Fourth Grader Misses 112 Days Of School: Mother Goes To Jail

By Jeanne Houpe
 Davie County Enterprise Record

What happens when a fourth grader misses 112 days of school? Her mother goes to jail.

That happened last week in Davie Superior Court as Louise Dewalt was sentenced to 10 days in jail for failing to abide by the terms of a court order to keep her 11-year-old daughter in school or provide a doctor's excuse for absences.

Her daughter had missed 112 days when Dewalt appeared in court May 27, according to Mocksville Middle School Principal Bill Campbell.

On the days the child is present, she is often tardy, arriving any time from 9 a.m. to lunch time, Campbell said.

She had to be retained in third grade last year and was only present three days.

Davie Schools' social worker Robert Hartsell said Dewalt has talked to him about not being able to get her daughter to go to school.

She has told him the child will not listen to her and asked if she might be considered for special classes, Hartsell said.

Her daughter has developed behavior problems after seeing a number of domestic battles in the home, Dewalt said.

An older daughter, Evelyn, has pulled knives on Mrs. Dewalt, set things on fire and injured her seriously enough to require hospitalization, she said.

Dewalt testified that she believes that is one reason her younger daughter refuses to go to school.

"[She] is afraid Evelyn might kill me while she's at school," she said.

When her daughter has gone to school, there have been problems getting her to go to class, she said.

Dewalt said she has been working with juvenile court coordinator Michael Kirkpatrick for several months trying to get the girl into a children's home in Winston-Salem where she might receive counseling and other help she needs.

Kirkpatrick said he has been working on out-of-home placement for the child with Dewalt since February.

Kilo's Back

Mocksville Manager Bucks Chief; Police Dog Stays In The Budget

By Jeanne Houpe
 Davie County Enterprise Record

Kilo's back.

After hearing from several town residents and comparing the Mocksville Police dog's effectiveness with other K-9 units, Town Manager Terry Bralley has gone against Police Chief Richard Sink's recommendation to cut the dog from the budget.

Not only is Kilo back in the budget, Bralley is trying to see that the dog is used more.

Kilo has been used 103 times in three years with a 42.05 percent success rate, Sink told Mocksville Town Board members May 21.

If K-9 Officer Vicki Fields left the department, the town would owe her more than $4,000 in comp time, Sink said.

He recommended that the K-9 program be abandoned and the dog be declared surplus.

But to evaluate Kilo's performance as a percentage is unfair, Bralley said.

Often in a position like that of

"I think it's OK for people to disagree. I think we can make a positive out of this."

- Terry Bralley
 Mocksville Town Manager

town manager the simplest thing to do is to try to manage by numbers, but no other department evaluates by percentages, he said.

"We are fortunate to have a police officer with that much expertise and that has taken such an interest in [the K-9 program]," he said.

Fields has put in hours of her own time to train and care for the dog, he said. If anything, the program has been under used.

She has gone beyond the call of duty to make the K-9 program an asset to the community, and he believes the program should be continued at least another year to allow Kilo to be utilized for the good of the whole community.

Enterprise Receives 7 Awards In State Advertising Contest

The Davie County Enterprise Record received seven awards in the N.C. Press Association's 1997 Best Ad Contest.

Awards were presented at the advertising conference last week at the William & Ida Friday Continuing Education Center in Chapel Hill.

The newspaper's ad staff received two first place awards: best use of full color for a July 4th promotion titled "America, America" and for best signature page, a Thanksgiving tribute from area businesses.

Advertising Director Becky Snyder received a second place award for best advertising campaign, and a third place award for best spot color in a home furnishings and appliance ad, a Star Furniture advertisement.

Advertising salesman Ray Tutterow received three awards: a second place motor vehicle ad, for Bell & Howard Chevrolet; a second place real estate ad, for Howard Realty; and a third place best spot color retail ad, for Wal-Mart of Mocksville.

New York Man Convicted Of Drug Trafficking

A New York man was sentenced to approximately three years in prison last week in Davie County Superior Court for trafficking cocaine by mailing it from New York to Mocksville last June.

Solomon Johnson was sentenced to 35 to 42 months in prison after pleading guilty to trafficking cocaine, conspiracy to traffic cocaine and possession of marijuana in jail.

Johnson was arrested in June 1996 after picking up a package at the post office at Willow Oak Shopping Center that had been discovered by the U.S. Postal Inspector to contain cocaine.

The package had been sent overnight mail from Queens, N.Y., to Mocksville and should have arrived June 10, according to Assistant DA Gwendolyn Priest.

Johnson and co-defendant, Robert Young, picked it up June 11, and got a refund of $15 because the package had not been delivered overnight. They were arrested by officers from the Davie County Sheriff's Department as they exited the post office, Priest said.

The package was sent to the SBI lab where it was discovered to contain 26.6 grams of crack cocaine and 21.9 grams of powdered cocaine, according to Priest.

Johnson returned home to Queens but eventually turned himself in at the Davie County Jail in March.

While he was in jail, officers received information that Johnson had some cocaine hidden in the jail. During a strip search, a balloon containing marijuana was discovered in his buttocks, she said.

Johnson was undergoing some financial difficulties, and some friends suggested he send the package to contain cocaine.

Nightmare Job? Teaching Claims Promising Coach

He only taught for a year at Davie High, but Macon England made a powerful impression in a short time.

His decision to leave has caused more than the usual stir. Teachers come and go. But few come with the recommendations and background that he enjoyed.

England was hired as an assistant football coach. The players found a friend and a game-savvy motivator in England. He was an excellent addition to the coaching staff.

There is a high drop-out rate for teachers. They leave for different reasons. For some, it's money.

That was not England's complaint.

He didn't like teaching. The classroom environment.

He loved coaching. He got a real sense of purpose, a sense of accomplishment on the football field.

In the classroom, he mostly got ... frustration.

Too many students lacked motivation. Some were rude and surly. They were uninterested. They wanted to be somewhere else. He looked for a sense of accomplishment in teaching and didn't find it.

England taught for five years. He switched classes. He switched schools, trying to find his place, trying without success to find an enthusiasm for the job.

The enthusiasm, the motivation, the dedication that he found among the football players couldn't be found in the classroom.

"Things have changed in the classroom," he said. "You've got to want to be on the football field. In class, you've got some folks who cause problems. You can take care of it in football — and there are no lawsuits — by just telling them: 'We don't need you. This is how I run the boat and don't even stop at the fieldhouse.'"

"I'm to the point of how much do you put up with?" A football coach can punt his problems. Follow the rules or follow the team ... from the stands.

Teachers don't have that luxury. They are stuck with their problems. Schools have tried to curb drop-outs. The legislature now wants to link a driver's license with school attendance.

In a classroom, there always seems to be one bad apple. Or two. Or more. And those cut-ups, those pests, those mean-spirited bad eggs many times want to ruin the class for everyone. The teacher can't teach for the interruptions.

Is it really THAT bad?

Some high school teachers agree with England. Asked about his resignation, some confirmed the classroom problems that he had cited.

"You would not believe ..." one coach said.

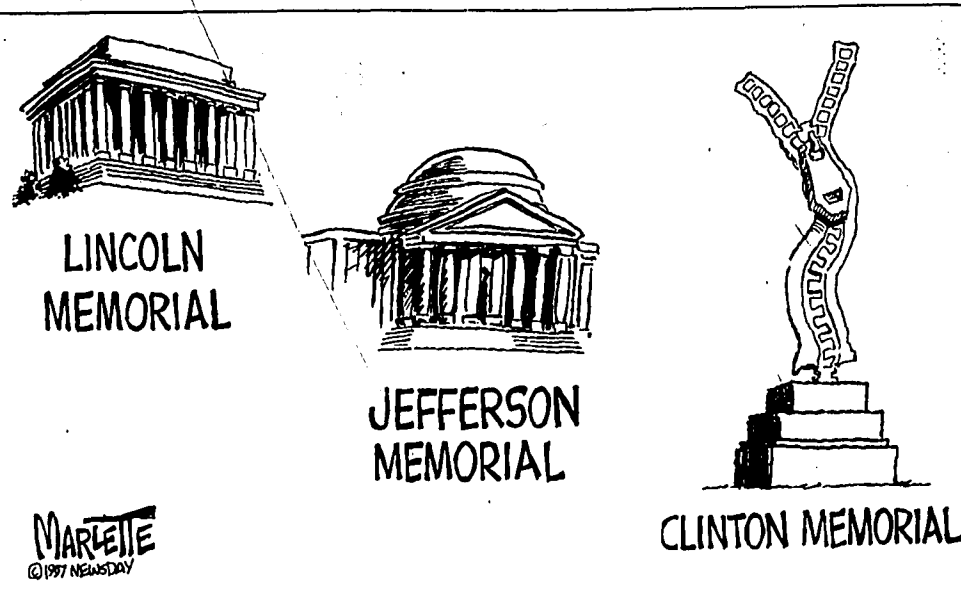

Superintendent Bill Steed acknowledged the increasing demand on teachers. All teachers face it. For many, it means they will re-evaluate their career.

Teaching is tough. "It's not what a lot of people think it is," Steed said. "You have to have the patience of Job."

He accepted England's resignation with regret.

"It's a loss for us."

— Dwight Sparks

When I was A Youngster ...

Here's a quiz: Who played the roles of Donna Reed's children on "The Donna Reed Show"? What was Elvis Presley's first movie? What grade were you in when school lunches only cost 35 cents? Name three members of the original Mouseketeers? What was the name of the Baxter's maid? What car did Dinah Shore recommend driving in order to "see the USA..."?

If you know the answer to any or all of these questions, you are a most likely a member of the post WWIWAY generation. WWIWAY refers to that pre-1960s phrase used by parents in order to make their offspring feel selfish, lazy and totally worthless. For example: It's raining and your hair gets totally frizzy if you have to stand out in the rain waiting for the school bus, so you suggest that your mother might want to drive you to school today. The response would go something like "why, when I was a youngster, forget luxuries like school buses, we had to walk two miles to school rain or shine." Or: You spent an extra quarter buying an ice cream bar in the school cafeteria yesterday and now you don't have but 50 cents for the Saturday movie and it cost 75 cents. So summing up all of your courage, you wait until you dad has finished reading the newspaper and then work your way over to his recliner and explain the situation and request he loan you 25 cents. The response might have gone something like.... "A quarter? Why, when I was a youngster we had to work weeks to earn a quarter..."

You get the idea. You hang-dog it out of the house feeling like the world's biggest ingrate. Was that not an awesome pair of vice grips in a parent's tool box of child-rearing gadgets. And what a tragedy that our generation was born too late. We have no "Depression" stories, were blessed with indoor plumbing, rode school buses, had Ed Sullivan on Sunday nights and saved glass soft drink bottles so we could get refunds at the grocery store to use for spending money.

The whole situation seemed very unfair and I was feeling rather sorry for myself until my daughter, fell into a deep depression after being unable to locate the remote control for the television. I reminded her that the television did have a set of buttons for manual use, but was regaled with complaints about having to get up off the couch and couldn't I change it while I was up getting her something to drink? That's when it struck me that this whole guilt trip method of parenting is still an option. The WWIWAY days aren't dead, they've just been modernized. I jumped right in: "Why, when I was a youngster, there was no such thing as a remote control. If we wanted to change channels, we had to get up and walk all the way across the room. We only had one set, and not only that, but it was black and white and we didn't get color television until I was in the sixth grade. And even when we had a color set, it only got three channels and that was if you were lucky and put a piece of aluminum foil on one of the rabbit ears."

It worked like a charm.

She turned the set off and brought me something to drink. I'm not sure what she put in it, but it's the thought that counts.

Two Bodies Found In Yadkin Could Be Missing Davie Men

Investigators are trying to determine if the decomposed bodies of two men found in Yadkin County Friday are those of two Davie men missing since Jan. 30.

Medical Examiner Dr. Patrick Lantz said the bodies found Friday had been dead for about four months. They had been shot to death, and were found in a heavily wooded area in southern Yadkin County, in the Lone Hickory area, said Davie Detective Lt. Jimmy Phillips. The bodies were about 10 feet apart, and authorities searched the area but found no other evidence.

Davie officers, the Yadkin Sheriff's Department and the SBI are investigating.

Missing since January are Rodolfo Carbajal, 22, who was going by the name Cesar Prado Siflerette; and his brother, Jesus Carbajal, 28, who was using the name Miguel Murillo Lopez.

The two left their home off Four Corners Road in Davie County the morning of Jan. 30, saying they were going to look for work. The car was found that night at the Huntsville Yadkin River access area in Yadkin County. A jacket with bullet holes was in the trunk, and the car was stained with blood.

The next day, officers went to their Davie home on Bethesda Lane. They found 30 pounds of marijuana in one pound packages in another vehicle in the driveway. They found $10,000 hidden in the floor.

The bodies were found about 10 miles from their home.

Man Convicted Of Drug Trafficking

Young pleaded guilty to lesser offenses of possession with intent to sell or deliver cocaine and conspiracy to sell or deliver cocaine in October, Vogler said.

Johnson is no more guilty than Young, he said, but decided it was in his best interest to accept this plea.

Judge James C. Davis sentenced Johnson to 35 to 42 months in jail and ordered him to pay a $50,000 fine, $100 to the SBI lab and court costs in the drug trafficking cases.

He recommended work release and the DART program for Johnson. Davis sentenced Johnson to four to five months in prison for marijuana possession but suspended that sentence and placed him on supervised probation.

Johnson made a motion to reject the probationary sentence and requested that sentence be activated.

Davis ordered that sentence to run concurrent with the sentence in the other cases.

Kathy At The Crosby

Super model Kathy Ireland was among the celebrities who brought smiles to spectators at The Crosby last weekend at Bermuda Run Country Club. The celebrity golf tournament raises millions of dollars for charitable causes. This year, part of the money will be used for the Davie Crosby Scholars program, which will allow young people who are willing to make a commitment to being drug free, a chance at a college education. - Photo by Chris Mackie

Mother Goes To Jail For Failing To Send Child To School

Dewalt has completed every step in the process for placement except obtaining a psychological evaluation of the child, he said.

She has missed the appointments that have been scheduled for this evaluation at Tri-County Mental Health, Kirkpatrick testified.

Dewalt said she has been in and out of court quite a bit with Evelyn and in the hospital because of Evelyn during the past several months.

She added that she had been depressed at facing the situation of having such a violent child.

Dewalt's lawyer Lori Hamilton argued that her client had gathered all the information needed except the psychological evaluation while contending with an older, more dangerous, violent child in addition to the belligerent 11-year-old.

Though Dewalt has violated the court order, Hamilton argued that she has not willfully disobeyed it.

"It appears no one is able to get her to go to school," she said.

Before making a decision in the case, Judge James C. Davis discussed the matter further with Campbell.

Since coming to court about her absence earlier in the school year, Campbell said the child did everything she could to get suspended for her behavior. But he refused to suspend her.

When she has been at school recently, he said he believes the girl has enjoyed school.

Campbell told the judge the child is bright and shows strong capabilities even after missing so many days of school.

He believes Dewalt is a nice person and has tried in some respects to get the child to go to school, he said. "It's a sad situation."

"I still think there's a chance for [the child]," Campbell said.

Davis asked Dewalt what the child does all day and how she disciplines her.

Dewalt said she takes privileges away from the child like not allowing her to watch a favorite program on television. Sometimes this works to control the child. At other times she has no control.

She said she is afraid to use a switch for discipline because the Department of Social Services might come after her child abuse.

This is the seventh time she has been in court for not making one of her children go to school, she admitted to Davis.

"Do you have any idea what will happen to this child with no educational background after she's grown up?" Davis asked her.

District Court Judge Kimberly Taylor ordered her in October to make the child go to school every day or provide a doctor's excuse for absences. She has failed to get the psychological evaluation needed to request placement in a children's home in six months, Davis said.

The judge said Dewalt had willfully violated the court order without justifiable excuse and sentenced her to 10 days in jail. He ordered her to pay a $300 attorney fee.

Betty Stone had "No-Stitch, No-Patch" Cataract Surgery 5 minutes ago... can you tell?

Because of a new technique in cataract surgery performed at Southeastern Eye Center by Dr. Epes, patients like Betty Stone are able to return to their normal activities immediately. This procedure takes less than seven minutes and only eyedrops are used to numb the eye. Betty Stone returned to her normal activities immediately after surgery, and she didn't even need to wear a patch.

"After surgery, I was amazed I could see the clock... everything looked brighter."

K-9 Unit Back In Mocksville Budget

Since Slink made his recommendation to the board, Brulley has met with Fields, Slink, Davie Sheriff Allen Whitaker and County Manager Ken Windley. He also contacted other police departments to see how they manage their K-9 programs.

One possibility that might eliminate some problems for the town would be to pay Fields a flat monthly rate for her work with Kilo at home rather than having him come to the station. In some departments the police dog is property of the K-9 officer, he said.

Brulley developed a fee structure with Whitaker and Windley for the county's use of Kilo. This is not to make money but to help make the program pay for itself, he explained.

Awareness of all the things the dog can do needs to be raised among officers to increase use of the K-9 unit within the Mocksville department, he added.

Kilo could be used for public relations with local schools to teach the children and as a deterrent to crime, he said.

One of the biggest assets which cannot be measured is the protection Kilo provides. Fields and other officers, Brulley said.

Commissioner Vernon Thompson questioned Brulley's recommendation, expressing a concern about how the public might view a disagreement between the police chief and town manager.

"I think it's OK for people to disagree," Brulley said.

He has met with Slink, who is not opposed to having the program continue if the board approves his budget recommendations, Brulley added.

The program should be given at least another year during which ways might be found to make it pay for itself, said Commissioner Steve Walker.

He added that he would be open to having Fields work with the board to develop a plan.

"I think we can make a positive out of this," Brulley said.

The town board will vote on the proposed budget following a public hearing at Town Hall June 30, at 7 p.m.

Local Man Convicted Of Forgery

A Davie County jury found a local man guilty of forging and uttering last week in Superior Court.

Matthew James Overstreet was identified in a photo lineup by Jennifer Daniel, an employee at B's Mini Mart, as the person who attempted to cash a forged check at the convenience store Aug. 8, 1995.

Daniel said she became suspicious because Overstreet told her someone was supposed to have called to tell her it was OK to cash the check. No one at the store had received such a call.

She also noticed that the signature on the check was misspelled, she said.

Christina Craft said she discovered that a book of checks had been taken from her home after receiving a call from B's Mini Mart that someone had tried to cash a check from her account there.

Her daughter testified that Overstreet was one of several teens who had visited their home days earlier.

Overstreet denied forging the check or attempting to pass it.

At the request of Overstreet's attorney Wade Leonard a handwriting analysis was performed.

SBI Agent Thomas Curren said Overstreet could not be identified or eliminated as the writer of the check based on his submitted handwriting samples.

Those samples contained evidence of unnatural writing, Curren said.

Judge James C. Davis sentenced Overstreet to six to eight months in prison but suspended that sentence five years and placed him on a supervised probation, ordering him to pay a $500 fine, $302 in court costs and a $500 attorney fee.

when a 7-year-old girl ran from a driveway into path of her 1994 Hyundai.

A witness said Wagner blew her horn and swerved in an attempt to avoid hitting the child, according to Officer M.A. Grant.

The child was not seriously injured, according to Grant. Her parents took her to Davie County Hospital where she was treated and released with a minor bone chip in the left leg.

Grant said Wagner had committed no driving offenses and did everything she could to avoid striking the child. Her speed was estimated at 30 mph.

- Norman Clarence Richardson, 62, of 2131 Davie Academy Road, had driven his 1993 Jeep partially onto the railroad tracks on Depot Street at 3:45 p.m. May 19, when his vehicle was struck by a Norfolk Southern train traveling east on the tracks, reported Officer D.T. Miller.

The train returned to the scene, but Richardson fled the scene. He was charged with hit and run, Miller said.

Seven Subdivisions Would Add 89 Houses To Davie's Future

Seven proposed subdivisions including 89 building lots were reviewed by the Davie County Planning Board last week.

The board also adopted a resolution in memory of the late Jesse Boyce, recommended a rezoning and naming of four private roads.

Boyce, the planning and zoning director for the county before his death earlier this year, was an able and caring public servant, said board chairman Jim Eaton. "We didn't always agree, but we did share a common goal."

Eaton said he and Boyce several times left planning board meetings for dinner, and held hands across the table while asking the blessing.

The board recommended rezoning .68 of an acre on Hwy. 601 South from residential to highway business special use for Noyes Barnhardt and Cletus Miller. Barnhardt owns the land, and plans to lease it to Miller, who operates the adjacent Miller Sheet Metal, to store rental equipment such as small backhoes and Bobcats. The entrance to the lot would be from the sheet metal parking lot, and the same office would be used, Miller said.

No one spoke on the four road names: Herons Lane at 1404 Hwy. 801 N., Advance; White Dove Way at 2404 Hwy. 601 N., Mocksville; Cranberry Lane at 141 Chaucer Lane, Mocksville; and Sand Clay Lane, at 1936 Hwy. 64 W., Mocksville.

The board reviewed the subdivision plats, some preliminary, some final, asking developers to make changes where needed.

Seaford Acres Section II, a three-lot 7.16 acre subdivision on Seaford Road in Advance, will have restrictions that the lots can't be further divided and that mobile homes will not be allowed.

W. Wilson Acres is a five-lot subdivision on 8.47 acres on Walt Wilson Road near Mocksville.

Steele Acres is a four lot subdivision on 3.61 acres off Deadman Road. The planners asked developers Abern and Jimmy Steele for deed restrictions that houses only would be allowed, since it will back up to an existing subdivision with such restrictions.

Oak Grove Phase I and Phase two are 13- and four-lot subdivisions on 24.27 acres off Hwy. 601 North and Children's Home Road being developed by Michael Duffield and Randy Shuler. The board asked for a letter from the N.C. Department of Transportation stating approval of a road in the subdivision with less than 60 feet of right of way and 20 feet of paving. They were also asked to change the name of that road so as not to conflict with a similarly named road elsewhere in the county.

Northbrook Phase II is a 22-lot 26.44 acre subdivision off James Church Road.

The board approved eight lots in Timber Creek on 7.3 acres, off Gun Club Road. A portion of property for the Beauchamp Graveyard was excluded from the subdivision.

Heritage Oaks Phase I, a 30-lot 23.75 acre subdivision adjoins Hickory Hill off Hwy. 64 West.

No Signs At Shopping Center?

Imagine a shopping center with no signs. That's exactly what would happen in Hillsdale if the county doesn't change the current overlay zoning district.

The sign ordinance for that area doesn't address shopping centers, but it should by the end of the month.

The county planning board will meet at 7 p.m. June 12 to make a recommendation, with county commissioners expected to make a final decision at their meeting at 7 p.m. June 16.

Interim planning director John Callimore said shopping centers will be added to the ordinance, although he doesn't expect rules for signs there to be any different from elsewhere in the district. "We're not subverting the overall square footage limitations," he said.

Requirements. Changes are sometimes requested in the preliminary phase, and before final plat approval, improvements such as streets and utilities must be in place before being approved.

Man Convicted Of Burning Stolen Car

A man pleaded guilty last week in Davie County Superior Court to burning the car of a Mocksville woman.

Byron Allen was sentenced to 11 to 14 months in prison for burning personal property. A charge of felony larceny was dismissed by the DA.

A 1988 Ford Escort, belonging to Brenda McGraw, was found burned at the end of Lee Jackson Road Sec. 13, according to Assistant DA Wendie Priest.

A witness reported that Allen arrived at her home in a gray Ford Escort without a license plate, which he claimed belonged to his aunt in the car again on Dec. 11, he said he was buying the car, Priest told Judge James C. Davis.

Davis recommended work release for Allen and ordered him to pay restitution to McGraw, court costs and a $200 attorney fee.

Howard Votes To Cut Sales Tax On Food

Rep. Julia C. Howard (R-Davie) voted this week to cut the state sales tax on food by one cent.

The N.C. House of Representatives voted to approve a bill to reduce the state's food tax from three cents to two cents. House Republicans will integrate this tax cut into their proposed budget.

"I am delighted the House is continuing its commitment to tax relief.

This reduction in the food tax will help North Carolina families keep more of their hard earned money," said Howard.

The General Assembly originally created the sales tax on food as a "temporary" tax in 1961. Since then, the food tax was steadily increased by the Legislature until last year when the Republican-led House sponsored the first reduction in the tax. The House continued its tax relief efforts this week by passing a further reduction that will save North Carolina taxpayers approximately $90 million dollars a year.

"This was supposed to be a temporary tax. Thirty years later it is still a burden on the taxpayers of North Carolina. I am pleased we are leading the way in reducing it," she said.

The food tax reduction must still be approved by the senate and governor before becoming law.

Jury Convicts Davie Man Of DWI

A Davie County man will spend the next two years in prison for driving drunk in Cooleemee, June 29, 1996.

A jury found Steven Ellis Jacobs guilty of DWI last week in Davie County Superior Court.

Jacobs was stopped at a license check on N.C. 801, according to former Cooleemee Police Officer Tim Kemp.

Detecting an odor of alcohol coming from his vehicle, Kemp said he placed Jacobs under arrest and took him to administer the intoximeter, which he refused.

Kemp said he did not perform any additional tests after that.

There was an open 12 ounce beer in Jacobs' vehicle, he said.

Jacobs was belligerent and uncooperative, he told the jury.

Defense attorney Bill Hall argued that there was no concrete evidence of impairment in the case.

"We have suspicion, but we have a lack of evidence beyond a reasonable doubt," Hall said.

He said there was not enough evidence to take two years from a man's life.

It took the jury about 40 minutes to reach a verdict in the case.

Since 1969, Jacobs has been convicted of impaired driving eight times prior to this, according to Assistant DA Martin Gotholm, presenting that as a grossly aggravating factor in the case.

Judge James C. Davis sentenced Jacobs to two years in prison and ordered him to complete the DART program and attend AA meetings while in prison.

The judge recommended work release and ordered Jacobs to pay court costs, $350 in court costs and a $2,000 fine.

Sunday, June 1, was homecoming at Wesley Chapel. It was a wonderful day of reminiscing of days gone by and of looking to the future with anticipation of a fellowship hall. There were many old members returning and many visitors who had ties in some way to Wesley Chapel. Rev. Bob Burnett, a preacher from the past, was the guest speaker. He gave us new insight to Paul's letters.

Visitors were Mr. and Mrs. James Fulton of Welcome; Mr. and Mrs. Roby Shore, who is 93; Mr. and Mrs. Roby Frank Shore and their daughter and son-in-law, all of Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Murray and children of Huntersville; Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Rollins of Kernersville; Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Shelton; Mr. and Mrs. Von Shelton and granddaughter; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Ferebee, Chad Trivette, Timmy Shoffner, Tony Nichols, Ruth Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Brent Gobble and children, Mr. Gene Smith, all of Mocksville; Ms. Maxine Pruitt of Greensboro; Mr. and Mrs. Luther West; Mr. and Mrs. Randy Newsom and daughters; Mrs. O'Brien Dixon, all of the Pino community; Tammy Maraska of Winston-Salem; Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Dill and sons of Courtney; Mr. Gene Dull of Statesville; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Reavis of Kannapolis; and Mrs. Bob Burnett.

Next Sunday is annual conference.

Our service will be a special music service led by Tom and Toni Horton. They have invited other musicians to participate in the service.

There will be a one day Vacation Bible School on Saturday, June 7, at Wesley Chapel. The youth ministry from New Hope Baptist Church in Rural Hall will be there to direct it. Everyone from Kindergarten to 16 years old are invited to attend. Lunch and snacks will be provided. It will start at 9 a.m. and probably run to about 2 or 3 p.m. We would like everyone to register ahead of time so we will have an idea of how many to prepare for. Please call Kathy Ellis at 998-3987 or Rev. Tammy Talbert at 998-3769 to register. Transportation can be provided if needed.

Children May Learn To Cook

The Chef and the Child Foods and Nutrition Education Program will be sponsored this year by the N.C. Cooperative Extension Service and the Trial Chapter of the American Culinary Federation. The program will be conducted July 7-11 for 8-12 year olds from disadvantaged families from targeted areas of Davie County. This is the first year the program has been offered in Davie County. In addition, the series will be taught in Davidson, Randolph, Rockingham, Surry and Forsyth counties.

The series will allow the youth daily opportunities for hands-on food preparation experiences. Participants will learn cooking terms and principles, measuring techniques, kitchen safety, nutrition, and the food guide pyramid. Some of the recipes they will be preparing are easy pyramid pizza, ice cream muffins, basic French omelet, easy peanut butter cookies, snack mix and more.

Peggy Nuckolls, family and consumer education agent in Davie County, is coordinating the series here. Local chefs assisting are Don McMillian, Sam Caudill, Kevin Dillmon, and James Gaddy, all with Simple Elegance, and David Bettendorf with Ryan's Restaurant.

For more information, contact Nuckolls at the N.C. Cooperative Extension Service at 704-634-6297.

Businesses To Be Honored

Three Davie businesses will be honored at the 51st North Carolina Safety Awards ceremony on June 5.

The awards honor on-the-job safety during 1996. "We are proud of these companies and their employees," said Marge Howell, assistant commissioner for communications for the State Department of Labor. "Receiving a safety award means that these companies place a high priority on the health and safety of their employees."

Vulcan Materials' Smith Grove Quarry received an award for the eighth consecutive year. RJ Reynolds Davie County Storage Facility for the third year and Hanes Narrow Fabric of Advance, the second consecutive year.

Seniors Plan Brown Bag Auction

The Coolidge Senior Citizens met May 26 in the dining area of First Baptist Church with 29 members present.

The meeting was called to order by the president.

The meeting was opened with prayer, followed by the group singing "Mine Eyes Have Seen the Glory."

The chaplain was in charge of the devotion, using St. John 15:9, "As the Father hath loved me, so have I loved you: continue ye in my love. Love one another." She also read a poem "Hugs."

The minutes were read and the sunshine and treasurer's reports given.

Events occurring at the Senior Center were announced. Lunch and Learn will be held at the Western Steer on June 5.

Ethel Messick and Dot Hamby presented a skit "The Preacher's Visit."

Several members entertained by telling some of their favorite jokes.

Everyone is asked to bring a gift in a brown bag to the next meeting for a brown bag auction, which will be held at the Ridenhour Arbor on June 9. Also, bring your own lunch. The drinks and cups will be provided.

The meeting closed with the group singing the club song "The More We Get Together," followed with prayer.

Cornatzer News

By Dottie Potts

Cornatzer Correspondent

Roger Barney has returned to his home from Baptist Hospital, where he spent several weeks undergoing treatment and had a toe amputated.

George Boger visited his sister, Ruth Garner, who has been undergoing treatment for double pneumonia and other health problems in Baptist Hospital for a few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Potts and Sharon visited Christine Hinkle Sunday afternoon. She returned home last Friday from Forsyth Hospital where she had surgery for a broken hip she received in a fall. Other visitors Sunday afternoon were her sisters Geneva Oats of Rock Hill, S.C. and Marilyn of Lexington, and sister-in-law Mayfield McClannan of Kannapolis.

The annual Potts reunion will be held Sunday, June 8 at the Cornatzer-Dulin Fire Department. Lunch will be served at 1 p.m. All friends and relatives are invited.

Girl Scout Camp Signup Underway

It is time to register for Girl Scout Day Camp at Seven Springs.

Camp Seven Springs, owned and operated by Tarheel Triad Girl Scout Council, is located in Farmington.

Open to all girls ages 6-17 (girls do not have to be Girl Scouts to attend), sessions are for one week and are from 9 a.m.-4:30 p.m. daily. There are also Senior Program Aide programs for older girls who would like to assist with programs for younger campers.

Every session will provide general camp favorites such as swimming, singing, playing games, making crafts, nature discovery, and for older girls, boating and archery. Fees are $75 for Girl Scouts and $85 for other girls. Senior Program Aide is $25 per session for Girl Scouts.

Sessions will feature activities related to the week's theme: Western Bonanza, June 23-27; Sports & Games Round-up, July 7-11; Beach Party Hoedown, July 14-18; and Potpourri Rodco, July 21-25. Senior Program Aide, for girls who have completed at least the 9th grade but are not yet 18 years old, is perfect way to continue the fun of day camp and gain valuable on-the-job training. A girl may participate as a Senior Program Aide in one, two, three, or four sessions. Selection for the program is based on a supplementary application and a personal interview.

Hinsons Retire After 44 Years Serving Churches, Revivals

Jimmy and Margaret Hinson have retired after 44 years of church ministries. They have served five churches in pastoral ministry and served the Jewel Baptist Church of High Point for 22 years as pastor. They were honored by this church ministry with a special service, love gift and plaque.

In addition to this church ministry, he served as associate pastor in two churches, youth minister in one church and interim pastor in seven churches. He served as associate director of the Division of Evangelism for the N.C. Baptist State Convention. They organized Reach Out Evangelism Ministries, Inc. and have conducted more than 800 revivals in North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia. They have conducted evangelism ministries in Brazil and India. They will continue to make Mocksville home and be available for supply, interim and evangelism ministries. They are members of the Green Street Baptist Church of High Point, where he served as associate pastor and youth director, 1960-1965. He was elected three times to serve as president of the N.C. Southern Baptist Evangelists and has served nine years.

Local Strawberries Are Safe

Recently there was a Hepatitis A outbreak in Michigan, associated with frozen strawberries. It has now been determined that none of the contamnated berries reached North Carolina. This does not mean that we are free from a possible hepatitis infection, said Peggy D. Nuckolls, cooperative Extension agent.

Hepatitis A is not just associated with strawberries. It has also been found in shellfish, meat, poultry, eggs, bakery products and produce. The origin on contamination has always been human feces. So the virus usually comes from contaminated water that was used to wash or irrigate food or from food handlers who have practiced poor personal hygiene.

So how can you prevent a Hepatitis A infection? Following the rules below can reduce your chances of an infection.

"Always wash your hands with hot soapy water for at least 20 seconds after using the bathroom.

"Always wash fruits and vegetables before eating.

"After diapering a baby make sure that you wash your hands before handling toys or other items.

"If you are caring for individuals where you have to clean body waste, make sure you wash your hands and any items feces may have come in contact with.

"North Carolina strawberries are safe to eat," Nuckolls said.

"Not only are they safe to eat but they are rich in fiber, Vitamin C, and potassium. They are also low in calories."

