Legislation To Increase Funds

Republican House members have filed legislation to increase the available highway maintenance funds by $1.7 million. These funds are currently generated in the Highway Trust Fund, but are being transferred to the General Fund for non-highway uses.

Based upon information provided by the General Assembly Fiscal Research Division recently in a budget briefing, the annual revenue that is received by the Highway Trust Fund has increased by 15 percent over the past five years, but the total dollars spent on road maintenance has declined by 3 percent since 1988.

"This reduction in funding for road maintenance is allowing our highways to deteriorate, while the total of traffic miles driven in North Carolina has increased by 42 percent since 1988, said Rep. Julia Howard (R-Davie).

"Republicans believe the state must place a new emphasis on the maintenance of its highway system in order to keep the roads safe and to reestablish North Carolina's reputation as the 'Good Roads State'," she said.

"By stopping the use of Highway Trust Funds for other spending programs, we can increase our maintenance efforts by over 36 percent. It is essential that we do this in order to maintain safe roads for the benefit of our residents and visitors."

Howard Opposes Governor's Budget

Rep. Julia C. Howard (R-Davie) and her Republican colleagues in the North Carolina House of Representatives called Gov. Jim Hunt's budget recommendations incomplete and unconstitutional.

"There will be enough new revenue this year to increase state spending by over a billion dollars. Even with that, Jim Hunt cannot send us a balanced budget," Howard said.

"The governor should have submitted a budget based on the real needs of our state. He has put his high dollar initiatives first and neglected many important issues."

Cuts in Medicaid to elderly disabled and cuts in prison funding are two items that alarm Howard.

"We cannot create a revolving door prison system and risk dangerous criminals returning to our neighborhoods," she said. "The elderly and disabled who are struggling to make ends meet may find it even harder to access health care, as well."

Howard has expressed concerns about the need for highway maintenance. Statewide repair and renovation needs are also piling up. She is strongly opposed to using any of the State's Rainy Day Fund for Hunt's budget expansion.

"The economy is strong and revenues continue to grow," Howard said. "The Rainy Day Fund was put in place for emergencies and severe economic downturns; we should not be using it to fund government expansion."

We The People: Congressman Talks Government With Davie High Class

By Jeanne Gaither
Davie County Enterprise Record

What makes America government work? It can be found in the first line of the Constitution in the phrase, "We The People," Congressman Richard Burr told students int he Davie High School leadership class Friday.

"Legislators in Washington represent the people, and everything we do is suposed to be with those people in mind," Burr said.

That is why he believes it was necessary to carry out impeachment proceedings against the president.

"I look at impeachment as a test," Burr said. "There was an easier way out."

He said that censure would have set a bad precedent.

Men Released After Conviction For Trafficking Marijuana

By Jeanne Gaither
Davie County Enterprise Record

Three men charged with trafficking in marijuana and conspiracy to traffic in marijuana were released from jail Monday after pleading guilty to a lesser offense in Davie County Superior Court.

Elias Sanchez Gaspareno, 21, Fortino Garcia Gaspareno, 32, and Samuel Gaspar Hernandez, 17, had been in jail since being arrested Aug. 21, after law enforcement officers discovered approximately 115 pounds of marijuana in the trailer where they claimed to be living.

The Davie County Sheriff's Department was operating a driver's license check on Farmington Road when an officer noticed a vehicle turn around to avoid the roadblock, according to assistant district attorney Greg Brown.

Deputy Brian Diggs followed the vehicle, driven by Hernandez, to the mobile home where he arrested Hernandez for driving without a license, he said.

Arriving at the scene, SBI Agent Sam Gregory and Sheriff's Detective Chris Shuskey searched the vehicle for drugs but found none. Walking around the mobile home, they smelled the odor of marijuana through an open window and saw a pipe and a small amount of marijuana inside, Brown told Judge William Z. Wood Jr.

While a search warrant was being obtained, the Gasparenos arrived at the trailer where they claimed to live and objected to the search, he said.

In addition to finding about 115 pounds

Cornatzer Elementary: New School Gets Name, Contracts OKd

By Mike Barnhardt
Davie County Enterprise Record

A groundbreaking ceremony for the new Cornatzer Elementary School was held Wednesday.

Board of education members on Monday night unanimously approved the name for Davie's newest school.

Traditionally, Davie has named schools after communities and by location, Dwayne Smith told the board after giving a brief history of one-room schools in the area. "It's located on the Cornatzer Road in the Cornatzer community," Smith said.

Board Chairman Luther Potts, a resident of the community, made the motion for the Cornatzer Elementary name.

Member Janie Garnett said that several good names were submitted by county residents. "We really appreciate those who took the time to think about that," she said. The Cornatzer name fits in with the system's goals of making schools community oriented, she said.

The work on deciding what students will go to the school, beginning with the 2000-2001 year, is ongoing. A committee of school personnel and parents is going over attendance lines of all schools in the county, said Dr. Bill Steed, superintendent.

"I don't want anyone to say next year I didn't know you're going to re-draw lines because we surely are," Steed said.

The board also on Monday night approved bids for construction of the school. R.K. Stewart & Son of High Point was awarded the general contractor with a bid of $3.93 million; P&H Service of Greensboro the plumbing bid at $396,020, Logan Heating & Air the HVAC bid at $1.13 million, and Pinnacle Electric of King the electrical bid at $906,020.

W.G. "Dub" Potts, director of auxiliary services, said that all of the low bidders have a good track record in the construction industry as well as experience with school buildings.

The schools have $7.35 million available, and though the bids awarded are within budget, there are several things which haven't been decided, including the sewage system, furniture, alternate flooring and gymnasium bleachers. Also undecided are a sidewalk and bus canopy, and a possible turn lane from Cornatzer Road to the site.

School Starts Aug. 4

Education Board OKs Two-Year Calendar

By Mike Barnhardt
Davie County Enterprise Record

Davie families may have to change the months they take vacations, but board of education members decided Monday night that the early August start of school is best for the students.

The board approved a two-year calendar, with the first day for students on Aug. 4 this year, and Aug. 3 the following year. Students will get out of school on May 21 this year, and on May 19 next year.

The calendars were approved on a 4-2 vote, with Chairman Luther Potts, David Owens, Marlene Shamel and Marty Carter voting in favor of the calendar, and Mark Jones and Janie Garnett voting against it.

Several spoke about the importance of having the first semester end before Christmas, which helps high school students perform better on test scores and exams.

Carter, also a parent of a kindergarten student, said the importance of the pre-Christmas semester "outweighs" other concerns.

He did suggest, and board members said they would discuss, changing the make-up of the calendar committee, which includes 14 school staff members, two parents and a student.

Owens also suggested that the board set limits for the committee in the future, such as no student days before a certain date.

Owens said he would have preferred to have started school on Aug. 9, but wanted to support the calendar committee.

Potts, the board veteran, said he

Busted: Drug Arrests Up In Davie, Residents Can Help With Fight

By Jeanne Gaither
Davie County Enterprise Record

Drug arrests are up in 1999, according to Davie County Sheriff Allen Whitaker.

Sheriff's officers have seized a wide variety of drugs with an estimated street value of approximately $10,000 and have arrested 23 people for drug related violations this year. They have also seized $6,700 in suspected drug proceeds.

The sheriff attributes the increase in arrests to the efforts of detectives and patrol deputies.

"Cpl. Lee Whitesides has been extremely effective at narcotics interdiction on vehicle stops on your Davie County roadways," Whitaker said.

All patrol officers have been instructed to look for activity that might be related to the transport, sale or use of illegal drugs.

Detectives involved in narcotics investigations have been successful in getting cases of local drug dealers to federal court where offenders receive stiffer penalties, he added.

"Making cases that can be prosecuted in federal court usually takes a little longer but is worth the wait because convicted offenders almost always get substantial prison sentences," Whitaker said.

He is also proud of the good working relationship his department has established with such federal agencies as U.S. Customs, A.T.F. and the DEA as well as the SBI and police and sheriff's departments in surrounding counties, Whitaker said.

"These relationships are important because drug dealers don't stop at jurisdictional boundaries," he added.

The area's two most common narcotics are marijuana and cocaine, but several other drugs were seized during the first two months of the year, he said.

The discovery of heroin in two vehicle stops in February has created a new concern about the influx of this drug into the county, according to Whitaker.

Residents need not be alarmed about heroin in Davie County, but they should be aware the drug could be out there, he said.

"Heroin is one of the most addictive drugs out there. When it comes into a community, as with all drugs, it's everyone's problem."

Unfortunately, the use and sale of illegal narcotics are not the only drug related crimes in a community. Drugs contribute to a high percentage of burglaries, robberies, assaults, rapes and, in extreme cases, murder, according to Whitaker.

The sheriff asks all residents to become involved in the fight against drugs by reporting any suspicious activity to the Davie County Sheriff's Office Detective Division by calling 336-751-5547.

"Let's all work together to keep Davie County a safe place to raise a family," Whitaker said.

Untested Sled Gathers Dust Awaiting Snow

This winter is slipping away, and I still haven't been able to use my the beautiful sled.

I bought it three years ago, and it still hasn't seen action.

When will we see a real snow?

Three years ago, my boys had trouble with the big snow storm that closed schools for a week. Midway through the week, our trusty sled broke. The younger son had grown out of his snow suit. We found ourselves snow-challenged. We didn't have all the equipment and clothes necessary for enjoying the snow.

That's when I ordered the finest toboggan made by human hands — a four-seater. Capable of speeds exceeding ...

Well, we just don't know.

The sled is such a beauty that we placed it in the den, just to look at it. On hot summer days, it made us cooler to see it and dream of racing down the hillsides.

The paint is still unscratched.

Since buying it, we haven't had a snow deep enough, or a snow that lasted long enough, to test the sled's potential.

When our first little snow hit a couple of weeks ago, I hustled Robert into his snow suit and marched him outside quickly before the snow could melt. I want to get some use out of that suit before he outgrows it.

Last week's overnight snow melted by 10 a.m.

We need a snow that sticks around. A snow deep enough to cover the ankles.

Now that we're in March, it doesn't look promising.

Tobacco Money Creates Chorus Of Beggars

Don't you deserve some of North Carolina's tobacco settlement money? Think about it. Hasn't the settlement caused some impact on your life, some pain and suffering that would entitle you to part of the $4.6 billion coming to the state.

Windfalls bring with them problems.

Why?

Because they won't be able to sell as much tobacco in coming years. They and their heirs are entitled to the money, they contend, because ...

Because they want it.

North Carolina and the other states are receiving this money because the states claimed they had paid to treat Medicare patients who suffered from smoking-related illnesses.

But the money comes with few strings attached. We don't seem to know who will control it, who will decide how it will be spent, and where it should go.

The General Assembly will be flooded with claims for part of the money. It's going to be a circus in Raleigh as all the groups clamor for a piece of the pie.

JobReady Caught Up In Clinton Controversy

To the editor:

It never ceases to amaze me now people on the outside looking in seem to always have the "inside scoop" on educational issues and programs. A case in point is the letter to the editor of Feb. 25 titled, "Curriculum Structured to Serve Employers." The author apparently knows things about Job Ready that none of the people working with the program know:

• He knows about "thousands of documented examples" of how students have been counseled into job training programs against their wills;

• He knows about how Workforce Development Boards "structure the public school curriculum to serve the local area employers;"

• And he knows that "you will not get the facts about any of the current educational programs from the Departments of Education of Davie County, North Carolina, or the federal government by asking them to explain what they are doing."

I know that the author believes these things to be true, and I know that nothing I am likely to say will change his perception of things. I also know first-hand that the kinds of things the author attributes to Job Ready are not happening in Davie County. I have serious reservations about whether they are happening anywhere.

Purely and simply, I believe JobReady is caught up in controversy because it was a piece of Clinton legislation. Those who despise Clinton despise everything he has tried to do as a president. A few people take a little higher ground and philosophically oppose any federal involvement in education. I can respect the latter but not the former.

One thing the author said does ring true - the part about the "workbook" thing from Hitler. We have been doing this for years. Students just about have to have one to get into a college or to get a good job. We call it a high school diploma. Imagine that. Right here in America, too. What is this country coming to?

Performance Successful

To the editor:

We wish to thank your newspaper and everyone in Davie and surrounding counties who supported the play "You're a Good Man Charlie Brown." The Brock Performing Arts Center was packed. The actors with and without developmental disabilities were wonderful. Everyone laughed and clapped throughout the performance. The 450 plus crowd gave a standing ovation to the actors.

Roger Wooten, the director, and The Enrichment Center in Winston-Salem are to be greatly commended for this effort. Thanks again to everyone who helped make this a success.

Everhart was talking about the "feel good, sound good" approach to Job Ready that Neal Essic had written about. The last part of the second paragraph of his letter should have read as follows:

"I can define the intent of Job Ready with one short statement. The statement will not sound or make you feel as good as Mr. Essic's explanation, however, the statement will give an accurate description of the intent of the Job Ready educational program. Job Ready is is designed to do one thing ... train the student for a job."

Thanks so much for the quick response in getting my ad in the paper so folks would know to look for my cat.

My cat is still missing. Hopefully someone will see her and let me know where I can come and pick her up.

She was lost at the car wash on U.S. 601 between Valley Animal Clinic and Captain Steven's seafood restaurant. Her name is Josie, and she is black with white feet and white chest and has been completely declawed. She weighs about 15 pounds.

If you have seen her, call 336-407-7376, 336-922-4502, 336-741-2807 or Valley Animal Clinic at 336-751-6201.

Racism Is A Sin

To the editor:

Certainly I do not intend to get into a cat and mouse game with those who disagree with my views. Therefore, this is my last letter to the editor concerning my inviting Chancellor Alvin J. Schexnider of Winston-Salem State University to speak for a black history program held at the church where I serve as pastor, Shiloh Baptist in Mocksville. What prompts this letter, however, is Annie Ingram's shallow, ineffective, and weak response to my editorial appearing in the Feb. 18 Enterprise.

First and foremost, Ingram's letter contains an outright lie. She says, in effect, that I failed in my letter to the editor to give God credit for the many blessings He has bestowed upon me. Had she read my letter carefully, critically, and closely, she would have seen the following statements: "From adolescence until now, I have always been able to get jobs, and with God on my side, I do not worry about my future or the narrow-mindedness of people like you (Church). My blessings come from God, not man."

Second, Ingram is the type of person who kills the messenger because she hates the message. The words of Jesus to a group of Jews are appropriate here: "But now ye seek to kill me, a man that hath told you the truth" (John 8:40). Ingram did not like the forthrightness and candor of my letter; hence, she decided to ignore the historical information I presented, choosing rather to take statements out of context and to paint me as a bad person. On second thought, however, since Ralph Church's views on race and class are her "sentiments exactly," should an intelligent person expect her to give an iota of credence to the points I made in my letter? Ingram uses the cover of a letter to the editor to mask her own narrow, ignorant, and racist views. Although she claims that she does not speak out of ignorance, she does just that. Any person, white or black, who has an elementary knowledge of the roles race, class, gender, and religion have played and continue to play in the growth and development of the American society clearly understands that the black person inevitably has been and still is at the bottom of the list of the so-called goodies of society (i.e., economic prosperity, good health, and life expectancy) and at the top of the list of the bad things in society (i.e., poverty, infant mortality, and educational achievements). And for anyone to use the old standby that hard work leads to success is in serious need of reeducating, since it is nigh impossible for a man without shoes to pull himself up by his own bootstraps. I wish it were possible for Ingram to walk in the shoes of a black American for one year. I suspect her perspective about most things would change.

Then Ingram says that I did not quote from the Bible in my letter. Again, ignorance takes the day. There is a device in literature called an "allusion," an indirect reference to a literary, historical, cultural, or biblical work. When I wrote that my "commission comes from Jesus Christ," I was alluding to Luke 4:18-19: "The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because he hath anointed me to preach the gospel to the poor; he hath sent me to heal the brokenhearted, to preach deliverance to the captives, and recovering of sight to the blind, to set at liberty them that are bruised, To preach the acceptable year of the Lord." Writing a letter to the editor is an extension of my ministry and my calling, for, God charges His servants to speak for those who cannot speak for themselves. Preachers of God are required to "[c]ry aloud, spare not, lift up thy voice like a trumpet, and shew my people their transgression, and the house of Jacob their sins" (Isaiah 58:1). And racism is a sin. Even the conservative Southern Baptist Convention concedes this point.

There is a fourth point about Ingram's letter that is so obvious that I am a bit hesitant to make it. Ingram read my letter to the editor as she wanted to read it, and she read Church's letter to the editor as she wanted to read it. In other words, Ingram finds little fault with Church's letter, and in a sense she praises it, simply because he verbally expressed the mindset of her subconscious. Ingram's ideas about race and class are so ingrained into her system, her very makeup, her very being, that she refuses to consider that her views are simply wrong and are contrary to the teachings of Jesus Christ. It is not surprising, then, that she reacts harshly to anyone who offers a position different from hers. Cliches, though often scorned, are useful here: "Birds of a feather flock together." "Association brings on simulation." Ideas about race, class, gender, sex and the like are "baked in the cake," and one cannot divorce himself from his makeup without either destroying himself or coming to the Potter's house for a complete remolding or remaking (Jeremiah 18:1-10; II Corinthians 5:17). And from the tone of Ingram's letter, I am not sure she has yet made it to the Potter's house.

This brings me to my fifth point. Ingram, like so many whites during slavery, uses the Bible to sidetrack the main issue and to support her own bias. Shakespeare, in his great work on the danger of prejudice, "The Merchant of Venice," writes, "The devil can cite Scripture for his purpose" (Act 1, Scene 3, Line 99). To talk about what God has done through Christ and about the problem of universal sin and at the same time be complacent about, if not outright hostile to, a serious and honest discussion about race and the myriad social, political, economic, and cultural issues facing our community, our state, our nation, and our world today is hypocrisy at its highest. It is religion of the lowest order. You need not take my word for it. Almost two thousand years ago, a Jewish Carpenter gave the humanrace some wise words by which to live: "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me" (Matthew 25:40). What would Jesus do were He in the world teaching, preaching, and healing today? This is a no question, since Jesus answered it almost two millennia ago: "Therefore all things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them: for this is the law and the prophets" (Matthew 7:12).

Let me say, finally, that all the mirrors in my house shine, are clean, and work well. And I am quite pleased with the reflection I see several times each day. The image I see again and again is that of an humble minister of the gospel determined to take seriously the words of Charles Wesley:

A charge to keep I have, A God to glorify, Who gave His Son my soul to save, And fit it for the sky.

To serve the present age, My calling to fulfill, O may it all my pow'rs engage To do my Master's will.

Arm me with jealous care, As in thy sight to live, And O Thy servant, Lord, prepare A strict account to give.

Help me to watch and pray, And on Thyself rely, By faith assured I will obey, For I shall never die.

It is my sincere desire that Ingram will wash, scrub, disinfect, and cleanse her mirrors, so that she can see herself for who she is. Having read her editorial, I have a pretty good idea of what her mirrors will reveal.

Martha Martz, the owner, will come to your home and take precise measurements for a table pad that will protect against hot dishes, spilled drinks and other dangers to fine furniture.

Martz/Warren Table Pads guarantees the fastest turn around in this area to have your table pads back to you.

Several types of table pads are available, and you can match your table's finish with a wood tone cover, or choose white or beige. The steel-reinforced hinges will keep your pads in good shape for many years, any they are easy to wipe clean. You may choose from several backing fabrics, such as Duravelle, which is an elite suede material.

Martha found out about this company herself when she searched high and low for table pads for her table.

"I put a lace tablecloth over my table pad, and it looks great," Martha says. "I can put a vase of flowers on the table or a casserole dish, and not worry about ruining the table."

Unlike table pads that you can order from a magazine or local retailers, Martz/Warren Table Pads are professionally measured. Martha measures two ways, with a measuring tool and with tracing paper, and takes full responsibility for accurate measurements.

If your table has leaves, the table pad will have separate pads for each leaf. Martha also creates table pads for pool tables.

Martha says that many of her customers are unaware that table pads were such an economical way to protect their tables. If you have pets or children, you know "little accidents" can cause scratches or other damage to your table. A table pad can prevent these accidents entirely.

Martha Martz will come to your home and show you the different kinds of table pads. Call today for more information:

Starting Early: Education Board OKs Two-Year School Calendar

has served on eight calendar committees. "I've never built a calendar that everybody liked. A lot of different people have a lot of good ideas," he said.

Parent John Nelms asked the board to delay the start by taking away a couple of days from the Christmas holiday, scheduled for Dec. 17-Jan. 3. He presented a petition, and said he talked to 100 parents, and only one like the early start.

"The rest are dead set against it," he said. "The pulse of our community hasn't been taken."

Teachers, Nelms said, told him that young students still think it's summer in early August and aren't ready to begin school.

Sandra Robinson, president of the Davie County Association of Educators, asked the board to base its decision on "sound educational principles" rather than the schedule of non-school activities such as vacations and baseball and softball leagues.

She stressed the importance of having teacher work days throughout the school year, which will help teachers develop, implement and evaluate individual intervention plans for students who are not working at or above grade level. These new standards are being established by the state for promotion.

"Teachers in the Davie County School System are committed to helping every student meet or exceed the standards set for that grade level. Please give us a calendar that will help, not hinder, this effort," Robinson said.

> - Luther Potts
> Board Chairman

Donna Lamonds, a parent and Davie High PTA president, spoke in favor of a calendar that has high school exams before Christmas.

Dr. Van Johnson, chairman of the calendar committee, said members worked hard, and rewrote the first calendar that was formed.

"It's difficult to build one that everyone really likes," he said.

The committee had several state restrictions to deal with, including a minimum 42 days between calendars, 180 student days and 1,000 hours of instruction.

Twenty professional days must be in the calendar, as well as 10 vacation days and 10 or 11 holidays.

Garnett said the decision was difficult, and she heard varying comments from many people.

"All those issues have weighed heavily on my mind," she said. "I support the calendar committee, but I have trouble supporting a calendar for two years."

Jones said that state mandates put little room for decisions by local committees. He urged the board to consider a resolution to the state legislature that would leave such decisions up to local boards.

Dr. Bill Steed, superintendent, said he hopes the board wouldn't ask for any change that would give teachers and other school personnel fewer days to do their jobs.

Steed pointed out that while the start in August is early, students will get out on May 21.

"It may be interesting to see how ready we are for children to be back in school," Steed said.

Congressman Visits Davie High

To censure the president in lieu of impeachment would not have followed the procedure set up by this country's founding fathers, but that is not why it would have been inappropriate. The danger is in the precedent it would set, he said.

Congress could challenge a president with threats of a censure unless he changes his position on a particular issue. If the president gives in, more concerned about his place in history than the issue, there is no longer the separation of powers provided in the Constitution. The system would no longer be driven by public opinion, Burr said.

The founding fathers never wanted the executive or legislative branch of government to be able to hold the other hostage, he explained.

"A bill should never become law if the American people are not in favor of it," he said. That is why it's good that the process is a lengthy one, requiring agreement between the Senate and Congress.

The Constitution guides the Congress of the United States and ultimately guides its citizens, he said.

James Iredell, one of the first Supreme Court justices, fought for the impeachment clause to allow good men to continue to be good and to make sure men of questionable character were good while in office, Burr said.

He told the students he hopes they'll never witness the impeachment process again but hopes they recognize that the process works, and the Constitution held firm.

"The national media would like you to believe that because of the impeachment, congress will do nothing for the next two years," Burr said, but he is optimistic that much will be accomplished.

It's not the big issues facing congress that really effect the American people but the small ones, he explained.

Among the issues Burr mentioned were health care and putting federal education money at the local level for distribution instead of placing requirements on school systems before they can get funds.

If parents disagree with the way money is being spent, they should be able to contact someone locally, he said.

Burr told the group it is the legislative efforts he is involved with in Washington, D.C. that kept him from seeking the office of N.C. governor.

He told them about a trip to the Czech Republic and how leaders there were trying to pattern their government after that of the United States.

There 100 percent of those eligible take advantage of the opportunity to vote. In this country, 50 percent is considered good voter turnout, Burr said.

He encouraged the students to go out of their way to vote and help make the country one worthy of replication.

Burr said he enjoys talking with students because they are more honest than adults, who tend to ask questions about what the latest issues in the news rather than those that really effect them.

Convicted Drug Dealers Likely To Be Deported of marijuana, officers discovered in the trailer and a vehicle at the residence an assault rifle, bullets, a digital scale, a pipe, $1,500 in counterfeit money, about $1,500 in real money, packaging materials with marijuana residue and other small quantities of marijuana.

Rob Raisbeck, attorney for Fortino Gaspareno, argued that his client had only been in the country a few days.

There is a general feeling among investigators that the folks who were really running the drug operation are nowhere to be seen while his client and co-defendants are left taking the fall, he said.

Vogler said his client, Elias Gaspareno, had only been in the country two days at the time of the incident.

Convicted of possession with intent to sell or deliver marijuana, Wood sentenced all three to five to six months in prison with credit for time served.

Since they have served more than six months awaiting trial, all three were immediately set free.

The men, all immigrants from Mexico, will probably be deported, Raisbeck said.

Two Students Arrested At High School

Two teens were arrested last week after they were caught racing in the student parking lot at Davie High School.

John Jess Shaver, 17, and Kevin Wesley Champ, 18, were caught in the parking lot about 1:15 p.m. Feb. 25, according to Davie County Sheriff's Deputy Stuart Parker.

Shaver of 337 Jamestown Drive, Mocksville, was charged with reckless driving, two counts of misdemeanor possession of a weapon on campus for carrying two pocketknives and felony possession of a weapon on campus for having firecrackers in his vehicle.

Champ of 115 Holiday Lane, Mocksville, was charged with reckless driving and misdemeanor possession of a weapon on campus. He was also carrying a pocketknife, according to Parker.

Both have been released from the Davie County Jail and are scheduled to face these charges in Davie County District Court April 22.

Area Man Convicted Of Statutory Rape

By Jeanne Gaither
Davie County Enterprise Record

A Mocksville man was sentenced Monday in Davie County Superior Court to at least 12 years in prison for having sex with an 11-year-old girl.

Smith admitted to his wife and Detective John Stephens of the Davie County Sheriff's Department that he had inappropriate contact with the girl on two occasions, claiming the child had initiated the contact, assistant district attorney Rob Taylor said.

Cindy Tripken, director of Davie County Pre-trial Release and Day Reporting Center, recommended that Smith serve his prison sentence in a place where he can receive appropriate medical care.

He suffers from phlebitis in both legs, has seizures, is still suffering from a temporary paralysis of the left side of his body, has only one kidney and no spleen, she testified.

Defense attorney Lynne Hicks presented as mitigating factors her client's severe mental and physical deficits, his admission of guilt and his good character and reputation in the community apart from this crime.

Judge William Z. Wood Jr. found that the mitigating factors in this case outweigh the aggravating.

He sentenced Smith to 144 to 182 months in prison for first degree rape of a child and ordered that he receive psychological counseling and medical treatment.

For the second charge, he sentenced Smith to 15 to 18 months in prison but suspended that sentence five years during which he is to be on supervised probation, living at a residence and working at a location approved by his probation officer.

The judge ordered Smith to have no contact with the victim, not reside in a home with a minor, not be alone with a child under 18, possess no child pornography, submit to searches by his probation officer and enroll in a sex offender treatment program.

Upon release from prison, he will have 10 days to register with local law enforcement as a sex offender.

Davie Man Gets Two Years In For Attacking His Uncle

By Jeanne Gaither
Davie County Enterprise Record

A local man was sentenced to two years in prison in Davie Superior Court Monday for attacking his uncle with a knife.

Kelly Wayne Peacock and his wife drove Billy Joe Potts to a store in Clemmons Jan. 3, 1998, where they purchased groceries and beer, according to assistant district attorney Greg Brown.

After being asked to leave Potts' residence where they had been drinking for several hours, Peacock cut Potts in the head, arm and belly with his roofing knife. He also cut the telephone lines inside and outside the residence, Brown said.

Peacock's employer came to the residence to pick him up, discovered what had happened to Potts and called for help, he added.

Peacock has been receiving intensive treament for his drinking problem, according to his attorney Ed Vogler.

He presented a statement from a counselor, who has been working with Peacock, at Center Point Human Services, attributing the incident to pent up anger from his childhood at the rejection of his father, who was an alcoholic. After his father left, Peacock had problems with an alcoholic stepfather, he said.

Peacock's wife had tried to get him to go home on the night of the assault, but he couldn't resist an opportunity to drink beer, Vogler told the judge.

Both had been drinking and started fighting. Peacock claims that Potts hit him over the head with a bar stool before he pulled out the knife, he said.

Potts was so intoxicated that he argued with law enforcement officers and emergency medical technicians when they arrived to help him, Vogler said.

Peacock called his employer to tell him what had happened and asked him to get help for Potts, he added.

Brown argued that the defendant had told his employer of an altercation when calling to ask him to come get him but had not mentioned the injuries to Potts.

Seeing blood on Peacock, his employer decided to go inside and check on Potts. He drove Peacock home and called 911, he said.

Vogler asked Judge William Z. Wood Jr. to consider as mitigating factors Peacock's drinking problem, his acknowledgment of wrongdoing at an early stage, his enrollment in a treatment program and that he has a wife and child to support.

Wood sentenced Peacock to 24 to 29 months in prison.

The district attorney agreed to reduce the original charge of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill inflicting serious injury in exchange for a guilty plea.

That crime carries a maximum punishment of 98 months in prison, according to Wood.

Best Seat In The House: UNC Student A Tar Heel All The Way

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

CHAPEL HILL – Some folks have all the luck.

Some folks have it all. Kristin Hinshaw has college basketball's best seat, at the end of the North Carolina Tar Heel bench following arguably America's greatest program.

"It's great. Sometimes I feel like I'm in a dream world and it's just a fantasy because I've gotten so many opportunities to go places I've never been before – you know, eating in restaurants and staying in nice hotels," said Hinshaw, a 1994 Davie High graduate who is one of two head managers for the Tar Heels.

"The program is just incredible. I mean, Carolina basketball and the tradition is just unbelievable. And just to be able to be apart of it is a dream come true."

Hinshaw, a pharmacy major in the fifth year of a six-year program, traces her Tar Heel roots to her childhood, growing up under a blue roof and idolizing Dean Smith's teams.

"I played basketball in high school, so I've always been interested in basketball, and I grew up watching North Carolina on TV," she said following last week's breathless overtime victory over Wake Forest. "My parents (Michael and Gene Hinshaw of Mocksville) went to school here."

Hinshaw inquired about becoming a manager almost immediately as a freshman. After giving all the right answers, she climbed the ladder, working with the junior varsity for two years, serving as autograph manager in 1997 and becoming a varsity manager last year.

"I just came down to the office as a freshman and just asked about it," she said. "I went through an application and interview process and was real fortunate to be asked to be a manager and work with the JV my first year.

"Coach (Bill) Guthridge sits us down at the beginning of each year and tells us: 'Your role is to make it easy for the coaches to coach and the players to play.' We do anything the guys need, make sure they're at the right place at the right time and set up player appointments, meetings, videos, tapes."

> "The program is just incredible ... Carolina basketball and the tradition ... just to be able to be a part of it is a dream come true."

This isn't two hours of cheering on the front row, eating popcorn and hitting Franklin Street after the final horn. This is essentially a full-time job, heavy daily chores that require vast amounts of energy and time. This job encompasses everything from summer camp to attending practices to keeping practice statistics to packing equipment for away games to setting out uniforms, Gatorade, towels and whatever else the coaches need.

"It's basically working hard and showing initiative," said Hinshaw, who jots statistics during games. "It requires a lot of time. All I do, because both of them take a lot of time, is this and pharmacy school. That's helped me as far as time management and discipline are concerned.

"We get here an hour before whatever the first thing is, and it's usually a meeting followed by practice. We're here 45 minutes to an hour after practice, so typically it's between 4-5 hours a day for practice and it's about eight hours on a game day."

Judging from the TV screen, Hinshaw displays more emotion than anyone on the bench, a diehard enthusiast that cameras often catch doing a river dance with no music, whether it's celebrating a Tar Heel basket or expressing extreme distaste over a call.

New Davie High Baseball Coach Faces Tall Task

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

This is supposed to be the year that Davie's baseball team swings and misses and takes a seat on the Central Piedmont Conference's bottom steps.

Eight regulars and ace pitcher Ryan Desnoyers graduated from last year's 15-8 team that finished second in the CPC and advanced to the state playoffs for the second straight year, a blow that cleaned out 75 percent of the team's hits, 76 percent of the RBIs, 80 percent of the doubles and 84 percent of the homers.

Herndon

But first-year coach Mike Herndon, the successor for Jerry Walser, refuses to wallow in the psychological strikes against this year's inexperienced team. And he has a flashy track record to back his optimistic forecast. At Southwest Guilford, where he won a 3-A state championship in 1997, he started six sophomores his first year in 1991 and won 17 games. One year he inherited players from an 0-22 JV team and won 16 games.

"I'm not fazed," said Herndon, who guided the Cowboys to six playoff berths in seven years and left with a 103-60 record. "Our philosophy is we may be outplayed but we're not going to be outworked. We will be better at the end of the year than the beginning."

Although he's got just two returning starters – pitcher Victor Patti and catcher Drew Ridenhour – Herndon detects enough promise from 14 unproven players to make a bold pitch.

"I may be going out on a limb by saying this, but we've got as much talent here as I had there (Southwest Guilford). We didn't have the best players, but we had the best team."

Herndon insists the War Eagles' penchant for working overtime and overnight chemistry could help them overcome shortcomings, foremost an inexperienced pitching staff and questionable run support.

"They all enjoy each other," he said. "They do things outside of baseball, enjoy being around each other and seem to enjoy being around the coaching staff. That's the biggest part. A lot of times, people overlook the type of team chemistry, and right now we have great team chemistry. I think we're going to be very competitive. They work extremely hard. They are getting better by the days."

No one has come as far as junior Thadd Johnson, a second baseman who has become reliable in the field and capable at the plate.

"He's come as far as anybody I've seen in a short period," he said. "I mean, it's unbelievable the things that he's accomplished in a short period of time. He drives the balls to the fence and he's fielding everything, sucking them up. There's still room for improvement, but he's doing a good job."

Time To Play Ball

Experience, Talent Promise Golden Season For Davie

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

Reavis

Tammy Reavis, who inherited a golden roster when she was named Darrell Steele's successor last fall, has enough firepower to start a war, and she knows it.

"As far as girls' sports, this is probably the strongest sport in the school, and that's with anybody coaching them," she said. "They're talented girls. Whoever coaches them, this is just a good group of girls. These girls have just been playing for so long and some of them have played nonstop. So just walking into this situation is going to be good."

The War Eagles have already adopted the swagger of a state-championship contender although they've yet to beat league nemesis and state elitist South Stokes in five tries since turning to fast pitch in 1997. The Saurs rolled 4-0 and 18-0 in 1997 and swept last year's series 13-3, 5-2 and 3-2, repelling Davie to Central Piedmont Conference runner-up. But the War Eagles sense an overthrow developing on the near horizon and feel a possible state championship in their grasp. Reavis nodded, reveling in Davie's supreme confidence.

"Their goal is the state," she said. "I told them that was fine because I told them that I thought they had the ability to get there. If that's their goal, that's their goal. They are confident."

Davie's unmistakable self-assurance stems from last year's march to the state quarterfinals. After absorbing a 3-2 stinger from South Stokes in the CPC Tournament finals, the War Eagles dispatched Crest and Northwest Guilford in the first two playoff rounds, raising the stakes for 1999. They finished 14-8 after losing 5-2 to South Stokes in the quarterfinals.

"I have high expectations for them and they know that," said Reavis, who returns nine of 16 players from last year, including six starters. "I told them that I expected a lot from them. If I didn't expect a lot from them, then they wouldn't produce.

"And I think they expect a lot from themselves, too. They know the talent that they have out there, so they know that they can go far. I think they will improve on that (record) because the talent is just getting better and better."

Because of all those weapons, settling on a lineup will be tougher than a Sunday crossword puzzle. Reavis said Davie's bench could compete with most teams' starters. Ember Spillman, Tina Harkness and Amanda Bailey are three capable shortstops, Dawn Williamson and Ashlie Sanders are mighty equals at third base and Ashley Bracken, Amber Hamm and Harkness are all good enough to play second.

"I've got so many kids who can play different positions that I could start somebody different in each position every game," said Reavis, who is still trying to distinguish the varsity and JV rosters. "I mean, we're deep everywhere. All my infielders can play outfield, so we're going to be strong all the way around.

"I have very many tough decisions. It makes it real tough. I mean, it's a

Talent Galore: Soccer Team Has Experience, And Tough Schedule

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

Davie girls soccer coach Pete Gustafson doesn't have to look too hard to find an abundance of talent on his roster.

"I think we're capable of playing some really good soccer," said Gustafson, who returns 11 starters and 72 percent of the scoring from last year's 12-5-1 team. "I'll be disappointed if we don't play really well. It looks like a good group of kids."

Finding a soft spot on the schedule is a little more difficult. Davie ripped through eight nonconference teams 33-0 last year, but Gustafson beefed up the early schedule with Forbush and Southwest Randolph, hoping to better prepare the War Eagles for a daunting conference menu.

"Our schedule is a little tougher than last year," said Gustafson, who is beginning his ninth year at the helm. "We play Forbush twice – they were like 14-5 last year – and Southwest Randolph. The games there are going to be a little tougher than what we had before, which is what we need."

The Central Piedmont Conference is nasty as ever. Mt. Tabor, Reynolds and West Forsyth, perennial powers that beat Davie five of six times (Davie tied Tabor 0-0 in the first meeting) last year, are all ranked in the top 10 of the preseason 4-A poll, meaning Davie could conceivably have a stronger 1999 team and still not match last year's victory total.

"We've got 18 games and you know who all are going to be with," Gustafson said. "We're cutting four or five here and they're each getting 100, 125 girls trying out for Reynolds, West and Tabor. They are just always going to be tough. But who knows, they could have a down year."

Hot Tigers: South Davie Girls Continue Winning Ways

South Davie's girls are the county's hottest basketball team, and in some ways, they're still hot in spite of themselves.

The Tigers slogged past Mooresville 23-12, woke up in the second half for a 34-14 rout over Concord and improved to 6-2 despite a sputtering offense that has created long-range concerns for Coach Tim Kenney.

"The last couple games we've been playing ugly," he said. "We've been winning ugly. We haven't been clicking offensively. For the most part we've been sluggish."

Defense has bailed the Tigers out. In the six wins, they're holding opponents to 22 points a game, including 15 over the last three victories. Kenney would hate to think what might have happened last week if it weren't for a tenacious defense that strangled Mooresville and limited Concord to four second-half points. But, on the other hand, coaches worship the adage that defense wins championships. And South, counted out of the regular-season title race, has emerged as a contender for the upcoming Piedmont Middle School Conference Tournament.

"The girls are excellent defensively," Kenney said. "A lot of these girls have good instincts on the court. They don't give up a lot of easy baskets, and that's what's been keeping us in games. They know that if they're having a bad day offensively, they can pick it up defensively."

South's lethargic first half against Concord, which held the Tigers to two second-quarter points and found itself down just 12-10, pushed Kenney beyond the breaking point. He ripped the girls during the break and demanded a second-half performance worthy of their record.

South responded, stymieing the Cougars 22-4 the rest of the way.

Manager Cherishes Time With Tar Heels

"I spend so much time with these people it's hard not to get emotionally involved and excited when things happen," she said. "I feel like this is probably my family away from home.

"Oh yeah, I do (get excited). It's hard not to. I can't stand to lose. Fortunately, with this program, it doesn't happen a whole lot."

Hinshaw has a lifetime of stories to share. She said the fondest memories are last year's ACC Tournament championship and Final Four appearance in San Antonio, Texas and this year's Preseason NIT title at Madison Square Garden in New York.

"I just feel fortunate to be in the situation that I'm in, and I have so many fond memories that will last a lifetime," she said. "I've definitely made friends that will last a lifetime that I never would have met otherwise."

Hinshaw's spirits descend somewhat when she confronts future's next question. She isn't sure whether she'll commit to another managerial year. If she decides to concentrate solely on wrapping up pharmacy school, she said there will be a certain void in her heart that nothing else could quite fulfill.

"I'm not sure yet what I'm going to do manager-wise," she said. "It'll be a big loss just because you become emotionally attached when you spend so much time with the players and coaches and managers."

Reavis Facing Tough Lineup Decisions

good kind of tough, though. It's good that I have somebody sitting over there that is good enough to play. We don't have a weak player out there. Anybody could start on any given day, just depending on how they work. They know that. They've been told that everyday."

The team's continuity will hinge on whether reserves except the coach's decision and express support during games. So often, bench bitterness rips a team's soul and prevents a great team from reaching its potential. Reavis hopes that never becomes an issue, that reserves will continue to work and exude patience.

"I'm hoping that they all will pull together as a team and see that just because they're not out there right now doesn't mean they're not good enough," she said. "I hope that they think more team than they do me, me.

"It's going to depend on who works in practice. That's what we keep telling them."

Potent Pitching

Davie returns its main three arms from last year – junior Jessica Whitley and sophomores Shannon Handy and Sanders – and they're powerful enough to carry the War Eagles all the way even with modest hitting.

Last year, Whitley struck out 47 in 67 2/3 innings, won eight of 12 decisions and recorded two saves; Handy fanned 44 in 48 2/3, went 5-4 and earned one save; and fireballer Sanders blew away 55 in 28 1/3 and delivered six saves.

"We're going to be deep pitching," Reavis said. "We've got a lot of pitchers and a lot of potential. We can mix it up each time. I'm not going to say we have one that's any better than the other because we have some that have different strong points."

Reavis will say that Davie's staff, which includes talented sophomore Kim Hilton, is quite likely the CPC's finest and one of the state's best, hands down.

"We're going to be deep enough where if we get in trouble we've got somebody that can come in," she said. "We're not going to struggle pitching."

Notes: Davie returns a vast cast of proven hitters, including four of the top sticks among last year's regulars: Sanders hit .422 in 64 at-bats, Williamson hit .393 in 56 at-bats, Dana Smith hit .384 in 73 at-bats and Natalie Foster hit .375 in 72 at-bats. . . . Although Reavis has no assistant coaches, she doesn't foresee that as a problem. "My (four) seniors are going to help me coach bases," she said, "and I've got a good, mature group of seniors that can handle that I think." . . . The seniors are Bracken, Smith, Williamson and Foster. . . . Bill Meadows and John Williams return for their 11th year as JV coaches. . . . Davie will open in a tournament at South Stokes on March 13.

Gustafson Returns Top Scorers To DHS Roster

If so, the War Eagles could make an impact in the chase for two CPC playoff berths, largely because seven players who were responsible for 39 of last year's 54 goals return: Meredith Hendrix (10 goals), Hannah Woodward (eight), Sarah Jackson (five), Megan Mick (four), Caroline Steed (four), Julie Agejew (three) and Emily Harpe (two).

Gustafson

But Davie only managed 21 goals in 10 conference matches, including just three against the top three teams.

"The main emphasis this year is to get more aggressive and have less turnovers due to people bumping," Gustafson said. "If we can get aggressive and go shoulder to shoulder with every team we play, we can make our own luck. I mean, if we don't let anybody run over us, we can stay in there."

The War Eagles' greatest strength: They return starters at every position. Rebecca Stockert and Katherine Phillips return at keeper, Elise Whitaker, Erin Baldwin and Agejew return at defender, Haley Queen, Steed, Mick and Jackson return at midfield and Woodward and Hendrix return at striker.

Depth is another ally. Shannon Bokeno has experience at defender and Anna Riddle and Kaitlin Callahan are seasoned midfielders.

"Our defense looks pretty squared," Gustafson said. "I haven't had to do any basic training. They know all their positions pretty well.

"Both keepers are doing a great job, and I think midfield will be like last year. That's where most of our goals will come from."

Kaylyn Smith is a defender who transferred from Wyoming. Harpe, last year's most improved player, has yet to report to practice because of competition cheerleading.

Bad Luck Costs Davie Swim Team At State Championship

Freshman Meagan Clark caught pneumonia during the regionals and had to drop out of two events. The boys 200 freestyle relay team was disqualified for an early start. Senior Brad Clark's best time ever in the 50 freestyle (22.59) was good for merely ninth place. And senior Erin Heiny, a two-time state champion in the 500 freestyle and the greatest swimmer in school history, finished sixth in the 500 free and fifth in the 100 backstroke.

"Honestly don't know what it was," Coach Ben Allred said of Heiny's misfortunes. "I think it was the combination of some sickness and maybe the training level wasn't up there to where it had been."

Allred suspected that Heiny expended vast energy in the 500 free, burned whatever he had left in the 200 free relay and staggered through the 100 backstroke.

"He went straight (from the 500 free) into this relay and he was dead in the 100 back," Allred said. "Compared to what he's had in the past, these weren't his best times."

Allred felt for Brad Clark, who surpassed another personal milestone in the 50 free only to come up with ninth place.

"Against the competition he had, he couldn't do anything," Allred said.

Heiny, Clark, Jeff Frisby and Ben Stilling were disqualified in the 200 free relay and Meagan Clark's pneumonia and Adriene Bridgewater's bad knee prevented Davie from fielding a girls relay.

"That would have put them in the top 15, but it was a bad start," Allred said of the disqualification. "Someone left before someone else touched the wall. It was really close."

Heiny finished in the top six of the 500 free four consecutive years, finishing third as a freshman, first as a sophomore and junior and sixth as a senior.

Star Players Key To Success

Senior Matt Young, the JV's starting shortstop as a sophomore, has knocked off the rust from a year hiatus and made a strong bid for starting shortstop.

"He's come a long way," Herndon said. "He was a little rusty at first, but he's right back in the groove of things. He's got a lot of power. Looking at him, he looks like he couldn't hit it out of the infield. He drives the ball real well. We're counting on him."

Junior center fielder Zeke Earle is another surprise, the third unknown that Herndon is counting on to complement the team's designated drives, Patti and Ridenhour.

"He's unbelievable, the speed he has and the power he has," Herndon said. "He has a great arm. He has all the physical tools to be one of the best players to ever come out of Davie County. He's got to work on the mental game a little bit. We're confident that he's going to do a great job. We're definitely going to give him the opportunity."

The Undisputed Leaders

Patti and Ridenhour presumably hold the keys to Davie's success.

Patti is the staff's sharpest scalpel, an ace lefty who struck out 40 in 43 1/3 innings, compiled a 4.20 ERA and finished 3-4 as a junior. "He's going to be the horse we're going to ride, because every time he's on the mound we have a very good chance of winning," Herndon said. "That's a lot of pressure but he's a senior, he's a leader, and he's got to be able to produce. There's no reason why he shouldn't. Victor can be as good as he wants to be."

Last year, Patti's bat made as much noise as his arm. He led the regulars with a .365 average in 52 at-bats.

"He's not your typical power hitter, he's just going to slap it around, put it in play and hit it where they're not," Herndon said. "He has a good eye for the ball and he's disciplined."

Davie will rely on Ridenhour's all-around game, influencing pitchers and producing runs from the heart of the order. He hit .307 as a sophomore, delivering three doubles, a triple and two homers.

"Drew has the potential to be a .400 hitter," Herndon said. "Drew should hit well above .307. He's a lot stronger now, a lot more mature and he had a decent year with the Legion team. He saw some good pitching, and that's only going to make him better."

Defensively, Ridenhour will dare runners to even look at second base. Most importantly, he's improved at blocking pitches in the dirt and enhanced his college appeal.

"Everybody knows he has a strong arm, but a lot of people will be surprised how much better he's gotten at blocking balls, receiving and framing," Herndon said. He's got the type of frame a lot of college coaches are looking for because he's 6-3, 202 pounds, swings a good bat and got a great arm. He needs to improve a little bit on his feet and blocking, and he's working extremely hard at doing that."

A lot will ride on Jeremiah Creason's effectiveness as the No. 2 starter. A junior, Creason has thrown just one varsity inning. But Herndon believes he can get hitters out with varying speeds and exquisite location.

"He has a lot more movement than most right-handers do," Herndon said. "He's just a junior and I don't know if he realizes how good he can be because he's got a great frame, he's got a live arm and movement. The thing that he's going to have to do is be consistent throwing strikes. And if he can do that, he will be our No. 2 all year."

Notes: Herndon will use Ridenhour, who throws in the mid-80s, as a closer in close conference games . . . Herndon will try to ignite a suspect offense through aggression. "We'll probably lead the conference in getting thrown out at the plate, but we're going to give it a shot. We're going to get caught stealing, especially early in the game. You can bet the house we're going to try to run on everybody. We're going to try to keep the pressure on the defense, trying to be aggressive but not stupid." . . . The rest of the roster: seniors David Nail, Michael Mitchell, Neil Wagstaff, Brian Grout, Paul Sparks and Wesley Melton; juniors Ross Smith, J.C. Williard, Clint Bailey and Brad Willard . . . Davie's first seven regular-season games are at home, starting with Salisbury March 8 at 4:30 p.m.

Wildcats Unable To Get Over Hump

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

Coach Danny Allard has just wanted to be within striking range in the second half against all the favored opponents on the North Davie seventh-grade boys basketball team's schedule. The rookie head coach has gotten his wish about every time – and no more.

"We play teams tough and we give them a better game than they think we're going to give them," said Allard, "but somewhere along the way we just start making a few mistakes here or there and the game just gets away from us."

Last week's losses – 52-35 to Kannapolis and 52-45 to J.N. Fries – summed up Allard's frustrations. The Wildcats trailed the Blue Devils 18-16 at halftime before suffering a second-half meltdown. They rode the Knights' bumper to a 27-24 halftime deficit, then traded baskets and never got over the hump in the most painful loss of the year. Even at 1-7, Allard considers North a dangerous team quite capable of playing the spoiler's role in the final week of the season if it can ever solve the second-half jinx.

