READ THIS AND THINK

This publication does not glory in publishing the gruesome, but those days when so many accidents are happening on our highways, most of them caused by careless driving on the part of some one, we are willing to print anything that might cause the thoughtless to THINK. Read the following description of a recent wreck, as told by a minister who was among the first to arrive on the scene of the accident.

"I will never forget the sight of those five West Virginia men in the blood soaked wreckage of the Plymouth car. Carl Kennedy, the driver, hung unconsciously out of the left front door, which had sprung back under the impact, his leg curled, and bleeding from a cut on his head. The engine had been driven completely back into the car and young Porter, who was in the front seat with Kennedy, was also caught fast by the heavy motor. Both legs were shattered and broken above the knees. The steering wheel of the car was bent double and a gaping hole torn in the windshield.

"Porter was raving and shouting in agony. 'Help me! Help me!' he shouted. 'For God's sake somebody come and get me out of here. I can't stand this much longer. It's killing me!'

"We tried to get both Kennedy and Porter out, but we couldn't budge them. The engine was driven back in such a way that it was impossible to release them. Finally, a truck came along with an axe on it and the driver literally cut the seat out from the men. It was fully twenty minutes before Kennedy was freed and twice as long before Porter could be gotten clear. Porter was conscious all the time and was in intense agony. When he was lifted out his legs were grotesquely twisted and the broken bones protruded from the trouser legs above the knees.

"Kennedy was laid in the side of the road and it appeared that he was in a dying condition.

"The back seat of the West Virginia car resembled a slaughter pen. One of the men lay partially on the back seat. The other two were twisted about on the floor. The back seat of the car was soggy with blood and it ran down in little streams onto the floor and formed in big pools. The two men on the floor were almost swimming in blood. One had his teeth knocked out and his mouth horribly cut.

"Several boys and men who saw this gruesome sight became deathly sick and turned away to their own cars."

"MORE POWER"

Miss Perkins Secretary of Labor cries out for "MORE POWER." But that need not surprise any one. It is the nature of ninety nine office holders out of a hundred to crave more power than the law and the Constitution allow them. It has been the history of men and women since governments were first established. That's why our wise fathers who founded this nation provided a Constitution designed to delegate certain powers to certain officials and to limit their powers within the bounds not specifically granted. The Lady Secretary did not say "that she wanted to do with the additional 'power'" but figuring the time and the circumstances under which she expressed her desire for "more power," one may pretty well guess.

BUILDING BACK

That Ohio river flood was one of the worst calamities which ever hit this country. Several towns and cities were next to ruined, among these being Cincinnati and Louisville. And yet they will go right straight back and build again on the river lowlands. What has always puzzled us is why folks will build right on the river banks when they have so much elevated land on which to erect their homes and cities.

NOT EVEN FOOLED THEMSELVES

Carl Goerch in his interesting magazine, The State, tells of some interesting speeches made at the recent meeting of the Democratic Executive Committee in Raleigh. The committee had under consideration the recommendation to the General Assembly that certain changes be made in the state election laws. Some one suggested that the "professional marker" should be no longer allowed by law, that many times these markers mainly work for some candidate of their own choice. At the suggestion, two or three of the fellows got hot under the collar and almost burned the air with utterances of resentment to the least suggestion against the purity of the party, or any of its workers.

"They expressed the opinion," says Editor Goerch, that even to consider such a suggestion was a reflection against the purity and sanctity of Democracy in the grand old state. And then the man who gets out one of the country's most interesting publications goes on to say:

PIERO! THAT'S NOTHING BUT A LOT OF TWADDLE. IF MR. FOLGER AND MR. BAILEY AND OTHERS DON'T KNOW THAT DEMOCRATIC WORKERS IN SOME SECTIONS OF NORTH CAROLINA ARE AS CROOKED AS A RAM'S HORN, THEY'RE DELIBERATELY BLINDING THEMSELVES TO THE TRUE FACTS. WHY IN THE WORLD SHOULD ANY HONEST DEMOCRAT OBJECT TO THE PASSAGE OF A RESOLUTION HAVING FOR ITS PURPOSE THE CURBING OF CROOKEDNESS WHICH EVERYBODY KNOWS IS EXISTING?

WILL HELP TEXTILE INDUSTRY

A news dispatch last week stated that the United States representatives of the textile industry had succeeded in coming to a gentlemen's agreement with Japan whereby that country is to limit her cotton goods shipment to America. Dr. C. T. Murchison, President of the Cotton Textile Institute, and who was one of the American representatives in Japan, believes it will mean more business for Japan and a greater certainty and stability for American textile industry.

"The agreement," said Dr. Murchison, "is an outstanding example of what can be accomplished privately when gentlemen sit down together to explain their mutual difficulties and problems, untrammelled by governments."

A GREAT PUBLIC SERVANT

The Southern Railway Company is said to be Rowan County's largest taxpayer. Recently R. L. Sho, county tax collector received the Southern's 1936 tax checks and the aggregate totaled $25,804.43. Not bad at all. And yet there are those who believe a big corporation is a necessary evil, a sort of monster designed to rob the poor and give nothing in return. However, that big tax check will come in mighty good for Rowan just at this time. Be it said, also, that the Southern Railway Company is a great public servant in a way, and has done much for the growth and development of this section, and the entire south, for that matter.

