Town Competes For State Excellence Awards

By G. Dale Neal
In an effort to parade the community as a good place for industry as well as people, Mocksville has entered the competition for the Governor's Community of Excellence awards.
Each year, the North Carolina Department of Commerce judges applicant communities with populations under 15,000 on industrial development. Last year, 110 cities applied and 77 received Community of Excellence distinctions.
Mocksville is being sponsored in the contest by the Davie County Council of Economic Development. While Davie exceeds the population requirement, the council will be quick to point out the attractions of the whole county as well as Mocksville's appeal to new industry, says Terry Bralley, town administrator. "The gist of the award is how prepared a community is to seek out and recruit new industry," said Bralley. "We've put a lot of manhours into preparation. I think it's a super program that will keep us on our toes for recruiting industry."

"As the trends have been going, industries have been moving out of the Frost Belt into the Sun Belt. North Carolina is prime for development, and our community wants to be prepared and part of that development."
Bralley is familiar with the judging since he was asked to serve on the panel which graded Reidsville's and Mt. Airy's industrial potential. The panel is made up of five members, usually two from the Department of Commerce and representatives of finance, public administration and local industry.
"It's role playing," said Bralley. "The panel comes in much like an industry would. They send us a case study in advance. The panel fires off questions for us to answer, the things industries would want to know. They want to hear about the availability of labor, the liveability of the area, recreation, government services, and so on."

"We have to be like professional salesmen, selling Mocksville and our people."
Bralley feels that Mocksville has some "tremendous assets" such as a surplus of water available in the county.
"And when you're talking water and sewage, you're talking the backbone of industry," explained Bralley.
Another plus for Mocksville and Davie County are the low city and county taxes which are prevalent across the state, and which attract northern industries. The area is very accessible to major

County Officials Skeptical Of Plan For Low Income Housing

By G. Dale Neal

A new plan for allocating low income housing assistance through regions of the N.C. Council of Government (COG) rather than through the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development was presented to the Davie County Board of Commissioners Tuesday.

Bill Collins, representing Region I of the COG, told the commissioners that HUD would like to relinquish a part of its current allocation authority to the Region. He presented them with a detailed Area-wide Housing Opportunity Plan under consideration by boards of commissioners in the five counties of this region, Davie, Forsyth, including Winston-Salem, Stokes, Surry and Yadkin.

The Region's plan is a detailed strategy to be implemented over the next three years in informing those eligible for free or assisted housing and the builders who want the government contracts. Collins said the housing need was "severe", in the area.

The commissioners, however, were skeptical, especially of the data for projected population increases in Davie County.

"I question your people's work," said John Brock, county attorney. "You say the need here is severe using totally irrelevant figures." Brock was referring to the low population increase projected for Davie County and the high figure assigned to Winston-Salem, despite the opposite figures in the unofficial releases of the 1980 census.

"I think this would create a tremendous appetite for public housing," said Brock.

Glenn Howard, chairman of the board, questioned whether the plan would bring people into the county for the housing or the jobs.

The commissioners seemed to want hard facts instead of figures. Collins will ask for a resolution from the board at their next meeting in October.

The board of commissioners also heard a report from a committee of the Interagency Council studying the need for a centralized crisis control ministry in Davie County.

Larry Staples, minister of the Union Chapel at Chestnut Grove, acted as spokesman informing the board of his committee's efforts which began in the spring during the threatened cut-off of foodstamps.

Michael Kirkpatrick, juvenile court counselor, reported on the committee's visit to the Crisis Control Ministry in Winston-Salem, which he argued could serve as a model on a smaller scale in Davie County.

Lynn Privette, a social worker, reported on the group's polling of various ministers and agencies in the county on the need for a centralized crisis assistance program.

Betty Griffith, who works with school health services, summarized the need for centralization and coordination of services providing food, clothing and other help to the needy.

Staples added, "I am becoming more and more convinced that the needs are not being met. The people we have talked to tell us there is a need for a

Sales Tax Funds

A total of $123,638.85 came to Davie County from sales and use tax levies for the quarter ending June 30, 1980. Of this amount, the Town of Mocksville received $14,902.69 and the County of Davie, $108,736.26.

crisis ministry in Davie County." The board of commissioners were supportive of the committee's efforts, suggesting ways to raise funds through the Ministerial Association.

Medicaid Programs Paid $1,684,892 During 1979-80 For Health Care In Davie

North Carolina's Medicaid program paid hospital and other medical bills amounting to $391.5 million during the 1979-80 fiscal year for health care provided the state's 453,000 eligible recipients—an increase of almost $50 million over the previous year. Total Medicaid expenditures in Davie County for 1978-79 amounted to $1,515,516 of which $103,242 was provided by county funds. During the fiscal year of 1978-79, total Medicaid payments were $1,684,892 of which $121,483 was provided by county funds.

Medicaid is a medical assistance program for certain kinds of needy and low-income people such as the aged, the blind, the disabled, members of families with dependent children and some other children.

Money from federal, state and county taxes pays medical bills for persons determined eligible for Medicaid by county social services departments. Eligibility is based on federal and state regulations. At the state level, the Division of Medical Assistance of the N.C. Department of Human Resources is responsible for running the program and paying the claims. The Division has contracted with a private company to handle claims processing and certain other administrative services.

The federal share of the 1979-80 payments amounted to $263.7 million, the state $101.3 million, and counties $26.5 million.

In past years, hospitals accounted for the largest expenditures, but this year they were paid less than long term care facilities. Skilled nursing homes and private intermediate care facilities were paid $120.3 million. Last year they received $101.6 million.

Hospitals across the state were paid $117.2 million for inpatient and outpatient care. The prior year they were paid $106.1 million.

In addition to these amounts, state operated mental hospitals were paid $10.5 million and intermediate care facilities for the mentally retarded $43.5 million.

Physicians were paid $30.9 million, and they prescribed almost $31 million in drugs that was paid to pharmacies across the state.

Dentists were paid $12.1 million and clinics $8 million.

Many Medicaid recipients are also eligible for Medicare. The state paid $8.6 million in part B Medicare insurance premiums for these recipients so most of their out of hospital medical expenses would be paid from Medicare funds which do not require state and county funds. This investment has saved substantial state and county funds in past years.

When people are determined eligible for Medicare by county social services departments, they receive an identification card to show medical providers when they are treated. The provider submits a claim to Electronic Data Systems Federal (EDSF), the state's contractor, and is paid for the service. EDSF has subcontracted the prescription drug program claims processing to the Computer Company of Richmond.

During the 1978-79 federal fiscal year, 9,500 providers submitted 6,559,574 claims for payment.

Three Are Injured In Wreck On US 64

Three people were taken to Davie County Hospital for treatment of injuries received in an accident Sunday on US 64 East, 1.9 miles east of Mocksville.

According to the Highway Patrol, a 1972 Mercury, operated by Amelia Howard Bailey, 43, of Lexington, crossed the center line and struck a 1968 Mercury, driven by Rebekah Talbert, 67, of Advance. The Patrol report stated that Bailey appeared to be intoxicated at the time.

Both Bailey and Talbert, and a passenger in the Bailey vehicle, were taken to Davie County Hospital for treatment of injuries.

Damage to each vehicle was estimated at $500. Trooper A.C. Stokes investigated.

Rainfall

Rainfall for the month of August in Davie County amounted to only .92 of an inch. During the month of August 1979, 2.62 inches of rain were recorded.

There was no rainfall during the last week in August.

August Was Hot & Dry

August was no joke. As the dog days broiled away, no one even suggested going outside to see if an egg would fry on the sidewalks of Mocksville.

The sweat on everyone's forehead was about the only moisture in Mocksville as a scant .92 inches of rain were recorded in the city during August. Last August, over 2 inches of rain came down in the city.

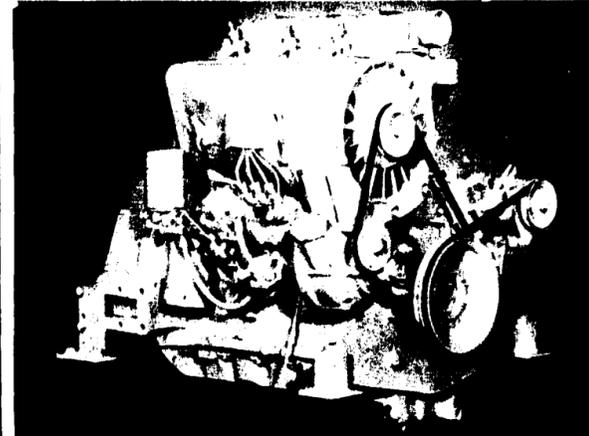

Hot and dry was the news for the month in surrounding counties. The National Weather Service at the Triad's Regional Airport declared the past 31 days the second hottest August on record since the weather station began in 1929. This month's average temperature was 78.7 degrees topped only by the mercury in August of 1975 which averaged an even 80 degrees.

At the Airport, only 2.14 inches of rainfall were recorded, half of the normal August rainfall of 4.30 inches.

In Rowan County, the news was hotter, with an average high temperature of 92.4 degrees. On August 1 and August 9, the heat went into three digits at 100 degrees. Thirsty crops in Rowan drank in only 2.11 inches of rain during the month.

Mocksville seemed to be the driest spot around as most of the thunderstorms burst in the county during August—good for the crops, but no relief for the city.

Ingersoll-Rand Receives First U.S. Assembled Deutz Engines

The first Deutz "AirDiesel" engines to be assembled in the United States were delivered to Ingersoll-Rand for use in the "Spiro-Flo" 175-cfm portable compressor. Ingersoll-Rand has been using the three-cylinder F3L912 engine since 1977. Registered Trademark

The first "AirDiesel" engines to be assembled in the United States were delivered this week to Ingersoll-Rand in Mocksville for use in that firm's line of portable air compressors, it was announced at the Deutz engine manufacturing facility in Richmond, Ind.

The initial order of 54-horsepower F3L912 in-line engines will be installed in Ingersoll-Rand's "Spiro-Flo" 175-cfm portable compressors used for building, highway and bridge construction, as well as in sandblasting, demolition, and other applications. Ingersoll-Rand has been using four-cylinder, air-cooled Deutz diesels since 1974, and three-cylinder engines since 1977. These are the first Deutz engines to be assembled in the U.S.

According to Bill Bishop, manager of sales support for Ingersoll-Rand portable compressors, the "AirDiesel" engines fit well in the construction industry and are well accepted in the marketplace. He attributes this to the engine's low-maintenance and low fuel consumption. Because Deutz engines are air-cooled, there are no hoses, radiators or water pumps to maintain. And recent fuel economy tests conducted by Ingersoll-Rand showed that the 175-cfm Spiro-Flo compressor with the "AirDiesel" had 19 percent lower fuel consumption than a competitive compressor.

Headquartered in Woodcliff Lake, N.J., Ingersoll-Rand manufactures and markets a full line of compressors, drills, compactors, tools and pumping equipment worldwide. Sales in 1979 were over $2.5 billion.

Deutz diesel engines are manufactured by Klockner-Humboldt-Deutz (KHD), one of the largest independent engine suppliers in the world. Headquartered in Cologne, West Germany, the firm annually produces more than 170,000 diesel engines worldwide, accounting for 90 percent of the world's multi-cylinder, air-cooled diesels.

In December 1979, KHD acquired a facility in Richmond, Ind., to manufacture Deutz engines to better serve the needs of North American customers.

According to Richard O'Leary, chairman of North American Operations for KHD, the Indiana facility will, when fully operational, have the Medical Diagnostics Dr. John Farris (r) and Steve Motsinger of Winston-Salem talk about Medical Diagnostics, a mobile nuclear medicine unit to be operated by the two. The unit will be making twice weekly stops at the Davie County Hospital soon.

Nuclear Medicine Team To Visit Davie Hospital Twice Each Week

Medical Diagnostics, a traveling nuclear medicine team, will be making stops twice weekly at the Davie County Hospital soon.

Medical Diagnostics is the creation of Dr. John Farris of Winston-Salem, who will be aided by Steve Motsinger. The two will take their mobile nuclear medicine equipment to several area hospitals, including Davie, Yadkinville, Danbury and Stuart, Va.

Nuclear medicine, a sub-specialty of radiology deals with the use of radio-isotopes to diagnose disease. The process, which is "harmless" according to Farris, is mainly used to diagnose cancer and the spread of cancer, or heart and lung diseases.

Several of the larger hospitals in North Carolina already have nuclear medicine equipment and doctors, but small hospitals such as Davie's do not have enough demand to afford the purchase of such equipment. Although mobile nuclear medicine units are in operation in other parts of the nation, the one run by Dr. Farris will be the first in North Carolina.

Current plans will have Medical Diagnostics stopping at the Davie County Hospital on Monday and Thursday afternoons. They expect the equipment to arrive in September, with service beginning sometime in November.

Patients treated by Medical Diagnostics will be injected with a drug containing radio-isotopes. The drug will concentrate in the organ to be

Careless And Reckless Driving Charged

The driver of a 1969 Ford was charged with careless and reckless driving following an accident Aug. 28, 4.4 miles west of Mocksville.

According to the Highway Patrol, the Ford, operated by James Lloyd Mischler, 19, of Mocksville, attempted to pass another vehicle when an oncoming 1977 Ford truck, operated by John Henry Boger, 33, of Rt. 1 Mocksville, caused him to swerve back into the right lane. Mischler then lost control of his vehicle, swerved back into the left lane and struck the Boger vehicle, which had moved onto the shoulder in an attempt to avoid a head-on collision. The vehicle driven by Mischler then came back across the road, ran off the right side and went down an embankment.

Damage to each vehicle was estimated at $800.

Trooper A.C. Stokes investigated.

Sheriff's Department

The following incidents were reported to and are under investigation by the Davie County Sheriff's Department:

A breaking and entering and larceny was reported August 11 by William Burden of Rt. 3 Advance. A watch and a coin collection was reported taken.

David Whitaker of Rt. 7 Mocksville reported the larceny of a rod and reel valued at $80 July 29. The merchandise was recovered two days later by the Sheriff's Dept.

John Edward Osborne of Rt. 7 Mocksville reported a breaking and entering and larceny in which some change and checks were reported taken. The incident occurred August 27.

Evidence was found that cows had been slaughtered after John Robert Riddle of Rt. 1 Mocksville reported some missing cows August 5.

A breaking and entering and larceny was reported by Bobby Clay Hege of Rt. 2 Advance August 23. Reported taken was a gun, valued at $225; $75 in change, an instamatic camera, and two watches, one with diamonds.

A breaking and entering and larceny in which items valued at more than $200 was reported August 25 by Cecelia H. Breeden of Rt. 1 Mocksville. Items included a stereo and speakers, a television, some change and jewelry.

Kathrine Kilby of Advance reported August 22 the larceny of 17 old silver coins, five liberty dimes, four quarters, six old half dollars and two pint jars of pennies.

A freezer and food valued at $500 was reported taken in a breaking and entering and larceny reported August 28 by Barbara Gynn Whitaker of Rt. 2 Mocksville.

Larry Mickle Spry of Cooleemee reported August 29 the larceny of a bicycle valued at $70.

David Harris of Cooleemee reported August 16 the larceny of a bicycle valued at $125.

Three arrests were made recently by the Sheriff's Dept.:

Liola Rachel Wardlaw, 52, of Peoples Creek Road in Advance, was arrested July 30 and charged with assault with a deadly weapon.

Joseph White, 46, of Cooleemee, was arrested August 31 and charged with assault with a deadly weapon.

Jerry J. Watkins, 25, of Cooleemee, was arrested August 31 and charged with assault with a deadly weapon.

A Mount Airy man, apparently moved by a guilty conscience, turned himself in to Sheriff George Smith of the Davie County Sheriff's Department August 25.

The man, Albert Louis Mankins, 33, escaped from the Davie County Prison unit in 1972.

diagnosed, and a "gamma camera" to let Dr. Farris see the organ will be scanned over the area.

Dr. Farris said that one of the advantages of nuclear medicine was that the needle injection would be the only penetration into the patient's body for diagnosis. He said that nuclear medicine would be "in the long run, financially and physically beneficial to the patient." Dr. Farris is not involved in treatment of disease, just the detection of it.

The radio-isotopes used by Dr. Farris are "not dangerous in the doses that are used." State law regulates the use of these radio-isotopes, and Motsinger will go through the hospital with a radiation detection machine after every visit to insure patients that the radioactivity level meets standards. Motsinger said that any wastes created or brought into the county would be taken out.

Dr. Farris, a 1967 graduate of the Bowman Gray School of Medicine, studied radiology, specializing in nuclear medicine. Along with a private radiology practice in Winston-Salem for 15 years, Dr. Farris also is an assistant professor in nuclear medicine at Bowman Gray.

Motsinger, a nuclear medicine technologist, graduated from Forsyth Tech in 1974. He has been working as a radio-isotope technician at Baptist Hospital in Winston-Salem.

Brake Failure Apparent Cause Of Aug. 26 Accident

Brake failure was the apparent cause of an accident in which a Mocksville man was injured Aug. 26 on Deadman Road.

According to the Highway Patrol, a 1973 Ford truck, driven by Raymond Franklin McBride, 68, of Main St. in Cooleemee, was unable to stop at an intersection because of apparent brake failure when it struck a 1974 Ford truck, driven by James Clifford Seaford, 35, of Rt. 4 Mocksville. Seaford was taken to the Davie County Hospital for treatment of injuries received in the accident.

No charges were filed in the accident, investigated by Trooper J.L. Payne.

Damage to the McBride vehicle was estimated at $500, while damage to the Seaford vehicle was estimated at $3200.

appropriation has been allocated for "start-up" efforts and $5.4 million has been allocated to the 100 county social services departments for the purchase of day care. Counties are not required to provide any local matching money. It is possible during the year that some limited additional state funds may also be allocated to county social services departments.

Appalachian Regional Commission Child Development projects in the western section of the state have been allocated $822,000.

Hi! I'm Kathy Jones. I was 2 years old Sunday, August 31st. My daddy and mommy are Jim and Lynne Jones. They had a birthday supper for me Saturday night at our house on Hardison Street. My Grandpa and Grandma Wilson, Uncle Larry and Aunt Susie, cousins David and Brian Wilson, my great-aunt Edrie Wilson, and my aunt Janet and cousin Joy Seamon all came for supper. We had a lot of good food and a Mickey Mouse birthday cake and ice cream for dessert. I got a lot of nice presents and had such a good time. I can't wait til next year!

UNC's Institute Of Outdoor Drama Responsible For Rapid Growth Of Historical Presentations In Nation

By Robert B. Spencer

The Institute of Outdoor Drama, a unique agency of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, is partly responsible for the rapid national growth of outdoor historical drama since the early 1960s. At that time, some 13 outdoor historical dramas were operating, many helped into being by the drama staff at the University. Now some 37 major productions and 16 smaller ones will be playing to nearly two million people across the country this summer season.

Often civic organizations decide to produce a dramatization of a climactic event in their area's history, to increase economic activity and civic pride. A perfect instrument for this, they find, is symphonic outdoor drama.

Known as "America's epic theatre," this form is described by author Paul Green: "By symphonic I mean the blending of all the arts and elements of stagecraft—music, dancing, folk song, choreographic movement, sound effects, pageantry, masks when needed, mental speech or what not—all working like the cooperative sections of a symphony orchestra in moving forward the characterization and story line of the piece."

The groups that begin considering such a production usually turn to the Institute of Outdoor Drama, a national service agency of the University of North Carolina.

The nation's first full-scale symphonic outdoor drama was Green's "The Lost Colony" at Manteo, N.C., which opened in 1937 and still plays every summer. The University of North Carolina was involved from the start with this production and with later dramas, an involvement which grew into the creation of the institute. The institute staff, headed by Director Mark R. Sumner, includes Ruby M. Pittman, office manager; Penny Wilson, secretary; and Robert B. Spencer, assistant to the director. They provide assistance to prospective outdoor drama producers, starting in the planning stages and to operating dramas.

A professional advisory service of the institute assists planning groups all over the country. This service is assisted by funding help from the National Endowment for the Arts, a federal agency. Planning assistance and feasibility study appraisals are provided by the institute in collaboration with the sponsoring agencies.

Information is provided to the planning groups and to the media in techniques of outdoor drama organization, management, production, acting, writing, dance, music and other theater arts.

The institute also aids performers. Auditions are held annually for employment in outdoor drama, with organization, advertising and operation being handled by the institute. The University's facilities also are used.

A limited placement service for individual performers and staff members is available and is offered to companies upon request. A file is kept of people who have worked well in staff or who have held principal roles. Job counseling is given to individual artists and students throughout the country.

The institute assists in the exchange of information and materials between outdoor theaters and other types of theaters and theater service organizations. Articles for regional and national public information are written, or their writers provided with source material.

Research in design, equipment, performance techniques, management and promotion is conducted independently and with the help of the productions and commercial companies.

Even play criticism for authors is provided, either through skilled readers with writing or directing experience, or group reading sessions with open criticism.

A steady exchange of information is encouraged between the outdoor drama field and governmental and national service agencies. A monthly Newsletter and frequent bulletins are published, and films are made. Speakers and lecturers on outdoor drama are available through the Institute.

Special educational and informational projects are operated, such as the Hammocks Beach Performing Arts Institute; the annual Managers, Promoters and Directors Conference; the Playwrights Conference; and the National Outdoor Drama Conference.

Specific theater and planning services are available when requested and funded by theater companies.

An archives at the Institute preserves information about outdoor drama productions. Included are play scripts, samples of the types of successful publicity, architectural plans and photographs of each theater, financial information and organizational material such as charters, bylaws and contracts.

It is hoped that soon information will be added about outdoor dramas around the world.

The University's interest in outdoor drama began in the 1920s, when the department of dramatic art and its Carolina Playmakers began working to develop the form in the United States. Drama staff members were instrumental in the production of "The Lost Colony" in 1937, chiefly the late Frederick H. Koch and the late Samuel Selden. Subsequently the department was inundated with requests from all over the country for assistance with outdoor drama productions.

The late Harry E. Davis wrote: "The fact that this type of drama exists at all may in one sense be credited largely to the influence of the Playmaker family."

Davis, Selden and others handled the requests for aid for years, but it became increasingly apparent that an agency concerned specifically with outdoor drama education and service was needed. In January 1963 the Institute of Outdoor Drama was established by the University.

The individual members of the Institute's original Administrative Board, John Ehle, Paul Green, Kermit Hunter, Charles Milner, John Parker, Thomas Patterson, Selden and Davis already had worked for years with outdoor drama, so the institute was quickly and easily set up as a central source of information. Green, Ehle, Patterson and Hunter have all written outdoor dramas. Selden and Davis were both chairmen of the department of dramatic art for some time; Arthur Housman is the current chairman, and Parker is a professor emeritus.

An Advisory Board also was established, composed of leaders in all types of American theater. Renowned actors Andy Griffith and John Houseman are among its members; also, playwright - composer Richard Adler; IBM Comptroller F.G. Award; Rosamond Gilder, the director of the U.S. Center for the International Theatre Institute; author - stage designer Mordecai Gorelik; critic Henry Hewes; RKO's Robert Dale Martin; Fine Arts Assistant Dean Christian H. Moe of Southern Illinois University; and Donald R. Seawell, play and film producer and chairman of the board of the American National Theatre and Academy.

The Institute of Outdoor Drama is equipped to provide many services to beginning and existing outdoor dramas. Sumner reports an 80 - percent success rate with outdoor dramas beginning between 1937 and 1976. Much of the institute's efforts go to finding the reasons for success, and determining what will have the best effect in the future. Through these efforts Sumner hopes to find most of the traps that these non-profit theater companies may hit and alert the companies as to best procedures.

Democrats Meet Thursday Night

The Davie County Democrat Party Executive Committee will meet Thursday night, September 4, at 7:30 p.m. in the Davie County Court House. This is an open meeting and all Democrats are invited. A special invitation is extended to Precinct Chairmen and their committees.

Driver Is Charged

The driver of a 1974 Ford was charged with an improper equipment violation after an accident on North Main St. in Mocksville Tuesday.

According to a police report, a 1974 Ford, driven by Renee Austin Potts, 24, of Rt. 7 Mocksville, was attempting to make a right turn when it was struck by a 1967 Chevrolet, driven by Aaron Keith Wensil, 19, of Cooleemee. The brake lights and right turn signal on the Potts vehicle was inoperative, according to the report.

Damage to the Wensil vehicle was estimated at $350, while damage to the Potts vehicle was estimated at $300.

Officer G.A. Bagshaw investigated.

Car Goes Dead Wrecks In Rich Park

A vehicle went dead and ran off Park Road in Rich Park Labor Day, according to a police report.

According to the report, a 1975 Ford, operated by Joyce Fletcher Foster, 39, of Rt. 1, Mocksville, was pulling from Shelter No. 1 when the car went dead, causing the steering and braking systems to fail.

No damage was reported to the car. No charges were filed in the accident, investigated by Chief C. A. Carter.

Michelle Lynn Smith celebrated her first birthday, Friday, August 22, with a party at her home on Route 3, Mocksville. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Johnny L. Smith. Her cake was round and decorated with pink roses. Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. B.T. Daniels of Rt. 4, Mocksville; and Mr. and Mrs. Gray F. Smith of Route 3, Mocksville.

capacity to produce over 40,000 Deutz air-cooled engines a year. Ranging from three to six cylinders, this existing line of naturally aspirated and turbo-charged "Air-Diesel" engines will be used in automotive, construction, mining, agricultural and other applications throughout the U.S. and Canada.

KHD traces its roots to the world's first engine factory formed in 1864 by Nicholas August Otto and Eugen Langen. Today the firm is one of the leading corporations in Germany. KHD also manufactures Deutz agricultural tractors and farm implements, and Humboldt-Wedag industrial plants for developing and processing natural resources.

A multinational company with operations in 20 countries, KHD employs 32,000 people. Worldwide sales in 1979 were in excess of $2 billion.

transportation arteries such as railroads and interstates.

There are also no unions within the county.

"Industry likes that," said Bralley. "As a whole, I think we have some of the most productive workers in the state and in the nation. They take pride in their work."

The panel will be in Mocksville for the judging at 2:00 Thursday afternoon, September 4. Helping Bralley promote Mocksville will be a board of community leaders.

Bob Wallace, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, is coordinator for the presentation.

Richard Beck, president of the Davie County Council for Economic Development and a Central Carolina Bank official, will advise the panel on available industrial sites.

Ed Goodwin, a Duke Power official, will represent existing industries in the county.

Lawrence Reavis, a county commissioner, heads the development team.

Mayor R.C. Smith is in charge of promotion materials which include a recently revamped slide show.

Ron Vogler, a First Federal Bank official, is in charge of community planning.

Julius Sultzer, a Mocksville educator, will present the liveability aspects of the community.

The Department of Commerce will finish judging all the applicant communities in October. In mid-November, Governor Hunt will hold a conference to make the Community of Excellence awards.

If Mocksville wins an award, it could mean tangible benefits in the future, since the Department of Commerce refers prospective industries to Communities of Excellence.

Competition for industries can be fierce, according to Richard Beck. There were 16 communities in six different states wooing the counties latest industry, Crownwood, a manufacturer of television cabinets.

You must take the time to devote yourself to these people," explained Beck, "and you have to continue the effort to help. I think the Community of Excellence program can help us to be prepared for new industries."

Artists Put On Finishing Touches

Dot Walker of Mocksville will make the Davie Arts Alive Festival one of her many stops at craft shows this year. Her patchwork and calico items, including pillows, tote-bags and a doll, will be priced from $3 to $15.

6th Annual Arts Alive Festival September 20

Artists and craftsmen, both local and elsewhere, are putting finishing touches on items to be sold and viewed at the Sixth Annual Arts Alive Festival to be held Saturday, September 20th on the square in Mocksville.

Pictured here are only a few of the artists and craftsmen to be displaying and selling their creations here on festival day.

In addition to the displays of arts and crafts exhibits, there will be portrait sketching, spinning and weaving demonstrations, calligraphy, all types of special entertainment, street dancing, good food, fun and frolic for everyone.

The festival is expected to get in full swing by 10 a.m. on September 20th and run continuously until midnight.

Garry Foster

James Murphey of Mocksville will not have anything for sale, but will have some of his mounted prints on display. He said he started his form of art as a hobby about five years ago.

Alvin Richardson of Route 6, Mocksville will be on the square September 20 to demonstrate the blacksmith trade. Richardson, who has worked as a blacksmith for 41 years, will have handmade horse shoes, hoof picks and other items for sale.

Joe and Maggie Raintree are fascinated with the display of hand carved toys at the 5th Annual Arts Alive Festival last year. These wooden toys, as well as other hand carved items, will again be featured at this year's event.

Jean Pope, owner of P.B.'s Hobby Shop in Mocksville, will have hydrocol, chenille and macrame items for sale at this year's Arts Alive Festival. The items will be priced from $2 to $50.

Pat Dull of Mocksville, another cross-stitch artist, will have items such as baby bibs and Christmas ornaments for sale at the festival. She said the items would be priced from $2.

Marjorie Hoyle of Cooleemee will have water colorings for sale at the festival. Hoyle, who has been painting for about five years, said the paintings would be priced from $25 to $50. This will be her first year at the Davie festival.

Belle Boger, of Statesville Road in Mocksville, plans to sell some of her counted cross-stitch creations at the festival. She has been attending shows for about 12 years. Her pieces will be priced from $4 to $25.

Center Fair Is Next Week

Plans are nearing completion for the annual Center Fair and barbecue to be held Friday and Saturday, September 12 and 13.

Pre-registration for entries is not necessary. Entries will be received from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m., Friday (Sept. 12) and until 9 a.m. Saturday (Sept. 13).

Fair books are completed and may be obtained at the Davie Extension Office and office of the Register of Deeds.

Cash prizes and ribbons will be awarded for first and second prize in each category.

All residents of Davie County are invited to enter exhibits in the fair.

Pit cooked barbecue will be available all day Friday, September 12, and Saturday, September 13. A barbecue supper will be served beginning at 4 p.m. on Saturday.

In addition to the exhibits, the fair will feature special entertainment at 7:30 p.m. on Saturday, September 13th.

Members of the Jerusalem and Coolemeemee Fire Departments battled a blaze at the Eugene Jones residence on Boxwood Church Road. The fire occurred late morning, August 27.

Davie Hospital Committee Meets

The executive committee of the Davie County Hospital Auxiliary held its regular monthly meeting Thursday, August 28, 1980, at 7:30 p.m. in the Hospital Conference Room.

Matters of importance discussed included the following:

Johnny Hendrix has been appointed to be in charge of the annual Christmas Fruit Sale this year, which should be delivered the first week of December.

The outing for active members of the auxiliary is planned for October 10th at 6:00 p.m. at Rich Park, Shelter No. 2. All active members and their families are invited to attend.

The Auxiliary has decided not to have the Fall Ball this year due to the increased costs involved.

Davie High Booster Club

Davie High Booster Club will hold their first meeting of the school year, Thursday, September 4, at 7:30 p.m. in the High School band room. According to Sarah Wood, president, "she urges the attendance of all junior high and senior band parents at this meeting to support the band program". Officers for this year are: Sarah Wood, president, Alan and Annice Richardson, vice presidents, Nava Draughn, secretary and Mevalyn Harper, treasurer.

Hi. My name is Matthew Tucker. I was 2 years old on September 1. My Mom and Dad, Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Tucker of Route 3, Advance, gave me a party at home. My guests were served Cookie Monster cake, ice cream, and potato chips. Those attending were my grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E.F. Queen of Kernersville, my aunt Sandy Fowler, Roy and Arlene Thompson, Betty Burnette, Jane Blair, Sally and Leslie; Kay Lynn and Andy Hansen, Kara and Scott. Thank you all for my many nice gifts.

Fires Reported

Fires reported recently in Davie County are as follows:

On August 25, the Farmington Fire Department was called to a utility building fire.

On August 26, the Jerusalem Fire Department was called to a wreck on Deadman Road.

On August 31, the Cornatzer-Dulin and Advance Fire Departments were called to a barn fire near the Cornatzer Fire Department.

Also on August 31, the Farmington Fire Department was called to a vehicle fire at Reeve's Exxon.

Also on August 31, the William R. Davie Fire Department was called to a possible trailer fire on Liberty Church Road.

On September 1, the Smith Grove Fire Department was called to a grass fire on Rainbow Road.

Davie Republicans To Meet Monday

The Davie County Republican Party Executive Committee will meet Monday night September 8, 1980, at 7:30 p.m. at the Davie County Courthouse.

This is an open meeting and all Republicans are invited to attend.

All Republican candidates for offices subject to the November 4, 1980, election are especially invited to attend.

Do You Know?

Butcher Block
Butcher block wooden work surfaces can take a lot of rough treatment, but try to avoid saturating them with water which causes warping.

To clean a butcher block, extension home economics specialists, North Carolina State University, suggest wiping it clean quickly with lukewarm or mild suds. Dry it.

Re-season by pouring boiled linseed oil over wood surfaces and rubbing it in with fine steel wool.

Shower Curtains
Soiled or mildewed shower curtains don't have to spoil the appearance of an otherwise clean bathroom.

If a curtain is plastic and colorfast, it can be put in the washing machine in warm, sudsy water and agitated for about three minutes.

Then rinse and let it spin on a gentle cycle and shake out the excess water. Hang it back up to dry.

Extension house furnishings specialists at North Carolina State University, point out the mildew can be removed by wiping the curtain with a solution of liquid chlorine bleach, three-quarters of a cup for each gallon of water, before washing in the machine.

Candy Making
Candy makers, catering to the age-old craving for "something sweet," were pictured in Egyptian tombs as far back as 3,500 B.C.

Each human eyelash lasts about 150 days.

New Finish

A new soil-release finish called Scotch-Release is designed especially for 100 percent polyester woven and knit fabrics. Hangtags will tell if the finish has been applied to garments and household items, points out Harriet Tutterow, extension clothing specialist, North Carolina State University.

Asleep At The Wheel

Apparent Cause Of Wreck

Asleep at the wheel was the apparent cause of a single-car accident Aug. 29 on Old N.C. 801, eight miles east of Mocksville.

According to the Highway Patrol, the driver of a 1978 Ford truck; Janice Faye Carter, 18, of Rt. 1 Advance, apparently fell asleep, ran off the road and overturned.

Damage to the Carter vehicle was estimated at $1000.

Trooper James M. Newton investigated.

Advance News

H & R BLOCK INCOME TAX COURSE BEGINS SOON

Thousands of people with spare time are earning money as tax preparers in the growing field of Income Tax Service.

H & R BLOCK is offering a basic Income Tax Course starting September 8. Classes will be held at numerous convenient H & R BLOCK locations in the North and South Carolina area including Mocksville.

For 14 weeks students will study all areas of tax preparation and receive actual experience in preparing individual returns. Experienced Block personnel will teach current laws, theory and application as practiced in their offices coast to coast. There is a classroom lecture on each subject and practice problems at every level. The course is programmed to teach students increasingly complex tax problems as study progresses. Students find this course interesting and challenging. Anyone may enroll. There are no restrictions or qualifications of any kind. The course is ideally suited for housewives, retired persons, teachers, college students or anyone wanting to increase their tax knowledge.

While qualified graduates of the course will be offered job interviews, they are under no obligation to accept employment with H & R BLOCK.

The modest fee charged for this course includes all textbooks, supplies and tax forms necessary for completion of the school. Certificates are awarded to all graduates.

Registration forms and brochures for the Income Tax Course may be obtained by contacting Joyce Ritchie at the local H & R BLOCK office at 310 Lexington Road, phone 634-3203 or Helen Bean, 634-5737.

Mrs. Robert G. Blankschen Jr.

Robinson-Blankschen Vows Are Spoken

Miss Debra Julia Robinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy L. Robinson of Route 2, Advance, N.C., and Robert G. Blankschen, Jr. son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Blankschen of Danbury, Ct. were married in a morning ceremony at eleven o'clock Saturday, August 30, at Our Lady of Mercy Church in Winston-Salem, N.C. Officiating were Priest father Sheridan and deacon Mr. Robert Blankschen, bridegroom's father.

The bride, given in marriage by her father wore a formal gown of white chiffon and alencon lace with seed pearls; and designed with an embroidered neckline. Tiers of alencon lace ruffles gathered to a white chiffon bow accented the chapel length train. Her headpiece was a crown of seed pearls with silk babies' breath, and she carried a bouquet of yellow roses, babies' breath, white pixie carnations and Stephanotis.

Nancy Doran of Danbury Ct., was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Cindy Robinson, bride's sister of Advance, Dana Nemeth, bridegroom's cousin of Fairfield Ct. and Angie Cox of Clemmons. They wore formal gowns of lime sherbert chiffon designed with ruffled capelets; and carried a three tiered alencon lace fan with yellow and mint green pixie carnations.

Jayne Robinson, bride's brother was ring bearer.

Michael Blankschen of Danbury Ct., served his brother as bestman. Ushers were David Blankschen, bridegroom's brother and Tom Bretts, bridegroom's brother-in-law, both of Danbury Ct. and Mike Klutz of Cooleemee.

The bride graduated from Forsyth Technical Institute with an associates degree in Applied Science of Radiologic Technology. She works part-time at Forsyth Memorial Hospital as a technologist.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Henry Abbott Technical Regional Vocational School; and is an electrician for Rizzo Electrical Company in Danbury Ct.

After a beach trip to Myrtle Beach, S.C. the couple will live in Danbury Ct.

Following a dinner at Tanglewood Clubhouse for the wedding party, a reception was held there for the wedding guests.

Music was provided by a band from the North Carolina School of the Arts in Winston-Salem.

Hosting the occasion were the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy L. Robinson of Advance, N.C.

Tar Heel Kitchen

By Miss E. York Kiker, N.C. Department of Agriculture
What do a career woman, a widowed grandmother, a married newspaper reporter, a bachelor who travels often, and a mother of six children have in common? They like chicken, like to cook it, and are winners in the National Chicken Cooking Contest held in Atlanta, Georgia from August 5-7, 1980. Mrs. Angie Crone, and Miss York Kiker, N.C. Department of Agriculture, and several of the North Carolina Poultry Industry representatives, who work closely with the North Carolina Chicken Cooking Contest, were on hand to cheer Bill Caligari, Raleigh, N.C., on to win fourth place for a $2,000 prize.

Naturally the North Carolina boosters were partial and thought Caligari's "Chicken Escalope Gourmet" was tops, but doubtless other states felt that way about their entries. The fifty-one contestants, a representative from each state, who appeared in Atlanta had been selected from thousands of entries.

Caligari, a bachelor is a field representative for the Miss America Pageant and travels widely in connection with his work. Even though he stays on the move he does like to cook and recommends chickens highly.

Sheila Hoban, a young career woman, from Washington, DC, claimed the first prize for $10,000 with the recipe "Capital Chicken Casserole," placing second for $4,000 was "Creamy Lemon Chicken" from Utah, third for $3,000 was Arkansas with "Chicken Zucchini Parmesan," and Kansas was fifth for $1,000 with "Sunshine Chicken Pie."

The National Chicken Cooking Contest is exciting, fast moving, and interesting. It would be difficult to summarize the impressions from an event of this kind, but there is a deeper appreciation for chicken worth sharing. Chickens lend themselves to one-dish main course meals, to ethnic and regional influences and to combinations with fruits and vegetables. They are easily available as whole birds, parts, or further processed products. There are countless ways to prepare chicken, including preparation in microwave or convection ovens. What kind of chicken was selected after arriving home following such a salute to the versatility of a great food? Fried chicken, of course, which is nearly everyone's favorite way of preparation, but new ideas give variety to one of the most nutritious, economical foods on the market.

All of the winning recipes, plus basic cooking methods and other information are available in a cook book for $1, postpaid. Send your orders with mailing address and money to: Chicken Cookbook, Department NBC, Box 307, Coventry, CT 06238

CAPITAL CHICKEN CASSEROLE

- 1ST PLACE
Sheila M. Hoban
District of Columbia
- 1 broiler-fryer chicken, cut in parts
  - 4 tablespoons butter
  - 1 tablespoon cooking oil
  - 1 package (8 oz.) fresh mushrooms, sliced
  - 1 tablespoon flour
  - 1 can (11 oz.) cream of chicken soup
  - 1 cup dry white wine
  - 1 cup water
  - 1/2 cup cream
  - 1 teaspoon salt
  - 1/4 teaspoon tarragon leaves
  - 1/4 teaspoon pepper
  - 1 can (15 oz.) artichoke hearts, drained
  - 6 green onions, green and white parts included, chopped
  - 2 tablespoons chopped parsley
- In large frypan place butter and oil and heat to medium temperature, until butter melts. Add chicken and cook, turning, about 10 minutes or until brown on all sides. Remove chicken and place in baking pan or casserole. In same frypan saute mushrooms about 5 minutes or until tender. Stir in flour. Add soup, wine, and water; simmer, stirring, about 10 minutes or until sauce thickens. Stir in cream, salt, tarragon, and pepper; pour over chicken. Bake, uncovered, in 350 degree oven for 60 minutes. Mix in artichoke hearts, green onions, and parsley. Bake about 5 more minutes or until fork can be inserted in chicken with ease. Makes 4 servings.

CREAMY LEMON CHICKEN

- 2ND PLACE
Hedy Penney
Utah
- 3 whole broiler-fryer chicken breasts, halved
  - 1/2 cup flour
  - 1/2 teaspoon paprika
  - 1/2 teaspoon salt
  - 1/2 teaspoon pepper
  - 1 egg, beaten
  - 1 1/2 cups seasoned crouton crumbs
  - 1/2 cup butter
  - 1/4 cup chicken consommé
  - 1/2 cup slivered almonds
  - 3 tablespoons chopped chives
  - 3/4 cup whipping cream, whipped, salted to taste
  - 1 lemon, sliced thin
- In shallow dish mix together flour, paprika, salt, and pepper. In another shallow dish place egg; and in third shallow dish place crumbs. Add chicken one piece at a time to flour mixture, dredging to coat. Then dip chicken in egg and roll in crumbs. In a heavy frypan place butter and melt over medium heat. Add chicken and cook, turning about 10 minutes or until brown on all sides. Add consommé and almonds; cover and simmer about 25 minutes or until fork can be inserted in chicken with ease. Fold chives into the salted whipped cream and chill until time to serve. When chicken is done, remove to a warm serving platter and place a lemon slice on each piece of chicken and then top with a spoonful of cream. Makes 6 servings.

MRS. DAVID G. FERGUSSON

... was Robin Carter

Robin Carter Weds David Fergusson In Double Ring Ceremony At Center

Center United Methodist Church was the setting Sunday, August 31, at 3 p.m. for the wedding of Ms. Robin Carter and David G. Fergusson. Officiating at the double-ring ceremony were the bride's pastor, Dr. Wilson Nesbitt, and the bridegroom's Priest, Father Willis M. Rosenthal.

A program of wedding music was presented by Jim Anderson, organist.

The church was decorated with palms, and baskets of multi-colored mums and carnations in shades of aqua, coral and yellow. Lighted seven-branch candelabras completed the decorations. Family pews were marked with satin bows.

The bride, escorted by Gordon Tomlinson, wore a gown of ivory silk chiffon designed with a Queen Anne neckline, fitted long sleeves with lace cuffs, and an empire waist with a lace bodice. The skirt extended into a chapel train that was edged in Venice lace. She wore a rose in her hair and carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses with babies' breath. Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls. The gown was designed and made by Mrs. Pat Cope of Coolemeec, N.C.

Mrs. Barry Sechrest was her sister's matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Kathy Tomlinson of Salisbury, N.C., and Mrs. Betsy Pennington Ramsbotham of Ulmer, South Carolina. Amy Carter, bride's daughter, was a junior bridesmaid. They wore gowns of aquamarine silk designed with a full flowing skirt, empire waist and spaghetti straps. Their nosegays were of multi-colored summer flowers, and they wore babies' breath in their hair.

Charles Fergusson was his brothers' best man. Ushers were Rob Fergusson, bridegroom's brother and Breck Feimster, bride's brother. Chad Sechrest, bride's nephew was a junior usher.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Blackwood of Morganton, N.C. kept the guest register. The wedding was directed by Mrs. Jerry Anderson of Mocksville.

The bride is employed by The Enterprise-Record of Mocksville. She is the daughter of the late Bob and Robinette Feimster. She is a graduate of Davie High School.

The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Gus Fergusson of Hudson, Ohio. He is a graduate of Wake Forest University and received a master's degree in Library Science from the University of Florida. He is director of the Davie County Public Library. After a wedding trip to Bermuda, the couple will make their home at 718 Garner Street.

RECEPTION

A reception was held in the church fellowship building immediately following the wedding for the wedding party and their guests.

The refreshment table was covered with a white cloth with a lace overlay. At one end was a four-tiered wedding cake decorated with fresh pastel flowers and mocha cream icing, and at the other end was a crystal punch bowl of wedding punch. Other refreshments included cheese dainties, mixed nuts, and homemade mints.

The centerpiece was of mixed fresh flowers in a silver bowl flanked by lighted tapers.

Assisting in serving were Mrs. Doris Short, Mrs. Lynn Wagner, Misses Lorie and Lynn Cope, Miss Karen Adams and Miss Libby York.

The cake was baked and decorated by Mrs. Carolene Speaks of Route 2, Mocksville.

REHEARSAL DINNER

Following the wedding rehearsal Saturday evening, a dinner was held in the couple's honor at Valentino's Restaurant in Winston-Salem, N.C. Hosts were the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Fergusson of Hudson, Ohio.

As the guests arrived, they were invited to a buffet table that was filled with a variety of hors d'oeuvres, chips and dips. Following a cocktail hour, a main course was served which consisted of prime rib roast beef, baked potato, tossed salad, garlic bread, French custard with brandy sauce and coffee.

After dinner, wine was served at each table to toast the bridal couple. Toasts were heard from the bridegroom's father and his brothers, Charles and Rob, a cousin, Jim Fergusson from New Orleans, George and Lester Martin, Gordon Tomlinson and Arlen DeVito.

Guests included wedding party, close family members, out-of-town guests and close friends.

CHAMPAGNE AND BUFFET DINNER

A champagne and buffet dinner was held at Hickory Hill Golf and Country Club, Sunday evening at 8 o'clock for the bride and bridegroom.

Separate tables were set up and covered with white cloths. Arrangements of greenery and Lillies of the Valley were used as centerpieces.

Dining and dancing was enjoyed by the seventy guests attending from eight until twelve midnight.

BRIDESMAIDS LUNCHEON

Mrs. Sue Short, Mrs. Becky Snyder and Mrs. Prentice Campbell were hostesses Saturday, August 30, when they honored Ms. Robin Carter with a bridesmaids luncheon at Statesville Country Club.

A corsage of pink roses marked the honoree's place.

The table was T shaped and covered with a white cloth. An arrangement of fresh red and pink roses in a silver bowl was used as a centerpiece.

Fifteen guests enjoyed a meal consisting of baked ham and chicken on a bed of wild rice with mushroom sauce, asparagus with hollandaise sauce, baked potato with chives and sour cream, crabapple, homemade yeast rolls, lemon ice box pie, iced tea and coffee.

The hostess gift was a four-piece place setting in stainless steel.

PRE-NUPTIAL PARTIES

Wednesday, August 20, Judge and Mrs. Lester Martin hosted a seafood dinner for Robin and David at Bermuda Run Country Club in Advance, N.C.

Ron to going to the club, the Martins served hors d'oeuvres and drinks to their guests. Places were set for ten people.

Mr. and Mrs. George Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Cope and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Anderson hosted a cook-out at the Martin home, Thursday, August 21. Ten couples enjoyed hamburgers with all the trimmings, drinks, and homemade pastries.

The couple was again honored Friday evening, August 22, when Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Tomlinson hosted a dinner at the Statesville Country Club. A four course dinner was served to 9 guests.

Youth And Family Counseling Service Aids Both Families And Children

Stephen was 11 years old. His parents had just recently separated. When his mother became sick, Stephen was frightened. So, he stayed home from school to care for her, though she didn't request it.

Thirteen-year-old Sarah had a different problem. She attended school regularly, but her teachers noticed that she didn't pay attention in class.

"We work with cases like this all the time," said Vicky Church, director of Youth and Family Counseling Service which has offices in Lexington and Thomasville.

"In these two cases, for example, we found that Stephen wasn't deliberately being truant from school. He was afraid his mother would die so he stayed home to care for her even though she didn't ask him to," stated Church.

"Sarah, on the other hand, was being sexually abused at home. This was causing her to be inattentive in class."

Youth and Family Counseling Service receives part of its funding from the Community Based Alternatives Section within the N.C. Department of Human Resources' Division of Youth Services. CBA provides funds to 99 participating counties for programs to help youngsters who are in trouble with the law or risk getting into trouble.

According to Church, Youth and Family Counseling Service helps both families and children.

"We offer individual, group and family counseling, but about 75 percent of it is family counseling. We also do some consultative and education work with the schools and recreation departments. An important part of this is our effective education groups for children with behavioral problems such as low self-esteem. Sometimes these groups may run as long as six weeks to a full year depending on the needs of the children," continued Church.

"Another service we offer is our outreach program which has two aspects, one for children and one for adults. The one for adults includes human enrichment and parent education courses. The one for children, called FRIENDS, is similar to the Big Brother-Big Sister program," said Church.

She also indicated that a number of services are provided for both the general and professional population in the community.

"We train teachers in how to effectively listen to what children are telling them. The teachers get renewal credit for this. We also work with nurses and physicians in how to handle people in an emotional crisis," she continued.

Church noted that there are a few restrictions on the program. "The child must be 7 to 17 years of age to receive counseling and able to verbally communicate feelings. We're just not equipped to use play therapy to get a child to respond," concluded Church.

There Is An Answer

By Norman Vincent Peale and Ruth Stafford Peale

WANTS TO LEAVE HIM

I married my second husband just to give my son a father. I know it was wrong, but I guess it's too late to change it. During our 6 years of marriage we've been to all kinds of counselors. Things only seem to get worse. My husband lacks self-respect. He waits for me to make all of the decisions or they don't get made. My nerves are shot. Everything makes me nervous now, little things—squeaky noises, the sloppy way my husband eats. I suppose I would be out of God's will to do anything but stay with him, but I'd much rather not. What's your advice?

The reason your married life seems so unbearable now is that you allow yourself to respond only to the negative in your husband. You see just what you don't like, never seeming to count the good in him. Think for a moment. Has he been a good father to your son? Does he provide for you both? Perhaps he would have more self-respect if you were to change your attitude. Give your marriage a chance by building your husband up. It could work wonders.

We are sending you our booklet, "A First-Aid Kit for Marriage," which may be of help to you. Anyone wishing a free copy may write to us at Box 500, Pawling, N.Y. 12564. DISOWNED BY SON

My son and his wife have stopped all relationship with me. You see, our son was born during the short time my husband and I lived together before we were married. After 40 years of marriage my husband passed away. My son found out about this and questioned me, and I explained how circumstances at that time wouldn't allow us to marry. Now they disown me. They say I am not worthy of anything. I've been a good mother, and I miss them so. How can I regain their friendship?

While you have carried all these years the burden of knowing the circumstances of your son's birth, the news obviously came as a great shock to him. Perhaps he felt you should have confided in him earlier, enabling him to accept the situation gradually. Give him time now to adjust. Then begin to open up communication and try to reestablish once more what was a good relationship. And ask God for the patience needed to renew your family.

IS THE MINISTER RIGHT?

When a minister divorces his wife, leaves her with their two children, breaks up another family to win this woman who has three children, how can he speak God's word and feel people in the area should accept this behavior as being alright?

If a minister does as you have indicated, I would consider his actions as reprehensible and totally unworthy of his sacred calling.

If there is something you would like to ask Dr. and Mrs. Peale, write to them at Box 500, Pawling, N.Y. 12564.

County Social Services Departments Increase Efforts To Detect Fraud

Increased efforts started in late 1978 by the Division of Social Services of the N.C. Department of Human Resources and county social services departments across the state to detect welfare fraud and abuse continue to prove successful, based on reports received by the Division.

"County social services departments reported that during the first six months of the current federal fiscal year (October 1979 - March 31, 1980), 677 cases of suspected fraud in the Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) program were detected. These cases represented $438,322 in suspected fraudulent AFDC payments," division director Bob Ward said.

In most of the cases, county social services departments arranged for repayments by the recipients. Many of these involved small amounts of money. There were 259 cases involving larger amounts of money, or the refusal of repayment, referred to the courts for prosecution during the six-month period.

Ward said he realized this sounds like a lot of money and cases, "and it is," but he indicated during the same period total AFDC payments amounted to $73,078,354 for a monthly average of 74,805 AFDC families. "The number detected cheating in less than one percent of the total families."

The State Social Services Commission adopted a regulation in 1978, that requires county social services departments to designate at least one person to be responsible for fraud detection.

"During the same year the Division started a computer 'match' with the Employment Security Commission to detect fraud. The 'match' compares the statewide AFDC rolls with work records and unemployment compensation records kept by the Commission. The listings are sent to county social services departments quarterly for checking on income reported by recipients. This project has been very instrumental in detecting welfare fraud across the state," he added.

Ward indicated that the Division is also participating in the national "Project Match," a federal match which compares North Carolina's AFDC rolls with the other 49 states to see if they are receiving assistance in more than one state.

"With this continued increased emphasis on fraud investigation and prosecution being pursued at the state and county level, the chances of fraud going undetected will be minimized," he concluded.

State Fair—Winn Dixie Offer "Fair Deal" Plan

The North Carolina State Fair in cooperation with Winn Dixie stores will stage its largest advance sales endeavor for the upcoming 1980 event, October 17-25.

According to Fair Manager, Arthur K. Pitzer, the month-long promotion will involve all of the Winn Dixie grocery stores in North Carolina and will be in addition to the previous plan, through the statewide Trailways bus stations and other charter bus services, initiated in 1978.

Ivan Hardesty, advertising director for the Raleigh Division of the grocery firm says the "Winn Dixie Fair Deal", will begin September 1 with an October 3 deadline and will involve each of the 164 stores in North Carolina.

"We are extremely pleased and proud to be participating in this program with the N.C. State Fair, one of the top rated fairs in the country", offered Hardesty.

He pointed out two million coupons offering up to 40 percent savings will be distributed throughout the chain stores and will include both admissions and ride booklet discounts.

No purchase within the store is required. The coupon is to be completed and mailed to the Fair with remittance. All tickets and-or ride booklets will be mailed from the Fair.

A $2.50 admission ticket can be purchased for $1.80 while a 12-ride, $7.50 ride booklet will cost $4.50 under the program.

The bus station promotion goes from September 15 to October 16 and offers an admission ticket for $2.00 and a ride booklet for $5.00.

Hunt Completes I-R Intern Program

In 1978 Ingersoll-Rand Company initiated a summer program of hiring high school teachers to work and learn at the company. The program, based on an original concept developed by Joseph T. Ryerson & Son, Inc., Chicago, is geared toward building a better understanding of business in the academic community through personal experience. Teacher interns are hired in select cities where we have operations. Although specific programs vary at individual plants, each intern is introduced to a full scope of plant operations.

Perhaps the most meaningful and essential part of the program is that the interns actually perform job functions in a major department. They experience, first hand, the difficulties involved in working in a highly competitive and fast-changing market. They witness that running a successful business enterprise calls for ethical people with the ability to make responsible decisions.

The Program's Objectives are:
-To promote a better understanding of the free enterprise system-how it operates and what it means.

-To humanize the local business and its management through first-hand experience.

-To provide a basis for practical, on-the-job education as an aid in effective career counselling.

-To maintain and expand the natural relationship between the business and academic worlds so vitally necessary for the improvement of both.

As in previous summers Ingersoll-Rand again sponsored a teacher intern in Mocksville. David Hunt who teaches history and economics at Davie County High School was I-R Portable Operations' participant. Hunt has worked on various projects in the Product Support Department. Included in his activities were a trip to Louisiana to a meeting with I-R customers and a trip to Woodcliff Lake, N.J. to I-R Corporate Headquarters for a seminar on the company.

Dear Editor:

I'd like to share these comments through the use of your paper. Ever since I can remember the Joe Whites' have held a Labor Day chicken stew. Some say it has been going on for 45 years. The old black pot swinging from a home-made bar and filled with mouth-watering chicken stew.

Some of the women make home-made loaf bread for flavoring up the stew, others bring desserts of all shapes and sizes from chocolate to Rum Pound Cake.

Joe and Lucretia have gone on home now, but their children keep things going. All except Easter, who has joined Mom and Dad, come with most of their family to join in the fun and fellowship. The stew is held at the old home place on Ijames Church Road where their son John and family live.

Joe and Lucretia White had a big family of 10 children and a great number of grandchildren and great grandchildren.

Hopefully this tradition will continue for another 45 years so family and friends can meet for fun and fellowship.

Betsy Cochran Appoints Campaign Committee

Betsy Cochran, candidate for the N.C. House for the 30th District, announces that her campaign committee has begun its work for the fall campaign.

Mrs. Cochran's committee consists of H.R. Hendrix of Mocksville, Chairman of Contractors for Betsy Cochran, and Gilbert T. Davis of Advance, Chairman of Lawyers for Betsy Cochran. Farmington artist Mrs. Wade Groce, is Chairman of Artists for Betsy Cochran. Mrs. Fred Long, immediate past president of the Mocksville Woman's Club is Chairman of Club Women for Betsy Cochran. Well known Lion's Club member C. Frank Stroud is Chairman of Senior Citizens. Mrs. Willard Hayes of Cooleemee is Chairman of Hairdressers. Odell Boger, dairyman of the Farmington Community, is Chairman of Farmers for Betsy Cochran.

Airman Perry C. Brockway, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew O. Brockway of Route 7, Mocksville, N.C. has been assigned to Lowry Air Force Base, Colo., after completing Air Force basic training. During the six weeks at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations. In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force. The airman will now receive specialized instruction in the munitions and weapons maintenance field.

Mike Elliot Shows Angus Cattle At County Fairs

Michael K. Elliott, Route 4, Mocksville, N.C., recently exhibited his Angus Cattle at the Howard and Montgomery County Fairs in Maryland.

At the Howard County Fair, West Friendship, MD, and judged by Mr. John Holloway, Hertford, MD, Michael's Angus heifers, Erica RMR 2 and Blackbird of GAR were class winners. Blackbird of GAR was then selected by Judge Holloway as Reserve Heifer Calf Champion and Reserve Grand Champion Angus Female of the 1980 Howard County Fair.

On August 19, 1980, at the Montgomery County Fair, Gaithersburg, MD, which is one of the largest livestock shows on the East Coast, Michael Elliott's November heifer calf, Erica RMR 2, was selected as the class winner of the November heifer calf class. This show was judged by Mr. Joe Lewis, nationally renowned judge of cattle from Larned, KS.

Michael will continue to show his heifers at the livestock shows on the East Coast this fall including the Maryland State Fair, Eastern National Livestock Show, Timonium, MD, Keystone Livestock Show, Harrisburg, PA, North Carolina State Fair, Raleigh, and South Carolina State Fair, Columbia, S.C. Michael is an active member of the North Carolina and American Angus Associations, Davie County 4-H, an eighth grade student at South Davie Junior High School, and is presently serving as President of the North Carolina Junior Angus Association.

J.D. Shanks, Mocksville, N.C., was elected chairman of the National Junior Polled Hereford Council at the 7th National Junior Polled Hereford Heifer Show and Forum, July 14-18, in Columbus, Ohio. Together with the other National Junior Council officers and directors, J.D. will provide leadership for 30 junior Polled Hereford associations on the national level.

Point Farm Breeds Champions

Point Farms, breeders of outstanding registered Shorthorn cattle and owned by Mr. and Mrs. David Springer, Route 4, Mocksville, N.C. were breeders of Shorthorn cattle selected as champions at two recent Maryland Fairs.

David and George Bowman of West Friendship, MD had Champion Shorthorn cattle at the Howard County and Montgomery County Fairs. These cattle were selected from the Springer herd in September 1979.

David Bowman's Shorthorn Steer, which weighed 1130 pounds, was selected Grand Champion Shorthorn Steer at the Howard County Fair and sold to Giant Foods of Maryland. There were 103 steers in the show and the average price received by the 4-H members for their steers was $1.15 per pound.

George Bowman exhibited the Grand Champion Shorthorn Female, Point Major's Roan Jade, an April 19, 1979 yearling sired by the Point Farms herd sire, JAF Major 74 4th, at the Howard County Junior Heifer Show and the heifer was selected Reserve Grand Champion Female of the Shorthorn Open Show. Point Major's Roan Jade was also selected Grand Champion Shorthorn Female at the 1980 Montgomery County Fair, Gaithersburg, MD, by Judge Joe Lewis, leading cattleman and judge of Larned, KS. The Montgomery County Fair is one of the largest livestock shows on the East Coast.

3-E Custom Fitters (Mike, Sue and Hugh Elliott), Mocksville, N.C., groomed and fitted the Bowman Brothers' champions at the two Maryland shows.

Harmony Post Office Announces Exam For Substitute Rural Carrier Of Record

The United States Postal Service has announced an examination for "Substitute Rural Carrier of Record" for the Harmony Post Office. The examination will be given at Charlotte, N.C.

Applications must be submitted before September 13, 1980. Application forms are available at the Harmony Post Office.

There are no experience or training requirements in the substitute rural carrier of record examination. Applicants must take a written test which consists of vocabulary and reading comprehension questions and computation. (In the examination room you will be given a rate table to use - the rates may be different from those currently in use.) Sample questions will be sent when applicants are notified of date, time, and place of examination. The test requires about 3-1/2 hours. Additional time is required for completion of necessary forms. Total time required in the examination room is approximately 3-3/4 hours.

Applicants will be rated on the written test on a scale of 100. To be eligible, they will be required to attain a rating of at least 70 (excluding credit for veteran preference). Additional points for veteran preference are added to the written test score in order to obtain the final numerical rating in the examination.

Applicants must be physically qualified to perform efficiently the arduous duties of this position. The requirement for distant vision is 20-30 (Snellen) in the better eye and at least 20-50 (Snellen) in the other eye, with or without corrective lenses. Applicants must also be able to read printing as small as Jaeger's test type No. 4 at 14 inches with the better eye. Hearing must be acute for ordinary conversation with or without a hearing aid. Hernia, with or without a truss will disqualify an applicant for appointment. Certain physical requirements may be waived for preference eligibles.

An eligible selected for appointment must have a valid state driver's license and a safe driving record, and he must pass the Postal Service Road Test to show he can safely drive a vehicle of the type used on the job.

All substitute rural carriers of record must furnish and maintain at their own expense vehicle equipment necessary for the prompt handling of the mails, but they are given an equipment maintenance allowance based on the daily mileage scheduled, or a minimum allowance per day, whichever is greater.

Applicants must have reached their eighteenth birthday on the date of filing application. This age limit does not apply to persons entitled to veteran preference. There is no maximum age limit.

All applicants must be citizens of the United States of America, owe allegiance to the United States of America, or be noncitizens who have been accorded permanent resident alien status in the United States of America.

Substitute rural carriers of record are assigned to perform the duties of the regular rural carrier of the route(s) for which the substitute of record has been designated during the absence of the regular rural carrier. Such absences may occur as the result of scheduled days off, leave, illness, military service and other reasons.

Substitute rural carriers of record starting salaries range from $50.34 per day to $67.90 per day depending on the length and character of the route.

Eligibility from this examination will be limited to two years, unless after 18 months you request to have your eligibility extended for an additional year. This request must be sent to the postal installation holding your eligibility at that time. Maximum eligibility is three years.

Farmington Bluegrass Band To Perform At Street Scene

Farmington Blue Grass, a band whose country music is well known to Clemmons' audiences, has been selected for over 60 applying groups to perform at Carolina Street Scene, September 6 from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m., and September 7 from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. in downtown Winston-Salem. He will appear with the Earl Scruggs Revue, the Jessy Dixon Gospel Singers, jazz congo drummer Mongo Santamaria, folksinger Tracy Nelson and over 400 Carolina performers at the fifth annual Street Scene which is sponsored by the Jos. Schlitz Brewing Co. and the Winston-Salem Arts Council.

Last year over 250,000 people tapped their feet to the continuous free performances of jazz, bluegrass, ballet, folk singing, rock, mime, clogging, and Dixieland held on five stages situated throughout the streets of Winston-Salem.

The gigantic block party features over 300 craftsmen from six Southeastern states who will demonstrate their techniques and display their art. Mixed in among the potters, blacksmiths, and weavers, painters and sculptors will exhibit their work. This year Jim Gary, from New Jersey, will display his "creations," huge sculptures that range from fantastical insects to dinosaurs—all made entirely from used automobile parts. While Gary shows the crowd how he puts together his pieces, Sidewalk Sam will paint Mona Lisas and other "old masters" on the sidewalks in front of the Wachovia Building.

A 10,000 meter race sponsored by Piedmont Federal Savings and Loan will begin the two-day festival. For information about the race, call Bill Brackney: 919-748-5537.

For other information about Street Scene, contact the Arts Council: 305 North Street, Winston-Salem, N.C. 27101 or phone 919-722-2585.

State Grants Available To Youth Councils

Need money for a worthy community project? If you belong to a youth group or organization in Davie County, you may just be eligible for a grant from the North Carolina State Youth Council.

The council awards grants which average $400 each to community youth groups four times a year. The next awards will be made at the State Youth Council Board of Directors meeting in Asheville, Sept. 26-28. Grant application deadline is Sept. 12.

For information and application forms, contact the Youth Involvement Office, N.C. Department of Administration, Suite 115, Howard Building, 112 W. Lane St., Raleigh, 27611, telephone 919-733-5966.

The State Youth Council is a component of the Youth Involvement Office and networks some 40 youth councils across the state. Although the council advises existing councils and helps new ones get started, the grants are not restricted to youth councils.

Craftwood Community Watch Meeting

A meeting to organize the Craftwood Development into the proposed Mocksville Community Watch Program will be held Wednesday, September 3, at 7:30 p.m. in the Davie County Courthouse.

All residents of Craftwood are urged to attend, but any Mocksville resident may attend. Any question about the meeting may be answered by Lt. Gary Edwards of the Mocksville Police Department, at 634-6231.

Headaches

Over $3,000,000 is spent annually, in the U.S.A., in an effort to gain relief from headaches. Often as not, relief comes in the form of temporary symptom removal by the use of drugs. What is not commonly known, is that up to 75% of all headaches can be related to spinal misalignment (subluxation).

Of course, there are other causes for headache, such as constipation, dietary factors, eye problems, sinus involvement, posture, etc., but it stands to reason, that a thorough spinal examination should certainly be considered if headaches persist.

If misalignment is detected, chiropractic adjustment can give drug free relief, not just temporary symptom removal.

CARROTS AND MUSHROOMS

2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
5 large carrots, peeled and thinly sliced
1/2 pound mushrooms, thinly sliced

5 green onions with tops thinly sliced
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
Heat butter and oil in large skillet until bubbly and add carrots, mushrooms and onion. Cook and stir about 8 minutes or until vegetables are tender. Stir in lemon juice, salt and pepper.

Serve with roasted broilers, roast beef or fillet of beef for luncheon with green salad or with chicken salad.

MUSHROOM PIE
1 pound mushrooms, sliced
3 green onions sliced
2 tablespoons butter
1 1/2 cups of thick sauce supreme made with mederia or sherry

1 unbaked pie crust
Saute onions in butter until tender, add mushrooms and cook about 7 minutes. Stir in the mushrooms and their juice into the sauce. Spoon into an overproof pie plate and cover with pastry, slashing it in several places to allow the steam to escape. Commercial frozen crust may be used. Remove from its pan and invert. If baked at the same time as chicken, drizzle pan drippings from the chicken over the top once or twice during the last 15 minutes for a specially delicious crust. Bake until crust is brown.

THICK SAUCE SUPREME
2 cans cream of chicken soup strained or (for chicken)
2 cans frozen shrimp soup for seafood.
2 tablespoons dry white wine

2 egg yolks, beaten
1/2 tablespoon lemon juice
Onion, salt and pepper.

Combine all ingredients thoroughly. Heat in a double boiler or use in a baked or gratineed dish. Make this shortly before using-it will thin out if refrigerated. Makes 2 1/2 cups.

BAKED MUSHROOMS

Dip mushroom caps in French dressing. Pour a little in each cavity and place on the baking sheet with eggplant the last 10 or 12 minutes of cooking time.

MUSHROOMS PICKLED

Cook whole mushrooms in bouillon or stock until tender. Place in a jar and cover with equal amounts of hot bouillon and wine vinegar. Add a clove of garlic or a pinch of taragon. Store in a covered jar and let stand at least 24 hours. Canned mushrooms may be pickled by substituting wine vinegar for half the liquid.

COLD STUFFED MUSHROOMS

Stuff marinated mushroom caps with cream cheese and anchovy filling adding an extra teaspoon of anchovy paste. Serve at room temperature.

Alcohol Information Report

By: WILLIAM F. WEANT, M.S. ALCOHOLISM EDUCATION CONSULTANT

HOW CAN I TELL IF I HAVE A DRINKING PROBLEM? It isn't always easy to spot a drinking problem, especially in yourself. An alcohol problem can't be measured by how many drinks you have each day, how many years you've been drinking heavily, where you drink, or how much you can hold. Nor does it have anything to do with the kind of alcohol you typically use: The "strictly beer" drinker can have an alcohol problem as surely as the person who favors wine or hard liquor.

Ask yourself, instead, how and why you drink and what alcohol is doing to you. If you sometimes get drunk when you fully intend to stay sober, if you no longer get as much pleasure from drinking as you once did, if your reliance on drinking has become progressively greater, you may be heading for the illness called "alcoholism".

Think, too, about how seriously alcohol is affecting the basic realities of your life: your health and physical safety, your emotional well-being, your family and personal relationships, your work, your financial situation. The more drinking is interfering with these areas of your life, the more likely you are to have an alcohol problem.

If drinking has become a problem for you, you have lots of company. Alcoholism is an illness suffered by some 10 million Americans and does not discriminate by age, sex, race or income. But most importantly, it is a treatable illness, and recovery is possible regardless of the severity of the symptoms. Like most illnesses, however, the sooner you get help, the better your chances for recovery and the easier it will be.

Firemen's Assn. Has Meeting

The Davie County Fireman's Association met in August, with Farmington in charge of the meeting.

Guest speaker was James Bullabough, who is with Crescent Electric Company. He spoke on the dangers of high voltage wires.

All departments are urged to have their Fireman of the Year reports in by the next meeting, which will be held at Fork Fire Department.

Beck Reunion

The descendants of Thomas Jefferson and Matilda "Tillie" Smith Beck are invited to meet Sunday, September 7, 1980, at William R. Davie Fire Department on Highway 601 North for a reunion.

Dinner will be at 1:00 p.m. Everyone is asked to bring a well filled basket.

James Holland Of Cooleemee

Restores Furniture

James Holland of Cooleemee refinishes and restores antique furniture which increases their value by hundreds of dollars. He also builds antique-looking furniture, which only an expert could distinguish the difference. He even makes the worn holes, water spots and files the legs of tables to give them the "worn" look.

Over the years, Holland says his work has been sent to places "all around the world."

He says, matter of factly, he refinished a desk, lamp table and an end table last year for President Carter. One of the tables was made at Milling Road Furniture here in Mocksville.

Holland also did several pieces for former President Ford during the time he was employed with Baker Furniture here. "They were sent in for special finishing, which I did," he said.

An employee for Baker Furniture on Milling Road in Mocksville for 12 years, Holland says he gives Don Hopp of Michigan (Baker employee for 33 years) all the credit. "He taught me everything I know."

Although he has been working in furniture for 27 years, it was not until the past four years that Holland went into business for himself.

And he says he is never without more to do than he can possibly get done. He seldom does refinishing and restoring for individuals, he is kept too busy by antique dealers.

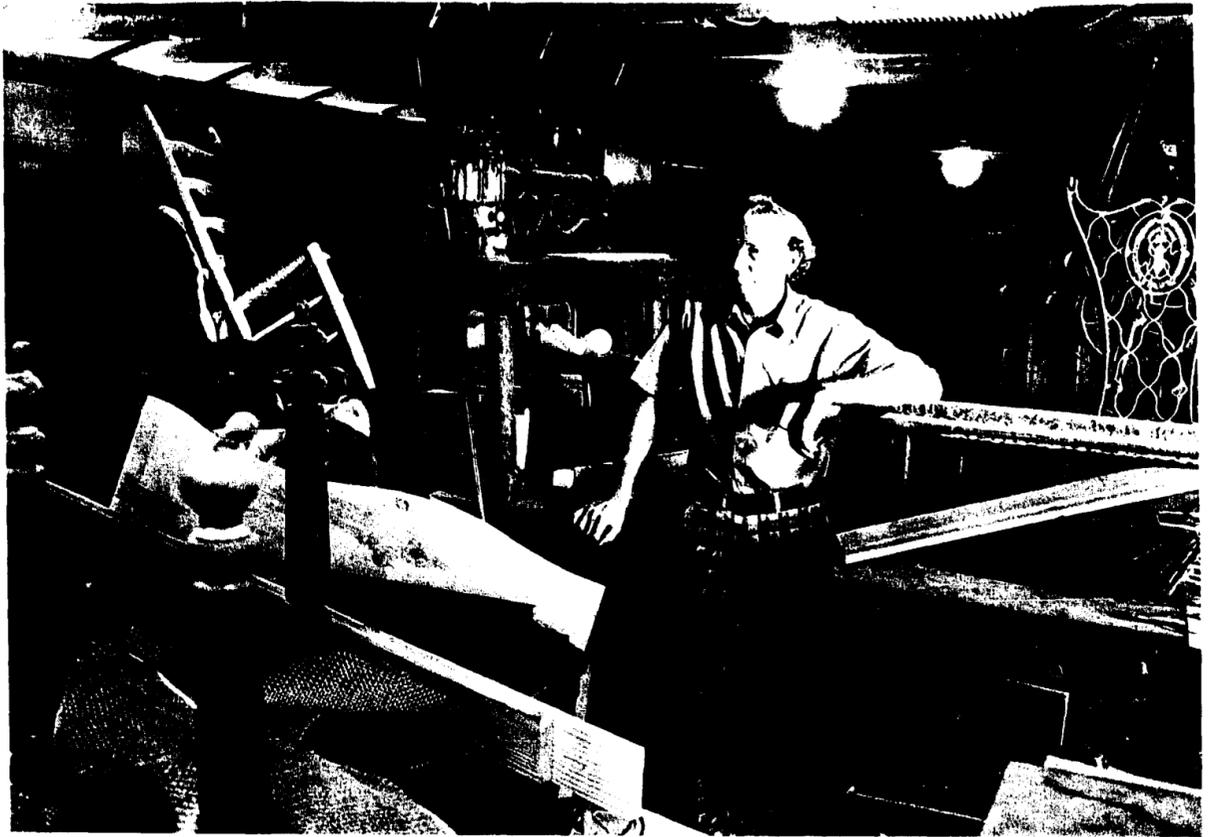

"It's James' finish that sells it," says Mrs. Lena Haire, owner of Farmstead Antiques near Farmington.

Holland says he works for Eagles Nest Antiques of Salisbury and for Mary Berrier of Davie County. "And they keep me busy."

As soon as he has the time, Holland says he has some pieces already sold. "It's just getting the time to do it."

When he makes antique-looking furniture, he says he never uses chipboard or pressed sawdust as most manufacturers do. He uses solid wood...just like furniture makes used a century ago.

The Twins

North Davie Junior High School And South Davie Junior High School Are Identical

At a cost of more than $5.5 million, the most expensive twins in the history of Davie County were born Monday Morning, August 25th. They are being called North and South.

Not only was this the first day of school for Davie students, it was also the first day of classes in the two new junior high schools: North Davie Junior High about five miles north of Mocksville on Farmington Road; South Davie Junior High between Hardison Street and Sanford Avenue in Mocksville.

The twin school buildings are identical except for the colors of paint used for the stripe and an innovative heating-cooling system installed at South but not at North. This system is somewhat of a model for schools statewide. However, James Everidge, Superintendent of Davie County School System, says that both schools were built with energy costs as a primary concern. "They're about as energy efficient as you can be," he said.

Getting ready for the opening of school this year was double. The new schools, however, represent the fruition of four years of planning to alleviate crowded conditions in the other seven schools in the county.

The voters in Davie approved the $5.5 million in bonds for the schools and grading began in March of 1979.

The freshmen class that would normally be going to Davie High School is now divided between the two junior highs. This eliminated 462 students from the high school, leaving it with an estimated enrollment of 1,085, and only the 10th through 12th grades.

North Davie has 231 ninth-graders and 391 seventh and eighth graders from Shady Grove, Pinebrook and William R. Davie for an estimated enrollment of 624 students.

South also has 231 ninth graders and approximately 393 seventh and eighth year students from Cooleemee Elementary and Mocksville Middle for an estimated enrollment of 624 students.

Mocksville Elementary now has first through third grades, while Mocksville Middle School has fourth through sixth grades.

Even with all the shifting around, the first week of school in the entire system has gone well. The buses transport the seventh through 12 graders in one run and kindergarten through sixth-graders in a second run. Everidge says, matter of factly, he feels this change should work more efficiently than in previous years because buses will be covering a more compact area.

The schools curriculum is basically what was planned from the beginning, according to Everidge. The junior highs offer new vocational, art, music and physical education courses.

In sports the North Davie students will be the "Wildcats" and at South Davie, they are the "Tigers."

Although the sports program is additional expense, Everidge feels it is important and all a part of a good program. Sports being offered at the junior highs include football, basketball, track, wrestling, volleyball and softball for girls.

In case the junior highs would ever become over-crowded, a contingency plan is in existence. Another high school could be built on the schools property next to North Davie Junior High, and the junior highs would become middle schools.

There is new furnishing throughout the buildings. There are lots of text books which have been moved in from the elementary and middle schools, but those and some of the teachers are about the only things around that are familiar.

The facilities for band and chorus are much nicer now. "Band was offered at the other schools," said Kermit Buckner, principal at South, "but not with facilities such as these and not every day."

The new schools have separate music areas that include soundproof booths for band members to practice their instruments. They also have a new teacher, Katherine Messick.

The vocational and art programs are also firsts for Davie County. Seventh and eighth-graders were not offered vocation programs previously. They now have a home economics course, complete with a full kitchen. And they now have an art room.

They are also exposed to general business and personal typing in the classroom, South's principal, Kermit Buckner says the 8th and 9th year students will have some exposure to this program. Otherwise most students would not have had such an opportunity until their sophomore year.

"We are working really hard on keeping things calm and orderly all the time," Buckner said. "We have a good group of youngsters, the first few days have been fantastic."

However, Buckner says he denotes a little rivalry between Cooleemee and Mocksville students. "We are hoping to overcome this soon," he continued. We plan to treat them all fairly and equally here in school and we hope the parents will encourage it at home."

Most students commented that they are proud of their new school and hopefully the pride they now have will stay with them.

North and South both offer - in exactly the same locations - spacious gymnasiums, locker rooms, sports equipment rooms, media centers, cafeterias, teacher workrooms, lounges, athletic fields, and about 27 individual classrooms and bandrooms.

They each also have a "theaterette" with a seating capacity of 258.

Davie County Schools System has set the dedication and open house for the twin junior high schools for October 5. Dr. Craig Phillips, state superintendent of public instruction, will be the featured speaker.

