Drug Ring Trial Puts Locals In Prison

By Mike Barnhardt

Davie County Enterprise Record

GREENSBORO - A drug ring that federal authorities began investigating after an early 1980s bust in Davie County appears to be busted - with 11 people going to prison and the ring's leader still at large.

Some of those sentenced in U.S. District Court here last week said the ring was responsible for bringing as much as a ton of marijuana and a half ton of cocaine into Davie and surrounding counties over the past 10 years.

The leader of the ring, former Davie resident David Milton Crews, has not been caught. He could face a sentence of life in prison.

Among those sentenced last week was his father, Jerry Milton Crews of Advance, and others, including several from Davie County.

Judge Frank W. Bullock Jr. handed down the prison sentences, mostly shorter prison terms for those responsible for making decisions and handling the most drugs for the network. The shorter terms were a reward for providing information.

The ironic twist, Bullock said, was that those most involved knew the most, and had the most information to offer prosecutors. Others, "hired hands," didn't know enough information to merit drastic reductions in the prison sentences.

Only one of those arrested, Ronald Craig "Smoky" Blevins of Advance, refused to offer any information. He was sentenced to 10 years in prison, and when released, will have to perform 100 hours of community service work for each

Schools Seek $4 Million

By Richelle Bailey

Davie County Enterprise-Record

Davie school officials say they need almost $4 million in county funds to operate next year.

Head administrators of the health department, water and sewer treatment plants, and education system came forward with their budget requests to county commissioners on May 26 at a budget workshop.

The school system is requested a total budget of $3.97 million, an increase of $517,647 more than the prior budget of $3.46 million.

The increase includes salaries for six additional teachers, three additional exceptional children's teachers, five additional teacher assistants, a two percent noncertified employee supplement, and money to offset decreases from state funds.

The proposal includes $2.37 million for renovations and new construction at Davie High School.

A budget packet written by members of the Board of Education said that the increase was needed to continue to maintain and improve the current level of services provided by the schools. It stated that this increase would provide for the programs, educational goals, facility and equipment needs to operate at the standard of excellence requested by the board and expected by the residents of the county.

The health department proposed a $2.86 million budget, $505,122 more than the current year budget. The increase comes mainly in employees' salaries.

"We hear nothing but good things about the program," said County Commissioner Diane Foster. "People are very appreciative."

The water and sewer treatment plants requested a total budget of $1,243,631.

These requests are preliminary.

'The Class' Of Class Of '93

The Davie High Class of 1993, led by Brad Van Hoy, Heather McDowell and Melissa Rennie, will receive their diplomas in ceremonies Thursday night, June 3, in the football stadium. For a photo of each of the graduates, as well as articles about some of the students, please turn to section C.

Jerry Crews: 'I'm A Gambler, Not A Drug Dealer'

By Mike Barnhardt
Davie County Enterprise Record

Jerry Crews knows all too well the dangers of drugs.

Cocaine controlled his every movement for just about two years. It nearly cost him his business - and his life.

It has cost him his freedom. Crews will spend the next six and a half years in federal prison.

It has cost his son his freedom, as well. David Milton Crews, the leader of a drug ring that is accused of bringing a ton of marijuana and a half ton of cocaine into this area, is on the run. A multiple offender, he could face life in prison if caught.

"I would like to have never seen any drugs in my family," Jerry Crews said while in the Yadkin County Jail awaiting trial. "We have a close family and drugs are tearing it apart."

Words like "criminal legend" and "Davie County Mafia" come to mind when the name Jerry Crews is mentioned.

Crews just shakes his head and smiles.

"If only I hadn't been a Crews," he said. "I've been accused of a lot of things - about 90 percent of them aren't true. After a while, your reputation gets up with you."

"I'm not a drug dealer, never classified myself as a drug dealer. I'm a bookie. I take bets. I'm a gambler. I ain't no damn drug dealer."

Grew Up Near Hillsdale
Crews grew up in the Hillsdale area of Davie County, and completed the 11th grade. He was in the first class to attend Davie High School.

He worked in textile plants in Winston-Salem and Mocksville, but said a car accident in the early 1960s killed his friend and left

The Crosby Tees Off Thursday-Sunday Celebrities Galore Expected At Charity Golf Tournament

By Ronnie Gallagher
Davie County Enterprise-Record

The eighth-annual Crosby Celebrity Golf Tournament returns to Davie County this week when it begins Thursday on the Bermuda Run Country Club course.

This is the 52nd Crosby tournament, started by Bing Crosby. Since his wife, Kathryn, moved it to Davie County in 1986 from Pebble Beach, Calif., it has become an all-amateur, all-charity event.

The Crosby has raised over $10 million for charity in those eight years.

This year, more than 75, two-person teams will compete for a share of the $1.5 million prize. Last year's winners, John Mackovic and Sam Hendrix, will return to defend their $120,000 title, which went to their favorite charities.

Among the celebrities scheduled to appear include Kathleen Sullivan, Boomer Esiason and Jaltis Erving.

Bob Hope plans to be in Davie County again to celebrate his 90th birthday.

Celebrities are paired with corporate sponsor teams. The tournament focuses its charitable efforts on drug education and abuse prevention.

The Crosby schedule follows:
Thursday, June 3: At 8:30 a.m., a drug symposium will be

Hardest Lesson: Graduates Accept Responsibility

They have completed their courses. The English and math, Biology and chemistry are behind them. Typing and home economics and shop are over.

Across the nation, high school students are receiving their diplomas. Increasingly, they have been told the value of their diplomas has been reduced by the failure of the public educational system. Violence and drugs and moral problems have attacked the schools, along with the rest of society. Despite the problems, our schools continue to turn out many excellent students who have ambition and determination. They succeed despite the problems. Like the hardships of Abe Lincoln's log cabin education, some students must overcome the modern equivalents of those difficulties: Broken families, violence at home and a lack of moral discipline.

Those who succeed often have learned a lesson that schools can't always teach. Students must learn — sooner or later — that their success is up to them. Schools can help. Parents and friends can help. But they must provide the work. Good grades don't always translate into success in the workplace. And the schoolboy charms they used to get through school don't work outside.

These days, we are often encouraged to look elsewhere for the blame for our problems. That's most obvious in court. A murder defendant is never responsible for his crime, an attorney will argue. His parents abused him as a child, turning him into a murderer 30 years into the future. No responsibility. No fault.

That's rubbish. Students must learn that, too. A degree from a prestigious college doesn't instantly translate into a job. After the degree, the graduate must search for a job. That's no small task. And it's no small adjustment to go from a college community to the grind of the workplace. To go from professors to bosses.

Many students see the big bucks of professional sports and turn their energy in that direction. New Yorker magazine reported recently that there are 518,000 male high school basketball players in the United States. Of those, only 19,000 — four percent — will play for college teams. Only one percent will play for the major colleges. The NBA has only 367 players. Only 40 or 50 new players are drafted each year. Not good odds.

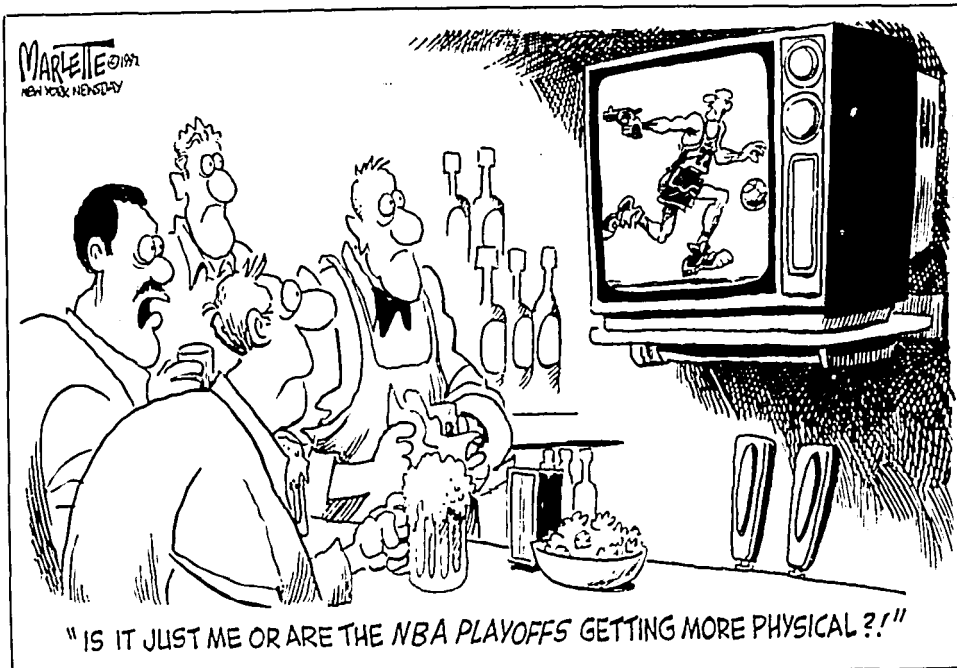

Yet, many students either don't know the odds, or don't realize that statistics could apply to them. Northeastern University recently surveyed high school athletes and found that 43 percent of the black players thought they would play for the pros. Half of them thought it would be easier to make the NBA than to become a doctor or lawyer.

A generation ago, a high school diploma was the end of the line for most students. No longer. It's an increasingly small number that doesn't go on for additional education and training. Modern technology requires it.

Graduating students face critical decisions about colleges, careers and romance. And it is both a weighty burden — and an absolute delight — that their risks of success and failure is in their own hands.

Good luck to them all.

Benefit Helps Chad Lipscomb

To the editor:
I am writing this letter to thank several business- and everyone who supported a cook-out to benefit Chad Lipscomb on Friday, May 28, hosted by the 911 Communications Department. Chad, 19, is a patient at Forsyth Memorial Hospital, undergoing treatment for a bone marrow disease. He is an active member of the Smith Grove Fire Department and the Davie County Rescue Squad. Chad is employed by Miller Building and works part-time for the 911 Communications Department.

Thanks go to all of the businesses for their donations. I appreciate Ronnie Thompson for allowing us to use the spacious facilities of the County Office Building auditorium, and all of the time and effort given by the participating dispatchers and their families. I would also like to thank the employees of Davie County Hospital for all their take-out orders and all of the folks who joined us for supper. All of the money raised will go toward Chad's medical bills. Plans are underway to establish a fund for Chad's medical expenses. As soon as plans are final, information will be released.

The Davie County Firemen's Association and American Red Cross will sponsor a Blood Drive Friday, June 18, 2:30-7 p.m. at the Smith Grove Ruritan Club on U.S. 158 across from the Smith Grove Fire Department.

In closing, thanks again for all of the support everyone is showing for Chad Lipscomb. Details of future events will be listed in the Davie County Enterprise and on WDSL radio.

Proud Of Athletes

To the editor:
I attended the Davie High Athletic Awards night last Thursday at Davie High, both as a parent and a coach.

As a parent, I would like to thank the coaching staff for all their hard work and for the long hours of dedicated service to our young people. Taking part in athletics teaches our young people values and standards that are part of the adult world. These ingredients used on the "playing field" will help them to have a more productive life. Cooperating with others, making sacrifices and choices, pushing one's self to accomplish a goal, dealing with failure and the joy of success are all lessons to learn in athletics. The Davie High administration must continue to recognize the importance of our athletic program and continue to up-grade and make improvements as needed. Davie should strive to be the best in all areas of our school and not accept anything less.

As a coach, I was very proud of our athletes in all the sport areas and very pleased at the number of athletes that won individual honors. I am especially proud of the War Eagles swim team in just their second season, and glad I had the opportunity to work with such a dedicated bunch of athletes. In the excitement of the evening, I omitted thanking my team captains, Brian Tribble, Cam Koike, Kathy Cozart and Eleanor Bailey, for their leadership and hard work. I also failed to mention the accomplishments of my young diving team. Not only did they place at their first conference meet as freshmen, but all four placed at the Western Regionals. Greg Kokoski, Melissa Agnillo, Cara Hansen and Melanie McDowell have a great future. Thank you.

Social Services Ignores Problem

To the editor:
A phone call to Davie County Social Services and the juvenile court office has not come through with results.

One night in February, a friend went joy riding in another friend's car. They met a young girl and her brother walking. Not thinking, they talked to the children. The children went riding. While out joy riding, they wrecked the car. My friend goes to jail and on to prison. The children are placed on 6 months supervised probation for running away from home. Many calls have been made to social services regarding the children. The children are two girls age 13 and 10 and one 14-year-old boy, often seen walking the streets of Mocksville alone at night.

The streets are not the place for young girls to be walking at night. Social Services is aware of this and has been for a long time. All they say when you report this is "We'll see to it." The Police are aware of this and when questioned, they reply "We sent a report to Social Services." The children's juvenile officer was called regarding the child out late. I thought a 13-year-old on supervised probation should be in at dark with her mother. The officer said the mother may have given her permission.

What does it take to get the Davie County Department of Social Services and juvenile court officer to open their eyes to these problems?

Modest Vacation: Try Turkeyfoot, The Bullhole

As school is ending and vacation time is near, there are plenty of opportunities for all you travelers tired of making the boring trips to Myrtle Beach or the mountains.

What's the big deal about those places, anyway?

Myrtle Beach is located on a big salty pond. So what? Couldn't you get the same enjoyment camping out next to Uncle Ferd's fishing pond in Turkeyfoot? If you get too hot, just jump in the pond. And you don't have to worry about that nasty undercurrent, or hearing the whistle from the obnoxious teenage lifeguard.

You say the scenery is better in Myrtle

Mike Barnhardt

Beach. If you want to see a bunch of bikinis or hunks, go buy a Sports Illustrated. Besides, for every just-right bikini and terrific hunk you see in Myrtle Beach you'll see 43 punks and 51 chunks. The pleasure ain't worth the pain.

And if you insist on dining out while on vacation, Turkeyfoot Grocery is just up the road from the fish pond. Forget the high priced restaurants at Myrtle Beach and go for some cheese and crackers. If you're in the mood for seafood, a can of sardines and crackers should hit the spot.

If the fish pond still seems too tranquil, don't fret. You don't have to spend two paychecks on that trip to Myrtle Beach. Just head down the road to Cooleemee. There's enough excitement there to last a lifetime.

Go to the Bullhole, and you'll find all types of people to look at — if people watching is your thing. There's plenty of water sports available there, too, and plenty of broken Jim Beam bottles (all empty, sorry) and smashed Budweiser cans (also empty).

If you prefer not to have your water sports on the cutting edge — literally — try the Cooleemee Swimming Pool. Heck, not only is the water clean, but it has chlorine, too. And there's other sports and playground equipment there.

Yes, there's hope for those of us on limited budgets to have an exciting vacation in 1993.

And there are those who like to go to the mountains.

Why? About all I've ever seen in the mountains is ... mountains. Big hills covered with trees. We've got hills covered with trees in Davie County. Lay on your back and they look bigger, and you don't have to leave the back yard.

Forget those trout fishing ponds that can be found just about anywhere in the mountains. Overpriced tourist traps, that's all they are. If you want to pay a ridiculous amount of money to catch a few fish, I'm sure there are several pond owners in these parts who would be glad to oblige. BYOZ. (Bring Your Own Zebon).

Don't be sad because there aren't any Tweetsie Railroads in Davie County. Another overpriced tourist trap. If you want cheap thrills on a cheap ride, go to the Masonic Picnic. And face it, Tweetsie Railroad hasn't been the same since Fred Kirby died.

And those trips up the mountain are really rough on the old car, not to mention the pocketbook when you stop for gas. Driving up the mountain, you can watch the gas gauge needle go down. Staying home helps the environment, as well.

So relax this summer. Enjoy home. Save some bucks.

But don't try to call me. I'll be on my way to Myrtle Beach, by way of Tweetsie.

Remember, Grads: Money Doesn't Mean Happiness

"Listen everybody. I want you all to be quiet. I've got Ben's college yearbook here, and I just want to read you some of the wonderful things about Ben. Be quiet, please."

For those students making the plunge from high school to college or real life this week, I want to give you some advice.

Though none of us were born yet, 25 years ago the movie "The Graduate" was released, starring a young Dustin Hoffman and Anne Bancroft as the neurotic wife of Dustin's (Ben's) father's business partner. Just to bring you up to speed, this is the movie that made Simon and Garfunkle's tune "Mrs. Robinson" famous.

Now I'm not encouraging any summer affairs with an older woman, guys, but I wanted to make a simple suggestion that during the upcoming lazy summer days you check this one out at the video store.

Like Benjamin Braddock, I'm sure most of you have had your fill in the past weeks of questions about your future.

No doubt a lot of people have been telling you what a success you already are, and what great things that you have accomplished by completing high school. Your friends are probably saying, "It's finally over."

In the movie, Benjamin Braddock had just graduated from college. He was captain of the cross country team, head of the debate club, managing editor of the college newspaper. The advice to any young person with the world at their fingers like Ben: Plastic's son, a big burley man says to Ben, slapping him hard enough on the shoulder to spill his drink.

But Ben wanted his life to be "different." After an adulterous affair with a woman old enough to be his mother, Ben falls in love with her daughter, Elaine, chases her to Berkeley, C.A., and steals her from the altar during her wedding to another "plastics-type."

When the movie came to theaters 25 years ago, my mother-in-law, who was herself a college student, was forbidden by her mother to see the movie because it was considered to be pretty racy.

Believe me, by today's standards, this one could go up against "Snow White" for a G rating.

But despite some of the backlash about an affair with an older woman, the movie had a good point.

Ben, an upper-class, white, male, who got a convertible Alfa Romeo for graduation, could live a life collecting material possessions. But he sees that despite their money, the people around him and those that he is destined to grow up to imitate, are still not happy.

So my graduation message to you is this: whether you go on to medical school or start work here in Mocksville, always remember that money doesn't make happiness, and like Ben, only you can make your life "different."

Community Support Has Led To County Line's Successes

To the editor:
I would like to take this opportunity to say thank you to the people of Davie and Iredell counties and especially the people of the County Line fire district.

On March 28, 1973, the first organizational meeting of the County Line Fire Department was held. Officers and directors were elected. Ray Godbey was elected as chief. The fire department was chartered on May 22, 1973.

Ralph Porter was hired on Feb. 12, 1974, to start construction on the building. Our first new pumper was purchased in 1975 for $29,068 plus equipment and our first used tanker for $2,500.

The Ladies' Auxiliary was organized in November 1975. Jack G. Koozntz was elected chief in December of 1975.

We became a rated fire department on Oct. 4,

Construction began on the BBO pit in 1977 and it was first used in October 1977. A brush truck was purchased for $600 and was equipped to fight grass and wood fires. In 1981 another pumper/tanker was purchased for $66,484 plus equipment.

In 1986 construction began on an addition to the fire station.

In the fall of 1990, our old tanker was taken out of service and a new pumper/tanker was purchased in 1991 for $121,890 plus equipment.

In 1992 a new quick response brush truck was purchased and is presently being constructed. The cost of this truck is $55,000 and should be delivered within 30 days.

Since the County Line Fire Department was organized, we have raised over $679,000. Tax funds from Davie and Iredell counties have amounted to $365,933. Fund raising supporters has raised over $192,000, and donations have added another $65,000. We have received four state grants for a total of $16,500. The Ladies Auxiliary has raised several thousand dollars and has purchased almost all of the tables, chairs, and kitchen equipment, and they have donated $14,000 toward the purchase of our trucks. They have supported us for the past 20 years and continue to support us with their outstanding help.

During the past twenty years, the County Line Fire Department has spent over $506,512 dollars for new equipment and buildings, and another $172,405 for operational expenses.

On behalf of the board of directors, firefighters, and Ladies Auxiliary of the County Line Volunteer Fire Department, I would like to thank this community of caring people for their support. It has allowed us to work together to help each other in time of need.

Jack G. Koozntz, Chief
County Line Volunteer Fire Department

Arts Council Soliciting Donations

To the editor:
As usual, when you make your first attempt at something, portions of it go smoothly and portions of it you consider to be a learning experience and remember it for the next year. I have experienced some of both in our first Arts Council Fund Drive. I am still excited, however, at the response we have received, particularly from the business community, thus far. We have just gone over the halfway mark of our $40,000 goal with three weeks to go.

Many residents and businesses are receiving letters and brochures soliciting support for a wide variety of Arts Council projects planned for the 1993-94 fiscal year. If you do not receive information on the upcoming Arts Agenda, but would like to, please call the Arts Council office at 634-3112 and leave your name and address. Information will be sent to you as soon as possible. We are looking forward to an exciting year of school and community programming.

All-American Cities Not A Beauty Contest

To the editor:
Why didn't Mocksville/Davie County win in the All America Cities contest?

One should not liken the All America Cities Contest to the All America Beauty Pageant.

To their credit, the National Civic League's All America Cities Contest is not a beauty contest, it is quite the opposite.

The League is, for the most part, seeking cities that have addressed catastrophic problems of crime, drugs, housing, poverty, unemployment, racial violence, substandard schools, etc.

Fortunately, due to vigilance on the part of Mocksville/Davie County citizens, our community is largely problem free, thus in reality we really are a winner.

Our effort is to keep it that way and make our community even better.

That was our demonstration to the All America Jury.

Bad Reputation Has Followed Jerry Crews

Crews with a broken neck. He still suffers from numbness, especially in the left hand.

Unable to do manual labor and uneducated, Crews said he turned to gambling.

He was first married in 1959, and his son David was born in 1960.

His first brush with the law came in the mid-60s, when he served six months in prison for hauling moonshine whiskey.

He got out and began running the By-Lo service station in Clemmons.

"I had my first poker game and started playing cards," he said. "I've played cards throughout the years."

He was always interested in cars, and went into the business in the mid-1970s. Soon after that, he moved back to Davie County, to the location off U.S. 158 where his wife now runs the business.

"I made a hell of a living with used cars," he said. "I sell more cars whole-sale than anybody in Davie County."

And there was his gambling business. Crews said he dealt with all types of people, ones who wouldn't tolerate a bookie on drugs.

"They (police) think that everybody who does business with me is crooked, and that's not the way it is. I do business with everybody from janitors to executives."

"It was 1981 or 1982. I don't know what it was, but people think if you open up a car lot, you're in the drug business."

"People were accusing me of selling drugs. I got me the reputation for selling drugs long before I had ever seen drugs."

"People thought I financed David's drug business and I hadn't."

"The only thing I've ever done is gamble. How I got the reputation of being a drug dealer, of being a mean or bad person, I don't know."

A conspiracy to commit murder conviction in 1975 was a misunderstanding, Crews said. He and another man had taken money from a woman who wanted a third man killed, but they didn't intend on carrying it out.

When the man was found dead in Myrtle Beach, at the same time Crews was there, police came looking for him.

Crews said he wasn't responsible, but pled guilty to get police to leave him alone. He received a suspended sentence.

Police, Crews said, haven't seen interested in his gambling. "Nobody ever said anything about my gambling, they complained about the things I didn't do," he said. "You can't be a bookie and a drug dealer because nobody will do business with a drug dealer."

"If you can't trust your bookie, you can't trust nobody."

Added to Cocaine

Crews about lost it all from 1988-1990, when he became addicted to free-basing cocaine. It is during this time that he also sold cocaine. He said it was nothing to get a gram or two of cocaine and share it with a few friends.

The problem came, he said, when he began free-basing, a way of getting the cocaine into the body quicker, producing a more powerful high.

"I've had one downfall all my life," he said. "A woman can lead me through hell."

He says she was living with a woman when he began using cocaine. "At first, I thought nobody could get addicted to snorting cocaine. Then we got into free-basing. Now that's addictive. You can't leave it alone. If you ever touch it, you're hooked."

He started using small amounts, which gradually increased. "You can get rid of an ounce in two or three days. We would smoke it until we were down in the floor, and then we would look for some more."

His car business, and gambling business, both suffered severely.

"I didn't do anything. The only thing I wanted to do was stay close to that junk."

"One morning I woke up, mewed up ... and I decided it's time for me to quit."

Crews said the woman he was living with tried to have him killed during this time, but he was arrested up on drugs that he wasn't always sure what was real and what was imagined.

"I quit, and I haven't fooled with it since," he said. "Since 1990, I haven't fooled with it, haven't even seen it."

His son, already a convicted drug dealer, didn't like the idea of his father taking drugs, Crews said. "David wouldn't come around. He hated that."

"I feel lucky to be here. When you're doping, you don't know what you're doing."

System Encourages Lies

The court system that helped send him to prison isn't fair, Crews said. He was charged with selling cocaine and carrying a firearm while selling drugs.

"I'm guilty of the drugs, but not as much as they say," he said. "I've never carried a gun. He pled guilty because the sentence would have been longer had he lost a court trial."

Crews said local police begged people for information on him, offering to let criminals go if they would tell them something they could use against Jerry Crews.

And when caught, the prospect of a lighter sentence looms for those who give information on others. Crew himself fell victim to that, and offered the government information to help convict Winston-Salem attorney Gary Willard, according to a federal prosecutor.

Most recently, police have been trying to get him for paying off John Stephens (Davie sheriff's sergeant, former detective). "It's been lies after lies after lies," he said. "I don't like John Stephens, but I ain't telling lies on nobody."

It's a joke. They'll do anything to get a conviction, but I'm not going to tell on my friends. The way the federal government works is not right."

Crews was held in the Yadkin County Jail, along with several others involved in the drug ring headed by his son. They talked, and figured that between them, they had spent $134,000 in attorney fees. "You're wasting the money. You might as well take a court-appointed attorney."

At the time of his arrest, Crews said he was just beginning to land on his feet after the drug addiction. He had re-married. The business was working again.

But early on Tuesday morning, Dec. 8, 1992, officers knocked on the door to his home on Overlook Drive in Advance. He got out of bed to hear officers read him his arrest warrant for being part of the drug ring headed by his son.

Crews has been in custody since that time. The worst part, he said, is being away from his family and friends.

He also has two daughters, one who just turned 16. David was especially fond of his youngest sister, Jerry Crews said. They would plan to go together and buy her a new car, but Jerry was in jail and David is on the run. He arranged to have a used car to be given to her.

Jerry said he doesn't know where his son is, but if he did, he wouldn't tell.

He admits it will be difficult for David to hide. A victim of a motor-bike accident as a teen-ager, David Crews has a tracheotomy and speaks with a gruff voice. And David has always been close to his grandparent, who helped to raise him.

Crews looks down while talking about his son and family.

"I would like to have never seen any drugs in my family. We have a close family and drugs is tearing it apart."

year of his five years of probation. He will also have to undergo substance abuse treatment.

His attorney, Don Tisdale, said Blevins was willing to take responsibility for his actions, but did not want to hurt others. Blevins was accused of making trips to Florida to buy drugs for the network. "He fully accepts his responsibility and does not seek to place this on someone else," Tisdale said.

Blevins apologized to his family. "During the time I was involved with this, I was thinking of myself ... not my family," Blevins said. "I want to apologize to everybody, especially my family."

The judge seemed upset that U.S. Attorney Paul Weinman recommended a "light" sentence for Jerry Crews.

The judge said the government's evidence, based on the testimony of Terry Smith, showed that Crews bought from 8-10 ounces of cocaine every two weeks for many years. Crews claimed the amount was from 1-6 ounces, and that there were lapses in the period in which cocaine was purchased.

Crews' attorney, Eddie Mitchell, reached an agreement with the prosecutor - an agreement that didn't sit well with the judge.

"It's less than half what the government's evidence says," Bullock said. "I think the government has presented enough evidence ... that more than 2 kilos (11 pounds of cocaine), can be attributed to Mr. Crews."

"In view of the government's own evidence, it seems absurd that the government would ask me to ignore their own evidence and agree to this sentence," Bullock said.

"Jerry Crews was one of the first people to come forward with assistance," Weinman, the prosecutor, said. "He has been very candid about his role. I would very much like to see him get this reduction."

He said Crews offered key information that helped convict former attorney Gary Willard of Winston-Salem.

Judge Bullock shook his head. "You offered it (evidence), and now you're running away from that."

Mitchell said his client was not a major dealer as far as the overall network was concerned, that he bought the drugs mostly for the use of himself and friends.

"Jerry Crews has a limited involvement in this matter," Mitchell said. "He was addicted to cocaine."

"On Oct. 26, 1990, he stopped using cocaine, stopped getting it and was not involved in the conspiracy any more."

Crews was doing well, had his car business running once again and had re-married, Mitchell said. "He had made a change in his life and then this came up."

He asked the judge to consider Crews' limited involvement in the conspiracy, his age (51) and early cooperation.

"I'm uncomfortable with the government backing away from two of its witnesses in this case," Judge Bullock said.

He then agreed to the settlement, and sentenced Crews to 7.5 years in prison, with five years of probation and a $10,000 fine. He will also have to undergo substance abuse treatment.

Arthur Grey Smith of Davie County was sentenced to five years in prison, with a $3,000 fine, five years of probation and a requirement to undergo substance abuse treatment.

His attorney, Clark Fisher, said Smith did not play a major role in the conspiracy.

"He liked to party and was friends with some of those involved in the conspiracy," Fisher said. "The defendant appears to be the least culpable ... and was the least compensated. He was paid by the week to do chores, mostly manual labor ... shopping, wood, diving, cleaning cars."

He also went along on some trips to Florida and Texas to buy drugs, but was not actually involved in the transactions, Fisher said.

The prosecutor agreed.

"Arthur Smith was probably the least involved," Weinman said. "He was one of the first defendants to come to us, and was candid with his answers until questioned about one person."

He kept that silence until he entered the guilty plea, and has since given information on that person as well, Weinman said. "He was in a position to take a big hit for a small part."

Carla Siles of Davie County received one of the shorter prison terms, and was the only defendant allowed to leave the courtroom on his own.

Siles is sick and under doctor's care, and must report for prison when that care isn't urgent, no later than Aug. 4.

Siles was sentenced to 4 years in prison, with five years of probation with 100 hours of community service each of those years, and to undergo substance abuse treatment.

Siles was a driver for the organization, according to his attorney, Mike

"He is a completely different person. If we had went to the same high school, we probably would have been best friends."

— IRS Agent Ted Warren talking about Terry Smith

Grace. "He made no decisions. He was a mute," Grace said. "He went to get the drugs when he was instructed to do so ... even though the amount of drugs he handled were massive."

Weinman compared Siles to Arthur Smith. "They were salaried employees," Weinman said, "not participants in the profit sharing. They drove."

"Mr. Siles came to us very early. We are satisfied he has done his dead-level best to shoot straight with us."

Siles said he got out of the business. "It's in my past," he told the judge. "Two and a half years ago, I got to thinking about it and changed my way of life."

Network Partner Sentenced

Former Davie resident Terry Grey Smith, a partner and major player in the Crews drug distribution network, was called the most cooperative defendant ever in the middle district of the federal court system.

He provided testimony against several in this conspiracy, and helped authorities catch others in Florida and other places. He even allowed officers to put audio wires on him while he made major drug purchases.

Four officers testified on Smith's behalf, two with more than 18 years service who said they had never testified on behalf of a defendant before.

ATF Agent Ted Warren said Smith had helped his department to make a training film.

"He's certainly changed his life around. He's made a lot of mistakes, but I think he is a fine gentleman."

IRS Agent Ted Warren said he first heard of Terry Smith in the mid-1980s. "He is a completely different person than what I had heard of," Warren said. "If we had gone to the same high school, we probably would have been best friends. Terry wanted to do more than we logistically could let him do."

"When we arrested him, he said he thought he had most of his behind him. His wife and child are the most important things to him and I don't think he would do anything to harm either one of them."

began representing some members of the network, Warren said.

IRS Agent Ted Warren testified that Terry Smith and Jerry Crews said that they paid Willard's fees with cocaine on several occasions from 1986-1990. He said that Willard over-charged Smith for a $17,000 carter's bill for Smith's wedding.

Warren said that in 1985, Jerry Crews spotted a house for sale at Lake Norman and told his son, David Crews, David Crews later bought the house, in Willard's name.

Willard has also put Smith's wife on the payroll, although she had no real job and rarely showed up at the office except to pick up a check, Warren said.

Frazer, who also was addicted to cocaine, was sentenced to 4 years in prison with 5 years of probation and 100 hours of community service each of those years. He must undergo substance abuse treatment.

Others Sentenced

Randy Graylin Craver of Davidson County, Smith's cousin, was sentenced to six years in prison, a $20,000 fine, 100 hours of community service for each of three years supervised probation.

Vincent Paul Cord, a Miami, Fla., man who provided much of the cocaine bought by the Crews network, was sentenced to 11 years in prison, with five years supervised probation. Because of previous convictions, he could have faced a life sentence.

Jeffrey Dale Mabe, a Stokes County man whose testimony led to Smith's arrest, was sentenced to 7.5 years in prison, with 10 years probation. He must undergo substance abuse treatment.

Kerry Mitchell Chambers of Forsyth County was sentenced to 11.5 years in prison. He also faced firearm and charges involving a minor girl, with 10 years probation with 100 hours of community service each of those years. He must undergo substance abuse treatment.

Cooleemee Pool Open For Summer

COOLEEMEE — More than 200 swimmers turned out Saturday for the grand opening of the town's swimming pool.

A free day of swimming was offered in an effort to revive interest in the pool — and it worked.

"I think it's great. It's better than we thought it would be," said Danny Correll, who is heading a volunteer group trying to save the swimming pool.

Town board members had talked about closing the town's pool, but agreed to leave it open for at least one more year to see if interest — and money — would increase.

Volunteers served hotdogs and hamburgers Saturday, and plan to do that at least once a month through the summer, Correll said.

"The fund raising is coming along real well," Correll said. "We've had people to donate things, some that weren't even asked for, that have donated a couple of thousand dollars worth of stuff to get this pool ready and open."

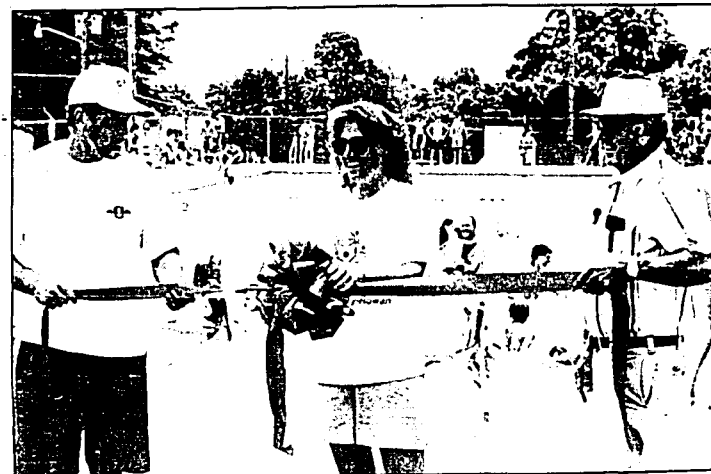

"Everybody's giving, from Mocksville, Salisbury... there's been people from all over who want to keep this pool open."

The Mocksville-Davie Family YMCA is managing the swimming pool this year, and Correll thinks that will help. Trina Chester of Salisbury is the pool manager for the summer.

"The Y, they've taken a lot of pride and interest in it," Correll said.

The swimming pool opens Friday, June 4, and will be open from 11 a.m.-5 p.m. on Mondays, Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays. It will be open from 11 a.m.-8 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays (family nights) and from 1-5 p.m. on Sundays.

Season passes to the pool are $120 for a family and $60 for individuals. Daily admission passes are $2 per person.

3 Going To Court In Family Fight

By Lynn Hall
Davie County Enterprise-Record

A domestic argument between an estranged husband and wife and the husband's girlfriend, is sending three people to Superior Court on felony charges.

Following a probable cause hearing in District Court last Thursday, Judge Samuel Cathey ordered Johnnie James Bares, of Hickory Street in Cooleemee, Bryant Anthony Wilson, of Mocksville, and Wilson's sister-in-law, Teresa Angela Joyner, of Milling Road, Mocksville, bound over for trial in Superior Court.

Bares faces a charge of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill or seriously injure. Wilson and Joyner face charges of assault with a deadly weapon inflicting serious injury.

Judge Cathey found no probable cause in the case against Wilson's estranged wife, Barbara Wilson, on a similar charge.

The incident took place on March 6, just off of U.S. 64. Barbara Wilson and her sister, Teresa Joyner were in one vehicle and Bryant Wilson and Bares in the other. During conflicting testimony both sides accused the other of following them. Wilson and Joyner said the other couple pulled in front of their car and stopped them.

Barbara Wilson said she got out of her car, as did her estranged husband. They talked and when she leaped down, Bares began striking her. She said Wilson and Bares pulled her into their car and at some point, she alleges Bares stabbed her repeatedly in the leg with a knife.

Joyner said it was when Wilson called for help, that she went to the other car and tried to pull Wilson off her sister.

Bryant Wilson and Bares testified they were the ones cut off, and that Joyner and Wilson came around to Bares side of the car and began fighting her. She said she was stabbed in the hand and required emergency surgery.

Bares said it was Joyner who stabbed her.

Based on the testimony, Judge Cathey dismissed an assault and battery charge against Barbara Wilson and found no probable cause in the felony.

He also dismissed the misdemeanor assault on a female charge against Bryant Wilson.

Doss was in critical condition in intensive care Friday at North Carolina Baptist Hospital. She has a head injury, fractured right arm and both legs are fractured.

An Advance woman was critically injured in a wreck in Winston-Salem May 25.

Denise Nicole Doss, 19, of Advance, was driving south on University Parkway at 10:45 p.m. when a car traveling the wrong way in her lane hit her car head-on.

James Arlon Henderson, 39, of Winston-Salem, was charged with DWI, driving the wrong way on a one-way street and carrying an alcoholic beverage with a broken seal in his car. Police later dropped those charges until they complete their investigation.

Doss was in critical condition in intensive care Friday at North Carolina Baptist Hospital. She has a head injury, fractured right arm and both legs are fractured.

Vernon Thompson is retiring this year as principal at Cooleemee Elementary School, a job he has held since replacing V.G. Prim in 1980. — Photos by Robin Fergusson

'Mr. T'

Vernon Thompson Stepping Down As CES Principal

By Laura Williams-Tracy
Davie County Enterprise-Record

COOLEEMEE — Retiring Cooleemee Elementary School Principal Vernon Thompson will miss the respectful calls to "Mr. T" from students next year.

He'll miss driving what has come to be known as the school's Cooleemee green 1970 Dodge that's parked in the front lot.

He says he's going to miss sneaking into the cafeteria to sample hot rolls being baked for school lunches.

A new principal will be named to the school this summer after Thompson, 59, retires in July after 13 years as principal.

He started work for Davie County in 1980 after accepting the job at 30 years ago as a teaching principal at Shady Grove School, where he taught math and science. After he earned a master's degree he worked as principal at the all Black Central Davie School a year before integration.

After 13 years at Mocksville Elementary School Thompson replaced long-time Davie County educator V.G. Prim as principal of Cooleemee School in 1980.

Sometimes the job was tough.

Thompson admits. In the beginning his record was often compared to Prim's. More criticism came when soon after accepting the job at Cooleemee. Thompson was one of the top proponents of seeking accreditation of the school by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools. Many parents and teachers were against spending large amounts of time on parent surveys and self-evaluations.

Today all of Davie County's schools are accredited.

Today Thompson said he worries about parental apathy and parents who'd rather criticize the school over the phone than come to school for a conference.

"We see kids come to school and what they get here is about all the love they get," he said.

But he has been encouraged by the efforts of volunteers and involvement by area corporations. Jockey Inc. has supplied T-shirts and other supplies for many school programs.

Thompson said his decision to make the 1992/93 school year his last was based on several reasons.

And Thompson said he is relying on the philosophy of a former teacher, Nell Hayes, who was still doing jumping-jacks with her third-graders just before retirement.

"She said we should make a place for someone else who's made education their career," Thompson said.

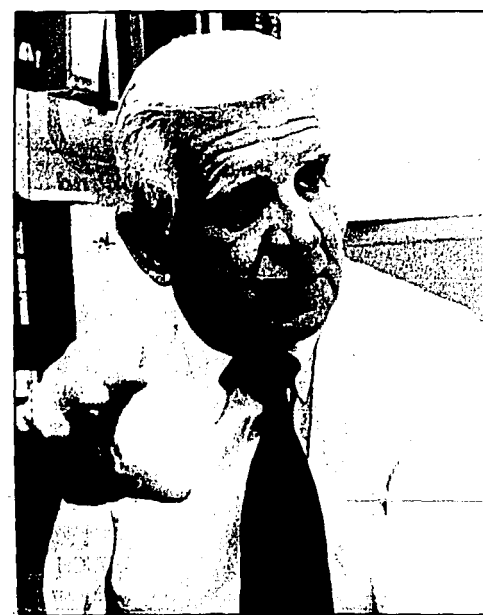

And with big changes around the corner for Davie County schools, Thompson said he is ready to pass the responsibility to a new principal.

Outcome-based education, year-around schooling and the middle school concept are just a few new trends in education that the system will grapple with in the coming years.

"If this is what we want, then change is going to have to come," he said.

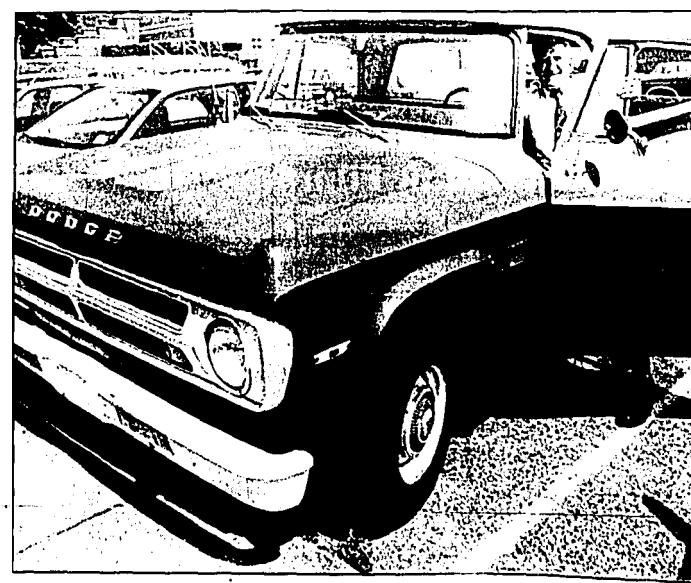

And Thompson will see a change in his life too. Without the responsibility of feeding the hot rolls each morning, he joked, he will instead volunteer to chaperone field trips and other activities. His golf games needs some work and will see plenty, he said.

Thompson will remain at the school most of the summer, helping with administrative duties and helping Cooleemee's new principal — who is yet to be named — prepare for the upcoming school year.

"We see kids come to school and what they get here is all the love they get."

Coolleemee Historic Papers Taken To Georgia Archives

A delegation representing the Coolleemee Historical Association travelled to Atlanta, Ga., to present valuable historic papers for permanent safe-keeping.

Mary Foster, widow of the late Harold Foster of Coolleemee, headed the delegation which presented photos, newspaper clippings, and other materials to Georgia State's Southern Labor Archives.

Bob Dinwiddie, acting director of the archives, formally accepted the "Harold Foster Collection" which Coolleemee Historical Association volunteers had been preparing for two years. Members of CHA's delegation also included Sonya Foster Conatzer and her husband Brian of Salisbury, and James "Doll" and Nancy Foster, both of Coolleemee.

"We were honored to be able to present these materials and were hosted to a fine reception by the archives. The cotton mill people were hand-working people and they deserve to be remembered in this way," said Mary Foster upon her return.

Coolleemee's history group is busy preparing the historic Zachary House for its permanent museum on mill village life as well as planning for its Second Annual Textile Heritage Festival on Oct. 2. Last year, four thousand people attended.

Farm Report Deadlines Upcoming

June 15 is the final date to report corn, grain sorghum, flue-cured tobacco and other spring seeded crops to the Davie County ASCS office.
 Zero acreage reports are also required to protect a farm's crop acreage base. Aug. 1 is the final date to report summer seeded crops such as soybeans and other crops not planted by June 15.
 Farms participating in the 1993 Wheat and Feed grain Acreage Reduction programs are required to file a crop acreage report and must also report their set-aside land by June 15 in order to receive benefits. Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) participants are required to file a crop report by the June 15 deadline in order to receive their yearly CRP benefits.
 Non-participating farms are encouraged to file a crop acreage report to establish or maintain a crop acreage base for the farm. Future year's benefits are directly related to the farm's acreage base which is the average of the last five years planted acres.
 Failure to file a crop acreage report may cause the loss of all program benefits, reduction or loss of future year's crop acreage base and a loss of private support for flue-cured tobacco.
 Producers wanting to file a report should visit the Davie County ASCS Office in Room 111 of the Davie County Office Building between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m., Monday-Friday.

Boles-Kreps Couple Speaks Vows

Tammy Lynette Boles of Mocksville and Alan Wayne Kreps of Lexington were united in marriage at 6 p.m. May 22 at Trading Post Baptist Church, Salisbury, with the Rev. Carl Kreps officiating and the Rev. David Blanton assisting in the candlelight ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Owings of Mocksville and William Boles of Monroe. She is a 1986 graduate of Davie High School and Salisbury Business College.

The groom is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Carl Kreps of Ruffin. He is a 1983 graduate of North Davidson High School and Davidson County Community College. He is employed as manager of Seven's Lakeside in Lexington.

Wedding music was provided by Kim Lentz, organist, and Gina Gobbie, soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, was escorted to the altar by her step-father.

She wore a formal gown of blush (pink) tulle with a high collar and off-the-shoulder neckline with sequins and pearls that came to a V at the bodice waistline. The bodice and sleeves were covered with sequins and pearls. The sleeves were adorned with satin bows with pearls. The full skirt was encircled with scalloped schiffli lace and swept to a cathedral train accented by a large satin bow adorned with sequins and seed pearls.

The fingertip veil of illusion was attached to a tiara style headpiece of pearls. The bride also wore her grandmother's pearl choker.

The bridal bouquet consisted of pink lilies, lilac, cream peonies, baby's breath and ivy. The bouquet was illuminated by 10 miniature white lights.

A Matron of honor was Darlene Owings, mother of the bride of Mocksville.

Bridesmaids were Jennifer Boles, mountains, the couple will make their home in Mocksville.

Reception

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the church fellowship hall. Assisting in serving were Mrs. Connie Koozt, aunt of the groom; Mrs. Sharon Kreps, sister-in-law of the groom; Mrs. Linda Basinger and Ms. Brenda Clement, cousins of the groom.

Rehearsal Dinner

On May 21 the groom's parents hosted a rehearsal dinner at Western Steer in Salisbury for members of the wedding party, family and friends. The groom chose this time to present gifts to his groomsmen.

Social Events

On May 2, a bridal shower was held at the home of the bride's parents. Hostess was Darlene Owings.

On April 3 the bride hosted a bridesmaid's luncheon at her home. She chose this time to present gifts to her bridesmaids.

Flower girls were Elizabeth Sides, bride's daughter, and Ashley Kreps, groom's niece.

Ring bearer was Joshua Sides, bride's son.

Shirley Boles-Simpson kept the guest register.

Acolytes were Cory Wilson and Jeff Basinger.

The wedding was directed by Mrs. Carolyn Barker.

Elder And Mrs. Ivan Ijames Honored On 60th Anniversary

Elder and Mrs. Ivan W. Ijames of Route 1, Mocksville, celebrated their 60th year of marriage Sunday, May 2, with a reception in their honor at the O.R. Osmond/A. Ijames Memorial Fellowship Building.

A short sermon given by their grandson, Pastor Whald Rose, was heard by many friends and guests who attended.

Refreshments were attended and served by nieces and cousins: Mrs. Connie Parker, Mrs. Gladys Feinster, Mrs. Virginia Dooley, Mrs. Marcella Lewis and Mrs. Linda Ijames (god-daughter of Eld. and Mrs. Ijames). Mrs. Bessie Newsome attended the register.

Elder and Mrs. Ijames have served in various capacities on the mission field. He is pastor of Clement Grove Church of God, as well as general manager and overseer of the Church of God, Body of Christ. He also presides over the missions in Nigeria, West Africa, Kingston, Jamaica and Mindanao, Philippines. They have three children: William Calvin Ijames, Alma Christine Ijames and Minnie Ijames Scott. There are five grandchildren (the oldest, William Jeffrey Ijames deceased 1983) and there are seven great-grandchildren.

The Register showed 150 attended this celebration. The chair they are setting in is the chair they used in courtship, over 60 years ago.

Clowns Visit Cooleemee Club

The Cooleemee Senior Citizens met May 24 at the First Baptist Church fellowship hall with 40 members and two visitors present.

The meeting was called to order by the president.

After the opening prayer, the group sang "Will There Be Any Stars."

Devotions were given by the chaplain. Her text was from Isaiah 40:1-5, "The People Comforted."

Cards were sent to members who are sick.

Door prizes were won by Ethel Messick and Hannah Jones.

Two clowns from the Clowns Club had a duel with swords. They also played the William Tell game.

Several games were played.

The meeting adjourned with the club song.

The next meeting will be June 14.

Mrs. Gregory Lee Hardister ... was Joyce Lynn Jones

Golden Anniversary

Lula Mae and Kelly Smith of Route 2, Mocksville will be celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary from 3-5 p.m. Sunday, June 6, with a reception in the fellowship hall of Green Meadows Baptist Church. It will be hosted by the couple's children and their spouses: Jesse and Arvesta McEwen, J.K. and Mary Smith, Steve and Patsy Smith, Naaman and Carolyn Smith, all of Mocksville, John and Julia Jones of Lilburn, Ga., and William Smith of Winston-Salem, with grandchildren serving during the reception.

The couple has 14 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Family Night Held At Cana

Cana Homemakers held their annual family night on Friday, May 21, at 6:30 p.m.

President Vada Beck welcomed approximately 40 members and their families, guests, and new community residents to the old Cana Schoolhouse where they were served a covered-dish meal.

Jane Webb had decorated the building with pots of chrysanthemums and cut flower arrangements from local gardens.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rich and Mrs. Minnie Pope attended, along with Mr. and Mrs. Tim Latham and several of his family members.

The history of conservation was the topic of the program presented by Latham, who works for the Davie Soil and Water Conservation District. His slide presentation showed how far we have come in soil conservation since the early settlers "used up the land" and then moved on. The "dust bowl" era was also a sad result of ignorance in taking care of the land.

May 29 Ceremony Unites Couple

Couple Speaks Marriage Vows May 29

Mitzi Nannette Cleary and Jacob Lee Reavis were united in marriage on Saturday, May 29, at 3 p.m. at Courtney Baptist Church. Dr. Phillip J. Beavers of Yadkinville officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Larry Gene and Judy H. Cleary of Route 5, Mocksville. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wade H. Cleary of Route 6, Mocksville. She is a graduate of Forbush High School in East Bend and is a student at Winston-Salem State University in Winston-Salem. She is assistant to the coordinator for the Northwest N.C. Chapter of the American Red Cross in Yadkinville.

The groom is the son of Sammy D. Reavis of Yadkinville and the late Beth Moxley Reavis. He is a graduate of Starnount High School in Booneville and is employed by Unifi of Yadkinville.

A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Helen Church of Booneville. Vocalists were Brent and Susan Royall of Yadkinville.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, was escorted by her father. She wore a formal white gown of English brocade. The sweetheart neck line trimmed in a pearl braid led to a fitted bodice and a basque waistline, which was also trimmed in a pearl braid. The long sleeves were tapered and ended in a pearl trimmed point. A full cathedral train extended from the skirt. A back brocade bow trimmed in pearls complemented the gown. Her headpiece was a large satin bow trimmed with pearls and centered with a rosette and attached was a cathedral-length veil of illusion with satin edging.

She carried a bouquet of white and fuchsia roses, candlelight freesia, azalea blossoms and English ivy.

The bride's attendants were Glenda L. Cleary of Mocksville, sister-in-law of the bride; Tamara Beavers and Lisa Craver, both of Yadkinville. Flower girl was Hannah Ruth Cave, cousin of the bride of Booneville.

The best man was the groom's father, Sammy D. Reavis. The groom's attendants were Scott Cleary, brother of the bride of Mocksville and Bronson Hawks, cousin of the bride of Booneville. Ringbearer was Robert Reavis, brother of the groom of Yadkinville.

Serving at the guest register was Misty Weatherman, cousin of the bride of Mocksville. Programs were handed out by Amanda Weatherman, cousin of the bride of Mocksville. The wedding was directed by the groom's aunt, Carolyn G. Reavis of Yadkinville.

After a wedding trip to the Bahamas, the couple will make their home on Route 2, Booneville.

Reception
Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was hosted by the bride's parents in the church fellowship hall.

Guests were served ham biscuits, vegetable and fruit trays, pickles, nuts, punch and wedding cake. Those serving were Evon Barnes, aunt of the bride of Troutville, Va.; Kathy Cave, aunt of the bride of Booneville; and Becky Weatherman, aunt of the bride of Mocksville. The reception was catered by Joan Brown of Yadkinville and Judy Atkins of Ararat.

Greeters were Philip and Peggy Beavers.

Rehearsal
On Friday night, May 28, following the wedding rehearsal, a dinner was given at MacLain's Restaurant in Yadkinville, hosted by Mrs. Hazel Reavis, grandmother of the groom of Yadkinville and Mrs. Joan R.

Holcomb, aunt of the groom of Yadkinville.

Showers
The bride was given a miscellaneous shower on March 28 at North Oak Ridge Baptist Church Fellowship Building. Hostesses were Mrs. Louise H. Wagoner, friend of the groom's family, and aunts of the groom, Joan R. Holcomb, Carolyn G. Reavis, and Mary D. Reavis, all of Yadkinville.

On April 3, the bride was given a lingerie luncheon at Casa Gallardo Mexican Restaurant in Winston-Salem. Attending was Miss Tamara Beavers of Yadkinville, Mrs. Glenda L. Cleary, Mrs. Becky Weatherman, Amanda and Misty Weatherman, all of Mocksville. The bride's mother also attended.

The bride was given a miscellaneous shower on May 16 at South Oak Ridge Baptist Fellowship Building. Hostesses were the bride's aunts, Evon H. Barnes of Troutville, Va.; Kathy Cave of Booneville; Becky Weatherman of Mocksville; Mary Church, great-aunt of the bride of Yadkinville; and Carl Barnes, uncle of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lee Hampton

Miller-Hampton Couple Exchange Wedding Vows

Sarah Elizabeth Miller and Charles Lee Hampton of Mocksville were married in South Carolina May 25. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Miller of Salisbury, the bride graduated from North Rowan High School in 1983 and attended Rowan-Cabarrus Community College. She is a registered nursing assistant in Salisbury.

The son of the late Clarence and Ethel Hampton of Mocksville, the bridegroom attended Davie High School and is employed by Cone Mills of Salisbury.

After a wedding trip to Myrtle Beach, S.C., the couple will live in Mocksville.

Popping The Question In Many Different Ways

Just how a marriage gets started can be as simple as "Will you?" or as imaginative as a three-ring circus. "There's a whole world of ways to ask. Popping the question is a fun-loving, let-it-rip ritual that can be written in the sky or left as a note in the Himalayas.

"Men are proposing in much more creative, romantic ways," Barbara Fisher, editor of Bride's magazine, observes. "Since people are dating for a period of time and maybe living together, they have the luxury of thinking of very clever and imaginative ways of popping the question."

Her magazine has been printing stories of unusual proposals for the last 10 years, and these are testimony to the lengths—and heights—prospective grooms will go.

Take Pascal Sureau. He flew his love from Los Angeles to San Francisco for a visit to the wine country. While floating over the vineyards in a hot air balloon, he proposed with a poem, which he recited in his native French.

The sky looked good to a prospective groom named Tim back in the '80s, too. While at a local high school football game with his girlfriend, Tim excused himself to get hot dogs. While waiting, the girl noticed a plane flying over the stadium pulling a banner that read, "Theresa, will you marry me?" She accepted.

Closer to earth, Jonathan Levine took his proposal to the Big Apple Circus in New York City. He took his intended, Michelle, to a performance, during which the ringmaster, to her surprise, let Levine take the microphone in the ring. "A year ago, if you had asked me if I wanted to run away with the circus or with Michelle, I would have said the circus," he said. "I still love the circus, but it's Michelle I want to run away with now." He then dropped to one knee and proposed.

Mountains also inspire feats of inventiveness. When Kristen Freitas visited Nepal, she went to a cafe that her friend had home. Malcolm Mitchell, had visited 11 months earlier. She found a note he had left for her, ending with the big question.

Highways can prompt cleverness, too. In New England, a woman was driving to work when she noticed an enormous, handpainted sign hanging from an overpass ahead. Addressing her, it read: "I love you, will you marry me?" If her answer was yes, an arrow directed her to exit at the next rest stop; if no, she was to continue south on the highway. She followed the arrow and found the prospective groom waiting for her with a bottle of champagne.

Proposals also come with handstands or animals. In New York, jazz musician Lew Anderson (who played Darbel the Clown on the "Howdy Doody" television series) proposed to his wife from the bandstand of the Red Blazer restaurant where his band plays every Friday night. A Michigan woman found a knight in shining armor—and a white horse—under her window.

Wilford R. Shriver came dressed as a rabbit on Easter Day, 1991, hopping into the heart of Esmeralda Lovano. This Easter bunny handed her a one-carat diamond ring taken from the top of a carrot in his Easter basket.

Bride's has reported other clever proposals like the one from a fellow who spelled his wishes out in radish seeds that nine days later sprouted the words, "marry me," in the backyard of a California woman.

"There's something playful and wonderful about this," says Ms. Fisher.

"There's a grand gesture here. Also a sense of security—you wouldn't be doing it if you didn't know you were asking your best friend to marry you."

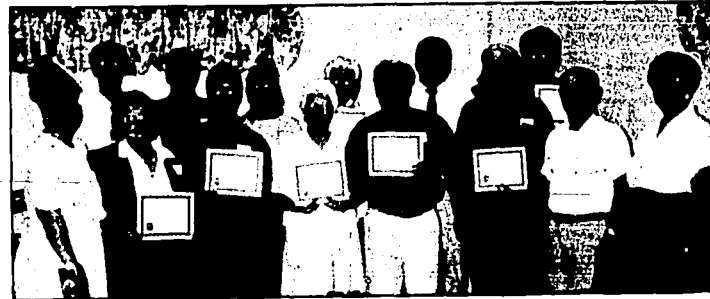

Meadowbrook Terrace Honors Volunteers

The volunteers of Meadowbrook Terrace of Davie were invited to a special dinner on Thursday evening in appreciation of dedication to the residents.

The volunteers have shared their talents with them for months, most of them for years.

Ron Smith was awarded volunteer of the year. Smith dedicates each Monday evening to share his special talent of devotion through song and piano playing. He plays his favorite hymns as they sing along.

A short program followed the dinner where Smith received the volunteer of the year award. Certificates of appreciation were handed out to all of the volunteers.

Shown above are the volunteers who were honored at a dinner by Meadowbrook Terrace of Davie County. Ron Smith, second from left, was named volunteer of the year.

Yadkin Valley News

By Mrs. Ruby McBride
Yadkin Valley Correspondent
Yadkin Valley will have Old Fashion Day June 13. There will be no trash pickup. Everyone is invited to bring a basket of food and enjoy lunch after morning worship. There will be singing after lunch and no 7:30 p.m. service.

Jack Caudle had surgery on Thursday for his sinus. He had to stay all night at Medical Park Hospital, but returned home Friday evening.

Vernon McBride has been having problems with a kidney stone for a week. We all wish him a speedy recovery.

Lester Hockaday had surgery at Medical Park Hospital and is doing fine.

There are a lot of people sick at home we need to remember in prayer and all those in the nursing homes.

The Men's Bible Class went last Sunday morning and had Sunday School with Alvin Wood. He is on the sick list and needs all our prayers.

Maxine Newman has been visiting her son, Tom and wife, Susan and little "Pie" all last week.

Traci Wright and Erick Streit had a pretty wedding at Yadkin Valley Baptist Church May 22 at 2 p.m. She is the daughter of Roy and Gail Wright of our church and Erick is the son of Al and Kathie Streit. After the wedding, they left in a horse-drawn carriage which had a sign behind saying, "Just Hitched."

Summer Reading Program Begins With The 'Folktellers'

The Davie County Public Library 1993 Summer Reading Program begins on Monday, June 7.

The internationally-acclaimed "Folktellers," Barbara Freeman and Connie Regan-Blake of Asheville, are scheduled to perform at 7 p.m. on June 7 in the multi-purpose room of the public library on North Main Street in Mocksville. This program is open for all ages.

The Folktellers perform at conferences, cultural arts events, and major folk music and storytelling festivals across the United States and Canada.

They have also performed throughout Europe, and in Japan, Korea and the Philippines.

The statewide theme for this year's summer reading program is "Books Come In All Flavors."

The program is open to all young people from toddlers through high school. Reading records will be available at the main library on North Main Street in Mocksville, at the branch library in Cooleemee and on the bookmobile, beginning June 7.

To receive a certificate and special coupons, each summer reading participant will need to turn in a completed reading record to the library by Friday, July 23.

Certificates and coupons will be awarded on Monday, July 26, at the annual ice cream party and final program.

Special programs for toddlers, preschoolers, school age and young adults are scheduled throughout June and July.

For more information, come by the Davie County Public Library or call 634-2023 in Mocksville on 284-2805 in Cooleemee.

The Folktellers will perform at 7 p.m. June 7 at public library in Mocksville.

James Baptist Honors Veterans

A Memorial Day Celebration was held at James Baptist Church on Sunday, May 30, at 11 a.m.

The platform was decorated by peace lilies laced with red, white and blue ribbon in memory of Chief Petty Officer, W.L. "Lewie" James, who served for 23 years in the U.S. Navy. Hand-erected flags, made by his wife, Naomi White James, were hung by the flowers. All those attending the service were given small flags as they entered.

Marsh Glascock, a 97-year-old World War I veteran, led his patriotic family in memories of "How it was." Marsh was a "driver" for his officer and had never sat down in a Model T before he was assigned to the position. "I learned fast," Glascock said. He was followed with a summary by Milton Tutterow, a son-in-law, of "how it was" in World War II. After that, Tutterow's son-in-law, Mike Branham, a veteran of the Vietnam War told of "how it was" over there, which was no pleasant to hear.

Larry Tutterow, son of Milton, served his time in Germany as did his father under different conditions. The last of the patriotic family to speak was Mrs. Milton Tutterow, the former Jane Glascock. She spoke of "how it was" to have a father, husband, son and son-in-law as veterans. She said, "I'm thankful to God they are safe in America now. I'm proud of my soldiers and I'm proud to be an American."

The service was concluded with a skit by the puppeteers portraying an MIA friend still not heard from, after which the audience stood together and sang "God Bless America."

Shiloh Baptist To Dedicate Land

Shiloh Baptist Church, 321 Depot St., recently purchased property on East Depot Street which was the site of the old Mocksville Flour Milling Company.

The Rev. Donald Ray Jenkins, pastor, said "The church plans to utilize this facility for parking and other church related facilities/activities."

The property will be dedicated Sunday, June 13, after the morning worship service. Dinner will follow in Smith-Grace Fellowship Hall.

