Of 1973

Davie County's first baby arrived at 12:14 a. m. on New Years Day, at the Davie County Hospital. This is the earliest arrival for the New Years baby in the history of the hospital. Tipping the scales at eight pounds, 11 ounces, the baby girl was delivered by Dr. Ray Hartness. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stanley Vogler of 221 S. Peacehaven Road, Winston-Salem. The baby has been named Sheila Ray, for Dr. Hartness, who also delivered Mrs. Vogler's other three daughters. Mrs. Vogler is the former Dianne Lashmit. (Photo by Barringer).

Great Economic Gains In Davie

Despite the fact that the American economy as a whole has not been operating in high gear in the last five years, Davie County can point to solid progress in the period. A comparison of reports on business activity, running from 1966 to the beginning of this year, especially at the retail level, bear this out. They show that the volume of business done by local merchants was considerably greater at the end of the five years than at the beginning. Part of this rise, of course, was due to higher prices.

The advance was made, however, while people in most parts of the country were pulling in their horns and were refusing to spend money except for their immediate needs and wants. They preferred to put the rest of their disposable cash into savings while waiting for conditions to improve. Although local families, also, were more restrained than usual, they did not tighten up to that extent. As a result, sales in Davie County's retail stores rose in the five-year period from $17,584,000 to $22,695,000, ac-ording to figures from the Standard Rate and Data Service. Related to the local population, the retail sales were equivalent to consumer spending at the rate of $3,764 per household, which was well over the $3,468 spent per household five years ago. Although local people had the same worries and misgivings about economic conditions as people in other areas, what with the mounting cost of living and the large number of persons out of work, they were buoyed up by the fact their wages and salaries were steadily rising, adding to their purchasing power. The figures show that net earnings of Davie County residents rose from $32,488,000 to $50,254,000 in the five year span. The increase, 55 percent, compares with 48 percent in the United States. Currently, in the local area and elsewhere, business is once again on the upswing as the pace of consumer spending quickens. People are buying more cars, wearing more furniture, appliances and other goods and services.

Armed Robbers Loot Store Near County Line

Armed robbery took place at the Sam Jones Grocery and Service, Harmony, Rt. 1, near the Davie County line, last Thursday night.

Around 9:20 p. m. last Thursday, two white men with snub-nosed pistols walked into the store at that time were Mr. and Mrs. Sam Jones, owners, and John Frank Steele of Harmony, Rt. 1, a customer.

The two armed men warned the three that they would be killed if they moved. Mr. and Mrs. Jones and Mr. Steele were herded into the meat freezer compartment.

The two men then reportedly took $3,700 in cash from the store, $200 from Jones and $12 from Steele. Also, reported taken were five wrist watches, seven boxes of .22 calibre cartridges, $210 in change and the keys to the store.

Two men made their get away in Steele's car, a 1965 Mercury Comet which was later found abandoned on NC 901, near US 64 in Davie County.

Detective Sergeant Howard Feinster of the Iredell County Sheriff's Department said the two men were described as being in their early twenties, one around 5-ft. 8-inches weighing around 175 lbs, and the other around 6-ft., weighing around 195 lbs.

Assisting the Iredell Sheriff's Department in the investigation were the State Highway Patrol and the Davie County Sheriff's Department. There have been no arrests, and the investigation is continuing.

Davie Had 8 Fatalities During The Past Year

Davie County had eight highway fatalities during the year 1972. They were:

Mrs. Frank Luper of Advance, Route, was the first highway fatality. Mrs. Luper was driving a 1967 Dodge, February 2nd, enroute home from her work when a 1965 Ford driven by Guy Hartman Wood of Route 1, Advance hit her car head on. Both automobiles were demolished.

The second highway fatality in Davie occurred on snow covered US 64, February 18, 1972. Mrs. Mary Jane Forrest Cope of Advance, Route 2, was killed in a car-truck collision when the car in which she was riding was hit head on by a GMC truck driven by Nathan Bouldin, Jr. of Lenoir.

On US 601, Jimmy Ray Cowan of Woodleaf, Route 1, was killed in a head on collision about seven miles north of Mocksville. Cowan was driving a 1970 Volkswagon heading south and veered across the center line striking a pickup on July 22nd. The Volkswagon was completely demolished. This was Davie County's third highway fatality.

On August 14th, John Stephen Bracken of Mocksville, Route 6, became Davie County's fourth highway fatality. He was driving on NC 801 when the fatality occurred. He was on his way home from work at the time the automobile he was driving overturned.

Davie's fifth highway fatality occurred on August 21st when John Thomas Spillman of Route 4, attempted to slow down his car and apparently lost control and swerved into the path of a tractor-trailer rig on US 601 North.

Interstate 40 was the scene of Davie County's sixth highway fatality on September 18th. A Vanceboro man, Richard Arlen Gaskins, was killed when the tractor-trailer in which he was riding ran through a bridge guardrail into the Yadkin River. Gaskins was thrown from the truck driven by James Henry Carroll of South Carolina.

Jacob Edward (Dick) Lanier of Route 4, was seriously injured Sunday, August 27th when he stepped from the shoulder of Highway US 601 into the path of a car. He became Davie's seventh highway fatality when he died October 19, 1972.

James Everette Draughn of Route 1, Mocksville, died December 1st from injuries received November 21st in a wreck on US 64 West when his car was struck in the left front and side by a car driven by Ronald George Yeakle of Thomasville.

Davie Ambulance Service Made 762 Calls Last Year

The Davie County Ambulance Service made a total of 762 calls during the year 1972.

The biggest month was December when a total of 82 calls were served.

Lonnie Tutterow, Supervisor of the Davie Ambulance Service, reported the monthly breakdown of calls as follows: January 51; February 62; March 63; April 64; May 60; June 62; July 67; August 65; September 51; October 68; November 67; and December 82.

Mr. Tutterow reported that the new ambulance to be added to the fleet was expected most any day now. The new ambulance will be basically white with orange lettering and trimming. On the front of the vehicle the word "Ambulance" will be spelled backwards so it will be easily read by a motorist in the rear-view mirror. The new ambulance will have a new siren, 54-inch headroom with a raised roof. It will be fully equipped with the exception of the radio and this is ready to be installed.

Mr. Tutterow revealed that the federal matching funds would not be given if a used ambulance was traded-in. "So, we will use one of the older vehicles as a backup ambulance," said Mr. Tutterow.

In addition to Mr. Tutterow, the staff of the Davie Ambulance Service includes the following certified drivers and attendants: Luther Ashley, H. C. Myers, Garry Harris. A new member of the staff, Johnny Frye is not yet certified.

1972 Rainfall 55.18 Inches

Davie County had excessive rainfall for the year of 1972 according to a report issued by C. F. Meroney, official measurer for the county.

Rain fall for Davie totaled 55.18 inches for last year. This was 2.35 inches more than 1971 when 52.83 inches were recorded. In 1970, the rainfall for the county was 44.94 inches; for 1969 it was 47.03 inches; and in 1968 it was 37.90 inches.

The average rainfall for the county is approximately 46-inches.

The rainfall for the month of December was 5.45 inches, with .29 of an inch falling the final week. This too was excessive for the month of December as the normal for this month is 3.62 inches.

Fruit Market Robbed

The Mocksville Fruit Market was broken into during the Christmas holidays.

Reported taken was a single barrel shotgun and five pocket knives.

The entrance was reportedly made through a plastic covered window in the rear of the building.

The robbery was discovered when the market opened for business last Thursday morning after being closed since Sunday for the holidays.

Davie Ruritans Gear Up For Drive On Junked Cars

An estimated 5,000 junked cars are rusting beside the highways, tobacco barns and front porches in Davie County. And the Davie County Ruritan Clubs have decided that something should be done about the eyesore.

The Davie County Ruritans which compose of seven clubs are Davie Academy, North Davie, Jericho-Hardison, Sheffield-Calahan, Farmington, Smith Grove and East Davie are having a kick off night January 23, 1973 at 7:00 PM in the courtroom of the county courthouse in Mocksville. The Ruritans are urging every interested citizen to participate in this Project to make it as successful as it possibly can. To encourage citizen support, the Ruritans are showing two short environmental films on junk cars and how they can be recycled. They will have a question and answer period after the two films plus a guest environmentalist from Winston-Salem to participate in answering some of their questions pertaining to junk cars.

A large portion of the junked cars in the County are anticipated to be in its poorer sections because families with extremely low incomes often own a succession of dilapidated vehicles, drive them until they won't budge another foot and leave them to rust wherever they stop. The seven Ruritan Clubs members will be carrying detailed maps of the county with them each time they get in the car for approximately one month to pinpoint the junkers.

They will compare their maps, and hopefully come up with a realistic picture of the problem. After the maps are compiled with the junk cars located, the Ruritans will be asking everyone who owns a junk car that wants it removed to fill out a property release form giving as detailed as possible, directions to the junk cars. This will help to make it easier for Mr. James Butler and his associate of Winston-Salem to locate the junk cars.

Once the cars are picked up by Mr. Butler, he will take them to United Auto Disposal Plan in Kernersville. There the cars are shredded into fist size pieces of steel, loaded into train cars and hauled off to Roanoke, Virginia or sometimes Columbia, South Carolina to be recycled. To recycle some of the heavier and more difficult material to move, takes more time, energy and sometimes money. This program initiated by the Ruritan Clubs to remove junked car to be recycled will not cost any of the citizens a dime. Arrangements have been worked out so that there will be no cost involved with the removal of the junk cars. However, any contributions of gratitude made, to the Ruritans would be greatly appreciated. The Ruritan members just ask that you have patience and your junk cars will be removed.

"Junk cars are aesthetically offensive. Perhaps, the only thing which is uglier than one rusting automobile is a collection of them. In the Piedmont North Carolina, where beauty of the environment has long been so important, the junk car has become one of the greatest detriments to the environment. This is an important reason for doing something about this problem," said Edgar Cartner,

Rape And Robbery Are Reported At Ark Motel

A young man, described as in his late teens or early twenties, is being sought for rape and armed robbery at the Ark Motel in Mocksville on December 27th.

The Davie County Sheriff's Department was called to the Ark Motel around 11 p.m. on this date.

Mrs. Opal Shrewsbury, 52, told officers that a man armed with a gun, raped her and took between $50 to $60 in cash. Mrs. Shrewsbury reportedly was locked in a closet and was later rescued by her daughter-in-law and taken to the emergency room of the Davie County Hospital.

Mrs. Shrewsbury described her assailant as being white and in his late teens or early twenties, around 5-ft 10-inches in height weighing between 100 lbs and 170 lbs, having dark hair with bangs, and wearing overalls and a white sweater jacket.

Davie County Sheriff's Department is investigating the incident.

"The Little Tomboy"

Marcelle Brown 11, of Edgewood Circle, Cooleemee has become daddy's little "Tom" during the past couple of years. She asked for a mini-bike and a guitar for Christmas doing remarkably well with both. Two years ago, Marcelle's wishes were also granted when Santa brought her an air-rifle and boys bicycle. "I really don't think it's because we were expecting a boy before she was born," says her father Clifford (Buster) Frye. "Although we did have a boy's name picked out." "She used to like dolls, but Marcelle loose interest in them very early." Marcelle also likes to play ball... all kinds of ball football, while her younger sister, Sandra, 8, is still quite fond of playing with her dolls.

FISHER BROTHERS . . . Five of the seven Fisher boys, four preachers and one horse-trader, were together on New Years Day for dinner at the home of Rev. Roscoe Fisher in Cooleemee. They are (L-R) Ray, Carl, Roscoe, Earl and June.

The Fisher boys' uncle, Dr. John C. Brown who is a retired optometrist from Salisbury, joined the brothers for dinner. Dr. Brown will celebrate his 98th birthday in April, 1973.

The Fisher Brothers

Five Preachers In One Family!

by Marlene Benson

Five preachers in one family! This must surely be a record . . . and if so, the Fisher brothers hold the title.

There were seven sons born to the late Cora Brown and Luther Fisher during the time they were living on a farm near Faith in Rowan County. Although they never tried to find out if more than five brothers in any other family in the United States have gone through the same seminary and all become ministers, they have yet to meet or hear of a family that can top their record.

Five of the Fisher boys gathered at the home of Rev. Roscoe Fisher in Cooleemee on New Years Day for dinner. All seven had previously made plans to be there, along with their families, but due to unfortunate circumstances, Marcus Fisher of Salisbury and Rev. Herman Fisher of Lexington were unable to attend. The boys uncle, Dr. John R. Brown of Salisbury, who is a retired optometrist, also joined them for the dinner. Dr. Brown will celebrate his 98th birthday in April.

The boys have not all been together since July, 1968, prior to the death of their mother.

What do these preachers talk about when they all get together?

Usually about their two brothers, Marcus and June, who are not preachers.

Rev. Herman Fisher, pastor of Pilgrim Lutheran Church in Lexington, was the first of the boys to go into the ministry.

Then there's the Rev. Ray Fisher (who, by the way, is Herman's twin) former pastor of Augsburg Lutheran Church in Winston-Salem, now retired.

Rev. Roscoe Fisher is the pastor of Cooleemee and Bixby Presbyterian Churches in Davie County, the Rev. Carl Fisher is pastor of Our Saviour's Lutheran Church in Albany, Georgia and the Rev. Earl Fisher of Rocky Mount, who is the chaplain for the Caledonia Department of Corrections in Tillary, N.C.

And then there's June, who the other boys refer to as the "horse-trader". He is associated with Meadowbrook Riding Stables in Charlotte and Marcus, a retired postal clerk, who is still living in Salisbury.

The preachers don't know exactly why they all became preachers, unless it was just in their blood. Roscoe says that during the past 50 years, there have been 28 ministers related to their family. The boys don't think there becoming preachers was due to direct influence over each other.

"In fact," Carl says, "I almost didn't become a preacher because the others did."

"And I almost became an honest man," Earl laughed.

Ray had one year of law and then, he and June went into the horse trading business together.

"We almost went broke", Ray teased his brother.

"Yes, and then you decided to become a preacher", June added.

Brother Roscoe chimed in, "He (Ray) has been broke ever since".

When the Fisher boys get together, they really have a ball. June always has a big yam to spin and they agreed how sorry they were when Marcus was unable to attend this gathering. Marcus, who attended Catawba College in Salisbury and later during World War II served under General Patton, always has a couple of good stories to tell about their childhood.

The boys are all great kidders . . . "But us preachers don't stand a chance when June's around", Carl said.

June began his college education at Catawba and later transferred to the University of North Carolina. At one time, there were four Fishers in school at UNC in Chapel Hill where they ran a riding academy which provided the funds for them to complete their education.

"There is 48 years of higher education in the family",

Roscoe says, "And it certainly runs into a good deal of money."

The boys were all great athletes. June, Carl, Ray and Roscoe were track stars and most of them held a record of some kind for years. Herman held the Virginia State record for the 220 and 440 relay for several years.

Ray and Marcus were football players, also, and Earl was an outstanding place kicker for a couple years at Roanoke College. And the boys are all golfers.

When the Fisher brothers have an occasion to get together, they spend a good deal of the time talking about the memories of their youth and teasing one another about any number of things.

"I'll write a book on them someday", says Roscoe, who is also the author of the Bits of Life column which is presently appearing in a number of daily and weekly papers, "and I'll tell all the things they've been afraid to tell."

1973 License Tags Go On Sale Here

Sale of 1973 licenses began here Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock at N.C. Motor Vehicle License Agency.

The plates for the year will be red on white and over 16,000 have been received for sale, according to Sam Howell, who operates the local agency.

He pointed out all tags will consist of three letters and three numerals and 13 combinations of EHB to EHR have been received. The numerals for each combination will begin with 101 and continue through 999.

In addition, Town of Mocksville license plates will be sold and will cost $1. Persons who reside within the city limits are required to purchase the 1973 tags.

Mr. Howell said his office has been besieged with complaints from many motorists that they have not received their 1973 renewal cards.

He said that all renewal cards will not be sent out from the Motor Vehicles Department in Raleigh until the end of this week and for that reason many have not received their card.

He said if the card is not received by the end of this week that those who need the cards can come to the license agency and get a special application form provided by the state department. He said this must be properly filed out and a renewal card should be received within several days.

Mr. Howell said that all cards when presented for a 1973 tag must be signed and the name of the insurance company and policy number must be shown. He said plates will not be issued unless this information is typed or printed on the card.

He said personal checks will not be accepted in the purchase of plates.

Ruritan District Governor.

There is another good reason for getting rid of junk cars and that is; junk cars individually, or in groups, are a health hazard. Rodents and insects use auto hulks as a hospitable breeding ground. Children sometimes find them an interesting place to play not realizing the danger from rats, rusting metal and broken glass," said Mr. Cartner.

This is a plea for support to help keep your county, Davie County, one of the cleanest and most attractive counties in North Carolina," he concluded.

Did you ever stop to think just what January means as the beginning month of the new year? It was named by the Romans after their God Janus, the God of Beginning, whose festival fell within this month.

He was represented as a double-headed deity with one face looking backward and one looking forward. This is symbolic of the month of January.

It is the month to review your accomplishments of the past year and in which to make resolutions and plans for the new year.

The flower for January is Snowdrops. The stone is garnet. The month has 31 days.

Teach me to turn each bitter fault and grief; Into a lesson that may prove a guard Against temptation, and the bitter foes That lie wait and press the fighter hard.

Teach me to see the little joys of life The beauty of the world each passing day; Teach me wide sympathy and tenderness. That in the end I may most humbly say:

These are some pages, Lord, both clean and white. Writ with good deeds, with sunshine, and with cheer; That Thou may'st put into my eager hands Thy book of days to make a better year.

Let us be serious now as we pray for the New Year: Oh, make me glad dear Lord, that every passing day Brings a clean page in thy book of life;

A chance to turn the blotted pages down And start again, refreshed for the great strife.

Teach me to turn each bitter fault and grief; Into a lesson that may prove a guard Against temptation, and the bitter foes That lie wait and press the fighter hard.

Teach me to see the little joys of life The beauty of the world each passing day; Teach me wide sympathy and tenderness. That in the end I may most humbly say:

These are some pages, Lord, both clean and white. Writ with good deeds, with sunshine, and with cheer; That Thou may'st put into my eager hands Thy book of days to make a better year.

Other samples of Mrs. Baity's work.

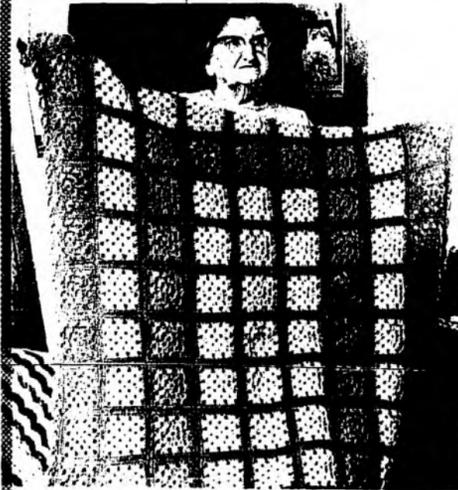

Mrs. Clara Baity of Rt. 2, Advance shows off the 100th. afghan which she recently finished crocheting.

Mrs. Clara Baity...Baltimore Community

The "Afghan Lady"

This crocheted cape is an original design, which she made by looking at a picture.

The "Granny Squares" for this afghan were made individually and then put together one-at-a-time.

Mrs. Clara Baity ... the "Afghan Lady".

This title is not to be taken lightly, because "Miss Clara" has justly earned it.

She recently finished crocheting her 100th afghan and she has the names of those she made them for to prove it.

Number one-hundred was made for her nephew, who in turn will give it to his granddaughter.

Mrs. Baity says she has been crocheting since she was about ten years old prior to the death of her husband four years ago, she also taught him to crochet.

In addition to afghans, she also makes spreads, trivets, bedspreads, capes, sweaters, and pillows to match the afghans and a variety of novelties. The mobile home, in which she lives on Route 2, Advance, is filled to capacity with samples of her handiwork.

In most cases, Mrs. Clara makes up her own design and pattern, by just looking picture. "It would probably be a lot easier to go by directions, but I never do."

She has crocheted more than 200 trivets, which most people use to set hot dishes or pots on and they add a decorative look to the table as well.

To make the trivets, she crochets around the old fashioned jar rubber rings. Mrs. Baity commented, matter of factly, that she had "bought so many jar rubbers the store keepers will think I'm bootleggin."

Although Mrs. Baity was born and reared in Davie County, she and her husband lived in Lewisville until four years ago. After his death she moved back to Advance.

She made most of her afghans (78 to be exact) since she has been in Davie County and numerous other crocheted pieces. One lady alone, gave her an order for 15 afghans to use for gifts.

It takes less than a week, she says to make an afghan. It doesn't take too long to get her housework and cooking done, so she is able to spend a good deal of time on her crocheting.

Of course, the main reason Mrs. Baity can make an afghan is such a short period of time, is because she loves to crochet.

Mrs. Baity spends many hours crocheting which seems to come quite naturally for her.

A Theory About Cell Chemistry

How can some cells in the human body change their chemical output according to the body's needs? Why are some bacteria able to live on any of several different food sources? How does any cell regulate its own internal chemistry?

A mass of experimental observations on this subject had been puzzling scientists for years. Then, in 1961, two French scientists announced a comprehensive theory to explain the data.

When the two men did their work, this much was already known: the cell's genes, made up of a chemical called DNA, contain the codes for the structures of various proteins, and other machinery exists in the cell to read the codes and produce the proteins. These proteins, which are special ones called enzymes, then initiate the cell's chemical reactions with its environment. The question in 1961 was, how does the cell regulate the quantity of each enzyme it produces?

The two scientists, Francois Jacob and Jacques Monod, put forward the idea that some of the genes had regulatory, rather than productive functions. These genes code for special products that can stimulate or inhibit the machinery for enzyme production. Jacob and Monod indicated that a separate regulatory system like this may exist for each enzyme produced by the cell.

So important were the implications of this theory, and so rapidly was it confirmed by others, that the two scientists were awarded the Nobel Prize a mere four years later.

At The Salk Institute, in San Diego, as at other research institutions, this line of work is being pursued now in greater detail. Dr. Suzanne Bourgeois at the Institute is working with Monod and others on studies of the regulation of enzyme production in a common bacterium.

Although most of the work on regulatory genes has been restricted to a few bacterial and virus systems, the available evidence on higher organisms indicates that their cells follow the same general pattern. In fact, the model offers an explanation of the apparent differences among the many cells in one organism. By this model, all the cells in one organism have the same complete set of genes and differ from one another only in which genes are inhibited and which are expressed.

VD—A Prudish Notion!

It is time for us to get over the prudish notion that nice people don't talk about VD. That nice people don't get VD, nor do they associate with people who do. In the upper-income county of Westchester, New York, more than 1,000 gonorrhea infections were reported last year. Many more went undetected or unreported, officially.

North Carolina law permits minors to seek medical treatment for VD without parental consent. If VD is suspected, see your doctor or local health department. Don't ignore the facts. Over 500 died last year of syphilis in the U.S. — again, "officially" speaking!

So, don't take chances. VD can kill you — the treatment won't!

...about your Social Security
by Vernice Fulcher

On my regular visit to the Davie County Courthouse last month I was able to help many senior citizens with social security problems. While busy with one claimant, a rather elderly couple came in. I gave them a little smile and asked them to wait just a few minutes until I could help them. The lady asked if I was the magistrate. I told her I was the Social Security Representative. She smiled real big and said, "We don't need to see you today, we're getting married!" Sure enough, they did just that. Just goes to show that not everyone over 65 is looking for me when they go to the courthouse. None the less, about a week later, the same couple came to our office in Salisbury. The lady wanted to report her marriage and get her name changed.

Although a widow who remarries after age 60 will not have her social security benefits stopped, the amount she receives may change. Sometimes it increases because she is entitled to more on her new husband's record. In other cases, it may be less. It is important for any widow receiving social security benefits to notify the Social Security Office if she remarries.

For more information call or write the Social Security Office, 105 Corriher Avenue, Salisbury, NC 28144. Our telephone number is 633-6470.

Q. Over a year ago, I applied for black lung payments and was denied because my chest X-ray showed no indication of black lung. However, a neighbor told me there's still a chance I might get monthly payments because of a change in the law. Is this true?

A. It's possible. Under the new Federal law, a black lung claim cannot be denied solely on the basis of an X-ray. You won't have to re-apply. The Social Security Administration is now reviewing all previously denied black lung applications. You'll be notified about how your application is affected by the new law and if additional information is needed before a decision can be made.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Smith of Homestead, Florida were honored on their 60th anniversary with an open house at the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lester B. Smith of that city. Mr. and Mrs. Smith were married in Davie County on December 22, 1912 in the Farmington Methodist Church. They moved to Homestead, Florida in 1928 where Mr. Smith became a prominent potato grower. The couple are parents of three sons and one daughter. They are Mr. and Mrs. Lester B. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Ledford, and Mr. and Mrs. Wade V. Letters To The Editor

Dear Sir:

As we end one year and begin another, we are reminded of how deeply indebted to you we are for the courtesy and cooperation you have extended us in our continuing effort to keep your readers abreast of social security matters in which so many have a vital interest. A major revision of the basic social security law, plus a substantial benefit increase with provision for future automatic adjustments tied to the cost of living, came into being in 1972 and we were pleased that you were as eager as we to be sure the people of this area were told about them. Many of these new provisions will take effect during 1973 and we are confident that, with your continued help, we will be able to get the word to those most directly affected by them.

We genuinely appreciate your assistance in the past. Working together in the future, we can be encouraged that no one will be disadvantaged through lack of at least the opportunity to read about changes which apply to him.

To you, your staff and all of your readers, we wish the very best of everything good in 1973!

Sincerely yours,
Robert C. Thomas

Mocksville Enterprise-Record

Dear Editor:

This letter is in protest to the advertisement which the Davie Skyline Mobile Home Sales ran in your paper last week. I work with, and for, many people from Davie County and I have heard several unfavorable remarks both about the Skyline Mobile Home Sales and your paper for running this ad. The Mobile Home Sales profane the name of the very God they were supposed to be honoring at this season. It seems that they would have enough education to express themselves, and to advertise their product without using God's name in profanity. They need to go back to school and learn English. It is a travesty on the very Christmas that it wishes to present as "merry and happy".

I have said, and have heard others say, that if they had been planning to order a mobile home from Skyline Mobile Home Sales, after reading this advertisement, the plans would be changed and the mobile home ordered from another company.

We have been sending the Enterprise-Record to two of our children who live thousands of miles away. This we do with pride in our county paper and we shall continue to do so, but the copy referred to in this letter we did not send, for we were ashamed to do so.

Sincerely,
Lessie York
(Mrs. James R. York)

Dear Editor:

We the undersigned are opposed to the profanity used in the Skyline Mobile Home Sales Advertisement.

Department of ART, CULTURE, and HISTORY
Sam Ragan, Secretary

Plans are currently being laid for the second North Carolina Photographic Competition and Exhibition.

Sponsored by the North Carolina Arts Council, a division of the Department of Art, Culture and History, the first exhibition was held in 1970 and premiered at the State Fair. It then toured the state being shown at shopping centers, libraries, galleries; colleges, high schools, and other places where people gathered.

Full details of the 1973 event will be announced later this month, and the competition will be open free of charge to all North Carolina photographers, both professional and amateur. Judging will be by three out-of-state, professional photographers.

Tentative plans call for adoption of an exhibition theme dealing with North Carolina's past, present, and future. A definite title and more specific guidelines will be announced later. In addition to the primary exhibition, several prominent photographers will be invited to exhibit examples of their work out of the past for which they would most like to be remembered.

Exhibition entries, which will include prints in both black-and-white and in color, will be judged in June. It is anticipated that approximately 120 photographs will be selected for showing, and ten gold medals will go to the top winners, each accompanied by a cash prize of $100.

Following the initial showing,

To the Editor:

The December 21st, 1972 issue of the Davie County Enterprise-Record carried a half-page advertisement of Davie Skyline Mobile Homes Sales, which is very distasteful to say the least to all right-thinking people. Obviously a Christmas greeting, the beauty and sacredness of the message is completely nullified by the profanity with which it is couched. There are still some people today whom such gutter type language is repulsive.

We who read the Enterprise are greatly surprised that a newspaper of the high caliber and influence as yours would use an advertisement couched in such language, and we strongly protest it.

Sincerely yours,
Mr. and Mrs. W.A. Kirk

Rowan Tech Offers Course In Macrame'

A course in macrame' will be offered during the winter quarter at Rowan Technical Institute, according to an announcement by David W. Butler, coordinator of adult programs.

Macrame' is a captivating art of decorative knotting. There are limitless possibilities of items that can be made from simple knots such as belts, handbags, jewelry, wall hangings, floor mats, and lamp shades. The class will begin on Tuesday 9, from 10:00 a.m. until 12:00 noon for seven weeks, ending February 20. Mrs. Neita Frank will be the instructor. The first class will be an instruction period, so no materials are necessary for the first class.

Any adult 18 years old of age or older and whose original high school class has graduated is eligible to enroll in this course. Class space is limited. To pre-register, contact the Continuing Education Division of Rowan Tech. Space will be reserved for those who pre-register. ... about your Social Security
by Vernice Fulcher

On my regular visit to the Davie County Courthouse last month I was able to help many senior citizens with social security problems. While busy with one claimant, a rather elderly couple came in. I gave them a little smile and asked them to wait just a few minutes until I could help them. The lady asked if I was the magistrate. I told her I was the Social Security Representative. She smiled real big and said, "We don't need to see you today, we're getting married!" Sure enough, they did just that. Just goes to show that not everyone over 65 is looking for me when they go to the courthouse. None the less, about a week later, the same couple came to our office in Salisbury. The lady wanted to report her marriage and get her name changed.

Although a widow who remarries after age 60 will not have her social security benefits stopped, the amount she receives may change. Sometimes it increases because she is entitled to more on her new husband's record. In other cases, it may be less. It is important for any widow receiving social security benefits to notify the Social Security Office if she remarries.

For more information call or write the Social Security Office, 105 Corriher Avenue, Salisbury, NC 28144. Our telephone number is 633-6470.

Any refund due will come directly to you.

Q. Over a year ago, I applied for black lung payments and was denied because my chest X-ray showed no indication of black lung. However, a neighbor told me there's still a chance I might get monthly payments because of a change in the law. Is this true?
A. It's possible. Under the new Federal law, a black lung claim cannot be denied solely on the basis of an X-ray. You won't have to re-apply. The Social Security Administration is now reviewing all previously denied black lung applications. You'll be notified about how your application is affected by the new law and if additional information is needed before a decision can be made.

GOD'S FIVE MINUTES

PICTURES OF SILVER

The day is loveliest when it first opens its eyelids. In the creation itself God noted the beginning of the day when He caused to be written, "The morning and the evening were the first day."

Each of these parts of the day has a special beauty. Between them God makes His distribution of the daily manna which is sweetest when it is gathered before the sun gets hot. Just as the morning has a peculiar freshness and charm, so the evening meets us with silent shades of shadows from which the star-studded sky suddenly bursts upon us.

Psalm 92:1-2 says: "It is a good thing to give thanks unto Jehovah, and to sing praises unto His name. He shows forth His loving-kindness in the morning and His faithfulness every night." Thus, no hour of the day is too late for praise. The end of a day is not the end of gratitude.

God's loving kindness is in the morning. His faithfulness in the night calls forth from all His creatures a song of thanksgiving.

"You've got to live every day to the fullest. . . as if you were going to live forever!" . . . says Jo Cooley.

Retires From Mayfair Beauty Shop. . .

Jo Cooley

Jo Cooley, owner and an operator of the Mayfair Beauty Shoppe in Mocksville for more than 34 years, has retired.

"Not because I want to," Jo says with regret, "but for health reasons, I must!"

Those who know Miss Martha Josephine Cooley (known affectionately as Jo) would be willing to bet their bottom dollar she'll never completely retire.

Jo sits on her own two wheels. Each and every day she challenges doctors who said she'd spend the rest of her life in bed and be no more than a human vegetable.

She is a paraplegic, resulting from an automobile accident in 1942 which left her paralyzed from the waist down and confined to a wheelchair.

Complications from the accident have continued to put numerous obstacles in her path. And now, after 41 operations and seven broken legs, Jo has sold her four-operator beauty shop to her cousin, Jewell McClamrock, who has been with Jo for 15 years.

The shop will continue to operate under the same name, Mayfair Beauty Shoppe.

"I never dreamed I'd retire," Jo commented. "But since July, I would be in the hospital three weeks and out one week."

"And if I could get in there and do the work myself, I wouldn't give it up for anything."

Jo says she gave her first haircut when she was only ten years old. "I've always loved this work. It's in my blood and I'll never get it out."

When Jo first opened the Mayfair Beauty Shoppe on Court Square, there was only one other shop in Davie County. It was in Cooleemee, owned and operated by Mrs. Mae Howard.

She had only been working three years when the accident occurred. Jo was determined to make it on her own, not because of her paraplegia . . . but in spite of it.

The wheelchair didn't slow her down in the least. "If you're lazy, you'll still be lazy."

and I don't think being in a wheelchair is going to change you."

"You should do the best with what you've got," she says philosophically.

Prior to her retirement on December 30, 1972, she worked as much as her health would permit.

Time was, she says, when she worked ten to 12 hours a day. Her day would start at 6 p.m. and many days she'd work till midnight and loved every minute of it. "In case of an emergency, I'd take anybody at anytime."

Jo gives a great deal of credit to her operators for her successful business. "I couldn't have done all I've done if it had not been for my operators."

"I wanted to run a good shop or not at all," she says. And she kept up with the latest hair styles in order to do this. She loves to travel and attending all the cosmetology conventions is right down her alley. She especially looked forward to the national convention held in New York each year.

She plans to continue attending as many conventions as possible in order to keep in touch with so many dear friends.

Although she says she has officially retired, she very quickly commented on how much she loves "haircutting". "I may continue to do a little of this," she smiled. "I have done as many as 22 heads of hair a day since I've been in my wheelchair."

"People say that I'll have a pair of scissors in my coffin," she joked.

Jo worked just as hard as any one of her operators and in the same fashion, except for a lower shampoo bowl and chair suited to her wheelchair level.

Jo plans to keep her apartment which connects to the beauty shop, therefore, she'll be able to see her old customers and friends regularly.

Jo says there are a great many of her faithful customers who have never been in another beauty shop. In fact, when she first opened her shop in Mocksville, business doubled the very first month, and has continued to be good since.

"If I'd enlarged as business demanded, I could have worked 12 operators," she said. But Jo was always more interested in pleasing the customers she already had, than adding to her volume of business.

Even with the decision of selling the shop, her customers were her main consideration. "An outsider would probably raise the price," she commented. "I'd rather sell locally and keep the prices the same because a lot of my customers are on social security."

This is typical of Jo Cooley... regardless of the tragedy facing her, she never thinks of herself, but rather what she can do for someone else.

Regardless of the contributions she makes to others, she doesn't want any praise for it. There have been numerous newspaper stories and articles written about the work she has done in Mocksville, Davie County and even the entire state... and always she tells the reporter she doesn't want to be "painted as a saint or made to look in such a way that people will feel sorry for me."

"I have learned over the years that the worst disability of all is self-pity."

Everyone who knows Jo treats her as a normal person and expects her to do just as much as anyone else. She gets around on her own two wheels just as anyone else does on their own two legs.

She says it is most important to educate others "to let the handicapped do for themselves and not rob them of their independence. This is the unkindest thing you can do."

Jo's advice to other paraplegics is first of all, "getting them to accept their disabilities" and to make them see, as she does, "that being in a wheelchair does not make them invalids."

One of Jo's main concerns over the years has been educating the public.

The average person doesn't give a second thought to "walking up and down a few steps to get someplace. But those steps are like a closed door to the handicapped."

The town of Mocksville is now completely barrier free, thanks to Jo. She organized two benefit wheelchair basketball games to help pay for the construction of ramps to public buildings in town and to send brochures to architects explaining how to eliminate architectural barriers.

Jo laughed as she told how the story got out "that I put the mayor and county commissioners in wheel chairs to see how far they could go. The story wasn't true, but it sounded so good that I didn't deny it."

Mocksville is now known as the most "Architectural Barrier Free Town in North Carolina."

She also played a big role in securing the adoption of a plan to eliminate barriers to public-owned buildings throughout the state. She was partially responsible for the N. C. Paraplegic Association being organized about 20 years ago. In fact, she was their first president, and is still active in the association today.

She served on the Board of Directors for the Easter Seal Association and in 1970 was selected by the Governor's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped as the Handicapped Citizen of the Year.

For many years she spearheaded the local bloodmobile visit, taught Sunday School at the local Methodist Church, did volunteer work at the local hospitals, played an active part in the local N. C. Symphony Drive and has made countless speeches before civic groups on the rehabilitation and employment of the handicapped.

She made an appeal to Gov. Bob Scott for additional funds for the rehabilitation program.

Jo was inducted into the N. C. Cosmetology Hall of Fame in May, 1972; she received the President's Committee Citation for Meritorious Service in appreciation for exceptional contribution in furthering the employment of the handicapped in 1970; a recipient of the National Volunteer Awards in 1971; and a member of the Governor's Committee on Architectural Barriers (which Jo says is one of the most important). They go to Raleigh four or five times a year.

Jo has always been an optimist and being in a wheelchair hasn't changed her. She has always been noted for her great sense of humor and winning smile. Many times when she was a patient in the hospital, friends would visit her to cheer her up... and in many cases Jo did a great deal of the "cheering up."

Jo Cooley is not about to retire from work... She is already making plans to get into "rehabilitation work with the handicapped or retarded children", just as soon as her health will permit.

She says Dr. Eben Alexander, a neurosurgeon at Baptist Hospital in Winston-Salem and a long-time friend, is already making plans which will include her services.

"When he learned of my retirement, he let me know that he wasn't sorry. He has plenty for me to do."

She is planning to work on the bloodmobile program and expressed a desire to run a "free taxi service" for all the elderly people with no means of transportation.

During her last confinement at Davie County Hospital, about a month ago, Jo says, "I found myself thinking about dying."

She is now on the strongest antibiotic they have for a chronic kidney ailment, but she says, "as long as the antibiotic holds out, I'll keep going."

"I've got to be up and at 'em, or I couldn't stand it and I fully intend to keep busy at something."

Jo loves to travel, but hasn't been able to go as much this past year. She usually puts about 15,000 miles a year on her car, but the speedometer only shows 5,000 for last year.

In 1947, Jo got the first hand operated automobile in North Carolina and would go anywhere and everywhere all by herself. The car is equipped with a hydraulic lift to move her wheelchair in and out of the car.

Jo doesn't have any trouble getting things done around the apartment, but Miss Lela Moore, who has been her live-in housekeeper for the past 28 years, does most of the cooking and housework. Jo says she does what Miss Lela tells her to do... "I mind her pretty good."

She has always kept up all her business bookwork and made the deposits for the government, in addition to her other chores. She has always kept herself busy at something that needed to be done. The bookwork from the shop was one of the roughest things to keep up when she was sick... but as usual, if Jo sets her head to do something, there's no stopping her.

While lying in the hospital, Jo says she came to the conclusion that "you gotta live everyday to the fullest... as if you are going to live forever."

And those who know Jo... know that she will continue to do just that... even in retirement!

Satchwell To Continue On Board

Branch Banking Names Gregory President

Thorne Gregory became president of Branch Banking and Trust Company on January 1, 1973. The Board of Directors, at its April meeting in Wilson, named Mr. Gregory successor to J.L. Satchwell who has been president since 1964. Mr. Satchwell's banking career spans 46 years, and he will continue to serve on the Executive and Trust Committees of the bank and as a member of the Board of Directors.

Branch Banking and Trust Company, established in Wilson in 1872, operates 60 offices in 35 North Carolina cities and towns and has total assets in excess of $340,000,000.

Thorne Gregory Prior to his move to Wilson last summer, Mr. Gregory was senior vice president in charge of BB&T's offices in the Raleigh Area. Mr. Gregory joined the staff of the Bank of Halifax in 1956. When that bank merged into Branch Banking and Trust Company in 1968, he was named a vice president, elected to the Board of Directors, and assigned to the Wilson Office for several months. In 1969 he was transferred to Raleigh and named officer in charge there in 1970.

Mr. Gregory is a native of Halifax, a graduate of Fishburne Military School, the University of North Carolina, the North Carolina School of Banking, and the Executive Program conducted by the School of Business Administration at the University. He served as pilot and instructor in the Air Force from 1952 until 1956 and was discharged as a first lieutenant.

Mr. Gregory served five terms as a member of the North Carolina House of Representatives and during successive sessions was committee chairman of Federal and Interstate Cooperation, Banks and Banking, Highway Safety, and Finance. He has served on the Advisory Budget Commission, the Federal and Interstate Cooperation Commission and is currently a member of the Governor's Commission on Aviation and the Atlantic States Marine and Fisheries Commission.

He is chairman of the Legislative Committee of the North Carolina Bankers Association, a member of the board of Halifax County Hosiery Mills, Roanoke River Basin Association and, while in Raleigh, he served as a board member of the Rex Hospital Foundation, the Raleigh Chamber of Commerce and Raleigh Merchants Bureau. His memberships include Christ Episcopal Church, Kiwanis Club, American Legion, the Carolina Country Club of Raleigh and the Wilson Country Club.

Mrs. Gregory is the former Hester Lockett of Brenham, Texas. The Gregorys and their four children reside in Wilson.