General contractor for the schools was C.J. Kern of Greensboro.

The paint colors on the trim is the only difference between the North Davie Junior High (shown) and South Davie Junior High.

The music rooms at the junior high schools are spacious and equipped with soundproof booths.

This antique chest on chest is one of many pieces in Farmstead Antiques which has been refinished by Holland.

James Holland

He does his work in his shops near his home on Highway 801. Because of the dust, he does the refinishing in a separate building from the one in which he does the sanding. He has another building where he stores his finished product. There is also a big vat outside where he dips the furniture to strip all the old paint. Many large pieces must be done by hand and he always has to clean the carvings by hand. Holland says his wife helps with the hand-coloring process, which adds much beauty to each piece.

There is quite a process involved in the refinishing and restoring of old antiques. First the paint is stripped by dipping in the vat of varnish remover, then comes the sanding and "picking" the paint out of the detailed carvings by hand. A lot of time is spent before the actual revarnishing and then there is more painting, etc. In fact, many hours of labor goes into refinishing. Holland's son, Wayne, works with his dad and they now have a full-time business.

North Davie Junior High Booster Club

On August 25 the North Davie Jr. High Booster Club held their monthly meeting at the new Jr. high school. Projects were discussed on how to raise money for the school. The project for September through November 17 will be a drawing for an R.C.A. color television.

Jackets for the jr. high students have been purchased and are now available. After the meeting the parents were given a tour of the new school. The next booster club meeting is on Sept. 15, 7:30 at the new North Davie Jr. High School.

New Generation Of Heavy-Duty Airships Slated For 1980's

The helicopter and the blimp are getting married.

And although their first offspring may resemble a Rube Goldberg creation, the union is expected to produce a new generation of heavy-duty airships that will lift huge loads for the shipping, construction, and timber industries, to mention a few.

The odd couple's first progeny will haul logs for the U.S. Forest Service. Among the states that may see the contraption by late 1982 are Alaska, California, Montana, Oregon, and Washington. "Currently we can't bring big stacks of logs from remote, rugged areas without carving roads into them," explained James R. Beavers, a timber management expert for the Forest Service. And road building is a very expensive process that sometimes harms the environment.

"So we're trying this new vehicle with a 25-ton capacity to get to inaccessible places where harvesting is necessary. We think it will be cheaper to operate than a helicopter, which can be flown economically only a mile or so with a full eight-ton load of logs."

Called a heli-stat, the airship is being developed by Piasecki Aircraft of Philadelphia.

It consists of four helicopters, joined together by a metal frame, and above them a helium-filled air bag, or aerostat, longer than a football field. The air bag is designed to add lifting power. For extra mobility and speed, the helicopters will be fitted with small propellers instead of the customary tail rotors.

If the heli-stat proves successful, the heavyweights that follow will make it seem puny by comparison. Both the U.S. Navy and private shipping concerns have expressed interest in a behemoth that could lift 75 tons or two 35-ton cargo containers from ships, and carry them to inland points as far as 200 miles away.

"This would be a tremendous help to countries without ports or direct access to the sea," pointed out Norman Mayer, a National Aeronautics and Space Administration official who is working on the airship technology.

Mayer thinks the mighty machine could also muscle aloft heavy equipment for power companies, oil refineries, chemical plants, pipelines, and the mining industry. Whole prefabricated towns even could be constructed in remote areas with the help of the airships, then hauled away after a project such as a mining venture was completed.

The heli-stat might not be the only new airship hovering about the skies in the next few years. A far smaller vehicle looking much like the familiar Goodyear blimps will be tested by the Coast Guard in 1982 or '83. Unlike the blimps, this demonstration model will be powered by three or four tiltable engines that can push the vehicle forward at 60 mph or enable it to hover or take off and land much like a helicopter.

The airship, able to stay out for 8- to 24-hour periods, is to be used to police the 200-mile fishing limit and for simple search and rescue missions, tasks that are more expensive with conventional ships and helicopters.

"The airship will give us real presence, because it will be seen miles away," predicted Lt. Cmdr. Kenneth E. Williams, who heads the Coast Guard's advanced technology program. "Boat captains tempted to stray into forbidden waters will see us looming overhead and think twice about snaring an illegal catch."

"If a violation does occur, a small rubber boat equipped with a motor could be launched from the gondola of the airship, so we could board the offending vessel."

The Coast Guard airship will carry a crew of three and be able to fly a two-ton load.

Williams shrugged off criticism that while everyone else wants to go faster and higher, the Coast Guard has its sights on lower and slower. He foresees the need for a fleet of perhaps 50 modern blimps that could perform a growing number of chores more cheaply and efficiently than ships, airplanes, and helicopters.

With a crew of seven to nine, a cargo capacity of 20 tons, and the ability to stay aloft 40 hours at a time, the airships could direct traffic in an out of congested port areas, combat drug traffic and illegal immigration, and deliver equipment to fight offshore oil and chemical spills.

Morris E. Jobe, president of the Goodyear Aerospace Corp., notes that besides performing these missions, "the patrol ship could be adapted to be an airport feeder service of, say, 100 miles radius, for passengers, cargo, or both, carrying 100 passengers or 15 tons of cargo, or combinations of each."

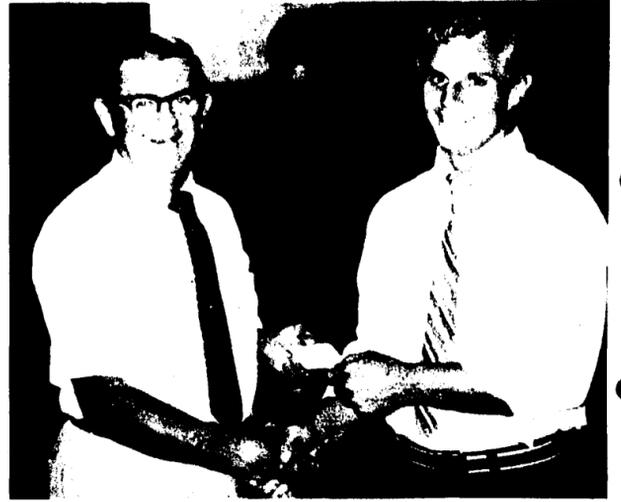

Just how soon this new breed of Coast Guard airship or the 75-ton lifting giant will appear and what forms they will take depends largely on a research program under way at NASA's Ames Research Center in California.

Promising designs are to be transformed into scale models of airships, which will be tested in a special wind tunnel before being developed.

What will the airships of the 1990s look like? Mark Ardema, who has worked on the lighter-than-air vehicle program at Ames since 1974, speculated:

"There will be big superfreighters of the sky with a range of 200 to 400 miles than can haul 100 tons through the air at 100 mph. They will look similar to present-day airships but be much larger. The big difference will be in propulsion and guidance systems."

"Powered by three or four tiltable rotors or engines, these giants will not only be able to hover above the ground, but perhaps even land on water, monitored by a pilot using full automated controls."

Club member Joe Carr Harpe (l) is shown awarding the annual Farmington Ruritan scholarship to Farmington resident Mike Walton. The award is given to a deserving Farmington resident yearly.

Congressman Bill Hefner Receives Key Assignments On Subcommittees

Just a few weeks ago 8th District Congressman Bill Hefner was elected to serve on the influential House Appropriations Committee, which controls the country's purse strings.

Last week he received subcommittee assignments, and reported that he was extremely pleased with them. He will be serving on the Appropriations Subcommittee on Energy and Water Development and the Appropriations Subcommittee on State, Justice, Commerce and Judiciary.

These subcommittee assignments may change next year, however.

Meanwhile, he will be working on the appropriations legislation affecting three Cabinet-level departments of the government: the State Department, the Justice Department and the Commerce Department.

There are some 19 other agencies whose funding must be approved initially by the Appropriations Subcommittee on State, Justice, Commerce and Judiciary. They include the Small Business Administration, the Securities and Exchange Commission, the Federal Trade Commission, the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency and the International Trade Commission.

The subcommittee controls all the spending for every level of the federal judiciary system, beginning with the U.S. Supreme Court.

The appropriations bill approved for fiscal year 1981 for the four big branches of our government funded by the subcommittee amounts to more than $9 billion.

The other subcommittee to which he is assigned—Energy and Water Development—approved a budget of $11.7 billion for the agencies for which it initiates Congressional appropriations.

This committee reviews and approves spending for almost all of the U.S. Department of Energy, the U.S. Corps of Engineers and water and power resources across the country.

The subcommittee also controls all of the spending for such agencies as the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, the Tennessee Valley Authority and the Appalachian Regional Commission, which is so important to North Carolina and some of the counties in the Eighth Congressional District.

Here's essentially how the appropriations process works:

At the end of January each year the President sends to Capitol Hill his budget requests for the following fiscal year, which begins every October 1.

From January through April the Appropriations Committee and the various subcommittees conduct hearings on the budget requests, calling in the agencies in most cases to justify the proposed expenditures.

In May the mark-up is held. That means the legislation is prepared for introduction into the House. Once this is completed, the various bills are introduced in Congress for the full body to review. Usually the bills are approved by both the House and the Senate by the end of July.

In August or September they are sent back to the White House for the President to sign.

"As easy and painless as the process may sound, it is not. The Appropriations Committee and its subcommittees conduct more hearings and deliberate longer than any other committee on Capitol Hill. I personally look forward to the challenge which for me has already begun," said Congressman Hefner.

Tips On Dental Care

By Gary E. Prillaman DDS

What kind of snacks does your child eat at school, and how can these snacks affect the teeth? If your children are like mine, they want ice cream money, and money to buy chocolate milk at school. One thing I wonder is if the breaks the kids have are really necessary. My child has an ice cream break right after lunch, and I can't imagine him being hungry if he eats his meal. I wonder how many children don't eat their meal knowing they will get ice cream right afterwards.

One thing that concerns me is the fact of having chocolate milk and ice cream sandwiches available. Ice cream in the small containers would be better than the other types of ice cream with sugary coatings on them. I think most kids like ice cream and will eat it without the sugary coatings. If the child doesn't drink much milk, the chocolate milk is fine. There is a lot of sugar in it—most chocolate mixes have sugar as the primary ingredient. The milk is usually in the mouth for only a short period of time, so little damage is done to the teeth. Instead of ice cream, other snacks could be occasionally substituted—popcorn, cheese curls, crackers and cheese, fruit slices, Frito chips, pretzels and a lot of other related items. These are snacks most children like, and they don't promote tooth decay. If enough parents complained about the snacks the children get in school, then maybe some of these cavity causing foods would be eliminated, and our children wouldn't grow up with a sweet tooth. If the children are going to eat sweet foods they could at least be encouraged to rinse their mouth out with water after eating the sweets. Encourage your child to eat plain ice cream in cups, and to drink white milk instead of chocolate milk, if your child has to have a snack.

Baron Dominique Jean Larrey, Napoleon's personal surgeon, designed the first ambulance in 1792, and used it in Napoleon's Italian campaign, 1796-7.

Seminary On Old Testament To Be Taught At Cooleemee

Textbooks include: "Introducing the Old Testament" (revised) Clyde T. Francisco, and "The Broadman Bible Commentary," Volume I (revised).

This is the first of a three-part study of the Old Testament. Attention is given to the nature of the Old Testament in its literature and to an overview of the history and geography of the Old Testament World. The student is then directed into a study of the Bible itself, following the divine story of redemption from creation to God's deliverance of Israel from Egypt. The covenant experience, the wilderness wanderings, and the conquest of Canaan, the rise of the Hebrew monarchy are also included in this study. This course covers the Pentateuch (Genesis through Deuteronomy) and the books from Joshua through II Samuel.

"INTRODUCTION TO THE OLD TESTAMENT, PART I" will be taught as a Seminary Extension Class beginning September 9, at the First Baptist Church of Cooleemee. The teacher will be the Rev. Lee Whitlock, pastor of Cooleemee First Baptist Church. The same course will also be taught at Milford Hills Baptist Church in Salisbury beginning September 14.

Sunday School teachers and other church members will find this college level course to be very enriching. The approximate cost will be $27, which includes registration, course syllabus and outline, and two textbooks. Classes will meet for two hours, 7-9 p.m., once each week, on Tuesday, for a period of nine weeks.

Course writer is Dr. Robert L. Cate, Associate Professor of Old Testament Interpretation, Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary.

Course credit will be given to those meeting all requirements through the Southern Baptist Seminary Extension Department, or Rowan Technical College. The course may also be taken when no credit is desired, or simply on an audit basis. The class size will be limited to 30. Pastors working toward a Seminary Extension degree are especially welcome.

Ice-cream manufacturing began in the U.S. in 1851.

MRS. C.E. CRAWFORD

HE ALSO FOUND GOD
I recently visited the ancient Persian capital of Persepolis in Eastern Iran. On the Grand Stairway I saw a remarkable thing—a diamond-shaped figure deeply cut into the stone and within the lines were the words, "Henry Stanley, New York Herald, 1810." Quickly I made the association—this was the man who was dispatched to Africa to find the great Christian missionary David Livingstone. The date indicated that he had visited this far-away spot in search of a story.
But in the jungles of Africa, Henry Stanley not only found Livingstone, he found God. Names carved in ancient stone will one day wear away, but a name written in God's book of life will never be erased. Stanley had found in the African jungles what he had not found anywhere else in the world.

Bill Penley To Be Guest Speaker At Rally For Christ Sunday

Evangelist Bill Penley

"From humble beginnings in the mountains of North Carolina to the famous pulpits of the world," tells the story of Evangelist Bill Penley. "Now it will be the privilege of the people of Davie County to hear this unusual preacher," stated Rev. Alec Alvord, General Chairman of the Davie County Rally for Christ. This evangelistic rally will be held on Sunday evening, September 7 at 7:30 in the Davie High Football Stadium located on U.S. 601 just south of Mocksville. Evangelist Bill Penley, called to preach at the age of 18, first ministered to his own people in the Great Smoky Mountains near Asheville, where he started his first church. Three years after assuming his first pastorate, Penley felt the need to continue his education. In 1955 he began nine years of intensive study in college and seminary. After graduation Bill resumed his mountain ministry until he accepted the call to full-time evangelism in September, 1969.

His evangelistic ministry has led him to preach in every quadrant of the United States including Alaska and Hawaii. He has carried out his commitment to Christ in Europe, India, Thailand, Japan, Korea, Trinidad, the West Indies, Venezuela, and on China's Kowloon peninsula. He has preached in the Iron Curtain Countries of Hungary, Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia, and Russia. Since 1975 he has preached revivals in Rhodesia, Brazil, Nassau, and Puerto Rico.

Seventeen years as a pastor have given Bill Penley a deep understanding and appreciation for the local church. He describes his preaching as "simple, Bible-centered evangelism" and his theology as "conservatively fundamental, with a deep respect for the divine inspiration of the Bible and the person and work of the Holy Spirit." Mr. Penley has been the featured speaker at both the North Carolina and Louisiana Evangelism Conferences of Southern Baptists, as well as being honored as President of the Southern Baptist Evangelist's Association.

Rev. Alec Alvord, pastor of the Advance and Mocks United Methodist Churches, and General Chairman for the Rally states, "Bill Penley is one of the most unique and powerful evangelists on the American scene today. You will not want to miss hearing this exciting speaker. Religious leaders across America attest to his complete dedication to the cause of evangelism and Christ's church. Those who have worked with him in crusades are impressed with his deep spirituality and his great love for his Savior, the pastors, and the people to whom he ministers."

The members of the Davie County Ministerial Association invite everyone in our area to come hear this exciting evangelist at the Davie County Rally for Christ on Sunday, September 7, at 7:30 p.m. in the Davie High Stadium.

Local Students May Get Involved In State Activities

If you are a high school student in Davie County and would like to run state government for a day, now is your chance.

Approximately 125 students in grades 10 to 12 across the state will have an opportunity to serve as governor, lieutenant governor, state attorney general and other state officials during the Youth Involvement Day activities in Raleigh, Oct. 6-7.

"This experience gives our young people a firsthand look at the daily operations of state government," said Gov. Jim Hunt. "State officials also learn from them about their concerns and recommendations for young people's programs."

The cost per student is $24.50, which covers a dinner, entertainment, lodging and breakfast.

For registration and information, contact Pam Kohl at 919-733-5968, or write to Youth Involvement Office, Suite 115, Howard Building, 112 W. Lane St., Raleigh, N.C. 27611. The deadline for registration is Sept. 15.

Youth Involvement Day is sponsored by the State Youth Council component of the N.C. Department of Administration's Youth Involvement Office.

International Strikes Chevrolet In Rear

The driver of a 1971 International was taken to Davie County Hospital for treatment of injuries received in an accident Aug. 26 on US 64, six miles east of Mocksville.

According to the Highway Patrol, a 1979 Chevrolet, driven by Gilmer Jerome Mason, 23, of Rt. 3 Mocksville, was stopped in the road waiting for traffic to clear before making a left turn. It was then struck by the International, operated by Garlin Clarence Davis, 58, of North Wilkesboro.

Damage to the International was estimated at $600, while damage to the Chevrolet was estimated at $800.

Davis was charged with failure to reduce speed. Trooper A.C. Stokes investigated.

Rising Star Recreation Center Opens On Point Road

"How do you like it?" the woman asked. "we're so happy. You can get a good hot ball game going here."

The woman with many others from Davie County, Winston-Salem, Lexington and Salisbury were celebrating Labor Day and the new Rising Star Recreation Center, a 15 acre tract of land on Point Road, purchased by the joint efforts of 18 area churches.

"We have been organized for 43 years," said the Rev. W.C. Wilkerson of Salisbury, "and this is our first adventure together. We hope to develop it up to be an asset for Davie County."

Glenn Howard, chairman of the board of county commissioners, was on hand to join in the festivities. "You're building bridges for the next generation with this recreation center," said Howard.

Busloads from the churches came rolling in all day. The children played softball, basketball and even football in the afternoon, while the older folks walked around the new land or readied the picnic spread under the cedars.

Members of the Rising Star organization raised $9,000 to pay for the land. Selling the pulp wood for $600, they were able to pay for the cost of bulldozing the tract. The members hope to construct shelters and playing fields in the next few years.

Marion Powell To Speak At Green Hill

Evangelist Marion Powell

Evangelist Marion Powell of Wilmington, N.C. will be guest speaker at Green Hill Baptist Church revival, which will begin Sunday, September 7, and continue through Thursday, September 11. Services will be held each evening at 7:30; however Sunday's service will be transferred to the Davie County Crusade Rally for Christ.

Monday evening, Mr. Powell will speak on children; Tuesday, the emphasis will be on youth; Wednesday, adults; and Thursday will be Family Night.

A covered dish supper will be held at the church Thursday, Sept. 11, beginning at 6 p.m.

Special music will be provided each evening, under the direction of James Kimbrell.

Mr. Powell is in full time evangelism. He is a graduate of Mars Hill College, Lenoir Rhyne College, Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary and the School of Pastoral Care, Baptist Hospital in Winston-Salem; and has pastored several churches. He is married to the former Sylvia Harrison of Valdese, N.C. and they have four children.

Bill Would Aid Family Farm Estates

The North Carolina State Grange has continued to work for revision in the estate tax law that would permit family farm estates and closely held small businesses to be passed from one generation without a large tax burden. Lloyd Massey, Master of the N. C. State Grange, says there is now pending in the U. S. Senate Bill No. 2967, known as the Family Enterprise Estate and Gift Equity Act of 1980, which, if adopted, will go a long way in accomplishing the Grange objective.

Massey said the bill contains provision that (1) will increase from $175,000 to $500,000 the amount of property that may pass to spouse or heirs free of federal estate and gift taxes; (2) exempts from estate and gift taxes all property inherited by or transferred to a spouse; and (3) doubles the amount of property which an individual may give tax-free annually to another individual from $3,000 to $6,000. The bill makes numerous changes in the special use valuation rules. These rules are simplified for farm and closely-held businesses that take into consideration the problem of those who are disabled, receiving old-age benefits, or who are elderly spouses, minors or students. The bill would allow these heirs to hire someone to work the property for them for ten years without disqualification from the special use valuation. Massey said if and when Congress approved this provision of the tax reform act it will make it possible for the heirs of an estate, and especially young members of a family, to continue the family enterprise, whether a family farm or a closely held small business, without a tremendous tax burden.

Do You Know?

Tomatoes
Tomato juice and stewed tomatoes can be frozen. Dr. Nadine Tope, extension food conservation specialist, North Carolina State University, offers these suggestions.
For tomato juice, wash, sort, and trim firm, vine-ripened tomatoes. Cut in quarters or eighths. Simmer 5 to 10 minutes, then press through a sieve.

Season to taste.
Pour juice into freezer containers, leaving headspace. Seal cartons and freeze.
For stewed tomatoes, wash, remove stem ends, peel, and quarter ripe tomatoes. Cover tomatoes and cook until tender - from 10 to 20 minutes. Place pan containing tomatoes in cold water to cool.

Pack stewed tomatoes into freezer containers, leaving headspace. Seal cartons and freeze.
Perishable Food Dates
Check the dates on perishable foods before purchasing. Be sure all food can be used before it spoils.
Laundrying Lace
To launder fragile lace, baste it to a piece of cotton fabric.

Folk-Ways and Folk-Speech

by Rogers Whitener

The first major effort to locate and investigate the "unsinkable" Titanic through the use of a sonar sled and other highly technical equipment has ended at last for the moment.

The wreck of the ship was apparently located, but the task of raising the hulk proved two formidable for the scientific crew headed by Dr. William B.F. Ryan, a Lamont-Doherty Geological Observatory geophysicist.

They may come back for a second try later on. Regardless of past failures and future attempts, the expedition has revived memories of perhaps the most famous shipwreck in history.

Old Titanic movies are being dusted off, a new cinema version, Raise the Titanic, is making the rounds, TV treatments are frequent, and Titanic ballads are being sung again.

No wonder when you consider the catastrophe. Representing the ultimate in ocean liner comfort and safety, the vessel rammed an iceberg during her maiden voyage in April, 1912. On the evening of the 14th and 15th she went down off the coast of Newfoundland with a loss of 1513 lives.

The tragedy became the subject of books, songs, poems, movies, and general speculation.

Perhaps the most famous ballad to emerge from the incident was The Titanic, more commonly referred to as "It Was Sad When That Great Ship Went Down." Many versions of the song appeared as it circulated by oral tradition throughout the states. Two of the more commonly heard stanzas follow:

It was on one Monday morning just about one o'clock

When that great Titanic began to reel and rock; People began to scream and cry, Saying, "Lord, am I going to die?"

It was sad when that great ship went down, It was said when that great ship went down,

Husbands and wives and little children lost their lives, It was said when that great ship went down.

You know it must have been awful with those people on the sea,

They say that they were singing, "Nearer, My God, to Thee."

While some were homeward bound, Sixteen hundred had to drown.

It was sad when that great ship went down.

(It is interesting to discover by way of Tom Burnam's More Misinformation that instead of "Nearer, My God, to Thee, the band played the Episcopal hymn Autumn as the ship went down. Bill Lightfoot, a folklorist who recently joined the Department of English staff at Appalachian State University, notes that the Titanic ballad is an excellent example of a folksong in which sound does not follow sense.

"The ballad," says Lightfoot, "tells of a tragic occurrence, but it is sung in a boisterous, energetic almost joyful manner."

I can testify to the accuracy of his observation. During the summers of 1946-47 I was a member of The Lost Colony cast living in coast guard barracks near Manteo. Each evening we boarded a rat-trap bus which took us the several miles to the theatre site.

Andy Griffith was a cast member at the time, and almost inevitably he instigated a session of group singing the moment he boarded the bus.

The Titanic was a favorite, and there was nothing plaintive or sad or tragic about the group's rendition. It was a rollicking, roaring version which threatened the tranquility of Roanoke Island.

I'd be willing to bet that the song has become a part of Lost Colony cast tradition.

Located: 6 1/2 miles north of the city limits of Salisbury, N.C. 7 miles south of Mocksville, N.C. with frontage on Hwy. 601. Close enough for good access, yet maintaining the country atmosphere and privacy one desires.

House And 8 Acres

The house is a 2 story frame sitting upon a little hill nestled among large shade trees. The house will have a new roof, new paint, new porch, new panelling, new ceiling and much, much more in all areas except upstairs bedrooms. If you have not seen this house when work has been done then please do so prior to making a decision. We Will Sell — Be Ready! If you need financial assistance, start now — If you have questions seek an answer; but be prepared!

"Land"

Man's Best Earthly Investment.

The 54 acres other than the house tract will be divided into 4 or 5 tracts consisting of nice frontage on Hwy. 601, good homesites, of which, most have natural streams on back of property. Some valuable timber and pulp on the larger tract — within seven miles of Mocksville or Salisbury, N.C. The best day's work you can do this year may be to take time out to inspect this property.

No Doubt — We Will Sell

The sellers are bound and the selling agents are bound to a legal contract which says the property will be sold to the highest bidder who can qualify for the down payment, regardless of the price. Absolute means "It will sell" — Be Prepared!

General Warranty Deed

Yes, you will be given a good deed to this property; Mr. Niederman, upon purchasing this property had a title search and to further substantiate title obtained title insurance — The search and insurance is current.

A Good Guide to the Mortgage Market... a REALTOR®

Finding financing is the problem for most home buyers today. A conventional mortgage is one way to go. But in these days of tight money and high interest, other alternatives are also available:

Assuming the seller's mortgage. Contract sales. Installment sales. FHA/VA loans. Wraparound mortgages. Graduated payment mortgages. Pledged account mortgages. These are some of the options.

For the home financing that's best for you, consult a REALTOR®. REALTORS® belong to the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS®, a group of real estate professionals working to encourage lower mortgage interest rates and keep home ownership affordable.

Buying a home today may not be easy. But it is possible. For details, talk to a REALTOR® soon.

Farm Market Summary

(Farm Market Summary week of August 25-29, 1980 Federal-State Market News Service)

A total of 11,063 feeder pigs were sold on 13 state graded sales during week of August 25, according to the Market News Service of the North Carolina Department of Agriculture. Prices were lower this week with declines of $2.10 to $2.50 on 40 to 50 pound pigs. US 1-2 pigs weighing 40-50 pounds averaged $77.18 per hundred pounds with No. 3s $85.29; 50-60 pound 1-2s averaged $67.87, No. 3s $56.25 60-70 pound 1-2s $60.03, No. 3s $51.73; 70-80 pound 1-2s $54.42 per hundred pounds with No. 3s $49.90.

At weekly livestock auctions held within the state prices for slaughter cows were 50 cents to $1.50 lower and feeder calves irregular. IN THE MATTER OF THE FORECLOSURE OF A DEED OF TRUST EXECUTED BY LOREN L. PERRY DATED JULY 5, 1978, RECORDED IN BOOK 105, PAGE 648, IN THE OFFICE OF THE REGISTER OF DEEDS OF DAVIE COUNTY, NORTH CAROLINA, BY E. EDWARD VOGLER, JR., TRUSTEE

NOTICE OF HEARING ON FORECLOSURE

TO: LOREN L. PERRY YOU, THE MORTGAGOR, ARE HEREBY NOTIFIED THAT GILBERT LEE BOGER AND WIFE, MAXINE S. BOGER, of Mocksville, Davie County, North Carolina has directed the Trustee to, and the Trustee does hereby commence foreclosure on the note and deed of trust which were executed by the mortgagor under date of July 5, 1978, in the original principal amount of ELEVEN THOUSAND AND NO-100 ($11,000.00) DOLLARS, and the real property being foreclosed is known as 2.05 acres, more or less, located in Farmington Township, Davie County, North Carolina, and is the property more particularly described in the deed of trust recorded in Book 105, page 648, in the Office of the Register of Deeds of Davie County, being the Property described in Schedule A attached hereto and made a part hereof. This note and deed of trust are held by Gilbert Lee Boger and wife, Maxine S. Boger, whose address is Route 3, Mocksville, North Carolina, and the default thereunder is the failure of the mortgagor or present owner to pay monthly installments due on the note, DEMAND for which has been made, and which is hereby made again, and also their failure to pay the obligation on its due date, which was July 5, 1979, DEMAND for which has been made and is hereby made again, and because of such default Gilbert Lee Boger and wife, Maxine S. Boger, have accelerated the maturity of the debt evidenced thereby.

YOU MAY PAY the indebtedness secured by the aforesaid deed of trust, plus all foreclosure costs, in full at any time prior to the time fixed for the foreclosure sale to be held by the undersigned Trustee, or prior to the expiration date of the time for submitting any upset bid after a sale or resale has been held; and if paid on or before September 11, 1980, the following amounts will be accepted in satisfaction:

(1) $8,931.96 plus interest from July 31, 1980 through date of payment at the rate of 9 percent; and
(2) Foreclosure costs of $550.00

ANYTHING LESS than the sum of the foregoing will not be accepted and funds must be either cash or certified, and sent to E. EDWARD VOGLER, JR., Hall and Vogler, Attorneys at Law, P.O. Box 294, Mocksville, North Carolina, or delivered to his office at 134 South Main Street, Mocksville, North Carolina. If not paid by September 11th, 1980, additional interest and foreclosure costs may accrue, the amount of which can be obtained from the undersigned.

The foreclosure sale will be scheduled to be held at the Court House Door, Mocksville, Davie County, North Carolina, on October 17th, 1980, at 12:00 Noon unless the indebtedness together with all foreclosure costs, is paid in full prior to that date. If a postponement of the sale becomes necessary, it will be held on October 24th, 1980, and you will be mailed notice of such later date.

YOU AND EACH OF YOU, ARE FURTHER NOTIFIED that you may appear before the Clerk of Superior Court of Davie County at 12:00 Noon or as soon thereafter as the matter can be reached, on September 11th, 1980, to show cause, if any you have, as to why this foreclosure should not be allowed to be held. If you do not intend to contest Gilbert Lee Boger and wife, Maxine S. Boger's allegations of default and their right to foreclosure, you do not have to attend this hearing before the Clerk, and your failure to do so will not affect your right to pay the indebtedness in full as hereinabove provided, or to attend and bid of the sale itself.

IF THE FORECLOSURE IS HELD, the purchaser at the sale will be entitled to possession of the property described in the Deed of Trust as of the date of delivery of his deed by the Trustee, and should you remain in possession at that time, you can be evicted from such possession.

YOU SHOULD KEEP the undersigned Trustee notified in writing of your address, so that copies of foreclosure sale and any postponements of sale or resale can be mailed to you.

This the 19 day of August, 1980.

Health Tip

From The American Medical Assn.

It's that time of year again, the annual fall rites of the American male. The game of running, jumping, tackling, falling, bruising, cuts, sprains, pains-collectively known as football-is played everywhere by everybody from "peewees" to "pros".

While most of the injuries aren't serious there are some things you can do to help protect yourself and make participation in the game more enjoyable.

A thorough physical examination is a must before preparing to go out for football to make sure there is no physical condition that could prove harmful. This is to protect your health.

Second, proper physical conditioning, getting in shape, hardens the body and allows you to play without tiring, helping to prevent injury. Coaches and team physicians agree that many injuries occur when a player is tiring and less alert. A minimum of three weeks exercising and conditioning is recommended prior to the first game of the season.

Third, precautions should be taken against extreme heat of the early days of practice, usually during the "dog days" of August. Many teams now schedule their hot weather workouts in the early morning and late afternoon to avoid the hottest time of the day. Water should always be available during these sessions because it is necessary to replace the body fluids lost through sweating. Salt is also important to replace, either through salt tablets or by salting food heavily during meals.

One of the most important reasons these precautions are necessary is to prevent heat stroke which can be extremely dangerous. Heat stroke occurs when the body's cooling mechanism, the evaporation of sweat from the skin, ceases to function. When this occurs, the body temperature can rise as much as 7.4 degrees (from a normal 98.6 to 106) in twenty minutes and can cause kidney, liver or brain damage.

Football can be an enjoyable game but proper conditioning is important to enjoy the game to its fullest.

Historians believe fire was discovered some 400,000 years ago.

Cooleemee News

Mrs. Ethel Campbell left Sunday afternoon after spending the past month here with her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bill White. The Saturday night guests of the Whites were Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hedetneim of Annondate, Maryland who drove their grandmother, Mrs. Campbell, to Arlington, Virginia where she will be spending some time with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Wagner. Sunday visitors with Mrs. Bessie Nail of Route 7, Mocksville were her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Benson, and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Benson and Alisa all of Charlotte. Later in the afternoon they all visited with Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Benson of Route 1, Salisbury and their guests for several days which included his sister, Mrs. Margie McGinn of Daytona Beach, Florida and Mr. and Mrs. Bud Garves of Virginia. Mrs. Reba Daywalt was transferred from Davie Hospital Sunday to Forsyth Hospital in Winston-Salem where she continues to undergo treatment. The Cooleemee Senior Citizens will hold their regular meeting Monday, September 8, in the fellowship hall of the First Baptist Church at 10 a.m. All members are asked to bring sandwiches. The Mother's Class of Edgewood Baptist Church held a covered dish supper Friday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Parsley. Ten members attended for an evening of good food and fellowship.

Tips On Buying A New Bed

Don't be afraid to test the bedding in the store. Lie down and stretch out on the mattress. There should be no depressions, ridges or valleys. The mattress should support body weight equally at every point. A mattress which is too soft can cause lower back pain while a too-hard mattress can produce painful pressure at the hips and shoulders. Look for the right degree of softness combined with firm support inside.

Keep in mind individual needs. There are several different types of mattresses from which to choose. The primary type of innerspring mattress used is made of open coil units, coil springs joined by steel wire. Check the consumer information which accompanies these mattresses for details on the gauge of steel used

Town Annexation Is Unopposed

Town Board members were faced with no opposition Tuesday from industries located in the proposed annexation area along Milling and Bethel Church Road.

A public hearing, allowing affected industrial representatives to "speak out" was held Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Mocksville Town Hall.

The 274 acres to be annexed includes Wonderkniit Corporation and Crown Wood Products, Inc. The area is broken down to 175.91 acres along Milling Road and 98.52 acres on Bethel Church Road.

The town annexed 416 acres on Bethel Church and Milling Roads June 30. The annexation, the first in ten years, caused 188 residences and several major businesses to fall within Mocksville's boundaries.

Terry Bralley, town administrator, explains the "back to back" annexations as a result of legalities.

"Had it been legally possible, both the RCA plant and Wonderkniit would have been included in the previous annexation," said Bralley. "But boundary guidelines in the general statute made it impossible."

Only industrial sites are included in the currently proposed annexation. No residences will be affected by the move.

Bralley explained that residents voiced considerable concern as to why the RCA plant and Wonderkniit were excluded from the June 30 annexation.

North Carolina law, however, made their inclusion impossible in the June 30 boundary expansion.

The availability and use of town services prompted the move.

Wonderkniit Corporation, located on Milling Road is currently served by Mocksville's water system. Sewer services are available but are not hooked up at present.

Bralley commented that the new RCA plant, still under construction is expected to utilize both the town's water and sewer services.

Mocksville will have to pay $80,000 for a sewer outfall on Bethel Church Road. This, along with expansion of town garbage, police and fire service, is the only expected expense to Mocksville in the proposed annexation.

As of now, it is unknown as to how much the proposed annexation will increase Mocksville tax base. The June 30 annexation, which included Baker Furniture and Funder America, added between $20-$25 million to Mocksville's tax base.

At present, Wonderkniit is paying a county tax bill of $40,320.65 with a total value to $9,163,784, the town could gain $45,818.92 in taxes from Wonderkniit if the annexation goes through.

The total value of the Crown Wood-RCA plant is unknown since the site is still under construction. It is expected to be in full operation by November.

Crown Wood Opening Delayed By Machinery

Securing necessary German made machinery has Crown Wood officials somewhat stymied.

John Green, manager of industrial relations said however, that the plant hopes to be in full production by November in spite of the delay.

He commented that officials will know more next week as to what the hold up is in obtaining the foreign made equipment.

"We are making pretty good progress," he said. A great deal of equipment has been installed but we are still waiting for the rest."

Green commented that the plant, which will employ around 300 workers, can probably begin hiring sometime in October.

Already, 31 persons comprised of managers and secretaries are working at the plant located on Bethel Church Road.

It is also expected that engineering and industrial relation officials currently operating out of the basement of the Chamber of Commerce building will move to the new facility next week.

Crown Wood began work on its 193,508 sq. ft. building last November. The multi-million dollar plant will manufacture wood cabinets for television receivers and other wood related products.

The building is constructed of a structural steel frame with masonry and pre-cast walls. Rail service will be provided by Southern Railroad with on site facilities for nine boxcars. In addition, there are five overhead doors for shipping and receiving by over the road trucking. The plant has been designed and constructed to meet Federal and State Environmental Regulations, OSHA standards, and to be as energy and cost efficient as possible.

The 25 acre site elected for the new Crown Wood Products plant was purchased from the heirs of Dr. Latham T. Moose of Winston-Salem.

Crown Wood Products, Inc., is a separate subsidiary of RCA, and supplies cabinetry for products within that corporation. RCA, the parent corporation, ranked 41st in size last year among corporations in the United States and is a leading manufacturer of television sets. The corporation also owns the National Broadcasting Company.

Kenneth Gantt, of Rt. 1, Advance says manufacturing a unique burglar alarm is basically an assembly operation, which is now being done in the basement of his home. See Story on page 8

School Enrollment Is 5,028

Davie County school enrollment appears to be slightly up this year after the first ten days compared to last year.

A total of 5,028 are enrolled in the 9 schools of Davie County this year as compared to 5010 in the seven schools the first week of 1979.

With the opening of the two new junior high schools in which a total of 1159 students are enrolled, the enrollment in the other seven schools naturally shows a decrease. At the end of the 10th day, 602 are enrolled at the South Junior High School and 557 at the North Junior High. Broken down as to grades, this is as follows:

South Jr. High: 7th grade, 199; 8th grade, 192; 9th grade, 211. Total 602.

North Jr. High: 7th grade, 182; 8th grade, 434; 11th grade, 388; 12th grade, 337. Total 1195. The 1979 enrollment at Davie High was 1558.

Cooleemee Elementary: Kindergarten, 75; 1st grade, 59; 2nd grade, 58; 3rd grade, 61; 4th grade, 84; 5th grade, 66; 6th grade, 77. Total 490. The 1979 enrollment was 624.

Mocksville Middle School: 4th grade, 131; 5th grade, 148; 6th grade, 123. Total 402. The 1979 enrollment was 500.

Mocksville Elementary School: Trainable Mentally Retarded 7; Kindergarten, 112; 1st grade, 108; 2nd grade, 120; 3rd grade, 121. Total 468. The 1979 enrollment was 631.

Pinebrook Elementary School: Kindergarten, 49; 1st grade, 65; 2nd grade, 86; 3rd grade, 83; 4th grade, 94; 5th grade, 82; 6th grade, 97. Total 556. Enrollment in 1979 was 715.

Shady Grove Elementary: Kindergarten, 47; 1st grade, 58; 2nd grade, 59; 3rd grade, 73; 4th grade, 72; 5th grade, 68; 6th grade, 80. Total 457. The 1979 enrollment was 578.

William R. Davie Elementary: Kindergarten, 39; 1st grade, 47; 2nd grade, 35; 3rd grade, 39; 4th grade, 39; 5th grade, 50; 6th grade, 52. Total 301. The enrollment in 1979 was 404.

Retail Sales Here Total $72-Million

Gross retail sales in Davie County for the fiscal year of 1979-80 totaled $72,740,938, according to figures released this week by the North Carolina Department of Revenue.

Food and automotive accounted for almost half of the total sales. Food retail sales amounted to $17,750,945 and automotive related sales amounted to $17,144,084.

Retail sales of general merchandise amounted to $9,987,367; building materials $8,610,530; apparel 668,842; and unclassified group, $4,326,439.

Retail sales in Davie County totaled $6,122,439 for the month of June 1980. This was just slightly less than the figure for June 1979 when total sales amounted to $6,183,284.

Refused To Release Prisoner To Police

Sheriff Smith, Chief Deputy Summoned To Court

Davie County Sheriff George Smith will be in court Monday, September 15...but this time he'll be facing the judge.

Smith, along with chief deputy Robert Coe, was ordered September 4, to appear before the district court judge and "show cause" as to why he should not be held in contempt of court. The order was issued by Magistrate Fred Pratt. It stems from the Sheriff's failure to release a prisoner to the Mocksville Police Department.

If a defendant is found guilty of contempt of court charges, he can receive a fine not to exceed $500, or any combination of the three.

The order reads that "on the night of September 3, 1980, Fred W. Pratt, a Davie County Magistrate committed one Judson Mills to the Davie County Jail. The commitment order was modified to read: "Defendant to be released to the temporary custody of the Mocksville Police Department upon request."

On the morning of September 4, Lt. Gary Edwards of the Mocksville Police Department requested that the defendant Judson Mills be released into his custody for further questioning.

However, the jail custodian contacted Sheriff Smith and was ordered not to release the prisoner.

Smith refused to make any comment concerning the issue saying that "it will all come out in court Monday."

According to Mocksville Police Records, Judson Mills, 36, of 1812 Short Street, Winston-Salem, was charged September 3 with concealment of merchandise, felonious possession of 260 Valium tablets and trespassing.

Police Chief Alton Carter commented that normally a defendant is questioned and fingerprinted before admission to the Davie County Jail. He said however, that Mills was apparently "under the influence of drugs" and unable to answer questions coherently. Police officers were prompted to delay questioning until the next morning.

However, Lt. Gary Edwards was denied release of the prisoner the next day. As a result, a bail bondsman from Winston-Salem acquired his release. The defendant was never questioned by the Mocksville Police Department due to his release.

Police Chief Carter commented that this is the third time the Sheriff's Department has denied release of a prisoner into their custody.

He quickly added that he doesn't know what the problem is. "This is the magistrate's order, not the police's order," he said. "All we have done is go by the paper he drew up."

The first incident occurred in May when 3 out of state residents were arrested by police officers. The officers were told by the sheriff's department the next day that they must obtain a court order for prisoner release. Later in the day however, the three suspects were released to Lt. Gary Edwards for questioning.

The second incident occurred August 8 when Jerome Williams was arrested by policeman on a bicycle theft charge.

When the Mocksville policeman were once again denied release of their prisoner for routine processing, District Attorney George Fuller was contacted. The prisoner was released into their custody later that day.

Police Chief Carter commented that this has been a problem since May. "I hope this will clear it up," he said. "If we can't put a prisoner in jail and get him out for questioning, then we should know about it."

"I don't think the sheriff has this problem when he goes to Winston-Salem or other areas to pick up a prisoner," he said.

Magistrate Fred Pratt explained that the release of a prisoner on the police department's request is a pre-trial release condition in Davie County. Before that was devised, the city prisoners were released to the police department, "on good faith."

Another Davie County deputy, Jim Hunter, also is scheduled to appear in court Monday, after being served a warrant Aug. 25 for forcible trespass. Dep. William E. Overcash served the warrant, issued July 16.

Taking out the warrant was William L. Revels of Rt. 5, Mocksville, according to the Davie County Clerk of Court's office. No details of the incident were available.

Farm Disaster Emergency Loans Authorized For Davie

Farmers in Yadkin and Davie Counties can now apply for disaster emergency loans from the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) to recover from losses caused by the severe drought and extreme temperatures that have occurred in much of North Carolina since June, according to Tony C. Snow, FmHA Supervisor for the two counties.

Snow stated that the Government's interest in making the emergency loans available is to enable those who rely on farming for a substantial part of their living and have suffered substantial losses caused by the summer drought and extreme temperatures to remain in farming until they can return to their normal sources of credit. Losses incurred by other causes, including poor management, will not be considered in determining eligibility. In addition,

Hoots estimated that about 150 out of the 400 acres of corn planted on his land is a "total loss" due to severe heat and drought. This stalk did manage to produce one poorly formed ear. (Photo by Garry Foster)

Drought Takes It's Toll On Davie County Crops

by Kathy Tomlinson

"This was the most beautiful corn in the spring you ever saw," said Ken Hoots of Advance.

Walking over part of the 400 acres planted for grain, he paused to look at the corn stalks now standing dry and brittle in the field.

"Why we haven't had enough rain for it even to grow let alone produce ears," he said. "Might as well leave it on the land. It sure ain't worth anything."

Severe heat and drought from June through August has taken its toll on local crops. Corn, tobacco, soybeans and pasture lands have been extremely hard hit by intense heat and lack of moisture.

Last week, Davie became one of 67 North Carolina counties declared disaster areas due to extreme heat and drought. The decision makes area farmers eligible for low-interest loans to cover losses attributed to dry, hot weather.

Farmers in eligible counties have until July, 1981 to file an accounting of their losses with local Farmers Home Administration offices. The FmHA loans will cover agriculture losses incurred between June 1 and September 2.

The decision to declare the 67 counties as disaster areas came September 2 from U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland. According to the announcement, farmers are eligible for the 5 percent loans to cover damages in crops or property. Additional funds are available for annual operating and chattel purposes.

Even though some Davie farmers have been hard hit by the heat and drought, local agriculture officials feel that on a whole, Davie has fared better than surrounding counties.

Ronnie Thompson, extension agriculture agent, said that crop damage in the county varies from farm to farm. He explained that even though the county didn't get much rain from June through August, some areas got more than others.

"A lot of folks have been hurt badly by the drought and heat, but very few have been wiped out 100 percent," he said.

Referring to the difference in severity on a countywide basis he said, "This farmer may be hurt bad. Another is hurt bad, but not to the point of down on his knees."

Local corn crops have suffered from two types of drought stress this summer.

Cooleemee And Jerusalem Voting Sites Moved Into The New Fire Stations

The voting places for the Cooleemee and Jerusalem precincts have been moved to the new fire department buildings.

Official legal notices announcing these changes ordered by the Davie County Board of Elections appear in this issue.

As to Cooleemee precinct, the legal notice states: "Whereas the board determined that the Cooleemee School Gym is no longer suitable as the voting place for the Cooleemee Precinct and that the new Fire Station located next to the school is suitable for use as the voting place for said precinct.....The Davie County Board of Elections resolves that the polling place for the Cooleemee Precinct be the new fire station located next to the Cooleemee Elementary School. The change is effective immediately."

station located next to the Cooleemee Elementary School. The change is effective immediately."

As to the Jerusalem Precinct, the notice states: "Whereas the board has determined that the old Jerusalem Fire Station is no longer suitable as the voting place for Jerusalem Precinct and that the new Jerusalem Fire Station located next to the old one is suitable for use as the voting place for said precinct.....The Davie County Board of Elections resolves that the polling place for the Jerusalem Precinct be the new Jerusalem Fire Station located next to the old one. The change is effective immediately."

These are the instructions under which we must operate, Snow declared. Farmers having questions or wish to file an application should visit or contact the Yadkinville office at 679-2016 or in Mocksville at 634-5681. Personnel will be at the Mocksville office on Mondays from 10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. in the basement of the County Office Building.

1981. Before FmHA can begin processing applications the farmer must accomplish the following: (1) the 1980 harvest completed and certification of yields available from ASCS; (2) crop insurance compensation verified; (3) usual source of credit such as banks and the Production Credit Association has determined they cannot meet the credit needs and (4) the 1981 cropping plans completed, including lands to be tilled and amount of credit needed.

Current interest rates for loan amounts to offset the actual loss are five percent and additional amounts at 13 1/2 percent. Snow stressed the point that farmers will be required to provide adequate security for the loan and have projected income sufficient to meet other obligations as well as meet the repayment of the FmHA loan, based on a farm plan for the 1981 crop year.

Farmers have plenty of time to file an application with the deadline being June

Sixth Annual Arts Alive Festival Is Next Weekend On Town Square

The Sixth annual Arts Alive Festival scheduled for September 20 is expected to be the largest and most successful yet. Already, 100 exhibitors from across the state have signed up to display their wares on the square of downtown Mocksville. Last year, the festival drew a total of 46 exhibitors. Danny Lawrence, Davie Arts Council president said "This year's festival promises to be the best ever."

Additional exhibitors should add variety to the 1980 festival. Craft newcomers include displays of dough art, photography, calligraphy, jewelry making, and others. Lawrence commented that there will be several displays of needlework, tote painting, wood working, etc. to delight festival goers. Exhibitors will begin to set up on the square at 7:30 a.m. September 20. Displays and demonstrations will continue throughout the day culminating at dusk.

The festival will kick off at 8:00 a.m. with a Fun Run sponsored by the Mocksville Jaycees, Jaycelles and First Federal Savings and Loan. This will be followed by a 10,000 meter race (6.2 miles) beginning on the square. Special entertainment will also highlight the day. Performances will begin on the square at 9:45 a.m. Performers include the Davie High School Band, Dancing Boots, the Livingstone College choir, The Blue Ridge Boys, Sally Spring, a guitarist and singer from Durham, plus many others.

Man Charged With Shooting Girl Friend

A Davie County man was arrested and charged with assault with a deadly weapon after an incident which occurred Saturday. According to a report filed by the Davie County Sheriff's Department, Johnny Ray Porter, 24, of Route 1, Mocksville, was charged after he reportedly shot his girlfriend in the foot. The victim, Charlene Steele, 24, also of Route 1, Mocksville, stated to sheriff's deputies that the shooting occurred after a domestic conflict between her (Steele) and Porter.

Truck Overtakes

A Mocksville man overturned his truck when his brakes failed at an intersection at Williams Road east of Mocksville on Wednesday, September 3. Steven Franklin Forrest, 27, of Route 3, lost control of his 1979 International truck when his brakes failed. He crossed the road and overturned after hitting a fence. Damage to the truck was estimated at $2,000. Forrest was treated for injuries at Davie County Hospital.

Carolina Review

MISTAKE....Republicans in North Carolina political races this year were ecstatic over the possibility of running on the same ticket with former California governor Ronald Reagan. Reagan, who upset a sitting Republican president (Gerald Ford) in the 1976 N.C. Presidential Primary, is looked upon as an early Christmas by state Republicans. Some of that luster, however, must have disappeared with Reagan's Labor Day statement in Detroit seemingly chastising Jimmy Carter for opening his reelection campaign in Tusculumbia, Alabama.

Sheriff's Department

John McDaniel reported the theft of a 1975 Lincoln Town Coupe with a brown vinyl top from the John McDaniel & Son Used Car Lot in Mocksville, Friday afternoon, Sept. 5. The suspect, Jerry Calvin Stanley, 32, took the car out for a test drive and failed to bring it back.

Civitan Candy Boxes Aid Local Group Home

Those who have patronized any of the businesses around town and county with an attractive candy box near the cash register into which you dropped change and picked up a piece of individually wrapped peppermint candy can feel a certain amount of pride for the part you played in making the presentation a check to the Davie County Group Home possible. (See Page 4B) Civitan Clubs all over the world place candy boxes in receptive business establishments for the express purpose of benefiting our mentally retarded citizens through the proceeds from the candy boxes.

Do You Know?

Plants have many things in common with people. They will not be at their best with too little or too much food, water or warmth. Muffin Pans Use greased muffin pans as molds when baking stuffed green peppers. Muffin Pans Use greased muffin pans as molds when baking stuffed green peppers.

Larry Mickle Spry of Box 603 in Cooleemee reported a Western Flyer bicycle valued at $70.00 missing from his front porch on August 29.

David Harris reported a ten speed Western Auto bicycle taken from his residence at 8 Marginal St., Cooleemee on August 16.

W.R. Guffey of Burlington reported a $748.76 refrigerator missing. Guffey had the refrigerator delivered to his rental home in Bermuda Run in June 1979 after he was transferred to Andover, Mass.

Woman Drowns At Teen Challenge

A 22 year old Virginia woman drowned unnoticed in a private pool Saturday at the Teen Challenge home in Harmony. Janice Edwards, drowned about 3 p.m. but her body was not found on the bottom of the pool until 6 p.m. Saturday, on Iredell County Sheriff's deputy said. The pool is located on the grounds of the Teen Challenge complex. Ms. Edwards had been taking part in the Teen Challenge program which is designed for young women seeking religious help.

As of August 22, Guffey had received no further information on his missing refrigerator.

A case of vandalism was reported to the Sheriff's department on Sept. 4. Margaret Brown of Route 2, Advance, reported that someone put several huge dents in the door of a 1976 Dodge truck which she had parked in the lot of the R. J. Reynolds processing plant on Baltimore Road. Deputy John Carl Shore investigated.

A push lawnmower, valued at $90, was reported taken from the residence of Merry Jarvis Thompson, of Route 3, Advance on August 26. Deputy John Carl Shore investigated.

Those businesses to date that are cooperating with the Civitan Club in this effort to aid mentally retarded citizens are: Langstons Outlet, Horn's Country Kitchen, Horn's Union 76 Truck Stop, 601 Shell, Kentucky Fried Chicken, Southern Discount, Foster's Service, Inc., Tutterow's Service Station, Foster-Rauch Drug Co., Davie Auto Parts, Jerome's Burger Place, Harmon's Hamburger Steak House, First Federal Savings and Loan, Rintz's 5 cent to $5.00 Store, American Cafe, Mocksville Discount Drug, Martin Hardware and General Merchandise, Davie County Jail, Davie County Enterprise-Record, Central Carolina Bank, Andy's Union 76, Mocksville Builders Supply, South End Barber Shop, Fallie's One Hour Dry Cleaners, C's Barbecue, Mocksville Automotive, Midway Restaurant, P&F Barbecue, Country Boy Barbecue, U-Stop-In-Grill, Swicegood Grocery, WDSL Radio Station, Tutterow's Texaco, and Formac Automotive.

"To these business establishments and to the community who patronize them and drop their change in our candy boxes, the Civitan Club of Mocksville offers her Salute and sincere thanks," said Bob Rauch, president of the Civitan Club of Mocksville.

TRIPPED...The much talked about meeting between Gov. Hunt and his hand-picked prisons administrator occurred last week minus the confrontational aspects that at least some had expected.

Secretary of Corrections Amos Reed had spent the previous week in San Diego while being installed as president of the American Correction Association. During his absence, however, the governor learned that Reed had been escorted by 25 other Corrections Dept. officials at a combined estimated cost to state taxpayers of about $17,000. A year ago, Governor Hunt issued an executive order banning all travel by state employees other than that which was "absolutely necessary."

Both Wilson and McConnell pleaded guilty to a charge that they traveled from New Jersey to Raleigh to Advance to distribute money generated by a "hike" Atkinson. A former Air Force sergeant, Atkinson is now in federal prison.

The two men were sentenced by Judge Hiram H. Ward after accepting plea bargaining agreements that the defendants had made with the U.S. Attorney's office.

In exchange for the guilty pleas and the defendants' cooperation on future investigations, the U.S. attorney's office agreed to drop the other two charges against them. The attorney's office also agreed not to prosecute Wilson and McConnell in any further investigations of the heroin ring, with the exception of any charges of tax offense or violent crimes.

McConnell already has served 14 months in prison on two separate convictions for his activities relating to the heroin ring. In July 1977 he pleaded ## genuinely to four counts of perjury in connection with testimony he gave at a trial of an alleged heroin smuggler.

He was sentenced to a year and a day and was paroled after six months.

In September 1978, McConnell also pleaded guilty to charges of being an accessory after the fact of possession of heroin with intent to sell. He served eight months of a five-year sentence and was paroled in January 1980.

McConnell tried to give prosecutors in New York information about the money in the Advance branch, but they said that they were not interested in the information, Smith said.

Brereton testified yesterday that a New York prosecutor confirmed that Smith tried to give him the information. Prosecutors decided that the information could not be given without a court order from a judge because McConnell was a lawyer for Atkinson. If McConnell gave the information freely, he would have violated lawyer-client confidentiality, Smith said.

Smith also agreed that McConnell already has suffered for the crimes he committed.

"The future has now...is very dim," Smith said. "He has had to move his family out of his house, once for a week, because of threats to him. He has lost his pride. He has been humiliated. He's without a job and without any funds. He has received and continues to receive money from friends...just so he can put food on his family's table."

Smith said that McConnell never directly handled any heroin.

Judge Ward, before sentencing the defendants, asked Benjamin R. White, an assistant district attorney, "If you had known then what you know now what happened in eastern North Carolina and in New York state, would Mr. McConnell still have been indicted?"

White answered after a pause, "That's a hard question to answer in open court."

Ward was referring to the fact that New York prosecutors and prosecutors in eastern North Carolina knew about McConnell's attempts to disclose the money in the Advance branch of Northwestern.

The U.S. attorney's office did not learn of the money until later.

Wilson is scheduled to report to the marshal's office in Greensboro for incarceration at 10 a.m. Sept. 19.

Former Banker Gets Prison Term Of 4 Months For Part In Handling Heroin Money

Odell M. Wilson, former banker in charge of the Clemmons and Advance branches of the Northwestern Bank, received a one-year sentence last Friday in U.S. Middle District Court in Winston-Salem. He will only have to serve four months in prison with rest of sentence suspended. John D. McConnell Jr., a former Raleigh lawyer, received a five-year suspended sentence.

In Wilson's case, the government recommended neither an active nor suspended sentence, leaving the decision up to the judge. The attorney's office did recommend no more than one year if an active sentence were given.

The judge made his decision after listening to Thomas J. Brereton, an FBI special agent in Greensboro, recount the tale of McConnell's and Wilson's involvement in transferring more than $1.5 million made from the transportation and sale of heroin.

Brereton said that between November 1974 and May 1975, McConnell made several trips to Grand Cayman Island to deposit money made by Atkinson's heroin ring into a branch of Northwestern Bank. At the time, Wilson was manager of the branch.

Brereton also described incidents in which McConnell reportedly took more than $500,000 from Raleigh to Advance between June and November 1975. McConnell and Wilson were accused of depositing boxes in the Advance branch, which Wilson managed at the time.

During arguments presented to the judge before sentencing, Roger W. Smith of Raleigh, McConnell's attorney, said that his client had tried to cooperate with prosecutors since 1977, when he was first arrested in connection with the drug money.

McConnell already has served 14 months in prison on two separate convictions for his activities relating to the heroin ring. In July 1977 he pleaded genuinely to four counts of perjury in connection with testimony he gave at a trial of an alleged heroin smuggler. He was sentenced to a year and a day and was paroled after six months.

In September 1978, McConnell also pleaded guilty to charges of being an accessory after the fact of possession of heroin with intent to sell. He served eight months of a five-year sentence and was paroled in January 1980.

McConnell tried to give prosecutors in New York information about the money in the Advance branch, but they said that they were not interested in the information, Smith said.

Brereton testified yesterday that a New York prosecutor confirmed that Smith tried to give him the information. Prosecutors decided that the information could not be given without a court order from a judge because McConnell was a lawyer for Atkinson. If McConnell gave the information freely, he would have violated lawyer-client confidentiality, Smith said.

Smith also agreed that McConnell already has suffered for the crimes he committed.

"The future has now...is very dim," Smith said. "He has had to move his family out of his house, once for a week, because of threats to him. He has lost his pride. He has been humiliated. He's without a job and without any funds. He has received and continues to receive money from friends...just so he can put food on his family's table."

Wilson is scheduled to report to the marshal's office in Greensboro for incarceration at 10 a.m. Sept. 19.

White answered after a pause, "That's a hard question to answer in open court."

Ward was referring to the fact that New York prosecutors and prosecutors in eastern North Carolina knew about McConnell's attempts to disclose the money in the Advance branch of Northwestern.

The U.S. attorney's office did not learn of the money until later.

Wilson is scheduled to report to the marshal's office in Greensboro for incarceration at 10 a.m. Sept. 19.

Local Legislative Delegation Rated Average On Survey Concerning Consumer And Environmental Issues

The local delegation to the North Carolina Legislature rated "about average" on a survey concerning consumer and environmental issues released last week by the N. C. Public Interest Research Group. In the survey, the research group examined the records of the state's 50 senators and 120 representatives during the 1979-80 session. The survey was based on the voting records of members of the General Assembly on such issues as clean air, wildlife, environmental management, balanced growth policies, tenant's rights, generic drugs, hazardous waste disposal, open meetings, hydroelectric power and bank interest rates.

House members scored an average of about 55 percent with the group and senators scored 58 percent, according to the survey. State Senators Jack Childers (D., Davidson) and Bob Davis, Jr. (D., Rowan) both scored 55 percent with the research group survey, which is slightly lower than the Senate average. State Representative Ramey Kemp (D., Davie) scored 70 percent, Representative John Varner (D., Davidson) scored 65 percent and Representative Jim Lambeth (D., Davidson) scored 55 percent with the research group survey. Kemp and Varner both scored higher than average legislator's vote meant that the legislator was working in the interest of the consumers and the environment. The purpose of the survey is to let the people of the state know where the legislators stand on these key issues. We're a nonpartisan group and the group is not endorsing anyone with this survey. We just think the people should know about environmental and consumer issues. State Senator Russell Walker (D., Asheboro) got the highest rating on the survey with a 95 percent agreement with the group's position. Walker is the state Democratic Party chairman. State Representative Ruth Cook (D., Wake) and State Representative Margaret Tennille (D., Forsyth) were in agreement with the group's positions on 35 percent of the issues.

Henry Horn Seeks National Yo-Yo Championship

Henry Horn, 14 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Horn of Mocksville, learned recently that his talent with a yo-yo could be both profitable and exciting.

Named regional yo-yo champion last month, he and his family leaves this weekend for an all expense paid trip to Hollywood, California. Here, he will compete with eight other regional yo-yo champs for the national title.

As all youngsters do, Horn knew how to handle a yo-yo, but it wasn't until last July that he learned how profitable it could be.

After watching a representative from Duncan Toys Company, a leading yo-yo maker, give a demonstration at Rich Park, he decided to give it a try.

Armed with a book of tricks accompanied with long hours of practice, he entered and won in the state yo-yo championship in Winston-Salem.

His first taste of competition was in July during a contest sponsored by the Mocksville Recreation Department. His win qualified him for the state trials, where he placed third behind contestants from Jacksonville and Winston-Salem. But if a contestant scored at least 50 points in judging, they qualified for a regional contest in Marietta, Georgia.

Horn won first place during the regionals, thereby qualifying for national competition this weekend in Hollywood.

Horn commented that scoring is based on difficulty of performed tricks, presentation and control. A musical score must be arranged to accompany tricks for nationals. Five tricks are compulsory, and contestants can choose five others for the judges.

Six of the eight contestants this weekend will be repeaters from last year. Sixteen years is the age limit for national yo-yo competition.

"I knew I could do it," said Horn. He explained that coordination is a big part of yo-yo ability. Horn commented that he is a natural athlete and plays on the South Davie Junior High basketball team.

"It's a natural thing for me. I guess I picked it up pretty fast," he said.

Horn spends around one hour daily on practice, even through admitting he should do more.

If Horn beats the other regional champions and becomes the gold medalist, he will receive a trophy and a $1,000 U.S. Savings Bond.

Car Overtakes On Interstate 40

A Columbia, South Carolina man overturned his car on I-40 west of Mocksville when he struck the rear of a tractor trailer at 12:30 Friday afternoon, September 5.

Wladimir Bilous, 35, attempted to pass the truck driven by Ronald McKlewey Best, 25, of Portsmouth, Va. Bilous struck the rear bumper of the flatbed trailer, and overturned his 1980 Chevrolet in the median. Damage to the automobile was estimated at $5,500.

Bilous was taken by ambulance to Davie County Hospital.

No charges were filed in the case investigated by Trooper Grooms.

Police Dept.

A Mocksville man was charged with driving under the influence of drugs and possession of amphetamines after the vehicle he was driving struck a parked car on Main St. Saturday, September 6.

Roger Dale Godbey of Route 4, driving a 1971 Chevrolet coupe struck a 1972 MG parked in front of Mocksville Sports store on the square. Damage to the MG, owned by Kathleen Shella Caci of 802 Holly Lane was estimated at $75. Damage to Godbey's vehicle was estimated at $160.

Sports World of Court Square reported a shoplifting on Wednesday, September 3.

Judson Mills, Jr., 44, of 1812 Short St. in Winston-Salem, was charged with concealment of goods, felonious possession of Valium and trespassing.

Truck Pulling Camper Wrecks On US 64

A truck pulling a camper received $1,600 in damages on September 5, when it overturned on US 64, 3.5 miles east of Mocksville.

Operator of the truck, a 1979 Ford, was Jerry David Johnson, 32, of McCaysville, Georgia.

Police reports indicated that the truck and camper ran off the road on the right, the driver then lost control and the vehicle overturned.

Johnson was charged with traveling too fast for conditions, by Trooper C.R. Collins.

"Flying Dutchman" Of Z-93 To Entertain South Davie Students

The Athletic Boosters Club for South Davie Junior High will sponsor a "Back To School" dance for the students of South Davie.

The number one disc jockey from radio station Z93—"The Flying Dutchman"—will entertain at the first social event of the school year in the cafeteria, Saturday, September 13, from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m.

Officials of the Booster Club announced that the students would be well chaperoned by parents and faculty members. No one will be allowed to leave the cafeteria area until 10 p.m. unless parents call for them at the door.

Refreshments of Cokes, cookies and potato chips will be provided. A fee of $2 will be charged. All proceeds will be used to provide uniforms, equipment, etc. for the athletic department.

Joe Whitlock, President of the South Davie Junior High Booster Club, presents a check to the school athletic director, Charles Crenshaw, on behalf of the club.

South Davie Jr. High Booster Club Gives Funds For Softball

Money for the purchase of uniforms and necessary equipment to support the Junior High Girls' Softball Team has been provided by the booster club of that school.

The booster club raised the money through the sale of school jackets, shirts, bags, etc.

Charles Crenshaw, Athletic Director for the South Junior High School, is working with the booster club to coordinate needs and priorities. The club hopes to continue to react to projected needs before the needs actually arrive.

Joe Whitlock, President of the South Davie Jr. High Booster Club, said: "This is a new facility, a new start for all of us and we, as parents, should want our kids to have the best possible equipment for participation in extra curricular activities. I challenge each and every parent that has children at South Davie to support school sponsored activities and help our teachers help our kids."

The Booster Club plans to meet at the school the second Monday in each month.

OPEN HOUSE
The South Davie Junior High Booster Club is planning a "Student Athletic Appreciation Night" for Monday, September 15th, at the school, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

All students who are participating in the fall athletic program are invited to attend along with their families.

Illegal Scales Used In Gold Buying Are Confiscated

Fourteen illegal scales used by novice gold buyers have been confiscated within the past month by weights and measures inspectors of the North Carolina Department of Agriculture, Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham said here today.

"This gold buying business has reached the point that so many people are getting into it they don't even know what kind of scales to use to legally buy precious metals," Graham said. "If the person buying the precious metal doesn't know, then that gives a hint about the problem consumers face when they go to sell precious metals."

Graham said the problem is not so much with buyers using inaccurate scales or short weighing articles but with buyers not knowing what kind of scales can legally be used to buy precious metals.

"Due to the nature of the product, items are usually very light and require precision scales that are sensitive enough to measure minute units," Graham said.

Only three different kinds of scales have been approved in North Carolina for use in precious metal trade; equal arm balance scales, triple beam balance scales, and electronic scales. Only four companies market those legal types of scales in the state.

"Many people are getting into the precious metal buying business as a way to make extra money and they are purchasing the cheapest scale they can find. As a result they are violating North Carolina Weights and Measures Law."

Another problem is the public's lack of knowledge about different weight systems. Graham said newspaper advertisements lure people with prices by weight offered for class rings, bracelets and other types of gold, silver and platinum.

Newspaper ads may quote payment in "Troy Weight" (penny weight, Troy ounce, etc.) which is the normal system used to weigh jewelry, and buyers scales may denote measurement in the metric system or vice versa. This requires conversion from the metric system to Troy weight and buyers or sellers can both lose money in the conversion if they aren't familiar enough with the different weight systems. "We require buyers to have conversion charts in clear view of customers," Graham said.

"We have instructed our inspectors to scan the newspapers in their area and check places out when they see a new ad from someone offering to purchase precious metals," Graham said.

Since people are going to buy and sell precious metals as long as it is profitable, Graham offered several suggestions to sellers when they go to sell class rings and other previous metal items.

Sellers should: 1) choose a reputable dealer; 2) have the item appraised or weighed before offering it for sale; 3) watch the buyer weigh the item; 4) ask its weight; 5) carry a calculator in case it is necessary to convert from one system of measure to another; 6) shop around for better offers; 7) look for the NCDA Consumer Standards seal on the scale and 8) contact NCDA's Weights and Measures Division if they have questions about a scale a particular buyer uses.

"It's a barter process and it never hurts to shop around," Graham said. "Sellers should probably get two or three estimates before selling because it is a competitive market and some dealers are likely to pay more for precious metals than others."

Ken Hoots says that this summer's drought is the worst since 1925. "Why crops have literally burned in the field."

Ronnie Thompson, extension agriculture agent surveys the extreme drought and heat damage to corn planted on Hoots' property.

The first and most foremost is the absence of pollination in late planted corn. If severe drought and heat conditions

Local Tobacco crops have been especially hard hit with lack of moisture and blue mold. In September, this field has reached only 1/2 its normal height. Normally, tobacco plants have 18 to 20 leaves. This field has only 8 to 10 leaves per plant. Thompson commented that even with rain, this field would probably experience no substantial growth.

This corn crop in Advance was killed by severe heat and drought before it had time to even near maturity.

Drought Takes It's Toll On Local Crops

exist just prior to and during normal pollination, pollen is often shed before silks emerge and can be pollinated. When severe enough as in many fields in 1980, all pollen is shed before any silks emerge. No pollination occurs and no grain is formed.

The second type of drought stress results from a lack of moisture during the development of kernels. Some local fields have corn where 1-2 inches at the corn ear tip failed to mature. This type of drought stress causes corn not to fulfill its maximum potential for dry weight accumulation. This type of yield loss is difficult to determine prior to harvest.

Ken Hoots, who leased approximately 400 acres for corn production, feels that at least 150 acres has been totally lost due to the drought.

"We have had less than one inch of rain since the corn was planted," he said. He also commented that the corn was planted using the "sod planting or no till" method, popular for moisture retention.

"The fertilizer is still on the ground," he said. There hasn't been enough rain to dissolve it.

Hoots said that the river bottom which is normally too wet for corn growth, is the only area where plants have flourished.

Most of the corn on his farm never reached maturity. Stalks withered and died long before ears could be formed. He added that on an average, a farmer spends $150 to $200 per acre on seed and fertilizer.

"It's all lost," he said. "This corn isn't even fit for silage."

Hoots leased his land to J.M. Bowden, Jr. of Advance for corn production. He commented that the land had been in pasture for the past 30 years, making it prime for planting.

"It is a substantial loss," said Hoots. "He'll get a little corn out of the river bottom, but that's about all."

Ronnie Thompson commented that Bowden is noted for his corn growing ability. He was named 1978 county corn growing champion and serves on the Board of Directors of the N.C. Corn Growers Association.

It is unknown how many farmers will apply for federal disaster relief payments. Counties eligible for funds are as follows:

Alamance, Alexander, Anson, Beaufort, Bertie, Bladen, Brunswick, Buncombe, Burke, Cabarrus, Caswell, Chatham, Chowan, Cleveland, Columbus, Cumberland, Davidson, Davie, Duplin, Durham, Edgecombe, Forsyth, Franklin, Gates, Granville, Guilford, also;

Halifax, Harnett, Haywood, Hertford, Hoke, Iredell, Johnston, Lee, Lincoln, Madison, Martin, Mecklenburg, Mitchell, Montgomery, Moore, Nash, Northampton, Orange, Pender, Perquimans, Person, Polk, Randolph, Richmond, Robeson, Rockingham, Rowan, Rutherford, Sampson, Scotland, Stanly, Stokes, Surry, Union, Vance, Wake, Warren, Wayne, Wilson, Yadkin and Yancey.

Hoots leased his farm to J.M. Bowden, Jr. Bowden used the "no till or sod planting method" for his corn which is recommended for moisture retention. The area however, didn't receive enough rainfall to dissolve the fertilizer. It is still intact, just as it was the day it was spread.

Outlook Is Brighter For Victims Of Autism

Frances was born at the right time. Had her birth been 10 years earlier, chances are she would be in an institution, instead of on her way possibly to completing high school and entering the workplace.

Frances is autistic. She suffers from a chronic condition characterized by an inability to communicate normally in speech or behavior. Autistic persons are said to be "locked within themselves."

But Frances was lucky, because education and training, once unheard of, are available for her. Her prospects for spending a productive life in her home community are good and getting better.

The services available for Frances and other autistic persons in North Carolina have been developed by the TEACCH program at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. Established in 1972 by Dr. Eric Schopler, who has continued as its director, TEACCH is considered a national model for working with children with autism and severe communication disorders.

In recent years, the program has turned its attention to adolescents and adults as well.

Joe also is autistic, but his condition is much more severe. Unlike Frances, he has no command of language. In his early teens, his IQ remains below 50.

Just a few years ago, he surely would have been committed to a long-term residential institution at an early age and remained there for life.

But programs have become available for Joe, too. He never will reach the level of achievement possible for Frances, but he may be able to complete training for a vocation and obtain a limited degree of self-sufficiency.

Like Frances, Joe's chances of spending his life in the community are improving.

Neither Frances nor Joe ever will be normal. Autism is chronic; it lasts for the life of 95 percent of its victims. They will be limited in what they can do, and they will need some supervision always.

But instead of a wasted life in an institution, Frances and Joe may find fulfillment and even provide needed services for society.

They may "make it."

If they do, it will be because programs like TEACCH have succeeded with victims of this severe, puzzling and often misunderstood condition.

TEACCH stands for Treatment and Education of Autistic and related Communication handicapped Children. The program is a division of the UNC-School of Medicine's department of psychiatry.

It operates five diagnostic and treatment centers and 28 classrooms through the state for autistic persons and their families. Four classes are for adolescents.

About 2,000 North Carolinians are autistic; TEACCH has more than 900 active clients (some actually have related or similar conditions).

"A very, very high percentage of our clients are pre-adolescents," says Dr. Gary Mesibov, TEACCH coordinator of adolescent and adult services. Most of the adolescents in the program first joined it as children and have grown up in TEACCH.

As they have grown, so has the need for a program of continued training and education.

"You feel like you have a strategy that works, so you stay with it," Mesibov explains. That strategy involves individualized and highly structured training and as much parental involvement as possible. Teacch considers parents therapists and trains them as such.

If a child has responded to TEACCH therapy, he or she is capable of being educated, either in special or regular classes. Programs for the adolescent help that education to continue.

But new emphasis is placed on self-help skills for the rest of life. Tooth-brushing, toilet training, bedmaking and other basic survival skills are stressed, as are sex education and legal rights.

In some cases, Mesibov said, earlier training has had to be refined. For example, autistic children are encouraged to touch, hug and make other physical contact, which is difficult for most. As adolescents, they must learn when such contact is appropriate and when it is not.

Autistic children must be trained to work (complete assigned tasks) and to play. Adolescents must learn that it is all right to take a break on the job before a task has been completed.

Also, TEACCH is working to set up community-based resources to help the autistic adult who has progressed to the point where he or she no longer must live at home and depend on parents for support.

Group homes are being established to enable autistic adolescents and adults to live in the community and still receive the supervision they need. Sheltered workshops provide a work environment with the same advantages.

In these areas, Mesibov explains, TEACCH acts mainly as a consultant, with local control of the program by the school system or a community service agency.

In some places, local opposition has surfaced to locating group homes in residential areas, but Mesibov says such problems usually stem from lack of awareness.

"Let people see what we're doing," he says. "The more they know about us, the more that will help."

Despite the progress made by TEACCH and other programs, autism still claims its victims. Only about half of all autistic persons ever learn language skills. Many unresponsive, uncommunicative and destructive children will wear down their parents' resolve to help them and will be institutionalized. Others will spend unproductive lives at home.

Most will remain retarded.

But TEACCH is making a difference. About 50-75 percent of the autistic persons who receive no treatment eventually are placed in institutions. Ninety-two percent of TEACCH's "graduates" have remained in their communities at least through age 15.

Many will continue their progress and go on to live in group homes and work in sheltered workshops. Some will achieve independence to the point where they can live on their own and work in a normal job.

When a child comes to TEACCH, he or she is likely to be withdrawn from reality, living in a private world. Emotional warmth may be missing, and the child may be prone to violent temper tantrums and bizarre body movements. But this year the first child ever referred to TEACCH graduated from high school and others will follow. There is hope.

Kenneth Gantt of Route 1, Advance explains the operation of his unique burglar alarm and lock system of which he is inventor and producer.

The entire assembly operation of the "Alarm and Lock Security System" is done in the basement of the Gantt Home.

Davie Man Manufactures

Freon Operated Burglar Alarms

By Marlene Benson

for himself for the past ten years.

When Ken Gantt was selling fire alarms some years ago, little did he know that one day he would be in business for himself...And that his livelihood would come from his very own invention.

Gantt invented a unique burglar alarm system and has been in business

Originally from Cleveland, Ohio, Gantt moved his family to North Carolina seven years ago and into Davie County about four years ago.

He was selling fire alarms for Renn Ltd. and at the time, he said he "had to educate people on the system."

"While I was trying to convince them they needed a fire alarm," says Gantt "they were asking about burglar alarms."

Most burglar alarms he says were not too servicable and in a price range that the average person could not afford.

Gantt's burglar alarm was designed primarily for residential use, but he says it is also used in businesses. In fact, he says he installed them in the vending machines for the Chevrolet Division of General Motors Corp. in Cleveland, Ohio.

"It is the only alarm system in the country that requires no electricity or batteries," says Gantt. It is a totally self-contained system, powered by harmless Freon which is stored in a canister.

The parts are ordered custom-made and the assembly is a very simple operation which is done in the basement of his home in Advance. The burglar alarm system was designed so he could get the components and from this point he says it is basically an assembly operation.

His only employees, at this time, include his wife, the bookkeeper; and his two daughters, Vanita, who is a student at Davie High School; Lisa, a Davie High graduate and an employee of Northwestern Bank in Clemmons. Both have worked for their dad since they were quite small. Gantt himself is the salesman and helps in all other phases of the operation. He says he is also training Vanita to demonstrate the system.

His future plans are to enlarge into a factory instead of the basement operation. And he is in the process of putting together a business plan to become nationally known.

The system he says is ideal for mobile homes, tool sheds and other outside buildings and there are also alarms for windows.

Gantt even does his own financing. A down-payment of 25 percent is required from the customer and they have six months to pay the balance.

The average cost for the burglar alarm system is about $450.

Gantt says the system, sold under the Company name of "Reliable Lock and Alarm Co." is widely distributed in Winston-Salem.

Mrs. Gantt recalls how her husband stayed up until "the wee hours" working on the burglar alarm. When he first invented the alarm he says he was "gung-ho" on selling his idea to a company. In fact, he was offered a large sum of money by a large corporation for his patent but he chose to remain with Renn. He leased the patent to Renn, but when Renn folded, the patent was returned to Gantt.

Gantt says Renn wanted him to continue with their company but because it involved world-wide traveling and because he was a family man, he refused.

From the time he started developing his alarm system until it was patented was about a year it took about six months and another six months to get the patent.

Not only is his an alarm, it is also a lock which in most cases has prevented the burglary.

The alarm lock security system has a heave gauge steel chain lock which he says doubles the protection. It cannot be seen from the outside and the "initial opening of the door will set off the alarm." Gantt added that there is "no way the alarm can be disarmed from outside."