Sunday, June 20, Shiloh will celebrate Leroy Dulin Day. The 11 a.m. worship service will be dedicated to Dulin for his 50-plus years of service as a deacon at Fairfield and Shiloh Baptist churches.

At 1:30 p.m., the church is hosting an Appreciation Dinner for Dulin, visiting deacons and friends. For further information, call 993-8278.

Spiritual Resources Prayer Good Medicine

By The Rev. Hampton Morgan

I followed with interest the news stories of columnist Lewis Grizzard's heart ailments and near brush with death earlier this year. Though his columns appear regularly in the Winston-Salem paper, I read them only occasionally. But his health concerns aroused my attention. Perhaps it is because I am a pastor who has been called on to minister in such a situation as he was in.

Grizzard recovered and is now back at his craft as Georgia's most famous wordsmith. In a column that appeared about three weeks ago, he wrote of his ordeal. Complications arose, he said, during routine heart valve replacement surgery. For several days thereafter, he was near death. The medical people in attendance did everything they could do, and admitted that it was not enough. Every one of them confessed afterward that Grizzard owed his life to prayer, and not to their medical efforts to save him.

One doctor told of the many people whom he encountered who said they had been praying for Grizzard. At least one church convened a special prayer service on his behalf. One woman candidly admitted to her distress for Grizzard's column, but said she still had prayed for him. Reflecting on his experience, Grizzard stated that many doubts have now been removed, especially concerning the existence and goodness of God. He praised the efforts of the doctors and nurses who cared for him. But he reserved his most heartfelt thanks for those who prayed. "Here is what I would like to do," he wrote. "I would like to gather all who lifted a voice when I stood in need of it so badly and, one by one, I would like to hug them around the neck and say, 'I love you and thank you for my life. And I pray myself and ask, 'Lord, you know whom you heard from in my behalf. Please let them know there is no end to my gratitude.'"

Grizzard's miraculous recovery is a sweet testimony to the effectiveness of prayer and the graciousness of God. The divine touch that brought him back from death's doorstep testifies, not to the merits of the recipient, but to the merits of the giver. God's goodness is seen not only in the end result, but in the process as well. Many believers displayed their love through prayer and intercession.

One of the smartest things I ever did was ignore the counsel of my professor of practical theology in seminary. He had a lot of concerns about the advisability of praying for the sick to be healed. It would create unnecessary problems, he said. It is better, he said, to pray for things like more faith and courage, but not for healing. If the sick are not healed, they may begin to doubt God's love. Their faith would be troubled. Their family might even become angry with God.

All that, I admit, is possible. But it is interesting that in my 18 years of praying for the sick, I have never witnessed any of these results. In fact, I have never seen any undesirable result come from praying for the healing of the sick. Quite a number have been healed. The recovery of some has been nothing less than miraculous. Even those who did not receive physical healing still experienced God's love and have borne their continued infirmity with grace and courage. And the families of those who died have never suggested that I asked for anything they too did not desire.

In the Bible, James advised the sick to call on the elders of the church to anoint them with oil and pray for their healing. Just this year the elders of my church have done this twice. In both cases the ailment was cancer. Medical reports since our prayers have been very encouraging. Why, we wonder, is James' advice not followed more often?

I am inclined to believe that the problem is with us and not with God. The Lord seems disposed to grant healing more often than we seem bold enough to ask for it. "You have not," chided James, "because you ask not." Jesus certainly encouraged believers to ask in prayer even for the seemingly impossible. The experience of the church for several centuries after the time of Christ bore witness to God's willingness to heal the sick.

The church's renewed interest in healing prayer and the charismatic gifts of healing is a good sign. Thankful as we all are for the wonderful abilities of professional medicine, there remains a need to acknowledge the place of prayer and divine power in healing. I appreciate Lewis Grizzard's willingness to share his story, and so encourage us to continue doing what our faith tells us makes a difference.

Advance News

By Edith Zimmerman
Advance Correspondent
Memorial Day was observed Sunday at the Methodist Church with the VFW in charge of a portion of the worship service. Many VFW members were visitors for the occasion. The Ladies Auxiliary also participated in the service. Small flags were given to the children during the children's sermon by Taylor Howard. Mrs. Athene Sullivan of Lancaster, Pa., and Mrs. Doris Yontz of Winston-Salem visited their aunt, Mrs. Georgia Foster, last week. Alvin and Betty Myers have returned from a 7-day visit with relatives in Florida. They flew to West Palm Beach and were house guests of cousins, Robert and Peggy Conrad. While in Palm Beach they visited other cousins, P.H. and Jo Conrad, Robert and P.H. Conrad are pepper farmers and the Myers visited their farm. Jo Driscoll drove them to Hialeah where they visited with Dallas, Dickie, Richard, Louisa and Erika Conrad. During their stay the Myers went to Homestead and Perinne and saw damage from Hurricane Andrew. This was Betty Myers' first plane trip and she thoroughly enjoyed it. Mrs. Edith Zimmerman and Mrs. Pauline Hendrix attended Awards Day at North Davie Jr. High on Monday morning. Their granddaughter, Amanda Hendrix, received several awards. Amanda was pleasantly surprised when she received the Citizenship Award from the school. Mr. and Mrs. Keith Myers and son, Matthew were visitors at the Methodist Church Sunday. Mrs. Mary Letitia Robertson, Mrs.

High school graduate Alex Stockton was presented with a Bible Sunday at the Methodist Church, a gift from the church. Also a Book of Devotions was given him from the Sallie Sue Petties Sunday School Class. Michael Zimmerman is also a graduate, but was not at church Sunday to receive his Bible and Book of Devotions. Mrs. Edith Zimmerman was a Sunday afternoon visitor of cousins, Florine and James Black in Lexington. Our community expresses sympathy to Mrs. Maurine Ward in the death of her son, Dr. John E. Ward Jr. who died in Kernersville Saturday. Mrs. Lucille Comatzer is confined to her home with a back injury. A speedy recovery is wished for her. Hubert Bailey is a patient at Forsyth Hospital for observation and treatment. Get well wishes go out to him. The Homemakers Club visited the nursing homes in the county this week and gave the residents bananas and oatmeal cookies. Addie Mae Carter and Mrs. Edith Zimmerman were among those enjoying a bus trip with the Senior Citizens on Thursday. Forty-one people were on the bus. They went to the Amish Store in Hamptonville; shopped at two "Mass" general antique stores in Valle Crucis, had lunch at Mom's Restaurant in Boone and drove to Blowing Rock for two hours shopping in the Mall. The "Over The Hill" Senior Citizens group has members from Davie and Forsyth counties, which meets every fourth Thursday at Western Steer in Mocksville.

Davie In Western Title Game Saturday

Keene Needs Only One Run In Victory

By Ronnie Gallagher
Davie County Enterprise-Record

Has baseball suddenly become a psychic sport, a Twilight Zone experience?

It certainly seemed that way after Davie County's 1-0 victory over A.C. Reynolds Friday night at Rich Park in a second round, 4-A playoff game.

In the top of the seventh, Jeff Sziksal launched a potential two-run homer off Davie starter Brock Keene toward the short leftfield fence that suspiciously died, landing safely in Brad Mechem's glove. A double play then ended the game, leaving both coaches drained.

"That ball was out of the park," said Rocket coach David Hyatt. "In a situation like that, there's just a power greater than us not wanting us to win."

It was the second straight playoff game that Davie coach David Hunt was holding his breath in the seventh inning. The War Eagles defeated McDowell in the first round with a last-inning rally for a 2-1 lead.

"Sanity?" Hunt asked. "I'm more worried about my horseshoes."

Horseshoes? A power greater than us?

Something or somebody is certainly looking out for these War Eagles. In the past four games, Davie has produced 5, 2, 1 and 4 hits and are 4-0 in those games.

Whatever the reason for Davie's incredible luck in the seventh inning, the War Eagles advanced to the Final Eight of the playoffs, improving to 22-4 with their 13th straight victory.

Starts With Keene

As Hunt will point out, a team doesn't need many hits when pitchers like Keene are throwing.

Alex. Central Coming For 7:30 Game

By Ronnie Gallagher
Davie County Enterprise-Record

Davie County's 2-1 victory over East Forsyth Tuesday night was pretty much like its earlier two games in the 4-A playoffs.

The War Eagles drove their fans nuts and left another opponent perplexed.

Davie (23-4) used four, six-inning walks and one bloop single to produce two runs and defeat highly-regarded Joe Legarde. It now advances to the Western North Carolina championship Saturday night, facing Alexander Central, a 5-2 winner over Page.

The game was switched from Friday because Alexander Central has planned its graduation exercises for that night.

Game time is 7:30 p.m. at Rich Park. A scheduled American Legion game has been postponed.

And why is Davie in the Western finals? Players and coaches alike point to the pitching of lefthanders Marcus King and Brock Keene.

Davie has beaten McDowell 2-1, A.C. Reynolds 1-0 (see story) and now East, 2-1.

For the second time in these playoffs, King started and was followed in the sixth by Keene, who picked up his 12th victory against one loss.

"Our pitching staff is doing a great job," said shortstop Bubba Cokman. "To allow only two runs in three playoff games is a major accomplishment. I give them all the credit."

Bryan Johnson, who scored the tying run, echoed those thoughts.

"Pitching and good defense is why we're winning," he said.

Coach David Hunt was elated over his team's 10th comeback-from-behind victory of the year.

Brock And Brack Are Back — 18 Miles Apart

Last Friday was a good night for Davie County baseball.

Brock and Brack were back — 18 miles apart, that is.

Two Davie County High School junior lefthanders — Brock Keene and Brack Beal — put on a dazzling display of masterful pitching. But not on the same field and not in the same county.

Keene was shutting down a powerful A.C. Reynolds club in a 1-0 Davie playoff victory.

Eighteen miles away in Salisbury, Beal was even more impressive, hand-cutting Rowan County's Legion on three hits in a 7-1 Mocksville win.

Last year, the two pitchers, along with righty Jack Hall, helped Jim Lightle win his third straight Central Piedmont Conference jayvee championship.

That's right. It was the Brock, Brack and Jack Show.

But due to grades, Beal didn't join them on David Hunt's varsity team this year. Had he been eligible, Davie would have fielded a staff of three quality lefthanders (Keene, Beal and Marcus King), ranking the staff with any high school in the state.

So Beal waited for Legion, even though coach Dale James doesn't like to keep players who are inactive in the spring.

Friday night, Beal probably secured his spot on the roster. He was magnificent, something no one really expected, considering he hasn't thrown in 10 months.

Talk about a well-rested arm.

Athletic Banquets

Coleman, Jenkins Most Outstanding

Bubba Coleman and Casey Jenkins won the biggest awards during the Davie High School athletic banquet, held recently in the school cafeteria.

They were named Male and Female Most Outstanding Athlete for 1992-93.

Coleman was all-conference in football, basketball and baseball. He was the biggest winner of the banquet, taking home four awards:

- Most Outstanding Athlete.
- Most Valuable Player in baseball.
- Most Valuable Player in basketball.
- The Golden Helmet Award in football.

which went to the player that showed the greatest leadership qualities, desire and effort.

Jenkins was all-conference in volleyball but shoulder surgery kept her out of basketball. She bounced back to win all-conference honors in softball.

Athletic director Buddy Lowery said that Davie had a highly-successful year and was ready to make its mark in the new Central Piedmont Conference, which begins in the fall. The War Eagles finished in the top three of the Central Piedmont Conference in nine sports, the best ever.

"I think we're at the point where we're ready to step up to another level," Lowery said. "We're just a step away."

Daye, Hendrix Are Cats' Top Athletes

For the first time in the school's existence, North Davie Junior High School did not honor its freshmen at the annual athletic banquet.

With ninth graders playing on the jayvee teams at the high school, seventh and eighth graders took the spotlight. The only ninth grade team honored was the freshman boys basketball team.

North chose Male and Female Athletes of the Year in each of the seventh and eighth grades.

The eighth grade winners were David Daye and Amanda Hendrix.

Daye played four sports: football, wrestling, track and baseball. He rushed for 1,250 yards in football and was 16-0 in wrestling. He was the leading hitter in baseball and the best sprinter in track.

"He's very coachable and a good athlete," said athletic director Ron Kirk. "He's the kind of kid you wish you had a half-dozen of."

Hendrix played softball, basketball, volleyball and track. She also played soccer in Optimist Leagues.

"She's very motivated," said coach Carol Cozart. "If anyone had a ball, she was out there ready to play. Sometimes, it's not the flashiest kids who win this award."

South Honors 57 In Twelve Sports

South Davie Junior High doesn't do things like the other schools when it comes to honoring their youngsters at the athletic banquet.

South does not choose athletes of the year. It simply gives out athletic achievement awards.

Last week, 57 Tiger athletes were honored in 12 different sports. Several, like Allison Foil, Frankie Tatum, Angie Priestley, Josh Barnhardt, Jill Everhardt and Megan Hendrix were multiple winners.

South had a good year that figures to be even better next year, considering so many seventh graders played athletics at the school.

Among the highlights were the 7-8 grade boys basketball team and the girls track team. Angela Fowler was the North Piedmont Conference's undefeated shot-putter.

CPC's Second Seed
The Davie County girls softball team finished its season 15-3 and was the Central Piedmont Conference's second seed. Team members are (Front row, from left): Angela Brannon, Tami Ramsey, Jamie Bailey, Amanda Sigmon, Sherry Merrall, Casey Jenkins and Andrea Gentry. (Second row): Head coach Darrell Steele, Casey Swartz, Jonette Willard, Janis Barney, Jennifer Bell, Shannon Davis, Jenny Stewart and assistant coach Grady Barney.

Forbush Joins Davie In Final Eight

Mocksville Legion baseball coach Dale James needs his players from Davie County and Forbush, Post 174 to bring leads and games with inexperienced players who are making entirely too many errors to suit him.

But he also loves the fact that the two high schools have made the final eight in the state in the 4-A and 2-A ranks.

White Davie was defeating A. C. Reynolds Friday 1-0 to move on in 4-A. Forbush was beating a good Randleman team, 11-6. The game was played Saturday afternoon.

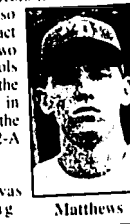

And two of the biggest reasons Forbush advanced were Mocksville Legion stars Scott Matthews and David Vogler.

Matthews, a senior, pitched the game with a complete game, six-hitter, giving up only three earned runs.

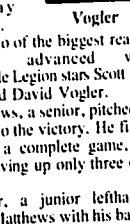

Vogler, a junior lefthander, helped Matthews with his bat. He slugged a grand slam homer in the first inning to give Forbush a lead it wouldn't relinquish.

Matthews not only picked up the win but also had two hits.

Vogler was to pitch in the Western N.C. semifinals Tuesday at Cherryville. That team ousted Forbush last year, 3-2.

Matthews

Remembering Back
Hunt was asked if he could remember a game that was won in the seventh inning like the 2-1 win over McDowell in the first round of the 4-A playoffs.

He could, naturally.

Hunt said about 10 years ago, he was trailing 1-0 in the seventh. Barry Whitlock hit a homer to tie and Todd Cassidy immediately followed with a homer of his own to win.

Tough Conference
When renlistment forms the

Notebook

Central Piedmont Conference next year, it will bill itself as one of the top softball conferences in the state.

Davie, West Forsyth and South Rowan will join perennial playoff participants North Davidson and South Stokes.

But not until Charlotte Providence defeated Davie in the 4-A playoffs this season did Darrell Steele realize how tough the Southwestern 4-A Conference is.

Providence has won the last four tournament appearances has won two of the last four state championships.

Grimsley Wins
The Central Piedmont Conference had some divine angel looking over it in the first round of the 4-A baseball playoffs.

Davie, the league's top seed, trailed the entire game against McDowell, only to get its first hit in the seventh, a double down the leftfield line to win, 2-1.

Grimsley, the second seed, got a double down the right field line in the seventh inning to beat South Mocklenburg.

Other Commitments
Grimsley's second round game was scheduled for Saturday against Page. Hunt was asked if he was going.

"No, I have another commitment just a little more important," he said.

Hunt and his wife celebrated their 23rd wedding anniversary. His players gave him an early anniversary gift by advancing to the third round of the playoffs a night earlier.

Had Hunt gone to Greensboro Saturday, he would've seen a CPC team bite the dust. Page ran out to a 4-0 lead before giving the Whitties two in the sixth. The final was 4-2, Page.

Grimsley finished 16-8.

This was the first time in five years that Grimsley made the playoffs. The last time, in 1988, the Whitties defeated Davie in an

College Interest
Several Davie athletes are being looked at closely by college recruiters.

Freshmen Fit In At High School — And In Some Cases, Made Big Contributions

By Ronnie Gallagher
Davie County Enterprise-Record

When Davie County school officials first notified freshmen at the two junior highs that they would be playing at the high school, the reaction from all sides was predictable.

It wasn't good. Players wanted to be top dogs at their junior highs. Parents wanted the same thing. There would be transportation problems, considering the ninth graders were still at the junior highs. How would they get to the high school every day?

Ten months later all of the questions have been answered. For the most part, everything went smoothly.

The freshmen not only played at the high school but some made an instant impact.

- Two softball players, Jonette Willard and Jennifer Bell, both of North, made the all-Central Piedmont Conference team. Tami Ramsey and Janis Barney, also of North, were other freshmen starters.
- Ramsey was the number three player on the varsity tennis team.

- Beth Campbell of South Davie was number five.
- Neil Cornatzer of North was the starting quarterback for the jayvee football team.

- James Clement of South was all-conference in track, winning the long jump and qualifying for the state 4-A meet.
- Chris Marcello of North was an all-conference performer in wrestling.

- Melissa Agrillo, Dawn Willard and Cara Hansen played important roles for the varsity soccer team.

And in the end, the perceived problems turned out to be no problem at all.

Nervous At First
When fall sports began, several freshmen admitted to being skeptical.

"Yeah, I was kinda nervous," said Ramsey, who probably had the biggest impact of any ninth grader.

"I didn't know any of those girls. They seemed a lot older than I was."

Cornatzer agreed, saying, "I have a lot of older friends up there but it was still awkward at first."

Especially when he was thrown into the fray earlier than he expected. When Josh Ward was injured, he was suddenly told before the second game of the season at North Iredell that he was the starting quarterback for the jayvee team.

Among the freshmen making an impact at Davie High School this year were Neil Cornatzer (seated) and (from left) Jonette Willard, Laura Moyer and Tami Ramsey.

"I was here (at North Davie) and some guys were coming to take me to the high school," he said. "They told me and I thought they were joking. When Coach told me, I still wasn't sure."

Cornatzer made his debut in the mudiest, filthiest game he could ever remember playing in. The contest was held, despite a torrential downpour, but Davie won.

"It was an experience," he said, grinning. "I was nervous at first but once the game started, it came kind of normal."

Perhaps the toughest transition was made by Marcello, a 103-pound wrestler, who joined one of North Carolina's most powerful wrestling teams. But he finished with the CFC's best record at that weight (26-6).

"At first, he was hesitant," said coach Buddy Lowery. "But he was good enough. After he got going, he fit right in."

Lowery said wrestlers had an easier chance of fitting in because the junior high programs practice with the varsity over the holidays.

Lowery expected Cornatzer to be one of the freshmen wrestlers. But Cornatzer wanted to be true to his school. And this is where he proved what an all-around athlete he was.

The only ninth grade sport offered in junior high was boys basketball, which Cornatzer opted for. Darrell Steele coached that team at North and didn't expect much from his "wrestler" until Cornatzer became an integral part of the team.

"I still wanted ninth grade athletics here," Cornatzer said. "I felt things were moving on too quick and I wanted to be a part of the school. That's why I played."

For the record, as soon as basketball season ended, he went to Salisbury and won the state junior high school wrestling championship.

Other freshmen like Laura Moyer and Willard played as many sports as they could. And they received an early lesson on the rigors of high school athletics.

"They didn't realize the time and commitment," said soccer coach Pete Gustafson. "I had three with me but they were not intimidated."

Freshmen made the biggest impact for Steele's softball team. Four started.

"I told them I didn't care what class they were in. I was playing the best players," he said.

Davie finished the season 15-3 and in the playoffs for an eighth straight year.

"I'd be lost without them," Steele said.

Everything's Fine
Lowery, also Davie's athletic director, was put on the spot as much as anyone when freshmen were brought to the high school. He suddenly had more numbers and was forced to begin jayvee teams in softball, volleyball and soccer.

Now that the school year is winding down, Lowery is pleased with the addition of his freshmen.

"I think it's been a pretty smooth transition," he said. "Transportation has been the biggest inconvenience, little things like that. Everybody will be glad when they get here for good."

According to Cornatzer and Ramsey, there were two reasons the transition to Davie High was made easy — the coaches and the opponents.

"The coaches made you feel real welcome," Cornatzer said.

"I liked it better (than junior high)," said Ramsey. "There's more competition."

"That type of attitude was exactly what Gustafson expected."

"I thought they could do well at the high school," he said. "It's an aggressive class. They're all hard-nosed."

Now, we want to do it right all the time, not just some of the time.

"The boosters club has got to get bigger and stronger. The more people involved, the more we can do for these kids and these facilities."

Major Awards
There were several major individual awards given.

Sportsman
Goes Award for sportsmanship went to Bryan Johnson, a senior who played football, swimming and baseball.

He doesn't say much but he works hard and puts more pressure on himself than any athlete," Lowery said.

The Achievement Award was shared by Jon Ward and Brian Tribble. Ward was an all-state wrestler that won a state championship. Tribble was an all-American swimmer who has signed with Alabama.

"Both accomplished a bunch," Lowery said. "You couldn't give it to one without giving it to the other."

Ward also took home the Bill Peeler Most Dedicated Award.

"He sacrificed, dedicated himself... you can use all those words," Lowery said.

Lowery continued: "It was an unusual year. We had Ward, Bubba and Tribble who all had a super year. These guys could play anywhere and were also good in academics."

The following are winners in each sport. Most Valuable, Most Improved and a Coaches Award were given.

James did not see Beal's performance in Salisbury but it didn't surprise him.

"Beal's a battler," he said. "We had thrown him three or four days. The biggest question was endurance. We knew he could go three innings or eight. Luckily, he went the distance."

Rowan coach Jim Dehart is a big Beal fan.

"We had trouble with Beal last year," Dehart said. "He's a tough little lefty."

"He has Salisbury's number," James said, and we hope to continue that.

For Beal to hold Rowan to only one unearned run was saying a lot. Several young players were not on the spot due to starters from Davie and Barbush still playing in the high school playoffs.

"We knew we had a suspect defense on the field," said James. "We told Brock. 'You've got it, big boy. You gotta hold it.'"

James even said not pitching for 10 months may be a blessing in disguise.

"Last summer, about in July, we thought he was running out of gas, so maybe he pitched two days. But he's got a good repertoire of pitches and now, he has a well-rested arm."

While Hunt didn't have Beal this spring, he shares the most of his other junior lefty.

Keene reminds some of former Legion — and current minor leaguer — Jack Kimmel. He is a thinking man's pitcher and he proved it against A.C. Reynolds. Everyone praised his performance — except him.

His catcher, Chad Helton, said his curves were working.

Keene said, no they weren't. "I had a problem with my curve to begin with," he said. "I had to rely on my fastball and make them chase it. Sometimes, they did and other times, I just had to put them on the plate and let them hit it."

"The umpire told Chad before the game he wasn't calling any high stuff so I had to keep them low. That's why I tried to go with my curveball because it dips straight down. I couldn't get that to work so I relied on my fastball."

Asheville Reynolds is known as an aggressive club at the plate. When Keene walked out for the seventh holding a precarious 1-0 lead, he was thinking again — and thinking hard.

"In that situation, I thought, 'Here it is, the last inning.' I was getting a little tired. I tried to keep my composure. I went out there thinking, 'Keep doing what you've been doing. Put them in there where they hit them for outs.'"

When Jeff Sziksal sent a long drive toward the leftfield wall 310 feet away with a man on first, a thousand images flashed through Keene's mind.

"I thought about it a great deal when it was going up," he said with a sigh. "I thought I had gone and blown it."

Lefthander Brad Mechem made a leaping grab to save Keene.

"I was fortunate," he said. "My teammates played good defense behind me."

As odd as it may sound, perhaps the best thing his teammates did was only score one run. It kept him focused.

"It does bother me when we get only one run ahead," he said. "You know you can't loosen up. You have to stay on them the whole game."

James loves an attitude like Keene's. And he loves Beal's resiliency.

Soon, Brock will again join Brack — this time on the Legion team. James can hardly believe that he will have four — count 'em, four — of the best lefties in the Southern Division: Keene, Beal, King and Forbush's David Vogler.

"You've got to have lefthanded pitching," James said with a smile. "And we've got it. That's our strong suit."

Amazingly, Mocksville just missed out on a fifth lefty, Starnum's Rodney Shore, who chose to play for Mount Airy, where he'll get more playing time.

But right now, Beal is the story. Fans love to watch him pitch and many mentored all spring how disappointed they were that he didn't realize how helpful playing high school ball could be for him. Oh well, they'd sigh. Maybe he'll be for him. Oh well, they'd sigh. Maybe he'll realize it next year.

Keene, King and Vogler have many more months of work under their belts — but you would have never known it Friday night.

"It's going to take some time to get Brock back in pitching shape," James said. "The biggest thing is, we don't want everybody putting great expectations on him.

Whatever the expectations, no one can take away what he did to his favorite baseball team Friday night.

Against Rowan County, Beal was the real deal.

against the high-scoring Rockets, who were kept off-balance by his mixture of fastballs and wicked curves.

"His curves were working," said Davie catcher Chad Helton. "He had good heat tonight. I called a lot of outside pitches, making them hit opposite — and no inside pitches."

"Keene's biggest problem was allowing the first batter in an inning to reach base. It happened in the fifth, sixth and seventh.

"When Chad Shackley singled to lead off the top of the seventh, it brought up second baseman Sziksal, who had one career homer. He had driven Mechem back to the wall in the second, barely missing out on the long ball.

"You never want the first man up because he's generally going to score," Hunt said of Shackley. "We knew Sziksal was the same guy who hit the other one back here."

When Sziksal connected on a line-drive pitch, it appeared as though he might get over the 310-foot fence.

"It was supposed to be a pitch that would drop and get away from Brock a little bit," Hunt said. "He got it out over the plate and the kid put a hold of it again."

"I thought it was gone," Mechem admitted. "He hit that ball hard. I knew I was pretty close (to the wall) but, I mean, in a game like this, you have to go ahead and catch it."

Mechem did, lunging against the wall. He also had enough presence of mind to fire back to Bubba Coleman at shortstop, who just missed doubling off Shackley at first.

Keene was giving thanks to Mechem afterward.

"Oh man, when I first saw it, I thought I was going to break down on the mound," the junior lefty said. "Then, when I saw Mechem go up to catch it, I heard the crowd on that side cheer. When he threw it back in, the side switched over here and cheered. I was just jumping up and down on the mound. I was so relieved."

He promptly forced Clark Harting to hit into a 4-3 double-play to end the game.

Hunt said of Sziksal's long ball, "It was up pretty high. But once I saw Brad start to slow down and still have his glove up, I knew he had a chance then. You know, that kid had a single up the middle his second time up so he showed me a lot with the stick."

Hyatt was disappointed his season ended that way but was gracious in defeat.

"It was a heck of a ballgame," he said. "I give Davie credit. 'They're a good ballclub.'"

Both coaches raved about Keene, who ran his record to 11-1.

"He did well for a kid pitching his first playoff game," Hunt said. "He stayed in command, kept his composure and didn't get rattled."

Hyatt was impressed.

"He didn't overpower us. He just made us hit the ball on the ground. I'd rather have somebody like that than somebody who can throw it 90 (miles per hour)."

The Only Run

On the other side, Scott Haney was just as flawless, allowing only four hits. But two came in the bottom of the first.

Brad Chapman started the rally like that with a single and went to third — Coleman sent a screamer down the third base line for a double. Mechem's groundout to shortstop scored Chapman.

Haney had pitched A.C. Reynolds' 11-0 win over Hunter Hills in the first round and entered Friday's game with only two days rest. But that wasn't a problem, according to Hyatt.

"He can throw and throw and throw," he said. "He never gets tired."

In fact, after the first, Haney only gave up singles to Chad Cassidy in the third and Bryan Johnson in the sixth.

Hunt was surprised one run won the game.

"I thought it was going to be a typical A.C. Reynolds ballgame," he said. "They score a lot of runs and give up a few and I thought we'd have to score a lot to win."

"I guess we scored enough to win."

Notes:

- A.C. Reynolds, located in Asheville, finished his season 16-9. The Rockets were the Mountain Athletic Conference's number one seed.
- Haney's record fell to 9-3.
- Davie played solid defense behind Keene. Second baseman Cassidy robbed the Rockets' best hitter, J.P. Burwell, twice and started the game-ending double play. Jason Tomberlin also made a running, shooting catch. "I was pleased with the effort of everyone," Hunt said.

Tomberlin then watched four straight balls, forcing in Lanier with the eventual winning run.

"Our kids are in a zone," he said. "They've got confidence in themselves and I don't think they're intimidated by anyone."

Johnson laughed. "Call us the Comeback Kids," he said.

Big Reputation

The comeback was necessary when East's ninth-place hitter Jason Parks singled in the third. He attempted to steal and Chad Helton's throw went into centerfield, allowing him to reach third. Bruce Berry's sacrifice fly made it 1-0.

Meanwhile, Legarde and his reputation of throwing heat was a bit intimidating at first, according to King.

"I think we were (nervous) early," he said. "But when we saw Jason Tomberlin really hit it back up the middle at him, we knew we could hit him."

Tomberlin ripped a hit through the box in the third and had another to left in the fifth.

"It made me feel good," admitted Davie's leadoff man. "It had been a long time since I had a hit."

Still, the War Eagles entered the sixth, trailing by one. With one out, Johnson fisted a single to short leftfield.

"I was just trying to get a piece of it," Johnson said. "I hit it off the handle but he threw it so hard, I got enough of it."

Then, the wackiness began.

King walked and Hunt pinch-hit Jason Lanier, who has seen limited action. His forefoot put Johnson on third with two outs.

Legarde then tried to pick off Lanier but the ball sailed into rightfield. Johnson scored easily to tie the game.

"The first baseman could've played the ball," said Hunt. "He just didn't. That's high school kids for you. That's why you play the game."

With the largest crowd of the year verbally bearing down on Legarde, he proceeded to walk Helton and Chad Cassidy, Davie's 8-9 hitters to lead the bats.

"I think he got rattled," said Tomberlin. "Our fans were getting on him."

— and more importantly, its 14th straight win.

"Our kids are in a zone," he said. "They've got confidence in themselves and I don't think they're intimidated by anyone."

"When it's 3-0, it's automatic we don't swing," Tomberlin said. "I wouldn't have swung if it was 3-2 because he was getting wild."

East coach Steve Pegram said his pitcher wasn't rattled, just frustrated.

"I don't think Joe got rattled with the walks," Pegram said. "It was just a little frustration on his part when he thought he had the runner picked off and should've been out of the inning."

Hunt agreed. "I don't think he was rattled. That kid singlehandedly won the state football championship. He just said, 'Get on my back and ride.' So he tried to blow it by us and was just overflowing."

Keene Sits Them Down

Keene still had to pitch the seventh and he forced a groundout to Johnson at third and two lazy liners to King at first.

"I felt I had the fastball really going for me," said Keene. "Pegram became just another coach impressed with Davie's resiliency, especially in the two-run sixth."

"Don't take anything away from the Davie butters," he said. "They went up there looking to get on any way they could. I don't think they were there strictly to take. They were swinging the bats. They're a lot like us. They scratch and claw and score any way they can. And their guys play great defense."

The teams combined for only nine hits. Davie, who has managed only 19 hits in its last five games, is 5-0 during that span. And now, the team is one game away from the state championship series for the second time in four years.

"After two seasons of going out in the first round, this feels great," Johnson said.

Tomberlin, who had two of Davie's five hits, seemed overjoyed.

"I've worked for this all my life," the senior outfielder said. "But this is a team thing. Everybody can do it."

Notes:

- East finished its season 19-5.
- Coleman, Johnson and Helton all had one hit.
- Legarde's record fell to 6-3.
- Alexander Central's coach, Harold Odum, is winning home. He is a former Mocksville Legion coach.
- Whoever wins Saturday will play the state title series at the home of the Eastern winner.

Tournament At Park A Success

The Central Piedmont Conference held its first-ever baseball tournament recently and chose the only field left a grandstand as the site.

After a first round game at the site of the higher seed, the semifinal and championship contests were held at Mocksville's Rich Park.

And after it was all said and done, Davie officials were very pleased — and not just because the War Eagles won the entire thing.

"I thought it was a rousing success," said Davie coach David Hunt. "Financially, it did better than anyone dreamed. I just wish we could've gotten our first round game in."

Dudley, Davie's first round opponent, failed to show but that was the only downside to the tournament.

"We had a good crowd for the championship game," said Hunt. "It wasn't as big as the semifinals, but you had four teams here. The conference will be pleased."

Davie probably draws baseball fans as well as anyone in the CPC. Winston-Salem schools do not but South Rowan usually brings a good crowd, as it did in the semifinals.

"The original vote was 7-1 to have the baseball tournament," said Hunt. "Grimsley was the only school to vote against it."

Area fans should get used to the tournament format in practically every sport. All of the current CPC schools except Parkland, Grimsley and Dudley will form a new league next year, adding South Stokes and North Davidson. It has already voted to play the baseball tournament.

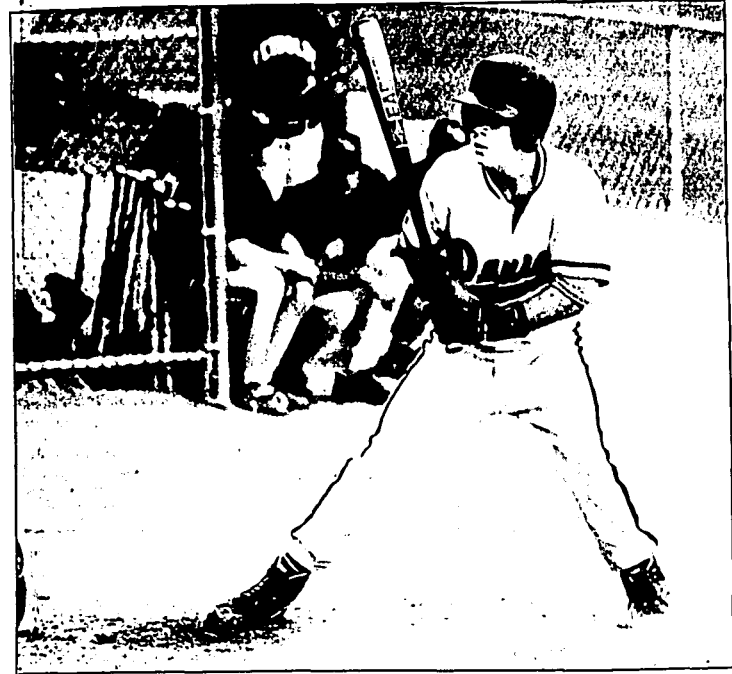

North Davidson will be the host next year.

The CPC will also hold a conference softball tournament. It now will be at North Davidson.

Davie will host the CIFC basketball tournament next year.

Mocksville Legion Baseball

Ijames Wants — And Needs — His Veterans Back

By Ronnie Gallagher
Davie County Enterprise-Record

No one would have bet that Glenn High School's softball team would be playing in the playoffs longer than Dale Ijames' baseball team.

But that is the case. And Ijames wouldn't mind bringing a few with him to Mocksville.

"Those girls can catch it," he said before Monday's 12-11 loss to Concord at Rich Park. "As a matter of fact, I'd like to have a couple of them here."

In other words, the Mocksville Legion baseball team is struggling.

The loss to Concord dropped Post 174 to 1-4 overall and 1-3 in the Southern Division. The local team, full of inexperienced players while Ijames waits for the bulk of his lineup to return from the state high school playoffs, blew a 9-2 lead.

"We knew it was going to be this bad," Ijames said. "When you don't put a defense on the field, the other team keeps pecking, pecking and pecking away and they eventually find your weaknesses."

Ijames saw the weaknesses in the very first game against King. Three of the first four batters hit routine grounders that were errored. The result was six unearned runs and a 10-4 loss.

Later, Mocksville led Wilkes County 4-2 but two errors started a five-run seventh in a 7-4 loss.

"We're basically putting two veterans out there so it's nine against two," Ijames said. "It wears you down after a while."

And Monday night, Ijames watched his team give away another one.

"We were taking grounders today and I thought, 'Hey, some of these little suckers are getting better.' But we're falling in a hole. How many can we afford to lose? Not many. We're working toward the playoffs and we want to be one of the top two seeds. We don't need to be three or four, but the league is very balanced and everybody is knocking everybody else off."

"We got lucky in beating Rowan, a team we didn't think we'd beat. But they're like us. They don't have all their players. The rest of the league — like Concord and Kannapolis — do."

Blowing The Lead

When Concord walked five and hit another batter in the bottom of the fifth inning Monday night, Mocksville led 9-2. Corbin Russell had a two-run double in the game.

But the pitchers couldn't hold it. Post 174 still led 10-8 going into the top of the ninth when Russell, now pitching, got the first two outs. With a two-strike count on the third batter, he hit him, opening the floodgates. By the time he got out of it, Concord led 12-10.

In the bottom of the ninth, Russell walked and Andre McSwain singled with two outs. Todd Styers doubled home Russell but Denver Walker flew out to deep rightfield to end the game.

Beach Wives?

Ijames noticed that many of the Davie boys haven't been coming to the games — and he has a sneaky suspicion why.

"When they are staying away, you think, 'Hmmm, something's up,'" he said. "Some of them may want to take off to the beach. Well, that's going to be a tough decision. They may not get to go because we've spotted the league so many games already. We can't afford to be in fourth when the playoffs start."

Ijames wants some dedication.

"That's exactly what I want," he said. "We have a chance to have a heck of a team."

With a sigh, he added, "If they kick us in the tail (by going to the beach) then they kick us in the tail."

"We've got 15-year old kids out here right now. Someone can hit but can't catch and others can catch but not hit. We need those boys to step right in when they're through with the playoffs."

Notes:

- Mocksville fell to 1-4 overall and 1-3 in the Southern Division.
- Campy Walker was 4-for-6 against Concord. Russell and McSwain had two hits.
- After going 1-for-10 with nine strikeouts, Brad Bovender had two hits and no Ks against Concord.
- Russell took the loss.
- Mocksville visits Stanly County Wednesday night.

King 10, Mocksville 4

Nerves Hurt Legion In Opener

With the bulk of its starting lineup still in the high school baseball playoffs, the Mocksville Legion Baseball team opened its season last week with a 10-4 loss to King at Rich Park.

Despite veteran Corbin Russell delivering two home runs, Dale Ijames watched his team full of youngsters commit three errors in the first inning that led to six unearned King runs.

Three of the first four batters hit routine grounders that were errored.

Mocksville began its climb back when Russell and Campy Walker, the only veterans playing for Post 174, scored in the bottom of the first. Walker reached base and then Russell creamed a two-run homer.

King scored one in the top of the second and Mocksville added two in the bottom of the third for a 7-4 King lead.

Russell started things with a solo home run. Andre McSwain then walked, went to second on an error, made third on a groundout and scored on a wild pitch.

King added a run in the fourth and two more in the sixth. Mocksville managed only three hits, two by Russell and one by leadoff centerfielder Russ Pardue from Starbourn.

South Stokes had nine hits, including a double and homer from Chris Vernon.

Vernon, who attended Forsyth Country Day last year, was expected to play for Ijames this summer. But he moved to Mount Tabor's school district and King snatched him up.

Jason Reuter started for Mocksville, going four innings, allowing seven hits and eight runs. But only two were earned.

John David Crider and David Barron also pitched. Barron was especially impressive, striking out three and giving up only one hit in two innings.

Notes:

- Mocksville fell to 0-1.
- Post 174 was originally scheduled to open with Burlington but the game was canceled.
- King walked 11 Mocksville batters.
- Everyone on the roster played against King except Jason Lott and Brad Beal.
- King was coached by Brian Holt, who also coaches West Forsyth.
- King is in its first year of existence, playing in the Northern Division.
- The bulk of Mocksville's starting lineup was out. Davie and Forbush are still in the high school playoffs.

Mocksville 7, Rowan County 1

Beal Impresses Rowan In Win

SALISBURY — All Brack Beal needed was one run.

When his teammates finally did score after four innings of zeroes, the left-hander did the rest, allowing only one unearned run in a 7-1 victory over arch-rival Rowan County.

Beal, who didn't pitch for Davie High School this season, made his debut a memorable one. He finished with a three-hitter while striking out 11 and walking only four.

Mocksville gave Beal a 3-0 lead in the fifth. Corbin Russell had an RBI single and Andre McSwain knocked in two more with another single.

Brad Bovender, Ed Fergus and Beal had consecutive singles in the sixth for a 4-0 advantage.

Russell hit a towering, three-run homer over the scoreboard in the eighth, upping the margin to 7-0.

Russell, a Bishop McGuinness product, is on a hot streak. Last year, he hit five homers and had 45 RBIs for the season. After only two games, he already has three round-trippers and seven runs batted in.

Rowan managed a run in the eighth on two errors and a wild pitch.

Meanwhile, Davie was pounding David Holsbuser and the Rowan staff for 13 hits. Campy Walker was 4-for-5 including a bunt single. Russell was 2-for-3 with four RBIs. Todd Styers had two hits as well.

But the story was Beal. He threw only 71 pitches after seven innings and cruised. He ended with a flourish, striking out the side in the ninth.

Notes:

- Mocksville improved to 1-1 overall and 1-0 in the Southern Division.
- Beal is 1-0.
- Mocksville struck out 15 times in the game and walked twice.
- George Daywalt was acting coach while Dale Ijames and his Glenn High School team played in the playoffs.
- Mocksville got a bit of revenge against Holsbuser, who had two saves against Post 174 in the Southern Division championship series last year.

Kannapolis 9, Mocksville 3

Kannapolis Beats Post 174, 9-3

Dale Ijames' reaction after Mocksville's 7-4 loss to Wilkes County Sunday night at Rich Park? Without players from Davie and Forbush, this team is hurting.

Three errors on routine grounders in the seventh allowed Wilkes County to score five runs and overcome a 4-2 Post 174 lead.

It was Mocksville's second straight loss and third of the season.

Mocksville started strong, scoring two in the first. Todd Styers had an RBI single and an error scored the other.

Wilkes tied it in the third but Jason Lott's sacrifice fly scored Andre McSwain in the fifth. When Campy Walker singled in Ed Fergus in the sixth, Mocksville had a seven-run lead.

Mocksville had one last chance to get back in it in the ninth. Walker singled and Corbin Russell doubled to lead off the inning. Andre McSwain then worked the pitcher to a 3-0 count. But he eventually struck out and the rally ended.

Ijames wasn't faulting the pitching. John David Crider threw 6 1/2 innings giving up eight hits and seven runs, but only four were earned. Jason Reuter pitched the final 2 1/2 innings.

Mocksville finished with 10 hits, two each by Walker, Russell and McSwain. Styers, Denver Walker, Fergus and Crider all had one.

Notes:

- Mocksville is 1-2 overall and 1-1 in the Southern Division.

Russell, Beal Lead Stats

Corbin Russell is one of only two veteran players for the Mocksville Legion currently.

And he's playing like a veteran should.

After four games, Russell leads the team in average, homers, doubles, at-bats and runs scored. His most eye-popping stat is four homers in four games.

Pitching-wise, it took Brack Beal all of one game to take command of the pitching statistics.

His complete game win against Rowan gave him the lead in innings pitched, wins, ERA and strikeouts.

The team batting average is only .243 but the pitching ERA is a respectable 3.00.

Errors Hurt In 7th Inning

KANNAPOLIS — When a team has all of its players and the other doesn't, the results are predictable.

And that was the story of Mocksville's 9-3 loss to Kannapolis Saturday night.

Post 174, still missing players from Davie County and Forbush, couldn't handle Kannapolis' pitching. Davie could manage only seven hits and couldn't overcome a 6-0 Kannapolis lead after only three innings. Bob Jacobs' club scored two in the second and four in the third, chasing Mocksville starter Ed Fergus.

Corbin Russell slugged his fourth homer in three games in the fourth, a solo shot.

It was 8-1 after five and 8-2 in the sixth after a Russell double and a Steve Ashworth single.

The lead was 9-2 after seven. The game's final run scored when Dennis Barron was hit by a pitch with the bases loaded.

Russell's bat continued to sizzle. He was 4-for-4. Ashworth had two

Mocksville Legion Baseball

Russell Living Up To 'Player Of Year' Reputation

It took only three games for Corbin Russell to make a name for himself in the Southern Division of Area 3.

The hard-hitting catcher from Bishop McGuinness proved early that his North Carolina Independent School's Player of the Year award Russell was no fluke. And he proved that if you can play, it doesn't matter if you're at a private or public school.

Russell played his first season of Legion baseball last year and finished with five home runs and 45 RBIs.

After three games this season, he already had pounded four homers and had 11 RBIs.

His third was a mammoth shot over the scoreboard at Newman Park in a 7-1 victory over Rowan County. The ball took an estimated ride of about 400 feet.

Post 174 coach Dale James is already anxious to see how Russell fares after one time through the league.

"Once he goes around the league one time, they'll start pitching around him," James said. "But we've got (Brad) Meclam and the other Davie kids coming that can protect him. And if we can protect him, we'll be tough."

Russell is currently seeing some good pitches, James said, because Andre McSwain is hitting behind him. McSwain had a two-run single against Rowan.

James said he wasn't worried about the catching duties either.

"We've got Corbin behind the plate and we're strong there," he said. "But he's hitting it well. He triggers us every time. He's going to do a great job."

After Sunday's loss to Wilkes County, he was 10-for-17.

Missing Persons Report

Two players James thought would be playing for Mocksville this season are missing.

Returner Corey Smith from West Forsyth has decided against playing.

"He's going to be working," James said. "He's got a job that will be taking up a lot of his time."

Starmount's Rodney Shore was counted on to be a quality pitcher for Mocksville. But Starmount players can choose between Post 174 or Mount Airy and he went the other way.

"I think Mount Airy offered him a chance to play every day when he's not pitching," said James. "We're not going to offer any kid that."

"He would have been that fifth lefthander that we'd really like to have."

Shaky Start

When three of your high school teams are in the playoffs, the early games usually showcase inexperience and shaky nerves.

"That's what happened in Mocksville's season opening, 10-4 loss to King at Rich Park."

"They were scared," James said of his starters. "We had 15-year olds on the field."

"They proved that in the first inning. Three of the first four King batters hit routine grounders that were errorless. The result was six unearned runs for King before Mocksville got its turn to bat."

Many of the starters were from West Forsyth. The King coach was Brian Holt, West's coach. Chris Vermon, an all-Central Piedmont Conference player from Mount Tabor, pitched.

"Playing against their coach was even more pressure," James said. "And Vermon is a home. It was just too much to ask. We hoped we'd get the jitters out before we played Salisbury Friday."

Kicking Up Dirt

James won't in Salisbury Friday night but when he heard of Mocksville's 7-1 win, it was still a bit of a hollow victory.

His Glenn High School team, the defending state 4-A champ, had lost in the quarterfinals at Alexander Central, 3-2.

It was not a typical James performance. Leading 2-1 in the bottom of the seventh, his pitcher gave up a home run. In the eighth, an error allowed the winning run to score.

One of Glenn's biggest problems, James said, was playing on

Legion Notes

Alexander Central's dirt infield. Alexander Central, like Davie County, is one of the few teams left without a grass infield.

Glenn has grass. "We didn't catch it very well on dirt," James said. "It really hurt us. Our infielders were on their heels all night. We were dumb-founded defensively."

A.C. Reynolds faced the same situation at Rich Park. The Rockets played on grass all season but made two errors in a 1-0 loss to the War Eagles.

Both Glenn and A.C. Reynolds coaches said they practiced on dirt all week prior to their games.

"You can practice on it all you want but if you're not used to doing it in a game, it's tough to play on," James said. "We did all we could. We just didn't handle it well. It's like what Asheville faced here. You don't handle dirt, you lose."

Assistant Coaches

James has chosen his assistant coaches: George Daywalt and Freddie Transou.

"The staff is intact and ready to roll," James said.

Daywalt is a longtime familiar face. Transou just played for James two years ago.

"Freddie is typical of the program," James said. "He's loyal, a hard worker and does a good job coaching the bases. He's a good batting practice pitcher and he understands the language. Me and George are a little old. Sometimes, we may say something the kids don't understand. So we need somebody young."

James said Daywalt may be replacing him as third base coach.

"I told George he was getting his hind-end to third because I'm getting lonely over there. I haven't had many runners get to third."

King Gut

Each year, Legion officials are on the lookout for the biggest eater. After all, one of the perks of playing Legion is plenty of food for the players.

The early leader for the "King Gut" award is rightfielder Andre McSwain.

After one game last week, he ate six hotdogs, two Snickers and three drinks.

Burp!

Pardue Still Sick

Sickness has also hurt Mocksville. Leadoff man Russ Pardue of Starmount has been out for a week.

"The first game against King he was sick," said James. "We didn't know if it was mono or just a severe sore throat. It wasn't mono. He's okay, he just needed a few days off."

"He's my leadoff man, period. He can swing the stick. We need him back too."

Leadoff hitter Russ Pardue has been out since the first game due to sickness.

Proud of Davie

James seemed just as proud of Davie's run through the playoffs as anyone.

"Things are going right for them," he said. "Davie's getting that one big hit when they need it the most."

Who's Next?

Mocksville will have some precious days off this week.

On Wednesday, Post 174 was scheduled to travel to South County in Albemarle but won't play again until Saturday when Lexington visits Rich Park.

On Sunday, the team gets its first look at Mount Airy, the newest entry into the league. That game begins at 6 p.m. in Mount Airy.

Statesville visits Rich Park Monday.

SHADY GROVE
Mrs. Rogers' first grade class has been studying animals. On Friday, May 14, they were invited to Mrs. Walker's fourth grade class to see and hear about the animals the fourth graders have been studying. Their class had baby chicks that they hatched in an incubator. They also had a snake, a bird, a frog, a hamster, a crayfish, and mealworms. The fourth graders let the students touch some of the animals and told the first graders what they had learned about the animals.

Students of the Week for May 10-14 and May 17-21 include Glenn Eubanks, Ashley Cornater, Sheryl Eagle, Michael Combs, Garth Regan, Trent Young, Justin Lanning, Dustin Colbert, Priscilla Mayhew, Mathew Conley, Jennifer Ramsey, Justin Long, Christopher Jones, Josh Wallace, Dulow Hartman, Sammy McDaniel, Pete Calahan, Steven Caudill, Christie Robertson, Tiffany Gaddy, Andrew Allen, Chad Cooper, Alan English, Natasha Martin, Ashley Hartman, Laureen Cornater, Kevin Hendrix, Christopher Rogers, Jonathan Doh, Jeremy Bracken, Larry Coble, Josh Wallace, Erica Swaim, Sammy McDaniel, Jenny Archer, Marie Robertson, Brandi Cornater, and Heather Swearingen.

DARE graduation was held May 27 at 1 p.m. in the media center. Special guests included Davie High ROTC, with presentation of colors; 6th grade Boy Scouts with pledge of allegiance; Ashley Meisner, speaking about a personal experience; and Kathryn Crosby, with a celebrity speech about Davie County and the DARE program. Other special activities consisted of songs and essays. The entire sixth grade, accompanied by Anna Newman, sang "We Are the Young" and Jason Barney and Callie Bailey sang solos. The essays about DARE were presented by Tracy Baker, John Clevenger, Christie Cornater, Eric Kofke, Greg Lanier, and Jesse Marion. The students were presented with their diplomas and a reception, hosted by Leesa Church, was held in the 6th grade wing.

MOCKSVILLE MIDDLE
Leann Durham won two gold medals for softball throw and stunting long jump in the recent N.C. Special Olympics.

A program on handling emergencies was presented to all fifth graders on May 27.
The sixth graders watched a play given by the South Davie Drama Class on May 27.

MOCKSVILLE ELEMENTARY
The kindergarten students began "Happy Booker Week" on Monday, May 24, with the official proclamation. They sang an original song, "Nice Sue Knox had a Media Center." The also presented Mrs. Knox with recipes from the faculty and staff to put in Sue's Coworker collection. All first graders helped celebrate Mrs. Knox's retirement as they presented an original song. The students, wearing cow headbands and black and white clothing, were the "Cow Country Singers." The teachers and assistants were "The Mocksville Quartet times 2." Following the concert, Mrs. Knox was presented with a basket of numerous "cow" articles.

The 2nd graders continued "Happy Booker Week" on Wednesday with a parade honoring Mrs. Knox. After the presentation of her official cow carriage Mrs. Knox was escorted to her float, a tractor and fluted decorated with hay bales and various farm items. The students, dressed as cows, farmers, or storybook characters, marched to the rhythm of a band consisting of washboards, cowbells, and jugs. The students also sang several songs rewritten by Linda Giles. Knox was later presented with a gift certificate to buy, of course, a book.

School Secretary After 60 Years, Kathleen Spry Is Retiring

By Laura Williams-Tracy
Davie County Enterprise-Record

COOLEEMEE — When school bells ring next fall for students at Cooleemee School, it will be one of the few years that Kathleen Spry hasn't been there in more than 60 years.
Spry has filled the various duties of school secretary for more than 28 years. But her career at the school began long before that.
Spry started school in Cooleemee in 1926 and attended all 12 grades in one building. Back then, the school was a wood-framed building with eight rooms on Wat Street. During her high school years, she worked in the office handling many of the administrative duties.

Her skills, obviously, impressed principal V.G. Prim, and in 1964 when school secretaries were added at all Davie schools, Spry returned to her alma mater.
There is no job description for an elementary school secretary, she said. "I've been nurse and Momma," Spry said. She is usually the first to greet parents at the door and the first to defuse any angry parents and respond to their questions and comments.
Both of Spry's sons attended Cooleemee school and a granddaughter is in kindergarten here this year.
Many of the children she greeted at the school are enrolling their own children there now.
"That's what makes me feel like it's time to leave," she said. "This school is one of my first loves. And after I leave I will always have ties here."

Students have changed in the 28 years Spry has watched them grow. They are much smarter at a younger age, she said. "They are reading lots of hard words. When I was that age we read about 'This is Dan, Dan is a dog.'"
But with the intelligence comes a maturity that is less becoming of students, she said, because of what they learn on TV, students know more about mature subjects, and they must deal with more pressures.
Spry said she's sure that her last day of work in June won't be her last day back at the school. Retirement plans include time for volunteer work at Cooleemee School.
"I just can't leave."

Kathleen Spry: "I've been nurse and momma. I will always have ties here."

I'M NOT GOING TO SCHOOL ANY MORE.

OH?

NOPE! I'VE DECIDED TO BE A "WINTER GATHERER." WHEN I GROW UP I'LL BE LIVING IN A TROPICAL FOREST, SURVIVING ON BERRIES, GRUBS, AND THE OCCASIONAL FROG, AND SPENDING MY FREE TIME GOONING FOR LICE.

ALL THE EXPERTS SAY IT'S BAD PARENTING TO SQUELCH A KID'S AMBITIONS.

MISS NORMWOOD, I HAVE A QUESTION ABOUT THIS MATH LESSON.

YES?

GIVEN THAT SOONER OR LATER, WE'RE ALL JUST GOING TO DIE, WHAT'S THE POINT OF LEARNING ABOUT INTEGERS?

TURN TO PAGE 88, CLASS.

NOBODY LIKES US 'BIG PICTURE' PEOPLE.

THE PROBLEM WITH PEOPLE IS THEY DON'T LOOK AT THE BIG PICTURE.

EVEN TUALLY, WE'RE ENVI GOING TO DIE, OUR SPECIES WILL GO EXTINCT, THE SUN WILL EXPLODE, AND THE UNIVERSE WILL COLLAPSE.

EVIDENCE IS NOT ONLY TRAPDOOR, IT'S POINTLESS! WE'RE ALL DOOMED, AND NOBODY CARES! NOBODY CARES!

I SEE WHY PEOPLE DON'T LIKE TO LOOK AT THE BIG PICTURE.

WELL, IT PUTS A BAD DAY IN PERSPECTIVE.

MISS NORMWOOD, COULD WE ARRANGE OUR SEATS IN A CIRCLE AND HAVE A LITTLE DISCUSSION?

SPECIFICALLY, I'D LIKE TO DEBATE WHETHER CRANSHAW OUGHT TO BE GRANTED FOR LENIENCY IN MURDERS, SINCE IT'S LETHAL.

FOR SOME REASON, THEY'D RATHER TEACH US STUFF THAT ANY FOOL CAN LOOK UP IN A BOOK.

I THUNK A TEST TODAY BUT I DON'T MIND.

NO?

IT'S A QUESTION OF PRIORITIES, HOBBS. A MAN'S GOT TO MAKE ROOM FOR WHAT HE CARES ABOUT.

THESE DAYS ARE PRECIOUS AND I'D RATHER SPEND THEM GOONING AROUND THEN STUDYING.

I NEVER REALLY THOUGHT OF HONORANCE AS A QUALITY OF LIFE ISSUE.

APPARENTLY, NEITHER HAS DAD.

YOU KNOW WHY BRIS DON'T WRITE THEIR MEMOIRS? BECAUSE BRIS DON'T LEAD EPIC LIVES, THAT'S WHY.

WHO'D WANT TO READ WHAT A BRIS DOES? NOBODY, THAT'S WHO.

THIS IS CHANGING THE SUBJECT, BUT HAVE YOU EVER NOTICED HOW SOMEONE CAN SAY SOMETHING TOTALLY LOON AND NOT BE AWARE OF IT? WHAT ARE YOU SUPPOSED TO DO, JUST LET IT SLIDE?

SOMETIMES IF YOU WANT WELL FOR YOURSELF, THEN AND THERE?

I SAH JUST PUNCH 'EM THEN AND THERE?

Top 3 Hope To Continue With High School Work

By Laura Williams-Tracy
Davie County Enterprise Record

With the top grades that helped them get to college, Davie High straight-A seniors plan to continue in college many of the activities that made their high school years special.

At the prompting of University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill basketball coach Dean Smith, top senior Brad Van Hoy plans to try-out for a spot on the junior varsity team this fall. A letter he received shortly after a star performance during a high school game this year made him more determined to play in college.

Heather McDowell also plans to enter UNCC in the fall, possibly pursuing a career in physical therapy. The head cheerleader will tryout to be a junior varsity cheerleader when school begins.

And Melissa Rennix, the third top student, will play mallet percussion for the Western Carolina University Marching Band and has played in the jazz concert and marching band throughout high school.

Those activities outside of the classroom are what made high school special, the three seniors said. But on the eve of graduation, the three were less certain about what their futures will hold.

Rennix said she is certain on a career in plant biology. "My grandfather was a nurseryman in West Virginia, and he used to show me about what plants could be used for," she said. After attending WCU on a full teaching scholarship, Rennix will teach biology for several years. She plans to return to school for a masters and Ph.D degree to research the medicinal value of plants.

"Many of the old remedies that people used have been tested and proven to be true," she said.

McDowell is considering volunteer work at a hospital this summer to help her decide a career path. "Physical therapy is good because the demand is there," she said.

VanHoy said he has not yet decided on a major. Each of the students said they were ready to graduate from high school, but they would miss the closeness shared among their friends.

"I'll miss my friends and the teachers who care. I know I'll be just a number at Chapel Hill. I'm also going to miss all the southern accents," McDowell said.

Rennix and VanHoy said they would like to see some changes made at the high school. VanHoy said often student's maturity is underestimated and he would like to students given more independence and freedom.

Rennix said she hoped that future students would be given more room to follow their own path, even if that meant thinking and acting differently than other students.

"I would like to see people there become a little more open-minded and not be judgmental," she said. "If you are a non-conformist they look down on you."

On Thursday night, the three seniors will gather on the stage to deliver the commencement speeches for the class of 1993.

Following tradition, Van Hoy plans to remember the events that held the class together.

McDowell will speak of the dreams each student holds for tomorrow.

Rennix said she will talk of today. "Today is reality, so make the most of it."

Heather McDowell and Melissa Rennix look up to Brad Van Hoy.

Class Remembers Scott Angus At 'Graduation'

By Laura Williams-Tracy
Davie County Enterprise Record

Friends who gathered at the funeral of Scott Angus Friday heard a song selected by his parents called "Graduation."

"The song is not about a graduation complete with caps and gowns. But God's commencement with a robe and a crown.

As those same high school students gather this week in black graduation robes, a single chair will be left empty for Scott, who despite his two-year battle with leukemia, would have graduated this week.

His parents, Janice and Ronald Angus, will accept his diploma. His fellow classmates will wear ribbons in his memory.

Just Like Other Kids

Despite the illness, Angus tried to maintain a normal lifestyle. He went to school sick and never complained about the pain.

He even kept his position on the varsity football team. If he was too weak to keep up with the other players, he stayed after practice to finish his laps around the track.

"He was determined that if he was going to be on the track team then he would give as much as the other guys," his mother said.

Scott and his parents tried to soothe the cruelest fears about Scott playing in his condition. And in September he was allowed to play a few minutes at a game.

But those moments of glory did not encourage Scott about his chances for recovery.

"After that game he knew he wasn't as strong as he thought he was. His body could not do what he thought it could," his mother said.

Scott learned of his disease two years ago after battling the-like symptoms for several weeks. He started chemotherapy right away, and spent many days throwing up at school.

Twice a week he would leave school

Jarlice Angus reads poem by Scott's classmate.

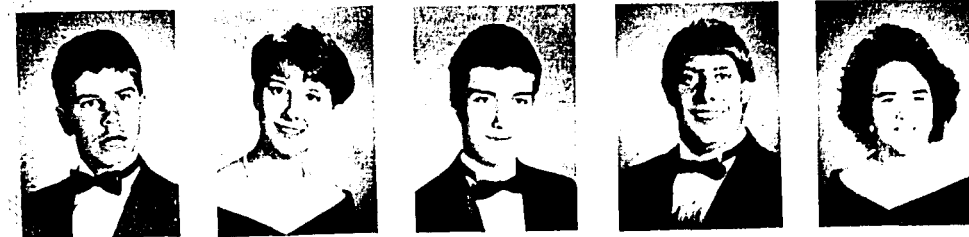

Students will remember Scott at graduation.

DHS Seniors Earn Over $350,000 In Scholarships

Davie High School seniors were rewarded with more than $350,000 worth of scholarships last week at awards day. So were their parents. For the first time, the ceremony was held at night, giving the parents a chance to see their children receive the scholarships.

"We felt like that you need to be rewarded by seeing your sons and daughters being rewarded," said Principal Robert Landry.

"To the students, this is your night to be rewarded as you strive towards academic excellence."

More than $350,000 in scholarships have been awarded at Davie High, by local civic groups and businesses, as well as by colleges and universities. More are expected.

"It's a compliment to you—the faculty, students and parents," Landry said.

Janice Angus, Scott's mother, arranges the car collection in his room.