J.L. Satchwell Mr. Satchwell became president of Branch Banking and Trust Company on January 1, 1964. He began his banking career in Washington, North Carolina, in 1926, and joined the BB&T Goldsboro staff in 1932. He remained there six years until Branch Banking and Trust Company assumed the deposit liabilities of the Bank of Fremont. Mr. Satchwell was sent there to manage the Fremont Office and to liquidate the remaining assets for the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. In 1950 he was transferred to the Home Office in Wilson as a vice president and was elected to the Board of

Thorne Gregory

J.L. Satchwell

Directors a year later. In 1957 he was promoted to senior vice president and cashier of the Wilson Office.

Expansion of facilities, operations and services has been significant during Mr. Satchwell's administration. The nine years of his tenure have seen the bank grow from an Eastern North Carolina institution into a Statewide banking system, assets have increased approximately 133 percent, and 25 new offices have been opened, including a seven story home office building in Wilson. Approval has also been received for the bank to establish offices in Greenville, Lexington, Jamesville and the Research Triangle.

The Southern Banker, a monthly magazine serving twelve states, selected Mr. Satchwell Banker of the Month for December 1971.

Mr. Satchwell has worked for many years with organizations and groups devoted to maintaining a healthy business climate in North Carolina, and he has been instrumental in the economic growth and general betterment of the State. He has served as a director of Wilson County Industrial Development Foundation, director and past president of Wilson County Industrial Development Corporation, and is a director and member of the Executive Committee of the North Carolina Citizens Association. He is a past president of the Wilson Chamber of Commerce, and has held positions of leadership on the Wilson Industrial Council, Fremont Rotary Club and Wilson Kiwanis Club. He is a director of Dewey Brothers, Inc., of Goldsboro, a member of the Newcomen Society in North America, and has been active in church work as a member of the Christian Science Church. He has served the North Carolina Bankers Association as a member of the Executive Committee, the Legislative Committee, and in various other committee assignments. He has been listed for a number of years in Who's Who in America and Who's Who in Banking.

Mrs. Satchwell is the former Elizabeth Rhea Dewey of Goldsboro. The Satchwells have one daughter, Mrs. Richard T. Smith of Wilson, and three grandchildren.

USDA To Survey Flower Gardens

The annual survey of commercial flower and foliage plant production and sales value will begin in early January, the U. S. Department of Agriculture announced this week.

Flower growers in 23 States will be asked by the Statistical Reporting Service to report 1972 area in production and value of sales for carnations, roses, chrysanthemums, gladioli and foliage plants. Growers will also be asked to report their intentions to produce these crops in 1973. Information on the area in production has been added to the survey to provide the floriculture industry with improved and more detailed statistics for measuring changes.

Results of this survey will be published by the Statistical Reporting Service on April 13, 1973.

The flower business in the United States is sizable. In 1971, total value at wholesale of the four important flowers and of foliage plants estimated in the 23 major producing States amounted to $241,000,000.

Continued success of the survey program depends upon the voluntary cooperation of flower producers.

Davie Plays At North Rowan Friday Night

The Davie High basketball teams will resume North Piedmont Conference action on Friday night in a pair of games at North Rowan. On Tuesday night, January 9th, South Iredell will be here in two games.

Both Davie boys and girls now stand tied for third in the conference with 2 wins and 1 loss.

Last week Coach Bob Henry's Davie boys participated in the high school division of the Catawba College Christmas basketball tourney.

The title was won by West Rowan as they defeated the East Rowan Mustangs 53 to 48 in the finals.

Teams participating in the tournament included West Rowan, East Rowan, North Rowan, South Rowan, Salisbury High School and Davie.

In the opening round, Davie nudged North Rowan High's Cavaliers 40-37 to move into the semi-final round.

In this game Davie got off to a fast start and turned back a pair of North Rowan rallies to win. Doug Quarles was high scorer for Davie with 14 points, followed by Robert Anderson with 12.

Jeff Ward (14) of Davie tries to get a shot away against North Rowan in the opening round of the Catawba Christmas tourney last Wednesday night. Davie defeated North Rowan in this game 40-37.

In the consolation game last Friday night, South Rowan nipped the War Eagles 45-43 by hitting two clutch free throws with only seven seconds remaining in the game. These shots erased a tremendous comeback rally by Davie.

With 6:02 left in the third quarter, South Rowan led 29-19, Davie made its move.

Jeff Ward connected on a jump shot and a lay-in, Doug Quarles hit on a lay-in and a jump shot and Paul Andrews made a three-point play to lift Davie to a 30-29 lead.

The game was close the rest of the way with neither team leading by more than 2 points. Davie's last lead was at 43-41 after Quarles hit a pair of charity tosses. However, the War Eagles could not score again in the last 3:07 of the game. Davie had two chances to go up with 1:37 to go, but Robert Anderson missed a free throw. Then again with 48 seconds remaining, Ward missed the front end of a one-and-one. South Rowan then knotted the score at 43-41 and the two successful free throws in the final seven seconds provided the winning margin.

Doug Quarles led the scoring with 21 points and was the only Davie player in double figures. Paul Andrews had 13 rebounds and 21 points and was the only experienced skier even doesn't know or understand some of the basics of skiing. So as we're getting started skiing we'll go over some of these basics for the newcomer and as a review for the pros.

Doug Quarles Is All-Tournament

Doug Quarles of Davie was selected on the high school all-tourney team in the Catawba Indian Basketball Classis last week.

Quarles was a standout for the War Eagles in all three games scoring 14, 15 and 21 points.

Paul Drechsler of West Rowan was voted the most valuable high school player.

Others named to the high school all-tourney team were: Al Simons and Doug Wilson of West Rowan; Mark Kester of East Rowan.

The World of Skiing by Eric DeGroat Director of Skiing, Appalachian Ski Mountain

We've found that even the experienced skier often doesn't know or understand some of the basics of skiing. So as we're getting started skiing we'll go over some of these basics for the newcomer and as a review for the pros.

As soon as you get your rental skis (or arrive with your own pair), adjust your binding to your boot size and then stand your skis on their tails in the racks outside the building. This will allow the skis to cool so they will not collect ice and snow on the bottoms when you put them on to ski.

Make sure you have the Albery (runaway or safety) straps. When you're ready to go, buckle them around your ankle or boottop. This keeps the ski from running away down the slope when your boot releases from your binding. Every skier must have these straps to protect other skiers from the runaway loose ski.

Your poles must have baskets on the lower end to keep them from going too deep in the snow. The baskets also allow the poles to be used in deep snow.

The length of the pole makes a difference in the effect of the pole when it is planted in a turn. Extremely long poles are used in cross-country skiing to enable the skier to take long strides.

One method used to measure the length of pole you need is to have the handle come to your elbow. The rental departments at all the slopes will advise you as to the proper length of poles for you. Many have large-lettered charts hanging above the pole counter giving the proper length of pole for a person's height.

Poles are properly held by passing the hand up thru the loop of the pole and then by bringing the thumb and the index finger down on either side of the handle to grasp the pole. The strip will be thru the palm of the hand and be held against the hand. If you have the strap on properly your hand will rest in the loop of the strap.

On the slopes, after your boots release from the bindings, make sure there is no snow on the bottom of your boot or on the ski where the boot fits before you put your boot back in the binding. This will make the bindings go on better and it will assure you that your release will work like it should.

The skis should have an anti-friction device about the ball of the foot. It is slick and it reduces the area of contact between the boot and the ski. The anti-friction device gives a 300 per cent better release action on the binding. Be sure that you have this on the skis that you use and that it is working properly.

Using the rope tow and the chair lift are no easy task since it is difficult for the novice skier to do anything on the skis.

When you're using the tow or the chair lift, be aware of the flow of traffic toward the loading point. Stay away from that area while you're skiing, go to the line when you want to go back up the slope.

With the rope tow, you are pulled like in water skiing and all you have to do is hold the skis between you and the top of the hill. Be ready to go. Have your poles around the wrist of the hand furthest from the rope. Keep your knees flexed and use two hands and just hold the rope. Don't pull on the rope, it will only cause you to slide up the rope and make you sit down.

Also, it is important not to grab the rope too hard, especially at the start. Just tighten your hands easily so that you begin to move slowly. Now you'll feel how good your gloves or mittens are. The rope is very hard on the hands.

After your start going up the hill on the tow, just stand on the skis, using the edges to keep you in the track where the tow slants towards the slope. You can move your feet and use the rope as a support.

Later, you'll learn to place one hand in front and the other behind you and you'll find that this way you'll stand up straighter and that this is not as tiring a ride.

With the chair lift, have the poles in the outside hand as you sit. The chair should pick you up from the knees, so if you'll sit down you should be in the seat.

Watch and be careful where you stand to sit down in the chair. If you stand too far to the front or the back, the chair will hit you in the back or in the back of the thighs—something making it harder to get seated properly in the chair. Also always keep your ski tips up, so that you don't catch them under something or somebody.

As you approach the unloading point, again be ready and keep your ski tips up. On touchdown, place your inside hand on the seat and just stand on the skis, the lift will push you and then you can slide away. Don't expect the lift to hold you up. It will push you along, but you were going at that speed anyway. Don't put your poles in your hand until you have cleared the unloading, as you might hit people behind you with them in the transfer.

Next week will have basics of standing, turning, and going uphill on the skis.

Coach Bob Henry Speaks To The Mocksville Rotary Club

Coach Bob Henry discussed the boys basketball program and Davie High for members of the Rotary Club, Tuesday. Coach Henry termed "inconsistency" as the biggest problem encountered to date by the varsity.

"During the first six games, we have played every boy in the effort to find the right consistent combination. We have learned from this, and our team should get stronger as the year progresses.

Coach Henry pointed out that at Davie High, basketball was not a year round sport and that always the boys basketball program must await the termination of the football season.

He explained the various purposes and function of the freshmen, jayvee and varsity programs. He pointed out that the local freshmen team was finding it difficult to get games this year due to the organization of freshmen leagues by the surrounding counties.

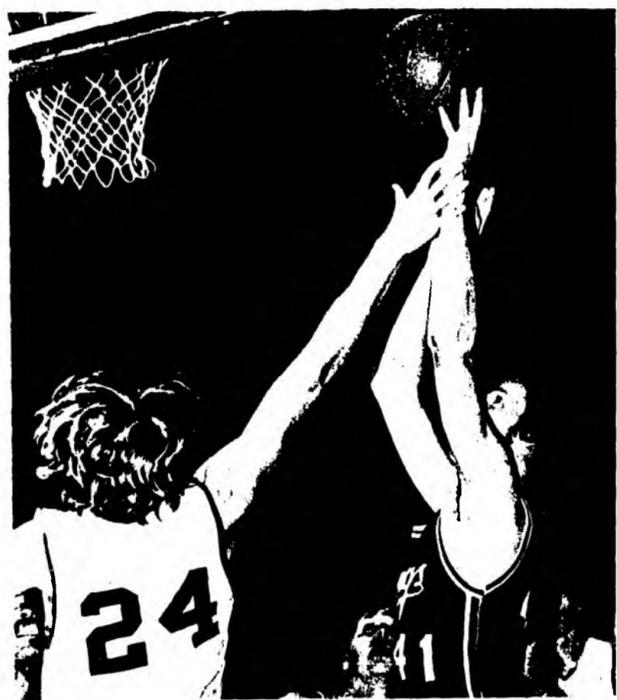

Ken Sales had charge of the program and introduced Coach Henry. President Wayne Eaton presided. Special guests included Paul Reynolds and Henry Hobson of Salisbury; Frank Haas of Statesville.

States' High Schools Appear Headed For One Athletic Association By '74

The vote, as widely predicted, appears headed for an overwhelming majority in favor of one association to administer athletic programs in North Carolina's public high schools.

"I would estimate the difference as roughly six or seven to one," said assistant State Supt. Bob Strother, who is conducting the poll among principals and superintendents.

He estimated some 50 principals and about 15 superintendents had failed to return their ballots on the issue approved by the State Advisory Committee on Athletics at its last meeting.

"Not all those opposing one belong to the Western North Carolina High School Activities Association," revealed Strother. "We've had a few administrators in other areas who favor setting up their own little association." What seems to be the chief obstacle of those voting against one?

The assistant state superintendent supplied the answer.

"They fear they'll be paired with school not to their financial advantage in competition," confirmed Strother. He's finding that to be the prevalent reason most give while sitting down with each superintendent who voted "No."

With the final tally yet to be announced, plans call for the findings to be presented to the State Board of Education at its next meeting on Jan. 4. If that group follows the recommendation of State Superintendent Dr. Craig Phillips, then machinery will put in motion to place all of North Carolina's public high schools under one athletic roof. What will be the timetable? Likely 12-18 months or in time for the 1974 football season.

"We don't want to rush things if the State Board approves one," declared Strother, adding "we would want to explore all avenues toward accomplishing such an organization. Some seem to think we may be trying to assume control of athletics in North Carolina, but I can assure you that is not true."

"The State Board of Education simply would not have sufficient time to handle such a program, and furthermore we have every confidence in the world in the board of control that would decide policy for its association."

Meanwhile, the Western North Carolina High School Activities Association and its 43-member association appears to be living on borrowed time.

Four conferences—North Piedmont, South Piedmont, Northwestern and Southwestern—make up the WNCHSAA, with headquarters in Winston-Salem and W.C. Clary as executive secretary.

Davie High School is a member of the NPC, and voted against the merger of the Western North Carolina High School Activities Association and the North Carolina High School Athletic Association earlier this year.

voted against the merger, in a meeting at Mooresville, last spring.

Currently, there are two associations in North Carolina—the Western North Carolina High School Activities Association with 43 members and the North Carolina High School Athletic Association with some 340 members.

WESTERN OUTLAW FROM THE EAST
By Lawrence Reavis
One of the best-known Western outlaws was "Billy-the-Kid." This great "Western" outlaw was actually from about as far East as you can be in this country. He was born in New York City as William H. Bonney in 1859, and his family moved West to Coffeyville, Kansas in 1862.
He was credited unofficially with killing 21 persons, but less than a dozen murders are authenticated. It is believed that the number of persons he killed was greatly exaggerated. It is possible that he killed very few men.

Sonny Miller . . .

Christmas On Time... This Year!

By Marlene Benson

Christmas was extra special this year at the Cletus Miller home on Salisbury Road, Mocksville...mainly because little four-year-old Sonny was home... healthy and looking forward to Santa's annual visit.

On Christmas morning, 1971, Sonny was recovering from open heart surgery in the Baptist Hospital.

Although he came through the surgery remarkably well, the Millers, including his sister Lynn and brother Eddie, celebrated Christmas on December 30, after Sonny came home.

As they were preparing for Santa's arrival this past year, Mr. and Mrs. Miller reminisced about the previous Christmas in the hospital and commented on how "happy and thankful we were this year to have Sonny in good health.

Sonny still has the defect, with which he was born, of course, his father told, "but it is so much better that he now can live a normal life."

"He is just as active as any normal four-year-old boy... and with no restrictions," Mr. Miller continued.

"He never seems to get tired and taking a nap is out of the question, in fact, it's hard to get him to bed at night."

The doctors told Mr. and Mrs. Miller that Sonny will have to take his heart medicine (digitalis) the rest of his life, in all probability, and although, it will not correct the defect, it will help keep the faulty valve regulated.

Sonny played on the living room floor with his "whole bunch of cars, trucks, bulldozer and dump truck" completely unaware of the conversation in his presence.

Another favorite gift from Santa is his "Big Wheel", which Sonny had parked on the car port beside the family car... and according to his father, has really been given a "work-out" since Christmas.

Mrs. Mamie Myer's family met at the home of her son-in-law and daughter Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Robertson on Christmas Eve for their family party and supper. Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Vogler and son Frankie; Mr. and Mrs. Dick Vogler and children Dickie and Kelly; Mr. and Mrs. Medford Shoaf and children Melany and Brent. The high-light of the occasion was when Mrs. Myers, who is 80 years old, recited a recitation she said at the Elbaville Church Christmas program when she was a child of 10 years of age. A family member recorded Mrs. Myer's recitation on tape at the party this Christmas.

Kenneth Burton of North Dakota arrived home December 21st to spend the holidays with his family, Mrs. Burton and children Blaine and Gina. Mr. Burton is connected with Western Electric Company in North Dakota and returned to his work on January 2nd.

Mrs. Lizzie Marklands family met at her home on Christmas Day for a family dinner. Approximately 25 people enjoyed the happy occasion with 5 of her 6 children and their families attending. During the day Mrs. Marklands son John (who was the only absent member) called from his home in Yakima, Washington to wish his mother and other family members a Merry Christmas!

Mrs. Sebon Cornatzer and Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Holder have returned from a week of visiting Mr. and Mrs. Joe Foster in Jacksonville, Florida. Mr. and Mrs. Foster own and train many greyhounds which they race at the tracks in Jacksonville. "Jo-Bill" is the name of their kennel. Mrs. Cornatzer reports they attended many races last week at Orange Park track in Jacksonville, and at each race the dogs from "Jo-Bill" kennels were winners.

The family of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Shutt gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Collette in Winston-Salem on Christmas Eve for their annual family party and supper, and gift exchange. Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Shutt, Miss Laura Shutt, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Zimmerman, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bennett, Miss Cynthia Bennett, Bradley Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Bennett of Mocksville Rt. 3, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene West of Laurel, Maryland, Miss Jeanne Collette of A. S. U. in Boone, Mrs. Brenda Hill of Long Island, New York, Mr. and Mrs. Chris Farley of Arlington, Virginia, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Hendrix of Union, South Carolina. On December 27th Mr. and Mrs. Bob Collette and children Kim and Kelly of Fort Walton Beach, Florida arrived at their parents home in Winston-Salem for a visit. Little Kelly is only 3 weeks old, arriving on Dec. 8th and weighing 9 lbs. On Thursday night the Bill Zimmermans took Mr. and Mrs. Walter Shutt over to the Collettes home to see their new great granddaughter. Mrs. E. L. Alston of Greensboro and Mrs. Bruce Morrison of Lexington, Virginia spent last Thursday with Mrs. H. B. Cornatzer. In the afternoon they visited Miss Garna Clark at Lynn Haven Nursing Home in Mocksville.

SOYBEANS MAY BE WORTH MORE TO DAIRYMEN AS FEED INSTEAD OF CASH GRAIN

Guy S. Parsons Extension Dairy Husbandry Specialist N.C. State Univ.

Now that the price of soybean meal is relatively high, whole soybeans may have more value to dairymen as protein supplements than they are worth on the market. Whole soybeans can substitute for soybean meal or commercial supplements for dairy herds.

The following shows the relative estimated composition of soybeans and soybean meal:

Soybean meal (percent crude protein) 44 percent, 80 (Therms estimated net energy per 100 lbs.)

The figures in the table indicate why ground soybeans can serve as a substitute for a high-protein supplement such as soybean meal. The figures also show that whole soybeans are higher in estimated net energy than soybean meal. From a protein standpoint, soybeans are worth about 86 percent as much as soybean meal (44 percent) because of their lower protein content. To determine the value of soybeans as a protein supplement, multiply the price of 1 pound of 44 percent soybean meal by 0.86, and then multiply that result by 60 to get the value per bushel. For example, when soybean meal is $7 cwt., the price of a pound of soybean meal is 7 cents. Then the value of 1 pound of whole soybeans is 7 cents times 0.86 equaling 6 cents. Then 6 cents times 60 (60 lbs. in a bushel) equals $3.60, which is the value of a bushel of whole soybeans based on its protein content.

Since the addition of whole soybeans in place of soybean meal will increase the TDN or energy content of the grain mixture, an additional allowance of about 10 cents per bushel could be added to give credit for the increased energy when using whole soybeans.

Feeding soybeans should not cause problems if reasonable care is taken in feeding. You should know that:

1. Soybeans should be ground or cracked to enable the cow to properly digest them. If not ground, most of the soybeans will pass through the cow undigested.

2. Soybeans are not as palatable as soybean meal; also, rations with soybeans are slightly laxative; therefore, it may be best to restrict the percentage of soybeans in the grain mixture to no more than 20 to 25 percent.

3. If you mix your own rations, replace each pound of soybean meal with 1.2 lb. of raw beans.

4. The amount of soybeans should be increased gradually into the grain mix.

5. When feeding whole soybeans, the requirements for vitamin A and E may be greater. By supplementing each ton of grain ration with 4 to 6,000,000 I.U. of vitamin A and 8,000,000 I.U. of vitamin E, the requirements can be met.

6. Feed containing ground or cracked soybeans should not be stored much longer than one week in hot weather. The oil in the ground soybeans can become rancid and unacceptable to cattle if stored too long.

7. Mixing cracked or ground whole soybeans with urea in a ration is not recommended. The urea may be broken down to ammonia by an enzyme (urease) present in the soybeans. Cows do not like an ammonia taste or smell.

8. Grind soybeans with other feeds to prevent gumming-up feed grinders.

9. Cost allowances for delivery and grinding charges should be made when comparing costs of whole soybeans against soybean meal.

Senator Helms Plans Use Of Banks, S & L Offices As Service Points

U.S. Senator-Elect Jesse Helms today announced preliminary plans to use the state's 1,600 banking and savings and loan offices as "service points" at which citizens can seek quick assistance and information from Helms' Washington office. Helms' announcement was made jointly with officials of the North Carolina Bankers Association and the North Carolina Savings and Loan League.

"I had been thinking of ways in which we could broaden our service to the people by making it easier for inquiries and requests for assistance to be filed," Helms said. "I felt that there just had to be a better, less expensive, way than setting up a few branch offices here and there. Then I thought of asking the banking and savings and loan people to help us on a no-cost basis. Their willingness to cooperate was immediate and enthusiastic."

The newly-elected Republican Senator said that he had investigated the efficiency and cost of the customary Senatorial branch offices. "I talked with Senators from several states and, without exception, they said their branch offices just weren't doing the job. Some of the offices in other states each cost as much as $30,000 a year to operate, usually with fewer than a dozen contacts per office each week with citizens."

Helms said "this is just a waste of the taxpayers' money—and on top of that, it's not doing the job. We need to make our services readily available to every citizen, and I think we've found a way to do it."

Senator Helms commended Lawrence R. Bowers, president of the N.C. Bankers Association, and Mrs. Howard D. Roach, president of the N.C.

Savings and Loan League. Both, he said, "immediately sensed an opportunity for their institutions to be of public service. Bowers is president of Wacamac Bank and Trust Company, Whiteville, and Mrs. Roach is president of Mutual Savings and Loan Association at Reidsville. Helms also praised Harry Gatton and Herbert W. Wentworth, executive vice presidents of the bankers and savings and loan associations respectively.

Men Resist Seat Belt

Why doesn't the American driver buckle his seat belt? Statistically, the argument for buckling up is overwhelming. The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration says if all drivers would use seat belts, the annual 56,000-man highway death toll could be cut by as much as 20,000.

The effect of this argument on the driver? Practically nil. Government surveys continue to show that only four out of every 100 drivers use both a seat belt and a shoulder harness regularly.

When the raw facts of the importance of seat belts failed to impress the driver, the government switched to more subtle education. Advertisements and television commercials were used to depict in graphic pictures the physical effect on a motorist who was slammed into an instrument panel or through a windshield because he was not wearing his belt.

The result? Again nothing. In 1972, government mandated safety standards required the automakers to install loud buzzers and flashing lights that could be silenced only if the driver buckled his seat belt. The driver buckled his belt, all right, but investigation showed that likely as not he buckled the two ends together to silence the seat belt warning and then placed the belts behind him on the seat.

Other, more aggressive anti-belt drivers had their garage man disconnect the belts (which is against the law) or disconnected the belts themselves.

The seatbelt campaign has now reached a point where the National Safety Council is telling drivers that they don't love their family, or their sweetheart unless they buckle their belts.

MENTAL BLOCK

The advertising campaign's theme which is being distributed free to television and radio stations, points out that a fastened seat belt "is a nice way to say I love you."

The more jaded safety experts doubt it will be any more successful than past campaigns.

Some observers claim that there is a psychological reason behind the driver's failure to use the belts. This argument runs along these lines; the automobile driver doesn't want to admit that something he does routinely, driving a car, could be dangerous.

If he goes to the extreme of using his seat belt, he is admitting to himself that he may be killed on the way to work or to the shopping center, an idea he psychologically rejects.

Others put the blame on the auto industry and its engineers. They say automakers have done nothing to make seat belts easier to use—that the belts and shoulder harnesses are uncomfortable, hard to adjust, and even interfere with safe driving, if the driver finds himself strapped so securely he must strain to reach the controls on the instrument panel.

These critics ask why the industry doesn't produce a belt that would adjust to the size of each passenger without the passenger, pulling and tugging the belt for what seem endless minutes? They also claim that the auto industry has never assigned a high priority to seat belts and would do only what the government required to be done.

The most often-mentioned solution to the seat belt problem is a law making their use mandatory. Australia has just such a law—and traffic deaths have dropped sharply.

Most Veterans Live In The West

In Nevada and Alaska, every other man you meet is a veteran of military service, but in North Dakota and Mississippi, chances are that you would find only three veterans out of every ten males over age 16.

These are among a myriad of Bureau of Census statistics the Veterans Administration uses in planning its Federal benefits programs for veterans which this year are budgeted to reach almost $13 billion. H. W. Johnson, Director of the Winston-Salem VA Regional Office announced this week.

The most recent census report discloses that 43.1 percent of all males in the United States over 16 years of age are veterans. With their families and the dependent survivors of deceased veterans, they make up almost half the population of the United States.

Most of the veterans live in the West (46.4 percent) and Northeast (44.3 percent), dropping off in the North Central Region (42.4 percent) and in the South (40.8 percent). These figures, plus a variety of other factors are considered in planning the location and size of VA medical facilities and veterans service programs.

Johnson said veterans in Nevada and Alaska represent more than half of all males 16 and over, with 52.4 and 51.6 percent, respectively. But in North Dakota and Mississippi veterans represent only 34.3 and 34.9 percent, respectively.

In the District of Columbia, veterans average 41.2 percent of the male population, while in adjacent Maryland the percentage goes up to 46.8 and in Virginia it levels off at 42.9 percent.

Although 44.8 percent of urban males 16 and over are veterans, only 40.2 percent from rural non-farm residences and 31.5 percent from rural farm residences are veterans. Further subdivision of the urban male population discloses that 42.7 percent of males living in central cities are veterans, and 49 percent of those in urban fringe areas.

As the war winds down in Vietnam, so does the growth rate of the veteran population. Several months ago monthly discharges from the armed forces averaged 80,000. Last September only 58,000 were discharged and in October the figure dropped to 45,000.

Johnson pointed out that the Vietnam Era veteran population has just passed the six million mark, and this is more than 20 percent of the total veteran population -- 28.9 million. The six million, with an average age of 27.6, includes everyone who served in the military since August 1964. The balance of the veteran population is made up of 4.6 million veterans of the Korean Conflict whose average age is 40.9; 14.1 million World War II veterans with an average age of 52.6; 1.2 million World War I veterans with an average age of 77.5 and 3,000 Spanish-American War veterans with an average age of 92.8.

Bits Of Life

By ROSCOE BROWN FISHER

I'm My Own Grandpa

(This week's mail bag brought forth a clipping from a reader's memorabilia. Yellow with age, the clipping was found tucked away in an old children's story book. An interesting "Bit of Life" worth passing along, we thought. RBF)

Many, many years ago when I was twenty-three I was married to a widow who was pretty as could be. This widow had a grown up daughter who had hair of red. My father fell in love with her and soon they were wed.

This made my dad my son-in-law and changed my very life.

For my daughter was my mother 'cause she was my father's wife. To complicate the matter even though it brought me joy I soon became the father of a bouncing baby boy.

My little baby then became a brother-in-law to dad and so became my uncle though it made me very sad. For if he were my uncle then that also made him brother. Of the widow's grown-up daughter who, of course, was my step-mother.

Father's wife then had a son who kept them on the run and he became my grandchild for he was my daughter's son.

My wife is now my mother's mother and it makes me blue. Because although she is my wife she's my grandmother too.

Now if my wife is my grandmother then I'm her grandchild. And ev'rytime I think of it, it nearly drives me wild. For now I have become the strangest case you ever saw. As the husband of my grandmother, I am my own Grandpaw.

Davie County Officials To Attend District Legislative Meetings

County Officials from all 100 counties will attend the 1973 District-Legislative Meetings of the North Carolina Association of County Commissioners. The announcement was made last week by Association President J. Richard Conder of Rockingham County and Executive Director John T. Morrissey, Sr. of Raleigh. For the first time the counties will nominate district directors from the 17 multi-county planning regions rather than from the 14 highway divisions.

A new format will include registration at 1:00 p.m., business sessions from 1:30 to 3:00 p.m. and 3:00 to 5:00 p.m. A registration fee of $10. per person will cover the costs of a social hour from 5:00 to 6:00 p.m. and a dinner at 6:00 p.m. The Annual District Meetings will review 1973 legislative study proposals and discussion of the legislative needs of the counties. Also featured will be a presentation by Morrissey of President Conder's dynamic concept of "Full-Service Counties" to provide county-wide services including citizens within municipalities.

Rowan Tech Offers Course In Ceramics

Rowan Technical Institute will offer a course in ceramics during the winter quarter, according to an announcement made by David W. Butler, coordinator of adult programs. The course will include basic instruction in ceramics, including the techniques of glazing, staining, applying glazes, stains, antiquing, rousing and underglazes. Mrs. Lynda Snipes will be the instructor. She has had several years experience in this field. The class will begin on Tuesday, January 9 from 7:00 until 9:00 p.m. It will continue for eight weeks, ending February 27. The class will meet one night per week. Pre-registration will be by phone. To be eligible for this course, a person must be 18 years old and his original high school class must have graduated. To pre-register, contact the Continuing Education Division of Rowan Tech. Students must bring their social security numbers to the first class meeting. There will be a $2 fee for this course.

Computer Decoration

Mrs. Reba Holt has just taken down Coolemees' most unusual door decoration. The wreath was made by her daughter, Glenna, a student at Appalachian State University, from computer cards. Glenna used the wreath on her door in the dormitory until she came home for the holidays and received an honorable mention for the most unusual door decoration at ASU. She says the wreath was made from "all my mistakes." (Photo by Jim Barringer)

Fund Drive Will Begin

The Fund Drive for United Cerebral Palsy of North Carolina will begin Sunday, January 7.

Mayor D. J. Mando is serving as general chairman of the Fund Drive; Rocky Johnson will serve as treasurer; and Mrs. Ross Wands will serve as chairman of the campaign collections.

"Happiness means many things to many people," said organizers. "To a child with cerebral palsy, happiness means walking. Each year 10,000 babies are born with this disease with no known cure. But today for more than 600,000 who are afflicted there is help and hope. North Carolina is the second state in the nation to provide a Home Service Program sponsored by the UCP with a team of registered nurses who work with cerebral palsied patients in their homes."

The state quota for funds needed to continue these services in North Carolina and in the area is $40,000. This may help insure aid for those who only wish to walk or write their names.

"We hope each of you will contribute as individuals or businesses when volunteers call at your homes," they continued. "Or, if you wish, you may send your check payable to the United Cerebral Palsy of N. C. Inc. to Rocky Johnson, c/o Central Carolina Bank, Mocksville, N. C."

Ballroom Dance Classes Scheduled

The Spruce Street Y. M. C. A. has scheduled two courses in ballroom dancing for adults starting the first week in January. A combination intermediate-advanced course will begin Thursday, January 4 and the beginner course starts Friday, January 5. The courses will be one-hour sessions for eight weeks. Instruction in standard and basic steps will be given in the beginner course, including cha-cha, fox-trot, waltz, rock and jitterbug. Descriptive notes will be furnished. The steps become progressively more advanced in the intermediate-advanced course with the addition of South American dances. Missed lessons may be made up and participants do not need to enroll with a partner. The courses are under the direction of Mrs. Dorothy Covington, Y. M. C. A. adult dance instructor. A new feature will be available to private groups starting in January. A "one-night special" to introduce one type of ballroom dancing of the group's choice. The basic step of the type chosen and two variations will be taught in a one-hour session. The time, type and place should be arranged between the group's spokesman and the "Y" at least two weeks in advance.

Victims Of Agnes Lose Aid

In an economy move the U.S. Department of Agriculture has announced it will grant no more disaster loans to victims of Hurricane Agnes.

The abrupt cutoff leaves 53 farmers in Davie County with applications for help pending which will not be processed. And, in the seven-county Piedmont area nearly 1,000 farmers are left with applications pending.

Under the program the first $5,000 of the disaster loans need not be repaid. So the unlucky farmers who would have been eligible are left only the cold comfort of being able to apply for "emergency loans" -- repayable at 5 7/8 per cent interest.

A spokesman for the department said yesterday that loan applications approved by county offices of the Farmers Home Administration and mailed before Dec. 27 will be paid. No other applications will be accepted.

--Forsyth County: 92 approved, 94 still pending (and thus affected by the cutoff).

--Davidson: 21 approved, 83 pending.

--Surry: 40 approved, 178 pending.

--Yadkin: 643 approved, 263 pending.

--Davie: 48 approved, 53 pending.

Spokesmen for several of the local offices said they thought there were still more farmers who might have been eligible for the assistance who had not yet filed applications.

The cutoff affects only those disaster areas designated by the secretary of agriculture. Those in areas designated by President Nixon will have until Jan 15 to get their applications in.

The deadline for Piedmont residents had been June 30, 1973.

Hurricane Agnes struck in late June and did the most damage here in low-lying areas near the Yadkin, Dan, Smith, and New rivers.

Farm Tips

By Dr. J. W. Pou
Agricultural Specialist
Wachovia Bank & Trust Co., N.A.

Taking transplant production too lightly is dangerous business for tobacco growers. Many apparently have done this in recent years and had to import part of their plants as a result.

The problem might be called overconfidence. North Carolina farmers have become so proficient at producing transplants that this essential part of tobacco production sometimes receives a low priority. Mistakes result and, come planting time, the plant supply is short and the quality below par.

"We had some poor plant stands last year," commented Dr. Bill Collins, extension tobacco specialist at North Carolina State University. "We had been having good luck with our plants, but last year there was some slack management of plantbeds. We got some cold, rainy weather, and some growers got into trouble. A lot of plants had to be moved around from one place to another, and we had some late planted tobacco."

One place where mistakes are frequently made is at seeding. Sometimes the seeding rate is too heavy. If good planting weather comes along, plants are crowded and become spindly. These plants won't live as well in the field.

"We've got to remember that there are 350,000 tobacco seed in an ounce," Dr. Collins pointed out. "If they all came up, that would be enough plants to transplant about 50 acres of tobacco."

The NC State University specialist suggested that a plant population of about 40 or 50 plants per square foot is ideal. To get this, a seeding rate of one-sixth of an ounce per 100 square yards is recommended.

Just because the seed are put out doesn't mean a stand is assured. One mistake often made is the delay in covering the seed. A thin layer of straw mulch should be put on the same day the seed are planted.

Last year, this task was delayed in many instances. Heavy rains came and beat the tiny seed too far into the ground. Poor stands resulted.

The light layer of straw mulch, which the bed cover placed directly on top of it, helps conserve moisture and helps increase the temperature in the crust of the soil where the seed will germinate.

Too little water can be just as bad. Dr. Collins emphasized that moisture is critical as the seed begin germinating. They need about one-quarter inch of water every two days during this time, either from rain or irrigation.

Americans are lighting up more cigarettes these days but they are burning less tobacco.

During the current year, U. S. smokers are expected to use about the same number of cigarettes per capita as they did last year. Since there are more Americans than there were last year, that means larger total cigarette consumption.

But what the North Carolina Tobacco grower might consider as the "bad news" side of these statistics is that tobacco per cigarette has declined about two percent a year over the past twenty years.

In order to become more efficient and keep a lid on rising costs, the tobacco manufacturing industry has made innovations that allows it to reduce the total amount of tobacco in a cigarette.

One way this is being done is through more extensive use of the leaf midribs and processed sheet tobacco.

Another reason there is less tobacco in today's cigarette is that most smokers like their smoke filtered. With the use of more and often longer filters, the tobacco part of the cigarette has been reduced.

During the years 1950-54, manufacturers used about 2.7 pounds of tobacco to make 1,000 cigarettes. Last year, they were using only 1.9 pounds.

Davie Citizens To Attend Inauguration

A chartered bus will carry Davie County citizens to Raleigh Friday for the inauguration of James E. Holshouser, Jr., as Governor of North Carolina. Mr. Holshouser will become the first Republican Governor in the state in 72 years.

Mr. Holshouser will be sworn in on the east lawn of the capitol, marking the first time since 1933 that a North Carolina governor has not received the oath in Memorial Auditorium.

The inaugural festivities for the Republican governor and the Democratic lieutenant governor, James B. Hunt, Jr., begin Thursday night with the inaugural ball. Many from Davie are also planning to attend this ball.

Inauguration day starts for Holshouser, his wife, Pat, and their daughter, Ginny, 9, with a family Communion service at 10 a.m. in First Presbyterian Church.

Forty-five minutes later the North Carolina National Guard will present military honors at the executive mansion for outgoing Gov. Robert Scott and his wife, Jesse Rae.

Then, at 11:30, the Scotts, the Holshousers, the Hunts, members of the Council of State, and the justices of the Supreme Court will be escorted 2 1/2 blocks from the mansion to the capitol.

After the dignitaries are assembled on the inauguration rostrum, the Rev. John K. Parker Jr. of Boone's First Presbyterian Church will pronounce the invocation.

The national anthem and two other pieces of music will precede the oath of office by the governor and the Council of State members.

After the swearing-in, the Holshousers will receive a 19-gun salute from the National Guard.

Then he will deliver his inaugural address.

After the address Mrs. Holshouser's father, the Rev. L.H. Hollingsworth of High Point's Emerywood Baptist Church, will deliver the benediction and the wind ensemble will sound the recessional.

The entire ceremony, scheduled to last an hour, will be watched and heard throughout the state by a special broadcast network.

The television network is scheduled to go on the air at 11:30 a.m. and show filmed and taped highlights of the inaugural ball and interviews with Scott and Holshouser.

The network plans to remain on the air at least through 2:30 p.m. to televise the inaugural parade down Fayetteville Street.

Holshouser's first day in office is by no means over after the parade. He plans to hold a public reception at 7:30 p.m. in the legislative building.

JAMES E. HOLSHOUSER, JR.

JAMES B. HUNT, JR.

North Carolina's 63rd elected Governor, and the first Republican to occupy the State House in the twentieth century, launched his political career in 1963, when he ran for a seat in the North Carolina House of Representatives, and was elected by the largest margin of any legislator in Watauga County's history.

That election came just two years after James E. Holshouser, Jr. graduated from the University of North Carolina School of Law. He was president of his class during his senior year at UNC. His undergraduate work was completed in 1956 at Davidson College, where he edited sports sections of the college newspaper and yearbook. He also belonged to the Phi Delta Theta fraternity at Davidson and the Phi Alpha Delta Law fraternity at UNC.

Holshouser returned to Boone to establish a law practice, and became the second Holshouser attorney in the small mountain town. His father, J. E. Holshouser, Sr., is a former U.S. District Attorney and retired District Judge. His mother is the former Miss Virginia Dayvault.

The young Boone lawyer did not travel to Raleigh alone for that 1963 General Assembly session. His wife, Pat, whom he had married in 1961, graduated from Appalachian State University just in time to accompany him to Raleigh. The third member of the family, daughter Ginny, arrived in September, 1963, just two weeks before a Special Session of the legislature.

During four terms in the legislature, Holshouser championed such causes as reorganization of state government, restructuring of higher education, drug control, legislative redistricting, and repeal or reduction in taxes. In each of those sessions, he was selected by his GOP colleagues to serve in some leadership position, ranging from House Minority Leader to Joint Caucus Leader.

The new Chief Executive has been awarded numerous honors, including one of five National Jaycee Freedom Guard Awards, the Watauga Young Man of the Year Award, and an appointment by President Nixon to the American Revolution Bicentennial Commission. His activities within the Republican Party included State Chairman from 1966 to 1971 and organizer of the Nixon for President Committee in 1968.

He is a member of the Board of Directors of the Alumni Association of Davidson College, the Board of Visitors of Lees McRae College, and on the Board of Directors of the Southern Appalachia Historical Association.

The Holshousers reside on Westbrook Extension in Boone. They are members of the First Presbyterian Church there.

Savings Bond Sales Are High In Davie County

Sales of Series E and H Savings Bonds in Davie County for November were $34,617. January-November sales totaled $168,074. This represents 84.6 percent of Davie County's goal of $198,610, according to John Johnstone, County Volunteer Chairman.

Sales of Series E and H Savings Bonds in North Carolina reached $8,341,013 in November, almost $2 million above November 1971. The sales were the highest for any month since January 1947 and the largest November sales since 1945. E Bond sales came to $8,280,013, 28 percent over last November. Sales of H Bonds amounted to $61,000, 18 percent above last year. January-November sales were $79,644,916 - the best since 1945, and 111.1 percent of the state's 1972 annual dollar goal of $71,700,000.

Nationally, during November there were new purchases of E & H Bonds amounting to $545 million, $88 million above November 1971. Bond sales exceeded redemptions, at cost price, by $207 million - the 26th consecutive month they have done so. Total holdings of E & H Bonds rose to a record $57.3 billion, more than $3 billion above last November.

All who have bus reservations for the inauguration Friday are requested to be at the Davie County Court House no later than 7:15 a. m., January 5th.

ON TV

The Inauguration of North Carolina Governor James E. Holshouser, Jr., on January 5 will be broadcast live by television and radio stations across the state.

According to Lawrence Z. Crockett, Inaugural Committee chairman, the three hours of television coverage will be a joint effort of the North Carolina Association of Broadcasters (NCAB) and University of North Carolina Television.

Radio coverage will be provided by the NCAB through the local facilities of Radio Stations WPTF and WRAL-FM. Crockett said that for the first time the Inaugural ceremonies and the parade would be televised in color. The first TV coverage was provided in black and white by UNC-TV in 1957 and again 1961. The coverage in 1965 was a joint venture by UNC-TV and the NCAB.