Even when the alarm has been set off, the would-be burglar can not get inside because of the heavy lock.

Gantt says that it is not the professional burglar who breaks into the average home. "It is the dope addict, juvenile or some other non-professional. The crowbar is the most used tool and the door, he says, is the main area for break-ins. Large bulky items must be moved through a door, plus it is the quickest and easiest escape route and one which would most likely be ignored by neighbors.

If one of Gantt's alarms is damaged during an attempted-break-in, he says "we repair or replace needed parts free of charge and we replace the Freon...There is no maintenance charge. The only charge would be when the alarm has been abused."

Because of the uniqueness of Gantt's alarm system, he could have received a good deal of publicity. However, he wanted to wait until he thought he could meet the demand. His customers, to this point, have been very pleased and he has many testimonial letters to this effect.

Mrs. Gantt is the bookkeeper of the "Reliable Lock and Alarm Co."

Mrs. Michael Andrew Pennington
... was Sandra Kay Polk

Polk-Pennington Vows Spoken

Miss Sandra Kay Polk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Polk of Rt. 3, Mocksville and Michael Andrew Pennington son of Mr. and Mrs. William Pennington of West Jefferson, N.C. were married Sunday, September 7 at 3:00 p.m. at Edgewood Baptist Church in Cooleemee. The Rev. Fred Carlton officiated the ceremony.

The bride given in marriage by her father wore a formal gown of polyester organza, fully lined in acetate taffeta with stand up collar, front and back ruffle and trimmed yokes all of lace. Her gown had lace trimmed long illusion sleeves with snap-close lace cuffs. A chapel length train was attached to the full skirt. Her headpiece was of polyester organza accented with lace and simulated seed pearl trim. Her bouquet was a mixed arrangement of real and silk flowers.

Miss Phyllis Beal, sister of the bride was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Lynette Polk and Joanne Nelson both of Mocksville. They wore floor length dresses of pink floral dotted swiss with empire waistline that tied in back and had a ruffle at the bottom. They carried long stemmed pink silk roses and wore pink and white picture hats.

Amanda Polk and Nancy Pennington were flower girls. Their dresses were identical to that of the bridesmaids. They carried baskets of mixed summer flowers.

Myron Nelson of Mocksville served as best man. Ushers were Charles and Leo Polk, both brothers of the bride.

Mrs. Kathy Matayoshi kept the guest register.

The wedding was directed by Mrs. Gail Polk.

The bride graduated from Davie High School.

The bridegroom graduated from Beaver Creek High School in West Jefferson, N.C. He attended Wilkes Community College. He is employed by Tiny's Alignment Service in Wilkesboro, N.C.

After a wedding trip the couple will make their home in Wilkesboro, N.C.

RECEPTION
The reception was held Saturday September 6 at the church following the rehearsal. The bride's table was covered with a pink cloth overlaid with white lace. The centerpiece was an arrangement of mixed silk flowers. The three tiered wedding cake was decorated with pink and blue roses and wedding bells. The guests were served wedding cake, mints, nuts, pickles and punch. Mrs. Delphia Naylor, Mrs. Tammy Williams and Mrs. Kathy Matayoshi served the guests.

COOK-OUT
The bride's parents entertained the couple and the wedding party with a cook-out at their home on Friday, September 5. They served steaks, baked potatoes, salad, and iced tea.

BRIDAL SHOWER

A bridal shower was given in honor of the bride Saturday August 23. Mrs. Gail Polk and Kathy Mayoshi hosted the occasion. Approximately 30 guests were served cake squares, pickles, mints, nuts and punch. The bride received many lovely and useful gifts.

Davie Music Club Meets At Library

The Davie County Music Club met on Monday evening at the Davie County Public Library. The 1980 scholarship recipients presented the program.

Doug Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Brown of Route 1, Harmony, and a junior at Davie County High School, had received a scholarship from the Music Club, made possible through the Davie Arts Council, distributing agent for the Grassroots Council and the United Way. He gave an interesting report on the Cannon Music Camp at Boone which he attended this summer and played a number of selections on the French Horn.

Lisa Myers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Myers of Route 2, Advance, was the recipient of the Patsy Hicks Memorial Scholarship Fund. She is a freshman at Catawba College in Salisbury, majoring in piano. She played selections by Bach, Beethoven and Brahms.

Rev. James T. Lochridge, Jr., who has served as chairman of the Hymn of the Month committee since the club was organized, gave a brief history of the Hymn of the Month and led the group in singing it. The club wished him well as he goes into full time evangelism.

A short business session followed, after which the meeting was adjourned.

Golden Age Club

Mocksville Twi-Light and Cooleemee Golden Age clubs held their 13th anniversary dinner at Miller's Restaurant on Highway 64 West Monday evening.

Mrs. Frank Sedars of Cooleemee was guest speaker.

Mrs. Sedars used as a theme: "Time," and she emphasized the word time and the many times it is used in conversations, the many words that can be gotten from the word time. She used "I" as the number one letter in Time saying "What do I do with Mrs. Time."

Mrs. Sedars mentioned telephoning shut-ins, visiting them, sending cards, etc as valuable uses of time.

The group sang "Happy Birthday" to McKinley Dulin who was celebrating his 83rd birthday on Monday.

Mrs. Rosetta Leneir, 93 years young was the oldest member present.

Jones-McManus

Mrs. Gwen Angell, Archie Jones, Jr. and John D. Jones announce the engagement of their father, the Rev. Archie V. Jones, Sr. to Miss Caroline McManus, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Uriah A. McManus of Montgomery, Alabama.

Miss McManus is a graduate of Troy State University, Troy, Alabama and has done graduate work at Southeastern Baptist Seminary in Wake Forest, N.C. She is camping coordinator and director for the Women's Missionary Union Baptist State Convention in Raleigh, N.C.

The bridegroom-elect is a former Southern Baptist Missionary to Ecuador, S.A., and is presently director of Baptist Men for N.C. Baptist State Convention in Raleigh.

The wedding is planned for Saturday, October 4, at 11:30 a.m. at Forest Hills Baptist Church in Raleigh, N.C.

All family and friends are invited to attend.

Elizabeth KeAnne Tomlinson celebrated her third birthday Tuesday, September 9. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Tomlinson of Salisbury, N.C. To mark the occasion, KeAnne received special weekend visits from her grandparents. Visiting Saturday, September 6 were paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Tomlinson of Halander Drive, Mocksville and paternal grandmother, Mrs. Viola Tomlinson of Wilkesboro Street. Visiting Sunday were maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Cedric Smoot of Route 6, Mocksville.

Johnny Nelson Robertson, Jr. celebrated his 7th birthday Saturday, September 6, with a party at his home. Guests were served birthday cake, ice cream and potato chips. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Robertson of Route 3, Mocksville. His grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Press C. Robertson of Route 3, Mocksville; and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Michael of Route 18, Lexington, N.C.

Library News

by David Ferguson
Library Director

As soon as school starts, the library is deluged with requests for reference assistance (cries for HELP!) from students of all ages. We are going to list some of the newer and most useful reference tools here in hopes that students will not feel confused when starting that research. Most of these items do not circulate.

Encyclopaedia Britannica-not much fun to read, but still the best and most informative encyclopedia by far. Look in the ten volume micropaedia first, then follow the references to the macroaedia for in-depth information. The MacCraw-Hill Encyclopedia of Science and Technology-shelved below the Britannica, the best multivolume set on science, technology, etc. The Book of Popular Science is fine for young students, but this is much more complete.

Van Nostrand's Scientific Encyclopedia-a one-volume A-Z of science with hardly any entries being more than one page.

Grzimek's Animal Life Encyclopedia-not real well indexed, but this is the reference on animals, with information you will not find anywhere else. Well illustrated - 13 volumes.

Occupational Outlook Handbook 1980-81 Edition-published by the United States Government each year, this thick paperback tells all about most jobs available. Includes descriptions, pictures, salaries, employment projections, etc. Often copies by other book companies.

The Statesman's Yearbook 1979-80 - This little volume (1700 pages) comes out each year and includes a wealth of information about each nation in the world from Afghanistan to Zaire. Lots of statistics.

The Encyclopedia of UFOs - An interesting A-Z coverage of close encounters. Pictures, people, even a UFO sighting by Jimmy Carter is included.

Fairchild's Who's Who in Fashion - an alphabetical compilation of short but complete biographies of over three hundred people in fashion and clothing design.

Great Events From History - a three volume set with over 1,200 events in summary form, from development of the teletype to Vietnam's conquest of Cambodia. Each section, a few pages in length, gives the time and place of the event and the principal people involved as well as the summary and further reading.

Webster's American Biographies - Comprehensive biographical information on over 3,000 significant Americans, usually less than a half-page in length, but long enough to provide a good start.

The McGraw-Hill Encyclopedia of World Biography - arranged alphabetically, each person gets a page usually, with pictures, small introductory summaries and further reading. 12 volumes.

The Film Encyclopedia, by Ephraim Katz - not a list of films, but a comprehensive treatment of the rest of film history. Biographies, types of film, style, industry jargon, technology-all of these are well covered.

The Complete Directory to Prime Time Network TV Shows 1946-Present - Loads of fun-all the great shows listed alphabetically. Includes casts, broadcast histories, and summaries - well cross-indexed. Who played Ensign Chekov on Star Trek?

Survey of Contemporary Literature - a twelve-volume set similar to Masterplots, but more current, with emphasis on essay-reviews, rather than plot. Includes author, publisher, type of work, locale and principal characters. Covers years 1954-1976.

Encyclopedia of Southern History, by Roller and Twyman - an alphabetical 1300-page volume with excellent short articles on the history of the South. Explains customs and conventions of the times as well as covering people and events.

Africa South of the Sahara 1977-78 - a fine reference on black Africa and also the white Africans. Each country is covered with statistics etc., and there is also a good Who's Who section.

Washington Information Directory 1980-81 - Over 5,000 information sources for Washington, D.C., in Congress, the Executive branch, and private associations. Addresses are all here, with brief summaries. Embassies are covered. Arranged by subject: (e.g. Health and Consumer Affairs, Laws and Justice).

The Great Contemporary Issues Series - Fourteen volumes of reprinted articles from the New York Times over the past 75 years, arranged by subject. These are good primary sources on current topics such as drugs, China, popular culture and Black Africa. Located behind the Readers' Guide.

There are many more new reference aids, many of which circulate as part of the regular collection. Don't forget such things as the Readers' Guide to Periodical Literature, Statistical Abstract (there is one for North Carolina), our vertical file, and the most useful source, the Public Library Card Catalog.

MRS. DENNIS LEE CARTER

...was Jennifer Lynn Hanes

Hanes-Carter Vows Are Spoken

Miss Jennifer Lynne Hanes of Route 1, Mocksville, N. C., and Dennis Lee Carter of Route 2, Advance, N. C. were united in marriage, Sunday, September 7, in a three o'clock ceremony, at Center United Methodist church. The Rev. Dr. M. Wilson Nesbitt officiated.

A program of wedding music was presented by Jim Anderson, organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, Jesse Hanes, wore a Princess line gown of white organza and Nottingham lace, designed with an empire waist and long fitted sleeves, trimmed in crochet beading and pearls. Her full skirt with an attached semi-cathedral train featured scalloped edging and appliques of Venice lace. Her headpiece was a lace caplet with seed pearls, with a walking length veil of silk illusion.

Miss Teresa Boger of Mocksville was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were sisters of the bride, Martha and Donna Hanes of Mocksville. They wore formal gowns of yellow qiana and carried long stemmed mums.

Child attendants were Lori Carter of Advance and Rustin Harpe of Mocksville.

William Bert Carter was his son's best man. Ushers were David Carter and Jeff Carter, bridegroom's brothers, both of Advance, N. C.

The bride's mother chose a mauve colored formal gown of polyester, and her corsage was of white carnations. The bridegroom's mother's gown was of blue polyester and she wore a white carnation corsage.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Carroll Hanes of Rt. 1, Mocksville. She is a graduate of Davie High School; and is employed by attorney William G. James, Jr.

Mr. Carter is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Bert Carter of Rt. 2, Advance, N.C. He is also a graduate of Davie County High School and is employed by R. J. Reynolds Company of Winston-Salem.

After a wedding trip to the mountains, the couple will make their home in Advance.

Miss Lana Hanes kept the guest register.

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony, the bride's parents entertained the guests with a reception at Center community building.

The refreshment table was covered with a yellow cloth with a lace overlay, and centered with an arrangement of mixed fresh flowers flanked by lighted tapers.

Assisting with serving refreshments of wedding cake, punch, miniature ham biscuits, pickles, mixed nuts and mints were Mrs. Hilda Potts, Mrs. Kathy Harpe, Miss Jeanette Harpe and Miss Tracie Chaffin.

REHEARSAL DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. Wade Dyson were hosts at a dinner at their home, following the couple's wedding rehearsal Saturday evening.

Places were set for 38 guests. The honorees chose this occasion to present gifts to their attendants.

WEDDING BRUNCH

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Harpe hosted a brunch for the bride's family, Sunday morning, September 7, at the Harpe home.

Places were set for ten guests.

COOK-OUT

Mr. and Mrs. William Bert Carter and Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Stroud hosted a cook-out, Sunday, August 31, at the Stroud home for the wedding party and family members.

Thirty-six guests enjoyed hamburgers with all the trimmings, drinks and homemade pastries.

Symphony Women To Hold Fashion Show

The fifth annual Davie County Symphony Women's Fashion Show will be held at Bermuda Run Country Club Thursday, October 2. It will be preceded by a buffet dinner at 6:30 p.m.

Fashions this year will again be from the Buena Vista Shop in Winston-Salem. The models, all from Davie County, will include: Sarah Minwalla, Arston Thorne, Georgiane Everidge, Tilthia Rae Hanes, Leslie Beard, Mary Sexton, Ann Browder, Pam Bohannon, Nancy Johnson, Terry Dunn, Dawn Anderson, Betty Angell, Sandra Johnson, Jean Miller, and Roberta Goodwin.

In addition to the Fashion Show there will be door prizes and a donation drawing.

The price for the dinner and Fashion Show will be $10 part of which is a donation to the North Carolina Symphony. Reservations may be made by calling or writing: Brenda Davis, P. O. Box 788, Clemmons, N.C. 27012, phone 998-2258 or Linda Reeder, 710 Magnolia Avenue, Mocksville N. C. 27028, phone 634-5798.

"We are having this event in the evening for the first time in order that the men and working women of Davie County may attend and show their support for the North Carolina Symphony," said officers of the sponsoring group.

Childers - Keaton

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Childers of Route 2, Mocksville, N.C. announce the engagement of their daughter, Lisa Ann, to Frankie Monroe Keaton Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Keaton of Route 3, Mocksville.

Mr. Keaton is employed by Drexel-Heritage of Mocksville. The bride-elect is presently employed by Belts Inc. of Mocksville. The wedding is planned for Saturday, October 11 at Concord United Methodist Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Hollar of Cherry Street, Mocksville, N.C. celebrated their silver wedding anniversary, Saturday, September 6, when their children, Gayla Hollar, Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Hollar and Mr. and Mrs. Lane Hollar honored them with a dinner at the LeChateau restaurant in Winston-Salem. Following dinner, they returned to their home for a surprise reception for close friends and family members. A color scheme of pink, green and white was carried out in decorations. Refreshments consisted of a three tiered wedding cake, punch, mints and mixed nuts.

Brad Bullock Jr. At The Citadel

Alphens B. Bullock, Jr. of Mocksville was among some 685 freshmen who completed "Knob Week" at The Citadel of August 29. Upperclassmen registered August 28 and classes began September 1.

Freshman cadets are indoctrinated during a week of concentrated training enabling them to take their places as members of the South Carolina Corps of Cadets. This tradition evolved at the military college since its founding in 1842.

During "Knob Week" the freshmen underwent instructions in drill, college regulations, honor system, traditions of The Citadel, and other training necessary to assist each new cadet in acclimating himself well in the classroom and on the parade ground.

Alphens is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Bullock, Hickory Hill.

Lynch-King

Mr. and Mrs. Loyd G. Lynch of Yadkinville announce the engagement of their daughter, Susan Marie to Thomas Michael King, the son of Mr. Joe H. King and the late Helen M. King of Advance.

Miss Lynch graduated from Forbush High School and is employed by Western Electric Company of Winston-Salem.

Mr. King graduated from Catawba College with a B.A. degree in history and Wake Forest University School of Law with a J.D. Degree. He is an attorney in Salisbury, N.C.

The wedding will take place November 8 at Turners Creek Baptist Church.

Christian Woman's Club To Meet

The Winston-Salem Christian Women's Club West will have a "Fall Round-Up" luncheon Wednesday, September 17, at the Bermuda Run Country Club from 11:15 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Cost of the meal is $4.25.

Betsy Richardson will be the speaker. Betsy is the wife of Bobby Richardson, former second baseman for the New York Yankees.

Reservations should be made by Monday with Gaye Michler, 765-9687 or Evelyn Drum, 945-9300 or 766-4731. For nursery reservations call Janet Edwards, 768-3829 or Carol Bledsoe, 765-6765.

Some Laundering Hints For Washable Knits

A wardrobe of knit dresses, skirts, pants and sweaters may be the norm this fall. To maintain the good looks of washable knitted garments, proper laundering is essential, reminds Judith Mock, extension clothing specialist, North Carolina State University.

General laundering instructions for washable knits include sorting knits by color, amount of soil and weight of the fabric.

Close zippers, fasten hooks and eyes and remove buckles and similar ornaments that may cause snagging. Turning knits wrong side out may also help prevent snagging. Pretreat oily stains on manmade fiber items. Ground-in soil may also need to be treated.

To wash, use a permanent press or knit cycle if available. Otherwise, use a warm wash and a cold rinse; slow agitation or short wash time and slow spin speed.

Check care label on garment and the appliance manufacturer's instructions for drying. Remove from the dryer while still slightly damp. Overdrying may cause shrinkage and a buildup of static electricity.

Davie Soil And Water Conservation Awards Banquet Held

Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Reavis and children were named the Farm Family of the Year at the Davie Soil and Water Conservation District awards banquet last Thursday at the Smith-Grove Ruritan Building.

Reavis was awarded for the soil conservation measures carried out on his farm off Liberty Church Road. A slide show was presented that pointed out some of the conservation methods he put to use.

Reavis, who raises tobacco and soybeans, has been a full-time farmer for about four years. Along with his 20 acre farm, he helps tend a much larger farm owned by his parents. The Reavis' have two children, Blue, 8, and Chastity, 7.

District supervisor Johnny Allen said

Reavis did a "real excellent job" in making good crop land out of rough pasture.

The Goodyear Certificate of Merit Award went to Mr. and Mrs. Wade Groce, the 1979 Farm Family of the Year. Groce said he practiced soil conservation because he needs to, not because he wants to. Groce said the rough lay and "sticky" red clay on his "Puddin' Ridge" farm required conservation measures.

The award, provided by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. and presented by Edgar Cartner, is given "to promote further realization of soil conservation stewardship," Cartner said.

Cokie Jones, chairman of the Davie supervisors, was presented a special award. Charles Bullock, another supervisor, said, "There has been no chairman who has done more in promoting soil conservation."

Other supervisors in Davie County are Brady Angell and Sylvia McClamrock.

A progress report on the watershed project in Davie County was given by Grady McClamrock. He said 10 flood retarding structures were planned 16 years ago when the project started.

Seven of the structures have been completed, McClamrock said, with construction on the largest one to begin soon. One of the projects on Elisha Creek would probably be cancelled, he said.

He said that land rights are more difficult to obtain now than when the project started and that concern from environmentalists was also greater. He added that the watershed project was to create "prettier, more serviceable waterways."

Several officials in soil and water conservation were present at the meeting, as was Kimberly Hathaway of Davie County. She won first place for fourth graders in North Carolina in a poster contest sponsored by the soil and water conservation districts.

Davie Representative Ramey Kemp was also on hand, along with Reps. Jim Lambeth, John Varner and Jack Childers of Davidson County. Even the guest speaker was a politician, 8th District Rep. Sam Bundy of Farmville.

Bundy, a graduate of Duke and East Carolina Universities, has been a member of the N.C. General Assembly since 1971. He has held several offices in the Masons and Kiwanis Clubs, and was named Farmville's man of the year in 1954. He was also an educator and school administrator, and held offices in North Carolina Association of Educators.

Bundy seemed to delight the crowd with his form of humor as he injected a joke into every one of his serious points.

He emphasized the statement "build a better nation through proper conservation."

"We will continue to build a better nation, through conservation, legislation and education."

"We must have hope," he said, and used a local politician to emphasize his point. The politician, he said, bought a bottle of liquor in Winston-Salem, put it in his back pocket and headed for his home in Davie County.

When he got home, Bundy said, he slipped on some ice and fell. Upon feeling the flow of something down the back of his leg, the local politician said, "I hope it's blood."

"Now he had hope!" Bundy said.

Folk-Ways and Folk-Speech

by Rogers Whitener

From time to time Folk-Ways columns have noted that early physicians in the Appalachians were not too far removed from herb doctors.

In fact, a number of general practitioners have corroborated such statements, indicating that prior to the introduction of the so-called miracle drugs, many of their own prescriptions differed little from home remedies.

Some months ago Jeanne McRory, an Appalachian State student, determined to explore this idea by examining the medical career of her great-grandfather, Dr. Atlas Durea Jones, who practiced medicine in the Granite Falls area during the latter part of the 19th century and the early part of the 20th century.

Through various relatives and friends she was able to trace aspects of his horse-and-buggy medical practice, including his prescriptions.

"I was mainly interested," she says, "in finding out about the medicines Papa (a family name for Dr. Jones) used. I wanted to know if he made his own medicines or bought most of them from a pharmaceutical company. Mrs. Mary Haynes (a family friend) was able to supply me with this information. While he did buy some medicines already prepared, I discovered that he made many more.

"She told me that above his book shelves there hung a row of white cloth bags in which he kept dried herbs to make his medicines.

"According to Mrs. Haynes, they contained the following medications, plus many others.

Ground Ivy--the roots and leaves were soaked, strained, and made into a tea which was prescribed for bladder and kidney problems, especially those of pregnant women.

Alfalfa--made into a tea, it was called a blood-builder and was prescribed for anemia.

Wild Cherry Bark--boiled and made into a liquid medicine which enabled children to "break out" their measles.

Lady Slipper--roots were boiled into a tea used to soothe the nerves, relieve headache pain, and induce sleep.

Wind Ginger--made into a tea that brought relief from gas.

Wild Aiu--mixed with water as hot as the patient could stand to swallow and used in the treatment of colitis.

Purple Foxglove--made into a tincture and administered to heart patients.

Pennyroyal--made into a tea used for the relief of asthma.

Hop's Flower--also made into a tea and prescribed for asthma.

Oil of Cloves--massaged on the gums after a tooth was pulled, a chore often performed by early physicians.

Onion and Mustard Poultice--placed on the chest to relieve bronchitis and laryngitis.

Boneset--made into a tea and used in the treatment of croup.

Wild Clover--made into a tea used to treat whooping cough.

Camphor--rubbed on bruises and used to soothe boils which had been lanced.

Slippery Elm and Sycamore-bark boiled and made into a thick, black syrup used as a laxative.

Goldenrod, Dandelion, Briar Hops--boiled with brown sugar into a tonic to improve the appetite.

Plantain--made into a salve used in the treatment of hemorrhoids.

Touch-Me-Not Blooms, Jewel Weed, and Castor Oil--boiled together into a thick mixture rubbed on the skin to cure Poison Ivy.

Wild Raspberry, Red Oak Bark, and Geranium--boiled together into a syrup given for upset stomach.

Jeanne indicates that her great-grandfather had gained much of his herbal medical knowledge from Indians and from the observation of animals.

"He knew what plants they ate to cure themselves when they were sick and he believed that if people were observant enough they could learn to do the same thing, thus eliminating the need for a doctor except in emergencies."

Readers are invited to send folk materials to Folk-Ways and Folk-Speech, Appalachian State University, Box 376, Boone, N.C. 28608.

Which of the following conditions could indicate a misaligned vertebra in the neck and shoulder area?

- Stiff Neck
- Acute Torticollis
- Painfully limited neck movement
- Headache
- Neuralgia
- Tension
- Whiplash Injury
- Parosmia (numbness, tingling altered sensation)
- Bursitis
- Neuritis
- Arthritis

You would be correct if you checked every box. This is why any or all of these ailments, to be properly diagnosed, should include a complete chiropractic examination of the spine. Often, subluxations (misalignments) of the vertebrae trigger altered sensations or conditions in other parts of the body. Detection and proper chiropractic adjustment can normalize the condition.

There Is An Answer

By Norman Vincent Peale and Ruth Stafford Peale

I'm so afraid or shy to even look at people. When I'm around anyone I keep my head low for fear they may make fun of me or laugh. Many my age (I'm 16) have the same problem but for some reason I don't notice it as being so bad. I've took drugs hoping I would seem to be like others. It doesn't work. Help! I don't know how to overcome my problem.

I know how you feel for I was the same way once. I got over inferiority feelings, shyness, inadequacy reactions by committing my life to Christ and practicing His teachings. You can get the same result the same way.

We are sending you our booklet, "12 Steps to a Happy and Successful Life," which has helped others with problems such as yours. Anyone wishing a free copy may write to us at Box 500, Pawling, N.Y. 12564.

NOTHING IS GOING RIGHT
My ex-husband lives with his young girlfriend with a year-old-baby. Everything is going great for him. Since he left me after 21 years of marriage I feel useless. I have prayed to God to let me die. My children are all grown now. I have no friends, male or female. I am feeling so sorry for myself. Lots of good things have happened to me in the past, but nothing is going right for me now. If God loves me why am I so miserable?

Your misery stems from the self-pity you allow yourself to wallow in. Stop thinking about all these "bad" things that are happening to you now and try to concentrate on what's good about your life. Start with thanking God for your health, a place to live, fresh air and sunshine. Then, do something for someone else. Volunteer. Get outside of yourself for a change, and soon good things will be happening to you again. CAN'T GO ON PRETENDING

I married a man for whom I care very much, but I'm not in love with him. I never have been. He never really proposed to me. He just took for granted that we would be married. So for nearly 7 years I've been pretending to be happy. But I'm not. I can't go on pretending anymore. I want out, but I'm afraid of hurting my husband and our 3-year-old son. How long can a person go on pretending to be happy when they're so darned miserable?

It's unlikely that you could be successful in pretending to be happy for such a long time. No doubt your husband suspects how you feel. Why not be honest with him? You say you care deeply about him, and you have a lovely child. Depend on the trust and respect you have for each other to be your guide. Simply share your concerns with him and positively search together for solutions. You may be surprised to find a depth of feeling you didn't know was there.

If there is something you would like to ask Dr. and Mrs. Peale, write to them at Box 500, Pawling, N. Y. 12564.

Little Shannon Fleming, daughter of Dan and Regina Fleming, celebrated her first birthday, Friday, September 5, with a party at her home in Cleveland. Her guests enjoyed a clown birthday cake, made by her maternal grandmother. She is the grand-daughter of Jim and Kat Alexander of Cooleemee and Billy and Amaryllis Fleming of Cleveland. Mrs. Annie Alexander of Cooleemee is her maternal great-grandmother.

Driver Under Influence Is Charged In 601 Accident

Driving under the influence of alcohol was charged after a truck pulling a boat trailer wrecked on US 601, 1.1 miles south of Davie Crossroads.

The vehicle was a 1971 Toyota pick-up, operated by Earl Dean Evans, 53, of Clemmons, N.C.

Reports indicated that Evans lost control of the vehicle, ran left of center and struck a guardrail; throwing the boat off the trailer and onto the road. Damage was estimated at $1,000. Trooper J.L. Payne investigated.

'Citizens Choice' Discussed For Rotary

A national organization known as "Citizens Choice" was described to members of the Mocksville Rotary Club on Tuesday by Marion Pitts.

Pitts, who described himself as a volunteer booster of the organization, told the Rotarians that the organization was only four years old, now had 46,000 members, and was growing rapidly. "Citizens Choice" is made up of business leaders and those who are interested in the free enterprise system. A professional lobby is maintained in Washington, D.C. to exert our influence with Congress. A monthly news letter keeps everyone abreast of legislative proposal and happenings. There is a toll-free hotline that provides information on bills before congress," said Pitts.

Johnny Roberts had charge of the program and introduced Pitts. President Bill Daniel presided.

Annual Center Fair Is Saturday

Millard Anderson has had a lot of experience preparing pit cooked barbecue. He and many other volunteers will begin work Thursday on the 260 pork shoulders bought for the 1980 fair. (Photos by Robin Carter)

Center Fair scheduled for September 12 and 13 promises to be the best ever in both exhibits and food.

Volunteers will begin stoking the pits Thursday to transform 260 pork shoulders into mouth watering barbecue. Over 1000 pounds of cabbage will be grated and chopped into coleslaw to satisfy appetites of hungry fairgoers. Barbecue plates and sandwiches will be available from 4:30 p.m. Friday through Saturday night.

The Center arbor will come alive as people countywide display various exhibits. Entries will be categorized under horticulture, needlework, sewing, art and many others. This year's entries are expected to surpass last year's 191 individual exhibits.

Exhibitors will begin displaying their wares from 5:00 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. Friday. Pre-registration is not necessary. Twenty-five judges from across the county will select winners at 10 a.m. Saturday. Cash prizes will be awarded at 4:30 p.m. Saturday to first and second place winners in each category. Winners will also receive ribbons.

Mrs. Clay Tutterow and Mrs. Duke Tutterow are serving as co-chairmen of the 1980 Center Fair. Other committee members include Mrs. Steve Evans, Mrs. Larry Harpe and Mrs. Carlos Williams.

"We are expecting a large turnout," said Mrs. Clay Tutterow concerning the 1980 Center Fair. "We invite everyone to come for a day of fun and some of the best pit cooked barbecue you've ever tasted."

The Carolina Cloggers from Cleveland, N.C. and the Cathedral Voices from Statesville will provide special entertainment Saturday evening beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Performances will be held on the Center ballfield. Persons are urged to bring a lawn chair along and stay for the fun.

Carman Walker, Sarah Tucker and Peggy Cornatzer examine displays of canned goods at the 1979 Center Fair.

Fires Reported

The following fires were reported in Davie County recently.

A wood fire broke out on Gladstone Road on Tuesday, September 2.

Center Fire Department responded to a wreck on I-40 in the westbound lane near Iredell County on Friday, September 5.

Also on the fifth, a car fire was reported at 801 and Howell Road.

On Saturday, September 6, the Center fire trucks responded to a truck fire at Powell Lumber Company.

On Sunday, September 7, the Mocksville Fire Department responded to the report of a fire at Anchor Seafood. The fire turned out to be someone burning trash.

'Ghost Tales Of The Uwharries' Is Scheduled For Third Printing This Fall

John F. Blair, Publisher is proud to announce the third printing of Fred T. Morgan's GHOST TALES OF THE UWHARRIES. Whether you allow yourself to believe in these ghosts or remain a skeptic, the spine-tingling stories are thoroughly enjoyable.

The author was born in the Uwharrie (pronounced "you-warr-ee" by the Indians who named it) region and has been fascinated by its folklore since childhood. Located in central North Carolina, the Uwharries are the remnants of a 500-million-year-old mountain range that once towered 20,000 feet high. They were long into their dotage before men first set foot in them. As German and Scotch-Irish settlers filtered in, they populated the area with many of the ghosts that are to be found in Morgan's book. In both style and content, the author is faithful to the oral history of the area, making the book a welcome addition to literature of this genre.

There are 20 tales in this collection. Some are downright scary and best read in the daytime. Others are humorous, ideal for reading aloud. And some are in-between-warm, friendly tales told with affection for the land and the people who generated them. There's the ghost of Millie Crocket who was a drinking woman, it seems. Her worst offense is to swipe an occasional drink from the living. Peddler Paul picks the wrong place to spend the night and ends up seeing his own grave being dug.

There's a beautiful ghost who goes to college and a hitchhiking ghost who lives with an entire family of ghosts. And readers won't be likely to forget the ghost of Old Man Buller, a private sort who was in the habit of killing people for trespassing on his land.

The author has been featured editor of the Stanly News and Press since 1951. Morgan was born in Albemarle and so comes by his interest in the folklore of the region naturally. He is a prolific freelance writer, and his newspaper stories have won a number of awards in press competition.

Virginia Ingram, Blair's art director, did the woodcut prints which illustrate each story. She holds a Master of Fine Arts degree from the University of North Carolina at Greensboro and her work has been exhibited throughout the Southeast.

Financial Outlook For The 80's

by Ben Browder

The stock market seems to have reached an important bottom in April, and bulls now outnumber bears by a wide margin. Minor setbacks have occurred, however, particularly when the Dow dropped 18 points in one day following the massive increase in the money supply. The increase in the money supply surprised market participants. If such growth continued, it would lead to higher inflation and higher interest rates. Nonetheless, once the shock was absorbed, stock prices recovered. The economic cycle has reached a point where stock prices are more likely to move up than down, and the longer term trend of money supply growth has been disinflationary for some time.

If history can be a guide, the bull market has just begun. The average life of a bull market is 41 months, with an actual range from 19 months to 57 months in post-war expansions.

The advance in stock prices since April has been fairly typical. Price rises are sharpest in the early stages of a bull market and prices have risen for four consecutive months. Based on history, there is a good chance that stock prices will continue to rise through the election.

Because monetary policy is instrumental to market direction, a closer look at the recent past and possible future policy could be helpful. First, the August surge in money supply should be put into perspective. Factors such as increases in transfer payments, seasonal adjustments and inflows from abroad affected the money supply. Additionally, the increase followed a long period of low growth which could have led to a severe recession had it continued.

Further, even with the August surge in money supply, there is room for additional growth and still have money supply growth fall within targeted ranges. Once the election is over, the Federal Reserve could work more seriously at bringing money supply growth to the lower end of its target range.

There also seems to be a good chance that a reduced inflation rate will be sought over a longer period of time. The more gradually inflation is brought under control, the better, since this would lessen the possibility of another round of stop-go policy by the Fed.

Fed policies on money growth, and therefore inflation, are important to stock prices. If the trend rate of inflation can be reduced to or below the single-digit level to which business is accustomed, the longer term effect on stock prices will be positive. Some experts believe that the containment of inflation could lead to a Dow Jones Industrial Average in the 1200-1400 range before the cycle ends. The secular trend of stock prices could also turn up for the first time since the late 1960's. It is too early to know how Fed policies in the future will affect the cyclical expansion in stock prices, but given the bull market's youth, it may be too early to worry about it.

Current statistics on U.S. productivity declines notwithstanding, there is a good chance for improvement in the Eighties. Changes in the work force and the pace of capital formation offer some hope that productivity declines can be reversed. The entry of young and inexperienced workers into the labor force in the Seventies contributed to the decline in productivity. In the Eighties, substantially fewer people will be entering the work force which will increasingly be dominated by older, more mature workers. Lack of growth in the labor force will lead to continued increases in wages in the years ahead, thus offering incentive to invest in labor-saving devices.

Other factors will spur investment in new plant and equipment. Sluggish capital formation in the Seventies has been recognized by politicians as a cause of declining productivity, and tax cuts and incentives are being proposed to stimulate such spending. Incentives to save will eventually free up investable funds for the private business sector.

The last ten years have featured sharply rising expenditures to meet Government regulations. Some recent signs of change on the part of the government include deregulation of the airline and trucking industries, and the restriction of some government agencies. These moves will permit business to allocate resources more effectively.

Inflation has also negatively affected capital spending. It has reduced the purchasing power of depreciation, raised interest rates on long term funds, and increased the level of uncertainty about the future. A moderation in inflation in the Eighties would reduce the cost of long term funds for capital investment and make many projects more attractive.

The chances of improving the nation's productivity appear bright. The generally recognized need to rebuild capacity, a shift from labor surplus to labor scarcity, and the need to invest in energy saving equipment to offset rising energy costs are positive factors. Tax cut proposals, including some form of liberalized depreciation scheduled for 1981, are a beginning.

Tips On Problems Of Transmissions

When an automobile's motor races between shifting gears, or lags before shifting, or produces a clunking noise when the transmission goes into a lower gear, or does not shift out of first gear, odds are that something is the matter with the automatic transmission.

A complex network of valves and fluid pressure measures engine speed, car speed, and rate of acceleration, with automatically shifting gears when a change occurs in any of these functions. Because the gears are completely enclosed, drivers can prevent transmission trouble more easily than they can remedy it.

The most important, yet most easily overlooked preventive measure, advises the Better Business Bureau, is maintaining the proper level of transmission fluid. Drivers should check the fluid level frequently with the transmission dipstick, usually located on the passenger side of the car at the back of the engine. The owner's manual should be consulted to determine what kind of fluid to add when needed, and how often it should be changed. (Note: When checking transmission fluid, the car should be idling and in neutral.) Under routine driving conditions, transmission fluid should be changed at least every 24,000 miles, and more often if the vehicle is used to tow a trailer.

Careful owners can use the appearance of the fluid to diagnose their transmission's health. When no problems exist, the fluid is clear, has a pink or reddish tint, and does not give off unpleasant odors. If the fluid appears dark brown and has a burnt odor, the transmission is slipping. Foamy or milky fluid also signals slippage, and fluid leaks are sure signs of trouble.

When the transmission slips, gear changes become drawn out, with a slight or pronounced hesitation as the shift occurs. Sometimes the engine speeds up for a second or two as the transmission slips before properly completing the gear change.

Delays in having either of these symptoms checked by a reliable repair facility can result in internal failure of the transmission.

Not every symptom is a signal of doom, however. Harsh or rough shifting can often be remedied easily and inexpensively by a competent mechanic who knows how to adjust the engine vacuum or throttle. Rapid shifting, producing a pattern of one gear change right after the other, also results from trouble with the engine vacuum or throttle and is generally not serious if taken care of promptly. Sometimes the absence of a passing gear when the accelerator is depressed rapidly requires only the replacement of an electrical switch.

Should transmission difficulties develop, drivers who take the time to locate a reputable repair shop will be rewarded for their extra efforts. The methods by which a transmission repair establishment does business can tip off a car owner to its reliability. These should include carefully questioning the owner about the vehicle's operation, checking the transmission fluid, observing the condition of the motor mounts, making a road test to allow the mechanic to experience driving performance, and checking, on a lift, for all possible external causes of the difficulty.

Only after these steps have failed to identify the problem is it advisable to open up the transmission. Before proceeding to this point, the driver should get a firm written estimate on removal of the transmission, inspection, reassembly, and most important—replacement in original condition should he or she decide not to proceed with repairs.

The Better Business Bureau especially advises drivers to steer away from repair shops that advertise "tune up and adjustment" of transmissions at an unbelievably low price. Most late model transmissions cannot be "adjusted" at all.

Hugh Rice, a sixth grader, works diligently on his assignments.

Ronnie Robertson and Rev. Blackburn stand by the fulfillment of a vision the Trinity congregation has had for years, the first private Christian School in Davie County.

Trinity -- Davie's Only Private School

Train up a child in the way he should go and when he is old, he will not depart from it-Proverbs 22:6

Kendra Eldridge sits at her desk, carefully printing words such as "plaque" and "statue". Kendra is a third grader, the only third grader in her class. While she does her spelling and copies bible verses, Mrs. Barbara Eldridge, her teacher and her mother, works with a few second graders in a reading circle in the corner of the room.

Next door, Vickie Blackburn's kindergarten students are learning the alphabet. One little boy stands up and repeats the letter they have learned that day, "Capital 'I,'" he says.

It is only the third day these five years olds have been to school, and there are already books on their desks.

Trinity Christian School has been open only since September 2 as Davie, County's first Christian or private school. The school is owned and operated by the Trinity Baptist Church in Cooleemee, which itself was founded only four years ago.

Currently, there are 22 students enrolled in kindergarten through the sixth grade, learning the basics which parents and the school feel have been forgotten in the public schools. By the end of the year, the kindergarten students will know how to read.

By the time, a child is out of the third grade, he will be able to pick up a Bible or a newspaper and read it through," said Rev. Gene Blackburn, minister of the church and administrator of the school.

Trinity Christian School bases its high caliber academics on the A Beka program designed with a Christian foundation. Blackburn and his faculty traveled to Pensacola, Florida in August for a week long seminar in the curriculum.

In the first through the third grades in the A Beka program, students receive a basic education with emphasis on phonics, how to read, how to write, how to do mathematics.

In the sciences, the theory of evolution is presented along side divine creation. The bible is stressed as the word of God, but no doctrine is taught, explained Blackburn. Although operated by a Baptist congregation, Trinity Christian School accepts students of all denominations, Protestant or Catholic.

A short chapel is conducted every morning with patriotic pledges. On Fridays, guest speakers are slated for 30 minutes each day, a Bible class is taught by Ronnie Robertson.

"I can remember when I went to school, we had chapel. I think it serves as the focal point that ties the day together," said Blackburn.

Vickie Blackburn takes her kindergarten class through the paces of the alphabet. By the end of this year, these students will have learned to read at Trinity Christian School.

The eight students in Mrs. Gail Cole's classroom of fourth, fifth and sixth graders had just finished spelling and math drills. Most of the students had come from the North Hills Christian School in Salisbury or Woodleaf Elementary. They were all extremely articulate.

"I like this school because it teaches you more," said one girl. "There is not as many to class," volunteered another.

Much like the old one room schoolhouse which many parents remember as the ideal of American education, the several grades in one room seem not to bother the students, nor Blackburn.

"Actually, the A Beka program is geared to the combination of grades," said Blackburn. "as we get more students, say 15, in one grade, we would break it down into different class rooms.

The Trinity Christian School hopes to grow slowly, adding a seventh grade next year, and subsequent grades each following year. Already construction is underway on a three story addition behind the church. Blackburn said he hopes to have the first story ready for the children by winter.

"Our school is a baby. We will cry a little, crawl a little and we will bump our head. We want to grow slowly like a baby," said Blackburn, stressing quality over quantity.

Trinity Baptist had a vision of a Christian school when he came three years ago, explained Blackburn. He quoted a verse from Proverbs, "Where there is no vision, the people perish."

In July, the church mailed 9,000 flyers, and advertisements were broadcast for the first private Christian school in Davie County. Students came from Cooleemee, Mocksville, Salisbury and Rowan County. Blackburn hopes to add ten more students this year, due to inquiries from interested parents.

Parents and family life play an important role in the philosophy of Trinity Christian School. "There is an understanding between us and the parents," said Blackburn. If a major discipline problem arises, the school contacts the parents who deliver whatever spanking may be necessary.

The school is fully accredited with the state. Mrs. Eldridge, who teaches the basics in all the grades, Mrs. Cole, the full time aide, and Miss Blackburn, who is also the minister's daughter, all hold certificates from the state.

Blackburn himself is no stranger to education. He served as director of the Brightwood Christian School in Greensboro prior to his coming to Cooleemee.

The school also met and surpassed every state regulation for safety and health. Special facilities for handicapped students will be constructed in the new building.

Trinity promotes itself as a "Christian School where quality is priority and boys and girls are the purpose!"

Blackburn said, "We felt the basics were being left out of the public schools. There is a lack of discipline. If these kids don't learn the basics, if they cannot read or write, our country is going to be in sad shape. Who will be our scientists and our leaders of tomorrow?"

"I firmly believe, if you teach a child the basic while he is still young around the third grade, he will never forget them," Rev. Blackburn said, echoing the one book his school is founded on.

Rev. Gene Blackburn browses through an A Beka book. The A Beka curriculum stresses respect for country and devotion to God, while giving the students an education of the highest caliber.

Because of the small enrollment, teachers can give individualized attention to their pupils. Mrs. Barbara Eldridge works with second grader Rebecca Cole on the right and Kelly Broadway and Dawn Reavis.

The walls are rising on the three story building behind the church which will house more classrooms of the new school. Blackburn hopes to see the first floor completed and ready for use sometime this winter.

Davie Truckers Take State Softball Title

State champions. Has a nice sound to it doesn't it?

The Davie Truckers softball team of Advance can now say that about themselves. The Truckers won the American Softball Association Class "B" Championship for North Carolina Labor Day weekend in Charlotte.

The Truckers, led by Charlie Boger, never lost a game as they won six straight enroute to the state title. Boger batted .870 for the tourney, hit 12 home runs and was named Most Valuable Player.

Two other Trucker players also made the All-State team, Rick Allred with a .750 batting average and 11 home runs and Garry Moorefield, with a .590 batting average and six home runs.

The Truckers completely dominated their opponents, amassing 147 runs while holding them to just 51. The Truckers team batting average was .688, as they connected for 180 base hits (46 homers, three triples and 23 doubles).

Trucker Coach Jerry Crews claimed the quality of the players won the tourney for his team. "I felt the line-up was critical to the outcome of the tournament."

The Truckers began the tourney with a 25-7 victory over Broughton Hospital, winners of the Morganton district.

The Truckers, led by home runs from Boger and Allred, took an 11-2 lead after the first inning.

Boger and Allred each hit another homer as the Truckers took an 18-3 lead after four. Billy Cornatzer and Craig Ward got five consecutive hits each in the game.

Garry Moorefield hit a three run homer in the bottom of the seventh to give the Truckers a 16-15 triumph over the host team, Crawford Sprinklers of Charlotte.

The Truckers, after changing lead several times, held a 12-8 lead going into the seventh inning. Crawford Sprinklers sent 10 men to the plate, hit three home runs and scored seven, giving them a 15-12 lead.

The Truckers then spoiled the hopes of more than 500 local fans. Bill Cornatzer and Rick Lagle each singled, and Jake Cornelouson hit an RBI single to right, setting up Moorefield's game-winning blast.

The Truckers piled up 47 hits as they humiliated Stevens Ueud Cars of King 44-5 for their third victory.

They hit 12 home runs, highlighted by grand slams by Allred and Paul Beaver. Boger went 7-7 in the game.

The Pantry of Sanford then fell victim to the team from Davie, suffering a 22-9 defeat.

Steve Ledford and Lagle provided the "big blows" for the Truckers in this game.

The Truckers held Nash Florists of Greensboro to just one run on two hits as they took a 24-1 victory in the championship in the finals of the winners bracket. The team had averaged 19 runs per game before meeting the Truckers.

Allred and Boger hit two home runs each for the Truckers in the game. The Truckers beat Robbins Warehouse of Moore County 16-14 to take the state title.

Ronnie Ledford hit three home runs for the Truckers in the game, including a game-winning two run shot in the bottom of the sixth.

The Truckers won tournaments this year in King, Mocksville, Dunn Town (2), and Greensboro.

Other members of the team include: Craig Ward and Harold Latham. Todd Ledford was the bat boy.

Pro-Am Nationals To Close Out Drag Season At Farmington Track

The Cycle Racing Association Pro-Am Nationals set for September 14th at Farmington Dragway will close out the motorcycle drag season and decide the state championship along with the winners of the $5,000 points fund.

In addition to the five regular classes of super-eliminator, pro-competition, modified, super-stock and stock the event will feature the hot nitro-burning top fuel cycles capable of speeds approaching 150 mph on the one-eighth mile dragway. Included in these powerhouse machines will be the new double engine super-charged Harley-Davidson of Ray Price of Raleigh and the noted "knuckle-head" Harley of Pete Hill of Greenville, S.C. Price has long been known for his "wheel-stands", running the entire dragway on the rear wheel at speeds exceeding 170 mph. Hill has established on the national motorcycle circuit by remaining with the "knuckle-head" engine known in cycle circles as a classic performing drag cycle.

Other well-known top fuelers on the entry list include Steve Cooper of Winston-Salem, John Sands of Columbia, S.C., "Squeaky" Bell of Hampton, Va. and Frank Spittle of Wallace, N.C.

The battle for the championship and points fund will be a major feature with most divisions still too close to call.

Bobby Baker of Bishopville, S.C. currently is leading the powerful super-eliminator division with Robble House of Rocky Mount holding the lead in pro-competition. Joe Alveraz of High Point is still ahead in the modified division while super-stock sees Larry Jenkins of Angier leading the pack. Rocky Mount's Gregg Owens is at the top in the stock division.

The event will also feature trophies in show-bike competition in the classes of street, dresser, chopper and Harley Street.

Officials have announced a special flat admission fee of $7.00 for the entire event with children under 10 admitted free. Gates open at 10 a.m. for qualifying and record runs with final eliminations at 2 p.m.

As many as 150 top drag cyclists are expected on the entry list.

Qualifying Is Underway For Fall 4-Ball Tourney At Twin Cedars

The qualifying for the Twin Cedars fall 4 ball tournament is now underway. The qualifying time runs from September 1 through September 28th.

The Twin Cedars Golf Course is located 3 miles south of Mocksville on U.S. 601 South.

This will be a two man team playing best ball, total strokes for qualifying for flight positions.

The play off will be best ball match play. The first round play will be Saturday, October 4, second round October 5, the third round, October 11, and fourth round October 12. Starting times will be assigned for play off.

Entry fees $10.00 per person. This will include qualifying round of golf and free meal ticket with a cookout on Saturday, October 4. Trophies will be awarded for medalist team, winners and runners up in each flight.

Complete rules are posted at Club House.

Potato Low in Calories

Many people have the mistaken notion that the potato is fattening. The fact is that a medium-size potato is surprisingly low in calories—about 90—the same as an apple or banana.

Davie High Girls Open Net Season With 8-1 Win

The Davie High girls tennis team opened its 1980 season with an 8-1 win over West Rowan Monday afternoon.

The girls met West on the Davie courts and lost only one doubles match. They are scheduled to travel to Salisbury Thursday to battle their arch rivals.

Results of singles competition were: Tracey Stapleton over Susan Hendrix 6-0, 4-6, 6-1; Angela Riddle over Mimi Watson 6-3, 6-0; Janic Rauch over Gail Ketchie 6-0, 6-1; Kathryn Latham over Carmen Walsler 6-0, 6-0; Liz Packer over Elisha Rogers 6-1, 6-0; and Susan Parker over Cathy Seats, 5-7, 6-2, 6-1.

In doubles play the team of Stapleton-Ruach defeated Hendrix-Watson 8 games to 2. Davie's Myra Oxendine and Karen Richardson lost to Porter-Hall by 8 games. Lisa Freshwater and Kim Foster of Davie beat Rogers-Walsler 8 games to 5.

Crowds Hurting Davie Courts

"The courts were a mess."

Those are the words uttered by Davie High tennis coach Robert Landry in regard to the condition of the Davie school's tennis courts after Friday night's football game.

Landry said that the playing surfaces were littered with soft drink cups, hot dog wrappers, other assorted pieces of trash and even chewing gum.

"We had players getting stuck in spots of gum, balls getting in spots of gum...it was terrible," said

Landry.

The net coach said that it took several hours to get the courts clean enough for Monday's match against West Rowan.

He urges parents to keep kids off the courts during the football games held at the school stadium on Friday and Saturday nights.

All of the litter is accumulated at these games. Landry asks that people be a little more thoughtful and put trash in the containers provided.

Westmoreland And Fearington Are Winners At Farmington

By Becky White

There should have been more drag races at Farmington this year. Davie County needed the rain! Yes, it happened again, the rains came to the races on Saturday night. But drag racers are persistent people, we waited out the rain and again the track was dried by faithful racers and spectators. The race was completed, almost on time.

Paul Wise of Kannapolis, N. C. is making a strong comeback in drag racing after being out for a couple of years. Paul took his 1966 Chevy II Station Wagon to the No. 1 Qualifier position in the Super Stock Modified Division with an elapsed time of 7.230 seconds on a 7.150 record.

Mike Westmoreland of Oak Ridge, N. C. picked up his fifth win of the 1980 season in Super Stock. He piloted the 1968 "Mabe and Westmoreland" Camaro to the win with an E.T. of 7.48 seconds. Rick Wilson of Troutman, N. C. in only his fourth week of drag racing captured the runner-up spot with an E.T. of 6.90 seconds. Rick's 1970 Camaro is just one of the fine products of the Heintz Brother's Automotive in Statesville, N. C. Semi-final spots were taken by Wayne Dollyhigh of Mount Airy, N. C. and Paul Wise of Kannapolis, N. C.

In the Pro E.T. Division, Arthur Bryant of Kernersville, N. C. took the win by default in his 1967 "Psycho" Mustang as Roger Helms of Mooresville, N. C. left on the red light in his 1972 Chevrolet Vega, A "Lucky Carson built" car. Semi-finalists were Gray McClamrock of Mocksville, N. C. and Roy Van Leuvan of Kernersville, N. C.

Dale Fearington of Lewisville, N. C. took the win in the Modified Street Division in his 1969 "Shop Rat" Dodge Dart with an E.T. of 8.32 seconds. Dale's Dodge is sponsored by Karl Simpson Builders in Pfafftown, N. C. and the Carter and Miller Automotive in Vienna, N. C. Lonnie Craig of Eden, N. C. took the runner-up spot in his 1965 "Orange Crusher" Plymouth Barracuda with an E.T. of 8.29 seconds. Semi-finalists were In the Ultra Street Division, Tom Tutterow of Mocksville, N. C. was the winner with an E.T. of 12.35 seconds in his 1960 Plymouth Supporo. Richard Calloway of Courtney, N. C. was second in a 1969 Chevelle with an E.T. of 12.16 seconds. Semi-finalists were Todd Tutterow of Mocksville, N. C. and Harold Baily of Courtney, N. C.

The Farmington Dragway will be closed on Saturday, September 13 for the U.S. Open Nationals at the Rockingham International Dragway in Rockingham, N. C. This is the big one, the last run for the top Winston Points money and 1980 drag racing championships. Regular Saturday night racing will continue at the Farmington Dragway on September 20 with a Double Points Race sponsored by the Hot Rod Barns of Winston-Salem, High Point, and Kannapolis, N. C. Double points will be awarded to all racers in all four divisions. Gates will open at 4:00 p.m. and eliminations will begin at 8:30 p.m. Remember, all those under the age of sixteen will get in free at the Farmington Dragway!!!

Dale Fearington picks up first 1980 win.

Mike Westmoreland, winner in super stock modified.

DCHS Girl's Volleyball Team Could Win NPC Championship

Competitive volleyball is a relatively new sport to Davie County, but Davie High girls' volleyball coach Doug Fagan thinks his team has a shot at the North Piedmont Conference title this year.

The race will be between Davie, Thomasville and Asheboro, he said. Davie finished third last year with a 9-11 record.

Fagan said Davie had the height advantage, and had good servers and balance. He said five of the starters could set, a skill that is almost impossible to teach.

Asheboro, he said, returns almost everyone from last year's team and have good individual technique, while Thomasville, though lacking technique, more than make up for it in hustle.

He said his team would have to hustle, be consistent and play as a team to beat the other two contenders.

The Davie Team, with the help of a transfer from Indiana, has already showed an improvement over last year, Fagan said. Lissa Eden, a junior from Indiana, possesses many skills that will benefit the team concept Fagan is teaching the Davie girls.

Fagan said the experience of juniors Sarah Gardner and Sharon Young and seniors Lynda Phelps and Dena Sechrest would be a big help to the team. Others he expects to see a lot of action are: Karin Cave, senior; Patty Franck, Susan DePalma and Jan Penninger, juniors; and sophomore Donna Hanes.

Other members of the team include: Althea Carson and Kim Simpson, juniors; and Kim Wilkinson, Donna Hendrix, Ellen Ginther and Danette Godbey, sophomores. Ken Furches will serve as manager, while Kim Robertson will be the scorekeeper.

Davie will host four matches this season, and for the first time in four years will entertain three-time NPC champs Asheboro. Fagan is eager to meet the champs on Davie's courts.

Fagan said the girls have worked hard in practice, and although much of the emphasis has been on conditioning, they are learning skill development, individual techniques and team organization also.

This marks the second year Fagan has headed the girls' volleyball program at Davie High. The program has been in existence for four years.

Statewide Household Survey Is Now Being Conducted In This Area

An interviewer from the Center for Urban Affairs and Community Services at N.C. State University may knock on your door sometime this month and ask you to participate in a statewide household survey.

The purpose of the survey is to find out the needs which citizens may have for services, such as housing, jobs, or child care. About 600 households have been selected for the survey. The interviewers will be asking questions about the services that are available from several local agencies and organizations, such as the county Health Department, the schools, the Department of Social Services. Individual answers will be kept confidential. However, the final results of the survey will be used by local governmental agencies to determine if more services are needed and how the services they now provide can be made better.

BB&T Receives Merit Award

Branch Corporation has received a Merit Award for its 1979 Annual Report. This is the tenth consecutive year that Branch Corporation and its wholly owned subsidiary, Branch Banking and Trust Company, have received the Award from the national magazine, Financial World. Reports are judged on the basis of content, design, typography and "a diligent effort in providing shareholders with pertinent financial information for investment decision-making, and in a manner more easily read and understood," according to the editors.

Bank Marketing Report, published by an affiliate of The Bankers Magazine, recently ran a feature article on bank annual reports. They described the Branch Corporation 1979 report in this manner: "Excellent color photos illustrate the market area of this holding company. Included is an analysis of bank annual report financial information by a security analyst, and noting how Branch outperformed the industry."

Oilheat

Making it better.

Better Economy

If you heat your home with oil, you should know about Project Oilheat — a new program developed by the U.S. Department of Energy. It can cut your fuel consumption up to 25%. And you won't have to give up one degree of warmth and comfort in your home.

A lot has been done in the past ten years to make oil heating equipment better and more efficient. Fuel oil dealers, heating contractors, oil jobbers, and plumbers participating in the Oilheat program have been trained through special government approved classes to provide their customers with these new, fuel-saving improvements. These Oilheat dealers can show you new burners that save up to 16% of your fuel. Thermostats that save up to 12%. A qualified Oilheat service technician can even cut your fuel consumption up to 10% with a simple tune-up.

So even with the cost of energy going up you can keep your fuel bills down by calling a participating Oilheat dealer.

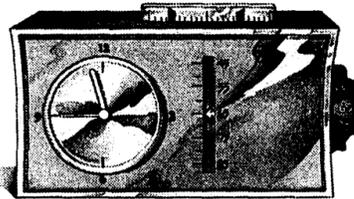

Year Original Efficiency %	65%	70%	75%	80%	85%
1970	$231	$288	$330	$375	$412
1975	154	215	267	312	353
1980	77	143	200	250	294
1985	71	133	186	235
1990	67	125	176
1995	63	118

Better Service

Most people set the clock thermostat to lower the temperature before they go to bed, and raise it shortly before they're due to get up. Many clock thermostats can accommodate several setback periods, so you can raise and lower your home's temperature several times during the day. These are ideal for working families. Call your Oilheat dealer for an efficiency check and find out how much you can save with modern fuel efficient equipment.

Better Efficiency

If your heating system operates below its efficiency potential — and most do — you're wasting a lot of oil and a lot of money. Outdated equipment, lack of maintenance, or poor heating habits can cause you to spend hundreds of dollars you could be saving.

The Clock Thermostat

Your Oilheat service technician can give your furnace or boiler a complete energy efficiency check. This series of tests provides an accurate read-out of your system's performance. And, if your efficiency rating is less than it should be, the efficiency check can pinpoint the problem.

Based on the results of these tests, you will receive a recommendation of steps you can take to save fuel and money. These will include both the cost and the estimated annual savings associated with these recommendations. Remember, too, that the savings will continue to climb with the price of energy.

Call your participating Oilheat dealer today and schedule your energy efficiency check. The longer you wait, the more you'll waste.

Even without installing new equipment, you can cut your fuel consumption considerably. Proper maintenance by a qualified Oilheat technician can save you up to 10% of the oil you burn.

Better Equipment

Since 1970 most of the product research and development in the home heating industry has been directed toward energy conservation — equipment that produces more heat out of less fuel. As a result, there are now greatly improved, highly efficient components to modernize virtually every aspect of your heating system. Your Oilheat dealer can tell you about all of them in detail, but just to give you an idea, we've outlined two of the more significant advances for you here.

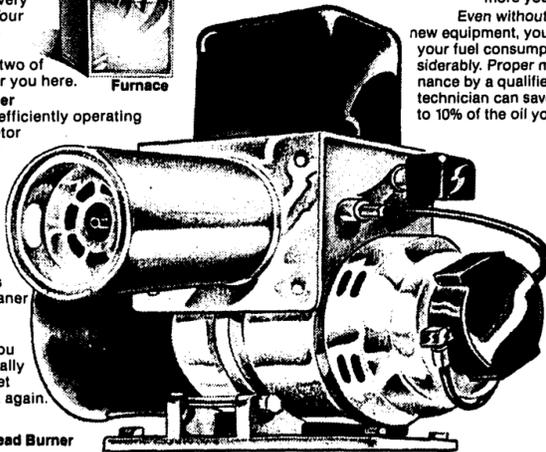

Furnace

The Flame-Retention Head Burner
 The oil burner is the key to an efficiently operating heating system. Like the carburetor of your car, the function of an oil burner is to mix the fuel from your storage tank with the proper amount of air for combustion in your furnace or boiler.

The new flame-retention head burners intensifies the combustion process. This makes your heating system operate cleaner and up to 16% more efficiently.

The Clock Thermostat
 A clock thermostat can save you up to 12% annually by automatically lowering the temperature for a set period of time and then raising it again.

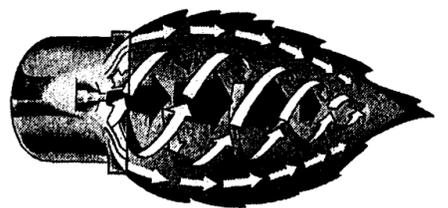

Retention Head Burner

Better Advice

Your Oilheat dealer can show you many ways to save. In addition to energy-efficient equipment and fuel-saving service, there are some "common sense" improvements you can do yourself.

- Keep radiators, registers and dust filters clean. This allows the heat from your furnace or boiler to circulate freely through your home.
- Make sure carpeting, drapes and furniture don't obstruct air flow around radiators, registers, or cold air returns.
- Keep the furnace area clean and keep pets away from your heating system. Hair, dust and lint can accumulate and plug air inlets.

All of the suggestions above can help cut your fuel consumption. But, the single, most effective action you can take is to call a participating Oilheat dealer right away for an energy efficiency check.

FARM FORUM
 Greg Justus says...

Soybean producers, as a group, have been doing one thing the same for the past 60 years. On the average, soy growers have increased the yield of their crops by about half a bushel per acre since 1920. Of course, weather entered into the picture several times and caused drastic drops in productivity during certain years, but on the whole, the progress has been remarkably stable. Even though some observers say yield has now hit its peak, most soybean authorities disagree and predict the yield increases will continue to climb. They expect fertilizer application methods and practices to keep improving and they foresee an even greater utilization of technology developed by plant breeders and other agricultural scientists. At least for now, it appears there's no end in sight to farmer's ability to increase production.

Mocksville Civitan Club Holds Meeting, Officers Installed

The Civitan Club of Mocksville held its regular semi-monthly breakfast meeting at the Midway Restaurant, Tuesday morning, September 9.

One of the highlights of the meeting was the official induction into the Club of three charter members who are Lib Anderson, Joe Long and Bob Charest. Kay Edwards was inducted as a new member and Carol Mischler was installed as Club Secretary. Carol replaces Chris Allison who resigned as secretary in August.

The impressive induction and installation ceremony was conducted by Charles Spencer, Lt. Gov. of Area V West.

Following a very interesting and informative talk by Ron Haines, who holds the title of World Pro-Am Karate Champion, the meeting was adjourned.

Anyone desiring informative information about the Civitan Club of Mocksville may call Darryl Edwards at 634-5885 or Carol Mischler at 492-5630.

East Davie Senior Citizens Council Meets

East Davie Senior citizens council met Monday for their regular monthly meeting at the Smith Grove Recreation center, with thirty-two members present.

Mrs. Ruby Markland presided. The devotions were given by Mrs. Wilma Smith who read the 100th Psalm and discussed, "Getting the Most Out of Life."

Ruth Barney conducted a question and answer game, after which several games of Bingo was played.

Members brought dinner and a feast consisting of ham and sausage biscuits, pimento cheese sandwiches, corn and beans, deviled eggs, macaroni salad, pickles, cole slaw, chicken and beef casserole, cakes, pies, fruit and yams, was enjoyed.

The next meeting will be held at the same place, October 13.

East Davie Jaycettes will have charge of the program for October.

At the present time, he is taking a course in photography by Leasnau.

Murphy shoots weddings, portraiture, pets, nature, sports, aerial photos and candid action. He also shoots slides; color print and black and white prints. He enlarges some of his photos and exhibits many of his photographs in photo shows and contests.

"Murphy is a very talented artist and this is his second showing in the Arts Council Office. Be sure and stop by the office - located in the County Office Building, Room 303," said a spokesperson for the Arts Council.

Tri-County Mental Health Considering Cars For Staff Members

Tri-County Mental Health has advertised to buy five cars for staff members to drive, but board members aren't sure they want the agency to get into the car business.

The finance committee of Tri-County met for an hour September 3rd preceding a full board meeting and learned Director Larry Parrish had advertised for bids on the cars.

Parrish said in a memo to the board that the state has raised the mileage reimbursement rate from 19 to 25 cents per mile for use of private cars on state business, and that it would probably be more practical for Tri-County to buy cars for staffers to drive rather than keep up with this mileage rate.

Staffer Hazel Epling said that last year, the agency spent $95,000 reimbursing its employees for travel.

"I have talked with both Denver Hodges, as area board chairman, and Chip Bridges, as the chairman of the property committee, and we all feel that the purchase of automobiles at this time would be in the best interest of our program, Parrish's memo said.

"Many of us have to buy cars specifically to drive on the job and that expense is becoming a real burden to us."

Woods Auto Inc. submitted the lowest bid, $31,640 for 1981 models.

Bob Rauch, chairman of the finance committee, told the full board only that the committee was not ready to make a recommendation on the matter yet.

He later said there were still many questions to be answered, such as whether the cars would be assigned to specific staff members or pooled for the entire staff, whether employees could drive the cars home and how much it would cost to maintain the cars, he said there were also some legal questions.

The board approved state rates for travel reimbursement for employees, including the 25-cents-per-mile figure and higher meal and motel rates—raising the minimum breakfast from $2.75 to $3 and the maximum dinner from $7.75 to $8.50 (out of state).

In other business, Parrish reported that the alcohol detoxification center in Statesville may be in operation by Nov. 1. Tri-County purchased an old home for the center last month and it is being remodeled now.

Hodges said community acceptance of the project has been excellent.

The board learned that during a recent site review of Tri-County reviewers found many outstanding program features and only one point on which it was out of compliance. This was the attempt to use intake as the comprehensive evaluation and treatment plan. Staffer Harold Reeder said this problem is being corrected. Reviewers also made several other suggestions, such as recommending Tri-County start charging for Employee Assistance Programs.

Following the review, Tri-County was certified for two years by the N. C. Division of Mental Health.

The board approved contract addendums substantially lowering the amount Tri-County will pay toward Cup of Water, the Woodson Home and the Kelly Home, and slightly raising the allocation to the Rowan County Association for Retarded Citizens.

Consumer Problems Of The Aging

Retirees living at home on a fixed income often become the target of schemes that take advantage of senior citizens' desires to stay ahead in the race against inflation's erosion of their buying power.

Too often, says the Better Business Bureau, they wind up bewildered, disillusioned—and defrauded of their monthly allotments or life savings.

Particularly enticing are ads offering work at home, from addressing envelopes, to knitting baby booties, to raising worms. Regardless of the specific come-on, the promoter of a work-at-home scheme never provides regular salaried employment, requires money for instructions or merchandise before telling how the plan operates, and falsely assures guaranteed markets and a huge demand.

Preying on the loneliness of senior citizens, other con artists advertise "lonely hearts" clubs or social organizations, worm themselves into the confidence of members, and bask them for money on the pretext of needing it for a sudden emergency, or a trip to visit the member. Senior Citizens Councils can provide the names of reputable organizations offering interesting events and a chance to meet people.

Another way the elderly risk losing sizeable sums of money is by trying to enter a business they know nothing about. A high percentage of new business ventures fail within the first year, and the failure rate is astronomical for those who try to operate franchises without previous business experience.

Worried about their health, many senior citizens are easy targets for disreputable hucksters that promise cures for cancer, arthritis, deafness, and other plagues of old age. Not only are such promises without foundation, but they often deter the elderly from getting legitimate medical help for chronic problems.

Assessing the cost of living in their present residence, many retirees erroneously assume that they can live better and cheaper somewhere else. There are, indeed, financially sound, carefully planned land developments, retirement homes and condominiums for senior citizens. Unfortunately, there are even more real estate swindles involving land sold sight unseen to naive older Americans who believe that a half-acre lot in the middle of a desert somewhere in the West is an oasis when it is actually only a mirage.

The elderly are susceptible, too, to slim-flam schemes which promise them something valuable "free." Pyramid sales clubs, strangers who offer to share money they've found, sale of certificates for "free" vacations, and contests that award "free" prizes if the "winner" buys something else all fall under this heading.

To avoid being taken advantage of, senior citizens need to face up to their limitations and vulnerabilities. If, for example, their eyesight is not what it used to be, they may be tempted to skip over the fine print in a home repair contract. A wise resolve, under such circumstances, would be to get someone else—a son, daughter, neighbor, or trusted friend, to read every business document before making a decision on whether or not to sign it. Similarly, if physical infirmities limit their mobility, the elderly ought to compare quality and price of products sold door-to-door with similar merchandise or services available elsewhere in the community. Many stores have telephone ordering and home delivery, making reliance on door-to-door sales unnecessary. A special warning: senior citizens, like other segments of the population, should check with the Better Business Bureau before ordering anything from a mail-order catalog. Delays, non-delivery of merchandise, and products that do not perform as advertised are frequent complaints about the mail-order industry. Although many catalog operations are legitimate, others are a continuing vexation.

By getting a second opinion before making a major decision involving the expenditure of money, the elderly can forestall the majority of their consumer problems.

Sheffield-Calahan Paper Drive

Sheffield-Calahan 4-H club is sponsoring a paper drive, Thursday, September 25.

Anyone having papers to be picked up are asked to call: 492-7293 or 492-5344. All papers will be appreciated.

Smith Grove To Elect Board Sunday

The election of board members for Smith Grove Community Development Center will be held Sunday, September 21, at the Center at 3 p.m.

This is an open meeting and the public is invited to attend.

Youth Dog Show At Dixie Classic

A Youth Dog Show for boys and girls ages 7-16 will be held at the Dixie Classic Fair this fall. In making the announcement of this event, W.B. Austin, Jr., Fair manager, urged all participants to keep in mind the September 10 deadline for entering. "Entry blanks and complete instructions are available in the Fair catalog," he said.

The Youth Dog Show, conducted by the Winston-Salem Dog Training Club, will take place on Saturday, October 4, beginning at 9 a.m. in the Fair's grandstand area. The show will consist of twelve categories, with each category divided into two age groups: 7-12 (must be accompanied by an adult) and 13-16 years of age. Each participant will be limited to three entries out of the first nine categories. Category 10, the "Specialty Class," will be made up of participants from previous categories and will be selected by the judges. The 11th and 12th categories are specifically for, but not limited to, members of 4-H groups. Trophies will be given to the first-place winners of each entered class and ribbons to 2nd through 5th places.

Entry blanks and catalogs are available from the Fair office, 421 27th Street, P.O. Box 7525, Winston-Salem 27109—or by calling 919-727-2325. Catalogs are also available from the Forsyth County Library and its branches and from County Extension offices in the Northwest North Carolina counties.

While the debate goes on over an economic policy for the nation, BB&T offers a sound economic policy for your family.

At Branch Banking and Trust, we believe that saving money is sound economic policy.

We've maintained that simple philosophy even through times of high inflation—when the popular wisdom said spend, not save. And today, we believe saving makes more sense than ever.

Saving is the one way you can be sure of having the money you need for the things you want. And with some help from BB&T, you can protect your savings from inflation to a greater degree than you might have expected.

When it comes to saving money, not everyone's needs are equal.

For some people, saving money means a savings account—and that's always a very good way to save.

BB&T also offers a number of alternatives to regular savings accounts—alternatives that can earn you higher interest.

Consider, for example, our Certificates of Deposit*, which allow you to choose a maturity from 30 days to 8 years and a corresponding interest rate on deposits as low as

$500. Or high-yield Money Market Certificates for deposits of $10,000 and more.**

With these and other savings plans, BB&T can help you put together a comprehensive savings program that will give you the best rate of return on your money and the kind of flexibility you need.

Exercise your inalienable right to save for your own future.

We can't predict what the state of the national economy is going to be. And the debate in Washington over such matters will go on and on.

What we do know, however, are the ways in which saving regularly has improved the lives of BB&T customers through the years. We want you to share in the security and the good life many of them have known.

So while you're waiting to see where the economy is headed, take the future into your own hands.

UNC Press To Publish 34 Books

"Birds of the Carolinas," the only comprehensive guide to the diverse bird life in the two states, heads the fall 1980 book list of the University of North Carolina Press.

The Press will publish 34 new titles this fall, including six books on North Carolina subjects and a major new series of books on the South. The new bird book, available in October, features 338 color photographs and summarizes field studies made during the past 20 years. Its 400 species accounts describe all birds recorded in the Carolinas during the past century.

Authors of "Birds of the Carolinas" are Eloise F. Potter, editor of The Chat magazine and curator of birds at the N. C. Department of Natural Resources and Community Development. Most of the photographs are by members of the Carolina Bird Club.

Also of interest to many Tar Heels will be "North Carolina Civil War Documentary" (September) and "Wouldn't Take Nothin' for My Journey Now" (November), a collection of interviews and photographs of old folks in the isolated Carolina mountains. W. Buck Years of Wake Forest University and John G. Barrett of the Virginia Military Institute edited the Civil War volume. It focuses on the personal suffering and economic hardship endured by North Carolinians during the war rather than on military events.

Jock Lauterer, a newspaper editor in Marion, is the author of "Wouldn't Take Nothin' for My Journey Now." He spent 10 years recording the memories, stories and faces of the old mountaineers he describes as "a vanishing breed of Americans."

Other new books by North Carolinians are "Creating Environments for Troubled Children," by Dr. Douglas Powers of UNC at Charlotte; "An Illustrated Guide to the Benthic Marine Algae of Coastal North Carolina," by Donald F. Kapraun of UNC at Wilmington; "Research in Service to Society: The First Fifty Years of the Institute for Research in Social Science at the University of North Carolina," by Guy Benton Johnson of UNC at Chapel Hill and Guion Griffis Johnson of Chapel Hill; and "Catalog of the Salem Congregation Music," by Frances Cunnock of the Moravian Music Foundation in Winston-Salem.

The UNC Press's new Fred W. Morrison Series in Southern Studies will be launched this season with the publication of three titles. They are:

- "Prosperity Road: The New Deal, Tobacco, and North Carolina," by Anthony J. Badger of the University of Newcastle Upon Tyne;

- "Soldiers of Light and Love: Northern Teachers and Georgia Blacks, 1865-1873," by Jacqueline Jones of Wellesley College;

- "Man Over Money: The Southern Populist Critique of American Capitalism," by Bruce Palmer of the University of Houston.

The Morrison Series is endowed by attorney Fred W. Morrison of Washington, D. C. It will include outstanding books on Southern history, life and culture.

New Chapel Hill books expected to attract national interest include "Women of the Republic," a major study of women during the American Revolution; "Paraguay under Stroessner," a political biography of one of Latin America's most durable dictators; and "The North African Stones Speak," an archaeological survey of this rich and varied civilization during the time of the Roman empire.

Other fall books are in the fields of literary criticism, history and political science. A catalog of new UNC Press titles is available from Marketing Department, UNC Press, P.O. Box 2288, Chapel Hill, N.C. 27514.

Alcohol Information Report

By: WILLIAM F. WEANT, M.S. ALCOHOLISM EDUCATION CONSULTANT

ALCOHOL, TRAFFIC SAFETY, AND CRIME - Statistics show traffic accidents to be one of the major problems in the United States today. Approximately 50,000 people per year are killed and 2,000,000 disabled. These same statistics show that about sixty per cent of all fatal traffic accidents involve the use of alcoholic beverages by the driver or the pedestrian.

The availability and widespread use of the automobile has created a much greater community problem for the person who drinks. Modern automobiles require all the skill of a person possessing full mental and physical faculties which the drinking driver does not possess. An intoxicated person becomes a menace on the highway because of his false sense of confidence and his depressed condition. He endangers not only himself but all others on the road - no matter how "defensively" they may be driving. The ability for self-criticism is the first thing affected by alcoholic beverage consumption; therefore, the intoxicated driver tends to take chances he would not ordinarily take. In addition alcohol has dulled his reactor time and accuracy. Although science has not been able to predict the drinking driver's exact decrease in safety efficiency, it has proven that a decrease does take place. No two people are affected by alcohol in the same way and an individual is not always affected in the same way each time he drinks. However, drinking any amount of alcohol will make the person less skillful driver than he might ordinarily be. Recent FBI statistics show approximately forty-five percent of all crimes to be associated with alcohol. This association is due to the lack of intelligent behavior on the part of an individual under the influence of alcohol. The intoxicated individual commits acts which he would not consider while sober. Alcohol releases inhibitions which normally control inner emotional make-up and attitudes; then the subconscious mind is free to express itself in other ways that may suggest themselves. This does not mean that every person who drinks is a criminal. One person who is basically mean and resentful may become brutal when the emotional brakes are released; whereas another person, with a different type of emotional make-up, may become meek. (This series is prepared by Bill Weant, alcoholism education consultant with the Tri-County Mental Health Complex, 717 North Main Street, Mocksville. These articles are designed to create understanding about drinking, alcohol abuse, and alcoholism in our society. If you have a question concerning alcohol that you would like answered in a future column, phone 634-2195.)

Water Conditions

Knowing that over 80 percent of the water in typical communities is used for sprinkling lawns, flushing toilets, fighting fires, washing cars, and industrial purposes, elected officials frequently try to keep water rates low by specifying that water for drinking be safe but not necessarily of the highest quality.

Hard water, caused by invisible particles of dissolved rock—principally calcium and manganese, is present in over half of the homes in the United States. Minerals in hard water combine with soap to leave a scummy deposit on whatever they touch. When hard water is heated, a scale deposited in the heater insulates the unit and requires higher temperatures to produce sufficient hot water. An expensive cycle develops, as higher temperatures produce more scale.

If consumers experience hard water, sediment, and objectionable taste, the Better Business Bureau suggests they investigate ways to improve water simply and economically in the home, at the point where it is used.

Water conditioning appliances remove sediment by filtration, and invisible dissolved minerals by a process called ion exchange. Because the substitution of sodium ions for calcium ions increases the sodium content of the water, users of a low-salt diet should know if their drinking water has been softened by ion exchange. In areas where water is very hard, municipal utilities can partially soften the entire supply. One of the advantages of point-of-use water softening is the opportunity for consumers to have either hard or soft water for drinking.

The three methods most frequently used to reduce the hardness of water are buying or renting water softening equipment, addition of water softening compounds to each batch of water, or turning the job over to a water conditioning service. In the latter case the consumer contracts with a soft water service to hook up a portable appliance to the water line and periodically replace the unit with a freshly recharged one. No electrical connection or drain is necessary.

Where water is very hard, or consumption large, it may be more economical to buy or rent a permanently installed water softening appliance. Most automatic water softeners are recharged on a pre-set schedule which is controlled by a time clock. Units controlled by electronic sensors have recently become popular. They respond to water usage, are more efficient in operation, provide substantial savings on salt, and are particularly suitable in cities where water hardness varies.