Teen Wanted To Be A Normal Student

 after three classes and drive to Baptist Hospital in Winston-Salem for blood work. He'd rush back to school in time for fifth period.
 The disease responded well and went into remission.
Hope, Then Disappointment
 After last fall's football performance, Davie High's Number 70 learned that the disease was back. The treatments resumed, and the side effects were sometimes so bad that his legs would swell and he could hardly walk.
 Only a few times did he return to school after homecoming, just to say hello to his friends and pick up assignments.
 In January, he entered the hospital for several grueling days of radiation treatment to kill his bone marrow cells before doctors attempted a marrow transplant from his younger brother, Brian.

 The transplant went well, and Scott's body did not reject the new bone marrow.
 But at his 101 day checkup this April, exactly two years since the first diagnosis, doctors confirmed that the cancer cells were growing again at an alarming rate.
 "Scott knew there was nothing they could do for him," Angus said, and he put his fate with God.
 Despite pain, he visited his grandmother in Florida for the last time in April. And the family took a trip to the zoo on Mother's Day. Scott refused to use a wheel chair.
 In the last weeks, he would go to church in Cooleenice, and while in tremendous pain, he would pick up the children so they could reach the water fountain for a drink.

 Scott lived five weeks.
Support From God, Community
 Angus said her family remained strong during Scott's illness and after his death because of faith in God and strong community support.
 The family did not have health insurance when Scott became sick. While bills for hospitalization and treatment mounted, the family also needed help paying for hospital parking and meals at the hospital cafeteria.
 Angus said a friendly Mocksville gas attendant refused to take a $5 payment for gas she pumped to make the trip to Winston-Salem. The family received money anonymously from Sunday school classes.

 Angus said Scott received some money through Medicaid and Children's Special Health Services to pay for the two years of treatments. And while the family hasn't yet received a bill, the average cost for a bone marrow transplant is $250,000.
 As for emotional support, Angus said Scott and her family have drawn strength from their strong religious convictions. The hardest part will be missing Scott today, she said.
 But Angus said she is sure she will see Scott one day in heaven.
 "Dying is not the worst thing that can happen to you. He is at the feet of the Lord. What more could you want for your child?"

Mrs. Angus holds one of her son's projects from a technical drawing class.

Jeff Reavis Is Honored With Graduation

By Laura Williams-Troy
Davie County Enterprise-Record

Just like the 270 graduates of Davie High School this year, Jeff Reavis will don a black and orange graduation robe and wear a pointed cap. And like the others his parents will proudly watch the ceremony.

But Reavis, who is severely retarded and attends Mocksville Middle School's developmental class, graduation was a much more private event.

Reavis' teachers Tammy Bragg, Ruth Johnson and Mona Griffin planned a special ceremony at the school Friday for his family and school faculty. Reavis was to receive a certificate made by his teachers.

Before the event Friday, his mother, Connie Reavis, said that although he couldn't talk, Reavis was well aware that this was his special day.

"I know he's excited. You can see it in his actions," she said.

Since he was 6, Reavis has attended public school for developmentally disabled students in Davie County.

According to Bragg, state law enables retarded students to remain in school until they are 21 and are ready to enter a sheltered workshop or other program.

"It's important for everyone to have a ceremony for school and make it a big deal," Bragg said.

Reavis is the only graduate of the class this year. There are seven students in his class ranging in age from 6 to 21.

"We joke with him because he thinks he's bad. He's a senior," Bragg said.

With age, Reavis has matured and become a dependable member of the class, Bragg said. One of his favorite jobs is to take the class's money to the lunchroom. Along the way he visits other teachers and runs errands for them.

His mother said she is sure Reavis is ready for work at New Horizons Enterprises when graduation is over. Finding a sitter for a retarded person can be difficult, she said. And since he has worked at the sheltered workshop for the disabled during two summers, Reavis has already made friends there. "The workshop has been heaven sent," she said.

Reavis said she and her husband Carl would be at the ceremony Friday to see their son move to the next stage of his life.

"I think about what could have been and what is. He's missed a lot, but he's had a lot too."

Jeff Reavis is proud to have graduated from school.

Late Spring Can Be A Busy Time In Garden

Most of Davie County's homeowners that have a home orchard have survived a late frost and will have fruit this season.

Homeowners need to protect tree fruits from insect and diseases now in order to have fruit later this summer and fall. Insects are out in force and can ruin a fruit crop quite early in the season, said Darrell Blackwelder, N.C. Cooperative Extension agent, Davie County Center.

Fruit trees need to be sprayed on a regular schedule with a spray of fungicides and insecticides.

Captan and sulfur are the fungicides generally used on tree fruits. Malathion or methoxychlor are the insecticides often used.

A pre-mixed home fruit spray is most practical for those with a small orchard. These home fruit sprays come blended with fungicides and insecticides in one mix. Home fruit sprays are usually sold in farm supply stores or retail outlets.

Homeowners with a large orchard may find it more economical to buy the pesticides separate and blend their own mixture.

Fruit trees need to be sprayed on a regular basis, about every 10 days. Consistent sprays will give constant protection against insects and disease. Read instructions carefully before spraying. Call the Extension Service at 704-634-6297 for help with mixing or spraying insecticides.

Apple trees stricken with fire blight need to have infected limbs and twigs removed to keep from spreading to next year's growth. Pruners need to be dipped into a solution of bleach and water to prevent spread of the bacteria. Mix the solution 1 part bleach to 4 parts water. Dip each time an infected limb or twig is cut away. Failure to sanitize the pruners could spread the disease over the entire tree, Blackwelder said.

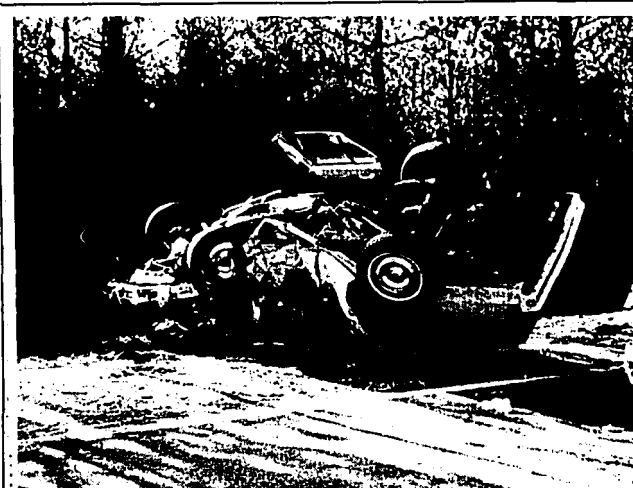

Heavy fruit set is a burden to fruit trees. Peach trees tend to set a tremendous amount of fruit, especially this season. Over half the peach fruit needs to be thinned to produce good quality fruit. Un-thinned trees don't produce more pounds of fruit, just more small fruit that will not ripen.

Limb breakage is another problem caused by excess fruit. Excess fruit weakens the health of the tree inviting insect and disease problems.

Peach fruit needs to be thinned now while the fruit is about 1/2 inch in diameter. Remove fruit that is misshapen, insect damaged or hail damaged. Thin the fruit to approximately 6 inches apart.

Plums also respond well to thinning. The fruit should be thinned 4 inches apart as soon as possible.

Apples usually drop excess fruit during the growing season. It is unnecessary to thin apples.

Property Taxes: Check On Your Share

If you've watched your property taxes edge up a bit year after year, never questioning the need for the increase, you could be paying more than your fair share of property taxes. The North Carolina Association of CPAs recommends that you take the time to periodically review your property taxes and, if necessary, appeal assessments that you think are out of line. The end result could be a tax savings for years to come.

How Properties Are Assessed
Your property tax represents the assessed value of your home multiplied by the local tax rate. The tax rate is set by law and can't be changed on the basis of an individual complaint. However, you may be able to lower your property tax by questioning the amount of your property assessment.

The assessed value of your home is equal to its fair market value as determined by a municipal assessor -- what the property would sell for -- multiplied by its assessment ratio -- the percentage of fair market value subject to tax.

In determining the market value of your home, some assessors will inspect your home inside and out, while others may get information about it from municipal records and rely only on an outside view of the home. In most places, however, assessors will consider sale prices of recent properties in determining the market value of your home.

Localities also use different assessment ratios in computing property tax rates, so you need to find out how assessments are made in your community. Some localities use 100 percent of the fair market value of your home in calculating your property tax, while others may use a fraction of the market value in doing the calculation. The difference is critical in understanding your tax rate and determining its fairness. For example, if the fair market value of your home is $150,000, and your tax assessment is based on 80 percent of the market value, the assessed value of your home should be $120,000. If you discover that your assessed value is listed as $140,000, even though this is less on your property report card, you may have a case for appealing your property tax.

Also, be aware that you may be entitled to special exemptions, which should be reflected in your property tax calculations. For example, in some communities, veterans, elderly or blind people, and people with low incomes may be entitled to a tax break.

Making an Appeal
In making an appeal, it's up to you to prove that your home's assessment is incorrect. This means gathering the evidence you need to support your argument. If you can show that there is a mathematical error in your property tax calculation or a factual error on your property, such as listing your one-story home as a two-story residence, you may be able to have your assessment lowered in an informal talk with the assessor.

If you can't settle the issue with the assessor, you can appeal your case to the local appeals board, which is typically composed of three to five local business people. To make your case for a property tax reduction, take along relevant materials such as property maps, photographs of your home and similar ones in the neighborhood, and most importantly, assessment figures on at least three comparable homes as well as the price of comparable homes that sold recently. If possible, bring a supporting appraisal from a recent mortgage refinancing or home equity loan application.

Make sure you know all the deadlines and procedures for making an appeal so that you don't lose your case on a technicality. To learn how the appeals procedure is handled, you may also want to sit in on other appeal board hearings.

Although you should have an idea of the assessment figure you feel is accurate for your home, be prepared to compromise. Determining property taxes is in part subjective, so you may want to take a reasonable offer of a reduction from the assessor.

If you lose your case or still are not satisfied with your assessment, you can appeal to the state review board which follows a procedure similar to that of the local board. Your last resort is to take your case to tax court. CPAs point out that this is a more costly option that you should consider only if the potential savings are likely to exceed the cost of getting a professional appraisal, giving up your time and hiring the professionals you need to help you win the case.

Potential for Errors

The sheer amount of information needed to compute your property tax creates the potential for errors. There may be a simple mathematical error, property values may have declined in your area, or the assessor may have based his computation on incorrect information about your home.

How do you know if the assessor has accurate information about your home? Go to your local assessor's office and obtain your property report card. Read it carefully. It provides detailed information about your home, including the size of the house and the land, number of bathrooms and fireplaces, construction material and any unique features that may add to your home's value.

Qualified Agent Can Help Alleviate Real Estate Concerns

Whether you're a first-time buyer, selling your current home or relocating to a different part of the country, the support of a qualified, knowledgeable real estate agent can alleviate many of your concerns and ensure a smooth transaction. A professional agent can market your present residence, help you locate the home of your dreams and assist in making your transfer to an unfamiliar area easier.

To find a trained sales associate or broker, you may need to look no farther than your own neighborhood or home town. If a well-established brokerage is involved in many listings and sales, this is a good sign. Speak with some of the agent's past customers about the quality and integrity of service and performance. Successful real estate agents rely heavily on customer referrals and will therefore strive to provide the very best in customer service and satisfaction.

Set up appointments to "interview" agents and brokers much like an employer would interview a prospective employee. Inquire about their training, marketing programs and specific service policies. Also determine how many years of experience they have, the number of listings they have had, and the number of homes they have sold within the past few years. More importantly, find out how well they know the area. Ask for references, and check them out.

Your goal is to determine just how knowledgeable the agents are. Question them on financing, closing costs and/or local market conditions, depending on whether you're a prospective home buyer or seller, to determine their expertise. If they know their stuff, they should be able to answer your questions effortlessly.

If you're selling your home, learn what they will do if you decide to list with them. How do they plan to market your home? Will they provide you with a market analysis to help you determine the most effective listing price for your property? Will they supply regular progress reports and assist with negotiations once you've received offers?

If you are relocating to a different part of the country, is your agent connected with a national relocation service that will not only expose your present property to incoming transferees, but assist with your search for a new house?

Ask for a written guarantee that existing promises will be delivered.

A qualified real estate agent should be able to answer all your questions and provide you with quality service that is courteous and responsive. Finding the right person may take time and patience, but when purchasing or selling a home, the selection of a dependable agent should be top on your list.

Lawns Provide Much More Than Just Looks

Scientists have long recognized the environmental importance of lawn grasses.

Lawns cool our neighborhoods, replenish our oxygen supply, prevent soil erosion, filter dust and pollen from the air, purify water, build topsoil, reduce sunlight glare, and absorb noise pollution.

"Lawns need to be recognized for the necessary benefits they provide to our health and our future," said Rex Howers, PLCAA member. "More than 60 million Americans provide some type of care for their lawns. Whether it is the homeowner or a professional, the caretakers of America's 14 million acres of lawns deserve credit for the valuable service they perform by contributing to the betterment of the world's environment."

Proper mowing and use of fertilizer are important to any lawn maintenance program. Correct use of fertilizer maximizes the environmental qualities of lawns by making them denser. This prevents erosion and runoff of irrigation and rainwater. Over fertilization can directly damage a lawn or make it more vulnerable to insect and disease pests. Under fertilization allows room for weed growth.

Northern cool season grasses should be fertilized in the spring and fall, while southern warm season grasses benefit from late spring, summer, and early fall fertilizations. For specific fertilization requirements of your lawn, consult your lawn care professional or your county extension agent.

Mowing is a critical part of the program. For best results your lawn needs to be mowed with a sharp mower set at the mowing height that is ideal for the variety of grass you are growing. Sharpen your rotary mower monthly during the season, more often if you hit stones or sticks.

Match your mowing schedule to the growth rate of your lawn. You may need to mow every four or five days in late spring, but by summer you may only need to mow every 10 to 14 days.

When you remove more than a third of the leaf height in a single mowing, root growth stops and the lawn becomes weaker, thinner, and loses its dark green color.

Established lawns need irrigation to supplement natural rainfall. They require more water in hot weather, but may require water in dry cool periods as well.

In hot weather, lawns may need as much as one inch of water every 5-7 days. That's equal to three hours of watering time with the typical lawn sprinkler. Avoid daily watering and watering in evenings as these practices encourage disease. The best time to water is early morning.

Lawns need properly timed fertilizer applications to become dense and green. Over fertilization weakens your lawn and causes excess top growth. Grass cycling, in conjunction with proper fertilization, enhances the health of your lawn.

For more even growth when using medium to full rates, use fertilizers containing methylene urea, ureaformaldehyde, sulfurcoated urea, IBDU, or other slowing available organic forms of nitrogen.

Full enjoyment of a beautiful lawn requires some safety precautions.

The family lawnmower should be treated with great respect. The modern rotary mower is equipped with important safety features to reduce the likelihood of accidental injury to hands or feet. Follow the manufacturer's recommendation of mower maintenance, and never disconnect or disable safety devices.

Federal and state EPA's regulate the use of weed, insect, and disease control products on home lawns. They require very specific use of instructions on the label of each of these products. To protect your family, lawn, and environment, follow label instructions very carefully. For added protection, wear long pants and a long sleeve shirt when applying lawn care products. Change clothes and wash them separately from other family clothing when you finish. Store unused products out of reach of children and keep children and pets off treated lawns until the treatments are dry.

For more information, contact Howers at 634-1810 or the Professional Lawn Care Association of America at (404) 977-5222.

Fair Housing Goal

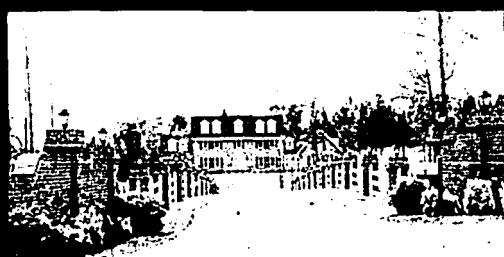

The Davie County Board of Realtors recently signed an agreement with the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development to ensure fair housing compliance.

The voluntary agreement is part of a national effort by HUD and the National Association of Realtors to guarantee fair housing practices in all states.

The goal of both HUD and NAR in developing and implementing this Agreement is affirmatively to further fair housing through voluntary efforts that result in the provision of equal housing opportunity to all homebuyers regardless of their race, color, religion, sex, handicap, familial status or national origin.

Crosbie Kowalski, president of the Davie County Board, said all the local real estate agencies had signed the agreement.

10 GOOD REASONS TO CHOOSE PIEDMONT FEDERAL FOR YOUR NEXT HOME LOAN

1. Piedmont Federal keeps all home loans. We don't sell your mortgage to out-of-state investors.

2. Loan Rates are locked in at application for up to 60 days. If rates go down before you close, you will get the lower rate.

3. Closing costs are generally less because we close all loans in our offices and since we make the loans we generally have fewer fees.

4. All Piedmont Federal offices are full service. All applications and closings can be handled at the location most convenient to you.

5. We approve all loans — Only our approval is necessary and no outside parties are involved (excluding those loans that require mortgage insurance).

6. We have fast service. Our experienced personnel make the process move as smoothly and quickly as possible. In fact, closings are generally within 30 days of application.

7. You'll get a mortgage loan account book with your Piedmont Federal loan — You'll always know how much you've paid and your loan balance.

8. You'll always have ready access to all your account information since we maintain your loan. Plus you'll be dealing with the same people that made the loan for you.

9. Escrow accounts are not required for home loans (except 90% loans).

10. Piedmont Federal's caring staff is the most important reason of all.

Cooleemee Hopes For Busy Year At Swimming Pool

Cooleemee - Folks in the southern Davie County town are hoping for a busy year at the town's public swimming pool. And if the 200-plus who went for a free day of swimming on Memorial Day weekend are any indication, they'll have just that. The swimming pool is located in the town's recreation center off Marginal Street, off N.C. 801. Take U.S. 601 south from Mocksville and turn right on N.C. 801 to reach Cooleemee. Family season passes are available for $120 each, with individual passes being sold for $60. Daily single admission will be $2 per person. The pool is open from 11 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday, from 11 a.m.-8 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays, and from 1-5 p.m. on Sundays.

Multi-Family Housing Building Permits Up

The number of building permits issued for multi-family housing is increasing for the first time since 1990. The 38.3 percent increase in multi-family permits since the first quarter of 1992 was accompanied by a 19.3 percent increase in construction costs. The 913 units permitted during the first quarter of 1993 were valued at $29,965,502.

Single family home permits remained steady, with 2,663 issued in 1993 compared to 2,677 issued during the first quarter of 1992. The values of the homes permitted during the first quarter of 1993 rose by 10.2 percent over costs during 1992. The average cost of a single family home increased 10.8 percent over last year's values to $93,796.

The total number of building permits issued during the first quarter of 1993 declined 0.4 percent from the 8,870 permits granted during the first quarter of 1992, while total costs dropped 3.6 percent from $407,765,746 during the same period.

Permits for residential additions and alterations went down by 9.4 percent from 1992 first quarter figures to 2,187 during 1993's first quarter. Costs for those alterations also dropped, down 14.7 percent to $28,004,309.

Total commercial construction (including new construction and additions and alterations) dropped 1.5 percent to 3,074 units from the same time last year, with values down 13.9 percent at $278,167,030.

Commercial additions and alterations permits rose 1.6 percent from 1,849 in 1992 to 1,879 in 1993. Costs decreased 16.1 percent from $137,577,062 in 1992 to $115,461,591 in 1993. The number of multi-family housing permits issued during March 1993 doubled and the value of those permits tripled over values reported a year ago.

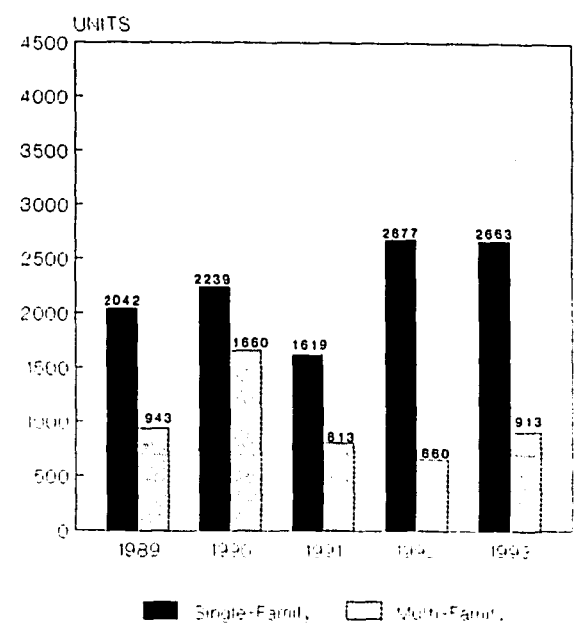

Multi-family building permits rose 244 percent over those issued in March 1992 to 485 this year. Estimated value of those permits reached 339.1 percent over values reported in 1992.

Total residential building was up with an increase of 13.3 percent over the 2,173 units built in 1992. Estimated values increased by 26.9 percent to $131,690,259 in March 1993. The average cost of a single family home was $95,682 in March, up five percent over prices a month earlier and 13.4 percent over prices a year earlier.

Commercial building permits and values dropped from reports a year ago to 404 units valued at $53,801,888 down 23.2 percent. Commercial additions and alterations permits numbered 697, a 13.9 percent increase over those issued in 1992.

Total construction permits during March were up 7.6 percent over those issued in March 1992. However, overall value of all permits decreased by 4.8 percent.

Davie Bombed With Baseball Size Hail

By Mike Barnhardt
Davie County Enterprise Record

Hail to Mother Nature.

A cold front moving through Davie County Friday evening brought out one of the worst hail storms folks can remember.

The hail - ranging from the size of marbles to the size of baseballs - smashed windows, dented hundreds of cars, and made wrecks of crops and vegetable gardens.

And by Monday, local insurance agents had fielded hundreds of calls from Davie residents looking for help paying for storm damage.

Dale Blackwelder knows about that damage. The family farm had extensive damage, as did homes in the area off U.S. 601 a couple of miles northwest of Mocksville.

"We were moving hay and had just got done," Blackwelder said. "We went home. I had just pulled in the driveway. It looked like a regular cloud, and then heavy lightning hit."

There was no warning for the hail. It started coming in chunks the size of baseballs.

"It started with the big chunks. When they hit the ground, it would jump back up shoulder high," he said.

A 130-foot long metal milk barn, about a year old, took a big hit. "Every sheet has got a hole in it ... everything from pellet size to holes you could stick your fist through. It went straight through the building. Me and my brother had some windows broken out," he said.

Blackwelder thinks the corn crop can recover.

Garbage Fees To Go Up In Towns

By Laura Williams-Tracy
Davie County Enterprise Record

Mocksville's proposed budget won't affect tax rates this year, but town residents may pay more for garbage service.

Mocksville's proposed $3.39 million budget is almost $470,000 less than the previous year. It includes a 5 percent pay increase for town employees and increases funding for the arts council, economic development and adds a new police officer, said Town Manager Terry Bralley.

Water and sewer rates are not affected by this budget.

The property tax rate would remain at $3.39 per $100 property value.

The increase in garbage service fees comes because of an overall increase in handling Davie County's garbage. Although no action has been taken by the county's board of commissioners regarding the future of the county landfill, Bralley said landfill tipping fees are expected to jump from $30 per ton of garbage to $45 per ton. Bralley said that expense would be passed along to town residents by a doubling of the landfill fee charged on water bills.

Mocksville residents will pay $6 every two months for service instead of the current $3 charge.

Bralley said the town will hold off on several capital projects that are part of long-term plans.

One of those is expansion of sewer lines from Bear Creek to Cooleemee, which is expected to cost as much as $1.5 million.

"I believe this year that we have made many good investments in our community. We have been nationally recognized for our efforts," Bralley said.

The town will hold a public hearing on the proposed budget Monday, June 21 at 8 a.m. at town hall.

Principals Move Within Davie School System

By Mike Barnhardt
Davie County Enterprise Record

There will be a lot of new faces in principal's offices across Davie County when school opens this fall.

In what he called a positive move for the entire system, superintendent Dr. Bill Steed on Tuesday announced principal assignments for the coming year.

Only Mocksville Middle School will keep the same principal, Bill Campbell. Others will have new faces.

W.G. "Dub" Potts goes from North Davie to be principal at Davie High. Linda Freeze will remain an assistant principal, with one, maybe two assistant principal positions at the high school remaining unfilled.

Robert Landry will go from Davie High to be principal at South Davie Junior High. Patsy Crenshaw will remain assistant principal there.

Jeff Albarty goes from Mocksville Elementary to Cooleemee Elementary, replacing the retiring Vernon Thompson.

Larry Jones goes from Pinebrook to William R. Davie, and Mary Sine, former assistant principal at Shady Grove, will become assistant principal for Cooleemee and William R. Davie schools.

Larry Bridgewater goes from Shady Grove Elementary to become principal at North Davie Junior High. Lorene Markland will be assistant principal at North Davie.

Julius Suiter moves from South Davie to Mocksville

Cooleemee Budget Hearing June 17

COOLEEMEE - A public hearing on the town's proposed $247,305 budget will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday, June 17, at the town hall.

The town board is expected to approve a budget at a special meeting following the hearing.

The proposal includes:

- a 5% pay increase for all town employees;
- the lease of two new police cars (Bill Cranfill and Hayden Beck voted for the lease, Grimes Parker and Bob Jordan voted against it, with Mayor Bill Gales breaking the tie with a vote to lease the cars);

- a $5 landfill fee will be charged for residential garbage collection, to be added to water and sewer bills;

- part-time paid police officers will be cut to auxiliary officers;
- the 20-cents per $100 property valuation tax rate will remain the same.

County Budget Ready For Public Scrutiny

By Richelle Bailey
Davie County Enterprise Record

Landfill fees will increase for Davie County residents if the county commissioners approve the $22.7 million 1993-94 budget on June 21.

A public hearing on the proposed budget, which also includes no tax increases or increase in the number of county employees, will be at 7 p.m. Monday, June 21 in the board room on the second floor of the county administration building.

The predicted increase in landfill fees will cover the costs of entering an agreement to send trash to a new regional landfill in Forsyth County.

"It's cheaper and we get rid of the potential environmental problems that come with a long-term landfill," said County Manager Ken Windley.

With this agreement, fees charged to trash haulers would increase from $30 to $45 a ton for household waste and from $17 to $39 a ton for construction and demolition waste. The increase in fees will cover costs of closing the county's already existing landfill and building a $500,000 transfer station to manage the waste that will be sent to Forsyth.

State Lottery No Answer For State's Budget Problems

The state legislature is growing more and more charmed with the idea of financing government with state-sponsored gambling. As they scramble to find money for the new budget, the legislators seem to be less able to resist the temptations a state lottery may hold: as much as $200 million a year. It's easy to justify a lottery. A lot of people want it. It's a voluntary tax. Already, North Carolinians are slipping up to Virginia to buy lottery tickets there. Someone gets lucky and actually wins unthinkable riches. And the revenue is going to a worthy cause — our children's education.

It may be easy to justify, but it's hard to defend. The same General Assembly long ago determined that gambling is criminal conduct. That would take some revision. Gambling was made illegal because of the detrimental effect it has on lives and families. Fortunes have been lost to gambling. And so have the meager food budgets of low-income families dreaming of a way to get rich.

Gambling is no way to run government. If the General Assembly needs more money, it should get it the old fashioned way: raise taxes. Lotteries are expensive to run. A healthy percentage must go to pay the winners, for administration and to pay stores that sell the tickets. Sales taxes, by contrast, cost the state little in administration.

There has been a push in recent years for a referendum on the lottery. Legislators, eager to avoid the fallout for approving a lottery, want the public to decide. They defend that tactic as being democratic. For that matter, they should also hold a referendum on legislative pay increases. Would they decide that is ... too democratic.

Many states now have lotteries. Some of those have seen their revenues slipping in recent years. The lotteries haven't been the blessing they were promised.

Our state should avoid the trappings of gambling. If our schools need more money, raise taxes. Gambling is not the answer.

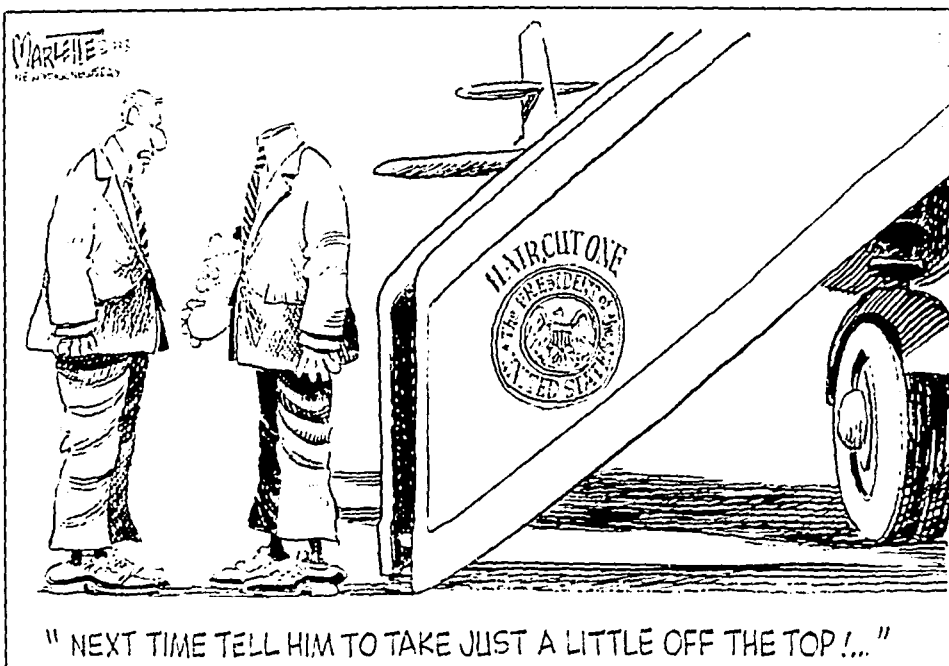

Want Money For Schools? Play Golf At The Crosby

There was $1.5 million at stake last week at The Crosby. What a golden opportunity to get money for a worthy cause. The first place team divided $120,000 among their favorite charities. The second place finishers included actors Rick Hurst, M. Emmet Walsh, Jeff Beach and ... Bill Steed.

The county commissioners have chiseled away at Superintendent Bill Steed's request for money in the new budget, cutting the money needed to convert to his middle school plan. Has he found another way to get the money — winning it at The Crosby? It sounded almost like Col. Oliver North and Irangate.

Actually, our Bill Steed was not the Bill Steed among The Crosby's winners. That Bill Steed is a Duke Power corporate executive in Charlotte. Our Bill Steed is noted for his tennis, not his golf. Superintendent Steed said he had met his namesake at The Crosby and told him he had done wonders for his golfing reputation.

SADD Helps Promotion

To the editor:
I would like to thank all of the Seniors who signed the Lane/SADD (Students Against Driving Drunk) "commencement commitment" agreeing to celebrate graduation safely by not drinking or riding with a drinking driver. The students' participation in this program is evidence to our community that they are committed to saving lives. Special thanks to Rhonda Paillo, president of Davie High School's SADD chapter, for her enthusiasm and eagerness in getting the Lane/SADD promotion off to a great start. Rhonda saw to it that all Davie High seniors received their invitations from Daniel Furniture to come in and sign the "commencement commitment" and receive their free keepsake chest prior to graduation.

Enjoyed Patriotic Display

To the editor:
On Sunday morning, May 29, around 7 a.m. I was coming from Virginia on I-40. I swung off of I-40 at Farmington exit to I-55 to Mocksville. Upon arrival up over the top of Bob Wilson Hill, I could not believe all the American flags flying for Memorial Day. My heart was already heavy, for I was returning from Quantico, Va., from the funeral of one of my best marine buddies from World War II.

My soul and heart were filled with love, joy, pride, honor and sadness for our fallen friends, and by the time I came on down by the old Mocksville High School my eyes were so flooded I could hardly see the street. What a greeting for a war veteran driving into a small town in North Carolina. What really put the icing on the cake was that it is my home town. I will never forget this greeting from a small patriotic town.

My stop in Mocksville was with my favorite aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Eaton on North Main Street.

Respect The Police

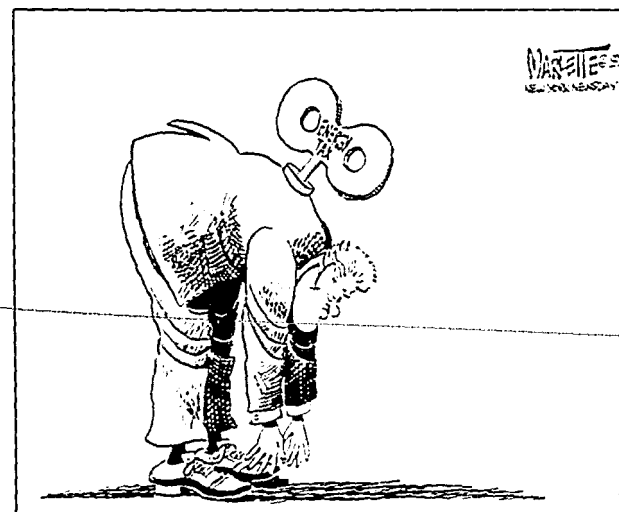

To the editor:
Romans Chapter 13:1-7: Let every soul be subject unto the higher powers. For there is no power but of God: the powers that be are ordained of God. Whosoever resisteth the power, resisteth the ordinance of God: and they that resist shall receive to themselves damnation.

The role of the police officer has long been overlooked. They play a very important part in society for the well-being of each community and we tend to take them for granted until it is necessary for them to be called upon. They each have been placed in position for authority by a higher power whose name is above all God.

When we neglect to respect their position, we are disregarding the rule of God.

Let's do our part in society and go before God on behalf of all law enforcement officers and give them the respect which is due them.

In doing so, we are giving Glory to God. In the love of God - His handmaidens,

Conway Twitty Did It His Way — With Country

A country music legend died last week. Conway Twitty — the Frank Sinatra of country music — died after giving a concert. Twitty had a chance to be a rock and roller when he began in music in the '50s.

He chose country. And like Barbara Mandrell says, that was back when country wasn't cool.

How could he have known that country would become the most popular music?

How could he have known that country music would give him more number one hits than Frank Sinatra, Elvis, The Beatles or The Rolling Stones?

Mike Barnhardt

How could he have known that country music would make him a legend? How could he have known that more women would swoon and scream at his than did at Elvis's shows?

He didn't know any of these things. Conway Twitty just did the music he liked the best — country. It made him and a lot of fans happy and it made him rich.

What was it about Conway Twitty that made him so popular, especially among the women?

It's hard to tell, but it spurned this story about a new Baptist preacher in town, going down the street introducing himself. At the first house, a woman began screaming when the preacher opened the door. "Conway Twitty, I can't believe it's Conway Twitty." She called her husband to come and see. The preacher said, "No, ma'am, I've been told I look like Conway Twitty, but I'm the new Baptist preacher in town here to introduce myself." The preacher went to the next house and rang the doorbell. The young, attractive woman living there was in the shower. She wrapped a towel around her body and answered the door. When she saw the Twitty-lookalike standing in her doorway, she flung her arms up with excitement. When she did so, the towel fell to the floor, showing the preacher everything she was born with. "Oh my, it's Conway Twitty," she screamed.

The preacher replied, "Hello, Darlin'." Of course, "Hello, Darlin'" is one of Twitty's most famous hits.

I never could figure out what it was that women found attractive in Conway Twitty. There wasn't a good looking bone in his body. He had two tons of hair combed straight back in the high wet look made famous by television preachers. He wasn't small, but he wasn't a muscle man, either. It must have been the voice.

Twitty could open his show with that deep, "Hello, Darlin'" and the women would be in the palm of his hand the rest of the night. They would paint their blue jeans to their bodies just to shake them when he sang "Tight Fittin' Jeans."

Conway sang the raunchy country songs about sex and divorce, but he also had a soft side, singing tear-jerkers about being a daddy.

For some reason, I never liked Conway Twitty. I always thought I didn't like his music. Maybe the real reason was jealousy over his ability to woo the women. Maybe it was because he had a silly name. Maybe it was because of the hair. Maybe it was because he wasn't an outlaw, which us young country fans liked to associate ourselves with.

But I've come to realize it wasn't the music. Because all his hits are being played on the radio as a tribute. And I find myself singing along to almost every one.

'Oh My Gosh, It's Time For School!'

Here's the scene: It's 6:49 a.m. and I've been awake since 6:10 (well not really awake, but I'm up and moving and have one eye open). Lunches have been packed, breakfast eaten and it's now one minute until the school bus pulls to a stop at the top of the street. I'm just about to bid farewell to my children and then head back to bed for another 45 minutes of sleep, when I'm suddenly jolted out of my semi-conscious state into wide-eyed panic. One of my children has just turned back around toward the door with a stricken look on his/her face.

"OH, MY GOSH! I just remembered. This is the day we're going to a play and I need $7.38 in exact change."

Talk about your rude awakenings. At my house we call this the "oh, my gosh" crisis, and we began experiencing them when the kids started school. Up until that time, I always thought of myself as a calm, easy-going kind of person, who never got riled and seldom raised her voice. Suddenly, I was Dr. Jekyll and Ms. Hyde. I could go from turtle to turbo-charged in a matter of seconds, my pulse jumping to hyper-speed, and the thudding in my chest becoming audible. Back when the kids were in kindergarten and first grade, these OMGs occurred almost daily. They've tapered off to two or three times a week now. Over the years I've kept track of some of our more memorable OMGs and I thought I'd share a few to see if they might sound familiar to anyone else.

One of my all time favorites goes like this: you're hurrying the kids to the door because you've just heard what sounds like the bus coming around the circle and just as you give them that final kiss and nudge toward the drive, your son whirrs around with a stricken look on his face and cries, "Oh, my gosh! I told the teacher you'd make the cookies for Principal Appreciation Day. I need six dozen chocolate chip cookies for a party this morning." A variation on this and one that occurred numerous times during the year is the "Oh, my gosh! I forgot this is the day we're going on a field trip and I need a bag lunch, canned drink and $2.50 for the bus."

Other down-to-the-wire-crises have included needing a permission slip signed that very day or they'll have to sit in the nurse's office while everyone else gets to go see how they make donuts; today they're supposed to bring an empty oatmeal box to school to make a drum for social studies; this is the day we're supposed to turn in our ideas for a science fair project; she was just playing with the bunny for a second, but now it's gotten loose somewhere in the living room and can't be found; he needs a copy of four of last week's newspapers for a writing project; oh, my gosh! Today is his gym day and his clothes are in the washer; she can't find a library book that is due today; he's sure he left his shoes by the front door last night, but now they're missing and he can't go to school barefoot, and so on and so on.

I can't tell you how many times I've had to go running up the hill from my house to the bus stop in my pajamas, signing a permissions slip, slapping peanut butter onto a couple of pieces of bread, or trying to pour a full box of oatmeal into an eight-ounce measuring cup. The worst, however, is trying to cut out pictures of endangered species from the National Geographic while on a dead run.

Of course, knowing how much I love to sleep, and how much I hate getting up in the morning, the best one yet was a quick kiss at the door and then an "oh, my gosh! I just remembered. We don't have school today."

Budget Ramrodded Through Process

By Rep. Julia C. Howard
At 4:30 last Friday morning, the House passed its version of the state budget for the next two years.

I would like to explain how the budget process should work, and what actually occurred to produce this $8.8 billion monster that I voted against.

When done properly, bills involving the spending of taxpayers money are assigned to an appropriate subcommittee on the Appropriations Committee. (The Appropriations Committee is made up of 70 members of the House.) There, the bills are read and discussed, and it is the responsibility of each person involved to gather and present facts and information about the bills so that when they are asked to accept or reject a bill, they can make an informed decision. When this process is completed, the individual bills then go to the full Appropriations Committee where they are discussed by the entire group, which then decides whether the bill should be amended, voted into the proposed budget, or rejected.

Once the Budget Bill has passed the Appropriations Committee, a final draft of the bill is normally completed. This takes about two days, during which time the House Finance Committee, made up of the other 50 members of the House, usually has a chance to go over the budget proposal. Once printed, the Budget Bill is introduced to the full House for its first, second, and third readings, with two-day waiting periods between each reading.

The waiting periods allow legislators a chance to gather facts and information for possible amendments to the budget and give North Carolinians an opportunity to hear about the budget bill so they can contact their

"You should be gravely concerned about the manner in which something as critical as your $8.8 billion budget was ramrodded through a physically exhausted, mentally blurred, and bleary-eyed House in the morning's wee hours."

representative with any concerns. Voting on the final budget should be a six or seven day process. What I have just described is the way things should have been handled.

Unfortunately, this session's process was different. The Appropriations/Education Committee is one of the most important in the House. There have been many meetings, at which each person was asked to rate the bills being considered from 1-3 with "1" being the highest priority. The committee debated about 120 bills, but there was never a vote. The bills were only ranked. When some members of the committee asked for the results, they were told by the committee chairman that they could not have access to them.

Members of the committee to which a bill is assigned are supposed to vote on those bills. Since this was not done in the Appropriations/Education Committee (and I don't know how many others), you might wonder how those bills got in the budget proposal. The six appropriations subcommittee chairmen, along with the main committee co-chairmen, got together and decided what would be included in the new budget. They presented the committee with the total package to vote upon or down. No chance to delete any of the recommendations was given. What followed was a complete act of injustice to the taxpayers.

Every year, there is a competition between the House and the Senate to see which can complete the budget first. With the Senate's budget proposal in place, the majority party in the House decided that they wanted the budget pushed through before the first of June so it could be said that for the first time ever, the General Assembly got their budget proposals far in the next two years before the end of May. To do this, the House rules were suspended with a 2/3 majority vote.

With the rules suspended the budget process was conducted in 24 hours with no waiting periods and no way for the finance committee to review the budget and no time for constituents to voice their opinions on the bill. For those of us who planned to submit amendments to the bill, there was no time to contact staff for needed facts. According to the Raleigh News and Observer on Saturday, May 29, "The marathon session had been forced by the Democrats who control the House. The only deadline they faced was their own desire to have a budget package by the end of May, one month before it takes effect July 1."

"House Republicans resisted the all-nighter, saying they wanted to take the weekend to study the 344-page budget package that had been reported by the appropriations committee Thursday afternoon. But they were too few to block the Democrats."

The next step is for the House and Senate leaders to appoint members of the Conference Committee, which will debate the differences between the two budgets. Democrat or Republican, you should be gravely concerned about the manner in which something as critical as your $8.8 billion budget was ramrodded through physically exhausted, mentally blurred, and bleary-eyed House in the wee hours of the morning. North Carolina residents deserve well-thought-out and carefully deliberated laws... not those passed when the lawmakers can hardly think straight. We have done you a great disservice, and you should be aware.

The big news this week that generated many, many phone calls was the Governor's Early Childhood Initiative (one of those things slipped into the budget without proper committee procedure) and the other bills that go along with it.

No one is advocating the abuse or neglect of children, but such policies lead to a constant encroachment on families whose value systems do not match those of the current "social engineers." I fear that "Smart Start" is another of these programs.

The "Parents as Teachers" program, another of the governor's proposals, was begun in Missouri in 1981. PAT would send parent educators into the homes of children up to age 3.

The PAT program has three priorities: to expand the participation of children in state-run preschool programs like Head Start; to create a system to follow infants from birth through childhood to ensure that they get necessary immunizations and preventive health care; and to "make sure every child born is wanted."

A moratorium for church day-care gives them a year to address the change in child-staff ratios. Many will already meet these ratios. The proposed child-staff ratios for day-care are: birth to 12 months: 1-5 (was 1-6); 12-24 months: 1-6 (was 1-7); 2-3 years: 1-10 (was 1-12).

Senate Seeking A Responsible Budget

By Sen. Betsy Cochrane

Now that the House has passed a budget, conferees from the House and Senate will be appointed to iron out the differences. The compromise bill will be the state budget for 1993-95, which will be the budget vote for legislators.

The Senate version has some fiscally responsible features that I hope the Senate will stand with firmly. The Senate used $327 million to move the June 1994 payday for state employees back into June. During the budget crisis of 1990-91, the governor moved the June payday into July to balance the budget. The Senate is now proposing to move it back to "uncook the books." This way there would be 12 paydays a year rather than 11, then 13.

The Senate has created a fund for state facilities to maintain infrastructure. We did not get the opportunity to debate the issue of S.B. 676 in Children/Human Resources. In appropriations, we challenged $20 million to 12 private-public partnerships with ambiguous language. It seemed to be another bureaucracy.

We also expressed concerns regarding the possible increase in the cost of day-care for working families. We do want to help children, but we are fiscally responsible and believe the family is the primary decision-maker for children.

A moratorium for church day-care gives them a year to address the change in child-staff ratios. Many will already meet these ratios.

The proposed child-staff ratios for day-care are: birth to 12 months: 1-5 (was 1-6); 12-24 months: 1-6 (was 1-7); 2-3 years: 1-10 (was 1-12).

We are working to define more specifically or delete ambiguous language in the Smart Start proposal. For example, "infant tracking" is supposed to refer only to keeping records of vaccinations. We want the language to say that or be deleted.

The reason the leadership of the Senate is willing to work with us on these changes is because we joined the 50 with the understanding our concerns would be addressed. When a bill cannot be stopped, you work to modify it to improve it as much as possible.

The Senate voted down H.B. 97 on Tuesday to see it resurrected on Wednesday. By a 25-to-20 vote, the Senate said no to the bill that raised the limit on cash awards at raffles from $1,000 to $10,000.

The Senate has passed legislation to authorize a local city or county to set bonds for water and sewer infrastructure on an economic development project. The revenue from the plant or factory's taxes would be used to pay off the bonds (H.B. 1117). A factory worth $100 million would pay $1 million in taxes.

A select committee has been appointed to reach consensus on how to reduce premiums for employers and continue benefits for employees because of rising health care costs.

The law on paying child support while the youngster is still in school has been changed. If the student is still in school making passing grades, then the support must continue without the custodial parent having to go to court to get support past 18 years of age.

I was appointed to the Joint Legislative Ethics Committee for this legislative term. This committee is the peer review for legislators' questionable behavior, ethically speaking.

Your calls and letters are appreciated, and I welcome any comments on any bill. This aids my deliberations on legislation.

Principals Going To Different Schools

Elementary, where Pam Jewell remains as assistant principal. Mel Fogg goes from assistant principal's position at the high school to become principal at Pinebrook Elementary. Larry Lanier remains assistant principal there.

Linda Jones moves from William R. Davie to become principal at Shady Grove, where assistant will be Charles Markland, former assistant at North Davie.

In making the decision, Steed said he looked at what was best for the system as it changes to the middle school concept. He also tried to match individuals with schools and communities.

It was the most changes in recent years. Steed said he had been discussing possible assignments with the principals for a year. "I saw an opportunity to look at administrative assignments and place people in the positions they would be most effective," he said. "Personnel is the most important job we do in the school system. We try to place people where they can be successful."

"I think this is a positive move for our school system, a positive move for the individuals. I think they'll all serve well in these new positions."

Steed said he tried to match principals and assistants. "I think they're on good terms and have good working relationships, building on the strengths of other people."

"No one campaigned for their positions."

Steed announced his plans to board of education members during an executive session Monday night. It met with unanimous approval.

Doctor Introduces Former POWs

WINSTON-SALEM—Liberated by the Russian army from a German prison camp on May 1, 1945, Robert Rogers and Arthur Uphaw never knew their paths would cross again.

But while taking Rogers' medical history, Dr. Earl Watts heard something familiar. "Arthur and I have been friends for years, and I remembered a story he told me years ago about a flock of ducks that got lost in the fog, flew into the wall in the camp and became dinner," said Watts, associate professor of internal medicine (cardiology) at the Bowman Gray/Baptist Hospital Medical Center.

"I filed it on my shelf of interesting things, but when I heard Bob repeat it, I knew they had to be in the same staling."

Still, Rogers said that he and Uphaw met by coincidence while recovering from outpatient procedures in Baptist's Day Hospital. As Watts made his rounds, he learned that Uphaw, too, was in the unit.

"Earl said, 'There's a friend of mine down the hall I think you should meet,'" Rogers recalled. "I said, 'Thank you, you can go.' But he said, 'No, I want to hear this.' Mr. Uphaw and I have spoken several times since."

Rogers, a pilot, and Uphaw, an armor-bardier, both served in the Army Air Corps aboard a B-17, a plane nicknamed the Flying Fortress because of its firepower and durability.

Of the two, Rogers pulled the longest stint at Stalag Luft 6 (Air Camp) No. 1 in Barth, Germany.

On March 3, 1944, flak and mechanical failure combined to cripple his B-17 in the first attempt at daylight bombing run on Berlin. Fighter planes and flak decimated the other Flying Fortresses in the group.

"We decided to give it up over the Dutch coast," Rogers recalled. "Everyone made it out."

Rogers hid in a shed behind a farmhouse. When the farmer appeared, he drew an American flag in the dirt.

"He said, 'Stay there and I will help you,'" Rogers recalled. "His brother came along about four hours later. It was an immediate death sentence for the Dutch to aid a prisoner."

"The brother said I would have to leave," Rogers said. "I went across a field and hid in a drainage ditch. A farmer saw me and told me to come on up."

"He brought me in a farmhouse. The lady there spoke high school English. They had warned us to stay away from prosperous places because those were the ones most likely to be collaborators."

"She wanted to know when the invasion was coming. I told her I could help. I want to get to Belgium," and asked if she would help me.

"She said, 'No, my husband has already called the Germans.'"

Six months and 10 days after Rogers' B-17 crashed, Uphaw's Fortresses lost three of its four engines to flak after bombing a synthetic-oil refinery on the Rhine.

"We had one that was still sort of operating but it caught fire," Uphaw recalled. "Once an engine caught fire, you had to bail out because it would blow up in a hurry."

"I had figured out our rate of descent we could just about make it back over Pagon's lines," he said. "About this time, the pilot hit the bailout button. 'Nobody stopped to debate the matter. I couldn't see the wing from where I was. The plane did not blow up; the engine just fell off."

Uphaw parachuted into a German farmer's garden.

"I found myself looking up into the muzzle of a double-barrel shotgun," he said.

The farmer's wife gave him a different reception.

"She gave me butter and corned beef," Uphaw said, laughing.

"I imagine she got into some trouble after I left."

In Frankfurt, the way station for prisoners en route to Barth, Uphaw was interrogated by a German lieutenant. "I can still see him in his black leather jacket as he asked me, 'Do you know German?'"

"I had been a stamp collector and knew the word for no. So I said, 'Nein.' I immediately realized my mistake."

"He was ready to shoot me, some smart-aleck American. Nein was the only word I knew in German."

Rogers and Uphaw were in different sections of Stalag Luft 6, each walled in and separated from the other by barbed wire.

Although Rogers heard the noise and story, he and the other men of North 1 never got to taste the fowl enjoyed by Uphaw and the others of North 11.

The incident with the ducks came along about the same time as the Battle of the Bulge," Uphaw said. "The ducks were hatching of better things to come."

Although spared from physical abuse, Rogers and Uphaw suffered from malnutrition because of the meager diet afforded prisoners.

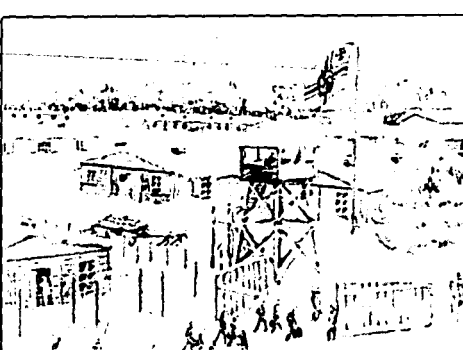

"They ate rutabagas, some horse manure a quart of a horse weekly for 1,200 men - and a crude form of pump-nickel bread."

"They would dip it in sawdust to keep it from sticking," Rogers said. "There were 14 of us in a room and we would get two loaves of bread."

"Someone would be appointed locut in hunks. The guy who cut it up got that choice."

The prisoners engaged in various hunk links to lift their spirits. One stunt involved creating a moving space between men in lines during roll calls to fool counts.

The POWs confounded the guards

Uphaw was a prisoner in this camp, as shown in painting by another prisoner.

on Christmas Day by packing their bags. "We had all been saying, 'We'll be home for Christmas,'" Rogers said. "Twice a day, we lined up five deep in front of our barracks."

"Every man got on his overcoat, packed his suitcase and we all lined up."

Other outlets included "Barth Hard Times," the POW newspaper, and handwritten messages smuggled through-out the camp by slipping them inside hollowed-out watches.

The aid of a crystal radio even enabled the POWs to monitor war news. "We knew more about the war than the Germans guarding us," Uphaw said.

One of the most popular forms of entertainment was playing poker with cards made from Velveteen cheese packages included in Red Cross care parcels.

"You could get two cards out of each pack," Uphaw said, noting that one loser repaid a debt by writing a check on notebook paper. After the war, Wachovia Bank & Trust Co. cashed the check.

There were limits to German courtesy, however. Rogers later discovered that the Germans had twice ordered the execution of men in the camp, but the camp commandant refused.

And during the Berlin raids, Jews were picked out and transferred to other camps.

Landfill Fees Up

According to Windley, the transfer station will be located at the current county landfill.

If Davie does not enter the regional agreement, the only alternative is for a new landfill to be built. Landfill fees would then increase to $70 a ton to cover the cost of that, Windley estimated.

"This is a matter of economics and a matter of saving money," said

Cooleemee Mayor Bill Gates. "It will save money if we don't have to build one."

Both Windley and Gates said the advantages of joining the agreement would outweigh the disadvantages. "The advantage is it won't cost us much per ton," said Windley. "There won't be any disadvantages if we get a good contract."

"It will depend on cost and price. If it doesn't go up, there won't be a change," said Gates.

Hail Storm Causes Damage In Davie

He's not so sure about other grains, which they hope to harvest later this week.

"I've never seen anything like it, and I hope to never see another one."

Despite the losses, Blackwelder considers his family lucky. No people were hurt. No animals were hurt.

Davie Emergency Management Coordinator Johnny Frye had similar feelings. No storm injuries were reported from across the county, he said.

"I was on pins and needles. Nobody got hurt. Man, we were lucky, because the weather, it was on the verge of a

The National Weather Service had issued a tornado warning for Davie County. A tornado had been spotted on radar, spinning in the sky above Davie County.

Frye said forecasts began warning people about 4 p.m. Friday after noon that storms would be likely, and they could be severe. Warnings were issued at 5 p.m. The tornado warning was issued at 7:09 p.m.

The storm took a similar path from west to east across the county, and damage went from severe to non-existent, depending on the location. It entered the county near Sheffield, crossed just east of Mocksville, and went toward Fork before going into Davidson County.

"The hail was so big, it was the size of a baseball," Frye said. "It busted out some windows and some went through walls." He saw one car that was caught in the storm. "It looked like you had took a ball and chain and beat it all to hell."

The storm lasted about 15-20 minutes, and left 1-1.5 inches of rain. "It was moving fast. You could see the clouds rolling."

Frye said the biggest problem is people who don't listen to weather warnings - or to the warnings provided by Mother Nature - warnings such as severe, sudden changes in temperature, darkening skies, and lightning.

"Mother Nature tries to give us some warning most of the time," Frye said.

"The biggest problem is people take these storms for granted. They need to listen to the weather people. Any time you've got severe thunderstorms, that's where tornadoes spun off from."

"When you hear that rumbling and you see that flash across the sky, that means take cover."

Davie Man Guilty Of Weapon Charge

By Beth Cassidy
Davie County Enterprise-Record

William Lee Carter thought his sawed-off shotgun was of legal length, but found out differently in Davie Superior Court June 2.

Carter, 46, of Cooleenoe, was found guilty of possessing a weapon of mass destruction resulting from a November 1991 incident.

Officer Mike Brady of the Cooleenoe Police Department answered a call at Carter's house about shots being fired. Carter said he was shooting at a dog. Carter handed the shotgun to Brady.

When Brady asked Carter about the gun, Carter said he thought it was legal. Brady later found the overall length of the gun to be 26 1/2 inches, a legal length, but the barrel length was 12 1/2 inches, well under the legal length of 18 inches.

According to Assistant District Attorney Patry Bruce, state law defines a weapon of mass destruction as being any shotgun with a barrel length of less than 18 inches or an overall length of less than 26 inches.

Bruce said, "This is a weapon capable of creating great injury or death to a large amount of people. Mr. Carter knowingly possessed and used this weapon. He admitted using it in the town limits of Cooleenoe against this officer (Brady) on this occasion."

Carter's attorney, Tammy Fleming, said Carter had "no general intent or knowledge as to the length of the gun. The fact that he willingly

Jury Upholds 1991 DWI Charge

By Beth Cassidy
Davie County Enterprise-Record

A Davie superior court jury deliberated over an hour June 3 before deciding a man was guilty of DWI.

Timothy Mark Dodson, 32, of Route 8, Mocksville, was charged with no driver's license and DWI after a Mocksville police officer stopped him Dec. 5, 1991.

The officer, Tom Blackwelder, who is no longer with the police department, said he saw Dodson driving a 1977 Ford around 11:30 p.m. Dodson drove from County Lane onto U.S. 601 headed north. Blackwelder stopped Dodson for a traffic violation.

"He came out rapidly, spinning tires," Blackwelder said, which is what called the officer's attention to the car.

Blackwelder paced the car and found Dodson to be driving at around 60 mph in a 45 mph zone. He stopped Dodson and noticed a strong odor of alcohol. Dodson had trouble walking to the patrol car, and after several physical tests, Blackwelder arrested him for DWI.

A breathalyzer test performed shortly afterward showed a blood alcohol content of .18, almost double the .10 legal level of impairment.

Dodson represented himself during the trial, but did not argue in his behalf.

The jury was asked for evidence not presented during the trial and were told by Judge James A. Beatty Jr. that the only evidence they were

Tears Flow In Vehicle Death Case

By Beth Cassidy
Davie County Enterprise-Record

A Route 7, Mocksville, man who was driving the car in which a friend was killed pleaded no contest to death by vehicle June 3.

Tonie Robert Rhinehart, 24, cried on the witness stand as he talked about the friend, Johnny Cicero Waller, 45, who was crushed in the front seat of the car Rhinehart was driving.

Rhinehart and two others in the car, Robert Gray Riddings of Route 7, Mocksville, and James Eugene Waller, 26, of Cooleenoe, were injured in the May 29, 1992 accident.

According to Deborah Brown, assistant district attorney, Rhinehart was driving a borrowed 1978 Datsun on Marginal Street in Cooleenoe, just before dark. Rhinehart lost control of the car and it went off the left side of the road, across a grassy area, and hit a tree.

Brown said Rhinehart told investigating officers that he was the driver, that he had been drinking, and that he was under the influence. His blood alcohol level was .14.

Waller's daughter and mother were in the car, and Brown said Rhinehart's daughter told her "that Rhinehart was like a son to J.C. Waller and that the two had been friends for years. She also said that her father got into the car knowing that all the occupants had been drinking."

Rhinehart suffered cuts and several broken bones in the accident.

Rhinehart said it was raining heavily as he drove on Marginal Street and that in trying to avoid hitting a child on a bicycle, he drove the car off the road, but had control on the wet grass, slamming into a tree.

His attorney, Grady McClamrock Jr., asked him how he felt about the accident.

"I'm truly sorry. I wish I could bring him back," Rhinehart said, crying.

McClamrock asked Rhinehart if he had an alcohol problem, and Rhinehart quietly answered, "Sorry."

Rhinehart was "scarred to death" and did not want to go to prison.

Beatty sentenced Rhinehart to 2 1/2 years in prison suspended for 5 years, probation. He was ordered to spend 90 days in jail, and within 72 hours of release, to report to a probation officer. He must attend and complete a substance abuse program, submit to chemical analysis for alcohol by a probation officer, and not consume or have alcohol in his presence during probation.

He was also ordered to pay a $300 fine and court costs and $1,175 to Rowan Memorial Park for Waller's headstone.

Waller's mother, Edith, also testified.

"We have all suffered greatly," she said, wiping tears from her eyes. "This man, if he goes to prison, it won't bring my son back. This man needs help to get off his alcohol."

"My son's death won't have been in vain if this man gets help. He's remorseful, but he needs help. Being sorry is not helping him."

McClamrock told Judge James A. Beatty Jr. that Rhinehart blamed himself for the accident and realizes since the accident that he has an alcohol problem. He also said

County Briefs

Cooleemee To Get Fire Truck

The Cooleemee Volunteer Fire Department will buy a used fire truck.

County commissioners voted 5-0 Monday to allow the department to borrow $38,000 for the used truck. Mark Phelps of the department said firefighters needed a newer truck and could not afford a new truck.

The 1981 fire truck will be the third truck the department owns.

Tobacco Allotment Tax Approved

Saying that tobacco farmers were already being hit hard, Commissioner Larry Hayes made a motion Monday to approve a $-40 tax per pound of tobacco allotment for farmers in the county. The board approved the tax and a new schedule of property values by a 5-0 vote.

A new state law requires counties to tax tobacco allotments, and the board approved a rate lower than the $1.41 suggested by the state.

"I don't think anybody on this board wants to do anything to tobacco farmers," Hayes said. "These growers are getting hit from every side anyway."

Meeting Day Changed

Because of the 4th of July holiday weekend, the Board of County Commissioners will hold its first July meeting on Tuesday, July 6 at 1 p.m.

The second meeting of the month, scheduled for July 19 has been cancelled. Most of the board will be attending a local government conference in Chicago that day.

Vernon Dull Steps Down At Chamber

By Michelle Bailey
Davie County Enterprise-Record

After four and a half years of giving out information and spreading Davie County's name to surrounding areas, Vernon Dull is retiring.

Dull, the executive director of the Davie Chamber of Commerce, took the job in 1989 after retiring from a supervising position at Duke Power.

"I care enough to help someone and this is my way of doing it," said Dull. "But, you have to be dedicated. There are better ways of helping than paying taxes."

Dull's last day was June 1. He said he will spend his days after retirement working on his farm and traveling.

"I've got plenty to keep me busy. I want to be able to do it without cancelling other appointments," said Dull.

During his time as executive director of the Chamber of Commerce, Dull has joined Davie County with other chambers to form the Piedmont Trial Chambers of Commerce.

According to Dull, this allows Davie County to promote its strengths and lean on other counties in the trial during weak times.

Dull has also helped in spreading the word about the Crosby Celebrity Golf Tournament.

"We didn't want the attention," said Dull. "We wanted people to know that the Crosby was in Davie County, not Claxton."

Dull said his greatest accomplishment as executive director was telling as many people as he could about the Chamber of Commerce and what it does.

"I hope I was able to carry the Chamber of Commerce story to senior citizens, children, and clubs. I want to see the Chamber of Commerce do as well as it did before and while I was here. This Chamber ties Davie County to the rest of the world."

Dull said he will miss his job for a couple of reasons.

"Of all the jobs I've had, I will hate leaving this one most of all because I enjoyed it and also because I realize I'm getting old," said Dull.