"The one real frustrating thing about this year is I feel like there's only been one game that we were out of (a 52-18 loss to West Rowan)," he said. "We shouldn't have been closer in the end (to West). We were just outmatched there, but we've been in the rest of the games. I mean, somewhere along the way things just don't go our way and teams jump out to a big lead."

Ryan Price's big first half (12 points) kept North within two points of Kannapolis, but the Blue Devils found the Wildcats' weaknesses and outscored them 34-19 in the second half, holding Price to four points during the Kannapolis onslaught.

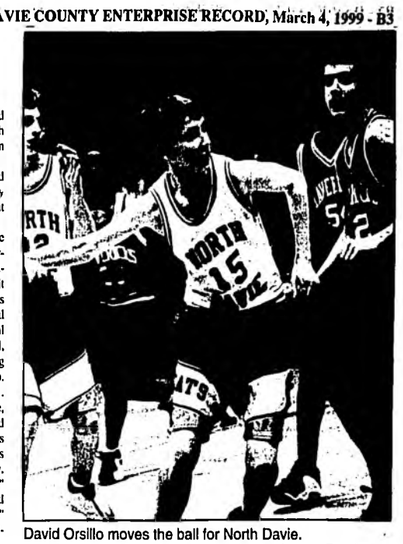

Fries sustained its edge throughout the second half because the Wildcats had no answer for the Knights' superior point guard, the league's most talented weapon, according to Allard. Fries' general, Anthony Harris, scored 20 and held off North 25-21 down the stretch.

"He was probably the best point guard I've seen in the eighth grade or seventh grade this year," Allard said. "He was amazing. If he wanted to, he could have scored every time down the floor. He handled the ball so well. He was just so quick we didn't have anybody that could keep up with him. He was also a very good passer."

Against Kannapolis, Price led with a season-high 16, followed by David Orsillo with 12, Derek Comatzer with three and Zac Morton and Brandon Pane with two each.

Against Fries, Jacques Lyons and Pane led with 11 each, followed by Comatzer with nine, Price with eight and Orsillo with six.

Notes: Allard said Price overcame tentativeness and found himself during the 12-point first half against Kannapolis. "I've gotten on Ryan a little bit because Ryan is a good player but he's a little cautious sometimes," Allard said. "I took him out of the game real quick and said: 'When you get the ball, I want you to be ready to do something with it.' That just kind of woke him up. He got on fire there for a while." . . . Orsillo has provided consistent offense, hitting double figures four times and averaging a team-high 9.1, and centers Thomas Schambach, Cody Stephens and Pane have progressed steadily. "Our centers have really improved," Allard said. "They've all done a good job rebounding and playing defense." . . . Lyons and Price each hit two 3-pointers against Fries.

Fries Stops Schafer

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

North Davie's girls basketball team came out Thursday stroking, only to end up poking through the ashes of a second-half meltdown against a formidable J.N. Fries team that remained in the conference championship hunt.

Alison Schafer lit the Wildcats' wick, scoring all eight of North's first-quarter points and five of the team's eight in the second to build a 16-12 halftime lead. But Fries presumably lurked a lot about Schafer during the break. The Knights smothered her the rest of the way and got into an unstoppable offensive groove that produced 16-7 runs in the third and fourth quarters en route to a 44-30 outcome.

North, which trashed Kannapolis 46-9 earlier in the week, slipped to 4-4 with two regular-season games left.

"They didn't miss in the second half," Coach Jamie Lyerly said of Fries. "One girl had 10 points in the third quarter and another girl had eight in the fourth quarter. I mean, everything they shot went in."

In the second half, the Wildcats succumbed to Fries' full-court press, throwing the ball away repeatedly and hoisting ill-advised shots. And they started sagging defensively, allowing Fries to nearly triple its first-half output and improve to 7-1.

"We had too many turnovers and we were taking bad shots in the second half," Lyerly said. "They started pressing man-to-man and that caused a lot of turnovers. And we've just got to toughen up our defense."

Schafer shook Fries for a half, jumpstarting her outburst with a 3-pointer. But the Knights eventually found her and no one else could pose a threat.

"In the first half Schafer was hitting everything," Lyerly said. "She got some good shots in the first half.

"Then in the second half, she couldn't get any good shots. She played a good first half but she couldn't do anything in the second half."

So, after being held to two points in the second half, Schafer finished with 15, followed by Kierston Kahrs with four, Brittany Holt and Alison McNeil with three each, Jenny Ferrell and Ashley Spain with two apiece and Kelli York with one.

A Breeze

Lyerly glanced up at halftime, and for a moment, she lost track of time. North already had 20 points, just five shy of its average.

"Usually our final score is about 20 points," said Lyerly, whose team led hapless Kannapolis 20-2 on the way to a 37-point breeze. "This game we couldn't miss anything. Everything we shot went in just like Fries' second half (Thursday)."

Behind a trio of 10-point performers – Kelli Lawhon, Mandy Lambe and McNeil – North dissected the Blue Devils' limp zone defense and raced to a yawning gap, allowing Lyerly to rotate the bench freely. York and Kahrs added four each and Ferrell, Spain, Meredith Bryson and Laura Riddle had two apiece.

Amazingly, North piled up a season-high total without a single point from the free-throw line.

"They played like a 1-2-2 and the middle was wide open every time, and we just threw it inside and got a lot of easy layups," Lyerly said. "I had two different groups, and we just kept sending them in about every two or three minutes. So that was a good win."

Alex Vonsiatsky Earns Top Spot, Cash In Contest

Steve Frye settled for the next best thing, $5, for beating out Kevin Mullis and Dillard Moody in the Duke-UNC tiebreaker. All three missed eight, but Frye's 155 total points was closest to the 142. Mullis picked 163 and Moody picked 171.

Tournament To Be Held March 13-14

The tournament is double-elimination and the cost is $120 per team. The winner will receive a trophy, MVP award and individual plaques. A trophy will also go to runner-up.

Tigers Continuing To Struggle

That's the hurdle still facing South Davie's boys basketball team. The Tigers just can't get the 24-minute question right. They competed respectively with J.N. Fries for the final three quarters two weeks ago and they battled Mooresville for a half last week, trailing just 21-16.

Then the worst possible thing happened: The second half started. The Red Imps buried South's upset fantasies with a 22-4 third-quarter blizzard, leading to a 51-30 loss. Later in the week, Concord never let South in the door, jumping to a 30-13 lead, cruising 54-32 and dropping the struggling Tigers to 1-7.

"If we ever put two halves together, we're going to surprise ourselves," Coach Tim Kenney said.

The Tigers took a step forward in the first half against Mooresville, handling the Red Imps' pressure defense with poise, creating open shots with constant ball movement and showing flashes of basketball purity.

"That's the best first half of the basketball we've played all year," Kenney said. "We played a strong team and we did a good job handling their pressure. We played under control, we made good passes and we were hitting some outside shots. They really did look like a good team the first half."

Then the Tigers hit a wall, unraveling under the constant stress of pressure defense and committing fatal turnovers that fueled Mooresville's potent transition game. The Red Imps outscored South 29-14 after halftime.

"They pressed us full court, we panicked a little bit and made some unforced turnovers," Kenney said. "We were a little bit slow getting back on defense, which resulted in some easy transition points for Mooresville."

Kevin Winters reached double figures for the second consecutive game with 10. South also got five from Matthew Burchette, four from David Schweit, three each from Andrew McClannon and Nathan Crowe, two apiece from Bryon Kirkpatrick and Derrick Foster and one from Michael Gravatt.

Winters' nine points led the scoring for the third straight game against Concord, followed by Burchette with six, Mitchell Roberts with five, Crowe with three, Jeremy Young, Gravatt and Foster with two each and Schweit with one.

"Winters continues to play strong inside," Kenney said. "He's getting good shots and he's hustling for the ball."

Remodel Your Home With Dependable Pros: Miller Building & Remodeling

More and more homeowners in the Triad are letting the sun shine in with new vinyl replacement windows from Miller Building & Remodeling.

"Customers can save more than $350 a year in heating and cooling costs, with the double-pane, custom-fitted windows and patio doors from Great Lakes," says David Miller, who owns and operates Miller Building & Remodeling. The company, which Miller began in 1980, is a dealer for Great Lakes and Ply Gem Windows. This enables customers to have brand new replacement windows installed in their home with only one phone call.

"Our own crews do the installation," says Miller. "We measure, give quotes, take out the old windows, blinds and curtains, do installation, vacuum and clean up any debris," he says. "We also re-hang the curtains. All the lady of the house has to do is fluff them."

Great Lakes and Ply Gem windows carry a lifetime guarantee; and Miller Building has a two-year warranty on their workmanship. One of the many reasons David Miller's business has such a sterling reputation among re-modelers is the satisfaction of his customers.

"If you have a problem, we'll come back and fix it," Miller says.

Emerging technology in the building industry has developed superior materials, even in just the past five years, Miller says.

"Warm and cold air transfer through the windows has been greatly reduced, as well as the amount of ultraviolet rays which fade carpets and draperies," he says. Homeowners love the maintenance-free uPVC coating, which resists scratching and all types of weather.

A home with a more dated look can be revitalized with majestic new paladian picture windows. Older wooden sliding glass doors can be replaced with white vinyl-covered hinged patio doors, featuring a seven-point security lock and multi-layered weather-stripping. Light and dark oak and cherry wood-grain finishes are available in styles of elegant brass-beveled cathedral bows or sparkling Cape Cod casement bays.

Miller Building & Remodeling is a certified installer of BIRD vinyl siding, which carries a lifetime warranty. BIRD products include guttering, overhangs, exterior walls, window wraps and door frames. BIRD vinyl siding comes in new colors and styles; and greatly improves a home's resale value because of its durability and appearance.

Miller Building & remodeling is known all over the Triad for their dependability and quality workmanship. David Miller has more than 25 years' experience. Several of the men on his four crews have been with him for more than ten years. Miller attributes his success to the dedicated professionals who work for him, and to his commitment to communicating with his customers.

"Remodeling does not have to be a traumatic experience," he says. "We are conscious not only of cost, but of the privacy and the dignity of the homes we enter. At all times I try to communicate to the customer what we will do next and how long it might take."

Whether it is a new deck, an addition to your home, new ceramic tile in your kitchen or bath, or beautiful new energy-efficient replacement windows, homeowners are calling Miller Building for all of their remodeling needs. Call David or Terri Miller at (336) 998-2140 for a free estimate today.

Team Work Carries South Davie Girls Past Mooresville, Concord

"It shouldn't have been that close (at halftime)," Kenney said. "We were not focussed in the first half and I told the girls: 'Every game it's this way. What is wrong with you? Let's hold them to two points in the third quarter, and let's build us up to at least 25 points.'

"And that's exactly what they did. We always seem to come on with our biggest half in the second half, and I'm just trying to tell the girls let's put together two halves like that and we won't have to worry about the halftime speech."

Six different Tigers have led the scoring this season. This game belonged Carly Balsley and Andrea Dwiggins, who scored eight each to pace eight contributors.

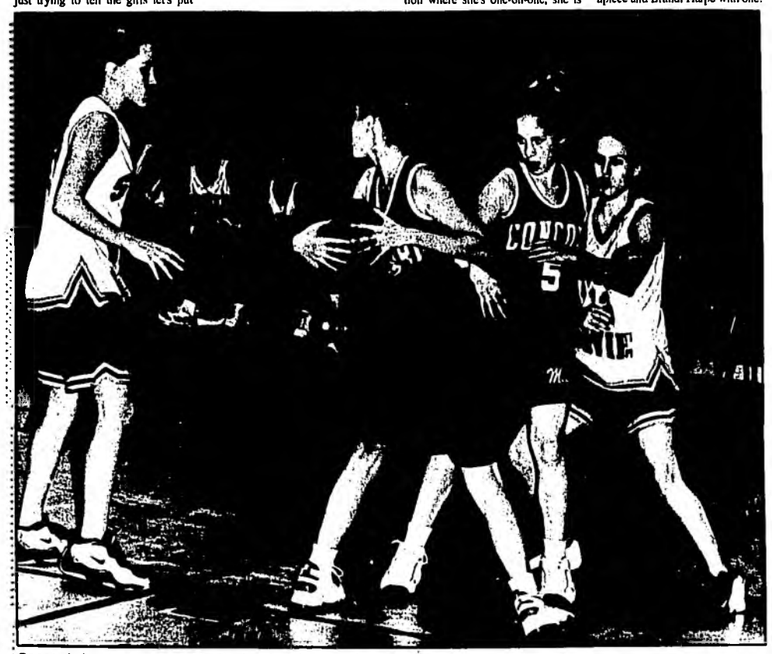

"Every game it seems to be somebody else who steps up, like Balsley," Kenney said. "She stepped up and just lit it up in the first quarter. She hit three good outside shots from the corner, and that got everybody going."

Then Dwiggins assumed control, contributing her eight during the second-half runaway. Kenney said Dwiggins has the ability to do that type of damage more often.

"She is one of those people that can take over a game when she wants to," he said. "If she gets the ball in a situation where she's one-on-one, she is going to take it to the rack. And she usually finishes very well."

Against Concord, South also got four each from Ashley Peoples, Savannah Kowalski and Shawna Smith and two apiece from Heather Boger, Alyse Bowden and Brittany Crotts.

In the Mooresville game, Boger led with six, followed by Balsley, Kowalski and Dwiggins with four each, Peoples and Megan Jordan with two apiece and Brandi Harpe with one.

Quality, Experience Are What Distinguish Don's Garage Doors

If you have driven by a new home under construction lately, the gleaming new garage doors were probably installed by Donald Miller of Don's Garage Doors.

In business since 1979, Donald and his son, Donald, Jr., install garage doors for more than 70 building contractors in the Piedmont Triad. They are in constant demand by builders such as Todd Isenhour of KTI Construction in Winston-Salem, who build many of the exclusive homes in the area.

Lee Riddle, foreman of the Custom Homes division of KTI Construction, uses Don's Garage Doors for the 18-20 custom homes he builds each year.

They do basically all of our work," says Riddle. "Their quality is good, and so is their service. Don puts up a good product."

Donald Miller offers all of his customers the highest quality at competitive prices, because he buys them directly from Amarr by the truckload. Amarr, a local garage door manufacturer, is used by many builders in the area because customers are pleased with their products.

Donald Miller also likes Amarr's five-to-ten year guarantee against manufacturer's defects. All workmanship and labor are guaranteed for one year after installation.

Many homeowners are replacing their old wooden garage doors with the newer metal doors. A prime advantage of the metal doors is that they never need painting, and come in four colors to match: white; almond; brown; and sandstone.

Homeowners also like the new insulated doors, says Don. "They keep heat inside during the winter, and heat out in the summer." Don says that the new doors have a number of very attractive designs in the window patterns: sunray; wagon wheel; cathedral or cascade. This can add greatly to a homes beauty, especially if the home faces the road, and the garage is prominent.

Don's Garage Doors sells the garage door operators as well, in the Liftmaster or Genie brand. Don's is known for their service, and for making sure that the doors work smoothly after installation.

Many commercial businesses regularly use Don's Garage Doors. Parkway Ford has been calling on Don Miller since 1979, for the large service doors in their dealership. Some of the huge doors are 12 feet high and equally as wide.

There is a reason why so many businesses regularly call on the reliable service of Don Miller.

"I try to give my customers a good job at a decent price, and stand behind all my work," says Miller. This successful philosophy has spread Don's business into Yadkin, Stokes, Davie, Davidson, Forsyth, Guilford counties, and all the way into Virginia.

No wonder so many families and businesses, when they need doors, call on Don Miller. Don's Garage Doors offers free estimates and measurement; and also performs repairs and service work on existing doors.

Call Don or Don, Jr. at his office at 336-699-4000, or on his mobile phone at 650-8499 for high quality and low prices today.

Notes & Quotes

Basketball Program Continues Improvement

Jim Young talked about a four-year project when he was hired two years ago to resurrect a gasping program. If Davie progresses at the same pace the next two years, he'll be able to run for mayor.

Inheriting a floundering 4-19 team, Young revived the War Eagles with a 10-14 season in 1997 and accelerated the rise with a 15-10 record this season, marking just the second winning season in 11 years and representing the fourth winningest team in school history. Davie won 20 games in 1969, 18 in 1968 and 17 in 1970.

"They've got a taste of the wins," Young said. "We didn't win enough to make us satisfied, but we won enough that we got hungry, hopefully."

Young speculates about a three-year completion to the rebuilding project because four starters return next year, including dynamic Duane Phillips, who averaged 26.4 points a game.

"We may be able to do it in three," he said. "With a program that's been in this situation for so long, it usually takes at least four years to get it turned around. But these kids are surprising me with their hard work and dedication. And if they continue this summer, we should really be in the (conference) hunt next year."

Davie will have one huge void next year, point guard Kenny Collins, the senior who contributed 11.8 points, 8.3 assists and 2.5 steals. Young, though, will miss Collins' unwavering leadership and lovable poker-face qualities infinitely more than his numbers.

"He's just a great kid," Young said. "With KC, it really doesn't matter if you're winning or losing or he's having a good night or a bad night, you would not ever be able to tell. He does a great job of controlling his emotions. I just think he's an outstanding young man. I wish he had another year."

Carol Cozart's second varsity girls basketball team rallied to double the victory total from each of the previous two years and opened many eyes by trailing champion South Rowan by just two points at the half of the conference tournament semifinals.

The 34-32 score revealed the War Eagles' substantial improvement and provided more thump to an 8-14 season, which followed 4-19 and 4-18 duds.

"These kids finished strong," said Cozart, who will return 10 of 12 players, including four starters. "The end is on so much of a higher note the way we finished. They finished playing some of their best basketball."

North Davie girls coach Jamie Lyerly considers Laura Riddle a special player. Although she's scored just four points through eight games, Riddle finds playing time because she finds every loose ball and has a passion for defense.

"She is the best defensive player that I have," Lyerly said. "When there's a loose ball on the court, she is there tying it up for a jump ball. Her knees are just bruised and scarred all up because she's always on the floor scrambling after the ball. She is always hustling on defense, and a lot of times her effort doesn't show up in the scorebook."

North's boys coach, Danny Allard, expressed genuine gratitude for the Wildcats' willingness to continue giving maximum effort despite a 1-7 record.

"These guys still love coming to practice every day," he said. "They still work hard and play hard, they're just coming up a little bit short. But we'll get things turned around. We've still got three games left."

The South Davie boys' 1-7 record has pushed Coach Tim Kenney to the brink of insanity. He's trying hard to withstand the pain.

"I'm getting a little frustrated," he said. "I'm trying to keep it under wraps. I've blown my top a couple times, and I shouldn't have. But the kids are learning, they're getting better and they are improving."

One team will vent their 1-7 frustrations when North and South meet March 8 at South.

She's been participating in Special Olympics for most of her life and loves the freedom to just be herself which she experiences there, she said.

The 22-year-old Mocksville resident has been making quite a name for herself in the world of Special Olympics this year – recently named North Carolina Special Olympics Athlete of the Year.

Streit also serves on the state board of directors for the organization and is chairperson for the athlete council.

Her involvement in these aspects of Special Olympics keeps her busy, but she hasn't let it interfere with her athletic participation. In fact, she's enjoying her most successful year as an athlete.

Streit, who won three gold medals at the state equestrian competition in Raleigh this year, just found out she will be representing North Carolina at the Special Olympics World Games to be held in July.

The Davie athlete claimed top honors in western equitation, western trails and western showmanship and will compete in all three events at the World Games.

"She was beating herself up, " she said. "Then she got the gold medal."

Streit To Compete In Equestrian Olympics

Competition was tough, and, at the end of her performance in each event, she thought she had blown it, her mother said.

In one event, Streit and her horse Teddy were the only team to successfully complete one of the moves, she added.

For two months prior to competition, Streit and Teddy practiced about two hours every day and worked with coach Michelle Stowers about two hours a week.

Streit said she has owned the 16-year-old quarterhorse Teddy for about a year. She bought him at a fraction of his true value from Stowers, who was no longer able to ride him due to multiple sclerosis.

Streit has a friend in the horse she's been riding for about four years. When she trained with another horse, loaned to her by Robin Durham, her coach in 1997, she cried to have Teddy back, she said.

"Teddy's my partner. I wouldn't be able to do it without him," she explained.

She's also grateful to three coaches, who have helped her develop the skills to get where she is, Stowers, Durham and Marie Seagraves.

At the World Games, it will be up to Streit to succeed without Teddy. Competitors are not allowed the advantage of riding their own horses and will be given just three hours to practice with another animal, Kathie explained.

Although she won't be able to ride him, Teddy will be going with her to the World Games where other equestrian athletes will be teamed with him, Streit said.

It's likely to be an unforgettable experience for both of them, as Streit becomes just the fifth athlete from Davie County ever to earn a place at the Special Olympics World Games, joining the ranks of Danny Chunn, Sharon Thompson, Barbara Walters and Robb Williams.

She wouldn't have made it where she is in her life without the support of her mother and the chance to be herself through Special Olympics, Streit said.

The Davie High School graduate has been employed at Funder America for about a year and a half as a machine operator and is learning to drive a forklift.

In addition to competing in Special Olympics and serving on several boards, Streit is also involved in the organization as a coach for Davie County's bowling team.

Her community activities include volunteering with the Humane Society of Davie County, Senior Games, Meals on Wheels, ARC Camp and holiday events sponsored by the Mocksville-Davie Parks and Recreation Department.

She also enjoys displaying her talents through Very Special Arts. She is especially interested in writing poetry and short stories and is now working on a play.

Whatever the outcome of competition in July, Streit knows she's made her mother proud and that Special Olympics is an important part of their lives.

Green Named Administrator Of Mocksville's Somerset Court

Diversified Senior Services, a developer of assisted living residences, has named Nancy "Dusty" Green as administrator of its 60-unit assisted living residence, Somerset Court of Mocksville.

Under construction and slated to open for occupancy in May, Somerset Court is located in downtown Mocksville at North Main Street and Ken Dwiggins Drive (formerly Walnut Street).

Green brings 15 years of nursing experience to her role of administrator and was most recently director of Davie Place Residential Care. She moved to North Carolina two years ago to marry her husband Ed and they settled in Mocksville because they both responded to the town, the people, the rural setting and the easy access to other metropolitan areas. She has two children; a son, Brian, who is a student at Lindsey Wilson College in Columbia, Ky., and a daughter, Pamela, who attends Tennessee Technological University in Cookeville, Tenn. Her husband is a seminary student at Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary in Wake Forest.

In addition to her previous work at Davie Place, Green has been active in the North Carolina Assisted Living Association. She has served on Care South's Professional Advisory Committee and is on the CAP Advisory Committee of Davie County, and is the Region II Coordinator for NCALA.

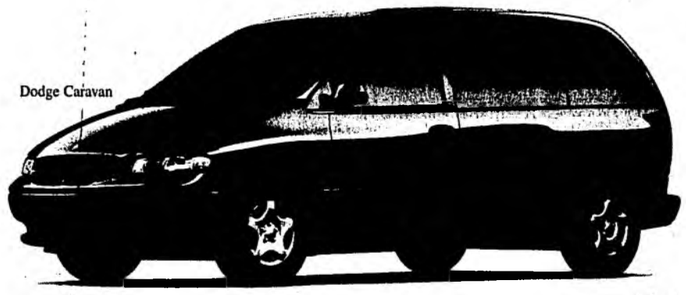

Green is excited about Somerset Court of Mocksville as it will provide "low and moderate-income seniors, who may need assistance in their daily lives, with a living option previously unavailable in Davie County." She looks forward to "building a whole health and wellness model to provide dignity and quality of life to all seniors." At this time, Dusty is busy developing promotional and educational activities to better introduce Somerset Court to the community. On-site tours of the residence will begin sometime in the next 4 to 6 weeks. Anyone interested in scheduling a tour or obtaining information about Somerset Court is invited to call Dusty at 336-751-1209.

Diversified Senior Services, Inc. has been a developer of assisted and independent living residences for the frail elderly since its initial public offering in January of 1998. Its stock is traded on the Nasdaq SmallCap Market under the symbol DISS. The executive offices of the Company are located at 915 W. Fourth St. in Winston-Salem.

A substance abuse poster contest was sponsored by the substance abuse committee.

Healthy Carolinians Working For Davie People

The Healthy Carolinians of Davie County Task Force is a 25-member board appointed by the Davie County Commissioners to identify problems affecting the health of Davie County and to design community strategies to deal with health problems.

The mission is "to provide the health department and the local health community with a consensus plan to guide and assist in collectively planning and instituting long-range preventive health care strategies to improve and meet the future health needs of Davie citizens."

In 1993, at a Community Forum for Public Health, more than 100 residents reviewed health statistics and wrote the NC Healthy People 2000 Task Force's 11 health concerns in the following manner: substance abuse; sexually transmitted diseases; physical fitness and nutrition; injury prevention; immunizations; mental health' infant mortality; chronic disease; dental decay; and environmental health.

In 1994, the Davie County Healthy People Task Force held its first organizational meeting. The task force elected officers and appointed the following three health concern committees: substance abuse, sexually transmitted diseases, and physical fitness and nutrition.

In May of 1994, the task force became a certified "Community Healthy Carolinians Task Force."

In October of 1995, Healthy Carolinians of Davie County received a Duke Endowment Grant through efforts of the Davie County Hospital (Novant Health) and the Davie County Health Department. This grant has helped provide the people and resources needed to keep the Healthy Carolinians of Davie County program going strong, said Wendi Selbe, program coordinator.

There are 73 counties that are certified as Healthy Carolinian Task Forces or in the process of becoming certified by the state. Davie is recognized statewide for its list of numerous accomplishments. Healthy Carolinians of Davie County has held four annual community forums to receive community feedback about the program. New goals for each committee are identified and implemented from the input received at this community event.

Healthy Carolinians of Davie County consists of a task force and five health concern committees: substance abuse, sexually transmitted diseases, physical fitness and nutrition, chronic disease, and health status and health care access committee. Each sub-committee is chaired by a member of the task force. The chairperson of the five committees are: substance abuse, Frances Tutterow; sexually transmitted diseases, Becky McMahan; chronic disease, Cathy Manson and Crystal Campbell; health status and health care access, Larry Hayes; and physical fitness and nutrition, Mike Garner.

The substance abuse committee focuses on substance abuse prevention, education, and awareness. A few of the committee's most recent efforts include: supporting National Red Ribbon Week, participating in the Davie County DARE Fair, sponsoring substance abuse contests for the youth of Davie County, sponsoring the Vial of Life program, and providing the citizens of Davie County with substance abuse information.

The goals of the Substance Abuse Committee are to:

- Provide information about the abuse of legal substances to 20 percent of Davie County's household population.
- Provide public awareness programs to parents, children, the working population, and the elderly population about the effects and dangers associated with driving while impaired, tobacco use, and illegal drug use and abuse.

Another committee first established with the Healthy Carolinians of Davie County program was the Sexually Transmitted Diseases Committee. Although sexually transmitted diseases can be a touchy subject, the committee has been able to provide a significant amount of education throughout the county, said Lowana Gardner, program coordinator.

The committee concentrates on public awareness and education. It produces quarterly publishings about sexually transmitted diseases in the Davie County Enterprise, provides educational material at health fairs, sponsors speakers for local events, supports World AIDS Day, and participates in many other events.

Recently, the Sexually Transmitted Disease Committee worked with the Davie High Leadership Development Class to bring the nationally known AIDS Quilt to Davie County. The quilt was displayed at Davie High School for approximately one week. This was a unique opportunity for Davie County. The quilt allowed the committee to provide education about HIV/AIDS and sexually transmitted diseases.

The committee also recently sponsored a "Hepatitis In The Workplace" seminar. This seminar was offered to local business and industry leaders in Davie County and provided free information about how they could protect themselves, their employees, and their patrons from disease.

The Sexually Transmitted Diseases Committee looks forward to a prosperous future and continuing to educate our community about the risks and consequences of risky behaviors, Gardner said.

The Sexually Transmitted Diseases Committee's goals and objectives are:

- Increase by 50 percent the number of at-risk persons (sexually active and/or intravenous drug users) identified and referred for appropriate medical/support HIV infection/AIDS services.
- Reduce by 50 percent the proportion of Davie County citizens 15-24 years of age contracting a non-HIV reportable sexually transmitted disease.

In September of 1998, Healthy Carolinians of Davie County started its fifth working sub-committee with the formation of the Chronic Disease Committee.

The idea to start the Chronic Disease Committee originated following last year's Community Forum. During the forum, it was determined that chronic disease ranked fourth on a list of health concern topics in Davie County. Since almost every American family is in some way adversely affected by chronic disease - through the death of loved ones, through family members living with long-term illness, disability, and diminished quality of life, or a large financial burden wrought by those diseases - this committee has been given the opportunity to make a difference in the community.

In addition, in Davie County, chronic disease is the leading cause of death of those above the age of 40.

The Chronic Disease Committee is co-chaired by Cathy Manson, registered dietitian, and Crystal Campbell, registered nurse with the Davie County Health Department. The committee consists of approximately 18 members. The committee has adopted heart disease, cancer, and diabetes as its top three health concerns. The committee looks forward to establishing both a heart disease and diabetes support group in Davie County, as well as providing education and health screenings for the citizens of Davie County, Selbe said. On Feb. 5, the committee offered free blood pressure screening at the new Bi-Lo in the Healthy Carolinians Mobile Unit. The second activity conducted was a "Living With Diabetes" program. The program was held Feb. 11 at the Davie County Public Library, with 140 people participating.

The coming year looks promising for the Chronic Disease Committee, Selbe said.

Chronic Disease Committee goals are as follows:

- Increase participation in all established chronic disease related support groups.
- Initiate and maintain diabetes and heart disease support groups for Davie County.
- Establish speakers bureau whereby community organizations in Davie County could have resources available to provide chronic disease education.
- Increase public awareness of effects of chronic disease in hopes of reducing the incidence of chronic disease.

The Physical Fitness & Nutrition Council has been around since the beginning of the Healthy Carolinians of Davie County program.

The committee started the Davie County Youth Physical Fitness & Nutrition Survey in the Davie County School System in 1996. This study is used to indicate if the children of Davie County's physical fitness levels are comparable to State and National physical fitness levels.

The committee also helps sponsor the Annual American Heart Walk, held the first Saturday of each November at Rich Park. The committee is continually trying to encourage citizens to stay active and physically fit.

The committee is working on producing a fitness and nutrition brochure to distribute to residents. The brochure will contain a detailed list of facilities in the county that are available for public access to fitness and nutrition opportunities.

Physical Fitness & Nutrition goals are as such:

- Reduce by 5 percent the number of school-age children, ages 5-19, whose body fat composition exceeds the national average.
- Reduce by 5 percent the number of adults, ages 19-60, that are overweight in a working environment.

This committee was established to help the residents of Davie County receive better health services and better access to health care. Cooleemee was the first area of Davie County that the committee chose to place their focus.

Through this committee, Healthy Carolinians was able to purchase a mobile unit that is primarily used to assist the Health Status Committee reach their goals. Since the committee has been in existence, it has been able to provide Davie County residents with various health services such as: blood pressure screening, blood sugar screening, cholesterol screening, and immunizations. The committee has been able to help sponsor breast, cervical, and prostate cancer screenings, as well as participate in the Cooleemee Fall Festival.

Committee goals are as follows:

- Increase public awareness of the type and availability of health care resources in Davie County.
- Increase the number of Davie County children and youth whose permanent teeth are free of dental decay.

How can you become involved? Become a sub-committee member; volunteer for special community activities; and make suggestions that help address our health concerns.

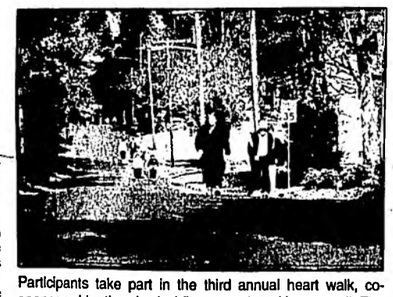

Healthy Carolinians of Davie County welcomes and encourages community involvement. If you are interested in becoming part of this winning program, or want additional information about Healthy Carolinians of Davie County, contact Selbe or Gardner, program coordinators, by phone at (336) 751-8700.

The health status and health care access committee of Healthy Carolinians of Davie hold meeting.

Participants take part in the third annual heart walk, co-sponsored by the physical fitness and nutrition council. The walk is held the first Saturday of November.

Dr. George D. Kimberly, MC, CMD, has been granted the title of Certified Medical Director in Long Term Care (CMD). Kimberly is one of 92 physicians who have completed the CMD requirements.

Since the program's inception in 1991, 1,206 physicians nationwide have received the CMD designation.

The Certified Medical Director in Long Term Care program was created to enhance the profession of medical direction throughout the long term care continuum (e.g., nursing facilities, hospice, subacute care), and to reinforce the leadership role of the medical director in providing quality care. The CMD program recognizes the dual clinical and administrative roles of the medical director and requires indicators of competence in both areas. The dual nature of the skills needed makes the position of medical director unique in medicine.

The certification process is based on an experiential model that incorporates mechanisms such as fellowship programs, board certification in a medical specialty, AMDA-sponsored comprehensive courses in medical direction, continuing medical education programs and administrative experience to fulfill certification requirements.

Tooth Decay May Be Prevented

As we fast approach the 21st century, the phrase that comes to mind is "The Future is Now." The way children care for their bodies today, will have an impact on their health as adults, said Sharon Boger, public health dental hygienist.

"The good news is that preventive dental care has dramatically improved the oral health of American children. It's now possible for many children to reach adulthood without ever experiencing tooth decay," Boger said.

Boger offers these tips for parents and caregivers:

- Take your child to see the dentist regularly, beginning by the child's first birthday.
- Put only water in a child's naptime or bedtime bottle.
- Start brushing as soon as the child's first tooth appears.
- Begin flossing when two teeth begin to touch.
- Brush and floss your child's teeth daily until the child can be taught to do this alone.
- Make certain your child gets the fluoride needed for decay-resistant teeth. Ask your dentist how this should be done.
- Ask your dentist about dental sealants, a thin protective barrier that shields the chewing surface of back teeth against tooth decay.

Good oral health practices should begin in infancy and continue throughout adult life. In your child's early years, you must provide this care. Later you will need to instruct, monitor and motivate your child to help maintain good oral health habits, Boger said.

"Attitudes and habits established at an early age are critical in maintaining good oral health throughout life."

Pino News

There will be a spaghetti supper at Wesley Chapel Church on Saturday, March 13, 6-8:30 p.m. Takeouts will be available. The youth group is sponsoring and doing the work with a little adult help. They will also get to use the proceeds. The cost is $5. The youth would appreciate everyone's support.

The beautiful yellow and white flowers placed in the church Sunday were in memory of John Gaither Ward, in honor of his birthday. His granddaughter, Christie Gentry of Charlotte, was a visitor.

It was nice to see Bob and Louise Dill back Sunday. Their pew has been empty for several weeks.

There were several members with perfect attendance for the month of February. The fellowship class had 6: Coleen Dull, Marie Miller, Vernon Dull, Clyde and Virginia Murray, and Roland West. In the young adult class, Madelyn Gentry had perfect attendance, and in the youth class was Matthew Miller, Nick Rouse and Brandy Dull.

Our prayers are going to Mildred Miles of Indianapolis, Indiana, the grandmother of Toni Horton. She has broken her leg.

James and Lelia Essie had two nice surprises last week. On Tuesday, their son Neal and his wife Brenda, arrived with supper in hand. On Friday their daughter Mary Ellen Candillo of Winston-Salem, provided supper from Dockside Seafood. They are very thankful for their children.

Cana News

By John "Cain" Godwin
Cana Correspondent

I am sad to report that my Uncle Don Benton that I mentioned in the last paper passed away Feb. 24. He was General Mark Clark's pilot and was able to meet General Mac Arthur in the war. My favorite thing that I learned was that he lived in the Cana house when he married my Aunt Mable Joyce Cain; it was the first home for his daughter, Mary Lue Benton, in 1949. We will all miss his friendship and love for people.

Don't think you can call the new Domino's Pizza and have a pizza delivered; they don't deliver to Cana. I like Pizza Hut anyway.

Happy Birthday Marty Etchison Babcock and Larry Tutterow.

New Radio Program Starting

The Foundation for Applied Christianity announces the sponsoring of a new radio program, The Radio Church of the Air, on WDSL-AM Mocksville.

The new program will feature the voice of Dr. George Truett Stallings, nationally known Baptist minister, evangelist, author, teacher, lecturer, and radio broadcaster. WDSL is situated on the dial at 1520. The first broadcast will be on March 7. The time of the broadcast will be from 10-10:30 each Sunday.

Stallings is a retired pastor, having served in Virginia for over 30 years. He has a varied background from which he brings examples to explain and make clear his messages. He was trained as an identification officer in law enforcement where he later served for over 25 years as a police chaplain. He did his major in history with a minor in political science during his college studies and is a member of Phi Theta Kappa.

His theological training was obtained in Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary, Wake Forest. For years he preached from the pulpit of his church over the radio reaching thousands of people outside the church building. A personal friend of Pat Robertson, he was frequently a guest on the Christian Broadcasting Network in its younger days.

Stallings said he supports the churches and their pastors and does not endeavor to supplant or take the place of the local church. He wishes to reach those who are not in church on Sunday or who are not affiliated, especially those who do not belong to Jesus.

"Perhaps," he says, "we can help in moving people back into the 'sanctuaries,' that is the church houses. We covet the prayers of God's people."

Number Of Syphilis Cases Increases In Davie County

Among these sexually transmitted diseases is syphilis. Few people realize that syphilis has the potential to be a destructive disease if left untreated. Over 3,000 people die each year in the United States and many more are infected.

Rebecca McMahan, family nurse practitioner at the Davie County Health Department said: "This year alone I have seen a substantial increase in the number of syphilis cases in Davie County."

Health Director Barry Bass stated, "My concern is that the incidence of syphilis is a predictor of future HIV infections - as the number of syphilis cases increase, we will begin to see an increase in HIV infections over time."

So what do we do?

The key to preventing the transmission of not only syphilis but other sexually transmitted diseases, is to educate and protect yourself from infection, prevent complications by getting early treatment - if you become infected, and avoid spreading these diseases to others. Healthy Carolinians of Davie County Sexually Transmitted Diseases Committee is committed to improving the health and well-being of all community residents in Davie County, said Wendi Selbe and Lowana Gardner, health education specialists.

Syphilis is a sexually transmitted disease caused by the organism spirochete and is spread primarily by sexual contact. Syphilis may be observed in one of three stages: primary, secondary, and latent or tertiary.

Syphilis can be transmitted through mucous membranes (moist linings) of the vagina, penis, anus or mouth of an infected person. It can also be found in the semen or vaginal fluids of an infected person. In addition, syphilis can be spread through infected blood and may also occur among: people who share needles for shooting drugs, ear piercing, and tattooing. Untreated syphilis in pregnant women can cause severe congenital defects up to death in the unborn baby.

In the primary stage, a painless sore called a chancre appears at the site of infection which is commonly the sex organs, anus, or mouth. The sore will appear within one to six weeks after exposure to the infection. The sore will eventually go away but the disease will grow and spread throughout the body causing irreparable damage.

The secondary stage will appear about six weeks after the chancre. This stage consists of a rash on the hands, feet, or face, lesions on the skin, sores in the mouth, and a general feeling of illness. While the individual may experience some headache, fever and general weakness, these symptoms like the chancre will disappear without treatment. A person is considered highly contagious during both the primary and secondary stage.

The final stage is known as the tertiary or latent stage in which there are no external symptoms. For the next 20 to 30 years the pathogens grow and invade organs of the body such as the brain, heart, and central nervous system. In the tertiary stage of the disease, syphilis has been linked to heart disease, stroke, blindness, paralysis, and death.

Health Carolinians of Davie County Sexually Transmitted Diseases Committee encourages you to protect yourself from syphilis. Syphilis is treatable with antibiotics such as penicillin.

If you think you may have been exposed to syphilis or have had symptoms, please contact your doctor or Health Department immediately. Remember not all STDs are treatable and you don't have to have sex to show affection. If you are interested in obtaining more information about syphilis or any other sexually transmitted diseases, contact Welbe or Gardner at (336) 751-8700.

Students Learning Through Computer Program

Many children these days are computer savvy when they reach kindergarten.

Thanks to several teachers attending the "Integrating Technology Into Instruction" seminar at Chowan College, and a $1,600 "Bright Ideas" grant from Energy United, the fourth and fifth grade students will study ways to save plants and animals in the rain forest.

"They grasp this program without any problems," said Angela Hodges, CDE technology coordinator.

The application for the Energy United Bright Ideas grant contained brief descriptions and goals.

In addition to learning computer skills, the HyperStudio project will go along with social studies and science curriculums. Students will create, on the computer, stacks of cards containing information on the rain forest.

There will be a title card, three cards containing information about why plants are endangered, a bibliography card and an author card.

Students will be encouraged to use all types of media to gain the information.

Computer competency skills will include:

- the use of technology tools to collect, analyze and display data;
- select strategies to search for data;
- create and modify a multimedia presentation citing sources of copyrighted materials; and
- the use of commercial software in various subjects.

Science skills should include:

- investigate plant communities and the ecological relationships among plants and animals;
- demonstrate the ability to interpret data; and
- show that scientific knowledge is public.

Social studies skills should include:

- locating major physical features to suggest the influence of location on life in the Western Hemisphere; including describing the absolute and relative location of major land forms, bodies of water and natural resources in Latin America;
- explain how Latin Americans adapt to the environment; and
- analyze causes and consequences of the misuse of the physical environment ... and propose alternatives.

CDE's grant application said students would learn many skills with the HyperStudio program.

"These skills include but are not limited to using the digital camera, scanner, internet and the drawing tols on the HyperStudio program. The use of these various tools will help the students author their own innovative, interactive computer software that can be used as a teaching device for other fifth grade students in the future."

Fifth graders participating in a Feb. 25 HyperStudio workshop were Dontay Rivers, Brandy Short, Daniel Baxter, Evan Hall, Meghan Dyson, Ben Tutterow, Shanicka Brown, Rebecca Brock, Jacob Snow, Russell Hilton, Sean Wagoner, Tyler Medingerr, Bailey Marrs, Brandon Callaway and Ashley Davidson.

Megan Dyson works on the new HyperStudio program.

Students from more than 40 high schools attended an audition for the clinic in January, but only the students with the highest scores from the judges were selected for the event.

Auditions included scales, a solo and sight reading. Students began preparing for the audition in September, according to band director Kathy Ferebee.

The clinic consists of three bands: 11-12 symphonic band for juniors and seniors with the highest scores, 9-10 symphonic band for freshmen and sophomores with the highest scores and concert band for students in grades 9-12 who scored just under the symphonic band scores.

Members of the 9-10 symphonic band from Davie High School were Alex Evans, French horn, and Aaron McClannon, trumpet. Meredith Cornatzer participated in the concert band on clarinet.

Queen and Strong had the highest scores their division at the audition. They, along with Evans, Guesfeld and McClannon, scored high enough to audition for Honor's Band, which is comprised of the best band students in the state.

Ferebee said she is proud of all the students who auditioned and expects those who audition for Honor's Band to do well.

Students experienced [illegible] in which they are not normally exposed and worked with a [illegible] guest band director.

tions and inequalities. This concept was used in discussing real life situations of human growth and stock exchanges. Mrs. Sakmar's Algebra I students are applying percentages and proportions to life situations of investing money and creating mixtures.

In Mrs. Ely's social studies classes students have completed the Jacksonian period in history, which included the Cherokee removal known as the "Trail of Tears." They are studying the Antebellum period leading up to the American Civil War. Students have been involved in discussions, "think-pair-share" activities, and debates, as well as striving to master information in each unit.

Science students have completed a unit on Plate Tectonics or "How the Earth Rocks and Rolls." This comprehensive theory explains a lot about the movement of the earth and where, how, and why earthquakes and volcanoes happen. The next topic will be the environment that will include an integrated unit on North Carolina's treasure coast.

The "Reflections" Art Contest has ended with the following district winners. North Davie set a record with 7 students winning at this level: Jacob Beauchamp - Visual Arts; Sarah Earle - Photography; Jared Hill - Literature; John-David McKeel - Literature; Jessica O'Donnell - Photography; Ashley Pasiewka - Visual Arts; and Sara Stutts - Literature. These entries have been sent to Raleigh to represent North Davie in the state competition.

MOCKSVILLE ELEMENTARY

Kindergarten students of Ms. Davis and Mrs. Stewart have discussed the letter "Xx." They talked about x-rays, exit signs, and foxes. They looked at an x-ray of Ms. Davis' teeth and made an x-ray book. They went on a treasure hunt and found an X in the sandbox where they dug and found gold.

Second graders of Wanda Leagans and Diane Joyner completed biography projects. Each student chose a biography, read it, and divided that person's life into a beginning, middle, and end. Students were given a choice of writing and illustrating their own book about that person or writing a book report and creating a poster. Students learned about many famous people past and present from George Washington to Michael Jordan. On Feb. 22, students traveled to Antarctica by way of video and began a study of arctic habitats. They will study about the animals and plants near the South Pole, then move to Alaska and the North Pole. Hopefully, they will be able to follow the Iditerod Dog Sled Race using the Internet.

Third graders of Kerri Wall and Cindy Freeman have been reading fables. Students were divided into groups and each group presented a fable to the class and explained the moral of the story. Students have been studying economics. Scarcity, limited resources, opportunity, cost, consumer, goods and services, production, and interdependence are some of the new words and concepts they have learned. Students are beginning a unit on famous people by reading "Thomas Edison." They will also be studying electricity.

Third graders of Judy Sherrill enjoyed Mrs. Laymon teaching them about story writing. She shared ideas to make their stories more interesting.

Students of Jeremy Brooks have blasted into outer space as astronauts. They are exploring the solar system. They have explored the earth, the sun, the moon, and the stars. Soon they will be exploring the planets. Fractions, rulers, additions, subtraction, patterns, and shapes have been hot topics.

Skiver Attends Band Clinic

An eighth grader at South Davie Middle School recently participated in the Northwest All-District Middle School Band Clinic held at the Civic Center in Lenoir.

Only students receiving the highest scores at the audition were permitted to attend the clinic, according to South Davie band director Kathy Ferebee. Skiver was one of 50 students auditioning on the trumpet.

To prepare for the audition, he learned a trumpet solo, memorized five scales and worked on his sight-reading music skills. At the clinic, he rehearsed with other students to prepare a concert for Saturday afternoon.

"The students worked very hard, and they gave an excellent concert for the public before the conclusion of the weekend," Ferebee said.

She was pleased that Skiver did well at the audition and was able to participate in the clinic, Ferebee added. "It is a wonderful opportunity for young musicians."

Ferebee said she hopes more South Davie students will be able to participate in the future.

DAVIE COUNTY ENTERPRISE RECORD

USPS 149-160 Number 10 Thursday, March 11, 1999 46 PAGES

It was rainy and windy for the groundbreaking ceremony for Davie's newest school, but that didn't dampen the spirit of community, school and county officials who attended the event off Cornatzer Road near the Hickory Hill II entrance. For more photos, please turn to page 8. County Manager Ken Windley and Superintendent Dr. Bill Steed are at the podium, and huddled at right are Dub Potts, director of auxillary services, and Mocksville Elementary Principal Julius Suiter.

Taking Care Of Children

Group Working To Open 'Qualified' Child Development Center At DCCC

By Mike Burnhardt
Davie County Enterprise Record

In Davie County, 84 percent of all mothers work outside the home, more than the statewide (74 percent) and national (62 percent) averages.

Fewer than 25 percent of children under age 6 live in homes where one parent stays at home.

That means there are a lot of young children here who stay in day care centers.

Of the 11 licensed centers in Davie County as of May last year, one met more than the minimum standards required by the state.

The need for a quality, flexible child development center is there, Town Manager Terry Bralley told members of the Mocksville Town Board earlier this month.

The board agreed to pay $50,000 to make the idea a reality. It will be built on the Davie Campus of Davidson County Community College on U.S. 601 South.

"The whole idea is to take early childhood 3education to a higher standard," Bralley said.

The center will be named in memory of Helen Gantt, who, during her life, advocated a better way of life for all children.

The estimated cost for the facility is $900,000, and $400,000 has been raised. On March 23, a kick-off will be held to raise the remaining monies.

Legislators To Hear Comments On Bermuda Run Incorporation

A joint legislative commission on municipal incorporations will hold a hearing Friday on whether to incorporate Bermuda Run as Davie County's third town.

At the hearing, area residents will have a chance to speak in favor of or against the proposed incorporation. Written remarks, 10 copies each, are requested to go along with oral presentations.

The commission is an agency of the N.C. General Assembly, chaired by Sen. Wib Gulley and Rep. Cary Allred.

Convicted Sex Offender To Serve 40 Years

A local man was sentenced to 40 years in prison for sex offenses involving two girls last week in Davie County Superior Court.

The district attorney reduced a charge of first degree sex offense with a child to the second degree charge in exchange for a guilty plea.

Dodson denies that he ever touched the girls inappropriately but admitted his guilt because he was using drugs and alcohol at the time and wanted to avoid putting his family through any further ordeal, said his attorney Michael Parker.

While in prison for other crimes, Dodson has participated in Alcoholics Anonymous and Narcotics Anonymous and regularly attends church. He has voluntarily signed himself up for classes trying to clean up his life and has passed all random drug tests, Parker said.

Judge William Z. Wood Jr. found as aggravating factors that Dodson had taken advantage of a position of trust and has a prior criminal records. He also found the young age of one of his victims aggravating.

He allowed the 40 year sentence to run concurrent with the sentences Dodson is now serving.

Greg Lanier Earns UNC-Chapel Hill Morehead Scholarship

Lanier

Gregory Ryan Lanier, a senior at Davie High School, has won a 1999 Morehead Award to the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill valued at $53,000.

Lanier is the son of Larry and Patsy Lanier of U.S. 158, Advance. He is a member of the Beta Club, foreign language club, and varsity soccer, track and cross country teams.

