition to the plant will begin early next year.

A new storage building now nearing completion at the Mocksville plant will help relieve congestion in the assembly areas and will provide new enclosed air conditioned shipping and receiving docks.

Between now and January 1, 1969 machine tools will be installed in a section of the new storage area to enable the Company to begin training employees in the operation of machine and equipment used in the manufacture of parts for the compressors. The Industrial Services Division of the State of North Carolina will assist in the recruiting and training programs. Training will begin early next year.

It is estimated that when in full operation the Mocksville plant will employ an additional 100 men and women.

Jaycees Complete Project

The Mocksville Jaycees have completed a very successful community service project of selling fire extinguishers to residents of Mocksville. FROSH TOPPLE NORTH IREDELL

The Davie freshmen scored in each quarter to give them a 25-0 victory over the Raiders of North Iredell. Wingback Paul Beaver caught three touchdown passes to lead Davie to victory.

David Poplin kicked off to North; however, the Raiders were unable to move the ball. The Raiders were forced to punt, but Waverly Shore broke through the line and blocked the punt. Arnold Riddle picked up the loose ball and scored the touchdown, giving Davie an early lead of 6-0.

Poplin again kicked off to the Raiders, and they could not score. North punted, but the first period ended before Davie could start a sustained drive.

With 8:07 left in the first half, quarterback Poplin hit Paul Beaver on a 23-yard touchdown pass. Ronald Boger plunged from the two-yard line for the extra point, giving Davie a 13-0 halftime lead. During the early minutes of the third quarter, Poplin hit Beaver on a 65-yard scoring pass play giving Davie a 19-0 lead. The try for extra point failed.

The remainder of the third quarter and half of the fourth quarter proved to be a tough defensive battle with the ball changing hands many times.

Midway through the fourth quarter Poplin tosses a 32-yard pass to Beaver giving Davie a 25-0 lead.

After receiving the kickoff, North began a drive deep into Davie territory. The drive was stopped short, however, when a North back fumbled and Davie recovered the loose ball.

Poplin tried to connect with Beaver on a quick pass, but the ball slipped through his arms. Time ran out before Davie could put another score on the board.

REBELS AT NORTH ROWAN FRIDAY

The Davie High Rebels will close out their 1968 season Friday night at North Rowan. The Rebels suffered a 21-20 setback last Friday night against South Iredell.

Big David Cash, South Iredell High's 225-pound senior tackle, was the hero for the visitors. Cash picked off a Davie County pass and rambled 40 yards to score the final South Iredell touchdown, and he kicked the extra points which provided the victory margin.

South Iredell came from behind to turn the trick. Davie moved ahead 13-7 at halftime. Donnie Everhardt scored the first. Terry Thompson tied the count at 7-all few minutes later on a one yard run. Cash converted.

Davie County went to rest with a 13-7 lead after Smith had pulled in a 16-yard pass from Mason. The scrimmage try for the extra point failed. John McNeely caught a 37-yard pass from Quarterback Mike Warren for a touchdown in the final period for the Vikings. They scored again when Cash picked off a pass and raced 40 yards.

David West reduced the final margin to one point when he raced 54 yards for a touchdown.

Jayvees Roll Past N. Stanly

The Davie County Jayvees extended their winning string to three games with a 19-6 victory over the North Stanley Comets. The Jayvees are now 6-3-0 overall.

The first quarter was a stiff defensive battle with neither team being able to push the ball over the goal line. The first quarter ended with both team scoreless.

Early in the second quarter, North was forced to punt. After receiving the punt, Davie began a drive deep into Comet territory. A handoff from quarterback Craig Ward to fullback Robert Ridge climaxed the drive with Robert Ridge running off tackle for 27 yards and a touchdown. Cook's try for the extra point failed.

North received Davie's kickoff and started a sustained drive; however, Davie's defense stiffened and the Comets were stopped cold. The Comets had to give up the ball and were forced to punt. Time ran out in the first half with Davie leading 6-0.

After receiving North's kickoff to open the second half, Davie drove deep into Comet territory. Craig Ward ran a quarterback keep and moved the ball down to the six yard line. From there Danny Correll rambled through the line for a six yard touchdown. Terry Cook's try for the extra point was good.

Cook kicked off to the Comets, and the ball was returned to the 50-yard line. A double reverse play was executed from scrimmage for a 50-yard touchdown. The extra point failed.

Davie scored its last touchdown midway through the fourth quarter. A 50-yard pass from Craig Ward to tend Steve Eaton added the six points to the scoreboard. Cook's kick was wide for the extra point.

The game ended with Davie on top by a score of 19-6.

Here And There

A full week of Revival services at Green Meadows church came to a close on Sunday morning, when four candidates received the ordinance of Baptism at the river. Many visitors attended and shared in the services all week. Wednesday night, other churches in the area cancelled services and joined with Green Meadows, filling the auditorium and making it necessary to bring out chairs. A goal of 110 had been set for Sunday morning. This was surpassed with a record attendance of 126. The pastor and members appreciate the cooperation of everyone who helped in anyway to make this a real revival.

Mrs. Georgia Jones of Winston-Salem and Mrs. Zelma Walker of Norfolk, Va. were afternoon and evening visitors on Friday of Mrs. Milton Jones.
Mrs. Hank Williams is confined to her bed with a virus. She seemed slightly improved Monday.

The Woman's Missionary Society of Green Meadows met at the church on Monday evening. The November study was on Missions in Ecuador. Rev. Archie Jones and family of Mocksville are in the mission work there. This made the study of more interest since Mr. Jones is known to several of the members.

Edith Bailey has been ill with the virus making the rounds, but was able to return to school on Monday.

Sidney Matthews, brother of Gray Matthews is in the intensive care department at Forsyth Memorial Hospital following a severe heart attack.

To many this may sound like a far-fetched story, but recently Joe Langston saw what he thought to be a mouse on a walk in his yard. He stepped on it and killed it.

Upon closer examination, it appears to have been one of the kangaroo rats native to Texas and Mexico, having very short forelegs and long hind legs. If anyone else has seen or known of this type of rat here, Mr. Langston would appreciate a call.

Mr. and Mrs. George Ed Wilson have moved into their new home near the river road on the old Cornelison road branching off the Yadkin Valley road. Welcome to the community.

Mitchell Wheeler is ill at his home. He made several visits recently to Duke Hospital for treatment.

Refrigerator Too Small? Switch To Side-By-Side

A Hotpoint Food Center fits kitchens new or old. It packs over 21 cubic feet of capacity in a cabinet only 33 inches wide.

The American homemaker depends more on her refrigerator-freezer than any other housewife in the world.

She uses it to store vast quantities of meat, fresh and frozen fruits and vegetables, dairy products and an almost endless variety of juices, dressings and deserts.

But rarely, it seems, is there enough capacity for her to take advantage of all the new refrigerated convenience foods and seasonal meat, poultry and produce sales that catch her eye in the supermarket.

That's why Hotpoint has introduced a giant 21.4-cubic-foot side-by-side refrigerator-freezer that takes up no more space than older models with less than half its capacity.

This compact kitchen appliance is only 33 inches wide, and just over 5 1/2 feet high, to fit conveniently in your present refrigerator space without the need of costly remodeling. And it's on wheels so you can move it for cleaning.

Completely frost-free, the "Food Center 21" combines a separate 236 pound capacity freezer with a huge fresh food compartment providing more than 28 square feet of versatile shelf space.

If more storage space in minimum floor space is what you're looking for in a refrigerator, the big new Hotpoint side-by-sides are the answer.

"You can help prevent forest fires" was the message carried to several grades of Smith Grove, Farmington, William R. Davie, and Advance schools by Wayne Draughn, Davie County Assistant Forest Ranger, and "Smoky Bear", Carter Payne, Davie 4-H agent. The program told of the value of woodlands in terms of products, wildlife, recreation, land stabilization, and effect on climate; how fire affects each of these values; the causes of woods fires; and what we can do to prevent fires.

It's a pretty safe guess that Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus has exceeded the long runs of "Abie's Irish Rose," "Tobacco Road," "Oklahoma!," "My Fair Lady," and "Hello, Dolly!" sixfold.

According to oldtimers around The Greatest Show on Earth, which arrives in Memorial Coliseum Monday, Nov. 11, for five performances through Wednesday, Nov. 13, P. T. Barnum summed it all up when he made the following statement:

"Three rings, dear children. This guarantees a good show. In case a spectator doesn't like what's going on in one ring, all he has to do is look the other way. It's as simple as that. There's plenty to please any onlooker. What other show can make that statement?" The ballyhoo, the peanuts and cotton candy, the brass band—they aren't actually the reasons for the circus mystique. Three rings of top flight entertainment is what packs in children of all ages across the length and breadth of this nation. Barnum knew a hundred years ago. His spiritual heirs, Irvin and Israel Feld and Judge Roy Hoheinz, owners of Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey, know it today.

The 1968 edition of this spectacular spotlights a brace of brand-new and a generous sprinkling of all-time favorites. Among the European performers making their American debuts are: The Hergotti Troupe, presenting a unique and death-defying act on their specially-designed whirling centrifuge; the Schnellers and Lillas, two of the Continent's most praised jugglers; Sensations; two of Europe's "royal families" of bareback riding, the Dunais and Piechas; the celebrated Italian juggler, Ugo Garrido; the Tundeas and their breathtaking Budapest wire ballet; the astounding Polish aerialist Sitkiewicz presenting his heart-stopping dive for life; and the brilliant young teeterboard stars, the Faludis and the Silagis.

Director Richard Barstow has captured the magic and grace of a night in old Vienna in the sweeping super spectacle, "The Inauguration Ball." Wild animal acts are toplined by Charley Bauman's tigers, and the world's only tiger and horse act, presented by the lovely Evy Althoff.

On the flying trapeze, Tito Goana, one of the brightest stars in Big Show history, presents that most difficult of all aerial accomplishments, the triple-somersault.

Acrobats, bareback riders, clowns, tumblers, elephants, horses, seals, camels, zebras, llamas, dogs, and an international array of beautiful girls round out the 1968 presentation.

"The Greatest Show on Earth," produced by John Ringling North, has played to a record number of spectators this year, topping by far its previous record season in 1967.

Saving Bond Sales Climb Higher Here

Combined sales of Savings Bonds and Freedom Shares during September showed the largest percentage of increase for any month this year when compared with the comparable month a year ago. Sales were $5,131,367, an 11.4% increase over September 1967, and the best September sales since 1946.

Cumulative sales of Bonds and Shares for January-September totaled $48,466,554—a 6% increase over the same in-month period a year ago. This represents 70.4% of the State's annual quota of $68,800,000.

Savings Bond and Freedom Share sales in Davie County were $29,230 for September. For the year, cumulative sales amounted to $228,353, which is 71.2 percent of the county's $309,600 quota for 1968, according to Knox Johnstone, Volunteer Chairman of the Savings Bonds Program in Davie County.

Proper Planning Is Key To Kitchen Efficiency

Most homemakers agree that the kitchen is their major work center—where they spend a majority of their time.

Actually, the kitchen is divided into a number of "work centers," which must be properly located in relation to the sequence of work to be performed there, says Hotpoint's Kitchen Planning Service. The major "work centers" are the refrigeration center, the clean-up center and the cooking center.

The work sequence generally is best when the refrigeration center, which includes a good deal of food storage space, is near the door where the groceries are brought in. Then comes the preparation and clean-up center, and the cook and serve center.

Hotpoint kitchen planners have these comments on each of the centers:

• Refrigeration: Obviously built around the refrigerator, this center should have sufficient drawer, shelf, and counter storage to handle its share of the numerous kitchen utensils common in today's kitchen. There should be a minimum of 15 inches of work counter at the opening side of the refrigerator, and more if at all possible.

• Clean-Up: This center handles half of the chores performed in the kitchen, being used in both preparation of three daily meals and the clean-up that follows. It should be located between the range and refrigerator, and should have at least 24-inches of space on each side of the sink, whether the sink is double or single bowl.

In addition to the dishwasher, space must also be planned to store detergents and cleaning equipment, as well as utensils.

• Cooking: The best location for the cooking center is near the dining room and breakfast area. A counter at each side of the range is important for best work patterns and safety.

There should be a minimum of 12-inches of counter at the side away from the sink, and 24-inches minimum at the other side. A large amount of storage is required in this area for pots, pans, trays, utensils, dry foods and condiments.

A planning and message center is almost an essential in today's modern kitchen. It can be used as grand as needed, or as small as an 8x10 inch shelf with telephone and recipe racks. If space permits, a bulletin board and inter-com should be included.

A snack bar also is a handy addition. This can be an extension of one of the kitchen counters, part of a pass-through or a narrow shelf along one wall with shallow storage underneath.

Another work center can be built around home food freezers. A complete freezer center can be rather spacious, with storage for necessary packages, wrappings, and tools, plus a place to sit and work, and possibly a sink. The freezer center can be located in the kitchen, a utility room, breezeway, or wherever space is available.

The above guidelines should help you select the best arrangement of work centers in your new kitchen to fit your needs and space.

STATE GRANGE HAS ANNUAL CONVENTION

Mr. and Mrs. Luther West of Pino Community Grange and Mr. and Mrs. Brady Angell of Mid Davie Grange attended the 40th annual convention of the North Carolina State Grange in Goldsboro October 19 through 23.

"We had a very busy convention with all the problems the farmers have to cope with today," said those attending. Grange members called for programs to give agriculture its deserved share of national income and parity in price.

Of the 14 different committee meetings, there were resolutions to act and pass on which will be taken up at the National Grange convention.

A few questions and answers as farmers today are given: Why are so many farmers selling out? Because they are not receiving a fair return on their investment and products. Why are so many young people leaving the farm? Not enough income. Why should we encourage our young people to stay on the farm today and work 12 to 18 hours a day as farmers are doing, in order to stay in business, when they can go into public work and work 8 hours and make more money? It's plain to see, they can not. What product is the farmer producing today and receiving a fair price for? Nothing.

"Farmers we must speak up for ourselves and work more closely together on our problems. All of our farm organizations need to work together for the same cause, for the betterment of agriculture and rural life. Let us always guard against being taxed out of business, which the Grange has always worked for. We wish all of our Grange members could have been at the convention and heard the interesting programs and speakers," said those attending.

"It was good to have the support and presence of so many agricultural workers from State College. Pino Community Grange was awarded a $25 check from the North Carolina National Bank along with the other 88 Granges in the State who entered the Community Service contest.

The regular meeting of Pino Grange will be the first Monday night of each month at 8 p. m. Each member is urged to attend and to take part in the program.

1/16 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup milk, scalded
1 tablespoon butter

3 egg yolks

Cook over very low heat, stirring almost constantly from the bottom with a rubber spatula, until mixture begins to thicken. Remove from heat. Let cool. Stir in rum extract. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Beat about a fourth of the egg whites into first mixture. Gently fold in remaining whites. Pour into ungreased souffle dish (1-quart capacity, 6" diameter x 2 1/2" deep). Bake in preheated moderately hot oven (375°) for about 30 minutes, or until puffed and brown. Serve immediately with lightly whipped cream, sweetened if desired.

About People

Every man should study conciseness in speaking; it is a sign of ignorance not to know that long speeches, though they may please the speaker, are the torture of the bearer. By—Feltman

Funeral services for Claude Calvin James were held Wednesday, October 30, at 11 o'clock at the Mainville A. M. E. Zion Church. Rev. B. J. Plowden officiated. Burial was in the National Cemetery in Salisbury, N. C.

Miss Pecola Allison attended Homecoming activities at Johnson C. Smith University in Charlotte, last weekend. She was the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Baxter C. Smoot and daughter.

Miss Eleanor Mason (better known by her many friends as Jackie), and a friend, Beryl David of Brooklyn, N. Y. spent the weekend with her mother, Mrs. Seresa Mason. They attended Homecoming at A & T University in Greensboro, Saturday.

Funeral services for Mrs. Bessie E. Sanders Hudson were held Sunday, Nov. 3, at 2:30 p. m. at the New Jerusalem Holiness Church. Bishop C. Minor officiated. Burial was in Pineville A. M. E. Zion church cemetery in Iredell County.

In spite of all the ifs and buts, there are a few things that can be done now to help insure more profits from the farming operation next year. Leo F. Williams, County Extension Chairman, emphasizes the important of planning but cautions against unrealistic plans. Quit looking for the miracle prescriptions to produce 200 bushels of corn or 4000 pounds of tobacco if only half these yields is the best record for the farm. Instead, concentrate on building soil fertility and study the other requirements of the plant. High fertility is good business for any crop and the Soil Testing Division of the North Carolina Department of Agriculture is always ready to suggest the needed plant nutrients to establish good fertility levels in your soil.

An orderly planning process helps to identify the weak links in any program. The first and very important step is the selection of a rotation or cropping system that makes each acre produce the greatest income. Idle land is a production factor sitting in the shade - it's expensive.

Second, maintain high soil fertility levels. Keep an up-to-date inventory of the fertility levels and lime needs by a systematic schedule of soil testing. Instructions, sampling supplies and the test itself are offered without charge by the Soil Testing Division. Use all the fertilizer which research has shown the crops can possibly use. This is one of the cheapest forms of crop insurance available.

Third, plant the very best seed obtainable of the right variety at the right time in the right amounts to use all the sunshine, water and nutrients available to each acre of space. In many cases these are satisfied only by a break with traditional methods.

Fourth, control weeds, insects, and diseases and adapt all cultural practices to fit the needs of the plant rather than the machine or other extraneous factors. Planting, cultivation, and harvesting equipment that is not adapted or is improperly adjusted costs too much to continually ignore.

Fifth, harvest, store, market, or use all the products of the land. Grain losses from the combine or unused pasture crops are more expensive than if they had not been produced.

In summary, Mr. Williams, reminds that if the stage is set with the right plants, a high level of fertility in the soil and a control program for weeds, insects and diseases, higher yields are obtainable. The most profitable crops are those with the highest yields. A soil test could prevent a high profit crop from becoming a high cost crop.

Broad Scope Of 4-H Projects Keep Youths Busy

Heading the list of the top 10 projects undertaken by the nation's three million 4-H youths are animal science, clothing, foods and plant science. Recent figures released by the Cooperative Extension Service show that youngsters also are very much interested in health and physical fitness.

In addition to animal and plant sciences, the application of scientific principles is a part of nearly all 4-H projects, says the Extension Service.

Recreation, engineering and safety are three more areas in which large numbers of 4-H members excel. Projects involving management and furnishings for the home show high enrollment, as does conservation.

Community service and personal development are a prime concern of today's 4-Hers as well, judging from the more than 300,000 participating.

Most 4-H boys and girls spend their time on more than one project, as the survey shows. Boys may be involved in plant and animal sciences and engineering projects.

A girl may study plant science to make her horticultural project more meaningful. Or food science to get the most from her foods and nutrition projects. Overlapping areas are safety and conservation. Both affect the individual, the home, community and nation.

Specific programs—or projects—carried on under the 10 main categories have definite objectives that help develop skills and stimulate young minds to "clearer thinking," 4-H leaders point out.

For example, a youngster working on an entomology project (science) will gain new knowledge, improve his surroundings, and possibly "turn him on" sufficiently to seek a college degree and ultimately a career.

The 4-H program provides awards based on individual achievement. The awards are given annually by private industry through the National 4-H Service Committee. Among the 1968 donors are: Standard Brands, Incorporated; John Deere; Oliver Corporation; Carnation Company; Simplicity Pattern Co. Inc.; Hercules Incorporated; Amchem Products, Inc. Also: General Foods Corporation; Eli Lilly and Company; The S&H Foundation, Inc.; Allis-Chalmers; Heisdorf & Nelson Farms, Inc.; General Motors; The Upjohn Company; American Oil Foundation.

