Mocksville Christmas Parade Saturday At 3

By Mike Barnhardt
Davie County Enterprise Record

The white lights outlining the buildings in downtown Mocksville are a sure sign that the Christmas season is here.

And on Saturday, it will come into town with a bang as the biggest ever Hometown Christmas Parade will begin at 3 p.m., with the theme Peace on Earth, followed by the lighting of the trees on the square at dusk.

"It's really neat, the excitement that's growing," said Kay Earnhardt of the Davie Chamber of Commerce, event sponsor.

As of Monday evening, there were 135 entries, and there's usually more at the last minute.

There will be church floats and school floats and Scout floats. There will be horses and wagons and fire trucks and rescue vehicles. There will be dancers and clowns and antique cars. There will be refreshments and marching bands and unicyclists. There will be free balloons for the kids.

Of course, Santa Clause is expected to make the trip from the North Pole.

Come early, because the parade draws a crowd. Traffic on North Main Street near the Brock Center where the parade starts can back up for quite a while.

Margaret Foster, owner of Foster's Jewelry on Main Street, will be the grand marshal.

"Most of the churches have responded and will have floats in the parade. We're looking for a really good day," Earnhardt said.

The parade is at 3 p.m., an hour earlier than last year.

The parade will travel North Main Street to the town square, turn left onto Depot Street, then left on Railroad Street back to the Brock Center.

Soon after the parade, Brent Campbell of WGHP Fox8 News will lead the lighting of the oak trees. Christmas music will be provided by the Davie High School Marching Band.

Water Rules Eased

By Kim Justen
Davie County Enterprise Record

Davie County water customers have fewer restrictions.

County commissioners on Monday put the county from Stage 3 to Stage 2, voluntary, water conservation measures.

"Things are pretty much back to normal," said water department director Bruce Pratt. River flows are back to normal. Davie draws water from the Yadkin River near Farmington and the South Yadkin River in Cooleemee.

Pratt estimated it would take three or four years of increased rainfall to bring underground water levels back to normal. The county does not have any wells, although many residents not on the county system have had problems with wells going dry.

Commissioner Dan Barrett said the low ground water levels were reason enough to keep some type of conservation measures in place.

In Level 2, customers are asked to minimize watering of lawns and shrubs, use disposable dishes when possible, wash dishes and clothes when loads are full, limit car washing, and reduce flushing of toilets to whenever practical.

These recommendations are on top of Level 1 measures, which include turning off water while rinsing dishes and brushing teeth, limiting showers to four minutes and repairing leaking faucets and plumbing.

Ken White Heads Board

Commissioner Ken White was elected chair of the Davie County Board of Commissioners Monday afternoon. Richard Poindexter was elected vice chair.

Also on Monday, Michael Allen and Bobby Knight were sworn in to new four-year terms on the board.

An Excellent School

Mocksville Elementary, Principal Winning Local And State Awards

By Mike Barnhardt
Davie County Enterprise Record

At Mocksville Elementary School, every staff member works to help every child.

It must be working.

Named one of the top 25 most improved schools in North Carolina for student achievement, and a School of Excellence, it's principal, Patricia Coutts, is also Davie County's principal of the year.

"I'm a little bit overwhelmed," said Coutts, in her third year at the helm at Mocksville. "To do that well in the second year is unbelievable. I think it's because this school has a wonderful staff.

"Everybody works together to be sure that no child gets left out."

They also like each other. On a day off in October, the entire staff, minus two people who had made other commitments, spent the day together in the mountains.

The entire staff, from the office workers to custodial staff to cafeteria workers to the PTA, want the school to be "inviting," Coutts said.

"Everybody has bought into that idea. Everybody works hard and it has paid off. We have high expectations. Even the students have high expectations.

"We have excellent teachers, we really do. I would put our teachers up against any staff anywhere in the United States."

She talks about the school's acceleration program. Each day, a grade level stops what they are

Teen Loses Control Of Car Saturday On Greenhill Road

By Jackie Seabolt
Davie County Enterprise Record

A Davie teen was killed near Mocksville Saturday after the car he was driving collided with a tree.

Patrick Martin Draughn, 19, of 410 Calahaln Road, Mocksville was transported to Baptist Hospital where he died as a result of injuries sustained from the wreck.

According to a report filed by Trooper A.T. Keller of the N.C. Highway Patrol, Draughn was traveling alone in a 1987 Ford vehicle around 9 p.m.. The car was heading south on Greenhill Road at an estimated 80 mph. The posted speed limit is 55 mph on the two lane road.

Draughn

Draughn lost control of the vehicle, causing it to cross left of the center line. The car went off the road to the left. The vehicle collided with a tree and traveled approximately 13 feet after impact before coming to rest in a field.

Keller reported no alcohol was involved and no vehicle defects were detected. Draughn, who is a 2001 graduate of Davie High, was wearing a seatbelt.

Woman Dies 5 Days After Wreck

A Davie woman involved in a car crash on Nov. 22 died Wednesday, Nov. 27 as a result of injuries from the wreck.

Paige Walton Henley, 34, of 168 Wyo Road, Mocksville remained in N.C. Baptist Hospital in Winston-Salem where she died.

She was driving a 1991 Nissan north on N.C. 801 towards Farmington with a male passenger. She attempted to pass a 2001 Chevrolet pick-up driven by Neal Stone Gordon Jr. of 199 Cedar Forest Lane, Mocksville in a no-passing zone marked by a solid yellow line, reported N.C. Highway Patrol Trooper

Toss Cranberries From Thanksgiving Traditional Foods

Reflections over the Thanksgiving dinner table ...

What were those Pilgrims thinking?

Sure, the turkey and ham and even venison for those intrepid hunters should be part of the meal. I'll vote to keep the candied yams, the peas and the casseroles. Pecan pie, pumpkin pie and all the desserts are keepers.

But why do we have cranberry sauce?

That's the first item I'd toss from the traditional Thanksgiving feast. If it weren't traditional, who would eat it?

Like ham hocks at New Years, there is no good reason short of starvation for eating cranberries. Okay, there supposed to be good for urinary tract infections. But that's not a problem — at least today.

Can the cranberries.

The Sparks clan gathered for the first time without our patriarch. The younger grandkids scampered about as usual. The older grandkids talked of school and jobs. And the sons and daughters had to be feeling some apprehension about how it would feel without our dad.

Number 2 daughter, the hostess, didn't hesitate. She brought up the issue dominating all our minds, discussed it head-on, talked about our dad and what he meant to us, and called for us to remember a favorite moment. Silently.

With a Thanksgiving prayer, we crossed that bridge and went on with the meal and joy and laughter and wild children.

And cranberries.

Hillsdale Circle Works; Stoplights Causing Delays

Maybe it's too early to admit we were wrong. Too early to give the N.C. Department of Transportation credit for knowing what it's doing.

But the traffic circle ... appears to be working.

Last week during the Thanksgiving crush, the new-fangled roundabout in Hillsdale was working just fine. It was the stoplights on each side of the circle that were holding up traffic.

Traffic was backed up on both sides of the stoplights, bringing the flow through the circle to a stop, too.

It took weeks to get used to it, but the circle is finally becoming part of the landscape.

There have been no fatalities. No multi-car pileups. Nobody lost in space.

One of our readers told us about several huge roundabouts in Vale, Colo., which handle all the traffic in that tourist ski town. To listen to roundabout advocates, we ought to get rid of all the intersections and replace them with circles.

It saves on electricity. Accidents are reduced. Accidents that do happen in a roundabout are usually minor — unlike the head-on crashes in intersections.

We may not be ready to go that far, but the Hillsdale circle is working. Usually, circles are much larger than that one. DOT didn't have much land to work with there. But the fuss and fury have subsided. Tractor trailer rigs haven't been impaled on the circle. They haven't overturned.

And it's still fun just to venture in that circle, not quite sure if you will emerge alive on the other side.

Davie High SIT Team Endorses AP Decision

To the editor:

In light of the recent events pertaining to the APP program, we, the members of the Davie High School Improvement Team (SIT), would like to take a moment to share with you some of our feelings. One of the things that we cherish as members of the faculty is the opportunity to share our concerns with the administrators and other faculty members through an open forum. When we express our concerns, we are heard and changes are made.

One of the things that we have addressed through SIT over the past several years is our concern for creating a stronger curriculum. Many members of the SIT team participated in a school-wide curriculum review in the spring of 2001. Also, within the present school year, SIT members have divided into sub-committees in order to evaluate and improve the school as a whole. Curriculum changes have been a major topic of discussion within these sub-committees. Throughout all of these endeavors, we have maintained the same goal - to seek opportunities to strengthen the curriculum and to challenge our students to perform at a higher level. This goal encompasses all of our students. From our low performing students to our best and brightest, we continually seek ways to raise the bar.

As a result of our efforts, Dr. Linda Bost (principal) and the administrators heard our concerns about raising the bar for our students, and action was taken. Our administration created the proposal for transitioning from the APP program to the AP program. This was their answer to our cry for a stronger curriculum. We, as members of the SIT team, appreciate and applaud the efforts of our administration and staff to strengthen our curriculum, and we are confident in their abilities to make difficult decisions regarding necessary curriculum changes.

Terry Bralley An Excellent Choice

To the editor:

What a benefit for Davie County in selecting Terry Bralley as county manager. The Town of Mocksville is also fortunate in having had the services of Terry Bralley. Terry has the educational and experience skills needed by municipal governments elsewhere. His qualifications may have carried him to other locations if not for the pride and love of his community and the satisfaction received as he performed his duties over the years. He has helped create valuable benefits for the local government, both town and county, as well as the citizens of both municipalities with industrial recruitment, job creation, educational facilities and many other accomplishments. Congratulations to Terry as county manager and the Davie County Board of Commissioners in retaining a valuable resource for the county.

Children Used To Have To Make Their Toys, Activities

Louise Stroud

I was thinking of how different life is for children of today. In my childhood, children did not have all the beautiful, expensive toys that are available today. Had they been on the market, many people could not have afforded them.

When we lived downtown, we had just a small yard on the upper side, the hardware store (later the Princess Theater) being on the other side adjoining daddy's office. We had no grass, just dirt in this little yard. I was fortunate, however, my father paid Mr. Will Spry of Cooleemee five dollars to build me a little log cabin to set in our yard. This little hut had one room which held two chairs and a few play things. It had a chimney and looked like a small version of big log houses. Grown people had to stoop to enter the door. Actually, it could not comfortably hold more than two little people. I enjoyed that little hut and when I outgrew it and the service station was built beside us, we gave the little log house to Duke Sheek, who had it moved to her front yard where it stayed for years.

Since flowers didn't grow well in the dirt in the yard, I would find little sticks and fashion little flowers out of colored paper and stick them in the ground in front of the little cabin to make it look "homey." I bought little packages of flower seeds and planted them in window boxes upstairs but nothing ever grew. My thumb was not green then and it has still never turned.

I miss some of the flowers I thought were so pretty when I was growing up. I wonder what happened to nasturtiums like my neighbor used to grow. I haven't seen any in years. Dahlias don't seem as plentiful as they used to be. Occasionally, I see the big lavender ones, but I always liked the deep red or wine colored ones, with velvety petals. I don't seem to see many gladiolas any more, except in florist shops. I wonder where sweet peas and snapdragons went. Another favorite that seemed to grow wild out in fields was larkspur and I rarely see that anymore. We have a lot of the big lavender cultivated rhododendron in this county, but the mountain variety (the white bloom with a pink tinge) does not seem to grow well here. My sister and I had two bushes like that for a long time, but they finally died.

When I see the beautiful doll houses in Happy House Miniatures uptown and the pretty little doll furniture available nowadays, I remember the little pasteboard furniture we used to make for our dolls. Some magazines carried a page of paper dolls to cut out. Children today would not believe how things used to be.

When I was little there were no planned activities, outside of school, for children. Little boys went to the creek and learned to swim when the water was deep enough. There were no YMCAs or lakes for little girls to learn. As a result, I'm still afraid of water. I wish I could swim. Today, I think we have too many activities. Many times, I have heard parents say they did not have the advantage of all the extra things children can have today - either they were not available or they couldn't afford them, so now they want their children to have every advantage they didn't have. I think this means the children are spread so thin it's hard for them to excel in any one thing. When I was a child, about the only thing offered outside school was piano lessons. Later, when I was teaching piano, children were involved in so many activities. They had very little time to practice their music. I just had to accept that fact. I remember one student telling me she always chose to practice her music right after meals (dishwashing time). There were no Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, dancing classes or anything of that kind.

I do remember that when I was very young, my older brother, Frank, had art lessons for a short time from Miss Velma Martin. She taught in a room near the office where Dr. W.C. Martin (her father), practiced medicine on the second floor of the building which housed Harris-LeGrand Pharmacy and Miss Annie Carter's Sewing Room on the first floor. The street level stairway was between these two buildings. Before Miss Annie Carter had her sewing room there, and also sold material, I believe a meat market occupied that space and a Mr. Davis was the meat cutter. I can barely remember that. Much later, the Ideal Grocery occupied that space. Still later, Leslie's Men's Shop (owned by Leslie Daniel) was there, with his wife (Christine's) Gift Shop in the rear. I think later, Wilkins Drug Store added that space to their business.

Frank's art lessons didn't last very long because Miss Velma married Mr. Charlie Burrus and moved to Shelby. There being no other art teacher available, that was the end of Frank's art career. He was doing quite well but I don't know that it would have lasted. He enjoyed athletics so much and was the recipient of the first athletic medal given at Mocksville High School. The next year, my brother, Harry, won that award. We had a girls basketball team. However, I was never interested in participating in athletics. As a child in school, I never wanted to go outside and play at recess, especially in the winter. I remember one winter day hiding in the locker room at recess. Of course, the teacher found me, made me put on my coat and go outside.

We had some good artists in our family, but I think the talent ran out before it got to me.

Writer Questions Church Scandal

To the editor:

In watching the Catholic Bishops reviewing the new rules governing the pedophile scandal in the Church on C-span, one comment struck a cord. They said a small percentage of the priests were guilty of molestation, and spoke of all the good the church did outweighing the bad.

I don't think so. If an ordinary person has led a good life and is found guilty of child molestation, the odds are he is going to jail.

The Catholics, on the other hand, condoned the pratice of paying victims off and transferring known pedophiles to other churches to keep it quiet. That is a conspiracy, a crime. However, none of the conspirators have gone to jail, and all of this is done with tax free money, again if any other tax free organiazation used tax free money in that fashion, I am sure they would have gone to jail (or at least lost their tax free status). And they say there is no double standard in the justice system.

Going back to the roaring 20s, the depression and gangsters hey day, most of them donated to the church and charities. Al Capone ran quite a few soup kitchens in Chicago, for a lot of hungry people, with his ill gotten gains. He died in jail for tax evasion.

Why isn't illegal use of tax free money prosecuted? I would like to know.

doing and children are grouped according to ability. "Each child gets to be exactly where they need to be. Children seem to be very content," she said.

There are 535 students at Mocksville Elementary.

Coutts moved to the area 25 years ago from Richmond, Va. and fell in love with Mocksville.

"It's just like a really good step back," she said. "Parents are really involved in the schools. They have good, solid values."

In her 21st year in education, she has no desire to move again.

"There's a warmth here, a mentality you feel when you walk into this building."

Her days are long.

She arrives at school at 7:20, and standing near the same place, greets each child as they enter school in the morning. Part of the reason is to make sure things run smoothly, part is to let the children know she cares.

"I also get lots of hugs and I learn what's going on in their lives." Children with problems at home bring them to school, and it's easier to deal with those problems when you know them and understand them, Coutts said.

About a third of her day is spent with teachers and parents, or on the telephone.

The rest of the time, it's to the classrooms.

"I have a huge love of curriculum and a strong background in curriculum," she said. "I love being out in the classroom, enjoying what the children are doing. I like to read their writing and celebrate their achievements with them."

Coutts: "I'm working to make this the best possible atmosphere for children, teachers and for parents."

Coutts goes over a chart with Mocksville Elementary assistant principal, Gladys Scott.

And, of course, there's the paper work. "The things you do to keep your school running," she said.

"If you're not a people person and you don't like people, then you won't be an effective administrator," Coutts said. "I'm working to make this the best possible atmosphere for children, teachers and for parents.

Coutts has been a teacher and assistant principal in the Davie system.

Earnhardt and other volunteers are thankful that one of Davie County's newest civic clubs, the Kiwanis Club of Davie, is helping to make sure things run smoothly. The Kiwanis will help set up the parade entrants, guide them into the parade and help with clean up afterwards. Members of the Key Club, the Kiwanis high school equivalent, will inflate balloons and walk along the route, giving them to children.

Kiwanis vice president Matt Voreh said the local club was started with the help of Salisbury's, which saw a need for a civic club to help the community, especially the children, in Davie County.

"We want to do it again next year, start a tradition," Voreh said. "We're still trying to find our niche, where we'll fit into the community."

The 22 or so members of the club decide where monies are spent, and what projects are completed. The club meets at noon at Western Steer, Yadkinville Road, the first and third Thursday of each month. Wayne Webb is president.

"I think like just now, the club is coming into shape," said board member, Brent Shoaf.

The Key Club is a successful first project. There are 28 members and more who want to join from Davie High, said the adivsor, Kimberleigh Archer.

"The kids commit to 25 hours of service each semester," Archer said. "The kids recruit other kids. I've been so encouraged." Jenny Bokeno is president.

The rain date for the parade will be Sunday at 3 p.m. If the weather is questionable; a decision should be made by about noon, said Chamber President Joan Carter.

Although parade participants are allowed to throw candy to children, organizers are asking that they throw the candy into the crowd so that children are not running into the street.

Also, cars should not be parked on the street during the parade. Mocksville police will provide traffic control and security. Port-a-johns will be set up on North Main between the police department and Horn Oil.

Downtown Mocksville merchants will be open Saturday night, on Thursday nights Dec. 5, 12, and 19, and from 1-5 p.m. on Sunday, Dec. 8.

Margaret Foster is the parade grand marshal.

Brent Campbell is the tree lighting marshal.

Kaye Earnhardt, Brent Shoaf, Kimberleigh Archer and Matt Voreh discuss details for Saturday's Mocksville Christmas Parade.

It's Time For A Parade

Entrants Listed For Saturday's Event

The parade will begin on North Main Street at Park Avenue and proceed to the Mocksville Downtown Square; turning left onto Depot Street. Dismantling can take place at Railroad Street - but must not block movement of remaining parade.

A minimum of 12 x 12 sign indicating the display number must be placed on the left side (driver's side) of the entry for judging. The judges stand is located on North Main past Gaither Street.

Jan Ledford and Del McCullough talk about what the Cooleemee Swimming Pool has meant to children in the past, and what it should mean to children in the future.

Let's Go Swimming

Effort To Reopen Cooleemee Pool Gaining Momentum

By Mike Barnhardt
Davie County Enterprise Record

COOLEEMEE - Del McCullough remembers when the swimming pool opened here in the 1950s.

He was among the first children to splash and dive in the water.

Now, as commander of American Legion Post 54, he and other members of the Post are doing their part to make sure that children will have that same opportunity in the future.

The Legion post donated $1,000 to the save the pool effort, a drive that is about a third of the way toward raising $25,000 by early 2003, so the pool can open next year.

It was closed last year by the town, which cited financial difficulties caused by the state budget crisis.

McCullough said the decision to donate to the pool cause was just about unanimous among members. Most remember swimming in the pool as children.

"We decided the kids down here need a little entertainment in the summer," he said.

"It meant a whole lot to me when I was young. All we had to swim in beofre was the creek or river. Back in the 50s, this pool was the place to be."

Jan Leford, one of the organizers of the effort, said that donations continue to trickle in, but more are needed. The pool has leaks, and a water pump needs repairing. Paint has been bought and is ready if the money is raised.

Last year was the first the pool has been closed in 53 years.

Donations have come in from across the region and county. Last week, a group of North Davie Middle School sent $25. Those students read an article in the Enterprise and decided to help. Student Justine Solomon visited the site. "It needs to be fixed up," she wrote.

"Please list our names, so the people will know we care," wrote Coty Lee.

Other students donating were: Lindley Bess, Chelsea Bordner, Allison Bradley, Paige Carter, Jonathan Creekmur, Sarah Daywalt, Ian Dowdy, Quinton Faulkner, Amy Gilbert, Leslie Gray, John Haftman, Emily Kelly, Cynthia Kohnen, Andrew Linhart, Katelyn Manspile, Taylor Milleson, Peyton Murray, Amanda Nichols, Amanda Reavis, Johnathan Roesch, Nicholas Schambach, Brett Schneggenburger, Danielle smith, Garrett Taddeucci, Chelsea Trull and Micah Womble.

There will be a chicken and dumpling supper Saturday, Dec. 7 beginning at 7 p.m. at the VFW Building on N.C. 801.

"It's become more than just Cooleemee. It's a county thing," Ledford said.

"I think more people will use this pool next year if they find out it's open," McCullough said.

Cooleemee, he said, is still a town where children walk from house to house, and to the swimming pool and recreation center.

Ledford remains confident. "I know we can do it," she said.

Man Faces Drug Charges

A Mocksville man faces five drug charges after he was stopped for speeding on Dec. 1.

Joseph Edward Fritts, 27, of 822 Turrentine Church Road, was arrested after he was stopped for speeding by Mocksville Police Officer Jim Young.

Fritts was charged with possession of drug paraphernalia, possession with intent to sell and deliver marijuana, possession of cocaine, and possession with intent to sell and deliver cocaine.

He was placed in the Davie County Jail in lieu of a $50,000 bond, pending a Dec. 5 hearing in Davie District Court.

Young reported he could smell marijuana from the vehicle. Upon search, officers found marijuana and five small plastic bags each containing a small amount of cocaine.

They also found measuring scales.

J.R. Allred. Gordon was traveling with a female passenger and two small children.

As Henley attempted to pass Gordon, the pickup went left of center and collided with her car. Henley's vehicle skidded off the road to the right where it collided with several trees, then re-entered the road and collided with Gordon's pick-up a second time before coming to rest on the northbound shoulder of 801, Allred reported.

Henley had been charged with improper passing and DWI. The results of an administered alcohol test were pending at the time of the report.

Half Pound Of Pot Confiscated

Forsyth Man Jailed After Traffic Stop

By Jackie Seabolt
Davie County Enterprise Record

A Forsyth County man is in Davie jail after a half pound of marijuana was found inside his car during a routine traffic stop Dec. 2.

Tavis Brown

Tavis Varkelly Brown, 24, of Winston-Salem was charged with possession with intent to sell and deliver marijuana, felony possession of marijuana, and maintaining a vehicle for a controlled substance.

According to Davie County Sheriff's Department Sgt. T. D. Myers' report, Brown's vehicle was pulled around 7:45 p.m. this past Monday while Myers was on patrol near Kinderton Place parking lot at N.C. 801 and I-40.

Myers stopped Brown's 1997 Acura after noticing the vehicle had illegally tinted windows. As Myers approached the vehicle he noticed a strong odor of marijuana and asked Brown for permission to search the car.

Brown consented to the search and a WalMart bag containing six small baggies of marijuana was found. Total weight of the drugs seized was eight ounces.

Brown was placed in Davie County Jail in lieu of a $10,000 unsecured bond. His first court appearance is scheduled Dec. 12.

Blood Drive This Saturday

Throughout this holiday season, the American Red Cross is urging blood donors to be in it for life to make donating blood a life-long habit because it saves lives.

The Red Cross has announced that the need for blood has reached a critical levels. There is a desperate need for O+, O- and B+ blood types. The blood reserves are at the lowest in 12 years.

Blood is needed every day, not just during holidays, according to Robert F. Fechner, executive director of the Carolinas Blood Services Region of the American Red Cross. Thousands of times every day across this nation there is an individual emergency that requires the blood from an unknown donor to save an individual life, an infants life, the life of a child, a mother, a father, an innocent victim of a tragic accident. In this region, the American Red Cross must provide more than 1,500 units of blood each day to meet the needs of patients.

Blood donors must be 17 years or older, weigh at least 110 pounds and be in general good health. The entire collection process takes about an hour. A blood donation can be made every 56 days.

The Blood Drive will be held on Saturday, Dec. 7 from 9 a.m.-1:30 p.m. at the Rotary Hut at 201 Salisbury St.in Mocksville. For more information or to make an appointment, call 1-800-GIVE LIFE. Walk-in's welcome.

This blood drive is sponsored by the Mocksville Rotarians.

Vision, Diabetes Screening Saturday

The Mocksville Lions Club along with the NC Lions Foundation will hold a free vision screening as well as a free glucose screening for children and adults on Saturday, Dec. 7 from 9 a.m.-2 p.m. in the court square area on Main Street in downtown Mocksville. This event will be held rain or shine.

"We invite everyone to come out who may be concerned with their vision or the risk of developing diabetes," said Mocksville Lions President Jonathan Wishon.

"Children who may be overweight or obese are also at risk of developing diabetes and other illnesses and we encourage parents to bring their children to the screening to be checked. There will be certified doctors and nurses on hand performing the necessary test free of charge to everyone."

There will be Lions and Davie Leo Club members also on hand to assist.

There are about 17 million people in the USA or 6.2 percent of the population who have diabetes. Out of the total amount is 11.1 million people who have been diagnosed and 5.9 million people undiagnosed. About 151,000 people less than 20 years of age have diabetes. This represents 0.19 percentof all people in this age group.

Adults age 20 years or older: 16.9 million ... 8.6 percent of all people in this age group have diabetes. Age 65 years or older: 7 million ... 20.1 percent of all people in this age group have diabetes.

In men, 7.8 million or 8.3 percent have diabetes. In women, 9.1 million or 8.9 percent have diabetes.

"The Mocksville Lions Club encourages everyone to come out and take advantage of these free screenings," Wishon said.

For more information, call 751-5415 or 1-800-662-7401.

Floretta Baylin's Cotillion at Forsyth Country Club

Floretta Baylin Cotillions • Est. 1934 • Directors Judy Baylin, Denise Bassen
Social Graces • Dining Skills • Correct Manners •
Table Etiquette • Pre-Teens • Teenagers

Registration for Floretta Baylin Cotillion for 6th, 7th, and 8th grade students in the Winston-Salem, Clemmons, Bermuda Run, Advance, Lewisville and Mocksville areas are now being taken. Cotillion is also available for older High School students who missed the earlier sessions and realize that college and job interviews are just ahead. Cotillion training emphasizes Table Etiquette, Dining Skills, Correct Seating, Leaving the Table, the Menu and Ordering. During Cotillion, members are taught how far in advance one should invite a partner to an event, when to offer his arm, how to get a lady up and down steps with long or short dresses, coping with coats, car doors, receiving lines, hand shakes, introductions, responses, developing conversation skills and how to network a party or business meeting.

When social and business knowledge is needed, it is too late to learn.

Students are more receptive as early teens. There is time to practice before college and business interviews which often include a meal at an upscale restaurant or private club. At the completion of Baylin Cotillion students have learned skills to use daily, socially and later in business life as seen in the photos of our Formal Dinner and dance held in March at Forsyth Country Club.

Cotillions will be held at Baylin Dance Studio of Clemmons beginning Thursday, Jan. 9th from 7-8:30 p.m. For information call 725-8301.

Davie Destroyed

Hopes For Historic Semifinal Disintegrate As Rockets Romp

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

ASHEVILLE – Davie High's football team knew exactly what to expect from A.C. Reynolds, and it thought it had a sound strategy and enough momentum to stay with the high-profile Rockets in Friday's state 4A quarterfinal in Asheville.

But when A.C. Reynolds is clicking, even the best game plan is doomed to backfire. After flying high with three straight wins and averaging 31 points over the previous four games, the War Eagles landed with a thud. The Rockets were even better than the visitors feared, and they took Davie behind the woodshed, 42-0.

Winning coach Bobby Poss just knew the 12-1 Rockets were going to beat Davie (7-7) badly.

"I almost expect it because I know how hard they work," the 28th-year head coach said. "You kind of expect this kind of effort, but I don't want to let my guard down because they're kids and anything can happen. But they're playing the best they can play. Our work ethic and our hustle in practice are very similar to the (dynamite) teams that we've had."

Even if the War Eagles had played their best, they may not have kept the score close against one of the state's big boys. Poss is 239-89 with four state championships at three schools and 86-25 in nine years at A.C. Reynolds, which has bagged 14 conference championships since 1983.

The Rockets, who start 20 juniors and seniors, were so much stronger than Davie up front, it was ridiculous. Poss' program has turned old-school football into an art form, and his conservative, plodding offense produced five touchdowns. Their passing stats are never incredible - they only had to complete three against Davie - and their runners aren't glamourous, pounding out yardage rather than accumulating it with bursts of speed.

But Davie was no match for their bully style.

"We ran into a buzzsaw," Davie coach Doug Illing said. "They smashmouthed right down our throat and we couldn't get anything mustered on offense to give our defense a little bit of confidence. They play with a lot of juniors and seniors and that's what you get. Man for man we got outphysicaled. When you've got 17- and 18-year-old kids going up against 15- and 16-year-old kids, you're going to be outmanned most of the time."

The game began ominously as A.C. Reynolds took the opening kickoff and marched 64 yards in 12 plays for a 7-0 lead.

While Davie failed to scratch on 14 possessions, A.C.'s senior rushing tandem ran downhill all night. Tailback Trevor Steele churned out 137 yards on 20 carries and fullback McLean Hall bulled his way to 123 yards on 19 carries.

"We watched Davie's game film against McDowell and McDowell did real good up the middle," Hall said. "So coach told me I was going to be running the ball a lot. All we do is run straight up the middle and try to work the clock, and it worked out perfectly."

Davie became a bug on the windshield when quarterback Ben Johnson caught the secondary napping with a 24-yard pass over the middle to a wide-open Tim Bagamary, who made it 14-0 with 9:09 left in the second quarter.

"You try to stuff the run, and then they hit you on a big pass. Choose your poison," Illing said.

"We were sharp," Poss said. "Johnson's a great quarterback. People don't appreciate how talented he is because we don't open it up that much. If you key on McLean you can maybe shut him down, but we can find another way

Davie Wrestling Might Not Slip Below Standards After All

Star Twins Transfer From Rival Mt. Tabor

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

The Davie High wrestling team was presumably headed for a good season, not a great one. But a stunning development last week transformed Davie from ordinary into a force.

For Coach Buddy Lowery and the War Eagles, it was like hitting a jackpot. The news: Twins Colt and Clint Stanley, who had attended West Forsyth and Mount Tabor since their freshmen year even though they live in Advance and went to North Davie Middle, transferred from rival Mt. Tabor to Davie.

They became Davie's shiniest stars the instant they rolled into the scene. Colt and Clint will plug the biggest holes in a largely young lineup at 171 and 189 respectively.

"I think they're going to fit in nicely," Lowery said in maybe the understatement of the century.

Lowery didn't need to watch any practice drills to see just how menacing the Stanleys are. In a wild twist, these are the same Stanleys who helped tear down Davie's Central Piedmont Conference dynasty in 2000-01. When the War Eagles collided with Tabor that year, they had a 42-match CPC winning streak and seven straight regular-season titles hanging in the balance, and they had gone 86-2-1 all-time in the CPC.

Coach Buddy Lowery Reaches 400th Win

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

Poor Coach Lowery. Over half his starting lineup consists of freshmen and sophomores, and he lost as many matches in November as he did all of last year.

But before the pity party gets out of hand, one needs to check last week's results in a six-team dual tournament in Hickory. The War Eagles hammered South Caldwell (69-12), Concord (68-10), Statesville (51-22) and Avery County (61-18) by a cumulative score of 249-62 and nearly knocked off host St. Stephens, which finished runner-up in the 3A duals each of the last three years, in a down-to-the-wire 34-31 loss.

"I'm pleased," Buddy Lowery, the 27th-year Davie coach, said. "If you would have told me we'd be 6-3 right now, I'd have taken it."

With part of the roster missing because of the football team's playoff success, and with five freshmen and three sophomores filling eight of 14 starting spots, few would have thought 6-3 was possible. But the new faces seem to have leaped over several steps in their maturation process, and the War Eagles got better in a hurry last week when the twins Colt and Clint Stanley transferred from Mount Tabor to Davie.

Worth Noting ...

In a losing cause to W. Rowan, Colby Seaford of S. Davie's 7th-grade boys dropped in 19 points by draining five 3-pointers.

Four S. Davie wrestlers are unbeaten – Floyd Collins, Craig Brown and Kirston Angell at 4-0 and Brandon Jones at 3-0.

Nine are 4-0 for N. Davie's wrestling team, including Chris Ange, who has four pins.

Freshman Devon Venable has 16 and 17 points in the first two games for Davie's JV boys.

Luke Phelps hit a tiebreaking bucket as Davie's varsity boys squeaked by Alexander Central 47-45 after spotting AC a 24-7 lead.

Allison Schafer of Davie's varsity girls had 20 points and eight rebounds in a 56-40 win over Alexander Central. She hit 8-of-13 field goals.

In a 6-team tournament, Davie's wrestling team got 5-0 marks from Colt Stanley, Clint Stanley, Russell Hilton, Dusty Johnson, Andrew Scott and Millard Smith. The Stanleys went a combined 116-25 for Mount Tabor last year.

Red-Hot Schafer Picks Up Slack In Sluggish Win

Davie's varsity girls basketball team only had one hot hand in last week's nonconference game with visiting Alexander Central. Allison Schafer was all Davie needed against a team that starts three sophomores and is trying to find its way after winning five games last year.

"Schafer was focussed on running our offense," Davie coach Karen Stephens said after an unimpressive 56-40 win. "If we wouldn't have had her, we would have been in trouble because we couldn't put it in from the inside."

Schafer was the difference between a scare and a blowout. While her teammates shot 13-of-47, the 5-10 junior dropped in 8-of-13 shots, 4-of-5 free throws, scored 20 points, pulled down eight rebounds and provided a 36-26 lead with 6:53 left in the third quarter.

Davie maintained a double-figure lead the rest of the way.

Stephens was disappointed with Davie's play enough to use 11 different players in the first quarter. Although AC never threatened to upset the experienced and confident War Eagles, Davie wasn't terribly impressive while improving to 2-0.

"I was trying to find someone who would bring in some fire and do some things we need defensively," Stephens said. "We couldn't find anybody who wasn't dragging a little bit and playing sluggish. We couldn't finish anything and we got frustrated. They had more intensity than we had. They went after every loose ball. I was disappointed with our break. We were shooting jumpers instead of attacking the basket. I don't know how many times we threw the ball away and gave them layups."

Sarah Williams had 11 points and 10 rebounds. Dawn Singleton had nine points, 11 rebounds and five blocks. And Heather McDaniel had six points on 3-of-4 shooting, five assists and four steals.

Davie pulled away because the Cougars failed to score on 21 of 29 second-half possessions. They also got pounded on the boards 43-29.

Davie Boys Scrap From 17-Point Deficit

Davie's varsity boys basketball team did its best to lose to visiting Alexander Central last week.

The War Eagles were sloppy with the ball (13 turnovers in the first 12 minutes), they were anemic in missing 10 of 12 first-quarter shots and they found themselves in a terrible predicament early in the second quarter, trailing 24-7.

Then, after clawing back, Patrick Law and Micah Garner made everything better by knocking down tying and go-ahead 3-pointers in the fourth quarter as Davie (2-0) scrapped out a 47-45 nonconference win.

"We seemed to be a step behind everything, especially early," Coach Mike Absher said. "It was their first game and they came out with a lot of adrenaline. We were dropping passes, missing easy shots and not just open jump shots - layups and putbacks. There was no flow offensively at all."

Overall the War Eagles got outrebounded 36-29, missed 30 of 47 field goals and committed 24 turnovers. The win was uglier than bowling shoes, but it was a win.

"It wasn't very pretty," power forward Luke Phelps said. "We didn't give them the respect we should have. We're not going to outtalent many teams, we're going to have to outwork them. We went from man to a couple different zones, and that threw them off."

The Cougars had Davie reeling until Garner, Cliff Burns, David Schweit and Phelps put together a 10-2 run late in the second quarter to close the halftime margin to 26-21.

The lead swapped hands in the third. Then Law and Garner sparked a decisive 11-4 run, with Law popping a trey from the left wing to tie it at 38-38 and Garner burying a trey from the top of the key for a 41-38 lead with 5:03 left. AC tied it again at 42-42 with 3:10 to play, but Garner found Phelps inside as Davie grabbed the lead for good with 2:55 left.

Davie Seniors Win 17 Medals At State Games

Senior Games were organized in North Carolina in 1983 and in the spring of 1984 there were 17 local senior games statewide.

Davie County was in a cluster group with Forsyth, Stokes, Surry and Yadkin Counties.

Through the support of Davie Parks and Recreation, Davie county became sanctioned and began holding local games in 1991.

From the beginning, Hollis Smith and Nancy Tutterow were active in the local and states games. They are still competing in their age brackets.

Senior Games are designed to give senior adults 55 and over another incentive to stay fit and compete with peers. The age brackets are set in five-year increments beginning with 55-59. Every so often, Nancy moves in to the same age bracket with Hollis and they compete against each other for two years. Hollis is competing in the 80-84 age bracket and Nancy in the 75-79.

In addition to the competitive events, they both are involved in the Silver Striders Walking Program. This program can be done at the Brock gym each morning and the laps recorded, or an individual can use a record book to keep up with how far is walked. A report is sent to the state as to the number of seniors involved and the miles walked.

Davie County Senior Games offers athletic events as well as an opportunity for the creative, artistic and literary senior to display their works and compete. The Silver Arts Program has categories in literary art, heritage art, visual art, as well as performing art. Some of the less physical athletic events offered are shuffleboard, horseshoes, bowling, spin casting, billiards, basketball shooting and football throw.

The local games are in the early spring and those who place first, second or third in each event are eligible to represent Davie County in the North Carolina State Games in the fall. At the state level, there is more competition in each age bracket, and it is always good to meet others who enjoy having fun and competing. This year, although several local seniors did not receive medals, they made improvements in their personal records over the previous year. Activity in Senior Games is about improving personal health and fitness.

The State Games in Raleigh were held Oct. 1 and the weather was in the upper 80s, which is not the normal temperature for that time of year. Virginia Seats and George Kimberly competed in the grueling heat in the 5K Race Walk. It took stamina and determination to make all those laps around the track in that heat. Others who participated in Raleigh but did not win a medal were Nancy Tutterow, Sue Allen, Mike Barnette, David Miller and Nancy Haynes.

North Carolina Senior Games Golf was held Oct. 14-15 at Tanglewood. Davie Senior Games participants were Giff Basham, Lester Allen, C.W. Allen and Billy Gene Potts. The weather was cold on the first day, and it rained all day the second day. None of them won a medal, but C.W. Allen had a score low enough to qualify him for the National Senior Games in 2003.

At the Senior Games in Raleigh, Davie County brought home 17 medals. There were 14 participating. Hollis Smith, 80+, was the big winner with five medals. Also bringing home five medals was Lois Green, 55+. (Hollis and Lois won a medal in every event they entered.) A complete list of medal winners is below:

- Alice Barnette, 60+, bronze, 100 meter dash;
- Ted Freshwater, 60+, gold, racquetball;
- Lois Green, 55+, gold, discus (53.9 ft.); silver, football throw; gold, shot put (22'11"); bronze, softball throw (76'5"); silver, horseshoes; bronze, shuffleboard;
- Charlotte Miller, 60+, bronze, football throw; bronze, spin casting;
- Wanda Seiders, 60+, gold, basketball shooting;
- Hollis Smith, 80+, gold, basketball shooting; silver, football throw; silver, running long jump (4'3"); gold, standing long jump (3'6.75"); and
- John Wright, 65+, bronze, basketball shooting.

National Senior Games are held during the odd years and will be at Hampton Roads, Va., May 24-June 9 next year. The Silver Spirits, Silver Spirits II (who qualified in West Virginia), Ted Freshwater, Hollis Smith, Sue Allen and Charlotte Miller will be participating at this Senior Games event.

The primary support for Davie Senior Games is provided by Mocksville-Davie Parks and Recreation, Town of Mocksville, County of Davie and the Davie YMCA.

Silver Spirits Win Gold

Silver Spirits II, Silver Sparks Show Growth In Sr. Basketball

For several years, the Davie Silver Spirits have been a powerhouse in senior three-on-three basketball, winning state championships for the past five years in the women's 55+ age class.

This year, they advanced to the age 60+ bracket and proved their prowess again by taking the gold medal in the North Carolina State Senior Games at East Carolina.

The final game was with the Raleigh Fabulous Sixties who had defeated the Silver Spirits in pool play. With only 24 seconds left on the clock and behind 25-23, Sue Allen dropped a three-pointer to pull ahead. The game was put on ice when Charlotte Miller drew two free throws and made both, ending the game at 28-25 in favor of the Silver Spirits.

The Fabulous Sixties had been state champions in the 60+ age class for the past three years.

The Silver Spirits II are another team playing the 55+ women's category.

At the state games, they did not win a medal but were impressive with only four of their six players able to be there.

Vanessa Carter coaches both the Silver Spirits and the Silver Spirits II. At the North Carolina State Senior Games, the teams were playing at the same time making it impossible for Vanessa to be at each bench. This is when one of the men's team members stepped in and coached. The Silver Spirits II were appreciative of George Kimberly taking this responsibility and played well under his direction.

The men's team from Davie County, the Silver Sparks, played in the North Carolina Senior Games three-on-three basketball competition also. This was their second year of competition, and they played in the 55+ bracket although there are four on the team in the 65+ category. Rules state that you must play in the bracket of your youngest player, therefore they stayed in the 55+. This year, they have added two players, L. Hayden Myers and Giff Basham. The returning players were George Kimberly, David Miller, Mike Barnette, Bill Urdanick, John Wright and Dave Salmon.

The Davie Silver Spirits II had four players, Dolly Urdanick, Lois Green, Vickie Frye and Lucy Swaim, play in the state games. Not playing were Aileen Steelman, Polly Wiles and Joyce Smith.

Local Senior Games Participants Win National Competition In Utah

In early October, local senior games participants flew to Utah to take part in the Huntsman World Games, an annual event that draws athletes from all over he world. George Kimberly went to participate in the free throw-three point shots, hot shot and race-walk. He returned with a bronze medal for three-throw-three point shots.

When asked how he did in the race-walk, Kimberly replied, "I saw a lot of red dust and when I finally crossed the finish line, the dust had settled."

The Davie County Senior Games team the Silver Spirits 60+ participated for the first time in the Huntsman World Senior Games, recording an impressive victory. The Davie Silver Spirits won seven straight games to claim the gold medal in three-on-three basketball.

The Spirits played teams from California, Ohio, Michigan and two teams from New Mexico.

In the pool play, the Silver Spirits had beaten the Fox Trotters 29-25. This had been an awesome game for Charlotte Miller. She scored 22 of the 29 points with eight of the shots being three pointers.

After learning that the Silver Spirits were going to play in the finals, their coach Vanessa Carter, and her husband Billy flew to Utah to be with them at the final game. Their presence gave the team added confidence and support. They won 21-11 against the Fox Trotters of New Mexico.

In individual competitions, Charlotte Miller and Wanda Seiders tied for the gold in free throw and three-point shooting in the 60+ age group, and Rachel Howard won the silver medal in that competition. Sue Allen earned the gold medal in the same event for the 65+.

The hot shot basketball shoot, a timed event, was won by Charlotte Miller with a record-breaking score for women, 49 in one minute. Wanda Seiders took the silver.

Members of the Davie County Silver Spirits team and George Kimberly all agree that this was a wonderful experience and would like to compete at Huntsman World Games in the future.

NFL Showdown of the Week

Denver 26
*N.Y. Jets 23

They've climbed back into contention, but the Jets can only hope for some big breaks against the Broncos, because they sure can't stop them. Denver beat N.Y. in '00, the last time they faced off, 30-23.

NFL FORECAST: December 8-9

(Sunday)
*Arizona	14
Detroit	10

The Cardinals and Lions, weak on both sides of the ball, will fight for little more than pride. In Tempe in 2001, Jake Plummer and Charlie Batch combined for seven passing TD's in a 45-38 Arizona win.

*Carolina	21
Cincinnati	9

Against the Panthers' stingy defense, the listless Bengals may not manage more than a field goal or two -- much like their only previous meeting, three years ago, when Carolina clobbered Cincy 27-3.

Denver	26
*N.Y. Jets	23

They've climbed back into contention, but the Jets can only hope for some big breaks against the Broncos, because they sure can't stop them. Denver beat N.Y. in '00, the last time they faced off, 30-23.

*Green Bay	35
Minnesota	17

Brett Favre's record as a starter in the Metrodome fell to 2-9 as the Vikings intercepted him three times three weeks ago on the way to a 31-21 upset. Minnesota will run well again, but a sweep? No way.

*Jacksonville	20
Cleveland	19

A near toss-up, but the Jaguars will win with their ground game, the Browns' defensive weakness. In their AFC Central rivalry, Jacksonville won seven of eight, finally losing to Cleveland last season.

*New England	29
Buffalo	14

Tom Brady threw four TD passes in the Patriots' 38-7 Week Nine spanking of the Bills, Buffalo's worst home loss since '83. The Bills' pass defense is better than that, but N.E. will sweep them again.

New Orleans	19
*Baltimore	16

If the Saints were run-only (like the offensively challenged Ravens), Baltimore's defense could handle them, but N.O. throws as well as its runs. The Ravens are 2-0 in the series, with '96 and '99 wins.

N.Y. Giants	15
*Washington	13

We said there'd be field goals last month: the Giants' Matt Bryant kicked four, and N.Y. blocked one to get past the Redskins 19-17. The Giants will sweep Washington for the first time in seven years.

Oakland	27
*San Diego	21

LaDainian Tomlinson's OT TD led the Chargers over the Raiders seven weeks ago, 27-21. S.D. also gave up 353 passing yards, and that's what'll keep them from sweeping Oakland for the first time since '92.

Philadelphia	24
*Seattle	14

They have solid pass defense, but the Seahawks don't have much else, while the Eagles have everything else. Donovan McNabb threw for two TD's and ran for another as Philly shut Seattle down in '01, 27-3.

*Pittsburgh	32
Houston	16

With pass defense that's anything but solid, the Steelers haven't exactly been a sure thing, but if they can't make short work of the weakest passing game in the league, they'll raise legitimate doubts.

St. Louis	21
*Kansas City	20

Here's our throw-a-dart-blindfolded pick of the week: The Rams don't run well, the Chiefs don't throw well, K.C. has no pass defense but it's playing at home . . . The Chiefs won last, two years ago.

San Francisco	28
*Dallas	17

The Cowboys pose no offensive threat to the 49ers, so this one's all about how well Dallas defends against S.F.'s ground game. The Cowboys were 27-21 upset winners over the 49ers at home last season.

*Tampa Bay	25
Atlanta	14

Do the Falcons pose any offensive threat to the Buccaneers? Maybe, if they run, but that's what T.B. will be looking for. The Bucs knocked Michael Vick out of their 20-6 win over Atlanta in Week Five.