Former County Manager John Barber will be interim director until a new person is chosen for the job.

Lead In The Water Mostly In Home Plumbing System

By Mike Barnhardt
Davie County Enterprise-Record

Lead is deadly.

Although some recent reports about lead in local drinking water supplies were misleading, people should take precautions to prevent lead from being ingested into their bodies.

And if they think they've taken in lead, they should have their blood tested.

That was the consensus of Mocksville Public Works Director John Grey Jr. and Millie Buchanan of the Clean Water Fund at a public information recently sponsored by the Davie Environmental Awareness League.

Almost all the lead in drinking water comes from pipes and faucets inside homes, Grey said. The main culprit appears to be lead solder.

To lessen the risk of ingesting any lead, don't drink warm or hot water. And let cold water run for a minute or more (You can catch this water for plants and other uses.), since water sitting in a pipe has more time to absorb lead.

"I'm not standing here telling you lead is not a problem," Grey said. "It's a poison. Understand that we have to be vigilant to protect ourselves."

"Right now, we don't see a problem except in selected households... and every single one has been the result of solder in the plumbing," he said.

The effects of lead can be deadly. It is especially dangerous to small children and pregnant women. It can cause brain damage, stunt growth. And in larger amounts, it can kill.

Buchanan said lead can be ingested from paints, especially dust when sanding or peeling when scraping. Small children and pregnant women should be kept from areas when these practices are taking place, she said.

"Don't ever think about renovating a house with kids or pregnant women there... and be careful for yourself," she said.

Ceramics, especially foreign dishes and older ones in the U.S., can contain lead, and shouldn't be used for eating purposes, she said.

Sr. Center Decision Blasted

By Laura Williams-Tracy
Davie County Enterprise-Record

Senior Center representatives turned out Monday at the Davie County Commissioners meeting upset that they were left out of a decision to turn over operation of the center to the town of Mocksville.

Members of the Senior Advisory Council learned of the town's agreement to operate the center in a newspaper article last Wednesday. County Manager Ken Windley did not tell the council about the decision until Thursday.

Windley explained that he had to present the proposal to the board of commissioners at a budget workshop before he could meet with the council.

But senior council members said they were concerned that county commissioners were not giving due consideration to senior citizens' concerns.

"We don't want to be at the bottom of the broken pole," said Nancy Tutterow, who is appointed to the senior advisory council by the commissioners. Senior citizens want to know who they will turn to with problems and questions about the center's new management, she said.

Tutterow said she was concerned that the Mocksville Parks and Recreation Department was already busy with many programs and would not have time to commit to senior center programs. She said she hoped the county wasn't just looking for ways to trim its spending by changing management at the center.

"My concern is why was the senior center picked to save a little money rather than the other departments," she said.

But Windley said the county was able to save $18,000 by allowing the town to run the senior without cutting any programs.

He added that several grant opportunities had been missed by the current management, and he hoped that town management would be able to secure more grant money for the center's operation.

The management change does mean that two county employees that worked closely with the seniors will lose their jobs at the end of June.

The county will pay the town $20,000 to operate the center beginning in July.

Recreation Director Mike Garner assured council members that all of the current senior programs would be continued, and a few new ones, such as a wellness and fitness program, would be added.

Parks and Recreation already runs early morning walking programs for seniors, and it organized Davie County's first senior games this spring.

Garner said it was a natural transition for the Parks and Recreation department to adopt the center. He added that senior programs would likely get more attention because they will be administered by a fully-funded department with administrators to handle more programs.

He said new management might also be a way of addressing senior concerns about a lack of space and organization at the center.

Four-Run Tenth Beats Davie, 7-3

Ronnie Gallagher

Baseball Team Gave Us Plenty Of Thrills

Don't feel sorry for Davie County's baseball team because it lost in the Western 4-A baseball championship Saturday night at Rich Park.

Rejoice. Be happy. This team gave its fans more thrills and excitement in the past two weeks than most fans see in a lifetime.

Davie won its first three playoff games by scores of 2-1, 1-0 and 2-1. Every one had deciding moments late in the game. Every fan was on the edge of his or her seat in every one.

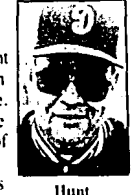

It was great stuff. But it was eerie stuff too. No team should have won games like Davie did in the 12-day span.

After each one, coach David Hunt joked about his horseshoe. Other coaches left the park shaking their heads.

And on top of everything else, all playoff games were at home. The War Eagles had no long bus trips.

So, entering Saturday's Western Championship against Alexander Central, most everyone figured somehow, some way, Davie County was going to Wilmington to play in the state finals.

"It's in the stars," one fan said beforehand. "It's meant to be."

Hunt

Why would fans from Davie County, a school that has seldom received any good luck in athletics since turning 4-A, suddenly think divine intervention was going to take them to the state championship?

First of all, this is baseball, the only major sport that wins consistently year in and year out.

Secondly, the endings of the first three playoff games were unbelievable.

In the first round, McDowell visited Mocksville. This school hasn't been to the playoffs since 1975 but going into the bottom of the seventh, Brad Smith was leading 1-0 — and hurling a no-hitter to boot.

One fan told me, "Oh well, we're going out in the first round again."

Alexander Central Will Represent Western N.C. Against New Hanover

By Ronnie Gallagher
Davie County Enterprise-Record

Players on the Davie County baseball team will now finally be able to take their graduation beach trip.

They'll just have to pay for it.

The War Eagles' plans for a free beach trip to Wilmington was scratched when Alexander Central beat Davie in 10 innings Saturday night, 7-3.

The win gave the Cougars (21-4) the Western North Carolina championship and throws them into the state final series this weekend at 24-1 Wilmington New Hanover.

Meanwhile, Davie was left to contemplate its winnigest season ever.

"I'm real proud of the kids," said coach David Hunt. "Two to three weeks from now, they can look back and say they had a good run. I hope they think they accomplished something. I do."

Davie (23-4) put plenty of runners in scoring position Saturday night but could never get the clutch hit against Alexander Central ace A. Y. Yoder. Several times, a foot here or there could have meant an RBI hit and possibly a Davie County win.

The War Eagles executed well enough to get runners to third three times in the latter stages of the game but left them stranded. Alexander Central also threw out runners at the plate and at third.

"It doesn't count (getting runners to third) unless you get them that last 90 feet," Hunt said. "We were so close. But that's baseball. They played good defense."

Plenty Of Zeros

Neither team had scored many runs in the playoffs but it was tied 3-3 after the top of the third.

Davie's Problem: Yoder Didn't Get Tired

By Ronnie Gallagher
Davie County Enterprise-Record

It wasn't so much what A. Y. Yoder did Saturday night that was the key to Alexander Central's 7-3 win over Davie County in the Western N.C. baseball finals.

It was what he didn't do.

Yoder didn't get tired.

The University of North Carolina recruit came into the game at Rich Park having pitched in all three of his team's previous playoff games. His coach, Harold Odom, said his arm was tender. He had to be tired, right?

Not hardly. The fireballing lefthander proved to have enough to go 10 full innings, despite throwing upwards of 150 pitches. And naturally, everyone was talking about him afterward.

"Yoder was a real yeoman out there tonight," said Odom, who added he never thought of taking his star out, despite a couple of strolls to the mound. "He said he wanted to go."

Davie coach David Hunt was certainly singing his praises.

"He was a real strong kid, he didn't weaken," said Hunt, whose team managed only six hits off Yoder. "I was impressed. The kid pitched super."

After the game, Yoder walked to the bus with his arm wrapped in ice.

"That's 34 innings I've pitched since our conference tournament started," he said proudly.

In four state playoff games, Yoder has thrown 5 1/2 innings against Asheville Erwin, all eight against Glenn and three against Page.

And he saved his best performance for last. Yoder has now thrown 26 1/2 of his team's 33 innings.

"He's a great pitcher," said Davie shortstop Bubba Coleman, who reached base all five times against Alexander Central's ace. "With the pressure on him, he threw it real well. If we could've gotten to him in the first inning, it might have been different."

Harold Odom Won Western 4-A Title In His Former Town On His Former Field

By Ronnie Gallagher
Davie County Enterprise-Record

Harold Odom will be the first to admit that he is a country boy who doesn't like change.

He actually proved that when he moved from Mocksville to Alexander County 18 years ago.

The small town he chose to replace Mocksville was a small town just like Mocksville. Odom still lives in Taylorsville and coaches baseball at Alexander Central High School.

"It's just like Mocksville and that's what I like about it," said the former Mocksville Legion coach and Town Board member. "Taylorsville's population (2,900) is about the same. Probably, the square miles are about the same. And there's good people up here and good people down there. It's all the same."

And so is the slow, low-key lifestyle. He'll go to the Coffee Shoppe Restaurant near his home for his morning coffee, just as he did two decades ago at C's and Miller's.

He's active in his church, just as he was at Mocksville Baptist years ago.

After each day as Alexander Central's vocational department chairman, Odom goes home to his wife, Linda, and their five acres of land. He tends to his garden, filled with 150 candelopie plants that he sells to a couple of area restaurants or gives to his friends.

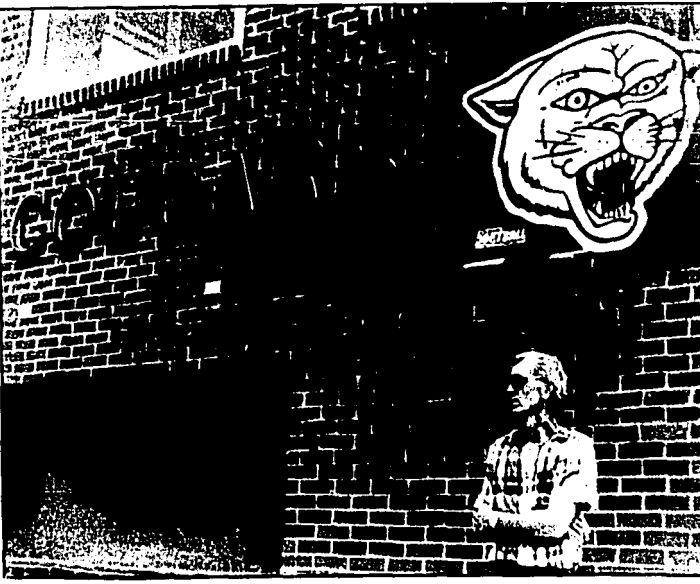

"I'm pretty much a homebody," he says.

And, oh yes, there is one more thing Harold Odom does. He coaches one very good high school baseball team.

A 4-A Country Flavor

In his third try, Odom finally won a Western North Carolina baseball title Saturday night at Rich Park. He was elated he could do it in his former town in front of old pals.

Odom: 'Dirt Infield Isn't All Bad'

You could say Davie County and Alexander Central are two baseball-rich programs with dirt-poor infields.

Both Davie County and Alexander Central have heard the same thing during the first three rounds of the 4-A baseball playoffs.

All of their opponents fickered about as grass on the field.

But when the two met in the Western N.C. championship Saturday, there were no complaints.

They were the only two teams left with dirt.

"It's a good coach," he said. "He stresses fundamentals and gets right out there with them and works — and that's what it takes."

Yoder's Bright Future? A.Y. Yoder has a bright baseball future, according to Odom.

The 6-2, 195-pound lefthander has already signed with North Carolina. He is also a member of the U.S. Amateur Olympic team that will play in San Antonio, Texas this summer. Of the 64 boys named to the team, he was the only one from this state.

"In all the years I've coached, he has to be one of the top four pitchers I've had," said Odom.

When James heard that Davie consistently put runners on third base against Alexander Central starter A.Y. Yoder but couldn't get them home, it didn't surprise him.

"That's Yoder," said the Glenn coach. "We had them at third but he took that last 90 feet away from us too."

"He's just a gutsy sucker," James praised of Yoder. "He was going to get to the state finals. He deserves it. I'm real happy he's going to get the chance."

James was hoping his team would end up playing Davie, but he thought he'd get that matchup, he said. "Last year, Davie lost and this year, we missed out on it."

So how does James see the state finals between the Cougars and Wilmington New Hanover and its star Trot Nixon?

"Yoder may win one but I don't see Alexander Central winning two of three," he said.

UNCC lost to Tennessee 7-4 and Rutgers, 5-1.

Western Carolina, which has Chad Greene on its roster, lost to LSU, 7-2, but bounced back for a 10-5 win over Miami. The Catamounts then lost to Kent State 8-5.

CPC Notes... Notes from around the Central Piedmont Conference...

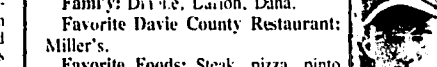

When Davie's football team sweeps North Davidson next year to open its new conference alignment, Randall Ward will be coaching against a new Black Knight mentor.

Dick Cline, who was 20-3 in two years at North, resigned to go back to his alma mater Ledford, a 2-A school.

Odom said his quarterfinal game against Glenn had all the makings of a state championship game.

Alexander Central beat Dale James' club 3-2 in eight innings.

It made up for last year when Glenn slipped past his team in the N.C. Western Finals by the same score. Glenn eventually won the state title.

Odom said he didn't say much to his players beforehand.

"They knew they gave it away last year," he said. "Dale had a good ballclub but we panicked and made some bad throws."

This year, his team got the breaks, hitting a homer in the bottom of the sixth to tie it and then win on an eighth inning error.

"To me, it felt like winning two

Wyche Teams With Ford To Win Crosby Tourney

By Ronnie Gallagher
Davie County Enterprise-Record

BERMUDA RUN — When you're the coach of the Tampa Bay Buccaneers, any win is a good win. That's how Sam Wyche felt after he and partner Yancey Ford won the eighth annual Crosby Celebrity Golf Tournament Sunday afternoon.

Wyche and Ford's final day 65 left them tied with the teams of Rick Hurst-Bill Steed and M. Emmet Walsh-Jeff Beach at 190. Their birdie on the first playoff hole won the $120,000 first place prize. The money will go to the charities of their choice. The total purse was $1.5 million. Wyche flew back to Tampa immediately following Saturday's round for a wedding. His team was in a three-way tie after the second round. He flew back and got in bed by 4 a.m. He got up and headed for the course three hours later.

"The adrenaline was just flowing," he told reporters. It was almost a four-way tie for first but the team of Pat Boone-George Sands bogeyed the 18th hole. The three teams tied for the top went back to the 16th. The other two teams parred and Wyche birdied to end it. Wyche and Ford weren't even in the top three after the first day. Walsh and Beach were tied with Hurst-Steed and Rick Dees-Nick Wehrmann at 11 under 61. Wyche's team was tied with Kathleen Sullivan and Sam Hendrix.

But a 63 propelled them into a tie on Saturday with Boone-Sands and Dees-Wehrmann at 125.

Dees and Wehrmann had the best day, scoring eight birdies while Sullivan and Hendrix had the worst. They went from a 62 to a 73 and fell out of contention, despite having Sunday's best round of 61. Wyche, who also coached the Cincinnati Bengals to a Super Bowl appearance in 1988, is one of the more outspoken and popular celebrities at The Crosby. And, he said, it finally felt good to be a winner. It was a new experience.

"Doesn't anyone know we were 5-11 last year?" he asked.

The 'First Lady Of Crosby' Helped Mocksville In City's Quest For 'All-American' Bid

By Ronnie Gallagher
Davie County Enterprise-Record

If Bing Crosby were alive today, he might be living in Mocksville. Sound crazy? Not to his wife, Kathryn.

"Oh, I know Bing would be very happy here," said the First Lady of The Crosby Sunday afternoon as the eighth annual event was winding down. "He came from a small town and I came from a small town."

She grew up in West Columbus, Texas while Bing was originally from Tacoma, Washington. But, she added, he lived in a house on a lake, "where there was no one. You had to go to church by motorboat."

When Mocksville was chosen as one of 30 finalists for an All-American city, Kathryn, already a member of the Mocksville/Davie Chamber of Commerce, was more than happy to go to Tampa, Fla. as a representative.

"Don Angel asked me to do this and I said yes," she said. "When I first came here with The Crosby, I said it would take a lot of work from everyone and the people here said yes."

"When Don told me the wonderful honor you had received as one of the 30 finalists out of 400 applications, I thought that was pretty special."

"Crosby was preparing to play in Perry Cain's celebrity tournament near Raleigh."

"I did not go with the Mocksville contingent," she said. "They took a big bus, which must have been wonderful fun. Don came and flew me to Tampa."

"When Crosby arrived at the hotel, she found a tent with 30 booths for the cities."

"Oh, I know Bing would be very happy here. He came from a small town and I came from a small town."

Kathryn Crosby

"It was so much fun," she said. "Our booth had a putting green with two little bunkers on each side. Anyone who got the ball in your name went into a goldfish bowl for a chance to win a television set. We also gave away Lilly Mabe's wonderful ham biscuits and passed out Crosby visors and Mocksville t-shirts."

This is where she really went to work. "There must have been 4,000 visitors because I know I signed at least that many," she said with a smile. "And I signed the backs of the t-shirts."

Crosby has a Bermuda Village apartment and a portrait of Bing was taken down and shipped to Tampa. There were pictures of "Kathryn's Kids." ("Where I went to a children's center for the physically handicapped.")

There were also pins, stating that Mocksville is number one. "I wear them on my hat most of the time," she said.

"We had a good time. There were bands from Laredo and Portersville, Calif. A man dressed like Ben Franklin represented Philadelphia."

"But I really think the booth from Mocksville/Davie was by far the best," she said. Crosby said she always has time to promote Mocksville and Davie County. She even attended the recent DARE graduation. "I was so honored to be there and see the work that the teachers do."

Mendoza Goes From Stand-Up Comedian To Television Star

NBC Aired 'Second Chance' On Tuesday Nights This Fall

By Ronnie Gallagher
Davie County Enterprise-Record

Perhaps John Mendoza should have forgotten about golf last week at the Crosby Celebrity Golf Tournament and stayed in the media tent, listening to sportswriters interviewing the stars.

He could have watched and learned, since he is going to be one of the stars.

The stand-up comedian is following in the footsteps of Tim Allen and Jerry Seinfeld by going into the sitcom business. His new series, "The Second Half" will be based on the life of a divorced sports writer who lives in Chicago. It will air on NBC Tuesday nights at 9:30 p.m.

Mendoza will have to change his lifestyle now that he is switching gears from stand-up to television. "I'll have to work," he said with a laugh. "In standup, I'd sleep until 1 or 2 in the afternoon or play golf all day long. This will be the last time I play golf in a long time."

Mendoza was scheduled to fly to Universal Pictures in Los Angeles Monday morning to begin work on "The Second Half."

The New York native says he loves playing the part of a sportswriter since he enjoys sports so much, especially following the New York Knicks. But he has to cheer the team from afar, considering he doesn't travel east very often.

"I don't get back to New York but twice a year," he said. "I hate flying and getting on a plane for that many hours. I just sleep the entire way."

So he watches his precious Knicks by satellite dish. "I'm a big Knicks fan," he said, "even though I live in California. I'm not a big hockey fan. It doesn't move fast enough for me."

A few of his friends from Long Island have made it as doctors and lawyers, he said, but they still find time to get together.

"We were supposed to go to the Final Four but unfortunately, I was busy working," Mendoza said. "It was like a family growing up. They're successful in their own right and they're happy for me. I am planning to go to Phoenix to watch one of the games next week."

While giving up many of his activities to work on acting, Mendoza said The Crosby is still high on his list. "I'll play in The Crosby," he said. "They do most of the tournaments like this during hiatus."

Mendoza, who finished 15th in his first Crosby last year, wound up tied for 19th this year at 200, along with four other teams, led by celebrities Stan Makita, Jim Palmer, Billy Jo Dupree and Billy Packer.

"We shot 16-under so it wasn't bad," he said. "My putting is a lot better than my driving. And the weather was a lot better."

Mendoza admits to being like the fans at times when he sees the celebrities, especially the sports stars.

"I get star-struck too," he said. "I get to see Julius Erving and Rick Barry, guys like that. These are guys I watched growing up. Now, I get to hang out with them and tell jokes and it's a lot of fun."

But like everyone else, Mendoza is caught up in the real reason the Crosby is here. "It's a well organized thing," he said. "Everything is for charity. You don't walk out of here with any money and that's the way it should be. It feels good."

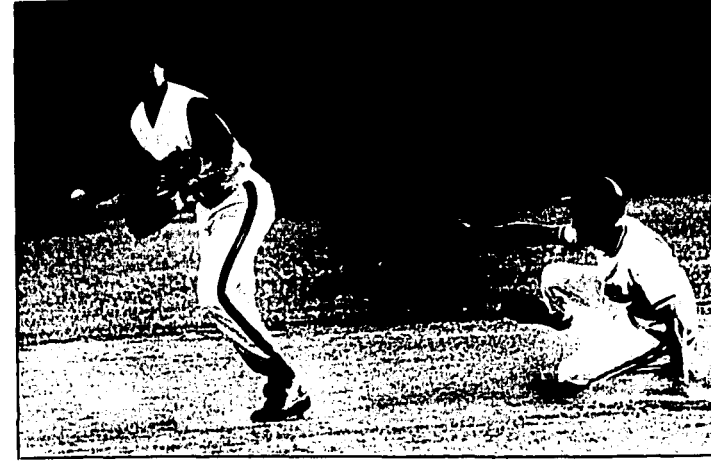

Mendoza would like to think his new TV show will be as successful as The Crosby. "Will it be the best thing on television next fall?"

"I think so," he said.

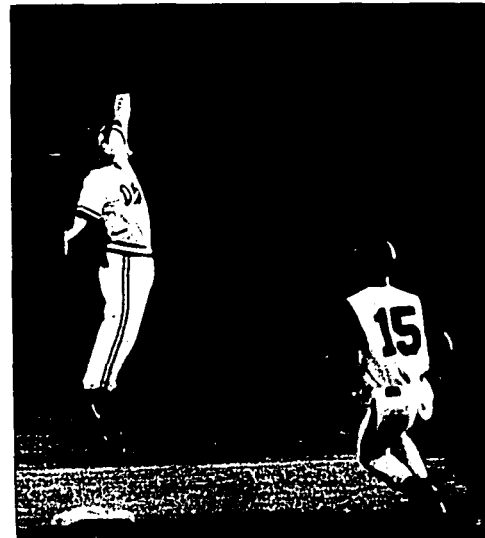

Western 4-A Baseball Championship

above — or somewhere — took control. A routine grounder was error'd. Two walks led the bases. And then Chad Helton, the number eight hitter, got Davie's first hit, a two-run double that won the game.

Davie then welcomed A.C. Reynolds from Asheville. The Rocket coaches and players seemed to think this was going to be an easy victory. They just had that air about them. They were overconfident. They were coming in here to blow these Hicks away.

Davie actually got hits in the first inning of this one, taking a 1-0 lead. No one expected it to stand up but Brock Keene still held it going into the seventh inning.

Then, he walked a batter and Jeff Szikszai sent a long fly toward the short, leftfield wall. Now, come on. We've all seen enough balls carry out of that park. And everyone felt this was out too. A.C. Reynolds was going to end Davie's year, 2-1.

Brad Mechem drifted back to the wall. It was as if he — or somebody — ordered that ball down. It was as if Szikszai's ball hit an invisible wall. It fell into Mechem's glove and the game ended shortly thereafter.

Rocket coach David Hyatt kept his boys against the left-field wall long after Davie's players had left the field.

"There's just a power greater than us not wanting us to win," Hyatt said.

Hunt left saying, "I'm worried about my horseshoe."

Then came East Forsyth, a team that seemed more overconfident than A.C. Reynolds. After all, pitcher Joe Lagarde was coming in. Certainly, the country boys had little chance against him.

This time, Davie entered the bottom of the sixth, trailing 1-0. The War Eagles had done little against Lagarde, who strutted and down in the batter's box. He knew he was good and appeared to know he was going to win.

Wrong.

That spell, that angelic hand, that something, was about to strike again.

Lagarde gave up a bloop single to Bryan Johnson, who somehow made it to third.

Lagarde then tried to pick off Jason Lanier, who appeared dead. This would be that final nail in the coffin. East would strut off the field and await Alexander Central.

But the ball suspiciously swerved into rightfield, scoring Johnson.

Lagarde, who hadn't walked a batter in 11 previous playoff innings, walked three, including the 8-9 hitters, forcing in the winning run.

East's fans in the third base bleachers had made snide comments about Davie throughout the game. When it ended, there were no comments. They left, silent and stunned.

It was here that I wanted somebody to hit me in the mouth.

Just to make sure I was awake, you understand.

Had I really been watching this? Was Davie really in the Final Four?

Was I one win away from the publisher paying my way to Wilmington for a free weekend at the beach? What an intriguing game with Alexander Central this would be.

Again, no one could hit A.Y. Yoder, we were told. Alexander Central is on a mission after losing in the Western finals last year. Its coach used to live here.

But Davie scored three runs in the first two innings, stunning their own fans for once.

And with the score 3-3, the horseshoe seemed in place. Davie picked one runner off in a rundown between third and home. In the seventh, a Cougar stroked a double but tried to stretch it into a triple. He was thrown out. Alexander Central had another runner thrown out at second.

But the horseshoe kind of rusted. With a runner on second in the sixth, Thad Cassidy surprised everyone with a long drive to right-center. In any other game, it would have fallen in. Davie would have held and we would all be going to the beach.

But an over-the-shoulder, twisting catch robbed Cassidy. In the eighth, with a runner on second, Brad Mechem's liner up the middle looked to be going through for a hit. But a good, running catch robbed him.

"Alexander Central has been carrying a horseshoe with them too," said Glenn coach Dale James.

It went 10 innings before the Cougars won. The largest crowd I've ever seen for a high school game at Rich Park went home.

But they left with the satisfaction of knowing that the 4-A playoffs would have been pretty lullbore boring without Davie County.

Tenth

"I was wondering if anyone wanted to win," said Alexander coach Harold Odom. "Both teams tried to give it away in the first three innings."

The pitchers took over from that point. Yoder used his blazing fastball to contain Davie but his teammates had trouble hitting Brock Keene's slow, tantalizing curves.

The seventh inning was wild as both teams blew chances to end the game.

In the top of the inning, leadoff batter Malcolm Mallard ripped a double to the centerfield wall but tried to stretch it into a triple. He was gunned down for the first out, leaving Odom livid.

"I could've choked him," he said. "He still hasn't looked at me."

Keene walked the bases loaded and was replaced by another lefthander, Marcus King, who got out of the inning.

In the bottom of the seventh, Jason Tomberlin was hit by a pitch and Brad Chapman's sacrifice bunt sent him to second. Odom intentionally walked Bubba Coleman and to cleanup hitter Brad Mechem.

He sent a drive to the 350 sign in center and Tomberlin tagged. The perfect throw by Mallard nailed him, however.

Bryan Johnson reached in the bottom of the eighth but Yoder struck out the side. In the ninth, Tomberlin again reached second out couldn't score when Henry Bruce made a running stab of Mechem's liner up the middle.

With the intensity level rising with every pitch and the standing-room only crowd holding its breath, Davie's luck ran out in the 10th.

After King forced an easy popout for the first out, Bruce singled and Les Stewart got an infield hit. The ninth place hitter, Brad Abernathy, then laid down a bunt but King had nowhere to throw the ball. The bases were loaded, bringing up Mallard.

He sent a sinking line drive to rightfield that Darby Correll tried to catch at his ankles. It skidded past him and rolled to the fence for a triple, clearing the bases for a 6-3 advantage.

The speedy Mallard then scored on a grounder to Thad Cassidy for the final margin. Davie went down quickly in the bottom half of the inning.

Hunt said Correll did all he could.

"Darby was trying to make a shoestring catch so we could keep the run from scoring," he said.

"He didn't catch that ball. It just skipped by him."

"If he plays it safe, he stops the thing but they score two runs and heck, that would've been enough to win it. So you've got to take a chance in that situation."

Needed More In First
Coleman looked back to the very first inning as the crucial time for Davie. Yoder and Alexander Central appeared ready to crumble to the pressure and a large, vocal crowd.

Tomberlin reached on an error by Bruce and on Chapman's sacrifice bunt attempt, Yoder threw the ball into centerfield. Coleman walked to load the bases with no outs.

Mechem walked in the first run and after a Johnson strikeout, King's grounder scored Chapman for a 2-0 lead.

Coleman, who was 2-for-2 with three walks, wanted more.

"That was the key inning," he said. "If (Yoder) gets rattled, maybe we get four or five runs. We should have scored more with no outs and the bases loaded. But he got out of it."

Davie added its third run in the second when Cassidy was hit by a pitch with one out. Chapman, Coleman and Mechem had consecutive singles, scoring Cassidy for a 3-1 lead. But Chapman was thrown out at home trying to score from second.

Yoder then helped his own cause by sending a Keene fastball out of the park for a two-run homer in the top of the third, tying the game at 3-3. Yoder and Keene continued to work out of trouble the rest of the way.

"(Keene) pitched well, considering he didn't have command of his pitches," Hunt said. "His fastball really didn't have that pop. I don't think he relied on his curve too much. That's all that was working for him. I thought Marcus on in the seventh — it just seemed like the thing to do. It kept the lid on for a couple more innings and gave us a couple more chances."

Odom was breathing a sigh of relief afterward. This was the third time his team has reached the Western Finals and he has finally won.

"We made some bad baserunning mistakes that could have cost us the game," he said. "We played just well enough to win."

Odom, a former Mocksville resident, said, "I loved coming back. There was a great crowd and great hospitality. And Davie is a great ballclub."

"But somebody had to lose."

Notes
Alexander Central, the Northwestern 4-A champ, lost in the Western finals last year to Glenn.

Yoder, headed to North Carolina, announced in 1991, he struck out 11.

Keene got no decision and finished his junior year at 12-1. King took the loss and fell to 5-3.

The 7-8-9 hitters had five of the Cougars' 12 hits.

Chapman, Mechem, King and Correll also had hits for Davie.

Mallard, Brian Walker, Yoder, Bruce and Stewart had two hits each.

Davie had its 14-game winning streak broken.

Eight of Davie's nine starters were seniors — Tomberlin, Chapman, Coleman, Mechem, Johnson, King, Correll and Chad Helton.

"I really wanted to get back into teaching."

The only coaching he did was for the Mocksville Legion team in 1964-65. But it wasn't the best of times.

"I guess they had heard of my past experiences at Stony Point and offered me the job," he explained. "But we were just so-so. I had only one Davie boy, Garland Allen. And I didn't have a field to practice on. Rich Park was a recreational facility. It was never offered to me. I never had a practice."

"I'm down there sweating my butt off and she's eating chicken," he said, shaking his head.

His coaching is low-key as well. "I'm not one of those who chews, chews and chews," Odom said. "I tell the kids what they did wrong and let them know I mean business. But I never embarrass a kid on the field. I have three kids and I wouldn't want them to be embarrassed."

His approach is low-key. He doesn't try to be anything more than what he is — a high school baseball coach. In fact, he's turned down the Taylorsville Legion job.

"We were the ones who annexed U.S. 601 out to where Western High is now," he said. "Some of us who got it annexed got beat. But I enjoyed it and being around guys like Nick Alando."

Odom finally got back on in the Alexander School System in 1975 but he wasn't the varsity baseball coach at Central. He coached the freshman baseball and softball. In 1981, the varsity coach stepped aside and Odom began a remarkable run that still continues today.

Alexander Central is much like Davie in that it loses in football and basketball but those same athletes win in baseball. This is the 10th time in the past 13 years that the Cougars have made the state playoffs.

Odom's record at Alexander Central is 218-78. Overall, in 21 years of coaching, he is 284-98.

"This is a hotbed for baseball, like Davie is," Odom said. "It always has been. When I was at Stony Point 30 years ago, basketball season would start but the boys would be talking baseball."

Odom taught at Stony Point High School in Alexander County for three years when Davie (now Crescent Electric) offered him a public relations job. He stayed for 12 years.

Odom's record at Alexander Central is 218-78. Overall, in 21 years of coaching, he is 284-98.

"This is a hotbed for baseball, like Davie is," Odom said. "It always has been. When I was at Stony Point 30 years ago, basketball season would start but the boys would be talking baseball."

Odom taught at Stony Point High School in Alexander County for three years when Davie (now Crescent Electric) offered him a public relations job. He stayed for 12 years.

"To be honest, I wasn't happy

Yoder

and he knew he was lucky to get out of it trailing only 3-0.

He threw 21 pitches before he got the first out and 28 in the inning. Two walks and two errors didn't help.

"I thought it was nerves more than anything," Yoder said. "It just took an inning to get the jitters out."

Hunt said, "When you've got a power pitcher like him, very often, he'll make a mistake pitch because he hasn't found his groove."

Yoder hit a batter in the second and gave up another run. But when he crushed a pitch over the left-centerfield wall for a two-run homer in the third, it seemed to pump him and his teammates up.

"He didn't find his groove until he hit his home run," Hunt said. "From that point on, he was dead in the zone."

Yoder still had innings where he was in trouble and still threw a lot pitches. But after the second, he was in command, dosing every Davie threat.

"My arm was tender the other day but it kind of worked out of that," Yoder said. "I was alright after I got going and got in my groove."

He said he took the emotion from his homer out to the mound with him.

"When the ballgame got tight again, I felt I needed to do the job I didn't do in the first inning and try to win the game."

In fact, after his homer, he recorded nine of his game-high 11 strikeouts.

Large Crowd
An overflowing crowd watched Yoder pitch but he just laughed when asked if it was the largest number of fans he'd ever pitched before.

"Come to a Taylorsville-Caldwell County Legion game if you want to see a crowd," he said.

Yoder added that Alexander Central didn't feel as much pressure Saturday night as it did earlier in the week when it beat Dale James' Glenn club.

"We lost Glenn last year," he said of the 4-3 loss. "So when we beat them (3-2), that took the pressure off. I don't think anybody expected us to be here after we lost nine players from last year's team. So we aren't feeling any pressure. We're having fun."

Yoder's next obstacle will be at Wilmington New Hanover, June 11-13.

Wilmington is riding a 24-game winning streak and features shortstop Troy Nixon, the seventh pick in last week's major league draft.

Coleman said the War Eagles and their fans will be pulling for the Cougars, like them, a group of small-town people who love their baseball.

"I wish them luck," Coleman said. "I hope they go down east and beat whoever they play."

Mocksville Back To .500 After 5-4 Win Over Surry

By Ronnie Gallagher
Davie County Enterprise-Record

MOUNT AIRY — Starbuck's Rodney Shore had a chance to pitch for Mocksville's Legion baseball team this year.

But he opted for the Southern Division's newest entry, Surry County.

Mocksville made him pay for that decision Sunday night, beating the first place Surry team, 5-4.

Although Mocksville scored only one earned run in the game, the winning runs came off Shore, who replaced Cain Shelton in the seventh.

The victory evened Post 174's record at 3-3, quite an accomplishment for the team, according to coach Dale James. Players from Davie County haven't played due to the state playoffs.

"We've got to be happy with 3-3," James said.

"I'm disappointed we're not 5-1 even though we're the only team in the division not at full strength. We gave games away against Concord and North Wilkesboro. But we're playing pretty solid and we know we're going to get better."

Surry County was leading the division coming in to the game.

"It was a big win for us because they were in first," James said. "They've been at full strength. They've been gelling and they're familiar with each other. They're probably playing as well as they'll ever get — maybe even above their heads, just to be honest with you."

Unearned Runs

Surry scored three unearned runs in the first off Brock Beal. Mocksville finally got on the scoreboard against Shelton in the fifth.

Beal doubled and Russ Panhe drove him home with a single.

Mocksville scored two unearned runs in the seventh to tie the game. Beal and Campy Walker singled and Purdue was hit by a pitch to load the bases. A passed ball scored one and the catcher then threw the ball over Shelton's head, scoring Purdue.

Davie scored the winning runs in the eighth off Shore. Bryan Johnson walked and R.J. Speaks followed with a single. Walker singled to load the bases. An error on Beal's ball scored both.

All of Mocksville's runs came with two outs.

"That's a characteristic we've carried over from last year," James said. "We've just got a lot of fight. This is our second comeback. We keep battling, battling. We're never out of a game."

Marcus King and Beal led the nine-hit attack with two each. Both are left-handers, which surprised James.

"We've needed left-handed batters and against Surry, we had five of those tomfoolers in the lineup," he said. "What do they do? They throw two lefties at us. But I think about six of our nine hits were from left-handers."

James finally had enough players to juggle his lineup and substitute freely.

"When you can experiment and still win the game, it's good," he said.

Notes:

- Beal went 7 1/3 innings and got his second win.
- Scott Matthews came on to get the save.
- Surry County is full of players who played against the Forbush and Starrount players in high school.
- Shelton was the Northwest 2-A Player of the Year.
- The top four batters for Mocksville combined for five hits.

Matthews' Debut A Rousing Success

ALBEMARLE — One day after Forbush was ousted from the 2-A playoffs, Scott Matthews was still playing baseball — for the Mocksville Legion.

Matthews became only the third veteran to join the young team. And he made his presence count in the 9-6, 10-inning win.

Matthews went 2-for-6, including an RBI hit in a three-run 10th. He pitched the last 2 1/2 innings and picked up the win.

When Andre McSwain slugged a three-run homer in a five-run fourth, Post 174 led 6-1. But amazingly, Stanly countered with a five-run seventh, forcing extra innings.

In the top of the 10th, Boverender reached base and then scored on a throwing error. McSwain had a sacrifice fly for another run and Matthews had his RBI.

McSwain was the hitting star, going 2-for-4 with two runs scored and four RBIs. Jason Lett had three hits in six trips. Other players with hits were Campy Walker, Todd Styers, Brian Baker and Jason Reuter.

Reuter started and went into the seventh before being knocked out. Stephen Ashworth threw one inning and Matthews finished up.

Notes:

- Mocksville improved to 2-3 in the Southern Division and 2-4 overall.
- Walker also scored two runs, knocked in two runs and had two stolen bases.
- Lett had two stolen bases and Boverender one.
- Stanly County remained the division's only winless team. The loss dripped Chip Smith's club to 0-5.

Mocksville 12, Statesville 2

Post 174: 12 Hits, 12 Runs

The question in Mocksville's 12-2 win over Statesville Monday night wasn't who did hit. It was, who didn't?

Marcus King, R.J. Speaks, David Vogler and Campy Walker had two hits apiece in the 12-hit attack. And Statesville never threatened again after taking a 2-0 lead in the top of the second.

Mocksville tied it in the bottom of the inning on a sacrifice fly by Vogler and an RBI groundout by Brad Boverender.

Three more crossed in the fourth. A two-run double by Walker and an RBI double by Speaks brought home the runs.

The fourth was wild. After Boverender and Stephen Ashworth reached on errors, Mocksville's bats scorched the Statesville pitching.

In order: Russ Panhe tripled, King singled, Walker singled, Speaks doubled, Mechem tripled and Vogler singled. By the end of the inning, Post 174 led, 11-2.

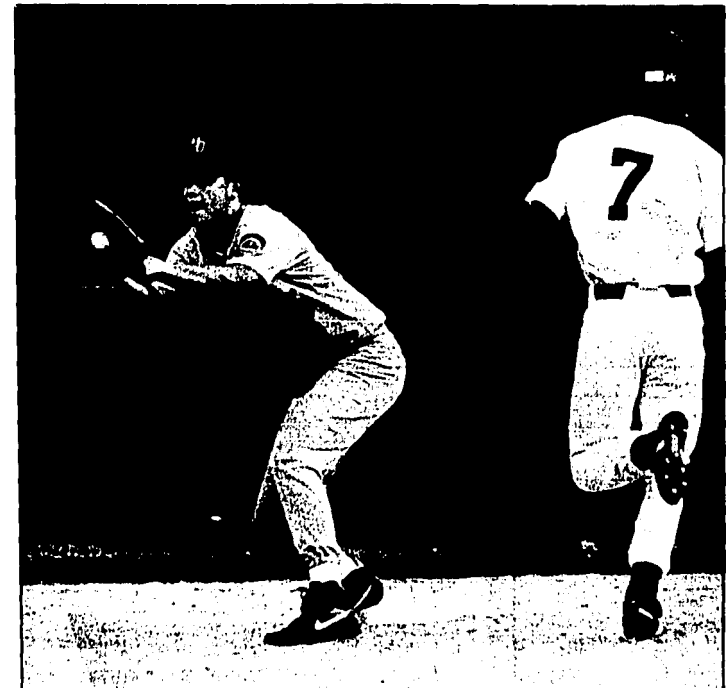

The final run came in the seventh on an RBI groundout by Campy's brother, Denver.

Ashworth went six innings on the mound, getting the win. He gave up seven hits and struck out seven.

Dennis Kuykendall pitched the final two innings, striking out five.

Notes:

- Mocksville improved to 4-1 overall and 4-3 in the Southern Division.

Mocksville Legion Baseball Notes

Russell Sidelined With Bum Knee

Mocksville Legion players, coaches and fans were stunned last week when hitting star Corbin Russell turned up in Albemarle for a game with Stanly County with a bum knee.

The news has gotten worse.

Russell went with his senior class for a day at Emerald Pointe water park. But he injured the knee on one of the rides and now, he may be out until the playoffs.

"He has a tear in the cartilage," said coach Dale James. "There is a cut on it and it has to heal before they can do surgery."

Russell was scheduled to have arthroscopic surgery either Wednesday or Friday. Some reports say he will be out for 10 days. Other reports say 17.

"Doctors say he should be fine," James said, "but sometimes with this kind of surgery, you have to go back in. So we're keeping our fingers crossed. They say everything will be fine."

Russell was on fire when he suffered the injury. He had four homers in his first three games.

"We hate it for Corbin," James said. "He was going to set every record here at Mocksville. Now, it's going to be playoff time before he's back in shape. It's a big blow to us."

Cuts
With the Davie and Forbush players back from the state playoffs, James can proceed with the cutting process.

"We'll cut to 20 and get down to 18 by June 25," said James.

A total of 26 players showed for Monday's 12-5 win over Statesville.

"We only have 25 uniforms," said James.

Davie Veterans
James was glad to see Davie's players return to the team. In Mount Airy Sunday, several, like Marcus King, Brad Mecham and Bryan Johnson, stepped right in. "They had no trouble," James said. "They've been here for two years and they won't miss a beat. They know the signs and they know how to run the bases. And they've been seeing great pitching in the playoffs so it's no big deal."

Davie Newcomers

And then, there are the newcomers like Thad Cassidy and Brock Keene who have to prove themselves in a hurry.

"With the playoffs, we didn't get a chance to see a lot of these kids and give them playing time," said James. "We know Cassidy can play defense. We want to see if he can hit."

Keene will go from high school starter to Legion reliever — at least for now.

"We might switch his role," said James. "He can handle being a reliever. He did that for Davie. We'll try some other guys as starters and if they can't handle it, he can."

James was expecting Brad Chapman, Chad Helton and Ron Armstrong to come out as well but they never showed.

Mathews Hit

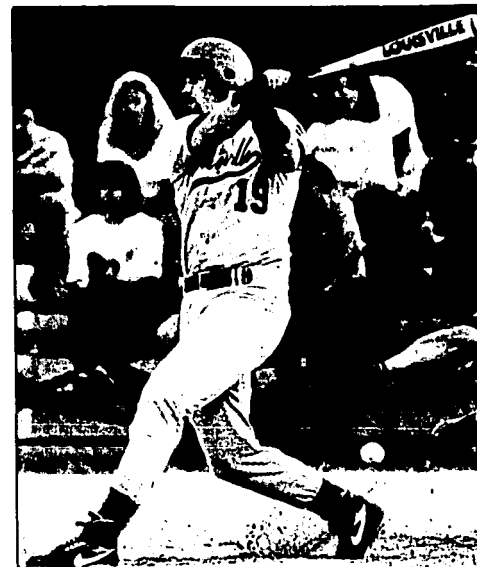

It didn't take long for Forbush's Scott Mathews to make his presence felt. In two games, he has already had two hits, an RBI, a win and a save.

The save came against Surry County against players he battled in high school.

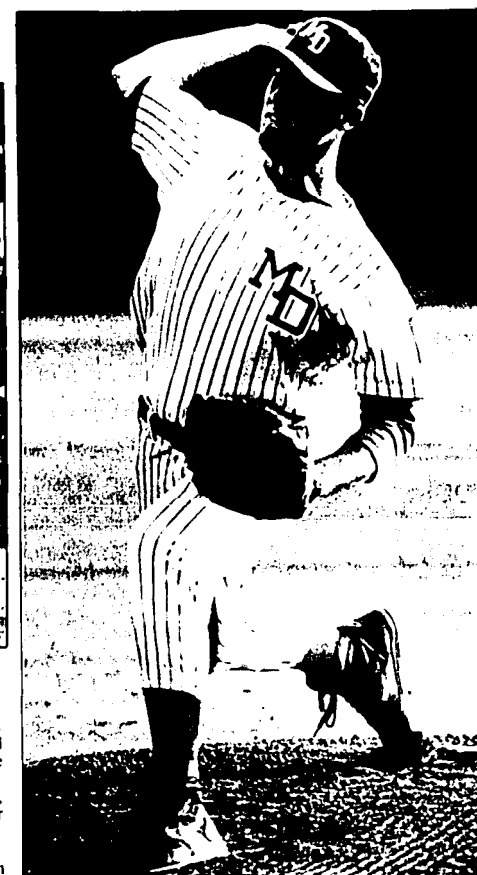

"They knew me," he said. "But Mathews had little trouble."

Mathews giving up one hit and striking out two in 1 1/2 innings. He leads the pitching staff with a 0.00 ERA.

"I threw curves, that's about it," Mathews said. "Some of those guys beat us in high school but they didn't say anything. We wanted to get back at (Surry starter Cain) Shelton. He was 12-2 in high school."

James is pleased. "Mathews has done a good job on the mound," he said. "He just comes to play and gives it 110 percent every night. And he's getting better. He worked hard in the off-season. He's overpowering at times and has a tremendous curveball."

Beach Bubba
Two Davie players, Bubba Coleman and Dobby Correll, did go to the beach for graduation and were expected to be back Wednesday.

"A couple of guys needed some time off and we gave it to them," James said. "It's probably a good time to get away from it."

"Bubba was really rumped up for the Alexander Central game so it was a letdown when they lost. They've been working hard and besides, we have other players we want to see."

Coleman, a shortstop for Davie, will probably play second base for the Legion.

Verbal Jousting
Campy Walker is funny enough when he starts talking junk — but when James jumps in with him, it borders on the hilarious.

Before Monday night's game with Statesville, Walker went up for batting practice and started grousing about his sore shoulder.

"Good," James said, teasing his shortstop. "I've got people who can play. You can sit."

"Say what?" asked Walker. "I said my shoulder hurt. I didn't say I had an illness."

"I ain't got no time for illness," James shot back.

Who's Next?
Mocksville is beginning its toughest stretch of the season. Beginning Wednesday, Post 174 will play 12 games in 11 days.

The team goes back to Mount Airy Wednesday and then is home for Friday's game with Wilkes County. Saturday's game with Rowan County. Sunday's doubleheader with the Darke County Diamonds, a traveling all-star team from Ohio. Monday's game with Kannapolis and Tuesday's game with Statesville.

The Mocksley/Davie Parks and Recreation Department will hold a summer basketball camp for boys and girls in grades 3-6 July 19-23 at the Brock Gym.

Girls will meet from 10 a.m. until 12 p.m. under the direction of Mary Ann Rankin.

Boys will meet from 4-6 p.m. under Darrell Steele.

There is a $25 fee, which includes a t-shirt. Registration ends June 25. No one can register after that date.

Registration forms can be picked up at the Brock Gym. For more information, call Joe Boyette at 634-2325 (day) or 634-3877 (night).

Soccer Camp

Davie High School soccer coach Pete Gustafson will hold a soccer camp for youths in kindergarten through the ninth grade June 28-July 1 at Mocksville Middle School.

There is a $35 fee for the camp. Youths in kindergarten to third grade will participate from 8:30-10 a.m.

Grades 4-6 are scheduled for 10:30 a.m. until 12:30 p.m.

Youths in grades 7-9 will perform from 1-3 p.m.

Brochures can be picked up at North or South Davie junior highs. For more information, call Gustafson at 998-3562 or assistant coach Joe Ramsbottom at 634-7822.

Volleyball Camp

Anyone wishing to attend the Catawba Team Volleyball Camp should get in touch with Davie High volleyball coach Sherrie Myers or one of the junior high coaches for more information.

A minimum deposit for $100 is needed. The team will stay on campus in the dorm rooms for a week.

Davie is the Gold Division defending champion.

Myers can be reached at Davie High (634-5905). South Davie coach Becky Miller can be reached at 634-5941. North Davie coach Rowenda Jarvis can be reached at 998-5555.

Prime Time Wins

ROCK HILL, S.C. — Bubba Coleman wasn't the only athlete from Cooleenoe winning a Most Outstanding Athlete Award last week.

While Coleman was winning that honor at Davie High, Britt Osborne was winning it in Rock Hill, S.C. after leading the Prime Time softball team to a NSA Class D world qualifying title.

Prime Time, made up of players from the Air Time team, which plays in the local recreation leagues, won five straight games in the 15-team tournament. It qualified it for the regionals in Atlanta and the world tournament in Charlotte.

Prime Time began by wiping out Mill Red 11-2. Tim McCullough led the way with a 3-for-3 performance that resulted in three RBIs.

The Down Boys were the next victim, 12-5. Osborne, Brian Simpson, Steve Parker, Brian Pitts and McCullough all had two hits.

Simpson had three RBIs and Osborne two.

The toughest game came against the Cardinals. Prime Time entered the bottom of the sixth inning trailing, 6-2.

But four straight hits and an Andy Everhardt sacrifice fly tied the score. The Cardinals walked Jason McCray to load the bases.

Osborne won the MVP award despite playing with a pulled muscle, suffered in the first game.

Tryouts will be held Aug. 2-5 in the high school gymnasium from 9 a.m. until 12 noon.

Baseball Expo

A baseball expo is coming to Wake Forest University June 9-11. June 12 will be a rain date.

Players in the Class of 1994 or sophomores projected by their coaches or the media to be a college prospect can attend.

Prospects can choose the day they wish to attend. Times are from 8:30-12:30 p.m. or 12:30-4:30 p.m.

Newsome Heading To Chattanooga, Tn.

Davie County will send one basketball player to the AAU National Tournament.

Maria Newsome, a member of the 16-under Greensboro Emeralds, qualified for a spot in the national tournament set for July 2-10 in Chattanooga.

Meanwhile, a 17-under boys team coached by Darrell Steele, came within one game from reaching the national tournament in Florida.

A 15-under girls team featuring Elizabeth Greene and Beth Wall, also came within one win of making its nationals in Ogden, Utah.

The Emeralds, who recruit across the state, went undefeated in pool play before losing to Raleigh in the regional finals.

In the state tournament in Charlotte, Greensboro won by 10 and 15 points, setting up a rematch with Raleigh in the finals. Down by one point in the final seconds, the Emeralds rimmed out two shots.

But the second place finish was good enough to send them to the nationals.

"It would be a long, long shot for us to win the national championship," said Emerald coach Dave Richardson. "But we feel we can finish in the top 10 to 15 if we play well."

Newsome, a 6-2 sophomore center, was the tallest player in the Central Piedmont Conference this season but she is not the tallest Emerald. That distinction is held by Hickory's 6-4 Elizabeth Nelson. Other team members going to the nationals are Addie Holbrook of Statesville, Western Guilford's Beth Schofield, Enon McMillen and Janice Ward, Southwest Guilford's Rosie Arnold, Raleigh Broughton's Tomi Esposito, Durham Academy's Ryan Hardester and Katie O'Connor, Western Alamance's Dee Pinnix and Eastern Guilford's Christy McNeil.

Newsome is getting used to some new rules, like a 30-second clock and two 20-minute halves.

"It's an adjustment for the girls but the rules help them prepare for the college game," Richardson said. "It is a good test against great competition."

Randy Doss, who first saw Newsome play in a game against Reynolds and recruited her, is Richardson's assistant.

Boys Fall In Finals

Steele's 17-under boys participated in the High Hops AAU Festival in Boone and Banner Elk, making the championship game against the Charlotte Royals.

Before that game was played at Lees McRae College, Steele had already told his boys they were going to the nationals in Florida.

"We were told the top two teams were going," he said. "When we win in the semifinals, we were already thinking about how we could raise money."

But when the Royals won in the championship game, 63-61, Steele was told different.

The Davie Stars entered the tournament with no expectations from tournament officials, who told Steele they were expecting the Royals to play the home team, Watuga Storm.

Davie opened the first round with an easy 100-47 whipping of Labone Racing of Thomasville.

Fortrash junior Brian McCollum lit it up, scoring 34 points. Russ James had 16 and Derrick Wilson 14.

Steele's team met Watuga in the semifinals and Steele had a message for his boys.

"I told them Watuga was the favored team and they would get the home cooking," he said. "I told them we'd have to play against seven players, counting the refs. No one thought we had a chance."

But Davie blew the game open in the second half, racing to an 85-62 victory.

McCollum, a 6-5 three-point gunner, led the way again with 25 while Tyrone Martin had 20, including a vicious slam dunk that brought the house down, according to Steele. Jared Eure, despite standing 6-2, dominated inside against players standing 6-7.

"We really turned it on," he said. "Jared killed them on the boards."

That set up the finals against Charlotte and again, Steele said, "no one gave us a chance."

But Davie led 59-57 with under a minute left on Eure's basket. Later, McCollum's bucket put Davie ahead 61-59.

After Charlotte tied the score, Wilson drove the lane and put up a shot.

"First of all, it was guttending," said Steele. "Then the boy knocked Derrick to the floor and there was no call."

After a timeout, Davie set up in a 1-3-1 matchup zone but a backdoor play with nine seconds left put the Royals ahead 63-61.

Martin drove to the basket and was grabbed on the arm as he went into the lane. He flipped up a jumper, hoping to get two shots. Instead, there was no whistle, the Royals got the rebound and the game ended with Charlotte advancing to the Florida nationals July 10-17 in Cocoa Beach.

McCollum scored 24 against the Royals and averaged 28 points per game. He also drilled 13 three-pointers in the three games.

"You see how close we were," Steele said.

15-Under Team

There were 55 teams competing in the High Hops, including Mike Dinkins' 15-under Davie team.

It placed third, beating Avery County, 59-57 and losing to the Greensboro Bengals in the semifinals, 67-55.

Against Avery, Davie led by seven points in the third period before falling behind by eight in the fourth. But Dinkins' son Chris scored five of the game's last seven points. Brandon Mills then hit two free throws to win it.

Against Greensboro, Dinkins had 13 and Lee Puckett 11.

Banjo Man

Carl Wicker Makes Music On A Dare

By Laura Williams-Tracy
Davie County Enterprise-Record

As a boy growing up in the tobacco lands of Lee County, Carl Wicker had a favorite hobby. At 8 years old, he used to sit on the porch of an elderly neighbor's house and listen to the old man play the banjo.

"I'd go to bed at night, and it seemed like that banjo would go round and round in my head," he said.

For years Wicker dreamed of the music created by the plucking of those few who master the complicated instrument. And while he was in the Air Force in 1960 he began to teach himself.

The process was slow, and it was another 10 years before he mastered the banjo, Wicker said.

The family caught the fever of string instruments and he and his wife, Shirley, and their three sons formed the Wicker Picker family band. All of their sons have become accomplished musicians. Shirley plays the guitar and writes music.

After years of playing and teaching, Wicker won his first talent competition May 7 in the Silver Arts competition of the Senior Games. "I was totally surprised," he said. After all, he was competing against the likes of a Minnie Pearl imitator, a piano player, original poetry readings and someone who could play the harmonica.

It was a dare, said Shirley, who is a member of the Davie Arts Council, which sponsored the contest. Adding a banjo player to the contest would add variety to the contest, she said.

It's evident that the dare wasn't too much of a risk for Wicker, who moves three fingers across the strings of the banjo with speed.

His renditions of "The Devil's Dream" and "The World is Waiting for the Sun to Rise," earned him a first place ribbon and qualified him for a state senior arts competition in October.

Playing the banjo is different from the guitar, Wicker said. Instead of strumming the strings, banjo players wear three picks on their fingers and they pluck each string. A series of notes are strung together to create a roll.

Wicker said that after years of listening and playing, he has developed "banjo ears." They help him to pick out the strong melody of a song instead of focusing on the quick sounds of individual notes.

Four years ago he joined Southland String Band, which plays at many community functions such as Heritage Day. Wicker said he was surprised by the number of people who wanted to learn about the banjo.

From those requests, he started High Hopes Music, banjo and guitar classes that he teaches in his home. And he found that he had tapped into a good market. Within two weeks of his first advertisements, he had 25 students.

After years of playing together, even Shirley takes guitar lessons from her husband.

She has even written a song called "Mr. Banjo Man," in which she sings and plays guitar while he accents the song with the banjo.

"Behind every successful banjo-playing husband is a patient wife," she explained. And then the two began their music.

"Whether he's a pickin' or a grinnin', Mr. Banjo man is the king."

Carl Wicker: "I'd go to bed at night, and the banjo would go 'round and 'round in my head."

Carl Wicker and wife Shirley practice picking in their home in Mocksville.

Wicker is teaching guitar and banjo to area residents.

Reilly-Shields Couple Speaks Vows

Katherine Louise Reilly and Coy E. Shields Jr. were united in marriage Saturday, June 5, at 11 a.m. at Our Lady of Grace Catholic Church in Greensboro. Father Walter Driotte performed the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Reilly of Route 1, Mocksville. She is also the granddaughter of Mrs. Agnes Reilly and the late James P. Reilly of Bronx, N.Y., and the late Mr. and Mrs. J.W. Patterson of Mocksville.

A 1983 graduate of Davie High School, she earned a bachelor's degree from the University of North Carolina-Charlotte in 1988, and is employed as an accountant with Bowman Gray School of Medicine in Winston-Salem.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Coy E. Shields Sr. and Mrs. Ann Shields of Charlotte and the grandson of Mrs. Carrie Shields and the late Melvin Shields of Winston-Salem. He is also the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. H.B. Joyner of S. Daytona, Fla.

He is a 1979 graduate of East Mecklenburg High School and a 1983 graduate of the University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill with a bachelor's degree in business administration, and is employed with Guilford Business Forms in Greensboro.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents and escorted by her father, wore a white satin shantung gown with an open neckline and short tulip sleeves. The neckline and edges of the sleeves were adorned with pearl trimming and a beaded Alencon lace bodice featured a haque waistline. The full skirt with chapel train was also edged with beaded Alencon lace. Her three-tier veil was scattered with pearls and fell from a headpiece of Alencon lace and sequins.

She wore a necklace of cultured pearls, a gift from the groom.

The bride carried a cluster bouquet of ocreas champagne and white roses with mixed greenery.

A program of wedding music was presented by Brian Marble, organist; Karl Kaffner, trumpeter; and Kathleen Martello, soloist.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Tricia R. Scott, sister of the bride of Lucama. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Cathy Dyan of Atlanta, Ga.; Mrs. Joni Eakins, sister of the groom; and Mrs. Jennifer Outen of Charlotte.

East Davie Club Tours Candle Plant

It was March, and Spring was around the corner when the East Davie Homemakers met at the home of Betty Sprinkle with Clynes Smith as co-hostess.

Jo Check, president, presided. Plans were made. Reports were given.

Club members went on an educational tour of East Candle Decorators in Elkin. The process of manufacturing candles requires expensive imported equipment, superior materials, and the individualized creativity of many employees. Each participant received a fragrant candle at the end of tour. This was followed by a buffet lunch and visit to two outlets: Candle Decorators and Chatham Manufacturing Company.

April brought the homemakers together at the home of Audrey Gilbert with Eva Eaton as co-hostess. Jo Check, presided.

Plans for the club's annual quilt project were made final. Nancy Hartman, Extension agent, presented a program on "A Case of Lead," pointing out sources of lead in the environment, the dangers of exposure, and practical ways to reduce the exposure.

This was followed by a demonstration of inexpensive ideas for home decorating.

For May at the home of Grace Parrish, Lois Stephens, family issues coordinator, gave program on "Ticks in North Carolina". Information presented the biological characteristics, methods of protection, and procedure for removing ticks. Literature was distributed.

Home decorating ideas for the month was swag curtains. Directions for their construction were furnished. Senior citizen activities in Davie County and the Shepherd Center in Winston-Salem were discussed. Participants of the Senior Games were recognized. Jo Check, Grace Parrish, and Lois Stephens.

The June meeting will be with Minnie Cornater.

Taylor-Richie Couple Married Couple Married On June 5

Mary Paulette Taylor and David Wayne Richie were united in marriage Saturday, April 24, at 4 p.m. at the Pavillion in the Park Atrium in Little Rock, Ark.

The bride is the daughter of Jimmie and Mary Marsh of Heber Springs, Ark. She is a 1981 graduate of the University of Central Arkansas with a bachelor's degree in education. She is a 1977 graduate of Beebe High School. She is employed as general manager of Audio International in Little Rock.

The bridegroom is the son of David and Lois Richie of Mocksville. He is the grandson of Josephine Ellis, also of Mocksville. He is a 1979 graduate of Davie High School. He attended college at the University of Central Arkansas, Arkansas State University, University of Arkansas at Little Rock and the Community College of the Air Force. He served as a development engineer in the U.S. Air Force from 1979 to 1986. He is the chairman and vice president of Audio International, Inc., a corporate aircraft electronics company in Little Rock.

Kris Muradian, justice of the peace, officiated the double-ring ceremony. The music was provided by The Brooks Brothers band featuring Paula Jolly.

The pavillion was decorated with hunter green and ivory balloon arches and columns, as well as ivory tulle and ivy.

The bride was escorted by her father and wore a hand-beaded, lace candlelight gown with a sweetheart neckline. The gown featured a drop waist and a full skirt with scalloped edges trimmed with pearls. The headpiece, with short shoulder-length veil, was of ivory tulle and pearls.

Karla Jane Stracener of Southaven, Miss., served as the matron of honor for her cousin.

Bart Richardson of Alexander, Ark., served as the groom's best man.

Rhonda Patterson of Bryant, Ark., welcomed the guests at the register. Lynn Richardson co-ordinated the corsages and boutonnières.

The ushers were Glen Freeman of Yalokinville, uncle of the groom, and Jacob Smith of Mocksville, high school friend of the groom.

Reception

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony in another section of the Pavillion.

Guests were served cold hors d'oeuvres. The wedding cake was a four-tiered traditional cake topped with fresh calla lilies and ivy.

The groom's cake was chocolate with chocolate icing and was decorated with sugared grapes. A second groom's cake was made and decorated by Michelle Smith, a member of the British Motoring Club of Arkansas (BMCA) of which the groom and bride are both members. The cake was decorated to look like Wayne's 1976 Triumph TR6.

After a seven-day cruise to the Western Caribbean, the couple plans to reside in Little Rock.

Lori Ann Hinson of Lexington and Jeffrey Paul Bailey of Advance were united in marriage, Saturday, June 5, at 2 p.m. at Tyro United Methodist Church. Officiating at the double-ring ceremony were the Rev. Alan Rice and Kermit M. Bailey.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elavan Davis Hinson Jr. of Lexington, and the late Joan Young Hinson. She is a graduate of Lexington Senior High School. She is employed at Forsyth Memorial Hospital.