The TV broadcast is scheduled to begin at 11:30 a. m. Friday from the State Capitol. Shown will be highlights from the Inaugural Ball the night before, ceremonies earlier that morning honoring Governor Scott and taped interviews with Scott and with Governor-elect Holshouser.

Live coverage of the Inaugural ceremony at the Capitol will begin at 12 Noon and is expected to last until approximately 1 p. m.

Coverage of the Inaugural Parade will follow, lasting until 2:30 p. m. Crockett said the eight stations of UNC-TV would broadcast the entire three hours of activities. Coverage by commercial stations may vary, however, and he recommended that local TV and radio schedules be consulted for exact broadcast times.

The UNC-TV stations will also broadcast a 90 minute summary of the two-day Inaugural activities Friday evening, January 5, at 8:30 p. m. Crockett said this year's coverage of the Inaugural by the state's TV and radio stations will be the most extensive ever offered.

A total of eight cameras, including a back-pack camera, will feed signals into two mobile TV vans, one of which will serve as the control room for the broadcast. The program will then be relayed through the microwave system of UNC-TV to educational and commercial stations across the state.

Approximately 40 technical and on-camera personnel from the state's commercial stations and from UNC-TV will be required in Raleigh for the Inaugural broadcast.

Wim's Whims

by Wim Osborne

This one is too good to keep! Son David had just become a father. Dr. Long, the attending physician, and a very unique individual, ambled out of the delivery room and told David, "I'll give you a hint what you have -- it has its mother's features and its father's fixures."

Many are singing the "Oh, The Miseries of Flu at Last You've Found Me" song. It pays to clean house now and then. While raking through this one, I found one dime, two pennies and five buttons -- none of which match. (Fringe benefits?)

I was one -- it is not true that blonds have more fun. Recently had a few days away from the family. Now I'm back refereeing my little "outlaws" ... strange -- their arguing is music to my ears.

Doesn't everyone have a path worn across their rugs? A bragger has diarrhea of the jawbone -- always running off at the mouth.

Saw a fellow the other day who was so bald he had to carry his dandruff in his hand. Bruce is so cheerful when he gets out of bed. I say good morning and he wants to know if I'm trying to start a fight.

Beauty is all around if we but open our eyes to see.

Snow Storm Paralyzes Area

Davie County, along with the rest of North Carolina, was virtually closed Monday and Tuesday with everyone digging out of a snow storm that dumped around six-inches in the area.

Fine snowflakes began falling around 11 a. m. Sunday, covering the ground with a thin layer of white with temperature around 30 degrees. The snow continued throughout most of Monday and the temperature dipped to around 15-degrees.

Roads were passable with snow tires or chains but hazardous driving warnings were in effect. Davie County schools were closed Monday and Tuesday, and many businesses shut-down for the two days. District court, scheduled for Monday, was cancelled.

A warming sunshine Tuesday helped in clearing the roads as traffic began to return to normal. However, the snow failed to equal last year's record. A total snowfall of 8-inches fell on December 3 and 4, 1971, the largest of four snowfalls which occurred last winter.

On February 10, 1969, the area had at least ten inches of snow and some said they measured the fall at even more.

FHA Emergency Loan Policy Clarified

James T. Johnson, State Director of Farmers Home Administration, reported that his agency has received a clarification concerning recent action taken by USDA to cut off emergency loan funds for the remainder of this fiscal year.

It was earlier reported that farmers who had made application and the loan docket had been approved and mailed to the National Finance Office by December 27, 1972, would receive their loans; and those with applications on hand but not approved by that date, would not receive their loans.

The National FHA office has clarified this action by stating that all farmers who had made application by December 27, 1972 would have their applications processed, and if eligible, would receive their loans.

This means that all applications on hand at the close of business December 27, 1972, would be scheduled for processing as soon as possible and the cut off would not affect them. Applications will not be accepted after December 27, 1972, for the balance of this fiscal year.

This action applied to those counties of Surry, Stokes, Rockingham, Yadkin, Davie, Forsyth, and Davidson, which had earlier received Secretarial designation as a result of Hurricane Agnes. Applicants affected by this latest decision are being notified by FHA county supervisors and will be scheduled for loan processing as rapidly as possible.

Accidents On I-40

Three separate accidents occurred at about 12:30 p.m. Sunday on the I-40 Yadkin River Bridge west of Clemmons, the Highway Patrol said.

A car driven by John William Joynes, Rt. 4, Waynesville, went out of control on the bridge and struck the bridge railing on the left. The vehicle reportedly skidded out of control after the driver applied his brakes.

No charges were filed in the accident and about $300 worth of damages were done to Joynes' automobile.

A car driven by Harry M. Little, 2600 Lynn Bridge Road, Charlotte was traveling east on I-40, when the car went out of control on the Yadkin River bridge.

The accident happened at about the same time as the Williams accident and was also caused by the vehicle going out of control when the driver applied his brakes, according to the Highway Patrol.

Little's car struck the railing on the left, reversed direction, and hit the bridge on the right, reports say. About $200 worth of damage was done to Little's automobile.

At about the same time, a three-car accident occurred in the east-bound lane of I-40.

Pamela N. Davis of Colony Apartments in Chapel Hill stopped to avoid hitting another car in front, but was struck from behind by a car driven by David N. Parker, Jr. of Fern Avenue, Marion, N.C. Parker's vehicle was in turn struck in the rear by a car driven by Jewell D. Purvis, Jr. of Rt. 5, Mocksville, the Highway Patrol said.

No injuries were reported and no charges were brought. Approximately $100 damage was done to the Davis car, $150 to the Parker car and $100 to the Purvis car, the Highway Patrol said.

Davie County Gets New 4-H Coordinator

Jim Sloop, formerly of Rowan County, has assumed the position of 4-H Youth Coordinator and Assistant Agriculture Extension Agent in Davie County. This was effective as of November 1st last year. He replaces Carter Payne who formerly held this position.

Sloop, a N.C. State University sociology major and a graduate of West Rowan High School, has been active in 4-H work since he was a youngster. He grew up on a dairy farm in Rowan County where his parents were very active in the 4-H club work. His father was selected as the Soil and Water Conservation Farmer of the Year in 1972.

During his past eight-years in 4-H work, Sloop has been a dairy judge. As a member of the N.C. State team, they won the state championship in 1967. The team then went on to win the National Dairy Judging championship in Columbus, Ohio over 34 other states. This was the first win in the history of North Carolina for this judging.

Following the state and national team competition, Sloop also won the national championship in Chicago, Ill. He feels that his previous experience on the state team had a great deal to do with his winning the national title.

Sloop says his main objective in Davie County is to organize more 4-H clubs. At present, there are only seven clubs and they are not all active. "There should be at least 50 to 75 clubs", he says, "or more."

Time was, Sloop says, when 4-H activities were primarily for the young people living in rural and farm areas of the county. "It has changed now and is branching off into residential areas as well."

He explained that there was something in 4-H work offered to every young person ages nine to 19. To mention a few of the areas, there is safety, health, automotive, electricity, communications, child care, bicycles, dog care and training, home improvement and management, personal improvement, public speaking, recreation, photography and self-determined which gives one the opportunity to do his "own thing."

The 4-H program is "exciting and fun for young people as well as educational", he says. "It also helps them to see the problems in the community and work out solutions to solve them."

"Our main goal", he continued "is to make Davie the BEST place in which to live." Sloop plans to set good examples throughout the county. "All young people like to have fun and if they see the fun we're having, they'll join us. In fact, it's already working."

He also explained that the program belongs to the young 4-Hers and if they present their ideas, "we'll carry them out."

Sloop feels that a great many people in the county are completely unaware that the taxpayers are helping to pay his salary and once they realize this, he believes the parents will encourage their youngsters to participate.

Sloop is presently living in the Mocksville Apartments in Mocksville.

Car Skids Into Another Sunday

Slippery conditions of an ice and snow covered road was the cause of an accident around 3:15 p. m. Sunday. The accident occurred on Lexington Road in Mocksville, US 64 East.

Involved was a 1972 Chevrolet operated by James Allison Gobble, 38, of Hickory and a 1964 Ford operated by Joe William Foster, 64, of Hemlock Street, Mocksville.

Mocksville Policeman William G. Adams investigated the accident and reported that the Ford, being driven by Foster, slowed down to make a right turn onto East Lake Drive and skidded on the snow to the left of center, hitting the Chevrolet, being driven by Gobble, in the left front fender. The Foster vehicle then travelled 30-feet into the side ditch on the right side of the roadway. The Gobble vehicle traveled 18-feet to the right shoulder of the roadway.

There were no injuries. Damage to the Chevrolet was estimated at $900 and to the Ford, $500. There were no charges.

March Of Dimes Campaign Announced

"Begin your New Year by helping the drive against birth defects," urges Mrs. Harry Osborne, 1973 director of the March of Dimes campaign. "We need your help," Mrs. Osborne asks, in announcing the start of the annual January appeal.

"What you'll get for your support," she added, "is a brighter hope that your future generations will be spared the tragedy of birth defects. Some quarter of a million newborns are stricken each year with physical and mental damage." The March of Dimes backs research, medical services, health education and community services aimed at prevention and treatment. It helps support more than 100 Medical Service Programs.

Volunteers are always needed, according to the chairman. Anyone interested in helping the month-long campaign, should call Mrs. Osborne.

The Local March of Dimes campaign is sponsored by the Mocksville Woman's Club.

Car Skids In Snow And Hits Pole

The driver of a 1969 Willys lost control of the vehicle in the snow Sunday around 4:15 p. m. and skidded off the left side of the road and hit a utility pole.

The driver, Donald Gray Davis, 51, of Mocksville Rt. 5 and two passengers suffered cuts, bruises and abrasion. Davis, James Seaford of Mocksville Rt. 4 and Lloyd Blackwelder, 26, of Mocksville Rt. 5, were treated at the Davie County Hospital and released. Schools Prepare For Accreditation

Last month three institutions in the technical institute-community college system were accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, making a total of 35 schools in the system accredited by this group.

All of the other 21 institutions in the system are undergoing evaluations and are following the necessary steps to become accredited, according to Herman G. Porter, director of institutional evaluation, Department of Community Colleges.

"Institutional evaluation and accreditation are major ways in which community colleges and technical institutes are encouraged in their growth," said Porter. "It is through evaluation that appropriate quality is maintained. Accreditation is a method used to denote quality because the general public knows what the accreditation means. And I have found prospective students as well as employers who hire our graduates want to know whether the schools are accredited," Porter added.

There are three major steps in the State accreditation program. First, the institution evaluates itself using prescribed standards. The institution is then evaluated by a visiting committee comprised of educators from across the State. Finally, the results of the first two steps are reviewed by a committee who decides whether to recommend accreditation for the applicant. The State Board of Education acts on the recommendation and actually accredits the institution.

"In the evaluation leading to accreditation, the adequacy of every aspect of an institution is examined. Some of the aspects are administrative staff, instructors, curriculums, student services, financial management and support and facilities.

"These areas correspond to the areas covered in the standards and evaluative criteria adopted by the State Board of Education for the community college system," said Porter. These standards, which were developed by the Community College Advisory Council, are unique to the North Carolina system of community colleges and technical institutes and have served as a guide in other states in their development of standards.

Four Corners

A family dinner was held Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Laymon honoring Mrs. Mary Laymon, Dr. L. R. Shelton and Mr. and Mrs. James Nance on their birthday anniversaries. Mr. and Mrs. Gray Laymond and family were also present to enjoy the turkey dinner honoring his mother, Mrs. Mary Laymon, Debbie and Denise Nance also attended the occasion.

... about your Social Security
by Vernice Fulcher

It isn't every day you have the pleasure of interviewing a man who is celebrating his 100th birthday! That pleasure was mine when I interviewed Mr. John C. Klutz of RR 7, Salisbury who will be one hundred years old January 7th. He is still in very good health and according to one of his wrestling buddies, as strong as a mule. Most of his life he worked as a farmer and woodcutter building up a strong body to keep him going 100 years. I asked him to tell me the most exciting event of his life and he just couldn't decide between catching a possum and getting married. Well, you'll have to admit a possum can really make an impression especially when he bites your finger and won't let go no matter how loud you yell! Mr. Klutz said, "I finally pried the possum's mouth open with a stick and freed my battered finger." He admitted his marriage sure turned out better - he had one son, one granddaughter, two grandchildren, and one great, great grandchild.

Although his schooling was limited, it was not without event. He remembered getting a spanking for calling another student a "sapsucker." Woodrow Wilson and Franklin D. Roosevelt were among the many presidents he recalls. He assured me although he was 100 years old, he didn't remember George Washington!

As a young boy he helped his father in the blacksmith shop. "I got pretty good at it, too," he told me. "Fixed tires for wagonwheels, and shod more horses than you've seen in all your life." "One of the worse parts about blacksmith business is stepping on hot horseshoes!"

As to why he believed he was able to live so long, Mr. Klutz replied, "I don't know unless it's because I worked real hard all my life and didn't worry much about anything."

He still reads his Bible often and can see very well without glasses. He said, "If I could hear half as well as I can see, I'd be in excellent shape."

Although Mr. Klutz never had a job covered by Social Security, he qualified for benefits under the Special Age 72 provision of the 1966 Amendments. Since this is now his only income, the social security check he receives on the 3rd of the month means a great deal to him. With his wonderful outlook on life, he should be celebrating for many years to come.

Mr. Klutz gave his permission for us to publish his story to better acquaint others with Social Security.

M. H. Groce was inducted into the club as a new member by Dave Rankin, District Rotary Governor.

Delicious No-Bake Dessert

Chunky Choco Cake is an easy to make no-bake dessert. And what a tasty homemade delight for the entire family. The make ahead Chunky Choco cake is a refrigerated dessert but can be frozen and kept on hand for those unexpected guests that drop in at the last minute.

The secret ingredient are those tasty Semi-Sweet Chocolate morsels which are just as good all by themselves. Here is the recipe as developed in the Nestlé Test Kitchens.

 - 1/2 cup water
 - 1 tablespoon Nescafé
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 3 eggs, separated
 - 2 cups heavy cream
 - 1 large (1 lb. 7 ozs.) angel food cake

Heat over hot (not boiling) water semi-sweet chocolate morsels, sugar, water, instant coffee, and salt until chocolate melts and mixture is smooth. Remove from heat and beat in egg yolks. Beat egg whites until stiff peaks form. Fold in chocolate mixture. Whip heavy cream, then fold into chocolate mixture. Break angel food cake into chunks (about 1" pieces) and fold into chocolate. Spoon into 13" x 9" x 2" cake pan. Refrigerate 12 hours or overnight before serving. Store unused portions in refrigerator. If desired, this dessert may be frozen. Makes one 13" x 9" x 2" cake.

The other day...while going through the attic and reading some of the old books and letters that have collected dust and turned brown with age...I found a Rawleigh Almanac, Cook Book and Medical Guide...and, it is fascinating. Some of the things written in a book of this type include...1895-1911 on the front cover...it was the 16th business year...there is a picture of W.T. Rawleigh just inside the front cover page...there are ads for more salesmen...there are pictures of 6 Rawleigh buggies with 2 horses hitched to the buggies for the men to go around and take their products to sell from house to house.

One thing that is in the Almanac is what salt will do...put into whitewash, it makes it stick better; use as a gargle, it is very effective for sore throat; for cleaning willow ware, apply a mixture of salt and water with a brush and rub dry; salt and water held in the mouth after pulling a tooth will stop the bleeding; prints rinsed with it in the water will hold their color and look bright; two teaspoons in water is an emetic and is an antidote for poisoning from nitrate of silver; salt and water is a good remedy for sore eyes and if applied in time will scatter the inflammation; silk handkerchiefs and ribbons should be washed in salt water and ironed wet to obtain the best results; as a fertilizer, salt is very valuable; food would be insipid and tasteless without it.

The Cook Book part has a lot of old recipes in it... breads... bread in five hours... Boston Bread... bread sticks... rice waffles... scones... gingerbread... popovers... maple cookies... buns... centennial drops... dropped hermit cookies... corn cakes... nutmeg cakes... English apple tarts.

School Enrollment On The Decrease

The State Department of Public Education estimates that there were 1,158,549 students in North Carolina public schools at the end of the first month of school this fall. That's a decrease of 12,668 over the same period last year.

Public school enrollment has been decreasing since 1968-69 when the first month's figures showed 1,195,583 students in school. Department of Public Education officials say the most significant factor in the decline in school enrollment is the decrease in the birth rate.

Fourth Quarter Estimated Tax Due

The deadline for final payment of 1972 estimated Federal individual income tax is Monday, January 15, 1973, the Internal Revenue Service said this week.

Some taxpayers may have to make an amended estimate by January 15, if their income changed substantially during the last quarter of 1972. The worksheet contained in the 1972 estimated tax package received by taxpayers provides space to compute an amended estimate.

Other taxpayers may have to file an original 1972 declaration on Form 1040-ES by January 15, if they just met the filing requirements during the fourth quarter.

Taxpayers do not have to pay the last installment or file an original or amended declaration otherwise due January 15, if they file their 1972 income tax returns and pay all of the tax due by Wednesday, January 31, 1973.

Due dates are different for farmers and commercial fishermen. Publication 505, "Tax Withholding and Declaration of Estimated Tax," furnishes additional information on this subject. It is available free, in person or by mail, from your IRS district office.

Another contributing factor is the recent growth of private schools. It is estimated that 51,298 students are attending private schools this fall, an increase of 1,612 over last year.

The Charlotte-Mecklenburg School System had the largest first month's enrollment, 79,034. Other large first month's enrollments were reported in Winston-Salem-Forsyth, 46,428; Gaston County, 33,452; Cumberland County, 33,227; Wake, 29,555; Greensboro, 28,335; Guilford County, 24,069; Buncombe County, 22,282; and Raleigh, 21,272. The smallest first month's enrollment was reported in Tryon, which had 668 students. The only other system reporting fewer than a thousand students was Tyrrell County with 983.

The 1972-73 figures show that there are 799,709 pupils in the elementary grades and 358,840 in secondary schools. 10,709 students were enrolled in special education classes in elementary grades and 1,528 were in special education classes at the secondary level.

The decline in the birth rate is reflected in the figures for grades one through four. Each of the first four grades has an enrollment of less than 100,000. By comparison, in 1970-71 there was an average of 98,724 students for the twelve grades. The twelfth grade was the smallest with 72,147 students.

HEARING LOSS

An undetected hearing loss can be the cause a child encounters behavioral problems or completes poor scholastic achievements, warn officials of the Beltone Crusade for Hearing Conservation. The officials stress this is one reason why every school-age child should have a hearing test every year.

"Bon Bon" The Peeper!

Bon Bon, the little five-year-old French Poodle, has a window right down on her level. . . and according to her owner, Miss Beth Holt of Cooleemee, "she doesn't miss a thing". Bon Bon was a birthday and Christmas gift from Beth's grandmother, the late Mrs. Belle Saunders. Bon Bon sleeps in the basement of the Holt home along with Gertrude, one of her puppies. And because they "tear up everything upstairs" if no one is home, they spend a good deal of time peering through the little window of the basement door, where they see "everything that moves." Vets Corner

Q- As a female veteran going to school full time under the GI Bill, can I claim my husband as a dependant?
A- Yes. Public Law 92-540, signed by the President October 24, 1972, makes educational benefits and all other veteran benefits apply equally to male and female veterans. To take advantage of this benefit, you should apply to the nearest Veterans Administration regional office.

Q- Who approves schools for enrollment under the GI Bill?
A- The state approving agency in the state where the school is located. However, the Veterans Administration is the approving agency for courses offered by schools in foreign countries, agencies of the Federal Government, and for apprenticeship programs administered by Interstate carriers.

Q- Can a service-disabled veteran who received a VA automobile allowance receive reimbursement for the necessary special adaptive equipment more than once?
A- Yes, but reimbursement is made to the seller of the equipment, not the veteran.

Earaches, Head Colds Can Lead To Hearing Losses

"The severe head colds and earaches many children contract during the winter months should not be taken lightly, as they can lead to serious and even permanently handicapping hearing losses." This is the warning issued by David Smith, director of the Beltone Crusade for Hearing Conservation.

The crusade is sponsored by Chicago-based Beltone Electronics Corporation; world leader in hearing aids and electronic hearing test instruments. It is designed to make the public aware of the need to guard against potential hearing losses.

Smith pointed out that because most small children enjoy playing in the snow, it is not unusual for a youngster to become chilled from overexposure to low temperatures and damp clothing.

"This is why parents, teachers and other persons responsible for small children should be alert and guard youngsters against developing such chills and the head colds and earaches, that can follow.

"While there is no certain method for avoiding such illnesses, attention to the length of time a child is permitted outside during extremely cold weather and insistence upon the use of proper clothing can reduce the chances of a youngster contracting such a malady," Smith explained.

"However, despite the most careful precautions, severe head colds and earaches may develop, and if this happens the attention of a medical doctor should be obtained. Above all, do not attempt to treat such illnesses with self-prescribed medications. The aftermath of such self-diagnosis and treatment also can be a hearing loss," he added.

On Our 1st Anniversary

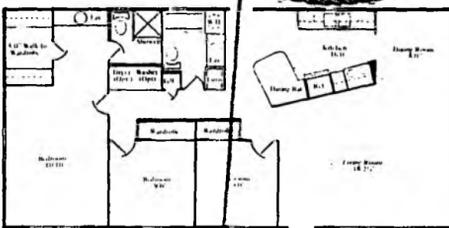

One year ago we began a new business in Mocksville known as Skyline Mobile Home Sales.

During the past year we have tried to provide quality Mobile homes to the newly-weds and to others of Davie County desiring homes of their own, but lacking the resources needed for the construction of the more permanent type of home. On this, our first anniversary, we are thankful for the privilege of having helped so many acquire their first home. And, we are most thankful that in most cases, all have been pleased with our sales and service.

But we are not perfect! We have made our share of mistakes. But instead of denying them, we have tried to learn from them.

As individuals, and as a business concern, we have never deliberately sought to offend anyone. However, inadvertently, we apparently often, do so. For these offenses we are sorry - for it is never our intention.

GOD'S FIVE MINUTES

"THERE IS A TIME FOR EVERYTHING" Ecclesiastes 3:1. The Living Bible, Tyndale House

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

When Massachusetts people are heard to brag, "Our state was the cradle of liberty," New Hampshire natives smile and respond, "Yes, but we rocked the cradle." They have good reason to make such a statement. America's Declaration of Independence was signed on July 4, 1776, while New Hampshire had set the pattern by signing theirs on June 15.

In New Hampshire there is an interesting stone formation, known world-wide as the Great Stone Face. Carved out of solid granite, by wind and rain, it bears an amazing likeness to the face of a strong and handsome man. The old man inspired Nathaniel Hawthorn's story, "The Great Stone Face."

But an equally famous tribute was paid to the state by the great orator, Daniel Webster. "Men put out signs representing their trades. Jewelers hang out monstrous watches, shoemakers a huge boot. Up in New Hampshire God Almighty has hung out a sign that says, 'In this state I make men.'"

That is no secret! That seems to be His main business. That, and repairing those He has made who, for some reason, may break themselves. Maybe that is why Christ came as a carpenter, rather than a writer or a farmer or a fisherman. He makes men. He repairs men. He beautifies the lives of men with His presence and His power. "Follow me, Jesus said, 'and I will make you.'"

Believe Him. He really does!

Davie County Participates . . .

The Inauguration

By Jerry Paige

For the first time in this century North Carolina inaugurated a Republican Governor on a cold overcast day.

Davie County arose to the occasion by chartering two Greyhound buses and of course, a lot of Davie Countians went in private cars. At 7:30 a.m. January 5th, two Greyhound drivers, Madison Freeman, a veteran of 29 years, and Bill Joyner, a veteran of 16 years, left Mocksville with 80 passengers.

The oldest passenger was Mrs. John M. Groce of Route 3, who is a young 79 years of age. She enjoyed her adventure but said "I would have enjoyed it more if my husband could have seen a Republican Governor in North Carolina."

The youngest passenger was Rickey Daywalt who will be eleven years of age the 16th of this month. He is a fourth grader at the Mocksville Elementary school and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Daywalt of Route 1, Mocksville.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Gregory of Route 1, Advance, and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Joyner of Mocksville helped arrange the trip. Mrs. Gregory could not go because of a heart condition but said "I'm happy I could do my share and since I don't get out too much I could do a lot of phoning."

Those she helped go to Raleigh from Davie County were: H. C. Gregory, Mattie Sue McCullough, Gregg McCullough, Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Smith, Peggy Dunn, Martha Riddle, Mr. and Mrs. George Hendrix, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Boger, Mr. and Mrs. Buck Foster, Larry Riddle, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Naylor, Mrs. Harry Sheek, Willie Armsworthy, Vance Riddle, Karen Fry, Mr. and Mrs. James Gray Hendrix, D. R. Bennett, Elbert Smith, Grady Spry, Sr., Hoyt Bailey, Clyde Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Daywalt, Ricky Daywalt, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Godbey, Granville Spry, Mrs. John Groce, Mr. and Mrs. Duke Whittaker, Garland Bowens, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Franks, Pamela Potts, Mrs. Nancy Robertson, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Bowers, Merita Shoaf, Bill Shoaf, Hoyt Howell, Verna Howell, Ronald Howell, Geraldine Pilcher, Otis Hendrix, June Meroney, Mrs. Eva Wilson, James Bowles, III, Patsy Goss, Linda Goss, Tommy Howard, "Marge" Green, Peggy Joyner, Frances Freeman, Barry Armsworthy, Mr. and Mrs. Grady Spry, Jr., Chris Spry, Mike Alexander, Mrs. Homer Potts, Helen Jones, Jim Wilson, Cindy Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. James Nance, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Armond Daniel, Mrs. Marie Schladsenky, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Munday, Perry Laird and Jerry Paige.

Before ten o'clock the buses were in Raleigh and there was a long wait of talking to and watching an interesting cross section of human beings some of which were nice, polite, ill mannered, fat, short, slender tall, dressed nice and some sloppy.

"Chief Running Bear" in all his indian regalia for the parade was there on his well behaved Appaloosa. The Appaloosa "Sun Dance" had "Chief Running Bear's" hand print painted on his rump and was so well behaved even while riding among the crowd on the capitol grounds, and with the nineteen gun salute sounding just yards away from him, he obeyed his master and although looking a little wild eyed, stood still.

Another rarity among the crowds were several young boys selling Hare Krsna material.

At last, the photographers got their cameras in hand which was a good indication time was nearing for the inauguration to begin.

After all invited guests were seated on a rostrum in front of the State Capitol the outgoing Governor and Mrs. Scott, Governor-elect and Mrs. Holshouser, Lt. Governor and Mrs. Taylor and Lt. Governor-elect and Mrs. Hunt were escorted by the military from the Executive Mansion and the inaugural proceedings began with the processional by the Appalachian State University Band. The invocation was given by the Rev. Joseph K. Parker, Jr., the national anthem was led by Norman Farrow of UNC-Greensboro.

After the administration of oaths of office to the Governor, Lt. Governor and other members of the Council of State, and the 19-gun salute to the new Governor and Mrs. Holshouser, the inaugural address was given by the new Republican Governor.

Governor Hoshouser stated his recent election called for a "mandate for change" and that priorities will be state roads "where needed, not where some politician wants them;" on education; and to "make the State motto mean what it says."

The youngest Governor in this century stated "government will be concerned for all needs of all North Carolinians. More involvement of Blacks, Indians, young people and women" which drew a loud applause and the Governor graciously, with a twinkle, replied "Thank you, Ladies."

The new Governor pledged to expose any wrong doing in government and asked the news media to help report all events

First Time In This Century

For the first time in this century, a Republican is holding North Carolina's highest office. He is also the youngest chief Executive in this century. And, the Tar Heel State is also boasting the first full-time Lieutenant Governor, James B. Hunt, Jr., a democrat.

One Governor was appointed by the President of the United States and one was impeached and removed from the office.

Davie County contributed the first Governor of North Carolina. Other county contributions are: Dobbs 2, Craven 3, Orange 2, Gullford 3, Chowan 2, New Hanover 2, Halifax 3, Moore 2, Warren 3, Mecklenburg 3, Bertie 1, Brunswick 2, Surry 1, Sampson 1, Bladen 1, Wilkes 1, Buncombe 3, Rockingham 3, Cumberland 2, Northampton 1, Rowan 1, Edgecombe 2, Wake 4, Randolph 1, Burke 1, Wayne 2, Pitt 1, Alamance 3, Forsyth 1, Person 1, Franklin 1, Roberson 1, Cleveland 2, Pasquotank 1, Gaston 1, Durham 1, Haywood 1, Watauga 1, and Gaston 1.

the throngs gathered along Fayetteville Street when one clown shot a cannon which made the people jump and "flushed" some of the many pigeons always seen at the capitol. The pigeons flew over the as if surveying the crowd which brought out the traditional comments of birds flying overhead.

Major Peoples of the National Guard was in charge of programming the parade which had thousands of military men, fifty bands, beautiful floats commemorating the new governor and lots of funny clowns. Major Peoples said "My only regret is that the kids in the last 15 minutes of the parade didn't get on TV because the TV media quit showing at 2:30."

A tired group of Republicans returned to Mocksville in the rain but thankful the rain waited until after the inauguration and content that a Republican Governor now leads the State of North Carolina.

The red, white and blue bunting kept the crowd back from the walkway from the old capitol building to the rostrum. Children crawled under the bunting and sat along the edge of the walkway. Boys climbed trees for a better view.

Young people still remain faithful to former Governor Bob Scott.

Inaugural Ball

The Inaugural Ball honoring Governor-elect and Mrs. James E. Holshouser, Jr., Lieutenant Governor-elect and Mrs. James B. Hunt, Jr. and other members of the Council of State and their ladies was held Thursday night, January 4, 1973. The Ball was sponsored by the Junior League of Raleigh with all net proceeds going to selected charities.

The William Neil Reynolds coliseum on the State College campus was the scene of the activities with music by the Burt Massengale Orchestra.

One hundred fifty six girls, sponsored by State officials, formed the traditional figure "N.C."

The girls and their escorts formed and were introduced to the Governor-elect and his party.

From Davie County Miss Cindy Boger was sponsored by her father, Representative Gilbert Lee Boger. Miss Boger's escort was William Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Hall of Mocksville. Miss Karen Hege was sponsored by her father, Rep. Joe H. Hege, Jr. of Lexington and her escort was Keith Miller of Thomasville. Representative James Mashburn sponsored Miss Susan Raye Sink, daughter of Sheriff and Mrs. Fred Sink of Lexington.

Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Smith, Mr. and Mrs. John V. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Brock, Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. John Barber, Dr. and Mrs. Francis Slate, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Fulbright, Mr. and Mrs. Buster Cleary, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Foster, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Howard, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Hammer, Mr. and Mrs. John Brock, David Hendrix, Lonnie Driver, Mrs. F.W. Rufus Brock Assists In Inaugural Festivities

Mr. and Mrs. Rufus L. Brock of Mocksville joined thousands of North Carolinians as they gathered in Raleigh for the Inauguration of the Honorable James E. Holshouser as governor of the state. Mr. Brock was one of the thirty-nine members of the Inaugural Committee.

On Thursday they were guests at a buffet at the Hilton Inn where the Governor-elect, his family, the Council of State and their families mingled with the Inaugural Committee and distinguished guests from nearby states. North Carolina's new Senator, the Honorable Jesse Helms, Rep. James T. Broyhill, Rep. Wilmer D. Mizell and Rep. Earl Ruth and their wives were among those present. For this event and the ball Mrs. Brock wore an ecru gown with a crochet skirt and shawl.

From the buffet the guests went to the Inaugural Ball in Reynolds Coliseum. The hall was festive with huge topiary trees and hanging baskets of tulips, roses, jonquils, marigolds, carnations and eucalyptus. Governor-elect and Mrs. Holshouser and 9-year-old daughter Ginny were escorted to their seats on the hot-pink carpeted platform to the tune of "Nothin' Could Be Finer than to Be in Carolina in the Mornin'." From there they viewed the figure, a huge "N. C." formed on the coliseum floor by the sponsors and their escorts.

Miss Cynthia Lynn Boger represented her father State Representative Gilbert Lee Boger of Davie County. She wore a white formal gown and carried a bouquet of spring flowers with hotpink ribbon. Her escort was William E. Hall, Jr. Patrons of the ball from Davie County were Rep. and Mrs. Boger, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Hall, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Roy Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton H. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. John V. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Wade Groce, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Hall, and Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Wilson.

After the ball Mr. and Mrs. Brock were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Anderson at a reception at North Ridge Country Club. Here they renewed acquaintances with campaign workers they had met during the two primaries and the election. Coincidentally the Brock's escort was State Trooper J. C. Goodin of Mocksville, one of the 150 highway patrolmen on special duty for the inauguration.

On Inauguration Day thousands viewed the impressive outdoor ceremonies as the 38 year old Boone attorney was sworn in as governor and received the state seal from Governor Robert Scott. They then watched the 1 1/2 hour parade as it passed along Fayetteville Street.

Following the parade Mr. and Mrs. Brock and other members of the Inaugural party were luncheon guests at the Faculty Club of N. C. State University.

Friday night the Brocks assisted in greeting at the front entrance of the Legislative Building as hundreds stood in line to meet the new governor and first lady and the Council of State. Mrs. Brock wore for this occasion a pink formal gown and carnation corsage. After their duties at the Legislative Building the Brocks were joined by their daughter Laura, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Harpe, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Spillman of Courtney, Mr. and Mrs. Eddy Harwell of Claremont for a visit to the Governor's Mansion. They returned home Saturday.

Among the many Davie County people watching the festivities were Willie Armsworthy, George Hendrix, Ann Boger, Barry Armsworthy, Jack Boger, H.R. Hendrix, D.R. Bennett, Geraldine Pilcher, Otis Hendrix, Mattie Sue McCullough.

Some of the crowd tries to climb the statue in memory of the confederate dead to get a better view.

Davie Plays At West Rowan Friday Night

Snow closed schools Monday and Tuesday and forced postponement of the South Iredell game which was scheduled to have been played here Tuesday night.

Friday night, Davie will play at West Rowan in an important North Piedmont Conference game. Tuesday, Davie is scheduled to play at North Iredell.

Davie girls defeated North Rowan last Friday night while the boys were on the short end of a 47-46 game.

Coach Bill Peeler's girls jumped into an early lead and held on for a 48 to 39 victory. The advantage at halftime was 27-15 and it was 37-23 after three periods.

Nancy Reavis led Davie with 23 points. Debbie Burton had 16. The North Rowan boys broke away from a tight contest to take a 48-41 lead with about two minutes to play, but Davie rallied to close the gap.

Coach Henry's boys then pulled to within one point, taking advantage of a couple of North turnovers, but the War Eagles couldn't take the lead. North Rowan had possession in the final seconds, missing a foul shot with a second to go.

North Rowan hit 21 of 50 field goal attempts for 42 per cent, while Davie made good on 19 of 46 for 41 per cent. The Cavaliers out rebounded the War Eagles, 35 to 33.

To Be Ready For '74 PGA Tourney

New Tanglewood Clubhouse Is Going Up

Construction began on the new Tanglewood Golf Clubhouse on June 15, 1972 and is scheduled to be completed by July 1, 1973.

According to Ray Whitley, general manager for Tanglewood Park, the multi-level structure will contain approximately 28,000 square feet. The building will be an unusual design for a clubhouse, one which Whitley describes as "neither traditional nor contemporary."

The clubhouse will be built of brown brick with a dark border and will feature large windows with views of the golf course and the surrounding countryside.

The ground level will house a golf pro shop, a grill which will serve breakfast and lunch, men's and ladies' locker rooms as well as golf cart storage.

The upper level will have office space, several multi-purpose rooms, a 300-seat ballroom and a complete kitchen where meals for large functions may be prepared.

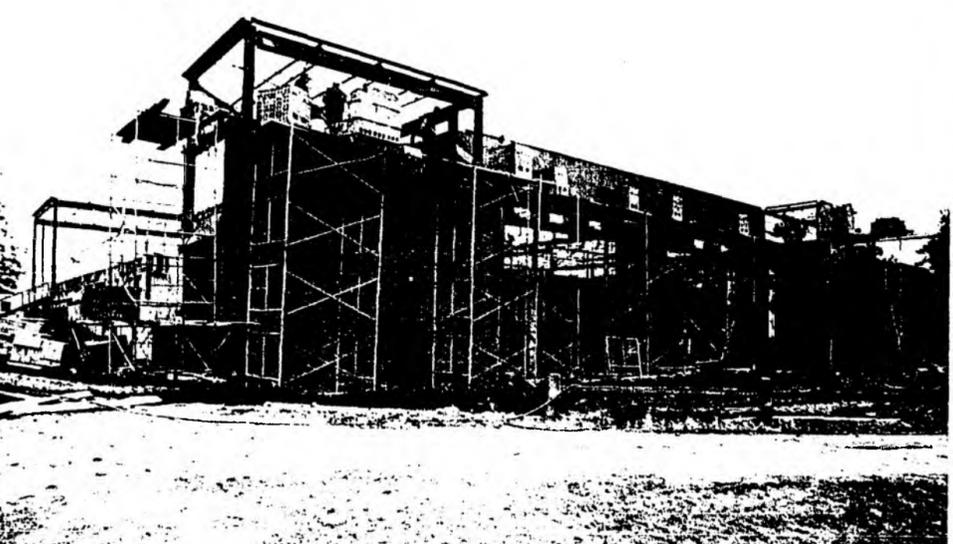

The north side of the building will have terraces off the ballroom area and the west and south sides will have balconies inside the building.

The new clubhouse is being built on the site of the old one which was torn down. The building will sit on the highest point in Forsyth County.

Whitley said that it was part of Tanglewood's agreement with the Professional Golf Association that a more adequate clubhouse be built before the tournament is held at Tanglewood in 1974. But he said, "We would have eventually had to build one anyway."

Odell and Associates of Charlotte were the architects and Bloom Construction Company is in charge of construction.

The World of Skiing

by Eric DeGroat

Director of Skiing, Appalachian Ski Mountain

We are now learning to actually ski. This means standing, stopping and turning on the slope.

You will need to be able to stand on the slope while you put a ski back on, or to just rest. To stand with both skis on, place both poles downhill in the snow, one near the tip of the downhill ski and the other near the tail of the downhill ski. You'll find that by placing the downhill ski on the baskets of the poles, you'll be able to easily stand up, leaving your hands free.

If you have lost a ski, be sure that you move the ski that is still on to the downhill side before you try placing the poles.

If you have lost both skis, place the first ski that you are trying to put on to the downhill side against the poles and then step into the binding.

Now to the more complicated. If you've been out on the slope already, you've found that after a lesson and a day on the slope with the short skis, you're able to get about in some fashion. After that first taste of success, it seems that all skiers want to be displaying the form we see in the movies and on television—the beautiful, graceful "final form" of the parallel deep-powder skiers. That form can only be achieved with much work and practice. Several moves must be mastered and become as natural a movement as walking.

To really be in control on the slopes, you must be able to control your speed. The best way to control speed at first is by making turns and skiing across the slope so that you don't have to ski straight down the slope and pick up tremendous speed. By gliding across the hill, speed is reduced. But since there are side limits to the slope, a downhill turn to the opposite direction is required.

In lessons on turns, the phrases "the weighted ski will continue to turn," or "weight on the outside ski in the turn" usually are used. This means that in turning you place your weight on one ski and this ski is the one on the outside in the turn. The weight is shifted to the outside ski by twisting your shoulders and hips so that you face over the outside ski, making it heavier.

As you complete the turn and start across the slope in the opposite direction, your weight continues to be over that outside ski, which is now the downhill ski, so you will be leaning slightly downhill.

If you lean back (this is the usual mistake) your weight will be over the uphill ski and you will fall back because your uphill ski will be "weighted" and it will try to turn downhill and tend to run out from under you.

To keep your weight on the downhill ski as you go across the slope, keep your hands low and well in front of you. You'll find that this tends to make you bend slightly forward at the waist, knees and ankles, bringing your weight forward. The bent knees and ankles will allow you to float over the bumps in the snow (moguls) and you will not be thrown back and up by the uneven surface. You will be able on your skis and will absorb the uneven terrain with the legs. Your torso (upper body) will remain even as the legs move up and down. All you will need is a slight twist of the shoulder to make one ski "weighted" as you reach the other side of the slope and turn to traverse (go across) the slope again.

Now that your turns are coming around, you'll be interested in the pole plant. This begins to add rhythm to your turns. As your turn you reach forward (keeping your hands out in front) and set the tip of your downhill pole in the snow, just in front of your downhill ski tip.

Then as you slide past the planted pole, turn your shoulders over the outside ski and turn around the pole. Do not let your downhill pole hand come back and make you face uphill. That can result in overturning and tailing-off downhill.

Short poles (coming up to the elbows) are used in lessons to keep your hands low and cause you to stand up or keep your uphill shoulder back uphill.

Remember to just touch the pole in the snow and slide past the planted pole, don't lean on it.

To be sure that you are right over the downhill ski as you traverse, reach down and touch the downhill side of the downhill boot with the uphill hand. This will bring the uphill shoulder to the front and over the downhill ski. Now when you stand up you will be facing the bottom of the slope.

As you practice, these movements will become second nature. When you start making them without thinking about doing it, that's when you're really skiing.

Tanglewood Is Awarded CGA Amateur

The North Carolina Golf Association's North Carolina and North Carolina-South Carolina amateur tournaments will be played this summer at Pinehurst and Clemmons.