NOT SO BAD AFTER ALL

The liberality with which the people of this nation responded to the cry of the flood victims speaks well for American civilization. Sometimes we think the average man cold and selfish and in a measure we are all more or less that way. Our abundance has added less contributed towards making us so. But when a real call comes to most of us from those whom we know to be in dire need, immediately our purse strings loosen. So after all we are not entirely worshipping at the shrine of the almighty dollar.

PRESS COMMENT

GOVERNOR HOEY, FRIEND

How nice to have a friendly Governor! Governor Hoey's efficiency has not yet been proven since his term of office has been less than a month but at least he is a real North Carolinian—friendly and a friend to all. While in Washington during the inauguration, several people from the eastern part of the state who have not had the privilege of knowing Governor Hoey so well in private life as have many in the western and central sections, saw his official car parked. They planned after viewing Mr. Vernon to go over and speak to the "man from back home" if it was the Governor. They did not have the opportunity, however, for Governor Hoey's car, with a Carolina license plate first and went over to shake hands. Business folk may hoot at the small act—but this is typical of Governor Hoey who is known by his first name to many of his fellow Tar-Heels who love and admire him. Mr. Hoey always has done just what was his duty, he was born liking people and with a friendly feeling to every person in North Carolina where he and his people have lived for generations.

As to his executive and financial ability as Governor of the state of North Carolina, that is yet to be proved. But, the odds are with Mr. Hoey, who, through hard work since he was a lad of 12 or thereabouts, he has done very well for himself, building up a good business and, while he is not a rich man, he has made some money for himself. It is then reasonable to think and believe that he will do well in this new venture of his—as Governor of his beloved state of North Carolina.—Asheboro Courier.

A year ago, in the paper for Feb. 6, the ground was covered with snow, but the sun as reported to have peeped out on Ground Hog Day.

Excitement was high in the girls' game as at times the victory seemed certain for first one and then the other of the two teams. The Mocksville girls with the big end of a 39 to 26 score had more trouble winning than the score indicates. The Mocksville boys made a one-sided affair out of a game that ended with a score of 36 to 11.

To Make A Long Tale Short

A friend dropped in yesterday and we asked him whether it was true that his wife called him a blockhead. "No," he replied, "not in so many words—she simply said, 'Pull down your cap—here comes a woodpecker.' A used car as sold by us means a reconditioned car, one in which the worn parts have been replaced, and the car put in first-class running condition.

THE 25-MILLIONTH

FORD HAS JUST BEEN BUILT

It has never occurred before in automobile history that 25 million cars of one make, bearing one name, have been manufactured under one management. The 25,000,000th Ford rolled off the Ford Rouge Plant production line on January 18, 1937.

25 million cars since 1903... more than one-third of all the cars ever built... enough cars to transport the entire population of the United States.

The figures represent a remarkable contribution to the social welfare, the industrial stability and the general progress of our country.

People respect Ford efficiency. They know Ford uses fine materials, the best workmanship at good wages, the most exact precision measurements. They know these things are passed along to purchasers in the form of extra value. Naturally, they like to do business with such a company.

That is the only reason it has been required to produce 25 million cars. Naturally, too, they expect more of a Ford car, more this year than last year—more each year than the year before. They have every right to. The experience gained in building 25,000,000 cars enables Ford to produce today a really superb motor car at a really low price—with the Beauty, Comfort, Safety and Performance of much more expensive cars.

The 1937 Ford V-8 combines advanced design, all-steel construction, extra body room, and brilliant brakes with a choice of two V-type 8-cylinder engines—the most modern type of power-plant on land, sea, or in the air.

The 85-horsepower engine provides top performance with unusually good economy for its high power.

The 60-horsepower engine gives good performance with the greatest gasoline mileage ever built into a Ford car—and wears the lowest Ford price tag in years.

People expect more of a Ford car because it's a Ford—and they get more, for the same reason. It is undeniably the quality car in the low-price field.

"I'll promise to do that," I agreed. "And what have you been doing, Hopsell?"

"Oh—tennis, swimming," he answered, adding a little evasively, "a lot of things. Caro Prentiss is a swell kid, isn't she?"

"Yes. I like her better than any other young girl who's come to Satuli. She has a quality."

"And what a face!" Hopsell added. "Picture a personality of charm—she's got everything. And such vitality and strength!"

"I'm glad you're enjoying her so much," I commented.

After luncheon the telephone rang. "It's Mrs. Thelford, Mrs. Avery," Sarah Darbe informed me.

"What's the matter?" I asked. "I've never liked Brenda Thelford—Ace's cousin. But I knew that of course I must call upon her."

"I felt a little mortified that she was coming to the point where I could take a little walk this morning."

"Quite!" came Brenda Thelford's frigid, correct voice. "I perfectly understand. I wonder you are so sure because I don't know you."

