Mocksville Masonic Lodge Constructing New Temple

by David Hoyle

The Mocksville Masonic Lodge has begun construction of a new temple. The building, hoped to be completed in two to four months, is located on Ridgeview Street behind the Davie County Hospital.

The Mocksville Masons are presently meeting in their old building on the square in Mocksville until the new Temple can be completed.

The old building and adjoining lot were sold to finance the building of the new temple. The Masons first thought they would remodel their existing building in the fall and early winter of 1972.

Remodeling proved to be expensive, however, so the lodge decided that if an acceptable bid for their building and lot was offered, it would be taken.

The offer came in May of 1973 and they spent until March of 1974 selecting a suitable building site. The land was bought from R. C. Foster but the Masons had to go to all the adjoining landowners to get permission to have the property rezoned.

The new lodge will be a brick structure including a carpeted lodge room and dining area. The L-shaped building will also have an entrance lobby, vestibule and kitchen, as well as bathrooms and storage areas.

The 29 x 60 foot dining area will accommodate around 125 diners. The meeting room will seat about 100 people comfortably. The building will also serve as a meeting place for the Order of the Eastern Star.

"All donations will be appreciated," said Sam Short, chairman of the building committee. The cost of the building is paid entirely by contributions of the brethren or other interested groups or individuals since any money raising projects are forbidden by the Masonic constitution.

All contributors names will be written on

Davie Schools Serve 4,000 1st Day Lunches

Approximately 4,000 school lunches were served to students and adults the first full day of school, Monday, August 26, which was a substantial increase over last year.

The high school served 900 plate lunches, plus 200 on the sandwich line. The school has an enrollment of 1420.

The largest number for the elementary schools was at Cooleemee which reported serving 714 lunches. Their enrollment is 733.

Mocksville Elementary School served a total of 541 lunches, with 538 students enrolled. The Mocksville Middle School had 374 to eat in the cafeteria with 382 students enrolled.

Pinebrook Elementary School served 632 plate lunches with 652 enrolled.

Shady Grove Elementary had 430 lunches with an enrollment of 468.

William R. Davie had 354 with a 388 enrollment.

The Davie County school system did not increase the price of the school lunches at the beginning of this school year.

"We sincerely hope an increase will not be necessary any time during this school year, although we realize if food prices continue to rise, we will be forced to do so," said Mrs. Lucille Furches, Davie County School Lunchroom Supervisor.

At present, the price of the school lunch is as follows: Kindergarten to 5, 40 cents; 6 to 12 grades, 45 cents; adult, 55 cents; and extra milk to students, .06 cents.

National Guard Armory Almost Completed

The new National Guard Armory, on U.S. 64 east of Mocksville, is nearing completion.

The $257,000 building, begun last July, was inspected Thursday by the United States Property and Fiscal Officers out of the Adjutant General's office in Raleigh.

"The general building was in good shape," said Sgt. Jack Koontz of the local Guard unit. "After a few minor touchups, the keys will be turned over to us." Sgt. Koontz said he hoped they would be able to begin moving non-sensitive items into the new building this weekend.

The new brick building houses classrooms, offices, a kitchen, bathrooms and a locker room for the soldiers. There is a 75 foot indoor rifle range and a large, gymnasium-like area for practicing drills.

The new armory has several storage rooms including a vault type room for storage of weapons. In addition to the building, the new site includes five acres of land.

Members of the local National Guard unit raised $35,000 to pay their 12 per cent share of the building costs. The state paid another 12 per cent and the Federal Government chipped in 75 per cent of the cost.

The old armory property, on Railroad Street in Mocksville, will revert to its previous owner, Mrs. Helen Martin. It was given over to the National Guard for their use as long as they used the building.

Lt. Raymond F. Spingler, commander of the local unit, looks over plans with Sgt. Jack Koontz and Col. William Keeton, United States Property and Fiscal Officer who was inspecting the new National Guard Armory.

Davie Votes On Countywide Water System Bonds Tuesday

Davie County voters will decide this Tuesday, September 10th, whether or not they want a county-wide water system.

The special tax referendum presented to the voters will provide the financial guarantee the Farmer's Home Administration is requiring the county to have before it gives final approval to a loan to help build the system.

What the voters will actually be deciding is whether to authorize water bonds, not exceeding $3,860,000 for constructing a water works system for Davie County. Taxes would be levied only in years that fees from the sale of water did not produce enough revenue to pay the costs of operating the system and make payments on the loan.

The money will go to repay a Farmers Home Administration loan of $3,860,000 under the Rural Development Program to Davie County. Approval of the loan, pending approval of the tax referendum by Davie voters, was announced Thursday by Eighth District Congressman Earl B. Ruth.

The total cost of the county-wide water system will amount to $5,521,500. Other funds in the total cost will be $1,287,500 from the state, $300,000 from the Appalachian Regional Commission, and $74,000 from the applicants wishing to use the system.

Besides getting the approval of the voters, an estimated 3,400 applicants to the proposed system are needed to assure the FHA loan can be paid off in 40 years at five percent interest.

Ron Vogler, Davie County manager, reported that he had received a letter from the district director of the Farmers Home Administration stating that, based on the engineer's report, if the number of users in the report materializes and the construction costs do not exceed what is planned, then it was his opinion that the loan can be repaid from the revenue of the sale of water.

The money will go toward construction of four pumping stations, four storage tanks, a filter plant with new pumps, 44 fire hydrants and 177 miles of pipeline.

The pipeline will vary in size from 2-inches up to 12-inches.

The proposed system will include almost $3 million worth of water treatment facilities and distribution lines in the Cooleemee area, given to the county last fall by Burlington Industries.

The minimum fee for water in the proposed system will be around $5.75 per month for 2,000 gallons of water. Customers signing up before the deadline can get their water with a $50 tap-on fee plus a $10 meter deposit. Those waiting until after the deadline, must pay $250 for a tap-on plus a $10 meter fee.

At this time, roughly one third of the required number of applicants to the proposed system have come in. County officials say that they expect the majority of people wanting the water service to come in after the election.

The vote Tuesday will be countywide with all 12 precincts participating. The polls will be open from 6:30 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. Sample ballot appears on page 4.

Counties Told Of Money Lost By Incomplete Food Stamp Use

North Carolina is losing over $160 million in Federal funds and millions of dollars in sales tax revenue each year through lack of maximum participation in the food stamp program.

At the same time over one-half million of the state's poor are not receiving help in buying adequate food for one reason or another.

The state ranks 46th when compared to other states in the number of eligible people participating in the food stamp program.

These statistics are based on a U. S. Senate select committee report issued last year.

Secretary of Human Resources David T. Flaherty, in an effort to inform county commissioners about the economic impact the food stamp program has on their counties, has written each of them a letter explaining how much federal money and local option sales tax they are losing.

The Division of Social Services of the Department of Human Resources plans an extensive statewide outreach program this fall to make sure that all eligible citizens know about the food stamp program, how it works, and where to apply.

Based on the U. S. Senate report there are 996,309 people in North Carolina with incomes below the poverty level. The same report shows that only 299,589 persons were participating in food assistance programs.

The statistics sent to county commissioners show that if the state had full participation in the program the counties would collect $3,000,000 in sales tax on food sold and the state $9,000,000 a year. Actual participation realized only $630 thousand for the counties and $1.8 million for the state.

In his letter, Flaherty appealed to the county commissioners to see that their county departments of social services have adequate staff and more locations where people can obtain coupons.

"I am sure most people know the humanitarian side of the food stamp program, but I am not sure they realize the potential economic impact the program offers. In addition to the revenues mentioned, more jobs are created because of this extra buying power," Flaherty commented.

Recent federal legislation will also provide additional federal revenue for the administration of the foodstamp program. The bill signed by former President Nixon on July 12, calls for the U. S. Department of Agriculture to pay 50 percent of all administrative cost for the food stamp program including outreach efforts. In the past, counties have received approximately 28 percent federal matching for administration.

The report points out that if all those eligible for the food stamp program in Davie had participated there would have been $959,712 food stamp dollars spent in the county with a return of $9,957 in sales tax.

Youth Killed In Wreck Tuesday On US 601 South

A Salisbury youth became the sixth Davie County highway fatality this year in a car and truck collision Tuesday that left his mother in critical condition.

Michael Ray Brown, 7, of 713 Maupin Avenue in Salisbury was killed and his mother, Carrolle Klutz Brown, 32, of the same address, was listed in serious condition at Baptist Hospital with abdominal injuries, possible head injuries, and a fractured leg and shoulder.

Mrs. Brown, the driver of the car in which her son was killed, underwent surgery at 11:30 Tuesday morning. She was still listed in critical condition at press time Tuesday night.

The accident occurred around 9 a. m. Tuesday on U. S. 601, one and a half miles South of Mocksville near the Lakewood Motel.

Richard Wayne Moore, 22, of Route 1, Cleveland, was the driver of the two-axle truck. Moore was not seriously injured in the collision and a passenger in the truck, J. B. Gibbins, 46, of Route 1, Woodleaf, was treated and released at Davie County Hospital.

According to investigating officer, Trooper W. D. Grooms, the truck was traveling South on U. S. 601 when it crossed the center line and struck the Brown car on the left side. Both vehicles came to rest on a shoulder of the northbound land. Grooms said there were no skid marks prior to impact.

There was $1,500 damage to the truck and $1,800 damage to the car. Moore was charged with driving left of center.

Davie County ambulance attendants Ashley and Harrison responded to the call and rushed the victims to Davie County Hospital after removing them from the car with the help of heavy equipment from a Duke Power truck working nearby.

Bloodmobile

The Bloodmobile will be in Mocksville Friday, September 13, at the First Presbyterian Church on South Main Street from 9:30 a. m. to 3:30 p. m. This visit will be the beginning of a new year. Davie County is 200 pints below replacement quota at this time. Since the Bloodmobile is based on the replacement program and all blood used in the County must be replaced. All residents are urged to give a pint of blood to help replenish our supply.

Gremlin Hits Pole

A 1972 Gremlin went out of control and hit a utility pole Friday night around 11:55 p. m. on NC 801, 5.2 miles south of Mocksville.

The driver, Thomas Watkins Talbert, Jr., 22, of Advance Rt. 2, was not injured. State Highway Patrolman W. D. Grooms said his investigation showed that Talbert ran onto the right shoulder of the roadway, lost control and skidded into a utility pole.

Trooper Grooms said that both Talbert and his passenger told him that an unknown vehicle ran a stop sign at the intersection with Rural Paved Road 1103 which caused the accident.

There were no charges. Damage to the Gremlin was estimated at $350.

Vehicles Collide Saturday

Two vehicles collided Saturday around 7 p. m. on US 601.

Involved was a 1972 Chevrolet, operated by Clyde Edward Wetherford, 27, of Flint, Michigan and a 1970 Pontiac operated by Donald Gray Davis, 23, of Mocksville Rt. 5.

State Highway Patrolman J. C. Goodin said his investigation showed that Wetherford was driving south on US 601 when the Davis vehicle pulled from a driveway into his path.

Damage to the Wetherford vehicle was estimated at $1500 and $475 to the Davis vehicle. A passenger in the Wetherford vehicle was taken to the Davie County Hospital and was treated and released.

Davis was charged with failure to yield right of way.

John Guglielmi Elected Head Of N. C. Poultry Association

John Guglielmi of Holly Farms Poultry Company, Mocksville, North Carolina, has been elected president of the North Carolina Poultry Federation. Guglielmi has served on the Board of Directors of the Poultry Federation for several years, and is a past president of the N.C. Feed Manufacturers Association. He has also been active in a number of state and national poultry organizations. He has served as Secretary Treasurer and as Vice President of the N.C. Poultry Federation.

John Guglielmi

C.A. Schenon of Western Hatcheries, Inc., Morganton, N.C. has been elected First Vice President of the Poultry Federation. B.M. Hancock, Jr., R.M. Hancock & Sons, Bonlee, N.C. is the Federation's newly elected Secretary Treasurer. The new officers of the Federation will serve with 17 statewide directors representing every segment of the North Carolina poultry industry. The directors include Paul Morgan, Morgan & Sons Poultry Co., Greensboro; Bruce Horne, Womble & Hatley Egg Co., Lillington; Marvin Johnson, Nash Johnson & Sons, Rose Hill; Howard Thompson, Wilson & Co., Sanford; John Williams, Med-State Farms, Staley; J.E. Johnson, Jr., FCX, Raleigh; Jackson Dean, Dean Farms, Louisburg; Bruce economy last year. It is estimated that the poultry industry generates well over two billion dollars in other related businesses. Woodhouse also noted the state ranks third in the production of turkeys, nationwide, fourth in the production of broilers, and fifth in the production of eggs. The North Carolina poultry industry is the state's largest food industry, and is exceeded only by tobacco with respect to farm income by commodities.

Cuddy, Cuddy Farms, Marshville; Lafayette Wrenn, Siler City Mills, Siler City; Hoyt Thornbury, Associated Farms of Goldston, Goldston; Frank Rhodes, Holly Farms, Wilkesboro; Allen Ashcraft, FCX Charlotte, Bill Gozzi, Jr., Gozzi Breeding Farms, Southern Pines; J.A. Warren, J.A. Warren Co., Charlotte; Leo Jones, Pileh Inc., Statesville; Keith Hinson, Watson Seafood & Poultry, Rose Hill; Frank Mauss, Central Soya, Monroe. According to Ed Woodhouse, Executive Secretary of the N.C. Poultry Federation, the North Carolina poultry industry pumped over $500,000,000 into the North Carolina farm

Sunday School Picnic

On Saturday, August 24, at 4 p.m. the ice cream freezers were rolling in at Shelter No. 3, at Rich Park for an ice cream party planned for the Sunday School picnic of Ijames Baptist Church. All summer there had been rumors of the ice cream picnic planned by the Recreation Committee of the church. The children, young people and adults had been looking forward to this event and finally the day arrived.

The program began with a soft ball game for the youth; sliding and swinging for the children; volley ball for those that would not tell their ages; horse shoe pitching for the old folks and lounge chairs for the over-the-hillers some of these did turn the freezers. Following the recreation, the freezers were uncapped and several flavors of ice cream served with home made cake. There was no limit set nor a count of the refills.

To top off the evening, pastor Rev. Franklin Myers led the Youth Choir in songs and the Steele family entertained the group with music and singing. Around 8:30 p.m. Rev. Mr. Myers dismissed the group with a prayer of thanksgiving and praise to God for wonderful fellowship together. Everyone is looking forward to the next social.

Ijames Church would like to thank those who keep Rich Park operating for these enjoyable times.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene C. Haneline, former residents of Mocksville, now residing in Greer. She is also the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Wall of Avon Street and the great niece of Mrs. Stella Call, Hardison Street, Mocksville.

The groom is the son of Mrs. Carrie C. Hines and the late John Frank Hines. A graduate of North Greenville College, he is now employed at Winn Dixie Warehouse in Greenville.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white silk organza over taffeta. Venice lace was used on the Victorian neckline, on the bodice and to form a deep cuff of the long full sleeves. The built-in train was chapel length with wide panels of Venice lace on the back and on the deep hem of the full skirt that had motifs of lace on the front. She wore a mantilla of white silk illusion edged with Venice lace with a cap of lace and net.

Mrs. Douglas Melvin Hill
Miss Linda Darlene Craft
Weds Mr. Hill

Miss Linda Darlene Craft became the bride of Douglas Melvin Hill of Concord on Sunday, August 25 at Calvary Baptist Church. Dr. C. Mark Cortis officiated at the 3 p.m. double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Craft of 417 Jonestown Road and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Shelton of Rt. 5, Mocksville. She was graduated from West Forsyth High School in 1970 and holds a B. S. degree in nursing from Lenoir Rhyne College. While in college she was elected to Who's Who In American Colleges and Universities, was named Best All Round Senior Girl and was secretary of Epsilon Sigma Alpha, national service sorority. She is employed as a staff nurse at N.C. Baptist Hospital.

Her husband graduated from Concord Senior High School and Lenoir Rhyne College. He was president of the student government association and director of intramural sports while at Lenoir Rhyne and was named Best All Round Senior Boy in 1973. He was also listed in Who's Who In American Colleges and Universities. He is employed by the Winston-Salem Recreation Department as assistant recreation center director at Polo Park. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin H. Hill of Concord.

The sanctuary was decorated with arched and spiral candelabras, palms and vases of white flowers. The three-candle ceremony representing union in marriage was used. A kneeling bench completed the nuptial setting. The family section of the church was marked by white hurricane lamps.

Wedding music was presented by Larry White and Dr. Cortis, soloists, and Miss Janice Rogers, organist.

The bride was attired in a gown of white silk organza designed with a high neckline edged with a Belaian lace ruffle. The same lace accented the cuffs of the long slim sleeves. The Empire bodice had appliques of Alencon lace and the A-line skirt and chapel train were enhanced with a Belgian lace flounce. Her mantilla of silk illusion with lace border was held by a Camelot cap. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses, daisies, baby's breath and tube roses, centered with a white orchid. Touches of apricot were also used in the bridal bouquet.

Miss Tricia Keaton of Greensboro was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were the Misses Linda and Denise Hill of Concord, sisters of the bridegroom; Miss Cindy Kaelke of Charlotte; Miss Laura Lee Slate of Winston-Salem; and Miss Marie Swindler of Mocksville. All the attendants wore floor-length gowns of apricot dotted swiss over taffeta, designed with a square neckline and Queen Anne sleeves trimmed with Venice lace. Venice lace accented the bodice of the gowns. The full column skirts had a wide ruffle at the hemline. They carried baskets of white, yellow and apricot flowers. White garden hats completed their attire. Each attendant wore a gold lock which was a gift from the bride.

The bridegroom was attended by his father. Ushers were Terry Craft of Winston-Salem, brother of the bride; Gary Kooztz of Lexington; Doug Bean of Chapel Hill; Robert Carpenter of Bessemer City; John Gilbert of Charlotte; Bob Johnston of Albemarle; and David Deal of Pensacola, Florida.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Craft chose a mint floor length gown with flowing skirt. The long sleeves and bodice of the gown were accented with Venice lace and seed pearls. She wore an orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother was attired in a floor length gown of floral print designed with long sleeves and a full skirt. She also wore an orchid corsage.

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony the bride's parents were hosts at a reception in the church fellowship hall. An apricot color scheme was used with summer flowers topping the five-tiered wedding cake.

Flowers were also used around the cake and the punch bowl.

Mrs. Joe White, Mrs. Grady Beck and Mrs. Betty Potts, all aunts of the bride, served at the reception, assisted by Miss Karla Green, Miss Lori Smith, Miss Teresa Smith, Mrs. Frank Smith and Mrs. Lloyd Brandelana.

WEDDING TRIP

For her wedding trip to the N. C. mountains the bride wore a baby blue and white ensemble with white accessories. Her white orchid corsage was lifted from her bridal bouquet.

Upon their return the couple will live on Miller Street in Winston-Salem.

REHEARSAL PARTY

The bridegroom's parents honored the couple on Saturday evening with a party following the wedding rehearsal.

Guests included the bridal party and dates; the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Craft; the bridegroom's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hill of Webster City, Iowa; and the bridegroom's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Brandelana of Radcliffe, Iowa.

Approximately 50 guests were present.

The bride and bridegroom selected this time to present gifts to their attendants.

BRIDE'S LUNCHEON

The bride-elect was honored with a bridal luncheon on Saturday at the home of Miss Laura Lee Slate on Chester Road, Winston-Salem. Co-hostesses were Miss Marie Swindler and Miss Tricia Keaton.

Guests included the bride's attendants; her mother, Mrs. Robert W. Craft; and her great-aunt, Mrs. Manus Welborn. Also attending were the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Melvin H. Hill of Concord; his grandmother, Mrs. Howard Hill and his aunt Mrs. Lloyd Brandelana, both of Iowa.

Opposition

The special bond referendum to be voted on in Davie County Tuesday may face substantial opposition.

The vote Tuesday will determine whether the county wants to tax itself to repay a Federal Housing Administration loan of $3,860,000 should the sale of water from the system prove insufficient to make the loan payments.

In a position paper, the Mocksville Town Board of Commissioners said it was with reluctance that they must oppose the proposed county-wide water system referendum. Their opposition, they said, was based on the fact that it could mean additional taxes for the citizens of Mocksville as well as citizens in other areas of the county who are already served by a tax-supported water system. Many other citizens of the town have likewise expressed opposition to a double taxation possibility for water system.

Under the proposed referendum, the County Commissioners would be authorized to levy a tax against all citizens if revenues were not sufficient to support the system.

This is the feature of the present plan that the Town Commissioners dislike. Pointing out that the Town of Mocksville already has a tax supported water system, the Town Commissioners feel that the citizens of Mocksville should not be taxed for two systems.

In a letter of intent dated March 21, 1974, and addressed to the County Commissioners, the Town Commissioners say they agree to cooperate in the establishment of a county-wide water system, but only if the citizens of the town were not subjected to an additional tax to support such a system.

Stressing that they are not opposed to a county-wide water system, the Town Commissioners said they felt there are alternative plans that would not involve the possibility of an additional tax levied against those citizens in areas already served by a tax-supported water system.

The Town Board added that since as early as 1969, the Mocksville Town engineers have been conducting feasibility studies for the establishment of such a system.

"My personal opinion is that I can't, as a Town Commissioner, vote for it and I would have to advise the people I represent to vote against it," said Clyde Glascock, a member of the Mocksville Town Board.

Glascock said the city already has ample water and foresees no demands for extra water in the future. "The town can't afford to pay the indebtedness of the county," Glascock said.

"I think there's a better way," said Johnny Marklin, another member of the Mocksville Town Board. "Personally, I think a county water system is a good idea, but the county is going about it in the wrong way."

Marklin said there would be double taxation for the people of Mocksville who already have a water system.

Chairman of Davie County Board of Elections

System Needed

Speaking in favor of the proposed water bond issue, Ron Vogler, Davie County Manager, said there was a definite need for a county water system.

"The county is growing at a rapid rate and some problems are already here," Vogler said. He pointed to areas with poor water, inadequate water supplies, or pollution due to the density of the population.

Asked what the new system will mean to people who have wells, Vogler said they will not have to take water from the public system, but that those who do will eliminate costly repairs to pumps and to wells.

"They will have a constant supply of water under an even and strong water pressure," Vogler said. "The water will be treated to meet all health department regulations."

Fire protection will be improved under the proposed system, according to Vogler, with 44 fire hydrants placed by the fire departments in the county to make refilling of trucks faster in an emergency.

Also, each fire department will have a 2-inch line going into the station to refill the trucks there.

Vogler also stressed that the users of the proposed system would be the ones to pay for it. "Each line that is installed must have enough customers on it to pay for the loan repayment, plus the operating costs," Vogler said.

"The Board of Commissioners and the lender, the Farmers Home Administration, will not approve any line unless that line will be self-supporting," he said.

Asked the purpose of the referendum, Vogler explained that when a county borrows money from the Farmers Home Administration, it must show the system will pay for itself as well as guaranteeing repayment of the loan.

"The bond attorneys who must certify the bonds used in the loan require a vote of all the people of the county and not just certain areas," Vogler said. "This would make it possible for the county to pay the installment by levying tax money if the revenues were inadequate in a particular year."

Vogler said the possibility of having insufficient revenues was extremely remote. "The engineer has checked other similar systems in the state and found that none had to use tax money," Vogler said. "In fact, due to added customers along the lines, they were operating with surplus funds."

He added that the Local Government Council has stated that the Davie County program is the best one they have reviewed as far as being self-supporting.

Vogler said that the county now owns a $2 million treatment plant, and has a grant from the state of $1,287,500 plus another $300,000 grant if the referendum passes.

"Now will be the cheapest time to ever get a county water system," Vogler concluded. "If the referendum passes, the system must sign up enough customers to make it self-supporting, otherwise, it cannot be installed."

About one third of the necessary customers have already signed up for the proposed system. Vogler said the engineer had told him that most people will sign up after the vote and the system is on a more solid foundation.

Congressman Earl Ruth Campaigns In Davie

By David Hoyle

Congressman Earl Ruth breezed into town Thursday, smoking a long cigar and carrying a bucket of what has become his trademarks - Baby Ruth candy bars.

"This is the only time I have to meet the people as a candidate," Ruth said, explaining he had left Washington only last Friday. Davie was the 12th county the Republican congressman has visited in this 8th district since then.

Ruth, a native of Spencer, began his tour through Davie by having his picture made with the first person to whom he gave his traditional Baby Ruth candy bar.

"The first person I've asked each time has been willing to do it," Ruth said. He gave his first Davie County Baby Ruth to Mrs. Nannie Booe, of Route 5, Mocksville, saying, "be sure to save the wrapper and remember my name."

Asked about the Davie vote in the upcoming elections, Ruth said he wasn't overconfident in spite of his almost 2 to 1 victory here last year.

"You know, you're always looking at what's happening at home," he said. "Davie and Yadkin are the only ones having more Republicans than Democrats. When you have a 6 to 11 registration of Democrats over Republicans, you're never overconfident."

"I've tried to render service to my constituency and render service to the congress," Ruth said, pointing to his voting record attendance of over 98 percent.

The congressman said the issues in the coming election will be determined by the philosophy of the people running. "But the main issue in the nation is inflation," he added.

Asside from government spending, Ruth said the main thing in fighting inflation was the attitude of the people.

"It's kind of become the style to buy now and pay later," Ruth said, chewing on his unlit cigar. "And that's not helping in the fight against inflation."

"If the president in this summit conference comes up with any probable solutions," Ruth said, "these will only be as important as the attitude of the people toward these proposals."

Defending his lack of comment on the issues, Ruth said he doesn't seek to be controversial but rather stands on his voting record. "I think commenting on everything can get you in trouble," he said.

As for Watergate, Ruth said it shouldn't hurt him since people in the area basically vote on their philosophies. "There's been a lot of relief from the Watergate situation," Ruth said, "but the scars are still there."

Asked about the proposal to raise gasoline tax by 10 cents a gallon, Ruth said, "Well, you might disagree with the president but you don't jump on it." He added that it was not a mandate but just a suggestion.

"I do think it shows he is trying," Ruth said. "The main thing wrong with the 10 cents a gallon gas tax is that it hurts the little man who pays most of the taxes."

... Speaks To Optimist Club

First Baby Ruth Congressman Earl Ruth gives his first Baby Ruth candy bar in Davie County to Mrs. Nannie Booe of Mocksville Rt. 5 in his bid for reelection to the House of Representatives from the 8th District.

Following the interview, Ruth took his bucket of Baby Ruths and unlit cigar and headed for other parts of the county.

"As an active congressman, there's a limited time to campaign," Ruth lamented. "I know I'm going to get out of Congress until October and I know I'm going to have it rough."

Can't Communicate!

The transmitter for the Davie County Sheriff's Department was put out of commission for the third time in almost as many months Sunday night.

Lightning in Sunday night's storm apparently struck the transmitter tower on Campbell Road, blowing out six fuses. Repairs had not returned the radio system to working condition as of press time Tuesday.

Unable to call in or out on their regular system, Davie law officers have been using walkie talkies to communicate. They also are using their Police Information Network system, which was not affected by the storm.

Courthouse Closed

Offices in the Davie County Courthouse will be closed all day Tuesday due to the special election on county-wide water bonds.

Three Injured

Three persons were injured in an accident Monday around 1 p. m. on N. C. 801, just south of Greasy Corner.

Taken to the Davie County Hospital were Asenath Mae Frances, 24, of Mocksville Rt. 3 and Walter Charles James, 39, of Cooleemee; and Robert Lewis White, Jr., 46, of Cooleemee.

Slate Highway Patrolman J. C. Goodin said his investigation showed that Asenath Mae Frances was operating a 1965 Pontiac and Charles William Walker, Jr., 26, of Sanford Avenue, Mocksville, was operating a 1974 Chevrolet. Both vehicles were going towards Cooleemee when the Walker vehicle struck the other in the rear.

The 1965 Pontiac was a total loss. Damage to the Walker vehicle was estimated at $700.

The accident is still under investigation.

bug complements the beauty of Davie County. We the members of the Davie County Board of Commissioners do hereby proclaim the Lightning Bug as the official County Bug for Davie County.

Signing the proclamation were John M. Bailey, chairman; Jerry Swicegood, Charles E. Alexander, Francis W. Slate, and Glenn Howard, commissioners.

The "Lightning Bug" was proposed as the official Davie County Bug by "Big Jon", Johnathan Seamon, of WDSL. His letter to the commissioners on this proposal read as follows:

I decided that I would give my listeners the opportunity to voice their opinion for the County Bug. After a summer of voting, the results show that the listeners of "Big Jon In The Morning" would like for the Davie County Board of Commissioners to adopt the "Lightning Bug" as the official Davie County Bug.

Vehicle Overturns

A 1974 Plymouth went out of control and overturned down an embankment last Thursday around 9:50 p.m. on Rural Paved Road No. 1400.

The driver was identified as Melvin Gray Lewis, 21, of Mocksville Rt. 7.

Slate Highway Patrolman W. D. Grooms said his investigation showed that Lewis lost control, crossed center of the road into the south bound lane, spun around onto the right shoulder, then rolled over on its left side down a 15-foot embankment, coming to rest on its top.

There were no injuries. Damage to the Plymouth was estimated at $2,000.

Car And Volks In Collision

Two vehicles collided August 28th on US 158 near the intersection with NC 801.

Involved was a 1965 Chevrolet operated by Evelyn Ellis Yates, 37, of Clemmons Rt. 1 and a 1967 Volkswagen operated by James Herman Owens, Jr., of Advance Rt. 1.

Slate Highway Patrolman J. L. Payne said his investigation showed that the Volkswagen pulled out of a drive way into the path of the Yates vehicle.

Damage to the vehicles was estimated at $350 each.

Parked Vehicles Hit

A parked vehicle was knocked into another in an accident Sunday around 11:30 p. m. on North Main Street, 100-feet south of Cemetery Street.

Involved was a 1973 Buick operated by James Harrell Rhynehardt, 26, of Mocksville Rt. 2; a parked 1973 Chevrolet operated by Louise Dale Stiles; and a parked 1967 Ford operated by Marilyn Jean Church of 851 N. Main St., Mocksville.

Capt. R. M. Groce said his investigation showed that Rhynehardt was headed north on North Main Street and drove over into area marked off for parking, striking the Stiles vehicle and knocking it down the street into the Church vehicle.

Damage to the Rhynehardt Buick was estimated at $1200; $1800 to the Stiles Chevrolet and $600 to the Ford.

Rhynehardt was charged with operating car intoxicated and public drunk.

Foster's Drug Co. Inc. To Open In Early October

Bill Foster announced plans this week for a new drug store to open around the first of October in Lowe's Shopping Center off Wilkesboro St. in Mocksville.

Foster's Drug Co., Inc. will be a full service drug store, independently owned and operated. It will be located in what was formerly the Family Stamp Store. Mr. Foster announced that this building is being remodeled to provide the most modern of pharmacy facilities.

Mr. Foster has been a pharmacist at Hall Drug Company in Mocksville for the past 9 years. He is a 1965 graduate of the University of North Carolina School of Pharmacy at Chapel Hill.

"Foster's Drug Co., Inc. will concentrate on health products with a full line of prescription drugs and services," said Mr. Foster. "We will carry convalescent aids, professional supports and braces, and a complete line of Max Factor products for both men and women."

Present plans call for the new store to open around October 1st. Hours will be from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. six days a week and from 1:30 p.m. to 3 p.m. on Sunday.

The train will leave Greensboro at 8:00 a. m. and travel through Winston-Salem before hitting Mocksville around 9:45. Passengers will be able to board at this time and travel to Asheville or a number of points in between.

The old locomotive will stop at Staesville, Newton, Connelly Springs, Morganton, Marion, Old Fort and Black Mountain before arriving at Asheville at 4:45 p. m.

Fares to ride the train are graduated according to distance but an adult leaving from Mocksville and going to Asheville must pay $13. The price for places in between falls all the way down to three dollars for someone going only as far as Statesville.

Children under 12 will be charged one-half the adult fare. Buses at Asheville will return passengers to Winston-Salem for six dollars.

The one-day excursion is being sponsored by the National Rail Road Historical Society. For further information, write: Winston-Salem Chapter-NHRS, P. O. Box 5857, Winston-Salem, N. C., 27103.

Labor Day Weekend Wrecks

There were two wrecks reported in Davie County over the Labor Day weekend.

A one-car accident occurred Sunday night around 9:55 p.m. on rural paved road 1170.

The car, belonging to Richard Allen Reynolds, received $250 in damages after the driver lost control and ended up turning the car over on its side.

According to Trooper W. D. Grooms, the car went out of control on a left hand curve, crossed the center line and ran on to the left shoulder and into a ditch where it struck a large rock.

The vehicle then spun around, crossed back to the left shoulder and rolled over on its side.

Trooper Grooms said the driver of the car fled after the accident and the two passengers in the car, one of which was the owner, said they didn't know who he was. There were no charges and no injuries in the accident.

A two-vehicle accident occurred around 4:50 p.m. Saturday on Depot Street, 25 feet North of Main Street. A 1973 Chrysler driven by Nellie Wilson Angell, 49, of Route 6 Mocksville, was struck by a 1973 Ford truck driven by Ceabern Melton Key, 57, of Route 5, Mocksville.

Mocksville Policeman A. D. Adams said that the Angell car was parked beside the Key truck when the truck was leaving the parking space. Adams said that Key did not see the Angell car sitting beside him and hit it in the right side.

The Angell car received $75 damages. There were no charges or injuries in the accident.

Commissioners Adopt Policy On Water Line Installation

so that those receiving the service would pay for it, and

WHEREAS, the Board of Commissioners with the Planning Board have studied this proposed plan and had the report reviewed by the Local Government Commission, the Farmers Home Administration and the Water Supply Grants Division of the state Health Department, and THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the Board of County Commissioners of Davie County that no water line be approved for installation until they shall first determine by using guidelines set forth by the Farmers Home Administration that such line will have enough customers on it to pay for the loan repayment and operation expense incurred by that line.

In other business the commissioners adopted an official county bug (see separate story), and heard various reports. It was reported that retail sales tax collections for July amounted to $24,509.17, and that the county received $53,951.22 in intangible taxes for the year. The commissioners approved the proposal to have the Maine Church Road rated.

Danny Smith was appointed to the Davie County Planning Board replacing Wade Groce who had resigned.

Gravel was authorized to be put on the landfill road.

The commissioners also adopted a civil preparedness ordinance. R. Bruce Tuttle assume the duties of Civil Preparedness Coordinator in addition to his duties as County Zoning Officer.

Davie C of C Endorses Vote

The Mocksville-Davie County Chamber of Commerce has gone on record in favor of the proposed County-wide water system with the adoption of the resolution which reads as follows:

WHEREAS, Davie County now owns the water treatment plant in Cooleemee, valued at $2,000,000 and has attained a grant from the State of $1,287,500 and been assured a grant from the Appalachian Regional Commission of $300,000, and

WHEREAS, indications are that as the population of Davie County increases the state may require a public water system for the county due to the density of the population, and

WHEREAS, this will assure orderly growth and insure the stability of our present business and industry which offers employment to the citizens of Mocksville and Davie County, and

WHEREAS, under the proposed system no tax funds should be necessary to support the system,

THEREFORE, be it resolved that the Mocksville-Davie Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors, in on record approving a County Water System for Davie County because of the County's strong financial position and the pressing need for such a system by both industry and the people.

Farmers Market To Remain Open This Month

The Davie County Farmers Market will remain open on a limited basis during September. The Masons are permitting the farmers to continue to use the Masonic Picnic Grounds. September was added to the season after a survey of the farmers indicated their crops are about two to three weeks later this year, and may still have a supply of vegetables for sale.

The market will operate as usual this week - Tuesday and Saturday morning and Thursday afternoon. However, after this week the market will only operate on Saturday mornings.

B. G. Westbrook, Agricultural Extension Agent, hopes more people will visit the market this week to buy locally grown vegetables. Westbrook suggests area shoppers use the market as a place to buy daily needs, as well as a place to get acquainted with the best local growers and place orders, or make arrangements for visiting the farms.

Any county farmer with produce for sale can have their name listed by calling 634-5134. These farmers sold on last weeks market: Clyde Jones, Spencer Foster, Joe Hoover, Adam Lagle, Cap Hudson, Mrs. Kay Chaffin, Bounce Jones, and Edna Beauchamp.

These producers have vegetables for sale at the farm: Bounce Jones, 998-4483; Clyde Jones, 998-4441; Eriv Speer, 492-7338; Clarence Carter, 998-4124; and Mrs. Kay Chaffin, 492-5183.

Social Security Representative To Be Here September 11

The Salisbury Social Security Office serving Davie county residents has announced that a representative will be at the Mocksville Courthouse on Wednesday September 11, 1974. He will assist those who wish to file applications for benefits or ask questions.

People may prefer to apply for benefits at the Salisbury Office, 105 Corriher Avenue, on Monday through Friday between 9:00 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

In addition a person can now apply for benefits, ask questions, or report any changes benefits by dialing the toll free number for people on the Mocksville Exchange: 634-2868.

This photo was taken at the Advance Post office sometime around 1915-1920. Clarence Faircloth is shown holding package; Jim Rattledge with the horse is standing behind Faircloth; Lewis Bailey is standing in the door of the post office; Gannon Talbert, with mustache, Brady Gold Williams, not pictured, was out sick the day the picture was made. The photo is the property of Charles Odell Williams.

David Dwiggins

David Dwiggins Is Air Force Cadet

David E. Dwiggins, son of Mrs. Betty E. Dwiggins of 706 Meroney St., Mocksville, N. C., is among more than 1,500 cadets who have entered their freshman year at the U. S. Air Force Academy.

Cadet Dwiggins was accepted into the cadet wing after completing six weeks of intensive field training, physical conditioning and survival instructions at the academy.

The cadet has begun four years of academic study and military training that will lead to a bachelor of science degree in one of 21 major fields and a commission as an Air Force second lieutenant.

Cadet Dwiggins is a 1974 graduate of Davie County High School.

N.J. Couple Thanks Local Law Officials

A New Jersey couple has written a note expressing their appreciation to local law officials for assistance rendered in helping them locate the home of Davie County friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Leface wrote the following note to this newspaper:

"We would like you to thank both the Mocksville Police and the State Patrol for us by publishing our thanks in the newspaper.

"On July 29 we had a bit of trouble finding our friends home since we were from New Jersey. We would like to thank the police for helping us find our friends and leading us to safety."

On July 29th, around 1 a. m., this couple was seeking to find the home of Mr. and Floyd Boyer of Advance, Mocksville. Police Officer Gary Edwards contacted the Davie County Sheriff's Department and Deputies Roy Spear and Owens led the couple to the Boyer home.

FOLK — WAYS

by Roger Whitener

The snakes stories continue. This week friend Edwin Judkins adds to the Folk-Ways collection with a recollection which he calls "Snakes and Stills."

"Snakes and alcohol beverages always seemed to be associated together like ham and eggs."

"First the snakes: Black snakes or racers have been known to travel through the country at a high rate of speed for no particular reason."

"Secondly the beverages:

The mountains of Appalachia for many years had not only moonshine stills but small ones licensed by the Government with an official called a guager to assess the taxes on same. I believe he had several stills in his jurisdiction."

"This is a story of a still on Walker's Mountain between Chilhowie and Saltville and located in Horse Shoe Bend, and also a snake story in connection, as told to me by an old man. He said he and a companion were walking across the mountain on a very hot day. They stopped at this still for refreshments and saw a very comical looking old man who said to them, 'Do you fellows know that snakes will run (chase) you in weather like this?'"

"They started on up the mountain and the story teller looked up and coming down the mountainside was a large black snake at about 60 miles an hour. He hollered, 'Look coming there!' His companion started to run, caught the snake between his feet, and there were sounds of swish, swish, swish, swish, as the man tried to entangle the snake and then fell in a dead faint."

"I would say that the foregoing episode happened over 100 years ago. Another story which being in the same category happened 75 years ago and is as follows:

"An old man told me he operated a 'Blind Tiger' where you came up, put your money on a window sill, turned your back, and when you turned around there was your bottle. You saw no one. His partner in the project was a Government guager who co-operated by furnishing the confiscated whisky. (Shades of Washington City.)"

"Note: I was told that a particular kind of yellow apples were used to make apple brandy."

J.R. McConkey, of Lahania.

Grants For Education Of Indian Children

Awarding of grants to local school districts and organizations in six states in HEW Region IV to assist them in their programs aimed at improving the education of American Indian children was announced today by Regional Director Frank J. Groschelle.

The funds are being allocated by HEW's Office of Education under Parts A and B of the Indian Education Act, and are part of a total of $40 million awarded to 1050 school districts and organizations across the nation, according to Dr. Groschelle.

All projects will be developed and conducted with the cooperation of tribes, parents, teachers, and students so that the Indian decisions, the Regional Director stated.

A 15 member National Advisory Council on Indian Education made recommendations in the grant awards, and will assist the grantees in their programs. The Advisory Council is composed of American Indian and Alaskan Natives as specified in the Indian Education Act.

Awards are being made in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi, North Carolina, and South Carolina.

NORTH CAROLINA-- Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians, Early Childhood Development and Family Resource Center, $101,500.

NORTH CAROLINA-- Lumbee Regional Development Association, Pembroke, N. C., for Lumbee Indian Education Project, $175,664.

Hawaii, picked up the "vanishing hippie" story in one of our recent columns (hometown newspapers never get proper recognition for their true circulation!) and in the following letter gives the Hawaiian version of the legend. Vacationing Mr. McConkey writes from Lake Taldas, British Columbia:

"From this lovely spot 150 miles by water from the nearest telephone, radio, newspaper, or highway, I want to write you about your 'missing hitchhiker' article in the Kingsport, Tennessee, Times News for July 21. I just received a letter from my sister (Mrs. F.S. LaRue of Kingsport) and she frequently sends me your articles, which I enjoy."

"I live in Hawaii, where I was born, but I lived in East Tennessee (Knoxville and Elizabethtown) for some 13 years. So, from the wilds of Canda, a Hawaiian who has been a Tennessee resident brings you a tale of the Hawaiian volcano Pele (pronounced Paylay).

"As far back as I can remember I have heard the story of the old Hawaiian woman dressed in black who would ask for a ride from the side of the road. It used to be horse drawn vehicles, but, of course, it later changed to automobiles. She would ask for a cigarette which she would light and smoke contentedly. When the driver or other occupants of the vehicle turned to ask a question such as 'How far are you going?', lo and behold she was gone!"

"Everyone was sure she was Pele."

Have received several letters recently about witches and witchcraft in the mountains. Something of this in the next edition of Folk-Ways.

Please send all material to: Rogers Whitners, Box 376, University Station, Boone, N.C. 28608.

Antique Show In Charlotte

The 49th Semi-Annual Antiques Show will be held in the new Civic Center in Charlotte September 7, 8 and 9. Hours for the show are Friday and Saturday, 12 noon to 9:30 p. m. and Sunday, 1 p. m. to 6 p. m.

The Mizpa Chapter #36 Order of the Eastern Star will again sponsor this three day event. Fifty-three dealers from throughout the Eastern and Mid-western states will display their rare collections of antiques, all offered to the public for sale.

Some of the highlights are sterling silver to match any pattern, sterling tea and coffee sets, fine porcelain, heirloom jewelry, furniture, coins, clocks, dolls, cut glass, cloisonne, orientals, primitives, paintings and many objects of art.

Food will be available during the showing of antiques, and there will be ample parking.

Virginia and Roy Chapman, Chapman Shows, Bat Cave, N. C. are managers for the show.

New Deputy

James H. Owens, 28 of Advance Rt. 1 has been named by Sheriff Joe Smith as one of his deputies.

A graduate of Davie County High School, Owens served for three years in the U.S. Army. He is married to the former Alvia Layell of Winston-Salem. They have one child, Jamie, age 3.

CONGRESSMAN EARL B. RUTH

Reports FROM WASHINGTON

On August 19 the House of Representatives, with my support, passed H. R. 16102, a bill which repealed year-round Daylight Saving Time. Under the new system we will have Standard Time from November through February.

This action by a majority of 383-16 followed several days of hearings by the House Subcommittee on Commerce and Finance, and the passage of a similar bill by the Senate.

Last winter Congress had rushed into action to require year-round Daylight Saving Time by passing the Emergency Daylight Saving Time Energy Conservation Act of 1973. The justification for this emergency legislation was that it might save up to 2 percent of the energy consumed by the country. Many people found it difficult to understand how shifting energy consumption from the evening to the morning would make a significant difference. A light burning in the morning consumes just as much energy as a light burning in the evening. I voted against the bill.

During the last winter, with Daylight Saving Time in effect, we heard many stories of accidents during the early morning hours, when people were a little sleepy and not used to driving in the dark. Most tragic were several instances in which school children waiting for the bus in the pre-dawn hours were hit by cars. People started asking how much energy would have to be saved to justify an unnecessary injury to a child.

Then on June 28 the U. S. Department of Transportation announced the results of a study of just how much energy had been saved was only 3/4 of one percent.

The Department of Transportation recommended that the United States should observe Daylight Saving Time for eight months of the year and Standard Time during the months when the mornings are darkest -- November through February. This recommendation was incorporated in the bill which passed the House.

The quick passage of this bill arose from a desire to set a national policy before the next school year began. The fear was that local schools might find themselves switching from one time system to another next winter, which could create even more confusion. Apparently many Congressmen now agree with the Department of Transportation that year-round Daylight Saving Time as an experiment that did not work.

Several weeks ago I discussed the possibility that the Internal Revenue Service would increase the business deduction allowance for automobiles used for business purposes. The I. R. S. has recently announced that its recent survey has caused them to make an increase to 15 cents a mile for the first 15,000 miles, and 10 cents a mile thereafter. This is up from 12 cents and 9 cents respectively, and is more in line with the actual costs of operating an automobile. This should be good news for traveling salesmen and many other businessmen.

Champion International Appoints Director Of Recruiting & EEO

Champion International Corporation has appointed Hugh M. Milton to the post director of recruiting and equal employment opportunity at its corporate offices here, it has announced today by Joseph M. Donnerlein, director of employee resources.

In his new post, Mr. Milton will be responsible for the recruiting of management personnel from sources outside and within the company and for assuring Champion International's compliance on EEO programs.

Mr. Milton joined Champion in 1966 as an industrial relations field representative. He was promoted to manager of labor relations services, his most recent post, in January 1969. Prior to that, he held industrial relations posts with Inland Container Corporation and Arnur & Company.

The new director of recruiting and EEO earned his bachelor of science degree in business administration in 1956 and his bachelor of laws degree in 1958, both at the University of North Carolina.

Mr. Milton and his family currently reside in Fairfield, Ohio.

Noise

As a sign of the times, over 300 cities and communities throughout the United States have established ordinances to combat hazardous environmental noise, officials of the Beltone Crusade for Hearing Conservation observe. Other communities wishing to control the deluge of environmental noise are urged to contact the Environmental Protection Agency for recommended regulatory guidelines, they add.

Enjoying A Fish Pond

What Joy enjoys most of all is fishing. Mrs. Bickett (Joy) Steelman doesn't let many days go by without "wetting a line." She is shown among the cattails which grow plentifully along the banks of their private fish pond, which is located near their home on Cedar Creek Road. The fish pond is stocked with brim and bass and also serves as a watering hole for their cattle. The pond was originally built by her father, the late F. R. Lakey, and is on the homeplace where her mother grew up. Although the little lake has never been opened to the public, the Steelmans have allowed their closest neighbors to fish there occasionally. (Photos by Jim Barringer)

Team Rehabilitation For Heart Attack Patients To Be Explored At UNC Short Course In Raleigh

Team Rehabilitation for heart attack patients will be explored here Sept. 17-19 by nurses, physicians and related health professionals. A rehabilitation program for patients with myocardial infarction should incorporate a team approach including medical, nursing and nutritional care, medical social service, physical occupational therapy and vocational counseling, explained course coordinator Laurice Ferris, assistant professor of nursing at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. At the present time there are no programs in North Carolina incorporating the special rehabilitation functions of the cardiologist-intern, the nurse, and the allied health professionals, she said.

A myocardial infarction is the damage or death of an area of the heart muscle caused by lack of blood to the area. The three-day program is focused around this health team approach. Each member of the health team will study the basic components of cardiac rehabilitation: physical activity, diet, psychosocial development, medical-nursing aspects and teaching-learning principles. The course, "Rehabilitation of the Patient with Myocardial Infarction—an Interdisciplinary Approach," is sponsored by the School of Nursing Continuing Education Program and the Division of Physical Therapy at UNC-Chapel Hill and N.C. Heart Association.

Financial assistance is available to North Carolina nurses through James M. Johnston Awards and to allied health professionals through National Institutes of Health training grants.

Faculty for the course will include the following representatives from UNC Schools of Nursing and Medicine and North Carolina Memorial Hospital: Drs. Ernest Craig, Daniel Young and Thomas Griggs; nursing instructor Sandra Fisher; physical therapist Barry Howes, chairman of the Myocardial Infarction Rehabilitation Program; clinical specialist Dorothy Jenkins; dietitian Marcia Mills; physical therapist Linda Moran; social worker Teme Reice; and occupational therapist Ann Smith.

Guest lecturers will be Dr. Nanette Wenger, director, Cardiology Clinics, Grady Memorial Hospital, Atlanta; Nancy Ernst, nutritionist, Lipid and Metabolism Branch, National Institutes Health; Brigid Warren, cardiovascular clinical specialist, Michigan State School of Nursing; and Dr. W. Doyle Gentry, head, Division of Medical Psychology, Duke Medical Center.

O'Henry - The Master Of Short Stories

Who can forget the tenderness and poignancy of "The Gift of the Magi" at Christmas time? Or the breathless hope and longing in "The Furnished Room?"

O. Henry of Polecat Creek, born on a farm, rose to the heights of the big city of New York with his story telling.

William Sidney Porter was born in Guilford County September 11, 1842, second son of Dr. Algernon Porter and Mary Jane Virginia Swaim Porter. Named for two grandfathers, the young man carried the blood of the finest in his veins - the Porters claimed the same ancestry as royal governor William Tryon, the English Stuarts, and signers of the Mayflower Company (one of whom was first governor of Plymouth Colony).

Closer to home, Porter's paternal grandmother's brother, Jonathan Worth, was governor of North Carolina (1865-1868).

Porter's father gained the reputation of the best informed scientist and physician in the community. After the death of his wife and infant daughter, Dr. Porter moved his family to Greensboro where his sister took over the rearing of the two boys, Shirley, nicknamed "Shell," and William, nicknamed "Will."

Much of the credit for his early literary influence goes to his aunt and foster mother, Miss Evalena Porter, the "Miss Lina" in his biographies.

Because of the war, public schools in Greensboro were closed, and she assumed the duties of schooling her nephews. Immediately others asked to join the class, and "Miss Lina's School" was born - and loomed large in the recollections of her pupil.

Will was her best student almost from the first. She nurtured his voracious appetite for books by reading aloud during recess to all those who would listen. The reading would continue at her home on Friday evenings when she invited her charges for more recitals.

Also at the Friday evening gatherings, she encouraged story telling by beginning a tale and having each of the students add to it along the line. Will, enjoying this excellent paratice in the art of storytelling, delighted in being the one who wound up the stories - often with a surprise twist that gave a preview of his later writings.

And as a child, Will wrote and illustrated his own little stories, showing them to family and friends, and then destroying them. Others given to favorite friends have been lost along the way.

Also most of his original manuscripts have not survived the adult story-telling genius. As one biographer explained, neither he nor his editors ever expected him to be famous, so as his stories were set into print, the original handwritten manuscripts were either deliberately destroyed or carelessly lost.

In his childhood, Will Porter was a great favorite as a playmate, mainly because of his vivid imagination. He was a eternally cowboy, crusader, Indian, Arabian or whatever his fancy pretended, the imagination stoked by his omnivorous reading.

The teenage Will helped as prescription clerk in the drugstore of his uncle. At 18, he moved to Texas for health reasons. He wrote, and "... ran wild on the prairies - wild yet, but not so wild."

His Texas sojourn and short business career included working awhile as a bookkeeper; a bank teller; newspaper editor; publisher; and newspaper columnist. He also married - a Miss Athol Estes, in 1887.

Mistakenly suspected of embezzlement, Will fled to New Orleans and to Central America, where his wanderings gleaned more raw material for more future stories.

He returned to Austin, Texas, to find his young wife seriously ill, and scarcely left her bedside until her death in 1897. From Texas, he took his small daughter to Ohio, where he was imprisoned for the embezzlement, but released early due to good behavior.

And in prison, where his pharmaceutical background permitted him to tend minor ailments of the prisoners at night, he stored away more characters and situations for his fertile mind to turn into plots for stories.

He wrote while in prison, and late his brilliant stories attracted the attention of an editor of a national magazine who offered $100 each for 12 stories.

By now, Will had become O. Henry. Almost casually, looking for a pseudonym, he picked up a newspaper, glanced at the word "Henry" and took it for his own. He added an "O" because it was the easiest letter to write.

O. Henry moved to New York and began his literary career in earnest in 1902. On trips back to North Carolina he renewed an earlier friendship with Miss Sarah Lindsay Coleman of Asheville and in 1907 they were married.

One of the major characteristics of the man remembered by his biographers is his consideration and tenderness for others - man or beast. "He tried to comfort every lost creature he came upon" - lost kitten, homeless puppy or lost human soul.

The "lost human souls" were the basis for much of his writing in New York. He confessed that he spent a great deal of time knocking around the streets when he first came to the city. After rising to the heights, and being hailed as the "most popular writer in the United States," O. Henry died in 1910. He is buried in Asheville, in the state of his birth.

Memorials to the literary genius, master of the human interest short story, abound in North Carolina. An O. Henry Alcove in the Greensboro Public Library and the O. Henry Memorial Library in Asheville offer tribute to the writer by way of the books he loved.

And, on the wall in the main reading room of the N. C. State Library is a bronze plaque, the first memorial to O. Henry, proclaiming "He saw no longer a rabble, but his brothers seeking the ideal" - a quotation from his story "Brickdust Row."

His stories are available from the N. C. State Library, via your public library. How many have you enjoyed lately? Wouldn't you like to enjoy your favorites again soon?

Many IRS Refund Checks Undelivered

Some 1,800 North Carolina taxpayers have undelivered refund checks waiting for them at the Internal Revenue Service.

Any taxpayer who has not yet received his refund should call or visit his local IRS office, Charles O. DeWitt, District Director of Internal Revenue for North Carolina, said today. The dollar value of the undelivered refund checks total $500,000.00 since this year's average refund amounts to $270.00.

The most common reason for an undelivered check, according to Mr. DeWitt, is that the taxpayer has moved and left no forwarding address with the U. S. Postal Service.

In cases where the taxpayer suspects his check may have been lost or stolen, Mr. DeWitt suggested that the person get in touch with his local IRS office so that a tracer can be put on the missing check.

Some refunds may have been delayed because of errors, or omissions on tax returns, according to Mr. DeWitt. Taxpayers affected should follow the instructions received from the IRS in order to speed up issuance of their checks.

Mr. DeWitt stressed that in all refund inquiries to the IRS, the taxpayer should be prepared to provide the name and address as it appeared on the return, the actual name and address if different, the social security numbers, and the type of form filed.

Taxpayers in the Greensboro area can contact the IRS by calling 274-3711. Persons in outlying areas may call toll free 1-800-822-8800.

Architect's Drawing Of New Masonic Temple

New Masonic Temple

a scroll with a special scroll reserved for large contributors.

A large portion of the money used to finance the new Temple came from the sale of the building and lot on the square in Mocksville. The Masons sold this property to the Holmes Investment Company in May of 1973.

The property included the two-story building on the southwest corner of the square and the adjoining lot, fronting on Main Street and running parallel with the lot on which the building is located to Clement Street.

The Holmes Investment Company, associated with the Davie County Enterprise-Record, plans future construction of a new building to house the newspaper on the vacant lot.

The two lots involved in the sale were designated as "Lots 1 and 2, Letters I and J" on the original plan for the Town of Mocksville. They were bought by Thomas Young from the commissioners in 1839 and he erected a store on them.

Later the lots were acquired by the noted judge and lawyer Richmond M. Pearson. In the 1860's (the exact date is illegible) the lots were sold by Pearson to Braxton Bailey and Dr. J. T. Bryan.

The Mocksville Masonic Lodge No. 134 bought the two lots in the 1890's.

In May of 1910, the contract for building of the Masonic building was awarded to D. K. Cecil of Lexington, the cost to be between $8,000 and $9,000. The building was constructed that summer and on July 6, 1910, The Bank of Davie (now Branch Bank and Trust Company) moved into the building and has been there ever since.

In addition to the Branch Bank and Trust Company, other occupants of the building today include: Edd's Radio and TV Service, The Mocksville-Davie Chamber of Commerce, S. W. Howell and the License Bureau, all on the street level.

The second floor of the building consists of office space and the Masonic Lodge Hall.

"I'm glad we're finally getting started on this project," said Lawrence Smith, Master of the lodge. He added that they were attempting to set the Grand Master of North Carolina Masons, William L. Mills, Jr., to come for a dedication service and corner stone ceremony when the new building is completed.

Local Lodge Founded In 1850

by David Hoyle

Mocksville Lodge No. 134 A.F. and A.M. was founded on April 25, 1850. The following is a brief account of the early history taken from an unpublished article by the late Mary Jane Heitman.

The first page of the first secretary's book, dated April 25, 1850, of the Mocksville Lodge carries the following words:

"In accordance with a Dispensation issued from the Grand Lodge of North Carolina, duly attested by the seal of the Grand Lodge and the signatures of the Grand Master and Grand Secretary, Bro. E. Myers, Past Worshipful Master of Fulton Lodge No. 99, appeared and convened the brethren, when the Lodge was opened in due form."

The brethren present at that meeting were F. Myers and H. C. Simonton of Fulton lodge; L. Blackmer, W. M. of Palestine Lodge No. 120; P. Thompson, W.M. elect, late of Phalanx Lodge No. 31; T. J. Bryant, S.W.; B. Bailey, J. W.; J. P. Pritchard, (Fulton Lodge S.D.); S. C. Fitzgerald, J.D.; M. Booe, Treasurer, L. Bingham, Secretary; late of Phalanx Lodge; and L. Lynch, of Germantown Lodge No. 116.

Brother E. Myers informed the brethren that he appeared for the purpose of installing the officers who were presented by Brother L. Blackmer and duly installed.

The by-laws of Fulton Lodge were adopted by the Mocksville Lodge temporarily and a committee was appointed to draft their own by-laws.

Members taken into the Lodge that first year were: John Lillington, William Meroney, Baxter Clegg, John Kelly, Samuel Rose, T. M. Young, Caswell Harbin, N. Deaver, L. C. Hanes, W. R. Sharpe, G. W. Johnson, Joseph Eaton, William Smith, Samuel Rosenbrough, James W. Wiseman, Abram N. Bessent, Hugh Reynolds, John W. Clifford, Issac Holman, Denton Ijames, Welborn Stonestreet, Beal Ijames, J. B. Jones, Peter C. Journey, James Latham, Charles Anderson, and Peter Claywell, formerly of Mt. Moriah Lodge, No. 82.

The first purchase of the newly formed lodge was a carpet and Bible from Brother Myers. They also bought one dozen chairs and four yards of linen to make aprons for use in the lodge that first year.

The by-laws committee reported they had adopted the by-laws of the Fulton Lodge, with some slight changes in the June 7th, 1850 meeting. A meeting time of the third Friday in each month was selected for the Mocksville Lodge.

At that same June meeting, Bingham resigned as secretary and Samuel Rose was elected to fill his place. Natham Deaver was elected Tyler and Baxter Clegg was appointed Chaplain.

By November, the Lodge was buying 12 more chairs and Lillington and Pritchard were elected proxies to the Grand Lodge and given $30 to defray their expenses and pay for a Charter for the Lodge.

In 1851, the lodge sent ten dollars as a contribution to the National Monument to George Washington being erected in Washington, D. C. In appreciation, they were given a steel engraving of the monument as first designed.

The first death to occur in the Mocksville Lodge was that of Joseph Eaton, who died on May 17th, 1851. He was buried with Masonic honors at Olive Branch Church the following day.

At the June 20th meeting, a committee was appointed to inquire about the purchase or construction of a Lodge Hall. After several years of negotiation, the lot on which the present lodge stands was bought from Judge R. M. Pearson, who had formerly had a law school there.

The first donation to the Oxford Orphanage, then St. John's College, was made on the August 13, 1851 meeting of the Mocksville Lodge. An agent for the Masonic College at Oxford made an address after which $250 to be paid in five annual installments was voted to the erection of a Masonic College at Oxford.

The Annual Masonic Picnic didn't get its start until 1880 and both the lodge and it's most prominent community contribution have grown much since that time.

The Mocksville Lodge celebrated its centennial anniversary on August 15, 1950. The Masons let their beards grow in honor of the founders of the Lodge 100 years before. A banquet and cake cutting was held on August 15 to highlight the centennial celebration.

The picnic has just passed it's 94th year and the Mocksville Masonic Lodge will soon move into a new temple in this, their 124th year of masonry in Davie County.

Sam Short, Jr., then Master of the Mocksville lodge, cuts the cake for their 100th anniversary observance in 1950.

Girl Scouts Honored At Grandfather Mt.

For the fourth consecutive year, Grandfather Mountain will pay tribute to the Girl Scouts by donating all admissions of a September Saturday to the Pisgah Girl Scout Council.

September 28 has been designated as 1974's Girl Scout Day at the famed travel attraction, and all Girl Scouts will be admitted to Grandfather Mountain free of charge on that date. All gate receipts on the benefit day will go to the Pisgah Council which comprises 17 Western North Carolina counties.

Mrs. James F. Harwell of Brevard, field executive of the council, has announced that many area scouts will participate in the special day's activities and will pick up discarded trash along Grandfather Mountain's hiking trails "to show our appreciation" for the financial assistance provided by "Carolinas Top Scenic Attraction."

The Girl Scout Day observance was inaugurated in 1971 by Grandfather Mountain President Hugh Moton, who said he wished to award the girl scouts for their concern and work in the fight against environmental problems.

Throughout the development of Grandfather mountain, a primary concern has been to insure that the highest mountain in the Blue Ridge range will remain as an unpolluted wilderness area in which nature will always be the feature offering.

Betty Crocker Scholarships Are Available

College scholarships, from $500 to $5,000, are available to all high school seniors through the Betty Crocker Search for Leadership in Family Living, formerly the Betty Crocker Search for American Homemakers of Tomorrow.

An invitation to enroll in the program will soon be mailed to all high schools across the nation. Schools new to the event are invited to write the Betty Crocker Search, P.O. Box 1113, Minneapolis, Minn. 55440 for information.

Enrollment deadline is October 31.

On Tuesday, Dec. 3, each participating school will administer a 50-minute written examination. Prepared and scored by Science Research Associates, Inc., Chicago, this general knowledge and attitude examination is the first important step of the scholarship program.

From the examination results, a Betty Crocker Family Leader of Tomorrow will be chosen for each participating school. School winners are acknowledged with special awards and their examinations are entered in state competition.

Each State Family Leader of Tomorrow receives a $1,500 college scholarship while every state second-place winner receives a $500 grant. The state winner also earns for his or her school a 20-volume reference work, "The Annals of America" from Encyclopedia Britannica Educational Corporation.

State winners accompanied by a faculty advisor will be the guest of General Mills next spring on an expense-paid educational tour, which will include Washington, D.C., and Williamsburg, Virginia. A special event of the tour is announcement of the All-American Family Leader of Tomorrow, whose scholarship will be increased to $5,000. Second, third and fourth place winners in the nation will receive scholarship increases to $4,000, $3,000 and $2,000 respectively.

The Betty Crocker Search is on the advisory list of the National Association of Secondary School Principals.

Adolescence

Adolescence may be the most difficult period of life. Every stage of life, of course, is not only difficult, but also important, from early childhood to old age.

Yet adolescence, a time in which the individual's productive and mature years are influenced, may be just about the most critical period of all for many of us.

At any rate, those going through adolescence, and their parents, often find the years of adolescence challenging and trying times.

What is adolescence, first of all?

Adolescence may be defined as that period between puberty (the beginning of full sexual development) and adulthood. It is difficult to describe the precise age range of adolescence because children mature at different ages. Also, our society bestows the various rights and responsibilities of adulthood at different ages.

Adolescence is generally considered, however, to span the years between 12 and 20—keeping in mind the possibility of individual variation.

The changes that take place in adolescence can be described as threefold: physical, emotional, and social. They are deep and extensive and, when we consider this against the fact that making the transition from childhood to maturity takes place in a highly complex and sometimes bewildering society, it is not hard to realize that adolescence can have many problems.

Some of these problems, such as adolescence and sex, drugs, and religion, as well as thoughtful discussion of other aspects of adolescence for both parents and children, are brought out in a new information folder, "Facts About Adolescence."

A free single copy may be obtained by writing to the National Institute of Mental Health, Room 15C-17, Rockville, Maryland 20852.

Gardener Of The Week

Harry Osborne is this week's selection. He lives on Lexington Street, Mocksville, North Carolina, and is a retired salesman. One of the county's best gardeners nominated Harry for his gardening success. The garden is grown in a moist, low place, and has produced an excellent variety of vegetables all summer. Harry is a member of the Mocksville Town Board. Gardening ranks second only to dove hunting when he has time for his hobbies.

B. G. Westbrook, Agricultural Extension Agent, approves of Mr. Osborne's selection of vegetable varieties, but reports that many county gardeners need to improve their variety selection for next year. Some vegetable varieties offer disease resistance, others grow best only in certain areas. Start next year's garden now by having the problems identified, then select disease resistant and Davie County adapted varieties. (Photo by Jeff Ayers)

Plastic bags are fine for keeping clothes clean and food fresh, but if small children are allowed to use them as play toys, the consequences could be tragic, warns Dr. Albert H. Domm, child safety specialist and medical director of the Prudential Insurance Company.

"Parents must always be on guard, since it only takes a very short time for a child to suffocate," says Dr. Domm. "A child's lungs are so small it is really only a matter of seconds."

Since many accidents occur when children are playing with bags that have already been discarded, Dr. Domm advises parents to puncture plastic bags in several places before disposing of them.

"Out-of-use refrigerators are oftentimes deadly as well," cautions Dr. Domm. "Even more so than plastic bags they are tremendously attractive to youngsters." He emphasizes that a refrigerator which is being discarded or stored, even for the shortest time, should have its doors removed.

Two other potential suffocation traps for toddlers are zippered bags and pillows. "Again," says Dr. Domm, "parents must keep these objects out of their child's reach or make it clear to him that they are not play toys."

He also reminds parents that familiarity with artificial respiration techniques has averted many heartbreaks.

Consumers will benefit from the assurance of having fresh batteries for their new purchase, although it probably will cost them more to buy the batteries separately instead of having them already included by the manufacturer.

Leaf Growers To Be Assisted With Carryover Tobacco

Flue-cured growers throughout the flue-cured tobacco area can deliver their carryover tobacco on hand at the end of the marketing season to Flue-cured Tobacco Cooperative Stabilization Corporation for processing and storage until the 1975 marketing season, according to Fred G. Bond, General Manager.

The USDA Tobacco Loan Program was amended in 1973 to provide loans on flue-cured tobacco carried over by growers from one marketing year to another to avoid marketing in excess of the problems encountered with carryover tobacco stored on the farm such as insect damage and deterioration in quality.

The program will operate basically in the following manner: growers will deliver carryover tobacco to the CO-OP at designated receiving points in the area at which time the tobacco will be weighed and graded into a standard USDA grade by an Inspector of the Grading Service. Sheets will also be exchanged at this time. A record will be prepared showing full identification of the grower, weight of each sheet, USDA grade, and total weight of delivery. A copy of this record will be given to the grower and a copy will be forwarded to the State ASCS Office. The tobacco will then be processed and stored in the same manner as regular tobacco with the exception that all carryover tobacco will be kept separate and marked as "carryover" tobacco. Since carryover tobacco is not eligible for sale or loan until the next marketing season which begins on July 1 each year, no payment or settlement can be made to growers until after July 1, 1975. At that time the tobacco will be offered for sale. Any tobacco that does not bring an acceptable price will be placed in the regular loan inventory at 1975 loan rates. Proceeds from the sales and/or loans advanced, less the expenses incurred during the carryover period, will be distributed to growers after July 1, 1975.

Plans for location of receiving points where growers may deliver their carryover tobacco will be determined and growers will be notified as scheduling deliveries at such designated receiving points in the near future.

ASCS News

Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz announced on August 26 that the 1975 feed grain, wheat and upland cotton programs will have no set-aside requirement, and will provide farmers decision-making freedom to produce for the marketplace. He stressed there will be no land removed from agriculture production under these government programs.

As the Department stated when announcing the 1974 programs, there will be no conserving base requirement for the duration of the Agriculture and Consumer Protection Act of 1973 (through the 1977 crop year). Nor will the provision be implemented during the life of the 1973 Act which gives the Secretary discretionary authority to limit feed grain and wheat to a percentage of allotments and upland cotton planted in excess of the base allotment.

The Secretary pointed out that the allotments under programs authorized under the 1973 farm bill do not represent a limit on acreage, but are computed only for the purpose of payments to producers should such payments be required. Generally, the allotments for wheat and feed grain represent the number of acres harvested of wheat, corn, grain sorghum, and barley based on the estimated domestic and export disappearance in the 1975-76 marketing year.

Also in 1974, the producers may substitute any non-conserving crop or any conserving crop used for hay or for grazing in order to preserve their wheat, feed grain, or cotton allotments and to make them eligible for any payments under the target price feature. Crops for which a marketing quota is in effect are excluded. Because of the market-oriented nature of these programs, producers will be studying prices rather than allotment acreages, Secretary Butz said. The price incentive should result in full plantings and with normal weather conditions should enable the U.S. to not only fulfill domestic and export requirements but to build up much needed stocks as well, he said.

Secretary Butz said this announcement will provide farmers with the information they need to make their 1975 crop planting decisions. Additional program will be announced after the Department has had an opportunity to make a better determination of 1974 production, he said.

Producers wishing to change their designation of tobacco warehouses may do so from August 30 through September 6. The next period will be from September 30 through October 4. To redesignate, all designation cards issued to the producer must be brought in at the time of redesignation.

BETTER BUSINESS BUREAU

BATTERIES WILL BE EXTRA IN THE FUTURE

Manufacturers of portable radios and record and tape players gradually are omitting batteries from new products they distribute. The chief reason, says the Better Business Bureau, is that about one-half of these products that are returned by consumers have bad batteries.

This means that more and more consumers will have to buy batteries at the time they buy a radio, record or tape player.

The benefits to the manufacturer and retailer are clear: They will not have to contend with the problem of handling so many returned products just for replacement of batteries. Retailers also will profit from the separate sale of batteries.

Consumers will benefit from the assurance of having fresh batteries for their new purchase, although it probably will cost them more to buy the batteries separately instead of having them already included by the manufacturer.

Helicopters Save Lives

"I always believed that the helicopter would be an outstanding vehicle for the greatest variety of life-saving missions and now near the close of my life, I have the satisfaction of knowing that this proved to be true."

The late, great Igor Sikorsky, the "gentle genius" of the helicopter industry wrote the above words in the last letter he dictated on October 25, 1972. The next morning he died peacefully, at the age of 83.

- Rivers run wild.
- Snow strands thousands of people and animals without food, communications, medicine or power.
- Fires strike in tall buildings or remote areas.
- Mountain climbers get into trouble.
- Children get lost.
- Cars crash on crowded highways.
- Fighting men are wounded in combat.
- Ships at sea get into trouble.

In so many situations only the versatile helicopter can move doctors, nurses, medicine and supplies in and victims out to sophisticated care when minutes count.

A dramatic example of the value of the helicopter in a desperate situation occurred in Sao Paulo, Brazil, in February 1972. Fire engulfed a 25-story building. Occupants fled to the roof, far above the reach of ground rescue and fire-fighting equipment. In six hours, operating in daylight and darkness, sometimes with flames all but surrounding them, 11 civilian and military helicopters safely evacuated the 450 people who made it to the rooftop heliport.

In 1972 violent earthquakes hit Los Angeles and Managua, Nicaragua. Only helicopters could perform the rescue, evacuation, medical and supply missions in these situations — and they did.

The life-saving records established by the helicopter in combat are unmatched in history. Today in the United States, where more than 50,000 people are killed on our highways each year, some states (notably Maryland and Illinois) have developed similar emergency medical rescue systems. The Military Assistance to Traffic and Safety (MAST) program plays the same vital life-saving role in other areas.

Helicopters also serve industry, agriculture, law enforcement agencies and the community in a multitude of non-emergency roles. But despite its great capability for serving man, especially in its role of hero in times of distress and disaster, the helicopter often is a forgotten or resented machine after the children are found, the snows are cleared or the waters recede. It deserves more — civic support in the form of convenient heliports and helistops at hospitals, airports, in city centers and in the suburbs.

Vehicles Collide On Main St.

Two vehicles collided August 24th around 1:45 p.m. on Main Street, 50-foot north of Depot Street.

Involved was a 1969 Plymouth operated by Laura Speaks Ashley, 52, of 904 Duke St., Mocksville and a 1969 Buick operated by Thomasine Alice Gaither, 19, of Hill Crest Drive, Mocksville.

Capt. R. W. Groce of the Mocksville Police Department said his investigation showed that the Ashley vehicle was going south on Main Street and the Gaither vehicle was backing out of a parking space and failed to see the vehicle, hitting it in the right side.

Damage to the Plymouth was estimated at $600 and $400 to the Buick.

Wim's Whims

By Wim Osborne

Whims - connected in retrospect - a look backward in thought.

A good motto, if I had one, would be - "If you can't change it, laugh at it." This has been a life saver (or sanity saver) for me while trying to raise six loud, messy, lovable (to me) youngsters.

The house was small, the family large, and there were always friends around - both sexes from toddlers to long-legged, long-haired, youth who stood eye to eye with me. (Still do.) In fact, the house was so crowded it was the only place I've seen with wall-to-wall beds - and trying to cook a meal was like running an obstacle course - over, under, around, and through kids and toys... utter confusion.

With so many kids around, I never knew which were mine 'till bath time, when discovering one not mine, sent him home with a note. "This one already had a bath." They couldn't fool me about baths - if we used less than ten towels a day, somebody didn't bathe - and the "stinker" got caught right away.

Have you ever heard of sand-blast floors? We got 'em! Many times I've said that Graumann's Chinese Theatre has nothing on me; I've foot-prints everywhere. Prints of important people? I think so! Who can get mad over a mud-tracked floor when the maker of the tracks holds out a grubby hand filled with flowers? That bunch of weeds are pretty flowers - it all depends on how you look at them.

Handprints on the walls? That's art. Writing on steamed-up windows? That's language art. That peculiar odor? That's Easter eggs the kids hid in the house and no one ever found.

"Distressed" furniture? Mine was long before it became popular. Worm holes, fly specks, teeth marks - very distressed! It's a good thing this didn't worry me - worry only makes gray hair - wrinkles... solves nothing.

Anyone with children will know immediately what is meant by a "loud silence" - that's what happens when the last one goes out the door on school mornings. When school is out at 3 o'clock, they come in yelling, "What's to eat?" I learned long ago their stomachs are bottomless pits that can't be filled. One little one, when told to stop eating chocolate oatmeal cookies before he got sick, cried, "But I don't know how many it will take!" (We never did find out.)

Over the years I've recorded the cute and funny antics of my brood - they've been read and re-read usually with the laughing comment, "Did I really do that, Mom?" I continue to record - the youngest is eleven years old now, and I never know what he'll come up with next.

When things are going well and I begin mentally patting myself on the back, an inner voice reminds me - "Don't rest on your laurels 'till all the buds have opened." Then, when everything seems to go wrong, that same voice tells me to laugh at it - "Laugh and the world laughs with you." Weep and you get red eyes and a runny nose.

Consumer Scene

Closing The Garbage Gap

More than 23 years ago, Jasper, Ind., a typical small Midwestern county-seat town, attracted national attention as the first city in the United States to ban the storage and hauling of wet garbage. Its alternative: require every home be connected to the sewer system and to install a garbage disposer.

The success of this daring maneuver to eliminate breeding places for flies and rats soon encouraged other cities to follow Jasper's lead - Tell City, Ind., and the Wisconsin communities of Shorewood, Glendale and Whitefish Bay, for example.

Today, with many cities, large and small, concerned about ecology, and the skyrocketing costs of solid waste collection and disposal, these pioneer communities are once again being closely studied for the lessons to be learned.

One happy difference is that today, with the advent of the household trash compactor, communities also can deal with the mounting problems of collecting and disposing of solid wastes such as boxes, plastics, aerosol cans, and glass containers.

And in a time when the nation's output of solid waste is approaching a staggering 350 million tons a year, trash collection becomes an economic as well as an environmental problem. An estimated $4.5 billion was spent collecting and disposing of trash in the United States last year. Naturally, food-waste disposers and trash compactors figure heavily in the minds of city administrators concerned with garbage and trash disposal.

In a community using both appliances, the collection job would be simplified from 3-to-4 garbage cans per family a week to a single compacted cube of trash each week.

Several test programs have been conducted recently verifying the environmental benefits as well as collection and disposal savings from the mass community usage of household trash compactors, according to N. Powell Taylor of the General Electric Company. He cited a recent one-year study in Atlanta by the Environmental Protection Agency which produced dramatic trash collection savings through the joint use of disposers and compactors.

Taylor points out that the EPA report recommends regulations requiring trash compactors and food waste disposers for all new residential construction and proposes a plan for mass community usage of household compactors along with once-a-week curbside collection.

If Americans continue to generate garbage and trash at an increasing rapid rate (and there is every reason to believe that they will) it may require a step even bolder than Jasper took 23 years ago to begin closing the "garbage gap."

"Crash" Craddock Headlines Fair's Country Music Show

Billy "Crash" Craddock, whose hit "Rub It In" made it to the top of the country charts and crossed over to climb the pop charts, will headline a special country music show October 12 at the Dixie Classic Fair.

Craddock is a North Carolina native who has gained national recognition by taking early rock standards and giving them a Nashville flavor. Prior to "Rub It In" he has had 10 singles that made it to the top five on national country and western charts.

Billy Wayne Craddock and his brother, Ronald, won musical contests in their hometown area while still teenagers and were briefly members of "The Four Rebels" on the night club circuit. The name "Crash" was earned playing high school football and Billy found it impossible to shake.

When he started in the music business, "Crash" Craddock recorded mostly rock tunes, although he wanted to make it in the country and western field all the time. His early career was briefly successful and included television and motion picture appearances and an Australian tour.

Times got hard, however, so Craddock returned to North Carolina and started his own construction business. Early in 1971 he went back to music and his first single record, "Knock Three Times" was an instant hit. From there on, it's been uphill and Craddock has made the climb successfully this time.

He has been recognized by all national trade publications and has won awards from many of them. He's also appeared on many national television shows and had to turn down the offer of a part in a Broadway production because of other commitments. Appearing with Craddock in the two performances at the Dixie Classic Fair will be Connie Cato, Johnny Russell and Marty Martel.

Billy "Crash" Craddock

Connie Cato, too, is a rising star in the country music field. She now has a single, "Super Kitten," climbing the national country charts.

Miss Cato is only 19 but she has had several records that received heavy air play during the last year. To date, "Super Kitten" has been her most successful.

The country music show will be presented at 2 and 7 p.m. at the Dixie Classic Fair's grandstand on October 12, the final day of the fair.

Social Security

... by Hal Griffin

Some books sold as social security information are useful, but there are others that are inaccurate, misleading, overpriced, and deceptively advertised. The Social Security Administration doesn't discourage the sale of commercial publications. However, at the same time we don't endorse any non-government publication. People can get free, accurate, up-to-date "Publications and other information about social security by contacting an social security office.

