Davie Has 2,553 Receiving Social Security Checks

A growing number of men and women in Davie County are getting social security checks each month from Washington.

A total of 2,553 persons in the local area, more than ever before, are now on the receiving end. It compares with 2,080 four years ago.

They are reaping the benefit of money that was deducted from their pay envelopes over the years and put into the social security trust fund for their future needs.

Most of the recipients are retired or disabled workers. The rest are the wives, widows, children and other dependents of these former workers.

The details are contained in the annual report of the Social Security Administration covering 1969. It marks the 35th anniversary of the program.

The increase in the number of local beneficiaries is the result, in great measure, of the periodic liberalizations voted by Congress. With each change additional groups of workers have become eligible for enrollment.

Today, well over 90 percent of the employed people in the local area qualify for such protection. Keeping pace with the increase in the number of beneficiaries has been the marked increase in the size of their pension checks.

The average payment to Davie County residents in 1969 was $855. This compares with $698 four years ago.

And this year they are doing still better, by virtue of the 15 percent hike in benefits now in effect.

What with the increase in the size of the checks and in the number of recipients, the inflow of pension funds has become an important item in the local economy.

According to the official figures, total payments in the area, as of the beginning of this year, were at the annual rate of $2,184,000. In 1965 the total was only $1,451,000.

Hand-in-hand with the improvement in benefits has been the increase in payroll taxes to pay for them. Since the program began, in 1937, there have been 13 tax hikes, through changes in both the rate and wage base. No such change is expected, however, this year.

Rev. Leland Richardson Heads Girl Scout Fund Drive

Reverend Leland Richardson, Minister of First Presbyterian Church, announced the completion of plans for the Tarheel Triad Girl Scout Fund Drive in Mocksville and Davie County. Dates are September 18-28.

Solicitation will focus primarily on business, industry, and professional groups. Assisting Mr. Richardson in the drive will be: Mrs. John Brock, Miss Katherine Brown, Mrs. John LeGrand, Mrs. Ed Short, Mrs. Gaither Sanford, Mrs. Robert Hendricks, Mrs. C. Ward, Mrs. Bill Lagle, Jimmy Kelly, Mrs. Tommy Fleming, Garland Still, Dr. Ron Gant, Vance McGugan, Mrs. Mike Barnett, Mrs. Jack Sanford, Mrs. Ted Junker, Mrs. Randall Cave, Mrs. Vada Walker, Mrs. Fred Crabbe, Mrs. Jerry Anderson, Mrs. Jim Conger, Mrs. Gene Smith, Lawrence Ray Carter, and Mrs. C. C. Craven. The Tarheel Triad Girl Scout Council, formed in September, 1968, serves 13 Piedmont counties with a membership of 15,000 girls and 3,000 adults. It has one basic purpose: the development of girls' to be future citizens capable of assuming the responsibilities of the 21st century.

The Council has an operating budget of $308,715 for 1971. 14 United Funds contribute more than two-thirds of this amount, but resident areas not served by United Funds are given the opportunity to participate.

The Tarheel Triad Council conducts Girl Scout Fund Drives in these areas with the help of local members and other interested adults who know what Girl Scouting means to girls and the community and how essential the services offered by the Council are. These monies finance such necessary, but often overlooked, services as: postage and telephone; registration processing; training; program helps; camping facilities; and advice and guidance from professional staff members. A complete list would overwhelm those unfamiliar with the program. The volunteers and girls expect to receive these services; are dependant upon them; and have faith that the community will provide them.

Farmers Home Administration Plans Gain In Rural Housing

A record year of homebuilding and home improvement through credit services of the Farmers Home Administration is in prospect for rural Rowan and Davie counties, Clarence H. Sink said today as he reported on activities for the past year.

The Farmers Home Administration, a Department of Agriculture agency, supplements other housing credit available in rural towns of up to 5,500 population, as well as in the rural countryside.

Mr. Sink said the year began July 1 appears certain to set a record in the rural housing program. The agency is geared to virtually double its housing services, with $1.4 billion in authority nationally to insure home loans for families of low and moderate income.

"Key to the program's rapid growth is a new position of equality for rural America in the nation's housing goal," Mr. Sink said. "Rural areas have half of the nation's bad housing, and they now have half of the nation's housing goal for the 1970's."

"We expect the sharp uptrend in rural housing to continue. In the Farmers Home Administration, we fully expect to do our part in bringing rural housing up to modern standards for every family."

Mr. Sink said progress in rural housing has been speeded up through new authorizations put into effect by Farmers Home earlier this year. "We

Report On Town Given To Rotary

The growth and progress of the Town of Mocksville was discussed for members of the Mocksville Rotary Club on Tuesday by Mayor D. J. Mando. Mayor Mando cited the growth in the town budget from $67,670 in 1950 to $343,000 for 1970, with the tax rate increasing only slightly.

On the sewage project, Mayor Mando revealed that the town had received a federal grant of $109,000 which will enable the construction of the entire project even though the bids received were higher than anticipated. He said it would probably take around 18 months for completion.

He pointed out that the annexation program was contingent on the sewerage plant

Davie Has 1,940 Veterans

There are 1,940 veterans in Davie County and 531,000 in North Carolina, according to Veterans Administration figures released today. These figures are based on America's 27.3 million former servicemen as of the beginning of 1970, according to W. R. Phillips, Director of the Winston-Salem VA Regional Office.

According to the latest available figures, some 230 Davie County and 71,000 North Carolina veterans were in service during the Vietnam era—that is after August 4, 1964.

World War II veterans make up the largest group of veterans with 1,080 from Davie County and 283,000 from North Carolina.

Some 200 Davie County and 62,000 state veterans saw military service only between the Korean Conflict and the Vietnam Era (February 1, 1955-August 4, 1964), Phillips said. Of 26,000 World War I veterans in North Carolina, 80 are from Davie County.

Phillips pointed out that there are some duplications in these figures since some veterans served in more than one conflict.

An estimated 66 of American's 5,000 Spanish-American War veterans live in North Carolina.

Veterans with questions on benefits are urged to contact their North Carolina VA Regional Office at Winston-Salem or to see their local service officer.

Those who served since February 1, 1955, may be eligible for GI Bill training. Those who served since June 27, 1950, may be eligible for home loans.

Rainfall

More rainfall in Davie County during the month of August than any month since September of 1957. A total rainfall of 9.63 for August was recorded by C. F. Meroney. The normal rainfall for this month is 4.22 inches.

In September of 1957, there was a total rainfall of 11.43 inches recorded.

Hearing Held On Proposed Air Quality Standards

Only a few Davie County residents attended the public hearing last week on the proposed air quality standards. James S. Dickery, Jr. of Winston-Salem, vice-chairman of the 11-member air quality control board serving Davie, Forsyth and Surry counties, presided.

J. W. Rodwell of Mocksville, an electrical contractor, wanted assurance that federal government would continue to provide financing for the program. He was assured by Robert Fulp, director of the three county program that federal support, which now amounts to three-quarters of the total program cost, will never drop below 50 percent.

Mr. Rodwell and Elbert Smith, a building contractor, both wanted assurance that they would still be able to dispose of the materials they now burn after the proposed restrictions on open burning become effective.

They were assured that permits would be available—possibly by telephone—and that the board would probably exempt sparsely populated rural areas from strict enforcement anyway.

John Barber, Davie County manager and representative for Davie on the three county board, pointed out that the Fork Church community in Davie County had the cleanest air in the three county area.

Mr. Barber, in answer to a question of what to do when trash collectors refuse to pickup leaves and limbs, encouraged people to start compost piles. Mr. Fulp opened the hearing with an explanation of the regulations proposed to govern open burning, emissions from fuel burning, manufacturing processes and incinerators, dust and related materials, and odors.

The hearing last Wednesday night at the Davie County Library was the third. A hearing was held for Forsyth on Monday night and for Surry residents on Tuesday night.

"The North Carolina Little Symphony's annual visit to Mocksville is a major event for all of us, adults and children alike," said Mrs. Murphy. She added: "We are quite excited about the prospects of having the orchestra return this season and are confident that the people of Mocksville will help us reach the necessary $1650.00 goal."

-Letter To The Editor-

A Plea For School Spirit

To the people of Davie County:

In the past, Davie County High School has carried the proud name of "Rebels". We have fought for it, cheered for it, and won for it. Graduates of DCHS have cherished this exalted title in their victories and defeats, in their annuals, in their memories.

I do not feel that the name, "Rebels", should be derogatory to anyone, because we must realize that it was not chosen with the intent to offend. It was chosen to inspire spirit and pride in us, to urge us on to victory!

The matter of how "Rebels" should be defined concerning our school has gotten out of hand. It was never meant to be connected with the civil war, or the Confederacy's aims in the war. I think we were named "Rebels" in the dictionary sense of the word - to defy, to revolt, to fight - for Davie County High School!

However, this misunderstanding has come up. The school name was changed, without any say so from the students who go to school there. We were not asked (the majority of us) if we wanted it changed; we were not allowed to choose the new name.

I am sorry if the name "Rebels" ever bruised anyone's feelings. Personally, I am very sad to see the honored cherished old name of "Rebels" go out, and a brand new name, "War Eagles", come in, especially during my last year of High School.

But - I want to say this to the students at Davie. We are "Eagles" now, and no matter how much trouble we stir up, no matter how many times we yell "Rebels" at pep rallies and games, no matter how much we whisper "I'll never be an 'Eagle'" - it will do no good. The name will not be changed back. We must uphold the name of our high school, whether we are "Rebels", "Eagles", or "Mockingbirds".

So everyone at Davie - Please try to accept this new name. Remember you are still from Davie, and nothing will ever change that. Be proud of your school, and realize that this is probably the best. If you can't yell for the "Eagles", yell for Davie.

This fall, the administration, athletes, cheerleaders, majorettes, and band members are working diligently to do their best for DCHS. Don't let them down! Show some spirit!

Don't just sit there and grumble. The "Rebel" days are gone forever, so let's ALL try to bring in the new name with good school spirit and a winning season!

In conclusion, I would like to leave this thought with you:

God grant me the serenity to accept the things I cannot change.

The courage to try to change those things I can, And the wisdom to know the difference.

Cindy Heffner Enrolls At Peace

Cindy Heffner, daughter of Oren Heffner of 733 Park Ave., Mocksville, is among the record enrollment of approximately 480 young women at Peace College here this fall. A soph., acad. student, she arrived on the college campus Aug. 22 to begin the 99th annual Peace session. She is a graduate of Davie County High School.

Among her orientation activities this week are academic convocation with guest speaker, Dr. Art Wenger of Atlantic Christian College, and a reception honoring students and faculty given by Peace President Dr. and Mrs. S. David Frazier. Also planned are a big sister-little sister picnic and a talent show.

Sunday, Aug. 30, the entire Peace student body, following tradition, will attend worship at the First Presbyterian Church of Raleigh, which assumed the college in 1962.

Robin Benson is pictured with the trophy he received as one of the representatives of the local Jaycees in the Junior Golf Tournament that was held recently. Joe Harris was the other representative but was unable to be present when the trophies were presented last Thursday. These two young men were fine representatives and the Mocksville Jaycees expressed their thanks for a job well done.

Coolleemee Civic Groups To Operate Swimming Pool

Coolleemee civic groups are making plans to operate the community swimming pool next summer.

When Coolleemee residents defeated an incorporation bid on June 20, it appeared that a swimming pool, recreation center and playground which form the town's recreational complex would be closed.

Burlington Industries told citizens prior to the vote that it would no longer maintain the complex, after October 1 and would close it unless a town government were available to take over the maintenance. Burlington said that it would contribute the facilities to the new town.

But on June 20, the community's registered voters defeated the incorporation proposal by a vote of 345 to 178. Vernon Stout, a past commander of the local American Legion post, recently wrote a letter to Burlington, expressing the desire of the post to take over the operation of the recreational facilities. Burlington officials replied that they would gladly lease the complex to a new operator.

The American Legion, Lions Club, and Jaycees were contacted and elected to participate jointly in the operation. Each of the organizations elected two members to a committee called the Coolleemee Recreation Commission.

A member of the Senior Citizens club was also elected to serve as that organization's delegate to the commission.

The seven delegates met this past Monday night to elect officers and to discuss the future of their organization.

Vernon Stout was elected chairman; Ward Setzer, vice chairman; and Charles Church, secretary-treasurer.

According to Craig Snead, a Coolleemee Legionaire and commission member, the commission met with Burlington Industries officials yesterday morning. Burlington again promised to lease the recreation complex to the new organization.

Snead said today that the commission hopes to assume control of the facilities as soon as possible and to prevent a break in their operations. He added:

"Our plans are incomplete, but we hope to have an opening ceremony on October 3."

Snead explained that there will probably be games and hamburgers for the hungry participants at the opening.

Dove Hunting Areas

Come September 2 at noon when the dove season officially opens across North Carolina, hunters will be greeting large flocks of migrating mourning doves with another kind of hail—principally No. 7½ shot.

Those hunters who commonly swap two or three boxes of expensive shotgun shells for half a dozen doves and a few puffs of feathers will probably not be calling them "blythe spirits" either, but never mind.

The point is that the dove hunting season is once again upon us, and the first part of this year's split season will open at noon on Wednesday, September 2 and close October 10. The second session will open at noon on December 16 and close January 15. Shooting hours each day are from noon to sunset, and you can legally shoot 18 doves daily (if you can hit them), and have as many as 36 in possession. The possession limit allows for those who like to freeze some for later feasts.

The opening of the dove season always poses at least two problems for hunters. The most obvious one concerns hitting the shifty critters as they wheel and zig-zag across a cut corn field just ahead of a sea of misguided pellets. It takes a considerable amount of shooting to sharpen your reflexes after the long summer layoff.

The other problem—one that seems to be on the increase—is finding good places to hunt. This problem is particularly acute for the urban dweller or the man who doesn't know any farmers who permit hunting. Fortunately, the North Carolina Wildlife Resources Commission has set aside some 32 areas across the state for public dove hunting. Many of these areas have been developed for dove hunting, which means that they have been planted with crops like millet which attracts doves.

Fifteen areas have been set aside only for dove hunting. These 15 public dove hunting areas are scattered across the state from near Asheville all the way to the coast, with most being concentrated in the Piedmont. On these areas where only dove hunting is permitted, hunts are scheduled on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons only.

The Commission has also set up dove hunts on 17 of its small and migratory game areas. Some of these areas have been planted to attract doves, while some have not. The days you may hunt these areas also vary, although most hold afternoon hunts on Monday, Wednesday and Saturday afternoons. For more detailed information on these areas, you may check the recent August issue of WILDLIFE IN NORTH CAROLINA. A map and directions to these areas appear in the magazine.

All of these areas, both the dove hunting areas and the small and migratory game areas, require a special $5.50 season game lands permit in addition to your hunting license. You may pick these up at license dealers in sporting goods and tackle shops across the state.

All of these areas allow hunting on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons, and all have been planted to attract doves.

The following areas allow dove hunting on Monday, Wednesday and Saturday afternoons, but the areas have not been planted to attract doves. WILKES COUNTY—Roaring River Community Farms, four miles southwest of Roaring River on SR2318, south of Yadkin River. YADKIN COUNTY—Huntsville Area, some mile south of Huntsville on SRs 1001 and 1716. ROWAN COUNTY—Hall Farm, two miles north of Cleveland on SRs 1971 and 1972. CARARRUS COUNTY—Barnhart Farm, on US 29 at Cabarrus-Mecklenburg County line.

The following small and migratory game areas have been planted to attract doves and allow hunting on Monday, Wednesday and Saturday afternoons. STOKES COUNTY—Sauratown Plantation, three miles east of Walnut Cove on US 311 at Dan River. DAVIE AND DAVIDSON COUNTIES—Cooleemee Plantation, accessible from US 64 west of Yadkin River in Davie County, and also from SRs 1176, 1178 and 1185 south of US 64 in Davidson County.

ACC Needs A-A Back

In recent years a whole gobful of consideration has been given in an effort to determine means by which football in the Atlantic Coast Conference might be upgraded. Cited ad nauseum has been the high academic requirements of the various member schools, and the demand for a 800 on the College Board Test required by the conference for an athletic grant-in-aid.

Doubtless many of the proposals to lower requirements or increase the number of athletes would be helpful. But if the conference wants to fill the stadiums the best and most effective way is to secure or develop an All-America back.

Not a defensive back, nor one who specializes in blocking. What is needed is a flashy, colorful, crowd pleasing, imagination stirring guy who can lead a team to victory.

There are some good backs in the league like Don McCauley at North Carolina, Leo Hart at Duke, or Ray Yaeger at Clemson to name just three. But for all their ability, and it is considerably, these fellows are not the needed quantity.

Heisman Trophy Back

The conference needs a guy who can compete for the Heisman trophy. It needs a man who can electrify a crowd, who is a hero to kids, and who has a boyish cleanliness about him.

Certainly I am not a hymn-singer or a blue nose, and I seldom crusade for ice cream over bourbon. But the fact remains that however jaded and cynical American society seems, it will respond to the challenge of the kind of fellow I'm talking about. Or at least to a fellow who SEEMS to be that way.

First though, he has to be a top athlete. A great guard or tackle or even an end won't do. He's got to be a back; a guy who runs and passes and catches passes. All-America teams are built around the offensive backs. Once these plumbs are landed, the rest of the team is built up in a sort of geographic sharing plan.

It may not be fair, but it is a fact. Look back over the years at the Heisman trophy winners and see how many guards, tackles and centers have won. Look at professional football and see who gets the most money. The ACC needs a stomp down good offensive back — or even better, several of them.

Duke's Ace Parker

Think of Ace Parker. Here was a guy who played in the thirties, and yet when one runs a memory lane pattern on Duke football he comes up first and foremost with Ace's name.

Why do you think this is? Well, he was a break-away runner without peer, and what's more he kept North Carolina out of the 1935 Rose Bowl game with a sterling performance including a 103-yard touchdown gallop with the opening kickoff.

When Ace Parker was performing at Duke (now Wallace Wade) Stadium, it was full and those were days when $2.50 for a ticket was big money, and there was not near the population to draw from which we have today. If Duke could produce another Ace Parker, the Blue Devil athletic coffers would overflow with goodies and gold.

Think, if you will, of Charlie Justice. He played at North Carolina on a team studded with tremendous athletes.

Art Weiner an All-America end if one ever drew breath; Kenny Powell, another. Irv Holdash at center. These were so many stars the sportswriters had problems displaying their ignorance. But without Justice, the blue chipper, there would have been just another football team instead of the wondrous aggregation which drew 44,000 into Kenan Stadium.

Hopefully, the point has been made. And even more hopefully, there is on some campus, perhaps two or three, an unborn star whose ability, personal traits, and good fortune will spring him forth as a real glittering star. That's what the ACC needs more than any revision of its rules.

Motorists Urged To Drive With Extra Care

The city of Mocksville, N. C. begins its annual drive to alert motorists to drive with extra care in school areas and near school buses this week...and during the weeks to come. Colorful "School's Open" posters are being displayed throughout the community as part of the national effort by the American Automobile Association and the Carolina Motor Club to reduce the death and injury of our children.

Citing national figures revealed in a recent AAA nationwide survey, Chief of Police Joe W. Foster pointed out that each year some 500 school children aged 5-14 are killed and nearly 11,000 are injured as they travel to and from school.

Because the AAA study showed that kindergartner and first grade youngsters suffer the greatest number of school-route pedestrian injuries, Chief Foster urged parents to walk with their children at least on the opening day of school to make certain that the youngsters take the safest route to school.

If at all feasible, the chief said, parents should avoid driving children to school because this only adds to the traffic confusion around school areas, thus creating extra hazards for all youngsters going to school.

Farmer's Home Administration

now make loans to rural home development organizations, and we work with rural builders to assure that homes they build on a multiple basis will meet quality standards for Farmers Home Loan insurance."

Mr. Sink asserted that the rural housing program is "one of the main channels pouring private capital into rural community progress." Farmers Home Administration insured loans serve families or organizations unable to secure home financing through other sources.

Eligibility covers people of low and moderate income, including senior citizens, in rural towns of not more than 5,000 people, plus farm and nonfarm residents of the countryside. If a loan cannot be covered by a local lending institution, Farmers Home advances the loan from a revolving fund, then finds an investor elsewhere to take over the government-insured loan note.

Farmers Home Administration loans are made in Rowan county office located in the Farm and Health Center Building in Salisbury and in the Davie county office located in the County Building in Mocksville.

Corn Crop

The above is a familiar scene in most of the corn fields in Davie County and the state. It shows the corn affected by the blight. (Photo by Mike Clemmer).

Blight Epidemic Affects Most Of Davie Corn Crop

Only a small portion of the Davie County corn crop is expected to escape infection by the Southern corn leaf blight. The fungus disease is an epidemic throughout most of the corn-growing area of the nation.

Leo F. Williams, Davie County Extension Agent, said a survey last week in Davie County revealed that blight and flood damage to corn would exceed 50 percent. Based on 12,000 acres of corn in Davie, this would mean a loss of over $1.5-million.

Little is known about the blight, which is a new race of a familiar fungus. Helminthosporium maydis, or Southern corn leaf blight, spread to North Carolina from Florida and is now well established in the great corn growing areas.

There are controls for the fungus, but probably the only practical method is planting disease tolerant varieties which is, of course, too late this year.

The disease sneaked into the state with lightning quickness, partially disguised by effects of a drought early in the season.

Here And There

Green Meadows Church was glad to welcome several visitors again on Sunday for the worship hour, including Mr. and Mrs. Luther West and son, Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Williams and son and Mr. Alvin Foster.

Royce Matthews was rushed to the hospital last week and first diagnosis indicated surgery but, he responded to medication and the surgery was not necessary, he is back home and recovering satisfactorily.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hanes and son moved into their new home on bend road last week.

The September meeting of the Green Meadows W.M.S. was held on Monday evening at the church, the study being on State Missions.

Thirty three people were treated to a real feast on Saturday evening, when the adult mens Class of Green Meadows church entertained the adult ladies class with a dinner at the new Picnic Pavilion, the menu included corn on the cob, baked potatoes, hot dogs, barbecue, hamburgers, and all the trimmings, doughnuts, Ice Cream and a variety of drinks. I observed that the Men were doing the work while the ladies relaxed and chatted, so I expect they'd been reading all about the "Womens Liberation Movement."

Everytime this column fails to appear several people ask why? Well a scarcity of News is sometimes the reason, so anyone who can contribute items I would be glad to receive a call at my New Number which is 998-8790.

Make your present home feel like a new home.

Switch to the pure comfort of flameless electric heating.

When it comes to giving an older home a new lease on life, nothing does it better than flameless electric heating. For several reasons. One—it's modern. Two—electric heating is steady and even. Three—it's free of flame or combustion. So it needs no chimney or bulky furnace. Four—it's inexpensive to operate.

On the basis of these facts, more and more people in older homes are switching to flameless electric heating. And over half of the new homes and apartments served by Duke Power already have it.

Thinking of modernizing your home? Check with an electrical modernization dealer today. Or ask Duke Power to recommend one for you.

