NEWS OF LONG AGO.

What Was Happening In Davie Before The New Deal Used Up The Alphabet, Drowned The Hogs and Plowed Up The Cotton and Corn.

(Davie Record, June 29, 1910)
Mayor G. E. Horn spent Wednesday in Winston.

Herbert Penry, of Lexington, was in town Friday.

Little Miss Winnie Smith visited relatives in Winston last week.

G. A. Allison has returned from a delightful trip to the mountains.

E. C. Clinard, of Winston, was a Mocksville visitor last week.

Miss Helen Allison and little sister Ossie, spent Thursday shopping in Winston.

Miss Blanche Hanes spent last week with her aunt, Mrs. John W. Hanes, at Winston.

Thomas Cope and Miss Myrtle Jordan, both of Coolemece, were married June 19th.

Work on the excavation for the new Masonic temple is moving on nicely.

Miss Louise Eaton has returned from a delightful visit to relatives in Winston.

Mrs. J. A. Linville and son Albert, are spending some time with relatives in Winston.

T. F. Rattlege who has been working in Georgia for some time, returned home Monday.

Miles Holthouser and grandson Claska Holthouser, of Troutman, are guests of M. J. Holthouser.

S. B. Crump, of R. 4, killed a crane on his farm one day recently that measured 5½ feet from tip to tip.

Miss Georgia Jenkins, of Ellenton, Ga., is visiting in this city, the guest of her brother, Prof. R. D. Jenkins.

Among those who passed the medical examination and received license to practice, were Dr. S. A. Harding, of Farmington, and Dr. J. R. Finney, of Boonville.

W. M. Crotts carried his wife to the Statesville hospital last week for treatment.

C. D. Crouch and sons Clay and Archie, returned from Charlotte Monday, where they went to prepare machinery for a flour mill for shipping to Oak Forest, where Mr. Crouch is putting in a mill.

We are sorry to learn that Mrs. W. B. Naylor, of Cava, is dangerously ill and not expected to live. Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Naylor, of the Twin-City, passed through town Saturday on their way to the bedside of his mother.

G. B. Holman, who has been in Laurel, Iowa, since last October, arrived home last week and will spend some time with relatives and friends at Holman's.

Died, in this city last Tuesday, after a lingering illness of consumption, Mrs. W. L. Walser, aged 31 years. The remains were carried to Fork Church Wednesday and laid to rest.

W. T. Starrette, who has been working at Paducah, Ky., came in last week to be with his wife, who is quite ill in a Statesville hospital. Her friends will be glad to learn that she is much better.

W. T. Brenegar, of Concord, a former resident of this county, who held a position as electrician, was instantly killed Thursday morning by coming in contact with a live wire. The remains were brought to Liberty Methodist church Friday afternoon and laid to rest. Mr. Brenegar was 36 years of age. He was a widower and leaves three small children.

At a meeting of the Wilkesboro graded school board, Prof. R. D. Jenkins, of Mocksville, was elected as superintendent of the school. Prof. Jenkins was principal of the Mocksville school last year and comes highly recommended as a school man.—Wilkes Patriot.

Suffering

Rev. Walter E. Isenhour, Hiddenite, N. C. Sometime ago I composed a poem entitled "Suffering," which was published in the "Tabernacle Telescope," at Gastonia, edited by Rev. Earl Armstrong, and one of my readers, Mr. Minnie Williams, of Charlotte, has this to say in regard to the poem:

"Bro. Isenhour, I am so impressed with one of your poems in your department, 'Life's Better Way,' in the Tabernacle Telescope, till I thought I would tell you it was such a great blessing to me. It seemed that every line of it suited me, or fit my case. I read every word of it over and over and just can't tell how it blessed my heart, and helped me to take a new grip on life. I suffer a great deal, not so much in body, but in mind, heart and soul. I just pray the Lord will make all your work as great a blessing to others as this poem is to me. I covet your prayers that I may live a Christian life in spite of devils and demons, and overcome evil with good. Very sincerely, A struggling saint."

Since this dear sister has found such help and courage by reading this poem, and taking its truths to heart, it dawns upon me that it might help and bless others, so I am giving it space in the Quiet Corner this week. Please read and pass it on to others.

SUFFERING

If by our suffering we grow
More humble, good and kind,
And those about us come to know
That in us they can find
A model and a noble type
Of patience they should gain,
And Christian graces rich and ripe,
Our suffering is not in vain.

Great mean have suffered much
In body, mind and soul;
For so, it seemed, it took just such
To bring them to their goal;
Then should we wonder, if today,
God wants to make us great,
We have to take affliction's way
Ere mighty we can rate?

It's out of suffering sometimes
The richest graces grow,
And sweetest harmony and chimes
The soul of man can know;
For in affliction, sorrow, pain,
Men seek for God above.
And thus the blessedness they gain
Brings sweetness, peace and love.

Afflictions often make us pray
With lowly heart and head,
And keep us godly, day by day,
And more to evil dead,
Until at last we gain a crown
Of life and joy and peace,
Where suffering ne'er shall bring us down,
Nor hallelujahs cease.

The power of the greatest Navy in the world, our own two-ocean fleet, rests in large measure on its backbone—the Battleships of the Line. They displace approximately 35,000 tons and cost up to $70,000,000. We have something like a score of these huge ships in the Atlantic and Pacific.

Eight huge battleships are under construction and more are contemplated. To finance these modern giants of the sea it is necessary for every American everywhere to buy more and more War Bonds. We can do it if everybody does his share. Invest at least ten percent of your income every pay day to help our country go over its Bond Quota.

"Gotta Gittover The Gimmes"

Editorials have been written on this subject before, including one in the New York Sun and which was reprinted in practically every newspaper in the country.

But it is a sad fact that notwithstanding the war and the dire threat by a combination of evil forces to freedom for any of the human race, millions of Americans still have the gimmes.

There is just one proper way for America to prosecute the war. And that is for every group and individual who make up our nation to put victory ahead of all other objectives, to sacrifice whatever need be for the successful prosecution of the war and complete victory at the earliest possible date.

Selfishness and greed are too apparent. There remain too many who would have something sliced off the war effort in order that their gimmes be satisfied.

Congressmen by accepting X gasoline cards said in effect: Gimme gasoline I want. Rationing is for somebody else.

The REA, the CCC, the NYA and other bureaus say gimme funds, gimme tools, gimme materials.

Pork barrel legislators say gimme that for my district, paying little attention to the need for the funds materials for war work.

Able young men say gimme deferments, the draft was made for somebody else.

Labor unions say gimme more double time pay or we quit, caring not what the consequence of lost production may be.

For lack of naval strength axis submarines are sinking ships as fast as our shipyards, handicapped by lack of steel, can build them. Still we have people who say gimme, or let me get, products made of steel, or projects in which substantial amounts of still would be used.

The Japanese mass a major force for attack on our possessions or our mainland. With our fighting forces still in the formative stage and lacking all the equipment which they need, we still have people who say "gimmie."

With millions of pounds of sugar needed in manufacture of ammunition, there are chislers who incorrectly report the amount of sugar they have on hand. They have the gimmes bad.

Thank God, the majority of the American people do not have the gimmes and patriotism remains the rule rather than the exception. If all the people had the gimmes, the country wouldn't be worth saving.—Wilkes Journal.

Draft Injustice.

The Statesville Daily Record: Dover, N. J., was proud of 102 selectees who were examined by draft board physicians and found physically fitted army service. There was a farewell breakfast, at which the mayor paid tribute "the hardest bunch of fellows in many a year." A few hours later, 42 of the young men had been rejected from the army doctors and sent back to civilian life.

This is no novel story. From all over the country come similar tales of young men who had given up their jobs, closed out their businesses, broken up their homes and reported for service, only to be rejected on physical grounds.

Here is one field in which Selective Service could humanize the draft. There is no apparent reason why selectees should not receive final physical examinations before they are required to cut civilian ties and report for service.

Big Crop Loss Feared Unless Fruit Is Canned

(Atlanta, Ga. June 10) . . . OPA officials express fear that a major portion of the $15 000,000 fruit and berry crop in the Southeast will be lost unless housewives take advantage of the extra ration of sugar provided for canning and preserving.

The Office of Price Administration said reports from Georgia, Tennessee and the Carolinas indicated that there was virtually no market for the already ripening fruits and berries in these States.

Housewives seemingly are not aware that they can secure extra that they can secure extra sugar for canning purposes, in addition to the sugar allotted to them on their ration cards. Application for this additional supply of sugar for canning and preserving should be made at local rationing boards. So far, applications for sugar for preserving have been light.

Housewives are urged to apply to their local rationing boards for the sugar they will be allowed for canning and preserving. They will be assuring themselves of a winter supply of sweets in the event of the further tightening of sugar rationing, and at the same time will prevent the waste of the Southeast's present fruit and berry crop, which would result in a heavy loss to Southern growers.

The sugar ration board in Mocksville is located on second floor Masonic building.

Commercial canneries can only use a small percentage of the crops in this region.

So Why Worry?

Entitled Souvenir of the Guerre (war), and classed as philosophy of a French soldier, we offer you this timely bit of information:

Of two things, one is certain: Either you're mobilized or you're not mobilized.

If you're not mobilized, there is no need to worry; if you are mobilized, of two things one is certain: Either you're behind the lines or you're at the front.

If you're behind the lines there is no need to worry; if you are at the front, of two things one is certain: Either you're resting in a safe place or you're exposed to danger.

If you're in a safe place there's no need to worry; if you are exposed to danger, of two things one is certain: Either you're wounded or you're not wounded.

If you're not wounded there is no need to worry; if you are wounded, of two things one is certain: Either you're wounded seriously or you're wounded slightly.

If you're wounded slightly, there is no need to worry; if you're wounded seriously, of two things one is certain. Either you recover or you die. If you recover there is no need to worry; if you die, you cannot worry.—Wilkes Patriot.

The Aerial Camera for use on Scout and Observation and Reconnaissance planes is essential to both the Army and Navy air forces in planning battle formations and in obtaining information on enemy fortifications and movements. They look something like a cannon, and cost about $3,400 apiece.

The aerial cameraman can plot wide territories in bold relief so that Army or Navy Intelligence can make accurate measurements of enemy territory. We need many of these cameras so necessary to the air arms of the Army and Navy. You can help buy them with your purchases of War Bonds. Invest at least ten percent of your income every pay day, and help your country go over its War Bond Quota.

From The Yellow Jacket

Our advice to Washington: Pick out all WPA projects that have no direct military value, and spot them on the snout.

Convicting over half dozen Democratic tax officials for embezzlement was a pretty good start among a crowd that prides itself on honesty and efficiency down Raleigh way.

You can cuss the Japs for taking our rubber, but it was the New Deal Dept. of Agriculture that restricted the sugar producers of this country to 29 per cent of consumption. And there you are.

Some of the writers surmise that Hitler has the "jitters." We hope he has and has them so bad that he will deliberately pull out his great boss pistol and scatter his brains to the four winds.

Every citizen who is worthy of the name is behind our Commander-in-Chief in his foreign war effort 100 per cent. But he has doubts and misgivings when he sees evidence that the President allows the group around him to use the war effort in extending New Deal policies and triggermen.

In Marland's vocational training classes (no New Deal set-up) youth is being prepared for defense work at a cost of $23 76 per trainee. Under the NYA scheme it costs $167.76 to prepare a defense worker. That's the difference between the New Deal and the old school of activity.

Lincoln's remedy for a betrayal of a government trust was expressed in these words: "The people of the United States are the rightful masters of both Congress and Courts, not to overthrow the Constitution, but to overthrow the men who pervert the Constitution." But you can't get a New Dealer to accept that remedy.

Speaking of sugar. This country is capable and eager to produce on entire consumption and a big export as well, but is permitted to market but 29 per cent—the rest imported in the name of "Good Neighbor" who hires peon labor. Let's create our own wealth, grow our own sugar and coax people to buy to the limit.

Dough Boys

Thanks to a generous Congress evidently trying hard to "get right" with the public American soldiers will have a base pay rate of fifty dollars a month hereafter.

That's a lot better than the old-time scale of "twenty-one bucks per," and the boys in uniform no doubt will prove it by unanimous vote, although they didn't ask for it. They deserve it, goodness knows! Nobody ever doubted that.

Apparently, the only grounds for debate concerned the cost of the measure—which will run 'way up into the millions.

But Congress, cutting down the NYA and cutting off the CCC, has become suddenly persuaded that more emphasis—and more money—in wartime should be devoted to the men who are winning the struggle. With the higher pay, which prevails in all branches of the service, and the allowance for dependants, many men may volunteer who were financially unable to do so before.

And now, by gum, it will be entirely proper to call a soldier "dough" boy.

At least on pay day.—Hickory Record.

Producers and Parasites

A contributor to the "Open Forum" department of a Charlotte paper makes this timely and pertinent inquiry:

Why are big, strong, able-bodied people, chiefly colored boys with a above the average intelligence, exempted from military service just because they claim they can't they can't write? I have in mind some of these who will not do a day's work but trim hedges once a week and get a dollar and buy big cigars and loaf around and joke with others of the same stripe until they get hungry, while useful white boys are taken from important work from the farms, etc., when they are really producing something? This doesn't look good.

While the above is directed against "colored boys" who won't do a day's work but piddle around to earn enough to buy something they want (and there are plenty of these) it does not apply to the thousands who willingly would get under their responsibilities if it were not for the fact that the Army has a high notion of literacy standards by which it would measure its personnel.

President Roosevelt has taken note of the 250,000 men who have been rejected for military service because they are classified as illiterates. Admitting that that is right down the alley of some of them who would appear dumber than they are to escape serving, it is plain that this attitude does not apply to all of them, perhaps not to a majority of them. Nor does the criticism noted above, when considered from the broader viewpoint, apply only to "able-bodied colored boys, but whites as well.

It is understandable that the Army would want to be meticulous in the standard of its personnel, but there is point to this public pulser's complaint that producers are being taken and parasites left. But it is part of this democratic system we are fighting to preserve—a system that is honeycombed with faults, but a pretty good system, at that.—Statesville Daily.

Two Different Things

Many farmers, we fear, are deluding themselves in the belief that when their present truck tires wear out they will be able to get others. It is true that tire rationing authorities have made it possible for farmers to qualify for tire purchase order; but getting on the priority list and obtaining tires are two different things.

The fact is, the tire quotas fall far short of providing tires for all all those who can qualify for purchase orders, and the situation more likely to grow worse than better.—

GHOST PLANE

By ARTHUR STRINGER
W. N. U. SERVICE

THE STORY SO FAR: Alan Slade has agreed to fly a "scientist" named Frayne to the Anawotio river to look for the breeding ground of the trumpeter swan. It is bleak country, and Alan suspects Frayne of having something up his sleeve, but Norland Airways needs the job. Slade and his partner, Cruger, have been having trouble competing with the larger companies, and Frayne has paid enough to enable Cruger to buy the plane they need. When he thought Norland was going to have to quit, Slade applied for overseas service with the army air corps. His application was rejected, but his disappointment has been lessened considerably by the brighter outlook for the business and by the fact that Lynn Mellock, the local doctor's daughter, has decided not to go to England with her Red Cross unit. Now he has gone with Lynn while she gives first aid treatment to an outcast flyer named Slim Tumstead, who has been hurt in a fight. They learn that Tumstead knows about Frayne and about the new Lockheed. It is a few minutes later, and they are talking about their plans for the future. Lynn feels that she must thank first of her father's happiness.

Now continue with the story.

CHAPTER IV

"But you mustn't forget," Slade contended, "that you have your own life to live."

"That's what I'm trying to remember," was Lynn's vibrant-voiced reply.

They came to a stop in front of the hospital steps.

"Some day," he said with a wave of recklessness, "I'll make you see it my way."

If it sounded like a threat it brought no touch of concern to the hazel eyes searching his face. A smile even hovered about her lip ends.

"You've got a harder job than that," she retorted, "if you're flying in to the Anawotio tomorrow." Then the smile disappeared. "By the way, I saw that ornithologist who's flying in with you. He was asking me what I knew about the country north of the Kasakana."

"Is he as screwy as he sounds?" asked Slade.

"He's far from screwy," was Lynn's slightly retarded answer. "He struck me as being cold and hard and shrewd. And I can't figure out what he's after. It rather makes me wish someone else was piloting him into that wilderness."

Slade was able to laugh, as they shook hands.

"Don't lose sleep over that," he proclaimed. Then he laughed again. "I've flown some queer nuts into the North."

Slade, hurrying down to the air harbor, could see his moored plane being warped in to the landing dock. On the dock itself he could make out Cassidy, of the Norland staff, and two strange figures, one more massive than the other. But what held his eye was the amount of duffel piled along the dock's edge.

As Cruger had told him, they were giving him a load all right. Even Cassidy's broad face broke into a smile as he handed him the scaleslip. For Slade's glance, at the moment, was directed toward the two men already interested in getting their equipment aboard. He resented the offhand way in which the bigger of the two strangers was clambering about his ship. The worn wolfskin coat that covered the wide shoulders of this stranger made him look shabby and subordinate.

When the pilot turned to his second passenger, he experienced a sense of disappointment touched with shame. For there seemed nothing sinister about the straitened and scholarly figure confronting him. That figure even failed to look foolish. Slade saw a man considerably less aged than he had expected, a man with sloping and narrow shoulders and an abstracted gaze that looked out on the world from behind bifocal glasses.

Slade stepped closer.

"Quite a load you're giving me," he ventured as the man in the bifocal glasses continued to divide his attention between the duffel pile and a checklist in his hand.

The abstracted eyes lifted and regarded him for a moment of silence. It was the glasses more than anything else, Slade decided, that gave the stranger his look of deliberation.

"Why does that interest you?" the stranger inquired. His tone was mild and without hostility. But the voice, low-toned and remote, seemed marked by an exotic precision of intonation. It persuaded Slade that he was neither an Englishman nor an American.

"This happens to be my ship," the pilot explained as he rested a fraternal hand on the sun-faded fuselage.

"Ah, then we shall see much of each other," said the other. His smile was friendly but abstracted. "I am Doctor Frayne. And this is my camp-mate, my good man Friday, Caspar Karnell."

No responsive word came from the big-bodied man in the wolfskin coat. He merely stood above the cabin hatch, his eyes expressionless.

"Caspar is not—shall I say?—visible," observed the Doctor. A mild and forbearing smile wrinkled the scholarly face behind the glasses.

"And that, I might also explain, is why we travel together."

Slade, after an inspection of the bland emptiness of Karnell's face, nodded his understanding.

"Quite an arsenal you're taking in," he observed.

"They tell me I'm to take you in to the Anawotio," prompted the bush pilot.

"That is my desire," answered Dr. Frayne. "It may so happen that we shall winter up north."

"Down north," Slade corrected. "We speak of it here as down north."

The man with the abstracted eyes ventured a shrug.

"With time," he said, "I shall become better acquainted with your country." His movement, as he swung a bag of what had every aspect of mining tools up to his companion, was almost a dismissive one.

"Prospecting?" questioned Slade.

"I am not interested in prospecting," was the deliberated answer. "I am a naturalist."

As though in confirmation of that statement he lifted a case of mounted bird bodies up to his waiting companion. Then again the forced smile showed itself.

"It may impress you as a foolish profession. But for many years now I have given my time to the study of bird life."

Slade glanced down at the Mannlicher-Schoenauer, the two holstered Lugers, the pair of shotguns of different gauges and weight that rested between a scattering of cartridge cases.

"Quite an arsenal you're taking in," he observed.

For just a moment the opaque eyes regarded him.

"I am not unfamiliar with the North," Frayne announced with a patience that seemed coerced. "It is well, in case of the unexpected, to be able to live off the land."

"Of course," agreed Slade as he watched the firearms being stowed aboard. They were followed by a tent bale and sleeping bags, by condensed foods with foreign labels, by camp equipment and a box of signal flares and cased instruments and even two carrier pigeons in a hooded cage.

"You're filling me pretty full," observed Slade.

Frayne's face remained expressionless.

"Any inconvenience that I may cause," he said, "I profoundly regret. I had hoped, on arriving here, to purchase a plane. But they are not to be bought, I find."

"There's use for 'em just now," observed the pilot. "We're in the war, you know."

The eyes behind the bifocals became less opaque.

"But here at least," observed the man of science, "I shall not see it come between me and my research."

"The office tells me you're after trumpeter swans," said Slade.

"I am seeking the nesting ground of that noble bird," acknowledged the ornithologist. "They are extremely shy and hard to find in the brooding season. That is why I go into an empty country like the Anawotio."

Slade, not unconscious of the pedagogic note, felt the need of proving that his interests extended beyond gas engines.

"Ever try for them around the Red Rock Lakes in Yellowstone?" he asked. "They started a refuge for trumpeters there not so far back."

"A refuge which will be a failure," was the prompt response. "Your trumpeter is a child of the wilds. He cannot be adjusted to confinement."

His new friend, Slade admitted, seemed to know his bird life all right.

His eye-squint deepened as he noticed two heavier cases being lifted aboard. "By the way, are you taking radio or wireless in with you?"

"Why should I do that?" Frayne questioned. "It is with the lady swan I wish to converse."

"But you won't get swans as far east as the bay," he pointed out instead. "At least, not trumpeters."

Frayne's smile became more friendly.

"Already," he announced, "you are helping me. And there is another point on which you might enlighten us. Is the Anawotio River navigable?"

"No, it's not navigable," answered Slade. "It's blocked by too many falls and rapids. That's what's kept the country closed. Even Tyrrell couldn't get into it."

"But there were no planes when Tyrrell made his survey," observed the scholar.

"It's sure empty country," asserted the pilot, who had his own memories of the Anawotio.

"That," murmured the swan hunter, "is entirely to my liking."

"But you're not entirely to my liking," was the thought that hovered about at the back of Slade's head. Lynn, he felt, was right. Yet he was their Santa Claus, as Cruger had expressed it. He had paid well for service, and he'd get service.

Slade dismissed that thought and turned to study the silver-winged Lockheed that rested on the waters of the Snye. It looked spick and span in its new coat of aluminum.

He realized, as he swung about, that the man in the bifocal glasses was also studying the Lockheed.

"An attractive ship," the scientist observed. "It was my intention to own her. But in that I was forestalled by your friend Cruger."

Slade smiled at the sharpened note in the other's voice.

"You have to scramble for 'em, nowadays," observed Cruger's bush-hawk partner.

"So I am learning," announced the swan-seeker. He said it casually. But some newer timbre in the speaker's voice made Slade think of a gun pit smothered in tree branches.

The brief northern night was at its darkest when Cassidy, newly made watchman for Norland Airways, shut off the radio. He sighed as he reached for his thermos at the end of the deal table and drained it of its last cupful of coffee. Then, lighting his pipe, he stepped out into the open and blinked about through the darkness.

He wished he could be having a second thermos of coffee. But there was no bright-lighted eating room in that third-rate outfit on the edge of Nowhere. Its air lanes were as short of ships as its administration building was short of paint. All it was, in faith, was a rough-and-ready jumping-off place for a lot of lunatics who wanted to dig holes in a wilderness where the frost went deeper than the gold. It could never be classed with those high-toned airports he'd heard many a far-traveled pilot talking about.

No, Cassidy decided as he made his rounds, this was a melancholy place for a man of spirit. He didn't like the quietness of the hangar where the twin-motored Grumman amphibian stood surrounded by the engine entrails the workmen had left scattered about. He was glad to move down to the dock edge, where there was a little sound of water-rifles against the floats of the Post-craft that would be going out in three hours' time. Beside it, the only remaining ship in the harbor, loomed the new Lockheed that looked more like the ghost of a plane, in the uncertain starlight, than a workaday framework of metal and linen well covered with aluminum paint.

It startled him, as he stood watching it, that anything so quiet could give birth to movement. But as he watched he saw a shadow detach itself from the shadowy fuselage. He saw that shadow drop to the near-by float, and then leap, quick-footed, to the dock edge.

"That may not be necessary," he finally explained. "We shall perhaps work our way through to what are locally known as the Barrens and come out along your Hudson Bay coast. It is a country you may happen to know?"

Slade smiled.

"I know it all right. As much as

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

GOD THE CREATOR

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 1:1-5, 24-31; 2:1. GOLDEN TEXT—In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth.—Genesis 1:1.

What is to become of this world? That is the question on the mind and lips of everyone as they see all mankind engaged in a struggle which bids fair to wipe out every-thing called civilization.

In such a time it is good to remind ourselves that man did not make this world, nor is it the product of natural forces. God made it.

God, who is eternal, infinite, knowing all from the beginning, is not moved by the impulses of the moment nor staggered by the catastrophes of a day. He made the world. He made man. He had a plan for them, and still has a plan which in due season He will work out for His own glory.

I. God Made the Heavens and Earth (vv. 1-5, 24-25).

The plain biblical account of creation—"In the beginning God"—stands as a dignified, satisfactory, intelligent explanation of the origin of things, and in bold contrast to the confusing and almost unbelievable theories of men.

The best of scientists admit that they know nothing of the origin of things, and some even confess that they never will know. The answer to the query with which every human philosophy opens is the affirmation with which the divine account in Genesis opens—"In the beginning God."

Space forbids full discussion of the account of creation, but a study of it will reveal its beautiful order, symmetry, and completeness. Science, when it gets beyond theories to facts, finds them confirmed by Scripture. Please do not reverse that and speak of science confirming Scripture. If my watch does not agree with the time of the stars, it is the watch that must be reset.

II. God Made Man in His Own Image (vv. 26-30).

Although man, under the control of Satan, does not give much ground for the observation, it is nevertheless true that he was made in the likeness and image of God. Because that is true, we never give up hope for him. That image, no matter how deeply defaced by sin, still may be touched by redeeming grace and restored to fellowship with God.

The likeness and image of God in man undoubtedly refers to a moral and spiritual likeness. Man is a living soul with intelligence, feeling, and will power. He is a moral being, knowing the difference between right and wrong. He is a self-conscious, personal being.

To man God gave dominion over the earth and all its potential powers. Sometimes one has been hopeful that man was making good progress in the development of the earth's resources for his own good and the glory of God. But one is almost tempted to conclude now that he has used this great God-given opportunity only for destruction and death. Only a revival of real Christianity can bring him back to his senses. Let us pray and work for it.

Observe that the family was established as the center of man's life on earth, as God gave him a "help meet unto him." Woman was taken "not out of man's head that she should rule over him; nor out of his feet to be trampled upon; but out of his side to be equal with him, under his arm to be protected by him, and near his heart to be loved by him" (Matthew Henry).

The decay of family life and the substitution of social or civic units as the basis of life have led to disastrous results. Not only do we need a revival of religion, we also need a revival of the home life of the nation.

III. God's Creation Was Complete and Good (1:31; 2:1).

When men do recognize the hand of God in creation they all too often seem to feel that what He made was very limited and defective. It would almost seem that God ought to be grateful that man has been so clever about perfecting His work, developing it and making it useful.

As a matter of fact, God who had all knowledge and whose standards are higher than man's standards could possibly be, looked over His creation and "behold, it was very good" (v. 31). It was a "finished" job (2:1).

Man has destroyed much of its beauty. Sin came in and marred the whole creation. What man's inventive cleverness has developed is only a minute fraction of what is yet available. Instead of boasting, man might well be ashamed of the pathetic slowness with which he has "thought God's thoughts after Him."

Instead of fighting and destroying, he ought to give his energies to building, developing, and above all to loving God with all his heart and his neighbor as himself (Matt. 22:37-40). This is God's first and great commandment to you and to me.

AROUND THE HOUSE

All salads should be served cold and free from water. Wash lettuce well and keep in refrigerator until you are ready to make the salad.

Lemon juice sprinkled over alligator pear salad just before it is served improves the flavor.

Spread a thin layer of orange marmalade or apricot jam on baked pancakes. Roll quickly and sprinkle with confectioner's sugar. Serve with pineapple syrup for breakfast or luncheon.

The stock left from spinach should be saved and used in vegetable soup. It contains valuable food properties.

Fine grained sandpaper will remove surface spots from white felt hats and will raise the nap on felt hats that have been caught in the rain. For white straw or fabric hats, try art gum.

When the corrugations on the wheels of your lawn mower wear out, take a rattail file and renew them. This will give your mower better traction.

To prevent marmalade from graining, do not boil it too fast and take it off the stove as soon as a little of it jellies on a cold plate. Be careful that you have pure sugar for this and all preserves.

What's a musical comedy got to do with winning a war?

PLENTY! We're building an army of men—not machines. And men have minds. And minds need freshening... change... relaxation.

And this is one of his great differences from our enemy.

So one of the biggest undertakings of the USO is its sponsoring of free entertainment, through the cooperation of the movie and theatrical industries, at army camps, naval bases—wherever the fighting men of the USA go to train or dig in.

To help carry on the all-important work of maintaining the morale of our fighting forces, the USO needs your help... it needs your contribution.

USO Camp Shows, Inc. is actually the biggest single theatrical enterprise the world has ever seen. It books 264 shows for the boys every week, which play to an average nightly attendance of 50,000.

Your dollar has many demands on it this year. Many of these demands must be met—others deserve to be met. And among these latter, the plea of the USO for whatever sum you can contribute merits your earnest consideration.

It contacts movie stars, theatrical headliners, big name bands and their leaders. It routes all these... plans their itinerary... arranges the most convenient times when soldiers and sailors can take time out to sit and be entertained.

For we have a war to win, and the USO is directly concerned with the men who must—and will—win it.

For it realizes that the one great advantage of the American fighting man is his ability to think for himself, to make the most of any situation, to fight as a liberty-loving individual.

The blackberries are black, but sugar still minus.

A preacher told us that he wouldn't vote for any man who drank liquor, cursed or whipped his wife. That preacher has disgraced himself by talking too much.

Yesterday was registration day for all young men in the United States between the ages of 18 and 20 years. It is not known just how many young men registered in Davie. We are hoping that these young people will not be called on to enter active warfare. With more than thirty million men already registered, and with thousands of able-bodied men in North Carolina who have no dependents and who registered early last year and in the last two registrations, who haven't yet been called into service, it seems that it will be a long time before these fellows are needed.

First Cotton Bloom

Mrs. Luther West, of Advance, R. 1, brought us a cotton bloom Monday, the first one to reach our office.

William Henry Renegar

William Henry Renegar, 73, prominent Calabala farmer, passed away at his home on R. 2, Sunday afternoon, following a critical illness of two months. He had been in declining health for several years.

Mr. Renegar was a native of Ireland county, but moved to Davie about 50 years ago. He was a member of James K. Roads Baptist Church.

Surviving are the widow; five daughters, Mrs. Lohale Dwigins, Mocksville; Mrs. T. W. Anderson and Mrs. J. M. Current, Winston-Salem; Mrs. L. R. Tutterow, Mocksville, and Miss Pauline Renegar, at home, and four grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at the home Tuesday morning at 10:30 o'clock, and at James Baptist Church at 11 o'clock, with Revs. L. V. Bradley and E. W. Turner in charge, and the body laid to rest in the church cemetery.

In the death of Mr. Renegar the county has lost one of its best citizens, the wife a kind and loving husband and father, and the church a consecrated and faithful worker. Another long time friend of the editor is gone. To the loved ones left behind we extend heartfelt sympathy.

Mrs. Joseph Carter

Mrs. Joseph Carter, 59, of Salisbury St., died at Rowan Memorial Hospital, Salisbury, Sunday morning at 7:15 o'clock, following an illness of six weeks with pneumonia and complications. Mrs. Carter was carried to the hospital last Tuesday.

Funeral services were held at the home Monday morning at 11 o'clock, with her pastor Rev. R. M. Hardee, in charge, and the body laid to rest in Rose cemetery.

Surviving are the husband, two daughters, Mrs. Roy Johnson, Charlotte, and Mrs. Quince Powell, at home; two grandchildren; two brothers, G. K. Hodges, Salem, Va., and W. T. Hodges, Roanoke, Va.; three sisters, Mrs. Pearl Abell, High Point; Mrs. Harry Cnoble, Roanoke, Va., and Mrs. Lewis Connor, Baltimore.

Mrs. Carter had been a resident of this city for 40 years, coming here from Roanoke, Va. She made many friends during her long life here, who were saddened by news of her death. To the bereaved family and relatives, The Record extends sympathy in this sad hour. A good woman has been called to her reward.

All men interested in joining the Navy or Naval Reserve, are urged to be here Friday morning. Transportation of all applicants for enlistment will be furnished. Join the Navy now. Uncle Sam needs you.

A Big Turnip

Homer Potts, of Cornsater, was wagging around a big turnip Saturday morning, which grew on his farm. The turnip weighed 7 pounds and 5 ounces, and the seed was planted by Rabbit Carter last February.

To Honor Davie Boys

Cooleemee, N. C., June 22. M. S. George Boger, R. 3, Mocksville, N. C.

Dear Mrs. Boger:—You son, Claude, worked for me a good while in the Dye House before going in into the service.

I was thinking the other day about all the boys who worked for me that have gone into the service and I thought they ought to be recognized in some way for the great part they are playing in this war.