The scholarship pays all expenses for four years of undergraduate study and a summer enrichment program.

Seventy winners, including 34 from North Carolina, were selected following a nomination and interview process that began last fall with nearly 1,000 candidates and concluded with interviews in Chapel Hill among 125 finalists.

Among the largest and most competitive scholarships at U.S. colleges and universities, the Morehead Award was the first non-athletic merit scholarship in the country and was patterned after the Rhodes Scholarship awarded for graduate work at England's Oxford University.

It was designed to attract student leaders to UNC, where they are expected to make significant contributions to the university community in their areas of talent and interest.

An extensive and unique summer enrichment program complements each scholar's classwork with opportunities for hands-on leadership and problem-solving experiences in four areas: outdoor leadership, public service, enterprise and travel and study abroad.

The selection process began in September when top, well-rounded students were nominated, regardless of their interest in UNC. Criteria are academic achievement, leadership, moral force of character and physical vigor.

Recipients are chosen by merit and achievement, not financial need.

"We are looking forward to seeing what Greg's extracurricular contributions to the Carolina campus will be," said Charles E. Lovelace, executive director of the Morehead Foundation. "He has certainly proved himself a capable leader and scholar during his high school career."

Currently, 227 Morehead Scholars study on campus.

Childhood Memories Linger Of Booe Hill

Life has changed for little boys. Once we were mostly farm children who milked cows and hoed the garden. Now, kids are skilled in computer games and organized sports.

My cousin Sherrill Brinkley, now of Chapel Hill, recently jotted down his memories of his childhood on Booe Hill — along Liberty Church Road in northwestern Davie County.

He remembers swimming naked in the creek, corncob fights, climbing in the barn and playing baseball in the cow pasture. He remembers winning a fight at William R. Davie school, helping deliver baby calves and staying up late at night to keep the fires burning in the tobacco barns.

He walked with his father to Bear Creek Baptist Church early on Sunday mornings. It was their job to build the fire in the wood stove. One morning they walked through the snow to do their duty. Only the preacher came. He recalls the annual church revivals, always the first week in August, and visiting hell-fire-and-brimstone preachers scaring him out of his wits.

Brinkley's dad, Zeb, had helped build William R. Davie as part of a WPA project in the Depression. His mother, Hattie, was a substitute teacher, and his dad worked there as janitor in later years.

Sherrill was born in the downstairs bedroom of the family home in 1936. His brother was born in the same room. Their sister died there.

Sherrill was born with red hair, which caused his father some consternation. "I don't like red hair," he reportedly muttered as he leaned on the fireplace mantel when he saw the boy. "Maybe it will change," his mother said. The Brinkleys paid Dr. S.H. Harding $5 and a country ham for his services.

Sherrill's neighbors also had a profound influence on him. John T. Wallace had the first television in the community. "John's home was a TV theater on Saturday nights for Hit Parade, The Honeymooners, and other early shows," Brinkley recalls. The Wallaces and Brinkleys were close neighbors and friends. "Doors were never locked — to knock was an insult."

He remembers finding a tick on the back of his buddy, and the boy fell ill with Rocky Mountain Spotted fever. Another friend was hit while riding his bicycle. He read the library books that were stored on a back shelf at Gwynn Roberts Store. He and friend Roger Wallace trapped rabbits, skinned and sold them at Peoples Store for 50 cents.

In the sixth grade, he had to attend Farmington School. Teacher Queen Bess Kennan made a big impression on him. In the cafeteria, he was given a fork to use to eat his meals. He had always used a spoon.

For the biggest thrill of all, the family went to Mocksville. Sherrill saw his first movie, a Western, at the Princess Theater. At 8, he begged so much that his parents bought him a military uniform to wear in a World War II parade in town. As a teenager, he landed a job measuring tobacco plots for the ASCS office. He played American Legion baseball for Mocksville.

His mother had instilled a deep desire for college, and he left for N.C. State after high school. His parents are dead now, but Sherrill and his wife Susan regularly come back to Booe Hill where he spent "18 happy years playing and fishing in the streams, roaming and hunting through the woods, and absorbing the love and stability showered upon him by his family and the community."

Will our children's memories be as pleasant?

— Dwight Sparks

In The Mail ...

Everything Eaten, Worn Produced By A Farmer

To the editor:

In response to Dwight Sparks' comments of March 4: I agree, there are thousands of beggars, and only one group of deservers. I'm sure Dwight must have heard of milk base in his earlier days of life, being raised on a dairy farm. Milk base and tobacco quota work similarly. Milk base was bought from a farmer who had died or chosen to stop milking cows. Tobacco quota is bought from another farmer that died or chose to no longer produce tobacco. Tobacco quota is purchased, paid for by an agreed upon price per pound by a willing purchaser and a willing seller. Then, the county charges the quota holder a property tax.

Now, 35 percent of the pounds are marked off in two years. This brings a 35 percent decrease in income for the tobacco farmer. Here is where the tobacco farmer becomes a deserver. He bought quota, paid for it, paid taxes on it, is willing to work, has been stripped of his job and quota, therefore he deserves to be paid for his losses.

Had the Clinton and Gore administration come along a few years earlier and decided to do away with the dairy industry as they have chosen the tobacco industry, because Al's Aunt Sue and Bill's Uncle Tom died from stroke or heart attack due to high cholesterol, would Dwight have declared his own father, a dairy farmer, a beggar when his milk base and income were reduced 35 percent in two short years?

I believe I recall that Dwight Sparks rode a donkey in the Advance Christmas Parade. I suggest him and his wife play Joseph and Mary in the '99 Christmas parade. Due to today's environmental changes and laws, Joseph being played by none other than Dwight Sparks, will be required by the EPA to follow the donkey instead of leading the donkey, with a bucket and a scoop to clean up the environment of all gas and hazardous material deposited along the way. That would be proper order.

I want to remind Dwight that everything he eats or wears, a farmer somewhere produced it, unless he wears 100 percent polyester.

Dwight, don't talk with your mouth full. It's rude and bad manners, and it's dangerous. You might get choked.

Talent Show Successful

To the editor:

North Davie Middle School PTSA would like to thank the Davie County community for supporting the North Davie Middle School Talent and Gong Show held at the Brock Performing Arts Center last week. Thanks to the talent of school staff, parents and students of NDMS, the show was a huge success.

We are especially grateful to Scott Tredwell, Jane Simpson, Ricky Hendrix, Russ Wilder, Misty McGill and Dan Hulbert for the countless hours spent organizing the show. We also are very thankful for the businesses that provided door prizes that helped us to raise funds for the PTSA budget.

We were delighted to be able to hold the show at the Brock Performing Arts Center. The fine facilities made our talented students feel like professional performers. Thanks again to everyone who helped make this event a success.

Food Not Produced By Grocery Stores

To the editor:

How many farms will there be 20 years from now? Do you realize that the farmers throughout this country are in trouble? Why don't more young people go into farming and continue on the family farm?

The return for the dollar is just not there. Another reason, it takes such a big investment for equipment, fertilizer, feed and seed, labor, etc., that they use every day. These commodities have gone up in price, but the price the farmer gets for the product has declined over the past several years.

A big percentage of farmers need off-the-farm income to stay in business. In this day and time, we look at the farm as just a place to live while making an income by some other method.

It is easy to see why so much farm land is going for other purposes. The tax on farm land is too high, according to the return on their products. What the farmer needs today is more say so for what their product brings on the market.

The National and State Grange have helped improve the price of milk for the dairymen, but look at all the other products they and other farmers produce. They are receiving bankrupt prices. If this situation continues on this path for the next 20 years, where will our food supply come from? There would soon be a food shortage. The food we eat today is not produced at the grocery stores. Someone has to produce food and fiber.

You can help by joining with other Grange members to help make this situation reverse. Contact the Pino Community Grange and help us to make our county and state and nation a better place to live.

A Woman President? Maybe America Can Get Past Prejudices

Is America ready for a woman president?

Fifty years ago voters would have laughed at the idea. Thirty years before that, American women hadn't yet won the right to vote.

Jeanne Gaither

Women have made great strides toward equality in the United States during the 20th century, and the anticipated announcement of Elizabeth Dole's candidacy will be another giant step forward for our country.

The oppression experienced by my gender throughout history has come to an end for American women.

We are free to use our minds and express our opinions. We are free to pursue the careers of our choosing even if it means becoming an astronaut.

All over the country, women are serving as the heads of corporations and the chiefs of police departments. Countless women have been elected to serve their communities, states and nation as mayors, governors and senators.

But I won't pretend for an instant to believe that a majority of the people will elect a woman to the nation's highest office, though I can't think of a reason why a woman shouldn't be president – with the exception of a few traditional American qualities such as chauvinism, narrow-mindedness and ignorance.

Studies have shown some of our teachers guilty of discouraging girls from answering too often in math and science class. After all they must remember their place and not tread too far into the man's world.

Statistics also show that working women often do not receive pay equal to that of their male counterparts.

Women may never have their rightful place in a society with men, who believe a topless bar is an acceptable location for a business meeting, and women who are willing to perpetuate such behavior.

It's the man who refers to every woman he encounters with such endearments as sweetheart, baby or honey, that could never bring himself to call one Madame President.

It's what causes men and women to leave churches they've attended all their lives, because the new minister happens to be a woman, that will keep them from casting their votes for a woman on election day.

For the same reason some refuse treatment from a woman doctor or won't fly on a plane piloted by a woman, they won't entrust the leadership of their nation to a woman.

They may argue that a woman is too emotional to handle the demands and difficult decisions of the position. While that may be true of some women, are they suggesting it's not true of an equal number of men?

Most of the women I know do more work in a week than two men. It is often women, who are the pillars of strength, that support their families through life's trying times. It is women who graciously bear the burden of childbirth.

I've heard the argument that women are indecisive. A wishy-washy woman would never have arrived at a point where she believed she could or should run for president of the United States.

Some have suggested all women incapable of the job, claiming they experience drastic mood swings at regular intervals. In truth, most women don't undergo any more radical changes in attitude and behavior than do many men.

Differences exist between men and women, but those differences are what make us work well together. Just because a woman can't lift her opponent over her head doesn't mean she's not the best person for the job. Being equal doesn't mean we have to be the same.

I don't believe that our next president will be a woman, but I have faith that in my lifetime I may see someone besides a white male elected to that high office.

Many share the dream of which Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. spoke of equality for all people. It is my hope that we will one day outnumber the racists, sexists and idiots hindering our progress.

Counselor Challenges Misinformation About JobReady Program

To the editor:

As Davie High School's Career Development Coordinator, I feel I must shed some light on obvious misinformation about the Job Ready Program. I'm sure the author probably got his information from a national newsletter (of which I have seen one that had the same type of information) and truly believes what he has read. I would like to respond to several items from the letter (Curriculum Structured to Serve Employers) and let people make up their own minds about how bad (or good) JobReady is to the students of this county, state, and country.

First, I'm not sure that shadowing is understood; shadowing is when a student wants to "Shadow" a person in a career that he/she is interested in. The student will be able to see first hand what someone in a career actually does while on the job. What a wonderful experience it is when a student shadows an ob-gyn doctor and gets to see quadruplets being born or when a student gets to shadow a kindergarten teacher and gets to see what a day in the life of a teacher is really like (true experiences of DHS students). How much better this is than to read it in a book. Even more important, is that it is so much better to find out in high school that you do not want to go into a career than to find it out after the student has already spent $20,000-$80,000 of their parents' money on a four year education and even more on a master's degree. I would encourage students who have shadowed to respond as to whether they feel they have been coerced to "shadow" in a career in which they had no interest. I would estimate that 'shadowing' has been a good experience for 98-99 percent of the students who have shadowed. It has given the students a chance to say "I want to continue to look at this career or this career is not exactly what I thought it would be like; I'm going to look at other careers."

Next mentioned was the "Workforce Development Boards" who sit around tables and decide what jobs the local area is going to need in the next 5-10 years... and then structure the public school curriculum to serve the local area employers." I do not know about the "Workforce Development Boards" but one of the goals of schools, community colleges, and four year colleges is to meet the demand of the community. This does not mean that students are forced into these occupations, but we provide opportunities for those students who are interested in learning more about these careers.

Davie County Schools and the Davie Campus of Davidson County Community College have done an excellent job of trying to provide opportunities for students and future employers by offering new courses such as machinist, welding, computer repair, heating/air conditioning, etc. NO students have ever been coerced into taking these courses to meet the demands of local employers; they are electives that students choose themselves. However, can you imagine what would happen to our local employers if they could not find enough qualified individuals to fill needed vacancies? With Davie County's low unemployment rate it has been difficult for many companies to find these needed employees. There have been several times when I've heard adults say that they wished more of the Davie County youth would stay in Davie County to work.

Third, I would like to respond to the report from West Virginia about how a counselor told a student to go into a particular career when the student was interested in another career. Does this mean that we do away with career counseling because of a mistake of a misguided counselor? If this truly happened (and there could have been a misunderstanding between the student and the counselor), this is a product of very poor career counseling. Think of the millions of students and thousands of counselors who are involved in career counseling; unfortunately, there will always be a few professionals who may not have the necessary skills. We should not do away with career counseling because one or two counselors make a mistake. I am the one doing the career assessments for our Freshmen Success classes and when I go into the classroom to interpret the results , I have made a special effort to emphasize that if the career they are interested in is not on the list on the assessment, they should not abandon that career. They should continue to explore that career, but also look at the careers on the assessment to see if any of them interests them. Career assessments do not limit one's choices, but gives them more choices to explore.

Fourth, the author mentioned how bad apprenticeships are. Apprenticeships, both youth and adult, have been very good experiences for both the apprentice and the company who sponsors them. Students do go to school for part of a day and leave to receive on-the-job instruction at their job site. In other words, the student gets to see the relevance of their school work to their career, and the student gets paid for working and learning their career. Again, for high school students to get a job related to their potential career is a great way for them to see if they like that career field and to get a jump start on a promising career. The latest government statistics show that apprentices who stay in their field will make a higher income than most four year college graduates will make. This is the beauty of our country: apprenticeships are not for everyone, four year colleges are not for everyone, community colleges are not for everyone, etc. We all have the freedom to choose what fits us best; JobReady and career counseling only gives students more information so they can choose which will be best for them.

Fifth, as was suggested that you will not get the facts about JobReady from the educational establishment, I invite both the author and any parent who would like to know more about our career development program in Davie County to call me, any guidance counselor or better yet, check with any student to find out if we have coerced students to go into any career or into a career to only supply local employers with employees who do not want to go into that career. Ask those students who have shadowed to see if it was worth their time. Ask those students involved in career internships if it was worth their time. Ask those students who are in Allied Health Sciences II who go to health care facilities if it helped them to decide if a health care career is for them. Ask those students who are in Working with Children I & II if going to day cares and elementary schools have helped them to decide if a career working with children as a day care worker or an elementary teacher is for them. You get the point. JobReady's main purpose is to get students out in the real world to help them in their career development. We want parents to know about our career development programs; we try to get as much information in the Davie County Enterprise under the heading of Davie County Schools and Davie High School, in the PTSA newsletter that is sent out to all the parents of our high school students, and on the Guidance Information Line (751-0390 ext. 1400), where parents and students can call and get the latest information about college and career planning. The Guidance Office and the Student Services office publish a weekly newsletter, called "Eagle Echoes," which is given to all teachers on campus and available for any student to pick up. This newsletter gives all the information that students need to know like SAT/ACT deadlines, available scholarships, career development info, colleges who visit Davie High School, and any other valuable information that we feel will be helpful to our students to achieve their career and college goals. We want our students to receive as much education as they need and to experience a career that is both rewarding and satisfying.

Lastly, regarding the last statement that students should be intellectually educated and not trained for a job, I would say the purpose of education is to both intellectually educate and to help students to make one of the most important decisions in their life - their careers and to assist them to get the training or education needed to be successful in that career.

Davie Habitat For Humanity Accepting Applications

To the editor:

Families in Davie County who are living in inadequate shelter may be interested in applying to Habitat for Humanity of Davie for a decent, adequate home. On Saturday, March 20, the Family Selection committee will be accepting applications at the Davie County Public Library from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m.

Applicants should bring proof of denial of a loan from a conventional lending institution (bank, savings and loan, etc.) and their work record. Applicants must be employed and fall into low-income criteria and be willing to partner with Habitat for Humanity to construct decent adequate shelter. Each qualifying family must work 500 hours sweat equity - this is on their personal home, community service, and on other Habitat homes. Mocksville Police Chief Richard Sink works in his new office.

The Mocksville Police Department recently moved from the basement at Town Hall to the old Duke Power building on North Main Street, which was donated to the town several months ago.

For the first time each officer will have his or her own desk at which to work in a new area divided by partitions.

Mocksville Police Department Moves To New Building

By Jeanne Gaither
Davie County Enterprise Record

For the first time in seven years, Mocksville Police Chief Richard Sink has no auto parts in his office.

When he arrived for work Feb. 26, he walked into a new police department.

Located at 278 North Main Street, the new facility provides officers with about three times the space available in the basement of the town hall building where the department had been, according to Sink.

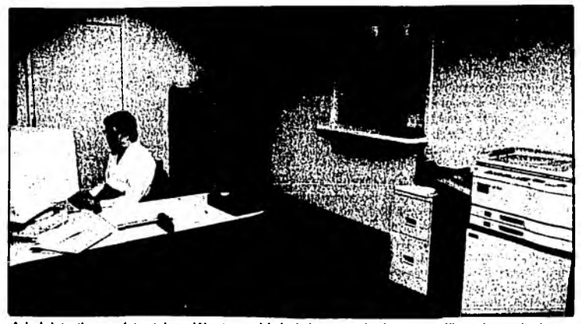

Under the direction of architect John Fuller and Sink, the donated building has been remodeled into a u-shape design patterned after other police departments, the chief explained.

The old site was basically a basement divided into offices by the officers. The new facility is designed to function as a police department, he said.

The administrative wing includes offices and a filing room. At the old site, administrative assistant Jane Wooten had just three file cabinets in a smaller working area, Sink said.

The department also has a conference room, which will be used for training sessions and meetings. The department also had enough space to add a break room for personnel, he said.

Electronically controlled door locks provide more security for personnel in the office, Sink said.

Administrative assistant Jane Wooten said she's happy to be in a new office where she has more room in which to work and the added security of electronic door locks.

For convenience to officers before and after regular business hours, all exterior doors have the same lock, eliminating the confusion of numerous keys, he added.

A large lobby which features two bathrooms accessible to the handicapped offers a more comfortable atmosphere for visitors at the department. All corridors and doorways are also wide enough for wheelchairs. The basement wasn't accessible to the handicapped, he said.

One of the things he's most proud of, Sink said, are the two interview rooms which were made by dividing a larger room. These will make it possible for officers to keep suspects separated and conduct more than one interview at a time.

The department has two offices for detectives as well as a larger area divided by cubicles with a desk for each officer, providing each one with his or her own space in which to work, the chief said.

New phone lines have been added, and the department now has voice mail capabilities, Sink said.

In the area that was once a workshop, police department personnel are building an evidence room, using materials salvaged from other parts of the building. They're doing the work themselves to save money, he said.

The large area will be used for storage of evidence and supplies. They may also use the bay with drain for washing police vehicles, he added.

This area gives the department, which at full capacity has 14 sworn personnel, plenty of room for expansion in the future, Sink said.

Some finishing touches, such as a table for the conference room and a sign for the building, remain to be made, according to the chief. But no one at Mocksville Police Department is complaining of inconvenience.

"We're just tickled to be here," Sink said.

Though the police department has a new address, its phone number has not changed. It remains 751-6231.

Early Childhood Education Center To Be Built On Davie Campus

Rather than compete with existing child care centers, Bralley thinks the center will help them, by offering more training opportunities and chances for career advancement in the child care field.

Qualified, according to information given to town commissioners, refers to the highest standards set by the state, as opposed to minimum standards. The facility would be operated by the college, incorporated in the already established early childhood education curriculum.

The facility would not only provide a child care center with two shifts and train potential child care providers, but also be an outlet to train current child care workers in Davie County.

The goal is to improve the basic standards of all child care providers.

"Changing the concept of child care from one of meeting childrens' basic needs to an educational-based atmosphere is essential for the development of Davie County's youngest citizens," the report said. "When we improve our children, we improve the overall future of Davie County."

The center would provide care for first and second shifts with low child to staff ratios, capable of seving 50-60 children. Fees will be on a sliding scale based on the family's ability to pay.

The county is helping pay for the center, and private funding is being sought, Bralley said.

Flim-flam Artists Hit Davie

COOLEEMEE - In recent weeks police officers here have received numerous reports of door-to-door vendors selling everything from furniture to frozen meats, reports Police Chief Tim Wooten.

Residents are encouraged to report such incidents when they believe it's appropriate so that law enforcement officers may identify them and make sure they are operating lawfully, he said.

Many of the reports of such activity have come from senior citizens, who expressed concerns that the deals often sounded too good to be true and made them suspicious, according to Wooten.

"If the deal sounds too good to be true, it probably isn't true," he added.

It's the season for flim-flam artists offering what appear to be exceptional deals that often turn out to be exceptional headaches. Any such suspicious behavior should be reported to local authorities, he said.

The vehicles were stopped on Hobson Drive at U.S. 601 where Whitney identified the six people responsible for the alleged assault.

Based on warrants filed by Whitney, Phillips, 19, was charged with simple assault. Kennedy, 19, was charged with assault, injury to real property and communicating threats.

Mocksville police led a raid on a McCullough Road residence in early February, charging three people with possession and confiscating nearly a pound of marijuana.

At the time, Brian Keith Turner, 31, told investigators that he was providing a public service by maintaining a safe place for high school students to buy marijuana. He was charged and placed in jail in lieu of a $10,000 bond.

Turner

It wasn't long after he was released from jail that police believe Turner started selling marijuana again.

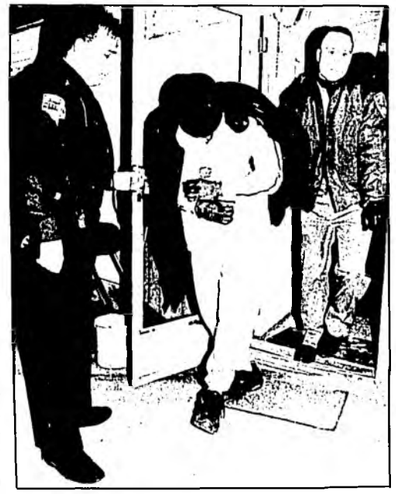

"As soon as he got out of jail, we started getting calls again," said Mocksville Police Detective Ken Hunter.

On Sunday evening, five police officers with the help of three Davie Sheriff's Department officers served a search warrant on the mobile home on 104 McCullough Road.

It appeared that several people were having a party, watching the race and basketball games, Hunter said.

They found several ounces of marijuana, in the same location as the drug was found less than a month earlier.

Turner was arrested again, charged with felony possession of marijuana, possession of drug paraphernalia, and possession of marijuana with the intent to sell or deliver. He was placed in the Davie County Jail in lieu of a $10,000 bond, pending an April 15 first-appearance hearing in Davie District Court.

Advance Man Convicted Of Statutory Rape

An Advance man was sentenced to 55-75 months in prison March 4, in Davie County Superior Court for statutory rape.

Theodore Harold Simmons, 21, of Jarvis Road, pled guilty to statutory rape of a juvenile 13, 14 or 15 years old by a person more than four years older but less than six years older.

The incidents are alleged to have happened between Dec. 11, 1993 and Dec. 10, 1994.

He also pled guilty to incest, crime against nature and two counts of second degree kidnapping for which he was sentenced to 83 to 101 months in prison, but Judge William Z. Wood Jr. suspended that sentence, placing him on intensive supervised probation.

While on probation, Simmons is not to possess any child pornography and must submit to warrantless searches and drug tests, Wood said.

He is to have no contact with either victim and must pay all fees for any counseling they undergo. He must remain employed and register as a sex offender immediately after his release from prison.

He was ordered to pay $975 in court appointed attorney fees.

Man Admits To Possessing Cocaine In Jail

A Yadkinville man received a suspended sentence last week in Davie County Superior Court for possessing a controlled substance in jail.

Bruce Earl Whitaker, 38, had asked to go to the bathroom while being escorted by an officer from the magistrate's office to the jail, according to assistant district attorney Greg Brown.

In the bathroom, Davie County Sheriff's Cpl. Lee Whitesides noticed a bulge in Whitaker's left sock, which he discovered was crack cocaine. Whitaker had wanted to dispose of the cocaine to avoid taking it into the jail, Brown said.

Whitaker told Judge William Z. Wood Jr. what he had done was wrong and apologized.

Currently in prison, Whitaker has completed a drug treatment program and is working on getting his high school equivalency, his attorney Julie Parker said.

Everything on his criminal record has been related to his drug and alcohol problem, Parker added.

"Them drugs is powerful, but there's one more powerful, and I've found Him now," Whitaker said.

Wood sentenced him to five to six months in prison but suspended the sentence for up to four years and placed him on intensive supervised probation to begin upon his release.

While on probation, he is to participate in the day reporting center program, submit to drug and alcohol testing and searches by his probation officer, maintain a job, pay court cost and a $250 court appointed attorney fee.

Speed Limit Reduced, Stop Added In Cooleemee

COOLEEMEE – The police department reminds motorists that new traffic signs are being put up throughput the town.

The signs reduce speed limits from 35 mph to 25 in some areas and designate no parking areas.

Drivers are especially reminded of the addition of a four-way stop at Watt and Cross streets, said Police Chief Tim Wooten.

This sign was erected to slow traffic traveling between N.C. 801 and Marginal Street, he said.

It appears this road has become a shortcut and is traveled heavily during certain periods of the day, Residents have complained, concerned about the safety of children along this road due to poor visibility caused by hills, he said.

Since the signs were erected, officers have stopped a large number of cars running the stop signs on the Watt Street side. Not accustomed to the new sign, many motorists have said they didn't see the sign until they passed it, Wooten said.

The police department will continue to put an emphasis on this intersection during coming weeks in an attempt to increase public awareness of the new stop sign, he added.

So far officers have issued warning tickets, but this will change in the near future, Wooten said.

Observance of new speed limits in town is appreciated, he said.

Mark and Tama Omara represented by Tutterow Surveying have submitted for final review a four lot revision to Shamrock Acres. These lots are shown as Lots 8, 9, 10, and 11 of Shamrock Acres dated Nov. 15, 1996. This revision involves moving the side lot lines to add approximately 3.5 feet to Lot 11.

Oak Valley Associates has submitted for final review a sixteen (16) lot single family residential subdivision titled Palmer's Ridge. Officer's Broken Glasses To Be Replaced

While jurors were deliberating after hearing the evidence in her trial for resisting a public officer and injury to personal property, a 34-year-old Mocksville woman changed her plea.

Cecilia Ann Lane pled no contest to resist, obstruct and delay an officer for which she was granted a prayer for judgment continued until the next term of Davie County Superior Court March 3.

In the scuffle on Marginal Street July 3, 1998, on which the charges were based, the eyeglasses of Cooleemee Police Assistant Chief Jim Young had been broken, according to assistant district attorney Rob Taylor.

If Lane pays the cost of replacing those glasses by the next term of court, the charge against her will be dismissed, said Judge William Z. Wood Jr.

Lane, who signed a civil release form to the town of Cooleemee, will have to pay no other costs in the case, Wood said.

He thanked her attorney Lynne Hicks and Taylor for resolving the case.

Legislators Try To Help Tobacco Farmers

Rep. Julia Howard (R-Davie) continues to work with her colleagues in the N.C. House to construct legislation that will ensure that tobacco farmers benefit fairly from the Phase I tobacco settlement.

"Tobacco farms are a part of our heritage in this state," Howard said. "Now is not the time to turn our backs on them."

Howard is concerned that the Attorney General's Consent Decree does not ensure any relief for tobacco farmers. She said it is so loosely worded that the money could be spent on practically anything.

"In recent years, it seems that tobacco farmers are getting squeezed out of existence through no fault of their own. They deserve to gain relief from the Phase I settlement," Howard said. "In California, tobacco settlement money is being used to lay sidewalks. We must ensure the proper use of this money in our state."

The legislation introduced Thursday provides guidelines for the foundation put in place by the Consent Decree. It specifies that the 15-member board will include at least eight flue-cured and burley tobacco farmers with representation from each of North Carolina's major farming organizations.

The bill also specifies that the purpose of the foundation is 'to prove direct and indirect financial assistance... to tobacco producers, tobacco allotment holders, tobacco manufacturing workers and other workers displaced from tobacco or tobacco-related employment.'

"More than 255,000 jobs in North Carolina are tied to tobacco. Tobacco farmers and workers must be treated fairly in this process," Howard said. "This House legislation will establish a Foundation that is driven by fairness

Tooth Decay May Develop Early In Babies

New parents may not realize the importance of caring for their infant's primary (baby) teeth.

Dental health professionals caution parents, however, that serious tooth decay may develop by the child's first birthday. Even though the child's primary teeth will eventually be replaced with permanent ones, the primary teeth are critical for proper chewing, speaking and appearance.

Baby bottle tooth decay, also called nursing-bottle or nursing-mouth syndrome, is a condition that can destroy the primary teeth of an infant or young child. It develops when a baby frequently receives a bottle of milk, formula, fruit juice or sweetened liquids to serve as a pacifier or comforter. It may result when the child often is allowed to fall asleep with a bottle during naps or at bedtime.

Prolonged demand breast-feeding may also cause this condition. Although the teeth most likely to be damaged are the upper front teeth, others may be affected, said Sharon Boger, public health dental hygienist.

Tooth decay is caused by bacteria, which are present in a thin film of plaque that constantly forms on the teeth. The bacteria in plaque use sugar to produce acid, which attacks tooth enamel. If sugary liquid is allowed to remain in the mouth, acid can attack teeth for several minutes. Tooth decay can occur after frequent, repeated acid attacks.

It's not just what children drink, but how often and for how long their teeth are exposed to decay-causing acids. For example, if you offer a bottle containing sugary liquid as a pacifier many times a day, the teeth experience more acid attacks. Allowing a child to fall asleep with a bottle during a nap or at night also can harm teeth. While the baby sleeps, the flow of saliva decreases. Harmful sugary liquids collect and remain around the teeth, inviting acid attacks.

You can prevent this by watching what you give your baby between regular feedings. A nursing bottle should not be used as a pacifier or as an aid to help baby sleep unless it contains plain water. Don't dip pacifiers in a sweet liquid and don't add sugar to baby's food to try and make it taste better. Children can be taught to drink from a cup as they approach their first birthday. This will eliminate prolonged bottle feeding or using a bottle as a pacifier.

Boger recommends that after each feeding, parents should wipe their baby's teeth and gums with a clean, damp washcloth or gauze pad. This will remove plaque and prevent acid attacks. Begin brushing as soon as the baby's first tooth appears. Continue cleaning and massaging gums in all other areas that remain toothless.

Visit the dentist by the child's first birthday. While this may seem early, your dentist can determine if you are using the right cleaning techniques. The dentist also can determine if there are problems with the child's primary teeth.

Children should receive an optimal amount of fluoride, a mineral needed for the development of decay-resistant teeth. Whether or not you live in a community that has fluoridated water, you should ask your dentist about how your child can get the right amount of fluoride.

African Americans Responsible For Inventions

By Alice Gaither
Special to the Enterprise

African Americans have been among the great inventors in this country for many years.

Fredrick McKinley Jones, an orphan with a sixth grade education, invented the following: on Dec. 7, 1954, an air conditioning method and a refrigerated railroad box car; on July 12, 1949, an air conditioning unit for a refrigerated truck; on Oct. 24, 1950, an improved air conditioning/heating unit.

Granville T. Woods, who never finished elementary school, was self-taught and patented more than 100 electrical and mechanical devices, including electric railway system, telephone transmitters, a steam boiler furnace and the roller coaster.

Garret Morgan was a self-educated man who developed a hair straightening product, invented the traffic light and the safety hood (gas mask).

G.T. Sampson invented the clothes dryer.

Elijah McCoy received patents on more than 50 inventions in the early 1870s that dealt with automatic lubrication. This meant that any machine that used oil could be lubricated without stopping, including air brakes on trains and factory machinery. He used only the best quality, and he was considered the "Father of Lubication ... The Real McCoy."

M.V. Brown in 1969 invented the home security system.

Norbert Rillieuy in 1846 invented a sugar refining machine. His methods of refining sugar are used world wide and aid in the manufacturing of condensed milk, soap, gelatin and glue.

In 1932, R.B. Spikes invented the automatic gearshift, H. Sampson the cellular phone and John Bu the lawn mower.

Contributions to science by African Americans included Dr. Lavon Julian (1894-1971), an organic chemist who received over 100 patents and countless awards. His first invention was Acro-Foam, that put out oil and gas fires, a drug that alleviates pressure to the eye and prevents glaucoma.

Dr. Louis Tompkins Wright (1891-1952), and his daughter, Dr. Jane Wright, discovered chemotherapy, widely used in the treatment of cancer.

Dr. Alexa Canady, at age 30, became the first African-American woman neurosurgeon in the United States. She was born in Lansing, Mich. in 1950 and was certified by the American Board of Neurological Surgery in 1984.

Dr. Elizabeth Delany became the second African American woman to be become a dentist. She received her license in New York in 1923.

Sara Delaney became the first African American high school teacher of domestic science in New York City. The sisters, well over 100 years old, have resided in Mt. Vernon, N.Y. for more than 30 years. At this writing, one sister died, while the other still lives there.

Dr. Shirley Jackson was the first African American to receive a doctorate in physics, from Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1973. She pioneered research on subjects such as charged density waves and electrons.

Dr. LaSalle D. Leffall Jr. is a leading surgeon oncologist, medical educator and humanitarian. He has been a member of Howard University's hospital for 33 years and has been chairman of the surgery department for 24 years.

A book has been written about the Delaney sisters, telling the story of their lives, titled, "Having Our Say: The Delaney Sister's First 100 Years."

Keep The Love Alive: Put More Effort Into Relationships

By Steve Gilliam
UNC-G News Bureau

Dr. Heidi Reeder, a communications faculty member at The University of North Carolina at Greensboro, says that couples should put more effort into the things that are necessary for maintaining strong love relationships.

"How do we keep love alive?" said Reeder. "It's a question that couples need to ask themselves and find ways to work through."

One of the main theories on love states that love is made of three primary components: intimacy, commitment and passion, said Reeder, who is an assistant professor in the UNCG Department of Communication. A lot of relationships, however, tend to contain only one or two elements, and couples need to look at all three areas to find out if one needs to be nurtured.

Reeder has done research on male-female communication. In defining the areas, she said that intimacy involves talking honestly with the other person, disclosing oneself to the other person, feeling close and connected, listening to each other.

"Basically, it's communicating on an intimate level," she said. Commitment is making the decision that one is invested in the relationship and doing things that show the commitment. "Passion is all those things that Valentine's Day usually focuses on - the romance, infatuation, excitement, desire," she said.

Of the three components, Reeder believes that intimacy and communication are at the heart of love.

"Nothing creates intimacy better than an honest sharing of oneself with another person, and this involves communication," she said. "Communication is central to a love relationship."

Couples who have been together a long time often might believe that the relationship is stagnating and needs to be reinvigorated. In order to bring about that rejuvenation, they should try to do some things and share some new experiences. "When they plan things and enjoy themselves together, they can experience a feeling of learning and growing with this other person."

Reeder has some suggestions on how couples can better seek intimacy through improved communications. Three elements that should encompass communications are clarity, honesty and responsibility. Her suggestions are as follows:

• Communicate clearly. Gather your thoughts and be clear about how you feel if you are upset and an argument starts. Try to state the problem clearly rather than expecting the other person to know. Take a step back and get some clarity on the problem.

• Communicate honestly. Honesty is at the top of everybody's list. When things are hidden in a relationship, or not discussed openly, they do not go away and may pose problems. If you are not honest with the other person, then you are technically not communicating.

• Be responsible for your feelings and express them accurately. An example Reeder cites is a husband who is working too much and his wife feels lonely and wants them to do more together. Saying things like "You're never around and it's making me miserable" will not bring couples closer, which is what the couple really wants.

"In that triad of clarity, honesty and responsibility, what people need to try to communicate is their thoughts, their feeling and their wants," said Reeder. "If all three of those elements aren't present when people are trying to communicate their feelings, then they aren't going to be clear.

"By working at how they communicate, couples can strengthen their relationship."

There will be a spaghetti supper at Wesley Chapel Church on Saturday night, March 13, 6-8:30 p.m. Takeouts will be available. The Youth Group is sponsoring and doing the work with a little adult help. They will also get to use the proceeds. The cost is $5. The Youth would appreciate everyone's support.

The beautiful flowers placed in the church Sunday were given to the glory of God in memory of the birthdays of Ethel and Tillman Dull.

The ham breakfast at Wesley Chapel will be the third Saturday, March 20. Serving starts at 6:30 a.m.

We want to remember in our prayers Barbara Sparks, Janice James' mother. She is having a procedure on her heart this week.

Sunday evening Nora and Harmon Latham hosted a small covered dish dinner at the church in the basement. Nora's sister, Peggy Angell and her husband, Ervin, from Manteo, were in Mocksville visiting for a few days. Others joining in the fellowship were Nora and Peggy's brother, Sandy Cline and his wife, Ann, Mary Hannah Cline, Scotty, Luann, Brantley and Jerri Ann Angell, Dale and Martha Latham, Bob and Kathy Ellis, Ethan Boger and Allison Hoffman. A brother, Flake Cline and a sister, Patsy Cline, were not able to attend.

Patrick and Kathy Miller spent a few days in Florida last week. They attended the Harley-Davidson Motor Cycle Rally.

Wins Can Wait: War Eagles Learn From Opening Loss

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

For now, wins can wait. Davie's staying power against a regular customer in the 4-A state playoffs was all War Eagle baseball coach Mike Herndon wanted to talk about in the aftermath of Friday's 4-3 extra-inning loss at Alexander Central in the season-opening endowment game.

"We let it get away. We were upset about the loss, but it was a good learning experience," said Herndon, who was four outs from winning his Davie debut when the Cougars mounted a rally. "Later on down the line, if we get in a game like that, we'll know how to react. There were a lot of good things that came out of it. Hopefully we'll learn from it. A lot of these kids, probably 50 percent of them, that was their first varsity experience.

"An endowment game for us is a glorified scrimmage. They are encouraged. Alexander Central supposedly is a good team. They got beat in the third round of the playoffs last year and have a lot of players returning, so that's encouraging. We had some bright spots."

The brightest of all was senior lefty Victor Patti, who devastated the Cougars with a formidable fastball, tossing a two-hitter through four and carrying a shutout into the bottom of the sixth.

"He was blowing people away with his fastball," Herndon said. "He threw well enough to win. When he throws like that, you expect to win."

Davie soared to a 3-0 lead in the top of the fourth on a three-run homer by Wesley Melton and led 3-2 when the second error of the sixth allowed the Cougars to tie the score and spoil Patti's strong outing.

"We made two errors that cost us. We've got to play defense for seven innings," said Herndon, who figured Patti had enough left to polish off the Cougars. "It's going to take me a little while to learn our pitchers. He lost a little bit of his speed but, heck, he was still throwing strikes and looked fresh. I think he started throwing a little more offspeed in the sixth instead of relying on his fastball."

With Drew Ridenhour on in relief, Davie mounted a serious threat in the eighth, getting a leadoff double from freshman Andrew Daywalt, who moved to third on a wild pitch. But Patti and Ridenhour went down on strikes and Melton flew to center, squandering a golden opportunity with the Nos. 2-4 hitters.

"We've got to cut down on strikeouts," Herndon said. "We had a lot of 2-0, 2-1, 3-1 (counts) and we're swinging at a dang curveball when we've got to be looking for a fastball belt high, something we can drive.

"That's what's frustrating. Daywalt hits a leadoff double, we've got Victor coming up and I didn't bunt because all we've got to do is get a ground ball to the right side or a fly ball to the outfield."

Mocksville Marathoner Breaks 4-Hour Barrier

Competing with 3,000 runners in his fourth marathon recently at Myrtle Beach, Leonard ranked among 1,200 finishers, achieved fifth in the 50-60 age group and reached a personal milestone, breaking four hours after years of chasing the ultimate goal.

Leonard

"I had not in any of my previous marathons, so I wanted to break four hours if I could," said Leonard, a Mocksville attorney who finished in three hours, 51 minutes and crossed the finish line with the first 400-and-some runners at age 56. "I've been training hard, so I was just real thrilled with that. It's just a personal thing."

Disappointed with last year's 4:06 time in the first annual Myrtle Beach Marathon, Leonard started an intense training regimen around Thanksgiving and culminated the mission with his greatest run ever.

"I started training harder, trying to top out and peak about this time," he said. "I was working on 40 or 50 miles a week. You can do a marathon doing that, even less. I must have had it planned pretty well because I did (peak). Everything went real, real well. What you try to do is better yourself, that's what you're running for, and I was just really pleased. I guess helping me along was knowing the course this time."

Leonard isn't done quite yet. He's already set his sights on some unfinished business for next year's event, plotting a way to avoid late bumps and finish with flair. Often times, Leonard said, the race's end is the beginning of trouble.

"I've got a good plan," he said. "After the marathon, I was sitting there replaying the run in my mind, going through the mile markers and how I felt. I've already figured out what I'm going to do those last two miles. Those last two or three miles are killers. But I've already got it planned what I'm going to do next year to try to make them a little easier."

The Exorcists: North Davie Boys Get Rid Of Second Half Blues

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

North Davie's boys basketball team exorcised the demons that have invariably haunted the Wildcats during the second half of so many games throughout a trying season, withstanding Concord's rally and pulling out a 42-31 victory last week that lifted the burden of a five-game losing streak.

"In the past, that's what our problem has been," Coach Danny Allard said of the late collapses that sent North into a 1-8 tailspin. "We've played well in the first half, and for some reason in the second half we'd fall apart."

The Wildcats appeared on the verge of another breakdown when the Goldminers sliced North's 20-15 halftime lead to two points in the third quarter. Allard jumped up, called timeout and urged calm.

"The game got tight, I got kind of worried and was like: 'Here we go again,' " said the rookie head coach. "It scared me a little bit. We did some silly things on defense. I called timeout, kind of settled them down a little bit and said: 'We're doing the right things, we've just got to execute a little bit better.' "

"We got some breakaway layups, you could just tell (Concord) was getting really frustrated, and that's when we pulled away from them," he said. "That probably is the best quarter we've played, especially to close out a game. So to see us play that well in the fourth quarter was good."

North disarmed Concord with a tight 2-3 zone that revealed the Goldminers' distinct inability to hit outside shots. They scored two measly points in six climatic minutes, helping the Wildcats gather momentum for last Monday's season finale at South Davie.

South Volleyball Team Solves West Montgomery Puzzle

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

West Montgomery's volleyball dynasty had been a puzzle for Coach Becky Miller's teams since South Davie became a middle school six years ago.

The Tigers solved the West Montgomery problem last week, winning 15-8, 5-15 and 15-4.

"That was an exceptionally wonderful win because that's the first time that we've ever beaten West," said Miller, whose past teams had often times beaten everyone else but come up short in the championship race. "They've always won the conference."

This was the first time Miller's current players had ever faced West because West didn't field a team last year. Going in, Miller kept the frustrating history against West under wraps, eliminating the mental strain and the West mystique that invariably haunted South in the past.

"They didn't know. I didn't tell them until afterward," she said. "I don't know what it did for them, but it sure did make me feel really good. That has been a block we haven't been able to get past for a long time.

> "That was an exceptionally wonderful win because that's the first time that we've ever beaten West."
> - Coach Becky Miller

It was a fun win for me. It was definitely a good win for me."

Serving paved the road for South, which dispatched Lexington in three games on the same day to improve to 3-1.

"Of 110 serves, we only missed 19 the entire day and they were all overhand," Miller said. "I mean, for middle-school kids to serve all overhand, that is just phenomenal."

Since a season-opening loss to East Montgomery, the Tigers have started to excel in all areas, including the advanced bump-set-hit stages of the game. Deanna Sharnel and Heather Miller are outstanding setters for a veteran rotation that includes eighth graders Megan Dwiggins and Head at middle hitter, Danielle Moore and Kirsten Durham at one outside hitter and Amber Thompson and Ashley Lee at the other outside hitter.

"We set the ball well," Miller said. "We've got two really good setters. Both (Sharnel and Miller) are doing a great job. As long as we get the passes to them, they will set it. They are even setting back row, so we're able to do back-row attacks, which is kind of a rare thing at this age level."

Tigers Start Season With Big Wins

"All those girls are passing well. If we get them setting, they are getting the ball back over. We're not hitting real strong right now, but we are getting the ball back over and we are playing bump-set-hit volleyball. They are playing high school-type volleyball."

Miller cited erratic serving in a 2-0 season-opening loss to East Montgomery. "I don't know if they were scared," she said. "They just had first-game jitters. We just didn't move our feet very well, and we weren't serving very well."

The Tigers rebounded with a shutout over Thomasville, triggering the three-match winning streak, and Miller wouldn't be surprised if the Tigers won out the rest of the way.

"I think it's going to be a different game," she said of the upcoming rematch with East Montgomery. "We've worked on some things, we've made some adjustments in our defense, and I think we'll do a lot better against them when we play them here.

"It's going to be a really strong team. I had eight coming back, and by the second or third match last year I could put them on the court and they would win the games for us. So I think it's going to be a real good year for us."

New Coaches Prepare For Spring Sports

Holman and Black have taken over as head track coaches for Scott Young and Cary Powers (now an assistant). Illing has replaced David Rondestvedt in golf and Allred has replaced Denise Boyd in boys tennis.

Holman plans to keep the recent success rolling, inheriting a program that soared to conference runner-up and third in the Midwest Regional last year.

"I'm very optimistic," he said. "I really think we have a good chance to be good this year, although we're missing some key people that helped us in the past."

Runners such as Marshall Pitts and Greg Lanier must fill the voids of departed stars Garick Hill and Darien Brown, who led Davie to a 28-3 record last year.

"Now that last year is over with and the Hills, Browns and some of those kids are gone, some of those juniors and seniors have got to step up and take control," Holman said.

"Distance-wise, we're looking for things out of Pitts, Lanier, Travis Ervin and Ryan Barnes. The way I look at it, if we don't finish first in an event, we want to finish second and fourth to take points away so that Mt. Tabor can't get first, second, third and fourth. We want to slip in there. If we have a second and fourth, that's just as good as their first."

Black's bunch could endure some bumps with only two seniors and two juniors on the squad. The War Eagles are certainly working to compensate for inexperience, giving Black all they've got in practice.

"It's a very young team," Black said. "But it's a good group of girls. They're fun to work with. We do have a lot of work to do, but they're hard workers."

Davie's greatest asset is sophomore Samantha Murillo, a proven weapon in the 400 and 200 races.

"She ran a 57.06 in the scholastic outdoor national meet in Raleigh last year, and that's stellar," Black said. "I mean, that's really good. She'll be there for us in the 400 and 200. I think she's going to try to run the 100, too. She can, she's a strong girl, and she's only a sophomore."

Davie will also rely heavily on seniors Janel Darcy, Lauren Poplin and Laurie Desch and junior Jerrine Peeler in the distance events.

"We've got a lot of work to do in field events," Black said, "but distance events we're going to be really strong."

If Black's determination rubs off, look out. As a junior at Sun Valley High in 1991, Black ran cross country until she collapsed. A state champion as a sophomore and senior, Black suffered a stress fracture as a junior but refused to back off, eventually breaking the leg.

"I ran until it completely fractured, so I couldn't run the state meet," said Black, who finished second in the state in the mile as a high-school freshman and achieved all-conference in cross country as a freshman at Appalachian State.

"We're glad to have Coach Black. She is a fine addition as a coach, and she knows what it means to work hard," Holman said. "She ran until it broke. That's the kind of stuff that I like. That gets me excited to hear stuff like that."

James Stewart is tearing up the links, firing a four-under-par 32 in practice last week and emerging as one of the league's hottest golfers.

"I think the word is West Forsyth has the two best players around, but I think Stewart can compete with them," Illing said of his top player. "Stewart is hanging around even or under par. He shot a 32 and just lipped out a birdie putt on No. 9 for a 31. He's a very consistent player. He plays good golf, and I look for him to compete against Andrew Lewis and the other boy at West Forsyth (Jason Harris)."

The difference between contending and pretending could come down to Davie's Nos. 2-4 players: senior John Habegger and juniors Shawn Brooks and John Landen.

"They will probably be our top four (along with junior Stewart)," Illing said. "Those four are pretty consistent."

Two promising freshmen, Ryan Knoll and Greg Brooks, are strong candidates for the fifth and sixth spots.

"Ryan and Greg are competing up there in the top six," Illing said. "Ryan is a very promising player. Greg hits the ball a long way and is very strong.

"We've got a good solid group of top six who are competing, and I think we'll be competitive."

The remainder of the roster includes seniors Lanny Collet and Laura Windley; juniors Andy Boger, Kyle Keepers and Kevin Reed; sophomores Trent Clement and Josh Lackey; and freshmen Levi Browning and Jake Taylor.

Davie's track teams host West Rowan and North Davidson March 11, the golf team opens at Hillcrest March 16 and the tennis team hosts West Rowan on March 10 and South Rowan March 15.

Erin Naylor, Thomas Seaford, Jonathan West, Josh Whitaker, Ashton Swicegood and Josh Berryhill are among the young players to take part in the instructional league game at the Brock Gym last week. In back is instructor Rustin Harpe.

Brock Ball

Everybody's A Winner In This League

By Dwight Sparks
Davie County Enterprise-Record

Unlike the Duke-Carolina game Sunday, this one was always in doubt. But there were similarities.

There was the big man under the basket, Aaron Peoples, grabbing rebounds and putting up shots. At a commanding 4-foot-6, he towered over the other kids very much like Duke's Elton Brand.

On the other team, Will Rooney, like UNC's Ed Cota, dribbled the length of the court, dishing out the ball.