"I've been very busy myself," I answered. "I'm sorry."

"It must be a dreadful business for you," I murmured.

"It is. Fortunately with so many deaths in my own family, I've had some experience in this sort of thing. But I've called you up, Mrs. Avery, to ask a great favor of you."

"What is it?" I asked. "I've never met you. I've never met you. I've never met you."

"I've never met you. I've never met you. I've never met you."

How Glad I Am to See You

Little rough porch of Ace's log cabin and looking off at the tranquil sea, I really heard it the first time I ever saw it.

Bruce's voice always deep—what with emphasis and the night of it. Somehow with that roar of the incoming waves below as a steady undercurrent, it seemed to take on a stupendous impressiveness. Perhaps all words are empty vessels; we fill them with whatever we want. We have of mind, of heart, of soul. Bruce filled the words of the Twenty-third Psalm until they brimmed.

"He closed the book and he too early for tea, Mary, can Adah bring you a cool drink—a temperance drink," he reminded me.

"I'll be right back," I answered. "I'll be right back," I answered.

"I'll be right back," I answered. "I'll be right back," I answered.

With that sixth sense we all possess and which, in that sense, is the real of my life, seemed to have decided on itself, I became aware presently of sounds from the Spinney. Presently Sarah Darbe came into the room.

"There's somebody in the Spinney, Sarah. Who do you suppose it is?"

"It's Mr. Hopsell and Miss Prentiss, Mrs. Avery," Sarah answered. "They're there all the time. I suppose they're still hunting for clues."

"They're Bessie this morning?" I asked Sarah.

"I don't think she slept very well last night, Mrs. Avery," I said decisively.

Bessie was busy with breakfast dishes. Shooting as had her appearance seemed to me the day before, it was doubly shocking to find her there.

"Had that gray, overcast sky a smudge, a dimple, a smile?" Bessie, I began at once, "you look tired to death."

"Then as though Sarah had said, 'I'm not so tired as you are,' she said to me, 'Do you sleep well?'"

"Not so very well, Mrs. Avery," Bessie answered.

"It's the shock, Bessie," I explained to her. "I feel better but I am by no means myself yet. So am I surprised that you are so good?"

"No, Mrs. Avery," Bessie said stonily. "It doesn't surprise me. I'm used to it."

"I'm used to it," Bessie said stonily. "It doesn't surprise me. I'm used to it."

"I'm used to it," Bessie said stonily. "It doesn't surprise me. I'm used to it."

Aristocrats Are Branded As Thieves And Robbers

Did the Eye of "The Good Shepherd" Penetrate Space and See Our Cruel and Barbarous Saxon Ancestors As His "Other Sheep?"

*The Sunday School Lesson For February 14th. John 10: 1-16.

BY A. C. HUNEYCUTT

On the eastern side of the Temple of Jerusalem at the time Jesus was on earth there was a balcony or archway roofed over, with a row of pillars on each side. It was one thousand feet long and was known as "Solomon's Porch." One could stand on it, look in an easterly direction and see the valley of the brook Kedron, and beyond Kedron, the Mount of Olives. Jesus was walking with His disciples on this porch when the Jews gathered about Him and made inquiry as to how long He intended to keep their minds in a state of uncertainty. They wanted Him to tell them for a certainty whether or not He was the One foretold by the prophets of old. Jesus gave them an opportunity to understand that He had already told them that He was the Christ and stated that the works that He had done in the name of His Father should speak for Him. He charged them with unbelief and told them that they would not listen to Him because they did not belong to His flock. He then gave one of the only two parables recorded in John's Gospel, the parable, or story of "The Good Shepherd."

Exposes Pharisees as Religious Leaders

The Pharisees claimed to be the shepherds of Israel. They posed as the spiritual guides and counselors of the people. Jesus knew that these Pharisees were leading Israel in the wrong way and one of the purposes of the parable of "The Good Shepherd" was to expose the rottenness and error of these self-constituted "shepherds."

"He that entereth not by the door into the sheepfold, but climbeth up some other way, the same is a thief and a robber," He said. "But he that entereth in by the door is the shepherd of the sheep. To him the porter openeth; and the sheep hear his voice; and he calleth his own sheep by name, and leadeth them out."

He shows the Pharisees up as thieves and robbers, because they did not enter the sheepfold through the Door, but climbed in by another way. They were not the true shepherds of Israel. His hearers did not understand the Parable.

When Jesus perceived that they did not understand, He told them plainly, "I am the door of the sheep; all that ever came before me are thieves." He also told them plainly that He was "The door of the sheepfold."

"If any man enter in by me, he shall be saved, and shall go in and out, and find pasture," He told them.

Here we have it from the very highest authority that the only hope of salvation is by way of the cross. As the great Apostle Peter later put it:

"Neither is there salvation in any other: FOR THERE IS NONE OTHER NAME UNDER HEAVEN GIVEN AMONG MEN, WHEREBY WE MUST BE SAVED."