If possible, I am going to get a picture of each of the boys, put them all in a big picture, frame it and hang it in the Dye House. This way I believe all of the boy's work mates will remember him and think about him more.

If you have a picture of Claude please send it to me and I will have it copied and return it to you undamaged as soon as possible. I would rather have a picture of him in uniform if you have one.

I hope you will see your way clear to do this, and I know that with your help, and that of the other mothers, we will have fine Roll of Honor in the Dye House.

I hope that Claude likes being in the service and that some day we will be able to work together again.

Very truly yours,
W. R. WANDS.

Mr. Wands is overseer of the bleachery at the Erwin cotton mill at Cooleemee.

Attending Conference

Misses Dorothy and Kathryn Gibson, Jean Maynard, Addie Mars, Bill Sanford and Jesse Anderson, of the Presbyterian Church, left Monday for Glade Valley to attend a Senior Young People's Conference of Winston-Salem Presbytery. They will return Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Smith and little daughter, who have had rooms with Miss Inez Ijames, on Salisbury street, moved last week into the Stonestreet house on Sanford avenue.

Mrs. Carrie Foster, of North Mocksville, gave a birthday dinner on Sunday, June 21st for her son Robert Foster and family, in honor of Mr. Foster's birthday. It was a very delightful occasion for those present.

Mrs. Lee Craven and little daughter Carolyn, returned Thursday from Newport News, Va., where they spent ten days with Mrs. Craven's three sons and two daughters, who hold Government positions in that city.

Corporal Peter Wilson Hendrix, who is stationed at Aberdeen, Md., spent several days last week with home folks near Fork. Corporal Hendrix was accompanied by his wife, who has been living in Aberdeen for some time. He has been in the army about a year, and thinks he will be moving to new quarters soon. "Pete" has many friends in Mocksville who are always glad to see him.

Joe Ferabee, popular rural letter carrier on Cana, R. 1, was in town Wednesday trying to get a permit to purchase a new auto tire. Joe says his family have been eating roasting ears out of his garden since June 17th. So far as we know Joe is the first man in this county to enjoy corn out of his garden this early in the season.

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Price and Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Poplin have moved to Elkin, where they will operate a cafe. Mr. and Mrs. Price and daughter have been living in Mocksville for the past ten years, moving here from Newton. They operated the American Cafe here until a short while ago, when they sold the cafe to Miss Ruby Angell. The Record wishes them well in their new home.

Pvt. James Clay Tutterow, who is stationed at Camp Gordon, Ga., spent the week end with home folks at Center.

Mrs. J. M. Foster and Misses Marylene and Gladys, of Greensboro, spent the week-end with relatives on R. 4.

Luther Daywalt, of Calabalu, and daughter, Mrs. Joe Johnson and little son, of Statesville, were Mocksville visitors Friday.

Dr. John R. Frost and mother, and niece, Miss Patsy Fuchs, of St. Louis, and Dr. J. S. Frost, of Buington, spent the week with Mrs. J. D. Frost on R. 2.

WANTED—Good tenant for 392 acre farm, four miles west of Mocksville. Wheat, cotton and corn. I will furnish stock, tractor, farm machinery. Call or write D. W. BAILEY, Mocksville, N. C.

Pvt. Clarence Craven, who has been stationed at Camp Grant, Ill., has been transferred to Ft. Knox, Ky. Clarence is getting alone fine, and hopes to get home soon on a furlough.

Miss Irene Horn will return this week from a visit to Rev. Lon R. Call and Marjorie Lou Call, at Chicago, Ill. While there, they spent several days at Lake Geneva, Wisconsin.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Jones, of R. 4, had as dinner guests on Father's Day Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stroud, of Harmony, R. 1, Miss Beulah Stroud, of High Point, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank York, of Union Grove.

Ensign Dwight Grubbs, of the U. S. Navy, who has been stationed at Charleston, S. C., for the past year, spent a few days last week in town with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Grubbs. Dwight left Saturday for Boston, where he reported Monday for duty.

Delightful Dinner Party

Mrs. W. E. Kennen gave a dinner party last Tuesday at her home, Kennen Kreast, honoring her guest, Miss Alice Christie, of Indianapolis. In addition to the honoree, those present were Mrs. Lester P. Martin, of Mocksville; Mrs. John Frank Johnson and Mrs. Ada Atkinson, of Farmington; Mrs. Alex Conrad, of Miami, Fla., and the hostess, Mrs. W. E. Kennen. Miss Christie returned to her home at Indianapolis Saturday, after spending a week with Mrs. Kennen.

To Celebrate July 4th.

A big July 4th celebration will be held at the Masonic picnic arbor in Mocksville on Saturday afternoon, July 4th. The address will be delivered by Postmaster Bryan Booe, of Winston-Salem, a former Davie county boy. The Mocksville high school band, and the Coolee band will furnish the music. A big parade will form on South Main street, and march to the arbor where the exercises will be concluded at 5 o'clock. A large crowd will no doubt be in town for this occasion. All town and county organizations are expected to take part in the parade.

Misses Frances Gabard and Dorothy Satterfield, of Winston-Salem, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Gabard, on R. 4.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
Consolidated Features—WNU Features.

NEW YORK.—In June, 1940, a few months after becoming governor of Alaska, Ernest Gruening said, "A few parachutists could take Alaska today." He pondered this. This Doc Doesn't Treat Eyes, Ears, But Uses His Own late General William Mitchell, "He who holds Alaska holds the world," and, a man of peace and a foe of imperialism, the governor thereafter never missed a chance to urge the strategic importance of Alaska, and to insist that "It has the greatest possibilities for an offensive of any land under the American flag." Congress was not, at first, responsive. Just how effective the governor's pleas have been is still shrouded in the mists of that frozen domain.

The least insular of men, Dr. Gruening has long been concerned with insular affairs, and was chief of the division of territories of the department of the interior from 1934 to 1939, receiving the Alaskan appointment on December 5 of the latter year. He is a doctor of medicine, with a degree from Harvard university, diverted to newspaper work early in his career. His studious bent has been such that he might have been put down for bookworm, had it not been for his success in practical affairs, notably running big town newspapers and making them pay.

The son of a famous New York eye and ear specialist, Dr. Gruening also had intended to treat eyes and ears, but began his career as an alert reporter for the Boston American. That led him to the successive managing editorships of the Boston Herald, the Traveler and the Journal, the New York Tribune and the New York Nation, with time out for his service as a private in the World War.

A liberal and reformer, he began back-trailing our tentative adventures in imperialism in the Philippines and in establishing our hegemony over the Caribbean. Entering the department of the interior he became the administration torchbearer for a territorial New Deal. He was born in New York City in 1887.

HOWARD MINGOS is a skilled writing man who also can add and subtract. This unique combination of talents naturally has made him our current historical aviation progress, as editor of the annual aircraft year book, published by the aeronautical chamber of commerce. The 1942 edition of the book, just out, says our plane manufacturers have some "rightful surprises," for the Axis, which will jolt the enemy clear down to his cloven hoof.

"Who says it?" is the wary on-looker's natural query about wartime news like that. The first answer, as to Mr. Mingsos, and it is reassuring, is that he is cautious and never has gone off half-cocked in reporting aviation news, good or bad. In 1937, he did not pull his punch in reporting the swift ascendancy of the German Luftwaffe over the British RAF.

He has long sustained a reputation as a good reporter, on the New York Sun for quite a spell. He is the author of more than 1,000 articles on aviation in newspapers and magazines, and several books. "The Air Is Our Concern" was the subject of a book on which he collaborated in 1935. He now gets long over-due agreement on that.

After his graduation from his home town high school in Athens, Pa., young Mr. Mingsos studied two years at the Philadelphia School of Industrial Art, then switched to a long stretch of newspaper work, with the Philadelphia Telegraph, the Scranton Republic, the New York Times and Sun. From 1922 to 1930, he was special contributor of aviation articles to the Times. With the volunteer air service of the U. S. army, overseas, in the first World war, he became a special representative of the aeronautical chamber of commerce in 1920. He is 51 years old, our outstanding professional score-keeper in air doings.

ANY day now we may get word that swarms of American planes, manned by Americans, are fighting and bombing with the British over Germany. Maj. Gen. James E. Chaney will wing them eastward, as commander of all American army forces in the British Isles. He is a flying general, a military student of the German industrial regions in the post-war years, an international authority on military aviation, on tactics, fighting and bombing interception. He is 57, and graduated from West Point in 1908.

At right is a pile of finely ground rubber scrap.

A seven-foot high collection of logs, sandbags and dirt, piled to a 45-degree angle, is really no obstacle to these boys at Selfridge Field as they go over the new 220-yard obstacle course, designed to toughen them up. At this side of the obstacle is a four-foot ditch filled with sand. There are hurdles, tunnels and jumps where a miss means a mud-bath.

STAGE SCREEN RADIO

By VIRGINIA VALE
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

METRO'S "Mrs. Miniver" will probably be one of the best remembered war pictures that have reached the screen, not merely because it is well directed (by William Wyler) and superbly acted, but because it deals with a typical family, facing the war at home. It vividly presents the sort of situations that we might have had to deal with in this country. Incidentally a "Mrs. Miniver," rose has been developed, named for the one in the picture; it is dedicated to "the unselfish and sterling qualities of American women in the war," women like the one whom Greer Garson plays so movingly in the film. Don't miss "Mrs. Miniver!"

Buddy Clark, young baritone of radio's "Hit Parade," has an important role in RKO's "Sweet or Hot," starring Lucille Ball and Victor Mature. His comedy specialties and songs last year won him one of the highest individual ratings on radio listener polls, but in the picture he'll do more than sing; with Peter Lind Hayes and Arnold Stang he'll play an army buddy of Mature's.

Alan Ladd attracted plenty of attention and favorable comment during his stay in New York; as part of the campaign to introduce his new leading man to the public Paramount can consider the trip a success. But all the girls who eyed him admiringly realized that it was a case of "Hands off!" Mrs. Ladd (the former Sue Carol, once a movie star) was with him, and they're devoted.

Jean Crawford is one screen mother who wants her daughter to follow in her footsteps. Looking at golden-haired Christina, now three, she remarked: "If she isn't an actress I'll be the most disappointed person in the world."

Russell Hoyt, handsome 24-year-old North Carolina traveling salesman signed by RKO, reached Hollywood without an iota of dramatic experience. A friend, an agent and a talent scout were responsible, and he got a contract without even making a test.

Gary Cooper can spend his vacation traveling with the San Francisco Seals as the ball team's assistant manager if he wants to. He was invited by Lefty O'Doul, the manager, who taught him to bat and throw left-handed for "The Pride of the Yankees."

As part of his war work, Ronald Colman is making three films this year; during the past six years he's made only one a year. The bulk of his income will go to the government in taxes. During the last war he served with Kitchener's "Contemptibles," saw action at Ypres, was wounded at Messines, and he holds the Mons medal with 1914 bar. His next picture is "Random Harvest."

Eric Blore celebrated his 50th picture role when he began work in Paramount's "Happy Go Lucky," which stars Mary Martin and Dick Powell. Once on the London stage, with time out for serving in the last war, he's been in demand in Hollywood since 1934.

Warren Hull, Parks Johnson's new "Vox Pop" partner, is instantly recognized by young radio followers as "The Green Hornet," a role he played in a screen serial. He was besieged by juvenile autograph hunters in an Alexandria, Va., store.

Phil Baker ought to be happy; the one thing that visitors to New York seem to want more than anything else is tickets to his "Take It or Leave It" broadcasts.

ODDS AND ENDS—Edward G. Robinson of "Big Boy" has taken up horseback riding at his ranch behind Beverly Hills. . . . No actor changes leading ladies more often than Tim Holt; his new one, in "Son of the Saddle," is Ann Summers, a newcomer. . . . Khaki-clad Staff Lieutenant Hopper puzzles audiences when she calls the treasury department in selling war bonds—will they recognize her as Marsha Hunt; she uses her married name when in uniform. . . . Hedy Lamarr does a jitterbug routine in "White Cargo"—in a strong. . . . Keep your eye on Helmut Dantine, who gives an outstanding performance as a German flier in "Mrs. Miniver."

Magic for Your Meals—Berry Jams
(See Recipes Below.)

Time for Jam

With the arrival of the fruit and jelly season, you homemakers will want to make the most of these garden products for winter use. This year it is doubly important for you to can fruits and jellies wisely, as this will help you not only in conserving the nation's resources, but also assure you of delicious accompaniments to your meals during cooler weather.

Since sugar is used in canning not only as a sweetener, but as a preservative, the government will allot five pounds of sugar per person, in addition to what you receive in your ration, so that you will have sugar for canning.

Ripe Raspberry Jam.
(Makes 10 6-ounce glasses)
4½ cups prepared fruit
6 cups sugar
1 box powdered fruit pectin

To prepare fruit, crush thoroughly or grind about 2 quarts fully ripe raspberries. Remove some of seeds by sieving part of pulp, if desired.

Measure sugar into dry dish and set aside until needed. Measure prepared fruit into a 5- to 6-quart kettle, filling up last cup or fraction of cup with water if necessary.

Place over hottest fire. Add powdered fruit pectin, mix well, and continue stirring until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once pour in sugar, stirring constantly. (To reduce foaming, ¼ teaspoon butter may be added.) Continue stirring, bring to a full rolling boil, and boil hard 1 minute.

Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jam at once. Jam takes slightly less sugar than jelly, and you will work an economy by making use of the fruit in addition to the saving on sugar.

Ripe Blackberry Jam.
(Makes 11 6-ounce glasses)
4½ cups prepared fruit
6½ cups sugar
1 box powdered fruit pectin

To prepare fruit, grind or crush thoroughly about 2 quarts fully ripe blackberries (not black caps). Sieve about ½ of ground or crushed pulp. (For Spiced Blackberry Jam, add ¼ to ½ teaspoon each cloves, cinnamon, and allspice, or any desired combination of spices.)

Measure sugar into dry dish and set aside until needed. Measure prepared fruit into a 5- to 6-quart kettle, filling up last cup or fraction of cup with water if necessary.

Place over hottest fire, adding powdered fruit pectin, mix well, and continue stirring until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once pour in sugar, stirring constantly. (To reduce foaming, ¼ teaspoon butter may be added.) Continue stirring, bring to a full rolling boil, and boil hard 1 minute.

Lynn Says:

The Score Card: The status of tin available for commercial canning has at last been clarified, and now we know exactly what will be available to use by way of canned goods.

The "Big Four" in canned vegetables, peas, tomatoes, string beans and corn, plus asparagus, peaches, evaporated milk, and fish will be allowed unlimited amounts of tin for canning purposes.

"Secondary" products such as spinach, beets, cherries, berries, applesauce, grapefruit, sausage, luncheon meats, beef and others will continue to be canned, but they will be allowed only the same amount of tin as used in 1940, with some exceptions having more or less.

Foods packed last year will last until fall at least, and the goods packed this year will be available even before last year's are gone. There's no need to hoard.

Your Jam Shelf
*Ripe Raspberry Jam
*Spiced Blackberry Jam
*Spiced Strawberry Jam
*Spiced Ripe Peach Jam
*Cherry Relish
*Recipe Given

Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jam at once.
Spiced Strawberry Jam.
(Makes 10 6-ounce glasses)
4½ cups prepared fruit
7 cups sugar
½ bottle fruit pectin

To prepare fruit, cut about 2 quarts fully ripe strawberries in halves lengthwise; cut large berries in quarters. Measure sugar and prepared fruit, solidly packed, into large kettle; mix well. Bring to a full rolling boil over hottest fire. Stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard 3 minutes.

Remove from fire and stir in bottled fruit pectin. Then stir and bottle by turns for just 5 minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Pour quickly. Paraffin hot jam at once.

Spiced Ripe Peach Jam With Brazil Nuts
(Makes 11 6-ounce glasses)
3½ cups prepared fruit
¼ cup lemon juice
7½ cups sugar
1 cup sliced Brazil nuts
1 bottle fruit pectin

To prepare fruit, peel about 2½ pounds fully ripe peaches; pit and grind or chop very fine. Add ¼ to 1 teaspoon each cinnamon, cloves and allspice, or any desired combination of spices, to ground or chopped peaches. Squeeze juice from 2 medium lemons. Slice Brazil nuts very thin. Add to fruit mixture.

Measure sugar and prepared fruit into large kettle, filling up last cup with water, if necessary. Add lemon juice and mix well. Bring to a full rolling boil over hottest fire. Stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard 1 minute.

Remove from fire and stir in bottled fruit pectin. Then stir and skim by turns to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Pour quickly. Paraffin hot jam at once.

Relishes are excellent to serve with meats of any kind for they give the meal added zest. Here's a recipe for a real sugar-saver:

Cherry Relish.
2 cups pitted cherries
1 cup seedless raisins
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¼ cup brown sugar
¼ teaspoon cloves
½ cup honey
½ cup vinegar
¼ cup pecan nuts

Mix all the ingredients except pecans and cook 1 hour, slowly. Add pecans and cook 3 minutes longer. Pour into hot sterilized jars and seal at once.

Sugar Substitutes. If you feel that you cannot use sugar in all of the canning recipes given here, even with your extra ration, here are the rules for substitutions:

If you are using a bottled fruit pectin recipe, you may substitute 3 cups light corn syrup for 2 cups of the sugar. Do not use more than 2 cups of corn syrup in any recipe, however, as this will give unsatisfactory results.

In a powdered fruit pectin recipe, you may use 1 cup light corn syrup for each cup of sugar omitted. But, do not try to use all corn syrup in the recipe instead of sugar. You may substitute corn syrup for only ½ the sugar required. If, for example, the recipe calls for 6 cups of sugar altogether, you may use 3 cups of light corn syrup, but you must also use 3 cups of sugar.

Why get hot and bothered over your cooking and household problems when you can get expert advice on them? Write, explaining your problem to Miss Lynn Chambers, Western Newspaper Union, 210 South Dearborn Street, Chicago, Illinois. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for your reply.

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Full Accounting

Admiral Nimitz pronounced Midway a partial accounting for what happened at Pearl Harbor. But Pearl Harbor was more than an attack on the American navy. It was also an attack on the American home.

The navy can settle in full as an ocean force, but the American people must settle in full as a fighting nation. The Pearl Harbor account will be settled when the last concentration camp is a public park. And when a worker in Europe has the dignity of a human being, instead of the standing of a driven slave.

It is America's duty to demand full payment. The question of our future depends on how much the enemy is made to answer for its past. The liberties won on the freezing slopes at Valley Forge were almost lost in a dirty beer cellar in Munich.

While France is bound, while Norway is in prison, and while Belgium is in chains, America will never be fully free. Our monument to Pearl Harbor must be a milestone in world progress. That can only begin to happen when all men realize that the peace cannot be kept while criminal leaders remain in power to start a war.

New York Newsreel:

The lads from the theatrical publicity cages, who leaned on the colymbists (and vice versa) in the uniforms of the armed forces. . . . The bigshot from the Capitol, who explains why he weekends in N. Y.: "In Washington the war stops on Fridays and starts on Mondays!"

The blacked-out Penny Station, a heaven for the soldiers (returning to camp) and their sweeties. The pool of silence that floods the Plaza after midnight. So still you can hear whispers of nothing. . . . Headliners, sitting on their thrones of fame and burdened with crowns of worry. . . . Actresses entering joynts chin-deep in Summer ermine, collecting stares.

The USO distributes theater and cinema tickets to the men in the local camps and naval bases. . . . It is done in alphabetical order to avoid favoritism. . . . The other day at the old Paramount Studios in Long Island City (now an army depot) the letter "L" was reached—and two movie ducats were handed to Carl Laemmle Jr. . . . Young Laemmle was merely the owner of Universal Pictures, and its sale made him a millionaire.

The set studios in Greenwich Village which once were stables. . . . The big clock on the building at 42nd Street and 8th Avenue, where during the wee hours of the ayeens you can hear the tick-tocks dropping into infinity. . . . The tots who used to play cops-and-robbers now playing Commandos, in the west side streets. . . . The huge searchlights interrupting the dimouts by stabbing the prunes roaring over Central Park. . . . Loafers standing on street corners staring at the passersby and tossing away precious hours like cigarette butts. . . . Wrinkled charwomen entering million-dollar skyscrapers every evening to give them beauty treatments. . . . The rains decorating the street puddles.

The Most Quoted Observation of the Month: Raymond Clapper, who has looked at Congressmen as a reporter most of his life, let go with both barrels at their didoes. Said he: "People are looking to editors, radio commentators and newspaper columnists for the discussion of public affairs they ought to get from Congress. . . . The people don't give a damn what the average Senator or Congressman says. . . . They know what you hear in Congress is 99 per cent tripe, ignorance and demagoguery and not to be relied on."

The Story Tellers: Fortune profiles John Wesley Dafeo, editor of the Montreal Free Press, calling him Canada's greatest man. For a long time Dafeo screamed warnings against Hitler and prodded his gov't to action. In short, another "war-monger" who happened to be making sense when his hecklers weren't. Free World smacks the bulls-eye with a piece on Reinhold Heydrich, who was presented with a skinful of slugs by Czech patriots. The monthly reveals Heydrich as the funkey who did the work that was too dirty even for Himmler. Meaning that with the right number of promotions he could have won the tank of rat.

Typewriter Ribbons: Will Rogers: There is no more independence in politics than there is in jail. . . . Heywood Brown: Of all the easy jobs in the world, column conducting is the second softest. It lags behind nothing but the ministry. . . . D. Kilgallen: He likes little people, and perhaps that's why so many big people like him. . . . H. I. Phillips: As we understand it, Washington is now pessimistic because of all the optimism. . . . Fannie Hurst: Easy to bite as a dentist.

FIRST-AID to the AILING HOUSE

CLOSET WITH DRY AIR AN OFF-SET TO MILDEW

ALL summer long come reports of dampness and mildewing in summer houses near the ocean or other large bodies of water. In humid and rainy periods the air of these houses is likely to be so damp that mold forms, on clothing, and especially on shoes and other leather articles. One way to get around this is to utilize heat radiated by the kitchen chimney. This can be done by building closets around the chimney. The volume of heat thrown out by the chimney is not great, but it is continuous, and the air in these closets is dry enough to prevent mildewing. Another idea is to set an electric bulb on the floor of the closet and to burn it continuously. With the door shut, enough heat will be thrown out to keep the closet air dry. The bulb need not be large; 25 watts will have a decided effect. Care should be taken to keep anything burnable out of contact with the bulb. It should not lie on the floor, but be on a safe lamp base.

Septic Tank Drain
Question: All our drain pipes run into the septic tank. I recently heard that the kitchen sink drain should not be connected to the tank because of possible damage from soapsuds and drain cleaning compounds. Is this true?

Answer: For best results the kitchen sink should be connected to a septic tank through a separate drainpipe provided with a grease-trap. This trap will separate the grease from the rest of the drainage and you will not need to use a drain cleaning compound. Also, the operation of the septic tank will be greatly improved. Any plumber can install a grease-trap.

Refinishing a Table
Question: Can I refinish a kitchen table top made of wood? The finish would have to be water resistant, and not require frequent refinishing.

Answer: Refinishing with a quick-drying synthetic resin varnish is one method. Another is to apply several 'soaking coats of boiled linseed oil. Allow each coat to soak in for an hour or two, then wipe off the surplus. After two or three such applications and after time for drying begin polishing with a rough cloth, such as a piece of old carpeting, wrapped around a brick. The more the surface is rubbed the better the finish will be.

Color for Walls
Question: We wish to paint the walls of our living-room, but cannot decide on the right color. We have a plain rose broadloom rug, a soft green sofa and a large rose chair. Can you suggest a color for the walls?

Answer: My own preference for the walls would be a very light shade of dusty rose, so pale that it is hardly noticeable. However, I suggest that you visit one of your large department stores to consult the interior decorator.

Stains on Copper
Question: In repairing a large copper window frame, myriatic acid was sprayed on its lower part. The result is a sprinkling of what looks like rust on the lower part of the frame. The acid has also stained a part of the slate roof. What will remove the stain?

Answer: Acid that remains in the copper and on the slate can be neutralized by washing with household ammonia. The stains can then be removed with fine steel wool or sandpaper.

Removing Asbestos Paper
Question: Several years ago the hot air pipes in our cellar were covered with asbestos paper. I find that this is a mistake, for the cellar is too cold and the floors above the cellar are also cold. How can the asbestos be removed?

Answer: The kind of paste usually used with asbestos paper can be softened by soaking with water. However, this will probably soften the paper so much that it will tear when being taken off.

Oak Chairs
Question: What would be the best way to finish some ordinary oak chairs from which the finish has already been removed?

Answer: If a light finish is desired, finish with two thin coats of a quick drying varnish. For darker effects, first stain the wood with an oil stain of a desired color. For best results follow the directions on the label. Finish with two coats of quick drying varnish.

Burned Food
Question: How can burned food be removed from the bottom of an aluminum kettle?

Answer: A method that is strongly recommended is to cover the burned food with wet baking soda and allow it to remain overnight.

Iron Skillets
Question: Can anything be done with cast iron skillets in which everything sticks?

Answer: Try "rendering down" a lump of beef suet and rub well into the iron. Wash out later with soap and water.

Stack Temperature
Question: Will you advise me what is the correct fire temperature of a house furnace oil fired boiler? Mine is 740 degrees.

Answer: That temperature is too high. It should be between 500 and 600 degrees.

Distress of Nation.

Rev. Walter E. Isenhour, Hiddenite, N. C.

"And there shall be signs in the sun, and in the moon, and in the stars; and upon the earth distress of nations, with perplexity; the sea and the waves roaring; men's hearts failing them for fear, and for looking after those things which are coming on the earth; for the powers of heaven shall be shaken. And then shall they see the Son of man coming in a cloud with power and great glory. And when these things begin to come to pass, then look up, and lift up your head; for your redemption draweth nigh."

—St. Luke 21:25-28.

That we are living in a time of distress among nations surely cannot be questioned by any thoughtful, considerate, honest, sincere thinker. Much of this prophecy given us by our Lord Jesus Christ is in plain fulfillment before our eyes. The nation of the earth are distressed and perplexed. They are wondering what is going to happen; what will come next. Multitudes are depending upon man power to lead them through their distress and perplexity, but it is impossible. Rulers, armies and mighty machine guns, airplanes and munitions of war can never save us. Only God can, therefore how tremendously important that we trust Him.

As to whatever signs there may appear in the sun, moon and stars before the coming of our Savior; and as to whatever the roaring of the sea and waves may mean, I am not able to say, mors than that it may apply more to people, languages and tongues, or to the restlessness and upheavals of men and nations, than to the ocean of water. However, there may be unusual phenomena in nature, just preceding the coming of Christ; but this we do know, that distress and perplexity of nation is upon us. SURELY. And that the hearts of men are failing them for fear, "and for looking after those things which are coming on earth," is a positive fact that we cannot gainsay. Indeed, men are distressed and greatly perplexed.

But The Sad Thing Is, That The Vast Multitudes Turn To Machinery For Protection, Instead Of God.

Just how near to the fulfillment of the following prophecy given by our Lord, I am unable to say, but from all signs it seems that we are very near; "Then shall they begin to say to the mountains, Fall on us; and to the hills, Cover us," (Luke 23:30). "And the kings of the earth, and the great men, and the rich men, and the chief captains, and the mighty men, and every bondman, and every free man, hid themselves in the dens and in the rocks of the mountains; and said to the mountains and rocks, Fall on us, and hide us from the face of him that sitteth on the throne, and from the wrath of the Lamb; for a great day of his wrath is come; and who shall be able to stand?" (Rev. 6:15-17).

Saint Paul, prophesying of the coming of Christ, has this to say:

"Now we beseech you, brethren, by the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, and by our gathering together unto him, that ye be not soon shaken in mind, or be troubled, either in spirit, nor by word, nor by letter as from us, as that the day of Christ is at hand. Let no man deceive you by any means; for that day shall not come, except there come a falling away first, and that man of sin be revealed, the son of perdition; who opposeth and exalteth himself above all that is called God, or that is worshipped; so that he as God sitteth in the temple of God, showing himself to be God. Remember ye not, that when I was Goodbye, Kansas.

The Stafford (Kans.) Courier.

Kansas is no longer Kansas. It is nothing but a loud speaker for the federal bureaucracy. A once proud state has sold her sovereignty for federal dollars. She may continue the form of state government, but only for the convenience of the authority now surrendered to Washington.

The state administration has submitted to the federal demand that public expenditures for relief be kept secret. By a devious interpretation the Kansas constitution has been circumvented, although its obvious meaning has not changed one whit. Federal authorities were not willing to give the citizens of Kansas an opportunity to vote on the question of abolishing a constitutional provision and a Kansas tradition. State authorities permitted this fundamental right of self-government to be flouted and cast aside.

So we say. Good Bye, Kansas. In the past you have glorified in difficulties, your soul grew out of trouble, your character was developed through hardships. Today you retain your physical form but you have sold your soul for a mess of pottage.

Thos. A. Edison.

We are informed that Thos. A. Edison was very ignorant during his 'teen age and that he never finished high school. Yet, that genius realized in later years that he must be up and doing. He was eventually one of the worlds most renowned. There are a FEW persons today who do not like to see a person grow up and accomplish great things without throwing mud in their face with the accusation. "He did not finish high school." Such is nothing less than jealousy, says the Fort Payne (Ala.) Journal.

Chigger Remedies.

For protection against chiggers the United States Public Health Service suggests the use of flowers of sulphur, applied liberally to the stockings and underclothing. Another remedy is to apply a thick lather of soap all over the body surface, and allow the lather to remain on for ten minutes; then lather well the second time, and rinse thoroughly with clean water. The mites are promptly killed by kerosene and 95 percent alcohol, but as these liquids may be irritating to some skins they should be used with caution. The Progressive Farmer.

The Record is only $1.00.

yet with you, I told you these things?" (II Thess. 2:15).

That the falling away, of which Paul was speaking upon us, likewise cannot be denied. We call it the "Great Apostasy." Just how much worse it will be, before our Lord's return, we are unable to say. However, we must admit that there is a tremendous falling away, morally and spiritually, among the nations. Churches are closing their doors, congregations are dropping off, Sunday Schools are losing, and there is a great decline in rivalries; but in the meantime, the movies are getting the crowds, the places of amusement and entertainment are packed and crowded. Men and women are spending their money for beer, liquor, tobacco, and for evils of all kinds, while the cause of God goes without interest to them. There is a tremendous spiritual decline, and deadness throughout the earth. This surely points to the near return of our Lord. Let's watch, pray, be robed, and all ready. This is no time to quit. Our redemption draws nigh. Let's be true and faithful, lest we lose our crown.

The Farmer Pays And Pays.

Recently a group of city business men were discussing the problems incident to factory management, taxes, strike threats, governmental regulations, etc. All echoed a loud "Amen" when one suggested that he was inclined to buy a farm and thus dodge all of these problems.

It sounds like a simple solution but we rather think these same men would feel, a year or so later, that they had jumped from the frying pan into the fire. They might find taxes even higher compared with income; and, when they bought certain essential merchandise or equipment they would probably discover that labor costs were following closely on their heels.

While the farmer is a primary producer he is also one of the nation's largest consumers. All the costs of strikes, labor troubles, high taxes and increased material costs are all reflected in the prices he is obligated to pay for clothing, paint, lumber, processed food; yes, even farm implements.

It sounds like "easy money" when a farm boy who has been driving a tractor for $50 per month and board, goes to a government defense project and for the same work receives $12.00 for 8 hours, and $18.00 for 8 hours on Saturday and Sunday, a total of $96.00 per week or about six times his former wage for similar work. At the same time his brother or a neighbor's boy is conscripted for military service at $1.00 per day and "keep."

If the farmer needed government help to make ends meet when he was paying $50.00 per month for tractor drivers, how in the world is he going to buy necessary supplies and equipment when such merchandise costs must include the much higher labor and material plus the increased taxes required to defray the tremendous expenditures of the National Defense Program.

On the basis of $1.50 per hour and a 40-hour week, with time-and-a-half for overtime, applied to agriculture, we would like to have some statistically-minded economist tell us what the farmer would have to get for his wheat or pork or beef, and what wages would have to be paid labor, so they could then meet the higher cost of existence.

Somewhere, by some one, at some time, we have been assured that all would share equally in the sacrifices necessary to insure national defense.

It is one thing to advocate a high wage for industrial labor so that increased markets may be developed for farm products but no one can make us believe that the average carpenter, plumber, brick-mason or tractor-driver is going to eat the amount of food represented by the great disparity between the current wage for labor and the income received by the farmer for much longer hours and harder work.

Economists tell us of the terrific drain on the U. S. Treasury that would result from increasing AAA "parity payments" to $450,000,000, and yet other Federal Departments are spending billions, a large proportion of which goes to organized labor. Countless cases have been cited where ordinary laborers, upon payment of union dues, have become master craftsmen over night and entitled to the "prevailing wage."