SENATOR SAM ERVIN SAYS

WASHINGTON - Any rational consideration of the advisability of adopting the House-passed Equal Rights Amendment raises these questions:
 1. What is the character of the unfair discriminations society makes against women?
 2. Does it require an amendment to the Constitution to invalidate them?
 3. If so, would the House-passed Equal Rights Amendment constitute an effective means to that end?
 From the many conversations I have had with advocates of the House-passed Equal Rights Amendment, I am convinced that many of their just grievances are founded upon discriminations not created by law. For this reason, the Equal Rights Amendment will have no effect upon them.
 Most of the unfair discriminations against women arise out of the different treatment given men and women in the employment sphere. While no one can gainsay the fact that women suffer many discriminations in this sphere, let me point out that Congress has done much in recent years to abolish discriminations of this character insofar as they can be abolished at the federal level. It has amended the Fair Labor Standards Act to make it obligatory for employers to pay men and women engaged in interstate commerce or in the production of goods for interstate commerce equal pay for equal work. Furthermore, the President and virtually all of the departments and agencies of the Federal Government have issued orders prohibiting discrimination against women in federal employment. In addition, state legislatures have adopted many enlightened statutes in recent years prohibiting discrimination against women in employment.
 If women are not enjoying the full benefit of this federal and state legislation and these executive orders, it is due to a defect in enforcement rather than a want of fair laws and regulations.
 Moreover, the Equal Protection Clause of the 14th Amendment is now being interpreted by the courts to invalidate state laws which single out women for different treatment not based on some reasonable classification. Thus a good case can be made that it is not necessary to resort to constitutional amendment to abolish state laws which make unfair discriminations between men and women in employment or other spheres of life.
 None of these facts, however, will satisfy the demands of some advocates of the House-passed Amendment who seek to convert men and women into beings not only equal but alike, and grant them identical rights and impose upon them identical duties in all the relationships and undertakings of life. For the rationale of these advocates is that women should be subject to the draft, be sent into military combat, pay their husbands alimony, support themselves and their children, and receive no preferences which are not accorded men under the law.
 These militant advocates are unwilling to seek to persuade Congress and the legislatures of the states to enact reasonable legislation to deal with any unfair discriminations of the law based upon sex, but urge that the Senate plunge society into constitutional chaos by adopting the House-passed Amendment.

 In my judgment it makes far more sense for the Congress to propose to the states the Constitutional Amendment which I have offered as a substitute for the House-passed Amendment. My amendment would state that equality of rights shall not be abridged because of sex, but still would permit laws which recognize that there are physiological and functional differences between men and women.

Chevy Vega 2300 Now On Display

One of the most looked-for cars in recent automotive history - Chevrolet's new small car, the Vega 2300 - will make its public debut here on Sept. 10 at Pennington Chevrolet Co., Inc. Announcement day festivities for the local unveiling of the exciting new car that has stirred such wide interest in the automotive press and among car enthusiasts were announced today by O. K. Pope.

Mr. Pope said showroom visitors will be greeted by Vega star salesmen who will answer questions about the new small car and explain its features. "The star lapel buttons, identifying the salesmen, will have been awarded by Chevrolet for superior product knowledge. Vega 2300 is named for one of the sky's brightest stars, the figure 2300 is for the number of cubic centimeters capacity in its 4-cylinder, 140-cubic inch, aluminum alloy engine," he said.

Mr. Pope said that his sales and service staff, along with the staffs of more than 6,000 other Chevrolet dealerships across the nation, have taken part in the most intensive indoctrination programs in order to prepare for the Vega's advent. These included sales training sessions, service technician programs, and general product indoctrination programs for all dealership personnel.

"The full management and all the other members of our dealership team have been preparing well in advance of this introduction to assure maximum sales, service, and parts assistance for every customer," Mr. Pope said.

The Vega 2300 comes in four models, including a hatchback coupe, a 2-door sedan, a Kammback wagon, and a panel express with "swing-up" taillgate. It provides an excellent combination of economy and performance, and its superior ride and handling characteristics have been the subject of high praise by those who have driven it.

...NEW 'BRIGHT STARS' FROM CHEVROLET - The complete and all-new line of Vega 2300 small cars will make their public debut Thursday, Sept. 10, at Chevrolet dealerships across the country. The Vega models, named after "a bright star of the first magnitude," are (clockwise from lower left) a two-door sedan, a panel express, a Kammback wagon, and hatchback coupe. All four are powered by a unique new four-cylinder, 140-cubic inch, overhead cam, aluminum alloy engine. The engine, which develops 90 horsepower (90 SAE net) in the standard unit and is available in a 110 hp (93 SAE net) version, delivers a maximum combination of low pollutant emission, exceptional fuel economy, and spirited performance. Built on a 97-inch wheelbase, the Vegas feature a variety of automotive body and component innovations. Their ride and handling qualities have been the subject of high praise from those who have driven them. Besides the available engines, a choice of four transmissions is offered: the standard 3-speed manual shift, or the 1-speed manual shift, automatic Powerglide, or semi-automatic Torque Drive.

Recently some of his friends collaborated to film his jump ... and this is what they got. The films made from the ground were made by Elbert Smith. In the above photo, Larry is shown just before he climbs into the plane.

... from the ground ... Larry is a mere speck in the sky.

... the parachute opens.

... Larry seemingly floats in the air.

... and guides his chute to a safe landing.

Tattle Tales

A person physically resembling the familiar picture of Jesus stirred up quite a bit of excitement at the First Baptist Church here last week.

A woman was alone in the Sanctuary last Tuesday morning busily engaged in her cleaning duties. Suddenly she looked up and walking down the aisle was this man with long hair and a black beard. She went screaming to the church office and a call was put in for the police.

Mocksville Police Chief Joe Foster answered the call with blue lights flashing and entered the church to determine what was happening.

The man told the officer he was only seeking someone that might give him a bite to eat...he was just a hungry traveler with long hair and a beard

There is at least one well mowed garden in Mocksville. Harry Osborne, on orders from his wife, did this last week after Lou had seen a snake. Harry moved in with his mower and cut down the remaining vegetables along with the weeds, etc.

News and Comment from our Folks' Bureau—205 Clark Rd.

STEP... Is Lt. Gov. Pat Taylor interested in being a candidate for Governor in 1972? The answer say his homefolks in Wadesboro, is definitely yes. They don't see as much of him as they used to—"he's always off speaking somewhere"—and a new thing has been added. He has a new lawyer in the office—someone to handle some cases which formerly kept the Lieutenant Governor from accepting out-of-town engagements. This indicates to his neighbors that Pat Taylor "right now is off and running for Governor."

philosophical mouthings of self-determination, cries or repression or claims of attack against intellectual freedom." As if looking over the shoulders of those UNC people working on "Policies, Procedures, and Disciplinary Actions in Cases of Disruption of Educational Process", Hoover said: "College administrators must rise to face the issues, honestly and then have the courage to firmly implement policies that will not permit or condone any illegitimate interruption of the educational process."

COMING UP...The policies attitudes officially adopted by the Executive Committee on August 10—signed by President William Friday and mailed out on August 14—will be submitted to the Board of Trustees for adoption on October 26. Oids are 10,000 to 1—along there—that the changes in the Code Provisions Governing the University of North Carolina will be formally and unanimously adopted on October 26. J. Edgar Hoover believes that campus radicals "know well that their success in part is dependent upon weak administrators—leaders who refuse to accept the responsibility of maintaining order." UNC President Bill Friday now draws $42,000 per year in salary, more than the Governor or any other State employee. He's underpaid.

TOGETHERNESS...It does look as if the millennium has finally arrived—with the lambs and wolves lying down together...in peace. The University of North Carolina—with campuses at Chapel Hill, Raleigh, Greensboro, etc.—and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover apparently see eye-to-eye on how to prevent campus troubles. There is a marked similarity in the University bulletin dated August 14 and the September issue of Hoover's FBI Law Enforcement Bulletin. It is interesting to compare the two statements. The University said it is not going to stand for the following this year:

1. Occupation of any University building or part thereof with intent to deprive others of its normal use.
2. Blocking the entrance or exit of any University building or corridor or room therein with intent to deprive others of lawful access to or from, or use of, said building or corridor or room.
3. Setting fire to or by any other means destroying or substantially damaging any University Building or property, or the property of others on University premises.
4. Any possession or display of, or attempt or threat to use, for any unlawful purpose any weapon, dangerous instrument, explosive, or inflammable material in any University building or on any University campus.
5. Prevention of, or attempt to prevent by physical act; the attending, convening, continuation or orderly conduct of any University class or activity or of any lawful meeting or assembly in any University building or on any University campus.
6. Blocking normal pedestrian or vehicular traffic on or into any University campus.

FIRMNESS...At about the same time that various University representatives—trustees, students, faculty members and administrative officers—were developing the solid statements, stolid old J. Edgar Hoover was writing this: "Let not the issue of student conduct be clouded by

EVERYBODY...People with any sense—and who know University history—realize that UNC has been as liberal and tolerant towards its students and faculty members as any educational institution on earth. Even under the new rules approved by the Executive Committee of the Board of Directors, the following will be permitted, presumably: peaceful picketing, peaceful demonstrations, free discussion and expression, peaceful assembly. But notice the differences between these and the foregoing items which will not be permitted. It is noted, also, that the new rules apply to any faculty member, any graduate, student, any part-time teachers, etc., as well as to the students themselves. A lot of alumni will say hurrah for this provision.

BACK TO ED...Now here is further agreement—passing strange, too—between the UNC viewpoint and J. Edgar Hoover's. Says the FBI head: "Administrators must not only show firmness toward unruly students, but also to faculty members who act like rabid anarchists and spend most of their time encouraging enthusiastic but naive young people to overthrow established procedures." You'd think they had been reading each other's mail.

Lt. Thrower received a branch transfer into the Signal Corps and they will be stationed at Fort Gordon, Georgia.

November 1st Sought For Opening Of I-40

The State Highway Commission may be able to open Interstate 40 between the Yadkin River and US 64 west of Mocksville around November 1st.

However, there appears to be little chance of completing the remaining link between US 64 and Statesville before December or later.

K. L. Horton, Jr., division highway engineer, said last week that whether the new I-40 will open only part of the way will depend upon the relative progress of the jobs.

If they are to be completed at about the same time, it would be safer and less expensive to open the entire highway at the same time and avoid installing temporary signs and setting up a new detour for only a short time.

But, if the western link will be far behind the others, highway officials may decide it is better to go ahead and open the highway as far as US 64.

The first two stretches, from NC 801 west of the Yadkin River to the Davie-Iredell line, have a completion date of Nov. 1, and it appears now that the contractor will be able to meet that date, Horton said.

But the earliest possible completion date for the final section across Iredell County appears now to be Dec. 15, he said, after consulting engineers on his section.

Horton said the engineers will Driver Charged After Accident

State Trooper R. L. Beane investigated an accident Monday, August 30th, eight miles east of Mocksville.

Tildren Ray Myers, of Route 1, Advance, operating a 1970 Rabel, was going east on Highway 159 and stopped for another vehicle stopped in the roadway.

Gilbert Strupe Tucker of Route 2, Mocksville, operating a 1966 Pontiac, also going east, failed to get stopped, and skidded into the rear of the Myers vehicle.

Damages were estimated at $600 to the Myers' car and $350 to the Tucker vehicle. Tucker was charged with failure to reduce speed.

Rotarians View Heritage

Tuesday marked the 23rd anniversary of the opening of Heritage Furniture in Mocksville.

The occasion was cited by Ed Short, Plant Manager for Heritage, at a meeting of the Mocksville Rotary Club.

Mr. Short told the Rotarians that 23 years ago, September 8, 1947, Heritage began operating the Mocksville plant. At that time it was a family owned company...

...Elliott Wood of High Point. In 1957 Heritage merged with Drexel and in 1960 became a division of U. S. Plywood Champion Paper Company. Heritage has just completed an expansion program that has added 223,000 sq. ft. to their operation. This has been the fifth expansion of this furniture manufacturer.

"We try to make the best furniture for the price in the market," Mr. Short told the Rotarians.

As a special part of the program, the Rotarians were taken on guided tours of the Heritage plant.

Davie Students To Have In-School Television Courses

Over 100,000 Tar Heel schoolchildren will receive some of their in-school instruction from television this year. The State Department of Public Instruction's new offerings, via UNCTE (University of North Carolina Educational Television) include "Ripples," a show for kindergarten and first grade students, "Granny," a series of musical experiences for primary children, and a brand-new math program for junior and senior high students with lessons to be learned from magic tricks, Japanese arts and crafts, and the garage.

Some 1,000 public schools are expected to utilize in-school television courses this year. Instructional television coordinator for Davie County is A. M. Kiser, Jr. also director of instruction for the unit.

Mothers with preschoolers might want to keep their sets turned to educational channels for those programs aimed at younger children: four this year. And parents of those watching the set at school might want to tune in themselves and see what Junior's learning.

"Ripples," which heads the list of new programs for the preschool and first-grade set, consists of 36 "encounters" designed to develop a basic concept concerning man and his relationships to himself and his environment. "The series," said Television Services Chief Consultant Mrs. Reta Richardson, "cuts across school subject lines and concentrates on events concerned with the development of a child's feelings, values, and ability to make and understand relationship."

One segment, "Body Talk," shows how people communicate through movement; another, "Millions of Pies," deals with the automation necessary to meet the needs of large numbers of people. The series was produced for National Instructional Television by the Northern Educational Television Association and is the first nationally-aired show slated for in-school use in North Carolina. It's also the first without a television teacher. In addition, the programs are non-sequential for teachers or parents who might want to tune in now and then. "Ripples" will be aired Mondays at 2 p.m. with repeats on Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday.

Also of interest to mothers of preschoolers is "Let's Learn to Think," a series developed at N. C. State University for children in special education classes or those with mental ages of approximately 5-7 years.

"Research results," said Mrs. Richardson, "indicate that the programs do improve verbal fluency and other competencies. "Productivity-Responsiveness," the segment to be aired this fall, is an action series in which each child and teacher participates. The purpose is to encourage

Doug Seaford Injured While Directing Traffic

Mocksville Policeman Doug Seaford was hospitalized Tuesday, after being hit and knocked down following a collision between two cars at the intersection of Gaither and Wilkesboro Streets, at York and Son's BP Service Station.

Policeman Seaford was directing traffic at this intersection while State Highway Maintenance men were working on the traffic light, which was turned off at the time.

According to Mocksville Police Chief Joe Foster, Albert Howard was operating his car in the direction of the intersection from Avon Street. June Franklin Jarvis was operating his car and was coming up Wilkesboro, St. Policeman Seaford signaled Mr. Howard to come on through, and Mr. Jarvis continued on also with the resulting collision which threw Mr. Howard's car into Policeman Seaford, knocking him to the pavement.

The accident happened around 10:05 a. m. Tuesday. Seaford was admitted to the Davie County Hospital. X-rays showed no fractures. Mr. Seaford received a prained arm and back injuries.

State Trooper J. L. Payne investigated an accident Tuesday, September 1st, at 10:30 a.m. on US 64 east of Mocksville. David Jones, 64, of Marion, S. C., drove a 1961 GMC tractor-trailer, was traveling west on US 64, when vehicle jackknifed and overturned in roadway.

Damage to the rear tandem of tractor, owned by the Marion Lumber Company, was estimated at $800.

The State Highway Patrol would like to thank Ingersoll-Rand and H. R. Powell Lumber Company for the use of their equipment in helping to clear the highway of this accident.

Mocksville Seeks Federal Approval Of $109,000 Grant

Bids for the job of expanding Mocksville's sewer system were opened almost two months ago, but work on the project has not begun.

"The contractors are sitting there right now wanting to move their equipment on the job," Andrew Lagle, city engineer, said last week.

They can't, he explained, because federal officials have not approved a $109,000 grant to cover the increased cost of the project.

The grant was approved more than a month ago by the State Board of Air and Water Resources, and the federal approval is expected to be just a formality.

Federal officials have told Lagle to go ahead and begin work on the $1 million project - "nobody will put it in writing."

No one was surprised that the estimates made almost three years ago were too low. The immediate problem is a legal requirement that contracts be awarded within 60 days after bids are opened. The 60 days will be up next week.

David Jones, 64, of Marion, S. C., drove a 1961 GMC tractor-trailer, was traveling west on US 64, when vehicle jackknifed and overturned in roadway.

Damage to the rear tandem of tractor, owned by the Marion Lumber Company, was estimated at $800.

The State Highway Patrol would like to thank Ingersoll-Rand and H. R. Powell Lumber Company for the use of their equipment in helping to clear the highway of this accident.

The citation accompanying the award of the medal reads as follows:

FIRST LIEUTENANT RONALD T. BROWN, 246-72-4432, Transportation Corps, United States Army, performed exceptionally outstanding service as Platoon Leader, 126th Transportation Company, 126th Transportation Battalion, Fort Bragg, North Carolina, from 17 October 1968 to 15 August 1970. As a platoon leader, Lieutenant Brown exhibited outstanding leadership ability which resulted in a high degree of esprit by de corps and pride in performance within his platoon.

This was reflected by its performance in support of the 1969 Reserve Officers Training Camp. In addition, he was Property Book Officer and the Motor Officer, for the company. On its Annual General Inspection, the 126th Transportation Company received an overall rating of Excellent, and the supply and property accountability portions were rated as Superior. Through his efforts, maintenance and maintenance management within the company were constantly improved, as was evidenced by the outstanding results achieved on the Command Maintenance Management Inspections. On several occasions, he was Acting Commander of the company and, in this capacity, displayed exceptional leadership and managerial ability for an officer of his grade and experience. During this period, he was Officer in Charge of a 25 vehicle convoy dispatched to Fort Benning, Georgia, to procure critical items needed to support Exercise BRASS STRIKE VI. The superb manner in which this movement was accomplished was a further indication of his leadership and professional approach. As Adjutant, 530th Supply and Service Battalion, he displayed the same drive, enthusiasm, and skills as he had as a troop leader. He quickly mastered personnel management criteria and initiated programs which improved personnel actions within the Battalion, particularly those dealing with the morale of the individual soldier.

The outstanding manner in which Lieutenant Brown performed his duties reflects great credit upon himself, his organization, and the military service.

FOR FALL 1970

Fashion Lets You Skirt The Issue Of Hemlines

If you want to skirt the issue of hemlines in your fall wardrobe, 1970 fashions allow ample room for fence-straddling.

One great compromise of the season, for example, combines a wide wale cotton corduroy coat in the new longer length with a matching mini-skirted dress.

Another look that encompasses the long and short of it is the pantsuit that melds a mini-length tunic with long flare-legged pants. The mini-inclined can also wear the tunic separately as a dress.

A subtle way to ease into the longer mood of fashion 1970 is via the gauchito. Borrowed from the Argentine cowboy, the mid-calf gauchos are the pants that are a divided skirt and vice versa. Either way you look at it, the gauchito is clearly one of fall's most popular styles.

Still another approach that offers the best of the two fashion looks is the button-front mini-skirt. The young have come up with a way to bridge the polarization in hemlines: they bring the midi and the mini together by simply buttoning their skirts only half-way down... thus insuring mini exposure with midi style.

Whether you're an out-and-out advocate of the midi or a diehard for the mini, fall 1970 is the season to experiment with fashion... put things together... and discover what's best for you. More than just a new length, fall offers a look that's soft, easy, and slender.

California designers express the fashion message in soft cotton suedes, buckskins, knits, ribbed and ribless corduroys, and velveteens that take to the supple shaping so vital to the new look.

When it comes to planning your own wardrobe for fall, you may not want to be the first in your crowd to come out in a mini... but on the other hand, make sure you're not the last to lay the mini aside.

Party Pleasing With Ease

Dinner parties often are easy-planting until the cook tries to think of new and different appetizers. If she's clever, she'll use what she has on hand to make a Sweet-Sour Dipping Sauce for fried shrimp, egg roll or bacon-wrapped chicken livers.

Then if she needs a second before-dinner delicacy, she might heat frankfurter nuggets in Currant Glaze, again using kitchen-handy foods. In both recipes preserves are called upon, for their goodness extends way beyond breakfast toast or coffee-time muffins.

Apple jelly "makes" the dipping sauce and currant jelly partners with salad mustard to glaze the franks. You'll see—at your very next party.

Sweet-Sour Dipping Sauce

- 1 tablespoon salad oil
- 2 tablespoons vinegar
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1 tablespoon soy sauce
- 1 cup sliced green onions
- 1 teaspoon ground ginger
- 1 (10-ounce) jar apple jelly

Combine oil, garlic and onions in saucepan; bring to low heat for a few minutes. Add jelly and remaining ingredients; bring to boil and cook 3 minutes. Cool; serve slightly warm with fried shrimp, egg roll or bacon-wrapped chicken livers. Makes 1 cup.

Currant Glazed Appetizer Franks

- 1 (10-ounce) jar currant jelly
- 1 pound cocktail franks or sliced franks
- 1 (6-ounce) jar salad mustard (3/4 cup)

Heat jelly and mustard together, stirring occasionally, until blended. Add franks and heat. Serve with picks. Makes 8 servings.

VISITOR ...Special speaker at a big breakfast commemorating National Highway Week here on Friday, September 25, will be U. S. Sen. Everett Jordan.
He will be introduced by the head of the household he will be spending the night of the 24th with - neighbor, kinsfolks, Gov. Robert W. Scott.

BACK HOME ... Although House members were scheduled to return to Washington, September 9 after a three weeks summer vacation, not all of them made it. Some of those who did, had plans for a return to Tarheelia for the weekend. Legislative troubles on Potomac-politics back home.
While those now in are expected to hold their seats, the experts-mostly the pollsters-point to close battles in several State Congressional districts in November.

STATE EMPLOYEES ... Under the guidance of former State Senator Emmett W. Burden, the N. C. State Employees Association has shown tremendous growth within the past two years.
Burden succeeded Clifton Beckwith, longtime Raleigh Democratic leader, two years ago. Beckwith built the organization from nothing. It now has upwards of 16,000 members, a new publication, and is said to be considering erecting or purchasing a building for its expanding offices.
Meantime, there are rumors that this organization and the gargantuan N. C. Highway Employees Association will soon merge. The combined organization-full or political savvy, too-should have a membership of close to ... 35,000.
And at the moment-probably 95 percent Democratic. Wow.

ATHLETIC COSTS ... Duke's famous 1938 Rose Bowl team required a total of $12,000 in athletic scholarships. But athletic scholarships for Duke for 1970-71-including football and basketball-now total $75,000.
This information comes directly from the Duke University news bulletins.
Little Davidson this year is going for $150,000 for football scholarships alone. The school itself will provide only $40,000 of this amount. The rest must come from private subscription.

BYWAYS ... The September issue of "Venture", regarded by many as the most beautiful-and certainly the most unusual-of the travel magazines has a big spread on North Carolina.
The title, "Byways of North Carolina", has this subhead: "Some Say Its Our Most Beautiful State."

CONGRESS, TOO ... Until only a few years ago, girls were not used as pages in the North Carolina Legislature. This has now changed-and it sometimes seems as if there are more girls than boys moving about the two houses.
Because Washington is such a wicked city, Congressmen have been reluctant to sponsor daughters of constituents and bring them to a place without supervision. Now, however, women's liberation has changed all that.
The rules have been amended to admit girls as pages. Pages in the Congress get $427.14 per month-nearly as much as our legislators in Raleigh-and must attend special high school classes in the Library of Congress.
The proposed change would require that pages be high school graduates and not over 22 years of age.

MORE CHANGE ... Like Reynolds Tobacco Co., the makers of Chesterfield are moving into fields far afield from the tobacco field. So much so, in fact, that they asked recently if the name should not be Myers & Liggett.
"We haven't really changed the name," said the officials, "but we have changed the company. We are now 54 percent non-tobacco."

REHABILITATION ... A 10 week course in Rehabilitation under the Forsyth Technical Institute extension plan and sponsored by Winston-Salem Area 10, Licensed Practical Nurses will begin September 10.
Two identical two hour sessions will be held each Thursday. The classes will meet from 10 a. m. to 12 noon and from 7 p. m. to 9 p. m. in the Craig Room of the John C. Whitaker Care Center.
Miss Linda Hege, R. N., B. S. N., will be the instructor.
Several local doctors will lecture on related subjects as will speakers from other phases of rehabilitation.
All LPN's are invited to register for the course. Others in the health field may also attend.

