Mother Of Murdered Teen Thought She Was Next

By Mike Gunning
Davie County Enterprise Record

Randy Greensbury Ridgeway, the man who confessed to killing the daughter of his girlfriend, has led police back to the crime scene to give additional information of the crime.

According to Sheriff Allen Whitaker, investigators accompanied Ridgeway to the house on Main Street in Cooleemee last week. Ridgeway gave them a step by step account of the crime.

"Ridgeway went back to the house with detectives to give them a chain of events at the crime scene," Whitaker said. "He went that one time for that purpose."

The victim's mother said she was not too happy to find out that her former boyfriend was in the house she still calls home.

"I can't believe he was back here, even with the police," Sherri Lynn Collison said. "I started shaking when I found out."

Ridgeway has confessed to killing Danielle Nicole Klase on Sept. 21 by striking her repeatedly in the back of the head with a hammer. He claims to have then sexually assaulted the child, then dressed her in bed clothes and put her in bed.

Whitaker said Ridgeway stayed at the crime scene for a few hours until the child's mother came home. No reason has been given for Ridgeway staying there, but the victim's mother said she believes she knows.

"I think I was next," Collison said. "Everything that happened that night, you don't think of things until later, but I'm sure he was going to kill me."

Collison said she arrived home from work a few minutes after 11 p.m., and found Ridgeway sleeping on the couch. She noticed her daughter was sleeping without a night light on, something Danielle never did.

"I went in and turned the night light on, I didn't want her to wake up in the dark," Collison said. "When I leaned over to kiss her

Pumpkin Power

Orange Patches Popping Up All Over Davie

By Mike Barnhardt
Davie County Enterprise Record

Ellen James had to take her children to Winston-Salem last year to get a pumpkin because there was no organized patch for children in Davie County.

The therapeutic horse riding program operated at her farm on Howardtown Circle needed funds, so she had an idea.

Hold a pumpkin patch.

Robin Howard, one of her volunteers, gave it away as she shied away from the camera. Her church, Bethlehem United Methodist, just up the road a few miles, was also having a pumpkin patch.

So is First United Methodist Church of Mocksville. So is the Union Chapel United Methodist Church Spiritual Servants Class.

For the next few weeks, parents have plenty of options when deciding what to do with their children for Halloween, and all the funds go to charities.

James said her patch is "just a fun place to take the kids." It could be appropriate for 2 year olds with a parent's supervision, up to a fifth grader.

The children can pick out a pumpkin from the patch. They can even bring their own pumpkin. There will be a carving area, a decorating area and a painting area.

There will be games such as finding the shapes hidden in the horse barn, a big pumpkin to put your face in for a photograph (Bring your own camera.) There is a story trail.

And, of course, there will be pony rides.

Proceeds will benefit Horse Feathers, a program manned by volunteers that offers equine assisted therapy to people with disabilities.

Land Poor

Habitat Has Everything It Needs For A House - Except Property

By Mike Gunning
Davie County Enterprise Record

Habitat for Humanity of Davie County is in the enviable position of having the funds and the volunteers ready to start the building of its next house for a local family.

Dottie Jackson, the director of the Davie chapter, said Habitat even has the family selected to receive ownership of its next project.

There is only one thing holding up the beginning of construction.

"We have no land to build on," Jackson said. "We have the finances, we have the volunteers and we have the materials, all ready to go. But we're land poor."

Jackson said the Davie County chapter has built seven houses since it began, and with an average of 14 new client applications coming in a year, the need for land continues to grow.

Habitat is a Christian based organization formed in Georgia in 1976 that works to provide adequate housing throughout the United States and in over 100 countries around the world.

"I feel it's the most outstanding charity available," said Hank Van Hoy, an attorney in Mocksville who donates legal work to the organization. "Working with Habitat always has tangible results, and there is always a good feeling in helping out."

Van Hoy said one of Habitat for Humanity's greatest assets is its ability to strengthen a community.

Mebane Challenge Kickoff To Feature Best In Technology

By Mike Gunning
Davie County Enterprise Record

A NASCAR racing legend will be on hand to help kickoff the Mebane Challenge campaign on Thursday, Oct. 16 beginning at 5:30 p.m. at Davie High School.

The Mebane Foundation issued a $750,000 challenge grant to the Davie County School system in August of 2004, but in order to collect, the county needed to meet certain fund raising goals of its own.

One of the prerequisites of getting the grant money was that Davie County had to show support for its school system and pass the November school bond referendum. Following that, the community would have to raise an additional $1.5 million in private support over 12 months.

The bond referendum passed and the Mebane Challenge Campaign officially began April 1, 2004.

The county hired local firm Parrish Consulting to underwrite the fund raising efforts.

"If we are going to maintain our high quality and standards in the schools, we have to go to the private sector," said Diana Parrish, owner of Parrish Consulting. "The schoc system has never engaged in fund raising of this magnitude, and we were very fortunate to be chosen to work with them in this effort."

Superintendent W.G. "Dub" Potts agreed.

"We have come into a time when the burden of properly funding our schools has shifted from the state to the local community," Potts said. "We just can't count on the state to provide funding for our students' basic needs anymore."

Parrish, an Advance resident, said her intimate knowledge of the area as well as her having children in the school system gives her additional incentive to make the fund raising successful. Parrish said she assembled a group of volunteers that ranged from teachers, mothers of students and a county commissioner to plan and implement the campaign.

In April, Parrish and the volunteers began a "quiet" phase,

Showing My Age? 'Grandpa' Remarks Grow

"Are you his dad? You look like a grandpa."

Don't you hate the brutal assessment of a 6 year old?

I resisted the urge to tell that kid there was something hanging from his nose.

It was the third time in a week I had gotten the "grandpa" treatment from strangers.

First, there was the guy at the car wash who wondered about the sticky remnants of a Popsicle smeared across one of the back windows.

"You must have grandkids."

I smiled.

And the clerk at the department store ...

"Buying for your grandchildren?" she asked.

She gave me the senior citizen discount.

With a 15 percent deduction, I let her call me whatever she wanted.

Has my hair recently taken another leap toward white?

Have the wrinkles set in deeper, my voice started to quiver, my back stooped? Have I started to shuffle when I walk?