This is no time for acreage reductions, plowing under of crops or pig killing—food helps to win wars—but it is high time that a better balance be struck between what the farmer gets for his work and what he has to pay labor for needed merchandise and equipment—"Farm Machinery & Equipment."

Dam Builders Plan To Sue High Point.

The High Point board of power commission has been notified by counsel representing Maxon Construction Co., that suit for nearly $375,000 will be filed within the next few days against the city for alleged breach of contract in connection with the construction firm which has contract for dam and spillway, notified the board that "friendly" action must be brought to avoid possible nullification of his client's claim under the statute of limitations.

The company several months ago filed claims with both the board and city council, alleging that the city breached a contract by not ordering construction of the power project within the time specified in the agreement. It also advised the city that all losses attendant to delay, including loss of profits, would be charged against it.

The project has been held up by court order, and the city denies that it has breached the contract.

Tobacco Market To Open Earlier.

The Winston-Salem tobacco market will open this year on Sept. 16th, which is eight days earlier than last year. The Georgia market will open Aug. 15th, and the North and South Carolina border belt will open Aug. 12th.

Raymond Moore With DuPont.

Raymond Jennings of Mocksville, North Carolina, will join the staff of the Explosive Department of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Company, Inc., after receiving his Bachelor of Science degree in chemical engineering from North Carolina State College, it was announced today by the company. He has been assigned to the Kankakee, Illinois Plant which the Du Pont Company is operating for the United States Government.

Mr. Moore was graduated from Mocksville High School and studied at Brevard College before entering North Carolina State College. He was an organic chemistry laboratory assistant at Brevard College and a member of the varsity football team. At North Carolina State College he was a member of the State College he was a member of the State Chapter of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers, and competed on intramural boxing and softball teams. He has had C. M. T. C. training.

Property Seizure Bill.

It appears that the New Deal has been frightened away from its purpose to empower the President to seize whatever property he thinks is needed for national defense. The outcry from Republicans and conservative Democrats was too great to permit such a bold operation at this time.

Request for the power, however, indicates the radicalism of those seeking it. Perhaps this effort to permit socialization of the Nation will be attempted again. New Dealers never surrender their ultimate objectives. Eternal vigilance against the enemies at home of the American system is more necessary now than ever before.

Mule Turned Cannibal.

George Peebles, Davie county Negro farmer, has a mule which has developed an appetite for "table" food, chicken in particular.

He likes chickens so well—even on the hoof—that Peebles has been forced to build a wire fence to protect the chickens from his mule.

"I want my chickens," he said, "out want my mule, too. He's a good animal even if he does like our food better than feed."

On one occasion the 12-year-old mule, hungry after carrying the Peebles family to church in the farm wagon, ate the entire lunch that had been put up for the event. He tried to pull over the tree limb to which he had been hitched and eat chicken, cake, pie and all, while everyone was in church.—Salisbury Post.

Stand Where?

Propagandists are busy these days adjuring us to stifle whatever may be our own personal convictions and "stand by the President." Do they expect us all to turn into weather vanes? Does anyone know whether the President himself will stand tomorrow where he stands today? If his promises in the fall of 1932 indicated where he stood then, he certainly, and radically, altered his position in the spring of 1933; his professions in the fall of 1936 hardly squared with his performances in the spring of 1937, and his assurance of last fall are generally looked upon as meaningless today.—Hokah (Minn.) Chief.

Unnecessary Tragedy.

The consistent policy of the Administration has been to hug to its bosom every radical element in our population—especially the reds and parlor pinks—and it is seldom that you can crease a rattlesnake without feeling its fangs.

Especially has labor leadership been coddled, not because of love for labor, but because labor has many votes.

It is unfortunate that the Administration has resented the disclosures made by the Dies Committee during the past two or three years to such an extent that it has apparently come to the point where it would rather get stung than to profit by the committee's warnings. Time after time the committee has brought out fact about the individuals now causing national sabotage of defense effort—so conclusive that a less bull-headed and resentful administration would have taken steps to avert the present debacle.

A firm policy of Americanism a year or perhaps even a few months ago might easily have made it unnecessary now to use the armed forces of the Nation in order to maintain vital defense production.—Longmont (Colo.) Ledger.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—There are many old-timers who won't like this war, when and if it comes our way. There will be no Captain Thorne, of the third act, He Routed Hand of "Secret Work in Army Service," getting Communications through the critical Morse message and no William Gillette about whom a drama of communications may be built. They scrapped the Morse, for good and all about two years ago. There's no more hand work in army communications.

These nostalgic thoughts were prompted by the participation of Maj. Gen. Joseph O. Mauborgne in the big doings at Fort Monmouth, N. J., recently, with a troop review by the general and an amateur play, "The Bottlenecks of 1941," and many other spirited goings on in which the general was prominently featured.

General Mauborgne, chief signal officer of the army, is the Thomas Alva Edison of aviation radio—in the army at any rate. It was in October, 1912, that the then Lieutenant Mauborgne installed the first radio set in an airplane, at Fort Riley, Kan. The army had 12 planes then, and aviation meant signal corps with planes first conceived as primarily useful for observation and signaling.

Lieut. "Hap" Arnold, who later was to become head of the army air corps, flew one of the planes to Fort Riley for the installation. There was much excitement, all over the country, when Lieutenant Mauborgne's cumbersome quonched spark radio set managed to wait a few signals earthward. There was still more excitement when, in 1914, the lieutenant achieved the first two-way communication between an airplane and a ground station.

He had started something there and came along with it, to today's miracles of aerial chatter. He attained his present rank September 15, 1937, having been for the previous year director of the radio laboratory at Wright Field. For 29 years his work has been an unceasing concentration on development and experiment in aviation radio. His career is one of many recent reminders of our possibly unsuspected high degree of preparedness in varied and highly specialized trained personnel.

SO FAR, Victor Emanuel has been thwarted in his lifetime ambition to win the Kentucky Derby and the Grand National. However, he scores in a speed competition Emanuel's Planes To Hit Line First If Ponies Do Fail which may chalk this day up in the big history book.

After all this wistful talk about the United States releasing a blizzard of airplanes if it ever could get into mass production, Mr. Emanuel's company, Vultee Aircraft, Inc., announces that it is swinging into the straight-line, conveyor-belt output which, in automobile production here, made all other countries just added starters. The system has been proven and the Vultee company says it will quadruple its production.

Most war talk seems to boil down to just about that possibility.

Mr. Emanuel has made a shift from finance to management, partly under circumstances over which he had no control, and management would seem to be the gainer. When, in 1926, at the age of 28, he inherited the $95,000,000 National Electric Power company from his father, the utilities field wasn't safe for amateurs. The company caught the acquisitive eye of the late Samuel Insull. But Mr. Emanuel started over again, building the United States Electric corporation and thereafter protected himself nicely in the clinches.

He was born and grew up in Dayton, Ohio, fount of aviation genius, and was educated in the University of Dayton and Cornell. His father was Albert Emanuel, utility financier.

Vic Emanuel's interests have been divided. He expatriated himself in England for a few years, having a wonderful time as master of the Woodland Pytchley hounds. He bought the 800-year-old Rockingham castle and rocked the countryside with a party of about 1,000 guests—imported Americans and British nobility—which made the British generously admit they had never seen a real party before. Now he may show them something about making planes in a hurry, which probably interests them more than parties at this moment.

Rites for Submarine O-9 Victims

While seamen, officers and navy officials stand at attention on the deck of the submarine Triton, Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox tosses a wreath upon the Atlantic in honor of the men entombed in the sub O-9, near Portsmouth, N. NEW IDEAS for Home-makers

SEW OPENING AFTER INSERTING CUSHION

USE CORDING FOOT SEAM & CORD STRAIGHT STRIP

BASTE IN PLACE CUTTING CORD AWAY CLIP AT JOINING

HAVE you considered covering your out-of-door cushions with water-resistant artificial leather? It may be cut and sewn the same as any heavy fabric. The colors are all so fresh and gay that you will be inspired to try striking combinations. Use a coarse machine needle, a No. 8 hand needle, No. 20 or 24 sewing thread and regulate the machine to about 12 stitches to the inch. The cushions shown here are green with seam cords covered in red. The sketch shows how they are made. The cotton seam cord should be about 3/4-inch in diameter. It is covered with a straight strip 1 1/4 inches wide stitched with the machine cording foot to allow the sewing to come up close to the cord. The raw edges of the cord covering are basted around the top and bottom of the cover on the right side, as shown, and are then stitched in with the seam.

If you like variety in your cushions, there is an idea for sturdy ones made of burlap and silk stockings on page 23 of SEWING, Book 5.

NOTE: Book 7, in the series of Home-makers' Booklets by Mrs. Spears, is the latest and contains directions for more than thirty things which you will want for your own home or for gifts. Included are working drawings for reconditioning old chairs and other furniture; directions for a spool whatnot; an unusual braided rag rug; and many things to make with needle and thread. The seven booklets now available contain a total of more than two hundred of Mrs. Spears' NEW IDEAS for Homemakers. Booklets are 10 cents each. Send your order to:

Dear Mom:

Well, here it is another weekend and I'm not a General yet. But give me time.

The nearest village is 5 miles away. All you find there is a general store, a garage and a canning factory—nowhere to go for any good clean fun, unless you drop in at a smoke-filled juke joint on the way.

Well, Mom, there's a big favor you can do me. The U. S. O. is trying to raise $10,765,000 to run clubs for us, outside of camp. Places with lounge rooms, dance floors, games, writing rooms. Places you can get a bite to eat without paying a king's ransom.

I know you don't have an idle million lying around, but if you could get the family interested and some of the neighbors, and if that happened all over the country, the U. S. O. could raise $10,765,000 overnight.

I'd appreciate it a lot, Mom, and so would every other mother's son in the U. S. Army and Navy.

Love,
Bill

FIRST-AID to the AILING HOUSE

By ROGER B. WHITMAN

Careful Home-Owner
A HOME owner writes of the care he gives to his copper screens on taking them down. "I lay them flat, brush all the dust off on both sides, and stand on edge in a rack in my garage. They are just as good today as when I bought them; not a rust spot, and almost as bright as when new. Taking care of them counts and pays. I also have some 72 agricultural tools. Every time one is used, it is brushed off, wiped off with a rag soaked with kerosene and stood in a rack. It makes no difference whether I use a rake or a hoe ten times a day; it gets the same treatment each time it is used. Result? My tools are still as good as when I bought them 11 years ago. I do not loan any of them. There is a sign in my garage where I keep them that reads, 'Please don't ask to borrow any of my tools—I won't ask to borrow any of yours.' Result, I've still got them all."

Roofing Problem
Question: My house has a wooden shingle roof, 18 years old. Roofing men who have figured on the re-shingling job say it is useless to place new shingles over old shingles, as the roof will rot and the job would have to be done over within six years; otherwise, they will guarantee a new job for 15 to 20 years. Is this correct? Would wooden shingles be better than asbestos, or other type of shingle?
Answer: I cannot agree with the roofers. With a good re-roofing job the old shingles will dry out thoroughly and will stay dry, thus eliminating any further rotting. The Red Cedar Shingle bureau states: "It is wasteful and unnecessary practice to strip off the old shingles."—Any type of shingle is quite satisfactory, provided it is of a good grade and of a standard brand.

Cleaner for Paneling
A question was recently asked on the cleaning of footprints and finger marks from planks of knotty pine that were to be used for paneling. A reader noticed this, and writes that in cleaning up the boards for his place in the country, which is entirely finished in knotty pine, he found that denatured alcohol did a good job. "I wet a cloth with alcohol and rubbed with the grain for the entire length of a board. The grain was not raised. In finishing paneling for bedrooms and bath, it was given two coats of penetrating wax. In kitchen and living-room, paneling was given a coat of white shellac thinned with an equal quantity of denatured alcohol, and then rubbed down with fine steel wool, which gave an extremely smooth finish. A clear sealing coat was then used."

China Figure Lamp
Question: How can I mend a china figure lamp that has the heads broken off? This is a clean break and I have tried several kinds of glue without success.
Answer: You must first remove all of the glue on the china. If one of the lacquer types of cement were used, lacquer thinner will remove it. Other glues may be removed by scrubbing with a strong washing soda solution. When the surfaces to be mended are clean and dry, cover both surfaces with a thin coat of white lead paste. The parts are then bound together and the paste allowed to harden for at least a month. No strain should be placed on the break for at least six months.

Soiled Plaster
Question: An unfinished plaster wall is badly soiled. I have tried to clean it with wallpaper cleaner, but with no success. What can I do?
Answer: An unfinished plaster wall is so porous that soil marks sink into it too deeply to be removed; no cleaner will get into the plaster deeply enough to take them out. The only remedy is to put on some sort of a finish; cold water paint, calcimine, oil paint or paper. If the plaster is greasy, as will be the case in a kitchen, it should first be cleaned with a grease cutter such as washing soda.

Cinder Flooring
Question: My two-car garage has a flooring of cinders, which naturally is quite a dust nuisance. The landlord does not care to go to the expense of a concrete floor at present. Could I treat the cinders in some way to obtain a somewhat smooth and dustless surface?
Answer: The cinders should be well tamped down, then the surface sprinkled with calcium chloride flakes. Your city or county road commissioner can tell you where the calcium chloride can be purchased. Follow the manufacturer's directions when using this chemical.

Painting a Picket Fence
Question: I am anxious to know if it is practical to paint a white picket fence 200 by 180 feet by spraying it? Who does work of this kind in the average community?
Answer: Spray painting will be much faster than brush painting; but you should first inquire if the neighbors object to the fumes and fine particles of paint which may float in the air. Many painting contractors have portable paint spraying machines. You will find their names listed in the classified telephone directory.

THE BRIDE LEARNS TO COOK (See Recipes Below.)

EASY AS PIE

No sooner are you back from your honeymoon than the business of planning menus, marketing and cooking for two begins! In your capacity as chief cook, you're sure to find the task of preparing three meals a day a real challenge. Of course if you've had little past experience in the culinary field, there'll undoubtedly be at least one batch of "heavy" biscuits, a "fallen" cake or two, and even burnt toast . . . but don't let mistakes bother you too much . . . and he'll soon be "crowing" about your So-o-o Good Meals!

Because I'm convinced that the ability to make really good pie is a highly desirable quality for any young woman to possess, especially a new wife, I'm presenting a few pie recipes for you to try in your leisure moments.

If he likes desserts at all (most men adore them), try your luck with lemon-chiffon, chocolate, rhubarb or even Spanish cream pie . . . And, if you're careful to follow the foregoing suggestions, he won't be able to resist that second pie!

I've captioned the column Easy As Pie . . . which perhaps gives an erroneous impression. Easy to eat, yes, but not always easy to make. Pastry is tricky, but once the technique of making it has been acquired, it isn't easily lost.

In making pastry remember these points: (1) unless you are making hot water pastry, have the ingredients for making pie crust cold; (2) cut shortening into the flour, using a pastry blender or fork; or, if you're an experienced cook, and work quickly, blending in the shortening with fingers is permissible; (3) add water sparingly, using only enough to hold the ingredients together; handle dough as little and as lightly as possible after adding water; (4) roll out the dough on a lightly floured board or on a heavy canvas; (5) cover the rolling pin with a child's white cotton stocking—with the foot cut off—and flour it lightly; and (6) place the dough loosely in the pan to help prevent shrinking.

Plain Pastry.
 2 cups flour
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/2 cup shortening
 Ice water (about 6 or 7 tablespoons)
 Sift flour once before measuring. Sift together flour and salt. Cut in shortening with two knives or pastry blender, making coarse pieces. Add as little water as possible to make dough stay together. Divide into parts large enough to make one crust and roll out on a well-floured board with as little handling as possible.

Chocolate Pie.
Plain Pastry
 2 squares unsweetened chocolate
 3 eggs
 1 cup cream
 1 cup sugar
 2 tablespoons soft bread crumbs
 1/2 cup chopped walnuts
 Line a pie pan with plain pastry and pinch with fingers to make a

I want to pass on to you newlyweds some tips for homemaking that have the approval of hundreds of cooks, mothers and housewives . . .
 Tin or aluminum frying pans will wear better if cold water is not poured into them while they're hot.
 Boiling a new rope clothes line for a few minutes in soapy water softens it and lengthens its life.
 A round whisk broom serves as an excellent clothes sprinkler. It gives a fine spray, sprinkles evenly, and saves time.
 Grease spots may sometimes be removed from wallpaper with a piece of blotting paper held against the spots with a warm iron.
 In planning meals, bacon should be considered as fat rather than meat, because it contains so little protein.

fancy edge. Cut chocolate in pieces and melt over hot water. Beat eggs well, and add sugar, bread crumbs and melted chocolate. Mix well. Pour into the pie pan. Bake in a hot oven (375 degrees F.) for 20 minutes, or until filling is firm. When cold, sprinkle with chopped nuts. Spread with whipped cream and decorate with whole walnut kernels.

Just because it's summer, don't stop pie baking . . . merely change the kind of pie you serve. Spanish Cream pie has everything for a successful summer dessert—it's quivery, cool, delicately flavored.

To make the filling and pastry really boon companions, substitute orange juice for the water in the pastry. A half teaspoon of grated orange rind added to the flour for the pastry will give a special fragrance to it.

Spanish Cream Pie.
 1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin
 1/2 cup cold milk
 1 1/2 cups scalded milk
 2 egg yolks
 1/2 cup sugar
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1 teaspoon vanilla
 2 eggs whites
 1 baked pastry shell
 Soften the gelatin in the cold milk 5 to 10 minutes. Dissolve over hot water, stirring constantly. Meanwhile, prepare a soft custard of the scalded milk, yolks and sugar and salt. Combine hot custard and hot dissolved gelatin. Cool slightly, add vanilla, then fold in the stiffly beaten whites. Chill until quite syrupy. Pour into pastry shell. Let set before serving. Yield: 6 servings.

Sometimes it is fun to change the flavor of pastry by adding an extra ingredient or two to the recipe. Cheese pastry, for example, is wonderful for apple pie. Grated cheese is mixed with the flour. A half cup of grated yellow cheese is enough for the standard recipe.
 Spiced pastry is excellent for fruit pies, particularly peach, apple and apricot. Cinnamon and nutmeg, and perhaps a touch of cloves, are the spices to use. A teaspoon each of sugar and cinnamon and a fourth teaspoon of cloves will spice a batch of pastry. A little sugar also may be added.

Crumb Pastry.
 2 cups crumbs, rolled fine or ground
 1/2 cup melted butter
 Blend butter and crumbs. Line pie pan by firmly pressing in mixture about one-fourth inch thick. Be sure to have it extra thick where sides of pan join. Bake in a 375- to 400-degree oven for 10 minutes. This pastry may be made of graham crackers, vanilla or chocolate wafers or ginger snaps.
 And last but not least here's a recipe for the pie that still leads other meal sign-offs by a wide margin.

Apple Pie.
 4 1/2 cups apples
 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg or cinnamon
 1/4 teaspoon butter
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1 cup sugar
 Line plate with pastry. Pare, core and slice apples. Mix sugar, salt and spice; put part of sugar in bottom of plate filled with apples. Cover with remaining sugar. Dot over top with bits of butter.
 Moisten edges of lower crusts; put on upper crust and press edges firmly together. Place pie on bottom shelf of rack in oven and bake in hot oven, 450 degrees F., for 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 325 degrees and bake until fruit is tender and juices begin to boil through perforations in crust.

CHRISTIANITY EXPANDS IN ASIA

LESSON TEXT—Acts 19:8-10, 23-32.
 GOLDEN TEXT—So mightily grew the word of God and prevailed.—Acts 19:20.

War is the order of the day, and much as we may regret it the life of every one of us is affected by its feverish touch. Certainly no Christian has any pleasure in the violent hatreds of wicked men, and can only pray that somehow a righteous peace may come to this troubled world. There is a warfare, however, which we do seek to foster and promote. We encourage it, and as Christians make a holy resolve to battle to the end. That is the warfare against Satan and his hosts. As long as he rules in the hearts of men, and sin and wickedness are here, we say, "Fight on, my soul!"

Christian life and service are presented in Scripture as a fight. We do well to learn the methods and the weapons of this great spiritual conflict; not stressing a belligerent note of strife against one another, and particularly not between the divisions of God's army in the earth, but standing shoulder to shoulder in the battle against the Evil One.

I. Attack for God (vv. 8-10).
 The vigorous prosecution of a strong attack on the enemy's position is good military strategy, and good spiritual warfare. The command of God is "Forward!" and His forces are not to hinder their effectiveness by weak indecision or fear. Paul sets us an example in his

1. Bold Preaching (vv. 8, 9a).
 Paul had met some disciples of John and did not have the Holy Spirit. Dr. Erdman rightly says that "there are many more like these twelve 'disciples' in the pews of Christian churches. They are sincere men, they hate their sins, they believe in the teachings of Jesus, they admire the Sermon on the Mount, they yearn for the highest and best things, but they lack spiritual power. Why? Because they are 'disciples of John,' they have not fixed their hearts and their hopes upon a divine, glorified Christ; they do not know 'the grace of God.' When, however, they learn the full gospel and yield themselves to Christ, they are not merely baptized with water, but also the Holy Spirit."

2. Careful Teaching (vv. 9b, 10).
 Three months of such preaching brought many converts, but there were also "hardened and disobedient" men whose opposition caused Paul to withdraw the disciples (learners) to the privacy of a lecture room for thorough instruction in Christian doctrine, a sort of Bible Institute of Ephesus. The church has largely failed in its teaching ministry and has thus weakened its effectiveness against the enemy. To be strong workers for the Lord, Christians must know the doctrines of the Bible.

II. Counter Attack by Satan (vv. 23-32).
 The enemy of our souls is often content to let us go on in comparative peace as long as we do not bother him unduly, but once we put up the banner of a holy life and service in God's army, he begins a terrific counter attack. Paul had felt it already in the hardening of listeners' hearts (v. 8), but now it began in dead earnest.

1. By Selfish Opposition (vv. 23-27).
 One way to bring a violent reaction against spiritual truth is to let it interfere with business. Demetrius and his fellow silversmiths professed to be concerned about the threatened destruction of the heathen worship of Diana (and what a fine testimony that was to the effectiveness of Paul's preaching!), but in reality they were worried about the loss of their ungodly business in charms (vv. 25-27).

Many of the enemies of the gospel in our time are fighting against God's Word because they are in a business which is condemned by it. They know that every time a new convert is won to Christ they lose a customer and it troubles them. Reader, if you are in that kind of business, get out of it quick before God's judgment falls upon you.

2. Senseless Tumult (vv. 28-32).
 Knowing that their opposition was without true foundation, they inspired and agitated a wild demonstration. Is it not astonishing how many thoughtless and foolish people there are in the world who will senselessly follow the lead of someone who opposes God?

Shouting a slogan which had no real meaning, they lent their voices to the tumultuous agitation against God. Finally, one sensible man, hearing the punishment of city officials, quieted them. The Ephesians were just like many in our day who fear man more than God. But, may we ask, if you fear the judgment of men, how think you to escape the judgment of God? After all, it is God and His Word you oppose, unconverted friend. Do you think He will hold you guiltless?

If the Lions Club wish to do something to help put Davie county on the map, they can get busy and help resurrect the Davie County Fair.

During the eight years of the New Deal the total cash farm income has averaged only $1,149 per farm compared to $1,467 per farm during the eight preceding years.

A gentleman has asked us to secure the names of the folks in Davie who are living on Federal Aid, and those who are holding Federal, State and county jobs. Why go to the trouble to get the names? The Record wouldn't have the space to print them.

Many Davie county boys are off in various training camps throughout the country. They would enjoy reading their home county paper. For the benefit of the boys we are making a special offer of only 50 cents per year to all drafted boys who are in camp. If your son is among this number, send us 50c. and let us send him the old home-town paper for a year. He will enjoy it almost as much as he would a letter from home. The price is less than one cent a week.

It is only a little more than a month until the 63rd Annual Masonic picnic is to be held in Mocksville. It is not too early to begin making arrangements to come to this big picnic and annual homecoming. Thousands of people assemble here from many sections of North Carolina, and many come from distant states. We trust that the crowd will be as large or larger this year than ever before. The orphans have to be fed and housed, regardless of whether there is war or peace. The Oxford Orphanage is depending on the proceeds from this picnic to help keep that grand institution going during the coming year. Let's all do our part in making this picnic one of the biggest and best picnics ever held in Davie county.

Robert Caudie Hurt.

Robert Caudie, of Farmington, a state highway worker, was seriously injured about six miles north of Mocksville, on highway 158, when a truck driven by Arthur Wood, young boy from Surry county, turned over on the Statesville highway just outside Mocksville, at 7 o'clock Saturday morning. Mr. Caudie was brought to the Harding Clinic, and after receiving first aid, was carried to Davis Hospital, Statesville. Mr. Caudie was riding on the running board of the truck picking up signal lights along the highway, which is under repair, when the truck ran off the highway, turning over and throwing Mr. Caudie to the ground.

Ijames X Roads News.

Thirteen Davie Men To Fort Bragg.

Thirteen young men from Davie county will leave this city next Monday morning, July 14th, for a year's military training at Ft. Bragg! Those scheduled to leave are: James Monroe Swicegood, Mocksville, R. 4. Ezra Lewis Howell, Canal R. 1. Andrew David Carter, Cooleemee. Robert Lee Jarvis, Lexington, R. 4. William Roy Jones, Mocksville, R. 1. Jasper Herman Carter, Mocksville, R. 3. Garland Franklin Forrest, Mocksville, R. 2. George Herman Barnhardt, Mocksville, R. 3. John Foster Cooke, Mocksville, R. 2. Isaac Martin, 513 South Broad Street, Mooreville. Thomas Jefferson Stewart, Advance, R. 1. Allie Hanes Childress, Mocksville, R. 4. Graham Wiseman Call, Mocksville, R. 4.

98 Young Men Register

Last Tuesday was registration day throughout the nation for all young men who had reached the age of 21 years since Oct. 16, 1940. The total registration in Davie was 98 men. The Record estimated that 100 would register, which was good guessing. A few Davie men were away from home and registered elsewhere. Those who failed to register, if any, had better do so at once. The President has asked for 400,000 men to be sent to camp within the next year. Congress has amended the draft laws, and it is said all men between the ages of 28 and 36 will be deferred for the present.

Bad Auto Wreck.

Only one serious automobile wreck occurred in Mocksville on the Glorious Fourth. A Mercury sedan, driven by Otto R. Dalton, of Hendersonville, R. 3, crashed head-on into a Chevrolet coupe, driven by James S. Vernon, of Statesville. Mr. Vernon was badly injured, sustaining three broken ribs, cuts and bruises. Mrs. Vernon, who was with her husband, was painfully cut about the face and head. Mr. Dalton received cuts on the face, but was not seriously hurt. Mr. and Mrs. Vernon were brought to Mocksville Hospital immediately after the wreck and given medical attention. The wreck occurred one mile north of the square, near the Phillip Hanes home. Mr. Dalton will be given a hearing here on Friday, July 18th, at 10 o'clock. The damage to each car is estimated at about $400. Patrolman Gibbs investigated the wreck.

Mr. Vernon was carried to Long's Hospital, Statesville, Saturday morning, where he will remain for some time. Mrs. Vernon was recovered sufficiently to return home.

Filling Station Burned!

"Pop's Place," a filling station and store operated five miles north of Mocksville, on highway 158, was destroyed by fire early Thursday morning. The fire is thought to have started from defective wiring. Mr. Miller's stock of goods and furniture was almost a total loss, with no insurance. The building was owned by Pink Cornatzer.

Kappa News

The girls soft ball team of Jericho are sponsoring a pie supper at Davie Academy community building Saturday night, July 12th. Everyone invited to come. Proceeds will be used for the benefit of the team.

George Evans Injured.

While picking cherries at the home of Frank Latham, near Canal, last Tuesday afternoon, George Evans, prominent farmer of the Center community, had the misfortune to fall out of a cherry tree, when the limb he was standing on, split. Mr. Evans fell about 15 feet, falling on his forehead. He was hurried to Mocksville Hospital, where he was given treatment. Mr. Evans was able to be carried to his home Wednesday. He received no broken bones, but was badly bruised about the head and face. All are glad that he escaped serious injury, as was at first thought.

Gannon Talbert Passes.

Gannon Talbert, 80, prominent Advance citizen, passed away early Thursday morning, death resulting from a heart attack. Mr. Talbert had been in bad health for several years.

Mr. Talbert moved to Advance from Montgomery county when a young man, and spent most of his life in Davie. He was a rural letter carrier for more than 30 years, having entered the service in 1902.

In the death of this good man, the Record editor has lost a warm personal friend of 40 years standing. We shall miss his friendly greetings and hearty handshakes. He visited our office frequently. We shall always cherish his long friendship. To the bereaved wife and children we extend heartfelt sympathy in the death of this fine husband and father.

Funeral service were held at Advance Methodist church Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, with his pastor, Rev. L. P. Smith in charge, and the body laid to rest in Advance Baptist church cemetery.

Mr. Talbert is survived by his widow, and the following children: Mrs. J. F. Mock of Thomasville; Mrs. Minnie Bryson, Amy Jane Talbert, James Talbert, Sam Talbert, Gannon Talbert, Jr., Rebecca Talbert, and Thomas Talbert, all of Advance; G. Frank Talbert, and John Talbert of Winston-Salem; Mrs. Charles Bonn, of Hampton, Va.; Dennis Talbert, of Erlanger; Charles Talbert, of Knox, Ky. One sister, Mrs. J. W. Hanley, of Asheboro, also survives.

Attending B. T. U. Conference.

A number of young people from the Mocksville Baptist Church went to Ridgecrest Sunday to attend a meeting of the State Baptist Training Union, and will remain until tomorrow. Those in the party were Mrs. L. S. Ervin and Miss Clara Wall, chaperones; Geraldine Stonestreet, Dorothy Grubbs, Dorothy Benson, Daisie Max Ervin, Betty Honeycutt, Janie Sue Naylor, Bobbie Hall and Henry Shaw Anderson. Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Martin, L. S. Ervin and Harry Stroud, carried the young people to Ridgecrest, returning home Sunday afternoon.

Sheffield News.

Mr. and Mrs. Dorsett Wright, of Grand Rapids, Mich., visited in this section last week.

Mrs. Bob Ijames was brought home from Davis Hospital, Statesville, last week and continues to improve.

Robert Smoot was brought home from Rowan Memorial Hospital, Salisbury, last Tuesday. Mr. Smoot has many friends who will be glad to learn that he is getting along fine.

Mr. and Mrs. Linnie Garner and C. L. Cleary, of Randolph, spent the 4th in this section.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Elkins, of Greensboro, spent the 4th with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Gaither.

Miss Lucille Gaither, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Gaither, who underwent an operation for appendicitis at Rowan Memorial Hospital, was able to return home Friday.

The Gossip Club at Sheffield, had several new members Saturday night. The subject was the big rains and how much wheat had been damaged by the rains.

Land posters at this office.

Baseball Friday Night.

The business men of Mocksville and Cooleemee will play ball at Lewis Field, Cooleemee, Friday night, July 11, for benefit of American Legion Hut, and sponsored by Davie County Post No. 174. Admission 15 and 35c. Music by Mocksville and Cooleemee Bands, C. C. Drum and Bugle Corps. Also trick dog acts. Bushels of fun for all who attend. Go out and see your doctor, lawyer, dentist, grocer, etc., play ball.

Annual Field Day.

The 36th annual Field Day will be held at the Piedmont Experiment Station near Statesville, on Thursday, July 17th. An interesting program has been arranged. Many prominent speakers will be heard, including Hon. Clyde R. Hoey, Dr. Carl V. Reynolds, Hon. John W. Wallace, Mrs. C. R. Hoey and others. J. Wade Hendricks, a former Davie boy, is assistant director in charge. Many Davie county farmers will no doubt be present.

Resolutions of Respect.

Since our Divine Master has seen fit to remove one of our members, Mrs. Minnie Bowden Allen, from among us, therefore be it resolved that we, on behalf of its entire membership, do express our deep sense of loss and heartfelt appreciation of the life and influence of our co-worker and friend, and that we extend to her family our sympathy.

Recent Bride Honored By Miss Miller.

Miss Elizabeth Miller was hostess Thursday afternoon at a miscellaneous shower honoring Mrs. Bobby Sharpe, formerly Miss Martha Reece Allen, a recent bride.

The guests were invited into the living room which was attractively decorated with summer flowers. During the afternoon dish towels were hemmed for the bride, and each guest wrote her favorite recipe. The recipes were filed and presented to the bride.

A salad plate, with tiny wedding bells as favors, and a miniature bride for Mrs. Sharpe, was served to the following: The honoree, Mrs. Sharpe, Mesdames Bert Bentley, Lou Ward, L. F. Ward, F. W. Dull, Odell James, Ben Teague, W. E. Kennen, J. W. Vestal, John Harding, Ray Deese, John Swing, Elizabeth Williard, George Steelman, C. H. McMahan, J. V. Miller, R. Max Conrad, L. L. Miller, and Misses Martha Furches, Libby Deese, Jessie West, Kate Vestal, Frances Lee Ward, Eloise Ward, Edith McMahan, Mildred Dull, Betty McMahan, Mary Lee McMahan, Vickie Steelman and Martha Rose Miller.