Adding packaged chemicals to individual batches of water may be less satisfactory than using softening equipment. For example, compounds for laundering, dishwashing and bathing may soften the wash water but not the rinse water. Furthermore, packaged water softeners do little or nothing about removing sediment, iron or other adverse ingredients from water. Simple water filters are available to make cloudy or silt-laden water clear. Similar filters, with activated carbon elements, can remove chlorine and other taste-and-odor-producing substances.

Water conditioning equipment can be considered an investment. Smaller quantities of soaps and detergents are needed, water systems last longer, drinking water is more palatable, and less soap and detergents are discharged into the environment. If sampling and analysis indicate water conditioning equipment is needed, correcting water problems, rather than price, should be the primary consideration for selection of equipment. Consultations with a water conditioning specialist, the water utility company and the local health department are advisable.

Keep in mind that large manufacturers have qualified analytical laboratories and water treatment engineers to provide consultation and backup to local dealers. Rental equipment should come with an option-to-buy agreement, and all equipment should have a specific, written warranty, advises the Better Business Bureau.

For more information on water conditioners as well as more than 100 different goods and services, check The Better Business Bureau Guide to Wise Buying. # Harry Albert Osborne

Harry Albert Osborne was born June 21, 1904 in Guilford County, the son of the late Benjamin and Effie Lowman Osborne. A salesman, he spent several years in Sanford during the 1920's.
In 1932, at the age of 28, Harry Osborne came to Mocksville marrying Louise Kimbrough.
For 48 years Harry Osborne was a part of Mocksville and Davie County. He was a member of the Mocksville Masonic Lodge No. 134 and the Scottish Rite. Loving hunting, fishing and other outdoor activities he made many friends. In 1973 he was elected to the Mocksville Town Board, serving one term. He was a member of the First United Methodist Church in Mocksville.
Last Friday afternoon Harry died at his home on 323 Lexington Road after a lengthy illness. The funeral was held Sunday afternoon at Eaton's Funeral Home Chapel conducted by the Rev. George Auman. Burial was in the Rose Cemetery with Masonic graveside rites.
Survivors include his wife, Louise Kimbrough Osborne of the home; one son Harry A. Osborne Jr. of Winston-Salem; two sisters, Mrs. J.S. Lilly of Raleigh and Mrs. Martin Palmer Sr. of Cornith; one brother, Jim Osborne of Sanford; and one great granddaughter.
Harry Osborne was not one to back away from life or its problems. He always chose to meet situations head-on...never dodging or flinching from a controversy. People enjoyed his company. He was fun to be around.
Memories of Harry Osborne will often be recalled by his many friends that had the privilege to really know him, always thankful he came their way.

Yadkin Valley

We all say welcome back to all the students from Piedmont Baptist College who attend our church each service, and all other visitors. We welcome you at all times.
The homecoming will be at Yadkin Valley Sunday September 28 with Rev. John Rasey for all the services that day, and through the week of revival at 7:30 p.m. each evening through Saturday October 4. A nursery will be provided each evening. Everyone is invited to attend.
Mrs. Maggie Sheek celebrated her 90th birthday Friday August 29 at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Lillian Hauser on Yadkin Valley Road. She was given a birthday cake decorated with yellow roses. Those who helped her celebrate with cake and homemade ice cream were Mrs. Maude Hauser, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Giffith, Virginia and Ruby Walker, Sallie and Geraldine Carter, Ruby McBride, Alberta Phillips, Lorena West, Frances Boyer and Lillian. She received lots of nice gifts. She makes her home with her daughter.
Mrs. Wiley Gunter entered Medical Park Hospital on Monday and she is to have surgery on Tuesday.
Mr. Benny King was given a surprise dinner on Sunday at the home of Mr. Joe King for his retirement from the service for the army.

Homecoming At Blaise Sept. 21

Blaise Baptist Church will hold its annual Homecoming and Old Fashioned Day Sunday, September 21, 1980. Clarence Vassar, Director of Missions, Yadkin Association will be the guest speaker for the 11:00 a.m. worship service.
A picnic lunch will be held on the grounds following the services.
Everyone is invited to wear their old fashioned clothes, bring a picnic lunch, and join us for a day of worship and good fellowship.

The United Methodist Women met at the church Monday evening for their September meeting. The vice-president presided over the meeting. A program was given and refreshments were served.
Mr. and Mrs. Amos Balty and daughter Cheryl of York Town Va. spent the week end with her parents Mr. and Mrs. W.C. Moser.
Mrs. James Carter spent Monday with her mother Mrs. Lydia Allen of Courtney Mrs. Allen who has been ill is improving.
Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Hughes and Joe spent a few days the past week in the mountains.
Mrs. Henry Miller spent one day the past week with her parents Mr. and Mrs. G. O. Carrigan of Troutman.
Miss Cindy Phelps spent the past weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Jake Anderson of Clemmons.
Billy Mock of Tenn. spent the week end with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Roger Mock Sr. Joyce Allen was able to attend church services Sunday morning, he recently underwent major surgery.
Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Allen and two grandsons Jason and Greg spent Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Madden of Statesville.
Mr. and Mrs. William Robertson of High Point, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Spillman and two children of East Bend visited Mr. and Mrs. Roger Mock Jr. Sunday.

Gospel Baptist

The movie, "The Burning Hell" will be shown at Gospel Baptist Church, Sunday, September 21, at 7:30 p.m.
The public is invited to see this special movie. The church is located 4 miles north of Mocksville, first dirt road beyond Cana Road.

HE OFFERS EVERY MAN A NEW FUTURE
Robert Louis Stevenson was a frail young man. His early death cut short a most brilliant career in the world of poetry. Nowhere in his works did he show more perception than when he wrote:
"OVER THE SEA TO SKYE"
Sing me a song of a lad that is gone, Give me again all that was there. Billow and breeze, islands and seas, Say, could that lad be I? Give me the sun that shone! Mountain of rain and sun,
Merry of soul, he sailed on a day Give me the eyes, give me the soul All that was good, all that was fair,
Over the sea to Skye. Give me the land that's gone! All that was me is gone.
—Robert Louis Stevenson (1850-1890)
A deep sadness is revealed, shared by all of us. The innocence and trust of childhood is lost forever so wistfully. But our God does not let us return to the past. He comes upon us from before and above, beckoning us into the hope-filled future. Remember, He gives no man, no man, a new past. But He offers every man, every man, a new future. And the future is today!
"Follow me, and I will make you..." Jesus said. And He does, if you ask Him.
—Paul M. Stevens

Splendors Of The Sea Unveiled In Living Coral Reef Exhibit

By Thomas Harney

It is shortly before dusk on the coral reef. Spiny black sea urchins, awkward crabs and wide-eyed red fish creep from their shelter in the stony, coral rubble. Slowly, gracefully, the undulating tentacles on the living coral polyps emerge from their skeletal cups.

Gone from the reef are the brilliantly colored parrotfish, having discreetly disappeared into the now-vacant coral holes. They will spend the night there, encased in a diaphanous veil of their own secretion. Gone too are the feisty damselfish and a throng of other elegant reef fish. On the surface of the reef, groups of black and white striped grunts stream across into the adjacent lagoon.

This rare scene, normally viewed by only a relative handful of scientists who have braved the ocean's blue abyss to study coral reefs, will soon be seen by thousands of people daily when the world's first living coral reef exhibit opens to the public on Oct. 15 at the Smithsonian's National Museum of Natural History in Washington, D.C.

More than 3 tons of coral rubble and at least 200 species of plants and animals were transported from the Caribbean to construct the reef, which is kept alive in a 3,000-gallon system by a battery of high intensity lights and a machine that generates waves.

The reef is no ordinary marine aquarium, but a revolutionary development, realized after years of laboratory experimentation and field research on coral reefs by the Smithsonian's Dr. Walter H. Adey.

These investigations and the exhibit itself shed a new perspective on one of the most complex biological systems in nature, an exciting underwater realm which scientists are just beginning to understand. Coral reefs are important ecological systems, not only because they are protectors and builders of land in the tropics, but also because they support an abundance of fish and animals, a major source of food in the tropics.

The key to building the reef was Adey's discovery that it is the fuzzy blue-green, green, brown and red algae that grow on the reef's shallow bottom, in combination with waves and currents that wash over a reef, which produce a mature reef's tremendous biological productivity. The algae he found, are a major factor in determining the chemistry of the reef.

This so-called "algal lawn" captures the sun's radiant energy and nutrient waste and converts them through photosynthesis into cell growth and oxygen. Thus, the algae provide food for many of the reef's fish and other animals and prevent them from polluting the system.

To make the reef system function, Adey modified many standard aquarium management techniques and devised new ways to mirror the environment of a balanced, natural coral reef. The exhibit reef itself is a 6-foot-high, 12-foot-long and 4-foot-wide structure of limestone. On the "Seaward" side, the reef slopes off sharply; the "landward" side has a more gradual slope.

It may look like an ordinary fish tank, but the Smithsonian's new living coral reef exhibit is replete with artificial sunlight, waves and its own lagoon. Dr. Walter H. Adey takes a close look at the half-finished reef exhibit which will open to the public October 15 at the National Museum of Natural History in Washington, D.C. Visitors will be able to view firsthand the flora and fauna of tropical waters. In the last photo, Adey is shown examining a piece of coral in the Caribbean. More than 3 tons of coral rubble and 200 species of plants and animals were transported from the Caribbean to construct the reef. (Photos are from top left, clockwise.)

The reef has a protected "lagoon," a separate 500-gallon tank connected to the main tank by large pipes. Valves are opened at night, permitting fish to swim through the pipes and feed on tiny crustaceans that live in the lagoon's sea grass. In addition, there are a number of small, separate tanks connected to the main tank. These "refugia" provide "areas of diversity," Adey says, which help support the large number of reef flora and fauna.

As a substitute for tropical sunlight, the energy input that makes a reef and its lagoon function, Adey hung a rack of ten 400-watt and four 1,000 watt metal halide lamps over the main tanks.

The lamps turn on in timed sequence, first generating the faint glow of sunrise and then, when all of the lights are on, the bright glare of a tropical midday sun. After a normal cycle of daylight, the lamps go off sequentially, bringing dusk and then sunset.

The shift from day to night provides an opportunity to witness one of nature's small dramas as daytime animals on the reef disappear into hiding places in the rock and the reef is taken over by a different set of animals.

Adey simulated the motion of the waves and currents that wash over a reef, an action that is crucial for the circulation of oxygen and other nutrients, by building an automatic wave generator. Essentially, this consists of two large buckets which reef came about by accident, Adey says, because he wanted to culture live algae for experiments in his laboratory.

"I wanted to grow them under the same conditions as they had in nature," he recalls. "I knew that, in addition to the algae, other organisms are nearly as important as temperature and light, so I tried to collect small blocks of reef with as many reef animals as possible."

"I brought them back and placed them in a small aquarium on my window, and for a long time, I thought the natural sunlight coming through the window would be all I needed. But I soon found out that when we had a sunny week, my animals did well, but when we had a cloudy week, everything died."

"I first experimented with fluorescent, quartz and mercury vapor lamps. Finally, the metal halide lamps gave me what I needed—sufficient light energy to simulate the sun in a small area and yet a color spectrum close to natural sunlight so that the algae could gather the same light energy they use in the wild."

Similarly, simulating the action of the waves was a process of trial and error. "It took me time to discover that the violent wave surge was critical," he says, "because it keeps the sediments off the surfaces of the plants and animals and prevents the formation of a partially 'stagnant' water layer on the surface."

Adey tested his theories in a 350-gallon tank and then in an 1,800-gallon tank. The 3,000-gallon exhibit tank was made possible largely by a grant from the National Science Foundation. A laboratory has been built adjacent to the tank so that Adey and other Museum scientists can continue to study the dynamics of the system.

Many of the fish and the invertebrate animals in the reef exhibit have been more or less successfully exhibited before in aquariums, but until now it was not possible to keep alive corals and so many of their relatives.

"We're hopeful that systems just like this one can be built in museums and aquariums across the country," Adey says. Indeed, he believes that any marine system can be duplicated to provide a way to teach people about the dynamic interactions in ecological systems.

In fact, he and a crew of students currently are at work in the Museum's basement on a cold water system—a model of the rocky Maine coast bottom replete with tides, seasonal temperature changes, kelp, rockweed and, of course, the northern lobster.

Ocean Farms May Result From Coral Reef Research

Imagine thousands of floating platforms scattered across millions of square miles of tropical ocean. On the platforms, algae is cultivated, harvested and taken ashore to be converted into cheap alcohol or methane fuel.

This "Ocean Farm" of the future could be a major spinoff of research on coral reefs carried out by Dr. Walter H. Adey of the Smithsonian's National Museum of Natural History.

Adey has designed an artificial system that is almost as efficient as the typical natural reef system, the most efficient natural capturer of solar energy known.

Through his field work on Caribbean coral reefs, Adey discovered that the key to the reef's rich biological productivity comes from its efficient capture of sunlight combined with the continuous surge, or back-and-forth, water motion over the blue-green, green, brown and red algae that grow like a "lawn" on the shallow undersea reef surface.

The motion of the water provides the "algal lawn" with a constant source of new water containing the basic requirements of all plants. Some of the algae involved, the blue-green, are able to use the energy of sunlight to "fix," or take up, nitrogen for cell growth. These plants are able to capture the normally unavailable gaseous nitrogen of the atmosphere to make their proteins.

Because the reef algae are exposed to the constant grazing of fish and other undersea animals, they have evolved special adaptations for rapid regrowth and can be continuously harvested without harmful effects.

While experimenting with the pilot model of an artificial coral reef for a new Smithsonian exhibit, Adey designed a "machine" to simulate the natural environment of this algal lawn. The ability of the device to produce massive, harvestable quantities of the algae became apparent immediately.

Adey's Museum Marine Systems Laboratory now has a patent pending on this machine.

"It is time to take our discovery back to the open ocean," Adey said. "The principle of the device can be easily applied to open ocean harvest. If practical, large-scale harvesting devices can be designed. It can be applied to millions of miles of now unused and unproductive open ocean without any polluting effects. Most critical, in our age of energy concerns, is that energy-consuming fertilization and cultivation will not be required."

alternately dump water into the tank, creating a current that surges down into the depths of the tank and then upward over the reef's crest. At intervals, both buckets empty simultaneously, simulating the waves of different force and frequency that constantly roll over a natural reef.

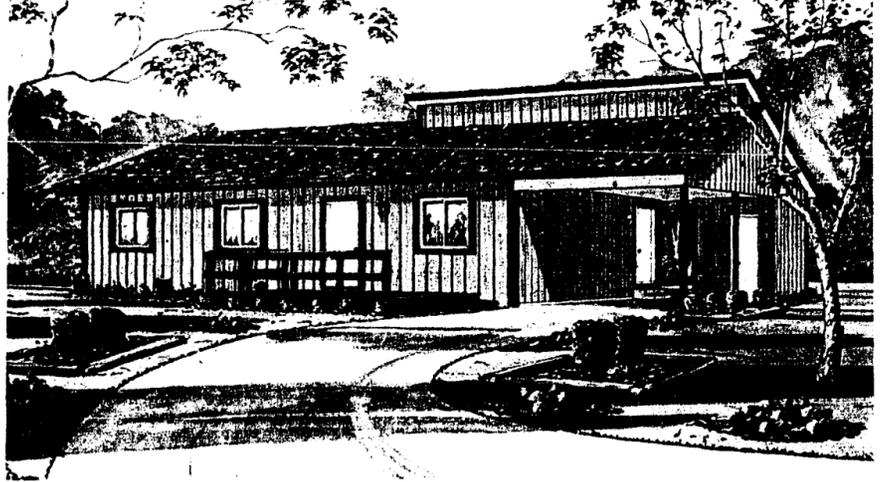

Other features automatically control water level, salinity, oxygen, acidity and nutrient levels to make certain that they correspond as closely as possible to those of a reef in the ocean.

When it is "night on the reef," water from the tank system is pumped to nearby trays containing algae illuminated by high intensity lamps. The algae remove ammonia and carbon dioxide as well as nutrients from the system's water, control the system's acidity and add beneficial oxygen. These "algal scrubbers" are the equivalent of a constant flow of fresh ocean water at night.

The Wirts And Weavers Of Presidential Campaigns

They Also Ran

By David M. Maxfield

John Anderson's independent bid for the White House places him in the company of a long line of presidential contenders dating back to 1832 who campaigned outside the two-party system. Though many of these politicians achieved considerable success over the course of American history few of them very few were successful at the polls.

The name of James B. Weaver hardly springs to mind today, but in the 1892 presidential contest, he campaigned against the gilded grip that many felt Eastern bankers and industrialists then held on the nation's economy. A general in the Union Army during the Civil War, Weaver was a popular figure whose platform and influence during the election sparked wide interest for the first time in an agenda of progressive reforms. And yet, Weaver, a Populist, came in third place with 9 percent of the vote, losing to the Democratic candidate, Grover Cleveland.

More recently, of course, George Wallace captured the attention of the press and voters with his "common man" themes, but he, too, fared no better than third with 14 percent of the 1968 popular vote.

"With rare exceptions, third-party and independent candidates have been irrelevant to the outcome of presidential elections," according to Frederick S. Voss, a historian at the Smithsonian's National Portrait Gallery and a contributor to Every Four Years, a new book about the presidency. "But they still keep on running," Voss says, "some simply as a lark and others in dead earnest."

Perhaps what motivates the also rans are, in fact, those rare exceptions. The Republican party, the party Anderson sidestepped to run on his own this year, is after all "the greatest success story in the history of American third parties," Voss points out.

Founded in 1854 in a rural Wisconsin church by dissatisfied Whigs and Democrats, the Republicans by the election of 1856 had become a major party on the strength of their anti-slavery platform. And just four years later, the Republicans attained the dream of all minor parties—the election of a president, no less than Abraham Lincoln.

In the 1884 election, some historians say, a Prohibitionist candidate was one of the decisive forces in electing the Democratic nominee. This is what happened: In pivotal New York state, John Pierce St. John (the Prohibitionist) tallied 25,016 votes—largely drawn from Republican ranks. In so doing, he took just enough support away from the GOP's controversial nominee, James G. Blaine, to tip the Empire state and ultimately the presidency to Cleveland.

One other rare case: Teddy Roosevelt's 1912 "Bull Moose" campaign against his old political protégé, William Howard Taft, proved a far cry from the usual third-party effort. Roosevelt, who had come to view Taft as a traitor to the Republican progressive spirit, actually outpolled Taft but not the Democratic nominee Woodrow Wilson, who entered the White House with a vote less than the combined tally of the two old political allies, 6.3 million votes to 7.6 million.

Whatever the future holds, the past indicates that the numbers, influence and vote-drawing power of minor party candidates tends to rise and fall with fluctuations in the nation's economy and security. "In times of stress and ferment, minor parties emerge and flourish," Voss says. Weaver's widely supported 1892 crusade against excesses of the Gilded Age, for example, contrasts with the 1928 election, a time of prosperity, when the six minor-party candidates won a combined total of only two percent of the vote.

"The sudden collapse of euphoria after 1929 and the subsequent onset of the national Depression, however, brought a resurgence in the fortunes of minor parties," Voss points out. "In 1932—even while Franklin Roosevelt pushed on to resounding victory—third, fourth and fifth party candidates had once again found an audience."

They have continued strong ever since, and with the complexity of U.S. issues and problems growing each year, Voss predicts that "they will run in ever-greater numbers." In 1980, the Federal Election Commission reports, 32 candidates are registered as presidential contenders under federal law requiring that each raise or spend at least $5,000. Among them are Socialist, Communist, Independent and Libertarian candidates. Besides these hopefuls, there are dozens of other would-be White House occupants who need not register because of the limited scope of their campaigns. (Some candidates actually have no dream of winning; they run to educate the public about their views.) But the story of the also rans is not all trends and statistics. It cuts across some rather colorful characters in American history, including one William Wirt, who in 1832 became the nation's first third party candidate, in the modern sense of the term.

Although not truly interested in seeking elective office, Wirt nevertheless accepted the nomination of the Anti-Masonic Party that year because of his deep-seated antipathy to Andrew Jackson, whom he considered a demagogue and despot. But Wirt never managed to get out and campaign, admitting that he had none of the "captivating arts and manners of professional seekers of popularity." He even tried to withdraw from the race when the National Republicans refused to back him and nominated, instead, Henry Clay, but the Anti-Masons persuaded Wirt to at least stay on the ballot.

With the anti-Jackson vote split between himself and Clay, the first third party candidate was bitterly disappointed over "Old Hickory's" election, and also relieved that his venture into presidential politics was over. "A culprit pardoned at the gallows," he later said, "could not have been more light-hearted."

The first woman to run for the White House—Victoria Woodhull—mounted what must be one of the most bizarre campaigns in U.S. election year history. No proper Victorian lady she, Woodhull outlined her principles to a New York audience in 1871, calling not only for the franchise for women, Voss says, but something considerably more radical. "Yes, I am a free lover," she told her audience, declaring it her "inalienable constitutional right" to love whom she may, when she may and "to change that love every day" if she so pleased.

Compared to Victoria Woodhull, who eventually left the States to marry an English banker, the next woman to seek presidency, Belva Ann Lockwood, seemed prim and retiring. Adept at circumventing academic and professional barriers standing in the way of women in the 19th century, Lockwood, a lawyer, entered that already interesting 1884 campaign against Cleveland, Blaine and St. John. Nominated by the National Equal Rights Party, she viewed her candidacy Seldom successful at the polls, third party presidential candidates often do add a good deal of color and zest to election year campaigns. The 1884 race, for example, of the second woman presidential candidate, lawyer Belva Ann Lockwood, inspired ridicule, as seen in the above engraving. Teddy Roosevelt's 1912 "Bull Moose" campaign was colorful, too, but it also shaped the outcome of that election, won by Woodrow Wilson.

as a means of publicizing the feminist cause. Ignoring Blaine altogether, Lockwood quipped that the real contest was between herself and Cleveland. The results? Cleveland, 4,874,986. Blaine, 4,851,981. Lockwood, 4,149.

Then there was the 20th-century campaigns of Socialist Eugene Debs: he threw his hat in the ring five times. Unlike Wirt's earlier campaign, Debs ran vigorously each election year, although he knew, according to Voss, that he stood little chance of winning. His goal was to educate the public, but if he never did succeed in placing socialism in the mainstream of American politics, Debs certainly added a curious chapter to election lore. Sentenced to prison in 1918 for his anti-war speeches, Debs ran his campaign from the jail cell. "and so," Voss notes, "American voters faced the novel choice of casting their lot with a convict. Amazingly enough, nearly 1 million of them did."

FBI Has Hotline For Reporting Public Corruption

The FBI in North Carolina is announcing a new telephone "hotline" to be used by the public in reporting fraud and public corruption in North Carolina. Bob Pence, special agent in charge of the FBI in North Carolina, announced that the hotline number 704-372-5488 (not toll free) will be manned 24 hours, seven days a week, at the Charlotte Headquarters of the FBI and will allow cooperative citizens to call in information which will help the FBI stop the enormous problem of white collar crime being experienced in our country. Pence stated that hopefully arrangements can be made by FBI Agents to work with the callers but anyone who wishes to call anonymously will have this request honored. Pence said that establishment of the "hotline" is consistent with the Number 1 ranking of white collar crime not only in North Carolina but in the nation as viewed by the FBI.

White collar crime costs taxpayers in excess of forty billion dollars per year nationally and can involve such crimes as payments of bribes to public officials, misuse of funds in Federal programs, bribery, Medicare-Medicaid frauds, embezzlement and bank frauds, and confidence schemes. Mrs. Pence stated that in the last two years the number of public corruption cases investigated by the FBI has dramatically increased from somewhat over 500 to over 1,200. During 1979 FBI efforts resulted in 3,000 convictions of white collar criminals, recovery of 52 million dollars and 795 million dollars in economic loss prevented. Currently more than 700 cases are pending involving bank fraud in which the monetary loss is in excess of $100,000 in each instance. Computer frauds being detected are costing an average of $600,000 loss per instance uncovered.

Pence emphasized that to achieve success in this tremendous undertaking, with detection of the crime itself so difficult, the FBI in North Carolina needs the support and cooperation of every citizen. Although the hotline number will be available at all times, citizens in areas remote from Charlotte might wish to call FBI Offices during business hours Monday through Friday 8:15 a.m. - 5:00 p.m., in their own localities at Asheville, Elizabeth City, Fayetteville, Greensboro, Hickory, New Bern, Raleigh, and Wilmington. Telephone numbers for these offices are listed in your local telephone directory.

Special Film At Green Meadows Sunday Night

"THE MIRACLE GOES ON" a new feature length dramatic film will be shown at Green Meadows Baptist Church on September 14, 1980, at 7:30 p.m.

"THE MIRACLE GOES ON" is the life story of composer John W. Peterson, a resident of Phoenix, Arizona, whose music is played and sung throughout the free world and beyond.

John Peterson himself is a prince among men! "THE MIRACLE GOES ON" tells his story.

Converted while a Kansas farm boy, John, at age 16, read the beautiful, terrible account of the beheading of missionaries, John and Betty Stam, by rebels in China. He then surrendered his life to God for service and duty, weekly, monthly, through the years, John Peterson has been a faithful, consistent, dedicated Christian whose testimony through music touches the lives of millions.

"THE MIRACLE GOES ON", a feature length "dramatic" film, traces the life of John Peterson through those boyhood days in Kansas, military service as a World War II pilot flying the Himalayan Hump into Burma, student days at the Moody Bible Institute and much, much more.

The film comes to an exciting climax with John appearing in Century II Auditorium in Wichita, Kansas, where Ronn Huff leads a 185 voice choir, a 65 piece concert orchestra, Doug Oldham, Dave Boyer, Lillie Knauhs, the Peterson Trio, and TRUTH in a never-to-be-forgotten concert of Peterson music.

"THE MIRACLE GOES ON" is more than a stirring and thrilling tribute to the faithfulness of God who works continuing miracles in a life that is yielded.

You owe it to yourself to see "THE MIRACLE GOES ON"!

Luncheon will be served at 1 p.m.

Other activities during the afternoon will be several types of contests such as Prince and Princess "Green Hills", Loch jump, hammer toss, caber toss and Sheath toss.

Adjournment will be at 3:30 p.m.

All friends and relatives are invited to attend, and bring with them a well filled basket.

Dental Tips

By Gary E. Prillaman DDS

Tooth decay affects more than 95 percent of the American population and is the leading chronic disease in children. The leading cause of cavities in children are sweets. In 1978, Americans spent more than $13 billion on dental care and much of this amount was to repair holes made in the teeth by sweets and plaque. If a child must eat sweets it is better to eat them right after a meal. The more frequent snacks are eaten, the greater the chances of causing decay. Anytime the teeth are exposed to sweets, acid from the plaque bathes the teeth for 20 minutes. This is why frequent snacks can cause serious damage to the teeth. After eating sweets, the teeth should be brushed.

Some foods found to be higher on the list of decay producers are cream filled chocolate cookies, sugar coated breakfast cereal, potato chips, caramels, and chocolate bars. Sticky sweets are much worse than foods which aren't sticky. Watch the food you give to your children. All foods containing sugar are decay causing to some degree, but sugar concentration alone doesn't determine how much. Other ingredients added to foods can influence the decay causing potential.

If you would like to obtain a list of free publications to help you learn more about the care of your teeth, write to the Office of Scientific and Health Reports, NIDR, National Institute of Health, Bethesda, Md. 20205. Names of pamphlets available include "Rx for Sound Teeth", "Good Teeth For You and Your Baby", "Flouride to Protect Your Children's Teeth."

Cedar Creek

A thought for the day.... If Christians are to achieve great things for the Lord, they must be willing to work together with love....

The long hot dry weather has caused the farmers to save their feed early for winter. They may not have as much as they expected but be thankful for what they have. For it could have been worse.

The parents are busy getting their children ready for school. Nine months is a long time. Some of the children are trying to get used to the new school and teachers.

Last Sunday here at Cedar Creek we had a short service at church and went and worshipped with the annual homecoming revival at the Chinquapin Grove Baptist Church. The service was each evening at 7:30. There were a lot of old acquaintances there and every one enjoyed seeing each other.

Mrs. Willie Wiseman and Ms. Bessie Lee Eaton, daughters of Mrs. William Eaton who recently visited their mother and sister Jean and Darren, have returned to New Jersey and New York. We are happy to say congratulations to Mr. Eric Scott who has a job teaching school in Hemingway S.C. and also to Ms. Cathy Tatum who is enrolled in A&T in Greensboro for her degree. We are happy for both of them and most of all Mr. Darryl Eaton who is studying music in school in UNC.

Mr. and Mrs. James Rhyndard of Columbus Ohio are here visiting relatives. Mrs. William Eaton and Darrin called Sunday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Ridgell and enjoyed cake and ice cream for a happy birthday for Uncle Julius.

Rev. E.L. Clark of Winston-Salem, Mrs. Fay Carter, Mrs. Emmer Jean Parks, Mrs. Phalmer Cain all of Four Corners and Mrs. William Eaton of Cedar Creek all attended a beautiful appreciation service held for Mrs. Elvie Redmon, past president, sponsored by the Yadkin and Davis W.H.A.F.M. Auxiliary which was held at the Mt. Vebo Baptist Church in Harmony, N.C. Saturday evening August 30th. The Rev. Ardel Roseboro was host pastor.

Mrs. Irlene Sisel was program committee and mistress of ceremonies. It was a beautiful service. Mrs. Lucy Tatum and children and grandchildren enjoyed a cookout at the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Brown III in the Fork Community Sunday evening.

Remember the sick and shut-ins everywhere. Happy school days to all the teachers and students.

Cooleemee Sr. Citizens Meet

The Cooleemee Senior Citizens held their regular meeting Monday, September 8, in the fellowship hall of the First Baptist Church with 45 persons attending.

Jim Wilson presented the slate of officers for the new year, which will be installed at the next meeting. The newly elected officers are: Granville Spry, president; Bessie Nalle, vice president; Ethel Gibson, secretary; Luna Myers, Asst. Secretary; Russell Ridenhour, treasurer; Thelma Gregory, chaplain.

The program, under the direction of Mrs. Margaret Seders, was on "Carpenter Work and House Cleaning." It was most entertaining as the members participated in the humorous skits.

Barn Dance

A Barn Dance will be held at Four Corners, just off hwy. 801, every Saturday, beginning Saturday, September 13, sponsored by Garland Sheets. According to Mr. Sheets, this entertainment will be geared to family.

There will be plenty of country music. Featured entertainers this week will be Roy McMillan and James Butner.

IN THE GENERAL COURT OF JUSTICE BEFORE THE CLERK NORTH CAROLINA DAVIE COUNTY
IN THE MATTER OF THE FORECLOSURE OF A DEED OF TRUST EXECUTED BY LOREN L. PERRY DATED JULY 5, 1978, RECORDED IN BOOK 105, PAGE 648, IN THE OFFICE OF THE REGISTER OF DEEDS OF DAVIE COUNTY, NORTH CAROLINA, BY E. EDWARD VOGLER, JR., TRUSTEE
NOTICE OF HEARING ON FORECLOSURE
TO: LOREN L. PERRY
YOU, THE MORTGAGOR, ARE HEREBY NOTIFIED THAT GILBERT LEE BOGER AND WIFE, MAXINE S. BOGER, of Mocksville, Davie County, North Carolina has directed the Trustee to, and the Trustee does hereby commence foreclosure on the note and deed of trust which were executed by the mortgagor under date of July 5, 1978, in the original principal amount of ELEVEN THOUSAND AND NO-100 ($11,000.00) DOLLARS, and the real property being foreclosed is known as 2.05 acres, more or less, located in Farmington Township, Davie County, North Carolina, and is the property more particularly described in the deed of trust recorded in Book 105, page 648, in the Office of the Register of Deeds of Davie County, being the Property described in Schedule A attached hereto and made a part hereof. This note and deed of trust are held by Gilbert Lee Boger and wife, Maxine S. Boger, whose address is Route 3, Mocksville, North Carolina, and the default thereunder is the failure of the mortgagor or present owner to pay monthly installments due on the note, DEMAND for which has been made, and which is hereby made again, and also their failure to pay the obligation on its due date, which was July 5, 1979, DEMAND for which has been made and is hereby made again, and because of such default Gilbert Lee Boger and wife, Maxine S. Boger, have accelerated the maturity of the debt evidenced thereby.
YOU MAY PAY the indebtedness secured by the aforesaid deed of trust, plus all foreclosure costs, in full at any time prior to the time fixed for the foreclosure sale to be held by the undersigned Trustee, or prior to the expiration date of the time for submitting any upset bid after a sale or resale has been held; and if paid on or before September 11, 1980, the following amounts will be accepted in satisfaction:
(1) $8,931.96 plus interest from July 31, 1980 through date of payment at the rate of 9 percent; and
(2) Foreclosure costs of $550.00
ANYTHING LESS than the sum of the foregoing will not be accepted and funds must be either cash or certified, and sent to E. EDWARD VOGLER, JR., Hall and Vogler, Attorneys at Law, P.O. Box 294, Mocksville, North Carolina, or delivered to his office at 134 South Main Street, Mocksville, North Carolina. If not paid by September 11th, 1980, additional interest and foreclosure costs may accrue, the amount of which can be obtained from the undersigned.
The foreclosure sale will be scheduled to be held at the Court House Door, Mocksville, Davie County, North Carolina, on October 17th, 1980, at 12:00 Noon unless the indebtedness together with all foreclosure costs, is paid in full prior to that date. If a postponement of the sale becomes necessary, it will be held on October 24th, 1980, and you will be mailed notice of such later date.
YOU, AND EACH OF YOU, ARE FURTHER NOTIFIED that you may appear before the Clerk of Superior Court of Davie County at 12:00 Noon or as soon thereafter as the matter can be reached, on September 11th, 1980, to show cause, if any you have, as to why this foreclosure should not be allowed to be held. If you do not intend to contest Gilbert Lee Boger and wife, Maxine S. Boger's allegations of default and their right to foreclosure, you do not have to attend this hearing before the Clerk, and your failure to do so will not affect your right to pay the indebtedness in full as hereinabove provided, or to attend and bid of the sale itself.
IF THE FORECLOSURE IS HELD, the purchaser at the sale will be entitled to possession of the property described in the Deed of Trust as of the date of delivery of his deed by the Trustee, and should you remain in possession at that time, you can be evicted from such possession.
YOU SHOULD KEEP the undersigned Trustee notified in writing of your address, so that copies of foreclosure sale and any postponements of sale or resale can be mailed to you.
This the 19 day of August, 1980.

Farmington
The Union United Methodist Church on Lewisville, Rt. 1, celebrated the 200th anniversary of the Sunday School Monument with the 119th anniversary of the Sunday School at Union, with a homecoming on last Sunday Sept. the 7th.
Those attending from Farmington were as follows: Mrs. Karlene Cope, Miss Anita Booe, Mr. Francis Reid Hunter, Mrs. Carrie Tucker and son Gilbert Tucker. Mrs. Cope's three sisters, Mrs. Frances Harris, Mrs. Betty Baity, and Mrs. Nancy Warner were also present. There was a large attendance with a number of former pastor's and other visitors present for this occasion.
Mrs. Leon Foster who had surgery a few weeks ago at Forsyth Hospital in Winston-Salem has returned back to her home on Mocksville Rt. 2. I'm sure all Mrs. Foster's neighbors and friends are happy to have her home again.
Miss Phyllis Tucker, enrolled at U.N.C. at Greensboro, on Aug. the 20th, Phyllis is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.W. Tucker of Mocksville, Rt. 5.
Mrs. Thurman Martin of Walkertown, visited Mrs. Carrie Tucker, and the J.W. Tuckers on last week-end.
Mrs. Hattie Wood was the guest last weekend of Mr. and Mrs. David Hester near Kernersville, N.C.
We were very sorry to hear of the passing of Mr. Almon Hawkins, husband of Mrs. Nell James Johnson Hawkins. He passed away in Winston-Salem on August the 29th. He was laid to rest in the Farmington Community Cemetery on Sunday August the 31st.
Everyone is invited to attend "Farmington Music at Sunset" on Sept. the 21st at the Farmington Methodist Church on the front lawn. The singing will begin at 6 p.m. Also a fellowship dinner will be served at 5 p.m. previous to the singing.

TO: LOREN L. PERRY
YOU, THE MORTGAGOR, ARE HEREBY NOTIFIED THAT GILBERT LEE BOGER AND WIFE, MAXINE S. BOGER, of Mocksville, Davie County, North Carolina has directed the Trustee to, and the Trustee does hereby commence foreclosure on the note and deed of trust which were executed by the mortgagor under date of July 5, 1978, in the original principal amount of ELEVEN THOUSAND AND NO-100 ($11,000.00) DOLLARS, and the real property being foreclosed is known as 4.116 acres, more or less, located in Farmington Township, Davie County, North Carolina, and is the property more particularly described in the deed of trust recorded in Book 105, page 648, in the Office of the Register of Deeds of Davie County, being the Property described in Schedule A attached hereto and made a part hereof. This note and deed of trust are held by Gilbert Lee Boger and wife, Maxine S. Boger, whose address is Route 3, Mocksville, North Carolina, and the default thereunder is the failure of the mortgagor or present owner to pay monthly installments due on the note, DEMAND for which has been made, and which is hereby made again, and also their failure to pay the obligation on its due date, which was July 5, 1979, DEMAND for which has been made and is hereby made again, and because of such default Gilbert Lee Boger and wife, Maxine S. Boger, have accelerated the maturity of the debt evidenced thereby.
YOU MAY PAY the indebtedness secured by the aforesaid deed of trust, plus all foreclosure costs, in full at any time prior to the time fixed for the foreclosure sale to be held by the undersigned Trustee, or prior to the expiration date of the time for submitting any upset bid after a sale or resale has been held; and if paid on or before September 11, 1980, the following amounts will be accepted in satisfaction:
(1) $8,931.96 plus interest from July 31, 1980 through date of payment at the rate of 9 percent; and
(2) Foreclosure costs of $550.00
ANYTHING LESS than the sum of the foregoing will not be accepted and funds must be either cash or certified, and sent to E. EDWARD VOGLER, JR., Hall and Vogler, Attorneys at Law, P.O. Box 294, Mocksville, North Carolina, or delivered to his office at 134 South Main Street, Mocksville, North Carolina. If not paid by September 11th, 1980, additional interest and foreclosure costs may accrue, the amount of which can be obtained from the undersigned.
The foreclosure sale will be scheduled to be held at the Court House Door, Mocksville, Davie County, North Carolina, on October 17th, 1980, at 12:00 Noon unless the indebtedness together with all foreclosure costs, is paid in full prior to that date. If a postponement of the sale becomes necessary, it will be held on October 24th, 1980, and you will be mailed notice of such later date.
YOU, AND EACH OF YOU, ARE FURTHER NOTIFIED that you may appear before the Clerk of Superior Court of Davie County at 12:00 Noon or as soon thereafter as the matter can be reached, on September 11th, 1980, to show cause, if any you have, as to why this foreclosure should not be allowed to be held. If you do not intend to contest Gilbert Lee Boger and wife, Maxine S. Boger's allegations of default and their right to foreclosure, you do not have to attend this hearing before the Clerk, and your failure to do so will not affect your right to pay the indebtedness in full as hereinabove provided, or to attend and bid of the sale itself.
IF THE FORECLOSURE IS HELD, the purchaser at the sale will be entitled to possession of the property described in the Deed of Trust as of the date of delivery of his deed by the Trustee, and should you remain in possession at that time, you can be evicted from such possession.
YOU SHOULD KEEP the undersigned Trustee notified in writing of your address, so that copies of foreclosure sale and any postponements of sale or resale can be mailed to you.
This the 19 day of August, 1980.
E. Edward Vogler, Jr., Trustee

CARD OF THANKS

MEMORIAL TO OUR FRIEND
Mrs. Eugenia R. Crawford
Mrs. Eugenia Rollins Crawford was born February 18, 1903 in Cleveland County. She attended schools in Mooresboro, Shelby, Mars Hill and Wake Forest. In 1930 she was married to the Rev. C.E. Crawford. As a pastor's wife she lived and taught in several counties, which were Halifax, Franklin, Anson, and Union. She began teaching in Davie County in 1954 where she remained until her retirement in 1966. Mrs. Crawford was the devoted mother of three children: Lynda, Charles and John. She was a dedicated member of the Clemmons Baptist Church, an active member of the Clemmons Senior Citizens Club and a charter member of the East Davie Senior Citizens. She served as president of the Advance Homemakers Club. She was a loyal member of the Order of the Eastern Star and a charter member of the Davie County Retired School Personnel. Mrs. Crawford will be remembered for her friendliness, her entertaining speeches, her handwork, and her love for life with its new experiences.

John Garwood Is Honored

John F. Garwood, CLU has just been awarded a Service Pin by the Jefferson Standard Life Insurance Company for his 25 years of service to policyholders and clients in Mocksville and Davie County.

He has represented Jefferson Standard in this area since August 19, 1955. A special presentation was held for him in the Winston-Salem Regional Office of Jefferson Standard at 2000 Cloverdale Avenue where his Service Pin was presented by Regional Agency Manager John D. Hiatt, CLU.

Mr. Garwood has the responsibility of serving the hundreds of policyholders and clients of the Company throughout Mocksville and Davie County.

Manager Hiatt in making the presentation stated, "Mr. Garwood has not only achieved an outstanding sales record during the past 25 years, but has assisted the Company in developing the Davie County area in the sale and service of life insurance. On behalf of the officers and management staff of the Jefferson Standard, we present you with this 25-year Service Pin, and thank you for your continuing interest in offering the best possible service to the insurance buying public."

Sixth Annual Arts Alive Festival Is Saturday

The Davie County Arts Council is putting finishing touches on the sixth annual Arts Alive festival this Saturday.

The day will begin at 8:00 a.m. with a one-mile fun run on the square. The race, along with a 10,000 meter run beginning at 8:30 a.m., is sponsored by the Mocksville Jaycees, Jaycettes and First Federal Savings and Loan.

While the Fun Run and 10,000 meter race are underway, exhibitors from across the state will be setting up their wares on the sidewalks. Arts Council president, Danny Lawrence said that this year's exhibits will far outnumber those in previous years. Over 100 craftsmen have signed up to attend the festival with others expected to attend. Exhibits will open at 9:45 a.m.

Live entertainment will begin on stage in the center of Mocksville's square at 10:00 a.m. and continue until 11:00 p.m. Dave Plyler of WXII Television is Winston-Salem will serve as master of ceremonies from 3:00 p.m. to 6:00 p.m. Jack Armstrong of WTOB Radio in Winston-Salem will host events from 9:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m.

Performing groups include Shuffle, a rock band from Lexington; Magic, a local rock band; Turrentine Trio; CC and Company, a jazz dance troupe from Salisbury; the Livingstone College Chorus from Salisbury; and the Davie High Marching Band.

Others performing throughout the day are the Blue Ridge Boys; Sally Spring, a guitarist and singer from Durham; and a local magic act.

The day will culminate with special performances by the Apple Chill Cloggers and Smyle. The Apple Chill Cloggers will perform from 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. followed by a dance on the Square beginning at 9:00 p.m. Smyle, a well-known local rock band, will provide music for the street dance. All performances and the street dance are free for the public's enjoyment.

"Homemade is the theme for this year's concessions. Festival goers will enjoy pizza, hotdogs, hamburgers, cotton candy, and Kentucky Fried Chicken. Abundant supplies of homemade ice cream, ham biscuits and other goodies will quench the appetites of all.

A bigger and better display of art and craft exhibits is a plus for this year's festival. Back again this year are the Senior Citizens Group of Mocksville. Not only will they have many items of interest for sale, but also on going demonstrations. A partial list of exhibits follows: photography, calligraphy, crewl, calico crafts, wooden games and puzzles, ceramics, tole painting, baked goods, paintings, hand-made baskets, dried flower arrangements, jewelry, and many more.

Demonstrations will be on going throughout the day. Portraits by Frances is back again and she will be sketching pastel portraits under one of the old oak trees.

County And Town Told To Work Out Release Problem

A district Court Judge ordered town and county attorneys Monday to try and work out problems concerning prisoner release between the Mocksville Police and county Sheriff's Department.

Judge Lester P. Martin of Mocksville granted a week's continuance in the show-cause order against local sheriff George Smith and Chief Deputy, Robert Coe.

Magistrate Fred Pratt issued the order September 4 after the two men refused to release a prisoner from the Davie County jail to Mocksville Police.

The prisoner, who was arrested the preceding night by Mocksville Police, was placed in the county jail which is under Smith's jurisdiction. Policemen were told the next day that a court order would be necessary before the prisoner would be released for questioning.

Town attorney, Hank Vanhoy and County attorney, John Brock will hopefully develop a written policy before the September 22 court session to eliminate jurisdictional disputes.

Judge Martin said he will dismiss the complaint if a policy of cooperation can be worked out. If not, Martin said he will ask Joseph Branch, chief justice of the N.C. Supreme Court to assign an outside judge to hear the matter in Davie district court.

The two attorneys were told to work with Police Chief Alton Carter and Sheriff George Smith in developing a policy. Attorneys are to report back to him Monday.

Judge Martin also ordered the parties involved to make no comments to the press without first clearing them with him.

Smith has hired William E. Hall of Mocksville as his private attorney. Hall

Forcible Trespass Is Dismissed Against Deputy

The forcible trespass case against a Davie County Sheriff's deputy was dismissed in district court yesterday after the judge ruled "all he was doing was performing his duty."

Deputy James Hunter was charged with forcible trespass in a warrant taken out by William Revels of Route 5, Mocksville. The incident allegedly occurred July 16 and the warrant was issued Aug. 25.

Hearing the testimony of Revels, Judge Lester P. Martin of Mocksville dismissed the case after learning that Hunter was at the Revels' residence to serve three warrants on Revels' daughter, Catherine Gentry. The judge indicated that Hunter's serving the warrants did not constitute trespass.

said the sheriff takes the position that Fred Pratt, the magistrate who signed the show-cause order, did not have the authority to take that action.

Pratt was ordered to issue no more orders concerning this matter unless first cleared with Judge Martin.

The case precipitating the dispute involved the arrest of Judson Mills on a charge of shoplifting, criminal trespassing and felonious possession of Diazepam. The man allegedly had about 300 pills on him.

Chief Carter said Mills was "pretty well intoxicated." He was jailed before he was questioned.

The following day, arresting officer Lt. Gary Edwards and SBI agent called the jail to have the man released for questioning. The jailer radioed the Smith and Coe, who refused to release the man without a court order.

Meanwhile, a bondsman obtained Mills' release on $1,500 bond and the man was not questioned.

Carter said last week no officer other than Edwards had problems with the jail. He said some kind of grudge between the departments, particularly shared by Smith and Edwards, had arisen.

Flu Shots

Although this is still September, it is not too early to be thinking of cold weather and the coming flu season. The best way to combat the fever, chills, headache, cough and muscle ache of influenza is by a yearly flu shot.

Beginning September 22 the nurses will be administering flu vaccine daily at the Health Department. There is a charge of $2.50 for the vaccine.

Because the influenza viruses frequently change their chemical makeup, immunity to this illness cannot be built up. Having the flu or a flu shot last year will not protect you from it this year.

Even though everyone is susceptible to the flu there are greater risks of complications to people over 65 years of age and to people with chronic health problems such as diabetes or heart, lung or kidney disease. These persons are especially urged to get protection by receiving the flu vaccine. Routine vaccination of healthy children and adults is not urged and any parent wanting to get the flu shot for their child at the Health Department must have written consent from their doctor. Pregnant women are also required to have their doctor's consent.

Any interested person and especially those who have diabetes, heart, lung, or kidney disease, or are over 65 years old may come to the Davie County Health Department any day between 8:30 and 4:30 and receive the influenza vaccine.

Funeral services for Phillip Hancock Short, 9 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Short, Jr. of Route 7, Mocksville, will be held at 2:00 p.m. Thursday at Eaton's Funeral Home Chapel. See related story on page 8.

Junior High School Dedication Set For Sunday, October 5th

North At 2 p.m.; South At 4 p.m.

The Davie County Board of Education has made final plans for the Sunday, October 5th dedication programs for both of the new junior high schools. The North Davie Junior High School Dedication Program will start at 2:00 p.m. and South Davie Junior High School Dedication will start at 4:00 p.m.

Dr. A. Craig Phillips, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, will be the main speaker following the introductions of special guests by School Board Chairman Benny Naylor and Superintendent of Schools, James E. Everidge.

Opening the dedication program at North Davie will be Charles J. Wells, Principal, and at the South Davie dedication will be Principal Dr. Kermit G. Buckner. A "Presentation of Keys" will be conducted by Gene Warren of Wilber, Kendrick, Workman and Warren Architects of Charlotte. A chorus composed of students from their respective schools will sing during the program.

Dr. Craig Phillips

Following the dedication programs there will be an "Open House" where people may tour the new schools. Refreshments will be served. Everyone is invited to attend either or both dedication programs.

New Site For Food Stamps

Effective October 1, 1980, Food Stamp cards can only be redeemed at the new Branch Bank located in the Willow Oaks Shopping Center. The bank is located on Highway 601 North, just outside of town.

The hours you may redeem your card have not changed.

If you have any questions, please feel free to call the Food Stamp Office at 634-5826.

Commissioners In Busy Session

County commissioners denied a zoning request Monday night after citizens submitted a signed petition against the action.

Tillman Dull and Bruce Beck, both of Route 6, Mocksville presented a list of 31 signatures opposing rezoning of 5 acres from Residential R-12 to Highway Business. The property in question is owned by Ervin J. Thomas and located 5 miles outside of Mocksville on Highway 601 North.

Thomas made the request due to interest of a Raleigh farm implement company to purchase the property. He commented that the firm expressed interest but would not consider actual purchase unless the property was rezoned to Highway business.

Residents of the area do not oppose the opening of a farm implement company...if they can be assured that's what's going up on the property. They expressed fear that the firm would not buy the property after it was rezoned, leaving it wide open for any other business categorized under highway business.

"We're not opposed to the company," said Tillman Dull, "if we can get 100 percent guarantee that's what will go up there."

"We don't want one of those all night convenience stores on our doorsteps," other residents expressed. We have 31 signatures of residents 100 percent against rezoning of the property."

Jesse Boyce, county zoning officer told commissioners that the planning board of adjustments had approved Thomas' request July 31. He also told them that when 20 percent of the residents in an area oppose rezoning, commissioners must vote 4-1 in favor of the action in order to pass.

The board unanimously voted against rezoning of the property. It will be a year before rezoning of the property can be considered again.

In other business Monday night, County commissioners:

Approved revisions in the Davie County School budget. The changes reflect pay schedule changes which were approved by the state legislature. The portion of money allotted by the county for the school budget has not changed.

Authorized county manager Charles Mashburn to sell three used Sheriff's Department patrol cars.

Appointed several persons to county boards. Included are Ella Gray Smith, Davie County Library Board. She replaced Donald Bingham.

Appointed Dr. Ben L. Richards, Alvin Whitaker and Mike Hendrix to the Davie Hospital Board of Trustees; Bob Rauch to the Tri-County Mental Health Board; reappointed Bill Foster to the Social Service Board; reappointed Glenn Howard and Alvan Cannady to the Aged Advisory Council; reappointed Lawrence Reavis, Julius Sulter and Richard Beck to the Economic Development Board; appointed Bill Foster, John Frank and Kate Reidenbach to the Piedmont Health Systems Agency Board. Commissioners postponed appointments to the Davie County Health Board.

The next scheduled county commissioner meeting is October 6.

Deadline Oct. 6 For Changes On Election Books

All registrations, precinct corrections, address corrections, and name changes must be filed with the Davie County Board of Elections no later than October 6, 1980 in order to be eligible to vote in the November 4, 1980 General Election.

Residents are reminded that North Carolina Election Laws require a person to register and vote in the precinct that they have resided in for thirty (30) days or longer. NOTE: Precinct officials are required to not let anyone vote in their precinct if they have been moved outside its boundaries for thirty (30) days or longer.

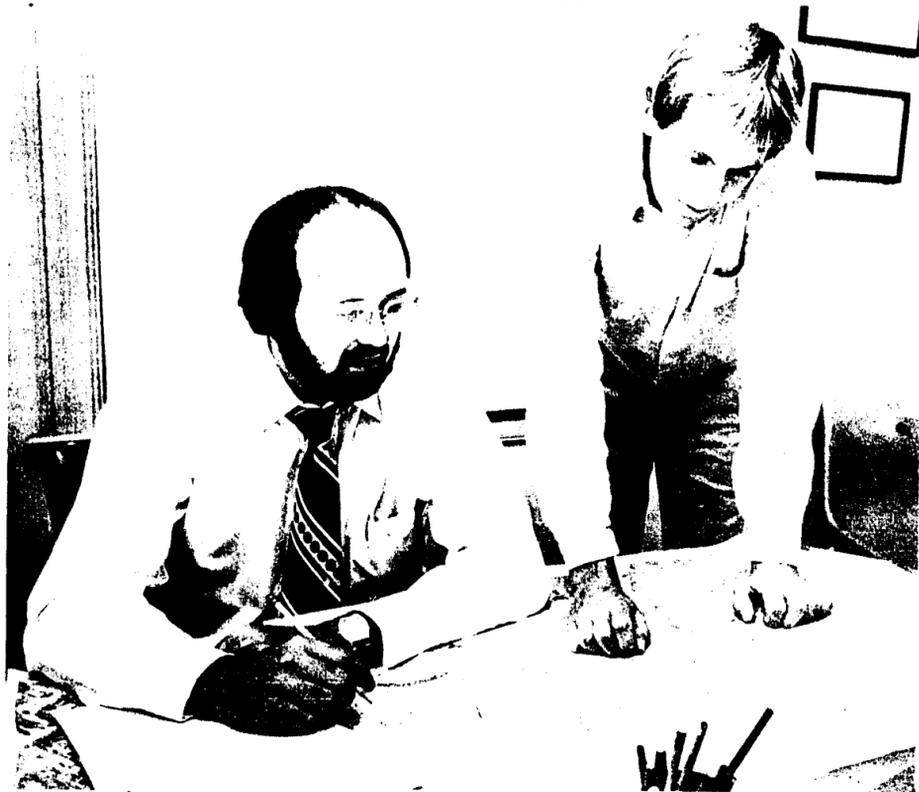

The Davie County Board of Elections Office is located in the Courthouse, Mocksville, N.C. and open Monday, Wednesday, and Friday of each week between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. The elections office will be open Saturday, September 27, 9:00 a.m. through 3:00 p.m. to accommodate residents who are unable to come to the office during regular hours. Also registrations, or corrections may be filed with any precinct Registrar or Judge by appointment.

For additional information you may call the Board of Elections Office at 634-2027 during office hours.

Appalachian Intern Is At Work With The Mocksville Town Government

With renumbering the streets and annexations, the Mocksville town administrator has his hands full. Fortunately, Terry Bralley has gotten a new right hand in Dave Collins, a student intern from Appalachian State University.

Collins, a senior majoring in political science, will be a part of Mocksville's government for the next six months. In February, he graduates with a bachelor's degree with a concentration in city and county government. The internship is an apprenticeship, practical experience which Collins hopes to trade in on a career in government management.

"This internship program really helps you out," Collins said. "Local government management is getting to be a crowded field. The internship is training on the job. At school, it's all out of the books, you just learn and learn. When you get here, you apply the learning."

"Here our books are the state laws of North Carolina," added Bralley. "You are dealing with the law of the land."

The student internship program at Appalachian is one of the most active and largest in the state. Bralley estimated 16 to 18 active managers in the state are products of the program directed by Dr. Matt Williamson.

Bralley became familiar with Williamson and his interns three years ago while working in Kernersville. When Bralley assumed the position in Mocksville, Williamson offered him an intern.

Now Bralley has his new right hand. "He is going to be a big help to me," said Bralley. "Dave has really helped me out on the street renumbering. Now we are in the process of making a checklist. The plan is 90 percent complete, I would say."

Besides working with Bralley, Collins will be lending a helping hand to Mike Garner, director of the Mocksville Recreation Department when the fall programs begin.

And to earn his 12 hours of credit towards graduation, Collins still has some homework to do. He must keep a daily log and make bi-monthly reports to his advisors at Appalachian. To cap his training, he must develop a paper on a specific aspect of a project he has worked on.

Collins hopes this internship provides the necessary break into an increasingly crowded field.

"I would like to get a job in city government," he said. "It fascinates me and it is a challenge."

According to Collins and his mentor Bralley, there has been a growing awareness in the last seven years of the career opportunities for administrators as more towns shift towards manager-council forms of government.

"With the continuing growth in North Carolina, more persons are needed as full time managers, persons to oversee the day to day operations of the towns," said Bralley.

With the success of the Appalachian program, its concentration on North Carolina laws, and the help of Bralley, Collins hopes to become one of those persons managing a government somewhere in the state.

A native of Winston-Salem, Collins graduated from North Forsyth High School. After one year at Lees-McRae College, he decided on Appalachian. Collins is currently living in Winston-Salem.

He is impressed with the site of his new responsibilities. "I like the town," said Collins. "I am impressed by Mocksville, by the industrial growth here. With the annexations, Mocksville is really growing. You have Terry to thank for that."

"Just driving through, you might not get a real idea of what is happening in Mocksville. All the people I have met here have treated me very well. I look forward to working here."

Town May Get Second Taxi Cab Company Soon

Mocksville will get a second taxi cab company provided that the owner can meet certain stipulations in a new town ordinance.

Mocksville commissioners granted a franchise to Atlas Stevenson of Craftwood Development September 9. Stevenson, however, must meet insurance regulations, notify commissioners of drivers employed, and find a suitable cab site before becoming operational. Stevenson must be in operation within 60 days of fulfilling these obligations.

The taxi cab ordinance, a first for Mocksville was adopted by commissioners September 9. The ordinance is modeled after a Salisbury taxi cab ordinance.

Stevenson plans to operate 3 cabs in the Davie County area. His franchise becomes the second for the town. The first was granted to the late Bill Gaitner in 1954.

The seven page ordinance lists stringent rules for cab companies operating within corporate limits.

It stipulates that "no person shall engage in the business of operating a taxicab within the Town unless he first files with the Town Clerk proof of financial responsibility."

The ordinance states that each vehicle in use must obtain a total of $85,000 in insurance to cover bodily injury or death of passengers and destruction of property resulting from accidents.

All persons driving a taxi cab must obtain a chauffeur's license. Also, employees must have no history of reckless driving or driving under the influence.

Both Stevenson's company and the existing one will offer identical rates which are controlled by the town board. Stevenson will use meters in his operation, but charges per mile, etc. will be the same as those charged by Bill's Cab.

Rates are $1.50 city limit to city limit; 75 cents per mile outside city limits; 50 cents per stop; $7.20 per hour waiting time.

Local taxi franchise must apply each December for a renewal license. Commissioners will review criteria listed in the new ordinance before issuing a license for further operation.

Stevenson made his request for a taxi cab franchise at the August 5 town board meeting.

Commissioners agreed that the town's recent growth could mean a need for a second franchise.

"Competition is always good for any type of business," said commissioner Bob Hall. "Also, Mocksville has a newly annexed area to serve."

Stevenson said that his company would operate daily with emergency service available from 9:00 p.m. through 6:00 a.m. He made a franchise application last year, but was rejected because he lived outside corporate limits.

move away from just being a protector...and get into the area of positive things, really take the negative and positive approach to this whole thing."

The group, about a dozen of them members of the Citizens Advisory Committee, expressed the need to respond to the Level B study.

"It does behoove us to look at it and not just put it up," Matthews said. "We sort of owe it to ourselves and to others to look at it.... Let's don't wait until the day the study's completed. We can lay the groundwork to look at that study in a calm deliberate manner."

Nash said some in the basin suspect the Level B study is a bureaucratic attempt to wrest control of the river and permit interbasin transfer. "I asked one of the staff this week just what is it you're trying to establish and I was not able to get a clear answer," Nash said. Matthews offered the services of the Northwest COG staff in writing by-laws and doing research and mailings for the Yadkin committee.

A motion by Wayne Mabry of Alcoa in Baden, which operates the dam forming High Rock Lake, gave Nash the authority to name delegates to the committee.

The representative said he would keep the committee small, but with adequate representation. Nash stressed that elected officials will be involved in the committee.

New Director Of Davie Emergency Medical Services Assumes Duties

Robert Miles Moser, new director of the Davie Emergency Medical Service, assumed duties Monday, September 8. He replaces Luther Ashely who resigned from the post due to personal reasons. Ashely remains on the force as assistant emergency medical director. John Frye has also been named assistant director.

Moser, who previously served as emergency medical service director in Greenville, South Carolina, said that there will be "quite a few small changes" made in the local department.

He commented that he is "very impressed with the ambulance personnel. I have watched them on several calls," said Moser, "and have been very impressed with their knowledge and ability."

Moser said that he hasn't been on the new job long enough to comment on any major departmental changes. He said that emphasis will be placed on continuing education for emergency medical technicians so that patient care and rescue will continue to improve.

Moser added that he will work not only as an administrative figure but will assist his men in field operations. "I will be one of them, said Moser. "I'm not afraid of getting my hands dirty. Our ultimate goal is to see that patients get the best possible treatment."

One of his first goals is to secure identical uniforms for ambulance personnel. "I want us to look and act like professionals," he said.

Moser, 51, is a veteran emergency medical service director. Prior to his work in Greenville, South Carolina he spent three years as director of the Davidson County Ambulance service. He also worked as supervisor of emergency transportation in Guilford County. He was later promoted to assistant director.

He completed 100 hours of study in 1977 in Intravenous Fluids and is certified as an I.V. technician. Moser has completed extensive study in cardiopulmonary resuscitation. He has participated in numerous short courses in supervision at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill, N.C. State University and Ohio State University.

Reflecting on the employment, Charles Mashburn, county manager said, "we felt that someone with prior directory experience was needed at this time. Moser certainly meets all these specifications."

County commissioners have been looking for someone to fill the slot since June 30. A total of 15 applicants were screened. Commissioners announced employment during the August 18 board meeting. Moser's duties will include scheduling personnel, maintaining equipment, preparing an annual budget plus general supervision of ambulance employees. At present, Davie County has seven technicians on the emergency medical service. Six are certified as EMS-IV technicians.

New Sign

Lt. Gary Edwards (right, center) and Garden Valley residents look over the newly erected Neighborhood Watch sign. Garden Valley is the first subdivision in Mocksville to form a Neighborhood Watch program. Block chairmen include (l to r) Charlie Barker, Bill Dwiggins, Ken Sales, Otis Hendricks (president) and Harry "Dud" Stroud. Neighborhood Crime Watch is identical to the Community Watch program in that area residents join together to deter crime.

Sheriff's Department

Dorman Earl Brown of Rt. 5, Mocksville reported a burglarly at his residence, discovered Sunday, Sept. 7. His house had been last secured on Friday, August 29. The intruder entered through the basement of the house. Stolen from the bedroom closet was a metal box containing $20,000 in certified bonds from First Federal Savings and Loan, and notes and deeds of more than $21,400.

William Stroud, of Lanier Rd., reported property damage to his mailbox on Sept. 2. Mailboxes of L.M. Stroud, Isaac Studvent and Freddie Lanier were also damaged.

Gary Potts of Potts Texaco at the intersection of I-40 and Hwy. 801 reported a license plate missing from the car of Kenneth Donald Hill, of Bermuda Run, on Thursday, Sept. 4.

Robert Lyerly, of Rt. 1, Mocksville reported a 32 caliber Smith and Wesson revolver, valued at $250 and $200 cash in his wife's pocketbook taken from their bed at their residence during a cookout on Thursday, Sept. 11.

George Morgan, 47, of Rt. 6, Mocksville, was arrested for assault on Friday Sept. 12.

Carson Lewis, Jr., 28, of Rt. 7, Mocksville was arrested Sunday, Sept. 14 on two counts of assault with a deadly weapon and simple assault and battery.

David Carol Renken, 37, of Hwy. 601, was arrested Friday, Sept. 12 for trespassing, three counts of false pretense and felonious possession of marijuana.

Robert Durham, of Junction Rd., reported damage to personal property on Sunday, Sept. 14. A car ran off the right hand side of the road through Durham's yard, striking a 1961 Ford, property of Joe Spillman, and a fence. Damage was estimated at $200 to the car and $500 to the fence.

Mike Webb reported paper racks taken from White's Store and Mom's Restaurant on Sunday, Sept. 14.

Tropical Tree Farm
The world's largest tropical tree farm, along the Amazon's Jari tributary in Brazil, covers a quarter of a million acres. National Geographic magazine reports The fast-growing trees are to be harvested for paper-pulp manufacture.

Fires Reported

The following fires were reported recently in Davie County.

The Smith Grove Fire Department assisted the Clemmons Fire Department on Tuesday, September 9, at an electrical fire at the Bermuda Run clubhouse.

The William R. Davie Department responded to a fire reported at the old Tacket place behind the Anderson residence on Ritchie Rd. on Thursday, September 11.

Jerusalem Fire Departments No. 1 and No. 2 answered a report of a house fire at 20 Center St.

On Saturday, September 13, there was a fire in a trailer owned by Mickey Carter on Davie Academy Rd. The Advance Department responded to a report of a possible trailer fire at Wood Valley on Monday, September 15, but none was found.

Trinity Teacher
Arrested For Littering

A Trinity High School teacher was arrested for littering late Friday night, Sept. 12, following a football game which Trinity lost to Davie High School.

Michael Ray Steed, 28, of Thomasville, was charged with throwing a coke cup to the ground after the school bus on which he was riding was stopped for a traffic violation on Hwy. 64 at the National Guard Armory.

According to the report filed by Deputy Albert Cobb, four subjects got off when Cobb stopped the bus. Cobb asked all but the driver to get back on the bus. The subjects refused. Cobb asked again that all but the driver return to the bus.

According to the report, Steed threw his coke cup to the ground and went to get on the bus. When Cobb asked him to the car, Steed picked up the cup.

Steed was charged with one count of littering, and goes to court in October.

Hospital Auxiliary

To Update Calendar

The Davie County Hospital Auxiliary workers will hold an Update Calendar Meeting Monday, September 22nd at 2 p.m. in the Classroom of the Hospital.

At this meeting will also be a Tupper Ware party with all proceeds going to the Auxiliary to be used in the Hospital.

Each worker is asked to bring at least one friend to the party.

Yadkin River Watchdog And Development Committee To Be Set Up For Basin

A steering committee will soon be named to set up a Yadkin River watchdog and development committee.

The action is the result of a meeting September 10th in Lexington in which leaders from industry and government zeroed in on the Yadkin River and its future. The meeting was set up by state Rep. Robie Nash of Salisbury, a chief Yadkin River partisan.

"We recently experienced a serious threat to this great river," Nash told 27 people who gathered for a steak dinner--they each paid their own $9.50 checks--at Lexington's elegant Dutch Club.

"Many of you here tonight joined us when it was threatened. Because we did cooperate we were able to persuade an important legislative committee to back off from recommending to the General Assembly that the riparian rights doctrine be drastically changed and that a state water management system be established.

"But some think we need to broaden our interest from that of a watchdog and include positive actions such as: recommending and supporting programs to improve water quality and increased water supply."

"Unless everybody in the basin hangs together, we're going to hang separately," said David Springer, Mocksville attorney and longtime river preservationist.

Two factors appear to have spurred the interest in a Yadkin committee.

Early this year, House Speaker Carl Stewart proposed a state water distribution and management system with the authority to transfer water from the Yadkin basin to water-poor areas.

Next, the state and federal governments joined forces to write a complex "Level B" study exploring water needs, capacity, population trends of the region, water quality and flow, flood plain management and industrial development.

However, some among the Yadkin group last week viewed the study as a threat to the river instead of a benefit. They felt their comments at public hearings were not finding their way into the record, even though they are members of the Citizens Advisory Committee (CAC). Nash said he has been sent "three books the size of a Sears and Roebuck catalogue" on the study and admitted he'd never have the time to read them all.

Representatives from at least nine counties in the Yadkin-Pee Dee River Basin attended the meeting.

Joe Matthews, executive director of the Northwest Council of Governments, noted that the Yadkin River partisans have not been formally organized. "Most of its been people who've known each other up and down the river" and have acted against threats.

"But at the same time, we need to

Bill Jordan To Teach Art Classes

Bill Jordan, professional artist, will teach art classes after school for interested young people in grades 1-8. The students will be offered a variety of projects including all kinds of drawing such as pastel crayons, charcoal, pencil, ink, and pastel chalk.

"There will also be three dimensional projects with clay, wood, wire, cardboard, plaster and more," said Jordan. "Also there will be painting using water and oil base paints. Individual instruction will be stressed with an inclination to let the students advance at their own pace."

Classes will meet on Monday afternoons at the Smith Grove Community Center from 3:15 to 4:30 p.m. and on Tuesday afternoons at the Mocksville First Baptist Church from 3:15 to 4:30 p.m. Additional classes may be started when the beginning enrollment exceeds ten students per class.

Jordan announced there would be a parent-student information meetings at the Smith Grove Community Center on Monday, September 29 at 3:15 p.m. and Tuesday, September 30 at the Mocksville First Baptist Church, downstairs. Students will be registered at this time.

"Questions concerning the classes will be answered at this time. This will be strictly an informational session. Art work will begin the next class period," explained Jordan. The instructional fee and the cost of materials will be discussed at the informational meeting.

"Art is definitely important in the early informative years. Accent placed on creative projects often arouse a natural creative instinct which can spur the child to look at other subjects with a fresh approach. We hope that you will take advantage of this opportunity for your children," said Jordan.

For further information Jordan may be reached by telephone at 998-2558. These art classes are sponsored by the Davie County Community School Program.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to publicly express my thanks and support to the Emergency Medical Service of Davie County. I'm sure a large majority of the citizens of this county have never had to call on the services of this team and I sincerely hope you never will. I've known of the existence of EMS but it wasn't until recently that my family and I really needed and called on their services. I'll always be grateful that the team was there to administer professional as well as genuine care in that time of need.

I find it hard to convey in writing how important I feel the EMS is to Davie County. Whether the team answers four or forty calls a day is not important to me. What is important and comforting is knowing that when I dial 634-5913 someone will be ready and capable of answering the call. This team is composed of dedicated and caring people that give so unselfishly of their time. And often this time is "off-duty" time. Because this team takes their job so seriously they often give of their own effort and money to better themselves. This "off-duty" time is spent taking courses and attending seminars that make them more capable and sensitive to their job or offering classes to the public (i.e. First Aid-CPR) in hopes of making people more aware of the importance of life sustaining procedures and working additional shifts or hearing a stress call and answering it just because "they happened to be close by".

The EMS team works twenty-four hours and supposedly is off forty-eight hours. But to many members of the team there is no being "off-duty" because helping people has become so important to them that they make the job a daily twenty-four hour one.

I personally feel the Emergency Medical Service is underfunded and their importance is often underrated. The EMS gives us their support. Please support the Emergency Medical Service in every way possible.

Sincerely,
Teresa Ward

D.A.V. To Have Pancake Supper

A Pancake Supper, sponsored by Disabled American Veterans Chapter 75 and Auxiliary Unit 75, will be Saturday, September 27th, at Davie County High School cafeteria, 5 p.m. until 8 p.m.

The public is invited to enjoy pancakes, sausage, eggs, coffee, juice, etc. The proceeds will go to assist veterans of Davie County, their families, patients at VA Hospital, Salisbury and the local community.

New Attorney Joins Hall & Vogler

James William Buchanan is now associated with Hall and Vogler, Attorneys at Law. He began work here on August 25, and took the oath as attorney on September 9, 1980.

He was born in Charleston, S.C. on March 5, 1945. Shortly thereafter the family moved to Hickory.

He graduated from the Hickory High School in 1963, attended Western Carolina 1963-64; Yale University 1965; Gardner-Webb College 1971-72, receiving a BA in History. He received the J.D. Degree in May of 1980 from Campbell University School of Law.

He is married to the former Emily Paulette Jenkins of Chesnee, S.C. They have one child, William Carter Buchanan, age 5.

The Ceremony

Library News

by David Fergusson
County Librarian

Recently the North Carolina Library Association Statistics Committee passed around a thirty-page compilation of rankings. They have ranked this, they have ranked that, and apparently they've ranked everything else to boot, but the results give our library system respectable marks.

Among county libraries we rank 45th out of 50 by population served, with our estimated 22,300 delightful people. Our overall library expenditure of $87,075 for the year studied, 1978-79, ranked 41st among counties. The size of our book collection, the actual backbone of a good library, was 32,872, putting us 45th again, quite average.

Here is our best showing: 16th among county libraries in number of books per capita. We were 43rd in number of books circulated per year, but were 25th in books circulated per capita. In a final good note, we spent $1.32 per book circulated which was 29th among county libraries. If you find statistics especially enlightening, this report gives an interesting picture of your library relative to others in the state.

SOME NEW BOOKS:

HINTS FROM HELOISE, by Heloise. More household tips which are worth their weight in gold, good for a few chuckles, or both, depending on your point of view. A hint from Maryland: "A bushel basket makes a great basketball hoop. Cut out the bottom and nail the basket up someplace." Sure. And if you tie the bottom of your basketball net together you can fill it with apples! Keeps 'em safe from neighborhood dogs!

CONSPIRACY, by Anthony Summers. The latest book on the Kennedy assassination by an experienced English journalist. New interviews, new evidence, and a startling new conclusion.

GETTING BY ON $100,000 A YEAR (AND OTHER SAD TALES), by Andrew Tobias.

The author of the delightful ONLY INVESTMENT GUIDE YOU'LL EVER NEED has struck again with a witty series of articles on the economy we have to survive every day.

THE CLAN OF THE CAVE BEAR, by Jean M. Avel.

A very popular novel about man in the Neanderthal world. Ayla is the protagonist, and she is saved by a small band of hunters. Eventually she decided she has to find her own people to survive. An appealing look backward.

LOON LAKE, by E. L. Doctorow.

The first novel since RAGTIME FOR THIS AUTHOR. In the Thirties, a young man ends up at Loon Lake, the mysterious estate of a very wealthy American. He encounters a strange mixture of people and their values.

LITTLE GLORIA, HAPPY AT LAST, by Barbara Goldsmith.

A long well-researched, and fascinating account of the strange custody battle for Gloria Vanderbilt, who finally became a noted fashion designer. We have wealth, scandal, European royalty--the makings of a real story.

THE TENTH COMMANDMENT, by Lawrence Sanders.

Another tale of murder and suspense by a seasoned novelist. Joshua Bigg (who is about 5' 3" tall) is an investigator for a New York law firm and suddenly encounters a strange suicide and other delicious goings-on.

BROWN SUGAR, by Donald Bogle. Subtitled "eighty years of America's black female superstars", this book takes us from Josephine Baker to Donna Summer and back again. The pictures are wonderful and the fan will certainly be captivated.

THE FIFTH HORSEMAN, by Larry Collins and Dominique Lapierre.

Currently a runaway bestseller novel about a conspiracy by the ruler of Libya, (where they pay well if you qualify for the job) Col. Muammar al-Qaddafi, to force the United States to establish an autonomous Palestinian state. If they don't do it--a nuclear bomb will make ground chuck out of New York City.

NEW BOOKS

Fiction

THE VERDICT, by Barry Reed.

RAGE OF ANGELS, by Sidney Sheldon

THE SECOND COMING, by Walker Percy

RAGAN'S LAW, by Ray Hogan.

MISTAKEN VIRTUES, by Joanna Trollope.

THE VISITATION, by Elsa Stone.

THE AMERICANS, by John Jakes.

HAWK OF MAY, by Gillian Bradshaw.

THE MAGDALENE WOMAN, by Margaret Rogers.

THE SHADOWED SPRING, by Carola Salisbury.

JACOBY'S FIRST CASE, by J. C. S. Smith.

THE LOVE RUN, by Jay Parini.

WHIP HAND, by Dick Francis.

THE FLOWERS OF THE FIELD, by Sarah Harrison.

THE DRAGON'S VILLAGE, by Yuan-Tsung Cjen.

Non-Fiction

PARKINSON: THE LAW, by C Northcote Parkinson.

CHOICES REALISTIC ALTERNATIVES IN CANCER TREATMENT, by Marion Morra and Eve Potts.

Disabled Veterans To Meet Monday

Disabled American Veterans Chapter 75 and Auxiliary Unit 75 will hold their regular monthly meeting Monday, September 22, 7:30 p.m. at Holy Cross Lutheran Church located on Highway 601 south of Mocksville.

All members, prospective members and other veterans are urged to attend. Plans for future projects and activities will be discussed.

White In Field Training

Carl D. White, son of Mildred E. White of Route 4, Advance, N.C., recently completed a U.S. Air Force ROTC field training encampment at Plattsburgh Air Force Base, N.Y. During the encampment, cadets receive survival and small arms training and aircraft aircrew indoctrination. They also have the opportunity to observe careers in which they might wish to serve as Air Force officers.

The cadet is a student at the Citadel, Charleston, S.C.

People's Choice Art Show

The Davie County Art Guild is sponsoring a "People's Choice Art Show", for residents of Davie County. "So for you artists out there who have never entered a juried art show before, this one will be fun," according to Christy Smith. You are asked to bring 2 paintings at 8 a.m. Saturday to the Arts Alive festival on the square.

According to Christy Smith, "have your friends and relatives vote for you and win a cash prize."

The paintings should not exceed the size of 2 ft. by 3 ft.

WHIPLASH!!!!

Aside from the obvious swelling, stiffness and neck pain, it is not uncommon for whiplash victims to experience nausea, chest pains, headaches, blurred vision, dizziness, difficulty swallowing and a host of other seemingly unrelated discomforts. These phenomena occur when misalignment (subluxation) of the spine is present.

Pain killing drugs can be helpful to relieve the initial discomfort; however, they can also serve to mask undetected misalignment, which can cause additional or future problems. Only a thorough examination, including a chiropractic spinal evaluation, can detect the full extent of the injury.

Chiropractic management, including adjustment of the spine, along with specific therapy and exercise are part of the chiropractic approach to relieving this condition.

Republicans Open Headquarters

Presents Check

Betsy Cochrane, Vice Chairman of the Davie County Republican Party and a candidate for the N.C. House, presents a check to Larry Harris, (right), a candidate for the U.S. Congress on behalf of the Davie County Republican Party as Gilbert Lee Boger, a candidate for the State Senate looks on.

The Davie County Republican Party officially opened their headquarters on September 9, 1980 with an open house and reception. The opening was well attended and at times over crowded by enthusiast voters crowding around the numerous candidates, their wives and children.

Headquarters is located at 138 N. Main Street, formerly occupied by The House of Styles. It will be staffed by volunteers, who will be ready and willing to furnish information regarding the candidates.

"The public is cordially invited to stop by for a cup of coffee and information on any of the candidates," said Edward Vogler, Chairman of the Davie County Republican Executive Committee.

Methodist Youth Begin Sub-District Meeting With Volleyball Tournament

Davie County United Methodist Youth will begin their Sub-District Meetings for 1980-81 with a Volleyball Tournament, Sunday, September 21, at Union Chapel United Methodist Church, from 4:00 to 8:00 p.m.