I knew I would be the oldest dad in kindergarten this year. Some of the other fathers wear fitness gear — running shoes, shorts and tank tops. They lift weights, puff out their chests and look like they haven't been out of diapers all that long themselves. They have one-color hair.

I don't.

But this past-prime parenting isn't so bad.

Most of all, the expectations change as the age of the parent increases.

My kindergartner's dad just hopes to show up. He's not concerned that his child finish first in everything, qualify for admission to Harvard while his age is still in a single digit and be fluent in five languages before third grade.

Michael's dad just hopes to remember to pack the lunch money in the book bag.

I may have been a little obnoxious when my 23-year-old was in rompers. I piled all my unreasonable expectations upon him, driving him to excel, to achieve, to go where no man has gone before.

I took him to every sporting event known to man. He played everything. I pitched to him and outfitted him with the finest baseball glove, the latest secret-alloy bat, all for the purpose of advancing his athletic career and chances for a professional contract.

Michael doesn't have that pressure.

His dad's arm is shot. He can't throw a ball across the plate. When I have tried, I always hit my son with the ball. Our athletic pursuits are less ... physical.

I have mellowed. Or marinated.

But I still must face all the "events" in a child's life. The dreaded teacher conferences are next week.

My son's teacher is half my age.

I have some apprehensions about going to see her. My biggest worry is being able to sit in one of the kindergarten chairs. I'm not sure I can sit that close to the floor — and get up again. But I must go.

Michael has learned so much in these first weeks, and I must get the full report. So I will shuffle down the hallways of the school to find the classroom and hope no one tells me: "Grandparents day was last week."

Debating The Debates

A prediction in advance of the vice presidential debate: John Edwards will win or ... Dick Cheney will win. The debate-after-the-debate last week was more interesting that the actual meeting of candidates John Kerry and President Bush.

Some said Bush looked weary and didn't talk enough. Some said Kerry looked good and talked a lot but didn't say much.

And all of us still liked the candidate we liked ... before the debate.

We Deserve John Kerry For Our President

To the editor:

Last night I had the pleasure of watching the Presidential debates in a house packed with 20 other enthusiastic observers of this year's election. While, the editorial in last week's Enterprise Record calls for those who make it through these political debates to get a "political Purple Heart," I've found most folks extremely eager and interested in the process, particularly this year. Last night was the first time that most of us have been able to see John Kerry for a sustained period in order to form an opinion of him as a person. In the 90 minute period we were offered on Thursday night from Miami, we can say without a doubt that Kerry outperformed Bush.

While it was expected that Mr. Bush would have his typical problems with the English language, Kerry's warm demeanor and commanding breadth of knowledge overshadowed Bush's stammering and factually limited responses. It even appeared that Mr. Bush ran out of material about two thirds of the way through the program, obviously repeating memorized sound bites over and over in the absence of real ideas and core values. He seemed to be praying for that red light to come on from the podium so he could stop talking before he said something wrong. His overall attitude, when compared to Kerry, could not have told us more. When challenged, he responded with the peeved, school bully swagger for which he is world-renowned, while Mr. Kerry forcefully, respectfully and intelligently defended his position.

As Mr. Bush stubbornly stood by his failed policies, Mr. Kerry provided us a realistic reason to believe that hope truly is on the way with a Kerry-Edwards administration.

Being one of those 6th generation Andersons of Calahaln in Davie County, I often like to read the Enterprise Record online from where ever I'm living in the world, it reminds me of my home and the good people who helped raise me. They and the house full of friends with whom I watched these debates need this election to succeed in providing us a new path.

We deserve a President who does not lie on issues of war and death. We deserve a President who knows the difference between Bin Laden and Hussein. We deserve a President who does not lead by fear. We deserve John Kerry for our President.

Couple Saying No To Oktoberfest

To the editor:

The Oktoberfest on Oct. 8 and 9 is being publicized as a family event.

There are many concerned parents who do not want their children and young people exposed to people being served alcohol and drinking alcohol on the Square in the heart of downtown Mocksville. I would like to encourage them to find something else to do as a family those evenings.

It really breaks my heart to have to say something like that about my hometown, because last year both my husband and I thoroughly enjoyed the food and music presented.

We won't be participating this year.

Taste Of The Town A Success

To the editor:

I would like to thank everyone who made Taste of the Town 2004 a success. Everyone who came had a great time and enjoyed sampling the food from some of the wonderful restaurants in Davie County. Our volunteers who helped at the event, and who sold tickets and secured sponsors before the event, are to be commended for their hard work. Thanks to the generosity of our sponsors and to the restaurants which donated all the food and labor. Thanks especially to the approximately 175 people who attended the event.

Because of this generosity, Davie County Senior Services raised funds to help ensure we can continue to meet current needs of Davie County seniors, and to continue to expand the services and programs to meet future needs. We'll see everybody at Taste of the Town 2005.

Old School Days, And Hugh Larew As The Class Mascot

Louise Stroud

Somehow, I have been thinking about my very early days in school. I well remember my first day of school at age 5. I wasn't going to be 6 until January, but the law saying you must be 6 by Oct. 15 was not passed until the next year. I walked to school with my brother, Frank, (7 years older), who had been delegated to see that I made it O.K. Well, that was fine but when we arrived at the door of Miss Margaret Bell's first grade room, I was ready for him to leave. Evidently, he thought it was his duty to see that I was properly seated inside. I remember, as though it were yesterday, that I became impatient and said "Go on." Maybe I didn't want other kids to think I had to be looked after. Why do I remember that when I can't seem to remember the name of somebody I met a week or so ago?

I remember a couple little incidents that happended when I was in the fourth grade. Miss Janet Stewart (later Mrs. Harry Fine) was my teacher. She was a daughter of Atty. and Mrs. Jacob Stewart, whose home was where the Church of Christ is now located on N. Main Street. I think all the students liked Miss Janet. I don't know anything about present day methods of checking attendance at school, but back then, in the early grades, the role was called first thing in the morning and again right after lunch. One very hot day, right after lunch, I was hot and tired and when the teacher called my name, I said "present" in the most hateful tone I could muster. She just stopped and said, "Louise, do you think that was very nice?" and in a meek little voice, I said "Nome," which in that day was supposed to be a contraction of "no ma'am." I remember that spring some students referred to something as being awful good. Miss Janet explained that it wasn't both; it was eather awful or it was good. Shortly after that we went on the annual class picnic (which was somewhere in the nearby woods). There was no park at the time. When we were returning to school, all of us made a point of telling the teacher that we had an awful good time. That's kind of the way kids do, I guess. I think it should have made her feel good to know that she had made her point.