Josh Whitaker and Josh Berryhill, two adept ball handlers, pushed the ball down court with a fury.

But size was not a big factor. Three of the smallest, Jessa Ren, Kimberly Cook and Ashton Swicegood, made big contributions to their teams.

Mocksville recreation director Mike Garner surveyed the action and declared Davie County High School's basketball future to be bright. Basketball coach Jim Young can take comfort in the future of his program.

Last week, the recreation department closed its annual youth instructional league for 7- and 8-year-olds with a game among the participants.

For four weeks, the children learn about basketball. How to dribble, how to pass, how to shoot, how to make a huddle. On the fifth week, they played the game.

It might be the most filmed game of the year in Davie County. Parents and grandparents commanded an array of video cameras.

The program has been very successful, growing to 75 to 80 kids this year and split among two gyms.

One of the games was very close. Pulling on over-sized jerseys donated by South Davie, one of the teams was called the Tigers. The other was called the War Eagles.

The War Eagles jumped out to a commanding lead, but the Tigers stormed back. Teams were given two points if the ball went in the basket. They were given one point if the ball hit the rim. By those rules, UNC might have won Sunday, but this was Brock gym ball.

Many of the players even demonstrated they knew about Michael Jordan's controversial "extra step" rule. Some of them took several extra steps with the ball. Some picked it up and ran with it football-style.

After it was all over, Garner gathered them together and taught them the final important lesson of any basketball game.

Defense Wins Games: War Eagle Softball Team Strong Where It Counts

If softball coach Tammy Reavis' objective last week was to find additional motivation, she got exactly what she wanted when Davie's offense paled in comparison with a rock-solid defense.

"We did some good things and we found some things that we need to work on," Reavis said following scrimmages against North Iredell and Statesville. "They got to see the things that we are doing good, and there are some things that are not perfected yet.

"Defensively, we looked real good. Offensively, we didn't hit the ball that well. Defensively, I'm not worried. We're going to be fine defensively, we've got to get our bats going."

Reavis is hardly fazed by the slow offense. Pitching and defense usually decide games, and the War Eagles don't appear to have a weakness anywhere in the field. Shannon Handy struck out six in three innings of work against Statesville, Jessica Whitley cruised through two and Ashlie Sanders fanned two in one inning.

"The bats are just slow right now from not hitting that much," Reavis said. "I think it'll come around, though. We are going to get better and better.

"Defensively, we are doing good. Shannon was just on fire that day. If they keep focus and they keep working, I'm not going to worry because they are going to keep improving.

"We had a real good practice on Wednesday. They were concentrating and focussing on our hitting. So if they'll do that throughout the year, we'll be OK."

But, with so much depth and talent, everything could change.

"I also have Tina Harkness who can play outfield, I have Handy who's been playing outfield some and Carter played outfield some," Reavis said. "So we're going to be deep out there.

"The infield could change. We've got Tina who could play shortstop, Amber Hamm who could play second, Sanders who can play third and Natalie, Queen and Carter who can catch."

Notes: Davie will open March 13 in a tournament at South Stokes. Durham Jordan, Wilmington, South View and possibly a team from Richmond, Va., will complete the field. Davie is guaranteed three games against good competition, although South Stokes is probably not one of them. "They're all supposed to be pretty good," said Reavis. "The way it's set up, we probably won't play South. But I'd like to see them." . .

Reavis said the JV team looked unbeatable last week.

"They looked really good," she said. "They hit the ball real well against Statesville's second-string varsity team. Their pitching wasn't that strong, but they killed it."

Patience: DHS Soccer Team Dominates Scrimmage, But Coach Has Warning

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

After dominating West Rowan 6-1 and Southwest Randolph 6-0 in scrimmages last week, Davie girls soccer coach Pete Gustafson still had reason to be concerned.

Davie scored at will by whipping through inferior competition with solo attacks, but the War Eagles must perform fluid ball movement and practice patience and precision if they're going to find success against formidable foes.

"I just feel like some of the things we were doing we are not going to be able to get away with later on down the line," Gustafson said. "You can't force the ball, you can't push the ball one-on-one against somebody. We are going to have to back pass, we're going to have to switch fields and we're going to have to hit the long ball, hit the short ball and do all of it to be successful. The passes just aren't quite there yet. We're having too many turnovers."

Gustafson points to last year's roaring start and fast fade in the Central Piedmont Conference. The War Eagles tore through the nonconference schedule 33-0 and boasted an 8-0 record heading into the real season, then retreated against the CPC's Big Three: Reynolds, West Forsyth and Mt. Tabor, all ranked in the top 10 of the preseason 4-A poll. Last year, Reynolds swept Davie 4-0 and 2-1, West rolled 4-1 and 5-0 and Tabor beat Davie 3-1 after tying the War Eagles in the first meeting, leaving Davie 4-5-1 in the CPC.

"Man on man, it's going to be tougher," Gustafson said of the CPC season, which starts the second week of April. "I don't know if we're used to that yet. We'll find out."

Gustafson is begging for more aggression, a greater appetite for the ball. He wants the girls to get down and dirty and match the Big Three's hunger.

"We've just got to step it up," he said. "We've got to be more physical. We can't be as soft. We've got to be able to apply a shoulder on an elbow and vie for the ball. You've got to vie for the ball. You've got to go for the ball."

But, of course, Gustafson has detected flashes of brilliance in two scrimmage wipeouts. Meredith Hendrix burned West Rowan for four goals and booted two more against Southwest, and Caroline Steed scored two against West and Hannah Woodward knocked in two against Southwest.

"Meredith was just on a hot streak," Gustafson said. "Obviously she was hot. It wasn't just Meredith. It was Caroline, Hannah and Sarah Jackson feeding her those balls, but she had to do something with them when she got them."

The highlight reel involved Steed on two occasions. The junior kicked a beauty off a dead ball against West Rowan and fed Woodward for a highly-skilled goal against Southwest.

"We're doing some great things," Gustafson said. "Woodward took it right out of the air, bingo, right into the goal. That was good stuff, just what you teach at the college level, taking it out of the air. It was a very good thing."

The defense – led by Julie Agejew, Shannon Bokeno and Elise Whitaker – has been ferocious, holding scrimmage opponents to one measly goal.

"Agejew is doing a great job putting a body on the person," Gustafson said. "The defense is doing well. They are covering depth. Whitaker is overlapping well, doing big stuff in there."

Davie has received a jolt from Jennifer Whaley, a determined freshman who has leapfrogged the junior varsity right into a key reserve role for the varsity.

"She has stepped up," Gustafson said. "She is extremely aggressive. She is head strong – you know, just what I like to see."

Gustafson is hoping Haley Queen can handle stopper until Erin Baldwin (shoulder injury) returns. Then he hopes Queen, Baldwin and Whaley will become effective complementaries to the main cogs.

"I put Queen at a stopper and I would like to see her step into that position to give us some flexibility," he said. "(Baldwin's timetable) Is a doctor thing. You don't argue with those things. If we get Erin in there at stopper, get Haley at a midfielder and Jennifer as a strong sub, we'll be looking good."

Tigers Deflated In Nightmare 44-17 Loss To NW Cabarrus

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

So much for being the hottest basketball team in the county.

Bus troubles caused the Tigers to arrive about 20 minutes after game time. This was one of those days they may have been better off staying home. After finally getting to the gym, they got pummeled by a talented Trojan team 44-17 after raising expectations with a 6-2 start.

"We had two very easy games (blowout wins over Mooresville and Concord) the week before," Coach Lisa McDonald said. "We had two games that we played really well in. But those teams just weren't as competitive as some of the teams we've been playing in the past, and I think they had a sense of false confidence that they could just blow out another team."

South's previous two losses were by a combined six points, but the Tigers came crashing down to reality in one nightmarish afternoon, partly because of self-inflicted wounds. South had a difficult time doing anything right, failing to box out, botching close-range shots and losing a defensive grip that became the key ingredient for previous success.

"They didn't rebound and they weren't hitting their layups," McDonald said. "There were several putback points that we missed. And we just didn't play defense like we should have.

"No. 14 had 21 points and they just couldn't stop her. Had she not been in the game, it would have been a closer game."

The Trojans' 23-6 second-half domination left the Tigers deflated and dazed before Monday's collision against a North Davie team that has won six of its last eight games. McDonald spent Friday's practice trying to repair the psychological damage of a sobering experience.

"A lot of them are really down," she said Friday morning. "A lot of them were upset because they knew they could do better than they did. I really feel like they didn't play up to their ability. They know it and they're kind of down right now."

Andrea Dwiggins and Heather Boger were bright spots, particularly on defense. Dwiggins scored six to lead five scorers. Brandi Harpe had four, Megan Jordan had three and Carly Balsley and Savannah Kowalski had two each.

"Dwiggins had a really good game," McDonald said. "Dwiggins and Boger were a couple that had good defensive games."

• South's boys fell behind Northwest 12-2 in the first quarter, lost 54-33 and sank to 1-8 on the year. Kevin Winters led with nine points, followed by Matthew Burchette with eight, David Schweit, Mitchell Roberts and Travis Howell with four each, Derrick Foster with three and Nathan Crowe with two. Coach Tim Kenney was out of town and unavailable for comment.

Basketball Tournament Planned

The tournament is double-elimination and the cost is $120 per team. The winner will receive a trophy, MVP award and individual plaques. A trophy will also go to runner-up.

Mullis Claims Contest Cash

The battle for first place in the basketball contest was infinitely closer than the Duke-UNC tiebreaker.

Kevin Mullis and Doug Smith missed six each to rise to the top and settled their dispute with the 169 total points in the ACC tournament championship game. Mullis' 150 points decided the $25. Smith, who picked 140, wound up with second and $5.

Dillard Moody, Kevin Byerly and Charlie Johnson challenged with seven misses and Vernon Thompson, Gil Mullis, Lethia Johnson, Dan Stauffon, "Big Bad" Nick Kistler and Bonnie "March" Maness missed eight.

Cornatzer Sparks Victory For North

"I told them to pack it in because most of their baskets came off layups," Allard said. "I said let's make them shoot some jump shots.

"Basically the guys came out and just played real well. Concord was a pretty good team, but for some reason we were doing the right things and things just happened to go our way. It just gives them a little bit of extra energy coming into this (South Davie) game, and that's what I was looking for."

The Wildcats were looking desperately for a spark. Derek Cornatzer supplied the answer, scoring a season-high 12 points and finishing an effective transition game.

"Cornatzer played real well," Allard said. "He got a lot of open shots off the transition stuff. He got a lot of easy layups."

The Wildcats turned the tables because they dominated the boards and burned the Goldminers with crisp ball movement on the break, finding Justin Norsworthy and David Orsillo for eight points apiece and helping Brandon Pane contribute six.

"We did a lot better job rebounding as a whole and we did a good job in transition, moving the ball around and not necessarily just trying to go one-on-one with somebody. We passed the ball around and got some other people some open shots."

Notes: Allard praised Pane and Norsworthy for crashing the boards. "Pane rebounded great," he said. "He worked hard on the boards. Him and Norsworthy both did a real good job inside for us." . . . . North pulled together in the face of adversity. Two players served the first of two-game suspensions. Eight of nine players scored, with Jacques Lyons getting four and Jonathan Motsinger and Cody Stephens getting two each: "As a team we played well," Allard said. "(Two players) were ineligible for that game so everybody played." . . . . Earlier in the week, Mooresville romped 49-24 over the Wildcats, who got seven points from Ryan Price, six from Stephens, four from Norsworthy, two each from Matt Markland, Motsinger and Pane and one from Cornatzer.

Melton's Three Run Homer Not Enough Against Cougar Rally

The Cougars made the War Eagles pay in the ninth, getting back-to-back two-out doubles off Ridenhour, who was tagged with a tough loss after fanning five and allowing just two hits in three innings.

Melton couldn't believe his eyes when his towering shot traveled beyond the 325-foot left-field fence and provided a stunning 3-0 lead. Davie managed just two more hits the rest of the way, a Paul Sparks single and Daywalt's double.

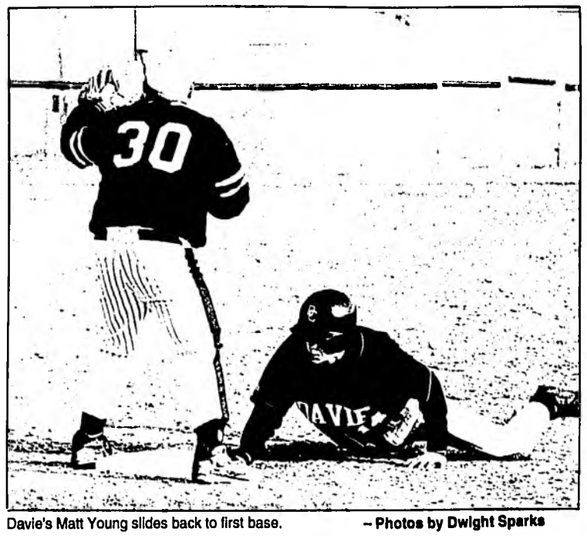

"I didn't even think I hit it," said Melton, a senior first baseman-catcher. "I was just trying to hit the ball. I didn't think I hit it good. He had two strikes on me and I didn't even expect him to throw me a strike. But he threw it right down the middle."

Herndon said Melton's finest varsity moment represented the first fragment of reward for paying his junior dues. Last year, he warmed the bench, batted just five times and practiced patience.

"He's worked extremely hard, and I'm glad to see something positive happen to him," Herndon said. "It's good to see good things happen to a senior, especially for one that's been in the shadows of everybody throughout his career.

"He crushed it. If the wind wasn't blowing in, there's no telling how far that ball would have gone."

Notes: Herndon was also impressed by Melton's performance behind the plate. "We feel like now we can bring in (starting catcher) Drew anytime we want to," he said. "I was a little concerned how Wesley would handle Drew, but he did a great job back there blocking pitches." .... Patti and Ridenhour appear to be a winning combination, with junior Jeremiah Creason working to solidify the No. 2 starting role. "Anytime Victor's on the mound, we have a very good chance of winning," said Herndon, who lifted Creason after facing two hitters in the seventh. "And from what I saw (Friday), when Drew's on the mound we have a very good chance of winning." .... Junior Thadd Johnson did the job in his debut at second. "Thadd made some good plays," Herndon said. "That was a concern of mine after the scrimmage on (Feb. 27). But he played really well." .... Herndon's opening day lineup and batting order: Daywalt at third, Patti pitching, Ridenhour at catcher, Melton at first, Brian Grout in left, Sparks in right, Matt Young at short, Zeke Earle in center and Johnson at second. .... Davie's next six games are at home, starting with East Forsyth March 10. North Davidson March 12 and Alexander Central March 16.

Uncertainty Surrounds Davie JV Baseball Team

Coach Lee Linville is having trouble describing the Davie JV baseball team's personality, especially after losing the team's heart and soul, freshman Andrew Daywalt, to the varsity.

Linville

"I just don't know what to expect," said Linville, whose club opened the season Monday at Salisbury in a nonconference game. "I think pitching-wise we're pretty good. Defensively, I think we're going to be decent. But you never know what to expect with JV on defense, and I really don't know how well we're going to hit it.

"I just don't know what the wins and losses are going to be like."

The War Eagles' chances of a winning season took a hit when Daywalt, a good glove and perhaps the team's best bat, was promoted as the varsity's starting third baseman. Linville, though, shook it off as usual business that helps varsity coach Mike Herndon put the best lineup on the field.

"We've got to do what we've got to do as far as winning on the varsity level," Linville said. "But I hate to see him go because, you know, I was planning on batting him third, being the everyday third baseman and maybe pitching him a little bit. But Herndon feels like he needs his glove, and you can't argue with that."

Linville is counting on sophomore Travis Allen, the only returning pitcher who threw more than 10 innings last year, to become the team's ace. Freshmen Cody Wright and Dave Poplin complete the rotation, and Chris Seaford and Ricky Bentley could also get some innings.

The defense is mostly set. The likely starters are Andrew Jones at first base, Bentley at shortstop, Seth Correll at third, Jeffrey Jones at catcher, Wright in left field, Seaford in center and Poplin in right. Kellen Miller, Jacob Garner and Donnie Vestal are battling at second base and Allen is a backup at first, Josh Golding is a backup in left and Randall Head is a backup in right.

Bentley has moved from third to short this year. "I think we may have had him out of position last year," Linville said. "We had him at third last year behind Jeremiah (Creason)."

Doug Smith, a catcher, is out nursing a bad back.

"He's going to be out for a while, so Andrew Jones will be the reserve catcher until Doug gets back," Linville said. "It's something he did in football. He reaggravated it in basketball and then reaggravated it again in baseball."

Linville is excited about a 23-game schedule that will keep the War Eagles busy until the end of April.

"I'm looking forward to it," he said. "We've got a full schedule this year, and we're going to have a JV tournament at Rich Park over spring break. So it's going to be a fun year."

Linville welcomes the addition of Phil Pacelli, a graduate assistant at Catawba College who is performing his student teaching at Davie and helping the baseball program.

"He is splitting time between Catawba and here as far as coaching," Linville said. "When Catawba's in town he's over there, and when they're not he's over here. He's helping out in practice and when he's around, he's going to help me in ball games."

Andrew Jones, Seaford, Bentley, Jeffrey Jones, Correll, Allen and Head are sophomores and Wright, Smith, Miller, Garner, Vestal, Poplin and Golding are freshmen.

Dragway Season Starts

Farmington Dragway kicked off its 36th consecutive year of racing this Sunday, March 7. The cold and the wind didn't stop the over 100 racers on hand for the Farm's opening day race of 1999.

Picking up where he left off in 1998, Glenn Ferguson Jr. drove his Race Tech Dragster to the TOP Eliminator win. The '98 TOP Eliminator Racer of the Year at Farmington captured 11 wins last year and placed third in the race series standings. Greensboro's Ferguson turned the 1/8th track in 5.19 seconds at 133 M.P.H. to defeat his brother-in-law Tommy Paschal of Pleasant Garden in his Ford for the win. 1998 Farmington/TOP Eliminator champion Mark "the Kid" Jones of Rural Hall finished third in his four second, 140 M.P.H. Oldsmobile.

1998 IHRA TOP/ET World Champion Lee Sloan of Mt. Airy won the "Dash for Cash" No. 1 qualifying position in his Pontiac.

Veteran "foot braker" Roy Waller made the long trip from Rural Retreat, Va. a winning venture, as he picked up the Sportsman division win. Waller in his Chevrolet ran a 7.70 ET at 89 M.P.H. to defeat '97 Sportsman Rookie of the Year racer Michael Trivette of Boone in a Ford. Sparta's Jimmy Reeves finished third and Skip Martin of Walnut Cove was fourth.

Mark Anderson of Advance drove his Ford Mustang at his first Farmington/Pure Stock Division win Sunday. Anderson defeated H.L. Hawks of Mr. Airy in a Ford for the all "street legal" class victory.

Third generation racer Kallam Hicks of Lenior picked up his first Street Machines/FARM Junior Dragster division win defeating last years champion T.G. Paschal from Pleasant Garden.

Farmington Dragway will be on a Sunday afternoon racing schedule through March. Featured will be TOP Eliminator, Sportsman, Pure Stock and Junior Dragster classes. Gates open at 9 a.m. Time Runs begin and 11 a.m. at eliminations begin at 2 p.m.

Apprentice Learns About 'Real World' In Program

By Jessie Burris
Davie County Enterprise Record

Denise Gentle, a junior at Davie High School, says her apprenticeship at Davie Auto Parts in accounting makes her classwork make sense.

"You see it in the real world, you can see a real company with real bills," she said.

"We've had her on the computer and filing and everything with accounting," said Vena Harris, owner of Davie Auto Parts. "She's assisted us in the computer work, and set up new files for us" said Harris.

"The filing cabinets belong to me," Gentle said jokingly.

Gentle apprentices two to three hours a day at Davie Auto. "I think it's good training for them. Hands-on experience is very important for learning a position," Harris said.

Gentle said her apprenticeship is a lot of independence, "yet applying what I've learned in accounting to the work place."

"It's to their advantage," Harris said. "Everything they can learn while working is good for future jobs or promotion."

Harris said one Davie student came to Davie Auto under the old apprentice program in 1969, and he's still working with the company.

Gentle hopes to continue this apprenticeship and maybe pick up another one because colleges look highly on these things. Gentle isn't sure where she wants to go to college. "If I can't get certified, it's very limited. The money's much better if you're certified."

Gentle began at Davie Auto in the 10th grade, at age 16. She works from 2-7 p.m., five days a week.

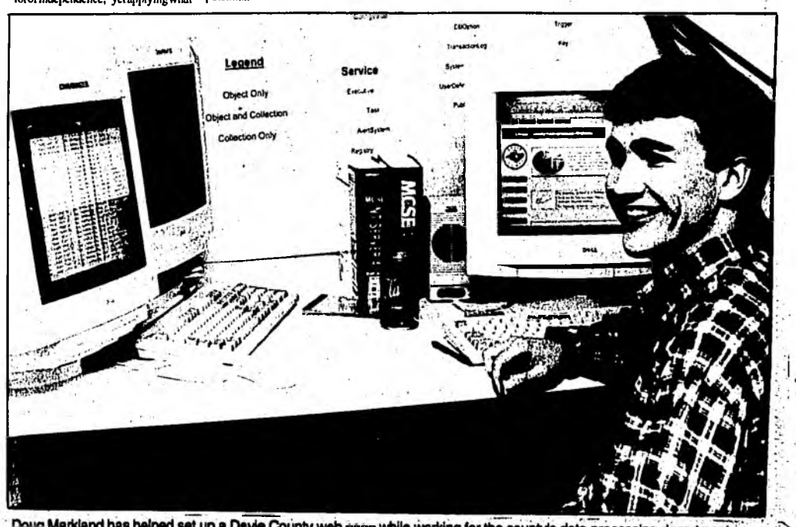

"They keep you busy around here. Five hours a day isn't enough," Gentle said.

Harris said accounting needs versatile people.

Student Helps Design Davie County Web Site

"As busy as we are, we have no time for a county website," said Neal Smith, Davie data processing director.

Not only is the county too busy to maintain a website, they cannot afford staff to do this work.

So, Doug Markland, a student at Davie High School who apprentices at the data processing department of Davie County, created the website. Smith, Markland's advisor, said, "Doug has created an extensive website with job listings and new legislative resolu-

Markland came to the county office by the apprenticeship program run by Joey Kennedy. "We're all happy with the work study program Kennedy has," Smith said.

Markland said, "It's a great learning experience. I get to meet interesting people. It's pushed me into a computer science degree."

BUSINESS SPOTLIGHT

Advertise Your Business With Embroidery Impressions

"I embroider companies' names on almost anything you can think of," says Ring, owner and operator of Embroidery Impressions in Clemmons. She customizes shirts, hats, medical lab coats and zippered cloth briefcases or tote bags for customers.

"We have 13,000 designs available to create a special logo for a business," says Ring. She can also take a camera-ready picture and transfer it onto her Tajima two-head industrial machinery, using a rainbow selection of thread colors.

Robyn Goslen of Goslen Printing was especially pleased with the quality of work that Embroidery Impressions did.

"I would certainly recommend her to anybody who needs embroidery work done," says Goslen, owner of the Winston-Salem printing company. "She is extremely professional, and the work for us was done on a timely basis."

Embroidery Impressions used a two-color scheme of green and gold to emblazon shirts and hats with Goslen Printing's company name. Jane Ring employed extra care, to be sure that the green and gold, which touched closely together in the design, would not run in the fabric.

Jane Ring exercises this same precision on all of the embroidery she creates for customers. Whether she is stitching a fishing lure on a fisherman's hat or a mallard on a man's knit shirt for Father's Day, Jane Ring adds that individualized quality to what may have been just an ordinary hat or shirt.

Let Jane Ring and Embroidery Impressions solve your gift ideas and individualize your clothing. Call her at 712-0943.

Embroidery Impressions can provide a wide variety of shirts, caps, canvas beach bags, tote bags, gym bags, bathrobes, or warm fleece jackets, and customize them as well. One family ordered large snuggly fleece blankets with their first names on each one, for an unbeatable Christmas present.

"It is elegant to use a tone on tone for these, such as beige on taupe, that is beautiful but unobtrusive," says Ring.

Customers of Embroidery Impressions are delighted with the monogrammed terrycloth bathrobes, sheets and towels. One bridal party ordered a monogrammed bathrobe for each of the bridesmaids and grooms' men, as an original gift. With one phone call, Jane Ring can provide each of these items and embroider them, making shopping a simple and stress-free chore.

Ring's business sells Lovie baby blankets, by Applause. Customers can choose between a cream-colored teddy bear, white fleecy lamb with a blue or pink ribbon, a fat gray elephant or pink bunny to adorn the blanket. The baby's name, birth date, and any other saying can decorate this beautiful baby gift.

Sports' teams, boat clubs, or students love seeing their team and individual names on gym bags or other sports' equipment. Monogrammed book bags are hot items on high school and middle school campuses as well.

Embroidery Impressions is open from 9 am - 4 pm, but Jane Ring works with customers who need an appointment for other hours. She promptly returns phone messages. Contact Jane Ring at (336) 712-0943, for a unique customized creation today.

Students Honored For Fund Raising

Students recently participated in a fund raising project sponsored by the PTA, which raised $13,000 to purchase items needed at the school, according to PTA president Melissa Gibson.

Every student selling more than 30 items, which included candy and gift wrap, were treated to the limousine ride and pizza party, she said.

First grader Jamie Smith was recognized as the top salesperson for the school, selling more than $750 worth of items. Finishing in second place was Justin Matlock. Jessica Roseman earned third place.

Funds raised from the project have been used to purchase awnings to protect children, who are dropped off and picked up in cars, from the rain.

The PTA also plans to put benches on the playground for teachers and add grills on the back playground to be used for special events, Gibson said.

Crosby Makes Dean's List

Katherine Crosby of 246 Bermuda Run Drive, Advance, was named to the fall semester dean's list at Syracuse University's School of Social Work.

She had a minimum 3.4 grade point average. The social work curriculum incorporates instruction in five professional foundation areas - social welfare policy and services, human behavior and the social environment, research, social work practice, and field instruction.

Pinebrook To Hold Evening Kindergarten Registration

This year Pinebrook will be having an evening kindergarten registration for our 1999-2000 kindergarten class on Tuesday, April 20.

Parents will need registration information before April 20, so they are asked to call the school and leave parents' name and address. Registration information will then be mailed. At registration night parents will be asked to reserve a time on May 12 for kindergarten screening.

If you know of any students who will attend kindergarten next year, ask their parents to call the school at 998-3868.

BUSINESS SPOTLIGHT

Natural Foods Center Open at Lowes Foods

Lowes Foods, which includes dozens of grocery stores throughout North Carolina and Virginia, is responding to customer demand, says specialist Jennifer Oas.

"Natural and organic foods are the fastest growing category in grocery retail," says Oas, the Natural Foods and Supplements specialist for Lowes Foods. "We are just giving our customers what they have been asking for in one easy location."

Oas says that many customers who have moved to the Triad area from the West Coast or northeastern United States are used to purchasing preservative-free products available in this area.

"Many people today are on specialized diets," says Oas. "They may be lactose-intolerant or on a wheat-free diet. We carry certified organic foods that give them many more choices in what they can eat."

Natural foods may be defined as foods which feature no artificial colorants, preservatives or flavoring. The Clemmons' Lowes Foods stocks organic teas, flours, raisins, cake mixes, pastas and milks.

"It takes the mystery out of natural foods," says Oas. "Synthetic preservatives are known to cause sensitivities in certain people. Asthmatics are sensitive to sulfates, which is used a lot in breads, soft cheeses, and juices. Yellow dye #6 is also an allergin," Oas says.

Many people also prefer the fresher taste of natural and organic foods, Oas says. "Imagine Foods has a shelf-stable tomato soup that tastes like you make it yourself. They have a butternut squash soup that is absolutely delicious."

Lowes Foods carries Organic Cow milk from Vermont. This specialized milk is made from Jersey cows fed on organically pure grain, who have not been treated with the controversial hormone BST, given to increase milk production. The process by which the milk is bottled actually extends pasteurization, Oas says.

"We also have organic eggs, and more organic produce coming," Oas notes.

One of the most popular sections of the Natural Foods Center stocks herbs. This rapidly growing market includes the well-known St. John's Wort (taken to combat depression), Ginseng (to increase energy), and Goldenseal (a cold and flue remedy.) Lowes Foods has a number of name brand supplements, such as Nature's Way, Super Value and Twin Lab.

Store manager Pat Cundari has made a singular effort to offer every type of supplement needed for athletes.

"We carry the powdered energy drinks and energy bars," says Cundari. Natural items which enhance muscle mass cater to the serious body builders. And for those who want to lose weight in a healthy fashion, fat-burning drinks and other products are in abundant supply.

Prevention of disease is another major theme of the natural Foods Center. Lowes Foods has set up a unique computer program, where customers can access on-site information developed by a group of pharmacists, about suggested natural remedies for disease. Contradictions and side effects of various remedies are also listed. The Natural Foods Center shelves are lined with a host of medical and homeopathic books, also for sale. Lowes Foods employee Lisa Bailey can provide further assistant to inquiring customers.

Lowes Foods furnishes maps which list each category of organic foods available throughout the store. Each aisle has a header that marks where natural and organic foods are stocked. Everything has been done to facilitate shopping ease for the discriminating customer.

Visit the new Natural Foods Center today, with over 500 natural food items. Lowes Foods is located at 2501 Lewisville-Clemmons Road in Clemmons, in the New Towne Shopping Center.

Public School Forum Calls For Major Education Investments

In a report documenting the findings of a year-long study on school finance, the Public School Forum issued a call for major new educational investments.

Fueling the Forum's urgency in issuing the call for more investments is its concern that tens of thousands of young people could fall behind in school or be denied a high school diploma when the state implements "get tough" promotion and graduation standards in 2000-2001.

"Only two years from now," said John Dornan, the forum's executive director, "students who cannot pass state tests in grades 3, 5, 8 and 12 will be denied promotion or graduation under the State Board of Education's new plan to end social promotion. The question is whether North Carolina's schools will have programs in place that will give young people a better chance to succeed before the new standards go into effect?"

The forum's recommendations, contained in a report titled "The Things That Matter," begin by documenting how low North Carolina's investment in education is at present.

"While it may go against the grain in this era of tax cutting to call for more spending, the fact is that North Carolina remains far below national averages on public school spending," Dornan stated. "We are $1,200 below national average spending per child and, if compared to highly-regarded private schools in and out of North Carolina, the comparisons are even worse."

Citing the old adage that "you get what you pay for," the forum report recommends that the state invest in things that research has found would make the most difference, especially for young people from disadvantaged home backgrounds who are most likely not to meet more demanding standards.

Specifically, the forum study recommends:

• Adopting a weighted funding system that would provide funding for at-risk young people at a level 20 percent higher than other students.

• Using the additional resources to put in place remediation and enrichment programs focused on basic subjects that will determine the new graduation and promotion standards.

• Creating incentive packages that will enable rural and low performing schools to be more competitive when it comes to recruiting and retaining qualified teachers and administrators.

The bulk of the recommendations contained in the report would focus state spending on the needs of young people most at risk of not meeting the higher standards that go into effect in 2000-2001.

"Nearly 40 percent of the young people in North Carolina's public schools, 483,000 in all, come from families which are below or at the poverty line. That 40 percent is the group already having the hardest time meeting state testing standards; it is the group that historically is most likely to drop out or do poorly on national tests like the SAT," said Dornan. "If the state doesn't move quickly to put new programs in place for this 40 percent, we face the very real prospect of tens of thousands of young people victim to the new state standards."

At the heart of the forum study is the premise that it takes more resources to educate children living in poverty.

"Today's policies presume that one size fits all when it comes to school finance. Research, however, documents that it takes more resources, more time and more capable educators to succeed with children living in disadvantaged home settings. We are proposing that state policies recognize that from an economic and educational point of view, the needs of the 1.2 million young people in our public schools are not equal - 40 percent of our young people need more than we are now giving them."

In addition to recommending new investments in schools, the forum report calls on the state to reassess other finance policies.

The report calls on the state to:

• Redefine which expenses should be borne by the state and which by local government.

• Determine whether local school boards should be granted independent taxing authority to end the friction which now exists between fiscally dependent school boards and county commissioners who control local spending.

• Redefine what a "sound and basic" education is to determine if coursework in areas like advanced mathematics and science or school technology should be added to the basic allocation formulas that determine state funding for personnel and material.

"The Things That Matter" is the result of the forum's eight major study groups. Previous forum studies have made the recommendations that led to the establishment of the N.C. Teaching Fellows Program, the introduction of statewide testing and accountability programs, the establishment of Supplemental Funds for Low Wealth and Rural Schools and the creation of the School Technology Fund.

Beginning in the fall of 1997, the forum's 60-person board of directors and additional educators and school finance specialists, nearly 80 people in all, have been studying the state's system of school finance. The composition of the study group included business leaders, elected officials and educators.

Beyond the state's new testing programs, the study was motivated by the constitutional challenge to the state's system of school funding which is expected to go to trial again this year.

Arbor Day Celebration

Davie Fifth Graders Given Pine Seedlings

The N.C. Forest Service and the Davie Soil & Water Conservation District visited the county schools Feb. 17-18 to commemorate Arbor Day 1999. Foresters Chuck Nail and Ed Burkhart presented a free loblolly pine seedling to each Davie County fifth grader.

Education Coordinator for the Soil & Water District, Barbara Torpy, presented a brief slide show designed to encourage appreciation for the value of a forest resources. Nail and Burkhart explained the procedure for successful planting of the seedlings.

Although national Arbor Day is officially in April, the foresters explained that February is optimum planting time in this area of the Piedmont.

Seedlings are distributed each year as a cooperative effort of the two organizations and the county schools.

Miller Completes Training

Miller successfully completed 12 weeks of training designed to challenge new Marine recruits physically and mentally.

Miller began his training at 5 a.m. by running three miles and performing calisthenics. In addition to the physical conditioning program, Miller spent numerous hours in classroom and field assignments which included learning first aid, uniform regulations, combat water survival, marksmanship, hand-to-hand combat and assorted weapons training. They performed close order drill and operated as a small infantry unit during field training.

Miller received instruction on the Marine Corps' core values -- honor, courage and commitment, and what the words mean in guiding personal and professional conduct.

Miller ended the training phase with The Crucible, a 54-hour team effort, problem solving evolution which culminated with an emotional ceremony in which the recruits were presented the Marine Corps Emblem, and were addressed as "Marines" for the first time since boot camp began.

Miller joins 41,000 men and women who will enter the Marine Corps this year from all over the country.

Advice On Discipline Offered To Parents

By Marc L. Williams
Special to the Enterprise

Being a parent has always been the hardest job in life. These days, it's harder than ever because outside influences such as television can dilute the power of parenthood. As a result of what they see on television - or learn from other children at day care - today's children can be quite rude and disrespectful toward their parents and other adults.

Parents are often frustrated by their children's disrespect, but may be at a loss as to how to go about changing it. My advice to parents is to focus on the problem early, before it gets out of hand. Otherwise the teenage years will be particularly difficult for the whole family.

The first test of parents' ability to discipline comes when babies turn into toddlers. Most parents handle this period well, yet I have seen cases where children as young as three or four already have their parents "wrapped around their finger," and not in a cute way, either.

As early as the toddler years, then, it is important for parents to ask themselves, "How do I want my child to behave most of the time?" The answers to this question form the foundation for how the parent disciplines the child.

When parents face problems in their roles as disciplinarians, I often offer this advice:

• Ask yourself how you come across to your children when you're disciplining them. What is your tone of voice? Do you make eye contact? What is your mood? Remember that children absorb everything about you, not just the words you use. We've all heard the parent who says, "Stop that right now," in a tone of voice that doesn't "mean business."

• How do you see yourself as a disciplinarian? Do you believe it is an important part of parenthood? Do you expect to be obeyed when you tell your child to do something? Or do you discipline because you know you should but deep down you hate being the bad guy? These answers are important because being direct and insistent with your children can make the difference between telling them to do something once or ten times.

• Take time to talk with your spouse and agree on discipline goals. Do you prohibit food in the living room while your spouse allows it? Does one of you enforce bedtime and the other doesn't? It is important for parents to work together. Taking a few minutes to discuss your goals - and agreeing on how you want to achieve them - can go a long way in solving discipline problems.

Respect from children comes most readily when you are sincere, consistent and firm in your approach. Remember that constantly yelling at your children dilutes your power and lessens their respect for you. It can be very difficult to always be level-headed with your children, but the more you try, the better you'll become. Disciplining is a skill that takes practice. If things don't go well one day, remember that you can make up lost ground by starting fresh in being more consistent. Only then will your children's compliance and respect for your return. Every day brings another chance to turn things around with your children.

Breakfast To Be Held At Lone Hickory

The Lone Hickory Fire Department will have a breakfast from 5-10 a.m. Saturday, March 13.

Cochrane Receives Appointment

Sen. Betsy Cochrane (R-Davie) has been appointed to the Joint Legislative Ethics Committee.

Cochrane has served on the Ethics Committee for the legislature since 1989 when she was appointed chairman of the committee, the first Republican to ever chair the committee.

"I appreciate the confidence the Pro Tem has shown by reappointing me," Cochrane said. "You don't ask to be on the ethics Committee." The Pro Tem believes Cochrane's high standards for personal conduct make her appropriate to serve in this capacity.

The Ethics Committee is a 10-member committee, made up of five senators and five members of the House of Representatives.

A Dream Come True
Couple Finds Out That Love At First Sight Really Works

By Mike Barnhardt
Davie County Enterprise Record

Little girls and boys dream about this day. They dream about finding their true love and living happily ever after.

It's a wedding.

And although there are plenty of scary stories about wedding plans gone awry because of pushy relatives, changed plans and tight budgets, it doesn't have to be that way.

Just ask Dennis Houck of Clemmons and Crystal Correll of Mocksville. They've had to deal with some budget problems, but they're not about to let anything spoil their plans for a May 15 wedding ceremony.

Houck, a UPS delivery driver, met Correll at her job at Medical Associates of Davie (She has left that job to take another job with Novant Health in Winston-Salem).

That first date almost didn't happen.

Houck had wanted to ask the friendly, pretty girl out for a date, and when he got up the nerve to go by her work and ask, she wasn't there.

And when they did make that first date back in January of 1997, it snowed. The date was cancelled.

Luckily for both, it was rescheduled for the following night.

They hit it off from the start.

"She was a very sweet and adorable girl, very easy to get along with," Houck said.

Correll said she was immediately attracted to Houck's personality. "And I thought he was cute," she said.

"I really wanted him to ask me out, but when he did, it kind of surprised me."

Have you ever heard of love at first sight?

"I knew from the first night that he's the one," Correll said. "We just connected. We're like soulmates. We share the same interests, and we get along so good."

She's the daughter of Margie Lowery and Floyd McDaniel of Davie County, and he's the son of Joanne Houck of Clemmons and Jim Houck of Winston-Salem.

Houck said it was an easy decision to ask the girl of his dreams to marry. "I knew she was the one I wanted to be with." After about a week picking out just the right diamond ring, they went on a vacation to the Outer Banks.

Crystal Correll and Dennis Houck have had fun planning their May 15 wedding at Clemmons Baptist Church.

Correll said she thought he may ask her to marry, but decided against it after their week of vacation was almost over.

When he went to his knees at a gazebo near the Currituck Lighthouse, she began laughing. Houck is quite a jokester, and although it's one

Groom's Checklist

Six to 12 months before the wedding

- Purchase the bride's engagement ring.
- Discuss with fiancee the date and type of wedding.
- Start on your guest list.
- Choose best man and ushers.
- Start planning and making necessary arrangements for the honeymoon.
- Discuss and plan with fiancee your new home together. If fiancee is moving in with you, start cleaning out closets, cupboards, and drawers to make room for your bride and wedding gifts.

Four months before

- Shop with fiancee for wedding rings.
- Complete your guest list, including full names, addresses and ZIP codes with phone numbers.
- Check requirements for blood test and marriage license in your state, or the state in which you are being married.
- Select and order men's wedding attire with your fiancee.
- Finalize all honeymoon plans and send in deposits if required (don't delay - some resorts fill up fast in popular months).

Two months before

- Meet with officiant to finalize ceremony details.
- Assist parents with plans for the rehearsal dinner party.
- Discuss the amount and the financial arrangement for the flowers which are the groom's responsibility.
- Arrange accommodations for out-of-town attendants.

One month before

- See that all attendants have been fitted and wedding attire has been ordered.
- Purchase gifts for best man and ushers.
- Purchase wedding gifts for fiancee, if gifts are being exchanged.
- Pick up wedding rings. Make sure they fit.
- Take care of business and legal affairs (add bride's name to insurance policies and medical plans, make a new will, add her name to joint checking account or joint charge cards).
- If you have both agreed to a pre-nuptial agreement, have it drawn up and signed.

Two weeks before

- Together with fiancee, gather necessary documents and get your marriage license.
- Arrange wedding day transportation.
- Reconfirm accommodations for out-of-town guests.
- If moving, give change of address card to post office; arrange to have utilities and phone service turned on in new home. If not moving, finish cleaning and reorganizing your home; help your fiancee move her things.
- Have your hair cut.

The week before

- Discuss all final details with fiancee; offer to assist if needed.
- Pick up and try on wedding attire.
- See that attendants get their wedding attire.
- Pack clothes for honeymoon.
- Reconfirm all honeymoon reservations.
- If flying, make sure you have plane tickets.
- See to it that you and your attendants are at the rehearsal and that they know their duties.
- Go over special seating or pew cards with ushers.
- Make sure luggage is in the car or the hotel where you will stay your first night.
- Attend rehearsal dinner. Relax and enjoy yourself.

The Ring That Binds

Finding Just The Right Ones Is A Task That Can Be Done Together

If your fiance hasn't surprised you with the presentation of a ring he selected or a family heirloom, then go shopping and decide together. Although this can be somewhat awkward or touchy, with any luck you will both have similar taste and budget ideas.

Although some brides prefer other gems to diamonds, a diamond is the overwhelming choice of today's bride. While the element of surprise is very romantic, the engagement ring is meant to be worn a lifetime, so it's particularly important that the bride-to-be really loves it. Make searching for the perfect ring, one that reflects your personal taste and style, a romantic task, shared by the two of you.

Don't buy in a hurry. The greater your awareness of the elements that determine a diamond or other gem's quality, the better chance you have of getting the best quality ring for your money. Try on several styles to see what fits your taste. If you don't find the ring of your dreams or you want something no one else has, check with your jeweler about making a custom design. Many jewelers offer an opportunity to trade up at a later date, like an anniversary, or you can add diamonds to an existing ring.

When shopping for your ring, you'll want to keep in mind the four Cs - Color, Cut, Clarity and Carats. These four criteria define the beauty, price, size and style of your ring and all should be carefully considered. You'll also want to look for jewelers who either use or recognize the classifications of the Gemological Institute of America - most do. The GIA rates stones according to the four Cs and also grades stones on inclusions and imperfections. By finding out the price and specifications of a stone, you can then compare prices on stones with similar qualities.

It is not necessary to have a diamond engagement ring to signify an official engagement. Many couples prefer to save the money and combine the engagement and wedding ring in one. This can be done nicely with a wider band that is set with a solitaire or inset with many small diamonds. Instead of a smaller diamond, some couples are opting for a larger colored stone such as a ruby, amethyst, sapphire, or emerald. Such colored stones are very popular for second marriages.

Make sure you are dealing with a reliable, reputable jeweler whose advice and assistance will help you make a good selection within your budget. Prices vary tremendously, depending on the type of metal used and the quality of the stone.

Gold is most commonly used for engagement and wedding rings. It is available in either white or yellow and generally 14k or 18k gold is used for these rings. Platinum, which is the strongest and most expensive ring metal, is often used for the prongs which hold the stones.

Advice From The Trenches: Have Fun While Planning Wedding

of the qualities she loves about her husband to be, some things just aren't funny.

"She told me to get off my knees and quit joking," he said.

When he handed her a box, she thought it was a bracelet she had been wanting.

"I had no clue it was going to be a ring," she said. "I was speechless at first, but after I got it together, I said 'yes'."

Like many brides to be, her mind began racing.

"He gave me the ring and I tried to plan everything in one day," she said.

But wiser heads prevailed.

They talked it over, and planned to have a small wedding.

The plans grew, and grew, and grew.

The most stressful part has been the money, they said.

"Money, everywhere you turn you're spending a thousand here, a hundred there ... and it's choosing everything, from what colors to use, what kinds of flowers," she said.

"Seeing her happy," Houck said. "She's taking care of all the details. I just enjoy seeing her happy."

Their advice to those considering marriage, or who have just become engaged?

"I think a lot of people get married too young," he said. "We're more mature, and know more about what we want.

"Start early," he said. "Allow yourself a year to plan. Don't stress out, it will all come together."

"Planning it together is fun," he said.

There's plenty of helpful information out there, books at the library and stores, from the internet, he said.

And, of course, it helps to be in love with your "soul mate."

"I hope we're together forever," she said.

Candid Photos, Displays Help Make Wedding Memorable

Candid photographs and some unique displays will help make your wedding memorable for you and your guests.

Here are a few suggestions:

• On the guest book table, set around the room, or mounted on the wall, display a few photos of the bride and groom from birth to marriage. You might also include the wedding pictures of both sets of parents.

• Have Polaroid pictures taken of each guest alone, or with the bride and groom, to give as a favor before they leave.

• Place a throw-away camera on each table or alternating tables. Instruct the guests to take pictures during the reception. It will not only be entertaining, but you'll get a lot of great candid shots. Don't forget to arrange for someone to collect all the cameras at the end of the reception.

• You may want to check on sending a photo invitation.

• Thank-you notes with your wedding picture can be unique and a nice remembrance.

• Picture thank-you notes can be ordered from Kodak. A picture of you opening the guest's gift can be a nice way to say thanks.

• Keep a camera with you throughout your planning and make a pre-wedding album. Capture the following moments: buying your rings, trying on dresses for yourself and the bridesmaids, addressing and mailing invitations, showers, a picture of getting your marriage license. Remember the fun of planning your wedding.

• Order extra pictures for special friends.

• Don't forget your honeymoon photo album. Be sure to pack your camera.

• Ask your friends or relatives to bring their cameras to the wedding.

Thank You: Write A Note For Every Gift You Receive

Every wedding gift you receive should be followed by a thank-you note, even if you have thanked the giver in person.

• It is appropriate to send a thank-you note as soon as possible. The note should be sent within two weeks for gifts received before the wedding, and one month for those received at the wedding or later.

• It's best to keep up with the thank-you notes as gifts are received, so you aren't totally buried in owed correspondence. A printed card letting the giver know the gift has been received can be sent if you are too busy, or have a large number of gifts to acknowledge. This card should be followed as soon as possible with a hand-written note.

• Your thank-you notes should always be signed with your maiden name if sent before the wedding and your married name after the wedding (unless you are keeping your maiden name).

• Most thank-you notes are written by the bride. They can be signed by the couple or may be signed only by the bride when she has mentioned her groom's name in the note .

• When thanking a married couple, address the note to both of them. You may address the note only to the wife if you also refer to her husband in the body of the note.

• There is nothing that says thank-you notes must be written only by the bride, so enlist the help of your groom. Have him write notes to his family members or close friends.

• When a joint gift is given by your bridesmaids, an individual note to each should be sent. However, if a joint gift is given by a large group of employees or club members, one thank-you note addressed to the group would be appropriate.

Try These Tips For Choosing Videographer

- All the equipment used must be the most up-to-date, high-quality, professional video equipment, including the editing and dubbing machine.
- Experienced videographers will look for spontaneous and natural reactions to record, while maintaining a formal approach to the ceremony.
- The segments of events in the video should tell a story, detailing the way the events occurred on your wedding day.
- Look for good, steady use of the camera, clear sound, good color and a sharp picture.
- Notice how the shots are framed. Does the image fill the frame nicely, without have certain things cut out, like the bride's headpiece?
- Notice the editing techniques used. Do they use a seamless electronic method of editing? Does the video look smooth as it moves from one scene to the next?

Videotaping is taking your wedding photography and memories one step further. Make sure you seek out a videographer with the same care you used to choose a photographer.

Make Receiving Line Work

- You and your groom review the guests list with both families to refresh your memory on names.
- Look over both your lists to remember the names of each friend's husband or wife.
- Introduce yourself to guests you don't know.
- If you forget a name - which is easy to do - smile, thank the person for coming, or apologize and ask to be reminded.
- Smile at everyone, shake hands, or give a hug and kiss to those you know better.
- Gloves should not be worn.
- You may have ushers or waitstaff bring something to drink for the guests in line.
- Go to the restroom or get a drink, if needed, before forming the line, but do it quickly.
- Arrange for a place to hold the bouquets or for someone to take them.

Wedding Etiquette: What Do Guests Like ... And Dislike?

"I hate when the waiter removes my plate before I'm finished eating. You get up for a minute and it disappears!"

It's easy to get wedding guests talking when they're asked about their biggest gripes. Although certain circumstances are beyond the couple's control, some (often avoidable) situations may leave guests with a bitter taste.

What wedding guests appreciate and detest:

Table traumas: Guests resented the "traffic jam" created by people crowding to find their table card. Unmarrieds attest to the awkwardness of both an all-singles table where everyone is a stranger and "single Siberia" - being seated at an all-couples' table and left alone when the twosomes get up to dance. The consensus: Tables should be a mix of couples and singles, at least some of whom know one another.

Music Mayhem: It's too loud when you're trying to talk, too soft when you try to dance. Or worse, you hear the band playing at the party next door. One likable musical element: ethnic or very lively dances.

Bright lights, big headaches! Photographers and videographers: guests advise you to capture the moment and fade into the background.