The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. James Carl Bailey of Advance. He is a graduate of Davie High School and Bolton Private Electronic Institute. He is employed by Forsyth Memorial Hospital.

Miss Melissa Rowe was maid of honor. Serving as bridesmaids were Mrs. Kelly Lambert, Miss Jamie Bailey, Ms. Shannon Tuttle and Ms. Holly Brown.

James Carl Bailey was his son's best man. Ushering were: Marcus Hinson, Steve Tilley, Jeffrey Allen and Donnie Brown.

Ashley Fotts was a junior bride and Tyler Maready, junior bridegroom.

The couple spent their honeymoon in Cancun, Mexico. They will make their home at Happy Hill Road, Lexington.

Reception

The couple was honored with a reception at Tyro Fire Department immediately following the wedding ceremony.

Club Learns About Health Care

The Davie County Golden Age Club welcomed Bill Foster from Foster-Rauch Drug Store as the guest speaker at the June meeting.

Foster talked about some of his experiences on his trip to Tampa, Fla., where a group from Mocksville gave a presentation for the finals for the "All American City."

Foster also talked about this country's health care problems -- one being the fact 30 million people have no health care insurance. He also pointed out that Davie County does not have a sufficient number of family doctors to serve the community.

After his talk, Foster answered questions.

The club congratulated Louise Stroud on her success as a winner in the Silver Arts category of the recent Davie County Senior Games. The members expressed their enjoyment of the Senior Center Week activities presented at the center during the special time designated to honor senior centers. It was announced that the YMCA is presenting bingo games once a month for seniors.

The next meeting will be July 7 at Rich Park when the club will have their annual picnic.

A Celebration Of Witnessing!

By Shirley Cottle

The month of June seems to be full of times of celebration. School is out, and the children are happy; educational diplomas have been received by high school seniors and college graduates, and parties abound. It is also a traditional month for marriage, and the celebration of that holy event. It is a time of gift buying and giving at our house, and sharing in these joyous occasions.

For the children, we send them off to day camp, or "outside" so that their time of celebration of "no school" can be endured until late summer. For the seniors and college graduates, we send them our "job looking" For the newlyweds, we give them some of our pocketbook, and our blessing, that all will be well.

Yet there was a celebration less than 2,000 years ago, that sent those in the midst of it, out into the world and the world has never been the same. It was the Spirit-filled festival day of Pentecost when the church was born. Before His Ascension, Christ had promised His disciples a baptism with the Holy Spirit (Acts 1:4-5). That promise was fulfilled on Pentecost. Peter proclaimed the message that sent Jesus' followers out into all the world as witnesses. And the message Peter gave was this: "Repent and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the forgiveness of your sins; and you shall receive the gift of the Holy Spirit. For the promise is to you and to your children and to all that are far off, every one whom the Lord our God calls." (Acts 2:38-39)

On that great day of celebration, a wondrous gift was given to those in that prayerful gathering. That gift was the indwelling presence of the Holy Spirit. And what results! Their witnessing to the forgiveness of sin and the promise of eternal life through Jesus Christ, was so effective that 3,000 became followers of Jesus on that day. They became bold in their witnessing! And day after day, there was seen among them, compassion and caring, sharing and unity. Under the discipline and power of the indwelling Holy Spirit, the New Testament Church became a church of: Proclamation, serving, healing, teaching, fellowship, mission, and CELEBRATION. That same power that established the church of Jesus Christ, is still available to each of us today if we desire His Presence. "Repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the forgiveness of your sins; and you shall receive the gift of the Holy Spirit." The message remains the same - the requirements have not changed.

But this gift is different than the tangible ones we give to that graduate or bride and groom, for this gift has consequences to be considered. Some of these are: We will become bold witnesses to the saving grace of Jesus Christ. We will become obedient to His leading, where ever that leading may take us. For some it will be teaching, for some healing, for some serving, for some sharing. We will be in harmony, unity, and peace among the fellowship of believers. And we may risk exclusion or even personal retaliation if the Holy Spirit directs us to make difficult stands on the many controversial issues of our day. The decision is ours. The gift is one we can receive.

May this be our day of Spiritual Celebration.

Choose Healthy Diet For Family

The USDA's Food Guide Pyramid is a general guide that lets you choose a healthful diet for your family.

"This guide can be used, with slight modification, for preschoolers, because children age 2 to 6 need the same variety of foods as older family members," said Dr. Carolyn Dunn, extension maternal and youth nutrition specialist at N.C. State University.

"Preschoolers need nutrient-rich foods, but since they are smaller, they generally need fewer calories," Dunn said. "With the exception of servings from the milk group, servings sizes are smaller."

There is no change in the milk, yogurt and cheese group, because a growing child needs as much calcium as an adult. A child age 2 to 6 needs two servings from this group daily. Each of these is one serving: 1 cup of milk, 8 oz. yogurt, 1 1/2 oz. natural cheese or 2 oz. processed cheese.

A 2- to 6-year-old needs two servings each day from the meat, poultry, fish and eggs group. A serving is two-thirds of an ounce of lean beef, pork, lamb, poultry or fish; 1/3 cup of cooked dried beans; 1 1/3 tablespoons of peanut butter; 3 tablespoons of seeds; or 4 tablespoons of nuts.

The preschooler needs two servings of fruit each day. Each of the following is a single serving: a small piece of fruit; 2/3 of a melon wedge; 1/2 cup of fruit juice; 1/3 cup of berries, sliced fruit or cooked fruit; or 3 tablespoons of dried fruit. Count only 100-percent fruit juice as fruit. Punches, iced, and most fruit "drinks" contain only a little juice and lots of added sugars. Grape and orange sodas don't count as fruit juice.

Preschoolers also need 3 servings of vegetables each day. A serving is 1/3 cup of cooked or raw vegetables or 2/3 cup of raw, leafy greens.

Six servings of grains, breads and cereals are required each day. Half should be whole-grain products.

Local Man Lands Spot On Daytime TV Drama

By Laura Williams-Tracy
Davie County Enterprise Record

Turn on "As the World Turns" any afternoon and the good looks of character Line Lafferty might be familiar to you.

Line — alias Lonnie McCullough — is a 1980 graduate of Davie High School and has finally hit the big screen.

McCullough signed a six-month contract with CBS recently, and depending on how well the public responds to his character, he may have found a home on daytime television.

After filming for 3½ weeks for the drama, McCullough said he doesn't yet have people rushing up the streets of New York City for his autograph.

"I don't anticipate that happening any time soon," he said. McCullough, 31, started on television several years ago as a news reporter for stations in Charlotte and Spartanburg, S.C. But his dream was to be on TV or in the movies.

His acting experience was limited to a non-speaking role in a play about Romeo and Juliet in college when McCullough left for New York City.

Seminar Planned

Dr. Larry Hungerford, recently retired college professor and regular guest on Glen Scott's morning radio show in Winston-Salem, wants people to make their hard-earned savings dollars work as hard for them as they work to earn those dollars.

His free seminars help participants select from over 3,000 mutual funds by recommending top no-load (no sales fee) mutual funds that can be purchased directly from the fund family by calling 800s. By doing it themselves investors can cut their investment costs. They pay no commissions or redemption fees and usually lower expense ratios.

More than 2,500 people have attended Hungerford's popular free workshops about no-load (no commissions) mutual funds at Forsyth County libraries during the 1990s. Hungerford has been invited to Davie County to conduct a seminar for do-it-yourself investors.

He will be at the Davie County library at 7 p.m. Tuesday, June 15, for "basic investing in No-load Mutual Funds," a free seminar for beginning investors. (There is a $5 charge if participants would like to keep the seminar materials.)

Vogler Joins Firm

Ronald H. Vogler has joined PaineWebber Incorporated as the resident manager of PaineWebber's Winston-Salem office.

Vogler joined PaineWebber in February 1993 as an investment executive. Prior to that, he was employed by Merrill Lynch in Winston-Salem from 1986 to 1993. From 1980 to 1986, Vogler was manager of financial planning and capital investments for Ciba-Geigy in Greensboro.

Vogler received his undergraduate degree in business finance from Western Carolina University, and his MBA from Wake Forest University's Babcock School. Vogler is a member of the board of directors of Mocksville Savings Bank in Mocksville.

Hi! My name is JoAnnah Brooke Pierce. I turned 1 year old on May 7th. I had a party and cookout at my house on Thursday, May 6th. All my friends and their parents were there. I had a Minnie Mouse cake for my friends and a chocolate cake all for me, but I was scared of it. My parents are Chris and Jodi Pierce. We live in Turkeyfoot. My mom and papaw are Lloyd and JoAnn Renegar. My Uncle L.G. and Aunt Nney was there too. My friends took turns riding my pony Lady. I want to thank everyone for my presents and for coming to my party.

more than three years ago. He started work as a waiter while he gained acting experience in Off-Broadway plays and television commercials.

His biggest success came recently when he was cast to play the role of Line Lafferty.

"I guess it was my good day," he said.

Although the soap's writers have not let him know too much about his character's future, McCullough said it is fun playing a manipulating bad guy. His character, Line, has recently returned to the fictional town of Oakdale and is starting to stir things up, he said.

The lights, makeup, wardrobe and lavish attention have been "a little surreal," he said. The work is fun and not too difficult. It usually takes about an hour to memorize lines for the next day's episode.

And he has found that a career as a soap star can be quite lucrative — much more so than life as a waiter. "I lived in some pretty bad apartments," he said with a chuckle of life before success.

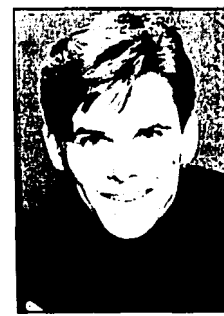

And it's been easy getting used to rubbing elbows with the likes of actress Eileene Fulton, who has played Lisa Mitchell on the show for more than 30 years.

All of the cast and writers have been very helpful, he said, and none have shown big egos.

McCullough said he hopes his exposure on "As the World Turns" will lead to more theater work or films.

Until he is a household name, he said, he'll enjoy not having to wear a disguise.

Anyone wanting to write the net-work and encourage it to keep McCullough's character on the air can write to: As The World Turns, 524 W. 57th Street, New York, NY, 10019.

WILLIAM R. DAVIE
Mimi Cunningham and Teresa Bailey helped their Chapter 1 classes celebrate a great year of reading. Their students in grades 1-3 had an ice cream party in celebration of reaching their goal in reading at home. The 5th grade

HOT class members who reached their reading goal went to Rich Park June 2 for a pizza party. The 6th grade HOTS class went to a volunteer's house (Kathleen Shammel) for a swimming party and a cook-out after school.

When one teacher has an exciting idea she shares it with others. Earle Barker did just that with the Accelerated Reading Program. The fourth grade teachers were allowed to use Barker's lab, utilizing fourth grade students this year. The success of the program was a result of hard work on the part of both students and teachers. Students read a variety of books worth a certain number of points according to their difficulty level. They then tested on those books using an Apple computer. Incentives were provided all year to keep the students reading. Each month, Kim Smith, assistant, created a colorful bulletin board where students added displays as they tested and passed each book. Each student reached a milestone of 10 points, they attended weekly breakfast. Then as points accumulated to 50, the students were given a popcorn and video party. When students reached 100 points they were recognized at an assembly as awarded certificates, coupons, and special pencils by Bill Campbell, principal. The majority of fourth graders attain higher than 50 points. Some attained over 200 points and one student reached over 400 points. A final total of 3,789 books were read and tested in fourth grade this year by Margaret Jo Bresh, Lynn Moore, Duane Hartsell, and Carolyn Tucker. Plans are being finalized to continue the program next year.

DHS Class Of 1993 Had A 'Special' Commencement

From the special recognition for the late Scott Angus to the singing of "Friends" by graduates Chad Helton and Emilee Hoover, the commencement ceremonies for the Davie High School Class of 1993 was special.

Lead by top seniors Brad Van Hoy, Heather McDowell and Melissa Rennix, the graduates received their diplomas last Thursday night before a large crowd in the football stadium.

"It was one of the nicest, best graduations I remember going to," David Owens told fellow members of the Davie County Board of Education. "Our congratulations and appreciation to those who planned it. It was very special."

Dr. Bill Steed, superintendent, helped hand out diplomas with Principal Robert Landry. "I don't know of any graduation in the state that is any more student oriented than ours," Steed said. "I think it went very well."

Parents and other relatives line up with cameras and the graduates enter football stadium.

Orientation leaders are chosen for leadership qualities and contributions to the university, and serve as peer mentors to help new students adjust to college life.

More Are Choosing Community College

By Laura Williams-Tracy
Davie County Enterprise-Record

More Davie High seniors will attend a community college this fall than will attend a four-year university. And 42 percent of all graduates will continue their education past high school.

The results of a survey of graduating seniors done by school career counselor Rex Hobson, shows an increasing trend toward community college attendance. In 1992, 38 percent of graduating seniors planned to attend a community college. This year the number is 44 percent. "I wouldn't be surprised to see even more students going to community college," Hobson said. "More of the jobs tend to require more than a high school diploma and less than a 4-year degree."

Hobson said the movement toward community college could also be spurred on by the school's tech prep curriculum, which encourages students to earn technical degrees at the community college level.

The opening of Davie County's satellite community college could also increase enrollment by improving access.

According to the survey, 33 percent of 1993 graduates had plans to attend a four-year university, compared to 36 percent in 1992.

Although he had no information about Davie High students after graduation from a university, Hobson said he thought many of those students tended not to return to Davie County because of a lack of professional jobs. He said there were more jobs here that required a community college or associate degree.

Hobson said most Davie High graduates that went on to a university or college found that they were well prepared for higher education.

One percent of the students answering the 1993 and 1992 surveys said they would attend a junior college. Three percent of the students will attend a trade or business school and 4 percent plan to enter the military.

Hobson said 16 percent of the graduates will look for work immediately after graduation.

Those numbers are consistent with past years, he said.

field trip to Historic Spencer Shops in Spencer on May 28. They saw a video on transportation in North Carolina, viewed transportation exhibits and rode a train.

Elnora Gore, Cammie Walker, and Judy White accompanied the fourth graders on an outing to the N.C. Zoo in Asheboro May 26. Students prepared for their trip by painting t-shirts using animal patterns. Renee Bailey of Sara Lee donated shirts for the activity. Students learned much at the zoo to enhance the study of animals.

Students in Judy White's class created animals with special adaptations. First, students illustrated, then each student presented his or her animal to class members. After the presentations, students made and painted the animals. Students then wrote a descriptive theme about their animals.

Mocksville High Class Of 1943 Holds Reunion

Ella Gray Smith
 Charlie Brown was asked once which way he turned his deck chair aboard-ship - facing forward to see where he was going - or backward to see where he had been.
 He replied he'd never been able to get the chair unfolded yet.
 Saturday night, the class of '43 of Mocksville High School looked backward to where they had been. And 50 years brings about a lot of changes. That monopolized a big portion of the conversations of the class of '43 at their class reunion celebrating the 50th anniversary of their high school graduation.

There were changes in appearance, with a prevalence of gray in the hair. Some knees might buckle due to age, and some belts would not, due to extra pounds. But after looking at some of the school pictures of the early forties, it was agreed that appearances had improved.
 Thomas Eaton read an account of changes that have come about since their class graduated - television, penicillin, polo shots, frozen foods, plastic, copy machines, ballpoint pens, FM radio, tape decks, electronic typewriters, word processors, computers and pocket-size calculators.
 Back then people got married first and then lived together. Closets were for clothes, not for coming out of and Aids were helpers in the principal's office. You never saw guys wearing earrings or guns at school.
 Bunnies were small.
 Rabbits and rabbits were not Volkswagens. Designer jeans were scheming girls named Jean, and fast food was what you ate during Lent.
 Hardware meant hardware and software wasn't even a word. 'Made in Japan' meant junk and 'making out' referred to how you did an exam.
 Wilkins and Hall's drug stores sold ice cream cones for a nickel or dime and for a nickel you could buy a Pepsi or enough stamps to mail one letter and two postcards. A new Chevy coupe cost $300 - but who could afford one? Gas was 11¢ a gallon.

 Twenty-five of the original 49 members of the graduating class, along with their spouses, family, friends and other classmates met at Smith Grove Ruritan building Saturday night, June 5, for their 50-year reunion. A total of 87 were present for the fellowship, the meal catered by the Ruritan and reminiscence about school days, war experiences, families and grandchildren.
 Eight deceased members were memorialized by lighting candles as each was named: Billie Ammons, Adelaide Angell Whitaker, Ross Barneycastle, Norma Smith Cook, Cline LeGrand, Duffee McDonald, Joe Spry and Frances Wilson Clements. Also included was the class mascot, Bill Collette.

Class secretary, Dorothy Sparks, called the roll and each one present responded with remarks about school experiences, families.
 Teachers present were Mrs. Helen P. Crenshaw and D.J. Mando of Mocksville and J.T. Holt of Salisbury.
 Berna Foster read an original writing titled "Ten and Now". The program ended on a musical note by class president, Ella Gray Smith reading excerpts from "How to know you're growing old".
 One way was getting your exercise acting as a pallbearer for friends who exercise. You know you're getting old when you begin burning the midnight oil at 9 p.m. and it was nearing 9 p.m. so this show had to end.
 Class members present were George and Joyce (Anderson) Goodman, Kathlyn (Hoots) Reavis, Lois (McDaniel) Long, Bill and Janet Sanford and Thomas and Orena (Walker) Rector, all of Winston-Sa-

The Drug War: Help The People First

Laura Williams-Tracy
 Davie County Enterprise-Record
 BERNARD JORDAN - One of President Bill Clinton's top advisors told golfers, celebrities and community planners Thursday that the war on drugs can only be won by improving the conditions that drive people to abuse drugs and alcohol.
 Vernon E. Jordan Jr., co-chairman of the presidential transition team and Washington attorney, spoke at The Crosby Drug Symposium.
 Since moving the tournament to Davie County in 1986, the event has raised more than $9 million for charitable causes. This year the event is expected to raise $1.5 million.
 "For many years we have engaged in a publicized war on drugs, but we fought the war with pop-guns and focused on the wrong targets," Jordan said.
 People abuse drugs because they are dissatisfied with their lives. And those fighting to curb drug abuse will not make a dent in the problem until they recognize that poverty, poor health and unemployment are factors that cause drug abuse.
 Jordan, who is a past president of the United Negro College Fund, said more young black men are in prison than are in college.
 One group that is making a difference is The Crosby Scholars Program, he said, which helps poor students attend college and break the cycle of poverty.
 Ravonda Dalton-Rann, director of The Crosby Scholars Program, said with charity proceeds from the tournament - the program is helping students at two Winston-Salem high schools attend college. By 1998, the group hopes to be in every Forsyth County middle school and high school providing money to students to enable them to succeed in school and attend college.
 With a better future to look forward to, Dalton-Rann said the program attempts to steer students away from a distant future of drugs and alcohol abuse.
 Allen Washington, an employee of Sara Lee, one of The Crosby's primary sponsors, came to the event from his job as a knit fiver in South Carolina to tell how the company's drug-free workplace program had affected his life.
 Despite fears that he would lose his job if Sara Lee officials knew of his drug problem, Washington sought treatment for his addiction through a company-sponsored drug program.
 To his surprise, he didn't lose his job - and he kicked the addiction.
 Today, he said, his highs are going to church and helping his 7-year-old son complete his homework or going to a baseball game together.
 "I stand today in front of a lot of important people today. But you come to South Carolina, and you'll find a 7-year-old by who thinks I'm pretty important also," he said.

Pledges Boost Davie United Way To $334,809

The United Way of Davie County Board of Directors' Executive Committee was informed at its meeting May 24 that $334,809 had been pledged to the 1992-93 campaign.

"It's very difficult to project campaign results early," said Allen Martin, executive director. "A total of 48 percent of pledged funds comes from citizens working out of the county. Final figures cannot be tabulated until all area United Ways submit their reports."

Bill Eira of Lee Apparel and Campaign Chair for the 92-93 campaign said: "Each United Way focuses on its own pledges first then processes those to be sent to other United Ways."

"This year (92/93), we got pledges from United Ways in Rowan, Iredell, Mecklenburg, Union, Cabarrus, Catawba, Davidson and Forsyth counties.

"More pledges from Forsyth than other counties because more of our citizens work in that county, $145,534 of the total of $158,221 in 'designations' came from Forsyth. In the future we hope more remember to ask for a designation form when regular pledge forms are made available."

Rick Cole, city executive with BB&T and 1993 president and campaign chair for the 1993-94 campaign said, "We're already into planning next fall's campaign well before previous year's results are known."

Cole has named his campaign captain. The executive committee approved his selection.

At its May 24 meeting, the execution committee gave final approval to the '93 operating budget. Total available funds (pledges plus earned interest) are expected to be $337,809. Adjustments for pledges unable to be collected, local pledges designated to other United Ways leaves a net of $304,430.

Agencies will receive $251,870 to support individual needs of the county's residents and $40,997 was set aside to cover campaign and office activity costs.

"Thanks to our industries," said Sue Callison of Ingersoll-Rand and United Way of Davie County treasurer, "our cost are kept low. I-R and Lee Apparel did bulk mailing over and above their corporate pledges. Sara Lee Corporation and CMU/Davie County Hospital provided two loaned executives for three months last year - a staff value of some $20,312 - and the county provides office space in

B. C. Brock Center on North Main Street.

Harold Gibson and Ron Tedder, CPA, specialists in United Way audits, presented the '92 fiscal year reports which indicated $5,256 was added to the fund balance during the accounting period.

Two Davie Men Arrested For Growing Marijuana

Two Davie men were arrested last week by the Davie County Sheriff's Department for growing marijuana.

Timothy Wayne Harris, 35, of Route 7, Mocksville, was charged on June 3 with manufacturing marijuana and with possession of marijuana.

Detective Allen Whitaker said four marijuana plants, about 6-8 inches high, were found growing near his residence off Fairfield Road.

Steven Gregory "Eyes" Evey, 20, of Route 1, Mocksville, was arrested on June 4 for manufacturing marijuana and possession of marijuana.

Detective L. Jimmy Phipps said two marijuana plants were found growing on his balcony and outside the bedroom window in an apartment. Evey rents off U.S. 601 south of Mocksville.

'Accidental' Shooting Is Investigated By S.D.

A shooting reported as being an accident is still under investigation by the Davie County Sheriff's Department.

Sheriff's Detective Nelson Turrentine was called to a shooting at a mobile home at the end of Village Road at 11:08 p.m. last Thursday.

Cynthia Denise Dalton, 32, of 275 Monview Drive, Mocksville, had suffered powder burns to the cheek and a cut to the eye after a bullet grazed her as she lay in a waterbed. Turrentine reported.

Terrence Franklin Wilson of Route 1, Mocksville, said that Dalton, his girlfriend, was on the bed with their baby when he began cleaning a .357 caliber handgun while sitting in a chair beside the bed. The gun accidentally fired.

Wilson called emergency personnel and neighbors arrived just after the shooting, Turrentine reported.

That night, Dalton also told Turrentine that the shooting was an accident.

Woman Seriously Injured

A Mocksville woman is listed in serious condition in intensive care at Baptist Hospital after she was thrown from her car.

According to Trooper C. D. Jones, Dinah Ann Echison, 33, of Milling Road, was thrown 40 feet from a moving car driven by Herbert Eugene James, 33, of Harmony, after she tried to put the car's gear shift into park.

The accident occurred at 2:50 a.m. on June 6 on County Home Road.

Jones said Echison had been drinking and asked James to pick her up and take her home. The two got into an argument and Echison struck James in the face, said Jones.

Echison asked James to stop the car, opened the door, and put the vehicle's gear shift into park, said Jones.

According to Jones, the car was traveling about 55 mph and skidded 200 feet. Echison was thrown from the car and then the car hit a tree.

Echison was transported to Davie County Hospital and was then transferred to Baptist Hospital in Winston-Salem.

Echison was not wearing a seat belt. Jones said that no charges would be filed.

Damage to the car was estimated at $2,000.

Two Killed In Fiery Crash On 64

By Laura Williams-Tracy
Davie County Enterprise-Record

Two men died Friday in a five-vehicle wreck on U.S. 64 that left one truck on fire. Robert Lloyd Dorrill, 61, of Chattanooga, Tenn., has been charged with two counts of misdemeanor death by vehicle. N.C. Highway Patrol troopers said he swerved into the oncoming lane which set off a series of crashes.

Needham Daniel Gainus, 48, of Lexington, was killed when the wholesale meat truck he was driving was struck and sent reeling out of control in the highway. It split apart after it was hit by a tractor-trailer — and soon after it exploded in flames. Gainus's body burned inside the truck.

Milton Henry Welch, 50, of Olivia, was killed when his 1986 tractor-trailer crashed into Gainus's meat truck. The tractor-trailer

Man Crushed By Car In Woods

By Mike Barnhardt
Davie County Enterprise-Record

A Route 8; Mocksville man was killed on Monday, June 7, when his car he was working on apparently crushed him against a tree.

His body wasn't found until 20 days later.

Brian Keith Moore, 22, of Howell Road, probably died instantly, said Davie Sheriff Bill Wooten.

Wooten said it appeared that Moore had been driving a car through a field. Moore got out of the car to do some work, and left it in reverse or the gear shifted into reverse. Moore tried to get to the wheel to stop the car but was crushed into some trees, Wooten said.

The field was off Howell

Road. The body was found by his girlfriend two days later. Wooten said the family had not reported Moore as missing because he was driving when he was last seen and he didn't have a driver's license.

2 Arrested For Murders In Forsyth

By Laura Williams-Tracy
Davie County Enterprise-Record

Two Advance men have confessed to killing an elderly couple at a Winston-Salem convenience store Saturday night.

Sheriff's deputies from Davie and Forsyth counties arrested Russell Dean Workman, 21, of Lebitz Lane, Advance at his father's home on N.C. 801 about 1:30 a.m. on Monday.

Eddie Wayne Shoffner, 22, of 2339 Granada Drive, Advance, was arrested at his home later that morning.

Workman later confessed to slaying the throats of Arthur Drake, 71, and Janet Drake, 63, of Winston-Salem, said Lt. Joe Tuttle of the Forsyth County Sheriff's Department. Both men are charged with two counts of first-degree murder.

Tuttle said both men are charged with murder because the deaths occurred while both were committing a felony by attempting to rob the store. The Drake's were killed as Arthur Drake worked at

Shoffner Workman

Carlton's Food Center on West Clemmonsville Road about 7:45 p.m.

Mr. Drake was a part-time sales clerk at the store, and his wife often accompanied him to work. Friends of the Drake's said she was concerned that he might be hurt if the store was robbed.

Mr. Drake was known for the large number of postcards he owned — a collection he had hoped would get him a page in the Guinness Book of World Records.

Tuttle said a witness saw Shoffner and Workman leaving the store in a Monte Carlo. Deputies later received an

Body Found In Truck; Death Cause Unknown

Authorities don't know what caused the death of a Matthews man, whose badly decomposed body was found in the cab of a pickup truck last week.

Louis Robert Deacon, 50, could have been in the pickup truck for as long as five days before his body was discovered.

Davie Sheriff Bill Wooten said a trucker spotted the body in the pickup truck, which was parked next to trees beside the Western Steer parking lot. The body was found Thursday afternoon. Nearby workers said the truck had been parked there the previous Saturday.

Wooten said there was no evidence of foul play. The body was sent to the N.C. Medical Examiner's Office in Chapel Hill for an autopsy.

There were a lot of clothes and camping gear in the truck, Wooten said.

Cooleemee A Step Closer To Annexation

By Mike Barnhardt
Davie County Enterprise-Record

COOLEEMEE — A resolution of intent to annex two areas near this town were approved on 3-1 vote of the town board Monday night. Only Hayden Beck voted against the resolution, which sets the stage for a possible annexation later in the year.

"It does not bind you to annex. It does not bind us not to annex," administrative intern Duane Arnold told board members before the vote.

The move puts the town a step closer to annexing specific areas. The areas now being considered are much smaller than an area included in an annexation study for the town by the Northwest Piedmont Council of Governments.

Two areas are being considered.

One would extend the town limits about a half mile down Junction Road, go along property lines just north of Duck Pond Road, crossing Gladstone Road and coming back to the current town limits.

The second area would include much of North Cooleemee and the Edgewood Circle area off N.C. 801, but not homes along the north side of N.C. 801.

Maps, giving specific boundaries of the areas proposed to be annexed, are on display at the town hall.

Areas being considered do not include Joekey International or Greasy Corner.

Herold said areas had to be taken out of consideration because at least 12 percent of any annexation must be adjacent to current town limits, and that a certain percentage of the land holdings must be five acre tracts or less.

The area includes 120 households, and would bring in just over $9,000 in town tax money. Add other state taxes reimbursed to the town such as sales and franchise taxes, and the town would realize from $50,000-$60,000 from the annexation, according to the COG's report.

Although the town hasn't committed to any annexation, it has a schedule to which an annexation could take place by the end of the year.

In July, the board is expected to issue a report, which will include a listing of all property owners that would be affected by the annexation. It will be available for public view at the town hall.

At 7 p.m. Aug. 9, a public hearing is scheduled, at which public comment for or against the annexation will be taken.

If approved by the board, an annexation ordinance could be adopted in September, making the annexation effective as early as Dec. 31.

Senseless Violence: Has Civilization Come To This?

How far has civilization really come if senseless violence continues as it has?

An elderly couple — a storekeeper and his wife — were brutally slashed to death on Clemmonsville Road last week. Two young Advance men have been charged.

The ethnic violence in Bosnia continues — with thousands killed in an endless bloodbath. There is no peace to be found there, and neither the Muslim or Serb leaders seem interested in stopping the killing.

Philosophers have often said a thin cord holds us back from the savage violence and senseless acts of animals. Why will some men "go bad"? What keeps us all from joining them?

For some, fear of punishment is enough to keep them mindful of the law. But for most, it has to be faith in God and the belief that we were put here for a higher purpose. The belief that love of mankind is a far superior calling. And that killing and wanton violence is simply wrong.

All those thoughts were forgotten at the Clemmonsville store. Robbery was more important. The desire for money overcame the inhibitions of civilization ... and the value of life. The man and his wife were in the way.

Sometimes, it seems that criminals are motivated by nothing more than the glamor of crime. If their lives are empty and meaningless, they assume prestige in the courtroom. They are the center of attention. Lawyers debate over them. Deputies guard them. Judges ... punish them.

How can you explain senseless murder?

If they were seeking notoriety, they have found it. If violence excites them, two people have died at their hands. We can only hope that the courts — and its civilizing force — will do its part to bring swift justice.

House Speaker May Kill Lottery Bill

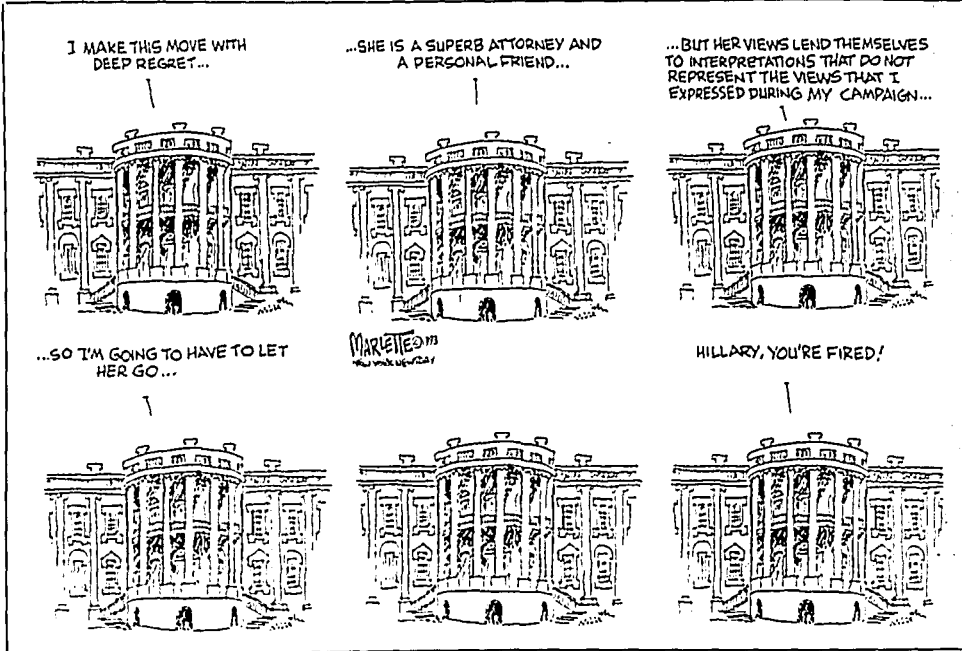

Even if Gov. Jim Hunt has abandoned his principles, House Speaker Dan Blue has not. Hunt once firmly opposed a state lottery. Now he's ready to allow a referendum. Not Dan Blue. He may be able to bottle up the bill in subcommittees so long that it never gets out.

The Senate last week narrowly passed the bill. The House may have more sense.

As taxes go, the lottery is no bargain. Only 34 percent of the revenue will actually go into the tax coffers. Of the rest, 50 percent will go to prizes, 16 percent will go to expenses such as administration and to pay stores for selling the tickets. Last week, Senators remembered that other states have shamefully advertised their lotteries. How much would North Carolina spend?

Dan Blue — more than Gov. Hunt — seems to have a good sense of what North Carolina needs, and the traditional values we have held dear.

Hearing Difficult In Davie Superior Court

To the editor:

June 2-4, I had the pleasure to serve as a juror on the Superior Court District in Davie County. I enjoyed it tremendously. It gave me a chance to see our judicial system at its best. During this time, a blameworthy case by and took it away.

As most of the good citizens of Davie County know, the county last year moved in the new courtroom. A modern building, it is, and we, as citizens, should be proud. Did you know there is a problem with the superior courtroom? The problem is that you cannot hear. You can sit behind the defendant's table or behind the D.A.'s table and it is still hard to hear. People sitting in the courtroom aren't that important. The most important people are the jurors. Because they have to render a verdict on two things: evidence and testimony. The jurors can't hear half of the time. What the jurors can hear and quite well is the outside noise ... traffic going through town, sirens, pedestrians.

From time to time, defendants do not get a fair trial except for the evidence presented during the trial. If there was something said that was important, I believe that 25-30% of the time the jurors cannot hear and that, my friends, is terrible. If you were a defendant and you had a jury trial, wouldn't you want to be sure that the jury heard every word said? I sure would.

I'm making a plea to the good citizens of Davie County and to the Superior Court district of Davie County. Can we have microphones installed in the courtroom so that all parties can be seen and heard at the same time? Can we do something about the outside noise ... soundproofing the courtroom or better windows with better insulating rating? I'm sure the court system would like to serve the public better. As things stand, I feel like that our courtroom as a grade of 70 percent.

I am not talking bad about Davie County and its courts or no one who works there. Clerk of Court Ken Boger and his staff do a wonderful job and we should be proud of them all. But we as citizens should do our best to see that everyone who has been accused or having business with the court be represented 100%. Anything lower is no acceptable.

Everyone who has business with Davie court house please stop by and show your appreciation to the Clerk of Court and his staff. They need a pat on the back, too.

High Schools Needs A Liaison Officer

To the editor:

A few weeks ago I had the privilege of attending a PTSA meeting at Davie High School. Much to my surprise the parents attending were outnumbered by the faculty probably at least two to one.

The topic was the hiring of a liaison police officer for the Davie High campus. After the meeting I got the impression that the parents and faculty were in agreement that this is a very needed addition to Davie High. The officer would help control violence (and it's there) as well as serve as a person the students could rely on and many times confide in. During these busy times our high school must lots of time serve as the only positive thing in its students' lives or as the only place that a student has to find someone to confide in and trust. Would this officer not be a plus in helping our high school meet the students' needs as well as help it be a safer learning environment?

Today, much to my dismay, I heard that someone in the county has made the decision that the liaison officer is not needed and that the funding is not available. I disagree. Why wait until one (and one is as important as 10) of our precious young people is killed by the one gun or knife that got past a school official because he/she was doing what they are paid for ... teaching ... instead of being forced to accept the role of parent, protector, and guardian of the 1,000+ young people at our high school.

What do we have to do? Let our opinion be known. Call school board members. Sign petitions. Call Dr. Steed.

We cannot afford not to be able to afford to hire this liaison officer to protect our most precious resource -- our young people.

Ramey Kemp, Roy Cartner Improved Quality Of Life

See guys.
That's one of the best ways to describe Roy Cartner and Ramey Kemp — two of Davie County's finest residents. They truly loved people.

Although contact with each of the men was limited, I instantly respected each. I first met Ramey Kemp while I was in high school. I hurt my back running cross country, and Coach Burt Barger sent me to see Ramey Kemp, the local chiropractor.

I was scared half to death. Any doctor scared me then, and they scare me now. It goes back to when I was even younger, and got popped in the head with a rock-loaded dirt lod. It took every person within a couple of miles to hold me down while the doctor put the stitches in my forehead. The doctor didn't like my attitude, and I didn't like his. That fear was increased by the thought of going to a chiropractor. Were these guys really doctors? Did they use big needles? And the stories I heard about them jerking bones around made every bone in my body rattle in fear.

The only good part, it seemed, was that I got out of school to go to the doctor (Some things never change.)

Dr. Kemp wasn't the needle-carrying monster that I had imagined. He didn't have the evil grin as he prepared to twist my body into odd contortions, as I had expected.

He was nice. He talked to me like I was a regular person, like we were friends. A doctor had never talked to me like a real person before. Dr. Kemp asked about my school work. He asked me about running and the cross country team. He asked me about Coach Barger. He asked me about my family.

Dr. Kemp explained what was wrong with my back in terms I could understand. He explained the treatment in terms I could understand. The treatment required repeated visits, which suited me just fine. It was the first time I wasn't afraid to go to the doctor. I got out of school. And the doctor — an adult — treated me, a lowly teen-ager, like I was a real person. What a guy.

And yes, chiropractors really are doctors. My back pain went away, and my walk became more like mine, and less like Fred Sanford's.

Later, after I grew up, Dr. Kemp still treated me like a friend. He remembered me, and it made me feel good.

Roy Cartner made an impression on me, as well, an impression I'm sure he left on everybody who ever met him.

I don't remember knowing him while growing up, but I met him around town when I moved back home several years ago. The one thing that went with Roy Cartner everywhere he went was a smile and a kind word. He always asked me about my family. It wasn't one of those fake small talk greetings. He was genuinely concerned.

Here was Roy Cartner asking about me and my family's welfare, and I didn't even know who he was or where he knew me from. That's the small-townness I hope Mocksville never grows out of. People care about you even if you don't know them.

There's been a lot of talk about quality of life in Davie County in recent years. Forget the weather, the schools and government and roads and rivers.

It's folks like Roy Cartner that make living in Davie County so nice.

Ramey Kemp and Roy Cartner died last week. We should all try to make friends with teen-agers as Ramey Kemp did, and show genuine concern for all our neighbors as Roy Cartner did.

If we do that, our quality of life will be the best anywhere for a long time to come.

Clothes Washer As Exciting As Ferrari

Like every 16-years-old, I used to dream of my driver's license and a fast, red Ferrari.

Now that I'm 23, I've been dreaming of a new washer and dryer.

It doesn't mean that my aspirations have declined to midget proportions, just that after years of college and recent-graduate laundry status, I was sick of hanging out at laundry mats at all hours of the night. I made my first major appliance purchase last week. And boy was it sweet.

Like that Ferrari, my Kenmore has some pretty nifty features under the hood — like that dual action agitator, three water levels and a buzzer that wakes the cad when the clothes are dry.

Not washing clothes in college wasn't all that bad. You don't need clean clothes to go to class and sleep.

But when I started working it became a problem. During one of my first solo trips to a laundromat, some pervert found amusement in stealing my underclothes from the washer while I read a magazine.

Then I started doing laundry with my boyfriend at a laundromat near Wake Forest University. It was a rough pace, but it was cheap — $3.75 per washer, $2.25 per dryer. For those of you who haven't been to a laundromat this decade, washing clothes has become almost as expensive as a national health care plan. That place was great until the day I arrived with baskets in arm only to find the place encircled with yellow police tape, having burned to the ground. Apparently one of those cheap dryers started the blaze.

For the past year, I've been doing laundry at the clubhouse at my apartment complex. But man is it expensive.

Before I can do laundry I have to start with a pocket full of quarters closely likened to the stack at the Franklin mint. Quarters are available in few places on weekends, and I've had to devise several sneaky ways to get change for the machines.

I used to go to another laundromat and pretend I was doing my laundry there. The lady would exchange my dollars for quarters. I'd tell her the clothes were out in my car. Then I'd make a mad dash outside and speed away, certain that she was scribbling down my license plate number. It got so that I couldn't go back in there.

Then I started getting quarters from the car wash machine. For some reason the owner was always there watching me make change and wondering why I didn't wash my car.

All of that ended last weekend when the friendly Sear's man arrived with my 700 series Kenmore.

The car is still afraid of them, and he runs when the spin cycle begins.

But the luxury of doing laundry at my convenience has given me more time to dream of bigger and better things. Like a new vacuum cleaner.

Country Needs Fundamental Campaign Finance Reform

the editor:
Congress is serious about change — if it is serious about reforming a discredited electoral system — it must support a strong and effective plan to reform campaign financing. The campaign finance reform plan proposed by President Clinton fits the bill and should be passed in haste.

Our legislators cannot serve the public interest if they are beholden to special interests. If we are going to build a better health care system, reduce the deficit and protect our environment, the day-to-day influence of special interests on our legislators must be curbed. Congress must put the American people before big money contributors. Candidates are lured toward special interest contributions which have strings attached. The challengers are frequently prevented from running competitive races due to lack of sufficient funds. The American electoral process is not working as it should.

Partial public financing will return citizens and voters to the central role in elections by telling candidates they don't have to go to the highest bidder to compete. Public financing is the cleanest money in American politics. It is financing with "no strings attached."

To pay for partial public financing, we must limit the business tax deduction available to lobbyists.

Campaign finance reform must also crack down on PAC contributions. President Clinton's plan would limit PAC contributions to House candidates to 23 percent and Senate candidates to 20 percent of total spending.

Soft money contributions must be strictly regulated and the "soft money loophole" closed so that existing laws cannot be circumvented.

We need fundamental campaign finance reform to get this country's electoral process back on track.

Student Thinks Robert Landry Best High School Principal

the editor:
I just found something out and it upsets me a little. The best principal that Davie High has ever seen is being moved to South Davie, and Mr. Landry is replacing him.

If it wasn't for Mr. Landry, I would not be in school or graduating this coming school year. Mr. Landry has helped me and many other students in our school. He is definitely for the good in people.

He doesn't just think they are a bad student. He tries to find the good and bring it out.

For this, I owe him my future success and well-being. I can never do enough to repay him except to graduate and try to help to get him to stay at Davie High School. Mr. Landry doesn't see one side of a problem, he sees both sides, and then he makes his decision. He will listen to the students' opinions — not a bad attitude.

Mr. Landry is what a high school needs. I've never seen him in a bad mood. Most high school students need someone who they can talk to about their ideas, problems. In five years at the high school, he has done more for the students than the past five principals. Mr. Landry is familiar with the problems at the high school, and is trying to help solve them — the racial tension, the violence, weapons and thefts.

Mr. Potts is not aware of all the problems, therefore he cannot help solve them. I have one dream for graduation, that dream is when I receive my diploma, to shake hands, pat Mr. Landry and tell the audience I have this man to thank for all of this, without him being our principal this would not be.

One of the most major achievements at Davie

High while Mr. Landry was there is the school within school. They started out with 64 students and ended up with 57. That was to try to prevent high risk dropouts from dropping out. As students and Davie County citizens, not as different age groups, need to fight this decision. I think it is time we did something at the school board meeting June 30. If we don't succeed, we can say we gave it one hell of a shot.

Mr. Landry, I owe next year's opportunity to you. Mr. Landry, I would like to thank you for all you have done for me and all students you have helped. For I know it is much appreciated. There is no one thing I can do, or say, enough to thank you.

Stain storekeeper Arthur Drake wanted to get into Guinness Book of World Records with postcard collection.

2 Arrested In Forsyth Murders anonymous tip from someone in Davie County leading deputies to Workman and Shoffner.

"After that, things just came together," he said.

Tuttle said authorities believe Shoffner and Workman were trying to rob the store but were scared off before they could open the cash register.

A search warrant filed by detectives wanting to search Workman's car reveal how Shoffner told details the events.

According to the warrant, Shoffner was attempting to buy a pack of cigarettes when Workman cut Mr. Drake's throat with a fish filet knife they had bought earlier that day.

Shoffner said that Workman stabbed Mrs. Drake in the back and cut her throat.

After Workman was unable to open the cash register the two left the store.

Workman threw the knife on the floor behind the driver's seat, the warrant said.

Sheriff's deputies found what is believed to be the murder weapon by the road on Sides Street near U.S. 158 on Tuesday afternoon.

Authorities searched Workman's car and found blood in the car along with several pairs of blue jeans that appeared to have blood on them.

The two men are being held in Forsyth County Jail without privilege of bond. They were scheduled to make their first appearance in court Wednesday, June 16.

An man who identified himself only as a fellow employee of Workman's at White Oak Transport in Winston-Salem said employees there were shocked to hear that Workman had been arrested for the murders, especially since they are also friends with his father, Russell Workman Sr., who works at the grading company. He said

Workman's father had been given the week off from work to deal with the crisis in his family.

"The whole family is pretty well shook up emotionally," the White Oak employee said. Workman, his new wife, parents and grandparents all live in Advance and moved to the area from West Virginia several years ago. He said Workman had gotten married just in the past month.

The man said most of Workman's co-workers don't believe that a humble and respectful person like Workman could have committed the murders.

"We can only believe what we feel. It's not the person we knew. He's very polite. He never addressed me unless it was 'Sir' or 'ma'am,'" he said.

The employee said Workman's job at White Oak would be there for him when he was available for work.

David Orren, who lives two trailers up from Shoffner, said he had worked for a landscape contractor, but he was unsure if Shoffner was working recently.

Orren had gone fishing with him several times, said he thought Shoffner was trying to get his life in order after past inebriated foraging checks.

"I thought he had gotten his life straightened out. I thought he was doing good," Orren said. "He's usually a pretty level-headed guy. I don't know what happened Saturday night."

Orren said he was also friends with Shoffner's wife, Kathy, who has two children and is pregnant.

Although Workman does not have a previous criminal record, Shoffner is well known among sheriff's deputies for his numerous arrests for obtaining goods with forged checks, said Davie County Chief Detective Bob Lemmons.

"All the deputies knew him well," Lemmons said. "He was in court over and over."

Teen Jumped, Beaten While Using Telephone

A Mocksville teenager was severely beaten as he used a pay telephone at North Main Street and Campbell Road on Tuesday, June 8, at 1:50 a.m.

Nathan Todd Beckerman, 16, suffered a broken nose and severe bruises after he was jumped by a cabal of young men. Mocksville Police have no motive for the beating, said Mocksville Police Detective Wayne Stoneman. Beckerman was not robbed.

Charged with assault with a deadly weapon inflicting serious injury were: Jamelle Leevander Myers, 20, of 132 Geter Road, Woodleaf; Rufus Dewayne Hunter, 17, of Route 8, Mocksville; and Michael Lee Clize, 18, of Route 1, Mocksville.

Each was placed in the Davie County Jail in lieu of a $6,000 bond, pending July 8 preliminary hearings in Davie District Court.

Timothy A. Cook, 16, of Route 1 Woodleaf, was charged with aiding an abetting an assault with a deadly weapon inflicting serious injury. He was placed in jail in lieu of a $5,000 bond, also pending a July 8 appearance in Davie District Court.

Woman Charged In Stabbing

A Route 7, Mocksville woman has been arrested in a June 11 stabbing at The Oaks Apartments.

Ruhyia Peterson Foster, 26, was arrested the following day by Mocksville Police, charged with assault with a deadly weapon inflicting serious injury, second-degree trespassing as well as obstructing and delaying an officer.

Everett Joyner in the chest with chainsaw file at about 9:30 p.m. Friday. He was taken to Davie County Hospital, where he was treated and released.

She was arrested early Saturday morning, and fought the officers trying to arrest her. She also ran from officers.

She is scheduled to face the charge in a preliminary hearing July 22 in Davie District Court.

was owned by Commercial Equipment Co. Inc. of Charlotte.

According to Trooper L. D. Chappell, Derrill was traveling west on U.S. 64 at 1:32 p.m. near the eastern end of John Crofts Road when his 1987 Ford crossed the center line and collided with Gainus's meat truck.

Gainus continued out of control, crossed the center line and collided with Welch's tractor-trailer, the report said. Gainus's truck broke in half and the cab portion caught fire.

The burning truck struck a 1993 Chevrolet truck driven by Carl Henry Hunt Jr., 35, of Angell Road, Mocksville. Hunt was not injured.

A 1988 Jeep driven by Harry Lee Lemon Jr., 56, of Lexington was damaged by flying debris but Lemon was not injured.

Herman Loman was one of the first motorists to drive up on the scene. He said he saw the burning truck from a mile down the road and thought the black smoke was from a house fire.

As he approached closer he said several explosions came from Gainus's burning truck.

As firefighters from truck and Mocksville put out the fire in the cab of the burning meat truck, one fireman checked two small children for cuts. They were passengers in Derrill's car.

Authorities closed U.S. 64 from 1:30-9 p.m. while traffic was directed onto John Crofts Road.

Rescue workers removed body of Needham Daniel Gainus from charred truck.

 - According to a report by Trooper L.D. Chappell, Douglas Eugene Burdfield, 51, was driving a 1982 International tractor-trailer east on U.S. 64 when he saw traffic had stopped. The truck skidded across the center line and collided with a 1990 Chevrolet driven by Willard Talmage Bowman, 57, of Hickory.
 - Burdfield was charged with driving left of center.
- Car Skids Off I-40
 - A car driven by a Winston-Salem woman skidded off I-40 after she lost control of the car at 7:35 a.m. on June 13.

According to a report by Trooper L.D. Chappell, Julie Carol Shouse, 23, of Winston-Salem was driving her 1986 Honda west on I-40 on the west road when she lost control of her car and it skidded off the right edge and struck an embankment.

Driver Charged

A Cleveland, N.C. man was charged with making an unsafe traffic movement after he collided with another car on June 11 at 2:40 p.m.

According to a report by Trooper L.A. Amos, Patrick Herschel Majors, 70, of Cleveland was driving his 1992 Ford station wagon west on U.S. 158 and attempted to make a left turn into Big Oak Ranch when he struck a 1988 Chrysler driven by Shirley Ann Galtier, 44, of Route 7.

Majors was charged with making an unsafe traffic movement.

Vehicles Collide On Interstate

Two cars collided on I-40 June 10 at 11:20 a.m., when a tractor-trailer made contact with a car.

According to a report by Trooper L.D. Chappell, a 1990 International tractor-trailer driven by James Arthur Tharrington, 39, of Spring Hope was driving east on I-40 in the passing lane when it made contact with a 1986 Plymouth driven by Roy Leak Sears, 64, of Kernersville and caused the car to skid off the right edge of the road.

Tharrington was charged with making an unsafe traffic movement.

Car Hydroplanes

The car driven by a Cary teenager hydroplaned and overturned on I-40 on June 10 at 8:00 p.m.

According to a report by Trooper J.R. Alford, Edward Massey, 19, of Cary was driving his 1991 Honda west on I-40 when the car hydroplaned and ran off the right side of the road. The car struck a grove of trees and overturned.

Wire Causes Accident

A Clemmons driver ran off the road on N.C. 801 as she tried to avoid a roll of wire in the road on June 7 at 2:15 p.m.

According to a report by Trooper David R. McCoy, Debra Hauser, 31, of Clemmons was driving her 1987 Ford south on N.C. 801 when she came upon a roll of wire in the road. She was unable to avoid the wire and ran off the road.

Truck Skids On Gravel

The driver of a pickup truck skidded out of control as he went from a paved road to a gravel road at 3:10 p.m. on June 7.

According to a report by Trooper L.D. Chappell, John Wess Galtier Jr., 17, of Harmony was driving his 1984 Chevrolet pickup truck on Galtier Road at excessive speed when he reached a gravel portion of the road and skidded out of control. He ran off the left side of the road and struck a tree.

Galtier was charged with exceeding a safe speed.

Two Charged In Accident

Two Mocksville residents were charged in an accident that occurred on Country Lane on June 7 at 1:10 p.m.

According to a report by Trooper L.D. Chappell, Dennis Wayne Bross, 21, of Route 9 was driving his 1970 Ford east on Country Lane when he saw a 1972 Pontiac driven by Virginia Melissa Smith, 48, of Route 8 travel from Campbell Road onto Country Lane. Bross skidded into the westbound lane and struck Smith. Bross's car then spun around and caught fire.

Bross was charged with driving left of center and Smith was charged with failure to yield.

Algae Growth Blamed For Water Odor Problem

County Pumping From River

By Laura Williams-Tracy
Davie County Enterprise-Record

Stinky, musty water in the northern part of the county apparently has been caused by algae growth at a water plant reservoir.

And after weeks of using bottled water for drinking, cooking and brushing teeth, many residents say their tap water is returning to normal.

Algae growth spurred on by warm weather at the Yalkin River water plant caused water at some 3,000 homes and businesses in Bermuda Run, Farmington and Redland communities to become stale. Water department officials say the water is safe to drink.

Bruce Pratt, director of the Davie County water system, said algae is growing in the reservoir because too little water is being pumped from a holding pond.

Water is pumped from the river to the reservoir to allow sediments to settle. It is then pumped to the plant and on to homes.

But with too little demand for the water, it has remained in the reservoir where the algae is growing.

Water plant workers have begun pumping water straight from the river to homes, he said, but it will take some time for the bad water to be flushed from water lines.

Meanwhile, it is still uncertain whether county water customers will have to pay for the water they could not use. County Manager Ken Windley said he would ask the board of commissioners to consider refunds or discounts for those affected.

Pratt said the Yalkin water plant, which opened late last summer, is the first in the county with a reservoir. This spring's early bout with algae has been a learning experience for water plant workers, who don't have to contend with algae problems at the Cokerlee plant.

Unless workers learn how to remove the algae before it becomes a problem, Pratt said the musty water problem could happen again next summer.

Water plant workers are treating the reservoir with copper sulfate to kill the algae.

Residents in Redland, Farmington and Bermuda Run said the water has been unfit to use since the beginning of June.

Clean clothes came from the washing machine smelling musty, said Janice Meisner of Bermuda Run, and taking a shower in the stinky water left an odor.

Even the ice cubes had to be thrown out, she said.

Sarah Spough of Farmington began using water from her well after county water was unfit to use.

She said she hooked up county water several years ago because her well would not produce enough water. But since the county water had gone bad she has been using her well

2 Resign From Davie County Planning Board

By Laura Williams-Tracy
Davie County Enterprise-Record

The chairman of the Davie County planning board has resigned from his position just weeks after another board member left.

Ray Earmhardt announced his resignation to Planning and Zoning Director Ivoe Boyce in a May letter. Wayne Webb also resigned from the board in May.

Earmhardt said his decision to leave the board was for personal reasons. He would not link his resignation to recent actions by the board of commissioners to pay a recommendation by the planning board and approve an office complex in Hillsdale.

"I just felt like it was time for me to let someone else do it. I'm a low-profile kind of guy. Everything is better left unsaid."

Earmhardt said he had favored controlled growth in Davie County and had enjoyed being a member of a growth management task force, which among other things set rules on minimum lot sizes. Those rules have come under attack in recent months by some people who would like the county to allow smaller lots.

"The planning board has lots of responsibility but no authority," Earmhardt said.

The board of county commissioners appointed two new members to the planning board at its last meeting. The new members are Allen V. Snipes of Cokerlee and Garry D. Livengood of Advance.

They have been appointed to three year terms.

Boyce said he did not think there was a "big movement" among planning board members to leave the board. He said members periodically become tired of serving and decide to leave.

He said both Webb and Earmhardt had done a good job as planning board members, and he was looking forward to working with the new members.

Woman Gets Four Years From Judge

A Rock Hill, S.C. woman was sentenced to four years in prison in Davie District Court last week after pleading guilty to four counts of misdemeanor possession of stolen goods, carrying a concealed weapon and simple possession of marijuana.

Pamela Jean Nelson, 31, had been charged with two felony counts of possession of stolen goods, but those were reduced to misdemeanors.

A hearing on a fugitive warrant was continued. She is apparently wanted in South Carolina in connection with a grand larceny charge.

Nelson's attorney, Rob Raisbeck, said his client had a drug problem, which had gotten her into this trouble. He said many of the items taken were from family members.

Nelson was arrested last April after she had pumped gasoline into her vehicle and then left without paying. She had left a credit card at the station, which turned out to have been stolen. She was later spotted near the same station and arrested.

Raisbeck attempted to have her bond reduced on the fugitive warrant, but Judge George T. Fuller left the bond at $15,000 secured. She has been in jail two months awaiting trial, and her attorney said the time in jail has been a learning experience.

Felony Charges Are Reduced

Felony charges against three men accused of conspiring to commit a break-in and then going through with it, were reduced to misdemeanors in Davie District Court last week.

Darren Wayne Johnson, Dwayne Allen King and Charles Raymond Perdue had originally been charged with conspiracy and felonious breaking and entering, but the assistant district attorney reduced the charges to misdemeanors based on their guilty pleas.

Johnson, 18, of Route 1, Harmony, was the only one of the three with a criminal record and was currently on probation for misdemeanor larceny. Judge George T. Fuller sentenced Johnson to 24 months as a committed youthful offender.

King, 29, and Perdue, 18, also were given 24 months, but those sentences were suspended for five years and they were ordered to pay $300 fines and court costs. They both appealed.

According to testimony in court, Johnson's mother had seen three males attempting to break into a trailer early in the morning of April 20, and called police. The suspects fled and had to be chased with the help of federal officers and search dogs.

The break-in was allegedly discussed and planned several weeks prior to actually taking place, thus the conspiracy charge.

Two other suspects involved had their cases continued.

'Bubba'

Coleman Will Go Down As One Of Davie County's Greatest Athletes

By Ronnie Gallagher
Davie County Enterprise-Record

When Bubba Coleman's name was called at the Davie County High School Athletic Banquet, no one needed to say a word.

The standing ovation said it all.

Coleman had just been named the school's Most Outstanding Athlete for 1992-93. It was the perfect ending for an athlete who will long be remembered as one of the school's most successful ballplayers of all time.

His name will be forever linked with the great ones: Dwayne Grant, Jill Amos, Jingles James, Angie Browder, the Jacobs brothers, Mole Spry....

In fact, Coleman just finished arguably the single most successful year in school history. He was all-conference in the three major sports as a senior and played the premier position in each: quarterback, point guard and shortstop.

Former coaches Bill Peeler and Jack Ward sat at the banquet wracking their brains but they could not remember a player who had accomplished that feat.

The award humbled the usually-feisty Coleman.

"I didn't think I could have a year like this," he said. "I've been fortunate."

MVP Of CPC?

Coleman wasn't just the Most Outstanding Athlete at Davie during 1992-93. Ask any coach who had to battle his toughness, his sheer will to win and his durability and they'll all agree.

Jessie Eugene Coleman was also the Most Outstanding Athlete in the Central Piedmont Conference.

Everywhere he played, coaches raved afterwards.

"Bubba's a great player," said West Forsyth football coach Russell Stone.

Coleman Is Named First Team All-State

Even after his career ended, Bubba Coleman continued to be honored.

Coleman was the only Central Piedmont Conference baseball player to be named to the Greensboro News & Record's all-state first team, which was announced Monday.

Two teammates were honored as well. Brock Keene and Brad Mecham were named to the honorable mention list.

"He's a winner."

"He's a gamer," said Grimsley football coach Jeff Smouse. "He's not the best passer and not the best runner. But I'll tell you what, he's a competitor and he gets the job done. He's a good athlete."

"Bubba can play basketball above the Division III level," said West basketball coach Denny Key. "I wish I had him."

"He's one of the best players in the league," said Mount Tabor basketball coach Dick Jamback.

The plaudits went on and on. But what Coleman remembers most is the person he didn't know, the mother from Reynolds, who approached him after Davie's 64-59 upset win over Reynolds.

"I love to watch you play," she told him. "It's fun to watch you on the court."

"That gave me chill bumps," Coleman said. "That was the nicest compliment I got."

Earning The Compliments

The compliments came because Coleman was an all-conference quarterback in football, all-conference point guard in basketball and all-conference shortstop in baseball.

Best Thing About Bubba: He Was Always A Kid First

If there was ever a high school kid who had the right to think of himself as a prima donna, it was Bubba Coleman.

As all-conference quarterback of the football team, all-conference point guard of the basketball team and all-conference shortstop of the baseball team, he could've been the perfect example of the cocky, bighead who thought he was better than everyone.

This newspaper could have taken the blame. Since the first day of football practice on August 1, Coleman has had his photo featured in the sports section 35 — count 'em, 35 — times.

Some people would tell me I put him in the paper too often. Others would even have the gall to tell him the same thing.

One woman even called to say we were putting too much pressure on Coleman. He wouldn't be able to handle it.

And with that, here's a lesson on sports photography.

A photographer usually follows the action, which means he follows the ball. And considering Coleman was the quarterback, he always took the snap. As point guard, he always brought the ball upcourt. And considering he was the best hitter on the baseball team and fielded more grounders than anyone, the camera followed him there, too.

When I told Coleman about the remarks on his photo being in the newspaper so much, he did exactly what I expected. He laughed heartily.

You see, Coleman never felt pressure when it came to his high school career. He never tried to act like he was 30 years old. Coleman was a 17-year old kid — and he did his best to be one.

"I'm loving it," he says of his teenage years. "You can have fun with no responsibilities."

Coleman is right. Kids should enjoy their youth and act goofy whenever they want. There's plenty of time to grow up.

Perhaps that's the part of Coleman I always enjoyed the most. If there was a ball around, it was difficult to get him away from it.

'The Davie Oscars'

Here Are The 'Fun' Awards That The Davie County Athletic Banquets Forgot

By Ronnie Gallagher
Davie County Enterprise-Record

Oh sure, three Davie County schools had their athletic banquets, and sure, they gave away a multitude of awards.

But in the words of Bachman Turner Overdrive, you ain't seen nothin' yet.

During the past school year, there were 316 photos in this newspaper of athletes and coaches from Davie High, as well as North and South Davie junior highs. There were probably that many stories. So, after looking back over the 44 sports sections since fall practice began in August, it is time.

Ladies and gentlemen, the crack staff here at the Enterprise-Record is proud to present the annual Davie Oscars, the 1992-93 awards that the athletic banquets forgot:

High School Male Athlete of the Year: Bubba Coleman. (See stories).

High School Female Athlete of the Year: Maria Newsome. The 6-2 sophomore was all-conference in basketball and track and volleyball coach Sherrie Myers fumed when she wasn't named in that. Look for her to win all-CPC honors in all three next year. She also made the state track meet in two events and will play in the AAU national basketball tournament.