TAR HEEL KITCHEN
By Miss York Kiker
Do you like mystery stories or television programs? If so, perhaps you can help solve one called "The Case of the Disappearing Breakfast." More and more families are failing to eat breakfast at home. Dad may have a sweet roll and coffee at the office, children may have a candy bar or a snack at a store on the way to school, and mother may nibble all morning. Breakfast seems to be a disappearing meal.
Much has been written about breakfast. We all know that research shows that non-breakfast eaters are not physically up to par and do not work to their best abilities or respond as well as when they had eaten. Attitudes and scholastic attainments are affected. With so much knowledge about the necessity for a good meal at the beginning of the day, the mystery still remains why people don't eat breakfast.
September is Better Breakfast Month and the ideal time to start solving the breakfast mystery in your family. Breakfast skippers may have alibis such as "not enough time," or "I'm dieting" or "I am not hungry so early." One of the main troubles may be that breakfast is often the most boring meal of the day because it is easy to fall into the pattern of eating the same food repeatedly.
Luckily there are no rules that say certain foods are for breakfast only and must be eaten the first thing in the morning. There are several guidelines, however, that should be observed in a good breakfast. It should supply from one fourth to one third of the day's total nutritional requirements. Include a fruit (preferably one high in vitamin C such as citrus fruits, strawberries, cantaloupes, or tomatoes); a protein (milk, eggs, meat, or cheese); and a carbohydrate such as cereal or enriched or whole grain breads. By all means enjoyable foods should be included.
Let your imagination be your guide. Some suggestions of menus and ideas from teenage magazines are tempting to boost the appetite.
Breakfast-in-a-glass --- orange juice, eggs, and milk thoroughly mixed in a glass served with toast and marmalade.
Cheeseburger with sliced apples and a vanilla milk shake.

Cottage cheese, fruit, cinnamon toast and milk.
Pancakes or waffles with peanut butter between them, plus an apple and milk.
Corned beef hash omelet, grapefruit juice, hot buttered biscuits and milk.
Ready-to-eat cereal, topped with strawberries and ice cream plus additional milk as needed and toast.
For an autumn harvest breakfast, try the following. A little pre-preparation the night before can save minutes in the SUBSTITUTE ... Now that lettuce has gone well through the ceiling in price-thanks to strikes, etc., in the producing areas-how about turning to North Carolina cabbage and tomatoes?

This is what Agriculture Commissioner James A. Graham has been preaching for the past few days. In the mountains, from Wilkes west, we have this year an overflow of cabbage. No better tomatoes can be found anywhere, says Commissioner Graham, than those grown in Western North Carolina. He's a little bitter about it: "We tell them how to grow them-but don't do enough to help them sell them."
But after appeals from Graham and some State retail organizations, scores of supermarkets across North Carolina are featuring mountain cabbage and tomatoes-as a good substitute for sky-high lettuce.

Much has been written about breakfast. We all know that research shows that non-breakfast eaters are not physically up to par and do not work to their best abilities or respond as well as when they had eaten. ## If You See Ladies Sifting Sand - - -

Neil Bolton, Dixie Classic Fair manager, wants to alert the citizens to a certain activity in their midst.

"If you notice a pretty garden-club type lady up Rural Hall way," he says, "and see she's sifting sand and spending a lot of TLC on common roadside rocks, then you can be sure she's a member of the Rural Hall Garden Club."

These busy ladies are preparing their entry in the Fair's new Gardens competitions.
Mrs. T. M. Smith, the club's president, explains it this way: "Ours will be a contemporary garden showing the Japanese influence, so we need attractive rocks with interesting shapes. These will be major points of emphasis, along with patterned sand and an authentic Japanese lantern."

The thirteen ladies of the Rural Hall Garden Club are competing for ribbons and cash prizes in the Fair's newest Floriculture department. A total of $1,500 in premiums will go to winners in the four classes: (1) a patio garden featuring easy maintenance, (2) a modern garden designed around a piece of sculpture, (3) a contemporary garden showing the Japanese influence, and (4) a garden of herbs and wildflowers with other compatible plant material. No material on the Conservation List of the Garden Club of North Carolina, Inc., will be allowed, except on own roots.

Only three entries will be accepted in each of the four categories. All gardens will be on plots allotted on the center floor of the Coliseum. First place winner in each category will receive $150 and a blue ribbon; second place, $125 and a red ribbon; third place, $100 and a yellow ribbon.

All entries must be made in advance, Bolton says. And the gardens must be completed and ready for judging by 5 p.m., Monday, October 5, the day before the Fair opens for its five-day showing. Any duly organized garden club, plant society, or garden council is eligible to enter the competition.

For information and plot assignment call or write the Dixie Classic Fair, Box 7525 Reynolda Station, Winston-Salem, N. C., 27109 - phone (919) 723-7361.

VISITOR ... Special speaker at a big breakfast commemorating National Highway Week here on Friday, September 25, will be U. S. Sen. Everett Jordan.

He will be introduced by the head of the household he will be spending the night of the 24th with - neighbor, kinsfolks, Gov. Robert W. Scott.

BACK HOME ... Although House members were scheduled to return to Washington, September 9 after a three weeks summer vacation, not all of them made it. Some of those who did, had plans for a return to Tarheelia for the weekend. Legislative troubles on Potomac-politics back home.

While those now in are expected to hold their seats, the experts - mostly the pollsters - point to close battles in several State Congressional districts in November.

STATE EMPLOYEES ... Under the guidance of former State Senator Emmett W. Burden, the N. C. State Employees Association has shown tremendous growth within the past two years.

Burden succeeded Clifton Beckwith, longtime Raleigh Democratic leader, two years ago. Beckwith built the organization from nothing.

It now has upwards of 18,000 members, a new publication, and is said to be considering erecting or purchasing a building for its expanding offices.

You don't have to retire to get Medicare coverage. Luke is a good example of today's older Americans. He's taking advantage of one of the benefits of being 65 - working as much as he wants and enjoying the peace of mind that comes with knowing his Medicare coverage is there when he needs it.

What's his formula for keeping young? To that, Luke replies, "Confucius say he who never worries about growing old will never age." Medicare is a two-part health insurance program for people 65 or older. Hospital insurance helps pay for hospital care and related post-hospital services. Medical insurance helps pay doctor and other medical service bills.

CONGRESS, TOO ... Until only a few years ago, girls were not used as pages in the North Carolina Legislature. This has now changed - and it sometimes seems as if there are more girls than boys moving about the two houses.

Because Washington is such a wicked city, Congressman have been reluctant to sponsor daughters of constituents and bring them to a place without supervision. Now, however, women's liberation has changed all that.

The rules have been amended to admit girls as pages. Pages in the Congress get $427.14 per month - nearly as much as our legislators in Raleigh - and must attend special high school classes in the Library of Congress.

The proposed change would require that pages be high school graduates and not over 22 years of age.

MORE CHANGE ... Like Reynolds Tobacco Co., the makers of Chesterfield are moving into fields far afield from the tobacco field. So much so, in fact, that they asked recently if the name should not be Myers & Liggett.

"We haven't really changed the name," said the officials, "but we have changed the company. We are now 54 percent non-tobacco."

Pour cooked mush into 8 1/2 x 4 1/2 x 2 1/2 inch loaf pan which has been rinsed with cold water. Refrigerate several hours or overnight. Cut chilled mush into 1/2-inch slices. Fry on lightly buttered griddle or in fry pan until golden brown. Serve hot with syrup and sausage patties. Yields about 8 servings.

NOTE: Mush, sausage, and apples can be cooked the night before and warmed for serving. Add scrambled eggs for a hearty breakfast.

Once again the Morehead Planetarium in Chapel Hill has an unusual playbill for the approaching 1970-71 school season. Now that fall and the accompanying onslaught of students is approaching, the Planetarium has begun the mailing of its 1970-71 Program Schedules. Miss Linda Robbins, Administrative Secretary, announced that approximately 30,000 copies of this year's Program Schedule have been sent to schools throughout North Carolina and surrounding states, civic groups, social groups and church groups.

"The printing of the 50,000 copies of the new Program Schedule to be distributed throughout the year is sponsored by Burger Chef of Chapel Hill, Burlington and High Point," stated Miss Robbins.

Saravette P. Williams, Reservation Secretary, states that reservations are now being accepted to start the 1970 School Season promptly on Wednesday of Labor Day Week. "Mister Moon" (grades 1, 2, 3), "All About Planets" (grades 4, 5, 6) and "The Earth in the Universe" (grades 7, 8, 9) will each be offered at different times on Wednesday, September 9, Thursday, September 10, and Friday, September 11. The times at which each of these shows are offered on each respective day will constitute a uniform weekly schedule throughout the season.

If You See Ladies Sifting Sand - - -

Neil Bolton, Dixie Classic Fair manager, wants to alert the citizens to a certain activity in their midst.

"If you notice a pretty garden-club type lady up Rural Hall way," he says, "and see she's sifting sand and spending a lot of TLC on common roadside rocks, then you can be sure she's a member of the Rural Hall Garden Club."

These busy ladies are preparing their entry in the Fair's new Gardens competitions.

Mrs. T. M. Smith, the club's president, explains it this way: "Ours will be a contemporary garden showing the Japanese influence, so we need attractive rocks with interesting shapes. These will be major points of emphasis, along with patterned sand and an authentic Japanese lantern."

The thirteen ladies of the Rural Hall Garden Club are competing for ribbons and cash prizes in the Fair's newest Floriculture department. A total of $1,500 in premiums will go to winners in the four classes: (1) a patio garden featuring easy maintenance, (2) a modern garden designed around a piece of sculpture, (3) a contemporary garden showing the Japanese influence, and (4) a garden of herbs and wildflowers with other compatible plant material. No material on the Conservation List of the Garden Club of North Carolina, Inc., will be allowed, except on own roots.

Only three entries will be accepted in each of the four categories. All gardens will be on plots allotted on the center floor of the Coliseum. First place winner in each category will receive $150 and a blue ribbon; second place, $125 and a red ribbon; third place, $100 and a yellow ribbon.

All entries must be made in advance, Bolton says. And the gardens must be completed and ready for judging by 5 p. m., Monday, October 5, the day before the Fair opens for its five-day showing. Any duly organized garden club, plant society, or garden council is eligible to enter the competition.

Poor Reporting

The principal objection I have to network television sports announcers is that they have the jobs and I don't. But once I confess my burning jealousy over their success and money, then it seems fair that my other feelings about my well paid heroes can be taken as an objective appraisal. In a word, the general quality of network sportscasting is, frankly, miserable.

Not only miserable, but shallow, self-seeking, frivolous, irrelevant, super-technical and often incomprehensible.

The ceaseless switching from one man to another with the mention of names is a shameless exercise in self glorification. The meaningless chatter is clearly an indication that the witless mumbblers cannot think of anything pertinent to say.

To wit: "That's right Charlie. One of the greatest guys on the tour is Joe Schlotz. One of the truly great sportsmen in golf." Then the echo will come in: "You're right, Larry! He certainly is!" Listen the next time you can to the telecast of a major golf tournament and see if you don't hear something like this a number of times.

Magnificent Equipment

Football is probably the worst. Network broadcasts are blessed with car loads of magnificent equipment, capable as we have all seen of giving us instant replay, stop action, slow motion—the whole bit.

The producers therefore are anxious to exercise their technical expertise, and equally anxious to make certain their announcers display not the first vestige of personality.

The surest way to stifle personality is to hire some bumbling ex-jock who has none and make him an announcer. These guys, some ex-players and some ex-coaches, and some both, like to amaze everyone with detailed analysis of the pass pattern or the blocking technique, dissertations which are meaningless to everyone who has not played the game.

The number of former football players in a general television audience is infinitesimal, and yet the fine point commentary is aimed solely at those who have made a lifelong study of the game.

If anyone doubts this, go on the street and ask a hundred people: "What does it mean when an announcer says the receiver ran a post pattern?" If two people can answer I'll be amazed.

'I've Done My Homework'

Then there is the "look at me, I've done my homework" approach. This is particularly evident in basketball telecasts. The numb-gum on the tube is so anxious not to sound like a radio announcer that he does everything possible to keep from describing the game. Many have a whole packet of index cards on which have been typed all sorts of personal and statistical goodies about the players.

Such information might be interesting, even captivating, before the game, at the half, or in a post game analysis. But during the actual play, you give a damn whether a player is doing better than he did last year, or whether he comes from Podunk or Manhattan?

It is impossible to look at a wide shot of a basketball game and recognize the players on the tube. Therefore an announcer ought to identify the man with the ball. Rebounds? One of the most important facets of the game, but watch to see how often the rebounder is not identified, while ole tumble tongue reads off his little cards.

There are a few baseball announcers left with a degree of flair, but they are being weeded out by old age, death and retirement, and their kind won't be seen or heard again. Like I tell people who call me up to complain about what I do on the air: "You ain't gotta listen." So I ain't gotta listen either, and when I can help it, I don't.

News Of Air Force Recruiters

"Air Force Recruiters are TOP personnel in their normal Air Force specialty", says MSgt Buddie J. Hewitt, Supervisor for the Air Force recruiters of this portion of North Carolina. Sergeant Hewitt, whose office is in the Greensboro Post Office, wishes to let the general public know more about his personnel since they are always in the public eye as Air Force representatives. His recruiters come from such Air Force jobs as Mechanics, Security Police, Dental Technicians, Administration and others.

"The men we select are those who are in the top 15 percent of their regular job", Sgt. Hewitt said. "By selecting those who have already proven their ability in their regular line of work his likelihood of becoming a successful recruiter is good. Its not just a matter of filling a vacancy, its a matter of finding a top man to fill a very special position as a representative of the Air Force."

When asked about a recruiter's job Sgt. Hewitt said, "Normally we must find people to fill our quotas but we are also here to provide information and assistance to the public. For instance, we provide movie film and speakers for many community and civic organizations and help arrange for displays and other special items in support of Fairs, Parades and other special events. Our most important job though is in providing the latest information to the High Schools and Colleges. These are the people who need our assistance most and naturally the ones we are most interested in for the Air Force. My Recruiters and myself are always available to talk with anyone who has questions about the Air Force."

Letter To Editor

Dear Editor:

I'm writing this to tell you that I'm getting the Enterprise and I really enjoy it. My parents send us a copy and we usually get it 2 or 3 weeks late but that's OK. My wife and I sure do enjoy it. It does you good to read about what's happening back home. We're always looking forward to getting the next one.

I've enclosed a news release from here where I'm stationed. They said for me to send one to my paper. I've enclosed a picture too. I don't know if you'll be able to use it or not. My wife and I are stationed here in Gelnhouser, Germany.

Now, I'm going to say something about the changing of the name "Rebels" to "War Eagles". I don't like it a bit. From my understanding, the State Board of Education suggested it. I'm sure it has better things to do than think up nicknames for schools. "Rebels" was a name to be feared and respected throughout our part of the state in athletics. And now it seems a small minority wants it changed because it's offensive. The word rebel isn't meant to be offensive. It's just how some narrow minded people want to look at it. That was the foundation for the founding of America. Our forefathers rebelled against the mother country, England to gain our freedom and independence. In my opinion, when people protest against the nickname of a high school, they just want something to disagree with and protest over. I was in the graduating class of 1967 and I'll always be a mighty, proud "Rebel". Thank you.

Respectively yours,
Sgt. Albert Leonard Foster

Punt, Pass & Kick Registration Underway

Registration has begun for the 1970 Punt, Pass and Kick Competition in the showroom of Reavis Ford. In making announcement, C. L. Reavis, president of the dealership said: "We're looking forward to a big local PP&K competition in Mocksville on Oct. 3rd. We hope all the boys 8-13 years of age in this area will come in to register and take part."

Mr. Reavis pointed out that PP&K - throughout its six levels of competition - is free of any charge, and that a boy need only have a parent or his guardian accompany him to the showroom to register.

"Our competition here will have 1st, 2nd and 3rd place trophies for boys in each of the six age groups, or 18 trophies in all," said Mr. Reavis. "Increasing each boy's chances of winning is the fact that he competes only against other boys in his own age group," said the Ford Dealer.

"Of course there is no body contact in PP&K. It's punting, passing and place kicking for distance and pints, just as the name says. First place winners in each age group in our competition will go on to the zone competition. And from there, top winners go on up the ladder through district, area, division and national finals," he said.

"This year, the national finals will be held in Los Angeles at the pro All-Star Game, January 24. Finalists get an all-expense-paid trip to Los Angeles for themselves and their parents, plus a special tour of Disneyland, a Banquet of Champions celebration, and the chance to meet some of the top players and coaches in professional football.

Naturally, we hope some of our Mocksville PP&K winners will make it all the way to the finals," Mr. Reavis said.

The Ford Dealer further explained that each boy upon registering receives a free PP&K Tips Book. In the 1970 edition, there are competition tips by NFL stars Dave Lee, Bill Nelsen and Fred Cox plus all-round suggestions from Coaches of the Year Hank Stram and Bud Grant. The Tips Book also includes complete PP&K rules and helpful conditioning exercises for contestants.

PP&K registration will close at Reavis Ford on September 26.

ASCS News

North Carolina officials of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service are encouraging all eligible farmers to vote later this summer in ASC committee elections.

"Decisions made by farmer-elected ASC committees can be important to almost all farming operations in the area. That's why we want to be sure every farmer who is eligible to vote in ASC elections is on the list to get a ballot," H. O. Carter, State Executive Director for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, said.

"We urge any farmer who has not previously participated in an ASC election, has changed the location of his farming operation, or who has any other reason to believe that his name may not be listed in ASCS records to contact his County ASCS Office as soon as possible. In this way, he will be assured of receiving a ballot enabling him to vote in the upcoming election."

The ASC elections this year will be held September 11. Ballots will be mailed to voters about September 1. Farmer voters will elect three community committeemen and two alternates in each ASC community in the county.

Farmer-elected ASC committees -- community and county -- are responsible for local administration of farm programs. These responsibilities include setting individual farm acreage allotments and bases, approving applications for conservation cost-share funds, providing information to farm program participants and similar duties. "Through the ASC committee election system, farmers can nominate and elect people of their own choice for these important responsibilities," Carter said.

He explained that after the community committees are elected, the newly-elected members hold a convention to fill vacancies on the County ASC Committee. The county committee makes all local farm program decisions, with the assistance of community committees.

Carter said that to be an eligible voter, a person must be eligible to participate in any ASCS program administered in the community where he has his our society. I must confess that I am somewhat puzzled by the arguments by some militant advocates of the House-passed Equal Rights Amendment who urge that what they want is an amendment which will make men and women identical legal beings and make all laws apply in exactly the same manner toward men and women under all circumstances. This argument seeks to ignore all differences between men and women, and the rationale which created laws relating to abortions, pregnancy, and rape.

Moreover, as Professor Paul Freund of Harvard Law School says, the adoption of this House-passed Amendment will "open up a Pandora's box of legal complications." Consider only the little thought out problems which will be fostered upon American women by a literal interpretation of the House-passed Amendment and the plea that women should be compelled to render compulsory military service and go to the battlefronts in combat. This issue has been shunted aside on the fallacious ground that perhaps it is a moot one if we soon abolish the draft. Still the issue is a real one today and in all future ages when we must fulfill our military commitments. We have not yet abolished the draft, and constitutional amendments cannot be judged by the prophecies of the day, but must be reckoned with for all future ages.

Despite all the assertions of some advocates of the House-passed Amendment, I still adhere to the view that the overwhelming majority of women share my view that unfair legal discriminations against women should be abolished but legal protection based upon reasonable grounds should be continued.

If militant supporters of the House-passed Amendment could obtain their hearts' desire without having their sisters robbed of their necessary legal protection, I would keep silent. If such were possible, they would merely reap the fate of those mentioned in the Apocrypha: "They digged a well, and made it deep, but fell them selves into the pit which they prepared." Unfortunately, the consummation of their hearts' desire requires that millions of "American women" who do not wish to be made identical legal being with men in all respects would be dragged into the pit with them.

In my judgment, the Senate Judiciary Committee should take time to review the proposed Amendment, and make sure that the nation knows where it is heading before it sends to the States any proposal of this nature.

SENATOR JORDAN REPORTS

Today the Senate faces another major decision on the Vietnam War.

It is by no means the first question to be posed by this long and costly conflict. Nor is it likely to be the last.

But for many reasons it could be a most crucial one. It is also a most difficult one because it hinges primarily on how to reach a goal rather than on the issue of what the goal should be.

The vote today on the McGovern-Hatfield amendment will not be for or against peace in Southeast Asia.

It will, instead, reflect a thoughtful judgment by each member of this body on whether setting a specific timetable for ending our combat role there will help or hinder the quest for that peace.

This issue is too vital to warrant hasty conclusions or pat answers and is so complex as to guarantee honest and unresolvable differences of opinion in the Senate and in the country.

Speaking as one fully committed to ending our part in the Southeast Asia conflict as soon as it can be responsibly accomplished, I find the "end of war" characterization of the McGovern-Hatfield amendment an appealing one. I am in complete accord with that avowed purpose.

It is only because I seriously doubt that it would achieve the intended result without unwanted effects that I find myself unable to support it.

My primary reservation turns on whether, in seeking to set a December 1971 deadline for ending this country's combat role, the amendment could endanger the chance for earlier termination while increasing the cost in lives and money by reason of the delay.

I question too the effect which adoption of the amendment might have on the nature and terms of any subsequent peace settlement.

Either or both of these unwanted eventualities could result from an action stripping this country's Paris negotiators of any real bargaining power and leaving Hanoi with no requirement except to hold on until the deadline and then set its own terms, granted that the amendment would allow the President to postpone the deadline if a clear new danger became evident, the practical effect would be altered little since the request for delay could be expected only a short time in advance of the original target date.

To the degree that it lessened pressure on the Communists to negotiate, the amendment would also diminish the prospect for improved treatment and possible release of prisoners of war whose plight is of such serious concern to all of us.

In summary, it seems to me the practical effect of the amendment could be almost the complete reverse of its intended purpose by limiting the President's options and that of the U. S. negotiators in their efforts for a military scale-down and an acceptable peace settlement.

Even without the amendment I think Congress has already made clear its desire for a settlement of the Vietnam issue and its intention of taking part in that settlement.

This war has been going on for over seven years now. I think the Senate has already told the President and the world it wants the negotiators to get down to serious bargaining in Paris and to reach an agreement that will bring our boys home long before the deadline which this amendment proposes.

Value that goes beyond ordinary economy...
...a pure comfort of flameless electric heating

It's a fact. Electric heating is as economical to operate as other forms of heating. But did you know it gives you more value for your money? Value other types of heating can't give you?

For instance—electric heating is clean heat. Which means it operates without flame or combustion, without furnace or chimney. And in a bare minimum of space. The warmth you get is steady and even, too. And quiet.

Over half the new homes and apartments served by Duke Power have it. Now it's your turn to get it. Call the residential representative at Duke Power today and find out how.

Mizell's

Action Line

Q. Dear Congressman Mizell: I have heard and read so much about campus protests over one issue or another. It seems there is trouble on every college campus. My question is: At what college did the first campus protest occur, when did it occur, and what was the issue involved? R. D. M., Mocksville

A. The first college protest demonstration, as we now know them, occurred on the campus of the University of California at Berkeley, in the spring of 1964. That demonstration was organized to demonstrate support for an open speaker policy on the campus.

Q. Dear Congressman Mizell: What safeguards, if any, have been established to guarantee Senators and Congressmen the right to free expression in the United States Congress? Also, why can't National Legislators be arrested? M. C. S., Kernersville

A. The Constitution provides that Senators and Members of the House of Representatives cannot be sued for libel for statements made on the floor of the Senate or the House. This provision allows legislators to speak their minds and policies of other officials without fear of legal reprisal. The decorum of both houses of Congress prohibits legislators from abusing this privilege. The Constitution also provides that Senators and Congressmen are immune from arrest, except for a breach of the peace, a felony or treason, while in the performance of his official duties.

Smith Trained For New Car

If Earl Smith, service technician at Pennington Chevrolet Co., Inc. tells you his boss sent him away to study a star, believe him!

But Mr. Smith hasn't been in Hollywood or an astronomy class. He's been studying the service features of Chevrolet's new economy car named for one of the brightest stars in the sky - Vega 2300.

He just returned from an intensive Vega school at the General Motors Training Center at Charlotte, N. C., part of a nationwide plan to have skilled Vega technicians and ample spare parts in all Chevrolet dealerships when the new car is introduced in early September.

"Vega really lives up to all I've heard about the ease of serviceability designed into it," Smith said.

"Besides being an exciting little car, it has plenty of easy-to-fix features that will make it inexpensive to maintain."

He said the "2300" in the new car's name refers to the 2300 centimeter displacement of Vega's all-new, American built lightweight overhead cam engine.