The Tournament will be 'single elimination' with First and Second Place Trophies to be awarded.

All U.M.Y. are invited to participate. Everyone is to bring a bag lunch with drinks to be provided from the Sub-District Treasury. Rain date is Sunday, September 28.

The Sub-District U.M.Y. sponsors yearly, a child from the Christian Childrens Organization, and has a special event to raise money for the World Hunger Fund.

Officers for 1980-81 are: President, Amy Howard; Vice-President, Bryant Williams; Secretary, Lynn Dail; and Treasurer, Carmen Cottle. Adult Advisors are: Patsy Taylor and Polly Baily; and Pastor Advisors are: Larry Staples, and Tony Jordan.

Matthew Dull celebrated his sixth birthday, Saturday, August 23, with a steak dinner at Slug's Ribs in Myrtle Beach, S.C. Among those present were his parents, Gerry and Lynda Dull, his sister Jennifer, Donnie and Jane Davis, Pat Baker, Mike and Judy Barney, and Uncle Ronnie Dull. After returning home Sunday from Myrtle Beach, Matthew and his mother, who shares the same birthday, were honored with a surprise party at their home given by Mrs. Bonnie Baker and her son, Timmy.

Minor Accident Is Reported On N.C. 801

A minor accident was reported Friday, Sept. 12 on Hwy. 801 when a truck ran off the road to avoid hitting a tractor trailer backing into a driveway.

Clint Tucker, 61, of Rt. 1, Advance, was traveling in the northbound lane when he swerved to avoid the tractor trailer which Marvin Russell Mensver, Jr. of Statesville, was backing into a driveway in the same lane.

Tucker's 1963 Ford truck struck a fence and post, causing $75 damage. Trooper C.R. Collins, the investigating officer, estimated $80 damage to Tucker's vehicle.

No one was injured in the accident, and no charges were filed.

Woman Is Injured

A Mocksville woman was injured in a single vehicle accident Wednesday, Sept. 10, on Fork Bixby Road east of Mocksville.

Willy Conner Beane, 45, of Rt. 3, lost control of her 1974 Ford truck, ran off the right side of the road into a ditch and overturned. Beane was treated for injuries at Davie County Hospital.

Damage to the truck was estimated at $2,000 by the investigating officer, Trooper James M. Newton.

No charges were filed in the case.

4-H News

The Silver Spurs 4-H Horse Club met Thursday, September 11, at 7:00 p.m. at Kathy Willard's house.

Kathy gave us a demonstration on three-gaited, what to expect in the class, attire, what it's judged on, etc. The children were given chances to ride the horse which they all seemed to enjoy.

After the demonstration, old and new business was discussed. The club decided to have a booth at the Art's Alive Festival Saturday, September 20.

Kathy explained to the members how to fill out the new record books.

We had one visitor, Sandy Potts. We were glad to have her with us.

Refreshments were served by Brenda Russell and Linda Willard.

The meeting was adjourned by Kathy Willard.

Anyone wishing to join a 4-H Horse Club, should contact Doug Lee at the County Office Building or Brenda and Jim Russell at 492-5671 or Dallas and Linda Willard at 634-2859 before 5:00 p.m. You are welcome to sit in on a meeting to see if you would like to join.

Our next meeting is September 25, 7:00 p.m. at the 4-H Hut beside B & W Trading Post on Highway 158, East, Mocksville, North Carolina.

Philip Short

A Model Child

By Kathy Tomlinson
We're gonna take Philip to Baptist Hospital so that his kidney might help another little boy to live. I'm fine," she said. "It's all right."

Doris Short spoke these words Tuesday as the body of her 9-year-old son was placed in a nearby ambulance.

She and her husband Frank were unbelievably in control. Only moments before they had been with their son as he was pronounced dead in the Hospital Emergency Room.

Philip was a joy to everyone who knew him. A fifth grader at Mocksville Middle School, he was the pride of his teachers...a model student. He was everything too to his parents. So fulfilling, they didn't feel a need for additional children. For them, Philip was everything to live for!

Tuesday began as a dreary day. Overcast skies made the air crisp and fall-like. It was a work day and a school day. Things must go on.

Philip seemed in an unusually good mood that morning. He got dressed for school, gathered his books, and asked his mother to fix oatmeal for breakfast...a meal he rarely ate.

His father had already left for work. He and his mother sat quietly discussing the usual topics of homework and football. Philip seemed exuberant about his Monday night football practice. "I gave it 100 percent, Mama," he said, "and it felt good."

With the impending routines of a Tuesday, Doris and her son began the day. Her's was to be filled with work. His was to be filled with school.

Only a few seconds after entering the car to take him to school, Philip told his mother that he had forgotten something. He bounced back inside as a typical carefree nine-year-old boy might have done.

However, Philip never came out again. Once inside, he went to a bedroom, just as far away from the car as he could possibly get. He took a 22 caliber pistol, placed it to his temple.

pulled the trigger. He died only moments later, never regaining consciousness.

Philip was an exceptional, almost a model child. His high intelligence level had enabled him to participate in the local gifted and talented children's programs. At nine, he had already proven to peers that he could someday be a person of influence and authority. "Almost like a politician," his mother said.

"Philip was a very creative child," said Anne Martin, his 4th grade school teacher. He excelled in all subjects, especially language arts. She commented that he wrote several plays last year. They were produced and directed with the aid of fellow classmates.

His mind was always busy. His eyes reflected his need to understand how things worked. Philip wanted to see what was beyond the surface.

He was always an achiever. His intelligence allowed him to excel in school work. His personality made him a "hit" with fellow classmates.

In the third grade at Mocksville Elementary, Philip was named a member of the school safety patrol. An honor, as the position was awarded because of his high academic achievements.

Philip prided himself as a performer. He seemed to love writing plays, giving speeches...anything that put him before people. He was the hit of Mocksville Elementary's May Day performances last year when he sang a solo for parents and students. His parents beamed with pride.

Philip participated wholeheartedly in sports...football...baseball, etc. He posed only last Saturday for his team football photo with the Mocksville Rams. His smile showed pride in making the team. When it was time to gather the names for the photo outline, he laughed and said, "Remember, it's Philip with one I." (See page 2-C)

Only Philip and God know why he ended his life Tuesday morning. What

PHILIP HANCOCK SHORT

Philip Hancock Short, 9, died Tuesday at Davie County Hospital of a self-inflicted gun shot wound.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 2:00 p.m. in the Eatons Funeral Home Chapel in Mocksville. Rev. Luther Crady and Rev. Haywood Hyatt will officiate services. Burial will be in the Oak Grove United Methodist Church Cemetery. The family will receive friends from 7-9 p.m. Wednesday at Eatons Funeral Home.

Born October 9, 1970, he is the son of Frank Hancock and Doris McDaniel Short of Route 7, Mocksville.

Survivors include his parents, maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William H. McDaniel of Route 7, Mocksville; and paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Short, Sr. of Route 7, Mocksville.

Philip played the lucky "groom" in last year's Christmas Parade.

He was a member of the School Safety Patrol for his high academic achievements.

Philip always participated in sports. He was on the baseball team at Mocksville Elementary.

Do You Know ?

Energy Guide Labels
Consumers in the market for major home appliances can now compare operating costs of various models. Labels with this information must be affixed to refrigerators, refrigerator-freezers, freezers, clothes washers, dishwashers, water heaters, room air conditioners and furnaces. "The labeling is intended to encourage comparison shopping and to enhance consumer demand for the more efficient products," explains Dr. Justine Rozier, extension family resource management specialist, North Carolina State University.

The labeling of appliances by the manufacturer has been required by federal government regulation since May 19, 1980.

However, due to existing inventories, it may be some time before appliances with these labels will appear in all stores.

The yellow and black labels are uniform in appearance, use the same Energy Guide heading, but differ in the information provided, depending on the type of appliance.

She is the granddaughter of Ernest and Jean Seamon of Rt. 7 and her great grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Bill Seamon of Rt. 1 Her maternal grandparents John and Mary Deover live in Alabaster, Ala.

Philip was beaming with pride last Saturday as he posed for the Mocksville Rams team

Riggan-Chandler Couple Honored

John Chandler of Cooleemee and Miss Regina Riggan of Mocksville were honored with a floating miscellaneous shower on August 19, in the fellowship hall of the First Baptist Church of Cooleemee.

The color scheme was of yellow and green. Candles were used to accent the gift and refreshment tables.

Upon the couple's arrival, Mrs. Debbie Spillman and Mrs. Helen Daywalt presented Miss Riggan with a polder corsage, filled with kitchen utensils. Mr. Chandler received an apron with kitchen utensils attached.

Guests were served refreshments of yellow cake squares, nuts, mints and lime punch.

The couple received many nice and useful gifts.

Miss Regina Riggan of Mocksville, bride-elect of John Chandler of Cooleemee, was honored with a bridal shower Thursday night in the fellowship hall of the Cooleemee First Baptist Church. Hosting the courtesy was the church choir and the entire congregation was invited to attend.

A corsage of yellow daisies, centered with a wedding bell was presented to the honoree upon her arrival.

The refreshment table was covered with a white lace cloth over yellow. A silver candelabra, holding lighted white tapers and a floral arrangement of yellow and white daisies centered the table.

Members of the choir served banana crush punch, cake squares, mints, cheese wafers and nuts. They also presented Miss Riggan with an engraved silver tray and knife and fork in her chosen pattern.

Special guests included the bridal mothers, Mrs. Frank Riggan and Mrs. U.M. Chandler and Mrs. C.S. Riggan, grandmother of the bride-elect.

Miss Riggan is Minister of Music at First Baptist.

The wedding is being planned for October 11th.

The Stock Market

(By Research Department Interstate Securities Corporation. Courtesy of Ben Browder)

With the market seemingly insistent on going up, the tendency of many investors is to simply jump on the band wagon without giving much thought to what they are buying. However, with the strong recent rise in market averages, downside risk has increased. To maximize capital gains with the least amount of risk, selectivity remains a necessity.

A few simple guidelines for selecting common stocks can help you minimize mistakes. The most basic of these, particularly for the long term investor, is to stick with quality. Buy stocks of companies in strong industries which have a future in our economy. The more obvious choices currently could be energy and productivity related, but you should also consider health care, food, utilities, and banks among others.

Select stocks which provide a current yield at least equal to the interest paid on a passbook savings account. It is preferable to pay no more than the average market price-earnings multiple (near 9X today). If a stock sells at a higher than market multiple, consider whether its growth rate is so superior to that of the market that the premium is justified. Despite the market's recent rise, good quality stocks can be found that yield 5-7 percent and sell at multiples of less than 9X.

Look for "strong balance sheets; high current ratios, little long term debt and high cash equivalent. Book values are important, but only in some industries. Basic industry stocks typically sell at less than book value, while financial stocks usually sell above book value.

Look for higher sales, earnings, and dividends in each of the last five years. Cyclical companies would not possess this type of record, but companies like food retailers, for whom demand persists every year, would.

Limit your investment in one company in terms of dollars of exposure. Owning 100 shares of a $10 stock ($1,000) and 100 shares of a $25 stock ($2,500) results in unbalanced holdings. It is better to own 100 shares of a $10 stock and 40 shares of a $25 stock to balance risk exposure.

Once your portfolio is put together, leave it alone. Don't be swayed by every one-quarter point change in the prices of your stocks. This is not to say you should forget about your holdings; every portfolio should be completely reviewed once or twice a year.

You should make money in the stock market by being selective in your purchases and exercising patience. By following these guidelines for purchasing stocks, you can have ownership in strong, growing companies, without paying too much for that ownership.

Banff National Park, the first of Canada's 28 national parks, is also its most popular, according to National Geographic. Seven million people a year visit the park in western Alberta.

School Funds
Over 63 percent (63.3 percent) of the current expense disbursements for the 1978-79 school year was state funded. Of the remainder, 13.1 percent was federally funded and 23.6 percent was funded locally.

Pupil Membership
According to State Superintendent Phillips, 68.1 percent of the total 1980 public school population was White, 29.9 percent Black, 0.2 percent Hispanic, 1.5 percent American Indian and 0.3 percent Asian. The total pupil membership during the 1978-79 school year including kindergarten was 1,207,104, down slightly from the year previous when it was 1,224,495.

was so different? What caused such a final action? None of us have the answers. Perhaps, he didn't either.

Doctors were unable to save Philip's kidney which might have brought life to another. Blood supplies were cut off too long, making his final attempt to help another impossible.

But even so, Philip lives within the hearts of those who knew and loved him.

The memories of his few short years will never die.

The philosopher Steele says it best: "There is nothing which must end, to be valued for its continuance. If hours, days, months, and years pass away, it is no matter what hour, day, month or year we die. The applause of a good actor is due him at whatever scene of the play he makes his exit."

Sheila Bullock

Sheila Bullock Is Named To Who's Who

Sheila Bullock, a senior at Davie High School, has been notified that her biography will be published in the 1979-80 edition of "Who's Who Among High School Students." She is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Charles Bullock of Mocksville.

Sheila has been very active while at Davie. She served as Chief of the Freshmen cheerleaders, has been a member of the Varsity squad for three years and is serving as chief of her senior year. This summer, the National Cheerleading Association chose Sheila as the All-American Cheerleader from a field of over 500 contestants.

Active in Davie County, Sheila served on the decoration committee for the Jr.-Sr. prom and is in the French Club and Pep Club. In the community Sheila has helped with marathons and the Arts Alive activities. She is an active member of the First Baptist Church of Mocksville where her father is minister.

Following graduation, Sheila plans to continue her education at North Carolina State University as a business major.

Listed in "Who's Who" are juniors and seniors who have demonstrated academic achievement and leadership ability. Recommendations are received from over 10,000 youth program sponsors throughout the nation.

Woodson Planetarium To Present 'Voyage To Stars'

The Woodson Planetarium will present "Cosmos: the Voyage to the Stars," at 3:00 p.m. on the following Sundays: September 21, October 12 and 19. This program, a multi media show especially prepared for planetaria, is narrated by Dr. Carl Sagan, the distinguished Cornell University astronomer and Pulitzer Prize-winning author.

The planetarium show, which is being offered free of charge to planetaria around the country for showing to its audiences in conjunction with the forthcoming premiere of COSMOS, Dr. Sagan's thirteen-part Television series which premieres Sunday, September 28, 1980.

"Cosmos: the Voyage to the Stars" is about the human exploratory vision about how we have come, in only a few thousand years, from projecting our hopes and fears up there among the constellations to visiting the planets and setting sail for the stars. We follow the exploration of Mars from childhood dreams in the nineteenth century to the spectacular realities of the Viking mission. We follow the course of the Voyager space ships to the outer Solar System and we retrace the evolution of matter from instellar gas and dust to beings like us, able to ponder the mystery of our own origins. The planetarium show, built around key elements in the COSMOS television series, explores the connection of human beings with that vast and awesome universe in which we live.

Dr. Sagan invites you to join him on a personal journey through space and time.

The show was adapted to the Woodson Planetarium facilities by the Space Science Specialist, Mrs. Ellen Trexler. Any civic or church group can request a special day or night showing by contacting Mrs. Trexler at Supplementary Educational Center located on 1636 Parkview Circle or call 636-3462.

Community School Program Encourages Public Use Of School Facilities Davie

Governor James B. Hunt once said, "Public schools are owned by the community and should be used for a wide range of community activities and services." Such is the case in the Davie Community School Program.

Last year the various schools throughout the county were used after the regular school day and on weekends for a total of 4,283 hours by individuals, recreational and civic groups, youth groups and Davidson County Community College. Recreational activities were the most popular last year with the adults and youth and educational type classes came in second followed by cultural, civic and religious activities. In all there were over 66,000 individual "contacts". A "contact" is counted each time a person participates in a Community School activity.

According to Tom Emly, Community School Coordinator for the Davie County Schools, the most popular recreational activities included little league games and meetings, local organized community groups and small groups of 10 to 15 who used gymnasiums periodically. Emly further stated that most educational classes were offered through the Davidson County Community College.

Many youngsters participated in after-school activities such as art, dance and intramural sports. Dozens of adults enrolled in vocational classes such as Typing, Shorthand, Bookkeeping and Auto Repair, while even more people signed up for Cake Decorating, Macrame, Crocheting and various forms of other arts and crafts.

Emly said that for the most part there are two main reasons why adults participated in the Community School Program: 1. To have fun and enjoy an evening out while at the same time getting a little exercise if they are in a recreational activity or developing new skills to use for their own leisure time; and, 2. to develop new skills or obtain re-training for occupational related activities.

What is new for the Community School Program in 1980-81? All Davidson County Community College classes, regardless of where they are to be held in Davie County, are now coordinated through the Community School Program. County citizens can have more input into the Community School Program development through an Advisory Council whose membership represents each school district, senior citizens, high school students and county agencies. People can learn more about the program by listening to the "Davie County Community School Report" on WDSL Radio every Saturday morning at 10:00 a.m.

Everyone is encouraged to telephone the Davie County Board of Education, 634-5921, if they wish to use a school facility for a group meeting, dinner or for recreational purposes. Anyone desiring information about a particular class or wish to start a class should telephone Davidson County Community College, Davie County Extension, 634-2885.

Girl Scout Crime Prevention Program Is Announced

Crime Control and Public Safety Secretary Burley Mitchell today announced a special Girl Scout Crime Prevention Program aimed at getting young people involved in the fight against crime.

Mitchell said, "We are proud to have our Crime Prevention Division cooperating with the North Carolina Girl Scout Councils in this effort. Governor Hunt believes that in the long run, nothing can have more impact on crime in North Carolina than educating our young people about crime prevention. During the next five years, he has asked that we involve one million youngsters in the fight against crime. This program will help us accomplish that goal. This is one of the new approaches I believe we must take to reduce crime in our state." As many as fifty-thousand Girl Scouts will participate in the program. Each participant will be required to take certain steps in order to qualify for a special crime prevention patch. Some of the steps include: bringing two additional non-Girl Scouts between the ages of seven and twenty-four into the program as North Carolina Crime Fighters, learning the meaning and function of Community Watch, learning how to mark valuables through Operation Identification and learning to do home security surveys.

Interested people should contact their local Girl Scout Troop or Council for more information.

Sterling An item marked sterling must have 925 parts of pure silver to 1,000 parts of the finished metal. Copper is added for strength and hardness.

There Is An Answer

By Norman Vincent Peale and Ruth Stafford Peale

AFRAID OF HER SHADOW

I have no willpower and have always been weak. I believe everything anyone tells me, and I've been hurt so many times. But I always forgive. Why can't others do the same with me? I'm always feeling sorry for myself, and I hate it. My children are all so strong-minded. Me-I'm weak. Imagine, being afraid to answer my oldest son! I am 78 years old and afraid of my shadow. Please don't think me foolish. Help me to try and have faith.

Even though you are 78 years old you need an overhauling mentally. Those weak attitudes and that self-pity have become habitual.

But any mental habit can be broken. Every day a dozen times repeat the following: "By God's grace I am, every day, becoming stronger. I am a normal healthy-minded person." Affirm that, believe it and you can become just that.

We are sending you our booklet, "Try Faith and Watch What Happens", which is free to any reader of this column. Write to us at Box 500, Pawling, N.Y. 12564.

IT DOESN'T MAKE SENSE

When I visited my mother in a nursing home recently she did not know who I was. It was so difficult to walk down the hall, to see those ancient faces, staring blankly in silence, or to listen to the raving voices "Help me! Help Me!" or "I want to go home!" I am burdened by the problems of aging I see around me. It seems so senseless to have a lovely, loving 10-year-old child brutally murdered, as happened in my neighborhood, and to see a helpless soul of 102 who longs for death which does not come. Is there a reasonable, positive answer?

Yes, indeed there is. Just recognize that what you are describing is a fact of life. But it is not the only fact. There are also health and joy and love and compassion and lots of other good things in life.

In our thinking we must strike a balance and acquire a spiritually mature and philosophical understanding of life on earth.

HE WON'T TALK

I have had a good many years of being married-wonderful years bringing up the family, hard times not knowing how to stretch the money far enough, and of course there was sickness. But everything worked out because we had love for each other and our religion. Now we are in our middle 50's, the children are married, our home paid for, so we should enjoy the years we have left. But what does a wife do when she finds out her husband had a lady friend? My husband won't even talk about it-thinks it's not important.

The first thing is to be absolutely sure your husband is involved with another woman. Secondly, you are entitled to have him level with you. Don't get panicky. Sometimes men his age go off the beam but often they recover quickly. You might also ask yourself a straight question as to what he sees in anyone else that you haven't got. Have you grown less affectionate, less romantic, more prosaic?

If there is something you would like to ask Dr. and Mrs. Peale, write to them at Box 500, Pawling, N.Y. 12564.

Naval Recruiter Assigned Here

Navy Petty Officer Second Class Larry Honeycutt, son of Mr. and Mrs. J.M. Honeycutt of 1409 Sherwood Dr., Kannapolis, has been assigned to the recruiting station in Salisbury.

He is assisting Senior Chief Larmar Faircloth with recruiting in Mocksville. They also recruit in the rest of Davie County and others as well.

A native of Kannapolis, Honeycutt was graduated from A.L. Brown High School in Kannapolis where he played football. Following graduation in 1970, he was a computer operator for J.P. Stevens & Co. and for Cannon Mills.

The 27-year-old sailor joined the Navy in March, 1975 and attended boot camp in Orlando, Fla. Afterwards he attended aviation electronics schools in Memphis, Tenn.

Honeycutt has been attached to the USS Kitty Hawk and the USS America, two aircraft carriers. He is coming to Salisbury from tactical electronic warfare squadron 131 in Whidbey Island, Wash.

He is married to the former Roxane Gentle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert T. Gentle of 804 Tucker Ave., Kannapolis. The Honeycutts have a son, Corey, 5, and a daughter, Lori, 9.

"I am glad to be coming back home to recruiting duty. I would like to give others the same opportunity that I've had. I have enjoyed both the education and the travel that the Navy has given me," Honeycutt said.

Dental Tips

By Gary E. Prillaman DDS

Do you have relatives or friends in a rest home or nursing home? Have you thoroughly investigated the home? If they are in a home, make sure that dentures or partials are cleaned daily. Just dropping the dentures in a jar of Efferdent or Polident is not enough. The dentures and partials need to be brushed over a bowl of water, and then soaked in Polident or Efferdent. Make sure the person dissolves the tablet in a bowl of water and not in their mouth as I saw one person do. Once the partials or dentures are removed, the teeth and gums should be brushed and wiped with a damp clean rag. I wonder how many people even remove their dentures or partials for days at a time. This can make the gums sore and irritated.

If the person has all their natural teeth the teeth should be brushed thoroughly. Also, after every meal, the person can put some water in his mouth and forcibly rinse his mouth to get the food out. Many people I see in rest homes and nursing homes have crud in their mouth which hasn't been removed in several months. These people can have hurting teeth and never tell anyone. Also the crud in their mouth can cause the gums and teeth to be sore. If the gums and teeth are sore, the person cannot eat well and this can affect the person's health and well-being. If nurses were trained to remove the crud from peoples mouths, this would go a long way toward helping improve the quality of older peoples lives.

Be certain that nurses and aides clean the teeth, dentures and partials daily. This is not a very pleasant job, but one which is vitally necessary to the health and well-being of our older population. Often these people have so many medical problems and take so many pills that their mouth is overlooked. How can you expect a person to be happy and healthy if their teeth and gums hurt all the time. Many of these people also have dentures which do not fit properly and need adjustment. Just because a person is in a nursing home or rest home doesn't mean that they don't have dental problems. Also, just because the person has full dentures doesn't mean that he will never have dental problems. Sore spots do develop, and the gums to shrink so that the denture does not fit as well as it once did. Make sure the administrator is aware of dental problems your relatives and friends have who are in nursing and rest homes, and be certain that these dental problems are resolved.

Special Clinical Study To Determine

Effectiveness Of Special Drug

A drug which has been used widely in Europe in the treatment of angina pectoris (chest pain associated with heart disease) also holds some promise for the prevention of arterial spasm in the brain.

Neurosurgeons at the Bowman Gray School of Medicine and at four other institutions have launched a clinical study to determine the effectiveness of the drug nimodipine.

The focus of their work is on the prevention and treatment of arterial spasm following hemorrhage from ruptured blood vessels within the skull.

Dr. David L. Kelly, Jr., professor of neurosurgery at Bowman Gray, said that intracranial aneurysms (the ballooning of arteries at weak spots in the vessel wall) affect more than 20,000 each year in the United States. And about 50 percent of these aneurysms rupture, resulting in hemorrhage.

He said that in most cases the aneurysm can be corrected through the use of microsurgical techniques. However, the spasm or contraction of the affected artery, which may occur after the hemorrhage, continues to cause significant mortality and morbidity.

In order to treat or prevent spasm of cerebral arteries most effectively, a drug is needed that will relax the arteries within the brain (or keep them from contracting) without relaxing other arteries in the circulatory system to the degree that seriously low blood pressure would result.

Successful results from nimodipine, used on laboratory animals, indicate this may be the drug neurosurgeons have been searching for. The study with animals showed nimodipine to be more effective than four cerebrovascular dilators presently in clinical use.

The next step is to determine the drug's effectiveness when used with human subjects. Patients, 15-80 years of age, will be given an opportunity to participate in the study.

Participating in the clinical study, in addition to the Bowman Gray School of Medicine, are neurosurgeons at the Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine, University of Minnesota School of Medicine, University of North Carolina School of Medicine and the University of Alberta Faculty of Medicine in Edmonton, Canada.

The Bowman Gray School of Medicine has enrolled 108 first-year medical students. They were selected from 4,418 applicants, a seven percent increase over the number of applicants last year. Representing 19 states, the incoming students received their undergraduate education at 43 colleges and universities.

Sixty-five of the students are from North Carolina. The class includes 32 women and 11 minority students, representing a significant increase over the number of women enrolled in previous classes.

Two entering students have been awarded scholarships from the North Carolina State Board of Governors. They are Larry B. Lundy of Havelock and Lindsey L. White of Elizabeth City. Fifteen percent of the first-year students have accepted National Health Service Corps and-or military scholarships to finance their medical education.

Total medical student enrollment at Bowman Gray is 434. Eighty-six students are enrolled in the biomedical graduate studies program, working toward the M.S. or Ph.D. degree in the biomedical sciences.

A British film crew spent three days last week at the Bowman Gray School of Medicine where they were filming a documentary on atherosclerosis (hardening of the arteries).

James Mitchell, a representative of Holmes and Associates, a private film company in London, said the medical school was selected because "the institution is internationally recognized for its research on atherosclerosis."

The focus of the film is Dr. Thomas B. Clarkson, professor and chairman of the Department of Comparative Medicine and the work done in the Special Center of Research on Atherosclerosis, which he directs. The research is conducted on monkeys.

Included were studies on the effects of diet on the progression and regression of atherosclerosis, the effects of behavioral stress on atherosclerosis, and immunological aspects of artery disease.

Dr. James E. Turner, associate professor of anatomy at the Bowman Gray School of Medicine, recently began a one-year sabbatical as visiting professor at the Max Planck Institute, Department of Neurochemistry, in Munich, Germany.

He will collaborate with Drs. Martin Schwab and Hans Thoenen, a leading research group concerned with the mechanisms of action of nerve growth factor (NGF) in the repair of injuries to the nervous system.

Alcohol Information Report

by William F. Weant

Alcoholism Education Consultant

Employee Assistance Programs for Business and Industry—Occupational Programming Services within the Division of Mental Health aids businesses and industries in implementing and monitoring Employee Assistance Programs.

The EAP provides assistance to employees whose job performance has become unacceptable because of personal or medical problems.

The nature of an employee's problem should not concern the supervisor. If a person's work becomes consistently substandard, the supervisor follows the procedures of the EAP and confronts the employee with his/her performance record. The supervisor suggests the availability of the EAP to the worker as a personal option. If the employee feels his/her work is being affected by personal or medical problems, that person has a choice of seeking confidential help through the EAP.

If the employee refuses the option of assistance, the supervisor continues to monitor and document work performance. The supervisor confronts the employee according to procedures and continually suggests help through the EAP. An employee may eventually face termination if work performance does not improve regardless of whether he accepts assistance.

Everyone benefits from an effective EAP. (1) Troubled employees benefit by retaining their jobs. Companies report that from 60-85 percent of the people identified through Employee Assistance Programs return to and maintain acceptable performance standards. (2) Supervisors benefit by being provided with a set of procedures that take most of the emotion out of the confrontation process. (3) Employees benefit by reducing recruitment and training costs and by reducing absenteeism rates and insurance claims. (4) Community Mental Health Centers, through early intervention, benefit by seeing paying clients on a short term basis.

Employee Assistance Programs provide a positive alternative in dealing with employee problems, especially when compared to the negative methods of the past. Employees find assistance now instead of incurring the added problem of unemployment.

10,000 Meter Road Race

The Davie County First Federal 10,000 meter Road Race will be held in conjunction with the Arts Alive '80 celebration Sept. 20 in downtown Mocksville.

The 10,000 meter run will start at 8:30 a.m. on the square, as will the 1.5 mile fun-run which will start at 8 a.m.

Entry fee for the 10,000 meter race will be $5 before race date and $6 the day of the race. Net proceeds will go to the Davie County Emergency Medical Service.

The race is being sponsored by First Federal Savings and Loan and the Mocksville Jaycees and Jayettes.

Registration blanks are available at Sports World and Mocksville Sporting Goods. For more information call 634-2016 or 634-3218.

T-shirts will be given to all finishers of the 10,000 meter race, and a plaque will be awarded to the first man and the first woman finisher. Trophies will be awarded to winners of each division, while medals will be awarded to the second and third place finishers in each division.

Age groups for men are 18 and under, 19-25, 26-34, 35-44, and 45 and over. Age groups for women will be 25 and under, 26-39 and 40 and over.

from $4 to $25.

New exhibits should add variety to the festival. Newcomers to the craft scene includes exhibits of dough art, photography, jewelry, wood working and others.

There is something for all ages at the 1980 festival. Children will be delighted by a very talented clown who will perform throughout the day. Balloons will be available along with the ever popular cotton candy.

Pony rides will be available again this year. Children will be extended the opportunity for a fun-filled ride.

Souvenirs will be available. Festival goers can remember the event with a balloon, t-shirts, buttons or unique Davie County notecards. The notecards depict a set of 12 Davie County scenes. The souvenir is unique and should prove a treasured item in years to come.

Danny Lawrence, Arts Council president said "This year's festival promises to be the best ever with exhibits and entertainment to appeal to all ages."

Saturday, September 20 is going to be a fantastic day. Be on the square in Mocksville for art, entertainment, food and a fun day to remember.

The Apple Chill Cloggers will delight festival-goers with mountain dances.

Sonar Finds 'Ghost Ship' Sunk In Canadian Arctic

Without warning, she ghosted onto the printout of the icebreaker's side-scan sonar, two of her three masts apparently draped with sails and rigging.

She was the H.M.S. Breadalbane, drowned these 127 years beneath the floating ice of the Canadian Arctic. At last she had been found, waiting on the bottom 300 feet down.

"It was like Christmas morning when you were a little boy," said Dr. Joseph MacInnis, leader of the search for the Breadalbane. "I can tell you that after three years searching suddenly there was a lot of cheering when we finally found her."

MacInnis, head of Undersea Research Ltd., was supported by the National Geographic Society in the search. The Canadian Coast Guard provided the icebreaker Sir John A. Macdonald.

The Breadalbane herself was the sunken souvenir of a search, one of the 19th century's longest, most dramatic and tragic-manhunts. She was crushed in the ice while searching for Sir John Franklin and his 128 shipmates, all starved or frozen to death on their own quest for the elusive Northwest Passage across the top of the New World.

Now the Breadalbane has a new claim to fame: She is the world's northernmost known shipwreck, 600 miles north of the Arctic Circle and about 125 miles from the magnetic North Pole.

The sunken British barque displaced 428 tons, stretched 120 feet stem to stern, and carried 100-foot masts. She was built in Glasgow, Scotland, as steam power began to replace sails on the high seas, and she was just 10 years old when she went down.

That was 10 minutes after 4 on Sunday morning, Aug. 21, 1853. Shifting ice crushed her, the ship's bow proud with a bare-breasted figurehead but otherwise unprotected by any reinforcing.

She was gone in 15 minutes, the Breadalbane's 21 crewmen escaping to the ice and the companion search ship, the steamship Phoenix, which withstood the ice thanks to an iron hull.

Edward H. Hills, second mate of the Phoenix, watched the Breadalbane sink, writing in his log: "She went in deep water with her yards all a-quake and certainly making a very beautiful spectacle though not a very pleasant one, particularly for the poor fellows belonging to her who all lost a great part of their clothes and some the whole."

The Breadalbane was the search expedition's supply ship and, as Hills recalled, "about 160 casks and packages went down in the vessel, the rest having been safely landed and stowed on the level ground at the foot of the cliff of Cape Riley" a short while before. Some 130 tons of coal for the Phoenix had also been carried ashore from the Breadalbane by the sailors.

Fifteen sheep, which could have been aboard according to unclear cargo records, would have been the only victims to lose their lives in the wreck.

"The ship is really a time capsule of this particular part of the last century," MacInnis said. "Everything the crew used to make the ship work, plus all their personal gear are still on board."

The discovery, made Aug. 13, could become a "biological benchmark," he said. "Because of the temperature of the water, either just below or close to freezing, there is a very good chance that all the organic material from the sails to the rigging to the food on board will be in a very excellent state of preservation, providing excellent information about decaying in these extreme conditions."

In the spring, according to his plans, a hole will be cut through the 6-foot-solid ice and a diver in an articulated, armored suit will be lowered to the bottom for more pictures and to retrieve what he can from the wreck and any nearby sea life in the frigid surroundings.

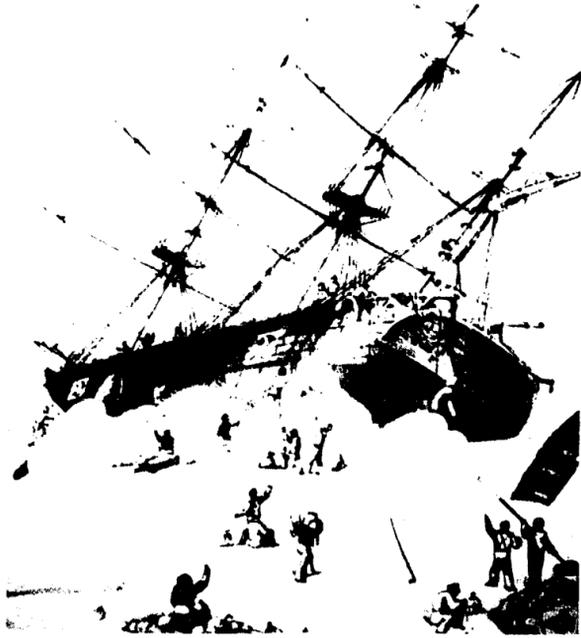

MacInnis, a 43-year-old physician-turned-diver and head of Undersea Research Ltd. of Toronto, also hopes to collect new information on the human performances of divers under the arctic ice.

The divers also will check out huge nearby gouges made across the ocean floor by the bottoms of dragging icebergs. Some of these scourge marks, as geologists call them, measure 50 feet wide and hundreds of yards long. Scientists are uncertain whether they are leftovers from the ice ages, or also are being made by today's icebergs.

How about raising the Breadalbane?

"That's a dream for tomorrow," MacInnis says, pointing out that it would be extremely expensive to try. More immediate objectives are making a detailed photo survey of the wreck and mining her for historical information and artifacts.

Historians doubt that the wreck will reveal any clues to the fate of the

FOUND ON THE BOTTOM, the H.M.S. Breadalbane is reported well-preserved 300 feet down in freezing waters of the Canadian Arctic 127 years after being sunk by crushing ice. All 21 crewmen scrambled for their lives, as a sister ship's officer recorded in this eyewitness sketch. The National Geographic Society helped find the Breadalbane, located 600 feet above the Arctic Circle and east of the Magnetic North Pole — the northernmost shipwreck known.

Franklin expedition. The Breadalbane went down within a mile or two of Beechey Island where later searchers found that Franklin and his men had spent their first winter.

The first bodies were found there—and piles of spoiled canned meat, a large part of their supplies.

Later searchers pieced together more details:

Franklin's two ships, Erebus and Terror, are caught in the ice for three winters and—after being abandoned—are crushed and sunk. Franklin dies. Starving crewmen discover that their protection against scurvy, what was left of 600 gallons of lemon juice, has lost its effect.

Dragging sledges across the ice and frozen shoreline, the survivors of the Franklin expedition meet Eskimos, who give them fresh meat but vanish in the night, apparently frightened by the gaunt survivors. Months later the Eskimos say they find scattered bodies—and evidence of cannibalism. Skulls and bones of the sailors are found from time to time, the last in 1931.

Trouble plagues other searchers, too. At least five other ships were abandoned in the ice, and one expedition, led by Sir Robert McClure, was stranded in the arctic for four years before escaping to safety over the ice to another ship.

It was this linkup of stranded searchers from the East meeting another expedition arriving from the West that accomplished what Franklin and his men had lost their lives trying to do—transit a northwest passage of North America.

Mocksville Women's Club Meets At Bermuda Run Club

Thirty three members of the Mocksville Women's Club exchanged greetings September 10 at the Bermuda Run Country Club where the first meeting for the new club year was held. Lovely fresh colorful roses graced the tables. The hostesses were Mrs. Roy Harris, Mrs. Roy Brown, Mrs. Knox Johnstone, Mrs. James Kelly, Jr. and Mrs. William Hall.

Mrs. Edward Latta, President, presided.

Mrs. Knox Johnstone, Club Chaplain, presented devotional thoughts on the value of true wisdom compared to the soaring value placed on gold. The die hard gold prospectors of 1849 dredged river bottoms and reopened gold fields long abandoned. The activities had not been sparked by new finds, but by the same old metal that was there all the time, and until it's value sky rocketed, the dust and flecks were not worth mining. We would leave no stone unturned to find gold if believed on our property. Yet, large amounts of wisdom can be gained by getting down on our knees in prayer in front of an open book that is sometimes taken for granted. Nothing compares with the spiritual treasure contained in the Bible, not even gold at today's prices. To develop a fear of the Lord, and a hatred of evil is true wisdom and it's value has never been higher. We need a new rush not for gold but for God.

A donation of $25 to Care, $10 to the Girls' and Boys' Homes of N.C., and $375 to the Davie County Hospital to renovate a room were approved.

The club will sponsor the food concession at the Craft Fair, October 24 and 25 at the Armory. Mrs. Jack Shanks, Ways and Means Chairman, announced the menu of pinto beans, cole slaw, corn bread, hot dogs, homemade vegetable soup, peach cobbler, iced tea and coffee.

The student guest was Miss Vickie Daywalt who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David J. Daywalt of Route 1, Mocksville, N.C. She was introduced by Education Chairman, Mrs. William Hall.

Mrs. J. K. Cochrane, Special Programs Coordinator, and also Vice President, presented an informative program on our own club work. The organization is educational, civic, cultural, for the domestic and social betterment of the community for women of all ages, juniors and seniors united for community service. The GFWC is the National level consisting of 50 states. The NCFW is the state level. There are 16 district levels and we are in the district 6 of the N. C. Department. The chain of commands extend to the local club where we have officers and departments. Mrs. Cochrane introduced the President, Mrs. J. E. Latta; the secretary, Mrs. Ray Smith; treasurer, Mrs. William Lovett; and second vice-president, Mrs. Jack Shanks.

There are 6 department chairmen which are Conservation, Mrs. George Shutt; Education, Mrs. William Hall; Fine Arts, Mrs. Wade Groce; Home Arts, Mrs. A. T. Grant, Jr., and International Affairs, chairman to be selected, and Public Affairs, Mrs. George Haire. The functions of the chairman is to inform and serve. In this nation and world wide organization each club woman can take part as an individual and grow.

Vickie Daywalt
Vickie Daywalt Is Guest Of Mocksville Women's Club

Vickie Daywalt was the student guest at the meeting of Mocksville Women's Club last week.

Vickie, a senior at Davie High School, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David J. Daywalt of Route 1, Mocksville.

Some of her school activities include: Spanish Club-1,2; Beta Club-1,2,3,4; Social Studies Club-2,3,4; Health Occupation Students of America-3,4; National Honor Society-3,4; Governor's School-1980.

She works as a nurses' aide at Autumn Care Rest Home on weekends and attends Salem United Methodist Church.

Vickie plans a career in nursing and will attend Lenoir Rhyne College or Duke University.

Davie High FBLA

Holds First Meeting

The Davie High FBLA held their first annual meeting September 15, 1980 from 7:00 to 8:00. Many members were present for the meeting. During the meeting the club discussed the events and activities for the year.

The officers for the 1980-81 year are: President Rhonda Draughon, Vice President Amy Goodin, Secretary Debra Ellis, Reporter Willie Williams, Historian Marisa Miller, Parliamentarian Julian Gaither, and Photographer Matilda Lyons.

The FBLA encourages all students enrolled in a business subject to become a FBLA member.

The District meeting will be October 6, 1980 at Alexander High School. The officers and interested members will attend.

Suzanne Says ...

You can meet friends everywhere but you cannot meet enemies anywhere. You have to make them. Thought for the week....

When we were in Gettysburg, Pa. we toured Eisenhower Historic Site. It had only been opened to the public three days.

The Eisenhowers lived in 37 places in 35 years, but only ever called one place home. The Estate has 485 acres and was opened on Flag Day June 14 as the U.S. National Park service unveiled to the public the Eisenhower National Historic site at Gettysburg, Pa.

It is beautiful farmland and it adjoins the Gettysburg Battlefield. It will be popular due to the unique role that General Eisenhower played in American history. He was "first in war" "first in Peace" and "in the hearts of his countrymen."

He became commander of all allied armies in World War II.

He has a long history of events and I wish I knew them all. From his early life he became captain and then on to supreme commander of allied forces in Europe. A 5-star general, the first commander of the International army of NATO, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, president of Columbia University and President of the United States.

Mamie once said that she would like to unpack their furniture and sleep forever. They were on the go a lot. They lived in Panama and the Philippines. They moved seven times in one year.

After 34 years they moved to Gettysburg where they bought a farm and began to build up the land. They retired January 20 1961, on the day John F. Kennedy was inaugurated as President. They lived as private citizens for the first time in years.

This is where they retired.

The park service is planning a central visitation with the use of shuttle buses that will depart from the park's visitor's center. Free tickets for the 1 1/2 hour tour are distributed daily at the center beginning at 8 a.m. However, visitors pay a modest fee for the use of the shuttle service to the farm itself.

It is a modified Georgian home with 15 rooms preserved and protected for the public to see. We enjoyed the furnishings and the gardens also.

His final calling in life was to be a farmer. "I shall leave the place better than I found it," he promised. That can be said of him in the world he lived in.

He painted in oils and there are oil paintings that he did in the Georgian home.

Recipes from the area.... Here is a recipe for strawberry pie that uses both cooked and uncooked berries, a filling that can't miss in flavor and appearance.

STRAWBERRY PIE
Bake 9-inch pie shell

- 1 qt. hulled berries
- 3 tablespoons corn starch
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- Whipped cream

Crust half of berries with fork or potato masher. Stir in corn starch, sugar, lemon juice and salt. Cook over medium heat until thick and clear. Cut remaining 2 cups berries in half saving 6 whole berries for garnish. Fold the halves into the cooked mixture. Pour into pie shell and chill. Garnish with whipped cream and the whole berries.

DCHS Class Of '65 Sets Reunion

The Davie County High School class of 1965 will hold its reunion on September 27, at Rich Park.

The reunion is scheduled to begin at 4:00 p.m. with a picnic supper following at 5:00 p.m.

Each member is asked to bring a full picnic basket. All class members and their families are invited.

ASCS News

DISASTER PROGRAM

Producers must timely report crop losses due to disaster or other causes beyond their control. Application for disaster credit must be filed before mechanical destruction of the damaged crop or use for other than grain. For other acreage, application should be made while evidence of the crop is apparent but not later than 15 days after the crop is harvested or abandoned.

If the crop will not be harvested and the producer wants to utilize the land for other purposes, an appraisal can be made of this acreage.

Only farms participating in the 1980 program are eligible for these disaster benefits. This disaster provision covers wheat, barley, corn, grain sorghum and cotton.

Low yield payments will be made to producers if a disaster reduces the crop to less than 60 percent of the established farm program yield times the acreage planted for harvest. The payment calculation is 50 percent of the target price for the deficit in production below the 60-percent level.

Low yield rates are: High Level Wheat: $1.82; Barley: $1.28; Corn: $1.18; Grain Sorghum: $1.25; Low Level: Wheat: $1.54; Barley: $1.15; Corn: $1.03; Grain Sorghum: $1.23.

Each farm would stand on its own in determining eligibility and payment. Farmers should contact the ASCS Office before destroying any disaster affected crop.

S. Davie Ruritan Turkey Shoot

MRS. MICHAEL WRAY RATLEDGE

...was Penny Renee Burchette

Burchette-Ratlidge Vows

Penny Renee Burchette of Ronda and Michael Wray Ratledge of Mountain Park exchanged wedding vows in a 7 p.m. ceremony held Friday Sept. 5, at Mt. Calvary Baptist Church, Ronda. The Rev. Jerry Adams, pastor, officiated. A program of wedding music was presented by pianist Mary Gentry and soloist Eddie Moore. The bride is the daughter of Granville and Christine Burchette of Ronda, Rt. 1. She is a graduate of East Wilkes High School and is employed by Carolina Bloomer Wear, Elkin, N.C. The son of Marie Nixon of Mountain Park and Keran Ratledge of Mocksville, Rt. 5, the groom attended Surry Central High School and is employed by Chatham Manufacturing Co. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white Chantilly lace empire gown featuring front and back v-shaped yokes trimmed with lace ruffles and satin ribbon, stand-up neckline, Bishop sleeves accented by bands of matching ribbon, and a four-tiered circular skirt and attached chapel train, both enhanced by a wide lace ruffle and satin ribbon. The bride's fingertip veil of illusion, encircled by Chantilly lace, fell from a lace-covered Juliet cap with seed pearl trim. She carried a cascade bouquet of red and white roses, babies' breath, white lilies, and pink carnations. Lisa Burchette of Ronda, Rt. 1, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She carried a pink rose. Bridesmaids were Doris Smith of Ronda, Rt. 2, the bride's aunt, and Vickie Tarpe and Rusty Blevins, both of Ronda, Rt. 1. They carried long-stemmed red roses. Jennifer Stokes of Hamptonville, Rt. 1, was flower girl. Ringbearer was Kevin Burchette of Ronda, Rt. 1, brother of the bride. Frank Nixon of Mountain Park, served his stepson, as best man. Ushers were Keith Burchette of Ronda, Rt. 1, brother of the bride; Kenneth Swain of Yadkinville, Rt. 1, uncle of the bride; Buzz Norman of Mountain Park. Richard Nixon of Mountain Park, brother of the groom, was junior usher. The wedding was directed by Rickie Swain who also presided at the guest register.

RECEPTION

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at Jerry's Restaurant, Swan Creek. Assisting were Betty Stokes of Hamptonville, Rt. 1, Blenda Carter of East Bend, Rt. 1, and Deborah Sale of Ronda, Rt. 1. After a wedding trip to the mountains, the couple will live on Ronda, Rt. 1. Attending the wedding from Mocksville were Mr. and Mrs. Keran Ratledge, Mrs. Edith Absher, Mrs. Andy Wilkins, Mrs. Loyd Wilkins, Mrs. J.W. Jones, Jr. and Mrs. Genene Egle.

Hi! I'm Amanda Marie Osborne, but you can call me Mandy. I just turned 4 years old, and I must say getting to be an "older lady" is lots of fun! My mommy and daddy (Joanne and Kari Osborne) had an afternoon cookout for me, and my Mom'rie (Marie Jones), Aunt Lela, Uncle John, Cousins Michael and Johnny Butero, and Anna Butero all come to play with me and they gave me wonderful presents, too! Later, at night, we all enjoyed a Winnie-the-Pooh cake, (baked by Carmen Walker) ice cream, cokes, M and M's and potato chips and dip. I had such a good time that I'm already looking forward to next year. I also received nice gifts from mommy and daddy's friends, Blanche Honeycutt, Brenda Roberson, and Jim Honeycutt and the Jay Brims, and lots of birthday cards!

40th Anniversary

Sloan And Heath Vows Are Spoken

A candlelight ceremony, at 6 o'clock on Saturday, united in marriage Josephine Johnson Sloan of Route 1, Hamptonville, and Lester Worth Heath of Route 2, Harmony. The private ritual was conducted by the bride's pastor, Rev. Michael E. Winstead, at Wesley Chapel United Methodist Church. A program of music was arranged by the bride's daughter, Mrs. Robert J. Barron, and the couple entered the church together. The bride was attired in a street-length dress of pastel blue crepe accented with full-length raglan sleeves. The dress was also designed with a draping neckline enhanced by a gold and turquoise necklace, a gift from the bridegroom. She wore matching silk flowers pinned in her hair and her bouquet consisted of seasonal flowers. The bride, a graduate of Union Grove High School, is daughter of the late John Fredrick and Jewell Trivette Johnson. Her husband is son of the late Lillard Worth and Fannie Holcomb Heath. He attended Harmony High School and is now self-employed. Before the newlyweds departed for the honeymoon to the North Carolina coast, a reception was held in their honor. Mr. and Mrs. William Jerry Campbell and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jonathan Barron were hosts. The Campbells are the son-in-law and daughter of the bridegroom. A cluster of wedding bells and bouquets of autumn flowers were used at focal points of interest through the home of Mr. and Mrs. Campbell at Route 1, Harmony. Doves and lighted candles adorned the hand-crocheted gold lace cloth which covered the bridal table. The three-tiered wedding cake was elaborately decorated with yellow roses and topped with traditional bride and groom figurines. The pastry, baked and decorated by Mrs. Campbell, was served with lime sherbet punch, homemade mints and other tea dainties. Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Heath, Mrs. Howard Crews, and Mr. and Mrs. O.C. Blackburn, all of Winston-Salem. Following the wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Heath will return to make their new home at Route 2, Harmony.

...was Sherry Lynn Pardue

Pardue-Woodward Vows Spoken

Miss Sherry Lynn Pardue and Mr. Joe Kimbrough Woodward were united in marriage Friday, September 12, at 7 p.m. at Ijames Baptist Church. The Rev. Carroll Jordan officiated at the candlelight service.

A program of music was presented by Miss Torri Ingram, pianist, and Mrs. Patsy Cleary, soloist.

The bride given in marriage by her father wore a gown of white sheer organza lined in taffeta. Designed with a lace applique trim on a sweetheart neckline with a V-shaped lace applique trim on a bodice with seeded pearls, and long bishop sleeves. The skirt had a front pleated panel edged with lace that formed a chapel length train. Her finger tip veil of silk illusion was secured with a lace covered cap with seeded pearls. She carried a bouquet of pink and white roses.

The maid-of-honor was Miss Karen Pardue, sister of the bride. She wore a pink full length gown of white embroidery, designed with a high lace neckline with a full skirt. She carried a miniature bouquet identical to the bride's. The flowergirl was Miss Lisa Woodward, niece of the groom. She wore a long pink dress designed like that of the maid-of-honor. Ring bearer was Jason Cothran, nephew of the groom.

The bridegroom's father was best man. Ushers were Mr. Michael Pardue, brother of the bride, and Mr. John Woodward, brother of the groom. Acolytes were Joseph Eudy and Joshua Eudy, cousins of the bride, assisted by Mr. Michael Eudy and Mr. Donald Gobble.

The guest register was kept by Miss Donna Hepler. After the ceremony Terry Carter presented each guest with a rice bag. The wedding was directed by Mrs. Pat Gobble.

The mother of the bride wore an apricot full length gown. The bridegroom's mother wore a honey color full length gown with a sheet cape. Each wore a white orchid corsage.

Special guests were Mrs. Gladys Eskridge of Statesville N.C., grandmother of the bride, Mr. Herman Pardue of Union Grove, N.C., grandfather of the bride, Mrs. Zelma Woodward of Mocksville, N.C., grandmother of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Blackwelder of Mocksville, N.C., grandparents of the groom.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Olin Pardue of Route 6, Mocksville. She is a graduate of Davie High School and Mitchell Community College. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Woodward, II of Route 6, Mocksville. He is a graduate of Davie High School, North Carolina State and presently attending Auburn School of Veterinary Science.

After a wedding trip to the mountains, the couple will make their home in Auburn, Alabama.

RECEPTION
Immediately following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained the guests with a reception at Ijames Community Building. The reception tables were covered with pink taffeta and overlaid with antique lace. Adorning the main table was a centerpiece of pink roses with babies' breath and greenery. Crystal stems matching the centerpiece held palest pink candles.

The reception guests were served from a three-tier white wedding cake accented with starkissed drapes and clusters of palest pink roses and sprays of rosebuds. The wedding ornament which topped the cake was designed especially for the bride and groom in a stain glass window with a gold cross and pink silk wild flowers and lilies of the valley. Accenting these were three love birds.

They were also served mints, nuts, pickles and pink delight punch.

SHOWERS
Miss Sherry Pardue, bride-elect of Joe Woodward was honored with a miscellaneous surprise shower given by the shorthand department of Mitchell Community College. She received many nice gifts.

She was honored by a pantry shower given to her by Mrs. Teresa Ballard and Miss Susan James, both of Morrisville, N.C. She was presented with many useful gifts.

County Leadership Development Conference For Women To Be Held Here November 1st

November 1, 1980, a County Leadership Development Conference for Women will be held at Davie County High School.

This County Conference is a followup of the Statewide Leadership Conference for Women which was held for three days on the Meredith College campus in Raleigh in May, 1978 with over 800 women in attendance, and the nine Regional Conferences held across the State during 1978-79.

The County Conference is expected to create public awareness of the necessity for leadership development and responsibility, encourages personal development for the participants and stimulate training through identification and utilization of local, state and national resources. The Conference will also be geared toward encouraging follow-up activities in leadership training through volunteer efforts of the conferees on the local level. It will not be issue related but will include speakers and workshops for individuals who desire to develop their personal leadership skills. The mailing list for invitations will include career women, volunteers, government employees, homemakers and academic.

Mrs. Juanita Bryant is serving as Governor Hunt's Executive Director of Leadership Development for Women and she is directing the County Conferences. She is located in Raleigh at 526 North Wilmington Street, Raleigh, N.C. 27604.

Mrs. Dorothy Smith of Route 6, Mocksville is serving as County Chairperson for this event.

"We would be most happy to furnish you with additional information if you desire. Also, if there is anyone you would like to have included on our mailing list for invitations we would be most happy to have the names and addresses", said Mrs. Smith.

"Also, we need financial assistance to have this most worthwhile conference and any contribution that you might make would be greatly appreciated. Contributions should be made to Governor's County Conference on Leadership Development for Women and forwarded to Mrs. Dorothy Smith Route 6, Box 28, Mocksville, N.C. 27028," said Mrs. Smith.

Jason Barry Day celebrated his 5th birthday Friday, September 5, with a supper at Davie Fish Camp. He is the son of Warren and Junette Day of Rt. 3 Mocksville. Grandparents are Rev. and Mrs. Elmer Day of Mocksville and Mr. and Mrs. James Shoaf of Marlon, S.C.

Surfing
Surfing probably began in the islands of the South Pacific. It reached Hawaii about 1,000 years ago. When the first European explorers arrived there, they were amazed to see people on boards, riding the waves, National Geographic World magazine says.

Tarheel Kitchen

By Miss E. York Kiker
N.C. Dept. of Agriculture
Life is full of learning experiences and a fascinating one is cooking with a microwave oven. When a person has cooked for years with a conventional range and oven, the microwave method seems a bit mysterious and unbelievable. The N.C. Department of Agriculture Tar Heel Kitchen has a microwave oven, and gradually and after studying directions and testing the preparation of old familiar foods is coming with greater ease. Yes, there have been mistakes of overcooking resulting in "brick bat" quality food. Microwave cooking does have limitations, and is not the answer to all kinds of cooking, but there are excellent features.

By all means read and follow directions accompanying your particular microwave oven before attempting to cook to avoid failures and possible damage to the oven.

General tips and general techniques of microwave cooking have been selected from a commercial company to share. To avoid overcooking, check food at a minimum time, then continue cooking if necessary.

Uniform cooking, heating and defrosting of foods is essential to microwave satisfaction. Food is rarely uniform in shape, size, density, volume or starting temperature.

Arrange items in a ring when possible, eliminating the need to heat the center. Also, place slow-to-heat, dense and thick food near the edge of a dish where microwave penetrate first. Thinner or more porous items should go near the center.

Stir foods such as casseroles, vegetables and sauces to redistribute cool portions to the edges where they cook faster.

Rotate the dish when it isn't practical to stir, turning it 1/4 to 1/2 way around.

Turn over dense pieces of food such as meat and whole baked potatoes.

Let food stand a few minutes before serving to allow heat at the outside of the food to penetrate to the center without continued cooking on the outside.

Don't overload the oven.
Coverup: Glass covers, plates, saucers, plastic wrap and wax paper hold in heat and speed cooking, defrosting and heating. Remove covers carefully to avoid burns from trapped steam.

Since thin foods cook faster than thick ones, select thin-shaped foods at the store. Avoid stacking foods; spread food out when possible.

In cooking, foods such as casseroles and soups can bubble up. Choose utensils that are large enough for the recipe.

Casseroles that contain chiefly even-sized pieces of cooked foods and which require no browning, are marvelous for microwaving. They may be covered and stirred to hasten cooking, and need not be crisp on top.

Place a wax paper tent on roast, poultry or meat to help retain heat and prevent spattering.

Select string rather than a metal twist tie to hold plastic cooking bags closed.

Since it is apple season try an all-time favorite Baked Apple. Does Peanut Brittle take to long? Just wait until you've tried the microwave process.

BAKED APPLE
(3 to 5 minutes)

Core medium-size cooking apple. Slit through skin around the center of apple to prevent bursting. Place apple in 1-quart microwave-type casserole. Fill cavity with 2 tablespoons brown or white sugar, 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon and 1 teaspoon butter, if desired. Cover casserole and cook in microwave oven 3 to 5 minutes. Time varies with size and variety of apple. 2 apples-6 to 8 minutes; 4 apples-11 to 13 minutes; 6 apples-17 to 19 minutes.

PEANUT BRITTLE

Power: High
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup white corn syrup
1 cup roasted salted peanuts
1 teaspoon butter
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 teaspoon baking soda

In a 1 1/2 quart casserole stir together sugar and syrup. Microwave at HIGH 4 minutes. Stir in peanuts. Microwave at High 3 to 5 minutes, until light brown. Add butter and vanilla to syrup, blending well. Microwave at High 1 to 2 minutes more. Peanuts will be lightly browned and syrup very hot. Add baking soda and gently stir until light and foamy. Pour mixture onto lightly greased cookie sheet, or unbuttered non-stick coated cookie sheet. Let cool 1/2 to 1 hour. When cool, break into small pieces and store in air-tight container. Makes 1 pound.

The Center Fair

Sarah Tucker of Route 1 Mocksville won 8 red ribbons and four blue at Saturday's Center Fair. Her most prized entries were canned peaches, peaches and pickled peppers.

Center Fair bustled with activity Saturday as 189 exhibitors displayed crafts.

Entries ranged from garden produce to intricate needlework. Jars of home canned fruits, vegetables, jams and jellies lined the many tables.

Cross stitch, needlepoint and embroidery pieces reflected hours of loving work that went into their creation.

Twenty-five judges from across the county selected winners in categories of horticulture, needlework, sewing art and others. First and second place winners. A complete list of winners is featured in this issue.

Sarah Tucker of Route 1, Mocksville was one participant winning numerous ribbons. She claimed 8 blue ribbons and 4 red ribbons out of a total of 31 entries. Most of her entries were in the canned goods division, but she also took a first place for her sesame rolls.

Mrs. Tucker commented that she was most pleased over her blue ribbon wins with canned peaches and pears. She said that she simply enjoys canning and takes special efforts to make her jars of produce "look as good as they taste."

Mrs. Tucker said that she has canned a total of 270 quarts of various goodies this year. Her pantry is laden with such items as broccoli, carrots, lima beans, relishes and fruits.

"My husband and I could never eat it all," she said. "I give a great deal of it away. I simply get enjoyment out of canning."

As in years past, those attending Center Fair were greeted with the tantalizing smell of smoked barbecue. The chopping sound of meat cleaves blended into the setting as volunteers hustled about to satisfy hungry appetites.

Around 480 pork shoulders were simmered in the pits to make a startling 4,158 pounds of barbecue.

At least 1400 pounds of cabbage was chopped into slaw.

Barbecue sales began on Friday and continued through supper time on Saturday. By mid-afternoon Saturday, fair workers were doubtful that there would be enough barbecue to feed anticipated crowds that night.

"When people buy it ten pounds at a time," said one volunteer, "it doesn't take long to go through the barbecue."

He also commented that workers were having difficulty keeping barbecue sliced and chopped. Lines and lines of people waited patiently Friday and Saturday to sample the mouthwatering specialty.

The Center Fair was established in 1954. Proceeds from the event go for support of the Center Volunteer Fire Department. The Department has been in operation since 1957.

Winners at the 1980 Center Fair are as follows:

The lines of people waiting to taste the famous Center barbecue never seemed to end. Volunteers cooked over 4,000 pounds of barbecue, all of which was sold during the two day event.

Little one can't resist touching Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus at Center Fair. Even though there are a few more days of warm weather ahead, the crafts displayed Saturday remind these two that Christmas is just around the corner.

V.G. Phillips' Team Takes First Place In Clemmons Tourney

The former Clemmons Milling softball team, now V. G. Phillips and Son took home a first place victory in a round-robin softball tournament at Poindexter field this past weekend. The team has been actively involved in tournaments for the past two months. Their record for tournament play includes four first place finishes and two more within the top five.

Two weeks ago V. G. Phillips and Son finished fourth in a tournament at Sahabi Field. There were two all-tournament trophies given to players Wayne Dull and Jeff Sweatman for outstanding play. Several homers were also hit by Wayne Dull, Rocky Orrell, and Robbie Hopkins.

In last week's tournament, the Phillips team played outstanding ball to finish as first place champions over their runner up, Fox Trotters of Reedy Creek. The team played a total of six games and went undefeated.

Phillips' first game was Saturday morning against Bullins and Son Grocery and they won with a score of 11-7. They played Fox Trotters for the second game and won 8-6. The third game was against Sports World of Mocksville. It looked as though the Phillips team had met their match when they were losing the game 7-1 in the fourth inning.

However, the players managed to come back and tie the score in the fifth inning and go ahead in the sixth. Unfortunately they lost that lead and faced an 11-9 score going into the bottom of the last inning. Wayne Dull led off with a walk, Terry Lawson followed with a single, and with these two on base, Rocky Orrell came through with a homerun to win the game.

The team played three more games the next day, beginning with a victory over Anderson Supply 6-5. In an excitement filled game, Phillips won their fifth game against Foster's Auctioneers with a score of 9-3. They were then faced with the championship game where they met the Fox Trotters once again.

The team jumped out to an early lead scoring four runs in the first inning. Despite several opportunities with the bases loaded, the Fox Trotters team was held to only two runs with fantastic defensive play by the Phillips team. The final score of 6-2 declared Phillips the champion team.

The team took home three trophies plus the individual trophies given to the players. Sam Phillips, the sponsor, received one trophy for the division championship and one for the tournament championship. Robbie Hopkins, the right-center fielder, received the most valuable player trophy. There were seven homers hit outside the park by Robbie Hopkins with three, Rocky Orrell (three) and Bull McCloud (one). Other leading hitters were Joel Sweatman, Wayne Dull and Terry Lawson.

Phillips 14-man team consisted of the following men: Terry Lawson; Rocky and Britt Orrell; Bull McCloud; Doug Smith; Wayne Dull; Bill Yokley; Jeff, Joel and Jay Sweatman; Robbie Hopkins; Chester Clark. Coaches were Bobby Dalton and Sam Phillips.

Davie High Girls Tennis Team Wins One Loses One At Thomasville And Salisbury

The Davie High girls tennis team added one win and one loss to its record this year in its last two matches.

Robert Landry's girls bowed to the strong Salisbury team last Thursday in an 8-1 bout; but came back to beat Thomasville Monday 7-2.

The results of the match played on Thomasville's courts were as follows: In singles Tracey Stapleton defeated Martha Ritchie in two straight sets 6-0, 6-0. Angela Riddle split sets with Wendy Cox 6-2, 3-6, but won the tiebreaker 6-2. Janis Rauch shut out Crystal Hubbard in 6-0, 6-0. Kathryn Latham beat Cheryl Dean 6-2, 6-0. Susan Parker defeated Cathy Adams 6-1, 6-2 and Kim Foster split sets with Julia Beard 1-6, 6-2 then won the tiebreaker 6-0.

In doubles the team of Stapleton-Rauch beat Cox-Hubbard 8-4. Ritchie-Adams beat Davie's Karen Richardson and Lisa Freshwater 8-3. Davie's Deana Platt and Jill Taylor lost to Odum-Lovell 8-1.

Singles action at Salisbury saw Tracey Stapleton lose to Karen Smith 2-6, 5-7 and Angela Riddle lose to Molly Brooks 1-6, 0-6. It was Keg Carter over Janis Rauch 6-1, 6-1 and Dana Rice over Kathryn Latham 6-2, 6-3. Liz Packer split sets with Gerri Spain 4-6, 6-1 but lost the tiebreaker 3-6. Susan Parker won the only singles event for Davie when she split sets with Sharon Miller 2-6, 6-3 and won the tiebreaker 6-2.

Salisbury took all of the doubles matches as Smith-Carter beat Stapleton-Rauch 6-3, 6-2 and Brooks-Spain beat Riddle-Latham 7-5, 6-2. Rice-CConnell defeated Parker-Freshwater 6-1, 6-3, to round out the match. Davie is scheduled to meet Asheboro this Thursday on the Mocksville courts at 3:00 p.m.

Cheerwine Hunger Run Is October 4

Chuck Cooper of the Greater Salisbury Track Club has announced plans for the 1980 CHEERWINE HUNGER RUN to be held in Salisbury on October 4 at 9:30 a.m. A 10,000 meter and a one-mile race will be run with both starting in the 300 block of North Ellis Street. Both Races are sponsored by the Cheerwine Bottling Company in cooperation with the Rowan Cooperative Christian Ministry and Crop, an international food service ministry. All expenses will be paid by Cheerwine with all the entry fees going to relieve local and worldwide hunger. The race is part of World Hunger Awareness Week. Other activities include a Walk for Hunger on October 5. Last year the events raised $28,000 for hunger relief.

The entry fee for both races is $5.00 for early registration and $6.00 on race day. T-shirts will be given to the first 150 registered runners for either race. After the first 150 registered runners a refund of $2.50 will be offered to runners. The refund may, of course, be donated to hunger relief. Trophies will be given to the top three male and female in each race and to the youngest and oldest finishers. Medals will be awarded to the top three finishers in each age division in the 10,000 meter.

Time splits will be announced at each mile in the 10,000 meter. Both races will be timed by Chronomix Timing Computer. Aid stations will be located at 2 and 4 miles and at the finish line. Bathrooms will be available at the start and finish line.

Mocksville Recreation

MOTHER'S TIME OUT
The Mocksville Recreation Department's Mother's Time out program is continuing for pre-school children. This program is held on Friday morning from 9-12. The children will meet at Rich Park until the weather will no longer permit. Then they will meet at the B.C. Brock Gym. All parents are invited to bring their children. There is no charge for this program. For more information call Michael Garner at 634-2325.

FLAG FOOTBALL
The Mocksville Recreation Department will hold an organizational meeting for Men's Flag Football on Thursday September 18 at 8:00 p.m. at the B.C. Brock Gym. All interested teams should send a representative to this meeting. For more information call Michael Garner at 634-2325.

VOLLEYBALL
The Mocksville Recreation Department will hold an organizational meeting for open and church volleyball on Thursday September 18 at 7:00 p.m. at the B.C. Brock Gym. All interested teams should send a representative to this meeting. For more information call Michael Garner at 634-2325.

Davie Edges Trinity By One Point In Thriller; To Have Open Date This Week

Davie High won its third straight victory last Friday night with a 27-26 victory over Trinity.

Scott Pratt capped a 78-yard scoring drive with a two-yard run to give the War Eagles a narrow 27-26 victory in the North Piedmont 3-A conference game.

Pratt's run came after the senior quarterback had hit Walter Fleming with a 39-yard pass. Fleming also recovered a fumble to stop Trinity at the Davie 22 and set up the War Eagles' winning drive. After Davie scored, Trinity had the ball three times but never crossed midfield.

The War Eagles have an open date Friday as they begin work for the remaining schedule for tough conference games. Davie will play Thomasville there on September 26; Lexington here on October 3rd; West Rowan there on October 10; Salisbury here on October 17; Asheboro there on October 24; North Rowan here on October 31; and close out the regular season play on November 7 at North Davidson.

Pratt accounted for all four Davie touchdowns last Friday night and placekicker Barry Whitlock hit three-of-four extra points including the winner in the fourth period.

Pratt scored on a one-yard run in the fourth quarter and had two TD passes. He was nine-for-14 for 156 yards for the game.

Trinity quarterback Mark Barnes had a good night throwing the ball as well. He was 10-for-20 with 146 yards and had two touchdowns.

Davie got on the scoreboard in the first quarter with Earnhardt scoring on a 26-yard pass from Pratt. Whitlock kicked the extra point to make it 7 to 0.

However, it was all Trinity in the second quarter. Barnes scored from the one yard line and Harrison kicked the extra point to tie up the game. Barnes then hit Bristow with a 7-yard pass for another TD and again Harrison kicked the extra point. Trinity added another touchdown on a carry by Stepp from the one-yard line. This time the try for extra point failed and Trinity led at halftime 20 to 7.

The War Eagles came back in the third period to score on a pass from Pratt to Crawford and Whitlock kicked the extra point. Trinity answered with a 7 yard TD run by Barnes. The try for extra point failed and it was Trinity leading 26 to 13.

Pratt then scored from the one yard line. A try for a two extra point conversion by passing failed, and the scoreboard read Trinity 26, Davie 20.

In the fourth period Pratt scored from the two and Whitlock kicked the extra point to give Davie the 27 to 26 win. Davie is now 3-9 overall and 1-0 in the North Piedmont Conference.

"Heartstopper", Says Coach

A "heartstopper" was Coach Al Sitterle's verdict on Davie High School's 27-26 victory over the Trinity Bulldogs in a North Piedmont Conference football match last Friday night.

The War Eagles went into the lockerroom at the half down 20-7. But when the gun went off at the end of the night, Davie had just finished a scoring drive to edge Trinity by a single point.

Quarterback Scott Pratt put the points on the board for Davie, connecting on two passes in the endzone and punching through the Trinity goal line defense on rushes of one and two yards.

The War Eagles started the scoring in the first quarter when Todd Earnhardt gathered in a 26 yard throw from Pratt. Barry Whitlock accurately added the extra point.

But the Bulldogs got tough in the second quarter. Mark Barnes went over from the one, then lofted a nine yard pass to Tim Bristow for another score. John Stepp closed out the half for Trinity with a one yard dive for six more.

During the half, Sitterle told the War Eagles to keep their heads up. "We knew we could win in the second half if we could hold them to one touchdown," the coach said.

Davie scored twice in the third quarter. Allen Crawford grabbed a five yard pass from Pratt, and Whitlock's kick added the point after. Later Pratt dived in from one yard out. A successful conversion run by Whitlock added the two points which would ultimately be the winning margin.

The Bulldogs were not ready to roll over quite yet. Barnes had a seven yard run that put Trinity up 26-21.

In the final minutes the War Eagles began a 65 yard march with short runs and passes. At the Trinity 35, an offensive pass interference call seem to check the drive, but Pratt burned the Bulldog's secondary to bring the Eagles down to the 15. A few plays later, Pratt's one yard run gave Davie the victory.

"We know we could beat them deep when we needed to," smiled Sitterle. "Todd Earnhardt was making some unbelievable catches, and Alan Crawford had had that circus catch in the endzone."

Sitterle's squad has a week off before traveling to Thomasville for an important game. "It's a big one," said Sitterle. "We will find out if our defense can stop a fine inside running game."

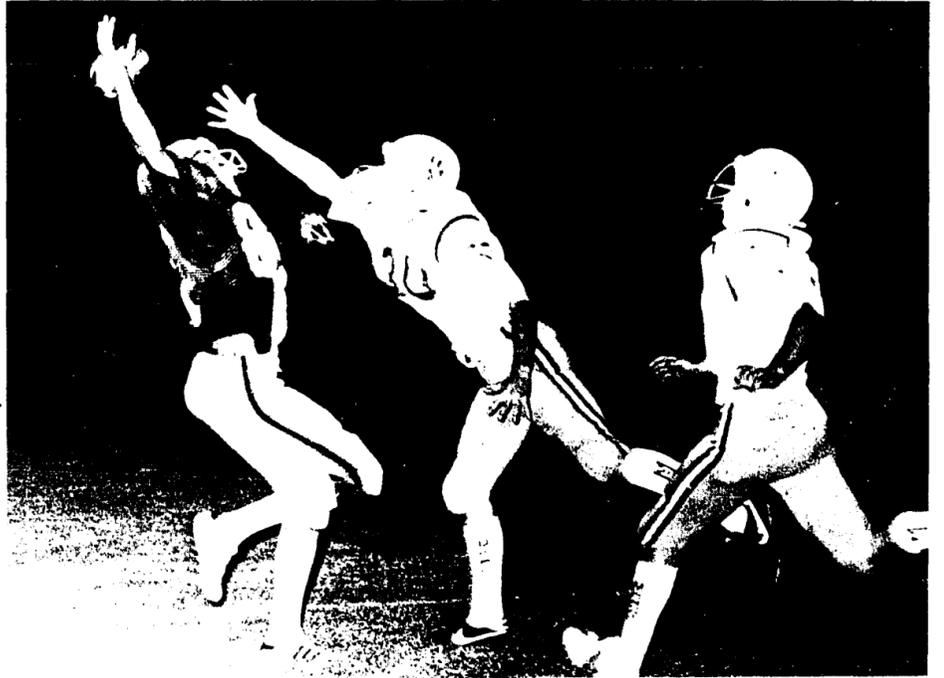

The break will give the War Eagles a much needed chance to heal. Davie lost three running backs during the course of the bruising Trinity game.

"We should be fully healthy," said Sitterle who expects Shannon Pulliam, an ace in the coach's defense hadn, ready to see action.

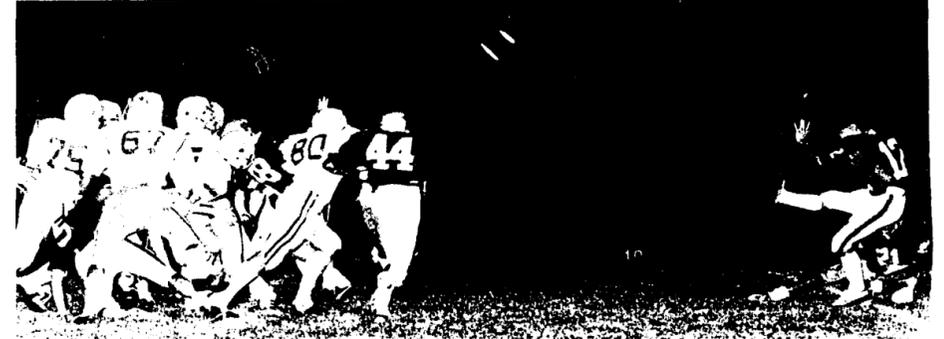

Sitterle spoke on the assets of his team. "The team this year has a lot of character. They just keep coming back and scratching. The character is something we have been building since last year. The last two weeks, we have been in some tight ball games, and we have made the big plays when we needed them."

Against a tough Thomasville team, the War Eagles will bring that character and a 3-0 record.

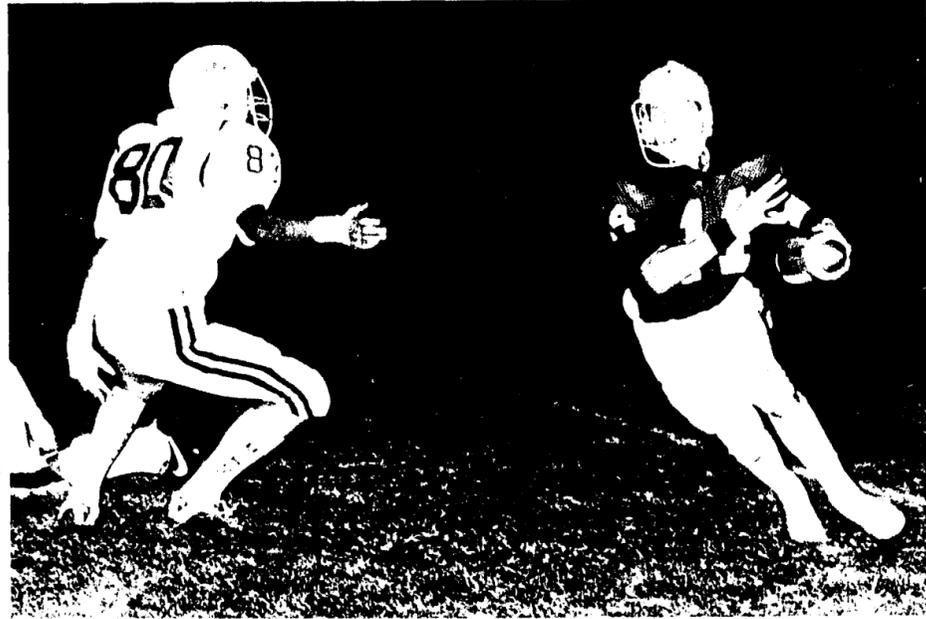

"We will have to beat them," Sitterle said simply.

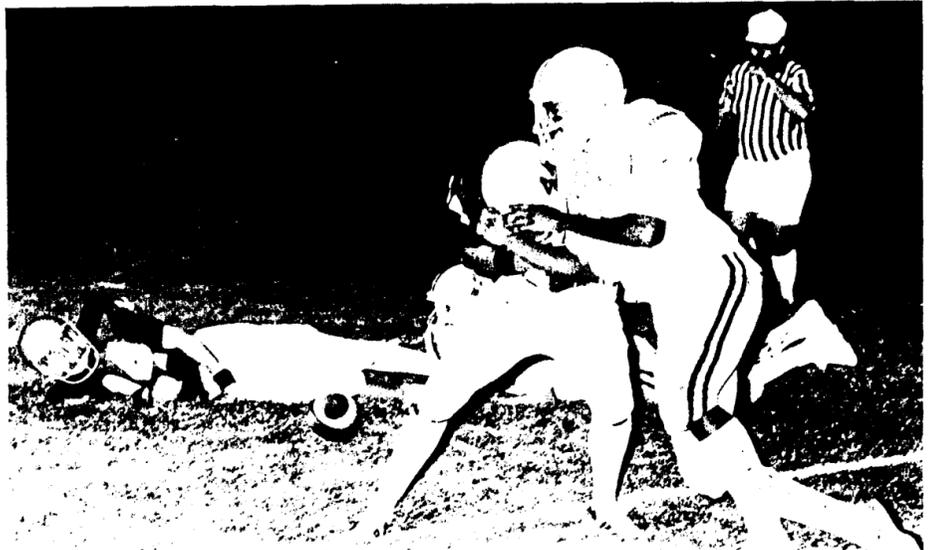

Just Misses The ball just barely misses Walter Fleming's fingertips as he tries to catch a pass.