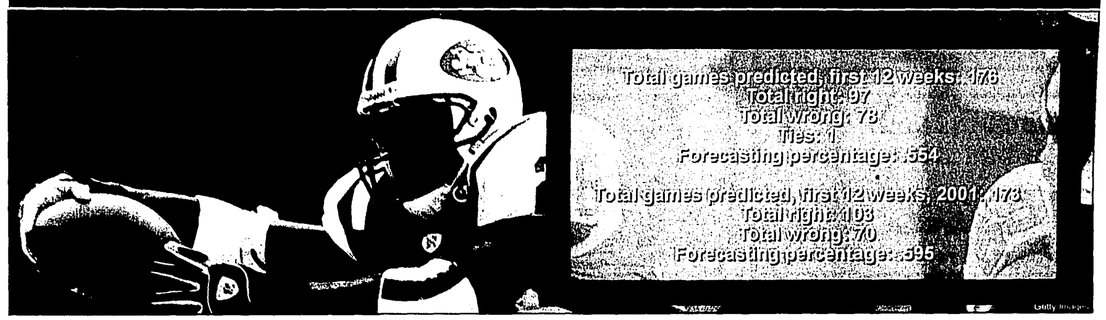

*Tennessee	21
Indianapolis	19

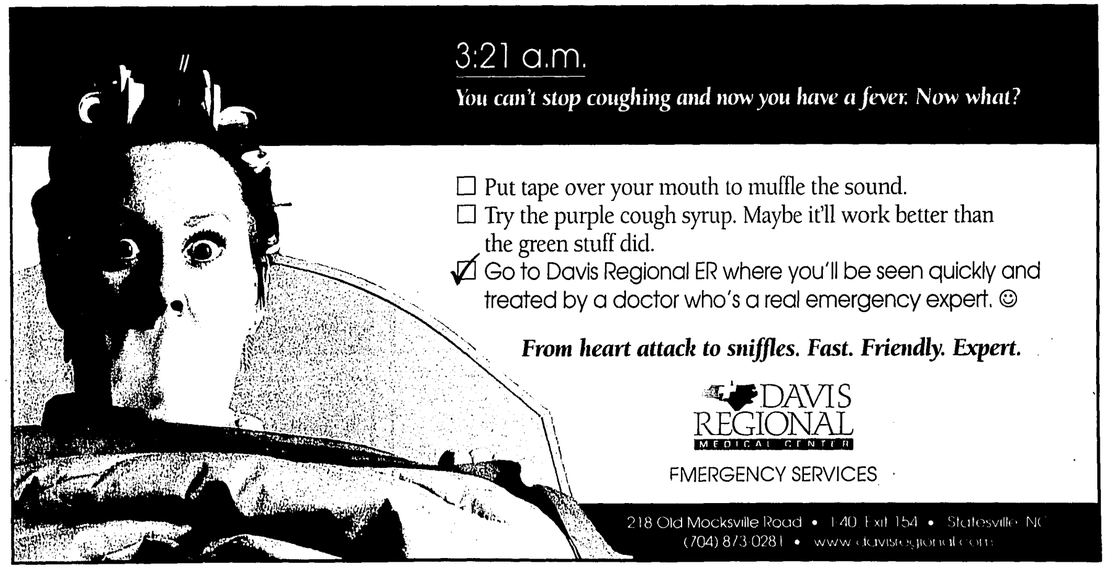

Despite scraping together only 198 total yards, the Titans made the most of Colts turnovers and beat them 23-15 in November. That was an upset, and this will be too, given Indy's superior air attack.

(Monday)
*Miami	34
Chicago	16

Another matchup that sounded good in pre-season but probably won't look much like these teams' last showdown, a thrilling 36-33 Bears win in OT in '97. Miami should dominate with and without the ball.

Davie head coach Doug Illing tried in vain to get Davie moving in its 42-0 quarterfinal loss at A.C. Reynolds.

Offensive coordinator Bill Oakley signals a play.

Brian Hunter caught six passes, coming one shy of Thadd Johnson's single-season record of 37.

Davie buckets up for its second quarterfinal game in history. Its only other appearance was 1997.

James Arnold had 971 yards rushing and 929 passing.

The cheerleaders yell for the football team as it races to the sideline.

to hurt you. We got Trevor going on the outside finally."

Davie's stats were woeful. In the first half, only two plays went for more than 4 yards, 11- and 23-yard completions from Andrew McClannon to Larry Hudson and Brian Hunter. The War Eagles had minus-5 yards rushing to A.C.'s 338 and 103 total yards to A.C.'s 377. They went 1-for-11 on third down. McClannon and James Arnold were 13-of-30 passing with six interceptions.

"It wasn't a lack of our effort, it was them," left guard/linebacker Justin Norsworthy said. "We tried things we normally do early, and it didn't work so we had to resort to things we're not accustomed to and not comfortable with - such as a lot of passing. We're used to getting 4 yards a pop, and in this case we played an excellent defense and an excellent team.

"Gosh, their fullback was a hard runner. It seemed like their offensive line was making holes big enough to drive a truck through. They didn't pass the ball much; they didn't have to. I commend them. A lot of that has to do with their offseason training, and that's one thing we're going to have to get used to doing."

After Davie failed to cash in two turnovers early in the third when it was still 14-0, things really got ugly. Steele ripped off 22- and 25-yarders, made it 28-0 with 3:34 left in the third and ended Davie's pipe dream of reaching the semifinals for the first time ever.

Davie, which lost to A.C. 28-7 in the 1999 second round, is 0-2 in the quarterfinals.

A.C. Reynolds' sensational defense prevented tailback/quarterback Arnold (14 carries, 15 yards) from getting any rhythm. Justin Brown – who surpassed 1,000 rushing yards the previous week, but sprained his ankle in the process – ran the ball once and played only one series. No one else had more than three rushing yards, while A.C.'s backup tailback gained 42 during mop-up time.

It got worse when A.C. tacked on two touchdowns in the final 42 seconds, including a 62-yard interception return.

When the dust cleared, it was Davie's first shutout loss since a 28-0 setback to Mount Tabor in 1998, spanning 50 games. It was the most points Davie's allowed since a 57-21 loss to Reynolds in 1995, spanning 90 games. It was the worst margin of defeat since a 64-0 loss to Salisbury in 1995. And it was reminiscent of Davie's worst playoff loss, 43-0 to West Charlotte in 1989.

"We missed on some easy passes that we usually connect on," Illing said. "When we don't connect on passes, it makes our offense struggle. Our play-action passes, little curls, hitches and slants were open, but they were a little over our head or a little too far in front. You've got to be able to hit those kind of passes when you've got a team stuffing the run like that."

The War Eagles – who were 4-6 before rallying to secure the sixth non-losing record in seven years and the 10th seven-win season in 47 years - were playing on house money and weren't supposed to win. Still, the mood was glum sending off seniors under these conditions.

"Ninety-nine percent of them go out losers, but it's still tough when you see them grow up and go through the adversity that we've gone through," Illing said. "They've given us a lot of effort and determination, and you hate to see them go out this way."

THE WOUNDS WILL SURELY HEAL because the future seems as bright as it ever has. One freshman, five sophomores and seven juniors started, and several others played extensively.

"We'll be back next year," junior Norsworthy said. "I think we've got the leadership we need coming back and we have an agenda set for the offseason that can turn some heads next year."

"It's exciting," Illing said. "We've got a lot of young kids that gained great experience and got a taste of the big atmosphere of the playoffs. The exciting thing is they want to get back here and want to play this Thanksgiving round at home. So I'm sure they'll be motivated in the offseason to prepare for next year."

Notes: Norsworthy recovered two fumbles, Sam Stovall recovered one and freshman Raeshon McNeil picked off his fourth pass – all in the last four weeks. ... The loss ended the career of Stovall, a DL anchor since 1999. ... A.C. faced third down five times in the first half, and the longest one was third-and-3.

Alcoa Power Generating Inc.
Yadkin Division Site Visit

Yadkin Project – Site Visit December 12, 2002

Alcoa Power Generating Inc. – Yadkin Division (Yadkin) is initiating the process of relicensing its Yadkin Hydroelectric Project - (Project No. 2197) with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC). As part of the process, five public meetings were held throughout the Yadkin Project area in November 2002.

Due to inclement weather conditions during the November 12 site visit date, Yadkin will provide another opportunity to tour the Project's developments on Thursday, Dec. 12, 2002.

Site visits represent an important opportunity to learn more about the Yadkin Project and the FERC relicensing process. Each site visit will include a presentation and Yadkin staff will be on-hand to answer your questions.

For more information, or to receive directions, please visit Alcoa's Web site at www.yadkin-apgi.com, or call Pat Shaver, APGI – Yadkin, at 704-422-5678.

The schedule for the site visits is as follows:

High Rock and Tuckertown Developments
Please plan to drive to these sites. Public access roads are open. Presentations will be given hourly from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Narrows and Falls Developments
Shuttle buses will be used to transport you to each of these sites. Please DO NOT travel directly to the Narrows and Falls powerhouses. The access roads are narrow and cannot accommodate heavy traffic. The buses will be leaving the Alcoa employee parking lot in Badin at 8:30 a.m., 10:30 a.m.,12:30 p.m. and 2:30 p.m.

Stanley Stars Give Davie Wrestling Sturdy Shoulders

But the arch-villains ripped the War Eagles to shreds 52-12 and handed them another beating in the state quarterfinals (it was only 39-30 because of late forfeits). Last year Tabor dominated Davie for a third straight time 43-20.

The twins were three-sport stars at North Davie. With an older brother at West Forsyth, they enrolled at West as freshmen, then transferred to Tabor for their sophomore and junior years.

They were a mighty combination as sophomores: Colt went 38-12 and placed fifth in the state, while Clint went 38-14. Last year Colt went 58-12 and finished second in the regional before shoulder problems short-circuited his season. Clint went 58-13 and won the regional title at 189.

They helped Tabor become high rollers, winning state-dual and state-individual 4-A titles in 2000-01 and finishing third in the state duals and second in the state individuals last year.

Before the Stanleys joined Davie's 2-2 mystery team, Lowery bemoaned the absence of experienced, proven models for the laundry list of freshmen and sophomores. Now the Stanleys, combined with this week's arrival of football players Ted Randolph, Ryan Boehm and Andrew Darcy, give the War Eagles every reason to think they can roll the way they have for the past 20 years.

No disrespect to the ones who were starting at 171 and 189, but you simply can't hang your hat on freshmen and sophomores in the upper weights.

"I hope to be able to wrestle some of those younger ones in some JV stuff, which is going to make them better and more confident because they're going to be able to hit stuff," Lowery said. "It's hard for a freshman to walk in there in the upper weights. Plus, they're going to be wrestling some good wrestlers in practice, and if you don't get tough you're going to get your head beat in. We didn't have hardly any experience, and maybe Clint can help Boehm get better and things like that."

The Stanleys hope teammates and fans will welcome them back. Colt said a disagreement with Tabor's coach prompted the move.

"I feel good about it. I want to make Davie better," Colt said.

"I hope they can respect us enough to accept us back," Clint said.

Instead of harboring any hard feelings about the Davie-Tabor rivalry from the last two years, teammates are reveling in Davie's new personality.

"They're going to help us out a lot," junior Zac Morton said. "It changes a lot of things because now we've got two real good wrestlers up there that have a lot of experience. I think everybody is excited because they're going to help us out so much."

"Now we won't give up four or five matches in a row," sophomore Jared Shrewsbury said. "The matches will look better."

"I'm glad they're here," freshman Aaron Hollifield said. "They're going to make a big difference. Now we're going to pin in those spots."

Lowery, the 27-year veteran who has always run a first-class program, has never begged a kid to wrestle, never sacrificed his integrity for wins. He didn't call the Stanleys; they called him. "I'm trying to make it as smooth as we possibly can," he said. "As long as you keep the kids in mind, I don't think people can say too much. I don't go out and recruit kids. They wanted to come here. I just want to do what's best for those boys."

You might want to circle Dec. 11 on your calenders. That's when Tabor visits Davie for a nonconference match at 6 p.m. What was a big match has evolved into a blockbuster attraction with subplots.

"Tabor's a young team just like Davie. They don't have any seniors," Colt said. "It's going to be big-time like it was our sophomore year when we wrestled Davie. Hopefully we'll whip them."

Colt and Clint aspire to wrestle in college, naming N.C. State and Appalachian as possibilities, and they both plan to try out for Davie's baseball team.

Lowery Reaches 400 Wins; Davie Wins 4 Of 5 At St. Stephens

Now Ted Randolph, Ryan Boehm and assorted others from football are ready to bolster the lineup even more.

Lowery

"If we would have had the Stanleys earlier, we could have beaten East Burke and Southwest Randolph," said Lowery, who's lost three matches by a combined 17 points. "We should have won over St. Stephens. We're getting a little better everyday, and those two new ones change everything. It's like everything kind of snowballs with confidence and everything else. It's pretty much a 24-point swing."

Lowery achieved a milestone in the first match of the day against South Caldwell, picking up his 400th win. Davie went 49-13 (not counting forfeits) for the day, getting 5-0 performances from Colt and Clint Stanley, Russell Hilton, Dusty Johnson, Andrew Scott and Millard Smith. Hilton and Johnson pinned all five of their opponents, while the Stanleys and Smith registered four pins apiece.

Meanwhile, Justin Bentley, Aaron Hollifield and Zac Morton went 4-1, and Timmy Allen and Jeremiah Raby went 3-2.

"After that first night at Southwest Randolph, I didn't know if I was going to get 400," said: 'Man, it might take me a while,' " Lowery said. "After winning four of five at St. Stephens, I told this freshman and sophomore group: 'We're going to get 500 before y'all leave.' "

The young guns have given plenty of glimpses of how strong Davie can be over the next several years. For the year, sophomores Johnson and Smith are 9-0; junior Morton and freshman Hollifield were 8-0 before losing to St. Stephens; freshman Hilton is 6-1 with six straight wins; junior Bentley is 7-2; sophomore Raby is 6-3; freshman Allen is 5-4; and senior Scott is 8-1 with eight straight wins.

"We could have beat St. Stephens and St. Stephens beat Riverside 48-18," Lowery said.

St. Stephens didn't put Davie away until the 13th weight class. The Stanleys gave Davie a 10-3 lead. Hilton and Johnson posted back-to-back pins for a 22-15 lead and Scott prevailed 3-2 to pull Davie within 28-25 with two matches left.

But Davie lost the first of 14 matchups 10-8 in overtime and had to forfeit at 145, the next-to-last weight class, giving St. Stephens an insurmountable 34-25 lead.

HOLLIFIELD went undefeated at South Davie Middle last year and opened his Davie career with eight straight wins at 125. But a 14-5 loss to St. Stephens might be one of the most impressive things he's done.

How could a loss top the list? Hollifield squared off with Drew Forshey, who is trying to become the third North Carolina wrestler in the past 69 years to win four state championships. Last year Forshey went 56-1 and won the 3A state at 119. He entered his senior year with a career record of 161-1, the lone loss to a Georgia wrestler in a tournament last year.

But Forshey didn't blow Hollifield's doors off, settling for four points.

"Forshey's bad. I mean he looks like a 140-pounder," Lowery said. "I thought Hollifield did a heckuva job. He did everything he could. He gave up back points one time, and that was quick (by the referee). He wrestled him as good as he could, and Forshey's pretty intimidating."

Earlier in the day, the freshman phenom defeated a guy from South Caldwell who had been ranked third in the state at 112.

"Different people were telling me different things all day (about facing Forshey)," Hollifield said. "I wrestled Josh Stanley before in practice, and I was just acting like I was wrestling Josh Stanley. That was the best way I figured I could wrestle him.

"Everybody was expecting him to pin me or tech me. Everybody was pretty pumped up about (lasting six minutes), and it made me feel pretty good."

Notes: Raby's fearless style is giving Lowery gray hairs. "He's a lot like Tony Angell," Lowery said. "He'll get in a predicament, find a way out of it and end up pinning the sucker." ... Bill Mayhew, South Iredell's coach since 1964, is the state's leader in career wins at 588-140.

War Eagle Boys Start 2-0 Despite Sloppiness

Schweit

AC was cooked when Nick Nelson sank a 15-footer for a 46-42 lead.

Law led Davie with 11 points on three 3-pointers. Garner had 10 points, four assists and four rebounds. Burns hit four of six shots for nine points. Phelps had seven points, nine rebounds and two blocks, and Nelson had five points and five assists.

"It was sloppy," Garner said. "The only thing we really did well was come together at the end. That first quarter we didn't play like a team, we played like individuals.

"I think this will help in the end, a tight game. A win's a win but there's things we can improve on."

The War Eagles were able to do enough to get by because of Absher's switch from man-to-man to halfcourt zone pressure, which held AC scoreless on 12 of 15 fourth-quarter possessions. Although Schweit has two points in two games, he's put his imprint on both wins.

"Defense started it," Absher said. "That's twice Schweit has (contributed significantly on the defensive end). Even though he hasn't play much, he's really played hard on defense in both games.

"We never could really get over the hump, but that speaks highly of their character and their ability to compete when a lot of other teams might have given up."

The War Eagles play nonconference games at home to North Iredell on Dec. 5, at Mount Tabor on Dec. 6 and at home to Mooresville on Dec. 10.

Davie 47, Alexander Central 45 - Patrick Law 11, Micah Garner 10, Cliff Burns 9, Luke Phelps 7, Nick Nelson 5, David Schweit 2, Brandon Capwell 2, Matt Smith 1.

JV Boys Coach Optimistic Fortunes Will Turn

Coach Roger Bumgarner isn't discouraged by the Davie JV boys basketball team's 0-2 start. The football team's playoff run forced him to start four freshmen in last week's 47-37 nonconference loss to visiting Alexander Central.

"They're young and they're going to make mistakes, especially freshmen," he said. "The future looks bright for Davie with all these freshmen and the freshmen coming off the football team."

The War Eagles aren't that far from 2-0. They chopped Statesville's lead to two in the fourth quarter before losing 65-61 in the opener, and they surged to an 18-10 halftime lead over AC.

The Cougars, however, blew past Davie 21-4 in the third quarter for a 31-22 advantage.

"We played really good man-to-man defense in the first half," Bumgarner said. "They kind of spread us out in the second half and we didn't get the help defense we needed. They've got a post player that killed us in the second half (to finish with 19 game-high points)."

Davie was led by Devon Venable, a 6-3 freshman center who scored 17 points. Evan Hall and Kyle Winters hit two 3-pointers each to add eight and six points, respectively.

"Winters came off the bench and played really good, and Devon's a good-looking freshman," Bumgarner said. "But we had some shots rim in and out on us and we missed a couple easy shots under the basket. A couple 3-pointers rimmed out. I know Evan rimmed a couple in and out, and Drew Yeager usually shoots the ball well.

"We did learn a little more about help defense and saw how important it is to collapse when the ball goes in the post."

Davie has nonconference home games against North Iredell on Dec. 5, Mount Tabor on Dec. 6 and Mooresville on Dec. 10.

Alexander Central 47, Davie 37 - Devon Venable 17, Evan Hall 8, Kyle Winters 6, Brent Harpe 3, Michael Bingham 2, Drew Yeager 1.

JV Girls Stumble To 0-2

Alexander Central took command in the third quarter and dropped Davie's JV girls basketball team to 0-2 with a 48-40 nonconference win over the host War Eagles last week.

"We fell apart on defense and couldn't score," Coach Janice Jackson said of the pivotal third.

It was 10-10 after the first quarter and the War Eagles trailed 21-15 at halftime. But the third was all AC as the Cougars outscored Davie 18-7 to take a 39-22 lead. Davie doubled AC 18-9 in the fourth, but the damage had been done.

Erin Whitaker had 15 points in defeat, and Ashley Cornatzer collected three points, six steals and six rebounds.

"We should have been right there with them," said Jackson, whose team turned it over 21 times - after committing 22 turnovers in the opener - and only managed seven offensive rebounds. "(AC's top scorer with 22 points) was just driving at will. We had bad passes again and we didn't get any second shots."

Danielle O'Neal and Evony Tucker scored six each and Brooke Harris had five. The War Eagles have nonconference home games against North Iredell on Dec. 5, Mount Tabor on Dec. 6 and Mooresville on Dec. 10.

Alexander Central 48, Davie 40 - Erin Whitaker 15, Danielle O'Neal 6, Evony Tucker 6, Brooke Harris 5, Allison Mackintosh 3, Ashley Cornatzer 3, Ashley Whitlock 2, Sloan Smith 2, Shanicka Brown 1.

Davie Girls Now 2-0

kept throwing people at us," AC's first-year coach, Caroline Whittington, said. "They were deeper than us and physically it got us at times. Obviously we're going to have to get in better shape so we can play with teams deeper than us."

Stephens

Notes: Third-year starter Brittany Walker missed her only field-goal attempt and went scoreless for the first time in 53 varsity games. She did have four assists. ... Off the bench, Andrea Dwiggins went 2-of-3 and grabbed four rebounds. ... Davie plays nonconference games at home to North Iredell on Dec. 5, at Mount Tabor on Dec. 6 and at home to Mooresville on Dec. 10.

Davie 56, Alexander Central 40 – Allison Schafer 20, Sarah Williams 11, Dawn Singleton 9, Heather McDaniel 6, Andrea Dwiggins 4, Alyson Walker 2, Carly Booth 2, Kierston Kahrs 2.

Wax & Hardwood Doesn't Mix

North Iredell waxed its gym floor before a quadrupleheader with the Davie High varsity and JV basketball teams last week.

Instead of 128 minutes of hoops, the slick-as-ice floor rendered the action to two minutes.

"Nobody could stand up," Davie JV girls coach Janice Jackson said. "I said: 'I'll play but if they start falling down we're walking off the court.' And one of their girls got hurt (spraining her wrist)."

Davie's Brooke Harris and a North player went tumbling two minutes into the first of four games, and all the games were called off with Davie's JV girls leading 6-3.

"The official told me: 'I'm worried about them falling down and I'm worried about me falling down,' " Jackson said. "They tried to mop it up for about 30 minutes, and it didn't work.

"It was all scarred up and somebody was embarrassed, so they waxed the floor. They're going to refinish it at Christmas. We fix ours every year, but they do it in the summer. They don't put wax on it. Wax and hardwood floor don't go good together."

BBQ To Benefit Boys Basketball

A barbecue fundraiser to benefit Davie boys basketball will be held Dec. 7 from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the high school. Plates are $7 each. Tickets are available in Davie's main office.

West Buries South's Seventh Graders

West Rowan buried South Davie's seventh-grade basketball teams in the first half, and then put it on cruise control in last week's Mid-South Conference opener.

Combined, the host Bulldogs outscored South 38-12 in the first half, pounding South's boys 23-7 on the way to a 47-30 victory and jumping on South's girls 15-5 en route to a 41-23 decision.

Coach Todd Bumgarner's girls slipped to 1-2 overall, while Coach Tim Devericks' boys remained winless at 0-3.

"They've got a couple pretty good players, but we're just not playing good," Bumgarner said. "We didn't execute in the first half. We got a little rattled against their press."

West held Meisha Fowler to a season-low eight points, and Tekaira Gaither had six. Tyara Wagner, Laura Vanboy and Ayanna Leach had two each and Amanda Stewart one.

South settled down and produced 18 points in the second half, but still got outscored by eight.

"We executed better in the second half, but they played good in the second half," Bumgarner said. "We're having trouble making easy shots and getting transition buckets, and that's what we do best. We didn't force a lot of turnovers like we have been. West is pretty good. They handle the ball good."

COLBY SEAFORD put on a shooting exhibition with five 3-pointers and 19 points, but otherwise South's boys achieved little. Matt Van Hoy and Darius Hall scored four each. Clint Howell had two and Sonny Stanley one.

Notes: The Tigers play at Corriher-Lipe on Dec. 5 and at home to Southeast on Dec. 10. ... Results from North Davie's games against Downtown and Erwin weren't available.

Rampaging North Wrestling Wins By 81, 78

Ever the perfectionist, North Davie wrestling coach Ron Kirk wasn't just happy to beat Southeast by 42 points on Nov. 19. So last week the Wildcats attacked with the fury of a tornado and swept by Table Rock and Erwin by a combined 167-8.

That's more like it, huh coach?

"We're wrestling better," Kirk said after North raced to 4-0 with routs of 84-3 over Table Rock and 83-5 over Erwin. "We were aggressive, we're starting to use techniques better and take it one match at a time. I just told them there wasn't any sense in spending all this time working in practice and not utilizing our techniques the way we should.

"They picked up the pace a little bit."

North rolled up 26 pins of a possible 30 in the two matches, the second of which was the Mid-South Conference opener. North has nine wrestlers unbeaten at 4-0: Adam Mellwain, Chris Ange, Sam Curtis, Brandon Stewart, Kevin Boehm, Mark Huggins, Daniel Gough, Michael Murphy, Josh Miller.

Joel Barnett broke into the starting lineup last week and responded with two pins. And four guys with three or more decisions only have one loss. Patrick O'Connor and Josh Dixon are 3-1 and Zac Gentry and Josh Hartman are 2-1.

In 60 matches with four opponents, the Wildcats have a mind-blowing 41 pins. If that's not dominant enough, they went 20-3 in preliminaries. Max Grantham, Ricky McKnight, Bennett Shipman, Justin Lee, Justin Tesh, Tim Hudson, Adam Cloer, Ben Hinson, Chris Woltz, Nathan Budd, John Stewart, Eli Sheppard, D.J. Holman and Tim Stanley posted wins against Table Rock, while Shipman, James Knell, Joey Morang, Brandon Smith, Josh Riddle and Budd won against Erwin.

North wrestles at Knox Dec. 5; at home against W. Rowan Dec. 12.

South Wrestling Runs Win Streak To 20

So much for the South Davie wrestling team's rebuilding. Last week's schedule said tests against Table Rock and West Rowan, but the matches had the feel of warmup acts three and four for the Tigers, who kept pace with North Davie by torturing Table Rock 82-6 and clinching a 54-36 win over West Rowan with four weight classes to go.

"I thought Table Rock would be better," said Coach Howard Riddle, who feared South's winning streak, which grew to 20, would be in danger. "We wrestled them second (after North Davie pounded on Table Rock) and they looked sluggish. They weren't near as good as they were last year. (Coach) Scott (Page, a former Davie wrestling star) knows he doesn't have the talent right now. He didn't have but a couple kids back from last year."

Though the Tigers, who romped past everyone last year with a lineup dominated by eighth graders, entered the season with a lot to prove, they haven't let any of their four victims up for air, routing Forsyth Country Day (66-21) and Knox (69-15) going into last week. That's impressive considering nine seventh graders are starting.

"West wasn't as strong as they were last year," Riddle said. "We got a lot of people wins and got confidence."

Thirteen of 15 matches with Table Rock resulted in South pins, but Craig Brown's 12-1 major decision was the headliner because he stomped a kid who defeated North Davie at 119.

"Brown beat him good," Riddle said. "Brown wrestled him second and that five minutes didn't hurt, but if we would have wrestled first I think Brown would have still beat him."

Kirston Angell pinned his 140 opponent from West Rowan in 15 seconds, and Travis Goforth delivered a clutch come-from-behind win at 83. Down 8-4 going into the third and final period, Goforth chose bottom, got a reversal, stuck him and tied the match at 18. Goforth's stunner also triggered a 36-0 run.

"We needed that. They were getting a little momentum," Riddle said. "We were looking at going down (at least 21-12) if we don't win there."

For the week, South got 2-0 efforts from Floyd Collins, Matt Harrison, Jessie Cousins, Brown, Adam Sipe, Angell and Brandon Jones. Jessie Bateman, Derek Abendroth and Goforth were 1-0. And Caleb Creason, Sean Watkins, Jessie Frye, Jesse Crotts and Graham Harmon split two.

Despite the Tigers' surprising early-season dominance, Riddle said they're far from invincible. That's evidenced by the fact only four wrestlers with three matches under their belt are still undefeated.

"I think we're going to win a lot of matches by those type (54-36) of scores," he said. "If we score 60 we're doing pretty good. I don't think we're going to break the 70s like we have in the past. We're going to be happy with 50 or 60.

"We're going to have to wrestle our butts off. Angell, Brown, Collins and Harrison are guys we need pins from. We've got to be able to depend on them every match."

Notes: Collins, Brown and Angell are 4-0, and all of Collins' wins have been pins. Jones is 3-0. ... The Tigers have won 52 in a row against non-North Davie opponents. ... They host Corriher-Lipe Dec. 5 and go to Southeast Dec. 10. ... In preliminaries, D.J. Garrison and Grady Cartner went 2-0, while Goforth, Chris Wensil, Jr. Payne and Bateman went 1-0. Jon Ferree split two prelims.

Thanksgiving Moneyfest Draws Crowd To The Farm

Cold temperatures didn't keep a record number of entries away from Farmington Dragway's annual Thanksgiving Moneyfest races. If This Keeps Up, We're Going To Need Another Trophy Case.

...Rowan Regional Medical Center was ...recently with two awards from ...statewide professional organizations dedicated to improving quality of care for patients.

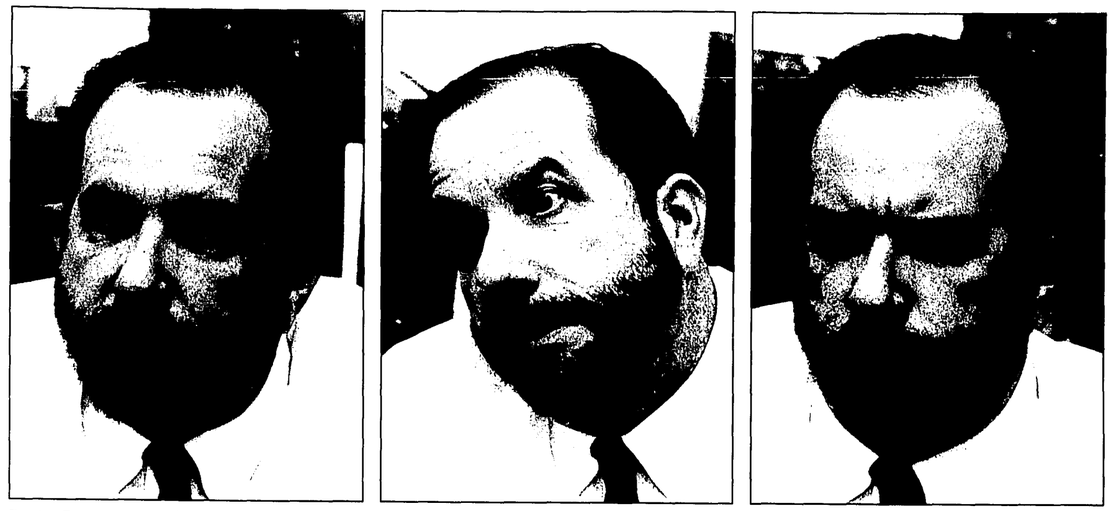

The 2002 Ralph E. Snyder M.D. Award of Excellence for healthcare quality improvement. The award, given by Medical Review of North Carolina, cited Rowan Regional's "excellence for efforts to significantly improve the care of heart failure patients." MRNC, the peer review organization for Medicare quality improvement, gives only one Snyder Award of Excellence in North Carolina each year.

The 2002 Research Utilization Award from the North Carolina Nurses Association. This award, presented in October at the annual NCNA convention in Raleigh, recognized Rowan Regional's initiatives to prevent pneumonia in critically ill patients.

So we hope you'll understand if our awards case looks a little crowded. We wouldn't have it any other way.

The Herbal Difference

Mocksville Man Helps Others Remain More Healthy

For five years, The Natural Health Shoppe has claimed a corner of Mocksville's Town Square.

Located between Counter Point Music and the Leonard Building, the storefront is simple and unpretentious. The view through the glass windows reveals books, displays of such products as essential oils and shelves with row after row of bottles filled with vitamins, supplements and herbal remedies.

Heart to Heart with Kathy Chaffin

Six days a week, owner and certified herbalist Preston D. Parsons greets customers with a warm smile and an offer to answer questions about products on display or suggest ones they may want to consider.

"We don't diagnose or prescribe," he says. "We're not attempting to be medical doctors, not at all."

What Preston and Janice Petroff, a registered nurse who volunteers in the shop, do attempt to do on a regular basis are make recommendations for natural medicines and supplements that may be appropriate to either improve the general condition of a customer's health or help with a specific illness or condition.

Ideally, Preston says he likes to do a full consultation with a customer, looking at such factors as the person's lifestyle, diet and family history.

"That's really the best way to go," he says. "If we can get that kind of background information, we can oftentimes spot areas of deficiency where these materials would be appropriate for just building a general sense of well-being and immunity and so forth."

Consultations run from $100 to $150 and last anywhere from one to three hours "depending on the depth that we need to go to," he says.

However, consultations are not required in order for Preston to recommend a product or products. "We give away a lot of time up front, too," he says.

Some of the customers of The Natural Health Shoppe were referred by area medical practitioners as well as by doctors from as far away as Greensboro, Wilkesboro and the mountains. "I'm proud to tell you that," he says, "because they don't just send their patients anywhere."

As a result, Preston says many people who might never go into a health food store have become regular customers. "Some very conservative people come in here," he says.

Those who weren't referred may have simply noticed the shop and dropped by with questions about an herb or nutritional supplement they heard or read about. Preston says he tries to answer questions or steer them toward other products if they're more appropriate for the situation.

One problem with the "self-serve health food stores," he says, is that customers may experiment with the wrong product for their particular needs. "It doesn't do what they were thinking it would do for them," he says, "so in many cases, they may swear off the whole natural nutritional field and say, 'Well, I tried it and it doesn't work.'"

That's why Preston says he believes the consultant work he does is so important. "This can be very complicated, and it does vary from individual to individual," he says. "In other words, and this is the case for just about everything, there's not a one size fits all."

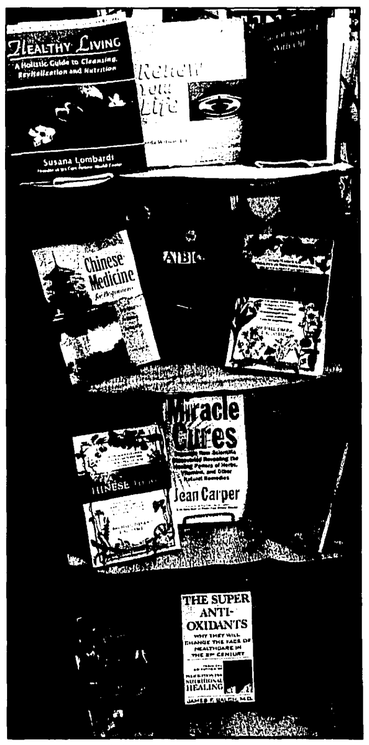

Some customers go to The Natural Health Shoppe looking for natural remedies to take in conjunction with medicine prescribed by their doctors. "We're not anti-pharmaceutical," he says.

In fact, Preston says he has a pharmacist coming on board in the near future to assist with consultations.

Customers of The Natural Health Shoppe come in with a wide range of issues. Parents, for example, have brought in children diagnosed with Attention Deficit Disorder and Attention Deficit Hyperactive Disorder.

The shelves at the shop located on Mocksville's town square are lined with herbal products and books. Consultations are also available.

Herbalist Draws Customers From Across Region

"We typically recommend a variety of herbals and western nutritionals, essential fatty acids and so forth," Preston says. "We have very good anecdotal reports coming back."

When they come back in and restock on supplements, parents oftentimes comment on the improvement in their children. "It has made that much difference in some of them," he says. "The children even tell the parents sometimes, 'I actually feel different.' "

Among the other health concerns that customers have are questions about natural hormone replacement remedies, anti-aging and chronic pain.

Most of the customers of The Natural Health Shoppe are 30 to 35 years of age and up, according to Preston.

"We have some persons that come in here that are in their 80s and 90s," he says. "Many of them, I have found, are absolute advocates of nutritional materials.

"It's almost as if they know at a soul or heart level that the materials are making them feel like they're more viable and keeping their activity levels up."

You don't have to be around Preston Parsons long to feel his passion for his work. "I take this very seriously," he says. "I eat and sleep this stuff. I literally take this stuff home with me, and when I say that, I mean literally every day."

Over the years, Preston, who is 49, has completed various training programs on natural healing including the Natural Solutions Training Institute out of Arkansas. He has also done extensive study on Chinese traditional herbal medicine.

"Chinese medicine is based on thousands of years of political and social history in China," he says. "It's an entirely different thing and to understand Chinese medicine, one almost has to unlearn what he knew if anything about western medicine or even western herbal medicine."

Preston Parsons: "I take this very seriously. I eat and sleep this stuff." - Photos by Robin Fergusson

Preston says he doesn't keep all of the Chinese herbs that he might recommend on hand because they literally encompass thousands of materials and combinations.

"As the old Chinese adage goes," he says, " 'One herb, many disorders; one disorder, many herbs.' We have access to all that, and we do order them and use them as needed."

That is another way The Natural Health Shoppe differs from "the mass market store brand of herbalism," Preston says, "where you go in and get your bottle of St. John's wort if you think you're depressed or have a seasonal affective disorder.

"To really background somebody with depression, you would need to know their diet, their lifestyle. It gets into a whole range of things."

For the past four years, Preston has been studying under the East-West School of Herbal Medicine out of California under Dr. Michael Tierra, who he says is one of the more skilled practitioners in the area of integrating western herbal medicine with Chinese herbal medicine and East Indian ayurvedic herbal medicine.

Over the years, Preston, who is now a candidate for an NMD (doctor of naturopathic medicine), has studied mainstream as well as esoteric healing, including iridology, the study of using the iris of the eye as a diagnostic tool, and kinesiology, the study of muscles and their movements.

"We're always students and always will be in this field," he says. "You'll never be a master. It's just too big and evolving. You have to continuously be a student to really be of any value to the public."

Preston, who moved to Mocksville from Greensboro a year before opening the shop, worked in the financial services industry for years before becoming a field medical underwriter for insurance companies. "That's how I got into the general arena of medicine," he says, "from sort of a roundabout way."

He started exploring natural medicine almost as an advocation, starting out marketing natural product lines. "I found I had an affinity for this kind of work," he says.

Natural medicine is becoming more mainstream, according to Preston. Not only are medical professionals taking an interest in natural remedies, he says the general population is trying to be proactive and prevent the deterioration of the body's state of health by taking herbs, vitamins and supplements.

The next major frontier in medicine, Preston predicts, will be the link with spirituality.

"In other words, there are forces at work that we know are larger than our understanding," he says. "I think there will be an era up and coming ... that actually recognizes that and employs, if you will, the spiritual side of nature and life to a much higher degree than we have.

"Thus the nature of the power of association with God and so forth, I think, are ultimately going to provide what is the biggest key to health and healing."

The son of a minister who also worked for the state university system, Preston says he lived all over the state growing up. He graduated from high school in Burlington, and his parents still live in the Randleman area.

Preston has a 24-year-old son, Seth, from a previous marriage, who lives in Raleigh and works in the construction industry.

When he's not studying natural medicine, Preston enjoys sailing off the North Carolina coast, where he still has family members, motorcycling, hunting, playing the piano and guitar and reading.

"I'm pretty eclectic," he says. "I do a lot of things.

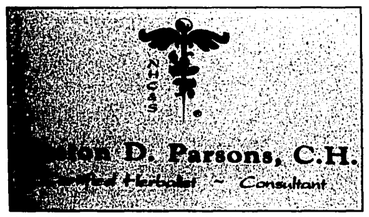

Having lived and worked in Greensboro for years, Preston says moving to Mocksville was a nice change for him.

"The warmth of the people is tremendous," he says. "The receptivity that they have shown me has been great."

And though he may not have had the profit margin here that he could have had in a larger city, Preston says he is proud of what he has done with The Natural Health Shoppe. "This has been largely a labor of love," he says.

The Natural Health Shoppe, located at 58 Court Square, is open Mondays through Fridays from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. and on Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. To make an appointment for a consultation, call 751-0082.

The Old Wood School as depicted here by Glenda Beard is featured on Cooleemee's Christmas ornament this year.

Artist To Be In Cooleemee Saturday To Sign Ornament

Local artist Glenda Beard will be on hand to sign the first of a new series of Old Cooleemee Christmas ornaments on Sunday, Dec. 8 between 1 and 3 p.m. at the Zachary House on Church Street.

The gathering is sponsored by the Cooleemee Historical Association which is selling the glass bulbs with a nighttime scene of the Old Wood School for $10 each. A small card is enclosed which tells the history of the school which used to stand on Watts Street across from Cooleemee Presbyterian Church. The boxed ornament may be sent as a holiday gift for an additional $2.

Built by Erwin Mills, it opened in 1903. The mill company deeded the school to county and it was Davie's first graded school.

Beard is known for her depictions of many historic sites in Davie and Rowan counties. She lives in Salisbury and is married to Cooleemee native Ronnie Beard.

The holiday signing event will follow a Old Cooleemee Christmas Sale at the Cooleemee Shopping Center, near the Post Office. The sale will be held Saturday, Dec. 7 from 9 a.m.-noon. Old Cooleemee merchandise is available at Davie Discount Drugs and the Zachary House.

The "Old Wood School" ornament is available at the Davie Chamber of Commerce in Mocksville.

The Zachary-Holt House and the Mill Village Museum will be closed for the holidays Dec. 11-28.

Migraine Seminar Friday

Migraine headaches cause patients to have bad days.

Excruciating head pain, nausea and vomiting, along with heightened sensitivity to light and noise affect up to 18 percent of the population, mostly women. The unpredictability and devastating nature of the symptoms severely reduces the quality of life for migraine patients.

Pearce

For years, migraine patients have sought rapid relief from these symptoms with limited success. Progress has been made which offers patients a possibility of achieving goals, said Larry A. Pearce, MD, neurologist.

Recent breakthroughs in the treatment of migraine is the subject of a free seminar given by Pearce on Friday, Dec. 6 at 7 p.m. "Migraine Headaches: What Works" looks at the role of lifestyle changes, natural approaches, nutritional considerations, and medication in the prevention, treatment and elimination of headache pain.

Pearce, board certified in neurology and pain management, is the founder of Dayspring Medical Center in Mocksville, where he has practiced for more than 12 years. He has served on the faculties of Wake Forest University School of Medicine, Duke and Georgetown universities. He invites all migraine sufferers and their family members to learn more about new advances in the treatment of migraine.The center is at 217 Dayspring Way, Mocksville, off Van Zant Road off U.S. 64 West. Call 492-2800.

Hillsdale Animal Clinic:

A staff of caring professionals love to take care of pets

The credo at Hillsdale Animal Hospital is pure and simple: "We love pets!" It's a sentiment shared by the entire staff and one that any animal lover can appreciate.

"Our goal is to provide high quality care for your dog or cat in a caring environment," notes Dr. Karla Frazier, DVM. "Our competent and compassionate staff is comprised of owners of multiple, multiple pets."

Here then is a closer look at the Hillsdale Animal Hospital staff, some of the area's top animal care professionals:

Dr. Karla Frazier – A Virginia native, Dr. Karla Frazier earned a BA in Mathematics from the University of Virginia (1990), and her DVM from the VA-MD Regional College of Veterinary Medicine (1994). She has been practicing in the Winston-Salem area ever since and in Advance since 1995. She and her husband, Larry, enjoy an extensive furry family: two "muttskis" (Mandy and Shelby), two Golden Retrievers (Rusty and Ginny) and three cats (Lucy, Slim and Bugs).

Emily Laws – Receptionist Emily Laws worked in an animal hospital for the past seven years. She and her husband, Conrad, along with their young son, Thomas, have a cute little Golden Retriever mix named "Elway." This new little one will enjoy the "open door" policy the Laws have for their many furry friends who live either in the neighborhood or with Emily's pet-sitting friends.

Janice Blevins – Receptionist/Technician Janice Blevins is one extreme cat lover! Wild or tame, she gives them TLC. A Winston-Salem native, Janice has worked with veterinary patients and owners for the past three years. She and her husband, Jack, have a furry family that all meow: A.C., Jasper, Mahler, Murphy, Sophie, Tortie and Rudy.

Charlotte Anderson – Technician Charlotte Anderson, one of Hillsdale's newest staff members, has 10 years of experience in working with animals. She went to veterinary technician school in St. Petersburg, Florida, but lucky for us, now lives in this area. She and her husband, Tony, along with their two children, T.J. and Caitlyn, live in a house full of pets. Between their German Shepherd "Duke" and their Cock-a-poo "Buster", their two cats (Kermit and Snickers), a hamster named "Speedy", they hardly have time to feed their fish.

Stacey Honeycutt – Technician Stacey Honeycutt has quite an extensive history of working with animals. Born in Colorado and well-traveled throughout her life, Stacey settled in Winston-Salem with her husband, Brian, in 1998. Her furry family includes: "Hope" (a Husky mix) and cats "Clutch" and "Turbo."

Berry Sink – Receptionist Berry Sink is a Forsyth County native who with her husband, Terry, live with an eclectic family of animals. They have two horses (Moxie and Spirit), a goat (Doat), three cats (Jingle, Sparky and Midnight), seven dogs (Bear, Buster, Sam, Spot, Mitzi, Rascal and Ivy) and two Prairie Dogs (Allie and Winonna).

Kim Cline – Technician Kim Cline is married with three children. Her full house also includes four dogs and four cats.

Rebecca Davis – Technician Rebecca Davis is the newest staff member at Hillsdale Animal Hospital. She is currently going to school to be a veterinary technician. She is also a true animal lover and has six pets of her own.

Hampton – Hampton is the official Hillsdale Animal Hospital "Clinic Dog." He was rescued from the side of the highway with Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever, which left his back legs paralyzed. He now has a wheelchair and the entire Hillsdale staff to cater to his every need.

To meet this dedicated and talented staff in person, please visit the Hillsdale Animal Hospital at 134 Medical Drive, Advance, N.C. Their phone number is (336) 998-8750.

Don Smith and Pastor Will Pryor at the future site of Freedom Baptist Church on U.S. 64 East.

Freedom Baptist Breaks Ground For New Church

Jesus said in Matthew 18:20 "For where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of them."

On July 18, 2001, 28 people gathered in the name of Jesus to meet and worship the Lord for the first time as a group. Songs of praise were sung, special prayers were prayed, and a message was brought from the Word of God.

Also, the idea of organizing a church was discussed. The decision was made to pray and wait patiently on the Lord before the final decision to organize would be made.

On July 22, 2001, 39 people attended the first Sunday morning service. The Sunday morning attendance record since that first Sunday morning is 107. On Aug. 22, 2001, at the Wednesday night service, the motion was made to form a local church. There was a second to the motion, and the vote was unamious in favor of forming a local church.

The name Freedom Baptist Church was selected as the church name. There was a piano donated as well as chairs, various pieces of furniture, song books, and many other items. There was a pulpit built from scratch and donated by one of the members.

The first couple months the meetings were held in the basement of one of the members. The church quickly outgrew the basement.

A metal building was then donated for the use of the church. Members assembled and built a pulpit and choir platform, sewed and hung curtains and petitions, installed heaters and air conditioners, cleaned donated chairs, and cleaned and decorated the new meeting place.