In thinking back to childhood days, I wonder how many children wanted to drink coffee because their parents did. Well, my mother figured out a solution that worked very well. She poured us a glass of milk and then put in about two teaspoons of brewed coffeee, which produced a nice, light tan color. We called it "brownin" and it took care of the situation. I don't remember my brothers drinking it, but my sister and I liked "brownin." We went through a stage of Postum, which I didn't care much for, a period of Ovaltine, which I didn't like very much either, but which was supposed to be good for you.

When I was little if I liked a certain boy I would have just died if he or anybody else found out about it. In fact, I think I felt that way all through school. Well, when I started teaching piano, the little girls couldn't wait to tell me who their boyfriend was. I don't remember the little boys ever telling me about their girlfriends. However, a little girl would tell me the name of her boyfriend and he was just great, etc., etc. A week or two later I would ask about the boyfriend and she would say, "Oh, I don't like him anymore. Johnny or Jimmy, or whoever, is so cute and he gave me a candy bar today," etc. Sometimes I was asked for advice - occasionally I volunteered it, whether or not it was followed, I don't know. Now don't get the idea we took up the music period talking about boyfriends. We didn't, but I learned if we took a few minutes at first, to clear the air (and the mind), we could get on with the business at hand.

Back to high school days. When I was a high school senior, about the last six weeks of school were designated as a period of "Senior Privileges." I can't seem to remember what all of them were. I believe they lowered the figure for exemption for final exams. I think maybe another was that the Friday chapel period was optional. However, I always enjoyed that. I well remember one privilege. I suppose I remember it because it was much more trouble to take advantage of this "privilege" than it would have been to ignore it. The main entrance to the high school was in the center of the building. A small door was located at each end of the building. In our junior year of high school, our classroom was located right inside the main front door, but could we enter there? No, indeed. We had to go to the end of the building and enter, and walk to our classroom, just inside the front entrance. In our senior year, our classrooms (two classrooms that year) were located on the upper floor the lower end of the building. Of couse it would have been much simpler to use the door at the lower end of the building and go up the stairs, but to take advantage of "senior privilges," we walked to the main entrance, then down the long hall and up the stairs. I don't know how many years "senior privileges" were enjoyed.

The Senior Prom was unheard of back in those days. We had a Junior-Senior banquet and Sophomore-Senior reception. Our senior class mascots were Little Ann Choate and little Hugh Larew.

United Way Day Of Caring A Wonderful Event

To the editor:

Many across the country have remarked about how the horrible events of Sept. 11, 2001 brought people together - families, neighbors, towns, the country's citizens. Folks seemed to look at their own personal priorities, looked at their dear one's and re-think lifetime goals.

I am grateful that these values and priorities were here in Davie County before 9/11's tragic events. And, because so many people here never lost sight of these traditions of caring we are extraordinarily blessed.

The Cooleemee Historical Association exists because of these values. Our little Mill Village Museum, our "Discovering Our Heritage" kids project and our yearly festivals would not exist without such spirit.

This year's Sept. 11th was a bright, clear day - -just like the infamous one. But, it brought only joy and pride to Cooleemee. Three wonderful volunteers from Vulcan Materials were here bright and early, coming to clean out and beautify several of the Zachary House flower beds. And, just in time for our 13th Annual Textile Heritage Festival.

This "Day of Caring" by United Way is a wonderful way to kick-off its annual fund raising campaign. We thank UW and especially those volunteers from Vulcan who worked their hind-ends off for people they didn't know.

We're also proud of our Cooleemee Civitan Club and local Master Gardeners for the good deeds they performed in other parts of Davie County.

Last but not least, we want to thank the Civitans for all the hard work all their members put in to make Cooleemee's festival a wonderful event this year.

And, to the Cooleemee cake bakers - Rilla Athey, Gail Bivins, Patsy Branch, Annie Lou Brown, Paula Campbell, Peggy Dodd, Sue Eudy, Sue Earnhardt, Troni Gibson (our prayers are with you), Margaret Jacobs who made two cakes, Delores Jordan, Linda Jordan, Norma Jordan, JoAnn Lester, Tammy O'Neal, Charles Polk, Debbie Shepherd, Jean Snead, Kathleen Spry, Barbara Spry, Virginia Taylor, Robert Taylor, Janet Thompson, Laverne Thompson, Cookie Turner, Brenda Vogler, Lynn Vogler, Judy Webb, Wanda Whitley and Dot Shoaf Leonard who spent hours on the phone rounding them all up ... the cake-walkers, cake buyers and Cooleemee salutes you.

Cooleemee had its own tragedy since our festival. In a place that our elders all say was like "one big family" we can only pray that it will make us draw closer to our loved ones, our neighbors and our community.

Alcohol Shouldn't Allowed

To the editor:

This is an appeal to all Davie County Christians. According to an article on Sept. 23, "the town board unanimously approved a motion that allows for the sale and consumption of beer and wine during special events in cordoned off areas that may include parts of the sidewalks and streets contiguous to an alcohol beverage control licensed location." This is to start this weekend with Oktoberfest. Christians, I am asking you to pray about this and to call the town board and let them know that this is not something our town needs.

I called the Chamber of Commerce and asked what Oktoberfest was and if it was a family celebration. They said, yes, it was for the family, but there would be lots of German beer served and I might not want my children to attend. The ad in last week's paper also said this was a family event. I understand Oktoberfest is a German celebration and over there, alcohol flows freely. This is not Germany.