"I was particularly impressed with the ruggedness of the Vega engine," he said. "It has stood up well in millions of miles of testing. It has plenty of pep, gets good gas mileage and has excellent serviceability."

He said the Vega service school convinced him that Chevrolet's forthcoming entry in the economy car market "is a real winner."

Homemaker Has Helper In New Fabric Adhesive

Now, without needle and thread, or sewing machine, the homemaker can invisibly mend, hem, patch or repair clothing and other fabrics. You can cuff, darn, decorate or reinforce, too. All the finicky, difficult sewing jobs that take time and trouble can be done faster, easier, and generally with better results with a little can of powder called TEXATIV.

It is a new product from West Germany and distributed in the United States by Product Specialties, Inc., Box 230, Chicago 60645. The new TEXATIV fabric adhesive turns into a strong adhesive when heated with an iron and the resultant bond survives repeated washing or dry cleaning. The new fabric adhesive welds fabrics together much like steel has been able to be welded together.

Homemakers will particularly delight in TEXATIV's ability to repair holes in garments from moths or cigarette burns and get reweaving results at a fraction of the cost. Use it to repair holes in carpets or upholstery, too. An can of TEXATIV sells for only $2.98 and lasts a long time - up to 400 inches of repairs. You can save several times its cost in making just one important repair.

Hems for skirts, dresses, drapes, pants cuffs, etc. can be done quickly and invisibly with the new fabric adhesive. Sure to be a favorite with busy housewives will be the fabric adhesive use to patch sheets, linens, shirts, sweaters, slacks or work clothes. Mending tears, rips, snags in clothing can be invisibly achieved with professional-like results in clothing, including suits, coats, dresses, etc.

Iron-on patches for reinforcing knees and elbows and iron-on hem tape have been around for some time and have gained some deserved popularity. Some don't stand up well after repeated washings, and in any case, the home seamstress has to take colors and fabrics she can find. Now, with the new TEXATIV fabric adhesive she can make her own patches, repairs, reinforcements and the like from remnants of the material that needs patching.

Zippers can even be attached, as can linings, decorations and chevrons, with the new TEXATIV. Such projects can be done without needle and thread.

To repair holes or tears, take ravelings from remnant material, hems, waistbands, etc. and cut threads to fine texture. Sprinkle with TEXATIV powder and press together with fingers, and fill hole. Powder is sprinkled on reverse side of garment and covered with circular patch of other material. Then cover with parchment paper supplied with TEXATIV and iron. Results are amazing.

The iron setting should be between cotton and linen, no matter what the fabric being bonded, the manufacturer advises. To avoid scorching of delicate fabrics, such as synthetics, a second layer of protective parchment paper is advised.

Explicit illustrated complete instructions, and helpful hints, come with the powder to enable the homemaker to do many music but how to move to it and play fun games with it."

For Junior and Senior high school math students, the State education agency will offer a series of 15-minute programs to supplement their regular courses. The series has been developed by Mrs. Margaret Perkins who notes that topics will be taken from geometry, number systems, the history of mathematics, and applications of mathematics in daily living. The series will go on the air Monday, September 14, and will be repeated frequently each week.

Mrs. Perkins has come up with another idea to make math fun - no mean trick. She's developed a series of 10-minute "Mathematics in the News" programs using student announcers and exploring the mathematical significance of various news stories. Students in math courses using the program have been asked to submit scripts for their own math news show to be judged by Mrs. Perkins and aired in the Spring.

Other programs slated for in-schools use include United States history (grade 11), physical science (grade 9), and world cultures (grade 10). Most of programs are repeated each week. Exact schedules may be obtained from local newspapers, TV GUIDE MAGAZINE, or by writing Television Services Section, State Department of Public Instruction, Education Building, Raleigh, N. C. 27602.

"LUV" - - - A Comedy At Showboat

"LUV" a Murray Schisgal comedy, opens Monday, September 7, for a four week engagement at the Showboat Dinner Theatre, located just off Highway 68 south of Greensboro-High Point. Winston-Salem Airport. LUV was first presented by Claire Nichtern at the Booth Theatre in New York City in 1964 and was directed by that fabulous Mike Nichols. This production was one of the most popular attractions on Broadway from its opening on November 11, 1964 until January of 1967, drawing packed houses for 902 nights.

Howard Taubman of the New York Times once described "LUV" as "a delicious spoof on many matters - love, marriage, loneliness, suicide, housekeeping - you name it and the author probably has a fuffaw at its expense."

Showboat's production of "LUV" will be directed by a newcomer, Robert Keiper who has a long list of credits, ranging from Nuremberg, Germany through a European tour with the Seventh Army Repertory Theatre to Kraft Music Hall, TV Playhouse and off-Broadway.

The entire production of LUV takes place on a bridge, which is a very original idea in itself, but the fun as described by Walter Kerr, who wrote at least three pages himself on the talents of Murray Schisgal, remarks about "the man who has been most badly treated" played by Doug Woodruff, as Harry Berlin. Looking like a shaved, mustachioed beatnik who sunk so low that even an honest beatnik would disown him - through misery, present troubles, and memories of suffering the tribulations of love past, current and future this all leaves him with no future except to jump off a bridge until Milt Manville comes along. This role played by Larry Lambeth who has appeared in several productions here at the Showboat, now in LUV tries to convince Harry that there is "Love in the world" in the form of Ellen, his wife, who bemoans the fact that she was orphaned at three years of age and shifted from one parent to the other every six months. Milt, realizing that he doesn't love her anymore having found a younger girl in his office that he can't possess, tries to pawn her off on Harry.

Ellen, played by Mourka, who can definitely be well remembered as Mrs. Paddy, the little old lady who hasn't spoken in twenty years in the "Curious Savage" an actress of much versatility. Her husband ties her dress, and slip, and combs her hair, rouges her lips, powders her cheeks delicately, touches her eye lashes and sprays her with perfume trying to convince Harry of her endowed honorable charms (could a husband be more tender with her hopes to pawn off on his best friend - though he hasn't seen him in fifteen years) only to have Harry throw her fur coat (that she purchased with her own money) into the river. Now that the coat has landed in the muddy waters below, she feels that she must go after it, only to find kindness and love in a discarded hunk of depression called Male.

The greater their misunderstandings and problems the more you laugh

Mizell Opens Campaign Office

Congressman Wilmer D. Mizell, seeking his second term as U. S. Representative from North Carolina's Fifth District, will officially open his campaign headquarters on September 14, 1970, at 153 North Main Street, in Winston-Salem.

Opening festivities at the new headquarters, located just above the Winston-Salem Police Department, will begin at 6:00 p.m. and continue until 9:00 p.m., Mizell said. The public is invited to attend.

In making the announcement, Mizell said, "We hope to have a large turn-out for the opening of our re-election campaign. I have done my best to maintain a close contact with the people of the Fifth District during my first term in office, and I hope that as many as possibly can will come by and join us for this event."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor,

All too often we pay our respect and gratitude to a person when they are no longer with us. This is unfortunate, as everyone likes to feel that his or her efforts are appreciated.

Most of the people in the county have had direct or indirect contact with Davie County Hospital either as a visitor, patient, or as hospital personnel. One of the most delightful people you might encounter there is Mrs. Charlie Tomlinson.

In a quiet and unassuming manner through her capacity in the dietary department, Mrs. Tomlinson expresses an interest in everything and everybody. Many times she can be heard to say, "I do hope Mrs. So-and-so will rest well tonight. Or I wonder what I cook that Mr. So-and-so can eat."

When you meet Mrs. Tomlinson in the hall, you know you will be genuinely and pleasantly greeted. She must have felt recent great sadness during the terminal illness of a loved one, but always she was her pleasant self. She and her associates in the kitchen continually turn out good, edible food. I'm sure there are others who admire and appreciate this fine person as much as I do.

Respectfully,
E. A. Eckerd

Dear Readers of the Enterprise:

We hear so much about today's youth--about their destructiveness, rioting on college campuses, immorality, and etcetera, but it seems that so little is said about the good that some are doing. Not all youth are promiscuous; yes, there are even some who are dedicated to the greatest "cause" in this world, and this is what I want to "talk" with you about. There are some young people who recognize that man is lost and needs a savior. They realize that the Lord Jesus Christ is this Savior, and they are busy telling people how to become personally acquainted with Him. I want to invite you to see and hear for yourselves such a young person. He is Evangelist Darrell Dillard, and he desires to witness to youth through the preaching of God's Word. Darrell is twenty-one years old, and he has preached to thousands, as well as lived his testimony, since he received the personal miracle of salvation as a young boy. I also invite you to see and hear a number of people who like to express their testimonies through the singing of the Gospel. Evangelist Darrell Dillard and these special singers will appear at the Davie Academy Community Building on Friday, September 11 and Saturday, September 12 at 7:30 p.m., and also on Sunday, September 13, at 3:00 in the afternoon.

I am a young person. I have hated. I have resented authority. I have known the misery of a guilty conscience.

There are some young people who recognize that man is lost and needs a savior. They realize that the Lord Jesus Christ is this Savior, and they are busy telling people how to become personally acquainted with Him. I want to invite you to see and hear for yourselves such a young person. He is Evangelist Darrell Dillard, and he desires to witness to youth through the preaching of God's Word. Darrell is twenty-one years old, and he has preached to thousands, as well as lived his testimony, since he received the personal miracle of salvation as a young boy. I also invite you to see and hear a number of people who like to express their testimonies through the singing of the Gospel. Evangelist Darrell Dillard and these special singers will appear at the Davie Academy Community Building on Friday, September 11 and Saturday, September 12 at 7:30 p.m., and also on Sunday, September 13, at 3:00 in the afternoon.

I am a young person. I have hated, I have resented authority. I have known the misery of a guilty conscience.

REFLECTIONS

Lying in a secret place,
Under the leaves,
Lying happy, peaceful...
Time seems to come back
Like a slow-moving river,
Being ME,
A teenager...
Seeing my reflection in an ageless stream,
Shadowplay of emotions...
Gently thinking.

Social Security News

More than three times as much money is now paid out in social security benefits as in welfare payments. Social security cash benefits amounted to $26 1/2 billion in 1969, compared with total public assistance payments of about $6.9 billion.

Almost 25 1/2 million men, women, and children were receiving monthly social security benefits at the beginning of 1970. About 11 million people were drawing cash assistance payments under Federal-State welfare programs. In 1940, the first year in which social security monthly benefits were payable, the situation was quite the reverse. In that year, more than 40 times as much was paid out in public assistance as in social security benefits, and those getting public assistance as in social security benefits, and those getting public assistance totaled 7 million—about two thirds the present number, despite a population increase of about 70 million over the past 30 years.

At the end of 1940, only 222,500 persons were collecting monthly social security retirement and survivors' benefits, compared to the 25 1/2 million now receiving benefits.

Social security benefits are financed by contributions from workers, their employers, and the self-employed. Public assistance payments are made from general tax revenues.

As social security has expanded over the years to cover people in almost every occupation and to provide increased protection for workers and their families, it has taken over much of the load that had been carried by aid to families with dependent children and old-age assistance.

The number of children getting social security survivors' benefits increased from 18,000 in June 1940 to 2.6 million as of the beginning of 1970. In 1940, almost half of the children receiving welfare payments were orphans. Today, less than 10 percent are in that category. The large majority are not orphans, but children in needy families.

Since 1950, the percentage of the older population getting old-age assistance has been cut by more than half, dropping from 22 percent to about 10 percent. Social security does much more than reduce the need for public assistance. In this country, it has taken a form that has made it not just a program for low-income people, but rather a universal retirement system.

Girl Scout Drive Progressing Well

Reverend Leland Richardson, Mocksville, N. C. Chairman of the Tarheel Triad Girl Scout Council Davie County Fund Drive announced today that the drive was progressing well and that he was pleased with the response. He said that he believed people are more aware of the broad contribution which Girl Scouting makes to the total community.

"Not only do contributors appreciate the character building which the girls get, but also the excellent adult education which Scouting provides for its volunteers. Girl Scouting not only develops community leaders through its training program, but it enhances the quality of community leadership in every area it serves," he said.

The council's budget of $308,715 for 1971 provides such essential services as: postage and telephone, registration processing, advice and guidance from professional staff members, training, camping opportunities, including the maintenance and development of the Council's ten camp sites, and program help. The volunteers and girls expect to receive these services, are dependent upon them, and have faith that the community will see that they are continued. United Funds of which the council is a member provide some two thirds of the budget, but residents of areas not served by United Funds are given the opportunity to participate.

In discussing the drive, Mr. Richardson also said, "I am impressed with the quality of the financial management which the Board of Directors provides. They are committed to the best stewardship of community money. Not only do they receive support from fourteen United Funds and four Girl Scout Fund Drives, but they also are helping themselves through an annual cookie sale, which provides valuable training for the girls."

The goal for the Davie County Drive has been: "Give today for a better tomorrow".

*****
* Liz Evans, a former senior Scout, served as director of Day Camp which was held at Camp Seven Springs near Farmington June 15th through 19th of this year. A part of the money raised during the current Fund Drive helps to maintain the Camp.

Girl Scouts Are Teaching Youth

The time is ripe for constructive and extensive improvement in our society. Young people are the ones who will be active in changing our institutions.

Adult citizens of the community — as individuals or as members of local organizations and clubs — should involve themselves in helping youth redesign the nation nearer to a realization of the American dream. Being aware of youth in a negative way is becoming a national adult habit. Perhaps we should re-tool ourselves to be aware of the large percentage of youth-on-the-move who are seeking and learning constructive methods of achieving the changes so badly needed in our society.

Girl Scouts of the U. S. A. is one organization that is teaching youth the positive approach to responsible citizenship. For 58 years, good citizenship has been part-and-parcel of the Girl Scout movement. So have been the teaching and learning of enduring values — high standards to live by all one's life.

The concept in thought and in

CHEVY'S NEW LITTLE CAR IS OPEN FOR BUSINESS.

We call it Vega. We also call it "the little car that does everything well." Because it does.

Everything? Everything.

Vega moves well, stops well, steers well, rides well, handles well, responds well, passes well, travels well, parks well, wears well, and is priced well under what you'd expect to pay for such a talented little car.

In our highway tests, Vega has been getting gas mileage in the neighborhood of the little imports, which isn't a bad neighborhood.

Yet unlike your average little car, ours steps right out when you step on the gas.

The engine is a specially designed overhead cam four with a lightweight aluminum alloy block. It turns slowly and quietly at turnpike speeds, with power to spare.

Disc brakes are standard in the front. So are bucket seats, except on the truck.

How we doing so far?

Numbers speak louder than words.

The wheelbase is 97 inches. Total length is just under 170 inches, or nearly four feet shorter than a full-size Chevrolet.

Height of the coupe is just 50 inches, nine inches lower than the leading import.

Width: a nice stable 5 1/2 feet. Weight: 2,190 lbs. for the sedan. Engine displacement: 140 cubic inches.

Fuel economy: about 25 mpg, with the standard engine and transmission, in our highway tests.

Horsepower: 90. You can order 110. (80 and 93 hp, SAE Net.)

Seating capacity: 4 adults.

What it all adds up to is a lot of little car.

Three cars and a truck.

Vega turned out so well that we couldn't turn out just one.

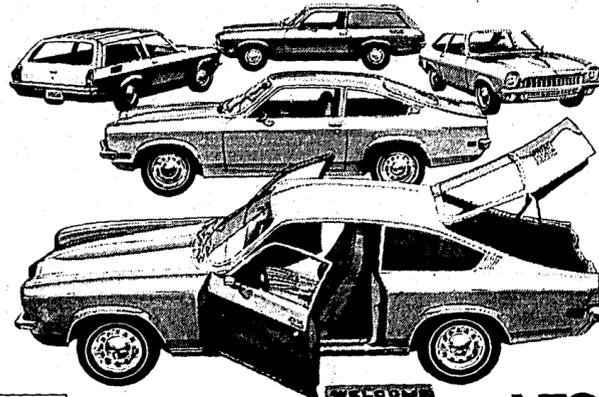

So we're turning out four: the sporty little hatchback coupe shown open and closed in the foreground below; the sedan, on the right; the Kamback wagon, on the left; and the little panel truck, in the rear.

Oh, and a special GT version of the coupe and wagon which we'll show you later on.

September 10th is Opening Day.

All 6,300 Chevrolet dealers are handling Vega, so you shouldn't have to go very far to see and drive one.

Chevy's new little car is open for business. Look into it.

Study Proposed For County-Wide Water System

The Davie County Board of Commissioners at their meeting on September 8th, endorsed a proposal by the Planning Board to make a study of the feasibility for developing a county-wide water system. Approval was also given to appointing an advisory committee to work with the Planning Board on the project.

Any action on developing a water distribution system would first have to be initiated by citizens in certain congested areas or along main highways petitioning the Planning Board. After a thorough study, a report would be submitted to the board of commissioners for approval.

A major responsibility of the advisory committee would be in locating those who are in need and would be willing to pay for the services. The new Davie Hospital Administrator, William E. Roark, made his first appearance before the board and reported on activities and financial condition of the hospital. Reginald York, Director of Social Services, also reported to the commissioners on the activities of his department for the month of August, as did the heads of various other county agencies.

Davie Car Owners Pay $263,000 For Roads

From the standpoint of car owners in Davie County, how costly an undertaking has the 42,500-mile Interstate Highway System become?

How much are they contributing at the present time to the construction costs through gasoline taxes and other auto-use taxes?

During the past year, based upon the latest figures, they forked up no less than $263,000.

That is the amount that went to the Federal government. It is exclusive of the auto taxes collected by the state.

The revenue went into the Highway Trust Fund, which takes care of 90 percent of the cost of construction. The states pay the other 10 percent.

The heightened interest in the highway program is due to the battle now going on in Washington over moves to divert some of the money to such needs as railroad passenger service, urban mass transit and other transport problems.

Some Congressmen feel that the nation's priorities no longer call for the spending of the $5 billion or so collected each year solely for new highways.

Under the current Federal tax on gasoline (4 cents a gallon) and the special taxes on tires, tubes and accessories, the average Davie County car owner is paying about $30 a year into the trust fund.

That is the amount incurred for a car that travels 10,000 miles a year and gets 14 miles to the gallon.

The overall cost for the 8,760 passenger cars in operation locally, comes to $263,000 a year.

One of the matters before Congress at this time is the future of the highway program, which is due to expire in 1972. Originally begun in 1956 at an estimated cost of $41 billion, it is now expected to reach $75 billion or more and to require at least six years more to complete.

Far from agreeing to a slowdown or limitation of the work, state highway officials and others are urging that an even bigger program be embarked upon. They are asking for more attention to the development of local road systems.

If Congress extends the life of the program, as presently constituted, for another six years, Davie County car operators will be contributing an additional $1,577,000.

Ronnie E. Smith Of Farmington

Born A Musician

He was apparently born a musician. Before he could talk, he could carry a tune.

At the age of three he was singing hymns he heard at church. Sitting on the piano bench beside his mother, with feet dangling, the three year old fascinated others with a vocal rendition of "Sunrise's....with his mother's piano accompaniment.

In 1960, at the age of ten, he won talent shows at Farmington and Mocksville and went on to appear on the late Harvey Dinkins TV show over WSJS-TV singing "How Great Thou Art".

At the age of 8, without the aid of a teacher, he began playing the piano.

Today, at the age of 20, he is beginning to win wide acclaim as both a musician and a composer.

This is Ronnie E. Smith of the Farmington Community.

Ronnie was born on September 18, 1950, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Smith. He is one of six boys, all of whom are musically inclined. His mother, the former Charlotte Seats, teaches piano, sings, and plays the guitar and violin. And it was only natural that Ronnie began to show an interest in music at an early age.

"Mother wanted to teach me....but I wanted to learn by myself", Ronnie recalls of his early years. "Being taught to read music was too slow....and it was easy for me to play by ear."

But today Ronnie does read music. He had lessons in piano while in the seventh grade at the Farmington School, and has had two years of voice training at Salem College under Paul Peterson.

Since he was around eight-year-old, he has been pianist at the Macedonia Moravian Church. He also plays the organ, although he has not had organ lessons as such. In fact, Ronnie can play any keyboard musical instrument and the guitar.

Ronnie says he has learned to play all types of music just by listening to radio and television. And he has written all kinds of music including hymns, preludes, classical, semi-classical, popular and country music. He makes his own arrangements of songs played at church and for entertainment. He is now in the process of completing ten musical compositions which he plans to make into a book entitled "Ronnie's Rhythms"....a collection of all types of music.

Recently Ronnie appeared on the "Today At Home" television show over WSJS-TV.... playing an instrumental number and singing "He" and "I Believe". He has been invited for another appearance on this show in the near future.

He is a 1968 graduate of the Davie High School and is currently working at Heritage Furniture Company in Mocksville.

In addition to music, Ronnie's other interest is in cooking where he is very adept at original recipes as well as preparing food.

Man Charged In Murder Of Young Girl

Preliminary hearing for two men charged in the death of a three-year-old on August 15th has been set for next Tuesday, September 22nd.

Archie Sidden of Mocksville, Rt. 1, has been charged with murder in the shotgun slaying of Rita Charlene Edwards on that Saturday night as she stood in front of a window of her home.

Clarence Eugene Potts, also of Mocksville, Rt. 1, has been charged with accessory to the murder. Potts was arrested following the shooting and Sidden was arrested only recently.

It is alleged that Sidden and Potts were drinking and went to the home of Lena Mae Edwards and demanded that she come out of the house and bring her children. The woman refused and turned off the lights.

The assailant then went around to the window and shot into the house, striking the three-year old who had walked directly in front of the darkened window. Two shells were reported found. At least one of the blasts ripped through the window and into the furniture. Coroner Ben Richards ruled that the girl died instantly.

Symphony Drive Enters Last Week

The 1970-71 membership drive of the Davie Chapter of the North Carolina Symphony Society enters its second and final week. Membership chairman Charles Dunn reports that initial response has been good and that a successful completion of the drive is hoped for within a few days.

The Chapter is seeking to raise $1650.00 to support a local appearance by the North Carolina Little Symphony. An evening adult concert and an admission-free educational matinee for area school children are planned for March, 1971.

Chapter president, Mrs. Joe Murphy, urges area residents to give their full support to this effort to bring North Carolina's famed touring orchestra back to Mocksville this season. "This is one cultural opportunity too pleasurable to all of us to pass up," she stated.

Memberships may be purchased in the following categories: Student for $1; Adult for $5; Couple for $8; Corporate from $25; Donor for $25 - $99; and Patron from $100.

Exhibits At Education Center

A collection of early book art, a traveling exhibition on loan from the North Carolina Museum of Art in Raleigh, is currently on display at The Supplementary Educational Center Art Gallery, 314 North Ellis Street.

The exhibition will be on view through September 25, 1970.

The collection contains 39 book leaves, all from the 15th and 16th centuries. Thirteen are vellum sheets from hand-written and hand-illuminated manuscripts, with one of these, a calendar page from a Book of Hours, estimated to date to 1430.

The remaining leaves are early printed pages, embellished with woodcuts, except for two early Bible pages that display only hand-illuminated initials. Thirteen of these printed pages come from the 15th century, several from the 1470's, only 30 years after Gutenberg's first printed Bible and only ten years after woodcut illustrations were introduced.

North Carolina Museum of Art director Dr. Justus Bier calls the book art items "examples of a minor art, but great works of art nevertheless." He points out that the traveling exhibition "will bring to the galleries of the State works which can rival in quality the best of all times."

A second appropriation from the Reby Lewis Purchase Fund aided in the purchase of the book art collection. The first appropriation, in 1961, also went toward a traveling exhibition, a collection of graphic art drawn from the artists of North Carolina and called North Carolina Printmakers. Funds for preparing the works to travel were provided by the North Carolina State Art Society.

In connection with this art show, a collection of rare books owned by the Supplementary Educational Center is being exhibited in glass cases in the Gallery.

The show has also been correlated with music from the 15th and 16th century.

Mrs. Brenda B. Watts, Visual Art Specialist, of the Supplementary Educational Center will have the Gallery open on Sunday, September 20, from 2 until 4 p.m. and on weekdays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. The general public is invited to visit the show during these hours.