Kicker Barry Whitlock makes good on an extra point attempt.

Community Schools

Over the past few years, public schools across the state have opened their doors to the community for all kinds of activities—not only in the summer but after school, at night, and even on weekends for people of all ages. It's a result of the 1977 Community Schools Act which the General Assembly passed to encourage greater community involvement in schools and greater use of the school facility.

Lots of good things are surfacing that can be traced to the community school concept. Where there are community school programs, school vandalism has declined over the past few years. School bond issues are being voted in by adults without children in the schools. Community colleges are able to offer more courses and recreational departments and cultural arts can provide leisure activities because they have the facilities they need. In many instances, senior citizens can attend school activities free of charge and eat in the school cafeteria.

Some 121 of the 144 local school units—1,152 designated community school sites—now participate in the program. When a school unit develops a plan for community schools, it applies to the State Board of Education for funding. When the plan is approved, a community schools coordinator is hired to set up a

Homecoming At Liberty Baptist

Homecoming will be observed at Liberty Baptist church, Sunday, September 21, with revival beginning the same day and continuing through September 27th.

Guest speaker will be Evangelist Mike Manuel of Walnut Cove, N.C.

Members families and friends are invited to attend and bring with them a well filled basket.

Lunch will be served on the grounds following morning worship service.

Redland Club Has Meeting

"Mastery of Camouflage" was theme of program presented by Mrs. Berna Foster to the Redland Extension Homemakers on September 9. Mrs. Mitzie Foster modeled her well-selected and coordinated wardrobe for Fall 1980. The Messers Foster demonstrated the 3 important decoys Mother Nature uses as camouflage tools in selecting clothes: Color, design and texture, and line. Most important fact to remember is to always be sure garments fit well with enough ease.

During the business session officers for 1981-82 were selected: President, Mrs. Ivy Jo Smith, Vice President, Mrs. Mitzie Foster; Secretary, Mrs. Gaylene Cook; and treasurer, Mrs. Catherine Sofley. Mrs. Marian Funderburk, president, reported on the Area I August meeting on "Food Processors for the Kitchen Centers," giving common features not worthy for comparative shopping.

Events coming up for October are:

Oct. 3-11, Dixie Classic Fair with Davie County Club members participating in craft demonstrations daily.

Oct. 6-8, Furniture Refinishing Workshop with Mrs. Nancy Hartman, Home Extension Agent, at the County Building.

Oct. 00-00, State Fair with interested parties going by bus. (Call Mrs. Ostin West, Home Economics Extension Agent.)

Oct. 24 (10-9) and Oct. 25 (10-5) Davie County Craft Corner at the Mocksville Armory to benefit retarded citizens.

Oct. 28, Davie County Achievement Day at the Center Community Building (11-2 with covered dish luncheon.)

Oct. 28, deadline for Club Women's entries in stocking contest of the Christmas Southern Living Show in Charlotte.

The Redland members voted to contribute to the relocation and preservation project for the old Southern Railroad Station Building at Mocksville. Mrs. Helen McDaniel and Mrs. Christine Craver were co-hostesses for the evening. In October, the Work Committee Chairmen of each club will be presenting a program entitled, "The Dollar Wiggle". Each club welcomes those in their communities who are interested in visiting and benefiting from well-planned and informative programs. Location and dates can be obtained by calling the Davie County Home Economics Extension Office.

local advisory council and oversee the program. The plan for each unit contains programs and activities according to its own needs and resources and includes educational, recreational, social, and cultural experiences.

Each local unit provides a match of at least one-fourth of the local community schools budget. The General Assembly is supportive of the program and has appropriated $3 million for the current school year.

The State Department of Public Instruction's Division of Community Schools provides state-level leadership to the community schools program. Governor Jim Hunt appoints the 24 member Interagency Advisory Council on Community Schools to work with the State Department.

Health Tip From The American Medical Assn.

You've basked and baked since March and now, six months and four trips to the beach later, you've achieved "THE ULTIMATE TAN," one that even of Sol himself would be proud of. But with summer winding down and tanning season fading, you're in dismay over how to keep that gorgeous glow on your skin.

For an increasing number of North Carolinians, the answer has been two words: tanning clinic. And, as the number of these clinics increase, so do the warnings by dermatologists and public health officials concerned with the dangers they present.

There are nearly 1,000 tanning clinics open across the nation, each clinic containing about 10 booths. For a fee, you can bask in the "sun" from rows of sunlamps lining each booth.

Contrary to popular belief, a tan is not a sign of health. Tanning is actually the skin's reaction to damage from ultraviolet radiation. This damage extends to the lower layer of skin, known as the dermis. In an effort to protect the dermis from further damage, the skin cells produce a brownish pigment called melanin. This pigment is what many Americans call a "tan".

It has been estimated that over 10,000 people are injured from misuse of sunlamps every year. The most common problems according to several N. C. physicians are severe burns and eye damage, usually to the cornea. Unlike the sunlamps purchased by physicians for medical purposes, sunlamps used for cosmetic purposes by consumers usually do not have a standardization of wave lengths, so it is difficult to estimate how much exposure time is safe. People who run the highest risk of damaging their skin from the sunlamps are those who do not tan easily and who overextend their time under the ultraviolet light.

Excessive tanning ages the skin prematurely, making it leathery-looking and more susceptible to wrinkles, fever blisters and sun poisoning. An abundance of sun, whether from the sky or the tanning booth, will also lead to skin cancer.

If you use a sunlamp for medical reasons, the North Carolina Medical Society offers the following safety tips:

--Sunlamps should be used only for the treatment of skin diseases, under the authorization of a physician. They should NOT be used for tanning or other purely cosmetic purposes!

--Always use a timer to assure proper exposure and to minimize the risk of a burn. Also make sure there is a responsible adult nearby who will check on you frequently in case the timer doesn't go off or due to the outside chance you fall asleep under the lamp.

--NEVER use a sunlamp without sunglasses! Many people are unaware of the potential dangers of ultraviolet light to their eyes until it is too late. DO NOT substitute any sunglasses for goggles unless your physician states otherwise, since the light may penetrate through them and increase the chance of eye damage.

--Some drugs, such as antibiotics and anti-diabetic medications, can make your skin more susceptible to the sunlamp's rays. For this reason, you should consult with your physician to see if a change in dosage is recommended (prior to treatment) if you are taking any medication by mouth or applying any medication to your skin.

Teeth May Show Where Early Americans Come From

A man who judges people by their teeth believes he knows how Americans got where they are today.

By Americans, Dr. Christy G. Turner II means the Indians and Eskimos of the New World who already had been on hand for thousands of years when the first Europeans arrived.

Dr. Turner, whose investigations have been supported extensively by the National Geographic Society, also believes:

--That he is on the track of finding out where these earliest Americans came from--roughly somewhere in central Siberia and north China.

--That they moved from Asia to Alaska across the Bering Land Bridge by following the animals they hunted, the Eskimos with harpoons seeking whales, seals, and other marine mammals along the shore, and the Indians with spears tracking mammoth, bison, and horses inland.

--That a third group of immigrants, armed with bows and arrows, also crossed the bridge, just before the Ice Age glaciers melted enough to drown the bridge beneath rising oceans about 10,000 to 12,000 years ago.

And all of this he surmises from teeth, by painstakingly examining thousands of ancient and modern teeth from the New World and Asia.

Dr. Turner is a professor at Arizona State University at Tempe and in the small fraternity of dental anthropologists, is one of the world's foremost explorers of this kind of history.

Dr. Turner says teeth provide about 250 clues of independent characteristics that have been passed through the generations by genes. He has concentrated on 28 major characteristics to watch for as he examines and categorizes the teeth of prehistoric and modern men alike.

Among his 28 clues are:

--Shovel teeth--Insides of the front teeth or incisors are markedly scooped out or "shoveled" in the mouths of Indians and moderately so with Eskimos. Europeans' teeth never are.

--This clearly shows that all the people of the New World had to come from north Asia, where shoveled teeth are also characteristic," Dr. Turner says. "It rules out south Asia entirely and Europe entirely."

--Peg teeth--A large percentage of people from the Amur River area in northern Asia and, on the other side of the Bering Sea, Eskimos in Alaska and arctic America have third upper molars that are peg-shaped. Nobody else has teeth like this.

TELLTALE TEETH of an Indian dead thousands of years are compared with dental models by Dr. Christy G. Turner II, who is hunting evidence of the early Americans who wandered from Asia to Alaska over the Bering Strait Land Bridge. Dr. Turner, an anthropologist at Arizona State University at Tempe, has examined thousands of prehistoric Indian and Eskimo skulls and teeth, finding similarities with dental records of modern and ancient peoples of Siberia and northern China. He believes three types of Asians migrated to the New World until glaciers of the Ice Ages melted and the sea rose, drowning the land bridge some 10,000-12,000 years ago.

--Five cusps--Asians and American Indians always have five cusps (the little bumps or knobs on back grinding teeth) on their lower second molars. Most Europeans and people from southeast Asia have only four cusps.

Dr. Turner says he doesn't know of any adaptive value or purpose of these teeth differences or what triggered these gene mutations.

He is convinced these traits are "quite stable evolutionarily." As an example, he cites another trait: a tendency for some people--typical of northern Asians, but unknown among people of European background--to have lower first molars with three roots, instead of two.

His extensive research shows that 5 percent of all Indians also have this trait, those living today as well as those buried many thousands of years ago.

The three-root clue shows the Indians' ancestors came from Asia, he says, adding that he'll know where more specifically when he finds people somewhere in Asia with the same trait at the same 5 percent frequency.

In the same way, he hopes to find the original Asian homeland of Eskimos, who have a 40 percent frequency of this trait.

Dr. Turner has just finished examining thousands of skulls and teeth of early Americans in collections at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington and museums in Mexico City. Within the next year he plans to visit the Soviet Union to make comparisons with collections and data anthropologists have gathered in Siberia.

On the basis of what is known so far, Dr. Turner has come up with the following ideas of how the earliest Americans found their way to Alaska:

With the top of the world still gripped by the Ice Age, a large ice-free corridor existed, running northeast from the Lake Baykal region of Siberia along the Lena River basin and eventually to the grass-covered Bering Land Bridge.

Dr. Turner speculates that Asian ancestors of the Indians wandered through this natural corridor hunting the large grass-grazing animals like bison, horses, and mammoths that were their natural prey, crossing the center of the bridge, which was many hundreds of miles wide.

Another migration to the New World probably began in Mongolia's Amur River valley, which also remained ice-free during the Ice Ages. According to Dr. Turner's theory, ancestors of Eskimos--Amur River valley people today closely resemble them--moved down the valley to the sea north of Japan.

There they found millions of sea animals, all kinds of whales and seals, using the pack ice on the Sea of Okhotsk for breeding grounds. Gradually, Dr. Turner says, the Eskimos' ancestors crossed the land bridge, keeping close to the frozen shoreline and their food supply.

Dr. Turner also theorizes there was a third group migration, by a different people--hunting moose and other forest animals--who crossed just before the land bridge disappeared.

At that time, Dr. Turner believes, the climate was moderating and getting wetter, causing the spread of forests across the grasslands of Alaska and providing a corridor south through the melting ice sheet.

The third group's descendants today may be the Na-Dene peoples, Indians such as the Athabaskans who live in the forests from British Columbia north into Alaska and the Yukon Territory. The Na-Dene have teeth traits different from Indians and Eskimos, suggesting they were the last of the land bridge immigrants.

Everyone Should Learn How To Be A Fall Guy

Everyone should learn how to be a fall guy.

That's the conclusion of safety and health researchers at the Combined Insurance Company of America, who are convinced that many of the nearly 36,000 deaths and more than 2,000,000 injuries suffered every year in falls could be prevented.

The Center for Disease Control in Atlanta has expressed the fear that casualties from falls may have reached epidemic proportions. Falls of all kinds are second only to highway disasters as a cause of accidental death in the United States. The Consumer Product Safety Commission finds stairs second only to bicycles as a manmade source of hazards to Americans.

All agree that most falls could be prevented. And if you must fall, the damage can be minimized if you know how to do it.

The first element in any prevention program should, of course, involve taking the right steps to prevent trips, slips and tumbles, the researchers say. But since some falls are probably inevitable, the second preventive measure should involve learning how to land as safely as possible.

The National Safety Council joins in pointing out that there are right and wrong ways to be a fall guy. You are almost certain to be hurt if you do what comes naturally and tense up. If you resist falling and stick out a stiff arm to absorb the shock as you hit the ground you are likely to suffer severe injury.

If, however, you do what athletes, acrobats and paratroopers are taught to do, you have a good chance of making a safe landing. The first principle is "don't resist." Relax, go limp and try to roll as you land. Ease yourself down with your arms bent. And walk with your knees slightly bent on a slippery surface and any damage from a fall may be minimized.

Combined Insurance safety researchers are advocating that children be taught to fall as soon as they have learned to walk. Every physical education program should include instruction in relaxed falling, they say, as insurance in later life against injury or even death. Childhood is the time to learn such an important safety measure.

The American Red Cross, the Safety Council, the Center for Disease Control, the Product Safety Commission and Combined Insurance agree that the greatest dangers from falling lurk in the home. That's where most falls occur, with the largest number of victims being over 65--and the second largest under 10.

There is agreement, too, that most falls could have been prevented with the simplest precautions. Here are some safety measures:

--Keep all clutter off the floors--toys, books, shoes, games, long telephone cords, skates, clothing--anything that one might be likely to trip over.

--Immediately wipe up all spills on kitchen and bathroom floors, stairways and other areas.

--Install safety night lights in areas in which family members walk at night.

--Make sure that loose rugs are firmly in place and curling or frayed edges are fastened down.

--Every stairway, even those with only one step, should have a firmly affixed railing.

--Never a load so large that you cannot see clearly where you are going when you use stairs and don't store anything on stairways, where booby traps often lurk.

--Never walk on smooth surfaces or stairs in slippery stocking feet.

--Install safety bars in bathtubs and showers to prevent slipping on wet surfaces.

--Be alert to the danger of tripping over small children and pets.

--In the yard, keep hoses well out of the way of walking areas and plug up holes that might be a hazard. Make sure that bikes, skates and other obstacles are out of driveways and sidewalks.

--In the garage, keep tools out of the way and clean up slippery spills.

In other words, Combined Insurance safety experts say, if into each life a fall must fall, try to do what you can to keep down the damage.

Annual Grape Stomp At Rose Hill

The Third Annual Grape Stomp, sponsored by the North Carolina Grape Growers Association and Duplin County Wine Cellars, will be held here September 27, 1980 on the grounds of Duplin County Wine Cellars.

Defending Grape Stomp Champion Dennis Rogers, columnist for the Raleigh News and Observer, will be on hand to try to retain his title against 11 other challengers.

The participant who extracts the most juice from 15 pounds of grapes within two minutes by stomping them, wins the contest.

The Grape Stomp is part of the Third Annual Grape and Wine Day which includes such activities as: wine tasting, a tour of the Duplin County Wine Cellars and Vineyard, a wine auction and a grape product judging contest, along with other grape exhibits and games.

The afternoon-long affair begins at 1 p.m.

Last year's Grape and Wine Day attracted some 1,200 people from throughout the state but the grape growers association and Duplin Wine Cellars are planning for several thousand people this year.

All activities and events are open to the public. Duplin Wine Cellars is located on N.C. 117 just inside the northern Rose Hill city limits.

Duplin Wine Cellars, one of three vineyards in North Carolina, participates in the North Carolina Department of Agriculture's "UNCAP" campaign to promote the use of North Carolina Agricultural Products.

Scientists Study Reef Ecology In Exotic Environs

By Madeleine Jacobs

SAN BLAS ISLANDS, Republic of Panama. Viewed from 2,000 feet out the window of a wind-tossed, 10-seater plane, the tiny white speck seems misplaced among these lush, palm-fringed islands, a chain of 350 emeralds glistening in the azure blue Caribbean waters for 170 miles along the coast of Panama.

The Kuna Indians, sole permanent inhabitants of the San Blas, call this snipet of land "Demar Tupu", or Ocean Island. But the people who lease it from the Kunas have nicknamed it "Ukup Tupu" or Sand Island.

This bit of tropical real estate is no Fantasy Island. With two primitive bamboo shacks and no electricity or running water, the island is a mere 3,000 square feet of arid sand and rocks, tentatively situated, like the rest of the San Blas islands, atop a series of coral reef platforms.

Fortunately, this very geological feature makes it an ideal base of operations for its tenants—a small group of young scientists from the Smithsonian Tropical Research Institute. Within a 10-minute boat ride from the island, they can explore with snorkel or scuba gear the underwater habitats and life histories of an incredible array of sea life—from sea urchins to fishes that change sex (the latter are found abundantly on coral reefs).

By studying what is happening on and to these reefs, scientists hope to gain better understanding of one of the most complex biological systems in the world.

Reefs are masses of calcium carbonate built up from the sea floor by the accumulation of the skeletons of a profusion of animals, especially corals, which are simple, multicellular animals. A remarkable feature of all reef-building corals is their symbiosis with single-celled algae, which actually live, conduct photosynthesis and divide within the cells of their coral hosts. This reef ecosystem supports more species of animals and plants than any other marine system. These animals and plants live in complex, competitive and sometimes symbiotic relationships with each other, providing a major source of food in the tropics.

At Demar Tupu, Smithsonian scientist Dr. Harris Lessios is trying to unravel some of these intricate reef relationships. The 29-year old Greek-born and U.S.-educated marine biologist has been investigating the impact of sea urchins on reef development.

Sea urchins are probably better known to swimmers and snorkelers as something to avoid—some of these spine-covered marine invertebrates belonging to the Echinoderm phylum can cause a nasty, though not usually poisonous, sting. Worldwide, there are more than 700 species of sea urchins, the result of millions of years of evolutionary good fortune.

Because they are not particularly mobile, sea urchins are relatively easy to study in one locale. Most important to Lessios, urchins are voracious eaters. In temperate waters—off New England coast, for instance—they decimate large populations of kelp, a giant brown seaweed that serves as a food source for many marine creatures. The eating habits of urchins in the tropics—which include grazing on algae as well as on living or dead coral—are not well-understood.

Lessios arrives at Demar Tupu each month after a journey by car, plane and boat from his laboratory on Naos Island, he spends 4½ hours a day, two weeks at a time, scuba diving to observe the common black sea urchin, Diadema antillarum.

To determine exactly what Diadema does to one coral species, a globe-like coral called Colpophyllia natans, Lessios is carrying out experiments 30 feet underwater on Mackerel reef, a small patch reef near Demar Tupu. The urchins are so plentiful there that they can literally cover a coral base like a prickly, black unwelcome mat. On the average, he has counted 11 urchins in every 10-square-foot area on this reef.

Hovering in the crystal clear water in wetsuit and air tank, Lessios selects two adjacent clumps of Colpophyllia. Then, he constructs a 3-foot-high wire fence around one clump of the coral. Next, he removes all the Diadema from the fenced area, carefully plucking them off the coral and surrounding ocean floor.

Fish are able to reach both sets of coral and graze on them and on the algae growing there. But because the fences have a horizontal lip, the urchins are unable to climb up and over the fences; they can reach only the fenced coral. Each month, Lessios returns to the 13 test sites built so far and measures how much the coral has grown and how much has been eaten. The difference in size between the fenced and unfenced coral is due primarily to the urchins.

"These urchins are true gluttons," Lessios says. "There are very definite indications that they inflict major damage on this type of coral, perhaps because Colpophyllia is softer than most other types of coral."

From hours of underwater observations and measurements, Lessios has pieced together this scenario: The urchins move onto a coral base that has already been damaged or killed by something else and begin to gobble away at the rate of a quarter or an ounce of calcium carbonate—the material making up the skeleton of the living coral—per animal per day. Lessios came to this conclusion after dissecting the stomachs of many urchins.

"This may not sound like much, but at this rate, each urchin can eat away a few inches of the coral base every couple of years," he notes.

One dramatic result of this gluttony is the formation of mushroom-shaped coral where a "cap" of live coral sits on a precariously slender calcium carbonate "stem". A strong wave can topple coral that has taken on this form, frequently resulting in its death.

On another nearby reef, Lessios has found very few Diadema and, perhaps not surprisingly, Colpophyllia fares much better there. "That Colpophyllia does so much better on the second reef is additional evidence that urchins are among its chief enemies," he says, "although other factors can also damage coral."

Although Lessios has found major damage to the coral from Diadema, he is not convinced that sea urchins are always detrimental to all kinds of coral.

"Some scientists have suggested that urchins may actually be beneficial in some cases," he says, "because they eat filamentous algae which can which can choke young coral colonies as they begin to grow on the ocean floor and try to establish themselves. But urchins are indiscriminate grazers. Whether they cause damage to coral may depend on how many urchins are in a given area."

To determine whether patterns of coral abundance are correlated with urchin populations, Lessios is expanding his fenced studies to seven other species of coral using other reefs around Demar Tupu. These long-term studies may take two years or more.

An assignment in such exotic environs might well make other scientists envious. But between diving and daily housekeeping chores, Lessios says he rarely has time to appreciate the beauty of his surroundings. And always there is a constant battle to keep the shoreline of the tiny, man-made island from returning to the ocean.

"Our hope is that these studies along with those conducted by others will give us more information about the various components of the reef ecosystem," Lessios says, "so that some day we may say with some confidence that we understand it."

Testing Programs Are Having Impact On Learning

In 1977, the General Assembly initiated two testing programs—one to measure student achievement in basic subjects at five grade levels, the other to test minimum competencies of eleventh graders.

The achievement test, referred to as the Annual Testing Program, is administered during a two-week period in early spring. A reading and math test are given in grades one and two. Students in grades three, six, and nine are tested in language arts as well as reading and math. The test is designed to give student performance information on skills and knowledge emphasized at the student's grade level. Teachers can easily pinpoint each student's learning strengths and difficulties and compare the performance of various groups of students.

The third year of testing continues to show the improvement illustrated in the first two years of testing. The July, 1980 results showed that most students scored at or above the national median although the state's ninth graders continued a three-year trend of scoring below the national median. All grades except third grade scored higher than last year on math and reading tests in terms of grade equivalency. The third grade stayed the same in reading.

The North Carolina Competency Test in reading and math is administered to eleventh graders beginning in the fall. It is designed to assure that high school graduates possess those minimum skills and the knowledge necessary to function in society, to provide a means of identifying strengths and weaknesses in the educational process, and to establish additional means for making the educational system accountable to the public.

All students must pass both parts of the competency test as a graduation requirement. Students who fail are given remedial instruction and other opportunities to pass the test. A senior who does not pass both parts of the competency test will receive a certificate instead of a diploma upon graduation.

State Competency Test results released in April showed that 71,795 North Carolina seniors (class of 1980) took the test. Some 70,814 (98.6 percent) successfully passed the reading portion; 70,565 (98.3 percent) passed the math section. Some 981 (1.4 percent) of the senior class did not pass the reading portion; 1,230 (1.7 percent) did not pass the math test. It was estimated that about 700 seniors failed both the reading and math test. The Class of 1980 is the first class issuing graduation certificates rather than diplomas to those failing the test.

A testing commission for each program secures and examines tests designed to evaluate academic achievement and reviews their validity and suitability. The Commission's evaluations and recommendations are filed with the State Board of Education. The Annual Testing Commission chaired by Eddie West, superintendent of the High Point Schools, Dr. Barbara Tapscott, director of secondary education for the Burlington City Schools, now heads the 15-member Commission.

penalty Test Commission. The Annual Testing Program will be administered March 24 - April 2 for grades 1 and 2; March 31 - April 2 for grades 3, 6, and 9. This year's fall competency test is scheduled for September 30 - October 1; the spring session is set for April 7 and 8.

Mocksville S&L Employees Attend Integon Conference

Employees from Mocksville Savings and Loan of Mocksville recently attended the ninth annual Integon-Savings and Loan On-Line Computer Conference on September 9 and September 10. The conference was sponsored by Integon Computer Corp.

More than 300 delegates from 139 savings and loan associations in Alabama, the Carolinas, Georgia, Tennessee and Virginia attended the conference at the Benton Convention Center in Winston-Salem.

Designed as a two-day industry discussion session, the conference included explanations of systems used by the computer company, future changes and improvements in these systems, a demonstration of terminals and tours of the Integon home office.

All of the savings and loans represented are customers of Winston-Salem-based Integon Computer, a subsidiary of Integon Corp. The company provides teller station service through terminals with high-speed data lines hooked up to telephones in Integon's computer. Transactions, such as deposit information, are fed directly into the computer by telephone lines and then are automatically processed.

Mount St. Helens Coincides With Quakes In California

The same year Mount St. Helens burst back into action in Washington state, more earthquakes than usual have been shaking California.

Researchers are looking into how the events may be linked. And the findings, if confirmed, could alter geological thinking on the tremendous forces at work below the Earth's surface.

"Usually scientists say there is no demonstrable connection between Mount St. Helens and the San Andreas Fault," said Dr. Robert Wesson, assistant director of research at the U.S.

Geological Survey. "Yet over the last 12 months there have been twice as many earthquakes greater than magnitude 5 1/2 in California than there have been in the previous six years altogether."

"In the last century," Wesson added, "when Mount St. Helens erupted for about 25 years, it stopped erupting in 1857. And that was exactly the same year that we had the last really major earthquake on the southern part of the San Andreas Fault, toward Los Angeles."

"We can't really rule out the possibility that there might be some connection, but we certainly don't understand it at the present time."

At the California Institute of Technology in Pasadena, geophysics professor Dr. Don L. Anderson found some tantalizing links by comparing volcanic and earthquake activity over the last few centuries in the western United States and Mexico.

He found that volcanoes in the Cascade Range—site of lively Mount St. Helens—often erupted about the same time as volcanoes in Mexico. And increased earthquake activity in California and Mexico was common at those times.

Studying what records there are, Anderson found that volcanoes were active in both the Cascades and Mexico in the mid-1700s, 1795-1802, 1854-57, 1869-72, 1882-85, 1913-17, and 1941. In almost all those times, earthquake activity was high in California and northern Mexico, he said.

"The distances are so great that the earthquakes and volcanoes can't possibly be causing each other," Anderson said. "But they can both be responding to a larger-scale geological stress."

This is where the concept of plate tectonics comes into the picture. In this relatively new field of study, scientists have found that beneath the continents and oceans, Earth's shell is a mosaic of huge, drifting crustal plates.

In places, the plates collide to form mountains, grind past each other, or dive under another plate. Most of the world's volcanoes and earthquakes happen near where these plates meet. The West Coast is one of these places.

Most of North America, from Mexico up to Alaska, rests on a single plate. Basically, Anderson is wondering if the North American plate motions can affect widely distant areas such as the Cascades, California, and Mexico over a relatively short time.

Ferguson Attends State Library Workshop

David Ferguson, Davie County Librarian, was among approximately 65 librarians from all over the state attending the Public Library Planning Workshop in Raleigh last week.

On Tuesday and Wednesday, September 9-10, the librarians gathered at Crabtree Valley Howard Johnson's for the two-day workshop designed to define and analyze the planning process and its application to public libraries.

Three well-known leaders discussed such topics as "Recent SOLINET

Developments and Plans for the Future"; "Planning—What it is, Who Needs It, What Does It Require"; and "Your Community Analysis and Planning."

Speakers included Dr. Richard I Levin, professor of business administration and associate dean for management programs at UNC-CH; Vernon E. Palmour, senior vice-president of King Research, Inc., of Rockville, Md.; and Lee Handley, executive director of SOLINET (Southeastern Library Network).

The workshop was sponsored by the N.C. Department of Cultural Resources, Division of State Library, and funded by LSCA (Library Services and Construction Act) Title I.

Mrs. Murphy is well known for her leadership in the Bloodmobile drives and her work at the Davie County Library. Mr. Ferguson is an executive with Wachovia Bank and is active in the Boy Scout program.

School Bus Safety

North Carolina operates one of the largest school bus transportation systems in the nation. With any mode of transportation, there are accidents. During the 1979-80 school year, there were 1,218 of them.

That figure is remarkably low when we consider that 12,361 buses travel 566,000 miles per day. In fact, it ranks among the lowest in the country.

Two deaths were attributed to school buses last year; ten the previous year. We all want answers to the same question: What can be done to insure school bus safety?

Assembly agreed to raise the school bus driver salary from $3.30 per hour to $3.50 per hour as of March 1, 1981, in an effort to attract more and better drivers. The General Assembly also concurred that school bus drivers must have at least six months experience as licensed drivers as of January 1, 1981.

To help identify people who pass a stopped school bus, the General Assembly ruled that proof that a motor vehicle has passed a stopped school bus while it is loading or unloading is prima facie evidence that the motor vehicle was operated at the time of the violation by the registered owner of the vehicle. This legislation becomes effective October 1, 1980.

Last year, new safety features including a walking control arm, which forced youngsters boarding or leaving the bus to walk six feet in front of the driver's view, and a set of five crossover mirrors which allowed a driver to see the blind spots in front of the bus, were installed.

A School Bus Safety Awareness Committee within the State Department of Public Instruction developed television and radio spot announcements, a parents' guide to school bus safety, bumper stickers, etc., to promote safety.

The Legislative Research Commission will report on its study of the Drivers' Education and the School Bus Drivers' Programs to the 1981 General Assembly. Additional legislation is probably forthcoming.

School bus deaths and accidents cannot be relegated to a single cause. North Carolinians are looking into every aspect of their transportation program to find ways to reduce casualties.

The State Board of Education adopted a resolution requiring principals to instruct their students on school bus safety during the first five days of the school year. Parents are urged to see that their children obey bus rules.

Some local units experimented with school bus monitors to determine if they would reduce the number of bus accidents. Many units will employ monitors again this year.

The competence of the school bus driver—especially the teenage school bus driver—was questioned many times last year. The 1980 General

State Fair To Feature Many Top Singers

An exciting entertainment line-up is scheduled for the 1980 North Carolina State Fair each evening at 7 p.m. in Dorton Arena.

Opening night, Friday, October 17, the enthusiastic Johnny Rodriguez, country music artist, will be in concert. On Saturday evening, October 18, Tar Heel Native, Donna Fargo, "The Happiest Girl in the U.S.A." will be thrilling the audience with her finest country and pop hits. The "First Family of Bluegrass Gospel Music," The Lewis Family will provide the entertainment on Sunday, October 19. Monday, October 20 will feature a former CMA Duo of the Year, Jim Ed Brown & Helen Cornelius. They have enjoyed success with their own syndicated TV show, "Nashville on the Road" which is currently shown in over 100 markets. The Spinners, with current popular recordings, "Cupid" and "Working My Way Back to You", will be in the spotlight Tuesday night, October 21. Dynamic Dottie West will be the headliner on Wednesday, October 22. Dottie has many songs of her own including "A Lesson In Leaving", plus successful duos with Kenny Rogers.

Thursday October 23, Johnny Duncan will be singing some of his old and new country tunes. Johnny's latest release was "The Lady in the Blue Mercedes". Tammy Wynette, "The First Lady of Country Music" will delight her audience with best sellers such as, "Stand By Your Man", "You and Me" at the Friday, October 24 performance. Saturday night, October 25, will find "The Silver Fox", Charlie Rich rendering his finest recordings of "Behind Closed Doors", "Very Special Love Song" and others. Rich is a popular male artist achieving fame, both in pop and country areas.

Admission is free to the Arena Shows and seating is available on a first come-first serve basis. Doors open at 6 p.m. Showtime 7 p.m.

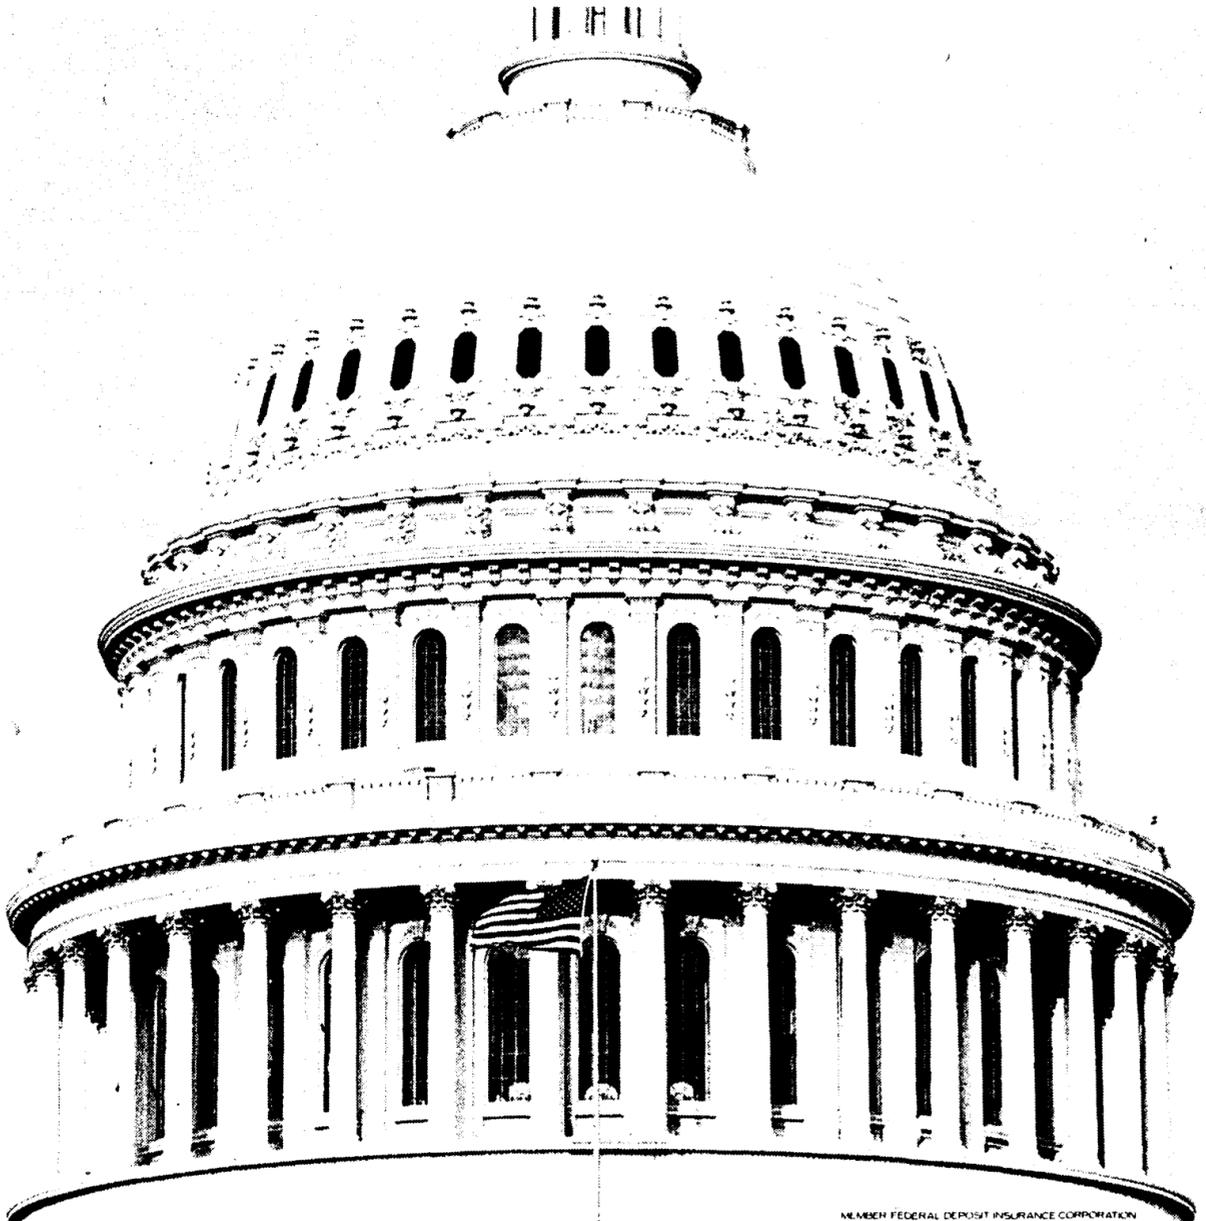

Entertainment on the outdoor stage will be musical variety provided by the Paul Caldwell Show, October 17-25 at 2 p.m., 3:30 p.m., and 5 p.m.

While the debate goes on over an economic policy for the nation, BB&T offers a sound economic policy for your family.

At Branch Banking and Trust, we believe that saving money is sound economic policy.

We've maintained that simple philosophy even through times of high inflation—when the popular wisdom said spend, not save. And today, we believe saving makes more sense than ever.

Saving is the one way you can be sure of having the money you need for the things you want. And with some help from BB&T, you can protect your savings from inflation to a greater degree than you might have expected.

When it comes to saving money, not everyone's needs are equal.

For some people, saving money means a savings account—and that's always a very good way to save.

BB&T also offers a number of alternatives to regular savings accounts—alternatives that can earn you higher interest.

Consider, for example, our Certificates of Deposit*, which allow you to choose a maturity from 30 days to 8 years and a corresponding interest rate on deposits as low as

$500. Or high-yield Money Market Certificates for deposits of $10,000 and more.**

With these and other savings plans, BB&T can help you put together a comprehensive savings program that will give you the best rate of return on your money and the kind of flexibility you need.

Exercise your inalienable right to save for your own future.

We can't predict what the state of the national economy is going to be. And the debate in Washington over such matters will go on and on.

What we do know, however, are the ways in which saving regularly has improved the lives of BB&T customers through the years. We want you to share in the security and the good life many of them have known.

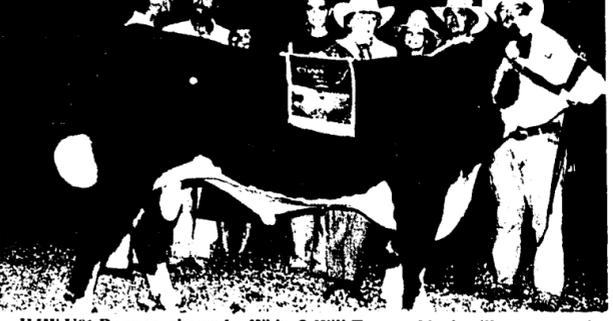

So while you're waiting to see where the economy is headed, take the future into your own hands. Start a savings plan at BB&T.

THE MIGHTY Colorado River is reduced to a mere trickle after fulfilling its last commitment—a Mexican irrigation system. Vital to the West, the river brings life to 3 million acres of irrigated desert and to burgeoning Sunbelt cities on its 1,450-mile cascade from the snow-clad Rocky Mountains to the dry Mexican sands.

Water Reigns Supreme In The Parched West

Water management means life to the West, and people out there don't take kindly to Easterners who label efforts to corral the liquid, "pork barrel projects."

Aware that their homes, farms, and cities simply would not exist without it, Westerners have unabashedly manipulated water on a scale never before seen on earth.

The Colorado River is a good example. Though it carries only as much volume as the 306-mile Hudson River, the Colorado not only sustains burgeoning Sunbelt cities, but irrigates 3 million acres of desert on its 1,450-mile course through the arid West to Mexico.

So far the river still delivers the watery goods, but this could change in about 10 years, reports Thomas Y. Canby in the August National Geographic. Then the vast Central Arizona Project will begin pumping 90 tons of water a second 815 feet high, so it can be carried by tunnel through the Buckskin Mountains and channeled 310 miles eastward to bolster the dwindling groundwater supplies of Phoenix and Tucson.

The $1.6 billion project will divert 390 billion gallons of water a year. At this point, many experts believe demand for Colorado River water will begin to exceed supply. Indian rights also may influence the delicate balance.

Many treaties mention Indian water rights, and federal courts grant them legal priority. A mammoth government project now under way will bring more than 110,000 acres of the Navajo Reservation in New Mexico under irrigation. The venture could suddenly transform a largely pastoral people into farming entrepreneurs.

Californians have a big stake in the Colorado, too. No water flows out of arid southern California into the Colorado. But, like tributaries in reverse, two man-made rivers carry Colorado water in California.

One of these giant aqueducts irrigates the Imperial Valley. The other flows 242 miles to the Los Angeles area, where it helps Californians enjoy the blessings of water without the inconvenience of abundant rainfall.

The Colorado's bounty has its limitations, however. In Utah the Dolores River joins the Colorado, CONCRETE PIPE sections are muscled into place for the Central Arizona Project that will divert 390 billion gallons of Colorado River water a year to thirsty central Arizona. Many experts think demand for the water will begin to exceed supply when the project begins operating in about 10 years.

bringing a dubious dowry. On its way to the meeting point, the Dolores flows over the Paradox Valley salt beds. Each day they feed the equivalent of 11 railroad cars of salt into the Dolores.

Other tributaries pour in more salts, and so does man. Water irrigating desert fields dissolves about two tons an acre a year and bears it back to the river.

Between the contributions of man and nature, the Colorado treights 10 million tons of salt a year. Along lower reaches, crops wither, land must be abandoned, and losses climb above $50 million a year.

Nearly 10 years ago, Mexico sharply protested this contamination, and today the United States is building a $260 million desalting plant in Yuma, Ariz. Using a process known as reverse osmosis, it will be the world's largest desalination operation.

Folk-Ways and Folk-Speech

by Rogers Whitener

Ducks Unlimited is not a club for feathered creatures. Rather it is a sportsman's club whose basic purpose is to preserve the breeding grounds of ducks and other waterfowl, primarily along the Canadian shoreline.

Latest report: eleven thousand miles of shoreline preserves.

Local chapters of the organization meet annually to discuss their common project, to devise fund raising strategies, and to exchange hunting stories.

At a recent Watauga County Ducks Unlimited dinner, most of the stories focused on quail-hunting. Some of them, with a bit of tailoring, can be retold for public consumption.

Such as the one about the quail-hunting mule.

A very intelligent creature, the mule was the pride of his master, who taught it all manner of unmulish skills, including the art of pointing and holding a covey of quails.

"A man don't need no dog when he's got old Buck around," he bragged. "If there is a quail within a half a mile that mule will hold him until I get in shooting range."

Finally a doubting acquaintance asked for a demonstration of Old Buck's hunting prowess.

The owner was quick to oblige, and on an appointed day they went into the fields. Old Buck ambling along in front.

Suddenly he reversed directions, his tale stiffly pointed, his back arched, his lips drawn back from his yellow teeth.

The two hunters approached and up flew a brace of quail.

Boom! And one of the birds tumbled into a nearby thicket. "Fetch," said the owner, and into the woods went old Buck, his eyes intent, his nose sniffing the ground.

In a few moments he emerged, the partridge held delicately between his huge teeth. Laying the bird on the ground before his owner, he stepped back for praise.

Both men dutifully applauded his performance. The friend however, distrustful of a one-time thing, asked for a further pointing demonstration.

Old Buck and his owner were quite willing, so across the fields they continued their way.

Soon Old Buck went into his patented pointing act, but when the hunters walked his hold only a single flew up. Again the guns sounded, again a partridge tumbled, and again Old Buck went into his retrieval act.

"Well, what do you think of my quail-hunting mule now?" said the owner.

"Never seen anything like it in my life," said the erstwhile doubter. "I notice, though, that the birds are kinda scarce through here. So far we've hit only a pair and a single. How would it be to walk over to my place? I saw two or three coveys along the borders of my corn field last week."

"Well, I guess that would be all right," said the owner, "but isn't your corn field on the other side of the river?"

"That's right," said his friend. "But that's no problem. The river is down right now and we can wade across. Your mule isn't afraid of the water, is he?"

"Lord no," said the owner. "That mule can swim like a fish. Only trouble is that every time he gets near that river he wants to fish and I know blamed well we'd get no more hunting in today!"

One Of The Best In The State

The Davie County Rescue Squad

By Marlene Benson

The Davie County Rescue Squad is on duty 24 hours a day, seven days a week. No call goes unanswered.

There is no emergency too great nor an incident too small to merit their services.

The members, who hold regular jobs in addition to their rescue squad responsibilities, serve on a completely voluntary basis as a back-up team for the local ambulance service.

Whether the call be for assistance in a bad auto accident or other tragedy, or to rescue a dog from an open well...it is always answered.

They have a unit on stand-by at all Little League and High School ballgames, local tractor pulls, dragstrip, Masonic Picnic, etc. During the winter when snow prevents the nurses from getting to the hospital or nursing home, the Rescue Squad is their chauffeur.

The Rescue Squad provides a back-up unit for the Bike-A-Thons, Special Olympics, and earlier this year, they removed a cow that had gotten stuck in the mud on the river bank at the Salisbury Pump Station.

The Davie Unit is always ready to lend a helping hand to other Rescue Squads, no matter how near or how far away. If a call comes in for help, the squad gets rolling.

There are times when squad members are out all day and all night, and possibly for days. In cases such as drownings, dredging operations can go on sometimes for days before the victim is found.

Earlier this year, the Davie Rescue Squad assisted in dragging operations on Lake Norman for the body of a man. The 12 local men spent 144 man hours in the search.

And, on another occasion, 15 men spent 135 man hours in Yadkin County assisting in a ground search for a downed aircraft.

In June of this year, the squad searched for 10 to 12 hours before finding the body of a man who had been hit by a train behind Anderson Lumber Company. The train had knocked the body into some nearby underbrush.

The Rescue Squad is a non-profit organization. They never refuse help to anyone who calls. They expect nothing in return.

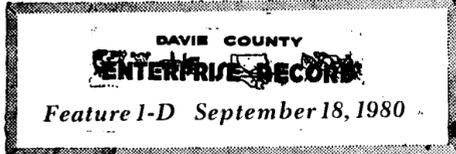

There have been occasions, according to Mrs. Betty Jean Freeman (a member of the Rescue Squad Auxiliary), when they answered calls from those who cannot afford an ambulance, or those who have no insurance to help with such matters.

Today there are 27 active members in the Davie Squad, including 12 Emergency Medical Technicians (EMT) four of which are IV Certified. They also have one woman member, Mrs. Tom (Nancy) Cook, a Licensed Practical Nurse and certified EMT.

Health Tips

From The American Medical Association

Fall is approaching and with its cool weather comes the season for the common cold and other minor respiratory infections. Although they are not usually serious, colds CAN be annoying, and unless you are careful you could be one of the majority who will sniffle and sneeze their way through autumn and into winter.

There are over 100 different viral agents that can cause colds. Symptoms include a tickling, dry sensation in the throat, cough, nasal congestion, fever, bodyache, and chills.

Colds and other minor respiratory ailments caused by viruses are self-limiting. This means that they do not respond to antibiotics and will generally run their course regardless of what medications you take.

The most obvious way of avoiding a cold is to avoid contact with anyone who has one. If you are susceptible to the virus, however, it will become noticeable about 24 hours after your first exposure to the germ, although the range in time can be from 12 to 72 hours. Generally, a cold is communicable one day before onset and up to five days afterward.

If you do catch a cold, aspirin and aspirin substitutes will help, coupled with plenty of rest and liquids. Although these are the three basic ingredients for recovery, you should consult your physician if your condition persists.

Most colds do not last longer than several days to a week with rest and medication. DO learn to respect your cold, however, because it weakens the body's resistance to more serious illnesses such as bronchitis, middle ear infections, and pneumonia.

Here are a few tips for avoiding colds:

--Avoid face-to-face breathing and turn away when coughing or sneezing.

--Wash hands frequently with soap and water.

--Avoid sharing the same food, liquids, utensils, towels or sleeping quarters with anyone who has a cold.

--Use disposable tissues rather than handkerchiefs.

--Avoid physical and emotional stress.

--If going outdoors in cold or damp weather, dress appropriately.

Should you catch a cold, treat it at the beginning to assure a quicker and more complete recovery.

THE GOLDEN RULE IN ACTION

When serious illness strikes a farm family at planting time, the entire community is awakened to the potential tragedy brewing.

If the seeds aren't sown, the crops can't be harvested. No harvest, no income, and a neighbor family lies prostrate, in debt and in need.

This happened within the church family of the tiny community where I served. A business meeting was called one Sunday morning after church. My heart was deeply stirred as the farmer-deacon, in urging others to help this one in need, said, "It's not anything we're offering to do that he wouldn't do for us. And providing what he needs means more to me than anything else in the world."

Neighbors and friends, including his pastor, turned out that week, and for weeks to come. We did the planting, the chopping and the cultivating until our friend was on his feet.

The Golden Rule was never more beautifully and masterfully stated and illustrated. And the story of the Good Samaritan came alive for me forever.

—Paul M. Stevens

It Is Now Bob King's Chevrolet, Inc.

Bob King, a Winston-Salem car dealer, has been named new owner of Pennington's Chevrolet Company in Mocksville. The sale was officially announced September 10 by O.K. Pope, former corporation president.

Pope indicated that his age was the prime reason for selling the locally owned dealership. "I've had 50 years with Chevrolet," he said, "It's time to hang it up."

King declined comment on purchase price of the dealership. He did comment, however, that his investment here totalled $250,000.

In announcing the sale, Pope expressed thanks to the many Davie residents for their patronage through the years.

"We have fine people in this county," he said, "and I am grateful for the business they have given Pennington's Chevrolet over the past 28 years."

He also commented that he hoped people would give the same support to the new owner, Bob King.

The new dealership will be known as Bob King's Chevrolet, Inc. King, a former AMC Jeep dealer in Winston-Salem, commented that he purchased the Chevrolet franchise because it offers "products of the future." King also owns a Winston-Salem based Mazda dealership.

New employees include Alan Burton of Mount Airy, sales manager; Ken Byrd, Winston-Salem, parts manager; Sam Keaton, Booneville, business manager; Sandy Draughn, William Graves, salesmen; and Gordon Ward, Mount Airy, service manager.

King said that the new dealership would carry larger inventory of new and used cars plus and extended line of parts. Service hours are 7:30 a.m. through 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and 8:00 a.m. through 5:00 p.m. Saturdays.

Sales hours are from 8:00 a.m. - 1:00 p.m. Saturdays.

Commenting on his purchase of the local Chevrolet dealership King said, "We will try to sell and service the community with the same quality and courtesy of previous owners."

Pennington's Chevrolet Company was established in Mocksville in 1938 by the late William M. Pennington. Following his death in 1952, Pennington Chevrolet, Inc. was organized with O.K. Pope as president and Jack Pennington as secretary-treasurer.

The corporation filed dissolution papers July 17 with the Secretary of State. The liquidation was handled by the law firm of Hudson, Petree, Stockton, Stockton and Robinson of Winston-Salem.

King, a native of Caswell County, currently resides in Winston-Salem.

Chevrolet Agencies In Davie Date Back To June 1926

By Gordon Tomlinson
The first reference to a Chevrolet agency for Davie County was a news item in the Mocksville Enterprise in June 1926:

"J. Reed Edwards and H.R. Martin of Ronda opened a general repair shop in the Clement building which was recently occupied by the Mocksville Motor Company and are prepared to give you the best of service in repair work."

"This company has the agency for the Chevrolet cars and parts for this territory."

"This business is under the management of Edwards who will move his family here next week and will occupy the Mo-Do-No-Ca Lodge."

This business operated from June 1926 to October 1926 as the Davie Chevrolet Company. It was located in the triangle site made by Avon and Wilkesboro Streets in front of the present FCX Store.

MARTIN CHEVROLET CO., INC.
In the October 14, 1926 issue of the Mocksville Enterprise appeared the announcement that: "Martin Chevrolet Company, Inc. has taken over the stock, parts and fixtures of the Davie Chevrolet Company and invite you to call in and inspect our place under new management. Ex-Sheriff George F. Winecoff, who is well known in Davie County and surrounding counties is now connected with the company and will be pleased to have his old friends call on him at any time."

On October 25, 1927, H.R. Martin was fatally injured in an auto accident near North Wilkesboro. He died at age 30.

TOMLINSON CHEVROLET CO.
In the April 19, 1928 issue of the Mocksville Enterprise appeared the following announcement:

"A.A. Tomlinson and son, C.H., have secured the Chevrolet Agency for Davie County, succeeding the Martin Chevrolet Company, Inc., and are now ready to sell you one of the 'bigger and better Chevrolets.'"

"Mr. Tomlinson has had much experience with the automobile business in this city, and his experience will enable him to give you the very best of sales and service obtainable anywhere."

FULGHUM CHEVROLET

In June of 1934 it became the Fulghum Chevrolet Company, being so announced by the following news item:

J.H. Fulghum of Mountain Park has moved to our town and is living in the Neely House on North Main Street. Mr. Fulghum has opened the Chevrolet Company formerly known as Tomlinson Chevrolet Company, and will operate under the name of Fulghum Chevrolet Company.

"Mr. Fulghum and his salesmen, A.R. Tomlinson, J. Livingston Williams and G.F. Winecoff invite you to see the new 1934 Chevrolets."

"C.H. Tomlinson has charge of the service department and invites all automobile owners to bring their automobile troubles and leave them with him."

HOME CHEVROLET COMPANY

Six months later the agency, still located in the same original spot, became the Home Chevrolet Company. At the time of the change over in January 1935, F.B. Trivette was office manager for Fulghum Chevrolet. Mrs. Fulghum, an ordained minister, served for many years as pastor of the First Baptist Church of Mocksville.

Home Chevrolet was formed in January 4, 1935 with Thomas A. Stone in charge. (Stone had formerly been associated with Sanford Motor Co.) During the next two years a new building was erected by W.W. Smith next to the Sinclair Service Station. The agency moved into this site early in 1938, holding the grand opening event in February of that year.

On May 8, 1938, Stone died of self-inflicted wounds at his home on North Main Street. Within two months the Chevrolet Agency was operating under new management with the Home Chevrolet Company issuing the following announcement:

"Home Chevrolet Company announced that it has sold stock, merchandise and equipment. However, we still have used cars, notes and accounts. G.L. (Lee) Craven will continue in charge of the used cars. Headquarters will be at the Sinclair Service Station operated by J.W. Rodwell."

PENNINGTON CHEVROLET CO.

On July 1, 1938, W.M. Pennington of Winston-Salem and W.W. Smith of Mocksville purchased the Home Chevrolet Company. The announcement was made that it would operate under the name of Pennington Chevrolet Company with Bill Pennington serving as general manager. The service department was under the supervision of George Evans Jr. James F. Stonestreet was office manager and had charge of the parts department.

With the outbreak of World War II, Bill Pennington closed the automobile business to serve with the Department of Defense Transportation with offices in Winston-Salem. Following the cessation of the war, he returned to Mocksville, re-opened the Chevrolet agency, and soon expanded it into larger and more modern quarters on the northeast side of Wilkesboro Street, the present location.

PENNINGTON CHEVROLET CO., INC.

Following the death of W.M. Pennington in July 1952, the business was reorganized as Pennington Chevrolet Company, Inc., with O.K. Pope as president and general manager, and Jack Pennington as secretary and treasurer.

On July 10, 1980 a notice of the dissolution of the Pennington Chevrolet Company, Inc. was published. This was followed early in August with the purchase of the stock of the corporation by Bob King of Winston-Salem.

Rescue Squad

She does just what the rest of us do", says Squad Chief Marvin Hellard. "Nancy works in all phases of rescue work like all of us."

There are 15 active members of the Ladies Auxiliary. They, too, are a great help when the men are out for hours in rescue operations. They take food to the scene and sometimes spend all night at the scene. They are always willing to help out, whenever and wherever they are needed.

"Anytime we need the assistance of a squad from another county", says Mrs. Freeman, "We never invite them here without feeding them."

The auxiliary holds bake sales and other fund-raising projects and this money may be used for social functions for the squad members and their families. However, any moneys donated to the Rescue Squad is never, but never, used for anything except equipment and supplies.

Contributions are gladly accepted, but they never ask for anything for their services.

The Rescue Squad has answered 96 calls to date this year and spent a total of 1,360 man hours. The squad has continued to grow and improve since it was organized in 1958, and chartered on September 21, 1960.

Squad members are also members of the Eastern North Carolina and the Western North Carolina Rescue Squad Associations and the Benevolent Brotherhoods.

These organizations are composed of dedicated volunteers, all working towards helping those in need...and asking for nothing in return.

"Occasionally you may find someone who can create a few problems, but things usually work out just fine" says Arthur Freeman. Like the time he recalled when the Davie Unit was called to assist McDowell County in a search for duck hunters on Lake James. The Game Warden would not let them (McDowell) put their boat in the water because it was not registered. "It did not have to be registered for this service," said Freeman. "The warden didn't know all he should have."

The members also remember the time when a ground search for a downed balloonist was conducted on horseback. They soon called for a helicopter from Greensboro and the balloonist was spotted in a matter of minutes.

Marvin Hellard, squad chief since 1963, and Abe Howard, chaplain since 1961, have put a great deal of man hours into a very worthwhile operation. These men are good examples of the calibre of people associated with the Davie Rescue Squad.

The members have attended the School of N. C. Rescue Institute, the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill, and completed training by the N. C. Department of Insurance, not to mention the other training programs in which they have been involved.

The squad has a good training program themselves which is conducted during the regular meetings. They keep their equipment in good shape and stay on top of the most up-to-date training available.

In Davie County if you should need the services of the Rescue Squad, you will have one of the best in the state.

The Walter Daniels Honored At Luncheon

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Daniels of Pine Ridge Road were honored guests at a luncheon Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn McDaniel of Cooleemee in celebration of their birthday anniversaries. Mrs. Daniels birthday was September 8th, and Mr. Daniels birthday is September 21st.

Approximately 20 guests, including relatives and close friends, attended the courtesy which was held on the lawn of the McDaniel home.

Underground Water

The United States draws about half its drinking water from underground. Each year nearly a million new wells puncture the landscape, says National Geographic.

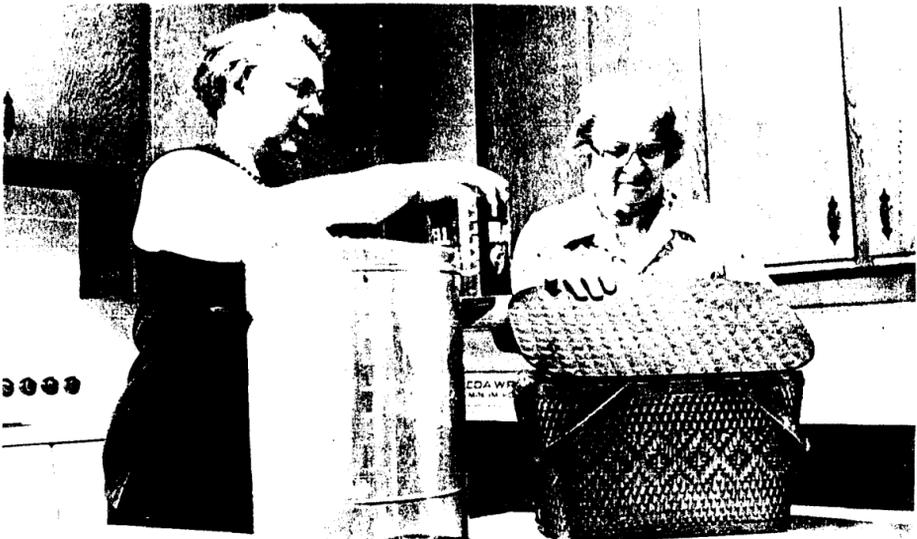

Joseph Randolph will be Gideon speaker Sunday, September 21, at Fork Baptist church at 11 a.m. Randolph is one of six charter members of the Davie County Chapter of Gideons. He is a member of Bethlehem United Methodist church and has served on several boards and is a Sunday school teacher. The Gideons distribute Bibles in more than 125 countries. These Bibles can be found in motels, jails, hotels, hospitals and many other locations.

Cooleemee Women Honored By Avon

Miss Emma Rae Spry and Miss Lynn Queen, both of Cooleemee, were awarded President's Club pendant watches and President's Club pins for 1981 by Avon Company Thursday during the regular meeting in Yadkinville.

Mrs. Dot Whicker, District Manager for Avon, made the presentations.

These two winners were among the top Avon representatives in the three-county district.

Mrs. Arthur Freeman and Mrs. Abe Howard prepare food to take to squad members during a lengthy rescue mission.

Know how.

Having a little know how can go a long way these days. Like knowing the ins and outs of buying a home. The do's and don'ts of saving energy. The ups and downs of investing.

So that's why the Consumer Information Center of the U.S. Government put together this helpful little catalog.

The Consumer Information Catalog. It lists more than two hundred federal publications you can send for.

All of which can help put you in the know. About your car, your home, your health, your finances, your plumbing, you name it.

Better yet, the catalog is free. And more than half the publications in it are, too.

A New Role In Glass Takes Shape

By David M. Maxfield

After 35 centuries of utilitarian use, glass now is appearing in a new role and a universe of new shapes. Contemporary artists are working the ancient material into nonfunctional, imaginative sculpture-intriguing forms that can be satirical, funky, shocking, amusing, awesome, brash or sometimes just playful.

If the objects are at all decorative in the traditional gift shop sense—or possibly even practical—those features are largely secondary to the craftsman's principal intention to experiment with the artistic and physical properties of glass.

Produced in small studio furnaces now available to independent sculptors, the new glass is making a major impression internationally: on other artists, gallery owners, museums, the glass industry and a new breed of collectors.

"People have a concept of what glass is," Michael Monroe, curator at the Smithsonian's Renwick Gallery in Washington, D.C., says, "but when they see what is now being created, they react. 'I didn't realize it could look like that, be used like that.'"

From at least 1500 B.C., the time of the oldest known existing vessels, which were made in Egypt, glass has been the substance for making useful objects, whether mundane or highly ornamental—jugs, bowls and vases, beads and trinkets, for example. Later came window panes, optical devices, lights, electronic components and, most recently, laser fibers.

But only in the last 20 years or so has glass caught the eye of American artists as an ideal material for personal expression, a substance that can be shaped for purely aesthetic purposes. Innovative glass-melting techniques, happily developed in the early 1960s, made this possible. And so did a new wave of teaching in museums and at colleges as well as changing American cultural attitudes about art after the 1950s.

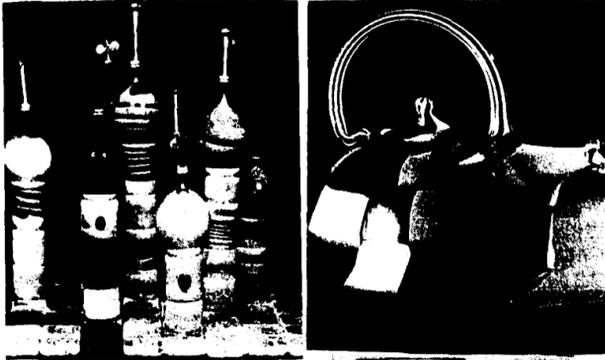

The new world of abstract, sculptural shapes created by glass artists is not a result of mass production. Each object is unique, thus accounting for prices running into the hundreds or even thousands of dollars. Unlike a factory operation where design and fabrication are kept separate, the studio artists mold or blow and then shape the glass from their own designs, sometimes with the aid of an associate or two.

This is appealing to today's collectors, Monroe says. "Many want to be connected to the artists, to follow their work; they just don't want to buy an anonymous object."

The look of the new creations often can be conjured up by their names: "Wooly Eggs"—delicate, clear oval shapes containing spun glass threads; "Small Black Unidentified Animal Plate"—black amber glass with, well, an unidentified animal outlined in white; "Sparkling Star"—greenish cut and cemented plate glass, radiating from a central core along six planes, and "Space Spiral II"—tinted glass, laminated and cut, sweeping upward in a 270-degree arc.

"Glass is being conceived and appreciated in ways radically different from anything ever done before in its 3,500-year history," according to Thomas S. Buechner, president and director of The Corning Museum of Glass, Corning, N.Y. "Also evident," he continues, "is the fact that while craft and art are blooming, the glass industry is sitting relatively still. This may be because changes elsewhere are so novel and so evident that they overshadow the steady, more subtle improvements being made through design departments...."

Whether the studio glass is clear or opaque, sandblasted or shattered, geometric or freeform, bright and shiny or dull—in fact, whether it is considered fine art or craft—little concerns such curators as Monroe and the artists

Fragile Substance Into Functionless Art

After centuries of utilitarian use, glass is taking on a new role as artists and designers turn the fragile substance into functionless art. Among the latest creations, made possible by advances in melting techniques, are (clockwise): "Castle in the Air," by Ulla Forsell (Sweden), "Non-Functional Checkerboard Teapot," by Richard Marquis (United States) and "Sport Prizes for Weight Lifters" by Adolf Kurilov (USSR). These objects were recently displayed at the Smithsonian's Renwick Gallery in Washington, D.C.

themselves. "What an object is made of or how it is created shouldn't determine whether it is art," Monroe says. "What is important are the ideas behind the piece you're looking at. Does the object make a statement that transcends its technical merits?"

Pioneer glass artist and teacher Marvin Lipofsky, a Californian, agrees. "My biggest problem is that there's no personality in (many of the) works today. It's all technique. A statement is lacking in a lot of them."

Actually, the glass-making process and techniques have been pretty well mastered by the studio artists in recent years, a long journey from the early 1960s when there was practically no information available, as one of today's leading craftsmen, Thomas Patti of Massachusetts, recalls.

A versatile, flexible, taffy-like material in its molten state, glass is made by melting sand with the proper amounts of soda and lime to a 1500-degree Fahrenheit glowing mass. This simple process, however, becomes more complex by adding cobalt, iron or other metallic oxides to the basic recipe to obtain color characteristics.

To Patti and other artists, the beauty of the material is that it is "expressive," that it can be twisted and controlled unlike any other substance. But "it's a kind of a wrestling match with glass," Patti says. "It's a battle to make the glass speak my language and not let the glass dictate to me."

Although glass had been molded and formed around a core as early as 2000 B.C., the major breakthrough in glassmaking came in the Near East about the beginning of the Christian era. This was the discovery of glass-blowing, an important technique used today by both industry and the studio artist. The discovery permitted the production of glass objects in quantities and types previously unknown.

A second advance of comparable importance occurred early in the 19th century with the introduction of glass-pressing and bottle-making developed at the outset of the Industrial Revolution. But ironically these changes made glass so widely available that it began to be taken for granted, losing much of its earlier stature.

Enter New York glassmaker Louis Comfort Tiffany, France's Rene Lalique and other artists whose unique and ornate designs helped renew public interest in the material. Inspired by ancient glass, Tiffany, for example, created elaborate, one-of-a-kind, leaded glass windows, iridescent vases and now-prized decorative lamps.

The studio artist is a late link in the chain of reaction to mass-produced glass, but this generation, unlike Tiffany's, has parted from the old concepts that kept glass in functional forms for centuries. Many of these contemporary artists, too, seem little interested in the clean, geometric international design principles that have influenced designers since the 1920s.

The results, as revealed in a recent juried exhibition that was organized by The Corning Museum of Glass and appeared at the Smithsonian's Renwick Gallery, are fascinating: Some of the pieces are purely abstract, others offer social commentary ("Another Look at My Beef with the Government" is one title) and some, like "Blackbird Scent Bottles," satirize functional objects.

The diversity of studio glass now coming out of American small towns and urban centers is striking to Monroe. "All glass deals with light," he says, "but some artists are more fascinated with its reflective qualities while others are concerned with its opaque aspects. Others are concerned with its delicacy and some with chunks, with mass."

In contrast to the "orderly and polite...tidier, more self-contained" functional glass of the 1950s, says design critic Russell Lynes, today's work is "more romantic and flowing on the one hand and expressionist and tough on the other. Its costume is blue jeans, not black tie."

Stereotype Southerner Of Old Being Replaced By New Middle-Class

By Lou Bonds

Whatever happened to good old Southern boys, rednecks if you will, whose Saturday night special was crushing beer cans over their heads?

And whatever happened to those pillars of Southern aristocracy who wore white suits and said "heah" instead of "here"?

Oh, they're still around, says a University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill sociologist, especially in the hearts and minds of many Northerners and other Americans who cling to those stereotypes of the "typical" Southerner.

But the fact is, says Dr. John Shelton Reed, associate professor of sociology, the typical Southerner of old has been replaced by new, middle-class Southerners more apt to pronounce their

"rs" correctly and send away for T-shirts identifying themselves in big, bold letters as a SOUTHERNER.

You just don't hear as much about them, Reed says, because they don't have a proper stereotype.

"Somewhere between the planters and their set, on the one hand, and the poor whites and the poor blacks of the South on the other, a large part of our region's population has slipped through the cracks," Reed says.

"Although scholars have paid some attention to the black and white middle classes, our cultural mythmakers have pretty well ignored them."

The nation's first family is typical of the stereotype gap, Reed says.

President Jimmy Carter makes a lot of Americans uncomfortable, not because they disagree with his politics or doubt his ability, but because they can't pinpoint his style, Reed says.

"His combination of professionalism and piety, of informality and rigidity, was something new to their experience," he says. "After two years of his administration, a 'New Yorker' correspondent confessed: 'There is something about Jimmy Carter which makes him opaque to me...with him, I am in the dark.'"

Billy Carter and Miz Lillian, on the other hand, pose no problems, Reed says. Billy's whooping and hollering and down-home speech fits right into a familiar stereotype, which Billy probably knew in advance and played to the hilt.

As for Miz Lillian, Reed says, well,

"even Walter Cronkite knew to fetch a chair for that Southern grande dame."

In truth, Reed says, the Carters are Southern middle class—a little on the upper side, maybe—and don't fit into any of the stereotypes thrust upon them. They are typical of a social stratum that is growing at a phenomenal rate.

In 1930, Reed says, only 15 percent of the South's labor force worked at white collar jobs. By 1970, that figure had tripled and Reed feels sure that the 1980 census will show a majority of all Southern workers in white collar jobs with the largest increases being made in managerial, administrative, professional and technical occupations.

So if the old stereotypes don't fit, then what are these people like?

Reed suggests the answer can be found in magazines devoted to instruction in the proper way of Southern living. These are the magazines, he says, that tell migrants from the North and socially uplifted natives of the South that every Southern garden has azaleas and that ham and Southern hospitality go hand in hand.

"This is useful information, both for recent migrants—who want to fit and for Southerners whose childhood gardens featured more tomatoes, okra and snap beans than azaleas and who were not eating high enough on the hog to be anywhere near ham," he says.

These are the magazines that advertise T-shirts to tell Southerners where they come from, Reed says, information that was hardly necessary in the old days when the stereotypes were well-developed.

The magazines will tell you that many Southern traditions still persist, such as good eating, gardening, outdoor sports, travel and visiting neighbors. In that respect, they differ only slightly from Northern magazines except that the recipes are for tailgate parties and wild game, and the liquor advertisements are overwhelmingly for bourbon.

Reed says that sociological research shows that some attributes of the pre-industrial South are on the decline: racism, authoritarianism and similar attributes. The Southern accent has changed; it's more precise.

In trust, he says, Southerners ARE different from the American mainstream, but nowhere as different as they used to be.

Suzanne Says ...

If you are in Lancaster County Pennsylvania in June and on the 14-15 you won't want to miss the Mt. Hope Estate and winery with its imposing Victorian mansion and formal gardens.

It is the sight of the outdoor art show which is held every year on the same date. Over 150 juried artists and craftsmen will exhibit at this show. They feature live entertainment and music for the whole family.

Arts, crafts, music and wine are all features of the elegant Victorian event.

Take heart—the age of elegance is not over—it lives and breathes at the Mt. Hope Estate and winery, five miles north of Manheim.

This 87 acre estate with its imposing mansion and formal gardens will serve as a backdrop for the Mt. Hope outdoor art show. It is a beautiful mansion.

Art is not the only entertainment at this splendid Victorian bash—music, skits, and fashion will lend a special charm to the weekend.

The old springhouse on the estate will provide a natural setting for some of the performers and "The Grand Avenue" the original impinging entrance to the mansion will lie another picturesque state.

Musical entertainment includes a mixture of contemporary folk and jazz music by Tracey Meyer who plays guitar and sings; a blue grass group, and the Bourbon Street Trio.

Although Victorian children were "seen and not heard" you are most welcome to make the art show a family affair and there is plenty of entertainment for the younger set.

Whats all this Victorian without a glass of wine—well the best is saved till the last.

Mt. Hope is a winery. You will be able to sip and buy from their excellent selection. You will also be able to tour the mansion known to Land-cestersians as the "Grubb Mansion". It was built by Henry Grubbs in 1800 and the tour includes a wine tasting in the Billiard Room.

Something different, from the regular run of art shows—very educational.

"Selling Land And The Valuables Thereon In Southeast USA"

Causes And Treatment Of Leaky Basements

A dry, pleasant basement for work, hobbies, storage, and extra living space is an asset to anyone buying or selling a home as well as to the family fortunate enough to have and enjoy its use year in and year out. Conversely, a damp, musty basement taints the value of the entire house as an investment and is a source of continuing annoyance for those attempting to use it.

No foolproof cure exists for wet basements, warns the Better Business Bureau, despite what a glib salesperson or home improvement contractor may promise. A homeowner who takes the time to become thoroughly familiar with the full range of possible causes and potential remedies will be far more likely to obtain effective and lasting repairs than one who settles for the first, easiest, or least expensive method proposed as a solution.

The cause of a wet or damp basement can be minor, readily apparent, and easily corrected. For example, sloping the lawn away from the outside foundation keeps water from draining down against basement walls and seeping inside. Installing gutters and downspouts, and keeping them clear and in good repair, diverts roof water that would otherwise form puddles or wet soil near or against basement walls. Insulating cold water pipes, venting the clothes dryer outside, and avoiding hanging wet clothes in the basement to dry, all reduce the amount of moisture formed by condensation.

If every apparent, logical way of eliminating wetness fails to produce a dry basement, don't waste time or money on random potential solutions. Finding the cause of the problem is absolutely essential to its cure. A helpful source of advice on how to proceed is the Co-operative Extension Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. The Extension Service's county agent can provide instructions on how to take test borings of the soil surrounding the basement.

The hardest type of water problem to correct is one created by faulty construction practices at the time the house was built. In some cases it is impossible to completely eliminate dampness from a basement whose construction did not take into consideration the basic principles of good drainage. In these cases, soil borings are essential before anyone can knowledgeably predict which, if any, course of action has a chance for success.

An accurate diagnosis of the main cause of persistent basement wetness may lead to a recommendation that the homeowner install a sump pump, apply waterproofing compounds to interior basement walls, inject chemicals into the soil surrounding the basement, or excavate to expose basement walls and then treat them with waterproofing felt, portland cement mortar, or polyethylene film. Installation of drain tiles around the footings is usually done in conjunction with one or more other remedies during the excavation process.

Obtain diagnoses of the problem and written estimates from at least three contractors. Compare the cost of the work to be done, the quality of materials to be used, and the cost of financing the work. Check each contractor's reliability record with the Better Business Bureau, previous customers, and friends who have dealt with the same problem.

Deal with a company that has a good reputation in the community—one that has been in business in the same area for several years and depends on the satisfaction of its customers. This is especially important when using exterior chemical injections, because up to 90 days may be required to determine if the chemical has swelled and diverted the damaging water flow into other, harmless directions.

Obtain a written contract that spells out the work to be done and all conditions of any warranty or guarantee. When signing the contract, make sure that all blanks are filled in, and that it contains everything the contractor promised verbally.

DO YOU KNOW?

FOAM CUPS ARE NOT JUST FOR COFFEE

Foam cups traditionally have been used to keep drinks warm, but did you know...

That many restaurants are also using foam cups to keep drinks colder longer? Foam cups keep soft drinks cold up to six times longer than other disposables. This means that the drinks retain their carbonation longer and are not watered down by melting ice.

That foam cups are not "for the birds"? A farmer in Virginia places foam cups on the end of ears of corn to drive away the birds. Sturdy enough to withstand bad weather and provide insulation, foam cups may put scarecrows out of business.

That foam cups are used in greenhouses? Tree farmers in Washington State use foam cups for growing maple and other tree seedlings. The foam insulation protects the plant roots from sudden changes of temperature while allowing the plants to breathe.

That hospitals have also found non-traditional uses for foam cups? The Eye and Ear Hospital in Pittsburgh, PA, uses foam cups as insulators in an important new cryosurgical (freezing process) operation. The foam protects healthy tissue during surgery.

That foam cups can be burned to generate electricity? According to the Society of Plastics Industry's Foam Cup and Container Division, garbage containing foam cups and containers can deliver up to 18,000 Btu's per pound—about the same as fuel oil.

That the one thing foam cups are NOT made for is littering? The Foam Cup and Container Division has joined the national "Pitch-In" program to remind citizens not to litter.

Teacher Supply Still Increasing In State

Not even half of the 1979-80 teacher graduates from North Carolina colleges and universities found teaching jobs in the state this school year. A definite surplus of both elementary and secondary public school teachers exists in the state as well as the nation, with the exception of a few specialized areas.

For the 1979-80 school year, the total demand for teachers who had not taught in the state the previous year was 4,551. About 2,000 new North Carolina graduates found employment. Nationally, the number of prospective teachers from the 1979 graduating class seeking teaching positions exceeded by almost 60,000 the number of teaching positions open to them.

need for teachers on the elementary level is in the areas of math, science, reading, and special education. In the secondary fields, serious shortages of teachers are indicated in physics, chemistry, higher math, Latin and agriculture followed by reading and special education. Business education, English, home economics, physical education and social studies is overcrowded, yet production of teachers specialized in those areas continues at a high rate.

If entry patterns in the profession continue, the supply of trained teachers is expected to significantly exceed the demand. Teacher demand continues to drop along with pupil enrollment. Both in the nation and in North Carolina, the birthrate is producing almost a zero population growth. In 1979, the live births in North Carolina numbered approximately 80,000 compared to the peak of 116,274 in 1956. Only in 1970 was there an upturn in the number of live births. The number of students enrolled in K-8 dropped 1 percent last year and high school enrollment which peaked 3 years ago, is beginning to reflect the decrease in the school-age population. The number of high school students probably will decline more than 1 percent this fall.

As students get the message of surplus teachers, fewer and fewer may choose teaching as a vocation. While almost 40 percent of baccalaureate degree recipients had a major in education in 1966-67, the proportion of education

New River
The oldest river in North America is the New River in West Virginia. The headwater portion of the ancient Teays River, the New River began tumbling out of the Appalachians 100 million years ago, according to the National Geographic Society.

Hi-C (919) 492-5429

The first official baseball team—the Knickerbocker Club of New York, organized Sept. 23, 1845—lost its first game 23 to 1. That first contest with the New York Baseball Club took place at Elysian Field in Hoboken, N.J., on June 19, 1846. Three seasons later the Knickerbockers became the first team to be outfitted uniformly, in blue and white suits. At the time of its first game, though, there were no standard baseball rules. Each team supplied its own ball, which often varied in size, elasticity and composition.

An exciting moment in American baseball history occurred when Don Larsen of the American League's New York Yankees pitched the first perfect no-hit, no-run, no-walk World Series game. It happened Oct. 8, 1956, in the fifth game of the World Series played with the National League's Brooklyn Dodgers at Yankee Stadium. The final score was New York 2, Brooklyn 0.