I know this motion says the drinking has to be done in a roped off area, but where are the people going after they finish drinking? They will be on streets and in cars driving. Oh, one might say it is only beer and wine. Any amount of alcohol consumed by a human body will alter that person's ability to think and react. Town board, have you forgotten what happened to Megan, Misti and Tara only a year ago because of alcohol? How many lives have to be lost before eyes are opened? What kind of example is this setting for our children? No, I don't live in town, but I do come to town to do business, attend events held in town, and to buy from town merchants. This decision affects the whole county and we weren't given a chance to vote on it. Non-smokers say they have a right to live in a smoke-free environment. We non-alcohol consuming people have a right to live in an alcohol-free environment.

Board members, I say to you, in my opinion you made a mistake. This affects everyone in this county and it was unfair that we were not allowed a voice in it. You can make this right. Ask for God's forgiveness amd for his guidance and turn this motion around. Please let our streets stay alcohol free.

Christians, keep praying. America is a wonderful place and we have to band together and keep fighting to keep it a safe place.

Maybe The PEST Will Be Caught

To the editor:

The PEST (Political Exterior Sign Thief) has struck again, stealing several Kerry-Edwards signs from yards of neighbors and one from me on Saturday, Oct. 2. Should I report this misdemeanor violation to the police? Not when they have a murder and other crimes to deal with. Our police surely don't need to fill out paperwork complaints about a PEST.

After all, what is a pest? My dictionary says, a person or thing that causes trouble, annoyance, discomfort, etc; a nuisance. Or maybe a thief riding a motorcycle, looking furtively over a shoulder, clutching stolen signs under an arm. Is this a prank or a theft?

The law says it is theft. The Bible says, Thou shalt not steal. Since this PEST steals again and again, it follows that this person pays no mind to the Bible or the law. Who knows, one of these days or nights the PEST might be caught. May it be so.

Habitat For Humanity Needs Land

who want to help," Van Hoy said. "Whether it's people driving nails or nurturing the family that's getting the home, its bringing people together for a good cause."

Jackson said while the company's principles are Christian based, the clients they serve are from all religious backgrounds.

"We serve people of all faiths, of all backgrounds, without discrimination." Jackson said. "We call it our "Theology of the Hammer". Christ was a carpenter of the people, so we look at ourselves as carrying on His work, without discrimination of any person."

Habitat relies on land donations and below market purchase opportunities to obtain the land needed to build homes.

According to Donald Bowles, an accountant who practices in Mocksville, there are many advantages to donating appreciated property to a charity like Habitat for Humanity.

"If someone is gifting a piece of property that is appreciated, they can take a charitable contribution for the fair market value of the property, up to 30 percent of their income," Bowles said. "If they meet the limits, they can spread out the deduction for as many as five years, if they continue to meet the income limitation each year."

In other words, If a person with a taxable income of $50,000 donated a piece of property valued at $10,000, they could take the whole amount as a deduction for that tax year. But if the same person was retired and showed a taxable income of $20,000, that person would be able to take deductions over several years. The money saved in taxes may be worth more than the money gained from selling the property, Bowles said.

Willing property upon an owners death can also have tax benefits to the estate, but only if the estate is taxable. Bowles said under federal tax codes, estates worth $1.5 million are considered taxable.

Bowles said people who donate appreciable property don't pay tax on the appreciated amount, a tax liability that does apply for many properties sold.

"There are a lot of tax benefits to donating property," Bowles said. "It can really work out well for some people."

Dottie Jackson: "Christ was a carpenter of the people, so we look at ourselves as carrying on His work, without discrimination of any person.

Jackson said those tax benefits have helped the organization to grow.

"We never pay market value for land, because we simply can't tie up that much of our resources in land purchases," Jackson said. "But we have had so much success from people looking for a tax break and wanting to help out an organization like ours."

Jackson said determining or declaring the fair market value of the property is up to the donor, and not every donation of property is readily accepted.

"It has to be a buildable piece of land," Jackson said. "We're looking for land that is near schools and hospitals, churches and employment centers. If it already has sewer, that's an additional bonus, but it doesn't have to."

The typical family that applies to Habitat is a lower income family that displays a need for assistance, lives in substandard housing, and is willing to work towards home ownership. Habitat's ideology of "giving a hand up, not a hand out", is put into action with every prospective homeowner.

Clients have to demonstrate a willingness to save money, apply sweat equity into the house by working side by side with the building volunteers, and be in a position to take over a mortgage when the house is complete.

"Habitat helps in the financing of the home by offering the homeowner a 20 year mortgage that's interest free," Jackson said. "And the homeowner only finances for the amount that actually went into the home, usually about $40,000 to $45,000."

Volunteers with Habitat work with prospective clients by offering workshops on money management, home ownership responsibilities and other skills necessary to own and maintain a home.

"There is so much to know about owning a home," Jackson said. "We don't just hand over the keys and say goodbye. We keep in touch with our families, to offer assistance, to help them through problems, to keep on loving them."

Families sign an agreement to stay in the house for a minimum of seven years, and to maintain the house and the yard in an appreciable manner. If a homeowner tries to sell the house for a profit before the agreed upon time, Habitat can recover the amount of the investment, plus a portion of the profit from the sale.

According to Jackson, that doesn't happen.

"These are genuinely good, hard-working people that just need a hand to get started," Jackson said. "They know that we are their best hope for a good home, and their best hope to provide a better life for their families and children. I've never seen anyone try to take advantage of us that way."

Jackson said that the people of Davie County have shown a strong commitment to making Habitat a successful part of the community. One of her pet projects is the Adopt-A-House program that has been well received by Davie churches.

Jackson often addresses a congregation as to the need of Habitat, and often the church takes the ball and runs with it. One such church required less than two months to come up with the finances for one of the homes.

"The response of this community has been incredible," Jackson said. "I've worked in several counties, and never have I seen the kind of roll up your sleeve and get to work attitude that I've seen here. There's something really special about the people in this community, and the board has been so supportive and wonderful."

Habitat elects new board members every year, and Jackson said the organization would be accepting nominations for board membership in the early part of next year.

"We would love to have surveyors, attorneys, builders or people with a construction background, or anyone regardless of their business experience who are willing to give of their time and energy to nurture the development of the people we serve," Jackson said. "What better way to serve the King of all kings than to be a servant to his people?"

Mother Of Slain Girl Thinks She Could Have Been Next

check, she felt so cold. I thought to myself that was strange because I didn't feel cold."