Freedom Baptist Church is still meeting in the metal building.

In February, Freedom Baptist purchased 11. 127 acres on U.S. 64 East and Comatzer Road for a church building, a cemetery, and a future church parsonage.

On Feb. 13, and March 5, Freedom Baptist lost two of its most beloved members, in the death of Bessie Sechrest and the Rev. Vann Poplin. Freedom Baptist was forced to start its cemetery before it started its church building.

On Sept. 29, Freedom voted in its first pastor, the Rev. William (Will) Pryor. Pryor has a wife (Tina) and three children (Abby, Andrew, Alex) and live in Advance. If you need any information about Freedom Baptist, you can reach Pryor at 998-4655 or send an e-mail to the address: FreedomsPastor@Aol.Com.

Freedom continues to grow and members are excited about building a new church building.

On Nov. 10, at 4:30 p.m., Freedom Baptist held its official ground breaking and dedication service on its new property. A couple of songs were sung and then Pryor brought a message and prayed for the future of Freedom Baptist. Then, Brother Don Smith (oldest male member) was given the honor of breaking ground for the building. Then, all the members circled the shovel and held hands. A prayer was then said, asking God to continue to bless Freedom in a mighty way, and the congregation sang Amazing Grace.

The construction is scheduled to be completed around July, 2003.

Freedom Baptist believes in the following Plan of Salvation.

All are sinners: As it is written, There is none righteous, no, not one: Romans 3:10

Price on Sin: For the wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord. Romans 6:23

Jesus Paid the Price: But God commendeth his love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us. Romans 5:8

Confess and Believe: That if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved. For with the heart man believeth unto righteousness; and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation. Romans 10: 9-10.

Don Smith breaks ground while Pastor Pryor looks on.

Funds Sought To Help Children

Do you know what it is like to have a toothache and no money or insurance to pay for a dentist visit?

What if your child needs a prescription for a health problem and your insurance won't be effective for another two weeks? Where would you turn for help?

School health nurses and others who work with children and families in Davie County Schools are quite aware of health-related emergency situations similar to these that often arise.

The search for financial resources to help meet these needs is becoming increasingly more difficult due to state school health funds being discontinued, more families being out of work, and lack of insurance/Medicaid coverage, etc.

These needs have been discussed at School Health Advisory Council meetings and a special Emergency School Health Fund was recently established. This is a discretionary account that will be used to help provide funds for children in Davie County Schools who have emergency medical/health or medical/health related needs. Referrals will be received through the school health office and upon approval, funds will be dispersed directly to the service provider (e.g., doctor, dentist, pharmacy) rather than to individuals.

Donations are needed and can be made in memory or honor of individuals. Contact Frances Tutterow, School Health Coordinator, Central Davie Education Center, 220 Campbell Road, Mocksville. Receipts and acknowledgements will be sent for all donations received.

For more information, please contact Tutterow at 751-7704.

This a poem written for Carmen Propst

Expression Of Love

If one flower burst into bloom
Each time I think of you
My pathway would forever be
A fragrant garden arbor.

If my heart would beat
Once, for each memory of you
I would live through eternity

If my love for you
Could H turned into gold
My wealth
Could never H calculated

If my desire and longing for you
Were ever unleashed
The flames will rival the sun

To get words to say
How much I love you
A new language
Would have to be written

You are the one
I'm always thinking of
You are the most important person in the world to me
You are the I love!!!!

PHATJOE

This poem is for a very special person Ms. Carmen Propst!

Wesley Chapel will have the December breakfast Saturday, Dec. 21 from 6:30-10 a.m. Last Sunday night, Wesley Chapel held a hanging of the green service in memory of the late Colleen Dull. The tree was donated by the children of Colleen dull and the Crismons were made by the UMW. Colleen's children and several brothers and other family members attended. Refreshments were served after the ceremony in the fellowship hall.

Mac and Sara Eure, their daughter, Debra, and their granddaughter spent the weekend in Georgia with Mac's sister, Mitzi. While there, their son, Charlie, and his family came up from Florida to see them. Mac's sister has been very sick for quite some time.

Lindsay and Rian Thomas spent the Thanksgiving holiday with their parents, Ray and Daca Thomas.

Boer Goats A Hobby, Business For Family

By Mike Barnhardt

David and Tammy Tifft had hoped to raise livestock on their farm in Davie County.

But the land the family owned on Angell Road was suitable for livestock.

Goats, on the other hand, worked quite well.

Now, the Tiffts own Hidden Creek Ranch on Eatons Church Road, and although there's plenty of room for livestock, the more familiar sound is that of goats.

They raise some 33 Boer meat goats.

Among the herd is the Reserve Grand Champion Sr. Doe that his daughters, Kelsey, 9, and Kendal, 7, showed at the N.C. State Fair this year. It was the second best of 330 goats entered at the fair.

Tifft said a lot of people were surprised when the top goat brought $5,500, nearly twice as much as the top sheep.

"You don't need a lot of land. If you've got a good acre of land, you can raise four or five goats," he said. "And you can actually make some money."

He wishes more young people would show goats. His girls are members of the Davie County 4-H Animal Science Club, which receives support from the Yadkin-Davie Livestock Association.

The Boer is a popular meat breed. That popularity is growing as the region becomes more diverse, he said. Americans are one of the few cultures that don't consider goat as an important meat source.

The goats need little care, about the same as cattle. They must have feed and water.

These aren't the old billy goats that many Southerners are used to seeing, the ones used to clear wild growth from a hillside.

These are tame, gentle, domesticated creatures.

But like other goat breeds, they are curious.

David Tifft: "If you've got a good acre of land, you can raise four or five goats."

Kelsey Tifft gets up close and personal with one of the goats.

"You have to check them twice a day because they can get into trouble ... get caught up in something," he said.

At competitions, judges look for the amount of meat on the goat, length and width, and whether it meets the breed's standards.

He is a certified goat producer and has customers lined up to buy the meat.

Does his family eat goat?

Rarely, because there's too much money to be made selling them, he said.

And there's a few head of cattle on the farm.

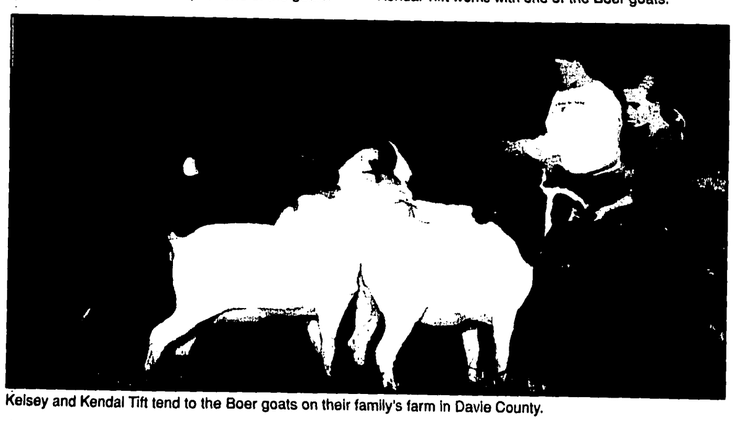

"What you see is what we've started," Tifft said. "It's good for the kids."

Neighbor Mary Beth Sherrill pets one of the goats.

JROTC Cadets Score High On Annual Inspection

By Beth Cassidy
Davie County Enterprise Record

Ret. Col. Terry Hales: "Does this inspection surprise me? No, not at all. I knew they could do it."

In their first annual inspection in three years, the JROTC of Davie High School received one of the highest scores given in more than 720 inspections.

According to Buck Jenkins, operations specialist with the 5th Brigade at Ft. Bragg, in schools in which he does inspections, from Maine to Puerto Rico, Davie County has a top notch program.

That isn't really news to Retired Col. Terry Hales.

Hales and First Sgt. Donald Jones run the program, consisting of 105 cadets at the high school.

"These folks have worked very hard," he said, "even coming in on Sundays to practice. Does this inspection surprise me? No, not at all. I knew they could do it."

One crucial part of the inspection is a briefing, during which members of the battalion give a presentation outlining their achievements and positions, and inspectors are allowed to ask questions. Resembling a job interview, it would be a nail-biting event for most, but the students kept their composure.

Those who spoke were Angela Carpenter, April Guyer, Trey Starnes, Ashley Azmon and Jennifer Leonard.

Carpenter, a senior and battalion commander, plans to enlist in the Army following graduation. She made a 1260 on the SAT, well above the 1050 national SAT average of those in the JROTC.

Guyer, a sophomore, is responsible for battalion orders, alignment of the battalion, and is a member of the drill team. She plans to go into the Air Force after graduation.

Starnes, a senior, plans to major in international politics and relations in college and is in charge of training schedules, preparation of training areas and training compliance.

The battalion's logistics officer, Azmon is in charge of organization and is a rifle team captain and a member of both the color guard and drill teams and is going to enlist in the Army after she graduates in 2004.

Leonard, in charge of the scrapbook, news articles, planning and coordination of the military ball, is the special projects officer and is also on the drill team and color guard. She is a junior and plans to attend a police academy after graduation.

When Leonard concluded the presentation, Pat Leslie, one of the inspectors and an assistant professor of military science at Davidson College, said, "That was an outstanding briefing. You impressed the heck out of me. You are blowing away my kids at Davidson. I wouldn't want to put my seniors up against you. I'd like to have you in my program."

Jenkins said the group had "great communication skills, good use of audio-visual equipment, and did an excellent job overall."

"In over 720 schools I have inspected, this is one of the finest briefings I have ever sat in on," he said.

Jenkins reminded the group there were scholarships available, and instead of enlisting, some should consider going into the military as officers.

"I'm not recruiting for the Army. My job is to help kids get government scholarships. We've got scholarships to Duke, Carolina, Davidson...you should consider one of these scholarships."

The group also underwent an in-ranks inspection, and color guard and records, administration and supply inspections. Even before the color guard inspection, in which only one minor error was made, Jenkins said he thought the group would receive at least a 98 out of a 100 for their score.

But by the time the entire inspection was over, it was obvious their score would not be 98.

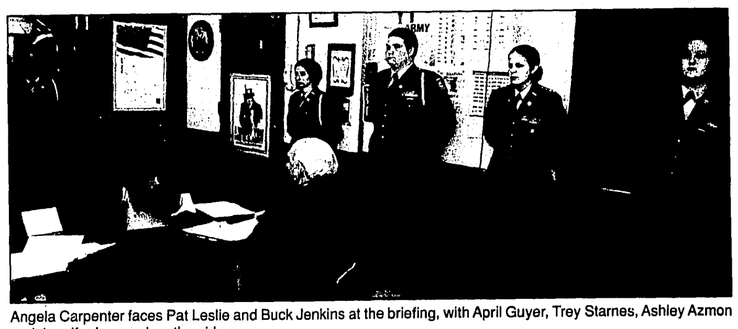

It was 99.

They had to do a summary of a chapter in the book and then draw a picture to go along with the summary. A teacher from Pinebrook Elementary came into the class to watch the morning Soar to Success group. She came to see if she wanted to get the program for her class. Last week was the Thanksgiving luncheon and a lot of people showed up to have a turkey meal. Students in the class that get 10 Accelerated Reading points this month will get to attend Harry Potter and the Chamber of Secrets with Judy White, teacher. December will be a busy month. Cadette Girl Scout Troop 831 members Ellen Carter, Cindy Kohnen, Amy Gilbert and Hannah Speight are joined by adult leaders in Washington, D.C.

Girl Scouts From Davie Tour Washington, D.C.

On July 29, Girl Scout Troop 831 went to Washington, D.C.

The first stop was the Kennedy Center. Inside were theaters, sculptures, pictures, and all sorts of gifts from other countries. The girls saw the presidential helicopters.

On July 30, they saw the Lincoln and Washington memorials and several war memorials including the Vietnam Veterans Memorial and the Korean Memorial. They had lunch at the Old Post Office with an excellent view of the city and had the favorite picture of Hannah with President Bush.

The Scouts then visited the Museum of American History where they saw the collection of the First Ladies gowns, Dorothy's shoes and Old Glory being restored.

On July 31, they went to the Bureau of Engraving and Printing where they saw lots of money being made and learned about destroying the misprints and that a star in the serial number instead of a letter represents a redo. The girls were shown the new bills to be issued in different colors and the safety measures for counterfeiting.

The security was tight at federal buildings, and the assistant leader had to throw a folding mini-scissors and a folding fruit knife in a trash can before she could be admitted to those buildings.

Scouts had lunch at the Air and Space Museum where the trash can impressed them by politely thanking them as they threw away trash.

Then they were off to tour the Capitol thanks to a special tour arranged by Congressmen Richard Burr's office. They were able to travel in the underground tunnels connecting the Capitol and the congressmen's offices. They saw the Whispering Gallery used for eavesdropping and the star in the Capitol which at one time marked the Center of the Free World and was originally intended to be George Washington's burial place. It was another excellent photo opportunity.

The interns referred the Scouts to a newly opened Spy Museum. The first activity was to assume a cover identity, testing skills on observation, surveillance and eventually being tested to see if they had what it took to be a spy. They saw lots of spy gadgets and learned about many famous spies, saw the Enigma machine and tested skills.

On Aug. 1, they had a tour of the White House, again arranged by the Burr's office. They saw beautifully decorated rooms, portraits, and spoke to Secret Service men and women.

They toured the outdoor Hirshhorn Sculpture Garden on the way to the US Holocaust Museum, which was the original reason for deciding to travel to Washington, D.C. The girls went through Daniel's Story: A display about a Jewish boy's life prior, during and after the Holocaust. He survived but his mother and sister did not.

Scouts toured the permanent exhibit and learned things about Hitler and the Holocaust. At the end they watched several survivors' stories, which were emotional.

Scouts making the trip mastered the subway, and earned the Nation's Capitol Sampler Patch and the Travel Interest Project patch.

The UMW of Bethlehem United Methodist Church and Congressmen Burr helped make the trip possible.

Members of Cadette Girl Scout Troop 831 are Ellen Carter, Cindy Kohnen, Amy Gilbert, Hannah Speight, all who went to D.C. Other troop members are Chelsie Altman, Sarah Bruebaker, Erica Bly, Ashley Cope. The troop leader is Betty Kohnen. Assistant is Junko Gilbert.

Free Blooms

Bulbs Available For Community Projects

For the second year Davie County has free flower bulbs from Keep America Beautiful and Cooperative Extension, through the generosity of the Keep Winston-Salem Beautiful organization.

"Winston's KAB program received one million bulbs this year," said Greg Hoover, local Extension agent. "They are bulbs that the bulb companies didn't sell and are being donated for community beautification projects."

Last year, Davie volunteers planted 35,000 daffodils and 5,000 tulips. Hoover said the bulbs were planted all over the county.

"About one third were planted at schools and churches, one third in public areas such as public buildings and parks, and one third along roadways."

This year Hoover says he has nearly 70,000 bulbs.

But instead of mostly daffodils, there are crocus, scilla or Spanish Blue-Bell and a limited amount of tulips and hyacinths. All the bulbs are spring bloomers and need to be planted as soon as possible.

The Davie Extension Master Gardeners are helping with the project. They helped haul and rebag the bulbs and are helping Cooperative Extension with distribution. Master Gardeners will also plant many bulbs again this year.

The bulbs are free and available while they last. They are to be planted for community beautification in public areas such as schools, churches, community and public buildings, parks and road right of ways to name a few. Pick bulbs up at Cooperative Extension in the County Office Building, 180 S. Main St. in Mocksville. Call 7516297 for more information.

Health Screenings To Be Offered At Davie Senior Services

On Friday, Dec. 27, Davie County Senior Services will offer area residents the opportunity to spend a few minutes doing something that could save their lives.

Life Line Screening will offer health screenings to assess the risk of stroke and vascular disease, including a carotid artery screening, abdominal aortic aneurysm screening and an ankle brachial index (ABI). Offered for women will be a bone density screening to assess the risk for osteoporosis, and free information on the identification and control of risk factors for stroke, vasular disease, abdominal aortic aneurysms and osteoporosis.

The tests use ultrasound technology and are conducted by registered or registry-eligible ultrasound technologists. A board certified physician reviews the results before they are mailed. An individual whose screening suggests further evaluation is encouraged to seek appropriate follow up care.

Call 1-800-407-4557. Each screening takes 10 minutes or less and costs $40. A package of all three vascular screenings is $99.

Davie Senior Services is located at 622 N. Main St. in Mocksville.

Applications Being Accepted For Master Gardeners Class

Cooperative Extension is accepting applications for the 2003 Extension Master Gardener class.

This will be the fifth Master Gardener class in Davie County under the direction of Greg Hoover, horticultural Extension agent. Classes meet weekly on Wednesday mornings beginning in late January and conclude in May. Sessions are held at the Extension Center in Mocksville.

Interested candidates need to contact Hoover at 751-6297 for an application. Class size is limited and a fee is charged. Program participants will be selected based on a review of the application. Hoover requests interested gardeners to apply by Dec. 16.

The Extension Master Gardener program is an educational and volunteer service program. Selected participants receive 40 hours of in-depth training on a variety of horticultural topics and are expected to pass a written test. Within a year after completing the training Master Gardener graduates are to perform at least 40 hours of Extension related volunteer service.

After the initial year, active Master Gardeners perform at least 20 hours of volunteer service annually. Extension Master Gardeners teach children and adults about gardening, beautify the community, help the public with plant problems and more.

"I'm looking forward to working with another Master Gardener class," Hoover said. "Each year we bring new people into the program and their talents enrich us all. Master Gardeners help expand Extension's Consumer Horticultural educational efforts and they learn and have a lot of fun doing it."

Nutcracker This Weekend At The Brock Center

The Ballet & Performing Arts Centre will brings to life the holiday favorite, The Nutcracker Ballet, for its fifth consecutive season Friday, Dec. 6 at 9 a.m., Saturday, Dec. 7 at 7 p.m. and Sunday, Dec. 8 at 2 p.m. at the Brock Performing Arts Centre in Mocksville.

Many old favorites will appear along with some new faces. More than 60 individuals from Davie and Forsyth counties bring months of hard work to the stage.

Tickets are $9 for adults and $7 for children (12 & under) and senior citizens.

The ballet opens up with the Stahlbaum family welcoming friends and family to a festive holiday party. Their daughters Clara, played by 12 year old Brette Powell of Lewisville, and Mary, played by Molley Grubbs, delight in all their playmates in attendance. Clara's godfather Heir Drosselmeyer, an inventor and toy maker, brings animated dolls played by Meghan Wham and Anne Berkeley. Shawn Sosner, a veteran actor, brings Drosselmeyer to the stage.

After the party's conclusion, Clara sneaks back to the Christmas tree with her beloved nutcracker and falls asleep dreaming of her handsome prince. As she begins dreaming, her godfather enters her sleep and magically causes the tree to grow to lofty heights.

In the battle scene, the toy soldiers are played by Davie County performers, Tanner Junker, Nick Sinopoli, Kyle Bullins and Jacob Lambert, led by their Rat King, Gerrod Glenn.

The Land of Snowflakes is their first destination where the Snow Queen, Ryan Wallace, and her whirling snowflake corps serenade them. The Sugar Plum Fairy, Lindsay Carmen, then graciously greets the Prince and Clara into the Land of the Sweets. She delights in showing off all the confections of her land. Spencer Revels and Katie Jones dance Hot Chocolate from Spain. Anna Bigelow and Gerrod Glenn, along with their corps, Paige Ehlers and Margret Powell are Arabian Coffee. Chinese Tea comes to life with Madison Junker, Anne Berkeley, Molley Grubbs, Dillon Davis, Madelaye Proctor, Lauren Kennedy, Chandler Messick and Ansley Wells. Ryan Wallace, Meghan Wharn and Kristina Yourdon dance Marzipan and Caitlin Hurdle of Advance fills the stage with lyrical movement as the lead flower, "Dew Drop."

Members of the audience will be greeted in the lobby with hors d'oeuvres, warm cider and holiday music performed by local musicians. For tickets, call the Brock at 751-3000.

What Christmas Is All About

Community Spirit Drives Annual Advance Parade

By Jackie Seabolt
Davie County Enterprise Record

If you want to find out What Christmas Is All About, you may want to take a ride to Advance this Saturday.

That's when the annual Advance Christmas Parade will take place. It begins at 10 a.m. at the elementary school. It will travel on Cornatzer Road to N.C. 801, turn right and break up at Peoples Creek Road.

What started as a joke eight years ago after Aunt Eloise from radio station WTQR announced on the air there would be a Christmas parade in Advance has become an anticipated yearly event.

Entry forms are available at L&S Grocery on N.C. 801 North, but according to owner and parade coordinator Linda Carter, "I never count them, and half of them never fill one out." The only request is that participants show up on time and at the right location, at the elementary school.

The parade is held in conjunction with the What Christmas Is All About event. Each year on Christmas Eve two firetrucks from the Advance Fire Department and their volunteers make rounds in the community to deliver toys to needy children, visit the elderly who need financial or medical assistance, or aid a family who may need help paying an electric bill.

Sanders Interim Manager

Christine Saunders has been named interim manager for the Town of Mocksville.

Sanders is the town's financial director.

Mocksville Town Manager Terry Bralley, recently hired as Davie County manager, began his new job on a part-time basis Monday. He will split time between the town and county through the remainder of this year.

Mocksville plans to place advertisements for a new manager in January, and accept applications through February. Interviews are scheduled for March, with a new town manager on board in April.

"We thought it would be good to give the interim manager a chance to be in the job for a while," said board member, Bill Foster.

Town board members asked Bralley what they needed to do to ensure good relations between the board and the new manager. Bralley told them to let the manager do their job by handling day-to-day operations of the town, with board members focusing on communications and consenus building.

Authorities Investigating Possible Death By Vehicle

By Jackie Seabolt
Davie County Enterprise Record

Authorities are working to piece together evidence that may connect a drunk driver to the death of a Tennessee pedestrian killed last Tuesday.

Timothy Boyd Crutchfield, 37, of Alamance County was arrested Dec. 3 for misdemeanor DWI.

According to Davie County Sheriff's Department Detective Robert Trotter, a call was received that Tuesday evening reporting a possible drunk driver in a Ford Ranger pickup truck in the Hillsdale area. The truck was described as white with one headlight and a camper shell. Another call shortly thereafter, reported the driver had begun traveling west on I-40.

Davie Sheriff's Deputy Steve Barnette was patrolling the interstate shortly after 11 p.m. and spotted a pick-up matching the description given by the caller. The truck was driven by Crutchfield near the U.S. 601 exit when Barnette first attempted to stop it. Crutchfield did not stop the vehicle until it neared the exit for U.S. 64.

Barnette reported smelling a strong odor of alcohol as he approached the vehicle. Crutchfield voluntarily took an alcohol breath test that registered .22. The legal limit is .08.

There was damage to the front passenger side and windshield area of Crutchfield's vehicle. A small black fanny pack bag was lodged in the crumpled hood and grille of the truck, according to Trotter. Paper clips were still in the grille, and pink and yellow highlighters along with white correction fluid splatter were also found. According to Trotter the weather was cold and windy that evening, but the correction fluid was still wet. "That was a reason we knew the damage was fresh," Trotter said.

Crutchfield had traveled from Burlington, and was reported to have left around 7:30 p.m. A family member told authorities there was no damage to the truck when it was taken from the home.

An alert was sent out to surrounding counties asking about possible hit and runs. There was no report of any that evening.

According to Trotter, the next morning, Dec. 5, he received a call that a man had been found dead on I-40 in Forsyth County near a Kernersville exit.

Children Need Christmas Sponsors

A Storehouse for Jesus still has children who are not sponsored this Christmas.

Christmas is almost here and there are still approximately 45 children who are in need of sponsors to make their Christmas one to remember. If able to sponsor a child, call Marie Collins at the Storehouse at 751-1060, Monday-Thursday.

Many of the sponsors have been churches, civic organizations, businesses and individuals. You can sponsor one or more children.

Last year, there were Christmas gifts provided for 785 children, 16 adults and 54 seniors. And 74 Christmas dinners were provided for senior citizens in Davie County.

Early Deadlines

The Enterprise Record will have early deadlines for the Christmas and New Year's issues.

Items for the Christmas issue should be in the newspaper office no later than 5 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 19. The paper will be printed and distributed in newsracks on Dec. 23, and local mail subscribers should receive it on Christmas Eve.

Items for the New Year's issue should be in the office by Thursday, Dec. 26.

Ice Storm Causes Inconveniences

By Mike Barnhardt
Davie County Enterprise Record

Get ready. It could happen again.

Other than living without electricity for several days, Davie residents appear to have survived the first major ice storm in years fairly well. There were no major injuries reported. Damage was basically limited to trees, vehicles, porches and other minor structural damage to homes.

Davie EMS and Emergency Management Director Dwayne Smith said family, friends and neighbors checked on each other. And volunteers from fire departments were instrumental in helping make sure people were safe.

Electricity's On At Tanglewood's Festival of Lights

We drove through the Tanglewood Festival of Lights on Monday, enchanted again by all those lights. All those lights fed by electricity ... that worked.

The ice storm was brutal on electricity lines and Bradford pear trees. A warm bath, hot coffee, lights that turn on - all rank higher this week on the list of favorite things.

Utility crews worked several days putting the lines back up, but, like Humpty Dumpty, there's nothing that can be done about those ornamental trees.

I awoke Thursday morning to the icy paradise to survey the damage. The electricity was still on. No apparent damage in the yard. Then I heard the crash. One side of a Bradford pear had been ripped off by the weight of the ice. Ten minutes later, more of it fell. A third of it remains standing.

I always had mixed feelings about that tree. It kept its leaves too long - a trait that led to its demise. And it never seemed like a real tree. It was too perfect - almost like it was groomed. All limbs and little trunk.

The Bradford pear became a landscaping favorite a decade or more ago. They were planted along city streets and at businesses - neat little trees easy to care for and compact. Not too big. Pretty white flowers in spring.

The chainsaw and I tackled the remains of my tree on Saturday, quickly finding there was a lot to it. It might have seemed small, but the limbs went on forever.

I'll plant a maple in its place. A real tree.

Going through Tanglewood, we debated, as usual, over our favorite display.

Mine is still the train - wheels turning and smoke puffing. The poinsettias and candles are nice. The tunnel of lights is exciting - especially for the kids, who always count the bands of lights. The giant snowflakes, the reindeer leaping over the road. The flying golf ball. They all get votes and consideration.

Even though we've seen them 10 times and more, they're still nice.That has become part of the local Christmas tradition. Christmas, like no other occasion, makes us sentimental and causes us to cling to doing things like we have always done them.

We decorated the tree over the weekend, handling carefully the ornaments. Most of them have a story, a history, that I recount to the boys. Drives them tty. But they listen.

We will have to go to the lovefeast and candle light service. We have to sit and stare at the tree. We have to bring out the little Santa carvings from their grandfather. We have to read "Polar Express" right before the boys climb into bed Christmas Eve.

It just wouldn't be Christmas ...

Writer Remembers Luther Allison

To the editor:

In remembering Dec. 7, Pearl Harbor Day, World War II and the threat of war, our nation and world situation today, I'm reminded of a World War II veteran, Luther "Luke" Allison, and would like to share the information with members of the community.

Luther was born in Davie County to the late Robert "Bob" and Fannie Allison on July 24, 1920. He attended school (the former Davie County Training School). He married Evelyn Woodbury, and they were parents of five children. Luther had the appearance of a homeless person, although he had a home of his own. His last employment was with Hendrix and Corriher Construction Co.

In 1992, Luther went to the home of his uncle, Pink Allison, to care for him during a terminal illness. In 1996, he was called to the same home to help care for his cousin, J.P. Allison, also due to a terminal illness. Not only did he help take care of their physical needs, it was discovered he was a very humorous, social person who helped lift the spirit of the family.

Luther entered service on May 27, 1941 at Ft. Bragg. He completed basic training at Ft. Houston, Va., and received training as a machine gunner expert. From 1941-45, he served with the 7th Army Coast Artillery as a machine gunner 20-20 mm and 105 mm. He completed combat duty in Europe, the Atlantic, North Atlantic, Mediterranean Sea and other areas of Europe, the Pacific Theater, New Guinea, the Philippines and Yokohama, Japan. In 1942, he was with the 7th Coast Artillery in the Carribean at St. Thomas.

He received the following awards: Combat Infantry Badge, Good Conduct Medal, Expert Gunner Badge, Bronze Star Medal (3), European Theater Medal, Pacific Theater Medal. He became disabled veteran and was hospitalized after the war, but was not awarded the Purple Heart. He reached the rank of corporal squad leader. (Military information supplied by Korean War veteran Calvin L. Jones).

DOT Workers Deserve Thanks

To the editor:

This is a letter of appreciation to all of the Department of Transportation workers from all of us who were able to go where we needed. We all know that you all risk your lives every day, just so that we all have a smooth ride.

We had had a very bad ice storm, and we know that you have worked very hard night and day. We appreciate all the times that you stayed up all night. We appreciate all the minutes that you were so tired, but never gave up until the roads were completed.

Most of us had no power for days, but due to the DOT, we were able to go where we needed.

Having no power meant our family came closer together. There was time to talk to each other. We all stuck together when times were tough. My husband works for DOT and I'm very proud of him. Lots of appreciation to all the DOT workers.

We all thank you for taking your time to make our life a little easier.

"The first responders and firefighters in each district were very instrumental, checking on people in their communities who were without power to let us know who needed assistance," Smith said. "I appreciate the help and patience of everybody in Davie County. The people are fortunate to have these friends and neighbors they've got who are willing to help."

Smith suggests that people prepare now for the next storm. Have a safe, back up heating alternative. Have flashlights ready. Have a plan.

That's a good idea, said local weather watcher James George.

George recorded four inches of snow and about a quarter inch of ice at his Sheffield home. The snow numbers were lower and the ice numbers higher in Mocksville and southern and eastern Davie, he said.

"It looks like we're going to have a pretty interesting winter," George said. "The way it looks right now, we're going to have an up and down situation."

The freeze in Canada, where many of our arctic blasts come from, hit early this year. That means the cold air is there, building for a blast to the Southeast. All it takes is for moisture from the Gulf of Mexico or the Atlantic Ocean to move in at the same time, and the frozen precipitation will be here.

"It's hard to predict, but it looks like this will be a big year for snow and ice," he said.

He expects the freezes to be sandwiched between warmer periods.

He credits much of the damage caused last week by the prolonged drought. That has made trees weaker, and more susceptible to breaking from the extra weight of the ice and snow.

George's weather station is still 9 inches below normal rainfall for the year, although the November, and now December totals, are above normal.

Davie school children got two extra days off from school. Superintendent Dub Potts said that this semester will finish before the Christmas break, two days short.

Davie High School had the most damage, when a tree was uprooted onto "F" building. It caused minor damage. A tree service was called to clear other trees, including dangling limbs that posed a danger.

Four schools were without electricity for several days - Shady Grove, Cornatzer, Davie High and Cooleemee. Workers moved food stored there to a central location, and then worked again Sunday to take it back to the schools when electricity was restored.

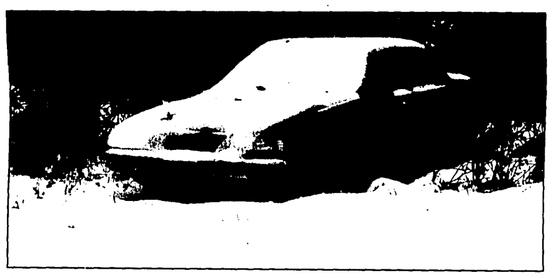

Most Davie residents had electricity restored by Sunday.

As the snow began to fall Wednesday morning, crews were still putting gas in the school buses for the trip home. As soon as that was done, students were dismissed.

"We were very fortunate," Potts said. "We got them home safely. We always look to our buses first to make sure they can travel safely."

Davie dodged the bullet this time. But be prepared, it could happen again. Soon.

"People need to be prepared," Smith said, "in case this does happen again."

Although several cars skidded off the road, there were no major wrecks reported.

Mocksville Offering Curbside Pickup

Limbs from storm damage will be picked up for Town of Mocksville residents.

The limbs should be placed curbside, no larger than four inches in diameter with large ends placed towards the street. This separate from the leaf pickups. This temporary service will only last for a short period.

The last day for leaf pickups will be Dec. 20.

Ice Significantly Damages Trees

By Greg Hoover
Extension Agent

Now that your electricity is back on and you have heat and water, you might want to start working on ice storm damaged trees and shrubs.

Some damage is irreversible and it is best to remove what's left of the tree or shrub and plant a new one.

When limbs break or rip away from heavy ice loads, it significantly damages trees. For plants that can be saved, making proper pruning cuts and repairing wounds, you can reduce the damage and influence plant survival, appearance and promote long term plant health.

For those of you who loved your Bradford pears, consider replanting with something else. Bradford pear has weak branch unions and was heavily damaged by the storm. Other trees prone to limb breakage are birch, elm, poplar, willow and silver maple.

Always keep safety in mind when working around trees and shrubs. Be aware of electric lines and look up in trees for branches that could fall.

To remove large branches or what's left of large branches, use the 3-cut procedure. Start by making a bottom cut. Go out about a foot or more from the main stem and cut up about one inch or more deep. Make the second cut two or three inches beyond the bottom cut. Cut from the top down to remove the limb. This removes much of the weight and reduces the chances of ripping away bark. The final cut is made by cutting the stub off just outside the branch collar. The branch collar is more obvious on some tree species than others. The final cut should angle down and away from the main stem. Never cut flush with the main stem or leave too much stub.

A replacement leader can be trained to replace a broken leader on many tree and shrub species. On large trees it may be impossible for the homeowner to do themselves. Select an upright growing branch for the new leader. Then cut the broken main stem or leader directly above the branch connection at an angle down and away. To reduce competition from other branches, tip prune branches that are growing above or completing with the new leader. For conifers you may need to tie a pole or dowrod to the main stem and carefully bend a branch upward and tie it to the pole. You will need to check the ties every few months to make sure they are not cutting into the new leader. The pole should be removed in two to three years.

To treat tree wounds start by cleaning the wound. Do this by removing loose bark, wood splinters and ragged edges. Use a sharp knife or chisel. The objective is to smooth the wound surface. Then trim the area to an elliptical shape pointing up and down. Cut in at the bottom enough to prevent a pocket that can hold water.

Wound dressing or tree paint is not needed. Research has shown that these type of treatments may be damaging. Over time the wound area will heal over but it never really heals. Trees grow over and around a wounded area, a process called compartmentalization. The larger the wound in relation to the size of the limb or trunk the less likely it will heal properly and be subject to insects and diseases. A two to three inch wound will normally take two years to heal. Extremely large wounds may never recover and tree removal may be a better option.

Check around the base of young or small trees that are leaning to see if they are partially uprooted. If they are, try to save them by removing soil from the uprooted side so that when you straighten the tree the roots will be below the surface. Use a winch or come-along and straighten the tree. Be sure to protect the tree where you attach the cable or rope. Once the tree is upright, replace the soil and anchor the tree using two or three guy lines. The lines should be at a 30 to 45 degree angle and be attached to the tree about one third to one half the way up the tree. Tamp and water the soil well to remove air pockets around the roots.

Many limbs bent severely by the ice may never completely regain original form. How much they recover depends on the tree, the species and how bad the bend was. Smaller and younger trees are more likely to recover. Give bent trees and shrubs time to recover. Plants that don't recover may need to be replaced.

Be Careful When Hiring Someone To Remove Or Repair Trees

After a storm, it is common for people claiming to be tree specialists to show up at your door offering their services to remove or repair trees.

In the words of one city forester: "They seem to come out of the woodwork, people we have never even heard of before."

Unfortunately, many such individuals have little or no training, and sometimes have little interest in removing anything but money from the pocketbooks of unsuspecting residents.

The National Arbor Day Foundation urges you to not be a victim. "Make sure you are dealing with a reputable individual or tree care firm when you contemplate repairs or removal of any trees on your property," warns John Rosenow, president of The National Arbor Day Foundation. "Legitimate arborists rarely go door to door to solicit business."

Here are seven guidelines to help you find qualified tree-care specialists:

• Make sure they are part of an established business in the community or nearby area, with a listing in the phone book, usually under tree service.

• Have them provide you with evidence they are actually working for the company, rather than moonlighting.

• Ask for current certificates of insurance showing that they are insured for property damage, personal liability, and worker compensation.

• Ideally, they should be members of a professional association of arborists such as the International Society of Arboriculture (ISA), the National Arborist Association (NAA), or the American Society of Consulting Arborists (ASCA).

• Arborists who have received certification from professional associations, such as ISA certified arborists, will have received training and access to current technical information on tree care, repair, and removal.

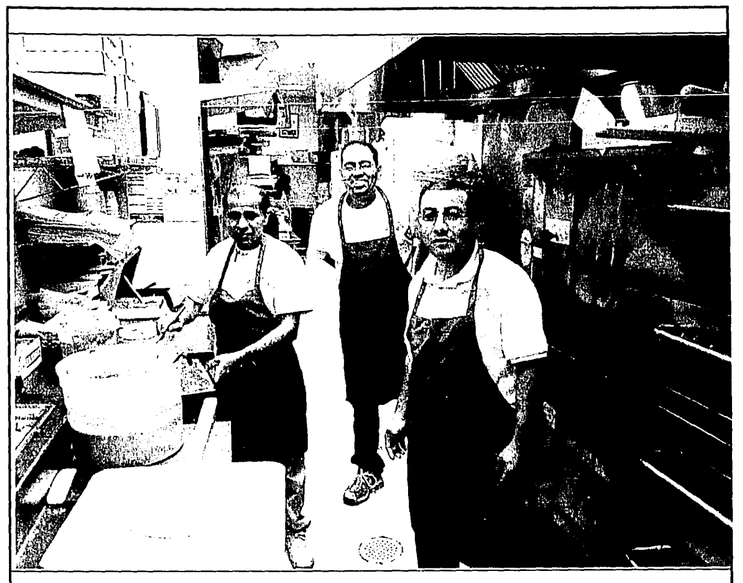

• If possible, get more than one estimate to ensure the price offered is competitive with others for the same services.

• In case of tree removals, have a clear understanding about who removes the limbs and debris from the property, and whether or not the price includes stump removal and clean up.

• Check to see if the estimate has considered the possible value your tree will have as firewood or chips, either to yourself or if sold to others.

"Don't be pressured into making a decision," Rosenow warns. "Taking the time to select a qualified tree professional can safeguard your trees and save you from the long-term consequences of wrong decisions about what to do about them after a storm. Hiring just anyone who shows up at your door may result in fatal damage to your trees. It's best to go with a qualified tree professional."

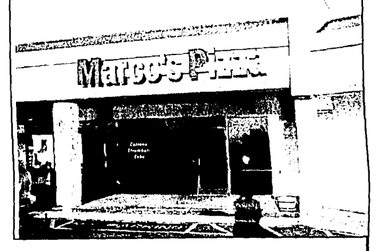

Spotlight on Business

Marco and the gang are ready to make fresh Italian food ready-to-order.

Marco's Pizza

Restaurant offers authentic Italian cooking

At Marco's Pizza and Italian Restaurant in Mocksville, the recipe for success is simple. Offer mouth-watering italian food at affordable prices and every customer will become a loyal patron.

"Everything we offer is always freshly prepared," emphasizes Marco Shalby, one of three owners who run the restaurant. "Nothing comes from a can or out of the freezer. We prepare each dish as it is ordered. That's what makes our food so good."

With the rich aroma of hand-rolled meatballs and baked ziti wafting through the air, it's obvious Marco knows all about good cooking.

A native of Italy, Marco grew up in the restaurant business and became a full-time chef while living and working in the New York/New Jersey area.

"It's very competitive there," he says, "so you have to be good to survive."

Along with partners Abraham Shalby and Moh Heikal, Marco decided the bring his authentic Italian cooking to Mocksville after a customer in New Jersey told him about the opportunity. "She was the daughter of the landlord of this shopping center," he explained. "She loved our food and told me I would do extremely well if I could open a restaurant down here."

She was right. Since opening in October, Marco's has attracted a growing legion of fans like area residents Dean DeVoe and Chris Johnson.

"I love this place," says DeVoe, a Mocksville native. "A friend brought me here and the food is incredible. This is real Italian food."

In addition to outstanding pizza (by the slice or by the pie in thick and thin crust), baked ziti, lasagna, ravioli, manicotti and other pasta dishes, Marco's also offers a host of non-Italian items such as juicey hamburgers and fresh seafood.

"Next to the pasta and pizza, hamburgers are our biggest sellers," Marco noted.

All dishes are reasonably priced (pizza slices start at $1.50 and pasta meals at $6.50) and lunch specials are available daily. Marco's also offers delivery and can handle catering jobs as well.

"We can do whatever the customer wants," adds Abraham, who owned and operated a restaurant in Virginia before moving here. "Repeat business is important to us so we try to satisfy every customer."

Marco's is located at 1051 Yadkinville Road in the Wal-Mart Shopping Center. Restaurant hours are 11 a.m.-10:30 p.m. Monday thru Thursday, 11 a.m.-11:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday, and 11:30 a.m.-10:30 p.m. on Sunday. The phone number is 336-753-1111 and the fax is 336-753-1112.

"The most important thing for people to remember is that all of our food is fresh," added Marco with a smile, "and very, very tasty."

Advance Christmas Parade Is This Saturday

Money is raised throughout the year to fund What Christmas Is All About and provide funds for the expense of the parade. Events like a car show held each spring on Easter Saturday donates all the money it raises to the Christmas fund. And a donation jar sits on the counter at L&S for collections.

According to Carter, even though the Advance Fire Department sponsors the parade no money from the department is used. Only the funds and donations raised throughout the year go to the parade.

The special guest for this year's parade is Vestal Potts and Davidson County Sheriff Gerald Hege is going to be the grand marshal. County commissioners have also been asked to participate in the parade this year. "The one good thing about this parade is everybody jumps in to help," says Carter, referring to the generosity and good will of the people in the community.

As the busy L&S corner convenience store has customers come and go one volunteer fireman from Advance overhears Carter talking about the parade and What Christmas Is All About. "It's my favorite part of Christmas," he says as he leaves.

Two Charged With Break Ins

Two Rowan men were arrested Dec. 9 for breaking into drink machines in Davie County.

Charles William Smith, 20, and Wayne Zachary Holshauser III, 18, both of Salisbury were each charged with breaking and entering of a coin operated machine, two counts damage to property, and possession of drug paraphernalia.

According to Davie County Sheriff's Department Deputy Bill Page, he spotted a brown Oldsmobile pulling into the Corner Store at the intersection of N.C. 801 and U.S. 601 shortly after 4 a.m. this past Monday. Page was on patrol in the area and was parked across the street. The driver of the car, Smith, had turned it's lights off and allowed the car to coast into the Corner Store's parking lot. The passenger, Holshauser, exited the car, according to Page, and headed towards the drink machines. Next, Smith exited the vehicle and at that point Holshauser saw the sheriff's department car across the street.

Deputy Page approached the subjects, who told the officer they were having coolant trouble with their car and had stopped to get water.

A newspaper carrier who was in the area making deliveries informed Page he had seen the car at two other convenience store locations in the area earlier that morning.

Page was given consent to search the vehicle and found a bag of coins totalling over $70 under the passenger's seat, two tire tools with red paint marks on them that resembled paint on drink machines, a small amount of marijuana, and drug paraphernalia.

Although the machines at the Corner Store were not broken into, three drink machines at Dottie's Market, U.S. 601 South, Mocksville, had money stolen from them and two machines at Friendly Center on 601 South had been damaged in an attempt to break into them. More than $3000 in damage was done.

Smith and Holshauser were placed in Davie County Jail in lieu of a $1000 bond. Their first court appearance is scheduled Dec. 19.

Crutchfield

Robert Glen Hatfield, 65, of Tennessee, had apparently been struck by a vehicle around 10 p.m. the night before as he was walking along the interstate shoulder. Hatfield had reportedly visited a daughter in Greensboro and for unknown reasons had begun to walk back home to Johnson City.

Although Crutchfield was placed in Davie County Jail he was released last Friday on a secured $500 bond. He has not been charged in Hatfield's death.

An ongoing investigation by Highway Patrol and State Bureau of Investigation members to re-create the accident and gather all evidence in the case is continuing.

New Meeting Time

The Davie County Board of Commissioners will meet at 5:30 p.m. Monday, Dec. 16 instead of 7 p.m. as previously scheduled.

Arthritis Pain Mystery Solved

Horse Liniment is the secret!

OCALA, FL. -- An ingredient used to treat inflammation in thoroughbred racehorse legs, is now recognized as safe and effective for human use. The ingredient has been formulated into a product called ARTH-Rx™ and comes in a strength designed for humans. Researchers are excited and say the formula can relieve arthritis pain for millions.

Developed by the Phillips Gulf Corporation, ARTH-Rx is a breakthrough in the treatment of painful disorders ranging from minor aches and pains to more serious conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, rheumatism, tendonitis, backache and more.

Scientists suggest that ARTH-Rx works by intercepting the pain messenger substance that sends pain signals to the brain. Although the mechanism is not totally clear, pain is relieved in the affected area because the pain signal actually disappears.

ARTH-Rx is the only product on the market with Neurocaine and is available in a convenient, pleasant scented roll-on applicator without a prescription. According to a spokesperson for the company, ARTH-Rx is available in pharmacies, nutrition stores, and even some feed stores. ARTH-Rx can also be ordered by calling 1-800-729-8446.

District Court Judge Jimmy Myers takes the oath while his aunt, Carolyn Raybuck, holds the Bible.

District Court Judge Mary Covington takes the oath while her mother, Mrs. Wiley Douglas Fowler, holds the Bible.

Sheriff Allen Whitaker takes the oath of office while his wife, Lettie, holds the Bible.

Judges, Officers And Officials Take The Oath Of Office

When court was opened in Davie County the morning of Dec. 2, it wasn't to send criminals to prison or decide on a child custody argument.

It was to issue the oath to two newly-elected judges.

After a prayer by the Rev. Mark Weekly, Bethlehem United Methodist Church pastor, Jimmy Myers was the first to take the oath. Weekly is his pastor.

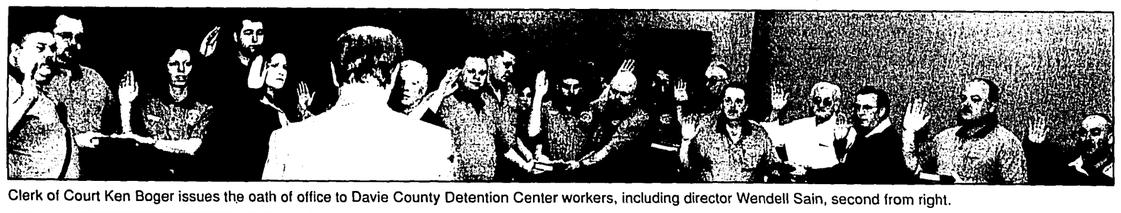

"No person should enter into any important undertaking without first invoking a blessing," Myers said.