These firms provide funds for trips to the National 4-H Congress, scholarships and other recognition awards. They also lend technical assistance in carrying out the various projects in cooperation with the Extension Service in all 50 states.

ABOUT YOUR HOME

Why not begin using more gelatine cookery in your menu? Gelatine is tasteless and colorless—but these qualities are actually often the most valuable ones. It makes it possible for you to make use of the taste, texture and color of almost every other food. Gelatine offers a means of giving form to such foods as beaten eggs and whipped cream.

Gelatin dishes can be served at any point in a meal. There are jellied hors d'oeuvres, soups, salads, mousses, aspics, and many kinds of desserts.

Gelatin can help you beat high prices by extending your supply of expensive food so it serves more people. Also, gelatin is a protein and for this reason is a much better meat extender than a starch or cereal.

Gelatin dishes may be reduced to five basic types:

1. Basic clear jelly.
2. Air beaten into clear basic jellies. These are whips.
3. With air and beaten egg whites beaten in. These are sponges and snows.
4. With an egg base. These are Spanish Cream or Chiffon Pie Filling.
5. Whipped cream base. Often combined with milk to make Blanc Mange or Mousse, Parfait or Bavarian Cream.

Since gelatin is both tasteless and colorless, it is very important to use enough flavoring and color. Remember that the tomato juice, fruit juice, wine, milk or what ever you use for taste in a gelatin dish must taste just right before the gelatin is added. Gelatin will not change the flavor at all.

The same harmony and contrast important in any food mixture should be carefully followed when making a jellied dish.

Herbed Biscuit Bubble Ring

The "nose knows" when you bake Herbed Biscuit Bubble Ring. The fragrant aroma of fresh-from-the-oven biscuits, sprinkled with herbs, temptingly beckons everyone in sniffing distance to your kitchen.

Besides being glamorous, this quick bread is fun to eat. For simple self-service, guests pull a "bubble" of biscuit from the ring. They'll savor the mouth-watering aroma and buttery goodness of each tender morsel, so don't be surprised if demand quickly exceeds supply!

Because these biscuits are baked side-by-side in a ring mold, they have a deliciously crunchy crust and succulent soft sides. You save time and extra ingredients by using self-rising flour because salt and leavening are preblended. Easy to prepare, Herbed Biscuit Bubble Ring is nutritious because the enriched self-rising flour contains three vital B vitamins, thiamine, niacin and riboflavin, plus the minerals, calcium and iron.

HERBED BISCUIT BUBBLE RING

8 to 10 servings

- 1/2 cup shortening
- 3 cups enriched self rising flour
- 2/3 to 1 cup milk
- 1 teaspoon oregano
- 1 teaspoon rosemary
- 1/4 cup butter, melted
- 1 clove garlic, minced

Cut shortening into flour until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Blend in enough milk to make a soft dough. Turn onto lightly floured surface and knead gently 30 seconds. Divide into 24 equal parts, shape into balls. Combine oregano and rosemary; sprinkle 1/2 teaspoon in ungreased 8 1/2 cup ring mold. Combine butter and garlic, coat dough balls. Arrange 12 balls in mold, sprinkle with 1 teaspoon herb mixture. Top with remaining balls and herb mixture. Bake in preheated 450° oven 20 to 25 minutes, or until golden brown.

*Spoon flour into dry measuring cup; level. Do not scoop.

GOOD MAN....Death, as it must to all men, came quietly on Thursday morning, October 31, to David Coltrane, one of the best citizens this State ever had.

He and Mrs. Coltrane went to the dinner honoring Henry Belk, Goldsboro editor, on Wednesday evening. Going to the parking lot, Mr. Coltrane complained of a slight pain between his shoulders. But, charging it up to one of the aches of old age—he was 75—they thought no more about it, came on home. After retiring, they lay there and discussed events of the evening, people they had seen, at the Sir Walter dinner.

Wednesday had been another full working day for David Coltrane as chairman of the important ever busy N. C. Good Neighbor Council. They were laying plans for the meeting of the Council set for December. Everybody was cheerful and happy—particularly the leader—with no inkling it was to be his last day on earth.

When he left for home at 5:30, he told members of the staff, they, too, had better be leaving "or you'll soon be here in the dark..." And, then, saying "I'll see you in the morning", he left his offices in the Methodist Building here on Glenwood Avenue for his home on Oberlin Road.

About 3:30 Thursday morning he awoke, told Mrs. Coltrane he had an awful pain in his chest. A physician was there in only a few minutes. All possible attention was given the patient, who kept repeating how happy he was that the attack had caught him at home instead of "off in a distant motel somewhere". He traveled right much for a man of his age. His duties were heavy.

He was put under an oxygen tent, was fully conscious, and the ambulance was ready to take him the dozen or so blocks to Rex Hospital. But then he died—the end of a sturdy, sturdy oak—and nothing could save him.

David Coltrane was a deeply religious man—mild mannered, a person with a tremendous quantity of quiet strength. He really had three or four separate and distinct careers: 1. As a salesman of fertilizer and other plant foods before W. Kerr Scott brought him to Raleigh as an assistant to the Commissioner of Agriculture in 1937; 2. As the technical man in the N. C. Agriculture Department; 3. Director of the Budget; 4. Chairman of the Good Neighbor Council.

In each field of endeavor, David Coltrane was a success. He was a close associate of every Governor—and advisor to some of them for many years. He seemed never to let anything disturb him.

SUCCESSOR....As of the moment of Mr. Coltrane's death, the Good Neighbor Council had nobody to direct it. The assistant to the chairman left only 60 days ago to accept a better salary—and less trouble—in Virginia.

Since it is a matter of only about 60 days until the new Governor takes office, the belief around Raleigh is that Gov. Dan Moore will not attempt to fill the vacancy.

If an interim appointment is made, you may be sure it will come with the blessings of the next Governor. However, due to the desire to keep everything as steady as possible until after the Election, there has been very little racial trouble for several weeks now. Whether this bit of calm over the nation had the desired results remains to be seen.

SUDDEN DEATH....Those who knew Mrs. James H. Pou Bailey were shocked—though not greatly surprised—at her death. She had been ill for more than 15 years—at various times—and under the care of a physician.

A daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Pate of Laurinburg, she lost her brother in an airplane accident some two years ago—and his wife.

The Pates, still living, had only the son and daughter. Now they spend their hours looking after their grandchildren by their son.

Pou Bailey, Jr., also lives in Laurinburg. Judge Bailey and his father-in-law had the pleasure of serving together in the State Senate of 1953. Mr. Pate is now 70 years of age.

CAN BE TOLD....Now that the voting is over—and the ballots are safely in the box and counted...it is safe to report this:

Members of the N. C. Council of State—Thad Eure, Edwin Gill, Ed Lanier, the whole bunch... and many another Democrat in this State...were never completely at ease during the fall and summer.

Never had they been faced with the type of opposition from the GOP as observed during the three, four months prior to the Election. The Wallace thing plus the all-out Gardner attacks on the Democratic Party created a riddle which had them all very nervous.

While they could look back to 1928—when North Carolina went Republican Presidentially—there was no third party to contend with that year. This muddled the water considerably.

This is being written three days before the Tuesday, November 5, vote. The feeling in Raleigh was that the State offices would be re-elected by more than "75,000" votes! But it has been the worst year on record for predictions. Time Magazine also predicted Richard Nixon would likely carry 29 states, Humphrey, 7; with Wallace, five. Old-line Raleigh Democrats said N. C. was a tossup between the three candidates. Time gave N. C. to Nixon...so did a GOP poll. Now compare the predictions with the actual vote!

Buddy poppies will go on sale in the Mocksville area on Saturday, November 9th. Buy one and wear it. Throughout the nation, veterans in need are counting on you to bring them timely assistance through your purchase of the buddy poppy. Your donation will help those who helped you during our country's darkest hour.

On Veterans Day, we proudly salute the veterans of all wars, and pledge ourselves ever to strive to uphold and to practice the democratic principles for which they have given so much.

Another victory in the citizen's battle for privacy was scored recently when the Civil Service Commission issued new rules to protect the individual rights of Federal employees and applicants for Federal employment.

The rules will provide reasonable tests to protect individual privacy when government agencies investigate people who apply for Federal jobs or promotions. There have been no such government-wide standard before. Congress has received many reports of abuses of techniques and devices used in investigating individuals.

Lie detector tests will be limited, although not sufficiently in my opinion, since a number of agencies are not covered. Agencies who are covered, however, must obtain advance annual permission to use them, and must adhere to certain restrictions.

The Commission also issued to all agencies new minimum standards to control the scope and coverage of so-called full field investigations including the selection, training, and supervision of investigators.

These new regulations are aimed at some of the violations of privacy and individual rights which have been reported to me and to the Constitutional Rights Subcommittee, of which I am Chairman. It was to prevent unreasonable Federal coercion and privacy invasion that I introduced the Federal Employees Privacy Bill and fought for its passage to protect the right to privacy. Although the bill had fifty-five co-sponsors and was passed by the Senate last year by a vote of 79-4, it died in a House Subcommittee with the adjournment of this Congress.

The new Civil Service Commission change is one of a series of quiet victories over governmental tyranny since the battle began for the passage of the privacy measure. Chairman Macy of the Civil Service Commission recently advised me in a letter which included the new regulations: "It is my considered view that the work of your Subcommittee assisted the Executive Branch in general and the Civil Service Commission in particular to reach what I believe to be a viable and equitable policy on conducting such full field investigations."

Under the new regulations issued by Chairman Macy, Federal investigators may not: Use telephone, wiretaps, or covert listening or recording devices.

Use polygraph or other so-called lie detectors except as authorized.

Make covert or surreptitious investigations unless these are individually authorized by the head of the agency of his designee.

Ask about an individual's race, religion, national origin, union membership, fraternal affiliations, political affiliations, or his views on the wisdom of legislative policies except in certain limited instances.

Interview applicants or appointees to the competitive service concerning their sexual behavior or attitudes concerning sexual conduct in the absence of allegations or information indicating sexual misbehavior.

While the new rules represent a step forward, they do not remedy all of the problems in this area of individual rights. Regulations alone are subject to the whims of the administrator who issues and interprets them. I therefore intend to reintroduce legislation on this subject at the next session of Congress, and do everything within my power to see to it that it is enacted into law.

The Awards Meeting was held in the Rotary Hut at 6:30 p.m., October 29. Tom Rice was master of ceremonies, Jim McBride presented the awards to the different communities, and H. R. Hendrix paid tribute to the people who made awards money available. Operation

Santa Claus

Christmas is still nearly two months away, but "Operation Santa Claus," a project of the North Carolina Mental Health Association, is well under way. "Operation Santa Claus" is the annual effort to make sure that all of the 15,000 patients and students at N. C. State Mental Hospitals and Centers for the Retarded receive a Christmas present.

County Mental Health Associations across the state are now preparing to canvas civic, service, and fraternal organizations, businesses, industries, churches, and individuals for these worthy gifts.

Mrs. Donald Kempton of Horse Shoe, state chairman for the "Operation Santa Claus" project, and the four regional chairmen — Mrs. James L. Williams, Goldsboro; Mrs. Leif Valand, Raleigh; Mrs. Evelyn A. Murdoch, Chapel Hill; and Mr. Donald Kempton, Horse Shoe — are urging concerned citizens in every part of the state to participate in this project in order that North Carolina's mental patients might know that "somebody cares!"

She Didn't Like Joe!

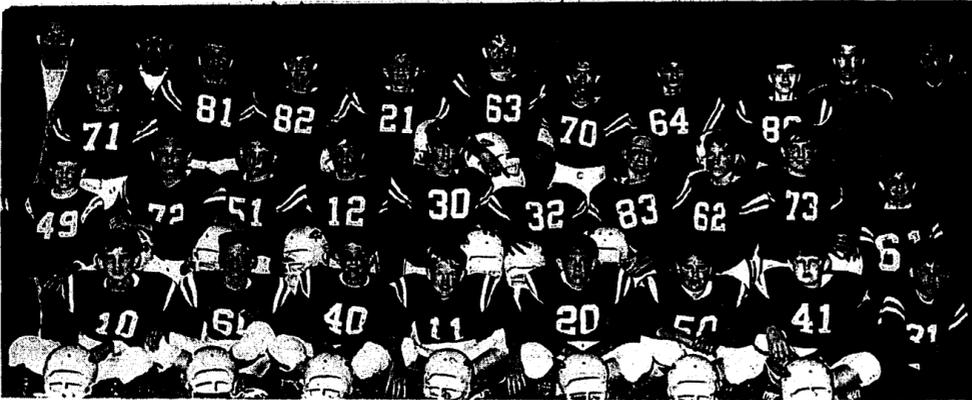

You can read about all kinds of dogs, and about their pretty greeds. I'll tell you about one I know, and you can plainly see.

This old dog I, talking about, I won't tell her name, but the way the boys feel about her, she should be in the Hall of Fame. Now I will tell you who you can ask about her, and they will tell you the same, Taff Robertson, C Ward, or Joe Spry, they will tell you the same. Why, this old dog has treed ten thousand squirrels, and I swear that is no lie, but if you don't believe me, just ask Joe Spry.

Tom Wall, had her one afternoon, and he killed 23, but if you don't believe me, you just ask old C. Now all of this you won't believe, but I swear it is so. I still have squirrels in the freezer that she treed 15 years ago. The way this old dog has treed squirrels, it is a crying shame. I think I will try next week to get her in the Hall of Fame. Now this dog didn't do her best when out with Joe Spry, she knew his politics weren't right, I guess that's the reason why. Ervin Hutchins hunted with her one day; he ate squirrels for ten years, and threw 3 quarts of squirrel livers away.

Joe hunted this dog a lot, but she didn't think much of him. She knew from the way he would grab the squirrel, he was a Republican. Myself, Joe Spry, and C Ward, we hunted one day, it has been so long ago, I'm afraid to say. I don't remember how many we killed, for I sure don't want to lie, but if you want to know the kill, why, just ask Joe Spry. Now this old dog is still living, and she gets around mighty slow, but if there was a dog heaven, I, sure that's where she would go. When this old dog leaves this world; on her grave, I'll place a rose, for the number of squirrels she has treed, only God in Heaven knows.

Sunday was a real spring like day. We had a good attendance in Sunday School and a real lesson of encouragement which was taught by brother E. K. Eaton and others.

The Missionary Circle met in the afternoon with the president Mrs. Millie West in charge. The topic, Communicating The Gospel, was beautifully opened by Mrs. Nannie Wiseman and followed by other members present.

Prof. William West and daughters of Goldsboro spent the weekend here with his mother Mrs. Lula West.

The members and friends of the Cedar Creek Baptist Church and community sends their deepest sympathy to the Manuel Howell family. Manuel (Till, as he was called) was a former member of the Cedar Creek Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Ambros Brock, Lonnie Williams, and Alta Eaton attended the funeral of Manuel Howell in Statesville, Sunday evening.

Our sympathy goes out also to the Ijames and Hudson families.

Kenneth and Darrell Eaton of the Redland Community were dinner guests of their grandmother, Mrs. William Eaton and Donnie and Aunt Jean.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Transou are the proud parents of a baby girl.

Bill Merrell At Ceremonial

Noble Ambassador Bill Merrell of Mocksville attended the "Homecoming" Ceremonial of Oasis Temple held in Charlotte October 25 and 26.

This "Homecoming" Ceremonial was the greatest assembly of Shriners in the 73 year history of Oasis Temple. It was estimated that 3,000 Nobles and their ladies were in attendance for the fun, fellowship and the furthering of the promotion of the philanthropy for which this group of Masons are so well known.

Among the outstanding activities were the Ladies Luncheon and Fashion Show for over 1200 Ladies of the Nobility at the White House Inn at noon on Saturday.

Both Nobles and Ladies enjoyed the Variety Show produced by Harmony House Attractions and presented at Owens Auditorium on Friday evening. To accommodate the crowds, Oasis Temple provided two performances of this show at 7:30 p.m. and 9:30 p.m.

The approximate 200 candidates assembled at 9:00 a.m. at the Temple for registration and formation for the parade which proceeded from Oasis Temple to the Court House where they were picked up by bus and transported to the Coliseum for lunch. Approximately 2000 Nobles were served a Moslem Feast preceding the staging of the ceremonies of initiation into Shrinedom.

The "Homecoming" week-end ended with the Potentate's Ball at the Coliseum on Saturday evening. This outstanding affair was attended by more than 4,000 Nobles of Oasis and other Temples.

Oasis Shrine Temple is one of 170 Shrine Temples located throughout North America. The Shrine movement started in New York shortly after the Civil War and has grown along with its Masonic background to become one of the largest systems in the world. Each of the more than 850,000 Nobles of the Ancient Arabic Order of Mystic Shrine in North America is also a Master Mason and a York and/or Scottish Rite Mason.

Oasis Temple was chartered by the Imperial Shrine of North America in 1895 and at one time was the only Shrine Temple in the Carolinas. Since that date there have been three sister Temples chartered, Sudan in New Bern, N. C. and two South Carolina Temples, Hejaz in Greenville and Omar in Charleston. Oasis Temple presently has a jurisdictional area covering the western part of North Carolina and the current membership numbers 9259 Nobles.

The Temple's activities include the staging of several Ceremonials each year, the winter Ceremonial held in Charlotte in January, a spring Ceremonial held in various parts of the state and the fall Ceremonial in October. Included in the Ceremonial program is the initiation of new Nobles. Another endeavor of the Temple each year is the promotion of Parade-Visitations to various parts of the jurisdiction. During the last three or four years, visitations have been made in over thirty cities and towns in Western North Carolina.

In addition to the program of fraternal fun and fellowship, each Noble of the Mystic Shrine participates in the sponsoring of the Crippled Childrens Hospitals, a chain of 20 hospitals specializing in orthopedics. Dedicated to the mending of crippled children without regard to race or creed or color, this philanthropy is reserved for children of parents who cannot afford expensive hospital attention. Any Noble of Oasis Temple will be glad to investigate and arrange for a crippled child's examination if the difficulty is of orthopedic nature. Any child 15 years or under is eligible for treatment. There are also 3 Burns Institutes for the treatment of the severely burned children. Admission requirements are the same as for orthopedic cases.

Pelma Barker, who lives on Williams Street is shown above with greens from his garden. To the left is one leaf of Kale that measured 8 inches across and 16 inches in length and Swiss Chard 16 inches across and about 20 inches long. The Florida Broadleaf at the right was 9 inches across the leaf and 14 inches in length. Mr. Barker planted the greens the last of August and did not use any fertilizer. He wouldn't give us an estimate of just how many people one of these large leaves would feed, but our guess is that it would be quite a few.

The electric age is in. Take it from the kids who've got the beat. And it's growing bigger every day. Bigger sounds. Bigger worlds to conquer. Bigger energy to do it. And a bigger value than ever for today's electric generation. Fact is, a dollar now buys a Piedmont Carolina family about twice as much electricity, on an average, as a dollar did thirty years ago. Pretty groovy, when you think of how the price of almost everything else has gone way up.

memoirs of a COUNTRY DOCTOR

Dr. John Robert Lowery, born in Davie County in 1881, has published his autobiography, MEMOIRS OF A COUNTRY DOCTOR. The book is an entertaining account of his long years as a practicing physician in Davie, Davidson and Rowan Counties. It is a warmly nostalgic and intriguing comparison between old and modern bedside manners. His anecdotes are fascinating. The reader is given a full share of the unusual, such as the man who would die if he had to kill another man, or the woman whose "spells" were caused by "mother-in-law-itis".