CGA secretary Hale Van Hoy said Saturday the 59th CGA Amateur will be July 24-29 at Tanglewood Club near Clemmons. An 18-hole qualifying round will be July 24 to pick 63 of the 64 competitors from a field of 160. Defending champion David Canipe of Fayetteville is automatically eligible.

The match play event will have a double round July 26 and a 36-hole final the last day.

Van Hoy said the 13th annual North Carolina event will be played on two courses at Pinehurst June 28-July 1. He said the field had previously been limited to 160 players, but by competing on the Pinehurst Country Club and Country Club of North Carolina courses 260 golfers can play.

The first two rounds will be split between the courses, with each golfer going on each. The final two days will be played at Country Club of North Carolina with the low 60 and ties eligible. Steve Morris of Mt. Airy is defending champion.

Fans Force Redskins To Run For Cover

The Washington Redskins were forced to run for cover Monday when hundreds of young fans stormed onto the Anaheim Stadium field, cutting short a news conference.

"It was heartening, but scary," said Coach George Allen, whose team is working out here for Sunday's National Football League Super Bowl game against Miami.

More than 4,000 youngsters showed up to watch the Redskins and get their autographs and, after watching the news conference from the stands for nearly an hour, the rush was on. More than half of them broke over the ball park's railings and the security guards, only three of them, were helpless.

"It's nice to see that many people come out to watch us," Allen said, "but when you have to run for your life and worry about your players getting broken arms or legs, that's something different."

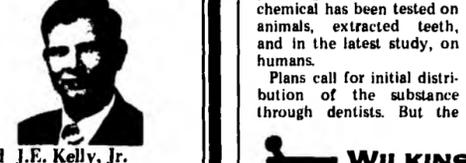

Remember to just touch the pole in the snow and slide past the planted pole, don't lean on it.

To be sure that you are right over the downhill ski as you traverse, reach down and touch the downhill side of the downhill boot with the uphill hand. This will bring the uphill shoulder to the front and over the downhill ski. Now when you stand up you will be facing the bottom of the slope.

As you practice, these movements will become second nature. When you start making them without thinking about doing it, that's when you're really skiing.

Agricultural Extension Service News

A Look at the Crystal Ball
With 1972 now ended, the thoughts of experts on farm matters begin to turn to the new year.

During 1972, agriculture experienced many changes. Higher tobacco prices, demand for soybeans, the increase in grain sales and cattle and hog prices were some of the major factors on the plus side for farmers.

But bad weather which hampered the harvesting of many crops and prices equal to or below previous years offset some of the good points of the year. Ever-increasing production costs also took its toll.

Senator Helms To Have Campus Office

A U.S. Senate office on a university campus? North Carolina's new Republican Senator Jesse Helms is going to try it on the campus of East Carolina University at Greenville.

Helms, in a joint announcement today with ECU Chancellor Leo W. Jenkins, said that the office will be opened "within a very few weeks" in the new political science building at the university.

Helms will be the first U.S. Senator in many years to operate a branch office in Eastern North Carolina. The office will receive inquiries and requests for assistance from citizens of the area.

Jenkins said that the university is contributing the space as a matter of public service. Both Jenkins and Helms said that the office could be highly useful also as a means of students becoming familiar with the functions of a U.S. Senator's office.

Helms described the move as an "experiment." If this one works out satisfactorily, Helms said, "we may wish to try the same thing on some other campuses. I can envision that there may be mutual benefit for all of us—the people who need help in contacting their Senator, the students at the university, and their teachers. In any event, it's worth a try, and it won't cost the taxpayers anything. I am grateful to Dr. Jenkins and to Bob Morgan (Attorney General Robert Morgan, who is also chairman of the ECU Trustees) for working with us so willingly."

Helms said an announcement will be made later as to the exact date of opening the office and other details.

pect for the next 12 months? U. S. Department of Agriculture economists say the outlook for the first six months at least is for a continuation of the record-high level 1972 has produced. Cattle prices will go higher, they say, in early 1973. Hog prices will stay high for the first half of the year. However, with a report that farmers are farrowing seven percent more sows in the December-February period, marketings in the summer could pick up and lower hog prices somewhat. USDA economists even say such a trend toward increased production could put prices under considerable pressure late next year.

In feed grains and wheat, it is expected that the Russians will buy $1.2 billion in fiscal 1973 compared with only $150 million in the previous year. Most of this will be in wheat ($660 million) with feed grains making up close to $400 million. Soybean purchases will come to about $135 million. This buying reflects the Soviet crop failures and also, the effort to improve the diets of their people.

Here at home, the consumer will continue record purchases of food in supermarkets and restaurants. Total food spending is rising about 5 1/2 percent this year, and may top $124 billion. The economy is expected to continue to expand and this means personal incomes will increase. This will bring on a further rise in domestic demand for food products.

It all looks good on paper. But with all the uncertainties associated with farming, plus skyrocketing production costs, agriculture's crystal ball continues to remain unclear.

Bits Of Life

Thoughts For The New Year

By ROSCOE BROWN FISHER
Grandpa Brown and I stood on the overhead bridge. A fast train came into view, passed rapidly beneath, and was gone.

It was quiet again. Grandpa adjusted his spectacles for a better view of the stars. I thought it was a good time to let him talk. Besides, I have often been told it is wise to listen to those who have been where you are going.

"Tell me about life," I asked. He said: — Most people take better care of their automobiles than their brains. . . they seldom put cheap fuel in their cars.

— Our minds are like vending machines. . . they won't pay off unless we put something in. — Gossip's knowledge of arithmetic is incomplete. It uses only addition and multiplication.

— Cutting off your nose to spite your face may hurt your disposition as well as your looks. — The higher you climb the farther you fall when you give up.

— Some people never learn that you have to stoop to conquer. — Few men ever achieve anything worthwhile without first believing it is a worthwhile thing.

— Remember the fault you see in another may be your own; so say a little prayer for someone you dislike and show a little kindness to someone in need. — Investing something of ourselves in another is a way of keeping more than we give away.

Grandpa left off speaking, and was quiet again. The stars were bright overhead.

Golden Age Club

Wednesday morning at ten, the Davie Golden Age Club met in the Rotary Hut. Although the day was dark and gloomy their spirits were gay and cheerful as they sang two familiar songs. Rev. Mark Jordan of the Wesleyan Methodist Church, the youngest pastor in Davie County, brought a message of interest and importance from the seventh chapter of Matthew. He used the key words, "Ask, Seek, Knock," and in so doing he said he was specific for what you ask and seek. He closed with prayer.

During the business period the club voted to become a member of the State Federation of Senior Citizens. Those reported absence because of illness were Mrs. Mima Morgan, Mrs. Griffin, and J. H. Markham.

Those with January birthday anniversaries were honored in song. They were Miss Margaret Brock, Mrs. Josephine Towsey, Jessie Graves and James Bowles. During a social hour Bingo was enjoyed. With the singing of the theme song and a prayer by J. S. Haire, the meeting was dismissed.

When the temperature goes down, your electric bill goes up.

Here's how you can save.

Your electric bill is higher at this time of year. This is partly because of the recent rate increases—but mainly because you use more electricity during the winter months. Here are some helpful suggestions on how to use electricity more efficiently in your home—and reduce your electric bill.

Heating

Set your thermostat at the lowest comfortable temperature. Each degree you reduce the temperature can reduce your heating cost by 5%.

Check for air leaks, and caulk or weatherstrip as needed. Open draperies in the daytime to let in the sun's heat; close them at night to keep out cold. Clean re-usable filters or replace others often in furnaces. (Remember—it takes quite a bit of electricity to operate oil and gas furnaces, too.)

Water Heater

Don't set the water heater thermostat higher than necessary. Repair leaking faucets. Even a small dripping wastes water and can make your water heater work overtime, particularly when the water supply is much colder in the winter.

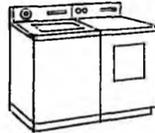

For small meals, toaster ovens, fry pans and similar small appliances are more economical to use than the range oven.

When boiling water is used, set the element on high to come to a quick boil. Then, use the lowest setting that will continue the boil. Boiling harder does not make the water any hotter; it just wastes electricity.

Plan meals to use the oven for several foods at the same time. Never use your oven to heat your kitchen.

Washer and Dryer

Use only enough hot water for the size and type of load. It costs less to wash and dry one full load than two small ones, and saves you time, too. Clean lint filter after each load. Don't overdry clothes; overdrying wastes electricity and damages fabrics.

Range and Oven

Use flat-bottomed utensils that match the size of your surface units. Cover utensils when possible.

Lighting and Appliances

Turn off lights and TV when not actually needed. Turn off small appliances as soon as you're through with them. Much electricity is wasted by carelessness.

These hints can help you get the most from electricity and reduce your electric bill.

Insurance Company Handles Weird Classics

"Life is one damn thing after another," Mark Twain is thought to have said.
Or was it the guy who was thrown through a window by an elephant?
Or the hunter whose false teeth were stolen by a wood-chuck?

Or one of the many other people whose weird cases were among more than 18 million insurance claim payments handled by Aetna Life & Casualty in 1972?
Consider the West Virginia man who planned to spend a July afternoon watching a circus parade. He was innocently indulged in this American pastime when an elephant reached into the crowd of onlookers. Before anyone could say "peanuts," this spectator was hurled, like the man on the flying trapeze, through a nearby store window.
Consider also a Newburgh, N. Y. man who went hunting with a smile, only to have his adversary get the last toothy laugh. Leaving his false teeth on a table, the hunter returned to the reality that a woodchuck had made away with the choppers.

A Pennsylvania woman gave Aetna's claims people a chuckle with a case of mistaken identity. Seeing a familiar looking pair of legs protruding from beneath the family car, she announced the readiness of lunch, adding an affectionate wifely pat.
The startled mechanic, however, was not her husband. Thrown into total confusion, the man lurched, slamming his head against the car and knocking himself cold. He came to on a stretcher and, red-faced, began to explain. In the ensuing gale of laughter, the ambulance attendants dropped the stretcher, adding a broken arm to the man's fractured dignity.
Despite their billing as man's best friend, dogs don't necessarily make a man's life any easier.
In West Virginia a female dog being pursued by a large pack of ardent admirers and playing hard-to-get, took refuge under a shiny new car. The would-be suitors, exasperated at this female ploy, began to fight among themselves.
The car was the loser, though, with a caved-in fender and hood moulding, chewed-up tire and torn-out signal light wiring. And Aetna chalked up $95.29 to "cannine quarrel".

Another dog in neighboring Virginia decided he could shift for himself. Left unattended in the front seat of a running car, the pooch opted for "reverse". As the auto rammed into a neighbor's garage across the street, the rattled dog let out a real Virginia wof.
Also putting the wrong foot forward was a Florida man returning to his hotel room a bit inebriated. He took an unsteady step toward the bed. Body followed foot -- right out the open window.
Davie Academy Ruritans Meet
The Davie Academy Ruritan Club held their monthly meeting Tuesday, January 2. Michael Wilkinson, director of the Northwest Environmental Program, gave an up-to-date report on the Junk Car Clean-up in Davie County. All of the Ruritan Clubs in the county are planning to participate in this campaign.
Glenn Hendrix showed slides of a recent summer vacation trip to Frankfurt, Germany and surrounding cities and villages for the program.

Discuss Camps

Mrs. John F. Trotman, President of the Tarheel Triad Girl Scout Council, and the council officers met with adult volunteers to discuss plans for the camps operated by the Tarheel Triad Girl Scout Council. The meeting was held January 10 from 10 A.M. to 1 P.M. in the Paddison Memorial Library building, Mountain Street, Kernersville. Coffee was served, beginning at 9:30.

The president and other council officers assembled a review of all actions regarding the camps which the Board has taken since the council was chartered in 1968. These were distributed to those attending the meeting.

Letter To Editor

To Enterprise Readers:

I can buy an ad in the Enterprise and express my views concerning almost any matter. Such an ad makes me legally responsible in a court of law. It must bear my name and be my responsibility.

This is true because it is a free press, that can be used by a free people. The Enterprise would have no choice. They would have to print it even if it did not represent their views at all.

Those who were wronged or considered themselves to be by the recent ad; could go to some court and sue if they thought they had sufficient grounds for such action.

On my part I will not blame the management of the Enterprise. I will not cancel my paper. I expect to continue enjoy reading it.

Generally most industries soon learn what is in good taste or acceptable to the public and will try to appeal to it.

I appreciate the availability of a free press even though I have never used it before.

Sincerely,
James R. York

Dear Editor:
It isn't the purpose of the writer to "sit you straight" on the how and ways to edit and publish a very fine weekly newspaper. You already have that ability -- I certainly do not. However, if it is the policy of the Davie County-Enterprise Record to accept, edit, or publish such ads as that appearing in the December 21 issue, please remove my name from your subscription list as of today. (The ad referred to was designed to promote the sales of a Mobile Homes business in Davie County.) I simply do not allow Archie Bunker to come into my home with all of his sex, smut, and the use of God's name in vain--we simply turn the knob on him and shut him out. I would do the same with the Davie County Enterprise-Record. Personally, I feel that the above mentioned ad was a direct insult to every conscientious reader of your fine paper. Sure, there were those who took it with "a grain of salt" and laughed it off. Your readers, most all of them, speak of the Davie County Enterprise-Record as a "wonderful weekly." It is one of the best, in many ways, that we've ever had to grace our reading habit. I have faith in you that you will continue to keep it that way.
Kindly yours,
Lewis Savage

Dear Sir:
We would like to express our sincere appreciation to our many friends in Davie, Davidson, and Forsyth Counties and to the friends of our daughter, Mrs. Glenda McDaniel Smith, for the numerous kindness shown during Glenda's extended illness and her death on December 31, 1972.
We are now facing another great crisis in our lives and especially in the life of her five-year-old, Mark, who, along with his mother, has lived with us since the day of his birth.
Glenda was divorced from her husband, who has made no attempt to see her nor their son in almost three years and who has never contributed one dime to their support. Her husband is now trying to take Mark away from us and from the only home he has ever known.
We ask the prayers of all the christian people to help us bear this burden and we pray that the outcome will, above all, be what is best for Mark.
Glenn and Ruth McDaniel
Cooleemee, N.C.

LETTER TO EDITOR

To all of you who signed your names to the complaint to the editor, I say God bless you. If all us christian folk would complain, and try to do something about all the sin in the world we would have a much better world to live in. I asked the Enterprise if they would put a picture of our Christmas tree in which we had decorated our ornaments, and they said no; just because it was the week after Christmas. And to think they would run any ad for the Skyline Mobile home before Christmas is so disappointing. I would think they would have more respect for our paper than that. But as they say, money speaks louder than words or beauty.

Sincerely yours,
Mrs. Clarence Brogdon

Wim's Whims

by Wim Osborne

Was recently informed by a young friend (13 years old) that if you kiss a frog, you'll get warts on your lips. (I didn't know that!)

Here was a TEACHER! Roll call was answered by, prepared ... partly prepared ... unprepared. If the response was, "prepared" -- you'd better be! She'd pop a question, and if you couldn't answer -- automatic zero.

John says, "You're a nut and Pop is a nut." "And what are you," I ask. To which he replied, "I'm nutin."

Married happiness is like a tree, I'm told. It has to grow before the shade can be enjoyed. Could this be why sun tan lotions sales hit an all-time high last year?

The true character of a person is often revealed by what he DOESN'T say.

Cooking a meal in my kitchen is like running an obstacle course -- I have to go over, under, around and through, kids, toys and spouse.

I've always tried to be honest with my answers to the kids' questions, so, when John asked how babies were born, I told him. He then turned to Patty (his sister expecting first baby) and told her, "Pat, if your baby's not born a normal birth, it'll have pierced ears." (I'm still trying to figure that one out -- must have missed something in all my reading.)

Mending by hand is good arthritic therapy -- this becomes a chant as the thread continues to tangle.

Everyone needs a friend with whom to share comfortable silences.

For too long the bell in the steeple of the Cooleemee Presbyterian church has been silent. A "spur of the moment" thought prompted me to load the car with "forty-seven" kids on New Year's Eve, and head for the church to "ring out the old and ring in the new". We took turns pulling the old rope -- even Rev. Fisher put in his two yanks. It sounded beautiful! HAPPY NEW YEAR!!

POETRY

Poetry is the sister of sorrow; every man that suffers and weeps, is a poet; every tear is a verse; and every heart a poem.
ANDRE

Harry S. Truman, 33rd President of the United States, now sleeps in the quietude of the Truman Library courtyard in his hometown.

Most of the controversies and battles that swirled around him in his nearly eight years in the White House have quietened over the years, in part due to the fact that half the current population of the country was not born on April 12, 1945, when Franklin Roosevelt died and Harry Truman took the oath of office as President. Those who lived through his era, however, still remember with vivid recollections his extraordinary Presidency.

It began with the war in Europe rapidly coming to a close, and the war with Japan about to end. It was a time when the United Nations was in its infancy and plans were being laid to rebuild Western Europe. At home, the economy was changing drastically from war to peace, and strikes and unemployment were the topics of the day.

Anyone who succeeded Franklin Roosevelt would have had a difficult assignment, but few expected Harry Truman to measure up to the task. Many ignored his background as a man of principle who exhibited the strengths that have made America great. At first, the public gave him sympathy when he enjoyed almost universal support. Soon, however, the days of decision came, and the critics sought to do him in. They would have, too, had he had less iron in his veins. Much of the criticism probably arose out of the fact that he was never one to play both sides of the political street. He always said "the buck stops here."

So it was. He made monumental decisions to proceed with the San Francisco Conference to establish the United Nations, to end World War II with the bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, to develop the hydrogen bomb in the interests of national defense, to establish the Marshall Plan as a means of restoring the economy of Western Europe, to give aid to Greece and Turkey to prevent the spread of communism, to break the first Berlin blockade by Russia, and to build the North Atlantic Treaty Organization into a defensive alliance in the Cold War.

Mr. Truman often said that the most difficult decision of all was the order to send American boys to fight in South Korea, and he agonized over that more than any other. He understood what it meant as a former captain of an artillery battalion which suffered casualties in the Meuse-Argonne offensive. No one can forget his dedication to civilian control of our military forces. For it was Harry Truman who fired General Douglas MacArthur as Supreme Commander in the Pacific for insubordination in one of the most dramatic confrontations in history.

As a vote-getter, he never won tremendous pluralities. At mid-point in his Presidency, it appeared that Thomas E. Dewey might succeed him. The pollsters, commentators, and political leaders predicted his defeat. Undaunted, he took his message to the people, and in the wee morning hours of November 3, 1948, Mr. Truman scored the political upset of the century.

His strength was with the common people -- the average worker. They always knew where he stood on any issue and admired his creed -- "Do what you think is right and never mind the critics." He was a curious blend of his heroes -- Robert E. Lee and Andrew Jackson. Unflinching in courage, unflinching in loyalty to family and friends, he gave to the country the best that he had. No one could ask for more. The Nation owes a lasting debt of gratitude to a great American who now rests with the ages.

Wildlife Afield

BY JIM DEAN

The hunter unlocked the gun cabinet and handed me the handsome old double barreled shotgun. It was a beauty.

"My grandfather owned it," he said proudly. "I like to hunt quail and doves with it, and I guess someday it will belong to my son."

I opened the action and squinted down the barrels. They were quite dirty. "You ought to run a patch through there," I remarked.

"Yeah, I will," he replied as he put the gun back in the cabinet. "It's just that I'm usually so tired when I get back in from hunting that I sometimes forget to clean the gun. It's a lot of trouble to take a gun apart and clean and oil it, especially when you've also got half a dozen quail to clean."

I know the feeling. It's mighty easy to put the gun in the cabinet and forget about it for a few days. Unfortunately, sometimes those days have a way of becoming weeks and months, and I have seen several fine guns ruined because they were not kept clean.

Several years ago, I got a short course in rudimentary gun care from a gunsmith acquaintance. Not only were his tips good ones, but he also showed me how to "quick-clean" a gun following a hunt. The process of "quick-cleaning" works for all guns, and it is simplicity itself, involving no take-down of the gun. I no longer fool with all the solvents and oils that I used to use (although I do keep a bottle of Hoppe's No. 9 just to smell it for old times sake).

Instead, I keep a rifle rod and a shotgun cleaning rod in my gun cabinet, along with some strips of old undershirt already cut to size. I also keep a can of WD-40 spray. When I come in from hunting, I open the gun's action and spray WD-40 up the barrels (you can see the spray as it comes out the end). Then, I run a clean patch down the barrel, and spray the inside of the barrel again. Then I lightly spray the other metal surfaces of the gun and put it in the cabinet. What could be simpler than that? The whole process takes about a minute, and I can rest assured that the gun will remain free of corrosion and rust for at least a month. In fact, I have left guns through the summer with no ill effects, although I like to give them a more thorough cleaning before putting them up after the season.

Quite frankly, WD-40 is a miracle worker. It repels water and offer good protection. I even carry a small can duck hunting and spray my guns lightly before and after the hunt. The stuff is not greasy, and if you get it on the stock, it apparently does no harm. That's more than you can say for oil which can ruin a stock. "I've worked on a lot of guns, and old guns particularly seem to get gummed up with old oil," the gunsmith told me. "Also, I've seen a lot of guns virtually ruined because the owner had allowed oil to seep down into the stock and weaken the wood. Most hunters use too much oil anyway."

His solution is to store his guns barrels down, and he has altered his gun cabinets slightly to permit this. His reasoning is that when a gun is stored with the stock down (as is customary), the oil slowly seeps down into the action and stock where it can eventually cause damage. By storing them barrel down, any accumulation of oil tends to run out the end of the barrel.

He also suggests that guns never be stored in air-tight cabinet or case. "Those fleecelined cases are pretty and they offer some protection against bumps when you are transporting your gun in the car or truck, but if you store a gun in one, it will surely rust," he says. "Also, never plug the end of a barrel with a cork or cloth patch. This can cause severe rust problems."

These tips are very simple, but they can insure that your son's heirloom will be in good shape when he gets it after you graduate to that last happy hunting ground.

INSECT SPECIES

The number of insect species may be as many as 9 million, according to National Geographic's new book "The Marvels of Animal Behavior."

Farm Tips

By Dr. J. W. Pou
Agricultural Specialist
Wachovia Bank & Trust Co., N.A.

Enough wood was used in the United States last year to build a boardwalk one foot thick and twenty-four feet wide half-way to the moon. Cuttings from farm woodlands provided close to half of the nation's wood supplies last year and added more than 240 million dollars to farm income.

Demand for most forest products seems destined to grow rapidly.

Over half of the farm sales of forest products last year were made by Southern farmers. Woodlands on North Carolina farms brought in over $31 million.

Generally speaking, what can a farmer expect in financial returns from his forest holding?

An increase in land value is one thing he might expect from developments of the past decade. The $30 to $40 per acre base value of woodland has jumped into three figures over a short time span.

Timber values have sharply accelerated over the same period. And it is sales of timber that will give the farmer-with-forest the most profit. How much, of course, will depend on where he lives, his markets, and the quality of his timber stand.

Wherever he might be, a farmer would be fairly lucky to have a 40-acre piney woods on good soil with a good stand. The owner's capital investment, time, and effort on this small woodlot should net $600. With little or no financial or management inputs, he can let nature take its course and probably net $200 or $300 annually from the 40 acres.

Timber, of course, is only one forest product. Many others, lesser known, can also give the woodland owner some supplementary farm income. Such products range from pine mulch and fireplace logs to medicinal barks and edible berries - not to mention Christmas trees and home-crafted wood novelties.

Less tangible, with profits less predictable, are potentials stemming from public pressure for private wooded "play-grounds", campsites, fee-fishing spots, nature trails or hunting grounds.

From both economic and social aspects the woodland horizon is broad and should be bright for the 4 million individuals who own various parts of it.

Trouble is, if you are an average farmer you may not have the know-how or monetary incentive to manage your "little forest" the way you do your crops and livestock.

Your returns from your woodlot are therefore relatively small. Moreover, average yearly growth per acre of your trees isn't anywhere near what it could be. You are not adding as much as you might to the Nation's needed wood supplies, nor to your own wallet either.

You can in many cases do something about it. You can improve your timber stand by planting genetically improved stock, thinning, fertilizing, preventing fires, and controlling pests and disease.

Case the market. Determine the needs of local industries. Plan ahead. Time your cuts to take advantage of markets offering the best price. Investigate possibilities for hard-to-market species, sizes, and grades of forest products.

Harvest efficiently and judiciously. Measure the volume of your harvest as carefully as you figure the "quick" profits. Consider the savings if you can do your own harvesting, using your farm equipment.

Management and marketing information and services are available, often free, from a number of sources. Your State-employed forester is probably one of the best for on-the-spot help.

Banquet Held At Advance Fire Department For Volunteers

Roy L. Carter, Ricky Hockaday and Mrs. Carl Eaton were the recipients of special honors at a banquet given by the Auxiliary of the Advance Volunteer Fire Department for the firemen and their families.

Mr. Carter, of Advance, Route 2, was presented a trophy as the "Older Fireman of the Year." Ricky was named "Younger Fireman of the Year" and Mrs. Eaton was presented a jardiniere for her many years of service as Davie County Fire Control agent. Charles Blakely of Winston-Salem, Fire Instructor at the Advance Fire Department presented the trophies and Mr. Carter presented the gift to Mrs. Eaton.

Trophies were Ronnie Robertson of Mocksville and Ralph Montgomery of Advance, Rt. 2. Mr. and Mrs. Dick Vogler were recognized for their services to the Department. Chief Huston Crater paid tribute to all the firemen and their many hours of services rendered to the department and their community.

A Christmas color scheme was carried out in decoration for the banquet. The tables were overlaid with white cloths with red ribbons connecting each table. Red candles in crystal holders were encircled with Chinese holly and red berries and used as centerpiece for the tables. A decorated tree was the center of attraction in the room.

A buffet style dinner was served to approximately 75 people. Christmas punch was served by Mrs. Gene Vogler.

Rev. Willard Stevens of the Elberton. Charge was guest speaker for the banquet. His subject was "Why We Have A Responsibility To Our Community" and he also spoke of the birth of Jesus. Christmas carols were sung by the group and led by Mrs. I. H. Jones, Jr.

President Carter concluded the meeting with an invitation "to all men, especially the young, to come and join the department and learn how to use the fire trucks and to become an active part of the department."

The runners-up for the

by Vernice Fulcher

Employers have a dual interest in the Social Security Program - coverage for themselves and coverage for their employees. The employees in Davie County deserve special recognition and thanks for the care and attention given to accurately reporting earnings for Social Security. They know the important role the Social Security number plays in making the largest record keeping system in the world work to insure proper credit is given to each worker.

There has been no change in the reporting process, but beginning January 1, 1973, a new tax rate of 5.85 percent on earnings up to $10,800 will go into effect. An explanation of these increases is contained in a leaflet now available at the Social Security Office, 105 Corriher Avenue, Salisbury, N. C. 28144. Many employers have already requested a supply of these leaflets to distribute to their employees with an early January salary check.

For your copies call 633-6470 and let us know how many you need.

Q. Does Medicare pay for prescription drugs?

A. No. Prescription drugs and biologicals that you can administer yourself are not covered.

Q. Do I need a work permit or anything else to get a Social Security number before I am age 16?

A. No. You don't need any work authorization and you don't have to be any certain age. In fact, people are encouraged to obtain a Social Security card well in advance of the time it is needed.

Q. Several people have told me I could get social security retirement benefits because I am 60 and a widow. My husband died in 1936. One person, however, said I could not receive benefits on my own record at 60, but that I had to be 62. Who is right?

A. The one person who said you could not get monthly benefits on your own record at 60 is correct. A widow's benefit can be paid at age 60 on her husband's work record; however, since your husband died in 1936 (before Social Security was effective), you would not qualify for any benefits on his record.

Q. I am the manager of a local business and have received questions from many of my employees about the new tax rate and base which will go into effect in January 1973. Do you have any literature about this?

A. Yes, we have an explanation leaflet. If you would like a supply to give your employees, please call and let us know how many you need.

Health Of Local Population Is Measured

How healthy are Davie County residents? How do they compare, in that regard, with people in other parts of the country? What progress has been made, if any, in recent years?

Some answers to these questions may be gleaned from the reports of the National Center for Health Statistics, the analytic arm of the U. S. Public Health Service.

Through weekly samplings of families across the land, it keeps constant watch on the physical condition of the population.

It gauges the general health of a community by the extent to which its people are able to pursue their normal daily activities without interruptions necessitated by illness or injury.

This is measured by what is called a "disability days index," which takes account of the number of days of restricted activity, when a person is unable to go to work or to school, and those in which he is kept in bed or in a hospital, called bed days.

In the regional area embracing Davie County, on that basis, the health of the population was somewhat better in 1970 than it was five years earlier, according to the government's latest figures.

They show that the average number of disability days in the area in 1970 was 15.9 per person, of which 7.2 were bed days. In 1965 local people had an average of 16.9 disability days, including 6.7 bed days.

By way of comparison, the national average in 1970 was 14.6 days of restricted activity, 6.1 of them in bed.

Improvement was noted in this regard in all sections of the country today are those who live on farms in the Midwest and have incomes of over $10,000 a year.

figures, women are more likely to be incapacitated than men. They have 15.8 days of disability per year as against 13.2 for men.

The loss in Davie County, based upon the disability rate reported for its sectional area, 15.9 days per person, adds up to a total of 305,000 days for the year.

The American Medical Association, commenting on these health statistics in its publication "Update," notes that the healthiest people in the country today are those who live on farms in the Midwest and have incomes of over $10,000 a year.

Central Telephone Plans For New Installation In Mocksville

Central Telephone Company will spend $12,343,600 for construction and continued equipment modernization in North Carolina during 1973 according to S.E. Leftwich, Vice President.

Central Telephone Company is a division of Central Telephone & Utilities, whose construction and modernization budget for 1973 totals over $122,000,000.

Leftwich said that expenditures in North Carolina will be made in two basic categories, the construction of new facilities to meet rising service demands and the continued modernization of existing facilities and equipment to continue Central's long term service improvement program.

One of the larger projects scheduled for the Mocksville exchange for 1973 is the installation of traffic analyzer equipment to measure the flow of calls through the local switching system for administrative, projecting, and engineering purposes. Additional rotary out switches will be installed in the Central Office switching equipment to provide more access to the long distance switching network. Facilities will be added to provide service for an anticipated 225 additional subscribers.

Leftwich said that Central's budget is indicative of the Company's confidence in the growth potential of the area.

Davie Firm Has Silver Missing

E. J. Stotts of Davie County, who refines waste silver used in manufacturing and restores it to its pure state, says three bars of his bullion worth $5,400 are missing.

Stotts said Eastern Airlines, which was shipping the 180 pounds of silver for him, can't find it. The airline confirmed that Stotts did ship the bullion Thursday from Charlotte and it is looking for it.

Stotts did not give the destination of the silver but the plane on which it was placed stopped only in Atlanta before landing in Los Angeles.

Stotts said he is afraid the bullion has been stolen and that he has had problems before with lost shipments.

Charlotte police and the FBI told a representative of the Associated Press that until Eastern Airlines completes its investigation, they cannot get involved. As of Sunday they were still checking.

The Stotts reside in the Fork Church community of Davie County and operate a company under the name of "Group Van Designs" that recycles silver and gold from discarded material and restoring it to a more pure form. They were former residents of California.

Davie Hospital Is Given Funds

The Davie County Hospital has received two gifts of funds to help finance the current project of expansion and renovation of the hospital.

Revenue Checks

Second federal revenue sharing checks have been received by the Town of Mocksville and the County of Davie.

The County of Davie received $110,801 in the second check. The first check for the county received last December was in the amount of $114,407, making a total of $225,208 for the county.

The Town of Mocksville received $31,065 in the second check. The first check for the town received last December was in the amount of $32,373, making a total of $63,438 for the town.

Reynolds Industries has given the hospital $10,000. Davie County Hospital Administrator William E. Roark said the check was received recently along with a letter written by William Lybrook Senior Vice President and Secretary of Reynolds Industries.

Mr. Roark also announced that the Merrill-Lynch-Fenner-Smith, Inc. Foundation through its Winston-Salem Office, had also sent the local hospital a check for $500.

"On behalf of the people of Davie County and the trustees of the Davie County Hospital I wish to express our thanks and gratitude for the generosity of these two firms. This will help our hospital to proceed with the expansion program to the fullest," said Mr. Roark.

Mr. Roark pointed out that the purchase of additional land, advance rising costs, plus other construction requirements not anticipated, had projected the total cost for the expansion program to around $1,355,000. The hospital bond issue approved by the voters for $975,000.

Last November the project received a boost with a $200,000 grant from the Duke Endowment.

"The grant from Duke Endowment, these other two gifts, plus some other available funds, enables us to proceed on our current building program without curtailment or delay", said Mr. Roark.

Dealers Warned On Restricted Pesticide Sales

The Davie County Farm Agent's Office has advised that all dealers that wish to sell any restricted pesticide must be registered by the Department of Agriculture to sell any of these chemicals.

Leo Williams, County Agent, pointed out there are 60 pesticides that come under this listing.

Warfarin is on the restricted list and is very popular as a rat bait.

"All companies that sell any restricted pesticides should have received a list of these and application for license last month, December 1972," said Mr. Williams. "If you do not have your license or application, you should contact this office immediately or write for the pesticide dealers license to the Department of Agriculture, Raleigh, N. C."

Nine Historic Sites Listed

An inventory of 130 historic sites in Forsyth, Stokes, Davie, Yadkin and Surry counties has just been published by the Northwest North Carolina Historical Association, Inc.

Copies of the inventory are in libraries and register of deeds' offices in the five counties and in the N.C. Department of Art, Culture and History's office of archives and history in Raleigh.

Copies are available free through the office of the association's president, Joe C. Matthews, in the Government Center here.

Sixty-two sites are listed in Forsyth, 23 in Yadkin, 22 in Stokes, 14 in Surry and 9 in Davie.

The list includes homes, churches, graveyards, stores, gardens, courthouses, log cabins, tobacco factories, taverns, islands and at least one coffee pot that have played roles in the area's past.

And, in most cases, it provides instructions for finding the sites.

Matthews, in an introduction to the inventory, said he was confident that some sites that should have been listed may not have been "through a lack of information," and he encouraged reviewers to make additions and corrections.

Mike Hendrix Is Mocksville DSA Winner

Doy Michael Hendrix is "Mocksville's Young Man of the Year." He received the Distinguished Service Award at the Mocksville Jaycees' annual banquet held Friday night at the Rotary Hut.

Mr. Hendrix is a teacher at the Cooleemee Elementary School. A graduate of the Davie High School, he was voted "the most talented" by the Class of 1966. He received his Bachelor of Arts degree in English from Greensboro College in 1970. In college he was active in many campus organizations and was on the dean's list.

In his third year at the Cooleemee Elementary School, he teaches seventh and eighth grade English. Since these grades had no music classes, Mr. Hendrix got permission to have one period a week for singing. He typed off songs and with the assistance of another teacher to direct, and himself at the piano, turned this into a most enjoyable project. Also last year, he tried something else new for the Cooleemee School. Each month he has printed a school newspaper using the students as reporters. He is also co-advisor for the school annual and is chairman of the Professional Rights of the Cooleemee School and also of the county.

Mr. Hendrix is now president of the Davie County Chapter of the North Carolina Symphony Society.

For the Mocksville Jaycees, he has furnished organ and piano music for the "Miss Mocksville Pageant" since 1968, as well as assisting many of the contestants with their talent. He was business manager for "Miss Mocksville of 1971", Miss Debbie Bingham.

Mr. Hendrix has been a blood donor since he was old enough to donate. When the bloodmobile visits Mocksville, he is always there.

He is very active in church work at the First United Methodist Church of Mocksville having served as President of the Faithful Workers Sunday School Class, Chairman of the worship committee, a member of the building committee, co-counselor of the senior-highs of the United Methodist youth. He is also co-counselor of the sub-district U.M.Y. and during the last few years has printed a U.M.Y. newspaper. He became organist of the church in 1965 at the age of 17 and has served ever since.

Since graduating from college, he has been very interested in the chancel and youth choirs. The youth choir has presented five contemporary or folk musicals during the last year and half. Mr. Hendrix compiled the music and readings that were used for two of these services.

For several years he has been organist or pianist for a group of adults known as "The Christmas Carolers". They have become quite popular and are very much in demand during the holidays.

For many years he has made the Christmas wreaths for the church doors and also the two wreaths that hang on the educational building of the church during the Christmas season. Last year with the help of U.M.Y. members, they made the six banners that hung in the

Tattle Tales

J.W. (Boy) Rodwell of Hemlock St. in Mocksville enjoys feeding the birds. He has a bird feeder in which he puts around 25 lbs. of mixed grain per week.

One day last week while eating lunch, "Boy" became attracted by the antics of a Red-Headed Woodpecker. This woodpecker would go to the feeder, get a bill full of grain, and fly to a gasoline pump that was nearby. Watching the bird do this several times, "Boy" went out to the gasoline pump to investigate and found more than a handful of grain in the nozzle of the gasoline hose.

Apparently, the Red Headed Woodpecker, with snow on the ground, was trying to appropriate some food for future use.

This is said to happen recently at one of the local churches.

The choir of this church was to offer a special rendition of "I Come To The Garden Alone". The choir was to sing one verse; the women were to sing one verse; and the men one verse.

Came time for the Sunday morning church service, only two men were in the choir.... a duet.

And this wouldn't have been so bad if they could have gotten together.....not only on the tune, but on the verse.

For one song one verse, the other another....and each, thinking the other was wrong, only sang louder in the effort to effect "harmony" out of discord.

"Mike is the type person who is always available when he can be of service to his community. It is impossible to list all that he has done for so many just out of friendship and thoughtfulness for his fellow man", wrote one of the sponsors in recommending Mr. Hendrix for the DSA Award.

Mr. Hendrix is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Hendrix of North Main Street, Mocksville.

Mayor D.J. Mando, a former DSA winner, made the presentation of Mr. Hendrix on behalf of the local Jaycee Club. In his comments he said that the DSA recipient is a person who goes that extra mile.

"Mike is held in high esteem by the young people, the middle age and the elderly and is very active in church, school and community affairs. He is not satisfied with just putting in his hours on his job, but goes the extra mile", said Mr. Mando.

Julius Suter, External Vice President, was master of ceremonies. The invocation was given by Lester Cozart, Chaplain. Eddie Merrell led in the pledge of allegiance. Jack Koontz, President of the Mocksville Jaycees, made the address of welcome.

Guests were presented, and, in addition to those on the program, past DSA winners and their wives were introduced, as was Miss Linda Goolsby, "Miss Mocksville".

Special Jaycee awards were presented as follows: SPOKE awards went to Phil Deadmon, Danny Andrews and Danny Davis. SPARK-PLUG awards went to Jack Koontz, Tom Drillette and Eddie Merrell. Life membership in the

At the end of 1972, Central Telephone Company's total investment in telephone plant was $85,104,983, bringing the investment per telephone served to $627.43.

According to Leftwich, 47.8 percent of the Company's equipment and physical plant is less than five years old due to the large capital investments made by the Company during recent years. In addition to telephone operations in nine states, CTU has natural gas utilities in South Dakota and Nebraska and electric utilities in Colorado and Kansas. National Operating Headquarters of the Company is located on the New York stock exchange under the symbol CTU.

Mocksville Jaycee Club was presented to Ken Sales and Vernon Thompson in recognition of their service to the club.

Eighth District Congressman Earl Ruth was the featured speaker and told the gathering that "awards only have value when they are earned".

Rep. Ruth cited the changes that have brought forth both progress and problems.

"I am proud to be a part of this program. It is wonderful to pay homage to the deserving", said Rep. Ruth.

Davie Man Is Injured In Rowan

A 23-year-old Mocksville man was seriously injured Saturday night while walking along Highway 601 in Rowan County near the M. O. Spry store.

Charles Lewis Leach, 25, of Mocksville Rt. 6 was transferred to the Baptist Hospital in Winston-Salem after he was treated at the Rowan Memorial Hospital's emergency room at 8:30 p. m. He was reported in "stable" condition early this week in the intensive care unit of the Baptist Hospital. He was reported to have suffered multiple cuts, bruises and head injuries.

State Highway Patrolman J. R. Sorrells reported that Leach was walking in the road against the traffic at the time he was struck by a 1963 Chevrolet being driven by Larry Hayes, 17, of Mocksville Rt. 4 around 8 p. m. Trooper Sorrells said that Hayes was attempting to pass another car when he struck Leach.

Hayes reportedly notified the ambulance and police about the accident and accompanied the injured man to the hospital. Mrs. W. T. Hayes, mother of the driver, said that the Hayes family also went to Winston-Salem Saturday night and remained there until 5 a. m. Sunday with the relations of Leach.

The March of Dimes campaign for Davie County is being sponsored by the Mocksville Woman's Club. Mrs. Harry Osborne is general chairman.

The canvas for funds for the March of Dimes is conducted annually to help in the fight for prevention and treatment of birth defects. Fifty percent of the funds raised locally is kept in the county. For the past three years, nursing scholarships to a teen-age senior in the Health Career Club at Davie County High School have been given and plans are being made to do so again this year.

Central Telephone Asks To Increase Rates

Central Telephone Company and Lee Telephone Company requested permission to increase their rates and charges in those areas of North Carolina served by the two companies in an application filed today with the North Carolina Utilities Commission in Raleigh.

Central's North Carolina Division Manager, S.E. Leftwich, speaking on behalf of both Central and Lee, said that current rates are not sufficient to produce the revenues required for Central and Lee to meet current costs of operations. Neither do the current rates provide the fair return required to enable the companies to finance the investment which must be made in order to maintain and extend their service.

The additional gross revenue sought is $5,968,161. Leftwich said, however, that only $2,731,234, or 45.8 percent, of that amount would be available for company use. The remainder of the increase would go for local, state and federal taxes. The proposed rates are subject to approval by the Commission.