His aunt, Carolyn Raybuck, held the Bible as he took the oath. Myers put his hand on the Bible that belonged to his late uncle, Edward Alexander Raybuck, who gave up a professional baseball contract to fight for his country in the Korean War. He was also the man who put up the most Myers for Judge signs.

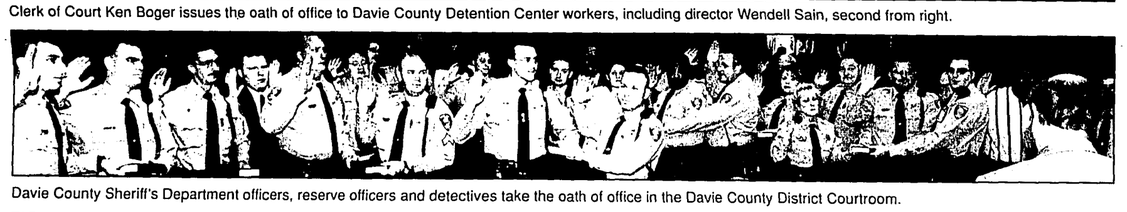

Mary Covington was sworn in as a new district court judge. She dedicated her oath to her late father, who encouraged and paid for her to go to law school, as her mother, Mrs. Wiley Douglas Fowler, held the Bible.

"I'm honored to be sworn in with the great law enforcement of Davie County, and the clerk's office. I look forward to working for you," Covington said.

Sheriff Allen Whitaker and Clerk of Court Ken Boger were sworn into office. Boger handled the ceremony for workers in his office, the sworn officers of the Davie County Sheriff's Department and the detention center staff.

Clerk of Court Ken Boger issues the oath of office to Davie County Detention Center workers, including director Wendell Sain, second from right.

Davie County Sheriff's Department officers, reserve officers and detectives take the oath of office in the Davie County District Courtroom.

White Chair; Poindexter Vice Chair

Clerk of Court Ken Boger was on hand to swear in commissioners Michael Allen and Bobby Knight at the Dec. 2 meeting of the county board. Both will serve four-year terms. Following the ceremony, Ken White was elected to serve as chairman for the next year; Richard Poindexter will serve as vice chairman.

CenterPoint Strategic Business Plan OKd

The board approved CenterPoint's local business plan, which will now be forwarded to the state for approval. The plan outlines how mental health, developmental disability and substance abuse services will be offered in the county and meet state standards.

Proposed Meeting Schedule for 2003

The board approved a proposed meeting schedule for 2003. Meetings will continue to be held the first Monday of the month at 1 p.m. and the third Monday of the month at 7 p.m.

Senior Tarheel Legislative Conference Issues

Vernon Dull updated the board on the top five priority issues the conference will take up with legislators in Raleigh this year:

- end the freeze on community alternative programs for disabled adults;
- retention of background checks for home care personnel;
- maintain home and community care block grant services for impaired older adults at current level;
- expansion of development and funding for senior centers; and
- support for dental care for special care residents.

Fingerprint Identification Bids Rejected

Feeling that the bids received did not meet the specifications of the county, Sheriff Whitaker asked the board to reject the bids received for the automated fingerprint identification system and allow him to rebid the project. Grant funds are being used to purchase the system and the county has until June 30 to use the funds. The board voted to reject the bids and rebid the project.

Social Worker II Position Approved

Stating that the Social Worker II position was the only person in the social services department to hold many Work First responsibilities, Karen Smith asked the board to approve filling the vacant position as an urgent need request. The board agreed to allow her to fill the position which was vacant due to a promotion.

Approval of Public Official Bonds

The board approved the annual public official bonds and authorized payment from the appropriate budgets. As in the past, the bonds were for the minimum amount required by the state. The only change was to Finance Director James Stockert who was required to be bonded at the maximum amount because of requirements from a Duke Power grant.

Legislative Goals Conference Delegate

Chair Ken White will act as the voting delegate at the Legislative Goals Conference in January.

Davie Domestic Services Board

The following people were appointed to the Davie Domestic Services Board for the 2003-2005 term: Joyce Prillaman, Diane Foster, Perce Musselman, Barbara Osteen and Kathy Cornatzer.

County Joins Air Quality Compact

Incoming County Manager Terry Bralley urged the commissioners to join a triad air quality early action compact. The county can pass the EPA's one-hour air quality test, but will probably fail the eight-hour test. The air quality has to do with air flows which send pollution from Charlotte into the area, Bralley said.

The eight-hour test comes into affect in 2004. By joining the coalition, which the board approved, it could delay having to come into compliance until 2007. If the county does not improve levels, it would mean a loss of federal highway dollars, as well as forcing new industries to meet air quality guidelines.

Mocksville Parade A Big Hit

The annual Mocksville Hometown Christmas Parade went on as scheduled Saturday afternoon, even though several entries couldn't make it because of the bad weather earlier in the week and power outages still ongoing.

But it was still a good parade, reported Davie Chamber of Commerce President Joan Carter.

"Special thanks to Davie County Kiwanis and the Mocksville public works and police departments that made it possible," she said.

Parade judges were Linda Blackburn, Gwen Rudd and Perce Musselman.

The tree lighting also took place, even though the ice storm caused considerable damage to the lights that had been strung from the oak trees. Crews worked Friday night to restore the lights as best as they could.

Parade winners were:

business - Coldwell Banker Triad Realtors and Jockey International; church - Life Community Church;

civic - Davie County Senior Games; school - Shady Grove Sizzling Cyclers; and single entries - Bonnie Brown, James Hendrix.

Phelps' Clutch Baskets Propel Davie Boys To 3-0

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

There isn't a legitimate star in the crowd, but you can win a lot of pots with five face cards and no aces. Davie's varsity boys basketball team is proving that. Its formula for success during a shocking 3-0 start has been good talent blended with no egos, fabulous teamwork, late-game heart and a new coach who has pushed all the right buttons.

That's right. The War Eagles, who entered the season with a roster full of unheralded names and an empty cupboard, are unbeaten through three nonconference games after pulling out a 71-66 win at Mooresville last week.

"I'm very pleased with what these guys have accomplished," Coach Mike Absher said. "I think they're pretty loose, which is a good thing. Sometimes you make plays and make shots when there's not that pressure that you should win.

"Our schedule's very demanding, but this is a great scenario. (Mooresville) was a big moment for us; plus it was our first road game."

The War Eagles, who lack height and dominating scorers, have offset their shortcomings by pulling together, playing unselfishly and believing in Absher, who had the burden of replacing a coach (Jim Young) who lifted Davie from the ashes with four straight 15-win seasons, including a school-record 21 wins in 1999-00.

Six players are averaging at least six points, led by Luke Phelps' 13 and followed by Micah Garner and Patrick Law at 12, Nick Nelson at 7.3, Cliff Burns and Matt Smith at 6.7 and Brian Hunter, a record-setting football receiver who debuted with six points and the bucket that sealed the deal.

Moreover, Phelps is averaging 9.7 rebounds and sophomore Burns is contributing 8.3 rebounds and 3.3 blocked shots. Davie defeated Statesville 64-55 and Alexander Central 47-45 before holding off a Mooresville team that threw an abundance of talent at Davie.

"I'd give Mooresville the nod over Statesville, and being on the road made it the biggest of the three wins," Absher said. "Statesville never got all the way back in their rally, but Mooresville did and we made the plays."

Phelps was the hero at Mooresville, scoring the tiebreaking basket with 30 seconds left and finishing with 21 points and 11 rebounds. Guards Garner (14 points) and Nelson (12 points) provided the lightning to Phelps' thunder, combining for 7-of-10 accuracy from behind the 3-point line as Davie shot 48 percent (23-of-48) and splashed 9-of-18 shots from downtown.

Davie built a 35-26 halftime lead and Garner was the instigator, ringing up three 3-pointers and scoring all 14 of his points in the opening 16 minutes. Its lead swelled to 43-28 before Mooresville stormed back.

Phelps

War Eagle Girls Win By 24 Without Best Stuff

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

Davie's varsity girls basketball team wasn't at its best in last week's 60-36 nonconference road win. Try telling that to Mooresville.

"It was pretty ugly," said assistant coach Debbie Evans, who called the shots with head coach Karen Stephens unable to attend the game. "We kind of played down to their level in the first half. They're very young, I don't think they have any seniors, and we were a little sluggish in the first half."

The War Eagles (3-0 nonconference) couldn't restrain their yawns in the first half, missing 20 of 30 field goals, six of eight free throws and staggering to a 22-17 lead.

"They never threatened us but we just never got going in the first half," Evans said. "It's just a natural thing when you play against somebody where it's obvious their talent level isn't as high as yours, and it's hard to get as intense as you need to."

For Mooresville, reality hit as soon as Heather McDaniel and Sarah Williams turned up the defensive heat in the third quarter. Williams hit 5-of-7 shots and paced Davie with 14 points after scoring 11 and 11 in the first two wins. Heather McDaniel only scored two but unraveled Mooresville with four steals. She also had five rebounds and three assists.

"We got more aggressive and more into it, especially the first couple minutes of the third quarter," Evans said. "Heather and Sarah picked it up and we gradually started pulling away. We were

Unbeaten Wrestlers Wilt Against Davie

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

West Rowan's wrestling team rolled into town 6-0 and sensed the timing was right to gain a measure of revenge for all the torment inflicted by Davie on Rowan County, which has been trying to catch the War Eagles for nearly three decades.

Before last week's nonconference showdown, veteran West Rowan coach R.L. Lail said: "We're undefeated but it would still be a highlight to go up there and beat Davie. They're traditionally one of the best programs in the state. Where they are is where we want to be. We've just got to get it in our heads that we can wrestle with these guys."

After taking six steps forward and sending a warning to the War Eagles, the visiting Falcons got knocked a gigantic stride backward. They found out where they're at the hard way as Davie (7-3) turned the showdown into a 57-16 knockdown, thanks to eight War Eagle wins in the final eight matches.

"I think the boys wrestled well," Lail said. "They wrestled hard and were very aggressive throughout the match. We've got six guys in our lineup in their first year of varsity, and three of them are in their first year of ever wrestling. So I don't think they did that badly considering we were going against tradition as old as Davie County. Davie just did an outstanding job."

The Falcons kept it interesting for six matches, and their pin over a freshman at 145 vaulted West in front 16-15. But Davie handled them easily from 152 through the final match at 112, a

Collins, Harrison Save The Day For South Wrestling

South Davie's wrestling team isn't as dominant, impressive or physically overwhelming as it has been in the last four years, but the bottom line hasn't changed.

The Tigers are still undefeated at 5-0 overall and 2-0 in the Mid-South Conference after dodging a bullet from host China Grove last week, 42-35.

"That's about as dramatic as you can get," Coach Howard Riddle said after South scored the last six points to douse the Red Devils' upset dreams.

The Tigers went from living large at 36-14 to on the ropes at 36-35 before surviving behind breathtaking wins from Floyd Collins and Matt Harrison.

The dramatic finish sustained two sensational streaks: 53 straight wins over non-North Davie opponents and 21 straight wins overall. That's pretty remarkable for a team relying on nine seventh-grade starters.

"It's the biggest match (outside of the annual first-place showdown with North Davie) that we've had in three years," Riddle said. "We won seven in a row when we couldn't lose any more to beat West Rowan (45-38 in 1999-00). It was a big win. We wrestled better against China Grove than we did against West Rowan (in a 54-36 win on Nov. 26)."

The day began with South claiming six of the first nine matches as Jessie Cousins (112 weight class), Craig Brown (119), Caleb Creason (135), Sean Watkins (140), Kirston Angell

Wildcat Wrestlers Take No Prisoners

North Davie's wrestling team, which includes a number of football players, remembers North Rowan throwing a 70-yard touchdown pass with 17 seconds left to rub in a 32-8 win over North Davie's eighth-grade football team in 2001.

This fall, the Wildcats' unbeaten eighth graders got revenge to the tune of 34-0 over North Rowan, and the memory of that 70-yard bomb when North Davie had long been buried was still reverberating when the wrestling teams met at North Davie last week as the Wildcats gave North Rowan as thorough a whipping as you'll ever see: 90-0.

"I didn't talk it up any, but they remember me and (North Rowan's football/wrestling coach) getting in an argument down there (in the fall of 2001), and they were psyched up because of that," North Davie football/wrestling

Worth Noting ...

After a 21-0 run pulled China Grove's wrestling team within 36-35 against S. Davie, Floyd Collins and Matt Harrison came through to secure South's 21-match winning streak.

N. Davie has nine wrestlers with 5-0 records – Adam McIlwain, Chris Ange, Sam Curtis, Brandon Stewart, Kevin Boehm, Mark Huggins, Daniel Gough, Michael Murphy and Josh Miller.

Allison Mackintosh put Davie's JV girls ahead to stay from the free-throw line, and Shanicka Brown's putback sealed a 36-32 win over Mooresville.

With 30 seconds left in tie game, Luke Phelps (21 points, 11 rebounds) delivered a 3-point play to lift Davie's varsity boys past Mooresville 71-66. Together, Micah Garner and Nick Nelson shot 7-of-10 from 3-point range.

Sophomores Dustin Johnson and Millard Smith of Davie's wrestling team improved to 10-0.

Coach Tim Devericks calls Matt Van Hoy, who scored 11 in a 33-19 loss, South Davie's team leader.

Skid Continues For South Boys

Little can be said for the 0-4 South Davie seventh-grade boys basketball team other than, despite a 33-19 loss to visiting China Grove last week, the Tigers have played hard.

"We're just having trouble getting off in the first half," said Coach Tim Devericks, whose club was down 23-7 at halftime to West Rowan in the previous game and 9-0 at the end of the first quarter to China Grove on Dec. 3. "We came to play in the second half. I don't think it's a thing of hustle. We just can't get going quick enough, and by the time we get going we've dug such a hole."

Eric Lowery, Colby Seaford and Matt Van Hoy have shown signs of sharpness, but Devericks would just like to see them all hot on the same day. Lowery scored 14 points against North Davie on Nov. 21, but no one else managed more than six in a 28-14 loss. Seaford caught fire for five 3-pointers and 19 points against West Rowan on Nov. 26, but South's next scorer had four in a 47-30 loss.

And Van Hoy hit two 3-pointers and scored 11 against China Grove, but that amounted to 58 percent of South's output as the Tigers dug a 15-7 halftime hole. The rest of the scoring came from Seaford (three), Clint Howell (two), Darius Hall (two) and Sonny Stanley (one).

"Van Hoy had a great game, taking the ball to the rack and playing real aggressive," Devericks said. "He's really our team leader. He's so smart basketball-wise he knows what we need to be in before I even have to yell it out."

South (0-4, 0-2 Mid-South Conference) plays at Erwin on Dec. 17.

NFL Showdown of the Week

Green Bay 27

The Packers have won eight of their last nine against the 49ers -- 25-15 in a wild-card playoff last year -- so this is our upset of the week. S.F. has to do it with the run; G.B. shuts down the pass.

NFL FORECAST: Sunday-Monday, December 15-16

(Sunday)
*Atlanta 29
Seattle 14

The Falcons should be able to run at will on the Seahawks' NFL-worst run defense, and Seattle continues to struggle on offense. The 'Hawks won their fifth of seven games in this series in 2000, 30-10.

Baltimore 17
*Houston 15

This is a toss-up whose most noteworthy stats are defensive: the Texans actually rank higher overall than the Ravens and are near the top of the league against the pass. These two cities last met in '96.

*Denver 35
Kansas City 27

In October the Broncos came from two TD's behind in the fourth quarter to beat the Chiefs 37-34 in OT. Denver will exploit K.C.'s weak pass defense and get its first sweep of the Chiefs in four years.

Indianapolis 24
*Cleveland 18

The same applies here: the Browns' secondary will have to play way better than usual to keep the Colts close, because Cleveland's offense won't be much help. Indy was a 29-28 winner over the Browns in '99.

Jacksonville 26
*Cincinnati 16

A former divisional rival will be missed: the Jaguars have won seven of their last eight against the Bengals -- 30-13 and 14-10 last year. This won't be pretty, with Jacksonville staying on the ground.

Oakland 21

A potential game of the week, which may turn on the Dolphins' defense, which won't be threatened by the Raiders' running game and so can focus on their potent passing. Miami got by Oakland 18-15 in '01.

*New Orleans 27
Minnesota 20

The Saints will hurt the Vikings through the air, though Minnesota can hurt N.O. just as badly on the ground. The Saints ended a four-game series losing streak with a 28-15 win over the Vikes last season.

*N.Y. Giants 20
Dallas 14

Kerry Collins threw three TD passes to lead the Giants past the Cowboys in a less-than-thrilling Week Five contest, 21-17. Dallas's defense isn't half bad, but N.Y. will win again if it keeps on throwing.

N.Y. Jets 17
*Chicago 16

You'd never guess it from their respective records, but the Jets are almost as unproductive on both sides of the ball as the Bears, so this game could easily go either way. N.Y. won last, two years ago.

*Philadelphia 32
Washington 10

While Donovan McNabb was throwing for two TD's and running for another, the Eagles' defense allowed the Redskins across midfield only once in a 37-7 rout 13 weeks ago. Philly last swept Washington in '95.

Closer than it looks? Solid on the ground and excellent through the air, the Steelers face a Panthers defense that's solid against the run and excellent against the pass. Their series is even at 1-1.

*St. Louis 30
Arizona 9

Marshall Faulk rambled for 178 yards and had 58 receiving yards as the Rams dispatched the Cardinals last month, 27-14. At home against Arizona's inept defense, St. Louis should win even more easily.

San Diego 24
*Buffalo 21

Another toss-up, with the Bills able to shred the Chargers through the air and S.D. able to dominate Buffalo on the ground. The Chargers won their fourth out of the last five in the series in '01, 27-24.

*San Francisco 28
Green Bay 27

The Packers have won eight of their last nine against the 49ers -- 25-15 in a wild-card playoff last year -- so this is our upset of the week. S.F. has to do it with the run; G.B. shuts down the pass.

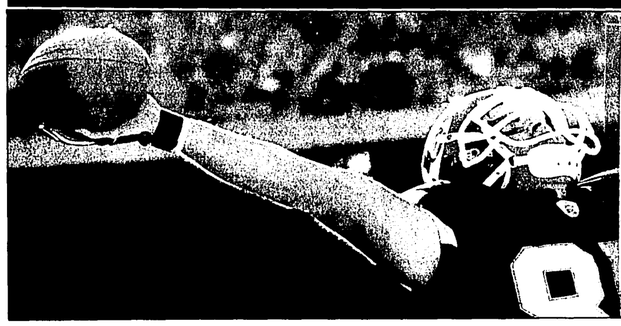

Tampa Bay 29
*Detroit 7

Losers of four of the last five in this rivalry, the Lions weren't sad to see the Buccaneers head south. T.B. is capable of shutting Detroit out, but the Bucs better score often against the Lions' D, too.

*Tennessee 25
New England 21

The Titans will rediscover pass defense and win. The Patriots, 27-16 winners the last time they battled Tennessee, in '98, are among the league's worst performers on Monday night, with a record of 9-18.

Tiger Girls Put Away China Grove

South Davie's seventh-grade girls basketball team raced to an 8-0 lead in less than a minute and breezed to a 31-6 win over visiting China Grove last week.

"I pulled the press off," Coach Todd Bumgarner said.

Meisha Fowler scored more points in the first half (10) than China Grove managed all game. Fowler finished with 12 as South improved to 2-2 and 1-1 in the Mid-South Conference.

"We played a little better than we have been, but China Grove wasn't strong," Bumgarner said. "We've got a lot of work to do before we can beat West Rowan or anybody like that. Hopefully by the end of the year we'll get where we want to be."

South got six points from Amanda Stewart and Tekaira Gaither, three from Tyara Wagner and Ayanna Leach and one from Carley Stauffer.

"Stewart had her best offensive game," Bumgarner said. "Gaither played well. Scott and Leach did a real good job on defense, and Taylor Cave had a good game."

South plays at Erwin on Dec. 17.

blistering 42-0 run that demonstrated that Davie is still Davie and that West still has considerable work to do.

"We wrestled pretty good and we're not in shape yet," Davie coach Buddy Lowery said. "I can't think of too many glaring mistakes we made."

The War Eagles are far different, and better, than they were during an 0-2 start. The addition of twin transfers Colt and Clint Stanley – who live in Advance but starred for Mount Tabor the last two years – changed the way fans view a Davie team that entered the year with one senior. And Davie's image improved even more when the end of football added three super sophomores (Ryan Boehm, Ted Randolph and Andrew Darcy) to the mix.

"We're going to be bad in two years," Boehm said.

Suddenly, things look real good this year. Millard Smith opened the blowout door with a 15-4 major decision, and the 42-0 tear also included wins from Justin Bentley, Colt Stanley, Clint Stanley, Boehm, Randolph, Russell Hilton and Dustin Johnson.

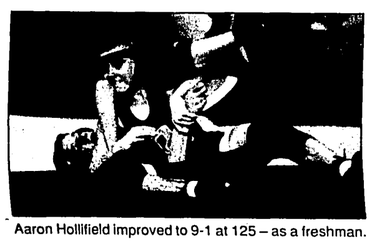

Zac Morton, Aaron Hollifield and Jeremiah Raby got Davie rolling with a 15-4 lead, and pins came from Morton, Raby, Bentley, Clint Stanley, Boehm, Randolph and Johnson.

Boehm and Randolph, who had spent all of 45 minutes on the practice mat, made the transition from football to wrestling look ridiculously easy with a pair of first-period pins at 215 and heavyweight, respectively.

"It's a good thing I got him in the first period because I'm out of shape," Boehm said.

"We figured if they didn't pin in the first, we'd die in the second or definitely die in the third. So that was two pleasant surprises," Lowery said. "And we've got Darcy (24-17 as a varsity freshman last year) that's going to fall in there someplace, probably at 130. He's going to be a good one."

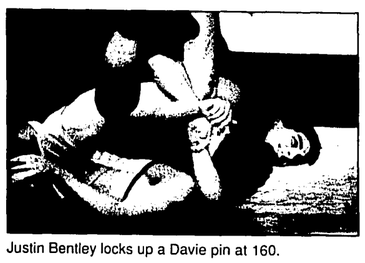

Notes: Johnson and Smith are 10-0 and the Stanleys are 6-0. Morton and Hollifield are 9-1 and Hilton 7-1. "Hilton wrestled well at 103," Lowery said of the freshman. "Their guy was a respectable wrestler." ... Freshman Timmy Allen lost to 7-0 Brandon Bryant at 130. ... The margin could easily have been 61-10 because Andrew Scott had a 9-0 lead before getting pinned by 7-0 Brent Painther at 140. Scott (8-2) had won eight in a row; Bentley is also 8-2. "Scott just got caught," Lowery said. ... In the Super 32 4A rankings, Clint Stanley is No. 5 at 189 and Scott and Smith are seventh at 140 and 152. ... The War Eagles' grudge match with visiting Mount Tabor is Dec. 11 with prelims beginning at 6 p.m. They compete in the Parkland Stampede on Dec. 14.

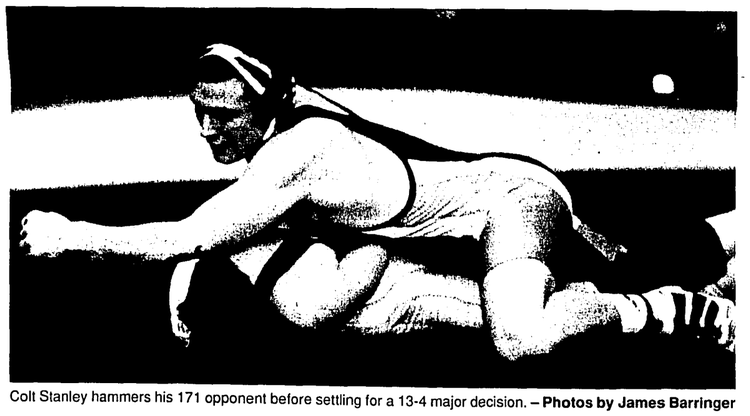

Aaron Hollifield improved to 9-1 at 125 – as a freshman.

Colt Stanley holds the upper hand at 171.

Justin Bentley locks up a Davie pin at 160.

Davie Girls Focus Long Enough To Pull Away From Mooresville pressing them and Heather in particular was putting a lot of pressure on their guards and picked their pocket a couple times."

Brittany Walker, who failed to score for the first time in 53 varsity games against Alexander Central, bounced back with nine points, five rebounds and five assists. Leading scorer Allison Schafer collected eight points, seven rebounds, four steals and three assists.

But a more obscure teammate made the plays that nailed Mooresville's coffin shut. Senior Ryanne McDaniel, who didn't play last year and failed to scratch in two previous cameo appearances, scored eight points in bang-bang-bang fashion. She converted two of three field goals and buried all four free throws.

"Ryanne came in in the middle of the third and gave us a spark with a three-point play on an offensive rebound," Evans said. "A lot of people saw playing time in the second half, but Ryanne was our biggest spark off the bench."

Evans

R. McDaniel

The second-half wipeout alleviated any pressure Evans might have been feeling as Stephens missed the game to attend a coaches meeting in Chapel Hill. With Evans going 13 deep on the bench and giving the starters an early exit, Davie got 3-of-3 shooting and six points from Savannah Kowalski, six points and six rebounds from freshman Carly Booth and six rebounds from Kierston Kahrs.

"I'm glad it was one of those blowout games. It made it easy for me," Evans said. "I had (JV coach) Janice (Jackson) there to help me out, and I'm glad it wasn't a nailbiter."

Notes: Davie went 25-of-66 from the floor for 38 percent. It was 0-for-4 from 3-point range, but went 8-of-8 from the line in the second half. ... Davie outrebounded Mooresville 46-35. ... Junior Alyse Bowden saw her first action after missing the first two games with an injured back. ... Davie plays at Statesville on Dec. 13 and at Alexander Central on Dec. 16.

Lack Of Practice Spells Miserable Loss For JVs

Davie JV boys basketball coach Roger Bumgarner practiced a month without football players, went 0-2 with several players who were eventually moved down to the freshman team and was afforded just one practice with his full squad before last week's nonconference game at Mooresville.

Add those factors with a solid opponent, and the result was no surprise, a dismal 49-29 loss.

"We played terrible," he said. "We're going to be OK, but we're going to have to get some practice time. The kids were just rusty. You could tell they haven't played basketball in awhile."

Bumgarner picked up seven from the football team - sophomores Troy Blakley, Dewayne Collins, Dustin Morgan and D.J. Rice and freshmen Raeshon McNeil and ReShawn Parks. The ones who have been aboard all along are sophomores John Benfield, Harry Brown, Brent Harpe and Michael Mashore and freshmen Devon Venable and Drew Yeager.

"We had one practice really," he said. "Three football players showed up Saturday (after the season-ending loss at A.C. Reynolds) and the other three showed up Monday (Dec. 9). So we had seven new ones and Mooresville was pretty good. Most of their JV team had been practicing for several weeks."

The 0-3 War Eagles were so out of sync offensively that Parks' four points led the way. Yeager, McNeil, Venable, Brown, Harpe, Rice and Blakley all had three and Benfield had two.

"We missed layups and didn't run the offense very well," Bumgarner said. "I've been 0-3 before. It's easy to get your head down, but you have to just keep working hard and believe in yourself. And I've seen it turn around before. We'll play better. We've got some talent."

Davie plays at Statesville on Dec. 13 and at home to Alexander Central on Dec. 16.

Phelps' Late Basket Beats Mooresville

"We were really playing well for two and a half quarters, and they had all their guys from football and they're very, very athletic," Absher said.

Davie hit a roadblock when the Blue Devils warmed up from the outside. A flurry of 3s chopped Davie's lead to 52-49 going into the fourth, and they caught Davie at 66 with 70 seconds left, a rally that could have rocked a team with lesser determination.

"The composure we showed to gather ourselves was good, especially for a young team this early in the year," Absher said. "We had a 15-point lead taken away and the crowd was into it – but they didn't panic."

The War Eagles spread the floor with 1:10 left, played keepaway and milked 40 seconds off the clock. Then Hunter came off a screen, took a pass and whipped it to Phelps, who scored inside as he was fouled, a three-point play that gave Davie a 69-66 lead with 30 seconds remaining.

Phelps couldn't be stopped with the game on the line, scoring 12 of his 21 points in the fourth. Not only did he hit 7-of-10 field goals and block two shots, he went 6-of-6 from the line in the final period.

"He told me at practice: 'Coach, I won't let us go up there and lose,'" Absher said. "And Luke literally meant it because he took over when it got crunch time."

Mooresville missed on its next possession, Law ran down a long rebound and found a streaking Hunter, who iced it at 71-66 with a transition layup.

Smith hit 4-of-4 foul shots for seven points, Burns played a key role despite two points as the big man grabbed eight rebounds, made four steals, rejected four shots and altered several others.

"What he did that doesn't show up on the stat sheet is he made them change a lot of shots," Absher said. "So he really played well. Even if he's not scoring a lot, I tell him to rebound and play defense. If he does those two things, we're going to be a much better team."

Notes: Nelson only needed six attempts to score 12 points, going 4-of-5 from 3-point range. ... Davie plays at Statesville on Dec. 13 and at Alexander Central on Dec. 16.

Davie 71, Mooresville 66 – Luke Phelps 21, Micah Garner 14, Nick Nelson 12, Matt Smith 7, Brian Hunter 6, Patrick Law 5, David Schweit 2, Cliff Burns 2, Brandon Capwell 2.

JV Girls Hold Off Mooresville

Davie's JV girls basketball team did just enough to overcome its constant trouble with turnovers and grabbed its first win, 36-32 at Mooresville, last week.

The War Eagles turned the ball over 20 times and trailed 26-25 – after leading 13-7 at the end of the first quarter – going into the fourth. But Allison Mackintosh and Shanicka Brown made sure the War Eagles (1-2 nonconference) prevailed, with Mackintosh's free throws putting Davie up by two and Brown's putback pushing the margin to a decisive four.

Mackintosh finished with six points, seven rebounds and three steals, and Brown had four points and nine team-high rebounds.

"Allison had a good all-around game, but we have got to do better with turnovers," Coach Janice Jackson said. "It's good to finally win one, especially another one that was close at the end, but we need to work on ball handling and passing. We're still looking for the right combination and the right floor leader."

Danielle O'Neal led the way with nine points, Erin Whitaker had eight points and six boards and Brooke Harris had six points. O'Neal and Harris were the most efficient, as O'Neal hit 4-of-6 attempts and a 3-pointer and Harris 3-of-4 field goals.

Davie plays at Statesville on Dec. 13 and at Alexander Central on Dec. 16.

Davie 36, Mooresville 32 – Danielle O'Neal 9, Erin Whitaker 8, Allison Mackintosh 6, Brooke Harris 6, Shanicka Brown 4, Evony Tucker 3.

coach Ron Kirk said.

From start to finish, it was like a hot knife through butter – 15 matches, 15 pins as the Wildcats got eight first-period pins from Zac Gentry, Bennett Shipman, Adam McIlwain, Ethan Curtis, Sam Curtis, Brandon Stewart, Daniel Gough and Josh Miller.

Patrick O'Connor, Josh Dixon, Mark Huggins, Michael Murphy and Josh Hartman pancaked their opponents in the second period, and Chris Ange and Kevin Boehm put them away in the third.

"It was one of the best matches we've wrestled in a long time. We were really focussed," Kirk said. "We did something we hadn't done in a long time. We came out to music. The last time we came out to music we got our butts kicked, so I was concerned about changing the routine. But I think the song I picked out fired them up. It was pretty error-free."

Boredom and injury appear to be the only factors that can stop the Wildcats, who have the world at their feet at 5-0 overall and 2-0 in the Mid-South Conference.

"Two matches went to the third period, but conditioning and our technique overpowered them," Kirk said.

North Davie is deep into the season to still have nine guys unbeaten at 5-0. The spotless list includes McIlwain at 103, Ange at 125, Sam Curtis at 135, Stewart at 140, Boehm at 145, Huggins at 152, Gough at 160, Murphy at 171 and Miller at 189. The ones with 4-1 records are Ethan Curtis, O'Connor and Dixon, and Gentry and Hartman are 3-1, meaning 14 of 15 starters are no worse than 3-1.

"Ange and Stewart look as good technique-wise as anybody," Kirk said. "McIlwain looks like a man on a mission. You can't leave the rest of them out, because they're all wrestling good."

Notes: The Wildcats went 5-1 in preliminaries, getting pins from Max Graham, Andrew Linhart, Sam Tucker and Josh Riddle. Taylor Evans dominated 10-2. ... North Davie wrestles at home against West Rowan on Dec. 12, against Forsyth Country Day at South Davie on Dec. 13, and at China Grove on Dec. 17.

Late Tiger Wins Turn Back China Grove

(145) and Brandon Jones (160) established the 36-14 lead.

If only putting the Red Devils away had been so easy. They ripped off the next four matches – for a 21-0 run – to pull within 36-35, a furious comeback that meant everything was riding on Collins and Harrison. Collins did his part by outlasting China Grove's 93-pounder 15-13.

"Collins was down two, up two; down two, up two," a relieved Riddle said.

Collins' clutch escape would have been forgotten had China Grove's 103 turned Harrison on his back. That scary prospect never came close to happening as Harrison blitzed by 7-0 to keep South in a first-place tie with North Davie.

"The last two matches were exciting," Riddle said. "There was a lot of pressure on Matt when he went out there, but he wrestled his best match and had control the whole time."

Notes: Producing pins for South were Cousins, Brown, Creason, Angell and Jones. ... Brown, Angell and Collins are 5-0; Jones is 4-0; and Cousins, Creason, Watkins and Harrison are 4-1. ... Crotts nearly stole one before falling 13-8 at 171. "He got down early, came back and had him all but pinned," Riddle said. ... South hosts Forsyth Country Day on Dec. 13 and Erwin on Dec. 17.

Offseason Sweat Paying Off For Wrestlers Johnsn, Smith

• Last winter seems like a long time ago for sophomores Dustin Johnson and Millard Smith. Varsity freshmen typically get smacked around, and Johnson and Smith were no different, going 24-19 and 3-5 respectively.

But this year they're showing just how far the extra mile can carry an athlete, entering the week with 10-0 records in the 112 and 152 weight classes. Their rapid ascension is a product of rigorous offseason training.

"I've been wrestling all season, last season all the way to the start of this season," Johnson, who is perfect at 112, said. "I pretty much wrestled every Saturday, me and Millard. We practiced on Tuesdays and Thursdays at the Brock (Gym) helping little kids."

"I'm pretty surprised," Smith. "I figured I'd lose a couple by now."

• Howard Riddle has all but conceded the Mid-South Conference championship to North Davie's wrestling team with six league matches to go. Ron Kirk has coached 10 perfect teams, has gone 191-7 since 1987-88 and this year has outscored five opponents 398-35, including 90-0 over North Rowan last week.

But this might be Kirk's greatest team. Nine wrestlers are sporting 5-0 records. "Ron's got the best talent, top to bottom, that he's had since I've been at South," Riddle, a coach at South since 1994, said.

• The boys basketball race in the Central Piedmont Conference will be a battle for third place between Davie, North Davidson, South Iredell and South Rowan. Let's face it, they'd rather have dinner with Hannibal than see Reynolds and West Forsyth.

Reynolds, the three-time defending 4A champs, have five players 6-7 or taller, including Reyshawn Terry (who has committed to North Carolina), Keith Foster (East Carolina) and Eddie Green (James Madison).

If that's not enough bad news, West Forsyth split four games with Reynolds last year and has the CPC's best player in Chris Paul, a point guard bound for Wake Forsyth. In the season opener, Paul pumped in 61 points against Parkland.

"The question is, is anybody around here that can beat us?" West coach David Luton said.

• Mike Absher has become the biggest success story at Davie. Casual fans couldn't have named two players on the varsity boys basketball roster he inherited, yet he's led them to 3-0.

"And it couldn't happen to a nicer fella," new JV coach Roger Bumgarner said. "I think a lot of Mike. He's so good to the kids and he's a good coach. He's a good game coach. He's very knowledgable about knowing how to win a game, and I really think they've bought into his program and the way he does things. I think they believe in him, and that's a big part of coaching."

Absher

Singleton

Absher is a prime example that numbers sometimes don't do justice to a coach. In nine years at South Caldwell of the Northwestern 4A Conference, Absher was 93-132.

"He didn't have the athletes that he's got at Davie, if you can believe that," Bumgarner explained. "I know a lot of other schools are even more athletic than Davie, but at South Caldwell he had good kids but athletically they were not very good. And he played in a tough conference. Freedom and McDowell are always tough."

• Davie's varsity girls have dominated Statesville, Alexander Central and Mooresville by an average of 59-40, but Dawn Singleton's injured wrist could catch up to them when the competition stiffens. The 5-11 senior center and third-year starter has been handicapped all season by an ailing left wrist, limiting her production to 7.7 points, 7.0 rebounds and 3.0 blocks.

"Last week at practice and during the (last) game she almost played with one hand," assistant Debbie Evans said of Singleton's three-point, four-block effort in a little over one half of play at Mooresville. "It's obviously hurting her. She's been to rehab but she hadn't had it x-rayed as of (Dec. 3).

"We've got some (front-court) people, but not with Dawn's toughness and experience. We can't replace that. These days off (because of the ice storm that postponed two games) hopefully gave it a chance to feel better."

7 War Eagles On All CPC Team

Davie's football team, which tied North Davidson and Reynolds for second place and advanced to the quarterfinals of the 4A playoffs, placed seven players on the All-Central Piedmont Conference team.

Selected on offense were junior left guard Justin Norsworthy and sophomore quarterback/tailback James Arnold. Chosen from the defense were senior tackle Sam Stovall, sophomore linebacker D.J. Rice, junior safety Billy Riddle and senior cornerback Gareth White. Junior Kevin Winters made the squad at punter.

The big awards went to West Forsyth's Russell Stone (coach of the year), West Forsyth junior tailback Harold Bennett (offensive player of the year) and North Davidson senior linebacker Ramiro Villalobos (defensive player of the year).

Old School: Davie Sports from December, 1978

• The Davie varsity girls basketball team opened 3-0. Jim Amos had 20 points and Sarah Gardner added 12 in a 60-55 win over West Rowan. Deanna Thomas led a 60-44 win over South Iredell with 20 points, and Amos and Rhonda Billabough added 16 and 12 respectively. And Amos scored 24 in a 64-48 win over Thomasville. Gardner and Thomas had 14 and 13.

• The Davie varsity boys opened 0-3. Steve Fleming had 14 and Randy Athey 10 in a 60-50 loss to West Rowan. Barry Chunn (12) and Athey (11) were Davie's top scorers in an 84-71 loss to South Iredell. Allen Mock had 18 in an 88-63 loss to Thomasville. Chunn (11), John Redmond (10) and Athey (10) also reached double figures against Thomasville.

• The Davie JV girls split their first two, beating South Iredell 31-20 and losing to Thomasville 57-45. Katherine Grisette's 13 points led Davie in the South game. Rhonda Driscoll had 20 points and seven rebounds against Thomasville.

Davie People

A Family Affair

Richard And Elaine Williams, And Children Enjoy Working Together

Their story proves the Great American Dream is alive and well in Davie County.

Boy meets girl, falls in love. They get married, realize they have to work for a living, decide they don't like working for someone else and start their own company.

They have a son. The company grows, and so does their family. They have a daughter and then another.

The one company evolves into four. The children grow up, work for somebody else a while, then go to work for their parents, who put each one of them in charge of a company.

The children have children, and the grandchildren get off the bus at the corporate offices for the Williams Companies. Parents and grandparents welcome them with open arms.

"This is what it's all about," says president and CEO Richard Wayne Williams Sr. "We're building a future."

This is the story of the Williamses — a family that works together, plays together and stays together. It all started with a boy and a girl.

Heart to Heart with Kathy Chaffin

Richard Williams was the boy, and Elaine Williams was the girl.

Though they weren't related, they shared the same last name, and to make things even more confusing, their fathers shared the same first and last names. His father was Marvin Lester Williams, and hers was Marvin Odell Williams.

They lived several miles apart — Marvin Lester Williams and his family near the County Line community, and Marvin Odell Williams and his family on McAllister Road off of Green Hill Road — but shared the same address, Route 1, Mocksville.

"When a piece of mail came to Marvin Williams," Richard says, "the mailman would try it in the first box, and that was our box. If it wasn't our mail, I would take it to school and give it to her and she'd take it home and give it to her dad."

Despite years of swapping mail, Richard says it wasn't until their graduation from the eighth to the ninth grade at Davie High that he really noticed Elaine. "That's when I noticed, 'That's a girl,' " he says, " 'and a cute one.' "

They started calling each other that summer. Their courtship continued on into high school until they eventually quit and got married.

"We figured out we had made a mistake," he says, "we were going to have to work." After three months as an employee at the Cooleemee Cotton Mill, "I said, 'There's got to be a better way.' "

He and Elaine completed the requirements for their GEDs and went on to attend Mitchell College.

When they came up with the idea for starting their own textile company, the late Dr. Ramey Kemp steered them toward manufacturing medical apparel such as patient gowns, adult bibs, operating room apparel and other supplies.

They started Williams Medical Textiles Inc. in 1971, selling their products to hospitals and nursing homes in the two Carolinas.

Two years after starting the company, Elaine gave birth to their first child, Richard Wayne Williams Jr. or R.J. for Richard Junior as he came to be called. Candy was born two years later, followed by Wendy two years after that.

Their company grew with their family, and Richard, who was also working part time as a rural mail carrier, and Elaine, who took the children with her to work, began to diversify their product line.

When they learned of the need for disposable diapers and underpads in other countries, for example, they began bringing them in by the truckloads and exporting them overseas. Soon, their overseas customers, which includes such countries as the Caribbean Islands, Africa, Haiti, Canada and Russia, were inquiring about other products, and the company began locating other merchandise to ship to them.

T.R.C. International Inc. was created to control the flow of exported goods at about the same time the Williamses started an in-house freight company, R.J. Transports Inc., to handle the companies' transportation needs.

Over the years, R.J. Transports has grown from one tractor and trailer to five tractors and more than 160 trailers. The growth required more space as well.

Richard and Elaine started out in what had been a four-room house at N.C. Highway 801 South and U.S. Highway 64 East in the Fork community.

"Then we added the section where Richard's office is," Elaine says, "then we added the next warehouse and the next warehouse. When we outgrew that, we had to move across the road."

The Williams children spent a lot of time at the company while their parents worked. Candy Williams Trivette says she remembers playing with the cardboard boxes in the warehouses, pretending they were playhouses.

"When the kids were little," Elaine says, "I was so afraid they wouldn't want to be in our business because we would say, 'We've got to go to the plant tonight and work for a couple of hours.' 'Oh, do we have to?' they would fuss.

"They didn't really want to come over here, but then as they grew older and got out and worked for somebody else, they learned to appreciate what they had here. They were ready to come back."

Richard says he wanted his children to work for somebody else first so they would understand what it's like to work for other people and what it means to be a good employee. "To be a good supervisor, you've got to be a good employee," he says.

After two or three years of working for other companies, the children joined their parents at the Williams Companies.

Today, each of the Williams children oversees the operation of one of the companies: R.J. is in charge of R.J. Transports and the warehouse; Candy is in charge of T.R.C. Internationals; and Wendy is in charge of Value Clothing Inc., started in 1996 to meet the growing overseas demand for used clothing, shoes, belts, purses, toys and other used materials.

Candy's husband, Chris Trivette, is the transportation manager for all of the companies, including International Housing Inc., started this year to handle the growing demand for exporting prefabricated housing including modular homes and modular hospital units.

Salvation Army Depends On Holiday Donations

Members of the Mocksville Lions Club will be ringing bells for The Salvation Army on Friday, Dec. 13 from noon-8 p.m. at following Mocksville locations: Wal-Mart at 1063 Yadkinville Rd.; and at the Bi-Lo at 796 Valley Rd.

This is the first time in several years that the Mocksville Lions Club has participated in this fund-raising effort for The Salvation Army.

The Mocksville Lions Club, which was established in Davie County in 1954, provides resources for the visually and hearing impaired. Under the leadership of its president, Jonathan Wishon, the 35 member Mocksville Lions Club and the recently formed a Davie LEO Club, will be assisting the Salvation Army during this holiday season.

"The Salvation Army is an essential provider of emergency services in Davie County," Wishon said.

In 2001, The Salvation Army:

- provided $8,292 in rental assistance to 36 Davie families;
- paid utility bills totaling $11,168 to benefit 73 Davie families;
- purchased medicine for one individual in Davie totaling $200;
- provided $236.90 to a Davie family to purchase a prescription infant formula for a baby allergic to regular formula.

Other civic clubs and church groups can join the Lions by volunteering to work at the kettle locations. Allen Martin and Dot Horn are organizing the effort. To participate, call Martin at 492-5715.

"The Mocksville Lions Club invites residents of Davie County to support the work of The Salvation Army by dropping off donations in the Salvation Army kettles located at Wal-Mart and Bi-Lo throughout this holiday season," Wishon said.

"Grammy"
Emily Rainert Rosello
April 13, 1913 to November 17, 2002

Grammy's Legacy

How can you measure a life, and what it's worth? By what one gains: how many, or how much?
Or should it be a goal of ours from birth to instead see how many lives our love can touch?
Grammy was a wild rose that grew into a flowering plant that sent its vines into the very hearts of all she knew; She soothed the lonely thoughts and troubled minds.
She healed the wonds of ones who'd been deceived, and planted seeds in those whose hearts were flawed by showing breless faith 'til all believed; and through her love they saw the face of God.
She blossomed in adversity, thrived in pain, within the reach of thorns her beauty grew; nourishment she took from pounding rain. Her roots ran deep, their foundations holding true.
We all wonder, then, what legacy we'll leave when we reach our end, our mortal bodies gone. True, Gram's flower has faded, so we grieve, but her many, many seedlings still live on.

Davie Couple Builds The American Dream

Wendy's husband, Dale Workman, worked for the Williams Companies a while before leaving to try something else, and R.J.'s wife, Carla, works at Wake Forest University Baptist Medical Center in Winston-Salem.

As president and CEO of the Williams Companies, Richard gets the biggest office, but the title comes with a price. "My son says I sit in the hot seat," he says. "If anybody does something wrong, it comes back to me."

Elaine, the next in line, wears many hats, including office manager. "I do everything from unlock in the mornings at 7 or quarter til 7 to drive a forklift and unload trailers," she says, "as well as come in here and make sure everything in here is going right.

"I used to do all the payroll and accounting, but when the children came along and started helping, I started passing some of that to them." Wendy now handles the payroll and payroll taxes, while Candy oversees the accounts receivable and accounts payable.

The Williamses say they love working together.

"I get to see my wife all the time," Richard says, "and I get to see the kids every day."

"Don't forget the grandkids getting off the bus," Candy says.

"And the grandkids," he adds.

Candy and Chris have two children, Kristen, 7, and Jason, 5, both students at Cornatzer Elementary School. They do their homework at corporate headquarters in the afternoons while their parents work.

"They usually come in my office and play with me," Elaine says.

Richard laughs. "Now you see why she likes the grandbabies here," he says.