Dr. Lowery's book will be a delight to Davie County readers, since in it he relates stories about numbers of well-known families: Jones, Dayvault, Revis, Godbey, Cartner, Beck, Foster, Williams, Seamon, Koonst, Chaffin, Starrett, Stroud, Anderson, Dyson, Murdock, Blackwell, and many others. He also talks about tobacco farming, the whiskey stills, horse trading, the peach and apple orchards, and the Salem Methodist Church. All these subjects and many more are recounted in this fascinating journal of a dedicated man who always carried humor and forthrightness along with his medicines, often prescribing equal doses of each.

The book, MEMOIRS OF A COUNTRY DOCTOR, is available at the Davie County Public Library on a limited basis.

Dr. Lowery will be honored at an Author's Tea in the Davie County Public Library, November 21, 1968, from 3:00 to 4:30 p. m. A cordial invitation is issued to the public to meet the author or renew old friendships. The library will be assisted in entertaining by the library committee of the Mocksville Woman's Club.

 District VI of the nurses' association will meet on Thursday, November 14th, 7:30 p.m. in Concord at the Cabarrus Hospital Nurses' residence.

Dr. John Robert Lowery was born on a farm in the Calhoun section of Davie County on May 7, 1881. He received his early education at Barron's private school at Harmony and the Cool Springs Academy. He also attended the Sunnyside Seminary at Mocksville which was operated by Miss Mattie Eaton and Miss Laura Clement.

He attended the University of North Carolina and graduated in medicine at the University of Maryland. Dr. Lowery did general practice of medicine at County Line, Cool Springs and Coolemeec. In 1910 he decided to specialize in diseases of the stomach and studied with Dr. Julius Freidenwald of Baltimore, Maryland for one year. Dr. Freidenwald at that time was the most prominent stomach specialist in the United States. After leaving Dr. Freidenwald he went to Germany where he studied under Dr. Ewald who was the outstanding specialist in diseases of the stomach at the University of Berlin. He was the father of diseases of the stomach and wrote the first text book on this subject. He studied there for two years and returned to the United States, locating in Raleigh where he specialized in the diseases of the stomach for 17 years. At the end of that time, he went to Salisbury and opened a private hospital which he operated for 17 years.

MASONIC PICNIC GROUNDS MAY BE SOLD TO SCHOOL

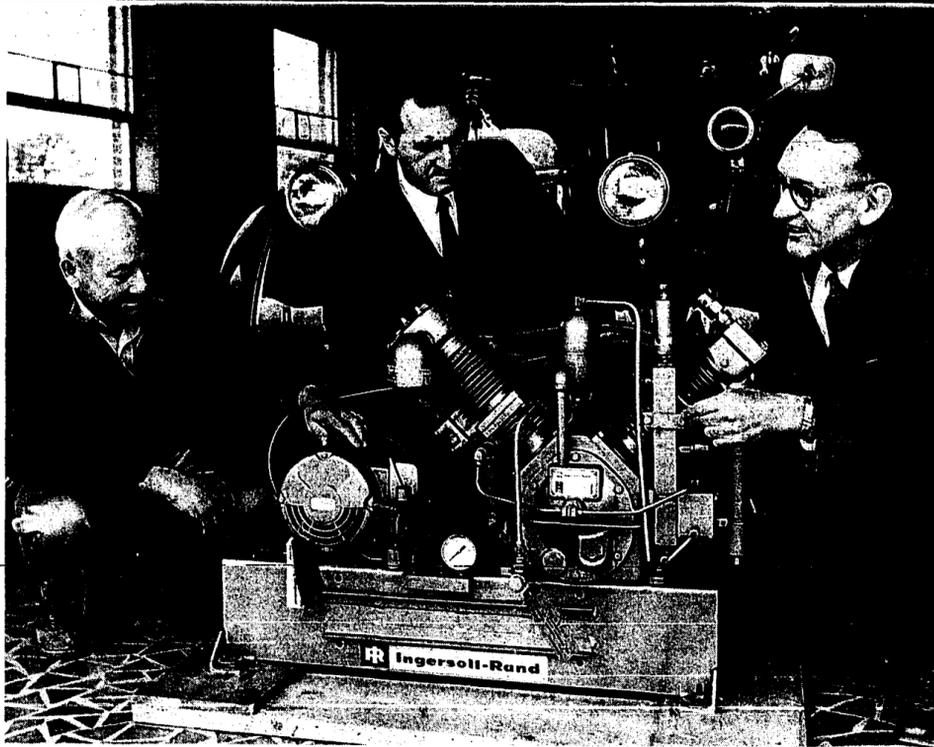

Members of the Mocksville Masonic Lodge will hold a general meeting of its membership on Friday night at 7:30 p.m. to take final action pertaining to the Masonic Picnic Grounds at Clement Grove.

The Masonic Picnic Grounds are needed by the Mocksville Elementary School for additional construction authorized by the recent bond election. The acquisition of this property by the Davie County Board of Education is a must if the Mocksville Elementary School is to remain in its present location. The board of education has made the Masonic Lodge an offer for the grounds and the meeting is being held Friday night to ascertain the wishes of the membership. Clyde Glascock, Master of the local Masonic Lodge, said that most of those who have considered the situation from all angles believe that it would be to the lodge's advantage to sell the Clement Grove property and purchase a new site for the annual Masonic Picnic.

"Everyone knows that we have about outgrown Clement Grove and are having to somewhat limit the picnic each year due to the lack of available space", said Mr. Glascock.

Many believe that it would be a wise move for the lodge to sell Clement Grove and purchase a site that would be more accessible to the public for the picnic grounds.

Fire Chief Andrew Lagle, right; Mayor D. J. Mando, center; and John MacMillan look over the I-R Air Compressor provided to the Mocksville Fire Department by the Ingersoll-Rand Co. The compressor will give the department an immediate source of air for filling the air bottles carried by the firemen for use with smoke masks. The Mocksville Fire Department will also fill bottles for the other fire departments in Davie County. Chief Lagle and Assistant Chief Judd Bailey, who is a group leader in the maintenance department at Ingersoll-Rand in Mocksville, met with Mr. MacMillan and Ralph Voggenthaler recently to discuss the specifications and other details of the compressor. The actual presentation of the compressor took place Monday of this week at the local station on Sanford Avenue, scene of this picture. (Photo by Barringer.)

Big Snow Causes Extensive Damages

A freakish snow storm hit this area Monday night causing extensive damage to trees, shrubs, and left many homes without electric power.

The five-inch snow also caused the cancellation of school in Davie County.

The snowstorm was reported to be the heaviest earliest snow on record in this area. It followed by only two days a fairly stout Saturday night snow storm. (See account elsewhere.)

The storm was freakish inasmuch it was accompanied at times by a thunderstorm with sheet lightning.

The damage was reported by Duke Power and REA officials as the most extensive in a number of years. Linemen of both organizations worked through the night and Tuesday in the effort to restore electric power to many homes and sections.

The weight of the snow is what caused so many limbs to break. The snow was quite wet and stuck to the trees. When the weight became insupportable, the limbs broke damaging lines, cars and whatever was beneath them.

The snow, which started falling about 9:30 p. m. Monday was preceded by a slow rain and falling temperatures. The high temperature Monday was around 45 degrees, with the low Monday night of around 32-degrees.

The limbs breaking off trees made freakish noises. The sheriff and police departments received several calls from people who thought someone was shooting a rifle in their neighborhood, and some who thought someone was trying to break into the house.

Many cars and trucks became stranded on and off the highways during the heavy storm.

A fire broke out in the boiler room at Heritage shortly after midnight. The fire is believed to have been caused due to the non-functioning of a draft when the electric power went off. There was extensive smoke and water damage but the fire was contained in the boiler room.

The rising temperature early Tuesday morning returned the precipitation to a rain state and the snow into slush.

TURKEY SHOOT

There will be a Turkey Shoot and Barbecue at the Center Community Building Saturday, November 23, beginning at 10:00 A. M. Barbecue Sandwiches, Trays, Coffee and Cold Drinks will be on sale all day. A Barbecue supper will be served beginning at 5:00 p. m.

Davie Folks Exhibit At Craftsman Fair

The Piedmont Craftsmen, Inc. will present their fifth annual Crafts Fair on Friday and Saturday this week at the Memorial Coliseum in Winston-Salem.

Davie County, Clemmons and surrounding areas will be represented at the Fair by several of its outstanding Piedmont Craftsmen members.

Among those who will be exhibiting this year are: Mrs. Nell Dillon of Fork in Davie County. She is chairman of the Christmas booth and will have a wide assortment of Christmas items - including decorative, and always popular Della Rabbia door wreaths, Christmas flower arrangements - some with candles; wall hangings, topiary trees, and many other items.

Probably one of the most unique of Mrs. Dillon's door decorations is a lovely wreath made of corn husks and artistically decorated with all the ornaments of the Yule season.

Mrs. Dillon's sister, Mrs. G. L. Potts of Clemmons also a Piedmont Craftsmen member, will assist her sister in the Christmas booth.

Mrs. Potts has been spending much of her time, since her retirement as a school teacher last spring working on Christmas items for the booth. Among her many contributions are numerous gift boxes. The boxes, which vary in size, are neatly covered with a Christmas wrapping. Adorning the cover of each box is a unique original Christmas design of Mrs. Potts' handiwork.

Each one of the boxes is complete with white tissue and enclosure card inside - ready for the gift.

Mrs. Potts considers her "tissue stars", called porcupines by some, among her most unusual decorations for gift packaging - or for that matter the porcupines may be used to hang on the Christmas tree or for other decorating.

Another of Mrs. Potts' attractions is a lovely little tree decorated with pink butterflies and pieces of pink flowers separated into a single layer of the bloom and attached to the tree with tiny strands of seed pearls and adding a very elegant touch.

These are but a few of the items to be available at the Christmas booth of the Fair.

Also exhibiting again this year will be Mrs. W. B. "Liz"

Brooks of Clemmons. Her entry will be in hooking. If her entries this year are as outstanding as those she had last year, they are unique indeed.

Other Piedmont Craftsmen members include: Miss Anne Hubbard whose entry is decoupage; Miss Kate Riddle, with hand hooked rugs; Mrs. Florence Ilman with enameling and Ernest Ilman with metal sculpture.

Dan Davis and Ed Parkinson of Dan Davis Interiors at Fork, will help to set up the Fair booth.

Mrs. Nell Dillon of Fork will serve as chairman of the Christmas booth at the annual Piedmont Craftsmen Fair to be held at the coliseum in Winston-Salem, this week. Mrs. Dillon is shown above with some of a wide assortment of Christmas items to be displayed in this booth. The items include the decorative and always popular Della Rabbia door wreaths, Christmas flower arrangements, wall hanging topiary trees, and other items.

Farmington VFD Is Out Of Debt

The Board of Directors of the Farmington Volunteer Fire Department met at the Fire Station on Monday evening, November 4, with eight Directors present. The president, Jim Essic, presided.

The treasurer, J. W. Pilcher, reported that the Fire Department is now out of debt and that there is a balance of $1,450.00 in the treasury to be used for current expenses, purchase of new or renewal equipment, or any other necessary expense. The Directors voted not to hold a fund-raising drive this year, since we are in a good financial condition. It was also decided not to hold the annual turkey shoot this year, in view of many others being held in adjoining communities. It was pointed out that neither the fund-raising drive nor the turkey shoot is being called off permanently, but just skipped this year. It was pointed out that some of our equipment is getting old and will need repairs or replacement before long and that both the fund-raising drive and the turkey shoot may need to be held next year in order to start accumulating funds toward replacement of equipment.

John H. Caudle, Assistant Fire Chief, asked to be relieved of his duties in that office, due to the press of other affairs and his inability to continue to devote the necessary time to the office. His resignation was reluctantly accepted by the board. The president expressed to Mr. Caudle the heartfelt thanks and appreciation of the Fire Department and the Board for the long years of unselfish service which he has given to the Fire Department as Assistant Chief, and also the appreciation of the Board for his willingness to continue as a member of the Board, a fireman and fire truck driver.

The Board voted to promote J. W. Pilcher and Jay Conner to the position of Assistant Fire Chief. Both have served for some time as Captains. The Board voted to leave the positions of Captains vacant for the present, pending the outcome of training classes and the recruitment of several new firemen. Fire Chief, Wade Groce, reported that several men in the community have expressed an interest in joining the Department.

In addition to the new Assistant Fire Chiefs, the Board elected other officers for the Department, as follows: President, Jim Essic; Vice President, Cecil Leagans; Treasurer, J. W. Pilcher; Secretary, Mrs. Clausell Gregory; and Fire Chief, Wade Groce.

Mr. Angell and his son, Russell, were moving the grain elevator from one bin to another. One was on one end and one on another end - like a see-saw. When Russell moved and shifted the weight on the elevator, Mr. Angell was thrown in the air and then fell 30 to 40 feet to the ground landing on his feet.

DAVIE NIPS NORTH 19-12

Davie County Rebels closed out its 1968 grid season last Friday night at Spencer with a 19-12 victory over North Rowan. The win gave the Rebels a season record of 5 wins and 5 losses. In conference play they had 5 wins and 4 losses.

Coach Tom Brawley's Cavaliers played steady football after the two Davie touchdowns, but fumbles and pass interceptions kept North Rowan from catching the Rebels.

Melvin Brinkley's 14-yard punt, partially blocked by Davie, set up the first Rebel touchdown. The visitors took over on the North 34 and scored in five plays. Shoaf hit Everhardt with a fourth-down pass for a 30-yard touchdown play. North's Calvin Blanton deflected the pass, but the talented Everhardt still caught the ball as he crossed the goal line. Everhardt's conversion made it 7-0 with 9:30 to play in the first half.

Davie kicked off and Blanton fumbled on the return. Steve Beck recovered for the Rebels at the North Rowan 32.

SMAPLE SOIL NOW

If you haven't sent your soil samples to the Soil Testing Division of the North Carolina Department of Agriculture you may have procrastinated too long. Leo Williams, County Extension Chairman reminds that it may not be too late to get quick service if the samples are mailed within the next two weeks.

Mr. Williams noted that the average number of farm soil samples processed by the Soil Testing Division laboratory over the last five years has risen from 6,200 in October to 10,000 in November. This trend continues on into the winter with 13,100 processed in December, 14,600 in January, and peaks at 15,300 in February. The average for March has been 14,600 with the total for April dropping to 5,800.

More people have been reminded this year that soil testing is the first step in determining the need for lime and fertilizer. This makes it doubly important that your soil samples be mailed early. A delay of a week in getting your test report back now may extend to three or four weeks in February and March. Instructions and sampling supplies are available at the extension office.

Tattle-Tales

By Gordon Tomlinson

Few people know that President-elect Richard Nixon has visited in our neighborhood in a most informal and unofficial capacity. But Mrs. Edna Allen of Advance remembers an evening of sixteen years ago very vividly, when the now President-elect came to see "kinfolks".

Mrs. Allen, who today works at the Mary Stuart Nursing Home in Clemmons, was working for the late Mrs. B. R. Bailey of Advance sixteen years ago. She recalls Mrs. Bailey's excitement when unexpected callers arrived. Rushing into the kitchen to alert Edna, she said, "Dick and Patricia are here here."

Mrs. Bailey and Mrs. Nixon were cousins. The newly elected Vice-President and Mrs. Nixon were returning to Washington from a holiday in Georgia and stopped in Advance to see Mrs. Bailey.

Later, as the excitement subsided, Mrs. Allen remembers the then Vice-President-elect coming to the kitchen door to shake hands with her, and saying to her, "The next time I come I want a hoe cake".

The election of Bob Scott as Governor of North Carolina last Tuesday will apparently fulfill a wish made in Mocksville in 1964 by his little son, Kerr.

Kerr, then age 5, and his sister, Meg, accompanied their father to Mocksville that day to attend the annual Masonic Picnic. Governor Terry Sanford was the featured speaker and arrived in "No. 1", the official limousine.

Little Kerr wanted to ride to the picnic grounds in this big car and was promptly invited to do so by Governor Sanford.

On their way to Clement Grove, little Kerr remarked: "I wish my Daddy had a car like this!"

To which Governor Sanford replied:

"Well at the rate he's going he probably will one of these days!"

So following inauguration on January 3rd, little Kerr's wish made four years ago in Mocksville will come true.

The GOOD GUYS are turning up the fever NOW

SO MUCH BEAUTY

Take a look at Dodge Polara. It's all-new from top to bottom. Clean. Low. Handsome. And Polara doesn't just look longer. It is longer than other low-priced cars. See for yourself. At the Dodge Boys'.

SO MUCH LUXURY

How many low-priced cars give you carpeting and big, foam-padded seats as standard equipment? Or concealed wipers and a big, handsome instrument panel? Plus a big, 290-hp V8? Polara does.

SO MUCH ROOMINESS

For years, Polara's given you much more room inside than other cars. This year's Polara's even better. With more shoulder room, hiproom and rear legroom. You get big-car room without a big-car's price.

SO MANY NEW IDEAS

Exclusive with Dodge is the optional, turnpike Super-Lite. It lights the road far beyond the normal low beams without offending oncoming drivers.

NO WONDER THE DODGE BOYS ARE HAVING THEIR BIGGEST TURNOUT IN HISTORY.

HALLOWEEN PARTY

The Mocks 4-H Club meeting was held at Advance Community Building October 31, 1968. There were 13 members present. Everyone enjoyed hotdogs and drinks. Afterwards, we had our business.

The business consisted of a achievement night on November 23, the Christmas party, and our community winning the Community Beautification Award. This was a thrill to us because we helped by picking up litter in a wide area and helped paint mail boxes. This means we have more work to do as our community will be entering the Northwestern Beautification Contest.

Our voluntary firemen and ladies are having a fire school twice a month at the firestation so we staged a fire drill at the community building. The fire department was called by our junior leaders telling them what kind of fire and the number of members inside (15). The fire trucks came. Everyone had pinned on him what was wrong with him. The firemen came into the building with scot-air packs on and they had to find 15 of us. Our instructor, Mr. Charles Blakley, said this was an excellent experience for all that participated. Everyone enjoyed the Halloween Party, but most of all the fire drill.

Mrs. Mary Berridge and Miss Connie Stafford of Rural Hall visited Mrs. Berridge's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Cornatzer, on Saturday night.

John Orrell, Sam Talbert, Milton Carter and Charles Carter spent several days last week at Davis Island fishing. They reported a good catch.

Mrs. John Orrell was honored with a surprise birthday dinner at her home Sunday evening. Guests for the occasion were: Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Cornatzer, Lelia and Julia; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Orrell and Lynn Orrell; Mr. and Mrs. David Smith; and Don Mitchell and a girl friend of Burlington. After dinner guests were Mrs. Betty Potts and daughter, Debbie. Mrs. Orrell received many lovely and useful gifts.

Our community extends deepest sympathy to Mr. Luther Crouse in the death of his sister Mrs. Delia Lanier of Winston-Salem.

Here And There

Wednesday evening prayer services this week are cancelled at Green Meadows Church so that members may visit and share with Bethlehem Methodist Church in their revival services in progress there this week.

Rev. A. C. Cheshire has received word of serious injury in an accident to his nephew in Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Sam Austin entertained her daughter, Diane and several of her friends with a surprise birthday party on her 9th birthday, Saturday afternoon at her home.

Mrs. Hank Williams is still battling the virus bug, but is improved. She expresses her thanks to all her friends and neighbors who have called with food and to do some necessary house work during her illness.

Mitchell Wheeler remains on the sick list, he expects to enter Baptist Hospital on Tuesday; also Sidney Matthews remains in serious condition at the Forsyth Memorial Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred White received word on Sunday of the death of a niece, Mrs. John Allman at East Bend.

Madge Foster of Fork was Saturday visitor of Nancy Langston.

The community extend sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Freedle in the death last week of their son, Gary. Gary was handicapped and had been a patient at the Murdoc hospital for almost three years. He was age 13, and was the son of the former Sarah June Smith.