Baily Completes Deployment

Navy Airman Westley S. Baily, son of Kent T. and Vickie L. Baily of 151 Willis Road, Advance, recently completed a six-month deployment to the Mediterranean Sea with Strike Fighter Squadron 37, embarked aboard the aircraft carrier USS Theodore Roosevelt. As part of USS Theodore Roosevelt's embarked airwing, Baily's squadron was a major contributor to the success of the deployment. Baily participated in various operations and exercises, including Operation Deliberate Guard in the Adriatic Sea where the ship's aircraft flew missions in support of the U.N. mandated no-fly zone over Bosnia and Exercise Inverex 97-1, the largest exercise of the deployment.

While in the Persian Gulf, Baily's squadron supported the United Nations Resolution 661 which calls for importing and exporting sanctions against Iraq. Baily also participated in exercises involving British, French, Israeli, Saudi Arabian and Tunisian military forces. During the deployment, Baily and shipmates conducted various community relations projects during their port visits, ranging from yard work to painting and carpentry. Baily visited France, Greece, Israel, Italy, Spain, Turkey and United Arab Emirates as well as traveling through the Suez Canal twice. The 1995 graduate of Davie High School joined the Navy in June 1995.

NoveList Available At Library

The Davie County Public Library has a new service for adult, fiction readers.

NoveList helps readers find books based on titles they've read or topics of interest. Starting with what they know, readers can find a new title by matching favorite titles or authors, by describing subjects, characters or locations, or by browsing subject headings. They can browse lists of award-winning titles or explore sections in mysteries, westerns, science fiction, romance, horror, etc.

The NoveList database contains information on 34,000 adult, fiction titles. Thousands of titles in NoveList include book reviews on book summaries. The database is updated quarterly and includes classic authors as well as current.

As time permits, or by appointment, the library staff will browse with readers in search of new books, take telephone requests for searches, or instruct in the use of NoveList. Call 634-2023 for an appointment or for more information.

This project is supported with federal LSCA Title I funds administered by the North Carolina Department of Cultural Resources, State Library of North Carolina.

Eric Browne Completes Navy Basic Training In Great Lakes

Navy Firearm Apprentice Eric Browne, son of Rosalie M. Hartness of Mocksville, recently completed U.S. Navy basic training at Recruit Training Command, Great Lakes, Ill.

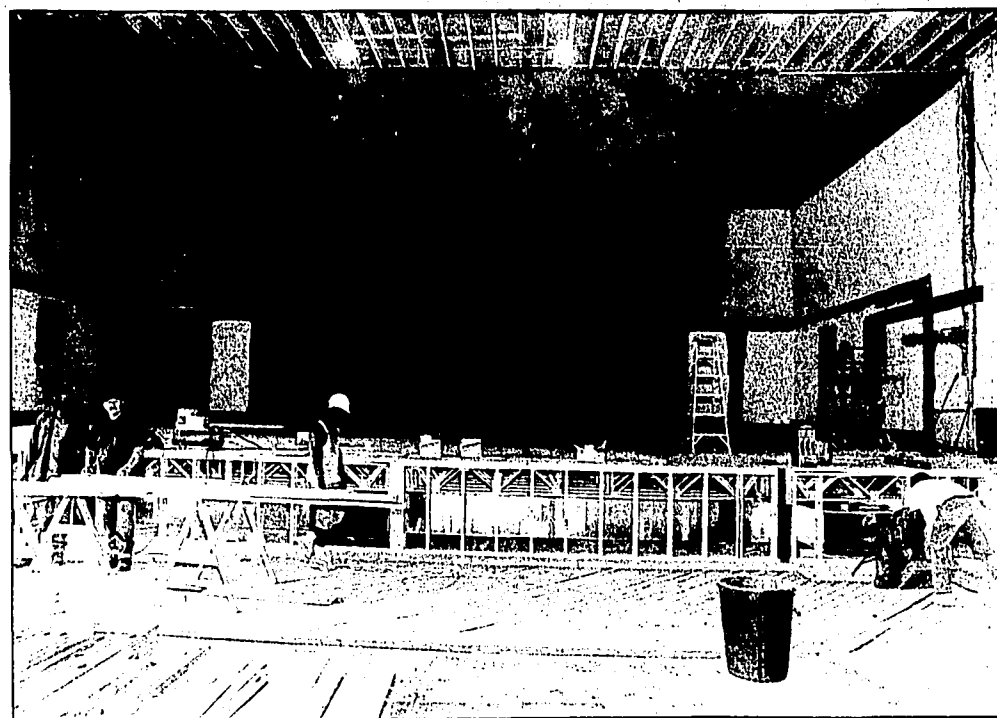

During the eight-week program, Browne completed a variety of training which included classroom study and practical instruction on naval customs, first aid, firefighting, watersafety and survival, and shipboard and aircraft safety. An emphasis is also placed on physical fitness.

Browne and other recruits also received instruction on the Navy's core values—honor, courage and commitment—and how to apply them in their military performance and personal conduct. Browne joins 55,000 men and women who will enter the Navy this year from all over the country.

Men and women train together from their first day in the Navy just as they do aboard ships and at shore commands around the world. To reinforce the team concept, Browne and other recruits also were trained in preventing sexual harassment and ensuring equal opportunity.

Even as the naval service gets smaller over the next few years, highly motivated young people like Browne are still finding an opportunity to improve their knowledge and education as they become part of the most highly technical naval force in history. This year alone the Navy will have more than 57,000 job openings and opportunities, most of which include guaranteed training. For more information on an exciting career in the Navy call 1-800-USA-NAVY or visit the internet at www.navyjobs.com. He is a 1995 graduate of Parkland High School of Winston-Salem.

Spiritual Resources: Book Of Wisdom

By Tom Torpy

Proverbs are pithy little statements that express information that is practical for living well. You've heard many of them: "A stitch in time saves nine." "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." "Cleanliness is next to Godliness." "Once had a math teacher who described the occasional "insightful" comments that sometimes come from students as "spitballs of wisdom."

Rare is the ability to encapsulate abiding truths in simple statements. "Ask not what your country can do for you, but ask what you can do for your country." "We have nothing to fear but fear itself." "A house divided against itself cannot stand." These statements have endured because they express profound truths in few words.

My friend, Jay, said his father always taught him, "Leave things a little better than the way you found them." Jay applied the wisdom of his father. If Jay borrowed a knife, the knife was returned clean and sharp. If he borrowed a car, the car was returned full of gas and maybe even washed. Although Jay did not borrow items often, no one ever refused him. Jay's father's wisdom was an application of the "Golden Rule" proverb of Jesus, "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you."

In our time cellular communications and computer chip technology are revolutionizing our lifestyles. Knowing that successful guidelines for behavior remain the same can reduce confusion and give us security in our social and professional interactions.

What proverbs do you live by?

The Bible is not a proverb. However, it contains many proverbs scattered throughout its great contents. (Did you recognize the "house divided" quotation above as a biblical proverb?) And it does have an entire book devoted to "proverbs." The proverbs are surprisingly modern, even though they are often expressed through images common to antiquity. Try these and see if you don't agree. "A good name is more desirable than great riches; to be esteemed is better than silver or gold." "Wouldn't you rather have a 'good' man for a friend than a 'rich' man?" See if this doesn't ring true. "A gossip betrays a confidence; so avoid a man who talks too much." How about that? I don't have to listen to gossips. They're usually boring after a minute or two anyway. With that, I'll be silent except to say this. The Bible, for all its claims and for all the claims (both true and false) made about it, is a book of wisdom that offers the reader practical help in living this life and beyond.

She was married to Marshall Duke Pope on Sept. 1, 1920. He preceded her in death on Sept. 27, 1965.

She had taught Sunday school for all ages, was church pianist, secretary and a volunteer to anyone who needed her.

She was a charter member of the Cana Homemakers Club and had remained active in the club for over 60 years. She was a member of the Mocksville Golden Age Club and was active in its activities.

She was preceded in death by four brothers, Charles H. White, Gaston Prichard White, William H. White and Jesse Clifford White, and a son, John Henry Pope, and by her husband, Marshall Duke Pope.

Survivors include: a son, Eugene Roadman Pope and his wife Mary of Mocksville; two daughters, Jo Shaw and Nelda Brown of Mocksville; a daughter-in-law, Ruth Clement Pope of Minneapolis, Minn.; 11 grandchildren; 10 great-grandchildren; and two great-great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were at 11 a.m. Wednesday in Eatons Baptist Church with Rev. David Gilbreath, pastor officiating. Burial was in the church cemetery.

The family requests memorials be considered for the building fund of Eatons Baptist Church, Eatons Church Road, Mocksville, N.C. 27028 or the Cana Homemakers Club, c/o Mrs. Edwin Boger, 688 Cana Road, Mocksville, N.C. 27028 or to a charity of the donors choice.

Albert F. Funderburk

Mr. Albert Franklin Funderburk, 62, formerly of Davie County, died May 30, 1997, at James Johnson Nursing Center in High Point after being in declining health.

Mr. Funderburk was born Aug. 6, 1934 in Davie County, a son of the late Paul A. and Agnes Fletcher Funderburk.

Survivors include: three children, Dawn Powlas of Woodleaf, Charlotte F. Lyerly of Rockwell and Paul Funderburk; a brother, Lewis R. Funderburk of Charlotte; two sisters, Pauli Keller of Mocksville and Mary Jacobs of Coolidge.

There will be a memorial service to be announced at a later date. Eaton Funeral Service of Mocksville is serving the Funderburk family.

McCrary To Appear At Society Baptist

Benny McCrary, one of the world's largest twins who appears in the Guinness Book of World Records, will appear at Society Baptist Church at the 11 a.m. worship service Sunday. McCrary, who once weighed over 700 pounds, has lost over 400 of those pounds.

Adopt A Pet

Beagle Mix Available From Society

Looking for a great companion for your kids this summer?

Check out Peasey, one of the Humane Society of Davie County's foster dogs. Peasey is a 10-month old beagle mix with lots of personality. He has already been neutered, is current on all of his shots, and is on heartworm preventative, as well. Peasey is also housebroken. What better time now than school's out to introduce a new pet to your family. Call the Humane Society of Davie County for more information on Peasey, or other animals in the foster program, at 634-5214.

Davie Seniors Celebrate Month With Activities

If you see a senior in Davie County, he or she may be wearing a cute t-shirt with elephants on it.

And if you see a staff member of the Senior Center, they may look a little tired.

The Davie County Senior Center celebrated Older American's Month during May with activities and special events in addition to regular programs. Local businesses sponsored the "Be a Friend-Bring a Friend" campaign, and gave t-shirts to any new senior who participated in events during May, and to the senior who brought them to the event.

About 85 new seniors came to Senior Center events during May. Over 150 t-shirts were given out during the month.

The highlight was the annual Mayfest, May 3 at Liberty Methodist Church. The entertainment was a Mock Wedding, where the men dressed in the ladies roles and the women dressed in the men's roles. Over 180 people packed the fellowship hall that evening to see the hilarious event. After the wedding, there were refreshments and election of senior ambassadors for the upcoming year, Annie Laurie Dulin and Rosie Carter.

The next big event was the Mother/Daughter Spring Social at the library. Almost 90 mothers and daughters attended May 9. A fashion show featuring some of the seniors and their daughters was held. Matoka Love entertained everyone with a few songs. Door prizes donated by local businesses were awarded.

The week of May 12-16 was Senior Center Week and there was something every day.

Exercise Day was Monday, with exercises being taught all morning. Tuesday was a quilt show. Over 30 seniors attended, and Julia Baily took home first prize with her quilt.

Wednesday was Senior Center Celebration Day and was filled with games, activities and bingo the entire day.

Thursday was Silver Star Search where seniors showed off their talents such as dancing, playing the piano and telling jokes.

Friday was Bridge Day with players learning or refreshing their knowledge of bridge.

On May 22, the Senior Center hosted a Western Roundup Party. Most everyone dressed in their Western duds for an afternoon of games, food and fun. The Goodtimers Dance group entertained with some square dancing and even got some members of the audience to try it.

The month ended with a Senior Health and Fitness Day picnic at the Center Picnic Arbor on May 28. Although the afternoon was chilly and cloudy, almost 200 seniors came out and stayed the day. Everyone brought a picnic lunch and played horseshoes and croquet until late in the afternoon.

Cindy Silver, nutritionist for Lowes Foods, told about choosing nutritious foods. It was a great way to wind up the month of celebrating the seniors of Davie County.

"May was a great month at the Senior Center, but we have many special events and our regular programs going on all year long," said Kim Shuskey, director.

These include health and wellness programs and exercise classes, social and recreational events, services for the homebound seniors, legal assistance, and much more.

For more information on the Davie County Senior Center and the services and programs we offer, call 634-0611.

Marie Miller gives the broom a spin at the Western Roundup Party, a Senior Month activity.

Is that Jim, or Jolene Summers as the bride for the Davie Seniors' mock wedding?

Charlie the gobbler isn't a mixed up turkey, he's just a good family man, according to his owner.
- Photos by Robin Fergusson

Gobble, Gobble: Turkey Doing His Part

Lowell Reavis: "She must have him up for child support."

Some people might say that Charlie is a bit mixed up.
Lowell Cooper thinks he's just a good family man.
Charlie is a turkey, a gobbler. And he's sitting on a nest of eggs.
"I've talked to people who raise turkeys, and wildlife biologists, and none have ever heard of anything like this," Cooper said. "I don't know nothing about turkeys, I just inherited them."
Charlie was Cooper's first venture into the turkey business, a gift. "I traded a goat for the hen, and boy, that made Charlie happy," Cooper said.
They've already hatched a batch of eggs, but he didn't do the work. There are three "half grown" turkeys in the lot off Junction Road.
Cooper soon noticed that Charlie was spending a lot of time in the grass. "I thought he was sick, he wouldn't move," Cooper said. "When I went over there, he fluttered up, and you could see the eggs underneath him."
What would make a respectable gobbler lay on eggs?
"She must have him up for child support," Cooper said. "I guess he just likes family. We got those two little ones and they took to them."
Charlie may be safe, but what about the younger turkeys? Cooper put it this way. "I named one Christmas and one Thanksgiving."

Charlie protects the eggs from the snakes and the elements, diligently laying on the nest.

Davie Taking Part In Tri-County Field Day

The 1997 Tri-County Beef Field Day will be, Saturday, June 14, at Bethania Farms, Forsyth County.
This year's event will focus on cutting costs and increasing profit potential. Topics to be covered are: Feeder Calf Grades (What do graders look for), Feeder Calf Processing Demonstration (with time for some hands on experience), Marketing Options and Ways to Enhance Your Grazing Potential. There will be Cattle Working Demonstrations, Intensive Grazing Plots, Feeder Calf Grading Demonstrations, Trade Show and more.
The field day is an annual event rotated between Davie, Forsyth and Yadkin counties. The local Cattlemen's Association, in conjunction with the N.C. Cooperative Extension Service, plan the program. Livestock Agents Beth Massey (Forsyth County) and Phil Rucker (Davie and Yadkin counties) helped coordinate this event.
Bethania Farms is located on Bethania-Tobaccoville Road, in Forsyth County.
Registration will begin at 1 p.m. with the educational events beginning at 2 p.m. The trade show will be open all afternoon. A complimentary beef dinner will be served and reservations are recommended by Wednesday, June 11. To make reservations, for more information or directions, call the N.C. Cooperative Extension Service, Davie County Center at 704-634-6297.

Planners To Discuss Addition To Sign Ordinance

There will be a meeting of the Davie County Planning Board on Thursday, June 12, at 7 p.m. in the commissioners room of the Davie County Administration Building, Mocksville.
The board will consider amending Article VII Section 9.4.1-C to read:
C. Building Signs.
1. The maximum total area of all allowable building signs shall be equal to no more than ten percent (10%) of the area of the wall of which such sign is a part or to which each such sign is attached.
2. Each separate business establishment within a mall or shopping center may have one (1) building sign not to exceed one hundred (100) square feet.
3. The maximum aggregate area of allowable signs on each lot, not in a mall or shopping center, including free-standing, building, or any other signs shall be equal to the lesser of either a) one hundred (100) square feet, b) four percent (4%) of the ground floor area of the principal building, or c) two (2.0) square feet per linear foot of street frontage, except as provided in Section 9.4.1-D (2).
4. A business set back from its major road frontage right-of-way line by over two hundred (200) feet may increase the permitted size of building signs by fifteen (15) percent for each fifty (50) feet beyond two hundred (200) feet, up to a maximum increase of one hundred fifty (150) percent.
Amend Article XVI to include definition of adding Shopping Center. Add the following definitions to Article XVI.
Mall-See "shopping center."
Shopping Center-A group development of commercial or retail establishments which are planned and developed and owned or managed as a unit with off-street parking provided on the premises.

Man Sentenced To 11-14 Months In High-Speed Chase

A man will be spending 11 to 14 months in prison for leading law enforcement officers on a high speed chase from Davie County into Forsyth County in a stolen car in March.
Michael Dennis Long told officers he had taken the car because he wanted to see his girlfriend who was having his child in Winston-Salem, according to Assistant DA Gwendolyn Priest.
The chase began when Trooper P.T. Hennelly of the N.C. Highway Patrol recognized a Dodge Neon that had been reported stolen in Mecklenburg County while patrolling I-40 in Davie County, Priest said.
Hennelly clocked the car at 81 in a 70 mph zone and attempted to stop it. The vehicle entered Davie County traveling at a speed of more than 120 mph and was at one point clocked at 130 mph, she said.
The chase continued into Winston-Salem where Long crashed the car into a utility pole on Stratford Road, causing an estimated $4,000 in damage, she said.
Long was not thinking. He just wanted to get to the hospital at all expenses, according to his attorney Michael Parker.
"He realizes he put other people's families in jeopardy," Parker said. "It's probably the stupidest thing he's ever done for a good reason."

Eldridge Convicted Of Rape

A Davie County man was sentenced to 180 to 225 months in prison for attempted first degree statutory rape.
Charged with first degree rape of a child, James Allen Eldridge pleaded guilty to the lesser offense last week in Davie County Superior Court.
According to Assistant District Attorney Gwendolyn Priest, the girl reported that Eldridge had entered the room where she was sleeping at her grandmother's house, forced her to have sexual intercourse with him and told her not to tell anyone what had happened.
While in jail, Eldridge admitted to having sexual contact with the girl but denied having intercourse with her. He said he didn't force her to do anything and that it wouldn't have happened if he had not been drinking, Priest said.
Eldridge had a serious drinking problem at the time of the incident. He developed a drinking problem when began substituting alcohol for crack cocaine in an effort to overcome an addiction to that drug, his attorney Lynne Hicks said.
He is extremely remorseful, she said.
"A lot of things happened I wish I could go back and change," Eldridge said during an apology to the girl and her parents.
Judge James C. Davis recommended the Drug and Alcohol Rehabilitation Treatment program for Eldridge and ordered him to attend AA or NA meetings daily for 90 days after completing the DART program and at least twice a week after that.
He also recommended that Eldridge receive a psychological evaluation and treatment while in prison.

Man Arrested After Fight

A Mocksville man faces four charges after a domestic dispute at a residence on Junction Road on May 31.
Jason Todd "Termit" Neely, 22, of 447 Junction Road, was charged by the Davie Sheriff's Department with two counts of assault by pointing a gun, assault on a female and cruelty to animals. He is scheduled to face the charges June 12 in Davie District Court.
According to reports by Sgt. T.B. Grubbs and Deputy S.D. Montley, Neely grabbed and shook his wife, pointed a gun and threatened her and another woman, and kicked his wife's dog.

Pain may be eliminated for millions

(SPECIAL) - A drug that is exciting researchers in the treatment of pain has been formulated into a new product known as "Arthur Itis," and is being called a "Medical Miracle" by some, in the treatment of debilitating conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, rheumatism, painful muscle aches, joint aches, simple backache, bruises, and more. Although the mechanism of action is unclear, experiments indicate that Arthur Itis, relieves pain by first selectively attracting, and then destroying the messenger chemical which carries pain sensations to the brain, thus eliminating pain in the affected area. Arthur Itis, is available immediately without a prescription in an odorless, greaseless, non-staining cream or new easy applicator liquid form. ## Hill, Kiser And Collins Make Respectable Showing In State Track Meet

By Brian Pitts

Davie County Enterprise Record
Competing against stout competition at Saturday's state track meet in Charlotte, three Davie performers faded to second-level residency, without regrets.
Garick Hill, B.J. Kiser and Kenny Collins tasted the state flavor for the first time, making Hill's sixth-place finish and Kiser and Collins' 10th worth the ride.

It's not as though the three didn't fulfill their expectations.
Hill ran a personal-best 9:53.09 in the 3,200 meter run, but wound up 22 seconds behind winner Nick Winkler of Rocky Mount; Kiser pole vaulted 12-06, tying his season high, but leader Dan Sarisky of Broughton soared to 14-0; and Collins had to operate from the eighth lane in the 300 hurdles, not a preferred strip of roadway.

Then you throw quivering nerves on top of everything else.
"This was a big meet for them," Coach Scott Young said. "They had never been in a big meet like that and they were nervous, but they'll get another shot at it."

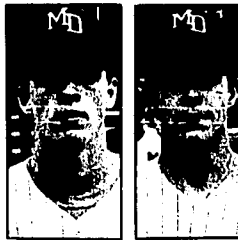

Three seconds separated Hill from fourth place.
"I was extremely pleased with Garick's effort and I think he was, too," Young said. "That competition is tough. When all six runners are under 9:53, it's a pretty quality field. He's just a junior and he'll come back next year and shoot for higher."
"Collins didn't have a real good time, but he had a difficult lane assignment."

Davie Legion Team Defeats China Grove 12-4 In Six Innings

By Brian Pitts

Davie County Enterprise Record

China Grove's pitching staff and Mocksville-Davie's Andy Ward had something in common Saturday night. They were both out of gas.
Ward sent a missile 400 feet to the right-center field wall, rounded third and tried for an inside-the-park homer, generally mentioned as the most exciting play in baseball.
Ward bogged down in final phase of the lap and was gunned down at the plate, a resemblance of Coach Ernie Faw's weary staff.
So Faw didn't talk when the bottom fell out of the black clouds after six innings Saturday night in China Grove, leading to Mocksville's 12-4 rain-shortened victory.
"It poured and Ernie was out of pitchers and he didn't want to waste any more," said George Daywalt, Mocksville's American Legion baseball coach.
Daywalt, whose club (8-3, 3-3 Southern Division) was recovering from two losses earlier in the week, will take a win any way he can get it, but he would have enjoyed watching pitcher Allan Pardue finish the job.
Pardue, who stumbled out of the gate, only allowed one hit after the third and was picking up steam as the game aged.
"Allan was getting right (when the rain came)," Daywalt said of Pardue, who gave up seven hits, four runs (three earned) and two walks while striking out four.
"He kept getting better and stronger as the game went, and he shut the good hitters (3-5) down. He would have had no problem going nine innings."
Mocksville seized command with three runs in the top of the first, capitalizing on two errors by the shortstop and on an RBI single by Victor Patti, one of his three hits in four trips to the plate.
A sacrifice fly by Jansen Keene in the second made the score 4-0, and after China Grove closed to 4-3 with three runs in the second, Mocksville broke the door down with six in the third.

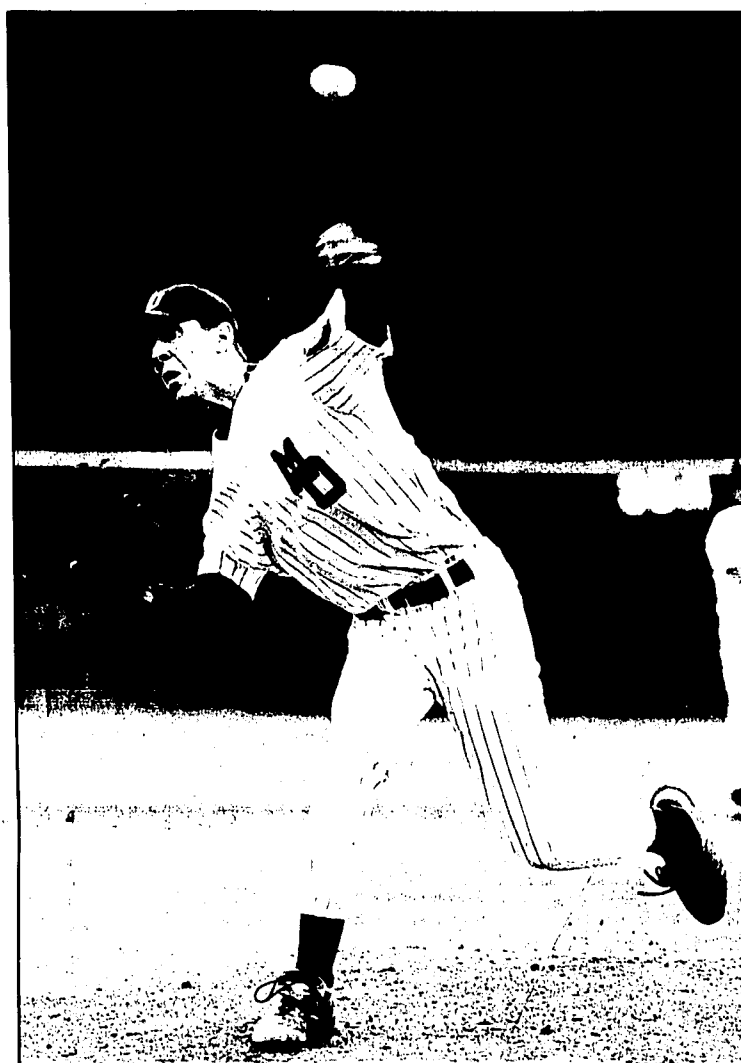

Ward

Pardue

Patti and Nathan Ireland had successive run-scoring singles. Keene roped a two-run double and the monster inning was capped by Joe Burchette's triple that sailed over the right fielder's head. "I mean it was a mile high," Daywalt said.
Following singles by Patti and Ireland to begin the fourth, Patti doubled to make it 11-4 and Ward plated Keene, who doubled, in the fifth with the triple to the deepest part of the park.
"They threw him out at home and Andy said: 'My fault, I just ran out of gas,'" Daywalt said. "They were out of pitchers, problems they're going to have by drawing from one school (South Rowan), but we need wins."

"We played pretty good defensively. We're coming around, we've just got to put it all together."
Ireland (3-3) and Keene (3-4) joined Patti in the three-hit department and Ward was 2 for 4.
Upcoming Games
Mocksville Kicks off a three-game homestand this week, hosting Albemarle on June 4, Mooresville on Saturday and Salisbury in a makeup game on Sunday. Post 174 travels to Lexington this Tuesday.

Davie High Athletes Named All-Conference

Tennis

Dedication to their sport in the offseason played a huge part in senior Tee Balmson and junior Russell Senger being named to the all-Central Piedmont conference tennis team.
They shared the No. 1 spot on Davie's 10-5 playoff club and formed the second-best doubles team in the league, behind Mt. Tabor's top pair.
"They worked really hard on their games in the offseason, and you could tell it," Coach Carol Cozart said.
"They brought mental toughness to all the games, as well as to practice, and that's what it takes. You're going to play like a practice."

Soccer

Davie soccer coach Pete Gustafson wore a broad smile last week when the all-conference team was announced. The representatives from Davie - juniors Kathryn Jackson, Jodie Stone and Meghan Callahan - will all play soccer next year.
Jackson led the War Eagles (10-6, 6-6 CPC) in goals (14) and points (18) and was third in assists (4).
"She switched from midfield to striker, which is a more restricted area with your back to the goal," Gustafson said.
"There's a lot of shielding the ball and she did that very well. She was a great role model and has a great work ethic."

Golf

The Central Piedmont Conference announced its all-conference golf team, with Davie's Sean Boyd and David Rondstedt leading the way as player and coach of the year, respectively.
After finishing second in the league as a freshman, Boyd has been player of the year three consecutive seasons.

Baseball

Jerry Walser, Davie's baseball coach, had to do little campaigning to get three of his players on the all-Central Piedmont Conference team.
Junior shortstop Charles Miller, senior third baseman Andy Ward and senior pitcher Phillip Rogers were all unanimous choices.
Rogers, who was 7-1 with a 0.94 ERA, was a logical candidate for player of the year, according to Walser and several other coaches around the league.
"It didn't take a lot of convincing to get him on (all-CPC) and he was nominated for player of the year," Walser said. "Muncus (of Mt. Tabor) got it but some other coaches felt he could have very well got it. It was a close vote."
Ward (330) and Miller (333) made the elite squad for the second straight year.
"Andy in a lot of ways was our team leader on offense," Walser said. "He's been a solid player for us for three years."
"Charles may be the best athlete in our league. Everybody wants to know if he's a senior or not, and any time they're asking if you're a senior, that tells you he's pretty good."

Walser seemed content to have three players named from a 13-11, third-place team.
"I was pleased," he said. "I would have liked to have gotten some more, but those three were unanimous and I guess that's all you can ask for."

Summer Camp Basketball Coach Begins Rebuilding

It may be years before the project is completed but construction on Jim Young's pyramid will begin June 17-21, when the Davie boys coach will hold a basketball camp for rising sixth graders to seniors.
"I really feel strongly that to build a program you need a pyramid," said Young, who became the new coach on May 13. "We need middle school and freshmen on up running the basically the same stuff."
"I'm not talking about dictating what the coaches have to do. But there are some basic things that we will build on from the bottom up, so if I have a freshman who is really good and needs challenging, then I can move him up and he'll know the basics of what we're doing. That way we're all working for a common goal."
There will be two camp sites. Rising high school prospects will work out at Davie High, but a gym for grades 6-8 wasn't announced by early this week. Both camps will last from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.
"It'll work. It just takes time to get (the program off the ground) because it's not something you just roll out the ball with," Young said. "They have to work at it."
Physicians are required for the camp, which cost $110 per player. Awards and prizes will be given away. Parents can register no later than June 17.

Mocksville-Davie Legion Team Falls Short In 8-5 Loss To North Wilkesboro

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

Mocksville-Davie coach George Daywalt tossed pitcher Ryan Lambert into the deep waters of American Legion baseball and said: Swim to shore.

"Eight innings and close to 200 pitches later, Lambert was white in the face, prompting Daywalt to throw in the life preserver and pull Lambert in after a lead-off walk in the top of the ninth.

Mocksville lost the game 8-5 Friday night at Mando Field, but the message was clear.

"He threw a lot of pitches but this ought to toughen him up, his stamina, where he can pitch longer (come play-off time)," Daywalt said of Lambert, who had never pitched more than seven innings in a game.

Lambert (2-1, 2.25 ERA), who struck out at least two batters from the fourth through the eighth inning, did a Mitch Williams imitation, striking out .14 and walking 11. He has compiled Wild Thing numbers: 30 strikeouts and 19 walks in 20 innings.

"He got in the hole early (to hitters) but he wanted to stay in," Daywalt said of Lambert, who gave up eight hits and eight runs (four earned).

"In the middle innings he was real good, but he couldn't get inside when he needed to and that's what he's got to do to be effective. He stayed behind too much, but he pitched good enough (to win)."

Lambert's counterpart, Randy Mathis, had a contrasting style but the righty was in command throughout the night, walking only one and giving up only three runs (two earned) in six innings.

"He just walked out there, got the ball and came right at us," Daywalt said. "Nothing fancy, he just threw strikes. He was never behind and just stayed in control."

Mocksville touched Mathis for one run in the fourth, cutting North's lead to 5-1, on a double by Drew Ridenhour that one-hopped the corner of the center-field fence. Post 174 sliced the margin to 5-3 one inning later, scoring on a controversial two-run home run by Jansen Keene.

The low line drive by the left-field foul pole appeared to hook foul to North's assistant coach, who sprinted from the bull pen to argue the call with the home-plate umpire.

Daywalt, of course, saw something else.

"It was right on (the foul pole)," he said. "I think it went over fair but it hooked in the tree foul, so I can understand why it looked foul. But it looked fair from where I was at (third-base coaching box)."

After North put Mocksville in a deep hole with three unearned runs in the sixth, Post 174 bounced back with a pair of runs in the seventh off reliever Justin Call, scoring one on a sharply stroked double to center by Andy Ward and the other on a fielder's choice by Joe Burchette.

Three of the first four hitters that Call faced got hits and Mocksville had runners on second and third with two outs in the eighth, but Call somehow survived.

"I kept thinking we were going to come back two or three times," Daywalt said, "but we'd either strike out or hit a weak fly ball when we really needed something to happen."

By falling behind 4-0, Mocksville had to dump its manufacturing scheme, bunting and hitting and running.

"We couldn't bunt any and for us to win, we have to bunt some," Daywalt said. "When you get down early or can't get a situation to (bunt), that hurts our game."

Keene, who relieved Lambert, recorded two of three outs on strike outs. ... Charles Miller, David Potts, Shane Allen and Ward all had two hits, accounting for eight of Mocksville's 12 hits.

ever pitched, and Brian Anthony went 11 against Concord.

"I'm trying not to use so many pitchers and toughen up the ones we've got."

The injury bug has bitten two Mocksville players, pitchers Destry Swaim and Victor Patti.

Swaim's injury, possibly a torn rotator cuff, is keeping him from the lineup all together while Patti has been able to play some first base despite a sore shoulder.

Daywalt applauded Patti's effort (3-4) at the plate and in the field against China Grove Saturday night.

"He just went up there and hit the ball," Daywalt said, "and he picked a couple of balls out of the dirt. Down the road, it's going to take more people (off the bench to be successful)."

Shane Allen and Nathan Ireland have combined to hit .339 (20-59) while sharing second base. Allen is fourth on the club with a .385 average.

And there's no animosity between the two. "You can't say enough about Shane and Nathan," Daywalt said. "And with Jansen in center field and without three catchers, we're strong in the middle."

Stats you wouldn't dare ask for: Mocksville, after going 0-4 on Saturday in 1996, are 5-0 on Saturdays in 1997. ... Mocksville has outscored opponents 18-1 in the first inning. ...

Mocksville and opponents have combined for 25 runs in the third inning alone, but only three in the eighth and ninth innings. ... Mocksville has clubbed five home runs to the opponent's zero.

innings and taking a commanding 8-3 lead, Concord flopped, getting only one hit in the last five frames.

On the offensive side, there's never any telling who might carry Mocksville.

It might be Joe Burchette, who homered for the third straight night. Or perhaps Jansen Keene, the veteran who was hitting a team-high .452 going into Monday. Shane Allen can stand out at times.

On this night, the star was part-time catcher David Potts, who finished 3 for 4, including two clutch hits with the game on the line.

In the top of the ninth with Mocksville down to its final out and trailing 8-7, Potts lined a game-tying single down the left-field line to bring in Colin Styers, who singled with one out.