Wendy and Dale have a 3-year-old son, D.J. for Dale Junior, who attends a day-care center.

Richard says he never has to worry about his children not getting along at work. "There's no fussing or fighting," he says. "because they're too busy. And everybody pulls the same weight.

"I think that's one reason our companies have done so well is that the children and Elaine and myself are all pulling the same weight."

Candy says the whole family works as a team. "We communicate very well," she says, "and that's what it takes."

"We complement each other," Elaine says. "Each one has strong points and everybody recognizes what they are. Like if the computer breaks down, we call Candy ..."

Keeping the most up-to-date computers is one of the keys to the success of the companies, according to Richard. "This year, we'll spend $25,000 on computers," he says.

The family congregates around the large conference table in Richard's office. "We drink coffee and have 'What if' meetings," he says. " 'What if we do this?' or 'What if we do that?' "

"When we go off on a family vacation, like the Fourth of July," Candy says, "we sit down and discuss our business and how to improve and make it better. But yet we have our good family times, too."

The companies close down for a week every July 4th, Elaine says, and they rent a house at the beach for the whole family.

In their early 50s, Richard and Elaine have begun taking more time off and letting their children run the companies. "I feel like in the future, when we're ready to retire," he says, "we can feel confident that our children and our grandchildren can come in and take the business over and do a good job."

Richard says he is also at a point in his life where he wants to give back to a state and country that has been good to him and his family. One way that he feels he is able to do that is by serving on various advisory committees on exportation.

He serves on the N.C. District Export Council (DEC) and the national Exporters' Textile Advisory Committee (ETAC). Members of ETAC make suggestions that are given to Don Evans, secretary of the U.S. Department of Commerce.

He has been nominated for the national Industry Sector Advisory Committee (ISAC), which reports to the U.S. Department of Commerce.

While free-trade legislation such as NAFTA (North American Free Trade Agreement) and the Caribbean Basin Treaty have helped some companies, Richard says they have hurt others. "I think probably in the long run, the people that did those treaties did them with the best of intentions and tried to create more trade," he says.

Elaine says the Williams Companies don't do any importing. "We do exporting," she says, "and as long as the dollar market is strong in other countries, we do fine."

"Diversification is a big thing," Richard says, adding that they also try to find a unique niche in the market and fill it.

Sisters Candy Trivette and Wendy Workman work for their parents.

Before, when companies would ship food to Third World countries, flour was only sold in 50-kilo or 110-pound sacks. "So my son started packing it in 50-pound sacks," he says. "He said, 'If you're in a poor country and it's hard to put together enough money to get a 100-pound sack, let's sell 50-pound sacks.'

"Nobody was doing it, and we've been shipping 50-pound sacks for two years or more."

T.R.C. International also exports rice, corn, sugar and other staples to Third World countries.

"A lot of times, we do only the paperwork," Richard says. "Candy will pick up the telephone and say, 'I want four containers of rice, and you'll have the money in two hours,' and she calls the bank and says, 'Wire the money to the rice company,' and the next day, the rice is being loaded onto containers to go to port."

In buying food to ship overseas, Richard says they try to support North Carolina manufacturers as much as they can.

One important factor in exporting is to understand the countries and their needs, according to Elaine. In the country to which they ship 50-pound sacks of flour, for example, she says there was also a need for smaller packages of disposable diapers.

"They couldn't afford to buy 30 or 40 like you can buy in the grocery store here," she says, "so we packed them 10 to a pack."

And in that particular country, Richard says some people were taking those packs and opening them, selling two or three diapers at a time. "They sell cigarettes in that country one at a time," he says.

The U.S. Department of Commerce is helpful to companies interested in exporting, he says, particularly when it comes to educating them on the cultures. It also has a Web site, BuyUSA.com, which will list the names of companies which export goods.

In addition to family members, the Williams Companies employs 30 to 35 people, all of them full time. "We have great employees," Candy says. "We love very one of them to death."

The turnover at the Williams Companies is low. "If they make it a couple of weeks or a month," Richard says, "they stay with us."

Employees in the warehouses at the corporate offices go through new and used shoes shipped in on trailers to pick out pairs that are appropriate for exporting. The rest are put on a truck and taken to the Davie County Landfill.

"We generate one of those trucks about once a week," Richard says of a truckload of rejects waiting to go to the landfill. Many of them came in without mates or they're bedroom shoes, high-top boots or high heels, for which there is no market in the Third World countries.

"I'd say 80 percent of that truck right there has no mates," he says.

"Look at what the United States takes for granted," Candy comments.

Elaine salvages a pair of low-top boots from the truck that she thinks should have made the cut.

"She saved a penny, made a nickel," Richard says.

Across the busy intersection of 64 and 801, R.J. supervises operations at the warehouse for Value Clothing.

There, employees go through bags of used clothing that come in on trailers and take out shoes, pocketbooks and toys. "Some of it's garbage," Elaine says, "and some of it's wet and we have to throw it away.

"I guess the strangest thing we've ever found in these trailers was a person's false teeth, top and bottom."

Shoes are put in boxes and sent to the other warehouses, while toys are bagged for exportation. Clothes are packed in 1,000-to-1,200-pound bales and shipped to graders in the United States who go through and itemize the clothing and then export them or to overseas graders.

Tags hang from some of the baled clothing. "We buy store returns and we buy store change-outs," Richard says. "J.C. Penney, Belk, companies like that that have store returns, they want somewhere to go with it and most of them want it out of their main market which is out of the United States."

Richard teases his wife about going through the toys and the shoes. "We have a whole bedroom full of bears at our house," he says. "We have a rabbit room, and a room of porcelain dolls."

"And she's got as many shoes as Imelda Marcos (the former Philippines First Lady who was arrested in October 2001 for corruption and amassing wealth illegally during her husband's regime)," he says.

"I don't have that many," she says.

"Close," he responds.

Elaine uses a joke to illustrate her husband's zest for a business deal: it seems two companies sent salesmen to Africa to determine if there was a market for shoes.

One returned and said absolutely not, nobody wore shoes, they all went barefoot.

The other salesman returned and told his company, "Ship shoes, they all need them," she says.

Richard joins in, "I'm the man that says, 'Everybody's barefoot, let's ship them shoes.' "

Though he enjoys being at the warehouse because he doesn't have to answer the phone there, Richard says he usually only has time to visit about once a day.

The whole family communicates with walkie-talkies. "That's better than picking up the telephone and calling," Elaine says.

Though business dropped for a month or two after the terrorist attacks of Sept. 11, 2001, Richard says it's been up ever since.

In the next 12 months, he says they're going to have to add 10 to 15 office personnel, and within the next 24 months, they're planning to buy or build another corporate office.

For Richard Williams, the success of the Williams Companies is a testament to his love for his family.

"Elaine and I have had a very close family," he says, "and we've gotten along good and been well blessed."

Their black Mercedes sedans claim the first two parking spots at corporate headquarters. The next parking places belong to their children.

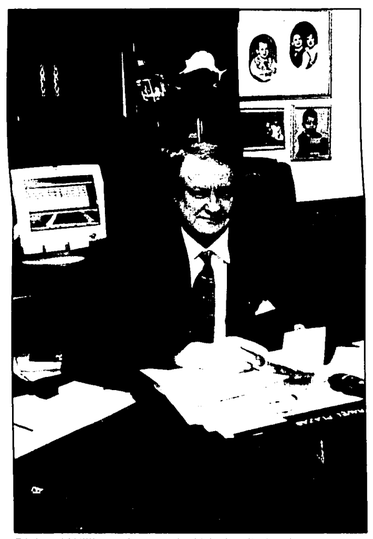

Candy's van sports an Avon sign in the window, another example of the entrepreneurship that she says runs in their blood.

Just like her father, Candy is always eager to make another sale and hands out Avon books to visitors to the Williams Companies.

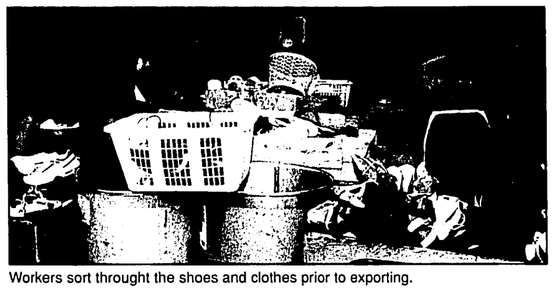

"We'll chase a deal sometimes," Richard says, "especially Candy and me, we'll chase a deal for $10,000 just as hard as we do one for $10 million."

Kristen is going to be just like them, her grandmother says.

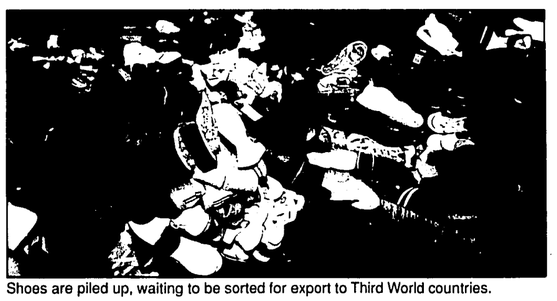

One day recently, while Candy was putting out Avon books at Western Steer in Mocksville, Elaine says the 7-year-old went over to a table and started trying to sell something to a lady who worked at her school. "There she was, following in Mama's footsteps," she says.

Richard Williams is proud of his family businesses.

Workers sort throught the shoes and clothes prior to exporting.

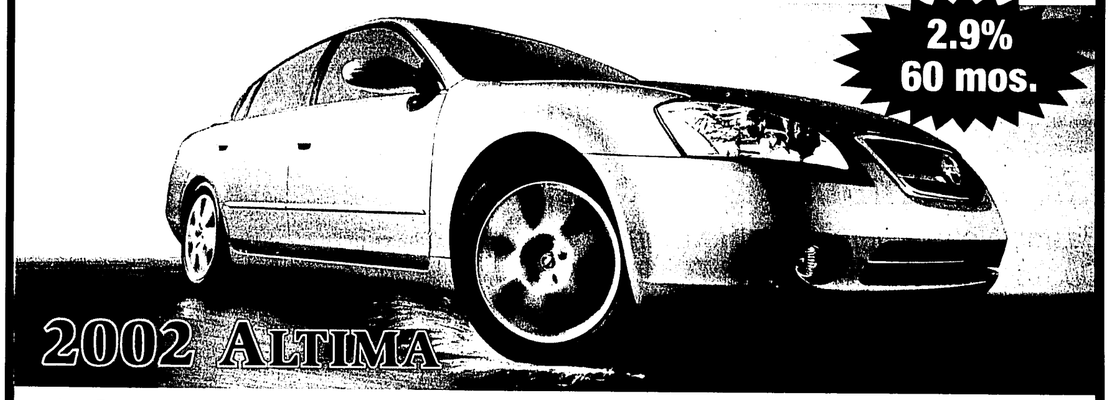

Shoes are piled up, waiting to be sorted for export to Third World countries.

Life Community Church

Pastor, New Congregation Reaching Out To The Community, And The World

By Mike Barnhardt
Davie County Enterprise Record

Kevin Stewart wants to bring life to Davie County.

And he's got 30 or so area residents to help him do just that.

The life they're talking about is the life one receives when they learn to accept Jesus Christ.

"We want to do things for the community. We want to bless the community," said Stewart, pastor of Davie's newest place of worship, Life Community Church.

"I've seen a lot of people whose church is strictly religion," Stewart said. "It's a relationship, and through that relationship, Jesus Christ gives you life. And we want to be a part of the community."

Hence, the name.

The church meets every Sunday at 10 a.m. at the Brock Performing Arts Center on North Main Street in Mocksville.

Starting a church is new to Stewart, but he grew up watching his father do just that - start churches. They lived, and his parents still live in India.

Stewart was a "comfortable" associate pastor in Mobile, Ala., when he felt God urging him to start a new church.

It took five years, but he finally went to the Assemblies of God bishop to ask where a new church was needed. The Greater Winston-Salem area was mentioned.

Stewart somehow ended up in Mocksville, staying at a local hotel, praying and walking around town meeting people. That was less than a year ago, and the first service of Life Community Church was held in August.

Kevin Stewart: "We want to reach people with the gospel of Jesus Christ in relevant and life-changing ways."

A new family attends the service almost every week, and around 30 are in attendance on any Sunday. They have children's activities, which are important to the church, Stewart said. Because children are so important, all people who work in the children's areas are screened.

Stewart, 31, and wife Stephanie are having their first child. He plans to stay.

"We're here in Davie County to stay," he said. "I'm stubborn enough to stick it out. What you see is what you get. I'm a big man and I'm not wearing a tie.

"God loves you just as much in a t-shirt as a suit. We have a very good variety of people here," he said.

The church's motto is: "Reaching Up to Love God and Reaching Out to Love People."

Stewart's goal is to help his congregation get the tools they need to go out and spread the gospel.

"Part of our mission is, we want to reach people with the gospel of Jesus Christ in relevant and life-changing ways."

Bringing families back to Christ brings communities to Christ, the world to Christ.

"We want to win people and build people and send people. We want to teach them how to understand how to have confidence and be a winner in Christ. We believe in families, and I really believe in kids."

The only Assemblies of God church in Davie County, Life Community Church has received some help from Family Tabernacle in Lewisville.

"I've been amazed at God's goodness and the 30 people we have who not only give monetarily - but of themselves."

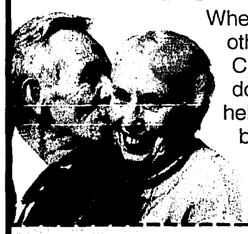

Stewart said his father questioned him about his plan to start a church, but quickly became excited. The two even went to a church planner's "boot camp" together.

Life is establishing a means for home and foreign missions, and already supports missionaries in India and Germany.

The church has study groups that meet Wednesday's at 7 in the homes of members.

"Life Community Church will be a part of this community," Stewart said.

Advance News

By Edith Zimmerman

In spite of the snow and ice a large number of the Methodist church congregation attended and enjoyed the Open House Christmas party at our new parsonage last Saturday afternoon. Also a large number was at church Sunday with many visitors. Dan Tatum was among the visitors.

Our church secretary Lori Zimmerman is confined to her home with pneumonia. A speedy recovery is wished for her.

Many people in our community are still without power. Some are staying with relatives and others at motels in Clemmons. Fortunately the churches in the community were spared the power outages.

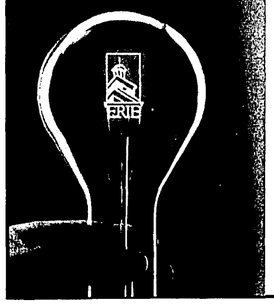

Meredith Hendrix, student at UNC-Charlotte, and Melissa Hendrix Barnum of Concord spent Friday and that night with their grandmother, Edith Zimmerman. After the power came on the girls and their mother Janie Hendrix worked in Edith's yard sawing up fallen tree limbs and hauling off the debris.

Julia Patton is a resident at Meadowbrook Manor in Clemmons after being hospitalized with a broken hip.

Janie Hendrix and her mother Edith Zimmerman attended a Stork shower for Amanda "Muff" Potts Haneline Sunday afternoon, Dec. 8, at the Davie County Library Conference room.

The annual Advance Christmas Parade will be Saturday, Dec. 14. A group from the Methodist church will meet on Friday at noon for the church float decoration.

My First Christmas With Jesus

I see the countless Christmas trees around the world below, with tiny lights, like Heaven's stars, reflecting in the snow.

The sight is so spectacular,
please wipe away that tear, for I am spending Christmas
with Jesus Christ this year.

I hear the many Christmas songs that people hold so dear, the sound of music cannot compare with the Christmas joy up here.

I have no words to tell you,
the joy their voices bring,
for it is beyond description,
to hear the angels sing.

I know how much you miss me.
I see the pain inside your heart.
But I am not so far away.
We really aren't apart.

So be happy for me dear ones.
You know I hold you dear.
And be glad I'm spending Christmas,
with Jesus Christ this year.

I send you each a special gift, from my heavenly home above.
I send you each a memory of my undying love.

After all, Love is the gift, more precious than pure gold.
It was always most important in the stories Jesus told.

Please love and keep each other,
as The Father said to do,
for I cannot count the blessings or love He has for you.

So, have a Merry Christmas and wipe away that tear.
Remember, I'm spending Christmas,
with Jesus Christ this year.

In Memory of Robbie Wallace
We Love You Robbie,
Mom, Debbie, Pat & Keith.

AME Zion Churches Donate To Domestic Violence Center

Victims of domestic violence or sexual assault are often forced by circumstances to leave their homes. Davie County does not have a shelter; however, Rowan, Davidson, Forsyth and Iredell counties allow Davie victims to use their facilities.

Many victims must leave their residences quickly and are unable to carry any belongings with them. The women of the Winston-Salem District Missionary Department of the AME Zion Churches are aware of this, and put together toiletry kits for those who find themselves in need of emergency shelter. The toiletry kits were presented to Martha McQueen and Tracy Donathan by Davie Domestic Violence Services and Rape Crisis Center volunteer Ethel Wilson.

No Breakfast At Center This Month

There will not be a breakfast in December at Center United Methodist Church. The breakfasts, held the second Saturday of each month, should resume again in January.

Live Nativity At Hillsdale This Saturday And Sunday

There will be a live nativity from 6-9 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 14 and 15 at Hillsdale Baptist Church at 4815 U.S. 158, west of N.C. 801.

Everyone is welcome to drive through and view the nativity and hear the choir sing Christmas selections. Hot chocolate and coffee will be served, along with hotdogs and desserts.

Pretty As A Postcard

The snow fell like puffs of cotton, cushioning the landscape from noise and pollution, clinging to trees and roads and fields.

The ice and rain came more forcefully, but as it froze onto the shrubs and decorations and fences, it painted a glistening picture.

Sure, such a severe winter storm is no fun. But as Enterprise Record photographer Robin Fergusson found out, it can make for some beautiful scenes. Coupled with many Christmas decorations in the yards of Davie residents, and the sight truly was fit for a postcard.

Be Careful When Choosing A Child's Toy

Christmas is coming, and children are becoming excited in anticipation of the new toys that may be under their tree on Christmas morning.

Donna Hicks, RN, child health care consultant for Davie County Licensed Childcare Centers and Homes, said it's important to think before buying a child a toy.

"This time of year and all year round, we, as parents and child care providers, need to think about child safe toys," Hicks said. "We want children to enjoy their toys as well as learn from them, but we don't want accidents to happen because of unsafe toys.

Hicks offers the following tips for purchasing the safest toys for your child.

• Buy age appropriate toys. Read the label to see what ages are recommended and what age is safe for that particular toy.

• Never buy infants and toddlers toys with tiny pieces or parts.

• Keep in mind, that even though your child seems to be advanced for his or her age, your child still needs to play with toys for their recommended age group.

• Supervise your children while they are playing.

• If you have older children, make sure that your infants and toddlers don t play with the older children's toys - there could be choking and safety hazards for the younger children.

• Be aware of how loud or noisy a toy is - a child could develop hearing problems or deafness from loud toys.

• Be aware of balloons - inflated or deflated balloons are a safety hazard at any age; balloons are especially a choking hazard.

• If you get toys that have been used, or are hand-me-downs, check the toy to be sure it is safe for your child. The toy should not be broken and it should be functioning just as it was when new.

• Buy toys that can stimulate the growth and development of your child.

-Barry Bass, Davie County Health Director, reminds parents and childcare providers, Christmas is an exciting time for children, especially when they receive new toys.

"Our children, through play, develop physical, mental, social and creative skills that will help them throughout their lives," Bass said. "By following the guidelines Donna provided for safe toys, we can give our children a safe and happy Christmas, and safety throughout the New Year."

Hicks suggests for inquiries pertaining to toy safety, or for a list of recalled toys, call the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission at 1-800-638-2772.

Santa will start his round of visits at the Jericho-Hardison Ruritan building this year.

Santa will be at the Jericho-Hardison Ruritan building on Saturday, Dec. 14 from 10 a.m.-noon. He'll hear the wishes of area children, be available for pictures and hand out candy. Ruritans will provide other refreshments.

Dr. Regina Graham and Carol Livengood are sworn in as Davie County Board of Education members by Clerk of Court, Ken Boger. Dorothy Graham (mother of Dr. Graham) and Craig Livengood (husband of Carol Livengood) accompany the two during their oaths.

School Briefs

Board Members Sworn In

Regina Graham and Carol Livengood were sworn in last week as first-time members of the Davie County Board of Education. Each term is for six years.

Next Meeting Is Jan. 6

The next scheduled meeting is Jan. 6 at 7 p.m. at Central Davie Education Center.

First A+ Pins Given

The first A+ pins were handed out to Davie Schools staff and board members who had received regional or state recognitions. The first pin was given to board member Marlene Shamel in honor of being named to the All State Board.

Regina London received the next pin in recognition of being named the 2002 Davie County Schools Outstanding Secondary Mathematics Teacher. Mary Lynn Bullins, Davie County Schools Teacher of the Year received the third pin. She teaches a combination first/second grade class at Cornatzer Elementary School.

The last of the pins to be handed out was given to Odell Rhynehardt, who placed first in the 2002-2003 Davie Schools Bus Roadeo. He was the first of 17 drivers to drive the course.

ESL Program Growing

The number of students participating in the English As A Second Language program is growing; 213 students are enrolled in the program this year, up from 173 last year. More than 400 students in Davie County list the primary language in their home as one of 18 languages, none of them English.

Bond Campaign Begins To Pick Up Speed

In a presentation by Dr. Jerry Hauser, the board learned about the communications plan for getting voter support for the school bond. The communications committee is working on fundraising for advertising since no public funds can be used. Three person teams will make presentation at upcoming community meetings, beginning with the Davie High School PTA meeting on Dec. 9. Voters will make the final bond decision on March 11.

Character Recognition Schedule

Recognition of good character development remains a priority. The character recognition program schedule has been set. Eight to 12 students from each school will be recognized at the monthly board meetings through April. Cooleemee, Cornatzer and Mocksville elementaries will be recognized on Jan. 6; Pinebrook, Shady Grove and William R Davie on Feb. 3; North and South Middle schools on March 3; and Davie High on April 7.

Knights of Columbus Donate To Schools

The local chapter of the Knights of Columbus donated some proceeds from their fall fundraiser to the schools' PTAs. A total of $907.40 was donated and split between the schools.

Students Help Design New Logo

Davie County Schools is getting a new logo based on a design submitted by a student. The high school student is being notified this week and will be honored at the January board meeting.

Policy Book Under Review And Revision

In a project scheduled to take several months, the school policy book is undergoing review and revisions. The board was presented with the first two revised chapters to review with a vote anticipated next month. With one exception, all the changes to these chapters are basic wording changes and do not change the intent of the policies, said superintendent, W.G. Potts.

The only significant change regards outside groups distributing information for students to take home. Under the proposed change, only the YMCA, Mocksville/Davie Parks and Recreation and "other non-profit agencies that offer tutoring/mentoring services, character development, or afterschool care" would be eligible with approval from the public information officer and the community schools director.

Work Session Counts For Training Credit

Board members approved submitting their Nov. 8 work session to the N.C. School Board Association for training credit. Board members are required to have a minimum of 12 hours of training annually.

Composition Of Board Policy Updated

The board approved updating policy 105, the composition of the. The policy lists the current members of the board and must be updated every time a new board member takes a seat.

Budget Amendments Approved

The following budget amendments were approved: an increase of $25,016 in additional substitute teacher funds, ABC transfers and transfers between line items; a $19,000 decrease from textbooks to classroom materials and supplies; and an increase of $9,241 in insurance proceeds from electrical damage at South Davie Middle School.

Davie High Window Bid Rejected

Van Johnson, assistant superintendent, asked the board to reject all bids for the high school window replacement project. When one of the bidders brought in a window for inspection, it didn't meet the specifications; but everyone involved liked the window better, Johnson said. The board approved rejecting the bids to allow the project to be rebid with the new window.

Cornatzer Elementary teacher Mary Lynn Bullins, Davie County's teacher of the year, receives the school system's "A+" pin from Jeff Albarty.

Superintendent W.G. Potts recognized All State Board of Education member Marlene Shamel.

School bus driver Odell Rhynehardt receives an "A+" pin from associate superintendent, Van Johnson.

Davie Schools' outstanding secondary mathematics teacher, Regina London, left, receives the A+ pin from Patsy Crenshaw.

Lawsuit Against DHS Principal, Superintendent, School Board Settled

An insurance company is paying $110,000 to a former student at Davie High School who was expelled after admitting to selling a small amount of marijuana.

Joshua James McGarity and his mother, Elaine T. Greene, had filed a lawsuit in 1999 claiming that principal (Dr.) Linda Bost had violated his Constitutional rights.

The agreement was reached between McGarity and Greene and the insurance company, Northland Insurance Co. of Minnesota.

Superintendent of schools, W.G. Potts, said no school employees, including the school attorney, were involved in the negotiations. The settlement was not an admission of wrongdoing; the insurance company thought it would cost less to settle than to go to court.

The settlement came two days prior to the scheduled start of the trial last week.

The lawsuit had named Bost, then superintendent Bill Steed, and members of the board of education, Marlene B. Shamel, Mark S. Jones, David Owens, Luther B. Potts, Janie Garnett and Jerry Swicegood.

The suit said that McGarity, a freshman on March 9, 1998, had sold small amounts of marijuana to two students, one of which was resold to another student.

Bost became aware of the transactions and called those involved to the office, including McGarity.

She demanded he confess, according to the lawsuit. "Frightened by Bost's threats, Joshua revealed that he had sold a small amount of marijuana."

Parents were called and McGarity's stepfather was there, and told principals that he was not the legal guardian and that his mother should be present. "She (Bost) continued to threaten, lecture and interrogate the students," the suit said.

It claimed she scolded McGarity for selling a small amount of marijuana for $10.

Four students were suspended for 10 days, another for five days. The stepfather said that then assistant

Yard Waste Disposal Fee Is Waived

Davie County commissioners on Monday decided to waive the fee charged for yard waste at the county landfill.

There will be no fee through this year.

County Manager Terry Bralley said he looked into roadside pickup of storm brush, but that isn't feasible. Residents will be responsible for carrying the brush to the landfill. Residents should have their driver's licenses to prove they live in Davie County, and the fee is only waived for yard waste such as small limbs and other brush.

Bermuda Run Lights The Way This Holiday

BERMUDA RUN - Residents here are setting new standards for helping a local charity.

And they're going to make for quite a light show on Christmas Eve.

For the second year, residents are taking part in the Light a Luminary project for the Ronald McDonald House in Winston-Salem.

Last year, the town had 2,700 luminary bags lit and collected $2,485 for the house.

Donations To United Way Decline

Donations are down.

All across the country, donations to local United Way programs are down, and Davie County is no exception.

With the campaign winding down, Davie County United Way is making a last-minute plea to local residents.

"Donations to charities tend to decrease when times are uncertain, but the actual needs in the community tend to increase," said Anna Eichhorn, executive director. "We need to pull together as a community to ensure all needs are met."

Davie United Way agencies serve one in three county residents.

For the last few years, Lexington Home Brands has been the largest contributor to Davie's campaign.

> "Donations to charities tend to decrease when times are uncertain, but the actual needs in the community tend to increase."
> Davie United Way Executive Director, Anna Eichhorn

With it's closing this year, not only are those donations down, but the needs are greater because people are without jobs.

"They may need to turn to us for the same assistance they once helped provide," Eichhorn said.

All decisions on where money is spent is made by a local board of directors.

"There is real strength in this type of system since what direction one community wants to pursue may not work for another," she said. "The Davie County United Way truly belongs to every citizens of this community. If we succeed, it is a community success. If we fall short, every individual who lives here will feel the effects in some way."

The local United Way consists of two part-time employees and a 28-member volunteer board, made up of a diverse group of residents from across the county. The office is in the Brock Building.

The mission is "to unite the voluntary strength of our community to care for one another."

"Since this United Way is almost completely run by volunteers in all areas of its operation, we recently adopted this new mission statement to reflect the importance of volunteers helping to care for each other," Eichhorn said.

A significant change is on community building and impact, focusing on: children and youth; health and healing; crisis intervention to self sufficiency.

"By focusing on the most critical needs in the community and areas that typically need the most attention, we hope to make greater

First In Flight: Wright Bros. flew 99 years ago

It has been 99 years since the Wright brothers conquered the sky.

They climbed the top of a sand dune at Kitty Hawk, pointed a strange contraption into the wind and took off.

They flew 120 feet, staying aloft a mere 12 seconds.

Mankind was flying. Not far. Not fast. Not very high. But flying is flying.

The great dream of the ages had finally been achieved — even if for only a moment.

Other dreamers have expanded on those 12 seconds and 120 feet.

Lots of airplanes now are longer than that first flight over the Outer Banks sand.

The distance marks fell one by one. Across the country. Across the Atlantic. Around the world. Pilots have all had a thirst for setting new records. Going a little farther. A little higher. A little faster than anyone has ever gone before.

I still like my feet on firm ground. Airplanes have never had much fascination for me. Tractors get me more excited.

I fly less than once a year. I was about 30 before boarding my first big commercial jet for a trip to Washington, D.C.

I whispered prayers and winced and gripped the seat handles.

Outwardly, at least, I now try to be a little more casual about it. It's not the flying part that bothers me. It's the taking off and landing. Of course, bouncing around in the air unnerves me, too. Come to think of it, even the free in-flight snacks make me jumpy.

If I were at Kitty Hawk on Dec. 13, 1903, we'd still be walking.

A year of celebration has started to commemorate that flight. President George W. Bush has declared it a special day. Lots of people will be making the trip to Kitty Hawk.

Those brothers from Dayton, Ohio, Orville and Wilbur, came to the Outer Banks because of its winds, privacy and open spaces.

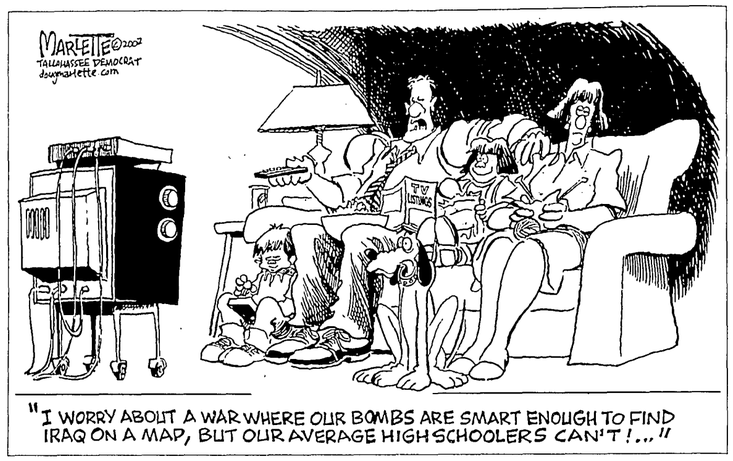

The soft landing that the sand provided had to be a consideration.

They ushered in their own revolution of our travel. You can board a plane in Greensboro and be in New York City now in about 90 minutes. You can fly to exotic places now that were once only a dreamland described in books.

The Wright brothers began a craze for travel. A hundred years ago, few ventured far from home. With the great wars of the 20th century and the advent of air travel, people of average means can now hop continents as if they were Magellan or Christopher Columbus. We can go to the remote corners of the world.

The flights are affordable and safe. Even for those of us gripping the seat handles.

A Great Start To The Christmas Season

To the editor:

What a great Christmas season this obviously is going to be.

First came the beautiful Christmas lights on many houses along the route we traveled - U.S. 158 from Bermuda Run to Mocksville on Tuesday night, Dec. 10.

Then we saw the beautifully lighted trees on the square in downtown Mocksville with so many buildings' skylines so handsomely illuminated. A truly wonderful sight.

Next came the thrilling Christmas benefit concert by a group- of near-magical choristers - the Clif Notes, led by Clif Arnold, with delightful piano accompaniment by Carole J. McGee at the Brock Performing Arts Center. The concert resulted in two pickup truck loads of food for A Storehouse for Jesus as well as monetary support for the Davie County Schools Choral programs.

Thanks to all the residents who decorated their homes and decks lovingly, to all the members of the Clif Notes for their truly beautiful performance, to the contributors who gave food and money for the Storehouse and the school's choral programs, and to the artistry of Robin Fergusson and the Enterprise Record for publishing those beautiful pictures of what was truly a winter wonderland, although our part of the Triad could have done with less snow and ice - and more electricity - in a number of areas.

Thank you, thank you, thank you.

Chester B. Bahn, Bermuda Village

Good-Bye, Ruby Tuesday

It's Never Easy Losing A Best Friend

A well known quote says that man's best friend is his dog.

I agree.

And nothing is harder than losing a best friend.

Last week I had to say good-bye to mine.

She was my loyal companion for almost nine years.

Jackie Seabolt

A Saint Bernard I called Tuesday, a name picked conveniently enough for the day she was born.

She grew from a tiny little puppy I could hold in my two hands to one that needed the entire back of my Jeep Cherokee to ride comfortably.

She saw me through losses and heartbreaks. Always there to plop her giant paw on my knee or just give a friendly tail wag.

She was a faithful pet always ready to go for a walk - until she was diagnosed with bone cancer in August of this year.

I watched helplessly as the disease invaded her front leg and became worse. Her ability to walk comfortably gradually decreased.

Yet, she remained stoic the entire time. Never once did she whimper or show the pain she must have felt as the cancer destroyed her bone.

She fought the disease long and hard but lost her battle last Monday evening.

As my husband and I made our way from the veterinarian's office we drove in silence. Even though we both knew the eventual outcome of the situation, neither of us knew quite what to say about Tuesday's death.

My husband broke the silence to share something he remembered. Months earlier he had taken Tuesday out for an afternoon walk. Being a bona fide workaholic and always in a hurry, he was rushing to get her back into the yard. As he led her to the fence she abruptly stopped, sat, and refused to budge. Then she flopped down in the grass and refused to get up. After trying for several minutes to coax her back into the yard my husband gave up and flopped down beside her. He realized he could learn a thing or two from her. Slow down a minute and take it easy - even if is just for one brief afternoon.

This is only one of the many lessons we'll come to realize our gentle giant taught us.

Our lives go on, but coming home is different now.

A large red doghouse stands empty and there's one less dish to fill at feeding time.

Losing a best friend is never easy.

Good-bye, Ruby Tuesday, you'll be missed.

principal, Danny Cartner, assured him that was the only disciplinary action that would be taken.

The students were handcuffed and taken to the Davie County Sheriff's Department to be charged criminally.

After the suspension, all students were allowed to return to school except McGarity. The following day, Bost told Greene (the boy's mother), she had decided to expel him for the rest of the school year. Greene expressed concerns, and Bost told her the decision was final.

"Mrs. Greene then inquired about speaking with Dr. Steed about some way to keep Joshua in school," the lawsuit said. "Bost informed Mrs. Greene that Davie High School was her school and that Dr. Steed backs her up in her decisions."

Home schooling was not an option, and summer school wasn't available.

In juvenile court, McGarity was sentenced to a year of supervised probation, 250 hours of community service, a 6:30 curfew, 12 weeks of family counseling, drug assessment and counseling, was required to be in school and was forbidden from associating with any of the defendants.

McGarity was not allowed to return to Davie High School the following year.

The lawsuit claims that other students were caught with marijuana, including three over age 16 who were selling to other students. "None of these students have been dealt with so harshly or unreasonably. Many have been allowed not only to return to school, but also to their athletic activities with the school."

The suit cited a code of ethics by the N.C. Board of Education that, in part, says educations will treat students and their parents fairly and with dignity.

It said that North Carolina law allows a principal, with the approval of the superintendent, to suspend a student for more than 10 days, but not exceeding the time remaining in the school year.

Bost didn't get approval before the suspension for the remainder of the school year, and the board of education didn't decide on the suspension, or look for an alternative program for the following year, it said.

It claimed the decision was based on "prior bias" and that other decisions in similar circumstances regarding other students, primarily student athletes, were not consistent.

It asked for in excess of $10,000 for damages.

Construction To Start Next Year On Garden Villas

Construction on a new community in Mocksville will begin early next year.

In response to the new town ordinance and desire for infill projects, BRC Development recently purchased and had approved through Mocksville Town Board a site plan and community concept for property on Milling Road.

BRC Development plans construction of Milling Way Garden Villas Community after the first of the year.

Conway Shough, partner with BRC stated, "We are very excited about being a part of the Mocksville community. We have made every attempt to make this a community project. We have used John Fuller for the architecture, John Grey for the engineering and Swicegood Wall & McDaniel Realtors for the marketing."

Roger Maxey, president with BRC said, "We are planning a community using the new zoning ordinance in Mocksville that effectively uses the infill areas of our town. Our housing concept is geared toward downsizers, retired as well as first time homebuyers and professionals.

"Milling Way is in walking distance of the YMCA, The Brock Performing Arts Center, Rich Park and downtown Mocksville."

Each unit features 1,300 square feet with nine-foot ceilings, a sunroom and several finish options for the buyer.

Ben Owens, Davie resident and partner with BRC, will oversee construction.

The community will consist of 64 units, sidewalks with streetlights and a swimming pool and spa area.

"Our firm is excited about this new community," said Kyle Swicegood, CCIM with Swicegood Wall & McDaniel Realtors. "BRC's concept with sidewalks and lighted streets using the flavor of our downtown area will create a wonderful living environment for residents."

Milling Way Garden Villas will be priced in the low $100s.

Twenty-seven neighborhood captains went to work this year, and brought in orders for 748 luminary kits. That means on Christmas Eve, Bermuda Run will be lit up with nearly 4,512 luminaries ... almost a hundred percent participation.

Ronald McDonald House expects that 15,000 luminaries will be lit regionally, meaning that a third of the lights will be in Bermuda Run.

There is also $4,020 going to the house.

Nancy Marshall got the project started last year, and organized it again this year, recruiting the neighborhood captains.

United Way Donations Down

impact in Davie County," she said. "We will also be starting a community needs assessment in the next year to identify where there may be gaps or overlaps in services."

To do that, volunteers are needed.

"We want this to be a community effort so we can get to the business of building up our community.

"We are in a whole new era of change. We are redefining Davie County United Way and what we want to accomplish. This is a totally open process and we are looking for community input and involvement."

Without the money to fund agencies, those goals will be difficult to obtain.

"If you have never given to the Davie county United Way, please consider trusting in our mission and help us to impact your lives and the lives of those around you," Eichhorn said. "We are here to serve each and every one of you regardless of what part of the county you live, your economic status, ethnic background, or any other factor that makes us unique and defines who we are.

"This is a wonderful community and we are excited to be a part of it. Our only hope is to help improve and increase services to those who most need them."

For more information, call 751-0313 or drop by the office in the Brock Building.

Pregnancy May Have Impaired Judgment

The case against a Davie woman for obstruction of justice was dismissed in Davie District Court last week, after a judge said her judgment may have been impaired due to pregnancy.

Marivel Inez Enriquez, 21, of 203 Northridge Court, lied to a Davie magistrate in June, when she said her husband, Ronald Jason Sherrill, had threatened her. On Oct. 31, in District Court, Enriquez told Judge James Honeycutt she had lied.

Her attorney, Rob Raisbeck, told Judge April C. Wood last week that Enriquez lied because her husband wasn't doing what he was supposed to do - working and helping take care of their children, one of whom is 2 weeks old.

Raisbeck said Enriquez thought if she made up a story, it might get his attention, but he ended up being charged with communicating threats. The case against him was dismissed Oct. 31 because Enriquez admitted to the lie.

At the time she had the warrant taken out on her husband, she was about three months pregnant.

She pleaded guilty to common law obstruction of justice last week, holding her infant in her arms.

Wood told Enriquez, "I'm going to give you a chance, because I think because you were pregnant, maybe your judgment was impaired." Wood granted a prayer for judgment continued on payment of court cost and her court-appointed attorney's fee of $65.

Reynolds Gives $15,000 For The 'Save The Bullhole' Effort

The Z. Smith Reynolds Foundation of Winston-Salem has awarded the Cooleemee Historical Association $15,000 to continue its community-based effort to "Save The Bullhole."

The decision was made at a Nov. 15 meeting of the foundation's trustees.

"We are happy to have a part in your organization and this important project" said Thomas W. Ross, executive director of Z. Smith Reynolds.

For the last five years, the award-winning history group has been engaged in work to preserve a scenic section of the South Yadkin River which runs through this former cotton mill town. Z. Smith Reynolds Foundation is focused on supporting community building and environmental efforts, as well as civic engagement, pre-collegiate education; and social justice and equity.

"This will be a month to remember," said Lynn Rumley, executive director of Cooleemee's Textile Heritage Center. "We are very appreciative of this support. Now that our right to petition has been sustained and the lawsuit against us has been thrown out, we will renew our efforts to make sure that this section of the little Yadkin River will not be de-watered by South Yadkin Power.

"This effort has shown that unless local citizens are vigilant in guarding its natural treasures, a faceless government agency in Washington can make decisions which may affect several generations."

The association's grant proposal highlighted the community's involvement in efforts to reverse the removal of 97 percent of the water in the river's main channel until 2035. The drive has secured support from community elders, who remember the river as a community gathering spot - to active support from the town's elementary school children who hope to enjoy it in the future.

The historical preservation group has been instrumental in a successful effort to build an 80 acre nature park on both the Rowan and Davie County banks of "The Bullhole." More than 70 acres has been purchased, development will begin early next year and RiverPark at Cooleemee Falls - "The Bull-hole" will open by July, 2003.

The Z. Smith Reynolds Foundation was established in 1936 as a memorial to the youngest son of the founder of R.J. Reynolds Tobacco. In its history, the foundation has made grants totaling more than $336 million to recipients in all of North Carolina's 100 counties.

Armed Robbers Hit Farmington Store

Davie County Sheriff's Department is asking for help in locating armed robbers that held up a convenience store in Davie County last Saturday.

According to Sheriff's Department Detective J.D. Hartman, three men entered Furches Shopping Mart on N.C. 801 North, Mocksville on Dec. 7 and pretended to shop. They brought items to the store checkout counter and handed the clerk a $5 bill. As the clerk opened the cash register to give change one of the men pulled out a revolver and demanded the money from the register.

As the men ran out of the store $30 dollars of the stolen money was dropped and a witness outside the store returned it.

The men were described as Hispanics and were reportedly driving a small blue-grey four door car, possibly a Toyota.

The men were last seen leaving the convenience store parking lot traveling Farmington Road towards I-40. Hartman urges anyone with information to call the Davie Sheriff's Department at 751-5547.

Local Youth Shine At Yadkin/Davie Lamb & Goat Show

The Annual Yadkin-Davie Lamb & Goat Show provides an avenue for local youth to showcase their animals as well as the knowledge they gained through this project.

Several local youth exhibited winning entries and project record books.

Forty area youth exhibited at the East Bend Recreation Park more than 85 entries they have been caring for, for the past several months.

"This project teaches the kids lessons in responsibility, sportsmanship, care of animals and budgeting," said Phil Rucker, Cooperative Extension agent.

Show judge Ron Hughes, Extension agent in Johnston County, had the task of sorting through the classes and placing the entries. Ray Randlemen was announcer and master of ceremonies.

The show began with Senior Showmanship, which was competitive from top to bottom, Rucker said. "These young men and women put a lot of energy and effort into displaying their entries. Judge Hughes praised all the competitors for a job well done and made his selections."

Davie County made a strong showing with Heather Hoover taking first, Zack Yokley third and Wade Gough, Hope Ledford and Holly Ledford rounding out the top six. Hope Ledford was also named the Champion Senior Showman for the Meat Goat Show.

The Junior Showmanship division did not allow the judge time to relax. This group of hustling youth made sure the judge earned his money. Davie 4-Her Heath Hoover was fifth in a large and competitive division.

The Cloverbuds (5 to 8 years old) were next. These kids are not in direct competition but get time to show their lambs as well as some one-on-one attention and advice from the judge. These Davie youth displayed their goats: Kelsey Tifft and Kendal Tifft while Daniel Gonzalez and Johnathan Garcia exhibited lambs and goats.

Participants also prepared a project record book where they kept track of the animal's growth, project expenses as well as write some of the things they learned throughout the project.

Winners in the project record competition were announced and presented awards for their accomplishments. Heath Hoover made a strong showing in the 9-10 year old category. Zach Yokely took second 13-15 age bracket with Wade Gough placing third, Heather Hoover earning fourth and Hope Ledford placing fifth.

In the individual conformation classes, Hughes made reference to the high quality of entries throughout the show. His job is to rank the entries according to conformation, quantity and quality of meat the animals will produce. In the Meat Goat Show, Hope Ledford exhibited Reserve Grand Champion Meat goat with her winning entry from class one.

If the first lamb class Michael Hoover made a strong fourth place showing. Class two saw Heather Hoover lead her lamb to first while Hope Ledford was a close second. Holly Ledford, Michael Hoover and Wade Gough rounded out the top five.

In class three Heather Hoover come away with first and Zack Yokley and Wade Gough made a strong showing.

Class four belonged to Zack Yokley as his lamb was selected first. Holly and Hope Ledford led their lambs to top five finishes.

"All Davie exhibitors worked hard, placed well and gave the competition a run for their money," Rucker said. "When the smoked cleared, it was an all Davie finish. Heather Hoover led her class winner, from the third class, to Grand Champion honors and Zack Yokley's winner, from class four, was selected Reserve Grand Champion.

In the pair of lambs competition, Hughes made his selections based on conformation and uniformity of the two lambs entered by the participant. Once again, the Davie participants did not back down and placed at the top of the classes.

"This year's show was a successful educational event. Mother Nature cooperated with nice weather," Rucker said. "We had many new participants and many new people in the crowd, watching these young people present their animal projects. These youth have worked hard and deserve much credit for their accomplishments."

For U Carmen Propst: HAPPY BIRTHDAY!!!

My sweet, my heart is so full it aches
I feel your touch, your hands brushing my skin
Your lips I taste, longing to taste them again
Smelling U like scents of a rainbow Visions of U being meshed with mine
Senses become inflamed
Creating aroma of exotic fruit, not knowing the reality of which flavor
I am paralyzed with thoughts of you
It's the jazz and the blues of my heart's confusion
My heart, my soul both capable of emulating sounds of music
The beat, rhythm, funk, groove
Complete yet missing the melody
Where is the tune? Is it U?
Am I crazy, have I lost my mind, my thought s are consumed with you
Yet I am torn
The unfamiliar of how it will be Uncertainty, do you know me, do I know you?
Or have I been here before
The image of you embedded in my heart
Always there just waiting, longing to be released
Joining my soul
I am paralyzed with the thoughts of you
It's the jazz and blues of my confusion
My heart, my soul emulating sounds of music
the beat, rhythm, funk, the groove
Complete yet missing the melody
Where is the tune, is it you?

LOVE YOU, PHATTJOE

Law Banks In A 3 to Beat Statesville As Davie Preserves Perfect Record

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

The Davie varsity boys basketball team's magic-carpet ride through the nonconference schedule continued last week.

Most everything seems to have gone the War Eagles' way. From 11 consecutive makes at the free-throw line to hold off visiting Mooresville 67-64 on Dec. 10 to Patrick Law's miracle 3-point bank at the buzzer to beat host Statesville 59-58 Friday, they've become drama majors and staged a joyously inexplicable 5-0 record.