The Savior told those Jews that He was not only the door of the sheepfold, but that He was the real Shepherd of the sheep and that His sheep would hear His voice and follow Him. He said that they would not follow strangers because they knew the voice of their Shepherd. What a profound truth. One who has ever entered into the sheepfold through the door, which is Christ Jesus, will never be led by false doctrines, nor by those who pervert the truth. And what a comfort it should be to His flock to know that "HE CALLETH HIS OWN SHEEP BY NAME AND LEAD-"

ETH THEM OUT."

Other Sheep Not of That Fold. Jesus went on in explanation of the parable which He had just given:

"And other sheep I have, WHICH ARE NOT OF THIS FOLD: THEM ALSO I MUST BRING, AND THEY SHALL HEAR MY VOICE."

He was speaking to Jews, and I take it that when He referred to "this fold," He was referring to them. What did He mean by "the other sheep?" I like to believe that the Savior at the time He said, "Other sheep have I, and them I must also bring," with His omnipotent eye, was looking across the wide expanse of the Mediterranean, and up into the northwestern part of Europe, and was seeing our Saxon ancestors. There they lay that day as he beheld them across a sea and continent, sprawled in their mud huts. Thine, in his "History of English Literature," describes them as follows:

"Huge white bodies, cool-blooded, with fierce blue eyes, reddish flaxen hair; ravenous stomachs, filled with meat and cheese, heated by strong drinks, of a cold temperamental slow to anger, stragglers, prone to brutal drunkenness."

Cruel and cool-blooded by nature, our Saxon ancestors before they embraced Christianity, were made more vicious, dangerous and cruel by the worship of cruel gods. But Jesus, if He were referring to them when He said, "other sheep have I," knew that He could bring them also, and that they would hear His voice. They did hear His voice and "believed on Him, and the cruelty of the Anglo-Saxon was turned into love, his poverty into wealth, his barbarism into the highest form of civilization; and his offspring have, through the influence of Christian civilization, built great temples and cathedrals, great schools and colleges, great manufacturing and railroad, and have led the world in the art of government for more than one thousand years."

"The Good Shepherd"

It was not a mere accident that Jesus referred to Himself as "The Good Shepherd." He did so because there was hardly any other way in which He could so vividly portray His relationship to His people. David, the shepherd, had a vision of the coming Savior as his "Shepherd" when he penned that immortal Twenty-third Psalm, which has been a comfort to multitudes of believers for three thousand years. A famous painting is that by Ploekhorst, entitled "The Good Shepherd." We have all seen it reproduced. A study of that famous painting is most interesting. It depicts the Savior with His shepherd's crook walking across a stony and thorny field. By His side, and following Him, are many sheep apparently contented and happy. We may imagine them the strong ones who can walk on their own, but in His arms He carries one that is evidently sick or crippled. There is a thought there which should comfort and thrill the soul of even the weakest believer. As I studied that painting the other day, I said to myself, maybe those strong, stalwart sheep that are able to walk represent the great outstanding men like Paul, Martin Luther, John Knox, John Wesley and others, who carried the cross of Christ through the world, and who were carried by the poor fellow who can't make it alone. But "The Good Shepherd" does not leave and forsake such to furnish and die by the wayside, but picks him up and carries him to safety into the sheepfold.

There is no more beautiful story than the story of "Jesus, The Good Shepherd," which is the subject of our Sunday School Lesson February 14th.

PAGES FROM AN OLD MOCKSVILLE CIRCUIT REGISTER

(Compiled by Mary J. Heilmann)

An old leather-bound register of the Methodist churches on the old Mocksville Circuit, from 1836 with some omissions, to 1864, contains much to awaken interest in the past. Recently we have had the loan of this valuable old book, whose lists of members have columns marked off thus: Numbers, State of Grace, Single Married, Widowed, Probation, Expelled, Full Communion, Removed, Deceased, Withdrawn, Expelled, On Certificate and Marriages. This is the earliest record book of the Methodist church in this county obtainable. It consists mainly of lists of members and pastors of the Mocksville Circuit, with a few footnotes that add interest.

The index has these churches listed: Mocksville, Fulton, Shady Grove, Whitaker's, Olive Branch, Bethlehem, Warus, School House, Mount Sinai, New Hope, Wesley Chapel, Zion's Chapel, Center, Salem, South River, Lebanon (these two being transferred to Rowan) Liberty and Concord.

In many of the churches, or "classes," as they were called, is given a list of the colored members, as during the days of slavery many of the servants belonged to the same church as the master or mistress, though sometimes they united with a different denomination.

It may be of interest to our readers to see the names of the early members of Davie Methodist church, and this will be given further on in this article. This entry shows the extent of the Mocksville Circuit: "In 1833-36 the then Rowan Circuit embraced all the M. E. Churches in Rowan and Davie counties, except Salisbury. The appointments in Rowan with Salem in Davie formed the Rowan Circuit. 1843-7 The Rowan appointments were added to the Mocksville Circuit, and Mt. Sinai, Wesley's Chapel and Zion's Chapel put on the Jonesville Circuit. 1848-53 Salisbury was added to the Mocksville Circuit. 1847-53 Salisbury was again detached from the circuit and formed into a section. From 1841 to 1848 another book was used as register for the Mocksville Circuit."