"In light of the demands of the customers and the communities we serve for continuing good service and further service improvement," Leftwich said, "it is imperative that we seek an increase in rates to provide the sustained earnings growth needed to support service growth."

The number of company-owned telephones served in the area affected by the rate application has increased by almost 20,000 in the last two years to 162,117 as of September 30, 1972, the end of the period used by the Company for the rate application.

Along with the increase in the number of telephones has been an increase in the number of employees. The employee force in North Carolina was 908 in 1970 and grew to 1,118 at the end of September.

"Wage costs are up considerably," Leftwich said. "This is the single largest item of expense in providing telephone service."

Leftwich said the rate application covers only local service charges and does not include toll rates. He said all but $331,000 of the proposed increase would be generated by the local service tariffs, with the remaining amount coming from general exchange tariff items such as service connection charges, joint user service, and announcement lines.

District VII Morehead Interviews Are January 31

Eighteen high school senior men from seven counties in this area will be interviewed Wednesday, Jan. 31, by the District VII Morehead Selection Committee.

Interviews will be held in the Conference Room at St. John's Lutheran Church.

District VII nominees are Daniel Morris Hamrick of Kannapolis; Heath Franklin Ritchie and Gary Lynn Violette of Concord; Carl Clifton Black II and Charles Johnson Fulp Jr. of Thomasville; Stephen Walter Coles and David Carson Swicegood of Lexington; and Paul Stephen Andrews of Mocksville.

Other nominees are William Hill Cherry III and Billy Ray Smith Jr. of Statesville; Michael Allen Mayhew of Mooresville; William Sharpe Bruton of Candor; Stephen Michael Blount, John Harvey Stratton III and John Franklin Wilkerson of Salisbury; John Douglas Walters of Rockwell; Walter Lewis Smith Jr. of Albemarle and Tab Truet Whitley of Oakboro. Isaac T. Avery of Statesville is chairman of the District VII Committee. Members are John M. Barnhardt of Concord, Croson B. Miller of Albemarle, Hubert Philpott of Lexington; Odell Sapp of Salisbury and W. T. Shuford of Salisbury. District VII is composed of Cabarrus, Davidson, Davie, Iredell, Montgomery, Rowan and Stanly counties.

Six finalists will be chosen from District VII to appear in Chapel Hill March 2-5 for interviews with the Central Morehead Selection Committee.

Each of the state's 10 Morehead Awards district committees will select six finalists to be interviewed in Chapel Hill along with 52 nominees from 26 private preparatory schools.

The Morehead Foundation's Board of Trustees makes the final selection of winners. Hugh G. Chatam of Elkin is chairman. Members are Alan T. Dickson of Charlotte, Frank Borden Hanes of Winston-Salem, Richard T. Chatham Jr. of Elkin, and Dr. Robert Cluett of York University in Toronto, Canada.

Morehead Awards provide all-expense paid undergraduate educations at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill. With the increase in tuition and other education expense, the Morehead Foundation Trustees have increased the value of the award to $2,250 per year, making the four-year award for N.C. residents $9,000.

The Awards were established in 1951 by the late John Motley Morehead, a UNC graduate and native North Carolinian. He resided in Rye, N.Y., until his death in 1965.

Cooleemee Personals

John Miller of Wilmington was the Saturday night guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hunter Miller. He returned home Sunday.

Mrs. Helen Ellis is undergoing treatment at Davie County Hospital where she has been a patient for the past two weeks.

Mrs. Ora Boger fell at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ken Holt, Monday and broke her hip. She is a patient at Davie County Hospital. She expects to be out of the Intensive Care Unit in several days.

Man Arrested For Breaking In Local Mobile Home

Troy Hudson was arrested around 7:15 a. m. Sunday and charged with trespassing and damage to personal property. Deputy Sheriff Robert Cook arrested Hudson when he broke into a mobile home occupied by Ruby Brown on the Campbell Road in Boeotown. When Hudson broke in, Ruby Brown fought him off and he received a cut on the head by a bottle. Damage to the mobile home was estimated at $500. Hudson was put under a $600 bond.

Noting the increased costs of providing improvements in service, Leftwich said, "inflation has caught up with us. Practically everything we use costs more. We can no longer absorb increases in cost with our adversely affecting service."

Leftwich cited several examples of improved service. All main telephones served by Central and Lee in North Carolina have had access to direct distance dialing since June 8, 1971.

Touchtone telephone were available in offices serving 25 percent of the customers of the two companies as of September 30, 1972.

Leftwich said the first Traffic Service Position (TSP) installation was placed in service in Hickory in August to allow customers to dial virtually all long distance calls, including person-to-person, collect, and credit card calls. The TSP installation assures proper rotation in the handling of calls with the next available operator automatically receiving the next customer to be served by TSP. The average answer time in a recent month was 2.5 seconds, Leftwich said.

All eight- and ten-party service has been eliminated, Leftwich said, and five-party service was cut to 1 percent by the end of September. Leftwich said all five-party service will be eliminated by the end of 1973.

Leftwich cited the storm-proofing of outside plant facilities as another major service improvement. "All open wire toll routes will be eliminated by the end of 1973," he said, "and virtually all open wire will be eliminated by the end of 1975. In almost all cases, all outside plant facilities are now being engineered for buried cable."

Total construction costs budgeted for 1972 were $16,535,900. Plant investment for the North Carolina operations has grown from almost $71,000,000 in 1970 to just under $100,000,000 at the end of September.

"In short," Leftwich said, "we must be permitted to increase our rates in order to be able to meet the increased cost

If the Hairstyle Fits—Wear It!
Tired of your hair? Thinking about doing something new with it, but you don't know what? Then stop and think a little longer. Whatever you do, don't rush to the hairdresser and impetuously ask him or her to "do something!" First of all, the very best hairdresser is not a mind reader. He or she may be an expert at giving you the cut and style suited best to your hair type, but what about your personal likes and dislikes? The kind of life style you lead? Do you leave yourself time for personal primping, or are you always on the go? You may walk out of a salon looking fantastic with a new short, swinging bob. But if you can't get it to look and stay that way, you're going to be unhappy with your hair. Don't simply look at a model in a magazine and say, "Now that's how I'd like to wear my hair." Your hair may be too fine or too thick for that style, or your face shape too long. Be realistic. Know that a hairstyle is not going to make you into a new person no matter how hard you try. And it shouldn't. You want to look like you—only a prettier you. Most important is having protein clean, shining hair in the best of condition. That says more for you than the newest hair cut or style in the world!

Hair Fact or Fallacy
Many women cling unnecessarily to old wives' tales about hair. Here are a few fallacies you should know the facts about:
"You should brush your hair 100 strokes a night." False. Contrary to tradition and many years of mother's well meaning advice, excessive brushing is hard on hair, particularly if it's treated hair. Split ends can result while the only advantage is a little extra shine due to the distribution of oil to the tips of the hair strand.
"Teasing adds body; isn't harmful to hair." False. Teasing and back-combing often splits the hair shaft and causes it to become tangled with other hairs. This can cause hair breakage, particularly on hair that has been chemically treated. Hair doesn't have more body — it only looks as if it does. However, a good cut, brushing, setting, even coloring and waving will give your hair body — and more naturally too! If you insist on a little teasing, have a hairdresser show you how to do it correctly. But remember, your hair today should look touchable!

"Excessive washing is harmful." False. Daily washing will not damage oily or dry hair if you use the proper shampoo for your hair type and protein conditioners. Experiment, however, and find out what routine works best for you.

Engagement

Barney - Periman

Mr. and Mrs. Paul B. Barney of Advance, Route 1, announce the engagement of their daughter, Marcia Lynn, to Mr. Robert Earl Periman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Periman of Camp Verde, Arizona. Miss Barney, a 1970 graduate of Davie County High School and a graduate of the Electronic Computer Programming Institute in Greensboro, is presently employed by AMP Corporation in Clemmons. Mr. Periman graduated from Upper Arlington High School of Columbus, Ohio, and attended Ohio State University at Columbus. He has served three years with the United States Air Force and is presently employed by Western Electric Company, Defense Activities Division, in Langdon, North Dakota. The wedding will be held in April.

PANTS POWER IN '73

While women continue to bid for more influence on the political scene, the fashion battle of pants power has already been won on the home front.

In denim, corduroy, velvet and wool and polyester knits... from slimmers to baggies to the wide bottoms, the array of offerings spell a new past era of total influence on the fashion scene.

This is the view of Mabel Westerberg, founder and fashion director of Queen's-Way to Fashion, a leading direct selling fashion company. "Today," says Mrs. Westerberg, "fashion has emancipated women with easy wearing, smart and free-moving apparel — and pant ensembles are leading the way for every occasion."

With classic styling so popular now, blazer and slacks ensembles become basic to a woman's wardrobe — a must for budget-conscious women who demand handsome, versatile wear for all activities.

Mrs. Westerberg points out the considerable mileage to be covered with, for example, a basic black velvet blazer and trouser.

For an evening of elegance: With your basic ensemble, add a white satin blouse with ascot. Pin a clustered rhinestone star pin to the blazer lapel... and attend the most fashionable cocktail party, formal dinner, debut, theatre, etc.

At the office: Leave the black velvet blazer flamboyantly open to show a sporty black bodysuit with red sweater vest. Add a red or white knit cuffed cap for the finishing touch... it's promotions ahead!

Shopping: The blazer and trouser ensemble is off for an afternoon of shopping and lunch. Blazer open, add a contrasting ecru blouse with pussy cat bow and spiffy rust velvet vest to have that "gourmet-about-town" look.

Spectator sports: For sharp, festive-go-to-ball games, wear sweater and heavy gold pendant for a winning score.

Home entertaining: Use the black velvet blazer with a long, Scotch plaid skirt—or use the black velvet pant with a white satin blouse and the scene is set for dramatic, luxurious home entertaining.

Suzanne Says...

Here in the dead of winter... what would be more fitting than to review Florida as I saw it! And... I hope... if you haven't visited Florida... you will. It is fascinating, historical and a great place to go.

Florida is often called the Sunshine State. The tourists are great in number. They arrive by plane, train, bus and automobile. However, there are plenty of hotels and motels to take care of tourists, and the weather is great. Winters are mild and dry. Summers are long and warm.

There are so many things to see and do. One visit should be made to Cape Kennedy and the Space Center where the space missiles have been launched. The wildlife in Florida is plentiful. There are birds, water fowl, herons, cranes, egrets, water turkeys, song birds, black bear, raccoon, opossum, rabbits, grey and fox squirrels, crocodiles and others.

The Florida state parks are open all year round. There are tables and outdoor fireplaces and trash cans of picnicking. There is boating, swimming, fishing, trailers, tents and auto camping, not to mention the major boating events. Fruit is plentiful and can be picked from the trees, such as oranges, grapefruit, tangerines.

One of the most interesting things we saw while there were the Brahman Cattle. The first one we saw, we did not know what it was. It is so different from our Holstein here. The Brahman Cattle can resist the heat and certain insects. They have the ability to shake their skin and with a whiplike tail, can ward off insects better.

There are many fishermen in Florida and they catch millions of pounds of fish for the market yearly.

Speaking of fish... this recipe was given to me while I was visiting the Sunshine State:

STUFFED FLOUNDER

1 four pound flounder
1/2 pound crab meat or raw peeled shrimp
1/2 package stuffing mix
4 strips bacon uncooked
Lemon juice from 1/2 lemon

Cut a pocket on either side of the back bone of the fish. Mix together the stuffing, crab or shrimp and lemon juice. Stuff the pockets and lay bacon across the stuffed pockets. Bake for one hour at 400 degrees in a well greased pan. Garnish with parsley before serving. Serves 6.

A three tiered cake decorated in gold and white was served with golden punch, mints and nuts. Mrs. Herman Waller, Mrs. Paul Carter and Mrs. Wayne Waller assisted in serving.

The table was covered with a lace cloth and centered with an arrangement of bronze mums. Candelabrum held gold tapers. Presiding in the gift room were Mrs. Melvin Waller, Mrs. Blanche Morrison and Mrs. Thelma Tuttle. The couple received many useful gifts. They also were presented a corsage and boutonniere of yellow mums.

FAR EASTERN SERENITY—Color-scheming cottons enhance the Oriental mood of repose in the contemporary master bedroom. Floor and ceiling are done in deep gold and the walls are in clear white to dramatize the slim lines of the tall four-poster bed. The same colors are combined in the floral bedspread and ceiling-hung curtains. Joanna's handsome room-darkening shade continues the crisp white of the wall, while an upholstered chair in textured cotton is striped in mustard and white. Spread and draperies by American Needlecraft.

Grapefruit Growing . . . In Advance!

Mrs. Richard Markland of Advance is growing her own grapefruit in the basement of her home.

She grew the tree from seed which she planted over 11 years ago. She was a freshman in High School in Sparta, N. C. at the time. After her marriage in 1967, her parents brought the plant to her new home and she continued to take care of it. "It has now graduated from a soup can to a barrel," she says.

Once while vacationing with her husband in Florida, they visited a grapefruit grove. Mrs. Markland asked one of the growers about raising her tree and how to take care of it. He informed her not to even try and said that it could not live in the climate here.

But she continued to feed the tree, which she kept outside during the summer and when the weather turned too cold, her husband would move it into the basement. She prunes it when it gets too tall for the ceiling and she doesn't know what she will do with the tree when it gets too big to keep in the basement.

The tree now has eight large grapefruits on one side that will soon be ripe for picking, and already, Mrs. Markland is debating on what to do to have a better crop next season.

Coast Line

"Not long ago there was national concern about a silent spring. We have solved that threat with a greater one. Who knows whether the spring is silent or not amid the pandemonium of modern vehicles?"

The federal government recently held hearings in Chicago on noise pollution. Many witnesses talked about statistics and decibel levels. But one witness, Alfred G. Etter, a naturalist at the Morton Arboretum outside Chicago, spoke simply about people. Here is some more of his testimony, as reported by the Chicago Daily News.

"I recently spent a morning at a school with a group of young people trying to show them what there was of nature left on their own schoolyard. Amid the acceleration and deceleration of trucks and jet noise overhead, I could hardly make myself heard when I tried to communicate some of my excitement of finding a honeybee nest in an old maple tree.

"For the sake of economy, several school buildings in the Chicago area are now being used 12 months of the year. Have you ever tried to teach, or learn, in a hot school with all the windows open and the noise of the traffic and road repairs boiling up from the streets? How many of the other so-called fruits of civilization, the art museums, the peaceful parks, the opportunities for visits and strolls in the neighborhood, have succumbed to the omnipresence of noise?"

"At the arboretum, on field trips, I often try to tell children's groups how we should take care of the earth. What hypocrisy! My words and their questions are drowned out by banging vehicles and rasping tires.

"Noise is the ultimate insult. It belittles us. It gives us nothing at which to strike back. It kills what is left of many things we have loved—music, beauty, friendship, hope, and excitement—and the reassurance of nature.

"Traditionally noise is used to ridicule, embarrass, denigrate and curse—while silence is used for worship, respect, anticipation and love. Do we hate each other as much as our noise level indicates?"

1040 U.S. Individual Income Tax Return Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q. How can I tell if I'm eligible to use the short form 1040A?

A. Basically, the short form 1040A may be used if all your income was from wages, salaries, tips and not more than $200 in dividends and $200 in interest and you do not plan to itemize deductions.

If you receive the short form in the mail, it was sent to you based on the return you filed last year. If you did not receive a short form 1040A in the mail and want to use it, a copy may be obtained at any Internal Revenue office and most banks and post offices, or you may use the order blank in the form 1040 package to obtain a copy.

Q. Is every taxpayer who is eligible to use the short form 1040A required to do so?

A. No. Use of the short form is optional. If you had sizeable expenses for such items as medical and dental care, interest, taxes, contributions, alimony, child care, etc., it may be to your advantage to itemize deductions. This can only be done on Schedule A of your Form 1040 and not on the short form.

A formula for determining whether or not you should itemize deductions is found in your tax form instructions.

Q. I should receive a refund when I file my Federal income tax return. Can I still designate $1 of my tax towards the Presidential Election Campaign Fund?

A. Yes. Every individual (other than a nonresident alien) may participate in the Presidential Election Campaign Fund if he has a tax liability of $1 or more ($2 or more for joint return filers). In addition, completion of Form 4875 in your tax forms operating foundations, veterans organizations, fraternal societies, and cemetery organizations are limited to 20 percent of adjusted gross income. The organization itself can tell you which of the two categories it falls into.

Q. Have the filing requirements for older taxpayers been changed?

A. Yes. If you are unmarried and 65 or older, you do not have to file a return unless you have a gross income of $2,800 or more. For married persons filing a joint return, the filing requirement is $3,560 if either husband or wife is 65 or older, and $4,300 if both are 65 or older.

However, if you are self-employed, you must file a return if you had net earnings from self-employment of $400 or more, regardless of your age.

Q. I'm retired and eligible to receive the retirement income credit. Will the IRS compute it for me?

A. Yes. If you elect to have the IRS compute your tax and you have a retirement income credit, the IRS will also compute this for you. Just follow the directions in your tax form instructions.

Q. How do I go about ordering free IRS tax publications?

A. Just fill in the order blank on the back of your tax forms package, choosing the form or free publication that you want from the list shown, and send it to the IRS office shown on the package.

Q. Are there any limits on how much you can deduct as a charitable contribution?

A. Yes. In general, contributions to most charities, such as churches, educational organizations, hospitals, etc., may be deducted up to 50 percent of your adjusted gross income. However, contributions to certain private non-operating foundations, veterans organizations, fraternal societies, and cemetery organizations are limited to 20 percent of adjusted gross income. The organization itself can tell you which of the two categories it falls into.

AS HEARD BY HEARD

Rob Peter to Pay Paul?
There is sure to come up as a hot issue in the next few months the question of diverting highway fund taxes for the purposes of building mass transit systems.

This idea will undoubtedly have the backing of the environmentalists, those who want to build such systems including construction, tracks, motive power, cars, and all the other equipment.

The idea now apparently being advanced is that part of the taxes motorists pay in the form of gasoline taxes and excise taxes on tires should be diverted to these mass transit systems. Primarily, when mass transit is discussed, it is to build such systems in the big cities.

Now there is no question but what many cities need better transportation systems. But there is a matter of fiscal honesty involved here.

Why should motorists be taxed, and they are heavily taxed now, to provide for such systems? In other words, where is the morality in levying a tax for one purpose and spending it in a different way?

There is an even greater situation that is more severe than in the days when the whole world paid tribute to Rome.

... about your Social Security

by Vernice Fulcher

Remember the old saying, "You don't miss the water until the well runs dry?" That sure is true! We take for granted so much every day without a thought that we might not have it tomorrow. Last week I was helping a young man, only 32 years old, file for disability benefits. During the interview he said, "I can't believe this has happened to me - I never dreamed I'd become disabled." As you read this, in the back of your mind you know disability could happen to anyone and yet you still can't think of it happening to you. That's human nature and it's good that we don't dwell on what might happen. Nonetheless, we should keep ourselves informed on the different programs that offer financial assistance and how to apply - just in case.

Do you know what the two basic requirements are for disability benefits under Social Security? Do you know when to file a claim? Do you know when your first check would be due to arrive? These are all very important questions and you can find the answers and more in the booklet entitled IF YOU BECOME DISABLED. For a free copy just send me your name and address. Our office is located at 105 Corriher Avenue, Salisbury, N.C. 28144.

Q. If I have bills from more than one doctor, do I need complete a separate "Request for Medicare Payment" for each doctor?

A. You can send all of them with the same request for payment. You'll get a notice that shows all payments made by your medical insurance.

Q. The company I work for shows our social security numbers on our payroll checks. I just noticed that the number on my check is wrong. What should I do?

A. Take your correct social security number to your payroll office. They will correct the record with the Internal Revenue Service and Social Security.

Q. Before I could open a savings account for my two children the bank had me get social security numbers for them. My children are both under 5. Was the bank correct?

A. Yes, effective July 1, 1972, any person opening an account with a financial institution must furnish his social security number.

Q. My wife and I are raising an orphaned grandchild who is receiving social security benefits from his deceased father's social security record. If we adopt this child what difference will it make in his social security entitlement?

A. None. The child will continue to be entitled.

Q. How long should I wait after I stop work to apply for disability benefits?

A. You should apply as soon as you believe that your disability will last at least 12 months. If there is any question about the length of time you will be off work, do not hesitate to make application right away. Payments cannot be made for the first 5 full calendar months you are disabled, but medical evidence can be obtained sooner to show the extent of your disability.

Q. I have decided to retire at the end of June 1973 when I am 62. What records will I need so I can be sure my social security check will arrive promptly?

A. You will need satisfactory proof of your age and your Form W-2 for 1972 earnings. The best proof of your date of birth is a birth certificate or church record made before your 5th birthday. If you do not have either of these, please call us at your earliest convenience so we can assist you in obtaining other satisfactory proof of your age. Our telephone number is 833-6470.

Q. I have been a widow for 2 years and need to get my social security as soon as I can. I will be 60 in April 1973. What will I need to prove my right to benefits?

A. You will need your marriage certificate and proof of your date of birth. Call or visit your social security office NOW so they can assist you in filling your application.

Jefferson Standard Life Reports Gain

Jefferson Standard Life Insurance Company's sales of new life insurance during 1972 amounted to $465,907,000, a gain of $41,625,000, over volume for the previous year, representative John Frank Garwood, has reported.

First-year premium income from new life insurance and annuity sales during the year was reported at $10,396,000, compared with $9,584,000 for 1971.

We sure have had a whole week of bird watching weather, I haven't decided which is worse to have to get out and go to work or to just have to stay inside. Anyway we counted 17 different species of birds coming to peck at fat meat tied to tree limbs and grain at the feeder in my back yard, have only seen purple finch her one time before until they reappeared on Sat.

Advanced Payments May Be Lost

Family Photograph Programs Are Risky

Many young families like to record pleasant experiences with photographs. A sales promotion that has come to our attention is directed at taking advantage of this desire, and some words of caution are in order.

Some companies have been selling long-term photography programs to North Carolinians recently. The cost is high, and many people will not get what the sales crews are promising.

Most programs are sold on a door-to-door basis. The customer's name may have been obtained from a list of parents of newborn children, or school-age children. The customer may have responded to an advertisement which offered some low-cost photographs.

The salesman often has a so-called "free" gift for his customer. It may be an album for storing photographs. But his presentation always involves the use of the sample album. This book contains large color photographs of various family activities. The salesman tells you this is what you will receive from his company if you take part in their program. All you do is send in negatives of photographs you want enlarged and they are included in your album.

It sounds simple and attractive. But the complaints we have received indicate that many of these companies promise things they do not deliver.

The salesman says the cost of a ten year program is less than two hundred dollars, and this is the amount shown on the contract that many people sign.

However, there is an additional charge of approximately one dollar each time you send in a picture for processing. The cost involved in taking pictures is not included. And the accumulation of these charges will add greatly to the cost of the program.

Poor quality of pictures returned by some of these companies has caused unhappiness for many customers. Some have told us the salesman promised the company would do touch-up work on the negatives sent in, but this is not written into the contract and the companies will not do such work.

These companies insist upon immediate payment for the entire program. Many customers sign credit contracts, but even these cannot be extended over the life of the program. Such payment in advance is somewhat risky. One company recently stopped its operations. Those who paid in advance for this company's services will receive nothing for their money.

Bits Of Life

By ROSCOE BROWN FISHER

Outside—Another World

It had been a long day . . . a few extra tensions. Things had not fallen in place so well. Too many round pegs and square holes.

"Come on, Grandpa," I called as I slipped through the family room.

Outside there was no TV, no radio, no rattling of newspaper. No telephone to answer. Myriads of stars plastered the heavens overhead. A whole new world!

"Tell me about life," I said to Grandpa. He was silent for a while. Then he said:

—There would be no sunshine, if we had no shadows.

—He is wise who sees the rainbow through the rain.

—Man who destroys must some day build again.

—He who loves deeply takes the chance of getting hurt, but also the chance of rich reward.

—What is unjustly won is apt to be easily lost.

—Wading into immortality through rivers of human blood is a poor way to be remembered by posterity.

—He who waits too late to see the goodness of life, may have to look through preverted eyes.

—Rich people are those who invest in things the stock market does not control: Love, faith, tolerance, kindness . . . and the hundreds of little courtesies most people overlook.

The stars were beautiful overhead.

Another record set in December - the lowest N.C.

December menhaden catch, at less than 7 million pounds, since the big fall fishery started.

So far this season oystermen are bringing in more oysters than last season. Some finfish catches look good, a few exceptional. And sportsmen have had a good fall early winter. The 1972 commercial catch of spot, a popular commercial and sport fish, at more than 3½ million pounds, was a 20 year high.

Those who paint fish pictures with statistics paint in the abstract, however, because fisheries statistics usually ask more questions than they answer. Are there really more fish or oysters, or are more fishermen spending more time after them? Conversely, was there really less Type A fish in a given year, or was the fish actually there but fishermen spent their time elsewhere pursuing something that paid more. Type B fish or shrimp for example. How about keepers of records? Did the guy in 1900 and the one in 1930 and the one in 1972 differ? How did fishing equipment and horsepower vary through the years?

Although North Carolina's largest fishery by weight, menhaden, had such a low fall season, the yearly total for 1972 was a bit better than the total for 1971, according to statisticians of the National Marine Fisheries Service. It should be mentioned here that the 1971 and 1972 catches were the lowest since 1937. Is the giant on its way out?

Fishermen will start catching American shad this month. During the late 1800s and early 1900s, American shad supported the most important single commercial fishery in North Carolina, according to historical records. Close to 9 million pounds were caught during the peak year of 1897. During 1972 the American shad catch was about a half million pounds.

Hanes Knitwear To Drop Children's Wear Lines

Hanes Knitwear, an operating unit of Hanes Corporation, is discontinuing production of children's wear and will concentrate future manufacturing and marketing efforts on men's and boys' underwear and sportswear lines.

The move is effective immediately, according to Hanes Knitwear President David E. Harrold. He said confirmed orders for 1973 shipment of children's wear will be filled from current inventories. All such orders are expected to be shipped by early spring.

Hanes Knitwear's lines of children's wear include sleepwear and other knit apparel for infants, toddlers, and junior boys and girls. Mr. Harrold said Hanes Knitwear will continue to include junior boys' underwear styles in its regular lines of men's and boys' underwear.

"We have found it increasingly difficult to maintain a level of profit in our children's wear lines that is consistent with the overall profit objectives of Hanes Knitwear," Mr. Harrold said. "The problem has been compounded by uncertainties resulting from the federal flammability requirements for children's sleepwear."

"At the present time, children's wear represents only a small portion of Hanes Knitwear's total sales, and we do not foresee substantial growth for us in the children's wear area," Mr. Harrold said. "Therefore, in examining and redefining our goals, we believe we can provide our customers with better products and service and greater value by directing Hanes Knitwear's efforts to the product lines which have strong potential for growth, profitability and broad consumer franchises. Our men's and boys' underwear and sportswear lines have this potential."

merman and children Harold, Cammie and Randy visited Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Zimmerman and family in Fork Sunday afternoon.

Census Survey Seeks Information On Job Changes

The January 15-19 survey on employment, conducted by the Bureau of the Census in this area will include questions for the employed on any recent job changes. Joseph R. Norwood, Director of the Bureau's Data Collection Center in Charlotte, says answers to the questions will provide insight into shifts in the occupational makeup of the Nation's labor force and into the relative stability of job holding. Also, in order to provide information about the ways job seekers successfully find jobs, questions will be asked those who have changed jobs within the past year about methods they used in obtaining their new jobs.

These questions are in addition to the usual ones asked in the monthly survey which the Census Bureau conducts nationwide for the U. S. Department of Labor. Results of the November survey showed that unemployment had dropped to 5.2 per cent of the labor force, the lowest rate since August 1970. Total employment was unchanged from October, 82.5 million, but had increased by 2.2 million since November a year earlier.

Information supplied by individuals participating in the survey is held confidential by law and is used only to compile statistical totals in which no one can be identified.

"Reluctant Handbell Ringers" Are Now Performing Artisans

At first they called themselves the "reluctant handbell ringers."

But as the months progressed, members of the Ladies Handbell Choir on the Mills Home campus of the Baptist Children's Homes of North Carolina, Inc. in Thomasville even surprised themselves.

The group began little less than a year ago when Don Bearfield, music director at Mills Home Baptist Church, suggested a few housemothers and wives of staff members begin a handbell choir. The women were hesitant to try and two did leave the group, but the nine who remained have accomplished a great deal.

Six members are housemothers in Mills Home cottages. The other three members take their lunch hour to rehearse once a week.

The musical background of the group is one reason why they have developed so well, Bearfield feels. Four women are proficient pianists and three currently take piano lessons. During the holiday season, the group performed in several area churches. "But when I announced the performances," the director recounted, "they said 'You're the bravest person we know to take this group off campus.'" Frequently the housemothers give their testimony of what life is like with the children on campus.

"They look like a live piano keyboard playing notes up and down," Bearfield commented. The women are responsible for two notes each time they appear in the music, but the ladies may ring more than one bell. The director's wife rings six different bells.

The Handbell Choir uses a three octave set of Schulerich bells—37 altogether—which were purchased about five years ago.

Mobile Home Destroyed By Fire

A mobile home on the Turrentine Church Road was destroyed by fire around 11:20 a. m. last Thursday.

The mobile home was owned by Ike Edwards.

Jerusalem Volunteer Fire Department No. 1 answered the call.

They are bronze and were made in Settersville, Pa.

Bearfield started the group to provide another type of fellowship and culture for the women on campus. Their music is used for worship services, such as accompanying anthems and as preludes and offertory selections.

It takes precision and some musical knowledge to play the bells. Handbells are an excellent way to teach rhythm, note value and music reading, the director said.

The handbell ringers always wear gloves since touching the bell with the hand is injurious to its finish. The choir almost disbanded before it began, because none of the women could remember to bring white gloves for practice!

Farm Programs Signup Begins On Feb. 5th

With sign-up in the 1973 feed grain, wheat, and cotton programs due to open in less than 4 weeks, North Carolina producers have many decisions to make, reports Eugene Naylor, Acting State Executive Director for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

"In these coming weeks, each producer with a feed grain base or wheat or cotton allotment must make his individual decisions on whether to participate in the programs, and, if so, what plans to choose among those that are offered," Naylor said.

Sign-up for the 1973 feed grain, wheat, and cotton programs is scheduled February 5 through March 16 at all county ASCS offices.

Participants in the feed grain set-aside program will decide whether to sign up for the 30 percent plan or the 15 percent plan. Wheat producers must determine whether they want additional set-aside beyond that required for participation.

"These are the main program decisions a farmer will make, once he decides to be in one or more of the programs," Naylor said, "but his entire farm operating plan for the year is tied in with his decisions on farm program participation. Before he signs up, he will want to know what land he is going to set aside if he's in the feed grain or the voluntary wheat set-aside programs, and he will have decided what crops he's going for - whether he will substitute crops, whether he will grow an alternate crop on his set-aside land and take a payment reduction."

Substitution is continued in the 1973 farm programs, Naylor pointed out. He explained that substitution means a producer may choose among the following crops--corn, grain sorghum, barley, wheat, soybeans--and still preserve his farm's base or allotment record, earn program payments, and be eligible for loans so long as he stays within other program requirements.

"These and other details of the 1973 programs for feed grains, wheat, and cotton will be available to producers through leaflets and explanations offered by ASCS county offices before sign-up begins and throughout the rest of the year," Naylor said.

Crop Insurance

All-risk crop insurance is available for all Davie County farmers for their 1973 crops.

According to Leo F. Williams, Davie County Farm Agent, is the first time this insurance has been offered to Davie farmers.

Tar Heel Spotlight

Department of ART, CULTURE, and HISTORY

Locating sources of information on North Carolina history at the grass roots level is made much easier by a recently published bibliography of local history.

Written by George Stevenson, an employee of the State Archives, and published by the Department of Art, Culture and History, the eighty-two page booklet offers several sources of information about local history in each of our one hundred counties.

This is not the first attempt to compile a concise list of references to local Tar Heel history. In 1952 a mimeographed listing of county histories was compiled by the well-known author and historian William S. Powell who was then himself an archives employee. Revised and republished in 1954, 1957, and 1958, the Powell bibliography rapidly became an indispensable reference for those interested in the history of North Carolina's counties. The fourth and final edition was published by the UNC Library at Chapel Hill.

Listings in Powell's bibliography were limited to county histories published in book form, soil surveys published by the Federal government, and articles from the "State" magazine. These limitations were also generally retained by historian Hugh T. Lefler in a bibliography section of "A Guide to the Study and Reading of North Carolina History" published in 1969 by the UNC Press.

The new publication by George Stevenson has altered considerably the limits of selectivity and is offered as a bibliography of local history as opposed to a bibliography of county histories. Included are references to social, economic, archaeological, town, geographical and institutional histories and studies, edited diaries, journals and letters, abstracts of county records, compilations of marriage and death notices, and even tombstone inscriptions--in short, completed studies and published sources dealing with local history.

Materials reported have been found in one of three places: The North Carolina Collection at the UNC Library, Chapel Hill; the State Library in Raleigh; and the State Archives in Raleigh.

Public and school libraries alike are placing increasing emphasis on the collection of local history materials, and it is hoped that this new statewide bibliography will provide valuable assistance to professional historians as well as average citizens interested in learning more about their state and local area.

The proper title of the new publication is "North Carolina Local History--A Select Bibliography," and copies are available by mail for two dollars each from the Department of Art, Culture and History in Raleigh.

Biological Research Poses Social Issues

Think about the birth control pill and the polio vaccine. Think about genetic counselling and organ transplants. What comes to mind is a mixture of widespread benefits as well as serious legal and ethical issues.

These scientific developments are each part of a larger phenomenon: the growing social impact of progress in the science of biology.

In the future, as scientists add even more to the biological understanding of man, there will be further temptation to intervene in his behavior, his reproduction, his learning, and his health. There will be more opportunities for human betterment and more possibilities for misuse.

What social concerns are involved? The preservation of health, certainly, and the value of human life. When is life to begin, when allowed to end, and how well maintained?

The respect for individual rights may also be re-examined. What are the rights of the patients who submit to experiments, the genetically defective couples who want children, or the abnormally violent patient who doesn't want treatment?

Against these and other social concerns must be weighed the possible benefits of the biological future: a cure for disease, an end to malnutrition, a way to improve learning. Certainly these goals are worth pursuing.

Reaping the benefits without the hazards will mean answering difficult practical questions. It will also mean much more--there will have to be a new human ethic, one in which the best of the sciences and the best of the humanities can be mutually reinforcing. In a few public agencies, and in some research centers such as The Salk Institute in San Diego, the work toward this end has begun. Studies and action programs have been started that utilize the combined efforts of biologists, scholars in other fields, and public leaders. But much more needs to be done.

The other sciences can only change how men use their environment. Biology can change what men are. That's an important difference.

Q -- My brother is a Vietnam Era veteran and our doctor says he is mentally ill and needs treatment. We want to put him in a VA hospital, but there is some question about whether his sickness is service connected. If it isn't will VA help him?

A -- Yes. Rehabilitation at VA hospitals and through use of the GI Bill is part of VA care for non-service-connected psychiatric patients.

Q -- Is there a special dividend on World War II GI life insurance that still hasn't been paid to some veterans, or to their widows like me?

A -- No. There is no special dividend. Only those who still have policies in force are eligible for the annual dividends.

Farm Tips

By Dr. J. W. Pou
Agricultural Specialist
Wachovia Bank & Trust Co., N.A.

The immediate and long-range demand for flue-cured tobacco apparently will be for thin, low tar and low nicotine leaf -- the so-called "cigarette type" tobacco.

This is a continuation of a trend that has been going on for several years, notes North Carolina State University specialists.

However, they point out that the demand isn't limited to the thin tobaccos. Some buyers, particularly some exporters, still lean toward tobacco with more body -- the heavier types.

It is well known that modern-day tobacco farmers can use new technology to grow large yields, but can they do anything about controlling quality?

The answer is yes, according to the NDSU specialists. Some of the elements they feel are important in producing thin bodied leaf include fairly heavy nitrogen fertilization for fast growth, plants spaced reasonably close in the row -- about 22 inches -- and adequate rainfall or supplemental irrigation during the latter part of the growing season and during harvest.

Rain is probably the most important of the three elements. Rain is needed for fast plant growth. Slow growing tobacco tends to have smaller leaves that pick up more growth materials and become heavy.

Fast growing plants will have larger, thinner leaves and stay in the field a shorter length of time.

About 60 to 70 pounds of nitrogen per acre is a good rate on "average" soils. Many farmers use 80 to 85 pounds to allow for some loss from leaching. Some leaching occurs almost every year, as it did during the past growing season.

The crop usually needs about 60 to 70 pounds of phosphorus and 100 to 125 pounds of potash. Some farmers use too much of these materials, particularly potash. Anything over about 100 pounds of potash per acre may be wasted, unless levels in the soil are unusually low. Plants don't respond to amounts over about 100 pounds.

High analysis fertilizers are much preferred over the old standbys such as 3-9-9. This is the most expensive kind of fertilizer, largely because of the extra volume that must be handled.

Where a farmer is using a ton of 3-9-9 per acre, for example, he could reduce his fertilizer bill considerably by going to a more reasonable amount of a material, such as 4-8-12 or 6-12-18, and sidedressing with nitrate of soda or 15-0-14.

All of the fertilizers should be in the field three weeks after transplanting. The biggest improvement that can be made in fertilization may not be in the rate of time of application but in the selection of materials. This is where the real opportunities for savings are.

A grower needs to plan his fertilization program carefully, not only to grow the kind of quality leaf he wants, but to save money as well.

USDA Eliminates Required Set-Aside From Wheat Program

In a move to assure an adequate supply of agricultural commodities to meet a growing market demand, the U.S. Department of Agriculture announced the elimination of the 86 percent mandatory set-aside requirement under the 1973 wheat program, except for those producers who elect to participate in the voluntary set-aside. In order to participate in the voluntary set-aside program, these producers will be required to comply with the mandatory set-aside as well as the voluntary program.

These actions clearly demonstrate the flexibility of the set-aside programs, USDA officials said, in that it enables adjustment to rapid changes in market demand.

When the 1973 wheat program was announced in July, 1972, the amount of set-aside land required for program participation was an acreage equal to 86 percent of a farm's domestic allotment.

Since announcement of the program, demand for wheat worldwide has developed following crop failures or reductions in grain harvest throughout much of Asia and in other portions of the world. Demand for other grain crops and for oilseed crops also has increased heavily.

The national wheat allotment for 1973 is 18.7 million acres. Elimination of the required wheat set-aside acreage will free nearly 15 million acres for production of crops, including wheat, or forage. It is expected to add to market income earned by farmers.

No other 1973 wheat program provisions were changed except for elimination of the required set-aside percentage, USDA reported, and program payments will not be affected in any way by the reduction in set-aside acreage.

Q - During the Christmas season, I realized that as a World War II veteran family we should be doing something to help the young veterans returning from Vietnam, especially the ones who are injured and sick. What can my wife and I do to help?

A - Telephone or visit the chief of voluntary services at the nearest VA hospital. There are many voluntary services that persons from the elderly to teenagers can do to make life better for hospitalized veterans.

RECIPES FOR GROWTH

A talented writer of some years past often failed to endure the total dedication of a Browning or a Shelly, and produced poor and labored verse. The poet, William Wordsworth, who knew the price of perfection, commented: "Sometimes he (the lazy poet) makes his poetic eagle do the work of a clucking hen." How sad!

Yet we often see the same thing. A truly gifted man or woman using his or her talents in a common and menial way. The money maker becomes a hoarder and a miser. The great teacher becomes a recluse or the talented artist throws himself away on drugs or alcohol. All that was given to you by your Maker is to be used for His glory. Don't make the spiritual eagle in you do the work of a clucking hen.

Mrs. Emily Cartmell. . .

From Drafting To Painting

Emily Cartmell of Mocksville will hold a one woman art show on Sunday, January 21, at the Medi Center in Winston-Salem.

Mrs. Cartmell says she always wanted to paint, but being a working mother of three children, there just wasn't enough time. For twenty years, Mrs. Cartmell worked as executive secretary to the local Board No. 30 of the Selective Service System. A couple of years ago they cut down on the strength of workers throughout the nation, which made it possible for her to retire at the early age of 55. She felt this was a great opportunity for her and so "I grabbed it."

In September, 1970, she began painting, under the instruction of Irvin Riley, who Mrs. Cartmell says "really pushed me along."

After one year with Riley, she began assisting him in teaching. She now gives private lessons to children and adults as well.

Mrs. Cartmell says she first began doing more realistic paintings but is now going more modernistic. . . abstract paintings. She expressed a desire to get into the cubism paintings, also.

Mrs. Cartmell orders her frames from Mexico through a dealer in Atlanta, Georgia. She stretches her own canvas and mounts her paintings as well.

One of the hardest phases to master in her art work was getting the color of metals, such as brass, copper and silver, to look realistic. This, she says, took the better part of one summer to do. She then pointed out her favorite painting, which she calls "The Silver Basket", which will be up for sale during the showing.

She plans to have around 35 paintings hanging in the Medi-Center during their open house from 2 p. m. until 5 p. m. and all will be for sale.

In addition to her painting, Mrs. Cartmell also teaches creative stitchery, such as knitting, crocheting and etc. Of course, she doesn't plan to show this work during the art showing.

Mrs. Cartmell says she is anticipating a good turnout of friends in the Davie County area during her showing.

Mrs. Cartmell, who prefers natural sunlight to artificial light when painting, works from a room in her home with sufficient windows. She calls her latest painting the "Blues."