"I wish we could blow teams out like we did last year, but it's more exciting," Law said. "We like to keep it close. I don't know what it is."

The War Eagles have created a sensation with their one-heartbeat style. They've been a winning program since 1998-99, but this team is strikingly different. While Duane Phillips and Sean Stevens were phenomenons that lit up scoreboards and delivered six of the school's 13 40-point nights, Micah Garner, Luke Phelps, Law, Cliff Burns and Nick Nelson entered the season with little fanfare.

If they were the kind of players who cared about only themselves, Davie would probably struggle to stay around .500.

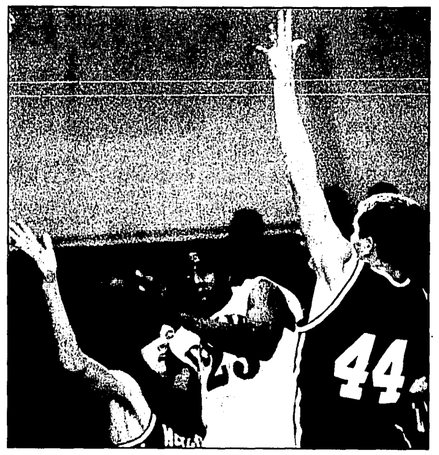

"We might not have the talent they had last year, but we definitely have the heart," Nelson said. "There's no 'I' in team. Davie has revolved around one person, but this is a building year and we really need to put everyone - the bench and people on the floor - together to win."

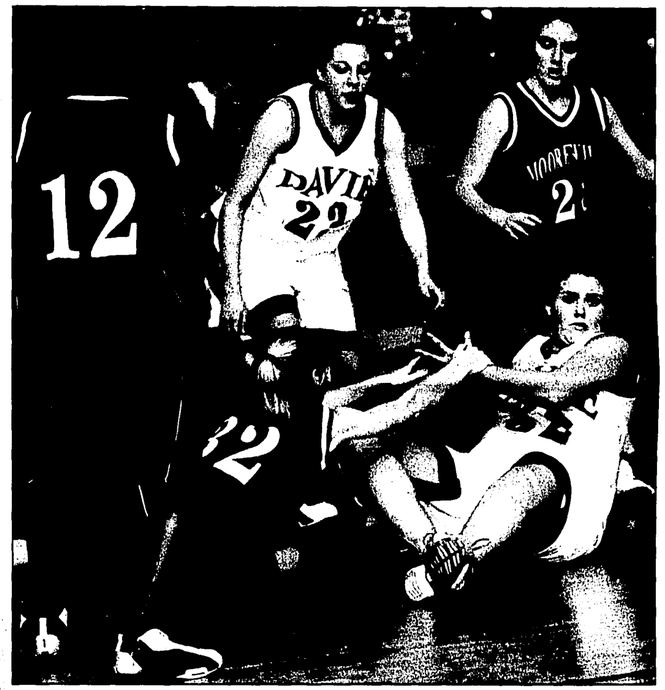

"As young and inexperienced as they are on the varsity level, they need wins and confidence, and we've managed to do it five different ways," Davie's first-year coach, Mike Absher, said.

And to think they swept a Statesville team that only trailed Oak Hill Academy, the nation's No. 1-ranked high school team, 28-20 at the end of the first quarter last week. Oak Hill then faced LeBron James and Akron's St. Vincent-St. Mary before a national TV audience on ESPN2.

Incredibly, the War Eagles are unbeaten despite outscoring the competition by a combined 20 points (308 to

On The Rise

Wrestling Team Captures 20-Plus Teams At Mustang Stampede

Davie coach Buddy Lowery predicted at the start of the season it could be late January before his young wrestling team hits its stride. Anybody for mid-December?

There's no denying it. The War Eagles are, once again, among the state's heavyweights. Just look at what they did at Parkland High Saturday in the annual Mustang Stampede tournament. They won it with 187 points, beating Riverside, which is ranked No. 2 in the 4-A poll by N.C. Mat, by six points.

The rest of the team scoring: Science Hill (TN) 141, St. Stephens 139, West Stokes 126, Avery County 113, Independence 102, Parkland 83, Fuquay Varina 80, Wake Forest-Rolesville 73, East Mecklenburg 65, Gibbs (TN) 62, Forsyth Country Day 56, Bandys 55, Mount Tabor 49, Southeast Raleigh 19, West Forsyth 16 and North Forsyth 4.

Even though Davie raised eyebrows in a field of 20-plus teams, Lowery stayed humble. One big day doesn't make a season at Davie.

"We wrestled pretty good," he said. "I was pleased. Satisfied? No. We're going to get better. You had 20-some schools there and it's a starting point. But we're trying to be as low-key about it as we can."

Sophomores Millard Smith (152 pounds) and Ted Randolph (HWT) and senior Clint Stanley (189) elicited the most ooohs. They each went 5-0 to claim first place in their weight classes. Sophomore Russell Hilton (103), junior Zac Morton (119) and senior Colt Stanley (171) went 4-1. And sophomore Dustin Johnson (112), senior Andrew Scott (140) and junior Justin Bentley (160) went 3-2.

The War Eagles' giant strides since early November are even more impressive when you consider only three of 14 starters are seniors.

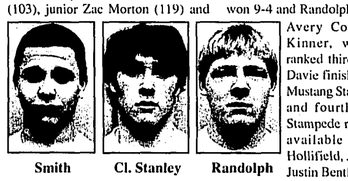

"There's not many people, as far as a dual team, that's going to beat us. There might be three or four," Lowery said. "I didn't know what the score was. If we wrestle as hard as we can, everything else will take care of itself."

"We can get better. Look at (football players) Randolph and Ryan Boehm. They're not in shape yet."

Overall, Smith is 15-0, Clint Stanley is 11-0, Randolph is 6-0, Colt Stanley is 10-1, Johnson and Morton are 13-2, Hilton is 11-2 and Scott is 11-4. Six of them – Hilton, Johnson, Scott, Smith and the Stanleys - have cracked the Super 32 rankings.

"Smith beat some people that were pretty good," Lowery said. "Ted just outhustles people. The best thing is his height. He's got so much dang leverage, and he knows how to use his weight (244)."

Notes: The War Eagles go to East Gaston for a dual tournament on Dec. 20-21, where they won eight of nine matches last year. ... Four War Eagles made the finals, including Hilton. ... Colt Stanley barely missed the finals at 171. "He got caught by a boy from Science Hill," Lowery said. "Is Colt as good as him? I think so." ... In the finals, Smith won 9-3, Clint Stanley won 9-4 and Randolph won 7-5 over Avery County's Ricky Kinner, who came in ranked third in 1A/2A. ... Davie finished third in the Mustang Stampede in 1999 and fourth in 2000. ... Stampede records weren't available for Aaron Hollifield, Jeremiah Raby, Justin Bentley and Boehm.

Statesville Humbles Davie Girls

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

In the first four games, Davie's varsity girls basketball team bludgeoned teams by an average of 60-38. Turnabout wasn't much fun for the War Eagles, who felt the sting themselves Friday at Statesville.

The euphoria of a 4-0 nonconference start disappeared in a listless performance that saw Statesville, which lost at Davie 60-45 in the season opener, turn the tables 60-46.

Three days earlier, Davie routed visiting Mooresville 62-32.

"We came in too relaxed," said Karen Stephens, who pulled no punches after her first loss as Davie's coach. "Coming in 4-0, we hadn't played really strong teams and I think we felt like we were a little better than we actually are at this time. We didn't come ready to play. We thought we were going to come in here and have an easy game. They were not ready in the locker room, in warmups we weren't making layups and we weren't doing things in pregame to get ready mentally. So I knew from the beginning it was going to be a rough night."

Davie Girls Lose A Vital Cog

Walker

A 5-8 guard's diagnosis was an ACL tear, a tear of the medial meniscus and a lateral bone contusion, and her career is most likely over because she could need months to recover after she has surgery on Dec. 26.

Walker has already been through this trauma – she tore the ACL in her right knee in the spring of her eighth-grade year – and now she's probably played her last game for Davie.

"I really can't believe it happened again," Walker said. "It really doesn't seem fair. We had so many high expectations this year, and of course they're still there. It just really bothers me and it's real tough on me mentally thinking about what I might be missing out on this year. I'll just be a leader from the sidelines."

Singleton, Walker and Williams became staples in the Davie arsenal as sophomores in 1999-00. Walker was the No. 2 scorer with an 11.0 average, enjoyed three 20-point outbursts and directed Davie to 14-12.

As a junior, Walker scored 10.8 points as Davie went 17-9 and 8-2 in the Central Piedmont 4-A Conference, winning the regular-season and tournament titles and beating Mount Tabor in the state playoffs to advance to the sectional final. Walker was also named CPC Player of the Year.

This year, under new coach Karen Stephens, Walker was playing more two-guard than point, and the adjustment created a slow start. Although she was averaging just 3.7 points – along with 5.0 assists and 3.3 rebounds - Walker's value can't be measured by numbers.

Please See Walker - Page B6

Worth Noting ...

Erin Whitaker totalled 21 points and 18 rebounds in a pair of losses for Davie's JV girls basketball team.

Alicia Allen of N. Davie's 7th-grade girls had 16 points and 15 rebounds in a 32-22 win over Erwin and 12 points and 12 rebounds in a 34-26 win over N. Rowan.

S. Davie's 7th-grade girls rolled 47-20 as Meisha Fowler foiled Southeast with 19 points. Only one of five opponents has held her to single digits.

Sarah Williams of Davie's varsity girls flirted with a triple-double in a 62-32 romping of Mooresville, compiling 14 points, eight rebounds, eight steals and five assists.

Sophomore center Cliff Burns of Davie's varsity boys had 27 points, 19 rebounds and six blocks in nailbiter wins over Mooresville and Statesville, which fell 59-58 to Davie when Patrick Law banked in a 3-pointer at the buzzer. Micah Garner had 33 points in the wins.

Davie's wrestling team got 5-0 performances from Millard Smith, Clint Stanley and Ted Randolph to win the Parkland Stampede, which featured 20-plus teams.

288). Garner is averaging 14.3 points, Phelps 11.4, Law 9.6, Burns 9.4 and Nelson 8.4. Phelps is pulling down 8.4 rebounds and Burns is averaging 8.8 rebounds and 3.2 blocks.

Law

"Oh, it's crazy," Garner said. "We're not a high-scoring team but we're a high-intensity team, and we find a way to win. We always come through at the end, and that's all that matters."

At Statesville, Davie missed 19 of 26 first-half shots, including all seven 3-point attempts, and still led 24-23.

The turning point was combo guard Garner, who scored six points in 65 seconds to push Davie ahead 36-32 with 3:10 left in the third quarter. He did a shake-and-bake move to free himself for a 15-foot jumper, he dribbled behind his back and pulled up for a 17-footer, and Scotty Robinson tipped in a basket as Davie scored on seven straight possessions for a 40-35 lead.

Garner hit seven of 10 free throws, dished out four assists and scored 13 points. Burns nailed six of nine shots for 12 points, controlled 11 rebounds and rejected three shots. And Nelson had 11 points, five rebounds, four assists and three steals.

"Micah has the ability to take over a game," said Phelps, who added nine points and six boards. "He's got good vision of the court and even if he's not doing it with his shot, he can still see everybody that's open."

Davie had a comfortable 51-42 lead with 3:06 remaining, but the Greyhounds wouldn't go away, using a 10-3 spurt to close to 54-52. Davie had a 56-54 lead and possession with 25 seconds left, but back-to-back turnovers on inbound plays under the Statesville basket gave the Greyhounds a 58-56 lead with 12 seconds left.

But all that did was force the War Eagles to find another way to win, and they did it with a scene straight out of Ripley's Believe It Or Not.

Garner took the inbounds pass and dribbled all the way up the floor. Statesville cut off Garner's penetration and forced him to kick it out on the left wing to Law, who worked his way to the top of the key.

With the clock approaching zero, Law had no choice but to launch an off-balance trey that banked in for a you-gotta-be-kidding game winner.

"I believe hard work and preparation will give you some luck sometimes," Absher said. "These guys have done everything I've asked, and they deserve it. For 30 minutes we played very good on both ends, and they're a very good team. They're better than they were the first time we played them. Their coach said their football people have gotten their basketball legs."

The lucky recipient of the gift goal was scoreless for three quarters and 1-of-9, including 0-of-5 on 3-pointers, from the field before silencing Statesville at the buzzer.

Law said: "Lucky. Lots of luck. It's the first time I've ever been in that environment, and I'm still shaking. I thought Garner was going to go all the way and either make the layup or get fouled. I didn't think he was going to pitch it. I didn't call it but I knew it was going to be a bank. It was not pretty, but it went in. Three points is three points."

Phelps said: "I love Patrick Law. We've been doing that all year. People have been stepping up when we had to, and tonight was Patrick's night. We're not a bunch of individuals. We're a team. We don't care how many points we have, we just want to win."

And Absher said: "I don't know. Maybe the banks stay open longer in Statesville on Friday night."

Davie 67, Mooresville 64

It was a struggle, but Law, Phelps and Garner came through late as Davie escaped earlier in the week.

Law came alive when it mattered, scoring his first points on a tiebreaking 3-pointer with 5:45 left. Phelps scored nine fourth-quarter points after going scoreless for 24 minutes. And Davie made 11 straight free throws in the final 3:47, including 6-of-6 from Garner, who scored 20 and hit four 3-pointers.

"You don't want to have 26 of these games, but they're kind of fun," Absher said. "Phelps is one of those guys that likes it when it's on the line. Being a senior, he wants to carry the team some and obviously he's doing that. (Assistant coach Mike) Dinkins told Law to shoot it if he was open, and that was a big 3 because they were fighting and fighting but couldn't quite get over the hump."

Burns had 15 points, eight rebounds and three blocks. Nelson had nine points, five assists and four steals. And Brian Hunter had six points, six rebounds, three assists and two blocks.

Phelps kept providing lifts, putting Davie up 54-51, 56-51 and 63-58 with 50 seconds left, and Garner became the third different player to post 20 points.

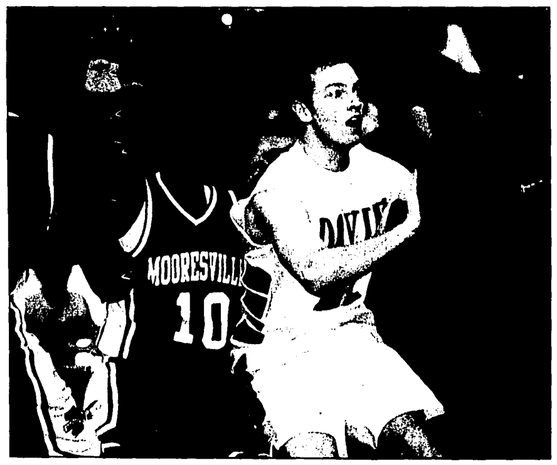

"I didn't really get the opportunity until late in the game, but you've just got to make the most of them once you get them," Phelps said. "As long as we find a way to win, I'll be happy."

"A win's a win," Garner said. "We just came together as a team. We've learned how to play in tight situations, and we just keep pulling out with a win."

South Boys Hold On For First Win

South Davie's seventh-grade boys basketball team shrugged a two-ton monkey off its back last week, beating visiting Southeast 40-37 for its first win in five games.

The Tigers (1-4, 1-2 Mid-South Conference) controlled the game, with exception of the final three minutes when the Patriots pared a 12-point South lead to three. But Coach Tim Devericks was glad to walk away with a win no matter how ugly the closing moments of the fourth quarter may have been.

"It was huge for us," he said. "They've been working hard in practice and I'm glad it paid off for them."

The first half was Southeast 13, Darius Hall 12. The big man staked South to an 18-13 lead by scoring all his points in the opening 12 minutes.

"They were trying to man-to-man press us, and we beat it," he said. "Hall's man would step off, we'd dish off and he'd lay it in. He did real well."

South rode Colby Seaford (10 points) and Eric Lowery (eight) to the big lead. They trapped, forced turnovers and repeatedly broke free for transition layups and high-percentage jumpers in a performance that was a radical departure from the previous four when the Tigers trailed West Rowan 23-7 at halftime and China Grove 9-0 in the first quarter.

"We got off to a good start, that boosted our confidence and we came out after halftime and did the same thing," Devericks said.

After surging to a 40-28 lead with 2:50 left, little went right again for South, which looked every bit like a team that wasn't used to prosperity. The Tigers had chances to avoid the dramatic end, but they missed seven of eight free throws in the fourth.

"It almost fell apart," he said. "We've never been in that situation and we missed foul shots. We only had one turnover (during Southeast's rally) and they were making shots."

The Tigers cracked, missing three consecutive free throws while leading 40-37, but avoided a monumental collapse. Southeast rebounded on South's end with six seconds left, but had to settle for a potential game-tying bomb that didn't come close.

Matt Van Hoy added 6 points for the Tigers, who play at home to North Rowan on Dec. 19.

"We did a lot of penetration, hit the open guy and moved the ball around, which we hadn't done a lot of this year," Devericks said.

South Davie 40, Southeast 37 – Darius Hall 12, Colby Seaford 10, Eric Lowery 8, Matt Van Hoy 6, Austin Wood 3, Sonny Stanley 1.

Fowler Scores 19, South Girls Steamroll

It remains to be seen whether South Davie's seventh-grade girls basketball team has come on enough to play with the Mid-South Conference's elite. The Tigers have shown they can turn lesser opponents into cannon fodder, following up a 31-6 drubbing of China Grove with a 47-20 stomping of visiting Southeast last week.

"We're getting better. We're starting to do things a lot sharper," Coach Todd Bumgarner said. "We've got a long way to go if we're going to compete with the top teams in the conference, but the whole team played well and I'd like to think we're headed in the right direction."

During preseason Bumgarner envisioned a dominating playmaker in point guard Meisha Fowler, and she's been equal to the hype, matching her season high with 19 points against helpless Southeast.

Southeast came out in a man-to-man defense, and Fowler made the strategy backfire as South improved to 3-2 overall and 2-1 in the MSC.

"They were the first team to show us man-to-man," Bumgarner said. "I told the girls eventually somebody would try man-to-man. We spread the floor, Meisha just took it to the bucket and she got layup after layup after layup. And then we'd break backdoor and get another layup."

South led 10-3 after one quarter and 23-5 at halftime.

Fowler was on pace for 25 points but didn't play in the fourth quarter. She's led South's scoring in all five games, producing no fewer than eight and averaging 14.8 of South's 33.6 points.

Eight different Tigers contributed points, including Tyara Wagner, Tekaira Gaither and Justina Scott with six each and Ayanna Leach with five.

"Meisha made one move," Bumgarner said. "I mean she had the whole court to operate 1-on-1, and I like the chances of that. So it was good they played man-to-man against us."

South plays at home to North Rowan on Dec. 19.

South Davie 47, Southeast 20 – Meisha Fowler 19, Tyara Wagner 6, Tekaira Gaither 6, Justina Scott 6, Ayanna Leach 5, Amanda Stewart 2, Stephanie Tetiva 2, Taylor Cave 1.

Carter To Retire At End Of Year

Mike Carter, the head football coach at Davie High from 1981-88, will retire as head football coach and athletic director at Mooresville at the end of the school year.

Carter took over at Mooresville in 1989 and built a dynasty, going 134-40 with a 12-2 record this year, his 30th as a coach. Carter led Salisbury in 1979 and 1980 before coming to Davie.

The War Eagles started poorly, continued to get worse and turned 180 degrees after whipping four nonconference teams by 15 or more points. It took them nine possessions and nearly four minutes to get on the board, they failed to score on 15 of 17 first-quarter possessions, and for the half they shot 5-of-26 and committed 21 turnovers to trail 26-14.

Maready

"It was four bad quarters and you can't do that with the talent we're getting ready to play in the Christmas tournament and conference," Stephens said. "We threw the ball whereever they wanted us to throw it. We dribbled it when we didn't need to be dribbling it. We just did everything that we've worked on not doing. It was almost like we were in a panic. We didn't get patient until the end of the game."

The Greyhounds (4-2) love the 3 and they made 8-of-19 (42 percent) from behind the arc. By contrast, Davie was 0-for-10 from 3-point land until Sarah Williams made a trifecta with 38 seconds remaining.

"We live and die by the 3," Statesville coach Addie Hightower said. "We hit 13 the other night against Oak Hill Academy, but we hit four last night (in a win over Kannapolis)."

Stephens was so disgusted at halftime that she benched three starters and opened the third quarter with senior Heather McDaniel, freshman Carly Booth, sophomore Nicole Maready and juniors Andrea Dwiggins and Alyse Bowden.

"It's a wakeup call but at the same time if those kids are going to step up, they're going to play," she said. "This is not going to be a team built on a fixed starting lineup. If these young kids step up and play, we'll play those young kids. The kids that play the hardest deserve to play whether they're a freshman, senior or whatever."

While bad shooting and bad passing were about the only things Davie did well, Maready tried mightily to put the War Eagles back in the game. Her 15-footer two minutes into the second half pulled them within 29-20, and she finished with 12 points on 6-of-9 shooting.

"Our younger kids gave us a lift and got it within nine," Stephens said. "They played well. Look at Dwiggins, Bowden and Maready – they came in and did the things they're capable of doing defensively. As long as they're playing hard, they're going to get their time. Maready gets after the ball and gets back on defense, the things you've got to do."

The gutter-ball effort coincided with Davie's first game without senior guard Brittany Walker, a third-year starter who tore the ACL in her left knee against Mooresville and is likely done.

Williams posted double-figure scoring for the fifth time at 15 points, but 10 of those came during mop-up time. Allison Schafer and Booth had six each. Booth struggled from the field but made 4-of-4 free throws and grabbed seven rebounds. Dawn Singleton had four points and eight rebounds, and Dwiggins had six rebounds and three assists.

Davie won the battle of the boards for the fourth straight time, but consider this stat: Davie's starters turned the ball over 24 times, while Statesville point guard Kara Fletcher has two turnovers in the past three games.

"Whether we have key injuries or not, some of these kids are going to have to take the load on their shoulders," Stephens said. "This is a good wakeup call before we get into a situation where we have to have wins. It's good for them to realize they are beatable, and that if they don't step up and play this is what it could look like."

Davie 62, Mooresville 32

The War Eagles slogged through the first half, shooting 25 percent, committing 16 turnovers and entering the break with a surprisingly slim 24-19 lead.

"We weren't working together as a team," Williams said. "We weren't looking where we threw passes and weren't moving our feet on defense. It was just lackadaisical."

Stephens attributed the sloppy first half to two factors - the five-day layoff from the ice storm that paralyzed the state and overconfidence (Davie beat Mooresville 60-36 in the previous game).

"Sometimes you view your opponent as an underdog and you're too relaxed," she said. "We have got to be more focussed and play every night as if they're the top opponent."

In the second half, however, the War Eagles could do no wrong. They opened the third with 11 unanswered points and scored 24 of 26 points for a 48-21 lead. The workhorses during the game-breaking flurry in which Davie scored on 14 of 17 possessions were Williams (14 points, eight rebounds, eight steals and five assists) and Singleton (13 points, 6-of-10 shooting).

"We had an extremely hard practice yesterday, and we were sore today," Williams said. "I think everybody had been sitting around the house for awhile and were out of shape. But I hauled limbs so I was in shape."

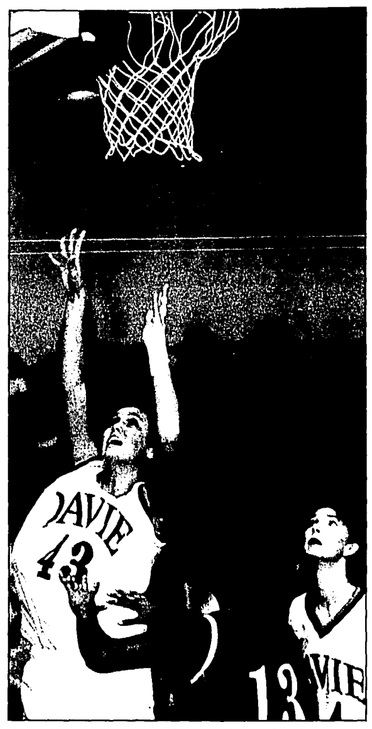

Heather McDaniel converted 4-of-6 shots, scored eight and distributed four assists. Savannah Kowalski shot 3-of-5 for seven points. Schafer had six points and nine rebounds. And Kierston Kahrs had four points, eight rebounds and three blocks.

"Kahrs gave a big effort," Stephens said. "Singleton did a lot better in the third quarter. If her (left) hand heals she'll continue to do better. It's supposed to be just a sprain, but we're still real concerned with it because it could be more than that."

Davie is idle until the Sam Moir Christmas Tournament at Catawba College in Salisbury on Dec. 27, 28, 30.

Davie 62, Mooresville 32 – Sarah Williams 14, Dawn Singleton 13, Heather McDaniel 8, Savannah Kowalski 7, Allison Schafer 6, Alyson Walker 4, Kierston Kahrs 4, Carly Booth 2, Nicole Maready 2, Brittany Walker 2.

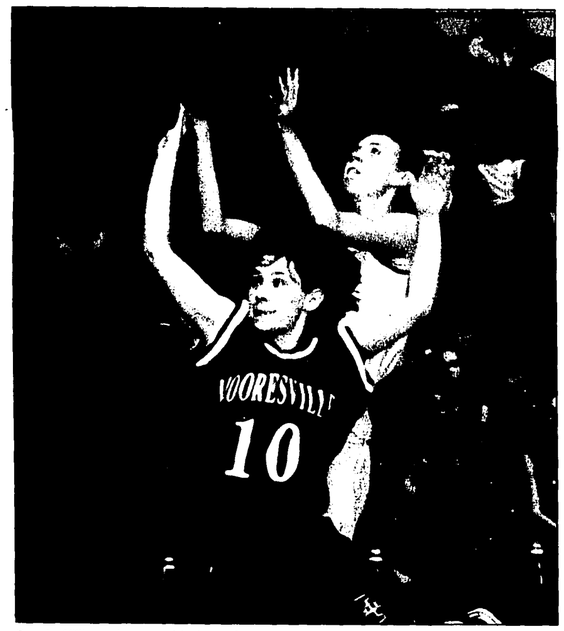

Statesville 60, Davie 46 – Sarah Williams 15, Nicole Maready 12, Allison Schafer 6, Carly Booth 6, Dawn Singleton 4, Heather McDaniel 2, Alyse Bowden 1.

Dawn Singleton goes up for two of her 13 points.

Sarah Williams has provided consistency, scoring between 11 and 15 in each game.

Walker Injures Knee, Likely Ending Career Of '02 Player Of Year

"You're losing somebody that's been a varsity player for that long, and her experience and leadership adds something on the floor that we'll going to miss," Stephens said. "Mentally and emotionally she's going to be hurting because she's been through this once. This is her senior year, this is a special year, and then she's having to deal with this injury."

If anyone can defy the odds and find a way to return before season's end, it's Walker, who's as vigorous and determined as they come.

"Mom (Tammy Walker) talked to the nurse (on Dec. 12) because the doctor was in surgery all day, and there were a bunch of different things that could happen," Walker said. "If it's minor arthroscopic, it could be 3-4 weeks and I could be back. But it all depends on when he gets in there (on Dec. 26)."

As much as Davie will miss Walker's savvy, hunger and fire, the show must go on. The War Eagles need Williams and Singleton to dominate, they need junior Allison Schafer to recapture the 14-point touch she displayed in the first three games, and now they need senior point guard Heather McDaniel to become a threat as a passer and shooter.

"It's going to be tough, but at the same time I hope the other kids will step up and play the way they're capable of playing," Stephens said. "Even though it's a big loss, I don't want it to be such a big loss that they don't think they can continue to be successful - even though it would be a lot easier if Walker was with us."

JV Boys Searching For Answers

Roger Bumgarner has been coaching basketball for eight years, but this has been maybe his most frustrating as Davie's JV boys plummeted to 0-5 with a 37-33 loss to visiting Mooresville and a 41-33 loss at Statesville.

The War Eagles maintained a lead for most of three quarters in the first nonconference game of last week – and opened an eight-point advantage in the third – but watched Mooresville dominate the decisive fourth 22-11.

Davie's demise started when rebounding machine Raeshon McNeil went out with a back injury that has carried over from football season. The freshman yanked down nine boards before sitting out the fourth.

"If he would have stayed in the game ..." Bumgarner said. "We played really good for three quarters. We gave Mooresville a fit with a 1-3-1 halfcourt trap. We had an eight-point lead and they came back when McNeil came out. That hurt us because it seemed like he was dragging every board."

Another freshman, ReShawn Parks, was the only Davie player to reach doubles figures in either game, leading with 10 points against Mooresville. Drew Yeager was second with six.

Bumgarner's frustration boiled over in the setback at Statesville. Although the coach shouldered blame for the fifth consecutive loss, he said Davie didn't give full effort.

"It was ugly," he said. "Statesville went from a 2-3 zone to a man-to-man, and our point guards did not recognize. But that's my fault and I'm going to take the blame for that. We weren't in an offense and that's up to me.

"And we were lazy on defense. We had no help defense in our man-to-man, and again that's my fault."

Statesville pulled away with a 16-5 run in the third quarter. Venable led with nine points, Michael Mashore had eight points and six rebounds, Parks seven points and Yeager six.

"I didn't get them ready to play, but I will," Bumgarner said.

Davie's next action will be a tournament at the Asheboro YMCA on Dec. 26-28.

Mooresville 37, Davie 33 – ReShawn Parks 10, Drew Yeager 6, Michael Mashore 4, Devon Venable 4, D.J. Rice 4, Troy Blakely 3, Raeshon McNeil 2.

Statesville 41, Davie 33 – Devon Venable 9, Michael Mashore 8, ReShawn Parks 7, Drew Yeager 6, John Benfield 2, Raeshon McNeil 1.

JV Girls' Record Drops To 1-4

Davie's JV girls basketball team can't get on track. It committed 29 turnovers, including 20 in a first half in which the War Eagles fell behind 24-10, in a 46-38 loss to visiting Mooresville in the first nonconference game of last week, and then the War Eagles missed 32 of 45 shots in a 42-30 loss at Statesville.

The War Eagles almost pulled off an improbable comeback against Mooresville, cutting down turnovers in the second half and pulling within one with two minutes to play. Erin Whitaker had 12 points, 10 rebounds and four blocks; Brooke Harris hit five of nine shots for 10 points; Allison Mackintosh had eight points and four steals; and Shanicka Brown had four points and eight rebounds.

After putting a scare in Mooresville, however, the War Eagles reverted to their flawed form, including a 4-for-16 performance at the foul line. Whitaker, who was sick, sucked it up to score 10 of her 12 during Davie's 20-11 fourth-quarter rally.

"We couldn't get the ball down the court to get it to Erin for three quarters," Coach Janice Jackson said. "(After closing to one), we started turning it over again."

The War Eagles limited turnovers to 16 at Statesville, but this time they couldn't get the ball to fall, shooting 20 percent and allowing a game-turning 12-2 spurt by Statesville in the second quarter.

Danielle O'Neal warmed up from the outside to lead Davie with 11 points and Whitaker had nine points and eight rebounds.

Jackson was disappointed in the War Eagles stumbling to 1-4, but not with their effort. It marked their largest margin of defeat, following losses of two, eight and eight points. Their lone win was a 36-32 decision over Mooresville in the third game.

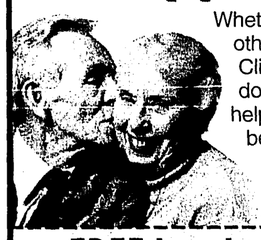

"We cut our turnovers from 29 to 16, but this time we couldn't hit anything," Jackson said. "We played OK. Actually it was a big improvement as far as turnovers and ball handling. We worked on that all week and I'm glad for that. We were getting the shots, they just weren't falling."

Notes: Jackson credited Davie's improved ball handling to guards O'Neal, Ashley Whitlock and Ashley Cornatzer. ... Davie's next action will be a tournament at the Asheboro YMCA on Dec. 26-28.

Mooresville 46, Davie 38 – Erin Whitaker 12, Brooke Harris 10, Allison Mackintosh 8, Shanicka Brown 4, Ashley Cornatzer 3, Christie Taylor 1.

Statesville 42, Davie 30 – Danielle O'Neal 11, Erin Whitaker 9, Allison Mackintosh 4, Brooke Harris 4, Christie Taylor 2.

Looking For Christmas

Joy Of The Season Turns Up In All Kinds Of Places

Looking for Christmas
Joy of the season turns up in all kinds of places
By Kathy Chaffin
Davie County Enterprise Record

I went looking for Christmas.

It started out as an idea for a fun story, and it turned into a quest. "Where are we going?" Enterprise photographer Robin Fergusson asked when I started the search last Thursday.

"I have no idea," I told her. "Let's just go and see what happens."

Now I've worked with a lot of photographers through the years, and most of them would have complained about my lack of a plan. But not Robin. She's always up for a challenge, and we've been on some grand adventures together.

On this particular day, we ended up at Cooleemee Elementary School, where I have worked as a substitute teacher several times this year. It was there that I learned far more from the students than I taught them, including just how much I still have to learn.

Maybe they could help me find Christmas as well.

"I need your help," I told Jordan Boone, a first grader in Mrs. Jeri Fisher's class. "We're looking for Christmas, and we were hoping you could help us find it."

Robin had Jordan to sit on the floor in front of a bulletin board decorated for the holidays, a nice prop for her pictures. He sat there quietly while I waited patiently for his answer. And waited and waited ...

Heart to Heart with Kathy Chaffin

Jordan, who has big blue eyes and curly blonde hair, appeared to give my question serious thought. He looked at me, then at Robin, then at assistant principal Linda Dorsett, then back at me.

He wrinkled his brow, turned his head to the left, then to the right. He raised his eyes upward, appeared to focus on something on the ceiling, then lowered them toward the floor before directing them right at me.

He wiggled around a little bit, seemed to get comfortable, then went back to pondering the question. Finally, he shrugged.

I tried again.

"What is it that makes you the happiest when you think about Christmas?" I asked.

"Christmas morning," he said.

"Why?" I wanted to know.

"Because you see toys under your tree," Jordan answered.

"And how does that make you feel?" I continued.

"Happy," he responded.

"And what is it that would make you happy if you saw it under your tree this year?" I asked.

"A remote-control car," he said.

Jordan's eyes got even wider when he mentioned the car, and we all smiled.

Christmas is a remote-control car under your tree. Christmas is the wide-eyed wonder of a child.

Fifth grader Matt Garretson had an answer for me right away when I asked him where I could find Christmas.

"In a good home," he said.

"And what makes a home good?" I wanted to know.

"People that love you," he answered, "and it's warm."

"Is your home warm?" I asked.

"Yes," he said. "We've got a fireplace. My parents are nice, and my brother and my sister, they're not that annoying, but they are, sort of."

Matt said his sister's name is Rachel, and she's 4. His brother is D.J., and he's 12.

Matt and D.J. were born the same day — December 31 — two years apart.

"Do you like having your birthday over the holidays?" I asked.

"Yes," he responded, "because I don't have to go to school."

Then, to make sure he didn't leave me with the impression that he didn't like school, Matt added, "I've got a nice school, and my principals and teachers are nice."

"Thanks, Matt," I said, as he headed back into Mrs. Tammy Essie's class.

Christmas is a good, warm home and people who love you. Christmas is a nice school with nice principals and teachers.

I asked Brandi Swisher next. I recognized her from having subbed for her kindergarten teacher, Mrs. Jane Saville.

"We're looking for Christmas," I told her. "Do you know where we can find it?"

A look of distress came over Brandi's face. I decided to ask the question a different way.

"Let's see," I began again. "When you think about Christmas, what do you think about?"

"Bells," she said, her soft voice barely audible.

"So where would you find bells?" I asked.

"Store," she answered.

"What store would you go to?" I wanted to know.

"Wal-Mart," she responded.

She nodded.

"If you were going to buy a present there for somebody, what would you buy?" I asked.

"A Barbie," she answered.

"Who would that be for?" I wanted to know.

"Kayla," she said. "She's my cousin."

"She's older," Brandi answered when I asked her cousin's age.

"Is there anything else you would buy?" I asked.

"A little box with writing stuff in it," she said.

"And who would that be for," I asked.

"For my other cousin," Brandi answered, "but she's little. She don't have a birthday yet. When she grows up, maybe her mom will let her play with it."

"Oh, so she's a baby," I responded.

"She's zero," Brandi explained.

Christmas is bells. Christmas is a Barbie doll for a cousin who is older and a box of writing stuff for a cousin who is zero.

We decided to ask one more student.

Nikkie Shore, who is in Mrs. Melissa Kistner's fourth-grade class, said we could find Christmas at the North Pole. "Santa might give you some Christmas presents," she added.

"How do we get there?" I asked.

If we stay up late on Christmas Eve, she explained, we can ask him to take us back home with him.

"Do you think he'll let us go?" I asked.

"Probably," she said.

Home For The Holidays

Annual Fashion Show A Good Time For A Good Cause

The Davie County Arts Council hosted its fourth Home for the Holidays luncheon and fashion show to a sell-out crowd at Bermuda Run Country Club in November.

The event originated as a fundraiser for renovation of the Brock Auditorium into the Brock Performing Arts Center, and now benefits Arts in Education programs in all nine Davie County Schools.

"We think this is a terrific way for ladies to enjoy a fun Saturday afternoon while benefiting children," said Davie County Arts Council Executive Director, Jane Simpson. "The ladies involved understand the value of the arts in the education of our students. They want our students to have every advantage we can give them."

Following lunch, participants enjoyed a show of the latest fashions from Talbot's, English's, and S&K Menswear; all modeled by local models. Fashions were presented in four scenes; "It's a Wonderful Life," "An Affair to Remember," "White Christmas," and "My Fair Lady," with music accompaniment by Mike Hendrix. The show was emceed by Davie native Karen Jarvis.

Models included Betsy Cochrane, Shirley Cornatzer, Traci V. Donathan, Regan Jones, Lori Kelly, Ruby O'Neal, Candy Poplin, Dianne Snipes, Priscilla Williams, Peter Perret, and Richard Poindexter.

Participants' eyes also brightened at the sight of tables that filled the room. Volunteers from clubs, civic organizations, and businesses decorated tables in a variety of themes.

"The tables were almost as much fun to look at as the fashions" stated event cochair, Elette Owen. "Everyone did a fantastic job of being creative and elegant. The room looked gorgeous."

"Our committee enjoys knowing that our efforts benefit Davie County children," said event co-chair Linda Sechrist.

"With profits right at $6,000, we think that makes all of the hard work very worthwhile," Sechrist said.

Christmas Joy Means Different Things To Different People

"What is Santa going to leave for you this year?" I continued.

"Toys, probably," she answered.

"Is there any kind of toy you want?" I wanted to know.

"Any kind he wants to give me," Nikkie responded.

"Wow," I said quietly.

"Do you have brothers and sisters?" I asked.

"A whole lot," she said.

"Five brothers and three sisters," she answered.

"Wow!" I said, trying to imagine what it was like to have five brothers. And I thought it was tough growing up with two.

Christmas is being happy with whatever Santa brings you. Christmas is a whole lot of brothers and sisters.

We saw Buster Clement, who works for the Davie County Schools, in the parking lot.

"Heaven must be having a recess," he said, "for there to be two angels at Cooleemee School."

I looked around to see who he was talking about before realizing it was Robin and me.

Oh, a smooth talker, I thought. I asked him where we could find Christmas.

"Lowe's," he responded, "in the tool department. Isn't that a man's heaven, a man's paradise? What do you think?"

"I like that," I said.

He continued with the smooth talk. "I hope you didn't get hurt," he said, "from that fall from heaven."

Christmas is being called an angel. Christmas is the tool department at Lowe's Home Improvement Warehouse Store.

Pattie Swisher was at Food Lion in Mocksville checking out her groceries when we stopped by.

"She looks like a grandmother," Robin said when she saw her.

Indeed, she had a friendly face and a smile that lit up her eyes.

"We're looking for Christmas," I told her. "Where would you go to find it?"

"Gee, I don't know," she said. "I don't get out much to go anywhere. I guess I'd just come to the grocery store."

Pattie, who lives near the County Line community, said she's ready for the holiday. She had just finished buying all the ingredients she needs for the cookies, cakes and chess pies she makes every year.

A widow, Pattie said she'll be spending Christmas with her son, Ricky.

Christmas is cookies, cakes and chess pies. Christmas is spending time with your son.

Eighteen-year-old Jessica Koontz was working in the grocery store when we asked her where we could find Christmas.

"With your family," she said.

"What does your family do at Christmas?" I asked.

"Eat," she answered.

"Do you have brothers and sisters?" I wanted to know.

"Yes," Jessica responded. "I have a little sister and a little brother."

Her sister, Jamie, is 13, and her brother, Logan, is 5. Her parents are Jimmy and Carolyn Koontz of Mocksville.

Christmas is eating with your family.

Robin had to go on another assignment, but I continued my search for Christmas during the days that followed.

I went to the Cana Road home of Pam and Bobby Davis on Sunday afternoon, where former employees of Tri-County Mental Health had gathered for their annual reunion and Christmas party. Oh, I'm sure to find it here, I thought as I walked inside.

There was food, lots and lots of food, and presents. The children opened theirs first.

Whitney loved the Dale Earnhardt Jr. pillow that Cindy Hogan gave her. Whitney loves anything with Dale Earnhardt Jr.'s name or picture on it. She threw the pillow on the floor and lay down on top of it.

The Davis brothers — Christopher, Cameron and Caleb — liked their presents, too, although they opened them so quickly I couldn't tell what they were. Pam and Bobby watched with amusement, feigning disapproval when 3-year-old Caleb tore into the musical instruments, including a drum, that Cindy and Suzie Horton brought him.

We adults liked our presents, too, even though only a couple of us ended up with the one we picked out at the beginning. We played that game where you can pick an unwrapped present or one that somebody else has already opened.

I started out with a rooster magazine rack, lost it a couple of times, then ended up with it again. We were busy playing our game when Caleb paraded in playing his drum, a serious look on his face and a baseball cap on his head.

We all paused to look at him, commented on how cute he looked, then returned to playing like children again.

Christmas is a little drummer boy. Christmas is adults rediscovering the children within.

I met my friend, Doris Short, for lunch the next day at Potman's Restaurant.

"I need your help with a story," I told her. "I'm looking for Christmas. Where do I go to find it?"

"For me, you find it in the children," she said. "Children are what Christmas is about. Children love Christmas, and they seem to know what it's about."

"Keep on," I said.

"Children understand it more than adults do," she continued.

"Why do you think that is?" I asked.

Without warning, Doris started to cry.

"Because they don't have to go shopping," she responded. "They don't have to buy it. They don't have to get into the hustle and bustle. They get to enjoy the moment of what it's about and the spirit of it. They get to enjoy the anticipation.

"And as adults," Doris continued, "we don't have any anticipation of Christmas. All we know is we've got to go buy presents. We've got to wrap them. We've got to clean the house. We've got to decorate it.

"I remember when I was a little girl, it was absolutely wonderful waiting for that moment when Santa would come and getting up on Christmas morning. I can remember what it felt like to go look under that tree and see all those presents that Santa brought. It was wonderful."

Christmas is lunch with a friend. Christmas is in the children. Christmas is the memory of being a child.

I asked waitress April Coble where I could find Christmas when she came to take our order.

"I think Christmas is in your heart," she said, "and it's the happiness that you see in your children's faces on Christmas morning. And also, to me, it's about all the memories you have of your past loved ones, the memories of the Christmases that you spent with them."

Doris started crying again.

April, who was about to cry, has two children, Ashley, 14, and Ronnie, 15.

Christmas is in your heart and on your children's faces. Christmas is the memories of loved ones now gone.

I went to downtown Mocksville looking for Christmas.

I stopped by Bits of Brass Gifts and Office Supplies, where a display featured several copies of the poem, "Merry Christmas from Heaven," in various sized frames.

Manager Renee M. Spry told me earlier that she had seen the poem advertised in a catalog and ordered the framed copies for the store. John Wm. Mooney Jr. of Massachusetts wrote the touching verses after the death of his mother, and when friends and strangers began requesting copies, he had the poem copyrighted and began selling them.

The poem is especially meaningful to Renee, whose husband, Timothy, died suddenly in April at age 46. His death followed the loss of her mother, Gelene McDaniel, the year before.

Renee had gone to lunch when I stopped by on Monday, so I asked sales associate Dorothy Parker where I could find Christmas.

"Do you mean what Christmas is all about?" she asked.

"However you want to interpret that," I answered.

"To me, I think Christmas is Jesus," she said, "and that's what the season is all about and just the fact that He came as a child and that God sent Him to remind us that there's hope and that we've got joy. That's what it is to me."

Christmas is remembering those who've lost loved ones during the year. Christmas is Jesus. Christmas is hope and joy.

Dave Campbell was with a customer when I stopped by Dave's Music to ask him where I could find Christmas, so I waited.

"Where can you find it?" he responded when I asked him. "You can find it in my heart."

"OK," I said. "Tell me about it."

"I just did," Dave said. "It's my Savior's birthday. Christmas is in my heart. That's what Christmas means to me, being happy and praising His name on His birthday for saving my sins."

Christmas is Jesus' birthday. Christmas is taking time to praise Him for saving our sins.

Next, I went into Special Blessings, Old and New, looking for Christmas.

"It's not in the stores," said manager Jolayne Hain. "You'll find it in the heart. Christmas should be every day.

"The good will toward men, it should not just be at Christmas. It should be 365 days a year, and that's what Christmas is, when you can find someone who can act the same Christmas Day, Halloween, Valentine's and every day in between."

Special Blessings is a consignment shop of new and used items and handmade crafts from Texas and Arizona. For Jolayne, her husband, John, and their partner, Belinda Dudley, opening the store was the fulfillment of a mission.

Not only do they help consignors make a little extra money, she said they also try to help customers who are in need. "Some of the items we can even give away," she said, "because some people bring things in and say, 'Do whatever you want with it and keep the money.'"

The first time that happened, Jolayne said they were stunned. "We stood there and we talked about it," she said, "and we decided that those items would have a vendor of their own. That vendor would be charity.

"So every month, a different charity gets the money."

Christmas is good will toward men every day of the year. Christmas is a consignment store that helps customers in need.

I was getting ready to go into the Enterprise office when I spotted Paula Tucker with her children, Faith and Russ.

"I'm out looking for Christmas," I told 5-year-old Russ, "and I don't know where to find it. Where would you go looking for Christmas?"

"Grandma Moody's," he said.

That's the home of Paula's mother, Carrie Moody, she explained, and her father, Maynard Moody. They have a tree, Russ said, with decorations all over it.

Grandma Moody wouldn't mind if I went there to find Christmas, he said, and she might even feed me cookies and give me a present from under the tree.

Christmas is a grandma good enough to share.

I went looking for Christmas at McDonald's. I went inside because I couldn't bear to go through the drive-through without Patrick Draughn there to hand me my order.