Social security information is organized and illustrated in a different way in some commercial books. Some of them are well done, but the information in them isn't "secret" or "inside". If advertising suggests it is, the advertising is false.

Some advertising hints that a publisher has an official connection with the Social Security Administration and has access to social security records. This is never true. No advertiser has access to other people's social security records. These records are confidential under the law.

"Dramatic" claims for books can be misleading. For example: AN ADVERTISMENT says readers will learn how to collect $300 a month from social security at age 30 while you are working full time. The book tells you what any social security office will tell you without charge: if a young father and mother are working under social security and one dies, their children may get monthly social security payments.

People can call, write, visit any social security office for information about retirement, disability, survivors, Medicare, and supplemental security income programs. The Salisbury Social Security Office is at 105 Corriher Avenue and our telephone number is 634-2868. Office are from 9:00 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Do you have to be poverty stricken to be eligible for supplemental security income payments? I find it almost impossible to get along on the very small income I have, but I do own my own home and have an old, beat-up car. Could I apply for supplemental security income? I'm 69 years old.

You don't have to be poverty stricken to be eligible for supplemental security income payments. If you have little or no income or resources, you may be eligible. A house and car of reasonable value aren't counted as resources. And the Government won't put a lien on your home because you get supplemental security income checks. If you think you may be eligible, you should apply at the Salisbury Social Security Office.

My husband, who's 31, has been getting monthly social security disability checks for a little over a year. Because it looks like it will be a long time before he can work again, I'm forced to go to work. Will his disability payments be reduced because of the money I earn?

Your earnings will not affect the monthly social security benefits your husband is getting. I applied for monthly social security disability benefits a couple of months ago and I recently received a letter saying I'm not entitled to benefits because they didn't think my condition was severe enough to keep me from working. Does this affect my eligibility for retirement payments? I'm going to be 62 next year and I was planning to apply for monthly social security retirement checks.

The fact that you were not eligible for social security disability benefits doesn't mean you're not eligible for other social security payments. You should apply at the Salisbury Social Security Office 2 or 3 months before you're 62 for your monthly social security retirement benefits.

I'm 55 and I've always worked on jobs covered by social security, so I know I have enough social security credit. Does that mean when I get my monthly social security retirement checks that I'll get the maximum amount payable under the law?

No. Having enough credit means that you will be able to get payments when you apply for them. But the amount of the check depends on your average earnings over a number of years.

My 17-year-old daughter and I have been getting monthly social security payments on my husband's earnings record since he died 4 years ago. I understand that when she's 18, her payments will stop. But what about mine?

Your monthly payments will be stopped when your daughter reaches 18, unless you're 60 or older. However, if your daughter goes to school full time and remains unmarried, her monthly social security payments can continue until she's 22.

I'm a couple of years older than my wife, and plan to retire and apply for my social security retirement payments at 65. I know I'll be able to get Medicare at that time, but since my wife won't be 65, will my Medicare cover her until she's old enough to get it on her own?

No. But your wife will be able to get Medicare insurance protection when she reaches 65.

My aunt, who's 71, gets monthly supplemental security income checks. Because she's been getting dizzy spells, she's decided to move in with a friend so she won't be alone. Will this affect her payments?

Moving into another person's household may affect the amount of your aunt's supplemental security income payments. She should notify social security promptly in she makes this move.

I'm 62 and my husband is 64. I'm going to apply for monthly social security benefits on my own record, but my husband is planning to wait till he's 65 or maybe older before he applies for his payments. I know that I'll get reduced benefits at 62, but what happens when my husband gets his social security checks. Will my payments remain the same?

If the amount you would get as a wife is more than what your monthly social security payments are on your own earnings record, you'll get the larger amount based on you husband's earnings record. Whenever a person is eligible for two benefits, social security always pays the higher amount.

Bits Of Life

The Spirit of St. Louis

By ROSCOE BROWN FISHER

Grandpa Brown says he always gets a thrill when he hears the name Charles A. Lindbergh... and he heard it again the first of the week.

Charles A. Lindbergh, who - the age of 25 - electrified the world in 1927 with his "Lone Eagle" flight from New York to Paris was buried in Hawaii Monday, August 26, at the age of 72... 47 years after his solo flight.

While in Washington recently we stopped again at the Smithsonian Institute for another look at the fabulous craft, "Spirit of St. Louis."

There it hung from the ceiling... taking up almost the entire room.

What a contrast to the tiny spec hanging from the ceiling of an immense universe over the mighty Atlantic on May 20, 1927!

The winning of the $25,000 prize for being the aviator making the first New York-to-Paris nonstop flight must have thrilled the youthful aviator. But there were other values that meant more.

In Lindbergh's, "The Spirit of St. Louis," he tells of sighting the southern tip of Ireland towards the close of his historic trans-Atlantic flight:

"One senses only through change, appreciates only after absence. I haven't been far enough away to know the earth before. For 25 years I've lived on it, and yet not seen it till this moment. For nearly two thousand hours I've flown over it without realizing what wonders lay below, what crystal clarity - snow-white foam on black rock shores, rubbing light above its valley, the hospitality of little houses, the welcome of waving arms.

"During my entire life I've accepted these gifts of God to man, and not known what was mine until this moment. It's like rain after drought; spring after a northern winter. I've been to eternity and back. I know how death would feel to live again."

Grandpa stood and looked at the craft hanging from the ceiling - as if still suspended in the air over the North Atlantic. He then backed away, turned and walked out the Smithsonian Institute, dreamy-eyed like, as if he were in another world.

VA Office Offers Toll Free Telephone Service To Veterans

Over 600,000 North Carolina veterans and their dependents will now be as close to the Veterans Administration Regional Office in Winston-Salem as their telephone, announced H. W. Johnson, Director of the Regional Office today.

The nine largest North Carolina cities will have separate toll-free numbers. Residents in the rest of the state may dial 1-800-642-0841. The Veterans Administration will pay the long distance cost of these calls.

Through this new service, callers may dial directly through to the desk of a VA employee between the hours of 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Johnson urged that veterans enter the proper number for their area in the ready reference list of their telephone directory. Those veterans or dependents who have been assigned a claim number by the VA could note it beside the telephone number and tell the VA their claim number when calling.

GI Home Loan Interest Rate Goes To 9.5%

For the fifth time since the first of the year, the maximum interest rate on GI home loans and FHA loans has been changed - this time, increased from 9 to 9.5 percent, effective August 14.

H.W. Johnson, Director of the Winston-Salem Veterans Administration Regional Office, said the increase was a joint action of the VA and the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

VA officials explained that the increase was the only means to put veterans and servicemen seeking home financing on a competitive basis in today's market.

Starting January 22, the interest rate on VA and FHA loans was lowered from 8.5 to 8.25 percent. Since then, it was increased to 8.5 percent on April 15, to 8.75 percent on May 13, and to 9 percent on July 8, followed by the latest boost.

"We were able to start the toll-free service for Charlotte last year and it has been very successful. Now nobody needs to pay a long distance phone call to reach our office from anywhere in North Carolina," said Johnson.

The cities with separate phone numbers to the VA Regional Office are: Asheville - 253-6861; Charlotte - 375-9351; Durham - 683-1367; Fayetteville - 323-1242; Gastonia - 867-3661; Greensboro - 274-1994; High Point - 888-7202; Raleigh - 821-1166; Wilmington - 763-2951.

Vehicles Collide

Two vehicles collided August 28th at the intersection of Hospital St. and Raymond St. in Mocksville.

Involved was a 1972 Chevrolet operated by Arthur Neal Spangler, 31, of 406 Forest Lane, Mocksville and a 1968 Plymouth operated by Patricia Dillard Redmond, 24, of Mocksville Rt. 2.

Mocksville Chief of Police G. A. Carter investigated the accident. Chief Carter reported that his investigation showed that the Spangler vehicle was headed north on Hospital Street when the Redmond vehicle pulled out from Raymond Street into the side of the Chevrolet.

Damage to the Chevrolet was estimated at $400 and $150 to the Plymouth. Mrs. Redmond was charged with failure to see safe movement.

Communication Equipment Is Knocked Out

Communication equipment of the local law enforcement department was knocked out by lightning around 8 p.m. Sunday night.

The equipment was not restored to working order until around 2:30 p.m., Monday.

Sen. Henry Jackson (D-Wash.) says that in the next 30 years some 18 million acres, much of it forest land, will be absorbed by urbanization.

GI Bill Is Still Open For Korean Vets

Many women veterans who did not use their GI Bill after the Korean Conflict now have a second chance at Veterans Administration financial help for a college education or other training, under a new law.

H. W. Johnson, Director of the Winston-Salem VA Regional Office, said when eligibility for this veteran's benefit was recently extended two more years for all veterans discharged after January 31, 1955, it had a special significance for women veterans whose children are reaching ages that allow them more free time.

Johnson said the deadline for completion of training is now May 31, 1976, or ten years from the veteran's date of discharge, whichever is later.

Of the some 160,000 women veterans eligible for current GI Bill school benefits, about 54,000 have trained under this program.

This spring, nearly 21,000 were in training, mostly in college. Only 209 were on-the-job trainees.

Below college level training is available in a wide range of occupations such as hotel or motel manager, specialty shop or store manager, and hair-dresser, plus other programs also open to men.

Women veterans of the Air Force lead in GI Bill training, with 15,672 having trained. Army is running second with 15,361.

In addition to veterans, 3,909 servicewomen have trained under the current GI Bill, of whom 842 were in training in April.

coming with the college. Kepley was director of the Middle Georgia Regional Police Academy in Macon.

As area consultant, he will coordinate the law enforcement training for the 11 county area including Alamance, Caswell, Davidson, Davie, Forsyth, Guilford, Randolph, Rockingham, Stokes, Surry and Yadkin counties.

Kepley is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd F. Kepley of Route 10, Lexington. He is married to the former Donna Elizabeth Beck of Lexington. They have one daughter, Laurie Marie, age 1.

Guest Speaker At Fork Church

Dr. Ernest C. Upchurch, state director of the Department of City and Metropolitan Missions of the Baptist State Convention of North Carolina, will be guest speaker at the 11 a.m. service at Fork Baptist Church.

Dr. Upchurch joined the staff of the State Convention in 1957 after serving as pastor of First Baptist Church in Lewiston and Calvary Baptist Church in Kannapolis. He holds degrees from Gardner-Webb College, Wake Forest University and Southern Baptist Theological Seminary. He also has done post-graduate work at Emory University, North Carolina Baptist Hospital and Urban Church Seminar in Washington, D.C.

Dr. E. C. Upchurch

The Department of City and Metropolitan Missions emphasizes winning the lost through witnessing, ministering and applying the gospel very closely with the Home Mission Board in co-operation with all Baptist programs, but works very closely with the Home Mission Board in co-operative missions. This Department and the Christian Social Missions Departments of the Home Mission Board jointly employ field staff missionaries to serve Christians ministries causes in North Carolina.

Surviving are three sons, Charlie and Wade Jones of Mocksville, Rt. 6, and Paul Jones of Mocksville, Rt. 5.

THOUGHTS

From The Living Bible
And the king and his nobles sent this message throughout the city: "Let no one, not even the animals, eat anything at all, nor even drink any water. Everyone must wear sackcloth and cry mightily to God, and let everyone turn from his evil ways, from his violence and robbing. Who can tell? Perhaps even yet God will decide to let us live, and will hold back his fierce anger from destroying us." And when God saw that they had put a stop to their evil ways, he abandoned his plan to destroy them.

She will share some of her experiences in her work in Nigeria over the past 13 years. Visitors are invited and urged to attend.

THOUGHTS

From The Living Bible

Some believed, and some didn't. But after they had argued back and forth a long time, they left with this final word from Paul ringing in their ears: "The Holy Spirit was right when he said through Isaiah the prophet, 'Say to the Jews, "You will hear and see but not understand, for your hearts are too fat and your ears don't listen and you have closed your eyes against understanding, for you don't want to see and hear and understand and turn to me to heal you."'

GOD'S FIVE MINUTES

LESSONS FROM LEAVES

The winter wind picks them up and spirals them through the air in hurried torrents. Then, just as quickly, drops them in motionless silence. Leaves—they are born to die—and fallen leaves tell the story of spring and summer on their wrinkled faces. Yellowed or shrunken, seared or curled—every day makes its passing mark... of protection and progress, adversity and hardship.

But leaves are not fruit, and Christ approaching a leaf-covered tree one day found no fruit. It was smitten for bearing a promise only. So our Father watches us to see if, with all our leaves of profession, will there be any fruitful service? Was the spirit of God speaking to you when he caused to be written: "His leaf shall not wither and he will bear his fruit in due season."

Queen Elizabeth, Prince Philip and Princess Anne arrive in London in a beautiful open carriage.

The Rev. Charles Sisk Family Tell Of

Our Stay In England

The Reverend Charles Sisk, his wife, Peggy, and their three sons recently returned from a six weeks stay in England with a great deal more knowledge than could be found in any history book.

The trip was made possible by Rev. Sisk, pastor of the Mocksville Charge of the United Methodist Church in Davie County, exchanging charges with the Reverend George Palmer of England.

During the six weeks of the exchange, the two families exchanged homes, also and learned many new friends in the process.

Rev. Sisk told of the lady, Mrs. Mae Bradley, Rev. Palmer had asked to look after them. She was a lovely 68 year old woman, who he says "mothered us."

"Mrs. Bradley told us what to do and we did it."

Rev. Sisk says they became so attached to her that she is making plans to visit Mocksville sometime next year.

"The British people, in general, were warm, friendly and they went out of their way to help us," the Rev. Sisk said.

However, the Sisks were only able to cover about one-third of their itinerary during the six weeks, but agreed they had a full schedule.

The attendance in church was immediately noticeable, only about 7 per cent of the people in England attend church. And the congregations were mainly composed of older people. Very few young people attend.

But singing is an entirely different story. "The British sing the great hymns, and lots of them, like they really have something to sing about," Rev. Sisk said.

"And they sing all the verses, many which had six or seven," he continued. "I found one in the hymnal with 17 verses ... I didn't dare ask them to sing this one," he mused, "I wanted to preach."

One of Rev. Palmer's churches, the Tyldesley Methodist Church, seats about 1100, and is equipped with a huge pipe organ. The average attendance, Rev. Sisk says is between 65 and 70 people.

Another was quite small, with a seating capacity of about 100. It too, had a huge pipe organ. The congregation, an average attendance of about 40, was mostly elderly women and a couple men. "You should have heard those women sing."

Rev. Sisk told about visiting Central Hall, one Sunday night when he didn't have services. This downtown Methodist Church in Manchester had six or seven stories, he recalled. "They invited us to have tea and biscuits (cookies to me) following the service."

"You know some of our Methodist Churches are already dead," he commented, "but just haven't lain down."

"In Central Hall, caring for unwed mothers, alcoholics, drug addicts, they are fulfilling what Jesus Christ called us to do."

Rev. Sisk told how differently the English people and the Angleton, Methodist and Presbyterian all wear clerical collars.

"I had only my loud ties," he said, "And I'm conservative."

Even in London he says there were no bright or loud colors. The colors were very drab, mainly shades of gray and other dark colors.

Mrs. Sisk, knowing of their traditional dress, took mostly blues and navys, with the exception of her pale gold all weather coat.

"Peggy stood out above everyone, even on the street," her husband teased. "I could find her very easily and I didn't worry about losing her."

They saw very few pant suits, which are so popular here but the dresses were another story.

"I tried not to notice," Rev. Sisk smiled, "But they were very short."

The weather is much cooler there. If the temperature there gets above 72 or 73 degrees, they're having a heat wave. And they wear heavy topcoats most of the time. However, he said the people there said this summer they did have the coolest and dampest weather they have had in 27 years. The Sisks only saw the sun shine three full days during their entire trip. You never knew what to expect with the weather, it seemed to change every hour.

Rev. Sisk commented that he agreed with comedian Bob Hope, who once said, "If you don't like the English weather, wait five minutes and it will change."

The thing that charmed the Sisk family most of all came during their tour of London where they saw the Queen of England.

Queen Elizabeth, Prince Philip and Princess Anne were in London to welcome the King and Queen of Malaysia.

"The Queen's Guard was a beautiful (continued on page 2B)

Rev. Charles Sisk becomes very emotional as he tells of the family's six week stay in England.

Mementos from England included a Copper Etching, a shuttle from one of their cotton mills, which was torn down during the Industrial Revolution, and the Love Spoon, embedded with a sixpense. The Love Spoon was carved by one member's brother, who says there are only two in the U.S.

Our Health

By C. H. Tracy, M. D.

Is it necessary to undergo surgery to treat varicose veins?
 Not always. Small varicose veins which cause no symptoms can be ignored. Indications for surgery upon varicose veins are: Pain in the legs and generally fatigued feeling in the leg muscles at the end of the day; swelling of the legs; hemorrhaging; unsightliness; or a general impairment of circulation which can lead to various ulcers of the skin of the legs or chronic eczema of the skin of the legs. Sclerosing treatment, which is the injection of the veins with substances which cause closure of the vein by scar tissue formation, is often all that is needed to obliterate smaller varicose veins which may remain or show up after surgery.

During the summer, I lead a very active and outdoorsy life. I'm constantly in the sun and I'm at the beach practically every day. With this constant exposure to the sun and surf, my skin already is beginning to look and feel remarkably like fish scales. What can I do?

Don't over do the sun. Too much sun and salt water may cause your skin to become dry and flaky. Obviously, you won't be able to avoid the sun altogether, so try using a good all-over moisturizer such as Kori Lotion. It's a soothing lubricant that is not sticky or greasy, and may be used several times a day for treatment of dry, itchy or chapped skin.

Do put a moisturizer on before you go outside, and remember that it is especially soothing after a bath or shower.

display of English Pageantry," Mrs. Sisk said. "The Queen arrived in a fabulous open carriage and you could sense the respect the people had for the Royal family."

Rev. Sisk says the English people were amazed at what the U. S. was going through, politically, for the past two years.

"They were much more harsh with Mr. Nixon than we are," Rev. Sisk said. "And many of the English people just out and out called him a crook."

He explained that their government was considerably different. The first wrong thing to happen and their official would automatically resign, and in many cases completely drop out of sight.

Mr. Sisk says they were in London the week before the bombing in the Tower of London, and said matter of factly, "We stood in the very room where the bomb had been placed."

Our country seems so young, at 200 years, he says, in comparison to the buildings in England which are thousands of years old.

A city in England must have cathedral, he told, or it isn't really a city regardless of the population.

The transportation there is fantastic, with trains, subways and busses. They took a bus to London, which was 175 miles. "We had no business with an automobile," said Rev. Sisk. "we would not have found a place to park it."

They have motorways instead of Interstate Highways, with three lanes. The inside lane for slow drivers, average speed traveled the middle lane and the outside lane if you drive about 80 miles per hour.

"It took me two weeks to get used to driving on the wrong side of the street, but you either learn to drive or get off the road."

"I got a fist shaken at me a couple of times," he continued, "but I soon learned."

Driving Rev. Palmer's little Austin Maxi was quite different from the station wagon he had been accustomed to driving.

Some of the things they soon learned the meaning of were "prams", which is baby carriages - he added that they used lots of them. "Biscuits were cookies and "scones" were biscuits, the yard was a "garden" and the livingroom was a "lounge."

Everyone, almost without exception, grew flowers and scrubbed their doorsteps. The windows has no screens, but were always sparkling clean.

For many years to come, the Sisk family will long remember their trip to England. And as they look through their many photographs and gifts from their friends in another part of the world, they will always be reminded that the same God watches over all.

And regardless of race or color or from what part of the world you visit, Rev. Sisk believes "people everywhere respond basically to kindness and sympathy."

Police Information Network Is Described For Rotary Club

The North Carolina Police Information Network (PIN) was discussed for members of the Mocksville Rotary Club on Tuesday by its director, Howard M. Livingston.

The Rotarians were told that PIN was established in this state to form a consolidated communications and information retrieval system which would be available to all criminal justice agencies within the state. The objective is to provide factual and timely information on crimes and criminals.

Davie County is a member of this statewide system which now hooked up to all 50 states in the union. However, there are only 20 such statewide systems in the nation.

Dr. Livingston told the Rotarians that the North Carolina Police Information Network has 208 terminals and handles 75,000 transactions a day.

"However, it is capable of handling 300,000 per day," said Dr. Livingston.

Dr. Livingston told the Rotarians that the PIN system was established in 1969 in North Carolina by an act of the General Assembly.

"This is a dual computer system that operated 24-hours per day and provides response in less than 10 seconds," said Dr.

Livingston. Such response concerns stolen items, criminal records, and all types of information concerning motor vehicles and their operators.

Dr. Ramey Kemp was in charge of the program and introduced Dr. Livingston.

President Ed Goodwin presided.

Gilbert T. Davis, local attorney, was inducted as a new member.

Frosty Rich was a visiting Rotarian from Salisbury.

UNDERSTANDING DRUG ABUSE

Robert L. DuPont, M.D., Director
 National Institute on Drug Abuse

Outreach

For every narcotic addict or drug abuser who has been treated and rehabilitated, there is another who does not know where to get help or who refuses to ask for it.

To get these people into treatment, the Federal drug abuse program has a new operation under way. It is called "Outreach," and it is the joint effort of men and women whose personal or professional lives are affected by drug abuse: former drug abusers and drug patients and their families and friends, the staff of treatment programs, police, and judges.

Ex-addicts have long played useful roles in drug abuse treatment by interviewing potential patients, joining in group therapy, and serving as living proof that the drug habit can be broken. Now counselors are urging patients in treatment to bring in relatives with drug problems, and to ferret out drug abusers in the drug underground.

Outreach patients use street talk and the full drug jargon as they apply all their powers of persuasion wherever addicts meet—in basements, bars, clubhouses, coffee shops, or on the street. They cannot force people into treatment but they work hard at getting them to give it a try.

Counselors and patients in treatment are also doing battle with a typical and discouraging characteristic of drug abusers—relapse to drugs—by seeking out dropouts from treatment programs and getting them back into therapy.

Outreach services are not solely directed at people who use illegal drugs. They are also aimed at factory workers who regularly depend on amphetamines to stay awake during a second shift, or housewives who take twice as many tranquilizers as their physicians prescribe.

The most dramatic results of Outreach may appear in the criminal justice system, where it is being used for the first time.

Collaboration between police and drug treatment personnel can promote prevention and early intervention in drug problems of youth.

Judges, weary of continually sentencing addict-criminal repeaters to jail, can now ask program operators to steer them into treatment with the dual goal of achieving their rehabilitation and relieving society of the cost of their repeated crimes and imprisonment.

Wood absorbs and reflects sounds so well that it is widely used in schools, churches and auditoriums for sound control.

Davie At South Stokes In Football Opener Friday Night

The Davie High War Eagles will kick-off the 1974 football season Friday night in a non-conference game at South Stokes.

Coach Bill Peeler has 12 lettermen returning from last year's squad that won 8, lost 2, and tied one, and were winners of Division II of the North Piedmont Conference.

Last year Davie defeated South Stokes 21 to 6.

The projected starting lineup on offense for Davie will sport a line weighing only 165 lbs on the average.

Probable starting at ends will be Stan Riddle, a senior letterman weighing 160 lbs and Rick Dyson, a 150 lb junior.

A tackle will be Larry Melton, a 170 lb senior letterman and Mark McClannan, a 190 lb junior.

At guards will be senior lettermen Doug Lakey and Dale Sherrill, both at 160 lbs.

Senior letterman Larry West at 165 lbs will be at center.

Quarterbacking duties will fall to Craig Michael, 150 lb senior letterman, Bob Wall, a 155 lb senior, and Stan Thorp, 160 lb junior, will back him up.

Senior lettermen Mark Hendricks, Terry Steele and Ron Anderson will bring experience to the running back slot.

The defensive line for the War Eagles will average around 190 lbs.

The two end slots are expected to be filled by Steve Hepler, a 170 lb sophomore, and Stan Riddle.

Greg Pulliam, the heaviest man on the squad at 220 lbs, and John Sneed, 180 lbs, will be at the defensive tackle slots. Both are seniors.

Chris Shupe, a 220 lb sophomore, will be the nose guard.

Mark James, 165 lb junior letterman, and Stan Thorp are projected to be the starting line backers. The four deep men will be Curtis Stiles, Mark Hendricks, Craig Michael and Bob Wall.

Sophomore Sid Short will do the punting, with either Steve Hepler or Rick Sparks handling the kick-off chores.

Following the non-conference game Friday night at South Stokes, Davie will play South Iredell here in a conference game September 13th.

Davie High War Eagles

Davie High Co-Captains, Doug Lakey and Stan Riddle, and Coach Bill Peeler discuss strategy for the opening game Friday night at South Stokes.

Davie County Open Golf Tournament Set For October 5 & 6

The first Davie County Open Golf Championship will be held at Twin Cedars Golf Course on October 5th and 6th. The tournament will be sponsored by the Mocksville Jaycees.

The entry fee for the championship will be $12 and entry blanks are available at the various courses in the area. All entry blanks must be submitted by September 9th.

The tourney will be flighted with trophies and prizes awarded for each flight. Starting times will be announced in this newspaper after Sept. 9th. The rain date will be 12th and 13th of October.

As an added attraction, prizes will be awarded in a contest to the pin contest on the 18th hole on Saturday and Sunday. On Sunday, a hole-in-one on number 4 will win someone the use of a 1975 Monte Carlo, donated by Penington Chevrolet, for one year.

Money from the event will go to various Jaycees projects such as the Special Olympics for mentally handicapped children, the Christmas Parade, little league baseball, and a Christmas party for underprivileged children.

"We're trying to find who's the best golfer in this area," said Joe Mando, Chairman of the tournament committee. "We're also hoping this will be the start of an annual event to determine a Davie County Champion each year."

Davie Truckers Win Smith Grove Invitational

The Truckers defeated Lewisville Exxon in their first game, 11-2. The local lads were in complete control of the game, scoring 7 runs in the first two innings. Don Eaton, Dale (H. D.) Ijames and Randy McDaniel led the Truckers with two for three.

Second round action paired the Truckers against Fritts Motor of Winston-Salem. Pitcher Terry Johnson joined an elite group by hurling a perfect game... a rare feat in slow-pitch softball. The Truckers pounded out 19 hits in their 16-0 romp over Fritts. Rick Allred, Otis Ijames and Bill Summers homered for the Truckers.

Johnson continued to dominate the action by limiting Southern Fabric to 3 hits in a 13-

1 win in third round play. Tony Seaford and Don Eaton both went 3 for 3 to lead the Truckers.

The Truckers then advanced to the semi-finals of the winner's bracket against the Bringle Cowboys of Dunn Town. It was the fifth meeting of the year between the two teams and for the fifth time the Truckers won - this time 5 to 4. Paul Beaver paced the Truckers with 2 for 3. Dickie Myers of Bringles homered and singled to lead his team.

In the finals, the Truckers met another old foe - Ken's Pool Room. And for the fourth time this year Ken's Pool Room was defeated by the powerful Truckers, 6-3. Paul Beaver went 3 for 4, while Randy McDaniel and Terry Johnson contributed 2 hits each. Noland Miller led Ken's with a perfect 3 for 3.

The Truckers then advanced to the finals of the tournament against once-beaten Cartner's Texaco. Cartner's ambushed the Truckers 10-4. Terry Johnson homered for the Truckers while Harold Latham homered for Cartner's.

After a short rest period, the championship game followed which was witnessed by approximately 1,000 people.

In the opening inning, Paul Beaver singled and was followed by Rick Allred's first homer. Cartner's failed to score in their half of the first.

The Truckers then scored two runs in the second on hits by Jim Wishon, Bill Summers, Don Eaton, Dale Ijames and Paul Beaver. Another run would have scored but a perfect throw to the plate by Craig Ward nailed the runner.

Cartner's came alive in the bottom of the second scoring 7 runs, mostly from homeruns by Harold Latham and Denny Cartner. The Truckers came back with 5 runs in the third led by Rick Allred's second homer of the game. Cartner's came up dry in their half, so after three innings the Truckers led 9-7.

Rick Allred then led off the fourth inning with his third homer, a blast over the center field fence. Big Otis Ijames followed with a towering homer over the left field fence. After an out, the Truckers scored two more runs in the fourth. Cartner's scored two in their fourth, aided by Darrel Harpe's solo blast over the right field fence.

The Truckers countered with two in the fifth on hits by Paul Beaver and Otis Ijames. Cartner's failed to tally and the score was 15-9 in favor of the Truckers after 5 innings. In the sixth the Truckers didn't score but Cartner's scored two on Harpe's second homer of the game.

In the final frame, Rick Allred knocked in two with his fourth homer of the game. For Cartner's, Harold Latham led off the bottom of the seventh with his second homer. After an out, Wayne Frye drilled a double to center. Denny Cartner followed with a blast to left center which would have been a home run if not for a fabulous catch by Bill Summers, reaching over the fence. Jim Wishon made a running catch in deep center to end the ball game with the Truckers ahead 17-13.

The Truckers were presented their fifth first-place trophy of the year. So far this year, the Truckers have entered nine tournaments and have four first places, one second place, one third place, one fifth place and a sixth place in the state playoffs. To date the Truckers have a record of 85 wins and 23 losses.

Lone Hickory Tournament

The Lone Hickory Fund Raising Tournament is still in full swing with 7 men teams and 5 women teams after Labor Day.

Games will be each night with the final games Saturday night. Those teams still in the race after Labor Day's events are: Men: Ken's Pool Room and Hall's Restaurant undefeated. The other teams only lost one game each: Bill Davis Chevy, Harmony Caf, Wash. Sports, Unifi, and Benny's Carpet.

Women's teams: South Oak Ridge and Unifi still undefeated. Lost only one game each: S & S Motors, Moxley's Store, Winter's Radio & TV.

Band Boosters Elect Officers

On Monday, August 26th, the Band Boosters Club met to elect officers and make plans for the school year 1974-75. The president Mildred White was in charge.

Officers elected for the new year include: Glenna Lagle, president; James Foster, vice president; Letty Smith, secretary; Bickie Martim, assistant secretary; Frances Venable, treasurer; Gene Smith, publicity; Barbara Foster, telephone chairman; Sadie Jones, project chairman; and Mildred White and Yvonne Sheets, membership co-chairman.

The club members are now selling tickets for a color TV which will be given away at the Homecoming Football Game. The regular meetings of the Band Boosters Club will be the second Tuesday of each month at 7 p.m. in the Band Room at Davie County High School.

All parents and friends of any child taking band in elementary or high school are urged to join this worthwhile group.

Fishermen Help Needed

Duke Power biologists have tagged and released several hundred large mouth bass and crappies.

The fish were caught, weighed, tagged, and the location they caught noted.

Biologists want fishermen who catch these tagged fish to return the tag to Duke Power. The tag will provide information on the fish's growth, condition, migratory patterns in the lake, and help evaluate the effect of power plants operations on the lake environment.

Special envelopes will be placed at access areas and moorings for returning the bright yellow tag to the Duke biologists.

They need to know the date the fish was caught, size, where it was caught and the fish's general condition.

Duke will send a package of plastic fishing worms for each tag turned in. Be sure to add your name and address.

Dove Season Opens

The first half of a split season on dove hunting opens Monday at noon.

Dove season will run from Sept. 2 through Oct. 12, with the second half of the split season being Dec. 14 through Jan. 11. Hunters are allowed to hunt doves from noon until sunset.

Coastal Fishing

Pier owners along the Carolinas' coast reports some large fall spots being caught.

Anglers using live shrimp and blood worms have had particular good luck fishing at night this past week.

Flounder runs have been good at times with some fishermen catching a dozen or more in a short time.

Charter boats have been catching big fall king mackerel, and amberjacks some weighing up to 45 pounds. A 46 inch sailfish was also caught this past week.

Headboats have had a wet week, but still brought back good catches of various bottom fish. These bottom fish are fine freeze foods and, with a good day of fishing, one can supply his family with fish for all winter.

Invitational Regatta

High Rock Yacht Club is holding its eighth annual invitational races this weekend on High Rock Lake. Over 100 boats are expected for the three-day event.

The public is invited, and the races can be seen from the yacht club located near Southmont, and at the Panther Point area of Rowan.

A lake filled with white and multi-colored sails is a pretty sight to see.

Barger Returns To Lenior Rhyne Squad

All-District performer Allen Barger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Barger of Mocksville, will again play center on the Lenoir Rhyne Bears' football squad when the team opens their season's play against Gardner-Webb in Hickory September 14.

Barger was a star athlete at Davie County High School before entering college.

The Lenoir Rhyne Bears' outlook for 1974 is one of cautious optimism. Although only five seniors were lost to graduation and several starters return, the overall squad is young. Last year's squad made vast improvement, yet the improvement did not show up in the record due to a demanding schedule.

In '74 the bears hope to build on the improvement and experience of a year ago. The schedule is again a tough one, sporting some of the finest college teams in the South.

The offensive line was hit hardest by graduation with the loss of three starters, however some talented sophomores are ready to step in. Barger will be flanked by sophomores Wilmer Walker of Hickory and Ricky Patterson of Charleston, S.C.

Cheerleaders Hold Practice Clinic

The Pinebrook Cheerleaders held a two-day practice clinic last week at the home of their sponsor, Mr. George Sloan.

There they learned new cheers and chants, made posters, organized their pep rallies, and planned many exciting events for the coming season.

The squad consisting of: Sara Mottinger, Carolyn Lyons, Kim Crawford, Cindy Smith, Dodie Sloan, Cindy Baily, Kathy Trivette, Jackie Anderson, Ginny Reavis, Tammy Tobin, Jan Marshall, and Cindy West; met with their principal, William Eanes, on the second day of the clinic and offered their assistance to the staff and school.

The first day of school found them acting as guides to the new students and their parents. They are looking forward to repeating this role at the first P.T.A. meeting, where they will also take charge of the devotional.

These enthusiastic young ladies are proud of their school and plan to show their school spirit not only on the ball field cheering their team to victory, but by promoting good sportsmanship and working for the betterment of Pinebrook.

Truckers Make Good Showing In State Playoffs

The Davie Truckers Softball Team made a very good showing in the recent state playoffs for class open teams held in Reidsville.

In their opening game, the Truckers faced Wiseman Oil of Jonesville, winner of the State Road area. After five innings of play, Wiseman Oil was leading 8-3. In the top of the sixth inning, the Truckers scored three runs on hits by Rick Allred, Terry Johnson and Tony Seaford. In the seventh inning, down 8-6, Dale Ijames led off with a single and was followed by Paul Beaver's homerun which tied up the score. Consecutive hits by Otis Ijames, Randy McDaniel and Terry Johnson pushed the Truckers ahead 10-8. The Truckers then held off a Wiseman rally to win its first game in state competition.

The Truckers then ran head-on into last year's state champions, Champion Landscaping of Kings Mountain. Champion triumphed by 15-11, scoring 8 runs in the fourth inning to put the game away. Randy McDaniel and Otis Ijames went 3 for 4 to lead the Truckers in the losing effort.

Later in the afternoon the Truckers faced Kingsmen Quartet of Asheville in their loser's bracket game. In a game that was filled with arguments and indecision by the umpires, the Truckers squeezed by with a 5-4 victory. Catcher Don Eaton paced the Truckers with a perfect night at the plate.

In their third game of the day, the Truckers eliminated S & S Motors of State Road by a score of 13-4. For the fourth straight game, the Truckers fell behind early. This time it was homeruns by Archie Poindexter and Danny Matthews that put the Truckers behind 3-0 in the first inning. After four innings S & S led by 4-1, but then the Truck began to roll. Twelve batters went to the plate in the fifth, resulting in 8 runs which put the Truckers ahead to stay. Dale Ijames, Jim Wishon and Terry Johnson went 3 for 4 to lead the Truck.

The Truckers were then eliminated from the tourney by 421 Curb Market from Colfax, 5-3. Otis Ijames and Rick Allred were the hitting leaders with 2 for 3.

Flabiosis Plagues America

If inflation is the nation's number one economic concern, then inflation-of-the-waistline must be our number one health concern.

Physical flabiosis (Flabiosis) literally plagues our land. It seems the more tired our bodies become the more we think we need rest. Exactly the opposite is true! Lots of exercise, taken in gradually increased doses, revitalizes the system giving it unknown energy. Energy begets energy!

Everyone should want to die as young as possible. The road to achieving this goal is through exercise. It's fun. It's healthy. It's invigorating. Physical fitness, individually or as a family, young or old, is beautiful. Buy the paperback, Aerobics, by Kenneth H. Cooper, M.D., read it, and recharge your batteries!

Ruritans Hold Countywide Meeting

The first countywide Ruritan meeting was held Saturday evening at the Masonic Picnic grounds in Mocksville.

Jim Eaton, Zone 7 Governor, served as presiding officer.

The guest speaker was L. W. Bibb III, National Ruritan President. He was introduced by John Wood, National Director, Piedmont District 31.

Special guest was Miss Sandre Clontz, the new "Miss Mocksville."

Ed Cartner, District Governor, Piedmont District 31, presented appreciation plaques to Mrs. Jerry Paige, representing the Davie County Enterprise-Record, and Jonathan Seamon, representing radio station WDSL, for their support of the Ruritan program.

Entertainment was provided by the "Sounds of Gospel" from Statesville.

If you're planning on mating your dog or cat, make sure the expectant mother is in top physical shape. Prior to breeding, your dog should be vaccinated against distemper, hepatitis, leptospirosis (a disease of the liver and kidney) and rabies. Cats should have immunity against distemper, pneumonitis and rabies.

Temporary resistance to these diseases, in the form of maternal antibodies, is passed on in the milk to the puppies or kittens. Maternal immunity is extremely important to protect the litter against exposure until they reach proper vaccination age.

The gestation period is generally the same for cats and dogs—approximately nine weeks or 63 days. However, you should be ready for the litter to arrive at any time between the 60th through the 65th day. Just as other births occur early and late, the same thing applies in small animals.

Once pregnant, your animal should be exercised on a scaled-down basis until the time of delivery. As she begins to lose her girlish figure and puts on a little more weight, you will find that she is less anxious to romp and play, and her exercise periods should be shortened. Don't permit her to stop all activities. Without exercise she may become too fat and her muscle tone may deteriorate, presenting problems at delivery time. From about the fifth to the sixth week on, it's not wise to allow her to race up and down stairs or to jump on and off furniture and other high objects.

Take extreme care that your pet never becomes chilled when wet. If she shows signs of running nose eyes, or a sudden loss of appetite, check with your veterinarian.

During the last week of pregnancy, the expectant mother may appear restless. She is probably searching around the house for a safe and quiet place to have her litter. This is when she should be introduced to her maternity box. It should be placed in a quiet location, out of drafts and the family's usual traffic pattern. Most breeders have a maternity box which is used while the litter is born and during the time they are nursing. It should be large enough so the expectant mother can stretch out at full length on her side and have spare room at head and tail.

To help the expectant mother get accustomed to the maternity box, place her regular mattress or blanket in it. This will help her feel at home when it is time for the litter to arrive. Remove her mattress or blanket just before delivery time and put in several layers of newspapers laid flat. Make sure the box is warm. You should keep the room temperature at least 70 degrees for the newborn puppies or kittens. It is very important to prevent the newborn from becoming chilled and to keep them out of drafts.

Along with up-to-date vaccinations against infectious diseases and a good environment for bearing the litter, nutrition is a vital element in the production of healthy offspring. Dietary supplementation with a quality vitamin product or with an iron supplement is good practice for both the expectant mother and growing pups and kittens. These nutritional supplements are available from your veterinarian, who should be consulted with the onset of your pet's pregnancy.

Commission Releases Cost Of Producing "A" Milk

The North Carolina Milk Commission report on the cost of producing milk on North Carolina Grade A dairy farms for the second quarter of 1974 and for the first half of the year was released at the Commission meeting today. The study is being conducted by the Department of Economics and the Agricultural Extension Service at North Carolina State University at the request of the Commission. Sixty-four Grade A dairy farms were selected at random to participate in the study. Standard farm accounting procedures were used to determine the cost of production estimates contained in the report. The data collection was supervised for completeness and accuracy and date was obtained from the actual business records of the study participants.

Dr. R. C. Wells, Extension Economist and Don Pardue, Extension Farm Business Specialist at North Carolina State University, project leaders, presented the report to the Commission. The report indicates the net cost of producing 100 pounds of Grade A milk in North Carolina averaged $10.24 for the first half of the year compared to a blend price received for the milk of $10.22 per 100 lbs. As expected, the net cost of producing milk for the second quarter, $10.78 per 100 lbs., was higher than the first quarter estimate of $9.68. The month of April marks the beginning of intensive field work to produce crops for the coming year. Crop expenses such as fertilizer, seed and chemicals increased from $84 per 100 lbs. of milk in the first quarter to $1.46 in the second quarter. Outlays for gas, oil, repairs, utilities and milk hauling were up sharply from $39 per 100 lbs. in the first quarter to $1.08 in the second quarter. Some expenses, however, declined on a 100 lb. basis during the second quarter. Purchased feed was the major expense item for the first half of 1974.

Barn Dinner Theatre Presents "The Fantasticks"

In September 4th, Conley Jones' Barn Dinner Theatre opened THE FANTASTICKS, a musical comedy that filled theatre seats in New York for more than six years. It went on to become a success in Europe, South Africa, the Near East and Australia. THE FANTASTICKS was written by two men from Texas, Tom Jones and Harvey Schmidt, based on an old French Romance.

The plot is about a boy and girl in love, but it was the mockingly sophisticated style or telling their romantic story that captivated audiences around the world. The boy and girl are separated by a wall which their seemingly hostile parents have put up. The necessity to climb trees by the wall to have secret meetings, the need to plot behind the backs of their feuding fathers, only adds piquancy to their romance. Actually their fathers are the best of friends who fondly hope their children will marry. They allow the meetings of their progeny out of the certainty that youngsters will be contrary. They expound this wisdom in one of the show's hit songs, "Never Say No!" which states that children will always do what they're forbidden to do. In order to find a way in which their pretended objections can be overcome, they hire actors to stage an attempted abduction of the girl in the moonlight, do that her beau can gallantly rescue her. This will make the girl see her savior in a more romantic light, and will force the "reluctant" parents to consent to the match.

After this episode goes off as planned, the musical transfers its principals to a world of bright, disillusioning sunlight. Youngsters and fathers grow irritated with one another. The boy and girl can only find happiness after they discover that the world is not composed entirely of moonlight and honeysuckle, and they learn that "without a hurt the heart is hollow."

The cast will include Martin McDonald, Jacqueline LeMieux, Michael Bruck, Bobby Wise, Roger Black, Dana K. Warner, Michael Colley and Larry Drake. Musical direction will be by Jan Powell and choreography by Dana Warner. The show will be directed by Bobby Brandt.

JODY CARR COMMENTS

from the Car Care Council

"Booster Cable Baby?"

It was dingy garret with cobwebs hanging from a player piano. The floor was scattered with crumpled pieces of paper.

"You're my last resort, Mrs. Carr," said Bert Hatrack, aspiring songsmith. "I thought I had the answer; it was merely a matter of lyrics."

"What answer?" I asked. "What's the question?" "Let me explain. I'm a very specialized kind of songwriter. I have a hang-up on disabled cars. It's all I write about. . . . got the fetish while working on a tow truck after I dropped out of music school."

"It really got to me, rescuing so many emergency road service was a good substitute for preventive maintenance. I found myself putting words to the old familiar song, so to speak."

"An agent heard my Booster Cable Baby and offered to make me famous. When he couldn't hit it with that one, he tried I've Got Two Flat Tires, One On The Left Front And One In The Trunk Blues. A real winner, but no sale."

"How could that one miss?" I gasped. "What about your latest effort?" "This one's gotta be it. I call it The Fight Song For The Irate Motorist Who's Fed Up With Being Stuck In Traffic Behind A Stalled Car." "An interesting title. Let's hear it," I urged somewhat weakly.

While he pumped the pedals, I noticed that he slipped on a roll marked Yellow Rose Of Texas. The piano tinkled as he sang: "It's those hang-up cars that vex us. They're the highways' end-less blight. From the shore of Maine to Texas Through the chilly winter night. Let's unite to keep 'em moving. Keep the traffic flowing free. For folks like you and I." "Now let me play my Would You Believe I Haven't Had My Car Tuned In 40,000 Miles Samba."

And so it went. His words were inspired, but his melodies seemed to lack originality. This could have been part of his problem.

I suggested that he not call me. I would call him. Somehow I think there must be a place in our society for dedicated souls like Bert Hatrack. The problem is finding it.

VA News

Q - What is VA's attitude toward charges that the Vietnam veteran is not getting a fair shake?

A - Vietnam era veterans make up 24.2 percent of the U.S. veteran population, and 30.3 percent of VA's $13 billion plus annual budget is spent in their behalf. While small bands of veterans claim wholesale alienation for the young veteran population, nearly five million of these veterans are now at work in the civilian labor force and millions more are in training. In fact, 2.6 million Vietnam veterans have trained at college level under the GI Bill - topping the 12 year record of the World War II program.

Q - How many veterans and servicemen have received education benefits under the three GI Bills?

A - Nearly 15 million have trained, beginning with the enactment of the World War II original GI Bill. The cost of all three GI Bills through April 1974 was $29.6 billion.

Q - What state pays the highest bonus to its Vietnam era veterans?

A - According to information available to the Veterans Administration, North Dakota's $1,600 is the highest maximum bonus paid in 16 states and Guam.

Wildlife Afield

BY JIM DEAN

I am in the process of being trained by a dog—a young German short-haired pointer to be exact. That's not so bad. I'm told lots of people who purchase dogs must undergo a bit of schooling.

What bothers me is that I think I'm flunking the course. My instructor's name is Pepper. Last night, Pepper informed me that he didn't think it was any of my business where he conducted his business, even if it was on the kitchen floor.

We have been arguing about this matter since Pepper first came to the house some months ago and enrolled me in a course titled "The Proper Role Of A Human Being In The Presence Of A Young Bird Dog."

I maintain—perhaps wrongly—that as a student, I should have a say in how this course is taught. Naturally, Pepper disagrees.

This is not the only point of disagreement. Pepper also claims that he has the authority to "chew" me out at anytime he thinks I need it. In fact, he has "chewed" me out so many times that I fear my hands are scarred for life. I have pointed out to him that he has rawhide bones to chew on, but he says he prefers a lighter, milder chew and that my fingers are perfect.

The most embarrassing thing that has happened so far concerns my physical conformation. Pepper has been looking me over carefully, and he maintains that I have some very definite flaws. He says I'm cow-hocked and snipy. Which if I understand correctly, means that I am knock-kneed and have a weak chin. He's also concerned about my nose. He thinks I may not be able to smell a bobwhite quail or a woodcock.

I know I must have been a disappointment to him when we went out for a jaunt on a farm recently. Pepper ranged far and wide, covering a lot of ground, but I had a heck of a time keeping up. He says I'm slow and timid and that if I ever plan to be any good in the field, I'm going to have to increase my range.

Well, shoot, nobody's perfect. I think Pepper is rather proud of my retrieving, however. The other afternoon, I threw sticks for him in the backyard for at least an hour, and I retrieved every one of them while he sat there and watched.

I am also rather proud that I have learned where I'm supposed to sleep at night. For a month or so there, I thought I would never get it straight. Unless I am mistaken, I believe Pepper wants me to sleep on the foot of the bed.

It's clear to me that he regards the pillow as his own personal property. At least, that's where he's been sleeping, and doesn't seem to mind if I sleep at his feet. I'm glad we got that worked out because you see, there really wasn't room for both of us on the pillow.

The other day I ask him if there wasn't something he could do about the fleas, but he didn't seem to be interested. Apparently, he thinks fleas are something I've got to learn to live with. Gee, you'd think he'd at least get me one of those collars.

I guess it's really to early to predict what's going to happen between me and Pepper. I even asked my wife Diane what she thought I ought to do.

"I wouldn't worry about it," she said. "They say it often takes two or three years before you can tell. If you haven't shown any promise by then, we'll get rid of you and get somebody else."

Pepper didn't say anything. I think he's still hoping I'll turn out all right.

Motorless Flight Saves Fuel

Although you don't really have to know the difference between soaring and gliding to enjoy the sport of soaring, "gliding" means getting down while "soaring" is staying up. To soar, one must use a sailplane, the ultimate in aerodynamic efficiency—with no engine, of course.

During National Soaring Week, July 1st-7th, 1974, soaring enthusiasts young and old will celebrate motorless flight. National Soaring Week will include open houses and sailplane meets at soaring sites across the United States and Canada, and it will be the high point of a year-long "Let's Go Soaring" campaign to promote this fuel-saving sport.

The first successful American glider flight was made from a California hilltop in 1804. New techniques were opened up in 1926 when Germany's Max Kegel astonished the aeronautical world by soaring 34 miles in a thunderstorm—an unplanned flight which he happily survived! Today, the United States boasts at least 12,000 sailplane pilots, with over 100,000 sailplane flights occurring in 1973. The minimum age for soloing a sailplane is 14.

The ecologically sound sport of soaring is safer than driving and is a boon to the energy crisis. A sailplane flight requires only 1/2 gallon of gas, which is used by the tow plane that tows the sailplane up to flight height at the end of a 200 foot rope. Less gas is required if which tow is used. Once the tow-rope is released, the sailplane pilot searches for a rising air current such as may be found along the windward slopes of hills and mountains, as well as beneath cumulus clouds. Sailplanes have traveled for over 600 miles in a distance flight, and have soared as high as 40,000 feet.

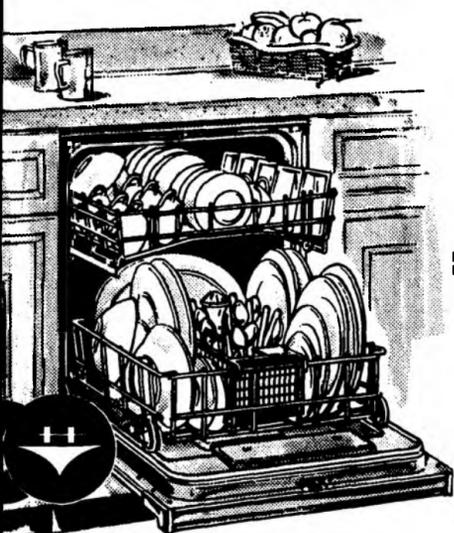

The "Let's Go Soaring" Program culminating in National Soaring Week, is being sponsored by the Soaring Society of America, a non-profit organization founded in 1932 for the development of gliding and soaring. Funds for the program come solely from the voluntary contributions of friends and members of the Soaring Society, as well as from others interested in promoting motorless flight in this country.

Introductory sailplane flights with experienced pilots are available at most soaring sites. For further information on soaring and the soaring site nearest you, write Soaring Society of America, Dept. D, 3200 Airport Avenue, Santa Monica, Calif. 90405.

Consumer FORUM

by Karen McCall
Wachovia Bank & Trust Co., N.A.

Fifteen or 20 years ago if you wanted to buy something at a store or pay for a meal or a night's lodging, you took out your wallet or purse and handed over the necessary cash. Or, if you had proper identification, you wrote a check. Today, all you have to do is whip out a little 2 x 3 1/4-inch plastic card and say, "Charge it!"

Quietly, and without fan-fare, a world-wide revolution has been taking place in our medium of exchange. No longer is it necessary to carry a roll of bills or a book of checks when you shop or travel. By establishing your credit with a single source—the charge card company—you are able to buy things or obtain services in more than a million and a half places throughout the world. Stores, boutiques, restaurants, motels and hotels, airlines, oil companies, hospitals, doctors, and dentists—practically every service you can name—are glad to extend instant credit without the time-consuming process of establishing your ability to pay in each place you go. Charge cards are so universally accepted today as a cash substitute that in some instances, they are used for rent payments, insurance premiums, supermarket purchases—even political contributions.

One A Month

You are billed just once a month for all the purchases you make on a charge card. That means you can pay the total with just a single check. It's a lot easier than making many different payments.

In the early days of charge cards, there was some concern that many people would be tempted to overspend—and that purchasing goods on credit was now such a simple process that families and individuals would go on a spending spree—and plunge heavily into debt. But through the wise establishment of credit limits, these fears proved to be groundless. And it soon became evident that the great majority of people were quite responsible—and regarded charge cards as a convenience and not an eternal fountain of funds.

As you probably know, there are several different kinds of credit cards. The bank charge cards, Master Charge and Bank Americard are the most widely used. With bank cards you can pay for not only meals, lodging and transportation—but for all sorts of retail goods and services—not just in the U.S.A., but in practically every foreign country in the free world. In addition, you can use your bank cards to get a cash advance of $50 to $100 from participating banks. It's a great convenience when you need money in a hurry.

Limited Use

The second type of charge card is the T. & E. (travel and entertainment) card—with a more limited use. Usually such cards cost about $15 a year. There is no charge for bank charge cards.

Then, of course, there are the "one company" cards—gasoline and oil companies, some airlines, some hotels and restaurants, Rent-a-car companies and many department stores and chain stores.

With bank charge cards, Master Charge, for example, you have 25 days to pay your bill without any interest charge. If you have not paid within this specified time—or if you wish to extend your payments over a period of time, say 3 months, or 6 months, the fee ranges from 1 to 1 1/2 per cent per month—a 12 or 18 per cent annual rate. State law regulates such interest rates.

$50 Liability

If you should lose your charge card, or if it is stolen, your liability is limited to $50 when an unauthorized person uses it. You won't be liable even for that amount if you notify the company in time.

One of the greatest advantages of bank charge cards, aside from their sheer convenience, is the fact that you can take advantage of sales—or special bargain prices—at a time when your checking account balance may be running low. Charge cards also enable you to have a clear, uniform way to keep your records. This can be a real advantage in making out your taxes or your budget.

One final bit of advice. There is really no reason for having a wallet or purse bulging with many different credit cards when a single card will do the job adequately. Using one card not only simplifies your bookkeeping—but also limits your liability.

Large Silo Falls

By David Hoyle

With 600 tons of corn silage tucked away in their silo, S.C. Spach and his son, Dwight, could feel pretty secure with frost just around the corner.

Then, around 10:30 last Tuesday night, disaster struck. The silo fell, taking a loader, a shed, a couple of cows and all that security against the winter with it.

The rib stone silo, which had towered 65 feet in the air the day before, is now a mountain of concrete, steel bands and ground up corn. Somewhere underneath all that corn were two of the Spach's cows and a $2,500 unloader.

"It was just a rumble," said Dwight of the noise from the falling silo, which was only about five years old. He expressed little hope of saving much of the slowly fermenting mounds of silage spread around the farm yard.

The silo, located on the Spach farm, across from the Farmington Drag Strip on Highway 801, was only five years old.

The owners are still not sure why the silo fell, but they know they've taken a loss. The silo will cost about $15,000 to rebuild and the silage was worth about three times that amount.

It could have been worse. Only two of their 60 cows and heifers milling around the shed and silo area were crushed in the crash. Also, their other silo, the twin of the laying across the barnyard, is still standing.

"It happens once in a while," Dwight said when asked if he had ever heard of one falling before. "Not very often, but once in a while."

A Rumble?

600 tons of corn silage, still partially bound by the remains of the 65 foot silo, are laying across S. C. Spach's shed and barnyard.

Lost Silage

Dwight Spach, who runs the farm with his father, contemplates the problems of what to do with all that silage (shown behind) with no silo.

N.C. Women In Law Praised By Albert Coates

By Pete Ivey

Women have done well in 50 years of attending Law School in Chapel Hill. They have equaled the men in law classes and in practice of after passing the bar.

Albert Coates testifies to the excellence of women in law studies and in the court rooms. Further, he cites evidence to prove it.

In speaking to the beginning class in the UNC Law School, as the 1974-75 academic year starts, Prof. Coates presented a foremost example: N. C. Supreme Court Justice Susie Sharp.

Coates, the 78-years-old retired professor of criminal law and former director of the Institute of Government, told the first year law students:

"There was one woman in the first year law class of 1923, and there were 52 women in the first year class of 1973. The grades of women students have roughly paralleled the grades of men, as women students have won places on the Law Review staff along with the men, and as one of them led her class to become the Editor-in-chief."

"I know one woman graduate of this school who went to practice law with her father. At first, the clients of the office would come to consult her father before she got to the office in the morning, or while she was out to lunch, or after she had left in the afternoon—to avoid the embarrassment of talking to a woman lawyer about legal matters which were man's business.

"In the years that followed, the situation was gradually reversed—clients were coming to the office to consult with her while her father was out, to avoid embarrassing him."

"One large business firm retained the firm on the express condition that she would personally attend to all its legal business."

"She was appointed, and then elected, Judge of the Superior Court, where she handled judicial business as effectively as any man on the court. She is now a candidate for the office of Chief Justice, with the approval of working colleagues who hold on to the tradition of inherent masculine superiority by claiming she is the 'best man on the bench.'"

It was the second consecutive year that Albert Coates has been invited to deliver the welcoming talk to beginning law students in Chapel Hill.

At the end of his speech, the students rose and gave him

Munday Reunion

The annual Munday Reunion governmental budget-cutting will be held on Sunday September 8, at Rich Park in that we will all have to do some Mocksville. A picnic style lunch belt-tightening if we are to get relatives and friends are invited to attend.

Senator Sam Ervin Says

President Ford has wasted no time in declaring war on inflation as the nation's number one domestic enemy. In a few days, the President is expected to convene a "domestic summit meeting" to deal with this problem which is uppermost in the minds of Americans.

The idea for such a meeting initially came from the Senate in the form of a resolution which I supported. Its purpose is to formulate a bipartisan approach to inflation with the advice and counsel of business, labor, agricultural and economic leaders, and members of Congress.

No one expects any panacea to come forth that will solve all of the difficult economic problems we now face—rapid price increases, shortages of basic commodities, and a recession that could worsen into a depression. But a new climate must be created if we are to begin to win the battle of inflation.

The "summit meeting" will convene under awesome conditions. There is an ever tightening squeeze underway on paychecks and savings. Families living on wages and retirement benefits are particularly hard hit because their money buys less each week. Prices of necessities—food, shelter, gasoline, and utilities—are rising sharply. The stock market has dropped more than a hundred points in the last month.

The overriding question is what can be done to stop inflation? The truth is that there is no simplistic answer. The problem involves not only governmental policies but also the actions which must be taken by millions of Americans. Even so, some observations are in order. During recent years, Administrations of both political parties have been sold on the theories of "new economics" which have now brought us to the brink of economic chaos. They are these:

First. The Federal Government can spend the nation into prosperity by incurring deficits, and it has been said that by some that balanced budgets are obsolete.

Second. A controlled inflation is said to be good for the nation's financial soul.

Third. The national debt need never be paid, and indeed, it ought to be increased as the gross national product rises.

I do not think that it need be argued that there is an absurdity in the proposition that the more a nation spends of what it has got, the richer it will be. The experience of all nations which have resorted to such policies shows that there is no practicable way to keep supposedly controlled inflation from becoming uncontrollable. Moreover, there is something inherently dishonest in one generation bequeathing its debts to another. And yet that is exactly what has been happening during most of the last 45 fiscal years in this country.

Persistent spending by the government creates inflationary pressures for a very simple reason. It artificially increases the number of dollars competing for available goods and services, and in doing so decreases the purchasing power of each dollar accordingly. For a while, inflation is pleasantly deceptive, because it artificially creates more dollars and furnishes statistics which seem to indicate that the country and its citizens have become richer. But after awhile the evils of inflation begin to appear and we find that wages, salaries, and savings have lost a substantial part of their real value. That is what has been happening in our country.

We now find ourselves with no easy options. The advice given at the "summit meeting" is likely to open up some old divisions, but in the end there will have to be some vigorous governmental budget-cutting.

There is also the grim prospect that we will all have to do some Mocksville. A picnic style lunch belt-tightening if we are to get relatives and friends are invited to attend.

Letter To Editor

Dear Gordon:

In a few days an estimated 1,200,000 students will have enrolled in 1,965 schools within 140 local districts, to begin what we hope will be an exciting learning experience for all of them.

Due to actions of the 1973-74 General Assembly our students, teachers, and administrators will be better prepared for the new term than ever before. Expanded kindergartens, additional programs for more exceptional children, new courses in occupational education, more instructional materials, emphasis on reading skills, reduced class size, expanded physical education for the lower grades, and more help for teachers lead a long list of better learning tools and methods.

In the past few years we have noticed an upward trend toward more positive attitudes concerning our schools. We attribute this to the day-to-day activity of school administrators and other school personnel in communicating with citizens through the North Carolina new media. This has been accentuated by the emphasis placed on positive approaches to learning in individual schools and school systems. I firmly believe that the emphasis we have placed on communicating information, both from the state and local school systems, is leading to a better understanding.

Please let me take this opportunity to thank you and your staff for the excellent state and local coverage of Education news during the past school term. As we begin a brand new year, we again ask for your cooperation, your understanding, and your help in informing our citizens what public education in North Carolina is all about.

Sincerely, A. Craig Phillips.

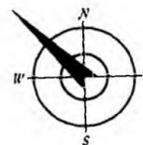

Smith Grove Development Group To Meet Sept. 15

The Smith Grove Community Development Center will hold its annual board meeting on September 15, 1974 at 3:00 p.m. in the Community Center Auditorium.

There will be two new board members elected at this meeting. Anyone that wishes to nominate a person for this job may do so by sending their name, along with their signature in writing to William G. Hendrix, Route 3, Mocksville, NC, by September 11, 1974.

Declares Dividend

The Board of Directors of Hanes Corporation today declared the regular quarterly dividend of 15 cents per share on common stock outstanding. The dividend will be payable September 16, 1974, to shareholders of record September 6, 1974.

Something certain in uncertain times.

You've faced uncertainty before, and sure, you know you'll face it again. But these days, you'd like something to hold on to. Especially when it comes to your money.

That's why a 7-1/4% Certificate of Deposit from Northwestern just makes good sense. You only need $1,000 minimum deposit to get a four year maturity Certificate of Deposit that guarantees you 7-1/4%. It's something certain... in today's uncertain times!

Federal law and regulation prohibit payment of a time deposit prior to maturity unless three months of the interest thereon is forfeited and interest on the amount withdrawn is reduced to the passbook rate.

Jaycette White Elephant Sale

The second annual White Elephant Sale, sponsored by the Mocksville Jaycettes, will be held on October 5, at the gym on North Main Street. The sale will run from 10 a.m. until the merchandise is sold.

Last year's White Elephant Sale netted a profit of $900. The proceeds were used in various community activities, including a $200 donation to Community Services, a donation of $385 for the hospital blood donor chair, and the presentation of a $300 scholarship to a graduating senior of Davie County High School. Again this year, the profit made from the sale will go to community projects and services.

The Jaycettes would appreciate any donation, from household furnishings to items of clothing. You may make your donation by calling Mrs. Lester Cozart, Mrs. Tommy Turner, Mrs. Demsie Grimes, or any other Mocksville Jaycette.

The Jaycettes need your support to make the project a success again this year. Last year's event was a success because of the tremendous support of the community, and we need your continued support to help us help the community.

USDA Publishes Equipment Guide

Schools can get expert help in planning new kitchens or in remodeling or equipping old ones from a new 'Equipment Guide for On-Site School Kitchens' published by the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA).

Now, instead of relying solely on casual recommendations or on personal experience, schools' equipment buyers can use the guide to draw on the expertise of food service systems specialist from USDA's Food and Nutrition Service (FNS).

FNS developed the guide to help schools select the type, size, and quantity of equipment needed to prepare between 100 and 1,500 Type A school lunches a day. Recommendations are for the minimum equipment needed to run an efficient, economical school lunch program. Equipment manufacturers provided valuable technical assistance in making the guide comprehensive and up to date. Many of the concepts are new to school food services—involving equipment ranging from central steam sources to tray washers that are almost entirely automatic.

The book has been sent to FNS Regional Offices and state educational agencies for distribution to school food authorities. Others can buy the 'Equipment Guide for On-Site School Kitchens' (PA-109) for $1.95 for the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402.

Central Telephone Vehicles Change To Blue & White

The familiar beige of Central Telephone Company's vehicles in North Carolina is giving way to a spritely blue and white. Division manager S. E. Leftwich of Hickory said the new color scheme is part of a system-wide corporate identification program intended to strengthen the Centel "family image".

The phase-out of beige vehicles began in July. All company trucks and cars purchased during 1972 and 1973 have been scheduled repainting. In addition, all vehicles to be purchased in 1974 are being ordered in the new colors.

The vehicles will feature a white top with a blue base and two-tone blue with white striping along the sides. In addition, Leftwich said, each vehicle will carry a large and easily identifiable blue "C", the Centel corporate symbol.

Vehicles purchased prior to 1972 will not be repainted but will continue to be used until they are retired. Leftwich said Centel is embarking on implementation of the new color scheme throughout the 12 states in which the company operates. He estimated that repainting of vehicles will be completed by the end of this year.

Ambulance Attendants Trained Under Special Program

North Carolina's Emergency Medical Services Act became law slightly more than a year ago. This law called for a statewide comprehensive emergency medical services program in the Department of Human Resources.

The N. C. Highway Patrol is also working toward certifying all patrolmen as EMT's. A concentrated three-week program is scheduled to begin in September for 27 highway patrolmen—three members from each of the nine troops across the state. The patrolmen will then devise training programs for the remainder of the patrol.

According to James O. Page, Chief of the Office of Emergency Medical Services (OEMS), 200 EMT classes will be funded for fiscal year 1974-75. He said, "The General Assembly has pumped life into the program with its approval of $2.6 million appropriation for fiscal year 1974-75."

Many of the attendants in the courses are volunteers who receive no money for their time or services. OEMS pays for all text books and instructional materials for attendants in the training courses. They also pay the registration fee for volunteers. In most other states, attendants are required to pay their own expenses.

to begin this fall. By the end of September, more than 1300 ambulance attendants will be certified. OEMS hopes that 2400 will have been certified by the end of 1974.

The N. C. Highway Patrol is also working toward certifying all patrolmen as EMT's. A concentrated three-week program is scheduled to begin in September for 27 highway patrolmen—three members from each of the nine troops across the state. The patrolmen will then devise training programs for the remainder of the patrol.

According to James O. Page, Chief of the Office of Emergency Medical Services (OEMS), 200 EMT classes will be funded for fiscal year 1974-75. He said, "The General Assembly has pumped life into the program with its approval of $2.6 million appropriation for fiscal year 1974-75."

Many of the attendants in the courses are volunteers who receive no money for their time or services. OEMS pays for all text books and instructional materials for attendants in the training courses. They also pay the registration fee for volunteers. In most other states, attendants are required to pay their own expenses.

In the communications area, OEMS and several of the state's telephone companies are working with local officials to explore and develop the "911" telephone system for reporting emergencies. By dialing this number, citizens in need of emergency fire, police or medical services could call one central number for aid. The person answering the phone, whether it be located in the county, region, or statewide, would put the citizen in contact with the type of emergency service needed. Durham and Newland are the only two towns in North Carolina which have the "911" system in operation.

OEMS is currently working on a film and brochures which will introduce "911" to communities throughout the state. Development of the system is left up to local governments. "OEMS will do everything possible to help communities in North Carolina plan and implement this new system," said Page. "Our office will try to locate funds for interested communities who do not have funds available," he continued. The "911" system must be coordinated with local telephone companies.

Rowan Tech Offers Course On OSHA

Rowan Technical Institute has scheduled an evening course entitled "Safety and Health" that will examine the Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970 (OSHA) for the benefit of personnel managers, safety supervisors and others in industrial safety responsibilities.

The class will examine the purpose and scope of OSHA regulations and the organization of state and federal safety and health agencies including the National Institute of Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH). Detailed analysis of the regulations will cover these subject areas: walking and working surfaces, means of egress, general environmental controls, medical and first aid, and fire protection.

Classes will be held on Mondays and Wednesdays from 8-11 p.m. during the fall quarter beginning September 9. Cost for the course is $2.50 per credit hour, plus textbook.

POWER LINE

Direct answers to the questions most often asked about Duke Power and your electric service.

Q Since Duke Power is a monopoly, why do you have to advertise?

A We feel we have an obligation to keep our customers informed about what we are doing. And you have a right to know.

We want you to understand why we have to do certain things, because without your understanding it would be very difficult for us to fulfill our legal responsibility—to provide reliable electric service to you and the million other families and businesses who depend on us.

The fact that a utility company is a monopoly has nothing to do with its need to communicate with its customers. Being the only electric utility in our service area lets us produce and deliver electricity to you at the lowest possible cost—without duplication of expensive generating equipment, transmission lines and highly skilled workers.

Q Doesn't Duke Power's advertising cause the cost of electricity to go up?

A It could, if we let it. But the small amount of advertising we do is the most economical way to communicate with our many customers in the Carolinas.

For example, if you're an average residential customer, the cost of our advertising in 1973 was included in your electric bill at about two cents a month.

Misunderstanding of our activities, on the other hand, could cause delays in necessary projects. The delays could affect our ability to serve you, and also push electric rates even higher.

Q Why doesn't Duke Power settle that strike at the Brookside Mine, instead of raising its rates to pay for more expensive coal?

A The United Mine Workers' strike at the Brookside Mine has had little effect on the cost of coal used by Duke Power.

At the time the strike began, Brookside produced only about three per cent of Duke Power's coal. This loss has been offset by moving scarce mining equipment from Brookside to other company-owned mines—allowing them to increase their output.

Although the Brookside Mine is not producing, the coal is still there. It may someday be of even greater benefit to you.

Q My last power bill showed that I was charged .2686 cents per kilowatt-hour as a "coal cost adjustment charge." If the price of coal goes down, will I receive the benefit of the lower cost?

A Yes. The "coal cost adjustment charge" works both ways. Bills are adjusted each month by the amount the cost of coal varies above or below the base price established by the regulatory agencies in December, 1973.

Q Where does Duke Power buy nuclear fuel?

A In the United States, uranium is mined and made into fuel pellets by private companies. The only part of nuclear fuel processing still controlled by the government is "enrichment", which increases the percentage of usable fuel in the pellets. The Atomic Energy Commission is legally required to earn a profit on this process, to assure that utilities such as Duke Power are not subsidized by the taxpayers.

Q Can existing coal-fired power plants be converted to nuclear plants?

A Coal-fired plants operate at much higher steam temperatures and pressures than nuclear plants, so it's not practical to convert. Besides, no coal-fired power plant or any other industrial facility could meet the very strict safety standards required in the design and construction of a nuclear power plant.

Do you have a question about Duke Power or your electric service? We'll be pleased to answer it. Just call your local Duke Power office...or write to Duke Power, Public Information, P.O. Box 2178, Charlotte, N.C. 28242.

200 Lb. Catch

Shown in this picture is a portion of a 200 pound catch landed by several local men in the Gulf Stream off South Carolina last Wednesday. The catch included Snappers, Triggerfish and Groupers. Hauling in this fine mess of fish were Sam Howell, Bob Boles, Bob Cook, Gary Edwards and Dicky Groce.

State Receives Funds For Study-Employment

More than $3.1 million has been awarded to post-secondary education institutions in the eight states of HEW Region IV for the support of programs giving students an opportunity to alternate periods of full-time academic study with full-time employment. Regional Director Frank J. Groschelle has announced.

Dr. Groschelle said the awards in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, and Tennessee, are part of nearly $11 million in grants made to 371 colleges and universities across the nation. Under the program, colleges contract with outside agencies to hire full-time students at the prevailing wage rates. The work closely relates to the student's major field of study. Dr. Groschelle pointed out this provides financial support for the student as well as career experience. The time spent working, such as a semester, is matched by equal time in the classroom.

Consideration was given to higher education institutions serving large numbers of minorities, veterans, women and the handicapped in making the grant selections.

The grants are awarded to institutions primarily for planning, implementing, and expanding cooperative education programs. In a few instances, the funds may be used for training personnel and for applicable research.

Expenditures of these federal funds may be used for personnel, travel and necessary materials. No part of the funds may be used for student salaries and no programs may receive federal support for more than three years.

The awards were made under the Office of Education's Cooperative Education Program. A total of 483 institutions have received funds for this program authorized under the amended Higher Education Act of 1965.

States and the total amount of their funds include:
Alabama -- $456,000
Florida -- $660,000
Georgia -- $332,000
Kentucky -- $222,000
Mississippi -- $225,000
North Carolina -- $625,000
South Carolina -- $306,000
Tennessee -- $360,000

UNDERSTANDING MENTAL HEALTH

Bertram S. Brown, M.D., Director National Institute of Mental Health

Coming Developments

There is a very strong movement in our society toward more equal health care for every citizen. And that includes mental health care.

Such developments as Health Maintenance Organizations (HMOs), an experimental program already enacted into law, and national health insurance—surely coming in some form—will undoubtedly help bring about a significant increase in demand for mental health services.

Mental health workers in both public and private sectors of our Nation are going to be challenged by a greater volume of human need than ever before.

In the public sector it is anticipated that the Federal Government will have provided partial funding for the establishment of 626 community mental health centers when the program ends this year. Additional centers may be financed by States and localities without Federal financial aid, which will be a further expansion of the public sector.

Actually, the line is not always sharply drawn between private and public sectors. Mental health care is provided in a variety of settings and by several types of organizations, some of which receive funds from both public and private sources.

The coming developments will add new emphasis to some already major national mental health problems, such as:

- Meeting the needs of emotionally disturbed and mentally retarded children and adolescents and their families.
- Meeting the mental health needs of the poor, the chronically ill, and the aged.
- Making major impact on the treatment of hard drug addicts, alcoholics, delinquents and criminals, and the "criminally insane."

Public understanding and support are needed as we move to meet the challenges of new developments such as the HMOs and some form of national health insurance which is expected to become law.

We must prepare for the new conditions, meet them as they arrive, and improve and extend our delivery system until it provides quality mental health care for all who need it.

Mental Health and Happiness

Mental health is constant happiness. True or false? That was one of the items in a test of mental health knowledge. You might suppose everyone would know that a sensitive, mature person often experiences unhappiness, just as he may occasionally feel tension, anxiety, or grief.

Of 5,000 people tested, however, nearly 1 in 5 checked the statement as "True." The question is an intriguing one. It deserves further examination.

We all know people who seem to be miserable and unhappy when the circumstances of their lives are not all that bad. They cope with their problems in self-defeating ways. They have distorted perceptions of reality which cause them to overlook or react improperly to opportunities.

These are the people who could be reasonably happy most of the time, as others are whose lot in life is the same.

The key word is "circumstances." There are situations in which desperate unhappiness is a sign of positive mental health. What could be expected of prisoners in the notorious death camps of Nazi Germany during World War II? Not constant happiness.

Yet it is often those situations of extreme hardship that really test—and sometimes ultimately strengthen—one's mental health. It has been said that, even in the worst circumstances, it is never necessary to be desperately unhappy for more than a brief time.

You won't be happy in the usual sense, but you may work out a courageous acceptance of things as they are and refuse to be beaten in spirit though you may be beaten by every other measure.

W. E. Henley meant something like that when he wrote in his memorable Invictus: "In the fell clutch of circumstance I have not winced nor cried aloud; under the bludgeonings of chance my head is bloody but unbowed."

Most of us are spared experiences such as the Nazi death camps and whatever horrors Henley had in mind when he wrote Invictus. Still, it isn't easy to maintain the highest level of positive mental health amid all the turmoil and frustrations of our modern times.

A colleague of mine recently put it rather eloquently, I thought, when he simply said: "It is my philosophy of life that I will always try to have more good days than bad days."

Fires

Fire alarms answered in Davie County during the past week include:

August 29, around 6:45 p.m., the William R. Davie Fire Department answered a call to the Barnes Poeple's Farm, a brush fire.

August 26, around 3:30 a.m., the Mocksville Fire Department answered a call to the Lynn Haven Nursing Home, trash on fire.

August 30, around 4:33 p.m., the Jerusalem Fire Department answered a call to the Ponzio Spillman, a barn was on fire.

TV To Towels

Consumers Dictate New Ideas

Leaving well enough alone isn't always a good idea. What was "well enough" for yesterday's lifestyles and expectations can be sorely inadequate for today.

That's why even the most successful companies employ research and engineering staffs to find out what consumers want and how those new needs may be met.

The television industry is a good example. While the first TV sets developed for consumer use had only seven and ten inch pictures, researchers went to work and soon larger screens came on the market. (One new set projects a giant color picture measuring more than four by five feet.)

The evolution of household paper products is another good case in point. Paper towels have been around since 1910, according to the Home Service Center at the Scott Paper Company, PA. A schoolteacher in Chester, PA, guessed that one of the reasons so many of her second grade students had colds might be the common towel they were using to wipe their hands. She cut up some clean paper she had so that each student could have his own disposable towel. The Scott brothers heard about it and the paper towel was born.

But today's paper towels have little in common with those developed in 1910. They're softer, stronger, and thicker. Women are making more frequent use of them for heavy-duty household cleaning jobs. Years ago, worn out 100% cotton sheets and tee shirts made good rags. Today's synthetic permanent press fabrics don't have the needed absorbency. So paper towels have been reformulated to fill the gap.

Change in usage isn't the only reason for rethinking a tried and true product. Sometimes improvements are made solely for convenience. For example, Scott Paper Company's market research indicated that consumers often had problems getting a roll of toilet tissue started. The solution: a starter tab on each roll to make it simple to begin.

As consumers change their ways of life, the products they use change to keep pace. Companies who know this remain successful year in year out. Those who let their products rest on past acceptance soon become memories of the past themselves.

tax tip of the week

Joyce Scott

Henrietta is the widowed mother and sole support of a three-year old boy. Because Henrietta holds down a full-time job, she must pay a baby-sitter to take care of her son while she is working. Can Henrietta deduct this cost?

Henrietta should file her return as an Unmarried Head of Household (possibly as a surviving widow with dependent child) claiming $750 exemption for herself and $750 for her son. She may also deduct, as an itemized deduction, the baby-sitting fees, up to $400 a month ($4800 a year) child care expense since her child is her dependent and is under 15 years of age. However, her adjusted gross income must not exceed $18,000, or this deduction must be reduced. If child care is outside the home, expenses are limited to $200 monthly for one child, $300 for two, and a maximum of $400 for three children or more. The IRS has greatly liberalized child care deductions for taxable years beginning in 1972. Payments made to relatives or dependent household members may not be included in the computation of this deduction.

RESOLUTION FIXING DATE FOR HEARING ON PETITION TO CLOSE AND ABANDON A PORTION OF AN UNPAVED SERVICE ROAD AND NOTICE TO ALL PERSONS INTERESTED IN THE CLOSING THEREOF

WHEREAS, on the 11 day of July, 1974, a petition was filed with the Board of Commissioners of the County of Davie, North Carolina, to close a portion of an opened but dedicated service road in Bermuda Run Subdivision as hereinbelow described; and it appearing from said petition therein designated is entitled to a hearing as provided by Section 153-A - 241 of the General Statutes of North Carolina.

NOW, THEREFORE, be it resolved by the Board of Commissioners of the County of Davie, North Carolina as follows:

(1) That the date and hour fixed for the hearing on the petition above referred to be and the same is hereby set for the 16 day of Sept, 1974, at seven o'clock, P.M., in the Commissioners office in the City of Mocksville, North Carolina.

(2) That all persons, firms or corporations whose interest would be adversely affected by the closing of said portion of unopened service road, more particularly described as follows:

That portion beginning at its intersection with U.S. Highway 158 and running thence in a southerly direction with the northern margin of Bermuda Drive, said road being unopened, but bearing a designation of "C-1."

or any person, firm or corporation otherwise interested in the closing be and they are hereby notified to appear before the Board of Commissioners of the County of Davie, at seven o'clock, P.M. in the Commissioners Office of the Court House in the City of Mocksville, North Carolina, and show cause, if any they have, why an order should not be entered closing the above designated portion of unopened service road.