Mrs. Cartmell call this pretty snow scene -- "Thawing."

The painting Mrs. Cartmell calls "Storm At Sea" is most attractive with its shades of blue and gray.

Rita, Bob and 18-month-old Chris ride around in the snow on their Honda All Terrain Cycles.

Little Chris enjoyed the snow, but not nearly as much as his Mother and Dad, who had never seen any before.

Florida Couple Enjoys First Snow In Davie

Bob and Rita Downing and their 18-month-old son, Chris, were probably the most excited people in Davie County last week. They saw snow for the first time in their lives.

The Downings are originally from Clearwater, Florida ... and you just don't see snow in Florida!

"The neighbors all thought we were crazy," Bob laughed. "We were outside playing in the snow and everyone else was inside."

Mrs. Downing says they were not really prepared for this cold and snowy weather. "We had only been in Mocksville one week and we didn't have boots and suitable clothing."

But the Downings enjoyed everyday of the snow. They each have a Honda ATC 90 (All Terrain Cycle) which they rode on the sand while in Florida. They also work great on the snow, even their neighbors were anxious to try them out. In fact, Bob says one of the neighbors enjoyed it so much, he bought himself one before the snow melted. Judging from the tire tracks in the snow, there was a good deal of riding around their home in Sheffield Park. The Downings are making preparations to move into their new home on Milling Road, which should be completed within the next couple weeks.

Taxpayers Can Call IRS Toll-Free

Having trouble with your 1972 federal income tax? Why not call the Internal Revenue Service for help. It won't cost you anything. That's right. You can call IRS toll-free via Centiphone from anywhere in the state of North Carolina for income tax assistance. All you do is dial 1-800-822-8800. Greensboro residents can call 275-0565.

The toll-free service is provided by IRS on a year round basis, excluding weekends and holidays, from 8:00 a.m. to 4:45 p.m. daily. Beginning January 15, 1973, and continuing through April 14, Centiphone hours will be extended to aid taxpayers filing their 1972 income tax returns. During this period, taxpayers may call toll-free on weekdays from 8:00 a.m. to 6:45 p.m. on Saturdays from 8:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon.

During the final day of the filing period, April 16, Centiphone hours will be provided from 8:00 a.m. to 8:45 p.m.

Centiphone service is not available on Sundays. In areas of North Carolina not equipped with direct dialing facilities, taxpayers dialing the toll-free number may have their call interrupted by the local operator who will ask them for their home telephone number. Even though this occurs, it is still a toll-free and will not be billed to the taxpayer's home phone.

The toll-free service is designed for quick response to specific inquiries regarding taxes. It is not intended for lengthy or detailed discussions that tie up the telephone lines for long periods.

Prudent use of Centiphone will result in greater benefit for the public as a whole.

History Workshop Is Planned

The Supplementary Educational Center in Salisbury will begin Part Two in its series of workshops on North Carolina history entitled, "The Carolina Heritage Series," on January 23, 1973. These workshops have been planned at the request of social studies teachers in the schools served by the Center.

Teachers of North Carolina history in grades 4, 8, 9, and teachers of U.S. History at the High School level will find these sessions valuable as a planning and instructing aid for their classroom studies. Each workshop series will be based on a specific area of North Carolina history.

Part Two of the Series will begin January 23, 1973, and end on April 3, 1973. The class will meet on Tuesday nights from 6:45 to 9:45 p.m. at the Supplementary Educational Center, 1636 Parkview Circle. 2 hours renewal credit for recertification may be earned by teachers. Other interested adults in the area are invited to attend.

Topics to be included in the workshop are: Federalism and Jeffersonian Democracy, North Carolina's general attitude, Reaction to Federal acts, Indian removal, the War of 1812, the "Rip Van Winkle" state, The Convention of 1835, Prelude to War, The Civil War, "First at Bethel, Furthest at Gettysburg and last at Appomattox," Reconstruction, Economic Growth, To Steal a Railroad, N.C. in World War I.

Comedies At Little Theatre In Salisbury

The Piedmont Players of Salisbury will present two productions, January 30 through February 3, at the Hedrick Little Theatre, Catawba College Community Center, Salisbury. The Curtain raiser will begin at 8:15 p.m. each evening.

Tickets may be obtained at the Piedmont Players box office beginning January 29th from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The feature play is entitled "Black Comedy", an English farce by John Schaffer. The play takes its title from an electric blackout that occurs during the play. In this comedy, an undiscovered sculptor is waiting with his fiancée for the arrival of a wealthy German art collector to whom he hopes to sell his works. The lights go out. Identities get confused. The artist's former mistress shows up...and everything gets generally mixed up.

"Black Comedy" will be preceded by the curtain raiser at 8:15 which features an elderly couple fighting the clutches of senility and former wives and husbands.

Directing both productions is Frances Royster. The sets are designed by Salisbury architect, Doug Tennent. The technical director is Bill Springer, a senior at Catawba College.

Members of the cast of "Black Comedy" includes: Sonny Harrison, a Salisbury artist; Uly Gooch, Rector of St. Luke's Episcopal Church; Lee Clement, student at Rowan Tech; Pat Randelman, graduate of Penland School of Crafts; John Hartlege, Salisbury architect; Libby Spencer, Salisbury housewife; James Frye and Claude Burnham.

Hayden Clement and Nancy Malone are featured in the curtain raiser.

West Rowan Wins

West Rowan took a pair of games from Davie last Friday night at West.

In the opener, the West Rowan girls jumped into a quick 17 to 4 first quarter lead and were never headed as they served notice that they would be one of the teams to beat in the North Piedmont Conference race.

The West girls were on top 29-15 at halftime and held a 43-26 advantage after three quarters, and led by as much as 19 in the final stanza.

Davie had a poor shooting night, hitting only 11 field goals and only 16 of 31 from the foul lines.

Nancy Reavis led the Davie effort with 14 points.

And the boys game was similar with West Rowan jumping off to a 9-0 lead with four minutes and 18-seconds of playing time elapsed. The Falcons led 16-7 at the end of the first quarter.

Coach Henry's boys, getting a lot of offensive rebounds in the second quarter, managed to close the gap to five points at 20-15 after six points by Jeff Ward and two free throws by Paul Andrews. But then, West Rowan was off to the races again and the score was 38-22 at halftime.

West Rowan continued its hot streak in the third quarter scoring 18 points to 12 for Davie and led at the end of the third quarter, 56-34.

The Falcons biggest lead of the night came in the final quarter when it was 66-34.

A BIG, BIG BIRD
Australia is noted for its strange animals including the Kangaroo, but it also has some very primitive birds. Probably the most unusual is the Emu, which is a large bird that looks very similar to the Ostrich.
The Emu is not quite as large as the Ostrich, but does attain heights of as much as five feet. The Emu has long legs and is able to run very fast. Its wings are not very well developed, so the large bird cannot fly. These birds have survived very well on the plains of Australia.
Survival in business is dependent on giving customers good service. We think we give our customers service that can't be beat. Give it a try.

The World of Skiing
by Eric DeGroat
Director of Skiing,
Appalachian Ski Mountain

This week we learn to turn better so that you can ski faster. You will recall that last week we started actually skiing down the slope by traversing or cutting across the slope and controlling our speed in the process.
As you traverse across the slope you should be facing slightly downhill with your weight on the downhill ski (closest to the bottom of the hill), your hands low in front, and your uphill shoulder, hip and knee slightly in front.
When you approach the edge of the slope and start the turn, you turn your shoulders the opposite way (face uphill a little). Your weight will shift and come over the uphill ski, which becomes the outside ski as you complete the turn.
Let's now put a little rhythm into the turn, which will add smoothness and speed, and then we'll tell you a good way to practice the turn.
We now add the "up-unweight" motion to your skills. As you start to make your turn and make the pole plant, you rise a little by straightening the knees and ankles. Keep your weight forward and you'll find that you can "stand up" and step over to your outside ski and the ski makes the turn easier. In this "up-unweight" remember the importance of the pole plant, which is of the rhythm-like motion we are trying to learn and perfect. You plant the pole out in front of you at an angle as you start the turn and as you momentarily ski to it, you allow the pole to come straight up in the snow and this will cause you to "rise-up" and you can rotate your body and "step-over" into the turn. Then you "come down" or bend your knees and ankles slowing down and traverse the slope again.
This rhythm again is the pole plant "up-unweight", the turn, then "come down".
Okay, now for that way to practice these skills in the turn. Make all the turns uphill. We've been talking about skiing across the slope, turning and skiing across the slope again heading downhill. But at first you can get much more practice on the turn at the end of the traverse if you'll turn uphill. When you turn uphill you will come to a complete stop. In this turn, everything is the same, except that you are doing everything opposite from a turn downhill from that same point.
The advantage of turning uphill is that you can get more skiing and turns in. There's no fear of gaining too much speed and running away in the middle of the turn. And on a nice, gradual, wide beginners slope of 150 feet or more that are at most ski resorts, you can try to turn uphill at least twice each time you traverse the slope.
As soon as you get the feel of what you're doing, you switch to downhill turns and then you steepen the traverse and add more speed. Then you can try to come straight down the middle of the slope (known as the fall line).
Next it's time to try a turn at full speed. In the traverse, turn and all other moves on the slope, when you're moving and don't know what to do next, or are going too fast or are going to hit somebody, it's time to raise your hands high and just sit back to one side on your hip. You will fall on where you have the most padding, and it brings up the saying that applies here - "you can bruise it but you can't lose it."
After a few moves in next week's column we will have covered the basics of the graduated length method (GLM) school of skiing and then we'll go into some of the other schools.

Smokers May Kick Habit Through 5-Day Plan

Smokers who want to kick the habit will have their chance now under a special Five-Day Plan to be conducted here by a physician-clergyman team at the Davie Public Library.
The plan consists of regular evening group therapy sessions, films, and a daily personal control program for home or work. It has been successful over a period of more than eight years in major cities around the world.
Conducting the program locally will be Dr. Ben Richards, Dr. Francis Slate and Pastor Lonny Liebelt. Group therapy sessions will be held at 7:30 each evening beginning Sunday, January 28, at the Multi-Purpose room of the Davie Public Library.
Sponsored by the Mocksville Seventh-day Adventist Church as a community service, the Five-Day Plan aims to help improve the health of the community and to contribute to the national physical-fitness program, Liebelt explains.
Already held successfully in cities all across the United States and Canada, the Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking features such topics as the psychological and physical aspects of the habit, how craving can be lessened, how willpower can be strengthened, physical effects of smoking, organizations of a buddy system and many other techniques designed to breed the habit within a five-day period.

A feature will be the film, "Countdown," depicting in full-color a lung cancer operation, to be shown Sunday, January 28, the first evening of the therapy session.

Trout Tagging Is Eliminated

If you eat fresh mountain trout in a restaurant this year, you won't have to worry about biting down on a metal tag. Now all you'll have to watch for are bones.
The N.C. Wildlife Resources Commission has changed the regulations regarding the sale of commercially raised, mountain trout, and the major change is the elimination of the requirement that all such trout be tagged with a metal tag.
Instead of tagging each trout, commercial trout growers in North Carolina will be required to package the trout in a printed wrapper which bears the following information. Printed on the wrapper must be the name, address and license number of the producing hatchery, the species, number and weight of the enclosed mountain trout. Also printed on the wrapper must be a notice to the effect that the sale of the contents of the package in North Carolina is authorized by the N.C. Wildlife Resources Commission.

The Wildlife Commission will also require that no package of commercially-reared trout shall contain more than ten mountain trout or a net weight of more than two pounds, and it shall be unlawful to remove the trout from such package until they are to be prepared for consumption.

Snow... Ice... South Yadkin... A Thing Of Beauty

The Cooleemee Dam was a place of beauty before all the snow melted early this week. The snow covered rocks, ice patterns in the shallow water and the water flowing over the dam reveal Mother Nature's handiwork. Although portions of the rock structure has been covered with tons of sand as a result of high water during the flood last summer, there is still a great deal of beauty here.

Cemetery Lots Sales Practices

Many people buy cemetery lots before they are needed. Such purchases are often appreciated by survivors, who then can be sure the final resting place is in accord with a person's wishes. Some cemeteries are operated by churches, some by local governments, and some by persons who hope to make a profit from cemetery operations. Our office has received two types of complaints about commercial cemetery operations.

Complaints have come to us from people who signed a contract to buy vaults and grave markers on a pre-need basis. The cemetery ownership changed before the products were delivered and the new owners will not honor the contracts of the former owners. When this happens, payment could be made twice. Once by the deceased person who bought the products during his or her lifetime, and again by the decedent's estate.

In one instance, a cemetery operation in North Carolina stopped its operations. The land was sold to an out-of-state company which continued to sell lots and the vaults and markers on a pre-need basis. However, customers of the former company had signed time payment contracts for vaults and markers, and these contracts had been sold to a South Carolina finance company. The finance company had paid the former cemetery owners for these contracts, and insisted upon payment according to the contract terms. The new owners of the cemetery had received no payment for vaults and markers, and would not deliver them to lot owners.

The present law of North Carolina does not protect cemetery lot owners who purchase vaults and markers in advance of the need, when delivery is not made immediately. When delivery is needed at some time in the future, the company which collected the money may be out of business or financially unable to provide the merchandise. Those who are interested in the purchase of vaults and markers should, therefore, use caution in buying such merchandise in advance of need.

The second type of complaint we have received against cemetery operators is based upon a practice which has been described as "reloading". Many new cemeteries first engage in a campaign to sell lots on a pre-need basis. Often these lots are paid for on a time-payment basis, and the contracts might not be paid out for several years. Some time after the lot sales program has ended, new sales promotions have been initiated. These later sales promotions are designed to create additional income, either for the cemetery owners or roving sales crews, or both. The lot owners are systematically contacted. They are offered a package which includes poured-in-place concrete vaults and grave markers. The charge is usually in excess of $1000 and new-time payment contracts often are obtained and sold to financing institutions. Presumably, the term "reload" is derived from the practice of loading the purchasers with debt a second time.

Complaints about this "reload" practice are usually directed toward the high pressure salesmanship which is used on lot owners. We have received information that certain groups cover a wide area of the United States, coming into a community just for the purpose of engaging in one of these carefully designed sales campaigns. There have been reported instances of outright purchase of cemeteries for such a purpose, or contracts made with cemetery owners who leave all sales activities in the hands of the promoters. Some promotions have included the attraction of a "free" lot to one member of the family. The sales effort is then directed toward lots for other members of the family, and the vaults and markers.

We believe that North Carolinians should be informed of these complaints. Informed consumers can then make a reasonable choice as to the purchase of materials that might not be used for dozens of years, and might not be available at the time of need.

Woman Injured In Wreck Thursday

Patty Sue Church, 31 of Route 4 was injured Jan. 11 at 6:10 p.m. when the 1971 Buick, being driven by her husband Jimmy Edstell Church, 33, went out of control on the snow and ice on N.C. 801 South.

Cars Collide In US 601 Wreck

Trooper J.C. Goodin of the State Highway Patrol Department investigated an accident, January 11, 1973 at 8:00 a.m. on U.S. 601.

Joan Hosch Geter, 29, of Route 1, Woodleaf, driving a 1969 Volkswagen traveling south on Hwy. 601 had slowed for an icy spot in the road when Marsha Thompson Beck, 29, of Highway 801, Cooleemee, driving a 1970 Ford, also driving south on Highway 601 was unable to stop before hitting the Geter car in the rear.

Beck was charged with driving too fast for conditions.

Department of ART, CULTURE, and HISTORY

Plans are currently being laid for the second North Carolina Photographic Competition and Exhibition.

Sponsored by the North Carolina Arts Council, a division of the Department of Art, Culture and History, the first exhibition was held in 1970 and premiered at the State Fair. It then toured the state being shown at shopping centers, libraries, galleries, colleges, high schools, and other places where people gathered.

Full details of the 1973 event will be announced later this month, and the competition will be open free of charge to all North Carolina photographers, both professional and amateur. Judging will be by three out-of-state, professional photographers.

Tentative plans call for adoption of an exhibition theme dealing with North Carolina's past, present, and future. A definite title and more specific guidelines will be announced later. In addition to the primary exhibition, several prominent photographers will be invited to exhibit examples of their work out of the past for which they would most like to be remembered.

Exhibition entries, which will include prints in both black-and-white and in color, will be judged in June. It is anticipated that approximately 120 photographs will be selected for showing, and ten gold medals will go to the top winners, each accompanied by a cash prize of $100.

Following the initial showing, the exhibit will be broken into several smaller collections and shown at public places across the state. Plans also include later showings at museums and galleries outside North Carolina.

For further information on the upcoming statewide photographic competition and exhibition, write to the North Carolina Arts Council, 109 East Jones Street, Raleigh.

Accident Occurs In Parking Lot

The Mocksville Produce Market parking lot on RP 1800 was the scene of an accident January 10th at 11:45 a.m.

Frances Rose Daniel of Route 4 was parked in the parking lot when John Frank Sparks of Route 2, driving a 1966 Chevrolet entered the parking lot and was unable to stop due to the icy conditions and hit the 1970 Cadillac owned by Mrs. Daniel.

Damage to the Cadillac was estimated by Trooper J.C. Goodin at $300 and to the Chevrolet at $175. Sparks was charged with driving too fast for conditions.

The Origin Of Life

How did life begin? Was it a Creation, an arrival from outer space, or some other event? Most scientists now favor the view that the origin of life was a slow, evolutionary process, over many millions of years, right here on earth. Simple organic compounds began to combine in more and more complex ways and eventually organized themselves into primitive living systems. These in turn evolved into the species we know today.

In this field the scientists must read content with plausible answers, rather than final ones, since they obviously cannot restage the original experiment. But plausible chains of reactions are being discovered, and the research so far does support the "chemical evolution" theory. Dr. Leslie Orgel at The Salk Institute in San Diego points out that there are several separate areas of research now being done.

For example, what was the earth like when these reactions began some four billion years ago? The evidence from astronomy and geochemistry indicates that the climates and sources of energy were much like they are now, but that the atmosphere was quite different chemically. It tended to use up oxygen in reactions, rather than supply it. That difference is crucial, since most of the supposed first reactions could not take place in an "oxidizing" atmosphere. The reactions themselves present three different areas of research. The first is to explain the origin of the simple molecules that are recognized as the "building blocks" of all living systems -- molecules such as the amino acids, from which proteins are made, and the many sugar molecules.

Another is to determine how these building blocks came to be chained together, or "polymerized", into more complex molecules. Of the complex molecules common in living systems, two classes are most important as structural materials, and the nucleic acids are the chemicals from which the genes are made.

Finally, it must be shown how these large molecules began to work with one another to establish systems of molecules that could both use their environment and replicate themselves. These systems were the precursors of cells; here mere chemistry gave way to life.

CCB Reports Record Year

Central Carolina Bank has reported that 1972 was its most successful year. New highs in earnings, deposits, loans, capital, and total resources were reached by CCB, Paul Wright, Jr., the bank's president, said.

Net operating income after taxes, but before securities gains and losses, was $2,722,921. On a per-share basis this was $2.89 of 34 per cent over the $2.17 recorded in 1971. Income per share including securities gains and losses totaled $2.91, a 14 per cent increase.

The bank's total resources as of December 31, 1972 reached an all-time high of $282,562,083. Wright noted that CCB's resources had been $127,226,943 at the end of 1968, which means that the bank has doubled in size during the four-year interval.

Total deposits for CCB at the close of 1972 were $225,669,545, a jump of 13.6 per cent over the comparable 1971 figure of $198,593,812. Total loans as of December 31, 1972 showed an advance of $146,714,693, an advance of 13.7 per cent over the $129,029,171 recorded in 1971.

The bank's capital during 1972 rose from $15,133,401 to $20,734,559, a 37 per cent gain. A portion of the increase resulted from the sale in December of 100,000 shares of CCB common stock, which added a net figure of $3,575,000 to capital.

Wright called attention to the 100 per cent stock dividend which was declared by the bank's directors, and which was effective on September 1, 1972. He also noted that shareholders approved in September an increase in the authorized capital stock of CCB from 1,000,000 to 2,500,000 shares.

Cash dividends declared in 1972 totaled 63 cents per share, as compared with an adjusted figure of 60 cents per share for 1971. The most recent quarterly dividend declaration was 16.2 cents, payable January 22, 1973 to shareholders of record January 5, 1973.

Presidential Inauguration To Be 4-Day Celebration

When President Nixon is formally installed for a second term on Jan. 20, he will be participating in a ceremony that is as old as the republic. But the present-day gala can be compared to George Washington's inaugural about as comfortably as a justice-of-the-peace wedding can be likened to the day that a rich and proud father gives away his only daughter at a big church wedding and reception.

George's inaugural was bare bones. He intoned a simple oath pledging to protect the Constitution and the nation, and followed it with a speech that lasted barely two minutes.

Given America's penchant for ceremony and fun, however, the presidential inauguration has evolved to a multi-million dollar bash that includes expensive souvenirs, nationally televised events, and concerts that fetch as much as $500 a seat.

Democrat or Republican alike, the inauguration of a U.S. president combines the best and worst of a political victory celebration, a circus, and a coronation.

Nixon's second inaugural will stretch over four days. As many as 250,000 persons may view the inaugural parade, and millions more will watch it on television.

It will cost $4 million to stage the extravaganza, making it the costliest inaugural in the history. But officials say there was a $1 million surplus from Nixon's first inaugural, and they expect this one to pay its own way.

About $1.6 million in public funds has been appropriated to defray costs of the ceremonies. Of this, $650,000 was set aside by Congress and $890,000 by the District of Columbia government. Most of the congressional appropriation goes to the architect's office, primarily for construction purposes. Of the District's spending, the bulk goes for overtime pay to policemen, firemen and other employees on Inaugural Day.

There will be something for everyone. Music lovers can attend concerts; parade lovers can view a spectacular down Pennsylvania Avenue; and people who love to be seen in the company of famous people can go to one of the three inaugural balls - if they get an invitation.

"Spirit of '76"
Nixon has chosen the theme

President Richard M. Nixon

"Spirit of '76" in hopes of inspiring a resurgence in America's traditional values as it nears its 200th anniversary. To this end, he has ordered a new event for this inaugural - a "Salute to America's Heritage."

It will honor the contributions of the nation's ethnic and minority groups to the growth of America. Nixon aides also say it will involve more people in the inauguration - people representing the "New Majority" that Nixon said helped him to his overwhelming reelection triumph.

The salute consists of ethnic music, dancing, art and food, and will be held from 2-6 p.m. Friday, Jan. 19 at the Corcoran Gallery of Art. Co-hosts are Sammy Davis, Jr., Lionel Hampton and Zsa Zsa Gabor. Otherwise, the events are pretty much the same this year as at recent inaugurals.

On Saturday, Nixon will take the oath of office administered by Chief Justice Warren Burger at temporary stands on the East Portico of the Capitol. The ceremony is set for noon, with Nixon's inaugural speech following. Gathering will be the 50 governors; members of the House and Senate; the diplomatic corps; the Cabinet; 305 medal of honor winners; and thousands of invited guests.

Seats have been built for 19,000, and there will be standing room -- by invitation -- for another 80,000.

Following the ceremony, Nixon will have a private luncheon. Then will come what has become the highlight for many Americans, the parade down Pennsylvania Avenue from the Capitol to the White House.

Nixon will lead the two-hour parade, and unprecedented security will be in evidence along the route. Hundreds of bands, marching groups floats and high stepping horse units will participate in the parade. Every state will be represented.

Somers will serve on the following Committees: Finance; Correctional Institutions and Law Enforcement; Higher Education; Manufacturing, Labor and Commerce; Judiciary I; Mental Health; Constitution; Agriculture; and Wildlife.

Senator Somers said he was well pleased with his Committee assignments, particularly the Committees on Finance and Law Enforcement. "These Committees," he said, "will give me an opportunity to work effectively for the people of the Twenty-first District."

Somers said he appreciated the Lt. Governor's consideration in making the Committee assignments he had requested.

Homeowner's Electrical Maintenance Course At Rowan Tech

Rowan Technical Institute will offer a 30-hour course in Electrical Maintenance for the Homeowner, according to David W. Butler, coordinator of adult programs.

The course has been designed to acquaint homeowners with basic electrical definitions, general information about fuses and circuit breakers, importance of grounding equipment, and practical applications as related to switches and receptacles. At the completion of the course, the homeowner should safely be able to do general maintenance of such equipment he already has installed in his home, such as fuses, receptacles, and switches.

The class will begin on Thursday, January 18 and will meet each Tuesday and Thursday for six weeks from 7:00 - 10:00 p.m. Larry Horton will serve as the instructor for the course. Mr. Horton is a staff member at Rowan Tech and teaches electrical installation and maintenance.

Pre-registration will be by phone. Anyone who is interested should call the Continuing Education Division at Rowan Tech to pre-register.

New Cancer Theory Being Considered

In the last few years an interesting new hypothesis about the nature of cancer has emerged. Like all other theories about cancer, this one has not yet been firmly proved. But the initial experiments with this new approach have been promising, so it deserves serious attention.

A common observation in laboratories that grow animal cells in culture has been that normal cells stop growing after a while and that cells thought to be cancerous do not. This fact has usually been attributed to some chemical "signal" that tells the normal cells to stop growing when the cell cluster reaches a certain density. In this view, cancer cells are different because they lack this special signal.

Yet recent experiments at The Salk Institute, in San Diego, and in other laboratories have shown that the point at which normal cells stop growing depends on the concentration of serum supplied to the cells, regardless of the density of the cell cluster. Also, it has been shown that one particular step in the cell growth cycle, for both normal and cancerous cells, is dependent on the presence of various key nutrients.

Thus, it is possible that the regulation of cell growth is dependent on the availability of nutrients, rather than on the presence or absence of a special chemical signal.

Now every cell in the body is bathed in the same concentration of serum nutrients, so how could serum nutrients explain the different growth rates of normal cells and cancer cells? The answer lies, according to the new theory, in the outer cell membrane, which controls the uptake of serum nutrients.

In other words, although cancer cells are of many different types, and although there are many suspected "causes" of cancer, the unifying characteristic of all cancers could be that the cell membranes have been altered in some way that affects nutrient uptake.

This new theory does not provide any immediate approach to a cure for cancer, nor to an understanding of what causes cancer. The theory does suggest a unifying perspective for all cancer research, and that alone would be a valuable contribution.

HOSPITAL HOSPITALITY

When was the last time you were a visitor in a hospital? Did you know your hospital hospitality - when to see the patient, what to say, and what not to bring? Check your knowledge against the following "visiting tips" from the American Hospital Association.

- Save sad tales for another time. The last thing the patient needs is further depression.
- Don't pry into patient's problems.
- Keep off the bed, particularly if the patient has had surgery.
- Finally, keep your visits short, and give the patient time to recuperate.

Orderly, Remove This Pest!

● Leave home remedies at home. The patient's doctor knows his needs better than you do.

● Keep food at home, too. Hospitals are well equipped to handle the patient's dietary needs.

He had had much experience of physicians, and said, "The only way to keep your health is to eat what you don't want, drink what you don't like, and do what you'd druther not..." Mark Twain.

Davie NAACP Pays Tribute To Dr. Martin Luther King

The local chapter of the NAACP paid honor this week to Dr. Martin Luther King on his birthday anniversary, January 15th. The following article was written by the Rev. M.L. Dillingham, Pastor of the Shiloh Baptist Church:

"On the eve of April 4th, 1968, as Americans rejoiced at President Johnson's news on Vietnam, the nation was dealt a stunning blow. Martin Luther King Jr. was assassinated in the land that was his birthplace and home-the south. Across this and across the world-one could only reflect upon the irony that a land which could give birth to such a proponent of love and peace could also produce such advocates of hate and destruction.

"With his death the voice of this great man was forever silenced. But the life and power of the spoken word is a transitory one. And stilled though his voice now is, his spirits and thoughts are expressed in a language forever living-the printed word. "He spoke not only of the immediate racial problems in this nation but also of the age-old problems characteristic in all ghetto areas - whether black or white - of the world. He spoke not only of the necessity for all minority groups to choose a course of action based on nonviolent means, but also of the individual man's responsibility to rid himself of hate, fear, and bigotry. He spoke not only to the oppressed but to the oppressor. He spoke too on Vietnam, on God and on his own deepening love of all men - regardless of race, color or creed.

"The accomplishments in his brief life are far too numerous to list and certainly no list could ever measure the extent to which Martin Luther King will determine the future course of this nation's and the world's quest for freedom for all oppressed persons. His message was not confined by any geographical limits and although he was only 39 years old when he died, the spirits of his message is timeless.

"He once stated, "I may even die. But I want it said, even if I die in the struggle that, he died to make men free."

Dear Editor,

Certainly we all remember the great "People's Project" that raised ninety-three thousand dollars with which to build our county library. There were 1953 individual gifts and donations received ranging from thousands of dollars to one dollar or less. That, together with the federal and state funds appropriated, the people of Davie County constructed a library at the cost of $195,843.41. Even now, the county library receives $30,000 annually in county funds.

Fiscally we can call this library ours. But is it? I think not.

The "People's Project" is open only fourty-five hours per week. People can hardly use a library that is always locked! The library at Western Carolina University is open one hundred hours per week, and the Forsyth library is open seventy-two hours per week. Obviously, my first contention is that the "People's Project" is not open for people to use.

My second is that it now is open at the wrong hours. Students cannot use it while they are in school, and working persons cannot use it while they are at their jobs.

Examine the hours "our" library is open:
Monday: 2-9 p.m.
Tues-Fri: 9-5 p.m.
Saturday: 10-2 p.m.

It should be open at least until eleven o'clock every night during the week. But it is not! My contention: The library is operated at the librarians' convenience, not those of whom might wish to use it.

It would be wise for us to examine the worth of a library. If the "People's Project" was constructed only to add another building to North Main Street, why did we bother putting books in it? If it was built for the enjoyment and expansion of our minds, why not unlock it?

Currently many students are being denied the opportunity to do proper research due to these inflexible hours. If we can afford such a building, can we afford not to operate it? Is the library ours, or the ones' who have the key?

Sincerely,
Dwight A. Sparks

Disney On Parade Coming To Charlotte

The all-new different Fourth Edition of "Disney On Parade" which appears January 30 through February 4 at the Charlotte Coliseum for 10 performances, brings more than 100 favorite Disney classics and characters including Mary Poppins alive on stage to delight all ages.

This year's 2 1/2-hour live musical extravaganza brings to life brand new stories - like "Further Adventures of Pinocchio," "Bedknobs and Broomsticks," "Bears Band Jamboree," "Goofy, Donald and Herbie the Love Bug in the 'Used Car Lot,'" and much more.

"Disney On Parade" has been in existence only four seasons, yet it has become known throughout the world as wholesome family entertainment.

The first edition of "Disney On Parade" recently appeared before record crowds in Australia and New Zealand and is currently touring Europe. Plans also call for its South American tour. The Second Edition will soon make as Austral-Asian tour while the Third Edition continues to tour the U.S., Canada and Mexico.

This new Fourth Edition will play 42 cities throughout North America before moving to another hemisphere.

Special music was developed for the show by composer-musician Paul Weston who has worked with Tommy Dorsey and Henry Mancini through 35 years of music background. Choreography was handled by the team of Marc Breaux and Dee Dee Wood whose credits range from such feature films as "Mary Poppins," "Sound of Music," and "Chitty, Chitty, Bang, Bang."

Major production numbers this year include "Mary Poppins," "Further Adventures of Pinocchio," "Bedknobs and Broomsticks," and many more.

In the show opening, "How Dee Do, It's Whacha Do With Whacha Got," the entire cast costumes as Disney characters flood the stage, greet the audience personally in their seats, and each shows just what he can do with what he's got.

The classic story of Pinocchio comes alive on the stage as the little wooden puppet visits Pleasure Island where every

Davie County Farm Bureau Has Inquiries On Tobacco

Since the end of the tobacco marketing season, directors of the Davie County Farm Bureau have received letter from tobacco leaf buyers. Tobacco companies are concerned with the fact that they think tobacco produced in this area has deteriorated in quality in the past two years. They indicate that they are aware that the 1971 and 1972 seasons were not ideal tobacco-growing seasons and feel that the weather may have been responsible in part for tobacco which they describe as being off-colored, immature, and brittle and lacking in flavor and aroma.

They question whether the varieties of tobacco grown could have some bearing on this condition as well as cultural practices.

The county extension agent indicates that he did not consider the varieties of tobacco grown in Davie County to be inferior and that, in his opinion, Davie growers had a fairly good crop of tobacco in 1972.

Farm Bureau is aware that tobacco brings in considerable income for Davie farmers and is concerned about the inquiries it has received. The directors would like very much to hear opinions and comments of Davie tobacco growers in regard to the growing season, varieties grown, and whether local growers consider their 1972 crop average, below average, or excellent as compared with crops grown in the past.

The tobacco companies stated that they were unable to fill several million pound orders for their customers. They state that it is not their intention to recommend any variety or changes in cultivation, but they do feel that all people who have an interest in tobacco should take a close look at the existing situation and try to grow and market a more desirable quality of tobacco for both export and domestic trade. Tobacco meetings will be held Thursday, January 18 at 10:00 a.m. and Friday at 7:00 p.m. at William R. Davie Fire Department, conducted by B.G. Westbrook, Agricultural Extension Agent.

A two-hour television program will be seen Saturday, January 20, over Station WKII, Channel 12, Winston-Salem which will cover variety selection, plant production, fertilization, chemical weed and sucker control, mechanization, disease control and insect control.

Mr. and Mrs. James A. Eaton and their daughters, Jennifer and Deree.

Eaton Family Wins State Farm Leadership Award

The James A. Eaton family of Mocksville Rt. 2, the Clarksville community, has been designated as the Outstanding Young Family for Rural Leadership and Development for 1972 by the Farmers Cooperative Council of North Carolina.

The award, which is made annually, was presented at the 38th annual meeting of the Farmers Cooperative Council last week in Raleigh.

Charles D. Colvard, secretary of the council, said the award is based on outstanding voluntary leadership and service to a rural area.

He said the Eaton family was one of many submitted by several organizations throughout the state.

The Eatons and their two daughters, Deree, 6, and Jennifer, 10-months, live on a 300 acre dairy farm where they are partners with Eaton's brother Charles, and his father, Paul.

On this farm, they milk 130 cows twice a day. They also have 64 heifers and 35 head of beef cattle. They have a lease on an additional 250 acres.

In accepting the award in Raleigh, January 17th, Mr. Eaton said:

"On behalf of my personal family and my partners in the operation, we accept this award and feel honored by receiving it." Mr. Eaton also asked for a continuing good relationship between the elected officials and the leader of the cooperative.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Eaton are graduates of the Davie County High School. Both are members of the North Carolina Farm Bureau, the Crescent Electric Association, the Yadkin Valley Telephone Association, the Production Credit Association and Dairyman, Inc.

Mr. Eaton was an unsuccessful candidate last year

Pedestrian Is Struck By Car

Kenneth Lee Haneline, 57, of 451 Maple Avenue, Mocksville, was injured when he was struck by an automobile at the intersection of Church St. and North Main St. around 7:20 a.m., January 17th.

Mocksville Policeman R.W. Groce, investigated the accident and reported that the car, a 1968 Ford, was being driven by Randy Franklin Sidden, 18, of 528 Church St., Mocksville.

The report of the investigation said that Mr. Haneline was walking across Church St. when the car made a left turn off North Main Street, striking the pedestrian. Sidden reportedly told officer Groce that in making the turn he did not see Haneline in his path.

Haneline was carried to the Davie County Hospital by ambulance. Sidden was charged with failure to see safe movement could be made.

and two years before as a Democratic candidate for the Davie County Board of Commissioners.

He is president of the North Davie Ruritan Club, is a member of the County Agricultural Advisory Committee and the board of the Dairy Herd Improvement Association and is a past president of the Piedmont Chapter of Young Dairymen. The Eaton family was sponsored by Dairymen, Inc.

Four Are Injured In Advance Wreck

Four persons were injured in an accident last Thursday on N.C. 801 near Advance. The accident occurred around 7:30 a.m.

State Highway Patrolman J.L. Payne reported his investigation showed that Tommy Crofts, 19, of Mocksville Rt. 4 was operating a 1963 Ford and was traveling south on NC 801 when a 1966 Chevrolet truck, operated by Willie Peebles, 51, of Advance Rt. 2 made a left turn into the path of his car.

Injured were the two drivers and passengers Cleo Keaton, 21, of Advance Rt. 2, and Glenn Keaton of Advance Rt. 2. Three of the four injured persons were taken by ambulance to the Forsyth Memorial Hospital. The other injured person was taken to Davie Hospital.

Jaycee Week

Mayor D.J. Mando proclaimed January 21-27 as Jaycee Week in Mocksville and asked local organizations and citizens to cooperate in the observance.

Mayor Mando said the purpose of the week is to focus attention on young men and the work they are doing, and emphasize that the Mocksville Jaycees have done an outstanding job in the fields of community service.

During the Jaycee Week observance here, the U.S. Jaycees will recognize

Two Charged In Larceny Of Truck

Two youths were arrested last Thursday and charged with the larceny of a motor vehicle.

The Davie County Sheriff's Department was notified around 9:30 p.m. last Thursday night that a 1966 Ford pickup truck had been stolen from the shed at the residence of Duane Horning, of Mocksville, Route 4. Sheriff Joe Smith and Deputy Robert Cook and other deputies investigated.

It was reported that around 9:45 p.m. Horning spotted the truck on 601 South and followed it as it turned on the Cherry Hill Road. E.C. Tatum, Jr., in car behind Horning reportedly sensed something suspicious about the two vehicles and followed Horning. On the Cherry Hill Road, the pickup ran into a ditch and two youths jumped out and ran towards the woods. Horning reportedly ran in pursuit. Tatum also followed after, instructing his wife to go and call the Sheriff's Department.

David Freeman, 18, of Mocksville, Route 7, was caught and arrested around 10 p.m. The officers remained on the scene and around 12:30 a.m. arrested Ernest Cranford, 18, of Mocksville, Route 4.

Both were charged with the larceny of a motor vehicle and put under $1,000 bond each.

Former President Johnson Dies

Lyndon B. Johnson is dead! Near the end of the six o'clock news, January 22, 1973, Andrew Schneck announced over WXII in Winston-Salem, that the news bulletin had just been received that Johnson was dead.

Only thirty-one days ago an announcement was made that a former President of the United States was dead but it did not have the shock with it as did the announcement about the death of former President Lyndon Johnson.

Former President Harry Truman was 88 years of age and the news media had kept the public fully informed about the failing physical condition of Truman.

The public was also well informed of Lyndon Johnson's heart attacks in the 1950's. But that was in the '50's. Much has happened since then and much forgotten. Twenty years later the nation was shocked when it was announced that a 64 year old, young one day was dead the next.

Lyndon Baines Johnson was born August 28, 1908 in Johnson City, Texas.

Johnson was the 36th president of the United States. Four years and five days ago he left Washington to live on the LBJ ranch in Johnson City, and stated that it rarely reflected when he was speaking over TV.

Lyndon B. Johnson

January 22nd Mrs. Ladybird Johnson, just two blocks from the library, was notified by radio that her husband was being flown to Army Brooke Hospital in San Antonio. She was flown to the hospital by helicopter only to find her husband was dead.

For the first time since 1933 the United States is without a living ex-president.

President Nixon eulogized the former President as "a dynamic leader, a unique personality and a man of great ability and unshakable courage." He further stated "To President Johnson, the American dream was not a catch phrase—it was a reality of his own life. He believed in America—in what America could mean to all of its citizens and what America could mean to the world. In the service of that faith he gave himself completely."

Nixon then ordered flags at all government buildings and military installations at home and abroad, already flying at half staff in respect for the

More Wives Work In Davie

In Davie County, more married women than ever before are leading double lives—as home makers and as job holders.

In stores, factories, business offices, the professional fields and elsewhere, women at work is the order of the day.

Managing the double life takes a bit of doing. Making it possible is the array of labor-saving devices and equipment that has cut down the time needed for household chores.

In addition, there is the great variety of prepared and semi-prepared foods that enable them to turn out a meal in jig time.

The latest figures indicate that no less than 49.5 percent of the married women in Davie County are now employed outside the home or are looking for such employment. In 1960 the ratio was 39.9 percent.

Nationally, there are nearly 19 million married women who go to work each day. Some of them have full-time jobs and some part-time. They outnumber their single sisters by about 50 percent.

The facts and figures are from the Department of Commerce, the Labor Department and others.

They show that married women have drastically altered the job market in the past decade. They accounted for 43 percent of the total number of new job opportunities and about 75 percent of the female employment gains.

Much of the increase has been due to middle-age women, who have more time on their hands, now that their children are growing up.

However, the major advance in the past five years has been among younger married women, those in the 20 to 24 age bracket, working to supplement their husbands' incomes. There are 40 percent more of them at work now than there were in 1966, says the Department of Labor.

The figures for Davie County show a rising proportion of women—married and unmarried—holding down jobs.

The 1960 census listed a total of 2,206 in the labor force, equal to 36.8 percent of the local female population of working age.

According to the latest census, it has now reached 45.5 percent, with a working force of 3,134.

Elsewhere in the United States, the average is 41.4 percent and, in the South Atlantic States, 42.7 percent.

Rural Mail Boxes Are Blown-Up

The Sheriff's Department released information January 22nd that several mail boxes in the Davie Academy community were blown up December 27th. The mail boxes belonged to Rose Brown, of the Bill Rattledge Road; Ernest Koontz on RUPR 1143; Opey Lee Stroud, Ridge Road; Grace Rattledge, of the Bill Rattledge Road.

A.L. Pickering, Postal Inspector, and the Davie County Sheriff's Department are investigating.