School Lunchroom Menus

Good morning! This is your food horoscope: Virgo (Aug. 23 - Sept. 23) Persons born under the sign of Virgo are orderly, methodical and systematic. You don't lose your cool when food shopping. In your orderly and systematic way, check the food ads to see who has the best buys and make a flexible grocery list. Don't rely on expensive impulse buying.

Perk up early fall menus with succulent fresh, frozen or canned peaches now in good supply. Serve drained peach halves or slices with well-chilled cream, milk or as a meal mate for ready-to-eat cereal. Have a breakfast bonanza with canned peaches heated to tasty perfection in their own syrup; warmed gently on a grill cup side down; or broiled until golden browned cup side up. Sprinkle with a little sugar for better browning under the broiler. For a subtle flavor addition to broiled peaches, drizzle then with lemon juice and sprinkle with a mixture of brown sugar and ground cloves before broiling. Warm peach halves, cup side up, can be served with a tasty topper of drained, canned fruit cocktail mixed with sour cream or cream cheese and peanut butter whipped together.

N. C. Apple Time started officially the first of September with a proclamation by Governor Robert Scott. Delicious apples both red and golden varieties are other fresh fruit offerings. Applesauce and peanut butter are a delicious team. Add crumbled crisp bacon to the mixture and use as a sandwich spread or topper for piping hot griddlecakes or waffles. Or, spread the mixture on whole wheat bread, sprinkle with cinnamon and heat under the broiler or in a hot oven.

Vegetables in best supply and price are corn, tomatoes, cabbage, squash and potatoes. Lettuce prices fluctuate from week to week due to labor strikes. Check canned and frozen vegetable specials for thrifty buys.

Featured dairy products at attractive prices are ice milk, ice cream and sherbet in half gallon cartons. These are nutritious, convenient and instant desserts. Fresh milk is a refreshing beverage for after-school snack time. Keep a good supply in the refrigerator.

Pork prices are lower with best values on fully cooked hams, fresh loins and bacon ends and pieces. Beef bargains are: chuck steaks and roasts.

round steaks and ground beef. Canned meats are good protein extenders in casserole and salad recipes. Zesty autumn days are made to order for outdoor cookery - especially barbecuing. And so is the abundant supply of broiler-fryers, advises the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service.

Tangy barbecued chicken is a perennial people pleaser. First you must buy the highest quality chicken which is N. C. or U. S. Grady A chicken. For barbecuing, you want a young chicken, labeled broiler, fryer, or simply young chicken.

If you are concerned with your child's selection of empty calorie fillers for after-school snacks, why not tempt him with a spread for an open face sandwich that contains two very favorite foods...peanut butter and cheese. Whip together 2 cups (8 oz.) shredded Cheddar cheese, 2 tablespoons each of peanut butter and milk. Keep it handy on the refrigerator shelf.

A hot milk beverage for breakfast is a good way to start the day on these cool fall mornings. This proportion makes 2 1/2 cups: In a saucepan combine 2 tablespoons each of peanut butter and chocolate syrup, gradually add 2 cups milk and a dash of salt. Heat to serving temperature.

Congressman Wilmer "Vinegar Bend" MIZELL ACTION LINE

Q. Dear Congressman Mizell: How many U. S. Presidents have died in office? Who are they? CB, Denton

A. Eight President of the United States have died while in office. The first was William Henry Harrison, the 9th President, who died of pneumonia on April 4, 1841, after only one month in office. Other Presidents to die in office were Zachary Taylor, July 9, 1850, Abraham Lincoln, (by assassination), April 15, 1865, James A. Garfield, (by assassination), September 19, 1881; William McKinley, September 14, 1901; Warren G. Harding, August -2, 1923; Franklin D. Roosevelt, April 12, 1945; John F. Kennedy, (by assassination) November 22, 1963.

Q. Dear Congressman Mizell: Several of my friends claim that Vice President Agnew has a low IQ. Listening to his speeches, he seems rather well-versed and employs a wide vocabulary. Do you know what the Vice President's IQ is? CDM, Cycle

A. The last time the Vice President had his IQ tested, he scored 135. In psychology, according to the World Book Encyclopedia, a genius is a person with an IQ of 140 or over. A person with an IQ of 130 or above is considered to be "gifted."

Stunt Drivers At Dixie Classic

One of the nation's top auto "daredevils" acts, Jack Kochman's Hell Drivers, will be the featured grandstand attraction at the Dixie Classic Fair each night at 8 o'clock during Fair Week, October 6 - 10.

The 28-stunt, hour-and-forty-five minutes performance will include such classic, high-speed thrill maneuvers as the bone-crushing T-Bone Crash, the Two-Wheel Drive, and the famed Reverse Spin. High spot of the program will be a ramp-to-ramp "flight" of a standard model pickup truck, which will hurtle over 70 feet through the air.

The Kochman show of 22 persons includes five of the nation's top stunt drivers, plus mechanics, ramp assistants, and a clown.

The Kochman show of 22 persons includes five of the nation's top stunt drivers, plus mechanics, ramp assistants, and a clown. The program features nine new cars, old cars used in crash and rollover maneuvers, three trucks, and a giant flatbed trailer. Equipment used in the performances is valued at over $100,000.

Kochman's stunt driving program, seen by over one million persons at close to 200 shows annually, was originated in 1942 when Jack Kochman took over management of the driving display from the late "Lucky" Teeter.

Producer Kochman is the coordinator of the exhibition, keeping the pace at a thrill-a-minute speed despite the complicated preparations needed for the 28 individual maneuvers. While one act is preparing to go on, another is getting equipment ready, and a third is actually doing the performance. Kochman is also responsible for the scheduling of the exhibitions and transportation of the expensive equipment from place to place.

In addition it is Kochman who consults with automobile factory engineers and designers, and who must know ever ounce of weight, power, and maneuverability which his drivers need in a vehicle to insure the utmost in safety for his men.

Bob Conto, an experienced radio and television announcer, is probably the most important man to the fans. His rapid-fire delivery and extensive knowledge of stunt driving maneuvers keep the audience abreast of the fast-moving program. Conto, in addition to his duties as announcer, is General Manager of the show.

A native of Copenhagen, Denmark, Tonny Petersen specializes in crashes and spins, and is featured in the Dive Bomber Crash, a thrilling leap of an old car into the top of a second parked car

Mr. Gordon Tomlinson, Editor
Davie County Enterprise-
Record
Mocksville, N. C., 27028

Dear Mr. Editor,

tolerance of the public. There are numerous things in life people must put up with. Davie should be supported regardless of the mascot. The students should take pride in their new mascot. It will be only what they make it, and they have the capability to make it the best.

The letter in the issue of September 3 contains a great deal of wisdom and should be heeded. Tolerance and wisdom, pride and spirit are the necessary traits for the "Eagles" success. May its flight be graceful and powerful as is the bird for which it is named.

In closing I can only hope for a new and better Davie. The success is in the hands of the students of DCHS. Their school will be what they make it.

For three years I watched the "Rebel" die a slow and painful death. It was even more disheartening my last year. In part I felt responsible as president of the student council. Of course there was (and will always be) a faithful minority. They sought, but in vain, to restore the "Rebel" to its former status. The majority of the Davie students were apathetic to the functions of the school. This was the portion of reasoning that prompted a change.

Davie High News
by DOROTHY CAULDE
TANYA VESTAL

A bonfire Thursday night, Sept. 3, kicked off the 1970 Eagle football season.

A pep rally was held Friday, Sept. 11, during sixth period to boost school spirit for the first home game played against North Stanly.

A portable classroom, complete with air conditioning, has been added to Davie this year. It houses the physical education classes.

Freshmen, sophomore, and junior class pictures were made Sept. 10. Student pictures will be in color this year.

Davie vs East Rowan Here Friday Night

The Davie County War Eagles will meet the strong East Rowan Mustangs here Friday night in a North Piedmont Conference game. Kickoff is set for 8 p. m.

Last Friday night the War Eagles dropped their second straight game, 0-14, to the North Stanly Comets . . . giving up touchdowns in the second and fourth periods.

Friday night the East Rowan Mustangs will bring a 15-game winning streak to Davie. East is the defending Western North Carolina High School Activities Association champions. Last Friday night they defeated West 26-6.

The win last Friday night over the War Eagles was the third straight victory for North Stanly. Comets opened their season with a 7-6 win over Albemarle, and followed with a 6-0 triumph over South Stanly. Davie lost to Albemarle in their opener.

The War Eagles held the Comets scoreless the first period. In the second period Richard Jeffries returned an Eagle punt for 50-yards that almost went for a touchdown. The Comets were called for clipping just shy of the goal line on this run and they were set back to the 15. A couple of plays later they scored and added the extra point.

After a scoreless third period, the Comets scored in the final period on a 48-yard run also added the extra point.

The War Eagles mustered one threat in the final half going to the North Stanly eight on a 50-yard pass from Quarterback Craig Ward to End Jerry Goodlett. However, Davie lost the ball on downs at the five.

Craig Ward - Quarterback

Carolina Cougars To Play In Winston-Salem, Sept. 30

Once again this year, the Carolina Cougars will play a pre-season game in Winston-Salem sponsored by the Winston-Salem Jaycees. The Cougars will meet the Virginia Squires (formerly the Washington Caps), at Memorial Coliseum on Wednesday, September 30, at 8:00 p. m.

David Kepple, publicity chairman for the Jaycee project, noted this will be the only game the Cougars will play in Winston-Salem during this year's season. "We feel the Cougars are an outstanding attraction for the fans in this area," he said. "And just wish they would play here more frequently. Tickets will be available at all First Union Bank Offices or by writing the Jaycees at P. O. Box 1408," he added. "Reserved seats are $3.00, $3.50 and $4.00."

The Cougars, with colorful "Bones" McKinney at the helm, have a host of former college players from North Carolina in the line-up. Led by former Duke University All-America Bob Verga who paced the team in scoring last year with a sizzling 27.6 point scoring average, the Cougars also boast 6'0 Gene Littles from High Point College who was an outstanding rookie last season, and Larry Miller, a former University of North Carolina star. George Peebles, 6'8", 205 pound center who led the team in rebounds last year (688) will give the team strength under the boards.

Among the rookies showing promise are Van Williford from N. C. State, and Cordell Wise who played for Campbell College last year. Jerry Kroll of the Southern Conference Champion Davidson Wildcats has been sidelined with an injury and is not expected to see any action during the exhibition season.

Last year the Cougars played their first exhibition game of the season in Winston-Salem and went on to set a new first year attendance record for all of professional basketball. Regular season home games are played in Raleigh, Greensboro, and Charlotte.

The Virginia Squires coached by Al Bianchi, recently opened their rookie training camp and are looking over such hopefuls as former University of North Carolina ace Charlie Scott who averaged 27 points a game for the tar-heels last season and led the Atlantic Coast Conference scoring race. Other rookies shooting for a berth on the Squires are 6'6" George Irvine of the University of Washington, seven foot Jim Gilbert of Adams State, and 6'10" Bill Tegue from the University of Youngstown.

Although the Squires will be without the services of Rick Barry the injury plagued and temperamental star of two leagues, the recent acquisition of Ray Scott, a National Basketball Association veteran, should plug the gap creditably. Scott, a 6'9", 220 pound forward, played last season with the Baltimore Bullets of the N.B.A. and was drafted by expansion team Buffalo at the end of the season. In eight years of NBA ball, first at Detroit, then at Baltimore, Scott scored more than 15,000 points and hauled down more than 7,500 rebounds. His scoring average was more than 15 points per game.

Other veteran players in the line-up are three time ABA All-Star and former Cougar Doug Moe (recently traded for Ira Harge and Gary Bradds), Larry Brown, a former UNC standout who perennially leads the ABA in assists, and 6'2" guard Mike Barrett who eased out the Cougar's Gene Littles for a first team spot on last year's ABA All Rookie team.

Mouth of the South

It's a lead pipe cinch that Bowie Kuhn, Commissioner of Baseball, has reached the strangling point with Denny McLain, the bad-boy wunce-wuz pitcher of the Detroit Tigers. In displaying a firm and unyielding attitude toward McLain, Kuhn has set an example which might well be emulated by other officials in baseball, and by the commissioners, coaches and owners of the other professional sports.

Indeed, Kuhn may start a chain reaction which might just possibly slop over into college athletics where, heaven knows, there is a crying need for firmness in these days of Dr. Spock permissiveness on the campus.

So common is it for people in authority — in sports and out — to make a public display of themselves as they disgorge their entrails under pressure from sulky athletes, that Kuhn's firmness in the McLain affair is indeed unusual and hope inspiring. Of course he got off to a poor start in the spring when he suspended Ding-A-Ling Denny for half the season.

As was observed then, if McLain was guilty of the charges against him, he ought to have had the permanent heave-ho, and, if innocent, he ought not to have been punished at all. It amounted to a jury finding a murderer guilty of manslaughter because the members lacked the courage to burn him.

Wallace Wade Was Tough

Modern coaches have a great deal going for them, but it is doubtful if, as a whole, they boast the inflexible character of some of those from bygone days. Also lacking in many cases is the aloof dignity which commands respect. College coaches today have to woo the good players in such a posture of supplicance that it is miraculous that they command any respect at all.

I cannot imagine a Wallace Wade, for instance, groveling in the disrespect of wet-eared kids and accepting the patronizing insults of their ill-mannered parents. He is a man of such stature that, not even a smart aleck long hair with his press clippings bound in rare leather would so much as give him a watery eye.

I well remember 1943 when I was summering in that Garden Spot of the Universe, Ft. McLellan, Alabama. Hosting my visit that year was a platoon sergeant named Floyd who talked with a nasal twant and butchered the king's English with the expertise of a sixth grader who flunked out: "They ain't nothing you guys can do here," he told us, "cept what I say. You cooperate wif me and I'll cooperate wif you. But jes' remember; I ain't gotta cooperate with you."

Now there was an attitude which established in a twinkling: 1. Who was boss. 2. Who would make the rules. 3. Who would obey. It is a tactic which persons at all levels in authority in the sports might consider. Once having established respect and taken command, it isn't too hard to run anything.

All Kinds Of Athletes

Throughout the whole fabric of collegiate athletics there runs the recurring bit about how all the boys are just wonderful, clean-cut, church-going lads who write to dear old mother every week, and avoid the sins of the flesh because their hearts are pure.

The truth is that college athletes are about like everyone else. They run the gamut from idiot to genius, and their moral scale, as I have observed it for a quarter of a century, approximates yours and mine. Some of them are goody, goody, and some are real hell raisers, and the great majority falls in between.

When a star athlete gets jailed for driving drunk, or assaults someone in a public place, the coaches rush out to cover for him. If he is kicked out of school for cheating, the story leaks out unofficially. The straight line is always a study in ambiguity.

Athletes, pro and collegiate, will be better people when they are treated like me. Reward for excellence and swift retribution for disciplinary failure is the sure way to keep sports high in the public esteem.

Lipizzan Stallions To Perform At Memorial Coliseum

The Lipizzan Stallions of Austria, featuring the rarest, most aristocratic breed of horse in the world, will be at the Winston-Salem Memorial Coliseum with performances on Saturday, September 19 at 8 p. m. and Sunday, September 20 at 2 p. m. Tickets are on sale at the coliseum box office.

The Lipizzans were created in the 16th century for royalty — the Hapsburgs, ruling family of Austria. Common people were not allowed to own them, but nobles leading their armies were given Lipizzans to ride.

Starring with the Lipizzans will be Professor Ottomar Herrmann, whose ancestors have owned and trained Lipizzans for over 300 years. He is one of the men who took out a group of Lipizzans from under the very noses of the Russians in World War II, to save the rare breed from extinction.

The way the rare breed was saved was told dramatically in Walt Disney's "Miracle Of The White Stallions."

The Lipizzans are famous for their great controlled leaps and plunges, called "airs above the ground." Professor Herrmann is considered to be the best trainer of "airs above ground" alive today. Teaching the airs is almost a lost art.

Originally the "airs" were battle maneuvers, used by the mounted nobles to inspire terror in the hearts of enemy foot soldiers. Now, however, they are performed for their aesthetic beauty, and Lipizzans are called the ballet dancers of the horse world.

Child Abuse And Neglect Prevention Week

A mother douses her young daughter with kerosene and sets her on fire because she ate a piece of forbidden candy. A young father dunks his 18 month old baby into a tub of hot water after a family quarrel.

These are two flagrant examples of child abuse and neglect that have taken place in North Carolina. For every one serious enough to come to the attention of the public, there are dozens of others just as tragic, if not as sensational.

Governor Bob Scott has rightfully proclaimed this week "Child Abuse and Neglect Prevention Week" throughout the state.

The purpose of this special week is to emphasize the magnitude of the problem and how professional persons such as doctors and school personnel should report any such incidents of abuse or neglect they might observe in pursuit of their profession.

Social workers say concerned neighbors, police officers, nurses, doctors, and school teachers have a moral responsibility to report suspected cases. Concerned neighbors and school teachers in particular, should do their part to alleviate the problem. By the time an abused child is taken to the doctor, the situation is already serious. They can often help by reporting such acts in time to prevent serious harm to child.

North Carolina law protects persons who report suspected child abuse or neglect in good faith. It spells out the proper place to report such action and that is the county departments of social services. The law requires the county director of social services to investigate and take whatever action necessary to correct the situation.

Last year over 2,000 cases of child abuse and neglect were reported to county departments of social services throughout the state. It has been estimated that this many more cases go unreported and these children receive no protection because they are too young to do anything about the situation.

Dr. Ray E. Heffer of the University of Colorado points out the shocking fact that more children under five years of age die from parental abuse and neglect than from tuberculosis, whooping cough, measles, diabetes, rheumatic fever, and appendicitis combined. Heffer estimates that at least 60,000 children are willfully beaten, burned, smothered and starved every year in the United States.

"Rare is child abuse the product of wanton, willful or deliberate acts of cruelty," says Vincent De Francis, Director of Children's Division of the American Humane Association. "It results from lack of capacity for coping with the pressures and tension of modern living".

The child-abusing parent does not necessarily come from a low-class home. "We find a wide range," said De Francis, "from the poorest slum area to some country club districts, from culturally deprived families to families in high business and professional rankings."

"Help, not punishment is emphasized for North Carolina parents who abuse their children. Abused children can best be helped by helping their parents," states Reginald York County Director of Social Services.

Abusive parents fall into three primary categories, Mr. York says: "those in crisis, those with character disorders, and those who are psychotic or pre-psychotic. Their problem often can be worked with by our social workers. When it appears necessary, the social worker recommends psychiatric care."

"Most problems can be worked out within the social agencies," says Mr. York. "We are able at least to maintain the situation so that the child can remain in the home in most cases."

Keeping the child in the home is the primary goal. Mr. York reports that removal of the child from the home by court is the last resort. Even then, many of the children later return to the family after the parents prove to be adequate.

The Davie County Department of Social Services is joining its counterparts throughout the State during this special week in a concentrated public information program to inform citizens of this crucial social problem and how they can help.

CCB Directors Declare Dividend

Directors of Central Carolina Bank & Trust Company in their regular quarterly meeting this week declared a dividend of 2 1/2% per share payable October 1 to shareholders of record September 15, 1970. Payment of the dividend will bring to 82 1/2 cents the total paid during 1970, as compared with 72 1/2 cents for the first three quarters of 1969. The session was held jointly with the bank's Apex Board, at MacGregor Downs in Cary. Following the official meeting, Central Carolina Bank's directors and officers were luncheon hosts to guests from Apex and Cary.

While there he did individual psychotherapy and led group therapy sessions. After registering for his fourth year in Medical School at University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill he will be leaving this week for the Federal Drug Addiction Hospital in Lexington, Ky., where he will spend one month studying the latest techniques in medical treatment and rehabilitation of drug abuse.

On Thursday afternoon the W. S. C. S. of the Methodist Church met at the home of Mrs. B. C. Brock Sr. with 15 members present. The vice president, Mrs. G. N. Tucker had charge of the program with Mrs. Nell Lashley assisting. They discussed the history of the Negro people before, during and after the Civil War, and the relation of the two races during this time and how both races have worked to encourage growth and development in better understanding as each adjusted to the new freedom. After the program and business session, the hostess assisted by Miss Margaret Brock served the members refreshments of orange ade, sandwiches, stuffed dates and dainty party cookies.

Our church band will resume the regular Monday evening band practice this week. Mr. Miller from Winston-Salem has requested that all members be present. Anyone desiring to learn to play an instrument is invited to come and join the band. Young people in the first grade and up are welcome. The lessons are free.

The people of Macedonia would like to extend our deepest sympathy to Mrs. W. L. Wilkins, Jr. and family. Rev. Wilkins was pastor of Smith Grove and Dullins Methodist churches. He will not only be missed by his people, but also by all the ministers of Davie County. We pray that God will bless and meet their needs in this trying time.

Congratulations to Ronnie Bowles who has recently been promoted to Sergeant, who is serving in Vietnam. Ronnie is married to the former Gail Evans and Gail is now walking on cloud nine, she will be meeting Ronnie in Hawaii September 29th for his R & R. We are very happy for Gail and Ronnie and pray God will give them both traveling mercies. Don't forget we need to pray for all our boys in service. We still have several sick and ask that they be remembered in your prayers. Mrs. Norma Jean Cope, Mrs. Bessie Lee, Mrs. Viola Styers, Miss Sophia Butler and Ernest Cope.

From Our Daily Bread:

There are times when it's good to forget. In fact, we should be "forgetful" when it means that selfish interests and motivations are lost in our love for others and Christ. The first lesson in the school of Christ is that of Self-denial. Read Mark 8:34 through 38.

OVER THE TOP

Eddie and Jake have been buddies since they could toddle. Together they hiked, fished, argued and leap-frogged the years away. If they weren't at our house, they were at Eddie's. Sundays, Eddie came along to church with us.

They did everything together, dated, played football, went to college. When they joined the Army, they went together.

Jake is coming home next week, but not Eddie. His mother brought his last letter over today. We cried together.

"Dear Mom," Eddie wrote, "Things are pretty bad. I'm glad Jake is here. We talk about home, about God, too. I know you and Dad never cared about church and all, but I think you'll be glad to know I've learned a lot about God from Jake. Whatever happens, I feel close to Him. I'm not scared."

Faith in God is your child's heritage. Take him to church today.

SENATOR
SAM ERVIN SAYS

The Senate is considering a far-reaching proposal to alter the Constitution — the proposition that we abolish the electoral college and adopt a system of direct election of the President.

Certainly, the present electoral college method of choosing our President is cumbersome and in several respects defective. Indeed, I have introduced S. J. Res. 2 to amend the Constitution to deal with some of these defects, including the elimination of the so-called "faithless" elector. At the same time, it must be recognized at the outset that the crucial issue before the Senate is not whether we ought to retain the electoral college but whether we should propose a change in the Constitution that will dangerously affect the entire constitutional and political structure of this nation. In my judgment, adoption of the direct election plan, in spite of its simple appeal, subjects the entire fabric of constitutional government in this country to needless risks.

These risks have been largely ignored by advocates who say that the times demand that we modernize the procedures for electing a President by adhering to a "one-man, one vote" plan, and that the electoral college left unchanged may subject the country to a constitutional crisis in a future election if no candidate wins a majority of the electoral votes. Admittedly, these are appealing arguments. But, it ought to be recognized too that the major deficiencies of the electoral college can be remedied by far less drastic solutions than the adoption of the direct election plan, and at far less risk to the delicate balance of governmental powers set forth in many provisions of the Constitution.

This balance becomes apparent when we consider that all unique features of the Constitution are departures from the numerical concept of representative government. This is true of the federal system, which prevents the less populous States from being entirely ruled by the more

The services being rendered by the Davie County Library were outlined Tuesday for members of the Mocksville Rotary Club by Mrs. Nancy Fullbright, Librarian.

Mrs. Fullbright told the Rotarians that only six other counties in the state the size of Davie had independent libraries. "Almost every day passing motorists stop by and come into our library and compliment the beautiful building and facilities....and these people are from all over the United States", said Mrs. Fullbright.