Potts went to work again in the 11th. Scott Cornatzer singled and was off and running on the pitch to Potts, who doubled home the first of four runs.

"Scott kept on trucking," Daywalt said. "David had a big night, some big hits for us. That's why I had him at DH on Friday night."

Providing insurance runs were Allen, who singled, and Keene, who tripled over the center fielder's head. Another run crossed when Concord's third baseman erred at Burchette grounder.

The clubs traded leads for five innings.

Burchette mashed a solo homer in the second for the game's first run, and after Concord went up 2-1, Mocksville tied the game when Andy Ward's fly ball to right was dropped.

Concord answered with a run and Post 174 tied the game for the third time on a Charles Miller RBI single.

Mocksville countered Concord's four-run sixth with four of its own in the top of the seventh, the inning that Anthony began his dominance on the hill.

The big blows were Burchette's two-run double that rolled into the left-field corner and Styers' run-scoring single along the right-field line.

Other offensive jewels were Keene (3-6), Burchette (3-7), Styers (3-7) and Allen (2-3).

Legion Team Falls To Kannapolis

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

After scoring six runs in the top of the first inning, Mocksville-Davie put its game on cruise control.

"They thought it was enough," said George Daywalt, the American Legion baseball coach.

It wasn't. Kannapolis chipped away at the lead, scored five fifth-inning runs to take a 9-8 lead and held on for a 13-8 win at Kannapolis on May 27.

"I felt like it was our worst game of the year," said Daywalt. "We made five errors and that didn't help us any. We felt like that's all we needed, but when you score eight runs, you should win the ball game."

After Mocksville's thunderous first, Joe Burchette made the only noise the rest of the way, a two-run homer to left-center field in the fifth that increased Mocksville's lead to 8-4.

"It was a bomb," Daywalt said. "He hit it about 390. Burchette (3-4, 4 RBI) did most of the damage for us. He was the only one into the game as far as hitting the ball."

In the bottom of the inning, Kannapolis hit Mocksville's staff all around the park, chasing starter Jansen Keene and battering three relievers (Charles Miller, Skip Crider and Ryan Desnoyers) over the last three innings.

"Our pitching didn't hold up," Daywalt said. "Kannapolis is a bunch of young guys who are aggressive at the plate."

Four hits, two errors and two walks helped Mocksville jump out to a 6-0 lead.

Leadoff man Shane Allen singled, and an error and a walk later, Burchette drove in two runs with a single. Colin Styers beat out a safety-squeeze bunt for an RBI hit and Drew Ridenhour capped the outburst with a run-scoring single.

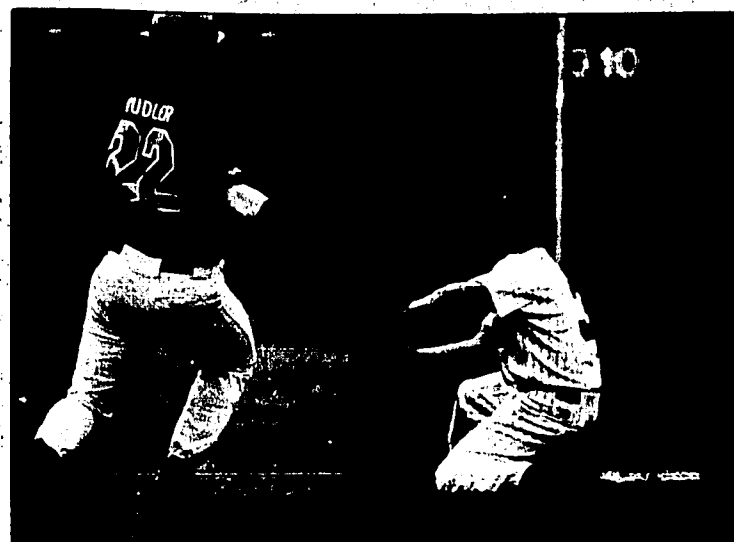

Other than Burchette's blast four innings later, Mocksville was done after the first.

"We couldn't get into it after they went ahead (9-8)," Daywalt said. "We couldn't get anything started. We didn't hit when we needed to. We've got to get somebody who can hit in the clutch."

*Allen finished with a pair of hits in five at-bats. ... Keene was lifted in favor of Miller after Kannapolis started

AAU Carolina Mariners To Host Doyle Baseball, Softball School

The Carolina Mariners, a local 15-year-old AAU baseball team coached by Dink Smith, will be hosting the nationally recognized Doyle Baseball/Softball School, June 16-20.

Youngsters between the ages of 7 and 18 will work on hitting, throwing, fielding and positional play and will participate in instructional games during the five-day school, which will be held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Davie County Youth Complex.

More than 300,000 players have benefited from Doyle's expert instruction, allowing thousands the chance to play college baseball and softball. Numerous players have also gone on to successful professional careers and 90 Doyle Baseball graduates were drafted in the past two Major League Drafts. Tuition for the camp is $200. To register, call Smith at 910-940-2213. For a free Doyle Baseball/Softball brochure, call 800-443-5538.

Golf Tournament Planned

This year's Davie County American Cancer Society Golf Championship will be held at Hickory Hill Country Club of Davie, Mocksville, on June 21.

Hole sponsorships are available for $75. Names will be displayed on a "tee" or "green". Cart sponsorships are also available at $40.

*Donations and sponsorships are greatly appreciated and both are tax deductible,* said Pat Amore, tournament chair.

Last year the Davie County Chapter netted over $8,000.

For those participating in the tournament, a portion of your entry fee is tax deductible. The fair market value is $36 per person. The entry fee will be $160 plus $60 for carts and green fees per four (4) man team, for a total of $220. This includes green fees, carts, lunch, refreshments, Hole in One and closest to the pin. Mulligans will also be available. A scramble format will be played.

For the third year, there will be a senior men's division. Seniors can only advance to the State competition; there is no national.

classes, emphasizing philosophy and current issues. The schools last for six weeks, are held on college campuses, and include high school and college instructors.

All must show strong academic abilities, as well as a particular interest in their selected area. They were nominated by a committee at the high school, and selected by a state committee.

Fit Kids

Shady Grove Wins Governor's Award

The 1997 Governor's Awards for Health and Fitness were presented Thursday, May 22 to outstanding health and fitness programs for North Carolina employees, youth, older adult and community programs.

The Governor's Council on Physical Fitness and Health recognizes the winners during the Governor's Council on Physical Fitness Awards Luncheon at the Crabtree Valley-Marriott in Raleigh. The awards are sponsored by Blue Cross and Blue Shield of North Carolina.

The purpose for Governor's Awards for Youth Fitness is to identify and honor outstanding school physical education and community-based physical activity programs for youth in North Carolina.

Shady Grove Elementary was selected as a 1997 Governor's Award for Youth Fitness recipient.

Shady Grove has a daily physical education program for each child. Taught by instructor Karen Umberger and assisted by Sandra Smith, the children are exposed to a variety of activities in the four instructional areas: health and physical fitness, developmental gymnastics, sport skills, and rhythms and dance.

The importance of fitness and life-time skills is stressed daily to help the children realize the importance of healthful living as a youth which will carry into adulthood, Umberger said.

Joining the Governor's Council in presenting the awards was Paralympic bronze medalist, Lauren McDevitt, who served as the luncheon speaker. Ms. McDevitt was a member of the Paralympic Equestrian Team and earned a bronze medal at the 1996 Paralympic Games in Atlanta. She works with individuals with disabilities in the areas of recreation, community reintegration, and adjustment to disability.

Third Graders: Don't Smoke, Drink Or Abuse Drugs

Smoking can make your lungs turn black. And according to Pinebrook Elementary School third grader Rebecca West, it can also make your brain go crazy, make your stomach hurt and can kill you.

Her entry was first place among county third graders who entered a poster contest for the Davie County Health Fair.

Rebecca said the idea of drawing black lungs on a person "just came to my head when I thought about it."

Second place went to Jessica Overby of Mocksville Elementary, while Morgan Hicks of Mocksville Elementary was third.

"Pills can make you crazy and start drinking and smoking," Morgan wrote. "Never drink and drive because you can wreck into a tree, a power line or another car. Smoking can cause lung cancer. Smoking can also make your teeth turn yellow," Morgan said.

Phillip Scott of Pinebrook Elementary was fourth with his poster titled "Don't Smoke, Your Lungs Will Choke."

Fifth place went to Lauren Pastewka of Shady Grove Elementary.

Strider To Retire After 33 Years In Education

By Jeanne Houpe
Davie County Enterprise Record

After working nearly 34 years to ensure good educational opportunities for children, the Davie Schools' general supervisor Elaine Strider plans to retire July 1, after overseeing Davie County's senior school for the last time.

This will probably be Davie's last summer school. The new semester block scheduling system will enable high school students to take classes they fail a second time without being held back a grade, while schools are being held accountable for making sure students achieve at the appropriate level through the ABCs program.

These are just a few of the changes Strider has witnessed since entering the education profession in 1963 as an elementary school teacher. Starting her career in the Greensboro city schools and working several years in the Hickory city schools, she and husband, Dawson, had found their way home to Davie County by 1969.

Strider taught at Smith Grove School and then moved to Pinebrook. During those years, she taught grades 1-4, remedial reading for seventh and eighth graders and served as Pinebrook's assistant principal for a couple years.

"I really got to work in the best years of education," Strider said of her days at Pinebrook with open classrooms and team teaching. "When I was teaching, we never had to deal with the situations and problems teachers have to deal with now. We just got to go in and teach."

Societal changes has made being a classroom teacher the most difficult thing in education, she said.

Since moving to the Central Office in 1977, Strider has at some time been in charge of just about everything involved in the education of students K-12.

Beginning under Superintendent Jim Everidge, she was in charge of instruction, curriculum and personnel for grades 1-8. When he left the school system, Strider was given those responsibilities for grades K-12.

Everidge, who oversaw the building of Davie's junior high schools, was innovative and ahead of his time, Strider said. He and A.M. Kiser served as her mentors in her early years at the Central Office.

In recent years, her duties have become more focused on curriculum, meeting Southern Association accreditation standards and implementation of the new ABCs program.

No matter what her duties, Strider's favorite part of her job has always remained the same.

"I enjoy the most working with teachers and students," she said.

The relationships with them is what she will miss most about her job, Strider said.

Yet, she is looking forward to returning home. Her one regret in her job was not staying home from work until her daughter, Dawn, started school. When Dawn and husband, Mike, have a child, Strider plans to make up for that by having plenty of time to be a grandmother.

She also looks forward to taking some golfing vacations with her husband. "I hope to learn how to play again. When you're working, your golf game suffers," she said.

Despite her other retirement plans, Strider won't be leaving her work in education behind entirely. She still has plans to work with several school systems to help them prepare for Southern Association accreditation and re-accreditation, she said.

"I firmly believe that as education goes so goes the nation," she said.

Strider has witnessed a lot of changes, especially in the last 10 years with the introduction of charter schools, a growing number of private schools, more home schooling, numerous changes in legislation and educators less respected than they have ever been, she said.

But she believes that these forces will end up making public education better, though she argues that to make it better more money must be spent on materials, facilities and salaries.

"When I think about what a teacher gets paid in relation to other professions, it makes me cry," she said.

Yet, Davie County has always been on the cutting edge with good facilities, quality educators and overall good parental support, she said.

As she prepares to leave the school system, Strider said, "I guess my biggest accomplishment was to have been given the opportunity to have a role in leadership in the schools."

She attributes her success to the encouragement and support she received over the years from her parents, husband and daughter.

DCCC To Offer Classes At Davie Campus

The Davie Campus of Davidson County Community College will offer the following Continuing Education classes beginning the week of June 10.

PowerPoint 4.0 for Windows was created for salespersons, teachers, and others for presentations. It helps the user to develop effective presentations for maximum impact. Topics covered include: creating a simple presentation; getting your message across; and charts, tables and graphs for professional presentations. (Section 101: Tuesdays, 10 a.m.-noon, June 10-Aug. 12, and Section 102: Tuesdays, 5:30-7:30 p.m., June 10-Aug. 12. Both sections are 20 hours in length with a $35 fee plus $30 for recommended textbook and $5 for materials.)

TPAS: Teacher Performance Appraisal System includes classroom observation techniques and skills for working with the newly certified teacher. The course of study presents videos to analyze according to state evaluation procedures. Students will be instructed and evaluated both on and off campus to meet course requirements. Stated class meeting times are for on-campus sessions. (Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays, 1-4 p.m., June 10-25, 24 hours, $35 fee plus approximately $3 for textbook, TRC: 2.4)

Spanish for Business: Beginning is designed for adults as a first time foreign language study and teaches elementary vocabulary, grammar and pronunciation. Participants will be able to understand basic Spanish communications and gain knowledge of the customs, culture and lifestyles of Spanish-speaking people. (Section 101: Fridays, 1-3 p.m., June 13-Aug. 15, and Section 102: Wednesdays, 5:30-7:30 p.m., June 11-Aug. 13. Both sections are 20 hours in length with a $35 fee plus approximately $20 for textbook, TRC: 2.0)

Spanish for Medical Personnel students will learn simple grammar, elementary vocabulary, and pronunciation of everyday Spanish/Mexican language. This course is designed to help medical personnel with the words, phrases and questions needed to conduct examinations, provide general treatment and communicate with Spanish-speaking patients. (Section 101: Wednesdays, 3-5 p.m., June 11-Aug. 13, and Section 102: Wednesdays, 6:30-8:30 p.m., June 11-Aug. 13. Both sections are 20 hours in length with a $35 fee plus approximately $20 for textbook, TRC: 2.0)

Excel 5 organizes, analyzes, and performs calculations on data through the creation and use of charts, graphs, and spreadsheets in numerous formats. This course is not for beginners and requires familiarity with Windows. Students need to bring a 3 1/2" high density disk. The content of this course specifically teaches the technology competencies required of all public school certified personnel. (Wednesdays, 5:30 a.m.-8 p.m., June 11-Aug. 13, 30 hours for textbook and $5 for materials, TRC: 3.0)

These classes will meet at the Davie Campus of Davidson County Community College located at 1205 Salisbury Road in Mocksville. To pre-register or obtain additional information, call the Davie Campus at (704) 634-2885.

Aug. 11 and 12, 510. Grades 6 and up, 9 a.m.-noon. A professional chef from Winston-Salem will be with us two mornings to share his talents. Participants should be familiar with the basics of cooking and be prepared to help create and eat elegant meals.

Crescent EMC Announces Reduction In Rates

Crescent Electric Membership Corporation (EMC) announced at the cooperative's annual meeting a 4.7 percent reduction in rates, effective Aug. 1. This rate reduction follows a 5 percent reduction that was put into effect Jan. 1.

Several factors made this 10 percent reduction possible. "These rate reductions are a result of our members' involvement in our marketing programs, especially the load management system; the tremendous growth in the Crescent service area which improves efficiency; and lower wholesale power costs from our supplier."

Gardening Tips Offered Online By Extension Service

Gardeners: Are you snubbed by your shrubs? Have your beets got you beat? Is the summer heat too "much" for you?

Why not let the experts help you with just about any problem—or goal—you can name. You can access this well of knowledge with a click of your mouse, and never have to leave your office or house. This quest won't take much time and won't cost you a dime.

It's waiting online...at the North Carolina Cooperative Extension Service home page on the World Wide Web. Here's your URL (Uniform Resource Locator) address that opens the door to answers for your peskiest questions: <http://www.ces.ncsu.edu/>

Now, click on the link that says, "County Centers." This link will direct you to your county center of the N.C. Cooperative Extension Service, where you can get all sorts of information about consumer education, plant pests and more. Or, click on "Extension Departments" and you'll find everything from Agriculture to 4-H to Zoology.

Vacation Celebration' Bringing Bluegrass To Downtown Area

The Davie County Arts Council will sponsor the third "Afternoon Beneath the Oaks" free concert on Sunday, June 8 from 3-5 p.m. on the square in Mocksville.

This concert will be a "Vacation Celebration" featuring two Davie County musical groups, The Southland String Bands and The Vivitones. Both entertain with a versatile style of acoustic string music consisting of bluegrass (traditional and hard-driving) country blues and folk.

Southland String Band's members are Bill Foster, Randy Gardner, Ricky Naylor, David Sidden, Frank and Sharon Tolbert and Carl Wicker. "The Vivitones" name comes from lead vocalist, Vivian Britt, who teams up with husband, Tom playing five-string banjo. They are joined by Chris Campbell on mandolin and Keith Oliver on guitar.

If it rains, the event will be held under the arbor at the Masonic Picnic Grounds off North Main Street.

The Vivitones will play free concert Sunday in downtown Mocksville.

Potts Reunion Sunday

The annual Potts reunion will be held Sunday, June 8 at the Corner-Duffin Fire Department. Lunch will be served at 1 p.m.

Sabrina Black Earns Excellence Award

Mrs. Sabrina F. Black, B.S., R.D.C.S., corporate clinical specialist, echocardiography, of Presbyterian Hospital in Charlotte, received the sonographer excellence award on May 17 in Raleigh.

Black is a former resident of Mocksville and is the daughter of Dr. Bob M. Foster and Coleen S. Foster.

County Budget Hearing Monday: Schools' Request Cut

Davie commissioners will hold a public hearing on the 1996-97 budget at 7 p.m. Monday in the county administration.

There is no proposed tax increase, but there are proposed increases in inspection fees and a mid-year increase in water rates.

The county didn't address funding a new elementary school, as requested by the board of education. There has been some talk of converting the state prison into a county jail (It is expected to be closed in September), and using the savings from building a jail toward the new school.

The proposal would increase current expense funding to schools by 8 percent. The schools had requested a 13.8 percent increase.

"This year's growth in revenue was very small," said County Manager Ken Windley. "However, we continue to fund needed projects, additional current expense funds for the board of education, and other truly needed requests."

Other highlights:

- a 3.5 percent pay increase for all county employees, with a 1 percent merit increase for some workers;
- an additional worker in the inspections department to handle an increasing workload, including expected industrial work when Unifi begins construction;
- changing from part-time to full-time an employee in the tax office;
- computerized voting equipment will be purchased;
- two deputies for the sheriff's department, in addition to new patrol cars;
- a new ambulance for EMS;
- volunteer fire departments would receive $47,212, with Clemmons getting $20,000, and Courtney, Scotch-Irish and Lone Hickory being funded based on the tax value of their district in Davie County;
- a generator will be purchased for and emergency shelter;

• Arts Council funding was increased from $5,000 to $15,000 to provide better programs and salary for a new director;

• the health department will add a doctor and staff to handle managed care changes;

• landfill disposal charges would increase from $47 to $49 a ton because of increased costs charged the county by Forsyth;

• a mid-year increase in water rates is also proposed.

Davie Family YMCA Makes Plans To Expand

The Davie Family YMCA hopes to expand with the development of six acres beside the facility—if an agreement can be reached with the Davie County schools.

Proposing a multi-purpose athletic field with outdoor walking track and exercise park course, the YMCA proposes a long-term lease of the land, which is part of the Mocksville Elementary School campus.

According to attorney Hank Van Hoy, the additional field would provide for approximately 100 participants in before and after school programs and 125 participants during the YMCA's summer day camp program.

The YMCA proposes a cooperative venture to include a long-term lease between the school system and the YMCA for 99 years at $1 per year, which could be extended for an additional 50 years.

The YMCA would construct an athletic field and facilities, maintain the field and furnish appropriate equipment, maintain liability insurance coverage and establish rules for use of the facility by the YMCA and its members. The YMCA would supervise maintaining control of the field, except during the time the school is using it, according to Van Hoy.

The school would have the right to use the facilities at any time during school hours in accordance with the school's calendar, Van Hoy said.

Superintendent Dr. Bill Steed recommended that the Board of Education approve the YMCA proposal.

The matter was tabled at the recommendation of school board attorney Wade Leonard to give him time to discuss it with Van Hoy.

By his interpretation of the law, Leonard said he believed that any lease of more than 10 years must be treated as a sale, which would mean the Davie County Board of Commissioners would have to also give approval.

Minister Retiring After 27 Years Here

By Jeanne Houpe
Davie County Enterprise Record

Years were abundant at First Presbyterian Church in Mocksville the day the church's minister of more than 27 years announced his intention to retire.

Weeks later sitting in his study at the church which is decorated with children's drawings given to him recently, Leland Richardson talked about his decision with mixed emotions.

Beginning his ministry in Mocksville Jan. 1, 1970, Richardson never imagined this is where he and wife Juanita would retire.

He was so uncertain of how long they might stay that he didn't even have the name of the church included on his business cards that year.

It wasn't that the Richardsons didn't like Mocksville, he explained. They just didn't expect things to turn out this way.

"But we stayed, and we enjoyed it."

After moving around for several years, they were ready to settle in one place for a while by the time they arrived in Davie County. That year Lynn was in first grade and Karen in kindergarten. Both daughters grew up in the Davie schools, he said.

In Mocksville they found a town with a good hospital, excellent schools and that was in easy traveling distance of major metropolitan areas, he said.

More importantly, he said, it was "just a good community to live in — with good people."

During his time here he has tried to contribute to the community through his ministry to the church and community, he said.

Inspection Fees Increase Still Up In The Air

Building inspection fees in the county need to be increased, but county officials haven't agreed on what those fees should be. Building Inspector William Whaley presented proposals to county commissioners during budget negotiations. Those were lowered and brought to the board earlier this month.

They may be adjusted even more. Two commissioners who are also builders — Richard Poin-dexter and Larry Hayes — shook their heads when reviewing the proposed fees.

Town Manager Proposes No Tax Increase For Mocksville

Despite a slight increase in Mocksville's budget for 1997-98, Town Manager Terry Bralley is recommending no increase in the tax rate.

Bralley presented a $4,162,093 budget recommendation to the Town Board June 3.

Grants make up much of the increase over last year's $3.9 million budget, including a $200,000 housing grant which will provide repairs for eight houses of lower income residents within the town limits and a $90,000 grant for the senior nutrition program at the Davie County Senior Center, he said.

Bralley's budget would give all town employees a 3.5 percent wage increase and an additional one percent match for employee 401K plans with the exception of law enforcement personnel, who already receive a five percent match.

The budget calls for a water rate increase for customers outside the city limits of 10 cents per 1,000 gallons, he said.

Have Boomers Lost Secret Formula For Happy Marriage?

The Baby Boom generation has always been controversial. Boomers have always seemed to do things differently. Their musical tastes, their clothing, their hair, their politics, their child-rearing habits... everything has been just a little different from the way people did it before. There are so many Boomers that they have always been the focus of retailers and marketers.

What are the Boomers doing now?

They are throwing 50th wedding anniversary celebrations for their parents.

The generation that has made divorce commonplace is now celebrating the longevity of their parents' marriages. Their parents didn't "just do it." Their parents didn't put personal happiness first. Their parents made a vow to God... and kept it.

Newspaper wedding pages are suddenly filled with 50th wedding anniversary notices. After World War II ended, soldiers came home and married their sweethearts. There was a flood of weddings — creating the Baby Boom generation that followed.

My parents celebrated their 50th anniversary last week. It was a wonderful reminder of their love for each other and their commitment to put their marriage first.

Boomers have always had trouble matching the level of commitment and selflessness of the World War II generation. Just as President Clinton's character couldn't hold a candle to Bob Dole's, so have Boomers struggled to match Dole's contemporaries.

What has impressed me so often about my parents' generation is its dedication and loyalty. I have noticed it most at church. That generation believed in going to Sunday School every week. Perfect attendance was celebrated. My son Robert, 6, has been taught by some of the same women who taught me. One woman has kept the nursery for two generations.

What's their secret?

What keeps them going through the dull times, the boring days, the days when they don't feel well? What has kept the marriages of all those 50th-year couples intact?

Today, one of every two marriages ends in divorce. A Christian counselor now says the divorce rate is less than one in 1,000 for couples who... pray together.

For some reason, joining in prayer seems to dull the edge of hard feelings better than any therapist. In a conversation with God, it's hard not to see your own shortcomings, even if your spouse has some too. Beyond financial worries, health concerns or unruly children, peace with God seems to make for better husbands and wives.

As a little boy, I sneaked out of bed a number of times and found my parents on their knees. They prayed every night. It's one of my lasting images of their relationship.

If they fussed, it wasn't in front of us.

If they disagreed, they settled it alone.

And they closed every day with prayer.

Maybe that old-fashioned recipe for marital success really works. It has for them.

Newspaper Coverage Assists Local Artists

To the editor:

I would like to thank the Davie Enterprise for once again making my day. This morning my phone woke me, on the other end a small voice loudly exclaiming "Bonnie! Bonnie! Did you see! Did you see! My name was in the paper. They put it in, my name. My grandmother saw it. Mama got 10 copies of the paper, 10 copies! I'm an artist. Aunt Jane is going to see my artwork. She saw my name in the paper."

I moved to Davie County a little over a year ago, placed a small sign in my front yard, ran a small classified ad for art students and began teaching children private art class. A very scary proposition, I knew no one in the area and as with most artists,

I had limited financial resources. A year later I have established an art group and a gallery for emerging artists and children. I owe a big part of this success to the support and generosity of the Davie County Enterprise. I would like to take this opportunity to say thank you for all the time and space you have given to promote visual arts. As an artist I truly understand how important it is to receive recognition. With each painting or sculpture the artist is trying to convey a part of his or her soul, hours of time and feelings are in each piece.

There is no age limit on the need to have ones artwork understood and appreciated from the very young to the oldest there is a thrill to knowing ones efforts are appreciated. I believe that it is the responsibility of each artist to pass on the skill and love of art to the next generation or it will be lost. Art gives children so much to grow on. The opportunity to create and get in touch with their inner feelings. They need to think beyond every day life. I apologize for not taking the time to say thank you before now.

Your help and understanding are truly appreciated by myself and all the little excited voices over the phone. For a child to have their art show in the gallery, all that is needed is to call me and reserve a time and space. 910-998-5274.

Dropout Urges Other Kids To Stay In School

To the editor:

In the May 29 issue, I saw all the people who were going to graduate from Davie High this year. I saw people I went to school with in the past. I saw people I worked with in the past. I hope all the people who graduate this year work hard and have a good life.

Carrie L. Johnson was on the cheerleader team. The cheerleaders went to the national finals this year. Carrie was in a musical in Mocksville. I would have liked to see that, but could not.

There is Robert "Rocky" Clark. Back in 1995, me and Rocky worked at McDonald's in Mocksville with each other. We were 15 years old. He was in JROTC and has worked hard. He wants to be in the Army. He wants to fight for his country. I could have been with them this year graduating. But when I got to the age of 16, I had to go and drop out of school. I'm 17 years old now and I wish I would not have dropped out. I dropped out of school and did not get my GED, so I could not get a good job. I wanted to party all of the time. To party, I had to have money. All the money I worked for went so I could party. When I parted, it took all my money and then some. I needed more money. I did not want to work, I wanted to party. So to get the money I went and did things I knew was wrong. Then I got put into jail. I said I would not do it again. When I got out, I tried to get a good job. But to go to work, I needed a car. I was in and out of jail so much, they put me in prison. Now that I'm in prison, I'm going to school all I can so I can get my GED, so when I get out I can get a good job. Then I'll not need to do wrong to have money to live. I know a lot of my friends out in that world said they were going to drop out when they got 16 years old. Don't drop out. You've only got three or four years of school left to do. Why would you want to be at the end of something then stop? If you drop out of school, you will need a way to get money. I know you don't want to go to jail over and over again because of something you did to live.

From the start to the end of school is only about 13 or 14 years. By the time you get 16 years old you have about 10 or 12 years behind you. Why stop? Stay in school. Prison is no fun. I wish I could be in school now.

At about 3:30 p.m. you go home from school. But at prison you've got to do months or even years before you go home. You're at school for only about 8 hours. Stay in school.

Life Through Eyes Of Children Must Be Much More Beautiful

Ooh. Pretty.

From the silk flowers near the door to the blue jeans, just about everything there is beautiful.

Last Sunday, while my friend Laney was returning something at Wal-Mart, I had an opportunity to experience the store through the eyes of her daughter, Loren, who will celebrate her second birthday in August.

"Look, Deenie," she would say as she pointed, "Pretty."

Aside from making me wonder whether or not I'll ever be mother material, my afternoon of shopping opened my eyes to a wondrous world often unnoticed in the hectic adult world.

Back at her grandmother's she begged to go outside so that she could watch for birds. Again she wanted to make sure no one missed out on the wonders she saw. "Look. Bud. Bud."

That afternoon I decided that surely nothing could be more beautiful than the world through the eyes of a child.

One of the greatest joys of parenthood must be the chance to relive that world through the eyes of your own children.

It is a world without time. Loren could have spent the whole day admiring something on every shelf and rack on every aisle at Wal-Mart — if she hadn't started to miss her "Nanny".

And there's no such thing as boredom in her world. She can watch the same movie again and again. An inexpensive bottle of bubbles provides hour upon hour of entertainment for her.

For a child, there is joy in the simplest of things. It's a thrill for her to open the mail or talk on the telephone. She is delighted every time she learns to say or do something that makes her more like the grown-ups she loves.

It is probably one of life's greatest ironies that human beings spend most of their childhood playing grown-up and dreaming of adulthood, while adults spend quite a bit of time longing to be children again.

Though not the ideal world we imagined in our youth, there's nothing wrong with being an adult. We take pride in our accomplishments and find joy in responsibility. But we appreciate things once taken for granted like play time and nap time.

While the love of family and friends is at the heart of a happy life for adults and children alike, it's certainly understandable why adults are sometimes envious of children.

There is a world without stress or worry. They don't understand the need for hurry and cannot understand the priorities of adulthood.

Last week I had the pleasure of going to dinner with my favorite 5 year old, Ben.

I stopped to drop some papers off for friends who were going to play laser tag that night. When I explained to Ben that I couldn't go with them because I had to go to a town board meeting, he wanted to know why the town board wouldn't reschedule that meeting so I could go play.

I reminded him that in the real world of adults or children, we learn quickly that we can't always have everything we want.

And Ben explained to me with wisdom far beyond his five years that even crying wouldn't help. I guess some things haven't changed much after all.

Help Pours In For Heart Transplant Patient

To the editor:

I am writing this letter because I wish to say thank you to all the people who did so much for my husband and I.

On April 24, my husband, Steve Ashley received a heart transplant at N.C. Baptist Hospital. He had been very sick with congestive heart failure for a year and three months but only on the for transplant for three or four months. During the time he was sick, he was in and out of Baptist several times and the bills really mounted. Thanks to customers who saw the donation jar at Jim's Fruit-N-Stuff, the business that my parents own. The word got out that we needed help and help came

We Don't Need More Regulations

To the editor:

When the Winston-Salem Journal published the regulations that Winston-Salem Chief of Police George Sweat wanted the N.C. General Assembly to act on, I read them and disagreed. When Ex-sheriff Bill Wooten's letter appeared in the May 22 Enterprise, I read it; however, I did not think about it. I already knew my position.

I am extremely tired of elected and appointed officials taking my individual rights or freedoms away from me under the pretext of protecting me and others. We have more laws and regulations on the books now than Chief Sweat or Ex-sheriff Wooten can enforce.

We do not need more laws or regulations, however, we do need more elected and appointed officials that have the courage to protect and preserve the rights and freedoms of responsible people.

Justice Is Not For Everyone

To the editor:

If I made an illegal deduction on my state income tax, I would be required to pay and could face criminal charges. The state, however, can hide behind a technicality just like a criminal. It seems technicalities are only for the wrongdoer.

Case in point is the intangibles tax. The law is supposed to be written so you can not cheat an honest person. If you were ignorant like me, you would not know to sign it with the notation of "paid under protest". This means no refund on the legislature's error of passing the law incorrectly. I just can't thank them for depriving me of my money.

I wonder if morally, when the Bible talks of honest weights, it could pertain to issues of this nature? I really think it does.

If were a sentenced convict they would not dare deprive me of anything, including my money. However, as a decent citizen the legislature has the legal right, and backed by the Supreme Court to cheat the majority that paid the intangibles tax. Justice is not for everyone.

Enterprise Assists Nebraska Fifth Grader

To the editor:

This is Steven Howe writing to say thank you for helping me with my project on North Carolina. Earlier this year, I wrote to your newspaper and asked you to publish my letter requesting information on North Carolina for a State Fair project in my fifth grade class.

I received more information than I ever thought possible. The people in North Carolina are very kind and helpful. My States Fair was on May 14. I was able to make a very nice display of items from North Carolina. The people of North Carolina sent me socks, caps, t-shirts, posters, brochures, postcards, cotton, pottery, pickles, cheese, state symbols, fruitcake, candy, license plate, baseball cards, magazines, newspapers, books, keychains, videos and many other items. I received over 300 postcards from North Carolina. I received more mail than any of the other 75 fifth graders at my school.

I think North Carolina is a friendly state. The people who sent me information all said they were proud of North Carolina and wanted others to learn about their state. Thank you so much for all the information and interesting letters. Because of all your help I received an A on my report. I am hoping to take a vacation to North Carolina soon and visit your great state. I hope someday you can come to Nebraska and visit my great state.

Family Thankful For Help

To the editor:

We would like to express our deepest gratitude to the first responders from Smith Grove Fire Dept. (we didn't get their names) and D.L. Jones and Kim Tanner from the Davie County EMS. On May 23, they along with Janet and Lynn Parrish and Rae Vandiver came to our rescue when our daughter was having complications from a seizure she had while we were driving home.

Thanks to these wonderful people, Amber is recovering fine. A day will not go by that we don't thank the Lord for caring people like these and remember what they have done for us. Thank you and God Bless You.

Leland Richardson entered the ministry to make himself helpful to others while proclaiming the Gospel of Christ.

Richardson will stand in the pulpit at First Presbyterian Church for the last time June 29.

Presbyterian Minister Fell In Love With Town

He is happy to have been a part of organizing spiritual enrichment services for the First Presbyterian, First Baptist and First Methodist churches of Mocksville with former pastors Charlie Bullock and George Aumen.

With the choirs from all three churches joining together and top ministers visiting for these special services each spring, Richardson said the event continues to be a blessing to people from each church.

Other especially enjoyable times in his ministry have been the joint services between Mocksville's First and Second Presbyterian churches and working with the young people of his church, he said.

"I especially hope that I improved race relations by trying to let all people know that we are fellow human beings created by God," he said.

One of the most meaningful experiences as a minister to the community was being asked to speak at the dedication of the veteran's monument in Mocksville. As a U.S. Army Reserve chaplain, Richardson had done a tour of duty in Vietnam during the late 1960's.

That was a frightening time with his wife and two young daughters at Fort Bragg awaiting his return, he said.