Davie Ruritans Pinpoint Junked Cars For Salvage

If all the estimated junked automobiles in Davie County were lined up bumper-to-bumper on any road, it would cause a traffic jam an estimated 16-miles long.

This problem is now being tackled by Davie County Ruritans following a public meeting at the court house Tuesday night.

Members of the seven clubs involved estimate there are 5,000 junked automobiles scattered throughout the county.

Ruritans want to get rid of the health hazards as well as esthetic eye-sores. Tuesday night the Ruritans showed two short en-

Davie To Consider United Fund

Plans for a United Fund, Community Chest, or similar organization for Davie County will be discussed at a meeting to be held Tuesday night, February 20, at 8 p.m., at the Davie County Library.

The board of directors of the Mocksville - Davie Chamber of Commerce met January 16 with Woodson T. Ralston, Director with the North Carolina Community Services. Mr. Ralston pointed out that a lot of money is being lost to Davie County by employees working in plants in other counties who are having payroll deductions designated to Davie, but because there is no organization to administer the funds in this county, the money goes to other counties.

For the meeting February 20, the Mocksville - Davie Chamber of Commerce is inviting anyone interested in establishing such a fund organization to be present. Among those expected to attend will be industrial leaders; community leaders, officers of community civic organizations, and leaders of charity drives in this county.

Mr. Ralston will be on hand for this meeting to explain how to set up such an organization and to answer questions.

A committee appointed by the local chamber of commerce met Monday to work out the details for the February meeting. Serving on this committee is Mary Forrest, Don Wood, James McBride, John Butero and Charles Dunn.

Dr. Hartness Is Chief Of Staff

Dr. Ray Hartness has been elected chief of staff at the Davie County Hospital.

Dr. Hartness and the other officers of the hospital medical staff will serve for a two-year term.

Dr. Ben L. Richards was named vice-chief of staff and Dr. W.M. Long, secretary.

Bloodmobile Visit Is February 5th

Davie Blood Usage Is Exceeding Collections

Blood usage by the residents of Davie County for the current fiscal year is exceeding our blood collections by more than eighteen per cent. Although blood donations through the three bloodmobile visits since July 1, 1972 have increased over recent years, blood usage by county residents has been increasing at a rate of approximately fifteen per cent per year.

For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1972, Davie residents used 673 pints of blood while only 477 pints were donated at four bloodmobile visits. Only about one-third of this blood used by our residents was administered at the Davie County Hospital.

Davie County is a member of the Piedmont Carolina Red Cross Blood Program, is obligated to collect through bloodmobile visits as many pints of blood as are used by Davie County residents, regardless of where they are hospitalized.

Whereas the blood quota production is a community responsibility, all residents of Mocksville and Davie County are urged to support the program by donating blood at regularly scheduled bloodmobile visits. These persons who are friends or members of families who have used blood are especially requested to donate.

The next bloodmobile visit will be in Mocksville on Monday, February 5, 1973. The bloodmobile unit will be located at the First Baptist Church, and donations will be taken from 10:30 A. M. until 4:30 P. M.

Davie Ruritans Pinpoint Junked Cars For Salvage

Environmental films regarding junked cars. This was followed by a question and answer period.

The members of the Ruritan Clubs were given detailed maps of the county and they will pinpoint every junked abandoned car they will find within the next month.

In about a month, all maps will be completed. The Ruritans will seek out the owners of each car and request a signed property release from the owner of as many vehicles as they can secure.

A Winston-Salem firm will then move in, pickup the cars

Multi-Service Facility Planned For Davie County Prison Unit

Plans are nearing completion for the construction of a multi-purpose facility at the Davie County Department of Corrections in Mocksville. The completion date has been set for the spring of 1973.

The plans to build this much needed structure were spearheaded by the Davie County Ministerial Association, who is now in the midst of sponsoring a fund raising drive. The target date for the fund raising has been set for Sunday, January 28, according to the Rev. Ardis Payne, treasurer of the drive. Of course he says funds will be accepted at any time.

The cost of the proposed facility is $5,600. "The building will be an A-frame type construction consisting of 800 square feet of floor space," Mr. Payne explained. He also says that in addition to large assembly room, there will be a utility room and two restrooms.

Although the building will be used for the various programs, some of which are already being conducted in the dining hall, such as classes in basic education, family planning, and AA (Alcoholic Anonymous), the basic use will be for a chapel. "It's very difficult to hold worship services in the dining hall with all the distractions," Rev. Payne said.

He explained further that the reason for not building a chapel-type structure was because there was the need for a meeting place for the other rehabilitation programs which have been so helpful to the inmates.

To hold any other type meetings in a chapel just wouldn't seem right," he added. "Whereas, a multi-purpose facility could be used for everything."

The request for the facility came from the staff at the local

Diver Frees Control On Hickory Hill Lake

The United States Navy helped Davie County out of a water jam last week.

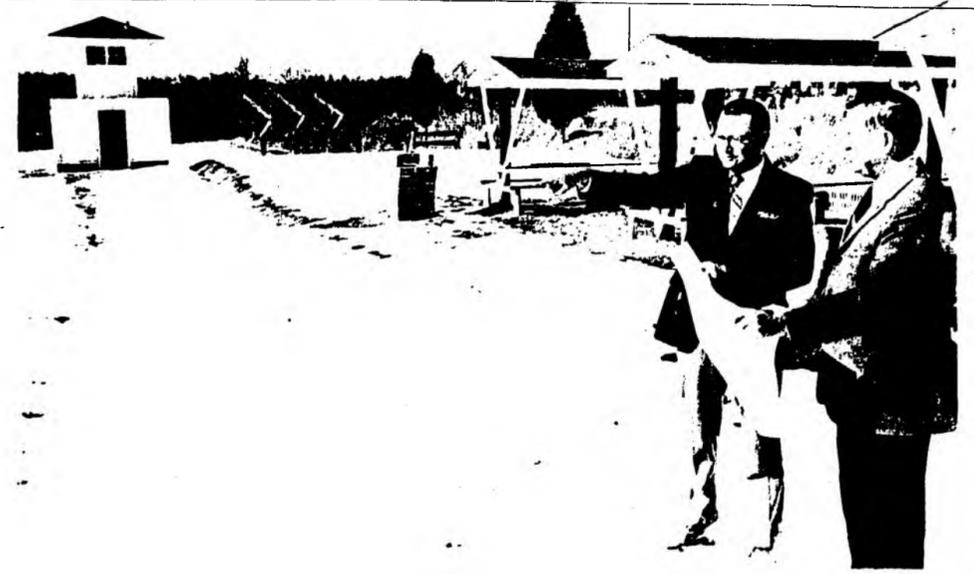

On the flood control dam, site 15A, near the Hickory Hill Golf and Country Club, the water control gate had broken away from its hoisting assembly making it impossible to operate. Being covered by fifteen feet of water, a diver was needed to free and recover the water control gate. The U. S. Navy was contacted and agreed to provide the diver at no expense to local people.

James Cady, a highly qualified scuba diver, was sent by the navy to the scene along with a three-man support crew. Mr. Cady went into the icy water time and again until the gate was freed. Nearly five hours were required to complete the job. Mr. Cady, commenting on the job, said: "I like to start a job like this early in the morning. That way, if you run into problems, you'll have all day to work them out."

All four members of the navy crew were recruiting officers. The team included Senior-Chief Gene Averett and Chief Bob Weems, both from the Winston-America's Ten Outstanding Young Men of 1972. Jaycee Week celebrates the founding of the Jaycees in 1915, when Henry Giessenbier saw a need for a young men's civic group and organized the first chapter in St. Louis. The movement spread so fast that in 1920, the U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce was formed with 24 cities represented. The name of the national organization was changed from U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce to The U.S. Jaycees in 1965 at the national convention of the young men's civic group. Built on solid foundation of creating opportunities for leadership training through community betterment projects, the Jaycees today, over 300,000 strong, are active in over 6,500 communities in the United States. The U.S. Jaycee headquarters is located in Tulsa, Oklahoma.

The Courier Wins Two N. C. Press Awards

THE COURIER of Clemmons was the winner of two awards in the annual contest of the North Carolina Press Association. David Hauser, Associate Editor of The Courier, received a second place award in photography, and Monte Plott was awarded second place in the news and feature series competition. The awards were presented last Thursday night at the N. C. Press Association's annual newspaper institute in Chapel Hill. The presentations were made by J. D. Fitz of Morganton, President of the association. Hauser's winning entry was a portrait of Mrs. Kristina Allen Reynolds and her ten-month-old son, Jason of Lewisville which appeared in the September 7, 1972 issue of The Courier. Concerning the entry the contest judges commented: "The subject matter is classic—a portrait of mother and child. The picture itself was sharp, well lighted and exhibited good balance. The subject matter, while old as life itself, was treated with a fresh and vibrant approach."

The Ruritan Clubs of Davie County have launched an all-out campaign to rid the county of the abandoned, junked cars which have been a menace and eyesore to the community for a long time. Charlie Brown Jr., Mocksville real estate agent, and member of the Jericho-Hardison Ruritan Club is shown presenting to Dr. L. W. Richards, president of the club, several signed releases which are the first to be collected by this club in this campaign. Everyone in this community is urged to cooperate in this effort by notifying Dr. Richards or any member of the club and they will arrange for the removal of these old cars.

Department of Corrections and was presented to the Ministerial Association. "The state does not provide funds for this type facility", Lt. Myrick, the assistant warden explained, "but they have been very co-operative to work with us on planning it." He also pointed out that such a facility has been provided for units in Salisbury and Winston-Salem and the funds there were raised by private organizations. The Davie County Ministerial Association, who has done extensive planning on the project, recently met with Commissioner Bounds, Frank Hall, the area administrator, and approximately 75 local citizens concerning the construction of the facility and the fund raising drive. Mr. Payne says there was only a small amount of money on hand to begin the drive, but encourages all civic groups, churches and individuals to contribute to this very worthwhile fund. Contributions may be sent to Worship-Classroom Facility, Davie County Department of Corrections in Mocksville. The Rev. Mr. Payne and Lt. Myrick agree that "the inmates at the local unit are a part of our forgotten society. . . but as citizens of Davie County, they are OUR responsibility. By helping to rehabilitate them we give them another chance to build a decent life for themselves and their families. . . therefore, we are also helping the entire society of Davie County".

Good Health Depends on YOU

The Inevitable Cold

Medical science is still a long way from solving the mystery of cold infections. In fact, the only common trait of the misnamed "common cold" is that it affects more people of all ages everywhere than any other single infection.

Research has established that colds are infections caused by viruses. More than 100 different varieties can infect adults; children are more susceptible to about 20 varieties.

Colds attack the respiratory tract—the passage leading from the nose through the throat and down into the lungs. They vary in their severity on different people and on the same individual at different times—in susceptibility, intensity and the part of the respiratory tract involved.

Cold viruses are extremely contagious—you can catch a cold in many ways:

- From viruses in the air.
- From other people who have active colds as well as from carriers (who literally carry cold germs without having a cold themselves).
- From yourself — dormant viruses you carry can become active if you're exhausted, in less hearty physical condition, if the nose and throat become too dry or if the immunity is lost from the last cold.

Some facts and fictions about the mystery of the "common cold" are some things to do to make yourself more comfortable if you do "come down with a cold" are contained in a new booklet from the manufacturers of Suerata Soft-Touch Lozenges. For a copy of "The Cold Mystique" write to: Calgon Consumer Products Company, Inc., Box 1467, Pittsburgh, Pa. 15230.

Suzanne Says...

I suppose you wonder why I have wanted to write about some places I have been. I find, if I write about them, I get more from the trip! It is a cheap way to remember the details when you wish to go back. Just get out your notes and there you are. Then, I like to share with others my experiences. Especially those who are not fortunate enough to travel.

One of the places I have been is Las Vegas. This beautiful city is located in the heart of Nevada and was exciting and quite an experience. If you did not see a thing but the beautiful hotels; it would be worth the trip. Some of the hotels, Alladin, Caesar's Palace, Stardust, and so on. The insides of these hotels are very luxurious and the decor is out of this world!

Green grass here does not just happen. It has to be seeded and watered and it must be a full time job for them to have green grass. Someone told me that they planted Bermuda grass and maybe some rye grass.

There are colorful flowers and some 60 different kinds of roses and lots of potted flowers. Some of the trees that I saw were Magnolia, bamboo, redwood, pineapple, flowering plumbpyracantha, date and fan palms.

Some of the best tournaments of golf are played in Las Vegas on the beautiful golf courses.

The dining rooms and restaurants are filled with atmosphere and good food. We are in the Aku Aku and I asked for a menu and they gave me on compliments on the house. There were Far Islands Pa-Pas, Chinese Golden Fried Shrimp served with a secret dunking sauce, baby Hawaiian barbecued spareribs, Hong Kong Egg Rolls, Soups, Egg Flower Wonton with slivered greens, Teriyaki steak, Yokamama style served on a bud of green onions, green peppers and bean sprouts accompanied by a cone of white Javanese rice and French Fried potatoes, Hawaiian Green Salad, Island Dessert, Rona Coffee. There were so many things to choose from, I could go on and on. But, you see a sample of the menu.

The Polynesian Room is filled with many interesting things and what makes it so interesting is the many interesting things from interesting lands. From the forest of Assam, they have Burmese Teakwood for table tops...candlesticks brass works of Gifu, stocks and cooking utensils from Hong Kong and Formosa...Bamboo and Rattan chairs from the Philippines...roof tiles over the

First GFWC Bicentennial Plate Goes To The White House

A recent presentation at the White House in Washington, D.C. signaled the beginning of a four year project which will be conducted by the General Federation of Women's Clubs in coordination with the Bicentennial Celebration of the United States of America.

Mrs. Kermit Haugan, President of the GFWC presented the Nation's First Lady, Mrs. Richard M. Nixon, with the number one plate of the first series of handmade glass plates designed to commemorate the Nation's Two Hundredth Birthday!

At the same time Mrs. Haugan revealed the details of this project which she described as being one of the Federation's proudest endeavors. Mrs. Haugan said, "In an effort to instill a pride of country and a rekindling of the wondrous 'Spirit of '76,' the General Federation of Women's Clubs has commissioned the hands of a Master American Craftsman to sculpture in glass a series of four exquisite collectors plates, which will in their entirety depict a complete and moving 'Portrait of Liberty'."

These beautiful handmade commemorative plates are being designed and produced for the GFWC by the prestigious Fenton Art Glass Company of Williamstown, West Virginia, and a new design will be released each year for four consecutive years (1973-1974-1975-1976). They will be sold by Clubwomen throughout America and local Women's Clubs affiliated with the GFWC will be the "exclusive agents" to sell the plates. The first plate in each of these successive years will again be presented to the First Lady in order for her to complete the White House collection, Mrs. Haugan assured.

On July 4th, 1976 a final ceremony will take place at Independence Hall, presided over by the Presidents of the GFWC for the years of 1973 through 1976. At this ceremony all the moulds for these plates will be publicly destroyed, thereby creating a limited edition. This means that not only will these plates become treasured heirlooms with great personal value, but also their market value is sure to increase.

Each plate in this four-part "Portrait of Liberty" features in relief in handmade glass an actual historic scene depicting one of the four major movements of the American Revolution.

"The Seeds are Sown" on plate number one. Patrick Henry is shown addressing the Virginia Convention. It was here in 1775 that he issued the ultimate challenge which is inscribed on the rim of this first plate - "Give me Liberty, or Give me Death".

"Independence is Declared" on plate number two. Thomas Jefferson with the aid of Benjamin Franklin and John Adams is shown drafting the Declaration of Independence. This document which was to become one of the profound statements of democratic principles ever written, set forth man's most basic rights which are inscribed on the rim of the second plate - "Life, Liberty and the Pursuit of Happiness."

"A Test of Courage" is portrayed on plate number three, which features a scene at Valley Forge during the Revolutionary War. General George Washington is pictured in a prayer in a manner which seems to exemplify the real strength of his courageous troops. That strength is inscribed on the rim of the third plate - "In God We Trust."

"Liberty is Proclaimed", on plate number four. The final piece of this "Portrait of Liberty" features three unidentified Americans ringing the Liberty Bell, one of the most cherished and revered symbols of American freedom. On the rim of this last plate appears the same famous proclamation which is inscribed on the Bell itself "Proclaim Liberty throughout all the land unto all the inhabitants therein."

Commemorative Plate

In the exciting interval immediately preceding the Official Presentation of the First Bicentennial Plate to Mrs. Richard M. Nixon - Mrs. Kermit V. Haugan, President of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, and Wilmer C. Fenton of the Fenton Art Glass Company, display the first commemorative plate to be issued.

Death of a Refrigerator

It's gone--we mourn, we weep
For our true and faithful friend.
It served us long, it served us well
Right up to the end.

Sometimes it was bare as the cupboard
Of the lady who could not feed her dog.
Sometimes it was full of good things to eat;
When we were living "high on the hog".

It held thirty pounds of frozen foods
That kept indefinitely.
Ice cubes for cold drinks
We had abundantly.

Then one day we heard a moan,
Not loud--softly protesting.
The first in twenty years of use
Without a minutes resting.

We knew the day must come sometime
When our friend would have to leave us.
But knowing doesn't ease the pain,
And, oh, how it does grieve us.

We called in the repairman.
He examined in a breathless hush.
Then turned away so sadly,
We knew he couldn't help us.

For several months thereafter,
It gallantly continued to serve.
We helped with occasional unplugging
To rest the poor thing's nerves.

It's all over now, it gave up the ghost.
It's gone to the final rest.
But we'll never forget our trusty pal,
That gave to the last its best.

MRS. WADE GROCE ... shown in the center of the above photo ... was among the 209 volunteer Mother's March workers who attended a reception at the Governor's Mansion Tuesday, January 16, hosted by North Carolina's new First Lady, Mrs. James Holshouser. Mrs. Groce, chairman of the local Mother's March, was representing the Mocksville Women's Club who sponsors the drive in Mocksville. Also pictured are little Miss Betty Katherine Faulk of Evergreen, N.C., the 1973 State March of Dimes Poster Child; Mrs. Jean Campbell, program coordinator for the National Foundation-March of Dimes, who spoke at last Tuesday's reception; and, Dewey Chappie, Jr. of Winston-Salem, State MOD Chairman.

New Law On Car Mileage

On January 20, a new consumer protection law takes effect making it a federal crime to alter or disconnect a motor vehicle's odometer (mileage indicator) except for legitimate repair. The National Automobile Dealers Association, whose membership is comprised of new car and truck dealers, sponsored the odometer legislation which was passed during the last session of Congress.

According to B. Wade Isaacs, Executive Vice President of the North Carolina Automobile Dealers Association, the new law (part of the Motor Vehicle Information & Cost Savings Act) will:

- 1) Make it illegal to disconnect, alter or reset an odometer or operate a vehicle with a disconnected odometer with intent to defraud;
- 2) Prohibit sale or use of any device to change odometer mileage except for purposes of legitimate repair;
- 3) Permit legitimate odometer service, repair or replacement as long as the mileage reading remains the same. If this is impossible, a notice must be posted in the vehicle that the mileage has been reset to zero, together with the date of repair and the mileage at that time;
- 4) Provide a method of certifying actual mileage when ownership of the vehicle is transferred. Mileage certification will be required of everyone, including individuals, new and used car dealers and wholesalers.

The United States Department of Transportation is responsible for establishing the rules and regulations for certifying vehicle mileage. This information has not been released by DOT, but it is expected to be forthcoming within the very near future.

The law provides for suit by any injured party of $1,500 or three times the actual damage, whichever is greater, where there is violation with intent to defraud.

According to Mr. Isaacs, the North Carolina Automobile Dealers Association strongly supported this legislation and is hopeful the new law will completely eliminate any remaining practice of odometer alteration.

A farmer must file a Federal income tax return and pay the self-employment tax due if his net earnings from self-employment are $400 or more, even if his gross income is less than otherwise required to file a return.

The self-employment tax for 1972 applies to a maximum of $9,000. But this figure is reduced by any wages from which Social Security taxes were withheld.

A special optional provision in the law enables farmers to acquire Social Security credits even if they have a loss after deducting expenses.

"Farm" as used in the Federal tax law relating to Social Security and self-employment taxes, includes stock, dairy, poultry, fruit, fur-bearing animals, and truck farms, and also plantations, ranches, and nurseries.

"Farmer's Tax Guide," IRS Publication 225, furnishes more detailed information on this subject. The booklet is available without charge from your county agricultural agent or IRS District Office.

"Disney On Parade" Coming To Charlotte

"Disney On Parade," the newest concept in touring live family entertainment, presents seven major production numbers based on famous Disney classics and characters in the all-new and different Fourth Edition of the 2½-hour live stage musical arena show opening at the Charlotte Coliseum on January 30 through February 4 for 10 performances.

"Disney On Parade" is presented by Nawal Productions, a partnership of NBC Enterprises and Walt Disney Productions.

Famous Disney creations "come to life" singing, dancing and playing Disney songs which have proven world-wide favorites over the years.

Among the more than 100 live Disney stars involved in the new extravaganza are Mickey Mouse and all his friends in the opening "How Dee Do," that famous puppet in "The Further Adventures of Pinocchio," and a wacky collection of animals and undersea creatures in "Bedknobs and Broomsticks."

Additional acts include "Bear Band Jamboree," a country-hillbilly act with costumed bears; "The Used Car Lot" and also "Mary Poppins," with all of her famous friends and songs, and the finale, "It's A Small World."

Knowledge gained from three seasons of touring before millions of people around the world has led to a careful blend of Disney music, famous costumed Disney characters, professional acts, choreographed dances combined with magic and illusion never seen before.

To establish the story, each of the production numbers opens with a specially created brief film segment on a large screen in the storybook castle which completely fills one end of the stage, and then flows into live action with the cast of nearly 100 actors, actresses and specialty performers.

The traditional opening of the show has been maintained with all the Disney characters not only greeting the audiences but moving right up the aisles to shake hands and set the tone for the show.

The star of the show, Mickey Mouse, returns this season with all his friends in "It's Whacha Do With Whacha Got." Each demonstrates his special talent for the audience except Goofy whose not too sure what he's got.

The "Further Adventures of Pinocchio" follows the little wooden puppet to Pleasure Island where every little boy thinks he can enjoy being bad without making a jackass of himself. Jiminy Cricket saves Pinocchio just in time. Pinocchio then recreates live, on stage, the rescue of Gepetto from the whale and receives his award when the Blue Fairy turns him into a real boy.

"Bedknobs and Broomsticks" presents a wacky unicycle game played by teams of costumed comedy animals. The entire production number takes an unusual twist for an undersea visit to the Briny Ballroom with a 1920's mini musical by human-like sea creatures.

"Bear Band Jamboree" involves some unusual bear musicians setting the beat for country-hillbilly time. The act was recreated from the performing stages at Disneyland and Walt Disney World.

Goofy ends up in trouble again in "The Used Car Lot" when he can't pick between a playful Model T and lovable Herbie the Love Bug. Donald Duck gets into the act as a doctor to determine which is the best car, but isn't much help.

Perhaps the high point of the new Fourth Edition is the "Mary Poppins" production. The number opens with Mary Poppins actually flying into the arena to join Bert to sing and dance all of the famous songs including "Jolly Holiday," "Spontaneous Sugar," "Chim Chim Cheree," "Step in Time," and "Supercalifragilisticexpialidocious."

The performance ends with the finale, "It's A Small World" with all of the Disney characters and costumed cast joining for a lavish production with a very personal greeting to the audience.

Ambition often puts men upon doing the meanest offices: so climbing is performed in the same posture as creeping. —Swift.

March of Dimes Volunteer Runs Parties for Prenatal Care

By DAN GILLMOR

"I guess I'm not the kind to stay at home," says tall, blonde Neoma Coston of Littleton, Colo. Mrs. Coston is no runaway. She is Volunteer State Advisor for The National Foundation-March of Dimes.

"I like to get up and go," she admits, "and the appointment as volunteer advisor suited me just fine. I go all over the state and meet all kinds of people, especially the ones who shake you up with different ideas about how things should be done."

Neoma works with a number of service-oriented organizations, including the Colorado Federated Women's Clubs, the Epsilon Sigma Alpha sorority, and veterans' auxiliaries. Their mutual goals are the prevention and treatment of birth defects, which annually afflict some quarter of a million infants in the United States.

The March of Dimes supports research, medical service programs and community education projects aimed at overcoming this major child health problem.

Pride Class

In spite of a busy life, Neoma still finds time to teach a "pride" class at the Goddard Middle School, which her son, Scott, 13, and daughter, Julie, 6, attend. A pride class is one that students can elect to take instead of going to study hall. It is now a credit course.

Neoma's subject is "health," and she makes the most of it. She uses The National Foundation film, "Blueprint for Life," and the filmstrip, "Tomorrow Happens Today," to teach the basics of genetics and the dangers of venereal disease to her students.

From the public health service and other sources, she draws other materials aimed at involving the students in serious discussion of various aspects of community health.

Another favorite project is a "birthday party" program for young expectant mothers, done with help from members of Epsilon Sigma Alpha. It's their way of bringing prenatal care (PNC) education to the young women of the state who are most in need of it, but least likely to get it. She emphasizes the need for early and regular prenatal care because of its importance in reducing the risk of birth defects.

Neoma and other volunteers working with her, hold the parties at the Florence Crittenden Home, the Denver Community School, the Holy Spirit Center, and other Denver institutions where the girls go to continue their schooling while awaiting the birth of their babies.

"Colorado law prohibits a girl from going to school if she is pregnant," Neoma says. She doesn't like the law one bit and doesn't hesitate to say so: "What could be dumber than that? What kind of sense does that make? Don't they want to educate the mothers?" Neoma does, beginning with

Fun and Games

"So we throw a party," she explains. "Lots of the girls have very little fun in life even when they aren't in this situation. So we have crazy games, like blowing a balloon across a table, or passing a plastic glass held between our knees. You should see the girls' break up when they bump bellies trying that one."

At each party, there's a drawing. The winner gets a layette lovingly sewn by members of B'nai B'rith Women whom Neoma has recruited. This year she worked to spread the idea all across the state. "That's what's always happening as you become more involved," she says. "Each year I say to myself: 'This year I'm going to quit,' but there are always so many things I haven't quite done yet."

Antique Show At Statesville

ADOLPH HITLER'S MERCEDES sells for over $150,000 in Arizona at an auction, a paperweight goes on the block in London and brings a price over $7,000, antiques have become solid investments knowing no boundary lines as people seek out antiques, relics, and a new wrinkle in the collectible. Collectibles (i.e. Hitler's car is a classic example) are not strictly speaking antiques, but as in the case of the Mercedes, it is historic and no price tag can really reflect its value in the future.

The Statesville Altrusa Club is sponsoring their sixth annual Antiques Show and Sale at the National Guard Armory, January 25-27, which will afford a look at what the public is buying, with the various dealers supplying the WHY antiques are considered good investments. For instance, in 1931 it was possible to obtain a Steuben Aurene compote (fancy iridescent glass) for $6.00, today this same item will bring $425.00, making the return on the initial money spent better stock in General Motors.

The Sixth Annual Antique Show and Sale, sponsored by the Statesville Altrusa Club is managed by Jeff Stewart of Newton, N.C., who is a well known promoter of antique shows throughout the south. Mr. Stewart is bringing many reliable dealers from throughout the midwestern and eastern states, each offering merchandise both dazzling and fascinating. Primitives, which are essentially implements utilized in the home or as tools during the 19th Century, include such items as an iron string holder to a wooden butter churn, they have become highly desired by collectors, and the Little Shop of Arlington, Virginia, has a complete line of such utensils. Mrs. Dorothy Boyce specializes in pewter, which is currently one of the hottest items in the antique trade. She will feature an outstanding display of pewter, primitives and miniatures at the Statesville show.

American cut glass which sparkles from the various patterns incorporated into the design have become a favorite with all elements of society. It is just too expensive to hand-cut glass today and most of the European crystal on today's market is machine cut, however, Mrs. Mae Holyfield of Roanoke, Virginia, seeks out the older pieces produced during the so-called "Brilliant Period" in American glass, making her booth a Mecca for fanciers of beautiful crystal which is authentic.

Period pieces in furniture have a built-in sales appeal, with Jeff Stewart's Antique Shows having a following among buyers who are interested in acquiring furniture which doesn't fall apart the first time it is put into use. Antique furniture offers a bonus for the public for the craftsmanship is first-rate the dealers in the Statesville Show will display in an attractive manner the finest examples of Early American, Victorian and European furniture.

Antique jewelry and watches in gold have spiraled in interest as the price of gold climbs on the International Market. Otto Powers, The Treasure Shack, Tampa, Fla., is a tireless seeker or rare and artistic timepieces, which are a combination of fine Proceeds from the show will go to the Statesville Altrusa Clubs general fund which is used to support their many community betterment programs and to their Mitchell College scholarship fund.

Hours for the show are from 6 to 9 p.m. on Thursday, January 25th, and from 10 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday, January 26-27. Tickets are available from any member of the Statesville Altrusa Club at a reduced price and will be available at the door at regular price.

EARTH'S AGE

If Earth's total age, now estimated by geophysicists at about 4.5 billion years, is taken as a single 24-hour day, today's ocean basins are scarcely an hour old. By the same measure, the cave dwellers were hunting their prey less than a second ago; the past 500 years is but a hundredth of a second, and a 50-year working life is only one thousandth of a second, National Geographic says.

clear that he wanted to be buried on the family ranch in Johnson City, in a small, walled burial plot, about 400 yards from the ranch house, where his mother and father are buried.

Lyndon Baines Johnson

"His life was filled with light and shadow, but his light will shine brighter as history unfolds", said famed Evangelist Billy Graham of former President Lyndon B. Johnson. "It was a tragedy he did not live to see the end of the Vietnam war. The war was an unbroken torture to him. He yearned for peace.

Henry Hall Wilson of Monroe, former special assistant to President Johnson for congressional affairs, remembered his as "a master in dealing with Congress. It was a pleasure to watch him work. He was a big forceful leader who had a better mind that critics gave him credit for", said Wilson, a former three-term member of the state legislature and now president of the Chicago Board of Trade.

Luther Hodges, a former North Carolina Governor who served 14-months as Secretary of Commerce under Johnson said: "The country has lost a great leader. He was particularly helpful to the country in getting legislation through Congress." Hodges said he found Johnson a "strong leader."

Senator Sam J. Ervin called Johnson a "difficult man to analyze—a person of many contradictions." He said that Johnson was a "pretty good judge of men. He never did bother me to bend my arm. He knew whose arm he could bend and whose he couldn't."

Former Governor Terry Sanford said that "Lyndon Johnson's place in history will be overshadowed by participation in the Vietnam War. He did more to advance the cause of individual rights than any other president. He did far more for education than any other man. The times when he was most impressive was when he forgot his script and spoke from his heart in deep compassion. I think he felt so sincerely about the rights and opportunities of the people of this country. He was most impressive.

U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim praised Johnson as a man who dedicated his life "to the creation of a just and great society.

A newspaper of Great Britain, the Financial Times, said Johnson probably will be remembered in the context of Vietnam and his presidency would appear a disastrous mistake. But it said he did more to alleviate poverty, racial discrimination and the burden of medical costs than another other president since Franklin D. Roosevelt.

District Committee Would Fill Vacancies

An act to permit all counties in multicounty legislative districts to have a say so in filling vacancies in the General Assembly was offered in the House last week.

It came as a direct result of the method used in filling the vacancy of State Senator Phillip J. Kirk Jr., when he resigned to become administrative aide to Gov. Jim Holshouser.

Present law provides that a Senate or House Vacancy be filled by the governor on recommendation of the former member's political party in the county in which the former member lived.

When Kirk resigned, the Rowan County Republican Executive committee followed that procedure and Malcolm Butler was selected.

But at that time, GOP leaders in Davie and Davidson Counties, in the multicounty district with Rowan, wanted a voice in the selection.

The measure was introduced by Rep. Joe Hege, R-Davidson, and signed by Rep. Austin Mitchell, R-Rowan.

Hege said his bill would square the law on filling General Assembly vacancies with the law on selecting successors to primary nominees who choose not to run in the general election.

The major provision of Rep. Hege's bill is that vacancies in the General Assembly shall be filled on appointment by the governor of the persons recommended by the ap-

Cards Of Thanks

HENDRIX

We wish to express our deepest appreciation for the many kindnesses shown us by neighbors and friends during our recent bereavement. Your tokens of love and friendship shall not be forgotten.

The family of the late Lillington Hendrix.

WALKER

The family of the late Mrs. Mae S. Walker wishes to express their deepest gratitude to the many friends who in numerous ways so kindly and sympathetically showed their concern to them in the loss of their dear mother. "We shall always remember and have deepest regards for the ones who sent food, beautiful flowers, such heart-warming cards, kind words, uttered prayers in our behalf, or visited our homes. Each kind gesture rendered may have seemed small and inadequate, however, to each of us, was ever so meaningful and deeply appreciated. During such a sorrowful period, our dear friends and neighbors have strengthened us and we shall always be grateful. God has so richly blessed us with so many sincere and true friends."

The family of the late Mae S. Walker

CARTER

The family of the late Lomas Carter of Cooleemee would like to express their sincere appreciation to their friends and neighbors for the food, flowers and many kind expressions of sympathy during their recent bereavement. We are especially grateful to the members of the Cooleemee United Methodist Church and the Church of the Good Shepherd Episcopal Church for their thoughtfulness. May God bless each of you in a special way for your kindness.

Mrs. Elsie and Sam Carter

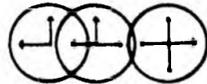

PRATT

The family of the late Mrs. R. S. Pratt would like to express their appreciation to the many friends and neighbors that sent food and flowers during the illness and death of our Mother. Your prayers have helped to sustain us in this time of grief. May God bless each and everyone of you.

Playing . . . "Hide and Seek."

"Toby" . . .

The Manx Cat

"The best things in life are free."

And J.B. Holcomb of 819 Cartner Street, Mocksville believes this to be a true saying.

Not too long ago, a former neighbor, Mrs. R.L. White, gave him three manx cats before moving away. He thought two cats were enough for anyone so he gave one away.

These cats, which he calls "Tash" and "Toby", have provided an abundance of entertainment and he enjoys them more each and every day.

"Toby", which appears to be Holcomb's favorite, is a "performer", while, "Tash", is a "free-loader", only interested in watching the little tricks Toby performs . . .

. . . but never doing them himself.

Toby, according to Holcomb, is "quite a character" and the enjoyment he provides for them earns his board and keep.

The kittens were about six weeks old when they first came to live in the Holcomb home. From that very first day, Mr. Holcomb began talking to Toby and Toby would respond by "acting" for him.

He is now eight months old and a well trained cat.

Whenever Holcomb asks, "Toby, how long are you?"

Toby quite obidently stretches across the floor, as if to demonstrate his length.

While standing in the kitchen, Holcomb said, "Toby, go watch television!"

Toby ran to the den, jumped up on a footstool which stays in front of the set especially for him, and began watching TV.

His favorite programs Holcomb says are hillbilly music. "He likes to watch the strumming of the guitars."

Upon the command of his master, Toby will also roll over. He used to flip over, but Holcomb says he's too fat now to accomplish the task. And he could be right . . . Toby weighs in the neighborhood of ten pounds.

He loves to ride in the car and quite often accompanies Holcomb, who is a carrier for the Winston-Salem Journal and Sentinel, while he collects on his route in Davie County.

Holcomb says Toby will call him back to the car and he told of the incident that while collecting, a woman heard, what she thought was the sound of a bird coming from his car. To prove his point, Holcomb showed the customer his faithful cat with his front paws on the car window "calling me back to the car."

Toby is not the least bit afraid of the Dachshunds, which Holcomb also raises. He especially enjoys the puppies and although he really doesn't care for the grown dogs, he's certainly not afraid of them. This could be because he's bigger than the dogs, one of which only weighs six pounds, full grown.

Toby's favorite food is potatoes, especially french fried, which could account for his size. "He'll eat potatoes when there is meat before him", Holcomb said.

The Holcombs don't know whether Toby is unusually friendly or if he just likes to shove his weight around. He's not afraid of anything or anyone, and after seeing the size of this cat . . . who can blame him!

Letters To The Editor

To the Editor:

Your last issue carried an interesting letter from a Mr. Sparks concerning our public library. It needs some comment. He would like to see the library open 72 (seventy-two) hours a week - so would most of us. The only trouble is that most of us who use the library are also tax payers, and the proposal would be very expensive. For instance, if we are compared to the Forsyth County Public Library System, we must remember that they operate on a budget of nearly a million dollars a year. The support which our county gives, I believe it is in the neighborhood of $30,000 a year, compares favorably with other places having our population and resources. Our state grants have consistently shown high recognition for the local effort that has been made. In only one respect are we distinctly below other similar situations in financing; in most places both Mocksville and Cooleemee would raise some funds in recognition that their residents, being nearer the libraries, do have more opportunity to use the services.

As to the question of which hours the library should be open, I think the question is more complicated than just the convenience of the staff. Of course, this does play a part, but not withstanding, the staff and the trustees have been very flexible in trying to meet the demand as best they can with the resources available. The hours have been shifted in an effort to meet the demand. If the only service the staff gave was simply to provide a club and reading room, the problem might be easier; but consider what else they do, Mr. Editor. They operate a considerable plant and like most business establishments, this needs to be available in regular business hours. They operate a research unit. The In-Watts line is available for direct information generally during the hours now open. The presence of a real information center that can be used by telephone is a great contribution. They have children's story hours. Of course night hours at the expense of day hours means a choice against younger children who seldom could come out so late. The staff, with the help of volunteers who are not available at night, operate a local history room. The value of this room as the Sparks' letter shows is not just to dust off heritage but to find the much more recent facts on which action may be based. The staff, in addition to all of these services, run a meeting room which is available at night, night programs from time to time (Did you see the excellent Christmas program by James Beard, Mr. Editor?), and in short not only stay exceedingly busy, but work more than the standard number of hours each week.

I am glad that Mr. Sparks likes our library and would like to use it more. I find time hard to come by too; but the present schedule, which doesn't suit me either if you come down to it, has permitted me to investigate everything from the electronic base of Vascar to the Texas Indians in 1850.

Yours very truly,
Peter W. Hairston

To the Editor:

Congratulations are in order for one of our new State Senators from Rowan, Davie and Davidson counties, Robert Vance Somers.

Bob Somers, promised us during the campaign that he would work for the people, and that is what he is doing. He feels that the very essence of a free government consists in considering elected offices as public trusts, bestowed for the good of the State, and not for the benefit of an individual or a party.

Some of the bills that Senator Somers introduced this week of the current legislative session were:

1. Require capital punishments for convicted murderers.
2. Automatically renew drivers licenses of safe drivers, those people who have not had a motor vehicle violation or a chargeable accident within the preceding 4 years.
3. Exemption of the sales tax on drugs, medicine, dental supplies, optometrists and medical supplies sold to hospitals.

These actions certainly prove that Senator Somers will not be just a "Hitchhiker" in the legislature, but will be working for the people he represents. So if you have something on your mind, or changes that you would like to see made in Raleigh, I'm sure Bob Somers would like to know it. Now that we have a working Senator, let's give him all the help we can.

Yours truly,
Mrs. N.C. Murray

To the Editor:

Enclosed herewith are facts I feel should be made known to the public concerning the proposed Equal Rights Amendment which I strongly urge concerned citizens to write their state senators and representatives expressing their opposition to the said amendment:

ERA will make every wife in the U.S. legally responsible to provide 50 percent of the financial support of her family. ERA will wipe out a woman's present freedom of choice to take a paying job or to be a fulltime wife and mother supported by her husband. ERA will make women subject to the draft.

ERA will put women on warships and make them subject to combat duty on an equal basis with men regardless of whether we have a draft or not.

ERA will eliminate the preferential Social Security benefits women now enjoy.

ERA will wipe out many protective labor laws which benefit women.

ERA will knock out present laws protecting women from sex crimes such as statutory rape and forced prostitution. ERA will integrate boys' and girls' physical education classes in high schools and colleges.

ERA will jeopardize present lower life insurance rates for women.

ERA could create havoc in prisons and reform schools by preventing segregation of the sexes.

ERA will nullify thousands of present laws which protect women, and will transform every provision of law concerning women into a constitutional issue that will ultimately have to be resolved by the Supreme Court.

ERA DOES NOT guarantee women better paying jobs, promotions or better working conditions. The Equal Employment Opportunity Act and other laws already guarantee women "equal pay for equal work" and need only to be enforced to ensure women equal opportunity.

Dear Mr. Tomlinson:

Our family would like to express our thanks to Dr. Long and the entire Nursing Staff of Davie County Hospital through your paper.

My wife and mother, Mrs. R.S. Pratt, was admitted to the local hospital seriously ill Monday, January 15. The nurses gave her constant attention and she was kept as comfortable as possible. When we were informed on Wednesday that there was nothing else that could be done by any doctor to prolong her life, we were told in a factual yet sympathetic way. Again the nurses came to our aid and we had a room where the family could be together for this time.

Mrs. Pratt passed away Wednesday evening. One of our good memories is the tender care she received at Davie County Hospital. We think Mocksville is fortunate to have this facility with its conscientious staff and especially a physician such as Dr. Long.

R.S. Pratt and Family

Dear Editor:

I received a letter recently from William L. Owens, Th. D., pastor of Village Drive Baptist Church in Fayetteville, N.C. and I wanted to share it with you since it was of a pleasant nature and some of your recent letters were of an unpleasant nature.

By way of explanation, Rev. Owens was involved in an accident in Mocksville before Christmas. My son, Richard Lookabill, lives in Fayetteville and is a Deacon in the church Rev. Owens serves. We called Richard and he and his wife brought their truck to Mocksville and helped the preacher.