This has been a year of extremes in the weather. Well, Mother Nature pulled another one on Saturday night. November had been mild with little need of heat in the house, then on Sunday morning we arose to find everything covered in a thin layer of snow which would have been deeper except for the rain.

Hank Williams learned a lesson last week, when he tried to remove an injured dog from the road after it had been hit by a car. He was bitten on both hands several times. Moral of this story is to never touch an injured animal with bare hands.

Union Chapel To Hold Revival Services

Miss Ellen Le Van of Old Town was a Thursday guest of Miss Texie Foster. Miss Foster accompanied her home for an over-night visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Simpson of Carthage spent Friday with Mr. and Mrs. Dan Lawson. Mr. and Mrs. Bob McKee and daughter Elizabeth of Burlington were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lawson on Saturday.

Mrs. Jack Vogler has returned home from Davie Hospital where she recently underwent surgery.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Boger and daughter JoAnn of Farmington were Sunday dinner guests of Mrs. Recie Sheets.

Miss Blanche Foster and Miss Ruth Cress of Mt. Pleasant visited friends in Lexington on Saturday. Miss Foster and Miss Cress were room-mates when they taught school.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Vogler and Miss Blanche Foster visited Mr. and Mrs. Albert Cornatzer and Ellis Foster in Winston-Salem Sunday afternoon.

Several ladies of the community enjoyed a Fellowship supper held at the Methodist parsonage Friday night. Hosts were the Rev. and Mrs. Philip Vaughn. The purpose of thymeeting was to discuss and make plans for a new Womens Society of Christian Service.

ANOTHER KIND OF AMMUNITION — Loaded down with assorted ordnance, Pfc Clarence Ellis has his hands full with a more peaceful type of ammunition for himself. Private Ellis, 20, of Knoxville, Tenn., is a rifleman with Company C, 1st Brigade, 25th Infantry Division. The unit was taking a break southeast of Tay Ninh City.

Cedar Creek

Oh what a surprise to see the snow. By that we know old winter is here. I guess all the children are getting out the sleighs and getting ready for a good time.

There was a good attendance at Cedar Creek Baptist Church Sunday. The devotionals were conducted by brothers Thomas Eaton and Hubert West. The pastor, Reverend Hay, brought the message.

The Cedar Creek Baptist Church Choir sang at the Galilee Baptist Church in Winston-Salem, Sunday, November 10th. The Reverend W. C. Hay was host pastor.

Callers at the home of Mrs. William Eaton one evening last week were Rev. and Mrs. Lonnie Howell of Mocksville; Henry Eaton of Albemarle; and E. J. Eaton. A caller at the home of Mrs. Lula West recently was her son John West of Winston-Salem.

REWARD2..After all is said and done, it may be that Harold Howe III- and not U. S. Sen. Strom Thurmond, Charles Jonas, Jr., or Willis Smith, Jr. -- is mainly responsible for the Carolinas' going for Richard Milhouse Nixon for President on November 5.

Hundreds of thousands of Carolinians felt that Howe unreasonably rammed school integration down their throats. No man since Sherman has ever risen so swiftly to such heights of hatred.

The ballots were hardly cold on the day after election when Harold Howe, U. S. Commissioner of Education, straight-facedly announced that he was resigning December 31 to go with the Ford Foundation.

Howe is a former director of the North Carolina Learning Institute. The vein-splitting criticism directed at Howe did not reach him with great crescendo until he became Commissioner of Education. "First fruits of victory!" said Raleigh Nixonites when they heard Howe's resignation announcement Wednesday evening. There was feeling expressed that the new President should conjure up some type of reward for the man given much of the credit for his win in the election.

SURPRISES...Although three was not a great deal of surprise at the Republican gains in the Legislature, where they occurred caused some throat-clearing in Democratic circles here. The eyebrows-lifters!

One of the big surprises recorded was the loss of C. V. Henkel, one of the most popular men in the last, and some previous, Legislatures. A wealthy hotel and textile man of Statesville, Henkel will be missed in the organization of the 1969 Legislature. He ran for Lieutenant-Governor in 1960, and was beaten out by H. Clody Philpott.

Harry Buchanan of Hendersonville, 70, is-or was--one of the most influential Democrats in Western North Carolina. Few men have done more political favors for that area than "Harry Buch". But there is a lot of Republicans in Haywood, Henderson, and Polk--and oftentimes local wrangles--and Henderson went overhills for Republican Jim Gardner. The whole area was for Nixon. It was just too much for Harry Buchanan to handle.

Claude Hamrick of Winston-Salem was in the House from Winston-Salem in 1961, 1963, 1965, 1967. He ran for the Senate this time and was cut down by the GOP sweep of Forsyth County. A native of Avondale, in Rutherford County, Hamrick would have been a real power in the 1969 session. A good man, a Baptist--and a leader--his church-- Hamrick would come up with a judicial appointment.

Among those falling by the way was Gordon Hanes, also of Winston-Salem, head of Hanes, and a multi-millionaire by anybody's reckoning. A running for another seat in the State Senate, Hanes like Hamrick is a strong legislator, sincere and solid. He is regarded as one of the financial supporters of the Bob Scott campaign. Be that as it may, no Democrats in Forsyth have much of a future--be they Baptist, Methodists, or millionaires--unless or until something can be done about the growing Republican strength there. Hanes was not in the 1967 Legislature, did not run, but was going after his third term in the State Senate. This is the same county that cut down Bert Bennett, one of the State's outstanding Democrats, when he ran for the Legislature two years ago. Forsyth County remains the biggest surprise of all...

What happened to Voit Gilmore over in the Eighth District? Everybody thought it would be reasonably close. But most of the "experts" said Gilmore would make it. Those who did, thought that Rowan's big Republican votes two years ago was a fluke. It wasn't--apparently--for an entire Republican slate is coming to the Legislature from that county. If 1966 was a fluke, the area is still fluking...becoming a habit, the Democrats fear.

OTHERS...It may be, as our next Governor suggested the other day, that Jack Stickley of Charlotte could have made a better candidate than Jim Gardner.

Three or four items, or incidents, hurt Gardner: 1. his lukewarm attitude toward Richard Nixon; 2. his absence from important roll calls in Congress; 3. his mishandling of the press.

However, he ran for Congress unsuccessfully against Harold Cooley; came back next time to win.

You may see him going, as he says, for Governor again. And it may be, too, that Bob Scott--popular son of a popular Governor--was the only Democrat who could have beaten Gardner by over 75,000 votes on Tuesday, November 5.

TO OLD TIME...For the first time in many years, the next Legislature will convene in January. This was set by the 1967 Legislature.

Convening time: Wednesday, January 15.

EARLY START...All of our Governors since 1877 began their terms of office around January 5, 6, 7, 8, 9--along there. Kerr Scott succeeded Gregg Cherry on January 6, 1949. Gov. Cherry took office on January 4, 1945.

Bob Scott is getting the earliest running start of any Governor since Z. B. Vance of Mecklenburg County... Vance was sworn in on January 1--as were many of the Governors prior to Gov. Carr, our first Governor to serve four years as a term (1893-1897). Bob Scott's inaugural--he casually told his staff the other morning--will come on Friday, January 3.

CHRISTMAS DEADLINE

Mocksville's postmaster, Roy Cartner has issued suggested mailing deadlines for Christmas packages and cards.

Domestic parcels bound for distant states should be mailed by Dec. 2, and those mailed to local areas should be sent not later than December 14, Isgett said.

Cards mailed to distant states should be sent not later than Dec. 11, and those bound for local areas should be postmarked by December 14.

Cartner said Christmas gifts for servicemen stationed in foreign countries should be sent according to these deadlines: surface transportation, today; SAM (space available mail airlift), Nov. 23; PAL (parcel airlift), Nov. 30; and airmail, December 11.

Postal officials asked mailers to pack all articles headed for overseas areas in strong boxes wrapped with heavy paper and tied with strong cord.

Parcels should be clearly addressed on one side only, and the address and return address written again inside the package in case the wrapping paper comes off.

Cartner stressed the use of APO and FPO numbers.

Think small. If you save one person from hunger, you work a miracle. Give to CARE, New York 10016

FIRST SNOW!

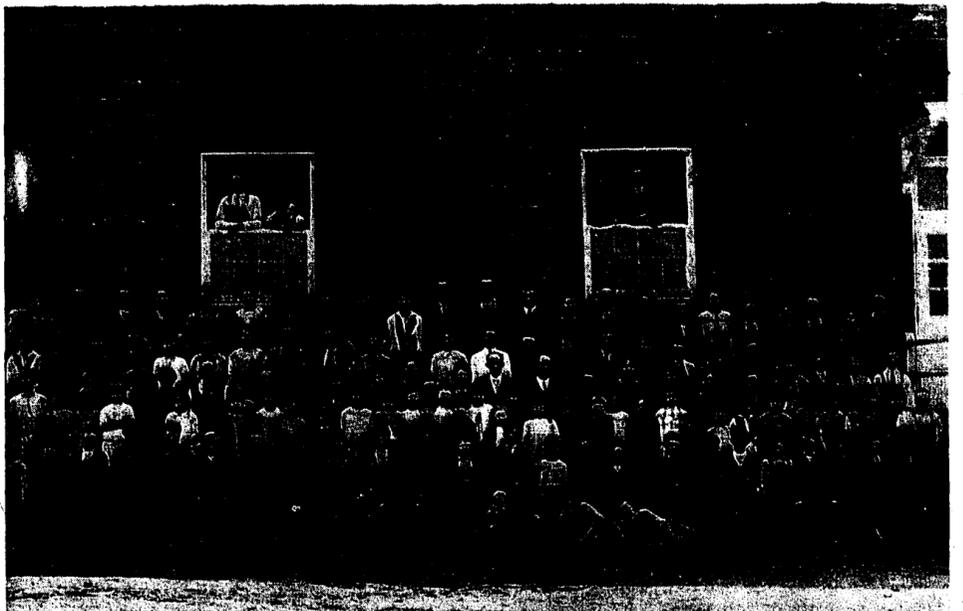

The first snow hit this area last Saturday night.

The white stuff started to fall in Davie County around 7:30 p.m. and 11 p.m. cars, windshields and portions of the ground were covered.

The temperature dropped to 34 degrees around 11 p.m. The official high Saturday was 43 degrees.

The snow was the first for Davie County on November 9 in many, many years. The earliest it has snowed in the past eight years was Nov. 19, 1961. Small traces of snow were reported in the final week of November in 1963, '64, and '66.

The snow last Saturday did not stick to the pavement but the grassy areas were well covered with snow Sunday morning.

Eating Habits And Your Heart

Many healthy persons may unknowingly be increasing their risk of heart attack by eating a typical American diet, the North Carolina Heart Association warns. But moderate changes in such a diet can reduce this risk.

One aim should be to cut down on the intake of cholesterol and saturated fats, which contribute to atherosclerosis, a form of hardening of the arteries underlying most heart attacks. At the same time, there are other goals to keep in mind — maintenance of a nutritionally-adequate diet and, through calorie control, remaining at a desirable weight.

To achieve these aims, the North Carolina Heart Association suggests specific foods that should be used more frequently, and others which should be used sparingly, or not at all. Changes in eating habits can be applied to every meal of the day, and in every course of the meal from appetizer to dessert — literally from soup (skimmed or fat) to nuts (which have no cholesterol and are low in saturated fat).

Chicken, turkey, veal and fish are low in saturated fats, and should be used in most of the meat meals during the week. No more than five meals a week should include beef, lamb, pork or ham. At that, the housewife should choose lean cuts of these meats and trim off visible fat before cooking. Bake, broil, roast or stew the meats and discard the liquid fats which cook out. Certain high-protein vegetables — dried beans and peas, baked beans, lentils — occasionally may be used in place of meat. Three or four ounces of cooked meat or fish (not counting bone or fat) or a similar amount of a high-protein vegetable is recommended as an average portion. Among the fat-laden foods to be avoided are duck, goose, spareribs, mutton, frankfurters, sausages, fatty hamburgers, bacon and luncheon meats. Cholesterol-rich foods to be restricted in use include egg yolks, the organ meats — liver, kidney and sweetbreads — and the shellfish — crab, lobster, shrimp and clams.

Since liver is very rich in vitamins and iron, it should not be eliminated completely from the diet. A four-ounce serving of liver in a meat meal nor more than once a week is permissible. A four-ounce serving of shellfish may be substituted for meat no more than once a week.

Virtually every fresh fruit and vegetable may be used generously and regularly, except for olives and avocados, which are very high in fat calories. The daily intake of margarines and oils should emphasize the polyunsaturated fats, which tend to lower cholesterol levels in the blood.

A note of caution also applies to the use of butter rolls, commercial biscuits, muffin (but not English muffins), doughnuts, sweet rolls, crackers and commercial mixes containing dried eggs and whole milk, sources of both cholesterol and saturated fats. But skim milk fortified with vitamins A and D, skim milk cheeses, buttermilk and yogurt should be used often.

Southern Christmas Show In Charlotte

Flower arrangements, table settings, and door decorations for Christmas will be presented by local garden club members at the first annual Southern Christmas Show.

The show, open to the public, will be held November 21-23 in the Merchandise Mart, in Charlotte. In addition to the flower show section, the Southern Christmas show will present special exhibits by major stores and shopping centers, and bazaars by church groups, extension homemakers, art groups, and other organizations.

It will also offer daily clinics giving instruction on Christmas ideas, plus a holiday fashion show each evening.

Entries in the flower show section will be judged by nationally accredited judges, and winners will be awarded prizes and ribbons.

Artistic arrangements will be presented in six classes under the titles of "Repeat the Sounding Joy," "The Night Before Christmas," "Christmas 2001," "Christmas Memories," "Christmas Dance," and "Highlights of Christmas." Door decorations will be displayed on three-foot wide panels.

The table setting division is by invitation. Presenting a breakfast setting, "Good Morning, Christmas," will be Mrs. J. E. Virgin of Belvedere Garden Club.

"Lunch With Me This Yuletide," will be displayed by Mrs. Fred Baucom of the Country Club Acres Club.

Mrs. Dayton Starnes of the Sheraton Park Garden Club will offer a table setting for a family dinner under the title of "Christmas Bounty."

A buffet called "Southern Hospitality" will be presented by Mrs. R. E. Harris of the Rosemont Garden Club.

Mrs. Charles Alexander and Mrs. Sam Parks are flower show chairmen.

Advance tickets to the Southern Christmas Show are on sale by participating garden and civic clubs, and at the office of Southeastern Shows, Inc., in the Merchandise Mart.

ASK IRS

Q - I started working this Fall. Will enough be taken out of my paycheck to cover the new surtax as well as the regular income tax?

A - For most people, withholding will be sufficient to satisfy their federal tax liabilities this year as it has in the past.

Withholding rates were adjusted in July to take care of the tax surcharge. As you started work after that date, tax will have been withheld at rates set to satisfy your federal income tax liability.

The new tax surcharge will have an effective rate of 7 1/2 percent in 1968. Although the tax surcharge rate is 10 percent it is in effect for only 9 months of the year for individuals. The surcharge on corporation income is in effect for the entire 12 months of 1968.

Q - Our country place was damaged by lightning. Can we deduct the loss?

A - If the loss exceeds $100 and is not covered by insurance you may be entitled to a tax deduction. Generally, the loss is the difference in the value of the property before and after the lightning struck.

For details send a post card to your District Director and ask for a free copy of Document No. 5174, Disasters, Casualties and Thefts.

Q -- I was retired from service because of a disability. Must I file a claim with the Veterans Administration for compensation in order to qualify for vocational rehabilitation?

A -- No. A determination of your entitlement will be made by the VA when you apply for training.

Q -- I recently married. Are there any forms for changing the beneficiaries of my VA insurance?

A -- Yes. VA Form 29-336 is used for this purpose. You may obtain this form from any Veterans Administrations office. When completed the form should be forwarded to the VA office to which you send your insurance premiums. Be sure to show the option under which your insurance will be paid upon your death; i.e. in a lump sum or monthly payments. Any statement in writing over your signature clearly showing how you want the insurance to be paid will be acceptable to the VA.

Well, What Do You Know? fun, games and knowledge

What makes popcorn pop?

Popcorn is different from other kinds of corn, and it's that difference that makes it pop. Popcorn has a hard, tough, waterproof covering. So when popcorn is heated, the natural moisture inside the kernels can't escape. When it's heated enough, though, the moisture turns to steam and the kernels explode.

Does air have weight?

It does, and I'll tell you how you can prove it to yourself and your friends with a simple and interesting experiment. Hammer a long thin nail through the mid-point (the 18-inch mark) of a yardstick. Balance the yardstick by placing each end of the nail on a tall drinking glass, as shown in the picture. Attach an empty balloon with a rubber band to one end of the yardstick. On the other end, to make a perfect balance, tape a dime or penny or attach a paper clip. Now take the balloon off and blow it up. When you attach it again, full of air, you'll see that end of the yardstick dip down. That's because the air inside the balloon has weight and makes it heavier.

Do you know why the engine is usually in the front of a car?

When cars were first invented, the inventors put the engine up front where the horse used to be. But there are other reasons, too. When the engine is up front the rush of air through the radiator grill keeps it nice and cool. And it's much easier to link the controls between the dashboard and the engine.

Do you know how the Amazon River got its name?

A lot of people think a large lady is called an "Amazon" because the Amazon River is big. Not true. It's the other way around!

A Spanish explorer named Francisco de Orellana discovered the South American river in 1541, and one day his party was attacked by a tribe of fierce women. Orellana thought they must surely be descended from a race of women warriors in Greek legend called the Amazons, who lived in Asia. Minor ruled their own country, and had their own army. So he named the river after them.

Veteran's Corner

Q - My mother died recently. She had been receiving a pension as an unmarried widow of a Spanish-Smerican War veteran. Will the Veterans Administration reimburse me for any of her burial expenses?

A -- The Veterans Administration is permitted to make payment of up to $250 for the burial expenses of war veterans only. This benefit cannot be extended to any dependents of veterans.

A Special Luncheon For Two

A woman almost intuitively wants to couch her big news with a special meal to follow. Knowing this, the Design Studios of Onaida Silvermiths arranged a special setting for the tete a tete with all the charm for which such an occasion calls.
Since women generally choose their best table appointments for these occasions, Onaida set the scene with their newest Community Silver-plate pattern, called "Tanger." The overall flower and scroll design has all of the beauty of the art carvings of the Mediterranean, with the detailing set off by a textured black background.
Even with its exotic source, the pattern is perfectly at home in genteel Nouveau Victorian surroundings such as

Picnic Grounds Offered School

Clement Grove, the site of the annual Masonic Picnic since the early 1890's has been offered for sale to the Davie County school system. The agreement to offer the land for sale to the Davie County Board of Education was reached at a special meeting of the membership of the Mocksville Masonic Lodge held last Friday night. The Davie County Board of Education requested to know the availability of the property and price in order to formulate plans for the construction of additions to the Mocksville Elementary School as provided in the recent school bond vote. The property contains about eight acres. "In addition to Clement Grove we must consider some other adjoining tracts. We will not only need the total purchase price for all these tracts but also the cost of development in order to determine whether or not it will be feasible to remain at the present site", said Mr. Everidge. Clyde Glascock, Master of Mocksville Masonic Lodge No. 134, said that the decision to offer the land to the school system was unanimous by the large number of Masons present at the special meeting last Friday night. It was also agreed that if the sale was transacted for the stipulated price and after the Masons replace the picnic facilities at another location, if there is a surplus over and above what was paid for Clement Grove, it is to be refunded to the Davie County Board of Education. Mr. Glascock said that a special committee is presently studying and considering several sites for the picnic grounds, all within a mile of the Town of Mocksville.