Miss Ward In Contest.

Miss Mary Neil Ward, of this city, and Robert Cates, Jr., of Winston-Salem, were runners up in the Ford Good Drivers league contest held at Charlotte last Tuesday. There were 12 young ladies and 12 young men entered in the contest. Harry Bowman, of Charlotte, and Miss Ann Henning, of Albemarle, were winners in the contest, and will enter the National contest at Dearborn, Mich., next month.

Car Badly Damaged.

Carl Nichols, of Coolemece, received slight injuries and his Ford V-8, was badly damaged about 8:30 o'clock Thursday evening when he ran off Wilkesboro street and cut an electric light pole off even with the ground. A part of the electric light system was put out of commission, but power was restored about 10 o'clock.

R. L. Lyerly, local manager of the Duke Power Co., deserves much credit for his quick work in getting the power restored. A heavy rain was falling during the time repairs were being made.

Many Pay Taxes.

Tax collector Holt Barneycastle tells us that up to July 2, he had collected $28,971.61 of 1941 taxes. Most of us poor folks are yet owing our 1940 taxes. A discount is given to those who pay their 1941 taxes now.

Grain Market.

Local market price for wheat, $1.00 per bushel; corn 80c.

C. I. A. Meeting At Sheffield.

The July meeting of the Community Improvement Association will be held in the Cheshire school building on Saturday night, July 12th, beginning at 8:20. Members of the Pino Grange will be present and take part. John Frank Essic, Master of the Pino Grange, will be the chief speaker of the evening. These meetings are open to the public and all are urged to attend this special meeting and hear these leaders from Pino. Refreshments will be served.

Town Tax Rate $1.10

The town commissioners at their meeting last week, fixed the town tax rate at $1.10 on the $100 valuation. The rate past year was $1.00. Thirty-five cents is for the general fund and 75c for debt service.

Mr. and Mrs. Spurgeon Anderson, J. A. Daniel and M. B. Stone street spent Thursday and Friday at Goldsboro attending the North Carolina Rural Letter Carrier's Association. It is needless to say that they had a fine time.

When she ended, Mat Forbes spoke. "Ma'am, I'm not saying you're right or wrong; but we've got to go on." "We've got to look at it straight," he pointed out. "We can ask Mr. Corr to go back; but if he won't, why he's the Captain. We can't make him, unless we know for sure."

To attempt to compel him in any way, or even to disobey his commands, was an action tainted with mutiny; and Mat, as the whispered discussion proceeded, repeatedly pointed this out.

"He says Cap'n Corr was killed. He's logged it that way; and he can't go back on that, if it's true or not. He's got to stick to it; and short of handling him, there's nothing we can do."

"But I know he's lying," Mary pleaded. "I know Cap'n Corr's alive." She felt Corkran's eyes upon her; and she appealed to him. "Don't you, Corkran?"

Corkran was a long moment in replying; and before he spoke, his eyes swung from her to George. "Reverence," he asked gravely, "what do you say? Are you for going back?"

"Yes." "Would you be thinking to satisfy the young lady, so she'll know he's dead? Is that maybe it?"

"No. No, I'm sure he's alive. He's hurt, maybe. If he weren't, he'd have come to the boats. But I think he's surely alive."

"Then it's knowing he's alive that you'll want to go back and get him?"

"Yes, certainly." Corkran stood up, and turning to the mate, said simply: "Mr. Forbes, if himself here says go back, then I say go. If he said not, I'd say no; but we'll do what he's wanting."

Mat Forbes nodded. "Yes, certain. I'd say go back, if we'd anything to go on. But it's hard to say to Peter that he's got to go back without knowing something."

"There's a way to know," Corkran told him quickly. "Gee was with them ashore. Whatever happened, Gee knows. Gee's hated Cap'n Corr, and talked killing ever since the Cap'n had him flogged. Maybe he was in this, maybe not; but whatever happened, he knows about it."

This was, clearly, true. If Peter had lied about Richard's movements on shore at Hoakes Bay, Gee must know it. Mary whispered earnestly: "Yes, yes! Don't you see, Mr. Forbes? Gee must know."

CHAPTER XVIII

A half hour later Corkran reported that Gee, after some "persuading," had given him enough information to justify turning back.

bore him sidewise and down. The heavy revolver clattered against the edge of the drawer, was jerked by his fall from Peter's hand. Mat Forbes picked it up. Corkran held Peter flat, twisted him on his stomach, dragged him to his feet.

Peter was stony silent now. Mat Forbes turned to Mary. "You and Mr. McAusland move in here, into these cabins," he said briefly. "I'll iron him to the mizzenmast."

Later Mat came to speak to her. He was white with strain, but his voice was calm and steady.

"He's secured," he said. "I've left Mr. Corkran with him, and the door's bolted between. You'll be safe here. I'll go call the watch and wear ship, make back for Hoakes Bay. We'll be there, with luck, soon after day. Mr. McAusland can take the Cap'n's cabin. You have yours."

It was upon Mat Forbes that the responsibility for the Ventura and those aboard her now fell. Half persuaded by Mary, and then convinced by Gee's enforced confession, he had accepted the necessity of leading what was technically a mutiny. He had not read that treason never prospers, since if it succeed then none dare call it treason; but he understood quite clearly the implications of his own position.

If Richard were found, dead or alive, Mat's action would be justified. If Richard were not found, then he and those who had supported him in making Peter captive were simply mutineers, damned not only by the laws but by all the tradition of the sea.

So, for their salvation, Richard must be found. Mat, on the way back to Hoakes Bay, questioned Gee. The Negro repeated that he and Richard and Peter started through the tall tussock grass up toward the pond where the geese had lighted; that they entered the grass abreast, and became separated in its maze; and that when he emerged at the upper border of the grass, he was first, and Peter presently appeared, but Captain Corr did not. Beyond that, he swore in beseeching terror, he knew only what the mate had told him.

"Believed what he told you, did you?" Mat demanded.

"Yes, suh." Mat said evenly: "You're a liar! There wasn't any beach in the tussocks, nor any sea lions. You knew well enough nothing like that happened to the Cap'n in there." With one strong motion he ripped Gee's shirt off his back. "Get a boat spade, Rannels," he directed. "Cut a hole through his small, cut the truth out of him!"

Rannels said with a relish: "Take my knife. It's nicked, and dull, and jagged as a saw; but you can hack a couple of rib-chops out of him with it."

At the fearful picture Rannels' words evoked, Gee surrendered altogether and damned Peter beyond denial. He said the mate had given him a pearl, and promised him a rich reward later, if he would tell the tale and stick to it.

Gee appeared to have no more to tell, but Mat had no remaining doubt of Peter's guilt. Yet even so it was necessary that Richard be found, alive or dead, for final proof. Mat had no intention of evading the issue. If Richard were not found, he must release Peter and return him to command, and himself submit to the arrest that would follow when the Ventura reached Stanley.

But if Richard were found, then the situation would be in Richard's hands. So he must be found. Mat decided that when they came to anchor again in Hoakes Bay, he would send Corkran to command and direct the search ashore. Corkran was wise and strong. Mat himself, clearly, had better stay on board the Ventura. Someone must keep an eye on Peter, and on Gee; for the two prisoners and the ship herself were the key to the situation.

As matters developed, one other man stayed aboard the Ventura. After the anchor was down, since the wind was freshening, Mat ordered the sails all furled. This meant sending the men aloft. Hurd, the little Cockney, descending afterward, in some way fell the last few feet to the deck. He landed on his feet; but he howled with pain, and when he tried to stand he could not. Apparently he had broken a bone in his ankle, or suffered a severe sprain; certainly he would be of no use ashore.

So when the boats put off, twelve men went in them; or rather, eleven men and Tommy Hanine. Corkran commanded one boat, Big Pip the other. Seven men and Mary were left aboard. Hurd was in the fore-cabin, Gee and Peter in iron beds, George in his bunk in the Captain's cabin, Willie Leeper in his galley, and Mat and Rannels and Mary on deck to watch the boats depart.

Rannels, like the other harpooners, was by the etiquette of the port restricted in his movements, forbidden to come to the after house except on business. So while the boats moved away from the vessel's side, he stood alone in the waist. Mary and Mat were together by the rail just forward of the after house. They saw the boats land and saw the men haul them high and dry.

It occurred to Mat to inspect Peter Peter's irons. He called to the harpooner: "Take a look at Gee, Rannels. The other man went obediently toward the fore hatch, and Mat descended into the cabin with Mary. He slid back the bolt on the door between the common room and the main cabin. Peter sat there at the table, his hands in front of him, the irons on his wrists passed through the loop of chain around the mizzen; and he met Mat's eyes, but he did not speak. Mat closed the door and bolted it again. When he turned, Mary stood in the doorway of the Captain's cabin; and George was on his feet inside the cabin, facing her, and coughing a little.

Mat Forbes felt rather than saw a shadow pass along the skylight over his head. He looked up sharply at the skylight, too late to see anything; and then he took the revolver out of his belt and cocked it and stepped quickly toward the companionway.

He started to ascend. Mary came to the foot of the companionway; and his feet were level with her shoulders, his head just emerging from the companion, when she heard the crack of the smashing blow that felled him.

The revolver, without being discharged, dropped out of his hand and clattered down to her feet. Mat slumped forward limply on his face, his body sprawling on the deck, his legs hanging down the companionway. Rannels shouted something; and she looked up and saw the harpooner, his face red with excitement, grab Mat by the collar. Mary snatched the revolver from the floor; but Rannels hauled Mat out of sight before she could shoot. On deck someone came running aft. George crossed to her side, took the weapon from her. Looking up, he whispered: "What happened?"

"He was strangely not excited. 'Rannels killed Mat!' she told him simply. Through the companion above them they could see the sky, the rain-filled clouds, the after rail. They heard Rannels speaking.

"Watch the companion," he panted, his voice thick. "I'll get him loose, and Gee. You stay here, and if anybody shows a head, bust 'em."

Mary did not know Hurd was aboard. She looked at George and saw, with a quickening respect and admiration, that he was calm; that strength had run into him to meet this emergency. He said: "Go get the guns out of the rack and load them. I'll watch here, in case they try to come down."

She said from across the cabin by the arms rack: "It's locked. The guns are locked in."

"Can you break it open?" "No! I don't see how." "Then find the bomb gun." She turned to look for that huge and awkward weapon. Someone tried the bolted door between; and Peter called to them sharply: "Mary, let me in."

George said strongly: "No, Peter." "You sick fool, I'll break down the door." Peter's voice cracked as it was likely to in moments of emotion.

"I'll shoot you if you do!" George retorted. He made a sign to Mary to hurry; his lips shaped the words; "Bomb gun!" Peter was whispering to Rannels in the main cabin. George and Mary could hear the "mizzenmast," but no words. Mary found the bomb gun, as heavy as a small cannon. Luckily it was loaded. The voices in the main cabin could no longer be heard; and there was no sound on the deck above their heads. She asked George: "Will that bomb explode if it hits anything?" "I don't know," he admitted. "I don't know how they work." He grinned doubtfully. "Richard said the back end of a gun like this does as much damage as the front, but it's better than nothing; and if that bomb hits anyone, even if it doesn't explode, they'll know it!"

STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO

By VIRGINIA VALE

IT'S characteristic of Metro that "The Yearling" was abandoned, after all the money that had been spent on the two-million-dollar vehicle for Spencer Tracy. Some studios—we won't name them—would have gone ahead and shoved it through, and then tried by ballyhoo to convince the public that it was all it ought to be. It's said that $500,000 had been spent on the production before it was called off for the time being. Maybe it will really be made "next year," maybe it won't. But if it is to be produced then, it'll be done as well as it can be.

Spencer Tracy

Appearing in an Orson Welles production seems to bring actors more luck than rubbing dozens of rabbits' feet. Five of the players in Welles' superb "Citizen Kane" have picked up RKO contracts, and now Anne Burr, leading lady of Welles' Broadway play, "Native Son," has signed with the same studio. She was a fashion model for eight months, an extra in "Quiet City," then did radio work and a year ago played in stock.

Samuel Goldwyn feels that Gary Cooper, after "Sergeant York" and "Meet John Doe," has been serious long enough. So he's slating the tall star for a comedy role in a story about a college professor and a burlesque showgirl. It will be the second of the Goldwyn productions to be released by RKO Radio. The first will be "The Little Foxes," with Bette Davis—it should be one of her best. The third will be another Gary Cooper production, "The Singing and the Gold," a story of the original Dutch settlers on the Hudson.

Gary Cooper

For the first time in her career Claire Trevor will appear under the banner of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. She has the second romantic lead to Lana Turner in "Honky Tonk," in which Clark Gable is to be starred.

Harpe Marx, who has just finished "The Big Store," with his brothers, is planning a nation-wide tour of army camps. That should be good news for the men at many of the camps, who derision the fact that their only diversion is Grade B movies, old ones, the best that they can find at near-by towns.

Recently when Carole Lombard had to rehearse a radio sketch, Clark Gable drove to the studio to take her home. Autograph seekers besieged her, but they missed him. He was sitting 10 feet away in a station wagon, and had been for half an hour—with a two-day growth of beard, and dressed in the old work clothes he'd been wearing on his ranch.

Louisiana seems to be a favorite setting for the movies right now. The revamped "Sunny," in which Anna Neagle stars, offers mild entertainment with that background. Paramount is getting "Louisiana Purchase" under way by rounding up Hollywood's 12 most beautiful girls for the screen version of the highly successful musical. The same studio announces that Ellen Drew and Robert Preston, who were teamed in "The Night of January 16th," will be paired again in "Mardi Gras Murder."

Mickey Rooney and Sidney Miller roll a piano onto the set when they begin a new film together and start writing a song. They've done six pictures so far, and written and had published five songs. Now they're at it again.

The new two-violin arrangements Fred Waring is featuring are plotted by Eric Siday, who studied to be a concert violinist and won an award as the best amateur violinist in England. Swing enthusiasts rave about them, as played by Siday and Fernie Bushy. Siday's rather have appreciation for his skill at table tennis—he's an expert at it.

ODDS AND ENDS—That recent appearance of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt on the radio program, "The Story of the First Lady" may play a repeat performance. The new Dr. Kildare film will be called "Mary Names the Doctor." C. Wood, winner of the 1941 U. S. Open Golf championship, will be featured in an RKO Pathé Sportscope. Kay Kayser will play a Shakespearean ham actor in his next picture. Seem Green Garson's hair is "Florentine red"—see for yourself in the technicolor "Blossoms in the Dust." Don't miss Abbott and Costello in "In the Navy" if you like to laugh.

Household Hints

To remove grass stains from white clothes make a paste of baking soda and soap and spread thickly over stain.

Stale cake crumbs sprinkled over the top of custards before putting into the oven to bake give the top a delicate brown and the custard a different flavor.

A thin slice of lemon with rind added to soup stock before clearing will give soup a delicious flavor.

If washable curtains become rusted on the rods during damp weather, dampen the rust spots and cover them with a thin coating of salts of lemon. Let stand until the stains disappear.

Dip fish in milk instead of eggs before rolling in bread or crumbs. The fish will taste better.

If a woman spends 2,200 hours a year at work in the kitchen, doesn't she deserve to have sinks and tables at the right height?

The following makes an excellent substitute for a ring mold. Fill a glass jar with chopped ice, seal and set into a bowl. Pour mixture to be molded around jar. Remove jar when mixture is well frozen.

Four pineapple juice, grapefruit or a rather sour lemonade into one of the freezing trays in mechanical ice box to get deliciously flavored cubes for adding to chilled beverages. A piece of mint added to each cube when partially frozen gives flavor as well as color.

Drys Winning Hard Fight

If all the citizens of the United States were asked today, to go to the polls and vote yes or no on whether the nation should return to constitutional prohibition, one out of every three persons would vote yes. Surprising as that may seem to some, it is a fact verified by the most recent Gallup Poll. This survey found 32 per cent of the people willing to go on record as ready to vote in favor of national prohibition, as compared with only 30 per cent eight years ago, according to Gallup's statistics.

These figures indicate that there has been no rout of the temperance forces, that instead of losing ground since repeal—as claimed in some quarters—they have more than held their own.

Most Americans will probably be surprised to learn that those who would vote tomorrow for prohibition constitute such a substantial minority. One of the Gallup statisticians calculated that if all the persons calling themselves dry had voted for the prohibition candidate in the last national election he would have received about 16,000,000 votes.

All this indicates that only a comparatively small shift in public opinion is necessary in order to give the forces of temperance enough strength to go into battle on even terms.

The rising tide of temperance sentiment is shown in reports reaching National W.C.T.U. of new supporters of the dry cause. Slowly but surely, mass resentment is beginning to be aroused in the American people at the heartless efficiency with which liquor sales promotion is carried on by the highly capitalized and effectively organized liquor industry of today, retaining all the evils of the old time saloon and adding many new ones. These Americans have given liquor a chance since repeal—with the ever-more-evident result a conviction, based on their own observation, that complete prohibition is the only real solution.

Voters Say "No" To Liquor

Each year an increasing number of Americans decide the liquor question for themselves by making the liquor traffic illegal in their cities or counties.

These hard-headed American citizens seem to be coming out from under the delusions fostered by high-powered propaganda during the liquor-inspired fight on national prohibition.

They look around their own neighborhoods, mull over the easily visible effects of liquor on parents, on car drivers and on youth, and then they decide—as their parents were forced to decide early in this century—that the best means of liquor control is a resounding "no" at the ballot box.

Not much gets into the press about the number of wet-dry elections held each year in a score or more of states. The results of these elections are difficult to total; but, the best available statistics show that 12,400 elections have been held in local communities since repeal and, in 7,700 of these elections the drys have won.

In two states, South Carolina and Oklahoma, very definite results were shown. The liquor traffic tried unsuccessfully again, in Oklahoma, to repeal that state's constitutional prohibition. The state's citizens voted overwhelmingly dry. In South Carolina the voters by referendum ordered their legislature to pass a state prohibition law. South Carolina has tried post-repeal methods of control. Now its citizens say "Outright prohibition is the only answer."

Several states are reported planning attempts to secure outright prohibition, with church and temperance and welfare groups uniting for the fight against the well-financed liquor trade.

Groups like the W.C.T.U. quote history to show that, after Americans try all manner of legal regulation, they always return to complete prohibition as the only feasible answer to the evils of alcohol.

World's Problem.

Dr. Chas. M. Sheldon, in Johnson County. (Teen.) News.

There are a great many problems facing the human race at present, and a good many people are discussing them from the platform and in the press, and on the street, and there is a Babel of tongues that result in a great deal of confusion and make a great deal of noise without much real value.

There is the economic problem, the financial problem, the taxation problem, and to cap all, the war problem. The papers are full of all these problems and the "Morning Shudder" and "The Evening Depressor" take away the average citizen's appetite for breakfast and ruin his digestion for dinner.

For after all, the greatest problem in the world is the HUMAN PROBLEM. We will never have a better world until we have better people. And we will never have better people until the human race repents, turns around and goes the other way from the practice of hate and selfishness and greed, and begins to practice love and friendship and the Brotherhood of man.

Jesus paid no attention to human governments. He lived under the worst Totalitarian government called the Roman Empire, and he never mentioned it but twice. He spent His whole time teaching men how to behave. For CONDUCT is what makes history, not knowledge of science or sociology or languages or graduation from universities that have never taught the student to love anyone. And until the human race begins to live as Jesus lived and taught, we shall continue to have war and economic troubles and trouble of every sort.

I have been waiting all my life to hear some member of our Congress stand up in the Senate or the House in Washington and tell the members the truth about human conduct as Jesus taught it. I have never heard such a talk from any member of the Congress. They talk politics and economics and everything but CONDUCT. It is Human behavior that the world needs today, the behavior that loves instead of hates and believes in friendship instead of force. And until we have that sort of a human race we shall always have human trouble on earth. The greatest Human Problem is the "Human Problem."

And when that is settled all other problems will be settled.

Children's Home Is Deeded To Junior Order

Deed transferring all of the property of the orphanage plant of Children's Home at Lexington to the State Council of the Junior Order of North Carolina was authorized a few days ago by the National Council of the order, in session at The State Council has had control of the properties and been responsible for operation of the home at Lexington since early last year when the National Council decided to withdraw from maintaining the Lexington institution. It was necessary to wait for the biennial meeting of the national body.

A considerable delegation from North Carolina went to Washington to attend the national meeting, and received the deed for the $750,000 property. Among these was Supt. Robert Bruton, Carr M. Ward, John Baker and Leo Leonard from the local council. The next national meeting will be at Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

Oil For Japan.

According to the figures of the Federal Power Commission, we are sending Japan more oil than the United States used for fuel in 1939, and that in March, 1941, we sent Japan 50 per cent more oil than she got from us in 1940. The total United States oil consumption for 1939, our peak year, was 17,425,000 barrels. Our shipments to Japan last year amounted to 18,636,000 barrels.

Is it reasonable to suppose that Japan needs all this oil for current uses? Is it not more reasonable to suppose that much of it either finds its way to Germany, or that Japan is hoarding it against the day when it may be needed to furnish the power to strafe our own soldiers and seamen?

In the first place Japan is using much of it to fight China, our professed friend. In the second place, Japan, is an avowed supporter of the axis powers who are our potential enemies.

Then why this inconsistency. Is it because we are fraidy-cats?

It must be admitted that official Washington has a hard row to hoe. Time is an essential element in our preparedness program. We are not as ready as we would like to be to fight in two oceans. It is generally admitted that for Uncle Sam to shut off this flow of oil would be the signal for Nippon to head for the rich oil supply in the Dutch East Indies—and American oil companies have an equity there. For Japan to do that would mean shooting.

But it must be remembered that no longer than recently the Dutch refused to make the concessions Japan wrath. Then why should we be mealy-mouthed about it? And we are just as inconsistent in other directions. We are selling oil to Spain, to Portugal, to Finland, and in greater quantities than heretofore, greater than their conceivable needs. Government officials declare that they are watchful for leakages. Maybe so, but the American public is beginning to arch its brows.

It is to the credit of American far-flung oil interests that they have expressed the willingness to shut the supply the minute government says so. It begins to look like that time is about ripe. —Statesville Daily.

This Farmer Really Did It.

Charlotte—In case you've been too busy keeping up with the war and political jumping beans of Europe to watch for the aberrations of men, animals and events in the Carolinas, here's your Dizzy Digest with all the dope:

Southport officers arrested a farmer who took matters into his own hands and did what many a gardener probably has longed to do. He slew a neighbor's flock of 75 chickens.

The chickens, he said, kept eating his beans and so he took down his old shot gun with the avowed intention of showing 'em who was boss. In so doing he even went so far as to kneel at the side of the house of the owner where he blasted two red roosters and three hens which had sought refuge with the first bombardment. The owner was off fishing at the time of the fowl blitzkrieg.

Early Instinct
Women get an instinct for a home at an early age as witness 14-year old Doris Ahrens.

Doris won a $235 award at a Brevard store and said:

"I've been wanting a home for a long time, so I'll put the money on that as far as it will go."

The Record is only $1.00.

Little Business

We always have contended that the New Deal, although it professes to be for the small fellow, is in reality the chief enemy of little business. Certainly this was true under the NRA, when the Roosevelt Administration threw to the winds the anti-trust laws and gave official sanction to the monopolistic policies of big business, if it actually did not command such action.

Several years ago the Roosevelt Administration suddenly became enamored of the anti-trust laws and started a became enamored of the anti-trust laws and started a belated and, as it turned out, half-hearted effort to enforce them. Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold still is trying to enforce these laws but to hear some of the New Dealers talk about him you would suppose he was Public Enemy Number One.

Now the impact of the defense effort with its priority and price-fixing system—with the Administration turning its head when rates go up—again falls heaviest on little business. Indeed, numerous small establishments have been or are being crushed by their inability to obtain needed raw materials. Thus Peter R. Nehemkis, Jr., of the OPM's defense contract service recently was quoted as lamenting: "It is one of the profound ironies of our defense effort that its total effect may well be to obliterate the smaller enterprises from the American business scene."

Bread Upon The Waters

Unity and Sacrifice" is now the twin-cry of the New Dealers.

Most of the American people have laid aside their personal distaste for the New Deal and answered the call to unity. Today the country is not divided on the stated objective of the Administration's foreign policy—all aid to England short of war.

But where is this sacrifice that we hear so much about? Except for the patriotic draftees, who have even been asked to make a personal sacrifice? Certainly all the New Deal office holders are not making any sacrifice. They are carrying on nobly under the slogan "money and spending as usual."

Labor is encouraged not only to make no sacrifices but to demand gains. Business is granted its right to a reasonable profit. Payments to farmers are sharply raised. Every pressure group is having its inning.

Small wonder, then, that labor just can't believe it when the New Deal suddenly demands that they do not halt work on vital war materials. For eight long years, labor even more than the rest of the country, has heard nothing from the Government but speeches about what it deserves to GET. The New Deal has succeeded only too well in teaching the country its selfish slogan "how to RECEIVE."

Why should there now be any surprise that labor and the country has forgotten how to GIVE?

World Domination.

The following paragraph are words uttered by the late Theodore Roosevelt:

Our country calls not for the life of ease, but for the life of strenuous endeavor. The twentieth century looms before us big with the fate of many nations. If we seek merely swollen slothful ease—then the bolder and stronger peoples will pass us by and will win for themselves the domination of the world. Let us, therefore boldly face the life of strife, resolute to do our duty well, and manfully resolute to uphold righteousness by deed and by word; resolute to be both honest and brave, to serve high ideals, yet to use practical methods.

False Loyalty.

"Every industrialist who is loyal American admits that we are far ahead with our defense program."

This startling statement comes from Representing Adolph J. Sabath, Democrat, Chairman of the powerful House Rules Committee. He made it in a recent speech to the House in which he also said "no man ever lived who has tried harder to protect our institutions, protect our Nation and the democratic form of Government than our great President, Franklin D. Roosevelt."

The second statement has been challenged so often and so effectively that the less said about it the better. It is Mr. Sabath's attitude itself that interests and rather frightens us. It seems to be a form of the old rubber stamp attitude—"the king can do no wrong."

If the Democratic gentleman had used the phrase "loyal New Dealer" instead of "loyal American," his attitude could be dismissed as simply partisan. A loyal New Dealer might overlook the fact that the Navy says that it is 19 per cent behind in its receipt of airplanes, that the OPM has revealed a decrease in the number of warplanes manufactured in May, that Deputy Director Batt of the OPM has said:

"Certainly the officers of the War and Navy Departments are not satisfied with our progress. Certainly the officials of the Office of Production Management are not satisfied."

How could a loyal American be complacent about the lack of progress in our defense program, let alone "admit that we are far ahead" with it?

New Dealers are performing no service to our country when they imply that criticism of the defense effort is disloyal. This is a time for the yes-men to stay in their holes while real patriots realistically and objectively appraise our situation, irrespective of whose toes are stepped on.

Fork News Notes.

(Too late for last week)

Miss Annie Carter had as guests Sunday, Mrs. Sem Stonestreet, of Mocksville, Mrs. Clark Keller, of near Winston Salem, and Franklin Bailey, of Charlotte.

Dewey Aaron, of Elizabeth City, arrived Sunday to visit with Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Aaron. His family have been here visiting relatives for the past month.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hamilton, of Reeds, visited relatives and friends here Sunday.

Miss Mary Frances Hendrix has accepted a position in Winston-Salem.

An infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Hendrix was buried at Fulton cemetery July 5th, at 11 o'clock.

Mrs. Sam Carter, who has been so very sick, is reported to be improving now.

The supper and cake walk sponsored by Ascension Chapel on the night of July 4th, at the Community building, was quite a success. A nice sum of money was made to help furnish the new Sunday school building.

In 1940, the United States imported $2,263,000 worth of bleached cotton cloth from Japan.

Time To Clean House.

At long last, as the former Prince of Wales would say, the Roosevelt Administration has commenced to move against the Communists and other radical riff-raff who have seized control of a part of American organized labor.

But before we throw our hats into the air with full-throated cheers, we would like to see the New Dealers start moving against the Communist within their very own ranks—Communists and Communist sympathizers who hold places of power and trust in the Roosevelt administration. This has not yet happened, and until it does we shall not be convinced that the New Deal has washed its hands of Moscow's henchmen.

Out of many, many cases which could be cited, we mention but two. David Lasser, former president of the Workers' Alliance, several months ago, was placed on the WPA payroll at $4,400 a year. Lasser is notorious for his Communist sympathies. The Dies Committee has shown his Workers' Alliance was inspired in Moscow. He, himself, on expenses taken from the dues relief workers paid out of their meagerness allowances, several years ago journeyed to Moscow by special invitation to attend a celebration of the Red Revolution. He has been a particularly annoying agitator.

Yet this man, instead of being blacklisted by the Government, is placed on the payroll at $4,400 a year while Western Democrats complain bitterly to Ed Flynn that they cannot get jobs for the party faithful. It seems a Communist sympathizer has greater influence with the New Deal than any genuine Democrat.

What is worse, the Lasser appointment was stoutly defended by Howard Hunter, WPA Administrator, who refused to fire him in response to criticisms in Congress. In order to get Lasser off the payroll the House voted 131 to 88 that no part of the WPA appropriation could be used to pay his salary. Whether the Senate will concur remains to be seen.

The second case we have in mind is that of Bernard Aedes, who in 1934 was the Communist Governor of Maryland. A Maryland Communist candidate Aedes covered him on the United States House of Representatives at a salary. Certainly it was a Communist. How a Communist payroll appears a mystery.

This was discovered more than a week before this was written. The only action that has been taken so far is a request by the USHA chief for an investigation by the Justice Department. Meanwhile Aedes has not been suspended.

Yet the New Deal, carrying water on both shoulders, rails at labor leaders who fail to purge their ranks of Communists!—Ex.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

EMUEL F. PARTON
(Adapted Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK—The army could use a few top-flight Broadway playwrights, particularly those who have had war experience. But it already has its own David Belasco. War games, to condition our new army of 1,400,000 men for real combat now provide the utmost in dramatic realism. There are machines to simulate faithfully the screaming of Stuka bombers; there will be the roar of gunfire—with blank cartridges, of course; there will be parachute attacks, machine gunning from airplanes, and every possible device to keep the boys from forgetting that "they're in the army now."

Gen. Lesley James McNair, chief of staff of general headquarters, a small, keen, alert man who seems omnipresent in the army camps, is the impresario in this the army's biggest and most serious venture in applied theatricals. He has had long experience in war games and has convincingly portrayed them as invaluable rehearsals for the real thing, not only for the instruction imparted but for the unconscious, reflex conditioning of nerves and sensitivity to the now heightened tumult of war.

When the nucleus of a general headquarters staff was formed July 25, 1940, General McNair was put at the head of it. That subsequently placed in his hands the intensified and expanded war-training maneuvers, far exceeding anything ever before attempted, and last September he took over the entire training program of the rapidly increasing army.

It is regarded as an undertaking of the utmost importance and President Roosevelt recently promoted the army Belasco from major general to the rank of temporary lieutenant general. His knowledge of war is by no means confined to make-believe. He fought with the field artillery in France and won the U. S. Distinguished Service medal and the French Legion of Honor. He is a native of Minnesota and was graduated from West Point in 1904.

THIS writer went to the wedding of a young woman friend a few weeks ago. The bridegroom was a tall, loose-geared, bespectacled young man with an emerald-green and a thick, brownish hair. The bride told us he was a scientist. We should have known that he was Russell Varian, the inventor, with his brother Sigurd and several other associates, of the Klystron radio generator which American technicians say is better than anything the British have in their new plane-spotting system and which has made blind-flying, in fog or night, like a trip around the block in a baby-carriage.

Russell Varian worked his way through Stanford, odd-jobbing for the professors. His brother Sigurd was a flight captain with the Pan-American Airways on Mexican and Central American routes. One day Russell got a letter from Sigurd in which Sigurd said he was tired of ramming around in fog and night and they ought to get together and work out a radio beam which homing planes could really follow. Russell thought that was a good idea, so Sigurd brought him his savings of $4,000 and the boys set up a workshop at Halcyon.

Their facilities just wouldn't do. Dr. David L. Webster, head of the department of physics, at Stanford, provided a laboratory, a comely research associate of the university, but the university could provide no funds. Sigurd's $4,000 was depleted to $47. The young men came through. A representative of the Bureau of Aeronautics put them in touch with the Sperry Gyroscope Co. which hurriedly plunked down $25,000 and built a workshop for Russell in Garden City, Long Island.

Russell came to New York. His radio beam had guided him straight to Miss Jane Martinson, a comely research worker in biochemistry, niece of Miss Bessie Beatty of the current radio team of "Betty and Bill." It was a case of love at first sight on the part of both. Hence the wedding, just a fortnight later, in the East Nineteenth street residence of Adolph Berle, now occupied by Miss Beatty. Bride and bridegroom, both tireless hikers, had their outdoor togs ready for a long vacation and honeymoon tramp through New England.