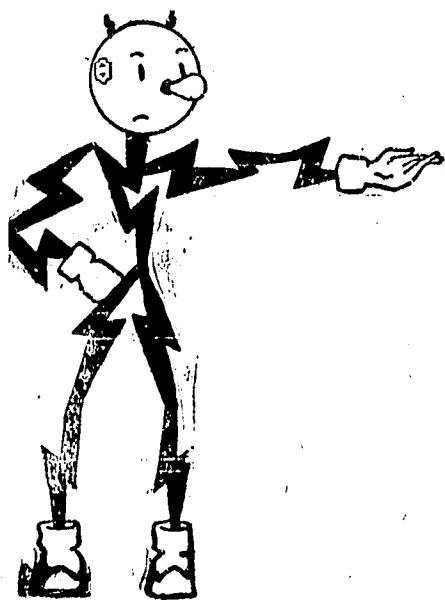

Some of the records are written in a beautiful hand, while others are very illegible, it being impossible to copy some of the names correctly. The following list of members of the Mocksville Class in 1833-34-35-36, is in the same handwriting as many of the other "classes"; the names being given as follows: John McCorrie, Mark D. Armfield, C. L. St. Archaibald G. Carter, R. S. Braxton Bailey, Andrew Hinkle, Jesse A. Clement, Nathaniel Taylor, Tenyson Cheshire, Thomas Jones, Elizabeth Latham, Sarah Latham, Mary McCorrie, Sarah Muliken, Mary Wilson, Barbara Cheshire, Sophronia Meroney, Elizabeth Parker, Letitia M. P. Carter, Missouri M. Miller, Anna Helpher, Malinda Clement, Julia Glasscock, Matilda Galtner, (Rosebro) Fredrick Hudson, Sarah Latham, Cassandra Latham, Nancy C. Govin, James C. Ryan, Mildred Rencher, Elizabeth Clement, John Muliken, Mary A. Nail, Elizabeth Pearson, Henrietta Galtner, Susanna W. Cheshire (Cain), Sarah Ryan, Rosanna McCorrie, John Latham, Daniel Brown, Christina McClamper, Susanna Helpher. This handwriting closes this entry, so it is likely that these were the first members of this class. The list of members at Olive Branch in a similar hand, from 1836-37, contains these names: "Ewen Brock, C. L. George H. Chaffin, William Fulford, Maximilian Cathrel, Gideon Cathrel, Nathaniel Brock, Joseph Roberts, Nathaniel McDaniel, Joseph Cathrel, Daniel Fulford, Sarah Brock, Mary Lowry, Amy Taylor, Mary Lowry,

Charlotte Fulford, Margaret Cathrel, Margaret A. Cathrel, Mary Cathrel, Sarah Cathrel, Sarah E. Johnson, Frances A. Brock, Harriet Foster, Sarah E. Lunn, Clara H. James, William Taylor, Moses B. Taylor, Elizabeth Lowery, Samuel Taylor, C. L. John Naylor, Elizabeth Naylor, Margaret Lee, Francis Feeves, James Calles, Nelson Travillion, Jemima Calles, Martha W. Taylor, Samuel W. Naylor, Isaac W. Ellis, Watson S. Naylor, Nancy Perce, Mary M. Penery, Temperance Ellis, Thomas Forebee, Nancy Hunter, Samuel Taylor, Margaret Taylor, George Lowry, C. L. John McClannan, Thomas Cathrel, Matthew Fulford, Smith McClannan, James McClannan, Patrick R. Simmons, John Johnson, Anderson Smith, Sarah Brock, Annis McClannan, Penery Brock, Francis McClannan, Ann Outthrel, Edney Fulford, Sophia McClannan, Francis S. Brock, Mary McClannan, Mary E. Simmons, Elizabeth Kerby, Rebecca Kerby, Susan Roberts, Martha Johnson, Rebecca Bird, Chloe Johnson, Mary Donoho, Ann R. Naylor, Enoch S. Brock, Levi Fulford, John Cathrel, Sally Jarvis, Mary J. Cathrel, Rachel Joings. The next names are written in another hand, so it is presumed that another minister was entering the field. Whitaker's Class lists members from 1826 to 1832 on pages 29 to 31 of the register, and one of the members, Susanna Sheek, joined this class in 1806; the names being: "Jacob Sheek, Ek and C. L. Henry Hunter, William Sanders, John Call, Jr., William Massey, Vincent Walker, Henry Call, James H. Austin, Margaret Austin, Susanna Sheek, Sally Sanders, Dorothy Gibson, Sarah Sheek, Barbara Chaplin, Sheets, Elizabeth Spry, Polly Howard, Polly Howard, Putsey Taylor, Elizabeth Harbin, Edy Hainline, Mary Hainline, Malinda Howard, Eliza Foster, Hannah Hainline, Stephen Bryant, Nathan O'Bryant, Jacob Sheets, Caleb Baxter, James Wood, C. L. John Onil, Andrew Shacia, William Jones, Robert Berryman, David Fry, Richard Goings, William Phillips, Cintha Wood, Susanna Dever, Nancy Onil, Polly Sparks, Elizabeth Jones, Elizabeth Berryman, Loranah Sheets, Prudence Snider, Dorothy Snider, Sarah Onil, Sarah Fry, Mary Ellis, Nancy Snider, Martha E. Haines, Martha Dever, Jacinta Snider, Louisa Rominger, Nancy Phillips, Mary Baxter, Benjamin Weasner, Susanna O'Bryant, Elizabeth Sheets, Charlotte Doolin, Easter Armsworth, Elizabeth Howard, Daniel Frazer, Levina Baxter, Parthena Stewart, Manerva Howard." The initials after some of the men's names, such as C. L., Ek., L. L., etc., stand for Class Leader. Exhorter, Lay Leader.