Davie County schools will make up time lost this year from weather or other causes at the end of the school year. Supt. If, however, more than five days of school are lost, Saturdays will be used as the additional makeup days.

Rotary Hears About TB Seals

The history of the National Tuberculosis Association was cited to the Mocksville Rotary Club at its meeting, Tuesday. Dr. Quentin Myrvic, President of the Forsyth TB Association, spoke to the Rotarians on what Christmas Seals mean. Dr. Myrvic told the Rotarians that the National TB Association was founded in this country in 1904. About this same time a postal worker in Denmark conceived the idea of Christmas stamps to raise funds for the fight against TB which was the number one killer at that time. Denmark thus became the first country to use Christmas stamps as a method of raising money. Jacob Reis in this country received a package with these stamps and promptly wrote an article urging the adoption by the U. S. of the stamp idea. The idea caught on slow. In 1907 $300 was needed in Delaware to keep a small sanatorium open. A young woman had 50,000 until a columnist on a Philadelphia newspaper saw a challenge in the idea and wrote a column concerning it. Soon it had the backing of leaders throughout the country. In 1908-1909 the Red Cross sponsored the campaign. In 1910-1919 the campaign was sponsored by the Red Cross and TB Association. Since 1920 the campaign has been sponsored by the National TB Association. Dr. Myrvic cited the progress that has been made against TB and other respiratory diseases with funds derived from the sale of these Christmas seals. Dr. Ray Harness had charge of the program and introduced Dr. Myrvic. President O. K. Pope presided. Gene Reeves was the special student guest.

Hickory Hill Club Opens Bids

A special meeting of the board of directors of the Hickory Hill Golf and Country Club, Inc. was held Thursday, November 14, 1968 at the County Office Building on South Main Street for the purpose of opening bids for the construction of the proposed facilities. Bids had been received for construction of the golf course, the irrigation system, the landscaping, the swimming pool and the buildings for the recreation facility. Clarence Sink, County Supervisor of the Farmers Home Administration, was present at the bid opening as construction of the club facilities will be partly financed by an expected $280,000 loan from the FHA. Charles Spear, secretary of the board of directors, said that a great number of the contractors placed bids for one or more of the different proposals. Due to the complexity of the bids received they have been referred to the designers, Russell T. Burney and Associates of Wilmington for tabulation and necessary recommendations. No announcement of the lowest bids will be made until all of the proposals are "broken down". It was also reported by Spear that no contracts for the actual construction will be let by the board of directors until after the loan is closed with the Farmers Home Administration. Other funds to finance the proposed facilities will include the initiation fees received from the membership. During a recent campaign more than 300 families from Davie County applied for charter memberships. Membership dues, which will become payable after the facilities are opened for use, will be used to pay off the loan from the FHA. The proposed recreational facility was planned around one of nine dams scheduled in the Dutchman's Creek Watershed District and will include an 18-hole golf course, driving range, swimming pool, tennis and badminton courts, a clubhouse and pro-shop. The dam, when built, is supposed to provide a 90 acre lake which would be used to irrigate the club's golf course. The entire facility will be constructed on a 200 acre tract which is part of the old P. Huber Hanes plantation, Hickory Hill, and more recently known as the West Arden Farms property. Memberships are still being accepted in the golf and country club at an initiation fee of $250 with dues of $15 per month.

Retarded Children's Month Observed By Local Assn.

The Davie County Association for Retarded Children, joined by the staff of the Davie County Library, sponsored an evening at the Library Monday night of this week to mark November as National Retarded Children's month. During the evening, certificates of Appreciation were presented to the young people who had given so generously of their time and talents for the recreation program provided by the Association for the retarded children of Davie County during July and August, 1968. Without the help of these volunteers a real recreation program would have been impossible. At all times there was at least one volunteer to help each retarded child so that even those children who could not walk were able to enjoy it. The young people who were honored for their help were: Kathy Arnold, Michael Barney, Susan Brinegar, Pat Brock, Debbie Brown, Bill Campbell, Meta Cantaucy, John Chandler, Kathy Clement, Ann Clodfelter, Barry Connell, Cathy Cooley, Kenny Eston, Pat Frye, Pat Gales, Lynette Gude, Toni Hendrix, Beth Hoyle, David Hoyle, Ruth Hoyle, Janet Hoyle, Margaret Hoyle, Tina Hoyle, Martha Hoyle, Weldon Huske, Patricia James, Sandra Kerley, Annette Link, Linda Link, Larry Lanier, Suzanne Martin, Karen Morton, Bernard Johnson,

Hearing Held On Closing Of Davie Road

A public hearing was held here Monday night in regard to a petition by the Davie County Board of Education requesting that public road 1400 (Campbell Road) be closed. An estimated 50 persons attended the meeting, scheduled by the Davie County Commissioners. The majority appeared to object to the proposal. The board of education seeks to close a part of the existing road below Mocksville Middle School. This would involve two homes. The board also seeks to relocate the road. C. E. Landmesser told county commissioners those living in the area would rather have Campbell Road changed to run directly into nearby Highway 158, through an undeveloped street known as Haynes Street. Commissioners delayed any action until the district road engineer can make a study of the proposed change and give his opinion. Another public hearing will be held by county commissioners prior to any final action taken by the board.

A 4-point buck deer ran into the path of a 1966 GMC truck being operated by William Doud Whitaker, 35, of Rt. 2, Coonville, Wednesday, November 14, on NC 801 12 miles north of Mocksville. The car struck the deer killing it. Damage to the front end of the truck was estimated at $30.

Davie Announces Basketball Schedule

The Davie County High School basketball teams will open their 1968-69 season on Tuesday night, December 3rd, against Albemarle here. The Davie teams will play a 20-game schedule with 18 North Piedmont Conference games. Coach Bob Henry announced this week the selection of a twelve man squad to comprise the Rebels this year as follows: Hubert West (F); Steve Zimmerman (F); "Jingle" James (C); Eddie Jones (C); Garry Hendrix (G); R. C. Athey (F); Roger Peebles (G); Steve Beck (F).

"THE JUICY FRUIT SMILE".....is the name given to the above photo that graced the covers of Apple Institute magazines all over the world, including Sweden and Russia. It was made by Max Tharp of Statesville, one of North Carolina's best known photographers in 1946 or 1947 when he was riding through Alexander County. The kid in the picture is Billy Ray Anderson, now a 26 year old man living in Moravian Falls. The picture was found recently in the Enterprise-Record office by Sara Campbell and Duke Sheek who were going through an old box of pictures. Jim Hurley, Editor of the SALISBURY POST, saw the picture and thought it so good that he took it and ran it in the Post last Saturday. This brought in replies that supplied the identification and information given above. The picture was used on the cover of THE CONDUCTOR, the news publication of the Davie Electric Membership Corporation printed here many years ago. (See Page 2)

Davie, Iredell Adopt Food Stamp Program

Davie and Iredell are among the nine additional counties in North Carolina approved for the federal government's food stamp program for low income families. Other counties in the new group are Lincoln, Catawba, McDowell, Pitt, Polk, Richmond and Robeson. A spokesman for the N. C. Welfare Department said today the counties were being notified of their approval Monday by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The nine counties in this state are among 235 areas in 31 states that were approved, bringing 280,000 additional persons into the food stamp program. Twenty-nine N. C. counties already were participating in the program, and there was no estimate given on how many additional persons will be added from the nine designated today. In addition, 70 N. C. counties participate in the Surplus Com-

Membership cards have already been mailed to the first contributors. Others will receive their membership cards in the near future from the Chapel Hill business office of the North Carolina Symphony Society.

— A Man Of Solid Devotion —
DR. S. B. HALL

There is a purpose and place for every man in this world. Some men find it. Some don't!

Stacy Buckner Hall found both his place and purpose.

"Know thy self" should be a cardinal rule for everyone and it was for the man many called Dr. Hall. As he once said: "My temperament, philosophy and general compatibility with people simply does not lend itself to the roles of leadership. This for others and sometimes I envy them. For me I will just have to do what I know how and help and cooperate in my own way."

What this man was saying was: "I had rather be an Indian than a Chief".....and in this modern day trend of having more chiefs than Indians it was quite a virtue.

This did not mean that this man shrank from public service. Quite the contrary. He served as a member of the Mocksville Town Board. He was a charter member of the Mocksville Rotary Club, serving in several of the offices, but passing up on several occasions the opportunity to head the club as president for the reasons cited above. He was a member of the Baptist Church and served the church as a faithful member.

Dr. Hall came to Mocksville in the early 1930's as the pharmacist for what was then Legrand's Drug Store. Later he and Mac Kimbrough formed partnership and opened Hall-Kimbrough Drug Store. This store later became Hall Drug Company in which he remained an active participant with his son.

For more than 35 years Dr. Hall worked closely with the medical profession to supply the medicinal needs of the people of Davie County. Their trust and confidence in him was reflected by the steady and continued growth of his business.

His devotion to his profession of pharmacy was only exceeded by his love and devotion to his family.

In the words of Caussin:

"Solid devotions resemble the rivers which run under the earth—they steal from the eyes of the world to seek the eyes of God; and often it happens that those of whom we speak least on earth, are best known in heaven."

Thus we believe was Stacy Buckner Hall—a man of solid devotion to his place and purpose in life.

Senator Sam Ervin Says:

Electoral College reform may receive priority consideration when the Senate Judiciary Subcommittee on Constitutional Amendments meets next session.

Chairman Bayh of the Subcommittee, of which I am a member, has already indicated that he plans to introduce a bill to abolish the Electoral College method of selecting the President and create in its stead a direct election system. That measure, along with others suggested to revise the system, does not constitute a new idea. Indeed, reform of the Electoral College has been suggested as far back as January 6, 1797, when the Republic was still in its infancy.

In recent years, and particularly since we have come close to having a major constitutional crisis under the present system, reform of the Electoral College has gained support. In the last Congress, I co-sponsored a bill providing for a proportional method of casting the electoral votes of each state. The plan would also abolish the Electoral College, as such, but would retain the electoral vote.

The present system of selecting a President and Vice President is a questionable appendage to our governmental institutions since the rise of political parties. It is indefensible, because the unit rule requirement of counting electoral votes completely disfranchises those who do not vote for the winner within their state. It requires candidates to concentrate on pivotal states where Presidential elections are historically closely contested. Moreover, the present system encourages bloc-voting, since a small group can sometimes determine the course of the entire electoral vote of a large state.

Although there is support for the direct election method, I do not believe that this is the best system that we can devise for the selection of the two highest officials in our country. In the first place, the direct election method does not make any attempt to preserve the identity of the states in the electoral process. The great compromise which made the formation of the Union possible gave each state at least two electoral votes, because membership in the Senate was allotted on a geographical basis. The retention of this state representation is essential to our concept of a Federal system and is necessary for the protection of the interests of the smaller states.

Secondly, I am convinced that there is little chance of ratification for any resolution dealing with direct election of the President. As a practical matter, the legislatures of three-fourths of the states are unlikely to vote away the advantage they now have in the Electoral College. Thirty-six states now receive a proportionately larger representation in the Presidential election process, because of the present system. These states are unlikely to accept a plan which dilutes their vote in the Presidential election.

The proportional system has much to offer as a reform. It would eliminate the "winner-take-all" concept which is objectionable for many reasons. It would abolish the office of elector, but retain the electoral vote. Each candidate would receive the proportional share of each state's electoral vote according to the ratio of popular votes he obtained within the state. Every voter then would have a voice in the election. If no candidate received forty percent of the total electoral votes, the election would be decided by the House and Senate in Joint Session, with each Senator and Representative having one vote. This would eliminate the state unit rule now governing those elections which go to the House.

For these reasons, I plan again to urge the adoption of the proportional electoral system at the next session of the Congress.

Bill Ray Anderson's 'Juicy Fruit Smile'

(Reprint from Salisbury Post, Nov. 19, 1968)

Photographer Tells Story Behind 'Juicy Fruit Smile'

Yesterday The Post wrote briefly about calls received about the "Juicy Fruit Smile" picture found at Mocksville and how it was a most popular picture.

Today in the mail, The Post received a copy of "The Juicy Fruit Smile" picture from the man who knows what he is talking about, Max Tharpe of Statesville, the photographer who took both pictures.

Tharpe said the picture published in The Post Saturday was entitled "Toe" because Billy Ray was wiggling his toe in the picture. The above picture is the one which appeared on so many magazine covers as the "Juicy Fruit Smile" but "Toe" also found its way to the magazine covers. (Ed. Note: We're sort of partial to "Toe.")

Here's what Tharpe had to say about the two pictures:

"He is Billy Ray Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Reg Anderson, formerly of the Pores Knob section of the Brushy Mountains of Alexander County between Taylorsville and Wilkesboro.

"They later moved into Wilkes County near Moravian Falls.

"The picture was used on the back cover of America Illustrated, the U.S. Information magazine circulated in Russia. It was used also on posters and signboards for the National Apple Institute and also by the apple association in Norway. He has been used on covers of many magazines, in a number of books and newspapers.

"Billy Ray was five at the time. He was with his father selling apples along the roadside in the Pores Knob Community.

"A number of people have written editors asking where they could get copies of this picture. I believe Billy Ray earned over $100 himself, plus many extra attentions such as the Wilkes county agent taking him on a tour of Charlotte, including getting him a baseball outfit and watching a ball game.

"One Statesville Sunday School Class took him a car load of clothes when his father was unemployed. They had to ford one or two streams before getting to his mountain home — at the foot of Pores Knob, the highest mountain top in the area and topped with a fire tower.

"The spot was so remote the boys on the trip got the idea of looking for Indian arrowheads. Within a minute they found a tomahawk in a stream at Billy Ray's house along a makeshift road used mainly by

TADPOLES

Most of us step over or around the best live bait we'll ever run across.

That's the word from the fishing experts at Mercury outboards, who have detected a noticeable gap in the knowledge of many fishermen in the subject of tadpoles.

These wiggly, immature frogs can stir up more than the mud in the bottom of a shallow puddle, if given a chance. For, where game fish are concerned, tadpoles rate as a delicacy. And if they happen to be attached to a hook... well, then the fun begins.

Should you need help in acquiring a supply of tadpoles, just ask any four-year-old youngster. He'll be delighted to find anyone who appreciates his efforts. Actually, most fishermen tramp through or cruise around the impid, almost stagnant shallows that are alive with this prime bait.

If you're not quick enough with your hands, borrow the wife's kitchen strainer. Tadpoles are easy to catch; since fish appreciate this fact, the little rascals usually stick to themselves way back in the warm, inaccessible waters.

To use as bait, a tadpole is best hooked through both lips, then cast into a likely spot. If a light weight is necessary, attach it on the bottom with the bait on an 18-inch leader off to the side. Usually they should be allowed to swim around with complete freedom.

Since tadpoles have soft mouths that may result in the bait being slung off during a cast, say the Mercury lads, it may be advisable to secure the hook through the tail.

Little tadpoles can be "big" bait when nothing else seems to click. Give 'em a try.

Loggers. For sometime we have been out of contact with Billy — and a search for him in his old community did not turn up any clues as to where he is today. He was about five years old when the picture was made — probably in the fall of 1948 — so now he would be about 25 years old. Maybe there is a Billy Ray Anderson Jr. with a smile like this.

"Thanks for your interest. Max Tharpe"

BOOK WEEK NOVEMBER 17-23

At left is the pickup truck driven by Tobias Gallher, Jr. and at right the car driven by Mrs. Mary Sanford Abernathy that were involved in an accident Saturday, November 16, on US 64 at the curve near the Sheffield Road entrance. Highway Patrolman R. L. Beane said the accident occurred about 9:20 a. m. when the car driven by Mrs. Abernathy skidded into the left lane, as it rounded the curve, and struck the pickup driven by Mr. Gallher, 49, of Harmony, Rt. 2. Mrs. Abernathy, 21, of High Point, Rt. 5, wife of George W. Abernathy, Jr. was reported in satisfactory condition at Baptist Hospital in Winston Salem. Her daughter, Gwendolyn, 3 years old was reported in serious condition there. She was with her mother as a passenger. Mrs. Abernathy lost control due to the rain-slicked road, Beane said. He said no charges have been made. (editor's note . . . Patrolman Beane stated that Mrs. Abernathy was wearing her seat belt and was not seriously injured while her daughter was not wearing a seat belt and was thrown from the car, receiving a serious head injury.)

Doctor In Kitchen

What is it that fat people and Benjamin Franklin have in common? This question occurred to me in a wild moment the other day. The answer, of course, is thrift. Franklin has been held up to children for years as a model saver. And in my book, a fat person is the perfect demonstration of the body's ability to conserve a great deal of what it takes in.

Our bodies know what they need but not necessarily what they don't need at the moment. The tendency is if too much food comes in for the amount of energy expended, and growth and body repair, the rest will be stored in the form of fat as a hedge against possible future energy needs when the food supply is less. In this case, the body anticipates weight control because if you eat less it will draw on the reserves both for energy and other needs.

But any way you look at it, our bodies will save if given the chance. Our bodies are thus thrifty.

What has all this to do with food for colder weather? Just this: In colder weather, food not only tastes better, but unless we exercise quite a bit, we probably need less food.

So it doesn't hurt to be mindful of our body's thriftiness. And apparently the only way to curb over-thriftiness is by being either a "big spender" or an under-consumer.

A "big spender" would be the guy who exercises like crazy, on the ski slopes, the ice rink, and so forth. Most of us should be under-consumers and simply watch what we eat.

Here are some tips:

Try to eat less heavy meat-and-potato type meals and make a bigger thing of vegetables and fruit. Remember, no one food is fattening. But total calories in your meals must be reduced. Salads are good for you and appetite pleasing. This doesn't mean you'll cut out meats, really, or potatoes, but you'll seek a better balance. Meats, fish, poultry, eggs and cheese, as well as dry peas and beans are all needed, but take it easy if you have a weight problem.

Drink milk and enjoy other dairy products. Two glasses of milk a day are recommended for adults. As said earlier, give new emphasis to vegetables and fruits. Food surveys indicate that people don't consume enough of these foods anyway. And with good judgment, you certainly need breads and cereals.

If you're planning an active day, especially outdoors in quite cold weather, you'll be able to handle heavier meals. But under the conditions most people live today, the greater energy requirements during cold weather are not very large, as they may have been in days gone by. So keep it all in balance and you won't have to reduce in spring.

Charges Pending Accident Report

Charges are pending for hit and run for Prentiss Genera Shifflette, 49, of Hickory as a result of investigation by Highway Patrolman R. L. Beane on Tuesday, November 11, who was advised of an accident on US 64 4 miles west of Mocksville at 7:30 p.m.

The charges are pending from a scientific test. Suspect has been contacted.

Beane's report stated that a 1958 Buick going west on US 64 hit and vehicle going east, left of center, struck the vehicle on the left side, and then left the scene.

Damages were reported at $300.

Insecticides Pose Threat To Nature

The need for knowledge of the ecology of forested areas is becoming increasingly evident as man intensifies his use of forested lands for wood products, watersheds, wildlife habitat, and recreation.

Parallel needs for knowledge of the ecological effects of insecticides and pesticides are also obvious following the widespread use and misuse of these chemicals. Many scientists have voiced concern over the use of insecticides preceding knowledge of the total effects of the substances on the environment, especially upon the species for which the control is being sought.

The use of radionuclide-labeled insecticides, such as malathion and DDT, allows the detection of the pesticide more readily than chemical techniques. As use of pesticides increase, redistribution of the substances becomes critical. Ohio State University, which is studying radionuclide tracer techniques for evaluating the effects of these chemicals on the ecology of marsh wildlife for the Atomic Energy Commission, has found there is evidence that some organisms store large amounts of poisons that later may become toxic to themselves and their predators. Fish resources are also threatened by leaching and runoff of toxicants from watersheds that have been treated with insecticides.