Patrick's family and mine are close, and I watched him grow up. In recent years, I enjoyed talking to him while he was at work, first at Subway, and then for the past two years, at McDonald's.

When I heard the news that he had been killed in an accident on Greenhill Road earlier this month, I, like all those who knew him, questioned why he should have to leave us at the young age of 19.

Inside the fast-food restaurant, half of the Information Center bulletin board is covered with his photos and handwritten messages from his friends. His girlfriend, Ashley, who also works there, wrote: "Patrick, my love, I will miss you for the rest of my life until the day when we can be together again. I love you more than anything in this world or the next ..."

"Patrick, you are my best friend," wrote Deborah. "You are an inspiration to me. I will not forget you."

A friend named Marie wrote: "Patrick, you were a cool man. It's like we shared an inside joke no one else was in on. I'm going to miss the laughs we had ..."

Another friend wrote: "I will miss you, but I know you are rocking in heaven. I love you, man. You were so awesome, and you touched my life in so many ways. I'll never forget you."

One of my favorites was written by Misha: "On December 1st, a new star was placed in the sky and it will remain there forever as well as in our hearts. The star's name was Patrick. We miss you, Pat, and we will never forget you."

A coworker named Benny wrote: "The best things in life we only get a short time to enjoy. I enjoyed working with Patrick. He called me ole man."

Several referred to Patrick playing the drums in a local rock band. "Rock on, Pat," wrote one friend. "Keep playing those drums," wrote another.

Patrick is shown playing the drums in three of the five photos on the board. He is smiling like someone who loves what he is doing.

In one of the photos, a close-up, Patrick is captured looking up, and his face is absolutely radiant. I like to think he had that expression of joy on his face when he passed from this world into the next.

Christmas is remembering a delightful young man who left us too soon. Christmas is a new drummer in heaven.

I left McDonald's to pick up my 13-year-old niece, Amanda, at South Davie Middle School to take her to get a sports physical at Medical Associates of Davie.

There, in the waiting room, I asked Johnnie Bailey of Mocksville, who was waiting to see a doctor, where I could find Christmas. A nurse called her to come back before she had time to answer.

So I posed the question to Amanda.

"What do you mean?" she responded.

"Just interpret it however you want," I said.

"I don't know what you're asking," she said.

"Well, where would you go to find Christmas?" I asked.

"I don't understand what you're asking," she said. "What do you mean? Christmas is Christmas."

"OK, let me reword it," I tried again. "Where is Christmas?"

"What do you mean?" she responded, laughing. "It's not in a box."

"Well, where is it?" I wanted to know.

"That's a weird question," she said. "I don't understand the question."

"Pretend it's not me asking you the question," I said. "Where do you find Christmas?"

"What do you mean?" she said. "I didn't understand the question. I can't answer it."

About that time, the nurse called her back, thank goodness.

Christmas is a teenager's uncanny ability to get out of answering a question. Christmas is a niece I adore.

I walked in with Amanda and spotted Kathy Cornatzer, the nurse practitioner who has been my health-care provider for the past year and a half, during which time I have also come to consider her a friend.

"Oh, good," I said. "You can answer my question for the paper. Where can I find Christmas?"

"At home with family," she responded. "That's the best part, and that's what I think of when I think of Christmas."

I thanked her and went looking for Amanda. When I ran into Johnnie Bailey, I repeated the question I had asked her in the waiting room: "Where can I find Christmas?"

"At church," she said, "with the birth of Christ." Johnnie goes to Community Baptist Church.

Christmas is being at home with family. Christmas is celebrating the birth of Christ at church.

Inside the examination room where I found Amanda, I posed the question to nurse Terri Everhart of Winston-Salem.

"Where do I find Christmas?" she responded. "I find Christmas within the hearts of those who know what Christmas really is, and Christmas really is the birth of the Christ child that came to give us the life that we have.

"We may see a lot of bad around us, but yet if you take the veil off your eyes, you can see the good that He's done."

Terri continued with a preliminary examination, which included Amanda running in place for a minute, before thinking of something else she wanted to say.

"Christmas is not about giving gifts," she added. "It's about receiving the best gift that's ever been given to us."

As a Sunday school teacher of seventh and eighth graders at Reynolda Presbyterian Church, Terri said she tries to get her class to think about the true meaning of Christmas.

"It was a 14-year-old girl that would have been disgraced, that should have been stoned," she said, "but yet her husband-to-be went ahead and married her, took her in, her pregnant, and believed what God said. How many of us today would believe it?"

Terri was an interviewer's dream. She finished the preliminary exam before addressing my question yet again.

"Christmas is believing," she concluded, "believing what God spoke thousands and thousands of years before. And it came to pass, and not only did they believe it, but we believe it also, something we've never seen, would never lay our hands on, but yet we've felt so much of it ...

"There was really a child out there that was born to save the whole world."

Christmas is an interviewee like Terri. Christmas is the gift of the Christ child. Christmas is believing.

I posed the question one more time when nurse practitioner Anne Lake came in to see Amanda.

"I find Christmas in realizing and knowing what Jesus has done for me," she said, "and in turn blessing others. That's how I find Christmas, and I tend to live that every day.

"I'm a giver. I'm a servant. I'm not one of those one-day persons that feel like, 'Hey, this is Christmas. We're going to celebrate right now vs. living it every day.'"

I noticed that Anne's last name was different from the Anne Fowler on the "Patient's Guide to Services" that Amanda picked up out in the lobby. She got married Sept. 19, she said when I asked her about it, and this will be her first Christmas with her new husband, Richard Lake, and her five new stepchildren.

Christmas is blessing others every day. Christmas is a new family.

I went looking for Christmas at Iredell Memorial Hospital in Statesville, where my Aunt Linda prays every night that she'll be well enough to come home and spend the holiday with her family.

She's been in and out of the hospital since being diagnosed with a liver disease four years ago, and her son and his family and my brothers, my niece and me have been right there with her. We even spent three days in a hospital in Houston when she flew with Amanda and me to visit my brother in Texas this summer.

The doctors didn't give my aunt much hope for recovery last week, but she's been beating the odds since she was born 62 years ago weighing only a pound and a half. Growing up, we loved to hear our grandmother tell the story of how whenever Linda would start to turn blue, they would give her just enough apple brandy to bring her around.

I thought about that story as I listened to my aunt's labored breathing when I spent the night with her in the hospital — a pajama party, she called it, only I forgot to wear my pajamas. She told me she was glad I stayed because she was afraid she might die.

"I'm a tough ole bird," she said upon awakening the next morning. "I made it through another night."

Christmas is fighting to get well so you can spend the holiday with your family. Christmas is a tough ole bird named Linda.

My search has ended. I found Christmas in so many places, thanks to all the wonderful people who took the time to share their thoughts with me.

They made me smile. They made me laugh. Some even made me cry.

Wherever you find Christmas this year — whether it's with your family, in the faces of your children or in church — take time to enjoy each and every moment of this wonderful season.

Spend less time buying gifts for your family and friends and more time telling them how much you appreciate and love them. It is the words they will remember long after the gifts are discarded or broken.

Spend less time worrying about getting everything done and more time remembering the excitement you felt as a child. It is those memories that will bring you the most joy.

Spend less time thinking about yourself and more time reaching out to those in pain. Next year, it could be you grieving the loss of a loved one.

Look around at your family and friends like you're seeing them for the very first time. Notice the way their eyes light up when they smile. Ask them questions you think you have forever to ask. Memorize the sound of their voices. Soak up every bit of their essence.

For in this life, every day is a gift, including Christmas. Spend it laughing, often and loudly. Play with a child's toy and pretend it's yours. Sing, with enthusiasm, even if you can't carry a tune.

And on this day — especially on this day — take time to give thanks.

Merry Christmas.

Jessica Koontz says she finds Christmas with her family.

Betty & Howard Edwards

Edwards Siding & Windows

Johnny Walker could not believe it. After eight years of staining, sealing, sanding and painting, his home looked new with almost no maintenance at all.

That's because he called Betty and Harold Edwards, of Edwards Siding and Windows.

"The heat, the sun, the weather continually wore down my deck and front porch," said Walker of Winston-Salem. "You could wash; you could paint; but you couldn't keep it white," he said. Walker estimated that he was staining and painting at least twice a year, until he finally contacted Edwards Siding and Windows.

The experienced professionals at Edwards Siding covered Walker's rear deck with white vinyl, and replaced all of the wooden railing with durable vinyl railings. The anti-slip vinyl flooring which covered the wooden deck floor is also treated to prevent chipping; and can be hosed off for simple cleaning.

"They are very good to work with," said Johnny Walker of Betty and Harold Edwards' company. The Edwards worked with the Walkers to design a customized fit for their existing home, with just the right style and appearance that they desired. Walker and his wife were so elated with the clean, virtually maintenance-free decking that they decided to do their front porch and walkway as well.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Tran of Winston-Salem also called Edwards Siding and Windows, to replace the railing around their home, and the trim for their windows.

"I was very pleased," said Tom Tran of the work which Edwards Siding did for his home. So pleased that he called his father, in order to get the same work done on his father's home.

"They are good at what they do," he said.

Betty and Harold Edwards have owned and operated Edwards Siding and Windows since 1978. They are licensed and insured, beginning their business when aluminum siding was in vogue. With the advent of vinyl siding and windows, the Edwards have seen their volume of business explode.

"We stay kind of busy," said Betty Edwards of the sunrooms, screened in porches, vinyl decking and vinyl replacement windows which their company installs. Edwards Siding does both residential and commercial work. They have done jobs for a number of construction companies, including John S. Clark and McNair Construction.

Edwards Siding has installed vinyl siding and windows for churches, restaurants, motels, apartment buildings; and has been contracted with the United States Housing and Urban Development. With both residential and commercial customers, Edwards Siding uses high grade materials, such as Norandex Reynolds, to give their customers the longest life and best look of their products. They also offer a labor warranty. Call (336) 764-0885 for more information.

Edwards Siding gives FREE ESTIMATES on customized decking, railings, sunroom or screened-in porch additions, vinyl siding, and all work to be performed. They will sit down with each client to create that beautiful new sunroom or renovate an existing deck. In all that they do, Edwards Siding strives to please their customers with personal service and the most professional job possible.

"Most of our work is done through referrals," said Betty Edwards. "We have built our reputation through others' recommendations."

Calvin Jones is recognized for his volunteer work by Jo McClamrock, Davie RSVP specialist.

RSVP Volunteer Logs Nearly 5,000 Hours

If the Davie County Retired and Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) needs help, Calvin Jones is there.

Jones, 74, of Campbell Road, Mocksville, averages from 125-150 hours per month in volunteer work.

A retired AT&T supervisor and graduate of Winston-Salem State, he has three children, two boys and a girl. He is active in the church and community.

Jones started volunteering with RSVP in 1988. Five days per week he does Friendly Visitation in nursing homes, as well as deliver homebound meals.

He puts in more hours with the program than anyone in Davie County. His lifetime hours are more than 5,447.

"If we need a volunteer fora project, we can always rely on him," said Gilda Pruitt, RSVP director.

"All of our volunteers are very special people," Pruitt said. "But a few are more able and more helpful. Without volunteers, our program would not exist. Mr. Jones' volunteer work is too numerous to detail."

RSVP is active in Davie, Surry and Yadkin counties, and sponsored by National Senior Service Corps and Davie County United Way.

Mr. and Mrs. Batry Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Murray and Mr. and Mrs. Joe White attended the Ruritan Christmas party Thursday night at 601 Pier in Mocksville.

Mrs. Grady Beck is slowly improving after a long sickness. She needs our continued prayers.

Mrs. Theda Reavis is our shut-in of the week and has been moved to Autumn Care in Mocksville.

I have completed another year working at my beauty shop in Mocksville. Thanks to everyone for 57 years of "shear pleasure."

Another year, where did it go, I simply do not know.

I just completed 57 years working in this great town, a better place could not be found.

I thank everyone that's been a part, I say this sincerely from my heart.

Customers to me are also great friends, and I will treasure their friendship to the very end.

Thanks again to everyone, and Merry Christmas and Happy New Year to one and all.

Love in Christ,

Salvation Army Reaches Out To Help The Needy

As the new year approaches, the Salvation Army is in high gear, feeding the hungry and reaching out in kindness and love to everyone weathering a season of strife, according to Major Dan Proctor, area commander of Winston-Salem.

Resources will be stretched. There is still an urgent need before year-end for donations of money and food.

"In order to help struggling families and brighten lives," said Proctor. "The Salvation Army needs the community's support. The people who give so generously to this cause are the real source of aid and comfort to the unfortunate. The Salvation Army is merely the channel through which that generosity manifests itself."

Besides feeding hungry people in soup kitchens, the Salvation Army provides clothing for the needy, shelter for homeless people and counseling for the sick at heart.

"And, there is always a friendly, compassionate ear at the Salvation Army, where the confused and the injured can pour out their hearts and never have to fear judgment," Proctor said.

"Bad luck can strike people at any time. Illness, unemployment, accidents...no one is exempt from hard times. When they hit over a holiday, they pack a special emotional wallop. That's way we double our efforts during Christmas and the New Year," he said.

Those redoubled efforts take a toll on resources, making year-end donations more necessary than ever.

"We are so appreciative when we get supplemental help over the holidays," Proctor said. "It means we won't have to turn anyone away, and we can continue to spread Christ's love to every soul who finds his way to our door. But, we must end the year in a strong financial position to be ready to respond to the requests that will come our way in 2003."

The Salvation Army in Winston-Salem, serving the counties of Forsyth, Davie, Yadkin and Strokes through its familiar Red Kettle Christmas campaign, provides food, toys and support services to more than 10,379 individuals and families during the holiday season.

For more information about the programs offered by the organization, contact Proctor or Jim Rickard, director of development, at 723-6366.

Power Has Been Restored for EnergyUnited Customers. Thank You for Your Patience and Understanding.

At the peak of the recent Ice storm, 37,000 EnergyUnited customers in 17 North Carolina counties were without power. Thanks to advanced planning for emergencies such as this one and aggressive right-of-way maintenance efforts, the percentage of EnergyUnited outages was substantially lower than that of customers of other electric utilities in the area.

Power has now been restored to EnergyUnited customers, and we take this opportunity to thank you for your patience, understanding and cooperation.

Dedicated employees at EnergyUnited worked around the clock in harsh weather and under very dangerous conditions to get power restored. We are grateful to them, as well as line crews from adjoining states and other North Carolina electric cooperatives who worked side-by-side with EnergyUnited employees.

We plan for the worst, we respond with our best, and, without fail, we overcome adversity.

Thanks again from all of us at EnergyUnited and best wishes for 2003.

Happy Holidays.

The Methodist Church Chancel choir will present it's Christmas Cantata Sunday morning Dec. 22 at the 11 a.m. worship service. The children's Christmas program will be in the sanctuary at 7 p.m. Our pastor, the Rev. Harry Sammons, was hospitalized last week with a severe strep throat infection causing his throat to swell almost closed. We wish for him a speedy recovery. During his absence Layman Richard Roberts had charge of the devotionals at the Sunday morning worship service and Layman Frankie Hackett preached the sermon.

The church choir and members of the congregation went Christmas Caroling Sunday night and visited many shut-ins in the community. Several children joined the adults for the caroling. We were pleased to have Brent and Carolyn Shoaf and daughter Katie join us. They are former church members but now belong to Smith Grove Methodist church. After the caroling the group was served hot chocolate, coffee and cookies in the fellowship hall by young adults.

Many ladies from this community attended a jewelery party Saturday afternoon at the home of Stella and Naylor Vogler. The party was given by their granddaughter Emily Kimball of Clemmons and a student at UNC-Greensboro.

Kate Sessions moved to New York several weeks ago where she is working and is pursuing a career as an actress. Her parents Steve and Ann Sessions went to New York this weekend to visit Kate and help with furnishing her apartment.

It is not too late to purchase a Davie County Heritage Book for Christmas gifts. Several were sold last week. Call 998-4356 or 492-5234. A reduction in price. Not available at the library.

This reporter wishes all our readers a joyous and blessed Christmas and a New Year filled with Love, Joy and Peace.

In Times Of Adversity, A Can-Do Spirit Warms The Heart

Last week's storm unleashed a string of difficult days in Rowan and the surrounding counties, from downed power lines to neighbors without shelter. Dangerous highways and long spells of bone-chilling cold added to the discomfort.

At Rowan Regional Medical Center, we experienced our own trying times. Generators hummed for a few hours to provide power that enabled us to care for the sick and injured, serve hot meals, and provide information and comfort for the less fortunate.

But close on the heels of adversity came admiration for utility company workers, law enforcement officers, fire fighters and emergency medical personnel who shored up the front lines to help our community recover.

On the medical center campus, employees and physicians volunteered to stay overnight and work extra shifts to ensure that patient care continued. At Rowan Medical Facilities, our sister company, employees called or visited nearly 200 patients who use oxygen in their homes.

Spouses deserve thanks, too, for transporting employees on treacherous roads and keeping the home fires burning. And our volunteers provided support with numerous tasks needed on a daily basis.

To them all, we say thanks. Thanks for caring. Thanks for sharing. And thanks for contributing to an effort that ignites the spirit, and warms the heart.

Fifth graders in Mrs. Wilcox's class are wrapping up the second quarter. The chorus students are looking forward to performing Christmas music at several concerts. The students will shop at the Santa Shop for the family members on their Christmas list. In grammar, they are studying verbs. During Social Studies time, they took a tour of Washington, D.C. and never left their seats.

Miss Boddy and her kindergarteners are exploring the Arctic and Polar Bears. Did you know a polar bear's paw is as big as dinner plate? Students learned how blubber keeps a polar bear warm. Students worked on classifying objects by size, color, and shape. All the kindergarten students enjoyed their trip to the Zachary House for an old fashioned Christmas with Ms. Hazel. They decorated the tree there with ornaments they had made.

Mrs. Cornatzer, along with the other first grade classes, are working to make up for time missed. Students have been making ornaments and other holiday surprises to take home with them next. They visited the Santa Dollar Shop to give the children an opportunity to "give rather than receive" to their families. Mrs. Cornatzer and Mrs. Stein's classes returned to their classrooms and later took time to wrap gifts. In Mrs. Cornatzer's class, students were thankful to have Mrs. Blackwelder come and help.

Next week, first grade is going to study an abbreviated lesson about Christmas Around The World, studying cultures and how they celebrate the holidays.

Last month, second graders, as a part of the social studies unit on Native Americans, took part in activities. Stations maintained by parents and other volunteers included face painting, making rainsticks, creating sand art, molding clay bowls, painting totem poles, and playing games. Other hands-on activities included making necklaces, vests, and headbands and sampling fry bread and foods made with cranberries. Students used math skills and were involved in experiments. Artifacts and Native American legends were shared.

Fourth graders in Mrs. Kistner's class are almost finished with a rock unit. They have done a lot of neat things with this unit including eating some homemade "rocks". In math ,things are getting harder; students are starting to work on division.

North Davie Middle

Mrs. Colbert's social studies class is learning about life during the Industrial Revolution and the boom in technology. Lots of new ideas came about during this time including the invention of basketball. Students will be inventing their own games and or sport to explain/demonstrate for the class. Language arts classes are beginning a unit on freedom. The first part is the "Brown vs. Board of Education" case. Students had some interesting comments and feelings about the topic, which generated good discussion. Dance club will continue meeting again when students come back from winter break. Mrs. Colbert will be getting married on Dec. 21 and after break will have much more time to devote to the club.

In social studies, Mrs. Delaney's class is writing a newspaper about the Revolutionary War. Students are writing articles about an important battle. They have researched the battle and are including a political cartoon. Science classes are concluding the geologic time unit with dinosaur graphs. Groups are drawing these graphs to scale. They will then calculate the proportion of their graph to a life-sized dinosaur.

Mr. Rareshide's algebra classes are becoming "factor masters." They are learning that factoring can used to solve many types of problems. Pre-Algebra students are studying proportions and their many practical applications. Students in social studies are preparing their own lesson on the mid-1800s that they will be teaching their classmates soon.

Thank you to everyone who brought in items for our Storehouse for Jesus collection.

Shady Grove Elementary

Ornaments that children made are hanging on a tree in the media center. The hallways and classrooms shout out "'tis the season" thanks to the staff, students and volunteers.

Mrs. Marion s first graders finished all of the short vowels in Letterland and in spelling and met Mr. Magic E . They will be visiting Mr. E and Mr. A one more time before Christmas. In social studies and science they spent November learning about leaves and why they turn colors. They made prints of the leaves and measured them.

Mrs. Minor's class has been thinking food as they learned about the only pyramid in America - The Food Pyramid. The children placed real and fake food on a shower curtain to get a better understanding of food groups. They weighed food, counted money for food and made some food prints using all kinds of fruits and vegetables.

The first grade is learning about Christmas customs in Germany, Holland, Sweden and Norway. They are going to travel to each first grade class and participate in activities that relate to that country. Each student will have a passport and a briefcase in hand as a traveler.

The second grade classes attended the Nutcracker Ballet at the Steven s Center in Winston-Salem. Mrs. Ohr and Mrs. Norman's third graders finished Little House in the Big Woods. In math they started multiplication. They will learn strategies to figure out the answers to multiplication problems.

Mrs. Hendrix and Mrs. Plyer's third graders are learning what it means to multiply and beginning to memorize their multiplication facts. In reading they are working on the main ideas and the use of context clues. The third grade classes attended the Nutcracker Ballet at the Brock Center this past week.

Fifth grade students attend the Best Christmas Pageant Ever at the Kenneth R. Williams Auditorium at Winston-Salem State University.

The snow make-up days will be Feb. 17 and March 17.

Class Christmas parties will be held Thursday or Friday, Dec. 19 or 20.

Pinebrook Elementary

During December, kindergarten students will study winter holidays and how they are observed differently throughout the country.

Kindergarten, second grade and chorus presented at Pinebrook's PTA meeting Monday, Dec. 9. The fifth grade chorus, led by Anna Newman, sang "A Christmas Madrigal" and "A Song of Peace", including sign language. The chorus was accompanied on the piano by first grade teacher Heather Blank. Kindergarten and second grade visited two countries' songs and traditions. Kindergarten sang of the colors they had been learning in Spanish class and the piñatas used in celebrations. They used the shakers made with visitors from the Sawtooth Center sponsored by Davie Arts Council. Second grade presented traditions from Germany. Students sang "Silent Night" in German while accompanied on the guitar by fourth grader Sean Newman. They also sang "O Christmas Tree" while playing their xylophones made with the Sawtooth Center visitors.

Fourth grade students have been studying Old Salem and the Moravians. Pastor Greg Little and Janie Garnett from Macedonia Moravian Church visited in their Moravian attire and told the children the history and customs of their church. They shared Moravian sugar cookies.

Fourth grade classrooms are decorated and ready for the holidays. Fourth grade teachers attended a writing workshop at the Davie County Library in preparation for the upcoming writing test in March. The teachers used their new knowledge of the writing rubricto have the children write about their experiences during the recent ice storm.

Town Joins Early Action Compact

Mocksville Town Board members voted Dec. 3 to join the air quality early action compact, which the county joined earlier in the week. There are no costs. The compact allows local municipalities additional time to meet certain air quality standards. The town can drop out of the agreement at any time. "The positives outweigh the negatives," commissioner Vernon Thompson told the board.

Marklin Appointed To Planning Board

The board unanimously appointed Will Marklin to the Mocksville Planning Board for a three-year term. Marklin replaces Lash Sanford. Two other senior members on the board are near the end of their terms, but they have been asked to remain through the ordinance update process.

Clement Street Gets A Crosswalk

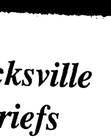

The board unanimously approved putting a marked pedestrian crosswalk on Clement Street behind First Presbyterian Church. Town Manager Terry Bralley said it was expected that the street would reopen soon as the church nears completion on the construction project.

State Returns Part of Money Owed

The state has agreed to return approximately $69,000 to Mocksville. The town filed amended tax returns for three years and requested the refund, but it was frozen by the state earlier this year; $6,000 is still being negotiated.

Inadequate

Bermuda Run Council Thinks School Bond Should Be More

By Ken Richardson
Davie County Enterprise Record

BERMUDA RUN - Inadequate.

That's how Bermuda Run town council members described the five-year plan/bond issue for the Davie County school system that Superintendent W.G. Potts presented Dec. 10 at the group's monthly meeting.

Several Bermuda Run council members expressed concern that student enrollment is projected to be at full capacity in 2008 when all of the construction is complete, leaving no room for growth.

Potts, who discussed the proposal for more than an hour, said it was a "bare bones, no frills" approach that tried to deal with increased enrollment, increased programs, such as English as a Second Language, and state-mandated smaller class size, which means creating more classrooms.

He pointed out that total enrollment at Davie County schools has grown from 4,500 to 6,000 students since the 1992-93 school year, an increase of 33 percent.

The plan recommends building a second high school and renovating or adding rooms to five elementary schools as well as the current high school, while maintaining the same school districts. The new classrooms will eliminate about 30 temporary classroom trailers.

The last bond issue was in 1995 for $7.6 million. It provided additional classrooms for Shady Grove, Pinebrook and Mocksville elementary schools as well as technological and electrical retrofit throughout the school system.

The Bermuda Run town Council is the only group of elected officials so far to be briefed on the proposal, other than the county's board of commissioners.

On March 11, 2003, Davie County voters will decide the proposal, which will increase taxes by $.09 per $ 100 of valuation or $90 per year on a $100,000 house, Potts said.

Other items discussed by council members or raised by residents included Bermuda Run's annexation policy and development standards, as well as the demolition of a house that may contain mold spores.

Public Hearing Jan. 21 On Proposed School Bond

A public hearing on a proposed $32.7 million in school facilities improvements will be held by county commissioners at their meeting Jan. 21, beginning at 7 p.m.

Board members last week approved introduction of a school facilities bond, to be decided by Davie voters inthe spring,, and the current version is the "foundational document for issuance of the bonds," said County Attorney Bob Price.

The bond order provides money as follows: $9.06 million to elementary schools; $1.4 million to the current high school; $19.8 million for a new high school; and $2.5 million the board of education has agreed to spend from capital reserves on additional facility needs at all levels, not covered by the bond.

The meeting will be held in the commissioner's room, second floor, county administration building.

Christmas At Liberty

Christmas is a time to rejoice in the birth of Jesus, a time to show friends and family how much they mean, a time to be thankful for blessings. And it's time to teach children the true meaning of the season. Churches across the county conduct children's programs at Christmas; many times it's the child's first shot at a public performance. The results can't be predicted, but are often amusing and always delightful. These children at Liberty United Methodist Church south of Mocksville are no exception. Above, with Santa at the podium and teacher Rebecca Hursey offering some guidance, Logan West, Delana Spillman, Cooper Wall, Luke Bolmer, Lane Bolmer and Katie Bolmer go through their program. At right, Cooper Wall shows some enthusiasm.

Some Favorite Christmas Memories

Readers Share Stories Of Family And Friends

We asked for your favorite Christmas memories.

Heart to Heart with Kathy Chaffin

I waited eagerly for the responses to come pouring in. I even considered buying a bigger mailbox to accommodate your letters. I expected several hundred at least.

What fun I planned to have reading your memories by a warm fireplace, a cup of hot chocolate by my side.

And the e-mails. I worried I might have to delete my backlog of correspondence to make room for all the new ones that would arrive.

It would be difficult to choose the ones to print, but I was up for the task. I waited, and waited ...

Finally, an e-mail trickled in from Julie Leonard.

Then District Court Judge Jimmy Laird Myers brought a memory by the Enterprise office, where I later found one from Marie White. Louise Smith Pierce left hers this week, with a note saying she hoped she wasn't too late.

My friend, Karen Draughn, mentioned she had one, but was scheduled to go in the hospital for surgery, so I agreed to take hers over the phone.

Here they are, all five of them, along with an extra that I solicited when I received a call from an old friend. Thanks so much to those six for sharing their memories.

As for the rest of our readers, my wish for you is that this Christmas will be so wonderful and so full of joy that if we ask for your favorite memories again next year, you won't be able to keep from sharing them.

In the meantime, I'll be looking around for a bigger mailbox.

Judge Jimmy Laird Myers of Redland Road, who presides over District Court in the 22nd Judicial District, brought in this touching memory.

"Every Christmas, like the words of a popular hymn, brings back 'Precious Memories.'

The closest friend I have had in my life was Michael Ross Corbett, Statesville High Class of 1971. Mike was tragically killed in an automobile accident in 1983 when he was 30 years of age. I was one of the preachers at his funeral at the First Baptist Church of Statesville.

Mike and I first met and became friends in Dr. Wilmer Sanders' 'German' class at Wake Forest University when we were freshmen in 1971. We went on to be 'Action Group' leaders for Intervarsity Christian Fellowship at Wake, and in 1975, when we were students together at the Candler School of Theology at Emory University in Atlanta, Ga., we roomed together for a year until Mike got married in 1976.

It was my honor and privilege to be a groomsman at his wedding.

While in seminary, we were involved in a Bible study for Redan High School students. Every Monday night, sometimes as many as 40 teenagers would come to the Bible study held at the home of Robert and Mary Cushen in Stone Mountain, Ga.

Mike, a talented musician, was the worship leader.

During Christmas 1977, one Monday evening, we took our students caroling from house to house. At one house, a woman who came to the door greeted us in broken English with a German accent.

Without missing a beat, Mike broke into what is probably the most beloved Christmas carol of all time singing in 'German,' 'Stille Nacht, Heilige Nacht' — 'Silent Night, Holy Night.'

Joseph Mohr and Franz Gruber's famous carol written in 1818, the song that stopped the fighting on the Western front, Christmas 1914, brought tears to the eyes of that German woman living in America and to our eyes as well. I can't help but think that we helped make her Christmas.

Who said we would never use our college foreign language again? What a precious Christmas memory I will always have!"

Birth Of Jesus In A Stable In Bethlehem

Luke 2

1 In those days a decree went out from Caesar
Augustus that all the world should be enrolled. 2 This was the first enrollment, when Quirin'i-us was governor of Syria. 3 And all went to be enrolled, each to his own city.
4 And Joseph also went up from Galilee, from the city of Nazareth, to Judea, to the city of David, which is called Bethlehem, because he was of the house and lineage of David, 5 to be enrolled with Mary, his betrothed, who was with child. 6 And while they were there, the time came for her to be delivered. 7 And she gave birth to her first-born son and wrapped him in swaddling cloths, and laid him in a manger, because there was no place for them in the inn.
8 And in that region there were shepherds out in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night. 9 And an angel of the Lord appeared to them, and the glory of the Lord shone around them, and they were filled with fear. 10 And the angel said to them, "Be not afraid; for behold, I bring you good news of a great joy which will come to all the people; 11 for to you is born this day in the city of David a Savior, who is Christ the Lord. 12 And this will be a sign for you: you will find a babe wrapped in swaddling cloths and lying in a manger." 13 And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God and saying, 14 "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace among men with whom he is pleased!" 15 When the angels went away from them into heaven, the shepherds said to one another, "Let us go over to Bethlehem and see this thing that has happened, which the Lord has made known to us." 16 And they went with haste, and found Mary and Joseph, and the babe lying in a manger. 17 And when they saw it they made known the saying which had been told them concerning this child; 18 and all who heard it wondered at what the shepherds told them. 19 But Mary kept all these things, pondering them in her heart.
20 And the shepherds returned, glorifying and praising God for all they had heard and seen, as it had been told them. 21 And at the end of elght days, when he was circumcised, he was called Jesus, the name given by the angel before he was conceived in the womb. 22 And when the time came for their purification according to the law of Moses, they brought him up to Jerusalem to present him to the Lord 23 (as it is written in the law of the Lord,
"Every male that opens the womb shall be called holy to the Lord") 24 and to offer a sacrifice according to what is said in the law of the Lord, "a pair of turtledoves, or two young pigeons." 25 Now there was a man in Jerusalem, whose name was Simeon, and this man was righteous and devout, looking for the consolation of Israel, and the Holy Spirit was upon him. 26 And it had been revealed to him by the Holy Spirit that he should not see death before he had seen the Lord's Christ. 27 And inspired by the Spirit he came into the temple; and when the parents brought in the child Jesus, to do for him according to the custom of the law, 28 he took him up in his arms and blessed God and said, 29 "Lord, now lettest thou thy servant depart in peace, according to thy word; 30 for mine eyes have seen thy salvation 31 which thou hast prepared in the presence of all peoples, 32 a light for revelation to the Gentiles, and for glory to thy people Israel." 33 And his father and his mother marveled at what was said about him; 34 and Simeon blessed them and said to Mary his mother, "Behold, this child is set for the fall and rising of many in Israel, and for a sign that is spoken against 35 (and a sword will pierce through your own soul also), that thoughts out of many hearts may be revealed."

Woman Upset With Attorney, Justice System

To the editor:

My name is Tammy Drake Brock. I am a resident of Davie County. On Nov. 10, I was in Superior Court for trafficking cocaine and possession with intent to manufacture, sell and deliver cocaine. I won't mention my attorney's name. I hired them to represent me on all the charges. The retainer fee was $3,750. My attorney lead me to believe that I could get out on probation or house arrest up until the September session of Superior Court. At that time, I was sent home by my attorney. They said they would contact me if I was needed anymore that week in court.

They called me back to court Thursday morning and came to me with a plea bargain that the district attorney was offering. It was to plead guilty to trafficking cocaine, which carried a sentence of 35-42 months mandatory, all other charges would be dismissed. My attorney advised me not to accept this plea bargain, that the district attorney would have at least two more plea arrangements in November.

I never knew about the plea bargain until that morning. So I returned back to court on Nov. 12.. My attorney called me into a conference room and told me that the district attorney was offering another plea bargain, which was worse than the first one in September. It was to plead guilty of trafficking cocaine and selling cocaine. They advised me to take this plea bargain because they no longer thought we could win the case, and that the plea bargain was better than going to trial and being found guilty by a jury and having to do seven years in prison.

I asked my attorney why they were being so hard on me. The attorney stated you're not being convicted for what you did, you're being convicted because of who you are married to. I told my attorney I wanted to fire them and get this case continued until I could retain a new attorney. I was told that it was either take the plea bargain or that they would go to trial that week with or without an attorney. Because this case had been on the docket too long, and that the district attorney and the detectives were mad because I wouldn't help them do their jobs and set someone else up so I wouldn't get an active sentence, just like I was set up, for something that I didn't do.

I don't think that it is right that a district attorney or a detective can ask someone to set somebody up. Why should we risk our lives or the lives of our children just to make their jobs easier? I fail to understand how they can possibly take someone who has been charged with a felony, and try to set someone like me up. They were charged with felony possession of cocaine, and because they allegedly set me up, they dropped the felony down to a misdemeanor and gave probation.

It's also not right that they can take someone charged with felony rape of a child and attempted crime against nature and issue a suspended sentence. That's what happened two weeks ago in Superior Court. What do you think is worse, someone selling drugs or someone raping our innocent children? I think it's pretty bad that our justice system is so confused. I honestly think it's time that we do something about the way justice is served. Thank you readers for taking the time to read my article. I hope that you feel the same way that I do.

Multiple Sclerosis Group Appreciative

To the editor:

The Davie County Multiple Sclerosis Support Group, chartered and recognized by the National Multiple Sclerosis Society, completed its 10th month since reorganization. This group consists of MS patients, their caregivers and other interested or affected friends or family.

While membership and attendance has grown, there are still many victims of this baffling and diverse disease in Davie and adjacent counties who would find much-needed support and information in attendance and participation at our regular monthly get-togethers. These meetings are held on the 2nd Monday at 6 p.m. They are usually held in the classroom at Davie County Hospital, but various social occasions are held and planned for different locations. Our first annual Christmas party was held Dec. 9. Thanks to the generous businesses and supporters during this first year. Your help is greatly needed and appreciated.

We hope our members and supporters will continue to spread the word to potential new members of our group who could give and receive valuable support and benefit from participation in our growth.

Thanks again to our members and supporters, and best wishes for a happy holiday season.

'Twas The Night Before Christmas

... and all through the county ...

'Twas the night before Christmas, when all through the town
Mocksville board members were wearing, an unusual frown.
Their stockings had been filled, their finances in great shape,
They had no idea, how they let him escape.
But across the street he scampered, his wallet in hand,
My name's Terry Bralley, and I'll help you if I can.
Mocksville is fine, and I'm not going to leave,
But this county job's a challenge, so please don't grieve.
No more mayor, no more police, no more cleaning of streets,
Now it's jails, social services and the hospital I'll keep.
East Davie needs sewer, and roads and a park,
There's so much to do, I don't know where to start.
When much to his wondering eyes did appear,
But five county commissioners, coming so near.
And he whistled and shouted and called out their names,
Now Ken! Now Richard! Now Bobby! On Michael! On Dan!
To the top of the building, keep up if you can.
So out the door and across Main Street they flew,
To Cooleemee, to Fork, to Farmington they grew.
This Bullhole should be a park, but don't ask the judge,
Because when we tell him our side, he never seems to budge.
The hospital is open, all night and all day
What is it that keeps, the patients away?
Houses, more houses and more houses they see
And they looked and they looked, but no industry.
You did it for Mocksville, they're all over the place,
Great Terry why not, an industry here with grace.
But wait, there's East Davie, oh what a headache
They need sewer and roads, no room for a mistake.
And the schools, omigosh, they're fuller than full
It's up to you now Terry, some opinions you'll pull.
Vote yes, vote yes, vote yes you'll make them do
Because if they don't, we'll be in a mess, oh shoo!
He was tall and lanky, and thinning on the top
And they laughed when they saw him, couldn't seem to stop.
With a wink of his eye and a twist of his head
He let them all know, there was nothing to dread.
He spoke manager speak, and went straight to his work
And filled all their stockings, then turned with a jerk.
And laying a finger aside of his nose
And giving a nod, back to town he rose.
He sprang to his desk, telephone in hand
And said it's so great, to live in this land.
But I heard him exclaim, ere he turned out the light
Merry Christmas to all, and to all a good night!

Christmas Memories Almost Always Are The Favorites

Julie Leonard of Mocksville e-mailed me this.

"I have so many Christmas memories, I could never pick just one. However, my greatest and happiest Christmas memories are the family get-togethers at Mamaw's house, and the special times my mom and I spent decorating the tree and wrapping presents.

Every Christmas Eve, our family would gather around the Christmas tree and read the Christmas Story and sing Christmas carols. I remember getting up Christmas morning and standing in front of the Christmas tree, just taking it all in.

I loved to watch Mom and Dad open their gifts and seeing the smiles on everyone's face. I am married now, and this will be the first Christmas I spend with my new husband.

Hopefully, this year, new memories — wonderful memories — will be made along with the old. Santa will still be coming, so I still may have to try to catch a peek!"

I called to get more information from Louise Smith Pierce, who lives in the Smith Grove community, about her favorite Christmas memory. Her son, Tim, who also lives in Smith Grove with his family, helped me out as well.

It happened in 1969 during the Vietnam War.

Tim was in service on the U.S.S. Boston gunship which patrolled along the coastline of Vietnam. He was among the Marines manning the guns to protect the ship from enemy fire.

With only two months to go until his service was up, Tim wasn't expected to come home to Davie County until February, and his mother and the rest of the family were facing a lonely holiday without him.

"That was the first Christmas he would have been gone from home," Louise said, "We knew that up until February, he would be in danger."

Tim had already lost his best friend, Spurgeon Goss, to the Vietnam War.

Louise had several presents for Tim, the second of her three children and her only son, under the tree. She planned to keep it up until he came home in two months, and the blackberry jam cake he liked so much was aging in the refrigerator.

"I had been sending things in the mail," she said, "but I couldn't send the jam cake because I put it together with whipped cream and the whipped cream has to age."

On Christmas Eve that year, Louise and her then-husband, Fred Smith, were waiting on their oldest daughter, Kay, to get home from work at College Village Beauty Shop in Winston-Salem so they could have dinner together. It was around 6 when Kay arrived home.

"She came in with a very straight face," her mother said, "and said that she had a Christmas present she couldn't get in without our help. So we went out to help her, and there he stood.

"It was unbelievable. He was our Christmas present. The joy I felt can only be felt by mothers who have seen their sons and daughters return from war safely. There were lots of hugs and tears and thankfulness to the Lord."

Once he realized he was going to make it home in time for Christmas, Tim said he decided to try and surprise his family. "I really don't remember how I got from Norfolk, Va., to here," he said, "but I did."

Tim had someone drop him off at College Village Beauty Shop, where he surprised his sister, then rode the rest of the way home with her. "Everybody was real happy to see me," he said. "We spent Christmas together, and then I had to go back."

Louise said she'll never forget how tickled Tim was to get his favorite cake. "He refused to share it with anyone," she said, "and he almost gorged on it."

Both she and Tim recalled the time she had mailed a blackberry jam cake to him while he was in service. Louise said she made the mistake of sending a jar of peanut butter in the package with it, and the jar got broken en route and the pieces of glass got mixed in with the cake.

But that didn't stop Tim and his buddies from eating it.

"We just started eating it with our hands," he said. "We'd chew it a while, and we'd spit out the glass. That was the only way we could separate the glass from the cake."

The Christmas of 1969, though, Tim said he ate so much blackberry jam cake that he didn't want anymore for about five years. "Now I love it again," he said.

Through the years, Louise said she has relied on the memory of that very special Christmas to get her through the holidays when tragedy has struck her family.

Stan Tuttle, the husband of her youngest daughter, Dianna, was killed in a car accident in 1978 just two weeks before the birth of their third child. Two years later, Louise's husband, Fred, was killed by a bull on their dairy farm.

"You take it like it comes," she said. "The blessings outweigh the trials. I just stay focused, and the family stays focused on the positives and not the negatives."

Louise and her family have already had a blackberry jam cake this year, but when I asked her, she was willing to share the recipe with our readers. I figured anything good enough to risk eating glass for must be worth trying.

The recipe, handed down to Louise from her grandmother, Bettie Tucker, is as follows:

2 cups sugar
3 eggs
3 cups flour
6 tablespoons sour milk or buttermilk
2 teaspoons of baking soda dissolved in the milk
2 cups homemade blackberry jam (Louise said bought jam just doesn't work well.)
1 cup raisins
1 cup English walnuts
1 cup butter or margarine
Any and all kinds of spices to suit taste
4 pints of whipping cream

Mix all ingredients except for the milk, baking soda and whipping cream. Add the soda and milk. Bake at 350 degrees, and be careful not to overbake. Spread whipping cream on the bottom, between the layers and on top.

"The whole cake must age from two to three weeks," Louise said, "and it's even better after four weeks."

Marie White of the Four Corners community dropped by a memory about the year her father, L.S. Shelton Sr., gave her and each of her six brothers and sisters an oil lamp with the words, "Home Sweet Home" written on the globe. I called her to find out more details.

It was at least 25 years ago, she said, because her father died in 1980. "The lamp is on my mantel at home and every time I look at it, I think of him," she said. "It's a precious memory."

One year, Marie said her father gave each of the grandchildren Bibles. "It's kind of unique for a man to do that kind of stuff," she said. "Women usually do that, you know."

All seven of the Shelton siblings are still living, Marie said, and they still get together every year for Easter, Thanksgiving and Christmas. They take turns having the gatherings at their different houses, starting with the oldest and ending with the youngest.

This year, they'll be having Christmas at the home of the oldest sibling, Helena Craft, in Winston-Salem. Marie, who is next to the oldest, will host the family's Easter meal next year.

"All of us take dishes," Marie said. "Mama always cooked the turkey, and that's what I fix."

Their mother, Abbie Baity Shelton, died in May of 1975, five months after she and her husband celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary. She was 75 when she died, and he was 80.

Marie will turn 75 in January, and she's just completed her 57th year operating her beauty shop on Avon Street. "I still enjoy it," she said, "and they don't want me to quit."

Karen Draughn of Deadmon Road shared this moving Christmas memory with me over the telephone while recuperating from gallbladder surgery.

It was 1995, her last Christmas with her husband, Wayne. He had gone into Forsyth Medical Center that September with heart and kidney failure and hadn't been able to come home until almost Thanksgiving.

Every year, Karen said they would talk about what kind of Christmas tree to get. Wayne liked white pines, and she liked Frasier firs. "I always gave in to him," she said, and they would end up with a white pine.

But that year, when Wayne suggested that they go get a tree before he had to go back into the hospital, Karen said he picked out a Frasier fir.

"He had seen a Christmas tree using lace as the garland," she said, "and he thought it was so pretty. He wanted me to use lace as the garland that year, and I did."

Wayne put the tree in a stand, but they didn't have time to decorate it before he had to go back into the hospital.

"So every day when I came home from the hospital," Karen said, "I put a few decorations on it. I used nothing but different kinds of angels that year."

Not knowing if Wayne would make it home for the holiday, she said she started decorating his hospital room as well.

But Karen said he really wanted to come home. "He loved Christmas and spending time with family so much," she said. "He started begging his doctors to let him come home."

That year, Karen's Rowan County family was getting together on the Sunday before Christmas, and Wayne convinced them to have it at their home on Calahaln Road. That way, he could go in the bedroom and lie down if he needed to.

"Everybody came, and he just really enjoyed it," she said. Before saying the blessing, Karen said the 30 family members held hands and intertwined through the kitchen, den and living room while they listened to the Vince Gill Christmas song, "Until This Time Next Year."

"Then after we had the blessing," she said, "we turned, hugged and told each other how much we loved each other. We just had a great day that day."

On the night of Christmas Eve, Karen said Wayne wasn't feeling well at all, but he insisted on going with her to the Christmas program at Ijames Baptist Church.

"And he got his family to go with him," she said. "He wanted to go because that was the first time that he was getting to go to church as a newborn Christian."

Even though he was still sick the next morning, Karen said Wayne got up and fixed a huge breakfast for her and her sons, Bryan and Kevin Huff, and his son, Marty Draughn, and his wife, Trish, and their daughter, Brittany.

Later, when they exchanged gifts, Karen said she found out Wayne had managed to do his Christmas shopping from his hospital bed. He surprised her with a gold Noah's Ark bracelet and a new radio system for her kitchen and a cabinet to put it in.

She said she still treasures the gifts today. A week after Christmas, Wayne returned to the hospital for the last time.

He died there on Feb. 2, 1996, at age 50.

The Rev. Joe Woodward called while I was working on this story to ask for the address of my brother, Keith, in Texas. He had just returned from deer hunting with Keith on a ranch he leases in south Texas, and wanted to send him a thank-you card. I gave him the address, then asked for his favorite Christmas memory.

That's a tough question, Joe said. He said he had just thought about that very thing the day before while reading a passage by Dr. David Jeremiah in preparation for an upcoming sermon.

Joe left his veterinary practice in Clemmons a few years back to go into the ministry and has since started Rock Hill Baptist Church on N.C. Highway 801.

I tried to help him out, recalling the Christmas I sat with him on the back row during the annual Christmas Eve program at Ijames Baptist Church. His girlfriend, Sherry Pardue, was in the program, and Joe had told me he was going to give her a necklace that night.