Mrs. Fullbright said that over 300 children participated in the summer reading program, and that the story hour for small children was well attended. Other services discussed by Mrs. Fullbright as being rendered by the Davie County Library included:

....A supplement to school libraries and reference source for students.

....The meeting room available for local meetings.

....The bookmobile into the various sections of the county. ....The loan of audio-visual equipment including film strips, slide projector, movie projector, record players, etc. ....A record collection which is also available for loan. ....Periodical files for reading and reference work. ....Copying service. ....The Davie County History Room.

....The inter-library loan service which puts the total information services of the state available by telephone communication from the local library.

John Durham had charge of the program and introduced Mrs. Fullbright. President Jack Pennington presided.

Egg Vote Set
For September 30

Davie County egg producers will vote September 30 on a one cent per case assessment on eggs, according to David E. White, Jr., Executive Secretary, N. C. Egg Marketing Association.

Funds collected under the proposed program will provide membership for N. C. egg producers in National Egg Company and United Egg Producers. The one cent per case will be in addition to the present two cents per case assessment which finances the state's egg promotion program conducted by N. C. Egg Marketing Association. The present two cents per case assessment was approved last year through April 30, 1970.

National Egg Company is the Southeastern regional egg marketing cooperative which works to assure its member-producers of the greatest return possible in the marketplace. United Egg Producers is a national organization made up of National Egg Company and five other regional cooperatives.

A two-thirds majority favorable vote is necessary for approval of the new program. Polling places will be set up in each county. Information on location of polling places will be released later.

Hovercraft (bottom) that spray crops, pull down warm air to warm the soil for early seed germination and longer growing seasons, and work the soil with vibrating tillage members will appear on many farms by the year 2000, Ford Motor Company farm machinery experts predict. Ford sees the hovercraft evolving from special high-clearance tractors (top) currently used for cultivating, spraying, topping or defoliating tall, mature crops and from light airplanes used for crop dusting.

Library News

Jim Wall's History of Davie County has certainly given the county a lot of good, free publicity. The July, 1970 issue of The Filson Club History Quarterly in Louisville, Kentucky had the following review of his book:

History of Davie County in the Forks of the Yadkin, by James W. Wall. Davie County Historical Publishing Association, Mocksville, N. C., 1969. Preface, Acknowledgments, Appendix, Bibliography, Illustrations, Index. pp. viii, 406. Price $6.95

As a rule regional histories have very limited audiences and even less value, but this certainly is not true of James W. Wall's History of Davie County. To begin with, his history is soundly researched and professionally written -- enough by itself to make it stand out from the general run of the genre -- but in addition he has avoided the pitfall of antiquarianism. Regional works of this caliber are desperately needed by the general historian as well as the specialist, the genealogist, and the researcher.

The book's scope is also much wider than its title would lead one to believe, and students of Kentucky history will find it especially useful. The roots of much of our history as well as many of our pioneer families can be traced back to the "Forks of the Yadkin". Daniel Boone, the most famous pioneer of them all, and his wife's family, the Bryans, along with many other figures notable in the settlement of Kentucky, hailed from the Yadkin Country of North Carolina.

James W. Wall has done us all a service. Not only has he produced a readable "grass-roots" history, but he has given us one that we can rely on.

Louisville, Kentucky Robert E. McDowell

We, too, feel that Mr. Wall has done us all a service, and we continue to congratulate him on the success of this fine book.

To Be Voted Upon November 3rd

The Constitutional Amendments

When North Carolinians enter voting booths November 3, they will face seven important issues of constitutional reform alongside the names of candidates for local, state, and national offices.

Although little popular attention has been paid to the fact to date, the N. C. Constitution stands to undergo its most extensive overhauling since it was written in 1868.

The range of issues will be broad. One "amendment" would generally update the document's wording.

Another amendment proposes new rules for official decisions about state and local governments' taxing and borrowing procedures.

Two amendments would affect the executive and legislative branches of state government. Another involves state funds for "worthy and needy" college students in the state.

And two amendments directly affect the voter-taxpayer.

Proponents of the changes say they are designed to give the state a modern charter of legal principles and practices without jeopardizing traditional protection of citizens' rights. No significant opposition to the amendments has arisen.

The proposed changes fit a pattern in North Carolina that finds its beginnings with the state's first Constitution of 1776. That one was written by a convention, and though it was never submitted to a vote of the people it carried a Declaration of Rights that is retained in the editorial revision on November's ballot.

The original document was amended in 1835 to make the governor subject to popular election (the General Assembly had picked previous governors) and to make the General Assembly more representative of popular interests.

In 1868, during Reconstruction, the state's second Constitution was written. It received the approval of the people in a statewide vote. The U. S. Congress also approved it, which was necessary for North Carolina's re-admission to representation in Congress.

Since then, the people have voted 97 times on amendments, approving 69. During the 1960s, ten amendments, including one on extensive judicial reform, have been approved and only one has been rejected.

The amendment on November's ballot for editorial revision of the Constitution would change 1868-vintage wording and make it understandable to present-day readers.

Obsolete references that might mislead the unwary reader have been taken out. No controversial additions have been made.

The editorial changes and three of the other amendments appearing on the ballot were results of the year-long work of the 25-member State Constitution Study Commission, appointed on the initiative of former Gov. Dan K. Moore.

Under the chairmanship of Emery B. Denny, former Chief Justice of the N. C. Supreme Court, the commission comprised a membership of lawyers and businessmen, farm and labor leaders, two Negroes, two Republicans, and former Gov. Luther Hodges.

Other amendments proposed by the Study Commission that will be on the ballot are:

--An elimination of the present Constitution's statement on the minimum exemptions for state income tax. This would place establishment of minimums in the hands of the General Assembly, which has general responsibility for levying the state tax.

The maximum of 10 per cent on state income tax would not be changed, but the amendment would make possible the eventual simplification of state income tax forms.

--A requirement that the General Assembly reduce the number of state administrative departments to not more than 25 by 1975.

Also, the governor would be authorized to reorganize state agencies with an eye toward making the executive branch of state government more manageable. Such agencies now number more than 200.

--A change in the distribution of "escheats," the legal term for property acquired by the state from persons who die without heirs or other lawful claimants to their property.

Although the amount derived from escheats fluctuates each year, it would be used to establish a scholarship fund for "worthy and needy students" at each of the 15 state-supported institutions of higher learning.

Past escheats, which since 1789 have accumulated to $5.5 million in principal, earning about $180,000 a year in interest, would continue to benefit needy students on the six campuses of the Consolidated University of North Carolina.

A fifth proposal on the November ballot originated with the Local Government Study Commission. The most extensive single-purpose amendment on the ballot, it received the stamp of approval from the State Constitution Study Commission.

This amendment would make substantial changes in present constitutional provisions for state and local government taxing and borrowing procedures. Among the most important features of the amendment are those that would authorize the General Assembly to enlarge the powers of city and county governing boards to finance needed services.

Old restrictions, including several barriers to effective city-county consolidation, would be lifted, and the General Assembly clearly designated as the proper body for initiating uniform, statewide fiscal policy.

The capitation, or "poll," tax would be abolished. Unchanged would be the present "two-thirds limitation" on governmental borrowing and present provisions for classification and exemption of property.

Two of November's proposals were originated by legislators during the 1969 session of the General Assembly.

Sen. Herman A. Moore of Mecklenburg sponsored the amendment that would allow the General Assembly, upon petition of three-fifths of the members of each house, to call itself into special session.

This power now rests solely with the governor, acting with the advice of the Council of State.

Rep. Henry Frye of Guilford proposed an amendment that would erase the constitutional requirement that each person wishing to register to vote be able to read and write any section of the Constitution in English.

This literacy test has already been eliminated in 39 N. C. counties, containing 42 per cent of the state's 1960 population, under the federal Voting Rights Act of 1965. And 1970 amendments to the federal law abolish all use of the literacy test as a requirement for voting for a five-year period after January 1, 1971.

Consequently, elimination of the literacy test from the N. C. Constitution would be mostly of symbolic value.

Each of the amendments on the ballot has been approved by a three-fifths vote of both houses of the General Assembly and requires for its adoption a simple majority of those who vote on it in November. This method of amending the state Constitution has been used consistently since 1875, when the last constitutional convention was held.

During the 1969 session, legislators considered another 21 amendment proposals and rejected them. Several of the rejected amendments proposed strengthening the office of the governor by giving him such powers as a veto (all other 49 governors have one) and allowing him to succeed himself in office.

Other rejected proposals would have required all judges to be lawyers, given four-year terms to state senators, and lowered the voting age to 18.

On the November ballot, if an amendment is approved it will become a part either of the present Constitution or the revised Constitution, depending on the fate of that proposal.

Aerospace Workshop

Aerospace Science Education Workshop, the most popular adult education class at Davidson County Community College is scheduled to begin Monday at 6:30 p.m., according to L. H. Ballard, associate dean of the adult education.

Ballard said several vacancies have developed due to conflicts in the schedules of some who had pre-registered for the course. Anyone wishing to audit the workshop should call his office immediately. The vacancies will be filled as requests are received.

This 24 hour workshop is sponsored by the Civil Air Patrol with William R. Reynolds as the instructor. The workshop will meet each evening, Monday through Thursday, for 2 weeks ending Thursday, September 24.

At the conclusion of the workshop, the Civil Air Patrol provides two air lifts to Cape Kennedy for a field trip. Each flight departs Greensboro-High Point Airport at 12:30 on the scheduled day, arriving at Patrick Air Force Base, Florida, at 3 p.m. The class will have the afternoon and evening to go sight-seeing or to swim at Coco Beach. The second day of the trip will be spent taking a tour of the Cape Kennedy Base visiting the Aerospace Museum and various missile sites as well as the NASA headquarters. A most impressive stop will be made at the enormous building where Saturn rockets are assembled. The flight leaves Patrick Air Force Base at 4:30 p.m. the second day arriving at Greensboro-High Point Airport at 7:30 p.m.

The workshop is $3 for registration. The field trip to Cape Kennedy will be a motel room for one night and three meals.

Research shows that the person who has consumed two cocktails or two beers is twice as likely to become involved in a highway crash as the person who is not drinking.

Prime Beef To Be Auctioned At State Fair

The first prize in the N. C. State Fair's Market Steer Show is $100 but the winner can count on a lot more from the after-show auction.

An estimated 125 steers will be judged at 8 a.m. on the opening day of the Oct. 16-24 fair and the auction will be held at 4 p.m. that day.

Last year's grand champion, a 1,038-pound Hereford shown by Debra McDowell of Jackson, brought $1.50 a pound from Winn-Dixie Stores.

The reserve champion, or runner-up, was a black Angus shown by Donnie Ellis of Clinton and weighing 1,024 pounds. Piggley Wiggley Stores paid 55 cents a pound for it.

The grand champion, reserve champion and breed winners will be shown on the hoof throughout the fair. The reserve champ and each of four breed winners will win $50 prizes.

Entries which don't place in the on-hoof showing will be slaughtered for a beef carcass competition which has a first prize of $125.

An auction sale of the carcasses will produce more money for the entrants. Last year's carcass champ went for 66 cents a pound and the reserve carcass champ for 60 cents a pound.

If the carcass grand champion is a Charolais, the American-International Charolais Association will pay its exhibitor an extra $1,000. If the reserve champ is a Charolais, the association will pay a $500 special award. Most other breed associations are offering $100 as special awards if the grand champion is of their breeds.

Chevrolet Observes 60th Anniversary

Chevrolet observes its 60th anniversary in 1971 with the broadest coverage of the passenger car market in its history, John Z. DeLorean, general manager, has announced.

"Our new cars reflect Chevrolet's intention to keep pace with changing needs and preferences of American buyers throughout the 1970s," DeLorean said.

From the most luxurious full-sized Chevrolet ever built to our new Vega 2300 economy car, we have a 1971 automobile to match each customer's life style. Each car line responds to today's strong consumer desire for maximum value, utility and quality."

The new Chevrolet, Station Wagons, Chevelle, Monte Carlo, Nova, Camaro and Corvette models go on sale in dealerships on Tuesday, September 29. Vega deliveries began last week.

The regular Chevrolet and full size Chevrolet station wagons have the biggest change of any year in recent history. Chevelle has a new front end treatment, Monte Carlo gets added distinction, Nova has a larger base engine and there are refinements for the popular Camaro and Corvette models.

Chevrolet offers an unparalleled choice of station wagons for 1971 -- three sizes of wagons, each with a different type of tailgate.

The full-size wagons introduce a "Glide-Away" disappearing tailgate. Mid-size wagons have dual-action gates and the new small Vega Kamback has a one-piece rear window-gate that swings up for maximum accessibility.

Each of the eight car lines has special emphasis upon emissions control. Every Chevrolet car in 1971 is equipped with an Evaporation Control System (ECS) which significantly reduces fuel vapor emissions.

In addition, Chevrolet for 1971 has developed a Combination Emission Control (CEC) valve mounted on the carburetor which reduces exhaust emissions.

The CEC valve also improves engine operation and permits lower idle speed settings. This helps eliminate engine after-run or dieseling and minimizes automatic transmission creep, reduces engine noise, improves engine cooling and idle fuel economy.

All Chevrolet engines have been designed to operate efficiently on the new low-lead or low-lead gasolines. In addition to the lower exhaust emissions attainable with this engine-fuel combination, there are benefits in longer life for spark plugs, exhaust system and other engine components.

If these low-lead, low-lead fuels are not available, any leaded gasoline with a research octane number of 91 or higher may be used.

Chevrolet in 1971 is publishing two horsepower ratings for each engine -- the gross output without engine accessories and net or as-installed output of the same engine with accessories. Both horsepower ratings are shown on the accompanying specifications sheet.

The net or as-installed test method follows recommended procedure of the Society of Automotive Engineers and represents actual performance of an engine as installed in an automobile.

All Chevrolet car lines use a sealed side terminal battery in 1971. Because the electrical path is completely sealed, this battery eliminates corrosion at electrical terminals.

All Chevrolet engines in 1971 use slim-line spark plugs. This new plug design makes possible use of a hotter plug to provide increased resistance to fouling.

Every 1971 model has extensive safety features for occupant protection, accident prevention and anti-theft.

Chevrolet offers 15 colors for 1971 of which 13 are new. There are up to six two-tone color combinations, five vinyl top colors and two convertible top colors.

Archie Jones Writes Letter From Ecuador

Apartado 328
Cuenca, Ecuador
August 20, 1970

Dear Friends,

Our year of furlough passed so rapidly! It was a real joy to visit personally with many of you. We are especially grateful to our three sponsoring churches; First Baptist Church, Lexington, N. C., First Baptist Church, Aberdeen, N. C., and Holly Springs Baptist Church, Broadway, N. C. We thank the church in Lexington for sending our newsletter for us. It was a real blessing to visit approximately 200 churches and camps. A week at Ridgecrest during Foreign Mission Week was a dramatic climax to a wonderful year.

Greetings from 8,000 feet above sea level some 200 miles south of the Equator. After living out of our suitcases for two months, we were delighted to arrive at our new home in Cuenca, Ecuador. Cuenca is a lovely city high in the Andes Mountains where our average daytime temperature is 60 degrees, though it gets much cooler at night. One of our outstanding magazines said recently that Cuenca now has a population of 100,000. Only about one hundred persons are Protestants. Our Roman Catholic friends say that only about fifteen or twenty percent of the population is active in that faith, leaving some eighty percent of the people without a vital faith in anything.

Cuenca is a picturesque city with its narrow cobblestone streets, the banks of its three rivers spread with colorful clothing that has been carefully washed in the rivers by the Indians, and the spires of forty Catholic Churches reaching toward the sky. It is a city of contrasts. In the streets walk people who look like they might have just stepped out of Vogue alongside beggars in rags and Indians bent low with the heavy loads on their shoulders. Among these Indians with their long colorful skirts and shawls are some faces that are burdened and sad; others have a quick smile, like the elderly little Indian woman who, scarcely reaching Gwendolyn's shoulders, stopped her in the street, hugged her and told her she was beautiful.

Archie Jr., and David are enjoying fishing, even though they haven't caught a fish yet. Today they have been busy with a little guinea pig they bought for 17 cents. They built it a house and have taken turns carrying it around and feeding it. The children are looking forward to going to the Lutheran school this fall. Our first week here they were thrilled to see the Harlem Globetrotters play in the gym beside our house. Gwendolyn was thrilled when they used one of her shoes in one of their stunts.

Already we are making friends and giving away literature. We hope to have some radio and television programs soon. Also we plan to use the newspaper and every possible media to present the message of Christ. Sunday we had our first service. There were six of us, including our family and a young lady from Guayaquil who came to help us unpack.

Archie is enjoying his Honda 90 that Blaise Baptist Church in Mocksville, N. C., gave him. It brought him his first opportunity to witness in our new city. The officer at the traffic commission who registered it asked for a Bible. Pray for us as we seek for ways to witness and begin Baptist work in this lovely city. In this city of very few acquaintances your letters will be especially appreciated.

Your missionaries in Cuenca, Archie Jones, Julie and Children.

CAPITAL CLIPBOARD

Raleigh Bureau - 205 Charles St.

LIQUOR....Marse Grant of Raleigh who did more than any other individual to block liquor-by-the-drink in the 1969 Legislature (and has his work cut out for him in the next session), was involved in a several-cars wreck here a few days ago.

Grant, author of a fast-selling book on the evils of drinking while driving, is now more convinced than ever that liquor is the No. 1 killer of Americans.

He was on his way to a wedding, third in line of cars. The car that caused all the trouble slid around 135 feet (tire marks) into these cars, damaging them into the hundreds of dollars. Fortunately, nobody was killed. And, of course, liquor was involved—though not directly.

When Grant got out of his car, he could smell the strong odor of alcohol "all over the place". The police were soon present. The man who owned the car adjudged at fault was smart. He had seen he was not in condition to drive it, had turned the driving over to a lady who said she had had "one or two beers." Apparently she was not too intoxicated to drive....and obviously going too fast to stop. But liquor, says Grant, was the indirect cause of the whole thing.

OBSERVER....The Knight newspapers, owners of the Charlotte Observer-News and a half-dozen other large money-making dailies, were featured on the cover and inside pages of a recent edition of Business

Week. Meantime Charlotte observers were last week reporting that:

1. Brodie Griffith, the morning paper's manager, is in the hospital with another attack of heart trouble.

2. Pete McKnight able Observer editor, is apparently losing his eyesight. The condition has become much worse, it is said, within the past three months.

ODD TURN....The two-cent hike in the cost of gas—put on by the 1969 Legislature for new highways, etc.—was supposed to produce the highest petrol prices in the history of the State. Or at least since World War II. However and nonetheless, you can buy good hundred-plus octane gas now in most sections of North Carolina for 33 cents per gallon. Regular gasoline is selling for as little as 29 cents—right here in Raleigh.

The high cost of gasoline has accomplished three things: 1. Produced gas wars all over the State; 2. erased the big prize tickets, games, etc., almost everywhere; 3. created a stronger N. C. Service Stations Association. Avery Upchurch, prominent Raleigh leader, is now manager of N. C. S. S. A. While there is some talk now that the tax might run into some thunder in the 1971 Legislature, it will probably hold.

CROSS TRIP....A man who does little traveling (except around the Legislative Building) is Hathaway Cross, former legislator and State official and now regarded—and long so labeled—as the most effective legislative persuader in these parts.

Anyway, Mrs. Cross—who retired last spring as one of the most effective teachers in the Raleigh Public Schools—persuaded her stay-at-home husband to take a trip to Spain. It was their 40th wedding anniversary. They left latter part of August, are due back any day now.

DEAD....This Army man—now a major—recalls in the current issue of Reader's Digest an experience he had while a captain down here at Fort Bragg.

As a company commander he had returned to his office one night, forgetting that he had asked two soldiers to clean up the place and have it looking spic-and-span the next morning.

Walking in quietly, he found one of the men—the private first class soldier—wearing his captain's hat. On the floor, scrubbing and sweating, was the private. Sitting in the officer's chair and swinging a knotted rope was the PFC. "Work, slave! Scrub that floor!" he was shouting.

Suddenly seeing the captain, he turned sheet-white. He snapped to attention, saluted and then said: "Sir, if you don't have a sense of humor, I'm dead!"

TRAVEL....A fine little organization, largely fathered by Voit Gilmore and the late Lynn Nisbet and Charles Parker, is the N. C. Travel Council.

But it has an inferiority complex as regards Gov. Robert V. Scott. He has set them guessing....

Here's why: The Council wanted the Governor as speaker at one of its events, and, to be sure of getting him, at one time gave him the choice of several dates—so he could come at his convenience. They would adapt their time to his. The dates came back, says the report, with all turned down. Now they are wondering how come.

They think it may be that Gov. Scott snoot too keen on State News Bureau Chief Bill Hensley. However, consensus is that Hensley does a good job. Then you hear that the Governor's old sidekick, Roy Wilder (his firm has the State's advertising contract) and Hensley don't hit it off. Personality clashes. Tarheelia becomes each year more attractive to tourists.

Extension Homemakers Celebrating Their 50th Anniversary

The Extension Homemakers Organization in North Carolina is celebrating this year the 50th Anniversary of Extension Homemakers Organizations.

On Saturday, September 19, beginning at 10 a.m. at the Masonic Picnic Grounds, Davie County will observe their county celebration. Mrs. Francis Wagoner, Extension Home Economist, from Alleghany county, is to be the featured speaker. Mrs. Wagoner has worked many years with the Extension Service in Alleghany County with outstanding contributions to Homemakers Organizations as well as 4-H Clubs. She is now State President of the North Carolina Association of Extension Home Economists.

All Extension Homemakers are invited and urged to attend. Each one attending is asked to bring a picnic lunch.

Awards will be given to the oldest charter member present, and a cash prize for the club that has the most in attendance and other door prizes will be given.

Keen Competition For Dairy Cattle

Bigger prizes will be awarded to winners in the Junior Dairy Cattle Show at the 1970 N. C. State Fair, Oct. 16-24.

Youngsters under 19 will be entering their calves, yearlings and cattle for top money of $18, second prizes of $15 and third prizes of $8.

More than 250 head of dairy cattle are expected for the senior open show and the junior show. This will be the fourth year the Southeastern Regional Holstein Show has been held at the fair and the fair show will be the official state Guernsey Show this year.

The junior show starts at 8 a.m. the first Saturday and the senior open show begins with the Holstein show the following Tuesday at 9 a.m.

Ayrshires, Guernseys and Brown Swiss cattle will be judged the next day. Jersey judging will be on Thursday.

All who enter the senior open show are automatically entered in a herdsman's contest, which features prizes of $40, $30, $15, $10 and $5. Each herdsman is rated on neatness, courtesy and all round efficiency while tending animals on exhibit.

Champions in all breeds will be display for fairgoers until 2 p.m. of the second Saturday.

Modern milking techniques can be observed each afternoon in a small building just west of the Dorton Arena. The milking is done for exhibitors with lactating cows behind a plate glass window.

Ice Cream, shakes and other goodies are made and sold at the milking parlor with the proceeds going into a college scholarship in dairy husbandry awarded each spring by the N. C. Purebred Dairy Cattle Association.

THE ANNUAL FOLK FESTIVAL is always a highlight at the State Fair. Increased premiums draw top competitors from within the State for three shows daily October 16-24.

HARNESS RACING is just one of the many events in the Grandstand at Fairtime. Many of the State's top trotting ponies and sulkie drivers will be on hand Thursday, Oct. 23 to compete for nearly $2,000 in premium awards.

Vocational Vacancies

Vacancies exist in several vocational programs as registration for fall quarter classes continued today at Davidson County Community College.

Norman S. Mills, director of admissions said that although registration would probably go well beyond the 1100 mark, that some vacancies do exist in several one-year vocational programs.

Electronics servicing (radio and TV), mechanical drafting and machinist training are among the programs with vacancies remaining Mills said.

Although classes are scheduled to begin Monday in all curriculum programs, interested adults may still enter these three areas, Mills said. To enter these three programs the student should be a high school graduate. Veterans may qualify for these programs under the G. I. Bill.

Some vacancies exist in several other vocational programs, Mills added, but most classes are filled for the fall quarter. The fall quarter will end November 25.