Junior High Athlete of the Year: David Daye of North Davie. Like Coleman, he was the heart and soul of every team he was on.

Coach of the Year: Davie's David Hunt and not just because his baseball team made the state's Final Four with a school record 23 wins. In his first year as the football team's offensive coordinator, he was instrumental in Davie finishing with its best record since 1987 and by the end of the year, the offense was clicking as well as any in the Central Piedmont Conference.

Had 279 yards on nine carries, an average of 31 yards. He ran the opening kickoff back 80 yards. He was 2-for-2 passing, including a 47-yard score. And one 45-yard run was called back.

Best Single-Game Performance: To North Davie's Daye, who was responsible for 411 yards of total offense in a 35-16 win over Trinity. He Best Newcomer: To freshman Tami Ramsey, who was Davie's number three in tennis, started for the softball team and started for a 19-1 jayvee girls team.

Other awards: The Watch That First Step Award: To Michael Williard, who told soccer coach Pete Gustafson he couldn't play because he was injured — while sleepwalking.

Best Single-Game Performance: To North Davie's Daye, who was responsible for 411 yards of total offense in a 35-16 win over Trinity. He had 279 yards on nine carries, an average of 31 yards. He ran the opening kickoff back 80 yards. He was 2-for-2 passing, including a 47-yard score. And one 45-yard run was called back.

Comeback Player of the Award: To Gerald Roberts, who was seldom heard of as a junior, but was a key starter in football and basketball during his senior year.

Comeback Team of the Year: (Tie): The 7-8 grade North Davie football team, who had its first winning season since 1979 and the 7-8 grade South Davie basketball team, which went from 1-11 in 1992 to 9-3 in 1993.

Most Exciting Game: North Davie's 30-28 football win over Lexington.

Honorable Mention: Davie boys over Reynolds.

Helton: Voice Is Family Tradition

Moments following Davie's loss to Alexander Central in the 4-A baseball semifinals, a woman approached War Eagle catcher Chad Helton and began praising him. Helton had once again thrilled another group of fans with his pregame rendition of the national anthem.

"It's a family thing," Helton said. "Both parents majored in music in college," said Helton. "It's in the genes."

In fact, Helton had one college offer to attend William Jewell College in Kansas City, Mo. But he admitted it was too far from home.

Helton said he sang at the recent Davie High graduation and some boys choirs. "I've sung all over the state," he said.

Singing the national anthem before games actually helps him prepare for the action.

"I do get nervous," he said. "I tell myself to just get through it. The game is more important. But once I'm through and people tell me I've done a good job, I know I didn't mess up. It gets me more pumped up for the game."

Helton said he will attend UNC-Chapel Hill in the fall and major in business ("and maybe a minor in music," he said).

"I'll look for some chairs at UNC," he said.

reference and they're in Region 5. We play our non-conference games against people who aren't in our region but we don't play anybody there.

Almost every playoff team except Davie was represented on the NCBCA 4-A all-state team.

In the playoffs, Davie met McDowell, A.C. Reynolds, East Forsyth and Alexander Central. All had at least one player. Even Brad Smith, sporting a less-than-impressive 4-4 pitching record, made it.

But there was no Bubba Coleman and his .415 average. There was no Brock Keene with his 12-1 record and 1.63 ERA. There was no Brad Mechem and his .338 average and 34 RBIs.

"The only time we see these teams are in the playoffs and the teams are already picked," Hunt said. "It's hard to get a coach to say a kid is great when he's never seen him — or heard of him."

In fact, two coaches who lost to Davie were named Region coaches of the year. David Hight of A.C. Reynolds represented Region 8 and East Forsyth's Steve Pegram was named in Region 5. Neither had records comparable to Hunt.

"So who won in Region 7? It wasn't Hunt with his 25-3 record. And it wasn't Alexander Central's Harold Odum, whose 21-6 record took him to the state finals. It was South Caldwell's Fred Lanford, South Caldwell, by the way, didn't even win its league."

Go figure.

Better Luck

Two Mocksville Legion players had much better luck from the coaches.

Furbush's Scott Matthews was named to the 2-A all-state team. He was the only player from the Northwest Conference to be named.

Corbin Russell, who played at Bishop McGuinness, was not only named to the private schools all-state team but was also the Player of the Year. He shared it with Dan Carlson of Charlotte Latin.

wasn't the only team finishing the last year of the Central Piedmont Conference with a bang.

Realignment will form a new CPC next year but Davie and Grimsley's girls soccer team have the league something to be proud of in its final spring.

While Davie was reaching the Final Four, Grimsley was winning the state 4-A championship, beating Raleigh Sanderson, 4-1, Tennis Titles.

Three teams won state championships in tennis recently:

4-A: Chapel Hill beat Burlington Williams, 3-3.

3-A: Salisbury defeated Lexington.

Bubba

...never had a winning season while he was there. Other teams knew they could stop Davie — but could they stop Bubba?

...The answer was usually no. He made every big play. He was the heart and soul of every team he was on. And other coaches took notice.

...Especially the ones from Grimsley. Coleman personally haunted the Whirlfies.

...In football, he threw one long touchdown pass and sealed the Davie victory with a long scarring run.

...In basketball, Grimsley whipped Davie three times in decisive fashion. But even in a 107-69 loss, Coleman never quit, finishing with 19 points and 10 assists.

...In baseball, Coleman had three homers on the season, one in each of the three games against Grimsley.

...“I think that school is sold on him,” said baseball coach David Hunt.

...He was so easily liked that coaches thought of him as one of their own. When Jamback heard that Coleman's mother, Jan, was in line for a hip replacement, he visited her in the hospital. He had just endured the same thing.

...Reynolds coach Howard West made sure Coleman was invited to a summer basketball camp. Key called college coaches for Coleman.

...“I respect Coach West a lot,” he said. “And Jamback's a great guy too. I'm glad he took the time to talk to my mom. All of the coaches are great. They're always wishing me luck.”

...All-Conference 5 Straight

...When Coleman was recently named all-conference in baseball, it was the fifth straight sport that he had been rewarded with that distinction.

...“I didn't think I'd get anything in football,” he said.

...“When Coach (Randall) Ward congratulated me, that was the biggest shock. I was overwhelmed.”

...His mother is the reason he played.

...“It was the tenth grade and I didn't want to play,” he said. “She told me it wouldn't be right if I didn't. She said I'd dread not playing. She was right. After a couple of weeks, I was glad she said that.”

...Coleman plays for his mother, who was injured in a motorcycle accident a few years ago when she was hit head-on by a truck.

...“Since then, she always sits at home watching TV, not able to do much,” he said. “It's an inspiration to her to be able to come and watch me play — and also Jami (his cheerleading sister). That's what she looks forward to.”

...Coleman knows exactly where his athletic ability comes from — his mother's side of the family.

...“My mom played high school and college basketball,” he said proudly. “My great-uncle was Baxter Jordan who played major league baseball. My grand-mother's husband, Jake Jordan, played all three sports also.”

...Coleman's father doesn't live with the family but he has had plenty of guidance thanks to next door neighbor Grimes Parker, a South Davie Junior High coach and an accomplished athlete during his days at Davie High. He watched Coleman begin playing sports in t-ball at age five, go to the Woodleaf Basketball League and then join the Davie rec leagues in the fourth grade.

...“I would say I'm real, real close to him,” said Parker. “When he was little, I'd go out in the yard and throw ball with him. I could tell he was going to be a good athlete. He worked at it.”

...Parker helped off the playing fields too.

...“There wasn't a man around, just his mom and grandmother. Sometimes, he'd get down on himself and I'd say, ‘Okay, Bubba, come on over to the house and we'll talk.’ It would be just us two. I'd tell him about the facts of life.”

...Parker would have to put his foot down and discipline Coleman like a father on occasion too, when he found him trampling through his garden, or shooting a bb-gun that shattered the glass in his grandmother's car window.

...Parker still laughs.

...“He was always a super kid. And I'll tell you something. The kids around here look up to Bubba. He's a hero to a lot of the junior high kids.”

...“And when I look back at everybody who has played at Davie, I'd say Bubba is right at the top of the list.”

...Hunt agreed with Parker.

...“After we lost to Alexander Central (in the 4-A semifinals), I looked over and saw him signing an autograph for a little kid.” Hunt said. “Bubba has that charisma, like Mugsy Bogues. He's of small stature and is smiling and outgoing. Kids look to that.”

...“The way Bubba plays draws attention to himself.” Hunt added.

A Special Name

...His athletic feats weren't the only thing that made Coleman stand out.

...It was his name.

...Just say Bubba and everyone in the Central Piedmont Conference knew.

...Nobody has ever called him Jessie Eugene.

...“When I was little, Jami was always trying to say brother,” he explained. “It wasn't coming out clearly. She mumbled something and it came out Bubba. That's what it's been ever since.”

...Hunt laughed. “I've had people offering me money to tell them what his real name is,” he said. “I wouldn't, of course. But I tell him, he's too little to be a ‘Bubba.’”

...He is not only one of Davie's best athletes ever, he is also one of the most popular. Never did fans berate him. They cheered him.

...In fact, he's probably the only player in Mocksville Legion baseball history to be cheered by Rowan County fans.

...Parker would have to put his foot down and discipline Coleman like a father on occasion too, when he found him trampling through his garden, or shooting a bb-gun that shattered the glass in his grandmother's car window.

...Before football season, we sold a group of players to meet us in Coolcoonee for a photo to be taken at the Bullhole. Five players from all over the county showed up on time. The only one missing was Coleman — and we met right across the street from his home!

...His mother hopped in the car and went searching. “I'm gonna kill him,” she said.

...He finally showed. He had been at the Brock Gym playing basketball.

...When James Barringer finally set up the photo, the players cooperated fully. But as soon as Barringer said, “Okay, that's it,” the kid came out in ‘Bubba.’

...“C'mon, ya'll,” he yelled, and began leading the players around the Bullhole's rocks.

...This was his territory. He had practically grown up walking over those rocks and sizing up the swirling current. Bubba was having a great time.

...What the heck, I thought. I jumped in with them. I also busted my butt on those cold, hard, slippery rocks.

...It was all we could do to get him and his pals out of the water. After all, they had a scrimmage with North Rowan in about 30 minutes.

...Shoot, it was all I could do to pull myself out. You see, I'm not a kid anymore — at least age-wise. Bruises stay with me longer.

...Coleman pulls no punches about being a kid. “This is what he is, take it or leave it. He always seems to have a mischievous grin on his face and always wants to be doing something — as long as it's running, jumping or throwing.

...“I'm not a troublemaker,” he said with a grin. “I don't go looking for trouble. I just like to have fun and play sports.”

...Again, he proves there's a difference between being a troublemaker and being a teenager.

...A troublemaker doesn't make As and Bs and have a good SAT score like Coleman.

...There was one story circulating that had Mocksville Legion coach Dale James shaking his head.

...After one playoff game last summer, several of the players spent the night with Coleman, who took them to — where else? — the Bullhole. They climbed on a train trestle and jumped off into the Yadkin River.

...Sure, Coleman had led them down there, but he wasn't being a troublemaker. He was being a kid. And actually, he felt it was a way of promoting team unity.

...He had done nothing wrong — basically because they all lived.

...“You cherish having fun as a kid,” Coleman said.

...So how would Coleman and his Coolcoonee buddies spend, say, a lazy Sunday afternoon when there's nothing to do?

...Coleman says they'd go to Wal-Mart, buy a slip-n-slide and make up their own sports.

...It's fun and if it's sports, Coleman will be a part of it.

...His penchant for being a kid has hurt him only once. After a basketball practice at Davie last winter, he played in a rec game at the YM-CA and severely sprained his ankle, forcing him to miss several games.

...“I was just playing,” he said with a shrug. “I love to play.”

...Like any kid, Coleman also dreams.

...“I dream of being 6-2, 190 pounds and getting a full ride to Carolina,” the 5-8, 150-pound Coleman says. “Just to play basketball there would be the best thing that could ever happen.”

...Coleman may yet end up at North Carolina. Assistant coach Randy Weil (now at UNC-Asheville) called, saying he had seen film, liked what he saw and wanted Coleman to try out for the jayvee team.

...“If I go there, I'll see what happens,” he said. “I could play intramurals. I'll play something. I'm always going to be a part of sports.”

...Was Coleman cwyky?

...“He had an air about him,” said baseball coach David Hunt. “He didn't strut but he had that flash.”

...And he had fun.

...When he scored on a long touchdown run against Grimsley, he didn't just run into the end-zone. He performed a perfect hawk slide that reminded Hunt baseball against Reynolds in the CPC basketball tournament that his team had a chance to win, he walked toward his crowd, lifting up his arms, urging them to cheer louder.

...It's hard to imagine it all being over.

...Coleman finished his athletic career at Davie in the semifinals of the 4-A baseball playoffs, a 7-3 loss to Alexander Central.

...Immediately following the game, he appeared stunned.

...“It's over,” he said. “I'm speechless. I don't know what to say.”

...It was a sad time for the 'ol sports editor too. He could see Bubba already growing up.

...No more slip-n-slides. No more jumping off train trestles.

...“This year has gone by so fast,” he said. “I guess it will hit me when I'm in college. It's going to be a major change when I realize it's not going to be like this anymore.”

...As hard as it is to fathom now, one day, Bubba Coleman will be a full-fledged adult. The touchdowns runs, the assists, the doubles against the outfield wall — they'll only be memories, albeit wonderful ones. He can sit with friends and reminisce about being a kid — just for old time's sake.

...“When I get older, I'll have kids and, well, you just can't go jump in the Bullhole and run around the rocks,” he said. “That's just not the way it is for older people.”

...And right on cue, that mischievous grin returned.

...If I know Bubba Coleman, the “kid” is going to stay with him forever. It could be 10 years down the road but if the Bullhole calls, he'll be out there again, splashing around on those cold, hard, slippery rocks.

...And you know what? I may just join him and bust my butt again — for old time's sake, you understand.

Meet The War Eagles

The Favorites: Rock 92, Steak, Miller's

A yearly feature is "Meet The War Eagles." Each week, a senior athlete told her favorite this and that. It gave us a gauge on what Davie County athletes really enjoyed.

Surveyed were 38 athletes, including nine football players, seven basketball players and five baseball players. Also, four in soccer, three in volleyball and wrestling, two in tennis and swimming and one each in track, softball and golf.

Here's a sampling of what they liked:

Favorite Davie County Restaurant: Thirteen different restaurants were named but Miller's was the runaway winner with 15 votes. Skats was a distant second with six.

Favorite Foods: Fifty-nine different foods were listed with steak edging out pizza 14 votes to 12. Also getting at least five votes were french fries, hamburgers and cheeseburgers.

Burg! But chicken was the most popular food. Listed were chicken, chicken wings, chicken and dumplings, chicken salad, chicken pie and scallion chicken.

Favorite Drinks: Twenty-nine different drinks were listed, led by Mountain Dew's 13 votes. Iced tea had nine and Pepsi had six.

Favorite TV Shows: Fifty-three different shows were listed, led by Home Improvement, with 11. Beverly Hills 90210 was the only other show with at least five votes. SportCenter and Fresh Prince of Bel-Air each had four.

Favorite Movies: Fifty-three movies were listed and only one had at least five votes: Hot Shots, Naked Gun, Top Gun, Aladdin and Wayne's World all had four.

Favorite Radio Stations: The clear winner was Rock 92 with 24 votes. 102.1AMZ had 15 and WTRR had 13 country listeners. Fourteen different stations were listed, including Mecklenburg's own WDSL, which got one vote.

Favorite Groups Or Singers: Sixty-two different singers or groups were listed with a 1970s group winning out: Led Zeppelin with seven votes. Eric Clapton and Boyz II Men each had six votes.

Favorite Athletes: A whopping 78 different athletes were named, none more than (who else?) Michael Jordan with seven. Larry Bird had six. No Atlanta Brave had more than one but seven different Braves — and one former Brave, Dale Murphy — were named.

Favorite Sports Teams: If they voted for Jordan, they're going to vote for his team. The Chicago Bulls tied for favorite team, with 10 votes — tying North Carolina. Duke was next with seven votes. The Braves had six and the San Francisco 49ers had five.

Why I Play Sports In Davie County: The most popular answer — sadly enough — was the same as last year: "It's where I live." Another said, "It's the only school in the county." Another answer: "My mama makes me!" One said he played so he could fill out a "Meet The War Eagles" sheet. And yet another said, "I need the exercise."

Only one athlete, Stephanie Fahstock, put the correct answer: "It's a great way to show dedication to the school."

Way to go, Stephanie!

Hobbies (Other Than Sports): Thirty-nine different responses came with this one, led by fishing with six votes. Swimming was next with four and chasing girls had three, along with shopping, watching television and hunting.

And then, there was Dana Potts, who wrote, "I don't have time for hobbies."

Hunt Has Enjoyed Success Along With Davie's Players

By Ronnie Gallagher
Davie County Enterprise-Record

Looking back on Davie County's most successful baseball season in history and coach David Hunt can point to a loss that got it all started.

An embarrassing 11-1 loss to Mount Tabor. That game early in the season gave the War Eagles two quick losses in the Central Piedmont Conference.

"We were in a hole," Hunt said. "As a coach, you look at how we lost. And I thought we were going through the motions instead of getting after it. I told them they're only competition was themselves. If you play as well as you can and lose, I'm not upset."

The team then went out and scored 22 runs in a rout of West Forsyth and never looked back. The team lost only one more game in the conference, put together a 14-game winning streak and came within one game of making the state championship series. Hunt really enjoyed himself. Davie finished 23-5, losing in the semifinals to Alexander Central, 7-3. He was more proud of team's character than he was the 23 wins.

"When I first started out, a W was the best thing that could happen and an L was the worst," he said. "When I was 21 or 22, the team could make 27 errors but if we won, that was all that mattered. It's not that way anymore."

Coming A Long Way
Hunt has come a long way from his early years at 1-A Princeton High School, located in Johnson County near Raleigh. He made the playoffs a couple of times but it was nothing like the streak he is on currently. Davie has won the CPC six of the last seven years. "I remember playing Cardinal-Gibbons one year and making six dollars from the game after paying the umpires," he said. "I told the principal I was tempted to take the team out and buy them a coke."

In those days, Hunt coached everything. Princeton, which is still 1-A ("and just barely," he says), had only 220 students.

"I coached junior high in the afternoon and varsity at night," he said. "Girls basketball was the dominant sport when I was there."

Princeton, by the way, lost just last week in the 1-A championship baseball series.

Coming To Davie
Joe Kennedy helped Hunt relocate in the late 70s to Davie. Hunt, who is originally from Denton, and his wife, who is from China Grove, said Mocksville was the biggest city they'd lived in.

His first two years, Hunt assisted Ken Beger on the baseball team. "In 1978-79, we finished second to Asheboro when they had Chub Little," Hunt said. He took over in 1980 but saw most of the team graduate. He was left with six freshmen in the lineup. "By the third or fourth year, the program really started getting settled. When we went to 4-A, it coincided with the expansion of the playoffs."

Country Schools
It also began a trend in baseball that rural schools would begin dominating. "There's more space at a place like Davie. Kids are playing in a large yard or on a pasture. In the city, you see kids at the YMCA or on the playgrounds shooting hoops."

Mocksville's biggest urban center I've ever lived in," he joked, "but baseball is important."

In 1987, the wheels began turning for Hunt and Davie. That sophomore class, led by Denny Key, joined players like Terry McClannan and Johnny Riddle. Davie won three straight CPC titles, had a losing season in 1990 and has won the last three. "We're seeing kids who are busting their tails to be successful," Hunt said. "My job is to make myself obsolete. Everything I enjoy about winning has to do with the kids."

Coleman Hits, Keene Pitches

A duo led the hitting and a duo led the pitching in Davie County's final statistics for 1993. Hitting-wise, Bubba Coleman and Brad Mechem combined to lead four of the six categories. They were 1-2 average, homers and RBIs.

Brock Keene and Marcus King threw the most, combining for 17 of the team's 23 wins.

Keene led in victories, ERA, innings pitched and strikeouts. He's only a junior. While the Davie hitters finished with a .286 average, the pitching had a sparkling 2.38 ERA. While the batters were walking 120 times, the pitchers were giving up only 66 bases on balls. This was the winningest season in Davie County baseball history.

White Sox Undefeated As Area Teams Gear Up For Postseason

Is Vic Patti building a dynasty in the major league (11-12 year olds) division of Davie American little league baseball?

Going into this week, it certainly seems that way. His White Sox are 13-0 with two games left. If he wins the league, it will be the second straight season he has won the division.

The White Sox paved its biggest test last week by beating the second place Indians, dropping Maxie Melton's team to 10-3. Another roadblock comes at the Davie South Complex behind North Davie Junior High on Farmington Road) Saturday night at 6 p.m. when they face the third place, 5-3 A's of Steve Ridenhour.

The Orioles and Angels are also in the American League. In the Davie National Major League, the Cardinals, coached by Dwight Sparks, defeated the Mudcats 8-2 Saturday and took a half-game lead. The Cards are 9-4, just ahead of Danny Correll's 8-4 club.

Correll's team had defeated the Cardinals two previous times. The Braves are 6-6 and the Cubs are 1-12.

The district schedule follows:
Major League

Dissect Pairings
The district little league playoffs in junior and senior boys, major league boys and girls softball have been posted by district president Marshall Hill of King.

Davie National and Davie American will have all-star teams participating.

Meet

Would: Among the decisions, Darren Cook would put a dome over the Masonic picnic. Chad Carter would buy an elephant. Jason Rice would buy the jacked-up Citation at Barnhardt's gas station. Darby Correll would move away from Davie County. Bryan Johnson would give it to President Clinton. Benny Frye would pay for all of his speeding tickets. Denise Boyd would buy the sports car to some maturity.

"And the best answer came from Karsten Stading, who said he'd simply "go wild."

Gustafson Taking Signups

Davie High School soccer coach Pete Gustafson will hold a soccer camp for youths in kindergarten through the ninth grade June 28-July 1 at Mocksville Middle School.

There is a $35 fee for the camp. Youths in kindergarten to third grade will participate from 8:30-10 a.m.

Grades 4-6 are scheduled for 10:30 a.m. until 12:30 p.m. Youths in grades 7-9 will perform from 1-3 p.m.

Brochures can be picked up at Courtside Sports, R&J Sports or the Mocksville/Davie Parks and Recreation Department. For more information, call Gustafson at 998-3562 or assistant coach Joe Ramsbotham at 634-7822.

Little League
The complex should have a busy night on July 5. Two baseball teams and a girls softball team are all scheduled to host games at 7 p.m.
Ridenhour, the American president, said Hall is trying to change the schedule. He told Davie officials he was worried someone may get hurt by foul balls with all three being played at the same time.

(13 year olds)
July 3.
* Davie National will host Alamance July 2 with the winner facing Davie American, which got a first round bye on July 3.
Senior Boys (14-15 year olds)
* The Davie National all-stars travel to High Point July 2. The winner will play at South Forsyth July 3.
* Davie American travels to Kernersville July 3.
Senior Girls (14-15 year olds)
* Davie American will play the winner of Southwest Forsyth and King July 3 away from home.
Major Girls (11-12 year olds)
* Davie American is set to host Kernersville July 5. If it is victorious, it will host Southwest in the next round.
Know of a great individual performance? Is a team tearing up its league? Any good stories? Call the Enterprise sports department at 634-2120.

Eight Hitting At Least .300

Eight Mocksville Legion players are hitting at least .300, led by Dennis Kuykendall's .667 and Corbin Russell's .480. The team batting average is only .269, however. Pitching-wise, Brack Beal is leading most of the statistics. He has struck out 20 batters in 20 innings and is unbeaten at 2-0. Brock Keene and R.J. Speaks are perfect with an 0.00 ERA. Twelve different pitchers have already seen action and the team ERA is a very good 3.27. The team also has three saves.

Diamonds No Match For Post 174 In Exhibitions

Mocksville Beats Ohio's All-Stars 2-0, 7-4

Mocksville proved Sunday that when it comes to baseball, "Diamonds aren't forever." An Ohio-based, traveling team visited North Carolina on a tour of the state, beginning in Mocksville. Post 174 sent the Diamonds on the road with two losses.

In the first game, a 2-0 victory, Mocksville got all the runs it needed in the first inning. Bubba Coleman doubled and scored on Campy Walker's RBI single.

In the sixth, Walker doubled and scored on brother Denver's single. Mocksville had eight hits, led by Campy Walker, Bryan Johnson and Denver Walker, all with two. John David Crider went five innings, giving up one hit and striking out three. R.J. Speaks saw his first action on the mound, pitching the final two.

In the second game, 7-4 win, Mocksville got off to a quick start, scoring two in the first. Andre McSwain had an RBI hit and David Vogler scored on an error.

It was 2-2 in the third when Johnson's RBI double put Mocksville ahead, 3-2. It then broke open the game with four runs in the fourth.

Coleman had an RBI double and then he scored on a two-base error. Russ Pardue had an RBI hit that was followed by Johnson's RBI single which scored Marcus King.

Coleman led the way with three of Mocksville's six hits. Johnson had two and McSwain one.

Darby Correll went 4 1/3 innings, giving up six hits and four runs. Dennis Kuykendall pitched 1 1/3 innings of relief and Jason Reuter finished up, getting the Diamonds out 1-2-3 in the seventh.

Notes:

- Mocksville improved to 8-5 overall and 6-4 in the Southern Division.
- Reuter's save was the team's third.
- Darke County will also play at Kernersville, Salisbury, Wilson and Wilmington.

Vogler Pitches, Hits Mocksville To 12-4 Victory

By Ronnie Gallagher
Davie County Enterprise-Record

There were two main reasons for Mocksville's 12-4 victory over first place Kannapolis Monday night. First, after state high school playoff games and beach trips, Post 174 finally has its team intact. Second, Kannapolis ace pitcher Andy Smith signed with the Oakland A's.

Coach Dale James was expecting to see Smith but instead watched his hitters bomb three other pitchers for 10 hits.

The win dropped Kannapolis into a tie in the loss column with Mocksville. Kannapolis is 8-4 while Mocksville is 7-4. Concord, an 8-1 winner over Wilkes County Monday night, remains in first at 9-3. Going into last night's game, eight of the 10

Southern Division teams were within three games of the top, James said it was the toughest he's seen the league in his five years here.

"I've never seen a league with eight teams this close," he said. "That's unheard of. It's great for the fans and great for the players. But it's horrible for the teams in the playoffs. You're not going to have a breather. Every round will be nip and tuck. That's going to wear out a pitching staff."

Vogler All The Way

There was nothing wrong with Mocksville's pitching Monday night. Forbush's David Vogler went the distance, giving up nine hits, four runs and striking out six.

He got plenty of help offensively. After R.J. Speaks drove home Coleman with a run in the third, Post 174 added four in the fourth. Vogler helped his own cause with an RBI single. Brad Boverender had a sacrifice fly. Brad Meacham scored on an error and Russ Pardue drove in a run.

A sacrifice fly by Campy Walker in the fifth put Mocksville up 6-1.

Kannapolis closed to 6-2 in the top of the sixth but Mocksville added four in the bottom of the inning, led by Marcus King's two-run single.

"Marcus has a good swing," said James. "It's compact. The more pitching and more at-bats he sees, the better he'll get as the summer progresses."

Meacham got an RBI when he walked with the bases loaded. Vogler got another RBI on a fielder's choice and Boverender scored on a wild pitch for an 11-4 lead.

One more run crossed in the eighth when Walker scored an unearned run.

Coleman scored three runs and Pardue had three hits.

But Vogler was the main man. He is one of several capable starters James can choose from. In fact, he was already comparing it to the state finalist team of 1989.

"In 1989, we had horses but not many of them," he explained. "This year, we've got a lot — not necessarily horses but good, solid depth and that's what it's going to take. We want live arms and we want them fresh."

Notes:

- Mocksville is 9-5 overall and 7-4 in the Southern Division.

- Mocksville walked 11 times Monday night.
- Vogler's complete game was the team's second of the year.

Giants Draft Post 174's Russell In 46th Round

Even a suspect knee didn't keep Mocksville's catcher Corbin Russell from being taken in the recent major league baseball draft.

The San Francisco Giants drafted Russell in the 46th round.

"It's a draft and follow," said Legion coach Dale James.

"They'd like for him to go to junior college for a year and then sign, especially now with the knee."

"Russell's knee injury has been one of speculation and confusion. After hurting it on a water ride at Emerald Point in Greensboro, it was thought he had torn cartilage and needed arthroscopic surgery. But Russell has not been operated on and says he feels fine."

"The Giants — and us — want a second opinion," said James. "He's had no trouble anywhere. He's played the last couple of days, just not at catcher. Doctors haven't played that yet."

Russell saw action Monday night, in fact, against Kannapolis. He had a hit and scored two runs.

"It may be a situation where where he can play on it all summer and have it operated on in the fall," said James. "If he has arthroscopic surgery, it may be 10 days. Or they may not find anything."

Russell has not signed with a college, although he has made a couple of visits.

"He's seeing what direction he wants to go and the knee has thrown him off a little on that," James said. "He's a kid the Giants can control of. They think he is going to have a great summer, which he was having before the knee injury. They think he needs one stiffer competition."

James, New Assistant With James' assistant coach Freddie Transou working, he had to get a replacement.

He thinks he has found a good one in former left-hander Mike Lovelace, a rising junior at UNC-Charlotte. Lovelace won the Jelding game in the Metro Conference tournament that propelled the 49ers into the NCAA Tournament.

"He's staying home this summer," James said. "He's throwing batting practice for us and working with the left-handed pitchers. It's good to have him around."

"Just having the knowledge of being in the program and knowing what we want is important. He's been to the big-time (in the 1989 state finals) but those guys felt just a little short. Maybe he can give this team the incentive by telling them what they have to do to get there."

Darby On Mound
When Darby Correll took the mound Sunday night against the Darke County Diamonds, it was a new experience. With Brock Keene and Marcus King dominating the rotation for Davie High, Correll had little chance to pitch.

"He hadn't pitched in over three weeks," said James. "We had to get him some time out there and Sunday was a good time to do that."

Correll went 4 1/2 innings, giving up four runs.

"He did a good job," James

Legion Notes

said. "He was a little rusty on his mechanics but he took it as a work night. He got the number of pitches in that we were looking for. Every inning, you could see improvement."

Pitching Depth

James was glad to see Correll's rapid improvement. Depth in the pitching staff is a key in the Southern Division, he said.

"Some teams have already used the same pitchers a lot to stay on top. I don't know how they'll be at playoff time (the first week of July). Either they'll have fresh arms later on or have only a few arms and try to get them in a pitching routine of a four or five man staff. I don't know if you can survive with a four or five man staff."

The Bottom

There are eight teams fighting for the top spot in the Southern Division but there are also two firmly at the bottom.

Chip Smith's Stanly County team is 1-7 and Statesville, coached by Don Strauss, is 1-10.

But don't take them lightly, says James.

"Stanly is as good as anyone. They made no errors against us but they've been making a lot against everybody else. That just shows we bring out the best in the teams."

"But Chip is young and they're going to get better with every game. And we don't play them again until later."

Strauss told James that his club could have easily been 6-1 at one point with a play here or there.

"There's no easy night in this league," James said.

Keene's Curves

Davie's rising senior Brock Keene impressed James in his first outing. He helped Mocksville to a win by pitching 6 1/2 innings of relief last week.

But James wasn't too fond of Keene's lollipop curve balls.

"In high school, you can get a lot of people out with it," he said. "But here, there are no weak hitters in the lineup. These guys are going to jump on that kind of stuff. Brock is working on a decent curveball. The lollipop is just a changeup and it's too high."

James is expecting Keene, one of several lefties on the team, to be a big help.

"He's going to be a good one for us. He has a good, loose arm. We'd like to get him into the starting rotation but he's an awful good relief man for us."

Bubba's Back

Think James is happy to have shortstop Bubba Coleman back from the state playoffs and beach?

The answer is a resounding yes. "He's a tremendous glove, the only legitimate glove we have," James said. "He's polished — he anchors it all."

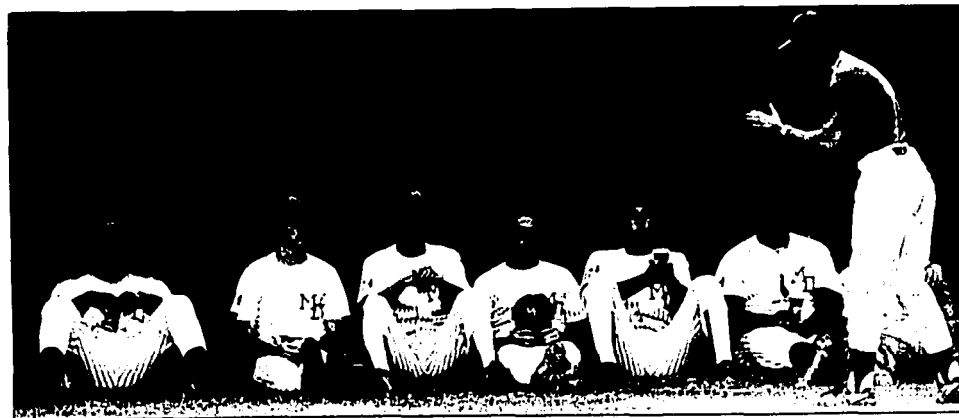

Campy Walker has moved to second with Bryan Johnson and R.J. Speaks working at third.

"We have Bubba, Campy, R.J. and B.J., and they're all interchangeable."

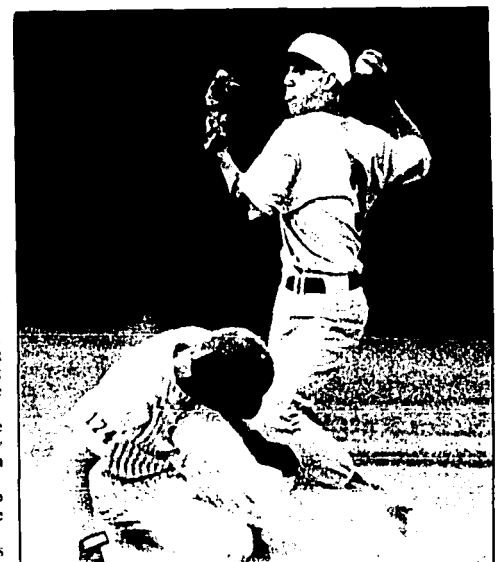

Denver Walker and Marcus King are first basemen.

"Denver's a lot better defensively than we thought," said James. "We knew he could hit. And Marcus is a good one."

"So our infield is set. The more they get used to each other, by July 4, we'll be pretty good defensively."

Mocksville Has Busy Schedule

As if it's any surprise, Mocksville's Legion has a heavy schedule this week.

Lexington comes in for a makeup game Thursday while Saturday's washout with Rowan County will be made up June 29.

Post 174 goes to Concord Wednesday and is home Thursday against Lexington. Friday against Stanly County and Saturday against Mooresville. On Sunday, it travels to Lexington and then Lexington comes back to Rich Park Monday.

Miss Dark & Lovely Pageant Saturday Night

Five young women from Davie and Forsyth counties will compete for the title of "Miss Dark & Lovely 1993" Saturday at 8 p.m. at the South Davie Junior High auditorium.

This is the 10th year for the pageant sponsored by the Le Jour des Femmes Club. Admission is $5 in advance, $6 at the door. The contestants will be judged on personal interview with judges, poise, talent, sportswear and eveningwear.

The purpose of the pageant is to offer young women an incentive to promote their talents and enhance their self-esteem. The winner will receive gifts, including a cash award or scholarship from the Duretha Latten Wilson Scholarship fund. Master of ceremonies will be Bill Tabor of Salisbury.

Sonya Denise Allen, 18, the daughter of Smity and Shirley Allen, is a 1993 graduate of Davie High School.

She attends Mt. Sinai A.M.E. Zion Church, where she is president of the Youth Christian Education -- Winston-Salem district and a member of the Mt. Zion Spiritual Choir.

She has earned a citizenship award and an award in track.

She plans to attend Forsyth Technical Community College to study nursing and Aurora's Beauty School in Winston-Salem part-time. She said she is a child of God, and tries to do His will all the time.

Her motto: "Always strive to do your best and put God in front." Allen says: "God will grant me the serenity to accept the things I cannot change, but he will give me courage to change the things I can, and God will give me all the wisdom to know the difference."

Willette Rufina Francella Kimbrough, 19, is the daughter of Reginald and Inita Gaiher of Mocksville, and William and Sandy Kimbrough of Statesville.

She is a 1992 graduate of Statesville Senior High School. In high school, she was a member of the F.H.A. School Beautification Club, Spanish Club and the band. She was also a sponsor for the 1992 homecoming court. She attends Livingstone College, Salisbury, studying elementary education.

She is a member of Mount Vernon Presbyterian Church, Woodlawn, and Shiloh A.M.E. Church, Statesville.

Kimbrough believes that with her parents' blessings, she will achieve. Her motto: "Love in front, Faith behind, God beside, nothing can come before me."

Shanette Natasha Nichols, 17, is the daughter of Clifford and Connie Nichols of Mocksville. A rising senior at Davie High School, she was nominated to travel abroad to Germany for 10 weeks as an exchange student to study graphic arts and business.

She is a member of New Bethel Baptist Church, Mocksville, where she participates on the choir and Usher Board.

After graduating, Nichols plans to attend Salisbury Business College and N.C. A&T University to study business and accounting. She enjoys playing basketball, dancing, going to the mall and being with friends and family.

Tina Deshawn Rivers, 16, the daughter of Patricia and Harold Rivers, is a rising junior at R.J. Reynolds High School, Winston-Salem. She is a member of Mt. Zion Holiness Church, Mocksville.

Rivers is a sports participant and fan. At Reynolds, she was a member of the JROTC and was awarded the Merit and the Military Order of World Wars awards.

Her hobbies are singing, reading - especially fiction, camping and sightseeing. She likes observing interesting building structures.

After graduating, she plans to attend the University of Florida to study architecture.

Krysta Yvonne Scott, 17, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde E. Scott, is a 1993 graduate of Davie High School, where she was a member of the Foreign Language Club, HOSA, African-American Society, DHS Marching and Concert Band, Student Council and its executive committee and DHS flag squad. She is a member of Davie Youth Council, the Youth NAACP and Youth Advisory committee.

Her honors and awards: "Who's Who Among American High School Students," Presidential Academic Fitness Award, DARE role model, Captain, DHS flag squad and president of the Youth Advisory Committee.

She is a member of Mainville A.M.E. Zion Church, Mocksville, where she sings in the adult choir and is president of the young adult missionary society.

Scott will enter the University of North Carolina at Greensboro to pursue a degree in speech pathology and audiology. After obtaining her teaching certificate and attending graduate school, she would like to live and work in Davie County.

Her motto: "If you remember to keep God in all you do, all of your dreams will come true."

Gray-Cornatzer Engagement Announced

Lisa Jane Gray and Robert Neal Cornatzer announce their engagement and approaching marriage.

An outdoor ceremony will be held Aug. 15 at 5 p.m. at Brookstown Inn, 200 Brookstown Ave., Winston-Salem. A reception will follow at Darryl's 1880 Restaurant.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Edward Gray and Fairy Gray. She is a 1991 graduate of Central Davidson High School and attended Davidson County Community College. She is employed by Darryl's.

Senior Trotters Talk About Flags, Fathers

The Senior Trotters met for their regular meeting June 10 at the Center Community Building with 21 members present.

Clarence Forrest led in singing "My Country, 'Tis of Thee" and also the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag. The theme of the program was Flag Day and Father's Day.

Lib Massey read a poem, "Your Flag and Mine."

Nannie Wilson read a story about her father and the many things he did on the farm as a "jack of all trades".

She told about the good times the family had, making ice cream in the "turn the crank freezer" and going on trips to the mountains and visiting relatives. Her story took many back to the same things they did growing up.

Even though fathers and mothers worked hard they always seemed to have time for their children. As Nannie said, "It was happy times."

Novella Salley read the poem "We're very good friends, My Father and Me."

Louise Tupper led the business session in the absence of the president and vice president. It was announced that Ruth Helderman has had heart surgery recently and is in Forsyth Hospital. A motion was approved to take a love offering to her.

Stephanie Chaffin (granddaughter of Helen Chaffin) pledged allegiance to the American Flag in Spanish.

Following the song "That Grayed Hair Daily of Mine" Millard Anderson had the blessing and the group went to C's Restaurant for lunch.

Turbyfill-Beauchamp Couple Married

Betsy Jean Turbyfill of Route 2, Walnut Cove and Kenneth Wayne Beauchamp of Route 2, Advance were united in marriage Saturday, June 12, at 2 p.m. at First Baptist Church in Walnut Cove. The Rev. Bill Fryar officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

A program of wedding music was presented by Gary Lovett, organist; and vocalist, Miss Ruth Carter.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, Richard Turbyfill, wore a bridal gown of satin and lace designed with a princess neckline, fitted bodice and full-length skirt with a cathedral train applied with sequins and pearls.

Rev. John Albert Bracken Celebrates 60th Anniversary

The Rev. John Albert Bracken celebrated his 60th anniversary in the ministry on Sunday, June 6, at Fishing Creek Arbor Baptist Church in Wilkesboro where he serves as pastor.

Bracken began this service by recalling some influential people in his career including the late S.H. Renegar; his parents, John G. and Eliza O'Neil Bracken; his wife's parents, John P. and Alverdia Tilley Weatherman; his wife, Lois Weatherman Bracken, who he credits as being an invaluable asset to him during his career; and his children.

Especially instrumental in his career were the late E.W. Turner, former pastor of the First Baptist Church in Mocksville, and the late T.J. Caudell, former mayor of Mocksville. These men taught him four important lessons from the Bible: to be a good sower; to be one of the wise; good news and bad news come from another world; and to be responsible to God and man to preach, he said.

Bracken was saved at the age of 17. He was called to serve the Lord at age 18, and answered that call at age 19. His first message was from John 1:8 and Matthew 3:1: "There was a man sent from God whose name was John and this same man entered his ministry in the wilderness of Judea."

He was baptized into the fellowship of Bear Creek Baptist Church. That church, along with their pastor at that time, the Rev. D.C. Clanton, saw the necessity to license him to the ministry. In August 1933, Bracken spoke before a panel of reviewers and a full church on the subject of "I Am The Vine And You Are The Branches"

(John 15:6). Upon review, he received his license to preach. Bracken later moved his membership to Liberty Baptist Church where he was ordained and served in his first pastoral position.

During his career, he has pastored eight churches: Liberty Baptist Church, Mocksville, where he served as pastor twice; Sweet Home Baptist Church, Union Grove; Barkers Grove Baptist Church, New Hope; Shady Grove Baptist Church, Wilkesboro; Little Elkin Baptist Church, Ronda; Lewis Baptist Church, Wilkesboro; and Fishing Creek Arbor Baptist Church, Wilkesboro, where he has served since 1969.

Bracken said it has been his privilege to serve these churches as pastor, to hold the many revivals, and to baptize the numerous people into the fellowship of churches. Bracken has held revivals in nine counties. He estimates that during his career he has held 300 revivals, and has held an unknown number of weddings, funerals, and baptisms. During 1956, when he served as pastor in four churches simultaneously, he held 23 revivals and baptized 87 people.

After the morning service, a dinner was held in his honor at the Speedway

Road Ruritan Building, Wilkesboro. Approximately 125 guests were served roast beef, chicken drumettes, chicken gizzards, rolls, and assorted vegetables and desserts. Special guests of the pastor's included his family and a delegation from his home church, Liberty Baptist Church. Bracken was presented a plaque from the people of Fishing Creek Arbor Baptist Church, honoring his 60 years in the ministry, and his 24 years of service to their church.

Bracken is the son of the late John G. and Eliza O'Neil Bracken. He married the former Lois Weatherman, daughter of John P. and Alverdia Tilley Weatherman, on Feb. 1, 1941. He and his wife have three living children, two deceased children, seven grandchildren, and three great-grandchildren.

Chad Lipscomb Benefits Set

A blood drive and doughnut sale in honor of a Davie teen will be held this weekend.

Chad Lipscomb, 19, was diagnosed in April with aplastic anemia. Lipscomb is a volunteer firefighter and first responder with Smith Grove Fire Department, a volunteer with the Davie Rescue Squad, and a dispatcher with Davie Communications. Lipscomb is receiving treatment from doctors at Forsyth Memorial Hospital and may have to undergo a bone marrow transplant.

The blood drive will be Friday, June 18, from 2:30-7 p.m. at Smith Grove Ruritan Club, across from the fire department on U.S. 158. Doughnuts will be sold Saturday, June 19, at various Davie locations, and all proceeds will go to help with Lipscomb's medical expenses.

Davie United Way Agencies To Receive Funding

Thirty-three United Way funded agencies/service areas will be receiving their second quarterly funded allocations about mid June.

The agencies are funded quarterly in March, June, September and December.

"As funds from pledges flow into United Way's office," said Deetbe Eilerman of Thomson Crown Wood and chairperson of United Way's Funds Distribution Committee of the Board of Directors, "they are passed on to the agencies that in turn respond to health and human service needs of our citizens."

"The success of last fall's campaign here in Davie County means our supported agencies will receive in 1993 their full funding request with minor adjustments," she said.

Agencies/service/programs receiving funding are: American Red Cross; Appropriate Punishment Options; Association of Retarded Citizens; Old North State Boy Scout Council; Cancer Services, Inc.; Child Guidance Program; Howman Gray School of Medicine; Children's Center for Physically Handicapped; American

Little League; Crimestoppers; Davie County Group Home; 4-H Program; Davie Family Y.M.C.A.; Family Services; Little League Nationals; Family Violence Prevention; Farmington Community Association; Hospice of Davie County and N.C.; Triad Council Girl Scouts; New Horizons Enterprises; Retired Senior Volunteer Program; The Salvation Army; Davie Challenge League; a special relief fund of United Way administered by Davie County Department of Social Services; Alcohol/Drug Council of N.C.; American Social Health; Autism Society of N.C.; Epilepsy Association of N.C.; Florence Crittenton Services; N.C. Coalition on Adolescent Pregnancy; Mediation Network and N.C. Tuberosclerosis Society.

Hildebrand

2 Promoted By Wachovia

June E. Hildebrand and B. Diana Grubbs of Advance have been elected trust operations officer at Wachovia Trust Services Inc. in Winston-Salem.

Hildebrand is a network analyst and Grubbs is supervisor of the trust vault in the Trust Operations Group.

Hildebrand is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F.W. Hildebrand of Bermuda Run. She joined Wachovia in 1991 after earning a bachelor's degree in business from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Grubbs is a daughter of Mrs. Frances Duggins of Advance. She has worked in trust operations since joining Wachovia in 1980.

United Way Added To Federal List

United Way of Davie County has been approved by officials of Piedmont Triad Area Federal Coordinating Committee to be listed in this fall's Federal Employee Combined Campaign materials.

The local United Way, along with its agencies, will be included as "federated agencies".

Postal employees and other federally paid workers, as well as federal government retirees including members of the armed forces, may now indicate they want their annual pledge directed to United Way of Davie County and may specifically indicate which agency if they desire.

The annual federal employees campaign is conducted parallel with United Way campaigns throughout the country. Many United Ways conduct the campaign under contract with the federal government.

The 1993 campaign will be coordinated by United Way of Greater Greensboro and correspond to the area known as the Piedmont Triad.

To be approved for listing among the many agencies in the federal materials, United Way of Davie County had to meet fourteen stringent criteria. Among those were: IRS certified non-profit status; be directed by a volunteer board composed of community citizens; have a certified annual audit.

"substantial presence" in its geographical area supporting human health and welfare services, benefits, assistance to those in need; certify how funds are raised and disbursed, etc.

This year 33 agencies/service areas operating in Davie County will benefit from $251,870 raised during the 1993 fall United Way campaign.

Arts Council Kicks Off PB&J Series Of Downtown Concerts

Downtown workers left their stuffy offices Friday for lunch and music in the shade of the Court Square oak trees during the first concert of the summertime Pops, Blues and Jazz series.

Mike Orsillo of the Davie Family YMCA played a lone guitar and sang while office workers and children gathered under a tent.

Orsillo's debut was the first of a three-concert series sponsored by the Davie County Arts Council and Sweet Lovers Haven. Arts Council Director Jane Simpson said peanut butter and jelly sandwiches will be sold in honor of the PB&J concerts.

About 50 people came and went during the 1½ hour show, Simpson said. And next month, she expects an even larger crowd when the Southland String Band plays. That show is scheduled for July 9.

This year the blues concert had been changed to bluegrass music. Jazz entertainment is planned for the Aug. 13 show, she said.

Simpson said the concert series, which is in its second year, is designed to be a summertime music break for people working downtown. But people working outside of town and children out of school for the summer can come and enjoy the concerts, she said.

Help Still Needed To Complete Fulton Church Renovation

Workers are now finishing the interior wood trim and flooring.

To date, approximately $175,000 has been raised by Historic Davie.

"We are very grateful for the numerous donations, ranging from $39 to $35,000," Joyner said. "Without the interest and generosity of people like you, this project would not be possible."

Projects remaining to be done, and their costs:

- stripping and re-staining doors ($500);
- re-upholstering three pulpit chairs ($300);
- cleaning stained glass windows (no estimate);
- purchase of carpet runners and door mats ($2,000);
- purchase of exterior lights ($400);
- installation of handicapped ramp ($2,000).

Anyone interested in making a donation should contact: David Joyner at (919) 998-4537; John Fullmer (919) 998-5341; Terry Stewart at (919) 998-8372 or Don Bowles at (704) 634-3944.

The renovation of the old Fulton Methodist Episcopal Church, South, is near completion.

But there are nearly $5,200 worth of renovations as residents can help with to make restoration of the church, off N.C. 801 between Advance and Fork, complete.

The renovation is a project of Historic Davie.

"Historic Davie has taken great pride in this project," said board member David Joyner. "Working together, we have saved a Davie County landmark from destruction."

Projects remaining to be done, and their costs:

- stripping and re-staining doors ($500);
- re-upholstering three pulpit chairs ($300);
- cleaning stained glass windows (no estimate);
- purchase of carpet runners and door mats ($2,000);
- purchase of exterior lights ($400);
- installation of handicapped ramp ($2,000).

The original beaded ceiling has been uncovered and restored to its original condition. Reproduction-antique lighting (2 chandeliers and 22 scones) were donated by a member of the church. Walls have been repaired, re-plastered and painted.

Fork Plans Service

Sunday, June 27, Dr. Roy Smith, executive director-treasurer of the Baptist State Convention, will be the guest speaker at Fork Baptist Church.

Smith is a relative of Franklin and married to the former Doris Elizabeth Pearce. They have three children and five grandchildren.

He was educated at Franklin High School, Wake Forest, Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary, Campbell University, N.C. State University, and Emory University. Smith has served in many areas of the state convention.

Afternoon services will begin at 2 p.m. led by Miss Cathy Young. This will be an afternoon of "singing" and talks by various people.

The Rev. Ken Evans is the pastor. Fork Baptist Church is located six miles east of Mocksville or 12 miles west of Lexington, on U.S. 64.

Nutrition Site Open For Elderly

Funds are available to expand services through the end of June for senior adults 60 years of age or older.

Senior adults are urged to attend the Davie Nutrition Center in the B.C. Brock Building on North Main Street Monday-Friday. Programs offered include musical programs, health and nutrition information and bingo. There is no charge for these services but donations are encouraged.

Transportation will be provided to those who live on an existing route. If you need transportation, call the Davie County Transportation office at 704-634-2187.

Spiritual Resources

To Honor A Father

By The Rev. Hampton Morgan Jr.

A year ago I gave my father a Purple Heart license plate as a Father's Day gift. Having seen many of them around, and knowing that he was a Purple Heart veteran, I felt it would be a special gift for a special occasion.

My mother aided the effort by securing my father's Army discharge papers and getting the other information I needed. Not an easy task, for very little gets by my father's observant nose.

I endured the worst of postal service inefficiency and the best of state government efficiency in securing the tag. It took the postal service an astonishing 18 days to get my application for the tag from Advance to Raleigh. Even the old wagon trains could have covered the distance in eight days.

So, when the application had not shown up in Raleigh in time for them to process it and return the tag to me by Father's Day, I had to go to Plan B. Securing duplicates of all the necessary documentation, I faxed them to my sister in Raleigh, who hand delivered them to the Department of Motor Vehicles. After a three minute wait, she departed with the license plate in hand. A day later she handed it to me.

(To the folks at DMV, thank you. To the folks at the Postal Service, better luck next time.)

My father is one of those many quiet veterans living without fanfare in our communities. Like countless other men and women of his generation, he entered the Armed Forces of our country during World War II to join the overthrow of evil tyrants in Germany and Japan. My father was landed in the European theater well after D-Day, but in plenty of time to experience the last furious resistance of Hitler's army.

He was wounded three times. The first two were superficial wounds that he hardly noticed. The third nearly took his life. Shrapnel from a mortar shell tore through his abdomen and leg. Looking at the scars from those wounds on many occasions, I have often been amazed that he survived. Another inch or two in a different direction and those white hot pieces of metal would have taken his life.

By The Rev. Hampton Morgan

Dad was removed from the combat zone in Germany, eventually to recover in a hospital in England, where he was convalescing when Hitler's generals surrendered on May 7, 1945. He was discharged from the Army at Kenesly General Hospital on July 24 in Memphis, Tennessee. As with the many others wounded in combat, he was awarded the Purple Heart.

As a young teenager I tried several times to get my father to talk about the war. He would answer my questions with one or two sentences each. He never told war stories. In fact, he just did not want to talk about it. Yet I knew he had a certain unspoken satisfaction in having served and been wounded for his country. When, on Father's Day last year, I presented him with the license plate, he finally began to talk. Not a lot, but more than ever before.

The fifth commandment says, "Honor your father and your mother, that your days may be long in the land which the Lord your God is giving you." I found a special way to honor my father last year. Not for being perfect; he is not. Not for being the smartest and strongest man in the neighborhood; he is neither. And not for raising a perfect son; he did not, and I am not.

No, I honor him simply for being my father. He contributed, with my mother, to my life. I am part of the legacy he will leave when he dies. Many things may change for him and for me, but he will always be my dad.

Roy H. Cartner

Roy Holt Cartner, 74, of Magnolia Ave., Mocksville died Friday, June 11, 1993, at Va Medical Center in Salisbury after being in declining health.

Funeral services were Sunday, June 13, at First United Methodist Church in Mocksville, conducted by the Rev. I. Donnell Lloyd.

Memorials may be made to First United Methodist Church, N. Main Street, Mocksville, NC 27028 or to the VA Medical Center, Salisbury, NC 28144 or to the Cemetery Fund of Salem United Methodist Church, c/o M.E.T. Winfrey, Route 1, Box 351B, Mocksville, NC 27028.

He was born Jan. 1, 1919, in Davie County, a son of the late Thomas Glenn and Bessie Barney Cartner. After serving in the U.S. Air Force, his career with the U.S. Postal Service began in 1948 as a letter carrier. He was later transferred to a clerk for a short time and was later named as postmaster in Mocksville where he served for 17 years. He was a member of First United Methodist Church where he served as treasurer for 23 years. He was also very active in community service where he served the Mocksville town board for 11 years, and was active in the Mocksville Rotary Club where he had been treasurer.

Survivors include: his wife, Kathleen Boger Cartner of the home; two sons, Philip Cartner of Mocksville and son and daughter-in-law, Richard and Peggy Cartner of Kernersville; two grandchildren; one sister, Pauline Cartner of Mocksville; and two brothers, Thomas E. Cartner of Indian Trail and Cecil Cartner of Mocksville.

Mr. Hal Festal Bowers, 68, formerly of Cooleemee, died Monday, June 14, 1993, in the V.A. Medical Center in Asheville after several years of declining health. He had formerly been a resident of the V.A. Medical facility in Salisbury.

A graveside service with military rites will be conducted in Legion Memorial Park in Cooleemee at 10 a.m. Thursday, June 17, with the Rev. E.M. James officiating. The 11th District Memorial Honor Guard, Veterans of Foreign Wars will be in charge of the Military Rites. The family was to receive friends at Eaton's Funeral Home Wednesday evening, June 16, from 7-9 p.m.

Memorials may be made to the 11th District Memorial Honor Guard, 2833 Woodward Road, Winston-Salem, NC 27127.

Mr. Bowers was born in Davie County Aug. 2, 1924, to the late Horace Festal and Essie Creason Bowers and had been a patient attendant during his residency at the V.A. Medical Center in Salisbury. He was of the Baptist faith.

Survivors include his sister, Mrs. Helen B. Gaither of Route 4, Mocksville, one niece and one nephew.

Trula K. Duncan

Mrs. Trula Kinlaw Duncan, 75, widow of the late Herbert W. Duncan of Century Care Nursing Home, Lumberton, N.C., died Friday, June 11, 1993.

Mrs. Duncan was born Jan. 14, 1918, in Robeson County to the late John Hector and Rosa Ella Williams Kinlaw. Mrs. Duncan was a member of the Regan United Methodist Church.

Funeral services were Sunday, June 13, at the Regan United Methodist Church with the Rev. Jerome Smith officiating. Burial followed in the church cemetery.

Surviving are: two sons, Mr. Noah K. Duncan of Cary and Mr. Herbert Wayne Duncan of Hope Mills; two daughters, Mrs. Edna Rose Guy of High Point and Mrs. Mary Amanda Plyler of Advance; nine grandchildren; three great-grandchildren; and two sisters, Mrs. Elara Parnell and Mrs. Mary Corbit, both of Lumberton.

Memorials may be made to the Regan United Methodist Church, c/o The Rev. Jerome Smith, Rt. 1, Box 369, Lumberton, NC 28358.

Helen L. Cranford

Helen Lyerty Cranford, 85, formerly of South River Church Road, Woodleaf, died Friday, June 11, 1993, at Autumn Care of Salisbury.

The funeral was Sunday, June 13, at South River United Methodist Church with the Rev. John Reeves officiating. Burial was in the church cemetery.

Memorials may be made to South River United Methodist Church Cemetery Fund, South River Church Road, Woodleaf, NC 27054.

Born Dec. 3, 1907, in Rowan County, Mrs. Cranford was a daughter of the late Isaac and Susan Bost Lyerty. She was a homemaker and a member of South River United Methodist Church and its Adult Sunday School Class and United Methodist Women and once taught Sunday school.

Her husband, Nepht Cranford, died March 29, 1980.

Survivors include: four sons, Roy, Bob and Don Cranford, all of Woodleaf, and Jerry Cranford of Mocksville; 10 grandchildren; and 11 great-grandchildren.

George A. McClamrock

Mr. George Alton McClamrock, 89, of 2120 Lynn St., Kannapolis, died Thursday, June 10, 1993, at Rowan Memorial Hospital, Salisbury.

The funeral was Saturday, June 12, at Wilkinson Funeral Home Chapel, Concord. Burial was at Oakwood Cemetery.

Former Legislator Dies At Age 73

By Laura Williams-Treacy
Davie County Enterprise-Record

Dr. Ranney F. Kemp found success as a Democrat from a strongly Republican Davie County in the N.C. House of Representatives.

And he found more success on the greens of Hickory Hill golf course.

Kemp died June 8 at his home in Mocksville. He was 73.

Mocksville Mayor D.J. "Nick" Mando remembered Kemp as a loyal representative to the county during his three years in the state house. Kemp was appointed by Gov. James B. Hunt in 1977 to replace Peter W. Hairston, who became a Superior Court judge. Kemp won his first election in 1978.

Surviving are: one son, Clarence C. Shore of Route 6, Mocksville; one daughter, Mrs. Billy (Evanne) Felts of Route 6, Mocksville; six grandchildren; five great-grandchildren; and six sisters, Mrs. Hessie S. Shore of Route 3, Yadkinville, Mrs. Lovie S. Martin of Route 2, Harmony, Mrs. Annie S. Wilkens of Route 8, Mocksville, Mrs. Lottie S. Brown of North Wilkesboro and Mrs. Lucy S. Chappell of Elkin.

Mando said. While in the House, he served on the Water and Air Resources committee, Appropriations committee and Local Government Committee.

But Davie County was tough on Democrats, Mando said, and Kemp lost his bid for reelection in 1980.

All the while, Kemp continued his success as a chiropractor. He began his practice in 1951 and that's how he and Mando became friends.

"He used to say, 'I straightened you out,'" Mando said.

He was active in the State Chiropractic Association. In 1987 he was a delegate for the state to the First Joint Convention of the American Chiropractic Association in Las Vegas.

Throughout the years, Kemp steadily improved his golf game. "I couldn't hold a stick to him," Mando said.

Kemp's political career was strong evidence of his concern for his community. He served for four years as chairman of the Democratic Party in Davie County.

"You wouldn't find a more honorable person," Bralley said. "He cared about all of the issues and all of the people."

Others remember Kemp as a public arena as a quiet, but dedicated town commissioner for 11 years.

Carter died June 11 at the VA Medical Center in Salisbury. He was 74.

When Town Manager Terry Bralley came to Mocksville in 1979, Carter helped him to learn many of the town's faces and names. Carter was elected to the town board several months later, and the two worked together until Carter left public office in 1991.

Surviving are: two daughters, Donna Lankford Current of Mocksville and Shannon Lankford Sewell of Shreveport, La.; one son, Mike Lankford of Tyro; six grandchildren; two sisters, Linda Angell Hamilton and Nan Angell Hayes, both of Mocksville; three brothers, Gray Angell of Advance, Larry Angell of Mocksville and Nat Angell of Lexington; her maternal grandmother, Coy Susie Miller of Mocksville; and her paternal grandmother, Nannie Dovesy Angell of Mocksville.

The family will receive friends at Eaton Wednesday from 7-9 p.m. and at other times at their home on N.C. 801. Memorials may be made to the building fund of Victory Baptist Church, P.O. Box 687, Cooleemee, N.C., 27014.

Congratulations to Jessica Smith, the Lois Evans Award recipient.

The fourth grade students of Alyce Bagshaw were led by Sarah Borders in singing "This Land is Your Land" and dedicated "From A Distance" to the sixth grade class. Coleen Gaither and Ana Newman were honored with a breakfast on Tuesday, June 8, to celebrate their graduations. Coleen received her GED and Ana received her master's degree in music education.

Sadie Whaley and Jerry Jones accompanied their fifth grade students on a trip to Hiddenite Gems June 1. The students looked for gemstones in a creek, in a field, and in dirt sifted into a sluice. These activities were included in a geology lesson.

SHADY GROVE
 Fun Day was Monday, May 31. Kindergarten-third grade students took part in 30 activities. The children participated at a station, received a punch on a tully card, and then rotated to another station. Each child received a ribbon for their participation. The ribbon color was determined by the number of activities completed.

The students participated in the Presidential Council of Physical Fitness testing in the fall and spring. The five battery tests evaluate children on their endurance, flexibility, agility, abdominal strength and arm strength. Two hundred and 17 children met the standards for the National Fitness Award and 27 children met the Presidential Fitness Award standard. This was an increase from previous years. The children received awards.