Waiting - and wilting: The receiving line gives guests a chance to share in the occasion, but it can also mean a long wait, especially at large weddings. Waiters with hors d'ouvres and drinks could "walk the line," quenching guests' thirst and keeping them from worrying they'll miss the cocktail hour.

Invitation faux pas: A breach of etiquette committed by some couples is to print or engrave the registry location on the wedding invitation. One guest got what she considered the ultimate in tackiness: a letter from a store where the bride and groom had registered, saying, "We hope we can accommodate your gift needs," tucked into her invitation.

What are some surefire ways to host a reception that will be fondly remembered? Add personal touches that reflect the couple's uniqueness - a well-prepared toast (never an embarrassing roast), personalized wedding favors (small engraved silver frames encasing guests' table cards, for example) and unusual centerpieces are much appreciated.

Shower, Invitation Tips

Q: Who usually gives the bridal shower?

A: A shower is usually hosted by the women close to the bride - most often by the maid of honor and the bridesmaids. (A mother or sister usually refrains from hosting when gifts are expected, though regional customs differ.) A shower today may be coed; styles vary from a morning brunch to a barbecue.

Q: Must those invited to prewedding parties be invited to the wedding?

A: You can invite anyone to an engagement party since gifts are not expected. Because a bridal shower's purpose is to shower you with gifts for your new home, only wedding guests should be invited. The exception? A shower hosted by coworkers.

Traffic Jam: Mocksville Approves Study Of Current Patterns

At times, it's difficult to drive around Mocksville.

Sure, on many nights you can drive the entire length of downtown without seeing another car.

But when Davie High School students hit the streets in the mornings and afternoons, while people are going to and from work, the traffic can actually be a problem. And the two-lane U.S. 64 is a major truck route.

Is a bypass the answer? Wider roads? More roads? Should Depot Street be extended from Salisbury Street to Valley Road?

Mocksville town board members want the answer to those questions as well, but before making such decisions, they want to know exact traffic patterns in the town. They have hired Kubilins Traffic Consulting of Charlotte to study current patterns.

Carol Carter, who will be project manager, said the study results will give the town an edge when negotiating with the state department of transportation, as well as providing vital information for its own planning efforts.

All town streets will be studied, and traffic counts will be taken at vital locations, at various times.

All of the information will be fed into a computer program called Traf-NetSim, and models of the town streets will be available on the computer. Different solutions to the problems could be added to the system to see whether they would work.

The study will concentrate on corridors: U.S. 64 east of town to Bethel Church Road; South Main Street to south of Davie High; Salisbury Street south to Duke Street; U.S. 64/Valley Road west to I-40; and North Main Street to Milling Road.

Cable TV: More Choices For Customers, More Dollars For Company

By Mike Barnhardt
Davie County Enterprise Record

Cable television viewers in Davie County could soon be watching the Golf Channel, or Home & Garden TV, Classic Sports, TV Land and other channels.

Genesis Cable is being bought by Benchmark, a Virginia company that plans to add a variety of channels and payment options which would allow the system to compete with its competitor, satellite systems, Mack Kipfer, Benchmark chief operating officer, told Mocksville Town Board members.

Although the town grants a franchise, it probably couldn't stop the sale if it wanted to, said Town Attorney Hank Van Hoy. Changes in telecommunication laws limit the powers of local governments in such issues.

Kipfer said that Benchmark would maintain a Mocksville office, with customer-oriented service. "If you call the office, we answer. If it breaks, we fix it," he said.

If completed, the sale would become final next month.

Kipfer said that Benchmark is successful in the high-tech area of Northern Virginia, and would bring that technology to Genesis customers in Atlanta, Mocksville and other small communities in North Carolina.

The digital system would require consumers to have a box in their homes, but would immediately expand the capabilities from the current 38 to 93 channels.

"We try to give the consumer what they want. If I don't provide it for him, he's going to go buy a dish. Our choice is to provide a lot of choice, a lot of options."

Kipfer said rates would vary, depending on what the customer wants. Premium channels, such as HBO, would go down in price with more channels for the money, he said. Pay-per-view options would be added, meaning customers could buy movies or other shows on the spot.

Within a year or two, the company should be able to offer high-speed internet access, Kipfer said.

DHS Principal Faces Lawsuit

Family Argues That Student's Suspension Against State Law

By Mike Barnhardt
Davie County Enterprise Record

A lawsuit has been filed by a Davie family claiming that Davie High School Principal Linda Bost, Superintendent Dr. William Steed and the county board of education improperly suspended a student from school.

Joshua James McGarity, the student, and his mother, Elaine T. Greene filed the suit with the Davie Clerk of Court on Feb. 26.

The suit claims that Bost's suspension of McGarity for the spring of last year and all of this school year violate state law.

Steed wouldn't comment on the pending litigation, saying that board members were aware of the situation and that there are two sides to every story.

Board members Marlene B. Shamel, Mark S. Jones, David Owens, Luther B. Potts, Janie Garnett and Jerry Swicegood (He is no longer on the board.) were also named as defendants.

At the time of the incident, McGarity was 15 years old. He's now 16.

The suit said the student excelled as a student at South Davie Middle School. His grades began to slip at Davie High, and his mother worked with teachers to improve the grades.

He seemed to be doing better, but on March 9 he was caught selling a small amount of marijuana at the school. He sold two packs to separate students; one re-sold the drug to another student. He gave a small pack to another student after being alarmed when Bost removed one of the students from class.

According to the suit, "Bost began to question and berate Joshua, using profane and vulgar language ... threatening Joshua, and demanding that he confess."

McGarity did confess.

All of the students were taken to the office, and their parents were called.

Bost told the students involved that she received a tip from "one of her good students," saying that of the 1,400 students at the school, 700 do not like her and 700 love her.

Teenage Boys Discovering Love For Muddy Roads

How can you explain today's teenage boys?

When I grew up on the farm, I couldn't wait to get out of the mud. We lived a mile down a bumpy road that would shake hubcaps off cars and the fillings out of drivers' teeth. It was dusty when dry, and muddy when wet.

I would wash the car on Saturday afternoon and then creep along at 5 mph to the asphalt road, trying to avoid getting it dirty again.

My son doesn't have those worries. His father has provided him with life's major comforts — heating, air conditioning, indoor plumbing and a paved street. But there is a new essential for raising a well-adjusted teenage boy: a four-wheel drive pickup truck.

Paved streets are now an inconvenience. He searches for the mud. Twice he has been ordered to clean the mud from his parking space at the high school. Neighbors have marveled at his ability to cover the truck from bumper to bumper with ... mud.

Mud calls him, challenges him, motivates him to wallow in it and drive through it. He has searched for deeper and muddier spots, confident in his big tires.

His father was not as amused. Nothing good happens after dark at the Bullhole, that infamous fishing-drinking-fighting spot on the South Yadkin River, I lectured him harshly. Get out of there quick.

Don't worry, he said. It's all under control. A buddy's dad is coming to help. We were just driving around and one truck got in a little mud ...

There was ABSOLUTELY no need for me to come help.

Two hours later, he still wasn't home.

I found them deep in the bowels of the Bullhole maize, the truck sunk up to its doors. It hadn't rained for two months, but it was muddy there.

Water filled foot-deep ruts of old tire tracks that led into the mire. None emerged on the other side. This was the end of the line for boys and their four-wheel drive trucks.

Things had not gone well since we had talked by phone. The buddy's dad had gotten stuck trying to help. So they had called a wrecker.

My son is resourceful. The wrecker owner he selected is the proud father of a pretty high school girl. The wrecker arrived with flashing lights and great promise, but without the daughter. The wrecker got stuck, too.

Another wrecker was called, also owned by the father of a pretty high school girl. By this time it was 10:30 p.m.

"Boys, I've lived in Davie County all my life and this is the first time I've been to the Bullhole," he said.

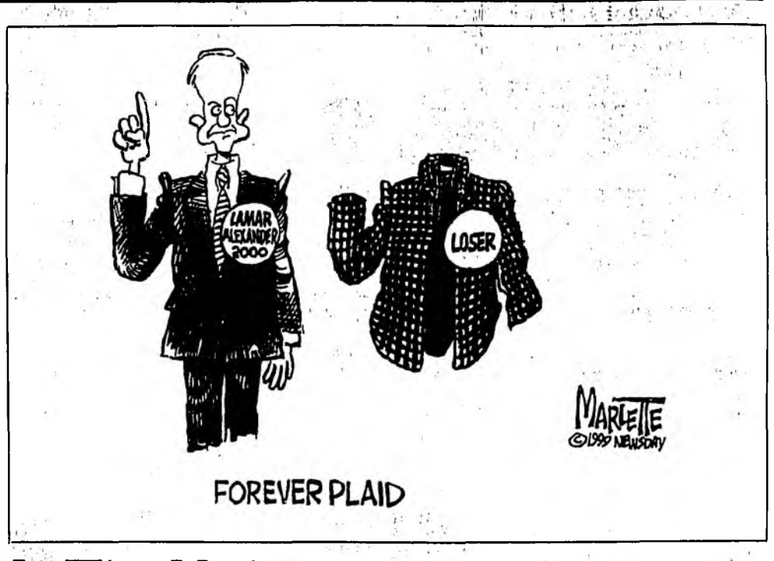

Then he looked at the truck. "They won't go every where," he declared.

He pulled the first wrecker out. Then the first wrecker pulled the pickup out. Then the second wrecker pulled the first wrecker out again.

"Dad, take a picture so we'll remember this," my son had urged as the pickup was pulled from the muck.

Black America Suffers From Shortage Of Men

To the editor:

We have passed through February for 1999, and through another black history month. A lot of good things came out of it, bringing to light a lot of black history that was passed over before. In spite of all the good things that have been happening, Black America seems to be suffering from a type of blindness that should not befall any people. It's a twofold problem, which is a lack of vision and a shortage of men; not of males, but of men. We do not have the kind of men we need to capitalize on the opportunities available. We lost our vision and forward momentum a long time ago, right after Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was assassinated; when we failed to analyze his last speech and charter us a course of action from there - the vision faded out.

Dr. King's last speech was the most important one he ever made. His "I have a dream" speech was the greatest one he made, but it was part of an accumulation leading to that last speech. That "promised land" speech has great implication for Black America as a people; it has great implication for America as a nation. By the time he got to that speech, his vision had become wide enough to see Black America "as a people" and not as individuals, therefore opening the door to the promised land vision. This is something Black America fails to see today, after all these years. During that time we have missed opportunity after opportunity that God has set before us, because of a lack of vision. The promised land vision is something we better learn to analyze and explore If we want to know what Dr. King was talking about when he referred to us "as a people."

Look at what's happening in America today. People who were the only stabilizing force in some families because of their long term jobs, are finding their jobs taken away and exported out of the country. They are being told they are not needed anymore, and a lot of skilled labor are being cut loose and left adrift. Can Black America "as a people" step in and make a difference? If so, what and how? Can we have a role to play in this, or do we stand by and see everything fall to the ground? One thing we should learn about those that are constituted as a people, they are full of talent and very resourceful.

If Dr. King could see us "as a people," then we should have something to offer. If we re smart, then we should know how to turn this modern day tragedy into an opportunity. In order to do that, we must recapture the vision we lost after Dr. King's last speech, and do something about the shortage of men we need to go forward. To recapture the vision, Black America needs to analyze that last speech, and explore that it meant to be constituted as a people. We will be surprised by what Dr. King has bestowed upon us; it will also help us gather a sense of direction. As for the kind of men we need; on the economic front, we need front line troops.

In dealing with business, we need the kind of men who can orchestrate a leveraged buyout. We need men who at least know how to assemble an acquisition team, and set up a holding company to be ready to move on an opportunity. We need men who know how to put together a business plan and shop it around to foreign and domestic investors. We need men who are investment bankers, who know their way around in the financial world. We need men who can oversee an operation once it's acquired or set up. We need men who are managers that know how to treat employees as people so they can build up strong and long-term companies. We need men who can put together a marketing plan and sell America's products all over the world, and be good at creating markets where there are none. This will be a good time for Black America to stand up and be counted "as a people."

If we can find front line troops that will step in and do their part, it will give others a chance to fall in behind them and bring up the rear. We should be able to save some of these jobs that are being abandoned for cheaper labor. If Black America can do this, you can rest assured we won't be alone. Think of our ancestors, how they could take a little and do a lot with it. We live in all this technology that's available today, we should be able to do more. Our ancestors have made their history; ours is being made as we speak.

Assistance Appreciated

To the editor:

I am writing to show my great appreciation to the numerous amount of passers-by and people who tried to help my father on March 5. My father, Arnold Godbey, went out on his daily routine to pick up cans and had a heart attack.

A special thank you goes out to Mr and Mrs. Harvey Pulliam and Mr Jimmy Scott, who stopped and tried to save my daddy, and called 911 for help and stayed with him throughout it all. Also, another special thank you for Sheriff Whitaker, whom I called to find out who it was that helped. He called around until he found out what I needed. A special thank you to Davie County Hospital for their kindness, but especially to Kenny Long, the nurse who bent over backwards to help my mom and me.

There is not enough words to say thank you to these people.

Rev. Jenkins Deserves Accolades

To the editor:

Like Rev. Jenkins, I too am a graduate of North Carolina Central University. One of my many blessings is having had the ability and opportunity to graduate from Davie High School, attend college and receive a bachelor of arts degree in sociology.

I concur with the Rev. Donald Jenkins that "the only thing that it takes for evil, including ignorance, to prosper is the appalling silence of good people." I feel compelled to thank Rev. Jenkins publicly for speaking for those who cannot or dare not speak for themselves.

Rev. Jenkins deserves additional accolades, for he is one in a small number of individuals who recognizes his duty to speak out on diversity, cultural differences, racism, etc.

Annie Ingram A Dedicated Christian

To the editor:

I would like to say publicly that Annie Ingram is one of the most dedicated Christian women that I have ever known. She would do anything for a fellow human being that she could. She has spent her life as a testament to what a true Christian should be. We should all be as faithful to our Lord as she. Is she perfect? No. Who is? But I would like to thank her for her example, support and encouragement she has given me for many years. God's word says we will be known by our fruits. Well, she has a house, yard and barn full of fruits produced by her unselfish dedication to others. Thank you Annie Ingram for being a true prayer warrior and living example to so many around you.

Weather Vane Book Signing March 18

I would like to thank the Davie County Enterprise for the articles that they have run in the paper concerning my book, The Weather Vane. The Weather Vane is a book about the Booe family genealogy with stories, pictures and interesting facts, which was written by Ron and Cindy Booe. Due to this publicity I have met some very interesting people who make Davie County their home.

I would like to invite you to the Weather Vane Book Signing at the Davie County Library, 371 Main St., Mocksville, NC (336) 751-2023, March 18, 7 p.m., sponsored by the Davie County Genealogy and Historical Society.

Looking forward to seeing you there.

Thanks again for everything.

School Officials Didn't Change Writer's Mind About Job Ready

To the editor:

Mr. Essic stated that people on the outside seemed to have the "inside scoop." I admit that I have the scoop. I have the JobReady Contract and I will use the contract to enforce my position that The JobReady Educational program is a "job training program."

Page one, Workforce Development Board. Gov. Hunt's name for the board is "Workforce Commission. Page 46, The Workforce Commission created the N.C. Employer Leadership Council. Page 53, Private Industry Councils will evolve into Regional Workforce Development Boards.

Page five, What is JobReady? JobReady is the North Carolina school-to-work system... when fully developed "all students" will declare a career major from a broad cluster of occupations. Page 14, High schools will choose three or more clusters based on an assessment of their economic region and student population.

Page 16, Every high school will have a JobBroker who will serve as the school's contact person for employers.

Page 23, Providing Strong Guidance: Making The System make Sense. In times of transition, strong guidance determines success. Guidance Within The School... To ensure a seamless transition between levels of education on a student's career pathway.

I have used excerpts from a small portion of the JobReady contract, however, I have used more than enough excerpts to validate every statement that I made in the previous letters about JobReady, School-To-Work or whatever name states want to give the program. I have also exposed the true intent of the JobReady program. That intent is to train "all students" for a job.

Mr. Essic stated that Job Ready was caught up in a controversy because it was a Clinton legislation. Gov. Hunt was vice chair of The National Center on Education and the Economy. That organization has been given credit for reviving Nazi Germany's School-To-Work Program called the "WorkBook." They eliminated the "Workbook" and inserted the "Certificate of Initial Mastery." After being revived, School-To-Work was inserted in President Clinton's Goals 2000 Program. Mr. Essic should know that Congress had to pass the legislation before President Clinton signed the legislation into law. Whether a person likes or despises President Clinton will not effect the JobReady program.

Until Mr. Essic has read the books, the newspaper and periodical articles, viewed the 20 plus hours of videotapes that I have read, viewed and have on file, he will not have the "inside scoop" on how many students have and are being trained for jobs or careers in fields that were not their desired choice. If the number was "only one student," that is one student too many and that student's freedom to choose was violated.

I really appreciate the response to my letters from the two educators. Those letters reinforce my statement regarding education department personnel answering questions. I also suggest that the educators get a copy of The Improving America's School Act of 1994, a copy of the North Carolina JobReady contract and study both of them.

• Stephen Serfass, 10, a fourth grader at Central Davie Elementary School and son of Bill and Crystal Serfass of Frank Short Road, Mocksville.

Patsy Crenshaw, schools curriculum director, told the students they were all winners. "It's an honor that they've already won their school spelling bees," she said.

Davie High Assistant Principal Danny Cartner was the emcee for the event, and counselors Connie Little and Brent Shoaf were judges.

Lawsuit Filed Against Davie High Principal, Board Of Education

"Then she scolded Joshua for taking advantage of the students that he sold marijuana to and asked him if he felt bad about cheating these students by selling such a small amount for $10," the suit said.

Four students, including McGarity, were suspended for 10 days, another for five.

The students were taken to the courthouse, where they were charged by the Davie Sheriff's Department.

All students, after the suspension period, returned to school - except McGarity.

Greene received a call from Bost the Sunday before he was to return, asking for a meeting on Monday. Then, she told them she had decided to expel McGarity for the remainder of that school year.

Greene told Bost she was concerned about her son, and asked about speaking with Dr. Steed, the superintendent.

"Bost said that she had made her decision and that it was final," the lawsuit said. "Bost informed Mrs. Greene that Davie High School was her school and that Dr. Steed backs her up in her decisions."

Greene was unsuccessful in starting a home schooling program, or finding a summer school program for her son.

In juvenile court, he was sentenced to a year of supervised probation, 250 hours of community service, a 6:30 curfew, 12 weeks of family counseling, required to be in school, and forbidden to associate with any of the defendants.

That summer, Bost told the family that he was suspended for the 1998-99 school year, as well.

"Other students have been caught with controlled substances, including three students over the age of 16 who were caught selling marijuana at Davie High," the suit read. "None of these students have been dealt with so harshly or unreasonably. In fact, many have been allowed not only to return to school, but also to their athletic activities with the school."

The suit quotes the code of ethics adopted bythe N.C. Board of Education:

"The responsibility to teach and the freedom to learn, and the guarantee of equal opportunity for all are essential to the achievement of these principles. The professional educator acknowledges the worth and dignity of every person and demonstrates the pursuit of truth and devotion to excellence, acquires knowledge, and nurtures democratic citizenship. The educator exemplifies a commitment to the teaching and learning processes with accountability to the students, maintains professional growth, exercises professional judgment, and personifies integrity. The educator strives to maintain the respect and confidence of colleagues, students, parents and legal guardians, and the community, and to serve as an appropriate role model."

The suit claims that Bost suspended McGarity without prior approval of the superintendent or a hearing before the board of education, as mandated by state law.

The principal's decision was based on "pre-existing bias" against McGarity and not upon the basis of school safety as set forth by state law.

"The defendants' actions were willful, wanton, and malicious, and envinced an intentional or reckless indifference to and disregard for the rights of the plaintiff to be free from violations of N.C. General Statutes."

State law, according to the suit, says that principals can expel students for times not exceeding the remaining time in the school year, and that local boards of education can expel students further after considering whether there is an alternative program.

The principal made the decisions in McGarity's case, violating those laws, the suit claimed.

"The defendants' actions in suspending and expelling the plaintiff, while not doing so for student-athletes who commit substantially the same infractions, violated the Equal Protection Clauses of the Constitutions of the United States and North Carolina."

It claims the defendants violated their own code of ethics "by not serving as good role models, not respecting the dignity of all people, and not nurturing democratic citizenship. They have not been accountable to the students or the community, nor have they exercised professional judgment in good faith or attempted to earn or maintain the respect of colleagues, students, parents and legal guardians and the community."

All board members, Steed and Bost were served with civil summonses in late February and early March. They have not made formal replies to the complaint, and a date for a hearing has not been set.

Foundation Established To Disburse Tobacco Settlement Funds

By Sen. Betsy L. Cochrane
Special to the Enterprise

March 11 was the 26th day of this legislative session. In that seven weeks, 337 bills have been introduced in the Senate.

Senate Bill 6 was one of the first bills to pass the Senate. That bill established a non-profit foundation directed by a 15-member board appointed by the governor, the speaker, and the Senate pro tempore to disburse funds from the tobacco settlement. I voted against Senate Bill 6 because there was no policy language in the bill to direct the funds to tobacco farmers, tobacco factory workers, or anyone negatively impacted by the demise of tobacco. Also, there was no accountability language in the bill. The bill did nothing but set up the board.

The House has changed Senate Bill 6. The House version would place 50 percent of the tobacco settlement in a foundation, another 25 percent would go to tobacco farmers, and the final 25 percent would provide health care and smoking prevention. Needless to say, this version has problems from farmers who want direct payments of 50 percent and health care providers who want 50 percent. Some of us wonder if there will actually be money for anybody in this settlement.

Our area could lose some 6,000 jobs from the decline in tobacco. That magnitude of loss has a ripple effect on hardware stores, drug stores, retail shops, church giving, charitable contributions, etc. Even if the foundation money helps impacted communities, how does it do that fairly. This tobacco settlement issue has become a thorny dilemma.

We are introducing some good legislation, like Senate Bill 250 and Senate Bill 253. Senate Bill 250 provides protection to the public by prohibiting DMV from selling your name to mail services or any other list purchasers as DMV was doing two years ago. This bill continues the special provision prohibition language put in place last year.

Senate Bill 253 achieves the same result with a different approach. It would allow names and addresses to be sold only with written approval of the individual.

The Senate has passed legislation that authorizes the highway patrol to document the race of the person they stop in an effort to collect data that shows they are stopping blacks proportionately more than whites. In a car a mile off, a patrolman cannot determine who is driving - a man or a woman, black or white. Patrolmen are enforcing the law, so they stop cars that are breaking the law. The ticket the patrolman writes already records the race. The only good that can come from this bill would be if the data proves the highway patrol is being fair and professional to all races in its arrest practices

We have introduced legislation to create a redistricting commission for drawing congressional and legislative districts. The intent here is to minimize the political gerrymandering by taking the process from the political legislators. The majority party draws the district lines to protect their majority They are choosing the constituency rather than the constituency choosing their legislator or congressman. Hopefully, a commission would draw more compact districts with counties more intact. Ten other states have such a commission.

Senate Bill 221 would drastically curtail phone solicitations. People want the legislature to stop the phone calls at dinnertime and on weekends that try to sell something. Other people want government to say out of or stop controlling their lives and businesses.

Senate Bill 236 would create an adoption records and registry that would help adoptees to connect with their natural families. Legal adoptions provide some pertinent information for health background, etc. This registry idea has been proposed before, but its controversial nature has prevented it from becoming law. Families of adopted children are very divided over this issue.

The Senate has passed legislation to limit the length of sessions That proposal was readily accepted by most senators, because most states have such plans now. The sticking point in the bill, however, was a section that gave us four-year terms. Whereas I might like personally to only campaign every four years like sheriffs, commissioners, aldermen, governors, presidents, etc., the need to stay in close contact with the people by campaigning every two years is a good thing. The sponsor of the bill probably knows the House will remove the four-year term part of the bill.

As always, I welcome your calls and letters on any issue.

DDVS/RCC To Hold Volunteer Training Session

Davie Domestic Violence Services & Rape Crisis Center offers immediate response to victims in crisis regardless of age, gender, race or socioeconomic status.

Services provided by the program include a 24-hour crisis line, victim advocacy, educational programs, community awareness, court advocacy, crisis counseling, support and referrals, support groups, emergency shelter assistance, assistance with filing protective orders and volunteer and internship programs. Since implementation in November 1995, it has served more than 780 victims in Davie County.

"If not for the volunteers serving DDVS/RCC, we could not offer these services," said Jo Ann Redding, crisis intervention coordinator.

Volunteers participate in various areas including victim advocacy, court advocacy, crisis line, special events, fund-raising, and childcare. "We are constantly in need of these helping hands," she said.

Beginning on March 22, DDVS/RCC will be holding a volunteer training. All those interested in volunteering their time to help domestic violence and sexual assault victims of Davie County may attend. The training is only necessary if you intend to work directly with clients, such as assisting with our crisis line. Crisis line workers are a much needed service, but there is always room for more in all areas.

DDVS/RCC also makes presentations to area civic groups, churches, and schools and would appreciate the opportunity to speak with your group about the services offered for domestic violence and sexual assault victims in Davie County.

"Many do not realize the frequency and abundance of domestic violence and sexual assault in a small community such as ours," Redding said. "However, it is happening every day and it is affecting each of us in one way or another.

Vaccinations Offered At Humane Society Pet Fair Saturday

A "bigger and better" Humane Society Pet Fair will be held Saturday, March 20, at Farmington Community Center. Doors open at 10 a.m. for the free admission fair, which will include special prices for dog, cat, and horse vaccinations.

"Our Davie County Humane Society Pet Fair will be bigger and better on Saturday, March 20, than it would have been last month when a wet winter storm forced us to postpone it," according to Fair Chairman Kathy Streit.

"That is because some of our hoped-for participants who could not make our planned Feb. 20 program because of other commitments, will be with us next Saturday. That means we will have plenty for fair-goers to see and do at the Farmington Community Center on Farmington Road.

With the one-day no-admission charge fair opening at 10 a.m. next Saturday on a rain-or-shine basis, there will be a number of demonstrations throughout the day until the program ends at 4 p.m. with a drawing for door prizes.

First on the schedule at 10 is an indoor pet grooming demonstration by Jean Taylor of the Paw Prints Grooming Shop on Cemetery Road in Farmington.

Also on the schedule at noon is an outdoor dog-tracking demonstration by Handler Dean Myers and his bloodhound, Roscoe. Other outdoor fair feature will be demonstrations of obedience, agility and other aspects of companion animal training presented by members of the Winston-Salem Dog Training Club between noon and 2 p.m.

At 1 p.m., Marie Seagraves of Arrowhead Hills Horse Ranch, assisted by Farrier Jo Cole, will demonstrate proper horse care. Also during the day will be Frisbee and fly-ball demonstrations by members of the Carolina Air Canine Club.

Indoor activities throughout the fair day will include exhibits by Mike Garner with rabbits, Dick Sasicki with pigeons, and booths for Kathy Anderson's Critter Sitter pet service, Dr. Robin Brock's Farmland Veterinary Service, a display by the Davie County Parks and Recreation Department, and a Humane Society motorcycle exhibit tied to its planned July 24 "Ride for Animals" tour of Davie County. That fund-raising program is expected to attract scores of motorcyclists for the "ride" which will wind up at the picnic grounds behind the Brock Community Center in Mocksville.

Also on the schedule will be a day-long pet adoption service manned by Humane Society members. Prospective adoptive owners will be able to take dogs and cats outside into a Community Center fenced area for get-acquainted purposes away from the Fair's general activity.

Vaccination services at reduced fair prices will be available for leashed dogs and carrier-transported cats between noon and 2 p.m. A horse care clinic is scheduled for 1 p.m. on the center grounds with a Coggins clinic for horses scheduled between 2 and 4 p.m.

Those Davie County school children from kindergarten-fifth grade classes who won "best in class" honors for their participation in the Humane Society's "Come to the Fair" coloring contest and have not yet received their prizes will be awarded them as they visit the Saturday fair. Several hundred school children participated in the coloring competition.

Prizes have already been presented to Joseph Livengood of Pinebrook Elementary and Stacy Jolly and Jordan Reavis, both of Shady Grove. Those children who will receive their prizes as they visit the fair are Dustin Smyers and Justin Linger of Cooleemee School, Miranda Esposito of Shady Grove, and Curt Davis of Pinebrook.

Food and drink will be available. There will be no admission charge and free directed parking will be provided.

Three winners in the Davie Humane Society coloring contest promoting Saturday's Pet Fair were Jordan Reavis, Pinebrook, Stacy Jolly, Shady Grove and Joseph Livengood, Pinebrook.

Invited guests include Sam Currin and Bill Cobey, candidates for the state party chairman, as well as other national, state and local officials.

Davie County To Receive Funds For Emergency Food, Shelter

Davie County has been chosen to receive $3,222.00 to supplement emergency food and shelter programs.

The selection was made by a national board that is chaired by the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) and consists of representatives from the Salvation Army, American Red Cross, Council of Jewish Federations, Catholic Charities, USA, National Council of Churches of Christ and the United Way, which will provide the administrative staff and function as fiscal agent.

The board was charged to distribute funds appropriated by Congress to help expand the capacity of food and shelter programs in high-need areas around the country.

A local board will determine how the funds awarded to Davie County are to be distributed among the emergency food shelter programs run by local service organizations, the local board is responsible for recommending agencies to receive these funds and any additional funds available under this phase of the program.

Under the terms of the grant from the national board, local governmental or private voluntary organizations chosen to receive funds must: be non-profit; have an accounting system and conduct to annual audit; practice non-discrimination; have domesticated the capability to deliver emergency food and/or shelter programs; and if they are private voluntary organization, they must have a voluntary board. Qualifying organizations are urged to apply.

The Salvation Army has distributed Emergency Food and Shelter funds previously in Davie County.

Further information on the program may be obtained by contacting Karen Smith, chairperson, Salvation Army Service Unit for Davie County, P.O. Box 517, Mocksville, NC 27028. Telephone: (336) 751-8800 no later than March 31.

Families Find Expert Assisted Living Care at Magnolia Place in Mocksville

We opened Magnolia Place two years ago,' says Morris of the assisted living residence in Mocksville, N. C., across from Autumn Care Nursing Home. This beautiful house has room for six residents, and a separate two bedroom apartment where the supervisor lives on the property.

Magnolia Place, licensed through the state of North Carolina as an assisted living residence, undergoes regular monthly inspections for health, sanitation, fire, and nutrition. The current supervisor, Jacqueline Pruitt, is a Certified Nursing Assistant. She administers medicine for the residents, and lives in the home with them. Ms. Pruitt can also check blood pressure, blood sugar levels, and give insulin.

"The residents receive a lot of individual attention," says Susan Morris, who also runs a 25-bed facility in Spencer, N. C. "When you are with them every day, you know when something is wrong. Jacqueline gives them all the care that they need, because she knows them."

Magnolia Place, located on 5 acres on a secluded street in Mocksville, has private rooms with full private baths for each resident. Three meals and two snacks are provided daily, with cable TV, complete laundry service and housekeeping all taken care of by the competent staff.

"Each resident has a call button in the room," says Jacqueline Pruitt, supervisor at Magnolia Place. If they need me, I am there right away.

"We have an activities director who comes in every Friday, to play Bingo, take them to get their hair done, or cater to whatever they like to do," says Ms. Pruitt. "We provide transportation if they need to go to the doctor."

Magnolia Place also has a full line of health services available, and a doctor or nurse on call if needed.

"It's really a beautiful place to live," says Ms. Pruitt. "There is a big patio with a grill that we cook out on. And in the summer, there are six rocking chairs on the front porch where they can sit in the evening."

The fully carpeted brick one-story home is also a haven for new friendships, and warm fellowship around the supper table.

"We have one resident who walks around and talks to everybody," says Ms. Pruitt. "Another lady knits. Another plays bridge. One likes to take a walk to the end of the drive," she says.

Susan Morris has made Magnolia Place that rare home away from home, for residents who need the slight supervision of assisted living care.

"I have found that people live longer when they eat right, and are up and active," says Morris. "We try to have all our services on-site for the residents at Magnolia Place."

Even pets of residents are welcome at Magnolia Place. Currently this assisted living facility has one vacancy.

County Takes Over Oak Valley Water Lines

Davie County commissioners voted unanimously to take over operation and maintenance of water lines in the remainder of Oak Valley Boulevard, Twin Oaks Drive, Hawk Wood Court, Woodlands Court, Scottsdale Drive, Foxmoor Court and portions of Sleep Drive and Brookmoor Drive.

The lines have been in operation for a year, making them eligible to be added to the county system, said county manager Ken Windley.

Criminal Justice Partnership Grant Accepted

The Criminal Justice Partnership Program has awarded the Davie County program a $30,500 grant, which was expected and included in this year's budget as revenue, according to Windley. The board voted to formally accept the grant.

Bid Accepted For 1999-2000 County Audit

The board voted to accept a bid from Dixon Odom to perform the county's audit for the next three years with an annual review rather. The first year bid is $35,000 based on 593 hours of work. Current auditors spend approximately 800-700 hours on the audit, finance officer Jim Stockert reported.

Davie's Power Usage Data To Be Released

In an effort to save money for counties, Windley said the N.C. Association of County Commissioners is attempting to form a power purchasing pool due to deregulation, and needs authorization from all 100 counties to obtain data on current and previous peaks and demands. Power companies require this information prior to the release of such information. The board voted unanimously to authorize the release.

Board Approves Removal Of Old Water Tanks

Commissioners voted unanimously to declare the old water tanks on U.S. 64 at Sheek Grove and on Marginal Street in Cooleemee surplus and sell them through sealed bids.

The tanks are in poor condition and will not be used again by the county, and the sites are an eyesore, Windley said. The primary reason anyone would buy them is for scrap metal. The church beside the site in Cooleemee is interested in purchasing the property subject to removal of the water tank, he added.

Solid Waste Franchise Granted To McKinney

The board voted to grant a non-exclusive commercial/industrial solid waste franchise to McKinney Disposal.

The owner of the company said his business is a small operation with just one truck and 30 customers, primarily serving construction sites in eastern Davie County, catering to one home builders and home owners who are remodeling or cleaning up.

Board To Hold Development Grant Hearing

County commissioners voted to schedule a public hearing during their next meeting, which begins at 7 p.m. March 22 in the county administration building, to discuss applying for a community development infrastructure grant to provide water and sewer to residential areas.

If the county decides to apply, Gary Wilcox of Benchmark recommended the county apply for a maximum grant of 20 percent or more to receive the greatest consideration.

County Officials Praised For Savings

On behalf of the board, chairman Richard Poindexter thanked Windley, Davie public county attorney Bob Price for their efforts in the recent refinancing of building and water bonds, saving the county an estimated $580,000.

In addition to getting a lower interest rate, the county also benefited from the speed of the bonds. The county's good credit rating and the state of its financial affairs helped make this possible, said Commissioner Bobby Knight.

Commissioners Approve Budget Amendments

The board voted to add $15,000 to the Davie Domestic Violence Services budget to record a $15,000 grant received from the state rape prevention council and to hire a part-time employee to teach rape prevention at Davie High School with this money. An additional $11,910 was added to this department budget as grant money that must be spent by Sept. 30 plus $1,503 in grant money to be used for the purchase of computer hardware and software.

Commissioners also approved spending $2,300 from contingency to pay DSSA commissioners.

Appointments Made To Board, Committee

Ross Perry, Norris Collins, Jim Eaton, Martha Jerome and Harold Wilson were reappointed to serve on new terms on the Davie County Appeals Board for [illegible]. Appointments to fill vacancies will have to be established later, said county attorney Bob Price.

Commissioners appointed Jo Ann Reid to a three year term on the Nursing and Convalescent Facilities Advisory Committee.

Discussion On Cable Franchise

Commissioners discussed the possibility of renewing the franchise agreement with Adelphia Cable, Inc., and how to address complaints about the company's service. The board voted to have the county attorney contact Adelphia about complaints and concerns voiced by letter and at the meeting, and to ask the company to address those issues with the county.

Public Hearings On Rezonings Scheduled

Two public hearings of rezoning requests are scheduled to be heard by the Davie County Board of Commissioners March 22.

David Swain has applied to rezone a half acre of land on U.S. 601 near McCullough Road from residential to highway business special use for an auto sales lot.

Swain has limited the request to auto sales only, said planning and zoning director John Gallimore.

There is a mixture of zoning in that area. The request was unanimously recommended for approval by the county planning board in December, he said.

The second request has been resubmitted by Bert Bahnson to rezone 13 acres north of N.C. 801 and I-40 in the Yadkin-Forsyth Watershed to allow application of the 10/70 rule which allows 10 percent of the land in the watershed area to be covered with a non-pourous surface such as a building or parking lot.

Bahnson had originally requested rezoning for 22 acres but amended the request to exclude nine acres exempted from watershed rules in 1993. Without approval of this request, 62 percent of the property could be covered. With it, Bahnson could cover up to 82 percent, Gallimore said.

The property is zoned community shopping while most property in the watershed is zoned residential, he told commissioners.

The planning board voted 5 to 2 in January to recommend approval of the request.

The two members in opposition expressed concern about this opening the door for requests for application of the 10/70 rule which are not justified, Gallimore said.

Burning Permits Available At Several Locations

In Davie County a burning permit is required by any person, firm or corporation to start any fire or ignite any material over 100 feet from an occupied dwelling or in or within 500 feet of woodland during the hours starting at midnight and ending at 4 p.m.

If you don't get a burning permit, you are illegally burning a and you may be given a citation by the N.C. Forest Service. Even though you have a permit you are still responsible for any damages which may occur as the result of your burning.

Also, at certain times, burning permits are cancelled due to hazardous fire conditions or air pollution episodes and all burning is banned regardless of distance from woods or the time of day or night. You are also required to adhere to all anti-pollution rules and regulations set by the federal government.

These rules are printed on the back of the permit. An example of what not to burn is car tires (which contain rubber) and motor oils (old or new) which are considered heavy oils. If you have any questions on a material contact the Forest Service before you burn. You are responsible for what you burn and the permit doesn't relieve you of that responsibility.

Burning permits are free of charge and are effective for four days after being issued. Burning permits can be obtained from:

- Advance Discount, NC 801 N. and Underpass Rd., Advance, 998-5367;
- Andy's, U.S. 158 and Redland Rd., 998-4879;

Fire Fighter Honored At Banquet

Shaffer

A meal of barbecue, hotdogs and all the trimmings, along with vegetables and desserts was served.

Following the meal, Mark Williams, fire chief, told the group about what had been going on in the department for the past year. He called on each firefighter to show and explain some type of firefighting equipment.

The highlight of the evening was revealing the firefighter of the year. Doug Shaffer was the recipient of this award and was presented a plaque by the chief. The firemen presented Mark Williams a gift in appreciation of his leadership.

Door prizes were drawn for children and adults following the meeting.

"The residents of the Center Fire District can be very proud and thankful for these women and men who give so much of their time training, attending classes, and on call 24 hours a day to protect not only our homes but also each of us as individuals," Barron said.

The department has several first responders who are also on call at any time.

Davie Jobless Rate At 1.9%

Davie County's January unemployment rate was listed at 1.9 percent, according to figures released last week by the Employment Security Commission of North Carolina.

The rate was up from 1.6 percent recorded in December.

Only three counties in the state had lower January rates than Davie's 1.9 percent.

January jobless rates for surrounding counties: Yadkin, 3.3 percent; Rowan, 2.3; Iredell, 2.7; Forsyth, 2.3; and Davidson, 2.2.

War Eagles Bounce Back With Two Wins

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

The War Eagles are back in the game after dropping two straight, including a deflating 6-4 loss to Salisbury. They bounced back last week with a 6-3 victory over an explosive East Forsyth team, then inflated optimism by repelling North Davidson 5-4.

Sparks

"East is the best team I've seen all year," said Coach Mike Herndon, who exhaled and broke into a broad smile after winning his first game as Davie's skipper. "They're sound. They have a kid (Alec Zumwalt) that's already signed with Carolina. There were a lot of scouts there to watch him, but the difference was we made the plays. We got a great pitching performance by Drew Ridenhour, we did the little things and were involved in the game, even the ones that weren't playing.

"It was a big relief getting that first one under your belt. They needed confidence, they needed to know that they could win against a good, quality team."

Two days later against North Davidson, the War Eagles put their saddle on the back of Victor Patti, who put on a hitting-pitching show and paved the road to a 5-4 victory.

The lefty allowed just one earned run in a complete-game win, lowering his minuscule ERA to 1.05, and he stroked three hits – including his second homer, an opposite field two-run shot in the second – to raise his team-leading average to .438.

"After (the homer) I said: 'All you guys need to learn a lesson from that right there,' " Herndon said of Patti's compact swing. "Patti is the only one that can hit a home run that hasn't hit one in practice. See, he works on his stroke during practice. The weight room's helped him, too."

On the mound, Patti put North away without his best stuff, illustrating how good he can be.

"He only had three strikeouts," Herndon said. "You think he's going to strike out more than that, but that shows his maturity and his guts. He didn't have his best stuff, he'll tell you that, but he showed a lot of guts.

"From what I understand, last year if something like that happened, he might have folded up. That's just all maturity. He's a good one."

After North rallied to tie it at 4-4, Davie applied pressure with runners and scored the winning run on a balk. First base coach Mike Lovelace nearly came out of his cleats screaming for the call, catching the base umpire's attention.

Everything seems to be going the War Eagles' way.

"The attitude and character of the team are getting better," Herndon said. "They are starting to understand their roles and learn the game a bit."

War Eagle Softball Team Scores In 5th, 6th Innings For Tourney Sweep

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

The Davie varsity softball team's three victories last weekend in a tournament at South Stokes won't earn any style points with Coach Tammy Reavis, but she won't complain too loud as long as the War Eagles keep finding ways to win.

Late-arriving Davie took a bizarre path to becoming tournament champion, going scoreless in the first, second and third innings of each game and rallying to score 18 of its 21 runs in the fifth and sixth frames, a pattern that prevailed but not before driving the coach to hair-pulling anxiety.

Handy

Sanders

Williamson

"I don't know what it is about the first couple innings," said Reavis, whose talented team edged powerhouse South Stokes in a first-place tiebreaker, beating Wilmington Hoggard 4-3, Southview 11-0 and Durham Jordan 6-4 in the opening week of the season.

"I guess they just have to see the pitcher. All the girls said: 'Well, this is what we do every game.' I said: 'Ya'll are going to have me crazy before the end of the year.' "

The War Eagles were even dead during warm-ups, inviting pregame panic. But they always came through when it mattered, giving Reavis a rousing debut as the successor for Darrell Steele, who resigned last fall after 10 seasons.

"I was pleased coming away from there 3-0, especially after the way we warmed up," Reavis said. "We looked like we were going to have a long day. But we're coming around. They played well together."

The War Eagles trailed Wilmington 3-0 before Dawn Williamson stoked the comeback fires. Her two-run single in the bottom of the fifth pulled Davie within 3-2 and her clutch, two-out single in the bottom of the seventh brought home the tying and winning runs, earning the senior slugger the award for the tournament's top hitter.

Williamson finished the day 4 for 11, but her huge hits against Wilmington – when she was 2 for 4 with all four of Davie's RBIs – were all the voters needed to see.

"She just came through with the bat," Reavis said. "She was hitting the ball. I batted her third and she played well."

Reavis wondered if Davie was ever going to come alive against Wilmington's [illegible]

"I was worried," she said. "We went three-up, three-down each time in the first, second and third innings. Their pitcher was pretty good, too. She was left-handed and very deceiving, so we were just slow getting started."

Jessica Whitley's splendid pitching kept Davie close until the hits started falling. The junior scattered six hits in a complete-game win.

"She pitched real well," Reavis said. "They didn't put their hits together. They hit her, they made contact, but they only had six clean hits and we fielded it. So we relied on our defense."

Again the offense delayed its smashing arrival against Southview, exploding

Please See War – Page B5

Worth Noting ...

In the Davie JV baseball team's 6-5 loss to East Forsyth, Travis Allen struck out 10 in six innings, Jeffrey Jones went 3 for 3 and Andrew Jones blasted a two-run homer.

North Davie's Jacquan Lyons and Justin Norsworthy saved their best basketball for South Davie, scoring 14 each to lead a 55-40 victory.

Elise Whitaker of Davie's soccer team stole the spotlight against North Iredell, scoring the first two goals of her career in a 3-0 win.

Shannon Handy, Dawn Williamson and Ashlee Sanders have been named to the all-tournament team after leading Davie to three wins at South Stokes.

Victor Patti carried Davie's baseball team to a 5-4 win over North Davidson, going 3 for 4 with a homer and pitching seven solid innings.

Elise Whitaker Triggers Win For DHS Soccer Team

The junior, who normally plays defender, scored the goal that put Davie ahead 1-0 just before halftime and – after Hannah Woodward stretched the lead to 2-0 – Whitaker buried the Raiders' dead hand with the second goal of her varsity career.

"I had to make some changes real quick because I saw some things happening, and I put her up on top (at striker) because she's so dog-gone aggressive," said Gustafson, whose team won its fourth straight season opener.

"Within two or three minutes when I made the change, she had a goal. I put the game in Elise's hands and she did really well. She took a beating."

Whitaker

A good beating has never fazed Whitaker, a warrior who relishes violent loose-ball skirmishes that separate the passive types from the fighters. Whitaker, without a doubt, comes to work with her gloves off.

"She just stepped it up," Gustafson said. "She was an animal. She is just tough as a corncob. She made things happen. She had two or three one-on-ones and she scored on two of them. She did what had to be done.

"If there's a 50-50 ball, Elise is either going to get hurt or win the ball. That's the way she is. She took a beating and just kept on going."

Gustafson nominated sweeper Julie Agejew as the unsung hero. The senior complemented Whitaker's offensive heroics with a marvelous defensive performance.

"Julie played great defensively," he said. "If the headline read anything other than Elise and Julie, it wouldn't be right because those two stepped it up."

The Whitaker-Agejew tandem emerged in timely fashion. Davie's midfield was missing two integral parts, starters Sarah Jackson and Caroline Steed, and losing the midfield fight decidedly most of the first half.

"I felt like without a doubt their midfield totally beat our midfield," Gustafson said. "We had a couple

A Family Affair: Mother, Daughters Win At Annual Shamrock Run

Davie County Enterprise Record

Linda Bartlett came from her home in Woodleaf to compete in the 12th Annual Shamrock Run sponsored by St. Francis Catholic Church last Saturday. It was her third time running in the street race.

Her daughter, Mary Rosser, was visiting from Birmingham, Ala., and decided to enter the race, as well.

"I've been looking forward to this for a long time," Linda Bartlett, a 1964 Davie High School graduate, said. "They ran in high school when I couldn't even walk around the track."

She usually runs several times a week. Mary runs some and goes to the Y, and Sara runs three to six miles about four times a week through her neighborhood in New York.

All three said they run for fun, to stay in shape, and for stress relief. "I run so I don't get fat, it's stress relief and bathing suit season is coming up," Sara said.

Race Director Jim Gildein said Mocksville really supports the Shamrock Run, which also includes a 10K (6.2 mile) run and a 5K walk. Proceeds go to the church building fund.

"The Mocksville community has been great to us," Gildein said. "The businesses have really supported us." More than 70 volunteers help with the race. "It's a lot of church and community spirit."

A total of 183 runners and walkers took part in the event, 37 came from Mocksville, 12 from Advance and one from Cooleemee. Sixteen came from Winston-Salem, 10 from Clemmons and 74 others from North Carolina, mostly the Piedmont.

Susan Moore of Woodleaf competed in her 10th Shamrock Run, finishing third in the 35-39 age group in the 10K race. She won the race last year and in 1994.

Dr. Myron Goodman of Salisbury also brings family members to the race. His son, Michael, won the male 10K 20-24 age group.

Scott Walschlager of Winston-Salem won the 10K race, finishing the course, which went from the back of the church, on Valley Road to County Home Road to beyond the old prison and back, in 34 minutes and 13 seconds. He also won the race last year.

Freshman Making A Mark In Varsity Baseball

Davie baseball coach Mike Herndon gave Andrew Daywalt a staggering job: starting shortstop as a freshman. Daywalt didn't blink.

"The thing that I'm most impressed with is nothing bothers him," Herndon said. "If you're worried about messing up, you're not going to make it. You've got to be relaxed and want the ball, and I think Daywalt always wants the ball. He's been around the game a long time, he knows the game and it's just another routine ground ball to him. It's not a pressure situation. Nothing really bothers him."

One American Legion official predicted recently that Daywalt, a savvy, cool customer with boundless potential as a slick fielder and smooth hitter, will become one of the school's hottest prospects ever if he maintains a sharp edge. Herndon nodded.

"He may not hit .400, not too many do as a freshman, but he's going to only get better," Herndon said. "He's just coming off basketball season. He hasn't been playing a lot of baseball, so you'll see him getting more and better each and every time he goes out."

Daywalt said Herndon envisions Daywalt achieving his fullest potential in time.

"I think he's going to be a big kid," he said, "and I think eventually we might have to move him to third base just because of size. But he may not. He runs well and he's got great hands."

Perhaps the biggest surprise for Davie has been Paul Sparks, who entered almost invisible last year. He hit the ground on a dead sprint his senior year, nailing down a starting job in right field and promptly heating into a nine-game hitting streak.

"It's almost automatic right now," Herndon said of Sparks' streak, which started about the time Joe Dimaggio's famous 56-game streak was celebrated around the planet. "You start thinking: 'You know, he's going to get a hit.' And the times he gets his toe-tuck is his. In baseball you've got to have timely hitting, and that's what Paul's been providing us. If somebody's in scoring position, he's going to get a base hit. He's doing the little things that count."

Calm down, statistical fanatics. Davie's schedule - roughly 25 games - will prevent Sparks from making anyone forget Dimaggio.

Thadd Johnson, Davie's full-time second baseman and part-time comedian, broke the silence after Alex Zumwalt, East Forsyth's King Kong of a hitter, launched a moon ball off Drew Ridenhour that landed somewhere near Johnson's home on Garner Street.