Star Dust

By VIRGINIA VALE
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

TESTING'S under way at Paramount for "For Whom the Bell Tolls"; Charles Laughton, Akim Tamiroff and Oscar Homolka have been considered for the role of "Pablo," but the burning question is—who'll play "Maria"? It calls for beauty, but even more for the ability to act.

We hear that Paulette Goddard heads the list of the girls to be tested; seems as if it would be a superb piece of miscasting if she got the part. Ingrid Bergman's our choice—and the author's.

Ginger Rogers has signed for three years more with RKO; she's been there for eight years. She did "Flying Down to Rio" then, and her dancing with Fred Astaire in that little number made them our leading dance team in pictures. She wisely insisted, at last, on acting as well, and worked up to "Kitty Foyle," which she didn't want to do, we hear, but which proved to be her greatest success. She's just finishing "Tom, Dick and Harry" now, and they say around the lot that it's a worthy successor to "Kitty Foyle."

Orson Welles isn't making any announcements about his second picture for RKO Radio—he kept mum about "Citizen Kane" too, remember, and executives were pretty startled when they found out, too late, what it was all about and it looked as if they might have trouble if they released it. Instead of a trouble-maker, they had one of the best pictures of all time on their hands! Welles has admitted that he will write, produce and direct this new picture, and will star in it.

Joseph Pasternack, who guided Deanna Durbin through her successful screen career, has signed a contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer; it looks as if he might do for Kathryn Grayson what he did for Deanna.

Hollywood just didn't give a whoop about Victor Mature until he made a highly press-agented appearance in the New York stage success, "Lady in the Dark." He doesn't act much in the play, just looks tall, dark and handsome. Now it's announced that two motion picture companies want him; one, Twentieth Century-Fox, has bought half his contract. Victor Mature will feature him in two pictures a year. The first will be "Bowery Nightingale," co-starring with Alice Faye.

W. S. Van Dyke, the ace director, has been on active duty with the marine corps for the past year. Now he's returned to the Metro lot. And what do you suppose his first assignment will be? "The Female of the Species"—a long cry from the Marines!

Did you happen to hear "Man on the Street" on the "Manhattan at Midnight" radio show about a month ago? Within 24 hours after the sketch was presented five motion picture studios were after it. Paramount won out; Bing Crosby and Mary Martin will co-star. They've just completed "Birth of the Blues," with Carolyn Lee and Brian Donlevy.

People who've heard Bob Hope rave on the radio about Madeline Carroll have decided that he must know her well enough to get autographed pictures of the blonde star for them. She's on location in the West Indies, so they've been pestering him for the photographs. He doesn't mind; he just got a lot of her pictures, autographed them with his own name, and had them mailed.

ODDS AND ENDS—Wayne Morris got leave from the Navy Department to finish "The Smiling Ghost" for Warner Bros. before he became an ensign. . . . NBC is preparing a new series, "Boy Meets Band," for its singer-bandleader, Ted Steele, who used to be an NBC page boy. . . . Though Bing Crosby can't read a note of music, the boys in John Scott Trotter's band say he's a swell conductor. . . . Metro will push Marsha Hunt up the ladder as a result of her work in "Blossoms in the Dust." . . . Service men who want to and can see Hollywood stars broadcasting should apply to Charles Posner of the United Service Organizations.

Draft Lottery Set On July 17.

Washington, July 9.—Selective Service headquarters announced tonight that the lottery for newly registered men of 21 would be held here July 17.

A total of 750 numbers will be drawn. The largest number of men registered in any draft district was 66 in the Sparrows Point district of Baltimore.

Secretary of War Stimson will be invited to draw the first number from the same glass jar out of which thousands of numbers were taken in the draft lottery last October when priorities for service were determined among 16,500,000.

Stores Take Half Holiday.

Most of the Mocksville stores, with the exception of the drug stores, cafes and filling stations, are closing every Thursday afternoon during the months of July and August giving the clerks a half holiday during the hot weather, which is much appreciated by the salespeople. Only a few shoppers were on the streets last Thursday afternoon, and the town presented a Sunday appearance. Patrons of the stores are requested to do their shopping on Thursday morning.

Moses B. Brock.

Moses B. Brock, 86, retired farmer and member of one of Davie county's best known families died Thursday afternoon at his home at Farmington.

Surviving are the widow; two sons, B. C. Brock of Mocksville, former state senator; and John Brock of Columbia, S. C.; one daughter, Miss Margaret Brock, of Greensboro; one sister, Mrs. R. C. Brown, Farmington, and eleven grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at Farmington Methodist church Saturday morning at 11 o'clock, with Rev. J. W. Vestal, E. M. Avett and John Tabor conducting the services, and the body laid to rest in the Farmington cemetery.

Mr. Brock was one of Davie county's oldest and best known citizens, having spent practically his entire life in Farmington township. His passing has brought sadness to hundreds of friends throughout the entire community where he lived for so many years. To the bereaved wife and children, The Record extends sympathy in this hour of sadness.

Robert Caudle, who was hurt when a highway truck turned over over with him on July 5th, was able to return home Wednesday from Davis Hospital, Statesville.

Young Men Badly Hurt.

Mitchell Page, 20, and Floyd McSwain, Jr., 19, both of Cooleemee, are patients at Rowan Memorial Hospital, Salisbury, where they were carried in Walker's ambulance Sunday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. McSwain has a broken left arm and other injuries, while Page has a badly broken right leg and a broken jaw. Reports from the hospital Monday, said the young men were getting along as well as could be expected.

Page and McSwain were riding south on a motorcycle, with Page driving. A 1933 Chevrolet coach, driven by Charlie Dulin, Negro, and occupied by Clarence Bowman and L. B. Morgan, Negroes, all of Redland, was going north. The wreck occurred on South Main St., at the Lexington highway intersection. Dulin drove his car to the left of the highway to avoid a car, said to be a Ford V-8, which was coming out into the Mocksville-Salisbury highway from the Lexington highway. The motorcycle crashed into the side of the Chevrolet, damaging both car and motorcycle badly. Morgan received several painful cuts about the face. The other Negroes escaped injury. Dulin was placed under a $300 bond by Esq. P. S. Young for his appearance here on Aug. 11th, for trial.

Cornatzer Beats Jericho

The Cornatzer girls soft ball team celebrated the fourth of July by defeating Jericho girls 5 to 2. The line up for Cornatzer was as follows:

Kate Potts, catcher; Ursula Beck, pitcher; Pauline Bowens, 1st base; Ruth Foster, 2nd base; Johnnie Hendrix, 3rd base; Johnnie Bennett, short stop; Gertrude Hendrix, roving short; Margaret Hendrix, right field; Georgia Ellis, center field; Verdie Sue Ellis, left field.

Shoaf Rites Saturday.

Funeral services were conducted Saturday at 5 p. m., for Raymond M. Shoaf at Liberty M. E. church, with Rev. E. M. Avett officiating. Burial followed in Liberty cemetery.

Mr. Shoaf, who was 36 years of age, died at his home in North Cooleemee on Friday afternoon at 2 p. m., after a few hours of illness. He is survived by his widow, who was prior to marriage, Miss Nora Mundy. Also surviving are three brothers, Walter and Sherman, of Cooleemee, and Henry Shoaf of Mocksville, RFD No. 4. He was the son of the late Jesse Shoaf and the late Emma Foster Shoaf.

W. J. Foster.

William J. Foster, 78, of the Rock Springs community in Iredell county, died at a Winston Salem hospital Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock.

He had been seriously ill for a week. Funeral services were conducted at Rock Springs Baptist Church Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Interment was in the church graveyard.

Mr. Foster was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Foster and was a member of Rock Springs Baptist Church.

Mr. Foster is survived by two sons, Raymond F. Foster, Mocksville, R. 1, Austin Foster, Detroit, Mich., two daughters, Mrs. J. F. Johnson, Winston-Salem, and Mrs. L. A. Anderson, Harmony; 2 two brothers, S. A. Foster, Elkin, and N. T. Foster, of this city; two sisters, Mrs. Fannie Parker, Winston-Salem, and Mrs. Mary Peacock, Mooresville; one half brother, Charles Foster, Newport News, Va.; two half sisters Mrs. Steve Eldred and Mrs. Pierce Cartner, Harmony R. 1; ten grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

In the death of Mr. Foster Iredell county has lost one of her best citizens. He will be missed not only in his home community, but throughout this entire section. He had many friends in Mocksville and Davie county. Peace to his ashes.

Fry Reunion.

The annual Fry Reunion will be held at the home of Wes McKnight, 3 miles east of Farmington, on Sunday, July 27. All relatives and friends are invited. Dinner will be served at 12:30 o'clock.

NEWS AROUND TOWN.

E. G. Price made a business trip to Salisbury Wednesday.

Miss Amy Ratledge, of Calabash, was in town shopping Wednesday.

Mrs. W. C. Cooper is spending a week at the Presbyterian Assembly Grounds at Montreat.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Foster and Mrs. Ralph Kirkman were shopping in Winston-Salem Friday.

All persons interested in Oak Grove cemetery are requested to meet there next Friday morning to clean off same.

Mrs. Lucile Miller, of Philadelphia, is spending some time in this city, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Daniel.

Haynes Yates, who is stationed at Camp Blanding, Fla., is spending a 10-day furlough in town with home folks and loved ones.

We notice one of our editor friends is giving away five pounds of sugar to every subscriber who pays a year's subscription. We are afraid that editor is starting something that will be hard to stop.

Mr. and Mrs. George Rowland moved Thursday from the LeGrand house on Church street, to the Mealey house in South Mocksville, which they recently purchased from Mrs. Frank Clement.

H. L. Foster, of Statesville, was a Mocksville visitor Thursday. Mr. Foster wants to know if we ever heard of a snake milking a cow. Yes, we have heard of such a thing but have never seen it done.

Mrs. George Hendricks and daughter Miss Christine, returned last Tuesday from a visit to Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Moore, at Occoquan, Va. Mr. Hendricks went up Sunday and accompanied them home.

About 35 relatives and friends of the Brown's of Rowan county, gathered at the home of Misses Lilla and Cora Austin, on Wilkesboro street for reunion. A bounteous dinner was spread on the lawn and enjoyed by all present.

Joe Forest Stroud, who is stationed with Uncle Sam's flyers at Langley Field, Va., spent several days last week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Stroud, on Salisbury street. Joe Forest has been in the Air Corps for nearly four years, and likes it fine.

M. L. Williams, of near Kappa, was in town Friday and reports that he had open cotton blooms on Tuesday, July 8th. So far as we know, this is the first blooms reported in the county. Cotton is late this year, with not more than a half crop expected to be harvested this year.

Miss Annie Laurie Etchison, who holds a position as assistant librarian in the Cleveland, O., public library, and Miss Mary Cutler, who is also connected with a Cleveland library, are spending a month with relatives and friends in Davie and Forsyth county. Miss Etchison is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Etchison, of Cana.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Brown and little daughter, Peggy, spent 18 days on a vacation trip. They spent three days in Atlanta, Ga., then motored to Mobile, Ala., to visit the most beautiful gardens in the south. They came back through Kentucky to see the Mammoth Cave the Lincoln Memorial, and the Daniel Boone Cave. They spent eight days in and around Indianapolis, Ind., where Mr. Brown lived for ten years.

A large crowd was present Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock for the formal opening of the enlarged Davie Furniture Co. store, on the square. The owners of this modern and up-to-the-minute furniture store, gave away many valuable pieces of furniture and house furnishings to their customers. A number of out-of-the-county people were present for this occasion. Mayor Caudell made a short talk, welcoming the people to Mocksville on any all occasions, and congratulating the managers of this progressive store.

J. A. Mason, of Cleveland, R. I., was in town Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Berry Foster spent one day last week with Mr. and Mrs. Joel Daywalt.

Miss Marylene Foster, who holds a position in Washington, is spending some time with her mother, Mrs. Jesse Foster, near Jericho.

Mrs. H. S. Walker, who has been taking treatment at Davis Hospital, Statesville, was able to return home last week.

J. F. Smithdeal and son Curtis Smithdeal, of Winston-Salem, were in town Wednesday looking after some business matters.

There were 567 people on the square at one time last Wednesday afternoon. And yet some merchants say it doesn't pay to advertise.

W. L. Ellis, of R. 3, brought us some cotton blooms on Saturday morning which opened on July 10th and 11th.

Miss Nora Bracken, of this city, returned home last week from Greensboro, where she spent a week the guest of her sister Miss Ada Bracken.

Mrs. James Garwood, of R. 3, who underwent an operation for a brain tumor at Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, last Wednesday, is reported to be getting along as well as could be expected.

The Mocksville and Coolee mee business men staged a thrilling ball game at Lewis Field, Coolee mee, Friday evening. About 1,000 spectators were present to see the Coolee mee men defeat the Mocksville men by a score of 6 to 2. The game was sponsored by the Davie American Legion Post.

Mrs. C. R. Bowles and son Charles R. Bowles and wife, of Edna Texas, Mrs. Clara Spear, of Memphis, and Mrs. Florence Donnell, of New Orleans, spent a day or two last week in town, guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Meroney. Her husband was the late Chas. R. Bowles, of Davie county, who went west more than forty years ago. Mr. Bowles died about ten years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Jay Foster and daughter, Virginia were week end guests of Mrs. Foster's sister, Miss Polly Hodgson, of Hickory.

Misses Atha Howell, of Charlotte, Francis Riggsbee, of Chapel Hill and Howard Johnson, of Carboro were Sunday afternoon visitors of Miss Rachel Foster.

Baxter C. Link and Mrs. Bessie Schultz, of Jerusalem, were united in marriage Friday evening, July 4th, at the Methodist parsonage, with Rev. G. W. Fink officiating.

Kappa Club Meets.

The Kappa Club met Thursday, July 10, at the Community building, with 14 members present.
The meeting was called to order by the President, Mrs. Bruce Tureer. Devotionals were led by the President. Song, "It's a Good Time to Get Together." Minutes of last meeting were read and roll called by the Secretary, Mrs. Bill Smoot. Miss Macchie, our Home Demonstration Agent, gave a very interesting and helpful demonstration on using the pressure cooker in canning beans, also in preparing harvard beans. A reading on nutrition was presented by Mrs. Claud Cartier.
The Club voted to have a Community picnic supper August 1st, at 8 p. m., at the Community building. Everyone is invited to bring a picnic supper to spread together. After supper games will be enjoyed.
The meeting closed, using the Club Collect.

Sheffield News.

Mrs. Noah Ijames had the misfortune to fall and break her arm one day recently. Manley Martin and family have moved from the Charlie Richardson farm to Elkin.
Kelly and Clay, the little 10 and 12-year old sons of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Gaither, killed a copperhead snake Thursday that measured 47 inches in length.
Dwight Tutserow and family have moved from the Wade Smith dairy farm to the Center community.
Some thieves broke into the hen house of Henry Hill one night last week and carried away about 30 of his chickens. No arrests have been made but there is some suspicion.
The subject at the Gossip Club Saturday night was the labor shortage on the farm. Some of the ladies have offered to go to the field and work.

The Strumpet Sea

By BEN AMES WILLIAMS

They stood together, the gun on the desk between them, its muzzle toward the bolted door of the main cabin. Mary was in the recess between the desk and the rack of muskets, George at the end of the desk nearest the companion.

If Mat Forbes were alive, he did not even groan. If someone watched the cabin companion, his feet did not shuffle on the deck. If Peter was preparing to break in the cabin door, his preparations moved without a sound. The very silence had terror in it.

George had the bomb gun under his right hand. He held the revolver in his left hand. His eyes were on the companionway down which at any moment an attack might come. He looked now and then at the skylight; but the men on deck took care not to show themselves there, and minutes passed, and nothing happened, and he said at last, appraising their situation: "Peter won't want to fight us unless he has to. And maybe he told the truth about Richard."

"No, no."

"If he did, if they don't find Richard, they'll have to come back aboard and surrender. They can't get away from here without the ship. Peter could slip the anchor and get some sail on her and make out to sea and come back with a gunboat or something. So if they don't find Richard, Peter needn't worry."

"They will find him."

"I'm afraid Peter killed Richard, Mary."

"There was ice in her breast. 'No, George,' she whispered helplessly.

CHAPTER XIX

"If Richard is dead, then the ship is Peter's, and everything in her, and he'll be rich. Remember he was always thinking about how much money the ship and her cargo was worth, and the ambergris." He added soberly: "And—he may have known he was not Cap'n Corr's own son."

"How could he know?"

"His mother might have told him, when he was a boy. If he knew that, he could guess that Cap'n Corr had left everything to Richard."

"Peter worked on me from the time we left the island to make me hate Richard. I suppose he saw I was naturally jealous. He kept reminding me—how you used to feel about Richard; and when he thought he had brought me to the pitch, he gave me that letter. At least he put it in the pocket of Richard's coat and made me wear the coat and hoped I would find it there."

"Peter has always—wanted me, himself, George. He made love to me aboard here. Kissed me. Once Tommy Hanline saw him. Once I had to run and lock myself in. George, he even came to my cabin yesterday."

George said humbly: "I haven't been much protection for you, Mary." Mary touched his hand on the head gun, and his eyes met hers. He said slowly: "You've given me so much. I should have given, you more."

Her eyes burned with tears. "I'm going to take such care of you, make you so happy."

"Yes." He smiled at his own thought. "After we get out of this mess. We will."

Her hand tightened on his, smiling with him. They had never been so close as in this hour. After a moment he asked:

"How many men are there aboard? Do you know?"

"Just Peter and Rannels and Gee and Willie Leeper. And Mat, of course, if he's not dead."

"Four of them?" He chuckled. "Well, any one of them could pick me up and throw me overboard. Even old Willie. But I've a gun—use guns—and they haven't."

She said wonderingly: "I think you're enjoying this!" She smiled. "Rejoicing like a strong man to run a race. Isn't that in the Bible?"

"I'm not running a race, Mary."

He smiled. "Maybe I would if I could, but there's nowhere to run to."

"I wish we could know if they do find Richard."

George faced the companionway. He was not tired, not weak. The emergency had stiffened him; he meant to meet it if he could. But deep in his thoughts, George felt Mary's eyes upon him. His eyes met hers; and after a moment, gravely, not smiling, she came toward him. She came to him and kissed him. Then, while they both smiled, without words, they kissed again.

She returned to her post. Time passed. Mary kept her vigil at the window. George could see her leaning across the bunk, resting her hands against the vessel's sides, her face close to the small square pane.

Time somehow dragged itself away.

When Richard went ashore the day before, it was at Peter's suggestion. "Do you good to stretch your legs," the younger man urged. "You're going ship-crazy, Dick, the way you've acted since we passed the Rocks. What got into you? Mary?" He watched Richard shrewdly; but Richard without, answering looked down at the boats preparing to leave the ship's side. "I'm going to try for some geese," Peter said. "Come along. Better bring a club. The pigs might jump us. They're ugly sometimes."

A walk ashore offered some outlet for his bottled energy, so Richard took that iron-bound club made out of a harpoon shaft, and went with Peter. While the men were hauling the floating casks ashore, he and Peter approached the little pond; but the geese were somehow alarmed, and they rose and flew up the slope and settled again far up the ridge. Peter called Gee, and the three men started that way.

The tussock grass, at first short and scattering, then taller and thicker, high above their heads, received them. Richard plunged through it headlong, welcoming its tough resistance, forcing himself into it, wrestling his way with his shoulders and his head bowed. His broken arm, secured to his side, made him awkward at the business. He dragged the heavy club behind him, bending his head, charging through the tough stuff with its interlacing luxuriance like a bull.

That which happened came with no warning. Richard, breaking blindly through the grass, lunging and fighting through the mesh of it like a fish caught in a net, stepped into nothingness. He fell, turning over sickeningly in the air. He fell on his right side, shoulder and hip striking together, in shallow water and mud. The breath was knocked out of him, and he was stunned and shaken and for a little could not move. Then he rolled painfully on his back and felt something hard under his head and laid his hand on the shaft of the club he had carried. He got to his knees and stood up, gasping for breath; and his feet sank deeper in water and soft mire.

He realized suddenly that he was screaming like a maniac.

He looked up and saw the sky through a round hole five or six feet across, edged with grass, the long stuff broken by his fall hanging down into the hole. The hole was a full thirty feet above his head.

He called Peter's name, shouting it as loudly as he could with what breath his jolted lungs could catch; he shouted again and again, till he saw something move at the edge of the hole above him, saw Peter's head projected against the sky, heard Peter cry:

"Dick! Are you down there?"

"Yes."

After a moment Peter asked: "How deep is it?"

"Thirty feet, anyway. Maybe more."

"Can you climb out?"

Richard looked around, peering in the half-darkness of the pit; he walked two or three steps to one side, investigating. He tried for hand-holds, managed to climb a little; but he saw then, as his eyes became a little adjusted to the darkness here, that above his head the sides sloped inward toward the opening at the top.

He slid to the bottom again in a cloud of sooty dust. "No," he said. "It's shaped like the inside of a jug. The sides slant in to the top. You'll have to get a line, bring some men to haul me out."

"Be careful where you step," Richard warned him. "And make the men be careful when they come. Probably there are a lot of holes and pits around in the grass."

"That's not heavy enough. Bring some whale line from the ship."

Peter agreed. "Yes, I'd better. I'll be quite a while, Dick; but I'll make it quick as I can. Take it easy."

His head disappeared. Richard stayed where he was, looking up at that small opening so far above him, wishing Peter were still there. He could hear the grass rustling in the wind; but the sound was faint. He was wet, and he was cold. The shallow pool of water into which he had fallen was directly under the opening, in the deepest part of the pit. He sat down at one side of it, plucking at the powdery gray-black ash with his hand, rubbing it between his fingers. It broke into a light dust that rose into his face and made him sneeze; but it stuck to his wet hands in a slimy smear. He shivered with a sudden chill, and wished Peter would hurry. This place had an unpleasant odor, vaguely alarming. Twenty minutes for Peter to reach the shore, ten minutes to the ship, ten minutes back to the shore again; say an hour in all before help would come. Richard did not like his plight. There was something terrifying in this prison into which he had fallen; in the stale, sick smell of it. He tried to estimate how long Peter had been gone. Five minutes? Ten? He sought to count off sixty seconds, and caught himself hurrying the count; so he began to beat time with his hand, tapping his knee rhythmically. It took a long time to count sixty seconds. There were sixty minutes in an hour. To count sixty seconds sixty times would need an eternity.

It must be at least half an hour since Peter left. Richard warned himself to be conservative; he called it twenty minutes. In an excess of caution, he decided it was only fifteen. If he began to expect Peter too soon, waiting would be hard. A rain squall drifted across the sky, and a few drops pattered on the still surface of the pool with little tinkling sounds, almost musical. He liked them. They were company. They banished the dreadful silence here. Peter must have reached the boats by this time. Probably the men were just sliding a boat into the water, shipping their oars. Peter would drive them, make them hurry.

Richard sat down again, forcing himself to relax, to stop thinking about Peter. Peter would get here as soon as he could. Richard lay down on his back, his arm under his head, watching that hole above him, and the gray sky from which rain again descended. A man watching that hole, waiting and waiting for the head of a rescuer to appear, could go crazy. Richard dragged his eyes away from it.

He studied the inside of his prison, forcing himself to wonder about its origin. The fire which dug this hole in the peat must have burned for years, eating its way down, and down till it came to hard pan. He asked himself, aloud: "Why didn't rain put it out?"

He wondered how long a man would live in this wet cold that bit his bones. The thought made him shiver, and he got up to warm himself again. Everywhere the soft ash under his feet was honeycombed with the little mice of fire that had eaten tunnels in it; and his feet sank into it halfway to his knees. He hated the feeling, stopped walking, beat his chest with his arm.

Richard thought he would be glad to leave Hoakes Bay forever.

Now and then, in the back of his mind, like a watching, beckoning figure, Mary appeared. He shut his thoughts against her. He must put her out of his mind, keep her out of his mind. Forever.

Peter would come soon. Surely he would come soon.

Richard decided they might even now be hunting for him, up there. He began to shout.

He realized suddenly that he was screaming like a maniac; and he stopped in shame at himself, and controlled his voice, and thereafter he hallooed almost decorously, at regular intervals.

But now he watched the opening above him without respite, never taking his eyes away from it.

It must be an hour since Peter left him here. He refused to admit to himself that more than an hour had passed. When the sky grew darker; he argued desperately that this was merely a thickening of the clouds.

That was not merely a thickening of the clouds, above him. It was dusk. Night was coming on. It had been early in the afternoon when he fell into the pit; so now he must have been here five hours or six.

In any dreadful crisis, a man must make for himself a formula. Richard had no illusions about Peter; but to believe that Peter had returned about the "Venture" and sailed away, leaving him here in this pit to die, would mean quick madness and despair. Richard was of that breed of man which does not despair; which does not surrender.

He found a formula. He decided to believe that Peter, on his way back to the ship, had fallen into a pit like this one. He decided to believe that Peter too was a prisoner. The men must be hunting for them now. Night was coming on; but good Mat Forbes would keep the men hunting all night.

THE RESPONSIBILITY OF THE CHURCH REGARDING BEVERAGE ALCOHOL

LESSON TEXT—I Corinthians 5:9-13; Titus 2:1-3. GOLDEN TEXT—Ye are the salt of the earth.—Matthew 5:13.

The church has a grave responsibility regarding alcoholic beverages, but in recent years it has largely failed to meet it with intelligence and enthusiasm. Let us never forget that the first business of the Christian and of the church is to preach the gospel, winning men to Christ. It is not our calling to attempt by social or economic methods to right the wrongs of this world. Nor is ours a "social gospel" with the emphasis on "social." But have we forgotten that it is a gospel with serious social implications and responsibilities?

The man, and the church, who follows Christ should be vitally concerned about every influence in American life which is destructive to character, and right at the top of that list stands alcohol. To meet this gigantic (and growing) problem effectively the church must be:

I. Separated From Sin (I Cor. 5:9, 10).

A church living in careless worldliness has no testimony against the sin round about it. In fact, its influence is definitely on the wrong side. The Christian is to be in the world, but not of it. He must live with the sinners, but he must never by word or deed, or even by his presence in the wrong place, seem to condone their sin nor fellowship with them in it.

Here we have one of the horrible weaknesses of our day. Men and women who profess to follow Christ (whether they really do, only He can judge) indulge in a social glass of wine, or sip a cocktail "for the sake of courtesy," or attend gatherings which are obviously non-Christian or anti-Christian. If there is to be effective dealing with any problem—with the liquor problem—we must have separated Christian living.

II. Cleansed of Wicked Persons (I Cor. 5:11-13).

Even a "man that is called a brother" (v. 11) may not be one at all, but may be a "wicked person" (v. 13). We are not able to judge any man's spiritual experience. His relationship to God is a matter between him and God, but if, in his life, he shows himself persistently to be on the side of wickedness, it is the duty of the church to have him "put away from among" them (v. 13).

We can only judge a man by his actions, but we are required to do that for the sake of the purity of the church and the effectiveness of its teaching. This is not to be done in self-righteousness, but in humility and with the constant effort to restore such a one (Gal. 6:1). But it should be done. We are woefully weak in the matter of church discipline, and it shows in the inability of the church to do valiant service for God and country.

III. Intelligent in Doctrine (Titus 2:1-3; esp. 1, 7, 8).

To be informed is to be wise, able to plan properly, balanced in judgment and action, useful and effective. Fundamentally every problem of life finds its solution in a proper knowledge of the doctrines of the Christian faith. It is of great importance that we have information about the liquor traffic, about the dreadful results of the use of alcohol, etc. Helpful material on such subjects is available, and the sources are known to ministers and Christian workers. However, we must hold and use this information in relation to Christian truth if it is to be fully useful. A temperance worker without Christ in his own life and in his labors against liquor is weak, lacking the real solution and the dynamics to proclaim it effectively.

IV. Consistent in Life (Titus 2:1-3, esp. 2, 5, 7).

It is what we are that speaks so loudly that folk do not pay any attention to what we say. This passage clearly states the fact that both young and old, both men and women—yes, even the preacher (v. 7)—are to present before the world the undeniable teaching of a consistent Christian life.

Read the exhortations of these verses again with great care and apply them first to your own life, and then to your own church. What great Christian graces we have here! Note that again and again here is the admonition to temperance. No user of intoxicants can be sober, temperate, discreet, chaste, sound in faith, and so on.

The writer of these notes is convinced that the only consistent position for the Christian (individually or in the church) to take regarding alcoholic beverages is that of total abstinence for himself and the legal elimination of temptation from others.

Household Hints

Window screens may be washed with a hose.

When frying don't put in the article to be fried until the fat is still and a faint smoke is seen rising from the pan.

Add about a third of a cup of cooked crisp bacon to the regular muffin batter. This addition makes a delicious muffin.

To improve the flavor of stewed prunes, cook a slice of lemon and a cinnamon stick with them. A speck of salt added to any fruit sauce helps bring out the flavor.

Youngsters Need No Stimulants!

A born idiot has dignity, but one artificially created by alcohol has none, Angelo Patri wrote recently in a column for young people. Writing for the Bell Syndicate, he said: "The reforming of grown people never interests me. If we teach children what is good for them and do our best to protect them from evil we will not have too many adults to reform. That is why the cocktail hour that offers stimulating drinks to young people in their late 'teens and early 20's seems so dangerous to me. "Young people are stimulated by the wine of youth. There is no drink as heady as that with which nature has stimulated them. It takes all

Meet A BEAUTY PARLOR

A W. C. T. U. Temperance Poster they have to keep an even balance without taking on additional stimulation in the form of a cocktail. "The afternoon gathering and the need for relaxation and gaiety are set in the day's routine by nature. Cocktails are not nature's way of relieving the situation and we who are in any way responsible for the welfare of young people should be quick to save the situation by providing the needful elements without falling back on stimulants. "Music will help tremendously provided it is selected with an eye to its effect. Tea is a good stimulant. A good drink—tasty, sparkling, snappy—can be made by combining tea, fruit juices and ginger-ale. It can be lovely in color and when served in dainty glasses is quite as attractive as any cocktail. It will smell better and taste as good and it will do its work without robbing youth of its charm and its brains. "A body without its mind is an awful sight, especially when that body is usually occupied by an intelligent, able mind. . . . It's an awful sight and one no young person would wish to imprint on friends' memories."

Drink, Drive, Die!

Very few Americans would get into an automobile driven by a "doped up" driver. Yet, scientific leaders time and again have labeled alcohol "a dangerous poison and a narcotic." There were 32,600 motor vehicle deaths in 1939 and the National Safety Council, disinterested authority, says Drinking Drivers or Picked Pedestrians are involved in one out of four fatal accidents. That would seem to make liquor—beer, wine or spirits—a factor in 8,150 deaths. The reason, according to authorities, is that a drink or two puts the nerves and brain to sleep, dulling thinking, blurring vision, lessening hearing, and confusing reactions. Prof. H. L. Hollingworth of Columbia University and Dr. Walter R. Miles of the Carnegie Nutrition Laboratory in Boston recently made separate laboratory tests of the effects of small quantities of alcohol which showed definite results in narcotizing of nerve centers. The highway and city street death toll is the reason for a mounting demand that government "keep the drink out of the driver or keep the driver out of the car." It is one major reason why the Grange, some states have demanded that no tavern be licensed to sell city-areas. It is the reason for strong sentiment against curfew service of alcoholic beverages. It is one of the strongest proofs that the public pays more than money for its relegalized liquor traffic. The W.C.T.U. reminds that the original word "narcotic" was almost identical with the root word for "snare" and "noose". That

(Davie Record, July 24, 1918)

John Dodd is quite ill, and it is feared he has pneumonia.

Mrs. J. W. Bailey is dangerously ill with pneumonia, and but little hope is entertained for her recovery.

Mrs. Alice Wilson is seriously ill and her friends are very much concerned over her condition.

Misses Annie Hall and Hazel Baity, of Winston-Salem, are visiting relatives and friends here.

A protracted meeting is in progress at Advance Baptist church, with Rev. V. M. Swain, of Winston-Salem doing the preaching.

The little three-months old son of Dr. and Mrs. T. T. Watkins, of Advance, died Saturday of colitis, and was buried Sunday.

Private Paul Holton, of Camp Jackson, spent Saturday night with his parents on R. 2. Paul says he has gained ten pounds since entering the army.

Frank Hargrave, a prominent citizen of Lexington, and a kinsman of J. L. and C. A. Clement, of our town, died Saturday morning, following a week's illness.

Lewis Ward, of Advance, has returned to Camp Dix, N. J., after spending several days with home folks.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Peebles and children, and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Peebles, of Advance, spent Friday in Charlotte.

Mrs. R. N. Barber and Miss Leonora Taylor returned Friday from Salisbury, where they attended the Baptist Woman's Missionary meeting.

The new Baptist church is almost completed and will be ready for occupancy in a few weeks. It is one of the prettiest churches in this section of the country.