Collison said she looked out her bedroom door and called to Ridgeway, but he was no longer on the couch. It took him several moments to answer her as she called for him to help.

"I yelled for him, and he wasn't answering," Collison said. "Finally I saw him come out of my other daughter's room, and I gave him my cell phone and told him to call 911."

Collison, who is a certified nursing assistant, said Ridgeway left the room while she started CPR on her daughter. Ridgeway appeared in the doorway a few minutes later with the phone still in hand.

"I asked him if he called them, and he said yes," Collison said. "I was panicking and I kept asking him when they were going to be here, and he kept saying soon. Finally I grabbed the phone and called them, and it was the first time they heard about it. He never called them."

Collison said she knew then that the situation was dangerous.

"Randy kept pacing back and forth, asking what happened to her, what happened. I was so scared. The house had no number, and I was afraid the EMS wouldn't find us right away."

Collison said she wanted to keep giving her daughter CPR, and was afraid to leave her and wait for EMS alone on the porch. She wrapped her daughter in a blanket and carried her out the front door, gently laying her on the porch. She said she then continued CPR until EMS arrived.

Collison said Ridgeway continued to act unusual, pacing and asking what was wrong with the child.

"Even at the hospital, he kept trying to come into the examining room and asking what happened to her," Collison said. "He never cried for her, never really showed sorrow that she was hurt or anything."

At some point that evening, police identified Ridgeway as a wanted person in the state of Delaware and took him in for questioning. He confessed a short time later.

The next day, Collison's sister found a large meat fork laying on the dresser in her older daughter's bedroom, the same room Ridgeway was in for several minutes as she called to him for help. Collison said she also found a large butcher knife under some laundry on the floor near her bed.

"I don't know why he didn't just kill me," Collison said while fighting back tears. "I don't know why he had to do this to my little girl."

Collison said she knew Ridgeway since she was 12 years old, and had been friends with him for years. She insisted that although they were in the process of separating, she never believed he would hurt her, and still has a difficult time comprehending how he could take her life.

But she also wants him to feel the full force of justice.

"The death penalty is too good for him," Collison said. "I hope he has to live with this for a long time in jail, the only thing is, what if he just doesn't care?"

Collison, who is originally from Delaware, said she was planning on staying in Davie County at least until Ridgeway's trial is over. She is still in the house on Main Street in Cooleemee where the crime occurred.

"I don't know if I should stay or go," Collison said. "It's so hard to be here, but this is where my daughter is. Her room is still set up just as she wanted, and I'm not ready to pack her life up and put it in a box like she didn't exist."

Financially, Collison said she was in no position to move. Collison said Ridgeway had used her credit cards, and a week before the murder, Ridgeway stole money from Collison's account. It is not known how he spent the money, and the Thursday before the crime, Collison totaled her car in an accident on Stratford Road in Winston-Salem.

She said she would be returning to her job at Autumn Care of Mocksville on Friday, and has made calls to her landlord, Duke Power and the water company to ask for an extension on her payments.

"I'll be able to get back on my feet in a few weeks," Collison said. "Getting back to work will be good for me."

Smith Grove Fire Department Celebrating 30th Year

Open House, Spaghetti Supper Scheduled For This Saturday

By Mike Barnhardt
Davie County Enterprise Record

SMITH GROVE - When volunteers from the first fire department made the first call some 30 years ago, they rode on an open-air, used fire truck.

They knew just about everybody in the neighborhood, but just in case a late-arriving firefighter needed directions, the first ones to the scene threw a bag of flour out at every intersection.

To say that the Smith Grove Volunteer Fire Department has come a long way since it was incorporated in1974 is putting it mildly.

The once quiet community of families who had lived there for years has changed. New homes and businesses have sprung up almost overnight, and the department that answered 10 calls in 1974 is on pace to answer more than 500 calls this year.

The department will have an open house from 9 a.m.-4 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 9 at the fire station on U.S. 158. A spaghetti supper will be held from 4-8 p.m. Of the department's $132,000 annual budget, $82,000 comes from county tax dollars designated specifically for fire protection.

Current chief Don Howard remembers those first days, and loves the challenges of running an all-volunteer department.

Part of the problem is the public's idea of a fire department. Some of the new residents come from places where firefighters are paid, and are at the fire station all the time. They don't realize the department is manned by volunteers, who have to raise money to keep up the 5/9 insurance rating, which Smith Grove has had since 1993. They don't realize that the firefighters often have to come from home or work to answer a call.

Because of increased paper work and training demands, volunteer firefighting isn't as much fun as it used to be, Howard said.

"But it gets in your blood and you can't stop," he said.

Howard said Smith Grove has to raise $50,000 a year, or the department will be in trouble.

"You take time to do all that, the paper work and the classes, that's why it's hard to get volunteers."

Despite those demands, Smith Grove has been blessed with volunteers. Howard gives part of the credit to the active junior firefighter program.

"I'm still in it because I love it and because of the young ones," Howard said. "If you can get them when they're 12 or 14, you can keep them for life. They help us out a lot."

Captain Chad Roten said one junior firefighter dropped out of high school, and the department played a major role in getting him back in school.

"If we can do that for a kid, when they get out, they'll come back right here," Roten said.

"It's come a long way since Holt Howell was the first chief," Howard said.

The idea of establishing Smith Grove Volunteer Fire Department was generated in the summer of 1973 by Johnny Allen. In October, the community center board consisting of Glenn Howard, Richard Hicks, David Pardue and others discussed the idea further, and incorporation papers were written. An acre of land was purchased from the community center.

In November 1973, a turkey shoot was held on the community center ballfield, headed by Woodie Bates, Lester Allen, C.W. Allen, Jack Paige and others. The money was used to buy a 1952 Chevrolet fire truck from the Clemmons Fire Department, which was kept at Glenn Howard's garage.

Jerry Lewis taught a 40-hour firefighting class in September of that year, attended by Robert Cornelius, Charlie Ellis, Lester Allen, Woodie Bates, Charles Williams and Johnny Allen.

Ausbon Ellis and Wayne Snider dug the footings for the original fire station in 1974. In the fall of that year, C.W. Allen and Lester Allen hauled dirt to the building site.