(3) That the petitioner in this cause be and it is hereby directed to publish this resolution in the Davie County Enterprise-Record a newspaper in the County of Davie, State of North Carolina, once every week for four successive weeks preceding the date herein fixed for the hearing on the petition filed in this cause; to send a copy hereof by registered or certified mail to all owners of property adjoining the street as shown on the Davie County tax records; to send a letter to all property owners other than petitioner if any with property adjoining the street to be closed and abandoned stating date and time for the hearing before the Public Works Committee; and to post notice of the closing and public hearing in at least two prominent places along said street proposed to be closed. This the 5 day of Aug., 1974.

When the village of Boston was established in 1630, the colonists had to cut down a forest that provided cover for robbers preying on travelers.

The United States uses more wood per capita than any other nation, for a total of about 13 billion cubic feet a year, and demand is expected to double by the year 2000.

For America's first 300 years, the eastern white pine was its leading timber tree.

READING PROBLEMS

Are we becoming a nation of illiterates? asks the April Reader's Digest. Federal studies have found that seven million school youths have severe reading problems, while a Louis Harris survey says that nearly 19 million Americans over 16 have trouble coping with such minimal measures of literacy as application forms. And a West Coast utility relates that of the tens of thousands of high school graduates it interviews annually, 40 percent can't write or read at the 8th-grade level.

Cards Of Thanks

BOOE
The family of the late Aaron Jack Booe wishes to express our thanks and appreciation for the many cards and prayers extended to him during his long illness. Each prayer, card and visit while he was in the hospital or at home showed the interest of his many friends. We would also like to extend our sincere gratitude for the many flowers, for the food and for the many words of comfort received at the death of our beloved husband and father. May God richly bless each and everyone of you is our most sincere prayer.
Mrs. Jack Booe and family

HOFFMAN
I would like to express my sincere appreciation to my friends in the Davie County area for the many cards, letters and especially your prayers during my confinement at Duke Hospital. I appreciate your concern and thoughtfulness more than words can say. May God bless each of you in a special way.
Mrs. Kenneth (Peggy) Hoffman

LONG, SHORT
The average length of the freeze-free season has a broad range across North Carolina. It is longest, at 280 days, on the eastern-most coastal regions of Dare and Hyde counties. It is shortest, at 160 days, in the high, northwestern area that encompasses parts of Avery, Watauga and Ashe counties. Most of the state has a freeze-free season of from 200 to 220 days.

Davie Voters Approve Water Bonds

Davie County voters, in a very tight vote Tuesday, approved the special bond referendum authorizing $3,860,000 water bonds for the county of Davie for the construction of a waterworks system for the county. With only 2026 for the 10,915 registered voters voting, 1143 voted "yes" and 883 voted "no."

The vote among the 12 precincts was evenly divided with six voting in the majority "yes" and six "no."

Precincts voting in favor of the issue included Cooleemee, Fulton, Jerusalem, East Shady Grove, West Shady Grove and Smith Grove. The Cooleemee precinct put the vote across with a whopping majority of 324 "yes" and only 35 "no."

Precincts voting against the issue included North and South Mocksville, North Calahaln, South Calahaln, Clarksville, and Farmington. North Mocksville voted 210 "no" to 94 "yes", with the vote in South Mocksville being 180 "no" and 102 "yes."

According to the proposal as set forth by the Davie County Board of Commissioners, this referendum provides the financial guarantee the Farmer's Home Administration requires for the loan to help build the water system. The commissioners assured that taxes, authorized by the vote Tuesday, would be levied only in years that fees from the sale of water did not produce enough revenue to pay the costs of operating the system and make payments on the loan.

The total cost of the county-wide water system will amount to $5,521,500. Other funds in the total cost will be $1,287,500 from the state, $300,000 from the Appalachian Regional Commission, and $74,000 from the applicants wishing to use the system.

Besides getting the approval of the voters, an estimated 3,400 applicants to the proposed system are needed to assure the FHA loan can be paid off in 40 years at five percent interest.

At this time, roughly one third of the required number of applicants to the proposed system have come in. County officials say that they expect the majority of people wanting the water service to come in after the election.

DAVIE COUNTY ENTERPRISE RECORD

$6.00 PER YEAR

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 12, 1974

SINGLE COPY 15 CENTS

Plans Are Announced For Local United Way Campaign Fund Drive

The Davie County United Way campaign will officially begin this year with a breakfast for all committee chairmen and board of directors members at C's Restaurant at 6:00 a.m. on September 28.

This year's goal is $38 thousand dollars, up $8,000 over last year's goal of $30,000, according to Charles Dunn, president of the Davie County United Way. This year's campaign will last throughout the month of October.

There will be no door-to-door campaign this year. Instead, a major effort will be made to contact people through their businesses and civic organizations, with one United Way director for each industry or organization.

Major industries in the area will be asked to donate one dollar per employee with each individual employee asked to give one hour's pay per month for a year or one day's pay, according to Mrs. Bill

Foster, United Appeal Chariman.

Civic Clubs will be asked to donate $100 or what ever they can pay from fund raising projects. All businesses in the county will be contacted for donations and the ministers will be asked to announce the campaign in church.

All state and federal employees, including teachers, and all town employees will be contacted.

Employers of large numbers of Davie County people working outside the county will be contacted to ask that money by Davie County employees be sent back to their county.

Rainfall

Rainfall of around two inches fell on Davie County Friday and Saturday of last week and pushed the week's total rainfall to 1.13 inches. This brought the creeks and rivers out of their banks once again.

Escapes Captured

Two inmates escaped September 4th from the local Department of Corrections. They were identified as Richard Cope Hutchins and Bill Dowell. They were arrested around 5 a. m. Thursday morning, Sept 5 in Cooleemee and returned to the local unit.

New Attendance Policy Set At Davie High School

A new policy has been adopted by the Davie County Board of Education in regard to attendance at Davie County High School.

It was one various matters acted on during last week's session. School superintendent James Everidge said the policy is that a student must attend a minimum of 75 days each semester if the student is to receive credit for any given class. This means a student cannot miss more than a maximum of 15 days per semester, unless there are extenuating circumstances and then only on an individual basis.

Everidge said the new policy is to encourage regular school attendance, and it gives the responsibility to the individual student and his or her parents.

The new attendance policy was developed in conjunction with the high school principal and faculty.

The board also approved principals' recommendations concerning elementary athletics, patterned basically after state regulations with some minor modifications.

The approved recommendations include beginning elementary athletics with basketball during the winter months followed possibly by track during the spring.

The board considered a proposal from the Mocksville Recreation Commission which is seeking to have a gate erected on Cemetery Street. The street leads to Rich Park, and also to Mocksville Elementary School. The commission wants the gate erected, and for it to be closed nightly from 11 o'clock until 7 o'clock the next morning.

The board of education agreed with the proposal, but with three stipulations. These stipulations are that the town must take legal steps necessary to have the gate erected, that the Mocksville Fire Department continue to protect the school property, and that the Mocksville Police Department continue to provide protection in the area during the time the gate will be closed.

The board decided that schools will continue to operate on the present time schedule even if clocks are changed during the winter months. Schools will continue to operate from 8:40 a.m. til 3:20 p.m. for high school students, and 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. for elementary students.

Mrs. Harry Case and Nelson Graham were appointed to the advisory committee to Mocksville Elementary School. Prior to the business session, board members met at Davie High School for lunch and then inspected new vocational additions and improvements made during the summer at that time.

Board members then toured three other schools to inspect building projects and summer maintenance programs. These were at Cooleemee, Shady Grove and William R. Davie elementary schools.

Bloodmobile

The Bloodmobile will be in Mocksville Friday, September 13, at the First Presbyterian Church on South Main Street from 9:30 a. m. to 3:30 p. m. This visit will be the beginning of a new year. Davie County is 200 pints below replacement quota at this time. Since the Bloodmobile is based on the replacement program and all blood used in the County must be replaced. All residents are urged to give a pint of blood to help replenish our supply.

School Bus Hits Pole

A Davie County school bus hit a utility pole in an accident on Church Street Friday around 4 p. m.

Mocksville Policeman A. D. Adams said that the driver, Perry Dean Laird, 16, of Mocksville Rt. 2 told him that his foot slipped off the brakes while slowing down and the bus swerved to the right and hit a utility pole.

Damage was estimated at $150 to the 1966 Chevrolet bus and $150 to the utility pole.

There were no injuries and no charges.

Old Fashioned Bargain Days

A number of Mocksville merchants are joining together in an "Old Fashioned Bargain Days" promotion next week.

Employees of some of the participating stores will dress in "old-timey" clothes during the event set for Thursday, Friday and Saturday, September 19, 20 and 21.

Stores participating in this event include: Belks, Cato's, Davie Jewelers, The Discount House, Mocksville Furniture, B. C. Moores, Rintz 5 Cent to $5 Store, Merrell Furniture, and Kentucky Fried Chicken. Special bargains to be offered will appear in next week's issue.

Mrs. Ostine West

Mrs. Ostine West To Receive National Association Award

Mrs. Ostine W. West, home economics extension agent, Davie County, has been selected to receive an award from the National Association of Extension Home Economists, Sept. 26.

Mrs. West and four other Tar Heel home economics extension agents will be given Distinguished service awards at a Recognition Dinner during the national meeting of Extension Agents, held in Minneapolis, Minnesota.

The distinguished service awards are made annually to women who have worked in Extension at least 10 years and who have made valuable contributions during their work.

Mrs. West, a native of Cleveland County, attended Belwood High School. She later graduated from Winthrop College, Rock Hill S. C.

She has worked in Davie, Mecklenburg and Burke Counties as an Extension agent, totaling 19 years of service.

Mrs. West, is a member of the district, state and national Associations of Extension Home Economists, North Carolina and American Home Economics Associations, and Epsilon Sigma Phi, extension honorary fraternity.

She is married to Luther West, a dairy farmer. They have three children, L. W. West, Jr., Boyd; and Mrs. DeEtta Thomas.

'Neat' Thief Robs Crescent

A "neat" thief broke in the Mocksville office of the Crescent Electric Membership Corporation over the weekend and took $200.

Entry was made by breaking a window, but before leaving, the shattered glass was cleaned-up.

Cadillac Stolen Again

For the second time in the past two or three weeks, the Cadillac of Jerry Hendrix of Wilkesboro Street was stolen. This time it was taken Sunday night from his residence.

The first time the key was reportedly left in the switch and the car was found in a field near the Fran Ray Rest Home which is in back of the Davie County Hospital.

This time the key was reportedly left on the dashboard and the car was found near the old horse show arena, also located to the back of the hospital, in the same general vicinity where it was located before. This time the car stuck in a ditch and suffered some damage as it did before.

The car was found Monday morning by the Mocksville Police Department which is investigating.

Hank Van Hoy

New Attorney Joins Martin & Martin Firm

The law firm of Martin and Martin, Mocksville, North Carolina, is pleased to announce the association with them of Henry (Hank) Price Van Hoy, II, age 25, into the practice of law.

Van Hoy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harper A. Van Hoy of Union Grove, North Carolina, and is married to the former Eva Pauline Alexander, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Atwell Alexander of Stony Point, North Carolina.

Van Hoy completed his undergraduate studies at the University of North Carolina, graduating with an A. B. degree in political science in 1971. He attended the University of North Carolina School of Law, graduating with the J. D. degree in 1974.

The Van Hoy's presently reside at 848 Poplar Street, Mocksville, North Carolina.

Bookmobile

The new bookmobile has finally arrived at the Public Library. Eight months in the making, the Carolina blue bookmobile should be a welcome sight for Davie residents for many years to come. Anyone who received service from the old museum piece bookmobile will immediately notice the improvements. Mrs. Barbara Clontz (shown here loading the new unit with Librarian David Fergusson) and Mrs. Rosalyn Weekly have done a very fine job with the old Bookmobile, but, everyone at the library feels the new one arrived just in time. Almost $18,000 of the total cost of approximately $19,000 was paid out of revenue sharing funds. The new unit was custom made by the Gerstenslager Company of Wooster, Ohio and features controlled temperature air conditioning and heating for the comfort of all users. It also has more natural lighting than the old unit, and has power steering and automatic transmission, needed safety features. Mr. Fergusson apologizes for any inconvenience that the change over may have caused users, and promises that the improved service will start immediately. (Photos by Barringer)

Coming Next Week To Mocksville "Old Fashioned" Bargain Days

September Is "Work For The Blind" Month

"Whereas, North Carolina has a blind population in excess of 15,000 with some 100 new blind people each month; and
 "Whereas, sight is a cherished endowment from God that makes possible for us to behold the manifold beauties of our world and to serve humanity in a stewardship of useful industry as intended by the Creator; and
 "Whereas, it is proper and appropriate that we support the undertaking of public and private agencies dedicated to preservation of sight, prevention and amelioration of blindness, restoration of vision, and assist blind people generally in the development of self-sufficiency and self-support skills;
 With these words Gov. James proclaimed September "Sight Conservation and Work for the Blind" month. A three-day meeting in Raleigh last week brought together volunteers and professionals involved in all phases of help for the blind. One of the major services to the blinds all over the state is that of the division of State Library's providing reading material to more than 9,000 visually handicapped in North Carolina. One blind patron called the service the "difference between living and merely existing." Every day, thousands of talking books-on every subject imaginable-leave the Special Services Building of the North Carolina State Library on their way to the mailboxes of eagerly waiting readers. When the package arrives, the blind reader removes the record, activated the talking book machine, and sits contentedly listening to his favorite book or magazine. The facility at 1314 Dale St. in Raleigh daily serves thousands of readers with its multitude of services, which include talking books and magazines, books on cassette tapes, braille books and large-type books-all provided by mail at no cost to the reader or user. The major service is the talking book branch, serving approximately 8,000 of the 15,000 legally blind in North Carolina. "It's just like the public library," one observer commented, "except these books are on records." And books come by way of the mailbox instead of a trip to the local library. The talking book collection is huge, containing everything except textbooks or technical material, a total of about 5,000 titles in 65,000 containers. Borrowers may specify what titles they desire, or specially trained librarians will choose from an indicated field of interest such as "mystery" or "historical fiction" or "science fiction" or "serious non-fiction". The mailing labels, color-coded for the sighted staff, carry both braille and printed labels. There is no wrapping or addressing for the blind reader-when he's ready to return the talking book, he simply slips the pre-addressed card from the slot on the front and turns it over. A function of the library of Congress, both the talking book machines and the talking books are furnished to qualified readers free of cost and free of postage. They're even repaired free of charge by the Telephone Pioneers of America, utilizing volunteer help. Battery operated machines serve homes with-out electricity. These services to the blind began in 1931 when President Hoover signed the act making the act the service to the blind nationwide. Since then, the act has been amended to delete the word "adult," thereby permitting service to children as well. In 1966 Congress enacted laws extending the service to all persons unable to read conventional printed materials because of physical or visual limitations, which included paralyzed individuals, those in iron lungs, or other medical devices, amputees, etc. In addition to talking books, magazines are provided on cassettes with READERS DIGEST and NEWSWEEK probably the most popular. Other magazines selections run the gamut from NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC to JACK and JILL and RANGER RICK for the children. And the library offers many full-length books in braille for children, as well as the talking books. Also offered are "twin-vision" books for a sighted parent and a blind child or vice-versa, which feature braille and print on facing pages, some with raised illustrations, and others with a "scratch and sniff" feature, allowing the child to sample odors, too. Most handicapped youngsters are served too, in the Special Service Section. These children can be supplied with a talking book together with the identical book. These books are also useful for the dyslexic child. And the machines have variable speeds-to slow down for the mentally handicapped or hard of hearing, or to accelerate for those who wish to "read" faster. Amid the tumble of talking and braille containers returned each morning to the Dale Street Library are many hours of pleasure for sightless readers. The aim of the staff and volunteers is "for every book we have returned in the morning, we mail out another in the afternoon"-and thus the State Library daily provides the difference between living and merely existing" for thousands of North Carolinians.

Go slowly to the entertainment of thy friends, but quickly to their misfortunes.

Tar Heel Kitchen

Hawaiian Apple Pie
 1 1/2 cups (12 oz. can) pineapple juice
 3/4 cup sugar
 7 medium cooking apples, pared, cored, and cut in wedges (7 cups)
 3 tablespoons cornstarch
 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1 9-inch baked pastry shell

Mix and sift flour, salt, baking soda and cinnamon. Add rolled oats, sugar, shortening, egg, vanilla; beat until smooth, about 2 minutes. Press half of dough in bottom of greased 9" square baking pan. Sprinkle pecans over dough. Arrange apple slices over pecans. Roll remaining dough between 2 sheets of waxed paper to form 9" square. Remove top sheet of waxed paper; place dough over filling. Remove other sheet of waxed paper. Press lightly around edges. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes. When cool, sprinkle with confectioner's sugar. Cut in bars. Yields 18 bars. NOTE: This recipe was tested and was tasty, but would have been more tender if they had been cooked about 5 minutes in a small amount of water and lightly sweetened to taste.

Cooleemee Senior Citizens Meet

The Cooleemee Senior Citizens Club held their regular meeting on Monday morning in the Fellowship Hall of the First Baptist Church with 51 persons including six visitors and four new members, attending. The Rev. C. George Sherrill, pastor of Liberty United Methodist Church presented a most inspiring devotional message. The four new members who were welcomed into the club were Ms. Charlotte Boger, Frank Wyatt, Ms. Pearl Jones and George Ezzard. A cookout is being planned for the next meeting on September 23 in the church fellowship hall at 10 a. m. The newly elected officers will also be installed at this meeting. They are: Fred Murphy, president; Sidney Benson, vice president; Ms. Ethel Gibson, secretary; Ms. Albert Wagner, assistant secretary; William Owens, treasurer and Mrs. Romie Gregory, chaplain.

Mobile Communications Center Reactivated

In a joint statement released last week by Secretary for the Department of Correction, David L. Jones, and Attorney General James Carson, it was announced that a highly sophisticated mobile communications center has been reactivated for use by all local police and sheriff departments as well as criminal justice agencies on the state level for a variety of activities ranging from search operations to riot control, civil disturbances, and certain natural disasters which involve criminal activities.

Cooleemee

Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Trexler returned home Monday after a weeks vacation at Carolina Beach.

Mrs. Kenneth Holt underwent surgery Monday morning at Cabarrus Hospital, Concord after being admitted on Sunday.

Norman Canupp is recovering nicely in the Intensive Care Unit of Rowan Memorial Hospital after undergoing surgery Monday morning. He is expected to be moved on the floor in a couple days.

Robert Forest of Needmore Road continues to undergo treatment at Rowan Memorial Hospital where he has been a patient for more than a week.

Tommy Adams entered Rowan Memorial Hospital Monday where he is expected to undergo surgery.

Mrs. Eula Hoffman of North Cooleemee entered Smyth County Community Hospital in Maryland, Virginia Sunday. She is expected to have surgery in the near future.

Marvin Ridenhour of the Point Road returned home from Rowan Memorial Hospital Saturday after two weeks of treatment.

The mobile communications center, funded in 1971 to the former Office of Correction, was designed to provide statewide communications between local and state criminal justice facilities during emergency situations. While the van was not used to its full capacity, the center will soon have the capability to monitor 22 radio frequencies for such occasions. Made available to these agencies through the Secretary of Correction, the mobile van will be used for the following purposes:

Davie Occupational Director To Attend Special Seminar

Davie County Schools' occupational education director, guidance supervisor, and public information officer will attend a "People and Resources" Seminar Sept. 18 at Wilkesboro. The seminar is being sponsored jointly by the Department of Public Instruction's Occupational Education, Pupil Personnel Services, and Public Information divisions and the State Advisory Council on Vocational Education in each of the State's eight education districts. The program for the one-day seminar will focus on better methods of communicating within the school unit and with the community. Those participating will discuss such topics as internal communication, news releases, advisory councils, the local plan for occupational education, and community involvement in planning educational programs.

- (1) Department of Correction - Quell institutional disturbances within the department. Use for search operations to locate and apprehend escapes, absconders, and runaways.
- (2) Attorney General's Office and Local Chiefs of Police and Sheriffs - Search operation to apprehend suspects. Search operations to apprehend escapees. Riot control. Civil disturbances and demonstrations. Natural disasters involving corollary criminal activity, e. g. looting, vandalism, etc.
- (3) Use in training programs for both Department of Correction and state and local law enforcement officials in proper use of mobile Command Post in search operations and other related activities.
- (4) Official use by Governor of North Carolina in connection with any one of the law enforcement related activities cited above.
- (5) Official use by Secretary of Correction and Directors for the Division of Prisons, Youth Development, or Adult Probation and Parole in the course of departmental business when not needed for those purposes listed above.

"With full implementation of this communications van," Secretary Jones said, "law enforcement people will now have a statewide communications system available immediately which should greatly assist them in everything from catching criminals to keeping peace in the community. At the same time, the taxpayer can be assured that this van will now be put to full use, shared by all law enforcement agencies across the state, not just used by a select few in Raleigh."

MRS. SAM JAY SHEETS
..... was Nancy Carol Shore

Ceremony Sunday At Blaise Baptist Unites Couple

Miss Nancy Shore and Sam Jay Sheets were married Sunday September 8, at 3:00 in Blaise Baptist Church. Rev. A. C. Cheshire, pastor of the church, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Shore of Route 1, Mocksville, is a graduate of Davie County High School and Salisbury Business College. She is presently employed as a secretary with Hanes Knitwear in Advance.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Sheets of Miller's Creek, North Carolina. He is a graduate of West Wilkes High School and is employed as Produce Manager at Lowe's Food Store in Mocksville.

The couple pledged their vows in a lovely setting of candelabra with lighted cathedral tapers in the midst of palms. Alter vases held arrangements of white mums and fern.

The white satin kneeling bench was used for the benediction. White ribbon and wedding bells marked the family pews.

Nuptial music was rendered by Jimmy Wilson, organist and Joe Long, vocalist, who sang "One Hand, One Heart" and the "Wedding Prayer".

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a formal gown of white peau de soie and aleon lace. The gown was fashioned with a Victorian neckline, overlaid with hand cut lace, beaded with seed pearls. The fitted sleeves were appliqued with hand cut lace. The a-line skirt with dual rows of hand cut lace fell from the empire line to the hem of each side of the front skirt, which extended into a chapel train with applique lace and bordered all the way around with hand cut scalloped lace. Her shoulder length veil of illusion was attached to a lace camelot cap embroidered with pearls. She carried a prayer book covered in satin and lace, topped with a pink throated orchid and tube roses accented with bridal ribbons.

Mrs. Timothy Allen, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a pink floor length dress of flocked crepe and a pink picture hat with pink ribbon streamers. She carried a basket of aqua and pink carnations and baby's breath with pink streamers.

Bridesmaids were Miss Jane Shore, cousin of the bride, and Miss Judy Cregar of Mocksville. Child attendant was Elizabeth Key, niece of the groom. They were outfitted in dresses and hats like that of the matron of honor in the color of aqua. Their flower baskets were identical to the honor attendant's.

The groom chose his father as best man. Ushers were James Hyatt of Clemmons and Timothy Allen of Mocksville, brother-in-law of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Shore chose a dress of pink polyester with matching jacket and a corsage of white carnations. Mrs. Sheets wore a dress of aqua polyester with matching jacket and corsage of white carnations.

Mary Key, niece of the groom, presided at the guest register.

Following the ceremony, the bridal couple, their parents and attendants paused in the vestibule of the church to greet their guest.

After a wedding trip to the mountains, the couple will be at home on Sping Street in Mocksville. For traveling, the bride chose a long sleeve floral dress and lifted her orchid from her prayer book.

New Dance Classes Begin

Mrs. Donald L. Weinhold, Jr. will open the Pat Weinhold's Dance Classes at the Mocksville Moose Lodge.

Mrs. Weinhold is owner, director and instructor of the Rowan Dance Academy in Salisbury. She has taught at the Salisbury School of Dance, the Salisbury Recreation Department, Wingate's School of Dance in Washington, D.C. and served as assistant director of the Salisbury Civic Ballet Company. She has also been involved with musicals at Boyden High School and had roles in musicals while a student at Catawba College.

Pat Weinhold's Dance Classes will offer instruction in ballet using the Russian Vaganova method, tap and jazz tap and acrobatics. The age limit is 4 years and up. Fall classes begin Oct. 1, 1974.

Bridal Couple Honored

Miss Connie Chunn and her fiancé, Allen Nichols who will marry September 14, were honored with a cook-out Sunday afternoon at Fairchild's in Winston-Salem.

Guests for the occasion were Miss Mary Dalton, Robert Dalton, Miss Ann Tatum, and John Griffin. Hosts were Miss Anita Clement and David Dalton.

The couple was given an aztec rose fruit bowl for their new home.

Bridal Shower

Miss Chunn was again honored with a miscellaneous shower Friday night at the home of Mrs. Katie Arnold.

A color scheme of pink and green was used in the refreshment course and floral arrangements.

Hostesses were Mrs. Arnold, Miss Millie Clement and Miss Anita Clement.

Refreshments consisting of dainty sandwiches, nuts, mints, olives, cheese and lime punch were served to approximately twenty guests.

The bride-elect received many nice shower gifts.

Gospel Sing

There will be a Gospel Sing Saturday, September 21, beginning at 7 p.m. for the Worth Potts Cancer Fund at Cornatzer United Methodist Church, Route 3.

Featured will be the Courtney Echos and other groups.

This event will be sponsored by the East Davie Ruritan Club.

Vehicles In Collision

A one-car accident occurred Friday around 3:15 p. m. about five miles south of Mocksville on Rural Paved Road 1121 involving a 1973 Chevrolet.

Douglas Gray Overcash, 19, of Duke Street in Cooleemee, was driving the Chevrolet when he lost control on wet pavement in a left-hand curve and ran onto the right shoulder and through a pasture fence after being run off the road by an unknown vehicle, causing damage of $200.00.

There were no injuries and no charges in the accident according to Trooper W. D. Grooms, the investigating officer.

Bicyclist Injured

Charles David Weatherman, 18, of Route 1, Advance is in the intensive care ward of Forsyth Memorial Hospital after being struck by a pick-up truck while riding his bicycle Monday evening.

The accident occurred at 7:50 Monday evening about nine miles north of Mocksville on N. C. 801, one tenth of a mile north of Redland Road.

According to Trooper W. D. Grooms, the investigating officer, Robert Lawrence

Carlton, of Stadium Drive in Clemmons, was driving a 1966 pick-up truck south on N. C. 801 when he came up behind Weatherman, who was also traveling south.

Weatherman cut in front of the pick-up and both rider and bicycle were knocked down an embankment. Weatherman was taken to Forsyth Memorial Hospital with possible internal injuries and a broken leg. No charges were filed in the accident.

Farm Tips

By Dr. J. W. Pou
Agricultural Specialist
Wachovia Bank & Trust Co., N.A.

The trend towards a reduced number of harvests or primings of flue-cured tobacco continued in North Carolina this year as growers attempted to reduce labor costs and increase efficiency.

Where they once went over the field six to eight times in a season, picking one or two leaves per trip, some growers now do the complete job in four or five trips. A few have reduced the primings to three.

The ultimate would be once-over harvesting. This isn't practical so long as buyers want different grades of tobacco, believe North Carolina State University Extension tobacco specialists.

"We feel that three primings are the minimum a grower should use," said Dr. Bill Collins, N. C. State University tobacco specialist. "The optimum or best pattern of harvesting, we believe, is four or five primings."

Collins explains that there is a considerable difference in tobacco from the top of the plant and that from the bottom, and mid-stalk tobacco is different from the rest.

Export buyers still seem to prefer up-stalk tobacco that has more flavor and aroma, and other buyers purchase selectively to get the types of tobacco they need for blending.

"This suggests that there is still a need for multiple harvests," Collins said, "but not as many as most farmers formerly used when they were priming their tobacco six to eight times."

"We have found that the tobacco will hold in the field longer in some cases and that we can cure tobacco that we once thought couldn't be cured," Collins said. The effect of this has been to make the timing of removing a leaf from the stalk less critical than it once was.

Another factor is the tolerance of some varieties to certain diseases. Brown spot, for example, forces a grower to remove affected leaves quickly. Now, some varieties have tolerance to brown spot, and leaves will hold on the stalk for delayed harvesting.

The quick cleanup of tobacco fields following harvest is proving to be even more effective in reducing insects and diseases than anyone thought it would be.

The post-harvest cleanup practice is cited as one of the key factors in reducing disease losses to possibly the lowest point in modern production history.

F. A. Todd, N. C. State University tobacco disease specialist, says experience with the post-harvest program indicates that the savings may be as much as $200 an acre.

'Art On The Square' Set For September 21st

"Art On The Square" will be held again this year on September 21st from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. This show is being held in connection with the "Old Fashion Bargain Days" sales promotion and is sponsored by the Mocksville-Davie Chamber of Commerce and Merchants Association. Mrs. Emily Cartmell, local artist, will coordinate the show this year.

All artists in the county are urged to take part in this open air show.

"We would like to have a good showing by the children as well as the adults", said Mrs. Cartmell. The showing is limited to drawings and paintings. The drawings can be in either charcoal or pastels, and the paintings in any medium.

Crafts will not be shown. Space can be used under the trees on the square or around the sidewalks.

All entries must be framed and ready for hanging. Each artist will be responsible for his own work during the day.

"Your space should be chosen and your work displayed between 8 a.m. and 9 a.m. Removal of pictures and cleanup will be from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m." said Mrs. Cartmell.

"There is not entry fee for this show. At this time we are in the process of collecting donations to be used as prizes. The amount given in prizes will depend on the amount donated. We also hope to have judges from the surrounding area. These names will be announced as soon as they are secured", said the coordinator.

"Last year's show was highly praised and we hope this year's will be even better", commented Mrs. Cartmell.

Hospital Services To Be Featured On Month-Long Television

"Davie County Hospital people know what they're doing . . . and 2344 lives a year depend on it," said Allen Martin, Administrator of our local hospital.

This message will be heard in Davie County homes and in homes all across the nation, during a month-long television advertising program about hospitals and hospital employees sponsored by the American Hospital Association. Beginning September 16, four different thirty-second messages will be televised during the CBS news broadcast featuring Walter Cronkite, on NBC with John Chancellor and David Brinkley and on ABC with Howard K. Smith and Harry Reasoner.

The television messages deal with outpatient services; hospital employees; costs, in terms of improved services; and costs, in terms of improved technology. "Each message is simple - hospital people know what they're doing!" said Martin. "We think those of you who are familiar with Davie County Hospital will agree these messages are particularly appropriate," Martin concluded.

There is a brief description of each spot:

(1) Outpatient services to the community. Six people, one by one, look directly into the camera and tell viewers why he or she goes to the hospital outpatient department or clinic. Viewers learn that these people go for pre-natal classes, ulcer and hearing tests, broken bones, drug programs and to visit the well-baby clinic. The message concludes, "different neighborhoods, different programs." While we do not have "organized out-patient clinics" as described, we do serve the patients' prescribed needs through our departments of inhalation therapy, laboratory, physical therapy, and X-ray, at Davie County Hospital.

(2) Hospital employees. Patricia Marzinski, a medical technologist, tells viewers about all the hospital people working behind the scenes that most patients never see. "I could save your life," she says, "but you'd never know it." She assures viewers that skilled hospital people are ready whenever patients need them. "Three of us for every one of you," she states.

(3) Costs, in term of improved services. An old man sits at his grandson's hospital bedside and remembers how things were when he was young. "Hospital care was cheaper, sure," he says, "but hospitals used to be where you'd go to die." New equipment and more skilled employees may have raised hospital rates, but "Nowadays, you go to the hospital to live."

(4) Costs, in terms of improved technology. A man lays in a hospital bed with electrodes connecting him to a heart monitor. The patient knows the equipment is expensive, but he also knows that without it and the people who know how to use it, "I might be dead."

Jewel Christine Waller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Waller of Route 7, Mocksville, was honored with a party recently on her 2nd birthday anniversary.

The party was given at the home of her great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. K. C. Waller on Rt. 7.

Raggedy Ann birthday cake, ice cream, potato chips and punch were served to twenty guests.

Candidate Makes Non-Political Talk

Bill Hefner of Concord, Democratic Congressional candidate, made a non-political talk Tuesday to the Mocksville Rotary Club.

Mr. Hefner kept the Rotarians entertained with a number of humorous stories tied to past experiences.

He closed in a serious note citing the need today for people to be "Christians, true Americans, and dedicated citizens".

"If I have to choose between your prayers and your votes, I will always take your prayers", he said in closing.

Dr. Ramey Kemp had charge of the program and introduced Mr. Hefner. President Ed Goodwin presided.

Special guest included: Henry Anderson of Winston-Salem, past district governor; Hank Vanhoy of Mocksville; George Frye of Mocksville; Dr. John Varner of Lexington; Harris Fisher of Concord; and Stan Riddle and Doug Lakey, students guest.

Rear-End Collision

A rear-end collision occurred Friday at 7:50 a. m. about 12 miles east of Mocksville on NC801.

Richard Milton Moore, 30, of Route 5, Mocksville, was driving a 1973 Oldsmobile which struck a 1969 Datsun truck driven by Robert Blaine Viars, 23, of Route 1, Advance in the rear.

According to the investigating officer, Trooper W. D. Grooms, the truck was attempting a left turn across traffic when it was struck in the rear by the Moore car.

Damage to the truck was listed as $25 and the Moore car received $300 in damages. Moore was charged with driving too fast for condition.

Davie Democrats To Hold Barbecue Tuesday

The Democratic Party of Davie County has announced a barbecue - fund raising event to be held at the Masonic Picnic Grounds in Mocksville, Tuesday, September 17th, at 6:30 p.m.

James Ramsey, Speaker of the North Carolina House of Representatives, will be the featured speaker.

Special guests will include several members of the North Carolina General Assembly from throughout the state.

Dr. R. F. Kemp, chairman of the Davie County Democratic Executive Committee, said that all district and local candidates were expected to be present.

"Our candidate for the United States Congress, Bill Hefner will be here. Also, Jack Childers and Tom Suddreth of Lexington, our candidates for the State Senate; and our candidates for the N.C. House of Representatives, Dr. Jack Varner of Lexington; Larry Leonard of Thomasville; and Peter W. Hairston of Davie", said Dr. Kemp. "And of course all our county candidates will be there."

Dr. Kemp said there would be plenty of good, local pit-cooled barbecue with all the trimmings, plus hotdogs and cold drinks.

"All we are asking is a $5 dollar contribution from each each person. This money will go to pay for this and other political rallies and expenses", this fall", said Dr. Kemp.

James Edward Ramsey, the Speaker of the House, is from Person County, representing the 13th District. He is a lawyer and a graduate of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. He has served six terms in the N.C. General Assembly first being elected in 1963. He served as a member of the U.S. Marine Corps Reserve, 1950-1960 with the rank of Captain. He was named the "Outstanding Young Man of Person County" in 1962.

Use Caution!

SOMEWHERE there is a driver of a light colored car who flew past a STOPPED SCHOOL BUS Monday afternoon, September 9th on North Main Street in Mocksville. Two children were almost run over! The bus driver blew his horn and screamed at the children to "wait" and probably saved their lives. Please - motorists - remember that there are school buses everywhere. Use caution. Please STOP when you see a bus loading or unloading children. It's the law!

Vehicle Sideswiped

The driver of a 1969 Ford told the State Highway Patrol that an unidentified vehicle sideswiped him on Interstate 40 and caused him to wreck September 3, around 6 a.m.

State Highway Patrolman W. D. Grooms said his investigation showed that Ronald E. Dixon, 28, of Conesville, Ohio was driving a 1969 Ford on I-40, ran onto the left shoulder and lost control, swerved back to the right shoulder and struck the guard rail with the right rear of the vehicle, and then regained control.

Dixon told Trooper Grooms that a vehicle sideswiped him and kept going and that he was unable to overtake it.

Damage to the Dixon vehicle was estimated at $250.

There were no charges and no injury.

Truck Hits Volkswagen

Two vehicles collided last Friday around 8 a.m. on Wilkesboro Street in Mocksville, 500-feet east of US601 North.

Involved was a 1971 Volkswagen operated by June Craven Bullabough, 33, of Mocksville Rt. 1 and a 1967 Chevrolet truck operated by Richard Leon Suserbera, 41, of Mocksville Rt. 7.

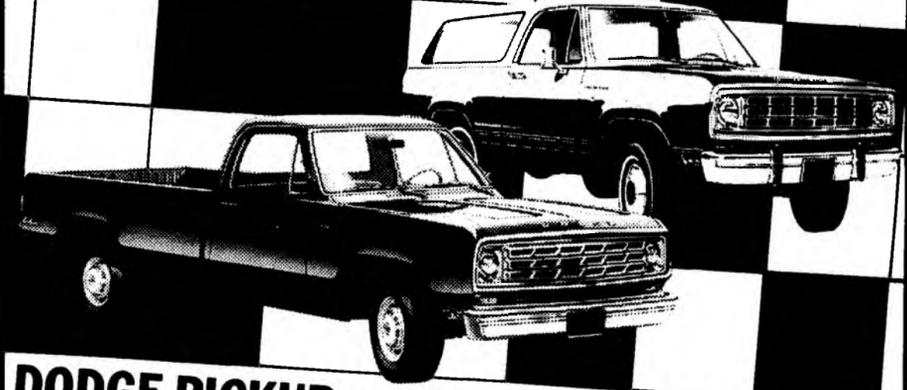

Mocksville Policeman Gary Edwards said his investigation showed that the Volks was traveling east on Wilkesboro St. and was slowing down for another vehicle to make a turn. The truck could not get stopped and hit the Volks in the rear.

Damage to the Volks was estimated at $50 and $40 to the truck.

There were no injuries and no charges.

Tips For Consumers

There's a lot more to consider than beauty at a low price when you buy a carpet. So you should ask yourself a few questions before you shop around. Carpets are an expensive purchase—and it will pay you to do some careful thinking before you buy and know how much you can afford to spend.

The most important factor in your decision should be where the carpet or rug is going to be used. Naturally, bedroom carpets need not be as durable as Carpets for hallways or stairs. Carpets for the kitchen, family room or bath should be stain- and water-resistant, as well as sturdy.

Consider, too, who will be walking on your new carpet. If you have small children and, or, pets, you need a stain-resistant carpet. If you have two or three teenagers in the house, durability is what you're looking for.

And there's the future. If you plan to stay in your house a long time, wall-to-wall carpets can be a wise investment. However, if you anticipate a relocation in the near future, area or room-size rugs, which you can take with you, would be best.

If you're on a budget and are looking for durability, it is wise to consider density versus pile height. Generally, the denser the carpet (the more fibers per square inch), the sturdier it will be. It is often more economical in the long run to buy a shorter pile, dense rug than a longer pile, less dense rug.

Fibers

Carpet fibers vary greatly and can be either man-made or natural. The man-made fibers include acrylic, metallic, modacrylic, nylon, polyester, and olefin. Natural fibers include wool and cotton. Each fiber has property values of its own, such as durability, color fastness, stain resistance, cleanability, etc. You should choose your carpet accordingly. Every rug, roll of carpet or sample, must have a label attached stating the names of the fibers and percent of each fiber if over five percent.

Size

Once you've decided where where the carpet will be and how it will be used, think about just how much you need. Carpet is sold by the square yard. Multiply the width of the room by its length. Now you have the number of square feet. Divide this figure by nine and you have the total square yards of the area. However, remember that rugs are often sold in sizes measured by feet. Sizes of 3 x 6, 6 x 9, 9 x 12, etc., are fairly common. So when comparing prices, keep in mind whether you're dealing with square yards or feet. You can often find odd-size rugs because a carpet company might make rugs out of the ends of a carpet roll or from custom rugs that were ordered but never claimed.

Unfortunately, a few shady carpet dealers find carpets perfect for the "bait-and-switch" scheme. Typically, the carpet bait-and-switcher advertises something like "288 square feet of carpet—enough for three rooms—for only $129.00." Although 288 square feet may sound like a lot, when divided by nine it becomes only 32 square yards, only enough to carpet three 9 x 11 rooms—not very much at all.

The bait-and-switcher will frequently capitalize on the fact that the carpet is low-quality and really won't cover three rooms. Then, having "baited" you to the store, he will try to "switch" you to another carpet deal, usually more expensive, and usually not advertised. Watch out for this!

There is a simple test you can apply to carpet to determine its quality before you buy. A well-built carpet has closely-packed pile, firmly secured onto a backing. Just bend back a corner of the carpet, and you will see how deep the pile is and how it is attached to the backing. Look first for dense pile and then for a medium-height (about 1/2 inch) pile for heavily used areas such as living rooms, stairs or hallways.

Acarpent pad will prolong the life of a carpet, make it more comfortable to walk on, absorb sound, and insulate against heat and cold. Choose a pad that is neither too soft nor too hard, a happy medium.

Contract and Guarantee

The Better Business Bureau gives this caution: before you make your final decision take a good look at the contract and guarantee. The contract should include the brand name, style, color, size, full description of the carpet and pad and the total price, including installation. All guarantees must be in writing, specifying exactly what is covered and what the store will do if a problem arises. Be sure you understand all the conditions before you sign the contract and be sure to keep a copy in case something goes wrong.

Tar Heel Kitchen

By Miss York Kiker

Now is the time in North Carolina to put your kitchen in apple pie order and get ready to prepare apples your favorite way for the apple of your eye. Inform yourself for the wrong kind of apple will upset the apple cart and spoil your reputation with apple lovers. The apple is probably everyone's favorite fruit for eating in addition to being used frequently in favorite expressions.

The commercial apple crop in North Carolina, located primarily in the western part of the state, is expected to be the largest crop ever. Apples are mature and high quality and should reach their peak of flavor by the middle of September.

Four varieties make up the bulk of 270 million pounds or 6 1/2 million bushels forecasted for the North Carolina apple crop. The Red Delicious variety is the leader with 116 million pounds, the Golden Delicious is second with 81 million pounds, Rome Beauty is next with 35 million pounds, and then the Stayman with 27 million pounds. Other varieties account for 11 million pounds. North Carolina's Red and Golden Delicious apples have been on the market since late August. Staymans are expected around September 10, and Rome Beauty are due about September 20.

Red Delicious are sweet and tender and most popular for eating-out-of-hand or in salads. They are not recommended for cooking. They are easily recognized by the five knobs on the blossom end. Golden Delicious are firm, delightfully flavored, lowacid and are good for all uses. They do not turn brown quickly when sliced. As a special "bonus" they require little additional sweetening. Rome Beauty apples are firm, slightly tart and excellent for baking and general cooking. Stayman are firm, mildly tart, cook well and best for all uses.

Recipes for Baked Apple Dumplings, Hawaiian Apple Pie, and Johnny Appleseed Bars have been tested in the Tar Heel Kitchen with Golden Delicious apples. The taster-testers gave high ratings for each. Additional apple information is available free upon request to "Apple Leaflet", North Carolina Department of Agriculture, Markets Division Promotions, Raleigh, North Carolina 27611.

Baked Apple Dumplings

- 1/2 recipe Flaky Pastry (recipe below)
- 6 medium-size tart cooking apples
- 1 1/2 cups sugar
- 1/4 cup butter or margarine
- 1 3/4 teaspoons ground cinnamon
- Cream or whipped cream

Roll pastry to a little less than 1/4" thickness and cut in six 7" squares. Peel and core apples. Bring to boil 1 cup sugar, 2 cups water, 3 tablespoons butter and 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon. Put an apple on each square of pastry. Mix remaining sugar and cinnamon and use to fill apple cavities. Dot with remaining butter. Bring opposite points of pastry up over apple. Overlap, moisten and seal. Lift carefully and put a few inches apart in baking dish. Pour hot syrup around dumplings. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) 40 minutes, or until crust is well browned and apples are tender. Serve warm with cream. Makes 6 servings.

Flaky Pastry

- 4 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 3/4 cups vegetable shortening (not oil)
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1/2 cup water
- 1 tablespoon vinegar
- 1 egg

With fork, mix first 4 ingredients. In small bowl, beat 1/2 cup water and remaining ingredients together. Add to first mixture and blend with fork until dry ingredients are moistened. With hands, mold dough in a ball and chill at least 15 minutes. Dough can be stored in refrigerator up to 3 days, or it can be frozen until ready to use. Makes two double-crust 9" pies and one 9" shell. NOTE: Refrigerated dough can be rolled at once.

Rural Population Is Declining

By Lucy Hollis

In 1900 North Carolina's population was 90 percent rural. By 1970 the state's rural population had decreased to 55 percent.

A declining rural population is a nationwide phenomenon, contributing factors including industrialization and urbanization.

John Nicholson In Auto Diesel School

John H. Nicholson of Harmony, N. Carolina has begun training at Nashville Auto Diesel College in Nashville, Tennessee, having in mind to become an auto or diesel technician. He is a graduate of Davie County High School. After graduation from the Nashville Auto Diesel College, he will be returning home to family, friends, and work. Business concerns which employ auto or diesel mechanics may wish to keep John in mind for a job after he has graduated.

moving and the general effects on the rural community as it is to find how many people are moving, according to Dr. A. C. Davis, associate professor of sociology at North Carolina State University.

"We know more about the migration of birds than people," Davis says.

Dr. Davis along with Dr. S. C. Mayo, head of the sociology and anthropology department, are studying the changing population of the rural communities in North Carolina particularly the patterns of migration, both outward and inward.

Who and Why?

When a loss in rural population occurs, they want to learn what types of people are leaving and why. Currently Dr. Davis believes out-migration occurs mainly within the young segment of population.

When a community's population declines, Davis believes this affects the quality of life in that area. For instance, when population decreases a community's services, such as medical services, school system, and grocery stores, remain stagnant and then people go elsewhere for these services.

This out-migration for services could eventually cause an out-migration of population, Davis believes.

If there is an increase in population, Davis and Mayo are seeking to learn if it is actually a result of new industry moving into the area. Industry, like textile plants and manufacturers needing relatively unskilled labor, is migrating to rural areas, mainly because of cheaper labor sources there, they note.

Using secondary sources, such as population censuses, city and county data, Davis and Mayo have determined that, as of 1970, N. C. had 33 rural counties. For this study, a rural county is defined as having no city larger than 2,500.

Located in the western and particularly eastern parts of the state, these 33 out of 100 counties account for about one-third of the state's land area.

With some variations, Dr. Davis has found that among these 33 counties, the lower the farm population, the higher the tendency for population gains; and the higher the farm population, the lower the tendency for population growth. The majority of these rural counties, especially farming counties, are losing population due to out-migration. From 1960-1970, only 13 of the 33 rural counties had a population increase.

From this study, Dr. Davis also hopes to develop a technique to look at migration within small areas. At present, if a town or community isn't incorporated, there are no records on it, making research haphazard. If he can develop a method for getting this kind of information, the sociologists will be able to explain the nature of population changes within relatively small areas.

The work of Davis and Mayo is helping North Carolina to understand itself much better.

Gardener Of The Week

Spencer Foster, of the Bethel Church Road Community, is this week's selection. Mr. Foster is 81 years old, but still enjoys growing a large vegetable garden with the help of Ginger, his mule. Farmers' Market shoppers know Mr. Foster well, because he has missed only a few sale days with a good supply of vegetables for sale.

The Gardener says he has been able to teach Ginger about everything that a good mule needs to know, except how to step back within the trace chains. The mule has solved two problems for the Gardener. She prevents air pollution and eliminates the buying of high priced gasoline for tractors.

This is the last week for Gardener of the Week. The program has been part of the Agricultural Extension Service's efforts to promote and help gardeners. B. G. Westbrook, Agricultural Extension Agent, offers these final program suggestions: Destroy all vegetable stubbles after harvest, plow the garden this fall, and use the free soil testing supplies available at the County Agricultural Extension Office. Lt. James Latham Assigned To The Strategic Air Command

Second Lieutenant James M. Latham, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harmon R. Latham, Route 2, Mocksville, N.C., has graduated at Sheppard AFB, Tex., from the U.S. Air Force missile launch officer conducted by the Air Training Command.

Lieutenant Latham, who learned to operate and direct repair of Titan II missile systems, is being assigned to Little Rock AFB, Ark., for duty with a unit of the Strategic Air Command.

Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt To Keynote Democratic Rally

Lieutenant Governor Jim Hunt will be the key note speaker at the 8th Congressional District Democratic Party rally September 26 at the Concord National Guard Armory according to Jim Lawler, co-chairman for the event.

Hunt, who holds the highest elected office of any Democratic in the state will head a list of state officials and Democratic candidates for national, state and local offices.

He was selected Lieutenant Governor two years ago in a landslide victory. With a broad background in agriculture, education, economics and law, Hunt campaigned on two promises-to be honest and fair as a public official, and to work as hard as he could. Lawler said, "Hunt has kept those promises. We are proud he can be with us for this exciting rally."

Brought up on a tobacco and dairy farm in the Rock Ridge Community of Wilson County, he has for many years been active in activities relating to agriculture and its impact on North Carolina's economy.

Hunt received his bachelor degree in agricultural education from N. C. State University, was certified to teach and then went on to receive a master's degree in economics. After that came a law degree from the University of North Carolina. He also served as president of the North

Accent on AGRICULTURE

By B.C. Mangum
N.C. Farm Bureau Federation

Enrollments in colleges of agriculture have increased dramatically in the last 10 years, indicating that young people are choosing, rather than just inheriting, the farming profession. Where a college education used to be a means of escape from the farm, it now provides the knowledge needed for a challenging, fulfilling career in a dynamic industry.

The recent sharp increase in agricultural college enrollment reflects the need for higher education in this "new era" of agriculture. The business of producing and marketing food and fiber has become a complex, highly technical, constant-changing, demanding vocation. To be successful, today's young farmer needs sharp management skills and scientific knowledge, and a broad understanding of how he relates to the world's socio-economic structure.

Pride in the agricultural profession is another important reason why young men and women have decided to stay on the farm. The fact that the public is more aware of the value of agriculture than ever before has given the farmer new status and a positive image. Recognized as one of the most efficient and productive of all industries, American agriculture produces enough food and fiber to meet the demands here, plus enough for exports.

It takes more incentive, however, than an exciting vocation and professional pride to make young men and women invest in a college education. That investment, plus huge amounts of capital and operating money involved in farm enterprises, must also pay off in dividends of dignity and a good living. Young people will not stay on the land unless they can realize these goals.

After years of government involvement in farming, with farmers relegated to peasant status, dependent on federal subsidies, now a market-oriented agriculture provides them with new opportunities and freedom to grow. It's important to all of us to keep it that way.

Folk - Ways

by Roger Whitener

As indicated previously in this column, material sent in by readers is usually handled on a first-come, first-served basis. Occasionally, however, an item will either get misplaced or be held in reserve until it ties in with a specific topic. I confess that the following letter from E. E. Judkins, of Bristol, Tennessee, simply got lost in the shuffle. Fortunately it turned up in time to join the numerous previous comments on snakes and their ways.

Mr. Judkins writes: As you are on the subject of snakes, I will tell you some true snake stories. A few years ago I was walking along the bank of the Holston River. Upon looking across to the opposite bank, I saw a commotion in a small-sized bush, and I was wondering what was going on.

"The water was very low at that time of year, about ankle deep. I slipped off my shoes and waded across, and I saw a large black snake, with its head down hanging in this bush, and a big wharf rat running up and down this snake and biting it."

"When I walked closer, the rat stood up on its hind feet and looked at me in defiance. I was really bluffed. I stopped and went to pulling on my shoes, getting ready to kick, and the rat dropped and scurried away. I secured a stick and punched the snake, but it was dead, evidently killed by the rat."

"A large rattlesnake was killed on the mountain above the town of North Holston and brought down to the highway. It had a large pouch or swelling about half way down its body. A man took a hoe and cut into, and there was a full grown gray squirrel which looked like it had just been swallowed."

Good to hear again from another Bristol resident, Mr. King Sturgill, Jr., of 304 Lynfield Road. He brings up the subject of witches, once a familiar topic in the Appalachians but one about which I seldom receive information. This seems rather strange in view of the presence of numerous devil cults throughout the country. Perhaps Satan and his minions have simply left the mountains for the lowlands and the cities.

Mr. Sturgill's letter reads: Sometime ago I promised you that I would tell you of some things my Aunt Mary told me when I was living with her back in the early 1920's.

"I was just a small boy, but I can remember very well. She told me that when she was a little girl, an old lady they called witch would visit her home real often. She said this old lady was at her home and got sick and that her dad got on horseback and rode for miles to a witch doctor."

"The doctor gave him a blank white sheet of paper and told him to take it down to the spring and tack it on a walnut tree. He said to put one nail in each corner and each day go back and tap each lightly."

"Well, it so happened that when he first put it up he mashed his finger and got mad and drove all the nails up. When he got back to the house, the old witch was dead. I'll write again soon."

Witches are usually those who are just enough different from their neighbors in dress and actions to draw attention of the curious. Someone applies the name, the word "gets out", and the victim is labled for life. Carolina papers recently carried the story of Winnie Watson, a 79-year-old woman from Eastern North Carolina who has been tormented for years by children and childish adults. Not only has she been called "witch," but she has been stoned and her house burned down. Neighbors have banded together to protect her.

John West, poet and novelist at Appalachian State University, tells the story of a female relative, Tennessee Bumgarner, who lived in Wilkesboro, North Carolina, and was called a witch by area residents. When she was buried, according to West, grass refused to grow on her grave for a period of thirty years. In recent years, he says, the grave has caved in and grass has now sprouted. At Bumgarner family reunions the children enjoy a scare by approaching and playing around the grave.

Some "witches," of course have enjoyed their roles and played them to the hilt, reveling in the notoriety achieved. Accounts by readers of witchcraft in the Appalachians would be welcomed by Folk-Ways.

Last year we brought you over two billion dollars worth of automobiles. You've got a lot riding on us.

A lot of cars rode our rails in 1973. We estimate that the manufacturers' value for autos we shipped amounted to $2,411,000,000.

And when you put Southern's shipments together with all other railroads, you've got 76% of all the autos and auto parts Americans buy.

Why does the automotive industry and so many other industries ship by rail? They know it's usually the most economical way to go.

Consider these figures for the thousands of things shipped by rail. The average cost per-ton-mile by truck is five times as much as by rail. Air shipping is over fourteen times the price.

And the fuel crunch has made railroad efficiency more than just a matter of dollars and cents. It's a matter of delivering the goods with the smallest possible use of fuel.

Then there's the reliability of rail shipping. Add this on to everything else and you have a good idea why there's so much riding on us. And why you need Southern.

SOUTHERN
THE RAILWAY SYSTEM THAT GIVES A GREEN LIGHT TO INNOVATIONS

An equal opportunity employer

Senator Sam Ervin Says

If everything goes according to plan, Congress expects to adjourn in a little over a month. With time running short, the major legislative priorities for the remainder of the session appear to be these:

First is the enactment of money bills. The defense appropriations bill, the most sizable of the money measures, goes to a Senate-House conference this week. Four other departmental and agency bills also await final action before adjournment. Foreign aid, as usual, is the most controversial of these legislative items. There is some doubt that final action can be completed by mid-October on separate foreign aid authorization and appropriations bills. If not, the usual practice would be to act on a continuing resolution and take final action on the regular foreign aid bills at the next Congress.

Second, the Rockefeller nomination for vice President requires House and Senate confirmation. After hearings in the Senate Rules and the House Judiciary Committees, both bodies are expected to act on the nomination. Any delay in action on the nomination could bring about a post-election session.

Third, campaign finance reform legislation is a matter yet to be decided by Senate and House conferees. Major differences between the Senate and House bills relate to the public financing of congressional campaigns, spending ceilings for Senate and House elections, restrictions on honoraria for Members of Congress, and the type of administration of federal election controls. At this stage, final passage of a compromise bill is doubtful.

Fourth, another attempt will be made next week to shut off Senate debate on the consumer protection agency bill, a measure which I have strongly opposed on the ground that it will establish an unwise and uncontrollable federal bureaucracy which will weaken our free enterprise system and will raise false hopes that consumers' problems will be solved.

Fifth, there is the prospect that the Senate will act on a trade reform bill before the session ends. The complex measure is presently in the Senate Finance Committee, but President Ford has urged Congressional action on the measure at this session. The major question is whether enough time remains for the Senate to act and a House-Senate conference to iron out any differences that could exist between the Senate and House versions.

Sixth, chances of passage of tax reform legislation appear slim. The House may act on tax reform in the weeks ahead, but again time is the big factor. Passage of a major tax bill would have to come at a post-election session.

Seventh, in the field of energy, there is a good chance that Congress will complete action on the ERDA bill to establish a new Energy Research and Development Administration and a Nuclear Safety and Licensing Commission to replace the Atomic Energy Commission.

Eighth, national health insurance legislation contains too many problems to be ironed out at this session. The House Ways and Means Committee thus far has been unable to agree on a compromise bill on this controversial subject. That likely rules out any floor action on this subject for the remainder of the session.

Government Knowing exactly how much of the future can be introduced into the present is the secret of protection agency bill, a great government.

BETTER BUSINESS BUREAU

Probably the last thing you're thinking about these days is your furnace. But don't wait for cold weather to get your furnace in shape for winter. A well-adjusted furnace will save you money in heating bills, and the sooner you do it, the more you can save, advises the Better Business Bureau.

It would be a good idea to have your utility company or a heating expert check your system once a year. The money you will save in higher efficiency and longer equipment life will more than offset any cost for this service. This inspection generally will include cleaning and lubrication, if necessary.

Exercise some caution, however, if the furnace inspector represents a company that sells furnaces. Some disreputable inspectors may use scare tactics to frighten you into buying a new furnace when you may not need one. If you are told your furnace is unsafe or inadequate and you should buy a new one, it would be wise to get a second opinion from another source.

Look at your furnace manual or the instructions on the furnace to see what you need to do yourself between annual inspections. Some furnaces need to be lubricated more than once a year. If your furnace has a filter, it should be checked once a month during the heating season and cleaned or replaced when necessary.

Check for Leaks
There are other things you can check yourself. See if your heating distribution ducts have leaks, cracks, holes or separations in the joints. Adhesive tape or more durable tape intended for sealing ductwork will repair the leaks easily and inexpensively.

Be sure that the flue or chimney is unobstructed. If leaves or other materials are blocking it, dangerous carbon monoxide gas can be released into your home.
If you have an oil furnace, arrange to start the heating season with as near a full tank of fuel as possible.

Check Pilot Light
Furnaces with electric ignition do not require any special attention to turn them on. But if you have gas furnace, be sure your pilot light is on before starting it. If it isn't, follow the instructions on your furnace to light it or call your serviceman. Turn your thermostat control up until the burners are lit. After the burners are on, set the thermostat at the temperature you want. It will take a few minutes before the burner starts; make sure it goes on.

With the high cost of fuel these days, the Better Business Bureau suggest that it will be worth your while to make sure your furnace is functioning efficiently. And at the time to check it out is now.

Precinct Meeting

Davie County Republican precinct meetings will be held as follows: West Shady Grove, on September 23 at 7:30 p.m. at Dulin-Cornatzer Fire Department; North and South Mocksville, Sept. 3, at 8 p.m. in the Davie County Court House; Fulton, Sept. 24, at 8 p.m. at Fork Fire Station and North Calahan and South Calahan, Sept. 24, at 7:30 p.m. at Davie Academy Community Building. All of the other precincts are urged to have meetings the last week in September.

Daywalt Reunion

The annual Daywalt family reunion will be held Sunday, September 15, at Shelter No. 1, at Rich Park, Mocksville. Friends and relatives are invited to attend and to bring a picnic basket of food. Dinner will be served at 1, p.m.

Great Expectations

Spit not against heaven, 'twill fall back in thy face.
Proverb

Its A "Jim Dandy"!

By Joe Foster

Jimmy Bailey, of Rt. 2, Advance, started out with what he thought would be an ordinary tomato plant of the "Jim Dandy" variety, but he has ended up with a tomato plant reminiscent of "Jack and the Beanstalk" fame.

The plant was set out the last of May or the first of June and received no special attention except a little fertilizer when it was planted and water during one of the dry spells.

Now, if Mr. Bailey, who is about 5' 10" tall, stands on a 6' ladder on his patio 4' high, he still can't reach the top of the plant.

"It has passed all our expectations," says his wife, Bea. The Baileys, who have just moved into their new home, may not have any grass on their newly sown lawn, but they sure do have a "Jim Dandy" tomato plant.

Employment Of Handicapped Promoted By Department Of Human Resources

The North Carolina Governor's Council on Employment of the Handicapped is the smallest component of the Department of Human Resources. It is composed of an executive director, field representative and secretary. But, while it is small, it has one of the biggest challenges in its role as advocate for the handicapped.

The Council's basic goal is to initiate and implement programs to promote the education, rehabilitation and employment of the physically, mentally, emotionally and otherwise handicapped North Carolina citizens. The Council strives to promote employment of the physically handicapped in all levels of government and in the private sector; to increase awareness of architectural barriers and encourage their removal; and to promote local interest in the employment of the handicapped.

The Council's offices are located in the Bath Building in Raleigh. W. Joseph Strickland is executive director.

The magnitude of the Council's job is evident by looking at a few statistics. In North Carolina, it is estimated that there are a total of 337,648 disabled or handicapped persons between 16 and 64 years of age. Of this number, 153,889 are in the labor force; 183,759 are not, perhaps because a prejudiced employer doesn't know that the handicapped have shown themselves to be good workers, or perhaps the restroom doors at the office are too narrow for a wheelchair, or any number of other reasons or excuses.

Another disturbing figure is that over 500,000 North Carolinians are physically disabled to the point of being limited in mobility by architectural barriers. Obviously, if the design of a place of business prohibits a handicapped person from entering, it all too obviously prevents him from having an opportunity to work there.

North Carolinians can point with pride at what is being done in the area of architectural barrier removal in this state, however. We are not sitting still, and it is largely due to efforts of the Governor's Council on Employment of the Handicapped, with backing from the mayor's and other local committees scattered throughout the state, and efforts of the Division of Vocational Rehabilitation Services and the Division of Services for the Blind.

North Carolina now has the best and most comprehensive code to provide facilities for people with physical limitations in the United States. In 1973, the North Carolina Building Code Council revised the state's building code requiring all construction in the drawing-board stage as of Sept. 1, 1973, to be designed and constructed barrier-free.

Closely tied in with the elimination of architectural barriers is the effort on the part of the Governor's Council on Employment of the Handicapped to make sure architects and builders know about the new Building Code so that they can comply. They do this by personal interview and by mailing copies of the Code.

Part of the ammunition which the Governor's Council on Employment of the Handicapped uses in fighting its battles is the 50 local mayor's committees on employment of the handicapped. This active and influential group of community leaders and businessmen strives constantly to keep their communities and fellow businessmen aware of the capabilities of the handicapped.

Local mayor's committees are active in presenting various awards for efforts in easing the plight of the handicapped citizens of the year, outstanding physician, outstanding employer. From these winners, the state awards are made each spring with the winners competing with other state winners for national recognition.

Another award involves making the youth of the state aware of the plight of the handicapped, in the belief that since the youth are the future leaders and employers of the country, they should learn early that the handicapped are capable. All high school students in the state are eligible to compete in the annual "Ability Counts" essay contest and the "Hire the Handicapped" poster contest.

This year, for the first time in the 27-year history of the Governor's Council on Employment of the Handicapped, a North Carolina high school student was a national winner in the "Ability Counts" essay contest. In competing with 40 other state winners, Miss Rosemary Kearney of Pikeville's Charles B. Aycock High School took fourth place.

One of the more recent advances in creating awareness of the problems of the handicapped came during a statewide meeting of North Carolina Lions. The Lions unanimously adopted a resolution that in effect expands the concerns of Lions Clubs across the state to include all disabled North Carolinians. Each of the approximately 500 Lions clubs in the state are expected to set up a committee to work with public and private agencies in alleviate the multiproblems of the handicapped as a result of this resolution.

The N. C. Governor's Council on Employment of the Handicapped is continuing to take great strides in helping the handicapped take their rightful place in society today.

... about your

Social Security

... by Hal Griffin

Do you think of old age retirement payments when you hear Social Security mentioned? You should remember that retirement checks are only a part of the Social Security protection you have. Social Security monthly benefits do much to ease the financial burden that results from disability and it's something you can depend on NOW.

Disability checks are paid to the disabled worker under age 65 and certain members of his family if the worker has worked long enough to be insured. A person is considered disabled if he cannot work because of a severe physical or mental impairment that has lasted, or is expected to last, for 12 months or longer. Disability benefits can be paid even if a person expects to recover and later go back to work, as long as his disability is severe enough to keep him from working 12 months or longer.

Payments can also be made to his unmarried children under 18 or between 18 and 22 if they are full-time students, unmarried children 18 or over who were disabled before age 18 and continue to be disabled, and to a wife under 65 if she is caring for a child under 18 or disabled child entitled to payments.

There is a waiting period of five full months before benefits can begin for the disabled worker. A disabled worker should file for these benefits promptly when it appears that the disability will last 12 months or more. Payments can continue as long as the disability continues to keep him from working.

Don't delay filing a claim for disability payments which can now be done in the comfort of the home by telephone. The telephone number for the Salisbury Social Security Office is 634-2868

I have a small business where I do alterations on dresses. Now that my daughter is 16, she's been helping me in my shop after school and on Saturdays, and I pay her for her work. Is her salary covered by social security?

When a child under 21 works for a parent, the earnings generally aren't covered by social security. However, you should check with any social security office because there are circumstances under which your daughter could be covered by social security. The people at social security will be able to give you a definite answer after you've given them more details.

When my neighbor recently retired, his first social security check was over a thousand dollars. My first social security check was just the regular monthly amount. How come there was such a difference in our first checks?

Your neighbor probably received retroactive social security benefits. A person who meets all the requirements for monthly social security payments but delays filing for them can be paid back payments for up to 12 months when he does apply.

I'm a retired Federal employee and get a civil service annuity. If I get a job now under social security and have enough earnings credit, would I be able to get monthly social security payments in addition to my civil service pension?

The Civil Service Retirement Act and the Social Security Act are two different programs. If you meet the requirements of each of them, you can get both a civil service retirement annuity and social security benefits.

I'm 23 and recently had a bad smashup with my motorcycle. The doctors don't think I'll be able to go back to work for at least a year. I want to apply for social security disability payments, but I was wondering if I need as much credit under social security as an older worker to be eligible for benefits.

No. A worker who becomes severely disabled before 24 may be able to get monthly social security disability benefits if he has at least 1 1/2 years of work in the 3-year period ending when his disability begins. You should get in touch with the Salisbury Social Security Office as soon as possible.

1040 U.S. HOW TO FILE Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q. My son is paying his own college tuition this year. Will this have any effect on whether or not I can claim him as a dependent?

A. Yes. Tuition payments are counted in determining total support. If you and your son furnish his total support for the year, and your son spent more on support items, such as food, clothing, shelter, education, etc., than you spent for his support, you will not be able to claim him as a dependent.

Q. In return for organizing a group of tourists for a European trip, a travel agency is giving me a free tour with the group. First, is the trip taxable? Secondly, if the trip is taxable, can I deduct the expenses I incur as the leader of the tourist group?

A. The free tour is taxable. Thus, it must be included in your income at the tour's fair market value. Secondly, your expenses are not deductible, even if you are serving as the leader of the tourist group without pay and at the group's request.

Q. I just found out that the fee I paid an employment agency last year to get a job is deductible. Is it too late for me to amend my 1972 return so that I can claim this deduction?

A. No. Just prepare an amended income tax return, Form 1040X, which can be obtained at any IRS office. On this form, you simply recompute the portion that has changed from your original return and send it, along with any necessary related information to the address shown in your Form 1040X instructions.

Q. Is it possible for me to reduce the amount of tax withheld from my pay?

A. Yes. This is done by filing a new W-4 form with your employer, claiming all the exemptions to which you are entitled. In addition, you may also qualify to claim the special withholding allowance. For details, see your employer or call your local IRS office.

N. C. Democratic Party Chairman Blasts Ford

North Carolina Democratic Party Chairman James T. Sugg responded to news of a Presidential pardon for former President Richard Nixon with a strongly worded statement that the action constituted "a flagrant abuse of Presidential power."

Charging that Ford's action "reflected a total lack of comprehension of the attitudes and desires of the American people on this issue," Sugg predicted that Americans of both political Parties will react with shock and indignation to what he termed President Ford's "unpredicted act" in granting a full, free, and absolute pardon to Richard Nixon, covering all offenses against the United States during the period of his Presidency.

Sugg raised the issue of what can now be done with regard to Nixon subordinates already convicted on Water-gate-related charges, and those who still face criminal prosecution. "There is no legitimate rationale—either legal or moral—which could justify prosecuting the underlings while abusing executive powers to let the primary culprit escape prosecution for his misdeeds," Sugg said in a prepared release.

North Carolina's top Democratic Party spokesman called attention to an earlier statement from his office in which he expressed the opinion that "no useful purpose" would be served by criminal prosecution of Richard Nixon," but then continued: "Still, in the absence of any sign of contrition or repentance on Nixon's part, President Ford's full and unconditional pardon of his old friend and mentor indicates that—although the faces may change—the conditions and attitudes continue unchecked! The President's pardon is a slap in the face of every decent, law-abiding citizen who holds to the religious ethic that we were individually responsible for our misdeeds."

Full text of Sugg's remarks follows: "The American people—from both political parties—will react with shock and indignation to President Ford's unprecedented act in granting a full, free, and absolute pardon to Richard Nixon, covering all offenses against the United States' during the period of his Presidency."

"The pardon is a flagrant abuse of Presidential power. It reflects a total lack of comprehension of the desires and attitudes of the American people in this issue."

It is disservice even to the Watergate conspirators themselves. Several of Nixon's former subordinates already stand convicted and are serving prison terms. Others still face prosecution and probable imprisonment. There is no legitimate rationale—either legal or moral—which would justify prosecuting the underlings while abusing executive powers to let the primary culprit escape prosecution for his misdeeds."

"Early in the Watergate coverage, Nixon told the Nation that he as President bore 'full responsibility' for Watergate. Now, as part of an apparent 'deal' with our new President, he has successfully avoided any criminal penalty for his criminal acts."

"At the time of Nixon's resignation, as party spokesman I told the press and the public that I could see no useful purpose to be served by criminal prosecution of Richard Nixon. The Public disgrace of his removal from office under fire after disclosure of his responsibility for the most blatantly illegal acts and immoral abuse of power in the history of the Republic was enough!"

"Still, in the absence of any sign of contrition or repentance on Nixon's part, President Ford's full and unconditional pardon of his old friend and mentor indicates that—although the faces may change—the tradition and attitudes continue unchecked! The President's pardon under the prevailing conditions is a slap in the face of every decent, law-abiding citizen who holds to the religious ethic that we are individually responsible for our misdeeds."

"I predict that American voters will remember this action when they go to the polls in November!"

Entering Fair Offers Friendly Competition

By M. E. GARDNER
N. C. State University

Plan to cooperate with your local fair management this fall by entering something from your vegetable, fruit or flower garden. It is not much trouble to enter something that you are proud of and a good way to enter into friendly competition with your neighbors.

The score card used by the judges will vary somewhat, but they all emphasize quality and are usually printed in the catalog to assist you when selecting specimens for display. Perhaps the most important thing to keep in mind is freedom from blemishes caused by bruising and insect and disease damage. You would not want to choose tomatoes with sunburn, growth cracks or blossom end rot, nor apples with scab spots, cedar rust or worm holes, nor roses with black spot infested leaves or dahlias with diseased foliage.

For apples, pears, tomatoes, peppers, onions, potatoes and the root crops, give close attention to uniformity in size, shape and color. For classes that call for five specimens per plate, try to have them all as nearly like "peas-in-a-pod" as you can.

If you have fall snap beans, some of the varieties may have curved pods and others may have straight pods. Do not mix the curved and straight podded varieties. All products exhibited should be true to variety name regardless of the fruit, vegetable or flower entered in competition.

The most critical time for the exhibitor of cut flowers is a few days before entries are made. If you have some show specimens of roses, dahlias, zinnias, etc., you might want to protect them in case of a hard rainstorm. If some blossoms seem to be getting ahead of exhibit time, they may be cut, placed in water and put in a cool shaded location.

The blooms should be cut with long stems as an exhibit is more effective when flowers are arranged. Short stems are difficult to arrange.

It is the better plan to cut the flowers the evening before the show and keep them in a deep vessel of water until they are entered the next morning.

If you miss this, cut them early the morning of the show and keep them in deep water for at least an hour.

Since the foliage complements the flower, be sure that it is free of any damage caused by rough handling, insect or disease injury.

The case of the disappearing paycheck and what to do about it.

Some people learn the hard way. Paychecks disappear fast.

Day-to-day living expenses eat up a lot. And maybe part goes in the savings account for this year's vacation or another immediate goal.

A good chunk of that money seems to disappear by itself.

So it's no wonder that when it comes to long-term goals, or when an emergency comes up, there simply aren't funds to meet the need.

Unless there was a nest egg building up all that time.

A good way to build that nest egg is with U.S. Savings Bonds. The easy way to buy them is to sign up for the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. An amount you specify will be set aside from your paycheck and used to buy Bonds.

And while you're going through grocery bills, car repairs, vacation weekends, kids' toys and nights out on the town, you'll know you're saving money too.

That's good to know.

Now E Bonds pay 5 1/2% interest when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months 45 days the first year. Bonds are replaced if lost, stolen, or destroyed. When needed they can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Take stock in America.

Old Steam Locomotive Delights Local Train Buffs

A large crowd had already gathered at the Mocksville Depot by 9:30 to see the old steam engine. The train finally arrived an hour and a half later.

Children and their parents stood around the old locomotive to wave at the fireman and engineer.

A light mist did not dampen the enthusiasm of a large crowd of Davie County train watchers Saturday as old number 4501 puffed its way into Mocksville. The steam locomotive, on a run sponsored by the National Railroad Historical Society from Greensboro to Asheville, was supposed to arrive in Mocksville around 9:45 a.m.

An eager crowd began to gather at the depot early Saturday morning, with around 70 people standing in the drizzle by 9:30. When the old engine finally chugged into the station, it was 11:00 and the crowd of riders, curious kids and nostalgic old timers had almost tripled in size.

The lateness of the train did not seem to upset the train watchers but it did provide material for the local wits. One young man said "it was like the army, hurry up and wait." A friend added that perhaps someone from the army was running the train.

An older gentleman in the crowd asked if there were any politicians on board, speculating that their speeches at the various stops may be the reason for the delay. Another old railroad man recalled a former Mocksville ticket taker who when asked if the train was coming, would reply, "I guess so, it ain't here." "There used to be about this many people down here for every train," recalled Carl Jones, of Route 1, Mocksville. He used to check express at the Mocksville Depot back in 1929, when steam engines were nothing out of the ordinary.

Most all the merchants in the city used to depend on the trains to bring their wares. Everything from wooden tubs of candy to the town's supply of caskets, "a half dozen to a dozen at a time," would come through the local depot. Jones said "I never rode on 4501 but I rode on 4507," said Frank Stroud, who worked on the railroad for almost 12 years in the 40's and 50's. "Look on the 4507 the first time it went up to Heritage," Stroud said proudly, pulling his pin-striped engineer's cap closet over his head against the drizzle. About 70 minutes after the train was supposed to arrive, a series of whistles from down the tracks alerted the crowd that their wait was almost over. It was nearly five more minutes before a column of smoke appeared over the trees and the train came around the bend, seeming to strain to pull its 14 cars full of sight-seers, nostalgia lovers and train buffs. A few locals boarded but most just enjoyed the smoke, noise and excitement of getting one last look at a bygone era.

Southern excursion train rounds a bend under head of steam on grade between Old Fort and Ridgecrest.

Smith Grove Development Group To Meet Sept. 15

The Smith Grove Community Development Center will hold its annual board meeting on September 15, 1974 at 3:00 p.m. in the Community Center Auditorium.

There will be two new board members elected at this meeting. Anyone that wishes to nominate a person for this job may do so by sending their name, along with their signature in writing to William G. Hendrix, Route 3, Mocksville, NC, by September 11, 1974.

The Housing Industry Crisis

Five times since the end of World War II America's housing industry has skidded into a slump. In the past seven years alone a slump has occurred three times. One of those slumps continues today and promises to be the worst. All of which raises the question, why can't someone come up with something that will prevent a recurrence of the housing industry downturn? In the first place, the situation does not lend itself to simple solutions since the causes are not simple, and secondly, there are solutions available which industry leaders believe will work if tried, according to John C. Milliner, Jr., Executive Vice President, Southeastern Lumber Manufacturers Association, an association of 230 lumber manufacturers located in seven southeastern states.

Part of the solution is also part of the problem; namely the U. S. Congress. The Congress is seen by many as one of the big gillians in the whole economic mess faced by the country today. Before solutions can be tried, Congress must act on proposals placed before it. Congressional spending binges have been greatly responsible for today's double digit inflation.

The housing industry's money problems occur on two fronts: (1) for the builder, who needs money to erect structures and (2) for the consumer who needs money to buy what the builder constructs. On both fronts the builder and the buyer are hounded by the highest interest rates in our history.

Maintaining an adequate commercial flow of money into the housing market is directly related to the ability of financial lenders, specifically thrift institutions, to channel funds into mortgage commitments. High interest rates have accelerated "disintermediation", a process which basically reflects a net outflow of deposits from savings banks as depositors obtain high returns on their funds elsewhere. This first took place in mid-1973, and mortgage money tightened appreciable last summer with the result that housing starts by late 1973 fell to an annual rate of about 1.5 million units. Net withdrawals from savings banks are again restricting the availability of mortgage money. Net withdrawals from savings and loan associations alone during April were estimated at $335 million, while over $600 million moved out of savings banks. Net withdrawals from these institutions see likely as long as key interest rates remain high. If this does occur, home building this year will probably drop to 1.6 million units or lower.

A number of proposals have been suggested to reform the financial structure of the economy, so that housing would not be the first to feel the pinch every time interest rates rise. One of the most frequently suggested policies is to provide an incentive for people to put their money in savings and loan associations or other thrift institutions by way of a tax credit. For example, if the first $750 in interest earned on mortgage related investments were tax-exempt, SLMA believes that people would take advantage of this inducement and thus pump more money into the mortgage lending institutions.

It is generally agreed that Congressional and White House actions to curb inflation would also generate relief for the housing industry. The Federal Reserve Board has been attempting this alone thus far by slowing down the rate at which money is injected into the economy. Most economists believe that this is not enough, and that sharp cutbacks in federal spending, as already suggested by President Ford, are essential. Industry economists have recommended special legislation in Congress which would implement selective control of credit, such as to cut back on consumer credit while continuing to provide mortgage credit.

Another suggestion is a change in the way payments are made - variable interest rates or flexible payment schedules, for example. Basically, a variable rate mortgage permits an increase or decrease in the interest rate, generally in response to changes in some specified economic indicator. With a flexible payment schedule, the monthly payments in the early years could be less than under a standard mortgage, but would rise after a period of time on tandem with the buyer's ability to pay. This would make it easier for young people to purchase homes.

In addition, a substantial increase in funds should be made available to the Federal Home Loan Bank Board in order for it to pump additional money into mortgage markets, including the purchase of funds on the open market and the re-lending of those funds to the S&L's at rates a half percent below the rate paid by the home loan bank. The Federal Home Loan Bank system absorbs the differences between the money cost at the two rates, but it gets additional funds to the prospective home buyer.

These are by no means the only proposed remedies to the money problems of the housing industry, although they are important. However, these remedies are useless unless they are acted upon on the federal level. It is essential that Congress is fully aware of the severity of this industry crisis. Local public opinion is the instrument through which your Congressmen derive their actions. It is your responsibility to keep this instrument viable through personal contact with your representatives.