Sheffield-Calahan Supper Sept. 27

A chicken pie and baked ham supper will be held at the Sheffield Calahan community building, Saturday, September 27, beginning at 5 p.m.

The meal will be served family style, and all you can eat. Children will be charged two dollars per plate and four dollars for adults.

This is sponsored by the Ruritan Club and Rural Ladies Booster Club. Take outboxes are available and can be picked up from 5 p.m. until 7:30 p.m.

Bus Mileage
The 12,129 buses travel an estimated 556,318 miles per day.

THEN NOW!

The oldest organization for girls, an old hand at helping young people grow, has grown in some new ways itself lately that benefit girls and boys—and adults, too.

THEN: Back in 1910 Charlotte and Luther Gulick founded the Camp Fire Girls and set it in its traditions of leadership, individualism and warm companionship that have helped make it unique. In those first years, its programs were aggressive and progressive. The fashionable bustle was discarded in favor of practical clothes for camping. Girls were given the opportunity to explore, to create, to develop, to have fun in ways that previously were limited to boys. Camp Fire programs helped prepare them for their futures as responsible, self-directed women.

NOW: Camp Fire, Inc., is determined to continue this tradition of helping young people, both boys and girls, develop into achieving adults who feel responsible to their country and to other human beings, who have the skills needed to function successfully and who can influence the decisions that affect their own lives. It's an organization that helps young people, starting at age four and five on up to Horizon Club members, who are older teenagers, learn the skills and enjoy the activities suitable to their age groups.

The various programs include club programs, recreation and outdoor programs dealing with the physical and emotional needs of the handicapped, employment programs for older youths, sex education, information on drug abuse and safety, special tutoring, and self awareness courses.

The organization knows growing up takes a lifetime, and for 70 years Camp Fire has been growing with young people. Join in the growing, too. Contact your local Camp Fire Council or Camp Fire, Inc. headquarters at 4601 Madison Ave., Kansas City, Mo. 64112. A

NEWS OF PETS
RESPONSIBLE PET CARE

Robert Pine, Sergeant Joe Getraer of the popular television show, "CHIPS," is encouraging proper pet care year-round with special emphasis during Responsible Pet Care Week which is being held September 21-27 this year.

As honorary chairman of the observance, the actor places special importance on pet care.

A pet owner himself, Pine asserts that, "If you give pets love and attention, you get it back in kind for a long, long time."

He notes the value of pets to everyone, in general, and to children, in particular.

"Pets," he says, "receive the love we give without question; pets are terrifically responsive!"

But, he said, we must all do our part in caring for the pets in return.

"All pets," he believes, "should be taken to the veterinarian regularly in addition to receiving the daily care which is necessary for their health and happiness."

As the CHIPS' star says, when one takes a pet into the home, the entire family gains a special companion, and in return, needs to provide loving care which includes proper feeding, regular exercise and good veterinary care.

Sponsored by the Pet Food Institute, a non-profit trade association, Responsible Pet Care Week is a week-long reminder of the joys and responsibilities of pet ownership. This year's theme is "A Pet Is A Special Friend—Special Friends Need Loving Care!"

NEWS OF HEALTH
 Approximately five percent of the world's population, including over 17 million Americans, suffers from varying degrees of hearing loss.
 People who find themselves straining to hear in conversation or often asking others to repeat things may be experiencing the early signs of hearing loss.
 A hearing impairment is especially important to children, whose symptoms include a short attention span, limited vocabulary and difficulty in learning to speak. Frequently, however, hearing loss takes place so gradually the individual doesn't sense the problem.
 Experts say the sooner hearing problems are diagnosed, the easier the remedy. According to statistics, the majority of people who suffer from uncorrected hearing loss can be helped either medically, surgically, through amplification or therapy.
 If you suspect you or someone you know has a hearing problem, see your physician or hearing aid specialist promptly.
 For free information on hearing loss and its solutions, write to Siemens Hearing Instruments, 685 Liberty Ave., Union, N.J. 07083.
Correct Night-Light Makeup
 Since fluorescent and incandescent lights can completely alter the look of your daytime makeup, these hints can help you choose your most flattering night-lighted shades:
 • Under fluorescent lighting, avoid deep blue or purple eyeshadow, and keep lipcolor in the orange-red, not blue-red, range.

New Branch Banking and Trust office at Willow Oak. (Photo by Garry Foster)

New BB&T Office At Willow Oak Shopping Center To Be Open Monday

The new Branch Banking and Trust office in Willow Oak Shopping center will be in full operation Monday, September 22.

John Johnstone, bank vice-president indicated that the office may open this week provided that final details are completed.

The bank will definitely be in operation by Monday, with grand opening festivities scheduled from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. Residents are invited to tour the new facility and enjoy an old fashioned "pig pickin'."

The new 2700 sq. ft. office is described by Johnstone as a "standard design for BBT branch offices" across the state.

The branch will be a full service bank open from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Thursday. Friday hours are from 9:00 a.m. through 6:00 p.m.

Johnstone commented that both up-town locations will remain open, but that the original office on Court Square will be used strictly as a teller operation. He commented that no loans will be made from this particular branch.

When asked if the court square location would eventually be closed, Johnstone said "We have two more years on our lease and will definitely remain open during this time.

Eight employees will operate from the new Willow Oaks location.

Hendrix and Corriher Construction Company of Mocksville handled construction of the branch office. The building is located in a 130 by 150 lot in Willow Oak Shopping Center. The site however, is located closer to Highway 601 North than other portions of the shopping center.

Branch Banking and Trust Company made application in October 1978 to the Federal Deposit Insurance Company for written consent to establish a "full powered" branch office.

The branch was tentatively scheduled to open in late August.

Henry Horn Is 7th In Yo-Yo Olympics

Henry Cooper Horn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Horn Jr. of Mocksville, placed seventh out of nine contestants in the Duncan Yo-Yolympics competition held in Hollywood, Calif. over the weekend.

Horn, a ninth grader at South Davie Junior High School, was regional winner from the area including North Carolina.

His first taste of competition was in July during a contest sponsored by the Mocksville Recreation Department. His win qualified him for the state trials, where he placed third behind contestants from Jacksonville and Winston-Salem. But if a contestant scored at least 50 points in judging, they qualified for a regional contest in Marietta, Georgia.

Horn won first place during the regionals, thereby qualifying for national competition this weekend in Hollywood.

Horn commented that scoring is based on difficulty of performed tricks, presentation and control. A musical score must be arranged to accompany tricks for nationals. Five tricks are compulsory, and contestants can choose five others for the judges.

Six of the nine contestants this past weekend were repeaters from last year.

Eating Habits

Many of us have changed our eating habits in the past few years. Much of the change is credited to nutritionists, food processors and the media telling us to eat smart, think thin and get back to natural foods, believes Marjorie Donnelly, extension food specialist, North Carolina State University.

We seem to be following their advice. More than one-fourth of us have changed our diets to avoid potential health problems and some of us have made diet changes because of existing health problems.

Being overweight, having high blood pressure, and allergies were the most common reasons given for people changing their eating habits, Mrs. Donnelly noted.

Most people who changed their way of eating said they were cutting back on sweets and snacks, eating less fatty meat, and cutting back on their consumption of ice cream and soft drinks.

They're drinking more low fat milk and eating more lean red meat, fish, and fresh fruits and vegetables, the specialist said.

Live-Aloners

In the past few years, the number of people who live alone has skyrocketed—up 43 percent.

These live-aloners are making a difference in the housing, car and gadget market, point out extension home economists at North Carolina State University.

They have breathed new life into the town-house and condominium markets, helped foster a new line of kitchen mini-appliances and prompted food processors to repackaging their foods into one-serving sizes.

Bedding Trends

Several mills have hired top designers and artists to come up with ideas for bedding fashions. And they've got demonstrators at shopping centers to show browsers how to transform sheets into other household accessories, observes Linda McCutcheon, extension house furnishings specialist, North Carolina State University.

Carolina Review

by Jerry Mobley

ENTERTAINMENT...Last week's gubernatorial debate was not expected to make any appreciable difference in this year's campaign between Democrat Jim Hunt and Republican I. Beverly Lake. In fact, past debates in North Carolina, including one between Hunt and his primary opponent Bob Scott back in the Spring, have been less than entertaining and somewhat boring.

But thanks to Bev Lake and his Congressional Club backers, North Carolina voters who bothered to tune in to last Monday night's televised debate were treated to some real entertainment. For the nostalgic few who were looking for some old-fashioned, bare-handed political insult, it was a trip back to yesteryear.

Lake, instead of following the proposed format, paid only perfunctory attention to the questions of the media panel gathered for the occasion. From the opening bell, Lake was on the attack and addressed himself directly to Hunt with questions of his own—questions designed to force the governor into explaining his ties to labor leader Wilbur Hobby, economic policies of Jimmy Carter and Ted Kennedy, bureaucracy, and to the Panama Canal "giveaway."

The first controversy took place only moments after Lake began his opening remarks when Hunt openly protested Lake's use of "visual aids" as part of his presentation. The first visual was a large poster showing headshots (linked by arrows) of Gov. Hunt, his Natural Resources and Community Development secretary Howard Lee, one of Lee's assistants involved in the infamous CETA mess Eva Clayton, and labor leader Wilbur Hobby.

After substantial pressure from panel moderator Wallace Ausley (an executive with WPTF in Raleigh-Durham) and Hunt, Lake finally desisted under protest from using the posters.

So while the debate was surprisingly entertaining, no one has accused it of being overly informative.

According to prior guidelines set up weeks in advance, the two candidates were to meet at Meredith College in Raleigh and submit to questions from a panel of reporters—none of whom regularly cover state politics. Through a complicated system of opponent replies and follow-ups, the meeting was established as the one debate that Gov. Hunt planned to accept in the Fall campaign.

On paper, the system seemed safe enough.

Still, the Hunt people were somewhat apprehensive preparing for the debate. "We spent the whole week knowing they (the Congressional Club) would try to pull something," said Hunt deputy press spokesman Brent Hackney, "but we thought it might be some surprise piece of information or something."

Hunt's spokeswoman at campaign headquarters, Stephanie Bass, seconded Hackney's misgivings. "Yes, we figured they might try anything. Of course, I knew they would throw CETA at us," she said.

Indeed, CETA did seem to be the only substantive issue discussed (mostly by Lake) during the debate.

To his credit, Hunt tried desperately to answer questions placed by the panelists, but such questions paled considerably after Lake's theatrics.

For example, one reporter's question dealt with juvenile crime.

Lake almost totally ignored the question, choosing instead to accuse Hunt of some impropriety.

After digging Lake for not answering the question, Hunt tried. But Lake may have been on the right track.

Hunt's "North Carolina Juvenile Code" program, a promising and innovative plan which has been initiated and legislated over the past three years, consists of 106 typewritten pages of legislation, not counting an additional 23 revisions from the past legislative session.

Obviously, it was virtually impossible for Hunt to effectively demonstrate in 75 seconds what he has done and proposes to do in juvenile crime.

So who did perform best?

Hunt appeared statesmanlike (for the most part) and informed, but was put "a little off-balance by Lake's attack," according to one Hunt campaign source. Another campaign source admitted that Hunt "looked like the bad guy" when he insisted that Lake remove the posters.

"That was the moderator's fault—he really blew it," said the source.

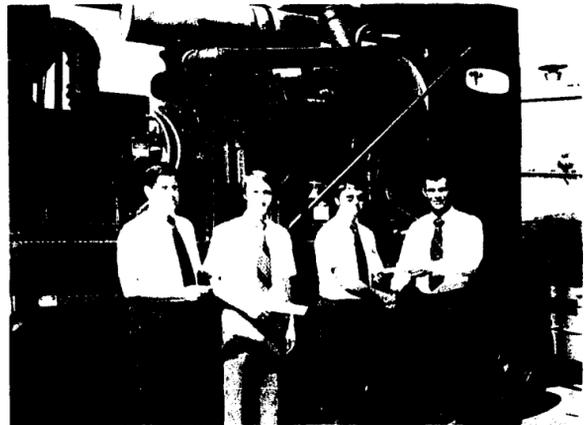

Yet sophisticated analysts who observed the debates gave Hunt the better of the match.

To be sure, Lake was not statesmanlike and certainly didn't come to the debate armed with concrete proposals for better government.

"Senator Lake came to raise questions in the minds of the rank and file voter about Hunt's involvement with Wilbur Hobby, CETA funds misappropriations, and his (Hunt's) ties to liberal national policies. Regardless of your opinion about him (Lake), he did plant those questions in the minds of the viewers," said one Republican worker.

Because of his success at planting those questions, more than just a few observers are willing to give Lake the edge in the debate.

"Lake had little to lose in meeting Hunt," said a Lake supporter. "Why shouldn't it be argued that any negative impact on the Hunt image indicates a Lake victory?"

I-R Employees Receive Patent Awards

Three Ingersoll-Rand employees have received patent awards for the company for two inventions. The announcement was made this week by the local I-R plant.

Roger Hutchinson and Ken Miller were inventors for a patent filed in the U.S. Patent Office for an "Oil Supply System, and Method of Inhibiting Oil Foaming in an Oil Supply System," a system which prevents oil loss when high pressure air compressors are shutdown at full load. Roger and Ken were awarded $50 each for this invention.

Glenn Miller and Ken Miller were inventors for a patent titled for "Pneumatic Controlling Means for and in Combination with, a Power Transmission, and Method of Retrofitting Transmissions therewith," a system which controls transmission shift points and allows dual capacity-pressure ratings on air compressors. Glenn and Ken were awarded $50 each for this invention.

Both of the above inventions are used on the I-R XHP -1150-0F Compressors.

Advance

Homecoming services will be held Sunday September 21 at the Methodist church. Speaker for the 11:00 a.m. worship service will be the Rev. Edd Fitzgerald, a former pastor. Picnic lunch will be at the noon hour on the grounds. An afternoon song service by the Christian Heralds of Lexington. Everyone is invited to attend these services.

A very impressive and beautiful Dedication Service was held Sunday afternoon at the new Baptist Church. Those participating in the program were the Rev. Russell Myers, pastor of the church; Mrs. Lorene Markland, Mrs. Ruby Markland, Rev. C. E. Crawford and the Rev. Reginald Strupe, former pastors. After the dedication, the congregation gathered outside for the Laying of the Cornerstone where the church choir closed the service by singing Onward Christian Soldiers and benediction by the pastor Rev. Myers. Many visitors attended the Homecoming services and Dedication. Among them were Miss Jackie Foster of Statesville, a former resident and church member. Fifteen people from Methodist church enjoyed the services and seeing the beautiful new sanctuary and church building. Mrs. DeEtte Markland was there from Elbaville, Mrs. Irene Tucker from Mocksville and Miss Ann Barnhardt from Fork Baptist church. Many other visitors whom this writer did not know were there.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bailey of Salisbury were Wednesday afternoon visitors of Mrs. Georgia Foster. Mrs. Jake Nifong of Winston-Salem was a Wednesday supper guest of her mother Mrs. Foster. Mr. and Mrs. Bailey and Mrs. Nifong also visited Jack Foster.

Sunday visitors of Mrs. Clara Baily were Charlie Mock of Winston-Salem and his grandchildren Dedra and Nathan of Greensboro. On Monday Mrs. Sadie Gross and Mrs. Sallie Long of Pfafftown and Mrs. Rezie Sheets of this community visited Mrs. Baily.

Miss Paula Barnhardt, bride-elect of Arnie Riddle, was honored with a miscellaneous shower Saturday night at the community building. Approximately 70 guests were present showering the honoree with an assortment of lovely gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Jessup of Rowan County were Saturday night supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Ward.

Mrs. Irene Tucker of Mocksville and Mrs. Georgia Foster of this community were Sunday luncheon guests of Mrs. Mozelle Ratledge. Afterwards they attended the Baptist Church Dedication.

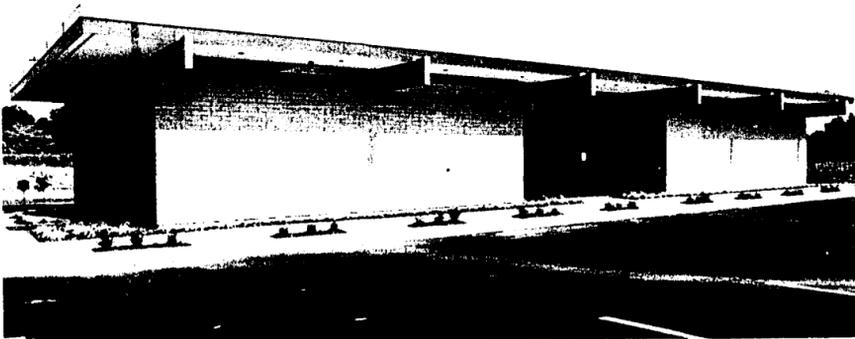

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Ward visited the Rev. and Mrs. Alvis Cheshire last Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Virginia Cornatzer had the misfortune to fall at Methodist church Sunday during Sunday School and broke one rib, fractured two ribs. She was treated at Forsyth Hospital emergency room and released. She is recuperating at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Zimmerman were Tuesday night visitors of Mrs. Della Cornatzer on the Baltimore Road. Mrs. Cornatzer had been hospitalized at Forsyth Hospital for a week but is now recuperating satisfactorily at home. Mrs. Flossie Cornatzer and son Jimmy were also visiting Mrs. Della Tuesday night.

Miss Cora Hartman of Pelicare Nursing Home spent 4 days last week with Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hutchens and daughter Cora Marie. Miss Hartman also visited other relatives in the community. She will be 91 years old October 11 and is getting along fine. She was able to attend the Bridal Shower Saturday night for her great-niece Paula Barnhardt. On Sunday Miss Hartman attended services at Mocks church where she saw great-great-nieces Marie Hutchens and Elaine Hartman baptized (3 month old daughters of Bill and Doris Hutchens and Henry Jr. and Tommy Hartman). Others who were baptized and joined the church were Doris Hutchens, Mary Jane Hartman and Henry Hartman, Jr. Those moving their membership to Mocks were Bill Hutchens, Inez Hartman and Tommy Hartman. This was quite an eventful day for Miss Cora!

Jeff Allen was baptized at Advance Methodist church Sunday morning. His mother Mrs. Brenda Barney Allen transferred her membership from Elbaville.

This photo depicts the changes in the curve-intersection at Salisbury Street and Hardison Street. The traffic island is a new addition, as is the turning lane for Southbound traffic. The changes should help reduce accidents on the curve, as well as help vehicles arriving and departing South Davie Junior High School. (Photo by Garry Foster)

Is This The Beginning Of A New By-Pass ?

The new construction at the intersection of Salisbury and Jericho Streets could be the beginning of a bypass around Mocksville, according to R. L. Johnson, district engineer with the N. C. Department of Transportation.

Traffic will flow on Jericho Street and the drive leading to the new South Davie Junior High School. Traffic proceeding south on Salisbury must make a 90 degree turn at a traffic island, while traffic going north on Salisbury must yield at the island.

"We had a bad intersection there which we wanted to make into a cross street," said Johnson. "We want to use the drive going past the school as a connector to Sanford Drive."

Ultimately, the Department will build a series of connectors from Salisbury and Jericho to Sanford, and from Sanford to Hwy. 64 then to Hwy. 601 to route traffic around the business section of Mocksville.

Johnson admitted traffic would possibly increase beside South Davie Junior High, but said, "the drive going to the school is not just for school use. It was the only way we could justify building the road for the school."

The $8,000 construction of the intersection began in August. "It was piecemeal, tying it in with the school drive," said Johnson. Workers are busy now laying in the 130 feet of curb and gutter and finishing the pavement.

Johnson said he hopes the work, seeding and all, will be completed by the end of the month.

Mocksville Wins Excellence Award

By G. Dale Neal

Everyone knew it all along, that Mocksville is an excellent place to live. Now it is official. Mocksville has been declared a Community of Excellence, a place where industries can live well too.

Governor Jim Hunt has announced that Mocksville is a winner of the Governor's Community of Excellence Award.

The award is given to communities under 15,000 persons on their ability to recruit new industries to their area. Nearly 120 communities applied for the distinction and were judged by the N.C. Department of Commerce. Mocksville won in the first year the town applied.

Hunt will present the award to Mocksville officials at the Economic Development Conference on October 29, 1980.

"I think it's great," said Richard Beck, president of the Davie County Council on Economic Development. "I am very proud of the award and I think Davie County should be proud too."

"We have had an industrial development team for a number of years. And during that time, we landed one major industry," said Beck, referring to the Crown Wood plant, which is now beginning production of television cabinets.

"This award will allow us to get on with our program of recruiting industry," he continued.

Beck said the winning of the award was the work of many, not just a few individuals or his council. "It was a team effort in getting that industry. It was a team effort to win the award."

Besides Beck, a number of local officials and prominent citizens worked for the Community of Excellence distinction including Bob Wallace, president of the Chamber of Commerce, Mayor R.C. Smith, Terry Bralley, town administrator, Lawrence Reavis, a county commissioner, Julius Sutor, a school principal, Ed Goodwin, a Duke Power official, and Ron Vogler, a First Federal Savings & Loan officer.

To qualify for the award, the team had to identify sites suitable for industry. A community profile had to be compiled. Existing industries were visited. A promotional brochure was written and a slide show was revamped. Research was made into subjects such as transportation, utilities, government services, taxes and labor resources, things which interested industries look for.

The development team also considered the liveability of Mocksville. The town was cleaned up for the judges from the Department of Commerce. Schools and recreational facilities were examined. Potential tourist attractions were identified.

Winning the award entitles Mocksville to highway signs designating it as a Community of Excellence.

The award may have more tangible rewards in the near future since the state Department of Commerce gives special promotion attention to an award winning community when working with industries looking for a plant site in North Carolina.

"This award doesn't guarantee that a new industry will locate within a community. But we know from experience that meeting the requirements to win the award will give a community an edge when recruiting industry," Governor Hunt said.

"I want to commend the job done by Mocksville citizens. Their participation in this program is an example of the outstanding community spirit and desire for progress that we see throughout North Carolina."

Sheriff-Police Sign Agreement For Access To Jail Prisoners

An agreement was signed in District Court on Monday setting up procedures for Mocksville Police Officers to gain access to prisoners in the county jail. The agreement was signed by Sheriff George E. Smith and Alton Carter, Chief of Police.

As a result of the agreement, Judge Lester P. Martin Jr. dismissed a magistrate's order to require Sheriff Smith and his chief, deputy Robert Coe, to come to court and explain why they refused earlier this month to let town officers question a prisoner who was being held in the county jail. Chief Carter said the incident was one of three in the past 4 1/2 months.

It is reported that the dispute began when town officers wanted to take their prisoners from the jail to the police department for questioning. The county officers balked because they felt that if a prisoner were to escape or be injured while away from the jail they would still be liable. The jail is equipped with rooms for interrogation.

Sheriff Smith became concerned enough about the matter in August that he wrote the state attorney general's office seeking guidance on his responsibility for prisoners in his jail.

Jacob L. Saffron, special deputy attorney general, replied in part in an August 21 letter: "Once a prisoner has been processed into the custody of the sheriff, it becomes the sheriff's duty to retain the prisoner and, therefore, an officer, such as a police officer, should not be permitted to merely come and take that prisoner out of the jail without an appropriate court order...."

The agreement reached Monday says town officers can take prisoners from the county jail only after filing a form that transforms liability from the sheriff to the town officer. The procedure requires the arresting officer and the custodial deputy to sign a form designating the prisoners name and the purpose for temporary transfer.

Terry Bralley, town administrator said "the procedure is similar to that in other counties. The Mocksville Police Department is perfectly willing to do this."

The policy for prisoner transfer reads as follows:

THE PROCEDURE for the custodial release of prisoners held in the Davie County Jail by the DAVIE COUNTY SHERIFF'S DEPARTMENT to the TOWN OF MOCKSVILLE POLICE DEPARTMENT shall be as follows:

1. Application: The procedure shall apply only to the transfer of custody of prisoners arrested by the Police of the TOWN OF MOCKSVILLE.

II. Prisoner Access: Prisoners shall be made available to the Police at any time at the jail facilities for purpose of interrogation, photography, identification, and other investigative procedures. The jail facilities shall be used for such purposes whenever the information sought can be readily obtainable there, and when facilities are available. PROVIDED, HOWEVER, that prisoners shall be transferred to temporary custody of the police upon request for good cause as determined in the discretion of the arresting police officers, or the Chief of Police or his designee.

III. Procedure for Transfer: The Police Officer receiving transfer and the Deputy or Jailer releasing custody shall execute a form containing the following information:

- Name, Address, Sex, Age, and Description of the Height and Weight of Prisoner;
- A brief statement of the purpose for transfer;
- The arresting Officer's name;
- The place the prisoner is expected to be taken;
- Medical Notes, Marks, and Scars;
- The time the prisoner is released

Town Gets Grant For Phase 1 Of Federal 201 Sewer Plan

By Kathy Tomlinson

Mocksville and Davie officials feel they've finally "gotten their foot in the door" where the federal government is concerned.

After 4 long years, the federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has finally approved funds for phase one of the 201 Sewer plan. Town commissioners accepted the $45,000 grant Friday during a special session.

The total 201 Sewer plan is a three part package. The final goal, which at this point is still far in the future, is possible construction of facilities to remedy sewer needs of the town and county. Phase one is strictly an "on paper" evaluation of current sewer treatment in Mocksville and Davie County and how it will affect future industrial and residential growth. The study is expected to take nine months, during which time several alternatives for sewer treatment will be derived.

Each phase is like a stepping stone cemented together with miles of bureaucratic red tape. If a completed phase one gains federal approval, then phase two will go in force. This step includes actual design of facilities to remedy local sewer problems, which must also gain EPA approval. Phase three is construction of necessary facilities.

John G. Grey, Jr. consulting engineer for the local project, commented that the government offers "no guarantees" where approval is concerned. He feels good about federal approval of phase one, but quickly added that there's "a long hard road ahead."

Arts Alive

A Success In Spite Of Rain

It was a long morning for Arts Council members Saturday. Heavy rains placed a burden on shoulders as many were faced with the decision of cancelling the annual arts festival.

Dedicated workers arrived on the square at 6:30 a.m. in preparation for the day's events. With rain falling constantly, the word was received. "We'll try it until noon. If it's still raining...that's it for this year."

But luck was on their side. The sun began to peak from behind clouds by mid-morning. Exhibitors, who sought shelter beneath street awnings, began to place their wares upon streets. Performers began acts on center stage. Bare streets began to fill with people and activity.

By noon time, the 6th annual Arts Alive Festival was in full swing. The work that made the event possible was not in vain.

A few exhibitors, became dismayed with rainy skies early Saturday morning and failed to appear. Arts Council president Danny Lawrence said however, most stuck it out.

"We were all worried Saturday morning as to whether or not the festival would in fact be held," he said. "Some exhibitors were discouraged by the weather, but were determined to set up booths. Thankfully, the rain stopped and the day turned into a success."

The rain put everything behind schedule. The Fun Run scheduled for 8:00 a.m. was postponed until 8:30 a.m. Live entertainment on the square couldn't begin until 11:00 a.m. Many exhibitors spent the morning in their car waiting for the rain to subside.

The Arts Festival brought varied activities for the young and young at heart. On going demonstrations in Karate, blacksmithing, and various crafts fascinated festival goers.

Many handmade items were displayed for sale. A partial listing of crafts includes, photography, calligraphy, crewel, calico crafts, wooden games and puzzles, ceramics, tole painting, baked goods, paintings, handmade baskets, dried flower arrangements, jewelry and many more.

Crowds leisurely browsed through exhibits. Many sought shelter from the heat beneath oak trees on the square. Rows and rows of chairs were lined up for the comfort of festival goers.

There were helium filled balloons and Arts Alive t-shirts for sale. Hungry appetites were satisfied with pizza, hamburgers, hotdogs, ham biscuits and host of other goodies. Those with a sweet tooth found pleasure in homemade ice cream and the many cakes, pies and cookies for sale.

Children were delighted with the many tricks of "Willie the Clown" and the Dream Weavers Illusion show. The Davie High Marching Band and jazz ensemble performed to the delight of many. A total of 19 acts appeared throughout the festival.

The day had a slow, wet beginning but turned into a booming success. Practically every exhibitor appearing expressed wishes to attend next year's festival.

The crowd still on the square at 11:00 p.m. Saturday night showed the many Arts Council members that the festival was indeed a success. The end of the 6th annual Arts Alive festival begins preparations for the 1981 event.

Capt. Jim Dull Wins Model Airplane Race

Up there in the wild blue yonder, a cross-country race of airplanes not much longer than a yardstick commenced above I-77.

The alert men in 18 vehicles below controlled them.

PM-Magazine filmed it.

Captain Jim Dull won it. For the first time in the history of North Carolina.

The Mission: To race seven radio-controlled model planes across the state of North Carolina, fly for 115 miles and land in Fort Mill, South Carolina.

The race will be aired on nationwide television the second week of October.

And Jimmy Dull, formerly of Mocksville and presently of Rollinggreen Village in Clemmons, couldn't be happier.

Captain Dull has been in National Guard for 17 years and an employee of Mutual of Omaha for 14 years.

A man he sold insurance to about nine years had a radio-controlled airplane. Dull talked to him about it, and the bug bit him. He almost immediately bought a plane and radio and soon joined the Winston-Salem Radio Control Club.

He later served twice as president and now serves on the board.

And when the idea for a club project came up, the chairman responsibility for the cross-state marathon landed on his shoulders, and he dove into the task that took over four months to organize.

He found seven volunteers to be pilots, and helped organize the four-man teams. Dull drafted the contest rules and drove them mapped every foot of the route.

He went on to send a letter to Governor Hunt, contacted Real People and PM-Magazine, contacted and receive permission from the State Highway Patrol, and hundreds of other details.

Interstate 77 was chosen because of the absence of trees and power lines. Refueling stops were arranged every 20 miles. Their original idea was to take off and land on the interstate but the highway patrol would not grant them permission.

Instead, they would have to negotiate with grass, gravel and dirt roads.

About 38 participants and 18 vehicles arrived at the Virginia State line off I-77. Each plane was specially designed for the 115-mile journey with extra fuel tanks containing a mixture of nitro, alcohol and synthetic oil. The PM Magazine staff had already shot seven hours of footage the day before.

Captain Dull had experienced some bad luck in a recent club air show. The plane he had designed for the race was ruined when the wing fell off in the show.

Filmed By P.M. Magazine Captain Jim Dull has a mile-high smile after winning a cross-state remote-controlled model airplane race that was filmed by PM-Magazine to be showed nationwide in October. Dull is formerly of Mocksville and lives now in Clemmons.

His friend, Dr. John Mountjoy, volunteered to build the frame of a new plane and his other team members installed the motor, mechanical and electronic parts. Dull would have never had time to do it by himself and was going to drop out of the race.

The planes took off, five minutes apart at 9 a. m. September 13.

Team one's plane crashed on the takeoff. It hit a guardrail.

Team two's plane had been torn up in the previous day's filming, but Dr. Mountjoy lent them another. Three, four, six and seven got off the ground.

They all jumped into their vehicles, with two vehicles per plane, and went down the interstate, carefully keeping under 55 mph. The key to winning was to carry enough fuel, have efficient pit stops as well as effective emergency landings.

Each team experienced a series of ups, downs, thrills and upsets. The pilots seemed almost as tense as if they were flying bombers on a combat mission as they controlled the little planes from the cars below.

Two hours and 30 seconds later, Dull's plane landed in Fort Mill, S. C., almost 19 minutes and 50 seconds ahead of the other contestants. Except for a plane that had taken off 20 minutes before him and landed ten seconds ahead of him, Dull was last to leave and almost first to touchdown.

A representative from Ft. Mill gave each team member a trophy. Dull's team included Ed Myers, Rod Sugg, Ronnie Davis, Tony Hill and his wife, Liz Dull.

The crew for PM-Magazine persuaded Dull to help them with the risky opening shot. The program's announcer stood talking while Dull aimed the hurtling airplane right for his head, pulling it up and over the speaker at the very last moment. They had to shoot the scene almost 200 times. "He was a brave man," Dull said.

"Before the race, I remember thinking that we wouldn't try it again. It was so much work. But after it happened, there were so many people interested in it, we've decided to do something similar," he said. "Maybe an endurance flight from here to Statesville-on one tank of fuel...or control the model planes from a real airplane so the models can race as fast as they can go."

Dull said the planes can fly in the excess of 110-120 miles per hour.

Meanwhile, he is busy with a model motorized car club (one-twelfth scale electric) that races twice a month behind the Northwestern Bank in Clemmons.

He is also trying to get the National Guard to adopt his design for a remote-control mini-bomber that can drop a canister of tear gas. It is almost impossible to shoot down because of its small size and is amazingly accurate.

Dull believes it could be valuable as an anti-sniper tool or for riot control. He is presently trying to design a mini-bomber that can carry two grenades, whose pins can be pulled by remote control.

Davie Schools Have 'Open Door' Policy

The Davie County Board of Education has "opened the doors" of the schools in Davie County for public use through the Community School Program.

Superintendent of Schools, James E. Everidge recently said, "All citizens of Davie County are invited and encouraged to utilize the various school facilities after regular school hours and on weekends for group meetings, dinners, recreational activities and classes.

According to Tom Emly, Community School Coordinator, the most frequently requested school facilities are the gymnasiums at Cooleemee, Mocksville Middle, Wm. R. Davie and Shady Grove. Many individuals or small groups rent these gyms just for an evening of basketball or volleyball. Several businesses have rented gyms on a scheduled basis for an employee recreational program.

The rental fee for any of the four gyms listed above is $10.00 for the first hour and $5.00 for each additional hour. Anyone who is interested in renting one of these gyms for just one time or on a weekly basis should contact the following School-based Community School Directors: Cooleemee School, Mrs. Karen Jones, 284-2581; Mocksville Middle School, Mr. Clyde Studevent, 634-5941 (Mr. Studevent is a teacher at South Davie Jr. High School; however, he is responsible for the Mocksville Middle School gym.); Wm. R. Davie School, Mrs. Frieda Dyson, 492-5421 and Shady Grove School, Mr. Vestal Potts, 998-4719.

Emly stated that the second most requested school facility was school cafeterias. He encourages anyone desiring to rent a school cafeteria to call him at 634-5921. Emly further stated that at the present time there are over 34 Davie County Community School and Davidson County Community College classes utilizing school facilities.

Backing Vehicles In Collision

Two accidents involving vehicles backing out of driveways onto highways were recently reported.

Carrie Flynn Jordan, 74, of Box 233, Cooleemee, was backing her 1970 Buick out of a driveway onto Duke Street on Wednesday, September 17. Her car was struck in the rear by a 1973 Buick driven by Ethel Peoples Hampton 69, of Rt. 7.

Damage to both vehicles was estimated at $200 by Trooper James M. Newton. No charges were filed.

On Thursday, September 18, Beverly Renee Minor, 17, of Rt. 3, Advance was backing her 1977 Chevrolet truck onto Hwy. 801. Bobbie Robbins Leab, 33, of Rt. 1 Advance, swerved her 1980 Mazda off the road to avoid the truck, but struck a mailbox.

Damage to the Mazda was estimated at $300 by Trooper A.C. Stokes. No charges were filed.

Truck Jackknifes

A tractor trailer jackknifed on wet pavement Friday, September 19, causing at least one other minor accident.

Ronald Seales Southurd, 40, of Elkin, lost control of his truck in a curve on Milling Road north of Mocksville. The truck jackknifed, skidding down an embankment into a fence with the trailer blocking the road.

Paul Solomon Cornatzer, 68, of Advance, hit his brakes to avoid the trailer. Cornatzer's 1973 Chevrolet skidded to the left shoulder and struck the fence.

Damage to the Chevrolet was estimated at $125 and $200 to the truck by Trooper W.D. Grooms, the investigating officer.

No charges were filed.

Vehicles Collide

A Mocksville man was involved in an accident near Yadkinville when an oncoming car skidded into his lane on Thursday, September 18.

John Frank Howard, 54, of Rt. 2, was driving his 1974 Dodge truck when Annette Spellman Hobson, 33, of Yadkinville, lost control of her 1980 Chevrolet and skidded into Howard's truck.

Damage to the Chevrolet was estimated at $500 and at $1,000 to Howard's truck by Trooper James M. Newton. No charges were filed.

Pony Express Courier Overtakes On Bridge

A Pony Express Courier car overturned after the driver lost control on a slick bridge Friday, September 19.

Elwood Roy Bullins, 53, of Walnut Cove, lost control of his vehicle when he applied the brakes going downhill onto a bridge on Milling Road. The car skidded around, struck the railing and overturned down an embankment.

Damage to the 1980 Ford was estimated at $5,000 by Trooper A.C. Stokes.

Vehicles Collide On Wilkesboro Street

A collision occurred on Wilkesboro Street when a car attempted to pull out of a parking lot into heavy traffic on Tuesday, September 16.

Phyllis Campbell Myers, 30, of Rt. 6 said a driver had motioned to her to drive her 1979 Ford into traffic. When she pulled out, she struck a 1972 Ford driven by Kenneth Lee Riddle, 44, of Rt. 1, Advance.

Damage to Myer's car was estimated at $200 and at $500 to Riddle's vehicle by city police. No charges were filed.

Town To Expand Fire Station

The Mocksville Town Board last Friday awarded a construction contract for the fire station addition to P.S. West of the company.

The company submitted the lowest of six bids—$40,636—to secure the contract. High bid for the project was $56,000.

The addition will be a bay area, used to store fire equipment. The equipment currently is stored in the town's public works building.

Apple Cider
Until about 1930 apple cider was made and consumed in greater quantities than any other juice.

National G.O.P. Chairman To Speak In Winston-Salem

Traces Roots Back To Davie

The National Chairman of the Republican Party, who traces his roots back to Davie County, will speak at a G.O.P. gathering in Winston-Salem Friday night.

William Emerson Brock III, former U.S. Senator from Tennessee, will speak at the 6:30 p.m. gathering billed by the Forsyth County Republican Party as the "Big Event".

Brock's grandfather, the first William Emerson Brock, was born in Farmington in 1871. His story is as follows:

William Emerson Brock was born on March 14, 1871 in the village of Farmington. His father, Richard Emerson Brock, served with distinction as a lieutenant in the Confederate Army.

As a child, William Emerson Brock attended school at the famed old Farmington academy.

His father died in 1888 after an illness of several years. This long illness of his father almost beggared the family and the upland farm of less than 100 acres was so poor that in the vernacular of the Piedmont rustic, "you could hear a pea sprout 9 miles." The place sold in later years for $590.

Upon his father's death, young Brock began to assume his part of the work on the farm to help keep the family together. The family at that time consisted of his widow mother and three brothers and a sister. In addition to himself, there were Matthew L. Brock, R. G. Brock, Minnie Brock. The fight for the bare necessities of life at times appeared futile, but the boys bravely battled on.

In 1894, this Bill Brock, at the age of 23, left Farmington and went to Winston-Salem. There he secured a job with Frank G. Brown, a merchant, for $30 a month and a place to sleep over the store.

Later when R.J. Reynolds was discussing future expansion of the tobacco plant with his brother, W.N. Reynolds and others, he said that he would put salesmen on the road to push sales of R.J.R. tobacco if he could find the right type of men. Mrs. W. N. Reynolds, who had seen something of Brock while trading at Mr. Brown's store, suggested that Brock was the right type of man for this work. Mr. Reynolds sent for Brock and when he learned that the young man knew all about the Reynolds products from planting tobacco seed to chewing "Brown Mule", he offered him $30 per month plus expenses.

Brock went on the road as a salesman. At the end of the first year traveling through the Carolinas and Georgia he received besides his regular salary a bonus check of $500, so well did he succeed. When he quit the tobacco sales work for Reynolds in 1909, he was the head of a force of 50 men and was drawing the same amount per day that he made for a month's work when he first started. The first salesman ever employed by R. J. Reynolds had made good.

Brock bought a home in Winston-Salem and lived there for many years. The city grew fast during those years and the place he had secured for $3,200 sold for over $7,000 when he left there to go into the candy business in Tennessee.

The Trigg Dobbs Company made Brock an offer to sell candy for them. However, Brock decided to buy the factory and run it himself. This plant, which employed 25 to 30 people when he bought it, soon grew to employing of thousands. The Brock candy bar became known all over the world.

Brock prominently identified himself with the life of Chattanooga and the state of Tennessee. He was active in various civic ventures, church work, and politics of the state. It was reported he spent over $100,000 in building church edifices. In addition he established numerous scholarships at various universities.

In 1929, he was appointed U.S. Senator to fill out the unexpired term of Senator Lawrence D. Tyson. In 1930 he was elected for a short term, but was not a candidate after that.

He was married to Miriam Acree. They had two children, William Emerson Brock, Jr. and Richard Acree Brock.

Town and county officials were eager to receive the $45,000 federal grant for the 201 Sewer plan. Looking over the document are (seated) Mayor R.C. Smith, (l to r) town commissioners J.C. Buster Cleary, Dr. F.W. Slate, and county commissioner, Lawrence Reavis.

201 Sewer Grant

explains the vital importance of the 201 Sewer plan.

"Industrial or residential growth cannot continue in Davie without a more appropriate waste disposal method," he said. "Much of the soil in the county is not suitable for extensive septic tank use, limiting areas where new homes can be built.

Bralley commented that presently, there is only one area of the county capable of handling any future industrial growth. Two of the town's three waste treatment plants are already working at peak capacity.

"This is a very important project," said Bralley, "and we need all the public input and support we can get."

"We want the public to help figure out how to best utilize existing plants, draft a plan for new plants and help figure out which method is best for future growth, he said.

Getting the "go ahead" on phase one has been a long, uphill battle for local officials. Over the past four years, the town's application has been rejected three times by the federal government.

Bralley and John G. Grey Associates of Lexington, consulting engineers, feel that the support of various political officials was the only thing that saved phase one from a fourth denial.

"With the freeze on federal spending, it says a lot when Mocksville and Davie County receives such a grant," said Bralley. Especially when you consider that larger municipalities have been experiencing difficulty.

He commented that a lot of gratitude is due Governor Jim Hunt, Congressman Bill Hefner and Rep. Ramey Kemp for their tireless efforts in getting federal approval of phase one.

"They've been on our side the whole way," said Bralley. They cracked some very thick ice to get our foot in the federal doorway.

Public participation is the key to future success of the 201 sewer plan. Several public meetings will be scheduled during the next nine months to offer citizens a chance to actively participate in the plan.

"Anyone can have a voice in this," said John Grey, "and he will be heard. Individual names and comments will be

Sheriff of Davie County

Alton Carter
Chief of Police,
Town of Mocksville

APPROVED BY:
Lester P. Martin, Jr.,
Chief District Judge

Robert A. Collier, Jr.,
Resident Superior Court Judge

Judge Martin ordered last week that a written agreement be developed to try to settle the dispute. If that had not been done, he said, a hearing would have been scheduled on the show-cause order issued by Magistrate Fred Pratt against the Sheriff.

After being signed Monday by Sheriff Smith and Chief of Police Carter, the agreement was mailed to Judge Robert A. Collier Jr. of Superior Court for his signature.

Camper In Wreck

A Mocksville man was involved in an accident when a camper tried to pass his car as he was making a left hand turn on Saturday, September 20.

Roy Dermont Williams, 29, tried to make a left hand turn off Hwy. 64 without checking his mirrors. Williams' 1972 Oldsmobile was struck by a 1980 Kenwood camper driven by Ernest Eugene Maund, of Ozark, Alabama, who was attempting to pass.

Damage to the Oldsmobile was estimated at $700 by Trooper A.C. Stokes. Williams was charged with a safe movement violation. Maund was charged with passing on a hill.

Vehicle Runs Sign, Hits Sheriff's Car

A vehicle ran a stop sign on the Valley Road in Mocksville about 12:30 p.m. Tuesday and struck a Davie County Sheriff's Department car in the left quarter panel. The accident happened on US 64 West at the intersection with the Valley Road.

Involved was a 1974 Ford operated by Connette Loftis Hill, 31, of Rt. 7, Mocksville and a 1977 Plymouth patrol car operated by Randy Clay Boger, 24, of Rt. 1, Mocksville.

According to the investigation report, Ms. Hill missed the stop sign at the intersection and hit the patrol car in the left quarter panel. She was charged with failing to yield right of way.

There were no injuries.

Center United Methodist Church

Center United Methodist Church will celebrate the Sesquicentennial of its founding on Sunday, October 5, the date of the Annual Homecoming. The program for the 150th anniversary will begin with the decorating of the graves at 9:45 a.m. and a Memorial Service at 10:00. The Reverend Keith Tutterow, a United Methodist Minister, who grew up in Center Church, will conduct this service.

Beginning at 10:30 under the Arbor, the service of worship will open with a season of hymn singing and special music. Descendants of the founding families will be recognized. The sermon will be delivered by the Reverend Herbert T. Penry, Jr., a descendant of James Penry, one of the first trustees. A native of Thomasville, the Reverend Mr. Penry is the pastor of The Mt. Pisgah United Methodist Church in Greensboro.

At noon there will be the usual bountiful picnic lunch. In the afternoon, beginning at 1:30, members of the church will present in dialogue and pagentry the theme of the Sesquicentennial: "Claiming the Past; Celebrating the Present; Challenging the Future."

Center Church was founded in 1830 with the gathering of neighbors in the home of a Penry Family, who lived a mile from the present location. The first deed was recorded in 1833, from John Smith to the trustees: Daniel Dwiggins, Arthur Morrow, John Davis, Ashley Dwiggins, Samuel Penry, James Penry and Thomas Morrow. A Class Book, preserved by the descendants of Ashley Dwiggins, contains the rolls from 1836 to 1863. The first building, a log structure, was located in the present cemetery. In 1872, this was replaced with a frame structure located in front of the present Arbor. In 1931, the building was moved just west of the present structure, at which time class rooms and a bell tower were added. In 1956, the present church building was completed.

The Arbor, a landmark for Center Church and Community, was erected in 1876. It stands as a symbol of the religious enthusiasm and commitment of the founding families. As an instrument it is used to minister to the spiritual and social needs of the community.

Friends and former members are cordially invited to this the 150th Anniversary of the founding of Center Church. Come: Dressed in suits and dresses of former years. Come: Join in the celebration, claiming the past and dreaming of the future. Come: Renew your faith in the fellowship of the Christian Church.

Rural Panel To Assist In Property Identification

Program Oct. 14 At S. Davie Junior High

At least one theft or break-in occurs every two days in Davie County, resulting in the loss of personal property. In an effort to lower the incidence of stolen property, you will want to attend a program by the Davie Rural Development Panel at South Davie Junior High on October 14, 1980, at 7:30 p.m.

Every week there are items in the local news describing and listing the loss of personal property from break-ins. For the months of June thru August, an estimated $61,786.00 of personal property was stolen in Davie County. Only $17,179.00 of this property was recovered. In 1978 there were 59 break-ins and thefts recorded for Davie County while 1979 recorded 206.

Some groups and individuals are already participating in "Community Watch" and similar programs of property protection, but very few individuals and rural businesses have asked for a personal registered number, according to the Davie County Sheriff's Department. With such a number, stolen property can be positively identified.

Research has indicated that where property is marked with an identifiable number, thieves will generally not take it. It's too hard to sell.

The Davie Rural Development Panel, with assistance from and cooperation with many local groups and individuals is sponsoring the program. "How we can assist you and your group with a property marking and identification program will be presented and discussed at 7:30 p.m., October 14, 1980, at the South Davie Junior High School," says W. E. Mainous, Panel Chairman. "It will be designed so that you can present the same or similar program to your civic group, club, or any organization that would like to consider participating in a personal property and machinery identification program."

Please call the County Extension Office at 634-6297 to reserve a place for your representative to attend.

Note: The Davie Rural Development Panel is composed of 18 federal, state, and local governmental agencies, and other related groups who work with all Davie County citizens to help solve problems. This property identification program is being coordinated by George McIntyre, Davie Farm Bureau, and Merrill Deal, Farm Credit Service.

Child Needs Four L's Along With Three R's

There are four L's that are as important to children as the old three R's of reading, 'riting and 'rithmetic.

They are love of learning, love of liberty, love of law and love of life, believe extension human development specialists at North Carolina State University.

The love of learning means a desire to learn because you want to know, not because you fear failure or poor report cards.

This good feeling about learning should stay with a child after formal schooling is over, giving him enthusiasm for new skills, new places and new ideas.

As he grows, a child needs the freedom appropriate for his age to touch, explore, play, choose friends, even make noise. Only by being free for his age can a child soak up the love of liberty that will make him choose freedom forever.

Over-regulated children and those whose lives are filled with "don'ts" often become passive adults.

Homes and schools must be comfortable for children, but children must learn that others have rights that must be respected, too. This love of law demands children learn about discipline and self-discipline.

To help children cope with love of law, parents need to say "no" when necessary without feeling guilty, and the parents must set wise limits geared to each child's age and development.

As for love of life, a child must love himself and his own life, then he can love life for others. There's no need for cocky conceit, but a child must like himself enough to want to change, grow and improve.

The child who is unsure of himself is often afraid of others and is readily suspicious of anyone who is different.

House Temperature
Most healthy people are comfortable in a house when the temperature is 71 to 77 degrees.

Third Annual Bushy Mountain Apple Festival Is Set For October 4th

The Third Annual Brushy Mountain Apple Festival will be held on Saturday, October 4, 1980, in downtown North Wilkesboro.

"We are extremely proud of the apple festival and feel that it is the finest family event in North Carolina," said Lonnie R. Webster, Director of the Festival.

"For this apple festival, we have found special people—much like those you would find on CBS's "On the Road" series or WBT's "Carolina Camera." Several of these people have been on "Carolina Camera." These wonderful people demonstrate their varied skills, hobbies, and storytelling ability, any one of which is worth a trip to North Wilkesboro to see and hear," said Mr. Webster.

The festival features good food—Brunswick Stew cooked all night in open pots; barbecued chicken, pork and beef; fried apple pies served on a wood stove; pinto beans served out of cast iron kettles; hot apple butter spread on homemade bread, cooked on a wood-burning stove in the street; homemade ice cream; fresh apple cider being made on the spot, the aroma of molasses boiling.

Also, there is gospel music and bluegrass music with clogging. Later in the evening there will be a performance by Porter Wagoner and Minnie Pearl.

"Next we add Brushy Mountain apples raised in a therma-belt, which makes them the best apples raised on the East Coast," said Mr. Webster.

"To all this we add one of the best arts and craft shows in North Carolina. This year we expect approximately 150 artists and craftsmen," he continued.

Other special exhibits are Southern Railway's "Best Friend of Charleston," a replica of the first steam locomotive to pull a train of cars in regular service on the American Continent. Rides will be free to the public from 12:00 Noon until 4:00 p.m. Southern Railway's Exhibit car, which is a story of modern railroading, will be open from 11:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

Other attractions will be the re-enactment of a Civil War Battle, Cherokee Indian story-telling and dance, an antique printing press, antique cars, steam engines, and a Friendship Quilt for the Grand Marshall of the Apple Festival.

This year's Grand Marshall is 96-year old Mamie Hall of the Brushy Mountain Community.

Smorrebrod
Open-face sandwiches, which the Danes call smorrebrod, may date back to ancient times, when a slice of buttered bread was the "plate" for a meal.

Carolina Review

by Jerry Mobley

CAMPAIGNS...The North Carolina gubernatorial campaign seems to have picked up only minimal steam in the aftermath of the Lake-Hunt debate a couple of weeks ago. But according to both camps the campaign is about where they had expected it to be from the beginning.

For Republican Beverly Lake, that could spell trouble because he is still apparently having problems with drawing enough attention to himself or to the issues that could push an incumbent governor out of office.

Not so says Lake campaign director, Randy Gregory. "This entire campaign has been planned," he said, "this is where we thought we'd be at about this time."

Gregory pointed out that Lake had an overwhelming response to his (Lake's) debate with the governor.

"We got unbelievable support—over 600 phone calls that night after the debate and another 200 the next day," according to Gregory. "The momentum has picked up tremendously and we believe it will peak at just the right time," he concluded.

When questioned about why it seemed Lake had been unable to garner the attention that most observers assume is critical to victory, Gregory suggested the gubernatorial succession amendment is at least partly to blame.

"No way we can get the press and the coverage that an incumbent can get," he said.

It was suggested to Gregory that perhaps the Lake campaign was not pursuing the press coverage as vigorously as the Hunt campaign.

"We had five news conferences the day after the debate—one in Charlotte, in Greensboro, Asheville, Gastonia, and then back to Raleigh," Gregory responded.

All five of those conferences centered around the debate of the night before.

Meanwhile, Hunt only two days after the debate, held one of six "issue conferences" scheduled for the duration of the campaign. That first conference set forth Hunt's priorities for North Carolina public schools in the 1980s.

According to Hunt press spokeswoman Stephanie Bass, other "issue conferences" can be expected to focus on crime in North Carolina, economic development (this week's), energy, agriculture, and problems of the aging.

"We will probably make a formal statement on transportation as well," said Bass.

"Does that mean the governor is going to come out for a tax hike on gasoline?" Bass was asked.

"Not necessarily," she replied, "but obviously the governor will have to look at that as one means of solving the problem."

The acceptance of hard governmental questions that are certain to be a bitter pill for voters seems indicative of campaign tactics of Lake and Hunt.

Dancing In The Streets Entertainment

Crowds gathered under oak trees on Mocksville's Town Square Saturday to view performances highlighting the 1980 Arts Alive Festival. Rain hindered the onset of performances, but most acts scheduled to appear didn't let it stop them. The Davie High School Marching Band, kicked off the entertainment segment at 11:00 a. m., an hour behind schedule. Heavy rains prohibited their appearance on center stage, but the dedicated group of musicians were determined not to be out done. Hovering under sidewalk awnings in front of Smith's Shoe Store, the group performed much to the delight of festival goers. There were acts for everyone. The Entertainers, a dance group from Salisbury, performed several jazz numbers. Willy the Clown and the "Tummy Ache Machine" captivated youngsters with daring feats. The Apple Chill Cloggers and The Blue Ridge Boys combined foot stomping blue grass music and clogging for a good "down home" time. Teenagers were thrilled with performances by several rock bands. "Majic", Shuffel and Smyle transformed late afternoon and evening into a dance on the square. A total of 19 acts were featured. "The entertainment portion of the festival is always a crowd pleaser," said Frances Brown, Arts Council Secretary. "In spite of the rain, all performers appeared." Smyle, a local rock band, ended the 1980 Arts festival at 11:00 p. m. They were the featured performers for the annual "dance on the square" which began at 9:00 p. m.

The rock band "Smyle" provided music for the traditional dance on the square from 9:00 p.m. - 11:00 p.m.

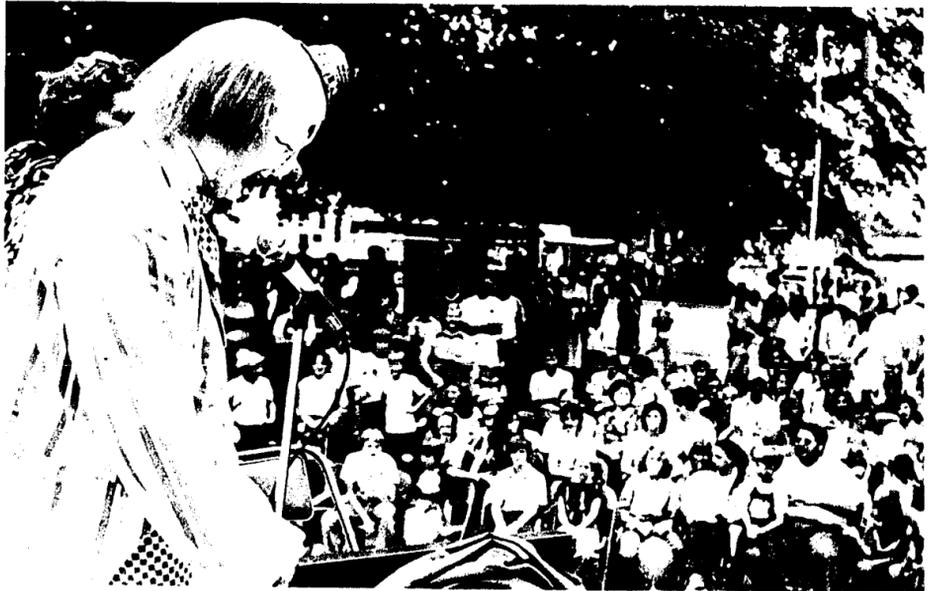

The town square was filled with people all day Saturday. A total of 19 acts appeared throughout the day.

Lee Barber and Ken Maynard amazed spectators with their Karate skills. The Davie School of Karate was one of many groups giving demonstrations Saturday.

The Apple Chill Cloggers brought the audience into the act Saturday with "Down Home" Bluegrass Music.

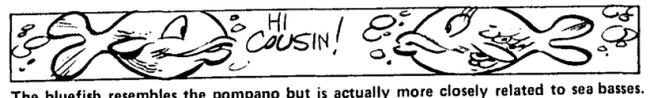

Willie the clown delighted youngster with his many tricks.

The Entertainers, a dance troupe from Salisbury, delighted festival goers with several jazz routines.

Local teenagers were thrilled with the appearance of three rock bands. Here, youngsters dance to the music of Smyle.

The bluefish resembles the pompano but is actually more closely related to sea basses.

Larry Lanier Wins 10,000 Meter Race In The Rain

The 62 runners in Saturday's 10,000 meter road race were the only ones that liked heavy rains falling throughout the morning.

The race, which was scheduled to begin at 8:30 a.m., finally got underway at 9:00 a.m. Intense showers flooding streets and sidewalks almost caused cancellation of the race. Runners and volunteer workers were drenched to the bone while waiting for the rain to let up so the race could begin.

Larry Lanier of Mocksville won the 10,000 meter race (6.2 miles) with a time of 32 minutes and 41 seconds. Alvin Everhart of Lexington followed close behind with a time of 32 minutes 59 seconds. Steve Driver of Burlington came in third with his time of 34 minutes and 56 seconds.

Lanier commented that the rain didn't hinder his running. "I love running in the rain," he said. "It keeps me cool."

He said that he experienced leg cramps during the first half mile which slowed him down a bit. Lanier also commented that he had been able to jog only 12 miles last week in anticipation of the race.

"I really wasn't as prepared as I would like to have been," he said. "But, I still had a lot of strength left when I reached the finish line."

Lanier added that he had an extra incentive for wanting to win Saturday's race. He promised himself that if possible, he would dedicate his win to the memory of Philip Hancock Short. Short, the 9 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Short of Mocksville, died last week.

Lanier, who was a close friend of Philip's, donated his winning plaque to Oak Grove United Methodist Church. It will be hung in the church's youth fellowship hall in Philip's memory.

"I loved Philip and wanted to do something in his honor," Lanier explained. He loved competition and always wanted a plaque with his name on it. I promised myself that he would have his plaque."

The number of runners in Saturday's race was far below expected figures. Many who ran the race commented that they seriously considered staying in bed after seeing the rain and hearing weather forecasts.

Runners began arriving around 7:30 a.m. They, along with many Mocksville Jaycees, Jayettes and volunteers, stood in the rain on the town square waiting for the final word.

Runners participating in the race seemed committed to reach the finish line no matter what. Jogging suits were drenched and tennis shoes squished with each step.

Only twelve persons participated in the one mile fun run preceding the 10,000 meter race. Bobby Yarbrough placed first with a time of 6 minutes 7 seconds.

Second place went to Chris Shrewsbury, 6 minutes 30 seconds. Jim Shoaf took third with a time of 6 minutes 49 seconds.

The rain didn't dampen the spirits of the many volunteers working with the race. Jaycees and Jayettes, equipped with rain gear, appeared on the square at 6:30 a.m. to pre-register runners.

All participants were given "Run for Fun" t-shirt to commemorate the event. Prizes were awarded in each age division.

"The race would have been great without the rain," said one Mocksville Jaycee. "But overall, we are very pleased with the response. I'm glad the runners didn't mind getting wet."

A soaked Larry Lanier discusses his win. Lanier commented that he is dedicating the race to the memory of Phillip Short, who died last week. Phillip's name will be engraved on the plaque and placed in the youth fellowship hall at Oak Grove United Methodist Church.

Lanier of Mocksville won the race with his time of 32 minutes 41 seconds.

Alvin Everhart of Lexington followed closely behind Lanier. His finishing time was 32 minutes 59 seconds.

Joel Edwards and Ron Vogler, waiting to run in the 10,000 meter race, check sky for a break in rain that plagued Saturday's event.

Autum Jam At North Davie

The North Davie Athletic Boosters Club will sponsor an "Autum Jam" for the North Davie Students to be held at the school October 11, 1980.

The doors will open at 7:30 p.m. and the band will play from 8:00 until 10:00.

There will be an admission charge of $2.00 per each student and chaperones will be plentiful.

Soft drinks will be available and all proceeds will be used to assist the Athletic Department.

Featured will be live music supplied by "Snowblind", a hard-driving rock band known for their energetic style and sound.

Competency Test To Be Given Next Week

Eleventh-grade students throughout North Carolina will take the state's competency tests September 30 and October 1. These high school students will have to demonstrate "minimum competency" in the basic skills in order to receive a high school diploma.

The testing is a result of 1977 legislation passed by the General Assembly to make sure high school graduates possess the skills and knowledge necessary to function successfully in society. The program is intended to identify strengths and weaknesses in the education process and make the education system accountable to the public for results.

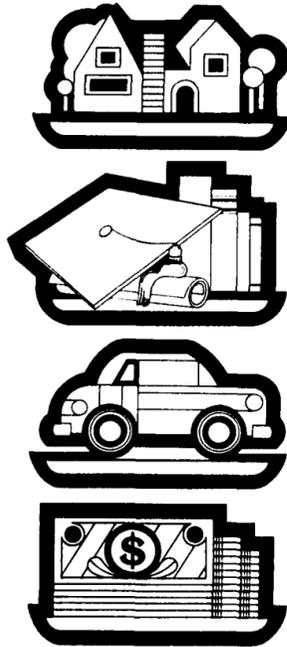

State Competency Test results for last spring's session showed that 71,795 North Carolina seniors (class of 1980) took the test. Of the seniors, some 70,814 (98.6 percent) successfully passed the reading portion; 70,565 (98.3 percent) passed the math section. Some 981 (1.4 percent) of the senior class did not pass the reading portion; 1,230 (1.7 percent) did not pass the math test. These students continued to work in remediation programs and had an additional opportunity to pass the test the last month of school.

The class of 1980 was the first class issued graduation certificates rather than diplomas to those failing the test.

Parrots

Many parrots not only talk, but make other noises, too. Some learn to bark like dogs or to whistle like trains. One parrot's cage was kept in the kitchen, and the bird began to gurgle like a dishwasher, reports National Geographic World.

Numerous Exhibits For Craft Lovers

The Arts Alive Festival

The Arts Alive Festival Saturday featured numerous exhibits for craft lovers.

Rain, which plagued the area throughout the morning, caused a few exhibitors to pack up and leave. On the whole however, most endured the messy weather, seeking shelter under sidewalk awnings.

Frances Brown, Arts Council secretary commented that practically all the 100 exhibitors at Saturday's festival said they wanted to come back next year.

"The festival got high ratings from most exhibitors," Ms. Brown said. The rain dampened their spirits early in the morning, but by late afternoon, the streets were filled with spectators.

Handmade items of all types filled the streets and sidewalks. There were many cross-stitch exhibits, needlepoint designs, wood crafts, dried flower arrangements, etc.

Various paintings were displayed. One exhibit was sponsored by the Davie Art Guild. Several exhibits were set up by individual artists.

A new comer to this year's festival was Sue Shell of China Grove. Mrs. Shell is well known in Rowan County for her beautiful pine cone carfts.

She had many items for sale at Saturday's Arts Festival including pine wreaths, baskets, table decorations, etc.

Mrs. Shell commented that she has been involved in pinecone carfts for the past five years. It started strictly as a hobby but has recently turned into a small time business. Mrs. Shell said that when she is not involved in making various designs, she is busy giving demonstrations to various Rowan County schools and clubs.

"I really enjoy making them," she said, "and never run out of ideas...only time."

Mrs. Shell commented that all of her materials are collected by hand. She added that she and her family will soon begin gathering cones for next year's designs.

"We travel all over the state to gather cones," she said. "The amount we have to gather is unbelievable since it takes about a garbage bag full to make one wreath."

The cones are stored in her husbands workshop in China Grove. Mrs. Shell added that it is difficult to determine how many designs she completes a year.

"I work on an assembly line basis," she explained. "I always have several projects underway at once."

The rain almost kept her away Saturday. But, as the sun began to peak from behind clouds, Mrs. Shell and many other exhibitors were glad they came.

Gary Coleman of Charlotte had various sizes and shapes of handmade baskets for sale Saturday. A graduate student at the University of Tennessee, Coleman spends practically every weekend at crafts fairs across eastern North Carolina.

He commented that the rain dampened his spirits Saturday, and he almost went home.

"We sat here from 7:45 a.m. until 1:00 p.m. before setting items up," he said. Our location was right on the street with no shelter. "I couldn't put the baskets out until the rain stopped.

He commented that this is his first year at the local Arts Festival and hopes to come back next year. "Our booth had a lot of response," he said.

Crowds were sparse during morning hours, but the streets were filled with people by mid-afternoon. People of all ages browsed through the many crafts which lined the streets.

Even with the slow beginning, most craftsmen expressed delight with profits made. Popular items were paintings, baked goods, cross-stitch plaques and wood items.

"The craftsmen seemed delighted with festival," said Frances Brown. "Most gave the 6th annual event a good to excellent rating."

Sue Shell of China Grove displays her many pine cone creations. She has been involved in the craft for five years, but this is her first time to exhibit at the local Arts Festival.

Dixie Classic Fair Announces Free Entertainment Lineup

The 1980 Dixie Classic Fair will feature a wide variety of free entertainment for Fairgoers during its run October 3-11 in Winston-Salem.

The Paul Caldwell Show will include an 11-member cast of singers, dancers, and musicians. Headlining the cast will be Caldwell, a dynamic talent who has won wide acclaim as a performer, producer, and writer. In announcing the show, W.B. Austin, Jr., Fair Manager, said, "Caldwell's vigorous vocal style, debonair manner, and ability to establish rapport with all types of Fairgoers will result in a show that will long be remembered."

The group will appear on the outdoor stage several times every afternoon and evening.

Another free attraction will be Carla Wallenda's Aerial Thrill Show and Circus. Miss Wallenda, daughter of the renowned Karl Wallenda, has appeared in many countries as the center ring attraction performing high-wire feats all of her life. She was the top mounter of the 7-person pyramid of "Great Wallendas" for more than a decade. At the fair she will perform more than 100 feet above the ground atop the sway pole. In addition, she will present Miss Sandy's Canines, balancing expertise on the unsupported Roman ladders by the Centurians, Miss Karlita and her Miniature Flying Circus, and the almost human gorilla. This show will appear afternoons and evenings October 6-11.

Elbaville Club Meets

The Elbaville Homemakers Club met last week and enjoyed a covered dish luncheon at the Elbaville Fellowship Hall.

Following lunch, the meeting was called to order by the president, Mildred Markland.

Ina Young had the devotionals and read Psalm 46 and then read a poem.

The program for the month was the "Mystery of Camouflage". Tama O'Mara gave a talk on clothes.

The roll call indicated ten members present. Collection was $3.60; $3.50 birthday; and 56 in pennies for friendship. Also stamps were collected.

Achievement Day scheduled to be held October 28 at Center was discussed.

Some members discussed safety, food processing and health.

The Basketball Chicken, Fire Chief Rabbit, Piano Duck, and the popular Bird Brain are included along with other familiar animals doing unfamiliar tricks. The show is open every day and night.

Additional attractions at the Fair will include the Friday and Monday Flower Shows, livestock judging and auctions, daily kitchen and crafts demonstrations, outdoor cooking contests, draft horse and youth dog shows, cake and apple auctions, senior citizens fun time and dance contest, apple pie contest, pipe smoking contest, rooster crowing contest, and thousands of exhibits and demonstrations.

Smith Grove Precinct To Meet Friday

The Smith Grove Precinct will have a meeting Friday, September 26, 1980 at 7:30 p.m. at the Smith Grove Fire Department. Plans for the November election will be discussed as well as plans for a fall outing at which time you will be able to meet many of your candidates. All republican members of this precinct are urged to attend this important meeting.

Cooleemee Presbyterian Church Homecoming Is This Sunday

The Cooleemee Presbyterian Church will hold their annual Homecoming Sunday, September 28, with Jule C. Spach of Winston-Salem bringing the 11 a.m. message.

Administrator of the Triad United Methodist Home, Inc. of Winston-Salem and Moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of the U.S. in 1976, Mr. Spach served as a missionary to Brazil for 25 years. A church educator, Mr. Spach taught a seminar for years in Recife, Brazil and organized Bible studies and prayer breakfasts for senators and high officials in Brazil. He was the leader of the Presbyterian Mission during the time the Rev. J.D. Revis, pastor of Cooleemee Presbyterian Church, was on assignment for three years as a missionary to Brazil. Spach also helped organize an educational program for the illiterate of Brazil. A graduate of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, he is married and the father of four children.

Following the morning service, a picnic-style luncheon will be served.

The Singing Disciples and The Believers will present a program of gospel music in the sanctuary after lunch.

The young people will have a hotdog supper at 6 p.m. after which they will go into their regular youth groups.

During the evening worship service at 7:30 p.m., the movie "Who Love His Appearing", a Ken Anderson Films Dramatic Presentation, will be shown.

Amy Jo Mason, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mickey Mason was 4 years old, Wednesday, September 10. However, her celebrations started Sunday, Sept. 7 with a lunch at her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Lakey. Guests included her aunts, and uncles. Later in the day, a party was given for Amy at her great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe W. Foster. Guests were great-aunts, uncles, and cousins. On Monday, Sept. 8 Amy was given a birthday dinner at her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman B. Smith. Guests included family members. On Wednesday, Sept. 10, Amy enjoyed a cookout at her home with her little neighbors, Crystal and Cynthia Fleming; their mother, Catherine Fleming; her Nana and Papaw, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Lakey and her cousin, Laura Phillips. Amy received many nice gifts. A lot of fun was had by all.

Regina Riggan Is Honored At Shower

Regina Riggan was honored with a bridal shower Thursday evening, August 18, at Blaise Baptist Church Fellowship Hall. Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Betty Angell, Mrs. Nellie Angell, Mrs. Peggy Angell, Mrs. Cynthia Pope, Miss Marcia Angell and Mrs. Bernice Knight.

Upon arrival the honoree was presented a corsage of yellow roses, which was pinned to her blue dress. The refreshment table was covered with a yellow cloth with a lace overlay. The table was centered with an arrangement of fresh roses.

Refreshments consisted of decorated cake squares, mints, nuts and yellow punch.

Approximately thirty-five guests called during the appointed hours from 7 p.m. until 9 p.m.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Frank Riggan, was present for the occasion.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Smith of Cooleemee announce the birth of their second child, a son, on September 21, in Rowan Memorial Hospital. The baby weighed eight pounds, one ounce and has been named Gene Christopher. They also have a daughter, Christy, age 2.

Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Chester West of Route 7, Mocksville. Mr. and Mrs. Gene Smith of Mocksville are the paternal grandparents. Mrs. Annie McDonald of Salisbury is the great-grandmother.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Joseph Pennington of Friedburg Mobile Home Park announce the birth of their first child, a son, Samuel Joseph Pennington Jr. He was born on Tuesday, September 16, at Forsyth Memorial Hospital.

At birth the infant weighed 8 lbs. and was 20 1/2 inches long.

The mother is the former Shirley Marie Renegar and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Renegar Jr. of Fargo Drive, Winston-Salem. Great Grandparents are the Rev. and Mrs. E.K. Wooten of Reeves Lane, Elkin, N.C. and Charles C. Renegar Sr. of Mocksville, N.C.

Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Samuel L. Pennington of Kinney Road, Lewisville. Great grandmother is Mrs. Ruth Beck Pennington of Shady Brook Lane, Lewisville and Mrs. Della Stilleby Forbus of Kinney Road, Lewisville.

Food Labels

Consumers say all kinds of nice things about nutritional labeling. "Unfortunately, many of them don't make effective use of the information," says Rachel Kinlaw, extension food specialist, North Carolina State University.

Nutritional labeling gives a run down of the nutrients present in one serving of the product. The label also tells how the nutrient supply compares with the U.S. Recommended Daily Allowance for protein, five vitamins and two minerals.

Nutritional labeling is required by law on only two types of foods. Those that have been fortified with added nutrients and those where a nutritional claim is made. Many other products are labeled on a voluntary basis.

MOVIES COMING UP! This month and next month we are sponsoring two film programs the likes of which have not been seen here before. Next Monday night we will have a chuckle at the Presidential candidates' expense, and then on October 13th pure terror is the byword.

Next Monday, September 29th at 7:00 p.m., we are going to poke fun at the two major candidates for the Presidency: Ronald Reagan and Jimmy Carter. We're not out to upset anyone, just relax, and the two films scheduled will add up to pure fun. The Forsyth County Public Library has added several Ronald Reagan films to their collection, and one of these, "Santa-Fe Trail" will be our main attraction. It is a 1940 Western and you can be sure "Dutch" Reagan will be looking good. Then, a three-minute shot called "Jimmy the C" will be shown. This is a clay-animation featuring the song "Georgia" sung by Ray Charles as the main theme. The President is not taken too seriously, but neither is "Dutch" in "Santa-Fe Trail".

NIGHT OF THE LIVING DEAD is a 1968 black and white cult horror classic. We add this warning: NOT FOR YOUNG CHILDREN! George Romero made this film on a low budget and it is about the newly dead who come back to life and march upon a horrified humanity, devouring human flesh. Scientists try to find the causes, while a small group of people fight for their lives: This is our Halloween Special, shown at 7:00 p.m. Monday, October 13th.

Lions Clubs Are Praised For Work With Visually Impaired

"If it weren't for Lions Clubs, we might not be where we are today in working with blind and visually impaired people. In fact, Lions Clubs existed and started working with blind citizens long before any state agency was created to provide such services," says Earl Jennings.

Jennings is director of the N.C. Department of Human Resources' Division of Services for the Blind. And he knows what he's talking about. Jennings is legally blind and has been for many years, so he's keenly aware of how far the Tar Heel State has come in helping blind and visually impaired people. He's also a Lions Club member.

According to Jennings, the Great Lions Movement came to North Carolina in 1922 when 10 clubs were organized, primarily in the larger cities. They started working with the visually impaired in a variety of ways from purchasing glasses for needy school students to providing radios.

In 1934, Lions Clubs created and organized the State Association for the Blind (now N.C. Lions Association for the Blind) with the association's first project being the establishment of a state government agency for the blind. In 1935, the General Assembly created the Commission for the Blind, now called the Division of Services for the Blind. There is, however, a Commission for the Blind appointed by the Governor which passes rules and regulations on the division's programs.

"The Lions Clubs are still very active in working with blind and visually impaired persons," said Jennings, noting that there are currently 450 clubs and approximately 16,000 members.

"They collect money during the annual White Cane Drive for the N.C. Lions Association for the Blind which sponsors Camp Dogwood located on Lake Norman. This is a special camp for blind and visually impaired people of all ages," continued Jennings.

Lions Clubs also support the N.C. Eye and Human Tissue Bank; provide scholarships for higher education for the children of blind parents needing assistance; supply needy visually impaired persons with white canes, radios, financial assistance, glasses, artificial eyes, talking book records and other items; and promote the sale of products made in the homebound industries program for the blind.

Jennings pointed out that many of the individual clubs sponsor special projects and events for blind people such as fishing trips or picnics.

"The members also do a lot of one-on-one work with the blind like reading their mail or taking them to the store or doctor's office. We need this kind of assistance. There's no way that government could provide the funding or staff to meet many of these needs, particularly the individual ones. And we're lucky in North Carolina to have such dedicated, interested Lions Club members," concluded Jennings.

Evergreen trees help block the wind from a house better than deciduous trees, which provide more shade.

Do You Know?

Rule of 72
Use the rule of "72" to find out how long it will take for your money to double at a given interest rate, advises Dr. Thelma Hinson, extension family resource management specialist, North Carolina State University.

Just divide 72 by the rate of interest. For example, at eight percent interest, your savings would double in nine years (72 divided by 8 equals 9).

The same rule works to show you how many years it will take the value of your money to be cut in half at a given inflation rate. An average 10 percent rate of inflation will cut your assets in half in about 7 years (72 divided by 10 equals 7.2).

Mites
At least 30,000 species of mites have been classified, but experts think these represent possibly only a tenth of the total number, National Geographic reports.

Hand Iron
The first electric hand iron was introduced in 1904.

CELEBRATES BIRTHDAYS IN TENNESSEE

Alvin and Francis Killen of Fran-Ray Rest Home Inc. have just returned from a visit with their aunts, Mrs. Ruth Allison, and Emerald Gadd and families celebrating September birthdays for Alvin, Francis, Jane Allison, (cousin) and Ronnie Bates at Knoxville over the weekend.

Alvin had the privilege of steering a six seater motor boat down the Tennessee River. Francis also took the privilege to learn how to steer through the channels and learn the markers to prevent the yacht from going aground in shallow water.

Knoxville, is the birth place of Francis. On Saturday he visited the church group where his father was once the pastor about the time of Francis' first birthday. Francis said, "It was great hearing one cousin teach a class while another sang special music and then to worship with many college friends and others during both services last Sabbath, (Saturday)."

Advance

A unusually large crowd attended the Homecoming Services Sunday at Methodist church. The Rev. Edd Fitzgerald of High Point delivered an inspiring message. Rev. Fitzgerald served 5 churches on this charge when he was here some 25 years ago. Sunday morning all five of his previous churches were represented at the Homecoming with members from Mocks, Elbaville, Fulton, Bailey's Chapel and many, many from the Advance church.

Members of the Zimmerman family met Sunday at the Methodist church to attend the Homecoming services and as a reunion to celebrate Jim Zimmerman's 71st birthday which was September 21. Family members present were Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Zimmerman and Todd, Mr. and Mrs. Cletus Sowers and grandson Richard, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Zimmerman, Mrs. Nancy Zimmerman and children Cammie and Mike, and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Zimmerman. Mrs. Bill Foster of Jacksonville, Florida, her daughter Mrs. Jane Gasperanni of Tarrytown, New York and Mrs. Foster's granddaughter Miss Gail Townsan also of Jacksonville spent 4 days here last week. Mrs. Foster and Mrs. Gasperanni stayed with a brother W. A. Hendrix. Miss Townsan stayed with Mrs. Rhea Potts. They visited many other relatives while here.

Mrs. Beatrice Pratt of Winston-Salem visited her cousins Mrs. Bill Foster, Mrs. Gasperanni and Miss Townsan during the week. Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Jessup, newly-weds, of Rowan County were honored with a miscellaneous shower Saturday night at the home of Mrs. Grace Spry and Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Ward. They received many useful gifts. Elmer Mock and Charles Markland are patients at Davie Hospital suffering severe chest pains; however, heart attacks have been ruled out for both men. Get well wishes go out to them.

Mrs. Rhea Potts and her house guest Miss Gail Townsan, Roy Potts and daughters Cammie and Kendra and Diane Osborne spent Sunday in the mountains of N. C. and Virginia. This was Gail's first time to see mountains.