It was after the completion of his active duty at Fort Benning, Ga., that Richardson came to Mocksville to begin his ministry.

Over the years the most meaningful part of his ministry has been helping members of his congregation and the community through the ups and downs of life, he said. That's what led Richardson, who was ordained by the Wilmington Presbytery Aug. 2, 1959, to the ministry.

Growing up within a stone's throw of the only church in his community, which happened to be Presbyterian, Richardson attended regularly with his family. It was a ministerial student working at the church one summer that first influenced him toward the ministry, he said.

Rooming with a ministerial student at Campbell Junior College, Richardson said he was impressed and got involved in the school's religious program. But the turning point for him was the sudden death of his father.

"It made me realize the brevity of life," he said.

He began to ask, "What could I do with my life to make myself

Richardson said, but he felt it was time for a change.

Retirement will give the Richardsons more time to visit Lynn and their granddaughter in Marietta, Ga. and Karen in Asheville.

Leland also has plans to catch up on long neglected yard work and do some freshwater fishing.

He will deliver his final message to the First Presbyterian congregation June 29.

"There comes a time that you need to step aside for someone younger and more energetic that has new ideas," he said.

"I will no longer be your minister, but I will continue to be your friend," he told his congregation.

The public is invited to a reception honoring the Richardsons at 3 p.m. June 29, in the church fellowship hall.

him because he has died and suffered with all of us."

That is the best part of being a minister, according to Richardson—the opportunity to bring spiritual comfort and strength to people in times of crisis and the chance to celebrate with them in good times.

"It has been a real rewarding experience to have spent 27 years at First Presbyterian of Mocksville," he said.

A clean, friendly and progressive town, Richardson said Mocksville is an outstanding place because of the life-style of its citizens and the impact they have made on their town.

He and Juanita have grown so fond of the community that they are buying a house and planning to retire here.

Leaving the church won't be easy,

Mocksville To Hold Budget Hearing June 30

Bralley recommended one less new patrol car than requested by Police Chief Richard Sink but approved the $2,000 salary increase he requested for the department's clerical employee to be competitive with other cities. Most of his budget recommendations were closely aligned to the requests made by department heads.

He told the board there is a need for the town to address sewer plans, and he would like to bring a plan to them soon that will address at least the next 20 years.

The board will vote on the proposed budget following a public hearing at town hall at 7 p.m. June 30. It can be reviewed at town hall.

Inspection Fee Increase Not Decided

Poindexter said he was particularly concerned about the $30 re-inspection fee. He made a motion that was passed to postpone a decision until the meeting scheduled for 7 p.m. Monday.

County Manager Ken Windley said new fees need to be in place by July 1. He has recommended a new employee for the inspections department to keep up with growing demand. Fees collected should pay for the salary, he said.

Whaley said the new proposals would put Dave "in the middle" when compared to fees charged by surrounding counties. Answering a question from Commissioner Diane Foster, he said they would allow the department to be self-supporting. The fee schedule hasn't changed since 1991, he said.

The proposal would increase the fee from $30 to $60 the fee for single wide manufactured homes, to $135 for multi-sectional manufactured homes. Porches and other similar structures would be extra. The minimum fee would be $30.

Smith Grove F.D. To Hold Open House

SMITH GROVE - Thousands of people in eastern Davie County depend on them. If they get sick, one of them likely will be the first to arrive if they call 911 for help. If their house catches fire, they'll depend on them.

They're members of the Smith Grove Fire Department, and they're all volunteers.

This weekend, members of the department are holding an open house so that area residents can meet the people who take time away from their families and work to give them a little peace

County Briefs

Cheerleaders Receive Resolutions

Members of the state champion Davie High School cheerleading team, which finished fifth in a national competition, received framed resolutions from county commissioners last month. "The squad consists of students who possess exceptional skills in tumbling, dancing, stunting and jumping," the resolution, in part, read.

Six Private Road Names Approved

County commissioners approved the naming of six private roads, which now have two or more residences: Brookwood Trail at 271 James Church Road; Deer Haven Trail at 158 Holy Cross Church Road; Dream Haven Lane at 347 James Church Road; Myers Farm Trail at 447 Livengood Road; Phipps Lane at 980 Ridge Road; and Spencers Lane at 495 Becktown Road.

Contract Awarded For Tax Billing

The printing and mailing of tax bills will be done by Southern Systems, which submitted the low bid and should have the county approximately $832 compared to doing the work in-house, said Tax Administrator Mary Nell Richie.

Point Road Paving Project To Begin

Years of court cases and pleas from some residents of Point Road appear to have been a success. N.C. Department of Transportation officials said that plans for paving the road will take place this summer, with the remainder of the cost possibly going into next year's budget.

David Springer asked county commissioners to spend tax money as if it were their own; that the procedure for condemning property appears to be antiquated. Commission Chairman Carl Boon asked County Manager Ken Windley and County Attorney Bob Price to work with the DOT on the project.

No More Federal Grants For Sheriff

Sheriff Allen Whitaker was asked by county commissioners last month not to apply for another federal grant.

Whitaker had obtained federal money to provide security measures, including checks by officers, on rural churches. He planned to have auxiliary deputies to do the work, but when enough weren't available, he allowed deputies to make the patrols when their shifts were over. Because those deputies had to be paid for overtime, the sheriff had to risk paying extra or returning the grant money. The board voted to pay the overtime, but asked the sheriff not to apply for another federal grant and to use special deputies on similar assignments.

Community Service Program Working

Community Service Coordinator Paul Kestler estimates the program saved county governments and non-profit groups nearly $38,000 last year. As part of court orders, defendants must work at jobs designated by Kestler, who is in the Davie office in the county courthouse on Mondays and Thursdays.

Last year, 242 people worked 7,983 hours at such places as the county landfill, WPCA, Mocksville public works and Storehouse for Jesus. At least one million dollars in value was paid to the state. In addition, those workers paid more than $24,000 in taxes to the state.

Oil Still Flowing Below Courthouse

The county continues to recover underground oil behind the courthouse, where a new well is scheduled to be built. SAMI of Greensboro, using new technology, recovered 3,200 gallons of oil during a three-day run in April. County commissioners approved spending $6,604 for another exploratory fluid recovery system, which is likely to be paid by the state and Public Works Director David Ford. "We're going to shorten the life span of the recovery system," Ford said.

Sans Gets Water Dept. Contract

The county has opted out of a contract with Sanson Cleaning and Pesticide Control to clean the water department for $20 a month. Caldwell will work the contract, and Sanson will get a good job at other county buildings, said County Manager Ken Windley.

Officials To Name Bridge After War Hero

The new U.S. 64 bridge over Hunting Creek could soon be named after a Davie County war hero.

Mocksville town commissioners and Davie County commissioners want the bridge to be named the Colonel Thomas Ferebee bridge.

Mocksville commissioner Buster Cleary came up with the idea, saying the bridge is about a mile from Ferebee's homeplace. That spot on Hwy. 64 has a historical roadside marker.

Ferebee was a member of the hand-picked crew of the Enola Gay, which dropped the atomic bomb on Hiroshima, Japan on Aug. 6, 1945.

This brave act saved the lives of thousands of allied soldiers who would have been lost in an assault on the mainland of Japan.

The resolution reads, in part: "Colonel Thomas Ferebee is a native son of Davie County, and served

Mocksville To Receive CDBG Grant

Mocksville is at the top of the list to receive a community block development grant in 1998, Gary Wilson of Benchmark Associates told the Mocksville Town Board members June 3.

The town applied for the grant last year, hoping to receive funding in 1997, but requests for community revitalization funds totaled more than $143 million while only $29.2 million was available for awards, according to William A. McNeil, director of the N.C. Department of Commerce Division of Community Assistance.

The money will be used to provide water and sewer lines to the Campbell Road area, according to Town Manager Terry Bralley.

Lines will be run all the way up Campbell Road and to Holman Street and Etchison Street, Wilson said.

Mocksville has agreed to provide a local match of $100,000 for the project, which will include clearance of an old dilapidated house and the addition of bathroom facilities in several houses that do not have them, he said.

The town has also received a $200,000 North Carolina Housing finance grant, which will involve the renovation of eight homes within the corporate limits, Wilson said.

The program will target the elderly, disabled and low income residents, he said.

The local match from the town is $6,800. The $206,800 will be spent over an 18 month period, he said.

With this amount of money, it will be difficult to repair houses in really poor shape, Wilson told the board. The project should extend the life of houses in need of moderate repair for another 25 to 30 years.

The grant is not targeted at any particular area. Anyone within the corporate limits of Mocksville may apply, he said.

Funding will be available in July.

Unexpected Delivery: Local Man Receives Package Of Human Waste

A Mocksville man received an unexpected delivery from UPS last week, and it wasn't from Ed McMahon.

Darren Keith Steelman, 32, of 170 Spring Street, reported June 2, that a package containing human waste had been delivered to his home by UPS, according to Mocksville Police Officer J.D. Hartman.

Steelman told Hartman he did not know anyone who would send him something of this nature.

He said he had experienced some business problems with a man who lives in Hickory, from where the package had been mailed.

The return address was Stu Shiltz Productions of Hickory.

Steelman said he plans to follow up with UPS. No further police investigation was requested, Hartman reported.

Three Cited For Violating Animal Control Ordinance

COOLEEMEE - Three people were cited last week for violating the town's animal control ordinance.

All three had been warned in the past to control their dogs, said Police Chief Tim Wooten.

Wooten said that the owners have taken extra precautions to keep their animals on their own property. Officers continue to respond to reports of violation of the ordinance, with five such calls last week. Animals are not confiscated unless they are extremely vicious or the owner can't be located or the owner refuses to take care of their animal, he said.

In a separate case, Kenneth Dwight Durham, 41, of 144 Main St., was cited for allowing a dog to run at large for a June 7 incident.

All three face court costs and a $50 fine if convicted. The trials are scheduled for July 24 in Davie District Court.

Linville-Myers Couple United In Marriage

Christina Lynn Linville and Burr Baxter Myers were united in marriage at 2 p.m. Saturday, June 7, at Victory Baptist Church, Cooleemee, with the Rev. Shelby Harbour officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy "Peanut" Linville of Mocksville. She is a graduate of Davie High School and Forsyth Technical Community College. She is employed by SLKD-Annapolis Distribution of Winston-Salem.

The groom is the son of Nancy J. Myers and the late Joe Henry Myers of Advance. He is a graduate of Davie High School and is employed by SLKP-Annapolis Distribution.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white satin gown with a modified sweetheart neckline. The fitted bodice and short sleeves were decorated with cut-out Schiffler lace, sequins and seed pearls. The full skirt fell to a semi-cathedral length train. Appliques and decorated Schiffler lace embellished the train. A small bow and peplum at the back waistline were the finishing touches.

Her fingertip length veil was attached to a headpiece of pearls. Susie Palmer of Rural Hall, sister of the groom, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were: Stacy Boswell, cousin of the bride of Danville, Va.; Kim Linville of Cooleemee, sister-in-law of the bride; and Angela Plott, Jennifer Shouse and Jettie Presnell, all friends of the bride of Mocksville.

Tommy Harris of Advance, best friend of the groom, was best man. Groomsmen were: Billy Myers of Advance, brother of the groom; Lee Linville of Cooleemee, brother of the bride; Chris Comarizer and Chad Cornett, friends of the groom of Advance; and Richard Dunn of Farmington, friend of the groom. Flower girl was Amanda Mullis of Winston-Salem, cousin of the bride, and ring bearer was Elhan Craver of Rural Hall, nephew of the groom.

Music was provided by: Ruth Harbour, pianist; Teresa Bivins, keyboardist; and Angela Plott and David McCray, soloists.

The guest register was attended and programs distributed by Ashley Mullis of Winston-Salem, cousin of the bride. Peggy Foster of Cooleemee directed the wedding.

Bird seed was distributed by Dustin Atkins and Christopher Atkins, nephews of the groom. The bride's parents hosted a reception in the church fellowship hall. Servers were: Betsy McCray, Margie Delmon, Shirley Jacobs and Betty Connell, friends of the bride.

After a wedding trip to Pigeon

Forge, Tenn., the couple will be at home in Advance.

Social Events

The rehearsal dinner on June 6 was hosted by the mother and family of the groom, a barbecue dinner in the church fellowship hall.

A miscellaneous shower was held May 18, hosted by Susie Palmer, Nancy Myers and Mrs. Billy Myers.

On May 25, a shower was hosted by the Ladies Sunday School Class of Victory Baptist Church at the fellowship hall.

A bachelorette party was given in honor of the bride by Susie Palmer on May 30.

A bachelor party was given in honor of the groom by Tommy Harris on June 6.

The bride and groom were given a party at work on June 4.

Kimel Elected To Red Cross Board

A Mocksville man has been elected to the board of directors of the North-west North Carolina Chapter of the American Red Cross.

Mike Kimel, Davie County Hospital administrator, was among those recently sworn into office.

"The American Red Cross is fortunate to have these new officers and board members," said Marcia Cole, executive director. "They are an enthusiastic group ready to roll up their sleeves and work hard to ensure the Red Cross continues serving the community."

N.C. Museum Of Art Presentations Available

Mocksville resident Betty Fellows, outreach volunteer for the North Carolina Museum of Art, is available to present free slide talks in Davie County. General slide programs based on the Museum's permanent collection and on the exhibitions I. Claudia: Women in Ancient Rome and Sepphoris in Galilee: Crosscurrents of Culture are available for schools, civic and cultural groups, and other organizations that request programs.

On view through June 15, I. Claudia, offers a glimpse of the life and culture of Roman women. The exhibition is a compelling salute to the many roles women in ancient Rome played in both public and private life. It is the first exhibition in the United States abroad focusing on the contributions of Roman women to their own society and Western civilization.

Sepphoris in Galilee, which will be on view through July 6, focuses on the archaeological site of Sepphoris, once an important city in Roman Palestine. The exhibition includes mosaics, sculpture, sarcophagi, ceramic and glass vessels, gold jewelry, and other significant works of art uncovered in continuous excavations of the site since 1985. The slide programs based on these exhibitions will continue to be available for presentation after the shows have closed.

The Museum's Outreach Volunteer corps is composed of over 225 men and women from 72 counties across the state. These volunteers have completed day-long workshops at the Museum to qualify as Outreach Volunteers. Another workshop is scheduled on Saturday, September 13, 1997, at the Museum in Raleigh.

Groups interested in scheduling a Museum slide program should call Nancy Brantley, coordinator of membership outreach at the Museum, at (919) 839-6262, ext. 2141.

Broyhill Appoints Hall To Position

Brent Kincaid, president and chief executive officer of Broyhill Furniture Industries, announced the appointment of William A. Hall as vice president.

Mocksville native, Hall will be responsible for the continuing growth and refinement of the Broyhill Gallery program.

"With nineteen years in the furniture industry, and most recently serving as sales manager, occasional and premier divisions, Hall has had many opportunities to work closely with management in promoting the gallery program to our retail partners," said Kincaid. "We are delighted to have William heading this important program for Broyhill."

In 1995, Hall rejoined Broyhill as sales manager. He also began his career as a Broyhill sales representative in 1978. Hall is the son of Bill and Betty Hall of Mocksville. He is a 1978 graduate of High Point University and lives in Hickory with his wife, Toni, and daughter, Heather.

Mrs. Michael Aaron Bloomquist

Couple Wed At Clemmons Moravian Church

Rebecca Ann Harbin of Mocksville and Michael Aaron Bloomquist of Ahoskie were united in marriage at 6:30 p.m. Saturday, May 17, at Clemmons Moravian Church with the Rev. John Rowe officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Karen Day Harbin of Farmington and Larry Wayne Harbin of Gardena, Calif. She is a graduate of Davie High School and will graduate from Appalachian State University in December with a degree in criminal justice.

The bridegroom is the son of Thom and Joan Bloomquist of Laurium, Mich. He graduated from Ridge Croft Academy in Ahoskie, and is employed as an assistant manager of the marketing department with Steel Master, Inc. in Boone.

The bride, escorted by her father, wore a gown of royal satin with a Queen Anne neckline. Alencon lace embellished the entire bodice and long fitted sleeves. The gown featured a Basque waistline and cathedral length train topped with a graceful tiered bow. The gown was splashed with Alencon lace appliques and was handbeaded with pearls and clear sequins. For her veil the bride chose a delicate crown intertwined with pearls, clear sequins and a hip length full circle veil with blusher and edged with handsewn pearls.

She carried an old-fashioned nosegay bouquet of white snapdragons, freesia, bouvardia, dianthus, lisianthus, ivy and deep blue status. The bride chose Rebekah Phillips of Greenville as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were: Patricia Harbin Draughn of Mocksville; Jennifer Harbin of Mocksville; Candy Gilbert of Boone, and Christina Otto of Franklin.

Teri Pless of Greenville presided over the guest register, and Amanda Ireland of Raleigh was special attendant to the wedding party.

The groom's father was best man. Ushers were: Earle Day, the bride's grandfather from Brevard; Robert Bloomquist, the groom's grandfather from Sandusky, Ohio; David Day from Atlanta, Ga.; and Brian Joines from Boone.

Music for the wedding was provided by soloist John Linville of Brevard, who accompanied himself on the guitar, and organist Jimmy Anderson of Mocksville. Jim Ebbert of Winston-Salem performed a reading.

After a reception in the church hall the couple left for a wedding trip to Portland, Maine. Rebecca and Michael are making their home in Blowing Rock.

Social Events
On March 27, co-workers of the bride hosted a shower and dinner at Murphy's in Boone.

Pino News

By Nora Latham
Pino Correspondent
Sunday, June 8, was Conference Sunday at Wesley Chapel. It was a blessing. Tom and Toni Horton conducted a service of music and singing. They were joined by Bob Thompson, playing the fiddle, and Richard Fulp, playing the dobro. Toni played the bass guitar and Tom played the guitar. Kathy Miller joined in the singing. We also had several visitors, Vera Howell, Marie Mahis, Lisa, Dylan and Scotty Sumbo, and Barbara, Albert and John Gröer. Next Sunday Tommy Talbot will be back in the pulpit. It will be nice to have her back.

Saturday, June 7, was Bible school. It was the first one held in several years. New Hope Baptist Church from Rural Hall had a mission team of teens and younger ones that came and conducted it. We had 11 children attend from the community and relatives of members. There were puppet shows, arts, crafts, stories, singing, playing and praying. Everyone had a good time. Lunch was served by Nora Latham and Louise Dill. They pro-enjoyed a delicious meal together. Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Shelton and Abby Ferguson have returned home after spending several days at the beach. We extend our sincere sympathy to the Clay Lawrence family in the recent loss of his father.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burgess remain on our sick list and need our continued prayers.

Harmon and Nora Latham hosted a covered dish dinner Saturday night honoring her sister, Peggy Angell for her birthday. Peggy and her husband, Ervin, were here visiting from Manco. They came this weekend especially to attend the 50th reunion of the Angell family. Those attending her party Saturday night were, Scotty, Luane and Jerri Ann Angell, Patsy Klein, Blair and Brandon Blalock, Sandy and Ann Cline, Dale and Martha Latham, Bob and Kathy Ellis, Muff Potts and Dana Handline.

Bob Ellis and his son, Robert, spent a few days in Atlanta, Ga. attending Comdex 97, the largest computer show in the east. They toured the city and had dinner at Planet Hollywood, a restaurant full of movie memorabilia. We were happy to have John Gaidner Ward back in church Sunday. He has been under the weather for a few weeks, but is feeling fine now.

Storehouse Conducts Annual Board Meeting

On May 27, the Storehouse for Jesus held its annual board meeting.

John Collins, Tina Pryor, and Pastor Larry Atkins, who have each served 3-year terms, rotated off the board. Currently serving on the board are: Gail McCuiston, president; Will Pryor, vice president; Bobbie Patterson, secretary; Emily Johnson, treasurer; Pastor Daniel Brown, Greg Knight, Broke Martin, Cherie Monsees, and Marie Collins, executive director. Pryor is serving in a newly created volunteer staff position as financial manager. Larry Ledford, CPA, is the Storehouse's new accountant.

Doris Miller has been serving full-time in the volunteer staff position as work room supervisor since January

1997. She supervises volunteers who work as clothing sorters and food pantry clerks. She also supervises community service workers, ladies groups, and church and school youth groups, as well as incoming donations. Collins said, "We appreciate you. A special thanks to the Davie County Schools for their very generous donations of food throughout the 1996-1997 school year."

Davie County is certainly blessed with caring and giving students."

The Storehouse will have volunteer training orientation on June 21 at 1 p.m. Teens who are interested in volunteering during the summer are welcomed. Volunteers are encouraged to work a three hour shift at least every other week.

Holy Cross To Celebrate Lenoir-Rhyne Sunday

Holy Cross Lutheran Church, 1913 US Hwy. 601 South, Mocksville, will celebrate Lenoir-Rhyne College Sunday on June 15. The congregation will celebrate the ministries and educational opportunities provided by Lenoir-

Rhyne and other Lutheran colleges and universities. Guest preacher will be Dr. Jane Jenkins, professor of heartfelt living and department chairperson at Lenoir-Rhyne, Hickory. She is also serving as interim athletic director. Jenkins has been on the college faculty for almost 30 years. She has degrees from Brevard, Appalachian State University and the University of Greensboro. Members of Holy Cross who will be taking part in Lenoir-Rhyne Sunday are Dagmar Beich, Ann Foll and Matthew Morris. Music will be provided by church organist, Margaret Lesser. Visitors are welcome to the 10:30 a.m. service.

Spiritual Resources: A Loving Father

By Richard Eskew
Pastor, Bear Creek Baptist Church

My father passed away 28 years ago at the age of 66. I miss him as much now as when he died. Sometimes I would give anything for just a few moments with him. He was not perfect, but his example and presence were powerful to his children. Many other men were role models for me: my preacher, my scout master, my bosses at the newspaper and auto parts place, my Sunday school teachers, and the list could go on and on. My father and these men gave me a great heritage by their loving concern and support. They were good examples for us kids as we grew up. Here's what I remember them giving to me:

A listening ear. Many times a problem came up in our lives and we could go to them and just talk. They seemed to already know what was on our mind and with much wisdom knew how to respond. Children need fathers who will lovingly hear children's voices and accept without condemning or judging.

A voice of prayer. How many times I had the blessing of hearing my father pray. Each day at breakfast he prayed for each of his children. Others also encouraged us with prayers and the feeling was that we had someone on our side. What a great strength and assurance. Those voices are still cherished sounds in my memory. Just perhaps they still utter words of spiritual blessings.

Giving life purpose. Often he talked about making something of yourself. High ideals were given as models. Association with people of integrity and diligence gave clear examples. We were not told so much as shown what life was all about.

Feeling praise. One day we were all together in the presence of another man. The man said, "You have some fine children." Dad went to some detail to tell how proud he was of his children. You could see a warm smile on his face and eyes of satisfaction. I felt very appreciated and accepted as a son and person.

Patience understanding. Many times I let my dad down. I'm sure that his children were less than perfect. We misplaced tools, broke toys and windows, dented fenders, had messy rooms, often failed to do our chores, came in late from a date. He must have wanted to give us a good thrashing, and sometimes we got what we were due. Mostly he patiently dealt with us in words. I had soon have some punishment than to sit there and hear his voice of concern correct my ways, knowing I had let him down. A powerful encouragement to do better was always the last feeling and I vowed to not disappoint him. Time to play. There were fishing trips and rounds of golf, and sand lot ball. We went to see grandmother every week, and went on mountain trips with a full picnic basket. He must have been tired from long hours of work, but somehow we had time to play.

Knowing God. I don't remember his telling me about God. I do remember prayers, scriptures, church attendance, and his serving as a deacon. He was a Godly man, because he taught Christian principles by example. Even now what I know of God is through my father and others who showed me the way. The meaning of God shown by example gradually became my individual faith and personal belief.

Loving presence. When I was a small child I would ride my tricycle up to the corner and wait for daddy to come home for lunch. I would race him down the block. He would go slow and let me win the race. Up into the driveway I'd go and when he got out of the car he would take me up in his arms and kiss me and we went in for lunch. Strange that in my memory I still feel his warmth and kiss.

Working diligence. Dad died at 66. Retired only for a year, he worked hard, long hours. We learned to work. He always pointed us to a college education so we would not have to work as he did. Once he hired me to work for him during the summer. He said, "I'm hiring you so you will know what you don't want to do the rest of your life." Regardless, the lesson of hard work was learned and it didn't hurt one bit.

Forgiving heart. Sometimes I grieve over times that I disobeyed my father. But still I know that he had a forgiving heart and in love sought to bring us back without placing guilt. In raising my children often I remember how he forgave me. Dad knew that we would come to understand forgiveness from our Heavenly Father. Here we first knew grace.

Davie County Students Score Above Average On State Tests

Davie County seventh graders scored well above average on the state writing test given this year.

Davie Schools Testing Coordinator presented results of several tests taken by Davie County students during the past school year to the Board of Education June 2.

The writing test is given to students all over the state on the same day. They are given a topic or prompt on which to write, Hendrix explained.

In Davie County, 55.6 percent of all eighth graders were above grade level while 37.5 percent were above grade level and the state level.

According to Hendrix that group of students showed a dramatic increase in success over their 1993-94 test results in which only 11.8 percent were above grade level.

This year 52.7 of Davie County fourth graders scored below average, and 31.4 percent scored above average, Hendrix said.

Also reviewed were English II end-of-course test results in which 21.5 percent of Davie students were above proficiency and 61.9 percent were below proficiency. The exam deals with literature read in the class, Hendrix said.

Ninety-five of the 377 eighth graders, who took the computer competency test this year, failed the first time.

In their second attempt after a nine week remedial course, 54 of that 95 passed, Hendrix reported.

Beginning with this class, students will be required to pass the test in order to receive a diploma. These students will be given two chances per year to take the test until they pass it, he said.

Child Nutrition Office Celebrates End Of Year With Banquet

With the closing of another school year, the child nutrition office celebrated the end of the year banquet on May 22 at the Carolina Bible Camp.

Highlights were awards and recognition of retirees. Coleen Gailther and Priscilla Nichols served 20 years in the child nutrition department. They received a gift and a service pin.

Also recognized as perfect attendance employees were Yvonne James,

Lorene Lashley, and Nancie Brown. The School Food Service Association honored the employee of the year, Brenda Norman. She was nominated by the assistant principal of North Davie

Middle School, Wanda Shaffner, who wrote: "Brenda helps create an atmosphere where students are served nutritious meals and feel a sense of caring, concern, and acceptance."

The School Food Service Association also gave out first aid kits to all cafeteria managers as a "thank you" for their service. They topped off the evening with the voices of the Volucious Barbershop Quartet.

South Davie's three conference championships during the 1996-97 year took a back seat last week, when the school won the sportsmanship award for Piedmont Middle School Conference's Northern Division for the second year in a row.

Charles Crenshaw, the long-time athletics director, saluted his coaches for stressing good sportsmanship.

"Congratulations," Crenshaw said. "Thanks for your hard work toward good sportsmanship. It pays off."

Coaches, without endorsing their own team, voted after each season and the points were tallied at the conclusion of the spring sports, with South Davie edging China Grove and Corlier-Lipe.

North Rowan was fourth, followed by Erwin, West Rowan and Knox.

North Davie Runner-up

The PMSC gave North Davie high regards on the behavior scale, voting the Wildcats second only to Northwest Cabarrus for the sportsmanship award in the Southern Division.

Northwest compiled 120 points, four more than North Davie, followed by Mooresville, J.N. Fries, Concord and Kannapolis.

Davie Middle Schools Take First, Second

South Davie's three conference championships during the 1996-97 year took a back seat last week, when the school won the sportsmanship award for Piedmont Middle School Conference's Northern Division for the second year in a row.

Charles Crenshaw, the long-time athletics director, saluted his coaches for stressing good sportsmanship.

"Congratulations," Crenshaw said. "Thanks for your hard work toward good sportsmanship. It pays off."

Coaches, without endorsing their own team, voted after each season and the points were tallied at the conclusion of the spring sports, with South Davie edging China Grove and Corlier-Lipe.

North Rowan was fourth, followed by Erwin, West Rowan and Knox.

North Davie Runner-up

Northwest compiled 120 points, four more than North Davie, followed by Mooresville, J.N. Fries, Concord and Kannapolis.

Two Named To All-Conference Softball Team

The sky is limitless for Davie freshman pitcher Jessica Whitley, who along with senior Jaime Dyson made the Central Piedmont's all-conference softball team.

"I told her the other day: 'You're in a position, with the year that you had, if you'll work at it and continue to improve, a college scholarship is looking at you,'" Darrell Steele, Davie's fast-pitch softball coach, said.

"She's a pretty good student and she's determined to come back better."

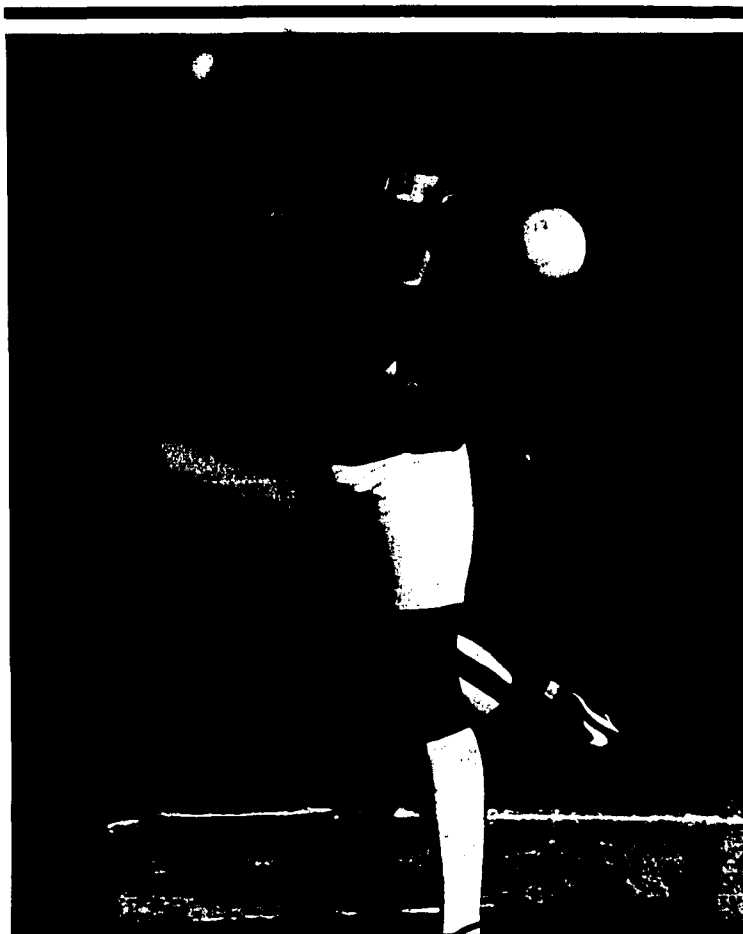

Whitley, a workhorse who was forced to do most of the pitching because of Davie's thin staff, compiled a 7-12 record (according to Steele) and hit .300. "That's not bad for a freshman," Steele said.

Dyson, on the other hand, came in not nearly as heralded as Whitley but hit a solid .335 and wore a steady glove in right field.

"(335 is) not bad for a person who had never played fast pitch before," Steele said, "and she was one of the key people in the outfield."

"She didn't make many errors. She was instrumental, backing up first base and covering second. She was a good all-around player who worked hard to get where she's at."

Both players were unanimous choices.

Salisbury Coach Brags About Condition Of Mando Field

Matt Cline of Salisbury missed third base by a good three feet while heading home in the seventh inning for what would have been the third run during Salisbury's 2-0 win over Mocksville here Sunday.

Steve Ridenhour, the father of Mocksville catcher Drew Ridenhour, played the role of law dog, screaming continuously to Mocksville's fielders to appeal the play.

Salisbury coach Jim DeHart clearly saw Cline hurdle the bag and chuckled afterward.

"He knew it," DeHart said. "Matt said he had the choice of two evils - getting fussed at because he missed it and go back or hope (the umpires) didn't catch it."

He chose Door No. 2. "He got fussed at," DeHart said. "He was going to lose either way and that a could have been a big run."

DeHart insisted that Mocksville will suffer for playing on an emerald field, a facility that is regarded as one of the finest in the state.

"We were here the night they dedicated it to (Mayor) Nick Mando and then they grassed the infield," DeHart said. "This is one of the best parks. Next to home (Newman Park), I would choose this park to play in."

"My guys really love it over here and I was telling George (Daywalt) that they'll soon get in the same situation that we're in. Teams play above their ability when they come in because (Rich Park is) such a nice park. Most folks feel that Halley, playing above their abilities."

Mocksville, however, is 8-1 on home soil.

"Kids get up to come over here," DeHart said. "You watch, they'll have a tougher time at home than they do on the road, because kids play better when they play on a good field."

The Mocksville-Salisbury game was a reunion of sorts for four 15-year-old players. Salisbury's Brian Halley and Brett Pfeiffer and Mocksville's Ridenhour and Skip Grider were teammates on the Carolina Mariners, an AAU team coached by Davie County's Dink Smith for the past several years.

Most folks feel that Halley, playing second base this season, is a can't-miss prospect.

"He's a real fiery competitor. Everything he does, he grunts," said Michael Lowman, Salisbury's shortstop who also made the roster at 15.

What did Lowman think of moving to the No. 4 hole in Salisbury's order? "You won't see many cleanup hitters that try to drag butt," he said.

Pitcher Allan Pardue of Mocksville paid his dues in the offseason and now finds himself with 25 strike outs in 20 innings, a 2.70 ERA and a sparkling 3-0 record.

"He gets mad at himself and works hard," Daywalt said. "He came last year and didn't pitch much - what I call paying his dues."

"I knew when he came back this year, after playing last fall, that we'd use him a lot. He's a good starter, plus he could pitch middle relief or finish for you. His control is usually pretty good and that's the best thing about him."

Kenny Collins' First Big League Hit A Game Winner

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

Kenny Collins found his comfort zone in the spotlight with the game on the line. And it meant Davie's Big League baseball team finished off King 5-4 for the second time.

In the second game of a twin bill Sunday at the Davie Youth Complex, Coach Jerry Walser summoned Collins, who held King to seven hits over six innings.

Walser plucked Collins, a standout football, basketball and track athlete, from the other end of the horizon.

"He's a great athlete," Walser said. "He was 1 for 8, had struck out four times and hadn't hit a fair ball that I know of."

Collins laughed hysterically about Collins' second on a pick-off throw to first.