Mike Branham Receives Award

Mocksville resident George Michael Branham, Rte. 1, Box 114, and insurance representative with Combined Insurance Company of America, has received an award for outstanding sales and service to the public.

Charlie Lewis, regional sales manager, said Branham won the Initial Award in the W. Clement Stone International Sales and Management Achievement Club. The international club is named after the company's founder and board chairman.

The Combined group of companies specialize in non-cancellable accident and health income-protection and life insurance. Last year the group paid benefits in excess of $96,000,000.

The group is unusual in that the needs of customers are under constant review, with representatives calling personally on policyholders at least every six months to provide individual service. Branham became associated with Combined as a representative and his work in service to policyholders earned him his award.

Vehicles Collide Thursday On NC801

Two vehicles were involved in a collision last Thursday on NC 801.

Involved in the accident that occurred around 6:30 p.m. was a 1969 Dodge operated by Roby Davis Shore, 70, of Mocksville Rt. 5 and a 1973 Chevrolet operated by Lester Franklin Darnell, Jr., 24, of Wintson-Salem.

State Highway Patrolman J. I. Payne said his investigation showed that Shore was turning into a private drive and the Darnell vehicle approached from the rear to overtake and pass, and the two cars collided.

Damage to the Shore vehicle was estimated at $145 and $250 to the Darnell vehicle.

Deaths And Funerals

MRS. CARRIE LEWIS

Mrs. Carrie Painters Lewis, 78, of Woodleaf died at 12:15 p.m. Friday at Rowan Memorial Hospital. She had been seriously ill for two weeks.

Daughter of the late J. A. and Nannie Virginia Rice Painter, she was a native of Rowan County. She was employed by Rowan Memorial Hospital until her retirement.

She was a lifelong member of Woodleaf United Methodist Church.

She was married three times. Her first husband was D. L. McDaniel who died in 1923. Her second marriage was to J. B. Harris who died in 1933. Her third husband, R. F. Lewis, died in 1952.

Survivors include a son, James G. McDaniel of Woodleaf; four daughters, Mrs. Walter Erwin of Rt. 2, Salisbury, and Mrs. Arthur Atwell, Mrs. Ira Benson and Mrs. Frank Thompson, all of Woodleaf; a brother, W. D. Painter of Woodleaf; a half sister, Mrs. Quillman H. Wood of Salisbury; 10 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted at 2 p.m. Sunday at Woodleaf United Methodist Church by the Rev. Shirley T. Jones. Burial was in the church cemetery.

The family requests that memorials be made to Woodleaf United Methodist Church improvement fund.

HUGH BOWLES

Hugh Bowles, 84, of Pageland, S. C., formerly of Mocksville died Friday at Mercy Hospital in Charlotte.

The funeral was held at 2 p.m. Sunday at Pageland United Methodist Church.

Mr. Bowles was born in Davie County and, until last month, had owned and operated the Carolina Cafe at Pageland. He also had operated a restaurant in Augusta, Georgia.

He opened the first ABC store in Pageland and had operated four other ABC stores, and three furniture and appliance stores in South Carolina.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Eloise Byrd Bowles; two daughters, Miss Barbara Anne Bowles of Florence, S. C., and Mrs. Frankie Price of Belmont, N. C.; a son, Hugh Bowles of Boone, N. C.; and a sister, Mrs. C. M. Turrentine of Mocksville.

WILL WHITE

Will White, 76, of Gladstone Road, died Friday night in Davie County Hospital after an extended illness.

He was born in Davie County, son of the late Joe and Julia Dulin White. He was a member of Liberty A.M.E. Zion Church.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Frankie Noble White; one daughter, Mrs. Barbara Thomas of Cooleemee; seven sons, Willie, Jessie Lee, Robert, Joseph and Ray White of Cooleemee, James White of Rt. 1, Mocksville, and John L. White of New York City; two sisters, Mrs. Ethel E. Carter of Cooleemee and Mrs. Katie Fleming of Mt. Ulla.

MRS. SADIE JACOBS

Mrs. Sadie Magalene Jacobs, 66, died at her home in Cooleemee, Saturday.

Funeral services were conducted Monday at 2 p.m. in Cooleemee Presbyterian Church by the Rev. Roscoe Fisher. Burial was in Liberty United Methodist Church cemetery.

She was born May 17, 1908, in Davie County, daughter of the late Yeleg and Sarah Sanford Head. She was a retired employee of Burlington Mills.

She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Patricia Lee of Salisbury; two sons, Carl Edward Jacobs of Rt. 3, Mocksville and the Rev. David B. Jacobs of China Grove; three step-daughters, Mrs. John Daniels of Mocksville, Mrs. James Murphy of Durham and Miss Margaret Jacobs of the home; two step-sons, Harry Jacobs of Cooleemee and Charles W. Jacobs of Salisbury; one sister, Mrs. Cora Foster of Lexington.

MRS. ANDREW WILSON

Mrs. Dora Turner Wilson, 79, of Mocksville, Rt. 1, wife of Andrew Wilson, died September 3rd.

Mrs. Wilson was born in Davie County and was a member of Piney Grove A.M.E. Zion Church in Iredell County.

Surviving are her husband, five daughters, Mrs. Novella Robinson of Baltimore, Mrs. Fannie White and Mrs. Ceola Wilson of Mocksville, Rt. 4, and Mrs. Octavia Clement of Cooleemee; two sons, Mathaer Wilson and Robert Turner of Baltimore; five sisters, Miss Roberta Turner and Mrs. Beatrice Admonson of New York City and Mrs. Rosie Lee Holland, Mrs. Mary Taylor and Mrs. Laura Rosby of Harmony, Rt. 1; and three brothers, Shirley and Harvey Lee Turner of Harmony and William Turner of New York City.

MRS. LAURA WOOSLEY

Mrs. Laura Booe Woosley 79 of Clemmons, route 2, widow of Thomas E. Woosley died August 26 in a Kernersville Nursing home.

Mrs. Woosley was born in the Bear Creek Section of Davie County to James and Emma Ijames Booe. Before her marriage she taught in the Davie County Schools. She was a member of the Muddy Creek Church of Christ at Clemmons. She is survived by one brother Brantley Booe of Winston-Salem.

Funeral Services were held August 28 at the Muddy Creek Church of Christ and burial was in the church cemetery.

DON'T FORGET THE GOOD BOOK

Almost any day now, new courses will be announced by high schools and colleges:

1. A beginners' course in fine tuning your television set.
2. Advanced training and selecting talk shows on radio.
3. Battery selection and installation for transistor radios.
4. What to do when the TV breaks down.

At least, certain statistics recently released would suggest such studies. Listen: Anderson and Company say Americans spend 45% of their leisure watching television; 34% of their time listening to radio; 8% reading newspapers; and 6% reading magazines.

Not much time left for good books and hardly any time left for The Good Book, God's Word. There is little hope for men or nations who forget God's Holy Word. "Holy Bible, Book Divine, Precious Treasure Thou Art Mine."

Everyone is invited to attend.

THOUGHTS

From The Living Bible

But although he made the world, the world didn't recognize him when he came. Even in his own land and among his own people, the Jews, he was not accepted. Only a few would welcome and receive him. But to all who received him, he gave the right to become children of God. All they needed to do was to trust him to save them. All those who believe this are reborn! not a physical rebirth resulting from human passion or plan but from the will of God.

"Four In Rapture" In Cooleemee

"The Four In Rapture" of Fayetteville will lead both Worship Services of the Cooleemee First Baptist Church on Sunday, September 15. They will be using music as a means of presenting the Gospel of Jesus Christ in a very evangelistic style.

They are an evangelistic team of nine, including instrumentalists, a public relations man, and a bus driver. Their ministry is being greatly blessed of the Lord.

In recent months dozens of people have become Christians in connection with their work and hundreds have experienced re-dedications in their Christian commitment. Their work has taken them into many of our United States.

The public is cordially invited to share in these services of Worship at the Cooleemee First Baptist Church at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. on Sunday. A special invitation is extended to the churches who are not holding evening worship services to join the First Baptist at 7:30 p. m.

Job Travel Expenses

Bill has two jobs. He works full time for a realty firm and four evenings a week for a department store. On the evenings he works, Bill goes directly from his full time job to his part time job. Can he deduct all or any portion of his transportation expenses? Yes. If you work at two places in a day, whether or not for the same employer, you may deduct the expenses of getting from one place to another. However, if for some personal reason you do not go directly from one location to the other, you may deduct only the amount it would have cost you to go directly from the first location to the second. The allowable expenses may be computed by using the actual operating expenses and depreciation, or the standard mileage of 15 cents a mile for the first 15,000 miles and 10 cents for each succeeding mile. Good records should be kept.

Chinquapin

Baptismal services were held at 5:30 p. m. at Bethlehem Baptist Church in Winston-Salem for 5 candidates from the Chinquapin Grove Baptist Church. The members of the church worshiped with the Pleasant Grove Baptist Church Wednesday night, September 11, 1974.

There will be a Spaghetti dinner held at the Chinquapin Grove Baptist church at 12:00 p. m. Sunday, September 15, 1974. Adult plates $1.00 - Children 50 cents. You are invited to come and enjoy a good dinner.

Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Cain were Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Cain and daughters of Traphill, N. C.

Bits Of Life

San Francisco's Cable Car

By ROSCOE BROWN FISHER

The cable cars of San Francisco were to Grandpa's liking. An out-of-date vehicle moving through the busy streets of a modern metropolis at a mere nine-mile-an-hour pace must have reminded him of days gone by. A good buggy horse could do twice that through town when Grandpa was a lad.

The cable cars of San Francisco were invented by Andrew Hallidie in 1873. The under-sized trolleys - pulled along by under-ground cables - have no motors. Today they are ridden by 10 million sightseers each year.

Grandpa really had the time of his life. The sometimes-noisy cables lugged the little rocking chairs up and down the steep hills of "Frisco" . . . offering grand views of the rugged city . . . occasionally, a glimpse of the ship-laden bay below.

Grasping the seat in front of him, Grandpa leaned forward for a better view. He missed nothing.

At the end of the line near the waterfront, the cable car stopped for the "turn-around." Grandpa hurriedly crawled off and helped the more eager of the sightseers push the 5-ton cable car around for the next trip across the rolling streets.

We took off towards the water front. As we turned at the next corner, the gorgeous San Francisco bay came in sight . . . then a multi-colored fiery sunset. The Golden Gate Bridge silhouetted its massive frame against a bright evening sky.

But nothing we saw and nothing I said could take Grandpa's mind from the cable car. Perhaps memories of the other end of his life when he was first pulled around the farm house in a little red wagon.

That night back in the room I lay awake thinking of the sights we had seen during the day - the rolling hills, the unique cable cars, a gigantic bride man had made . . . but nothing could surpass the gorgeous sunset God had fashioned.

Woodleaf News

The recent rains has brought farm work to a stand still in the community while there is not too much to do at this time. There is some silage to be harvested and very soon it will be time to get ground ready for wheat and other small grains.

There is very much sickness in our community at this time, with some in hospitals and others recuperating in their homes. Among those in hospitals are: Jimmy Myers who is a patient at the Veterans hospital in Salisbury and is improving and Mrs. Nancy Wetmore in the Rowan Memorial Hospital who had surgery the first of the week.

Mrs. Linda Watson is at her home improving after being a patient in the Veterans hospital in Salisbury for several months.

Mrs. C. H. Wetmore will return home the last of this week from Toccoa, Ga. where she has spent several weeks with her daughter and family. Mrs. Joe Means. Mrs. Means has been real sick for several months and is not much improved.

Mr. and Mrs. William Berry of Augusta, Ga. spent last weekend here with Mrs. Miriam Williams.

Mrs. Grace Allen has returned to her home in New York after spending several weeks with her sister Mrs. Jim McIntyre and family. Mrs. McIntyre has been a patient in Salisbury Hospital for surgery and is now at home improving.

Many people lined the tracks last Saturday to see the old Steam Locomotive and its 12 cars pass through from Winston to Ashevie. Pulling the train was the 4501 painted Green with Gold lettering and stripes. A sight to see!

Ira (Pete) Benson is improving in Rowan Memorial Hospital where he has been a patient since Sunday.

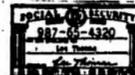

W. E. Griffin is now at home from Rowan Memorial Hospital where he had been a patient for a month. He is slowly improving.

Mrs. A. G. Etheridge is improving in Rowan Memorial Hospital from surgery the first of the week.

...about your

I'm getting monthly social security checks on my husband's work record, and I'll be 65 in 5 months. When should I apply for Medicare?

If you want to enroll in both parts - hospital and medical insurance - you don't have to do anything. You'll automatically be covered under both parts of Medicare the month you become 65. You'll get information about both parts of Medicare from social security a few months before the month your coverage starts. If you decide you don't want the Medical Insurance, you must complete the form you get from social security and return it.

I get monthly social security checks as a widow. I was married to my husband for over 30 years before he died. My next-door neighbor was only married to her husband for 10 years when he died and she gets a much bigger check from social security every month than I do. Can you explain why?

Widow's benefits under the social security program depend on a husband's average earnings in work covered by social security. The length of time you lived with your husband before his death has no bearing on the benefit amount. Your neighbor's husband apparently had a much higher earnings average than your husband, which would account for the larger monthly payments.

I'm 16 and as far as I know I've never had a social security number. When I applied for one the other day, I was told it will be several weeks before I get it. Why?

All applicants for social security numbers are now being screened against social security central files in Baltimore, Maryland, to make sure a second number is not issued to the same person.

Some parents get a social security number for their child when he is very young and the child may not be aware that he already has a number. By searching the central records, social security can be certain that only one number is given to each individual so work and earnings can be credited correctly. If you think you are going to need a social security number, you should apply for it at least several weeks before you will have to use it.

119-Year-Old

The Grant Smith family lost a faithful friend Sunday night, September 8, when their pet dog, Blackie was above, died. Blackie was 17 years old and if one year in a human's life is equivalent to seven years in a dog's life as it is believed, she was 119 years old! The Smiths lived on Wilkesboro Street, Mocksville, where she had been abandoned and later hit by a car. Mrs. Smith nursed her back to health. Blackie was a feature picture in one of last year's issues of this newspaper.

Verdict On Safety Caps

The verdict is out among pharmacists about safety packaging for drugs. Its problems, disadvantages and new dangers apparently outweigh any safety gains that these FDA-enforced child-resistant containers offer.

At the drug store level, everything from forcing, to smashing, to switching drug containers has been noted. Frustrated customers have employed the use of screw drivers, pliers, nut crackers and hammers to get into stubborn medicine vials. Demolished safety caps leave the drug contents vulnerable to the prowling hands of little toddlers as well as to the deteriorating effects of humidity.

So, we must plead with you to use sound judgment in storing your medicines - especially around small children. If you have trouble, let us demonstrate the proper method for opening. Or, we'll dispense your medicine in non-safety containers. Just ask.

Each week we present the above comments for your information. We very much appreciate your readership and would be especially happy to have you express your views regarding the contents of this space.

Jim Allen

Staying Busy At 93

"I'm just waiting for the Master."

Says Jim Allen who will celebrate his 93rd birthday in January.

"One thing I intend to do, is be ready when He calls."

"But I ain't in no hurry," he added, "I'm gonna stay here as long as He'll let me."

In the meantime, Mr. Allen has no intentions of spending his remaining time doing nothing.

This past summer, matter of factly, he tended a one and one-half acre garden near his home on the Cedar Creek Road, near Farmington.

"When anybody is used to work and of having things," he explained "They can't hardly do without."

One thing for sure, he doesn't have to worry about doing without anything in the food line. His huge garden contained a wide variety of vegetables which his daughter, Mrs. Harry Carter of Winston-Salem, has canned for him.

"She canned up in the hundreds of jars," said Mr. Allen and this doesn't include all that has been put in his large chest-type freezer. The freezer is also filled to capacity.

Mr. Allen says he had someone to plow up his land in the early spring and the rest he did himself. He "laid off" his rows with a push plow and planted all the seed. When the vegetables were ready for harvest, he did the majority of the harvesting.

"I've worked many-a-day and I gotta keep going," he says. "If I don't I might quit for good."

Until about two years ago, Mr. Allen was well-known in the Davie County area for his ability to build "old-timey" swings, which he had been doing since he was 18. This was a side-line job for him and mainly one that he enjoyed.

He also was quite good at building other furniture pieces, such as desks, chests and tables.

"I've tried near-bout everything," Mr. Allen says. And he feels very fortunate that he has always been blessed with good health which made it possible for him to keep busy all these years.

He can easily remember the time in his life that he has been sick. He says he has had pneumonia twice and about 30 years ago he had "kidney colic". These are the only illnesses he can recall during this lifetime. And he added that he only wears glasses when he reads.

He drove his car until he was 89 and he chews tobacco, without any fear of it being dangerous to his health.

"Tobacco satisfies me," he continued. "When I want to chew, I'm gonna chew."

However, Mr. Allen admits that he doesn't feel as good as when he was younger. "But a man can't expect to be wore out and not have no hurts," he said.

Mr. Allen, who is the father of five children, lost his wife about 40 years ago when he was a young man of 54. He has never re-married and still speaks of her with a great deal of affection.

Tragedy came again about 20 years ago when his father was burned to death at his home near-by. The senior Mr. Allen was 93 at the time of the fire.

Although all his children have homes and obligations of their own, Mr. Allen says he spends very little time alone. One of his children or grandchildren is usually with him.

And he is always accompanied by Martha, a little Fiest dog he's had for about 11 years. "I wouldn't take no kinda money for that dog," said Mr. Allen as little Martha hopped up on his lap.

His long and active life he says is attributed to good food, sleep and working hard. "I've never known nothing but hard work."

However, in spite of the tragedies he has experienced and the loneliness since the death of his wife, Mr. Allen is a very grateful man who feels his lifetime has been rich with blessings from God.

"God has been mighty good to me in a heap of ways."

Mr. Allen says, "I'm just waiting for the Master", however in the meantime he keeps busy.

Mr. Jim Allen, 93, harvests corn from his one and one-half acre garden.

Deputy Cook Completes Special Law Course

Deputy Sheriff Robert Cook, of the Davie County Sheriff's Department, completed courses worth 16 college credit hours in Carteret County last weekend.

The courses, sponsored by the Tenth Annual Educational Conference and Retraining Session of the North Carolina Law Enforcement Officers Association, ran from September 6-8.

The Holiday Inn and the Carteret County Technical Institute provided the facilities for the courses.

Some of the courses taken by Deputy Cook included: "Handwriting," by Durward Mathemy, SBI, Raleigh; "Explosive Devices," by P. H. Blettner, New Bern; "Photography at Crime Scene," by Carson Annis, Raleigh; "Juvenile and Law Enforcement," by Richard McMahon, Institute of Government; "PIN Computer System," by Dr. Howard Livingston and other related law enforcement seminars.

In addition to their studies, there were also several contests held for the law enforcement officers attending the conference.

Davie County won first place in the pier fishing contest in which Officer Cook caught the largest fish weighing approximately 15 pounds.

Deputy Robert Cook is shown with the trophy he won at a recent Law Enforcement Conference in Carteret County. Cook's first place catch weighed 15 pounds.

The Traffic Law Violator: He Can Lose Twice

A relatively typical case: John, age 18, is arrested and charged with a serious traffic law violation. He feels anxious during the period before trial, wondering if he will lose his driver license.

Finally, the case is docketed. John appears, is tried and convicted. But lo and behold the judge doesn't revoke or suspend his license.

John returns home relieved, only to receive notice a short time later that the Department of Motor Vehicles has suspended his license. John is bewildered and more than a trifle resentful. His bewilderment and resentment result from a poor understanding of the way out traffic licensing system works.

Neither young drivers nor older ones fully understand the procedure for suspending or revoking driver licenses in North Carolina, says W.C. Wheelless, Chief Hearing Officer with Driver Licensing Division of the North Carolina Department of Motor Vehicles.

"Young drivers, particularly, cannot make the distinction between judicial action by the Department of Motor Vehicles," he points out.

Mr. Wheelless explains that the system works this way: A judge may place a non-driving period on a person as a part of a suspended sentence, but judges themselves are not vested with authority to suspend a driver license. Suspension and revocation of driver licenses can only result from administrative action taken by the Department of Motor Vehicles.

Suspension or revocation of a driver license by administrative action is possible because driving a motor vehicle is not a right, but a privilege-a privilege that can be restricted, withheld or denied to anyone for many reasons, such as medical problems or failure to maintain required limits of automobile liability insurance.

Administrative action is most often decisive and definite because state law prescribes the action to be taken for any given set of circumstances. To wit:

A motorist convicted of traveling 15 miles per hour or more above the posted speed limit may have his license suspended for at least 30 days.

An accumulation of twelve or more motor vehicle points resulting from a variety of traffic law violations will also lead to a driver license suspension.

An accumulation of twelve or more motor vehicle points resulting from a variety of traffic law violations will also lead to a driver license suspension.

Revocations are reserved for Naval ROTC Is Open To Women

Since 1926, the Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps has offered the opportunity for young men to qualify for commissions in the U. S. Naval Reserve while attending college. In 1972 the NROTC program was opened to women.

The program is maintained for one purpose-to educate and train quality young men and women for careers as commissioned officers of the regular Navy and Marine Corps. NROTC and the Naval Academy provide the two most highly competitive officer candidate programs in the navy.

The Navy is currently receiving applications for the Scholarship Program for 1975 fall term of college. To qualify all applicants must take either the American College Test (ACT) or the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT). The last permissible dates for taking these test are October 19, 1974, for the ACT, and November 2, 1974, for the SAT. November 15, 1974, is the deadline for receiving all applications.

NROTC Scholarship students are appointed midshipmen, United States Naval Reserve, by the secretary of the Navy, and granted the compensations and benefits authorized by law for a period not to exceed four years. During these years of college training the Navy pays tuition, cost of textbooks, fees of an instructional nature, and a subsistence allowance of $100 per month, for a maximum of 40 months.

Young men and women interested in the NROTC Scholarship Program can contact their local Navy Recruiter at 704-249-8231 or 919-723-2715 for further information.

more serious problems such as hit and run accidents involving a drunken driver and death or serious injury to another person... While the law specific, it does provide for the Department of Motor Vehicles to consider the circumstances of each case.

Drivers between 16 and 18 of age are very susceptible to administrative action against their licenses since they are on "probation" during the initial stages of their driving careers. Young persons should be encouraged to become familiar with the system and the way it works so they will understand why certain actions may be taken. More importantly, knowledge of the system can help them avoid becoming involved in driving situations that will result in suspension or revocation of their driving privilege.

A pamphlet entitled "Suspensions and Revocations" is available free of charge from the Department of Motor Vehicles, Drivers License Division, Raleigh, N.C. 27611. The pamphlet provides an easy to understand explanation of the license suspension and revocation procedure for drivers in the State.

Secretarial Workshop To Be Held Saturday

"Effective Time Management" will be the theme of the Annual Secretarial Workshop to be sponsored by the Winston-Salem Chapter of the National Secretaries Association (International) Saturday, September 14, at the Elks Club on Silas Creek Parkway.

Several hundred secretaries and office personnel from Piedmont North Carolina are expected to attend.

Dave Plyler, well-known TV personality, will be the moderator for a panel of distinguished guests who will discuss the subjects of "Analyzing the Secretary's Time," "The Boss's Time," and "The Boss and Secretary as a Time-Conscious Team." The executives on the panel will be Dr. Ernest A. Fitzgerald, Senior Minister of Centenary United Methodist Church; A. Horace Deudney, assistant personnel manager of R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company; and Mrs. Doris Randolph, attorney with the of Randolph and Randolph. Secretaries on the panel will be Mrs. Curtis Campbell of Western Electric Company; Miss Margaret Byrd, CPS, of King Hunter, Inc. and Mrs. Joyce Neely of the Downtowner Motor Inn.

After the program, a buffet luncheon will be served and local models will model fashions from Davis Department Store featuring office attire for secretaries and businesswomen.

Among the special guests will be Ms. Libby Hanes, president of the North Carolina Division of NSA.

For information concerning reservations, please call Mrs. Elizabeth Lewis at 724-8311 or Mrs. Virginia Wilkerson at 744-2331.

Special Event Set For Handicapped

A special "Better Hearing Consultation" for Mocksville-area residents who have, or suspect they might have, a hearing loss problem has been set for September 14. The special consultation, which includes hearing loss tests, will be conducted by Ray O. Bed-saul, a factory-trained Belltone hearing aid specialist.

The special consultation is being sponsored by George T. McDonald of Belltone Hearing Aid Center and will be held at 222 1/2 N. Main St., Mocksville, N.C. from 10 a.m. til 3 p.m. Mr. McDonald is the local authorized dealer for Chiago-based Belltone Electronics Corporation, world leader in hearing aids and electronic hearing test instruments.

Two Dances Courses Offered

Two dance courses for men and women will be offered in the fall program at the Spruce Street Y. M. C. A.

A ballroom dancing course for beginners will start September 13 at 8 p.m. and will meet each Friday for eight weeks.

An intermediate course will begin September 12 and will continue each Thursday for eight weeks, starting at 8 p.m.

All classes will be one hour sessions. Missed lessons may be made up and participants do not need to enroll with a partner.

Instructions will be given in basic steps of cha-cha, waltz, fox-trot, jitterbug, and rock in the beginner course.

Variations and turns of basic steps plus South American dances will be taught in the intermediate series.

An advanced course will be scheduled at the completion of the intermediate course for those who wish to continue their training.

If in doubt as to one's level of achievement, participants may attend the first session of each course and then choose the one in which he or she is most comfortable.

Informal dances will be conducted at regular intervals during the dance season for students and their guests.

The Y.M.C.A. adult dance program is under the direction of Dorothy Covington.

Call the Spruce Street Y.M.C.A. to reserve a place in the class.

United States now exceeds the total combined number of people afflicted with heart disease, cancer, blindness, tuberculosis, multiple sclerosis and kidney disease, Mr. McDonald said everyone should have their hearing tested annually to make certain no significant change in hearing ability goes undetected.

For your own peace of mind, Mr. McDonald urges persons to take advantage of this timely opportunity to have a hearing test.

"Individuals who pass the test will have the peace of mind that comes from knowing your hearing ability is normal. And if such a test indicates a person has a hearing loss, help to alleviate that loss can then be sought," he adds.

Vehicles Collide

Two vehicles collided September 4th around 2:50 p.m. on Main Street, 25-feet north of Depot St.

Involved was a 1972 Ford operated by Patsy Sue Wall, 16, of Mocksville and 1965 Buick operated by Thomas Mason Bowles, 64, of Mocksville.

Capt. R. W. Groce of the Mocksville Police Department said his investigation showed that the Bowles vehicle was leaving a parking space and did not see the Wall car, hitting same in the right door.

Damage to the Ford was estimated at $75. There was no damage to the Buick.

Using Steel Shot

There will be no overall flyway-wide ban on the use of lead shot for 1974 waterfowl season, but a number of state, federal and private waterfowling areas will require the use of steel shot for duck and goose shooting this fall and winter.

Reports from the National Shooting Sport Foundation indicates some questions concerning the steel shot.

One important question: Will the harder pellets damage gun barrels?

Gun manufacturers indicate that steel shot will not significantly affect the performance or life of a good quality shotgun, but in shotguns with thinner barrels the use of steel shot may cause barrel rings or bulges, which could spoil the appearance and patterning characteristics of the gun.

Another question on the effect on, or the range of the steel shot.

Steel pellets are lighter than lead pellets of the same size and will lose velocity and energy more rapidly. Hunters using steel shot should pay more attention to shooting range, and wait until birds are inside a 40-yard limit.

The U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service has proposed a three year phaseout of lead shot for waterfowl hunting starting in 1976, a final decision will not be made until after public hearings scheduled for each of the four flyways.

New Manager Of Pee Dee NWR

Burkett S. Neely Jr. has been named manager of the Pee Dee National Wildlife Refuge.

As manager of the 2500-acre Pee Dee Refuge, he will develop the area for waterfowl and upland game use. As administrator of the refuge, he will be responsible for its operation and maintenance, law enforcement, and public relations.

Prior to his new position, Neely was manager of Cape Romain Refuge in South Carolina.

Hunters Checked Deer

During the past hunting season, the number of hunters who voluntarily checked their deer kills at the some 1,500 Wildlife Cooperator Agent stations scattered across North Carolina increased.

"We are pleased to see that more and more hunters are helping us learn about deer populations by using this system," said Frank Barick, chief of the Division of Game. "We need the information so that we can better manage our big game populations in all parts of the state."

During the first year of Wildlife Cooperator Agent program, about one in 12 deer killed was taken to agents. During the past season, about one out of every eight and a half deer killed was checked, and this figure is more impressive when you consider that the deer population was greater during the past year and more deer were killed.

During the 1972-73 season, 4,034 deer were checked by Wildlife Cooperator Agents. During the 1973-74 season, 5,508 deer were checked, along with 46 bears.

September Festival

Pleasure Island, (Carolina Beach, Kure Beach, Wilmington and Fort Fisher,) kicked off their September festival last week, which includes a fall fishing tournament with over $3,000 in awards to be given away.

In an effort to promote and extend the recreation season in these areas, the September festival will continue until November, with fishing, golfing, art and crafts, beauty contest and many other events throughout the remaining weeks.

Davie Meets South Iredell Here Friday Night

War Eagles Lose Opener To S. Stokes

Davie High War Eagles will meet South Iredell here in a North Piedmont Conference football Friday night. Kickoff is set for 8 p.m.

The War Eagles opened the season last Saturday night by dropping a 0-21 decision to South Stokes in a non-conference game played at King. The game was originally scheduled for Friday night but was postponed to Saturday because of rain.

Coach Bill Peeler's War Eagles were plagued by penalties, turnovers and an ineffective passing game.

Davie was penalized 100 yards as compared to 70 for South Stokes. The Eagles lost the ball on turnovers on five occasions—three times on pass interceptions and twice on fumbles.

Last year Tom Eanes passed for over 1,000 yards for Davie, but last Saturday night the Eagles couldn't click through the air. They completed only one of 13 aerials for nine yards.

Davie ran for 109 yards on the ground, led by Ron Anderson with 56 yards in 21 carries. Anderson, however, bruised his shoulder early in the third quarter and left the game. He carried the ball only twice after the intermission.

South Stokes took a 7-0 lead in the opening quarter on Keith Merrell's 26-yard touchdown run and Steve Hicks' extra-point conversion.

Early in the third stanza, Ricky Ring caught a pass from Hicks for 71-yard scoring play. Hicks added the extra point for a 14-0 lead.

South Stokes scored its final touchdown in the third stanza on Merrell's one-yard run and Hicks' conversion.

Davie's defense was paces by middle guard Donnie Price. End Steve Hepler and tackle Greg Pulliam recovered fumbles for Davie.

The scoring summary:
 South Stokes 7 0 14 0-21
 55—Merrell 26 run (Hicks kick)
 55—Ring 71 pass from Hicks (Hicks kick)

Deadline For Davie Open Golf Tournament Is September 27

The deadline for submitting entry blanks for the Davie Open Golf Tournament has been extended until September 27. Entry blanks are available at all Davie County and surrounding area courses. They may be turned in to Joe Mando at the Davie County Health Department, to Bruce Tuttle at the Court House or to the Twin Cedars Golf Course.

The entry fee for the tournament, to be held at Twin Cedars Golf Course on October 5th and 6th, is $12. All entry blanks must be submitted by September 27. Pairings and starting times will appear in this paper the following week.

The Mocksville Jaycees, sponsors of the tournament, will be giving away a set of top, pro line woods to the winner of the championship flight. In addition to the clubs, which are the XS 1000 series by Ram Golf Company, the winner will receive a trophy.

The second place winner in the championship flight will receive a Wilson golf bag. The top finishers in both the first and second flights will receive pro line golf bags. The low scoring player for Saturday and Sunday will be awarded a dozen Titleist golf balls.

On Saturday the golfer coming closest to the pin on the 18th hole will win a 12 inch Zenith portable TV. A table, retailing at around $100 will go to the golfer closest to the 18th pin on Sunday.

A 1975 Monte Carlo, donated by Pennington Chevrolet, will be given for one year's use for a hole-in-one on hole number 4 on Sunday only.

In all, a total of $750 in prizes will be given in the tournament in addition to the possible use of a $6,000 car for a year. Joe Mando, chairman of the tournament committee, urged all Jaycees to get their entry blanks and enter the contest. He also extended a challenge to all golfers at Bermuda Run, Hickory Hill and Twin Cedars to participate in the tournament.

Big Prizes For Stock Car Race

If you're not too "chicken" to travel 100 miles an hour around a relatively tight banked asphalt oval, you can win a large box of chickens—plus a country ham.

All you have to do is enter the Sept. 22 "Wilkes 400" NASCAR Grand National stock car race and register a qualifying speed of 100 mph or better.

In the fine print of the entry forms mailed recently for the 250-mile race on the banked five-eighths of a mile asphalt North Wilkesboro Speedway was a notation that, in addition to prize money, each driver reaching the century mark in qualifying trials Sept. 21-22 will get the unique prizes for his dining table.

The chickens are from Holly Farms, largest industry in Wilkes County. The hams, speedway president Enoch Staley said, will be compliments of the speedway. He added with pride: "They are Wilkes County country hams."

The rest of the entry form showed, incidentally, that the 14th staging of the race offers cash awards totalling $39,455 with a first prize of $7,225—both records for the event.

And if you're the fastest qualifier in the Sept. 21 opening round of trials, you'll also get the $500 pole position cash award (as well as the chickens and the ham, of course).

How many chickens and hams will be passed out? A lot of them. Possibly 30 or more drivers will take home the pork and fowl awards. The track qualifying record is 107.558 mph (set in 1971 by Charlie Glotzbach), and in recent years only two or three drivers who qualified at less than 100 mph have been getting into a starting field limited to 30 cars.

On one occasion (in 1972), all but one of the starters topped 100 in qualifying.

"We want to make it 100 per cent at 100 miles an hour," said Staley, "and if I know race drivers' appetites, dangling some chickens and country hams in front of them should do the trick. After all, they get money everywhere they go."

Hiking Is Good For Health

If you're planning to hike yourself into shape this fall, you're on the trail to good health.

Doctors say brisk outdoor walking helps reduce the cholesterol level in the blood at the same time it puts the firmness back into flabby muscles. And just being outdoors is invigorating, especially in the fall. Best of all, says Aetna Life & Casualty, the nation's largest private health insurer, walking is one of few of the forms of exercise almost everyone can enjoy.

Hiking, however, demands caution against certain hazards. Most important, warns Aetna, never keep going beyond the point of fatigue. It's far easier to strain or pull a muscle when resistance is low.

Call it quits when you feel pleasantly tired, and avoid hilly routes unless you know you're in good condition. This is doubly true, says Aetna, for older people and those with a history of heart trouble.

Outdoor dangers vary with the different regions of the country, and you should know how to cope with those you're likely to meet. Bites of any sort, rashes from the wrong kind of ivy, and sometimes even sunburn can put you out of action if you're not careful.

On the whole, all you need to enjoy your hike is a little common sense. Just remember that the object is to come back feeling better than when you left.

Allen Barger, a 6 foot 205 pound senior at Lenoir Rhyne College, has been named captain of the 1974 football squad. Barger is one of the best blockers on the team and was named to the All-District and All-Lutheran teams last year. He is a steady and dependable player who should provide good leadership for the Bears at his position as center. Allen is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Barger of Crestview Drive, Mocksville.

 BY JIM DEAN

You may have had a little trouble finding out about the seasons and bag limits for such migratory birds as rails, woodcock, gallinules and snipe this year. It seems to be an annual problem.

Therefore, I'm going to furnish the information here in case you've missed it.

By the way, the reason this information is not in the 1974-75 N. C. Hunting and Trapping Regulations is because migratory birds are regulated by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, and the Federal dates and bag limits arrive too late to be printed in the state regulations booklet. The information is sent to newspapers and license agents, but it's easy for a hunter to miss seeing a newspaper story.

Anyway, if you haven't seen these regulations, here they are:

As you undoubtedly know, the season on the mourning dove opened September 2 and the first half of the split season will close October 12. The second half will open December 14 and close January 11. The daily bag limit is 12 with a possession limit of 24. Doves may be shot from noon to sunset.

The season on king, clapper, sora and Virginia rails also opened September 2 and will close November 9. The daily limit for king and clapper rails is 15 with a possession limit of 30. The daily bag limit on sora and Virginia rails is 25 with a possession limit of 25.

Likewise, the season on gallinules also opened September 2 and will close November 9 with a daily bag limit of 15 and a season limit of 30.

The season on woodcock and Wilson's snipe will run concurrent; opening on December 6 and closing February 8. The daily limit on woodcock is five with a possession limit of 10 while the daily limit on snipe is eight with a possession limit of 16.

Chances are you've already gotten the word on the waterfowl seasons this year, but a reminder might be worthwhile. As you probably know, the Canada goose daily bag limit is again one with a possession limit of two, and the season on Canadas is November 28 through January 16.

Ducks - except coots - will be under the point system this year for the first time in North Carolina. Also, there will be a split duck season this year with the first half of the season opening at noon on October 9 and running through October 12. The second half will open at noon on November 27 and close January 16.

Coots are exempt from the point system and the limit is 15 daily with 30 in possession. The cool season corresponds with the split season on ducks.

Sea ducks - such as scoters, eiders and old squaws - also fall into a special category, the season on sea ducks opens October 2 and closes January 16, and the daily limit is seven with a possession limit of 14. However, during the regular duck season, sea ducks become a 10-point bird under the point system.

The N. C. Wildlife Resources Commission is preparing a folder which will further explain the waterfowl seasons and the point system, and it should be ready shortly. Also, you can check the October issue of Wildlife in North Carolina which will feature an article on this subject.

If you want to write the N. C. Wildlife Resources Commission for detailed information on the migratory and waterfowl regulations, drop a card to Wildlife Resources Commission, Division of Education, 325 N. Salisbury Street, Raleigh, North Carolina 27611.

YMCA To Offer Special Fitness Classes

The Spruce Street YMCA will start the fall series of beginner swimmer, swimming improvement and physical fitness for women and girls on Monday, September 16.

Classes planned include:
 A basic swimming class for girls, 6 through 14 years of age; 7 to 8 p. m. on Monday and Wednesday for four weeks.

Advanced classes for intermediate and swimmer skill level girls: 7 to 8 p. m. on Monday and Wednesday for four weeks.

Physical fitness the Y's way for women will be offered from 7 to 8 p. m. on Monday and Wednesday for four weeks.

A basic swimming class for women, 15 years of age and over will meet from 8 to 9:15 p. m. on Monday and Wednesday for four weeks.

Advanced class for women will be offered on Monday and Wednesday from 8 to 9:15 p. m. for four weeks.

Day classes for all swimming skill levels will start on Tuesday, Sept. 17 and will continue to meet on Tuesday and Thursday for four weeks. A special feature of this program will be a physical fitness the Y's way for women which will meet from 10 to 11 a. m. Instruction will be in physical fitness to improve posture, muscle tone and endurance. The swimming classes will meet from 11 a. m. to noon.

Intermediate and swimmer skill level students will be taught the basic styles of swimming. Beginners will receive instruction in floating and swimming on the back, the basic crawl, the back crawl, treading water and beginners' diving.

Other classes in the fall swimming program for women will begin on October 15 and November 12.

Each student must bring a towel, suit and cap to the first class. Students may register by calling the Spruce Street YMCA.

"Mamas" Kidnap Local Announcer

It was daring! It was ingenious! And best of all it was successful!

Around 9:45 a.m. on the morning of Friday, September 6, four not so inconspicuous figures reminiscent of a by-gone era pulled up at Radio Station WDSL to begin their day long campaign. Dressed in clothes from the flapper era, packing shot guns and being chauffeured in Roy Anderson's A-Model Ford, three local ladies under the alias of "The Big Bad Mamas" entered Station WDSL and at 9:48 a.m. kidnaped local radio announcer, Jonathon Seamon.

Pleas for mercy bombarded WDSL listeners as the "Mamas" carried Seamon away to their pre-determined destination.

The next 30 minutes were filled with suspense as the whereabouts of the five were unknown.

Leaks from inside sources indicated that the "Mamas" and their hostage were headed for Wilkins Drug Company where they planned to hold Seamon for ransom.

The leaks proved to be accurate when around 10:15 the A-Model, accompanied by gun shots announcing the arrival of the "Mamas", pulled up in front of Wilkins Drug.

The three feminine kidnapers then transferred their hostage to the display window, where two of the threesome stood watch over the captive.

The "Big Bad Mamas" revealed the intent of their intricate plot - money, of course. But the money was not to be used to invest in their selfish desires. The money was to be used to purchase lights for the Mocksville Little League Baseball field at Rich Park.

But the plan was not executed without a flaw, for around 7 p.m., the prisoner escaped from his captors and went into hiding. But the plan was not altogether lost. When WDSL went off the air Friday, the "Mamas" announced that they had raised the needed money and that Seamon could come out of hiding. It ended successfully for both parties.

At last count, the "Mamas" had raised $461 from their day's work. Bill Collette, Secretary-Treasurer of the Mocksville Little League, said that a total of $1600 had been collected by the end of Friday with $200 more needed to cover the cost of the lights.

Some WDSL listeners responded by phoning in pledges of money to WDSL to "ransom" Seamon from the "Mamas." Collette said he had no way of knowing how much money in pledges was still unpaid. But confident that the remaining $200 would come in, Collette said the lights had been ordered Monday.

Thanks to some "Big Bad Mamas" the Mocksville Little League will have some light to play by now.

Here is more about the Ala Moana, the world's famous shopping center!

I wish I had time to tell you about every restaurant in the Ala Moana, but, I don't. So, I'll mention a few:

The China House... there are 125 items on the menu... at Honolulu's newest caftonese restaurant prices range from $1.50 up.

LaRonde... you take an aerial view of Honolulu while you dine in this revolving restaurant... continental cuisine, featuring steaks, curry and their popular chicken pineapple.

Some of the foods you can order include banana pancakes. If you ever order them, you will come back for more. At the Ala Moana Coffee Shop, you will also like the spicy sausage, a tasty teriyakiburger and the "luau lunch" served every Friday. You can order heaping plates of kalua pig, bright red lom salmon, thick pastry oven fresh rye bread, poi, coconut cake and fruit punch.

The shrimp Hawaiian salad is a shoppers special each day and is on the menu constantly changing for visitors. You can see why this is a busy place. They serve delicious foods... breakfast, lunch and dinner.

I'm one of those people who loves candles. And, there is no such thing as a dripless, smokeless candle in Hawaii. The reason is because Hawaiian homes are always open to the trade winds and they keep their windows and doors open to the cooling breezes. Every candle will drip and smoke under these conditions. The collection of candles in Hawaii is in the tens of thousands. They come from every part of the world and the price range is from 28 cents to $125. The Hale Kukui Shop has them all. They have colored, scented, foreign, and Hawaiian, long burning, carved and decorated. This shop is a favorite.

You can even find the entertainment at the Ala Moana. Free hula shows throughout the year. The young people's hula show is perfect... an authentic polynesian show... and it is presented every Sunday morning at 9:30 on the Ala Moana Center's Lanai stage. The Ala Moana is a shoppers paradise and is one of the most unique shopping centers anywhere.

Individuality Read every day something new one else is reading. Think every day something on one else is thinking. It is bad for the mind to be always a part of a unanimity.

Wim's Whims

By Wim Osborne

What did you see today?

Today I saw... A small spider confidently embroidering its web home. The first hints of fall colors in the leaves.

A puppy defiantly taking possession of the middle of the street. (He won.)

Ants busily rebuilding - after several days of rain - their homes in crevices of the cement sidewalk.

Dogwood blooms in September!

A little boy happily enjoying a "treat" after having his cut hand sewed - the fight and pain - for a short while, anyway - forgotten.

An "A Model" pass a 1974 Chevy!

A brick, bushy-tailed squirrel daring a frustrated cat to follow him up the tree.

A dear lady who had passed into a new life - I touched her face in gentle goodby.

The proud, half-shy grin of wonder as the new father looked at his first born.

Tonight I saw... A "possum's" bright, red eyes gleaming when the car lights spotlighted him about to cross the road.

A sky filled with stars blinking their message that, at last, the rain had stopped.

The "star" in the center of an apple.

NATURALLY ACID

Most soils in North Carolina are naturally acid. Most crops and landscape plants grown in the state do better on "sweeter" or less acid soils. This is why it's always a good policy before planting to have a soil test made to determine how much, if any, lime is needed to bring the pH into the proper acid-alkaline range.

North Carolina Rescue Squad Week Proclaimed

Governor James E. Holshouser, Jr. has designated the week of September 8-15, 1974, as "North Carolina Rescue Squad Week."

"The purpose of proclaiming this week as 'North Carolina Rescue Squad Week' is to honor and recognize rescue squad members throughout the state. There are 211 member squads in the N. C. Association of Rescue Squads and approximately 6000 North Carolinians involved in rescue squad work, many of whom are volunteers.

The highlight of the week will be the eighteenth annual conference of the N. C. Association of Rescue Squads in Charlotte on September 13-15, 1974. In addition to various business meetings, there will be a helicopter seminar and an open panel discussion with rescue squad members and the Office

Crescent Directors Attend Conference

Six directors of Crescent Electric Membership Corporation attended a special statewide conference for rural electric cooperative directors in Greensboro, September 5-6.

They were Henry Gabriel, W. B. Renegar, T. B. Woodruff, Floyd Morrow, S. L. Johnson, and E. R. Crater.

The meeting featured sessions on selecting and keeping effective co-op managers, on the duties and responsibilities of co-op directors, and on problems facing co-ops today and in the future.

Speakers included John Dolinger, vice president of the Board of Directors of the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association (NRECA); Bob Cleveland, executive vice president of North Carolina Electric Membership Corporation (N. C. EMC); William T. Crisp, N. C. EMC legal counsel; and two NRECA staff members.

N. C. EMC, the state association of rural electric cooperatives, sponsored the conference which was attended by 126 directors from across the state.

of Emergency Medical Services of the N. C. Department of Human Resources. Rescue squads will also compete against each other in first aid and rescue competition. The awards banquet is scheduled for Saturday night.

The text of the governor's proclamation reads as follows: WHEREAS, recognition is due for the devoted efforts of the many hundreds of men and women who comprise the volunteer ambulance services and rescue squads in North Carolina; and

WHEREAS, in appreciation of the recent efforts of these dedicated citizens toward upgrading their skills and improving the services they provide; and

WHEREAS, North Carolinians should express their appreciation and pride for the generous and unselfish service which has become the hallmark of the volunteer movement; and

WHEREAS, the N. C. Association of Rescue Squads will conduct its eighteenth annual convention September 13-15, 1974 in Charlotte;

THEREFORE, I proclaim the week of September 8-15, 1974 NORTH CAROLINA RESCUE SQUAD WEEK and commend this observance to our citizens.

Davie 4 - H

The Davie Academy 4-H Club met Monday night, September 2, 1974, at 7:30. The meeting was called to order by Vice-President, Paula Shew. The roll was called and the minutes were read by Secretary, Darlene Shew. The members then joined together in saying the pledges. Jane Cartner read the devotions.

The business discussed was the Center Fair, the past Carowinds Trip, the State Fair, 4-H scrapbook, and our Fair Booth. Mr. Jim Sloop, 4-H Agent, was our visitor. He told us what was expected of our 4-H project books. The refreshments were served by Mrs. Becky Cartner, and the meeting was adjourned.

Reporter- Janice Swicegood.

Program To Assist Growers With Carryover Tobacco Available

Flue-cured growers throughout the flue-cured tobacco area can deliver their carryover tobacco on hand at the end of the marketing season to Flue-Cured Tobacco Cooperative Stabilization Corporation for processing and storage until the 1975 marketing season, according to Fred G. Bond, General Manager.

The USDA Tobacco Loan Program was amended in 1973 to provide loans on flue-cured tobacco carried over by growers from one marketing year to another to avoid marketing in excess of the applicable farm quota. This will help alleviate many of the problems encountered with carry over tobacco stored on the farm as insect damage and deterioration in quality.

The program will operate basically in the following manner: Growers will deliver carryover tobacco to the CO-OP at designated receiving points in the area at which time the tobacco will be weighed and graded into a standard USDA grade by an Inspector of the Grading Service. Sheets will also be exchanged at this time.

A record will be prepared showing full identification of the grower, weight of each sheet, USDA grade, and total weight of delivery. A copy of this record will be given to the grower and a copy forwarded to the State ASCS Office. The tobacco will then be processed and stored in the same manner as regular tobacco with the exception that all carryover tobacco is not eligible for sale or loan until the next marketing season which begins on July 1 each year, no payment or settlement can be made to growers until after July 1, 1975. At that time the tobacco will be offered for sale. Any tobacco that does not bring an acceptable price will be offered in the regular loan inventory at 1975 loan rates. Proceeds from the sales and/or loans advanced, less the expenses incurred during the carryover period, will be distributed to growers after July 1, 1975.

Plans for location of receiving points where growers may deliver their carryover tobacco will be determined and growers will be notified as to scheduling deliveries at such designated receiving points in the near future.

Medical Society Honors County 4-H Health Winner

Paula Shew, a student at Davie High School and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Shew of Route 1, Mocksville, is an achiever in the world of county 4-H and in the world of proper health care.

In recognition of such excellence, the North Medical Society is awarding a subscription to "Today's Health" magazine to the school in her name.

Paula is a senior and a member of the Davie Academy 4-H Club and Junior Leader Club.

The Medical Society's statewide awards program annually recognizes outstanding accomplishments by county 4-H students in areas of health. This year, 71 students from throughout North Carolina are being honored by "Today's Health" magazine gift subscriptions from the Medical Society.

"Today's Health" is a national publication of the American Medical Association devoted to providing the American family with sound, practical, readable health information.

Winning student projects ranged from personal and family health improvement to community health and safety programs involving in some cases, community programs for the blind, community clean-up campaigns, holiday refreshment stands for weary highway drivers, rest home visitations as well as hospital assistance by various groups and individuals.

In all projects, the goal was improvement of health and each project dealt with areas which would improve overall farm health and safety.

Miss Heffner In New Post

Miss Cynthia E. Heffner of Raleigh has been appointed District Collegiate Director by Phi Mu national collegiate sorority. In her new post, Miss Heffner will work with collegiate chapters in the state of North Carolina for the 64,000 member organization for college women.

Founded nearly a century and a quarter ago at Wesleyan College in Macon, Georgia, Phi Mu today is one of the five largest national sororities in number of collegiate chapters. In 1963, Phi Mu adopted Project HOPE as its social service project and is the largest single contributor to that philanthropy.

Miss Heffner is a student at North Carolina State University in the Graduate Department of Guidance and Personnel Service. A former National Phi Mu Field Secretary, she is affiliated with the American Personnel and Guidance. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oren J. Heffner of Park Avenue, Mocksville.

Crescent Employees Attend Seminar

Four employees of Crescent Electric Membership Corporation attended a statewide seminar for electric cooperative secretaries, cashiers, and receptionist in Greensboro, August 28-29.

They were Mary Charles Atwell, Louise G. Hammer, Jamie J. Revis, and Helen F. Setzer, all District Office Service Representatives.

The two-day work program featured training work in management and human relations, with special emphasis being given to improving oral and written communications. Clay Hardesty of Dayton, Ohio, a nationally-recognized authority on secretarial training, conducted the seminar. The program was sponsored by the North Carolina Electric Membership Corporation, the state association of rural electric cooperatives.

Crescent EMC serves more than 21,000 consumer-members in Gaston, Mecklenburg, Wilkes, Yadkin, Alexander, Iredell, Davie, Rowan, Cabarrus, Lincoln, and Catawba Counties.

Local Special Education Teachers Attends Workshop

Bobbye Draughon, a special education teacher from Mocksville, attended a workshop August 20-21 on the Appalachian State University campus.

The workshop, called "Helping Young Children to Learn," was co-sponsored by ASU's Division of Human Resources and the Northwest Regional Education Center, part of the State Department of Public Instruction.

The workshop was designed to provide an opportunity for teachers who work with children encountering learning difficulties a chance to get together, share ideas and learn from each other new techniques and materials that can be used in the classroom, according to Edna Mulgrew, instructor for ASU's Division of Human Resources and co-director of the workshop.

Topics discussed evolved from a questionnaire mailed in the spring to teachers of special education, learning resources and day care centers. Diagnostic and prescriptive teaching in the classroom and techniques for teaching in the classroom and the techniques for teaching the exceptional child were some of the areas covered.

POWER LINE

Direct answers to the questions most often asked about Duke Power and your electric service

Q Duke Power has said that nuclear power plants are cleaner and more economical than coal-burning plants. So why are you building a huge new coal-burning plant near Winston-Salem?

A In the late 1960s, we had to decide whether to design the Belews Creek Steam Station, near Winston-Salem, as a coal-fired or nuclear power plant. At that time, coal prices were much lower. From the cost standpoint, the choice of fuels was a tossup. The deciding factor was timing—it takes about two years longer to build a nuclear plant. The only way to complete the new plant by the time its output would be needed was to make it coal-burning.

Q Last weekend at Lake Norman, I caught a bass with a yellow tag in its back. What does the tag mean? Frankly, we're surprised you caught one so soon. Our fisheries biologists are now tagging different kinds of fish in Lake Norman as part of a continuing study of power plant effects on fish and other aquatic life. Tag collection stations will soon be located at each of the Duke Power access areas at the lake, so that fishermen can leave the tags in special envelopes.

In the meantime, if you catch a tagged fish in Lake Norman, mail the tag to:
Duke Power Company
Environmental Laboratory
Route 3, Box 90
Huntersville, N.C. 28078

Please tell us the date the fish was caught, where you caught it, its length and weight and any unusual physical conditions. Include your name and address, so we can send you a package of plastic worms to thank you for your help.

Q Duke Power has a lower rate for customers with electric water heaters. Why don't you have a lower rate for people with air conditioners, too?

A One of the biggest expenses in providing your electric service is the tremendous cost of building the generating plants and transmission and distribution systems. These costs can be recovered at a lower unit cost for electricity if the facilities are operated (and producing revenues) on a constant basis. Water heaters, of course, operate at an almost steady rate year-around. Air conditioners, on the other hand, operate only during the warmest months of the year.

Q If Duke Power loses money through the operation of Crescent Land and Timber Corporation (a Duke Power subsidiary), do you make up the loss by charging more for electricity?

A No. The financial affairs of Crescent Land and Timber Corporation are entirely separate from those of Duke Power. Its profit or loss has absolutely no effect on Duke Power's electric rates.

Q Since electric rates have to be increased to cover the higher cost of fuel and the tremendous construction costs of steam-electric plants, why doesn't Duke Power build more hydroelectric stations?

A Hydroelectric dams look impressive, but the amount of electricity they produce is rather small in relation to our demand. Although we've already harnessed most of the available water power in the Piedmont Carolinas, our hydro plants account for less than ten per cent of our total generating capacity. Even if power dams were built on all the remaining large streams in our area, their combined output would only equal our expected demand growth for one year. It's not enough. The only way we can keep up with demand for the power is by building more steam-electric stations.

Q How can I read my own electric meter?

A It's really quite easy. Our little booklet, "Your Electric Meter: The Story in a Nutshell," tells how. Ask for a free copy at your local Duke Power office.

Do you have a question about Duke Power or your electric service? We'll be pleased to answer it. Just call your local Duke Power office...or write to Duke Power, Public Information, P.O. Box 2178, Charlotte, N.C. 28242.

Bill Hefner Proposes Tax Break For Average Working Man

Congressional candidate Bill Hefner proposed a "tax break" for the average working man as a means of curbing inflation and the high cost of living. He suggested a tax deduction for home improvements and automobile repairs for families with less than $12,000 a year income.

"I have been studying the nation's economy very closely for the past year and I don't like the trend of the so-called financial experts are leading us," Hefner said as he criticized proposals aimed at helping big corporations, but not individuals.

"Some economist say give oil companies, auto manufacturers and other big business a tax break so they can plow money back into more production," he said. "Some have said raise taxes. Others, including presidential advisors, have suggested a ten-cent per gallon tax on gasoline."

"Most businesses get a depreciation on their machinery and equipment,"

Vehicles In Collision

Vehicles were involved in a collision September 4th, around 5:10 p.m. on Rural Paved Road No. 1140, 2.2 miles west of Mocksville.

Involved was a 1968 Plymouth operated by Perri Yvonne Phillope of Mocksville Rt. 1 and a 1974 Toyota operated by Larry Wayne Harbin, 27, of Mocksville.

State Highway Patrolman J. L. Payne said his investigation showed that the Phillope vehicle was turning into a private drive, the Harbin vehicle following behind was unable to get slowed down in time to avoid the collision.

Damage to the Plymouth was estimated at $125 and $600 to the Toyota. Harbin was charged with failure to reduce speed.

Hefner declared, "but the working man gets no depreciation on the only thing he has, his physical ability to work. He needs to help cut his cost of living, not raise it."

The broadcast executive who is making his first bid for public office proposed to "give a family making $12,000 or less a year a tax deduction for such items as replacement of worn-out heating systems, refrigerators and other major appliances, extensive repairs to automobiles two years or older and other items that are vital to one's everyday living."

"The average tax payer is having to pay 15 percent to 50 percent more for services and nearly that much more for goods each year. It appears only logical that our government move to cut the cost of living rather than add to it," Hefner declared.

Inflation and equitable tax structures were key issues brought into the campaign by the Democratic candidate for the 8th Congressional District seat. A successful business, Hefner has advocated a complete revision of the federal income tax structure to insure everyone pay a fair share. "For many years it has been the low and middle income families who have carried the brunt of paying for our government, while loopholes and special benefits are available to those with the money and tax lawyers to search for ways to keep from paying their fair share," Hefner said.

"Keep North Carolina Beautiful" Membership Drive Is Launched

Keep North Carolina Beautiful, Inc., a non-profit organization dedicated to the improvement of the state's visual environment has launched its 1875 membership campaign, according to Ed Woodhouse, State Membership Chairman. Woodhouse said the organization was appealing to all North Carolinians to join the organization in a united effort to "Keep North Carolina Beautiful."

Garden club members, civic club members, city, county, and town officials, businesses, families and many other individuals from all across North Carolina have previously become members of the organization. In times past, school administrators have encouraged student involvement in such efforts as "clean-up campaigns" sponsored by Keep North Carolina Beautiful.

Some of the goals and objectives of the organization according to Woodhouse are:

1. To furnish to the Governor and the General Assembly, and to local governments and professional groups, information that may be needed to allow such governments and groups to do a better job of improving the visual environment.
2. To discover and recommend solutions that correct the cause of environmental deficiencies (ugliness) and thereby avoid superficial projects that do not get to the root of the problem.
3. To engage and help others to engage in a program of public education with both children and adults to the end that North Carolina shall be a more attractive place in which to live, work and play.
4. To promote leadership in the organization of public and private action groups, and develop outlines that make their efforts more effective in the orderly development of urban and rural space, and the conservation of natural, historic and scenic resources.
5. To promote local and state-wide clean-up campaigns.

6. To promote local and state-wide visual improvement programs.

7. To prepare and provide appropriate educational materials for interested individuals and groups.

8. To make surveys, assemble information, make reports and present recommendations on the visual environment.

9. To advance citizen appreciation of higher standards in planning, architectural and landscape architectural design and the conservation of the historical and cultural resources of the state.

Mrs. Norma Cates of Faison, N. C., president of Keep North Carolina Beautiful, Inc., in helping to launch the membership campaign, stated, "One of the greatest satisfactions a North Carolinian can have is to realize that he is helping to improve the quality of life for all citizens of the state."

Membership in Keep North Carolina Beautiful ranges from $5.00 for an individual to $1000.00 for a benefactor. Family memberships are $7.00, clubs or organizations, $25.00, participating memberships, $100.00 and sustaining memberships, $500.00.

CONGRESSMAN EARL B. RUTH Reports FROM WASHINGTON

Long lines at service stations, which were so common last winter, have almost disappeared. Some people think that the energy crisis is over, and it is true that the short-term situation has improved. The major credit for this improvement belongs to the American people, who were willing to cut back on their use of energy on a voluntary basis, in order to get through the toughest period of the crisis.

Although the energy situation has improved, we are not yet out of the woods. We still need to be careful in our use of energy of all kinds. Observing the 55 mile-per-hour speed limit and cutting down on our use of air conditioning are two examples. We can do it. It's been proven that the American people are willing and able to make sacrifices to keep a shortage from becoming a crisis.

In the long run, however, we need to develop new sources of energy. The Administration plans to continue with Project Independence, a program to make the United States substantially self-sufficient in energy by 1980. To achieve this, scientists are now looking at potential energy sources which could create a completely different energy picture.

For example, nuclear fusion is still in the experimental stages. But Dr. T. K. Fowler of the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory in California thinks that this new fusion process will replace all of today's nuclear reactors. Fusion fuels are not radioactive, and ideally any radioactive byproducts would be completely consumed in the reactor. What's more, fusion fuels are abundant in the oceans, and there is plenty of fuel to provide energy for centuries. Dr. Fowler expects that fusion power will be a practical reality some time in the 1990's.

There are also advances being made in solar power, which uses sunlight as fuel. Several solar-heated buildings have been constructed, and the next few years should tell us how practical this source of energy is.

Dr. Clarence Zener of Carnegie-Mellon University in Pittsburgh is working on an unusual source of power. He claims that in some way the temperature variations in different layers of the ocean, combined with power from the sun, can be harnessed to provide energy. Now this is a long shot, but Dr. Zener believes that by the late 1980's, his "solar sea power" will make even nuclear power obsolete. He could be wrong, but he might be right.

The point of mentioning these new experiments is to remind ourselves that in this great country there are many people working on new ideas to cope with the new problems of modern times. Some of the new ideas may not work, but some of them could change our lives.

The government can play a role in encouraging the kind of research which could lead to new breakthroughs in energy supplies. But we must remember that most new ideas have been the work of one man, or a small group of men with the courage to dream, to dare, and to make mistakes.

So it all comes down to old-fashioned American know-how. Those in the laboratories need our help, but most of all they need the freedom to experiment and the understanding which accomplishment always merits.

Library News

The world is so full of such interesting people! And, in many cases, the true stories of their lives are indeed stranger than fiction! It takes all kinds of people to make a world, and that is why the display case in the main library is filled with enticing biographies, any of which may be checked out upon request. Look them over, and choose from a great variety - actors, lawyers, stars of the theater world, politicians, scientist, outstanding members of the world of sports, writers, artists, interesting women - something for you, and you and you!

A reminder for children 4-6 years old - STORY HOUR in the main library each Tuesday morning, 10:30 - 11:30. Carefully chosen stories and films and lots of fun! Do you know a child who would like to come? Children may take books home to enjoy. Only requisite - that some adult in the family be registered in the library.

Fall Months Are Best Time To Do Yard Work

If you've been wondering when is the right time to "doctor" your lawn, this is it — September and October. These are the ideal months in North Carolina to establish, reseed and fertilize cool season grasses.

These are the grasses — such as fescue and bluegrass — that are prettiest in fall and spring.

If you're thinking about establishing a new lawn, it'll pay you in the long run to do a very thorough job. It'll cost more but it'll be worth it in terms of helping avoid a lot of patching and reseeding problems in the future.

North Carolina State University experts suggest having your soil tested to determine lime and fertilizer needs. This service is available free of charge from the N.C. Department of Agriculture. You'll need boxes and forms, and these are available at county extension offices located in the county seats of every Tar Heel county.

Another very important step in properly establishing a new cool season lawn is soil preparation. A common mistake is shallow seedbed preparation. Break the soil six to eight inches deep so the young grass roots can penetrate and reach moisture easily. Still another step that is often bypassed is mulching. After seeding, rake in the seed to a depth of about a half inch and roll to firm the soil around the seed. Then add a good layer of coarse straw, such as wheat straw.

Once the new seed gets wet, it's important that they not be allowed to dry out until the seedlings are established. This may mean an occasional sprinkling if rainfall isn't frequent enough. However, the straw will help conserve moisture between rainfalls.

Rather than plowing up your old lawn and starting all over, you may only need a patching job. This is often necessary with cool season grasses.

Break or scratch the soil to a depth of two inches if possible. Apply lime and fertilizer and rake again. Then seed and rake the seed in to a depth of about a quarter to half an inch. Mulch with grain straw and water frequently until the grass is well established.

If your cool season lawn doesn't need any seeding work and only needs feeding, apply from 12 to 25 pounds of a 10-10-10 fertilizer per 1,000 square feet about Sept. 15 (slightly earlier in the mountains and slightly later in the Coastal Plain.) Or, you can use only nitrogen at the rate of one pound actual nitrogen per 1,000 square feet in three applications at mid-month, September through Deember.

All of this seeding and maintenance work should be done in September and October. The further west you live, the earlier it should be done.

Printed materials on lawns is available at county extension service offices throughout the state.

RESOLUTION FIXING DATE FOR HEARING ON PETITION TO CLOSE AND ABANDON A PORTION OF AN UNPAVED SERVICE ROAD AND NOTICE TO ALL PERSONS INTERESTED IN THE CLOSING THEREOF

WHEREAS, on the 11 day of July, 1974, a petition was filed with the Board of Commissioners of the County of Davie, North Carolina, to close a portion of an opened but dedicated service road in Bermuda Run Subdivision as hereinbelow described; and it appearing from said petition therein designated is entitled to a hearing as provided by Section 153-A - 241 of the General Statutes of North Carolina.

NOW, THEREFORE, be it resolved by the Board of Commissioners of the County of Davie, North Carolina as follows:

(1) That the date and hour fixed for the hearing on the petition above referred to be and the same is hereby set for the 16 day of Sept., 1974, at seven o'clock, P.M., in the Commissioners office in the City of Mocksville, North Carolina.

(2) That all persons, firms or corporations whose interest would be adversely affected by the closing of said portion of unopened service road, more particularly described as follows:

That portion beginning at its intersection with U.S. Highway 158 and running thence in a Southerly direction with the northern margin of Bermuda Drive, said road being unnamed, but bearing a designation of "C-1."

or any person, firm or corporation otherwise interested in the closing be and they are hereby notified to appear before the Board of Commissioners of the County of Davie, at seven o'clock, P.M. in the Commissioners Office of the Court House in the City of Mocksville, North Carolina, and show cause, if any they have, why an order should not be entered closing the above designated portion of unopened service road.

(3) That the petitioner in this cause be and it is hereby directed to publish this resolution in the Davie County Enterprise-Record a newspaper in the County of Davie, State of North Carolina, once every week for four successive weeks preceding the date herein fixed for the hearing on the petition filed in this cause; to send a copy hereof by registered or certified mail to all owners of property adjoining the street as shown on the Davie County tax records; to send a letter to all property owners other than petitioner if any with property adjoining the street to be closed and abandoned stating date and time for the hearing before the Public Works Committee; and to post notice of the closing and public hearing in at least two prominent places along said street proposed to be closed.

This the 5 day of Aug., 1974.

Yadkin Valley

There are still some on the sick list from the Valley we need to remember, and others in our community. Mrs. Maggie Sheek was able to come to Sunday morning worship but is still awfully weak. Frank King is still not much improved, and Robert Riddle was able to attend Sunday.

Miss Cathaline Black is spending some time with her sister, Mr. and Mrs. Clint West and her mother Mrs. Crowell Black whom is living with Lorena for a while. Mrs. Black's condition is about the same.

Sgt. First Class Benjamin F. King spent a few days with his father Mr. Frank King at his home. S. F. C. King was en route to Fort Lee, Virginia to go to N. C. O. E. S. Advance Course Food Service. S. F. C. King is stationed at Yuma Proving Ground, Yuma, Arizona.

Mrs. Harold Wood was given a stork shower at Mrs. Nancy Websters home Saturday night. She received lots of nice gifts. Wesley Hauser spent Friday night with Mr. and Mrs. Henry McBride and Mrs. Maude Hauser.

Mrs. Benny King and their two daughters arrived at the Winston-Salem air port Friday night. She will be here while her husband is in school at Fort Lee, Virginia. They are staying at the home of Mrs. Frank King. Mrs. Lillian Smith enters Forsyth Memorial Hospital Tuesday for tests and x-rays.

Consumer FORUM

by Karen McCall
Wachovia Bank & Trust Co., N. A.

When Millie Davidson suffered a coronary thrombosis — otherwise known as a heart attack — it was touch and go for several days before the doctors took her off the critical list. She went through the usual procedure — intensive care, electronic devices that flashed her pulse beat on a viewing screen, nurses around the clock, cardiologists in constant attendance. You see, since Millie is a good friend of mine, I kept in close touch — and I was tremendously relieved to learn at last that she was going to make it.

Of course, there would be weeks of bed rest and later, a much curtailed routine. No more hard-fought tennis matches. And the bowling team had lost its star member.

Insurance Card

Came the day when Millie left the hospital and I was on hand to carry her suitcase, arrange for her dismissal and drive her home to her apartment. We stopped for a moment at the cashier's office, where Millie opened her purse and took out her insurance company card. She didn't even pause to read the itemized hospital bill — but simply gave the bookkeeper her membership number.

On the way home, I said, "That was a long siege, Millie. It must have been terribly expensive."

"I didn't look at the bill," said Millie. "After all, I've got insurance and I'm pretty well covered."

"Does your insurance take care of everything?" I asked.

"Well, not telephone bills and books and things from the hospital center."

"What about the $100 deductible?"

"Frankly," said Millie, "I don't even know and I couldn't care less. You see, I also have major medical insurance. Any expense over and above what is covered by my basic coverage is paid from my major medical benefits. My company arranged it. Oh, I pay for it. They deduct a small amount from my salary check every two weeks."

No Worries

So Millie really had nothing to worry about — financially. As a matter of fact, I was the one who had something to worry about. Because I was self-employed and had never been sick a day in my life — except for an occasional cold or a bout with the flu — I had never bothered to take out health insurance. But Millie's experience opened my eyes — and made me realize that I was living dangerously. Especially, with all you hear these days about the fantastic cost of hospitalization and doctors' bills. So I went to the library — did a little reading up on health insurance, talked to a few agents — and got a lot of information I never knew before.

I learned that there are 1,700 health insurance programs. I learned that nearly 100 million Americans are covered by Blue Cross and Blue Shield — and that over 65 million have no hospital cost protection whatever — and more than 100 million have no insurance coverage for doctors' bills.

I also discovered that when a person has the best coverage available, he may still find that he is not adequately covered. In fact, one out of four persons in the United States is unaware of his hospital health insurance coverage. And one out of three has no idea of the surgical benefits of his policy. As a result, according to a Federal survey, many people needlessly pay medical expenses out of their pockets when they are already covered by insurance.

Fine Print

On the other hand, just as many people find they are not covered for certain expenses for which they think they are insured. Apparently, they just don't read "the fine print" in their policies.

Health insurance is a complicated subject. There are dozens of pitfalls that may result in your not getting the coverage you think you have. For instance, if you fail to list on your insurance form, some health condition you may have had previously — you may find the insurance company will use this failure as an excuse not to pay for an injury or an illness. You may find, too, that you have duplicate insurance. Your automobile policy, for instance, may provide coverage for an injury which might also be covered by your medical-surgical hospital insurance.

Also, husbands and working wives often have duplicate insurance. If you have a good insurance agent, I suggest that you ask him a lot of questions and let him clear up any confusion you may have. Whatever you do, don't live from day to day, as I did, without health insurance. The risk is far too great. If you should have a sudden accident or serious illness, it could totally wipe out your savings and plunge you deep in debt for years to come. Luckily, I learned my lesson before it was too late.

Army ROTC Newsbeat

The United States Army in Europe is establishing a race relations school, first suggested by Roy Wilkins, executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, during a recent trip to Europe. Mr. Wilkins spent 12 days touring Army installations in Germany and Italy and suggested more race relations education. The school will train 64 two-man officer, non-commissioned officer teams by December 15. Each team will have a white and a minority group member.

Women are making their Army ROTC debut on ten college campuses this fall. For the first time in history, women will be able to work for commissions through Army ROTC. The ten colleges selected for this trial program include Eastern Kentucky University, Penn State, Florida State, South Carolina State College, LSU, Indiana University, Texas A & I, South Dakota State, Arizona State, and the University of Hawaii.

N. C. Has 500,000 White-Tailed Deer

North Carolina's white-tailed deer population may be the highest in recorded history. An estimated 500,000 deer abide in the state. Also, biological studies show that the herds are spreading into parts of the state—particularly in certain Piedmont counties—where there have been no deer in many years. Last year, the annual legal harvest of white-tailed deer by hunters was about 47,500 deer per year, leaving more than enough for breeding stock. This kill is made by some 145,000 licensed gun hunters each year, plus an additional 20,000 bow hunters. Generally speaking, the biggest deer and the best racks come from the Piedmont section of the state, while the heaviest concentration of deer is found in the Coastal Plains.

MRS. KATE WILSON, Woodleaf, D.C.H. Health Occupation teacher. "I want to believe that he's done the right thing. But I feel if he's going to pardon Nixon-what about all the others in prison? I personally think he did the wrong thing."

YOUR OPINION OF PRESIDENT FORD'S FULL PARDON FOR RICHARD NIXON?

MISS JANET DENTON, Rt. 4, Mocksville, Cooleemee 8th grader. "I think it's the best thing of him to do it, cause I like Mr. Nixon."

CRAIG SNEAD, Cooleemee, V.A. Hospital employee. "I don't think (Nixon) should be punished any further. I felt his resignation was punishment enough. As far as the others involved in Watergate, they'll just have to serve their time unless Ford pardons them. But none of them have received the amount of punishment they deserved or what an average citizen would have gotten for the same type of crime. I think they should get rid of the whole crew and start over."

DOUGLAS OVERCASH, Cooleemee, Ingersoll-Rand employee. "I think it could have been different. I think they could have worked it better. I don't think Nixon should have been thrown out of office."

DWAYNE RIDENHOUR, Mooresville, U.S. Air Force. "I think it's the best thing he could have done. I agree that some of the things Nixon did weren't right but he's suffered enough for it."

"Swamp Fever" Ruling Delayed Until Sept. 16

By David Hoyle

Local horse people expecting an answer to recent Equine Infectious Anemia (EIA) regulations came home disappointed after a day-long meeting with the North Carolina Board of Agriculture in Raleigh last Wednesday.

After hearing what one board member called "a mountain of evidence," the Board decided to postpone a ruling on the regulations until their September 16th meeting so that all the evidence could be reviewed.

They did, however, rule that the regulations be amended to provide that no horse could be physically branded as a reactor, which the regulations required, until after the evidence concerning the regulation could be reviewed.

There was a number of Davie County horse owners and dealers at the Highway Building in Raleigh who gave up a working day to go down to Raleigh and discuss the EIA regulations which went into effect on August 15.

The law requires all horses, mules, ponies, asses and other members of the Equine family nine months of age or older to be accompanied by written proof of an approved negative test for equine infectious anemia within the past twelve months when entering any public assembly of horses, mules, ponies, or asses.

This will include shows, fairs, trail rides, rodeos, boarding stables, training stables, sale barns and dealer premises.

There was also a smaller, less vocal group among the more than 300 people attending the meeting, who urged that the regulations concerning EIA be retained.

During the course of the meeting, Board members were told by one faction of the horse industry that "professional horsemen are absolutely behind it" and then the largest portion of the group maintained that "the majority of horse lovers are against the regulations."

Dr. Leroy Coggins, a North Carolina native and inventor of the Coggins test which made testing for EIA possible, was at the meeting to defend the accuracy of his test.

"Statistically, we can say this test is at least 95 per cent accurate," Coggins said. He added that there was not a false positive test that could be proven.

Dr. Fred C. Neal, a veterinarian from Florida, said he had a treatment for EIA which was 30 per cent effective but was not a preventative treatment. He claimed his treatment would reduce antibodies in the horse so that the Coggins test would no longer show them positive.

Dr. Terrence Curtin, head of the Department of Veterinary Science at N.C. State University and Dr. Ralph Knowles of the Veterinary Research Division of the U.S. Department of Agriculture were also speakers at the meeting.

Of the fifty-some horse people or politicians who were given five minutes a piece to voice their opinion, all but about 15 were against the regulations.

Gilbert Boger, a representative in the North Carolina legislature from Davie and Davidson counties, was one of the first opponents to speak.

"I'm not accusing anyone of acting insincere," Boger said. "I'm accusing somebody of acting hastily." Boger, who received loud applause from the group when he announced that he had voted against the bill, was cut short in his speech by the rap of Commissioner James Graham's hammer signaling the end of his five minutes.

Ed McKnight, a legislator from Forsyth County, said he owed somebody and explanation for voting for the bill.

"I just didn't know and I think this was the case with the majority of the house," McKnight said. He said he said it was passed largely because everybody was sold by the introducer of the bill that it was a necessary measure.

"We were sold a bill of goods and that's all there was to it," McKnight said, as Graham again rapped his hammer signaling the end of his allotted time.

Lawrence Davis, a Forsyth County representative who had said the measure was rushed through the legislature at an earlier meeting in Winston-Salem, asked the Board how many of the members owned horses.

Six out of the ten members said they did, but later admitted that none were taken off their own's property and thus not affected by the regulations.

D.T. Lambeth of Lumberton, president of the Border Belt Horseman's Association which was the group responsible for the calling of the special meeting, told the board "Swamp Fever" (another name for EIA) has never been a threat to the horse industry and never will be.

Ralph Hanes, a Davie County horseman who had one horse test positive once and negative the next three times, told the group, "you've just named your test wrong. It should be called the death test for horses."

Calvin Ross, former president of the North Carolina Horse Association, read a letter from the American Quarter Horse Association in opposition to the regulations. The American Quarter Horse Association is the largest horse association in the United States.

The Forsyth and Davie County area was one of the best represented areas at the meeting with over twenty people present. Nearly all were in opposition to the regulations.

Don Snyder, in an interview after the meeting, said "We proved there was a lot of interest and a lot of opposition."

After the opposition spoke, the people in favor of the regulations had their turn. J.W. Daley, who said he manages the seven largest horse shows in the southeast, said "that every show this year with one exception (which he blamed on the weather) has had the largest number of entrants and better quality than ever before."

"We require a Coggins test and have at every show this year," he added. He was loudly booed when he told the group, "the professional horsemen are absolutely behind this."

A representative from the N.C. Horse Council told the Board that a poll taken by that organization (which was behind the regulations from the start) showed 18 per cent of their poll wanted the present regulations continued.

Twenty-six per cent wanted all horses to be required to take the test (not just those in public assemblies) and 38 per cent wanted it repealed. Eighteen per cent had other comments.

Dr. C.C. McLean of Southern Pines, who is executive secretary of the North Carolina Veterinary Research Foundation, stated he favored the regulations.

He said that "between three and four thousands dollars worth of horses died or were destroyed between 1970 and 72 in Moore County alone" as a result of EIA.

Following the individual speakers, the Board held a question and answer session which the horse people thought would be open to the audience.

When Graham said it was only for members. After the five minute break, the Board asked a few of the most pressing questions put to them by the crowd during the recess.

The Board then decided to postpone a decision until all the evidence presented could be reviewed. A final decision on the fate of the EIA regulations should come at the next scheduled meeting of the Board of Agriculture on September 16.

Commissioners Approve Funds For Secondary Road Construction

By David Hoyle

The Davie County Board of Commissioners and about 70 interested citizens met with state secondary road officials to discuss the Davie County secondary road fund plans for 1974-75 Tuesday night.

After three hours of public relations efforts on the part of the highway officials, and airing of complaints by citizens, the commissioners approved the proposals by the road officials to work on the next four secondary roads in the priority list set up by the state.