Son Of Founder Local Concern Has Long Experience

(From Daily Post-Athenian, Athens, Tenn.)

Feb. 8, 1937.—R. D. "Dick" Bayless, of Athens, and E. N. Dugard, of Greensboro, N. C., have purchased the Hunes Chair and Table Company at Mocksville, N. C. The new owners expect to have the plant in full operation under their management by March 1st. Mr. Bayless and family left today for their new home. Athens regrets to lose Dick Bayless and his estimable family, but the best wishes and good will go with them to their new home and business. The plant was bought from J. F. Hanes and J. E. Johnson, who sold after a most successful business of 17 years' duration. The two established the manufacturing plant, and when they decided to retire from active life, they were desirous that their business be carried on in the same old way. It was after numerous applicants had sought to buy the business that Mr. Bayless learned of the opportunity and his offer was accepted. Mr. Bayless is well qualified to fill the position as president and general manager of the new plant. He has 17 years' experience in this line of work; his father before him, the late John Bayless, having managed the Athens Table and Manufacturing Company when Dick was a boy. After Richard returned from France, where he was in the army, he was also was critically wounded, when he was able he took up the duties of factory manager, holding that position until the new setup; two years ago, when he assumed the office of vice-president and general manager of the plant. Mr. Bayless, in speaking of his new plant in North Carolina, said they would continue to make high quality chairs and other output of the company. Mocksville is located in one of the richest tobacco lands in the South. The plant will be built direct from the owners, making a market for the timber and cutting out the middleman's profit. Mr. Bayless said, while Mocksville is not quite so big as Athens, it is a good size town, with all possibilities of growth, located in the heart of the Piedmont section. Mr. Bayless some time ago tendered his resignation of the office of vice-president and general manager of the Athens Table and Manufacturing Company, which he set up a commercial school in the new building four months ago, leaving the business in charge of his father, Mr. Bayless. Mr. Bayless is what we are going to call the "Mock" derived from the German word, "Make," which means to make. Mr. Bayless said of his old friends that they might be traveling through the section of North Carolina, but that Mocksville will always be a place on the outside and will appreciate your visiting.

John P. Green Passes Away

John Philip Green, 76, one of Mocksville's most prominent and highly esteemed citizens, died at his home on last Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 10th, after a brief illness. He was the son of Jesse Green and Susan Lopp Green, and was born in Davie County on August 6, 1860. In early life he joined Eaton's Baptist Church, later moving his membership to the Mocksville Baptist Church, and the work of his church was ever one of his chief interests. He was united in marriage to Miss Nancy Elizabeth Eaton, of Davie, on May 23, 1887. They moved to Mocksville in 1899, and became a prominent part of the religious life of the town. Mr. Green was a leader in the business activities of his town and county, and his integrity was known far and wide. Although there were no children in the home, a number of young people found a home and affection here. Mr. and Mrs. Green were noted for their many acts of benevolence, among these being the gift of a boys' dormitory at the Thomas Baptist Orphanage. Mrs. Green passed away on October 17, 1936, after a life of usefulness and good cheer to others. Mr. Green was the last member of a family of eight who reached maturity. The nearest relatives are a number of nieces and nephews, some living in this State, and others in the Middle West. County.

Accident Occurs Near Advance

Three men were killed and a fourth was injured about 10 o'clock Tuesday morning when a steam boiler on a traction engine exploded at the home of E. J. Potts, a short distance out of Advance.

The dead are Wiley Potts, 40; Isom Potts, 17, a nephew of the elder man; and Walter Glenn Jarvis, 24, all residents of the neighborhood where the accident occurred. O. D. Zimmerman sustained minor injury.

The men were all but blown to bits in the terrific explosion which it is believed, occurred when water was pumped into the boiler after the water level had been allowed to get too low.

Several people were standing about the traction engine when the explosion occurred and it is regarded as remarkable that others were not seriously injured or killed by the tremendous blast.

A large crowd gathered about the wrecked engine shortly after the accident and stated that the noise was heard for many miles.

The boiler had been fired up and the crew was preparing to go to the home of Mr. Zimmerman to thresh hesperanza. There was no warning of the impending disaster.