J. L. Keller, of R. 1, was in to see us Friday. Mr. Keller leaves tomorrow for Camp Hancock, Ga., where he will be in the service of Uncle Sam.

Miss Ruth Rodwell arrived home Thursday from Winston-Salem, where she has been visiting friends and relatives. She was accompanied home by Miss Dixie Rodwell, who will spend some time as her guest.

The Smoking Girl.

Rev. Walter E. Isenhour, Hiddenite, N. C. One of the most disgusting and sickening sights that we behold today is to see a girl smoking cigarettes. Somehow we always feel that it is very unbecoming to her; that it is lowering to her ideals; that it is a mighty pull on her womanhood and virtue; that it is, or ought to be beneath her dignity. She indeed seems absolutely out of her place. The best of people consider it so. They think of her as stepping over into the masculine realm and forming a habit that belongs only to man, and should not be formed even by him.

The smoking girl can never be at her best in life. The cigarette preys upon her health, her strength of character, her morals and her spirituality. No girl should ever form the cigarette habit. She shortens her life when she does, and certainly robs herself of life's best in different ways. Her offspring will come into the world sickly and weakly, to a greater or less degree, and she thereby helps to curse her own children. Girls addicted to the cigarette habit certainly are unfit for motherhood. In fact they are unfit for wives. They cannot make a home happy, peaceful and joyous because they are unfit for the duties and responsibilities that belong to home life.

One of the greatest curses of American womanhood today is the cigarette habit. It is helping to undermine and destroy the morals of our nation. So often the cigarette-smoking girl forms other bad habits. She drinks beer, dope and liquor. She becomes adulterous. She so weakens her moral resistance and will power with the poisonous cigarette until she falls an easy prey to the lust of men. She is easily led in the wrong direction which may mean her defeat and eternal doom. How deplorable the day when girls began the injurious, ungodly, unbecoming, depraving cigarette habit.

How can America stand when she is poisoning her youth—both boys and girls—with cigarettes and liquor, and leading them into every kind of vice that is degrading and destructive? When the womanhood of a nation is destroyed it can't survive many years. Some mighty catastrophe must befall her. God pity our American womanhood, and God pity our nation.

"Defense" Secretary.

A mystery has developed in the capital over the exact status of Mrs. James Helm, social secretary to the President's wife, and why she was paid out of "defense" funds.

Officials were at a loss to explain why she was paid out of "defense" funds.

Officials were at a loss to explain why Mrs. Helm as social arbiter of the Executive Mansion was essential to the rearmament program. But it was well established that Mrs. Helm was classified as a "defense" employee of the Government and paid out of the President's "emergency" funds for defense. Congress has given Mr. Roosevelt "blank checks" totaling $25 million dollars in such pocket funds.

The President's personal staff disclaimed responsibility for Mrs. Helm as a "defense" worker, knowing as they did that many of the White House employees are kept on payrolls of various other departments or agencies in order to keep within the White House appropriations.—Chicago Tribune.

Just Work; That's All.

July's oratory is past; the speech-makers who swore on July Fourth that America will never be invaded, and so on, have put their hair up again and are now figuring on the family reunions and some watermelon cuttings.

Their talk there will be of the crops and poor Bill, how he went so suddenly, and my, how you've grown. There will be no mighty flights of speech until Armistice day celebration. Thanksgiving will bring out some talk clothed in humility but no flag waving and breast beating.

Then, what is there to do until November 11? There's plenty.

There are crops to be cultivated and harvested, weapons to be forged, ships to be built. We must fill the national granary and pantry, collect the gear of defense, maintain upon mountain of it. That all means work and nothing else.

It's just as well that we have a breathing, working spell and forget the rousements for a while. No speech ever won a war. The Old South had orators sprinkled all over it, never excelled, but it lost a war. The most rousing oration never sprouted a grain of corn nor put a patch on a pair of pants. Pretty speeches never generated enough power to fire a popgun.

Just work; that's all, and more and more of it from now until November 11. Working, we may be able to celebrate the next fourth of July and regale ourselves with the stirring words of the orators.—Charlotte Observer.

Farmer Wants Equality.

"It's equality the farmers want," said Fred S. Sexauer, president of the Dairyman's League Cooperative Association of New York, recently. "Equality in return for labor and hours; equality of sacrifice by labor and industry; equality of opportunity to do their part for their country; equality in the knowledge that their government is requiring of other that which farmers are willing to give—long hours, hard work, great sacrifice."

The farmer, in short, asks that all be treated alike in this emergency. No less than labor, he is entitled to a return for his work that is commensurate with rising costs and increased overhead. Common fairness dictates that.

Little Stingers

(From The Yellow Jacket)

All this speculating on the Hess case reminds us of a dog chasing his tail—there's lots of motion but no progress.

If you dare to question some phase of President Roosevelt's foreign policy, you are nothing but an appeaser.

In the old days we used to debate on which came first, the chicken or the egg. We know the answer now. Neither—it's the New Deal tax collector.

Among the other things that this World War has given the country is a 50 per cent decrease in the birthrate of Germany.

Sixteen months more and a Congressional election will be upon us and the crying need of a Republican Congress was never so great.

If you want to concentrate on your cussings for a lifetime in tabloid form just say Hitler. That stands for everything bad.

A Question—who was it that instigated the plan of paying for things not produced and hiring men to leave their fields uncultivated?

It's a peculiar situation. For instance, if a man wears his Americanism straight, a pack of bellowing critics will insist that he is "crooked."

Think of the tanks and planes and guns and powder that have been boon-doggled away. It's enough to make chills run down the back of a brass monkey.

It is our opinion that if you could go and turn hell upside down and look at the bottom of it you would find written there on the bottom the words "Made in Germany."

It has come to pass now that you can't repeat what the Democrats said a few years ago. If a man does, he would be denounced as giving aid and comfort to the enemy.

FSA Gardens Geared To Defense Plans.

Sight of more big, well-protected gardens in Davie County this summer and fall will mean not only increased security for farm families here, but also participation in the Department of Agriculture's "Food for Defense" program. Elizabeth Taylor, home management supervisor for the Farm Security Administration, said today.

"Today food is a defense weapon," she said. "The Department of Agriculture is supporting prices for hogs, butter, chickens and eggs to insure adequate supplies of the food needed by threatened democracies. A program to expand production of tomatoes for canning to meet probable demands under the Lease-Lend Act is already underway. It may be that peas, corn and beans will be purchased by the government later on."

Good records made by FSA borrowers the past years in making the farm feed the family should be greatly exceeded this year, Miss Taylor said. Even though families may not be in an area where they can sell vegetables to commercial canners, they will contribute to defense when they can sell vegetables to commercial canners, they will contribute to defense when they insure a year-round food supply for themselves, releasing other food supplies for our army and navy and democracies resisting aggression. The FSA office, located in the Court house building, in Mocksville, is anxious to help borrowers enlarge their garden plans, including late plantings for fall storage.

Buy From Registered Salesman.

According to information received from the office of Thad Eure, Secretary of State, Raleigh, fake salesman are evidently at large in this State and possibly have already or will make their appearance in this section to offer stocks, etc., which perhaps are worthless, or a risky buy for any citizen.

The statement issued from the office of the Secretary of State, follows:

"Information reaching this department indicates that there is much activity in the rural sections of the State on the part of strangers who are offering various types of oil leases, stock in cemeteries, etc., in exchange for securities held by our citizens.

"From inquiries and complaints received by this office and from investigations made, I believe it can be fairly estimated that in this State three out of every four victims of unscrupulous securities salesmen are farm folks. Many victims hesitate to complain for fear of appearing ridiculous, but my experience convinces me that a few resentful and energetic victims are more effective than anything that could be done to curb this activity.

Every person engaged in the business of selling securities in this State is required to be registered with this department, either as a dealer or a salesman. Every registered salesman is given a small registration card which sets forth his name of the dealer employing him, the date of issuance and expiration. This card is signed by the Secretary of State, Thad Eure, who is ex-officio Securities Commissioner in North Carolina. Therefore, prospective investors should first request the salesman to produce this card. Examine it and be sure it has not expired. If the salesman cannot produce his registration card, obtain his name and address if possible, and forward same to this department, together with a brief account of the circumstances involved. Never purchase a security from a salesman who cannot produce this registration card."

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK—A few years ago, Anita Loos' maid used to deliver to her every day a dash of gopher dust from Harlem. We haven't heard whether she still goes on, but the charm seems to be still working. All goes well as "Blossoms in the Dust" gets warm, almost fulsome from the critics. Miss Loos did the screen play for Ralph Wheelwright's story. It taps deep founts of tears and ranges far from Miss Loos' "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," and its Lorelei Lee, the alluring and unabashed gold digger of 1925. It's one of those "where are they now?" stories, with Miss Loos sitting pretty, literally and figuratively, as a deft, swift, workmanlike story adapter, scientist and remodeler in Hollywood—one of the best.

The pint-size girl with bangs—weight 37 pounds, height four feet, eleven inches—was riding on the train from California to New York in 1925, considerably bored. She started writing up this goldigger Lorelei, with a soft-stub pencil, in big, round letters. The manuscript strung along clear through Kansas and Indiana and on to New York, and was almost as big as Miss Loos, what with those big rope-trick letters, when she landed here.

It brought her something over $600,000. It was translated into virtually every language except Eskimo and pigeon-talk, and in England its sales passed those of any other American book. She later wrote "But Gentlemen Marry Brunettes."

Her talent for humor may have been inherited from her father, a country newspaper publisher and humorist of the Bill Nye school, of Sissons, Calif., where Miss Loos was born. She was a shy, quaint little thing, hanging around the newspaper shop, helping polish up a gag or feed the fatted. When she was 14, she sent a story to the New York Morning Telegraph. They printed it. A year later David Griffith sent for a girl who had sent a scenario which had set his assistants to whooping joyously.

"What can I do for you, my child?" he asked when the tiny girl with bangs and pigtailed came in. The Loos girl showed him her summons to Hollywood. There she was and is. In the years between she had become a pretty good actress, appearing in San Francisco and other California cities.

JUST a year ago, Roger L. Putnam, go-getting mayor of Springfield, Mass., was much in the news with the Putnam plan to break bottlenecks in industry. He caught the nation's attention by his success in achieving co-operation among the city, industry and labor, the most important detail of his formula being the training of labor by the city, to fit specific needs. He's in the news as Springfield's defense director with some snappy suggestions about the swift and effective integration of civilians and officials, and private and public facilities. His successful battles with two floods and a hurricane give weight to his words.

He's Harvard, 1915, did a P.G. stretch at M.I.T., worked at engineering and was in the navy in the World War. In the navy he learned to crochet cord belts, an art which he still practices, and Putnam-made belts are in great demand among his friends. He is the father of three boys and three girls, 48 years old, stocky in build, but quick-moving both in person and speech. He is president of the Package Machinery Co.

More and more management, as above, is coming to the top, as against finance. Note James Burnham's new book, "The Managerial Revolution,"—malign over there, still benign over here.

A WIZARD in electrometallurgy is Dr. Francis C. Frary, who explains the exact uses to which aluminum pots and pans may be put in expediting defense. Since 1918 he has been director of the research laboratories of the Aluminum Company of America at Keystone, Pa. His work made possible over 2,000 uses of aluminum. He was schooled at the University of Minnesota and the University of Berlin. He then taught for seven years and became an industrial research worker in 1915.

Getting Ready to Take on 'All Comers'

These are days when many nations are preparing against invaders. At the right, British soldiers are shown jumping a trench during a theoretical attack, and the upper picture, which was made in Northern Ireland, shows the men going through a barbed wire entanglement. With Holland in Nazi hands, Netherlands Indies soldiers are ready to fight for the Pacific islands. At left, Indies artillery men are handling an anti-aircraft gun while wearing gas masks.

The king and his party took to the hills when Nazi parachutists invaded Crete, finally boarding a ship for journey to Egypt.

Hot? Look at This and Cool Off

Usually the month of July is the year's hottest, and snow is just so much "wishful thinking." But here we see Marianne Newton (left), U. of Utah senior; Wanda Pratt, U. of Arizona student; and Barbara Kollin, U. of California sophomore, reversing the order of things by shoveling July snow at Cedar Breaks national monument high in the mountains of Utah.

Released

Private Papers Of a Cub Reporter

J. Edgar Hoover and the G-Men received great acclaim from all sources for rounding up those spies . . . Some congressmen, however, showed their appreciation by killing the wire-tapping bill—designed to make things easier for the G-Men in espionage cases . . . What's the matter with them? . . . Afraid they'll hurt the civil liberties of a few spies and kidnapers?

Many of the papers now praising the G-Men for their efficiency in rounding up the spies are the same ones that found fault with the G-Men a short time ago . . . And you were a G-Man's stooge if you defended the FBI.

From page 187 of William Shirer's best seller, "Berlin Diary": "Representative Ham Fish seems to have been completely taken in by Ribbentrop, who gave him an airplane to rush in to the Inter-Parliamentary meeting in Scandinavia." Boy, that sure explains a lot of things.

By all means read the article on Wheeler and Roosevelt in the July 15 Look . . . While Wheeler goes around the country wrapping himself in the flag and rapping the President by using all kinds of idealistic arguments—this article proves that the whole thing is strictly personal . . . And get this: The reason Wheeler sneers at everything the President does—according to the article—is that Mrs. Wheeler doesn't like the President!!!

Everett Roeder, one of the alleged spies rounded up by the G-Men, had an important job at the Sperry Gyroscope company—which manufactures some of our most vital defense material . . . When that company was first given defense contracts, we pointed out (in the column and on the air) that Nazi agents worked there . . . It has taken more than a year to confirm these allegations.

Congressman Coffey introduced a resolution in congress to stop the sale of oil to Japan . . . Just the other day we gave some oil to Vichy, but if we send any oil to Britain, we are trying to get the country into the war.

With typical stupidity, Virginia Gayda is giving away Nazi plans . . . The other day he boasted that if Germany whips Russia, they will have air bases near Alaska, and will be able to bomb the Western hemisphere . . . Of course, the appeasers refuse to believe that anything like that can happen.

Or maybe they know they can stop bombs from hitting their homes by making certain kinds of speeches now.

A bored gal buttonholed a stag at the Stork Club bar and begged him to crash the table where she sat with her kluck. "He's boring me with his monologue," she wept. "He's repeating himself like a day-time radio commercial."

From F.P.A.'s Column: "New names for this and new names for that. How about the America Last Committee?" How about getting it first? And don't WHOM me!!!

A Lexington Avenue motorist jammed on his brakes two inches from a jay-walker and cursed him to a cinder. "Gwan, you ape," the pedestrian squealed, "the last generation of your family was menacing people with coconuts instead of cars."

F.D.R. freezing Axis dough over here panicked lots of the well-heeled refugees . . . The allotment of $500 a month to everybody is going to cramp their style, shoo them out of the luxury hotels and hamper them from picking up cafe checks. But if they think their money has been frozen, wait'll they see the expressions on the faces of some of their fair-weather friends.

Notes of an Innocent Bystander:

The Big Parade: Ex-Heavyweight Champion James J. Braddock, now a soda water emir, making the rounds of the midtown joints and grills to peddle his product . . . District Attorney Dewey boarding a taxi near the Biltmore as cabmen gape in awe . . . Spencer Tracy and Paul Muni, a couple of Hollywood-wiseguys, looking like any other two "out-of-towners"—ha, ha!

Sallies in Our Alley: One of the Broadway health-seekers was floored by the 90 per cent humidity . . . "Whew," he complained, "it's so hot I can't stand it under my sun lamp!" . . . An actress opened in a new show and was slapped with so many summonses and attachments on her first pay night that she thought it was snowing . . . Overheard description of a midtown magazine editor: "He's so yellow he could sell the streak up his back for a caution signal."

FIRST AID TO THE AILING HOUSE

Moldy Window Frames

QUESTION: In my new house the varnished wood of the windows has started to turn dark, and mold or mildew has formed on them. How can this be prevented? In repainting the windows, should all varnish and mold first be removed? How?

ANSWER: You will probably find that the water that causes the mildew comes in through cracks around the outside putty. On new work putty is very likely to separate from the wood frame in the course of hardening. Your first move should be to close these cracks which can be done with a coat of paint. Take off the inside varnish with varnish remover; the mold should go with it. If it does not, scrub with steel wool wet with a disinfectant. Follow by rinsing with clear water, and allow to dry thoroughly before revarnishing.

Cold Air Intake

QUESTION: We are confronted with the problem of how large a cold air intake our hot air furnace requires in order to give the maximum amount of heat throughout the house. There is a screened opening on the right side of the furnace, but since we were not getting enough heat, we decided to have another opening made on the other side of the furnace. There is no noticeable improvement. Can you make any suggestions?

ANSWER: Air taken from outside the building should have a cold air duct area not less than 80 per cent of the total area of the warm air leaders. If the cold air supply is obtained by recirculation from the building, the area of the cold air return pipe must be at least equal to the sum of all the warm air leader pipes. It would be advisable to have a reliable heating man check the heating capacity of the furnace, the heat supply ducts and the outlets.

Rough Cement Floor

QUESTION: Is there some simple, inexpensive way to resurface my rough cement floor in the cellar? The finish is somewhat like a sand-foat plaster finish.

ANSWER: A floor grinding machine, of the type used by terrazzo floor contractors, can be used to smooth down the surface. Get an estimate on this method from your local terrazzo and tile man. A topping coat of portland cement could be laid over the present floor after properly preparing it for the new cement. The Portland Cement association will gladly send you a bulletin on this subject, on request. The New York office is at 347 Madison avenue; the Chicago office at 33 West Grand avenue.

Wooden Fruit Bowls

QUESTION: I have seen some fancy fruit bowls made of woodware in some of the department stores. They have a high gloss finish. What material is used to finish the bowls in this way, and how is it done? I have some unfinished bowls that I should like to finish in this way.

ANSWER: Get a smooth surface on the wood by rubbing it with fine steel wool or very fine sandpaper. Wipe off the dust with benzine, being extremely careful of fire. Finish with two coats of a good quality, quick-drying varnish. Pull the gloss of the first coat, when dry, by rubbing lightly with very fine sandpaper; wipe off the dust, then apply the finish coat.

Hardened Paint Brushes

QUESTION: Please advise the best method to restore paint brushes that were allowed to dry hard and have been unused for two years.

ANSWER: To remove hardened paint from a brush, soak in paint remover. Or, you can use any one of a number of brush cleaning compounds on sale at paint and hardware stores. Brushes in which paint has hardened will not be satisfactory for fine painting. The bristles usually lose elasticity and form.

Lining a Cabin

QUESTION: In finishing the inside of a summer cabin, I plan to attach panels and composition board directly to the studding. Would it be wise to put tar paper underneath?

ANSWER: Rather than tar paper I should prefer to use heavy roofing felt, for it is not so brittle. This lining will make the walls more wind-proof and be a protection against moisture.

Brick Sun Porch

QUESTION: Inside our sun porch the walls are red brick, like the outside bricks of the house. I should like to paint the brick walls inside the porch in an ivory color. What kind of paint should I use?

ANSWER: Casein paint or a cement paint would be suitable for painting the brick. Be sure the surface is clean and free of grease.

Cinder Walk

QUESTION: Would calcium chloride serve as a binder for cinders outside the house on a walk? If not, what would be an inexpensive binder? We are not in a position to make a really large investment in this matter.

ANSWER: Calcium chloride is a fair binder for very fine cinders, or dusty paths or driveways. For coarse cinders, gravel or broken stone, emulsified asphalt is better suited. Your local road commissioner can give you the names of firms making this type of binder.

CRISPLY COOL ON A SUMMER DAY!
(See Recipes Below)

THIRST QUENCHER IDEAS

The thermometer's soaring and the summer sun's too hot, you say? Then you'll want a cool, gracious drink with tinkling ice to lift your wilted spirits.

Indeed the favorite pickup for a sultry day is nothing more than a simple drink of fruit juices, tea, or frothy milk with shimmering ice. The tartness of the fruit juices in these drinks will refresh and cool you, soothe your disposition long after you've sipped them. Besides they'll give vitamins and minerals to pep you up even more.

For a really quick cooling drink you might try some of the prepared fruit juice powders on the market. They can be mixed in a flash and give a very satisfying beverage. The children will like working with them, too, and won't muss the kitchen if they have this type of easy preparation to use.

Summer drinks can be especially attractive when served with those fragrant sprigs of mint you have growing on the side of the house, strawberries from the patch, or long, lengthwise slices of lemon to bring out the delicate flavor of tea. Ice cubes with cherries, red berries, mint leaves, orange or lemon slices, or fruit juices all frozen in the cubes will make your thirst quenchers a joy to look at.

Tea must be made double strength when used with ice, so use 2 teaspoons for each cup of water. Measure 1 cup of freshly drawn water, bring to a boil. Pour over leaves, let steep 5 minutes, then strain into a pitcher. Cool, pour into glasses filled with ice, two-thirds full. Serve with slices of lemon.

You can do such delightful things with this combination of tea, oranges and mint, so here's a recipe which you might like to try. It's a company favorite!

Orange Mint Juice.
(Serves 10)
6 glasses of strong tea
2 cups sugar
1/2 cup water
1 orange rind grated
Juice of six oranges
Sprays of mint

Boil the sugar and water and grate orange rind for 5 minutes. Remove from fire, add crushed mint leaves and let cool. To the strained tea add orange juice, and pour into glasses which are half-filled with crushed ice, and sweeten to taste with the strained mint syrup. You'll like this garnished with mint sprays and floating orange slices.

For a really exhilarating drink that has nutritive value so vital to lift lagging spirits, here's eggs and milk combined with fruit and juices. It's so-o-o good and looks like a charm.

LYNN SAYS:

A snowy frost on the glass in which you serve your cooling summer drinks is very attractive and simple to make. All you do is dip the top of the glass before it is filled into slightly beaten egg white and then into granulated sugar. Allow to dry thoroughly before using.

If you'd like a true frost for the glass try a drink which is guaranteed to have one. Such are the old-fashioned "granits" which may be of any flavor you desire. The granit is a half-frozen drink which is put in the refrigerator or freezer until a light snow-frost appears, but leaves the drink still liquid enough to pour.

For a strawberry granit, mash a quart of berries and cover with 1 1/2 pounds of sugar, then set aside for several hours to let a syrup form. Drain and press through a sieve. Add 1 tablespoon of strawberry extract, then mix with 1 pint of water. Freeze until the top is snow-frosted and serve in long, thin glasses.

Juice of 2 lemons
Juice of 2 oranges
2 eggs
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup fresh raspberries or strawberries
Chopped ice
Boil the sugar and water for 5 minutes. Cool. Mix all the ingredients except the ice and beat thoroughly. Chill. When ready to serve, pour into glasses half filled with ice. Garnish with a few whole berries.

Fruit Swizzle.

(Serves 8-10)
1 quart strong tea
1 quart ginger ale
Juice of 3 lemons
1 small bottle maraschino cherries
Juice of 3 oranges
2 cups pineapple juice
1 cup diced or crushed pineapple
Mix all the ingredients together, sweeten to taste and serve iced.

Here's an old-fashioned treat that always makes new friends. I can still remember how nice the kitchen smelled when mother used to put it up, and then again how hospitable everyone thought she was when unexpected guests came and she served this drink. It has a delightful color, and unusual flavor.

Currant Syrup With Raspberries.
(Makes 3 quarts)
1 pint currant juice
2 pounds sugar
6 pounds currants
1 pound sour cherries
1 pound raspberries
1 1/2 pints water

Pick, wash, seed, and dry the currants carefully. Seed and stem the cherries, and the raspberries. Pound and mash them well and let stand in a cool place for 36 hours. Then strain through a bag. Cook the sugar and water until it will snap when tested in cold water. Then add the fruit syrups, let boil 5 minutes, remove from fire. Let it get cold and then put in bottles.

Cinnamon Almond Float.
(Serves 6)
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1 quart cold milk
1 teaspoon almond extract
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1 pint vanilla ice cream
Combine sugar and cinnamon; add milk and flavorings and stir until sugar is dissolved. Pour into tall glasses and top each with a generous spoonful of ice cream.

Coconut Flake Cookies.
(Makes 5 dozen)
1 1/2 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
3 cups corn flakes or bran flakes
1 cup butter or other shortening
1 cup granulated sugar
1/2 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
2 eggs, unbeaten
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 1/4 cups shredded coconut

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift again; add flakes. Cream butter, add sugar gradually, and cream together well. Add eggs, one at a time, beating thoroughly after each. Add vanilla. Add flour and flakes mixture, mixing well. Add coconut. Drop from teaspoon on ungreased baking sheet and bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 12 to 15 minutes, or until done. For variation 1/2 cup chopped nuts may be added to mixture before baking.

Star Dust

By VIRGINIA VALE
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

ONE of the most interesting pieces of casting that's taken place in Hollywood is the selection of Joan Crawford and Greer Garson to combine their talents for the first time in "When Ladies Meet," a screen version of the stage hit of some years ago.

It's the story of a wife and the "other woman"; they meet without knowing that they're rivals. They become warm friends—and the fun begins when their identities are revealed.

GREER GARSON

vealed. The stars are fresh from hits—Miss Crawford from "A Woman's Face," and Miss Garson from "Blossoms in the Dust." Robert Taylor will be the fought-over male.

Edgar Kennedy, the "slow-burn" star of RKO Radio's shorts, is preparing to leave on his annual personal appearance tour. He will be accompanied by his wife, his son and Chester Conklin, and he will play Midwest theaters and fairs.

Katharine Hepburn, whose performance in "Philadelphia Story" put her back where she wanted to be at the box office, will start work soon on another picture. At present it's called "The Woman of the Year"; she'll play a newspaper columnist who's married to a sports writer. Metro feels that it's a good title for a Hepburn picture because of the comeback which she staged in "Philadelphia Story."

Miriam Hopkins withdrew from "Bad Lands" recently, giving two reasons, one ordinary, one unusual. The ordinary one—she felt that the part did not suit her; probably it didn't. The title doesn't sound like a Miriam Hopkins vehicle. The unusual one—she felt that Robert Stack, the leading man, was too young to play opposite her. Few feminine stars would admit that!

Jack Holt's offspring are doing all right for themselves in films—as is Papa. Tim is scheduled for six "outdoor dramas"—(Just Westerns to us.) for RKO for 1941-42, and his sister Jenny, who's 20, has been engaged to play the feminine lead in "Stick to Your Guns," a Hopalong Cassidy picture in which that veteran of Westerns, William Boyd, plays the lead.

Every so often somebody has the bright idea of trying to persuade Maude Adams to come out of retirement and make a picture. Nothing ever comes of it. The latest to try it is Frank Capra, who wants her to star in a film called "Meet Jane Doe, Mother of John Doe." If she could be tempted to make a picture the opportunity of working with Capra should do it.

Edmund Lowe and Victor McLaglen, who impersonated marines in the movie version of "What Price Glory" years ago, have become "Sergeant Quirk" and "Captain Flag" again; this time on the air. They're going a radio program designed to promote recruiting by showing modern life in the corps; it's a weekly feature, and should be welcomed by those who remember "What Price Glory."

Jack Smart, of CBS's "Meet Mr. Meek," met the judge last week, not once but twice. Picked up for speeding, he didn't have the money for the fine, so the judge let him go home for it. He hurried so fast, wanting to pay the first fine and get to his radio rehearsal on time, that he got another ticket for speeding. But the judge let him out of the second one.

ODDS AND ENDS—Cleo Manning made her debut as a motion picture actress by being kissed by Clark Gable, in "Honky Tonk" . . . Metro's putting a lot of its most talented youngsters into "Down in San Diego"; they're amateur detectives who uncover a Nazi band amid defense activities . . . Lili Damita and very young Sean Leslie Flynn have left the hospital where he arrived and gone home to Papa Errol . . . Mona Maris, of Warner Bros. "Love of the Tropics," will make two pictures in her native Argentina . . . Ann Southern has a new Metro contract . . . Richard Arlen is booked to do three melodramas for Paramount.

For Summer Style Silhouettes Visit Your Corsetry Expert

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

THIS is a day and age that demands style-perfection throughout every detail of general makeup and apparel. One may be ever so glamorously groomed in matter of complexion, hair-do and fingertips, one's costume may be of fine fabric in colors delectable, stylized "to the queen's taste," but if one's figure is not expertly and scientifically brought under subjection into lines of smooth contour and grace via faultless foundation-garment technique, all is lost in matter of style-right and charming appearance.

Note how slim, svelte and graciously satisfying the fashions pictured are to the eye. They demonstrate the efficacy of corset wizardry in giving the much-to-be-coveted smooth silhouette that modern fashion demands. In the foreground the "portrait of a lady" demonstrates how distinctive a smartly conservative graceful sheer print redingote costume looks when the wearer is nicely fitted in the correct foundation garment. In this instance the simple styling of the redingote with its accent of tiny white buttons down the front calls for a well-constructed corset in order to show to advantage the slender-waisted figure. Diminutive quill pens darting from tiny inkwells make the attractive white-print patterning on fine dark sheer for the redingote with matching crepe for the under slip. Shirred heart-shaped pockets add interest to the flaring skirt.

Slim through the waist and hips, smartly bulky through the blouse and shoulder, the lumberjacket slacks costume shown is beautifully tailored in cool spun rayon for active summer wear. For a slim, chic line and comfortable action freedom, the fashion-wise vacationist will wear this trim costume over a sleek panty girdle correctly fitted to her special needs.

Fresh and cool for summer the patrician jacket suit pictured to the left uses fine printed sheer and crepe in a clear white scroll and a leaf patterning. A self-fabric softly styled jabot at the bodice front gives subtle accent to this sheer-with-crepe frock, with its all-around pleated skirt. The season's important lingerie touch appears on the collar of the nipped-in jacket.

The influence of the new long-torso line is seen in the attractive spectator costume shown to the right in the group. Here a smartly striped one-piece frock is teamed with a trim short-sleeved jacket in solid white. The broad collar of the frock is worn over the jacket collar to heighten the ensemble effect. Worn over a well-fitting foundation garment, this figure-revealing costume has a slender trim line of grace and beauty.

Hat to Match

It is a treasureable little hat and dress of cunning pique, patterned with pink rosebuds that this darling little girl is wearing. The gay posy pique is just the thing for the making of this little sun suit. A matching bonnet completes the vision.

City Cottons Go 'Tops' In Summer Fashions

Ladies who "know their fashions" dress in gingham, seersucker, chambray, tissue-crinkle organdy, dark boucles and other smart "city cottons." It is a picture that fashion paints for summer, most refreshing and one that goes keen on chic and charm. For downright practicality the jacket suit tailored to a nicety of dark check crinkle seersucker, of plaid gingham or striped chambray takes first prize this summer. Women of discriminating tastes have yielded wholeheartedly to the new cotton vogue, a fact impressed on one throughout the summer style parade all along the highways and byways of fashion.

Sweaters for Evening Wear Are Very Popular

Evening sweaters continue to be a smart fashion. The latest arrival in formal sweaters reflects the bra influence in a most attractive way. It is knitted of pastel wool, comes just below the bust neckline where it ties with velvet ribbon drawn through a deep scalloped V-neckline. Sleeves are short and for an evening fantasy this is one of the prettiest sweaters imaginable.

Dye White Venise Lace To Match Your Fabrics

The use of stark white stiffened Venise lace is outstanding in the summer mode. So successful has this adventure in lace proved, designers are planning to trim monotonous frocks this fall in handsome Venise lace dyed to match the fabric that teams with it.

Gay Handkerchiefs Carry out a summer note for your costume by flirtatiously flaunting a gaily flowered handkerchief.

You can get perfectly fascinating "handies" with realistically colorful life-size roses printed to look as if they were artfully hand-painted. Others are patterned with huge poppies, and the ones with big clusters of natural looking violets are lovely with the new and now-so-fashionable costumes in purple tones.

Beginning A New Year.

With this issue, The Record begins its 43rd year. Many changes have taken place in Mocksville and Davie county since the first issue of The Record appeared in 1899, under the ownership and management of the late E. H. Morris.

The present editor and owner arrived here 34 years ago, and took over the paper. In all its long life the paper has changed hands but once. The oldest paper in the county, The Record has spent its long life in helping to build up the town and county, and in making this a better place in which to live. We have made many mistakes, but feel that we have done some good. To the people throughout the town, county and state, who have given us their support and friendship, we wish to extend our sincere thanks. We appreciate their subscriptions, advertising and the co-operation they have given us. In the future as in the past, we shall strive to print a newspaper that any member of the family can read without blushing with shame. The beer, wine and liquor advertising, the Sunday races and ball games, together with other like features, will be conspicuous for their absence in these columns. We shall continue to work for the upbuilding of Mocksville, Davie county and North Carolina, trying at all times to be true to the line—letting the chips fall where they may. Call on us at any time when you need our help in promoting any worthy object. Our columns are open to the public.

If we say something good about a fellow he never sees it, but if we print something that he doesn't like, he loses no time in coming around to tell us just what he thinks of us and our paper. It was ever thus.