Representing the Division of Highways was G. Brown Loflin, Secondary Roads Councilman; Ken Horton, Division Engineer; Doug Waters, Assistant Division Engineer; and Robert Johnson, District Engineer.

Davie County is in Division 9, District 2 of the Department of Transportation Division of Highways. Davie, Forsyth and Stokes counties are in the same district with Davidson and Rowan counties round out the Division.

The commissioners unanimously approved to allow the county's secondary road allocation to be spent for construction on Pudding Ridge and Cedar Creek Road, Powell Road, Oak Bluff Road and Merrell's Fish Pond Road.

The money for construction will come from a $123,080.36 balance in the Davie secondary road fund. As of June 30, 1974, there was a balance of $12,964.36 in the fund. The allocation for 1974-75 was $101,849 which brought the total up to $114,849.

Work orders and change of work orders already set up ate up $9,500 leaving a balance of $105,313.36. The Board of Transportation allotted an additional allocation for 1974-75 of $17,767.00 bringing the total up to $123,080.36.

Of this $123,080.36, $120,500 was approved by the commissioners to be spent on the aforementioned top priority roads leaving a balance of $2,580.36 "which isn't much of a margin," according to Horton.

Rufus Brock Named To Real Estate Licensing Board

Governor Jim Holshouser today announced the appointment of Joe O. Brewer, a Wilkesboro attorney and former state legislator, and Rufus Leo Brock, a Mocksville insurance and real estate executive, to the N. C. Real Estate Licensing Board.

They will serve three-year terms on the five-member Board.

Brewer was admitted to law practice in 1962. He attended N. C. State University, the University of North Carolina, Wake Forest University and received his LL. B. from the UNC School of Law. He holds memberships in the Wilkes County Bar Association, N. C. Bar Association, American Bar Association, and N. C. Academy of Trial Lawyers. He is with the firm of Brewer and Bryan in Wilkesboro. Brewer was a member of the N. C. House of Representatives in 1965 and 1966. He is married to the former Lillie Bryan, and they have two children.

Brock, a Davie County native, attended the University of North Carolina. He served in the U.S. Army for two years and is currently vice-president of Mocksville Insurance Agency, and insurance and real estate firm.

Brock is a member of the Mocksville Lions Club, past president of the Farmington Ruritan Club, a member of the Farmington Masonic Lodge, and vice president of Northwest Environment and Preservation Committee. He is also a member of the Davie County Planning Board and the Farmington Methodist Church. Brock is married to the former Margaret Jo Harpe, and they have two sons and one daughter.

Man Charged With Larceny Of Tires

Donald Williams, 24, originally from Davie County and presently a resident of Jonesville, is being held in the Davie County jail on the charge of larceny of two tires from the Western Auto Store in Mocksville on August 30th.

The investigation and charge on Williams was made by Jimmy Phipps and Gary Edwards of the Mocksville Police Department.

Williams was tried in Davidson County for larceny and received a 9-month sentence. The sheriff's department picked up Williams after his trial there and returned him to Davie. He is being held in the local jail for trial in district court Monday.

Please Remove Keys

In recent weeks several vehicles have been stolen in and around Mocksville because the keys were left in them.

The Mocksville Police Department this week issued a plea to all motorists to remove keys from vehicles, and lock them, when they are to be left parked.

N. Mocksville Precinct Moves Voting Site

The voting site of the North Mocksville Precinct is being moved from the old gymnasium to the second floor of the new B. C. Brock Community Center.

The Davie County Board of Elections in a meeting last Thursday adopted a resolution making this change.

The resolution noted that the board of elections had determined that the Mocksville gymnasium was no longer suitable as the voting place for the North Mocksville Precinct and that the second floor of the B. C. Brock Community Center is suitable for use as the voting place for the precinct.

William E. Hall, Chairman of the Davie County Board of Elections, said that the resolution providing for the change was unanimously adopted and that the change would be in effect for the November 5th general election.

The legal notice concerning this change appears in this issue of the Enterprise-Record.

State Begins Nuclear Station Effect Study

N. C. Department of Natural and Economic Resources officials toured the Yadkin River last week in order to gather some concrete figures by mid-October on the possible effects Duke Power's Nuclear Station will have on the river.

The department is concerned about the amount of water the Davie nuclear plant would take from the river. Some officials are also concerned about the plant's effects on water quality and water supply below the plant site.

At peak production, the plant would use 200 cubic feet of water a second, with less than half of the water returning to the river. The remainder would be evaporated through cooling towers.

Duke Power Company says its plant would not create water supply or pollution problems in the basin. But state officials feel the company's recent interest in the planned construction of two reservoirs upstream from its proposed plant site indicates it is concerned about the plant's water use. The two reservoirs could augment the flow of the river during dry periods, officials said.

Old Fashioned Bargain Days

A number of Mocksville merchants are joining together in an "Old Fashioned Bargain Days" promotion this week.

Employees of some of the participating stores will dress in "old-timey" clothes during the event set for Thursday, Friday and Saturday, September 19, 20 and 21.

Special bargains to be offered are advertised elsewhere in this issue.

"Art On The Square" will be held again this year on Saturday, September 21, from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. in connection with the sales promotion and is sponsored by the Mocksville-Davie Chamber of Commerce and Merchants Association. Mrs. Emily Cartmell, local artist, will coordinate the show this year.

Judges for the Art Show will be Kate Reidenbach of Clemmons and Charlie Spear of Mocksville.

Davie Sheriff's Department To Get State Funds For Fingerprint Equipment

The Davie County Sheriff's Department is receiving a state grant for a camera and equipment for fingerprinting process.

This was one of several reports made by the county manager, Ron Vogler, to the Davie County Board of Commissioners at their meeting on Monday.

Mr. Vogler also made reports to the commissioners from the county tax collector, the Piedmont Triad Commission, and of the Davie County farm census.

At the regular meeting Monday, Allen Martin, Davie Hospital Administrator, reviewed the hospital budget for the fiscal year from October 1974 through September of 1975. Accompanying Martin in the presentation of the proposed budget was Dr. George Kimberly, representing the board of trustees and the hospital office manager.

The commissioners also heard the following proposals for rezoning:

Tommy Anthony from R-20 (Residential) to CS (Commercial Shopping), an area on US 158 near NC 801. This was approved.

George Rogers from R-20 (Residential) to HB (Highway Business) on US 64 West, at service station, behind and adjacent to store. This was denied.

Abe Howard Honored By Davie Rescue Squad

Abe N. Howard, Sr., was named outstanding squad member of the Davie County Rescue Squad in a ceremony in his honor Monday.

He was awarded a plaque by the Mocksville Jaycees before his fellow squad members at the Rescue Squad building on Prison Camp Road for his 14 years of service. The members of the rescue squad unit vote each year to select their outstanding member.

Mr. Howard, who has served as chaplain of the unit since he joined in 1960, has had all standard and advanced American Red Cross courses. He has participated in demonstrations as well as all phases of rescue operations.

A certified ambulance attendant, Mr. Howard has attended the school of N. C. Rescue Institute at UNC-Chapel Hill and has six units of rescue training by the North Carolina Department of Insurance. Mr. Howard has received E-03 training (the latest requirement for ambulance attendants) and is now attending Emergency Medical Technical School.

A resident of Route 3, Mocksville, Mr. Howard is married to Alva Tutterow Howard and they have six children. He is a member of Bethel United Methodist Church where he is a lay speaker and Sunday School teacher. He was employed for 23 years at Burlington Mills in Cooleemee and now works at Ingersoll-Rand.

Deputy's Car Used In Robbery And Then Returned

The car of a Davie County deputy sheriff apparently assisted in a robbery last Friday night.

The personal car of "Pappy" Hellard was stolen from the driveway of his home in Cooleemee, where it was parked with the keys in it.

A few hours later the car was returned. All the gasoline had been used, but it contained a number of interesting items: 3 work shirts, 3 work pants, sardines, potted ham, sun glasses, one can of beer and an afro comb.

A Cold Winter Is Predicted

By David Hoyle

Davie County residents had better pull out their long johns and check those storm windows. Summer officially ends Monday and some weather-watchers are predicting a cold winter ahead. Chances are better than 50-50 that old man winter is going to be unusually frigid this year according to one Atlanta meteorologist who points to a 12 per cent growth in the polar ice cap in the past decade.

Bill March, of the Fernbank Science Center, says we are definitely in an ice age in spite of last year's mild winter. While this may be bad news for those who have heavily invested in sun tan lotion and air conditioners, there may be some good in a year-round winter.

Those who dislike mowing the lawn will be glad to know that grass grows very slowly under a layer of ice. Football fans could enjoy a year-long season and a white Christmas would be guaranteed every year.

There would be no need for both a winter and summer wardrobe, thus saving on closet space. Fathers would no longer feel cheated when forced to pay $20 for the quarter-yard of material it takes to make a bikini.

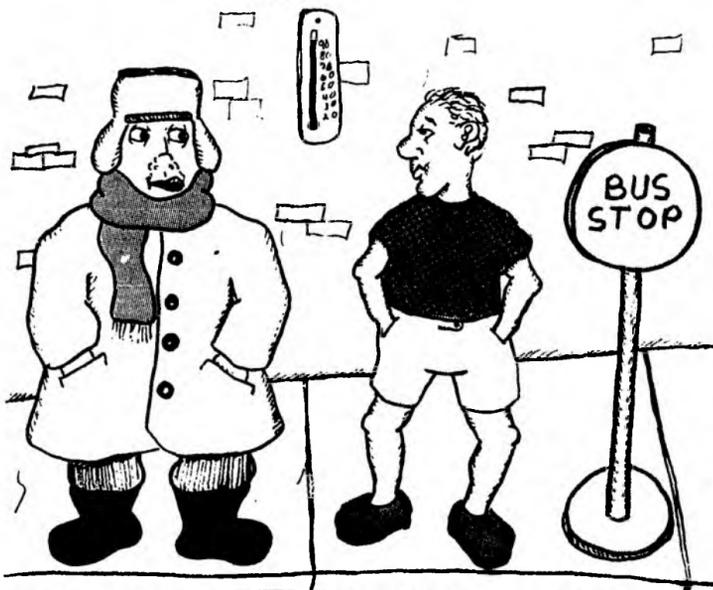

Heavier people would suddenly find themselves having the advantage over their skinnier counterparts since they would be better insulated against the cold. They would also benefit fashionwise, since a 96 pound person and a 200-plus pounder look about the same under seven sweaters and an overcoat.

Anti-nudity forces would enjoy the decline in nudist camps. Also, streaking and its older cousin, skinny dipping, would go down in popularity.

The list goes on and on, from farm ponds that could become skating rinks to the elimination of the problem of finding enough ice cubes for a party.

Still, it would not be advisable to sink all your money in mountain ski resorts or snowmobile stock yet. There are many scientists who disagree with March's prediction.

DID'NT YOU HEAR? IT'S AN ICE AGE!

His doubters maintain that we would need weather records going back at least 300 years to confirm the ice age theory and present records date back only about 100 years.

Still, to those of us who are tired of dragging around in 90 degree temperatures, recent days of "nip in the air" weather set the imagination to considering what a year-long winter would be like.

Tar Heel Spotlight Constitution Week Observed

This week is "Constitution Week" - the one week in the year set aside to honor the document that forms the backbone of our nation's continued existence.

Constitution Week, always observed Sept. 17-23, offers an opportunity for every citizen to study, read about and give due respect to the instrument which has been called "next in importance to the Bible" for the people of the United States, whether naturalized or native born.

The idea of Constitution Week, which will be observed all over the nation this week, originated with a North Carolinian, Dr. Gertrude Carraway of New Bern. During her tenure as president-general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, Miss Carraway was able to interest Sen. William Knowland in the project, who introduced the bill, subsequently passed as PL 915 in 1956.

What of North Carolina's part in the signing and ratification of this historic document 187 years ago this week? After the Declaration of Independence, North Carolina, along with other states, found many provisions of the Articles of Confederation to be ponderous and inefficient - the loosey knit group of independent states with little central power was unable to function together effectively and a new constitution was needed.

A convention was called in Philadelphia, with North Carolina sending five delegates, including William R. Davie, Richard Dobbs Spaight, Gov. Richard Caswell, Alexander Martin and Hugh Williamson. Caswell had to decline because of ill health and William Blount was selected to serve in his stead.

These five men represented North Carolina in the convention which drafted the new Constitution of the United States, but only three actually signed, Blount, Williamson and Spaight.

The five delegates, all prominent, capable and versatile, resisted a strong central executive authority as "dangerous," and labored for the many other safeguards, some of which were later built into the Constitution.

They were concerned over whether representation should be by population or by states. North Carolina, fourth largest state at that time, naturally leaned toward representation by population, but in the end, voted for the dual representation that appeared in the final version. The North Carolinians spoke against a government so far removed from the people, declaring it dangerous and claiming that state governments would lose identity and power with a strong national government.

Williamson, an unofficial "spokesman" for the group, first proposed the six year term for senators.

In September, 1787, the final version of the Constitution was presented for signing, and the "bundle of compromises" as it has been labeled, was duly signed by 39 delegates from 12 states on Sept. 17, 1787. Rhode Island declined to sign at that time.

Then the slow ratification process began. State after state voted to ratify. However, for a year and a half, North Carolina hesitated agreeing it was a better document than the Articles but still insisting on a series of protective amendments. These would be checks to the strong central government and finally were passed as the present "Bill of Rights".

James Iredell worked for ratification, arguing for "a united vigorous government," and praised the Constitution citing its "useful checks to guard against possible abuses." He pointed out the many provisions calculated to make us "as much one people as possible."

Finally after nearly two years of bitter debate throughout the state, 11 states had ratified, two more than the necessary two-thirds for the Constitution to become operative. But still North Carolina was reluctant, even though she was, in effect, a separate country in a sea of United States around her.

Advantages of statehood became increasingly evident. As a separate sovereign country surrounded by other states, North Carolina was subject to tariffs and duties on shipments across state lines. Other benefits of belonging to the United States included protection from Indians, and even from Great Britain and Spain.

The delegates assembled at Hillsborough July 21, 1788, and more bitter debate followed. Still, ratification did not occur.

A year later, delegates again assembled - this time at Fayetteville, and on Nov. 21, 1789, representatives voted 198-

77 to ratify the Constitution - thereby becoming the next-to-last state to do so. Rhode Island ratified later.

North Carolina, realizing the benefits of statehood, joined the United States before the actual passage of the amendments which were to be the Bill of Rights. However, North Carolina had a primary role in the adoption of those amendments, and her hesitation undoubtedly had a bearing on their passage.

North Carolinians can be justly proud of the role her delegates played in the formation of the brilliant document, the Constitution of the United States. Tar Heel citizens can join with other citizens across the nation as Constitution Week is observed once again - paying just honor to the document that has survived so long - and has stood the test of time, over and over again.

Letter To Editor

Dear Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to thank several people that have made my summer a success at WDSL Radio. Recently two great events took place in Davie County. We were blessed with the naming of a great County Bug, one we can be proud of. The kidnapping that took place to help raise money for the Little League lights will long be remembered by each participant and the league itself.

I would like to thank you and the staff of the Davie County Enterprise-Record for the fine coverage that you have given me in these two events. I think the work and support of your staff has helped to let people know about these events.

The county bug was an idea that everyone thought stupid from the start, but I wanted to try it. My listeners were great. We had a great time talking about it on the "fun phone" and

Tattletales

In these perilous times when most people are forsaking the normal banking institutions and seeking to put their hard-earned money into some investment that will produce a greater return, Mrs. Norman Smith, Jr., accidentally found an investment that returned her money 6-fold.

Mrs. Smith, of Route 7, Mocksville, started out on an ordinary shopping trip last Thursday night to purchase her families groceries. She bought the usual necessities one thinks of buying at the grocery store. But this time Mrs. Smith, who usually is careful with her grocery dollar, decided to splurge and purchase a package of pecan sandies for her enjoyment.

Her shopping completed, Mrs. Smith returned to her home on Sain Road and began putting her groceries away. With this job finished, she sat down to listen to the day's happenings on the news. But she suddenly remembered the little bonus she had given herself by buying the cookies and decided what better time to enjoy them than while watching the evening news.

Mrs. Smith went to the kitchen and opened the bag of pecan sandies to begin her feast. But what to her wondering eyes should she pull out of the cookie bag but a $5 bill all neatly folded.

Mrs. Smith was indeed exuberant to receive a $5 return on her 83 cent investment. It all goes to show how uncertain these days are when it comes to the dollar bill.

voting throughout the summer. I want to thank everyone who voted and who participated in the promotion. I'm sorry that all the bugs couldn't win, but I hope that each citizen will accept the lightning bug and be proud that it is our official county bug. I hope that people have noticed that other counties may move to follow our example.

A lot of people need to be commended for the kidnapping project. Bill Collette, who helped to spearhead the whole event to get the lights, needs to be thanked for his work with little league and his work in the planning and organizing of the entire kidnapping plot. Bill did a lot of the behind the scenes work. Roy Collette and the workers at Wilkin's Drugs should be thanked for their help and the use of the drug store.

I would like to thank Roy Anderson for the use of his A-Model, Jimmy Robertson for being a chauffeur, and, of course, all of the "Big Bad Mamas." Kay Cohen, Bobbie Wall, Kay Ginther, along with Patsy Taylor, Mrs. Helen Ginther, Mrs. Wanda James, Nancy Brannon and others. They did a super job.

And an all important thanks goes out to all the merchants, public officials, law enforcement officers, and listeners who helped to pay my ransom and who brought me gifts and food to help get me freed and to help light the little league field. A big thanks goes to all of these because without their help we would have failed. And, finally, I want to thank my fellow workers at WDSL and my family who have put up with all of my crazy ideas this summer and who have helped me and encouraged me. Without their help none of these things would have been accomplished. And once again thanks to all my listeners for helping to make this summer a success for "Big Jon in the Morning."

Library News

Activity is the word at the Davie County Public Library - hundreds, (maybe thousands) of books have been handled, sorted, re-arranged, all for the convenience and assistance of YOU, THE PATRON.

First, getting the new bookmobile demanded emptying the old one - (the work-room was filled!). We all wondered how the bookmobile had held it all! Then Barbara Clintz and Rosalyn Weekley selected carefully an attractive new collection and moved it into the new bookmobile. This required untold energy, time and planning. They have done a beautiful job and the pretty blue bookmobile is on the road, taking help and entertainment to its appreciative patrons.

But there is more! The staff has "weeded" (discarded or moved out of date books), placed a good collection in new, easily reached locations and chosen interesting groups to appeal to young adults, and to show the newest books and the large-print books. The books from the Extension Homemaker's list are in a new place, and much more easily seen and reached. The

Mrs. Carrolle Kluttz Brown Becomes Davie's 7th Fatality

Mrs. Carrolle Kluttz Brown, 32, of 713 Maupin Avenue in Salisbury became Davie County's seventh traffic fatality this year. She died last Tuesday as a result of injuries received in a car accident on September 3.

Her son, Michael Ray Brown, 7, a passenger in his mother's car, was also killed in the accident. Mrs. Brown had been in critical condition at Baptist Hospital in Winston-Salem since the crash.

The accident occurred when a truck, driven by Richard Wayne Moore, 22, of Route 1, Cleveland, crossed the center line of U.S. 601 about a mile and a half south of Mocksville and struck the left side of the Brown car, according to Trooper W.D. Grooms, the investigating officer.

Moore and a passenger in his truck, J. B. Gibbons, 34, of Woodleaf, Rt. 1, were not seriously injured.

Moore has been charged with driving left of center. Additional charges are pending, Grooms said.

Mrs. Brown was born in Rowan County and was a secretary and bookkeeper for Charles T. Kluttz Plumbing and Heating.

The funeral was held Friday at Bethel United Methodist Church, where she was a member.

Surviving are her husband, Willie Brown; a son, Charles Allen Brown of the home; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Kluttz of Salisbury; a sister, Mrs. Dorothy Granade of Atlanta, Ga.; and a brother, Charles Kluttz of 1100 Yorkshire Road, Winston-Salem.

Cooleemee Class Of '41 Has Reunion

Saturday night, September 7, 1974 was a night for remembering for members of Cooleemee High School 1941 graduating class.

Class members were together for a reunion for the first time in 33 years when members of the class, along with husbands, wives, teachers and guests met at the Rotary Hut in Mocksville, for a memorable evening of good food, reminiscing, viewing old photographs and old movies made in the late 1930's when the class were involved in various school activities.

From a class of 47 members, 28 attended, some traveling from as far away as Venezuela, New Jersey, Ohio, Virginia, Maryland, and South Carolina. Six members are deceased, and were remembered by those present. They were Gene Benson, Jane Besent, Nelly Correll, J. W. Knight, Bruce Sedberry, Louise Whitley and the principal, George E. Smith.

Letters were read during the evening from some unable to attend. Jim Wall, a teacher, wrote a most interesting letter telling of events in his life since they have graduated. They were: Mrs. Frances Wike Thomas of Claremont, Mrs. Lena Sink Proto of Lexington, and Mrs. Polly Barber Bahnsen of Mocksville.

The planning committee, headed by Kenneth R. Hoover, Senior class president, and L. G. Scott, class treasurer, was made up of Sara Jordan Kuhn, Margie Page Mitholen, Hazel Miller Winfree, Myrtice Goble Roberts and Helen Jordan Ellis. The committee was aided greatly by Nellie Daniels Hoover.

Many merchants and firms in the Cooleemee and Salisbury donated numerous lovely and useful gifts to be used as prizes during the evening. Prizes went to Mrs. Ruby Jenette of Venezuela, who traveled the longest distance; Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Ellis, Jr. for being married the longest, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nail, married the longest with no children, and Ethel Louise Foster Whisnant for having the most grandchildren. Myrtice Goble Roberts won the door prize.

At the conclusion of the affair, the group voted unanimously to plan another reunion in only two years.

Center Group Elects Officers

The Center Community Development met Monday night, September 16, at the Community Building with a covered dish supper. Following the supper, David Kimmer, president, presided over the business session.

Mr. Kimmer expressed his thanks to everyone who had worked so faithfully to make the Fair and Barbecue a success.

Officers elected for the next year were: Larry Harpe, President; Nancy Tutterow, Vice President; Peggy Evans and Alice Barnette, Secretary and Treasurer; Paul Forrest, Chaplin; and Robert Lyerly, Trustee.

A committee was appointed to work on the possibility of having a Fair next year and if there is still enough interest to work out plans for a place to exhibit items without using the Community Building. This committee consists of Mrs. Duke Tutterow, Mrs. Steve Evans, Mrs. Clay Tutterow, Wade Dyson and Cliff Syplot.

The group voted to put the green top on the tennis court and to install the best fencing available around the court. Plans were also made to have the outside of the Community Building painted (if possible) when the painters were here to paint the Center Methodist Church.

Plans were also made for the fall barbecue which will be on Saturday November 16. The same committees that worked on the barbecue for the fair were asked to serve.

The next community meeting will be Monday, October 21, with an "Old Fashion Chicken Stew."

Hay Fever Havoc!

The "jig is up" now that ragweed pollination is sifting through the autumn air causing hay fever havoc: Often confused with summer colds, old time "cures" for hay fever relied upon anything from hypnosis and eating fox's lungs, to the laying on of thirty leeches! Can you imagine? Later remedies included such "charmers" as nasal surgery, x-ray therapy, strong tobacco smoking, the use of arsenic, chloroform, quinine, tartar emetic, ipecac, and even cold baths.

Luckily, such "remedies" have been shelved in favor of the new RAST test, a simple blood test that tells doctors which substances you're allergic to. Then, with a little luck, an immunizing shot for your specific allergen can be administered to bring welcomed relief.

Each week we present the above comments for your information. We very much appreciate your readership and would be especially happy to have you express your views regarding the contents of this space.

Instant Breakfast Cookies

The problem of finicky eaters and sluggish mornings has been solved. Just one jumbo Instant Breakfast Cookie and a glass of milk will send a youngster skipping to school and keep him alert all morning.

Enriched flour, instant breakfast and peanut butter all contribute to make this new food something special. Enriched self-rising flour provides the essential B-vitamins - thiamine, niacin and riboflavin - plus the minerals, iron and calcium, all nutrients needed daily for good health. With the addition of the vitamins and minerals in the instant breakfast and the protein in peanut butter, these cookies, plus a glass of milk, furnish all the nutrients needed to get any moppet off to school, bright and peppy.

- | | |
|--|-----------------------|
| 2 cups enriched self-rising flour* | 1/2 cup shortening |
| 3 packages (1.21 oz. each) instant breakfast (chocolate, vanilla or egg nog) | 1/2 cup peanut butter |
| | 1 cup sugar |
| | 3 eggs |

Stir together flour and instant breakfast. Blend shortening and peanut butter; add sugar and beat until light and fluffy. Beat in eggs. Add dry ingredients and mix well. Drop heaping tablespoonfuls onto greased baking sheet. Bake in preheated 350° oven 12 to 15 minutes or until lightly browned. Cool on wire racks.

*Spoon flour into dry measuring cup; level. Do not scoop. NOTE: If enriched all-purpose flour is used, add 1 tablespoon baking powder and 1 teaspoon salt.

When in Hawaii, you must not miss the Polynesian Cultural Center. It is unlike anything you've ever seen before. It is the only place in the entire world where you can visit authentic island villages if Tahiti, Samoa, Tonga, Fiji, Maori, New Zealand and old Hawaii all in the same day. Here you mingle with charming islanders from those far distant lands, learn of their fascinating cultures, their unique handicrafts, and enjoy their exciting songs and dances.

And, in the evening, the most enjoyable Polynesian performances are seen. They are an invitation to paradise, a delightful blend of songs, dance, ancient chants and daring feats of skill performed by 150 spirited islanders. And, you must have reservations.

A flag raising ceremony is held at the Center the first thing in the morning. At 11 o'clock, electric cart and canoe tours are available. At 12 noon, there is the pageant of the long candles. 12:30... Komo-Mai luncheon: 1 p.m. ... styles of the Isles; 2... the music makers of Polynesia; 3:30... pageant of the lone canoes (this is beautiful); 5... Hibiscus buffet; 6... Haikoi Sunset (Polynesian singing). Then, the pageant "Invitation to Paradise".

All this and more at the Polynesian Cultural Center. You can't go wrong spending the day there. The dinner and showtime will fly so fast you will wonder where it went.

N.C. Art Society

Sets Special Program

The availability of the program, "Be a Part of Art," for civic, business, church and other interested groups, was announced recently by Mrs. Robert A. Cardwell, Jr., representative of the North Carolina Art Society for District 8, which includes Davie County. The slide presentation was written by Linda Gramsley, Raleigh author, and voiced by Dick Ellis, Public Relation Officer for the Department of Cultural Resources.

The program traces the history of the N. C. Art Society over a fifty-year span, beginning when a small group of art lovers and Robert E. Phifer, art enthusiast and financier, found each other. The program relives the excitement as the General Assembly in 1917 became the first state in the nation to set aside public funds for an art collection and the search began for matching funds that culminated in a donation from the Samuel H. Kress Foundation.

The slide presentation is richly illustrated with slides of works of art from Degas, Botticelli, Titian, Rembrandt and Rubens to the giants of today, Georgia O'Keefe and Andrew Wyeth, with a sampling of sculpture, an African mask and the celebrated Egyptian mummy cases. The N. C. Art Society is presenting this program as a part of their October membership drive to obtain support for the North Carolina Museum of Art. Scheduling the program in this area can be arranged by writing Mrs. Peggy Fisher at the N. C. Art Society, 107 Morgan Street, Raleigh, N. C. 27601 or call 919-829-4779. Interested persons may also contact Mrs. Robert A. Cardwell, Jr., Route 4, Box 873, Cassandra Road, Madison, N. C. 27025 or call 919-427-4181.

State Relaxes Rule On Swamp Fever

by David Hoyle

The North Carolina Board of Agriculture, after heated protests from horse lovers from all over the state, relaxed their controversial new rule regarding equine infectious anemia.

The Davie County area, one of the centers of opposition to the EIA rulings, was well represented at a recent public hearing in Raleigh which helped bring the issue to a head.

Under the amended rules, the board will allow North Carolina horses to congregate for shows, hunts and trail rides without first having negative Coggins test. A positive Coggins test indicates a horse may be a carrier of equine infectious anemia.

James Graham, state agriculture commissioner, said it was apparent that the entire EIA program was in jeopardy unless changes were made. The remark came at a news conference shortly after the Raleigh meeting on September 4.

Following his recommendations, the Agriculture Board amended the rule to require horses to have the test only before being sold at public auction. The test will not be required if the horses are sent directly to slaughter after the auction.

Horses entering the state will still be required to have evidence of a negative Coggins test within six months prior to their entry.

Under EIA rules prior to Monday's meeting, horses which tested positive were identified by a permanent brand of a large 5A and serial number on the left side of the neck.

This method met with strong opposition at the Raleigh meeting and the Board of Agriculture decided to allow less visible lip tattoos when desired.

According to Dr. Thomas F. Zweigart, North Carolina State Veterinarian, a positive horse would be branded at state expense unless the owner objected in which case it could be identified by a lip tattoo at the owner's expense.

The board expressed the hope that horse owners would still get the Coggins test on a voluntary basis. It also resolved to ask the 1975 General Assembly for funds to pay for the tests, which are now done at the owner's expense.

"I think this may take care of some of the objections," said Dr. Zweigart of the amended regulations. He added that there had been "quite a bit of sentiment of strengthening the regulations instead of eliminating them" at the Raleigh meeting, and the issue may not be dead yet.

Gilbert Boger, a legislator from Davie County who has fought the regulations said "they're not out of the woods yet."

Boger explained that the small-time horse trader was not much better off than before since the quarantine regulations remain the same. A positive horse would quarantine his entire barn indefinitely and possibly drive him out of business.

Now A Choice!

This horse was branded before the amended EIA regulations went into effect. Horse owners may now opt for a lip tattoo instead of branding.

Davie Has 3,035 Receiving Pensions

How much are Davie County residents now receiving from Washington each month in the form of social security checks?

How do these checks compare in size with those going to other sections of the county?

The latest official figures, released by the Social Security Administration, show that the pension payments in the local area are comparatively large.

They have been rising considerably during the last few years, due to the increases that have gone into effect.

Payments to Davie County beneficiaries, as of the beginning of this year, were at the annual rate of $1,458 per recipient, as against $1,135 in 1971.

Just how much goes to a beneficiary, or the members of his family, is determined by the amount he earned during his working years.

The fact that the checks going to local residents are running bigger, on average, than those to many other parts of the county indicates that, over the years, their incomes were better.

More and more retired or disabled people and their dependents qualify each year to receive social security payments, due to revisions of the law that have reduced the age of retirement and brought in classes of workers that were ineligible formerly.

The current report shows that the number of persons in Davie County who were receiving pension payments in the past year was 3,035. In 1971 there were 2,716.

The increase in the number enrolled in social security has been accompanied by frequent hikes in the amounts paid out in benefits, as well as in the payroll taxes that go to pay for them.

The figures show that more than $4,428,000 is now entering the county annually via the social security route. In 1971, by way of contrast, it was $3,084,000.

The increase, 43.5 percent, compares with a rise of 41.6 percent in the United States and with 42.5 percent in the State of North Carolina.

With the changes that have been made, social security has expanded to huge proportions. It involves the collection and payout of over $51 billion annually, which is nearly a fourth of all other Federal receipts.

Farm Bureau Leader Cites Widening Of Farm-Retail Price

"Farmers probably comprise the only segment of our society who have to buy their raw materials, machinery, and supplies at retail prices and then turn around and sell their products at wholesale," Charles B. Phillips, president of the Davie County Farm Bureau, said recently.

"On top of that," he said, "farmers don't set their own prices but are at the mercy of the market place."

"For this reason farmers must ban together to look out for their own interests," Phillips said, in pointing out that

Bicyclists Injured

Two bicyclist were injured last Thursday around 6:45 p.m. on North Main Street, 300-feet south of Campbell Road. Sonja Felicita Foote, age 10, and Michael Tryon Ijames, age 10, were taken to Davie County Hospital where they were treated and released.

Mocksville Policeman G. W. Edwards said his investigation showed that a 1972 Chevrolet station wagon, operated by Gene Christopher Smith, 16, of North Main Street, Mocksville, was traveling south on Main Street when a bicycle on which the two were riding turned left into his path.

Damage to the bicycle was estimated at $35.

Vehicles Collide

Two vehicles collided last Friday around 1 p.m. on Milling Road, 100-feet east of Carolina Street.

Involved was a 1965 Chevrolet operated by Ronald Eugene Foster, 19, of Mocksville Rt. 6 and a 1965 Ford operated by Marion Lucinda Scott, 16, of Mocksville Rt. 2.

Mocksville Chief of Police G. A. Carter said his investigation showed that the Foster vehicle was making a left turn into a drive-way when Scott vehicle failed to get stopped and skidded to the left of the road into the side of the Foster car.

Damage to the Foster Chevrolet was estimated at $200 and $75 to the Scott vehicle.

Miss Scott was charged with following too close.

Northwest Region Home Economists To Hear Dr. Mead

Northwest Region Home Economists will hear Dr. Margaret Mead, Philanthropist, at their fall Regional Meeting to be held at the Appalachian State University Continuing Education Center in Boone on Saturday, September 21.

The home economists also plan to get up to date and metrificate. Dr. Joan Terry and Dr. Tom Roksko of the Appalachian State University faculty will present the program on Metrification.

A tour of the A.S.U. home economics facilities will end the meeting. Registration will be held from 10:00 to 10:30.

Families of the home economists will visit the Land of Oz and Tweetsie during the meeting. Free tickets are available through advance registration.

Mrs. Christine Green, of Mocksville, is chairman of the regional group.

Farm Bureau is currently conducting its membership drive. "By becoming a member, a farmer can join with others at county, state, and national levels in working for his own betterment."

The county farm leader said he could well understand consumers' concern over higher food costs because "farm wives are also among the women at the supermarket check-out counter who have to balance the weekly grocery budget."

He said that what concerns her more than anything else, however, is the price comparison of an item in the grocery store with the price she and her family received for the raw product raise on their farm.

Phillips said this farm-retail price spread has been widening this year and that lower farm prices have not been adequately reflected at retail. "And at the same time, these low farm prices in combination with higher farm production expenses, have put the farmer in a serious cost-price squeeze."

The county president said that farmers need a strong organization like Farm Bureau to help protect their financial interests.

Secondary Roads Priorities Okayed

Creek Road (SR1435) will receive $43,000 for adding base and paving 2.7 miles of road.

Powell Road (SR 1151) will have one mile of road graded, based and paved for a cost of $29,000.

Oak Bluff Road (SR 1626) will be graded, drained and stabilized over a 1.4 mile section for a cost of $30,000.

Merrill's Fish Pond Road (SR 1608 & 1609) will be graded and drained over a 1.4 mile portion for a cost of $18,500.

The amount of money allocated for secondary roads in Davie County is based on the cost per mile and the amount of unpaved secondary roads in the county.

Davie has 163.2 miles of unpaved roads and the average cost per mile of road construction is estimated at $36,750.

The priority for road work is determined by the state according to a rating system which awards points for the number of homes, businesses, schools, bus routes, churches, and amount of traffic on a particular road.

The roads are then lined up according to the number of points received and the road with the most points gets first priority. Of the 156 roads rated in the county, the state is up through number 10 in priority in upgrading and paving.

There was little discussion of the approved roads by the relatively friendly crowd. Most had come to call attention to individual problems on individual secondary roads in the county.

The officials were told of flooded bridges, trees growing over roads, pot holes, sharp curves and rocks as big as watermelons lying in Davie's secondary roads. There were also complaints of too much sand, not enough sand, too much scraping, not enough scraping, construction going too slow and no construction at all.

After each complaint, Loflin, who wore a North Carolina flag tapel pin, would look to one of his engineers to make sure each fact was recorded for further investigation. By the end of the meeting, the men had several pages of Davie County problems to

Local Home Economists To Attend National Meeting In Minneapolis

Mrs. Ostine West and Mrs. Nancy Hartman, Davie Extension Home Economists, will attend the 40th Annual Meeting of the National Association of Extension Home Economists in Minneapolis, Minnesota next week.

Mrs. West will be one of four home economists from North Carolina to receive the national distinguished service award.

"Concern - Challenge - Commitment" will be the theme of the meeting to be held September 24 - 27, 1974.

The meeting, hosted by the Minnesota Extension Home Economists, will focus on an appreciation for Extension heritage; insight into critical social issues; skills in determining program perspectives; and plans for investment in the future. Mrs. Phyllis Northway from Kenosha, Wisconsin, is the president of the Association.

Keynote speaker for the opening session Tuesday will be Dr. Lois A. Lund, Dean, College of Human Ecology, Michigan State University, speaking on "What's Happened to the American Dream."

Workshops on "Equation for Survival" will be held Wednesday and Thursday. Program topics will relate to family life, health, clothing, housing and food.

Dr. Otis Maxwell, Clinical Psychologist, Boston, will speak on "Marketing the Human Potential in a Way That Has Relevance" at a luncheon on Thursday. Thursday evening will be highlighted by a recognition dinner when professional improvement awards will be presented. Edwin L. Kirby, Administrator, Extension Service, USDA will speak on "People Make the Difference in Determining Programs."

A "Futurama" with State Leaders will be held Friday morning. Nine State Leaders will participate in a question-answer session.

Dr. Betty Siegel, Dean, Academic Affairs, and Professor of Psychological Foundation, University of Florida, will challenge Extension Agents with the topic "It's Up to You" at the closing session Friday.

Extension Home Economists from all of the states and Puerto Rico will attend the annual NAEHE meeting. Ninety-nine educational exhibits will be planned for persons attending.

In addition to Mrs. West and Mrs. Hartman from Davie County, attending the meeting from the Northwestern District of the N. C. Association of Extension Home Economists will be Jane Davidson, Martha Hogan, Jo Ann Fleming, Helen Payne and Claudette Webstern.

In addition to Mrs. West, receiving the Distinguished Service Awards from North Carolina are Phyllis Sainback, Mollye Briley, Rebecca Hall and Rachel Keisler.

From North Carolina, there are four Extension Home Economists serving on National committees. They are: Fran Ward, Chairman Elect, Hospitality Committee; Jane Davidson, Registration Committee; Frances Voliva, Exhibit Committee; and Elizabeth Jones, Distinguished Service Awards Committee.

The North Carolina Association of Extension Home Economists is headed by Mrs. Gwili Brendell of Waynesville, North Carolina. Mrs. Jean Childers of Brevard is currently serving as National 3rd Vice President.

Fires

Fire calls in the county during the past week included:

September 12th around 8:45 p.m. the Mocksville Fire Department answered a call on Milling Road. A telephone pole was on fire.

September 12th, around 11:05 a.m. the William R. Davie Fire Department answered a call to the Raymond Foster farm near fire tower.

Overcome By Chlorine

James Jones, of Route 7, Mocksville, was taken to Davie County Hospital after being overcome by chlorine fumes Tuesday.

Jones was changing chlorine tanks at the Wonderkint plant around 9:30 Tuesday morning when he became ill from fumes from a leaky valve in one of the tanks.

He was taken to the Davie Hospital for observation.

look into.

"We're here to lay it all out before the public," Loflin told the group, often spending four or five minutes to answer an individual question. "We've got nothing to hide."

He defended the priority system, saying "It's the closest system you can come up with for treating people fairly." Horton added that Davie County had received more money in the past year for road construction than in the past three years.

The officials admitted that the traffic counters (used in determining the priority of a road for receiving construction) were often abused and that petitions "don't rate much" in getting a road paved.

The spending of $20,900 to pave US 158 from 801 to the river bridge, a subject of controversy among some citizens, was not brought up until nearly the end of the meeting. The officials explained that construction was done from primary and not secondary road funds and thus not in their jurisdiction.

In addition to approving the secondary road, officials proposed roads for construction. The commissioners gave their consent to allow work on the next roads in line of priority should the state be unable to obtain right-of-ways on the approved roads.

The commissioners also approved a work order of $4,000, already set aside from the secondary road fund, to pay for state employees to come out and get the right-of-ways.

Citizens who feel their roads were not properly rated will have a chance to move up (or down) in the priority listing this winter. All secondary roads in the county will be re-rated in January and given priorities for the next two years.

TV Set Stolen

The Davie County Sheriff's Department is investigating the theft of a television set from the mobile home of Leroy Sheets, Advance, Rt. 1.

The theft occurred between 12:30 a.m. and 6:15 a.m., Sunday.

Jim Martin Appointed Executive Director Of Davie CONTACT Center

The board of directors of CONTACT Davie County is pleased to announce the appointment of Jim Martin as the new Executive Director of the local CONTACT center. Mr. Martin is the associate minister of the First Baptist Church in Mocksville, he and his wife, Loretta, live in Courtney with their two children: Marty age eight and Jamey, age four.

Chuck McGhee, president of the CONTACT board of directors, in announcing the board's decision, said that Jim's appointment indicates how important the local CONTACT volunteer members and board of directors feel this service is in our community. "It is a reaffirmation of our dedication to provide a listening ear, as readily available as the telephone, to help another sort out some of the inner conflicts that occur in everyone's life. Jim's training and experience will strengthen and improve the quality of the CONTACT center through his leadership. The board feels very fortunate to have found such a capable person to fill this key position," said Mr. McGhee.

"Although CONTACT is based on the Christian philosophy of helping others, and is patterned after Jesus' methods of counseling in the New Testament, it is not a church or an evangelistic agency. There is no affiliation with any denomination or group. No creedal requirements are made of those serving. They need not be affiliated with any church group. On the other hand CONTACT is not a substitute for the church life of those participating in the program. The telephone workers and board members are all volunteers from the community who are giving their time as non-professional counselors, average people who have a greater than average capacity to deal empathetically with persons in a moment of crisis," Mr. McGhee said. He pointed out that the sole purpose of CONTACT is to be a telephone crisis intervention, counseling a referral service, available 24 hours a day to the community without cost or obligation to those calling.

"A worker in CONTACT may be from a variety of vocations and professions as well as differing religious convictions. She may be a housewife or a professional counselor. He may be a Catholic, Protestant, Jew or just a Christian. Each worker in Contact will express their own concepts in the experience of counseling another, but there is no pat formula within which one must fit," said the new Executive Director, Mr. Martin.

"CONTACT depends on the support of all elements within the community in which it serves; business, government agencies, churches, civic clubs and professions. To be an effective referral service it must have the cooperation of all the community resources. The board has been gratified at the acceptance of the CONTACT ministry by all the agencies in Davie County, such as; Department of Social Services, Mental Health, Rescue Squad, Police and Sheriff's Department, Davie Hospital, Davidson Community College, churches, etc. The board members continue to solicit the assistance and cooperation of the community as the Davie CONTACT center enters a more mature phase under it's new director, Mr. Jim Martin," said Mr. McGhee.

Rotary Told Of Danger Of Self-Centeredness

The danger of self-centeredness and self concern was discussed for members of the Mocksville Rotary Club on Tuesday by George Rudisill of Thomasville, District Superintendent of the Western North Carolina Conference of the Methodist Church.

"The present in which we live finds too many people pre-occupied with self-centeredness that many lose the ability for compassion and understanding," said Mr. Rudisill.

Another concern of the speaker in the present day was the negative concern of people not wanting to pay the price for progress.

"Today there are many that tell you what we need today is . . . but what if this has been the philosophy and sole concern of our forefathers? They were not concerned with just the present, but planned and worked for the future", said Mr. Rudisill.

The Rev. Austin Hamilton had charge of the program and introduced Mr. Rudisill. Brady Angell, vice-president, presided.

And that's how the Hattons decided to get a phone in the rec room.

Right when it was Dad's turn to play, and Susie was just about to win, Dad had a phone call.

So while he talked and talked in the living room, Susie waited and waited on pins and needles in the rec room.

That was on Monday night. On Tuesday, Mom called and ordered an extension phone for the rec room.

Dr. C. E. Rozzelle Speaks To Ruritans

The Jericho-Hardison Ruritan Club met September 10 for a Ladies Night meeting. There were 28 members present with their wives.

There were 10 guest present among whom were Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Cartner. Mr. Cartner is Zone Governor and he talked to the club about the Ruritan Convention which will be held at Benton Convention Center in Winston-Salem in November.

President Bob Knight announced that the club is without a 4-H leader and anyone wishing to be a leader can get in contact with him or Jim Sloop.

Guest speaker was Dr. C. Excelle Rozzelle, a retired Methodist minister, and former District Superintendent of the Thomasville and Winston-Salem Districts. Dr. Rozzelle is 82 years old and still very active in religious and civic activities. Mrs. Rozzelle was a sister to the late Dr. G.V. Greene of Park and she enjoyed visiting with friends in Davie County.

John Brock Heads Carson Campaign In Davie County

A Chairperson for Davie County has been named by North Carolinians For Carson, the state organization working to elect Jim Carson for Attorney General. John T. Brock of Mocksville, N. C. will lead the Carson forces in Davie County, according to John Boling, Carson's Campaign Manager in Raleigh. Mr. Brock is presently an attorney in Mocksville, N. C.

Jim Carson became North Carolina's first Republican Attorney General in this century when he was sworn in August 26, 1974. Carson was appointed by Governor Holshouser to head the state Justice Department until the November 5th election. A vacancy was created when the former Attorney General resigned to devote full time to another political contest.

A native of Charlotte, Carson had practiced law in the Tarheel State for a decade when he was appointed a Judge on the N. C. Court of Appeals in 1973. Prior to his service on the Appeals Court, Carson had been elected to two terms in the N. C. General Assembly, where he was responsible for passage of the Habitual Felon Bill, among others. Lt. Commander Carson also served as a pilot in the U.S. Navy with the 7th Fleet. 39 year old Carson is married and the father of three children.

Attorney General, Carson has gained wide-spread, bi-partisan for his actions in retaining Charles Dunn as head of the S. B. I., and the establishment of a task force to fight organized crime. Attorney General Carson said he plans to further outline his priorities for the Justice Department in statewide appearances before the November 5th election.

The Center Fair

The annual Center Fair was held last Saturday and was one of the biggest ever. Around 190 people entered exhibits, and for the first time they ran out of barbecue and food.

Mrs. Steve Evans, Chairman of the Center Fair, officials of the Center Community Development organization, and all the people of the Center Community, expressed appreciation to everyone who participated in the fair and barbecue in any way.

"And we certainly want to apologize for running out of food," said Mrs. Evans.

Winners in the drawings were: Mark Thorn, a Heritage table; Kenneth Robertson, a rug; and Martha Medley, a swivel rocker. (Photos by Jeff Ayers)

Officials View Nuclear Plant Site

Officials from the AEC, ORNL, and the State Division of Environmental Management are shown ascending the meteorological tower at the Perkins Nuclear Project to view the site of the future plant.

The site of the Perkins Nuclear plant in Davie County was viewed recently by officials of the Atomic Energy Commission along with officials from the Oak Ridge National Laboratory.

The thirty-some officials, from the Atomic Energy Commission Office in Washington, D.C., the Oak Ridge National Laboratory at Oak Ridge, Tennessee, and state officials from Raleigh, were joined by officials from the county and the city of Mocksville.

The visitors were given the chance to view the site from the air by use of a helicopter as well as the river area by boat and the entire party went over the project site by vehicles.

The terrestrial ecologist from the Oak Ridge National Laboratory was flown along the transmission line corridors and the aquatic ecologist flew over the nearest downstream lake and river area as well as exploring the Yadkin River by boat.

Later in the week, the Atomic Energy Commission Environmental Project Manager and the Oak Ridge National Laboratory team leader returned to Mocksville to meet with local officials at the Davie County Courthouse after meeting with James E. Harrington, secretary of the Department of Natural and Economic Resources in Raleigh.

The Oak Ridge National Laboratory aquatic and terrestrial ecologists revisited the Perkins Nuclear site as well as some surrounding parks and gameland with their counterparts from the State Fish and Game Commission.

Following the visits and meetings, the group met at the Environmental Report are on display in the library for viewing by interested parties as well as the general public.

The entire party was headed up by Dr. Robert A. Gilbert, project manager for the Environmental Projects Branch of the Atomic Energy Commission, Washington, D.C.

Heading up the group from DukePower and conducting the site visitation was L. C. Dail of the Design Engineering Department, Charlotte, N.C.

The entire group assembled at the base of the meteorological tower prior to the on-site inspection.

Local, state and federal officials discuss the plans for the Perkins Nuclear Plant in Davie County.

Mayor DeVito discusses the new plant with officials at the site of the Perkins Nuclear Project.

R. C. Bhatnager of the Design Engineering of Duke Power Company talks with officials from the N.C.State Division Environmental Management with others sitting in boat on trailer.

Mayor Arlen DeVito along with Branch Manager Ed Goodwin take a helicopter ride to view the project from the air.

Dental School Surgeon Reports Marijuana And Stress Do Not Mix

by Wes Lefler

A University of North Carolina School of Dentistry professor reported this week in London that marijuana and stress do not mix.

Dr. Ernest W. Small said he and his associates found that marijuana was the least effective of several agents tested in controlling anxiety in oral surgery patients.

"Not only was marijuana not effective in controlling anxiety in patients during surgery," Dr. Small said, "but in low doses it actually elevated anxiety to a surprisingly high degree."

Dr. Small presented the findings, based on a two-year study, before the 62nd Annual World Dental Congress of the Federation Dentaire Internationale.

Dr. Small is professor and chairman of the department of oral surgery at the UNC School of Dentistry. He reported on research conducted under the direction of Dr. John M. Gregg, principal investigator, oral surgeon and director of the UNC Dental School's Pain Control Clinic. Dr. Gregg is on leave of absence to the University of Washington in Seattle.

Dr. Small reported that by comparison, all four agents used had considerable calming effects before surgery began.

"But the stress of surgery in combination with low doses of marijuana sent anxiety levels out of sight on our test scale," Dr. Small said.

None of those tested wanted to use marijuana again before surgery.

Besides low doses of marijuana, other agents used in the research project were injections of valium (a standard surgical analgesic), non-active saline solution (salt water) and double doses of marijuana. The researchers used the active ingredient in marijuana (delta 9 tetrahydrocannabinol - THC) in solution. The THC solution was made available through the FDA.

Double doses of THC produced an anxiety level just below that of the THC dosage but well above the other two agents used in the tests.

"The most significant question this study raises is this: Is there a significant change in the personality of a person who is under the influence of marijuana and who at the same time comes under a period of stress?"

"The implication here is that we do have two very definite personalities, at least in the clinical situation," Dr. Small said.

He said there is growing evidence that patients are reporting for elective outpatient surgeries having fortified themselves with marijuana. And there are now reports of complications from emergency rooms on treatments of trauma patients (accident victims) whose physiology and psyches (body and mind functions) have been altered in strange manners by previous marijuana use.

It is now known, he said, that stressful settings may lead to psychic disorder in some cases and that marijuana at high doses may induce hallucinations, often enhance body sensations or may bring about acute episodes of paranoid thinking.

The research project was started two years ago in an effort to find new ways of making oral surgery more acceptable to patients. The ultimate aim, Dr. Small said, was to relieve the anxiety associated with oral surgery as well as the pain.

"Needless to say, THC has not come up to our expectations," he said.

Dr. Small went on to say this project was very well controlled by double blind procedures and reliable to 95-99 per cent accuracy in its findings based on the information available.

Fifteen males between the ages of 19 and 33 years of age were used in the study. Five were in a pilot study. Ten, in the clinical study, had four impacted wisdom teeth surgically removed. A different analgesic agent was used for each surgery experience and tests were conducted before, during and after surgery.

Volunteer patients were selected after careful screening was completed, and the study was approved by the University of North Carolina Committee on Investigations Involving Human Subjects.

Research funding was provided by the National Institute of Dental Research of the National Institutes of Health.

Goodwill To Prosecute Robbery Of Collection Boxes

Nelson Kessell, executive director of the Goodwill Industrial Rehabilitation Center, Inc. states today that Goodwill has decided, reluctantly, to prosecute people removing materials from its collection boxes. Goodwill provides employment and rehabilitation for the handicapped, and these materials are vital to the Goodwill program. Reusable materials are donated to Goodwill by industry and concerned citizens and people who believe in their program. These materials are refurbished by the handicapped then put in the Goodwill Budgets

Stores and sold. The proceeds from the sale of the materials pay the wages of the employees and help in supporting the program of rehabilitation. So those people who remove material from the Goodwill collection boxes are actually impeding the progress of Goodwill's program of helping the handicapped. There are two Goodwill collection boxes in Mocksville located at Lowe's Super Market on Wilkesboro Street. Unauthorized removal of material from these boxes has become a major problem over the past few months. Goodwill has posted each box with a decal which reads, "Warning: Anyone tampering with or removing contents will be prosecuted." According to Kessell each case will be reviewed and proper measures taken. Generally speaking prosecution will be the course taken. Nevertheless, Goodwill will continue to provide service and help to needy individuals and families. Kessell said "Goodwill reluctantly takes this course of action, but does so at the request of many concerned donors, law authorities and because it is handicapping our business and programs. We are grateful to the people of Mocksville for their donations; we want to protect that donation and get it where the donor expects it to go... helping the handicapped."

Newsphone Installed By Transportation Dept.

Transportation and Highway Safety Secretary Troy A. Doby today announced that a newsphone service designed to keep North Carolina news media informed of the latest news within the Department is now in operation.

Doby, who first suggested the newsphone idea, said... "the newsphone was installed primarily to get news of an immediate nature to the news media in a more rapid and efficient manner. For instance, if a road is washed out and a detour designated this information can be immediately put on the newsphone for statewide distribution." The newsphone service will feature taped interviews with departmental administrators as well as provide a calendar of upcoming meetings and other events of interest to the news media.

The newsphone service is designed to save taxpayer's dollars by reducing the mailing of individual news releases to the state's media each time a news event occurs.

Veterans Will Meet

Inside Insurance

Do you have coordination?

John B.'s wife, Sarah, is admitted to County General Hospital for tests and surgery; her bill amounts to $1,000 for five days. John and Sarah both are employed and each has group health insurance where they work. Each policy will pay 80% of the cost. When they sent the bill to their insurance companies, Sarah's company paid $800 and John's paid $200. The bill was paid in full - 100%.

Question: Why didn't both John and Sarah's insurance pay $800 each?

Answer: In this case $1,600 would have been an overpayment. Instead, the insurance companies coordinated the paying of benefits; they were able to share the costs. This feature is called Coordination of Benefits or COB and is included in most group health insurance plans.

Question: Why do insurance companies include COB in their policies?

Answer: After many years of studying premium rates and medical costs, insurance companies realized that by paying more than was necessary, they were having to increase the premiums to keep up with rising costs. If companies could share the cost of hospitals and surgery with other insurance companies, they could charge less for the insurance and pass the savings on to the customer. Depending on the type of coverage, the premium can be as much as 20% less with COB.

Question: Besides the savings in premium, are there any other advantages in having COB?

Answer: Referring again to the case history, John's insurance company paid only $200. What happened to the other $600? It went into a special reserve account; the $600 may be used by John's wife to pay any other medical bills she may have. This special fund can even cover medical expenses not covered by John's policy, but that are covered in Sarah's. Without COB, the company would have paid the $800. But John or his employer would have been paying 20% higher premiums throughout the year.

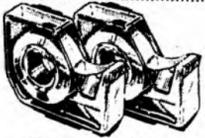

John and Sarah's case is typical. With COB, they were assured of having their hospital bills paid in full up to the limits of each policy. And premium rates were lower than they would have been without COB.

If you wish to know more about your group health insurance plan, your personnel department should be able to answer any questions.

The Story Of A Confederate Infantry Company

The Davie Sweepstakes

By W. T. Jordan

At least eight companies of Confederate troops were raised in Davie County during the Civil War, including Company G, Fourth Regiment N. C. State Troops, known by the men who served in its ranks as the "Davie Sweepstakes."

The company was organized at Mocksville in June, 1861, two months after the bombardment of Fort Sumter, and originally numbered 86 officers and men under the command of Captain William F. Kelly and Lieutenants Samuel A. Kelly (brother of Captain Kelly), Thomas J. Brown and Samuel G. Davis. More than half of the ardent young recruits were under 23 years of age, and only thirteen were over 30. Privates William J. McElroy and Asbury Athan, both 45, were the "grandfathers" of the company, while the youngest to serve were Privates Samuel A. Jones and L. B. King, both of whom enlisted later in the war at the age of 16.

In the latter part of June the company was ordered to Camp Hill, near Garysburg, where it was assigned to the Fourth Regiment N. C. State Troops, commanded by Colonel George E. Anderson, a handsome young West Point graduate with a quiet voice and a golden beard. After intensive drill and training in the manual of arms, the regiment was sent to Manassas Junction, Virginia where it arrived on August 9, several weeks too late for the First Battle of Manassas (known in the North as the First Battle of Bull Run.) But the disappointed Davie County soldiers were to be denied neither glory nor an opportunity to die on the field of honor. By April 9, 1865, when General Lee surrendered the Army of Northern Virginia at Appomattox Court House, the company had fought in most of the great battles of the eastern theater of war, and 60 of the 150 men who served in the "Davie Sweepstakes" had lost their lives. Of these, 30 were killed in battle or mortally wounded, and 30 died of diseases such as pneumonia, typhoid fever, smallpox, and diarrhea. In addition, 44 men were wounded, 8 were captured, and 4 were wounded and captured.

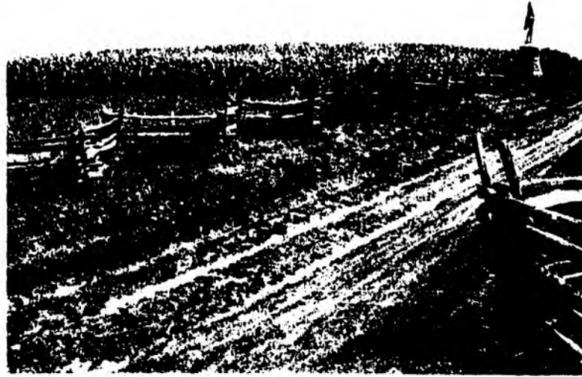

Among the company's nine major battles, Seven Pines (May 31, 1862) was by far the bloodiest. There, during a terrible charge of more than a quarter of a mile through a tangle of fallen pine trees and over swampy ground where water was in places more than knee deep, the Davie County men suffered appalling casualties from the fire of Federal troops entrenched behind a heavy redoubt "bristling with artillery." Miraculously, the Federal position was captured, but the company lost 15 men killed or mortally wounded, 18 wounded, and 1 captured; a casualty rate of almost fifty percent. Among the fatalities were two soldiers who may have been brothers: Anderson H. and Daniel J. Cain. A third member of the family, William G. Cain, went down with a wound that disabled him for six months. Another casualty was 16 year old Private Samuel A. Jones, who was wounded in the thigh. He was carried to a hospital at Richmond, Virginia, where, far from home and family, and after three weeks of medical treatment that was probably little better than primitive, he died on or about June 20, 1862. His military career, from the date of his enlistment, had lasted 96 days. Still reeling from the decimation inflicted upon them at Seven Pines, the Davie County men took part in Lee's invasion of the North in the fall of 1862, and, on September 17, the bloodiest day of the entire war, they fought at Sharpsburg. There, in a sunken road later known as "Bloody Lane," occurred some of the most desperate fighting ever witnessed on the North American continent. For more than three hours the outnumbered Confederates, commanded by Brigadier General George B. Anderson (former Colonel of the Fourth Regiment), fought off a determined and sustained Federal assault. Then, at a critical moment, a Confederate brigade on Anderson's flank, misunderstanding an order to change front, withdrew, enabling two Federal regiments to get astride the sunken road and "rake its length with perfectly timed volleys." Devastated by this murderous enfilading fire, Anderson's men fled the road. Only a heroic rally led by another North Carolina general, D. H. Hill, prevented the destruction of Lee's army. Meanwhile, at Bloody Lane, the Confederate dead lay so thick that, wrote one Federal soldier, "as far down the road as (I) could see a man could walk upon them without once touching the ground." The Davie County men had been lucky, however, for they were some distance from the point of the Federal breakthrough and were also, perhaps, protected by a small hillock. Only Lieutenant Rufus D. Brown and Corporal William P. Hanes were wounded, and Private John N. Charles was captured. The gallant Anderson was wounded also and died at Raleigh on October 16. On May 14, 1863, the Davie Sweepstakes fought at Chancellorsville, where they took part in the "flank march" of "Stonewall" Jackson, still regarded as one of the classic battlefield maneuvers in military history, and lost 7 men killed or mortally wounded, 12 wounded, and 2 captured. Among the wounded was Sergeant Lewis S. Mullican, whose left arm was amputated as a result of a wound and who sustained, in addition, a gunshot wound of the right shoulder, bayonet wounds of the right shoulder, a dislocated finger, and an unspecified head injury. Sergeant Mullican survived but had to be discharged as an invalid.

At Gettysburg (July 1-3, 1863) the Davie County men, together with the other companies of the Fourth Regiment, were the first to enter that fateful country town when it was captured on July 1. Two days later they may have been in a position to watch as the Pickett-Pettigrew charge, the "high tide of the Confederacy" and the most famous assault of the war, ended in a froth of blood on Cemetery Ridge. Private George H. Cunningham was killed during the fighting at Gettysburg; Private Clary was wounded; and Private C. David (or Davis) was captured.

As the years passed by and final defeat approached, the ranks of the Davie Sweepstakes dwindled to a mere handful. In addition to the dead, men were lost when captured by the enemy or disabled by wounds, and four members of the company deserted. So desperate was the man power shortage that even Private John E. Reavis, who had been court-martialed for "stealing, firing upon citizens passing along the road, threatening to burn citizen's houses, and being a desperate character generally and a terror to the neighborhood in which he lived," was welcomed back into the ranks. However, when the company was paroled at Appomattox Court House on April 9, 1865, only nine members were present to lay down their arms: Second Lieutenant Carson A. Guffy, Ordnance Sergeant J. D. Sheek, and Privates John F. Bagarly, T. A. Beeman, William Clary, Jonathan Cranfill, Samuel M. Cunningham, Thomas M. Walker, and Henry A. Wise. Of these, Guffy, Sheek, Cunningham, and Wise were left of the 86 officers and men who, in June, 1861, had marched away to war. (Much of the information contained in this article was abstracted from Volume IV of North Carolina Troops, 1861-1865: A Roster, which contains the names and service records of all 150 members of the Davie Sweepstakes as well as rosters of many other units. The volume is available at $12 per copy from the Historical Publications Section, Department of Cultural Resources, 109 E. Jones Street, Raleigh, 27611.)

Stereo Tapes Are Stolen From Vehicles

Stereo tapes were reported stolen from several motor vehicles in Mocksville last Thursday morning. Reporting robbery of tapes from their vehicles were Terry Keaton of Tot Street and Bobby Peoples of Mocksville. The same day someone tried to steal the car of Lindsay Merrell but abandoned it in the street near his home, but took the stereo tapes. The Mocksville Police Department is investigating.

Volks Is Stolen And Recovered

A Volkswagen, owned by William H. Joyner of Mocksville Rt. 1, was stolen around 8 p. m. last Friday night. The Volks was reported taken from the Fran Ray Rest Home around 8 p. m. while Mrs. Joyner was visiting inside. The vehicle was covered about an hour and half later in some growth in a field near the rest home. No damage was reported.

Breakin Attempted At Cooleemee Postoffice

An attempt was made to breakin the United States Post Office at Cooleemee early last Saturday morning. The breakin, which was unsuccessful, was discovered when employees reported for work early Saturday morning.

Precinct Meeting

Davie County Republican precinct meetings will be held as follows: West Shady Grove, on September 23 at 7:30 p.m. at Dulin-Cornatzer Fire Department; North and South Mocksville, Sept. 24, at 8 p.m. in the Davie County Court House; Fulton, Sept. 24, at 8 p.m. at Fork Fire Station and North Calahan and South Calahan, Sept. 24, at 7:30 p.m. at Davie Academy Community Building. All of the other precincts are urged to have meetings the last week in September.

Campers at Lake Myers were treated Saturday night by the appearance of the Davie County High School Band and the Majorettes. Following the concert, Dwight Myers, owner of the campground, passed the hat. The money raised will go toward buying new instruments which are needed by the band members. Band members and the Majorettes were invited to return to Lake Myers next summer. Following the concert, torches were set up throughout the area to light up the Water Slide and all members were given free rides. The group wishes to thank Mr. Myers for his generosity.

Cedar Creek

Thought For Today

Let not the disorders of our day dim our faith in the ultimate triumph of goodness.

A good Sunday school reported here at Cedar Creek Sunday.

Sunday afternoon the members motored to the Yadkin Star Baptist church and worshipped with them in their annual homecoming revival meeting. The Rev. W. C. Hay was guest speaker and Rev. Wilson was host pastor.

The members worshipped with the Mainsville M. E. Zion church in Mocksville on Monday night and the Pleasant Grove Baptist Church in Yadkinville, also Fairfield Baptist Church in Mocksville. The gospel is being preached to the world; however old Satan is still busy.

Mrs. Lucy Tatum is all smiles over the arrival of a new grandson born to Mr. and Mrs. William Campbell of Winston-Salem.

ASCS News

Farmers having conservation problems should their local ASCS county office to discuss their conservation needs.

Livestock farmers can help relieve any feed shortage a great deal by using winter cover crops for supplementary grazing.

We are losing farmland each year to such things as urban expansion, highways, airports, reservoirs, recreational areas, and many other uses that mean we must care for the farmland we have left, and especially so, since our population is increasing so rapidly.

We should all be thankful for the foresighted people in this country who see enough into the future so that they are providing care for our soil, water, woodland, and wildlife now so there will be something left for future generations.

The REAP has been, and can be even more so, responsible in assisting farmers in conserving our land for future generations. The 1974 REAP also offers an opportunity for producers to carry out needed soil and water conservation measures.

All farmers are urged to take inventory of their needs and to request cost-sharing under one of the programs to assist in completing conservation work this fall.

National Bicentennial Symbol On Highway Signs

Tourists and travelers on the nation's highways during the Bicentennial era will have an easily recognized symbol helping guide them to Bicentennial activities in many areas of the country.

The symbol takes the form of a 5-pointed star, surrounded by continuous red, white and blue stripes which form a second star.

State agencies to use Federal aid funds to install the Bicentennial highway guide and rest area information signs which must be up by July 1, 1976 and removed before June 30, 1977.

State highway officials will work with State Bicentennial Commissions to identify appropriate destinations which will include those associated with programs accorded official recognition by the ARBA. For information contact: Office of Communications (202) 254-8007 John Scholzen

Blue Collar Deduction?

Ralph is a construction worker and, due to the nature of his job, spends about $200 per year on dungarees and other work clothing for his job. Can he deduct the cost of the clothing as well as cleaning and maintenance expense?

Ordinary work clothing, such as Ralph wears, is not deductible. A deduction is allowed for uniforms and other special clothing when they are not adaptable for general wear. Ralph's work clothes, like a businessman's suit, are adaptable to the general wear; and since the clothing is not deductible neither is the cost of cleaning and maintenance.

NOTICE OF RESOLUTION FOR CHANGING THE VOTING PLACE FOR NORTH MOCKSVILLE PRECINCT, DAVIE COUNTY

WHEREAS, the Board of Elections has determined that the Mocksville Gymnasium is no longer suitable as the voting place for North Mocksville Precinct and that the second floor of the B. C. Brock Community Center is suitable for use as the voting place for said precinct.

NOW, THEREFORE, be it resolved by the Board of Elections of Davie County, North Carolina:

(1) That the voting place for North Mocksville Precinct, Davie County, North Carolina, be changed from the Mocksville Gymnasium to the second floor of B. C. Brock Community Center and the second floor of B. C. Brock Community Center to remain as the voting place for said precinct until changed by official action of this Board.

(2) That the Executive Secretary of this Board shall give notice of this Resolution by advertisement in the Davie County Enterprise-Record on the 19th and 26th of September, 1974, securing a publisher's affidavit certifying said advertisement; by posting a copy of this resolution at the Davie County Courthouse Door; and by mailing a copy of this resolution to H. R. Hendrix, Jr., Chairman of the Davie County Republican Executive Committee and to Dr. Ramey F. Kemp, Chairman of the Davie County Democrat Executive Committee.

(3) That all offices on the second floor of the said B. C. Brock Community Center be closed on election days and only election officials and those participating in the voting process be allowed on the second floor of said building on election days.

At a regular meeting of the Davie County Board of Elections on September 12, 1974, motion for the adoption of the above Resolution was made, seconded, and passed unanimously.

This 12th day of September, 1974.

William E. Hall, Chairman Davie County Board of Elections 9-19 4tn

LAND POSTERS

N.C. General Statute 113-120.2 provides that signs or posters prohibiting hunting " . . . shall measure not less than 10 inches by 12 inches and shall be conspicuously posted on private lands not more than 500 yards apart close to and along the boundaries. At least one such notice, sign, or poster shall be posted on each side of such land, and one at each corner thereof . . ." The statute also provides that in case such posters are to be used for prohibiting fishing, they should be posted not more than 300 yards apart around the shore line of the pond or lake involved.

DAVIE COUNTY ENTERPRISE RECORD

by Karen McCall

I had a telephone call a few days ago from a friend who told me with great excitement, "You know the Miller Home on Old Farms Road? Well, I bought it today! And we can't wait to move in." "Isn't that thrilling!" I said. "I hope you made a good deal."

"I'll say! Fifty thousand dollars! It was a steal at that price. My family loves it!"

Now I happen to know that my friend's income is less than $12,000 a year. And for that kind of income, $50,000 is a pretty stiff price to pay for a new home. On the other hand, if they can manage the monthly mortgage payments, the taxes, the insurance, and the upkeep, they will have an investment that is bound to go up in value as the years go by.

General Rule

There's a rule of thumb that says "you can afford to spend 2 1/2 times your family's income for the price of a home." If that's true, my friend should have spent somewhere in the area of $30,000. So he was $20,000 over his head.

But that rule of thumb has a lot of flaws in it. It doesn't take into consideration such factors as inflation. Suppose the $50,000 house could be sold, after a couple of years, for $75,000? Then what about the "rule of thumb?"

I'm not advocating that you should buy more house than you can afford. I'm merely trying to say that the price you pay depends upon your own individual situation. Actually, the purchase of a home is a special expenditure that affects not only your finances — but your whole way of life. Your home can mean the difference between happiness and misery for your family. So, who's to say if a house costs more than you can afford?

Other Phases

Some families would rather economize on other phases of living; get along with less entertainment; take fewer vacations; drive a lower priced automobile. And they would rather put those extra dollars into the price of a home. . . . Other families are extravagant in everything they do. And if they buy a home that is way out of their normal price range without making other sacrifices to offset it — they soon find themselves getting deeper and deeper in debt.

Try to estimate your top limit — the highest price and operating-expense total you can afford to pay — taking into consideration all of your other living costs. Perhaps there are items in your budget that you can trim to loosen up more money for your new house.

Whatever you do — don't make an impulsive decision that you'll regret later. Once you make a mistake, you're stuck. You'll have to live with it. So take your time and don't be pressured. Give a lot of thought to your basic needs. Buying a new house is probably the largest single expenditure your family will ever make.

Evaluate Surroundings

Let's say that you have decided your top-limit is $35,000. And eventually you find exactly the house you want at that price. But you also find that the house is flanked by $25,000 houses on smaller lots. Later, you find an identical $35,000 house (except this one is $36,000) in another neighborhood. But it is surrounded by homes in the $35,000 price range. Do you buy the first one and save $1,000. No! You pay an extra thousand and get the house in the more expensive surroundings.

Location is tremendously important. If you find a home that suits you perfectly — but it's right next door to a big, rambling, old-fashioned house — and you discover that the zoning laws are very lax, that big house may eventually become a rooming house or a nursing home.

Answer Questions

When you are looking around, get the answer to these questions. . . . Does the community look clean and well-kept? Are the curbs clean? The grass and trees trimmed? Are the roads well-maintained? Cross streets well-marked? Streets well-lighted?

Are there churches and schools nearby? A convenient shopping center not too far away? Recreation? Parks? Playgrounds? Is there heavy traffic in rush hours? Is there good police protection? Fire protection?

These are only a few of the many questions you will need to have answered before you make your final selection. Do your homework well!

Meet "Miss Mocksville"

Meet the new "Miss Mocksville."

She is Sandra Lynne Clontz of Route 1, Advance, a lovely and very talented young lady who will be representing Mocksville and Davie County in the 1975 "Miss North Carolina" Pageant.

The eldest of four children, Sandra, 18, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Broadus Clontz.

The new "Miss Mocksville" has special interests in dancing, painting, piano and water skiing. She has had four years of art and five years of piano training and is quite good at both. Sandra has also had five years of dance training, specializing in Spanish dancing, which is the talent she chose to use in the beauty pageant.

A 1974 graduate of Davie County High School, the brown-haired beauty was a member of the Pep Club, French Club, Student Council and the Dancing Boots where she served as chief during her senior year.

This fall, Sandra plans to further her education at the American Business and Fashion Institute, Inc. in Charlotte. At this time, she is undecided between becoming a fashion designer or fashion merchandiser, but definitely plans to pursue a career in one of the two.

The shapely, 35-24-36, "Miss Mocksville 1975" made her first public appearance at the annual Masonic Picnic in August, just days after receiving her crown. She has since made appearances at the Miss Elkin Valley and Miss Hickory beauty pageants and at the Davie County Ruritan Picnic. Her hostess, Mrs. Kathy Tomlinson, is keeping busy lining up appearances for Sandra which she feels will be advantageous when she enters the Miss North Carolina Pageant next year.

Like all winners before, Sandra keeps a photo album and scrap book of memories.

Her two younger sisters and younger brother have been just as excited as Sandra and continue to spend a great deal of time looking at her photo collection to date.

Mrs. Clontz says 13-year-old Lisa kept everyone from "going to pieces" before the pageant with her witty actions and comments. However, when big sister was crowned, she could hardly stand the excitement.

Little six-year-old William was bewildered with the entire affair. "He thought I'd been elected president," said Sandra.

And little Ivy, who is only four, loves to look at the scrap book, especially the fan mail which Sandra has received from many interesting places.

Another important person in Sandra's life is her boyfriend, Terry Johnson, however, she says wedding bells will not be ringing for them in the very near future. She would prefer to complete her education first.

If her schedule will permit, Sandra expressed a desire to visit the local nursing homes and in some way, entertain the patients, or maybe make them some hand-painted cards.

The new "Miss Mocksville" is looking forward to her reign in the months ahead with a great deal of anticipation.

And the people of Mocksville and Davie County can feel proud to have such a lovely and talented young lady represent them in the 1975 Miss North Carolina Pageant.

Research Offers Better Understanding Of Strokes

Research now being conducted at the Bowman Gray School of Medicine is expected to result in a better understanding of stroke and some types of headaches.

Dr. Carlos E. Rapela, professor of physiology, has been awarded a $198,992 grant by the National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Stroke to support his studies on the blood flow within the head.

He has been engaged in research on cerebral circulation for the past 14 years.

He and his co-researchers are interested in determining the possible effects of certain chemicals, as well as the involuntary nervous system, on the blood vessels within the head. Emphasis will be placed on how these factors may cause the vessels to constrict and reduce blood flow.

Any influence on the brain's vessels which could increase and diminish blood flow during a stroke must be understood if better means of stroke prevention and treatment are to be developed.

Interested In Conservation

One of the largest single efforts in North America to insure the future of wildlife—the Migratory Bird Hunting Stamp program—is being expanded to encourage citizens outside the hunting community to buy them, Rogers C. B. Morton, Secretary of the Interior, has announced.

"This is a revenue stamp required of all duck hunters 16 years of age or older. Conservationists of all persuasions can make a solid contribution to wildlife preservation by buying a duck stamp for five dollars at their local post office," Morton said. "I am especially proud of the progress in wetlands acquisition from these funds. Since 1971 over 380,000 acres have been set aside for wildlife."

The revenue from the sale of these stamps, which have been issued each year since 1934, goes directly into the purchase of lands for water-fowl nesting, resting, and wintering. More than 160 species of birds, a number of mammals, and fish are directly dependent on wetland habitat for their survival. Some two-thirds of the fish species important to commercial fisheries industry are directly dependent on wetland productivity.

Since 1934 over two million acres of land have been purchased with duck stamp revenues. Average annual receipts from the sale of these stamps now totals about $11 million.

This effort to preserve wetlands was considered so vital by Congress in 1961 that it enacted the Wetlands Loan Act which authorized a $105 million interest free loan for use in combination with duck stamp receipts to preserve wetland habitat necessary for waterfowl. Since then the Fish and Wildlife Service has acquired an additional 1.75 million acres of waterfowl habitat, principally wetlands in the "prairie pothole duck factory" region of northcentral United States at a cost of $165 million—half of which was from loan advances and half from duck stamp receipts.

Wetlands Play Vital Role

Significant as these results are, wetlands continue to be drained, dredged, filled in and otherwise destroyed at a high rate. During the 1960's some 350,000 acres of small wetlands were drained in the northern prairies, over two million acres of bottomland overflow areas were converted to cropland in the Mississippi River Delta region, and an estimated 150,000 to 300,000 acres of coastal marshes and estuaries were destroyed.

"Most citizens probably are unaware of the vital role wetlands play in our natural environment," Secretary Morton said. "They throb with life. The way they recharge underground water supplies is well known by biologists. They significantly reduce flood crests when left intact because they slow the runoff of heavy rain and snow melt throughout a watershed. Marshes also function continuously as giant biological filters by removing silt, organic wastes, and toxic chemicals caused by agricultural and industrial pollution from water supplies. The vegetation associated with marshes figures prominently in the production and release of oxygen. The biological productivity of wetlands, from the minute algae or microscopic animals to extensive salt marsh flats, is unexcelled when compared to terrestrial agricultural systems. Finally, as a basis for public outdoor recreation, education, and aesthetic values, wetlands are among the finest and most important features of nature. These multiple benefits generally are enjoyed by many more people than just duck hunters. Unfortunately, much of the value of wetlands is not realized by the landowner, therefore leaving little incentive to preserve them."

"The diversity of wetland values, to hunters and nonhunters alike, is so great that all conservationists and people interested in the environment should share in the opportunity to preserve these vital natural resources. One way each person can make his own personal contribution is to buy a duck stamp. Protecting and preserving our environment is everyone's responsibility. The money spent on a duck stamp has another effect far beyond its cost in terms of protecting our resources from construction on an inappropriate site that may be a burden on generations to come. I urge all citizens to take the time to go to their local post office and vote to preserve what's not only beautiful but also ecologically important in America by purchasing a duck stamp," Morton concluded.

New Name And Emblem

By an Act of Congress the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife has a new name. It's the United States Fish and Wildlife Service. Along with a new name comes a new symbolic emblem.

"Our primary mission as reflected in our new name concerns the welfare of America's fish and wildlife resources," Director Lynn A. Greenwalt said. "Our determination to meet this challenge is expressed on our new emblem by a stylized mallard and salmon whose very designs signify our modern concepts of professional wildlife management, in which we recognize total ecosystems as the starting point for management decision."

Buddy Bass Tournament

The Mimosa Fishing Club of Morganton will sponsor a Buddy Bass Tournament. The tournament is set up for Saturday, Sept. 21, on Lake James in Burke and McDowell counties.

Tournament headquarters will be at the Mimosa Boat Landing on the north side of the lake.

An entry fee of $10 per person will be charged, with the prizes based on a percentage of the total receipts.

Starting time for the tournament will be at 8 a. m., with the final weigh-in set at 6 p. m. Dead line for entering is Monday, Sept. 16.