"It was the funniest thing I've heard in a long time," Herndon said. "When they were running off the field, Johnson said, 'Dave, my dog's got a new toy. He got that one.' It was funny. It wasn't funny at the time, but after the game you could laugh."

Ridenhour got the last laugh, however, holding East to two earned runs over 6 2/3 and earning his first win.

For North Davie baseball coach Danny Allard, things could get worse before they get better. His seventh-grade Wildcats registered home 3-8, and next year's Wildcats will likely faintly resemble the team he had this year. Ron Kirk's giant wrestling program has a way of attracting elite athletes.

"I wish I could have that bunch back next year," said Allard, whose team rallied to win its last two games. "But I have a feeling some of them are going to go other ways. But that's what happens when seven out of 12 are wrestlers. So we'll see what happens and who comes out next year."

Nice Start: JV Soccer Team Opens With 2-0 Win

The Davie JV soccer team's 2-0 victory over North Iredell was a nice way to start the season, but it could not disguise several problems that could become major against stiffer competition.

Garnett appears

Coach Sean Garnett was relieved more than satisfied. Twelve of his 18 players are freshmen, leaving the coach with a work-in-progress agenda.

"We're real young so we had our spurts where we were doing pretty good and then we had our spurts where we kind of fell apart," he said. "(North) was real aggressive. They weren't really highly-skilled, but they were aggressive and pretty big and it kind of intimidated some of them."

Christina Relak and Tonya Bergh orn sealed the verdict with goals, but Garnett knows the War Eagles must improve offensively if they're going to make any future noise, particularly in the rugged Central Piedmont Conference. He can't expect the defense, which appears strong, to deliver a shutout every time out.

"Defensively we're pretty good," he said. "Our weak link right now is just offense, and that's pretty much normal for the beginning of the season. We can't have lapses like we had at the end. They were right down our throats – it didn't really hurt us – but we got nervous. So we've just got to grow up some. We only have six sophomores."

Stopper Erika Ancuta, sweeper Whitney Lutz and defender Kristan Miller applied the defensive clamps, Garnett said, and keeper Sarah Merlau won the important balls that repelled the Raiders.

"She had to come out on a couple 50-50 balls, but she got to them first," Garnett said. "They would have been trouble if she wouldn't have gotten to them. She's got real good hands and she's not afraid."

Notes: The remainder of the roster: Echo Calcaterra, Lauren Cozart, Ashlee Ellis, Andrea Garner, Haley Henderson, Stephanie Hepler, Emma Jakob, Sarah Pullen, Kaylyn Smith, Lindsay Smith, Leah Snow and Carrie Worrell ... Continuing nonconference play, Davie hosts Forbush March 17 and plays at NW Cabarrus March 19 and at SW Randolph March 23.

Miller Shoots Down E. Montgomery To Lead Tigers To Victory

Heather Miller of South Davie's volleyball team found her misplaced serve just in time to shoot down East Montgomery and avenge the Tigers' only loss last week.

Drilling an incredible stretch of sensational serving, Miller single-handedly delivered a 15-0 romp that tied the match at 1-1 and sparked the Tigers' fifth win in a row.

"She served 15 straight points and only one ball was even brought back over the net," Coach Becky Miller said. "So that changed the momentum for us for the entire day. I mean, the kids were wild."

Coach Miller contemplated removing player Miller before the second game. Heather botched three service attempts during a 13-15 game-one loss. But the coach stuck with the eighth grader, a rocket launcher with a virtual untouchable serve when everything's clicking. Everything clicked, breaking East's spirits heading into the do-or-die third game.

"I had intended to replace her actually because she missed three serves in the first game," Coach Miller said. "She came up to serve and I just looked at her and said: 'Heather, we've got to have it.' She told me she worked better under pressure because she knew I was going to replace her.

"She's a good server. She reminds me of Kim Anderson. She has to stand at the wall to get her serves in, and she still has a little too much power."

Riding Miller's magical wave, the Tigers clinched the match 15-13 and celebrated redemption over an East team that handed South's its only loss in the March 2 season opener.

"We knew we had to beat them because we only play them twice this season," Miller said. "That was a real important one for us. It was a do-or-die situation. We play the other teams several times. If they would have gotten us this time, we wouldn't have had a chance to finish at the top of the conference. We'll probably end up tied (for first)."

The Tigers culminated their payback day with a 5-15, 15-4, 15-8 victory over Lexington. At 5-1, South seems to have everything going its way.

"I'm real pleased with this team," Miller said. "They're really coming along. They are showing a lot of potential as far as going on and playing higher-level volleyball. We're doing a lot more pass-set-hit than any team that we play."

Notes: Miller said Jennifer Head has played a leading role in South's drive toward the trophy. "She's just so consistent on her serves," she said. "There were a couple clutch situations, and you could always count on Jennifer to be consistent." .... Danielle Moore and Kirsten Durham have displayed do-it-all qualities, and Deanna Shamel and Miller execute exquisite sets beyond their years. "Moore and Durham are both really strong whether I need them to pass the ball or hit. They are both always there," Miller said. "Shamel and Miller are really good setters. You don't see back-row attacks in middle school. This is Shamel's first year of playing organized volleyball, and she is a natural." .... Amber Thompson has improved immensely since seventh grade. "I'm so proud of her because last year she couldn't get the serve in at all. She is serving so consistently, and she is a real good little passer," said Miller, who also considers Ashley Lee and Megan Dwiggins keys to South's success. "Lee was all over the court, and we can always count on Dwiggins at the net." .... South wraps up the season at Lexington on March 18.

starters out, but this team stepped it up, wanted to win and did a good job."

"She played very, very well," he said. "She was up against a very good striker and she stood right with her, did everything she could do and played the hardest she's ever played. She was a big part of it."

Notes: Woodward, last year's points leader, assisted Whitaker's first goal, provided breathing room with a goal of her own and delivered the prettiest pass of the day. "She sees the field better than a lot of other players," Gustafson said. "She had one really great pass. The ball was about four-feet high, she just popped it with the outside of her right foot and led Elise. It was not successful but it was a college-level attempt." .... Keepers Rebecca Stockert and Katherine Phillips, who split time at the net, had three saves each.... Continuing nonconference play, Davie hosts Forbush March 17 and plays at Northwest Cabarrus March 19 and at Southwest Randolph March 23.

Davie Tennis Team Faces Tough Season

Unfortunately for Davie's inexperienced boys tennis team, last week's season-opening 9-0 drubbing to West Rowan could be a prelude to a long season.

"We'll have a tough time in our conference, too," said Ben Allred, a first-year coach succeeding Denise Boyd. "We have two seniors, no juniors, two sophomores and six freshmen, so in three years we should have a fairly good team.

"I thought (West) was pretty good. I think we need a lot of work. They'll all improve a lot because they've got nowhere to go but improvement for most of them. A lot of them are just learning how to play tennis."

Matt Tuck and Austin Powell, two of the few returners from last year, represent the 1-2 players on the singles ladder, followed by Stephen Chambers at three, Alex Evans at four, Tony Morehead at five and Jimmy Materdo at six.

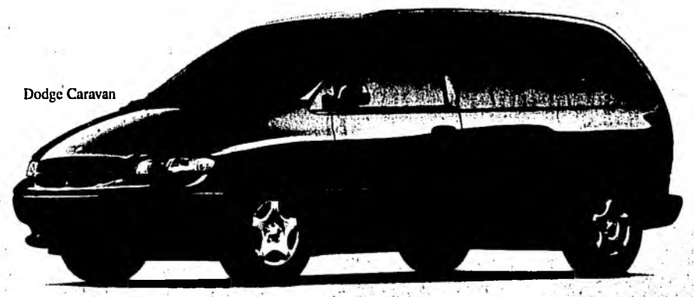

"Austin and Matt are going to be the ones that are going to be winning some matches," Allred said. "Stephen is good, too, he just needs some work. Tuck's worked real hard."

Powell and Chambers played No. 1 doubles last week, along with Thomasz Dudkiewicz and Jordan Howell at two and Tuck and Josh Bowling at three.

Notes: Tuck and Dudkiewicz are the only seniors on the 10-man team. . . . Allred, who played tennis regularly in his younger days, is trying to get back into the swing of things. "It's the first time I've ever coached tennis," he said. "I played for a long time, but I haven't played in a long time." .... Davie opens conference play on the road, visiting Mt. Tabor March 17 and Reynolds March 22.

North Davie's seventh-grade boys basketball team turned the garbage from the school's four-game losing streak to South Davie into fuel to help power the Wildcats past the Tigers 55-40 last week in the season finale for both teams.

In four largely lopsided collisions between the rivals this year in boys sports, South steamrolled North 30-12 for the eighth-grade football title, South's wrestlers rolled 45-27 for the conference crown and the Tigers won both eighth-grade basketball battles, leaving the North contingent with a sour taste and sense of urgency.

"This was the most nervous I've been before a game all year just because I knew how big a game it is between the two schools," Allard said. "Ever since I've been here we've had a tough string against South, and I really wanted the kids to go out on a winning note. As a school, we haven't had that much success against South this year, so it was good for us to win."

And the Wildcats won convincingly, parlaying excellent offensive balance with devilish defense to produce a happy ending to a 3-8 story. After sinking to 1-8, the Wildcats' perseverance paid off with back-to-back wins that started with a 42-31 stunner over Concord.

"We played a well all-around game," Allard said. "We took care of the ball, we did a real good job rebounding and we did a real good job playing defense."

Offensively, North got unusually huge contributions from scorers who remained relatively quiet most of the year. Jacques Lyons, who averaged 4.5 through the first 10 games, poured in a season-high 14, matching Justin Norsworthy, whose greatest offensive hour raised his average from 2.7 to 3.9.

Allard ordered aggressive penetralion from Lyons, a point guard who had a tendency in the past to overlook open shots.

"During the season he's been handling the ball, but I had him be real aggressive this game because they were playing a real soft zone," Allard said. "I told him before the game: 'If they're not making you give up the ball, I want you to take it to the hole.' And he did. He did a real good job."

No one was more focussed than Norsworthy, who made the lane his personal garden, working vigorously for 14, just 11 points fewer than he had in nine previous games.

"He took control in the post," Allard said. "I thought for a second there he was going to be a little bit overaggressive. But he just took the ball in the post, spun and went to the hole many times."

North achieved breathing room behind sufficient support. Brandon Pane supplied 10 points, David Orsillo added nine, Derek Cornatzer had six and Jonathan Motsinger scored three, burying South's low-voltage attack. Kevin Winters, Mitchell Roberts and Nathan Crowe led nine South scorers with six each, followed by Derrick Foster and Jeremy Young with five apiece, David Schweit with four, Michael Gravatt and Matthew Burchette with three each and Andrew McClannon with two.

Although the records – North came in with two wins, South staggered in 1-8 – suggested a dogfight between desperate and emotionally battered teams, South coach Tim Kenney soon discovered that North was easily better, a respectable team that suffered mediocrity because of a brutal schedule.

Besides, North played competitively against most everyone, blowing several close games down the stretch, while South usually faded in the first quarter and never recovered.

"The difference between the two teams was that North had been much more competitive this year than we've been," said Kenney. "They've lost some close games. They were much better. I know it's cliche to say that they're much better than 3-8, but they really were much better than a 3-8 club because they played some tough competition that we didn't have to play, like Erwin and West Rowan. And throw in a couple of the teams that they didn't play and they are probably a .500 team with a few breaks."

North's Orsillo finished with an 8.1 scoring average, highest among North and South.

Tidal Wave: North Rides Emotion To 28-16 Basketball Win Over South

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

Inflamed and goaded by South Davie's three romps over North Davie in eighth-grade girls basketball, North's seventh-grade girls rode a tidal wave of emotion to a 28-16 victory over South in last week's regular-season finale that determined fifth place in the Piedmont Middle School Conference.

Clearly, South wasn't ready to play.

And clearly, North was.

"The way South's eighth-grade team beat us (53-18, 59-18, 38-12), they just wanted to win," said North coach Jamie Lyerly. "They always want to win against them. That's always the big game. This was about the most excited my girls have been about a game. They were really pumped up and ready to win. And you could tell when they went out on the court they wanted to win."

South coach Tim Kenney traced the Tigers' troubles to a sloppy start that has become all too familiar. North jumped out to a 6-3 lead, extended the margin to 16-8 at halftime and cruised to the No. 5 seed for the PMSC Tournament.

"One of my concerns all year long is that we've come out flat almost every game," said Kenney, whose team roared to 6-2 before fading to sixth place with consecutive losses. "The only game we came out with intensity was China Grove (a 47-30 February win), and we put that game away by halftime.

"It seems every other game the girls have come out flat, and some of the cases they've been able to pick it up at halftime and come out with a win. I told them one of these days it's going to bite them, and it's bitten them the last two games."

North's halfcourt traps created shark-attack fear in South's ball handlers, leading to massive turnover damage that resulted in easy opportunities for North's suddenly effective transition game.

"We started a halfcourt press and that worked real good," Lyerly said. "They turned the ball over a lot. We would attack them at halfcourt, they would travel or throw it away and we got a lot of fast breaks. The girls were actually looking as they were going down the court, looking for people that were open."

> "This was about the most excited my girls have been about a game. They were really pumped up and wanted to win."
> - North Coach Jamie Lyerly

Jenny Ferrell was open often, staggering South with nine first-half points on the way to a season-high 11. "Jenny had a good game," Lyerly said. "Most of hers were outside shots."

The Tigers' miserable free-throw shooting (four for 21) reflected their offensive woes. Actually, they struggled all year from the line, going 27 for 103 (26 percent) in 10 games.

"We only scored six field goals," Kenney said. "We missed many opportunities inside, blowing layups. I mean, we make half of those missed free throws and we hit a few of our layups, we win that game."

Kenney couldn't blame South's defense, which generally kept the Tigers intact, holding five of 10 opponents under 30 points.

"We only gave up 28 points," he said. "I mean, defensively I don't have a problem. You give up 28 points and you lose by 12? You can't fault your defense on that one. It's offensive execution."

Lyerly watched Kenney wallow in the offensive pain. "By the way the coach was acting, I believe they usually can hit more shots than they hit," she said. "They were missing a lot of outside shots and layups, just like we usually do."

North's interior sweepers cleaned up the misses, with Alison McNeil yanking down 10 rebounds, Kierston Kahrs snatching nine and Laura Riddle controlling six.

"They outrebounded South the whole game," said Lyerly, who detected rapid improvement as North ripped off three straight victories to improve to 7-4 and secure a winning season. "We moved the ball around good, made better passes and got the ball inside. They've really improved throughout the whole season."

After Kenney digested defeat, he wiped away the frown and marveled at how the Tigers knocked down tall obstacles in the path to a 6-4 season.

"I'm very happy with the way the girls have played," he said. "We were pretty much outsized almost every game and the girls have played – with the exception of a game or two – excellent defense."

Notes: North also got six points from Kahrs, five from Kelli Lawhon, four from McNeil and two from Mandy Lambe. . . . South got five from Andrea Dwiggins, four each from Carly Balsley and Megan Jordan, two each from Brandi Harpe and one from Savannah Kowalski. . . . North faced No. 4 Fries, which rallied past the Wildcats 44-30 in late February, last Saturday in the first round of the league tournament. South took on No. 3 Northwest Cabarrus, which buried the Tigers 44-17, in another first-round game. . . . Lyerly, whose softball team eked out a one-run win over the Tigers last fall, is responsible for two of North's three wins over South, which holds a 7-3 lead in the 1998-99 series.

War Eagle Softball Team Captures Tournament Title In Sweep

for five runs each in the fifth and sixth innings and helping pitcher Shannon Handy achieve a well-deserved win. "We were still a little slow getting started," Reavis said. "But after we went around and saw the pitches, we hit good."

Handy fired a complete-game shutout, allowing no walks and nine hits.

"She didn't pitch as well as she did against North Iredell (scrimmage), but she still pitched good," Reavis said. "They hit her but they didn't get many clean hits off her."

Williamson's two-run single ended the game after six because of the 10-run rule.

Davie appeared down for the count, trailing Durham Jordan 4-0 in the top of the sixth, until a disputed call enraged the War Eagles and triggered a furious rally.

"(Left fielder) Sanders went over and caught a ball that was foul," Reavis explained. "But the umpire said she didn't catch it, so it kind of got us fired up because it was a clean catch. I guess they use that as motivation."

"We got aggressive on the bases that inning," Reavis said. "That helped. We took advantage of some passed balls and moved the runners up."

Handy, who relieved Sanders after two innings, silenced Durham for five-plus innings and picked up her second win in as many games, allowing just two hits, striking out four and walking just one.

All told, the sensational sophomore threw 11 innings of shutout ball and thus was nominated the tournament's top pitcher. She also delivered at the plate, going 4 for 6 with two walks.

"(Durham) was used to really fast pitching and they hit Sanders," Reavis said. "It wasn't that she was pitching bad, it was just that they were hitting her.

"Handy came in and mixed it up a little bit. They had a hard time with her. A lot of times when you just change the look, they can't adjust."

Spillman led with three hits against Durham.

Notes: Sanders became Davie's third representative on the all-tournament team, playing outstanding defense in left and going 4 for 10 at the plate. "She didn't have the most hits, but she came through with hits at crucial times," Reavis said of the sophomore. . . . The first tiebreaker criteria between Davie and South Stokes was least runs allowed in the last two games. Since both teams allowed four, Davie prevailed because it scored the most runs. . . . Davie's next two tests are road conference games, at Mt. Tabor tomorrow and 19 and at South Rowan March 23.

Billy Hendrix Wins Top Prize

The basketball contest went down to the wire once more, with Billy Hendrix Sr. and Jamie Lookabill tying with four misses and forcing a tiebreaker decision.

Hendrix's 162 total points in the Duke-Florida A&M tiebreaker (157) denied Lookabill, who picked 170, and secured first place and $20. Lookabill won the consolation $5.

Davie Athletes Named All-CPC

Duane Phillips of Davie's boys and Tina Harkness and Heather Schleupner of Davie's girls were named all-conference in basketball.

Phillips, a junior shooting guard, put together one of the greatest seasons in school history, averaging 26.4 points and leading the War Eagles to the fourth-winningest season ever, 15-10.

Schleupner, a sophomore forward, led the team with an 11.8 average and Harkness, a junior point guard, was next at 8.4, helping the 8-14 War Eagles double last year's victory total.

Cheerleaders Claim Third Spot

Davie High's competition cheerleading squad competed at the state championships at Memorial Auditorium in Raleigh recently and placed third in the 4-A division behind Broughton and Apex.

Laura Windley, a senior, was recognized at the state championships as an all-state cheerleader. She also received a $1,500 academic-based scholarship from the North Carolina Cheerleading Coaches' Association.

Sparks' Two-Run Hit Lifts Davie To Win Over East Forsyth

Paul Sparks came through with what proved to be the game-winning hit against East Forsyth, a line-drive single to right-center that brought in two runs and provided a 4-2 lead in the fifth.

"Paul is going to make contact," Herndon said of the senior right fielder. "He popped up his first two at-bats. He was due. He told me when he got over to third he was due."

Brian Grout added 5-2 insurance, smacking a solo homer to left, for starter Ridenhour, who was generally effective through 6 2/3. Although he surrendered two home runs, he held East to six hits and three runs and picked up his first win after Patti struck out the last batter with the bases loaded.

"He threw well," Herndon said. "We know that he's got a lot of potential, and he's going to see a lot of innings this year. We feel very comfortable with Melton behind the plate."

Notes: Davie's pitching has flourished behind Patti (1.05 ERA in 13 1/3 innings), Ridenhour (2.25 in 9 1/3) and Jeremiah Creason (1.40 in 5). "Right now we are riding our pitching," Herndon said. "Our pitchers are throwing strikes and not walking many people." . . . Davie wraps up a seven-game homestand March 19 against Mt. Tabor, March 20 against Statesville and March 23 against South Rowan.

Davie's Drew Ridenhour fires a pitch.

Errors Cost JV Baseball Team Against E. Forsyth, N. Davidson

Davie JV baseball coach Lee Linville isn't in the panic mode just yet, but think what he'll be like if the War Eagles don't start playing some defense.

In two nonconference games last week, four unearned runs in the first inning ended up costing them in a heartbreaking 6-5 loss to East Forsyth and six errors opened the door for 12 unearned runs in a 13-2 flop to North Davidson.

"It was quite disappointing," Linville said. "After we played (against East Forsyth), I felt even though we lost we were headed in the right direction.

"And then Friday, I just felt like we took a big step backwards."

North's bottom of the first inning foreshadowed a miserable afternoon. After Davie's starter, freshman Cody Wright, struck out the first two Black Knights, the defense booted a ground ball, something Linville watched all too often as Davie's mistake-prone defense failed to support Wright's overpowering debut.

"You know, it's stuff like that," said Linville, who has seven freshmen on the 14-man roster. "Wright goes out there and in 2 2/3 he gets eight outs and seven of them he has to strike the guy out to get the outs. So we showed our immaturity basically."

Davie managed just three hits, an Andrew Jones double, a two-run pinch-hit single by Jacob Garner and a Seth Correll single.

At East Forsyth, the War Eagles overcame their early defensive trouble to tie the game at 5-5 in the top of the seventh, when Chris Seaford led off with a double, moved to third on Kellen Miller's grounder and scored on Andrew Jones' grounder.

But yet another error doomed Davie in the bottom of the seventh. East's leadoff man reached on a fielding error, stole second and third and scored the game-winner on a hit, spoiling a strong complete-game outing by Travis Allen, who struck out 10 and allowed just six hits in six innings.

Jeffrey Jones went 3 for 3, Seaford and Dave Poplin had two hits each and Andrew Jones and Correll had one each.

Andrew Jones launched a two-run homer and Poplin drove in a run with a double.

Davie plays at Mt. Tabor March 19 in the conference opener, hosts Statesville the next day in a nonconference game and returns to league play March 23 at South Rowan.

DHS Track Teams Open Season With Big Wins

Devore Holman fought butterflies, tossed and turned all night and went to work Thursday morning on maybe three good hours of sleep.

He slept like a baby Thursday night, just hours after Davie's boys and girls track teams opened the season with resounding victories over nonconference foes West Rowan and North Davidson. Davie's boys racked up 86 points, dominating West (40) and North (38), and the girls' 63 topped North's 49 and West's 41.

"I was nervous the whole day," said Holman, who along with Suzanne Black triumphed in his head-coaching debut. "I don't think I even slept much Wednesday night. (Assistant coach Cary) Powers tried to loosen me up. I think Coach Black was as nervous as I was. She was excited.

West's Jovon Quarles and Davie's Kenny Collins juiced up the boys meet with entertaining showdowns in the 110 and 300 hurdles. But Collins took them both, edging Quarles by one-tenth of a second in the 110 and by two seconds in the 300 and enhancing his status as one of the state's premier hurdlers.

"Jovon Quarles is supposed to be one of the best in the state," Holman said. "He and Collins hooked it up and this place was jumping. I was looking at some times in the paper today, and from what I saw, Collins has got that covered. It was cold and I have no doubt that boy can run a 14.9, 14.8 (110). He's incredible."

Collins can pretty much do what Collins wants to do, especially when someone wages a challenge.

"He does it all," Holman said of the three-sport star. "When the chips are down, you can call his name. If he was interested in soccer or baseball, he could be good in that, too."

Encouraging Start

Black expressed genuine concern about the girls' possibilities during preseason. But, at least for a day, the War Eagles looked quite capable of challenging the conference even without much experience.

"We looked through the results at some of the other schools in the conference and we were real proud of our kids," Black said. "They are looking really, really good.

"Traditionally, Mt. Tabor and Reynolds are really strong, but as far as Reynolds is concerned we can compete with them. Mt. Tabor is strong, but who knows what's going to happen when it comes down to a conference meet."

Davie's winners included Lauren Poplin, Laurie Desch, Jerrine Peeler and Janel Darcy in the 3200 relay; Sarah West in the 100 hurdles; Samantha Murillo in the 100 and 400; Darcy in the 1600; Poplin in the 800; Murillo, West, Poplin and Stace Joyner in the 1600 relay; and Tiffany Vaughters in the long jump.

"Vaughters did an excellent job," Black said. "She won the long jump, ran on some of the relays and did a great job on those.

"Murillo should be very strong in the 400 all year. She should be strong in the 200, too, although we didn't run that event.

"West did a good job in the hurdles. She's had some problems with her shins lately, so she was real tough and stuck it out."

Black was impressed with Darcy's debut in the mile, a 6:01 time, and she lauded Joyner's determination after competing in four events.

"I was really proud of Joyner," Black said. "She's been really sick lately and really stepped up, did four events and did not complain. She's a really strong person. I was really impressed with her."

Poplin won the 800, gained a second wind and immediately helped the 1600 relay team triumph.

"She did a great job," Black said. "We decided to take out a couple events because of the cold and windy weather. That made the rest basically nonexistent between the 800 and mile relay, and Lauren went in there and ended up helping us win."

Miracle Worker

It's A Story That Needs To Be Told Again And Again

By Jeanne Gaither
Davie County Enterprise Record

Some stories need to be told again and again, and "Miracle Worker" is one of those stories, according to Freda Ramsey, director of the latest Davie Theatre Company production.

"Miracle Worker" is the story of Helen Keller, who was deaf and blind, and her teacher Annie Sullivan.

Ramsey said she fell in love with the story of Helen Keller about 26 years ago.

"It's such an amazing story to tell," she said.

Last produced in Davie County 11 years ago at North Davie Middle School, Ramsey became interested in telling that story again.

She had learned that Meredith Selsey, who had been in the earlier production, is now working with the deaf. Thinking about producing the play again, she asked Christa Myers, who played Annie Sullivan in the North Davie production and is now a teacher at Forbush High School in Yadkin County, if she would audition for the part again.

Myers had no doubts when Ramsey asked her to audition. She felt she was supposed to be doing this, she said.

She was only 14 when she starred in "Miracle Worker" at North Davie. At 24, she brings a whole new perspective to the role, said Myers.

Falls Threaten Older Persons' Independence

Most of us want to remain in our homes as we grow older. However, as our physical needs change, this isn't always easy. Stairs may prove a challenge, favorite throw rugs may become slippery hazards, and dark hallways may be hard to navigate.

Research shows that falls are a major threat to the independence of older persons. In any given year, about one-fourth of persons age 65-74 report a fall. What many of us don't realize is that a few simple changes inside and outside of the home can make it safer, and more comfortable. However, what is simple for some may be difficult for others.

That's why the Davie County Senior Center is organizing work groups to go out and perform simple home improvement projects to help seniors in our community stay independent. The Community Workday will be Saturday, Mar 15 beginning at 9 a.m.

Tasks will include such things as changing hard-to-reach light bulbs, securing loose carpets and rugs, and putting non-skid strips in the bathtub. For those with a higher skill level there will be projects such as installing lever handles on doors, putting grab bars in the bathroom, and building ramps for those in wheelchairs.

Volunteers may wish to form their own groups (such as church youth groups, civic clubs, or just a group of friends), or the Senior Center can place you in a group. If you would like to help in another way, you can help by donating materials, serving refreshments, and helping the day of the project at the Senior Center.

This project is in celebration of AARP's Independent Living Week. Each volunteer will receive a "goody bag" and have their name displayed on a colorful "helping hand." There will also be refreshments throughout the day at the Senior Center for volunteers to enjoy between projects.

The Senior Center will take care of identifying the needs in the community. All you need to do is provide the elbow grease. If you would like to help in any way for this project, contact the Davie County Senior Center at 336-751-0611 no later than May 2. Let us know what time during the day you would like to work, how long you can work, and what your skill level is. What a great opportunity to help your neighbors stay safe and independent in their homes.

Diabetes Program To Be Held

This public awareness campaign is a one-day "wake-up call" for Americans to determine if they are at risk for diabetes or who have diabetes and don't know it.

The purpose of this program is to identify people who fall into the high-risk categories for diabetes and to inform them of the risks and symptoms of the disease. There are over 16 million Americans with diabetes, approximately half of them over the age of 55.

Free pamphlets, the diabetes risk test, and a short quiz that people take to assess their risk for the disease will be available. The program is open to any senior and will be held in the Nutrition Site of the Davie County Senior Center at 11 a.m. on Tuesday, March 23. Call 751-0611 for more information.

Anyone who wishes to stay for lunch, and is not a regular attendee, call 751-0611 at least two days in advance to reserve your meal.

Remember March 21 and March 28 have been designated as "Bring A Friend" to church at the Methodist church. Let's make this a success. Ask your friend to bring their friend.

The Rev. Dennis Marshall and wife, LaRue, and their daughter Kennzie, attended the Patton family reunion in Morganton Sunday afternoon.

We were glad to see Justin Cornatzer and his wife, Stephanie, at church Sunday.

Sympathy is extended to Betty Byerly Potts in the death of her father, Jacob "Woody" Byerly, who died in Martinsville, Va., last week. Sympathy also goes to the family of Allen Hall. Allen died on Saturday.

Athene Tucker Spry was rushed to Forsyth Hospital late Saturday. At present she is in ICU with an undetermined diagnosis. She will undergo tests this week.

The Hackett family - consisting of Frankie and Dian Hackett, their daughter-in-law Susan Hackett and daughter Kristen, Tony Hackett and girlfriend, Jamie Potts - are spending several days at the beach.

Sympathy is extended to Nancy H. McKnight in the death of her sister, Frances Hartman Wallace. Frances died after an extended illness.

Janna Watson and son, Alan Michael of Puricar, were weekend visitors of her parents, Leonard and Mary Nell Jones. They attended services at the Methodist church Sunday.

Lori Jones' mother, Pat Cope, is not doing too well. Get well wishes go out to her.

Mavis Rogers has been confined to her home with a severe attack of vertigo. She was treated at the Forsyth Hospital emergency room. Later on in the week, she had the flu and was really sick. Edith Zimmerman visited Mavis on Thursday.

The youth of the Methodist church will be serving the Lenten meal at the fellowship hall on Wednesday night, March 17.

A tentative date of April 3 has been set as delivery date of the second printing of the Davie County Heritage Book. Call this reporter at 336-998-4356 for an order.

Dental Sealants Help Prevent Tooth Decay

These grooves - or pits and fissures - are narrow and can't be cleaned with regular toothbrushing. As such, they make a great hiding place for food particles and bacteria, setting the stage for tooth decay, said Sharon Boger, public health dental hygienist.

Dental sealants, though, can help prevent cavities on chewing surfaces. Sealants are thin plastic coatings applied to the chewing surfaces of back teeth. The plastic acts as a barrier, keeping food and bacteria out and protecting teeth from decay.

Your dentist can apply sealants in just a few minutes. Once the teeth have been cleaned, the dentist roughens the chewing surfaces slightly, which allows the sealant to adhere. The dentist then "paints" the sealant onto the tooth. The sealant hardens within seconds and can protect the tooth from decay. The dentist will check the sealants during the child's dental examination to make sure they are still intact.

Your child's permanent molars should erupt anywhere between the ages of 6 an 8, so it's never too early to talk to your dentist about the value of sealants.

In addition to getting sealants, your child can work toward a healthy smile by:

- brushing twice a day with an ADA accepted fluoride toothpaste;
- cleaning between the teeth daily using floss or an interdental cleaner;
- eating a balanced diet and limiting snacks; and
- visiting a dentist regularly.

News on the Sweet Creek Farm is Brian and Heidi's baby boy, Hunter. At 3-1/2 months, little Hunter, weighing 15 lbs and 26 inches long, will be trading that pacifier for a duck call and dog whistle. Brian will have a new hunting partner soon.

Springtime is just around the corner. I bet you have been planning what to plant this spring. People from Cana have a little greener thumb. The growing season is bound to be bette this year. Old Dutchman is flowing muddy again after the rain we had.

Hope to see "The Miracle Worker" this Saturday at the Brock Performing Arts Center in the big city of Mocksville. I will let you know how it went. It is the story of Helen Keller and will be playing for two weeks.

'Miracle Worker' To Open Friday

As a teacher, she said she knows what it's like to try to help students, who struggle with learning.

Playing in 19th century clothing is a lot of fun, according to Ramsey, but learning the accents necessary for the play has been challenging.

Myers has to perform all her lines in sign language, and a number of cast members have worked hard to act as if they are blind, she said.

Two girls, Jenny Bokeno and Sarah Snow, were cast for the difficult role of Helen Keller and will appear in alternate performances, she said.

Special invitations have been issued to all deaf schools in the area, and a professional interpreter will sign all performances for the hearing impaired, Ramsey said.

The play opens Friday at 7:30 p.m. at the Brock Performing Arts Center.

Additional performances are scheduled for March 20, 26 and 27 at 7:30 p.m. and March 21 at 2:30 p.m.

Tickets are $12 for adults and $10 for students and senior citizens.

To order tickets or learn more about the performance, call 336-492-7806.

Very Special Arts Deadline Set

Exceptional artists will have their performing, visual, literary and craft works spotlighted at the Brock Performing Arts Center during the Very Special Arts Connection and the 1999 Special Olympics.

These artists will have several opportunities to learn and experience various art forms and to showcase their own art works.

This special population of Davie County will be encouraged to experience the arts through hands-on activities at the Very Special Arts Festival to be held at the Mocksville-Davie Recreation Center and Brock Performing Arts Center March 29-31. Activities will include karaoke, dance, stamping, theater games, crafts and playing musical instruments.

Artists registered to exhibit their personal works of art will kick off the Very Special Arts Connection art exhibition at an artists' reception April 9, at 7 p.m. in the lobby of the Brock Performing Arts Center.

Following the reception, performing artists will take the state and showcase their artistry in acting, dramatic reading, dance and music at 8 p.m.

Through the generosity of the community, a year round program is now being offered that brings the arts to Davie County's special artists. This year the recreation department purchased a keyboard, hand bells and dulcimers that rotate among 11 special education classes and two sheltered workshops, according to Arts Council executive director Dagmar Bardo.

For more information on Very Special Arts Connection activities, tickets and funding opportunities, contact Kathie Streit, program director, at 336-751-2325.

Registration deadline for artists to enter the visual and performing arts exhibition is Friday, March 19. Tickets for the April 9 art exhibition and performances are available for $3.

Carter To Study At Oxford

A Mocksville woman is preparing to make Davie County history.

A continuing education student at Salem College, Mary Carter recently received notification that she was selected to spend six weeks studying Oxford University in England this summer.

The senior, pursuing a degree in arts management, has been told she may be the only person from Mocksville ever to be invited to study at Oxford.

Though she's not sure if that's true, she does know she was thrilled just to have the opportunity to apply.

Students were invited to apply based on their grade point averages. Carter then had to fill out an application and write an essay.

When she discovered she'd been selected, Carter said, "I was absolutely flabbergasted."

Her next challenge will be raising funds to pay for the trip.

A long-time arts enthusiast, she is actively involved in the Davie Theatre Company, recently appearing in the group's production of "Nunsense" and presently working as stage manager for "Miracle Worker." She also serves as organist/pianist at St. Francis of Assisi Catholic Church in Mocksville.

Anyone interested in offering their support for Carter's participation in the Salem College - Oxford University Summer Academic Session should contact the Davie Theatre Company at 336-492-7806.

Spring Cleaning Party Planned

A Spring Cleaning Party will be Friday, March 26, at 2 p.m. in the Nutrition Site of the Senior Center. Paper goods and decorations won't match, but the closets will look great. The real estate that is subject to the lien, the name of the person to whom the property is listed for taxes, and the principal amount of the taxes are set out below. If the taxes remain unpaid, the lien will be foreclosed by the taxing unit and the property sold to satisfy the taxing unit's claim for taxes.

'Yesterday Kids' Gearing Up For Annual Senior Games

If you are one of Davie County's "Yesterday Kids," it's time for you to start getting in shape for the Davie County Senior Games.

Registration has started and the deadline for signing up for the games is Friday, April 16.

Virginia Seats, who is one of those young-at-heart people, is starting off the right way, getting help from Joe Boyette, who knows what basketball is all about. Whether you want to shoot basketball, walk in the fun and race walks, throw football, shoot basketball, play croquet or whatever you think you might like to do, there is something for almost every one.

Go by the Mocksville/Davie Parks and Recreation Dept. located at the gym on North Main Street and pick up an application. This will give you the names of all the sports offered for Senior Games.

The calendar of events are as follows:

• Competition dates: Saturday, April 24 - Thursday, May 20;

• Weenie Roast at Shelter 2 in Rich Park, Wednesday, May 12 at noon. No charge for participants, $3 for guest;

• Silverarts Rehearsal, Thursday, May 6, 6-8 p.m.;

• Saturday, May 8 at Brock Performing Arts Center, Silverarts Reception at 7 p.m. and performing arts at 8 p.m.;

• Awards Banquet: Friday, May 28 at Blaise Baptist Church Fellowship Hall, Cost $3 for participants, $7 for guest. Time: 6 p.m.

This program is sanctioned by North Carolina Senior Games, Inc., NCSG is sponsored statewide by the North Carolina Division of Aging and North Carolina Legislature.

Davie County Senior Games is a non-profit organization that sponsors athletic competition for adults 55 and older. Davie County Senior Games is accredited by North Carolina Senior Games, follows all policies and guidelines established by NCGS.

Senior Games is unique in that you only compete against your peers in a five-year span. All sports follow the main stream rules and guidelines. For example, 55-59 compete with each other, 60-64 compete, and male against male, etc. Copies of Senior Game Rules and Sports guidelines are available fro the asking.

If you enjoy good clean fun, enjoy people and can lose in competition with no hard feelings, come out and join the "kids" who have already been involved in the games and have the time of your life. You might be surprised at the medals you will win.

Church To Host ARC Of Davie

Since 1979, the ARC of the United States (association of retarded citizens) has sponsored National Mental Retardation Awareness month in March.

"Sabbath/Sunday weekend" offers a special opportunity for churches, synagogues and other religious organizations to recognize the needs and abilities of people with mental retardation and their families.

Each year, a church in Davie County hosts the local ARC (a United Way agency) to be a part of their Worship Service. This year Chestnut Grove United Methodist Church will be host on Sunday, March 21.

All congregations are being asked to welcome these children and adults into their lives. They can be good schoolmates, valuable employees, caring friends, and contributing members of the community. Encourage their participation in activities of your religious community, from worship services, to study groups to recreational activities.

Move Over, John Deere: Old Mower Becomes New Toy

By Jeanne Gaither
Davie County Enterprise Record

When Josh Cleary told his grandparents how much he's like to have a four-wheeler or a go-cart, they became worried.

They believed both were too dangerous for the second grader, according to his grandmother Linda Edwards.

But her husband Dale had un idea.

Josh, who is the son of Brian and Cynthia Cleary of Courtney, had always enjoyed riding on the Edwards' lawn mower when he came to visit and used to ride with his late grandfather David Cleary on his tractor on a tobacco farm in Courtney.

Dale Edwards decided to build his grandson a tractor, starting with an old lawn mower he bought for $100 because the mowing deck had rusted from under it, he said.

He didn't have any plans from which to work. He just knew in his head what he wanted it to look like, Dale said.

He made needed repairs to the lawn mower and built a cab from wood complete with a lock inside. At his grandson's request, he painted the tractor red put a Dale Earnhardt license plate, which Josh bought at a flea market for his tractor, on the front.

Dale's hasn't yet figured out a way to meet Josh's latest request – a heater in the cab.

Josh drove his tractor every time he visited his grandparents until taking it home with him to Courtney. He recently drove it to the store near his house, according to his grandmother.

He rides every day she will let him, said his mother.

The 9 year old won't let anyone else drive his tractor, but he often pulls his younger siblings behind him on a trailer, carefully watching after them, including baby sister Carolyn, who is just six months old.

Dale's latest project is a carriage for all the grandchildren to ride behind the tractor. When that's finished, he will begin building a new tractor for 7-year-old granddaughter Katelyn. Hers will be pink.

When Josh and Katelyn outgrow their lawn mower tractors, they'll have to pass them down to 2-year-old twin brothers, Trey and Noah, Linda explained.

Their grandchildren visit their home just outside Cooleemee at least twice a week, she said, and folks might just see some of them riding through the streets at this year's July 4 lawn mower parade in a tiny red tractor.

Therapeutic Touch Offered In Mocksville

Nature's Gifts on U.S. 601 South in Mocksville is offering therapeutic body work.

"The most natural reaction for body aches and pain is hands-on touch," said owners Mike and Sandy DePeuw. "The art of therapeutic touch is gaining recognition to aid in the prevention of health problems in both the medical world and the real world."

Nature's Gifts will offer customers a male or female therapist.

Emily Grisham is nationally certified in therapeutic massage and body work. She attended the Atlanta School of Massage, where she received certification in clinical massage and neuromuscular therapy. She will be available on Fridays.

Jerry Callicutt is also certified in therapeutic massage and body work. He attended the Touchtone Institute in Salisbury, and runs his own office in Randleman. He will be available by appointment on Tuesday mornings and late Tuesday evenings.

The DePeuws said that therapeutic touch can benefit people of all ages, from helping infants mature faster and relieving stress, aches and pains in older people.

"It can improve health and mobility of joints, improve posture and coordination, and relieve chronic pain from tight muscles," they said. "It gives relief from dry skin, a more restful sleep, and reduces swelling from excess water retention."

Faster healing and easier breathing can result, they said.

"The client is made to feel comfortable and relaxed. Being completely covered between warm sheets with aromatic candles surrounding the room and relaxing music creates the most comforting mood and relaxing environment imaginable," they said.

The DePeuws said that massage is gaining popularity because people from all walks of life are starting to realize the benefits. One of the main benefits is increased circulation, and is equally beneficial to physically active and inactive people.

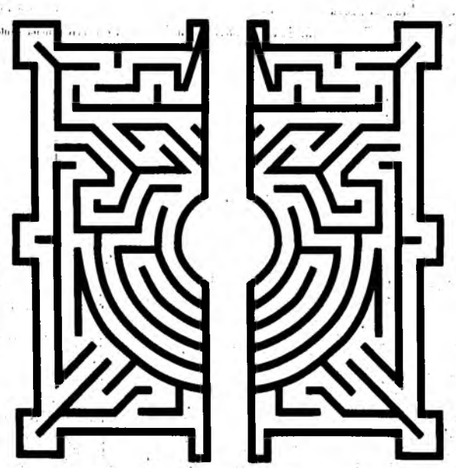

For more information on massage or to arrange an appointment at Nature's Gifts, call 336-751-4292.

Davie Schools

Davie High

Information regarding the James E. and Lelia N. Essie Scholarship is available in the guidance office. Approximately $4,000 will be awarded. Primary consideration is financial need. Applicants should have at least a "C" average, may choose to attend either a two or four-year school, and are not restricted by field of study. Students should see Vicki Hendricks. Deadline is April 14.

The Davie Cattlemen's Association will award at least one scholarship of at least $500 to a student pursuing a degree in agriculture at either a community/technical or four-year college, including the two year Agricultural Institute at N.C. State University. Deadline: April 14. See Vicki Hendricks.

The guidance office has two copies of "Need a Life." This is a college financial aid handbook which students may check out for financial aid information. It includes an overview of the financial aid process, scholarships, grant and loan opportunities, details on federally-sponsored programs, how to calculate demonstrated financial need, and sources of career information.

"Who's Who Among American High School Students" launched a public awareness campaign recently to educate students and parents about scholarship search services that exploit students by charging hefty fees. These services guarantee financial aid, yet deliver nothing more than information available for free from numerous reputable sources.

There will be a geometry study/tutor session each Wednesday night for the remainder of the school year, from 5-7. It is free. The sessions will be supervised by Amanda Ledford and Terry Mitchell. Sign up in advance in room F-1.

South Davie Middle

Ann Costello and D.J. Hayes of the South Davie eighth grade Cruiser team have been chosen as Cruisers of the Week for March 15-19 because they are conscientious, responsible, and hard working.

Central Davie Elementary

Report cards went home Wednesday, March 17.

School spring pictures will be made on March 24.

Students in the Gaye Carothers and Van Fagan communication class recently created a musical videotape of the song "Help." This video was the culmination of a unit on being helpful. Small groups within the class created a short skit to illustrate the verses of the song which were videotaped with the song. Chris Wensil, a student in Kristine Kokoski's video production class, edited the tape and dubbed in the track of the song.

Students Become Favorite Characters In Wax Museum

Suzie Stephenson didn't have to go far when deciding on a famous African-American to portray when South Davie Middle School classes presented a wax museum honoring famous black Americans.

She portrayed Michael Jordan, wearing jersey No. 23 and holding a basketball.

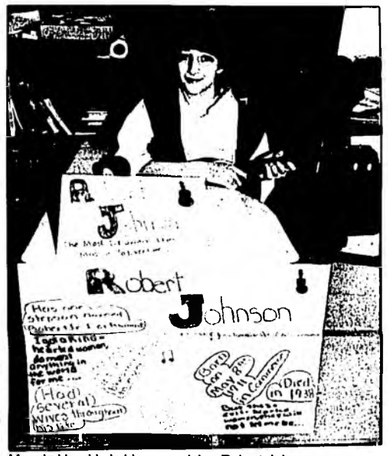

"My mom watches all his games and she collects his jerseys. She knows everything about him, so I got my information from my mom," Suzie said.

The students sat at desks, dressed to fit their character, and as visitors walked by, they would read information on that character.

Maggie Hendrix portrayed "the most influential blues musician to ever live," Robert Johnson. She said her father, Chris, helped her with the project. He plays guitar and is trying to learn some of Johnson's music.

Jody Dillard portrayed black cowboy Bill Pickett. "I have horses and I like stuff like that," he said.

"I was remembered for my courage and talent," J.R. Jones told those who walked up to his desk. He had picked Jackie Robinson. "I like baseball," he said. "He was the first African-American to play with the white players."

Mailing Potato Chips Provides Lessons

And while the eighth graders were anxiously awaiting results of their deliveries, they were opening some packages from schools in those states, each containing one Pringles potato chip.

The goal was to send one Pringles chip by first class mail, and have it arrive intact.

When received from other schools, the students there, and here, had to not only determine the condition of the chip (More points were awarded to whole chips, less for two pieces, less for cracked pieces, etc.), but determine the characteristics of the box, such as mass and weight and volume.

More points went to the smallest, lightest packages.

Teachers Becky Delaney and Don Tabat coordinated the project at North Davie, and said students there were creative in coming up with materials and box designs.

Eighth Graders Write Their Own Dr. Seuss Books

In the style of the books they read when they were younger like Cat In The Hat and Green Eggs And Ham, about 50 eighth graders from South Davie Middle School visited Mocksville Elementary March 2, to read books they had written.

For the project, headed up by academically gifted specialist Lynn Moore with the help of communication teachers Pat Campbell and Marcie Trenchard, students were asked to write a book in the style of the famous author Dr. Seuss.

Students had to develop their own ideas for stories. For extra credit some wrote their books in Spanish as well as English, according to Campbell.

Anderson led the business with minutes of the prior meeting being read and a treasurer's report given. The drawing for raffle ticket prizes was held.

Mary Sine, principal, spoke with parents and introduced the entertainment. The kindergarten classes of JoAnna Haire, Jane Seamon, Linda Drye, Margorie Moore, Lori Latham, and Melanie Jones presented nursery rhymes to the audience. Mother Goose, played by Melanie Jones, led the kindergartners in a program. All classes entertained with "Itsy Bitsy Spider," "Jack Be Nimble" and "Jack and Jill." JoAnna Haire's students scared little Miss Muffet away with "Little Miss Muffet." Linda Drye's students ran up and down the clock with "Hickory Dickory Dock." Lori Latham's class fell off the wall with "Humpty Dumpty." "Little Bunny Foo Foo" was quoted by all the kindergartners at the end of the program.

Ann White, physical education teacher, demonstrated the new "Boost Up" program being used in the physical education program with the help of some first grade students. The "Boost Up" program provides a way for students to learn kinetically through movement and touch.

Students in third, fourth, and fifth grades participated in a practice to prepare them for the End of Grade tests in May.

Shady Grove Elementary

In January, kindergarten students each wrote a book titled "All About Me." These books have been sent to a publishing company to be bound into hardback books. Each child will receive their own book to take home as a keepsake of their kindergarten year.

First graders in Suite 1 and 2 are preparing for the annual Bunny Brunch, a spring party given for parents by the children. The children are reading books about bunnies including "The Runaway Bunny," "The Bunny Book," and "The Tale of Peter Rabbit." Students are writing creative stories on many spring topics. The children in Rachel Joyce's and Eva Everett's classes are writing creative stories using a computer program complete with graphics.

Students are practicing their party manners as they prepare for the brunch. The children will also help prepare lunch for their parents. All students are enjoying daily craft activities to be displayed for the parents in the classrooms for the Bunny Brunch. The Bunny Brunch will be held March 31 at 10 a.m. Each child may invite two adults.

Second graders of Susan Wall Smith and Brenda Hollifield brought the rain forest into the classroom. The three-dimensional paper rain forest provided a home to the various Tempera painted animals that live in that habitat. The students researched the life of each animal and placed the animal in its correct layer. The students read about the plight of the rain forest. Each student composed a letter to the president for his support in saving the rain forest. The students also found that many of the common items that they use each day come from the tropical forest.

As part of their study of polar habitats, Mrs. DeLury and Mrs. Freemnan's class has been learning about the iditarod: Alaska's 1,059 mile sled dog race which is run every March. They read the book "The Bravest Dog Ever: The True Story of Balto" and tracked Balto's journey on a map of Alaska. Each child made and named his/her own sled dog. They learned abut Susan Butcher, the four-time iditarod winner and the dedication and responsibility required to raise and train sled dogs.

Mrs. Sherrill's class is reading "Harriet Tubman" and learning about the Underground Railroad. The class is drawing maps of the escape routes, writing letters condemning slavery, and making wanted posters for Harriet.