Close inspection showed that the first rent in the walls of the boiler occurred near the front end. Evidence of extensive corrosion could be seen and it was obvious that this was the cause of the break. The so-called steam chest, on the top of the boiler, held intact and remained fastened to the largest part of the wrecked shell.

The force of the explosion was almost incomprehensible. A large section of garden palisade was picked up near the point of the blast and literally blown to splinters. Portions of the dead men's bodies were hurled to great distances. Gearing off the engine proper were hurled about like leaves in the wind. The running gears of the tractor itself were stood on end by the crash, later falling across a small pickup truck which stood nearby.

The walls of the boiler, where no corrosion had occurred, were torn like thin pieces of paper. Flakes within the boiler were tangled like sewing threads. Window panes a dozen yards from the scene were shattered.

A jinx, it seems, has followed the community and several of the persons connected with the explosion have since been killed. On July 3, 1935, the tractor which went to pieces Tuesday, ran down and killed John Lindsay Ward, small son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Ward, in the same community.

The threshing outfit belonged to the Potts family.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

Night Snapshooting With Box Cameras

Thanks to more powerful artificial home lighting, owners of inexpensive slow lens cameras can now make snapshots indoors at night.

ARE you missing the fun of indoor snapshooting at night? Maybe because you have an expensive camera, such as the box, fixed-focus type, you think that indoor snapshooting at night is not for you. Perhaps you still suppose that without an f.6.3 lens or faster, you have little chance for succeeding, except by making time exposures. Be happy that such is the case no longer. There is now available, for indoor instantaneous exposures in your home at night, a new and more powerful photographic flood light bulb (No. 2), and with two or three of these, and your lamp, backed by inexpensive cardboard reflectors and with a roll of the fast super-sensitive panchromatic film behind your lens, snapshots at night can be made even with the slower single lens cameras. The initial investment in these new bulbs is higher but, on the other hand, they last three times as long. So, not that actually every body can be in on the fun, consider the precious subjects that these more powerful lights permit a simple box camera to photograph—the children at their evening games or in their nightgowns going to bed, the family gathered around the fireplace, gay evening parties, your friends come in, the pets, Dad reading the ice-box, and what not.

One of the enjoyments of making pictures at night is that you can control the illumination. In doing this, however, care should be taken to obtain the right balance of light. Remember that usually you get a better picture with more illumination on one side of the subject than on the other. Either two flood light bulbs should be used on one side and one on the other, or if only two are used, one should be placed closer to the subject than the other.

The light nearest the subject is the main light—the one which produces the high lights and shadows necessary for proper modeling of features. The other is used to balance the lighting—to illuminate features so that they will not be too dark. If this light is placed too close, faces will appear flat and lacking in roundness. On the other hand, if it is too far away, shadows on the side away from the main light will be too dark and the lighting will be harsh.