Miss Rebekah Talbert underwent minor surgery Saturday at Dr. Davis' office. A speedy recovery is wished for her.

The Advance Masonic Lodge held its annual Family Cook-out Saturday night at the Recreation Center back of community building. A large number of Masons and their families turned out for the supper despite the down-pour of rain. The rain was very welcome!

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Talbert left Friday to spend the weekend in Morehead City with his brother and sister-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Gannon Talbert. Gannon is recuperating satisfactorily from recent leg amputation and is adjusting real well to his artificial limb.

Senior Citizens Install Officers

The newly elected officers of the Cooleemee Senior Citizens Club were installed during their regular meeting Monday in the fellowship hall of the First Baptist Church at 10 a.m.

Installation officer was Mrs. John Spargo, who is one of those instrumental in the organization of the club. She also read the club's by-laws.

The new officers are: Granville Spry, president; Mrs. Bessie Naile, vice president; Mrs. Ethel Gibson, secretary; Mrs. Luna Myers, assistant secretary; Russell Ridenhour, treasurer; Mrs. Thelma Gregory, chaplain; and Mrs. Mae Markland, assistant chaplain.

Two new members, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Bowles, were welcomed into the club and there was one visitor, Ed Howard.

The club made plans to attend the Dixie Classics Fair in Winston-Salem on Tuesday, October 7. All those planning to attend should meet at the church and be ready to leave by 10 a.m.

All members having birthdays during September were honored in song after which the 42 persons attending adjourned to the dining hall for refreshments of sandwiches, cookies, cake, pickles and soft drinks.

The wedding is planned for Saturday, October 25 at Oak Grove United Methodist Church.

Tarheel Kitchen

By Miss F. York Kiker

There are pleasures associated with each season of the year, but topping the list for fall must be the arrival of fresh, crisp North Carolina apples. Governor James Hunt's Apple Month proclamation reminds us that the 1980 N. C. apple crop is estimated to be in excess of nine million bushels as compared with less than one million bushels twenty-five years ago. North Carolina is the largest early producing state with 28 counties, primarily in the western part of the state, accounting for most of the production.

Apple festivals have been held in Henderson and Lincoln Counties, and apples play an important part in many of the agricultural fairs. The annual Brushy Mountain Apple Festival sponsored by the local Ruritan Club will be held in downtown North Wilkesboro on October 4, 1980. According to the publicity, festivities include cider making, crafts, music, fun, and apples, apples, apples from 10 a.m. until...

Even if it is not possible to attend a festival, a short trip in western North Carolina to view the apple orchards and see the harvesting operation can be fascinating. Who can resist buying lots of apples to bring home? To avoid disappointment select apples according to recommended uses. Red Delicious are excellent raw but only fair when cooked. Golden Delicious are excellent raw and good when cooked. Staymans are excellent raw and cooked. Red Romes are good raw and excellent cooked, especially baked. Small quantities of apples may be stored in plastic bags in the refrigerator to prevent shriveling and transfer of odors. Large quantities should be stored in a cool airy place. Improper storage results in mealy apples.

Apples raw apples cooked, apples at home, apples in packed lunches, apples for tailgate picnics—count the ways to serve apples and enjoy them often.

Surprise Apple Ambrosia
3 or 4 large N.C. eating apples, peeled and coarse-grated
1 can (15-16 oz.) crushed pineapple, not drained
1 small can frozen orange juice
1 juice can water
1/4 teaspoon coconut flavoring

Thaw orange juice and mix with water; blend together with apples, undrained pineapple and coconut flavoring. Store in refrigerator until chilled thoroughly or for several days. Yields 6 to 8 servings.
Note: This has a surprising texture and flavor. Calorie count is modest, especially if crushed pineapple in its own juice is used. For festive occasions, chopped red maraschino cherries, whipped cream and a sprinkle of grated coconut may be added. Recipe adapted from Endora Garrison, formerly Charlotte Observer food editor.

Apple Trifle
6 cups (approx. 5 large) thinly sliced N.C. cooking apples
2 tablespoons water
One-third cup sugar, brown or white
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1 small (7 oz-8 oz.) angel food cake, or 2 packages unfilled lady fingers (24)
1 cup red plum jelly or raspberry preserves

1 package (approx. 5% oz. - 6 serving size) instant vanilla pudding & pie filling
3/4 cups milk
1 teaspoon sherry flavoring
1/2 cup toasted slivered almonds, or other nuts
Whipped cream, optional
Cook apples in water and sugar until apples are translucent and barely tender. Add butter and center. Chill. Slice angel food cake into thin slices, (approx. 16 slices for a 7 oz. cake) and spread half the slices with jelly or preserves. If jelly is hard to spread, add 1-2 tablespoons water and heat slightly. Stir until melted and smooth. (If lady fingers are used, split and spread side with jelly, place top to make "sandwich".) Line bottom of three-quart serving dish with the angel food cake or lady fingers. Cover with cooked apples. Prepare pudding mix according to package directions, except use 3/4 cups milk. Stir in sherry flavoring. Pour pudding over cake and apples. Sprinkle with toasted almonds or other nuts and extra dash of cinnamon if desired. Chill an hour or more. Divide into portions and top with whipped cream if desired. Garnish with small spoonful of jelly. 9-12 servings.

(Adapted from Apple Trifle recipe in the Asheville Times. Original recipe called for raspberry preserves and lady fingers, but they are not always easily available.)
Don't forget the decorative effect of bowls of cookies alternated with bowls of fruit, to be placed on the table at the end of supper. Washed grape leaves; a few rhododendron leaves, or other evergreens add a good green touch. Of course golden ears of corn, gourds, a small pumpkin are perfect color companions for harvest apples.

Local Jaycettes Have Meeting

The Mocksville Jaycettes held their monthly meeting on Thursday, September 18th at 7:30 p.m. at the Courthouse. There were 12 members present. President Phyllis Kennedy called the meeting to order.

Race reports on the 10,000 Meter Run were given by committee chairpersons. The race was held on Saturday, September 20th.

The Jaycettes were asked by Betsy Johnson to help sponsor a Brownie Troop. A motion was made and carried to donate $25.00 to help the troop.

Alternatives were discussed regarding changing the type of award given for Key Woman. A committee was appointed to make suggestions at the next meeting. The committee is composed of Susan Eaton, Eileen Sink and Phyllis Kennedy.

Teresa Ward suggested holding another exercise class. This will be discussed at the next meeting to see if there is enough interest.

The meeting was adjourned for refreshments.

Box 786, Clemmons, N.C. 27012, phone 998-2256 or Linda Reeder, 710 Magnolia Avenue, Mocksville, N.C. 27028, phone 634-5796.

"We are having this event in the evening for the first time in order that the men and working women of Davie County may attend and show their support for the North Carolina Symphony," said officers of the sponsoring group.

Jane Ellen Shore Is Honored At Shower

Miss Jane Ellen Shore, bride-elect, was honored at a pantry shower on Saturday afternoon by Mrs. Paul Blackwelder and Mrs. James Wall at the Wall home on Church Street. The marriage of Miss Shore to Robert Julian Rivers will be October 5, at the First Baptist Church.

Miss Shore wore an olive green printed skirt and olive green blouse to which she pinned a white carnation corsage from the hostesses. The honor gift was crystal in her chosen pattern.

Special guest was Mrs. Thomas Shore, mother of the bride-elect. Mrs. Randy Smith assisted the hostesses.

Roses were used on the dining table and in the living room. Refreshments consisted of cake squares, sandwiches, pecan fingers, nuts, and iced Cokes.

Friends and neighbors showered Miss Shore with many useful household items for the pantry.

Precipitation
Four trillion gallons of precipitation falls on the United States each day, but only a tenth of it is used, National Geographic says. As water circles from earth to sky, it may be dirtied but none is lost; the water that John used for baptizing Jesus still exists, its billion of molecules now dispersed around the world.

MRS. MICHAEL GLENN TUCKER

...was Verona Susan Hartman

Hartman-Tucker Vows Spoken

Miss Verona Susan Hartman, daughter of George G. Hartman of Route 4, Advance; and Michael Glenn Tucker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Glenn Tucker of Route 1, Advance; were married Saturday, September 20, at 3:00 p.m. at Bethlehem United Methodist Church. The Reverend Donald Funderburk officiated the double ring ceremony.

The bride given in marriage by her father, wore a formal gown featuring wisps of Venice lace swirling across a Queen Anne neckline. The full hoop skirt of white organza was caught up in drapes with lace at the bottom. Full length puff sleeves and chapel length train were trimmed with lace. The matching headband and veil was also trimmed with Venice lace. Her bouquet was a cascade of simbidiums and baby's breath tied with love knots.

Mrs. Tanya Catlett of Powhatan, Virginia, was her sister's Matron of Honor. Bridesmaids were Ms. Diane Osborn, sister of the bride; Ms. Teresa Osborn, niece of the bride; and Ms. Lucille Carter, all of Advance. They wore floor length gowns of burgundy quiana which featured a gathered bodice, sculptured neckline, and pleated skirts. Each carried a crescent bouquet and wore headpieces made of silk flowers in varying shades of burgundy, rose, and pink.

Mr. Alex Glenn Tucker was his son's Best Man. Ushers were Eddie Hartman, Gary Holt, and Andy Spry, all of Advance.

The bride's stepmother wore a formal gown of green polyester. The groom's mother chose a long gown of dusty rose. Both wore white rosebud corsages.

The flower girl and ring bearer were Kristie and Jason Utt of Winston-Salem, cousins of the bride. Miss Debbie Stokes of Advance kept the guest register. A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Linda Smith, organist, Mr. Jimmy Wilson, pianist, and Terry Reavis and Rita White, vocalists. Mrs. Berma Foster directed the wedding and designed flowers for the wedding party and church.

The bride is a graduate of Davie County High School and Forsyth Technical Institute with an Associate Degree in Radiologic Technology. The groom, also a graduate of Davie High School is employed with R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company.

After a wedding trip to the coast, the couple will reside at Route 1, Advance.

Basic Sewing Class To Be Taught

A Basic Sewing Class will be taught at the Phipps Sewing Center through the Davie County Community School and Davidson County Community College starting Thursday evening, September 25th, 6:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. The course will last until December 18th.

Mrs. Teresa Jones, who is the class instructor, said that students will work on two projects during the course. The level of project difficulty will be determined by each student's personal ability and experience in sewing. The students will learn items such as sewing terms and equipment, fabric and pattern coordination, basic pattern alterations, how to follow pattern instructions and basic sewing techniques.

The registration fee for the course is $5.00 and is open to anyone 16 years of age and older. Senior citizens 65 years old are FREE.

Mrs. Jones invited anyone desiring further information or wishing to register for the course to telephone her at 634-3880.

CAKE CUTTING
Following the wedding rehearsal Friday, September 19, a cake-cutting was held in the Fellowship Hall of Bethlehem Church. The centerpiece on a white-lace covered table was a permanent arrangement of burgundy, rose, and pink flowers flanked by lighted tapers. The three-tiered wedding cake featured the names of the bride and groom on one layer.

Serving refreshments of cake, punch, chicken puffs, fresh vegetables, nuts, and mints were Mrs. Irene Hartman, Mrs. Anne Hartman, Mrs. Shirley Utt, and Mrs. Linda Phelps. Mrs. Ollie Ward catered the reception. The prospective bride and groom greeted friends and opened gifts brought to the cake-cutting.

Food stamp participation up in N.C.

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A total of $224.6 million in food stamps were issued to a monthly average of 561,903 low-income persons in North Carolina during 1979-80, state social services officials said Monday.

"This represents an increase of more than $72 million in federal food stamps coming into the state in comparison to the previous fiscal year," said John Kerr, chief of the Food Assistance Section in the Division of Social Services of the N.C. Department of Human Resources.

Kerr attributed the increase to legislation passed by Congress, effective Jan. 1, 1979, which removed the requirement that people had to pay a portion of the cost of the stamps.

But, even with the increase in participation, Kerr said that only about 60 percent of those eligible in the state are participating.

"I realize there are a lot of critics of the food stamp program and other financial assistance programs for the poor across the state," he said. "But ... not only do the poor benefit from the program, it also stimulates the state's entire economy by pumping these millions of federal dollars in the marketplace."

Martha West elected to board of state group

Dr. Martha West, professor of education at Catawba College, was elected to the executive board of the North Carolina Association of Colleges for Teacher Education at its fall meeting on the Catawba campus during the weekend.

She will serve a three-year term on the board.

All 44 colleges offering teacher education in North Carolina are members of the organization.

Dr. David Reilly, dean of the School of Education of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro, was elected president; Dr. Ken Jenkins of Appalachian State University, vice president; Mrs. Helen Matthews of Methodist College, secretary; and Dr. Ted Medlin of Greensboro College, treasurer.

Sister Mary Christine Beck of Sacred Heart College was also elected to the board. Continuing members are Dr. Barbara Paramore of North Carolina State, Dr. Patricia Schwab of Guilford, Dr. Donald Hayes of Lenoir-Rhyne, and Dr. David Webb of Atlantic Christian.

Dr. Willa Bryant of Livingstone College will remain on the board as immediate past president.

RTC plans class in flower arranging

Rowan Technical College will offer a class in holiday flower arranging during the fall quarter.

The class will be conducted at Corriher-Lipe Junior High School in Landis Mondays from 7 to 10 p.m. Sept. 29 through Dec. 1. Teresa Ridle will be the instructor.

Interested persons should contact the Continuing Education Division of Rowan Tech. Students should take social security cards and a $5 registration fee to the first class session.

Cook co-edits book on elderly

The son of a former Salisbury minister has co-edited a recently published book titled "Spiritual Well-Being of the Elderly."

The Rev. Thomas Cook Jr. is the son of the Rev. Thomas Cunningham Cook, former pastor of Second Presbyterian Church of Salisbury and Little Joe's Presbyterian Church in Barium Springs.

Rev. Cook Jr. is director of the National Interfaith Coalition on Aging and of Gerontology in Seminary Training in Athens, Ga. The elder Cook, pastor in Salisbury from 1930 to 1938 and in Barium Springs from 1938 to 1945, contributed to the book.

Biting bear gets clean bill

THURMONT, Md. (AP) — Greeted by an admiring crowd and a honeycomb-topped cake, Wendy the Bear emerged from involuntary hibernation — a 60-day quarantine after biting her assistant trainer.

The Malayan sun bear got a clean bill of health Saturday. The bear, marked for death after biting Holly Hulfish in the hand in July, escaped execution when Miss Hulfish volunteered to take rabies shots and officials decided instead to test the bear.

Rincon is NL player of week

NEW YORK (AP) — Right-hander Andy Rincon of the St. Louis Cardinals, a winner in his first two major league appearances, has been named Player of the Week in the National League for the week ending Sept. 21. It was announced Monday by NL President Chub Feeney.

The children at Coolee Elementary School say good by to Johnson Ijames who retired at the age of 90 and after 42 years as custodian.

Johnson Ijames Is Retiring At Ninety

"All In A Day's Work" For This Nonagenarian

At the age of 90, Johnson Ijames decided it was time to retire.

As custodian of the Coolee Elementary School for the past 42 years, Johnson had become part of the institution. He hasn't missed more than a total weeks work in more than 15 years.

Every day, Johnson made his rounds through the school. Winter and Summer, he always checked the building inside and out. He didn't go on Sundays - he never wanted to miss church. However, there was a time years ago when he did go to the school on Sunday afternoon to build a fire in the boiler so the buildings would be warm enough when the students arrived on Monday morning. This was eliminated when the old boiler was replaced by a more efficient heating system.

No one knew just what time Johnson came to work. For years, former principal V.G. Prim was usually there at 7 a.m. and he would comment that Johnson had been there long before he arrived.

Johnson celebrated his birthday last Tuesday (September 16). The children in the different suites at Coolee School sang "Happy Birthday" to him as he made his rounds, emptying trash in the rooms. Others stopped him in the halls or outside the building congratulating him on the day of his 90th birthday. Claytie Caton, an employee in the school cafeteria, made him a birthday cake.

Everyone in the school - students and staff - presented him with a gold watch the following day - the day of his retirement. All had contributed towards the fund and the money that was not spent on the watch - $250 - was given him as a check. The words "Johnson Ijames, Coolee School, 1938-1980" were engraved on the gold pocket watch.

Following retirement, many people feel their life is over. Not Johnson. He plans to stay busy around the house and spend some time with his two great-grandchildren, ages 2 and 5. Even if he just lives to be his sister's age, he's got a long way to go. His sister will be 103 in a couple of weeks. His father lived to be 94, and his mother was 92 when she died.

Johnson was the youngest of 13 children, but says his being "number 13" didn't bother him in the least.

As a child of around 8 or 9 years old, Johnson remembered his brothers and sisters saying they "wanted to die before my mama". "They asked me what I thought about it and I said I wanted to live, and see all the beautiful things."

With the exception of one sister, they did die before his parents, and he took care of his mother and father until they died.

Johnson says the reason his health is so good is "I took care of myself and didn't run all over the country... And I never been arrested in my life," he said proudly.

Johnson's first job was at a very young age with a sawmill - the "Charlie Seaford Sawmill" in Davie County. He went to work in the mill in Coolee in 1917 and worked 48 years before retiring.

He began working at the school in 1938, under Principal Smith, during the winter months while he was still employed with Erwin Mills.

He was always a faithful and dependable employee. Regardless of the weather, Johnson always walked the approximate half-mile from his home to school.

He was the oldest employee in the Davie School System and has probably spent more time in the school than anyone else. And yet, he says he never had a chance to go to school. "I had to work. I had to help my father." His father was a farmer and grew cotton, corn, wheat, "stuff like that."

"No, I never had a chance. I come up rough. I can't do much reading and writing. I used to could write my name, but I got out of that."

Johnson has been retired one week now, but he still drops by the school most every day.

"Of course he is always welcome," says Principal Vernon Thompson, "I guess old habits are hard to break."

Johnson reminisces about his many years as custodian of Coolee School.

"Old habits are hard to break" and Johnson drops by the school most every day since his retirement last week.

Sweeping the halls, just one of his many chores.

Luke Gaitner Is With The U. S. Coast Guard

Coast Guard Chief Aviation Machinist's Mate Luke D. Gaitner, son of James C. and Margaret Gaitner of 47 Main St., Cooleemee, N.C., has reported for duty at Coast Guard Air Station Boringuen, Aguadilla, Puerto Rico.

A 1961 graduate of Davie County High School, Mocksville, N.C., he joined the Coast Guard in August 1961.

Tight Rings

To loosen a tight ring, rub soap over the finger above and below the ring. The ring should slide off when you wash your hands.

Arnold Broadway, Caller and Instructor for "Old Timey" square dancing.

'Old Timey' Square Dance Lessons Are Scheduled

"Bird In a Cage", "Right Hands Cross", "Sister Swing Sister" and "Georgia-Alabama" are just a few of the "calls" that will be taught during one of Davie County Community School's newest classes "Old Timey" Square Dancing.

The Square Dance Class will start Thursday evening, October 2nd, 7:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. at Mocksville Elementary School on Cemetery Street. The fee is $1.50 per person. Refreshments will be available.

Mr. Arnold Broadway, Caller and Instructor, said that the class is open to all age groups - "8 to 80". He stated, "We hope that families will come and learn to square dance together. We will maintain a wholesome clean atmosphere that will be suitable for all members of the family."

Those desiring to enroll in the class should wear casual clothes and tennis shoes or any soft-soled shoe that will not leave marks on the floor. Anyone needing further information is invited to telephone Arnold or Brenda Broadway after 5:00 p.m. at 284-2214.

Arnold and Brenda Broadway will be the featured guest and will discuss "Old Timey" Square Dancing on the Davie County Community School Report which can be heard on WDSL Radio Saturday morning, September 27th at 10:00 a.m.

Calories Burn Slower When Years Reach 30s

As age increases, there is often an increase in pounds and inches around the middle.

"With a little willpower and planning, you may do something about this," reminds Marjorie Donnelly, extension food and nutrition specialist, North Carolina State University.

"All people need the same nutrients, but in different amounts" she says. "This is especially true of calories."

As a person passes the middle or late twenties, the need for calories begins to decrease.

"The way to control weight is with sensible eating and regular exercise," Mrs. Donnelly adds. "Select two servings of meat or meat alternatives, two servings of dairy products, four servings of fruits and vegetables and four servings of breads and cereals each day. Wise choices from foods in these groups can help you control weight.

Mrs. Donnelly offers these additional suggestions for those who want to control their weight:

Eat lean, well-trimmed meats. Serve vegetables without cream sauces or butter. Try bouillon cubes for flavor.

Use enriched or whole grain cereals and breads.

Buy skim or two-percent milk rather than whole milk.

Cut down on sweets, goodies and between-meal snacks.

Have some type of daily exercise.

Consult a physician for a recommended exercise program.

UNC Center For Public TV Opens For Business

"Public television in North Carolina is experiencing a rebirth," says Jake Dunlop, Director of the brand new University of North Carolina Center for Public Television.

"We have to make public television in North Carolina interesting, fascinating and a refreshing window on the world," Dunlop explains. "We're promising a new look, a fresh public television face. This will include increased local productions, more programs shot out of the studio and a fair and accurate presentation of ourselves to ourselves."

The University of North Carolina Center for Public Television has now officially replaced the UNC-TV Network as the statewide public television system. In late 1978, the Governor's Task Force on Telecommunications recommended that the Center be created and The General Assembly established the new entity with House Bill 1058 in May 1979.

The authorizing legislation stated that the purpose of the Center was to "provide research, development, and production of noncommercial educational television programming and program materials; to provide distribution of noncommercial television programming through the broadcast facilities licensed to The University of North Carolina; and otherwise to enhance the use of television for public purposes."

At the same time a separate Board of Trustees was named to provide advice to the Center's Director. The Board of Trustees is composed of eleven persons appointed by the UNC Board of Governors; four persons appointed by the Governor; one Senator appointed by the President of the Senate, one member of the House of Representatives appointed by the Speaker of the House; and serving ex officio: The Secretary of the Department of Cultural Resources, The Superintendent of Public Instruction, The State President of the Community College System, and the President of the University of North Carolina.

In 1978, The General Assembly also authorized a $5.8 million transmission expansion program to extend the public television signal into unserved areas of the state. Four new translators (or signal power boosters) were put into service west of the Piedmont during the summer. They are: Channel 67, Bryson City; Channel 67, Burnsville; Channel 65, Marion; and Channel 59 in Spruce Pine.

The Center has petitioned the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) to allow the construction of new transmitters in Roanoke Rapids, Lumberton, Jacksonville and Rockingham and to improve the signal of the Asheville transmitter at Mt. Pisgah. The FCC released on August 15 a notice of proposed rulemaking which, if adopted, will result in noncommercial channel assignment for those areas. If channels are assigned the Center can then apply for construction permits for transmitters at those locations.

"The bottom line," Dunlop says, "is that we're moving as fast as the regulatory process will allow to fulfill our goal of delivering a public television signal to all North Carolinians where it's economically and technically viable."

Dunlop says that the Center must reach out and make a difference in the lives of North Carolinians. "As broadcasters, we're going to hold a mirror up for all North Carolinians to see," he explains. "But what will be seen in the reflection will be different images, new ideas, people and thoughts that may not have been seen in the past."

"We're going to make things people have never seen or appreciated before come to life," Dunlop says.

Looking at the public television schedule, Dunlop commented on what public television has to offer North Carolinians. "For the science buff, we have an absolutely astounding exploration of the universe's mysteries, Dr. Carl Sagan's COSMOS. For the country music fan, we have the COUNTRY MUSIC ASSOCIATION'S FAN FAIR.

"We have programs for children in and out of school," Dunlop explained. "We have programs for retired people and those about to retire. We have programs for individuals and programs for families. We have programs for women and we have something for adults or anyone else who wants to continue their education.

"And yet we still have more," he continued. "We have all of those programs in addition to our drama, music, science, literature, humanities and public affairs."

Dunlop said that what the Center must do is create an awareness of public television on the part of North Carolinians to such an extent that the Center and its programs become an integral element of life in North Carolina.

"People will take time out of their schedules to watch the Center," he predicted. "They will take time out to watch our programs and they will be enriched because they did."

Mary V. Angell Receives Degree

Mary V. Angell of Route 7, Mocksville was among 330 persons who completed their degree requirements during the summer school at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

The students are being invited to return to the campus May 9-10 to participate in UNC-G's 89th annual commencement exercises.

The 330 students completing their degrees during summer school at UNC-G included 10 at the doctoral level, two who finished specialist in education degrees, 151 master's degree recipients, and 167 undergraduates.

Mrs. Angell, a psychology major, received the bachelor of arts degree, summa cum laude.

Handicapped Increase Income

Handicapped North Carolinians completing a program of rehabilitation during fiscal year 1979-80 increased their annual income 863 percent.

According to Claude Myer, director of the N.C. Department of Human Resources' Division of Vocational Rehabilitation Services, 10,536 handicapped individuals completed their program of rehabilitation during the past fiscal year.

"At acceptance into the program, the annual earnings of these individuals totaled slightly more than $8.5 million. At closure, their total earnings increased to nearly $62.8 million," said Myer.

The average time from acceptance to closure is about 22 months, but the figure varies depending on individual needs.

"Some people, for example, only need the application of a prosthesis to enable them to return to work. Others, however, may require physical restoration, training and guidance before they can enter the job market," said Myer.

"Naturally, I'm somewhat biased, but I think we have one of the best and most well balanced programs of vocational rehabilitation in the country. We traditionally, for the past several years, have ranked among the top 10 in the nation in the numbers of people we work with and assist into employment," he continued.

Myer pointed out that September is National Rehabilitation Month—a good time to give some thought to the 20 percent of our nation's population who are handicapped. The percentage is approximately the same for North Carolina.

According to Myer, some handicaps are more obvious than others. "We have a tendency to think of handicapped people as being in wheelchairs or using crutches, braces or artificial limbs because we can easily spot them. But there are a lot of hidden conditions that people have to deal with which are just as handicapping such as epilepsy, deafness, mental retardation, heart attacks and many more," he stated.

Handicapped people are more visible in society now than they were several years ago. Advances in medical science have made it possible to save more lives.

Like other minorities, handicapped people have unified and become more active in their own behalf.

"After World War II, for example, people with spinal cord injuries and resulting complications often had shortened life spans, sometimes no more than two years," said Myer.

"But faster and better emergency medical services plus advances in medical technology are making it possible for handicapped people to live an average lifetime," he added.

"I think it's fair to say that most of these people want to live as normally and independently as possible. They don't want to be institutionalized or dependent on others to live. They want to be with their families and friends; they want to work, to support themselves, to have some feeling of self-worth," continued Myer.

"That's where the division's work comes in. We're here to help handicapped people become functional, independent and working, capable of taking care of their own families. And we'll use any community resources that we can to help them whether it's comprehensive rehabilitation centers, workshops, counselors or employers in private industry. We do everything we can to help them reach their highest potential and become employed," he concluded.

Dental Tips

By Gary E. Prillaman DDS

I often hear the comment that dental treatment is too expensive. Maintaining a car can also be expensive if proper care is not taken. If you follow the owner's manual for servicing the car, then chances are very good that you will not come up with big repair bills. The idea is that by changing oil, greasing the car and following the other recommendations, major engine work can be avoided. So by spending a little all along major bills can be avoided.

The same holds true with your teeth. If you practice good oral hygiene at home—daily brushing and flossing, follow good eating habits—limiting sweets, refined carbohydrates and sugars, and come to the dentist office for regular checkups, then chances are you will never have a big dental bill or a toothache. Prevention of dental disease is the key. Once decay has started, a dentist can only patch the teeth. The teeth can't heal themselves. By preventing the disease in the first place the teeth can be kept in their natural state and the person will be able to keep his teeth for a lifetime, maintaining normal chewing function.

Tennis Team Record Nows Stands At 3-2

By Garry Foster
 Davie County High School's girls tennis team added a win and a loss to its record in matches on Thursday and Monday.
 Coach Robert Landry's girls defeated

Davie's Susan Parker remains undefeated so far this season. She beat Abby Burke 6-0, 6-2 at Lexington Monday.

Asheboro last Thursday 6-3, but lost to Lexington Monday 3-6, in a match that had to be finished under artificial light, at Lexington.

Landry said that even though the Davie girls lost the match, he was non the less proud of them. He said all of the girls played a very good match, especially Tracey Stapleton and Kathryn Latham. "That Lexington is just one tough team" he commented.

At least one shining star for Davie in the Lexington match was number six ranked Susan Parker. She defeated Abby Burke 6-0, 6-2; and defeated the season in singles with a 5-0 record. Scores for the Lexington match follow:

Singles competition-Tracey Stapleton beat Cathy Coles 6-2, 6-1; Angela Riddle lost to Katherine Live 3-6, 1-6. Kathryn Latham split sets with Joni Stickland 6-2, 2-6 but lost the tiebreaker 4-6. Liz Packer lost to Sidney Smith 0-6, 2-6; and Susan Parker defeated Abby Burke 6-0, 6-2.

In doubles play Tracey Stapleton and Janis Rauch whipped the team of Olive-Campbell 6-2, 6-3. Riddle-Latham lost to Coles-Strickland 4-6, 6-7; and the team of Parker-Packer lost to Smith Crabtree 0-6, 3-6.

Davie's record so far this season stands at 3-2. The team will meet North Rowan Thursday on the Mocksville courts.

War Eagles To Meet Thomasville Friday

The Davie High War Eagles will journey to Thomasville Friday night to face the Bulldogs in a clash Davie coach Al Sitterle has called "a big one."

Thomasville, the defending champion, is undefeated in three games, sharing the top of the North Piedmont Conference standings with Lexington, the preseason favorite.

Looking to topple Thomasville, Davie will bring an unblemished record of 3-0 and a well rested squad after a two-week break in their schedule.

"We should be fully healthy," said Sitterle. "This is a big one. We will find out if our defense can stop a fine inside running game."

Sitterle is counting on the return of Shannon Pulliam to the defensive line up after an injury. The running backs lost in the bruising 27-26 win over the Trinity Bulldogs should also be ready.

Davie began the season with a 28-0 rout of Forbush, but won the next two games by a total margin of only 3 points. On September 5, the War Eagles relied on Larry Whitaker's 87 yards rushing and two touchdowns and Barry Whitlock's kicking to outlast a surprising West Davidson squad 14-12.

On September 12, it was the arm of quarterback Scott Pratt and the foot of Whitlock that lifted Davie to a 27-26 victory over the Trinity Bulldogs. Down 20-7 at the half, the War Eagles rallied in the last two quarters. Pratt passed for two touchdowns and ran for two more, but it was Whitlock's deadly kicking that provided the winning margin.

Last Friday night was a dogfight between the Bulldogs as Thomasville defeated Trinity 7-0.

On the line this Friday night will be two unbeaten records. If Davie can defeat Thomasville, the War Eagles will be tied for first in the conference with Lexington. Thomasville and Lexington each have two wins and no losses in conference play. Salisbury and Davie are 1-0 against North Piedmont opponents. West Rowan and Asheboro are split at 1-1. In the basement, North Davidson, Trinity and North Rowan each have two losses and have yet to win in conference play.

South Davie Junior High Girls Softball Team Begins Season With Two Victories

The South Davie Girls' Softball Team opened their season, Thursday, September 18, with a victory against Lexington, 7-4.

South Davie scored 2 runs in the first inning after Susan Howell singled and Donna Whitlock hit a triple. Lexington scored 2 in the second to tie the game. The Tigerettes again took the lead in the bottom of the second, 5-2. Lexington added 2 more runs in the third to make a comeback, South Davie pulled away in the fifth with a 2-run homer by Shelly Godbey.

Donna Whitlock was the leading hitter with 2. Susan Howell, Shelley Godbey, Naomi Minwalla, Tammy Combs, and Sandy Stroud had 1 hit each.

BOX SCORE
Lexington	0 2 2 0 0 0 0 4
South Davie	2 3 0 0 2 0 - 7

The South Davie softball team defeated Knox Trojans, 11-7, September 22.

After the Trojans scored 2 runs in the first inning, the Tigers came back with 3 in the second. South added 5 and Knox followed with 1 in the third. Each team scored 1 in the fourth inning. Neither team scored after the fifth when South added 2 and the Trojans 3.

Leading hitters for South Davie were Kim Earnhardt with 3. Susan Howell 2, Donna Whitlock, 2; Naomi Minwalla, 2; Tammy Combs, 2; and Sandy Stroud, 2. Shelly Godbey, Frankie Tkach, Carol Wilkinson, Senena Steele, and Teresa Spillman each singled.

South Davie will host North Davie Monday, September 29, at 4:00. South Davie 0 3 5 1 2 0 0 11 Knox 2 0 1 1 3 0 0 7

State Fair Exhibit

The N.C. Agricultural Extension Service is going to support the 1980 N.C. State Fair in a big way. The fair will be held October 17-25.

The support is going to come in the form of a major exhibit tied in with the fair theme -- "A Place of Discovery."

The extension exhibit will be housed in a 100-foot geodesic dome and will be titled "The Billion Dollar Discovery."

"We plan to present several dozen ideas, which collectively could be worth $1 billion to North Carolina if fully adopted," said Dr. T.C. Blalock, state extension director.

"I believe nearly every North Carolinian will be able to find at least one idea that could be helpful to them," Blalock said. "We'll have ideas on food, clothing, shelter, and energy for families. And we'll have ideas for most segments of agriculture."

"The Billion Dollar Discovery" will be located between Dorton Arena and Hillsborough Street, near the South Gate of the Fairgrounds. The outside of the exhibit will be attractively landscaped.

Fairgoers will enter the exhibit through a door that resembles the entrance to a bank or vault. Once inside, they will pass through a tunnel, which will be lined with money-making or money-saving suggestions.

Emerging from the tunnel, fairgoers can go to exhibit areas dealing with food, people, energy, and growing things. They will also have a choice of seeing a slide-tape show in a 90-seat theatre and seeing a number of live demonstrations during the day.

7UP SUPER STARS SPORTS TALK

Bruce Sutter

A manager no longer thinks twice about sending his starter to an early shower and bringing in his bullpen ace.

Those men who sit in the bullpen and wait for their number to be called are also perceived differently today. Now there is something glamorous about the fireman who enters the fray with the game very much on the line. Flamethrower and junkball artist, these pitchers who deal in short and long inning relief have become as specialized as transmission experts or ear, nose and throat men.

7UP Super Star Bruce Sutter has a reputation for being one of the best relief pitchers to ever play the game. Last season Bruce was honored for not only being the best reliever in baseball, but the National League's No. 1 pitcher. The only other bullpen ace to win the Cy Young Award -- given annually to the league's most outstanding hurler -- were Sparky Lyle and Mike Marshall.

Sutter, a native of Lancaster, Pennsylvania, has been putting fires out for the Chicago Cubs since 1976. Last year the 27-year-old right-hander saved 37 games for the Cubs and won six more. Entering a game in the late innings with the score tied or his team several runs ahead, Bruce was like money in the bank for manager Herman Franks. Chicago pitchers, who normally would be as eager to part with the baseball as their first born, actually learned to accept the sight of Bruce strolling in from the bullpen to protect their lead. They really had little choice -- he appeared in about half of Chicago's games.

"A good relief pitcher must be able to quickly size up the game situation whether he enters the game in the first or the ninth inning," said Sutter. "He has to have ability to be prepared at a moment's notice, both mentally and physically."

Up until the late-1940's, pitchers looked upon a ticket to the bullpen as one step above a trip to the minors. The word "save" was not even in the baseball lexicon. Starting pitchers, win or lose, were expected to finish what they had begun. A relief pitcher was just that, a pitcher who was a backup player because he was not good enough to start.

Things changed in 1947 when Joe Page of the Yankees and Hugh Casey of the Dodgers got people into thinking about relief pitching as a craft rather than a punishment. In 1949 Page, who by then had acquired the nickname of "Fireman," recorded 27 saves for the World Champion Yankees.

The 1950 "Whiz Kids" from Philadelphia had that year's best relief pitcher in Jim Konstanty, who saved 22 games for such stalwarts as Robin Roberts and Curt Simmons. By the end of the 1950's, other top relievers like Ellis Kinder of the Red Sox, Hoyt Wilhelm of the Giants, Clem Labine of the Dodgers and Lindy McDaniel of the St. Louis Cardinals, had blossomed.

The line of good relief pitchers continued into the 1960's, yet they still were looked upon as being, well, a little different. Sportswriters could not write about Elroy Face of the Pirates without discussing a pitch called the palm ball. Ryne Duren of the Yankees not only looked a bit weird behind a huge pair of bifocals, he also tended to throw smoke that rose -- over the heads of both the catcher and the batter.

The Yankees in the early 1960's counted heavily on a stubby little fellow from Puerto Rico named Luis Arroyo. In 1961, Arroyo won 15 games and saved 29 more, most of the mopup work being for Hall of Famer Whitey Ford. That was the short of it. The tall of it at about the same time was Dick Radatz of the Red Sox, who was called "The Monster" by friend and foe for his size 6'6" and 230 pounds -- and the devastation he created with his fastball.

Since then, top relief pitchers have moved the profession to new heights. Great relievers like Sutter, Kent Tekulve of the Pirates, Rollie Fingers of the Padres, Goose Gossage of the Yankees and Jim Kern of the Rangers stand out, but every club now has its bullpen specialists. They have no choice -- the species known as the relief pitcher is here to stay.

State Skeet Shooting Tournament Is Held At Tar Heel Gun Club

North Carolina's best skeet shooters, over 400 strong, competed in the state skeet shooting championships last weekend at the Tar Heel Gun Club in Advance.

"It's the biggest shoot ever held in the North Carolina Closed Skeet Championships," W.D. Parks, owner and operator of the Tar Heel Gun Club shooting range said. "The sport has been on a down trend, but things are beginning to pick up," he explained.

There was some good shooting in this match, with a number of perfect 100 hits scored.

"The best shooters in the state were here," Parks said, "and so far there has been a perfect score of 100 hits scored in the 410 event, and three 100 scores in the 28-gauge event. All the ties had shoot-offs to determine the winner," Parks added.

Skeet shooters are of all ages, male and female, and in all sizes, and all compete to win. Donnie Parks from Clemmons competes as a junior (16 and under) shooter. He holds the current 1980 world championship in the 28-gauge event, which he won recently in the World Championship competition in Savannah, Ga. He competed with 900 other shooters for the title.

"I shot real early in the morning in the shoot and it was the first time in my life that I shot a perfect 100 hits. I guess I did it at the right place," Parks said. Parks also won the Class A championship in the 28-gauge event at the World Championships. In this event he competed with all ages. "Shooting in the class events teaches me how to lose. I'm just out there to have fun and try to win too. If I try too hard I mess up," he said.

In last week's competition, Parks won the junior 410-gauge event with 95 hits out of 100, the junior 28-gauge event with 99 hits and the 20-gauge event with 98 hits.

Another youth, 14-year-old Jeff Roberson of Morganton, also placed in the World Championships. He won the junior class three high overall event, had a shoot-off in the 410 class, placed fourth in the 12-gauge event and fifth in the high overall D class. But in this state competition, he has the world champ Donnie Parks to compete with and seems to shoot just a little under the champ.

In the 20-gauge event, Roberson scored 97 hits, but Parks came up with 98 hits for the win.

In the Roberson family, everyone is a skeet shooter. "It's something the whole family can do and do together," Howard Roberson said. Everyone in the family shoots except for our five-year-old daughter, and as soon as she can hold up a gun, she will be shooting too," he said. "We have shot as far West as Colorado Springs, Colo."

There were many past state skeet shooting champions and All-American team shooters in the three day event, but probably not many are as active as Dr. J.H. Brame, Jr. of North Wilkesboro.

"I have shot skeet for over 25 years and over $100,000," the doctor stated with a laugh. "It's the cleanest and finest shooting game you can find anywhere, and they are a wonderful group of people who compete anywhere you go," he said. Dr. Brame also holds World Championship medals which he won in the 1980 World Championships veteran events. He won the 12-gauge event this year and has won other gun events in the past, plus one title of high overall.

UNC Alumni Association Plans Package Trips To Carolina Games

A package trip via Las Vegas to the Nov. 1 Carolina-Oklahoma football game in Norman, Okla., is being sponsored by the General Alumni Association of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

The five-day trip will cost $599 per person, including air transportation to Las Vegas, Norman and back, plus hotel accommodations, ground transfers in both places and a pre-game alumni brunch.

Space for the trip must be confirmed by Sept. 30.

Another package for the Carolina-Oklahoma game will include round-trip air fare to Oklahoma City, ground transfers, two nights lodging in Norman and a pre-game brunch. Cost is $410 per person, and confirmation must be made by Sept. 30.

The Alumni Association also is sponsoring a chartered bus trip from Chapel Hill to the Carolina-Clemson game Nov. 8 in Clemson, S.C. The trip costs $64.50 per person for overnight motel accommodations and a pre-game brunch.

A pre-game and brunch has been scheduled for 10:30 a.m. on the day of the Carolina-Wake Forest game, Oct. 11 in Winston-Salem. It will be held at Ernie Shore Fields adjacent to Groves Stadium, and tickets are $6 in advance or $7 at the door.

For more information about the football trips or other Alumni Association activities, contact Bo Dunlap, assistant director of alumni affairs, P.O. Box 660, Chapel Hill, N.C. 27514, (919) 933-1208.

Ali Promises To K.O. Holmes On Oct. 2

Muhammed Ali has promised his millions of fans across the world he will kayo unbeaten World Boxing Council Heavyweight Champion, Larry Holmes, in the eighth round when the two clash in Caesars Palace in Las Vegas on October 2.

The Ali-Holmes bout will be shown on color closed-circuit TV at the Greensboro Coliseum with telecasting of preliminary bouts starting at 9:00 p.m. Tickets are $20 in advance and $25 day of the fight and are available at the Coliseum Advance Box Office and all area ticket agencies. The viewing set-up at the Coliseum will be reserved seating.

Ali's promise was made as he wrapped up his training in Deer Lake, Pa., before breaking camp to close out his training in Las Vegas. Three months of hard work in his camp in the mountains had resulted in his weight dropping from 256 to 226.

"I'm going to knock Holmes out," Ali repeated to all who would listen. I hope to come in the ring at 218 pounds, "I'm going to be pretty. I'm going to be lean and mean for Holmes. I promise I will knock him out. I will be ready on the second of October. I'll shock the world again."

Many of the three-time champion's fans are concerned about his age (38), but Muhammad says they shouldn't worry.

"They must remember I'm the greatest of all times. They will not realize how great I am until I knock Holmes out. People didn't believe me against Sonny Liston, George Foreman, Joe Frazier, Ken Norton, and Leon Spinks. I proved them wrong then and I will do it again. How many miracles will I have to pull?"

Hot Dry '80 Will Be Felt In Timber Supply

Widespread seedling death and unusually damaging forest fires during the South's hot, dry summer will be felt in timber supplies many years down the road, according to the Southern Forest Institute (SFI).

SFI's Director of Forest Resources Don Smith says, "The South is in a race to get ready for an increased demand for wood and wood products. A Summer like this puts us a step behind, and it's tough to catch up."

Smith adds that there's no way to know how badly the weather hurt the private landowner, who owns 73 percent of the southern forest. But industry, which usually plants the most seedlings, reports serious damage.

Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas appear to be hardest hit. Champion International's Don Taylor, Huntsville, Texas, says, "It'll be three years before we recover from this summer. Out of 20,000 acres we planted last winter, we know of 5,000 acres we've lost, and we'll find out in September and October about another 4,000 acres we might lose."

Weyerhaeuser Company is having similar problems in Arkansas. A spokesman reports a 57 percent seedling mortality through the end of July, with 30 percent of that directly attributable to the weather.

Clark Lantz, nursery and tree improvement specialist for the U.S. Forest Service, says there may not be enough seedlings to go around. "Many states reduced their seedling production this year. Now, because so many of last year's seedlings have died, we may come up short," Lantz says he has received reports of up to 90 percent mortality.

Forest fire is another problem aggravated by the hot, dry weather. Roger Hatch, U.S.F.S. staff director of co-op fire protection, states that this summer there are a larger number of fires and they're more damaging than usual. Hatch states, "The high temperature of the air makes it much easier for a fire to raise a tree's temperature to the lethal level."

Trees in plantations aren't the only ones being affected. Many suburban residents are discovering their prized oaks and dogwoods are dying. U.S.F.S. Environmental Coordinator Bob Phelps says thousands of oaks all across the South are dying. He states, "It only takes two or three weeks to kill many of the oaks, because their roots are so shallow. The same thing is true for the dogwood." Watering around the base of the tree might save it, but many areas have restrictions on water use.

According to Phelps, many homeowners are afraid their pines are dying because they're shedding their needles - something they normally do in the fall. "That's just a defense mechanism," Phelps says, "It means fewer needles for the tree to supply with nutrients."

Some companies report a decrease in wood production, as the high temperatures in the woods make it impossible for their men to work efficiently.

Sharon Miller, director of forest management and research for Chesapeake Corporation of Virginia, states that although they expect to lose more seedlings than usual, the weather has brought some benefits. He says, "We're able to log areas this year that we've been wanting to get into for years. Also, conditions for planting-site preparation are excellent. We're getting a lot of catch-up work done."

The weather has brought another benefit. The southern pine beetle, which at the first of the summer looked like it would present serious problems, has been held in check by the high temperatures. SFI's Smith says, "They'll be back, because you can't kill them all. The weather has helped with the beetle, but it's done more harm than good."

The U.S. Forest Service has projected that the South must supply 55 percent of the nation's wood in order to meet anticipated increased demands for paper and wood products. The South currently supplies 45 percent. "It won't be easy meeting the increased demand," Smith said, "and the seedlings that died this summer could have been used for housing, paper and chemicals early in the next century."

Champion International's Taylor spoke for foresters across the South, saying, "What some people don't realize is the ripple effect caused by the weather. We have to replant areas where the seedlings have died, we have to find an additional supply of seedlings and we have to find the manpower to do the work. And when you've done all that, you've still lost a full year's growth on countless trees."

Alcohol Information Report

By: WILLIAM F. WEANT, M.S.
ALCOHOLISM EDUCATION CONSULTANT

Alcohol can cause an addict to do anything to get a drink. It can also put his family through unbearable agony. Tri-County Mental Health is a resource center for family members faced with these problems. The alcoholic blames the family for all the problems his drinking causes. They hear that they are at fault over and over again, but they are not necessarily to blame.

Addiction is self-perpetuating. It is all-consuming and it makes the alcoholic hand out blame as a way of protecting his habit.

Once families begin to believe that they are to blame for someone's addiction they feel unbearable guilt. It is inappropriate guilt because the family is not the reason for the addiction. The alcoholic uses the reactions of the family to protect his habit. Alcoholism counselors at Tri-County Mental Health strive to give the family a clear education in addition to show them the alcoholic is an alcoholic despite the family. Sometimes people outside the home do not recognize the symptoms an alcoholic exhibits. The parent or spouse sees what addiction is doing to his child or partner, but nobody else does. The nonaddict begins to feel alone in his situation and begins to question his own sanity.

One aspect of family rehabilitation deals with the fact that the alcoholic is the only person who can do anything about his addiction and the family is responsible only to let that happen. Otherwise, the family has to learn to live their own lives again. Addiction, in many cases, has run the life of the non-addict for many years. It is difficult for the non-addict to adjust, there are many subtle things that urge the non-addict to perpetuate the lifestyle conducive to the continuation of the alcoholic's habit.

Participation in Al-Anon is helpful. Al-Anon is primarily for the spouses of addicted persons.

Cana News

On September 18, 1980, the Cana Homemakers met at the home of Mrs. Era Latham. This was a most interesting meeting. After our August "holiday", it was good to meet again, and discuss our plans for the fall season.

Due to the absence of both our president and vice president, Mrs. Minnie Pope presided. She used the thought, "Joy of Living" for devotion, and based her comments on Matthew 10:8: "Freely ye received, freely give." Mrs. Pope illustrated her discussion with a story of a small girl who had no known security and a happy childhood. One day the little girl gave flowers to some ladies, who in return gave her a "smile and thanks". She became aware of the happiness that comes from unselfish living, and she learned a lesson from the Scriptures, "It is more blessed to give than to receive."

Roll call was answered by recalling your first day at school. This was entertaining and was a real study in "child psychology". For some in our group so long ago that memory of the "day" had dimmed and was difficult to recall!

Mrs. Wade Groce gave some pointers on the care of our teeth. She suggested the use of salt and soda as a most satisfactory dentifrice.

In the interest of safety, Mrs. Minnie Pope warned against having wild animals for pets because of the possibility of rabies.

Mrs. Era Latham gave an enthusiastic description of the works of art and accomplishments of Ben Long, a native of Statesville, N.C. This young artist who now lives in Florence, Italy (1979) has done three great works (frescoes, valued in the thousands) for St. Mary Episcopal Church, at Beaver Creek, N.C., in Ashe County. He used methods that date back to ancient Egypt, and the Renaissance masters, Michelangelo and Leonardo de Vinci.

Mr. Long has exhibited his work in Italy's oldest gallery in Florence, and in the England Royal Academy of Art.

When Long, a young Marine Captain, began his apprenticeship with the famous artist, Annigoni of Florence, he stated that "what I got from him was an attitude". He was deadly serious about his work.

Long does excellent portraits, that sell for $750 to $1,000 to support his studies and a growing family, but does not wish to be labeled as simply a portrait artist, even though they have been a necessary "means to an end". He expects to expand his abilities to other forms of art.

...his recent paintings justly arouse admiration and awe for the clear rendering of the subject, for the solidity of the modeling which is always imbued with atmosphere, and one is stunned by the perceptive execution so unusual in our times—a tribute from Pietro Annigoni. (Excerpts taken from articles published in the Charlotte Observer and the News and Observer, Raleigh, N.C.)

Mrs. Cecil Leagans was program leader and she gave us a real "seminar" on the subject of Mastery of Camouflage. Her knowledge of the techniques, needed plus her collection of beautiful materials, which she used effectively, added interest to her discussion. Three important tools that aid in camouflaging the figure are: Color, Design and Texture, and Line.

She stressed the importance of knowing your figure requirements, and selecting materials that will complement it.

She emphasized the importance of color—if not used properly, it will destroy a person's looks. Texture—smooth or rough, figured prints, stripes, checks, or solids when used to advantage, gives excellent results.

The date for our annual Christmas-Bazaar Party was chosen and the date is December 13, 1980, from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m.

Due to the loss of our club building, by fire, earlier in the year, the members of the Wm. R. Davie Fire Department graciously extended an invitation for us to hold our party at the Fire Department Building. Due to this kind offer, we plan to "carry on as usual". We hope many of you will join us here—"sip" Wassail, visit with friends and finish your Christmas shopping.

Friends of Mrs. Stanley Smith (Betty) will be pleased to learn that she is home, recovering from recent surgery at the Davie County Hospital. Betty is currently serving as vice president of our club, and has contributed to our group in many ways.

GOD'S FIVE MINUTES

TWO BY TWO

"The Lord [Jesus] appointed other seventy, also, and sent them two by two." (Luke 10:1)

I sold aluminum ware one summer during my college years. The first two weeks were spent in becoming intimately acquainted with the product and the fine art of selling. "Work in pairs," our instructors said, "and let the product speak for itself. Show it, care it, and let the customer get the feel of it." And you know, it worked! It really worked! It really worked! And at night my partner and I would buy each other up by telling tall tales of our selling exploits. There was a companionarity that made the work more enjoyable.

"Two by two" they went—but Jesus went alone. Even those moments before His death He had to plaintively ask, "Could you not watch with me one hour?" (Matthew 26:40)

New Office In Willow Oaks Center

Over 1,000 people sampled barbecued pork and toured the new Branch Banking and Trust Company office Monday, September 22.

The festivities marked the official opening of the new branch office located in Willow Oak Shopping Center. The bank sponsored tours from 4:00 p.m. to 6:00 p.m. followed by a hefty plate of barbecue. Over 500 pounds of pork was prepared for the occasion.

The new 2700 sq. ft. office is described by John Johnstone, vice president, as a "standard design for BBT branch offices" across the state.

The branch office is a full service bank open from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Thursday. Friday hours are 9:00 a.m. until 6:00 p.m.

Johnstone commented that both up-town locations will remain open, but that the original office on Court Square will be used strictly as a teller operation. He commented that no loans will be made from this particular branch.

When asked if the court square location would eventually be closed, Johnstone said "We have two more years on our lease and will definitely remain open during this time."

Eight employees will operate from the new Willow Oaks location.

Hendrix and Corriher Construction Company of Mocksville handled construction of the branch office. The building is located in a 130 by 150 lot in Willow Oak Shopping Center. The site, however, is located closer to Highway 601 North than other portions of the shopping center.

Branch Banking and Trust Company made application in October 1978 to the Federal Deposit Insurance Company for written consent to establish a "full powered" branch office.

The branch was tentatively scheduled to open in late August.

A lack of banking knowledge didn't hinder the youngsters' enjoyment of pit cooked barbecue.

Over 1,000 people attended the grand opening and helped eat the 500 pounds of barbecue.

There was barbecued pork, cole slaw, rolls and Coca Cola as long as it lasted.

The parking lot of Branch Banking and Trust's new office in Willow Oak Shopping Center was transformed into a maze of people Monday. Grand opening was held from 4 to 6 p.m.

World Missions Conference Scheduled For Cooleemee Church Next Week

World Mission Conference for the Rowan Baptist Association will be held at the First Baptist Church of Cooleemee beginning with the 11 a.m. service Sunday, September 28, and continue each evening through Wednesday, October 1.

The guest missionary for the Sunday morning service will be Mrs. Jacqueline F. (Jackie) Phillips, a Southern Baptist Missionary to France. Mrs. Phillips, a native of Pickens, S. C., received her bachelor of arts degree from Furman University in Greenville, S. C., and the master of religious education degree from Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Kentucky. She is married and the mother of two sons.

A former school teacher, Mrs. Phillips also worked in the Baptist Book Store in Raleigh and served as youth director at First Baptist Church of Greensboro. After completing language study in Grenoble, France (1973-1975), Mrs. Phillips was assigned as a church and home worker stationed in Bordeaux, France, which is her current assignment.

Mrs. Phillips will be the resident missionary here during the World Missions Conference and will be a guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Seders of Ruffin Street, Cooleemee.

Other missionaries assigned to the First Baptist Church are: Mrs. Alberta Parker, a graduate of Appalachian State University and former teacher. She has done volunteer work in Ohio, Hawaii, Montana and most recently, Alaska. She has served as N. C. Coordinator of the Christian Service Corp. of the Home Mission Board since 1974. Mrs. Parker will be the guest speaker on Sunday evening, 7:30 p.m.

The Monday evening speaker will be Daniel A. Dufrene, who serves the Louisiana Baptist Convention as a missionary to the French-

Vehicles Wreck

Two vehicles were involved in a wreck about 1:30 p.m. Tuesday on Interstate 40, just west of the US 601 interchange. Involved was a 1974 Chevrolet operated by Donna Murray Todd of Gibsonville, S. C. and a vehicle operated by Robert Collins Smith, 2006 Stedwick Dr., Charlotte, N. C. According to the investigation report, Ms. Todd hit the Smith vehicle in the rear. She was charged with a safe movement violation.

Joe Holcomb Quits As Newspaper Carrier

Joe Holcomb of 819 Cartner Street, Mocksville, N.C. will be throwing his last Winston-Salem Journal-Sentinel out the morning of September 27th. According to Mr. Holcomb, "For eleven years and nine months, he has not missed a day of serving his customers," he says, "a paper was delivered inspite of snow, cold, blizzard, and extremely hot weather." "His replacement has not been announced as yet, but any complaints should not be made to him," he said after Saturday, September 27.

Fire Extinguisher

To make sure that a fire extinguisher is good quality, look for the Underwriters' Laboratory symbol—that is, the capital letters U and L in a circle. And look for a minimum UL rating of 2A-10BC. The letters ABC mean the extinguisher is an all purpose one, extension hose economics specialists at North Carolina State University point out. The numbers 2 and 10 stand for the extinguisher capacity. The higher the number, the stronger the extinguisher.

Health Tip

From The American Medical Assn.

There is hardly a program on television that doesn't at some time have someone with a health problem. Producers and writers can't know all the symptoms of a certain disease, or for example, how a shock victim should behave. Where do they go for accurate medical information? The AMA, of course.

After the Chicago headquarters staff was besieged with calls from writers and producers needing help, the AMA in 1955 founded a Hollywood office to work directly with them. As the volume of television programming has grown, so has the work of the Hollywood office. The staff there fields questions from creators of motion pictures and television programs. The medical advice is supplied by members of the AMA Physicians Advisory Panel on Television, Radio and Motion Pictures. AMA member physicians in the Southern California area serve on the advisory panel and help writers develop new programs, counsel on dialogue and procedures and provide on-the-set consultations.

The Hollywood office works closely with TV network broadcast standards departments, which call on them to verify medical dialogue and to make sure it is technically accurate and ethically sound. They have a rule that they won't say to a writer "it can't be done" but rather that "it could be done that way but in this manner..." which allows for needed dramatic license without compromising integrity. They've aided producers of all the soap operas, Lou Grant and Laverne & Shirley, to name a few. Writers and producers may need information on kidney dialysis, coronary bypass procedures or genetic disease, or they may just pose an interesting question, such as a few answered recently by the Hollywood office: How is someone's sex drive affected by third-degree burns? ...How can a physician tell the difference between a male and female heartbeat? Advisory panel physicians have helped the creators of Dallas, too. And even they don't know who shot J.R.!

Homecoming At Yadkin Valley

Financial Outlook For The 80's

(By Research Department Interstate Securities Co. Courtesy of Ben Browder)

Not all economists believe the recession has ended. Although the June-July statistics indicate the steep slide in economic activity has abated and a recovery is now underway, many experts believe this is only temporary and will be followed by a steeper drop economic activity in the fourth quarter.

A major contributor to the expected further decline is an anticipated cutback in business spending for plant and equipment. Such spending fell at a 15.4 percent real annual rate in the second quarter vs. the first quarter, but several factors indicate the probability of further decline over the next several quarters.

First, businessmen usually overestimate their own capital spending. During the sharply declining months of April and May, business was estimating that capital expenditures would decline at an annual rate of only 0.8 percent during the second quarter. Actual expenditures declined 7 percent. The extent of the difference between estimated and actual spending casts doubt on forecasts for quarters to come.

There are other factors leading some economists to believe spending programs will be cut sharply in the coming months. The drop in industrial production so far this year dramatically reduced the capacity utilization rate from 84.4 percent in January to 74.2 percent in July. With inventories on the high side and a lackluster consumer spending outlook, it seems likely the capacity utilization rate will fall further. With capacity utilization down, the immediate need for additional capacity has been reduced. And under-utilized plant reduces the immediate need for replacement spending.

Another factor likely to play a role in pared capital spending plans is the shaky financial position for many cyclical companies. Balance sheets were hit hard in the first half of the year. The huge increase in short-term borrowing has resulted in corporate illiquidity nearly as bad as in the last recession. Many companies are not in a position to borrow for new capital spending projects until short term obligations are further reduced.

Internal funds sources are also limited. Net cash flow dropped 12 percent in the second quarter from the first quarter level. Business responded by cutting capital spending to retain what financial health they had.

The sharp reduction in interest rates is not likely to change matters much. Historically, the sharpest decline in capital spending lags the peak in interest rates, and the negative effects of recession tend to overwhelm the benefits of lower borrowing costs.

Nothing is certain in economic forecasting, but it appears that leadership in the economy is shifting. Consumers led the way in the second quarter slide with sharply reduced spending. Now that the consumer downturn has begun to moderate, a slump in capital spending could become the major economic force.

Farmington News

Several people gathered together on last Sunday the 21st for the covered dish supper and the "Singing at Sunset," on the front lawn at 6 p.m. at the Farmington Methodist Church. We were very happy to have some of our neighbor church members from the Farmington Baptist Church come and sing for us. We enjoyed all the singing and the fellowship together was a very pleasant experience for everyone. Rev. Alvin Pope was also present and dismissed the group with prayer.

Mrs. Pauline White of North Farmington returned home from Davie County Hospital last week. She is getting along nicely, and we are very happy she's back home again.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Spillman's visitors last Sunday, September 21st were as follows: Mrs. G. E. Collette, Sr. of Winston-Salem, Mrs. Billy Ellis and little daughter Betsy of Advance, N.C.; Mrs. Eula Athan of Detroit, Mich. and Miss Eunice Pilcher of Winston-Salem were also recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Spillman.

Mrs. Hattie Wood accompanied her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Walls and their family to Wilmington, N.C., recently and toured the U.S.S. Battleship while there. They reported a delightful trip and enjoyed everything very much.

Miss Phyllis Tucker of UNC at Greensboro spent last weekend with her parents Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Tucker of Rt. 5, Mocksville, N.C.

Coach Ted Kiser of the Mocksville Rams Little League Football Team, shown in the background, holds "Jersey No. 36" which was retired last Saturday night in the memory of Phillip Short. Teammates of Phillip Short replaced the numbers on their helmets with "36," Phillip's number as a member of the Rams. The Jersey was presented to Phillip's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Short, Jr.

Mocksville Middle PTA Meets

Tuesday, September 16 the Mocksville Middle School P.T.A. met following parent visitation to the students' homeroom. The officers for the 1980-81 school year are as follows: Randy Atkinson, President;

Harold Dyer, Vice President; Judy Sherrill, Secretary; Ann Wands, Treasurer. After the introduction of officers, projects were presented for the school year.

Following the business meeting, Julius Suiter introduced the faculty and discussed school policy. Mrs. Griffith, school health nurse, presented a slide program on school health screening. A membership drive is underway and each parent is encouraged to support his school and his child by joining.

The next meeting will be in December. The program will be presented by the students.

DCHS Class Of '65 To Reunite

The 1965 class of Davie High School will hold their 15th class reunion, Saturday, September 27, at 4 p.m. at Rich Park in Mocksville.

A picnic style supper will be served at 5 p.m. All members and their families are invited to attend and bring with them a picnic basket.

Farm Market Summary

(Farm Market Summary week of September 15-19, 1980 Federal-State Market News Service North Carolina Department of Agriculture Division of Marketing)
 A total of 12,152 feeder pigs were sold on 14 state graded sales during week of September 15, according to the Market News Service of the North Carolina Department of Agriculture. Prices were $4 to $9 higher per hundred on 40 to 60 pound pigs. US 1-2 pigs weighing 40-50 pounds averaged $79.74 per hundred pounds with No. 3s $69.10; 50-60 pound 1-2s averaged $69.07, No. 3s $57.10; 60-70 pound 1-2s $63.11, No. 3s $54.28; 70-80 pound 1-2s $55.77 per hundred pounds with No. 3s $51.43.

 At weekly livestock auctions held within the state, prices for slaughter cows were about steady with feeder calves irregular to weaker on heifers. Utility and commercial cows brought $40 to $51. Medium frame No. one muscle steers 400-500 pounds brought $61 to $77 per hundred pounds and same grade heifers 400-500 pounds sold $61.75. No. 1 muscle feeder cows sold from $42.50 to $48. Baby Calves under 3 weeks of age brought $35 to $107.50 per head. Market hogs brought mostly $47 to $48.10 per hundred weight and 300-600 pound sows $38.10 to $43.40.
 Market hogs at daily cash buying stations at the state sold $50 to $1 higher during week of September 15 and ranged mostly $47.25 to $50 per hundred pounds.
 At the state graded feeder calf sales in Canton, Oxford, and Hillsborough 3600 calves were sold. M-1 steers 400-500 pounds brought mostly $71.75 to $80 per hundred, 500-600 pounds $68.75 to $75.70; M-1 heifers 400-500 pounds $59.75 to $65; 500-600 pounds $59 to $62.50 per hundred.
 On the state grading yearling steer sales about 4,000 head were sold at Asheville, Jefferson and Boone. M-1 steers weighing 600-700 pounds brought $71.75 to $77 per hundred, 700-800 pounds $67 to $71.25; 800-900 pounds $64.75 to $67 and S-1 steers 600-700 pounds $69 to $73.25.
 Corn prices were 10 to 19 cents per bushel lower and soybeans irregular through Thursday, September 18, compared to the same period of the previous week. No. 2 yellow shelled corn ranged mostly $3.25 to $3.42 in the Eastern part of the state and $3.45 to $3.60 in the Piedmont. No. 1 yellow soybeans ranged mostly $7.98 to $8.44 in the East and $7.78 to $8.19 in the Piedmont; No. 2 red winter wheat $4.17 to $4.35; No. 2 red oats $1.80 to $2.18.
 Egg prices were fractionally higher on all sizes with the increase on large sizes greatest compared to those of the previous week. Supplies are moderate with instances of shortage. Demand was good. The North Carolina weighted average price quoted on September 18 for small lot sales of carton grade A eggs delivered to stores was 77.76 cents per dozen for Large, Medium 68.84 and Small 51.21.
 The broiler-fryer market is 1 cent higher for next week's trading. Supplies are moderate to short. Demand is very good. The North Carolina dock weighted average price is 49.12 cents per pound for less than truckloads picked up at processing plants during the week of September 22. This week 8 million birds were processed in North Carolina with an average live bird weight of 3.95 pounds per bird on September 17, 1980.
 Heavy type hens were lower this past week. Supplies were adequate and demand moderate. Heavy type hen prices 16 cents per pound at the farm with buyers loading.

A Tribute to Keith Freeman
My Son

It was July 16th on a Wednesday morning, that we got the news.
That God had took you home to be with him.
Oh! How it hurt us and made us feel so blue.
I just couldn't believe it! I couldn't believe it was true!
I wondered why Lord? He's only sixteen and there's so many things I didn't do.
-Like tell him how proud of him I was since he became almost a man.
Tell him how glad I was for him to know he had to work for things in this life; it wasn't always easy but he seemed to understand.
I didn't always thank him for the things he had done; and now I never can.
I'm glad I can thank you Lord for lending him to us for awhile.
Lord, you know we loved him and miss his smile.
Things just aren't the same at our house anymore.
Your ball trophies are on the shelf; your clothes are still in the drawer.
Sometimes I feel as if I am losing my mind; then I remember how you use to say:
"Things will be better tomorrow, Mom; let's just take one day at a time."
Lord, I know you had a reason; I know you make no mistakes--
So, Keith, just keep on smiling - I'll see you after awhile.

I Miss You,
Mom
(Mrs. Opal Freeman)

SHORT

We, the family of Philip Hancock Short, would like to express our sincere appreciation to all of our friends, neighbors and relatives who sent flowers, brought food, telephoned and were there with us at a time when we needed them most. We love you all.
Frank and Doris and families

PLOTT

The children of the late Arvesta S. Plott would like to express our appreciation to Forsyth Memorial Hospital 9th floor nursing staff for the special loving care they gave our mother; a special thanks to Dr. Gaddy for the special care he gave mother and the kindness shown the family. We would like to thank the Rev. Funderburke, all friends, neighbors, and relatives for their kind expressions of love and concern during this time. May God richly bless each one of you.

Cedar Creek News

Thought for the day: "There is never a day so dark and dreary But God can make it bright."

Let us look to the Lord for He is the Light. He is still sending his mercy every day. Last Sunday, Sept. 14th, was a beautiful enjoyable day here at Cedar Creek. The Pastor Dr. Hay brought a spiritual message that was enjoyed by all present. We were happy to have guests that worshipped from Mocksville N.C. and other churches.

Members from here worshipped with the Pleasant Grove Church one evening last week and also Maineville A.M.E. Zion Church at Mainsville, N.C.

The members also worshipped with the Galilee Baptist Church Sunday evening Sept. 14th. The occasion was to hear Brother Darryal Robertson preach his first sermon. He is a young student in Wake Forest College. He is called to the ministry. He was our Bible Instructor in our Vacation Bible School in August and we enjoyed him very much. He really is a fine young Christian man.

Ms. Cathy Tatum, a student at U.N.C.G. in Greensboro N.C. was home for the weekend. Also home Kenneth Eaton from Raleigh, N.C. and Darryal Eaton from Chapel Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. James Rhynehardt of Columbus, Ohio were home for the weekend visiting. They have returned home. We all enjoyed them. Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Conly of Marion, N.C. called Saturday at the home of Mrs. William Eaton. We were really glad to see them. Mrs. Conly is Helen Frances Howell.

Mrs. Ann Campbell of Winston-Salem and Mrs. Dorothy Rhynehardt of Columbus, Ohio and Mrs. Odell Eaton all called at the Eaton home Saturday evening. Darrin Eaton visited Tony Tatum Sunday.

Mr. Elwood Tatum of Greensboro, N.C. and Mr. Owens Tatum of Winston-Salem called at the home of their mother, Mrs. Lucy Tatum Sunday evening.

The Families of the late Thomas F. and Lula Eaton Smith held its first family gathering on Saturday, September 20, 1980 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer C. Smith. Attending were the sons of the deceased and children of the deceased daughter, Clara Banner.

Attending were as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Elmer C. Smith; Mr. Thomas Smith, daughter (Mr. and Mrs. Allen Transou and family); Mr. Minor Smith, son (Mr. Alfred Smith and family); Mrs. Elvira Smith Sr.; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Anthony and Family; Mr. and Mrs. George Banner and family; Mr. J.T. Banner and family; also attending Mrs. Nora Eaton; Mr. E.J. Eaton.

Co-ordinator for this is Mrs. Helen S. Transou.

Breakfast At Advance VFD

The East Davie Ruritan club will hold a good old fashioned breakfast at the Advance Volunteer Fire Department, Saturday, September 27, beginning at 7 a.m. and continuing until 10 a.m.

The menu will include eggs, sausage, hot biscuits, pancakes, coffee and all the trimmings.

All proceeds will be used to help the needy people in the community.

Yadkin Valley

The Yadkin Valley community was saddened last week at the death of a member and friend, Mr. Robert King. He had operated the King's Grocery Store for a number of years. He was a friend to all he met and will be missed by all who knew him.

Everyone is welcome to attend Homecoming day at Yadkin Valley September 28. There will be lunch after morning worship service. Come on out and bring a picnic basket and enjoy the day. The revival will begin at 7:30 p.m. nightly through October 4. There will be a nursery provided for those who need it. Rev. John Rasey will be the evangelist.

The young people of the church enjoyed a fish fry this past weekend at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Slater on the Howell Road.

Miss Susan Lynch was presented lots of nice gifts at a miscellaneous shower Saturday night at the home of Joe King. Susan is the bride-to-be of Thomas King in November.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul King and daughter of Florida visited Mrs. Ruby McBride last Monday. He is the son of Mr. Alvis King.

Study Finds

Mothers Love Helps Young Minds Grow

By Dick Broom
Can hugging your child make him smarter?

Probably not. But a new study supports earlier evidence that children who are held, talked to, and praised tend to develop intellectually at a faster rate than those who receive less warmth and attention.

In addition, the study indicates that a mother's ability to give her child a loving, stimulating environment may depend, at least partially, on how much emotional support she receives from the baby's father and other members of the family.

Dr. Jack Pascoe, a pediatrician in the School of Medicine at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, surveyed the families of 80 children, all of whom had been born sick or premature. Each baby had been a patient in the intensive care nursery at N.C. Memorial Hospital during 1975-76.

Visiting the families three years later Pascoe examined the children and interviewed their mothers. He was particularly interested in three factors: the amount of family and social support the mother received, the environment the child was being raised in and the child's level of intellectual development.

The results of Pascoe's survey indicate that mothers who reported a high degree of family support and community involvement tended to give their child more loving attention and encouragement. The most important source of support appeared to be the baby's father and other family members.

"Eventuating into account differences in income, we found that the relatively isolated mother provides her child with a less emotionally warm, safe, interesting environment," Pascoe explained. "This suggests that if the adult isn't being nurtured, the adult finds it hard to turn around and nurture the child."

Previous studies conducted by other researchers have shown a strong relationship between a child's environment and the rate at which he develops mental skills. Pascoe's research supported those findings.

"Children who were exposed to more stimulation tended to score higher on the intelligence test," he reported.

All 80 families involved in Pascoe's study had been subjects in a study three years earlier, when the children were born. At that time, researchers evaluated such characteristics as family stability and the mother's attitude toward raising children in an effort to predict which parents were most likely to have trouble raising their children.

In the more recent study, Pascoe found that, in general, the mothers in the families forecast for trouble had fewer family supports and gave their children less emotional and intellectual enrichment. Furthermore, using a computer, he found that three factors observed in the 1975-76 study were fairly good predictors of how well the child would do on an intelligence test three years later. The significant factors were: mother's verbal skills, mother's social support and length of time the baby had been hospitalized.

"Although these results are quite revealing," Pascoe said, "the tools we used are too crude to accurately predict who will provide an emotionally secure, stimulating environment for their child."

Pascoe added, however, that with more sophisticated evaluation methods, it might be possible to identify families that could benefit from additional social support.

"Help could be made available to parents that could affect their ability to give their child a more stimulating environment. And this could be something as basic as finding someone to pitch in and help out around the house," he said.

Pascoe noted that most of the families in his study live in rural areas, many have financial problems and all have borne the added stress of having a sick baby. But he was impressed that "families who don't have much in the way of material goods seemed to be enjoying their children and doing a good job of raising them, often in the face of rather overwhelming odds."

He said similar studies should be done in other parts of the country and with families of healthy babies to see if his results are more generally valid.

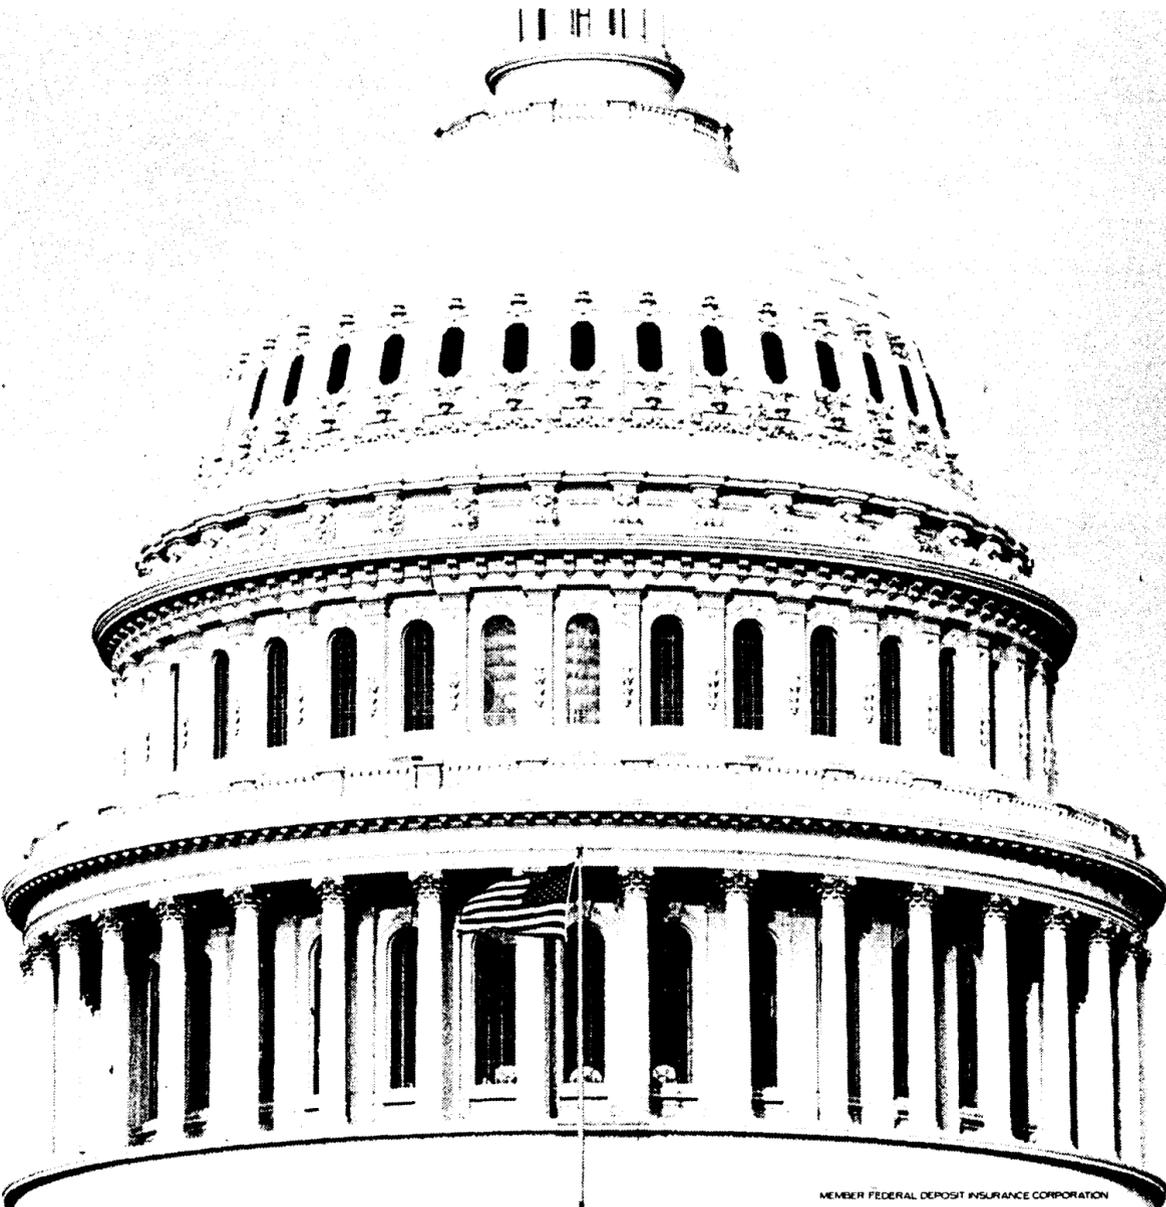

Pascoe is a Robert Wood Johnson Clinical Scholar at the UNC-CH medical school. His study was funded by the clinical scholars program, which supports the advanced, postdoctoral training of physicians in specialized areas of medicine.

While the debate goes on over an economic policy for the nation, BB&T offers a sound economic policy for your family.

At Branch Banking and Trust, we believe that saving money is sound economic policy.

We've maintained that simple philosophy even through times of high inflation - when the popular wisdom said spend, not save. And today, we believe saving makes more sense than ever.

Saving is the one way you can be sure of having the money you need for the things you want. And with some help from BB&T, you can protect your savings from inflation to a greater degree than you might have expected.

When it comes to saving money, not everyone's needs are equal.

For some people, saving money means a savings account - and that's always a very good way to save.

BB&T also offers a number of alternatives to regular savings accounts - alternatives that can earn you higher interest.

Consider, for example, our Certificates of Deposit*, which allow you to choose a maturity from 30 days to 8 years and a corresponding interest rate on deposits as low as

$500. Or high-yield Money Market Certificates for deposits of $10,000 and more.**

With these and other savings plans, BB&T can help you put together a comprehensive savings program that will give you the best rate of return on your money and the kind of flexibility you need.

Exercise your inalienable right to save for your own future.

We can't predict what the state of the national economy is going to be. And the debate in Washington over such matters will go on and on.

What we do know, however, are the ways in which saving regularly has improved the lives of BB&T customers through the years. We want you to share in the security and the good life many of them have known.

So while you're waiting to see where the economy is headed, take the future into your own hands. Start a savings plan at BB&T.