A rural subscriber wants to know what the word "nepotism" means. It means getting a political job and then putting as many of your relatives on the payroll as possible, regardless of what kind of folks they are or whether they are competent to hold down the jobs.

We understand that a bunch of Democrats, New Dealers or some other kind of folks in Eastern Carolina, are petitioning the President to turn Madam Perkins out of his Cabinet. The country would have been better off had she never been appointed to this high position.

196 First Number In Draft Lottery

Washington - Number 196 was the first number drawn from the big gold-fish bowl in the selective lottery to determine the order in which 750,000 young Americans, just turned 21, shall be subject to conscription.

Men holding this number will be the first of the 21-year-olds to be mustered into the selective service, provided they are physically fit and not deferred because of dependents or other causes.

Secretary of the Navy Knox had been designated to draw the first number but he stepped aside in favor of Staff Sergeant Robert W. Shackleton of Fort Dix, N. J., a selectee from New York city. Knox then drew the second number 98.

Davie To Send Thirteen Men.

The 16th draft call was made last Wednesday for 3,278 men from North Carolina to report for duty in August. Of this number 2,523 are white men and 755 negroes. Davie is to send 13 men to Ft. Bragg, on Monday, Aug. 11th, for military training.

Sea Monster in Yadkin River.

Durham, July 13, '41. Dear Mr. Stroud:—On Saturday, July 5th, our family came over to Davie county to visit, and on the way back we saw something which some one over there should know about.

Crossing the Yadkin River bridge between Winston-Salem and Advance, we saw a sea animal which was about as large as a man. We were not close enough to decide what it was, but from the way it was cutting the water we imagined it to be a shark. It was a short distance above the bridge. Since we understand people use this river as a bathing place, it might be of interest to see about this, because they could be endangering their lives.

Feeling that some one should know about this in that community, I write to you. Sincerely,
J. S. STEELMAN.

Transformation in Davie and Mocksville.

Editor Davie Record:—This is not a speculation on what is to be, but what has been. I first saw Davie county in the early fall of 1899 when I came to Canada to teach, through the influence of Mr. E. Frost. Within a few weeks forty-one years will have come and gone. These quickly passing years have witnessed many marvelous changes everywhere. The late Edward E. Slosson said "Science is gradually remaking the world." Had Mr. Slosson seen Davie county in 1900 and again in 1941, he could say science, applied by a progressive people, has already made a new county and county town. Mocksville. Change for the better is notable and praiseworthy on every hand. The changes are so apparent that one is puzzled as to where to begin.

Mocksville is a new town; the streets are new. Instead of slushing through mud on wet days, concrete provides hard dry surface for the walker and driver. The streets, business houses, lawns and newspaper offices are cityfied. Marked improvement everywhere. People living permanently in any given community, and effecting the changes, as they gradually take place, seldom realize how much the community changes in a given time. New and attractive homes attest the spirit of progress that has produced marvelous changes, electric lights, water in the homes, an up-to-date sewage system make not only a happier, but a healthier people. Modern school facilities have placed opportunities within reach of every child. Illiteracy, the handicap of a democracy, has been eliminated. The accelerators in automobiles have accelerated the minds of the people; the people think more quickly and act accordingly.

Churches too, have felt and reacted to this impact of the spirit of progress; the taste for the beautiful has evolved keeping pace with material changes. Nowhere is change more apparent and more to be evaluated and appreciated than in the public roads. Forty years ago the only change in the roads since General Nathaniel Green and his struggling army waded their mud was that they had grown much worse; but all this is changed and only for the better.

New methods of farming have revolutionized this basic industry. One need never ask, are cows kept. Every cultivated field pays high tribute to their presence. Farm machinery is seen all along the roads at almost every farm home. Fine flocks of high producing poultry are common sights; new sources of income, new methods of management, but behind all, above all, and most important of all, the spirit of progress motivating the minds of the people.

Not only is Mocksville a new, a more beautiful, a more progressive town than it former years, but Davie county is really a new county. Its long past is both interesting and instructive, and its achievements should be an inspiration for future accomplishments. Let me say, too, that no single factor has played a more important part in every line of progress than the local newspapers. Their influence is indispensable, invaluable and incalculable. CHAS. H. UTLEY.

Sanford & Blackwelder Herd Win Recognition.

The Strumpet Sea

By BEN AMES WILLIAMS

CHAPTER XX

Peter was in danger, and the men hunting for them would be in danger. As much to protect these others as to save himself, Richard decided to dig his way out.

He had for tools the stout club, about four feet long, two inches thick, one end shod with iron; and he had his pocket knife. He whittled the end of the club into a flat, chisel-shaped blade, not too sharp, not sharp enough to break easily.

Then he began to dig steps up the side of the pit. For the first few feet, the sides sloped outward. That was easy; but above that, they became perpendicular. He began to excavate a sort of spiral gallery around the sides of the pit; a shelf wide enough for him to lie on, on his stomach, while he reached up ahead of him and loosened the soft stuff with the end of his club, and then scraped it out with his right hand, flinging it over the side of the shelf to fall to the bottom of the pit.

The dust of his digging through the charred, half-burned peat choked him. He descended and drank water from the pool, and wetted his handkerchief and tied it across his mouth and nose. While there was still some light, he had been able to climb ten feet above the floor of the pit; but then the light failed and he worked in darkness. Some time later, the shelf on which he lay broke off under his weight, and he fell, rolling down into the water again. He guessed that he had reached a point where the walls of the pit began to slope inward; so that there was nothing to support the gallery he excavated so laboriously.

He would have to tunnel upward through the solid peat and reach the surface somewhere to one side of the hole.

He began to do so. Almost at once the texture of the peat became tougher. Till now he had worked in stuff half-burned, the life baked out of it by the heat of his own fire; but now it began to have substance and cohesion, held together by grass roots dead centuries ago. His task became increasingly laborious. Using the chisel-shaped end of his club like a narrow spade, he drove it upward, cut around blocks of peat, and then with his right hand clawed these blocks free.

He burrowed like a mole. The tunnel he dug was no larger than necessary. If he could wedge his body through it, and have room to use his club, he was content. There was now some moisture in the peat through which he tunneled, and not much dust; nevertheless thirst harassed him.

Once when he went down to drink, he saw that there was light in the hole at the top of the pit. The short southern night was ending. Dawn was near.

A long while after that, he realized by the tougher fibre of the chunks he tore away that he had reached live grass roots. The realization, even though it proved he was near the surface of the ground and promised an early end to his labors, did not speed them. He worked slow and slower, tired without knowing it, sluggish with weariness. He thrust the pointed club upward with a heave of shoulders and back, his feet braced hard.

Presently one of these thrusts sent the club through into open air. There was still the mat of grass roots to rip apart; but five minutes later Richard dragged himself like a crippled mole through the opening he had made, and lay prone.

It was Corkran, following the broken trail through the tall grass, who hours later found him there.

Aboard the Ventura, George and Mary kept their vigil; George by the desk with the revolver and the bomb gun ready, Mary at the cabin window through which she could see the boats on shore. After a long time, George heard a voice on deck, a sudden cry; so he knew the truth before Mary spoke.

She turned with glowing eyes; she whispered: "They've found him! He's walking. Two of them are helping him. George, Richard is alive!"

George nodded. "Then they'll be at us," he reminded her. He knew what to expect. Since the men had found Richard, Peter must hold the Ventura and escape in her, or be damned. To hold her against the men in the boats, he must have the guns.

George did not stop to consider what means Peter had in hand. He meant to hold the cabin against any odds. If he could. But he might fail. In the sudden imminence of crisis now, like a revelation, he realized that even if he failed, he could still leave Peter weaponless.

He spoke to Mary, sharply. "Take all those cartridge boxes, the powder, everything. Break the window. Throw it all overboard."

She began to throw out the boxes of cartridges. Someone on deck heard them splash in the water and looked over the rail and saw what she was doing, and shouted a warning.

"Stop that down there, you!" George shouted back. "I'll shoot the first man who shows himself!" Looking up through the companion he could see nothing except the sky, and a segment of the rail.

Mary kept at her task, working fast and without pause, till it was done.

The sounds over his head kept George's attention fixed on the companion. No movement in the main cabin warned him; but it was from that quarter that the attack came.

Rannels, Gee, Hurd, and Peter were united by the greedy hope of reward. Peter had won them by promises, playing on each according to his appetite. For weapons, they had the edged tools of the whale fishery; harpoons, lances, spades. It was only necessary to find a chance to use them. With this in mind, Peter planned to draw George's eye in one direction, to attack from another. He set Rannels by the cabin companion with a cutting-in spade, the keen chisel blade six inches across, the handle long enough so that Rannels from the deck could reach the cabin floor.

He posted Hurd on top of the after house where from high overhead he could see down through the glass of the skylight and dart a harpoon at any mark that offered. He directed Gee to take an axe down into the main cabin and strike the door into the common room a smashing blow that would make George turn that way. When he thus turned, Rannels, at the companion, or Hurd, darting the great harpoon, would kill him from above.

When the others were in position the Negro went below. Peter himself would take no active part in the affray. Gee was barefooted, and he moved silently. He was accustomed to use an axe left-handed. The door he had to attack swung into the after cabin, the hinges on the port side. Gee stood on that side when he swung the axe.

He delivered that blow with a nervous violence which proved his own destruction. The axe hit the panels just beside the bolt, and the flimsy screws flew out and the door flew open so easily that Gee by his own weight was pulled forward, the axe and his swinging arms dragging him off balance, into the doorway.

George, when the Negro struck, was standing at the foot of the companionway, looking up, the bomb gun in his hands, the door into the main cabin ten feet away and behind him. At the crash of the axe blow, he whirled and saw the Negro in the doorway. Gee bawled in dismay, trying to leap clear, as George lifted the bomb gun and fired.

At the sound of the axe, Rannels stepped to the top of the companionway above George. At the foot of the companionway he saw George swing to face Gee, and as George lifted the bomb gun, Rannels stabbed downward with the long spade. He aimed at the nape of George's neck.

If the blow had struck fairly, it would have decapitated the man below; but the recoil of the gun knocked George off balance backward. He was already falling when Rannels struck, so the harpooner missed his aim. The spade that would have caught George in the neck, instead slid over his shoulder and down his left arm. It bit into his forearm just below the elbow. It sliced the flesh like a razor, grated on the bone.

George, thrown backward by the recoil, fell on his left side. The snore of powder from the gun's thunderous discharge had instantly filled the cabin; but through this smoke as he lay on his side he saw Rannels at the head of the companionway recovering the spade to strike again. He rolled on his back, dodging that blow; and he dragged the revolver, already cocked, out of his belt and fired it upward blindly. The heavy slug struck Rannels in the breast bone. He slid feet first down the companionway and lay in a huddle on the cabin floor.

The thinning smoke made George cough. He heard a faint sound that seemed to be far away, and realized it was a voice, and saw Mary on her knees here beside him.

Mary was trying to hold him. He pushed her away. He had not meant to do this violently; but under his thrust she staggered backward till she collided with the corner of the desk. He shook his head regretfully. Too bad to hurt her; but he had business in hand.

He looked for Gee, and saw him with a calm surprise. George had not heard the bomb explode; but it had exploded. There was no doubt of that. Gee was in the main cabin, on the floor by the table. Something had flung him backward; but what lay there had been Gee. It must have been.

Mary was here again, ripping at his coat, trying to tear away the sleeve, trying to tend the terrible wound in his arm. Weakness swept over George in a slow, sick wave; yet his mind was clear enough. Rannels was dead, and Gee too; but in a minute now he, George McAusland, would collapse from loss of blood, and lie helpless here, and then Peter could come down and get the guns.

That had to be stopped. He must kill Peter while he could. George decided to go through the main cabin into the stateroom and thus reach the deck. Mary was trying to hold him, but he put her aside. Whatever she was saying did not matter. It could not matter. He must reach the deck somehow, and manage Peter Carr. Mary hindered him. He said to her in an elaborate whisper, loudly, so that she would be sure to understand: "Stay here. Talk. Make them think I'm here."

He pushed her aside, and she was thrown three or four steps backward against the wall and fell. He thought: Why, I must be strong, really strong, to do that! Too bad! Poor Mary!

He went through the after 'tween decks. He moved briskly, the revolver in his right hand, his left arm hanging. He remembered to cock the revolver before he started to climb to the deck. He could not help himself with his left hand, because it would not do what he wanted it to do; and he had to hold the revolver ready in his other hand; so he went up the companionway very slowly, pushing himself with his feet, his body leaning forward against the treads.

The housing looked aft. When his head rose above the deck level, he faced the mizzenmast. He crawled out of the companion on his hands and knees; and the revolver in his right hand thumped on the deck.

Peter heard that sound and turned and saw him.

Peter was on the starboard side of the cabin companion, by the door of the potato room where Tommy Hanline slept. He had a boat spade poised ready to slice at anyone whose head appeared in the companion. George saw him. George did not see Hurd. Hurd was on the port side, beyond the door of the galley, where old Willie Leeper, as though blind to all that went on aboard here, persistently banged and clattered at his work. Hurd had a boat spade too.

But George did not see him. He saw Peter, and Peter saw George and leaped toward him. George fell on his face and rolled on his side and lifted the revolver and shot.

Peter ducked and dodged; and suddenly he screamed like a woman. Panic fear broke him down. He turned to run aft toward the companion, squalling as he ran.

George thumbed back the hammer of the revolver and shot again. Peter seemed to trip and fall, and he no longer screamed. George, lying on his side, his chest against the deck, the revolver flat on the deck at his arm's length, pulled the hammer and shot again and again, slowly, laboriously aiming through eyes half closed.

After a space, the hammer clicked on an empty cylinder. He could do nothing more. He rolled on his back and looked up; and then his eyes opened wide in clear recognition of what was about to happen to him. Hurd, the little Cockney, stood over him in silhouette against the sky and the web of rigging. Hurd was lifting his boat spade to strike. He seemed to stand there motionless; and time had stopped, and instants were eternal.

CHAPTER XXI

Behind Hurd—George could see him under Hurd's upraised arm—old Willie Leeper was holding upraised a heavy cleaver. Before Hurd's spade stopped going up for the downward blow at George, the cleaver, already lifted, began to descend. It came slowly against Hurd's neck, on the side under the ear, at an angle inward. The broad keen blade went far in and in.

The spade in Hurd's hands dropped to the deck. The blade of it brushed against George's side, and stuck in the planking; and the spade stood erect for a moment, and then fell over sideways as the blade, for lack of any deep hold, broke out of the planking. The handle fell across George's body.

Hurd fell the other way, making choking sounds. Willie Leeper looked down at him. Willie said in a piping, thin voice to Hurd dying on the deck:

"There, drat ye!" George laughed. That was funny. He had never heard Willie speak before. Willie had a thin, squeaking voice that was completely absurd. George was much amused.

Then he forgot Willie, for here was Mary. George rolled his head sideways to look at Peter lying on the deck aft; but Peter had not moved, so everything was all right.

He told her so. He said carefully: "Everything's all right, Mary." He tried to nod, to reassure her. "It's all right, Mary," he repeated. She said fiercely: "Hush! Oh, my brave dear!"

"It's all right," he insisted, and smiled. Something was running out through his arm, fast; but he must be sure Mary understood, so that she would be happy, afterward.

He tried to tell her that he knew she loved Richard, that he knew she and Richard were fine, that it was all right, that she was not to feel badly about him, or about anything.

But so much of him had already run out that there was not enough of him left to say what he wished to say; and while he lay happy in Mary's arms, the rest ran out in a dwindling little stream.

On a day almost four months later, under all sail, the Ventura moved serenely upon a white-capped sea. Richard had for the moment gone below. Mat Forbes was aft, Tommy Hanline proudly taking a turn at the wheel. Corkran and Mary stood together by the starboard rail amidships; and the parrot nibbled at Corkran's ear, and whispered wheedlingly. Two or three miles away, a whaler, bark-rigged, was outward bound.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY Lesson

THE HOLY SPIRIT INSPIRES NEW TESTAMENT LETTERS

LESSON TEXT—Galatians 1:11, 12; I Thessalonians 2:13; II Timothy 2:14-17; II Peter 2:14-18; Jude 2.

GOLDEN TEXT—All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness.—II Timothy 3:16.

Letters are usually interesting, frequently very important, and always revealing as to the character and interests of the writer. That is generally true of ordinary daily mail, but how very true it is of the letters of Scripture, the epistles of Peter, Paul, Jude, and John. For in them "holy men of God spoke as they were moved by the Holy Ghost" (II Pet. 1:21).

I. The Gospel (Gal. 1:11, 12; I Thess. 2:13).

The good news (for that is the meaning of "gospel") of salvation by grace through faith in Jesus Christ as Saviour has from the very beginning of its proclamation been subject to attack. Men are not content to receive God's way of salvation, but want to add something to it, adjust its requirements to meet new situations, to tinker and twist.

1. A Divine Revelation (Gal. 1:11, 12).

Paul was not presenting something which he or some other man had "worked up," but a message that he had "prayed down." Paul was only delivering that which he had received from God (see I Cor. 15:1-4). He was careful that it should not be confused with or by the teachings of men, so he "confessed not with flesh and blood" (see Gal. 1:15, 16).

We too are privileged to proclaim a divine revelation which has come to us in the inspired Word of God. How delightfully sweet and tremendously powerful is the message which we may thus bring forth. It has no human frailty and weakness, no human error, and no misleading philosophies. It does not need to be revised every year or two. It is God's eternal message of redemption.

2. A Message of Salvation (I Thess. 2:13).

It works in those who believe. Yes, it does—blessed be the name of God! God's Book says so, and the experience of hundreds of thousands of men and women over a period of almost 2,000 years agrees.

Note, however, that to work, the message must not only be "received," but also "accepted" as the Word of God. The message of the Bible may be received as a matter of fact, but for salvation it must be accepted and believed as a matter of faith.

II. The Bible (II Tim. 3:14-17; II Pet. 3:14-16).

Near the end of a life given in utter sacrifice to God's cause, Paul is ready to be used of the Holy Spirit to speak concerning the written Word.

1. It is God-inspired (II Tim. 3:14-17).

Be sure to read this passage in the Authorized Version. The Revised has taken liberties with this verse which the finest scholarship does not countenance. "It properly reads, 'All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine (teaching), for reproof, for correction, for instruction,' etc. Other books may claim some kind or measure of human inspiration—this Book is inspired of God. If there were space, proof of the truth of that statement could easily be given. It is available for all who want to believe it."

2. It is Not to Be Wrested (II Pet. 3:14-16).

If permitted to do so, God's Word will bring peace of heart, make a man spotless and blameless (v. 14). But its salvation (v. 15) is not for those who ignorantly, or because of their ignorance, or because they are not steadfast in their lives, wrest its truth. Let us receive the Word with gladness, not twist it or distort its meaning to our own destruction.

III. The Faith (Jude 3).

1. It Was "Delivered Once for All."

There is a final revelation from God. There is no other gospel, and there never will be another. What assurance that gives us both in believing it and proclaiming it! But the world hates this gospel, and attacks on it are to be expected. Therefore

2. It Is to Be Earnestly Contended For.

No matter how peaceable we may be, how loving and tender-hearted, if and when attack is made upon the Lordship of Christ, when men make light of sin, and so seem to minimize the vital importance of holiness of life—then, however unpleasant contention and controversy may be to us; it is time we cast our self-regard aside and contend earnestly for the faith once for all delivered to the saints." (J. D. Jones).

Youngsters Need No Stimulants!

A born idiot has dignity, but one artificially created by alcohol has none. Angelo Patri wrote recently in a column for young people. Writing for the Bell Syndicate, he said:

"The reforming of grown people never interests me. If we teach children what is good for them and do our best to protect them from evil we will not have too many adults to reform. That is why the cocktail hour that offers stimulating drinks to young people in their late 'teens and early 20's seems so dangerous to me.

"Young people are stimulated by the wine of youth. There is no drink as heady as that with which nature has stimulated them. It takes all

Not A BEAUTY PARLOR

A W. C. T. U. Temperance Poster they have to keep an even balance without taking on additional stimulation in the form of a cocktail.

"The afternoon gathering and the need for relaxation and gaiety are set in the day's routine by nature. Cocktails are not nature's way of relieving the situation and we who are in any way responsible for the welfare of young people should be quick to save the situation by providing the needful elements without falling back on stimulants.

"Music will help tremendously provided it is selected with an eye to its effect. Tea is a good stimulant. A good drink—tasty, sparkling, snappy—can be made by combining tea, fruit juices and ginger-ale. It can be lovely in color and when served in dainty glasses is quite as attractive as any cocktail. It will smell better and taste as good and it will do its work without robbing youth of its charm and its brains.

"A body without its mind is an awful sight, especially when that body is usually occupied by an intelligent, able mind. . . . It's an awful sight and one no young person would wish to imprint on friends' memories."

Drink, Drive, Die!

Very few Americans would get into an automobile driven by a "doped up" driver. Yet, scientific leaders time and again have labeled alcohol "a dangerous poison and a narcotic."

There were 32,600 motor vehicle deaths in 1939 and the National Safety Council, disinterested authority, says Drinking Drivers or Pickled Pedestrians are involved in one out of four fatal accidents. That would seem to make liquor—beer, wine or spirits—a factor in 8,150 deaths.

The reason, according to authorities, is that a drink or two puts the nerves and brain to sleep, dulling thinking, blurring vision, lessening hearing, and confusing reactions.

Prof. H. L. Hollingworth of Columbia University and Dr. Walter R. Miles of the Carnegie Nutrition Laboratory in Boston recently made separate laboratory tests of the effects of small quantities of alcohol which showed definite results in narcotizing of nerve centers.

The highway and city street death toll is the reason for a mounting demand that government "keep the drink out of the driver or keep the driver out of the car."

It is one major reason why the Grange in some states has demanded that no taverns be licensed outside city areas. It is the reason for strong sentiment against curb service of alcoholic beverages. It is one of the strongest proofs that the public pays more than money for its relegalized liquor traffic.

The W.C.T.U. reminds that the original word "narcotic" was almost identical with the root word for "snare" and "noose". That Extend a cordial invitation to the people of Davie and adjoining counties to come to Mocksville to do their trading. Wednesday is Appreciation Day." Come any day you like.

ADVERTISING Costs Nobody Anything

Through advertising the producers and distributors get their returns in the increase in business, for it has brought about mass production, mass distribution and mass buying.

It doesn't cost the consumer anything and it saves time in buying without so much shopping around.

It is the best method of promoting sales and has made it possible for ordinary people to enjoy many conveniences through mass production that otherwise only the rich could afford.

An ad in The Record goes into hundreds of homes in Davie and adjoining counties and will more than pay the cost of the investment.

Why not phone No. 1, and let us figure with you on the cost of an ad. Our rates are very reasonable.

A letter received from Sgt. Ranier Brenegar, says he is stationed at St. Paul, Minn., and is getting along fine. He is in the aviation corps.

The Foolish Infidel.

Rev. Walter E. Isenhour, Hiddenite, N. C.

Now and then some little atheist and infidel rises up and says, "There is no God." God calls him a fool. Listen to His holy word. "The fool hath said in his heart, There is no God." Now when God calls a man a fool I have no right to deny it. He may be a Voltare, a Tom Payne, or a Robert Ingersoll; but regardless of who he is, God calls him a fool.

"Oh," you say, "these men were intelligent. They were educated. They knew the Bible. Ingersoll was a great orator. Certainly he could not have been a fool." Regardless of how well one may be educated, or how intelligent he is, or how well he speaks before the public, or what may be the position he holds, God absolutely brands him as a fool. He may be a fool lawyer, as some are, or a banker, or a statesman, or a writer, or a teacher, or an inventor. Who bestows his honor and respect upon atheists and infidels? Why, people think so little of them that they won't name their children after them. How many namesakes do Voltare, Payne and Bob Ingersoll have today? Not one that I know of. Even the followers of these infidels don't think enough of them to name their children after them. That's so. If they were so great, brilliant, intelligent; so well educated, and were right, why don't men and nations honor and respect them? Why don't they celebrate their birthdays? Why don't they name their sons after them? Why don't they erect great monuments to their memories? Simply because they know they were wrong. They cursed the world. And all who rise up and follow in their footsteps likewise curse the world, and when they are gone they go "unwept, unhonored and unsung." Absolutely. And the most of them are soon forgotten, except the fact that they were fools whose belief, teachings and influence makes other fools.

No infidel lives a great life, neither does he die a victorious death. They call upon God when it is too late. The dying testimonies of atheists and infidels is something fearful. How different to the dying testimonies of the followers of Jesus Christ and the saints of God! No infidel can be happy in his infidelity, neither can he die happy. Only the true Christian lives a blessed life and has a triumphant departure out of this world. This is life's better way.

Weather.

With the thermometer hovering around the century mark and the mark and the sweat (perspiration) wouldn't be a fitting word, pouring like rain in a cloudburst, we know that this column, like the show, must go on.

If everybody can talk about the weather we can write about it. Ain't this humidity awful! In contrast we want to think about the good old days last winter when wool blankets were so comfortable. To keep from thinking about the weather which makes us hotter, we read a blanket sale ad this morning. After mopping the sweat we read a description of a blanket which you can cuddle about your feet getting frost-bitten. That must have meant that it was all wool and yards long.—Wilkes Patriot.

The Farmer's Gamble.

Iredell farmers are complaining that current rains are about to play havoc with the wheat in their fields—that it is sprouting in the shock or being beaten to the ground as it stands.

We suspect that the weather is not altogether to blame. There is an inclination to be tardy about housing grain after it is harvested, taking the gamble that the weather man will have a heart. Corn is often left in bottoms over-long when always there is the possibility of flood.

And then we are in a period of change in harvesting methods. The wheat combine that cuts and threshes at the same time has not been sufficiently adopted to make combines available to every farmer. Many of our farmers have been depending on these and have left their wheat standing waiting for this service. Some of them have had to wait too long.

That is something that probably will be corrected in the future. The acreage of many farmers does not justify investment in a combine, but joint ownership provides the way out. With the certainty that the one-purpose threshing unit is on the way out, small wheat farmers would do well to sense that fact and protect themselves by joining with their neighbors to assure that next harvest time will not find them out in the rain, in more ways than one.

It is more than tragic to see any crop that has cost much in time, money and energy to produce, waste in the fields. It accentuates the gamble the farmers must take. It also indicates the necessity to hedging against nature, when hedging is possible. And we venture to say that those who are now faced with this serious difficulty can reflect that it could have been avoided—if they had hedged on their bet.—Statesville Daily.

Hard Liquor Maniacs.

International Christian Endeavor society thinks it would be a good thing to return to prohibition so the "people may live together in sobriety and happiness." That would be nice. Unfortunately, American are cursed with a fondness for hard liquor.

They like for their liquor to bite them, slap them down and toss them about. People of some nations are able to sit at a sidewalk table for hours and sip of a weak alcoholic concoction. Imagine a red blooded American doing that! He likes to take his standing up and the only use he has for a table while engaging in drinking bouts is to slide under it after an hour's hard work.

Efforts have been made by some leaders to teach the American to like light wines and beer but that doesn't work. They don't kick a man in the face, slug him on the back of the head and rip out his tonsils. They don't take the skin off his throat, the lining from his stomach, electrify his toenails and jolt his gizzard.

Prohibition is a good goal but it seems far distant. The American is out to enjoy himself and mistakenly thinks he must make a jackass of himself to do it. He's going to do it the hard way, with hard liquor.—Charlotte Observer.

Not in Georgia.

Governor Eugene Talmadge of Georgia, when asked by President Roosevelt to proclaim daylight saving time for that state, curtly replied: "I won't do it." "How different is North Carolina where the "rubber stamp" governor is trying to find if it is legal for him to follow FDR's request.—Ex.

What's The Answer?

Endless statistics can be cited to "prove" that a defense boom created Government spending on relief for the unemployed.

The country's industrial production is now far above the 1929 mark. But it is argued that machines have made it possible for fewer workers to produce more; that the "working population" has increased by some 600,000 each year; and so, while only about a million persons were unemployed in 1929, there are now more than 6,500,000.

There are specific situations where that argument seems very difficult to apply; for instance, the situation in Allegheny County (Pittsburgh) in Pennsylvania. That county's total population gain from 1930 to 1940, is shown by the census as only 33,160. The increase of working population must be less.

Yet the Pittsburg Press reports that 50,000 more persons than in 1929 are now on private payrolls, earning $10,000,000 a month more. There would seem to be less need for relief in that county than there was in 1929. But whereas in 1929 there was practically no governmental relief—no WPA and no other Federal relief—in early May, this year, there were 14,432 persons on WPA and 23,400 cases on local direct relief.—Washington (D. C.) Daily News.

Taxpayers Paying

(Skyland Post)

One of the favorite arguments of those who see any justification in defense strikes is this: If a company is increasing its profits because of defense orders there is no reason why labor shouldn't share in that increased profit.

That is certainly the best reason offered for rapid wage increases, but it doesn't hold much water under the present defense contract set up. For when wages are increased above what they were when a defense contract was made, the government, not the employer, is billed.

The contracts aren't as simple as that, but that is what they amount to. Take the North American Aviation company, for instance; in its contract with the government will reimburse it for wage increase for the airplane industry as a whole. If the wages for the airplane industry go up to 20 per cent and North America's increases go up 25 per cent, the company loses 5 per cent, if their wages go up 15 per cent, the company gains 5 per cent and if their wages go up the average amount of 20 per cent the government takes care of that increase.

The reason for such clauses in contracts is based on the fact that such contracts are made to cover cost plus what the government considers a fair profit. If the company had to stand the loss due to wage increases, it would not, in the government's opinion, make a fair profit and would probably suffer losses.

When wages are raised in defense industries, it is the taxpayer and not the employer who has to foot the bill.

It Won't Be Long.

The Record said last week that it "won't be long until the good old watermelon will be ripening on the vine and there is always something to be thankful for," but if our editor friend Stroud thinks Davie county water-mellons are to be ripe before the big Masonic picnic at Mocksville he's badly mistaken. That's a month off yet. He's seen some white garden squashes through cracks of some Davie county wheat farmer's garden.—Wilkesboro Hustler.

Little Stingers

(From The Yellow Jacket)

Asphalt is supposed to be a valuable material in many construction enterprises, but it is bad business to have Pepper mixed in the material. Such a mixture is daub and nasty.

God made ten brief laws to govern all mankind through all the ages, but just look at what a mess of laws the New Dealers have made and are making.

The editor of Fortune magazine says President Roosevelt is in danger of becoming an American Chamberlain. What this country wants and needs is an American Churchill.

They can put all the cops on the highways they please, but the accidents will never be seriously checked as long as liquor shops and beer joints dot the highways.

Sam Morris says: If you ever see me in a casket just put a beer or whiskey bottle on my coffin and if I don't knock it off, then go ahead and bury me. I'll sure be dead."

Union leaders and spokesmen can argue and fulminate as much as they like about their rights to strike and tie up defense activities, but we have no patience with their attitude.

They are talking about a "cooling off" period for industrial disputes, but there is no mention made of a "cooling off" period for the taxpayers. The truth is "you hain't seen nothin' yet."

There is much talk today that we are following in France's fatal footsteps. And it isn't just gab. The frightful sewer of subversion flows right thru our national life and don't let anybody tell you differently.

We are wondering and wondering what President Roosevelt will do about this strike situation. Hitler could not work greater havoc in this country than the strikers are now doing.

In Cleveland, Ohio, Nov. 1, President Roosevelt said: "The first purpose of our foreign policy is to keep this country out of war." Well it looks as if "our" policy is going to be just about as good as Woodrow Wilson's to "keep us out."

We note that Luther Patrick, Alabama Democratic Congressman, was beaten up recently by a drunken soldier, as he rode a train to Washington. And Patrick is of the party that said repeal would reduce crime.

Weak Stomachs Beware

At the outset let us say that the following song was not composed by us, that it has been heard over radio and is very popular.

I love molasses, good old country
sorghum,
I love them in the winter and the fall.

When they get so full of flies
That they look like raisin pies
That's the way I love them best of all.

I went to see my girl the other night
She was making 'lasses pies
She likes them in the winter and the fall.

When she eats them and they trickle down her chin
I lick them off and laugh again;
That's the way I like them best of all.

Chatham's Advice.

Thurmond Chatham head of the great Chatham Manufacturing Co., at Elkin has recently passed along to his employees some of the best advice we have seen handed from employer to employee. "Look around you he said in his letter accompanying bonus checks, "those who have saved year by year, kept their credit good and made wise investment, are on their way to security . . . I can't help but repeat—pay your bills, keep your credit good and invest something regularly."

And, honestly, we believe if ever such advice needed be given and heeded, it is now when there is so much uncertainty. Paying bills helps to stabilize the economy of the nation; keeping one's credit in good shape tends to increase faith in one another and in the democratic system; investment in homes or dependable enterprises or in savings accounts, provides for that rainy day that will eventually come to each one of us, as well as the making for better citizenship.