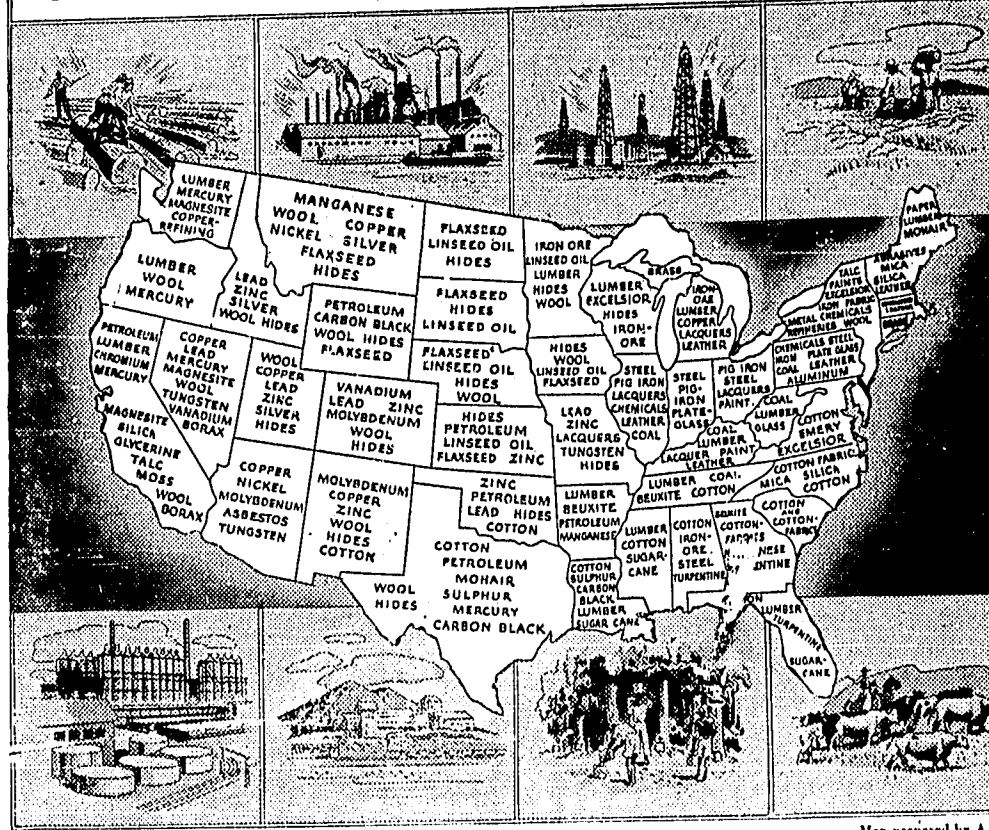

Suppose that you have placed a bulb in each of two bridge-type lamps with the shade, replaced by the cardboard reflectors. You will probably get a good balance of light, but by having one lamp about three feet from the subject and the other about four, it is an excellent plan before you snap the picture to experiment with the lamps in different positions, watching the different lighting effects on the face or faces. Always use the largest diaphragm, or stop opening. Slow lens cameras having adjustable shutter speeds should be set to take the picture at 1/25 second.

AUTOMOBILE STRIKES AFFECT EVERY STATE IN THE UNION

The automobile industry is one of America's largest buyers of raw materials and manufactured products. The map above shows a few of the principal products bought by manufacturers in each of the 48 states, at a total cost of $1,600,000,000. Significant as this is in indicating the nation-wide effects of a strike, it is far from complete. Another map might show, state by state, the thousands of dealers and salesmen directly affected. There is no way to picture indirect losses in retail sales and government revenue through reduced taxes and increased relief.

The Church militant, but more gloriously alive in that portion of it now in that better land. By close attention and hard work Mr. Holt amassed quite a fortune, but the real character of the man was manifested more in the disposition of his wealth than in the creating of it. The use of money is the real test of the man. Mr. Holt was a loyal and devoted member of the Episcopal Church, and during his lifetime he gave generously towards its support, and he made provision by will that his wealth will go on blessing mankind. He left large endowments for the missionary work of his Church, and for the support of schools and orphanages. But his benefactions extended beyond his own

The Shoe That Fits My Foot

A dependable carrier pigeon always returns in due time to his or her cage. And when a person leaves a good town, a splendid country, a patriotic people and a tried and true newspaper of long standing, he too, will return to his friends and those other things, which through the years he learned to love.

The same kind of shoe fits my foot. Having worked for this paper approximately five and one-half years previous to September 1, 1934, at which time I accepted a position with the Danbury Reporter, Danbury, N. C., remaining an employee there until a week or so ago when I decided to come back to be with the Enterprise and friends in Mocksville and Davie county. I'm happy to be back.

As long as I remain here it will be my policy to help make this paper a better paper, Mocksville a better town and Davie county a better county. It is my wish that I may have the pleasure of working with such and everyone of you to this end.

Drop in some time for a chat. FRED P. CARTER.

Mocksville B. & L. Exempt From Social Security Tax

The Mocksville Building & Loan Association and its employees are exempt from the Social Security Act, according to a decision received by the Association from the Federal Home Loan Bank Board in Washington, D. C.

The report from Social Security Administration of Guy T. Hoover, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, on the status of unit trusts of the System, and of Horace Russell, general counsel for the System, stated that member units and their employees "come within the exemption extended by Section 811 and 907 (c) (5) of the Social Security Act. The exemption is based on the fact that the Mocksville Building and Loan Association is an "instrumentality" of the United States government, because of its membership in the Federal Home Loan Bank system.

While such information about one of the modern world's greatest industries will be found interesting by students, teachers and economists, the housewife and mother will also find the little book handy because of the reliable information it brings for first aid treatment in many different kinds of emergencies, hints for the kitchen and care of the garden and a well planned garden chart. J. Alvin Propst Conducts Meeting Here

On Thursday, February 11, Mr. J. Alvin Propst, Cotton Assistant from the State Office in Raleigh, conducted two meetings concerning the 1937 Soil Conservation Program. The morning meeting was for committee members and those responsible for the administration of the program in the county. At this time details of the 1937 program were discussed. The afternoon meeting was for those interested in the 1937 program generally.

In many respects the 1937 Soil Conservation Program resembles the 1936 program. Persons who filled out work sheets for 1936 will not have to fill out new sheets for 1937. The cotton payment, is 5c per pound on a maximum of 35 per cent of the base acres times the yield per acre. The tobacco payment is 5c per pound on a maximum of 25 per cent of the base tobacco acreage times the yield per acre. There is also a payment on general crops when such crops are grown in excess of home needs. The rate of this payment varies according to the farm.

A soil conserving base will be set up for each farm. The number of acres so established for each farm will be the number of dollars which may be earned for soil building practices. Some of the soil building practices and rates are: Seeding alfalfa $2.50 per acre; seeding red clover $2.00 per acre; seeding crimson clover and lespedeza $1.50 per acre; Soybeans and cowpeas turned under $2.00 per acre; Rye, vetch, crimson clover and winter peas turned under $1.00 per acre. 40c per hundred feet is paid for terracing. These practices are only a few of which may be used in earning the soil building allowance and will be paid for only up to this allowance.

In the near future a series of community meetings will be held in the county for the purpose of discussing this program generally with persons in the different localities.