"The pitcher threw to first and the first baseman didn't bother to throw it to second," Walser said. "If he would have had a baton in his hand, he would have won a track meet, that's how fast he is."

Rogers (3-3) and Creason (3-4) paced the offense.

Behind nine brilliant innings from Jason Desnoyers, Davie pulled the first of two rabbits from its hat, rallying from a 3-0 hole to win game one 5-4 in extra innings.

Desnoyers, who held King to six hits, had plenty of gas left in the tank. "He would have kept pitching," Walser said, "but the Big League rules say that you can only pitch nine innings in one day."

The conclusion finally came when Groug singled home Brian Campbell, who capped a 4-for-5 day with a bunt single. He stole second to position himself to score on Groug's clincher.

"That was basically South Stokes (high-school) team," said Walser, who got two hits in three at-bats from Creason.

East Surry 4, Davie 1

A three-hitter from Timmy Norman went down the drain as Davie lost its season opener at Pilot Mountain. Davie ran up against the nucleus of East Surry's high-school club.

"That was their high-school team ... and you could tell," Walser said. "They had their bunt defense in order and they sacrificed in two runs. They've been playing together."

Norman paid a steep price for four walks, and Davie failed to solve East's intimidating outpaw.

Mocksville-Davie Legion Holds Off Albemarle Rally In 9-6 Victory

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

Mocksville-Davie's commanding lead evaporated to three runs and Albemarle mounted a late-inning rally in the top of the ninth against starter Brian Anthony, who pushed the panic button when Albemarle's deadliest hitter stepped to the plate, a slugger who earlier crushed a three-run homer.

Anthony glanced at his coach, George Daywalt, who stared back and basically said: You dug the hole, now get out of it.

Anthony tied up the bomber, coercing him into a weak pop, and eventually preserved a 9-6 victory Wednesday.

day at Mando Field in an American Legion baseball game.

"Before he came up, Anthony looked over at me, like, 'What do I do?'" Daywalt said. "I told him: 'You've got to get yourself out of it. I'm not coming to get you.' So he just bowed his neck and came back and got them out."

Unless he's lumbering to the third-base box, Daywalt almost never comes to get a pitcher, a hot trend that began with Anthony's 11-inning complete game win over Concord on May 28. This was Mocksville's fourth straight complete game, and the Allan Pardue and Phillip Rogers made the streak six by the end of the week.

"He pitched real good but he made a bad pitch in that seventh inning," Daywalt said of Anthony (2-0, 4.00 ERA), who gave up nine hits, walked four, struck out seven and allowed five earned runs. "He gave up a walk, a hit and then grooved one (to the No. 3 hitter)."

Post 174 scored three runs in the bottom of the first to take a 3-1 lead. Shane Allen and Charles Miller had the only hits in an inning that saw Post 174 score on an error, a safety squeeze bunt by Victor Patti and on Nathan Ireland's fielder's choice.

Four Mocksville runs in the third put Albemarle in a deep hole, down 7-1.

"After a walk to Patti and bunt singles by Colin Styers and Ireland, Drew Ridenhour singled in a run. Tony Snow lofted a SAC fly and Miller doubled in two."

Mocksville went to its bread and butter, a squeeze bunt by Allen, for a run in the fourth and slugger Joe Burchette cranked a solo homer in the fifth, his team-leading fourth of the year. The entire team has six.

Daywalt would love to watch more balls travel into the grass, preferably into the alleys and beyond the wall.

"I told them we've got to do something besides bunt," he said. "We need to hit-and-run (and bunt) but we need some singles and things like that, clutch hits when we don't get them sometimes."

"(But) I thought it was one of our better ball games. They've got a pretty good team. I know West Stanley, Albemarle, North Stanley and South Stanley were all pretty decent (in high school). West Stanley won the conference."

Four players collected two hits (Miller, Burchette, Ireland and Ridenhour) and Allen was 1 for 4.

"The long ball off Anthony was the first home run that Mocksville has allowed this year. ... Daywalt praised shortstop Shane Allen and second baseman Ireland's defensive work and critiqued Ridenhour's showing behind the plate. "Our play up the middle was good again and Drew did a good job catching," Daywalt said. "He's getting a little better all the time. I have to get on to him about blocking the ball. He's got a lot of work to do but he's going to be a good player."

"The storm from graduation beach trips was as calm as it's been in years. "It didn't bother us a whole lot," Daywalt said. "I just moved Miller to third (for Andy Ward). He's played a lot of infield and Snow played left field (for Scott Cornatzer), so we had a pretty decent lineup. (Snow) has done a pretty good job every time that he's played so we didn't lose a whole lot. It's good that people can fill in and do that."

Bad Luck Halts Legion Team In 2-0 Loss To Salisbury

second in the eighth, Mocksville's last gasp except for a long out by Swaim in the ninth.

"I think that's the most (double plays) I've ever turned in one game," said Michael Lowman, Salisbury's veteran shortstop. "They helped us out a lot and it came at crucial times, too."

"You know Rocky's going to throw strikes, and luckily today we were able to make the plays behind him. They hit some hard line drives but we were just heads up on defense."

Daywalt said: "Mental mistakes, that's the thing we talked about. We got nine hits but we couldn't ever put anything together. I thought we played pretty good, we just didn't hit the ball when we needed to. That's the thing I've talked about all along - not getting any clutch hits."

Salisbury coach Jim DeHart admitted the performances by Rogers and Eagle, Rogers (1-1, 1.00 ERA) held DeHart's club to seven hits and struck out six, and Eagle worked around nine hits while walking only three.

"I thought the pitching was the highlight of the night," DeHart said. "I thought (Rogers) and Rocky both had an outstanding game. We played just a little better defense and had a few more breaks."

DeHart couldn't tell exactly what was floating by his hitters. "Rogers kept us off stride," he said. "That kid's a good pitcher. It looked like to me he was throwing a knuckle-curve."

"They're going to be reckoned with when the playoffs come."

Daywalt discovered a lot of positives despite the setback, encouraging signs reading that Mocksville could possibly be a noise-maker in July.

"If you're going to lose, it's not too bad losing to a good team like this, but we've got to beat the teams we know we're better than," said Daywalt, whose club fell to 5-4 in the league and 10-4 overall after winning three straight.

"Tonight, we made (Salisbury) realize that we are a good team, but if we're going to beat Salisbury or somebody real good, we've got to step it up just a little. We've got to win now."

"Keene paced Mocksville with three hits. "He really went up there with determination to hit the ball," Daywalt said. Miller and Ireland had two hits and Allen and Victor Patti had one. ... Burchette, who came in hitting .388, went 0 for 4. "Eagle" threw him a couple of off-speed pitches and got him out," Daywalt said. "He never really did have a good pitch to hit, and you've got to give (Eagle) credit for that."

Swaim, just off the injured list, flashed some fancy leather at first base. "He made about four defensive plays that kept us in the ball game," Daywalt said. "Look how many balls he picked out of the dirt."

Mando Field Considered 'Emerald'

Charles Miller, a two-time all-conference shortstop at Davie, has become Daywalt's utility man, playing third base, shortstop and outfield. He also pitches.

"I've talked to him about not playing shortstop because he's so valuable for us in the outfield," Daywalt said. "Charles handles that well. It doesn't bother him. He doesn't say anything."

"I said: Charles, I don't want you to think I'm not using you at shortstop because of your ability." He can play somewhere else and help us that much more. It's real valuable that he can do that."

David Potts returned from Myrtle Beach just before Saturday night's game against Mooresville, and strangely enough, without hotel legs.

"David is hitting the ball extremely well," Daywalt said of Potts, the team's leading hitter at .450 (9-20) heading into Sunday. "Saturday, I put him in and he got a hit and he just drove back from the beach, so I thought that was pretty good."

In six consecutive games, Daywalt has left the entire pitching load on the starter's shoulders, a demanding task that the second-year coach hopes will benefit his staff come crunch time.

The pitchers are relishing the three-hour nights.

"Oh, yeah, I know they (love it)," Daywalt said. "None of them ever want to come out. I'm not having to wait pitchers the way I'm doing it right now."

The friendly part of the schedule is long gone, though. Mocksville played the first seven days in a row on June 10.

"The starts have been scattered out enough that it hasn't affected their arms," Daywalt said. "They haven't been tired. Sometimes it's been almost too long between starts, but we're going to get in a long grind now."

"I'm looking for Miller and Jansen Keene to have to pitch a lot of late innings (in relief of starters Ryan Lambert, Phillip Rogers, Brian Anthony and Pardue). I'm getting good efforts out of them."

Destry Swaim and Victor Patti, two southpaw pitchers, have almost fully recovered from arm injuries.

"Destry's arm is getting better," Daywalt said. "So when we play a non-league game with Lexington (on June 12), I'm going to pitch him some. Patti is supposed to go to the doctor (June 10), so we'll know about his arm. If Destry can get back (to pitching) by playoff time, that will help a whole lot."

Stats you wouldn't dare ask for: Mocksville is 6-0 on Saturday. ... When opponents score first, Post 174 is 3-1. ... In games decided by four runs or more, Mocksville is 7-1. ... Mocksville has outscored opponents 25-2 in the first inning. ... In 13 games, one run has been scored in the ninth inning. ... Mocksville has belted six homers to the opponent's one.

Legion Team Soars Past Mooresville

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

With powerhouse Salisbury looming overhead like a hot air balloon, Mocksville-Davie coach George Daywalt urged his players to watch their step when last place Mooresville visited Rich Park 24 hours before the big clash.

It would have been easy for Mocksville to ignore Coach Whitely Meadows' club, but Post 174 tuned in and rolled to a 13-3 romp Saturday night.

"Mooresville hadn't won a game (in the Southern Division) and the thing I talked to them about was we needed to eliminate our mental mistakes and just play a good, solid ball game," Daywalt said.

"We made two or three mistakes early and I talked to them about it. What I try to tell them is, you've got to learn from every mistake you make, and if you learn from it, you're not going to make that mistake too many times."

Mistakes were abundant by Mooresville's defense in the bottom of the first, when Mocksville surged in front 3-0, using two errors to ignite a rally and breaking through on a two-run single by Nathan Ireland and a double by Destry Swaim.

Mocksville put two more runs on the board in the fifth - plenty of support for starter Allan Pardue, who won his third straight decision and lowered his ERA to 2.70 - on successive doubles by Jansen Keene and Andy Ward. Shane Allen triggered the outburst by reaching on an error.

Pardue fought control problems out of the gate, settled into an effective groove and breezed through the sluggish Mooresville lineup.

"I've seen Allen a little sharper," Daywalt said. "He was high early, kind of the way he was (against China Grove), but as the ball game goes on, it seems like he just gets better."

"Outside of that (two-run eighth), he pitched pretty good. He did like last game, he kept the leadoff off base and I got nine out of him."

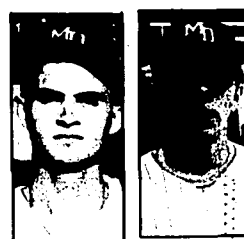

Daywalt got five smashing runs out of his offense in the sixth.

Allen and Charles Miller had RBI singles, Ireland drove in a pair on a double and another run crossed virtue of an error.

Mocksville went to work again in the eighth, scoring three runs on RBI hits from Ireland and David Potts and on a fielder's choice by J.C. Willard.

Ireland (3-5, double, four RBIs) raised his average to .333, the team's fifth-highest mark. Keene (2-3, 3 runs) boosted his average to a second-best .420 and Miller (2-5) continued to recover from a dismal start.

"Daywalt got 18 of his 21 players into the game. ... Two of the runs were earned off Pardue, who fanned 11, walked three and gave up 11 hits."

A Busy Day

New Coach To Hold Camp

Jim Young will begin hammering away on Davie's basketball program from June 17-21, when the new boys coach holds a camp for rising sixth graders to seniors.

High-school prospects will have their camp at Davie High, and grades

6-8 will be at the Brock Gym from 8:30 a.m.-3 p.m.

Physicals are required. Cost is $110. Awards and camp shirts will be given. Registration is 8-8:30 a.m. on June 17 at the site of the camp.

Collins' RBI Clinches Victory

Norman helped himself with the stick, singling in Collins, who walked and swiped second, for Davie's lone run.

Creation started off a torrid week (7-11, .636) by going 2 for 4.

Campbell is Davie's second-leading hitter at .6 for 12 (.500) and Rogers is off to a hot start at .400 (4-10).

"Walser, who is assisted by Lee Linville, has 13 players aboard and expects four more to arrive soon. The current roster: Campbell, Desnoyers, Groul, Creason, Rogers, Ryan McClannan, Collins, Paul Sparks, Kenny White, Norman, P.J. Barney, Jay Dove and Jeremy Helton."

"Davie belongs to the American Division. "We can be competitive," said Walser, Davie High's varsity coach who is in his first year of Big League. "I don't know a whole lot since it's the first time I've dealt with Big League, but we'll have a chance to be very competitive. "I'm real excited about the chance to work with some of my (high-school) players. It's a learning experience and that's the fun part of coaching. That's why I enjoyed JV, getting to do a lot of teaching."

Students Learn About Life On The Job

Some students in the exceptional children's program in Davie schools are getting a chance to learn about life after school.

They've been working, and according to employers and job coaches, they've done an excellent job.

The students, their employers and their volunteer job coaches were honored at a recent banquet.

Kathy Carter, who helped several of the students, was named job coach of the year. Elizabeth Mock and Shirley Jones were also recognized.

The coaches got to the job sites with the students, and help them work their way through the work and any problems they might encounter, said Sharon Atkins, Davie's transition coordinator.

"The purpose is to help our students in the exceptional children's program to design some life goals, think about life after high school," Atkins said. "That's why we have community based training."

Teaching skills in the class setting "is not the same as going out in the community where the obstacles are," she said. These students, as others, need to learn how to deal with people, including those who may be rude to them.

Nine students and seven employers participated in the program this year. Clifton Redmond was named the outstanding student in the program. He worked at QST, Sign Life and Food Lion. Other businesses participating were Comfort Inn, the Davie County Public Library, Wal-Mart and Storehouse for Jesus.

The Comfort Inn received the outstanding business partner award. "They've gone out of their way to make students feel at home," Atkins said. "They've come and spoken to our class about the things the you could do to lose a job."

The program has the blessing of at least one parent. Barbara James said she likes the partnership between school, volunteers and businesses.

"It's frustrating because sometimes we don't know what the future will hold, but it's neat to see concern in the community," she said.

Davie Schools transition coordinator Sharon Atkins presents an award for outstanding work to Joe O'Neal.

Bids Accepted For Air Conditioning, Roofing Projects

Bids for renovating the air conditioning system at South Davie, which has long been a concern for the Board of Education, were to be let this month, according to Davie Schools Director of Auxiliary Services W.G. Potts.

A formal bid is expected by the end of the month, which he hopes to present to the board at its June 30 meeting, Potts said.

Work on the system will probably begin around the start of the 1997-98 school year, he told the Board of Education June 2.

School construction is moving on schedule at most schools, Potts said. The projected completion date for Pinebrook and Shady Grove has been moved to Aug. 1, he said. Construction crews have experienced some problems doing some of the inside work, but they are trying to get things moved out and are moving ahead at full speed.

Formal bids for roofing the Mocksville Middle School kitchen and Shady Grove kindergarten area were to be opened June 3, he said.

Potts recommended that the board accept the lowest bid as recommended by architect Robert Stone.

The board voted unanimously to give Superintendent Dr. Bill Steed the authority to accept a bid for the roofing projects.

Davie County Arts Council Honors Retiring President, Board

Shirley Wicker was honored June 6, by the Davie County Arts Council with the art advocate award for her efforts to promote the arts in Davie County.

She has served four years on the arts council board, holding the offices of secretary, vice president and president. With her husband, Carl, she performs music across the state.

"She has enriched by life and the life of others, incoming president Tracy Crisco said of the outgoing president. "Sharing the arts with others has been Shirley's mission in life," Crisco said.

Wickersaid she was undeserving of the award but thanked the group for the wonderful tribute.

She was also recognized at the arts council annual meeting as an outgoing board member along with Ed Foll and Ray Tutterow.

Wicker told the group she would be an ambassador for the arts as long as she lives.

She thanked board members for their hard work and dedication throughout the past year on such programs as Symphony in the Park, Beneath the Oaks concerts, school programs and the arts council golf tournament.

The arts council exceeded its monetary goal of $30,000, she said.

Interim arts council director Jane Simpson shared an update on progress of renovations of the B.C. Brock Auditorium in its transformation into the Brock Performing Arts Center.

About $420,000 of the $520,000 sought from the private sector has been raised, she said.

About 300 seats remained to be sold, and a golf tournament will be held at Oak Valley to raise funds for the project, she said.

Simpson said she hopes that event will increase awareness of the importance of the performing arts center to residents in all areas of the county.

A fashion show is planned for Nov. 1, at Bermuda Run Country Club to raise funds for the Brock, she said.

Simpson thanked all contributors and said she thinks they will all be proud when the project is completed.

Crisco expressed appreciation to outgoing board members and shared her vision for the future with the new board.

Among her goals are hiring an executive director, who is as passionate and hard-working as Simpson has been, to lead the arts council into the future.

On opening night at the Brock Performing Arts Center, Crisco said she hopes for stars and a standing room only crowd.

She added that she envisions the arts council working with the Brock renovation committee to see that all funding needed has been secured by opening night.

Among the other projects for which she has high hopes are Silver Arts, school programming and a ghost walk in October.

She praised arts council member Annie Ruth McPherson for her dedication to the arts, saying she wished there were more people like her in the community.

"It's true that arts do build a community," she said.

Other officers for the next year will be Steve Pharr, vice president; Priscilla Williams, secretary; and Jane Simpson, treasurer.

All board members received a gift for their service. Other returning board members will be Susan Sidden, Donna Henderson, Randy Gardner, Mike Orsillo, Bob Fisher and Laura Statham.

New board members were welcomed. They are Lillian Sparks, Donna Jacob, Rob Mackintosh, Jill Jobert, Helen Ganti, Christie Schaeffer, Kay Lynn Hansen, Sue Hadley, Freda Ramsey, Andrew White, Gina Collins, Paulette Hendrix and Ken Windley.

Tuberculosis Still A Threat, Tests Available For Disease

What did Eleanor Roosevelt, Andrew Jackson, and Doc Holliday have in common? Tuberculosis (TB).

"Cover your mouth when you sneeze or cough," said your mother with good reason. When the TB germ is inhaled into the lungs, it is destroyed by the immune system or the germ stays in the lungs. The germ could develop into TB disease within months or years or may stay inactive.

"For example, someone infected with the TB germ does not usually become infectious to others," said Dennis E. Harrington, Davie health director.

"It depends on how healthy their immune systems are or how well they take care of themselves," Harrington said.

The good news is that TB can be cured and prevented by public, physicians and other health care workers when they know TB signs, symptoms and facts. TB germs do not live in the sunlight and research studies show that many TB germs can be killed through ultraviolet light. The best common sense and cheaper approach to prevention is to cover your mouth when you cough or sneeze and teach children to do the same.

"The public and health care professionals from all settings can not put TB on the back shelf just because North Carolina and United States statistics are decreasing when it is increasing in neighboring countries," said Harrington.

In the United States, when comparing 1974 and 1996 data, the number of cases decreased from 30,122 cases to 21,327 cases. In North Carolina, for 1996, 554 TB cases were reported.

In Davie County, no cases of TB were reported in 1996, but in 1995, there was one active case of TB disease.

A person with unhealthy living habits—drug or alcohol abuse, not getting enough sleep, not having enough to eat, living in overcrowded conditions—is in danger of being exposed to the TB germ. Like cancer cells, TB germs can take over the lungs or other parts of the body. TB germs lodge in the lungs, but they can spread to the brain, spine, bones, joints, and other areas in the body.

TB disease usually causes a person to be sick-fever, night sweats, unexplained weight loss, fatigue, and coughing up blood. TB germs can be passed to other people through coughing.

sneezing or speaking. TB germs are not spread by drinking or eating after another person. State public health laws require someone diagnosed with TB disease to take medicine until their disease is cured.

A TB test can be given at a local health department or by a physician. A negative test result in a healthy person means the person does not have the germ in their body. A positive test result in a healthy person only means TB infection. People with only TB infection can not give TB to someone else. A chest X-ray is always done to be sure there is no TB disease. People testing positive for TB infection are offered medicine to take in order to decrease their chances of getting TB when they are older or when their immune system is weakened. After taking TB medication for several weeks, patients will start to feel healthy again, but treatment must be continued until all doses are taken.

For more information about local TB prevention efforts, call the health department at (704) 634-8700 and ask for the TB nurse, LuAnn Angell, R.N. She is available Monday-Friday from 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m.

Mocksville Briefs

Board Approves Rezoning Request

The Mocksville Town Board voted unanimously to rezone property on Yadkinville Road from residential to highway business as requested by Gant Personnel. Scott Gant said the company would like to renovate the residence located beside Farm Bureau Insurance into an office.

The business must be out of its present office at Squire Boone Plaza by June 30, to allow the Food Lion there to expand into that area, he said.

Water, Sewer Material Bid Accepted

The board voted to accept a bid of $150,401 made by Hughes Supply for water and sewer materials. Hughes provided the lowest bid among four supply companies. Money was left in this year's budget for these materials, Town Manager Terry Bailey said.

Joshua's Way' Street Name Approved

After examining a request from Christy Trucking President Steven Beaver, the board voted to name a side street running from Bethel Church Road to the Christy warehouse Joshua's Way. There has been no opposition to the proposed name of the road, which is being built by Christy Trucking. Bailey told the board, and it does not conflict with Davie's addressing or 911 system.

Board Endorses Davie Futures

Members of the Davie Leadership alumni group and Davie County Chamber of Commerce think it is time to revisit the Davie Futures project, Lee Rollins told the board. Led by the late E.C. Tatum, the Davie Futures group developed a strategic plan that led to the building of Davie Family YMCA, Davie's campus of Davidson County Community College and formation of the Davie leadership program, Rollins said.

The Chamber and the alumni group would like to co-chair the project and request the town's endorsement, he said. Core concerns of the group will be economic development, education, infrastructure and quality of life.

New Lock Installed At Recreation Center

A new door lock set was installed on a side entrance to the recreation center due to damage done to the old lock by vandals, Parks Department Director Bill Wiseman reported.

Cholesterol Screening To Be Held

A community cholesterol screening will be held June 18 at Cedar Creek Baptist Church at 3-5 p.m. Thirty-five free screening will be conducted. Free blood pressure screenings will also be available.

Construction Cleanup Addressed

Commissioner J.C. "Buster" Cleary expressed concern about some home builders not cleaning up as they should at the sites where they are working. He suggested a town ordinance requiring a dumpster at construction sites. Attorney Hank Van Hoy said decisions would need to be made about what would be considered construction and how the ordinance would be administered.

State Manufactured Housing Institute Recognizes Linda Pate

Linda M. Pate of American Homes of Mocksville has been designated a Registered Housing Specialist by the North Carolina Manufactured Housing Institute (NCMHI).

The RHS program, the first of its kind in the nation, was developed by NCMHI to provide training and certification of manufactured housing retail salespeople and to reward those whose knowledge and professionalism are a credit to the industry.

To earn the designation, an applicant must successfully complete a training program that includes all aspects of the manufactured housing industry and must pass a comprehensive examination.

Since its inception in 1990, more than 600 professionals from throughout the state have received their RHS designation.

"The manufactured housing salespeople who display the RHS sign represent the very best in our industry," said Steve Zammaria, NCMHI executive director. "When a customer buys a home from a Registered Housing Specialist, he or she will be able to count on dealing with an informed, ethical professional."

Pedal Problems: New Driver Hits The House

The wall was there — large, tall and wide. You couldn't miss it ... The brake pedal on the car was there, too. It's the big one. The wide one. Beside the tall, skinny one. In a moment of haste, all those things became a jumble for my new driver.

That wall he couldn't miss ... He had just washed the car. Two friends arrived, and he was eager to be finished with the job. Quickly, he jumped into the car to pull it into the carport.

It's all a blur now. In the den, his younger brother and I were reading one of Dr. Suess' most difficult tongue-twisters. I overheard the car entering the carport.

The motor suddenly raged. The car plowed into the brick wall. Dishes crashed to the floor from the opposite wall — the dining room.

In mid-sentence, I threw the book down and bolted for the door.

There was the car, a foot deep in bricks. My new driver put his head against the steering wheel ... Did I react calmly? Did I quietly discuss the virtues of being careful and the risks of driving? I did not.

Instead, I suggested that he was trying to impress his buddies.

Those wise young men quietly dismissed themselves ... and left.

My young driver said he merely hit the wrong pedal. An accident.

And, boy, was he sorry. Younger brother Robert reported that the dining room was "a terrible mess."

I ordered my young driver to back up the car so we could check the damage. To my amazement, there wasn't a scratch on it.

The wall was in ruins. Our dining room is a foot narrower. But the car is without blemish. I'm liking that car more and more. It's the family sedan — a four-door Chevy — perhaps the largest car made in 1989. In years past, it barely fit inside the carport. Of course, now there's plenty of room.

My young driver had suggested that a sedan — even with leather seats, power windows, power seats, automatic lights and cruise control — was not the kind of vehicle that fit his image. He needed something in the pickup truck category.

Something more ... manly. A sedan, I suggested, would give him character — even if he does have to buy two parking spaces at the high school. It would give me comfort sending him off in a big vehicle. Best of all, it's paid for.

Little did I realize that it's also a battering ram. "I hit the house," he said. He's had his license three weeks.

'Self Interest' Influences County Decisions

To the editor: I agree with everything Mr. Sparks said in his editorial a couple weeks ago. Most of it has been said before. They didn't listen then and it's doubtful they will listen now. But it's worth repeating, (at least we can say I told you so). If more people would write letters for the editorial page, call the commissioners let them know your concerns, they might get the message. Miracles do happen, or so they say.

Some say the damage has been done in East Davie; true, but I imagine there are a few more projects in the pipe line. After all there are a few more feet of empty space left. I know you can't turn back the clock but you can stop it, but that will be hard to do as long as Davie has a one-party system. I know anyone who meets a certain criteria is eligible to run for office, regardless of his/her occupation. It seems that this has been said before, the make-up of the commissioners poses a conflict of interest when anything concerning building, zoning, etc. comes up. According to the article in the Davie Enterprise, an increase in the building inspection fees are needed to make the agency self-supporting. Two commissioners voiced their objections to an increase. Both of them, Hayes and Pindexter, are builders. This is a conflict of interest, no doubt about it. In most cases where there is a question of "self interest," the official should step aside and not participate or vote on the issue. One problem, in some cases on some issues that come up, if they adhered to this scenario they have a hard time coming up with a quorum. The only growth in Hillsdale that would have been beneficial to the average person is the new shopping center. However, they have been short-sighted and gone with a monopolistic grocery store instead of bringing in some competition. Instead of just relocating what is already there, generate some competition, which is good for the consumer. Competition by Clemmons, BiLo, Harris Teeter, and Lowes is the reason you no longer have to purchase $50 worth of groceries before your MVP card clicks in at Food Lion, even though there is still that restriction on some so called specials. Just think of what you may save if there was a competitive grocery store in Hillsdale.

Dukes, Tomatoes And Bread; It's A Heaven Sandwich

I have this poem in my kitchen that has the words, "Put out my hand and touched the face of God." One sunny day last week, I did just that.

Well, maybe I didn't actually touch God's face, but I caught a huge glimpse of Heaven.

I ate my first tomato sandwich of the summer.

Why is it that the first one is always the best?

This one was no exception. A medium sized

Woodleaf tomato, room temperature, sliced thin and piled thick onto two fresh slabs of white bread with a generous dollop of Dukes mayonnaise in between. (If you consider yourself a true tomato sandwich connoisseur, that title only belongs to those who use Dukes mayonnaise.

There are no exceptions.) Before I closed this sweet package, I sprinkled a little pepper, a little salt, and voila! a slice of Heaven, a Heaven sandwich.

Growing up, I never ate tomato sandwiches.

My parents were Yankees. We ate green pepper sandwiches, cucumber and cream cheese sandwiches, liverwurst sandwiches, lebanon bologna sandwiches, but never tomato ones.

(My mother even ate Limburger cheese sandwiches. We would all clear out of the kitchen while she unwrapped the noxious stuff, then wait for the fumes to leave before reentering.)

Why it never occurred to us to put tomato on bread, I'm not sure.

We had a small garden and grew tomatoes. We ate cherry tomatoes by the handful, standing by the kitchen sink, we'd take that first bite and sprinkle salt into the cavity we'd made, eating what tasted like red-ripened sunshine.

But never on bread.

It wasn't until I moved west, to Davie County, that I tasted my first tomato sandwich, and from then on, I was hooked.

Now although my husband is a dyed-in-the-wool Southerner, he usually eats tomato sandwiches with a slice of American cheese on them. I have directed several sideways glances at him when he does so to let him know that I consider him a disgrace to Southerners everywhere.

We've eaten just about every kind of tomato there is on sandwiches, and the German Johnsons can't be beat for size. One slice covers a whole piece of bread, but if you can't bring yourself to eat a pink tomato, the Better Boy can't be beat. Apparently everyone around here agrees, because on two trips to the farm supply store, they were out of Better Boys both times. I had to settle for Big Boys, and I also bought some German Johnsons and a kind I've never had,

Fantastics. We've also transplanted about 30 cherry tomato plants that are the offspring of seeds dropped on the ground last summer from two plants that didn't know when to quit yielding. We ate those from summer until Halloween, when the frost stole them.

I can hardly wait to see this delicious fruit (or is it a vegetable?)

hanging from sagging tomato limbs. But I'm just not sure if it'll be as good as that sandwich last week.

Must be a genetic thing too, because Sam asked for a sandwich like mine. I looked over at him halfway through. That drippy sandwich was gripped between both his hands, and there was mayonnaise on his cheeks.

Boy, Mom, he said, this sure is good.

This, I said to him, is what Heaven tastes like.

It's Time To Thank God For Wonders He Created

To the editor:

This little story is happening right now. Maybe it's time to thank God and all the wonders he created for us, even on the wings of this beautiful dove.

It's a good message of hope for people in time of need. Maybe you can use this.

As a little girl, I remember well the family that lived beside of us.

Grandpa Steele lived with his daughter and two grandchildren. He seemed very old to me. He had a long white beard. That was in the early 40s so most men were clean shaven. So I was just a little afraid of Grandpa Steele. He had gotten sick and was in bed. We were told that he wouldn't live long. One Sunday morning the men folks were sitting out on the big front porch. I was told a dove flew in on the porch and hovered around until Grandpa had passed away.

I remember my mother sitting in her wheelchair. I started asking questions. Why did the dove do that? Wasn't it afraid? My mama said no honey, God sent the dove to give peace and love.

My husband's first cousin is lying on her death bed. This all came back when I looked out yesterday and saw two doves on our porch. Now we're here for my husband, myself or a dear loved one? That was Sunday, June 1. This is Monday, June 2 and the doves are still hovering on the porch and in our yard. And I'm thinking. Surely what our eyes see our hearts will believe.

Doctor, Staff, ER Team Help Heart Attack Victim

To the editor:

So often in our lives, we forget to thank those who have helped us along our journey in life and shown us care and kindness. I have been blessed in many ways, and wanted to take time for thanksgiving. Two months ago, I suffered a heart attack, but thanks to the quick action and care of many people, I am able to give thanks today. I especially want to thank Dr. Gonzalez and his staff and the emergency room team and EMS at Davie Hospital. Dr. Gonzalez was quick to respond when I had the attack and actually carried me to the hospital in his own vehicle. The EMS and emergency room staff have been very helpful and attentive during my attack and recovery period. We should be grateful to have a medical facility staffed by such caring individuals.

Of course, I would also like to thank my family and friends. They have been very supportive with prayers, food, cards, phone calls, words of encouragement, and running errands. My family has lived in this community for many years, and it is nice to know that the bond of support and love here is strong. Thanks to all, and God bless you.

Family, Friends Hope Drowning Victim's Life Was Ministry To Teens

He was looking forward to serving as a counselor for the first time at Camp Carolina Trails this summer. He had been attending the camp for juvenile diabetes since he was about 10, Mickey said.

To a child being diagnosed as a diabetic is to be labeled as different from the other kids, but at the camp everyone was in the same situation, he said.

That's why the family asked that memorials be made to the camp in the hope that it might provide funding for a child that could benefit from the camp but cannot afford to attend.

Knowing that Christopher no longer has to suffer from diabetes and that he is in good hands is the only thing that has helped Laura accept the loss of her son, she said.

"I know he's safe in God's hands," Anne said. "I know he's smiling down and telling me it's OK."

When she had called Laura about a week before the accident, Christopher answered the phone.

He asked if she remembered what she and Dean had taught him when he was growing up — "to always put God first and everything else would fall into place."

"He said, 'Mama Anne, I did that. I'm saved. I'm OK, and I love you,'" she said.

"We would like to thank his parents for sharing him with us," she said. "He will always be precious to me. He will be in my heart forever."

When he went to get Christopher's car the day after the accident, Mickey said someone had put a towel by the pond and placed flowers on it.

The best thing that could come from this tragedy would be for Chris' friends to realize that lives are fragile and avoid making stupid mistakes, he said.

"We don't have the promise of a next breath," Anne said.

That's why her prayer for Christopher's friends is that each one will look to God as he did.

"I really believe that God used Christopher to touch a lot of other teen lives," she said.

Anne said she hopes his friends won't dwell in sadness because Christopher is in a better place.

"He's an angel," said his mother.

Advance Men Arrested For Possessing Mushrooms

Two Advance men were arrested June 12 when a Mocksville police officer discovered 8.2 grams of hallucinogenic mushrooms in their vehicle during a traffic stop.

Officer K.D. Hendrix discovered the illegal mushrooms along with marijuana and drug paraphernalia after stopping a vehicle for a traffic violation at Country Lane and Campbell Road about 10 p.m.

The driver, Steven Jay Chandler, 20, of 122 Gene's Way, Advance, was charged with possession of Psilocybin mushrooms, possession of marijuana, possession of drug paraphernalia and maintaining a place to keep a controlled substance.

Chandler was placed in the Davie County Jail in lieu of a $10,000 bond.

A passenger in the vehicle, Michael James Rosenmeier, 20, of 242 Riddle Circle Advance, was charged with possession of Psilocybin and possession of drug paraphernalia. He was placed in the Davie County Jail under a $7,500 secured bond.

Both will face these charges in Davie County District Court July 17.

Tri-County, Sign Ordinance To Be Discussed

with benefits.