Roy Carter and crew laid blocks for the foundation in December, and on Jan. 1, 1975, several firemen and neighbors helped with the carpentry work and added the roof. Many hours of volunteer work were spent building the station.

In March 1975, the floors were poured. The deed was registered on May 12. Over the next year, the ladie's auxiliary and the Smith Grove Ruritan Club held fund raisers.

"We've had tremendous support from the community," Howard said. "Even though we've had all the growth, the community has supported us."

Currently, Smith Grove has a 1997 International 1500 gallon per minute (gpm) pumper tanker, a 1986 Ford 1250 gpm pumper tanker, a 1979 1000 gpm pumper, and a 400 gpm brush truck.

"A fire department is only as strong as its people," Howard said. "Smith Grove Department has been blessed over the years with firefighters, ladies auxiliary members, community friends and businesses who make up our local fire department family."

More volunteers are welcome.

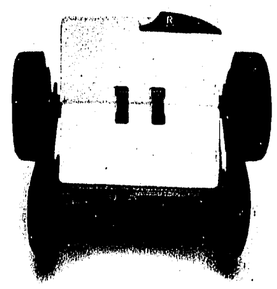
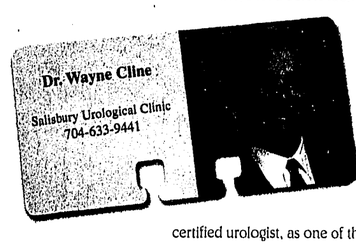
To Find The State's Best Doctors, You Can Start In Rowan County.



Each year, an independent research firm, Best Doctors® Inc. of Boston, identifies the nation's finest physicians through a unique survey that is conducted only among doctors. To find them, it asks physicians a simple question:

If you or a member of your family needed medical care, whom would you call?

In all 50 states, Best Doctors identifies the physicians of each specialty who are ranked by their peers as the "best of the best." In North Carolina, only four percent of the state's 16,000 licensed physicians make the list. At Rowan Regional Medical Center, we're proud to salute Dr. Wayne Cline, Jr., a board certified urologist, as one of the physicians named by Best Doctors in 2004.



His practice, Salisbury Urological Clinic, includes Dr. Robert A. Bertram, Dr. Lee R. Johnson, and Dr. Vance Merhoff.

A graduate of Princeton and the Bowman Gray School of Medicine, Dr. Cline exemplifies the standards of excellence maintained by all members of the medical staff in providing care for patients. And his peers have noticed.

Oktoberfest Expands To Two-Day Festival

German Music, Food, Kid's Activities To Be Highlights

Oktoberfest in downtown will be a two-day event this year, with plenty of activities and food for the young and old.

The festivities kick off Friday night when the Little German Band & Dancers return to Mocksville for a show from 6-10 p.m. on the square. The band is notorius not only for the oompahs, but for getting the crowd involved in the dancing. They will be dressed in German costumes.

An all-day event is planned for Saturday, with live music on the square beginning at 11 a.m., ending with the Original Elbe Musikantet from Richmond, Va. putting on the show from 4-10 p.m.

Oktoberfest isn't new, but it's added life to downtown Mocksville, said Tami Langdon, who is organizing the event along with Artur Beich, Germany native and owner of The Gasthaus.

The event ends a summer concert series called Jammin' on the Square. An outdoor festival is being planned for the spring focusing on the history of the area, Langdon said.

Beich has never attended an Oktoberfest in Germany. There's only one there, in Munich, he said.

After moving to this area in 1976, Beich became a member of the Triad German Club, which holds an Oktoberfest in Winston-Salem. It's there he got hooked.

"It's a lot of fun and the dance floor is never empty," Beich said. "Even when the band takes a break, there are people on the dance floor."

The festival is patterned after the traditional Oktoberfest in Munich.

On Oct. 12, 1810, Bavaria's Crown Prince Ludwig wed Princess Therese of Saxony. There was a large celebration with many citizens. That festival was held, and current festivals are held on the Theresienwiese (The Fields Of Therese).

To honor the wedding, the festival was held every year.

In 1818, a carousel and a beer stand were added. It evolved slowly, and a beer tent replaced the stands in 1896.

Today, Oktoberfest begins with a parade, and the mayor of Munich taps the first barrel of beer and declares, "O' zapft is!" (The keg is tapped.).

Last year's festival in Mocksville was put together quickly, "and the turnout was great," Beich said.

"A lot of the jammin' crowds were specific to the type of music," Langdon said. "At Oktoberfest, we saw more families, and this year, with the Arts Council, my studio (Davie School of Dance) kids, it's really two days for the family to come down and be entertained and have some good food."

In addition to the traditional schnitzels and bratwursts and beer at The Gasthaus, there will be pretzels and pizza for sale.

"As a group, we are focusing on the offerings of many cultures and hope that everyone will take advantage of the opportunity to experience more."

Admission is free. For more information, contact Beich at 751-7900 or Langdon at 751-2898.

visiting individuals and businesses in and out of Davie that they believed were in a position to offer financial assistance.

"The amazing thing about this campaign so far is that it has just brought so much of the community together," Parrish said. "We haven't even kicked off the public part of the campaign, and we've gotten so much accomplished."

Parrish said the group had an amount they already wanted collected or promised before the Oct. 14 kickoff. She said she plans to disclose the amount already collected at the event.

"We had a goal in mind that we were determined to reach before the event," Parrish said. "I have every reason to believe we'll have made it."

Technology in the classroom will be a key theme of the kickoff, and guests ranging from an Apple computer executive to NASCAR personality Chocolate Myers will be on hand to discuss how technology affects the learning environment as well as the leisure front.

Myers, who worked for years alongside Dale Earnhardt as a member of his pit crew, is scheduled to bring a NASCAR car and transporter to the kickoff to demonstrate the importance of technology in such popular sports as stock car racing. Myers also worked alongside Burt Reynolds in the "Smokey and the Bandit" movies and has done color commentary on ESPN. The Lexington resident has done more than 20 commercials. He will be available for pictures and autographs.

Dr. Barry Adams was the executive of the year for Apple Computer in 1992, and will make the keynote address, titled "The classroom of the 21st Century".