Thus the use of nuclear energy by conservationists is increasing, and through radionuclide tagging of particular ecology systems it is becoming possible to unravel the movements of the animal kingdom.

the south is number

Number one in forest acres. And—despite great progress—still first in the number of forest fires and acres burned in America. And that costs the South money. Millions of dollars in jobs, materials, and products. Plus the priceless waste of wildlife and scenic beauty. Let's get behind Smokey Bear to prevent forest fires in the South. We've worked hard in the past... Let's work harder in the future—to keep the South green and growing.

DISABLED VETERANS RECEIVE QUESTIONNAIRE

The Veterans Administration announced today that nearly two million disabled veterans and veterans' dependents have just received their end-of-the-year annual income questionnaire.

The check-sized income report cards were sent with pension payments mailed November 1.

W. R. Phillips, Manager of the Winston-Salem VA Regional Office, said the deadline for returning the questionnaire to VA has also been moved up from January 31 to January 15.

VA mailed the income questionnaire a month early, Phillips said, to insure the pension checks it will send out at the end of January reflect the new pension rates and income limits that go into effect the first of the year.

The amount of each pensioner's check under the new pension system that starts on January 1 will be based upon the estimated income in 1969 reported by the pensioner on the VA income questionnaire. Without the returned questionnaire containing the estimate of income for next year, VA, by law, cannot pay a beneficiary a pension.

As a result of these changes, more than 1.1 million pensioners will receive approximately $120 million in increased pensions next year.

In addition to changing pension rates and income limits, Public Law 90-275, signed by the President last March, also provided that no beneficiaries on the VA pension rolls would have their pensions reduced in 1969 as the result of increased Social Security payments.

VA pensions are payable to war veterans with limited incomes and total nonservice-connected disabilities and to widows and other dependents of war veterans who meet established income limitations.

Approximately 575,000 pensioners continue to receive VA benefits under an "old law" in effect prior to July 1, 1960, when the "new law" covering nearly 1.4 million beneficiaries was enacted. However, because it may now be to their advantage to come under the new law, these old law pensioners will be given another opportunity between February 1 and May 1 next year to change over.

If they elect to change before May 1, any additional benefits due them under the new law will be paid retroactively to January 1, 1969.

Information explaining the benefits of the new law together with a sign up card will be mailed to them at the end of January. Meantime, VA will send a notice with the pension check and income questionnaire to be mailed about November 1, advising them in advance of the upcoming conversion opportunity.

Transportation Industry Licks 'Calorie' Problem

NEW YORK (AP)—If medical science matches the transportation industry's sure-fire formula for losing weight, calorie counting would be a much less active pastime.

One transportation industry answer to this age-old problem is aluminum.

Take the TurboTrain, for example, the swift, new light-weight passenger train. It is operating between Boston and New York as part of a high-speed around transportation project under contract to the U. S. Department of Transportation.

The basic design philosophy of the TurboTrain is the elimination of unnecessary weight. This is achieved by using a lightweight power system and aluminum construction.

Greater Strength

While major weight savings are made through design and elimination of various components, the design actually provides greater structural strength than conventional passenger cars. A seven-car TurboTrain weighs 300,000 pounds, about one-third the weight of a diesel-powered train of the same capacity.

Another example of how the transportation industry solved a weight problem is the new Queen Elizabeth II, now nearing completion in Scotland.

Reduced overall weight in shipbuilding automatically effects savings in installed power. In large passenger liners, such as the new Queen, weight saving makes possible extra deck accommodations.

Savings In Fuel

Thus, with the new liner it has been possible to incorporate an extra deck. This allows the new Queen to carry as many passengers as the old Queen at the same cruising speed but with half the fuel consumption.

The Ford Motor Company solved a weight problem in developing the Mark IV sportsprototype. The solution: aluminum honeycomb core sandwich panel construction, the core being the lightest, strongest structural technique known.

WANTED BY THE FBI

JOHN WILLIAM CLOUSER

John William Clouser, a Florida mental hospital escapee, who has vowed not to be taken alive, is one of the FBI's "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives."

On the night of April 2, 1964, Clouser and three other inmates escaped from the Florida State Hospital in Chattahoochee and reportedly forced two hospital employees to drive them to the Columbus, Georgia, area. The hostages were robbed but released unharmed. A Federal warrant issued at Montgomery, Alabama, on April 9, 1964, charges Clouser with transporting a stolen car from Georgia to Alabama, where the stolen car was recovered abandoned.

A former police officer, Clouser was admitted to the Florida State Hospital in February, 1964, after being adjudged mentally insane. He was then facing numerous criminal charges and had earlier been convicted of participating in the robbery, kidnapping and beating of two theater managers. His conviction was appealed, however, due to a state error, and he was released and granted a new trial.

He is a white American, born at Chicago, Illinois, on March 29, 1932. He is 5'9" tall, weighs from 165 to 180 pounds and has blond hair, blue eyes, a stocky build and ruddy complexion. He is tattooed with a panther on his right shoulder and a heart pierced with an arrow on his left shoulder.

He is described as a sadist who would not hesitate to beat a victim to death, is an expert pistol shot, exercises and lifts weights regularly and is proficient in Judo and Karate. Consider him extremely dangerous.

Should you receive any information concerning the whereabouts of John William Clouser, you are requested to immediately notify the nearest office of the FBI, the telephone number of which may be located on the first page of local telephone directories.

Nails a Bargain But Poor Choice Can Be Costly

NEW YORK (AP)—Are you one of those do-it-yourselfers who will be remembering all winter long the mistakes you made last summer?

Like hammering in nails that are already beginning to rust?

Nails are inexpensive but a poor choice can cost you a lot of money. A new paint job may be needed if those nails rust and streak the exterior of your house.

Problems like this, which increase home maintenance costs, can be avoided by using the proper nail. Those made of aluminum offer homeowners something that adds permanent value to the home on which they are installed.

They are specially processed to produce a product that is completely free of red rust.

Nail Sizes Vary
 Aluminum nails come in sizes ranging from less than one inch to more than seven inches in length. And they're available for every building application.

While you're unlikely to do a major nail job around the home this winter, there may be one or two smaller projects you're considering where nails are necessary—an aviary or a dog house, perhaps.

After all, why shouldn't birds' and dogs' houses also benefit from the stain-free, low maintenance characteristics of aluminum?

Colors Changing Cookware Image
 NEW YORK (AP)—There's good news for husbands who would like to give their wives cookware for Christmas but are hesitant because they think it lacks glamor.

Cookware doesn't lack glamor anymore.

Today's pots and pans are no longer a necessary evil that must be hidden before dinner guests arrive. Cookware designers have changed them from unsightly kitchen drudges into attractive and functional utensils that can sit with pride at any dinner table.

Color has come into cookware in a big way. Today, high-fashion aluminum cookware compares in decorative value with any kind of home furnishings gift.

The craze for color has prompted manufacturers to add a pineapple hue to their line. They are also coming out with colors called pimento, avocado and nutmeg.

Other colors include orange blaze, turquoise, copperstone, desert sand, dancing flame, harvest gold, various reds and blues, charcoal grey, apple green and white and black.

ASK IRS

Q - Why isn't a check made out to cash acceptable as proof of a charitable contribution?

A - To substantiate a deductible expense your records must indicate, among other things, the purpose of the expense, to whom paid, as well as the amount.

A check made out to cash or to yourself gives no indication by itself of the nature of the expense. This kind of check must be supported by other records, such as receipts, to be useful in proving any deductions you claim.

A check made out to a specific organization, a charity for example, may well be sufficient to establish that a deductible contribution has been made.

Q - I've made a substantial pledge to my church's building fund. Can I take this deduction on my 1969 return if it is to my advantage?

A - Deductions for charitable contributions can only be taken for the tax year they are actually paid. If you pay all or part of your pledge this year then you must take the deduction on your 1968 return for the amount actually paid. To take the deduction on your 1969 return you should postpone your payments until 1969.

AUTO PLATE TREND
 NEW YORK (AP)—With this year's changeover by Idaho to aluminum for automotive license plates, 22 states now are using the durable, lightweight metal.

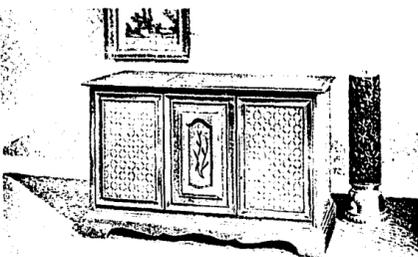

Major economies are possible because of the metal's long service life, less costly mail distribution and handling, higher scrap value and reduced administrative costs.

 NEW YORK (AP)—More aluminum is being used in new cars than ever before but if you're a new car owner you're probably noticing it less.

The explanation is that while use of aluminum in auto trim and accessories has declined slightly because of styling changes, it has increased in under-the-hood items, notably transmissions and engines.

Scientists Find--

Grizzlies Hold Own

Montana University's Cooperative Wildlife Research Unit has been investigating the grizzly bear through the use of radiotelemetry to determine whether this vanishing species is increasing, holding its own, or whether the population is decreasing.

grizzly is holding its own in Yellowstone, and the species may actually be increasing slightly.

This Atomic Energy Commission-sponsored study has been quite successful and it has already been determined that

The Atomic Energy Commission has a direct interest in the grizzly bear studies, since this is a major species. The Commission wants to know how these animals live, breed, act and react in a normal environment before investigating whether radiation can threaten the species by disrupting the life cycle.

The Montana Wildlife Research Unit has been studying the vanishing grizzly bear through radiotelemetry. A bear is trapped alive, is administered a tranquilizer, given a small identifying mark beneath the front leg, and a radio transmitter is placed on a collar about its neck.

Macedonia News

As the little song goes, "The North Winds doth blow, and we shall have snow", so we did last week. This was a record for so early in the winter season. A lot of us had to use our fireplaces for heat as well as a means of cooking. The children enjoyed making their snowmen and playing in the snow, but the Moms and pops were not as enthused over the prospects of having to stay warm by the crackling flames of the open fireplaces and trying to figure out what they could cook there, on the grills, or whatever means they had. But, we survived and will be as unprepared the next time as we were this time, because we will say, it won't happen again.

The Triennial Synod of the Southern Moravian Church closed Saturday night. The Rev. Clayton Persons, pastor at Trinity Moravian Church was elected president of the Provincial Elders Conference of the Moravian Church, South, the Provincial governing body. Macedonia had a communion service Sunday night and also had special prayer by the pastor and the Elders for the new leaders of the synod and the new undertakings of the Moravian Church. Macedonia had as delegates to the synod, Charlie Sapp, Frank Myers and Rev. Loflin.

Nancy Sparks spent a few days last week in Jacksonville, N. C. attending the N. C. State Student Council Congress. She attended lots of meetings and enjoyed meeting and making new friends. Among those attending were about 36 exchange students from various parts of the world.

John Nahory of Charlotte spent the weekend with his grandmother, Mrs. Grace Call and Mrs. Nera Godbey.

The general public is invited to attend "The Star of Wonder" planetarium program. Shows begin promptly on the hour and last about 45 minutes. Visitors will not be admitted to programs already in progress. There is no admission charge. Parents are requested to accompany their children under the age of 10.

The Christmas program will be given by Bill Suggs, Center Space Science Specialist. The taped nativity scripture will be by Rev. Porter Seiwell, chaplain of Catawba College.

The presentation will deal with the religious, historical and scientific background of the birth of Christ, with emphasis on the star mentioned in the Scriptures. Paintings of the Nativity from the works of famous artists will be used to illustrate the program.

THE STAR OF WONDER program will be given on week-days throughout the months of November and December from 8:30 AM to 5 PM and on Sunday afternoons, December 1 and December 15 at 3 PM and at 4 PM.

A full basement is one of the features in a house plan available to Davie County citizens through the Agricultural Extension Service. Plans for the house, Plan No. 7180, also call for many other features which make this house outstanding, according to Leo Williams, County Extension Chairman. Among these other features are "three ample bedrooms, a pleasantly proportioned living room with optional fireplace, a functional kitchen-dining area, and outstanding storage facilities." The first floor of the house contains 1,440 square feet of floor space. The basement contains another 1,440 square feet and the carport calls for 336 square feet. The compact U-shaped kitchen has sufficient counter area and storage space for the average family. The dining area has a built-in desk or sewing center. Complete working drawings of the plan are available from the county extension office or from the extension agricultural engineer at North Carolina State University.

FAMILIAR NAMES... Although there will be a lot of new names in the 1969 Legislature which gathers here on January 15, many of the lawmakers...or their kinfolk...have been known to North Carolinians for some time now...

Among them are:

---State Sen. Charles H. Larkins, Jr., of Kinston. He's a newcomer, head of the Larkins stores. He is a nephew of Federal Court Judge John Larkins of Trenton, in Jones County. Judge John was an oldtimer--though still young (he's now only 58)--when he decided he'd been in the State Senate long enough. He ran for Governor in 1960. Young Larkins, in effect, is filling the Senate seat occupied so effectively by Thomas White, also of Kinston...and who may become Scott Legislative Aide.

---State Sen. Lindsay C. Warren, Jr., of Goldsboro. He is now attaining some veteran status in the Legislature. Lindsay's father, still living in Little Washington, was in the U. S. House of Representatives; was appointed Comptroller General by Franklin D. Roosevelt; retired to return to North Carolina haunts; and served in the State Senate with tremendous influence....

---State Sen. Edward F. Griffin of Louisburg (Seventh District), one career behind him...has launched another. He is the former Mr. Civilian Defense of North Carolina. Although a newcomer to the Senate, he has a lot of dignity, bearing and contacts....

---For a man serving only his second term, State Sen. John H. Burney of Wilmington has a great deal of strength in the Legislature. A son of Superior Court Judge John Burney...and a chip off of the old block if there ever was one...Sen. Burney first achieved Statewide notice as a big backer of I. Beverly Lake in 1960. Keep an eye on him...quite a person.

---State Sen. Claude Currie of Durham--old bachelor...He will be 78 years of age on December 8. Sen. Currie will be the dean of the Legislature in years and point of service.

Lean and leathery, and always smiling, he has served the State Senate as follows: 1945, 1947, 1949, 1953, 1955, 1957, 1959, 1961, 1963, 1965, 1967. What does he do when he is not in the Legislature? He is the man chiefly responsible for the great growth of the Security Savings and Loan Association in Durham...is now chairman of the board of directors...a native of Montgomery County.

---State Sen. William W. Staton of Sanford. A close friend of the Terry Sanford Group in the Democratic Party, he served in the House in 1967...first time in the Legislature. Had Hubert Humphrey been elected President, it is not beyond the realm of imagination that Staton could have gone to Washington...and he wanted to...in some important capacity...He is a leading Baptist...was Democratic National Committeeman while Sanford was Governor.

---State Sen. John T. Henley of Fayetteville, a druggist...has quite a bit of legislative experience now. Like Staton, a close personal friend and admirer of Terry Sanford...and was appointed State Purchasing Officer by Gov. Sanford in 1963...served until 1965. This will mark his sixth term in the Legislature...four of them in the House. You can understand the influence Sen. Henley will have....

---Sen. Ralph H. Scott of Haw River. He's an uncle of Gov. Elect Bob Scott. Rough as pigiron, hard as rock, honest as the sunlight...a real, uncompromising liberal...one of the truest friends Education has ever had in North Carolina. No sham at all. Sen. Ralph will be 65 this coming December 12. You may be sure he will be right in there pitching with Gov. Bob Scott...when he thinks the Governor is right...just as he did for brother W. Kerr Scott in the State Senate of 1951.

Legislature in the House two years ago. Bowles was one of the key men in the Sanford regime. Independently wealthy, handsome and likeable, Skipper Bowles was head of the N. C. Department of Conservation and Development in 1961-65. He is also expected to be in there pitching for Gov. Scott....

---State Sen. William P. Saunders of Southern Pines...and like Skipper Bowles formerly headed up the operations of the sprawling Dept. of Conservation and Development. He is 71, a retired manufacturer, and a close friend of former Gov. Luther Hodges...and quite an influential person...with a lot of sincerity and dignity.

---State Sen. Hecotr MacLean of Lumberton. He is the son of the late Angus W. MacLean, Governor of North Carolina from 1925 to 1929. Often mentioned for Governor, but never a candidate, Sen. MacLean (his father incidentally, spelled the name "McLean") began his service in the State Senate in 1962. A banker (Southern National), he has a lot of time ahead, is only 48 years old...and is said to be politically ambitious.

---Coming to the Legislature for the first time is one of the old-time Republican leaders of the State. He is Odell Sapp of Rowan County. Give him much of the credit for converting solidly Democratic Rowan into what now seems to be...to the great surprise of leading Democrats in Raleigh...a solidly Republican area. Sapp, who used to be quite a baseball player, manager, etc., back in the 20's, is an automobile dealer....

---A thorn in the flesh of Democrats in the State Senate...House, too...in 1967 is coming back to give them the lash once again. And, alas, this person is a woman...and the senators are, first and foremost, courteous Southern gentlemen. Her name is Mrs. Geraldine Nielson of Winston-Salem...a native of Utah, wife of Dr. E. D. Nielson...and a whip!!

Chevrolet's got a big surprise for the guy who'd buy a sports car if only it had more room. It's the Impala SS 427.

Like all Impalas, it comes with a 119-inch wheelbase, Astro Ventilation and full door-glass styling. Like all Chevy Sportsters, it comes with a beefed-up suspension and grabby red-stripe wide oval tires.

Under the hood, it's more of the same. We tucked in a 427-cubic-inch 390-horsepower Turbo-Jet V8.

That means it's the kind of car you can take for a workout even if you're just going to work.

There's driving excitement in these other packages too: Corvette

Stingray, Chevelle SS 396, Camaro SS, Camaro Z/28 and Nova SS.

Vaaaarrrroooooomm!

Listen for it at your Chevy dealer's Sports Shop.

SCHOOLDAY

Recent surveys show that six out of every ten girls and four out of every ten boys have very poor diets. According to the United States Department of Agriculture the older the child the poorer the diet. Calcium and Vitamin C are the nutrients most often lacking in teen-age diets. Iron is often low too. Teen-agers, especially girls, worry about gaining weight.

What are the reasons for teenagers being so poorly fed? According to surveys made by United States Department of Agriculture these are some of the reasons:

1. Teen-agers do not eat breakfast. They do not have the time to eat because they overslept. They don't have time to fix breakfast or it hasn't been prepared in time. Girls think if they skip breakfast it will help them to reduce. Children do not generally make up at other meals the nutrients which they miss in skipped breakfasts. Research studies show that the children who do not eat breakfast do less well in school, perform physical tasks less well, and may be more irritable and emotionally unstable. Breakfast need only contain a protein-high food, at least one food for energy, some milk, and a piece of fruit or a serving of fruit juice. 2. Teen-agers choose snacks poorly. A recent survey shows that one-fourth of the teen-agers calories, the equivalent of an entire meal, come from snacks. These snacks contain chiefly fat, sugar, and starches with very few vitamins, minerals, or protein if any.

This poor choice of food is much more serious for a teen-age girl between the ages of twelve to fifteen years old who needs only 2,500 calories and a sixteen to eighteen years old who needs 2,300 than for a boy who requires 3,000 calories for twelve to fifteen years old or 3,400 for fifteen to eighteen years old.

All girls want to be attractive. One way to do this is by having good health based on good foods.

What about learning? Many teachers say that they can't teach a hungry child. Malnutrition results in "Children who are less able to learn and to earn than their genetic potential would otherwise allow". Even with the best teachers, a student who is apathetic because of poor nutrition will be a slow learner.