"With even limited support from another program, you all are going to be better off," Knisley said. "There will be some problems ... but it will be more responsible than what you have had in the past. Davie County citizens should not be put in this situation again."

Several Food Lion officials spoke to commissioners last Monday, saying the size of their sign at the new Tanglewood Crossings center being built at Hwy. 801 and 158 in Hillsdale would be disproportionate to the size of their building, and difficult to see from the road.

Commissioner Diane Foster said there would be monument, or ground signs, at both entrances with the names of tenants in the center. "We put this ordinance into place ... to preserve some character to the community that has been lost in some communities ... our neighbors to the east ... and even in Mocksville."

Members of the planning board were split on the recommendations to commissioners.

Cochrane Sets Out To Reduce Fraud

Some 20,000 people receive over $91 million a year for substance, paid 50 percent by the counties and 50 percent by the state.

To prevent the fraud in this program of special assistance, Sen. Betsy Cochrane (R-Davie) has shepherded legislation through the House and Senate that places a 90-day residency requirement on future recipients of this aid.

The special assistance for adults program was established nearly 50 years ago by the General Assembly to provide domiciliary care for North Carolina residents.

"A recipient receives an average of $470 per month for special assistance," Cochrane said. "If they qualify for special assistance, they automatically qualify for Medicaid, which averages $11,684 a year, per recipient. With this much tax funding involved, it is critical that we reduce the fraud and minimize the potential for fraud."

The new law requiring a 90-day residency to receive special assistance provides Social Services personnel the opportunity to verify information from other states that these individuals are in fact indigent.

If a person moves into the state to join a close family member, the residency requirement can be waived. A close relative is defined as a parent, grandparent, brother, sister, spouse, or child.

Superintendent Earns Favorable Report

The Davie County Schools' superintendent received an excellent evaluation from the Board of Education recently.

Board members believe Superintendent Dr. Bill Steed is doing a good job looking toward the future for Davie's schools, according to Chairman Jerry Swicegood.

The board commended Steed on his communication with the general public and the press at its annual evaluation of the superintendent, Swicegood said. Board members are especially proud of him for his efforts along with County Manager Ken Windley and the Davie County Board of Commissioners to improve communication between that board and the Board of Education, he said.

The school board believes the relationship that has been developed between the two boards is an honorable one that will have a positive impact on education for Davie's young people, he added.

The board of education is also considering conducting public meetings quarterly or semi-annually to discuss the state of the Davie schools, Swicegood said.

With no formal program or agenda, these meetings would give board members and others concerned about the schools a chance to just sit and talk about the schools and where they are going, he explained.

The state requires all school boards to conduct an evaluation annually at which board members individually and collectively evaluate the performance of the superintendent, he said.

System Takes Discretion Away From Judges

The district attorneys keep regular office hours in Davie County to make it easier for residents and officers to discuss cases.

Morris realizes the frustration people have with the criminal justice system. He shares many of the same concerns.

The major problem with getting criminals off the street is the structured sentencing law, he said. That takes discretion away from judges. In many cases, first offenders can't be sent to prison, and quite often, past records can't be used to determine the level of punishment.

Examples of crimes which wouldn't result in a prison sentence for the first offense: selling marijuana, and possession of cocaine.

"They cannot get an active prison sentence, no matter how bad you want to put them in jail," Morris said. "Most people are coming back time and time again. It's taking three or four times for most of them to get active time.

"People don't understand that and victims don't understand that."

State legislators passed the law in an effort to alleviate overcrowding in prisons. Morris thinks a better idea would be to build more prisons.

Waste Truck Overtums

A Lewisville man was injured when the tractor trailer he was driving overturned June 9.

Wayne Nelson Moose, 74, had been traveling west on Comatzer Road about 11 a.m. in a 1988 Mack truck, owned by Environmental Waste Recycling Inc. of Advance, when it ran off the right side of the road and overturned onto its right side, reported Trooper A.A. Justice of the N.C. Highway Patrol.

Moose told Justice that he met a vehicle in his lane of travel as he rounded a curve, and his load shifted to the right. No charges were filed, Justice said.

Moose was taken to N.C. Baptist Hospital in Winston-Salem for treatment of injury.

Damage to the truck was estimated at $10,000.

Pino News

By Nora Latham

Pino Correspondent

It was so nice to have Rev. Tammy Talbot back in the pulpit Sunday, June 15. We had some very good speakers during her absence, but now it's time to get back on track with raising money for a fellowship hall and raising attendance. Appropriately, her sermon was about fathers. The oldest father at church Sunday was Harmon Latham and the youngest was Patrick Miller. Visitors were Lisa, Dylan and Scotty Stumbo and Albert and Josh Greer. As always, it was very nice to have Johnnie Shelton join us.

Harmon Latham had a surprise guest for Father's Day. His son, Jim Latham, from Newport News, Va., flew down to spend the evening with him. Jim returned home on Monday.

Betty Elchison West and her daughters, Frances West Tutterow and Susan West Cujas, honored the fathers in the family with a dinner at Frostlands on Father's Day. Those honored were: Walter Elchison, Roland H. West, Larry Tutterow, Al Cujas, and Carl Grissom. Others present were: Elizabeth Tutterow, Betty Walker Grissom, Amy Jho and Missy Cujas, Elizabeth and Chad Fernandez, and Henry West.

Those honoring James E. Essie on Father's Day at Mapleshades were his wife Lella and the following children: James E. "Chip" Essie Jr. and wife Ruth; Neal Essie and wife Brenda; Mary Ellen Candillo and husband John. Also, grandchildren, Jeff Essie and friend Karen Flowers of Raleigh; Rebecca Essie and friend Barron Holland of Asheville; David Essie and friend Tammy Broughton of Winston-Salem; Forrest Essie and friend Heather Schenk of Cleveland; and Joe Candillo of Boone. The only missing child, was Anne Essie Barnes and husband Brooks and children Edward and Elizabeth from Onancock, Va., 8 hours away, they were missed.

Hillsdale News

Hillsdale Correspondent

The youth of Hillsdale were treated to a Summer Kick-off Luau last Wednesday at the home of Sam and Charlotte Mayhall. They had great food and great fun playing volleyball. The luau was just the beginning of the busy summer ahead of them.

The women of Hillsdale will meet Thursday, June 19 at Brenda Sheek's house at 7 p.m.

I hope everyone had a Happy Father's Day. The youth had a small program for their fathers on Sunday during the worship service and afterwards presented each father with a special gift.

We need to remember Rob and Tonia Jackson in our prayers. Rob's grandfather passed away last week and Tonia has had some surgery. We hope she recovers quickly.

Our prayers are also with the family of Christopher Davis. We are thinking of you and are very sorry about your tragic loss.

Many people in our community have been suffering from a flu-type sickness, hopefully everyone will be feeling better soon.

Josh Hanes will be spending the week at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill at Journalism Camp. Josh will be starting his second year as editor of the Davie Yell. (Hey, Josh, if you're the journalist, why aren't you helping me out writing this column?). Have a great week.

Silver Eagle Seniors Club Visits Lexington

The Silver Eagle Seniors met at the Brick Building May 11, loaded the van and headed to Lexington.

On the way, they stopped at Emaline Brook Specialties.

Shope, The Old Homestead, Canterbury Cottage and Lanier's Hardware.

Lunch was at Main Street Pizza Deli, where the bread is baked daily for the sandwiches and salads. Their pledge is to re-invest profits into further improvements of downtown Lexington.

The group visited the Davidson

County Historical Museum in the old courthouse on the square. The museum features permanent and changing exhibits that spotlight the history of the area. The exhibit was "A Woman's Work Is Never Done."

On the way back to Mocksville, they stopped at the Old Fork hall field, where under the arbor at the picnic tables, Jo Check called the meeting to order.

New by-laws were given to each member. Jo reminded everyone of all the activities for Seniors during June and July; and asked for pound cakes to be used at the Special Olympics project on June 19.

Naomi Greene invited each to Farmington Baptist Church on June 22 at the 11 a.m. service, to hear the Fredrick Brothers Quartet.

Betty Peddicord gave the treasurer's report. "Happy Birthday" was sung to Marie Miller and Betty Peddicord.

Closing the meeting, Marilyn Potts read a reading from the Upper Room, had prayer, and a thought for the day.

Shiloh Baptist Church Celebrates George And Minnie Campbell Day

Shiloh Baptist Church of Mocksville celebrated the 24th annual George and Minnie G. Campbell Day on Sunday, May 25. The event is in memory of the couple. He was pastor at Shiloh from 1945-1972.

"Not only does this celebration laud the fine spirit and dedication of the Campbells, but also, it honors high school graduates with white or black gold-engraved Bibles and students of higher education with certificates and scholarships," said Magdalen Gaither. The keynote speaker was Spencer McCall Jr. of Winston-Salem, a geologist and pre-med student at Wake Forest University. He is the great-grandson of Henry Dulin, who was a member at Shiloh. Accompanying him was a large delegation of family members who had never attended Shiloh, and his grandmother, Betty Dulin. The Campbell family also came in large numbers from California, Texas and Winston-Salem. The family dates an average of $500 to the scholarship fund annually.

Five Shiloh graduating seniors received Bibles, five visiting seniors from Davie and Caren Wilkins from Maryland received certificates of appreciation.

Elyse Campbell (associate degree, Chesapeake, Va.), Rydell Wilkins of Washington, D.C. (master's degree, Penn State University) and Steve Dulin, 1974 Davie High graduate and Shiloh member (bachelor's degree, High Point University), were also recognized.

Presiding at the celebration was Shanon Hudson, C. Stevie Dulin gave the welcome, Rachel J. Campbell the response and introduction. Magdalen D. Gaither introduced guests, and A. Laurie Dulin presented Bibles to Derick L. Dulin, Steven Tremayne Dulin, Antonio M. Hudson, Raeshika Kandi Jones, LaTosha Delain Lyons and Anya Williams were recognized.

Sadie Dulin Jones made a presentation on behalf of the late Sarah F. Jones-Dulin, and the speaker was introduced by Mel White. Music was provided by the Waughtown Baptist Church.

Church To Honor Gilbreath

The Rev. David L. Gilbreath will be honored by the members of Eatos Baptist Church on June 22.

As an expression of their love and appreciation of his faithful service, the church will celebrate pastor appreciation day. A covered-dish luncheon in the fellowship hall of the church will follow the 11 a.m. worship service.

Gilbreath

Friends of Gilbreath are invited to come worship and join for the covered dish meal.

Gilbreath has been the pastor at Eatos Baptist Church for the past 10 years, with his wife, Jeanne, and sons Larry and Timmy.

Gilbreath is a graduate of the Citadel, Charleston, S.C. He received a master's degree of divinity from Southern Seminary, Wake Forest, and a doctorate of ministry.

Gilbreath has been active in community affairs and in the South Yadkin Baptist Association.

Hunter Addresses AARP

Ken Hunter, a Mocksville police officer presented a program to the members of the American Association of Retired Persons, Davie County Chapter 4405.

"He talked about scams, setting up community watch programs, ways for people to protect themselves; and answered questions asked by members."

"At the business meeting following the talk, it was announced that Stella Kelley from the local chapter had been chosen as the second runner-up for the North Carolina volunteer of the year. Final plans were made for the ice cream social to be given to the 47 residents of Davie Place during National Dairy Month and is under the direction of Marie Miller.

The July meeting will be held on July 9 at 5 p.m. in the nutrition site at the Senior Center and will be the club's annual "picnic."

Cana News

"Hec haw, hee haw. Did you get a chance to see those funny looking gaiters and donkeys at the Thoroughbred Training Center last Saturday. I didn't get to make it this year, but I hope I can make it next year. I wish I could of seen the Costume Class Donkey. They looked funny. Cane celebrated all fathers last Sunday, especially those who don't always get to stay at home with their kids. I love for having to work late to provide for their family. Roy Langston was recognized as the oldest father and Tim Latham was recognized as the father with the youngest child present. This Sunday is Pastor Appreciation Day and there will be a covered-dish meal after the service. Y'all come.

Spiritual Resources: Children Trust In God

By the Rev. David Gilbreath

What is it about a child that stirs such strong emotions in us? Images of children at play are used to promote nearly every product from breakfast cereal to shoes. Their winsome smiles, sometimes embarrassing curiosity, and innocent expressions endear them to us. Stories of children whose lives have been disrupted by the ravages of war, violent physical or verbal abuse, disease, hunger or poverty anger us. We desire a world that protects the innocence of children. News that young people have stolen a vehicle, destroyed property, or injured or killed innocent people awakens fear.

Recently, I watched a mother with three young boys, ages 5-8 years old, enter a laundromat. Upon closer observation, the three boys showed their eagerness to help the mother. Two carried her large basket of laundry into the door, while the third boy carried the laundry detergent and fabric softener. They were respectful and well behaved. Whenever the mother spoke, the boys listened and responded obediently. One could not help but notice the pride and affection each felt for the other. It was beautiful to watch them interact with complete trust in one another.

Jesus remarked to those who desired to follow Him, "...the kingdom of heaven belongs to such as these (children)." (Matt. 19:14). When asked about the greatest in the kingdom of heaven, Jesus placed a child in the midst of the crowd and declared: "I tell you the truth, unless you change and become like little children, you will never enter the kingdom of heaven. Therefore, whoever humbles himself like this child is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven." (Matt. 18:3-4)

Children remind us of the pure innocence God created us to enjoy. Their total dependence and faith in their parents and significant others are the truest models for faith in God. Children are important to us because they take us to a place we must go: complete trust in God. Such faith does not require us to cease learning about the world; it simply demands that we seek God with the same level of curiosity and open-mindedness that we do other things. Adults, embrace those qualities you see in children that open you to the beauty God has placed around you.

Attend The Church Of Your Choice

The Rev. Reg Alderman, pastor of Hillsdale Baptist Church, stands in front of the sight where a new church facility will be built and a tent revival was recently conducted.

Hillsdale Church Dedicates Land

By Jeanne Hogue
Davie County Enterprise Record

About 50 people attended the first service of Hillsdale Baptist Church Dec. 4, 1994.

Today the church has more than 100 members and recently purchased a 5.6 acre tract on U.S. 158 for the construction of a new church building, according to Hillsdale Baptist's pastor the Rev. Reg Alderman.

A mission church of Calvary and Ardmore Baptist Churches of Winston-Salem, Hillsdale Baptist has long been seeking land for a church facility.

With land extremely hard to come by in eastern Davie County, the purchase is an amazing thing, Alderman said. Money for the land was made available through an anonymous donor who wanted to see a new church in this area.

The church's membership has steadily increased, and having a site for a building communicates permanency in the community, he said.

"We hope to be able to come and be a positive influence to this community."

Our main purpose is sharing Christ with people," Alderman said.

A lot of the work involved in clearing off the site, which Alderman described as "a mess" in the beginning, has been done by church members.

After several big work days, the land has cleared off nicely, he said.

Since the purchase, architects have developed a three phase plan to fit the land, which will begin with constructing a multi-purpose building, which will serve as a sanctuary and educational site until those facilities are added in the next two phases.

Rather than having buildings bunched together, the facility will look more like a campus with a courtyard and walkway.

This creative approach is a reflection of the uniqueness of the church, Alderman said.

Though Southern Baptist and more importantly Christian, Alderman said Hillsdale Baptist Church is not here to be a "run of the mill church," hopefully presenting the Gospel in a fresh way.

The church held a dedication service at the new site June 1 and hosted a tent revival early in the month with guest speaker Dr. Mark Cotts, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, there recently.

The church raised $26,000 for the building fund at the June 1 service, Alderman said.

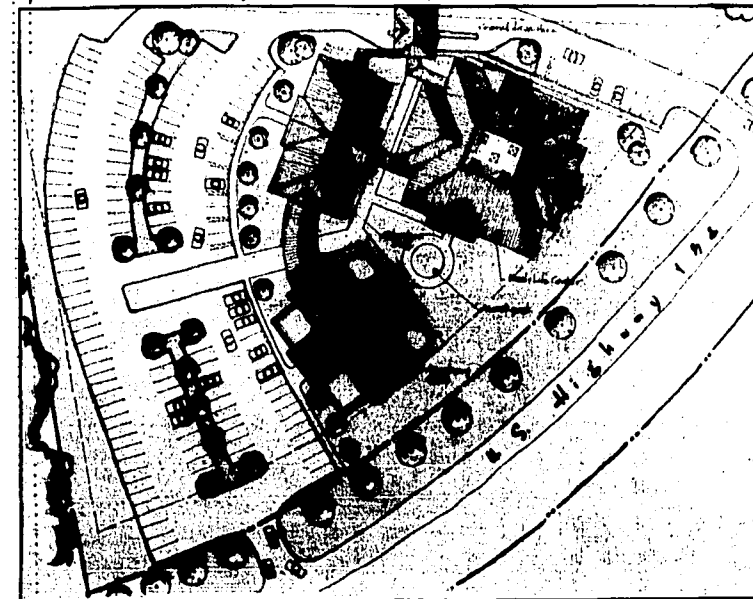

Efforts are still underway to raise money for the project. Ideally, construction will begin in October with completion of the first building by next spring, he said.

No fund raisers are planned, Alderman said there is nothing wrong with fund raisers. He just doesn't like them.

His philosophy is to have people ask God what they're supposed to give. "If God can't do it, I can't," he said.

So far $106,000 has been raised, Alderman said he is excited that it's going well.

Hillsdale Baptist Church now meets in the old Napa Auto Parts store building at 126 Medical Drive behind Mocksville Savings Bank. Alderman may be reached at the church at 940-6618.

This drawing depicts the rooftops of the buildings when the master plan for the new church is complete.

Crop Acreage Reports Due In June

June is the final date to file a 1997 crop acreage report with the Farm Service Agency.

An acreage report is required on farms participating in the seven year AMTA program if fruits and vegetables are planted, on farms obtaining commodity loans, on CRP farms, on farms with an effective flue-cured tobacco allotment, on farms with cotton planted, and to establish eligibility under the non-insured crop disaster assistance program.

Crop reports will be accepted and are encouraged from all producers who wish to report acreages for any purpose.

Crops reports can be filed in the Davidson-Davie County FSA Office at 301 E. Center St., Lexington.

Obituaries

Christopher Jerome Davis

Christopher Jerome "Chris" Davis, 17, of 122 Kingsmill Place, Advance, died Saturday, June 14, 1997.

Born April 14, 1980, to Jerome Irvin Davis and Laura Montgomery Davis Orban, he was a rising senior at Davie High School, who enjoyed snow skiing, golf and camping.

Surviving are his mother and step father, Laura and Mickey Orban, and a sister, Abbey Davis, all of the home; his father, Jerome "Jerry" Davis of Greensboro, a step sister, Melissa Orban of Spartanburg, S.C.; and several aunts and uncles.

The funeral service was conducted at 11 a.m. June 16, at Bethlehem United Methodist Church by the Rev. Dan Martin. Burial followed in the church cemetery.

Herby Smith

Herby Smith, 94, of U.S. Hwy. 601 South, Mocksville, died Monday morning, June 16, 1997, at his home.

Born on Curtis Creek in Avery County May 26, 1903, to the late John and Martha Fox Smith, he lived there for 90 years until ill health forced a move to Davie County to be near a daughter's family for help.

He is survived by his wife of nearly 69 years, Mattie Jones Smith; 4 daughters, Anna Moore of Fuquay Varina, Helen Foster of Mocksville and Weavers Ford, Faynita Brannon of Advance, and Edith Taylor of Dallas; 2 sons, Max Smith of Icard and Frank and John Charles Smith of Boone and Fruitland Park, Fla.; 11 grandchildren; 2 step grandchildren; 12 great grandchildren; 5 step great grandchildren; a sister, Texie Fields of Gray, Tenn.; and a host of nieces, nephews and in-laws.

He was preceded in death by a son-in-law, Glenn Moore, in 1994.

The funeral was to be held in Elk Park in Avery County at Fall Creek Baptist Church at 8 p.m. June 18. A graveside service was to be held at 11 a.m. June 19, at Fall Creek Baptist Church.

His philosophy is to have people ask God what they're supposed to give. "If God can't do it, I can't," he said.

So far $106,000 has been raised, Alderman said he is excited that it's going well.

Busse Award Presented To Cochrane

Sen. Betsy Cochrane (R-Davie) has been honored by the Division of Aging and their state-wide advocacy organization with their highest award-the Dr. Ewald W. Busse Award, presented at a joint conference recently at the North Raleigh Hilton.

Cochrane was honored for her leadership in directing health policy to benefit North Carolinians. Cochrane has been a long-time advocate for income services for senior citizens and successfully introduced legislation to treat elder abuse as a crime. As chairwoman of the Commission on Aging, she has introduced legislation that would provide a tax credit for long-term care insurance to assist older adults who choose to be responsible for their own care.

Cochrane has successfully introduced proposals that improve the care of our older citizens in institutional settings and is known for her legislative committee work on behalf of the older population.

"Service to others is the best work of life," Cochrane said.

Judy Edwards

Judith Lipscomb "Judy" Edwards, 50, of 179 Edwards Road, Harmony, died Friday, June 13, 1997, at Davie County Hospital after a sudden illness.

Born Jan. 18, 1947, in Forsyth County, she was a daughter of Clara Harris of Smith Grove. On Oct. 18, 1979, she married Gary "Cotton" Edwards, who survives. She was a self-employed insurance salesperson and a member of St. Francis of Assisi Catholic Church in Mocksville.

Surviving, in addition to her mother and husband, are a son, James L. Seagle of King; a daughter, Jackie N. Mitchell of Hamptonville; a step son, G. Ryan Edwards of Advance; 6 grandchildren; 2 brothers, Jim Lipscomb of Smith Grove and Lynwood Lipscomb of China Grove; and a sister, Linda Sparks of Winston-Salem.

She was preceded in death by a daughter, Judith Claudette Norman.

Funeral services were conducted at 11 a.m. June 16, at St. Francis Assisi Catholic Church with Father Thomas P. Clements officiating. Burial followed in New Union United Methodist Church Cemetery.

EQUIP Applications Being Accepted

The Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQUIP) is a new program which provides cost-share funds to implement conservation systems through long term contract.

Contracts are for a minimum of 5 years and must address at least one of four priority concerns: animal waste disposal, excessive soil erosion, loss of wildlife habitat, and agricultural chemical leaching and runoff.

EQUIP may provide up to 75 percent of the cost of certain conservation practices, such as animal waste treatment facilities, grassed waterways, filter strips, wildlife habitat enhancement and permanent vegetative cover.

Sign up for 1997 EQUIP cost-sharing funds through July 11. Applications received after July 11 will be considered for 1998 approval.

The Grounds Crew: Sonny Kurfees In 16th Year At Rich Park

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

Sonny Kurfees awakes before the sun and arrives at Rich Park at 2:30 p.m., five hours before game time.

He finally cuts out his light around midnight, a demanding schedule that's in its 16th year.

Kurfees, the general manager of Mocksville-Davie's American Legion baseball team, and son Charles are the self-appointed grounds crew of Mando Field.

"We maintain it year-round," Sonny said. "We come out here everyday that we play at 2:30, work approximately two hours and then spend another 45 minutes between batting practice and game time to see to it that it's right."

"We want it right... We don't want it half-way, we want it right."

The park's popularity soared when the infield was grassed before the 1995 season, four years after a new grandstand was built.

"We get a lot of comments from people who come in here to play," Sonny said.

"They love to come here and we don't like to disappoint people when they come. When we made the decision to grass it, we got some help from Ron Bivins. That's been a big help."

Kurfees added more hands and brainpower to the crew this year when David Hunt, Davie High's former long-time coach, volunteered his services.

"He's probably more knowledgeable of this dirt than any man that's been here," Sonny praised.

"He taught me how to keep it up. He's not coaching a team anymore, but he still loves to come out here and work. He told us to call him anytime and he'd be out here to help us, and he's done it."

Showers have washed some games away while Mocksville has marched on, a credit to its reliable and keen grounds crew.

"When it's wet like this (last Friday afternoon), it takes a little extra effort to get it ready to play on," Sonny said. "That's the reason we play when other people don't. We play because we've got people who know how to come out here and work on the field."

The baseball committee is: Sonny Kurfees, general manager; Joe Brown, vice president; Ricky Lagle, treasurer; Paul Beaver, secretary; Robert Rogers, athletics director; Gray Laymon, Dale Brown, Lefty Stewart, Ron Bivins and Gary Bowden.

"We've had great participation from the committee, and they're all doing a super job," Sonny said.

How It All Started

In the early 1980s, Charles repeatedly asked his father and the late Dick Nail why Mocksville didn't field a legion team, prompting Sonny and Nail to take action.

"Charles is probably the reason we have legion ball in this town today," Sonny said. "He kept wanting to know why couldn't we have one up here, so me and my friend Dickie said, 'OK, we're going to do it.'"

Enthusiasm built up over a period of time, and out of that we formed a 15-member committee."

Only two of the original members still exist on the current 13-member committee, Sonny and Steve Walker.

"Over a period of time, we've lost some good members but we've replaced them with good members," Sonny said. "I can't say enough about the City Council and what they've done to help us."

Attendance Slightly Down

After winning 69 percent of its games from 1989-94, Mocksville stumbled to 26-28 over the last two years, causing customers to shy away.

Attendance was at its best during the early years, back when there was only one fast-food restaurant and fewer attractions to occupy kids.

"We are as sound as we have ever been," Sonny assured. "The attendance is not as high as it was a few years back, but our teams haven't done as well as some of those. But we still do good. Of course, we'd always like to do better."

Kurfees urges more folks to come out to the park.

"The people don't know what they're missing," he said. "There's so much more going on today. When we started, we had one fast-food restaurant (Hardee's) in town. Wal-Mart wasn't even here. Kids didn't have anything else to do and they packed the place."

Sonny will forever remember a speech by Joe Ferebee, one of the state's all-time winningest coaches in legion ball, at a fundraiser at South Davie before the inaugural year.

"He talked about boys playing and their girlfriends," Sonny said. "He said: 'There's not a better place to come to than the ballpark and if your girlfriend thinks anything of you, she'll meet you at the ballpark.' I've never forgotten it."

Sonny's Fire

Although he doesn't have the same bounce in his steps from year's past, Sonny doesn't foresee himself slowing up anytime soon.

"I think I'm burned up but I'm still going."

Mariners Crush Four In Tourney

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

The Carolina Mariners' opponents have seen the light at the end of the tunnel.

But the light has been an oncoming train.

The Mariners, a 15-and-under AAU baseball team coached by Dink Smith, have sidetracked everyone thus far, cruising to three wins in a round-robin two weeks ago at the Davie Youth Complex and crushing four opponents by a combined score of 49-16 in the N.C. Memorial Day AAU Grand Slam in Concord.

Smith's bouncers were 7-0 heading into last weekend's 12-team bash at Dalton, Ga., where "some of the better teams in the southeast will be," said Smith, who has had to fill seven holes from last year's 46-21 club.

"I didn't expect to hit this well," he said. "I knew that we'd be good defensively, but I didn't know about our hitting. I like the effort and the makeup of the team."

In the round-robin, the Mariners began their march to the title with a 14-4 romp over the South Carolina Panthers, who watched Ryan Clark blast two home runs. Matt Dellacona went deep as well.

Clark and Ross Smith finished with three hits while Dellacona and Jonathan Seaford, who picked up the win on the mound, had two each.

Carolina needed a four-hitter from pitcher Zach Morgan to hold off the Cabarrus Bandits, a 16-and-under squad, 2-1.

"We got a magnificent pitching job from Zach," Smith said. Morgan fanned six.

With the game tied late, Scott Wilson and Dellacona produced a pair of clutch hits to pull their team through.

Smith had to go to his bench and bullpen to preserve a 5-2 victory over North Wake of Raleigh.

Stepping in for an injured player, Jerod Stanley ripped three hits and Brandon Berrier was summoned to the hill with the bases loaded in the seventh inning, relieving starter Jeff Shoemaker and striking out the side to seal North's fate.

"I had to play Jerod because I had a player hurt and he drove in two of our five runs," said Smith, laughing.

Berrier had two hits to go with his fine pitching and Morgan had a solo homer.

The Charlotte Renegade, the only club that put up a fight against Carolina in Concord, fumbled a 3-1 lead and the game, 4-3.

"One night I'm real proud of them and that's why it aggravates me when we lose," Daywalt said. "I can't understand why we're not keeping ourself up (Friday's 7-6 loss to Concord) was my most disappointing loss of the year."

Palomino and AAU baseball have emerged in recent years but nothing has penetrated American Legion, according to Sonny Kurfees, Mocksville's general manager.

"We've had everything in the world come up and people have said: 'We're going to take away from legion ball,'" Kurfees said. "Neither one of those (Palomino and AAU) are in the same breath as legion ball."

Kurfees appreciates his volunteers, folks who have added color to legion baseball.

keep a family atmosphere. As long as we do that, the city will continue to support us the way they have."

Charles Kurfees is already lining up entertainment for 1998.

"He's always trying to create something new," said his father, Sonny. "He is working on some things for us, it will be an exciting year for the fans."

"I think they'll really want to come out because there will be some promotional things that happen especially at minor-league parks, and we are going to try to bring it here."

Stats you wouldn't dare ask for: Mocksville is 9-0 on Wednesday and Saturday and 0-3 on Friday... In blow-out games (four-plus runs), Mocksville is 8-1... When leading after eight innings, Mocksville is 5-0 and 1-4 when trailing after eight... Mocksville continues to own the first inning, outscoring opponents 29-3, and it has outscored opponents 108-55 through the first six innings, but it has been outscored 21-17 in the final four innings... Mocksville has clubbed eight homers to the opponents' one.

In the sixth, 12 more stepped to the plate as Mocksville exploded for eight runs, prompting China Grove coach Eric Faw to throw in the towel after six and a half innings.

Post 174 only had two hits in the inning but China Grove committed four errors, three by Mills, to lead to all unearned runs. One of the hits was a two-run double by Miller.

Miller, who relieved starter Allan Purdue after three sluggish innings to pick up his second win, retired China Grove in order to end the marathon.

Daywalt, who has labored through a long week, exhaled.

"We finally got a couple of breaks," he said. "We ran the bases really good, when we were behind and that helped us a lot."

"It was a team effort, everybody got into it. It's good to get a victory, but we've got to realize that we were facing the weakest pitching in the league. But we've got to take advantage of everything we get."

Legion Team Unleashed In 21-8 Win

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

It was Mocksville-Davie unleashed. The local American Legion baseball team, which had lost two straight and three of five coming in, ran wild in a 21-8 rout of China Grove Monday night at Mando Field, demolishing the most fragile pitching staff in the Southern Division.

The much-needed victory moved Mocksville (13-6) to 8-6 in the league; China Grove, oddly enough, led 6-1 heading into the bottom of the fourth inning, when China Grove's defense cracked.

"I was really depressed," Mocksville coach George Daywalt said of the dreadful start. "I thought we were down and didn't have a comeback in us."

Mocksville scored three unearned runs in the inning to move back into contention.

Jansen Keene reached on one of China Grove's eight errors, and after successive soft singles by Joe Burchette, Destry Swaim and Nathan Ireland, Shane Allen hit a two-out grounder to shortstop Jerry Mills for what should have been the final out.

But Mills pump-faked a throw to first and fired late to second, triggering Mocksville's run. Then third baseman Greg Crowell let two more runs cross when an easy roller by Charles Miller squirmed through his mitt.

The roof caved in on China Grove in the fifth, a nine-run inning that saw Mocksville chase starter Daniel Overby and begin working on the second of five unsuccessful pitchers.

A two-run single by Ireland and a towering two-run homer by Keene, his third of the year, were the big blows for Mocksville, which sent 15 men to the plate, batted out eight hits and upped the lead to 13-6.

In the sixth, 12 more stepped to the plate as Mocksville exploded for eight runs, prompting China Grove coach Eric Faw to throw in the towel after six and a half innings.

Miller, who relieved starter Allan Purdue after three sluggish innings to pick up his second win, retired China Grove in order to end the marathon.

Camp director Karen Ferrell watches as rising fifth and sixth grade participants explore and play in the creek.

Kids Enjoy Great Outdoors At Enviro-Camp

Thirty Davie fifth graders were busy last week, stomping up and down a creek, watching municipal sludge being sprayed onto a field, and playing with worms.

They took part in the first Enviro-Camp sponsored by the N.C. Cooperative Extension Service.

Based at the Vulcan Materials wildlife education site, the camp included games, crafts, side trips and demonstrations.

"We get to go to the creek, look for plants and animal tracks and all sorts of stuff," said Josh Bright, a Pinebrook Elementary student. "I've learned about leaves. I can recognize some of them... poison ivy, maple, spruce."

On the trail to the creek, Alyse Bowden, Lane Cambron and Kelli York were sidetracked by a frog, picking it up and inspecting it from top to bottom.

Lyndsey Reece enjoyed making baskets in a class taught by Ola Pilcher. "The other best part is going to the creek."

She also talked about visiting Vulcan's quarry. "We went 120 feet down into the pit. We also went on a walk and asked... about the three different types of rock," Lyndsey said. "We learned about worms. They're good. You give them scraps of food, and they turn it into compost."

"And I've met new friends, too," Lyndsey said.

the camp used more than 40 volunteers. Several conservation-oriented businesses also contributed.

"It has been camp, so it has been fun," she said.

The camp includes rising fifth and sixth graders. All elementary schools in the county were represented. They made solar waters, and cooked a "hobo meal" over a fire. They visited an organic farm, and ate organic potato chips.

Jones Attends Teaching Seminar

CULLOWIEE—Gary L. Jones of Winston-Salem, a grades K-5 behavior specialist for Davie County Schools, recently attended a seminar at the North Carolina Center for the Advancement of Teaching.

Jones was one of 21 North Carolina teachers participating in "Trains and Railroad Folklore." May 26-30, conducted by center fellow Henry Wong, NCCAT, a unit of the University of North Carolina, provides a year-round series of interdisciplinary seminars and other programs dedicated to advancing the art and profession of teaching. Mary J. Uley is director.

Yadkin Valley News

By Ruby McBride

Yadkin Valley Correspondent

Remember the King reunion on June 22 at the home of Bill and Joyce Myers on Hwy. 801 N. Bring a picnic lunch and come out and join us for a good time of food and fellowship together.

We wish all fathers a Happy Father's Day and many more to be.

Sally Riddle is a patient at Autumn Care in Mocksville, she and all others need your prayers.

Peggy Riddle, Hazel Riddle and Ruby McBride went Sunday evening to Reavis Funeral Home in Harmony to see the family of Inez Smith Renegar, who passed away June 7. Remember them in prayer.