BRAVES SALUTE AARON AND RUTH SEPT. 29

Atlanta -- The Braves will pay tribute to Hank Aaron one final time this season on Sunday, September 29, before the game against the Houston Astros at Atlanta Stadium. A giant eight-foot woodcarving of the drawing shown above will be unveiled and then put on display at the Stadium as a permanent tribute to Baseball's two greatest home run sluggers. All adults attending the game will be given a special commemorative copy of the pencil drawing of Ruth and Aaron, which was done by world famous artist Euclid Shook. The woodcarving was done by one of the world's top two carvers -- Art McKellips of Oregon -- and was commissioned by the X-ACTO Company. It has been insured for $100,000. The Braves will also honor Aaron the night before on September 28 when they play a doubleheader against the Astros. All youngsters attending that game will receive a free Hank Aaron 715 Kit with a poster, book on Aaron and other special souvenirs. (PRN)

Punt, Pass And Kick Registration Underway In Davie County

Registrations for the 1974 Punt, Pass and Kick Program--co-sponsored locally by the Mocksville Optimist Club and Reavis Ford continue to roll in. The national goal is a record

1,200,000 registrants. Over the past 13 years PP&K has registered more than ten million youngsters, making it the largest youth activity of its kind in America. In each of the last six years, registrations have topped the million mark.

Any youngster 8 through 13 years of age, accompanied by a parent or guardian, may register at Reavis Ford. There is no registration fee.

Each registrant will receive a free PP&K Tips Book which includes a complete set of rules, helpful conditioning exercises and important punting, passing and place-kicking tips by leading NFL specialists in these skills.

PP&K involves no body contact, no special equipment is required and youngsters compete only against others in their own age group. Participation does not impair a youngster's amateur standing. First, second and third place winners in local competition will receive one of 18 local trophies.

On September the 29th there will be a practice session at Rich Park at 4:00P.M.

Wilkes 400 Is Sunday

Major league stock car racing's best will move into North Wilkesboro Speedway this weekend for Sunday's 14th annual "Wilkes 400" -- with the entry list containing three former winners and 18 of the top 20 drivers in the standings of the Winston Cup series.

Richard Petty, who will be trying for a third straight victory on the NASCAR Grand National circuit, heads the field.

The sport's all-time biggest winner also will be shooting for the 12th triumph of his career at North Wilkesboro, and for his 11th victory of the season.

Defending champion Bobby Allison, Cale Yarborough, Buddy Baker, Charlie Glotzbach, Richard Brooks and current Grand National champion Benny Parsons are among the challengers to Petty's role as the perennial favorite on the high-banked, five-eighths of a mile asphalt track.

Petty and Brooks will drive Dodges. Baker and Glotzbach will be in Fords. Yarborough, Allison and Parsons will be in Chevrolets.

Speedway president Enoch Staley said that 37 cars have been entered to seek the 30 starting positions in the 400-lap (250 miles) race, which is scheduled to start at 2 p. m. Sunday. The starting berths will be determined by qualifying trials Friday and Saturday.

Also on Saturday's schedule is a 100-lap race for Baby Grand compact sedans, starting at 3 p. m. That event will display the talents of several second-generation drivers, including Larry and Ricky Pearson -- sons of Grand National driver David Pearson.

The "Wilkes 400" offers a purse of $39,455 and an estimated 25 to 30 country hams and a like number of large boxes of chickens.

Country hams and chickens? Every driver who qualifies at 100 miles an hour or faster will get the additional prizes for his dinner table. Staley said the speedway will provide the country hams and Holly Farms, the largest industry in Wilkes County, will award the chickens to entrants whose qualifying speeds are in three digits.

Davie Open Prizes

Joe Mando, (left) chairman of the tournament committee for the Davie Open Golf Tournament looks over the prizes with fellow Jaycee, Bruce Tuttle. The champion and various flight winners will compete for a portable TV, golf balls, a set of pro line woods, an end table and five golf bags. Entry blanks, available at local golf courses, are due September 27.

Environmental Art Workshop Offered

An Environmental Art Workshop will be offered at the Gallery of the Supplementary Educational Center, 314 North Ellis Street, Salisbury, beginning October 1 and continuing through October 24. The workshop will be taught by Mrs. Rosemary Taylor, art specialist, from 4 to 6 p. m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays. One hour certificate renewal credit may be earned by participating teachers.

The purpose of these sessions will be to provide a variety of activities which are meaningful as both creative experience and individual expression, using "trash" according to Mrs. Taylor.

limited to 25. There will be a $10.00 registration fee. Interested applicants should pre-register by calling the Center.

Teachers must have approval from their superintendents to receive credit for the courses.

Davie At North Stanly Friday Night

Davie High's War Eagles will face undefeated North Stanly at North Stanly in a North Piedmont Conference football game Friday night. Kickoff time is set for 8 p.m.

The War Eagles will be trying to break into the win column after battling to a 6-6 draw last Friday against South Iredell in their first conference game. They dropped a 0-21 decision to South Stokes in their non-conference opener the week before.

Davie outscored South Iredell in a post-game playoff by 6-0 on a 10-yard pass from Craig Michaels to Mark Hendricks. In the case the teams wind up in a tie for first place in the NPC Division II standings, Davie would be awarded a playoff berth.

The War Eagles drew blood first on a five-yard pass from Craig Michaels to Ron Anderson in the first quarter. The kick for the extra point failed.

South Iredell rallied in the third quarter to tie the game on a six-yard pass from Billy Benfield to Mel Aray. A run for the extra points failed.

Coach Peeler's War Eagles will face a come-back minded

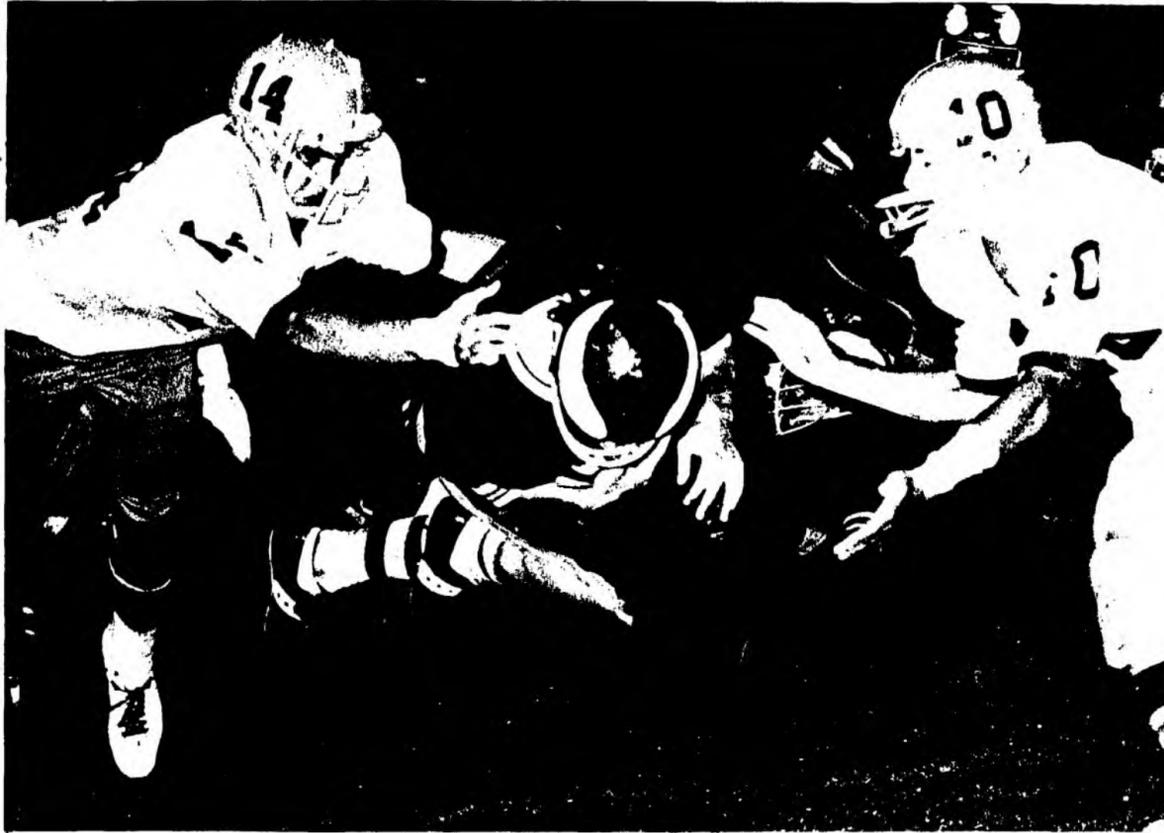

North Stanly team this Friday. They came from behind with two touchdowns in the fourth quarter to defeat North Iredell last Friday night. Last year Davie rolled over the North Stanly Comets by a 64-6 score.

The Comet's rally came on a 25 yard pass from Jack Blakenship to Stephon Boulware and an 82-yard run by Wayne Hinson. The final score was North Stanly 18, North Iredell 10. Davie now stands 0-1-0 in the conference and 0-1-1 overall. North Stanly will take a 1-0 NPC record and a 3-0 overall mark into Friday night's game against Davie.

The scoring summary:

South Iredell 0 0 6 0-4
 Davie County 4 0 0 0-4
 (kick failed)
 DC Anderson's pass from R. Benfield
 SI Aray's pass from B. Benfield (run failed)

Whoa Here!

Stan Thorp (No. 14) and Craig Michaels (No. 10) combine to stop an unidentified South Iredell player after a short gain in the game played last Friday night. The two teams played to 6-6 tie, with Davie winning the tie-breaker.

Cheering In The Rain!

Rain failed to dampen the enthusiasm of the Davie High cheerleaders, Vanessa Howell and Arlene Lewis, as they urge the War Eagles on in last Friday night's game.

Recommendations Made For Reducing Head And Neck Injuries In Football Participation

Recommendations for reducing the number and severity of head and neck injuries in football include a better selection of players and better enforcement of regulations already in the rule books.

Dr. Richard C. Schneider, president of the American Association of Neurological Surgeons, discussed the recommendations last week at the Bowman Gray School of Medicine where he was a visiting professor of Neurosurgery.

Schneider, professor of neurosurgery at the University of Michigan Medical School, said that two national neurosurgical organizations 11 years ago began a study of injuries which occur to football players. The study began with surveys of a series of 225 serious and fatal head and neck injuries.

"It became apparent we could study the trauma to head and neck in a sort of human laboratory and we set out to correct these injuries as nearly as we could."

The recommendation for better selections of players included a greater attempt to build up neck muscles in the tall, angular player to enable him to withstand severe shock.

Among the rules the organizations feel should be reinforced are those for "face mask," "stick-blocking," and "spearing" infractions.

Schneider said modification of the helmet is needed because "we feel from clinical observation and laboratory testing it is too rigid. The transfer of force goes directly from the helmet to the skull to the brain." He said that tests showed the inner lining of the helmet to be inadequate in spreading the force of the blow over the player's entire head. The study included players of all ages -- professional, college and high school players.

C. B. Smith and Charlie Barnhardt

Barnhardt Wins Senior Title At Hickory Hill

Charlie Barnhardt managed to defeat C. B. Smith on the second hole on a sudden death playoff Sunday to capture the First Annual Seniors Tournament championship. Barnhardt and Smith each had a two-day net score of 140.

On the first hole of the playoff, both golfers had a bogey 5. On the Par 4 second hole, Barnhardt had a tap-in for a bogey 5 and Smith missed a 4 footer and took a double bogey.

The closest-to-the-pin contest Saturday was won by Fred Crabb with a tee shot 7 feet 11 inches on hole number 6 (par 3-160 yards). P. M. Johnson won Sunday with a tee shot 32 feet from the cup. Each of these golfers won a dozen golf balls.

Drexel Heritage Furnishings Ties-In With Heritage Golf Classic

Drexel Heritage Furnishings will join two other well-known U. S. business organizations in sponsoring the 1975 Heritage Golf Classic, it was announced today by Howard H. Haworth, president.

"This is the first time a major furnishings company has been an integral part of as prestigious a golfing event as the Heritage Classic," said Haworth. "We are delighted to be a partner with the other sponsors, Delta Airlines and Dea Pines Plantation Company."

The tournament, to be played on Sea Pines Plantation's Harbour Town Golf Links in Hilton Head Island, S. C., will be held March 27-30.

"We are extremely pleased to have such a fine company associated with our tournament," said Donald H. O'Quinn, tournament chairman and vice president-golf, Sea Pines Plantation Company. "As makers of Drexel Heritage furnishings, they have a rich tradition which is in keeping with the traditions that have been revived in Hilton Head with our tournament. The Heritage Golf Classic is played from the Harbour Town Clubhouse where the South Carolina Golf Club is chartered as the oldest golf club in America. The course itself, a 6,665 yard, par 71, has been called one of the most demanding on the PGA (Professional Golf Association) tour by both the pros and golf writers.

Gary Player, current Masters and British Open champion and golf advisor to Ses Pines, has said of the course: "I have played internationally as much as anyone on the game, if not more. I have seen so many great courses, but Harbour Town is undoubtedly the very best."

Top players in professional golf are again expected to compete in the $200,000 tournament which was won this year by former U. S. Open champion Johnny Miller.

Miller also won the tournament in 1972. Other Heritage winners have been Arnold Palmer (1969), Bob Goalby (1970), and reigning U. S. Open champion Hale Irwin in 1971 and 1973.

Drexel Heritage Furnishings is a division of Champion International Corp. of New York City, makers of paper and allied products, building materials and home furnishings.

Dean Tutterow In Who's Who

Dean Tutterow, son of Mrs. Elizabeth C. Tutterow of Route 1, Mocksville will be featured in the Eighth Annual edition of WHO'S WHO AMONG AMERICAN HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS, 1973-74.

Dean, a senior at Davie County High School, is active on the annual staff, social studies club, National Honor Society and photography club. Among his achievements are the attendance of the St. Andrew's Science Scholars Program, N. C. State Materials Engineering Workshop, and Boy's State.

In addition to having his biography published in the book, Dean will also compete for one of ten scholarship awards of $500 to $1,000 funded by the publishers and will be invited to participate in the firm's annual "Survey of High Achievers."

Students from over 20,000 public, private and parochial high schools throughout the country are recognized for their leadership in academics, athletics, activities or community service in the books. Less than three per cent of the junior and senior class students nationwide are awarded this recognition.

Dean plans to attend North Carolina State University upon graduation in June.

Davie Soil & Water Conservation District Report For 1974

The purpose of this report is to better acquaint all persons interested in the conservation of natural resources in Davie County, to keep the public informed of the progress and problems of the District, and to acknowledge the assistance that we have received from many cooperating groups.

ACCOMPLISHMENTS AND ACTIVITIES

Soil Stewardship Week. A nationwide observance which emphasizes man's obligation to God as stewards of the soil, water, and other resources, was observed from May 19-26, 1974. This year's theme was "A Different Place."

Twenty five hundred church program blanks, 20 booklets, 500 place mats, 500 book marks, and 50 posters were distributed.

A tour was held on May 7 for all the ministers of Davie County and their wives to familiarize them with some of the soil and water conservation problems faced by citizens of Davie County. The solutions to these problems were discussed by the District Conservationist. The group enjoyed lunch together at C's Restaurant, compliments of the District.

Goodyear Contest. The District received an Honor District Award in the 26th Annual Goodyear Conservation Awards Program. The contest is sponsored by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company in cooperation with the National Association of Conservation Districts. Selection was made by a committee of conservation leaders on the basis of the District's planning, leadership, and accomplishments in resource development during 1972. The District won first place honors in this contest in 1970 and won runner up honors in 1971.

Education is very important to the future of our natural resources; therefore, the Davie Soil and Water Conservation District takes a great interest in young people and their schools. This year, one thousand conservation booklets, "The Earth, Our Home In Space" were placed in all fifth and seventh grades in Davie County. These illustrated booklets were designed to aid in their classroom study of conservation.

The Davie Soil and Water Conservation District sponsored a poster contest in the fourth, fifth, and sixth grades of all elementary schools in the county. Ribbons were presented to school winners.

Engraved plaques were presented to the county winners. They were:

Fourth Grade Level

- 1st - Terry Lynn Dull
- 2nd - Cindy Stroud
- 3rd - Lisa Dyson

Fifth Grade Level

- 1st - Melissa Barnhardt
- 2nd - Jeffrey Harris
- 3rd - Renee Bracken

Sixth Grade Level

- 1st - Charles Potts
- 2nd - Rebekah Street
- 3rd - Karen Swicegood

The District also sponsored a Conservation Essay Contest in the sixth grade of all elementary schools in the county. The county winners were: first place, Buddy Dale Gough, receiving a $25 Savings Bond; second, Dawn Moser, receiving $15; and third, Debbie Jones, receiving $10. Individual school winners were presented ribbons and included: Pinebrook School - Buddy Dale Gough, First Place; Dawn Moser, second place; and Debbie Jones, third place. Shady Grove School - Melissa Barnhardt, first place; and Anita Barnhardt, second place.

At the May meeting all the District Supervisors participated in presenting the awards previously mentioned. Refreshments were served to the 120 guests attending.

The District sponsored its first speech contest in the seventh and eighth grades in Davie County Schools. Each school was responsible for holding their individual contest and selecting a winner to represent their school in the county contest. The county speech contest was held at the April meeting of District Supervisors. First place winner was Cathy Masten, Pinebrook School, received $25 Savings Bond; second place was Larry Scott, of Shady Grove School, received $15; and third place was Danny Cartner, of Mocksville Middle School, received $10. Betsy Snipes of Coolemeec Elementary School and Wanda Phillips of William R. Davie School each received $5 for being their school winner.

Refreshments were served to the contestants, parents, supervisors, teachers and other guests attending.

The District presented to the Davie County Board of Education 23 volumes of the series People and Their Environment. This is a teachers' curriculum guide which provide both the method and the means to emphasize understanding and appreciation of our natural resources.

The District has now presented 46 copies of this book to the Board of Education and are striving to provide copies of this book for every teacher in the county.

News Media. The news medias for the Mocksville Area were a distinct asset to the District's conservation program for the fiscal year 1974. The District extends special appreciation to the Davie County Enterprise for assisting the District by publishing notices, news articles and stories related to conservation. Radio Station WDSL, in Mocksville, was also a definite asset to the District with spot news. The District also extends its thanks to WXII Television in Winston Salem, North Carolina, and WGHP Television in High Point, North Carolina for providing time for conservation programs.

Newsletter. The District published a Newsletter quarterly, sending it to its many friends interested in the conservation program in Davie County. The following businesses helped sponsor the Newsletter: Northwest Dairy Equipment Company, Davie Tractor and Implement Co., Bank Banking and Trust Company, Cuddell Lumber Company, Hall Drug Company, Ideal Production Credit, and Swicegood Real Estate.

Finances. The District now hires a clerk and a technician to assist the public with conservation matters. Funds are provided by the Davie County Commissioners for this employment and for other operating expenses.

The Board of Supervisors extends appreciation to the Board of County Commissioners for their support and allocations for the betterment and wise use of our resources in Davie County.

With the budget received from the local county level, the District was eligible for $1,150.00 in matching funds from the North Carolina Soil and Water Conservation Committee in Raleigh, N. C. These funds were used in a manner to promote soil and water conservation to the general public.

District Cooperators. Sixteen new cooperators were added to the District's planning from the District, making a total of 1,013 landowners who are cooperators with the local district, involving 89,560 acres of land.

ADMINISTRATION OF DISTRICT

The Davie Soil and Water Conservation District, under the State Law is directed by a board of supervisors composed of five local men, three elected, and two appointed, each for a term of three years on a staggered basis.

The Supervisors are:
Brady Angell, Route 7, Mocksville, North Carolina, who presides as Chairman of the Board and has served 17 years as a supervisor;

I. H. "Cokie" Jones, Route 1, Advance, North Carolina, who is Vice-Chairman of the Board and has served 6 years;

Richard Brock, Route 2, Mocksville, North Carolina, who acts as secretary to the Board and has served 4 years;

Johnny Ray Allen, Route 3, Mocksville, North Carolina, who is serving as treasurer to the Board and has served 5 years;

Edwin Boger, Route 6, Mocksville, North Carolina, who is a member of the Board and has served 5 years.

The Davie Soil and Water Conservation District has appointed an associated supervisor. An associate supervisor serves: (a) without pay; (b) without legal status; and (c) without a vote in District affairs.

The Associate Supervisor is:
Clay Hunter, Route 2, Mocksville, North Carolina.

Mulchnet. To aid cooperators of the District in their effort to conserve soil, the District purchased 12,000 feet of mulchnet and 6,000 staples which they sold at cost.

Resource Conservation Workshop. The 1974 Resource Conservation Workshop was held June 10-14 on the campus of North Carolina State University in Raleigh, North Carolina.

The Vo-Agricultural teachers of the Davie County High School assisted in selecting Larry West, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence West, of Route 1, Advance, N. C. to attend the 1974 Workshop from Davie County.

Soils Information Pamphlet. The District prepared a publication titled "Soils in Davie County - North Carolina - Knowing How to Use Them Makes the Difference". The pamphlet includes a general soil survey of Davie County with description of soils, interpretations for soil use and a map showing their location and extent. It has been compiled to assist the prospective home builder, contractor, or engineer in selecting favorable sites and preventing costly land use mistakes and problems in Davie County.

Roadbank Seeding Demonstration. The District sponsored a seeding demonstration. Two roadbanks were seeded, graded and mulched and covered an area of approximately 1 acre.

Trustee Honored. Mr. Tom Gough of Route 2, Mocksville, was honored at a supper meeting in March with a resolution of appreciation adopted by the Board for his services rendered as a Trustee of the Dutchmen Creek Watershed. The Trustees of the Dutchmen Creek Watershed presented him with a plaque and a letter of appreciation from the Davie County Commissioners was read. Mr. Gough has served on the Board of Trustees since the watershed was organized in 1962. He resigned due to health reasons.

Watershed Tour. The Watershed Committee of the North Carolina Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts sponsored two statewide watershed tours in North Carolina in June. One of these was conducted in the Dutchmen Creek Watershed. The Davie Soil and Water Conservation District provided two buses and drivers for transportation during the tour.

DUTCHMAN CREEK WATERSHED

The Project in Brief. Authorized August 22, 1966. Estimated completion in fiscal year 1975. Area - 81,500 acres. Sponsors - Davie, Yadkin and Iredell Soil and Water Conservation Districts, Davie County Board of County Commissioners, and Dutchman Creek Watershed Improvement District. Estimated total cost $2,755,348 ($2,069,723 Federal and $685,620 others). Approximately 4,280 acres of flood plain land. Land use - 21 percent cropland, 48 percent woodland, 18 percent grassland and 13 percent idle and miscellaneous. Principal problems - floodwater and sediment damage.

Progress in Land Treatment. Estimated number of farm units in project is 1032. There are 558 district cooperators and 513 have conservation plans. More than 70 percent of the planned land treatment measures have been applied. Eighty percent of the conservation plans have been prepared. Of the 65 acres of critical area, 37 acres have been planted to grass and legumes and 58 acres of trees. The N. C. Forest Service has planted 1,495 acres of trees and erected a 100 foot fire control tower for fire protection in the watershed. Land treatment has been given high priority and will be installed ahead of schedule. A total of $165,000 ALSCP funds have been allocated to the Dutchman Creek Watershed. Estimated cost of land treatment measures is $585,771.

Progress in Structural Measures. Ten floodwater retarding structures and 386,200 feet of channel improvement are planned for this project. Construction is complete on four structures. One structure is in the construction stage.

Watershed Trustees. Roy A. Williams, Route 6, Mocksville, was appointed by the Supervisors to fill the unexpired term of Mr. Gough. Other Trustees include Grady L. McClamrock, Route 6, Mocksville, and Clarence Rupard, Route 3, Mocksville.

Awards Banquet. The Awards Banquet for the Davie Soil and Water Conservation District was held in October at the Smith Grove Ruritan Club. Among those receiving awards were: E. R. Pope, received the Goodyear Certificate of Merit (pictured is Charles Pope, who received the award in the absence of his father); Charles Bullock, Minister of the First Baptist Church in Mocksville, was selected for the Minister of the Year Award because of his outstanding interests in conservation and his support of the District's program. Selection was made by the Supervisors during Soil Stewardship Week.

Paul Walker, of Route 2, Mocksville, was chosen as the District's outstanding wildlife conservationist. He gained this special recognition because of his strong concern for wildlife. He has spent most of his life providing protection, food, and a place of habitat for the wild creatures.

Cecil Leagans, of Route 5, Mocksville was chosen as the outstanding Conservation Farmer of the Year for 1973. Selection was made by the Davie Soil and Water Conservation District Board of Supervisors based on practices carried out in the conservation plans of the District Cooperators and participation in conservation activities.

STATE AND FEDERAL ASSISTANCE

Other agencies participating in the 1973-74 soil and water conservation activities were:

N. C. Wildlife Commission: Twenty-eight applicants for wildlife planting materials were approved. Forty units of sericea lespedeza, 166 units of annual seed, 8 units of reseeding annual seed, 3 units of shrub lespedeza seedlings, 7 units of shrub lespedeza seed, and 50 units of autumn olive seedlings were seeded. The 2,600 acre Coolemeec Plantation is again being leased for public hunting during the upcoming 1974-75 hunting season. In order to hunt in this area, located near Fork, North Carolina, one must attain a special public hunting permit. Development operations this year in the area have included the planting of 28 food patches for small game and 10 acres of millet for dove hunting.

Soil Conservation Service: Cooperators now total 1,013 in this district, and covers approximately 90,000 acres. Conservation plans were developed for 23 tracts of land under agreement with the district covering some 1700 acres. Eight conservation plans were revised with cooperators on 1130 acres.

Three hundred six services were provided on conservation planning and application of which 130 applied one or more soil conserving practices. Some of the practices applied were: grassed waterways, 2 acres; pasture and hayland planting, 600 acres; pasture and hayland management, 1,620 acres; tile drain, 4,030 feet; open ditch drains, 10,083 feet, and field border planting, 11,362 feet. There were 1,925 acres of land adequately treated. Inventories and evaluations of proper land use were given to 9 non-District Cooperators.

U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, USDI: The U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, USDI, in cooperation with the Davie Soil and Water Conservation District provides fish for stocking ponds and lakes within Davie County. Individuals who desire fish for stocking purposes submit applications to the Fish and Wildlife Service through the Davie Soil and Water Conservation District office. Upon approval of the Fish and Wildlife Service, fish fingerlings are made available free of charge to those individuals applying.

During the past year 13 local ponds were stocked by the Fish and Wildlife Service. The 125.4 acres of surface water involved were stocked with 895 largemouth bass, 1,115 channel catfish, 12,810 redear sunfish, and 29,891 bluegills.

Davie County Board Of Education: The County's 7 schools offered 7 courses in soil and water conservation as a part of their curriculum, with 3,500 students participating. Four hundred thirty five students participated in the poster contest held in the same schools. All 7 schools had classroom exhibits with 3,500 students participating. Each school sponsored a field trip with 1,600 students participating.

Farmers Home Administration: FHA has the following loans in Davie County: 6 operating loans amounting to $37,490.00; 1 farm ownership loan amounting to $40,400.00; 1 recreation loan, amounting to $71,800.00 and 22 rural housing loans amounting to $418,350.00.

N. C. Forestry Division: One hundred twenty-five thousand trees were planted on land in Davie County. Twenty acres of woodland were thinned and 150 acres marked for harvesting. One hundred nine acres were prepared for planting and 60 acres were burned for hazard reduction. Eight forest fires were put out and 10.3 acres of timber burned.

Vocational Agriculture Department: Two hundred forty-five students participated in the classes of the vocational agriculture department at the high school this year. Their activities included 35 field trips and 350 projects. They also participated in a clean-up drive in Davie County.

Extension Service: The Agricultural Extension Service prepared 10 news articles and had 5 radio and 1 television program. Individual assistance was given in the following areas: forestry (planting trees and woodland management), 1 landowner; rotations (use of fescue and small grains to establish vegetative cover on cultivated cropland), 10 landowners; and pastures (establishing and maintaining), 10 landowners. Assistance was also given in taking soil samples.

Fifteen Home Demonstration clubs are organized in this county. The clubs held 180 meetings during the fiscal year and completed 13 beautification projects.

There are 12 community 4-H clubs in this county which have held 10 meetings related to soil and water conservation. These boys and girls have prepared 2 news articles and have given 1 radio program encouraging conservation practices. Twelve conservation projects were completed.

APPRECIATION

The Supervisors of the Davie Soil and Water Conservation District feel that Fiscal Year 1974 has been another progressive and successful year. The accomplishments in this report are the result of cooperating agencies and individuals interested in helping us carry out our program. We would like to take this opportunity to express our appreciation to those contributing. The following are some of the organizations: Agricultural Extension Service, N. C. Forestry Service, Farmers Home Administration, N. C. Wildlife Resource Commission, U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Davie County Commissioners, County Manager, N. C. Highway Commission, Davie County Board of Education and teachers, Davie County Public Library, Dutchman Creek Watershed Improvement District, Newsletter sponsors, pastors of the churches, Chamber of Commerce, Agricultural Stabilization Conservation Service, Soil Conservation Service, State Soil and Water Conservation Committee and many other individuals from all areas of the District.

In closing, I would like to urge every citizen who loves his country to support a vigorous, continuing policy of conservation. Only a conservation-minded people can safeguard and improve their remaining heritage of renewable natural resources in the future.

B. L. Angell, Chairman

Salisbury Man Named N. C. Commissioner Of Motor Vehicles

A member of the N. C. Board of Transportation has been named to the post of Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, North Carolina Department of Transportation and Highway Safety.

Transportation Secretary Troy A. Doby said today, "We are pleased to announce the appointment of Jacob Franklin 'Jake' Alexander, 50, of Salisbury to the post of Commissioner of Motor Vehicles. Mr. Alexander has been granted a leave of absence from his business to take on the challenge of heading one of our largest divisions."

The new commissioner will be sworn into office November 1 when the resignation of Commissioner Boyd Miller becomes effective. Miller announced recently his resignation because of "health problems."

Mr. Alexander and official of the North Carolina Finishing Company, a division of Fieldcrest Mills, said of his appointment today, "I feel very strongly that business in government is a good thing. With my 26 years in business plus my involvement with the North Carolina Board of Transportation and State Highway Commission, I feel I can give some stability to the operation of the Department of Motor Vehicles and I look forward to the challenge that will be there."

Secretary Doby said that Mr. Alexander will begin working for the Department of Transportation October 1.

Mr. Alexander was named to the North Carolina Highway Commission by Governor James-Holshouser in January, 1973, then to the Board of Transportation in July, 1973. The new commissioner is married to the former Doris Turner of Salisbury, and they have four children. He is a member of the Methodist Church.

Wim's Whims

No matter what organization I'd join, they'd vote me "Un" of the year.

I'd "get it all together" -- if I could find it.

After breaking two fingernails, stubbing my toe, and skinnin' my shin trying to swat a well-fed fly, I fastened a Kleenex to the fly swatter and waved it in defeat. I couldn't swear that fly thumbed his nose at me as he flew through a hole in the screen.

I say if you start something, finish it -- I say it -- but there's usually a book nearby.

There's nothing wrong with my hearing -- but sometimes my listening isn't too good.

Instant replay -- what my kids do after all the dishes are washed -- eat agin'.

You've heard the saying -- "Do it right the first time and you won't have to do it over." So -- what about sweeping, raking leaves, mowing grass -- . . . ?

The lady's car was stalled, out of gas, in the hospital parking lot. A Rowan minister -- well known for his repartee -- was helping to push it out of the way. When jokingly asked why he didn't fix the car, he quickly replied, "If it was a flat tire, I could. I know I'm full of air, but I'm not gassy."

Macedonia Moravian News

Rev. and Mrs. John Kapp, church members and friends wish to express their sympathy to the bereaved family of Oscar Smith. God bless each one.

The Young Adult Class of Macedonia Sunday School had a picnic supper Saturday night at the church shelter. Following the supper, an auction sale was held. Auctioneer was Rev. Mr. Kapp. Proceeds from the auction will be used for playground equipment.

Mrs. Nera Godbey; Mrs. Grace Call and Mrs. Margie Lee were Sunday dinner guests of Mrs. Vasta Mae Foster in Salisbury.

The Adult Class No. 1 are selling pens with praying hands on them. Anyone wanting them get in touch with a member of the class. They have reordered pens hoping that they can sell them for birthday or Christmas gifts.

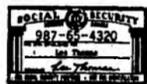

Remember the sick in your prayers. Mrs. Pearl Cook has been moved to Winston-Salem Convalescent Center and her daughter, Mrs. Eva Griffith is in Forsyth Memorial Hospital. Edd Ellis reentered Forsyth Hospital last Thursday morning.

Rev. John Frank Frye is holding a revival at Advance United Methodist Church. If you want to hear the word of God, go hear him preach.

Henry Plott and Miss Katherine Plott have moved into a trailer home near Mr. Plott's son, J. H. Plott. They are very happy there.

Mrs. Bertha Todd has been moved to Fran Ray Nursing Home in Mocksville. Mrs. Todd formerly lived in Winston-Salem. I am sure she would like for her friends in Davie County to visit her.

... about your

Social Security

... by Hal Griffin

Did you know that people disabled since childhood may be eligible for supplemental security income payments when they reach age 18, regardless of their families' income?

The supplemental security income program makes monthly payments to people with little or no income and limited resources who are 65 and over or blind or disabled. The SSI program can be especially important to young people who are severely retarded or have other handicaps that keep them from becoming self-supporting.

Eligible people can get supplemental security income payments at any age, but the eligibility of children under 18 can be affected by their parents' income and resources. However, severely disabled people who remain unmarried are considered independent of their families starting at 18, or at 21 if they're in school. Starting then, they may be eligible for some supplemental security income payments if they have little or no income of their own.

Families of people disabled since childhood can get information about applying for supplemental security income payments by calling or writing the Salisbury Social Security Office.

The amount of the monthly supplemental security income payments people get depends primarily on other income they might have. People with no other income at all can get $146 a month for one person and $219 for a couple. People with some other income may get reduced supplemental security income payments.

The supplemental security income program is run by the Social Security Administration. The Salisbury Social Security Office is at 105 Corriher Avenue and the phone number is 634-2868.

People disabled since childhood may also be eligible for social security benefits if a parent gets social security payments or has worked long enough under social security and is deceased. The amount of monthly social security payments can affect the amount of supplemental security income payments.

My son, who is 19, has been severely retarded since birth. Could he get payments under the supplemental security income program? My husband works full time and supports us.

Regardless of your family income, your son may be eligible for supplemental security income payments. Under the law, mentally retarded people who remain unmarried are considered independent of their families beginning at 18 - or 21 if they're in school. Starting then, they may be eligible for supplemental security income. Call or write the Salisbury Social Security Office for more information about applying for payments for your son.

How many married women earn their own social security coverage?

About 19 million married women work in jobs covered under social security. This is about 10 percent of all married women, compared to 30 percent in 1960. Almost half of all retired women get monthly social security benefits on their own work records.

My husband and I are going to move to another State in about 2 months. We both get social security checks. Is there some special form we have to fill out to give social security our new address?

You can report your new address on the change-of-address form printed on the back of the envelopes your social security checks are mailed in - or you can call or write any social security office. Be sure to give both your old and new address, including ZIP codes, and your social security claim numbers which are printed on your checks. You should report your new address as soon as you know it to assure uninterrupted delivery of your checks.

ASCS Chairman Speaks To Ruritans

The Sheffield-Calahan Ruritan Club held their regular meeting Thursday, September 12. A number of items of business were discussed. The club voted to have the next Chicken Pie-Ham Supper on Saturday night, September 28.

Charles Snyder, Davie County Agricultural Stabilization Conservation Service chairman, presented the program. Mr. Snyder briefly reviewed the ASCS's purpose of administering federally funded farm programs. He then presented a slide presentation entitled "The Pull of the Market Place." The presentation provided graphic illustrations as to the importance of American Agriculture to America's economic growth and maintenance of its position in world trade. It was brought out that one fifth of America's working force is in agricultural related jobs.

Wild Flowers

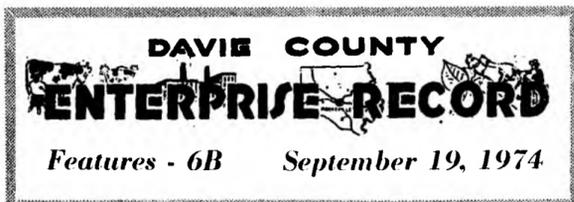

God gives us many wondrous things
We see them each and every day. . .
The grass, the trees, the sky and clouds above
And lovely wild flowers by the way.

These flowers are here for us to enjoy
In a variety of colors and shapes.
How often we never even notice. . .
The way Blackeyed Susans nod and the daintiness of Queen Annes Lace.

How the Morning Glory opens with each new day,
An array of color still wet with morning dew.
The bush of Thistles with all it's prickly points
Makes a great contribution to the pretty view.

These are only a few of the luxuries
That are priceless, and yet they are free.
Take time to notice them today,
They are just a few of God's Gifts to you and me.

What is class? It's hard to define. But we know we've got it. In thirty-two lovely variations.

They're the Ice Capets, whose dazzling new number, "TOUCH OF CLASSE," highlights the 35th edition of Ice Capades, opening at the Charlotte Coliseum on October 2-6 for 7 performances.

The Ice Capets do perfectly timed precision skating routines to the delight of audiences around the country. This year, to celebrate the 35th Anniversary Edition of Ice Capades, they're costumed in pure, unmitigated elegance in shimmering, beaded costumes with a feather boas. It's dazzling display of glamour and loveliness as the girls create their intricate patterns on the ice.

In other exciting production numbers, the Corps de Ballet introduces "ORIGINS '35", with Paul Guzman, Dawn Seesler and the adagio team of Peter and Barbara; little David Lucas is transported by his Watch Cat toy to a land of whimsy and charm in "IT'S CHRISTMAS EVERY DAY"; Billy Chapel and Roberta Loughland return to the nightclub days of the '30's in "STEREOPTICON"; JoJo Starbuck stars in "THE Perfect figure eight caper," aided by Billy Chapel and Paul Guzman; the inimitable Ken Shelley and poetic Roberta Loughland pay tribute to Edward Kennedy Ellington in "THE DUKE-ROYALTY AMERICAN STYLE"; fiery Anna Galmarini and the exciting Peter and Barbara highlight the song fest in "POP-POURRI".

NCAE Meeting Is Sept. 24

The future looks bright for a united, stronger-than-ever, professional North Carolina Association of Educators.

This is the message John H. Lucas, Sr., NCAE president, will bring to more than 2,000 teachers, coaches, principals, supervisors, administrators, superintendents and other school personnel September 24 at the annual NCAE District 5 professional conference to be held in China Grove.

And Dr. A. C. Dawson, NCAE executive secretary, agrees. "I'm optimistic for the future," Dr. Dawson says. "I believe NCAE will be stronger this year than ever before. I'm convinced that the partnership between administrators and teachers will grow closer because we are all in one profession for the welfare of children."

Lucas and Dawson plan to present this message to each of the 15 NCAE district professional conferences across the state this fall. The District 5 meeting at South Rowan High School in China Grove is the fifth of the 15 to be held. Lucas, principal of Hillside High in Durham, believes NCAE membership will increase this year just as it has in each of the last few years.

"NCAE is going to remain an independent professional association of teachers, principals, supervisors and superintendents working together for the common good," Dr. Dawson says. "All of our members don't always agree on every issue, but we have the courage and determination to resolve our differences of opinion within our professional association."

Both Dawson and Lucas agree that "unity among the education forces of the state is an absolute must if we are to provide the best possible instruction for North Carolina's children. Educators are united now in an all-inclusive professional association and they plan to remain united," they said.

Educators from the counties of Cabarrus, Davidson, Davie, Iredell and Rowan will attend the one-day workshop and convention.

Governor James E. Holshouser, Jr., will speak during the 8:45 a.m. general session. This is the only one of the 15 district professional conferences the Governor will attend. Following his appearance he will conduct a People's Tour of Rowan County with several stops to be announced later. This session will be in the athletic stadium, unless bad weather forces a move to the auditorium.

Mrs. Martha Marks of Cabarrus County, district president, will preside over the general session. Other leaders participating in the conference include: Mrs. Mary Bustle of Statesville, district vice president; Mrs. Margaret Willie of Kannapolis, district secretary; Mrs. Bettye Davis of Concord, district director; President Lucas; Dr. Dawson; E. B. Palmer of Raleigh, NCAE associate executive secretary, and J. Wayne Miller of Statesville, NCAE immediate past president.

Twenty-three workshops - with each workshop being presented three times - will begin at 10 a. m. Topics include: techniques for retarded readers, teacher-made learning devices, dealing with exceptional children, the metric system, practical classroom art, corporal punishment, elementary physical education, alternatives to traditional education, reading programs, kindergartens, school financing, retirement, political action, the future of school athletics, bulletin board tips, the open classroom, educators involvement in policy making and others.

Five NCAE divisions will hold special sessions. Retired School Personnel will meet at 12:10 p.m. with Mrs. Anna Neese of Lexington, division district president, presiding.

The Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development, principals and superintendents will lunch jointly in the Landis Elementary School cafeteria at 12:30 p.m. Each will hold a separate business session at 11:30 a.m. at Landis Elementary. Division district presidents presiding are: Richard Ashe of Statesville; ASCD; Bryon L. King of Kannapolis, principals, and Derwood Huneycutt of Thomasville, superintendents. Classroom teachers will listen to Phil Kirk, special assistant to Governor Holshouser at a 1:30 p.m. luncheon at South Rowan High. Mrs. Nancy Craven of Thomasville is district president.

Senator Ervin

President Ford's pardon of former President Nixon prior to his indictment, trial or conviction was inexpedient, incompatible with good government, and a bad precedent for the future.

In granting an absolute pardon exempting Mr. Nixon from all the legal consequences of crimes which he may have committed against the Constitution, the laws and the people of the United States while serving in the highest office in our land, President Ford did infinite injury to the indispensable principle of good government embodied in the phrase "Equal justice under law." This action will not contribute to the restoration of confidence of the people in the Federal Government because it has deprived the Federal courts of the power to conduct judicial inquiries which would have revealed to the people the nature and extent of Mr. Nixon's personal involvement in the tragic Watergate affair.

As a consequence, the pardon aids and abets the efforts of those who have sought to hide the truth in respect to this sordid affair and thus continues the coverup operations.

President Ford has issued a pardon apparently in the hope that such action would relegate the Watergate affair to the past. This is a false hope. Instead, the pardon makes it certain that the Watergate affair and President Ford's effort to exempt Mr. Nixon from legal responsibility for it will be injected into the next presidential campaign by those who believe that granting of the ill-timed pardon indicates President Ford's lack of capacity to exercise wisely the awesome power vested in the President by the Constitution.

Pardons are for the guilty - not for those who profess their innocence. Yet we have witnessed the President granting a pardon to one who protests his innocence and merely admits that he has made some errors in judgment. Whether the acceptance of a pardon constitutes a confession of guilt is something which constitutional scholars may argue without satisfactory solution for generations.

President Ford's pardon raises some agonizing questions. What does it portend for those Nixon aides who have gone to jail for their part in the Watergate affair? What does it portend for those Nixon aides who are awaiting sentencing pleas of guilty for their part in the Watergate affair? What does it portend for those Nixon aides who are awaiting trial on charges growing out of the Watergate affair? Does President Ford intend to grant general amnesty to all these Nixon aides, or is he accepting the theory that the legal responsibility of the occupant of the Office of President is insignificant when compared to that of his underlings?

My heart contains great compassion for my erring fellow travelers to the tomb, and I have no desire to see Mr. Nixon suffer. I do desire with all my heart, however, to have our legal and governmental system function wisely.

Historically, the pardon power came into being to enable the Executive to correct irretrievable mistakes committed by the courts in adjudging guilt or imposing punishment. It was not conceived to confer upon the Executive the arbitrary power to grant individuals exemption from responsibility which the law imposes upon all people.

President Ford ought to have allowed the legal processes to take their course, and not issued any pardon to former President Nixon until he had been indicted, tried, and convicted. He ought to have allowed the presiding judge in those events to determine in the first instance whether or not Mr. Nixon has suffered enough. I do question most seriously the wisdom of President Ford thwarting the due processes of law by granting a pardon before the prosecutor of the courts have acted.

TOP CHEESE

Most popular cheese on the U.S. market is Cheddar. Seven out of ten pounds of cheese is Cheddar although it's known by many different names. Some people call it American; others Longhorn or Daisy for these are the shapes in which it's made, says Rachel Kinlaw, extension food specialist, North Carolina State University.

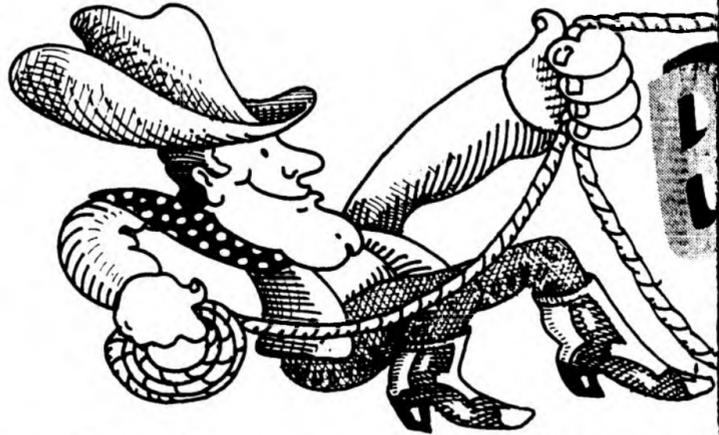

Insanity

Insanity in individuals is something rare - but in groups, parties, nations and epochs it is the rule.

Garden Time Garden Chore Pattern Changes in September

By M. E. GARDNER
N. C. State University

September signals the beginning of fall with shorter days and cooler nights. The pattern of garden chores changes from maintenance to more emphasis on planting, transplanting and harvesting.

Give special attention to roses for fall color and exhibiting at your local fair or garden show. Remove diseased foliage, prune out weak wood and shorten very vigorous growth back about one-fourth. Keep the sprayer busy and continue the fertilization program you have found to be best.

Now is a good time to begin checking the yard for needed improvements: bad spots in the lawn; shrubs that have outgrown their locations or become unsightly; and new plantings that are needed, to name a few. Remember, too, that fall seeding is best if you are planting a new lawn; or renovating an established lawn.

A nice contribution you can make to your community would be to become involved in a beautification project — school, church, business, roadside park or recreation area.

You might also consider doing something nice for a sick or disabled person: a hanging basket; a pot plant; or a dried arrangement to enjoy when the "rocks get white." You might want to tackle a terrarium for a shut-in.

Clean out the vegetable and flower gardens as plants mature and become unproductive — faded annuals and old tomato, bean and corn plants.

Make a list of the tree fruits, small fruits, grape vines and ornamental trees and shrubs you will need for fall and early winter planting. Placing your order early will assure getting the varieties you want. They can be reserved for you and delivered as you direct.

Whatever you buy, purchase only from an approved and reputable source. This is especially true for fruit plants and ornamental trees and shrubs. Consult your local Extension office, garden supplier and nurseryman.

Don't overlook the plants native to your region: yaupon; certain oaks; dogwood; hemlock; white pine; flame azalea; and rhododendron.

You may wish to try some of the hybrid rhododendrons. They come in a wide variety of colors and have a much wider range of adaptability than our native (mountain) sorts.

TRAVEL TIPS AND TRICKS

Happiness Without Hassle

If you arrive at the airline counter 30 minutes or so before you are asked to, you'll have a better chance of getting a window seat.

If you can't get a window, ask for seats as far forward as possible. It's quieter!

If you're travelling with children under 12, don't pay extra for their accommodations. At Holiday Inns in Hanover, Germany and all over the world, they can stay in their parents' room for free!

Don't let your luggage be overweight. In tourist class, you are allowed 44 pounds on international flights, 70 pounds on domestic flights.

When flying with children, request seats near the bulkhead that divides the first class and tourist class sections. You pay no more but they will find more room to play in.

Rev. R. L. Crook, former pastor of Zion Chapel United Methodist Church, will conduct Revival Services at the church beginning Sunday night, September 22, and continuing through September 24. Services will begin at 7:30 each evening. Rev. Kermit Shoaf, pastor of the church, invites everyone to attend. There will be special singing each evening.

Good Shepherd Class Plans Picnic

The annual Sunday School picnic of the Church of the Good Shepherd Episcopal in Cooleemee, along with their quarterly meeting, will be held Sunday, September 23. Church service will begin at 9:30 a.m. and the covered dish luncheon will be served at 12 noon in the parish hall. Sunday School classes will begin on Sunday, September 29.

All church members and children are urged to make a special effort to attend Sundays meeting and picnic.

Great Mind

When the human mind has achieved greatness and given evidence of extraordinary power in one domain, there is a tendency to credit it with similar power in all other domains.

Hearing Test Set For Mocksville, N.C.

Electronic hearing tests will be given at 222 1/2 North Main St. Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. by George T. McDonald, Belton Consultant.

Anyone who has trouble hearing or understanding is welcome to come in for a test using the latest electronic equipment to determine his or her particular degree of hearing loss. Diagrams showing how the ear works and some of the causes of hearing loss will be available.

Everyone should have a hearing test at least once a year if he has any trouble at all hearing clearly. Even people now wearing a hearing aid or those who have been told an aid won't help should have a hearing test and find out about the very latest hearing aids.

If you cannot come to the office we will come to your home and give you a free hearing test. Just fill out the coupon below:

The Pigeon Man

By ROSCOE BROWN FISHER

While in San Francisco, Grandpa Brown and I stopped at Alamo Square. Hardly were we seated when we observed a fellow approaching the square with a sack upon his back.

Before he could put down the bag, the pigeons were all over him. Immediately, he began throwing grain from the bag to the birds, hundreds of them.

When the supply of grain was exhausted the obliging gentleman picked up the empty bag, gave it a shake, and departed as quickly as he had come.

Grandpa, who by this time had become a bit friendly with the pigeons, came over and took his seat again.

This is the story he told:
During World War II, according to Grandpa, the man who had fed the pigeons was a pilot. His plane was riddled while flying over the Austerlitz Forest on the German-Polish border.

He was wounded and lay helpless in the forest for 18 days awaiting help. Fortunately, he always carried pigeons in his plane. Every day one of his pigeons would come to him from headquarters. Attached to the legs of the faithful birds were bouillon cubes, barely enough to keep him alive.

In due time, a rescue party came. The weakening pilot uttered a prayer of thanks, and then promised himself he would never walk by a hungry pigeon.

"And what is his name?" I asked Grandpa.

"John Sepp."

Sepp is now a window washer for the San Francisco YMCA. Every afternoon at exactly 3 p.m. he walks into Alamo Square with his bag of grain.

Jerusalem Baptist Honor Senior Citizens

Sunday, September 15, was proclaimed Senior Citizens Day by Jerusalem Baptist Church. Mrs. Billie Jean Beck, W. M. U. president, paid tribute to the older church members for the many years of service they had rendered to the church and community.

Special music was presented by the Junior and Senior Choirs. Dr. Bill Cain spoke on "Dealing With Loneliness." Following the morning message, the honored guests were entertained with a luncheon in the fellowship hall.

Among the guests present were: Mrs. Lula Hamilton, Miss Annie Pearl Tatum, Mr. Carl Potts, Mrs. Cora Williams, Mrs. Dora Cable, Mrs. Rilla Singleton, Mrs. Mattie Joiner, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Foster, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Shoaf, Mrs. Ada Williams, Mr. Jessie Singleton, Mrs. Zula Hamilton and Mrs. Jane Young.

Mrs. C.B. Newton Honored As Teacher In Greensboro

Mrs. Katharine M. Newton, a primary teacher at Wiley School in Greensboro, has been named Teacher of the Year by the Greensboro Association of Classroom Teachers.

Mrs. Newton, who has taught at Wiley since 1961, will go on to compete in district, state and national competition.

Mrs. Newton is the wife of the Rev. C. B. Newton, a retired Methodist minister. They live at 5024 High Point Road.

She is a graduate of Appalachian State University, and has served as president of ACT a local and district levels. She taught in Staley, Jamestown, Charlotte and Mocksville before moving to Greensboro.

Church Activities

MOCKS HOMECOMING

The Annual Home-Coming will be held at Mocks United Methodist Church Sunday, Sept. 22. Rev. R. J. Starling, former pastor, will speak at the 11:00 o'clock hour.

Lunch will be served at noon. The service will be featured by special singing.

The Church is located off Highway 801, about one mile north of Advance.

MT. OLIVE

Revival services will begin Sunday September 22, at 7:30 p.m. at Mt. Olive United Methodist Church and will continue through Friday night. The Rev. Jack Luther of Mocksville will be the guest evangelist. Everyone is cordially invited to attend these services.

CLEMENT GROVE

Revival services will begin at Clement Grove Church of God on Sunday evening, September 22, at 7:30. Everyone is cordially invited to attend these services. Ivan James is pastor of the church.

EDGEWOOD

The Beginners Class of Edgewood Baptist Church in Cooleemee were treated to a home-made ice cream party Saturday afternoon at the home of their teacher, Mrs. Bailey James of Wilkesboro Street, Mocksville. Assisting Mrs. James was the assistant teacher, Mrs. Roger Thompson.

More than 25 youngsters, ages three to five, attended. They also chose the occasion to present Mrs. Thompson with a gift, an engraved Bible. Mrs. Thompson will be leaving the department at the end of the month and begin work in the Primary department for the next Sunday School year.

The R. A. S. of Edgewood Baptist church will be host to a youth rally scheduled for Saturday, September 21, featuring the "Singing Disciples" and the "Believers", beginning at 7:30 p.m. Everyone is asked to bring lawn chairs or blankets. Weather permitting, the event will be held on the church parking lot and on the church lawn.

POWER LINE

Direct answers to the questions most often asked about Duke Power and your electric service

Q Duke Power has said that nuclear power plants are cleaner and more economical than coal-burning plants. So why are you building a huge new coal-burning plant near Winston-Salem?

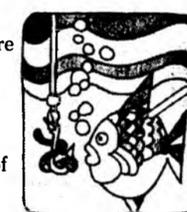

A In the late 1960s, we had to decide whether to design the Belews Creek Steam Station, near Winston-Salem, as a coal-fired or nuclear power plant. At that time, coal prices were much lower. From the cost standpoint, the choice of fuels was a tossup. The deciding factor was timing — it takes about two years longer to build a nuclear plant. The only way to complete the new plant by the time its output would be needed was to make it coal-burning.

Q Last weekend at Lake Norman, I caught a bass with a yellow tag in its back. What does the tag mean? Frankly, we're surprised you caught one so soon. Our fisheries biologists are now tagging different kinds of fish in Lake Norman as part of a continuing study of power plant effects on fish and other aquatic life. Tag collection stations will soon be located at each of the Duke Power access areas at the lake, so that fishermen can leave the tags in special envelopes.

In the meantime, if you catch a tagged fish in Lake Norman, mail the tag to:
Duke Power Company
Environmental Laboratory
Route 3, Box 90
Huntersville, N.C. 28078

Please tell us the date the fish was caught, where you caught it, its length and weight and any unusual physical conditions. Include your name and address, so we can send you a package of plastic worms to thank you for your help.

Q Duke Power has a lower rate for customers with electric water heaters. Why don't you have a lower rate for people with air conditioners, too?

A One of the biggest expenses in providing your electric service is the tremendous cost of building the generating plants and transmission and distribution systems. These costs can be recovered at a lower unit cost for electricity if the facilities are operated (and producing revenues) on a constant basis. Water heaters, of course, operate at an almost steady rate year-around. Air conditioners, on the other hand, operate only during the warmest months of the year.

Q If Duke Power loses money through the operation of Crescent Land and Timber Corporation (a Duke Power subsidiary), do you make up the loss by charging more for electricity?

A No. The financial affairs of Crescent Land and Timber Corporation are entirely separate from those of Duke Power. Its profit or loss has absolutely no effect on Duke Power's electric rates.

Q Since electric rates have to be increased to cover the higher cost of fuel and the tremendous construction costs of steam-electric plants, why doesn't Duke Power build more hydroelectric stations?

A Hydroelectric dams look impressive, but the amount of electricity they produce is rather small in relation to our demand. Although we've already harnessed most of the available water power in the Piedmont Carolinas, our hydro plants account for less than ten per cent of our total generating capacity. Even if power dams were built on all the remaining large streams in our area, their combined output would only equal our expected demand growth for one year. It's not enough. The only way we can keep up with demand for the power is by building more steam-electric stations.

Q How can I read my own electric meter?

A It's really quite easy. Our little booklet, "Your Electric Meter: The Story in a Nutshell," tells how. Ask for a free copy at your local Duke Power office.

Do you have a question about Duke Power or your electric service? We'll be pleased to answer it. Just call your local Duke Power office...or write to Duke Power, Public Information, P.O. Box 2178, Charlotte, N.C. 28242.

 All presidents, vice-presidents, and chairpersons of Christian Global Concerns are especially urged to attend.

Heart Attack Deaths Show Decline

Has something happened to blunt the overwhelming force of America's number one killer? Doctors and scientists reviewing recent mortality figures from the National Center for Health Statistics found that heart attack death rates have moved moderately downward since 1968, but that heart attack is still the nation's leading cause of death with over 650,000 victims a year.
 In North Carolina, out of a total of 47,870 deaths in 1973, 26,380 (55 percent) were from heart disease.
 Although authorities can't pinpoint reasons for the decline, credit is being given to the American public's growing awareness of the menace of heart disease. Medical and community programs such as those developed by the North Carolina Heart Association have helped to create that awareness, bringing new knowledge and methods of heart disease prevention to medical professionals and the general public.

 Research is the prime source of new knowledge and methods of heart disease prevention, and during the past year the Heart Association awarded $433,549 to Tar Heel researchers.
 North Carolina Heart Association grants-in-aid went to 36 scientist at 5 state institutions--Bowman Gray School of Medicine, Duke University Medical Center, and the University of North Carolina School of Medicine.
 Researchers at Bowman Gray are N. Sheldon Skinner, M.D., and Richard St. Clair, Ph.D.
 In addition, the North Carolina Heart Association has supported three Senior Research Investigators, one in each medical school.
 Research projects approved for 1974-75 and funded by Heart Fund dollars returned to North Carolina by the American Heart Association amount to $361,087. These projects are being conducted by 16 doctors and scientists at the Bowman Gray School of Medicine, Duke University Medical Center and School of Engineering, and Steiner, M.D.; John H. Schwab, Ph.D.; and Karl A. Koehler, Ph.D.

 Research projects to be funded exclusively by the North Carolina Heart Association for 1974-75 will be announced early next year.
 Researchers at the Duke University are Elliott Mills, Ph.D.; Theodore Slotkin, Ph.D.; Toshio Narahashi, Ph.D.; Yihong Kong, M.D.; Robert J. Lefkowitz, M.D.; Philip B. Woodhall, M.D.; Melvyn Lieberman, Ph.D.; Evan A. Evans, Ph.D.; Robert N. Bell, Ph.D.; and Norman B. Ratliff, M.D.
 Researchers funded by the Heart Association at the University of North Carolina School of Medicine are Carl W. Gottschalk, M.D.; Alton L.

Four Corners

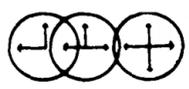

Car Wash

 All proceeds will be used for equipment for the Rebel team.

Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Shelton were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Parrish, Mrs. Bobby Shelton, Ginger and Con, Sandra, Dawn and Con.
 Mr. and Mrs. Luther Dull, the Willis Davis family of Hamptonville and Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Davis of Cooleemee visited Mr. and Mrs. Robert Davis Sunday.
 Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Rattledge and family visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Chaffin Sunday near Ijames Cross Roads.
 Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Dull and Roger and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Elmore and family went to Vernon Miller's lake Sunday and had lunch there.

 "THERE IS A TIME FOR EVERYTHING" Ecclesiastes 3:1 The Living Bible, Tyndale House

GOD'S FIVE MINUTES

THOUGHTS
 From The Living Bible
 Some believed, and some didn't. But after they had argued back and forth among themselves, they left with this final word from Paul ringing in their ears: "The Holy Spirit was right when he said through Isaiah the prophet, 'Say to the Jews, 'You will hear and see but not understand, for your hearts are too fat and your ears don't listen and you have closed your eyes against understanding, for you don't want to see and hear and understand and turn to me to heal you.'"
 Acts 28:24-29
 Religious Heritage of America

POINT SOMEONE TOWARD GOD
 A young man, pushing a grocery cart containing a screaming baby through a supermarket, was heard muttering to himself, "Keep calm, Mike," and "don't get excited, Mike."
 A woman, overhearing, remarked, "Can't you do more for little Mike than just talk to him?" "Lady," the harried man said, "I'm Mike!"
 So our fellow man seeks to maintain a grip upon his sanity in a world gone mad and we say senseless things to him, like:
 "Keep your chin up" or
 "Don't give up the ship" or
 "It's not the end of the world."
 Actually what we say to others, no matter how well intentioned, can just as widely miss the mark.
 Our safest and wisest course, in dealing with troubled men and women is to point them to God. Say all you want to anybody and know you are helping if you are influencing them to pray.
 "Lady, I'm Mike. I'm the one who needs help."

Farmington News

The annual Bazaar of the Women of Farmington United Methodist Church will be held Saturday afternoon, September 28th from one till seven p.m. on the front lawn of the church. There will be booths selling handwork, art, miscellaneous articles, pies, cakes, etc. Hot dogs and hamburgers, pies and cake in the ready to eat booth. Proceeds will go to the church building fund. Come, bring the children and your neighbors.
 Mr. and Mrs. Joe Williams spent this week vacationing in their cottage at Long Beach. Weekend guest of the Bill Brock family was Miss Tamara Whittington from State Road, Elkin.

 Mrs. Edith Yates of Roanoke, Va. came Friday for a weekend visit with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wray Walker.
 Miss Teresa Gail Atkins on Cedar Creek Road who has been a patient in the Baptist Hospital suffering from a broken hip, returned home Sunday.
 A freak accident happened Friday morning when Connie Harding who was playing on a swing in her back yard fell from the swing and injured her right hand on the hard ground. Her father, Ray Harding carried her to the emergency room of Davie Hospital where the attending doctor took thirteen stitches on her right hand and two on her left. Innocent play can sometime end in disaster.
 Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Wilhelm and children of Salisbury visited Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Spillman Sunday.
 Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Hutchins and children of South Carolina visited Mrs. Hutchin's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Spillman during the weekend.
 Miss Nancy Teague and Mrs. Eloise Rabb of Clemmons enjoyed Sunday in the mountains lurching at Shatley Springs.
 Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Teague were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hutchins of Winston-Salem and Mr. and Mrs. Reid Shelton of King.

THOUGHTS

From The Living Bible
 When the other disciples discovered what James and John had asked, they were very indignant. So Jesus called them to him and said, "As you know, the kings and great men of the earth lord it over the people; but among you it is different. Whoever wants to be great among you must be the slave of all. For even I, the Messiah, am not here to be served, but to help others, and to give my life as a ransom for many."
 Mark 10:41-45

Yadkin Valley

We still have some on the sick list to be remembered with our prayers and cards.
 Frank King is out sick. His condition is about the same.
 Mrs. Lillian Smith is a patient at Forsyth Memorial Hospital. David Weatherman was in an accident on his bicycle last Monday evening and has many bruises and a broken leg. We wish for him a speedy recovery. Glenn Smith's condition remains about the same. There is no improvement.
 Vernon McBride is a patient at Medical Park Hospital in Winston-Salem recovering from kidney stone.
 Mrs. Elva Hicks visited Mr. and Mrs. Rob King Sunday and enjoyed church on Sunday afternoon.
 Mr. and Mrs. Everette Riddle spent their vacation last week at Long Beach. They enjoyed the trip while there.
 Add Ellis' condition was about the same last week and he had to be taken back to the hospital.
 Mr. and Mrs. Doc Caudle celebrated their 50th Wedding Anniversary Sunday evening at a reception at the home of people attended. Refreshments consisting of peanuts, mints, sandwiches and punch was served to the guests. They received many gifts.
 Mrs. Pansy Allen and Mrs. Ed Riddle visited Mrs. Ed Hauser Sunday evening.

Keller Reunion

The Keller Reunion will be held Sunday, September 22 at the Center Community Building. Lunch will be served at 1 p.m.

Kappa Homemakers Have Club Meeting

The Kappa Homemakers Club met September 12 at the Davie Academy Community Building. Mrs. Louise Cartner, hostess, read the Homemakers Creed.
 Mrs. Margaret Ann Shew, president, called the meeting to order. Seven members answered roll call with their choice of the prettiest bird. Leaders reports included the tour of Whitaker Park and Reynolda House made in August. "More Do's Than Don'ts For Children," new sewing aids; fall fashions and materials; thank you cards were read.
 Following the business session, Mrs. Ostine West, had the program "The Metric System" followed by questions and answers.
 The meeting was adjourned with the Club Collect.
 The hostess served coconut cake and drink.

Farm Income Hits $12,495,000

How did the average farmer in Davie County make out in the past year?

The answer is very well -- far better than right now.

According to the final figures for 1973, recently compiled, his gross receipts were the best in a long time. For some local growers, they were the best ever.

Their overall income from the sale of crops, livestock and other farm products compared favorably with the returns reported for many other parts of the country.

The figures are from a national survey released by the Standard Rate and Data Service. It shows that farm receipts in the local area were $3,660,000 larger than in 1972, which was a relatively good year itself.

The increase was due to the big upsurge in foreign orders for American food products. Exports jumped from the $9.4 billion recorded in 1972 to more than $17 billion as a result.

The good growing conditions that prevailed, in contrast to this year's ruinous drought, made it possible to meet the unexpected demand.

In Davie County, the SRDS figures show, farm income in the year came to $12,495,000, as compared with the previous year's $8,835,000.

That was the gross amount, before deductions for taxes, labor, supplies and other operating costs.

Included in the gross income figure are the cash receipts from farm marketings, government payments and "income in kind," which is the value of home-grown products that are consumed on the farm.

Of the amount received by local growers from the sale of farm commodities, the latest Department of Agriculture breakdown reveals that some 19 percent of it came from crops and 81 percent from the marketing of livestock, poultry and dairy products.

The sharp gains made in the year by American farmers and ranchers are attributed to the unprecedented worldwide demand for their products. It led to much higher prices.

Gross receipts, as a result, rose $21.6 billion as against a $15.2 billion rise in operating costs. The net gains was $6.4 billion.

A Spider-Web And Experience!

A dew covered spider web reminds us of a quotation from the philosopher Henry James: "Experience is never limited, and it is never complete; it is an immense sensibility, a kind of huge spider-web of the finest silken threads suspended in the chamber of consciousness, and catching every air-borne particle in its tissue." Duke Power Has 2 Alternatives Sites On Which It Could Build Power Plants

Should the Perkins Nuclear Station planned by Duke Power Co. be waylaid the company has two alternative sites in this area where it could build.

According to data Duke has filed with the Atomic Energy Commission, the sites are along the Yadkin River in Davidson County and along Hunting Creek in southwestern Davie County.

Though Duke plans to use neither site at present, it says the Davidson County site would be adequate for a coal-fired power plant, and the Hunting Creek site would be adequate for either a coal or nuclear plant.

Should the Hunting Creek site be used, it would mean building either a 9,800-acre lake or a 7,200 acre lake on Hunting Creek above its juncture with the South Yadkin River.

However, the Hunting Creek site is probably the less likely alternative of the two, since Duke Power does not own the land involved. It does own the land in which could be used for the coal-fired plant.

Duke does not yet have detailed plans for these alternatives, but state and federal officials say such plans will have to be considered as part of the environmental impact statement on Perkins.

The information would have to be available before the AEC holds hearings next year on whether to allow a construction permit for Perkins. The AEC plans these hearings even though the construction of the plant was delayed two years.

Appeal Withdrawn

The appeal of a decision in a court suit over the rezoning of the Perkins Nuclear Plant site in Davie was withdrawn last week by the plaintiffs in a session of Davie County civil court.

The appeal had been filed in May by Mrs. David Davis, Mrs. C. M. Anderson and Dr. Isabel Bittinger.

The suit had been filed against John M. Bailey and Jerry Swicegood, members of the Davie Board of County Commissioners, and alleged that the two had exerted undue influence in the zoning change.

Judge William Z. Wood dismissed the charges against them before the appeal was filed.

The withdrawal of the appeal ends the dispute over the rezoning but does not affect future arguments about the plant.

According to information that has been compiled so far, the Hunting Creek site would require some 6,000 to 10,000 acres of land altogether and would yield some $34.8 million in state and local taxes.

The Davidson County coal plant would require some 1,100 acres of land and would yield about $28.6 million in state and local taxes. (Coal-fired power plants are generally less expensive at first than nuclear, though cost even out at the end.)

And the Perkins plant would require some 1,000 acres of land and would yield $37 million in state and local taxes. Land for this plant has already been rezoned and the AEC has started some evaluation of it. A preliminary environmental impact statement will be issued in October.

In a comparison of these sites and three in South Carolina, Duke Power said steam from cooling towers at both the nuclear and coal plants might produce some fog at times near the plants.

There might also be a "slight effect of particulates (soot) released to the atmosphere" from a coal plant, the company said. But it said all the sites could be used without major problems.

United Way Kick-off Breakfast Is Saturday

Peter B. Auerbach, Director of Planning for the North Carolina United Way, will be the featured speaker at the Davie County United Way Kick-Off Breakfast to be held at C's Restaurant at 8:00 a. m. Saturday, September 28.

Auerbach joined the staff of North Carolina United Way as Director of Planning in August of 1968 and has 30 years of experience in United Way Programs.

He has served as Associate Director of United Community Services in Savannah, Georgia, and his Executiveships in the United Way include United Way campaigns in Ohio and West Virginia.

Charles Dunn, president of the local United Way, will preside at the breakfast. Mrs. Bill Foster is the local United Appeal Chairman.

The goal for this year's campaign, which will run through October, is $38,000. There will be a thermometer sign on the square in front of the Court House again this year to chart the progress of the campaign.

Community Boundaries Set For ASC Vote

Community boundaries have been set for the upcoming ASC community committee elections.

Davie County has nine (9) ASC communities.

ASC communities are local administrative areas which help provide farmers with effective farm program administration. These areas are reviewed yearly to determine whether boundary changes would benefit farmers.

A list of ASC communities and the number of farms within each community is available to the public at the ASCS Office in Mocksville, North Carolina. The communities are the same as they were in 1973.

County ASC committee review of community boundaries is one of the first steps in administering the annual ASC farm committee elections. Other actions concerning the upcoming election will be announced as they occur. Participation in ASC elections is open to all eligible farmers regardless of race, religion, sex, color, or national origin.

Davie Seeks Splitting Of Piedmont Triad Council Of Governments

The Davie County Board of Commissioners went on record as supporting the splitting of the Piedmont Triad Council of Governments into two separate planning regions in a meeting Monday night.

The action followed a trip to Raleigh by county manager Ron Vogler and Mocksville Mayor Arlen DeVito last Wednesday to discuss the controversy with Governor James Holshouser.

The Governor met with the men for about an hour in the Governor's Conference Room at the Administration Building in Raleigh to discuss the situation.

Vogler said that he and Mayor DeVito tried to remain noncommittal on the controversy since no official action had been taken. They did, however, tell the governor that the Davie County Board of Commissioners wrote to Governor Robert Scott when he combined the 2 counties into the region to say that it was too large.

Davie County, while located within the planning region, is not a participating member of the council itself. In their meeting Monday night, however, the commissioners decided they would consider joining a smaller council should the split occur.

The present Piedmont Triad Council of Governments include Davie, Davidson, Forsyth, Yadkin, Surry, and Stokes Counties in the Western block of the proposed split. The other five counties are Rockingham, Caswell, Guilford, Randolph and Alamance.

The present region, labeled Region G, is the largest of the state's 17 multicounty planning regions, with twice as many square miles as the average region. Its population, of almost a million people, is nearly triple that of other regions.

John Kiger, chairman of the Forsyth County commissioners, proposed splitting off the region's six western counties (of which Davie is one) to form a smaller, more responsive council of governments.

He and other officials in favor of a split say that the present council is composed of a group of counties with little or nothing in common.

Mayor Frank Shirley, of Winston-Salem, said the present region grew out of the fact that Winston-Salem, Greensboro and High Point had similar problems and needed to

Water System Sign-Up Deadline November 30th

A tentative deadline for signing up for the recently approved county-wide water system has been set for November 30th, according to Ron Bogler, Davie County manager.

Up until that date, applicants will pay a $50 tap-on fee plus a $10 meter deposit. After November 30th, the tap-on fee will be $250 plus a $10 meter deposit.

Vogler said that all Ruritan clubs in the county have been supplied with application blanks as well as most stores. Applications may also be obtained by stopping by or writing the county manager's office in the courthouse in Mocksville.

An organizational meeting to enlist workers to go out and get sign-ups has been scheduled for Monday night, September 30. Gene Hux, with Campbell-Wallace Engineering and Associates will head up the drive to get signatures once the organization is underway.

For further information about the water system or working to get signatures, contact Ron Vogler, Davie County manager at the courthouse.

Davie Receives $1,500 Check For March Of Dimes Project

The Davie County March of Dimes Campaign got an early kick-off with a $1,500 check from the Northwestern Piedmont Chapter of the March of Dimes.

The money will go toward a "Follow Along Nursing and Education Program" for preschool children with developmental disabilities.

Hazel Chapple, executive director of the Northwestern Piedmont Chapter of the March of Dimes made the presentation. Representing Davie County in receiving the money was Anne Cain, Supervising Nurse in Davie County of the Davie-Yadkin Health Department and Bill Johnson, Davie County Campaign Director for the March of Dimes.

The Northwest Piedmont Chapter encompasses Forsyth, Surry, Stokes, Yadkin and Davie Counties.

In addition to the grant, the March of Dimes contributed a copy of the book, IS

MY BABY ALL RIGHT?, to the Public Health Department and to the Davie County Public Library for loan to prospective parents.

A copy of BIRTH DEFECTS ATLAS and COMPENDIUM was donated to the Davie County Hospital. This book is designed to assist physicians in diagnosing birth defects and congenital diseases in infants.

Having already achieved victory over polio, the National Foundation-March of Dimes has turned its energies to the problems of birth defects," Johnson said.

"Its research program, treatment centers and community service activities are once again demonstrating the importance of the work of a voluntary health agency in a crucial public health area."

The March of Dimes is currently sponsoring a continuing public education program and will be conducting a fund-raising campaign in Davie County in the first part of 1975.

Youth Still Missing

Kenneth Dancy, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Dancy of Boxwood Circle in Bermuda Run, was still missing as of Tuesday afternoon according to the Davie County Sheriff's Department.

The youth was last seen on September 13 on Highway 601. He was reported wearing blue dungarees, blue and red sneakers and a white t-shirt.

Dancy, a junior at Davie County High School, is 5 ft 9 inches tall and weighs 135 pounds. He has blue eyes and neck-length brown hair with long bangs.

The Davie County Sheriff's Department is continuing its investigation of the youth's disappearance.

... about your

Social Security

by Hal Griffin

I recently moved into a house that has a lot of grounds and I've had to hire a gardener to come in once a week. He tells me that I have to report his earnings for social security credit. I know that household workers are covered by social security because I have a cleaning lady, but is a gardener considered a household worker?

Household workers include maids, cooks, cleaning people, gardeners, handymen and babysitters. In other words, anyone who does household work in or about a private home, and earns $50 or more in cash in a calendar quarter from an employer, gets social security credit for his earnings. Therefore, you would handle your gardener's earnings the same as you are now doing with your cleaning lady.

I get monthly supplemental security income checks. I now have an opportunity to work at home and earn about $50 to $75 a month for this work. Do I have to report these earnings to social security?

You should report your earnings to social security as soon as possible because they might affect your supplemental security income payments. By reporting your earnings immediately, you'll avoid the possibility of an overpayment that you would have to return at a later date. Generally, the first $65 of earnings a month isn't counted at all in figuring your supplemental security income payments, and only half of the rest of your earnings count.

I get monthly social security retirement checks. I've just taken a parttime job and will earn much less than the $2,400

Did You Know?

For an exotic canape that's quick to prepare, cream $\frac{1}{4}$ pound butter or margarine until soft. Stir in 4 teaspoons lemon juice, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind, and $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon curry powder, then spread on toast fingers. Top each with a sardine from Maine and a tablespoon of chutney; broil until hot and bubbly.

For an economical but pleasing hot hors d'oeuvre, spread toast fingers with butter and minced onion. Top each with a sardine from Maine and a small piece of sharp Cheddar Cheese. Pop under the broiler till bubbly and hot.

If stuffed eggs are a standard on your party menus, try this tasty variation. Mash the yolks of 6 hard cooked eggs with a 4-ounce can of drained sardines from Maine, enough mayonnaise to moisten, and a dash of curry powder. Stuff the egg whites with this savory filling and garnish with sprigs of parsley.

Two Injured In High Speed Chase On US 158

A high speed chase resulted in two injuries on Highway 158, nine miles east of Mocksville around 12:55 a. m. Sunday morning.

Ronald Eugene Gaither, driving a 1969 Pontiac GTO, was traveling west on Highway 158 at a high rate of speed when he attempted to turn onto a dirt road.

Gaither lost control of the car and overturned down an embankment. Gaither and a passenger, Joe Hellard were both injured.

Highway Patrolman Andy Stokes, who was pursuing the vehicle, took both men to the Davie County Hospital.

Gaither was charged with traveling 80 miles per hour in a 55 mile per hour zone and careless and reckless driving.

Show Opens At Gallery

Football, Art Led Hinshaw, Barringer Into Photography

If James Barringer could have connected with a paint brush or Wayne Hinshaw with a football . . . But they didn't.

So Salisbury has an "Art in Photography" show by Barringer and Hinshaw at the Art Gallery of the Supplementary Educational Center at 314 N. Ellis St., Salisbury.

The show, exhibiting photographs made in Rowan and Davie Counties.

Termed an "excellent" exhibit by Mrs. Rosemary Taylor, art specialist with the center, the show includes 70 pictures, many of which have won prizes in state and southern competition.

"The show," Mrs. Taylor says, "illustrates the fact that there is composition in art in photography as well as painting. Good composition includes interesting lines, patterns, and contrast, and these pictures have all of these. They also show an awareness of emotion."

The variety of the work, she says, has appeal for all ages and interests. Subject matter in the photographs ranges from little boys baiting fishing hooks and character studies of the elderly to the countryside around Rowan.

Neither Barringer nor Hinshaw expected to become photographers, though both were involved with cameras from childhood and have now received recognition for their work throughout the state.

Barringer's father "had an old Kodak, one of those box cameras. I used to develop pictures in closets and the bathroom, and I guess Mr. Puckett (J. W. Puckett, former principal of Rockwell School) had a big influence because he walked around with that big box camera of his all the time."

Nonetheless, Barringer wanted to be an artist. He couldn't keep his fingers from drawing anytime he got a pencil in his hand.

So when the time came to go into service, he asked to be assigned to illustrator's school.

"But you had to have an alternate. My alternate was photography, so I fell into that again because the illustrator school was filled up."

Meantime, he was married and when he went overseas, his wife got a job. Purely by coincidence, that job was with Suther Studio for John Suther, who was then Post photographer. Shortly after he returned, he found himself working for The Post, and the awards have been coming in ever since. He has won numerous state press awards and many of his photographs have been used as covers for state magazines.

He won a Bronze Medal in 1971 in a North Carolina Art Council contest and had four prints travel with the Art Council exhibit for a year. He has also won prizes with the Carolina Press Photographers Association.

"My hands," he says, "won't do what I want them to do, so I have to go to the tool of the camera."

Hinshaw did not get to photography via a paintbrush. His calling card was a football.