Eat fresh fruits for snacks. Strawberries, apples, bananas and peaches have few calories, but high food value for overfed, poorly nourished teen-agers. In order to remain healthy you must include in your diet proper amounts of certain nutrients. A large share of your day's needs can be supplied by milk. You need large amounts of calcium and phosphorus to build and solidify bones. Calcium is needed for proper function of nerves and muscles and for clotting of the blood. Your chief source of usable calcium is milk. One quart provides 85% of your day's need of calcium along with 68% of your day's need of phosphorus.

Those lighting the earth were: Mr. John Sheek, the oldest member; Mr. Elmer Hendrix, Chairman of Building Committee; Mr. Reid Hauser, Chairman of Board of Deacons; and Mr. Jimmy Zimmerman, contractor of the building.

The community was saddened last week with the death of a son Gary of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Freedle, and also Mr. Hy Poindexter of Huntsville.

What's up with Southern Railway containers these days?

Just about everything but their highway chassis.

To us it just doesn't make sense to rail-haul the deadweight of highway wheels and underframes. So we leave the highway chassis behind, working at the terminal, while freight-filled containers make the long-haul journey by economical rail. At the other end, the containers are loaded onto other chassis for the short highway haul to final destination. Containerization—we helped pioneer it—is the ideal way of "packaging" freight for intermodal transportation by rail, highway, sea, even air. It saves shippers money. It helps keep our costs down, too, so we're better able to maintain competitive rates that combine with service to help our customers squeeze the waste out of their distribution.

Jehovah's Witnesses To Attend Seminar

JERRY C. SMITH

Jehovah's Witnesses in the Mocksville area accepted an invitation to attend a circuit seminar in High Point, N. C., announced resident minister, Jerry C. Smith.

The three-day semi-annual assembly, beginning November 22, will draw over 700 delegates from Virginia and North Carolina.

Smith said the purpose of the gathering is to evaluate current world conditions in the light of Bible prophecy to enable the delegates to locate the stream of time in which the present generation finds itself. This will create a greater zeal for the delegate minister in his desire for Bible study not only for himself but also in the home Bible study program conducted in their respective communities by the Witnesses. "Sharing Fully in Preaching the Good News" is the convention theme that will feature circuit ministers in talks, discussions, forums and dramatizations on the urgency of the time remaining for the Good News to be preached," said Smith. "Sessions are scheduled on subjects such as 'Moral Responsibilities of Parents and Youth', 'Using Our Tongues in God's Healing Work', and 'Sharing Our Good Things With Others.'"

The convention highlight is the scheduled public address on "God's Way is Love" to be delivered by Joseph Saia, a district director for Jehovah's Witnesses from Brooklyn, New York.

We should thank God for the fine crew that REA has that worked day and night that we might have our power back; also the kind patience the girls had when answering the phone. Thanksgiving

Thanksgiving reflects the American spirit more than any other holiday, although it was celebrated in the ancient world long before a turkey ever graced a platter.

The Old Testament refers to many harvest festivals. Centuries before the people of the Nile learned to measure a year, they gave annual thanks for the grain crops that would carry them through the hard months ahead, the National Geographic Society says.

The ancient Greeks honored Demeter, goddess of growing things. The ceremonies were so important that warring states called a truce to observe them.

PORK ANTEDATED TURKEY

The Romans carried on the tradition by saluting Ceres, the grain goddess. The word "cereal" recalls the deity. Plebeians sacrificed a sow to begin the holiday and continued with processions, dancing, and sports.

In the New World, many Indians regularly practiced thanksgiving rituals. The Iroquois of New York State, for instance, still ceremonially give thanks for "blessings provided by the Creator for the enjoyment and well-being of mankind."

The Pilgrims remembered the harvest-home festivals of England and set a pattern for Thanksgiving in the United States as a day of worship, feasting, and family reunions.

The holiday didn't really catch on until the time of the Revolution, however.

Throughout the war, the Continental Congress designated annual days of gratitude for victories. In 1780, soon after the Benedict Arnold plot was exposed, the annual message particularly thanked the Almighty for looking after the Commander-in-Chief "when treason was ripened for execution."

The tradition continued to find favor after independence. In 1789, Elias Boudinot, member from New Jersey, rose in the new Congress and proposed that the President recommend a day of Thanksgiving for the successful establishment of the United States Constitution. President George Washington set aside the last Thursday in November.

CELEBRATED BY LOCAL WHIM

But the holiday generally became an off-again, on-again affair until the Civil War. At one time, people in various states celebrated Thanksgiving on separate dates and in eight different months.

President Abraham Lincoln revived Thanksgiving as a national day in 1863. "Peace," he said, "has been preserved with all nations, order has been maintained, the laws have been respected and obeyed, and harmony has prevailed everywhere, except in the theater of conflict."

There might never have been a national Thanksgiving holiday, if Sarah Hale hadn't won over President Lincoln.

A philanthropic widow, mother of five, and author of "Mary Had a Little Lamb," Mrs. Hale also was the forceful editor of GODEY'S LADY'S BOOK, the most widely circulated magazine of the day. For more than 20 years she crusaded for a November Thanksgiving Day. Finally, President Lincoln found her plea irresistible.

Thanksgiving means many things to many people. However, no one can express with truer sincerity the meaning of Thanksgiving than a small child. The above is a bulletin board in the second grade class of Miss Viola D. Morgan at the Mocksville Elementary School. The children of the class expressed individually what Thanksgiving meant to them by the making of posters. The consensus of this class of 8-year-olds is that THANKSGIVING MEANS: HOME . . . FOOD . . . FAMILY . . . CHURCH. And we believe that it does. Not only to just these youngsters . . . but to all of us. We may express this meaning in other words and phrases, but to boil it all down simply . . . this is what Thanksgiving really means. Pictures of some of these second grade pupils and their drawings concerning Thanksgiving may be seen on Page 7 of this issue.

West Shady Grove voted 94%, voting 372 out of a registration of 396 for 94%. East Shady Grove voted 442 out of 472 for a 93 1/2%.

BI-RACIAL COMMITTEE APPOINTED FOR DAVIE

Mayor D. J. Mando and H. R. Hendrix, Jr., chairman of the Davie County Commissioners have met with Rev. Ivan Ijames and appointed a Bi-racial committee.

Those on the committee include: Mr. Mando, Mr. Hendrix, Frank Cox, Doug Collins, James McBride, Calvin Ijames, Henry Dulin, J. K. Sheek, Jr., Otis Williams and A. M. Kiser, Jr.

This committee was appointed following the recommendation of a group which met back in June. The purpose of the committee is to help secure qualified, competent negroes in various positions in industry and business other than menial tasks. The committee is not to act as a pressure group, but merely as a liaison group to the business and manufacturers.

Rev. Ijames was most cooperative and insisted that he was not advocating an all-out employment of negroes - but to merely give an opportunity to the well qualified and competent negro.

Mayor Mando stated that "we have had very good race relations in our county, and it is due to the cooperation of the negro leaders and the negro citizens in our county. We feel that the establishment of this committee will enable us to continue our good relationship."

(Editor's note - the chairman of the County Commissioners will automatically serve on this committee. When a new chairman is chosen he will replace Mr. Hendrix.)

Davie County To Contribute $1,828,000 To Social Security

Residents of Davie County will soon have to pay the piper for the increase in social security benefits that went into effect this year.

Beginning on January 1st, local wage earners and their employers will be hit with an increase in payroll taxes to finance the bigger pension checks that are now being issued.

Working people who are covered by social security will begin paying at the rate of 4.8 percent on the first $7,800 of earnings. Matching contributions will be made by their employers.

The new rate represents a rise over the 4.4 percent that has been in effect this year.

For those who are self-employed, the rate will go from the present 6.4 percent on the first $7,800 to 6.9 percent. The new maximum tax for them will be $538.20.

What it amounts to, for residents of Davie County, is an overall increase of approximately $200,000 over the total paid for social security in the current year by local workers and employers.

The figures are based upon data released by the Social Security Administration, the Internal Revenue Service and others.

They show that the nation's jobholders and their employers turned some $25.5 billion into the Social Security Trust Fund last year and that this year's total will be well over $27 billion. Davie County's contribution to the 1968 amount will be approximately $1,828,000, it is estimated.

And next year, under the new rates, it will be close to $2,028,000, based on the same number of workers.

For a person earning $4,000 a year, the tax will be $192 instead of the $176 paid this year. At the $5,000 level it will be $240, as against $220 this year. Those earning $6,000 will be paying $288, as compared with $264 previously.

The largest tax, for those with incomes of $7,800 or more, will be $374.40. It has been $343.20.

These rates will apply, under present plans, during 1969 and 1970, after which there will be additional hikes each two or three years.

Unless Congress votes a further expansion of benefits, the maximum will be reached in 1987, when a person earning $7,800 will pay $460.20 into social security.

BOUNTIFUL FOOD SUPPLY

Any way you want to slice it, the nicest thing about our food supply is that there is plenty to slice. One hears complaints that the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture has this program or that, that costs taxpayers money. Some writers refer repeatedly to the "farm scandal" as though something is going on out there that is sinful indeed.

All I know is we have the best food supply in the world. And other countries wish they could do as well.

This has got to mean that American farmers are the best. And they've been helped no little by our system of land grant agricultural colleges and universities which have conducted most of the agricultural research and passed the know-how on to the farmer. There also is no little credit due such free enterprise organizations as those businesses that supply agriculture. Put it all together and you have something to be both proud of and grateful for. We are healthy and strong. And we can help feed less fortunate people elsewhere in the world, not just with food itself but agricultural know-how as well.

Meantime, though, there are two problems at home. The first is how to share the food supply more fully with all our people. Some Americans are significantly undernourished because of poverty. We must find answers to that. Other Americans are under-nourished because they make poor food selections even though they can afford whatever they need. Well, columns like this one are an effort to interest people more in knowing how they should eat.

The second problem is related to our friends who are overnourished. Overweight people are found among the rich and even more often in poorer families. These people, obviously, are also in the class of those who don't know what they should eat, or at least if they know, they don't practice good sense.

So we have the world's most bountiful food supply. We also have problems. But these are identified and that's half the battle. Frankly, I'm hopeful.

As for our food suppliers, there's a word to say, too, for the food processors and distributors who do such a magnificent job of daily offering us the widest variety of foods in all seasons. Today's food technology coupled with the refrigeration and distribution systems we have in the United States are a miracle indeed. Your milk comes to you in impeccable condition. Other foods are packaged attractively and with efficiency. Flavor and color receive maximum protection. There is every variety of convenience foods if you don't want to really fix things yourself. And there are sizes and quantities of packaging to match every need from the large family to the person who lives alone. It's all quite a performance.

Oklahomans Nominate 'Favorite Son' As National March of Dimes Child

Tracy Greenwood, March of Dimes Poster Child for 1969, sounds much like any other 5-year-old boy. He puts on a cowboy hat when he climbs up on his father's tractor at their home in Oklahoma. He wrestles with his older brother, Jamie, and takes care of his menagerie of pets.

None of this is easy for Tracy. Born with an open spine and hydrocephalus (water on the brain), the handsome, impish youngster is encumbered by full leg braces and wooden crutches. Yet, as any visitor to the Greenwood's neat home in Velma can see, Tracy has conquered the heavy equipment with humor, determination and the constant encouragement of his family. Doctors were pessimistic about his chances for survival when Tracy was born. They feared permanent brain damage if he lived and doubted whether he would walk at all.

At 3 months, he was taken to Children's Memorial Hospital in Oklahoma City where the March of Dimes supports a Birth Defects Center, and has undergone major surgery five times.

For Tracy, the March of Dimes program of comprehensive care consists of regular checkups by an orthopedist, neurologist, urologist and physical therapist. His mother helps him with daily exercises at home.

Today, he is a symbol of the quarter of a million babies born every year in the United States with birth defects. As National Poster Child, he will represent them in cities and towns across the country during January for the annual fund-raising appeal by the March of Dimes.

The voluntary health agency is now in its second decade of leading the fight to prevent birth defects. In this period, it has established a nationwide network of 103 birth defects centers where outstanding teams of medical professionals search for the causes of these tragedies and provide the most modern treatment and rehabilitation.

Tracy Greenwood is an example of the progress they are making. His pretty young mother, Betty, says, "We wouldn't have Tracy today if it weren't for March of Dimes research. They came up with the answers needed for our son and children like him." Although he has been singled out for national attention, he is still called "Hound Dog" at home. Bright, happy and well-adjusted, his full day begins at 7 a.m. He spends as much time as possible playing outdoors with his brother, Jamie, who is 7 and in normal health.

Tracy is developing extra strength in his upper body as a result of his exercises. He puts this advantage to work during wrestling matches with Jamie and proudly announces the news when he "gets" his brother.

Tracy is an avid television fan whose tastes run to cartoons. His favorite books are animal stories and he lavishes attention on his rabbits, Hoppy and Freckles, his cat, Prissy, a Welsh Terrier named Susie, and Puff, a German Shepherd. The Greenwoods drew the notice of fellow "Sooners" after local news stories appeared about the tragedies they had faced and overcome. Mr. Greenwood suffered near-fatal injuries three years ago when the gasoline truck he was driving exploded. Betty Greenwood carried on courageously and has been rewarded by the excellent progress that both her husband and son are making.

As a result, the March of Dimes was bombarded with petitions on Tracy's behalf from thousands of Oklahomans, including U. S. Congressman Carl Albert (D. Okla.), House Majority Leader.

Cars Meet On Curve - Collide

An accident occurred Wednesday, November 20, at 9:15 p.m. on the Cornatzer Road 5 miles east of Mocksville. State Trooper A. C. Stokes investigated and gave the following account:

Dixie Gray Tuggle, 16, of Rt. 4, Mocksville, driving a 1966 Chevrolet, was going south and met a 1955 Chevrolet being operated by Kermit E. Shoaf, 36, of Rt. 3, going north, on curve, was blind by bright lights, ran off road on right, lost control, came back across road with the Tuggle car striking the Shoaf vehicle.

There were no charges, no injuries. Damage to the '66 Chevrolet was estimated at $100 to the front, and $300 to the left side of the '55 Chevrolet.

Public Warned: Book Misleading

Several North Carolina newspapers have recently carried advertisements for a book OVERCOME ARTHRITIS. The advertising regarding this book is misleading and deceptive according to Robert Pace, executive director of the North Carolina Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation. He urged arthritis sufferers not to buy the book.

Pace stated: "The book OVERCOME ARTHRITIS is being promoted by misleading advertisements which uses our former name - The Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation - and words designed to convey a false impression. The advertising implies a cure which does not exist. Arthritis sufferers should not waste their money (the book sells for $5.95) for information which can be obtained free from the Arthritis Foundation. Only a physician can properly diagnose and treat arthritis. Our office will send without cost a booklet, Today's Facts About Arthritis, which is written by physicians, to anyone requesting it. They may write us at P. O. Drawer 311, Chapel Hill, North Carolina 27514."

Arthritis afflicts 446,000 people in North Carolina and more than sixteen million Americans.

80 ATTEND DAVIE COUNTY WSCS PRAYER RETREAT

The first Prayer Retreat to be sponsored by the Women's Society of Christian Service for Davie County was held November 17, 1968 at Union Chapel United Methodist Church.

Mrs. C. C. Phillipa, of Charlotte, N. C., former secretary of Spiritual Life, Thomasville District WSCS, was the leader. Her theme: "Go up and possess the Land" was taken from Deuteronomy 1:21.

"We must go forth as the people of Israel did, or be forever condemned to wander in the wilderness." A few of the "wildernesses" mentioned were: Doubt; Fear; Envy; Jealousy and Hate.

After Mrs. Phillipa's talk, those present divided into discussion groups. This was an opportunity for each person to share, and perhaps discover, the wilderness area in her own life. After reassembly in the Sanctuary, pre-elected spokesmen shared with everyone some of the ideas that were discussed in their own groups.

Mrs. Phillipa asked the group to form a big circle and pray first for the person on the right, then for the person on the left, then for themselves. The charge was to listen to GOD bring to mind the things we were doing that were not pleasing to him and ask for his forgiveness. Then, rededicate themselves to following Him even more closely. Mrs. Phillipa closed with prayer.

Each person present contributed to the Success of the Retreat, but an y Praise must go to GOD. Some had the opportunity to share in the planning and preparation, and the amount of prayer, work, and time contributed by each person will be know perhaps only to GOD, but this is really the only place it matters anyway.

Police Chiefs

In The Dark About Lighting

CLEVELAND — Although adequate street lighting is a demonstrated deterrent to major crime and traffic accidents, law enforcement officials frequently are not consulted about city plans for relighting, according to a nationwide survey of police chiefs.

More than half of the police chiefs from small and medium cities who participated in the survey conducted by the Street and Highway Safety Lighting Bureau here said city officials formulated lighting plans without asking for recommendations as to which areas should be lighted or relighted.

Almost 40 percent of the more than 250 chiefs from cities with populations of between 10,000 and 250,000 persons described residential lighting in their communities as "partially" or "completely" inadequate.

"If there were better lighting in our residential areas, we would have far less crime there. And that means crimes of all types," commented the chief in Anoka, Minn.

Good lighting as a deterrent received a unanimous vote from all survey participants.

Forty-eight percent of the respondents pinpointed street lighting as the greatest possible weapon in the fight against street attacks.

The chiefs listed five other types of crime that could be inhibited by better street lighting. In order, after street attacks, were rape, vandalism, robbery, petty larceny, and auto theft.

Only 60% of the respondents rated commercial area lighting as completely adequate.

Police officials in Villa Park, Ill., asserted, "Good street lighting provides the most security at the cheapest cost."

Honeycutt Chosen For Shrine Bowl

Robert Honeycutt of Wade Hampton High School in Greenville, S. C., and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Honeycutt and Mrs. D. R. Stroud of Mocksville has been chosen to play in the 32nd annual Shrine Bowl football game at Charlotte December 7.

Robert's parents are Bob Honeycutt, a graduate of Mocksville High School, Catawba College, and who did work on his Master's at Appalachian, and Mrs. Frances Stroud Honeycutt, also a graduate of Mocksville High School.

Robert is 17 years old, and a senior at Wade Hampton. He was a starter for his team at fullback in the 10th grade. He has rolled to over 1,100 yards in nine games this year and has scored at least one touchdown in every game this season.

His coach, Vern Prather, said, "he has real good football sense and takes coaching very well. He works hard and spends extra time if there is some flaw he feels needs correcting."

The Wade Hampton star has shown real running power up the middle, but also has shown an ability to go outside if the situation called for it. He doesn't have exceptional speed, he runs the 100 in about 10.9 but he has enough speed to make him a scoring threat from anywhere on the field.

Prather said, "he has done a tremendous job for us all this season. He also could be a good defensive player, as a linebacker, but we haven't had to use him there this year."

Honeycutt said he has received some 30 college offers but that he still hasn't decided. "I've narrowed it down to six schools and I'm trying to make the best decision for me."

As far as pro football is concerned Honeycutt said, "yes, I'd like to try it, I want to get my education first, then I'd like to take a crack at playing with the pros."

"I'm going to work hard this winter on the weights and try to get up to about 215 pounds. In the spring I want to play some baseball," he said.

If desire is any criteria, and if being a downright nice guy helps, then you should be hearing the name of Honeycutt for many years to come, both in the college and pro ranks.

New Dryer Matches Other Washers

(ASR) They call it the "Match-All" because it pairs easily with most any washer—or stands alone. It's Hotpoint's newest dryer. Only 27 inches wide, it will move right in next to your present washer and complement it nicely.

The "Match-All," available in both electric and gas models, features an improved permanent press capability. Wrinkles are literally tumbled out, by proper application of controlled heat.