Erica, Whitney, and Brandon Ashley spent last weekend with Eric Riddle, and Hazel and went to Biscuitville on Sunday for lunch.

Hazel Riddle enjoyed supper with Robin Howard family on Thursday evening in her new home on Baltimore Road. The bad cloud came while she was there with lots of rain.

April Craddock, graduate of Gospel Light Christian School, and Kevin Parker, graduate of Davie County High School, were honorees at a dinner sponsored by the Youth Group of the church on Saturday, June 7 at the home of Gray and Tracy Slater. April is the daughter of Pastor and Mrs. Ronnie Craddock and Kevin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Parker.

The guests were seated around the table with a floral arrangement of white and yellow daisies and candlelight.

The meal consisted of teriyaki chicken, long grain rice, green beans and corn, and sweet potatoes. A cake decorated especially for the graduates was served for dessert.

Gray Slater gave the devotional for the evening. He spoke to April and Kevin about the importance of letting the Lord have first place in their lives and encouraged them to seek God's will in every situation. Larry Parker gave the closing prayer.

Will and Tina Pryor, co-leaders of the youth group, assisted with the festivities. Servers were Stephanie Craddock, Aaron Dull, Jill Carter and Amanda Smith.

The Ladies Fellowship group met on Tuesday, June 10. There were 20 people present. Guest speaker for the evening was Andrea Cornater. Mrs. Cornater spoke on how she had helped in the Mission Trip to New York.

The toys began their travels in Mocksville and after several stops along the way, arrived in New York. Mrs. Cornater said that 39 lives had been changed through this mission trip and she knew of two people who had accepted Christ as their Savior.

Refreshments were served by Maxine Bailey and Evelyn Welborn. The next meeting of the Ladies Fellowship will be on July 8 in the church fellowship hall.

The youth spent the day at Carowinds on Tuesday, June 10. A total of 23 youth and adults enjoyed all the rides at the amusement park.

Larry and Ernestine Parker visited Ryan, Jamie and Madison Parker on Wednesday, June 4 in Salisbury where they recently moved.

Barbara Smith came home from the hospital on Saturday, June 7. Remember her with a card and your prayers.

The church's spring golf tournament was held on Saturday, June 14 at Twin Cedars Golf Club in Mocksville. There were 36 players out to enjoy the day. The first place team coming in a 13 under was Will Pryor, Tina Pryor, Andrew Pryor and Jimmy Myers. Their name was engraved on the plaque that hangs in the church. Several people received trophies: Joe King received trophies for closest to the pin, Wayne Hamilton received the Men's Longest Drive trophy, and Cindy Hotel received the Women's Longest Drive trophy. A drawing was held afterward for several door prizes. Rodney Miller and Jimmy Myers both received a box of golf balls. Johnny Oliver, Tina Pryor received new putters. Everyone had a great time.

The senior citizens enjoyed fishing and supper at Roy and Gail Wright's house on Saturday, June 14. About 35 people came out to enjoy the fun and fellowship.

Davie Residents Raise $1,500 For Children's Hospital

Nineteen young people raised approximately $1,500 for St. Jude Children's Hospital at a bike-a-thon in northwestern Davie last week.

Carla Mast hosted the event at her home on Ben Anderson Road, and was pleased with the number of children participating.

"They called and asked me to do this," she said. "We have enough little kids in the family and in the neighborhood, and with this good of a turnout, we might do it again."

Area businesses donated prizes, such as Mandy Lambe and Candace Dyson doing much of the soliciting for donations.

St. Jude provides transportation and lodging for children and their families. These children are afflicted with the most devastating childhood diseases such as leukemia, sickle cell anemia and cancer. It is also a research hospital.

For more information, write to St. Jude, P.O. Box 3704, Memphis, TN 38103.

Kendall Lanier is happy to find out he won a boom box for being top money raiser at the event.

Young Justin Hall enjoys a breather from his stroller ride along the bike-a-thon course.

North Davie Establishes Beta Club

A local chapter of the National Junior Beta Club, a leadership-service organization for junior high school students of America, was established on May 28 at North Davie Middle School, according to Larry Bridgewater, principal.

The National Beta Club with over 6,500 local chapters in the Junior and Senior Divisions and approximately 375,000 members, is in its 63rd year. The Junior Beta Club Division, established in 1961, is in over 3,800 chapters in 39 states, Washington, D.C., Bahamas, Virgin Islands, Guam, and Puerto Rico.

Objectives of this non-secret, leadership-service organization are: to encourage effort, to promote character, to stimulate achievement among its members, and to encourage students to continue their education after high school graduation.

Lee Bailey, Chris Ebert, and Cindy Urbanski, teachers of AG media specialist and communications was appointed as faculty sponsor for the local chapter.

Permanent officers for this year are: Emma Jakob, president; Adam Sain, vice president; Andrew Scott, treasurer; and Andrea Whitley, secretary.

Davie Youth Participate In Junior Beef Round-Up, Score Well In Contests

When the 1997 Jr. Beef Round-Up came to a close, Davie County participants were all smiles.

Davie youth participated in the heifer shows, poster contest and stockman bowl contest with success. The round-up is an annual event that brings youth, from all over the state, together for fellowship, education and friendly competition. The event was held May 17-18 at the Dixie Classic Fairgrounds, in Winston-Salem.

The event started Saturday morning with the Stockman Bowl Contest. This is a combination of judging skills, identification skills (cuts of meat, cattle breeds, feedstuffs and cattle equipment) and overall beef knowledge (includes a written test). The Davie County Junior Team placed fourth with Elizabeth Yokley placing third in the individual competition. The Junior team consisted of Elizabeth Yokley, Zack Yokley, Heather Hoover, and Holly Ledford.

The Senior team (Amanda Smith, Holden Ledford, Hillary Ledford and Erica Andrade) scored well in this highly competitive division. In the adult division, Judy Wilson placed second, Lynn Yokley placed third and Lisa Hoover captured fourth. There was a record number of participants for this event.

DHS Seniors Complete Survey

Eighty-five percent of Davie High's recent graduating class plan to continue their education beyond high school, according to a survey of graduate intentions recently conducted.

Of those 39 percent plan to attend a four year college with another 39 percent attending community or technical school.

Three percent plan to enlist in the military with one percent enrolling in junior college and three percent plan-

The inaugural poster contest was held Saturday afternoon. Posters had to be a certain size, format and have beef as a theme. When the judges made their final decisions, Erin Rucker placed first in the 5-8 year old category.

The Angus heifer show began Sunday's events. Holly Ledford began the show by winning her class and Champion Senior Heifer Calf, with her September Bon View EXT daughter, Holden, Hillary, Bruce and Hope Ledford also exhibited cattle in the Angus show. This year's highly competitive Angus show had the most entries of all the breed shows at the round-up.

During the Polled Hereford show, Holly Ledford waited patiently while the other exhibitors were evaluated. Finally Molly and sister Hillary got their chance and made the most of it. Exhibiting in the Cow/Calf pair class, judge Melvin Porter, from Jefferson, Ga., selected the Ledford entry as Champion Cow/Calf.

Look for these youth to be participating in other cattle shows, judging contests and livestock events in the future. "The hard work these youth put into their projects is paying off. Congratulations to all the local participants," said Phil Rucker Jr.

School Briefs

Board Looks At Budget Proposal

Superintendent Dr. Bill Steed told board of education members that County Manager Ken Windley has proposed an 8 percent increase for the Davie Schools in the county budget. The school board requested a 13.8 percent increase. The school board will either have to work with county commissioners to increase that amount or make cuts in its budget.

County commissioners will hold a public hearing on the budget at 7 p.m. June 16, Steed said.

Special Meeting Planned For June 30

The board will hold a special meeting at the Davie County Schools Central Office at 8 a.m. June 30, to make final amendments in the 1996-97 budget, vote on personnel matters and reorganize the board.

Steed said with all the business to be addressed at that meeting there may be no need for the regular July board meeting. The board also had a special called meeting set for June 9, for its annual evaluation of the superintendent.

System To Receive Milk Money Refund

An investigation several years ago found a number of companies were rigging milk bids. Those companies are being required to give refunds to schools systems. The Davie Schools will receive $22,103 as a result, Steed told the board.

Bids For Banking Services Received

The school system received bids for banking services from CCB and BB&T, according to Finance Officer Tammy Naylor. The bid is for a five-year period beginning Sept. 1, she said. Naylor will review the bids and make a recommendation to the board later this summer. She invited board members to review them as well.

Cornatzer In State Bus Competition

Jean Cornatzer represented the Davie County Schools in the N.C. Department of Transportation's annual bus driver competition. This was Davie County's first year of participation, according to Director of Auxiliary Services W.G. Potts.

Board Amends Public School Budget

The board voted to approve an increase in the state public school fund of $3,069, to record substitute funds, interest on technology and an at-risk allotment increase.

Dominick Authorized To Apply For Funds

The board voted unanimously to authorize Director of Student Services and Title I Administrator Dr. Nancy Dominick to file the ESEA Title I application for funding in the 1997-98 school year.

Overnight Field Trips Approved

The board approved requests for overnight field trips for the Davie High journalism class to attend the Summer Institute for Student Scholastic Journalism June 17-20, at UNC-Chapel Hill and for Davie High FBLA members to attend the FBLA National Leadership Conference June 29-July 4.

Historic Davie Recognizes Contributions At Ceremony

By Mike Barnhardt
Davie County Enterprise Record

The combined efforts of Downtown Mocksville and Historic Davie are already taking shape. Last week, the new group held its first awards ceremony, and just a few days later, Davie County commissioners established a committee to study establishing a historic properties commission for the county.

"We're going to expand. Great things are in the future," chairman John Bridges said at the awards reception at Old Mocks Field Bed & Breakfast on Jericho Church Road. In addition to the commission, other changes are already taking place. Downtown buildings are occupied. Old awnings are coming down, being replaced by new ones. Bridges mentioned the growth quickly spreading to Davie County from more urban areas.

"If we don't preserve it now, it's not going to be here 20 years down the road. If we don't work to save it, we're going to lose it, and there's no way to get it back," he said. "We need to take the steps to preserve our heritage, and Davie County has a lot of heritage."

Guest speaker at the awards ceremony was Rodney Swink, Main Street coordinator for the state. Mocksville has been a Main Street community since 1991.

Swink said there is a growing interest in small towns such as Mocksville. He praised those involved with merging the downtown revitalization with preservation efforts county-wide. "That's very important," he said. "In the midst of change, recognizing our history is very significant."

Swink talked about increased tax credits for renovation of historic property - for residential and business uses. "The future is what we make it... through our neglect... or through our actions. We can get the future we want, the future we deserve," he said. "Your future will center on place, people and heritage."

Keys to making it happen, Swink said, are organization, and action. He praised the efforts of Historic Davie and coordinator Polly Gales. "You are fortunate to have that level of commitment," he said.

He urged the group to partner with businesses, government and individuals to increase understanding of the value of preserving history, and to make plans become reality.

Andy Beauchamp, new chairman of Historic Davie, said he is looking forward to spreading the successes of Downtown Mocksville county-wide. According to Gales, Beauchamp was instrumental in that success. Members of the group selected him as outstanding volunteer.

Others recognized included: Barbara Short, Plantation Antiques, Carolina Computer Supply, the Davie County Enterprise Record, Cora Ellen Stroud and Paula Cromer.

"It takes a lot of support from the community," Gales said.

Julia Howard Appointed To Joint Conference Committee

Rep. Julia Howard (R-Davie) has been appointed to the Joint Conference Committee created to resolve the differences between the House and Senate budgets.

As one of a select group of House members appointed to the conference committee, Howard will play an important role in determining the state's two year budget.

The N.C. House and Senate have both approved their own versions of the state budget. The House budget includes welfare reform legislation and focuses on providing tax relief to North Carolina's working families. Both the House and the Senate provide important new spending for education.

The major differences in the two budgets must now be worked out by the members of the conference committee.

Sparks Attends United Nations Environmental Conference

NEW YORK — Lillian Jervy Sparks of Mocksville recently attended the third annual United Nations Environmental Programme at Columbia University.

The round table meeting dealt with finance and the environment. Mrs. Sparks is owner of Environmental Financial Solutions and formerly worked as environmental risk manager for Wachovia Bank.

She also serves on the environmental loan fund advisory committee for the Environmental Support Center in Washington, D.C.

Methodist Shuffle: Active Pastor Gets Another Call

Sunday was moving day for the United Methodist Church. Pastors preached their last sermons before moving on to their new church assignments.

Methodists generally don't let pastors stay in one place too long.

They shuffle the deck.

The Rev. Dan Martin of Bethlehem United Methodist Church was among the pastors giving their farewells on Sunday.

He's one of those pastors you hate to lose. He has an unusual sense of humor. He laughs at himself a lot. He delivers a pretty good sermon.

The guy was involved in everything.

He did the preaching, the visiting, the funerals and the weddings. But he did lots of other things to make the community a little better.

He was involved in community efforts to feed the hungry and give them clothes. He revived a Boy Scout program at the church. He helped start a pre-school at the church. He led the church basketball team until he broke his arm on the court.

He heard about poor reading and math scores at the middle school nearby. He thought the church ought to do something about it. The members started tutoring the children after school ... at the church.

The scores went up dramatically. The county commissioners didn't have to raise taxes. There were no school committees, no appointments, none of the usual school confusion about fixing problems.

The Methodists just did it.

There's probably nothing in the Bible that tells the church to get involved in public education, but it does say something about doing good.

Martin did a lot of good while he was here.

He is an unusual guy.

The church staged a farewell banquet in his honor after the service. Methodist kids made a banner Sunday as a tribute to his final sermon.

They could have said something about how much they would miss him. How much they loved him. How much they thought of him.

Their banner, instead, spoke to another issue.

It read: "Make it fast. We're hungry."

Dan Martin liked that a lot.

But he still ran overtime.

"He could relate to any person, any age," said Kay Fisher, the church's administrative assistant. "We knew a lot of tears would fall."

He has been assigned to another church in the Newton area. He had served Bethlehem five years.

On Tuesday, he loaded his family up and moved away. The Martins were gone by noon.

Mrs. Fisher said at 12:30 they began unloading the new pastor and moving him into the parsonage.

The new pastor is the Rev. Mark Weekley, 30, moving here from Asheville.

County Should Improve 'E911' System

To the editor:

After watching WXII Channel 12 News concerning the firing of Davie County dispatcher Mike Thompson, I commend Mike 100 percent on the actions he took. This action should wake up our county management to the concerns that are overlooked in our county.

The news said that Mike was warned several times about assisting 911 callers over and above county policies and procedures. Davie County management and county commissioners, it is time our county gets into the 20th century. Davie County residents are the ones who are paying for the 'E911' Communications System that is not being used to its full potential. The people of Davie County deserve to have the best 911 system and trained personnel in this field.

The news report said that it would cost approximately $1000 per dispatcher to be trained to a level that can assist a 911 caller instead of just advising the caller 'help is on the way'. This higher level of training for our communication dispatchers will in no way be taking away from any emergency agency being dispatched to an emergency scene, but would be assisting the caller until help arrives. It is not the best feeling being helpless when someone in need is begging for your help. We should be ashamed of ourselves to put the value of a dollar over the life of a loved one.

The majority of Davie County residents do not and did not know that when you call '911', our county dispatchers can't, because of county policy or other reasons, advise a caller of any type of emergency aid until an emergency agency arrives on the scene. This county is growing at an enormous rate with commercial, business, and residential development that is approved by our county management and our county commissioners. It is time for them to open their eyes and do something about this problem.

If you or a loved one have an emergency and dialed '911' would you be happy with the information given to you set forth by the current county policy?

First Responders Appreciated

To the editor:

We would like to take this opportunity to thank the Coolcooke first responders, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Gibson and Joseph Ashburn, for a job well done.

On Saturday, June 21, there were two people involved in an accident at our home. The first responders were at our house within two minutes of our call to 911 and we were really impressed with the quick response.

We appreciate their dedication. It means a lot to know that we have good people in our town. This was proven once again when the Gibsons came by later to check on us.

We were also impressed by the response of the ambulance and once again, we would like to thank everyone involved.

Bridge Name Should Not Be Changed

To the editor:

After reading the June 12 edition of the Davie County Enterprise, it came to my attention that the county commissioners were planning to rename the bridge on Hunting Creek on US Hwy. 64 W. the Colonel Tom Ferebee Bridge.

Myself and others strongly disagree with this decision. I agree that Colonel Ferebee being a part of the group that was on the Enola Gay when the atomic bomb was dropped that ended World War II was a major turning point in our country's history. But as far as I know, he has made no major contributions to our community. In fact, he lived more than two miles away from the bridge that is to be named for him. He left Davie County at the beginning of World War II and never came back to live.

Whereas, my family has lived less than 100 feet from the bridge for several generations. My mother and father ran a small business there for over 40 years. My father and several generations of his family (the Whitaker family) were born and raised here. I also raised my family here and have one child who plans to live here for the rest of her life. Taking all of this into consideration, I feel that the historical landmark sign at the Ferebee homeplace is enough recognition for Colonel Ferebee and the name of the Hunting Creek Bridge should remain the same.

It's The Signs

To the editor:

All our commissioners have promised they won't let Hillsdale look like Clemmons. Yet they are starting to change the sign ordinance to suit businesses that think it's too restrictive. Clemmons is still giving variances, are we just starting?

Why does Clemmons look like Clemmons? It's the signs stupid. It's the signs.

Thelma And Louise Of Age, Spending Their Days Outdoors

It was one of the hardest things I've ever done.

After months of postponing the promise I had made my aunt and boyfriend, I had finally run out of excuses.

The time had come for my babies to move out and into their own house.

Even though they were just moving to the backyard, it was a tremendous step for us. But I knew it was for the best. I had to think of the future.

My aunt seems to believe that my devotion to those darling cocker spaniels has cost me more than one offer of matrimony. Since I can think of plenty of things men find a lot more frightening than a couple of dogs, I don't put much stock in that theory.

The future concerning me had a more to do with moving to a house where dogs are not welcome inside and my dreams of them someday roaming over the farm where I grew up.

If the move was to be made, the vet said spring was the time to do it.

In March, they began spending their days outside. Every day they'd run from their house to meet when I'd come home. I was amazed to see them spending so much time in the dog house that had once been nothing more than a hiding place at bath time. But I couldn't bring myself to make them spend the night out there.

Whining and scratching at the door, they'd stare up at the kitchen window with looks that said a thousand words. One more night wouldn't make that much difference, I'd tell myself.

Then one day I knew the time had come. It was now or never. I had to be strong.

It was May when Thelma and Louise spent the night outside for the first time in their lives, while I laid in bed tossing and turning — and praying that they were alright.

The next morning, I rushed to check on them. They ran to the fence to meet me. They were fine. They didn't even seem angry — just happy to see me.

At four years old, my babies had at last become women. And I believe we are all three happier this way.

I am happier because I no longer have to mop up muddy paw prints or cross a fence to get to the carpeted areas of the house. I can throw cotton balls and tissues in the trash can without worrying about Thelma and Louise digging them out for a snack.

I never come home to find an entire roll of toilet paper scattered all over the house or finding the sock I'd been searching for has been converted to a chew toy.

I can go on vacation without worrying that Thelma is under the table and Louise under the rocking chair hiding from the friend I was able to con into dog sitting and refusing to go outside.

I no longer worry about waking in the middle of the night because the kitchen trash can was just overturned. There's no layer of dog hair coating the furniture, and no one has accidents in my floor anymore because they are so excited to see me when I come home. The move has more than cut my house cleaning time in half.

They seem more content. They play more and bark less. They used to hide when they saw me coming with a leash. Now they run to me ready to go for a walk.

The increased exercise has helped Thelma lose a few pounds, which she needed to do. And they are both happy that baths have become a rare event.

But the thing that makes me happiest is that I believe our master-pet relationship has grown stronger.

When they lived inside, I was guilty of taking them for granted. No longer able to pet them as I walk by, I have to make an effort at quality time.

I sit with them under the shade tree on Saturday afternoons and take them for walks after dinner as often as I can. I've even taken them to park and to visit my friends at work.

If my boyfriend had known he was going to have to go walking dogs instead of assuming his favorite position on the couch with the remote control, I wonder if he would have been so anxious to see them banished.

He should have known it all along. No matter where they are, they're still babies to me.

Motorcycle Groups Make Donation To Storehouse

Motorcycles roared through Mocksville Saturday morning as three groups brought donations to the Storehouse for Jesus on Depot Street.

Members of the Concerned Bikers Association, the Christian Motorcyclists Association and Good Times Inc. donated $328 to the local charity.

It is the second year motorcyclists have donated to the Storehouse, as well as making a "ride" to see the facility. Many members of the groups are from Davie County, and would rather see the money go to a local charity, than have a fund-raising drive to another area, according to Good Times member Lonnie Thompson.

Bill Morrison of Wilkesboro Street, Mocksville, is a ministry team member of the Christian Motorcyclists Association.

Thompson said there is no leader of Good Times. It is a drug-free group with invited members.

Dispatcher Fired For Offering Medical Advice To Caller

biggest miscarriage of justice I have ever seen. If he was an employee of mine, I would have given him an accommodation for the way he handled himself."

County Manager Ken Windley disagreed.

He said the county hasn't trained its dispatchers to give emergency medical advice over the telephone. Tompkins said he received it elsewhere. In addition, according to Windley, it isn't in the county's insurance policy to offer such advice.

Davie's policy, Windley said, is for the dispatcher to give the telephone number of the caller to a responding EMT, who will call and offer medical advice when appropriate.

"Why duplicate when you have somebody on route who can give you the advice? This guy knew what the policy was. He was repeatedly told not to continue doing that (during the call with Edwards) and he told them he would do it again regardless," Windley said.

Tompkins said Davie is the only county in the area that doesn't offer emergency medical dispatch services. Windley said 70 percent of the counties in the state operate as does Davie. Tompkins doesn't want his job back. He doesn't want to cause trouble. "I just want the people of Davie County to know what's available that they're not receiving," he said.

The program teaches dispatchers how to read from cards to help people through medical emergencies, he said.

Training of dispatchers could cost up to $1,000 each. Windley said the county could face salary increase of up to $7,000 because the dispatchers would be EMTs.

If it could save a life, the cost is nothing, Tompkins said.

Edwards is willing to sign a waiver that he won't sue the county, if they give Tompkins his job back.

"They said he violated policy, and I said, your damn policy is wrong. A 911 dispatcher has a very stressful job. His job is to try to direct the ambulance in the right direction, keep the person on the telephone and keep people as calm as they can," Edwards said.

"How do you measure money against someone's life? I would like to see the county re-hire the man," Edwards said. "He's an asset, not a liability. I will be glad to sit down with any county commissioner and tell them how wrong it is. If they give it some thought, they will see it's wrong. Them firing him was a catastrophe."

Windley said the county routinely looks at such policies. "We could always take a look and evaluate it," he said.

Emergency Dispatch System Working Well In Rowan County

SALISBURY - The Emergency Medical Dispatch system works.

Frank Thomason, director of Rowan County communications, said in the year and a half Rowan has had the Medical Priority EMD system that six or seven lives have been saved. "I know without a shadow of a doubt those people wouldn't be here today," he said.

It costs approximately $250 to train a telecommunicator. The 24-hour training classes are held in the Piedmont region. Tele-communicators must be re-certified every two years.

If a communications center is adequately staffed, it would not require additional personnel. It also doesn't require additional insurance. The Medical Priority company will help a county if there is a legal problem with a telecommunicator who properly follows the program.

He estimated it would take a year or more to start a program, a collaborative effort between EMS, the medical director, local hospital and the communications center. That group would decide appropriate responses to the different situations.

When someone calls 911 with a medical emergency, the telecommunication follows a script to obtain vital information. And the information he or she obtains is used to dispatch the appropriate personnel. They may hang up after getting information, keep the caller on the line to keep EMS personnel notified, or lead the person through CPR, Thomason said.

"It's not guess work," he said. "You don't deviate from the protocol. Within 30 seconds to a minute, you can get to the response determine."

Filing Period To Begin

The filing period for elected officials to serve the Bermuda Center Sanitary District, and the towns of Cooleemee and Mocksville opens at noon Friday, July 4 and closes at noon Friday, Aug. 1.

The Board of Elections office will be closed Friday, July 4, but will be open at 8:30 a.m. Monday, July 7 to accept these filings. All seats are non-partisan, and the filing fee for each is $5.

Two four-year seats to serve as director for the Bermuda Center Sanitary District will be open. These seats are held by William "Bill" Burnette and Don House.

The mayor's seat and two commissioner seats will be open in the Town of Cooleemee. The terms for each are four years. The mayor is Jackie Morton, and the two commissioner seats are held by Jack Jerome and Lynn Rumley.

The mayor's seat, and that of three commissioners will be open for the Town of Mocksville. The mayor is D.J. "Nick" Mando, and the three commissioners seats are held by Francis W. Slate, Steve Walker, and James W. "Jim" Wall. The term for mayor is for two years, and the commissioner's terms are for four years.

Inquiries may be directed to the Davie County Board of Elections at 634-2027 during office hours.

Van Hoy Named To Board

ASHEVILLE—Attorney Henry P. Van Hoy II of Mocksville has been named to the Board of Governors of the North Carolina Bar Association, the largest voluntary legal organization in the state.

Van Hoy, 47, was elected to the position during the association's annual meeting here at Grove Park Inn Saturday, June 21. His term will expire in June 2000.

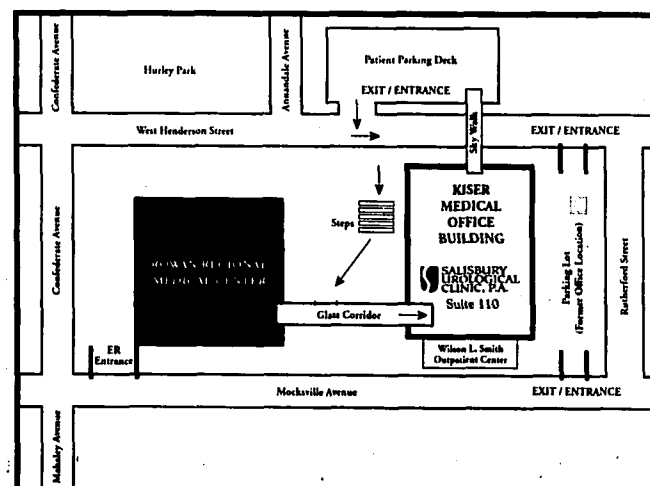

He is a partner in the firms Martin, Van Hoy, Smith & Raisbeck. Van Hoy received his undergraduate and law degrees from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. His primary areas of practice are estate planning, civil litigation, municipal law and business law.

Van Hoy, who grew up in Union Grove, has been active in professional and civic activities. He has served on several committees of the N.C. State Bar, the N.C. Bar Association and is a past director of the North Carolina Municipal Attorneys Association. An elder at the First Presbyterian Church of Mocksville, Van Hoy has been an active volunteer with the local Rotary Club, YMCA and Boy Scouts among others.

He and his wife, Polly, have three children—Bradley Todd, 22, Christopher Scott, 20, and Matthew Alexander, 7.

The North Carolina Bar Association, founded in 1899, provides services to lawyers and the general public and is the state's largest voluntary legal organization with nearly 15,000 members.

Summer Programs Offered

Davie County 4-H still has openings in two summer programs.

Work Smart will be offered July 30, 31 and Aug. 1 for youth 6 grade and up. It will meet from 9 a.m.-noon at the County Office Building Auditorium. The three mornings will be spent exploring career possibilities and how to get started looking for and being successful with a part time job. The majority of time will be spent touring the area talking with local businesses.

Cooking with the Pro will be held Aug. 11 and 12. It will also meet both mornings from 9 a.m.-noon at the County Office Building Auditorium for grades 6 and up. A professional chef from Winston-Salem will be there two mornings to share his talents. Participants should be familiar with the basics of cooking and be prepared to help create and eat elegant meals.

Toregister, stop by the Cooperative Extension Service, 180 S. Main Street, 210 County Office Building. Each activity has a $10 fee. If you have any questions about these programs, or the 4-H program in general, call 634-6297.

Cope-Mock Couple United In Marriage

Rebecca Nell Cope of Advance and David Mock of Winston-Salem were united in marriage at 2 p.m. Saturday, June 7, at Fork Baptist Church. The Rev. Roger Cope officiated.

The bride chose her sister, Tammy Cope, as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Karen Carter, Sandra Galliher, Crystal Witherspoon, and Katie Cruse. Junior bridesmaids were Shelley Phelps and Stephanie Winters.

The groom's brother, Bill Mock, was best man. Ushers were Kevin Cope, Tim Cope, Jason Winters, Sean Harper and Mark Maser. Jason Winters was acolyte.

Courtney Daniels was flower girl, and ring bearer was Shane Carter. After a reception at the church fellowship hall, the couple went on a wedding trip to the mountains. They will reside in Mocksville.

The bride is the daughter of Tommy and Sandra Cope of Williams Road, Advance. She is a graduate of Davie High School and earned a degree in sports medicine from Catawba College, where she was a member of Phi Epsilon and Tri-Beta. She is employed by Stewart Physical Therapy.

The bridegroom is the son of George and Jean Mock of Winston-Salem. He is a graduate of Reynolds High School and earned a degree in computer information systems from Catawba College, where he was a member of the

Couple Exchange Vows At Center Church

Julie Christine Milam and Christopher Alan Flippen were united in a service of Christian marriage on Saturday, May 31, 1 p.m. in Center United Methodist Church. The Rev. Gary Kling officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Harry and Perrie Milam of Mocksville. She is a graduate of Davie High School and is in the business administration program at Forsyth Technical Community College.

The bridegroom is the son of Russell and Rita Flippen of Winston-Salem. He is a graduate of Forsyth Technical Community College and is employed by Colfax Country Recreation Vehicles in Kernersville.

The marriage was blessed by her parents and the bride was escorted by her father. Jaime Howell, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Christy Beauchamp of Advance, a friend, was bridesmaid.

Russell Flippen was his son's best man. Craig Gambill, the groom's brother-in-law, and Kelly Howell, the bride's brother-in-law, were groomsmen.

Kyle Wooten was ring bearer, and Amanda Boyles was flower girl.

A program of music was presented by Jimmy Anderson, and Peggy Evans directed the wedding. Program attendant was Wendy Williams and register attendant was Paula Smith, all friends of the bride.

Honored guests were the great aunts of the bride: Thelma Motley Mauldin, Wilma Motley Davis of Mocksville and Rachel Anderson Johnson of Spartanburg, S.C. and Arrive Milam Craver of Winston-Salem.

A surprise party was hosted by the bride's sister on May 23 at Chili's Bar and Grill in Winston-Salem.

The rehearsal dinner was held at the Calabash homeplace of the late John and Alma Motley-Anderson.

Following the wedding ceremony, the reception, under the direction of Mrs. Betty Howell, was given. Those assisting with the reception were Betsy Ellis and Patricia Draughn, all friends of the bride.

After the reception the couple left on their wedding trip to Gatlinburg and Pigeon Forge, Tenn. They will be at home in Kernersville.

Habitat For Humanity Breaks Ground For Second Home In Davie

Marcella Dulin and Cindy Shay view plans for Davie County's second Habitat for Humanity home.

Threatening clouds and summer temperatures couldn't dampen the uplifting spirits of the 50 volunteers who attended the groundbreaking for Davie County's second Habitat for Humanity home.

As each shovel of dirt was removed on Sunday afternoon, June 1, neighbors, friends, town officials, Habitat board members, and the qualifying Habitat family gathered to share the excitement of helping each other.

Marcella Dulin, homeowner, and her children examined the plans for their new home, checked out the newly cleared lot (thanks to all who helped accomplish this), and met some of the volunteers who will be working to complete her new home. Five hundred hours of "sweat equity" is expected to be worked by the homeowner and her family.

After a night of thunderstorms and hard rains over much of the county, the volunteers arrived to find that the Habitat Home location had been spared the drops of wetness and the construction could begin on Saturday, June 21. Volunteers Forrest Whitaker, Ben Crofts, Clyde Hendricks, David Crofts, Darrell Crofts, Bob Beeding, Richard Crofts, and Jeff Barneycastle had prepared the site by clearing lots, digging, and pouring footings.

Working in 90+ degree weather, Donnie Stroud, Tony Wagner, Ed Wagner, Dewey Hunt, Brian Crofts, Nicky Cormier, Bruce Hancock, Edna Lyons, Neal Essie, Brent Boger, Stan Carter, Gary Steele, Bob Beeding, Melissa Crofts, Harold Wilson, Lee Rollins, and David Crofts were pleased at the end of the first official "Habitat Workday" to see the foundation complete.

Mrs. Henry Grant and Telesia Grant served lunch (many thanks to all who provided). "They had the best lemonade I've ever tasted," commented a volunteer. Big, cold drinks and sandwiches were served.

Now that construction has begun, work days will be each Saturday and some weekdays. If you wish to volunteer, contact David/Diane Crofts 998-8860. Lunch will be served on workdays-if you, your church, or your organization would like to provide/serve lunch, contact Diane Crofts 998-8860 or Telesia Grant at 998-8705.

Saturday, June 28 work plans are to begin framing. If you plan to volunteer, let Diane/David Crofts know so an approximate count can be made for meal planning. Volunteer with us. "This will be some of the most rewarding drops of sweat you'll ever lose. Come help us share God's love by helping our neighbors," Crofts said.

Laura Whitaker, Bob Beeding, Edna Lyons, Jonell Lewis, Sandra Jones, Dewey Hunt, David, and Amanda Hardin and David Crofts have refreshments at groundbreaking.

Spiritual Resources: Needs Met Through Jesus

By the Rev. Glenn Sellers

In response to the heavy burdens placed upon people by religious leaders Jesus extended the invitation found in Matthew 11:28-30 "Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take My yoke upon you and learn of me, for I am gentle and lowly in heart, and you will find rest for your souls. For My yoke is easy and My burden light." Burdens for which Jesus berated the Pharisees in Matthew 23. The Pharisees used religion in order to maintain their control over the people. Pastors of today are not to lord it over their members or burden them but to shepherd and lead by example as demonstrated by Jesus Himself. This invitation in fact invites people to come to Jesus and not to a philosophy, a set of rules or a new paradigm. Salvation is a personal relationship with The Living God, The Lord Jesus.