Technology projects by students and teachers from all schools in the system will be available for viewing. A digital movie created at the elementary school level and a virtual dissection lab for high school students will be displayed. Apple and Dell computers will be promoting their latest personal computer systems in the gym.

Potts said the grant was an important step for the county to continue operating under its "Taking the Lead" philosophy.

Budget cuts continue to escalate, as evidenced by the state allocation of $3.65 per student to the county for technology funds this year. That's compared to the $37 per child the state gave the county in the mid-90s. The state gave Davie County $7.02 per child last year.

"Technology has greatly improved, and our funding for it has been seriously cut," Potts said. "This grant will help us to provide our students with 21st century classrooms, and our teachers and staff with the best available tools to do their jobs."

Help The Flood Victims

Methodist Church Trying To Fill Truck With Needed Items

The First United Methodist Church on Main Street, Mocksville is seeking to fill an 18-wheeler within the next two weeks to take needed supplies to the western North Carolina area of devastation brought on by the flooding from recent rains.

The community is asked as a whole to become involved in this much needed act of aid for victims.

Items needed are: canned goods and all non-perishable food items such as bottled water, beans, rice, pastas, and cereals.

Paper products of every nature including paper towels, plates, toilet tissue, and cases of products will be greatly appreciated.

Baby diapers are also in great demand.

Towels, washcloths, personal hygiene supplies, sheets, pillows, and blankets.

Cleaning supplies, mops, detergents, scrubbing brushes and things of this nature are also a desperate need. No clothes are being accepted.

More than 200 homes were completely destroyed and hundreds of homes will need extensive cleaning and repair.

Please contact Sarah Wood at 336-751-2826 or the church office at 336-751-2503 to help fill this truck as soon as possible.

A Model Business

Foster Drug's Success Based On Putting The Customer First

By Dwight Sparks
Davie County Enterprise Record

Foster Drug is observing its 30th anniversary.

For visitors, it's hard to avoid the conclusion that this is one of the truly remarkable stores in Davie County. For first-of-the month prescription refills, Foster Drug is the town's Grand Central Station.

On Friday, the store filled nearly 1,100 prescriptions.

In a world of mergers and consolidations and big corporations, homemade Foster Drug has remained the dominant in Davie County — competing with national heavyweights Walmart, CVS and Eckerd Drug.

With six pharmacists and a huge staff, Foster Drug can fill prescriptions in minutes. The big corporate drug stores often ask for an hour. Foster carries a huge inventory. Big corporate stores often have to special-order drugs.

Owner Bill Foster hasn't run from the competition. A Mocksville town board member, he made the motion recently to approve Walmart's plans to build a super center at I-40.

Foster said protecting Mocksville's best interest, not his business, was the issue.

"If Walmart didn't come here they were going to Yadkin County," he said. With industrial closings, Mocksville had lost tax base in recent years. The new Walmart commerical park will add measurably to the town's revenue.

Foster served 12 years as a Davie County commissioner and has been on the town board three years.

In 1974, Foster opened a drug store on Wilkesboro Street. He had worked at Hall Drug in downtown Mocksville before branching out on his own. He started with one employee, Diane Cartner Smith, just out of high school. She is still there.

"We've been through a lot together," Foster said.

A year later, pharmacist Bob Rauch joined the business, and the store became Foster-Rauch. Rauch retired two years ago.

The drug store was the first in the area to feature a drive-through window. It was the first to install a computer 25 years ago. It has a robot that can fill prescriptions. And the store can boast of an alumni association of former employees that numbers about 600.

For many high school students, Foster Drug is their first job. The store has 45 employees, including as many as 15 parttime high school kids.

"That's one of my greatest rewards — seeing people go on to do big things," Foster said. "Working in a drug store is truly an education. Some of them have gone on to do really big things."

His goal is fast service — for customers to get their prescription filled quickly. That's why he has such a large staff.

"There is no other store like this. My payroll is unbelieveable," he said. He recalls banker Rocky Johnston's advice: Always have one more employee than you need.

Cuttin' Time Celebrates 15-Year 'Grand Opening'

"Dream, excel, succeed."

Melissa Boan's personal philosophy speaks volumes about what makes her hairstyling business so special.

As the owner of Cuttin Time in Advance, she provides more than just hair cuts. With a talented staff that shares her dedication to expert service, she also provides personal care that is designed to bring out the best in each customer – a look that will help them dream, excel and succeed.

Certified Loreal Specialist

"I have always had a passion for the hair industry and have been involved in it for 15 years," notes Melinda, an Advance native. "I am a certified artistic specialist for Loreal Professional and work with the traveling show team doing in-salon education classes on the east coast and midwest."

In her role as an artistic specialist, Melissa is sent to select salons where she helps stylists learn the Loreal color line and how to formulate color. She also teaches the new techniques.

"There are three different Loreal training sessions that we attend to stay certified. We also work four to five trade shows a year all over the United States," she adds.

Experienced, knowledgable staff

Kennita Price, who has been in the hair industry for four years, shares Boan's views on giving the best service possible to each customer. She also believes honesty is the best policy when it comes to hair. "I'm not going to tell someone that a particular hair style will look good on them when I know something else would flatter them more," she says with a laugh. "All hairstyles are different and each one is unique."

Like Melissa, Kennita has also trained in the Loreal program and will be certified as an artistic associate within two weeks. She will be certified to teach Loreal fundamentals one. Along with being an expert in hair color, Kennita specializes in choppy razor cuts, manicures, pedicures and waxing. "We wax everything from legs, eye brows and lips to backs, under arms and chins," she notes.

At Cuttin Time, Kennita believes that men should be pampered as well as women. "Our men clients especially love the shampoo scalp massage. It relieves tension and stress after a long day at work," Kennita says.

"Renewing the human spirit"

With 13 years of hair experience, Vickey Stewart is yet another color specialist who is certified with Loreal as an artistic technician.

"Color is a visual feeling and through hair color the human spirit can be renewed," she notes with pride. Vickey attends all hair trade shows and teaches fundamental color one product philosopy and brand specific classes. "From the age of 12, I have wanted to be in the hair business. It's just inside of me," says Vickey.

Cuttin Time offers every color service possible from express highlights that take 15 minutes to process to express color that takes 20 minutes to process. "We have clients that come and get their hair colored on their lunch hour," Vickey notes.