A special feature, automatic termination control, adjusts drying time according to the particular requirements of each fabric load while it is drying. A timing control shuts off the dryer when the clothes reach the proper degree of dryness.

So, for a double-barreled advantage—compact size and improved performance—pair off your washer with the "Match-All."

DEATHS

GERARD K. (JERRY) HUSSER

Gerard Kenneth (Jerry) Husser, 61, of Advance, Rt. 2, all-time great athlete of Catawba College, died at 5:30 p. m. Sunday at his home. Death was unexpected, resulting from a heart attack.

Born September 26, 1907, he was the son of Arnold and Rubie Unger Husser of Rockville Center, N. Y. He entered Catawba College in 1930 and after being named to the All-New England football team and All-Long Island basketball team in high school.

After enrolling at Catawba, he had a brilliant athletic career. He was one of the few Catawba athletes who has ever won letters in major sports.

After leaving Catawba, he began farming near Advance in Davie County. However, he did not lose interest in sports. He served as a basketball and football official for 30 years for both high school and Atlantic Coast Conference games. Because of this outside work, he probably was familiar with more college campuses than anyone in this area.

A few years ago he returned to college and received his degree in 1965. Since that time he has taught school in Maryland.

Survivors included his wife, the former Elizabeth Hendrix; two sons, Gerard Husser Jr. of Lititz, Pa., and Arnold Husser of Pensacola, Fla.; one daughter, Mrs. Martha Kate Kontos of Copiague, N. Y.; his mother, Mrs. Rubie Husser of Plainfield, N. Y.; one sister, Mrs. Gladys Vondron of New York; three brothers, Leroy Husser of Franklin Square, N. Y., Sheldon Husser of OceanSide, N. Y., and Dr. Horace Husser of Salinas, California.

SLOAN SHUMAKER

Sloan Shumaker, 43, of Salisbury Street, Mocksville, died enroute to Davie County Hospital, Sunday.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at the Union Chapel United Methodist Church. Burial was in the church cemetery.

He was born in Iredell County to the late W. B. and Essie Ruffy Shumaker. He was an employee of Ingersoll Rand in Mocksville.

Surviving are his wife, Catherine Broadway Shumaker; and a stepdaughter, Mrs. Dreisa Lefler of Winston-Salem; a stepson, Michael Barnett of Mocksville, Rt. 5; three brothers, George Shumaker of Johnstown, Pa., Hubert Shumaker of Landis and Richard Shumaker of China Grove; and two sisters, Mrs. Eva Stewart of Landis and Miss Bertha Shumaker of Goldsboro.

SCHOOL MEETING

All Davie County Schools will close at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday, December 4, so that the teachers can attend an NCEA meeting.

PRESSURE..."Never have I had such pressure put on me", Robert Morgan, newly elected Attorney General of North Carolina told a friend lately.

He was referring to letters and telephone calls he has received this fall to reappoint Myron McBryde to boss the State Bureau of Investigation. Morgan said he had never seen or heard of such pressure before in his "whole life".

That is saying a lot for a man who has devoted virtually every year of his adult life to political endeavor. He looked upon the shower as an organized effort—a campaign, so to speak—by McBryde to have himself reappointed.

As a rule, political leaders must do not sit down and write a letter or run to the phone to get off a message unless it is to help themselves—or they are particularly requested to do so.

Be that as it may, Morgan did not knuckle under. There is dissension and discord...in the SBI...and this has been going on for more than a year. Backbiting and bitterness....So, for this reason...and some others, don't be surprised if the new Attorney General reaches outside the SBI—though there are good men in it—to find his new director.

Robert Morgan is an able, ambitious man—and he is not going to have his SBI floundering about gossip mongering while he looks to higher things...put that down.

TOGETHERNESS...If you plan to visit Washington, D. C. for the January 21 inauguration of Pres. Nixon—out of downtown at night. Reports reach Raleigh—and they come pretty straight—of rape, muggings, holdups, simple assault, etc., in a 40-block area just north and east of the White House. This is the heart of Downtown Washington.

The situation has become so bad in the Nation's Capital that many hotels which were in sharp competition two, three years ago...have now joined hands urging you to come to Washington. Their slogan: "Washington is still the nation's convention capital." But that word "still" is a dead giveaway.

HELLO CHET!...David Brinkley, of the Huntley-Brinkley team on NBC, is a Wilmington, N. C. native. His part in the broadcasts has always come from Washington.

Well, he's moving...in the next week or two...and will talk from New York City. One reason: he's separated from his wife and wants to get away from Washington. Maybe that tilt of the head and peculiar dry wit—still the best in the business—did not go so well at home.

Two more items on the team: they are scheduled to go six nights in a week beginning in January...and Huntley has just come out with his first book...about his boyhood on the Montana plains.

BROKEN REED...Dr. Joseph G. Molner has been a well known physician around Detroit for many years. He gives advice—or used to—on how to avoid fatigue, disease, and death.

His column runs in many papers throughout the U. S. including the Raleigh Times. It is, of course, written several weeks in advance of being printed. Well, one evening recently Dr. Molner, 61, was attending a little party in his hometown. Other guests noted that he seemed to be dozing...was not taking part in the conversation. Facts are, he was dead...had passed on right there in his chair...and his death made the papers.

Dr. Molner's column is still being run in the Raleigh Times. And it's still being read—but with a lot less interest.

And...especially...anything he has to say about avoiding heart attacks.

CAN'T TELL...With the old movies, etc. on television, "living voices" on records, you can't tell who's here and who's there anymore. They say that two other doctors in addition to Molner write his column. A goodly percentage of the people you see on the late show are dead. Sooo, where do we stand? Admit you don't know.

Somebody reported the other day that the great evangelist, Aimee Semple McPherson, is alive and well...driving a cab in a little town in Southern Mexico.

REAL ESTATE...The biggest real estate development in Eastern North Carolina is now underway just as you come into Raleigh from Durham.

It is Crabtree Valley...and is Kidd Brewer property...and seems to be...stretched out there...about the size of 50 football fields.

Sears, now in Cameron Village will go there. Hudson-Belk is scheduled to be in there. You hear talk, also of Colonial Stores, Woolco, and others. Fabulous. It took awhile to get off the ground, but now seems to be soaring....

Within 18 months Raleigh will have over 100,000 people...1970 census...three tremendous shopping centers (Crabtree, North Hills, and Cameron Village) and two other hotels larger than the Sir Walter.

And with Kidd Brewer solidly in the millionaire status.

CLOSE BY...The man who will be closest to Gov. Bob Scott will be one of the men closest to W. Kerr Scott. His name? Ben Rhoney. Tested, loyal, and true. How close will he be? About ten feet...and in the same office.

Plans Made For Inaugural Ball

Thirty-six hours of inaugural activities beginning with a ball and ending with a public reception at the mansion will begin in Raleigh, January 2 at 4 p.m.

An 18-member committee and 12 subcommittees began planning the social-political-governmental extravaganza in early November shortly after Governor-elect Bob Scott set January 3 for the inauguration.

Governor Dan K. Moore will trigger the festive occasion when he publicly proclaims the start of the inaugural ceremonies at 4 p.m. The inaugural ball will be held from 7:30 until midnight at William Neal Reynolds Coliseum. It is sponsored by the Junior League of Raleigh and the American Legion Post No. 1.

Ceremonies the following day will begin with private church services for the new governor and his family at Hawfields Presbyterian Church, Route 1, Mebane. Afterwards, the family will be brought to Raleigh in the Governor's limousine.

At 11:05 honors will be rendered at the mansion, after which the Governor and Governor-elect and their families will be escorted to Memorial Auditorium for the inauguration. Afterwards, a 19-gun salute will be fired and the parade will follow. Several thousand National Guardsmen, Bandmen and floats will pass in review.

The public reception will begin at the mansion at 8 p.m.

CCB Gives Out Christmas Checks

Nearly 5,000 area savers were thrifty for fifty weeks and have now received cheerful Christmas club checks totaling nearly one-half million dollars which will be used for holiday gift purchases in North Carolina this year.

Paul Wright, Jr., president of Central Carolina Bank & Trust Company, announced the large payout to account-holders, and said, "There's a good reason to believe that a lot of this money is already being used to purchase local goods and services, in advance of the familiar shopping season."

A recent survey of America's major department stores showed that more half of the public (54.5%) begins shopping for Christmas season before Thanksgiving Day. The 1968 Christmas Club checks were mailed from CCB on November 7, and a new savings "year" of fifty more weeks opened on November 18.

Other indicators show that more and more people are systematically depositing money in special savings programs like Christmas Club. The CCB deposit in 1966 reached $236,295 before distribution to 2,434 club members. In 1968, the deposit from 4,942 savers totaled $484,736 at payout. The participation and money has doubled in just two years.

Clearly, a lot of families now plan for the big man in the red suit by putting away a little green in a strong bank weekly.

Scholarships Being Offered

Scholarship interviews for Pfeiffer College's competitive academic Trustee Scholarship for students entering in the fall of 1969 are now being scheduled by the college. A special invitation is out to students from the Mocksville area to make application for these awards.

The series of some 50 scholarships, many valued to $4,000 over four years, are designed for students who have notable high school records, demonstrated leadership potential, strong personal motivation, and who are interested in independent library, laboratory and classroom projects.

Dr. John O. Gross, Pfeiffer president, said that a detailed folder on the scholarship awards as well as total program of student financial aid are available to students of the greater Mocksville area upon request to the Scholarship Committee, Pfeiffer College, Misenheimer, N. C., 28109. This covers some $200,000 in awards.

The series of scholarship awards, plus a program of student loans and workstudy plans, covers study in a wide range of subjects including the world of business, the natural sciences, the social sciences, choral and church music, religion, teacher preparation, languages and literature, and pre-professional study area.

College officials note that Pfeiffer's program of student financial aid is designed to recognize students with marked academic ability as well as those with financial need. Over past years numbers of are students have received awards under this program. Pfeiffer has a current enrollment of 958 students, the largest in its history. This fall it launched a new academic program "AIM" which emphasizes a variety of new academic approaches.

CORRECTION

An error in names was published in last week's paper in the outlines of the 1930 graduating class of the Mocksville High School. The name of John Tillitt McClamrock should have been used instead of Charlie McClamrock.

Shown above is the tractor-trailer involved in an accident on Wilkesboro Street Friday, November 22, at 9:30 a.m. Kenneth Elliott Kever, 32, of Madin, was operating the vehicle owned by the Montclair Furniture Co., Inc. of Claremont, N. C. Chief of Police Joe W. Foster investigated the accident. His report stated that the truck was following another vehicle west on Wilkesboro Street. A vehicle in front stopped in the street before making a turn into Hospital Street and gave no signal. The truck turned right and went into side ditch and stuck a telephone pole owned by Central Telephone Co. of Mocksville. Vehicle in front left scene. Kever was charged with failure to see intended movement could be made in safety. Damage to the vehicle shown was estimated at $400 and to the telephone pole $300.

Miss Hinkle Is Honored At College

Delia Hinkle, shown above, a Data Processing student at King's College in Charlotte, was the second runner-up in the contest for Miss King's College for 1969, which was sponsored by the college chapter of the Future Secretaries Association.

Thirteen contestants competed for the honor which was won by Michele Crawford of Concord with Marty Tindall of Shaw Air Force Base as first runner-up and Miss Hinkle as second runner-up. All contestants were judged in bathing suit, evening gown, and on talent presentation. In her talent presentation, Miss Hinkle did a dramatic skit on Mrs. LBJ.

Delia is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce E. Hinkle, Route 4 of Mocksville. She graduated last May from Davie County High School and in September enrolled at King's College for the Data Processing course.

Senator Sam Ervin Says:

A Health, Education, and Welfare Department order issued last week proposes that local welfare departments receiving Federal funds take the word of relief applicants that they must have help. Under the new proposal, investigation of welfare cases would cease to be a standard procedure. The order is slated to go into effect next July 1 unless it is withdrawn.

The order comes at a time when there is already much concern about welfare costs which now run into the billions in Federal payments. The HEW proposal reportedly comes in response to a promise made during the Poor People's Campaign by an Administration official that a declaration system for relief eligibility would soon begin. The argument is made that welfare investigations of eligibility for relief infringe upon the rights of the recipient to receive government aid, and that anyway few are turned down for benefits.

This ignores some basic national concerns about the welfare system and its operation. Several years ago, Senator Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia looked into the welfare system in the District of Columbia as Chairman of the District of Columbia Appropriations Subcommittee. That investigation revealed that about 40 percent of those on the D. C. welfare rolls were ineligible.

In the face of these documented abuses, it seems to me that the whole tenor of the proposed order goes in the wrong direction. Welfare payments, as has been pointed out many times, are not a constitutional right. They originate by reason of the humanitarian compassion to help those who cannot help themselves. Indeed, welfare recipients should receive no greater immunity than the taxpayer who foots the bill. The Treasury Department expects the taxpayer to reveal whatever financial information is necessary to arrive at his tax assessment, and I can find no valid reason for exempting welfare recipients from an equal obligation to show that he is eligible for relief.

All of this brings to the forefront the proposition that is offered to implement our present costly welfare system. This is the guaranteed income, which has a similar "no-questions-asked" concept. Both systems seek to respond to our humanitarian instincts when we hear the plea of the needy, but one wonders if we are not risking tragedy in this country when we suggest that should abolish all "means tests" for these systems by whatever name they may be called. Simply put, probe-free welfare payments and guaranteed income are the old issue of personal versus governmental responsibility to provide for our wants.

These innovations really are not new. Since the dawn of civilization, man has devised almost every conceivable type of economic system. If experimentation has taught us anything, and one sometimes wonders if it has, it is that a competitive system whereby individuals can work in the free Macedonia will have Joe Gray as speaker at their annual Missionary Lovefeast Sunday night, December 1. A special offering will be taken Sunday to help out the needs in Nicaragua. Plan now to attend. Union service coming the Baptist, Methodist, Holiness and Moravian Congregations. As long as you worship God it doesn't matter what the denomination of your church is. We hope everyone will take time out to go to this service as I'm sure you will be greatly blessed.

Mrs. Paul Foster spent last weekend at her home.

Mrs. Nan McBride visited Mrs. Henry Hockaday Sunday afternoon.

Beauchamp home. The Pre Junior and Junior Youth Fellowship Groups had an ice cream party Saturday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Sink. Adults attending were Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Isley, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Myers and Rev. and Mrs. Loflin.

As the Thanksgiving and Christmas Seasons arrive we hope everyone will stop and think about the real meaning of these days. Let's don't think only of "stuffing" ourselves and receiving gifts but think of someone in the community that doesn't have and take something to them and help make their holidays brighter. God will bless you and I believe you will enjoy your holidays better by helping someone else in their time of need.

The Junior Youth Fellowship Group of Macedonia took fruit baskets to 7 patients at Fran Ray Nursing Home Sunday night. Those helping take the baskets were Mr. and Mrs. Philip Beauchamp, Anna and Tony, Lee and Lane Sapp, Teresa Myers, Vickie Smith, Ken Ellis and Lisa Cope. Macedonia will be host to several visiting congregations Wednesday night for the Thanksgiving Eve Service. It's good to see people worshipping together regardless of denomination.

The Golden Age Club met Wednesday morning in the Rotary Hut with 25 members present. Thanksgiving songs preceded the scripture reading by the Rev. Gilbert Miller. An inspiring and thought provoking talk was given by Rev. Carl Lain. He vividly depicted the early customs of the Pilgrims as they expressed their appreciation for care and guidance across the great and dangerous waters, and for the continuous guidance and care in the beautiful rugged existence in the new world. In contrast he depicted the carelessness of the today's peoples in expression of appreciation of our untold blessings that we enjoy each day.

Refreshments of golden pound cake, persimmon pudding and coffee were served by Mrs. Sue Thompson, Mrs. Dottie Cline and H. A. Wells.

Zzzz! The Fun Way

Do you need a means of motivating the children to brush their teeth? An electric toothbrush might be the answer.

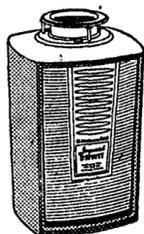

Extensive clinical research in major universities has established that power toothbrushes offer definite advantages over hand brushing when used in a regular program for oral hygiene to supplement regular professional care.

Children enjoy doing things that are fun, and brushing their teeth with an electric toothbrush is fun. It becomes an easy way to teach proper care of the teeth and promote better oral hygiene.

Adults, too, will find the electric toothbrush can do a better job of cleaning than ordinary hand brushing. Plus they will like the way it leaves the mouth clean and refreshed.

Some of the latest electric toothbrush models have been improved greatly over early models. Sunbeam has introduced a unit which can clean the teeth up to 42% better than ordinary hand brushing.

Its broad purpose—to help all of our cities and towns.

Is College Best For Your Child?
Ever hear the term "school dropout"? If you thought it applied only to low-income families, you're wrong. If you push your child into college when he may not be cut out for a college career, you may be making the mistake of the future.

According to L. Allen Morris,
Miami, Fla., chairman of the Realtors' ambitious Make America Better Program, "too often there is overemphasis on influencing all youngsters to go to college."

"Some children are not equipped to pursue a college career, and the end result is that we have many thousands of dropouts at the grade school as well as the high school level. The subsequent rejection feeling experienced by many of these students often turns their energies into vandalism and criminal activities," Morris says.

What's the solution? In many cases, these students may have a strong mechanical instinct to work with their hands or to learn some other saleable skill that is in great demand today. The
Make America
Better Program suggests to teachers and parents alike that they make more careful assessment of their children and students' interests and aptitudes and channel their energies productively.

One way to do this is to make available exploratory courses in occupational training at early ages. Such courses would determine if the youngster might be served better in vocational training than by a college prep curriculum.

Revival Service

A weekend revival will be held at the Elbaville Methodist Church. Services will be at 7:30 p.m. on Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights.

The Rev. Phillip Vaughn of the Advance Methodist Church will do the preaching.

Places and dates for the short course will be:
ASHEVILLE - Battery Park
Hotel, December 2-3;
CHARLOTTE - Holiday Inn
No. 4, 3815 North Tryon
Street, December 4-5;
GREENSBORO - Holiday Inn,
South, December 5-6; and
GREENVILLE - Moose Lodge,
Farmville Highway at West End
Circle, December 9-10.

An advanced program for persons experienced in the income tax field will be held at North Carolina State
University on December 11-13.

The short course will be conducted by North Carolina State University in cooperation with the United States Internal Revenue Service, the North Carolina Department of Revenue, the North Carolina Society of Accountants, and the Social Security Administration.

The County Extension
Chairman pointed out there is both a need and an opportunity for someone to render this service to farmers and small businesses. The complicated nature of modern business, the lack of adequate accounts, and special provisions in income tax laws applying to farming and other small businesses make the filling of income tax returns complicated. This course is designed to train people to render this service.

The local chairman, representing the North Carolina Society of Accountants, is: Asheville - Mr.
Herbert H. Bosworth;
Charlotte - Mr. Katherine
Edwards; Greensboro - Mr.
Joseph Dickey; and Greenville -
Mr. John I. Whitfield.

A few thousand years later, mankind once again developed an uncomplicated heating method.

Flameless Electric Comfort Heating—It's uncomplicated because, in most installations, the only moving parts are in the standard thermostats. Of course, the log fire had no moving parts, either. Except for the man who had to keep logs on the fire. But it wasn't very comfortable. Like some heating equipment, it tended to roast you on one side and freeze you on the other. Electric Comfort Heating doesn't do that. Electric Comfort Heating gives you gentle, even warmth. All through the house. And it gives you a thermostat in every room, for even more comfort and convenience. Duke Power will gladly give you more information and put you in touch with an Electrical Modernization Dealer nearby. Give us a call now. And join the switch to electric heating.