A recent study by the North Carolina Highway Safety Research Center revealed that the automobile driver is at fault in 62 per cent of all automobile crashes on North Carolina streets and highways.

SOCIAL SECURITY

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Anyone in Davie County having a question concerning Social Security may write in care of this newspaper and the question and answer will be included in a subsequent column).

Q. I pay a maid $20.00 a week. She objects to paying social security taxes, saying she will not need these credits for several years. Is it all right if I don't report her wages since she does not want me to?

A. No. When you pay her $50.00 or more in cash wages in a calendar quarter you are required by federal law to report her wages and pay social security taxes.

Q. Why can't a person who has served in the armed forces for 23 years, retired, be declared totally and permanently disabled and draw social security? Has four dependents, the wife has to work to defray expenses. How can one pay social security taxes (withheld from salary) and not be eligible to draw benefits after being declared disabled by a bevy of doctors?

A. There are two requirements which must be met before a social security disability benefits can be paid. First, a particular amount of work under social security is required (for the worker over 31, this would be 5 years of work out of the 10 years ending when the worker becomes disabled.) Secondly, a worker is considered disabled under the Social Security Law if he has a disability which prevents him from doing any substantial gainful work, and the disability is expected to last (or has lasted) for at least 12 months, or is expected to result in death. If you have filed an application for disability benefits and been denied but you feel you meet these two requirements, then you should file for a reconsideration. You have the right to file for a reconsideration, a hearing, a request for review of the Hearing Examiners Decision, and you can even take your case to court. We are just as anxious as you are to be sure the decision made in your case an accurate one.

Announcing the 1971 Duster.

The big difference in small cars.

We first introduced the Duster as the best transportation bargain in America. It still is. And we built Duster to be America's "small-enough-but-big-enough" car. And it still is.

Small car lovers of America, your day has come.

You have more tires to kick, more doors to slam, more hoods to look under, more colors to choose from and more test drives to take than ever before.

Which leaves us to convince you that Duster gives you the most car for the money. That it's small enough, but big enough. And that, all in all, it's the ideal small car.

Room. More of it to accommodate more passengers. More of it to accommodate more luggage.

Most small cars are four-passenger cars. And when you sit in some of them, they feel like they were built for three-and-a-half passengers.

Duster's a five-passenger car. It seats five, comfortably. Besides carrying more up front, Duster carries more in the trunk. You can stuff 15.9 cubic feet of stuff into it. (One of the new small cars has about a third as much trunk space.)

Duster's small enough to slip into about 3/4 of a parking space. Yet it's big enough to give you stability on the open highway.

It has our unique torsion-bar suspension (for better handling). And unibody construction—its strength completely surrounds you.

So Duster can handle stop-and-go city traffic as well as freeway traffic because it's the right size, the right weight and it handles.

Our small-enough-but-big-enough car has a small-enough-but-big-enough engine.

Duster's standard engine is our rugged 198 cubic inch, 125 horsepower Six. It gives you great gas mileage and a little more power than other small cars' smaller engines.

And that's a perfect combination.

Options. You have over 50 to choose from when you order a Duster.

Think of it this way. It's a convenience to have a lot of conveniences to choose from. If you're considering buying a new small car, and you have certain options in mind to go along with it, you may find Duster the only small car that offers them.

There are things like a Stereo Cassette Tape Player, V-8 engine, vinyl roof and power brakes that you just can't get on some small cars.

No doubt about it. Duster is the car for the times.

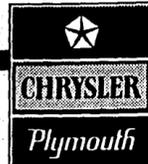

Over 175,000 Duster buyers thought so last year. And we expect more of the same kind of success with the 1971 Duster.

Before you buy a small car, look at our small car.

See the new Plymouth Duster today.

Mocksville Receives $17,625 From Powell Bill

The Town of Mocksville will receive $17,625.26 this year from the State Highway Commission in Powell Bill Funds.

Mocksville is one of the 428 cities and towns in North Carolina receiving proportional cash allotments totaling $11,909,265. Checks to these towns will be mailed from Raleigh this month so they will reach municipalities by October 1st.

Powell Bill funds, which are provided by one-half cent of the gasoline tax, are returned annually to cities and towns upon population and non-state street mileage.

Because the 1970 census has not yet been certified, population figures used were based on the 1960 census.

Each municipality establishes its eligibility annually by submitting a Certified Statement concerning its municipal election, ad valorem tax, and other sources of income. There are some legally incorporated municipalities which do not perform those municipal functions necessary to qualify for an allocation under the law.

The Town of Mocksville received $7,355.71 based on the 1960 census of 2,379, and $10,269.55 based on 17.38 certified non-system miles of road within the town limits.

Shotgun Blast

The Davie County Sheriff's Department is investigating a shotgun blast at the door of Radio Station WDSL on Eaton Road.

Archie Glenn Sidden, 32, of Mocksville, Route 1, waived preliminary hearing Tuesday and was bound over to Superior Court on the charge of murder.

Sidden is charged in the death of 3-year-old Rita Charlene Edwards on August 15th. The child was shot in the stomach by a gun fired through the window of her home.

The case against Clarence Eugene Potts of Yadkinville, Route 3, who is charged with being an accessory, was continued.

Sidden was arrested in the Walnut Cove Community of Wilkes County on September 6th, almost three weeks after the shooting. Sidden was asleep in a sleeping bag on top of an abandoned car when a group of Wilkes County deputies went to pick him up.

Scout Fund Drive

The fund drive for the Boy Scouts got underway this week.

Bryan Sell, chairman, said that the quota for Davie County was $3700.

Members of the Mocksville Rotary Club will serve as solicitors in the Mocksville area.

Savings Locally Reach $2,905,000 In Year

Residents of Davie County seem to have their financial affairs under good control. As a whole, they are living well within their incomes, spending much less than they are earning.

Some of the surplus is being used by them to reduce their consumer debt. The remainder, or a considerable part of it, is being put into savings.

The evidence is seen in the rise in their bank deposits, in their savings and loan accounts and in their purchases of U. S. savings bonds.

During the past year, it is estimated, Davie County families stashed away some $2,905,000 in liquid assets.

As with people in other parts of the country, they have grown cautious. High prices, unemployment, strikes and other economic conditions have led them to postpone some of their big-ticket purchases and wait for a more favorable climate.

Meanwhile, they are accumulating a sizeable nest egg. This pool of purchasing power, when released, could spark a big buying surge.

The figures on savings are based upon national findings reported by the Commerce Department and other agencies and upon income and sales data for each community.

They show, as would be expected, that the amount of a

Grant Of $109,000 Approved

Contracts Awarded For Expansion Of Sewer Systems

Contracts for the expansion of the sewer system for the Town of Mocksville have been awarded and work is expected to begin in the near future.

Mayor D. J. Mando said this week that he had been notified of federal approval of a $109,000 grant towards this project and given the go ahead on the awarding of contracts.

The general contract was awarded to Ray D. Lowder, Inc. of Albemarle which had the low bid of $872,000.

The electrical contract was awarded to Modern Electric Company of Statesville which had the low bid of $12,894.

Mocksville voters authorized the sale of $495,000 in bonds in May 1969, but they were not sold until February of this year. The project was delayed for some time by a conflict with watershed construction plans that necessitated additional federal funds and for almost a year by the six percent interest ceiling the state had when the bonds were approved. The Appalachian Regional Commission has granted $450,000 for the project, which will extend the town's sewer network and build a new sewage treatment plant.

Mocksville now has three separate treatment plants and five pumping stations. The proposed plant would replace the plant north of town and make it possible for the one east of town to be phased out eventually.

The enlarged service will provide service to property owners west of North Main Street and to some outside the town limits.

Mizell To Speak At Fund Dinner

Congressman Wilmer D. Mizell will speak at the Davie County Republican Fund Raising Dinner to be held October 10, at the Davie County High School Cafeteria. Glenn Hammer is in charge of the arrangements and tickets will be available in the near future. All precinct chairmen will have tickets.

Republican Precinct meetings will be held in Davie County as follows:

September 28 - Jerusalem and Cooleeemee at the Cooleeemee School.

September 29 - East Shady Grove, West Shady Grove and Fulton will meet at the Cornatzer Fire Station.

October 1 - Farmington, Smith Grove and Clarksville will meet at the old Farmington Luncheon.

October 5 - North Calahaln, South Calahaln, North Mocksville and South Mocksville will meet at the Davie County Courthouse.

All precinct officials, interested Republicans and candidates for office are urged to attend these important meetings. The precincts grouped in order to give the District Candidates more time to meet in other counties.

Long Beans

John Byerly, son of Mrs. Mary Byerly of Church Street Extension, brought in some green beans this week that measured 33 inches in length. They were grown in his mother's garden.

S. B. Hall Honored

Stacy B. Hall of Mocksville was one of six deceased members of the North Carolina Pharmaceutical Association honored at the Institute of Pharmacy in Chapel Hill on Sunday afternoon.

Cited For Service

Miss Josephine Cooley of Mocksville has received a citation for meritorious service from the President's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped.

The certificate was presented to Miss Cooley last Friday in a special ceremony at the Grove Park Inn in Asheville. The presentation was made by Attorney General Robert Morgan.

The meritorious service certificate was presented for outstanding services to the rehabilitation and placement of the handicapped.

Egg Referendum Is Sept. 30 TH

Polling places have been set up in Davie County for the special Egg Referendum on September 30, according to R. C. Bassinger, Referendum Chairman.

Polling places are: Farm & Garden Service, 961 Yadkinville Road, Mocksville, N. C.

The special referendum is being held to seek a one cent per case assessment which finances the state's egg promotion program conducted by N. C. Egg Marketing Association. The present two cents per case assessment was approved last year through April 30, 1975.

Students Complete American Negro Heritage Course

For the past year students have been attending a course on American Negro Heritage at the Cooleemee Education Center.

This course was offered by the Davidson County Community College and the Adult Basic Education Program. This was the first course of this kind offered in the state of North Carolina and because of its success is being used as a guide program throughout the state. The course offered the contribution of the Negro to American History. Such coverage included the arrival of the Negro with Columbus to the attributes of the Negroes who worked with NASA and the last "Moon Walk."

The course in American Negro Heritage was taught by Julius Suter, a member of the social studies department at Davie High School. He was assisted by Mrs. Kate Foster, the regular Adult Basic Education teacher.

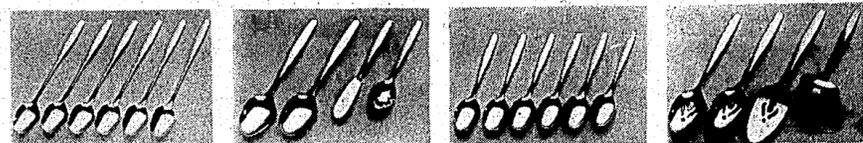

Mr. Suter is now teaching adult education in Mocksville where the Negro Heritage program will be incorporated with the primary rudiments of Adult Basic Education.

CCB Stainless is still a steal.

Savings should collect more than interest. At Central Carolina Bank, they collect free stainless steel tableware. Plus a chance to buy more at less than half price.

According to our records, there are probably a few dozen people in the area who haven't gotten in on the CCB Stainless Steal. For them, we'd like to recap the way the plan works.

You deposit $25 in any kind of CCB savings account, new or old, and you get a five-piece place setting of stainless steel free. Every time you make a $25 deposit thereafter, you can purchase additional place settings for only $2.99. And your twelfth place setting is free, too.

Completion units are also available, all at less than half retail price.

What's the stainless like? Heavy-weight, dishwasher safe, with a serrated knife blade—the graceful "Richmond" pattern, by International, has all the marks of quality you're looking for.

The offer will continue as long as Central Carolina Bank savers want it. However, after October 16th, there won't be any more free first place settings. So take full advantage of the offer, better bring your money to the nearest CCB office soon. And take home our Stainless Steal.

Davie Golden Age Club Hold Memorial

by Nell H. Lashley

Wednesday morning at ten the Davie Golden Age Club gathered in the Rotary Hut with 35 friendly men and women present. A song fest was enjoyed with Mrs. Minnie Pope at the piano and Mrs. Lashley leading the singing. Rev. Bullock, pastor of the First Baptist in Mocksville gave timely and encouraging devotionals based on the fifth chapter, 16th verse of the Gospel by Matthew, "Let your light so shine before men that they may see your light and glorify your Father which is in Heaven". He then conducted a memorial for a Club member who died July 22nd, Mr. Frank Honeycutt. He said among other good remarks that Mr. Honeycutt practiced the above scripture in his life. He reminded us that there always are others watching the pathway left by those ahead.

Betty Robertson played softly Beautiful Isle of Somewhere on the piano during the service and then closed it by singing the song. Members of Mr. Honeycutt's family present were Mrs. Betty Dwiggins of Charlotte, a son Bob Honeycutt, two brothers in law, Mr. Earl Hammer and Mr. Glenn Hammer. During a business period Mrs. Ostene West presented the idea "What in the needs of the Senior Citizens" for discussion at the next meeting. One new member, Mrs. Mary Rupard, was voted into the Club. Letters of appreciation were read from

Two can save as cheaply as one.

Now that you have the security of more than one person to worry about, saving money is that much more important.

Young people have a way of putting off saving. They need so many material things when they're just starting out.

But now Branch Bank has a new savings plan that pays 5% — the Branch Prime Passbook. $500 starts one, and interest is payable quarterly. After 90 days, your money is available during the first ten days of any calendar quarter or any time with 90 days' written notice.

Now, $500 may sound like a lot to a young couple. But think how much you spend in just one month, and you'll see why the Branch Prime Passbook is a good idea.

Just another way of making you feel... you belong at Branch.

Baseball Needs Change

Change is a sign of vitality, certainly in sports as in other aspects of life. Take football for instance. The differences in the game which we see today as what was played, say twenty years ago, are so numerous and deep-reaching that they defy concise description.

Knute Rockne was the first man to make the forward pass a successful offensive maneuver, and there are still a few moss backs hanging on who disparage the thrown ball.

Yet, were it not for passing, football would indeed have long ago become a brute test of muscle against muscle, and would have sunk into three yards and a cloud of dust.

Remember the Flying Wedge? Of course you don't if you're under sixty, and even if you have reached that happy time of life, you have probably forgotten it. The Statue of Liberty play? Ah, yes! You have probably seen a modern day version of that classic.

Sometimes it will work once in a blue moon. But football has changed radically. Up front the blockers must think under intense and instant pressure to find the man they are to block, and it changes constantly depending on how the defense lines up. No more big dumb linemen. A dumb guy couldn't divine where he should go.

A Speed Revolution

Basketball is even more the victim of the speed revolution. There was once a time when, after every goal, the ball was taken back to midcourt and another jump started the play. Imagine such a tactic with a man like Lew Alcindor jumping. It boggles the mind.

The opposing team would never get a goal, and what's worse, the game would be so slow and dragging that what few hardy should turn up would doubtless go to sleep.

Thirty years ago any basketball player who would have been fool enough to attempt a shot with one hand would have been benched for the season. Now the one handed shot is THE weapon.

Examples are numberless illustrating the speedup of sports. That is, until we get to that great American pastime, baseball. If you wonder why baseball is dying — no, dead — then just compare it to the baseball played in 1900. Practically the same. The buggy and harness makers have diversified or gone broke.

Yet baseball continues to lumber along with the same old threadbare, snail's paced stuff that gave grandpa his kicks way back then. Even the uniforms, except in rare cases, are the same old funeral gray and filed rabbit white.

Television Gets Blame

Naturally television has been blamed for the demise of baseball. There is some truth in this, but it has been greatly exaggerated. Every rural high school in the country packs its gymnasium to the rafters to see the local team play.

This is true notwithstanding the professional and college games widely shown on the boob tube. People like the excitement of the game and local players provide it in competition with anyone. In baseball though, people go to so-called Big League games and stay away by the millions from the rest.

And what about the "Big" leagues? They are just about the only leagues left where there is a firm effort to win. The minors are so exploited by the parent clubs that their games are really little more than glorified scrimmages.

A good player can be and frequently is jerked up right when a minor team is battling for a flag. Minor league fans? The hell with the rubes!

What about major league support? Well, there are so many teams nowadays that most people can't keep up the four-way race. And attendance generally suffers. Take the Atlanta Braves, for instance. If they had not been smart enough to encourage the area concept it would have been a dark day there. Visitors keep the Braves going; not the good natives of Atlanta.

Baseball is a very sick sport... and its illness may well be terminal.

Major Edwin Waters Is Still Listed As Missing In Action

A Mocksville native may still be a prisoner of war in North Vietnam.

Major Samuel Edwin Waters of Mocksville disappeared while on flight in December of 1966 and since that time neither his parents or his wife has received any official word. However, unofficially word has come back that he may be one of prisoners being held by Hanoi.

Officially he is still listed by the War Department as missing.

The son of Samuel E. Waters and Mrs. Virginia Adams Waters of Mocksville, he is a graduate of the Mocksville High School and the Air Force Academy. He is married to the former Mary Ann Dalley of Laguna Beach, California and they have two children.

Both his wife and mother have been very active in letter writing campaigns that many believe may influence world opinion to the extent that Hanoi will act on prisoners... U. S. Brigadier General

Major Waters

Daniel "Chappie" James, Averill W. Harriman, former U. S. representative at the Paris Peace Talks; Vice-President Spiro Agnew all have expressed the opinion publicly that the show of concern by the American people could be a decisive factor in not only better treatment but perhaps the ultimate release of American prisoners of war.

Plans for a letter-writing campaign to be conducted locally were announced this week by Mrs. Virginia Waters. The goals of the drive is "to obtain one letter to the President of Vietnam from every citizen in Davie County."

"We are asking each member of our community to write President Ton Duc Thang and demand the release of our men," said Mrs. Waters. The National Organization of American Prisoners of War Missing in Southeast Asia hopes to flood Hanoi with massive amounts of mail and that Hanoi will be moved by American public opinion.

The Department of Defense currently lists some 1583 Americans as either prisoner or missing in action in Southeast Asia.

'Restore Men To Their Families'

An Open Appeal To North Vietnam To Free Prisoners

This is an English translation of the Vietnamese letter that appears below. We invite you to clip the Vietnamese version and air mail it to Ton Duc Thang, president of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam. Postage is 25 cents. The address is:

Ton Duc Thang, president
Democratic Republic of Vietnam
Hanoi, North Vietnam

TO THE HONORABLE Ton Duc Thang:
We take this means of appealing to you on a situation which is close to the hearts of all Americans. This issue is not whether Americans should be in Vietnam or whether we should pull all our troops out immediately. The issue is not whether you are right, and we are wrong or that we are right and you are wrong.

The issue is the 450 American servicemen who are held in your prison camps. Another 1150 are listed as missing and possibly some are your prisoners.

Their situation is our united concern.
Both the "doves" and the "hawks" of America feel deeply about them and their welfare. We ask you to consider their immediate release. They have no military value to you. They can't hurt or hamper your war effort and no longer would help ours.

THESE MEN, like your soldiers, do not institute policy but merely serve as soldiers have done since time began. Like your men, they performed their duty and were willing to sacrifice for their country. Like your soldiers, they left their homes and families not because they wanted to but because their country called on them.

Patriotism is not limited to the men of Vietnam or to the men of America but is the privilege of all men. They fight under their flag whether it be red, white and blue or red, yellow and blue.

Your supporters in this country could take satisfaction from the release of the prisoners. This, more than anything else, would demonstrate that you, too, do not seek revenge against men who did their duty. This, too, would show the world that compassion, not punishment, can lead to peace.

The arguments of your critics that human life means nothing to you would be baseless if you allowed just peace by acting quickly on the appeal.

If your heart contains mercy and your soul compassion and if you truly seek to help the cause of peace, you have an opportunity to achieve these images in the eyes of the world.

THE FEELING there is that you don't care about the individual; that his needs and wants and desires don't matter; that life is not sacred to you.

Your actions can give lie to these beliefs. An act of amnesty toward American prisoners would show the world that you are concerned with life and that all life is sacred.

Family ties in America are strong and all Americans want these men reunited with their families. Some fathers have never seen their children. Some are missing the joy of watching them grow.

And the children live with a constant dream and hope that they may again be a whole family.

Few men in the history of the world have been given the opportunity that you now have.

History can record you as a man of compassion; a man who respected human life and held it in high value; a man who held that family life in paramount providing a measure of peace to many families.

RETURN THESE men to their families and the world would hail you. Retain them and your supporters can't help but wonder about your sincerity and motives.

We address you not as one enemy to another but as one human to another.

As citizens of the United States we have no power to offer anything as individuals but goodwill in exchange for the men you hold. We have no power to make threats if you don't.

We only hope; hope that you will heed the pleas and restore these men to their families.

Reproduced here is a letter that recently appeared in The Charlotte Observer and other newspapers throughout the nation. The letter was written by a Vietnamese citizen who lives in San Diego. This may be clipped and mailed to:

Ton Duc Thang, president
Democratic Republic of Vietnam
Hanoi, North Vietnam

OR A SIMPLER LETTER TO THE SAME ADDRESS MAY BE USED AS FOLLOWS:

Dear Sir:

I am deeply concerned about inhumane treatment of prisoners of war. The best interests of your country and of peace can be served by according these men the protection of the Geneva Convention and the speedy release of all prisoners you hold.

Sincerely,

Thỉnh thưa Ngài Tôn Đức Thắng:

Chúng tôi dùng hình thức kêu gọi này để bày tỏ lòng kính trọng và lòng biết ơn đối với những người lính Mỹ đã hy sinh vì hòa bình. Lời thoát của việc này không phải là người Mỹ phải có mặt ở Việt-Nam hay người Mỹ phải rút lui khỏi đất nước. Chúng tôi không có lý, hoặc chúng tôi hành động hợp lý hay Ngài hành động bất hợp lý.

Chúng tôi là 450 quân nhân Mỹ đang bị cầm tù ở các trại giam của Ngài. 1150 người khác được ghi là mất tích và có thể một số người đó cũng là tù binh của Ngài.

Bình hàng của họ là nỗi quan tâm chung của chúng ta. Cả hai phe "bò câu và dế mèn" ở Mỹ đều có ý này về số phận và tình trạng sức khỏe của họ. Chúng tôi thỉnh cầu Ngài xét việc phóng thích họ ngay. Họ chẳng có giá trị gì đối với Ngài về quân sự. Họ không làm hại hay cản trở sự chiến đấu của Ngài và không còn giúp ích gì cho chúng tôi.

Bằng như quân nhân của Ngài, họ không xây dựng chính sách, mà chỉ phục vụ như các quân nhân tự nguyện của Ngài. Bằng như quân nhân của Ngài, họ đã thi hành bổn phận và mong muốn được hy sinh cho sự sống của họ.

Bằng như quân nhân của Ngài, họ rời bỏ nhà cửa, gia đình không phải vì họ muốn như vậy, mà để đáp lại lời kêu gọi của quê hương.

Sống yêu nước không phải chỉ dành cho người Việt hay người Mỹ mà là đặc quyền của mọi người. Họ chiến đấu dưới lá cờ của họ dù nó là đỏ, trắng và xanh, hay đen và trắng. Những người ủng hộ Ngài ở Mỹ cũng có thể hơi lòng về việc Ngài phóng thích tù binh. Việc đó cũng tỏ ra là Ngài không thể tha những người đã thi hành nhiệm vụ của họ. Việc đó cũng cho thế giới rõ rằng lòng thương, chứ không phải sẽ trừng phạt, có thể đưa tới hòa bình.

Ngài Ngài đáp ứng mau 'le loi' kêu gọi này thì Ngài sẽ đánh tan được lời 'chỉ trích' Ngài.

Chúng sinh mạng con người chẳng có nghĩa lý gì với Ngài.

Ngài Ngài có lòng thương và thức sự muốn tìm kiếm hòa bình thì đây là dịp để Ngài thể hiện hình ảnh ấy trước dư luận thế giới.

Người Mỹ cảm thấy rằng Ngài không quan tâm tới cá nhân, cũng như câu và ý muốn của nó, và mong sống chung với gì là bình thường. Hành động của Ngài sẽ đánh tan ý nghĩ đó. Sự an ủi từ lính Mỹ sẽ tỏ cho thế giới rằng Ngài quan tâm tới sinh mạng lính thường của con người.