Third graders of Courtney Romine had fun making kites and writing March poems to go with them. Students enjoyed "Sarah, Plain and Tall" and are now eagerly reading the sequel, "Skylark." They are learning about Ireland and the people there. The class raised over $60 with the great penny project and are using the money to buy a butterfly garden kit.

Students of the Week for March 8-11 are Denzell Garmon, Juwaugn Arnold, Ashley Joyner, Erinn Lapish, Javan Phillips, Rachel Hoffman, Hanna Bouchard, Cody Yopp, Rachel Creason, Catherine Brake, Samantha Prestwood, Jonathan Owings, Jonathan Shires, Daniel Callaway, Drew Hancock, Zark the Alien, Rebecca Conley, Desmon Sellers, Zachary Shoemaker, Bethany Gough, Jessie Frye, Lee Cain, Jeff Nuchols., Maria Nail, Justina Ijames, and Johnathan Ijames.

"We sent a lot of unique packages," Delaney said.

"They had a lot of fun packing them up and they were eager when they began getting boxes in," Tabat said.

"We took this box, like what you put Crayons in," she said. "We put tissues in the bottom and those peanut things. It was fun to open packages from other places."

The Pringles Internet Challenge had participants from across the United States.

MES Teachers Attend Seminar

Two third grade teachers at Mocksville Elementary School recently attended a seminar at the N.C. Center for the Advancement of Teaching at Cullowhee.

Cathy U. Byerly and Elizabeth H. Vogler were among the 60 teachers from across the state to partiicpate in "Teacher Scholar in Residence: National Board Cerification Residency" Feb. 21-26.

Part of the University of North Carolina, NCCAT provides a year-round series of residential seminars and teacher-scholar programs for teachers and professional development activities for teachers and staff in selected school systems.

At the center, teachers engage in scholarly activities and professional networking to renew their vitality for teaching and learning.

Angell Wins State Award In National Corn Yield Contest

An area corn grower is a state winner in the 1998 National Corn Yield Contest (NCYC), sponsored by the National Corn Growers Association (NCGA).

Madison Angell of Mocksville placed first in the state in the A Ridge-Till Non-Irrigated, with a yield of 154.4357 bushels per acre (b.p.a.). The hybrid used in the winning field was DeKalb DK679.

The local grower was one of 478 state winners named out of a total of 3,226 entrants in nine classes. The 478 winners produced an average yield of 204.2 b.p.a., which was 11.2 b.p.a. higher than the 193-bushel average for all contest entrants. The average yield of all winners was 70 b.p.a. more than the 1998 overall U.S. average corn yield of 134 b.p.a.

"Once again, our growers have proven the ability to produce truly amazing yields," said NCGA President Roger Pine, a corn grower from Lawrence, Kan. "Farming is an occupation that really demands a lot of skill and timeliness of operation, and the people who have obtained these yields certainly demonstrate those characteristics." Pine noted that growers were faced with a wet spring, resulting in a late planting in many areas, while those in the South were confronted by severe summer drought.

The top national yields ranged from 244 b.p.a. in the AA Ridge-Till Non-Irrigated Class to 337 b.p.a. in the AA Non-Irrigated Class. Average yields, by class, ranged from 160 b.p.a. in the A Ridge-Till Non Irrigated Class to 210 b.p.a. in the Irrigated Class.

The goal of the National Corn Yield Contest is to provide farmers with information that can help improve their methods of production to increase profitability, while addressing environmental concerns. Contest participants also improve their operations by getting a unique opportunity to compare their own proven corn production capabilities with other farms in their state and across the country.

Farmers are encouraged through the contest to develop new, efficient production techniques. Fertilizer is one example of the improved efficiency being reflected in the contest. The average commercial nitrogen use per bushel of yield was 0.96 lb. for all entrants and 1.01 lb. for winning entrants, significantly less usage than the agronomic requirement of 1.1 to 1.2 lb. per bushel.

Other agronomic data gleaned from the 1998 contest include:

- Contest entrants planted 347 different hybrids; the 478 winners planted 137 hybrids.
- 49 percent of entrants planted their contest field after soybeans, 20.5 percent after corn.
- 67 percent of entrants ran a soil test on their entry field before planting, up from 54 percent in the 1997 contest.
- Average planted population per acre was 30,018 for all entrants and 39,149 for winners - both of which were up over 1997 contest populations.
- Average harvest population was 28,235 for all entrants and 28,756 for winners.

Contest winners were recognized Feb. 19 at the 1999 Commodity Classic, the combined convention and trade show of NCGA and the American Soybean Association (ASA) held in Albuquerque, N.M.

Davie Farmer Earns Award

Russell Angell, a Davie County farmer, was presented with the N.C. Small Grain Growers Association Distinguished Service Award by newly elected President Johnny Barnes at a recently held joint conference of corn, soybeans, and small grains in Raleigh.

Angell

Angell has been active in the NCSGGA for the past decade and has served in numerous offices, in addition to being elected as vice president for 1999. Angell also represents North Carolina on the National Association of Wheat Growers Board of Directors.

Angell was selected to participate in the American Cyanamid's Ambassador Program. He will be traveling to Princeton, N.J. during March for training to improve his skills in the areas of communication and lobbying. After completing the program, Angell will travel to Capital Hill where he and other members from North Carolina will meet with senators and representatives to discuss issues affecting small grain growers all over the state.

Bluegrass Competition To Be Held In Davie Easter Weekend

Dozens of the best bluegrass musicians in the area are expected to be on hand for the first annual Central Carolina Bluegrass Competition to be held Easter weekend under the Mega Tent on N.C. 801 at I-40.

Among those planning to show off their talents under the 8,500 square foot Mega Tent are Glen Alexander, overall winner at the Galax fiddler's convention, and Opie Poindexter, who finished in the top 10 in the mandolin competition in Galax, according to event coordinator Don Griffis.

The event will begin at 6 p.m. Friday, April 2, with bluegrass bands and guitars as the first two categories.

The competition will open again Saturday, April 3, at 10:30 a.m. and will feature bluegrass fiddle, mandolin, banjo and dobro. Final judging will be completed by 9 p.m.

Winners will be awarded more than $5,000 in prize money across all six categories. The winning band will receive an additional $250 and be invited to entertain until midnight to complete the event.

Special awards will include the People's Choice Award, Best New Original Bluegrass Song and Best All-Around Individual Performer.

The deadline for registration is March 30. The fees are $25 for an individual, $40 for a band and $55 for both.

Registered competitors receive free parking, free camping and several paid weekend passes.

Judges for the competition include Chris Bryant of Ronda, a well-known banjo player who has recorded with Arthur Smith and performed with Bluegrass Anonymous for seven years; Fred Dowell, who has been auditioning groups and players and judging on the bluegrass circuit in the southeast for nearly 30 years; and Arnie Solomon, who has finished in the top 10 in the mandolin division in Galax, Va. more than any other player in event history and has made several recordings.

The land adjoining the Mega Tent site across Fred Bahnson Road will be open for camping for $15 on a first come, first served basis, he said.

Tickets are on sale now at all Hauser Rental locations or may be purchased locally from members of Farmington and Smith Grove Volunteer Fire Departments.

A guaranteed donation of $1,500 is being made by event coordinators to the Farmington and Smith Grove fire departments. Members of these departments will be on hand to help with parking and assist the crowd. Each department will also earn a portion of proceeds for the tickets sold by firemen.

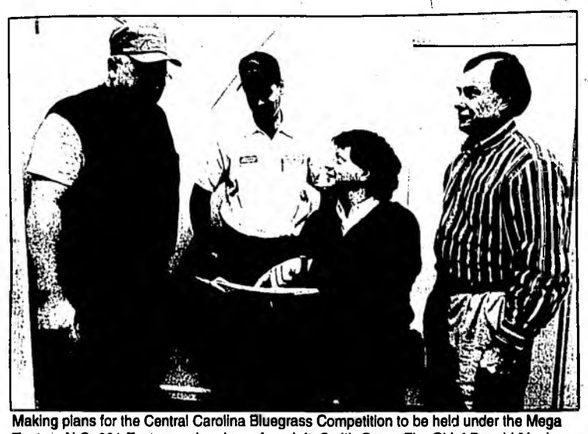

The cost is $15 for advance weekend passes for adults. Children under 12 will be admitted for $3 at the door. Advance daily tickets are $7 for Friday and $10 for Saturday..

For children at the event an Easter egg hunt will be held at 10:30 a.m. Saturday with the Easter Bunny expected to make a visit, Griffis said.

A non-denominational worship service open to the public will begin at 9:30 a.m. April 4.

Farmington Fire Department will be giving away a 1964 Chevrolet American LaFrance fire truck at the event April 2. Two hundred tickets will be sold for $20 each. Tickets may be purchased from fire fighters or at Farmington Exxon, according to Farmington Fire Chief Todd Naylor.

For more information, call 336-798-3712 or toll free 1-888-309-4646.

No More Extension Cords: Fire Marshal Making More Inspections

By Jeanne Gaither
Davie County Enterprise Record

Making the changes required to meet state fire codes may seem like an inconvenience to local business owners, but Davie County fire marshal George Frye believes an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

Businesses throughout the county have been getting rid of extension cords and purchasing new fire extinguishers since Davie County began performing state mandated fire inspections several months ago.

The state fire prevention code has called for fire inspections of all buildings, with the exception of single and double family dwellings and some types of farm buildings, since 1991 around the time of a fire at a chicken processing plant in Hamlet that claimed 25 lives, Frye said.

Davie County has more than 400 structures that must be inspected.

Busy performing inspections required by state law prior to 1991 at such facilities as schools, day care centers and rest homes, Frye said he didn't have time to implement the new code until county commissioners voted last fall to allow him to hire a part-time deputy fire marshal/fire inspector.

If he finds any problems during an inspection, deputy fire marshal Tony Collins said he issues a letter to the owner, listing violations and providing about three weeks to remedy the problems. For more severe violations, owners may be given up to 90 days to make changes. If the changes are not made, the fire marshal can pursue the matter in court.

> "We're not here to be the bad guys. Our goal is the same as theirs - to have a safe place and keep their building from burning down."
> - Fire Inspector Tony Collins

"We try to be reasonable and flexible," he said.

Ninety percent of the violations he has found have been minor ones that could be corrected at little cost, Collins said.

Requirements vary depending on the type of facility, he said. For instance, more is expected in a hospital than in a small office.

Among the basics for an inspection are the proper type of fire extinguisher properly located and serviced annually. In all cases, he wants to make sure exit ways are clear and that extension cords are not being used improperly.

Extension cords are designed for temporary use only and not made to carry a lot of current. Extension cords used in a desk setup are probably there permanently. Another danger is using indoor cords outside where the weather can cause them to crack. Misuse of extension cords is a common mistake, said Frye.

"I have seen a lot of fires start from using extension cords," Collins said. The cords often become overloaded.

People have been receptive at most of the places he has visited, glad he could point out things that might create a danger, Collins said.

Suspected Marijuana Dealers Are Arrested

M. Shore

Three Mocksville residents were arrested after the Davie County Sheriff's Department discovered 12.5 ounces of marijuana in their residence March 3.

Officers had been conducting an investigation for about a week, suspecting the three of selling marijuana, Sheriff Allen Whitaker reported.

Monica Smith Shore, 24, of 378 Michaels Road, Mocksville, was arrested March 10, for possession with intent to sell or deliver marijuana, maintaining a dwelling for keeping a controlled substance, possession of cocaine and possession of drug paraphernalia.

Her husband James Monroe Shore, 19, was charged with possession with intent to sell or deliver marijuana, maintaining a dwelling for keeping a controlled substance and possession of drug paraphernalia.

Also arrested was Timothy Dameon Shore, 22, for possession with intent to sell or deliver marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia.

All three were placed in the Davie County Jail in lieu of a $7,500 secured bond. They are scheduled to face the charges at first-appearance hearings Davie District Court April 23.

A New Way Of Zoning

Mocksville's Proposed Ordinance Could Preserve Town's Character

Mocksville is rewriting its zoning ordinance.

For months, there have been countless meetings among town residents, mapping out the future of their town.

And soon, those ideas could become law.

On Tuesday night, members of the town planning board are expected to get a final draft of the new ordinance, based more on design than on use.

Key players in the process were consultants David Walters of the University of North Carolina at Charlotte and David Smith of DESIgn Consortium in Mocksville.

"The next 20-year period will be one of moderate to considerable growth for the town as the urbanized fringe of Winston-Salem advances westward.

"While this process of urbanization is likely to engender considerable individual prosperity and to support new facilities for the town, growth will also bring several problems, not least of which will be stresses brought about by the changes in lifestyle and land use as the town develops attributes of a larger suburban community.

"The qualities unique to Mocksville as a small town should not be lost amidst this expected wave of expansion.

"But while the patterns of life associated with our suburbs seem to meet many of our needs and expectations as individuals and families in the short term, when we multiply these individual tendencies by the large number of households that make up a whole community, the picture changes.

"We see problems of decaying older areas left behind in the wake of newer peripheral expansion; the surrounding countryside is being used up at a faster rate; air and water become more polluted; and, most importantly,

County Says 'No' To Resident Asking For 'Same' Consideration

By Jeanne Gaither
Davie County Enterprise Record

A request to rezone 13 acres in the Forsyth-Yadkin Watershed to allow higher density development was denied by Davie County commissioners Monday night.

Bert Bahnson asked them for the same consideration given the Kinderton development. Commissioners granted the 10/70 rule last year for 137 acres of that development, which adjoins his property.

The 10/70 rule allows 10 percent of the land in the watershed protected area to be developed up to 70 percent. The allocation for Kinderton leaves 586 acres available.

Bahnson presented a smaller version of the map submitted by Post Hillsdale Group when seeking the allocation for Kinderton as an extensive plan for development of his tract.

At an earlier meeting, he told commissioners his plans included some shops and office buildings. All he wanted, he said, was to be treated fairly in the property, he said, but he still has no definite plans for development.

Boys Beware: Bullhole's Closed To Trespassers

Confession may be good for the soul, but it's sometimes bad for the reputation. Such is the case with last week's column about my son's antics at the Bullhole on the South Yadkin River.

The Bullhole is cleaning up its act. People found there now may be hauled into court.

It's private property, and the owners are growing weary of the trash and vandalism and antics of uninvited visitors.

"They've gone wild down there, and it's got to stop," one of the owners said. "Nobody would stand for that on their own property."

The Bullhole has been posted since January with scores of no trespassing signs. Cables have been set up to block access. Owners Claude Horn and Roger Spillman have informed the Cooleemee police that they will prosecute people found there. A new law makes it illegal for off-road vehicles to be operated on another person's property without permission.

The Bullhole is part of the land surrounding the old Cooleemee hydroelectric dam on the South Yadkin. It has been popular for a century as a swimming and fishing hole and more recently for its muddy roads for four-wheelers.

It's the place boys go to see if their truck's four-wheel drive transmission really works.

It has been mentioned repeatedly as a ideal spot for a public park and recreation area. Lately, it has been more of a dumping ground. Off-road trucks have damaged water and sewer lines. One driver submerged his truck in the water, and some have used it as a free dumping ground.

Mud-loving teenage boys with four-wheel drive trucks might not want test the Bullhole mud any more. It's a good thing. Their trucks will last longer, they will save money, and their dads won't worry so much at night.

Cooleemee Police Chief Tim Wooten said he hasn't arrested anyone yet for trespassing. "Once they learn it's private property, they leave without any problem.

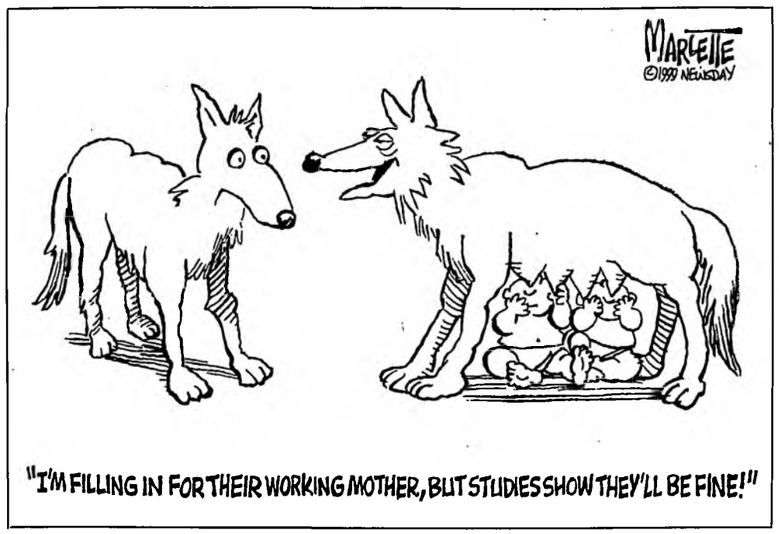

"It has been a favorite place for recreation for years here. You hate to close a place that everybody likes to go to, but recognize we've had some real problems down there and the owners could be responsible. They feel there's no alternative. And it has become a dump. That's the real pet peeve of mine. A little of everything has been dumped there."

The submerged truck polluted the waters , and the driver was charged with felony environmental contamination.

"We have prosecuted some people for illegal dumping," Wooten said. "The four-wheeling has created some extreme erosion. They have boldly gone where no man has gone before, and they have created ruts. There have been some cases where we have had to borrowed four-wheelers to go down and check them. If they had a medical emergency, we would pay dearly to get to them. We've had some drunken brawls down there, some fights, and we're going to do everything we can to prevent it."

What's the statute of limitation on trespassing?

High-Heeled Sneakers?

Even Shoe Fiend Doesn't Understand

Jeanne Gaither

Whether it's jewelry or chocolate, almost every woman has at least one crippling weakness.

For me that weakness is shoes. The stylish support they provide for my daily exercise ritual. The satisfaction of completing an outfit with the perfect pair of shoes. The comfort of slipping on my worn out, old Birkenstock sandals at the end of a hard day.

Shoes have always made me happy. Like an old friend, I recall the brown wing tips I wore until a large hole appeared in each sole. When I was in first grade I cried for a pair of Hushpuppies and adored those little shoes almost as much as the hiking boots I bought at the Army-Navy surplus store when I was a teenager.

I struggle to resist the smell of leather beckoning me into the store. A meager budget is the only thing keeping me from giving Imelda Marcos a run for her money.

Over the years styles have come and gone and come again. Platforms, spiked heels and clogs, I've worn them all. So did my friends. It's amazing how the latest fashion craze can blind us to the most hideous of images in the mirror. I even had a pair of white boots with tassels and spangles.

Obviously today's kids are just as blind as we were. Everywhere I go I see them attempting to walk normally in their high heeled and platform sneakers. At the risk of exposing my lack of fashion sense, I must admit that I always thought sneakers were supposed to be comfortable.

Quality Child Care Already Available In Davie

To the editor:

The Child Care Association was appalled by the news article that was written in the Enterprise on March 11 about child care facilities. We want to give Davie County parents the facts about the quality child care already available in our county. A common goal among all providers is to maintain quality care for Davie County children and their parents.

Each child care facility that is registered or licensed has to meet the minimum state requirements required by the state. There are many centers in this county that meet these requirements and more. We have 13 child care centers that have achieved an "A" license and one that has achieved "AA" license. The "AA" licensed center s funded by the government. This center is a developmental preschool. Furthermore, we have 18 registered child care providers that meet state requirements for small child care homes. All of these providers together can serve 870 children. Child Care "A" licensed centers right now have 168 slots open for children on first shift, 100 slots for second shift, and 55 slots for third shift. There is one center and two small homes that offer second shift child care as well as two small homes that offer overnight child care.

Each center and some homes have met more than the minimum requirements for the education of their workers. 91 percent of child care providers in our centers have or are working on their Child Care Credential classes. Many of them have associate and bachelor degrees and all have their CPR and first aid training. Child care providers throughout the county are receiving their training from Davidson Community College and North Carolina Cooperative Extension. Hopefully the new child care facility to be built on the Davie Campus will bring a variety of educational opportunities for the providers in Davie County as well as surrounding counties.

If you have any questions about child care providers in Davie County, you can join the Child Care Association meetings on the first Tuesday of each month, 7 p.m. at the County Office Building. You can also contact N.C. Cooperative Extension at 751-6297 or Davie County Partnership for Children at 751-5513 and ask for information on finding quality child care in Davie County.

High-Heeled Sneakers May Go Down In History

Weren't there already enough elevated styles on the market from which to choose – without adding heels and three inch soles to sneakers?

They're even making platform sneakers for children. I could hardly believe my eyes when my 5-year-old neighbor ran to show me her new shoes. Her mother whispered to let me know what I was expected to say. "You look much taller," I told my pint sized pal. Why not? She did.

Teenage girls look like they've added five or six inches in height as they try not to topple forward. There's enough sole wasted on each pair of those shoes for two or three more pairs.

Though I try to avoid the extreme, I too am the proud owner of some thick soled, chunky heeled shoes. They offer the slenderizing effect of old-fashioned high heels without the misery. Dressy enough to be worn with a casual dress, they're casual enough to wear with jeans. Those are good qualities to find in a single pair of shoes.

That's not the case with high heeled sneakers. This fashion craze will probably find their place on the pages of history somewhere near the jelly shoes, mesh muscle shirts, parachute pants and leg warmers worn over jeans.

Fire Code Implemented In Davie

"We're not here to be the bad guys," he said. "Our goal is the same as theirs – to have a safe place and keep their building from burning down."

"This is something the state requires," he said. "We're trying to help people maintain a safe environment."

An industry recently contacted the fire marshal's office to find out how to properly install a hydrogen peroxide tank outside. Contacting the fire marshal to make sure things are done properly in advance will save companies money in the long run, he said.

The purpose of the inspections is to keep people from losing their lives, jobs and businesses, he added.

It also impacts a community when a business burns because the company often chooses not to rebuild in the same location, taking away jobs and tax revenue, he said.

When performing an inspection, Collins makes a point of identifying situations that might pose a danger to fire fighters if the building caught fire.

The deaths of a lot of fire fighters in the United States could be prevented by eliminating those situations, he explained.

Most structures must be inspected every three years, but more hazardous uses require inspections annually or every two years, Frye said.

Owners are assessed a $20 fee for inspections of building 5,000 square feet and smaller.

For larger buildings, an additional $1 is charged per 1,000 square feet. If problems require more than one follow-up visit, a second bill will be sent. The state permits these fees to offset the expense of performing the inspections, he explained.

All businesses that have not been inspected can expect a visit from the fire marshal's office in the near future.

"If we haven't been there yet, we're coming," Frye said.

Mocksville Rewriting Zoning Laws To Preserve Character

our tax structures become stressed as the economic impact of uncontrolled sprawl type development places larger burdens upon tax dollars.

"Without changing the patterns of growth to smarter alternatives, property taxes and other fees will have to rise to keep pace with the economic burdens on the civic infrastructure.

"Pleasant places with special qualities that make Mocksville unique can be lost, and transformed, almost overnight, into the same old formula strip centers and cookie-cutter subdivisions that could be Anywhere, USA.

"The status quo approach has historically supported sprawl in North Carolina communities with tax-financed infrastructure, only to find that the public money that paid for roads and sewers has brought increased congestion to many towns, along with dirty air and water.

"And the same tax structures that previously attracted industries and home builders are now blamed across the state for overcrowded schools and declining standards of service, and the failure to provide adequate parks and community facilities.

"This paving of paradise hapens at an incremental rate that hides its overall causes and effects from the public.

"We recognize worsening traffic congestion, but we don't relate this symptom to the interwoven and complex pattern of transportation, land use and environmental issues, and we often assume that simply widening the roads will cure the problem.

"It won't.

"In 1994, the Bank of America issued a report on sprawl, the type of development it had been financing for years. Its conclusions were blunt. 'Unchecked sprawl has shifted from an engine of ... growth to a force that now threatens to inhibit growth and degrade the quality of life. We can no longer afford the luxury of urban sprawl."

Mocksville's Answer

"The planning process to deal with these changes has involved consultation between land owners, residents, and civic authorities, and focused on five objectives:"

- identify the town's particular social and physical attributes;
- establish a clear vision for the town's future;
- create patterns and types of development that will promote and conserve these attributes;
- create patterns of development that allow for fair utilization of individual property in the context of a properly managed tax base, public expenditures and environmental management; and
- produce clear design guidelines for development which will ensure the proper arrangement and scale of the streets and public spaces in the community; foster a safe and attractive pedestrian environment while meeting the reasonable expectations of automobile convenience; and conserve elements of the community's rural heritage and landscape.

"Those involved in drafting this plan are committed that the quality of life enjoyed by residents of Mocksville should be sustained and improved."

Principles Of Smart Growth

- The town environment must be diverse in use and population, scaled for the pedestrian and capable of accommodating the automobile and any future local transit.
- The town must have well defined public space and a landscape which reflects the history, ecology and culture of the community.
- While it expands around its edges, the town must conserve and enhance the attractive town center and surrounding older neighborhoods, with their fine heritage of old buildings and landscapes. For most people, these areas define the spirit and place that is Mocksville.
- The town must strike a reasonable balance between residential and business development, in terms of tax base and physical relationships between uses. Sometimes it will be appropriate to allow some uses to mix compatibly; at others it will be necessary to buffer them apart.
- The town must welcome development of good quality, but at the same time set community standards that will safeguard the environment against poor development and provide an equitable tax structure for future generations.

"In these ways, the plan seeks to manage for the greatest public good, the inevitable growth which comes when citizens exercise their rights to sell and develop their land.

"As the town develops, citizens, elected officials and town staff must ensure that it grows in ways that are smart. Smart growth and sustainable development should become the watchwords for the town's public policy."

Smith listed 10 objectives in the new land plan and zoning ordinance:

- to provide a pattern of development that is more economically and environmentally sustainable in its use of land and the inclusion of public transit options;
- to offer more development options and market choice than current practices;
- to promote diversity of population and lifestyle as the basis of real neighborhoods and communities;
- to provide better opportunities for elderly people to remain active members of the community through more compact settlements and transit options;
- to preserve open space and landscape amenity;
- to create discernible centers and edges to neighboods, providing a clean break between town and country to give physical clarity to the community;
- to include some offices and shops within neighborhoods to provide services and employemnt opportunities within convenient walking distance;
- to form a connected network of neighborhood streets, all with sidewalks, providing choice of routes and added convenience while avoiding congestion by dispersing traffic equitably. Streets accommodate on-street parking, thus slowing down traffic, and creating a safe environment for cyclists and pedestrians.
- to line streets by buildings, not by parking lots. Parking is provided on the street, between buildings and at the rear; and
- to locate small neighboood playgrounds and parks within walking distance of most homes. Schools should be located near a public park wherever possible.

Public meetings and information sessions will be held on this plan, and more information can be obtained by calling town hall at 751-2259 or Smith at 751-0107.

Honey, Mohair Crops Eligible For Loans

USDA has recently announced that the 1998 crop of honey and mohair that was produced between Oct. 1, 1997 and Sept. 30, 1998 are eligible to be placed under loan.

Honey loans must be requested by May 7. The loan matures in 9 months and must be repaid at principal plus interest. The honey must be stored in metal containers of at least 5 gallons and not more than 70 gallons. The loan rate is 56 cents per pound.

Mohair loans must be requested by Sept. 30 and must be stored in a warehouse. The loan matures in 12 months. This is an interest-free loan and only the borrowed principal is required to be repaid. Borrowers must own the mohair and must have beneficial interest in the mohair from the time it was shorn until the loan is repaid. Goats which produced the mohair must have been present in the United States for 180 days prior to shearing. The loan rate for mohair is $2 per pound.

Man's Request For Higher Density Development Denied By County

He said he would like the 13 acres rezoned so he can "scratch out a measly little living at the corner."

Commission chairman Richard Poindexter said he was opposed to granting Bahnson's request without a more concrete plan.

Bahnson said he thought what the board had approved before would also be good enough for him.

But Poindexter said the 10/70 rule was given to local governing boards as a means to enhance development and should be used for projects that are going to be built as drawn in the immediate future so that something is given back to the people of the county.

He also questioned whether or not Bahnson could move forward with development of the land without sewer availability.

With no plans for residential development of the site, Bahnson said he estimates needing about 1,000 gallons per day per acre in sewer capacity.

Bahnson's request to reserve 15,000 gallons per day in sewer capacity for the project was rejected by commissioners in February.

Commissioner Carl Boon told Bahnson he would vote against his request because he has been against the 10/70 rule since it was enacted in January 1998.

"Consistency is fairness," Bahnson said, thanking Boon.

Commissioner Joe Long said Bahnson's plan was adequate and made a motion to approve his request. The motion was seconded by Michael Allen.

Opposing the motion were Bobby Knight, Boon and Poindexter.

Julia Howard Fights For Farmers

Republican House members wanted to split the $4.6 Billion equally between tobacco interests and healthcare, dedicating $2.3 billion to each over the next 25 years.

House Democrats supported a bill to put $2.3 billion into a private foundation Howard said. A trust fund for farmers and tobacco workers would get just over $1.1 billion and a trust fund for healthcare would get the same amount over the next 25 years. The bill passed the House with a 61-58 vote.

"Tobacco farmers were only asking for half, they wanted the other half to go to healthcare," said Howard. "I think that's reasonable."

After failing to secure the votes to pass the foundation bill, House Speaker Jim Black sent the bill back to committee.

Republicans asked the committee to send half of the money to a trust for tobacco interests and half to a trust for healthcare, just as they did in the committee meeting the week before.

The committee, which is composed of 27 Democrats and 8 Republicans, made minor changes to the bill.

Hundreds of farmers filed through the legislature during the past two weeks protesting the bill, asking legislators for help.

Republican legislators were outraged to discover that the Master Settlement Agreement will provide $1.5 billion dollars to the Association of Attorneys General over the next 10 years. That is more money at a much faster rate than will go to North Carolina tobacco interests or to healthcare.

"Farmers just want to be treated fairly. They are losing their farms and tobacco workers are losing their jobs," said Howard. "The money should go to the people who need it, not to the Attorney General and not into a foundation that could spend the money on almost anything."

Arson Suspected In Barn Fire

The Davie County Sheriff's Department is investigating the suspected arson of a barn that burned March 16.

Unfinished Business: War Eagle Baseball Team Promises More Surprises

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

Termed too young and inexperienced to make an impact, Davie's varsity baseball team was considered an afterthought in the race for this year's Central Piedmont Conference title.

That was before Friday's pulsating 6-5 victory over Mt. Tabor, the four-time defending league champs who had beaten Davie five consecutive times since 1996.

"Everybody picked us to be at the bottom of the cellar, but we showed them what we've got," catcher Drew Ridenhour said. "We're a tough team, we don't give up and we beat a good team today.

"I've been wanting to beat those guys since 10th grade. It's good to get a W off of them, but we ain't done yet. We've got a lot ahead of us."

The War Eagles (5-2 overall, 1-0 CPC) stumbled out to an 0-2 start, testing their supporters' faith, but since then they've reeled off five successive wins, an astonishing rise that has Davie gushing with confidence as it accelerates through the first lap of conference play.

"I think a lot had to do with beating East Forsyth, North Davidson and Alexander Central," said first-year coach Mike Herndon, whose high-flying team also beat Alexander Central 6-3 and Statesville 11-4 last week. "Those are some good, quality baseball teams. Good things are happening and they're starting to believe: 'Hey, we can play with anybody.' These kids have never really had an opportunity to prove that, and now they are.

"That's the biggest thing, getting your kids believing that we're doing the right things. We're working harder than the other teams. Wins will take care of themselves when you're working hard."

Patti – who improved to 2-1 with his second complete game – mashed his third homer in the fourth, bounced in a run during a four-run fifth and clinched it in the bottom of the seventh by slapping a single to left.

> "Everybody picked us to be at the bottom of the cellar, but we showed them what we've got. We're a tough team, but we ain't done yet."
> - Drew Ridenhour

The senior lefty has a sparkling 1.72 ERA to go with his cool .393 batting average.

"Victor Patti ... I don't know what to say," said Ridenhour, who is hitting a staggering .455 after going 2 for 3 with a double and RBI. "He's it. He's got the power, he's got the pitching, he's got everything. He's just absolutely the man right now.

"He's the main part of this team right now. He's what is really guiding us. We're glad we've got him."

After Patti's opposite-field blast cut Tabor's lead to 2-1, Davie – getting a run-scoring double from Ridenhour and a long RBI single from Wesley Melton – roared ahead 5-2 on the strength of a four-run fifth.

But Tabor countered with two in the sixth and another in the seventh to forge a 5-5 tie. Ross Smith's incredible snag probably saved the day. With two on and the game tied in the top of the seventh, Tabor unleashed a frozen rope that seemed headed in the gap for possibly two runs. But Smith read the ball perfectly, erasing further damage.

"I'm going to tell you what, he's a good player," Herndon said of the savvy left fielder. "He's going to have opportunities. If he was stronger, he'd play everyday."

Then Smith promptly fueled Davie's seventh-inning charge. After No. 9 man Andrew Daywalt led off with a walk, Smith, batting for DH Neil Wagstaff, laid down a sacrifice bunt. Davie was in business when Tabor's shortstop, taking the throw on Smith's bunt, pulled off second prematurely, putting runners at first and second with nobody out.

"He's the type of kid that you need because if you need somebody to bunt, he can do it. If you need somebody to play good defense, he can do it," Herndon said of Smith. "I'm not saying he can't hit the ball. He can hit the ball."

Then Patti delivered the game-winner, another glorious moment in what has become a storybook senior season.

"It felt real good to beat them," said Patti, who was mobbed by fist-pumping teammates. "We've been wanting to beat them for so long, and we finally came through. Everybody kept

Reality Check

War Eagle Softball Team Has Fight For Playoff Spot

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

The Davie softball team's undefeated joyride smashed into a tree Friday, and now the pressure increases as the War Eagles reroute their pursuit for one of the two Central Piedmont Conference state playoff berths.

Hamm

"It's just going to make it tough in the conference now," said Coach Tammy Reavis, whose team flopped 5-1 at Mt. Tabor in the first CPC game and slipped to 4-1 overall. "We'll have to win from here on out. We can beat (defending champ) South Stokes but they can beat us, too. It could go either way.

"But we're not going to be able to lose to teams like West (Forsyth) and teams like that. I mean, we can't afford any losses in the conference now, especially since there's only two (playoff) spots."

The offensive collapse was almost unexplainable because most of these War Eagles peppered Mt. Tabor's pitcher last summer in Virginia in all-star competition. But the Spartans rocked Davie starter Jessica Whitley for five runs in the first two innings, rode their stifling pitching and beat the War Eagles for the first time since 1997.

"We had three hits the whole game. That was it," Reavis said. "Most of the girls had faced this pitcher before in the summer. (Father) Keith Handy was telling me that they played against her in Virginia and they hit her.

"Friday we just couldn't get the bats going. I don't know what it was. I mean, we played real good (in a 4-1 nonconference win earlier in the week) against Forbush. I tried everything I could, but I just couldn't get them going."

Shannon Handy relieved Whitley in the third and pitched five shutout innings, allowing one hit. "She pitched well," Reavis said.

Amber Hamm lifted Davie to the comfort zone against Forbush, blasting a three-run, inside-the-park homer in a memorable pinch-hit appearance that staked the War Eagles to a 4-0 lead in the top of the fifth. Davie went on to win 4-1.

"I put Hamm in to bat for (Kim) Hilton, and she hit it to dead center field over the girl's head," Reavis said. "She may could have caught it but Amber hit it good."

Hamm's crusher was hardly a surprise. She's gotten it done all year, giving Reavis all kinds of strategical options.

"She's hitting the ball well," Reavis said. "She hasn't hit as many times as the other kids, but she's probably got the highest batting average."

Handy continued her masterful stretch, throwing two-hit ball over seven innings and improving to 3-0. She's allowed one measly run – a Forbush homer in the sixth – in 18 innings.

"She's coming through for us," Reavis said of the sophomore.

The War Eagles host North Davidson March 24 in a nonconference game and Reynolds March 26 in the second CPC game. They play a nonconference game at North Iredell March 29.

Tiger Coach Optimistic About Baseball Campaign

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

If you look through the two home runs, through the four-run sixth that erased South Davie's fragile lead and through the excruciating pain of a 6-4 loss that put a damper on Todd Bumgarner's debut as the Tigers' coach last week, you could see a budding baseball team on the path to success.

"I think we did a good job," said Bumgarner, whose team rallied to tie in the top of the seventh only to lose it on a two-run homer in East Montgomery's final at-bat. "We looked pretty good. We executed and played pretty good baseball. We did a lot of fundamental stuff good.

"If we can continue to work as hard as we've worked in practice all year, I think we'll be a pretty competitive bunch."

That speaks volumes for a team that lost every starter from last year, when Grimes Parker's final team won seven of nine, barreled into the conference championship game and finished 9-4.

The new kids on the block rode McKenzie Willoughby's overpowering pitching to a 2-0 lead and, after East charged ahead 4-2, the Tigers manufactured two game-tying runs. Pinch-hitter Jordan

Business As Usual: Soccer Team Extends Streak

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

Other than Coach Pete Gustafson's rare absence, it was business as usual for Davie's varsity soccer team.

The War Eagles jumped out to a 2-0 first-half lead, played bend-but-don't-break defense and ran their nonconference winning streak to 11 matches with last week's 2-1 victory over Northwest Cabarrus. Davie destroyed Forbush 8-0 earlier in the week.

JV coach Sean Garnett filled in for an ailing Gustafson and, oddly enough, found an emergency coach on the other side as well.

"It was kind of interesting," said Garnett. "Their coach wasn't there, either. He had a wedding or something and their JV boys coach stepped in for them."

Garnett's nerves twitched wildly after learning that Gustafson couldn't go, but he took a deep breath and kept the War Eagles' nonconference domination intact. They haven't lost a match outside the Central Piedmont Conference since 1997.

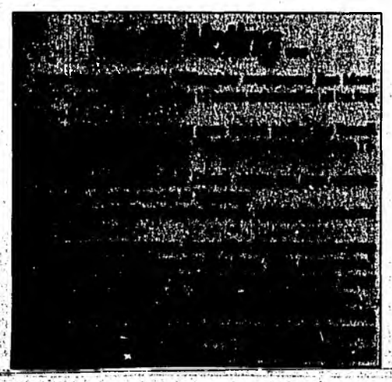

"It was kind of hard. I was nervous," he said. "I knew the players, but I wasn't real familiar with all of them and how they play together. But it was a good experience for me."

Caroline Steed became involved in both first-half goals, booting a corner kick for her first goal of the year and then setting up Kaitlin Callahan, who won a fiercely-contested ball and finished her first goal with flair.

"Steed put it in (play), it got knocked around in the box and Kaitlin kind of balanced it on her head for a few seconds," Garnett said. "And when it came down, she volleyed it in."

But Northwest pulled within 2-1 with 15 minutes left, partly because defensive blanket Elise Whitaker

In The Groove: Darkness Shadows Outstanding Golf Round

Then the lights went out.

The Davie junior took a sizzling 1-under-par 29 into the eighth hole at Hillcrest last week, when darkness intervened and spoiled Brooks' brightest day.

Swinging in the dark, Brooks bogeyed the par-3 eighth and ninth holes, slipping to 1-over 37.

"Shawn had a good round going and he had to finish in the dark," said Coach Doug Illing, whose team finished the nonconference match in second, 10 strokes behind West Forsyth. "Chipping and putting were what got him there. He was hitting the ball in the fairway. The greens, being so small, you have to be able to chip and putt out there at Hillcrest."

The Titans flourished on their home course, firing a 6-over 150 that devoured Davie (16-over), Mt. Tabor (30-over) and Reynolds (42-over).

"It was a tough course, small greens, and it was the first time we've played it in a while," Illing said. "That's West's home course, and it really showed because they had three guys shoot in the 30s (35, 37, 38). So that really set the difference."

With the exception of Brooks, Davie struggled. James Stewart, the team's top player in the pre-season, shot a 4-over 40, and everyone else bogeyed their way into the 40s.

"We played good but we didn't play our best," Illing said. "I think when we play our best golf, we can compete with West and be right there with them.

"James is going to shoot better than 40 most of the time, and Brooks is capable of doing that (playing par golf) quite often."

Davie Heat Falls To '98 State Championship Team

The Davie County Heat played in a heated basketball tournament last weekend, going against the Durham Panthers, the 1998 state championship team.

The Heat met the panthers for the first time in late February at the Furniture City Shootout All-Star Basketball Tournament, and lost that game. Although they lost to the Panthers again last weekend, coaches said the players weren't discouraged and played strong.

The Heat will play in the High Hoops Invitational tournament in Newland April 23-25.

For more information about the team or tournament, call Tirena Anderson at 751-1870.

South Davie Never Gives Up In Loss To W. Montgomery

Bryant triggered the surge with a lead-off single, then scored on a single by Willoughby, who reached third and tied the game on a passed ball.

"We scrapped back, played as hard as we could the whole game and never gave up," Bumgarner said. "Coming back from a 4-2 deficit in the seventh inning, we showed a lot of guts just to get back in the game."

Then, with one on and one out in the bottom of the seventh, one of East's big sticks caught up with Willoughby's fastball, smacking a game-winning homer and spoiling a dominating performance by Willoughby, who struck out 15 and walked just three in 6 1/3 innings.

"McKenzie did a great job," Bumgarner said. "He threw the ball around the plate all day and had a lot of velocity on the ball. I couldn't be more pleased with the way he pitched and the way he's worked on it all year. He's gotten better every day.

"It's always tough to lose, but I feel like we played hard."

Ben Allred and Daniel Hollifield -- who along with Willoughby are the only returners from last year – paced the offense with two hits each. South got one hit each from Willoughby, Sam Stovall and Bryant.

"Ben played a good game. He hit the ball real good," said Bumgarner, who praised Bryant for coming off the bench and delivering as a pinch hitter in the seventh. "Jordan got us going."

Notes

Bumgarner said Charles Kurfees has fit in perfectly as assistant coach, sharing knowledge and working diligently to make the Tigers better. "Charles has done a real good job," Bumgarner said. "He comes down here every day ready to work. I couldn't ask for any better out of somebody to give their time to help us. He's just been a real asset." . . . The remainder of the roster includes eighth graders Thomas Parsley, Brandon Shore, Chad Barker and Richard Pennington and seventh graders Andrew McClannon, Billy Riddle, Matthew Sparks, Kyle Anderson, Chris Beaver and Steven . . . . South hosts Mooresville March 25 in the first conference game, then travels to China Grove March 30.

DHS Soccer Team Wins Two More Nonconference Games

got injured (apparently jamming her toe) in the first half and partly because Davie botched several excellent scoring opportunities.

"Elise got hurt and that hurt us," Garnett said. "She went in hard on a tackle, and about five minutes later, she said she couldn't put very much pressure on her heel. She is probably the fastest and most aggressive defender on the team.

"We missed some easy chances that could have put them away, some one-on-ones. We just didn't finish, and they were coming down our throats pretty hard at the end."

Forbush posed so such threat, evaporating 8-0 under an avalanche of blistering scoring and suffocating midfield defense.

Meredith Hendrix burned the Falcons for three goals and Hannah Woodward added two.

"Both of them kind of came alive, but they were served some good balls," said Gustafson, who got two assists from Megan Mick and one each from Hendrix, Steed and Whitaker. "You know, you've got to give credit to the servers, too. That is as important as the shot."

Haley Queen, Emily Harpe and Carly Peeler joined the scoring party, helping Davie amass the most points since last year's 8-0 rout over North Davidson, covering a span of 20 matches.

"We just delivered a strong offensive punch," Gustafson said. "That was nice to see. We certainly didn't expect it. Forbush was 14-5 last year. They were pretty strong."

But Gustafson attributed the unexpected rout to an overwhelming performance by midfielders Queen, Harpe, Callahan, Mick, Sarah Jackson, Steed and Anna Riddle.

"Midfield was very explosive, sending long balls and through balls and cutting right through their defense," he said. "So I put most of the credit toward the midfield for starting the offensive attack. They set the tone, no doubt about it."

War Eagle Baseball Team Opening Some

The Formula Isn't Perfect, But JV Soccer Team Getting Warmer

Davie JV soccer coach Sean Garnett may not have found exactly what he was looking for in Davie's season-opening win over North Iredell.

But as the temperatures climb with the season, the War Eagles appear to be getting warmer as well.

They found their rhythm in the second half against Forbush last week and effectively knocked out the Falcons with harmonic ball movement that produced a barrage of shots, including Echo Calcaterra's first goal of the year and Kaylyn Smith's second goal of the match that turned a 1-1 halftime standoff into a 3-1 victory.

"The second half we looked great," said Garnett, whose girls improved to 2-0 in nonconference. "If we can do like that all year, we'll be able to compete. We're switching the ball, hitting through balls and taking shots.

"I mean, in the second half I think we had about 20 shots and outshot them 23-6."

In the second half, Calcaterra punched in a loose ball for a 2-1 lead, and Smith added insurance on a penalty kick.

Forbush caught Davie on its heels in the first half, jumping out to a 1-0 lead 15 minutes into play.

"We kind of came out slack against them," Garnett said. "The marking backs and defense weren't good, and this one fairly good player beat a couple of our defenders and put it passed our goalie."

But Smith answered moments later with a game-tying rocket. "The keeper just couldn't stop it," Garnett said. "It was a hard shot."

Davie JV Softball Off To Good Start

Layne Grout struck out 12 in seven shutout innings and Brandi Cornatzer went 5 for 5, highlighting a 17-2 romp over Forbush, and Amanda Sink and Stacey Handy combined for eight strikeouts as Davie's JV softball team improved to 2-0 with a 10-2 victory over Mt. Tabor last week.

Handy threw three shutout innings in relief against Mt. Tabor.

"They played good both games," Coach Bill Meadows said. "They only had one error in each game. That's solid defense."

The strong pitching helped Davie overcome its subpar hitting against Tabor. Grout, Jesse Jordan, Randi Moore and Christen McClamrock were responsible for Davie's four hits.

"They weren't hitting so we started bunting a lot, stealing bases and moving that way," Meadows said. "That's the way we scored most of our runs.

"They couldn't hit that offspeed pitching, but you do what you've got to do."

Led by Cornatzer's five hits, Davie battered Forbush for 15 hits, getting three from Handy and two each from Grout and Moore.

South Davie Volleyball Team Stunned

Becky Miller enjoyed her finest coaching hour when South Davie stunned mighty West Montgomery three weeks ago, stopping years of frustration against a volleyball giant.

Unfortunately for the Tigers, West Montgomery remembered, wearing a businesslike posture and whipping unsuspecting South 6-15, 15-8 and 15-5 in last week's rematch.

"Maybe we were just a little too sure of ourselves," said Miller, who expected better results playing at Davie High. "I know I thought we were going to go down and play at the high school and it was going to be an easy win."

After rolling 15-6 in game one, Miller's second string couldn't buy a serve, losing 8-15 and putting must-win pressure on the regulars, who were uncharacteristically shaky with everything on the line. West buried them by 10 points, knocking South out of the league championship hunt.

South won three of the next four matches, finishing 8-3.

"It put a lot of pressure on the first group," Miller said of the game-two loss. "Usually they have no problem getting momentum back. But after a couple missed serves, they seemed to get real discouraged. Everyone except for Kimberley Misenheimer was missing serves. Kimberley served four of the five points we had."

In the second match of the day, Jennifer Head lifted South's spirits with eight straight points that sparked a 15-3, 15-6 rout.

"They bounced back after what had to be a really disappointing loss that put us out of first," Miller said.

The Tigers achieved some payback of their own later in the week. After Thomasville shocked South 15-0, 15-9 in a makeup match, Miller showed Thomasville no mercy, leaving her starters on the floor and reveling in the Tigers' 15-2, 15-0 execution.

"I decided we weren't going to mess around," Miller said. "We really wanted this after the way we gave the game away (earlier in the week)."

"Lagle stepped in at setter and played a great game, both at the serve and at the net," Miller said. "Dwiggins served nine straight to finish the game.

"Our passing was excellent. We just weren't going to allow them to score."

Miller got a glimpse of the future in a season-ending 15-13, 8-15, 15-4 victory over Lexington. Seventh graders Shari Melton, Heather Phillips, Alisha Burton, Misenheimer, Lagle, Kelly Haulbrook, Leila Hicks and Lindsay McDaniel received extended playing time and "played some of the best volleyball that I've seen them play all year," Miller said.

"Melton had a kill; Phillips, Burton and Misenheimer all passed really well; Lagle and Haulbrook did a great job at the net; and Lagle and Hicks both played their best game of the season.

"McDaniel also had her best game. She ran the backcourt for us and served really well. And her passing was excellent."

Girls Basketball Camp Planned

A girls basketball camp for rising fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth graders is scheduled for June 7-11 from 8 a.m.-1 p.m. at Davie High School.

The camp will be conducted by girls basketball coaches at Davie High and North and South Davie middle schools.

The cost is $50, which includes a T-shirt and insurance. Rising seventh and eighth graders must present proof of a physical exam within the last 12 months.

Registration forms are available at Davie High, both middle schools, elementary schools and the Mocksville-Davie Parks and Recreation Department at the Brock Gym.

Signups Under Way

The Mocksville-Davie Parks and Recreation Department is accepting registration for softball leagues.

There will be four leagues: men's and women's open and men's and women's church. The deadline to register is March 31. Call the rec at 751-2325 to sign up.

Davie High Baseball Team Beats Mt. Tabor First Time In Six Tries

Notes: Patti displayed pinpoint control, throwing 68 strikes and 42 balls in his third start. "He's a good pitcher and we all believe when he's out there – or Drew or Jeremiah Creason – we've about as good a chance as anybody," Herndon said. . . . . Davie's staff has flourished. Creason, who picked up a save against Alexander Central and got the win against Statesville, has a 2.15 ERA in 13 innings and Ridenhour has a 2.93 ERA in 14 1/3 innings. "People say we lost a lot of pitching, but our pitching has been solid this year," Ridenhour said. "We're just now starting to hit the ball. We've got to get behind them better." . . . . Thad Johnson picked the perfect time to get his first hit, singling to set the four-run fifth in motion. "He's hit some balls hard," Herndon said. "He gets frustrated and I said: 'Keep swinging the bat and they're going to fall.' If you're hitting it hard, that's fine. We're worried about producing runs, not batting averages or anything like that. They will eventually fall." . . . . In Saturday's 11-4 win over Statesville, Creason allowed four runs (three earned) in six innings, walking one, and Zeke Earle led the attack, going 2 for 4 with a two-run double and a two-run homer. Ridenhour went 3 for 4 and Matt Young and Daywalt both went 2 for 3. . . . Davie's next three games are on the road, at North Davidson March 25, at Reynolds March 26 and at Alexander Central March 29.