The following is the letter that I received: "Dear Mr. Lookabill: I shall never forget the hospitality you extended to me during my misfortune in your town. I hope you will forgive me for not having written sooner. Please come some Sunday the next time you plan to visit Brother Richard. We would be pleased to have you visit our church. Your son works very hard here. We are all proud of him and his love for our Lord Jesus. Sincerely in Christ, W.L. Owens."

Local Dealers At Furniture Show

Among the furniture dealers who attended the Furniture Show in High Point last week were Mr. and Mrs. Wade Edwards, Ron Brown, Larry Hendricks, Bill Merrell and Eddie Merrell.

Store owners and their buyers were selecting from a broad variety of merchandise to suit the demands and needs of their customers at home. The country's leading interior designers had created complete room settings in the manufacturers' showrooms displaying furniture to its best advantage.

Retailers will then use these decorating ideas for room displays in their stores.

Report From RALEIGH

Rep. Gilbert Lee Boger

In the past several days since the General Assembly opened, I have been asked by many people to state my views on the "Equal Rights Amendment".

I am firmly against the ratification of this amendment because of the dangers to our society that could arise from it. It could open the draft to women, destroy laws which require separate rest rooms and dressing rooms for women, and could do away with practically all laws which protect women. Everyone is for "equal rights", and so am I, but this amendment is mis-named and does not require equal pay for equal work. It does not require promotions of women to better or decision making positions. It could wipe out all laws fixing such benefits as maximum hours and safety standards for women simply because these laws do not apply to men.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank all the people who have called, circulated petitions (I have received hundreds of names) or shown an interest in this matter. I would also like to assure them that I will not only read every one, but I will take these petitions to Raleigh with me and circulate them among my fellow legislators. It makes me feel proud to serve the people of this district because they are interested in participating in their government.

In the future, anyone wishing to contact me on this or any other matter can get in touch with me by writing Rep. Gilbert L. Boger, State Legislative Building, Box 783, Raleigh, N.C. or by calling 919-829-5909 or at home on weekends on 493-6681.

Tax Refund Delays Possible If Questions Are Not Answered

Taxpayers who fail to answer the two Revenue Sharing questions on Form 1040 and 1040A any experience refund delays, Robert LeBaube, Acting District Director of Internal Revenue for North Carolina said.

LeBaube said that extra processing time may be required for those tax returns which contain no Revenue Sharing information or incomplete data.

In order for the Federal Government to distribute Revenue Sharing funds properly to states, counties, townships, and municipalities, it must know how many people live in each location, he said.

The Congress determined that a good way to obtain this much-needed information, LeBaube said, was to ask Revenue Sharing questions on the 1962 individual income tax returns.

He stressed, however, that accurate information supplied by tax-payers is important to insure that all areas in North Carolina receive their fair share of Federal funds.

Davie Plays At North Davidson Friday Night

The Davie High basketball teams took a double win over South Rowan in non-conference games here Tuesday night.

The girls took the opener 50 to 31 and the boys were victorious in the nightcap 61-52.

The War Eagles jumped into a 14 to 10 first quarter lead, but South Rowan battled back to within one point, 28-29, at halftime. It was a close third quarter that saw Davie score 14 points and South Rowan 13, to make it Davie 43, South Rowan 41 as the final quarter got underway. Davie rallied in the final minutes, outscoring South Rowan 18 to 11 to clinch the win.

Doug Quarles had 19 points to lead Davie. Jeff Ward had 17.

The Davie girls are now 7-5 overall and 5-3 in the conference. The boys are 9-6 overall and 5-3 in the conference.

The Davie boys are now in third place in the North Piedmont Conference standings with 5 wins and 3 losses, behind West Rowan 8-0 and North Davidson 7-1.

The Davie girls are 5-3 in conference play and are tied with West Rowan for the fourth spot. As of Sunday, South Iredell led with an 8-0 conference record, followed by North Stanly and East Rowan, 5-2 each.

On Friday night Davie will play at North Davidson and will play at Mooresville on Tuesday night.

Last Friday night Davie upset the strong East Rowan team in a twin bill at Mocksville.

In the opening game Coach Bill Peeler's girls romped over East 58 to 46 to end a five game winning streak for East, and the boys followed with a 61-55 victory.

Nancy Reavis and Jane Athey sparked the girls win with 20 and 16 points respectively.

The Davie girls took a slim 11-10 first quarter lead and extended it to 22 to 16 at half time. In the last half, Davie scored 36 points to 28 for East Rowan to wrap up the victory.

Jeff Ward paced the War Eagles victory with 22 points. Paul Andrews and Robert Anderson followed with nine and eight points respectively.

Davie had a hot shooting night, sinking 24 of 46 field goals for 52 percent. The War Eagles made 13 of 22 free throws. East hit 20 of 47 shots from the floor for 42 percent and added 15 of 28 at the foul line.

Davie also out rebounded East 35-21. Davie lost the ball 16 times on turnovers, while East committed eight misuses.

Coach Bob Henry attributed the upset win to Davie's defense and "our reserves were also a major key in the game." Davie used a 2-3 zone defense that did an excellent job against the Mustangs.

After East Rowan opened with a quick basket, Davie held them for four minutes with out a field goal. Davie worked for good shots and made seven field goals during the quarter for a 14-9 lead.

The Mustangs pulled with one point several times in the second quarter and at one time pulled into a one point lead. However, East went scoreless for two minutes and Davie went back in front and had a 33-25 advantage at the half.

The tempo slowed down in the third quarter. Both teams took their time working the ball inside. East outscored Davie by 10-6 during the quarter to pull within 39-35 after three periods.

In the fourth quarter East tied the game 40-40 with 6:48 to play. Then Davie reeled off six straight points. East made one last charge at Davie, pulling within one point, 50-51 with 2:50 to play. Davie outscored East by 10-5 the rest of the way. Ward and reserve Bill Case led the Eagles down the stretch and Davie also dominated the boards in the final minute.

Smoking Therapy Sessions At The Davie County Library

Group therapy sessions for smokers who want to kick the habit have been planned beginning Sunday, January 28, and continuing for five days at Davie County Library.

The special Five-Day Plan will be conducted here by a physician-clergyman team and the plan consists of regular evening group therapy sessions, films, and a daily personal control program for home or work. It has been successful over a period of more than eight years in major cities around the world.

Conducting the program locally will be Dr. Ben Richards, Dr. Francis State and Pastor Lonny Liebelt.

Sponsored by the Mocksville Seventh-day Adventist Church as a community service, the Five-Day Plan aims to help improve the health of the community and to contribute to the national physical-fitness program, Liebelt explains.

Already held successfully in cities all across the United States and Canada, the Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking features such topics as the psychological and physical aspects of the habit, how craving can be lessened, how willpower can be strengthened, physical effects of smoking, organizations of a buddy system and many other techniques designed to break the habit within a five-day period.

A feature will be the film, "Countdown," depicting in full-color a lung cancer operation, to be shown Sunday, January 28, the first evening of the therapy session.

VA News

Under recent legislation, men whose wives die or become 100 percent disabled as a result of military service now share equal rights with wives and widows of male veterans under the GI Bill.

When initially applying for GI Bill benefits, a veteran should include a copy of his Report of Separation (DD Form 214). This reduces processing time. Application should be made at the nearest VA office.

Veterans are advised by the VA to keep their families informed on the location of birth and marriage certificates, military discharge papers and other vital documents required in filing for VA benefits.

BOOTLEGGING IS OLD TRADE
Bootlegging is the word which is usually applied to illegal trade in distilled liquors. Have you ever thought about the origin of the word, "bootlegging"? This name came into use because the sellers of illegal whiskey often hid the bottles in their large boots.

Bootlegging has become a great deal more sophisticated since the time when men carried bottles in their boots, but the U.S. Government still considers it just as illegal as it was back then. Bootlegging is sometimes used to describe other illicit trade, but not very often. Bootlegging to most people still means the illegal sale of liquor.

Bootlegging is not our business. Satisfied customers are our business. Come in today, and find out about our quality service. Customer satisfaction guaranteed!

Mizell Bill Honors Clemente

Wilmer Mizell, R-N.C., a former National League pitcher, joined Monday in sponsoring legislation to strike a commemorative gold medal in honor of Roberto Clemente, the Pittsburgh Pirates star outfielder who was killed in an airplane crash three weeks ago.

Mizell, who played with Clemente on the 1960 world champion Pirates team, is cosponsoring the legislation with Rep. William Moorhead, D-Pa., who represents the Pittsburgh area in Congress.

Proceeds from the sale of the medal will go to the Roberto Clemente Memorial Fund, which has been established to continue Clemente's work with Puerto Rican children.

"His humanitarian efforts," Mizell said, "made Clemente a national hero in his native Puerto Rico, just as he was a national sports hero in the United States."

Clemente was killed in early January when the plane in which he was delivering emergency supplies to earthquake victims in Managua, Nicaragua, crashed shortly after takeoff from Puerto Rico.

Calling Clemente "the most exciting ballplayer I ever played with," Mizell said he "gave everything he had to every game he played, whether it was for the world championship of baseball at Forbes Field in Pittsburgh or for a winning run in a sandlot game in San Juan."

"And in the end, he gave everything he had to his commitment to helping his fellowman," Mizell said. "A superstar, a super performer, a super individual — this was Roberto Clemente."

One of these people might have a good idea worth sharing.

Funny thing about ideas. If you keep them to yourself, they are worth nothing. But tell someone about an idea you've had. If you strike a nerve, the idea starts to grow. Each person exposed to it adds a little. And soon you've got a great idea!

With all the problems facing Carolina Country today such as pollution, the energy crisis, poverty and population growth, just to name a few, we need all the good ideas we can find. Who knows? The solution to a problem might be just a thought away.

As corporate citizens, we're concerned about Carolina Country. That's why we're sharing good ideas. In hopes that some problem will be a little closer to its solution.

A PRESCRIPTION IS YOURS

When a drug is one that should be used only under a physician's supervision, the law requires that it be sold only by PRESCRIPTION. The pharmacist has a responsibility not only to himself and to his profession, but to his patients, as well, to follow the letter of the law in taking absolutely no unnecessary chances with patent medicines.

A prescription is as personal as your name. It is designed for you alone, and is based on such factors as your age, weight, general health, allergies, and other factors, as well as your illness. It is not meant to be traded around, even though similar symptoms may be noted. You could be wrong in your diagnosis — and sorry. Almanac Forecast For 1973: Snow Followed By Drought

Abe Weatherwise, the mythical forecaster for The Old Farmer's Almanac, fears the worst for 1973. The sage predicts more than 200 inches of snow for the New England mountain areas by the end of winter. He also calls for spring floods in the Mississippi River valleys, the hottest summer in years east of the Rockies, and the beginnings of a severe drought in the fall.

Abe's predictions carry on a centuries-old tradition of almanacs, the National Geographic Society says. In the 18th century, many tracts forecast the weather a year in advance by drawing upon the latest intelligence from stargazers. Almanacs flourished as printing spread. Editors found that sales soared when they spiced up their calendars and tables with predictions. They not only predicted the daily weather but such catastrophes as fires, famine, plague and "sodaine tumultes." The stars foretold a catastrophic flood for February 1524, and scores of almanacs warned of a universal deluge. Thousands of Europeans fled their homes and took refuge on hilltops for the entire month. Rainfall was normal, but the astrologers were not chastened. Almanac editors faced occupational hazards. They could be burned at the stake as sorcerers if they were right too often, or lose their professional reputation if they were frequently wrong. So they cloaked their calamitous portents in ambiguous language.

A 1580 almanac predicted: "The sommer and Autumne shall some tyme encline unto driness, sometye unto moystrure: so the winter shall be partlye rough and partlye milde." Or, a nice day if it doesn't rain.

Francois Rabelais, the French satirist, mocked such forecasts by writing: "This year the blind will see only a very little; the deaf will not hear very well; the dumb will not have much to say; the rich will fare rather better than the poor."

Sometimes, however, a creative almanac editor stumbled onto a correct prediction. In 1650, William Lilly drew pictures of a crowded cemetery and a great city on fire to decorate his almanac. Sixteen years later, loyal readers declared Lilly had foreseen the great plague and fire of London.

Prophecy Shakes Shoemaker John Partridge, an English shoemaker who audaciously styled himself Physician to the King, filled his almanac with portentous prophecies. Annoyed by Partridge's pretensions, the acidulous Jonathan Swift predicted that on March 29, 1708, the shoemaker-astrologer would die of a "raging fever."

"The frightened Partridge took to his bed two days before that date. Eventually he got up and announced that he was alive, only to find that he had become a laughing stock.

Patrick Murphy's Weather Almanac for 1838 said flatly that January 20 would be the coldest day of the winter. It turned out to be the coldest day England had suffered in generations, and the 1837-38 season was long known as Murphy's Winter.

Abe Weatherwise predicted rain, snow, and hail for July 13, 1816, and it did rain, snow, and hail—in that order. Actually Abe couldn't claim all the credit—a prank-playing typesetter had inserted the forecast as a joke.

Dixie Classic Fair Receives High Award

The Award for Superior Service, the highest standard of excellence, has been given to the Dixie Classic Fair by the North Carolina Department of Agriculture. James A. Graham, Commissioner of Agriculture, presented the citation recently to Mrs. Edith Hill, Administrative Assistant to William B. Austin, Jr., Dixie Classic Fair manager, at the annual meeting of the North Carolina Association of Agricultural Fairs. Commissioner Graham said that the fair was given the award for achieving 1,000 points—a perfect score—in the 1972 inspection of fairs.

The report pointed out that "The Dixie Classic Fair vividly demonstrated the benefits of an excellent agricultural fair."

It further noted: "The appearance of the fair was most appealing, with the grounds being well groomed and litter-free." Reference was also made to the "particular neat and sanitary conditions of the animal barns and the concessions area."

"The agricultural and educational exhibitions were outstanding," it continued. "The fact was very evident that some of the finest youth and adult talents of the geographic area were on display at the Dixie Classic Fair. The exhibits were beneficial and educational to all fair patrons, regardless of age or interest."

The fair will open October 1 this year for a six-day run at the fairgrounds in Winston-Salem.

Senator Somers said that a similar bill on capital punishment had already been introduced in the House and the

He added that his correspondence indicated that the people of North Carolina are fed up with the criminal activity which has been increasing drastically.

Farm Tips

By Dr. J. W. Pou
Agricultural Specialist
Wachovia Bank & Trust Co., N.A.

Some farmers in Western North Carolina have found a better way to grow cucumbers according to Tom Byrd, N.C. State University agricultural information specialist.

They have gotten their cucumber vines off the ground and up on trellises for bigger yields and higher prices.

Such a grower is O. K. Beddingfield, who is growing his fourth crop of trellised cucumbers in Henderson County.

"Cucumbers are my best crop. I can make more money with them, according to the labor it takes, than with anything else," commented Beddingfield. He also grows squash, strawberries, pole beans, peppers, corn and trellised tomatoes.

Associate Agricultural Extension Agent R. D. Hodges estimates that about 80 acres of trellised cucumbers were grown last year in Henderson County.

"We could triple production and sell everyone on them," said Hodges. "Trellised cucumbers are hard to beat for a family-type farm."

The superior quality of trellised cucumbers is easy to see on the Beddingfield farm. The maturing cukes are straight, well formed and uniformly green. Missing are the "yellow belly" and frequent imperfections that cucumbers get from growing on the ground.

"Once we built up the supply so people could tell the difference, the big chain stores started paying from $1 to $1.50 more per bushel for the trellised cucumbers," Hodges said. Beddingfield received $8 per bushel for his crop last year.

Other advantages of trellised cucumbers include easier picking and disease control. The biggest advantage of all; however, is yield—an average of 1,000 bushels per acre compared to around 350 bushels for cukes grown on the ground.

The big disadvantage is the extra labor needed to put up posts, wires and strings, and to train and prune the vines.

The trellis is about six feet high with top and bottom wires and binder twine tied between the two wires at each plant. The top wire needs to be very tight, and posts should be about 10 to 12 feet apart.

Training of the main stem is required until it reaches and extends over the top wire. About three or four trips over the field are required to accomplish this training.

The seed, mostly the High Mark II variety, are spaced eight inches apart in five-foot rows. The bottom three laterals, or branches, are pruned from the young vines to prevent cucumbers from growing on or next to the ground.

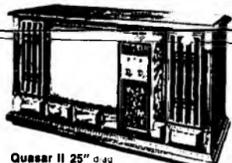

Mr. and Mrs. Beddingfield and their three young daughters pick their cukes from three to four times each week over a period of about five weeks. They make two to three plantings each year in an effort to have cucumbers from July until frost.

Treating soil to control nematodes is also proving to be a valuable practice for North Carolina cucumber growers.

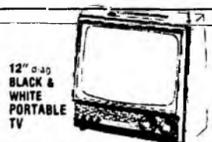

A Fairmont grower, W. Linwood Floyd, credits soil treatment for nematodes with more than doubling the yield from his 1972 spring cuke crop.

Memorial Postage Stamp To Honor President Truman

Postmaster General E.T. Klassen announced today that a memorial postage stamp would be issued for President Harry S. Truman, who died on December 26, 1972.

The stamp is scheduled to appear next May 8, on Mr. Truman's 89th birthday anniversary. While a first-day-of-issuance city was not announced, it appeared likely that this would be Independence, Missouri, the home of the 33rd President.

The U.S. Postal Service traditionally issues memorial stamps upon the death of Presidents.

Should the stamp be first issued in Independence, this

USDA Poultry Label Changes

Poultry processors will have until July 16 to use up existing supplies of previously approved labels which do not conform to labeling requirements scheduled to go into effect last July, the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) has announced.

Officials of USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS)--which administers the federal meat and poultry inspection program--said that the deadline had previously been extended until Jan. 12, 1973.

However, processors still have substantial stocks of labels approved by APHIS and purchased before the new labeling requirements were announced.

The changes were announced May 16, 1972, as part of a comprehensive revision of the federal poultry products inspection regulations.

The labeling requirements extension applies to such things as the way the manufacturer must state the product's net weight, declaration of artificial flavoring and coloring agents and antioxidants, dietary food claims and special handling statements.

The requirements do not affect the composition of poultry products.

APHIS must approve before use all labels for all federally inspected poultry products, to see that they are informative and truthful and accurately represent the contents

Q -- I'm a World War I veteran and hear there's a record breaking G.I. insurance dividend for 1973. When can I expect to get mine and how much will I get?

A -- The dividend will be paid on the anniversary date of your policy. The average dividend for World War I U.S. Government Life Insurance will be $113.

Q -- My brother is a veteran and a heavy drinker as well as a drug addict. Should we take him to a VA hospital that has a drug treatment center or to one that has a unit for treating alcoholics?

Use Checks To Pay For Taxes

Use a check or money order to pay your 1972 Federal income tax. Bob LeBaube, Acting District Director of Internal Revenue for North Carolina, said today.

Unlike cash, a check or money order gives you a record of payment in case your payment is lost in the mail.

LeBaube pointed out that taxpayers can stop payment on a misplaced check or money order, and make a new payment.

Make your check or money order payable to the Internal Revenue Service, and write in your social security number, LeBaube said.

Questions on Your Family's Move ... answered by Alice Bowman Home Moving Consultant
Allied Van Lines, Inc.

Dear Miss Bowman: We will have the chance to make one house-hunting trip before our move to Los Angeles. Any suggestions? Mrs. J. H. Green-wich, Conn.

ANSWER: Make a checklist that includes neighborhood facilities as well as what you want in a house. Things to look for include the availability of good schools, complete shopping centers, auto traffic patterns, play areas for children, adult recreational facilities, and cultural opportunities such as theaters and museums. Another point to consider might be the possibility of future major construction. For example, a new apartment complex could cause overcrowding of community facilities and services. Nearby highway construction could affect future property values. And finally, don't hunt for a house on a weekend. Realtors can spend much more time helping you during the middle of the week on your one precious trip.

Dear Miss Bowman: We are being relocated overseas. Where do I start? Mrs. J. K. Elmhurst, Ill.

ANSWER: Such major household goods moving companies as Allied Van Lines International Corporation take care of all the details -- packing, arranging for shipping, customs paperwork, and so on -- all under one bill of lading on a door-to-door basis. Thus, in some ways, a move overseas can be as easy as a move within the United States. One point to consider: Think of all the things that are "normal" to your family's life, but which might not be available in a foreign country, such as piano sheet music, paints and canvases, needlepoint materials, even a wading pool. You might want to purchase extra supplies of such items before leaving for that exciting foreign destination.

News From Farm Bureau Federation

A demand for some quarters for price controls on raw farm products is simply "unrealistic thinking" that fails to recognize the harmful effects this could have on both consumers and farmers, according to B.C. Mangum, president of the North Carolina Farm Bureau Federation.

The clamor for such controls was renewed when the wholesale price index for December showed a jump in food prices.

However, President Nixon has again announced his opposition to imposing ceilings at the "first level" of the food production process.

Mangum said that such controls on raw farm products would discourage production and would likely result in shortages, rationing, and all the troubles of the old OPA days of World War II. "On the other hand," he said, "if the market is allowed to operate, consumers are assured of ample food supplies."

The state farm leader pointed out a number of reasons for rising food prices, including an unprecedented consumer demand, especially for meat, and rising labor costs all the way from the farm to the consumer's table.

"More specifically," he said, "in the case of grains, unfavorable weather has delayed harvesting and caused severe losses for some farmers, resulting in higher prices. The Russian grain sales also have contributed to an increase in grain prices. The rise in egg prices reflects adjustment in production following a long period of depressed prices."

Mangum said the farmer has prospered "very little, if any" from an increase in food prices. "Farm production costs have reached a record high which reflects the fact that inflation is still a serious problem. In terms of net income, the farmer's lot is not much better than it was 20 years ago."

The Person County farmer emphasized that the consumer should take a realistic view of food prices in relation to the rest of the items that make up the cost of living, and the part that labor costs and consumer demand play in prices.

"It should also be noted," he said, "that disposable income has been going up faster than food prices. For example, the percentage spent for food in 1972 was 15.5 percent compared to 16 percent in 1971. The consumer is still actually spending about 4 percent less of his disposable income today on food than he did around ten years ago."

Senator Sam Ervin Says

A major struggle appears underway in the 93rd Congress to reassert a balance of power between the legislative and executive branches of the government.

There is much concern on Capitol Hill about the steady erosion of Congressional powers, and particularly those relating to the "power of the purse." The major issue is not over the level of appropriations, but whether the President ought to have arbitrary power to determine what programs shall be funded. A case in point is that of highway funds which the President has deemed a fit subject for impoundment. It is noteworthy that taxes collected for the construction of highways go into a special fund to be used only for that purpose. A few days ago a Federal District Court in Missouri ruled that the Secretary of Transportation does not have the power to impound Federal highway funds indiscriminately. Along with 14 other chairmen of major Senate committees, I have joined in a friend-of-the-court brief which challenges the President's power to impound these monies.

The impoundment practice is contemptuous of the role of Congress in our Federal system. The "power of the purse" belongs exclusively to the Congress under an express provision of the Constitution. It should be recognized that certain procedures govern the appropriation of monies. When Congress passes a money bill, the President can veto it, and unless two-thirds of those voting in both the House and Senate agree to override his veto, the appropriation is dead. Equally important, however, is the fact that if he approves a bill, there is no provision in the Constitution for an "item veto." The President must decide whether he wants the whole bill or none of it. This is precisely what the President is ignoring when he impounds monies appropriated by the Congress. He is saying in effect that I will sign the bill and then do what I please about executing the law.

There is no question but that some of the erosion of Congressional power stems directly from the Congress itself. The Administration speaks with one voice while the 535 Members of Congress often find it difficult to find a unifying position on many issues. It is also true that many elected representatives find it politically satisfying to abdicate their authority. This Administration has been eager to grab the ball and run with it on many occasions. There is a tendency, too, for Members of the House and Senate to go along with the President when he happens to head their political party. All this may be changed to a great extent at this session. There is a growing worry about the unbridled flow of power away from the legislative chambers on Capitol Hill. First, an activist Supreme Court assumed many legislative prerogatives, and now the President seems ready to take away more Congressional power.

So although the principal issues confronting the country have not changed much since Mr. Nixon became President, the structure of power has changed a great deal. It is this, rather than Congressional nitpicking, that has set the stage for Congress to reassert its prerogatives.

The issues go far beyond the "power of the purse" and executive impoundment of appropriated monies. They stretch out into areas of executive privilege, the pocket veto, and the use of executive agreements in lieu of treaties to govern foreign relations. They touch the "newsmen's privilege" of keeping news sources confidential, governmental surveillance over individuals guilty of no crimes, and a host of invasions of personal privacy that require our attention.

I predict that this will be an exceedingly busy Congress, and that much attention will be given to the strengthening of the legislative branch of the government.

Baptists Report Gain In Members

North Carolina Baptist churches in 1972 hit a 1 year high in winning new converts, surpassed the $100 million mark in total receipts and showed a net gain of 13,423 persons on their church rolls, pushing membership to a record 1,050,980 in 2,452 congregations.

The statistics were included in the annual report of Ted W. Williams, director of the convention's Department of Survey and Statistics.

Williams reported that the number of baptisms, 32,076 was an increase of 7.9 percent over 1971 and represented the largest gain since 1961.

Baptists gave their churches $100,477,725 in 1972, a ten percent gain of $9,645,062. Gifts to missions totaled $15,883,281 a gain of $1,645,409.

new buildings and property acquisitions during the past year.

All Baptist organizations, except one, reported gains in enrollment, Sunday School reversed a trend of several years' standing with a slight increase to an enrollment of 700,000.

General Secretary-Treasurer W. Perry Couch, chief administrative officer of the state convention, said that the increase in baptisms and support of organizations was "very encouraging because this means that our churches are reaching more and more people in their regular ministries."

The Biblical Recorder, state news magazine of the Baptists, broke the 100,000 mark in circulation with 102,797, an increase of almost 6,000 subscribers. The Biblical Recorder has the third largest circulation of any periodical in the state, led only by the Charlotte and Raleigh morning newspapers.

Yadkin River Park Proposal May Not Be A Dead Issue

The following article on the Yadkin River Park controversy was written by Bonnie Jordan and appeared last week in the Greensboro Daily News:

The Yadkin River park proposal may not be a dead issue as property owners in Davie and Davidson counties had been led to believe, a spokesman for a citizens group opposing the park said Thursday.

Two recent developments in Raleigh were responsible for the concern expressed Thursday by Jim Jones, spokesman and chairman of the Davie County Yadkin Preservation Committee, an organization of property owners who favor cleaning up and preserving the Yadkin but object to relinquishing control of their land for the establishment of parks.

The original proposal, advocated by citizens in Forsyth County and led by State Sen. Hamilton Horton and Rep. Ed McKnight, called for preservation of the river by "controlling what takes place along the banks," through visual easement ordinances and the establishment of parks along a 35-mile stretch, of the river between I-40 and I-85.

THE INCLUSION of the park proposal in budget recommendations of the Advisory Budget Commission and Gov. James Holshouser suggests that the proposal is not dead, as property owners had been led to believe as the result of an agreement worked out last May with the Parks Division Committee and the Board of Conservation and Development.

However, the territory affected by the proposal may have been changed, with park sites to be developed between Pilot Mountain near Boone and Boone's Park, just north of I-85 in Davidson.

Property in Davie and Davidson would still be affected by development of the park site on both sides of the river.

"If this is true, then we are prepared to fight," Jones said.

THE ISSUE, if not the proposal, was revived when Horton re-introduced Senate Bill 432, to make permanent the same bill which might allow development of the park sites "for environmental purposes" without the consent of property owners.

The issue was further revived as the result of a recommendation of the governor that all of the $18 million requested by the Parks Division be included in the budget as a "weapon in the fight to protect the environment."

The budget commission has recommended $11.25 million for the acquisition of land and capital improvements for parks. Holshouser has asked legislators to add another $6.5 million to that total so the parks division can purchase all of the land it has under consideration to expand 10 parks and buy land for 10 new state parks, including the Yadkin Park proposal.

Parks Superintendent Tom Ellis told the Daily News on Thursday that the funds recommended are "not earmarked, no specific amount is designated" for the Yadkin Park proposal.

"IT SIMPLY means that this amount of money is available for the development of parks. But the fact that we have the money does not mean it will be done."

Ellis recalled the promise to property owners to the effect that the issue would not be revived without a "reevaluation" of the proposal and the parks would not be developed on the Yadkin unless they were "compatible with the best interest of people."

Ellis expressed his concern that the Davie property owners might be concerned and he expressed an awareness also that the new Republican governor is "politically very close" with Horton and McKnight.

"It will be the responsibility of the Parks Division to make the governor aware of our commitment to those property owners," he told the Daily News.

"THOSE PEOPLE (in Davie and Davidson) are not opposed to the preservation of the river, they are opposed to the taking of their land," Ellis summed up the Yadkin Park controversy. "I hate to see people get too alarmed," he concluded.

Jones said that the recent developments in Raleigh indicate "that there has been a 180 degree change" since the property owners met with park and C & D board members last spring.

Jones cited the bill reintroduced last week by Horton, coupled with the inclusion of the parks proposal in the budget. "It means that they still have the Yadkin River Park in mind, that the plans have been revived after we were told that only the landowners could revive it."

"And if this is true, then we are prepared to fight it."

Yadkin Valley

The attendance was good Sunday morning with still several on the sick list. Everyone enjoyed a good service on Sunday night.

Mrs. Maggie Sheek returned to her daughter Mrs. Lillian Hauser Sunday after two weeks stay at Medical Park Hospital with operation on both eyes.

Robert King returned home on Saturday after a week at Forsyth Memorial Hospital. The community was saddened last week of the death of Tommy Smith of Harmony, Route 2. He was reared in this community and was a friend to all he met. He will be missed by all.

Mrs. Henry McBride and Mrs. Maude Hauser visited Mr. and Mrs. Herman Allen Sunday evening.

Mrs. Anne Rothrock spent last Friday with Ruby McBride and Mrs. Maude Hauser.

Mrs. Faye Burchette returned to her home last week after back surgery at Forsyth Hospital.

Brack Allen's condition is worse. He returned to his home Saturday after a week's stay at a Yadkinville Hospital.

Mrs. Joann Pilcher and Lorie spent Monday with Mrs. Ruby McBride and Mrs. Maude Hauser.

JACKS AND JERKS

The whole world, or at least that part of it I could see, was covered with snow and the temperature at mid-morning was hovering around 16 degrees. Naturally, it seemed like a good time to go fishing.

"I believe we can catch a few jacks this afternoon even though the weather is not ideal," I told Joel Arrington over the phone. He agreed that the weather was not ideal, but said he'd go anyway.

It is common knowledge that jacks (or chain pickerel) will hit plugs even during the coldest weather. Of course, it helps if you can get your plug in the water. It is also true—as any football coach will point out—that hindsight is 20-20. Both of those factors were overlooked as we made arrangements to spend the afternoon on a millpond where it is rumored that jack fishing is often good.

After driving 20 miles over frozen roads, we arrived at the pond to find that most of it was covered with ice.

"That ice looks thin," I remarked. "I'll bet our plugs will go right through it."

Puffing great clouds of steam, we loaded the boat and headed up a narrow ice-free channel in the middle of the lake. Joel sailed a cast toward the ice to test its thickness. The plug bounced and he skittered it back to the boat.

"Maybe you could heat the plug with your lighter so that it would sizzle through the layer, then you could fish it back under the ice," I suggested.

"Tell you what, you try that," said Joel. "I think I'll get a cup of coffee out of the thermos."

While Joel drank his coffee, I made a couple of tentative casts (with an unheated lure) to see if the ice was uniformly thick. It was. My plug merely bounced and slid across the ice when I retrieved it.

"Has anyone ever documented a case where a hungry jack broke through the ice to get a plug?" I asked. Joel's reply was a disgusted grunt.

We finally fished about a 100 yards of shore which was largely free of ice. In the 60-acre pond, it was the only stretch of unfrozen shoreline. Even so, ice formed in our guides between each cast. We had no strikes, although one small 12-inch jack followed Joel's plug, probably only to see what kind of jerks would be out on a day like this.

After spending a total of perhaps 45 minutes on the lake, we headed for the barn. Winter chain pickerel fishing is not always so frustrating.

Cana-News

The Cana Homemakers Club held its first meeting of the new year at the Community Building, on January 18th. Mrs. Laura Groce served as hostess at this meeting.

Mrs. Wade Hutchens presided and conducted the devotional, reading a prayer suitable as a guide line for starting the years work.

We were pleased to have Mrs. Era Latham joined our group at this meeting. She is a charter member of the Cana Club, having joined at the first meeting in 1935, when Miss Florence Mackie was organizing clubs throughout the county.

This was largely an organizational meeting. The following officers were elected for the term 1973-74. Mrs. Wade Hutchens, president. Mrs. Thelma Brewer, vice-president, and Mossa Eaton, Secretary and Treasurer. Mrs. West assisted in filling in the year book with dates, places and hostesses for each meeting and plans for theyears work.

Mrs. West gave some suggestions to keep in mind when sewing on knits-1. Wash before cutting to avoid shrinkage, and prevent skipping stitches when sewing. 2. Have all the material on the table when placing patterns in position. Let rest for 15 minutes to prevent stretching. 3. Use straight of grain. 4. Keep polyester thread. 5. Use ball point needles, and change if one becomes blunt. 6. Shorten stitch when machine being used is not zigzag. 7. When putting in hems, sew from seam to seam of garment to prevent broken thread when garment stretches.

Refreshments, served by the hostess, consisted of potato chips, pickle, delicious pound cake and Coca Cola.

Among the visitors in the village during the recent holidays was Miss Marty Etchison, a member of the faculty at the University of Georgia, in Athens. Miss Mildred R. Bachman of Chuluota, Florida. Mrs. Mary C. Nikas of Atlanta. Miss Annie Laurie Etchison from Worms, Germany.

... about your Social Security

by Vernice Fulcher

Driving a small car has solved several problems for me including getting into a small parking space - well, most of the time! I was rather amused to discover a huge dog, who loves to chase cars, refuse to chase mine although I had driven past him twice each day for three years. I suppose he figures my little car is no challenge to him so why waste energy and time when you know you will win. On the other hand, it could be he is getting on up in years and although he isn't ready to "retire" he is becoming more selective.

Many people I know over 62 are not ready to retire, but they are slowing down a bit. For those people and all social security beneficiaries who do some work, let me tell you about a recent change in the Social Security Law. Beginning in 1973 if your earnings for the year are $2,100 or less, you will be considered "retired." If you earn more than $2,100 for the year, $1.00 in benefits will be withheld for each $2.00 of earnings. Regardless of your total earnings in 1973, you can still get a check for any month you neither earn wages of more than $175 nor work in your own business. Please note this is for 1973. The old rule applies for 1972.

This does not apply to people getting social security disability checks.

Q. I had to dropout of school last year due to illness. I'm planning to return to another school this Fall. Will the student's benefits I got after my father's death start again?

A. Yes, but you will have to reapply for these benefits by contacting the Social Security Office. Of course you still need to be under age 22, unmarried, and attending an approved educational institution.

Q. When I became disabled last year one of your representatives came to the hospital and took my claim. When my checks started I got only 1 month's benefit. When I get the lump sum check for the months I had to wait?

A. You won't get a lump sum as you describe it. In 1972 a person was required to be disabled for 6 full months before his checks could begin. (The requirement is now 5 months.) There is no payment due you for this period. In your case you were interviewed during this waiting period and your claim was approved prior to the end of this 6-month period. By filing your claim early this allowed Social Security to get your first check to you on time. This is what we prefer to do and this is the reason we want persons who are disabled to file their claims during this waiting period.

EGG BEFORE CHICKEN

The egg came before the chicken. Birds evolved from reptile stock that was laying eggs millions of years before the first prehistoric bird flew, the National Geographic Society says.

Come to Mardi Gras!

"Throw me something Mister" will be a familiar cry as costumed residents and visitors on the Mississippi Gulf Coast celebrate Mardi Gras with parades, bands, carnival balls and revelry this Spring.

King D'Iberville, his queen and court will lead the traditional "Fat Tuesday" parades. Bands, tinkets, and Mardi-Gras medals will serve as lasting mementos thrown to the crowds by marked krewe's riding the colorful, lavish floats.

Annually attracting thousands to the Mississippi Gulf Coast, the Bi-Exi Mardi Gras is one of the oldest celebrations of its kind in America and is the only Mardi Gras celebration in which the public can participate in all events.

The "Fat Tuesday" gaiety is scheduled for March 6, 1973.

IRS Reminds Employers Of Forms

The deadline for employers to give employees their 1972 W-2 is Wednesday, January 31, 1973, Bob LeBaube, Acting District Director of Internal Revenue for North Carolina, said today.

The form should show earnings, income tax withheld and Social Security information.

An employee has to file a W-2 from each employer with his income tax return. Therefore, it is important that employers furnish W-2's to their employees by the date required, in order to permit timely preparation and filing of employees' tax returns.

An employer may have to pay a penalty for each W-2 he fails to furnish in time.

Somers Introduces Bill To Repeal Tax On Medicine

Senator Robert Vance Somers, (Republican of Davidson, Davie, Rowan) introduced a bill into the state Senate Wednesday which would repeal the tax on medicine. The tax exemption would also apply to certain medical, dental, and ophthalmic supplies.

The bill would exempt medicine sold on the prescription of a doctor or dentist and medicine compounded or prepared by a druggist which is otherwise sold at retail. In addition, drugs or supplies sold by a doctor or hospital to a patient would be exempt, as well as dental supplies, dentures and similar items sold to a patient by a dentist.

"The revenue which would be lost from these exemptions is quite small," Somers said, "this is one way to give tax relief without affecting the state budget."

"The tax on medicine hits those who are least able to pay: the elderly, the sick. A sick or injured person is often already under a serious financial strain; the state should not increase that strain by taxing him for being sick."

The bill restores the tax exempt status of medicine to its pre-1961 level. In 1961, the sales tax was expanded at the request of the Sanford administration.

Bits Of Life

The Agnostic

By ROSCOE BROWN FISHER

It was at Atlantic City. We sat on the pier which led off the boardwalk — a new-made friend and I. He was well dressed. Perhaps 30 or 35.

The distant stillness of the Atlantic compensated for the constant chatter of the milling masses on the beach just below us. Fast moving and scattered grey clouds of varying sizes pushed smaller ones into larger bundles. A deep blue sky and an occasional break through of the late evening sun added to the sheer beauty of the unusual traffic in the sky.

Filled to the overflowing, I said to my new acquaintance, "Quite a picture... not? — the handiwork of God without the slightest touch of man!"

"You know," he replied, "I have never believed in God. Perhaps you have something I do not. Sometimes I wonder."

"Speak on," I nodded.

"It isn't that I am an atheist... but rather I have never seen God, never felt him, as you would speak of his power." "After pausing a moment he added, "Perhaps I'm what you call an agnostic. I don't think anyone can prove a God made all this... and that out there."

He was waiting for my answer. I let him wait. Finally I replied, "God is an experience."

"Explain."

"Let me illustrate," I replied, for I had noticed a small boy, about seven, playing in the pavilion. I called to him. His mother looked somewhat doubtful, but he came.

"Sonny," I asked, "will you tell us what a trip across the ocean is like? Tell us about the rocking of the ship... the lapping of the waves... the roar of the turbines... the stillness of the nights... the vastness of mid-ocean... a full moon at sea... the passing of a ship... the sight of land... the dining rooms?"

"But, Mister, I have never been across the ocean. I can't tell you about those things."

"Thank you so much, Sonny." He was gone, not giving me time to show my gratitude.

I turned to my new-made friend, who was still silent. "You see," I said, "God is an experience. The lad could not tell us anything about crossing the Atlantic. He had never been across the Atlantic — never experienced it."

"You see, you have to experience God to know Him."

Green Meadows

Attendance was good again on Sunday at Green Meadows Church. The church was happy to welcome Rev. Fred Robbins, pastor of Smith Grove and Dulins Methodist Churches as guest minister.

Mrs. Lester Carter has received word of the safe arrival in Japan of her husband. She is expecting to join him there as soon as all the necessary passport arrangements are made.

Angela Bayer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Randy Boyer became very ill on Sunday with a suspected flu type virus.

Jeannie and Jimmy Nester arrived with their mother from Raleigh on Saturday for a few days visit with their grandparents, the Joe Langstons.

Mrs. Sam Austin was on the sick list on Sunday also Mrs. Sallie Riddle was not too well. Mrs. Bessie Smith was able to leave Saturday for a few days visit with Mr. and Mrs. Gene Lee and family.

Renee Boger, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Douthit who was badly injured recently was able to return to her home last week. Renee continues to improve, but must remain in a cast for several weeks.

Sandra Smith is spending sometime with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Smith, while her aunt, Mrs. Dorris Drawdy is vacationing in Europe.

Friends of Mrs. Maggie Sheek here are pleased to hear that recent surgery on both eyes has progressed so well, that she was able on Sunday to return to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Reid Hauser.

Another familiar face in this community is missing due to the death last week of Fletcher Craft. Mr. Craft's health had not been good the past few years, but death came sudden and unexpected. Mr. Craft had not always lived here, but had gained the respect of those in the area. Sympathy goes out to members of his family.

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. Henry Douthit on Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. J.W. Douthit of Ocean Springs, Miss. and Mr. and Mrs. Travis Smith of Christianburg, Va. J.W. has retired from U.S. Service and is operating a service station in Ocean Springs.

A certain lady in this community owns two cats. One is black and one is gray. Until recently these cats had been nameless. It seems the gray one has the wanderlust and often leaves home for a few days, but he always returns and cries on the doorstep until someone goes and pats his back and talks to him; therefore he has been named Kissinger. The black one stays around home most of the time—so of course he has been named Nixon.