A three-letter man in his freshman year in high school, Hinshaw played first string half-back on the football team and was a starter on the basketball team. He hoped for big things in athletics — and was apparently on his way until he was clipped in the knee during his sophomore year. Two weeks later he was in the hospital for surgery, and the problems with the knee didn't ever clear up. Throughout that year, he was back and forth to the doctor's office, having the knee drained and getting cortisone shots.

Although he was still allowed to be on the team, it eventually came clear that he was no longer a starter.

But the interest didn't leave when the knee trouble arrived.

Hinshaw still wanted to be on that bench. Unable to play, his best entry ticket was a camera around his neck. That made it possible for him to be with the team, taking their pictures.

And then another accident got him interested in newspapers. A truck was carrying the football team to town one day when it had a wreck and turned over. None of the players were badly hurt but it looked bad, "with all those bodies stretched out all over the place."

Hinshaw was there with his camera — and the picture was used on the front page of Asheboro's Randolph Guide. He was hooked, even if he didn't know it at the time.

After high school, he enrolled at Catawba College where he majored in political science. But there were no jobs in political science and he went to work in the cost accounting department of J.O. Stevens in Greensboro after graduation. It took only six months for him to decide that that wasn't for him, and he turned back to his camera.

Barringer had noticed him while he was shooting pictures for the Catawba College newspaper and annual and had urged him to join the staff at The Post, but the job wasn't available when he decided to leave the business world. Instead, he joined Delmar, a firm which shoots school pictures. But that didn't satisfy either. The creative urge can't be satisfied in shooting one head shot after another, so two years later, Hinshaw joined The Post staff.

And the creative urge has led him to numerous state awards and prizes, including selection in 1973 by the North Carolina Art Council for its state exhibit and a prize by the Carolina Press Photographers Association. His photographs have also been used for magazine covers and published in a number of books, including a volume on the art of shellcraft soon to be published.

The show at the Supplementary Center Gallery will be open Mondays through Fridays from 9 until 4:30 through October 18.

Insure Your Child's Health

Has your child had a pre-school physical? In case you didn't know, the half hour spent in the physician's office just before a child begins his school career can be the most important 30 minutes of his life.

It is at this time that any physical or emotional disabilities can be detected and an attempt to deal with them made. If your child has not had his pre-school exam, schedule an appointment, today. It's not too late.

Doctors recommend five physicals during elementary and high school years as a safeguard for most children: pre-school; 4th grade; 7th grade; 9-10th grade; and upon graduation. The examinations should include a medical history, an in-depth physical, a discussion and understanding of diet and nutrition, and an up-dated vaccination chart.

Millsaps-Richkus

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Paul Richkus of Mocksville announce the engagement of his daughter, Dorothy Jean Richkus, to Harvey Eugene Millsaps, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey E. Millsaps of Mooresville, N.C. The bride-elect attended North Carolina State University and is presently employed at Associated Insurers, Inc. in Raleigh. Mr. Millsaps is a graduate of North Carolina State University and is employed by Gifford-Hill and Company, Inc. in Charlotte. The wedding is planned for November 30, 1974 in Liberty United Methodist Church.

A tour of Pearl Harbor is very interesting and it is the largest naval center in the United States. Pearl Harbor won the name from the pearl oysters that once grew in this vicinity.

To understand legends and facts of Pearl Harbor one must begin with Raupahan, the queen of the shark gods and goddesses. A cavern in Pearl Harbor was her home. She had lived there for thousands of years. The whole shark family was friendly and they chased away the dangerous maneating variety.

The U.S. Naval Base offers tours of the Arizona Memorial, a structure built over the rusting hulk of the USS Arizona destroyed in the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor Dec. 7 1941. Each visitor seems sad as many Hawaiian state tour ship sailed by the shores of Pearl Harbor. There are many servicemen entombed beneath it's remains, and, it makes you breath a prayer of dedication to build a world in which such tragedies are no longer possible.

Miss Howell was honored with a miscellaneous shower at Wesley Chapel Church of Route 2, Mocksville, given by the women of the church. The refreshment table was covered with a pink cloth and summer flowers. Punch, cake squares and nuts were served to the 50 guest who attended.

The bride-elect received many useful gifts and a corsage of pink roses.

Financial Problems Continue To Plaque The LaQuinta Mobile Home Village

The future of the troubled La Quinta Mobile Village in Advance is still uncertain in the face of a suit by the residents and financial problems facing the president of the corporation, Don Henderson.

In Davie County District Court last week, Trulove Engineers, Inc., was awarded $10,000 in a suit filed against Henderson and La Quinta Corporation. The suit charged that Henderson had not fully paid for an engineering design prepared for the mobile home village by Trulove Engineers, Inc. This included land planning and design, surveying, road layout and sewage lines placement.

Henderson has appealed the judgement. A notice of foreclosure appears in this week's ENTERPRISE RECORD concerning 2.274 acres of land in the La Quinta mobile home park after a default in payment on the mortgage. The land will be offered for sale at public auction on October 18.

Further action is still pending in the suit against Henderson and the Corporation by the residents of the Mobile home park according to their lawyer, L. G. Gordon, Jr.

Gordon is presently studying financial records of La Quinta turned over to him by Henderson. Forty-three out of the 55 families living at La Quinta have joined in the suit.

The park was originally billed as a "luxury mobile home village" valued at $1.2 million. It was to feature a country club atmosphere with swimming pool, tennis courts, full-time security guard and a small shopping center. The plans also called for a clubhouse and the partially completed structure was in the use by the residents when it was burned down in August.

Due to the speed of the fire which destroyed the building, law enforcement officers were called in to investigate the possibility of arson. Evidence was sent for analysis by the Davie County Sheriff's Department and the investigation is continuing.

Henderson, who was seen at the clubhouse shortly after the blaze, admits entering the building to store some "unimportant documents" around the time of the fire. Smouldering stacks of blank forms and advertising leaflets remained in the building following the blaze.

The fire was but one additional factor in an already complicated legal case. The residents are asking that unsold land be placed in a constructive trust for fulfillment of the promises made by Henderson.

They also ask the court to appoint a receiver to require the defendants to fulfill each and every promise made to the plaintiffs, with a $2 million bond procured by the defendants payable to the plaintiffs as an alternative.

Henderson and his corporation counter that at no time did any employee of the corporation make any false representations to the people now suing them. They also blamed any charges in the complexity of the project on the energy crisis and tight money.

No trial date has yet been set in the suit.

Court Solicitor Speaks To Local Rotary Club

The solicitor for the 22nd Judicial District spoke to the Mocksville Rotary Club at their regular meeting, Tuesday.

H. W. "Butch" Zimmerman of Lexington outlined the district court system since its re-organization in 1971.

Mr. Zimmerman told the Rotarians that when he assumed his present duties he pledged that the docket in the county district in which he serves would be reduced in order to see that the public gets swift and efficient justice. The 22nd Judicial District is comprised of Davie, Davidson, Iredell and Alexander counties. "I'm proud to say that each year the court docket has been getting less and less," he said. "In fact the turn over has been so prompt that now attorneys are having trouble getting fees from clients and preparing cases for trial when they appear on the calendar," he said.

Mr. Zimmerman said his office has a 98 percent conviction rate in the district.

"With the crime rate on the rise throughout the nation, there is a need for stern judges and tough courts," said the solicitor.

In reply to a question on how he feels about capital punishment, Mr. Zimmerman said he is in favor of it as he feels it is a deterrent to crime.

"However, I do not believe in it if the state is not going to enforce it," he said, "and I personally feel that none of the 49 or so inmates on death row in Raleigh will die."

"And although I differ with them, I have respect for those who oppose capital punishment," he said.

Mr. Zimmerman said he has always felt and will always feel that he is a servant of the people who pay his salary and if they have a complaint about how his office is doing its job he wanted to know about it.

George Martin had charge of the program and introduced Mr. Zimmerman. President Ed Goodwin presided.

"Course By Newspaper" Offered By WSU

For the second successive year, Winston-Salem State University, along with ten other constituent institutions of the University of North Carolina, will participate in a college level "Course by Newspaper."

This year the course is entitled "In Search of the American Dream" and deals with the theme of Utopianism as it has appeared in American history and literature.

The course consists of eighteen lectures which will appear in newspapers, including the Enterprise-Record beginning in October. These have been written by prominent scholars under the auspices of the University of California at San Diego with funding provided by the National Endowment for the Humanities. The course is endorsed by the North Carolina Bicentennial and has been recommended for teacher certificate renewal credit by the State Department of Public Instruction.

Readers who desire to receive college credit or teachers seeking certificate renewal credit can enroll at Winston-Salem State University by filling out a short form available at participating newspapers, local libraries, and from the University faculty is required. A $39.00 fee is involved and an additional $7.00 charge for a textbook expanding on the newspaper lectures must be purchased. Contact sessions will be definitely scheduled on Winston-Salem State University campus. In addition, off campus sessions can also be arranged. If as many as twenty people in any area outside of Forsyth County enroll for the course, contact sessions can be scheduled at a time and place convenient to the group.

Faculty members who will conduct the contact sessions include Dr. L. A. Alston and Dr. Charles Gray of the English Department and historians Dr. Howard Barnes and Ms. Linda Bland. For further information phone the Course Coordinator Dr. Bill Sheppard at Winston-Salem State University - 725-3563, Ext. 41.

Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Foster of Rt. 4 Mocksville and little daughter, Tracy, stand on the porch of what will someday be Tracy's playhouse. That is, when she is old enough to climb the steps by herself.

Now, it is used for family gatherings and recently 36 little children gathered here to help Tracy celebrate her third birthday. However, Mr. Foster says it could also serve as a pretty comfortable "dog house" if ever he needed it. Foster built the building during the past two summers with the help of his brother-in-law, Howard Pennington, and a friend, Ed Wagner, who did the block work. (Photo by Jim Barringer)

Cana News

The Cana Homemakers Club held its regular meeting on September 19th at the home of Mrs. Edwin Boger.

Mrs. Thelma Brewer presided. She also conducted the devotion by reading a message from the "Open Door", based on Revelation 3:8. The group joined in repeating the Lord's Prayer, and sang "Listen to the Mocking Bird".

Mrs. Naomi Furches led off for committee reports. She discussed briefly a news report that help for prevention and cure of the common cold might soon be a reality.

Mrs. Annie Thomas reported on the collection of pennies for International Relations, which she had collected and turned over to the proper authority. The amount was impressive for "little" money and from such a small group.

For the Public Information, Mossa Eaton read an article from the Winston-Salem Journal regarding the National Extension Homemakers Council meeting held in Urbana, Ill. in early August. At this conference North Carolina Homemakers received national recognition for their outstanding program in international relations. Tar Heel homemakers, also, received top national honors for their public information program.

Mrs. Minnie Pope read "September in Carolina", taken from the Crescent Conductor, with its nostalgic reminders of the beauties to be enjoyed at this season. "Mellow September fills the mind with memories of its brooding beauty and wistfulness. White Summer embraces autumn and lingers long over its goodbyes. You sense the presence of September in the language of cool crisp evenings bespangled with stardust and filled with the song of the mockingbird. September takes a pinch of something from nearly all the other months. It is a month of harvesting, and sowing, of ripening fruits and graying fields. But for reflective minds it is an ideal time for musing on the challenges of life's here-and-now and the big "ifs" which blur our vision of tomorrow."

We wish to express our thanks and gratitude to the unknown writer of these timely, poetic and descriptive articles regarding the months as they come and go.

Plans for our Christmas Bazaar were set in motion, and names of members chosen to serve on the various committees was announced by the president. The date selected for the Bazaar, is Saturday, December 7th, 1974.

Mrs. Nancy Hartman had charge of the program. She discusses plans for a chartered bus to the Southern Christmas Show to be held in Charlotte on November 13-17th, 1974. She also called attention to the date for the Davie County Craft Fair to be held November 22-23rd at the Armory.

The program for this meeting was "Metric in everyday use", which Mrs. Hartman discussed and gave each member printed matter on the subject. She pointed out that the United States is one of the few countries in the world that is not committed to the metric system. This system is expected to make calculations much simpler and easier to understand. The system uses some basic words upon which all other terms are built. Begin now to "Think Metric" to be able to shop intelligently when we have a "Metric America".

We were pleased to have Mrs. Stanley Smith and little daughter as visitors at this meeting. Delicious refreshments consisting of Hors d'Oeuvres, sandwiches, Orange Chiffon cake, coffee and tea, was served by the hostess.

Miss Annie Laurie Etchison, Chief Librarian with USAREUR, stationed at Heidelberg, has returned to Germany after spending her vacation at her home in Cana, North Carolina.

Mrs. James I. Miller of Pembroke, Mass. is the guest of Mossa Eaton. While in North Carolina she will visit friends in Asheville.

Miss Mildred R. Bachman, who was a recent guest of Annie Laurie Etchison, has returned to her home in Chuluota, Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rich of Greensboro spent the past weekend at the Cain homeplace in the village.

What Is A "Grade A" Restaurant?

What do the words "Grade A" mean that you see prominently displayed in your favorite eating place?

The term "Grade A" used by sanitarians indicates that, as a result of an inspection and evaluation by a sanitarian, the restaurant exceeds the minimum sanitation requirements for operation. It also means:

- The building is structurally sound and well maintained, and designed specifically for a restaurant.
- The properly designed equipment is in a good state of maintenance and repair.
- Food service workers use good foodhandling practices in the preparation, storage and serving of the food.
- A major responsibility of the Division of Health Services in cooperation with county health departments is to protect North Carolina's citizens and visitors against eating unclean, unsafe food in public eating places. County sanitarians, acting as agents for the Division of Health Services, conduct most of the inspection and field work.
- The General Assembly passed the sanitation foodhandling law in 1917. Regulations resulting from the law have been updated periodically since then. They deal with safe and sanitary storage, handling, preparation and serving of food, in an environment that assures the consumer safe, wholesome, unadulterated food.

Provisions of the regulations apply to restaurants, coffee shops, cafeterias, short-order cafes, luncheonettes, school lunchrooms, delicatessens and all other places where food is prepared, handled and served wholesale or retail for pay. Other regulations and standards deal with food service facilities in hospitals, nursing homes, rest homes, orphanages, and child day care facilities.

Sanitation grading of all foodhandling establishments in North Carolina is based on a system of scoring that permits a "Grade A" rating for those scoring at least 90 percent. Those scoring 80 percent and less than 90 percent are awarded "Grade B" and those scoring 70 percent and less than 80 percent are given a "Grade C" rating.

Are you more apt to eat unsafe food in a "Grade B" restaurant than "Grade A"?

"Generally speaking Grade B establishments are not constructed and equipped to easily facilitate proper foodhandling and cleaning," said Stacy Covil, assistant sanitation branch head of the Division of Health Services. "or employees simply fail to use good foodhandling practices. The presence of either situation encourages the development of the other situation. Likewise, in either case, the possibility of food poisoning is increased," he stated.

Covil pointed out that, after all, "food poisoning is not caused by food, but by bacteria in or on it. These bacteria are living things and, like man himself, they survive and multiply only when conditions are favorable."

Robert Morgan Proposes Branch Senate Offices

Senate candidate Robert Morgan has pledged to open branch offices in various areas of North Carolina after he is elected in order to bring the U.S. Senate office "closer to the people."

"I have a very deep feeling," Morgan said, "that the office I am seeking should be brought closer to the people, and I mean this literally."

"In order to accomplish this, I will, soon after I take office, establish branch offices in various parts of the state so that citizens who have problems or complaints or who want to communicate with their elected senator will be able to do so and do so personally."

Morgan, who won the Democratic primary with a majority vote over nine other candidates, said he believes that the establishment of branch offices will "be productive and will enable me to represent North Carolina Better."

The former attorney general first revealed his plan to operate more than one North Carolina office in a speech to the North Carolina State Employees Association at that body's annual convention in Winston Salem.

He did not specify how many offices would be established or their location.

BETTER BUSINESS BUREAU

Because cars are mysterious to so many people, the opportunities for being taken advantage of at a repair shop are fairly numerous. There are many excellent repair facilities, but there are some disreputable ones too. How do you protect yourself?

Knowing what to do once you're at the repair shop is one safeguard, says the Better Business Bureau.

If your problems with the car are complicated, you might be able to speak to the mechanic who will do the actual repairs. This, however, won't always be possible.

Normally, a repair order will be written up by the service manager. When signed by you this becomes your authorization to have the shop make the repairs or adjustments listed, regardless of cost, unless you specify otherwise. So watch what is written on the order and if you don't understand what's written, ask.

And find out what the work will cost. A garage should be willing to call you later in the day with specific cost estimates after a mechanic has had a chance to inspect your car. To make double sure that nothing is done without your permission, have the manager write on the bottom of the repair order, "Make no repairs or replacements without owner's authorization."

Read over the entire order before you sign. Find out how long the work will take. And be sure to leave your telephone number.

If you are told that it will cost money to find out what is wrong, ask why and find out how much. This is perfectly normal in cases of internal engine and transmission problems. It takes considerable work to tear down an engine or transmission. The only time you'll be aware of this labor cost is when you decide not to have the repair made. Otherwise, it will be a part of the normal charge for labor and parts on the repair bill.

and keep an itemized copy of the repair bill so you will have a complete record of all work done on your car.

Many good repair shops will allow the owner to take a test drive before the bill is paid, or will certify on the bill that a mechanic has taken a road test. This is particularly important after repairing the breaks, transmission, or other mechanical systems.

If you have not been allowed a test drive, be especially insistent about getting a firm guarantee for the work, and then give the car a good test on your way home. Try the car at various speeds. Try different maneuvers.

If the same problems that were supposedly remedied recur, turn around and take it right back to the garage, along with your receipt. Insist on an explanation and correction. After all, you already paid them to fix it.

Before You Pay

Once you are notified your car is ready, be prepared to do some checking before you pay.

Ask the manager to explain all the work done and all replacements made. If you don't understand, ask questions and get explanations. If you are charged substantially more than was the original estimate, complain. If something was done that wasn't authorized, ask to see the repair order. Don't hesitate to question anything you don't understand. After all, it's your car and your money.

Ask that any major new parts that have been installed be pointed out to you, if possible. Ask to see old parts that have been replaced, especially carburetors, shock absorbers, brake shoes, spark plugs, alternators and starters. Many reputable shops will have your old parts available for your inspection. If the service facility had to buy a new part from a parts outlet, ask to see the receipt.

Ask for a complete breakdown of all high-cost labor charges. Be suspicious of entries on the repair bill like "miscellaneous shop materials"; this could include $2.00 to $5.00 just for a dab of grease.

Try to get a guarantee in writing for the work that has been done. Be sure that your bill itemizes the work so that later, if there is a problem, you can prove that the particular item involved is covered by the guarantee.

If any of the work is covered by either a manufacturer's or a previous repair warranty, be sure that this is deducted from your bill. Even if all the work was covered by warranty, get Near Wrightsville Beach. . . We were on the bottom of the ocean looking up at the massive bow of the 441 foot ship ALEXANDER RAMSEY sunk deliberately about three miles offshore here August 26. The ship rests on the bottom as it floated on the surface--squarely.

When the ship sunk it went stern first and when it came time for the bow section to go under the ship listed sharply on the port side and hung there awkwardly several feet out of water for a good five minutes. For a few moments we thought the new addition to the artificial reef site would be a good bird roost too.

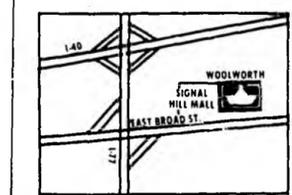

The ship is on rocky bottom. The rock is covered with a thin covering of sand and crunched shell. A tugboat sunk in 1970 and two barges sunk last year are good fish habitats some 500 yards away. In this environment several bottom fishes, such as black sea bass and porgies, are already present around and inside the liberty ship. The deck is getting hairy with patches of encrusting growth, and barnacles from dot size to one-quarter of an inch across speckle the steel.

A dive on ALEXANDER RAMSEY last week was reminiscent of a visit to a fun house at a fair. The surge was strong on deck and a diver would swim over one of the deck openings and an upward surge from the hole would lift him upward with the sudden ease an air current lifts a bird. He felt like a bird, an awkward bird. Conversely, he could swim over another opening and suddenly be thrust downward a few feet in to the hole. Add to this the openings high in the side of the hull to duck in and out of, and 10 two-foot-square blast holes near bottom where surge comes and goes through the small openings like a plunger, and remember the weightlessness a diver has in water. It was a fun dive.

Visitors to the reef site, taking a 100 degree compass reading from the jetty tip of Masonboro Inlet, will find two buoys. The offshore buoy is attached to one of the barges. The tugboat and other barge are nearby. This is the old reef site. The inshore buoy marks the bow of the liberty ship. The liberty ship is shoreward of the buoy.

Plans call for several thousand tires to be placed around ALEXANDER RAMSEY within the next month.

Air Travel May Be Banned For Disabled

The Federal Aviation Administration is considering a new regulation that could limit air travel for "disabled" people, and ban wheel chairs from airplanes.

Under the proposed regulation, disabled people who want to fly commercially will have to bring a doctor's certificate stating that, in case of emergency, they will be able to move "expeditiously" to an emergency exit without help from another person.

The FAA will listen to arguments on the proposed regulations until October 7, when a final decision will be made.

A national spokesman for handicapped people has predicted that the regulation will take effect unless there is "an avalanche" of opposition by October 7.

Persons wishing to express an opinion on the proposed regulation should write: Federal Aviation Administration, Docket No. 12881, Notice No. 7425, Office of the Chief Counsel, Attention Rules Docket AGC-24, 800 Independence Avenue, SW, Washington, D.C. ZIP CODE 20591.

Letters may also be sent to North Carolina Senators, Jesse Helms and Sam Ervin.

Vicki Merrell

Vicki Merrell To Be Belk's Bridal Consultant

Davie County High graduate Vicki Merrell completed her studies at King's in the Fashion Merchandising program in September, 1974. Vicki has been working in retailing since 1971, doing sales and display work for Merrell-Warden Furniture and Clothing as well as for Cato's in Mocksville, North Carolina. When Vicki came to King's, she was asked to assist the Admissions Office as a Tour Guide and Office Assistant, since she had an outgoing personality and always looked the part of a student of the fashion industry.

Vicki worked part-time for Belk of Charlotte, and has now accepted employment as Bridal Consultant for the main Belk Store in downtown Charlotte, and will be working with the Bridal Department in the new East Mall when it opens in 1975.

Vicki is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Merrell, Jr., of Mocksville, North Carolina.

Optimist Hear Scout Executive

Ben N. White, Jr., District Scout Executive of the Umharrie Council, was the guest speaker at the weekly Thursday morning Optimist Club breakfast. Mr. White was introduced as "the only full-time Boy Scout in Davie County."

Ben White

Mr. White told the Optimists that everyone has probably heard at one time or another that "money spent on scouting is one of the best investments one can make in terms of youth citizenship, character building and physical fitness--things that sometimes are lost in the academic foot-shuffle of today's overcrowded schools."

"And everyone is probably aware of the large percentage of U. S. presidents, astronauts, major company executives, etc. who were scouts in their youth," said Mr. White.

"However, slightly less than 12 percent of Davie County boys are presently involved in this obviously worthwhile educational program...and though the goal is to make scouting available to every boy under 18-years, interest and encouragement of the parents will probably make the difference in whether or not it is reached," said the scout executive.

Clarksville G.O.P. Meets Sept. 30th

The Clarksville Republican precinct meeting will be held Monday night, September 30th at 7:30 p. m. at the William R. Davie Fire Department. Everyone is urged to attend.

DCCC Offering Special Courses

Several special courses at Davidson County Community College still have openings which will allow additional persons to enroll. Each course has met only one time, and persons entering the courses can receive full credit for the program.

"The Art of Motivating People" meets in Room 5 of the Multi-purpose Building. This course will meet each Monday at 7 p.m. for 10 sessions and is designed for persons needing training in the more effective methods of handling people through motivational means and techniques.

On Tuesday, the course, "Principles of Supervision-I" meets at 7 p.m. in Room 221 of the Gee Building. This is a beginning course for persons who supervise the work of others and desire to become more skilled with current methods of working with and through other people.

Persons completing this course can move into the more advanced course in supervision known as "Principles of Supervision-II" which meets each Thursday night at 7 p.m. in Room 216 of the Gee Building. This course is recommended for the more experienced manager or supervisor. It goes into considerable depth on essential leadership qualities.

Also on Tuesday night, "Applied (Industrial) Psychology" meets in Room 112 of the Gee Building and "Industrial Safety and Accident Prevention" meets in Room 5 of the Multi-Purpose Building.

On Wednesday nights, "Understanding the Metric System" meets in Room 111 of the Gee Building. It is designed to acquaint citizens with a practical understanding on how the conversion to the Metric System from our now present English system will affect them in industry, as consumers, businessmen, and engineers.

Also on Wednesday nights, "Basic Electricity" meets in Room N-5; "Industrial First Aid" meets in Room S-12. Each course meets at 7 p.m.

On Thursday nights, "Human Relations in Business and Industry," "Business Law," "Advanced Principles of Supervision," and "Sales Service & Customer Relations" classes meet at the college.

The registration cost for each of the courses is $2. Registration is handled by the instructor in the classroom. Persons may contact the adult education division of the college for additional information by telephoning 249-8186 or 475-7181, Ext. 27.

Certificates of completion are awarded to persons who attend 75 percent of the class sessions and successfully completes a given course.

HOLD YARN

If you crochet or knit, the ball of yarn probably rolls across the floor. To avoid this, get a jar and punch a hole through the lid. Place ball inside jar and pull string through, advise extension home economics specialists, North Carolina State University.

The next time a door-to-door salesperson comes calling at your home and interest you in a product or service he or she is selling, you should look for some new safeguards that will help you resist any high-pressure sales tactics.

A brand-new Federal Trade Regulation Rule, effective June 7, provided, among other things, that you may cancel any order or purchase of $25 or more within three business days.

This new rule from the Federal Trade Commission strengthens the hand of consumers in many parts of the nation. In most states, consumers already have had this right to at least three-day cooling-off period, thanks to state laws that precede the new FTC regulation. What the new Federal provisions do is assure every consumer in the country the same minimum rights in dealing with door-to-door salespersons who are operating in interstate commerce.

Let's suppose, for example, that an encyclopedia or vacuum cleaner salesman knocks on your door hoping to make a quick sale. It doesn't matter whether you invited him ahead of time or he just stopped by unannounced. Either way, in order to complete a sale, he must furnish you immediately with:

A fully completed receipt or copy of any contract pertaining to the sale in whatever language (English, Spanish, etc.) that was principally used in the oral presentation. This document must show the date of sale, the name and address of the seller, and--in large type--a statement explaining that you may cancel the transaction at any time prior to midnight of the third business day (not counting Sundays and holidays) after the date of the transaction.

A notice of cancellation, which is a separate form that more fully explains your right to cancel without penalty, as well as the wording that may be used in making the cancellation. On this form, the seller must indicate the deadline by which you may cancel the transaction. If you decide to cancel, you can sign this form and deliver or mail it to the sender at an address shown on the form, or you can send a telegram of cancellation.

An oral explanation of your right to cancel. The seller is not allowed to ask you to sign a waiver of any of these rights, so really want (or think you want at the time) you have to give up your right to cancel the order within three days.

Now let's suppose that the salesperson has satisfied all these requirements and has convinced you to sign a sales contract. Perhaps you have even made a down payment in the form of cash or check, or have given up your old vacuum cleaner as a trade-in for your new one.

But then, the minute after the salesperson has gone out the door, or after you have had a chance to discuss the sale with your wife, your husband, or friends, you decide that the price is too high or that you really don't need that vacuum cleaner, new roof, or whatever it was that you agreed to buy. You want to cancel. What do you do?

The Better Business Bureau suggests that you, make sure that you date and sign the notice of cancellation that the buyer left with you at the time of the sale. Then deliver or mail it before the three-day deadline expires. And if it's already the evening of the final day, you could help to avoid a possible dispute by mailing the notice at a main post office or putting it in a mail box where the mail will be picked up and post-marked before midnight.

If you cancel during the three-day cooling-off period, the seller then--within 10 business days--must:

Refund any payment you have already made.

Return any item you traded in, in substantially as good condition as it was when the seller took it.

Cancel and return any contract, agreement, check or other negotiable item you signed in connection with the sale.

Make arrangements to have picked up at your house--or have you send back at the seller's expense--any goods which were left with you in connection with the sale. If the seller does not make such arrangements within 10 business days after receipt of your notice of cancellation, or if he or she fails to pick up the goods within 20 days of the date of your notice of cancellation you may keep them at no obligation.

As already noted, these procedures are minimum steps required under the new Federal Trade Regulation Rule that took effect June 7.

If you have questions about the regulations that apply in your area, contact your nearest Better Business Bureau, or your state or local government consumer office.

Meanwhile, if you have difficulties with a door-to-door salesperson, who does not appear to be the following requirements of the new Federal rules, you can complain to your Better Business Bureau or to the Bureau of Consumer Protection, Federal Trade Commission, Washington, D.C. 20580.

Health-wise

Medical research has exploded the old idea that a fat baby is a healthy baby. In fact doctors are sounding a warning to mothers that overfeeding babies and young children may doom them to a life of uncontrollable obesity.

A child whose overeating habits leads to the production of too many fat cells—tiny structures located between skin and muscles throughout the body but especially on the abdomen and around the heart and kidneys—will keep those cells throughout his life.

Even strenuous reducing later in life will only shrink the fat cells, not reduce their number. And each fat cell in some mysterious way tells the body it wants food. This may explain why some fat people find it almost impossible to lose weight even on a low-calorie diet and so often regain what they do lose.

A New York City health department study found that the mother rather than the baby usually molds the baby's appetite. The mothers in the study admitted that they followed the advice of relatives, television commercials and even old wives' tales more often than their doctors' suggestions about diet.

Even the finding that the fatter the parents, the fatter the child points not to a hereditary factor, but to the fact that a baby learns his eating habits from his family.

The mounting evidence that obesity is one of the most serious health problems in America today should lead parents to keep close check on their children's weight from birth. For information about what your baby should weigh and how to alter his diet to take off any excess pounds, see your family physician.

As children begin to share the family diet, special care should be given to provide balanced meals and eliminate all between-meal eating. The sweet, rich foods usually taken as snacks lead to overweight, tooth decay, and in later life to such diseases as diabetes and heart disease.

The old adage that "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," applies nowhere more aptly than to the problem of overweight.

Fair To Sponsor Free Entertainment

ROY CLARK
N. C. SYMPHONY
Sun. Oct. 20

Free entertainment will again be a major attraction at the State Fair in Raleigh October 18-26.

For the second straight year the general admission price will entitle fair goers to all Dorton Arena performances featuring bug name personalities. During opening night and again the first Saturday, Jerry Reed and Susan Raye will combine their talents with an all-star country and western show.

Sunday features Roy Clark, star of television's "Hee Haw," who will lend his varied instrumental abilities to the North Carolina Symphony.

Anita Bryant will sing for fairgoers Monday evening, while the Dixie Melody Boys will be on hand for Tuesday's awards ceremonies.

Wednesday and Thursday belong to popular vocalist Ray Stevens, and the entertainment package closes with appearances the final two nights by Ken Curtis, Festus Haggan of "Gunsmoke" fame.

On the outdoor stage, the list of free entertainment legthens: the Dupont Marionettes, with five shows daily; the Spurrilows with three shows daily October 18-21; and the Conti Family with three daily appearances October 22-26.

In the grandstand, the increasingly popular Tractor Pulling Contest will be staged October 23.

The Original Hanneford Circus and Jack Kochman's Hell Drivers will appear in the grandstand and other days of the fair. Admission is $1, $2 and $2.50

Tips For Consumers

At some point in your life, you may find yourself looking for a nursing home for an older member of your family. Finding a good nursing home will take time and effort, but if you know what to look for, you can improve your chances of finding a good one.

Even if you don't need to find one now, don't wait for a sudden emergency or serious illness to force you into a fast decision. The Better Business Bureau advises that you plan ahead, so that you will be better able to choose a good home should it become necessary.

Consider Alternatives

First of all, consider whether a nursing home is needed. There can be some alternatives. Supportive services for the aged at home may be available through community programs in your area, including mobile meals programs and transportation services. Counseling and emergency services from psychologists and social workers may be available. Or you might consider a trained nurse to treat the patient at home, or a homemaker to help with cooking, laundry and cleaning. Care at home could turn out to be less expensive than care at a nursing home, and better for the patient.

If the individual involved requires more intensive care or if home care is not feasible, then you should investigate all the nursing homes in your area.

If financial aid is necessary, find out if the homes you look at participate in Medicaid and Medicare programs. Medicaid pays bills for some low-income people, while Medicare will pay for most people over age 65. If a person qualifies, these programs can help out with the nursing care described below:

Intermediate care facility: some nursing supervision in addition to personal care.

Skilled care: nursing services available day and night.

Extended care: provides the above, plus medical supervision, as an extension of previous hospital care.

Make A Visit

When you look at a home, be sure to talk to the administrator and to the staff. It's also a good idea to make an unannounced visit, preferably at mealtime.

The BBB suggest you keep in mind the following questions, not to guarantee that you'll find a really good nursing home, but to help pinpoint the poor ones.

Do both the home and the administrator have current state licenses?

Will the patient be provided with a special diet or therapy if needed? (If the answer to the first two questions is no, then keep looking.)

What are the daily charges? What are the extras? (Some homes charge extra for wheelchairs, special mattresses, bed pans and even tissues.)

Does the home employ full-time staff physician? Are there physical facilities and staff for rehabilitation or physical therapy? Are they being used?

Do patients share rooms on the basis of their preferences and compatibility? Does the administrator show a genuine interest in the patient, including his or her needs and finances?

Do the patients look happy and alert, or drugged and docile? Are there odors or other signs of unsanitary conditions?

How does the staff treat the patients? Do they appear interested, or apathetic or over-worked?

Does each bed have curtains for privacy and a nurse call bell? Do hallways, stairs and bathrooms have grab rails? Are these areas well-lighted and obstructed?

Does the home meet necessary fire codes and hold periodic fire drills? Are exits marked clearly and not locked on the inside? Are fire doors kept closed? Is there an automatic sprinkler system?

How is the food? (You should sample it yourself.) Does the meal match the printed menu? Is the food served at normal meal hours?

Are there planned activities for the patients? What civil rights do the patients have?

Try to find out how patients and their relatives feel about the home.

Does the home's advertising and promotional material represent true conditions? For more information about homes in your area, as well as qualifications for Medicare and Medicaid, check with local welfare and Social Security offices, county medical societies, and the Better Business Bureau.

PLANTING TREES

North Carolina's forests are being reseeded at a high rate. It is estimated that the forest products industry alone planted over 53 million seedlings during the 1973-74 planting season. Practically all of these were pines.

Letter To Editor

Dear Gordon:

This is in reference to Mr. Gene Jones comments to the Editor, concerning the County Commissioners, and the "Bug."

Mr. Jones, being a citizen of Davie County, has every right to express his opinions, and I for one defend his constitutional rights to do so.

However, I also reserve the right to disagree with Mr. Jones, concerning "Big Jon" and the County Commissioners. If in Mr. Jones' opinion, this political community is as hopelessly addicted to the distortion, and magnification of being dogs, and jackasses, then we obviously can use more of these characters --- To illustrate ---

In recent years Davie County's citizens per capital income has become one of the highest in North Carolina, improvements in housing, roads, civic endeavors, youth recreation programs, church endeavors, Co-operation with your newspaper, and any number of private citizens working harmoniously to improve all the county's peoples.

The County Commissioners, past and present, have been instrumental in bringing a major portion of the present industries to Davie County. (They worked with the Mocksville Town Board and local attorneys.) With huge payrolls to this community.

In view of the above facts, the Commissioners are due a little levity.

Concerning the "Bug" which is a delightful little creature enjoyed by all children, and most adults, subsequently, I believe most people agree, its title of Davie County "Bug" is appropriate. Davie County has been my family's residence for twenty years and in my opinion (Excluding Mr. Jones) no finer people exist. Its not only a pleasure living here, but a considered privilege for my family.

Yours truly,

Jim Fuller

Woodleaf News

Several people in the community are planning to attend the Old Timers annual reunion in Asheville Saturday. This reunion is held every year the last Saturday in September and is mostly the men who ran and repaired the old Steam Locomotives and equipment on the Southern Railway.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ethridge and daughter, Debbie of Albany, Ga., are here this week with their parents, Mrs. A. G. Ethridge and Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Watson.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Ethridge returned this Wednesday from a camping trip in Tennessee and Kentucky.

Mrs. June Fleming is now at home and improving from surgery at the Baptist hospital in Winston-Salem.

Friends of Franklin Correll, who was a former resident of Woodleaf will be sorry to learn that he is real sick after surgery at Rex Hospital in Raleigh.

Mrs. Vetra Perrell had the misfortune to fall at her home last week breaking her arm and receiving other injuries.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Klutz and Mr. and Mrs. John Barker of Orangeburg, S. C. left Friday for an extended trip to Virginia, New York State and on into Canada. They plan to be gone for 10 days or 2 weeks.

Mrs. Reba McIntyre returned to her home last week after being a patient in Rowan Memorial Hospital for three weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Blackwell left Friday for a 2 weeks vacation to be spent in Florida. They plan to visit both the East and West coast before returning home.

Mr. and Mrs. Ezelle Moore have returned from Tupelo, Miss. where they attended the funeral of their sister.

Mrs. Kenneth Gillean is spending several weeks in Orlando, Florida with her son, James and family.

Mrs. Edna Lucky is a patient in Rowan Memorial Hospital for treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Watson and children Janice and Miriam spent the past week end at Murtle Beach.

Educational Classes Are Planned For Smith Grove Area

The Smith Grove Community Development Center hopes to bring some educational classes to the community.

If enough interest is shown the board has agreed to put a new furnace in for heat in three rooms for classes.

If anyone is interested in any type of adult education, such as sewing, welding, small engines, square dancing or any other, contact Mrs. Charles Williams 998-8303 or Mrs. Woody Bates 493-4336.

Large Crowd At Clam Bake

Approximately 200 people attended the Clam Bake Outing of the Ingersoll-Rand Tech Club held Saturday afternoon at Rich Park.

Scalloped oysters, steamed clams and scallops were served as well as additional dishes brought by wives of the club members.

Special guests were Mayor and Mrs. Aroen DeVito and Mr. and Mrs. Tim Huffman. Mr. Huffman is the manager of Lowe's Food of Mocksville. Lowe's provided the cooler for the seafood shipped from the coast.

Jim Runyan, president of the Tech Club, announced that he wished to express thanks to all the people who helped prepare and serve the food. "It was appreciated by everyone and everyone had a good time in spite of the rain which came to meal time. Someone lost a gold cased Timex watch with a black leather band and should anyone find it, please bring the watch to the Enterprise-Record office." The Country Express Band provided country music for the occasion.

The Tech Club is open to all Ingersoll-Rand employees and anyone can join by contacting one of the club officers. A full schedule of meeting is planned for next year and the Clam Bake will be an annual event.

Four Corners

Mr. and Mrs. Flake Baity visited Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Rattledge Sr. Sunday night.

Mrs. Myra Ellis underwent surgery Monday morning and is getting along o. k. at this time.

Mr. and Mrs. George Laymon visited Mr. and Mrs. Flake Baity late Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Reavis visited Mr. and Mrs. Burton Cranfill Sunday near Courtney.

National Teachers Exams To Be Given At Catawba

The National Teacher Examinations will be administered on November 9, 1974 at Catawba College which has been designated as a test center.

According to David J. Sessoms, Director of Institutional Studies, many college seniors preparing to teach and teachers applying for certification, licensure, or those seeking positions in school systems which encourage or require the NTE will be taking the tests. In addition, the designation of Catawba College as a test center for these examinations will give prospective teachers in this area an opportunity to compare their performance on the examinations with candidates throughout the country who take the tests, Sessoms said. Last year approximately 100,000 candidates registered to take the examinations which are designed to assess cognitive knowledge and understanding in professional education, general education and subject-field specialization. The examinations, which are prepared and administered by Educational Testing Service of Princeton, New Jersey, are limited to assessment of those aspects of teacher education that are validly and reliably measured by well constructed paper-and-pencil tests.

Bulletins of Information describing registration procedures and containing Registration Forms as well as sample test questions may be obtained from Sessoms' office, 111 Administration Building, or directly from the National Teacher Examinations, Educational Testing Service, Box 911, Princeton, New Jersey 08540.

Wayne Scott At Bryan College

Wayne Scott, II, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Scott, Route 2, Advance, North Carolina, is one of nearly 600 students enrolled this fall at Bryan College in Dayton, Tenn. in the highest enrollment in the school's history. He is an entering freshman, having graduated from Davie County High School in 1974.

Bryan College is a liberal arts undergraduate school with an evangelical Christian commitment which offers bachelor of arts and bachelor of science degrees. Its graduates are found in most of the states and in more than forty foreign countries as teachers, pastors, missionaries, business administrators and social workers.

Now in its forty-fifth year, Bryan is continuing to expand its facilities for the student body on its wooded campus, where a new chapel-auditorium with 1,000 seating capacity is the next major building project.

Terry Sammons is shown here holding large tomato grown by his grandfather, C. M. Latham, of Route 6. This tomato weighs 1 lb. 14 ounces.

SAFETY ACCREDITATION . . . Crescent Electric Membership Corp. has been awarded accreditation under the Rural Electric System Safety Accreditation program. Crescent EMC employees and their guests were honored Tuesday night, September 17, at an awards banquet held in the King Sirlain restaurant at Stony Point. B. B. Baker, left, safety officer with the North Carolina Department of Labor, made the award presentation to Earl Shoaf, center, Crescent EMC safety coordinator, and Donald Rice, manager of Crescent EMC.

Crescent Receives Safety Accreditation

Crescent Electric Membership Corporation has received safety accreditation from the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association's Safety Accreditation Program.

The objective of this program is to instill in directors, managers and employees of rural electric systems an increasing awareness of the importance of safety in their desire to operate safely; to educate them fully in the methods and procedures of promoting safe work practices; and to certify rural electric systems who not only agree to these objectives, but make them an integral part of their everyday operations.

Safety accreditation is a much-sought-for goal by cooperatives. To receive accreditation, a cooperative must meet rigid standards of operating practices and procedures above and beyond the recommended minimum safe practices.

Principal standards set for gaining accreditation are that the co-op must have a written safety policy endorsed by its top management. It must fulfill its obligation to build and maintain the electric plant in accordance with the National Electric Safety Code for the service and safety of members and the general public. There are other fixed requirements by NRECA and OSHA, covering personal protective equipment, housekeeping, fire control, accident investigation and reporting, first aid and the care of the injured.

Details of the co-op's safety program, evidence of safety training meetings for all employees, and comprehensive reports of accidents are some of the areas that must be submitted in writing for consideration and approval. Additional criteria for evaluating safe practices and procedures include inspection of facilities, tools, equipment, vehicles, and basic safety practices.

The cooperative was required to submit to three independent safety inspections, at unannounced times, be representatives of the local Job Training and Safety Program, the North Carolina EMC Job Training and Safety Committee, and the covering insurance company. These inspectors must then affirm that the cooperative is meeting the standards of the accreditation program and following the practices and procedures they have voluntarily set for themselves.

The award received by Crescent EMC signifies that the co-op has complied with all the safety requirements and provisions of the NRECA Safety Accreditation Program. Accreditation did not come easily or cheaply, but the safety of life and limb of employees is not to be considered lightly. Winning the award was a result of team effort by management and employees, once attained, it is the responsibility of these people to see that high standards of safety are maintained.

District Democratic Rally Is Thursday At Concord

Television star Tommy Faile and the Tunemasters will highlight the entertainment program at the gala 8th District Democratic Rally to be held at the Concord National Guard Armory Thursday, September 26.

James Lawler, co-chairman of the event, said pep bands and free food would also add to the festivities billed as one of the most exciting political rallies ever held in the district.

Faile is one of the most popular entertainers in the Southeast and has starred in his own show on WBTV Charlotte since 1969. The musical weekly program, which features the Tunemasters, is syndicated to many other television stations.

Prior to organizing his own show, the baritone from Lancaster, S. C. was a member of the Arthur Smith Show cast. In addition to being a performer, Faile has composed over 100 songs including the hit

"Phantom 309."

U. S. Senator Sam Ervin, Lieutenant Governor Jim Hunt, Congressional candidate Bill Hefner, Chapel Hill mayor Howard Lee, U.S. Senate candidate Bob Morgan, attorney general hopeful Rufus Edmisten, and Supreme Court Justice Susie Sharp and most of the North Carolina Council of State will also attend the rally.

Lawler said special arrangements have been made with local authorities to handle the bus loads of Democrats expected from each of the district's 11 counties. "We are very pleased with the response we are getting from the county party chairmen," Lawler said. "We are expecting a great crowd. Those coming will not be disappointed. A lot of fun and fellowship will be had by all."

The rally starts at 6:30 p.m. Thursday.

Davie Has 25 at UNC-G

The University of North Carolina at Greensboro has 8,759 students enrolled this fall, and among them are 25 students from Davie County.

Davie is among the 95 counties in the state that are represented by students on the UNC-G campus during the current academic year. The five North Carolina counties which do not have students on campus are Camden, Clay, Pamlico, Swain and Tyrrell.

The 8,759 students constitute a new record enrollment at UNC-G. UNC-G Chancellor James S. Ferguson, who released the figures, noted that the University's student body this fall has grown by 11.4 percent over the 7,856 enrollment of one year earlier.

The 11.4 percentage increase is the biggest single enrollment jump in 10 years at UNC-G. Not since 1964, when UNC-G first became coeducational at the undergraduate level, has registration climbed so quickly. That year the student enrollment rose by 13.7 percent.

Graduate students at UNC-G increased from 2,072 to 2,430. UNC-G has extensive offerings at the masters degree level, and offers doctoral studies in 12 concentrations within six academic departments.

Male enrollment rose sharply this year at UNC-G also. The number of men students now totals 2,726 - or 31 percent of the student body. That total includes 1,650 undergraduate male students and 1,076 in the Graduate School.

Thirty-six of the nation's 50 states have sent students to UNC-G during the current semester. Foreign countries represented include Canada, England, India, Thailand, France, Colombia, West Germany, Switzerland and the Colony of Hong Kong.

Lots Of Little Hams

This mama pig must surely know the feeling of the "Old Woman in the Shoe". She, too, has so many little ones that she doesn't know what to do.

Sixteen little piglets were born at the Everett Riddle home on the Yarkin Bailey Road, Sunday and it was more than the mama pig could care for.

The two little runts were given to Mrs. Riddle's sister, Mrs. Ruby McBride, to take care of. And with the help of Mrs. McBride's nine-year-old nephew, Wesley Hauser, these two little squealers, which Wesley has named "Arnold" and "Spot" are getting plenty of TLC (Tender Loving Care).

They feed then a special milk, which Mrs. McBride says is the same given to little calves, whenever they begin squealing. And for two-day old babies, they can surely make a racket. She kept them inside for a couple of nights but planned to put them outside with a light to keep them warm. Mrs. McBride, who never had children of her own, says it was quite an experience just buying her first baby bottles.

There are 15 little piglets surviving, valued at $40 each in six weeks, is $600. And the price will continue to grow as they do. That's not a bad start for someone who has never raised pigs before. (Photos by Jim Barringer)

Cooleemee News

Mrs. Marvin Wagner and family and Mrs. Thelma Bailey returned to their homes Sunday night after spending the weekend touring Washington, D. C. Their tour included visits to the White House, the Capitol and Arlington National Cemetery.

Mrs. Eleanor Frye entered Davie Hospital Sunday for treatment and observation.

Mrs. Cody Osborne is recovering nicely at Davie Hospital after undergoing surgery on Friday.

Other local residents undergoing treatment and observation at Davie Hospital include: Mrs. Sol Cook, who entered Friday, Taylor Call, and Mrs. Beulah Munday who was admitted on Monday.

Mrs. Lois Wilson and Ruth Veach attended the Golden Anniversary reception Sunday for Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Myers at their home in Advance.

Mr. and Mrs. Bud Overcash and daughter, Ellen were host at a cookout Saturday night at their home on Route 1, Woodleaf. Those attending included: Robert Cauble, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Yarbro, Kathryn Yarbro, Cecil Cauble, Jr. and Milas Cauble, all of Salisbury; Mr. and Mrs. Woody Yarbro and grandson, Mark Hillard of Cooleemee, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Myers, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Myers, Kim and Mrs. Ernest Carter of Mocksville and Mr. and Mrs. Lacy Yarbro of Davenport, Florida. Mrs. Lacy Yarbro also celebrated her birthday at this time.

TURKEYS

North Carolina will produce an estimated 15 million turkeys this year, an increase of 14 per cent over 1973 production. The growth rate has been rapid in recent years. For example, the state grew only 1.2 million turkeys in 1954.

Jones Reunion

The annual Jones reunion was held Sunday, September 22, at the home of Junior Carter on Route 2, Advance.

Those attending were: Mr. and Mrs. Jack Jones, Mr. and Mrs. George Jones and children, Mrs. Joe Jones all of Mocksville, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Watkins and children of Lexington, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nichols of Rock Hill, S. C., Mrs. Shirley Jacobs of Cooleemee, Mr. and Mrs. Ricky Carter and Danny, Mr. and Mrs. Junior Carter and children and Chris of Salisbury, Mrs. Ernest Carter of Mocksville and Mr. and Mrs. Lacy Yarbro of Davenport, Florida. Mrs. Lacy Yarbro also celebrated her birthday at this time.

Cooleemee Senior Citizens

The Cooleemee Senior Citizens held a cook-out Monday during their regular meeting at the fellowship hall of the First Baptist Church with 61 persons, including two visitors attending.

Following a brief business meeting, the group enjoyed hamburgers and hot dogs with all the trimmings. Those having birthdays during the month of September were also honored with birthday cakes made by some of the ladies.

The next meeting will be held on October 14, at which time the newly elected officers will take over their duties. The new officers are: Fred Murphy, president; Sid Benson, vice president; Mrs. Thelma Grebory, chaplain, Mrs. Ethel Gibson, secretary; Mrs. Albert Wagner, assistant secretary; William Owens, treasurer and Russell Ridenhour, assistant treasurer.

Consumer Tips — Buying Furniture

If you've ever bought furniture, you might remember the experience as being overwhelming. "Danish mahogany," "walnut finish," "fruitwood finish" - what did these terms mean? Did "walnut finish" mean the piece was made of walnut?

Now you can expect to find labels that really identify the materials used in new furniture.

Under the new guidelines, which became effective March 21, furniture advertised as maple or walnut must actually be made from that type of wood. Veneered construction must also be disclosed.

The FTC says, for example, that when wood names are used merely to describe a simulated finish, it must be made clear on the label that the names are descriptive only of the simulated finish. The label must say "walnut color" rather than "walnut finish."

When plastic or vinyl, or other man-made materials are used, this must be clearly stated where the lack of identification could have the capacity and tendency or effect of misleading or deceiving. For example, when a covering of simulated leather is fabric-backed vinyl, it must be stated as such.

There are other provisions in the new guides:

- Terms clearly describing furniture styles, such as French Provincial, may still be used.
- Manufacturers may not use the names of countries as descriptions unless the piece came from that country.
- Retailers must retain manufacturers' information-carrying tags on the furniture unless they are replaced with new tags with complete information.

After reading these labels carefully, the best way to get the most for your furniture dollar is to learn how to determine quality. Here are a few Better Business Bureau reminders:

- Furniture should stand firmly and flatly on the floor.
- All joinings should be clean and nearly invisible.
- Drawers should slide effortlessly and have center guides or treads; look for stops that prevent you from pulling the drawer all the way out; when closed, drawers should fit flush to the furniture surface.
- Drawers should have reinforced corners and dovetail (interlocking) joints.
- The back of a piece of furniture should be a nicely finished piece of wood - not heavy cardboard or unfinished, low-quality wood. Undersides should be well sanded and smooth (and stained to match the rest of the piece.)
- Upholstered furniture presents a special kind of problem. It is difficult to determine the quality of the construction beneath that beautiful materials. Ask the salesperson for the literature that accompanies the piece. If this is not available, ask informed questions.
- Is the frame made of seasoned wood - corner-blocked, glued and double-doweled for extra strength?

--Will the upholstery remain firmly in place?

--Are springs hand-tied with a jute webbing base? Is the webbing reinforced by metal strips on the outside?

--Are coils mounted on steel wire supports?

--Are the springs the no-sag type?

--What type of insulating material is used between the springs and the filling?

If you've followed these tips and still have a complaint, you can do something about it.

Now, in addition to the Better Business Bureau, the Furniture Industry Consumer Action Panel (FICAP) may help to solve problems. Launched last year by the Southern Furniture Manufacturers Association (which has about 35 percent of the US furniture market), FICAP will accept consumer complaints and attempt to resolve them. If you can't settle the dispute with the retailer, contact the manufacturer. If there is no response to the complaint within a reasonable period of time, you can contact FICAP - if FICAP's contact produces no resolution, the complaint will go to FICAP's panel of experts for suggested solutions.

NUCLEAR RISKS

In 1980, when there will be about 100 nuclear power plants operating in the United States, there is a chance that an accident at one of them will kill you. Don't plan to lose any sleep over it, however, since that chance will be about one in 300 million.

Although it is impossible to remove all risk from any human endeavor, a newly released report by the Atomic Energy Commission demonstrates convincingly that the probability of harm to human life or health from nuclear power plants is extremely minimal. The possibility of a nuclear plant accident causing 1,000 or more deaths, for example, is about the same as that of a meteor falling on an American city with the same consequences.

These findings are from the report, "Reactor Safety Study," an effort involving 60 specialists and 50 man-years of work under the direction of Dr. Norman C. Rasmussen, an MIT professor of nuclear engineering. It is the most authoritative answer to date to Ralph Nader and other alarmists who insist the United States is in mortal danger from its nuclear power plants.

"The fact is that nuclear accident probabilities are so low that they are insignificant compared to the overall risks due to other man-made and natural risks," says the study. "The safety design of reactors includes a series of systems to prevent the overheating of fuel and to control potential releases of radioactivity from the fuel," the study explains. "It is significant that not once in some 200 reactor years of commercial operation or reactors of the type considered in the report has there ever been fuel melting."

The report also debunks the spectre of a plant exploding like a bomb, noting that "it is impossible for nuclear power plants to explode like a nuclear weapon" because the fuel used in such plants contains only a small fraction of the type of uranium used in weapons.

Although the report doesn't speculate on the possibility of sabotage at a nuclear plant, it at least allows us to rest easier over the known factors of risk. With the U.S. facing a demand for electricity that is expected to double every 10 years, the only logical conclusion from the study is that we must push ahead vigorously on developing our nuclear potential.

Cooleeemee Class Of 1954 Holds 20th Anniversary Reunion

Class members of Cooleeemee High School 1954 graduating class were together Saturday night for a reunion on the 20th Anniversary of their graduation.

This was a night for remembering as 20 of the 28 members, husbands, wives, teachers and guest gathered for an evening of fellowship, food and reminiscing at the Cooleeemee Recreation Center. More than 80 persons attended. One member is deceased, Bill Jarvis, and was remembered with a moment of silent prayer by those present.

All classmates introduced their families and gave their place of residence. The special guest were also recognized by class president, Terry Dedmon. They were: V. G. Prim, principal, and Mrs. Prim; Joe Sink of Lexington, teacher; Tom Ridenhour, teacher; and Joe Gregory, the class mascot, his wife and son.

Letters were read during the evening from Robert Young, a teacher from Spruce Pines, and Roberta Shepherd Stutts of Winston-Salem, who were unable to attend. Reports were also given on the remaining class members who were not present.

Merchants in the Cooleeemee Shopping Center and the Davie County Enterprise-Record donated articles for prizes won by Norman Bowles of Wrightsville beach who traveled the longest distance; Margie Wagner Dedmon of Cooleeemee and Alvin Shaver of Salisbury who had changed the least; Earl Seamon of Charlotte and Mary McClannan Tussey of Lexington who had changed the most; Rilla Nichols Lagle for being married the longest. Door prizes were also won by Clarence Spillman, Bud Ridenhour, Terry Dedmon, Berlie Wagner Wyatt, Bob Dudley and Mary Anne Tutterow Carter.

Mascot Joe Gregory was also presented with a "Pepsi and a Honey Bun" in memory of the daily trips to "Rob's", a near-by grocery store where several senior boys would take him for his favorite treat. Although there was no name on the gift, Joe publicly thanked Jim Osborne.

The Class History, Last Will and Testament and Class Prophecy was read, following a picnic-style luncheon.

The center was decorated in the class colors of blue and white, highlighted with posters containing old photographs, newspaper clippings and various mementos of activities during their school days. At the conclusion of the evening, movies of "Old Cooleeemee" which were made in the early 40's by the late Kermit Howard, were shown, compliments of Charlie Barnhardt of Mocksville.

Plans were made to hold another reunion in five years and a committee was selected to make arrangements. Margie Dedmon, Mary Anne Carter, Bud Ridenhour and Jim Holt make up the reunion committee.

UNC-G Enrollment Rises Sharply 8,759

Enrollment growth at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro reached a 10-year high this fall as student registration surged to a record of 8,759.

That amounts to an 11.4 percent increase-or 903 more students over last fall's 7,856 total. The percentage jump is the largest since the fall of 1964 when UNC-G admitted its first male undergraduates. That year enrollment climbed 13.7 percent.

Prior to the opening of school, UNC-G officials has first projected the headcount figure at 8,140, and this was later upped to about 8,200. The final enrollment figure exceeds that by more than 500 students.

When asked for his reaction to the enrollment surge, UNC-G Chancellor James S. Ferguson commented, "We're certainly pleased with this positive response to what the University is offering. And we're gratified to have the opportunity to serve more people. At the same time, we are very much aware of the additional responsibility this places on us."

Dr. Ferguson noted that the enrollment increase came both at the graduate and undergraduate levels. The number of graduate students increased from 2,072 last year to 2,430-a 17.2 percent increase. At the undergraduate level, registration climbed from 5,784 last fall to 6,329 for a 9.4 percent hike.

Male enrollment rose sharply this year at UNC-G, which has a Woman's College until 1963. The number of men students now totals 2,726-or 31 percent of the student body. That total includes 1,650 undergraduate male students and 1,076 in Graduate School.

The heavy enrollment is expected to affect UNC-G's operations in several ways, particularly with regard to its budget and parking spaces for cars on campus.

Chancellor Ferguson pointed out, however, that the restructuring system of higher education, the UNC General Administrative Office in Chapel Hill and the Board of Governors are authorized to adjust budget figures to reflect greater enrollment than was anticipated on an individual campus.

"We are in the progress of seeking an adjustment in our budget in order to serve these additional students," stated Dr. Ferguson.

He also noted that the increase in commuting students had underscored the need at UNC-G for additional parking facilities. "And we intend to turn our energies toward development of additional parking areas," he stated.

The total enrollment figures also include increases in the special adult program for non-traditional students, up from 201 last year to 511, and in the number of transfer students from other colleges.

Multiple Support of Relative

Gary, Harry and Barry each contribute one-third of the support of their aged mother who has no other income. It is their understanding that none of them can claim her as a dependent since you must contribute more than one-half of a person's total cost of support in order to claim them as a dependent. Are they right?

Normally you must contribute more than half of a dependent's support before you will be entitled to an exemption. Here, however, we have a potential exception. The three brothers can fill out a multiple support statement (Form 2120) and take turns claiming her. Thus, each one would get an additional exemption every third year.

Fires

There were two fires reported in the county over the past week.

The Cornatzer-Dulin Volunteer Fire Department answered a call on Monday around 6 p.m. involving an overheating stove in Bixby.

On Tuesday, the William R. Davie Volunteer Fire Department responded to a call from a burning Holly Farms Tractor-trailer rig. The fire occurred at the intersection of Highway 601 and Cana Road around 6:45 a.m.

Farmington Bazaar

Mrs. Rufus Brock is shown above loading some of the items which will be for sale at the Bazaar and Bake Sale at the Farmington United Methodist Church Saturday, September 28, from 1 to 7 p. m. Besides baked goods, there will be plants, garden produce, crafts, needlework, "white elephant" articles and eats for sale. The ladies are still accepting items from anyone who wishes to contribute. Proceeds will go to the Church Building Fund. Booths will be set-up on the lawn of the church which is situated at the intersection of the Farmington Road and Highway 801.

Folk - Ways

by Roger Whitener

FOLK-WAYS for this week consists of a series of reminiscences by Mrs. Thelma Johnson, of Bristol, Virginia. She moves easily from topic to topic, ranging from pioneer foods to medicine shows, providing enjoyment for herself and the reader along the way.

Her letter reads: "Dear Mr. Whitener: I read your column in the BRISTOL HERALD COURIER paper. I really enjoy reading about the "good old days". It helps brighten my day. And it sure takes me back. Guess most any one over sixty-five has "memories" of those gone but not forgotten days. And judging from some of your readers, I guess life goes on about the same all around us. And I sure do remember the old time "going ons" around Bristol where I was when I was real young.

"I remember my mother and both my grand-mas making "apple-butter", hominy, "Iye soap", drying apples and 'punkin' and drying green beans on a string. When dried, they were called "leather britches". You had to soak them overnight to soften them for cooking. They were dry and rattled like dry 'corn shucks'.

"Each year I dreaded "Molasses making time". I sure hated the "sulphur-molasses bit". However I did like eating them after putting a pinch of baking soda in them turning them yellow like pulled taffy candy.

"I loved the wild strawberries and wild salad greens. The greens sure had some wild names--"polk", "lamb's-quarter", and "shepherd's hook", speckled britches or some such name. Do I ever remember my Daddy gathering Ginseng and Golden seal roots! Sometimes he would take me with him to carry the flour sacks he used to put the roots in.

"Back in those days, flour was put in cloth bags instead of paper ones like now. Golden Eagle flour was its name. Arbuckles coffee was a treat for the kids. A stick of pepper mint candy was in each bag. The ladies found a use for the flour sacks. The bags were bleached by boiling them to remove the lettering and used to make bed linens and children's underclothes.

"The material used for the bags was a sort of soft broad cloth like material. When rightly made, washed and ironed, they were pretty. Lucky was the little girl that had lace trimmed under clothes. Only the so called very rich could order ready made things from "The Sears Robuck" wish book.

"What the folks made and used for medicine would make a dog sick. Yet strangely enough, some of their "concoctions" worked. I remember the "Jockey-Lots" here very well. Once each year a medicine show supposedly from New Orleans (always from New Orleans) would set up on the lot in Winston Alley between Lee and Moore streets. The "barker" would chant like an auctioneer the qualities of his medicine. It was supposed to cure any and everything. You name it and it cured it. It was a priceless "potion" to heal man and beast and even make hair grow. All just for the price of one ($1.00) dollar. And to prove it they brought out a lovely woman about 20 or 25 years old. About five feet three with thick red hair falling down her shoulders to the floor.

"For free they put on a pretty good show on the platform to entice people into the one tent they had. There were "black face minstrels", tap-dancing, a clown, a live boa constrictor, fiddle and banjo players, a real live Indian in full war dress. To a child that was wonders of wonders.

"Mr. Whitener, in one of your columns you mentioned in recalling their good old times people jumped from one thing to another and never wrote long on any one subject. (That's life. Life is made up of a series of events, not just one thing happening at one time.) These events happen one at a time and then like a recording tape played back, the memory runs runs them back just as they happened-one thing at a time. "Memory tries to recall and cover as many as possible of these events on the mind are recalled by memory. Are recalled by memory, grass hopper method, just as they happened. Our minds are smarter than we think. To dwell on any one thing too long would be dull and distasteful. Suppose one reader wrote you on one subject about seven pages on how daddy dug "ginseng" root with whatever he dug it with? Or how Mamma made two big hot pots of apple butter? The mind gives out just enough to make it really interesting. And tells it like it is. Writing a book may be to dwell longer on any given subject. I don't know--I've never written a book. Just perhaps that is what accounts for so many dull, uninteresting books. Maybe? Who Knows?"

Rekown Author To Speak At WSU

Alex Haley, internationally known author, world traveler and lecturer, will discuss "Black Heritage - A Saga of Black History" at Winston-Salem State University in Hauser Student Union on Thursday, October 3rd at 8:15 p. m. This lecture is the second program of W. S. U.'s 1974-75 Lyceum Events-Performing Arts and Lecture Series. It is the only event in this series for which no admission will be charged. Haley is probably best known for his book, "The Autobiography of Malcolm X," an "as-told-to" story which was the result of two years of interviewing Malcolm X. The book was published in 1965 and has sold over three and one-half million copies in eight languages. It has been named among the "Ten Best American Books of the 1960's Decade." Most recently Haley has been primarily engaged in a long, intensive research project. Pursuing across five years and three continents a few slender, oral history, family lineage clues passed down to him in Tennessee by his maternal grandmother, Haley, finally has traced that side of his family back to a Mandingo youth named Kunta Kinte, from the small village of Juffure, The Gambia, West Africa. This slave, Haley's seventh-generation forefather, was transported to Colonial America in the American slaveship, "Lord Ligonier," which arrived in Annapolis, Maryland, September 29, 1767.

Deaths And Funerals

JOHN GRADY REAVIS

John Grady Reavis, 81, of Rt. 5, Mocksville died Friday in Davie County Hospital. He was a retired farmer and was born in Davie County December 9, 1892, son of the late Whitaker and Nancy Reavis. He was twice married, first to the late Phosa Roberts and then to Mae Eaton Reavis, who survives. Other survivors are two sons, Lawrence Reavis of Rt. 6 and Glen Reavis of Route 5, Mocksville; one daughter, Mrs. Bruce Beck of Rt. 6, Mocksville; one brother, T. Z. Reavis, Rt. 6, Mocksville; seven grandchildren; and two great grandchildren; one stepson, John Eaton of Spencer. Funeral services were conducted Saturday at Eaton Funeral Chapel and burial followed in Wesley Chapel United Methodist Church cemetery. The Rev. Lewis Williams, the Rev. Grady Tutterow and the Rev. Elmer Day officiated.

HORACE JONES

Horace (Jonsey) Jones, 69, of Wichita Falls, Tex., the first man to bring Hereford cattle from Texas to North Carolina, died Monday at Wichita General Hospital. Jones, who moved to Winston-Salem 23 years ago, was manager of Faraway Farms in Winston-Salem until 1972. He retired from the farm and moved to Wichita Falls. While in North Carolina, Jones owned show horses and organized some of the first rodeos in this state. The funeral was held Wednesday, September 18, at Owen-Brumley Funeral Home in Wichita Falls. Burial was in Henrietta, Texas. Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Helen Jones of the home; three daughters, Mrs. Betty Walton and Mrs. Edna Wyatt of Wichita Falls; one son, David (Red) Jones of Rt. 2, Mocksville and one brother, Clyde Jones of High Point.

L. GLENN SMITH

Levi Glenn Smith, 72, of Rt. 1, Advance, died at his home Saturday morning. Services were held Monday at Eaton's Funeral Chapel with the Rev. Donald Funderburk and the Rev. Paul Hart officiating. Burial was in Bethlehem United Methodist Cemetery. Born in Davie County December 5, 1901, Mr. Smith was the son of the late C. H. and Ada Etchison Smith. He was a retired farmer. Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Nannie Sofley Smith; two sister, Mrs. Claude Dunn and Mrs. Flossie Beauchamp, both of Rt. 1, Advance; one brother, O. H. Smith of Rt. Advance.

BELVA EATON

Miss Belva Eaton, 71, of Lynn Haven Nursing Home in Mocksville, died September 17th at the home. She was born in Davie County to Columbus and Bettie Ann Hunter Eaton. The funeral was held last Thursday at Eatons Funeral Home Chapel. Burial was in Chestnut Grove United Methodist Church cemetery.

THOUGHTS

From The Living Bible

"God has abandoned us," you cry. I'll tell you why; it is because the Lord has seen your treachery in divorcing your wives who have been faithful to you through the years, the companions you promised to care for and keep. You were united to your wife by the Lord. In God's wise plan, when you married, the two of you became one person in his sight. And what does he want? Godly children from your union. Therefore guard your passions! Keep faith with your wife.

Methodist Women To Hold Mini-Mission Workshop

All members of the United Methodist Women are urged to attend a Mini-Mission Workshop to be held on Sunday, September 29, from 2:30 P.M. to 4:30 P.M., at the First Methodist Church in Mocksville.

All presidents, vice-presidents, and chairpersons of Christian Global Concerns are especially urged to attend.

Green Meadows

The Green Meadows church bonds are now available for anyone who is interested in the purchase of these bonds. Please contact Gray Matthews, Norris Boyer or Jimmy Bowles.

Mr. and Mrs. David Felts proudly announce the arrival of a daughter, Jennifer Rae, born Friday, September 21.

Mrs. Sallie Riddle has been confined to the Davie County hospital for 8 days with plebitis. She was improved on Sunday and is hoping to be able to return home soon.

Mrs. Kenneth Smith is recuperating at her home and hoping to be able to have a lighter cast applied to the broken leg soon.

The well known Bill Sauer Evangelistic team will conduct a crusade at Calvary Baptist Church on Peace Haven Road September 25 - 29. Rev. Mark Corts, the pastor at Calvary is well known in this area.

Mr. and Mrs. Kiser of Frederick, Md. were houseguests from Friday until Monday of Mr. and Mrs. Gray Matthews.

The christianaires Quartet will present a program of song at the Bethlehem Church next Sunday night, Sept. 29. Jim Zimmerman was honored on his birthday Sunday with a luncheon at his home. Sixty relatives and the Rev. and Mrs. Warford shared the occasion and lunch with him.

Several in this area remain on the sick list including Mrs. Lillian Smith and David Weatherman at Forsyth Memorial hospital. Frank King is seriously ill at his home.

Another familiar face will be missing in this area with the death Saturday of Glen Smith. He was a resident of the Bethlehem community and was a man who was well liked and respected by all who knew him. May his wife, family and friends receive comfort in the knowledge that their loss is shared by their neighbors.

Community Baptist To Hold Special Revival Services

The Community Baptist Church, located on Gladstone Road, Coolemeec will have revival services this week.

Services, to be held each evening at 7:30 p.m., began Wednesday, September 25th, with Rev. Grady Trivette of Yadkinville as guest speaker.

Friday and Saturday nights the guest speaker will be the Rev. Dewey Almond of Friendship Baptist Church of Asheboro. His congregation and singers will have charge of the singing.

There will also be visiting singers from the Crestview Baptist of Winston-Salem. The Rev. Martin Stubbs, pastor, invites the public to attend.

DON'T BLAME GOD
Go ahead... blame God for the hungry and the poor. Go ahead... blame God for war and violence. Yet we have had this thing about doing it ourselves. We have faith that man will some day pry loose all of the uglies inside us and we'll all be happy. Yet... God says there's a choice. Man and his way, or an inner peace and purpose that comes when you ask Jesus into your life. Go ahead and blame God. But the only thing He is guilty of is love.

Smith Grove Methodist Set Service For Missions

The Commission on Missions will sponsor a special service at the Smith Grove United Methodist Church on Sunday, September 29, at 11 a. m.

The guest minister will be the Rev. Neal Wilcox.

The Smith Grove church will "show" the mission with much needed articles and an offering will be received for the work.

Mr. Wilcox, a native of Kinston, N. C., graduated from Bob Jones University with a B. A. Degree in 1961. He did post graduate work for two years, after which he remained on the staff for four years as kitchen manager of the University Dining Hall.

Rev. Wilcox has been in Winston for 7 years as Director and Superintendent of the Winston-Salem Rescue Mission. The Rescue Mission was organized by pastors and concerned business men of that area who felt we needed some place for the destitute men to have a new start with both physical and spiritual assistance available. In the past 7 years the Rescue Mission has provided food, clothing and shelter to hundreds of men in need as well as assisting needy families in the area.

Suffering Is Good!

by Avery Ferguson
Pastor of Cooleemee Methodist Church

Suffering is good, and I hope that this thought will come in loud and clear. I was in a prayer breakfast meeting recently in which the leader perpetrated the idea that suffering is evil and of the devil. If we had enough faith, we could remove it. Said he quoting Christ, "If two or three will ask anything in my name, I will do it." I do not doubt that that suffering may be considered evil in a philosophical, or psychological or theological sense. Nevertheless, suffering is good because of the results in us.

It produces an indomitable spirit. It is somewhat like the V.W. I drive. It will just keep on getting it in third gear. Once suffering has been our companion and we have been knocked down, we have learned how to get up. We have learned how to stand straight and tall, and reach for the heavens above, and the sunlight and open spaces.

It produces an anecdotal attitude. In "Fiddler on the Roof", the leading character is told by the Russian authorities that his property is to be confiscated, and that all must leave the village. He quips, "I guess that is the reason the Jews wear their hats." We learn in suffering to not take ourselves too seriously, and to have a cavalier spirit toward life.

Suffering produces kindness. On Marie's Height at Fredricksburg, Virginia, General Robert E. Lee's soldiers faced the Union Forces and really stonewalled them. The Union forces died all day. During the fight, a Rebel soldier from South Carolina, carried water from a deep well all day long to the dead and dying Union forces. This is real mercy that is born of suffering.

Suffering produces courage. General Stonewall Jackson's life is reconstructed at V.M.I. in Virginia. One of the statements of Jackson was, "Never take counsel of your rears." This is the spirit born in suffering. You learn to live with a reckless abandon; appreciating each day as though it were the last one that you had to live; thanking God continually for the loveliness it brings.

Suffering produces a good conscience. Once you have had an ego shattering experience, you fight back asking, "Why, O God, why?" This leads one to a clean life and clear conscience of all disentangling things. It is a catharsis of the soul. And, oh how wonderful the experience once it comes.

Suffering produces a love for people. All people are hurting. Some are in psychic pain, others emotional stress, or physical hurts, or spiritual distress, but all are hurting. This causes us to reach out as the Good Samaritan to our brothers. We do not resent them. We do not grasp for their power. We do not react unpleasantly to them. We see the sick bed they are carrying around with them, and we truly enter into the wholeness of life.

Therefore suffering is good, and I believe that God is working in the midst of it to obtain wonderful results: a life not centered in self; one concerned about his neighbor, and one hundred and eighty degrees turned toward God - our only hope. So praise the Lord for suffering. It is good.

Bits Of Life

Don Moore

The Little Old Lady

By ROSCOE BROWN FISHER

While down street the other day, the large doors of a downtown church caught my attention. Finding them unlocked, I slipped quietly inside. A back pew seemed sufficiently inviting for a few minutes of meditation.

Quickly I found myself in a whole new world. What a thrill! Away from the tensions of the day. The sanctuary opened the doors of my heart. A stately pulpit, multi-colored ceiling, lovely stained glass windows cast kaleidoscopic patterns upon the chancel floor.

An artistic painting of some biblical character — a real work of art — lifted my hungry soul still farther from the outside world.

It was then that my attention was drawn to the large—apparently lonely—cross upon the communion table down front.

Impulsively, I found myself drawn down the long aisle for the sole purpose of determining how heavy the cross. Ashamed of taking such liberty, I lifted the elegant piece of brassware from the table, draped in white.

The cross was much heavier than I had supposed.

Then I did an odd thing — tucked the large cross under my arm and walked back and forth from one side of the chancel to the other. The cross grew heavier as I walked slowly, deliberately from side to side.

Suddenly, I became boldly aware of the unusual liberty I had taken, and what if some one were to enter the sanctuary. I could be in a mental institution before sundown.

And then it happened. I turned . . . and there stood a little old lady in the back of the church.

" . . . I . . . was just lifting the cross," I said, attempting to explain my peculiar actions. The little lady surprised me by walking rather confidently to the front. Still shaken up a bit, I added, "Care to lift it? It's pretty heavy."

Using both hands, she lifted the cross from my arm. "It is heavy," she remarked, taking a deep breath. I asked, "Have you ever held a cross this heavy?"

The little old lady did not answer immediately. I placed the cross at its place on the communion table. Then the little old lady said, "When you are as old as I, you will come to know there are many heavy crosses."

Rev. Archie Jones To Conduct Revival At First Baptist

Rev. Archie Jones, a charter member of Blaise Baptist Church, who held the first revival services there in 1960 will be conducting services beginning with the Morning Worship on Sunday, October 6th, and continuing through Sunday morning, October 13th. The services will begin at 7:30 each evening.

Blaise, which began as a mission endeavor of the First Baptist Church of Mocksville in April 1960, was established as a church on October 2, 1961. Eighty-four charter members held their meetings in a cement block building on a lot donated by the late Mr. Frost on the Yadinville Road. Now the 235 members are stewards of a $160,000 dollar investment in modern buildings located on five acres of land in a fast growing section of Davie County just off Interstate 40.

Rev. Dewey James was called as the first pastor and led the membership into the building of a magnificent A-frame sanctuary. Patrick Kelly was the second pastor and encouraged the members to build a nice parsonage on Country Lane. Serving as the pastor now is Rev. Alvis Cheshire, a native Mocksvillian, who has with the aid of the deacons, spurred the church on to greater accomplishments such as the building of a modern all-electric Sunday School facility and fellowship hall which is used as a Junior Church for the fifty children that are brought in on the church buses which are named "Charlie Brown" and "Traillblazer."

Archie V. Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Jones, is a graduate of Mocksville High School, Mars Hill College, Wake Forest University, and the Southeastern Baptist Seminary. He served as pastor of the First Baptist Church of Belhaven, N. C. during his last year in seminary and for a year after graduation. In 1959, he and his wife, the former Julie Hough of Charlotte, left for San Jose, Costa Rica where they studied Spanish at the International Language School. The Southern Baptist Mission Board then assigned them to Quayaquil, Ecuador in South America. They worked in the coastal town of Quayaquil for two terms for a total of eight years. For the last four years, their assignment was in the mountains of Ecuador in the beautiful town of Cuenca. Their plans are to return here after their furlough. During their furlough they are residing in the South Fork community of Winston-Salem with their children; Gwendolyn, Archie Jr., and David.

Rev. and Mrs. Jones join with Rev. Cheshire and the members of the church in inviting all their friends in Davie County to come and be with us in our revival meeting.

Revival Begins At Edgewood

Revival services will begin at Edgewood Baptist Church, Cooleemee on Monday, September 30 and continue through October 5, at 7:30 p. m. each evening.

The Rev. Melvin Greene, pastor of Rich Fork Baptist Church in Thomasville will be the visiting evangelist.

Formerly of Greenville, S. C., Rev. Greene graduated from North Greenville Junior College and Furman University where he earned his B. A. degree. He also attended the Southeastern Seminary and the School of Pastoral Care at N. C. Baptist Hospital in Winston-Salem.

He has held pastorates at Woodlawn Baptist Church in Greenville, Cannon Memorial in Central, S. C., North Laurinburg Baptist Church in Laurinburg, N. C., Erlanger Baptist Church, Lexington and has presently served Rich Fork for the past five years.

He is married to the former Margaret Rich and they are the parents of two children, Dale, 16, and Sheila, 10.

There will be special singing each evening featuring "The Believers" from Cooleemee, "Johnny Burdette and Family" of Lexington and other visiting groups.

The youth choir from Rich Fork Baptist Church will be the featured singers on Saturday night.

Edgewood pastor is the Rev. Fred Carlton.

Freedom

Some fancy they may achieve freedom by doing as they please, by living undisciplined, uncontrolled lives. And they are surprised when they end up enslaved by some habit, some stranger mind, some malicious evil which resides within themselves or in society. As one writer put it, "They think they are emancipated, when they are only unbuttoned."

O. Carroll Arnold

Freedom of Print

Let people talk, let them blame you, condemn you, imprison you, even hang you, but publish what you think. It is not a right, but a duty, a strict obligation laid upon anyone who thinks, to express what he thinks in public for the common good . . . To speak is a good thing, to write it better, to print an excellent thing.