Emotional Uplift

JV Baseball Team Wins Three Straight After Slow Start

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

Davie's JV baseball team applied balm for its bruised pride last week, winning three straight and lifting itself from the emotional abyss into which it tumbled after starting a disappointing 0-2.

"I feel a little bit better," said Coach Lee Linville, whose team pulled out a 3-2 win over Alexander Central, staved off Mt. Tabor 7-6 and buried hapless Statesville 18-0. "This week I felt we put a lot more effort into it."

Dave Poplin triggered the resurgence, tossing four effective innings against Alexander Central. The freshman right-hander allowed just two hits and one run (none earned), and Chris Seaford's two-run single in the sixth proved to be the difference.

"Poplin pitched a great game," Linville said. "He's going to struggle with control (four walks) until we get his mechanics straightened out, but he pitched a strong four innings."

Seaford accounted for all three RBIs, then followed that up with three hits and two RBIs in the Tabor win, raising his average to .400.

Customer Servlce Is First Priority At George's Village Garage

"We recently had three different customers come in with concerns about their cars," says York, Assistant Manager at George's. "They had been misled at other garages."

"We try to assure them that we are honest," says York. "Then we take them step by step through what repairs are needed, to get their vehicle up to operating standards."

David York, whose background includes training at General Motors in customer service, even has charts in his office. He makes every effort to explain to customers in simple terms the repairs their car may need.

"I sometimes show customers the chart of a suspension or brake system, if the terms are unfamiliar to them," he says. "They can come to me with even small questions. I always tell them that there is no such thing as a silly question, when it comes to understanding your car."

George's Village Garage has long enjoyed the reputation in the Triad area as a place where the customer receives truthful evaluation of a car's needs. Owned and operated by father and son George and Kevin Pries of Clemmons, the shop has grown from a small garage begun eight years ago, to the current seven-bay location on Old Glory Road, just off Lewisville-Clemmons Road in Clemmons.

"We work on every kind of car," says York, "from domestic to foreign, and even restorations of old custom cars. We are an all-around garage."

George's mechanics are skilled in the latest car repairs on Chryslers, Fords, General Motors, Toyotas, Nissans, Mazdas, Porsches, and many other makes. They have even worked on the rare de Loreans. George's mechanics spend hours each year in training and seminars to be curr nt on the latest changes in car performance.

"We have the most up-to-date computer diagnostic equipment, to reveal major and minor problems," says York. "This enables us to pinpoint more accurately what is wrong with their vehicle, and what it may cost to fix it."

York points out that the average new car has more computers than the 1968 space module that went to the moon.

"The average 1998 car has approximately seven computers in its operating equipment," he says. "The lunar module only had three."

With computers now gulding a car's transmission, air conditioning, lighting and electronics, it is even more important to trust your car to the mechanics who have the experience and expertise to fix it.

"Our computer diagnostics eliminate the guesswork on price when we are determining what needs to be done," says York. "George's has all the different hook-ups for the different makes."

George's Village Garage on Old Glory Road in Clemmons

When your car needs new tires, George's has them. Popular brands such as Bridgestone, Firestone, Dunlop, Michelin, Lee and Hankook are all in stock at George's.

Customers love the personal attention they receive at George's. David York always reassures his customers that they will be consulted every step of the way.

"We try to keep in constant touch with the customer, from initial write-up to the estimate," he says. "If there is a problem with another part of the car, we will call before initiating repair."

Davie Tracksters Finish Off Competition In Second Meet

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

The War Eagles scored 79 points and remained unbeaten in a three-team meet with South Stokes (63) and South Rowan (42), but Coach Devore Holman cancelled the celebration, contending that Davie will discover its actual expertise Thursday in Clemmons against Central Piedmont Conference horses West Forsyth and Mt. Tabor.

Davie's girls also triumphed in their second meet, compiling 79 points to South Stokes' 56 and South Rowan's 46.

"We looked pretty good in spots, but we've got a lot of getting better to do," Holman said. "I'll just be honest with you, it's going to take a total team effort. Our one guys to our two and three guys have got to continue to improve. That's just the bottom line.

"It was tight. South Stokes really thought they had a chance to beat us."

Holman sensed trouble ahead when Davie got denied in the shot put and 800 relay. Although those shortcomings hardly mattered last week, Davie must find some answers before facing the CPC's elite.

"We got shut out in the shot put," he said. "We didn't score a point. We also got shut out in the 800. I didn't think we'd get shut out there, but I've got people in different places and we've got people stretched in four events. So I'm going to be good somewhere and I'm going to be bad somewhere. You've just got to pick where you want to be at."

Nick Propst has been nothing short of magnificent, sweeping the long jump, triple jump and high jump. He's rapidly evolved into Davie's foremost contributor.

J.J. Rice hurls the shot put for the War Eagles.

"He's unbelievable," Holman said. "What can you say? He's getting it done. We've just got to be careful with him, doing three jumping events every time, so we don't get him injured."

Davie's other winners included Kenny Collins in the 110 hurdles and 300 hurdles; Greg Lanier in the 1600 and 3200; Propst, Kenny White, Scottie Crump and Collins in the 400 relay; Marshall Pitts in the 800; White in the discus; and Truman Kiser in the pole vault.

Holman considered Crump the unsung hero, a determined runner who surged to runner-up in the 100 race.

"I'm going to tell you about somebody else I was surprised in. That was Scottie Crump," Holman said. "Scottie ran the 100 and finished second, but he ran an 11.10 and the winner from South Rowan ran a 10.89. Crump is just getting better.

"He came to me and said: 'Coach, those sprints at practice are getting me in shape.' He's going to be alright."

Winners included Lauren Poplin, Laurie Desch, Jerrine Peeler and Janel Darey in the 3200 relay; Samantha Murillo in the 100, 400 and 200; Darcy in the 1600 and 3200; Poplin in the 800; and Tiffany Vaughters, Cindy James, Rita Dulin and Kenya Faulkner in the 400 relay.

"We've got some talented athletes," Coach Suzanne Black said. "I was just really proud of Poplin. She dropped her times down a lot in the 800 and the mile. She raced hard and pushed herself. Vaughters just always gives everything she's got, and she reeled us to a win in the 400 relay."

Murillo, who's breezed past inferior competition in two meets, may find some resistance this week.

"She won the 100, 200 and 400 commandingly," Black said. "I think after next week we'll have a much better idea of what she's got because we get to run against Mt. Tabor and West Forsyth."

Like Holman's crew, the girls will seek their true water level this week.

"We've got a lot of work to do," Black said. "Mt. Tabor and West Forsyth are going to be pretty strong in reviewing what they ran (last Thursday)."

Notes: Holman said Eric Babbitt has been a great addition to the staff. "He's doing a fine job," he said. "We love having somebody like that around." . . . Davie's girls are bent on getting better, showing up regularly on Saturday mornings for volunteer workouts. "These are great girls," Black said. "Most of them come out Saturday mornings at 8:30 and practice for an hour and a half. They are willing to work hard."

Davie Spanks S. Rowan; Sinks To Mt. Tabor 9-0

Davie's boys tennis team experienced the sport's good and bad last week, spanking South Rowan 9-0 before bowing to Mt. Tabor 9-0.

In the shutout win, Davie's singles winners were Matt Tuck 10-3, Austin Powell 10-4, Stephen Chambers 10-5, Tony Morehead 10-2, Alex Evans 10-5 and Jimmy Materdo 10-6.

Tabor stomped Davie by monstrous proportions, winning eight of nine matches 10-0. Jordan Howell and Thomasz Dudkiewicz scored Davie's only point, losing 9-1 at No. 3 doubles.

The War Eagles (1-2 overall, 1-1 Central Piedmont Conference) host South Stokes March 24 and West Forsyth March 29, then play at South Rowan March 31.

Tournament Scheduled

The tournament is double-elimination and the cost is $120 per team. The winner will receive a trophy, MVP award and individual plaques. A trophy will also go to runner-up.

Season Sizzling For High Scoring Tigers

Coach Jim Henderson's Tigers buried Lexington 4-0, tied Southwest Randolph 3-3 and then regrouped to light up Southwest 7-3.

Patrick Little has been on fire, leading the way with five goals. Micah Garner has scored three, followed by Edward Johnson and Zach Hanrahan with two each. Corey Wood and Adrian Pacheco scored their first goals in the win over Southwest.

South's next match is at home on April 1 against K-YMCA at 4:30 p.m.

Melanie Linville's girls opened the season with a 2-0 loss to Calvary Day. Their next match is March 26 at St. Leo's.

JVs Turn Around Slow Start To Baseball Season

"Chris is putting the bat on the ball and getting it in play," Linville said. "I've been preaching to these boys if we put the bat on the ball and make the routine plays, we're going to win games."

Travis Allen, the third pitcher after Ricky Bentley relieved Poplin, struck out the side in the seventh, preserving the much-needed win over Central. He also stroked two hits.

"He got behind the nine hitter 3-1, came back with two straight fastballs and blew them by him," Linville said of Allen, who has carved a flashy 0.60 ERA in 11 2/3 innings. "He just blew away the next two guys. And he had two big hits.

"Getting over the hump against Alexander Central was a big boost. Traditionally, they're a pretty good ball club, and we went up there and led the whole way."

The War Eagles, who opened with consecutive losses to East Forsyth and North Davidson, evidently are living right now. Clinging to a 7-4 lead in the bottom of the seventh at Tabor, the Spartans loaded the bases with two outs against reliever Seaford and then lined an extra-base hit down the left-field line.

But the ball bounded out of play, resulting in a ground-rule double that prevented Tabor from tying the score. Seaford fanned the next man to seal the 7-6 win.

"They had to stop at second and third, which was a break. It saved it," Linville said. "So that was a lucky break for us."

Backing Seaford's 3-for-4 day, Jeffery Jones went 2 for 2 with a double from the No. 8 hole, pushing his team-leading average to a robust .600 (6-10). "When he puts the bat on the ball, he hits it hard," Linville said.

Notes:

Seth Correll (4-10, .400), Jacob Garner (4-11, .364) and Josh Golding (2-6, .333) rank among Davie's leading hitters. . . . Freshman Cody Wright, who shut down Statesville, has a superb 0.91 ERA in 7 2/3 innings. . . . Davie's next three games are at home, March 25 against North Davidson, March 26 against Reynolds and March 29 against Alexander Central.

Fries Foils N. Davie In First Round

J.N. Fries bucked North Davie every time the Wildcats tried to climb back into the game in a 35-26 loss.

"We got within three (in the third quarter)," said Jamie Lyerly, North's seventh-grade girls basketball coach. "And it was like every time we'd get close within three or five points, they would start scoring again."

The Knights, the No. 4 seed, seized control early, roaring out to a 7-2 lead, countering all of fifth-seeded North's moves and snapping the Wildcats' three-game winning streak in the first round of last week's Piedmont Middle School Conference Tournament at South Davie. Fries rallied in the second half for a 44-30 win in the first meeting in February.

"Yeah, I thought we could beat them this time," Lyerly said. "But they still had a real high shooting percentage. We should have beaten them, but they outhustled us part of the game and got a lot of fast breaks for easy layups.

"And some of my big girls (Alison McNeil, Jenny Ferrell and Kierston Kahrs) got in foul trouble early."

Ferrell managed eight team-high points despite four fouls, followed by Kelli Lawhon with seven, Kahrs with five, Laura Riddle with four and McNeil with two.

Although the Wildcats exited early, they finished 7-5 and produced Lyerly's fourth winning season in as many years.

"They had a good year," said Lyerly, who owns an outstanding 31-17 record since 1996, including a tournament title in 1997. "We got fifth place. They did pretty good overall."

South Davie Girls Fall To No. 3 Warriors In Tourney

Not even a refined game plan, an inspired effort and a have-fun attitude could slow down Northwest Cabarrus and its phenomenal point guard.

"They're a good ball club," said South Davie seventh-grade girls basketball coach Tim Kenney, whose sixth-seeded Tigers lost to No. 3 Northwest for the second time in three weeks, 43-27 in the first round of last week's Piedmont Middle School Conference Tournament at South. "They are extremely quick, they have good ball handlers and they have one guard that probably could have played for my eighth-grade boys."

Kenney said the Warriors' leader stands alone, an explosive scorer who slices through helpless defenses as easily as a sharp scythe through ripe wheat.

"She is a tough ball handler," he said. "She could make a three-quarter court baseball pass on a frozen rope, and she could shoot from the outside. I'd like to have her here at South."

After the point guard torched South for 21 points to lead a 44-17 rout late in the regular season, Kenney devised a different defensive game plan, which held the big scorer to 12 points. But the Warriors trumped Kenney's strategy by capitalizing on their considerable depth, offsetting a spirited South performance.

"They had three girls that could shoot the 3," said Kenney, whose team dropped its last three games to finish 6-5. "Some other girls stepped up and hit some big shots along the way.

"But the girls played extremely well and were having fun again. Even though we did lose, the girls were really upbeat and I think they were happy with the way we played."

Umpire Meeting Planned

Joe Boyette, the Mocksville-Davie Parks and Recreation Department's athletic director, said umpires – including USSSA softball umpires – should make it a point to attend.

For more information, contact Boyette between 8 a.m.-5 p.m. at 751-2325.

Brindle Wins Contest

It's A Pet Show

Davie Humane Society Shows Off The Benefits Of Furry Friends

Children attending the pet fair sponsored by the Davie County Humane Society Saturday at the Farmington Community Center, they had plenty of live animals to see and play with.

There were plenty of dogs, trained dogs, people's pets and homeless dogs, hoping that someone would take them home. There were pigeons on display,

Posters lined the walls which were colored by Davie County school children, and there were special clinics for pets by veterinarian Dr. Robin Brock.

Even Harley Davidson riders like to cuddle with pets. Several Harleys were on display, getting ready for a ride through Davie County this summer to raise money for the Humane Society. It is scheduled for July 24.

Members of the Winston-Salem Dog Training Club set up a display outside at the center which attracted quite a bit of attention. They were showing off agility dogs.

Dog agility is a sport in which a dog runs through a timed obstacle course as commanded by the handler. According to Carolina Hanson, agility training strengthens the bond between the dog and handler, and provides fun and exercise for both.

The agility course consists of a variety of jumps, tunnels, obstacles, weave poles and a pause table, where the dog must land and assume a down position for at least five seconds.

The pet show had been rescheduled from late February because of inclement weather.

We had many visitors at the Methodist church Sunday for "Bring a Friend" day. We are hoping for even more visitors next Sunday as we bring our friends. A lovely arrangement of cut flowers was on the altar in honor of our visitors.

Mavis Rogers, Edith Zimmerman, and Betty B. Potts enjoyed a visit to "Frostland," the ancestral Etchison home in Cana, on Friday morning. The lovely old homestead now belongs to Betty Etchison West and her husband, Roland West. As we were driving along the Cana Road it was such a delight to see the rolling hills and pastureland with many cattle and horses. To be able to get away from buildings and construction was a very relaxing sight.

Dorothy Carter, her sisters Nannie Lou Sparks, Belinda Potts, sister-in-law Ailene Potts, and Nanny Lou's friend Wanda Lyons from Sparta, spent the weekend in Atlanta. They drove down to see the "Atlanta Pageant," an Easter presentation given by the First Baptist Church, Pastor Charles Stanley's church. The pageant was at the Civic Center. During the weekend the ladies enjoyed going to Underground Atlanta, the "Marta." Nannie Lou Sparks' daughter, Debbie Crotts, had been in Atlanta earlier attending a dental convention and rode back home with the ladies.

Our community extends deepest sympathy to the family of Lucille Ellis. She died Friday after an extended illness.

Edith Zimmerman, Bess Bennett and Cynthia Bennett Summers attended a bridal shower for their niece and cousin, Kelly Collette, in Winston-Salem Sunday afternoon. Kelly is bride-elect of Will McPherson and will be married May 1.

Alex Stockton has moved to his new home on Hwy. 801 South, in the Elbaville community.

Elmer Zimmerman of Fork, formerly of this community, has been transferred from Davis Hospital, Statesville, to the Brian Center Nursing Home in Statesville.

Sunday luncheon guests of Naylor and Stella Vogler were their children and granddaughter, Suzie and Joel Kimball and daughter, Emily, of Clemmons, Becky Vogler of this community, and Donna Johnson.

We were happy to see Bill Ward back at church Sunday after weeks of absence due to illness.

Frye-Robbins Engagement Announced

Calvin and Malinda Frye announce the engagement of their daughter, Norma Frye, 28, of Mocksville, to Jon Bradley Robbins, 28, of Wilkesboro, the son of Leroy Robbins of Elkin and Phyllis Robbins of Wilkesboro.

Prince, Princess Crowned At Northwest Child Development

Children, parents and friends of Northwest Child Development crowned a Silver Prince and Princess in a fund-raising effort. The program was held in Winston-Salem.

Northwest manages 14 child development centers, including two in Mocksville, for children age 6 weeks to 4 years. A contestant was selected from each center on the basis of money raised. The children sang songs and recited nursery rhymes.

Proceeds went to the Woodruff-Hills Legacy 2000 scholarship program.

An original pastel print by Leo Rucker titled "Children First" was commissioned for the event. Call Northwest at 721-1215 if interested in purchasing a print.

Contestants included: from Mocksville, Anitra McClelland and Christopher Sharpe; and from Mocksville Developmental, Ryan Martin. Others were Kenyatta Dubose, Antonyo Ross, Casandra Gonzales, Devarya Fergusion, Shakeria McIntosh, Eriq Woodberry, Victoria Jones, Austin McPherson, Jade Hailstone, Rashaud Mack and Lakesheia Winfield.

Doc Clay, Christine Gorelick and Andrew Lopina rehearse for "Anything Goes" at The Little Theatre of Winston-Salem.

Orsillo

Orsillo is development director for The Little Theatre, and has appeared there in Evita, Camelot, and Fiddler on the Roof, and with Davie Theatre Company in Wizard of Oz, Singin' In The Rain, Anything Goes and Some Enchanted Evening.

The show opens Friday, April 2, at The Arts Council Theatre at 610 Coliseum Drive in Winston-Salem. Performances will be April 2-4, 8-11, and 14-18. Wednesday-Saturday shows are at 8 p.m. and Sunday matinees are at 2. Tickets are $16 for adults, $14 for seniors, $12 for students and $10 for children 12 and under. Call 336-725-4001 to reserve tickets.

Anything Goes is a bubbly romantic comedy filled with toe-tapping song and dance numbers. Onboard the ship SS American are a bevy of zany characters, including the poor but honest Billy Crocker, who has stowed away to try and win the love of Hope Harcourt, who is engaged to the wealthy, but not-so-bright Lord Evelyn Oakleigh.

Ethel Merman originated the role of Reno Sweeney, the night-club-bing evangelist who loves Billy but wins the heart of the English lord. Throw in a gangster masquerading as a minister, Billy's tipsy boss and a boat load of sailors and passengers.

Cole Porter's score including "I Get a Kick Out of You" and "You're the Top" provides the background.

Bermuda Village is the corporate sponsor of Anything Goes. The Easter Bunny will visit Sunday, April 4, in the lobby, bringing eggs filled with goodies and a few prizes, including tickets to upcoming shows.

Dalton Plantation To Be Preserved By Land Trust

Frederick Sidney Conrad Jr., his wife Mary Cecelia Kennedy Conrad, and Dr. Edmonia Amelia Kennedy recently took steps, working with The LandTrust for Central North Carolina, to conserve Historic Daltonia Plantation: a 622 acre plantation in Iredell County.

This site, located near the community of Houstonville, characterized by hardwood forests, large working farm fields, and spectacular vistas, has been in the same family since Christopher Houston received it as a land grant from the State of North Carolina between 1783 and 1787.

The large two-story frame plantation house, an architectural gem built in 1857, surrounded by log and frame outbuildings dating from the 18th and 19th centurys, was placed on the National Register of Historic Places in 1976, thanks to the efforts of Virginia Evans.

The site includes substantial frontage on Hunting Creek, which is a candidate for the state's High Quality Outstanding Resource Water designation. The Kennedy Bog is located on the property, cited as the best example of a "Deep Bog" in Iredell County. The large size and relatively undisturbed condition of this bog make it noteworthy, according to botanist, Christopher T. Frye.

Mr. and Mrs. Conrad have donated a permanent conservation easement on 198 acres of the plantation to The LandTrust for Central North Carolina. Dr. Kennedy and Mrs. Conrad, who are sisters, have also taken steps to preserve the remainder of the property as part of their estate plan.

"We want to preserve the land and continue farming it," said Kennedy. "Our father was a born farmer, it is what he and my mother would have wanted. It is just country living, we can't help but care about it. It is such an historic area, with the old stage coach road, the log house, the plantation house, the revolutionary war cemetery, and the site of the Young Fort on Hunting Creek nearby. It needs to be preserved and we are very happy we did it. We would like to thank John Massey, my attorney and Ed Norvell of The LandTrust for their great efforts in putting all this together for us."

The conservation easement placed on part of Daltonia Plantation permanently protects the property from future commercial development and from all but limited residential development. It preserves the land for use as a farmland and forest land, and protects the rare natural areas and creek frontage. It does not permit public access to the property and it does not prevent the owners from selling it or passing it on to their heirs.

This approach is often employed as an estate planning tool, which enables the owner to keep family lands instead of selling them to pay inheritance taxes. It also confers substantial state and federal income tax advantages.

"We hope that this will be the first of many more agreements as part of The LandTrust's new Rural Communities Preservation Program. We see agreements such as this one as complementing our efforts at farmland preservation," said LandTrust executive director, Jeff Michael.

"When we established the program last year, we purposely called it a 'Rural Communities Preservation' program instead of 'Farmland Preservation' because we felt that our goal was to preserve a network of farms and forests that would protect the overall integrity of this region's traditional rural landscape. This balance of woods and fields is something The LandTrust is striving for with the program," Michael said.

"This is an incredible first major step in north Iredell County for The LandTrust," said Lisiott Harberts, executive director of the Allison Woods Foundation and a board member of The LandTrust. "Daltonia is not only historic, but it also has major frontage along Hunting Creek, and contains the Kennedy Bog, the best deep water bog in the county. It is absolutely the top piece of land to make a statement, and can be a credible invitation to other landowners who are facing similar situations."

Nothing Could Be Finer

New Arts Council Director Glad To Be At Home In North Carolina

By Jeanne Gaither
Davie County Enterprise Record

The new director of the Davie County Arts Council is enjoying life in Mocksville.

Dagmar Bardo had been looking for a job with an Arts Council in North Carolina for six months when she learned about the position in Davie County.

Bardo fell in love with the state while visiting Lake Junaluska as a girl through her background in the Methodist church, she said.

While living in Georgia and Virginia, she regularly visited her family's cabin in Franklin, but that wasn't enough. She wanted to be here all year long, Bardo said.

On the farm where she lives she relaxes by watching the horse and cows and doesn't remember the sunsets being quite so lovely at her last home, she said.

She has also been impressed with the friendly people she's met since beginning her new job Feb. 22.

Named for the television celebrity Dagmar because her father liked the name, she said, that despite giving her a wonderful stage name, her parents were surprised when she chose a career in the arts, coming from a family involved in the medical profession.

But that didn't dissuade her. "I think God has a plan for each of us, and being in the arts is mine," said Bardo.

Her most recent professional experiences have include teaching creative dramatics classes to children and working as marketing coordinator for the Alliance Theatre Company in Atlanta, Ga.

She was ready to return to arts administration and education after 16 years in design during which she had worked as scenic designer for the Pennsylvania Stage Company and designed displays for Macy's and Rich's department stores.

Among her greatest accomplishments was an Emmy nomination and Craft Citation for art direction on the CBS SchoolBreak Special "Never Say Goodbye," which won the Emmy for outstanding children's special in 1987, while working for the Christian Broadcasting Network in Virginia Beach, Va.

At CBN, Bardo designed the scenery for after school specials, the network soap opera, television specials for several networks and over 130 commercials, she said.

She is excited about her new position with the opportunities available through the Brock Performing Arts Center and the rich history of community support for the Arts Council, she said.

Now that the performing arts center has been completed, the Arts Council is ready for a transition toward more community service, she said.

Bardo has already been meeting with local leaders and school personnel to discuss ways the Arts Council can better serve the community and schools.

Audiences at the Davie Theatre Company presentation of "Miracle Worker" were also to be surveyed about what they would like to see offered here, she said.

"The Arts Council believes everyone should have the opportunity to enjoy the arts," she said. "We're here to serve the community and get the arts into the school system."

Among her plans are to see that all Davie County students have an opportunity to see a stage performance at the Brock, she added.

Other community programs with which she will be involved include Silver Arts, Very Special Arts, school art programs and town festivals.

The arts program will continue to grow with new programs and outreach, she said.

"Through the arts people celebrate life and learn about the world," she said. "We want to bring the arts to everybody."

As she adjusts to the more peaceful life of Davie County after several years in Atlanta, Bardo said she will be visiting many local churches looking for one to attend.

She is the daughter of John and Jessie Bardo of Valrico, Fla. She has two sisters, Judy and Kathryn.

Dagmar Bardo has been picked as the new executive director of the Davie Arts Council.

Easter Bunny To Visit Mocksville

The Easter Bunny has come to town.

Area children may visit their favorite rabbit at the Bunny House, which has moved this year from North Main Street to the Wal-Mart parking lot.

When some of his friends at Wal-Mart told him they hoped he would spend some time at their store, the Easter Bunny suggested the Bunny House be moved there where he'll have a chance to see even more local children than in years past.

Operated for over 10 years by the Mocksville-Davie Parks and Recreation Department, the Bunny House was eventually going to have to be moved due to future plans for the site where it was located, said Parks and Rec director Mike Garner.

The Easter Bunny will visit the Bunny House at the following times: March 27, 10 a.m. - 6 p.m.; March 28, 1-4 p.m.; March 29 - April 2, 4-6 p.m.; April 3, 10 a.m. - 1 p.m. and 3-6 p.m.

For more information about the Bunny House, call 751-2325.

Catawba College To Offer Major In Information Systems For First Time

SALISBURY—Catawba College's Lifelong Learning Program will offer a major in information systems for the first time in the fall.

"We see this as a crying need in the community," says Catawba President J. Fred Corriher. "There's probably a higher need for people with improved informational technology skills than any other area of competency, and we're trying to address that need."

The program, which is designed for working adults, allows students generally to take one course at a time in the evenings and compete a bachelor of business administration degree in four years. Students may begin taking courses for the information systems major in August and complete that two-year course of study before taking general education courses.

"This will allow students to begin working in the field after two years," says Pam Thompson, associate professor of business administration and one of the major's architects. "They can complete the requirements for the BBA degree in the second two years."

Dr. Michael Wilson, dean of the college, notes that the program will be ideal for two types of individuals: 1) those who are interested in entering the information systems field; and 2) those who wish to pursue a bachelor's degree. "Not having a degree tends to hinder a person's advancement," he says, "so we have devised a program that we believe will serve both of those populations admirably."

Dr. Michael Buckland, assistant professor of business and information systems notes that the demand for information systems majors is great. "There are shortages all over the country" he says.

The people who complete this degree could become programmer analysts or work in end user support and technology training, according to Thompson. "They also may be well suited to become systems analysts," she says "because they will already have the business background from their work experience. They may be able to jump over the entry level positions and actually receive those second-tier positions in support and analysis."

The college decided to offer this major in its adult program after officials saw the success of students in Catawba's day program. "Our day students are enjoying a revamped, renovated program in information systems," says Thompson, "and our graduates are receiving some of the highest starting salaries in the Ketner School of Business. In many cases, they are having a choice of jobs."

Buckland notes that the evening program is benefiting greatly from the efforts to upgrade the day program. "Those renovations directly carry over to the evening program," he says. "We are merely tailoring them to the evening program structure."

The designers did make one change, however. Some courses will be offered in tandem over an eight-week period. "We decided it was better to absorb the knowledge in little doses and have more time to apply it," Thompson says.

After one semester, students will be expected to purchase a laptop computer with a standard load of software. "That will give them the benefit of having their technology and software with them wherever they go 24 hours a day," Thompson says. A multimedia classroom in Ketner Hall will be wired for the laptops so students can plug into the network at Catawba when they are in class.

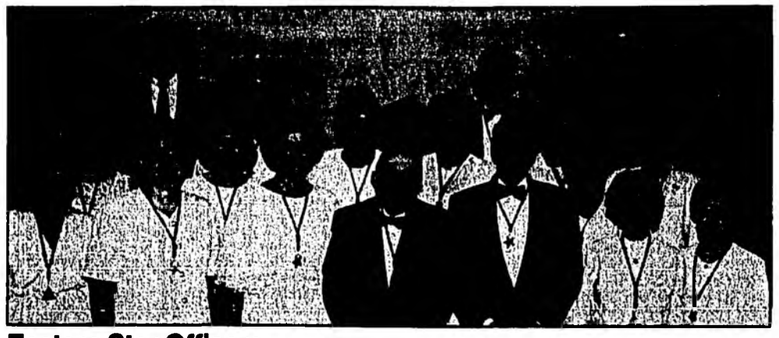

Thompson notes that the college is following the model that Wake Forest University has developed for laptop initiatives in education. The college is also investigating cost-effective ways to enable students to purchase or lease the laptops.

Thompson describes the type of person who would do well in this major. "This is going to be a good program for that person who likes to problem solve, who is proficient in math and enjoys working with computers and people," she says.

The designers of the program have stressed quality throughout the process, according to Thompson. The program is designed with model curriculum guidelines published by four national associations, including the Association of Information Technology Professionals.

College officials are pleased that they can offer a course of study that is in so much demand, according to Wilson. "The BBA program is well established, has a solid reputation and a good track record and is a program that is very much appreciated by the participants," he says. "We want to build on that strength."

Anyone wishing further information about the program may visit http://www.catawba.edu or call the Lifelong Learning Program office at 637-4772.

Meeting in the Holcombe Potting Shed, they arranged and decorated each basket with more than $60 worth of gardening products, ranging from birdhouses to trowels, watering cans, specialized fertilizers, and seeds. Each is a work of art.

Tickets are $1 each or six for $5, and are available from club members. Tickets are also on sale at Reichel's Bakery in downtown Advance, and in the Advance Post Office on March 25 from 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Proceeds will help sponsor club events and philanthropic projects. Past recipients have been the gardening projects at the Advance Post Office and the Brock Center in Mocksville, and the Plant Identification Gardens under way at Davie High School.

The drawing will be at the club's regular meeting on Tuesday, April 6, at Mocks Methodist Church in Advance.

Odyssey Of The Mind

Creativity Sparks Pinebrook Elementary Team

Pinebrook's Odyssey of the Mind team won first place as well as a Ranatra Fusca Creativity award at the regional Odyssey of the Mind competition held on March 13 at Wake Forest University.

The team beat 17 others to qualify for the state competition in Raleigh April 17. The competition consists of a long-term problem and a spontaneous component.

And it's a lot of fun, according to the members, Kristen Fromal, Phillip Scott, Brook Hinman, Lauren Bennett, Lauren Brown, Ellen Carter and Elizabeth Budd.

All of the work was done by the students, the coaches, Margaret Rogers and Janie Budd, and Kathy Scott for spontaneous, weren't allowed to help the students with their ideas.

The team's problem was to present a performance involving a sales transaction between two or more co-workers and their customers, a demonstration of an original product, which reflects some aspect of the culture in which the performance takes place, and the resolution of a problem involving the business.

The work had to be accomplished through teamwork, creativity and cooperation of co-workers. They had to create a prop that completes certain tasks of functions chosen from a list. The team had to create a technical element, the length had to be eight minutes or less and cost $100 or less.

Overlooking Pinebrook's presentation was "Sally," a snow-robot with the school name and team number on her body, and head that moved back and forth.

"First, we just brainstormed on a couple of ideas," said Phillip Scott. "Then everybody took home a couple of ideas and went with them further."

One of the hardest parts, said Kristen Fromal, was the music box. But the students got it right, and it played an original song the students had written.

The team won first place in the grade 3-5 competition, and won an award among all teams, a Ranatra Fusca award for exceptional creativity.

The Ranatra Fusca was awarded among all 80 teams of all grade levels.

"The team received this award due to their highly creative responses given during their spontaneous competition," said Kathy Scott. "The Ranatra Fusca is felt by many to be the essence of the Odyssey of the Mind competition.

"They learn to be in front of the public, but they learn that nothing is impossible. Certain things you have to learn from trial and error."

Margaret Rogers, who got Pinebrook involved with Odyssey of he Mind nine years ago after seeing success her husband had with a team from Clemmons, and seeing a team from Poland at one of those events.

"I thought, if they can do this in Poland, we can do this here," she said. The students must volunteer. "It's a desire to be on the team, and they have to be good students," Rogers said.

It's the first time Rogers has had a first place team.

Central Davie Students Excel At WordMasters Challenge

A student representing Central Davie Elementary School has won highest honors in the second meet of this year's WordMasters Challenge - a national language arts competition entered by over 240,000 students annually, which consists of three meets held at intervals during the academic year.

Competing in the most difficult Gold Division of the Challenge, fifth grader Rebekah Brock earned a perfect score in this year's second meet - an achievement matched by only 30 fifth graders in the country.

Other students at the school who also achieved outstanding results in the competition included fourth graders Bryce Anderson, Taylor Autry, and Andy Rambothem, and fifth graders Brandon Callaway and Meridith Cheek. The school's were supervised in their preparation for the Challenge by June Johnson.

The WordMasters Challenge is an exercise in critical thinking which first encourages students to become familiar with a set of vocabulary words considerably harder than grade level, then requires them to use those words to complete analogies expressing various kinds of logical relationships. The reasoning ability developed by students participating in the Challenge is like the aptitude measured for high school junior and seniors by the verbal SAT exam.

Students will participate in one more WordMasters meet this year. Awards will be presented in May to students who achieved and/or improved the most during the year.

North Davie MathCounts Team Second In Regional Competition

John-David McKeel, Jason Yellick, Andrew Scott, Zach Jakob and Jared Hill took second place in regional MathCounts competition at Philo School in Winston-Salem last month.

The competed among 19 schools.

"It's a good group of kids," said Coach Steve Rareshide. "It's very intense. They have one shot at it and that's it. It's not like sports where if you have a bad game, you can make up for it the next game."

The competition included three tests in the morning, and a team round of problem solving. In the afternoon, students faced off against each other one at a time, in front of coaches, parents and others.

Even though they earned second place, the North Davie team didn't qualify for the state title, unusual from past competitions, Rareshide said. "That's unfortunate ... there aren't that many academic opportunities for kids, and this is a good competition."

All interested students practiced once a week beginning last October. "I let any kinds come through Christmas break," Rareshide said. Based on testing and performance, he picked the top five for more intense practice in January and February.

Encourage, Don't Force Children

By Steve Gilliam
UNC-G News Bureau

Even the titans of sport, like home-run king Mark McGwire, had to start out as little kids, awkwardly swinging that first bat or trying to catch a baseball, and parents need to keep that in mind when their children begin to get involved with sports.

Parents need to encourage and help their children - not force them - as they begin to play organized sports, according to Dr. Kevin Sperry, a physical education specialist at The University of North Carolina at Greensboro. Such guidance is a key to helping youngsters become adults who maintain active and fit life-styles.

"As a parent, you want to prepare your child to be physically active throughout his or her life and sports is a good way to get started," said Sperry. "The important thing is get them active, keep them active and help them enjoy it. Development of any athletic skills will come, but the experience early on needs to be a positive one."

Sperry runs the Youth Educational Sport and Physical Education (YESPE) program in the UNCG School of Health and Human Performance. Each semester, as many as 150 girls and boys, ranging in age from 4-13, enroll to learn some fundamental sports skills, body management and body control. Children ages 4-7 can learn games, gymnastics and swimming, while children ages 8-13 can take swimming, golf, fencing, dance and tennis.

"We see children across the range of skill levels," said Sperry. "We know that children develop from head to toe and from gross motor to fine motor in their skill levels. They can do gross motor skills without any coaching but they need help with those finer skills, like grasping and catching a baseball for young children."

Recent studies have indicated that Americans are getting less exercise than from five to 10 years ago, Sperry said. The National Association for Sport and Physical Education has issued guidelines for elementary children, calling for an accumulation of at least 60 minutes of daily physical activity. The Surgeon General's Report concurs with the recommendations.

"Parents need to be involved early and to set good examples, because we know that children can learn to be inactive, just like they can learn to be active," said Sperry. "There are too many distractions like computers and television. The earlier children become active, the better the chances are that they will lead active adult lives."

Activities as simple as just tossing a ball in the backyard can help promote a positive association with sport for children, Sperry said. As they get older and begin to enjoy organized sports, they pick up many positive things, including social skills and self-confidence and they develop friendships.

When children get involved in league play in various sports, parents should be involved in finding the league, team and coach that works best for their child. Early on, the competitive aspect of sports and the importance of winning should not be stressed.

"Society regards sports and athletes very highly, and too often, winning is stressed as the only thing that is important," said Sperry. "Too much competitiveness and emphasis on winning is a major reason that children drop out of sports early on. Parents and coaches need to let them enjoy sports."

So what can parents do to help their children move into sports and physical activity? Sperry's suggestions for getting children involved in sports include the following:

• Be aware of your child's developmental level and don't start a boy or girl too young.

• Don't expect too much from young children, say ages 5-7. Their attention spans are short and they can't concentrate intently on hitting or catching a ball.

• Don't live vicariously through your child and don't force him or her to participate.

• Highlight the positive, social aspects of sports. When the child comes in, don't ask "Did you win?" Instead, ask "Did you have fun?"

• Encourage instead of yell. Don't coach from the stands. Remember that sports are supposed to be fun.

Most School Workers Are In The Classroom

Helping Students Learn

Not according to the N.C. Department of Public Instruction, which released the following statistics.

Twenty-eight percent of employees hold non-teaching jobs.

The maintenance workers, bus drivers and garage employees, lunchroom staff, secretaries and clerical workers comprise nearly 22 percent of public school employees.

Guidance counselors, school psychologists, psychiatrists, librarians and instructional supervisors, as well as others such as speech therapists, attorneys, nurses and other professionals make up 6 percent of workers.

Administrators and managers, including superintendents, school business officials and directors of district-wide programs make up nearly 1 percent of public school employees.

Dr. Bill Steed, Davie Schools superintendent, shared these figures with members of the county board of education earlier this month.

According to the Education Research Service, the number of administrators in public schools compares favorably to the number of managers in business. Education leaders, on the average, supervise staff on a 1 to 13.5 ratio. The rate in hospitals is 1 to 12.6, in manufacturing, 1 to 6.2.

Be Prepared For Inclement Weather

National Weather Service experts say the first step in protecting yourself from severe weather is to listen for weather watches and warnings. These are issued by the NWS and broadcast by local radio and TV stations.

A watch means weather conditions are favorable for the development of a particular weather event, such as tornadoes, heavy thunderstorms, hail, or high winds. A warning means that particular type of weather event is occurring and you should take immediate protective action.

Severe weather most often occurs in the spring and summer months when two weather systems collide. Weather systems that are only a few degrees different in temperature or a few millibars different in pressure can result in violent winds, hail, thunderstorms and even tornadoes.

"Knowing what to do before an emergency can reduce death and injury," said North Carolina Emergency Management Director Eric Tolbert. "It is too late to ask 'What should I do?' when a large dark funnel cloud is coming down your street."

• Develop an emergency plan for you and your family.

• Prepare a disaster supplies kit.

• Have frequent drills.

• Know your location in relationship to the movement of storms.

• Have a NOAA Weather Radio with battery back-up.

When a Tornado Watch is issued, you should:

• Stay tuned to a local radio or television station or listen to NOAA Weather Radio.

• Secure any loose objects outdoors or move them inside.

• Survey your immediate surroundings for the most suitable shelter.

If a Tornado Warning is issued, or you have an indication that a tornado may be approaching, take cover immediately. The safest place in a home is in an interior room on the lowest level of the home, away from windows. This may be a bathroom, interior closet or under a stairway. People in tall buildings should take shelter in interior hallways, away from windows. Stay away from vehicles. Do not try to out-run a tornado. Leave your mobile home and seek shelter in a sturdy building, or low-lying area.

• Water, about one gallon per person per day.

• Enough canned food for the family to last three to seven days.

• A hand-operated can opener.

• Battery powered radio and extra fresh batteries.

• Flashlight and extra batteries.

• First aid kit.

• Necessary prescription drugs.

• Games and reading materials to help pass the time.

Emergency Management officials urge people not to wait until a severe storm watch or warning is issued before assembling their emergency kit. An emergency kit can be kept in a portable container, such as a plastic crate, duffle bag or backpack. It should be stored in an interior closet, basement, or other accessible safe place.

One environment. One simple way to care for it.

March 19, team captain Ed Johnson and his team with the highest scorer from Tigers had pizza at lunch: Shaun Baily, Lea Tarleton, Timothy Hudson, Brittany Marshburn, Micheal Murphy, Shanda Styers, Jennifer Whitaker, Rich Woody, and Shayna Toney. Ashleigh Bryd from the Tigers had more points than anyone and was invited to join in. Richie Gassett was also a winner from the Cubs.

Pinebrook Elementary

Two teams participated in the regional Odyssey of the Mind Competition Saturday, March 13 at Wake Forest University in a long-term problem as well as in a spontaneous competition. Students have been preparing for this competition since October. One team's long-term problem was called "O, My Faire Shakespeare ". Students had to create and present a performance that included either the first or final scene of a play written by the team. The play had to be based on a scene from one of Shakespeare's plays and include a team-created humorous character. The team also had to select an historic event to serve as the setting for their play. The team had to include at least 10 lines from the original Shakespearean scene in its entirety and present a synopsis of the team's original play. The performance included a song written by the students with original music and lyrics. The team had to include a technical element of its choosing. In addition, the team had to create a poster to advertise its play. The time limit of the play was eight minutes and a cost limit was $100. This team consisted of Corey Cantrell, Whitney Williams, Michael Wentz, Erika Wentz, Cindy Kohnen, and Graham Morrison. Their coaches were Mrs. Libby Cantrell and Mrs. Betty Kohnen. Pinebrook's next team won first place in regionals and will proceed onward to the state competition in Raleigh on April 17. Not only did this team win first place, they also won a very special award called Ranatra Fusca. This team consisted of Kristen Fromal, Phillip Scott, Brook Hinman, Lauren Bennett, Lauren Brown, Ellen Carter, and Elizabeth Budd. Margaret Rogers, Janie Budd, and Kathy Scott coached the team.

Students selected as having The Write Stuff during the week of March 18 included Jacqua Dionne, Chad Howard, Jenna Pummill, Kara Harvey, Ethan Wantuch, Nikki Dllinger, Erika Wentz, Sarah Watts, Katelyn Mauspile, Amanda Nichols, Katie Tucker, and Ben Capron.

South Davie Middle

The 1999 N.C. Middle School Association Annual Conference featured more than 160 sessions reflecting developments in middle level education. Many of these sessions were led by educators in middle schools across the state. A local presenter was Dr. Robert Landry, co-principal of South Davie,. Dr. Landry made two presentations: A New Habit: Instructional Accountability: The Easy Way and Assess Your Students Without an I.Q. Test . The conference was attended by more than 2000 middle school professionals from throughout North Carolina in Greensboro March 15-17.

Each quarter students in Katie Bogle's Spanish classes are recognized for being Super-Estudiantes . These students must each week turn in all homework for a grade of 100, have test grades always and A or B , and have good participation. The students who met this criteria every week of the third quarter were seventh graders Ashley Allen, Stacy Anderson, Robert Crews, Jamie Fulk, Jennifer Horton, Andrew McClannon, David Schweit, Ashley Seamon, and Tiffany Turner; and eighth graders Alan Bost, Jenny Broadway, Krystal Foster, Ashley Lee, and Amber Thompson.

The seventh and eighth grade Spanish classes went to Winston-Salem March 4 to see The Barber of Seville . Following are some of the students thoughts: Danielle Moore-"The play was about a secret romance between a prince and a commoner. Her old guardian wanted to marry her, but they secretly went behind the old guardian's back and got married with the barber's help. Finally, he gave them his blessing and they lived happily ever after." Ashley Desnoyers: "The actors and actresses represented the original play very nicely and did a great job of speaking and teaching Spanish as the play progressed." Tiffany Turner was impressed with the authentic costumes. Robert Crews felt that the actors did a good job of acting out their roles as characters, although he got a bit confused with the people dressing up as other people. Jessica Anderson thought the best thing about the play was when the actors performed an entire scene in Spanish. The lights would be shut off, blue flashing lights would come on, and the scene would be acted in English. Ryanne McDaniel, Nicole Perry, Amber Thompson, Stacy Anderson, and Jenny Broadway also attended the play and thought it was excellent.

A Lot Of Garbage: County May Get Out Of Trash Business

By Jeanne Gaither
Davie County Enterprise Record

Davie County commissioners are considering selling or leasing the county's solid waste and recycling operation.

If the county can get a fair price for its land, buildings and equipment, residents could see several benefits from a private takeover of the programs, according to County Manager Ken Windley.

A private company might move more garbage through the county's transfer station, which could result in a reduction in tipping fees, he said.

It would also save about $1 million for a new construction and demolition landfill. The county has only one year left to use the current site, he said.

The money the county makes from operating a construction and demolition landfill helps keep tipping fees down, he explained.

Two companies have bid on the county's solid waste and recycling operation, but so far commissioners are not satisfied with either proposal. Hopefully, through continued negotiation, the situation will improve, Windley said.

Waste Management has offered to pay $70,000 for the county's site and equipment and agrees not to increase tipping fees during the first three years unless waste flow drops below 19,001 tons per year.

The construction and demolition fee would remain the same until a new site is built by Waste Management. The company would lease the current site from the county for $1.

Waste Management would continue the county wide curbside recycling program every two weeks at no charge for the next five years.

GDS has offered to lease the county's transfer station for $750 a month and operate for the next 10 years with tipping fees no higher than $53 per ton, plus Consumer Price Index increases and purchase the county's loader at market value not to exceed $75,000.

GDS would accept construction and demolition waste and close the county's site. GDS would negotiate with current hauler, Davie Trucking, to transport waste to Uwharrie Environmental.

Recyclables would be removed from the waste at Uwharrie, eliminating the county's recycling program and closing its recycling facility. GDS would also charge nothing for recycling for five years.

This could mean retrieving more recyclable materials from the trash, Windley said, but there is also a chance of many recyclables becoming contaminated, such as paper getting wet and bottles being broken.

The bid from GDS is contingent upon

Kinderton Forms Civic Group; Use For Barn Picked As Top Priority

By Mike Barnhardt
Davie County Enterprise Record

> "The area in and around the Kinderton barn could become a center for the fine arts, entertainment and a coffee house."
> - Kent Mathewson, Civic Assoc. President

Officers of the new Kinderton Civic Association have plenty of ideas on how the barn – the large, red-roofed structure across U.S. 158 from the Bermuda Run entrance, can be used.

"The area in and around the Kinderton barn could become a center for the fine arts, entertainment and a coffee house," said Kent Mathewson, president of the association. "Also, the barn is on a lovely promenade overlooking a small lake and the Yadkin River, a perfect spot for picnic tables."

Mathewson is heading into the project full steam, looking for public support to make the area into a community center.

He sees big things for the barn, and thinks the non-profit civic association is the perfect vehicle to get things done. He also hopes that donations can be funneled through the Davie Foundation.

"The landmark Kinderton barn is an important part of the rural atmosphere and experience of this place," he said.

"Kinderton management, in company with the civic association, will seek to find a financially viable public use for this prized structure, so it will always be part of what makes Kinderton a great place to live, work and play," Mathewson said.

Bill Burnette, a primary partner in The Hillsdale Group, which is developing Kinderton, is chairman of the board of the association, and Henry P. Van Hoy II of Mocksville is a member. Officers also include John T. Barber of Advance, vice president, and Jane Gasparrini of Advance, secretary/treasurer.

According to its articles of incorporation:

"The purpose is to seek and support for Kinderton Village physical and social community development at its best.

"An association goal will be to help establish exemplary comunal development standards of excellence in the Hillsdale area."

The association is open to all Kinderton residents and property owners, and friends who "volunteer to support the association's purpose and goal."

The Weather Man

James George Quickly Becoming Davie's Expert

By Jeanne Gaither
Davie County Enterprise Record

He's a weather fanatic.

Since he was a boy, James George has been interested in the weather – in part because of his love of snow.

For about three years he has been reporting current weather conditions to local television news programs for channels 2, 12 and 45, he said.

He started with simple equipment and later added an electronic weather monitor.

Recently, he purchased several monitoring devices, including one that measures wind speed and direction, another that provides temperature and humidity readings and an electronic rain gauge, outside his home and a computer, which is programmed to alert him to sudden changes or dangerous weather conditions when he's away from home.

A wind gust of 60 mph or a dangerous humidity or wind chill level sets off the weather alarm, George said.

Last Week's Low Temperature

He doesn't get paid for providing this information, he said. He simply enjoys doing it.

Possibly the best feature of his new computer system, at least for local folks, is a service they can call 24 hours a day to find out weather conditions in Davie County.

Unlike most such services, which provide only time and temperature, George's system reports daily high and low temperatures and wind speeds, dew point, barometric pressure, humidity level, wind chill, wind direction and daily, monthly and yearly rainfall totals.

George said he decided to provide the