Thurmond Chatham is at all times thoughtful and considerate of his employees. That's one reason why he makes the world's finest blankets. And such thoughtfulness and consideration for employees by this great industrialist has been so much in evidence in the year gone by that it has become commonplace. But, as the Elkin Tribune expressed it, "we have an abiding faith that the recipients of these favors will never so regard them or appraise them other than an unusual manifestation of the interest of the management of a great industry has in those who contribute to its success."

Would that American industry had more executive like Thurmond Chatham, who is a worthy son of a most worthy father.—Ex.

Huckleberries In Garden.

Watauga Democrat: Richard Smith, a farmer living one half mile from Banner Elk, has gathered the wild huckleberry bushes from the woods near his home and transplanted rows of these bushes on two sides of his garden. The length of these rows is approximately one hundred lineal feet. He cultivates these bushes, and gathers enough berries each year to supply his family with all the berries they need during the bearing season and then cans enough to supply the family the remainder of the year.

The March of Time's newest release, "New England's Eight Million Yankees," shows how the six northeastern states are making themselves invasion-proof. It is the first of a series of regional films, and will be followed by releases on the Midwest, Texas, and other sections of the country.

Penny Singleton, who's been "Blondie" on the screen and on the air for so long, is hard at work now in her first film musical. It's called "Cowboy Joe" temporarily, and Glenn Ford plays opposite her. She'd made a name for herself as a singer and dancer on the Broadway stage before she went to Hollywood, and her nine "Blondie" comedies have made one for her in Hollywood.

The office of Heinrich Himmler, chief of Nazi SS men, is as authentic a reproduction in Warner Bros. "Underground" as following actual photographs could make it. Himmler does not permit photos of his office to be released; however, Kurt Schmidt, technical adviser on "Underground," made some when he was in favor with the SS head, and smuggled them out of the country when he escaped two years ago. The film shows Himmler's dreaded office for the first time.

Bob Hope, who soared to film popularity with the song "Thanks for the Memory," will have another opportunity to warble an outstanding number, when he sings "You Can't Brush Me Off" in "Louisiana Purchase," which Paramount will produce. Lately he's been content merely to be one of the funniest men on the screen. His "Caught in the Draft" is hilarious, though the script writers dug up some of the blindest jokes in existence for it. Eddie Bracken hangs up a few laurels for himself in this one too.

With the exception of a few minor weekly cast additions, all the regular roles on the new "Hap Hazard" radio series, the summer replacement for "Fibber McGee and Molly," have been assigned. It stars Ransome Sherman, and features the singing of Edna O'Dell and Billy Mills' orchestra. Nowadays people in radio have begun to take these summer replacement shows seriously. The "Blondie" program started as one three years ago—now it tops all CBS half-hour shows in popularity, according to the latest Crosley report.

ODDS AND ENDS—One Munson wound up work in "Wild Geese Calling" at 20th Century-Fox, got a vacation from radio when Edward G. the first that himself was a man under all. After a little, she asked: "Corkran, what do you think Peter meant to do?"

"Meanness, ma'am. Any kind that offered. He was one would do anything for loot, if he could find the spine for it, or get other men to take the risk for him. No knowing now what all was in his black mind. It's sure he tried to talk Reverend himself into killing the Cap'n. With the Cap'n dead, all else would be in Peter's hands. He would have figured so."

"Do you think he meant Cap'n Corrt to fall into the pit that day?" "Like as not! He'd been up there his own self the day before, after pig; and he must have seen many traps of the like sort in the tussocks. While we were hunting the Cap'n, we found a dozen pits like that one, or less, or maybe bigger; and there was a pig that had fresh fallen in, squealing and grunting in one of them. Aye, the mate might have meant it; but more like he just hoped it. If he'd seen the Cap'n standing on the very lip of the pit, I doubt he'd have had the heart to push him in. It was a trouble to that one that he had not the insides in him to do all the black things he could think of that he'd like to do. He's dead, rest him; but he was a bad one while he lived." He said in sober judgment: "Let that one be forgotten."

Youth Without 'Feeling' Baffles Physicians

The case of Charles Leonard, Indianapolis newsboy who is not sensitive to heat or cold, does not feel pain and can not identify objects through the sense of touch, is a baffling one for physicians.

The 18-year-old carrier, who has been examined at intervals the last two years by medical authorities, apparently has a rare ailment believed to have been caused by electric shock. Although his condition causes more or less discomfort, it is not regarded dangerous.

On the other hand, physicians seem unable to discover an effective treatment. In a series of tests given him, it was determined that the youth can not distinguish between hot and cold articles and he apparently feels no pain from pinching, pin pricks or even a solid blow. Physicians handed him two test tubes, one extremely hot and the other cold and Leonard could not decide which was the heated one. He says he is aware of a slap on the back but can not determine the force of the blow.

Likewise, a cut or scratch causes no discomfort other than bleeding. Leonard exhibited a deep scratch on his left forearm, caused when he fell against a wire fence and declared he experienced no pain and noticed the injury only when the blood started. At the newsstand where he is employed, Leonard said he was scuffling recently with another carrier and jokingly told the youth to "hit me hard." "The boy hit me on the chin hard

PAUL PREACHES FAITH IN CHRIST

LESSON TEXT—Romans 3:21-31; 5:1. GOLDEN TEXT—As it is written, The just shall live by faith.—Romans 1:17.

Justification by faith is a doctrine which lies at the very heart of the gospel. It provides the answer to man's age-old question, "What must I do to be saved?" (Acts 16:30).

"This was a question with which Paul had himself grappled, and for years he had sought salvation in the traditional Jewish way. Then one day he met Christ and he underwent a spiritual transformation through faith in Him, apart from the works of the law. Because of that experience, and because of the divine revelations made to him, he was able to show others how to be saved and how to live a life of victory. Among the writers of the New Testament it is Paul who most clearly sets forth the doctrine of justification by faith, a doctrine which has brought comfort of soul to multitudes, and the consciousness of sins forgiven." (Olmstead).

1. How Can God Be Just and Justify Sinners? (Rom. 3:21-31).

The portion of Romans just preceding our lesson is devoted to a devastating treatment of man's sinfulness, bringing him face to face with the question, "What can I do about it?" The answer has a hopeless ring to it.

1. Man has no righteousness of his own, and cannot by any of his own works save himself. "He has tried many ways, in every age, but no human being, or groups of men or women, have ever devised any scheme, have ever conceived of any ritual, have ever established any religion by their own efforts, through which peace with God has been found and a sinner has been enabled to stand before a holy God without condemnation. Man being helpless, God now intervenes" (Wilbur M. Smith).

2. Christ paid the penalty for man's sin by His own blood. How clearly verse 25 declares the sacrificial death of Christ to provide a covering of blood (the real meaning of "propitiation") which will enable a just God to forgive the sinner that believes in Christ (v. 22). Why not receive it in all its grace and power, not trying to explain it away or to evade its requirements? Why attempt to provide some other means of salvation when we know that "without the shedding of blood is no remission" of sin (Heb. 9:22)?

3. Man receives salvation by grace through faith, apart from works. Man can only be "justified freely by his grace" (v. 24). It is for "them that believe" (v. 22), and "through faith" (vv. 25, 26) and, note with care, "man is justified by faith apart from the works of the law" (v. 28). Thus God establishes the law (v. 31) and yet becomes the righteous justifier of a repentant believing sinner.

II. What Happens When a Man Is Justified? (Rom. 5:1, 2).

These verses sound like the uplifting music of a mighty organ, with the celestial choirs joining in to sing, "Therefore being justified by faith, we have"—What? Oh many precious possessions, three of which are here mentioned.

1. "Peace With God." "Through our Lord Jesus Christ" the barrier of sin with all its malicious enmity has been broken down and the believer is at peace with God. What could be more wonderful than thus to be really "in tune with the Infinite"? That is something, by the way, which can only be true of the believer, one who has both peace with God and the peace of God flooding his soul. Every sinner who covets that experience may have it—now—by faith in Christ.

2. Standing in Grace.

"To stand in grace is to occupy the position wherein love is able to carry out its desires. To stand in grace is to come into such relationship with the Lord that He may do that thing that is in His heart, the thing which His love prompts. To stand in favor is to be unfraid. It is to be able to pass into the presence of One of whom we are unfraid, and know that there will be welcome. It is to know that to come into the presence of this One is to receive, not necessarily a gift, but love, and of Himself, in a communion which is unbroken and perfect" (G. Campbell Morgan).

3. Rejoicing in Hope.

The world is sorrowful for it has lost hope, but the believer rejoices "in hope of the glory of God" (v. 2). The Christian has the forward look. His future is as bright as the promises of God. He knows that he will one day see the glory of God revealed in all His holiness, power, love and grace. Even now the believer has that hope in his heart, and lives a rejoicing life (or should do so). It's a great thing to be saved!

YOU BUY INOCULATION ON FAITH

Field tests have shown a big difference in the quality of inoculator brands on the market. You cannot see the latent bacteria you purchase. Immediate demonstration is impossible. What is the reputation and experience behind the inoculation you buy?

NITRAGIN is the ORIGINAL LEGAL INOCULATOR, having served the farmers for over forty years. It was a GOLD MEDAL at the World's Fair, St. Louis, 1904. NITRAGIN is made in the most complete and modern laboratory of its kind in the world. NITRAGIN is the leader in its field by a big margin. NITRAGIN demand in the South has rapidly increased year after year. During the fall of 1940 the Southern shipments of NITRAGIN were for more than 45 million pounds of VEATCH and WELLS FEAS. This large demand is due to many field tests carried on year after year. We prove by these tests that NITRAGIN is a good product. Send for our booklet "Plant Legumes to Prosper" showing pictures of field tests and how NITRAGIN is made. The booklet also gives you valuable information regarding the inoculation of legumes. If your dealer does not have NITRAGIN in stock, have him get it for you. Insist on NITRAGIN inoculation. Accept no substitute.

Mistakes to Be Avoided In Summer Care of Dogs

Baths, Clipping Can Be Harmful.

"DOG DAYS" are coming, but they needn't bother your dog. With simple, right summer care he'll be healthy and cool as a cucumber!

Do not clip him, for he sheds his undercoat, leaving his outer coat to protect him against the hot sun, flies and mosquitoes. Comb and brush him regularly—but do not give him too many baths, as this removes the oil he needs to keep his coat healthy.

Our 32-page booklet gives the simple all-year-round care that keeps a dog healthy. Tells how to choose your pet, feed, housebreak and groom him; how to train him to do clever tricks. Advises on dog sicknesses; has information on rabies. For your copy send order to:

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.

Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Revival At Farmington.

A revival meeting is in progress at the Farmington Baptist church this week, with services at 3.30 and 8.30 p. m., day light saving time. The afternoon services embrace the journey of the children of Israel from the migration from Egypt to their arrival in the Promised Land. Rev. Chas. Stevens is pastor of Salem Baptist church.

Dunn-Briggs.

License was issued in Yadkinville last week for the marriage of Leo Dunn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Dunn, of near Redland, to Miss Helen Briggs, of Elkin. Mr. Dunn holds a position with the Chatham Manufacturing Co. at Elkin.

Meeting At James X Roads.

A revival meeting is in progress at James X Roads Baptist church this week. The pastor Rev. W. L. McSwain is assisted by Rev. L. M. Dorton, of Albemarle. Two services are held daily. The meeting began Sunday with three services one at 11 a. m., 3:00 and 8 p. m. Dinner was served on the grounds, and a large congregation was present. Mr. Dorton is a speaker of great power, and the public is cordially invited to attend all the services during this week.

Navy Recruits Get Thorough Training

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—Dr. Minnie L. Maffett, who, as president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, is the leader of about 75,000 career women in America, insists on equal pay for women doing men's jobs, and she also assesses women with heavy responsibility for what lies ahead.

"Women must take leadership in insisting on a new economic world order," says Dr. Maffett. That might seem like a lot of bother for the women; what with getting the children off to camp and this and that, but Dr. Maffett tells them sternly they must face it, "if we want women to have authority in the world of tomorrow." Her observations were addressed to the biennial meeting of the above federation at Los Angeles.

The silver-haired, blue-eyed, pink-cheeked Dr. Maffett, is, like many contenders for equality and authority for women, emphatically feminine. Pre-meditated or not, it's a good technique which the early-day suffragists knew and practiced diligently. She lives in Dallas, Texas, where she has long been a distinguished physician and surgeon, a member of the college of medicine of Baylor university, on the staff of the three biggest hospitals in Dallas, and a director of the department of health education of Southern Methodist university.

Descendant of a family which went to Texas in 1834, Dr. Maffett took her academic and medical degrees at the University of Texas. She was elected president of the federation in 1939. She rallies women to intelligent social effort under the slogan "business women in a democracy."

She is a dynamo of energy, flying everywhere—she's an aviation fan—organizing and agitating for women and their work and their readiness for a new economic and cultural show-down after the war. Women certainly do like to get things ship-shape. Perhaps they rate a trial workout, considering the general state of masculine untidiness and confusion now prevailing.

DR. ARTHUR UPHAM POPE, art connoisseur and leading world authority on Iranian art, heads the "Committee for National morale" which now, after months of research, makes known it has discovered and identified Hitler's "secret" weapon. As Dr. Pope explains it, the device is the precise scientific mastery of impelling scientific forces by which you can make men think and act as you want them to.

One of the last books of the late Jacques Futrelle, who went down on the Titanic, was "The Thinking Machine." It was about an old professor who discovered what Dr. Pope's committee thinks it has now learned. He finally dominated the world. The theme of the book was that any man who masters certain definite psychological formulas, and employs them diligently, will own and operate mankind.

That is exactly what the Germans have been doing, according to the committee, just now issuing a 155-page brochure describing its research and its findings.

The committee, which began work last July, includes many of the leading social scientists and psychologists of the United States. It delivers not only a detailed description of the German psychological mass-pressure techniques, but it concludes that we have abundant knowledge and skills with which to meet it. But it will be no hit-or-miss job of agitating. It will be a campaign of psychological warfare as carefully contrived as an air battle.

Mr. Pope, a native of Phoenix, R. I., was graduated from Brown university. He has long been a distinguished figure in the world of both art and philosophy—but always on John Ruskin's terms: "Fine art is that in which the head, the heart and the hand go together."

We saw Dr. Pope occasionally when he was professor of philosophy at the University of California; and again, at the Foyot restaurant in Paris in 1923, fired up with Persian art and headed toward Teheran, to sink many years and much brilliant scholarship in that area. After a round-trip to about 3000 B. C., he landed in London in 1930 with the noblest exhibition of Persian art ever assembled.

Last year, with his collection greatly augmented, he staged a memorable exhibition in New York, at the old Union League club.

Benefits to Our Readers
THE PUBLIC nature of advertising benefits everyone it touches. It benefits the public by describing exactly the products that are offered. It benefits employees, because the advertiser must be more fair and just than the employer who has no obligation to the public. These benefits of advertising are quite apart from the obvious benefits which advertising confers—the lower prices, the higher quality, the better service that go with advertised goods and firms.

Enchanting Party Frocks of All-White for Evening Wear

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

DO YOU believe in the magic of fairy wands? Unless it be at the touch of a fairy wand how could such visions of loveliness as the trio pictured ever come into being?

It is just such lacy, beguiling sheer and lovely gowns as these that women who yearn for pretty clothes envision in their dreams of "what to wear," when they go dancing on a gay summer night. So be as sentimental, as blithely romantic as you will in choosing your midsummer night festive gowns, keeping in mind that fashion particularly favors exquisitely fragile sheer media this season, with the emphasis definitely on all white for evening wear.

The all-white lace dress as pictured to the left is making its appearance again and again on best-dressed women who are attending fashionable night clubs or formal events at important summer resort hotels. It adds to the lure of this lace that it is American made. It is as exquisite and beautiful as it is surprisingly inexpensive. Crisp, white and delicate, the new laces make you look your prettiest with their lure and charm. The dress has its own rayon taffeta slip.

The South American influence is very prominent in the white cotton lace evening gown shown centered in the group. The four flounces on the skirt are reminiscent of the Spanish dancer's costume. The deep capelike collar opens at the back. With the return of the "gracious lady" period, the call for handsome lace such as fashions this distinguished frock is outstanding. Nothing in the way of sheer cottons surpasses organza and when it is elaborately eyeleted as is the organza used for the "picture" gown on the fair socialite portrayed here, the effect is most eye-appealing. The introduction of black jersey in the bodice is in keeping with the present trend. This touch of black gives a sophisticated look to an otherwise airy, fairy ingenue frock. The wing-sleeved bolero and the very full over-skirt effect are high-style details.

This matter of sheer airy-fairy fabrics for the party dress carries all the way through the program of the "pretty" frocks fashion so definitely favored this season. Often yards and yards of billowy tulle or stiffened chiffon or thinnest of marquisette go to make up the full skirt with its quaint little fitted bodice.

A new vogue this season is that of enormous florals handpainted on either most diaphanous filmy white sheers or these flower paintings are done on white jersey likewise white sharkskin in dazzling color glory. Most of the new white dresses of rayon jersey (with a dull finish) or rayon crepe are made very simply. They are, however, given a look of distinction and importance by intriguing touches such as gold kid trimmings, gold or jeweled buttons, girdles with an enrichment of jewel embroidery.

Watch buttons! They promise to be as important as jewelry in the evening mode, and are used conspicuously so as to call attention to their intricate design. Huge flower buttons add infinite charm to the otherwise all-white frock. Immense mother-of-pearl buttons are fashion highlights. Some of the pearl buttons are made up with a filigree design worked out in gold or silver. You can get buttons that snap on and off and thus change the entire aspect and color scheme at will. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Vacation Outfit

You can bank on this simple rayon sheer striped dress no matter where you vacation, for simplicity is America's fashion this summer from coast to coast. Broadening horizontal shoulder stripes, with whitening vertical stripes prove the stripe is quicker than the eye when it comes to actually whittling down the figure. This optical-illusion outfit comes in brown and blue, navy and white, also gray and white. A flaring brimmed hat and gauntlet gloves complete this outfit.

Chic Fur Capes Are on Fashion's New Calendar

Keep on the lookout for fur capes. They're on their way! They are available in any length from shoulder to waist depth and longer. If you have a coat that has served its time go to your favorite furrier without delay and have him transform it into a latest-model cape. If you are buying out-and-out new furs, before you invest take a look at the stunning cape fashions that definitely will carry the "new" look from now on. These are the final word in chic.

Linen Dresses and Suits Season's Smart Styles

Women of assured fashion intuition regard suits in black or brown, navy, or dark green linen as the best-looking costume of the season for town wear. These are meticulously tailored and are given charm and femininity via lovely white lingerie accents.

One-piece dresses of non-wrinkle linen are very popular this summer. They are made with all the fine dressmaker details such as enhance chic models in crepe or thin wool. There are such highlight touches as braid-trims, odd huge buttons and so on. The dress that looks like a suit, also princess types, are popular in linen.

Print Lingerie

Enthusiasm for lingerie and negligee apparel that is fashioned of either cotton or silk prints that are patterned with luscious looking strawberries is running high. You will love the new rose-motif prints, too.

FIRST-AID to the AILING HOUSE

By ROGER B. WHITMAN
(© Roger B. Whitman—WNU Service.)

Leaky Brick Veneer
QUESTION: During heavy rains water seeps through my brick veneer house at the joint between the sill and the top of the foundations. What kind of caulking compounds can I use to close the leak?
Answer: That condition is fairly common with brick veneer houses. Water works through the bricks and the mortar joints and runs down into the space between the veneer and the sheathing, which is usually about an inch wide. As the sheathing is covered with waterproof paper, the water that collects in the bottom of the space can escape only through the joints along the sill. These joints can be closed with caulking compound, which should be forced in with a caulking gun. A better remedy is to drill a series of holes through the mortar joints in the lowest course of bricks, so that water can drain off to the outside. These holes can be made with a quarter-inch rose drill.

Maps on a Wall
Question: I have removed the paper from the walls of a small room, and am going to cover them with maps. Should the walls be sized? And can I use regular wallpaper paste?
Answer: Yes; size the walls and put on the maps by the same method as wallpaper. Get the best grade of wallpaper paste that you can find. Spread the maps on the floor for pasting. In sticking them on, begin at the top edge and roll the maps downward so that all air will be excluded. If you find that bubbles of air have been caught, use a rubber roller of the kind meant for mounting photographs. If the bubbles will not roll out, puncture the paper with a needle; the air will escape, and when the paper is pressed down, the hole will disappear.

House Colors
Question: The lower half of my house is imitation red brick, the upper half single stained dark brown, and the roof is green shingles. In repainting, what color would you suggest for the shingles that will blend with the red lower half and the green roof?
Answer: My choice for the shingles would be either white, or white with a cast of cream or warm gray. You will probably have to use a first coat of aluminum paint to keep the brown stain from bleeding through. For a suggestion, go around your neighborhood to notice the colors that houses are painted, not forgetting the colors of trim, to see which combinations you prefer.

Stopping Overhead Noise
Question: The kitchen of the upstairs apartment is directly over our bedroom, and we hear every sound. Can our ceiling be made sound-proof so that we can sleep?
Answer: It cannot be made entirely sound-proof, but the noise can be greatly cut down. Line your ceiling with insulating board. On that put 2 by 2 strips of wood to support a second layer of insulating board. Pieces of thick felt should be put under all nail heads. Another method would be to put a framework of 2 by 4s under your present ceiling, but not touching it, supporting a layer of insulating board. The framework can be supported on the side walls.

Economy in Construction
Question: We are thinking of building a six-room house, but do not know whether it should be one story or two. Which would be cheaper to build and to heat?
Answer: In house construction it is considered that the price is least when the roof that covers the rooms is smallest. This means that a two-story house should be less expensive than a house in which all the rooms are spread out on one floor. Another principle is that a square or rectangular house costs less to build than one with extensions or a more complicated outline. Also, the more compact the house, the less should be the heating cost.

Stiffening a Rug
Question: A 9 by 12 foot rug, 10 years old, is in good condition except that it is limp. How can it be stiffened?
Answer: Turn it over, and apply a coat of shellac to the back. The shellac should not be applied so thickly that it will soak through to the front.

Kerosene Stain
Question: A kerosene stove was tipped over on an Axminster rug and the oil made a large stain. What will take it out?
Answer: You can use clear gasoline. Take the rug outdoors, lay it where there is no vegetation to be harmed, and pour gasoline through the stain. Do not attempt to do this indoors because of the great fire risk.

Loose Veneer
Question: Water that dripped on a buffet raised the veneer top from one edge toward the center. How can this damage be repaired?
Answer: Using a knife with a long and thin blade, such as a table knife, work glue as deeply as possible into the space under the veneer. Then press the veneer back into position and hold it there with heavy weights until the glue has dried. The job is rather tricky, and if the buffet is valuable, it would be better to have the repair made by a cabinet maker.

Household Hints

SANDWICHES THAT REALLY TEMPT

BUFFET SUPPERS

If there's one season of the year when you like to feel really free from the heat of the kitchen, then summer's that season. You can do it easily, too, if you'll plan and prepare C-O-O-L meals in the early hours of the day before the heat becomes sweltering. Then stay strictly out of the kitchen until supper-time.

Make mealtime during these months as simple as possible. Not only will you be the more charming for doing less work, but your family will enjoy the simplicity as a change. One of the answers to this is buffet service. An attractive-ly arranged table on the summer porch is a tonic for hazy summer appetites.

"Sandwich Loaf"

For Chicken Filling use:
1 cup ground, cooked chicken
1/2 cup ground almonds
2 to 4 tablespoons chopped celery
Salt to taste
Lemon juice to flavor
Salad dressing to moisten
Mix chicken, celery and almonds. Season with salt and lemon juice and add enough dressing to give spreading consistency.

For Egg Filling use:
4 hard cooked eggs
1/2 cup chopped cooked bacon or 1/2 cup stuffed olives, chopped
Salt to season
Few drops Worcestershire sauce
Salad dressing or cream to moisten.
Chop eggs, add bacon and Worcestershire sauce. Moisten with salad dressing to give spreading consistency.

Remove the crusts from an uncut loaf of day-old white sandwich bread. Slice lengthwise to make three or four slices about 3/4 inch thick. It's a good idea to have the bottom slice thicker than the other three since it helps in placing the loaf when served. Spread slices, except top and bottom, with creamed butter, mayonnaise, and with different fillings. Use chicken filling between two slices; egg filling for the next and chopped vegetables moistened with mayonnaise for the third or tomato slices.

Stack and cover top and sides with soft cream cheese piled like frosting. Garnish with thin radish slices and dust with chopped chives. Chill in the refrigerator several hours before serving. It's better not to use lettuce because it offers slicing difficulties after the loaf is served.

For the cream cheese frosting use 1/4 to 1/2 pound of cream cheese. Add rich milk or cream to make a thick paste. Beat cheese and cream until evenly mixed and of good consistency for spreading. Spread over loaf to give a fluffy effect, as though you were swirling icing.

"Tomato-Cheese Salad"
(Serves 8-10)
1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed tomato soup
1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon grated onion
1 1/2 tablespoons gelatin
1/4 cup cold water
6 to 8 ounces cottage cheese
1/2 cup mayonnaise
Salt to taste
1 cup chopped cucumber
1 cup chopped celery
1/2 cup sliced radishes
1/2 cup finely chopped onion

LYNN SAYS:

When you think the thermometer's going to burst, then think cool, eat cool, act cool, and you'll be cool. Drink plenty of water and cooling beverages.

Be gay and have your meals casually out on the shady porch on a bright table cloth. Serve things buffet style for it'll make it easier all the way around: less table setting, less dishes, and less to do.

No one may feel much like eating, and people, generally eat less during summer months, but they must still have the proper diet. So bring out your crisp garden salads, chilled main dishes, and assorted fruits. Be Cool!

THIS WEEK'S MENU

- *Sandwich Loaf
- *Tomato-Cheese Salad
- *Honey and Nut Bran Muffins
- *Spiced Rhubarb Jam
- Cool Beverage
- Chilled Assorted Fruit Plate
- *Recipe given.

Lettuce
Tart french dressing
Heat the tomato soup, butter and grated onion. Soften gelatin in cold water and add it to the hot tomato mixture. Add the cottage cheese and mayonnaise, stir the mixture thoroughly and salt it to taste. Let the mixture cool until it thickens slightly, then add the chopped vegetables. Pour into a large ring mold or individual molds and chill until firm. When ready to serve unmold on crisp lettuce. Use a tart french dressing with this salad.

A one-dish summer meal that will help you be a cool and collected homemaker is this tasty ham mousse which may be served as a salad main dish, heaped high with garden greens, tomato aspic cubes, devilled eggs, carrot strips, peas marinated in french dressing, ripe olives, celery hearts.

Ham Mousse Salad Plate.
(Serves 6-8)
1 tablespoon of plain gelatin
1/4 cup cold water
2 cups stock or bouillon
1/2 cup mayonnaise
1/2 cup diced celery
1/4 cup diced gill pickle
1/4 cup minced pimiento
1 cup chopped, cooked, smoked ham

Soak gelatin in cold water for 5 minutes. Heat stock or bouillon to boiling point and add gelatin which is soaked. Stir until dissolved. Chill until slightly thickened, then whip in the mayonnaise. Add remaining ingredients, pour into ring mold and chill until firm. Unmold on salad plate and garnish with accompaniments suggested above.

Muffins that will bake in a few minutes will give your meal a tang and zest that will bring cheers from the family. These are so good you'll want them often for any meal of the day. If made in the smaller muffin tins, they'll make a grand addition when you have the ladies in for luncheon.

"Honey and Nut Bran Muffins."
(Makes 16 large muffins)
1/2 cup honey
1 cup flour
1/4 to 1/2 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 cups bran cereal
1 tablespoon melted butter
1 1/2 cups milk
1/2 cup walnuts, chopped fine

Sift together flour, soda, salt, and mix with bran cereal. Add other ingredients. Place in greased gem pans and bake in a quick oven (425 degrees) for 25-30 minutes.

A jam, spicy and delicious to go with your muffins is this one which needs only a few minutes' cooking and is therefore guaranteed not to make your kitchen unbearably hot.

"Spiced Rhubarb Jam With Orange."
(Makes 7 6-ounce glasses)
3 1/2 cups prepared fruit
4 cups sugar
1 box powdered fruit pectin
To prepare fruit, trim and slice fine (do not peel) about 2 pounds of small red-stalked rhubarb. Add 1 cup of sugar, mix, let stand for 15 minutes. (This cup of sugar is added in addition to the ones specified above.) Add 1 teaspoon each of cinnamon and cloves, and grated rind of 1 orange.

Measure prepared fruit into a 5- to 6-quart kettle filling up last cup or fraction of a cup with water if necessary. Place over the hottest fire, add fruit pectin, mix well, and continue stirring until mixture comes to a hard boil. To reduce foaming 1/4 teaspoon butter may be added. Pour in the 4 cups of sugar, stirring, bring to a full rolling boil, and boil hard 1 minute.

Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly into glasses. Paraffin at once.

Household Hints

Dipping fish in boiling water will aid scaling.

Moist table salt will remove egg tarnish from silver.

Small pieces of soap can be placed in a bag and used for washing clothing.

Because the kitchen is definitely the workroom of the home it should be provided with plenty of light and air.

Inspect the backs of pictures from time to time to make sure the wires and fastenings are secure and to repair any holes in the paper coverings that might let in dust.

LET US TELL YOU MORE ABOUT IT

A Tip to Youth

If you want to be a B.M.O.C. (Big Man on Campus) or a Campus Queen stay away from liquor.

Not only young people's societies but an increasing number of college leaders, movie stars, society leaders, health columnists, and etiquette experts are giving such advice to youth.

"You can't be the conquering quarterback in Saturday's game and have spent Friday night in a beer barrel" is the theme presented by college units of the Youth's Temperance Council, the youth division of W.C.T.U. "In fact the choice isn't even left up to you. The men that the coaches select for their teams are not those with muscles in their right arms trained to hoist beer steins."

"A Campus Queen"

Girls particularly are told to maintain mental alertness and physical attractiveness by complete abstinence from liquor.

One effective quotation is from a "Tips to the Teens" column in a current national magazine:

"A girl is never so attractive after she's had something to drink as she was before. After a drink or two your hair sort of slips, like a wig. It gets tired and looks it. Your eyes, supposed to shine like stars, are fixed and glassy, more like marbles. It all adds up to this: You are an attractive girl or you wouldn't be out on parties. Why make yourself less so?"

"Or, a Bar-Fly?"

Without Controls

Those hidden unsocial impulses which lurk near the surface in every man are generally kept locked in a secret room, behind the closed door of self-control. Alcohol is the key which unlocks that door, according to Bertha Rachel Palmer, scientific temperance education director for the W.C.T.U. Whatever is in that room stalks out—cruel impulses, amorous or ugly emotions.

Flimsy Excuses!

Smoothest excuse-makers for liquor are the "traffic," people who make profits out of peddling a narcotic, and the addicts, people who hurt themselves and others by drinking a narcotic.

Anyone who has had anything to do with a drunkard—or a day-after-day "social drinker"—knows that he's as full of excuses as he is of rum.

"Have Another?"

The liquor traffic is that way too, the W.C.T.U. points out. When a business means money in a man's pocket, he'll find excuses, whether it's for liquor, slot machines, or naughty pictures.

Mr. Ordinary Citizen usually decides though that excuses aren't worth much when they are stacked up against the considered verdict of experts, whose only interest is mankind's betterment and not profits.

Morgan Cloud, a captain of the medical corps of the U. S. Army, published a book in 1934 to give an objective report on liquor. He quoted eminent opinion as follows:

DR. CHARLES W. MAYO: The only legitimate use of alcohol is in the arts and sciences.

MARSHAL JOFFRE: Alcohol, by diminishing the moral and material strength of the army, is a crime against national defense in the face of the enemy.

DR. RICHARD C. CABOT: Medically and socially the case against alcohol is just as clear as the case against opium.

DR. HOWARD A. KELLY: There is no disease in the world for which alcohol is a cure. It does undeniably cause thousands of cases of disease.

HORSELY AND STURGE: Alcohol weakens the heart, lowers resistance to disease, shortens life, impairs one's judgment, reduces one's earning power, is harmful even in the smallest dose, delays and prevents digestion, is a poison, has become obsolete as a remedy, kills everything that lives, preserves everything that is dead.

SHAKESPEARE: O thou invincible spirit of wine, if thou hast no other name to be known by, let us call thee devil.

ADVERTISING Costs Nobody Anything

Through advertising the producers and distributors get their returns in the increase in business, for it has brought about mass production, mass distribution and mass buying. It doesn't cost the consumer anything and it saves time in buying without so much shopping around.

It is the best method of promoting sales and has made it possible for ordinary people to enjoy many conveniences through mass production that otherwise only the rich could afford.

An ad in The Record goes into hundreds of homes in Davie and adjoining counties and will more than pay the cost of the investment.

Why not phone No. 1, and let us figure with you on the cost of an ad. Our rates are very reasonable.