Jesus says of Himself "...I am gentle and lowly in heart." This indeed was proven by His interaction with the people He came into contact with. One example is the woman caught in adultery as recorded in the Gospel of John 8. Jesus did not give her a lecture on the sin of adultery or belittle her in any way. Rather He let her know that He did not condemn her and for her to go and sin no more. Could it be that condemnation was the motivation for her behavior and the last thing she needed was more. Another example of His gentle nature is seen in the way He dealt with Zaccheus. Rather than lecturing him on the evil of his ways Jesus invited Himself to eat with Zaccheus at Zaccheus' home at the vexation of the religious leaders.

Could it be that because of his size Zaccheus had experience more than enough ridicule and what he needed was Jesus offered acceptance. There is a popular song sung within the religious community which says "He looked beyond my faults and saw my needs." It is a fact that Jesus came to meet our needs the chief of which is released from the burden and guilt of sin in order that we might have life and have it more abundantly.

The gift of God is not only eternal life but abundant life as well. A life in which our needs are met. God created man with needs. In the garden all was perfect with only one exception man was alone, so God provided for man's needs through marriage and family. However marriages and families do not always function as they were designed to leaving many people with unmet needs. It is the will of God to meet these needs in our lives through Jesus Christ.

The invitation is "come unto me and take my yoke and learn of me." The world would paint us a picture of Christianity as being a life of bondage when in fact the opposite is true. As Jesus said the truth will set you free. Don't let preconceived notions, bad examples and false impressions keep you from the truth. God has said draw near to me and I will draw near to you.

Obituaries

Ellie Hollar Howell

Ellie Hollar Howell, 86, formerly of U.S. Hwy. 601 North, Mocksville, died Sunday morning, June 22, 1997, after a lengthy illness.

She was born in Yadkin County, Feb. 6, 1911, to the late J.C. and Cuzie Ann Wilcox Hollar and had been employed at Erwin Mills with over 20 years of service. She had been a life-long member of Huntsville Baptist Church and especially enjoyed gardening.

Her husband, Willie Sanford Howell, to whom she was married 64 years, died March 5, 1995. She was also preceded in death by a daughter, Maxine Hodgson, in 1994.

Survivors include a daughter, Coleen Dull of Mocksville; 4 sons, Harry Howell of Harmony, Gary Howell, Harley Howell and Kenneth Howell, all of Mocksville; 17 grandchildren; 33 great grandchildren; 2 sisters, Hattie Eddleman of East Bend and Eva Bonds of Kannapolis; and a son-in-law, Richard Hodgson of Spring Lake.

Funeral services were conducted at 11 a.m. June 24, at Eaton Funeral Chapel with the Revs. Tim Starbuck and Tammy Talbert officiating. Burial followed in Huntsville Baptist Church Cemetery in Yadkin County.

Memorials may be made to the Cemetery Fund of Huntsville Baptist Church, 4821 Courtney-Huntsville Road, Yadkinville, N.C. 27055 or to a charity of the donor's choice.

Dewey West

Dewey West, 87, of Liberty Road, Mocksville, died early Tuesday morning, June 24, 1997, at Rowan Regional Medical Center in Salisbury.

He was born in Fredell County, Aug. 27, 1909, to the late Robert and Polly Ann Chamberlain West and was a retired supervisor with Crescent Electric with over 30 years of service.

He was preceded in death by a daughter, Mary Catherine West, in 1943.

Surviving are his wife, Velma Taylor West of the home; 3 sons, James "Jim" West, Billy West and Bobby West, all of Mocksville; 5 grandsons; 2 great granddaughters; and 2 sisters, Mrs. Cody Trivette and Catherine "Cat" Frye, both of Mocksville.

A graveside service was to be held at 11 a.m. June 26, at Liberty United Methodist Church Cemetery.

Memorials may be made to the Cemetery Fund of Liberty United Methodist Church, Gladstone Road, Mocksville, N.C. 27028 or to Alzheimer's Research, 836 Oak Street, Winston-Salem, N.C. 27101.

Mary C. Mayberry

Mary C. Mayberry, 73, of Winston-Salem, died Thursday, June 19, 1997. She was the grandmother of Michael Mayberry of Advance.

Funeral services were held at 2 p.m. June 21, at Hayworth-Miller Silas Creek Chapel by the Revs. Bob Whitaker and Jack Nance. Burial followed in Oaklawn Memorial Gardens.

Viola Fulp Holder

Viola Fulp Holder, 88, of Comatzer Road, Advance, died early Saturday morning, June 21, 1997, at the home of her daughter, Nancy Zimmerman, after being in declining health for the past two years.

She was born in Forsyth County, April 14, 1909, to the late William McLean and Bessie Lee Disher Fulp and was a homemaker. She was an active member of Elbaville United Methodist Church and especially enjoyed flower gardening.

Her husband, Henry Clinton Holder, died July 18, 1980. She was also preceded in death by a grandson, Timothy Wayne Fisher, and by 2 sisters and a brother.

Survivors include 2 daughters, Nancy Zimmerman and Blanche Fishel, both of Advance; a son, John "Bill" Holder of Winston-Salem; 9 grandchildren; 7 great grandchildren; a brother, Henry Fulp of Walkertown; and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were held at 11 a.m. June 23, at Eaton Funeral Chapel by the Revs. Susan Hubbard and Dennis Marshall. Burial followed at Elbaville United Methodist Church Cemetery.

Memorials may be made to Elbaville United Methodist Church, 2595 N.C. Hwy. 801 South, Advance, N.C. 27006 or to a charity of the donor's choice.

Margaret J. Sprinkle

A memorial service for Margaret Jordan Sprinkle will be held at 3 p.m. June 28, at Rose Cemetery.

She was the widow of the late Dr. Henry Sprinkle and died Nov. 24, 1996, at Triad Methodist Home in Winston-Salem at 93 years of age.

Survivors include several nieces and nephews.

Memorials may be made for Mocksville First United Methodist Church, 305 N. Main Street, Mocksville, N.C. 27028 or to Duke University, Durham, N.C. 27700.

Summer Basketball Camps Sharpen Skills For Winter Action

New Boy's Coach Impressed With Attitude

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

At the end of a lonely parking lot and beside the vacant football stadium, the Davie basketball future sprouted in the summer sun last week, when Jim Young, Davie's new boys coach, held a five-day camp in the school gym.

Based on attitude and behavior, Young said the future is limitless for the War Eagles.

In almost a quarter of a century of coaching on the varsity ranks, Young said he has never discovered such a fine group of teens.

"I was very impressed," said Young, who held the camp from June 17-21, placing grades six through eight at the Brock Gym and the older level at Davie High.

"I've run camps constantly for the last 20-some years and I have to compliment those kids. They had the best attitude and behavior I think I've had."

"I've almost always had a camp where one or two kids have had to be sent home. Every ball player I dealt with was outstanding. Their attitude was great, they were willing to learn and they really adapted to the system that we're putting in, and by the end of the week, they were running it very, very well. I'm very excited about the whole thing."

Young and his five instructors welcomed 65 to the sweaty gym, extremely high interest that doubled Young's expectations.

"That's great," he said of the turnout. "In fact, an average for a new program when you start like this, especially at our level, we got started late, is normally around 30 to 35 and we doubled that."

Young plans to enhance the camp considerably in 1998. "I really feel sure that next year, if things go as positive as I hope they will, we would like to see that up around 100 to 120," he said. "And in addition next year, we want to start a program for third grade through the fifth."

While some skeptics argue that the talent pool is shallow, Young insisted that there are bullets in the War Eagle chamber — despite only five wins in the last two years.

"I think there's a nice pool of talent to draw from and get our program going."

Tenacious defense and an up-tempo offense were the main points of emphasis.

"Defense is an area all teams need to improve on, especially when you're down because games will be won on the defensive end," Young said. "The way we play, the defense will set up a lot of the offense, because we like to run and good defense will set that up. And I did see some improvement in our team defense."

"Our offensive system isn't complicated but it's something that has to be run correctly all the time, and I felt that they picked up the fast-break system very well and it seemed

Girls Go To Boone, But Not For Vacation

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

In the midst of summer vacation, 21 Davie High girls went to work last week, when 46 teams from four states took a hike to Boone for a basketball team camp.

"This was not a vacation, I'll assure you of that," Carol Cozart, Davie's new coach, said while laughing. "If you want a vacation, you need to go to the beach."

Teams from South Carolina, Georgia and Florida filtered to Appalachian State for the camp, which ran from June 16-19.

"From Monday evening through Wednesday evening, they had very little free time," said Cozart, whose girls were divided into two groups, NBA (varsity) and Division I (JV).

"The girls worked to improve their basketball skills through numerous drills, as well as competition in free throws, one-on-one and 13 league games."

"The coaches were pleased with their teams' efforts and performances. It was a physically demanding four days. Everyone was exhausted when they returned (June 19) but full of resolve to transfer these efforts into good seasons in '97-98."

Five Davie players were named to the all-star team: Melinda Richie and Leslie Holcomb, rising seniors from the varsity, and the junior varsity's Emily Morton, Heather Schleppner and Ashley Quinn.

Several Davie players achieved success individually. Morton soared to the finals of the free-throw competition, narrowly missing the title when the freshman missed three of 10 in the championship round. The winner nailed eight.

Schleppner triumphed over the entire camp in the elimination game, while Holcomb wound up in the top six.

In the one-on-one field, Tiffany Peoples of the varsity drained a sudden-death shot to prevail in the opening round before falling one point short in the second round.

Morton, who bounced teammate Heather Lanning in the first round of the JV's one-on-one, survived the first four rounds before slipping in the finals on a last-second shot. The back-breaker broke a 2-2 tie.

The varsity, after rolling through the regular season with just one loss, stumbled in the tournament's opening round and the JV teams met in the second round, with the team of Amber Hamm, Ember Spillman, Mary Beth Dinkins, Stacy Queen, Ashley Quinn, Jerri Ann Angell and Lanning prevailing. They romped all the way to the finals before going down.

"This was a challenging, fast-paced format," Cozart said. "They fell just short of winning it all with another buzzer-beater shot by their opponents."

The JV team coached by Mark Sinopoli, who is returning this fall to Davie following a short hiatus, posted the top

Mooresville Knocks Mocksville-Davie To Fifth Place In League

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

Mocksville-Davie takes 1st game

Mocksville-Davie won 7-5 in its first opening-round playoff game Monday against North Wilkesboro. Pitcher Jansen Keene got the win. The team had the chance to win the first-round Tuesday at home in the best-of-three series.

right at them, and they hit one hard ball all night, a two-run double," Daywalt said. "The rest of them were just bloop, bloop, bloop right over the infield."

Mooresville also played free of stress, knowing that it had been eliminated from the playoff hunt long ago.

"They were cutting up and having fun," Daywalt said. "They hustled. It's like that every year. The last game at Mooresville is always tough. They had nothing to lose and they came out real hard."

Mocksville came out of its shell in the fourth with two runs to cut Mooresville's lead to 6-2.

Nathan Ireland had an RBI single and Destry Swaim was batted home. Andy Ward's single shaved the margin to 6-3 in the fifth and Burchette drove in two with a single in the eighth, after Mooresville had struck for three in the top of the frame.

Mocksville trailed 11-3 before Burchette's crucial hit.

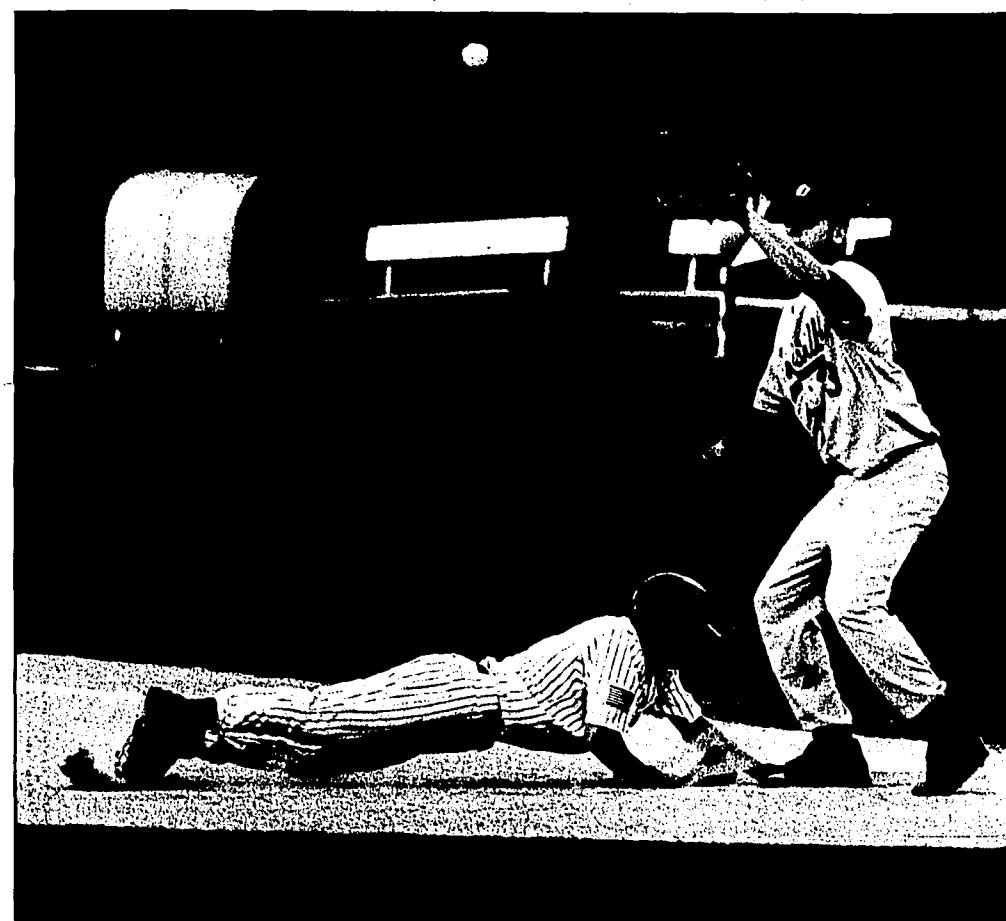

Every Mocksville starter got to swing in the ninth, when it rallied with four runs and seriously threatened to tie the game.

David Potts doubled to ignite the bulge and two walks later, Mooresville made a pitching change. Then Charles Miller had an RBI ground-out, Ward singled to make it 11-7 and Jansen Keene walked to fill the bases for Swaim, who singled to close the gap to 11-9.

Mocksville was out of hits by then.

Ward was 3 for 5 to lead the way and Swaim and Burchette each went 2 for 5. Joe Tomlin, the lower who was battered for five runs in 3 1/3, got the start on the mound and exited in favor of Allan Pardue, who was pounded for six runs over 4 2/3. Tomlin had been inactive for some time.

"I didn't want to use all my pitching because of the playoffs," Daywalt said.

Coach Likes Teams Chances In Opening Round

Despite being swept by North Wilkesboro in the regular season, 8-5 at home and 8-0 on the road, Mocksville-Davie coach George Daywalt likes his chances in the best-of-five first-round series.

The series, which rotates home sites after each game, started Monday at North.

"I think we're about equal with them," said Daywalt, whose club finished tied for fourth place with North with a 10-8 mark in the Southern Division but took the No. 5 seed because of the head-to-head results.

"Take (pitcher) Jason Howell, who is headed to Appalachian State on scholarship away and our pitchers can match up. It's hard to say in a three-out-of-five deal."

Daywalt simply told his boys to plow forward in the face of their nasty loss (11-9) to last-place Mooresville Sunday in the regular-season finale.

"I told them, 'Well, one season is over and now we've got a new one to start,'" he said. "We've got to go forward. I told them if they want to keep playing, then we've got to play harder."

Mocksville's pitching rotation for the playoffs was up in the air as late as Monday evening. Daywalt wasn't going to show his hand until he found out North's plans.

If Howell was the man for game one, then Daywalt confirmed that left-hander Destry Swaim would start, pushing Jansen Keene to game two.

"If it was Howell, then I was going to start Destry because Howell is going to be hard to beat," Daywalt said. "They hit the hard stuff and Destry throws a lot of offspeed stuff, so maybe that will get them. I think it would be foolish to throw Keene against them (in game one)."

Phillip Rogers (2-2, 3.00 ERA), who had orientation at UNC-Wilmington on June 25-26, will not be available until Friday, which would be for all the marbles if the series goes the distance.

Swaim had a torrid weekend at the plate, going 7 for 15 in a three-day span and raising his batting average from .273 to .351.

After only tallying five runs, three RBIs and three doubles in the first 20 games, Swaim collected five runs, six RBIs and two doubles over the weekend.

Swaim did, however, miss a good portion of the season with an arm injury.

Salisbury's infield played like artificial turf when Mocksville visited Newman Park on June 18.

Salisbury bounced Mocksville 7-3.

"The field was extremely hard," Daywalt said. "There were ground balls that went over our infielders' heads. It was pretty tough, not being used to it."

"They had it so hard that balls hit in front of the plate went over our heads on one hop — and that's hard."

Several of Mocksville's wide-eyed rookies were mysterious looks when they shuffled through the gates of Newman Park, the home of the Southern Division's perennial power.

"The young boys might have been a little in awe of playing there in front of that crowd," Daywalt said. "It was a pretty good crowd."

"They're not as strong as they have been but they're well-balanced, got a good defensive club and several good pitchers, so they're going to be a tough team to beat."

She 'Wouldn't Quit For The World': Bus Driver Honored For Service

By Jeanne Houpe
Davie County Enterprise Record

A student at Davie High School, she had just gotten her driver's license when principal D.J. "Nick" Mando asked her to drive a bus for the school. Years later she drove a bus for Pinebrook Elementary School but decided to take some time off to be with her children after they lost their father and brother in a drowning accident until Julius Suiter, who was then principal at South Davie Middle School, contacted her about driving a bus for him.

That was about seven years ago, Odessa Ijames had been driving a bus for South Davie and Davie High ever since.

Recently named Davie County's bus driver of the year, Ijames said she loves driving a bus and working with children at South Davie as a teacher's assistant.

She began working as a teacher's assistant when Suiter asked her to help with a troubled student. She helped in several other classes, including the resource class.

Ijames now rotates every period, working with six classes per day in social studies and science, helping those who need assistance with reading and understanding. She helps them study for tests and tries to make it fun, she said. She also serves as advisor to a small group of students.

"I never thought that this would be what I would do," she said. "But I love it. I love working with kids. I wouldn't do anything else."

She hopes to go back to school to earn teacher certification but hasn't decided in what to be certified.

She has completed several Spanish classes and is presently enrolled in a class at Forsyth Technical Community College.

Ijames said she took the language in high school and college but just fooled around with it. This time she's determined to be fluent.

During the last school year, South Davie had one Hispanic student, who spoke no English. Some who are able to speak English still may have trouble understanding.

For those students, it might make a big difference for someone to be able to provide an explanation in Spanish, she said.

Ijames has already been studying a Spanish version of the teacher's edition of the science book she will be using next year. She spends a lot of her spare time listening to Spanish tapes and reading Spanish books, she said.

"I hate there are people here with no one to talk to them," she said. "I am determined I will speak this language."

Even if she gets her teaching certificate, Ijames is not sure she will become a regular classroom teacher.

She said she is able to work with more students as an assistant, and the guidelines she must follow are often not as strict.

"I don't want to give that up," she said. "I love education, and I love teaching. I love working with the kids and don't want to be confined."

Even if she becomes a certified teacher, she has no intention of giving up her bus route. It makes for a long day, but she was a bus driver before she became a teacher assistant.

"That's my first love," Ijames said. It shows in her work. In three years, she has missed less than five days of work and has been recognized by assistant principal Patsy Crenshaw as South Davie's most punctual bus driver, according to Davie County Schools Director of Auxiliary Services W.G. Potts.

Ijames' ability to work well with students and her good driving record were also emphasized in the selection committee's decision, Potts said.

"She genuinely cares for her students," Crenshaw said. "She has been willing to drive any route in any bus. She is easy to work with in all aspects of the job," she said. Ijames averages less than five discipline notices per year, according to Crenshaw.

When she takes a discipline matter to the assistant principal, Ijames said Crenshaw knows she has tried every possible avenue to resolve the matter.

Many bus drivers make a lot of rules but not Ijames. Too many rules is too much to understand, she said.

"My only rule is you do what I ask when I ask it," she said.

Her key to success is treating the children on the bus like her own children. It's a situation of mutual respect, she explained.

They're good kids, and she calls the whole board her "babies," she said. Ijames not only touches the lives of those on her bus, but all the students at South Davie know her and respect her, Board of Education member Marlene Shamel said.

"I wouldn't trade it for the world," Ijames said.

"I've told my children, if I won the lottery, I wouldn't quit. Even if I did it on a voluntary basis, I wouldn't give up my children. They're all my babies," she said.

Ijames was this year's recipient of the Tracy Culhoun Memorial Award, which is sponsored by the N.C. Petroleum Marketers Association.

The award was created in memory of Tracy Culhoun, a 17-year-old high school student killed in a school bus accident in 1990 while on her way to an after school job at Rogers Oil Company in Raleigh, according to Potts.

It was designed to promote bus driver safety, he said.

The Culhoun Award is presented to a selected bus driver in participating counties throughout the state. Ijames is the mother of four children, Paul, who is married and has one child; Cassandra, a junior at Winston-Salem State University; Stephanie, a freshman at WSSU; and Jonathan, who will be an eighth grader at South Davie.

Odessa Ijames said she wouldn't quit her job as a bus driver and teacher assistant even if she won the lottery.

Drug Free Kids Rally To Be Held In Davie June 27

By Jeanne Houpe
Davie County Enterprise Record

It will be an afternoon of fun for the kids as a number of Davie County agencies and businesses set out to make the community a better place.

The third annual Drug Free Davie County Rally will be held in the gym at Davie Family YMCA 2-4 p.m. June 27.

Kids will have a chance to sit inside patrol cars and talk on the radio as local station WDSL broadcasts live from the event, according to a rally organizer Lori Parker of WDSL.

The rally was started three years ago by Bonnie Williams, who worked for WDSL. New owners of the station wanted to continue the event to encourage Davie children to stay drug free, Parker said.

With kids out of school for the summer, it's good reinforcement for what they have learned at school. It's a reminder of what they should do to have a safe, happy, healthy and productive summer, she said.

The first time she has ever worked on a project like this one, Parker said she is especially interested because she has two children of her own.

In addition to a presentation of how to stay drug free and make nondiscriminatory decisions, there will be a number of educational displays.

Among those setting up displays will be the Davie County Health Department, Medical Associates of Davie, Mocksville Police Department and the Davie County Sheriff's Department.

The Mocksville Police Department will also provide free fingerprinting for children, which can help if they are lost, kidnapped or involved in an accident, according to Detective Ken Hunter.

Mocksville's police dog, Kilo, and K-9 Officer Vicki Fields will demonstrate Kilo's talents, and a drug enforcement agent will talk to the children.

A baseball game between Wally the Warthog of the Winston-Salem Warthogs and Bo the Bolt Weevil of the Piedmont Bolt Weevils will be a highlight of the event, Parker said.

A karate demonstration, clowns, balloons and finger painting are among the entertainment opportunities for the kids, she said.

Pizza, sub sandwiches and soft drinks will be available. WDSL station manager Gary Tilley said the community has worked together to make the event a success, and he is looking forward to seeing it grow in the future.

WDSL wants to do anything it can "to better the community and the kids in it," he said.

But the event sponsors, not WDSL, deserve to be applauded, he said. This year donations from local businesses will be used to purchase a McGuff The Crime Dog suit to be used by Davie County's law enforcement agencies.

Programs For Gifted Students Undergoing Big Changes

By Jeanne Houpe
Davie County Enterprise Record

Programs for gifted students in the Davie County schools are about to undergo some big changes.

The Davie County Board of Education recently voted four to one to accept the recommendations of a 17 member task force appointed to develop a new program for academically gifted students.

The one member to vote against the proposal, Janie Garnett, said she was not voting against the recommendations of the task force but felt the board should take more time to examine the proposal before approving something that calls for major changes.

Superintendent Dr. Bill Steed recommended that the board approve the plan so that it might be submitted to the N.C. Department of Instruction as soon as possible.

There the plan will be reviewed to make sure it meets all state requirements before going on to the State Board of Education for approval, according to Dr. Nancy Dominick, Davie Schools Director of Student Services and Exceptional Children's Programs.

If the program is to be implemented in the schools next year, it is imperative that staff training begin in July, she said.

Board member David Owens said the level of parent participation on the task force went a long way in his decision to approve the proposal.

He said the board could make adjustments to the plan as needed later. The task force was formed last June to develop a plan for gifted education as required by the N.C. General Assembly, according to board member Marlene Shamel, who represented the board on the task force.

The group began with a self-assessment of the school system's AG program, which included 87 teachers, 46 parents and 530 AG students, task force member Rob Mackintosh told the board.

From this assessment, strengths and weaknesses of the present program were determined.

Among the strengths are expertise and commitment of faculty, the challenging pace of AP, APP and honors courses at Davie High, funding for teachers to get AG certification, relationships between AG and classroom teachers and parent involvement, he said.

Some of the needs discovered are a more challenging curriculum, a new AG identification program that would include younger students and borderline students, more AG training for teachers, collaboration time for AG and classroom teachers and a reduction in the elite status of AG.

"The Davie County schools believe all children can learn and all students deserve the best educational opportunity we can offer so the potential of every student can be realized," task force member Jamie Pharr shared from the group's philosophy statement.

For students showing the potential to perform at substantially higher levels within their age group, "a variety of appropriate learning opportunities will provide a unified, rigorous and challenging curriculum with consistently high expectations across all grade levels," she said.

The task force developed a plan for meeting its goals, according to member Linda Idol.

One of the biggest changes the plan calls for is in the way students will be identified for gifted services. Among the indicators determining giftedness are a student's achievement, interest, motivation to learn, aptitude, performance and behavior, she told the group.

According to the plan, "giftedness is the manifestation of ability to learn well beyond the expected level of one's age mates. It can be discovered through outstanding student performance, high test scores or through observation."

Student performance may be determined through work samples, grades and other assessment strategies.

Achievement may be shown through a standardized test score (85th percentile or above), end of grade tests and tests designed by teachers.

Student aptitude, which is an indicator of a student's capacity to learn, involves problem solving, memory, etc. and might be discovered through an IQ score.

Interest may be shown through extracurricular activities as may motivation to learn as these are characterized by focus, curiosity and commitment to the pursuit of learning.

No single criterion can eliminate a student from consideration, according to the plan.

This is a major change from the present 98 point system, which used IQ testing, achievement tests and classroom grades, according to AG specialist June Johnson.

Under that system students who achieved 97 points were excluded from the AG program. "No one was comfortable with that," she said.

The new identification program will provide services to meet the needs of students.

"It's not one size fits all anymore," she said.

Four levels have been designed for addressing the needs of students, according to task force member Gladys Scott, a teacher at Mocksville Elementary School.

At the elementary school level, the first level will include all students in heterogeneous groups with level two offering cluster grouping within the classroom and resource support.

Level three will provide subject grouping for some students and include enrichment programs and independent projects.

The highest level will address only a few students in cross-grade grouping, subject acceleration and even grade skipping.

The program will be addressed much the same at the middle school level.

At the high school, all students will have an opportunity to take honors and advanced classes and participate in interest-based projects and elective courses as well as internships, apprenticeships and mentoring programs, according to task force member Ann Graham, a Davie High teacher.

For more advanced students, AP and APP courses will be available, and a few may even choose to participate in correspondence courses, early admissions and credit by examination programs.

Board member Mark Jones said he is concerned with the level of funding provided by the state for the program.

According to Dominick, Davie County is funded for 3.5 percent of its student population to be classified AG, while it will probably have 11 or 12 percent identified for the program in 1997-98.

If the state wants this sort of model used in its schools, it should come forward with the necessary funding, Jones said.

The Senior Trotters met for their regular meeting June 12 at the Center Community Building. There were 17 members present.

Elizabeth Massey, president called the meeting to order and Bill Sanford had devotion. Updates on the sick and shut-in were given.

The president gave a report on the upcoming activities at the Davie County Senior Center. Several from the club participated in the senior fishing tournament at Lake Myers.

Margie Green won the door prize. Club members are helping the residents of Davie Village play bingo this month.

Following the business, the group traveled to Blue Bay in Salisbury for lunch and went to Spencer Museum and a ride on the train.

The next meeting will be July 10. The program will be on famous people. Everyone is to bring their own lunch in a box they have decorated. A prize will be given to the best and most beautiful box.

Anyone who is 50 years plus is invited to come and join the club.

Congratulations to Chris Shore and Abby Ferguson, who will be going to Davie High School next year.

Mrs. Clarence Elmore and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burgess are still on our sick list and need our continued prayers.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe White spent Saturday in the mountains.

Red Cross To Recognize VIP Blood Donors

The Northwest North Carolina Chapter of the American Red Cross will recognize VIP blood donors at a special celebration reception Thursday, June 26, from 4-6 p.m. at Calvary Baptist Church, 5000 Country Club Road.

The guest speaker will be Winston-Salem Senior Police Officer Eugene Piscitelli, who was shot in the line of duty June 1, 1993.

The VIP blood donor is someone who pledges to give blood four to six times during a 12-month period and recruits other donors to do the same. These donors are special because they recognize the on-going need for a safe and reliable blood supply and are making the commitment to help meet that need.

Nearly 1,400 people have become VIP blood donors—contributing enough blood this past year to save more than 22,000 lives. While the current program is a revival of a similar donor program from a few years back, all involved respectfully appreciate the value of VIP blood donors and the program's sponsor companies.

"VIP blood donors are important people. They make the commitment to donate blood regularly, and in return, we make sure they always feel extra special during the time they spend here," said Julie Trogdon, VIP Program Coordinator. "While working with the program I have found that VIPs are giving individuals who joined a committed program because of the direct impact they feel they can have on another human being's life." Mondays are VIP donor days at the Triad Blood Center; although anyone may donate blood on any Monday, VIP donors are honored with Krispy Kreme Doughnuts, occasional prize drawings and other favors.

VIP blood donors are not limited to those people who come through the American Red Cross Triad Blood Center. The chapter conducts more than 365 bloodmobiles at local businesses and churches each year. Many of the people who participate in these blood drives have also made the commitment to be a VIP blood donor. In fact, two companies have even joined the effort as VIP Corporate Partners. ## Davie UMW Participate In Mini-Retreat

The Davie County United Methodist Women held their mini-retreat at Comatzer United Methodist Church on Monday, June 2, with a covered-dish dinner in the fellowship hall at 6:30 p.m. followed by worship and program at 7:30 in the church sanctuary.

A total of 109 people were in attendance.

Dr. Malcolm Marks, a plastic surgeon from Baptist Hospital, presented slides and information regarding "Operation Smile." This non-profit organization goes to countries with volunteer doctors and other medical personnel to do surgery on people mostly with Cleft Palate and related problems.

A love offering of $418.10 was received for "Operation Smile" with the Comatzer Unit adding to the amount to bring the total to $500.

Most of them can't remember when it started, but they are certain it's a tradition they want to continue.

"We try to go every year," said Bill Campbell, whose family is among the many Davie families attending Symphony in the Park every July.

"It's the one time that people in the community come together and seem to be relaxed. It's nice to be part of something that's still patriotic," he said.

A number of area residents have attended the event since the first year the Winston-Salem Piedmont Triad Symphony performed its patriotic concert at Rich Park.

"We like the music and seeing the kids march around with Miss Liberty," said Elizabeth Swicegood, who attends every year with her husband, Kyle, and his parents, Jerry and Judy.

This will be the fourth Symphony in the Park for Elizabeth and Kyle's 3-year-old son Lewis. He heard the music for the first time when he was just a week old.

This year he'll probably be right behind his 4-year-old sister Ashton in pursuit of Miss Liberty, as she leads the children in marches to the music.

Sometimes they take friends, and sometimes they picnic, but the Swicegoods always make an effort to keep up the tradition.

Pat Campbell said her family started going to the event because they enjoyed the strong American music by composers like Copland, Gershwin and Sousa.

She especially enjoyed the year that a community chorus performed with the symphony.

"It's a good feeling to watch the sunset and listen to that music. It makes you feel like there's still hope for the future," Bill said.

To him the popularity of the event proves that the community still has good beliefs and morals. "It's just a time that the community comes together to enjoy friendship,

Co-Principals Are Named For S. Davie Crenshaw Schools' General Supervisor

The Davie County Board of Education made history Monday by naming co-principals at a school for the first time.

The board voted to transfer Bill Campbell, who has been principal at Mocksville Middle School for 10 years, to South Davie Middle School, where he will work beside current principal Robert Landry.

The philosophy of co-principals has been accepted in North Carolina for years, according to Superintendent Dr. Bill Steed.

"It is ideal when you find two people who are extremely compatible together," he said.

Campbell will bring a number of strengths to the new position, including public relations skills, the ability to work well with parents and experience with exceptional children's programs, Steed said.

In most co-principal situations, one principal focuses on administrative duties while the other works on curriculum, assisting one another in all areas. There will be no assistant principal, he explained.

South Davie's current assistant principal, Patsy Crenshaw, will move to the Central Office to fill the position of general supervisor vacated by Elaine Strider, who retired Monday.

Crenshaw, who has served as assistant principal at South Davie for eight years, will serve as director of instruction for the school system.

Replacing Campbell at Mocksville Middle School will be Candy Poplin, who has been an assistant principal at Davie High School

Town OKs Budget With No Tax Increase

No increase in taxes highlight Mocksville's 1997-98 budget.

The town board unanimously approved a $4.1 million budget Monday.

After hearing no comments from the public, Commissioner F.W. Slane, the board's finance officer, moved that the board adopt the budget presented by Town Manager Terry Bralley.

The budget, an increase of nearly $800,000 over last year's budget, features $440,000 allocated for upgrading water and sewer facilities.

The budget also includes an increase in the Senior Center budget as it takes on the nutrition and home bound meals programs, which are funded by grants.

The tax rate for the town will remain at 36 cents per $100 valuation.

County Denies Food Lion Request; Sign Ordinance Remains The Same

County commissioners voted 4-1 last week to uphold design standards in the Hillsdale area.

While adding the shopping center definition to the county zoning ordinance, Food Lion, which is opening a new store at Hwy. 158 and 801, asked that the sign on the front of the store be larger than what is allowed in the overlay district.

That request was denied, with all commissioners except Larry Hayes voting to preserve the ordinance. Commissioner Diane Foster said there are two entrances to the shopping center, and Food Lion's name will be on a sign at each entrance. There are plans to build other stores or restaurants at the front of the shopping center, which could hide Food Lion's sign no matter what the size.

"Food Lion has chosen to build at the back of the property," Foster said. "I think it (changes) would ruin the integrity of our ordinance."