Giấy liên lạc gia đình ở Mỹ rất mạnh và mọi người Mỹ muốn các tù binh đó được tái hợp với gia đình họ. Nhiều người cha chưa hề được thấy con họ và nhìn chúng lớn lên. Con họ luôn luôn mong mỏi sự tái hợp.

Trong lịch sử thế giới, ít nhân vật nào có được dịp này như Ngài hiện có. Lịch sử sẽ ghi nhận Ngài là người có lòng thương đã kính trọng và nêu cao sinh mạng con người, đã coi đời sống gia đình là tuyệt đỉnh và đã giúp sự yên ổn cho nhiều gia đình.

Thế giới sẽ tụng hô Ngài nếu các tù binh được sum họp với gia đình. Ngài Ngài còn giam giữ họ thì các người ủng hộ Ngài sẽ nghi ngờ lòng thành thật và ý định của Ngài.

Chúng tôi ngỡ lời với Ngài không phải như dịch thư, mà là người biết thông cảm. Những công dân Hoa Kỳ là các cá nhân nên không có quyền lực, nhưng có thiên ý để trao đổi cho việc an ủi tù binh. Chúng tôi không có quyền dọa nạt nếu Ngài không đáp ứng lời thỉnh cầu.

Chúng tôi chỉ hy vọng; hy vọng rằng Ngài sẽ lắng tâm đến lời thỉnh cầu này và giao trả tù binh về với gia đình họ.

Virginia Squires To Play Cougars In Winston-Salem

When the Virginia Squires invade North Carolina in a contest at the Winston-Salem Coliseum on Sept. 30th the first shots in what looms as pro basketball's bitterest rivalry will be fired.

The Squires -- who have worn the trappings of three different ABA cities from coast to coast -- have stolen a page from the Cougars' book and gone regional.

Not only have the Squires moved their new regional franchise into the outer fringes of what the Carolinians proudly referred to as Cougar Country, but they're adding insult to injury by using Carolina talent in their invasion plans.

Three former UNC stars will be aiming their red, white, and blue bomb shells at the Cougars.

Veteran player Doug Moe (three times ABA All Star), Larry Brown (who perennially leads the ABA in assists) and rookie sensation Charlie Scott will kick off the new rivalry in Winston-Salem on Sept. 30.

The contest will be the only appearance in Winston-Salem for the Cougar club this year and is sponsored by the Winston-Salem Jaycees.

Although the Squires will come to Carolina with plenty of local lads, the trades the Cougars have made in the off season has brought a couple of fellows with their own axes to grind against the Squires.

Last season, when the Squires labored under the colors of the Washington Caps in the Nation's Capitol, Gary Bradds and Ira Harge were less than enthusiastic with the Caps' set up.

Today, they are both happier members of the Carolina Cougars and besides adding some height and shooting ability up front (where the Cougars have been weak), Harge (at 6:9) and Bradds (at 6:8) will welcome the opportunity to face their old mates.

Besides the major battles of territorial invasion and talent swapping, a couple of lesser wars of attrition will be on the bill of fare when the two teams meet.

Cougar guard, Gene Littles, was eased out of a first team spot in last year's ABA All Rookie Team -- and the guy who took his place was a spindly-legged West Virginian named Mike Barrett.

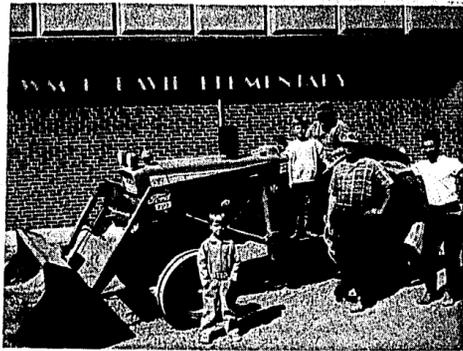

Littles would love to prove that was a mistake.

Then there's Bob Verga who was named one of the two finest guards in the ABA last season. Against the rest of the league, Verga was sensational -- against the Caps he was dynamite -- pouring in 189 points in their six meetings for a nifty 31.5 average.

What originally started out as a plain old exhibition game for area fans is suddenly looming as the start of World War III. For the records it's rated X -- for X-plosion.

Grassing At William R. Davie

William R. Davie's new school building addition will have plenty of new grass... If ... the weatherman will cooperate with the volunteers who planted the grass seed last Saturday. The above photos show a part of the people in the community who gave of their time and talents all day in the project. The new building has 8 classrooms and is an outstanding asset to the community. This year the school has classes 1 through 8. We will be looking forward to seeing the end result of so many faithful workers!

Big Pumpkins

John Waller of the Redland Community reports that he has gathered 37 pumpkins off of two vines.

"Most of these pumpkins are very large with several being more than a yard long," said Mr. Waller.

He reports that the seed was given to him by a man in the mountains and that these are "undoubtedly the finest pumpkins I have ever seen."

Break-Ins Of Schools Reported

Both the Primary building on Cherry Street and the Mocksville Elementary building on North Main Street were broken into last Thursday night.

A small, undetermined amount of ice cream was stolen at both buildings. An estimated .70 cents in cash was reported missing from one of the classrooms.

Entry was made through a window after cutting a screen. Local law officials are investigating.

Revival Begins At Liberty Church

Revival services will begin Sunday morning, Sept. 27th., and will continue through Friday night, Oct. 2nd. at the Liberty United Methodist Church. The pastor, Rev. J. C. Lane, will bring the messages each evening, beginning at 7:30. Special singing will be provided by the Apostles Quartet, the Senior Citizens of Cooleemee, the Liberty and Concord choirs. Everyone is invited to attend.

NCAE District Convention Is In Salisbury Tuesday

About 1500 members are expected to attend.

FHA Supervisors To Attend Workshop

Farmers Home Administration Supervisors will attend a Farmer Programs Workshop on September 24 and 25, at Winston-Salem, N. C.

James T. Johnson, State Farmers Home Administration Director, announced the two-day workshop for the supervisory personnel will be on credit available to farmers through the agency.

Johnson and his staff will include in their discussion recent authority given the agency to provide farmers with credit for establishing non-farmer-business enterprises.

Johnson stated that many farmers have recently received this type of credit for building and equipping cabinet shops, upholstery shops, garages, trailer courts, barber shops, and similar business enterprises.

The agency now also has authority to provide credit to farmers to convert their farm enterprises to recreational enterprises.

Also to be discussed, Johnson said, is the concern of the agency about the substantial production losses that some farmers have suffered as a result of hail storms and drought this summer and the credit available to assist them.

Farmers Home Administration offers a broad program of short, intermediate, and long-term credit to farmers for purposes varying from purchasing farm equipment to buying farms. Farmers should contact the local county Farmers Home Administration Offices which are located in the Farm and Health Center Building in Salisbury, and the County Building in Mocksville.

In 1969, American motorists traveled more than 1,065,000,000,000 miles.

ALONG THE SOUTHERN

WHALE TALE. If a whale can't swim, he travels most economically by Southern Railway. The American Museum of Natural History found this out when they had to ship a 2-ton, 92-by-28-foot fiber glass Blue Whale to New York City.

The cost of using ordinary boxcars would have been prohibitive. Solution: our 60-foot boxcar designed for big-load economy. The whale model was shipped in 15-foot pieces and arrived in New York safe and sound.

1971. You've changed. We've changed.

Chevrolet

Worth seeing. Worth owning. Worth waiting for.

Vega. Not just another little car, but one little car that does everything well. You get more room, more weight and more power than most little cars give you, yet the gas mileage is right in the same neighborhood with the best of them. Vegas come dressed up, too, not stripped to the bone so you have to add a lot to make them liveable. Drive one. You'll see.

Caprice. There's a double layer of steel in the roof, a steel guard beam in each door, power disc brakes up front, a new power ventilation system inside, a wheelbase two and one-half inches longer. You get the looks and comfort of a six- or seven-thousand-dollar car, but at Chevrolet prices. And that's the kind of change during these tight-money times that all of us can appreciate.

Avanishing tailgate. A big change in our big wagon. The window goes into the roof, the Glide-Away tailgate vanishes beneath the floor. Out of sight. Out of your way for easy loading even in a closed garage or when you have a trailer hooked on.

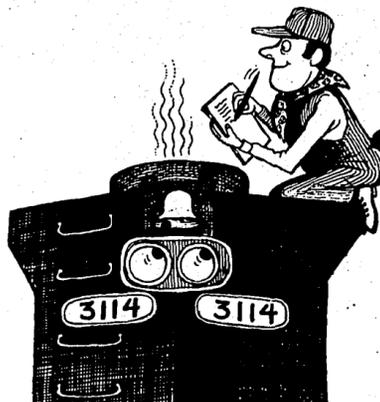

See what we mean by putting you first? September 29 at your Chevrolet dealer's.

LICENSE NO. 110

FAST FREIGHT. Southern has a way to get freight where it's going as much as a day earlier. How? Trains bypass busy intermediate terminals and keep the same locomotives all the way—even over the tracks of other railroads. We have three through trains now and plan to add more. The faster the freight, the better shippers and their customers like it.

BREATH CHECKUP. We're concerned about air pollution just as you are. That's why we put every locomotive through a checkup and maintenance every month, and use only high-quality, clean-burning fuel. Of all the widely used forms of transportation today, trains give off the least pollution for what they carry.

India's Menacing Cobras Have Redeeming Qualities

In India the deadly cobra is known as the "Good Snake." To millions of devout Hindus, the reptile has deep religious significance, primarily as a symbol of fertility. Farmers value the snake, because it exterminates rats which destroy vast quantities of grain and spread disease.

Harry Miller, a cobra expert who keeps a colony of the serpents penned in his backyard in India, offers an unusual profile of the snakes in the September National Geographic.

The cobra is not the vicious killer imagined by the uninformed, says Mr. Miller. "I am convinced," he writes, "that it is often wrongly blamed for fatalities, and that of some 10,000 Indian snake bite deaths a year, many attributed to cobras are caused by other species, particularly vipers.

"These do not move out of your way and are easily stepped on in the dark, whereas cobras sensibly slide away at the first footfall of man. Often the culprit is never seen and the cobra, since it is India's best-known snake, gets the blame."

A cobra's bite is not necessarily fatal. The creature does not always inject venom, and when it does the dose may not be fatal. Symptoms of poisoning appear in only about half the people bitten by poisonous snakes; many often recover with no treatment at all. Doctors have even prescribed cobra venom to treat arthritis. In some cases a purified and diluted form of the poison relieves severe pain without producing the undesirable side effects of opiates.

Surviving all dangers, a wild cobra can live as long as 20 years, though most have much shorter life spans. Wild pigs and peafowl prey on the creatures. Hunters all over India catch and skin the snakes for tanning. In Madras one tannery alone processes 500 cobra skins a day for handbags and wallets.

Snake charmers also take a heavy toll. Mr. Miller examined hundreds of snakes in baskets. "Not one," he reports, "has been found with its fangs intact, and all of them were suffering from starvation, because the cobra, a most sensitive snake, refuses to take food except under ideal conditions."

The cobra fights predators with its poisonous bite and distinctive hood. The author speculates that the flattening of the hood (by pulling forward ribs at the side of the neck) may make it hard for an enemy to get a firm grip with its teeth.

The "clown's face" markings on the back of the hood suggest huge, intimidating eyes. "I have often seen cobras turn their backs on enemies, prominently displaying these 'eyes,'" says Mr. Miller.

The menacing sight holds little terror for some Indians. For instance, villagers in Shirala in west-central India believe that the god Shiva offered one of their ancient sages a boon. The sage asked for protection of his people for all time against cobras.

The boon was granted, and ever since the people of Shirala have not feared the cobra, emblem of the god himself.

The above photo shows children enrolled at the Jack and Jill School with Mrs. Charlotte Blount of the Supplementary Education Center in Salisbury. Mrs. Blount made a special trip to the school last Thursday to bring the rabbit shown with the children. The rabbit stayed a week for them to observe. Mrs. Gen Duncan is director of the local school. It is held in the basement of her home on Route 4, in Southwood Acres. The school is a combination play school and kindergarten for children ages 3, 4, and 5. It is held five days a week from 8:30 a. m. to 11 a. m. Those enrolled include: Carla Graves, Jill Walker, Henry Horn, Michael Tutterow, Kim Walker, Kim Allen, Scott Gantt, James Hollis, Cammie Page, James Howard, Tod Howard, Michael Lyons, Angelia Graham, Tommy Smith and Patrick Cleary.

Auction Sales

An auction can offer real bargains or it can be a source of defective merchandise represented to be new or in good working condition, warns the Better Business Bureau.

R. E. Hitchcock, Managing Director of the Bureau, said that although the auction is an established and legitimate business practice, it is no better than the auctioneer who conducts it.

He pointed out that some auction firms specialize in certain of products, such as automobiles, jewelry or household goods.

He said the Council of Better Business Bureaus has advised that auctions offering office equipment have been the source of recent complaints.

In one city, said CBBB, some purchasers complained that typewriters with foreign language keyboards and odd voltage requirements had been sold without prior disclosure of these conditions. It also was charged that defective equipment had been doctored to make it appear workable.

Advertising for the auction had, falsely claimed said equipment was packed in factory cartons backed by the manufacturer's guarantee.

A cause of complaint in another city was the sale of electric typewriters whose motors were "frozen."

Defective merchandise had been repainted and wrapped in heavy plastic to make it appear in good condition at an auction in a third city. Local experts said the stated values of the equipment were highly inflated.

At another auction, a calculator described as workable by the auctioneer was found to be inoperable by the buyer, who paid some $70 for it only to learn that it would cost four times that much to be fixed. A replacement provided by the auction firm did not work, either. CBBB offered the following guidelines to auction-goers:

1. Never attend an auction that does not display all its goods at least one day beforehand; check the quality against advertised claims.
2. Inspect the goods as thoroughly as you can and decide ahead of time what you want; if expensive items are involved, such as jewelry, get an appraisal.
3. Don't buy "a pig in a poke" as sealed goods are a risk.
4. Check with your licensing agency to see if the auctioneer is licensed and the necessary permit has been issued; check the reputation of the auctioneer or firm with your BBB.
5. After you buy, don't let the auctioneer remove any tags, labels or papers or substitute another item.

Davie Students Invited To Attend Open House Program

Davie County high school students, especially juniors and seniors, are being invited to attend the annual Open House program, Saturday, October 10, at North Carolina State University in Raleigh.

Open House is held for career-minded high school students, their parents, teachers and career advisors. Also invited are other adults who are interested in finding out more about the statewide activities of N. C. State through its research and extension programs.

Leo F. Williams, chairman of the Davie County Open House committee, handling local arrangements for those who plan to attend the 1970 Open House October 10.

Special exhibits will be open to the public beginning at 11:30 a. m. in Reynolds Coliseum. They will show the many phases of agriculture, life sciences, and forestry available to students at N. C. State. Faculty members and students will be on hand to discuss career opportunities, curriculums, admission requirements and campus life activities.

The exhibits will remain open until 3 p. m. Time will also be provided for visitors to tour various departments of the two schools. A Dutch Lunch will be provided by the State Poultry Science Club.

The day's program will end with the State vs East Carolina football game Saturday night at 7:30 p. m. in Carter Stadium. Tickets for the game will be available at a reduced price for Open House visitors.

Checks To Depict Carolina Scenes

In the next 12 months, millions of copies of original artwork depicting North Carolina's heritage and beauty will be sent throughout the world—from Maine to California and from Afghanistan to Zanzibar.

And this huge promotion will cost North Carolinians and their state government nothing.

It's part of a plan announced today by Wachovia Bank and Trust Co., N. A., to offer its customers pictorial checks, featuring 16 original works of art commissioned by Wachovia and painted by well-known artists Peter C. Turner of Raleigh and R. M. Hughes of Winston-Salem.

The new checks are the result of many months of painstaking effort by researchers and artists to produce authentic and beautiful paintings of our state's rich history and natural beauty.

Wachovia is using the art for background on its special checks and that the checks come in two collections—a Heritage Collection and Wildflower Collection.

The Heritage Collection, painted by Turner, features eight scenes. They are:

The Lost Colony—Governor John White is shown returning to Roanoke Island and discovering part of the word Croatan carved on a tree.

Daniel Boone—Pictured as he traveled along the Wilderness Road.

Mecklenburg Resolves—The scene shows irate Tar Heels signing the resolution against British taxes on May 31, 1775.

Battle of Guilford Courthouse—Pictured are troops under Gen. Nathanael Greene charging British cannon positions on March 15, 1781.

Governor Zebulon B. Vance—North Carolina's Civil War governor, previously a Confederate troop commander, is superimposed on a scene depicting the Battle of Malvern Hill.

Confederate Blockade Runner—This is a painting of the CSS Ad-Vance (CQ), named for Gov. Vance, on one of its successful Civil War runs into the port of Wilmington.

The Wildflower Collection, painted by Hughes, shows North Carolina's most popular flowers, shrubs and trees, as selected by North Carolina Garden Clubs. These paintings include: The pinkshell azalea, flowering dogwood, Venus's flytrap, magnolia, blackeyed Susan, rhododendron, oxeye daisy, and mountain laurel. All are found in North Carolina.

"In designing these checks," a bank spokesman said, "we have related them entirely to North Carolina. To our knowledge, this is the first time that any bank has ever offered pictorial checks using original artwork based on one state alone. Checks from both of these collections should create a favorable and interesting impression of North Carolina as a state with a rich historical heritage and a present abundance of natural beauty."

The checks will be available "in the next few days," he said, "and will cost only a few cents more than plain checks."

Grant Made To Textile Program

Congressman Wilmer D. Mizell today announced that the Economic Development Administration has approved an $8,000 grant to assist in a pilot program in Winston-Salem to train displaced textile workers for job opportunities in data processing.

The grant was awarded to the Foundation for Economic and Environmental Development, Inc., in Durham, but the four month project will be conducted in Winston-Salem.

Total cost of the project is $13,555, with the Foundation for Economic and Environmental Development providing the $5,555 not included in the EDA grant.

We're giving Mother Nature a hand.

Two million times a year! That's how many trees we plant in the Piedmont Carolinas. To hold back erosion. To build good topsoil. To provide lumber and pulpwood. To add life-giving oxygen to the atmosphere.

And trees are only a part of it. There are all kinds of ways we improve the environment while we supply your increasing electrical requirements.

Like turning 150,000 acres of our land into wildlife preserves, managed by the Wildlife Commissions of the two Carolinas.

Like providing flood control, water for municipalities and water playgrounds.

Our main job is providing electricity. But Mother Nature can use our help once in a while. And we're more than glad to give the lady a hand.

CAPITAL CLIPBOARD

News and Comments from our Raleigh Bureau - 205 Chamber Rd.

OR LT. GOV....Although the 1972 Democratic Primary is over 18 months away, there is a lot of talk here about various candidates for office.

At a little businessmen's luncheon here one day last week, a spokesman said he could "name at least ten people who are interested in running for Governor-on the Democratic ticket-next time." And he added: "Those who aren't talking about running for Governor are regarded as possible candidates for Lieutenant-Governor."

ANOTHER JIM?....At the other end of the pole is the Republican Party. Democrats in Raleigh say they know of no Republican other than James E. Holsouser of Boone as a possible candidate for Governor for the GOP next time.

This could leave the way open for J. Melville Broughton to move forward with his rumored plans to become a Republican candidate for the top spot. To do so, he must perform a lot of magic-not the least of which might be to form a working relationship with Holsouser. He is chairman of the party.

LEO VS DANIELS....It is not often that the Raleigh News & Observer sees eye-to-eye with Dr. Leo Jenkins of East Carolina University on anything.

Now they are at it again-over the multi-million dollar med school being cranked up by Prexy Jenkins. The Daniels paper, which covers Eastern North Carolina like the dew, cracks the editorial whip at Dr. Jenkins. He comes right back swinging at the Raleigh daily. They print every word of it too.

However, while the News & Observer was serving the Democratic Party long before Jenkins was ever heard of in North Carolina, he has become one of its most effective boosters.

Only the Governor and Attorney General Robert Morgan are in greater demand for speeches. He now has at ECU in Bill Shires (formerly with the Afternoon Daily Bureau here) one of the better newspapermen in this section of the country.

So it is hard to say right now who has more influence in Greenville environs (home of East Carolina) Dr. Leo Jenkins, a relative newcomer, or his most severe critic, the News & Observer.

But, the other night when Dr. Leo went to the aid of Good Democrat Clifton Blue in his bitter flight with GOP Congressman Earl Baker Ruth in the Eighth District, he and the paper were using the same spillover.

This-plus some other items too numerous to mention-shows the width of the Democratic umbrella.

George Crater Retires From Federal Land Bank

George L. Crater, Manager of the Federal Land Bank Association of Winston-Salem will retire from that position effective October 1, 1970, according to J. I. Wagoner, President of the Association.

Mr. Crater first became associated with the Farm Credit Service in 1937 when he joined the staff of the Winston-Salem National Farm Loan Association. In 1947 the Piedmont National Farm Association merged with the Winston-Salem Farm Loan Association to form the ten (10) county area now being served. In 1959 the name of the Association was changed to the Federal Land Bank Association of Winston-Salem.

Mr. Wagoner announced that James L. Beck would succeed Mr. Crater as the Association Manager. Mr. Beck was formerly Manger of the Federal Land Bank Association of Monroe. He and his wife Fran, and their children Kathy and Rick are making their home at 810 Branchwood Drive, Kernersville, North Carolina. Mr. Beck is a graduate of North Carolina State College, having served as an Assistant County Agent prior to joining the Farm Credit Service.

The Federal Land Bank Association of Winston-Salem serves a ten(10) county area which includes Davie County and currently has loans outstanding to farmers, part-time farmers, and rural land owners in excess of eleven million dollars. Mr. Beck stated that the Association would continue to offer long-term mortgage financing to the people in this area.

ONLY DUKE?....In the preseason judging of Atlantic Coast conference football teams, Carolina-largely due to its great depth of good talent-came out as top dog.

In the nation as a whole, Florida was rated among the top twenty teams.

But now that Duke lost a flukish 21-20 decision to the University of Florida down in its own backyard, the writers were saying that Duke could be the big surprise of the season-with the best chance of any team in ACC to take Carolina's measure. There you go.

ON THE MOVE....Although you heard talk of a recession this past summer, the same summer saw more traveling-via car, bus, and plane-than ever before. Everybody is on the move.

Hijacked planes 10,000 miles away will have their goodly scattering of North Carolinians. The Governor and his family take off for Europe with no more fanfare than when they used to travel from Haw River to Greensboro.

And our beaches and mountains are crowded with out-of-staters.

When the N. C. Travel Council meets at High Mountain Inn (Cashiers) on October 18-20, it will hear of new travel records for North Carolina.

Travel is becoming big business.

A painstaking survey recently completed shows that travelers spent $752,000,000 in North Carolina last year. And they paid in various kinds of taxes here a whopping $64,000,000.

BEST TIME?....With the State Fair coming up October 16 with its second nine-day run (used to be only five days)-and football games in the Triangle (Duke, State, and UNC) every Saturday, most people here are looking forward to what they regard as "our best season of the year."

On weekends-these copper days of autumn-the Triangle is jumping...like a teakettle with a full head of steam.

The late John Charles McNeil, once North Carolina's poet laureate, wrote this: "...For him who will seek them, the valleys are his...and the far quiet hills of September."

October, with its "bright blue weather" was Thomas Wolfe's favorite month. Another Tarheel writer wrote: "...Once more they come, those blest October days..." Something about October...month of memories. And this: "Let me go back to where I began, if I can find the place. It was far away and long ago, and there was a kind of grace I may not ever, having grown old, recover."

Mrs. Cornelia Richardson, widow of Lonnie Richardson of the Sheffield Community, celebrated her 97th birthday, September 17th. She is pictured here with her cake which was baked by her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Theodore Richardson. The cake was made to resemble a train with a toy engine and 6 cake coaches. There are 97 candles on the cakes. Mrs. Richardson still crochets and sews some for a past time.