Their relationship had just started to get serious, and that was his first real gift to her. I remembered how nervous he was and how I tried to reassure him that she would love it. She did, of course, and they're still happily married today.

Sherry was talking the other night about her favorite Christmas memory, Joe said. It was when Santa would pass out goodies after the Christmas Eve program.

"He never brought anything but a bag with a piece of peppermint in it and an apple and an orange and maybe a piece of chocolate," he recalled, "but it was exciting. We were all up there anticipating him coming in."

Joe said his favorite Christmas memories are of his mother, Mary Blackwelder Woodward, who died a few years back.

"She really enjoyed Christmas," he said. "She tried to get everybody what they wanted or needed, and she put a lot of effort into that.

"She couldn't wait to give us our presents, and she got so much joy out of watching us open them."

Afterward, Joe said she would ask questions like, "Is it the right color? Does it fit? Is that what you wanted?"

His father, Jack, would say: "We drove 500 miles to get that," Joe said. "So he was the driver and Mama, she didn't stop at the first store. She'd keep going until she found what she wanted.

"Mama had a way of making you feel loved, and she showed a lot of it in the way she gave."

She instilled that in her children. "Still today, I'd rather see somebody open a gift that I've given them than to open one myself," Joe said.

After talking with Joe, I tried to think of my favorite Christmas memory. I decided it wasn't as easy as I thought.

Over the years, the memories start to blend together. It's sort of like taking the pictures in a family album and mixing them together in a collage.

In some of my Christmas memories, I am a child, unwrapping presents on Christmas morning. In one, my brother, Keith, and I are wearing these ridiculous-looking, red-and-white striped pajamas with matching Santa hats.

In others, Keith and I are older, and stand back with amusement as our younger brother, Bryan, runs to see what Santa has left under the tree. And in more recent memories, it is his daughter, Amanda, who we all watch open her presents.

Many of the memories are of people we have loved and lost, our grandparents, both sets, our mother, our uncle, our aunts, our father. Especially our father, who was born on Christmas day 65 years ago this year.

This will be our second Christmas without him, and I expect we'll still look around to see why he's not joining us at the dinner table or to open the presents under the tree.

Then we'll remember, and a jolt of pain will run through our hearts, so deep and so raw that tears are likely to spill from our eyes, so fast and unexpectedly that we'll have to step out of the room.

But we'll return, red eyes and all, and go on celebrating. For as Louise Smith Pierce put it, "you take it like it comes."

And you go on making memories.

100 Attend Annual Cana Bazaar

By Edwina Barney
Club Secretary

The Cana Extension and Community Association hosted its 33rd Annual Christmas Bazaar on Saturday, Dec. 14, with 100 people at the historic Cana School.

Many who attended school at Cana visit during this time, including Bill Angell, Walter Etchison, Ruby Leagans, Edwin Boger, Nelda Brown, Fay Rich, and Betty West. Many neighbors, friends and family come back year after year to visit, shop and reminiscence.

When shoppers entered, they were greeted by Ruby Leagans. The building is warm and toastie thanks to the fires built by Lewis Beck in the two wood burning stoves.

Betty Smith, Grace Forrest, Sue Ireland and Christy Boger helped shoppers with choices from the selection of homemade cakes, pies, cookies, candies, and canned goods made by club members.

Ruth Essie registered shoppers for the door prizes donated by Tina Phelps, Diane Ireland, and Betty Smith. Tina Phelps and Susan Cujas served shoppers hot wassail and cookies as they shopped among the selection of arts and crafts.

Members met at Vada Beck's home the day of the ice storm and made 23 batches by former member Miss Mosa Eaton's recipe. She started a great tradition. Brent Boger donated several bowls, flower boxes and utensils made in his wood shop. Eugene Hunter, blacksmith, donated iron hooks and a copper ladle.

Shoppers were assisted by Chip Essie and Brenda Hunter who clipped and helped select fresh greenery for decorating. Yule logs made by Ruth Essie and fresh boxwood wreaths made by club members were a big hit. There were several purchases made from the bargain table where shoppers never knew what treasures they would find.

Cashiers Edina Barney and Diane Ireland moved shoppers through as quickly as possible while enjoying meeting new shoppers and seeing familiar faces. Karen Price and Susanna Beauchamp assisted greatly by helping shoppers take their purchases to their cars.

The members of the Cana ECA would like to thank everyone who came this year and supported this event which helps us maintain this historic landmark in our community and five to projects we support during each year. Our club has many programs. If you would like to join, call the Cooperative Extension Office for details. The club meets the 4th Thursday of each month at the Cana School.

Big Sister Millie Fulton reads a book with Little Sister Tekka.

Make A Difference

More Big Brothers/Sisters Needed To Bond With Davie Children

This holiday season consider giving the gift of friendship by votunteering at Big Brothers Big Sisters Services, a Davie County United Way agency.

Millie Fulton became a Big Sister in August and has been providing the gift of friendship to her Little Sister Tekka. They spend a little time together once per week and do a variety of activities.

They saw the movie Jonah, baked a cake, and attended a cook-out. One of the things they really like to do is to attend plays and performances at the Brock Performing Arts Center. The Arts Council provides discount tickets to Big Brothers Big Sisters which makes it makes it possible for Millie to take Tekka on a regular basis.

They recently attended a Christmas parade and then went to dinner at Applebees.

On another occasion they went roller skating with Millie's church group.

"I really enjoy being a Big Sister," says Fulton, a full-time employee at Mocksville Elementary School. "I encourage others to get invovled and help some of our youth in the community. Sometimes we do things during the week, and sometimes on weekends - it just depends on the event and also my free time."

Dr. Regina Graham, the agency coordinator who matches volunteers with children on the waiting list said, "We are always looking for role models in the community to become Big Brothers and Big Sisters. The children in our program need someone who can strengthen their self esteem and expose the children to new ideas.

"Our program has grown since opening the Davie office in 1999, and we are pleased to have 17 Big Brother Big Sister matches, but there are many more children who need a mentor."

Matches are made based upon the personalities and interests of the volunteer and the child to ensure compatibility. Volunteers are asked to spend time with their Little Brother or Sister each week so that the friendship can grow and be a meaningful relationship for the child.

Another way to give of your time is to become a Big Buddy in the agency's after-school program at local YMCA sites.

"At first this started off as a Freshmen Success assignment," Monica said, "but I enjoyed it a lot and wanted to continue." This year Monica is matched with Merideth-Ann, a second grader.

After school, Monica and Merideth-Ann enjoy such activities as reading books that Monica brings from home, or playing in the game room. Monica also assists Meridith-Ann with homework and they enjoy playing racquetball together.

"I have to make time for it because I'm very busy," Monica said. She is chair of the Davie Youth Council, and is a member of HOSA, the YMCA Task Force, and Crosby Scholars.

One reason why Monica volunteers her time is because the friendship gives the Little Buddies some security. "Even when things are bad, there's always something good also."

Monica's commitment to help others will continue throughout her life as she plans to join the National Guard in 2003 and upon high school graduation, she wants to go to college and earn a degree in nursing.

"I've gained some good friends by volunteering in the Big Buddy program," Monica said. "I've also learned how much people are affected by what you do."

If you would like to make a difference in a child's life, contact the Davie County office of Big Brothers Big Sisters Services at 751-9906.

Merry Christmas in Heaven

Moma & Daddy, it has been since December 1999 we lost you. Moma, you left us on December 1, 1999 and Daddy, you left us on December 29, 1999. It does not seem to me yet that you've been gone that long. Our dear Lord needed two special angels in Heaven and He selected you. These years gone by have truly been lonely without you. Both of you were wonderful parents, always loving, caring and giving to all of us children – myself, Pat, Carroll and Tommy, and to all your relatives and friends. God blessed us with you for so many wonderful years filled with love, fun, laughter and great memories. Moma and Daddy, we hold you in our hearts and we will always love you. I cannot imagine a better Christmas than spending Christmas in Heaven. Merry Christmas to both of you there in Heaven. I hope to join you there some beautiful day.

Love, your daughter,
Rosemary

Notice of TAX LISTING FOR DAVIE COUNTY

All property on hand January 1, 2003 both real and personal is subject to taxation regardless of age and sex of owner.

You are no longer required to list motor vehicles which are currently LICENSED with the North Carolina Department of Motor Vehicles. These vehicles will be billed by the County after the current registration is renewed or an application is made for a new registration. About three months after your registration renewal you will receive a bill from the County. You will have 30 days to pay the bill before interest is added at the rate of 2% the first month past due and 3/4 of 1% thereafter.

Taxpayers must list UNLICENSED vehicles not licensed on January 1, 2003 DURING THE REGULAR LISTING PERIOD. There is no change in the listing requirements for those vehicles. Other property required to be listed in January include: mobile homes, boats and motors, jet skis, aircraft, farm equipment used to produce income, tools used by carpenters and mechanics, all assets and supplies of businesses, furnishings owned and rented by a landlord.

Taxpayers should report any new buildings or any improvements built on real estate, or any changes to real estate to the Tax Office.

The Tax Administrator's Office will be sending listing forms to everyone that listed personal property in 2002. If you need to list personal property as indicated above or report changes to real property and you do not receive a form in the mail, please contact the Tax Administrator's Office for the proper forms.

ELDERLY OR DISABLED APPLICANTS
MUST BE AGE 65 OR PERMANENTLY DISABLED TO APPLY

North Carolina excludes from property taxes the greater of twenty thousand dollars ($20,000) or fifty percent (50%) in appraised value of a permanent residence owned and occupied by North Carolina residents age 65 or older whose income does not exceed $18,500; or totally, and/or permanently disabled whose income does not exceed $18,500. Income means the owners adjusted gross income as determined for federal income tax purposes, plus all money received from every source other than gifts of inheritances received from a spouse, lineal ancestor or lineal descendant. For married applicants residing with their spouse, the income of both spouses must be included whether or not the property is in both names. If you received this exclusion in 2002 you do not need to apply again unless you have changed your permanent residence. If you received this exclusion in 2002 and your income last year was above eighteen thousand five hundred ($18,500), you must notify the assessor. If you received the exclusion in 2002 because you were totally and permanently disabled and you are no longer totally and permanently disabled, you must notify the assessor. If the person receiving the exclusion has died, the person required by law to list the property must notify the assessor. Failure to make any of the notices required by this paragraph before June 1st will result in penalties and interest. If you did not receive the exclusion in 2002 but are now eligible, you may obtain a copy of an application from the assessor.
It must be filed by June 1.

Listing will begin January 2, 2003 in the Tax Administrator's Office in the County Administration Building. Office listing help is available Jan. 2-31, 2003. Hours will be 8:30 A.M. to 5:00 P.M. Monday thru Friday. The deadline for listing is January 31, 2003. Completed forms must be postmarked by the U.S. Postal Service not later than January 31, 2003. All late listings are subject to a 10% penalty. Please list early to avoid a late penalty.

Davie Boys Finally Run Out Of Magic

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

Davie's varsity boys were probably due for a clunker.

Their sixth game was different than their first five. They heard a lot more groans than cheers as their dramatic unbeaten streak finally came to an end. A 57-50 defeat at Alexander Central stopped the War Eagles' momentum heading into the Sam Moir Christmas Classic (Dec. 27, 28, 30) at Catawba College, but it couldn't overshadow what they have achieved in nonconference play.

"Still, for the first six games, I feel good about where we're at," Coach Mike Absher said. "We try to break it down and this was season No. 1. And to come out of it 5-1, we feel pretty good about that. It'll be interesting to see how we play in the Christmas tournament, which will be another mini-season for us."

The Moir features five Rowan County teams and Davie. West Rowan is unbeaten. South Rowan, North Rowan, Salisbury and East Rowan all have at least two losses, and thus the War Eagles are locked in the No. 2 seed, giving them a first-round bye on Dec. 27.

The War Eagles fell for the first time because of abysmal shooting. Alexander Central (4-2) was only slightly better, but Davie went 17-for-59 from the field (29 percent), 2-of-21 from 3-point range and 14-of-24 (58 percent) from the foul line.

It was 23-23 at halftime, but the War Eagles had no chance of remaining unbeaten in a crucial third quarter in which it missed 13 of 15 field goals and went five-plus minutes without a point.

"The good thing is it was not bad shots," Absher said. "We just didn't make them, and they made just enough shots to open up a lead. If we hadn't defended well during that time, it could have gotten really ugly really quick."

After that third-quarter dry spell, Davie turned up the defense and managed to put together a spurt that chopped a 15-point fourth-quarter deficit to five with 18 seconds left.

"We didn't shoot well, but again we rebounded pretty well and played defense, which still gave us a chance to win at the end," Absher said. "Alexander Central ran their offense much better than they did (in Davie's 47-45 win on Nov. 25). If we would have taken bad shots during that third quarter, that would have been one thing. But the fact that we were getting good shots and they just didn't go in, that's basketball."

Micah Garner led Davie's scoring for the third straight time with 16 points and had five assists to one turnover. Luke Phelps produced his second double-double with 11 points and 10 rebounds, and 6-7 sophomore center Clifford Burns pulled down 12 rebounds and blocked two shots as Davie outrebounded AC 33-26.

But the bright spots ended there.

"The scary part about Burns is he had 12 boards and sat five or six minutes between the end of the third and the fourth," Absher said. "Per minutes, he did a great job on the boards."

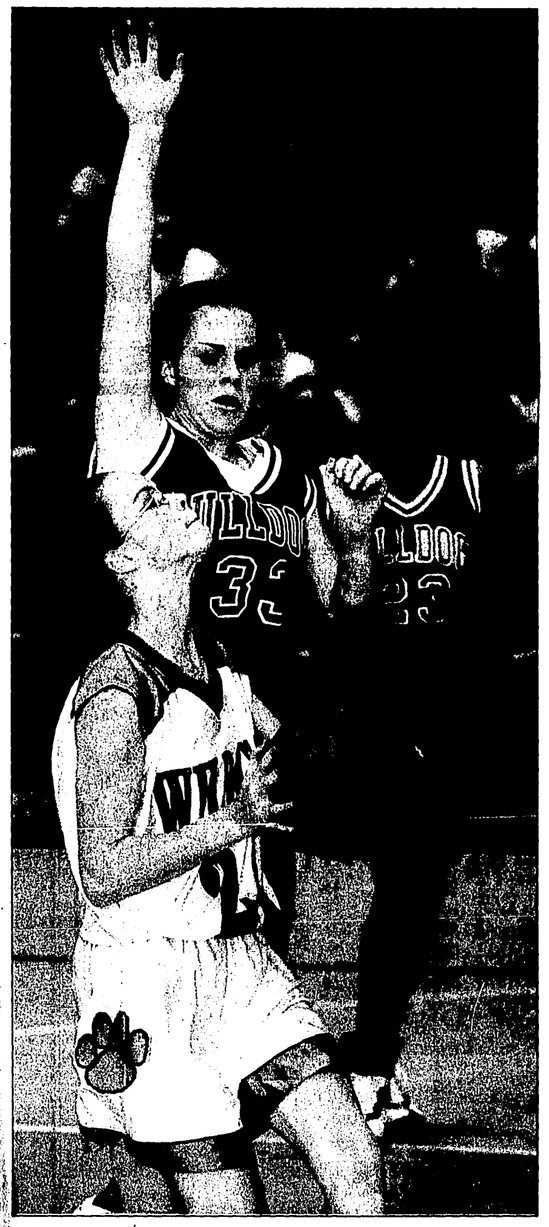

Burns picked up his fourth foul in the third, and Davie consequently lost the quarter 16-5. "Defensively it hurt us when he had to come out. They took advantage of it inside," he said.

Notes: Garner, a 5-9 senior playing point, offguard and small forward, has delivered 10, 14, 20, 13 and 16 points. "He's getting in the paint and drawing fouls, and he's pretty strong when he finishes," Absher said. "And he's been making his open jump shots." ... Davie had won five games by an average margin of 62-58, and no game has been decided by more than nine points. ... After the Moir tournament, Davie plays at home to West Rowan on Jan. 3 and at home against Mount Tabor on Jan. 7. The CPC opener is Jan. 10.

Alexander Central 57, Davie 50 – Micah Garner 16, Luke Phelps 11, Nick Nelson 8, Patrick Law 6, Clifford Burns 4, Brian Hunter 5.

Good, But Not Good Enough

Davie Girls 5-1; Still Lacking Polish

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

Davie's varsity girls basketball team has been good, not great. Good has been good enough to go 5-1, including last week's 60-43 victory at Alexander Central.

But things get tougher from here. The War Eagles have until this weekend to get their game clicking for the Sam Moir Christmas Classic at Catawba College (Dec. 27, 28, 30), and they clearly have a lot of work to do if they're going to conquer the wide-open tournament for the second time in three years.

"We're still not playing the way we're capable," Coach Karen Stephens said after hot-and-cold Davie warmed up in time to post its fifth double-figure win. "(19) turnovers are still way too many, and we're making them at times when there's no pressure.

"We played the way we're capable at key times, but we still haven't put four quarters together. Two of their kids had 18 points apiece, and that's two sophomores."

Stephens hoped to have a different team from the one that, three days earlier, was as bad as could be in a 60-46 loss at Statesville. She was so upset she shuffled the lineup and started freshman Carly Booth and sophomores Alyson Walker and Nicole Mareaday with two regular starters, junior Allison Schafer and senior Heather McDaniel.

The move had positive results, although Davie led just 27-25 at halftime.

"I think when those key kids went in, they played really hard offensively and defensively and gave us what we were asking," the first-year Davie coach said. "Sometimes when you get used to being in the limelight or the starting group, you get a little lax and don't necessarily feel like you have to play up to what you're capable."

Still, the War Eagles' struggles at Statesville carried over to AC. They shot 28 percent in the first half (7-of-25) and managed a halftime lead only because they made 13 of 15 free throws.

Unbeatens Dwindle, But North Davie Wrestling Romps To 8-0

For most wrestling teams, 37 wins in 45 individual matches is reason to have a pizza party. For North Davie, it's reason to go back to the drawing board.

On the scoreboard, it looked like every other match between North Davie and whoever when the Wildcats disposed of Kannapolis 69-18, West Rowan 84-6 and China Grove 63-21. But on the mat, six matches looked nothing like what Coach Ron Kirk is used to seeing from his parade of stars.

North carried nine unbeatens into the sixth match, but six of them went down before the eighth one was complete. North still overwhelmed the competition with waves of talent, but when the Wildcats settle for 40-point wins, they walk away unfulfilled.

"It'll either make or break them," Kirk said. "They'll either suck it up and get back where they need to be or they'll start sliding down. It could play on their minds different ways."

North is in another league, which makes it news when certain guys lose.

Against Kannapolis, Michael Murphy and Josh Miller were 5-0 before losing for the first time. Against West Rowan, Sam Curtis was 6-0 before losing for the first time. And against China Grove, Adam McIlwain, Kevin Boehm and Mark Huggins were 7-0 before losing for the first time.

"Miller and Murphy didn't wrestle bad. They were leading whenever they got pinned. They just made some mistakes and got caught. Other than that we wrestled about like we did against North Rowan (in a 90-0 win)," Kirk said.

"Sam was winning 6-3 and got rolled over and pinned (against West Rowan). And we had three people (McIlwain, Boehm and Huggins) undefeated who got beat (by China Grove), and we felt like we could beat all three of them if we'd been on our toes."

McIlwain is 24-2 in two years, with both losses coming to 2001-02 conference champion Jacob Hill of China Grove.

"McIlwain wrestled like he did last year, trying not to get beat instead of being offensive," Kirk said. "There's hardly any matches we've lost that we couldn't win."

The Wildcats dominate so easily and decide outcomes so early, they welcomed Kannapolis making it to the second period in six of 12 matches. Murphy had his mettle tested against West Rowan's 171-pounder, and responded with a second-period pin.

Tiger Wrestlers Answer Challenge

South Davie's wrestling team has had two tough matches. Against China Grove on Dec. 3 and Southeast on Dec. 10, the Tigers were forced to dig in more than usual and were knocked down often.

But both battles ended the same way the last 24 have - with South smiling.

"This was their chance," said Coach Howard Riddle, whose team slipped past China Grove 42-35 and Southeast 47-36. "I don't think they'll see me score 40 next year. I don't want to be boastful, but with the seventh graders I've got, Southeast and China Grove had their chance this year, and I don't think they'll get that chance again.

"We were short a man (Derek Abendroth) who's going to be a starter the rest of the year, and he could have made a difference against both of those. They gave it their best shot and came up a little short. It shows how bad we wanted to win."

Last week the Tigers drilled Lake Shore 79-6, knocked out Southeast 47-36 before the Patriots could reach the meat of its order, and rolled over Erwin 60-27.

What Riddle's accomplished with a predominate seventh-grade lineup can't be overstated. South (8-0 overall, 4-0 Mid-South Conference) has won 24 straight overall, 56 straight against everyone outside of North Davie and 56 of 57.

"It means something to them," said Riddle, who is 58-12 with four conference championships in his sixth year as head coach. "They realize we've been winning for awhile and it's important to keep winning to build up that tradition. They know what it's about. They know Davie County wrestling's

Combining all individual records, North (8-0 overall, 4-0 Mid-South Conference) has 104 wins to 16 losses, a staggering .866 winning percentage. The three who continued their quest for perfect seasons by improving to 8-0 were Chris Ange, Brandon Stewart and Daniel Gough.

"Stewart was tied at one time (before pinning Kannapolis at 140)," Kirk said. "We had several go to the third period and our conditioning just outlasted them. Scores weren't real close, but at least we were wrestling late in the match.

"Murphy's match was the best one because that (West Rowan) kid was conference champion last year at 160. He came out against Murphy like a ball of fire and was gassed after about a minute and a half, and Murphy stuck it to him."

Notes: Ethan Curtis, Patrick O'Connor, Josh Dixon, Sam Curtis, Boehm, Huggins, Murphy and Miller are 7-1; Zac Gentry is 6-1; Bennett Shipman is 5-1; and Josh Hartman is 4-3. ... After breaking for the holidays, North is at home to Southeast on Jan. 7 and at co-MSC leader South Davie on Jan. 9. ... Evan Criseo, Joel Barnett, Justin Smith, Ben Hinson and Josh Riddle had prelim pins against West Rowan, and Justin Tesh, James Kuell and Taylor Evans picked up prelim wins against China Grove.

8-0 Record Pushes South To Showdown With North

about winning and that's all there is to it. It's not about doing the best you can. It's about doing the best you can and winning."

A little over three weeks ago, China Grove rallied to 36-35 and was in position to force a second-place tie, then bowed out 42-35.

In South's second big test, against Southeast, the Tigers again delivered when they had to. Behind Floyd Collins, Matt Harrison, Jessie Cousins, Craig Brown, Adam Sipe, James Wilson, Kirston Angell and Sean Watkins, the Tigers took eight of the first 10 matches, forged a 47-9 lead and wrapped things up before Southeast could send out its horses.

Southeast grabbed the last five for 27 uninterrupted points, but the damage had been done.

"We started at a good place as far as momentum," Riddle said. "I think this gets us back to (unbeaten) North Davie (for another winner-take-all showdown). You don't want to overlook anybody, but I feel like we can get back to North Davie undefeated now."

The Erwin match opened in the upper weights, where South is vulnerable, and the Eagles took advantage by rushing in front 18-0. Collins, though, pounded out a first-period pin at 83, which ignited a 60-9 onslaught.

"They jumped on us," Riddle said. "It's been a long time since I was down 18-0, and it was quick, too. It was 18-0 before we got started good. But they knew what they had to do."

For the year, Collins and Brown are 8-0; Angell is 7-0; Harrison, Cousins and Watkins are 7-1; Caleb Creason and Brandon Jones are 6-1; Wilson is 5-2; Sipe is 5-3; Jessie Frye and Jesse Crotts are 4-4; and Jessie Bateman is 2-1.

"Angell, Brown and Harrison are starting to really take over as second-year eighth graders. They've really kind of carried us as far as leadership," he said. "Jones has done a good job. He was a manager last year and he's been around. Collins and Cousins have pulled out some big wins. Cousins hasn't lost since the first match, and Wilson is improving."

The Tigers added more beef to their lineup last week. Abendroth, who missed the first four matches while out of town and spent the next three working his way into the lineup, is a conference-champion contender at 152 who debuted with a first-period pin against Erwin. Last year he went 11-4 with nine pins.

"Abendroth can add another dimension to the lineup," Riddle said. "He could be a 12-point difference."

Notes: While South gained Abendroth, it lost 7-0 Angell. He'll sit out two matches before returning for North Davie. ... South has outscored everyone but China Grove and Southeast by a score of 410-111. ... Barring a major upset, North Davie and South Davie will finish 1-2 for the fifth straight year. ... South is off until Jan. 7, when it goes to Knox. It hosts North Davie on Jan. 9. ... In preliminary action, D.J. Garrison went 2-0 against Lake Shore and Southeast, while Chris Brogdon, Josh Britt, Chris Wensil and Jr. Payne went 1-0.

Erwin Steals A Pair From South Basketball

Both South Davie basketball teams appeared prime for victory as they held fourth-quarter leads last week at Erwin, but their inspired efforts ultimately went to waste.

Todd Bumgarner's girls held a late four-point lead before losing 29-26, while Tim Devericks' boys let a nine-point advantage disappear in a 40-36 defeat.

"You feel for your team when you play that hard, execute good enough to win and the ball doesn't bounce your way," Bumgarner, South's girls coach, said.

South (3-3 overall, 2-2 Mid-South Conference) could smell a third straight win, leading 25-22 with 75 seconds left. But after trailing most of the way, Erwin responded with a 7-1 run and prevented the Tigers from getting off a potential tying 3-pointer in the dying seconds.

"Every game we've lost has been on the road at tough places - Knox, West Rowan and Erwin," Bumgarner said. "And those are the three best teams we've played."

While Meisha Fowler paced South's scoring for the sixth time with 11 points, Tekaira Gaither (six points) had a big game cooking before getting saddled with fouls.

"That's the best Gaither's looked," Bumgarner said. "She had four points in the first two minutes and then got in foul trouble."

South's boys (1-5, 1-3 MSC) seemed as if they were going to overcome Shawn Eagle's heroics and grab a breakthrough win. They controlled Eagle, who ripped North Davie for 37 points, about as well as could be expected. Although he amassed 24 points, 12 rebounds, four steals and made 6-of-6 free throws, South led by nine in the third quarter.

"I thought our boys played their best game," said Bumgarner, who analyzed the game for Devericks, who left for Cleveland, Ohio, to visit family. "They executed well, made extra passes, made open shots and ran the offense."

If only the Tigers could have closed the deal. Erwin fought back, knocked down a tiebreaking 3-pointer with a minute to go and escaped when South's 3-point attempt for a tie rimmed out with 12 seconds left.

Matt Van Hoy led with nine points, Colby Seaford hit two 3s for eight points and Sonny Stanley and Clint Howell added six each.

"Van Hoy's leadership on the court was super. He knocked down open shots and played good defense," Bumgarner said. "Seaford had a good game. Howell had a good defensive game. Stanley probably had his best game, and Darius Hall had about four blocked shots and rebounded well."

Eric Lowery only scored two, but as usual he contributed heavily in subtle ways.

"He sees the floor as good as any young player I've seen in a while," Bumgarner said. "He's not real flashy, but he gets the pass where it needs to be and he sets a lot of his teammates up."

South plays at home to Knox on Jan. 7 and at North Davie on Jan. 9.

Schafer, Williams, Singleton Outscore AC By Themselves

"Everybody went in and gave a good effort," Stephens said. "We made mistakes and did things we need to work on, but at least they gave the effort."

Davie shook off the lackluster first half and got nearly everything right in the third quarter, blowing the game open with a 20-7 run for a 47-32 lead.

"We played our best defense in the third," Stephens said. "We tried a few different defenses back and forth - fullcourt press and also zone fullcourt."

Davie shot a sizzling 14-of-21 in the second half, and the catalyst was Schafer, who made eight of 12 attempts and led the way with 17 points. If Schafer plays as she did in the first, second and sixth games, when she averaged 17 points, the War Eagles will be much tougher to stop when they try to defend their Central Piedmont Conference championship.

But she's been up and down, averaging 6.7 points in the third, fourth and fifth games.

"She's a good athlete," Stephens said of the 5-10 guard/forward. "What we need to work on is her consistency. She stepped up and did things we needed in order to take control. She penetrated and got some putbacks. She has to take up the slack some with Brittany (Walker) out and handle the ball some also."

Schafer Williams Singleton

Sarah Williams and Dawn Singleton also gave AC fits. Guard/forward Williams collected 15 points, six rebounds, four assists and made 7-of-8 free throws, while center Singleton piled up 12 points, six rebounds, four blocks, four assists and three steals.

"We play Williams at so many different positions," Stephens said. "We have to have her (5-10) height inside, and at the same time with Brittany being hurt, we've had to move her around to two and three also. She's making a lot of adjustments out there and doing a good job."

Singleton, who hit 4-of-6 field goals and 4-of-4 foul shots, did her damage despite an injured left wrist that may bother her all season.

"Dawn's just playing with an injury," Stephens said. "I'm still concerned with the pain she's having with it. But she feels like if she goes to the doctor she might be out, too, and she doesn't want to do that."

Notes: Booth, a freshman forward who started her second game in place of Brittany Walker (torn ACL), contributed eight points, 4-of-4 free throws, four rebounds, three steals and two blocks. ... Point guard McDaniel had six points, five rebounds and three assists while battling foul trouble. ... The War Eagles went 18-of-22 at the line, 82 percent, and outrebounded AC 32-29. They haven't been outrebounded since the opener. ... After the Moir tournament, Davie plays at home to West Rowan on Jan. 3 and at home against Mount Tabor on Jan. 7. The CPC opener is Jan. 10.

Davie 60, Alexander Central 43 – Allison Schafer 17, Sarah Williams 15, Dawn Singleton 12, Carly Booth 8, Heather McDaniel 6, Nicole Maready 2.

Fouls Foil Davie JV Girls

Davie's JV girls basketball team has endured its share of close losses, but last week's 42-36 defeat at Alexander Central was the most painful.

The Cougars attempted 33 free throws to Davie's 11, outscored Davie by six at the line, and won by six. The disparity at the line steamed Coach Janice Jackson.

"It looks like things are improving," she said. "It was an even game other than us getting 11 foul shots and their 33, and that frustrated them. They couldn't do anything because they were afraid they were going to get a foul called on them."

After a 22-22 first half, AC outscored Davie 9-2 in the third and traded baskets in the fourth.

Erin Whitaker led Davie with 10 points on 5-of-9 accuracy, and she added seven rebounds and three blocks. Brooke Harris scored nine and Allison Mackintosh had seven points and 12 rebounds.

Jackson saw encouraging signs, but the fall to 1-5 in nonconference play put a damper on them. Four of the losses have been single digits.

"They played good. They played their hearts out, we just got calls against us," she said. "It was the best we've played together all year."

Notes: Davie could have used outside punch from Danielle O'Neal, but she "was sick and couldn't even talk," Jackson said. ... On Dec. 26-28, Davie will play in a tournament at the Asheboro YMCA. It goes to Mount Tabor on Jan. 7.

Alexander Central 42, Davie 36 – Erin Whitaker 10, Brooke Harris 9, Allison Mackintosh 7, Ashley Cornatzer 4, Ashley Whitlock 2, Sloan Smith 2, Evony Tucker 2.

Freshmen Lose To N. Davidson

The Davie High freshman basketball team lost at North Davidson 50-42 on Dec. 16.

Evan Hall led the Davie scoring with 20 points. Kyle Winters scored 11 and Jonathan Mayfield added 6. The War Eagles are 0-2 for the season.

JV Boys Losing Streak Continues

Roger Bumgarner carried a couple extra doses of motivation for last week's game at Alexander Central, and his Davie JV boys basketball team responded with its best performance of the season.

It just wasn't enough as Davie fell short in overtime, 49-45, to Bumgarner's old school.

"It was a game I wanted to win bad, and they played their hearts out," said Bumgarner, who coached AC's JV boys for six years and its varsity girls last year. "I had a lot of friends that were there pulling for me. They wanted to see us win. I was proud of that and I'm proud they played hard for me. It made me feel good."

Dewayne Collins broke out with 12 points, five steals and two 3-pointers. Drew Yeager scored 10, Dustin Morgan had seven points and nine rebounds, and Raeshon McNeil had six points and seven boards.

The game was tight throughout, and AC went up by two with 17 seconds left. Davie called timeout and turned to Collins, who went for the jugular with a 3-pointer from the corner.

The potential game-winner rimmed in and out, but Morgan rebounded and stuck it in with two seconds left, forcing overtime.

"We played pretty good," Bumgarner said. "Collins helped us out. He got a couple steals in our 1-3-1 halfcourt trap, our best defense so far, and went down and laid them in. He was playing big.

"Yeager and Parks had good games, and Morgan stepped up and played good."

But overtime was all too familiar for the War Eagles, who were dogged by turnovers and sank to 0-6 in nonconference play.

"We played a lot better, we just turned the ball over way too much," he said. "When we cut down on turnovers, we'll probably start winning some games.

"But they played more with their heart than they have in any game. This was the first game where they really expressed emotion on the sideline, and they were talking to one another."

On Dec. 26-28, Davie will play in a tournament at the Asheboro YMCA. It goes to Mount Tabor on Jan. 7.

Alexander Central 49, Davie 45 - Dewayne Collins 12, Drew Yeager 10, Dustin Morgan 7, Raeshon McNeil 6, ReShawn Parks 4, Michael Mashore 2, Devon Venable 2, John Benfield 2.

Visual Changes adds manicurist Dargin Smith

For Dargin Smith at Visual Changes Salon in Clemmons, electing to become a manicurist was a relatively obvious choice.

"I've always enjoyed having my nails done so I just decided that doing nails professionally would be a great way to make a living. That's how it all got started."

Smith's interest is now Visual Changes' gain. After studying various nail techniques and graduating from nail school, Smith has become a licensed professional.

"Having your nails done professionally strengthens the nail and reduces your chances of having damaged or broken nails," she explained. "Having a regular manicure done every two weeks helps your nails last longer."

Kristina Eddinger, owner of Visual Changes, added that Dargin has a great personality and works extremely well with people. "She always strives to please her customers and give them the best service available."

Pedicures, Reflexology available too

Smith notes that along with her work as a manicurist, she also enjoys giving pedicures. "I love giving them as much as people love getting them. They're also very popular around the holiday season."

Another of Smith's specialties is Reflexology, a massage technique that is applied to the pressure points on the bottom of the feet. Smith says the technique helps relieve an assortment of ailments.

"For example, if you have a sinus problem, I would concentrate on working with the four smaller toes to relieve the pressure." Smith points out that virtually every part of the body can be aided by using Reflexology.

Gel Nails, Pedicure Parties, OPI Nail Polish

Other specialities available at Visual Changes are "Gel Nails," Pedicure Parties and one-minute manicures. The shop also offers a popular line of OPI Nail Polish and gift certificates are available for all items and services.

Gel nails are applied by using a soft gel that is baked onto the nail. The benefit of this technique is that the natural nail can breathe through the gel. The one-minute manicure keeps hands fresh by exfoliating dead skin.

Smith said Pedicure Parties are a popular group activity, especially with teenage girls. "They can come in and have a variety of things done from hair to manicures to pedicures. It's a lot of fun and a great way to share time with your friends."

Smith said she will accept walk-ins but prefers appointments. To schedule an appointment, give her a call at 778-0604. Present a copy of this story and you will also receive a 10% discount off of any nail service.

Visual Changes is located at 2565 Old Glory Road. Shop hours are 10-9 on Tuesday, 10-6 on Wednesday and Friday, 10-7 on Thursday and 10-4 on Saturday.

Good Vehicle Maintenance Includes Regular Service Begins At George's Village Garage

Although it is no secret that cars give higher performance with regular servicing, George Pries at George's Village Garage says that many people still fail to do it.

"When you don't regularly service your car, all kinds of problems can arise," said Pries, owner of the popular Clemmons garage. "Head gaskets, hose problems, radiators, cooling systems that need to be flushed out are just a few." Pries noted that failing to service a car can result in large repair bills down the road.

"One car owner drove 32,000 miles in one year," said Pries. "When she brought her car in, the tires were shot. She had never rotated the tires."

George's Village Garage is equipped with state-of-the-art computer systems specific to many different makes of automobiles. George's five mechanics are experienced in not only the American brand cars, but Toyotas, Nissans, Mazdas, Porsches, Mercedes, and even the rare de Loreans. These quality professionals spend hours each year in seminars and training to be current on the latest in car performance.

George's computer diagnostic equipment allows customers to bring their cars in for an accurate and honest evaluation of both major and minor problems. George's Village Garage is well-known for their fair treatment of their customers.

"George is an honest, down-to-earth Christian," says Stuart Claassen of Clemmons. He has brought all four of his family's cars to George's for more than eight years, because of George's good reputation in the community.

"We do a lot of driving. I'm very comfortable sending my kids up there," said Claassen.

George's Village Garage, which began in a two-bay shop on Ramada Drive, has expanded to seven bays at its present location at 2570 Lewisville-Clemmons Road in Clemmons. Kevin Pries, George's son, oversees the garage's smooth operation as General Manager.

Tires are one item on a car that rapidly deteriorate. George's stocks a number of popular and sturdy brands, including Firestone, Michelin, Dunlop, Lee, Bridgestone and Hankook. See the trained professionals at George's, before you get stranded on the open highway with worn or punctured tires.

George Pries states that cold weather is especially wearing on tires. George's Village Garage gives speedy service in their seven bays, and will have you back on the road quickly for optimum performance.

"Maintain your tire rotations," said Pries. "In this fast-paced world today, people are so busy running kids to soccer that they fail to follow their owner's manual for maintenance." He recommends regular servicing to prevent more expensive problems and longer life of your automobile.

Cars are a costly investment. Protect your investment with good service and expert care from the skilled professionals at George's. They will provide you with a straightforward assesssment of any repairs needed, and a fair estimate of what it will cost.

George's Village Garage is located behind Sagebrush Restaurant, at the corner of Lewisville-Clemmons and Old Glory Roads. Call 766-7862 for an appointment today.

Wildcat Girls Hit Peaks And Valleys

North Davie's girls basketball team has seesawed to 3-4 and 2-1 in the Mid-South Conference, and a 2-3 stretch from Nov. 25 to Dec. 12 included losses to Downtown (37-16), Statesville (51-20) and West Rowan (53-13) and wins over Erwin (32-22) and North Rowan (34-26).

After crossing .500, the Wildcats retreated against superior competition in back-to-back setbacks to Statesville and West Rowan.

"We played two good games against Erwin and North Rowan," Coach Jamie Lyerly said. "Statesville ran all over us and then we had to go to West Rowan. So we had two good games and two bad games."

Despite the Wildcats' up-and-down fate, there should be an asterisk beside two of their losses because Downtown and Statesville combine seventh and eighth graders into one team.

"We requested not to play them next year because it's not worth getting beat into the ground," Lyerly said. "They're so much more experienced and stronger, and the morale of our team suffers. They can play our eighth-grade teams."

The team's foremost weapon is Alicia Allen, who has been steady as a rock all season. She delivered eight points and 10 rebounds against Downtown, 16 points and 15 rebounds against Erwin and 12 points and 12 rebounds against North Rowan. She scored 11 of North's 20 against Statesville and nine of North's 13 against West Rowan.

Allen has put up between seven and 16 points in every game for a 10.3 average and has posted two double-doubles. The No. 2 option is Chelsea Trull, who matched Allen with 12 points in the win over North Rowan and has registered eight or more points four times for a 6.0 average.

The Wildcats handed Erwin its first defeat in four games in off-the-wall fashion. They failed to scratch in the opening quarter, falling behind 8-0. Then they came out of nowhere to outscore Erwin 11-0 in the second quarter to win going away.

The last game, though, was a bummer. West Rowan rushed out to a 12-0 lead at the end of the first and never let up to roll by 40.

"They were quicker, faster and better," Lyerly said. "Nobody played good and Allen got four quick fouls. We probably can't beat them but we can give them a better game. It was just a bad game."

The Wildcats play at home to Knox on Dec. 18 and at Corriher-Lipe on Dec. 19.

Stevens Helps Pfeiffer To 6-1

Sean Stevens made back-to-back 3-pointers with seven minutes left to push Pfeiffer's lead to 15, and the Falcons never looked back in a 95-78 win at Columbia Union.

Stevens, a freshman guard from Davie High who rewrote the state's 3-point record book last year, had 10 points as the Division II Falcons improved to 6-1. They're averaging more than 100 points a game.

Slump Grows For North Davie Boys Basketball Team

North Davie's seventh-grade boys basketball team opened 2-0, but that feel-good start has long evaporated as the Wildcats entered the Dec. 16 week mired in a five-game losing streak.

After topping Southeast and South Davie, they lost 39-22 to Downtown, 43-30 to Erwin, 30-28 to North Rowan, 65-16 to Statesville and 47-20 to West Rowan. The Erwin, North Rowan and West Rowan games counted in the Mid-South Conference standings, making North 2-5 overall and 0-3 in the MSC.

The Wildcats had a chance in two of the losses.

They led Erwin by six in the first half, but a one-man show hammered North into submission in the second half. Shawn Eagle outscored North by himself with 37 points, including 24 in the second half.

"I learned before the game they lost their best player against Knox when he broke his arm," North Davie coach George Newman said. "(Eagle) was unbelievable. Losing the caliber of player they had, he decided to make up for it."

The unconscious Eagle hit - this is not a misprint - 15 of 16 field goals and added 11 rebounds.

"He just would not be denied," Newman said. "We physically could not match up. He's about 5-11 and he's cut, too. We took away everything they had from the outside, but whether we double-teamed or triple-teamed he moved so gracefully without the ball he always got himself open. He only did one thing - he took it to the hole."

The next game, against North Rowan, went down to the final minute. North Rowan hit a go-ahead 3-pointer that stood up and spoiled 16 points by center Nick O'Brien, who has paced North's scoring throughout the tailspin.

"We had some fatal turnovers in the last 1:30 that did us in," Newman said. "It was terrible to taste defeat when this time the kids played much harder than they've played all year."

The worst was to come. After getting manhandled by a seventh/eighth-grade team in Downtown, the Wildcats ran into another team of eighth graders as Statesville dealt them a 65-16 bloodletting.

The last two games were as good as over after the first quarter, with Statesville and West Rowan bolting to 22-6 and 14-2 leads, respectively.

North is at home Dec. 18 vs. Knox, at Corriher-Lipe Dec. 19.

Viticultural Area

Yadkin Valley Receives Federal Designation To Help Marketing

Winemakers and grape growers in a seven-county area in the Yadkin Valley region recently gained added recognition and a marketing tool when the region was declared an American Viticultural Area (AVA).

The designation recognizes the area as a sound and distinct grape-growing region and will allow growers and winemakers to establish Yadkin Valley branding for their products. The Yadkin Valley will be officially designated as an AVA on Feb. 7, 2003. This marks the state's first AVA designation.

"Grape production is up in the state and many of our wine-makers are being recognized nationally for making high quality wines," said Agriculture Commissioner Meg Scott Phipps. "This designation helps solidify North Carolina's image, and that of the Yadkin Valley, as a region of quality grape and wine production. I hope this opens the door to recognize more North Carolina regions where quality grapes and wines are produced."

The AVA encompasses 1.4 million acres, including all of Surry, Wilkes and Yadkin Counties, along with portions of Stokes, Forsyth, Davie and Davidson Counties.

There are six bonded wineries within the Yadkin Valley AVA including Shelton Vineyards in Dobson, Westbend Vineyards in Lewisville, Hanover Park Vineyard in Yadkinville, Rag Apple Lassie Vineyards in Boonville, Windy Gap Vineyards in Ronda, and RayLen Vineyards in Mocksville.

"We are seeing considerable interest in opening more wineries in this area," said Chanel McIntyre, N.C. Grape Council marketing and programs coordinator. "Five entrepreneurs have contacted the N.C. Grape Council with intentions to open bonded wineries in 2003. In addition, three vineyards intend to apply for wine producer permits in the next two years."

The wine producer permit allows a farm to ship its grapes in 2003. In addition, three vineyards intend to apply for wine producer permits in the next two years."

The wine producer permit allows a farm to ship its grapes to a bonded winery, and in return, receive wine made from their own grapes under their own label.

The state has seen an increase in the production of wine grapes over the past several years, as some farmers have sought alternative crops to replace declining tobacco quota in recent years. "With interest in opening more wineries in the state, we hope this will translate into even more opportunities for farmers to raise grapes," Phipps added.

Shelton Vineyards led the two-year effort to gain recognition, supplying the necessary information to the U.S. Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms for approval.

The Federal Register defines an AVA as a delimited grape-growing region distinguishable by geographical features. Viticultural features such as soil, climate, elevation, topography and more, distinguish it from surrounding areas.

Congressman Richard Burr, who represents the Yadkin Valley area, also supported the effort.

"This designation is great for North Carolina wineries and vineyards. We are producing superb wines in the Yadkin Valley and having Yadkin Valley right on the bottle will help distinguish them further," Burr said. "With the uncertainty facing our farmers these days, it is wonderful to get some good news."

Boards To Discuss Zoning Amendments

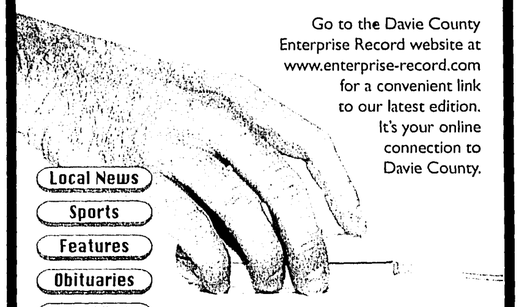

The Mocksville Planning Board and Board of Adjustment will attend a workshop with the Mocksville Town Board at 5:15 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 7 at town hall.

The boards will discuss a series of amendments to the zoning ordinance adopted in 1999. Town staff and an ad hoc committee proposes to reorganize sections of the ordinance, clarify certain design standards for buildings and developments and add additional information including a table of uses and an improved landscaping section.

More information is available at town hall or the county planning department. Call John Gallimore at 751-3340.

Samuel Bowles,son of Raymond and Angie Bowles of Advance, gets his candy cane and thanks Santa Claus for listening to his Christmas list. Some 70 children stopped by Gunter's store in the Redland community last week to talk to the jolly fat man.

Chloe Allen, age 4 months, daughter of Exie Church and Jason Allen, is a little timid about meeting Santa Claus, but is looking forward to her first Christmas.

- Photos by Robin Fergusson

Katie Bolmer, daughter of Jon and Amy Bolmer of Pino, presents a written list for Santa to read.

Cody and Katelyn Ashley, children of Kay and Jeff Ashley, are all smiles as they tell Santa their wishes.

Brandon, 4, and Christopher, 5, Wright get an eye-ful of Santa's beard.

Even the big girls believe in Santa, but the presents Davie High swim team members Lauren Wanucha, Colby Kinder, Meredith Phillips and Dana Vestal ask for are a bit bigger, like sports cars.

Perry Ferrel, son of Mickey and Karen Ferrell of Mocksville, tells Santa he wants to go hunting.