POWER LINE

Direct answers to the questions most often asked about Duke Power and your electric service.

Q Duke Power has said that nuclear power plants are cleaner and more economical than coal-burning plants. So why are you building a huge new coal-burning plant near Winston-Salem?

A In the late 1960s, we had to decide whether to design the Belwevs Creek Steam Station, near Winston-Salem, as a coal-fired or nuclear power plant. At that time, coal prices were much lower. From the cost standpoint, the choice of fuels was a tossup. The deciding factor was timing — it takes about two years longer to build a nuclear plant. The only way to complete the new plant by the time its output would be needed was to make it coal-burning.

Q Last weekend at Lake Norman, I caught a bass with a yellow tag in its back. What does the tag mean?

A Frankly, we're surprised you caught one so soon. Our fisheries biologists are now tagging different kinds of fish in Lake Norman as part of a continuing study of power plant effects on fish and other aquatic life. Tag collection stations will soon be located at each of the Duke Power access areas at the lake, so that fishermen can leave the tags in special envelopes.

In the meantime, if you catch a tagged fish in Lake Norman, mail the tag to: Duke Power Company Environmental Laboratory Route 3, Box 90 Huntersville, N.C. 28078

Please tell us the date the fish was caught, where you caught it, its length and weight and any unusual physical conditions. Include your name and address, so we can send you a package of plastic worms to thank you for your help.

Q Duke Power has a lower rate for customers with electric water heaters. Why don't you have a lower rate for people with air conditioners, too?

A One of the biggest expenses in providing your electric service is the tremendous cost of building the generating plants and transmission and distribution systems. These costs can be recovered at a lower unit cost for electricity if the facilities are operated (and producing revenues) on a constant basis. Water heaters, of course, operate at an almost steady rate year-around. Air conditioners, on the other hand, operate only during the warmest months of the year.

Q If Duke Power loses money through the operation of Crescent Land and Timber Corporation (a Duke Power subsidiary), do you make up the loss by charging more for electricity?

A No. The financial affairs of Crescent Land and Timber Corporation are entirely separate from those of Duke Power. Its profit or loss has absolutely no effect on Duke Power's electric rates.

Q Since electric rates have to be increased to cover the higher cost of fuel and the tremendous construction costs of steam-electric plants, why doesn't Duke Power build more hydroelectric stations?

A Hydroelectric dams look impressive, but the amount of electricity they produce is rather small in relation to our demand. Although we've already harnessed most of the available water power in the Piedmont Carolinas, our hydro plants account for less than ten per cent of our total generating capacity. Even if power dams were built on all the remaining large streams in our area, their combined output would only equal our expected demand growth for one year. It's not enough. The only way we can keep up with demand for the power is by building more steam-electric stations.

Q How can I read my own electric meter?

A It's really quite easy. Our little booklet, "Your Electric Meter: The Story in a Nutshell," tells how. Ask for a free copy at your local Duke Power office.

Do you have a question about Duke Power or your electric service? We'll be pleased to answer it. Just call your local Duke Power office...or write to Duke Power, Public Information, P.O. Box 2178, Charlotte, N.C. 28242.

"Lost John" Of Cooleemee Champion Fiddler Player Of North Carolina

"Lost John," a fiddle player for more than 40 years, has twice been named N.C. State Champion.

"Just call me "Lost John."

This is how Jesse Ray of Cooleemee always introduces himself. And to folks who enjoy "bluegrass" music and attends the old-time Fiddlers Conventions, it is a name with a familiar ring.

"Lost John" is a fiddle player, born on the "Black Bear Trail" in Ashe County near West Jefferson. He and his wife Lucille (he calls her Lou), moved to Davie County about seven or eight years ago, but "Lost John" is still a member of the bluegrass group known as the "Brush Mountain Boys."

He says Wayne Johnson, who is the head of the "Brushy Mountain Boys" and his sons, Rocky, Gary and Mike, the other members of the group usually come after him when they participate in a fiddlers convention.

He says, matter of factly, he last played at the Blowing Rock Festival about three or four months ago.

"The Brushy Mountain Boys" all live in Windy Gap. "That's up in the mountains too," he says. "You've heard of Windy Gap," he added, "That's where they used to have to wear badges to keep from selling liquor to each other."

"Younguns, I been everywhere," says Lost John. "To Baltimore and plumb to Washington, but the biggest was in Warrenton, Virginia where they had an estimated 20,000 people the last time." He added that they had won first prize there three times.

"Lost John" has numerous blue ribbons he won at various festivals for his fiddle playing, which are for first place winners. He also has ribbons for placing second and third, but his most prized ribbons are purple. The purple ribbons were awarded for the champion fiddle player for the state of North Carolina. "Lost John" has two of these.

One of the most famous "Old-Time Fiddlers Conventions" in this area is held annually at Union Grove. "Lost John" has missed very few of these and in most cases has come home a winner.

There ain't many old time fiddlers left," he says as he began to reminisce about the days when he played with the late J. E. Maynard.

Maynard, says Lost John, made "Maple On The Hill" famous in the bluegrass field.

"He (Maynard) was one of the meanest mountaineer fiddlers I ever seen."

"Me and Maynard played together some and then we played against each other at conventions. Sometimes he'd win first and sometimes I'd win, but we didn't care." He says they just loved to play!

"Lost John" says he doesn't have a favorite tune. However, he feels that the has probably won more ribbons by playing "Hitchikers Blues."

"I don't pay no attention to none of 'em," he laughed. "I just saw."

"Lost John" told of several occasions when he attended the same convention as the late "Stringbean," who he described as "an awful good fellow. Stringbean and his wife were both mighty fine people."

He also met Archie Campbell, a regular on the television show "Hee Haw", and has played with Charlie Monroe.

"The first time I ever saw Fred Kirby was in North Wilkesboro about 12-years ago," says "Lost John." "He asked the nearest way to get to Tweetsie."

Several years later, "Lost John" says he (continued on page 2B)

Paula Lagle In Who's Who

Paula Denise Lagle, a senior at Davie County High School, was recently notified that she is to be featured in the 8th annual WHO'S WHO AMONG AMERICAN HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS, 1973-74, the largest student award publication in the nation. Students from over 20,000 public, private and parochial high schools throughout the country are recognized for their leadership in academics, athletics or community service in the books. Less than 3 per cent of the junior and senior class students nationwide are awarded this recognition. Paula is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul W. Lagle of Route 2, Mocksville. She is active in the Jr. Civitan Club, the Pep Club, the Social Studies Club, the Health Careers Club, and the Student Council. She is assistant chief of the Dancing Boots. She attends Oak Grove United Methodist Church. In addition to having her biography published in the book, Paula will also compete for one of ten scholarship awards of $500 to $1000 funded by the publishers and will be invited to participate in the firm's annual "Survey of High Achievers." Paula plans to major in nursing or early childhood education upon graduation in June 1975.

Davie Defeats North Stanly 20-10; Play West Iredell Friday Night

Fresh off a 20-10 non-conference victory over North Stanley last Friday night, the Davie High War Eagles will seek a win Friday night over West Iredell.

Kickoff is set for 8 p. m. at North Iredell football stadium. The game is being played at North Iredell since West Iredell does not yet have a football field.

Davie raced out to a 20-0 halftime lead at New London last Friday night and held on for a 20-10 victory over North Stanley. The game was considered a North Piedmont Conference contest for North Stanley, but not for Davie.

Davie is now 1-1 overall, and has the tie with South Iredell in the conference race. Last Friday night South Iredell defeated West Iredell 40 to 0. Coach Bill Peeler's War Eagles opened the scoring in the first quarter when end Ricky Macey pulled in a 36-yard pass from quarterback Craig Michael. The extra point kick failed and Davie lead, 6-0.

Fullback Kevin Goodwin scored Davie's second touchdown of the first quarter on a three-yard run. Goodwin also ran for two extra points, giving the War Eagles a 14-0 advantage. In the second quarter, tight end Stan Riddle caught a 45-yard touchdown pass from Michael, giving Davie a comfortable 20-0 lead. North Stanley got onto the scoreboard in the third quarter when slotback Harold McRae caught a 70-yard touchdown pass thrown by quarterback Tom Blankenship. Eddie Hinson ran for the extra point and the Comets trailed 20-8.

North Stanley's final score came in the fourth quarter when tackle John Pennington tackled Davie High's punter, Sid Short in his own end zone for a safety. Davie collected 295 yards total offense, including 176 yards passing on four completions. At the same time, the War Eagles limited North Stanley to 134 yards total offense. Stan Thorpe, Donnie Price, Tim Grubb and Joe Woodward all stood out for Davie's defense, which limited the Comets to just four first downs in the game. Davie had nine first downs.

The scoring summary:
 Davie County 14 6 0 0-20
 North Stanley 0 0 8 2-10
 DC - Macey 36 pass from Michael (kick failed)
 DC - Goodwin 3 run (Goodwin run failed)
 DC - Riddle 45 pass from Michael (run failed)
 NS - McRae 70 pass from Blankenship (Hinson run)
 NS - Safety, Pennington tackled Short in end zone

Sportsman Classic Set For Oct 5th

Defending the World Service Life 300 champion Bobby Allison filed the entry for the 1974 late model sportsman classic to be run Saturday, Oct. 5, at the Charlotte Motor Speedway.

Allison and 39 other drivers will compete for a record $58,725 purse, largest in the NASCAR history for a late model sportsman race. "Certainly am looking forward to the World Service Life 300 and plan to be there in my Coca-Cola Chevrolet," Allison remarked. "We have had some disappointing days at the race track this season but win in the World Service Life 300 and a victory in the National 500 the following day would be a boost for us."

Allison had things his own way during the inaugural World Service Life 300 a year ago, finishing with over a lap ahead of his nearest competitor.

"It's good to know that I have a berth over the Labor Day weekend," Allison said. "That will enable us to take our time in getting the car ready and there's no worry about not making the field."

The "leader" of the Alabama gang is slated to drive the Coca-Cola Matador in the National 500 the following day.

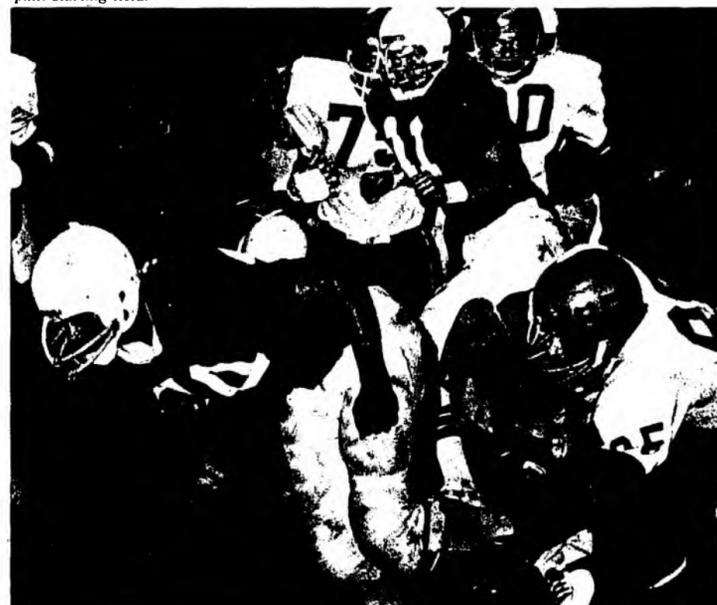

Allison has enjoyed great success on the late model sportsman circuit during the season and is currently in fourth place in the 1974 point chase. "Those 1,391 points that go to the winner could really help in my bid to climb the standings during the final few weeks of the season," he added. Registration and inspection for the late model sportsman cars and drivers begins Thursday, Oct. 3, with the first 25 race berths up for grabs the following day. Time trials on race day morning will determine the final 15 positions in the 1 p.m. starting field.

Squid Dinner May Be Tasty

The state's 85-foot exploratory fishing and research vessel, Dan Moore, has been off shore North Carolina searching for tasty sea creatures most Tar Heels have not eaten.

Those aboard hope to catch quantities of squid. Not the big sea monster variety, but small ones - averaging six to eight inches in length.

In the past those aboard Dan Moore have caught quantities of squid incidental to lobster fishing. Consistent 100 pound catches per hour tows have been taken in May, June, and September. Two big catches, 600 pounds in one hour and 2,000 pounds for another hour tow, were hauled in during November east of Oregon Inlet near the 100 fathom contour.

Federal researchers have had their best squid catches offshore North Carolina during fall months in depths 15-30 fathoms, and during the spring in depths 61-100 fathoms.

Consequently the biologists think long-finned squid could be considered an additional North Carolina fishery resource not being utilized. Frank Holland, a Dan Moore biologist, said a Japanese firm is now located in Norfolk, Virginia, and is exporting squid.

Long-finned squid, according to Holland, are found in the Atlantic from Canada to the Caribbean and are abundant in continental shelf waters offshore the United States.

Biologists are using electronic gear to locate quantities of squid and then using modified trawl net gear to collect more catch data. They are also collecting ecological and biological data. Biologist Holland said we know a lot about the biology of this creature, but there is no squid market. In contrast, he said, for the fish with established markets, such as flounder and sea trout, we have minimal biological information.

In conjunction with the squid search at sea, N.C.S.U. food specialists will conduct studies on the squid caught by Dan Moore "to develop a system of processing N.C. squid to meet current market specifications. Additional research will be conducted to develop new products from N.C. squid."

Car-Truck In Collision

A car-truck collision occurred on South Main Street around 5:00 p.m. last Thursday evening.

Cecil Roy Johnson, Jr., 19, of 634 South Main Street, was traveling north on South Main Street when his 1969 Chevrolet was struck by a Dodge truck, driven by Mansha Anne Tise, 19, of Route 7, Mocksville as she pulled from a driveway.

There was $75 in damages to the Johnson vehicle and $200 damage to the Tise truck.

There were no injuries and no charges filed in the accident, according to the investigating officer, Mocksville Policeman G. W. Edwards.

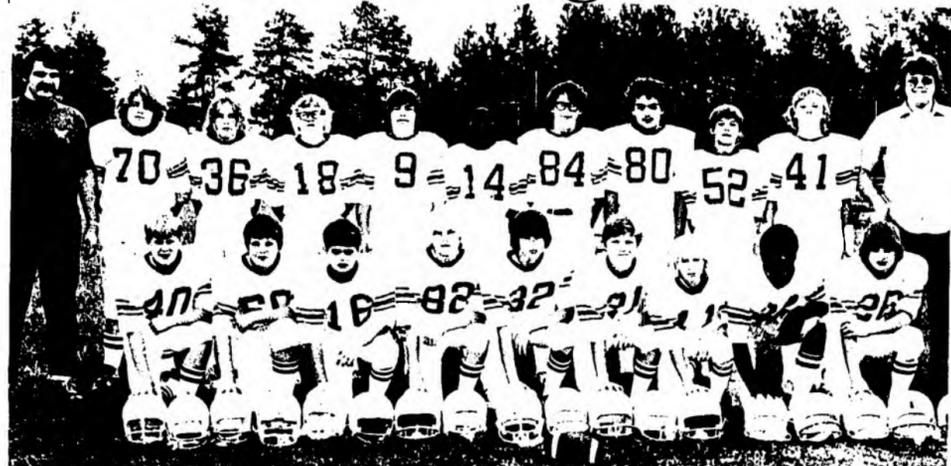

CONTACT Members Meet New Director

Members of Davie-Mocksville CONTACT met Tuesday, September 17, at C's Barbecue for the purpose of meeting the new director, Jim Martin.

Clara Lookabill, past director, welcomed the group and introduced Mr. Martin. He spoke to the group about his plans and hopes for CONTACT. Mayor Arlen DeVito thanked the volunteers for the work they are doing. He expressed the great need for CONTACT in Davie County and pledged his help in any way possible.

Sentor Sam Ervin Says

Some additional observations are in order concerning the consumer protection agency bill, S. 707. Last week the Senate again refused to end debate on this controversial piece of legislation.

Those of us who oppose the passage of this bill recognize that there are many problems of concern to consumers. But, it is well to recognize that the CPA bill is deceptively packaged. Contrary to what many have been lead to believe the bill does not protect consumers in respect to their most pressing problems. The proposed Consumer Protection Agency is not designed to solve the average consumer's problems such as dealing with a shady businessman, or some fly-by-night salesman, or some shoddy repairman. These problems are considered to be local in nature and would be turned back to the state consumer affairs agency.

What the bill proposes is to establish a super-agency to meddle in governmental and economic affairs with unprecedented powers. When considering measures of this nature, I am constantly reminded of the wisdom of the late Justice Brandies when he warned: "Experience should teach us to be most on our guard to protect liberty when the Government's purposes are beneficent. The greatest dangers to liberty lurk in insidious encroachment by men of zeal, well-meaning, but without understanding."

The danger in this legislation lies in the fact that in the name of consumerism an agency of the federal government would be empowered to intrude disruptively into all existing governmental decision making. While consumers certainly are entitled to fair treatment, can it be said that Congress ought to confer upon bureaucrats sweeping powers to change not only our free enterprise system but our policy making system as well?

Essentially, the bill is repugnant to the free enterprise system. I am a firm believer in the law of economics that those producers of goods and services who produce the best goods or render the best services are the people who get the patronage of consumers. We have a competitive free market which, in effect, guarantees to Americans the best quality of goods and the best quality of services to be found in any nation on earth. The market has imperfections, but is basically sound.

This bill seeks to change that concept which has worked well and substitute "Big Brotherism" for it. The CPA could ride herd on all of the producers of America. Not only that, the bill gives the CPA the power to issue any statement it sees fit to issue concerning a business, any business, in the United States, concerning the quality and the utility of any product offered to the public. This gives an agency the power to destroy a reputation built over many years, and yet the bill contains no provision for recompense if that statement is false.

This bill contains many complex provisions, most of which are not understood by the Average American. Unfortunately, many people make up their minds by reading the title of a bill rather than its provisions.

It proceeds upon the unwise theory that the average consumer is somewhat lacking in mental capacity to look after himself and needs to be put under federal guardianship. It proposes to deal with the ills that beset consumers by adding another layer of bureaucracy, and confers powers upon an Administration that no human being should have.

I hope that this bill will not be passed.

Damage Estimated At $3,000 In Local Wreck

A loaded tractor-trailer of Save Rite Inc. of Salisbury suffered an estimated $3,000 in damages when it rolled on its side September 18th on US 601, 1.2 miles south of Mocksville.

The accident occurred when the driver swerved to the left to avoid colliding with a car being pushed. The accident occurred around 7:20 p. m. in heavy fog.

State Highway Patrolman W. D. Grooms said his investigation showed that a 1968 Plymouth, operated by Larry Eugene West, 20, of Mocksville Rt. 4, ran out of gas and was being pushed to a service station by the driver who was steering and pushing from the outside. The car, going to a service station, had apparently crossed the center line. Running up on the car, the tractor-trailer cut to the left, crossed the center line, ran onto the left shoulder into a ditch and rolled over on its left side. The persons pushing the car ran when they saw the tractor-trailer approaching. There was no contact between the two vehicles.

There were no injuries and no charges. The tractor-trailer was being operated by Roddy Lee Morris, 35, of Salisbury.

Morgan Receives Insurance Award

Mocksville resident William Charles Morgan, Rte. 7 - Box 7, an insurance representative with Combined Insurance Company of American, has received an award for outstanding sales and service to the public.

Charlie Lewis, regional sales manager, said Morgan won the Initial Award in the W. Clement Stone International Sales and Management Achievement Club. The international club is named after the company's founder and board chairman. The Combined group of companies specialize in non-cancellable accident and health insurance, income-protection and life insurance. Last year the group paid benefits in excess of $96,000,000.

The group is unusual in that the needs of customers are under constant review, with representatives calling personally on policyholders at least every six months to provide individual service. Morgan became associated with Combined as a representative and his work in service to policyholders earned him his award.

CONGRESSMAN EARL B. RUTH Reports FROM WASHINGTON

Several months ago I introduced legislation which would exempt babysitters from the provisions of the minimum wage laws. Last month I received a letter from a woman in Kannapolis which summed up some of the best reasons for supporting this legislation. I'd like to share that letter with you:

"I was very pleased to read in July newsletter that you are fighting for the middle class families who find it necessary for the mothers to work. I am a school teacher with a two-year-old daughter. Last year I took her sleepily from a warm bed out into all sorts of weather to a babysitter. She had twice the number of colds last winter than she did the year before, when I wasn't working. This I felt was a result of carrying her out in the cold damp air."

"This fall I have taken on the extra expense for a babysitter to come in, even though it will take just about half my take-home pay to cover her salary. I love teaching and am very fulfilled in both roles -- teacher and mother. However, having to pay minimum wage for a babysitter makes me wonder if it wouldn't be more profitable for me to stay at home, and do without such luxuries as dinners out, gas and vacations each year. "In closing let me say that while interviewing babysitters, I found a capable retired lady who couldn't accept the job because she felt the salary might exceed that permitted under social security and her benefits would be cut. There are many senior citizens who would appreciate $30 a week for babysitting. But they would be breaking the law as it now stands because $30 isn't minimum wage. Your bill, H.R. 15352, would help young families and senior citizen couples too."

"You have our whole-hearted support, and I certainly hope to see it pass soon." Such Congressional actions as expanding minimum wage coverage are usually done with the best of intentions and the promise that people are going to be helped. Many Congressmen don't seem to realize how the minimum wage regulation is squeezing ordinary working people who are trying to cope with inflation.

The House General Subcommittee on Labor will be holding hearings on my bill and other similar proposals on September 24 and October 1. There is still a chance that this helpful legislation could be passed this session. I will do everything I can to help it along.

During the past half dozen years or so, careers with an environmental flavor have looked irresistible to an increasing number of high school and college kids.

It's not hard to understand the attraction. More than ever before, students want work that is enjoyable and "relevant." The idea of working outdoors close to nature is also appealing, and a career as a wildlife biologist, ecologist, game warden or forest ranger seems perfect.

But there are some problems. Most critical is the one concerning the availability of jobs. Colleges are now graduating far more trained ecologists and wildlife biologists than there are jobs to go around. For example, five years ago, the N. C. Wildlife Resources Commission occasionally hired biologists who did not have advanced degrees. But now, there are so many biologists available with Masters and Doctorates in wildlife management that you haven't got much of a chance at a biologist's position unless you've got something beyond a four-year college degree.

The same is generally true of all the highly technical positions in the environmental field. There aren't many jobs available, and only the most highly trained people get them. To some extent, the same is true of other related jobs in the field - even jobs that do not require a college education or advanced degrees.

For example, a game warden (in North Carolina, they're called Wildlife Protectors) is basically a law officer whose beat is the woods and fields rather than the sidewalks. But the qualifications for being a game warden are growing increasingly tougher also because there are more men applying for these jobs than there are jobs to go around.

"We can be more selective than ever before," explains Don Curtis, chief of the Division of Protection for the Wildlife Commission.

Don Baker, chief of the Division of Inland Fisheries, agrees. "We've got men serving as biologist technicians - or assistants - who might have qualified as full-fledged biologists a few years ago," says Baker. "The job market in the environmental field is very, very tight. Many people are now overqualified for their present jobs."

At the outset, it looks discouraging for the young man or woman who sincerely wants to get into this type of work. But it's still possible to plan a career in environmental work.

The secret is specialization and education, especially for the technical fields. If, for example, you want to be a wildlife biologist badly enough, you should point your education in that direction fairly early and plan on having to achieve at least a Master's Degree to be competitive in the job market.

While you're in the first two years of undergraduate work, you should also become as familiar as possible with as many different types of environmentally related careers as possible. For instance, not all environmental fields involve the study of plants and animals. One must also include such related branches as the study of geology (rocks), meteorology (weather) and even such fields as sanitary engineering (disposal of wastes). These are only a few.

The point is that although the job markets are tight, the student who plans his career carefully and considers a wide range of possible choices will come out fine.

It's not enough to enjoy following "little animals around in the woods." But then, it never was.

ASU To Publish Literary Magazine

"The Cold Mountain Review," Appalachian State University's literary magazine, is now accepting manuscript and art work for the fall issue.

Poetry, short stories, literary criticism, art and photographs will be accepted through Oct. 20 for publication in an issue dedicated to the late John Crowe Ransom, founder of the prestigious "Kenyon Review," of Kenyon College, Ohio.

"Cold Mountain Review" was conceived and initiated by ASU graduate students. "We felt that we had the resources to begin a reputable literary journal that both ASU and the South could be proud of," R. T. Smith, a graduate student, and editor of the magazine, said. The first issue, featuring poetry and prose, was published in May.

Smith plans to expand both the range and the geographical variety of the magazine. "Last year we had works from many of the finest writers in the Carolinas" but this fall we've already received work from Michael Mott, a Britisher who is currently in residence at Emory University, and Diane Wakoski, the New Yorker who wrote "The Motorcycle Betrayal Poems," said Smith. Contributions should be sent to R. T. Smith, English Department, Appalachian State University, Boone, N. C. 28608. Entries should include a stamped, self-addressed envelope and a brief biographical sketch of the author.

Quilting At 88

Mrs. Flora Latham of the Cana community, who will celebrate her 88th birthday on October 13th, keeps busy making quilt tops. She plans to complete a quilt top for each of her children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Latham says she feels quite sure that in her lifetime she has made at least 100 quilts, most of them in the past year. She started piecing a top on her last birthday and has made 50 to 60 since.

She made her first quilt over 25 years ago, entirely by hand over the "Flower garden" design. Her daughter, Mrs. Louise Dill, claims this one.

She has also given lots of them away and even sold a few over the years. She has several quilts which she embroidered flowers with wool thread, making her design as she worked and all are very colorful.

She never knows exactly what they will look like until she finishes them. She has some over such patterns as "rail fence" and "cross-word puzzle" but each has her special touch of love.

Although Mrs. Latham still has her quilting frame, she seldom uses it because she can not get the quilts on it by herself. And she used the sewing machine instead of doing everything by hand. She can work much faster and they quilt tops seem to be more durable, using the materials of today.

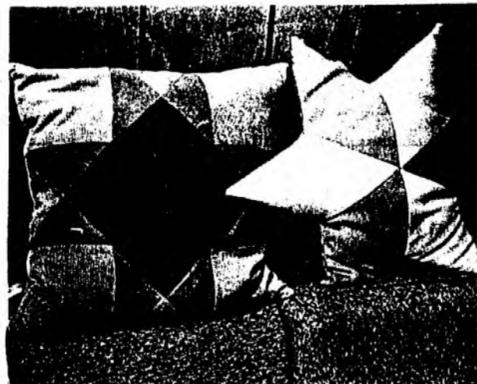

The wool quilt with embroidered flowers was a design she "made up as she went along."

Mrs. Flora Latham with her "Flower Garden" quilt, made 25 years ago entirely by hand.

Mrs. Latham cuts pieces for quilt tops while watching television.

The sofa pillows are also another of Mrs. Latham's hobbies and she has made them all shapes, colors, designs and sizes.

Dye Crafts

Block Dyed Apron

The bold, geometric pattern on this apron was obtained by sandwiching the fabric layers between wood blocks and dyeing. The result is a unique design, an original that would look great at an outdoor barbecue, a picnic or as an anytime cover all.

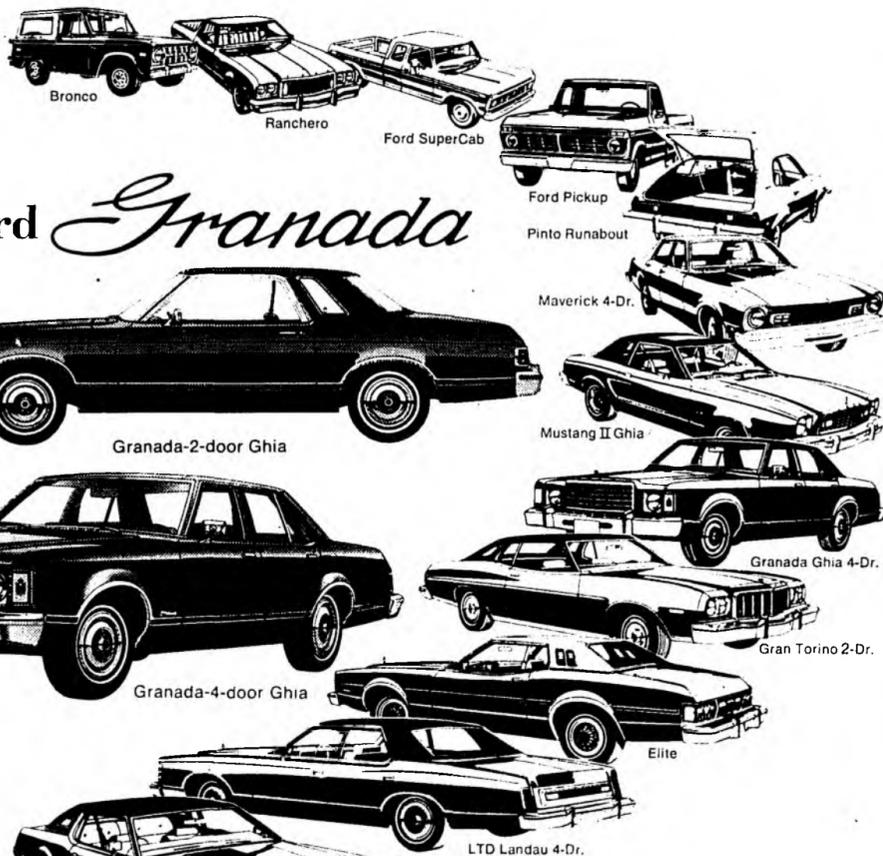

Supplies: White 100% cotton fabric (muslin, denim, etc.), drawing apron pattern, liquid or powder Rit dye, plastic squeeze bottle, two identical wood blocks, C-clamps, large pot for dyeing.

General directions: Prewash fabric, then cut apron pieces out of fabric. Fold center front of apron in half, right sides on the outside, so that top and bottom halves are together. Place one wood block on top of fabric close to folded edge and lightly trace outline with a pencil. Pour undiluted liquid dye (or 1 package powder dye thoroughly mixed into 1 cup hot water) into a squeeze bottle. A light color such as yellow is suggested. Using the squeeze bottle, pour dye directly onto fabric, filling in entire block outlined area. Press dye into fabric with fingers to make sure it penetrates both fabric layers, add dye to back side if necessary. Pour a small amount of contrasting dye color into center of block pattern, press one in to help penetration.

Place wood blocks on top and bottom of fabric so that block edges match exactly and dyed area is covered. Secure wood blocks tightly in place with one or two C-clamps. Prepare dye solution for the background color (royal blue is suggested) by mixing 1/2 cup liquid dye or 1 package powder dye into 2 quarts hot water. Prepare more dye solution if necessary to completely cover fabric without crowding. Heat to a simmering temperature. Add wet apron fabric pieces and dye, stirring occasionally at a simmering temperature for 15 to 20 minutes. Remove fabric and rinse under cool, running water. Remove clamps and blocks and rinse again. Dry, then sew the apron together as pattern directs.

Shady Grove History Club Adopts Projects

The student officers of the Shady Grove History Hunters, along with their faculty advisor, James V. Jones, welcomed James Lloyd, Professor of Regional History at the Supplementary Educational Center in Salisbury, last Thursday, September 19, 1974. Mr. Lloyd spoke to the 6th, 7th and 8th year students on the subject of World History and Social Studies.

Enthusiasm is running high with the thirty-two members of the history club. Many of them have already started their research project in local history.

The student group who have elected to name themselves the Shady Grove School History Hunters received their charter from the Tar Heel Junior Historian Association on January 30, 1974. One of the main purposes of the organization is the study of history at the county and state level with special emphasis on local history.

A current club project is the construction of a map of Davie County where the sites of historical heritage will be pinpointed. The map will be on display at the school for everyone to see.

Another goal of the students is to preserve Davie County and Local History through research, photographs and taped interview with local citizens.

In May of 1975, the club will hold a History Fair at Shady Grove School to display their project work to parents, friends and interested people.

Current officers of the Shady Grove School History Hunters are: President, Keith Robertson; Vice-President, Harold Zimmerman; Secretary, Jeanne Bingham and Treasurer, Michelle Weavil.

Davie Men Sentenced In Rowan County

Two Cooleemee men have been given two-year suspended sentences with five years probation and ordered to pay fines of $400 plus court costs in Rowan County Superior Court for taking $700 worth of merchandise from Tire Wholesalers last May.

John Cicero Miller, 18, and Lewis Ray Spry, 20, pleaded guilty Tuesday to charges of nonfelonious breaking and entering and nonfelonious larceny.

Judge Thomas W. Seay, Jr., ordered the two men not to associate with one another during their probation. Miller must be relicensed by the Department of Motor Vehicles before he can operate any vehicles, and Spry must make full restitution to Tire Wholesalers for damage to the building and for the stolen merchandise, the judge ruled. Spry and Miller admitted taking eight oversized tires and 16 magnesium wheels from the store May 26.

Vehicles Collide

Two vehicles collided September 18th, on US 64, near Rural Road No. 1150.

Involved was a 1972 Chevrolet operated by Mildred Anderson Carter, 60, of Statesville Rt. 4 and a 1964 Ford truck operated by Walter Matthew Clark, Jr., 24, of Gretna, Virginia.

State Highway Patrolman W. D. Grooms said his investigation showed that the truck was making a left turn into a private drive and was struck in the rear by the Carter vehicle.

Damage to the truck was estimated at $100 and $450 to the Carter vehicle. Mrs. Carter was charged with failure to reduce speed to avoid accident.

Ham Supper

There will be a Baked Ham Supper Saturday, November 2, at Shady Grove School cafeteria with serving from 5 until 8 p.m. All proceeds will go to community projects and the supper is sponsored by the East Davie Ruritan Club.

History And The Bicentennial

If your children all of a sudden start delving through the attic or basement, cellar or storage shed—don't be surprised. There's a good chance they are taking personal part in the commemoration of the nation's Bicentennial.

Should your grandchildren or great-grandchildren show a sudden interest in how life was "way back then," reminisce with them. If they want to tape record your memories, let them. You'll be contributing to the preserved history of the United States as it embarks on its third century.

Searching out "lost" documents, photographs, letters, furniture, dress and other memorabilia from days gone by, or recapturing from memories the fullness and flavor of life in earlier times are part of a nationwide Above Ground Archaeology (AGA) Bicentennial project.

Sponsored by the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration (ARBA), the project is one means of tapping the "grass roots" history of the nation. By and large, ordinary citizens have left little recorded testament of their lives, but it is living history. A new effort to reach and retain these previously mute sources is being made during the Bicentennial.

The ARBA has published a booklet describing the basic techniques of collecting and preserving items which can give the "archaeologist" an understanding and appreciation of what life was like in the past.

Though developed primarily for high school teachers and students, the booklet and the program are available to any interested group or individual. Above Ground Archaeology is available for 60 cents from:

Superintendent of Documents
U. S. Government Printing Office
Washington, D. C. 20402
Stock No. 2405-00528

Text of the booklet was written by Dr. John L. Cotter, Associate Professor of American Civilization, University of Pennsylvania. Dr. Cotter is also an Associate Professor of American Historical Archaeology, University Museum, in Philadelphia. The text was initiated in behalf of the Society for State and Local History and the ARBA.

The booklet describes how, with patience and curiosity, one can capture the history of his or her community, and get a glimpse of how its citizens made their living, played and worshipped as the nation was growing. It gives younger people a chance to gain personal appreciation for life before cars, planes, dishwashers, television, air-conditioning, and indoor plumbing.

The booklet carefully explains how to catalog and preserve historical documents and other items expected to be found in the nationwide search, and provides reference sources for help and advice on this and other historical projects.

In the short time since the AGA project began, attics have coughed up two major finds. An eighth grade student in Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania, recovered a rare edition of the Federalist Papers in his grandparents' attic. A Kennebec River bateau, believed to be the second oldest boat built in the United States that is still in existence, was found in a Dresden, Maine attic. The craft is typical of the ones used on the Kennebec River before the Revolutionary War.

The AGA booklet also suggests making an historic base map of your community—town, township or county. With overlays, it is possible to construct a map showing the succession of prehistoric and historic periods, such as the earliest Indian (called Paleo-Indian) life, up through a community's earliest settlement, to a record of the development of roads, farms, industries and, finally, the modern city, town or countryside.

Historical sites and buildings would be identified, and if still in existence and threatened by new development, the amateur historian can be the first to sound the alarm.

AGA is one of the growing number (well over 2,000 present) of local, State, regional or national programs and activities planned or already underway as part of the Bicentennial commemoration. Literally millions of people are actively involved in programs ranging from restoration of historic sites to projects aimed at improving the knowledge and understanding Americans have of each other and of the nation's multi-ethnic and racial culture.

John W. Warner, Administrator of ARBA, has stated that success of the nation's Bicentennial observance "will be judged on the number of participants, not the number of spectators."

Many of the players will be involved through the Above Ground Archaeology program—making an individual contribution to the history and heritage of the nation.

FOLK — WAYS

by Roger Whitener

Most of us have at one time or another gone through the pen pal stage - usually a time in our teens when we exchanged long letters with persons we had never met except, perhaps, through the means of photographs. Many times, however, those correspondents were more real to us than the persons we saw on an everyday basis.

With the advent of this column over a year and a half ago, I re-entered the pen pal era and those people who have responded to Folk-Ways have become very real to me. I look forward to familiar signatures and conjure up visions of their owners. One such person is Mrs. Harry Presley, of Norton, Virginia. As the following letter will show, her informal way of writing about the past is akin to a face-to-face account that moves as naturally as conversation.

"Dear Mr. Whitener: Here I am again with a few more folk remedies that I remember.

"My grandmother was a faithhealer I guess you would call it. She blew out fire, she stopped bleeding no matter where you were, and she didn't have to see you - just had to know your name. She said a Bible verse from Ezekial. "She cured the thrash by blowing it out of the baby's mouth. She could take off warts, but I don't remember how she did that. She lanced boils and stone bruises with a sharp pocket knife without any anaesthesia. You had to have nerve and grit - I know because I've had it done to me."

Next Mrs. Presley moves to the matter of forecasting the weather:

"For every fog in August, a snow in winter.

Fogs in June or July mean early snow.

If snow lies on the ground three days another snow will top it.

When smoke from the chimney flows toward the ground, bad weather is ahead.

If leaves turn over this is a sign of rain.

If it rains while the sun is shining, it will rain at the same time the next day.

If it rains before 7:00 a. m. it will quit before 11:00 a. m.

A popping fire means snow in three days.

Expect a bad winter if fur on animals is thicker than usual.

When hornets build their nest close to the ground it will be a bad winter.

Six weeks after the Katydid hoppers it will frost.

A rough winter if blackberry blooms are heavy.

Corn shucks and silks are heavier and the shucks are lighter before a bad winter.

Then she moves to the identification of spring and summer "winters": "There's Sarvis Winter, then Dogwood Winter Next comes Blackberry Winter and then Elderberry Winter, which lasts until up in June. There's always a cool spell when all these bloom, hence our winters. You should always have corn planted by the time Dogwood is white-heavy Dogwood bloom means a good crop year.

"We grew up with these things and still go by most of them."

I was pleased to note the recent publication of Bits of Mountain Speech, by Mr. Paul M. Fink, the well-known historian from Jonesboro, Tennessee. He has been actively engaged in the study of folklore for many years and his record of Eastern Tennessee and Western North Carolina mountain speech is both entertaining and instructive. A few examples follow:

..Aish (adj): windy, cool.

..Hit's plumb aish out."

..Back (v): to address a letter.

..Will you back this letter for me?"

..Blockage (n): illicit whiskey.

..Chuffy (adj): short, stout.

..He's a chuffy sort of boy."

..Cooter (v): spend time idly.

..He cootered around all day."

..Dotey (dotey): Aged or senile.

..Hit's got plumb dotey."

..Fetch-on (adj): imported. "I don't favor them fetch-on ideas."

..Bits of Mountain Speech is published by the Appalachian Consortium Press, Boone, North Carolina 28608.

My thanks to Mrs. Marcus King, of Blountville, Tennessee, for letting me browse through two editions of Hillbilly Cookin'. They not only contain recipes for everything from cider to salets but offer signs, sayings, and other bits of mountain lore. Interesting browsing.

Please send all material to: Rogers Whitener, Folk-Ways and Folk-Speech Box 376, University Station, Boone, N. C. 28608.

Golden Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Dock Caudle of Rt. 1 Advance were honored with a reception for their 50th wedding anniversary on Sunday September 15 at the Farmington Masonic Lodge. The reception was given by Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Caudle of Rt. 2 Mocksville.

Miss Brenda Broadway greeted the guests at the register. The honored couple received many useful gifts which were displayed on a table covered with a white tablecloth. The table was accented with a centerpiece composed of yellow mums and shasta daisies.

The refreshment table was covered with a white lace tablecloth and accented with two three-pronged candelabra. The three-tiered anniversary cake was decorated with white and yellow icing. Silver trays held white and yellow mints, nuts, and sandwiches. Punch was also served. Mrs. L.R. Caudle and Mrs. Donald Jones served at the reception.

Approximately 75 friends and relatives attended.

CHEVROLET FOR 1975. CARS THAT MAKE SENSE FOR TODAY.

Nova LN Sedan

Monza 2+2

MONZA 2+2 The small car of tomorrow will probably be a little more powerful, handy and comfortable than ever. The 1975 Monza 2+2, shown above, offers this today. It has advanced like rectangular headlights set in a soft front end, fold down rear seat, and a new 4.3-liter V8 engine available.

NOVA In the background above, our new Nova LN Sedan, A luxurious Nova with thick carpeting and wide-back reclining front seats. For 1975, all Novas have been emphatically refined along the lines of elegant European sedans. Nova's always been good. Now it's beautiful.

CAMARO Our sensibly sporty compact. It looks like a million and drives like it looks.

IMPALA America's favorite car continues to provide the room many families need plus plenty of quiet and comfort. Still the great American value.

WAGONS Big ones, small ones, in-between ones. Practical wagons that make sense for America. And you.

CHEVELLE Mid-size, easy to drive, room for six, mid-priced, strong reputation for value. America's most popular intermediate.

MONTE CARLO Its special ability: making you feel good. About the way it looks and drives. About your own taste and judgment.

CHEVROLET'S NEW EFFICIENCY SYSTEM FOR 1975

It's the key part of a program aimed at helping our new cars run leaner (more economically), run cleaner—and save you money every mile.

The Efficiency System is standard on all 1975 Chevrolets with V8 or 6-cylinder engines. It's a series of significant engineering improvements working together for the very first time. Components include High Energy Ignition, catalytic converter, Early Fuel Evaporation and steel-belted radial ply tires. In sum, the System is designed to lighten the pleasure—and lower the cost of driving a 1975 Chevrolet—to bring you a better running car in many ways, along with improved fuel economy, more miles between recommended maintenance and an engine that stays cleaner internally because of no-lead fuel.

Your Chevrolet dealer will gladly give you the details and answer your questions. See him and the sensible 1975 Chevrolets starting September 27.

The business began its grand opening Monday and will continue all this week. Piedmont Honda deals in new and used Hondas, trade-ins and repairs. Ramsey lives in Mocksville. He and Jerry Swicegood of Davie County are co-partners in the operation. Ramsey spent three years as sales representative for American Honda and one year at Honda Winston-Salem. The shop is open Tuesday through Saturday from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. (Photo by Wayne Hinshaw)

... About your

Social Security

... by Hal Griffin

People covered by Medicare medical insurance can assure faster payment of their claims if they make sure their correct claim number is on the claim form.

About one of every three delays in payment of Medicare medical insurance claims is caused by use of a wrong claim number or omission of the number entirely.

The claim number identifies a claim for Medicare payment on bills for medical services. If you put a wrong claim number--or don't enter a number--on a "Request for Medicare Payment" form, a search for your correct number is necessary. The search can delay your payment.

If itemized bills are sent in with a claim, the claim number also should be written on each separate bill.

The claim number appears on the health insurance card issued to everyone covered by Medicare. The number has nine digits and a symbol, such as A, B, F2. The number, including the symbol, should be copied onto the designated blank on the "Request for Medicare Payment" form.

Payment can also be delayed when medical bills are submitted without "Request for Medicare Payment" forms, or when claims are sent to the wrong address.

The form is available at most doctor's offices and at the Salisbury Social Security Office. Claims should be sent to the Prudential Insurance Company of America, Medicare B Division, Post Office Box 1482, High Point, North Carolina 27261, the organization that handles Medicare medical insurance payments in North Carolina.

If a doctor and a patient agree, the doctor can be paid directly by Medicare. If the patient submits the claim, the Medicare payment goes to the patient.

Medicare medical insurance helps pay for doctor bills and many other medical expenses of almost everyone 65 and over, disabled people under 65 who have been entitled to social security disability payments for 24 consecutive months or more, and eligible workers or members of their families who have chronic kidney disease and require renal dialysis or a kidney transplant.

Medical insurance is the voluntary part of Medicare, funded by individual premiums and Federal general revenues.

I just got my social security card. It's attached to a bigger, perforated card. Do I have to keep both cards?

A social security card is issued with two parts. The smaller social security card should be detached and carried in your purse or wallet so you can show it to your employer. The larger part should be kept in a safe place as a permanent record of your social security number. Then, if you ever lose your card, you'll have the part with your number on it and will be able to get a duplicate card faster.

I'm 21 and going into my senior year at college. I've been getting monthly social security benefits on my father's earnings record. I know that my payments are supposed to stop when I reach 22. I'll be 22 about 2 months before I'm due to graduate. Does this mean my checks will stop before my graduation?

Not necessarily. If you're going to school full time when you reach 22 and are not married, your payments may continue through the end of the semester or quarter in which you become 22 if you haven't received or completed the requirements for a bachelor's degree from a 4-year college or university. You should get in touch with the Salisbury Social Security Office for more information about exactly when your monthly benefits will stop.

My doctor gave me a Request for Medicare Payment form to use for filing my medical insurance claim. As I was looking over the form, I noticed a space for claim number. What is my claim number?

Your claim number is shown on your Medicare health insurance card. It consists of nine digits and a symbol, such as A, B, F2. When you send in a medical insurance claim, write your claim number on the Request for Medicare Payment form and on any itemized bill you send with the form just as it's shown on your card. A form submitted without a claim number or with the wrong number can cause a delay in payment.

I have a private health insurance plan now, but I'll be eligible for Medicare next year. Should I cancel my private insurance?

You should first talk to an agent of the insurance company to find out what its regulations are for people covered by Medicare. Most companies automatically cancel a policyholder's insurance when he becomes eligible for Medicare, but many also have special insurance plans which you can purchase to help pay expenses Medicare doesn't cover. For information about Medicare, call or write the Salisbury Social Security Office.

My son goes to school full time and gets social security benefits. He wants to take a part-time job. Does he have to report his earnings to social security?

If his earnings for 1974 will be over $2,400, he should report them to social security. Otherwise, he might get benefits he'll have to pay back later. His benefits will be reduced by $1 for each $2 over $2,400. But no matter how much he earns for the year, he can get his full social security benefit for any month he doesn't earn over $200.

I want to send in a medical insurance claim under Medicare I have filled out the Request for Medicare Payment form. Where do I send it?

Send your claim to the Medicare carrier of the State where you received the services. You can find the carrier's name and address in Your Medicare Handbook--or by calling or writing the Salisbury social security office for services received in North Carolina. The address is The Prudential Insurance Co. of America, Medicare B Division, PO Bx 1482, High Point, NC 27261.

My daughter is getting social security checks as a full-time student. Does she have to make any reports to social security? She doesn't work, so she has no earnings to report.

She should notify social security immediately if she marries, leaves school, or starts attending school on a part-time basis so that her monthly benefits can be stopped as required by law. Transfers from one school to another should also be reported. She can call or write any social security office to report a change.

Stolen Car Found At Rowan Tavern

Mrs. Howard Stockton of Coolemees parked her 1964 model automobile Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock at Ervin Temple Church on the Needmore Road.

And when she returned about 10 o'clock it was missing. She made the complaint to the office of Sheriff John F. Stirewalt of Rowan County.

But then Mrs. Stockton recovered her automobile as she was enroute home. She spotted it parked at a beer tavern on NC Highway 801.

ALFALFA THREAT
Another imported insect pest has been found in the U.S. The destructive European Alfalfa beetle was identified this year in New Jersey. The pest has reduced alfalfa yields by 60 to 70 per cent from Denmark to Turkey, where it originates.

Consumer FORUM

by Karen McCall
Wachovia Bank & Trust Co., N.A.

I don't blame men, or women, for avoiding as long as possible the task that is called, "Putting your affairs in order." The expression itself has such a morbid sound.

Somehow the drawing up of a will is an accepted routine, like the purchase of life insurance. But "putting your affairs in order" can only mean one thing.

Distasteful or not, it's a responsibility that shouldn't be postponed, especially if you have dependents—a wife, a husband, children. It's not enough to keep your will up to date and to pay your life insurance premiums when they come due. There are many important documents that are part and parcel of any person's estate—contracts, agreements, stock certificates, unpaid notes, tax information.

Where are they located? In a safe deposit box? In desk drawers? On a closet shelf? The great majority of people I know are careless about keeping their personal records. Nobody likes to anticipate probate proceedings—especially over their own estate. But that's no excuse for leaving your personal affairs in a mess.

Once, I heard a lawyer say, "It's a pity a husband who has passed on cannot return for twenty minutes—just to answer questions." I suppose the next best thing is to write a detailed letter of information and to leave it with your will and your other valuable papers in your safe deposit box. The letter might contain, for instance:

1. A list of your insurance policies; location, name, address, phone number of local agent; outline of benefits and when payable.
2. List of stocks, bonds, mutual funds and other assets. Location of certificates. Purchase price. Current values. Dividend record. Name, address, phone number of stock broker.
3. Health insurance records. Blue Cross and Blue Shield. Social Security. Complete information. Widow's benefits.
4. Combination and directions on how to open the wall safe.
5. House mortgage. Balance to be paid. Complete details of monthly payments—where and to whom.
6. Tax receipts. Complete information on where and when annual ad valorem taxes must be paid.
7. Complete information on company pension plan with outline of benefits to widow. Name of company contact.
8. Home owners insurance policy. Location of birth certificates. Marriage records. Copies of internal revenue tax returns for the past six years.
9. Names and phone numbers of your accountants, lawyer, tax counselor, personal banker, at the bank who is thoroughly familiar with all your financial transactions.
10. Envelope with cash for immediate emergency needs.

You know, there's a great satisfaction in knowing that you have "put your affairs in order." If you make the effort, let's hope it will be many years before your wife or your husband or your heirs will have to read your letter.

Farm Tips

By Dr. J. W. Pou Agricultural Specialist Wachovia Bank & Trust Co., N.A.

The world's first mechanized tobacco auction system to be operated on a commercial basis is installed at Fuquay-Varina this spring, in time for the 1974 marketing season.

The installation follows several years of research and testing supervised by Albert H. Graves, a U. S. Department of Agriculture industrial engineer stationed at North Carolina State University.

Several warehousemen at Fuquay-Varina, 17 miles south of Raleigh on U. S. 401, are cooperating in the project. Each will operate his own warehouse in the conventional way, but in addition the mechanized system will be installed and operated at the newly constructed five points warehouse under the name "Fuquay Auction Center."

Graves said the new system was designed to permit a farmer to bring a load of tobacco to market, sell it, and be on his way home in about 30 minutes.

Under conventional methods, sheets of tobacco placed on the warehouse floor remain stationary until after they are sold. Graders and buyers, along with farmers and other market personnel, walk up and down the rows of sheets as the sale proceeds.

With the new method, graders remain stationary in one area, and buyers in another, and the sheets of tobacco are brought to them on conveyor belts.

Auctioning to the highest bidder is in the usual manner. With the aid of a foot pedal or switch, the auctioneer controls the movement of the conveyor belt and is able to speed up, slow down or stop the sale as necessary.

Under normal conditions the belt moves at 33.3 feet per minute, a speed that will permit the sale of 500 sheets per hour.

There are three conveyor lines at the starting point, where farmers' tobacco is unloaded, weighed and graded. The three lines converge into one for the auction process.

After auction the tobacco passes through an area where the farmer may observe the results of his sale and reject any bids he considers unsatisfactory.

The remaining tobacco is moved farther down the line by conveyor to a "jacking area" where the sheets are carried on jacks to designated sites for the various buying companies.

Graves said the tobacco companies should benefit from the system by receiving tobacco that is fresher and also by lowering their operating costs.

One feature of the plan is that the farmer is assigned an exact time and date for delivering each load of leaf to the warehouse.

A two-man crew at each of the three unloading docks uses a chain hoist to move sheets of tobacco from farm trucks to conveyor belt.

Rising Paper Cost Affects Academic Institutions

Paper plays a vital role in an academic community. The situation affects a university seriously. N. C. State devours tons of paper costing many thousands of dollars annually.

Joe Barbour, Manager of University's supply center, is carrying twice the amount of paper he had on hand last year.

There will be a Church Family Picnic at the Shelter Sunday, September 29th, at 6 p. m. Everyone is invited to attend and bring a basket of food.

Mimeograph paper which cost 79 cents per ream in February of 1973 went for $1.67 in July, 1974. Adding machine paper climbed from $15.02 per case of 100 rolls in January of this year to $25.87 in August.

A general increase of 50 percent in most printing papers has generated a normal number of complaints for Buck Lee, manager of the University's printing plant.

The largest and most expensive publication printed by the University is the undergraduate catalog, which is published every two years.

While catalog paper costs point out the gravity of the situation, most departments of the University feel the higher prices in less conspicuous ways.

Lee believes that the print shop, now named the University Graphics department, may have a decrease in work during the latter part of the academic year because of a simple lack of funds.

ROBERT MORGAN

MORGAN SAYS HOUSING WOES NATIONAL CONCERN

RALEIGH, N. C. - Democratic Senate Nominee Robert Morgan has called for help for the nation's housing industry, which has been badly crippled by the current recession and by spiraling inflation.

"We must put ownership of the private home back within the reach of the wage earners of the nation," Morgan said in a statement from his Raleigh headquarters.

Pointing out that the cost of housing shot up rapidly in the past three years, Morgan said that unless a person now has an income of at least $18,000, it is impossible for him to qualify for a mortgage loan.

"That puts the cost too high for 75 percent of the people," Morgan said, "and bars three-fourths of the population from the new-home owner."

Besides balancing the federal budget as a stop to inflation, Morgan said, the government itself should get out of the money market.

"Long lines of people have waited to buy treasury notes issued by the federal government which carry a 10 percent interest," he said. "Much of the money to make these purchases comes straight from savings and loan institutions which can't legally pay that much interest and this has reduced the amount of money available for mortgage loans."

Morgan pointed out that when an industry such as housing suffers, it has a "ripple" effect and spreads all through the economy.

"It not only hurts the home builder and the person wanting to buy a home," he said, "but it also hurts manufacturers and local suppliers of goods used in building and throws people out of work."

Morgan said that several remedies have been suggested which deserve consideration.

"There was general agreement at the recent Economic Mini-Summit meetings called by the President that the federal reserve should ease its grip on the money supply," he said. "This would reduce interest rates."

"And certainly, as I have been advocating, banks and lending institutions should be encouraged to channel loan money into industry where it is most needed, such as the housing industry."

"The country's economy is in its worst shape since the 1930's," Morgan said, "and it's going to take the efforts of us all - government, labor and management - to pull out of it."

"The government must take the lead by acting promptly and decisively," he asserted.

TO ALL TELEPHONE COMPANY SUBSCRIBERS

NOTICE OF HEARING

DOCKET NO. P-55, SUB 742 DOCKET NO. P-100, SUB 34

BEFORE THE NORTH CAROLINA UTILITIES COMMISSION:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the North Carolina Utilities Commission has instituted an investigation into the intrastate toll rates and charges, intrastate WATS rates and charges and intrastate inter-exchange private line rates and charges of all telephone companies under its jurisdiction.

whole or in part for Southern Bell only would result in non-uniform intrastate rates for these services in North Carolina.

The Commission is of the opinion that it is in the public interest that uniform intrastate toll, WATS and inter-exchange private line rates be maintained for all telephone companies under its jurisdiction.

The proposed rates and present rates are as follows:

LONG DISTANCE MESSAGE TELEPHONE SERVICE (INTRASTATE) PROPOSED SCHEDULE

Table with columns for Dial-Paid Only, Station-to-Station, Operator-Paid & Collect, and Person-to-Person Paid & Collect. Rows include Mileage and time intervals for various services.

PRESENT SCHEDULE

Table with columns for Dial-Paid Only, Station-to-Station, Operator-Paid & Collect, and Person-to-Person Paid & Collect. Rows include Mileage and time intervals for various services.

The primary changes in toll rates herein under consideration are to convert the initial period from three minutes to one minute for station-to-station direct distance dialed (DDD) calls.

The present full time WATS service at $550 per month is proposed to be changed to a limited 240 hours per month service at $605 with additional charges for overtime.

Other changes in rates, charges and regulation are proposed relating to the three services under investigation.

The Commission requires that each company inform its customers of the following procedures by which their comments regarding the rate application can be made part of the record of the case upon which the Commission must base its decision. Persons desiring to intervene in the matter as formal parties of record should file a motion under North Carolina Utilities Commission Rules R1-6, R1-17 and R1-19 on or before December 16, 1974.

North Carolina law provides that the Attorney General may represent the using and consuming public in proceedings before the Utilities Commission.

Thomas Wolfe Was One Of America's Greatest Authors

Soon we all may "go home again" to Thomas Wolfe's Asheville home - all year round. The memorial to one of America's greatest authors is now a state historic site, a gift to the State from the City of Asheville, and will soon be open on a year round basis.

Thomas Wolfe, born October 3, 1900, would have been 74 this week, had he lived, and been able to fulfill his early promise.

A native of Asheville, he grew up in the Spruce Street home which he later made famous in his first novel. Son of W. O. and Julia Elizabeth Westall Wolfe, Tom was the youngest of a family of six sons and two daughters.

In 1916, during his freshman year at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Thomas Wolfe was the butt of many jokes - with his long six foot seven inch frame striding across campus - hatless, tieless and often coatless - he seemed odd to his more blase classmates. However, he took his academic work very seriously, and later found time for writing in the Tar Baby, the campus's first humor magazine and the campus literary publication, The Carolina Magazine.

Later, while serving as editor of the Tar Baby, then a campus weekly, his editorials attracted statewide attention.

All his life Tom longed to become a successful playwright, but it remained one of his unachieved ambitions. However, he wrote and starred in several campus plays for The Carolina Playmakers, including his first attempt in 1918 when the campus was converted to an army training camp. (Tom was too young for military service during the war.)

Happily, too, as he advanced in his college career, Tom advanced from the freshman outcast to the most popular senior on campus.

After graduation in 1920, he went on to Harvard where he received an MA in 1923, and taught English at New York University until 1930.

Somehow, however, he was restless, and was never quite satisfied teaching English. During this time he wrote prodigiously - short stories, more plays and novels.

He early showed the spark of genius which would set the world aflame with the 1929 publication of the autobiographical Look Homeward, Angel. The novel, best known of all his works, depicted his hometown of Asheville and many of its people as they were.

The sensitive author wrote poignantly of his family and of life in the boarding house run by his mother, as well as of the neighbors and friends and people in the town as they came and went. His family became the "Gant family of Altamont," and his home, long called "The Old Kentucky Home" became "Dixieland" in the novel.

Asheville scorned the book which bared its soul to the public and banned it in the public libraries. Tom was hurt and somewhat surprised at the reception the book had received the Pulitzer Prize and was widely acclaimed all over the United States and Europe - and his hometown had had it banned and spurned the author.

In 1930 Tom received a

Guggenheim fellowship for creative writing, which allowed him to write and travel extensively in Europe for two years. His second novel, Of Time and the River appeared in 1936.

It was said that Tom Wolfe did his writing standing up, composing in longhand on yellow pads. When asked about his unusual writing position, he had replied, "... because if you're sitting down you have to get up so often to walk around."

Literary America about this time expected Thomas Wolfe to develop into one of the greatest writers in the country, or even the world. In 1936 he was elected as one of 12 outstanding young men of America by the editors of America's Young Men - a national Who's Who of men 45 years of age or under.

However, the genius of Thomas Wolfe was to be cut short. He died of brain cancer September 15, 1938, and was buried in his hometown cemetery.

His mother, made famous as Eliza Gant, continued to keep the boarding house until the early 1940's. She died in 1946, and the four surviving sons and daughters deeded the Spruce Street house to the Thomas Wolfe Memorial Association as a memorial to the author.

Several years later, in 1949, the Thomas Wolfe Memorial Association presented it to the city of Asheville.

The city has maintained the site since then, opening the house each year from May through October. These summer visitors see the same Victorian house that Tom saw and loved - tools his father used to carve tombstones in his Pack Street marble shop are displayed on a table; the piano sits in the living room where sister Mable played; and upstairs, furniture from Tom's New York apartment is arranged just the way he liked it.

In 1972, the National Register for Historic Places named the house a national historical landmark. In 1973, the City of Asheville offered the property to the State, and July 1, 1974, the State of North Carolina assumed operation pursuant to legislative approval of the 1974 General Assembly.

Plans are to close the house to visitors at the end of October for restoration and preservation. State officials emphasize that there will be no change in appearance of Tom Wolfe's home - interior or exterior.

When the house reopens following restoration we can all visit the home of the man Asheville at first scorned, then too to its heart.

Plant Grows On Top Of Building

As we all know very well, grass and weeds grow without any special attention from us. When they grow on the ground, it is one thing. But, when they grow on top of a building that is 10 feet off the ground, that is quite another thing! The plant shown at the left grew on top of the shed shown at the bottom. The shed is in the back yard of the A. R. Steele home on Route 1, Mocksville. We understand that a seed could have been carried there by the wind. But, how did enough soil get there to accommodate the growth of a plant?

Bible Translation Day Set For Sept 30

Bible Translation Day, officially set apart as September 30 by the U. S. Senate in a joint resolution seven years ago, will be observed this year with special ceremonies in the Nation's Capital. National and International dignitaries will gather to honor Dr. Cameron Townsend, founder of Wycliffe Bible Translators and pioneer missionary statesman. Additionally, a premier multimedia presentation depicting the past, present and future of Bible translation worldwide will be introduced here. Churches throughout North America will also recognize the work of Bible translators and the need for more Bible translators in services on Sunday, September 29.

"Every person who possesses a Bible shares in some degree in the moral responsibility to provide it for everyone who doesn't," says George M. Cowan, president of Wycliffe Bible Translators. Events and programs centered around Bible Translation Day will be planned to demonstrate ways this responsibility can be fulfilled and to report on the progress of Bible translation around the world.

September 30 was chosen as Bible Translation Day because it is the date of the death of Jerome, the "father of Bible translation."

Today, many groups besides Wycliffe Bible Translators are at work giving the Scriptures to ethnic groups in their vernacular language. Denominational societies such as Lutheran Bible Translators, have formed to carry out the unfinished work. With the increasing involvement of national translators working on a language of their homeland, Wycliffe now enters a new language group every two weeks to begin linguistic analysis and eventually, Bible translation.

In mid-1974 Wycliffe reported work in progress in 600 languages in 26 countries. After 17 years in Papua, New Guinea, the organization had assigned linguists to work in more than one hundred languages there and already, three New Testaments have been published for peoples of this South Pacific Island. The eighth revised edition of The Ethnologue, just published by Wycliffe, lists 5,687 languages in the world. Two thousand of these different language groups or approximately 200,000,000 people do not have the Bible in their own language.

One of the most recently completed New Testaments is the Eastern Olomi, published by the World Home Bible League in time for a May, 1974, dedication in Mexico. A team of Wycliffe translators had been working on this translation since 1943. Today, with the availability of translation workshops and many more written helps for translators, a New Testament can be finished in twelve to fifteen years from the time a translation team enters a language group.

Wycliffe's academic arm, the Summer Institute of Linguistics, (SIL), has just completed concentrated sessions of linguistic training at three universities and Gordon College in the U. S. Its summer school in Great Britain was attended by more than 200 potential linguists from the United Kingdom and the continent and the course in Germany attracted 35 students. SIL courses in New Zealand and Austria are to be held later this year.

SIL's International Linguistic Center in Dallas, Texas, opens its third academic year this fall and expects a full enrollment of students, many of whom are planning to enter Bible translation or literacy work somewhere in the world.

Supporting these linguists are thousands of churches and individuals and a host of teachers, secretaries, pilots, printers and others. Wycliffe's technical arm, the Jungle Aviation and Radio Service, now operates 52 aircraft and some 450 two-way radios in 13 nations around the world, aircraft and some 450 two-way radios in 13 nations around the world, providing transportation and communication so that Bible translation can be speeded further toward a swift completion.

The multi-media production, "THE KINGDOM COME" premiering on September 29 as a part of Bible Translation Day is available for community, church and conference showing. Donations for the support of Bible translation or requests for booking of the multi-media can be sent to:

A Thought For Today

Since God is willing to forgive us, we must be willing to forgive others.

Well, we all have enjoyed a beautiful summer and are now looking forward to fall. Let us give thanks for everything great and small.

There was a good Sunday school reported at Cedar Creek. We were happy to have our pastor, the Rev. W. C. Hay and his wife back with us after a vacation that they so much deserved. They vacationed in Canada and had a wonderful time visiting many places of interest.

The worship devotionals were conducted by Brothers John West and Odell Eaton. The pastor, Rev. Hay delivered a wonderful message. At 6 p. m., the members attended the baptismal services at the Galilee Baptist Church in Winston-Salem. We thank the Lord for our new members who were baptized.

The Rev. and Mrs. L. R. Howell and daughter of Marion, N. C. have returned to their home after a vacation in New York.

Mrs. Daisy Tatum of Winston-Salem called Sunday at the home of her sister-in-law and brother Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Brock.

McKinley Eaton called Sunday at the home of E. J. and Alta Eaton.

Mrs. Helen Transou and daughter Lana and Mrs. Nora Eaton was in Winston-Salem recently shopping.

Mrs. Lucy Tatum and daughter, Cathy, Mrs. Nora Eaton, Donnie and Darin, Mrs. Melvin Parks and children, Mrs. Odell Eaton and Tracy called recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Ridgell.

Mrs. Lucy Tatum was hostess to the Homemakers Club Monday, Sept. 16th, in absence of the president. A round table discussion was held and Mrs. Ostine West gave an interesting program on Metric in Every Day Use. Our congratulations are extended to Mrs. West, and we are so happy for her. May the Lord bless her and her family.

Golden Age Club

The Davie Golden Age Club met Wednesday morning at ten in the B. C. Brock Community Building with twenty-eight in attendance. The meeting was opened with the singing of two songs. Rev. Jim Martin, assistant pastor of the Mocksville First Baptist Church was at the piano and Mrs. Nell Lashley led the singing. Rev. Martin then brought a timely and inspiring message on "Looking for things for which to be thankful and grateful." He called God a God of creation and compassion. After a fervent prayer, Rev. Martin played on his guitar and led the group in singing many familiar hymns and gospel songs.

After a business session, light refreshments were served. The theme song was sung and John McClamrock dismissed the meeting with prayer.

Myers Reunion

The Myers reunion will be held Sunday September 29, at Advance Community Building, Guilt.

Every guilty person is his own hangman.

Two Vehicles In Collision Here

A two-car accident at the intersection of Salisbury and Duke Streets resulted in over $800 in damages last Thursday afternoon.

The accident, which occurred around 4:10 p.m., involved a 1974 Dodge being driven by Thomas James Lanier, 26, of Route 4, Mocksville, and a 1972 Ford, driven by Sarah Hall Gaither, 85, of 337 North Main Street.

According to the investigating officer, Mocksville Policeman Gary Edwards, the Lanier vehicle was traveling north on Slisbury Street when the Gaither car pulled out of Duke Street and struck it in the side. The Lanier vehicle incurred $500 in damages and the Gaither car received $350 in damages.

There were no injuries in the collision. Ms. Gaither was charged with failure to see that movement could be made in safety.

Happiness

The most miserable people I have known have not been those who suffered from catastrophes - which they could blame on fate or accident - but those who had everything they wanted, except the power to enjoy it.

NOTICE OF HEARING
DOCKET NO. P-55, SUB 742
DOCKET NO. P-100, SUB 34

BEFORE THE NORTH CAROLINA UTILITIES COMMISSION:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the North Carolina Utilities Commission has instituted an investigation into the intrastate toll rates and charges, intrastate WATS rates and charges and intrastate inter-exchange private line rates and charges of all telephone companies under its jurisdiction. This action was made necessary as a result of the Commission's review of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company application for increased rates in Docket No. P-55, Sub 742, wherein Southern Bell proposes to increase its intrastate toll rates, intrastate WATS rates and intrastate inter-exchange private line rates, which if approved in whole or in part for Southern Bell only would result in non-uniform intrastate rates for these services in North Carolina.

The Commission is of the opinion that it is in the public interest to have uniform intrastate toll, WATS and inter-exchange private line rates be maintained for all telephone companies under its jurisdiction. Accordingly, on August 5, 1974, in Docket No. P-55, Sub 742 and in Docket No. P-100, Sub 34, the Commission instituted an investigation into said intrastate toll, WATS and inter-exchange private line rates making all telephone companies under its jurisdiction parties to the investigation and set the matter for hearing on January 2, 1975 at 9:30 A.M. in the Commission Hearing Room, Ruffin Building, One West Morgan Street, Raleigh, North Carolina. The Commission's investigation is for the purpose of determining if changes should be made in the present intrastate rates for these services, and if so, if the charges should be made applicable to all telephone companies under the Commission's jurisdiction.

The proposed rates and present rates are as follows:

The primary changes in toll rates herein under consideration are to convert the initial period from three minutes to one minute for station-to-station direct distance dialed (DDD) calls. This change if authorized, would permit the completion of a DDD toll call lasting one minute or less for a lower charge than such a call would cost under existing schedules. However, in most instances a call lasting three minutes would cost more under the schedule proposed by Southern Bell. As indicated in the above schedules, an increase is also requested in the rates for operator handled calls which remain at a three minute initial period. If authorized statewide, the toll scheduled as proposed will increase toll revenues by $14,880,823 for all companies combined.

The present full time WATS service at $550 per month is proposed to be changed to a limited 240 hours per month service at $605 with additional charges for overtime.

Other changes in rates, charges and regulation are proposed relating to the three services under investigation. Details of the changes are available at all Southern Bell business offices or at the North Carolina Utilities Commission, Ruffin Building, One West Morgan Street, Raleigh, North Carolina, where a copy of Southern Bell's application is available for public review. In addition to the changes proposed, the Commission Staff is directed to offer testimony and alternate toll schedules for Commission consideration, to be filed with the Commission no later than 20 days prior to the hearing date of January 2, 1975.

The Commission requires that each company inform its customers of the following procedures by which their comments regarding the rate application can be made part of the record of the case upon which the Commission must base its decision. Persons desiring to intervene in the matter as formal parties of record should file a motion under North Carolina Utilities Commission Rules R-6, R-17 and R-19 on or before December 16, 1974. Persons desiring to present testimony for the record should appear at the public hearing. Persons desiring to send written statements to the Commission should submit their statements prior to the hearing, and should include any information which those persons wish to be considered by the Commission Staff in its investigation of the matter. The contents of letters and petitions will be received in the official file as statements of position. Specific facts will be considered on the basis of testimony presented at the public hearing. Interventions or statements shall be addressed to the North Carolina Utilities Commission, P. O. Box 991, Raleigh, North Carolina 27602.

North Carolina law provides that the Attorney General may represent the using and consuming public in proceedings before the Utilities Commission. Should you wish to contact the Attorney General, his address is as follows: Mr. I. Beverly Lake, Jr., Deputy Attorney General, P. O. Box 692, Raleigh, North Carolina.

DAVIE COUNTY ENTERPRISE RECORD

N.C. Soil Conservation Expands Its Services

During the fiscal year concluded June 30, 1974, the Soil Conservation Service in North Carolina expanded its professional services both to individual farmers and landowners and to local units of government. This was disclosed today by State Conservationist Jesse L. Hicks of Raleigh, who heads the federal conservation agency in North Carolina.

Technical assistance to individuals climbed to 32,263, ahead of 31,244 the year previous. But assistance to units of government scored a dramatic increase. Some 755 governmental units received 3,497 services during the year, in contrast with 2,216 services provided to 603 governmental agencies the year previous.

Such services can range from soils data in planning land use to locating sites for sanitary landfills. During the past year considerable emphasis on erosion control has been provided, as more municipal and county governments move to implement the new statewide law on sedimentation control.

For years farmers have received SCS assistance on a wide range of conservation problems, ranging from farm pond location to cover crops, field borders, stripcropping, tree planting, wildlife food and habitat, and other practices.

"No matter whether SCS assistance has gone to farmers, other landowners, or government leaders," Jesse Hicks pointed out, "the assistance has been aimed at erosion control, environmental improvement and a better quality food supply and farm income."

One of the biggest increases in agricultural practices came in the growing practice of minimum tillage, with 27,875 acres of "no till," as many farmers call it, planted with SCS assistance, up from 24,422 acres the previous year. This practice is one of the most effective methods of controlling run-off and erosion, with row crops planted in stubble or other residue with almost no conventional tillage.

Substantial assistance in a number of other farm categories that contribute to environmental improvement, wildlife habitat, increased food production and farm income is reported. Tree planting assistance was provided on 2,632 acres.

Local area planting, where crops suitable to the land are planted to repair severe erosion or similar problems, is reported on 2,632 acres. Stripcropping, which helps control both water and wind erosion, was listed on 4,316 acres.

Altogether, some 2,337 new conservation plans were written on farms, to help landowners improve their conservation effort.

Contour farming, an effective measure for erosion control, increased with 18,193 acres planted. This was a gain from 17,877 the year previous.

Farm ponds have long been a favorite North Carolina practice. Jesse Hicks commented "We have helped with more than 68,000 through the years, and landowners use them for everything from livestock water to irrigation to sediment control. And they provide some of the best fishing you can find in North Carolina."

During the year 295 farm ponds were installed with SCS assistance. One category of SCS service shared both by urban and rural landowners, as well as municipalities and counties, is the natural resource inventory and evaluation, where SCS makes an evaluation and provides a recommendation for solving a particular problem, ranging from site location for a building to the best way to solve a septic tank or water control problem. During the fiscal year 2,431 requests were served in this category, a healthy increase over 1,752 the previous year.

"The nature of the requests that we receive tell us that we're supplying technical assistance that the people want, whether they are a board of county commissioners, a health department, an individual farmer or someone facing an urban land problem. We only regret that, due to a shortage of people, we sometimes are unable to serve a request as soon as we like to.

"But on the other hand we are glad that we can provide technical services, working through local soil and water conservation districts, in all one hundred North Carolina counties," Jesse Hicks concluded.

"We will continue to do our best to fill the demands. We can see that the work being done is making a solid contribution in overall conservation, environmental quality, food production, the farm economy and solving problems that sometimes can be knotty ones."

Farm Is Toured

Approximately 125 kindergarten and first grade youth from Mocksville Elementary School visited the farm of Glenn Koontz on Thursday and Friday mornings, September 19 and 20. The farm tours were planned by Bill Westbrook and Jim Sloop, of the Agricultural Extension Service.

The students fed the baby calves and chickens and saw goats, horses and pigs on Mr. Koontz's farm. The tours were planned as a "learning by doing" experience for kindergarten youth.

cherries. We also put in a lot of brood trout, some of which run up to as much as 25 inches." During the afternoon, Jerry showed me the ponds where trout are kept prior to hatching. Most of the fish were large brood trout and we saw quite a few rainbows and browns that topped 20 inches.

"We don't have the pressure on our streams in the fall that we have in the spring and summer," said Jerry, "but we still like to have our fishermen clean out the hatchery trout as nearly as possible so that they won't compete with the wild trout in the streams over the winter."

What this means, of course, is that there will be plenty of trout to be caught in Cherokee during the next two months, and you won't have much competition catching them.

Admittedly, Cherokee is not the place to go if you are looking primarily for wild trout fishing in secluded waters, but for the angler who just likes to catch fish and doesn't mind sharing a stretch of water with other fishermen, it can be a lot of fun.

For some families, Cherokee offers another asset. While dad fishes the stream, his wife and kids can visit the various museums, the Indian village and other points of interest. Of course, some may find Cherokee's resort atmosphere unappealing, but others like it.

Marlin Perkins, explorer, conservationist, and star of "Mutual of Omaha's Wild Kingdom" since 1963, is in his 29th year of relating first-hand observations on wildlife.

Travel to the Caribbean Sea for a look at the endangered humpback whale. Or visit the unusual animals—from wombats to platypuses—on the Furneaux Islands south of Australia. You can do all this, and more, when "Mutual of Omaha's Wild Kingdom" premieres its 13th consecutive television season this September.

The show, ranked number one among all syndicated programs in terms of viewing audience during the past three years, will be shown on over 220 television stations across the nation, providing a blend of education and adventure for viewers.

World-famed zoologist Marlin Perkins returns to host the program, a role he has filled since the program's inception in 1963. Making his original television debut in 1945, Perkins has journeyed to every corner of the animal kingdom, making first-hand observations on wildlife habitat. As in the past, the program will feature the action of the wild kingdom, while working with scientists and researchers to emphasize environmental and wildlife conservation. Professional scientists will play even greater roles in the series—appearing in, and sometimes narrating, program segments.

A free World Map and Program Guide for the 1974-75 season is available at local Mutual of Omaha offices.

One Of The Boys!

... It just takes a lot to bring him down . . . but he never gives up. That's Dickie Sheek, leader of the Royal Ambassadors of Edgewood Baptist Church in Cooleemee, working out on the church lawn with his boys after their regular meeting. Following their RA meeting, they usually engage in whatever sports activity is in season. (Photo by Jim Barringer)

A Look At The Housing Industry Crisis

Five times since the end of World War II America's housing industry has skidded into a slump. In the past seven years alone a slump has occurred three times. One of those slumps continues today and promises to be the worst. All of which raises the question, why can't someone come up with something that will prevent a recurrence of the housing industry downturn? In the first place, the situation does not lend itself to simple solutions since the causes are not simple, and secondly, there are solutions available which industry leaders believe will work if tried, according to John C. Milliner, Jr., Executive Vice President, Southeastern Lumber Manufacturers Association, an association of 230 lumber manufacturers located in seven southeastern states. Part of the solution is also part of the problem; namely the U. S. Congress. The Congress is seen by many as one of the big villains in the whole economic mess faced by the country today. Before solutions can be tried, Congress must act on proposals placed before it. Congressional spending binges have been greatly responsible for today's double digit inflation.

The housing industry's money problems occur on two fronts: (1) for the builder, who needs money to erect structures and (2) for the consumer who needs money to buy what the builder constructs. On both fronts the builder and the buyer are burdened by the highest interest rates in our history.

Maintaining an adequate commercial flow of money into the housing market is directly related to the ability of financial lenders, specifically thrift institutions, to channel funds into mortgage commitments. High interest rates have accelerated "disintermediation", a process which basically reflects a net outflow of deposits from savings banks as depositors obtain high returns on their funds elsewhere. This first took place in mid-1973, and mortgage money tightened appreciably last summer with the result that housing starts by late 1973 fell to an annual rate of about 1.5 million units. Net withdrawals from savings banks are again restricting the availability of mortgage money. Net withdrawals from savings and loan associations alone during April were estimated at $335 million, while over $600 million moved out of savings banks. Net withdrawals from these institutions see likely as long as key interest rates remain high. If this does occur, home building this year will probably drop to 1.6 million units or lower.

A number of proposals have been suggested to reform the financial structure of the economy, so that housing would not be the first to feel the pinch every time interest rates rise. One of the most frequently suggested policies is to provide an incentive for people to put their money in savings and loan associations or other thrift institutions by way of a tax credit.