An Improved Fitness Award was also awarded. The students do the same five tests both fall and spring. If the child improves four or all five scores, she/he receives an improvement ribbon. One hundred and sixty-one students received improvement ribbons.

The University of North Carolina at Charlotte had its 28th commencement on May 15 at the Charlotte Coliseum. Students completed all requirements of their departments and the university.

William M. Kirkpatrick of Mocksville earned a master's degree in counseling and guidance/school.

Pueblo Indians Teach Ceramics

By Laura Moyer
 Ninth grade art students at North Davie got the opportunity to experience the Pueblo Indian method of making black-on-black ceramics.

With the help of Marilyn Willard of the Santa Clara Pueblo tribe, the students' clay-colored pieces were transformed into shiny black pottery by an oxygen reduction process. (The lack of air gives the pottery a black sheen.)

The process of making each piece goes back to early Native American traditions. For example, Indian potters gathered all materials in precise quantities from nature with a sacred promise to waste nothing. (Blue corn was sprinkled around the firing pit as an offering to the Great Spirit for a successful firing.) A combination of clay and volcanic ash from New Mexico was mixed until it was suitable for molding.

At this point, the clay was formed into the desired shape and left to dry. Once dry, it is sanded then coated with a slip of red clay. A smooth stone called a polishing stone must be rubbed over the surface while it is still wet to give the object shine. Polishing stones were prized possessions to the Pueblos who would often pass them down from generation to generation. The difficulty in finding such a stone probably was the main reason for this.

Principal W.G. Potts got the job of covering up pit after ceramics class.

MHS Class Of '32 Holds Reunion

On June 3, 1993, a group of seniors received their diplomas from Mocksville High School.

On June 3, 1993, 13 members of that class met at noon for their annual class reunion at Western Steer Restaurant.

The class flower was the red rose. An arrangement of red and white roses was on a table, on which were pictures of past reunions. There was a red rose for each living member and a white rose for each deceased member. Over the years, the class has lost 10 boys and one girl. Five of the six surviving "boys" were present.

Cecil Leagans gave the blessing for the meal - a blessing which he asked classmates to pause in memory of the deceased members.

No special program was planned, everyone just chatted with their classmates of 61 years ago. Those attending the reunion were: Anna Mae Anderson Owings, Mary Helen Barneycastle Forrest and her husband Paul, Mae Caudell Howard, Glenn Craven and his wife "Weezie", Margaret Collette Edwards, George Evans and his wife Lois, Helen Grant Bunch, Lillian Howard Sain, Albert E. (Buster) Killian, Mary Louise LaKey Leagans and her husband Paul.

Cecil Leagans and his wife Ruby, Ruby Martin Moore, John T. Smith and his son J.T. Jr.

It was decided that in the future the group will meet on June 3 except when the date falls on Saturday or Sunday, when an alternate date will be chosen.

Notes had been prepared to send to members who were unable to attend. These were signed by those present.

Mocksville Guard Unit Trains Soldiers

What is a grunt?

A grunt is the combat soldier; that person who frequently finds himself wet, cold, dry, hot, mosquito-bitten, frost-bitten, just plain bitten by who-knows-what, and generally exposed to whatever else Mother Nature bestows upon him.

All this while told to either train for or fight a war.

Years ago during the French & Indian War, Major Robert Rogers outlined a few simple rules that should guide every combat soldier. Some of these are as follows:

• Don't forget nothing.

• Have your musket clean as a whistle, hatchet scoured, sixty rounds powder and ball, and be ready to march at a minute's warning.

• When you're on the march, act the way you would if you was sneaking up on a deer. See the enemy first.

• Let the enemy come till he's almost close enough to touch. Then let him have it and jump out and finish him up with your hatchet.

These fundamentals have changed little since 1756. Modern weaponry, however, has improved slightly. A modern infantry platoon contains quite a bit of weaponry and firepower, ranging from the primitive bayonet mounted on an M-16 rifle to sophisticated wire-guided missile systems.

The infantry platoon contains those specific "grunts" mentioned above: combat soldiers.

What does this have to do with Mocksville or Davie County?

For several years now the Mock-ville Armory has been the home of infantry soldiers. It still is - and will continue to be regardless of the State National Guard reorganization. The unit performed well during its 1993 annual training period at Ft. Bragg, and was praised by active duty evaluators for being "as good or better than similar Active Duty Infantry Platoons."

Anyone interested in becoming a part of this Team should contact SFC Gasperow, SFC James, or SSG Combs at 704-634-2633.

Carpenter Bees Can Destroy Wood

There have been many complaints from Davie County residents so far this Spring with carpenter bees. These are black and yellow bees that slowly bover near decks or the eaves of a house or buildings. The carpenter bees (sometimes called borer bees) resemble the common bumble bee. Carpenter bees have a shiny tail section; bumble bees have a hairy tail section.

The carpenter bee is called this because the female borer a half inch hole into wood with its strong jaws. The holes go into the wood for a half an inch and then proceed horizontally for six or more inches.

Wooden decks, soffits, and overhangs are prime targets for carpenter bee attacks. Carpenter bees usually attack raw wood, but painted or stained wood is not immune. Cedar, redwood and other wood types that usually repels insects will also be attacked. One must take prompt action once the wood is attacked.

The female bee will drill a tunnel in which she builds a large pollen ball. The female lays an egg on the pollen ball. The ball is sealed off with chewed wood and additional brood cells are constructed. The female can lay up to seven pollen balls in a single tunnel. There may be many tunnels in a single board. Larva feed on pollen balls in the cells.

The male bee does not sting but is quite territorial and does tend to harass other bees or people. The female carpenter bee generally does not sting unless highly agitated or caught.

Carpenter bees are active nest builders. April through June. They are annoying with their buzzing, drilling and defense of their territory. The first bees seen in the season die off by early summer after nesting. Carpenter bees seen after late July are new bees and do not nest that year.

Carpenter bees can completely destroy wood if allowed to bore many tunnels over successive years. Eaves of boxing and face plates are often damaged beyond repair from successive years of nesting. Many bees will use a single entrance hole. Nesting activity can be reduced by treating entrance holes with insecticides and plugging holes with wooden dowels or wood putty. Sometimes woodpeckers will damage wood searching for emerging larvae.

Apply an insecticidal spray or dust for killing wasps or bees directly into and around the entrance hole. Homeowners can use Sevin, Dursban or Malathion as a spray or dust. Plug the holes immediately. Always read the instructions before applying any pesticide. Contact the North Carolina

Cooperative Extension Service, Davie County Center, at 634-6297 if you should have any questions about applying pesticides.

Those reluctant to use insecticides can reduce bees by swarming bees out of the air with a tennis racket or use a net to catch the bee. Sometimes plugging the hole with wire mesh at night while the bee is inside will trap it, but resourceful insect will chew another exit.

Chad Lipscomb: "I really miss getting out and helping people. I would rather be out helping other people than having people help me."

Aplastic Anemia

Young Man Adjusting To Life With Disease

By Mike Harshardt
Davie County Enterprise Record

SMITH GROVE - Chad Lipscomb enjoys helping people. As a volunteer firefighter and first responder with the Smith Grove Fire Department, and a volunteer with the Davie County Rescue Squad, he spends his spare time helping people in emergencies.

Even at one of his two jobs, as a dispatcher with Davie Communications, the 19-year-old takes calls from residents needing help.

On April 26, Chad Lipscomb's life changed dramatically.

Only the day before, he had been at an auto accident, helping free a victim from a mangled car.

The next morning, he noticed identical bruises on each elbow. His legs had red spots. When he began to take a shower to get ready for work, he began to feel a burning sensation in the bottom of his feet. "It felt like someone had set my feet on fire," he said.

Lipscomb knew something was wrong, and he went to the doctor. He was immediately put in the hospital.

The diagnosis: aplastic anemia. Lipscomb's bone marrow had quit working.

"It was a shock at first," he said. "I had just bought my truck and I had no notion that I was sick. I hadn't really been feeling sick. I haven't had any pain."

Looking back, Lipscomb said he showed some of the symptoms of aplastic anemia, but shrugged it off as tiredness because of his long hours of volunteering and work.

They don't know what caused the disease. Lipscomb doesn't work near any of the chemicals or materials associated with aplastic anemia.

"April 26 was the last day I worked," he said. "I was going to work when I got out of the doctor's, but he said no. Since then, it's just been a waiting game."

Lipscomb still spends nights at the hospital, but comes home most days. Some days he feels better than others, and can drive his truck around the county to visit.

And he waits.

Doctors have tried a serum to make his blood marrow work again. "There's an eight-week waiting period. If it works, it works on the white blood cells and builds them back up. There's a 50-50 chance."

Chad Lipscomb had no idea he was sick, and had just bought a new pickup truck. — Photos by Robin Fergusson

It's been four weeks, and the Lipscombs are optimistic. There's been some activity in his blood cell counts.

"It's scared everybody, but we learn a lot more about it every day," Lipscomb said. He likes the doctors and nurses and others taking care of him at Forsyth Memorial Hospital.

If the serum doesn't work, a bone marrow transplant will be necessary. Finding a match is difficult. Both brothers offer a partial match in bone marrow, and the only hospital that does a transplant with a partial match is in Charleston, S.C.

"They'll have to kill everything in my body first," he said, "with chemotherapy and stuff. That's going to be hard, but if I've got to do it, I've got to do it. If we do not, I'll have to be down there for three months."

In the midst of all the problem, co-workers at Davie Communications and others have rallied to help the family, holding fund-raisers and blood drives. And the effort is going to carry over, with a permanent fund being started to help others when the need arises.

That suits Lipscomb just fine.

"I really miss working and getting out and helping people," he said. "I would rather be out helping other people rather than having people help me."

Lipscomb could face a blood marrow transplant.

County Planners To Discuss Two Zoning Proposals

There will be a meeting of the Davie County Planning Board on Thursday, June 24, at 7 p.m. in the commissioner's room of the Davie County Administrative Building.

New members Gary D. Livengood and Allen V. Stipes will be welcomed.

J. Emory Crawford submitted a request to rezone property from Residential R-20 to Highway Business - Special Use Zoning. This property is located on the west side of Farmington Road approximately 1 mile north of I-40. The property is a 7.345 acre and a 2.505 acre tract shown as a portion of parcel 36 of Davie County Tax Map 5-5. Crawford proposes to expand his existing Beechtree Place hardware business as well as provide for the development of a large animal hospital/clinic to be operated by Dr. James E. Mecker, DVM.

Ben F. Powell submitted a request to rezone property from Residential R-20 to Highway Business Special Use Zoning for the development of a medical facility. This property involves a two-acre portion of parcel 27 of Davie County Tax Map 1-2. The property is off the southeast side of Vanzant Road (S.R. 1152) approximately 3/4 of a mile off U.S. 64.

Geographic Information Systems Specialist Mitchell Helms will recommend several amendments to the Davie County Addressing Ordinance. These proposed amendments are designed to streamline the use of this ordinance. The structure numbering intervals in this ordinance are proposed to be increased from 10.56 feet to 26.4 feet. Also, the Amendments Section of the ordinance will be discussed.

The board will review a seven-lot single family subdivision titled the Faires Bowles Subdivision. This 10.278 acre tract lies on the northern side of Feozor Road (S.R. 1137) and Towery Road in the Mocksville Township. This property is a portion of parcel 51 of Tax Map J-4.

Davie Still Looking For Social Services Director

A new director of Social Services has not yet been selected by a board of directors that only had nine applicants to choose from.

Board Chairperson Dorothy Graham said the five-person Social Services board had hoped to have a new top administrator on the job by June, but now she doesn't know when a director might be hired.

The board advertised the position this spring after James Clark announced his resignation in February. Clark went to Rockingham County to head up a larger department there.

The board is looking for someone with a master's degree in social work and supervisory experience.

Of the nine applications received, only four met the qualifications. All have been reviewed, Graham said, but the board has not been able to agree on who to hire.

If the board does select one of the four applicants, Graham said a decision could come in the next two weeks.

Otherwise, she said it is possible that the position may be advertised again to increase the applicant pool. "I don't think we have ruled anybody out," Graham said. "But at this point I don't know if we will advertise again."

The board plans to meet this week with a regional social services director to help in the decision. Graham said the director may help them select one of the four candidates or give some other advice.

Karen Smith, a long-time county employee and acting director of the department, did not apply for the position.

DIFFICULTY IN URINATION?

An enlarged prostate may mean you have BPH - BENIGN PROSTATIC HYPERPLASIA. One out of three men over 45 have it. If you are over 45 and:

- HAVE TROUBLE URINATING
- URINATE OFTEN
- STOP AND START SEVERAL TIMES WHILE URINATING
- HAVE TROUBLE DELAYING URINATION - you could have BPH.

If you do have BPH, you may be able to take part in an 18 month clinical research trial for an investigational drug. Patients who qualify will receive FREE PHYSICAL EXAMS, BLOOD AND DIAGNOSTIC TESTING AND MEDICATION. Medical supervision provided by a board certified urologist.

Weak Support Virtually Kills The Lottery Issue

By Sen. Betsy L. Cochran
The lottery bill (SB 11) passed the Senate by the closest vote ever, 27-25. There were two days of the best debate this session on the lottery with referendums.

Amendments were offered to remove the referendum section of the bill so it would be a straight vote on lottery, but that failed 20-27. Another amendment was offered to prevent state dollars being used to advertise lottery. That failed 24-25. There were 14 amendments, including one that prevented cartoon figures or caricatures attracting children from being used to advertise lottery. The amendments that passed lowered the percentage paid to convenience stores that sell lottery tickets from 8% to 7%, and one that established rules for selling lottery tickets.

The House leadership opposes lottery, so the close vote in the Senate, which indicates weak support, virtually kills the lottery for this session. One of the strongest arguments presented in debate showed that it would be unconstitutional to make it a referendum. Our State Constitution states that the power of the people is vested in their General Assembly and the legislators are to take a referendum to the people only for changes in the Constitution and for approval of bonds. The utilities committee of the House and Senate have confirmed the governor's appointees to the State Utilities Commission. These people serve eight years and are salaried as judges ($35,000). The former chancellor of Appalachian State University, Dr. John Thomas, was confirmed as chairman of this eight-member board. Sen. Ralph Hunt and Rep. July Hunt were also confirmed. The laws on establishing paternity have been modified through HB 1119, which has passed the Senate. The burden of proof required to overcome statutory presumptions has been changed from "beyond reasonable doubt" to "clear and convincing evidence". With the new blood tests, the bill provides that a person may not be a parent of the child if an expert concludes, based on the best, that the probability of parentage is less than 85.

In response to complaints from builders, lenders, home owners and local officials, SB 617 proposes the development of a testing program for home inspectors who charge a fee. Builders, lenders and home buyers who pay for an inspection want a qualified, knowledgeable person for a consistent evaluation of structure. Legislation has been introduced to establish a non-partisan method of redistricting the state for legislative and congressional districts. SB 1218 proposes a commission to revise the districts for the State Senate and House and for Congress after the 10-year census, with the General Assembly making the final approval or rejection. Incumbent legislators and congressmen would not be favored, nor any political party. Ideologically speaking, if a non-partisan commission were drawing the lines, no amendments by legislators would be permitted to the final plan submitted to the General Assembly from the commission.

One proposal of the Task Force on Violence in Schools is that principals report to the local law enforcement authority every incident of sexual harassment, any fight, any violent act, any action that endangers another student or teacher. The intent is to stop some of the violence in schools by involving law enforcement to make youngsters aware of the serious consequences of their unacceptable behavior. The same people pushing this issue were advocates a few years back to ban corporal punishment in schools.

Significant changes in HB 718 in the budget bill have been proposed by me on behalf of my Senate delegation to the Senate leadership. Because we joined the effort on children's initiatives with the understanding that there were modifications that must be made or we could not support them, we are being listened to and the leadership is addressing our concerns.

If you have concerns on issues or bills, please let me know as promptly as possible.

Budget Process Is In Gear

By Rep. Julia C. Howard
The budget process is in gear. The Senate and House passed budget bills. Now the differences have to be ironed out in a conference committee. The Senate has appointed 22 conferees, and the House 21. Each chamber has met separately to organize. Meetings are taking place to lay ground rules for working out differences between the budgets.

An example: Let's say the Dept. of Cultural Resources was appropriated $100 million in the Senate budget and $50 million in the House budget. When the conferees negotiate and discuss the difference, they should come back with a figure from $50-$100 million.

Conferees will be meeting while the rest of us are attending regular committee meetings. Conferees are supposed to address only issues included in either the Senate or the House version of the budget bill. They are to bring no new issues to the table. A budget item that was not included in either bill is not supposed to be considered.

One of the issues to be debated will be whether or not to correct an accounting maneuver that was used a couple of years ago to balance the budget.

State employees are paid on the last day of each month. During a tight cash-flow year, the June 30 pay day was changed to July 1, which moved it from one fiscal year to the next year's budget. Of course, that made the year that was past, better by about $250 million. In order to move that July 1 pay date back to June 30 and into the year for which the people are being paid, will cost about $300 million today. Some would argue that it is just an accounting move, and that is correct. But it is more than just that.

With the current system, what we are doing is taking state employees who work in June and committing money from next year's budget to pay them. Or, to put it another way, we are not paying our state employees for their June work out of this year's budget. It could be argued that this is not a balanced budget; it may be a balanced accounting move, but not a balanced budget. When we are talking about a balanced budget, we are talking about meeting the expenses of one year with the revenue in the year the obligation occurs. The Senate has taken the position that it is time to move that pay day back to June 30. The House moved the community college pay day back (about $28 million) but did not move anything else. Because of the accounting cost, if we change the pay day back, then most of that money is spent because of the $300 million obligation. If we do not move the pay day back, then the state has approximately $300 million more, as an accounting procedure, that we can spend in the budget this year.

There are as many as 400 items in the budget process to be resolved. Most are items that include different amounts spent on programs, but there have been some bills slipped into the budget as new laws. We should be working to keep the budget bill a budget process and not a way to make new laws.

One reason this process is not a good way to make new laws is because of the intense pressure. If you are given a bill that is 194 pages long on Thursday evening, and from 5 p.m. Thursday-5 a.m. Friday you have to read, debate, and decide upon a bill, that is a tight schedule to meet to be making budget decisions, much less to be considering new laws.

In our area, state employees seem to work hard and take pride in their work and appreciate the taxpayer. But in Raleigh, the State Employee Association (SEA) says that state employees haven't been treated fairly. They deserve higher pay, more retirement benefits, and they deserve to be able to retire after 28 years, (and some after 25 years).

Statements from independent consultants show that it will cost $41 million to reduce retirement to 28 years. In spite of that fact, the State Employee Association says it is a benefit, and that the only fair way for state employees, if state employees don't want to work, and don't appreciate what the taxpayers (who don't have a 30 year retirement program and yet have to pay for one for state employees) do for them, then the state employees should find jobs somewhere else.

I contend that state employees have good benefits. The lottery is another big issue; it has passed the Senate. It will be coming first to the Constitutional Committee in the House, then to the Finance Committee, and if it passes there, we will debate it on the floor of the House.

We are beginning to see more and more people around the Legislative Building who do not have a southern draw, who wear very nice looking clothing (which could not be described as conservative), and who have some connection to a micro-ship or computer system of some type that is "going to make the lottery really pay off!" And we have stacks and stacks of petitions and resolutions saying our state does not need the lottery.

Also, we have reports from other states about how the lottery has affected them. Other than the vendors who benefit from the lottery and some who say they just enjoy playing it, there seems to be little positive benefit to states that have it. No state that has a lottery is in better financial condition than North Carolina without it.

The Big Star chain stopped selling lottery tickets at their grocery stores when they saw that, while they were selling an average of $1.3 million in

A graduate of Ohio University, Jackson is a registered professional engineer in North Carolina. His background includes 29 years with R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, as well as consulting for N.C. Baptist Hospital, Jackson and his wife Sarah live in Winston-Salem. They have two grown children. Robert Hillman, 33, has joined the staff as controller. He will oversee financial activities. Hillman, a graduate of Syracuse University, was director of operations and controller of U.S. Stamp, Inc. He and his wife Pat are residents of Charlotte. Mark A. Perkins, 30, has joined the staff as international sales manager. His primary responsibility is developing sales and marketing the Eurodrawer product in Latin America. Perkins holds degrees from N.C. State University and Wake Forest University. His employment background includes ownership of a contract service firm and experience as a manufacturing engineer at Mt. Airy Furniture. Perkins lives in Winston-Salem. Lee Urwick, 25, has joined the Eurodrawer staff as customer service coordinator with customers and coordinating shipping. Urwick, a graduate of Wingate College, has a background in retail management. He and his wife Jill are residents of High Point.

Name That Road

Recently people throughout the county have seen the bright fluorescent green paper signs that have been posted where private roads or driveway connect to public roads or other private driveways. This action reflects part of the new countywide addressing system that is being implemented to help emergency response crews in locating people. If you live on a private drive that has two dwellings and neither of the two can be easily seen from the main road, then your private road (private drive) will need to have a name. "We are taking road name suggestions from people who own land that adjoins these private roads. The new addresses will be assigned from the road your house faces or your driveway accesses as determined by field workers and county staff," said Mitch Helms. Names of private roads should be agreed upon by all landowners on the road. To eliminate confusion, any proposed road name that is "deceptively similar" cannot be approved. Before calling in to suggest a name for a private road, make sure you have the road number from the bottom of the bright green sign. "We would like to thank our citizens of Davie County for their continued participation and support in implementing the E-911 addressing system. We believe it will be yet another advantage of residing in Davie County," Helms said. For more information contact Helms at (704) 624-3340.

Legislature Debates The Lottery

Continued From Page D5 lottery tickets each month, their food sales dropped off by $1.1 million per month. On June 23 at 10 a.m. there will be a public hearing on House Bill 960, which says there are to be no new taxes without a vote of the people. If you have a position on this issue, June 23 at 10 a.m. here in the Legislative building is the time to express it. If you cannot be there, and you want to send written comments, send them to 1021 Legislative Building, Raleigh, NC 27601-1096. This bill is called "The Taxpayer's Rights Amendment" and would be an amendment to the state constitution. It would be put to a vote of the people if the General Assembly passes it. The Taxpayer's Rights Amendment would require politicians to look more closely at spending priorities rather than going ahead and spending any new growth and then saying we need more taxes to keep up. State revenue is running ahead of expectations; income taxes projected at around 6-7% are 20% ahead. We hope that continues because it means more people are working; making more money; the economy is rebounding. Last session, the General Assembly raffled over 900 bills. So far this session, we have raffled about 120 out of the more than 3,000 bills having been introduced in the two chambers. If we are going to get out of here the early part of July, we are going to have to start having some late night meetings. We must still address the issue of health care. We are expecting a bill come out within the next two weeks in being prepared in the Health Care Access Committee. It is a composite bill in which a number of the bills have been introduced to address the health care concerns have all been put into one bill. The bill is being crafted in such a way there will be little cost to the state, but it will certainly increase the cost to the public. The bill has provisions in it which: require insurance companies to write health care insurance; require medical schools to graduate doctors who are primary care physicians; and require practice parameter for physicians. These are a few items that are in the bill, but it will give you an idea about what is being pulled together for consideration. The reallotment representatives from both Davie and Davidson counties are in Raleigh this week. Appreciated their coming by to speak to me, and I enjoyed visiting with them. Thank you for your interest; I hope you have a good week.

Hot Weather In The Forecast

Weekend weather is expected to be partly cloudy and hot, according to the National Weather Service. Friday's highs should be in the upper 80s, with lows in the mid-60s. Temperature, under partly cloudy skies, Saturday and Sunday, are expected to be near 90, with lows 65-70. There is a chance of scattered afternoon thundershowers Sunday.

Murder Suspect Could Have Been In Jail
 Eddie Shoffner Served 38 Days Of Six-Year Sentence

By Laura Williams-Tracy
 Davie County Enterprise-Record

In just a few years, Eddie Wayne Shoffner had managed to fill a Manila folder with arrest warrants and probation documents. The latest entry — murder — may be the last for a while.

David Jarvis, the probation officer who keeps that folder, met Shoffner in September 1991.

Shoffner, then 20, had been convicted of writing four worthless checks. The next month, he had five more counts added to his record, along with several driving infractions. While on probation, the charges kept coming.

In January 1992, Shoffner was convicted for failing to return rented stereo and TV equipment from a Statesville rental company. Four months later, he was convicted of stealing a neighbor's money order and making the check out to himself.

The charges finally caught up with Shoffner this past October, and he faced more than 18 years of prison.

According to his six-year sentence, he should have been in jail June 20, when he was arrested along with Russell Dean Workman, of Advance, for the murders of Arthur Drake, 71, and Janet Drake, 63, in Winston-Salem.

His total time in prison last fall: 38 days.

Authorities have said that Workman has confessed to slitting the Drake's throats, and that Shoffner was an accomplice. Workman has no previous criminal record in Davie County.

Shoffner's record is not unlike that of many

County Delays Budget Decision

Representatives from the schools and the arts council made a last ditch appeal for funding Monday night while county commissioners take a week to mull over the proposed $22.7 million budget.

The board will vote on the budget at a special meeting June 28 at 7 p.m.

School Superintendent Dr. Bill Steed asked the board to reconsider increasing the school budget 14 percent over last year. The 1993-94 budget that the county is considering increases school funding by almost 9 percent. A 14 percent increase would allow the system to add six new teachers and a liaison officer to help prevent school violence, Steed said.

"I think it is important that if we are to continue to improve as a school system we must be given extra consideration," Steed said.

Arts Council Director Jane Simpson asked the board to reconsider her request for $7,000 for arts programs for the schools. Commissioners are considering giving $6,000 to the arts.

If the county contributes and extra $1,000 this year, Simpson said she is eligible for another $1,000 in matching funds from the state.

Another resident asked the board to keep the budget as small as possible. "Everyone is always asking for more money," Harold Frank said.

"I'm asking you to keep the tax rate as low as possible for the senior citizens, retired folks and taxpayers. We've got a back-breaking load of taxes as it is."

Commissioner Chairman Carl Boon said the board wanted time to consider the fine points of the budget before it votes at a special meeting Monday.

Mother, Others Are Charged With Prostituting Girls

By Mike Barnhardt
 Davie County Enterprise-Record

Three local residents have been arrested for promoting the prostitution of a minor, and a fourth has been charged with supplying drugs to a minor.

The minors, all girls, range in age from 11-15. One of those arrested was their mother.

Almost all of the activity occurred in Mocksville, much on Main Street, said Mocksville Police Officer V.S. Fields.

"It's been a sad situation for a long time," Fields said. "We do the foot patrols and a lot of the merchants up on Main Street were inquiring about the little girls, why they were out that late at night. We had contacted social services, and some of the merchants had contact social services."

Fields said there wasn't much police could do unless a law was broken. Two of the girls, age 11 and 13, could be seen walking around town "at all hours of the night," including well after midnight.

Police have been investigating the case for several months, and got a break last month.

Among those arrested were two teen-agers.

Bobby Marion Booe Jr., 17, of Route 8, Mocksville, was charged with three counts of promoting prostitution of a minor (girls ranging in age from 13-15). He was taken into custody in lieu of a $6,000 bond, pending a July 22 appearance in Davie District Court.

The other cases involved two daughters, age 11 and 13, of Jamie Marie Allen, 31, of 156 Avon St., Mocksville. She was arrested June 17 for two counts of promoting the prostitution of a minor, distribution of marijuana to a minor and with assault. She was taken into custody in lieu of a $7,000 bond, pending a July 22 appearance in Davie District Court.

Her live-in boyfriend, Jeffrey Scott "Ace" Bailey, was charged with selling or delivering a controlled substance to a minor. He was taken into custody in lieu of a $5,000 bond, pending a July 22 appearance in Davie District Court.

James Arnold Lambert, 16, was arrested on June 16 for five counts of promoting prostitution of a minor. He was released in the custody of his mother, with a 9 p.m. weekday and 11 p.m. weekend curfew, and on the condition that he have no contact with juvenile females other than family members.

Officer Fields said area young people were cooperative in the investigation, and that the girls had been asked to sell their bodies for "a long time." Police reports indicated the girls had been asked to sell their bodies at home, and in an incident on Clement Street.

Social Services was called after the arrest, and they took the two girls, Fields said.

Animals found at the house were also taken after seen by Animal Cruelty Investigator Earl Hammer. "They were too skinny," Fields said.

Renegotiating the contract with Davie Sanitation could save money, he said. "There's not 425 pick ups in Cooleemee."

He also encouraged the board to adopt a limit on the number of houses we have," Beck said.

He recommended the proposed fee be stricken from the budget.

Cooleemee Wrestles With Budget Decisions

By Mike Barnhardt
 Davie County Enterprise-Record

COOLEEMEE — Town commissioners here couldn't agree on a budget for the upcoming fiscal year, and their opinions seemed as varied as those of town residents speaking at a public hearing last Thursday.

Instead, the board voted to continue with the present, interim budget until a new one could be agreed upon.

Major points of contention were garbage fees, recreation, the fire department and the police department.

A proposed budget had included a $5 monthly fee for residential garbage collection.

Commissioner Hayden Beck said he didn't like that charge, and said the town had been paying Davie Sanitation too much. The town pays for pickups at 425 households, and when checked, trash was picked up at 353 stops. "I'm sure that we're overpaying for the houses we have," Beck said.

He recommended the proposed fee be stricken from the budget.

Renegotiating the contract with Davie Sanitation could save money, he said. "There's not 425 pick ups in Cooleemee."

He also encouraged the board to adopt a limit on the number of houses we have," Beck said.

Little League Season: Boys Show Lots Of Class

The season ended Saturday. My Cardinals played their last game. It ended a season that seemed like both a lifetime ... and all too brief. We had a winning record, which always makes a Little League season more bearable. But more important, the boys were simply good kids.

They got along well with each other. They didn't talk back to the coaches. They didn't act like fools. They were respectful and pleasant.

That's pretty remarkable stuff for 11- and 12-year-olds. For years they have been the wide-eyed kids who marveled at the accomplishments of the older baseball players. Now, they suddenly realize they are on the verge of being those same big boys they have admired.

I have always appreciated the good examples many of the high school athletes have provided. In an age when athletes are celebrated for being obnoxious, some have decided to remain gentlemen in the public eye.

Matt Marion -- a high school and legion baseball player several years ago -- has long been one of my son's heroes. It was no small treat for our team to have Marion attend several of their games and help the team.

I had never coached baseball, and never played the sport as a boy. I didn't tell the team that, but they seemed to know. The umpire had to help me make substitutions one time. More embarrassing, I ran out to congratulate our boys for winning one game after the fifth inning. Little League games play six innings. Again, the umpire set me straight. I covered most of my shortcomings by recruiting some dads who did know the game. Terry Creason pitched for all the batting practice and was the third base coach -- the critical coaching spot.

I stayed in the dugout. My duty was the pep talk: "Jump on 'em early and don't let up." I only yelled at one kid -- my son. He took leave of his senses one night and swung on a 3-ball, no strikes count -- violating a cardinal rule of baseball. "But Dad, I hit it."

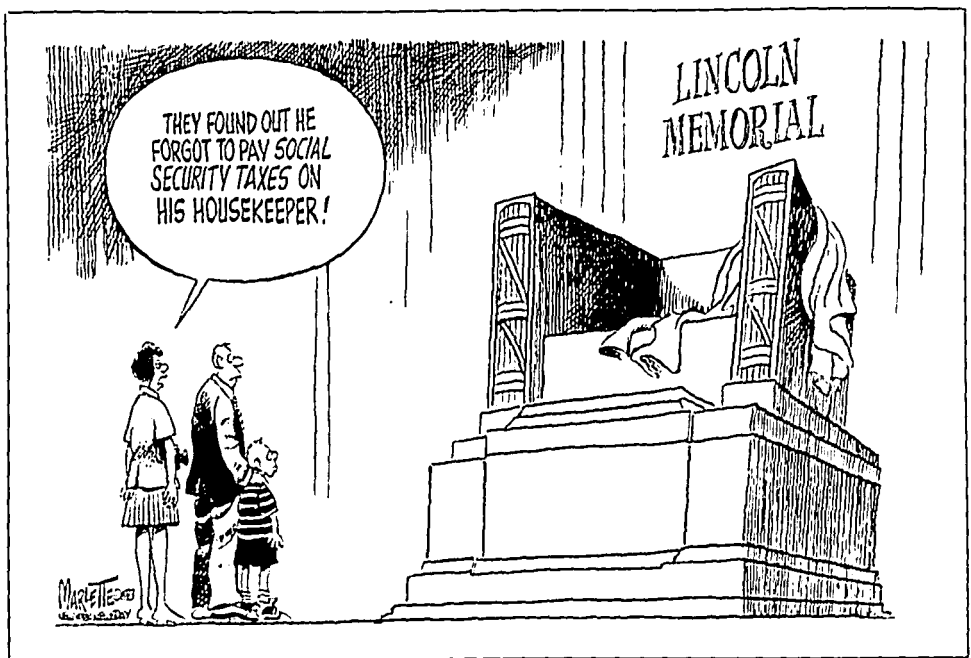

I had read many horror stories about coaching Little League. I knew about the coach that killed a parent in a fight over moving the boy from the catcher's spot to outfield. I knew about megalomaniacal coaches living out their childhood fantasies -- trying to do as coaches what they could never do as young players. I knew about belligerent parents who are convinced their children are bound for the Major League ... if only the coach could see their talent.

But I had promised my wife a normal season. How normal could it be with me coaching? I wrestled over batting line-ups and pitcher rotations in my mind every evening. But it was fun -- for me, and I hope for them.

My favorite moments? Walking out to the mound when the pitcher was in trouble. I always wondered what coaches say to a struggling pitcher. Now I know: "Throw strikes, OK?"

Our record was 11-4, good enough to tie for first place in our league. To celebrate, we took the team to Pizza Hut after the final game. It was there that I discovered the team's real talent is not on the baseball diamond. It's at the dinner table. They gobbled down two "Big Foot" pizzas in a matter of minutes. And they emptied countless pitchers of softdrinks. I think they could out-eat any team in the league.

Parents: Get Involved

To the editor:
As a member of the Advisory Council of South Davie Jr. High School, I feel compelled to write to you at this time regarding the proposed changes in principalships here in Davie County.

I have spoken to several employees in the school system asking their sentiments in regard to losing their principals for no apparent reason, and have been told repeatedly that they could not express their feelings in writing because of the threat of having the letter put in their cumulative file.

It is a shame that faculty and staff cannot voice their opinions in public for fear of losing their jobs. I've never known of anyone in recent history that could walk that much power and hold it over the heads of loyal, hardworking employees. If the employees of the county school system could voice their thoughts on this matter, 95% of them would heartily disapprove of Dr. Steed's decision to move our principals around like pawns in a chess game.

South Davie students won so many honors this school year and I'm proud of our school. It has been so because of the leadership of Mr. Julius Sutter. He is a tremendous driving force to motivate students as well as faculty. We need to come out as parents against these proposed changes and actively. The time for sitting on our rear ends and doing nothing for the betterment of our young people is over. Let's get involved and let the school board and Dr. Steed know that we as concerned citizens and parents are opposed to this subject proposal. Won't you please get involved?

Firefighter's Effort Was Successful

To the editor:
I want to personally thank all the volunteers who helped in the Chad Lipscomb Blood Drive on June 19, and for all the people who supported us by either giving of blood or with their time to make this endeavor a success.

We doubled our goal with a total of 98 pints. Also, from myself and the Davie County Firefighter's Association, thank you to the chiefs and volunteers who helped with the doughnut sale and the collection of donations on June 20. Thanks to the public for making these events a success. We sold all of the doughnuts.

It is always good to know that there is still a helping hand out there in this day and time.

Letters Are Welcomed

The Enterprise Record welcomes letters from its readers. The letters may be on topics of local, state, national or international issues.

An effort will be made to print all letters provided they are not libelous, vulgar or in poor taste. The editor reserves the right to edit letters for grammar and for space.

All letters should include the name and address of the writer, including a signature. A telephone number is also requested to test the legitimacy of the letter. It will not be published.

Please have letters in the Enterprise Record office no later than 5 p.m. Monday of the week to be published.

Lipscomb Family Thankful

To the editor:
We would like to use your paper to thank everyone for the support they have given our family since Chad has been sick. It would be impossible for us to thank everyone personally and hope they will accept our thanks this way. The concern people have shown has been incredible.

Yaikin Valley Telephone had a blood drive and met their goal of 54 pints. The Fireman's Association had a blood drive and donated their goal with 98 pints, with almost half as first-time donors. The doughnut sale was a tremendous success. To the volunteers and to the people who came to donate, we are extremely grateful.

With a disease like Chad's, your blood is his life support now until his body can produce its own. It is so important that people continue to give blood so people who depend on it will be able to get it.

To all of Chad's friends who have called, visited, sent cards and gifts, we would like to send a special thanks. Your being there for him has been so important. To all our friends who have sent food, donations, given blood and their time to help us out -- words cannot express our thanks.

Please remember there are other families who have sick loved ones who could use your blood and bone marrow. An hour out of your day could mean another year of life for someone else. Just remember it could be your family that needs help tomorrow. Please keep us in your prayers because that is where all our healing is coming from.

Uncle Roy And Aunt Annie — True Sweethearts

My dad lost one of his best friends early Monday morning. The Oak Grove community lost its most outstanding residents. And we all lost our "Uncle Roy."

But the saddest thing of all is that our "Aunt Annie" lost her beloved sweetheart.

Roy Williams died early Monday morning at Forsyth Hospital. Doctors said it was heart failure. Little did they know.

For several years now, Aunt Annie has been in declining health. She has survived catastrophic illness thanks to the tender loving care of her sweetheart. Uncle Roy looked after her until a few days before his death. He worried over her. He may have worried himself into sickness — worried over his sweetheart. Cupid knew what he was doing when he shot his arrow at these two 65 years ago. From day one, they were each other's sweethearts. Never have I heard Aunt Annie refer to Uncle Roy by any other name. Never did I hear one raise their voice to the other. They loved each other, respected each other. They were the perfect couple — the example of what love should be like.

Uncle Roy and Aunt Annie never had any children. Everyone refers to them as uncle and aunt, whether they are blood kin or not. They just make you feel like a member of the family. They loved us too. They loved everybody — a perfect example of what a love of mankind should be.

Above all else, Uncle Roy was a Christian. He was the rock at Oak Grove Methodist. If there was one thing you could count on at Oak Grove, it was Uncle Roy. He was always there, ready to do whatever necessary. He was always positive, a calm influence always looking at what was best for the church.

Our family moved from Fork to the Oak Grove community in the late 1950s, about the time I was born. We rented a house from Uncle Roy. Romping around Uncle Roy's land make up the happiest memories of my childhood. Swinging from vines, damming a small creek to try to make a swimming pool, and eating little green apples until my belly ached; had it not been for Uncle Roy's generosity, I may have missed these childhood pleasures.

My dad worked with Uncle Roy with the N.C. Department of Transportation in Forsyth County. At the company Christmas parties, I learned that Uncle Roy was just as well respected at work as he was in his home community. Everyone looked up to him.

My dad and Uncle Roy often rode to work together, and their friendship grew over the years.

In the 1970s, our family switched houses with Uncle Roy, just up Oak Grove Church Road from each other.

In recent years, the road wasn't the main route between the two houses. There was a path through the woods. Over the years, as kids used that path on a regular basis, a log, and at another time a board, was used as a foot bridge over the small creek, or branch as we called it.

Now, there's a regular bridge over the branch. Uncle Roy used it to drive his lawnmower to our house. My dad uses it to drive his lawnmower to their house. They built the bridge together, cut wood together, worked on lawnmowers together — things that make a friend a friend.

And every time Uncle Roy came for a visit, he would talk about his sweetheart at home.

We shouldn't worry for Uncle Roy and Aunt Annie, because God rewards true sweethearts.

Why Was 'Principal Of Year' Moved?

To the editor:
I would like to express an opinion about the changes in the administration of Davie County Schools. Mr. Suter selected me to serve on the Advisory Council for South Davie. I found him to be a caring, concerned person for all children. I find it hard to believe that this man, who was "Principal of the Year," was placed at the elementary school. South Davie needs his leadership as the school serves a special social-economic area that needs special strength and caring. Why should a man that has given so much to the county be put down?

Parents need to get involved within the schools and they would soon learn how much good leadership means. Please understand, I am not trying to put down Mr. Landry, but his strength is high school, not junior high or middle school. How will the students at South benefit from leadership that is geared toward high school?

Do we as taxpayers wish to give one man the "power" to rule our children's education in the way he has demonstrated in the past few weeks. Maybe it is time to look at the work of the superintendent and the board of education; after all, they are responsible to us as citizens of Davie County.
Instead of creating chaos - lets help our students get ahead.

Stevie Dalin
Mocksville

Principal Changes Nothing But Power Play

To the editor:
I would like to voice my opinion of the superintendent's round-robin move of administrators. It seems his job should be to look out for the welfare of the students -- not seeing how much power he can have. I must also state that I am surprised at our board of education giving him a stamp of approval for such a mixed up mess.

Taking Robert Landry from the high school and placing him at a junior high doesn't make much sense -- unless there are other reasons. Since Mr. Potts and Mr. Suter have both had training in middle school concepts - why the moves for them? Isn't this the year the schools are to move into the middle school mode? So we put a high school and an elementary person in these positions -- should be very effective. Also, when the high school picks up the 9th graders -- they will be dealing with a relatively new principal (trained for middle school), and at least one new assistant principal (maybe two).

My next thought -- will all these changes put tax dollars to the best use -- for students -- or will some of our money be used to make Dr. Steed's changes possible.
My last comment -- why shouldn't Mr. Landry receive credit for some of the good things he has accomplished at the high school -- what about the school within a school -- if it is successful -- let the people know (and show up to add support to the program).

Landry's 'School Within A School' Worked

To the editor:
For the past five years I have served on the Private Industry Council. This council serves Davie, Yadkin, Surry, Stokes and Rockingham counties. This organization has several purposes: to oversee the use of Job Placement Training Act (JTPA) funds, to develop programs supported by JTPA funds and to help provide financial assistance and training to the unemployed.

Those whom we serve are economically and socially disadvantaged. This clientele must fit at least one of the following categories: high school dropout, offender, AFDC recipient, on Social Services and socially, economically or physically disabled. Of those whom we serve, at least 51% must be high school dropouts.

Our job is rewarding and frustrating; rewarding because we see people become self-supporting and turn their lives around and frustrating because of lack of funds. Most importantly because the students are dropping out of high school faster than we can help them.

For the past six months I have been involved in planning a summer youth program called "Youth Challenge" for students at risk of dropping out of school. It was through this process that I met Davie High's principal, Robert Landry, and I learned about his "school within a school" program designed to help at risk students complete high school. The program has been a tremendous success.

Mr. Landry and his staff have committed themselves to reducing student dropouts through innovative teaching and programming. It came as a shock to learn that he was snatched from such a successful program that was not yet completed. There has been no rhyme or reason for recent administrative actions of the Davie County School Board.

As the old saying goes, "We learn from our mistakes", and we have certainly learned from this one. We learned about the lack of professionalism and short sightedness of the administration and the weakness and lack of vision on the part of the school board. We have also been made aware of how inadequate the school system is in general. Davie County can and must do better than this if we ever hope to improve our social and economic climate.

'MINE!' Is Worst 4-Letter Word

Just about the time my children learned to talk, they learned a four-letter word. It was terrible. Some days this was the only word they said, and it nearly drove me crazy. The word was "MINE!" and it was uttered with about that much emphasis. It meant get your grubby little paws off any and all of MY dolls, MY books, MY blocks, MY cars, MY anything and everything. And even if it isn't MINE, I want it, possession is nine-tenths of the law, so scram!

I can't tell you how many tears and hurt feelings and even occasional physical reminder of ownership, that this word caused in those early years. The only reassuring fact was that this was supposedly a normal stage children go through and wasn't just something peculiar to my two. I was told that with luck they would outgrow this selfish stage after a few years, a few time-outs and even a few smacks on the hand for pinching that nice little girl across the street just because she reached out and tried to grab our favorite teddy bear.

I remember when my son was around two or three, several friends and I decided to form a play group. There were four of us, three with boys and one with a little girl, all about the same age. I remember we decided this group would give our children a chance to learn some social skills, get used to brief separations from mother and allow them a chance to start making friends. This was great in theory, but what actually happened when the three other children arrived at the home of the fourth, their eyes grew enormous at the sight of all those "new toys," and they all made a mad dash for some object as if this were one of those one-minute shopping sprees at the local toy store. In the meantime, the child who "owns" these toys, get this stricken look on his face as if his mother has just let loose a swarm of hungry locust to feast on his every material possession. He suddenly goes berserk, screaming "MINE! MINE! MINE!" while his mother in a very calm voice tries to explain that his friends are just visiting, that sharing is a virtue and that everyone will be frisked before leaving. This was a learning experience, because the next week while we awaited the arrival of the other children at our house, my son piled all his favorite belongings into a closet and stood guard at the door with a Nerf rocket launcher.

A lot of people think this is just a childhood thing, a stage children go through around three and four, and once it's gone it never returns. But actually that's not totally true. I found it's likely to resurface in adulthood. The other day as I caught sight of my daughter hurry out the front door wearing my brand new, never-been-worn-by-me blouse, I grabbed the Big Squir Water Gun and chased her all the way up the street yelling "MINE!"

DIFFICULTY IN URINATION?

An enlarged prostate may mean you have BPH - BENIGN PROSTATE HYPERPLASIA. One out of three men over 45 have it. If you are over 45 and:

- HAVE TROUBLE URINATING
- URINATE OFTEN
- STOP AND START SEVERAL TIMES WHILE URINATING
- HAVE TROUBLE DELAYING URINATION - you could have BPH.

If you do have BPH, you may be able to take part in a 18 month clinical research trial for an investigational drug. Patients who qualify will receive FREE PHYSICAL EXAMS, BLOOD AND DIAGNOSTIC TESTING AND MEDICATION. Medical supervision provided by a board certified urologist.

Cooleemee Delays Budget Vote

bags, or cans, each household could place at the curb to be collected. "This might encourage people to recycle a little more."

When making that change, the board took the estimated $15,000 in landfill charges it would collect from the reserves, putting that fund lower than auditors and the state recommend, said Mayor Bill Gales. "We'll probably get a repayment from the auditor and the state."

"We're running to the wire," said board member Bill Cranfill. "We're going to have to have some revenue coming in somewhere. I would like to see a landfill charge, either that or a tax increase. That way, it keeps us out of trouble."

Cranfill also worried that the town wouldn't be able to pay expected increases in landfill tipping fees without the added revenues from the fees charged to town residents.

There was considerable discussion about the swimming pool, with Grimes Parker and Bob Jordan asking that enough money be left in the budget to open the pool next summer.

So far this year, the swimming pool is approximately $1,000 to the good, with no town money actually spent. A total of $16,000 has been allocated from reserves for the remainder of the summer, but it is not known how much of that will be used.

"We budget for everything else," said Commissioner Bob Jordan. "To me, recreation is just as important. It appears to me there's going to be enough money left in the budget."

Beck said his priorities for the town were police, garbage and street lights.

Town resident Kathy Riddle said the cut in the recreation department sent the wrong message to committees that had worked to keep the swimming pool open. "The $12,000 (budget cut) says to me from the board, 'If you think you're having trouble keeping the pool open this year, wait until next year.' I would like for youth to be a little higher priority — than police, garbage and street lights."

Resident John Hennes said the budget should meet needs first. "The budget and our taxes should primarily to make sure that we've served in these areas of things that we need."

Less than 10 percent of Cooleemee residents use the swimming pool, he said. "I don't think the town should have to provide a swimming pool, unless

Arts Council Seeks Program Support

The Davie County Arts Council has not yet reached its fund raising goal and is soliciting contributions. Executive Director Jane Simpson said as of June 21, the council had received commitments for $22,450. That is $17,550 short of the $40,000 goal.

Simpson said that although there were still several days left in June, the proposed school and community programming looked questionable. "Since all of the programming proposed for the next fiscal year is excellent, it would be difficult to decide where cuts should be made," she said.

Letters and brochures, with information about the 1993-94 fund drive were mailed. If you have not received information on next year's agenda and would like to, or would like to make a contribution, contact the Davie County Arts Council at 634-3112, P.O. Box 744, Mocksville, N.C. 27028.

Principal Changes Appear To Be Senseless

To the editor:
I'm writing to you regarding the changes in principals at all of the schools here. This doesn't make any sense. My daughter will begin school shortly at Mocksville Elementary and Mr. Albary was doing a good job there. Every one that I have spoken to said he was just super. If he is doing a good job, why does he have to move?

I'm sure that Mr. Saiter is a nice person, but after so many years in a high school and a junior high school environment, is he qualified to be around K-3 children? I'm thinking he needs to stay where he knows the problems and the children he has been around.

I wish that Mr. Steed would have asked the public's opinion before he made these changes. I do not see any positive aspects that can come from these changes.

Fit The Religion Into The Lifestyle

To the editor:
Most of these comments have been made before, however they bear repeating. A Catholic priest molesting young boys and girls has surfaced again. It had not gone away, it was just covered up and has resurfaced.

It's hard to read a newspaper or watch the news on television that you don't hear of some preacher running off with someone's wife, molesting someone in his parish or getting caught with his hand in the cookie jar.

I am in no way painting all preachers and priests with the same brush. However, you would have to use a detail brush not hit a few. I am not just speaking of television evangelists. I haven't the space or time to cover their shortcomings.

I always thought the true believer, Christian, Jew, Muslim, worked their itinerary around to accommodate their religion, not the other way around. Almost any occasion is an excuse, such as Mother's Day, Father's Day, dinner engagements, to reschedule church services. Wouldn't it be more practical to have the parties in question go to church together? What happened to the saying "Families that pray together stay together" or is that just a quaint outdated saying?

Don't bother calling me, I'm leaving on the next stage.

Glad To See Landry Go To South Davie

To the editor:
I was glad to read in the paper that Mr. Landry would be the new principal at South Davie Jr. High School. We needed a change, and I feel that Mr. Landry has a lot to offer this school.

Maybe with his help and caring, these children will stay in school and graduate.

I feel that there are so many that drop out of junior high before they even reach high school.

Of all the senior pictures this year there were so many that started with this group that were no longer in the class.

We as parents need to stay behind our children. We need to be in the schools to know what is going on. I made the mistake as a parent of thinking it was the teacher's job to do this, but as parents, we need to stay on top of all things that go on in the schools.

We have some teachers that I admire very much, and one of the best I know is Ms. Eanes. When she retires it will be a loss to the school and there will be so many children that will miss what she has to offer them. To me, she was one of the best teachers my child ever had. But then we have the other type of teachers and that is what's so sad. I've had to deal with this kind also.

To the teenagers: stay in school, get a good education, be all you can be, because you are a great asset to this country.

Writer Calls Davie Principal Changes 'Fascinating'

To the editor:
Fascinating is the only word that comes to mind when I read the proposed changes in the school system here in Davie County.

My husband and I had three children in three different schools this past year — one at Davie High, one at Mocksville Elementary and one at South Davie Jr. High. This is why I feel qualified to write to you at this time.

Why make these changes if it will not do our children any good. Admittedly, I am not on the school board, or have any degrees before or after my name; however, when it comes to the quality of my children's education, I'm compelled to take a stand on this issue.

Robert Landry is a fine educator and disciplinarian. This is what is needed at the high school.

"If it isn't broken, why fix it" is what Grandma always said. She had a lot of judgment. Mr. Saiter is a dedicated principal and knows what is going on at all times at South. How can our principal of the year be placed in an elementary school environment, without any training in the field of elementary education? I knew him when he was a teacher at the high school, and from there has moved up the administrative ladder. And now is taking on a principalship that is way below his qualifications. Does this mean he will lose money in taking this job? I'm sure if he were asked by most parents his preference, he would stay at South. We need him there. He is well aware of racial tensions, as well as all of the other problems at South. I know of no one else in the county school system that can do the great job Julius Saiter has done. No one.

I'm only one person, but I'm angry at a system that allows major changes without input from people involved in the decision. Does anyone on the Board of Education have a logical reason for these moves? If so I would like to hear them. I wish someone would do something about this situation. I'll be glad to help. Thanks for taking the time to listen to my complaint.

Advisory Council Member Awestruck By Decision

To the editor:
It is time that parents of students in the Davie School System wake up and see what is going on. I was awestruck when I read the paper two weeks ago and found out about the school principal changes. I held the school board as well as Dr. Steed responsible and accountable for these drastic changes, and I would like to have some answers to a few questions.

What are the reasons for reassigning all but one principal in the school system? Does anyone have any input into such decisions other than the superintendent? What specific improvements shall parents expect to see as a result of these reassignments? Do such arbitrary decisions without logical reasons for each specific move not cause tremendous morale problems among employees?

I understand that some of the principals have been trained in administration of the middle school concept. Does this decision not create a waste of time, effort, and money for the system and these people? Are we as parents to expect the "musical chairs" method of principal assignments to occur on a yearly basis? If some reassignments should be made for logical reasons, why not make those only? It seems a strategic move has been made to divert attention from certain areas that may be controversial. The community sees this as weak leadership.

Employees who are made to feel like victims of administrative decisions and inter-system politics become less productive employees and everyone loses, employees, students and parents.

Where are the local dollars are coming from to pay for all of the salary increases? Is Mr. Saiter taking a tremendous pay cut to go to the elementary school? I don't think so. However, Mr. Potts must receive a pay increase to go to the high school. Surely, Robert Landry won't take a decreased pay

Why Move Top Principal?

To the editor:
I would like to know why Julius Saiter, "Principal of the Year", with the most years of service in the school system was placed in the lowest position of principalship?

What is the advantage for our students by changing all but one principal?

Where was the board of education when this was done? Which one of you would like a slap in the face like that?

To the teenagers: stay in school, get a good education, be all you can be, because you are a great asset to this country.

To go to South. Where is the money coming from? I wish the county commissioners would withhold all local dollars until we get to the bottom of these "power plays".

I ask for all of the parents who read this letter and agree with me to call each of the school board members, call Dr. Steed at 634-5921, call each county commissioner. The only recourse we have as parents opposed to these changes is to let the county administration know how we feel, and want some answers. A grassroots organization is being formed at this time and our first meeting will be held this week. If you are interested in becoming involved please call me at 634-9766. For the sake of our children please take time to call and write and voice your opinion.

Dogs like these are ready for adoption at the animal shelter.

Plenty Of Dogs Want A Family

There are plenty of furry friends at the Davie County Animal Shelter who need a family to take care of them.

The dogs can be adopted for a $5 fee. Spaying and neutering is free if done in Davie County.

The Davie Humane Society will be at the shelter Saturday from 10 a.m. to noon to help area residents adopt a dog or puppy. The shelter is located at the end of Easton Road, off South Main Street in Mocksville between the overhead bridge and the car wash.

System Not Working

others convicted of non-violent crimes. Many have learned to work a system that is so overburdened with convictions that misdemeanors no longer mean jail time. Jarvis said, "Others opt to serve their time rather than accepting probation, which often includes paying court costs and restitution and meeting with a probation officer every few weeks. A jail sentence is often only a few weeks or months and when prisoners are released, they are often free from other obligations," he said.

The criminals are becoming arrogant, he said, and most know as much about the short length of their sentence as the district attorney and judge. Committing a crime has become an economic calculation — a trade-off of several months in jail for the economic benefits of larceny.

Shoffner was visiting a parole officer every month, not Jarvis, when the Drake's were murdered last week. But Jarvis was incensed to learn that authorities were linking the crime to one of his former probationers, one that he had watched get in and out of trouble. It was one more example of a legal system that has weakened under the weight of a number of cases it must handle.

"I can't say whether Eddie should have been in jail last Saturday night," Jarvis said. "His being out of jail didn't cause all of it, but it didn't help either. He should have at least served a larger portion of his time."

Jarvis said Shoffner was the type of guy who wanted to go straight and stop tangleing with the law. He had started his own lawn care business and was working steady hours. But the criminal mind works in strange ways, Jarvis said, and Shoffner would not have turned down an opportunity to make money an easier way.

"He's not this reckless, no-care-in-the-world maniac. It surprised me that he was involved in something like this."

The murder of the Drake's should spur people to do something about a criminal justice system that Jarvis said is not working anymore.

The length of punishment for a crime should be related to the severity of the crime, Jarvis said. And after several years of repeated offenses, Jarvis said Shoffner should have had a tougher sentence.

"I didn't even know the Drake's. But if that was my parents or grand-children, I would fight the stupidity of the legal system to the N'th degree."

Hopefully, people will demand a change in the system to keep offenders in jail longer, he said. It could start locally in Davie County and spread to the state.

"It's unfortunate that everyone sees what's happening but no one takes an active stance to stop it."

Legion On 12-Game Winning Streak

Mocksville, Rowan: One Thing In Common

CONCORD — People may be trying to make more out of the Mocksville-Rowan Legion baseball rivalry than they should. The teams proved last week that they actually have several things in common. Both talk trash when they have to. Coaches take up for their players — and players take up for their teammates. And both teams may consider Concord, not each other, as their most hated rival.

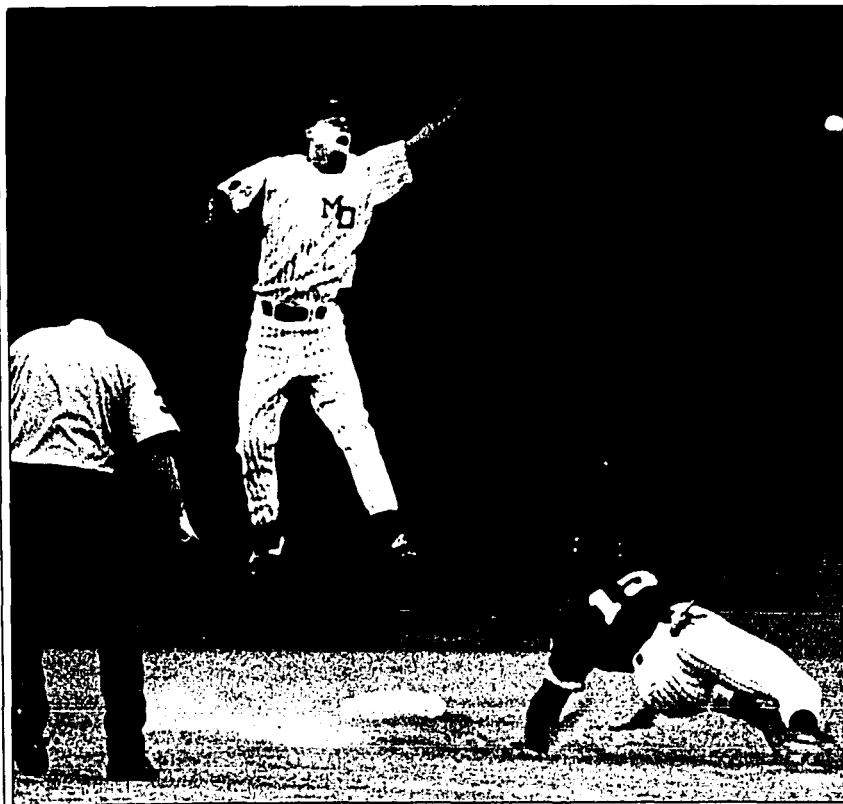

Walker

In one week's time, Mocksville and Rowan each spent a wacky night at Concord's Webb Field. In the past week, both teams traveled down I-85 and came away with victories — but not without enduring more shenanigans by the Southern Division's most infamous athletic officer, Ken Cook. Sunday's Salisbury Post reported that in Rowan's one-run victory Saturday night, a war of words and intimidation began between coach Jim Dehart and Cook. It began in the fifth when Concord scored three runs. Cook, who sits behind the backstop and serves as scorekeeper, reportedly began taunting the Rowan catcher and then, even yelled at Dehart.

Dehart is a lot like Dale Ijames. He doesn't take any crap, especially when it's directed at his players. He shot back a few choice words at Cook. "An athletic officer has no right to say anything to a coach," Dehart told the Post. Mocksville players chuckled when they heard the story. Cook and Concord had done the same thing to them a few days earlier in Mocksville's 5-3 victory. Only, they said it was worse. Players said Cook was calling Bubba Coleman by name, especially when a Coleman error in the fifth allowed Concord to take the lead.

Mocksville Three-Peats Over Post 8

By Ronnie Gallagher
Davie County Enterprise-Record

The Chicago Bulls weren't the only ones pulling a three-peat this week. The Mocksville Legion baseball team defeated Lexington Monday night 7-5 at Rich Park, giving Dale Ijames' team three victories over Lexington in a four-day span.

Ijames

It was the 12th straight victory for Post 174, the longest since Ijames took over five years ago. It left the team 14-4 in the Southern Division and 16-5 overall.

"I'm not counting the wins this year," Ijames said with a laugh. "We used to count and we'd get beat. This time, we're just playing them one at a time."

Tribble Signs Scholarship With Alabama

By Ronnie Gallagher
Davie County Enterprise-Record

Brian Tribble was describing what he would look like next year at this time. It sounded like he is in line for an acting job in a Stephen King movie. His head will be shaved bald. He'll shave his eyebrows. There will be no hair on his body whatsoever. Scary? Maybe in the movies but not in the pool. Tribble, a recent graduate of Davie High, has accepted a swimming scholarship offer to Alabama

Tribble

University. Even he says it's remarkable, considering Davie High School has had a swim team for only two years. "It's absolutely chance that I'm where I am," he said. "I'm real raw and there's a lot wrong with my strokes." But Jonny Stewart, the Crimson Tide coach, saw potential. Mike Smith, the Davie swim assistant, contacted Stewart and Tribble sent him film. "He must have liked what he saw," Tribble said. "He kept calling me." Tribble chose Alabama over East Carolina and William & Mary. "Other schools put me on a deadline," Tribble said. "ECU was offering me a pretty big scholarship but I really didn't want to go there. William & Mary wanted me for swimming and football. "After the high school state meet, I realized swimming was my sport. If I hadn't done so well, I'd probably try to play football in college." But his performance had college coaches taking notice. He missed the state title in the 50 freestyle by one-tenth of a second. He was third in the 100 butterfly. He was the mythical champion in the 100 free, considering he swam a 47.5 in his leg of the 400 relay. The individual time that won was 48 seconds. He also dropped a second off his 50 free time, which is basically unheard of. When the season ended, he was all-state and a YMCA all-American. "What I swam in the 50 would have won the

Patti Leads All-Star Team

White Sox Win Third Straight Major Title

By Ronnie Gallagher
Davie County Enterprise-Record

One defeat isn't going to get Vic Patti down, even if it did end his 11-12 year old Major League White Sox's 14-game winning streak in the final game of the season. The White Sox lost to Steve Ridenhour's A's 11-7 last week in front of a surprisingly large and intense crowd at the Davie Youth Complex. "It really tickles you to see that many people out there supporting little league baseball," he said. The loss reminded Patti of three seasons ago when his White Sox were in the same situation and lost the last game. "I think the boys put too much pressure on themselves to win for me and Gary (Holt, the assistant)," Patti said. "But we told the boys it had no meaning. We had won the league. But it's still tough to see guys crying." The game wasn't decided by the team's stars, either. Victor Patti and Drew Ridenhour, both sons of the coaches, pitched a dead heat through six. But they ran out of innings and were replaced. The A's scored four on a new pitcher to win. "I'm still real proud of the boys," Patti said.

Patti won the American League title for the third straight season. Along with Holt and the Indians' Maxie Melton, he will coach the district all-star team. "We practiced last night," he said Tuesday morning of his 14-man team. Patti admitted the American League hasn't done well once the district playoffs begin. "It's been two games and out," he said. "But we've played some real close games. We'll see if we can do a little better this year." The complete district playoff schedule for National and American teams are below.

National Majors
The Cardinals, coached by Dwight Sparks, and the Mudcats, coached by Danny Correll, tied for the Major League title in the National League with 11-4 records.

Key In Midst Of Comeback

By Ronnie Gallagher
Davie County Enterprise-Record

Denny Key's baseball season — and professional career — isn't over after all. The former Davie County High School and Mocksville Legion pitching star left recently for Winter Haven, Fla. and spring training. This is Key's third season in the Cleveland Indians organization. Last season, his second with the Indians, he was injured most of the year. He finally had doctors look at what he thought was a herniated disc. His father, Denny Sr., said, "They thought it was a herniated disc but opened him up and found he had a blood clot and chipped disc wrapped around a nerve." Key, 22, is expected to leave Winter Haven at any time. "They told him not to bring a car," he father said. "If he was in as good a shape as his physical therapist said, he'd probably be moving out pretty soon to Columbus, Ga." Columbus is Cleveland's Mid-A team which plays in the South Atlantic League. Greensboro's Hornets are also in the league. Another Mocksville Legion star, Jack Kimel, is in the ington did Monday night was take a 5-1 advantage into the bottom of the sixth. In a carbon-copy of the first two games between the teams, Mocksville overcame it to win. Post 174 scored two in the sixth, two in the seventh and two more in the eighth. And it accomplished the feat with only three hits. Lexington's throwing errors were the main reason Mocksville was able to win.

"Every night we find a new way to give it away," said Lexington's first-year coach Steve Younts. "I thought it might be different this time."

After 11 straight days of play, James is happy his team gets a couple of days off this week. Mocksville plays Wednesday at Statesville and comes home Friday against Mount Airy. After going to Wilkes County Saturday, Mooresville comes in Sunday.

Mocksville then has back-to-back games with Rowan County Monday and Tuesday. The Tuesday game will be at Rich Park. "We're tired," James said. "Our bats are slow and our legs are gummy, just from playing every day. But we've tried to rest people and we have the depth to do it."

The Comebacks
James likened this three-game battle with Lexington to a playoff series. Lexington just couldn't hold a lead.

• In the first game, Lexington led 4-3 in the seventh but lost 5-4.
• In the second game, Lexington led 6-1 in the sixth only to fall 12-8.

And going into the bottom of the sixth Monday night, it led, 5-1. "Hopefully, they were thinking about us coming back," James said.

Russ Pardee singled to open the sixth and Corbin Russell followed with a home run, his first in 45 at-bats.

It had been so long between homers, in fact, that Russell said he didn't think it was going to happen. "I thought it was routine," he said. "I hit it off the hands."

The game started slipping away from Lexington in the seventh. Josh Green had trouble getting the ball across the plate, throwing 22 pitches in the inning, only seven for strikes. David Vogler walked on four pitches to start the rally and Brad Bowender sacrificed him to second. After Bubba Coleman walked, Pardee's long fly allowed Vogler to tag and reach third with two outs. Russell then hit a grounder in front of the mound that Green threw into rightfield, scoring Vogler and Coleman to tie the game at 5-5.

"We could've been out of the inning," said a frustrated Younts. "Green said he could've tagged the runner going home. Well, that's the thing to do instead of throwing it into rightfield."

Daniel Warden came on to pitch the eighth but threw 34 pitches before leaving with a 7-5 deficit.

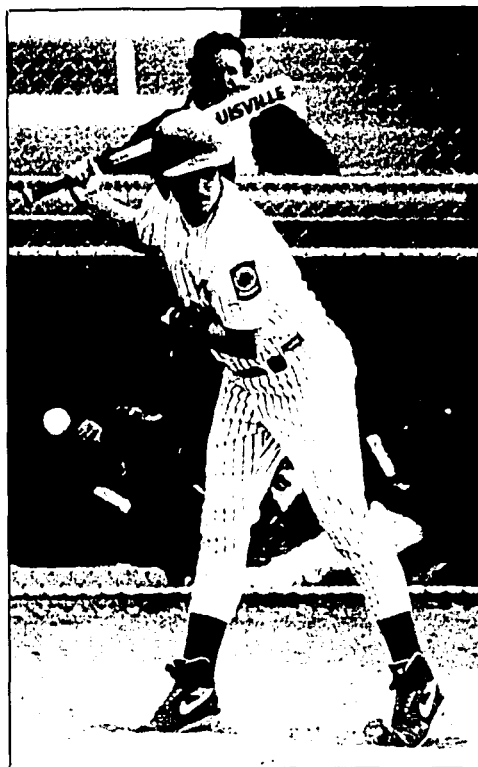

He too was victimized by Lexington mistakes. A one-out walk to Brad Mechem, an error and a passed ball had runners on second and third. A groundout to second scored Mechem and when the ball was thrown away, Bryan Johnson also scored.

"We wanted to make their pitchers throw a lot of pitches," James said.

Bowender was 2-for-2 with two sacrifice bunts. "I hope they know we've got good pitching," he said. "We'd like to hold these scores down and prove it."

Notes:
• After beginning the season 4-1, Lexington has lost 10 of its last 13.
• Russell had four homers in his first 10 at-bats.
• King threw 77 strikes and 46 balls. He improved to 3-0.
• Bowender began the season 5-for-22. Since then, he is 6-for-10.
• The Southern Division playoffs begin July 4.

But the real fun came in the seventh inning with Mocksville trailing, 3-2.

Campy Walker singled in the tying run and was on second when Brad Mechem singled. He headed for third when the ball was thrown away. "When I got to third, Coach James told me to go home," Walker said.

Walker, this year's top trash talker in the Southern Division, barreled home, clubbing catcher Mike Starnes and tying the game.

"The catcher was sitting there like a duck," Walker said. "He thought he had a play but he should've gotten out of the way when I'm coming with a full head of steam. I pretty much killed him and that got me in trouble down there."

Walker was stunned — and amused — by the fans' reaction. "They were yelling, 'We hate you, Bubba!'" Walker said.

The first Mocksville player out of the dugout was Coleman. "Bubba was the first one out there to pick me up," Walker said. "He started jiving with the P.A. announcer (reportedly Cook) who had been yelling at him."

"We're the best, you can't beat us," Walker said Coleman screamed at Cook.

"That got us rumped up," Walker said. "We knew we were going to win. The fans were talking junk and we were talking junk. They were crossing every word."

When Walker came to the plate in the eighth, Mocksville led, 5-3. He remembers that at-bat vividly.

"The fans started yelling, 'Hit number 19 in the head. Kill him,'" said Walker. "I grounded out and it was the first time they had cheered all night."

So Walker ran by them holding up five fingers, then three fingers, indicating the score.

Five fingers, three fingers. "And then came all the obscenities from the stands," he said. "Brad (Mechem) came up to bat. I guess they thought he was the one who nailed the catcher — and drink, the pitcher hit him."

James told Walker that pitch was meant for him and he better ask Mechem's forgiveness. "I told Brad I was sorry," Walker said sheepishly. "If I'd known they were going to hit him, I'd have gone ahead and let them hit me."

Ho-hum. Just two typical Legion nights in Concord. But Concord's fans intimidated neither Rowan or Mocksville. If nothing else, Cook probably fired them up. Walker said both teams feed off of a fiery attitude. "We like Salisbury's players," he said. "We're a lot alike."

Last season, Brett Hansen, a pitcher from East Rowan, was Rowan's chief trash-talker. But Walker said Mocksville didn't hate Hansen because of it. "We'd have given anything if Brett Hansen could've come up here and played with us," he said.

Walker laughed, remembering the Southern Division's best 4-of-7 championship series last year, when Rowan swept Mocksville in four straight.

"We talked so much trash — team-wise and with the fans," he said. "But they're okay. Salisbury has some good ol' boys off the field."

Concord was in first place until it ran into the Mocksville-Rowan connection. And the teams, especially Mocksville, made quite an impression. "They've got a lot of fire," Concord coach Scott Gentry told the Concord Tribune after the 5-3 loss. "We need some of that fire, but we don't need their bushiness."

They also don't need Ken Cook sitting behind the backstop.

state the last four years," he said. When Stewart showed interest, Tribble was sold. He flew down for a visit, where he roomed with John Olsen, two-time Olympic gold medal winner and assistant to Stewart.

"They showed me the football stadium, the Bear Bryant Museum, everything," Tribble said. "The campus was awesome."

Tribble will get 20 percent in his first year, considering Stewart had only one and a half scholarships to give, after bringing in nine freshmen.

"One of them is from France and is 18th in the world in the 100 butterfly," Tribble said. "He's getting most of the scholarship. The rest is being split up between us. Next year, I'll get a lot more."

What A Story
Even Tribble thinks it is remarkable that a school as nationally prominent in swimming as Alabama would take a chance on an athlete that has not been a full-time swimmer. The men's team finished 17th in the NCAA's last year and the women were eighth. Along with Tennessee and Florida, the Crimson Tide is considered among the Southeastern Conference's best.

"It's a far cry from when Tribble began swimming at age nine for Clemmons West."

"I'd do okay in the championships, getting maybe a bronze medal every now and then," he said. "But just winning that built a hunger inside."

He moved to Hickory Hill where he built a friendship and rivalry with West Forsyth's Scott Danielson. Ironically, Danielson accepted a swimming scholarship with Alabama's biggest rival, Auburn.

Tribble laughed. "First, it was Hickory Hill and Clemmons West. Then West and Davie. And now Alabama and Auburn."

"Most swimmers start training when they're 10 years old and train year round," he said. "I've basically been swimming for three years, six months out of the year. When I get down there, Jimmy said I'd have world-class potential, he'll redshirt me so I can get that extra year of endurance. I wouldn't mind that at all."

Leaving Home
The only difficult decision was choosing a school so far from his Mocksville home.

"It's kind of eating away at me but I have aspirations so high," Tribble said. "I want to make the Olympics by 1996. That's my goal. Someone may think that's a long shot but I realistically think I can do it."

He ones that dream to his YM-CA coach Willie Clement.

"He has made me what I am," Tribble said. "He knows so much about swimming. He can put me through real hard sets that I think are stupid and three weeks later, I'll say that really makes sense. He also taught me stroke technique. He's the perfect coach."

Now, he'll be moving on to Stewart, a South African who has coached in the Olympics and once held the world record in the 100 freestyle.

"He's showed me the little things," Tribble said. "He said if I could increase the length of my stroke by one inch, I could go from a 45 to a 43 in the 100 free. The man is so smart."

He is always a player's coach who enjoys all sports at Alabama. "I played Urban Gorilla on his computer," Tribble said. "He

The district little league playoffs in junior and senior boys, major league boys and girls softball have been posted by district president Marshall Hall of King.

Davie National and Davie American will have all-star teams participating.

The complex should have a boys night on July 5. Two baseball teams and girls softball team are all scheduled to host games at 7 p.m.

Ridenhour, the American president, said Hall is trying to change the schedule. He told Davie officials he was worried someone may get hurt by ball bats with all three being played at the same time.

The district schedule follows:

Major League
• Davie National will play at home against SouthWest at 7 p.m. If the Nationals win, they will host the Winston-Salem Nationals July 7.

Davie American will host Alamance at 7 p.m. July 5 with the winner East Rowan July 7.

Junior Boys
(13 year olds)
• Davie National will host Alamance July 2 with the winner facing Davie American, which got a first round bye on July 3.

Senior Boys
(14-15 year olds)
• The Davie National all-stars travel to High Point July 2. The winner will play at South Forsyth

July 3.

Davie American travels to Kernersville July 3.

Senior Girls
(13-15 year olds)
• Davie American will play the winner of Southwest Forsyth and King July 8 away from home.

Junior Boys
(11-12 year olds)
• Davie American is set to host Kernersville July 5. If it is victorious, it will host SouthWest in the next round.

Kearse with Charleston, S.C. Key, a 1989 graduate of Davie, has been working out with his former Legion coach Dale James at Glenn High School in recent weeks.

"Yeah, he started throwing with us," James said. "It was a real good thing. It gave him some work and my kids got something out of it too."

James said Key was a little tight at first but began loosening up gradually.

"Denny's arm is really strong," he said. "We worked on some mechanical stuff and I think when the sun, we was beginning to click again."

James had to work as hard on getting Key in the right frame of mind as he did getting him in top physical condition.

"I think he went to Winter Haven with a very upbeat feeling," James said. "He's more mature and willing to learn."

Key's father echoed those feelings.

"Physically, he's about 95 percent," Key Sr. said. "He says the only thing he can't do is a real deep toe touch. Other than that, he's okay. His legs are in great shape and his arm is in great shape. So he's really looking forward to it."

And then, there's the shaving process.

"It's an unbelievable feeling when you get in the water with no hair on your body," he said. You just glide. You feel faster — you are faster. When it's SEC championship time, I'll be bald."

And when he's not swimming? "I guess I'll have to wear a toboggan in the winter."

Homers Propel Mocksville, 12-8

LEXINGTON — Lexington was feeling pretty good after the fourth inning of Sunday's game with Mocksville. It felt for and appeared ready to snap Post 174's 10-game winning streak.

But for the second time in a week, Mocksville overcame a Post 8 lead with home run power to win, 12-8.

Mocksville's comeback began in the sixth inning with a four-run rally. The big blows were RBIs by Bryan Johnson and Russ Pardue, cutting the margin to 6-5.

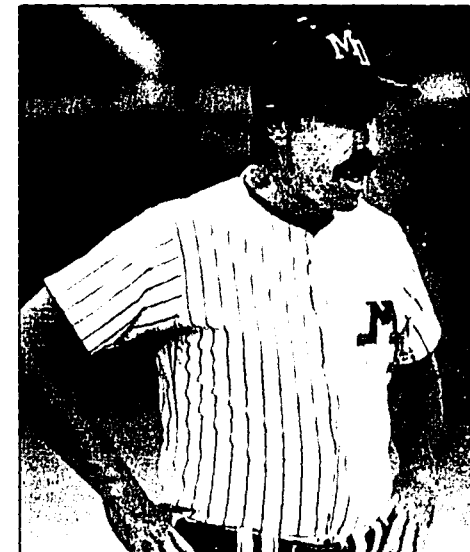

A six-run seventh was highlighted by David Vogler's grand slam homer, scoring Brad Mechem, Campy Walker and Johnson. One out later, Pardue slammed a two-run shot. That put Mocksville up 11-6.

Lexington cut the lead to 11-8 in the seventh and a bases-loaded walk to Bubba Coleman made the final score.

Mechem continued his hot streak, going 4-for-5 in a 12-hit attack. Johnson was 3-for-5 and Pardue 2-for-6.

Brack Beal went 4th in the seventh and a bases-loaded walk to Bubba Coleman made the final score.

Comeback Beats Lexington, 5-4

In the most exciting game of the year to date, Mocksville defeated Lexington in a wild, 5-4, 10-inning contest at Rich Park.

The team's eighth straight win put Mocksville in first place in the Southern Division.

Brock Keene was engaged in a scoreless duel after the top of the sixth before Mocksville gave him the lead with two in the bottom of the frame.

Bubba Coleman walked and scored on a wild pitch. Russ Pardue then walked and later scored on a sacrifice fly by R.J. Speaks.

Mocksville made it 3-0 in the seventh on Keene's RBI groundout, scoring Vogler.

Keene entered the eighth with a two-hit shutout but left with the score tied at 3-3.

Coach Dale James brought in Darby Correll, who only made it one-third of an inning. He was spiked while covering home plate with two outs. Dennis Kaykendall took over and got the final out on three strikes.

Mocksville had a golden opportunity to win in the eighth but Campy Walker struck out with men on first and third to end the inning. But he would be heard from again.

King, Vogler, Matthews, Keene. Keene allowed only three hits but Matthews finished with the win. Mocksville had seven hits.

Trailing 4-3 in the bottom of the ninth, Mocksville came through with the tying run. It loaded the bases with no outs and David Vogler scored on Marcus King's double-play grounder.

In the bottom of the tenth, Brad Bowender singled, stole second and went to third on Bryan Johnson's sacrifice bunt. Walker then had another chance and produced, singling home Bowender with the game-winner.

Keene struck out nine but walked seven.

Early Barrage Hands Stanly Loss

Mocksville wasted little time in putting its game with Stanly County away, less than an hour after the start of the game.

Post 174 scored six runs in the first inning, led by Corbin Russell's run-scoring single, David Vogler's two-run triple, Bryan Johnson's sacrifice fly and Stephen Ashworth's RBI single. Jason Reuter also scored on an error.

Mocksville made it 9-1 in the third. Andie McSwain scored on a wild pitch. Ashworth scored on Coleman's double play ball. Campy Walker's RBI single scored Brad Bowender.

Stanly cut the lead to 9-3 in the fourth but a Coleman single and his first homer of the season in the fifth. Bowender's single scored Ashworth in the sixth for the final run.

Mocksville led 15 hits to 12 for Stanly. Walker, Bowender, Ashworth, Russell, Vogler and McSwain all had two for the winners.

Reuter went 6th in the seventh, giving up 11 hits and four runs. John David Craker threw 15th in the ninth.

Post 174 Crushes Statesville

Statesville is on the bottom of the Southern Division standings, and Mocksville made sure it stayed there last week with a 14-1 victory. The game wasn't broken open until late. Denver Walker had an RBI single in the second and Bubba Coleman stole home in the third. Statesville was within 2-1 after the top of the sixth.

Post 174 then broke it open in the bottom of the sixth with six runs on only two hits. Corbin Russell got the big blow, a two-run single, which helped put Mocksville ahead 8-1.

Six more crossed in the eighth. A two-run single by Brad Mecham and a three-run home run by R.J. Speaks led the way.

Brack Beal turned in another good performance, going eight innings, giving up five hits and striking out six. Stephen Ashworth pitched the ninth.

Notes:

- Dave improved to 10-5 overall and 8-4.
- Statesville fell to 2-11.
- Sixteen players saw action and 10 got hits.
- Russell's hit broke a 1-for-9 slump.
- Mecham also walked 10 times.
- Beal threw 61 strikes and only 29 balls.
- Leadoff hitter Bubba Coleman scored three runs and stole three bases. Speaks scored two runs.
- In his first three at-bats, Bryan Johnson saw 12 pitches, all balls, and walked three times.

Mocksville 5, Concord 3

Concord Knocked Out of First

Mocksville is proving to be good at first place showdowns. After beating Kaniapolis last week, Post 174 met up with Concord and beat it too, 5-3.

Trailing 3-2 going into the seventh inning, Mocksville scored twice. Campy Walker had an RBI single, scoring R.J. Speaks, who had doubled. After a Brad Mecham single, an error on the pitcher scored Walker.

Bubba Coleman scored the final run in the eighth when he singled and scored on two errors.

Marcus King had given Mocksville a 1-0 lead in the first with an RBI single, scoring Russ Pardue. In the fourth, Pardue knocked in a run.

But Concord retook the lead in the fifth, setting up the comeback. King went 8 1/2 innings, giving up seven hits and striking out seven. Scott Matthews went the final two-thirds of the inning.

Mocksville had 11 hits.

Mocksville 20, Mooresville 5

Mocksville: 20 Runs, 20 Hits

Mooresville Legion coach White Meadows always likes to visit Mocksville.

He just wishes he'd get a little better treatment.

His team was whacked 20-5 Saturday night, as Mocksville bopped 20 hits.

Mocksville started quickly, scoring five in the first. Corbin Russell had an RBI single, R.J. Speaks an RBI double, Campy Walker a two-run double and Brad Mecham a run-scoring double.

Mecham kept it up in a six-run second with another double, knocking in two runs. Brad Bovender then stroked a three-run homer and Mocksville led 11-2.

Walker had a run-scoring single in the third and Mecham completed his hot-hitting night with a two-run homer in the fifth. That put Post 174 up, 15-3.

Speaks knocked in the 16th run in the sixth.

Mocksville then added insult to injury with four more in the eighth and did it with three straight pinch hitters.

After three walks loaded the bases, Brack Beal, Dennis Kuykendall and John David Crider — all pitchers — had RBI singles.

Mecham finished with six RBIs and three hits. Speaks also had three. Getting two hits were Walker and Vogler.

Notes:

- Fourteen different players scored runs and 14 had hits.
- Vogler went eight innings, striking out six and giving up eight hits. Kuykendall pitched the ninth.

Speaks Improves In All Areas

R.J. Speaks made the most progress in a week's time in the legion stats.

The burly Speaks hit his first homer. He went from 2 to 5 doubles. He went from 4 to 10 runs scored. He went from 4 to 11 RBIs. And to top it all off, the rising Forbush senior leads the club in ERA with a perfect 0.00 and even has one of the team's 4 saves.

The team ERA is 3.10. Scott Matthews and Brack Beal have 3-0 records.

Russell Signs Scholarship With Louisburg Junior College

When Corbin Russell was drafted recently by the San Francisco Giants, they said they wanted to control where he went to school.

He took their advice and has signed with Louisburg Junior College, one of the nation's top junior college programs.

"It's one of the best in the United States, for sure," said Legion coach Dale James. "In the south, only some of the Florida schools are up there with them. That's where Brian Taylor (a bonus baby for the New York Yankees) was going before he signed."

Coch Franzer said getting Russell, the North Carolina Independent Schools Player of the Year, will keep the Hurricanes on top.

"Corbin has a five arm and the potential to be a fine hitter," Franzer said. "He is the kind of player we look for and I am pleased he will be with us."

Russell's high school stats were eye-popping. He batted .490 with six home runs and 40 RBIs. He got a piece of the ball consistently, striking out only twice all season. He was even 13-for-13 in stolen bases.

Russell said he will join two of James' Glenn High School players, Randy Pegg and Chad Faircloth, at Louisburg. He chose the Hurricanes over Spartanburg Methodist, Pembroke State and Western Carolina.

He has been nursing a knee injury and now says an operation won't be necessary until after Legion season is over.

"Louisburg said I was penciled in as the starting catcher," Russell said. "They have full ball but I'll be in rehabilitation then."

"Right now, my knee only hurts when I squat. I'll be playing rightfield and first base a lot," James said. "That's where all the drafted players go. San Francisco has control of him until next year's draft. He could go to them in a year or go back in and be drafted again."

College scouts have been attending Mocksville Legion games over the past two weeks, looking at Marcus King.

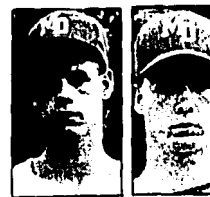

He's got one fan in Concord's Scott Givins.

After throwing 8 1/2 innings against Post 51 in a 5-3 win last week, Givins told the Concord Tribune "He was great. That's the best catchball we've seen all year."

Home Run Derby
There were two homers last week by unlikely sources that turned on the Mocksville fans and turned the players on even more so.

Against Stanly County, Bubba Coleman hit one toward the foul pole in Rich Park's leftfield. As soon as he hit it, he dropped the bat and just watched it — Barry Bonds style.

Legion Notes

Coleman hit one toward the foul pole in Rich Park's leftfield. As soon as he hit it, he dropped the bat and just watched it — Barry Bonds style.

Later in the week, light-hitting Brad Bovender sent a three-run shot out and was mobbed.

David Vogler and Brad Mechem also hit big homers in wins.

Upping The Record
Mocksville was wondering if naming Rich Park Mando Stadium a few years ago was a good idea. The Legion immediately began losing and had a losing home record come into this season.

But in the midst of this 12-game winning streak, Mocksville has won eight straight in Mando Stadium.

The winning streak is the longest in Dale James' five years at Mocksville.

Injury
Mocksville lost a player for three days last week when pitcher Darby Correll was injured in a play at the plate against Lexington.

Correll had faced in to over the plate when Daniel Warden came home and slid into Correll, cutting a gash into the knee.

"I tagged him out and he spiked me," Correll said. "I didn't even know it was cut. Corbin saw my pants spit open and so was my leg. It didn't start bleeding until I got up here to the room."

Correll was taken to the hospital, where he was told he was out for three days.

"They gave me a choice of stitches or surgical tape. I took the tape. It's not sure."

It was nothing serious," said James. "But it was a big loss for us at that point. He needed the rest."

baseball team is having fun on its tour of North Carolina.

It's not winning — but it is having fun.

Darke County went home Sunday after a seven-game swing through the Tar Heel state. After losing to Rowan County, it stood 2-14 on the season and was winless in North Carolina.

But coach Don McDermott said the experience was a good consolation prize.

"The trip to North Carolina has been a great pleasure for me personally," said McDermott, a former sportswriter for the newspaper in Washington, N.C. and now a political writer for the Greenville, Ohio paper.

The June 12-19 trip cost each player $700. McDermott persuaded the parents the trip would be good because of the quality of baseball in this state.

The Diamonds started their trip losing to Rowan County, but formed the team to give players who were cut by the powerful Greenville, Ohio team a chance to play.

"My thought was give 20 more kids a chance," McDermott said. "At least, they have an opportunity to play."

"My thought was give 20 more defensive players than I remember," McDermott said of the North Carolina teams.

Darke County hurried back to Ohio for a game Sunday in Springfield, Ohio. It will play 36 games in 44 days.

Darke County will also travel to Indiana, Michigan, Kentucky and Illinois for games and will host a wooden bat tournament.

"We might go north next year," McDermott said, hinting the team may go to Minnesota.

Twenty-Three Named All-CPC

Cuthrell Named Conference's Most Outstanding In Track

A total of 23 Davie County athletes were named all-conference in six sports.

Included was one Player of the Year recipient in Hamilton Cuthrell, who was named in boys track. He was undefeated in the 100 and 200 meters through the conference season and regionals and anchored the 400 and 800 relay teams.

The junior finished with a best time of 10.4 in the 100 and placed sixth in that event in the state 4-A track meet in Chapel Hill.

The following is a list of the spring sports winners in the Central Piedmont Conference:

Baseball: Davie placed five on the all-conference team. Bubba Coleman, Brad Chapman, Brad Mechem, Marcus King and Brock Keene were all named.

Others were Jason Moore, Derrick Magrard, Gerald Parr, Andy Schneider and Martin Barron (Grimsley), Mike Berrier, Scotter Brookshire and David Garmichad (Parkland), Laymar Marshall, Andre Speaks and Chris Vernon (Mount Tabor), Scott Dunning and Ryan Nelson (Reynolds), Mike Patterson and Chad Berrier (South Rowan) and Joey Douglas (West Forsyth).

Couch of the Year: Ernie Faw of fifth place South Rowan.

Player of the Year: Gerald Parr of Grimsley.

Softball: As in baseball, no team had more all-conference players than Davie County. Casey Jenkins, Andrea Gentry, Jennifer Bell and Jonette Willard were all named.

Bell and Willard are freshmen.

Conference winner West Forsyth also had four: Jaime Hunter, Gina Infinger, Katie Tobin and Jennifer Hoke. Others were Nicole Brubaker, Nicole Wellman and Levia Gambill (Mount Tabor), Sunya Roberts and Summer Nelms (South Rowan), Delinah Leonard and Vickie Burgess of Parkland, Deborah Hult and Christy Owens (Reynolds), Kim Shackle and Jeanne Lingo (Grimsley) and Beth Christian (Dudley).

Couch of the Year: West Forsyth and former Davie coach Dennis Key.

Player of the Year: West Forsyth and former Davie player Jaime Hunter.

Success Davie placed two on the all-conference list. Becky Cope and Denise Boyd were named. Grimsley had seven players named while Mount Tabor had five. West Forsyth had three (Kathy Ennis, Tyler Fultz and Christy McMahon).

Couch of the Year: Grimsley's Herb DeGruin, one of the state's winningest coaches.

Player of the Year: Grimsley's Debbie Forrester.

Golf: Davie had three in Brian Long, Chad Carter and Karsten Staasing.

Others making the team were Korky Kemp (Grimsley), Jason Lamer, Matt Tullus and Ryan Shout (West Forsyth), Fred Corbier (South Rowan), John Jamerson and Charlie Shecky (Reynolds) and Jimmy Penberton (Mount Tabor).

Player of the Year: Grimsley's Kemp, who has signed with N.C. State.

Couch of the Year: Ray Bell of champion West Forsyth.

Terrie Brad Van Hay made the all-conference team from Davie. Other winners included Ben Rubin and Matt Fearington (Mount Tabor), Ben Storch and John Millner (Reynolds), Jay Lewandowski and Lars Kallhaus (West Forsyth), Devane Desai, Brian Kinlaw, Josh Beldsoe and Bill Harwell (Grimsley) and Frank Robinson (Dudley).

Couch of the Year: Randy Alexander of Grimsley.

Boys Track: Hamilton Cuthrell, James Clement, Chad Alexander and Richard Dunn made it from Davie.

Dudley led the way with 14 selections. Andy Rogers, a former North Davie student, made the team for West Forsyth, along with Titan teammates Brad Lewis, Greg Yasser, Marcus Villegas and Brian Kiser.

Player of the Year: Davie's Cuthrell, who was undefeated in the 100 and 200 meters throughout the conference season and regionals.

Couch of the Year: Marvin Lambeth of Dudley.

Girls Track: Maria Newsome, Sherry Blackwell, Tracie Sechrist and Christina Cassidy made it for Davie.

Dudley led the selections with 10. West Forsyth had four: Julie Smith, Stephanie Anderson, Nicole Chelster and Christina Allen.

Player of the Year: Kim Wilson, a sprinter and state champion from Grimsley.

Couch of the Year: Cron Earhart of South Rowan and Charles Nettles of Dudley shared the award.

Hickory Hill Swimmers 0-2

Hickory Hill fell to Willow Run, 502-263 and lost to Old Town, 433-389.

Landing To Willow Run
Willow Run brought a large number of swimmers to Hickory Hill, which has its smallest team in six years.

The 13-14 boys and 9-10 girls won their age divisions, however.

In the 13-14 boys, Ryan Powell led Hickory Hill with wins in the backstroke and butterfly as that division outscored Willow Run, 44-33. Seth Newman took a first in the 50 freestyle while the medley relay team (Powell, William Johnson, Brad Clark and Larry Umberger) won.

The 9-10 girls won their division, 51-48. Megan Clark won three events: freestyle, individual medley and breaststroke. Nancy Vogler won in a backstroke event. The medley relay team of Clark, Vogler, Lauren Davis and Sarah Stein took first.

Other firsts:
9-10 Division: Johnson had two wins.
11-12: Erin Umberger, Brad Clark and Larry Umberger each had a win.

15-18: Felicia Swan won two events. The medley relay team of Swan, Mary Catherine Steed, Eleanor Bailey and Stephanie Carter took first.

Old Town Wins
The boys actually won their half of the meet with Old Town team, 196-180, but it wasn't enough.

A big win came from the 13-14 medley boys relay team (Powell, Clark, Newman and Erik Crutchfield). Austin Powell won five individual firsts, Larry Umberger four, Newman three and Ryan Powell, Clark and Johnson all with two. Andrew Barber had one.

Other relay teams that won were:
• The 11-12 freestyle team of Barber, Newman, Nick Davis and Scott Henderson.
• The 13-14 freestyle team of Powell, Newman, Crutchfield and Umberger.

• The 15-18 medley team of Dusty Wheaton, Drew Newman, Chris Rigenho and Davis.
The girls were outscored 253-193 but the 13-14 division beat Old Town, 54-35.

Clark again led the girls with three firsts. Swan and Erin Umberger each had two wins. Meghan Callahan, Jennifer Gamett and Kristy Armstrong all had one first place finish.

The 13-14 girls medley relay team (Callahan, Garnett, Dana Mullis and Amanda Shortt) and the freestyle team (Callahan, Garnett, Armstrong and Mullis) was a winner as well.

Notes:
• Hickory Hill is 0-2.
• The team is coached by Karen Umberger. She is assisted by Kelly Covatt.
The 13-14 boys medley relay team set a team record against Old Town.
• Hickory Hill goes to Brookside June 22 and to Clemmons West June 24.

Airtite Wins Showdown, 15-12

The second big showdown of the Mocksville/Davie Parks and Recreation Department's men's open softball league turned out like the first big showdown.

Hart's Pizza fell to Airtite for the second time this season Monday night, 15-12. Airtite is 13-0 in the league, while Hart's is 11-2.

The second loss to Airtite was more painful than the first. Hart's led 7-0 after three innings.

But in the top of the fourth, Airtite exploded for nine runs.

Rick Allied began the comeback with a two-run homer. Andy

Softball

Everhardt's RBI single brought home another and Craig Johnson's two-run single made it 7-5. Alan Chapman's single tied it at 7-7 and Steve Parker's two-run single put Airtite up, 9-7.

Hart's didn't fold, taking a 12-9 lead into the seventh.

But again, Airtite wouldn't be denied and again, it was Allied that came up with the big blow. His second homer cut the deficit to 12-10.

Area Sports

The Mocksville/Davie Parks and Recreation Department will hold a summer basketball camp for boys and girls in grades 3-6 July 19-23 at the Brock Gym.

There is a $25 fee, which includes a t-shirt. Registration ends June 25. No one can register after that date.

Registration forms can be picked up at the Brock Gym. For more information, call Joe Boyette at 634-2325 (day) or 634-3877 (night).

YMCA Camp

The Davie Family YMCA has scheduled summer youth girls and boys basketball clinics, beginning July 12.

A girls clinic will be July 12-16. A boys basketball clinic will be held July 19-23 and 26-30.

On July 19-23, kindergarten through second grade will be from 9-10:30 a.m. Grades 3-5 will go from 10-12 noon.

There is a $30 pre-registration fee for members at YMCA by June 1 and $35 after June 1. Others will be $50.

Watts will be helped by Corey Deese and Gerald Roberts.

For more information, call 634-9622.

Pfeiffer Coach To Hold Camp

The Davie Youth Complex behind North Davie Junior High School will be the site of the Pfeiffer College Youth Baseball Camp July 11-15.

Chip Smith, a former scout for the New York Yankees and currently the Pfeiffer coach, will conduct the clinic. Donnie Poplin, a scout for the Seattle Mariners, will also be there, as well as Pfeiffer player Matt Marion.

The cost of the camp is $55 which includes insurance and an instructional t-shirt. Fundamentals on hitting, fielding, catching and defense will be taught. There will also be competitive games between the participants.

Camp will be from 9 a.m. until 12:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

For more information, or for ap-

Pageant Celebrates Women Of Today

Sonja Denise Allen was crowned Miss Dark & Lovely 1993-94 Saturday night in a pageant celebrating "today's woman." It was aptly sponsored by the Le Jour des Femmes (Women of Today) club.

"We have emphasis on the non-traditional woman, non-traditional in careers, non-traditional in talent," said Mocksville native Willie J. Taber, emcee. "Today's woman, you have endured many, many crises, but somehow you still rise. Women, I am very, very proud of you."

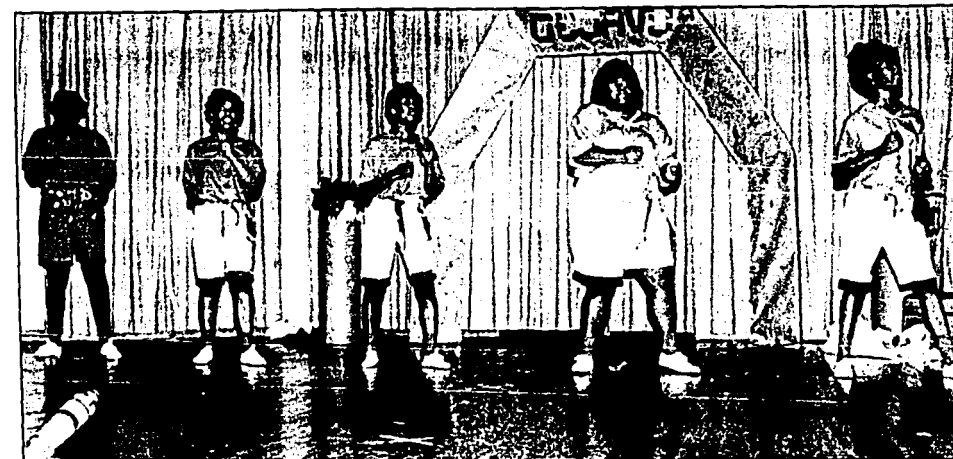

Allen, 18, is the daughter of Shirley and Smitty Allen. She is a 1993 graduate of Davie High School and hopes to become a registered nurse and cosmetologist. She will receive a scholarship from the Doretha Wilson Scholarship Fund.

First runner up was Tina DeShawn Rivers, 16, daughter of Patricia and Harold Rivers. Other contestants receiving plaques were: Willette Rufina Francella Kimbrough, 19, daughter of Reginald and Inita Gailther of Mocksville and William and Sandy Kimbrough of Statesville; Shanetta Natasha Nichols, 17, daughter of Clifford and Connie Nichols of Mocksville; and Krysta Yvonne Scott, 17, daughter of Clyde and Gladys Scott of Mocksville.

The contestants were judged in playwear, talent and evening gown competitions.

A special award was presented to Alice C. Gailther, pageant director unable to help organize this year's pageant because of a sick family member.

Willie Studevent, club president, thanked club members and the community for support. "We have tried to bring you culture ... and help in any way in the community. But we could not do this without your support."

Performing in the opening routine are contestants, from left: Sonja Allen, Willette Kimbrough, Tina Rivers, Krysta Scott and Shanette Nichols. The theme of this year's pageant was "Deja Vu."

Camille Kimbrough helped with NAACP drawing.

Alice Gailther received award for work with pageant.

Sonja Allen received a standing ovation when singing "I'm Fully Committed" during talent competition.

Tucker-Caudle Couple United In Marriage At Tanglewood

Angela Dare Tucker of Route 1, Advance, and Joe David Caudle of Mocksville, Jason Cegar of Mocksville and Timmy Heath of Winston-Salem.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Tucker and escorted by her father, wore a princess style gown of satin and lace by Mori Lee. The gown featured a sweetheart neckline and short puffed sleeves accented with a satin bow. The heavily beaded bodice was adorned with Almon lace, pearls, and sequins. The back of the gown formed a deep vee in the neckline with trailing bows down the train. The headpiece was an arrangement of satin and silk flowers with a tulle veil.

Miss Lesley Tucker, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Leigh Anne Drane of Clemmons, Miss Kelly Roberts of Mocksville, Miss Amy Heath of Winston-Salem and Miss Kimberly Hilton of Mocksville.

Jamie Caudle was his brother's best man. Ushering were David Stevenson of Mocksville, Jason Cegar of Mocksville and Timmy Heath of Winston-Salem.

Programs and thank you scrolls were presented by Mrs. Cameron Connelson. The guest register was kept by Miss Kim Driver.

Miss Ivey Cloiz of Advance directed and performed vocals. The wedding director was Mrs. Peggy Evans of Mocksville.

Birdseed favors were handed out by Miss Kimberly Hilton of Mocksville.

Special decorations and the bride's garter were prepared by Barbara Lambeth, the bride's aunt.

Kevin Kerr was the videographer at the wedding and reception.

The bride is a 1989 graduate of Davie High School. She trained in licensed practical nurse education and early childhood development at Forsyth Technical Community College and attended Mitchell Community College. She is employed at Kountry Komer Daycare in Advance. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Edward Caudle of Mocksville. He is a 1989 graduate of Davie County High School and is a lance corporal in the U.S. Marine Corps. On Aug. 10, he will complete his four years of service.

The couple spent their honeymoon in a cabin resort in Gallatin, Tenn.

Reception Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Munroe and Winston banquet rooms at Holiday Inn of Clemmons.

The items served consisted of assorted finger sandwiches, vegetables and dip, fruit spread centerpiece, assorted cheeses and crackers, mixed nuts, and fruit punch from a fountain.

The wedding cake was a tiered basket weave design, adorned with yellow roses, baby and fresh flowers.

Rehearsal Dinner A dinner was given by the groom's parents on Friday evening at Tanglewood. The menu consisted of smoked chicken, pork barbecue, baked beans, potato salad, rolls and eclairs.

Social Events A lingerie party was given by the bride's sister, Lesley Tucker, at the home of the bride.

A miscellaneous shower was given by the bride's aunts, Judy Tucker, Shelby Hilton, and Barbara Lambeth, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Don Tucker.

A "time of the day" shower was held for the bride by the staff of Kountry Komer Daycare at Bogart's in Salisbury.

A bridesmaid luncheon was held at Graylyn Conference Center off Reynolds Road. A menu of gazpacho chicken martini, and steamed vegetables was served. A dessert of banana pound cake with ice cream and hot fudge sauce was served on the outdoor patio. The bride chose this time to present gifts to the brides-

Mocksville Class Of '53 Holds Reunion

The 1953 class of Mocksville High School held its 40th reunion Saturday, June 19, at Smith Grove Ruritan Building with social hour beginning at 5 p.m.

Punch was served as the 77 in attendance renewed old acquaintances.

Name tags made from the 1953 annual pictures were pinned on 35 graduates and four teachers. Other name tags were pinned on five classmates and all spouses. The tables were decorated with yellow candles, flowers in black and white baskets and place mats copied from the class diploma.

The Rev. Keith Tutterow, class president, who served as master of ceremony, had two candles lit and asked for a moment of silence in memory of the deceased members: Douglas Daniel and Carolyn Smith Daniel.

After the meal, prepared by the Ruritan, each one told the group what they had been doing the past 40 years. Certificates with gag gifts went to Dean Murray for the most children; Dorothy Smith Green and Dean Murray for the most grandchildren; Kenneth Lanier for youngest child; John Hodgson for farthest traveled. The crusade is geared toward young people, but all ages are invited. For more information call 998-6302 or 998-4920.

Education Begins To Help Public Learn Food Labeling Laws

It's time for food manufacturers to make preparations and for the public to be educated about the U.S. Food Nutrition Labeling Act, said a N.C. State University professor.

"Some companies support it because the labeling makes their product look good," said Dr. John Rushing, an associate professor of food science and a specialist with the Cooperative Extension Service at NCSU.

For others, particularly smaller companies, the law, which will dictate more extensive labels, will cost more money. "Technically, they're not geared up for the labeling. They're not industry specialists with teams of scientists," Rushing said.

Full nutritional labeling is now required only when a food product makes a nutritional claim or when the product - such as milk or enriched bread - is fortified.

Under the new law, which becomes effective next May, nutritional labeling will be mandatory for most processed foods. Exempt will be small businesses with less than $50,000 in annual sales.

In addition to packaging their products with the more complex labels, manufacturers will be required to analyze their products whenever they make ingredient or processing changes.

The labels will have to include information on such things as fat, calories, calories from fat, total fat, cholesterol, carbohydrates, sugars, fiber, protein, sodium, vitamins A and C, calcium and iron.

It will be optional to feature information on such nutrients as potassium, sugar alcohols, thiamin, riboflavin, niacin, vitamin B6, zinc and iodine. Thiamin, riboflavin and niacin were mandatory in the past.

The trend toward eating foods that are low in fat and cholesterol and high in fiber and protein make the labeling law palatable.

"If the consumer uses it, it will be beneficial," Rushing said. "I think it's going to take a lot of training to teach consumers to read the labels. I suspect it'll probably take 10 years before it's useful information to consumers."

Rushing and other extension specialists will help educate food processors and consumers.

Cooperative Extension is holding a nutritional labeling conference Aug. 23-24 at NCSU in conjunction with the N.C. Department of Agriculture, the USDA, the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the Association of Food and Drug Officials and the Food Processors Institute.

Geared toward processors, the conference will feature a workshop on what the law involves and how manufacturers need to rework their labels.

Rushing and others also will work with food agents in each county and with state and local regulatory personnel.

Spiritual Resources Weddings & Marriage

By the Rev. Hampton Morgan Jr.
 June is the month for weddings. More couples tie the knot during this thirty-day period than in any other. Pastors at some of the larger churches have been known to conduct two or three weddings on a single day in June. No sooner has one happy couple said their vows and headed off for the reception than the custodians and florists are busy setting up for the next ceremony.

I have officiated at and attended quite a number of weddings over the years. Just when I think I have seen everything go wrong that can possibly go wrong, I see something else.
 There was the time, years ago in the Virgin Islands, when the bride and her father arrived forty minutes late. Paralyzed by their disastrously late arrival, they quickly added catastrophe to calamity by rushing down the aisle and taking their place at the altar before the groom, best man and I had any idea what was happening. When we finally slipped in and took our places, everyone's emotions had unraveled. The bride was distraught and embarrassed, and her father was frazzled. Then, when I looked down at the groom, the expression on his face terrified me. I prayed he did not have a gun in his tuxedo. I believe he would have used it. I am still not certain he ever said, "I do." It was not a happy occasion.

At another wedding -- where I was a guest -- it became evident midway through the ceremony that something was not right. Members of the wedding party were whispering to one another while the minister was trying to extol the virtues of marriage. The groom was whispering to the best man, who was gesturing to someone sitting with the guests. Even the bride turned around and mouthed a silent message to her mother. At length the mother excused herself and returned three or four minutes later, handing something to the best man. It was the ring. Though it all the minister demonstrated that he had learned his seminary lessons well. He kept talking, and that wonderful smile never left his face.

When I preside at a wedding, I try to anticipate any number of things that can go wrong. I coach the best man to pick up any rings that are accidentally dropped. I tell the maid of honor to remember to help the bride with her gown and bouquet. I remind the couple not to burn themselves with the unity candle. And I even carry a handkerchief to extend to anyone whose tears get out of hand. I learned that one the hard way.

Once, I performed a ceremony for a couple of different nationalities. The bride was from the United States and the groom was a Frenchman. During the ceremony he became so filled with the emotion of the moment that he began to weep uncontrollably and his nose began to drip profusely. A veritable river. All over his tuxedo. I watched helplessly. Finally, he grabbed a pocket handkerchief from his best man's coat and blew his nose loudly. The bride was really touched. And I learned to carry a handkerchief.

Several years ago, I discovered that I was not prepared for just anything. It was a small wedding -- bride, groom, close family members. I had led the couple through their vows, the exchanging of rings, and so on. I indicated for them to kneel and pronounce the blessing. Helping them both to their feet, I nodded to the groom to signal that the ceremony was over and that he could kiss his new wife. Before he could do so, the smiling bride, reached up and kissed an astonished me. Such a look on a groom's face I never want to witness again.

 The Bible introduces Adam and Eve as not only the first members of the human family, but as the first married couple. Their wedding ceremony was rather uncomplicated compared to most that I perform. After creating her out of Adam's own body, God presents Eve to her husband. Understanding immediately who she is and what is going on, Adam exclaims "At last!" The story closes with this simple statement about marriage: "Therefore shall a man leave his father and his mother, and shall cleave unto his wife; and they shall be one flesh." (Genesis 2:24)

In his outstanding little book, I Married You, the late Walter Trobisch says that Genesis 2:24 is "like a deep well filled with clear drinking water. You can lower your pall into it as long as you live and it will never come up empty." It presents three essentials for marriage: leaving, cleaving and becoming one flesh.

"Leaving" involves two things. First, there is the declaration of the intent to marry. This involves such things as the public announcement of the marriage, the securing of a marriage license, and the request for parental blessing. Second, leaving involves both a physical and emotional departure from the homes of the couple's birth and upbringing to begin a new home.

"Cleaving," the second essential for marriage, includes the aspects of love and commitment. Love, not just in the sense of romantic attachment, but love in the sense of faithfulness, respect, care, and commitment. This kind of love is based on promises and hard work. The result, which is expressed in a more accurate translation of the Hebrew word "cleave," is that husband and wife are "glued" together.

Finally, marriage requires a husband and wife to "become one flesh." This describes the sexual aspect of the relationship. Marriage is the only biblically recognized context for a sexual relationship between male and female. Within marriage, however, the mutual giving of one's sexual powers to the spouse is highly encouraged and greatly blessed.

Marriage has been around a long time. Even in our generation, when so many marriages have failed, women and men continue to desire the blessing and happiness of matrimony. The basic ingredients of such were defined from the beginning -- leaving, cleaving, and becoming one flesh. Marriages that grow and flourish will ever seek to learn the wisdom embedded in these three things.

Yadkin Streams Part Of Study

Selected streams in the Yadkin/Pee Dee River Basin will be sampled by volunteers from Forsyth, Surry, Stokes, Yadkin and Davie counties July 31 to determine water quality.

Volunteers will be conducting Benthic Monitoring, a low cost method of determining a stream's health by the presence or absence of certain organisms, such as mayflies, stoneflies and caddisflies. A similar Benthic monitoring project was conducted on the Catawba River Basin last year.

The Yadkin/Pee Dee project is part of a regional water quality project which will be coordinated by local council of governments throughout the basin.

Other councils of government in the project include: Piedmont Triad (Greensboro), Western Piedmont (Hickory), Pee Dee (Rockingham) and Centralia (Charlotte).

Funding for the project is through a grant by the Division of Environmental Management.

Volunteers interested in participating may contact Chuck Sams at 919-727-0663 or Don Dumas at 919-760-0922 after hours and on weekends.

Cornatzer Methodist Church First Organized In 1902

By Betty Jean Bowers
Church Historian

In 1902, a small group of people in the Cornatzer community bought a house near the present Cornatzer-Dulin Fire Department and organized the Cornatzer Methodist Church.

The Rev. M.H. Vestal was the first pastor and Tom Cornatzer was the first Sunday School superintendent. Following Vestal as early pastors of the church were: the Revs. W.M. Curtis, C.S. Parick, L.L. Smith and Rev. Ferrington.

In 1911, Ance Cornatzer gave an acre of land three-tenths of a mile north of the present church site. The old house in which the church was first organized was torn down, moved and rebuilt at the new site. This was completed in 1914 with the Rev. J.M. Varner as pastor and Frank Bailey as Sunday School superintendent. Other early pastors were: the Revs. E. Myers, Rev. Snow, J.H. Brendall, W.M. Ralburn, F.E. Howard, P.L. Smith, J.C. Genry, Rev. Trollingier, L.L. Lysterly, and Foster Loftin.

Early Sunday School superintendents were: George McDaniel, Dave Potts, and Mary Allen.

Early members of the church and the year they joined: Mr. and Mrs. Tom Cornatzer, Ida Jane McDaniel Hendrix, Mr. and Mrs. Cicero Smith, 1902; Frank Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. R.A. Bowers, Agnes McDaniel, Minnie McDaniel Melton, Sallie Nail, 1904; George McDaniel, 1909; Jessie Cornatzer and Jack Jones, 1911.

Leona Bowers, 89, is the oldest surviving church member. She was recognized in January for having perfect attendance at church in 1992, her 19th year of perfect attendance.

On Oct. 4, 1950, the late Albert E. Bowers purchased 2.4 acres of land and gave it for building a new church. Charlie Vogler gave an adjoining acre for a cemetery. A meeting of the congregation was held at the old church and a building committee was elected. The building of the present church was started in 1951 and completed in 1952.

The pews and pulpit furniture were purchased for the church. Lighting fixtures in the old church were removed and restored by George McDaniel and are still in use. The church bell was moved from the old church to the present location and is still operable.

Free of debt, the church was dedicated in 1954 with the Rev. William Anderson as pastor and Garland Bowers as Sunday School superintendent. Later pastors were: the Revs. D.D. Brooks, Cameron Dodson, and Carl A. Lain.

During the 1964-1967 term, Carl Lain was pastor, a new educational building was started. The Rev. Forrest Church followed as pastor for one year and during Church's term, the educational building was completed. On Sunday, June 28, 1970, dedication services were held with Presiding Bishop, Earl G. Hunt Jr., and District Superintendent, Dr. Charles G. Henmon Jr. taking part.

The Rev. Ardis Payne was pastor. Following Lain as pastor: the Revs. Dwight Ludwig (1967-1968), Forrest Church (1968-1969), Ardis Payne (1969-1973), Jack Luther (1973-1981), Rev. Gibbs (1981-1984), Bill Farmer (1984-1987). The Rev. Alvin Pope became pastor in 1987 and is in his sixth year.

Past Sunday School superintendents not previously mentioned: Kermit Sheaf, Derry Barnhardt, Bob Hayes, Tim Allen and Bob Whitaker. Alvin Whitaker and Bob Powe are current superintendents with Michael Pope and G. Vernon Hendrix Sr. as assistants.

Three past superintendents, Derry Barnhardt, Kermit Sheaf and Bob Whitaker, were called into the professional ministry. Barnhardt and Sheaf are in the Methodist Conference Whitaker is in the Baptist ministry. All three are active in their ministries.

In 1983, Garland Bowers gave 1.1 acres for a parking area.

On Jan. 30, 1969, Cornatzer organized a charter of United Methodist Women when Ardis Payne was pastor.

In the early 1970s, the church sanctuary was remodeled, including brick-ing the outside of the church sanctuary and constructing a new steeple on top. The lighted brick outdoor bulletin board in front of the church was erected and the sidewalks were cemented. New carpet was installed in the sanctuary and the windows were replaced with new stained glass memorial windows, given by church members in memory of or in honor of loved ones.

In the mid-1970s, air conditioning was installed in the sanctuary and the parking lot and driveways were paved.

In 1986, the project to pad and cover the church pews was started and was successful with church members donating a pew in memory of or in honor of a loved one. Also in 1986, Bob Powe became a certified lay speaker. In 1991, he was named Lay Leader Of The Year and became a member of the Glidcons.

On Sept. 17, 1987, the church bell was rung for 200 seconds to commemorate the 200th anniversary of the signing of the U.S. Constitution. The bell was rung by George Hathan Allen, a church member who was in the Armed Forces.

In 1989, a wooden mailbox was purchased and placed in the educational building for use by church members. It was made by Jimmy Nail and presented to the church by his father, Robah Nail.

In 1990, the remodeling of the educational building began, consisting of an A-frame roof being erected and walkway and a central air conditioning system being installed. The roof of the church sanctuary was recovered with new shingles.

In 1991, mini-blinds and valances for the educational building were donated by Sunday School classes. A new floor covering for the nursery was donated by the women and mens classes.

Several donations have been given by church members, including two offering plates, a wooden credenza with a glass enclosure and an old Bible displayed in the credenza in the vestibule, two reversible permanent sets with matching stoles, an organ for the sanctuary, an altar set of a cross and two candle holders, a large picture of Jesus which hangs in the pulpit, Communion linens, a Baptismal bowl, two wooden crosses, a piano, carpet for the parsonage, electric clocks, a wooden hymnal board, two flower vases, an intercom system, a large Christian flag and stand, a large American flag and stand, a large new Bible, a candlelighter, a hand-drawn picture of the old white frame church that was built in 1911, a cordless microphone and sound equipment, and outdoor carpet for the outside entrance to the church sanctuary.

The church has an active choir under the direction of church musician, Maxine Hendrix.

Services are: the 1st and 3rd Sundays, worship at 9:45 a.m. and Sunday School at 10:45 a.m.; the 2nd and 4th Sundays, Sunday School at 9:45 a.m. and worship at 10:45 a.m.

'Musical Extravaganza' Is Sunday At The Brock

D. Gray Productions will sponsor a "musical extravaganza" at 3 p.m. Sunday at the Brock Auditorium.

All churches, youth groups and local choirs are invited. Admission will be $2.

Featured groups will be "Friends in Christ" of Mocksville, "The Ambassadors of Christ" of Barber, "The Revelations" of Kannapolis, "Brother Raymond Gray" of Woodleaf, the young adults of Freedom Mission of Woodleaf, and "Eternity" of Morganton.

Special guest will be Thurman Lilly, producer of Gospel Expo on WHPH TV-8 in High Point.

Donald E. Gray is the writer, director and producer of the musical play "Destruction" which was held at the Brock Auditorium a few months ago. The play shows the effects of drugs, including crack cocaine and alcohol, can have on young people.

The play will be performed at Ovens Auditorium, Charlotte, in December. He hopes to take the show to Atlanta next year.

He will hold auditions for the play on Thursday, July 8 in Mocksville and Salisbury.

Gray, of Woodleaf, is the grandson of Bishop W.O.K. Gray and the late

Donald E. Gray

Minnie Lee Gray. "My goal is to reach and encourage the young people to let them know that there is a better way than drugs."

A short skit from the play will be performed at Sunday's show.

Big 'Ol Fish Davie Young People Go For The Big One

As Justin Boger pulled a bass and shellcracker from a Davie County pond last week, he was thinking about what the fish would taste like on his dinner table.

"Man, these are nice 'uns. I'm gonna have a fish fry."

Justin was among about 28 children who went fishing last week in "Operation Catch" sponsored by the N.C. Wildlife Resources Commission.

The children participate in Davie Cooperative Extension 4-H programs. Commission Officer Tim Lemon brought the fishing tools, and he talked to the children about fishing, water safety, and how to be safe while fishing.

But the children were there to fish. "I'm fishing for bass," said Randy Miller, 7. "They're bigger."

Zack Yokely, 6, caught his first fish. "Yee, I got one," he yelled. John Scott Boger said he goes fishing with his dad. "I've already caught a baby bass," he said. "He fought pretty hard."

Blaine Willard, 7, took a different approach. "I'm trying to catch some of these little bream. I've already got one," he said.

Two Attend Resource Workshop

Joseph Sutton and Aaron York were among approximately 100 rising junior and senior high school students who attended the Resource Conservation Workshop at N.C. State University in Raleigh June 20-25.

The Davie Soil and Water Conservation District selected them to attend this workshop. Both are students at Davie High School. York is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Junior York of Route 4, Mocksville. Sutton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Sutton of Route 1, Mocksville. All expenses to attend the workshop were paid for by the Davie Soil and Water Conservation District.

The purpose of this workshop is to give students an opportunity to learn about conservation through a five-day study in soil erosion, water quality, forestry management, abundant wildlife, urban erosion control, soil conservation practices and stream watch "Adopt-A-Stream" program.

The 1993 Resource Conservation Workshop was sponsored by the N.C. Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts, the N.C. Chapter of Soil and Water Conservation Society, and the Department of Soil Science at N.C. State University.

The Association represents about 500 men and women from 94 local soil and water conservation districts who voluntarily lead programs on soil and water conservation. Work of the districts is supported by the Division of Soil and Water Conservation in the Department of Environment, Health and Natural Resources.

Tim Sain served refreshments. District first place honor was awarded to Julie Allen on her cumulative record book in the senior breads division.

She is a member of the Davie Academy 4-H Club and the daughter of Louise G. Allen and the late S.B. Allen.

DHS Students Touring Europe

Seven Davie High French and Spanish students, one University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill sophomore and one parent will be leaving for Europe on June 23.

The tour will begin in Paris, France, where students will visit the Louvre Museum, home of the Mona Lisa; the Eiffel Tower; Notre Dame cathedral; the Place de l'Opera; the Tuilleries Gardens; and other landmarks. A trip to Versailles Palace, built by Louis XIV, will show students where in 1919 the treaty was signed ending World War I.

A few hours travel from Paris will take the group to the Chateau Country of the Loire Valley. Featured will be the Castle of Chenonceaux and Chambord, with its 450 rooms and 365 fireplaces.

An overnight train ride will take them to Madrid, Spain where they will visit the Puerta del Sol (Madrid's "Times Square"); the Plaza de Espana with its Memorial to Cervantes; the Plaza Mayor; Parliament and other areas. The group will visit the Prado Museum housing the works of Spain's renowned artists, such as El Greco, Velasquez, and Goya.

Also included is a visit to the 18th century Royal Palace built during the Bourbon dynasty. From Madrid the group will go to Toledo. The last stop on tour will be El Escorial, home of the Monastery built by King Philip II and the Valley of the Fallen.

Several Mocksville and Davie County students have earned college awards and honors.

Nine students from Davie County were named to the Western Carolina University dean's list for the spring semester 1993. To qualify for the dean's list, students must achieve at least a 3.5 grade point average out of a possible 4.0 in a regular semester's work of not less than 12 academic hours.

The students receiving the honor were: Alan Carl Pinn of Bermuda Run, Cynthia Anne Italy of Route 5, Mocksville; Michael Stephen Barton of Route 7, Mocksville; Tracy Denise Bell of Route 3, Mocksville; Devin Matt Brown of 206 Azalea Drive, Mocksville; Deborah Ann Evans of Route 2, Mocksville; John Lee Kennedy of Route 9, Mocksville; Carol Sue Roach of Route 3, Mocksville; and Robert Martin Staley of Route 2, Mocksville.

ASCS Accepting Acreage Reports From Farmers

The Davie County ASCS office is accepting acreage reports and certifications from farmers. The June 15 deadline previously announced has been extended to July 1 due to the wet weather this spring.

Farmers participating in the 1993 wheat and feed grain acreage reduction program are required to report and certify planted acreage to qualify for program benefits.

Blue-cured tobacco producers are required to report planted acreage to obtain price support benefits. Participants in the 10-year Conservation Reserve Program are required to report acreages to be eligible for annual rental payments.

Farmers not participating in any program in 1993 are encouraged to report planted acreages to protect the farm's crop acreage base.

Failure to file a crop acreage report may cause the loss of all program benefits, reduction or loss of future year's crop acreage base and a loss of price support for blue-cured tobacco.

Jockey Tri-A-Thon Raises $1,500 For Swimming Pool

The employees of Jockey International, Inc. hosted and participated in the third annual Jockey Tri-A-Thon to benefit the Coolesme Swimming Pool. They raised approximately $1,500 as a donation to the pool to offset operating cost.

Filing For Town Elections Opens On Friday, July 2

Filings will begin at noon Friday, July 2, for the mayor and five commissioners for the Town of Mocksville, mayor and two commissioners for the Town of Coolesme, and for one board member for the Bermuda Center Sanitary District.

Tax Base Allows Low Town Rates

It's Laura Williams-Trey Davie County Enterprise Record Mocksville town commissioners approved a $3.39 million budget Monday that will not raise taxes next year. Property tax rates will remain at $9 per $100 of property value, but fees for garbage pickup will increase from $3 to $6 every two months.

County Briefs

County commissioners are considering paying a consulting firm to determine the most cost-efficient way to handle trash. The board has received an offer by the Raleigh engineering firm of Dowberry and Davis to either the county should build a new landfill or ship its trash to regional landfills in Winston-Salem.

Davie Sanitation Rates May Go Up

County commissioners are considering allowing Davie Sanitation to increase its rates on its 3,300 customers to make up for higher costs to dispose of garbage.

County Settles Disputes Out Of Court

After a year of negotiations, the Davie County Board of Commissioners agreed Monday night to settle its differences with Compton Construction Company and pay its tab for the Yakin River Water Plant. The plant opened more than six months late last year after a series of time delays.

Davie County will pay $81,000 to Compton. The money had been budgeted to pay for the completion of the project. County Attorney Bob Price said it was obvious before the project was completed last year that the two sides would have difficulty determining what the county owed the construction company for its work.