"Seize the opportunity to make a difference"

Another talented stylist at Cuttin Time is Debbie Hedrick, who is also a Loreal certified artistic associate. "I enjoy coloring, cutting and giving perms and I also do manicures and pedicures too," adds Debbie. Debbie, a Davie County native, is passionate about making sure each Cuttin Time customer gets the best look possible. She enjoys working her own hours and loves to spend as much time with her family as possible.

"I think you should seize the opportunity to make a difference. I try to follow that everyday I come in to work," Debbie says. "All of us attend continuing education classes so we can offer all of the latest trends in hair care."

Grand Opening to celebrate 15 years in business

This month Cuttin Time will celebrate 15 years in business along with the 'just completed' new addition to the shop. They now have a new stylist area. They will be celebrating with specials running through the week starting Thursday.

Cuttin' Time has remodeled its facility.

History: Davie 7-0 For first Time Since 1965

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

WINSTON-SALEM - North Forsyth dodged the knockout punch early in Friday's nonconference game against visiting Davie. But when you're dealing with the juggernaut War Eagles, it's usually only a matter of time before the knockout punch comes.

North quarterback Jason Scott gashed Davie with his arm and legs in the first 15 minutes and turned the game into a 19-13 track meet. In the first four minutes, he put Davie in a scoreboard deficit for the first time since Sept. 3, and Bill Oakley, who was on Davie's coaching staff between 1999-2002 before becoming the head man at North, game planned for Davie for two weeks and got the most out of his underdog Vikings.

But in what has become a typical performance by unbeaten and sixth-ranked Davie, it shrugged off the Vikings' early success and handed out its sixth butt-kicking, 47-13.

With Cooter Arnold rushing for 240 yards and going 4 of 4 through the air, Justin Brown rushing for 148 yards and three touchdowns and linebacker D.J. Rice tallying 12 solo tackles, the War Eagles are 7-0 for the second time in 49 years and the first time since 1965.

"We had extra time to prepare, and we tricked them and have got enough athletes where we were able to move it a little and score," Oakley said. "But shoot, those guys are monsters. They just dominate you in every aspect of the game. They come at you with three great backs, their offensive line is always going to be one of the best in the area and they are steamrolling people. We are like the other six teams that have played them besides Crest. We got it handed to us on both sides of the ball."

Dating to the middle of last year, the War Eagles have won 12 of 13. Their average margin this year is 40-11, and seventh-year coach Doug Illing acknowledged that they'll probably keep winning deep into November as long as they avoid costly injuries and don't hurt themselves.

"Well, it's a special group of kids and a special group of coaches," he said. "When you work hard at it - and these kids have worked very hard for three years - a lot of good things can continue to happen if they keep focussed, keep working and take it one game at a time."

Just how good were the War Eagles? They rolled up 20 first downs, 420 rushing yards and got 71 more yards on Arnold's passes to Zach Vogler and Jamar Howell. Even more astounding: They went 7 of 7 on third-down conversions and scored on 7 of 9 possessions, the exceptions being the end of the first half when they got the ball at their 7 with 23 seconds on the clock and when quarterback Brad Corriher took a knee on the game's final possession.

The only time Arnold punted was during pregame warmups.

"If we keep playing like we are, I don't think there's any defense around

JV Football Team Wins In Typical Fashion: 37-8

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

Kenneth Brown ran for the biggest rushing numbers of the season, Garrett Benge went deep to Josh Eder for the umpteenth time and Brandon Stewart and Mark Huggins delivered their customary bone-jarring hits as Davie's JV football team took the North Forsyth Vikings behind the woodshed and popped them 37-8 in the final nonconference game Thursday at War Eagle Stadium.

The 6-0 War Eagles outscored nonconference opponents 131-28. No one can ask for more than that.

"I hate the bye week," said Coach Tilden Carter, whose relentless club will sit out this week and return to action Oct. 14 at West Forsyth at 6 p.m. "I hope it doesn't stop our momentum."

The War Eagles have made a habit out of turning up a different offensive headliner each week, and this time it was Brown who did the heavy lifting. The sophomore tailback rushed for 159 yards and two touchdowns on 16 carries. After Kenny Rivers hauled in a 15-yard pass on Davie's third play from scrimmage, Brown ripped off a 57-yard TD. Brown added an 8-yard score late in the first half for a 28-8 halftime bulge.

"Every week it seems like he gets better and better," Carter said. "He made cuts that we haven't seen before. He understands that he's going to have an opportunity next year to step in and help (the varsity) out."

Benge demonstrated his graceful footwork (27 yards on three rushes) on an 11-yard TD keeper, and at 14-0 the rout was on.

On Davie's third series, Benge and Eder did it for the sixth time in as many games, with Eder streaking down the sideline on first down and turning the completion into a 21-0 lead. The duo connected three times for 56 yards.

But Eder was more electric as a blocker. Fullback Daniel Gough was also relentless in creating space for Brown.

"Eder laid some blocks on the outside runs that sprung Brown for a lot of his big plays," Carter said. "And Gough blocked his tail off."

The defense held the opposition to single digits for the fifth time as Bucky Sheppard and Huggins made eight team-high tackles apiece. Wesley Turner,

Worth Noting ...

Jevin Scott of S. Davie 7th football rushed for 100 yards for the fourth time, Justin Miller sealed the 38-14 win over China Grove with his second TD and Garrett Cookson scored on an INT return.

Jordan Schultz of N. Davie softball went 8 for 8 in a 53-1 win over Knox, and she got North's only hit in a 12-3 loss to unbeaten Erwin.

Michael Rowe scored two goals and Jordan Kinder contributed a goal and an assist as N. Davie soccer remained undefeated with a 3-1 win over S. Davie.

Justin Joplin and John Flowers both rush for 100 yards, and Zach Long tosses a TD and returns an INT 60 yards as N. Davie 7th football crushes Southeast 35-0.

Caleb Rominger (138 rushing yards) scored second-half TDs on runs of 47 and 35 yards as N. Davie 8th football turns an 8-2 deficit into a 17-8 win over Southeast.

Senior Alyson Walker of Davie tennis has a 10-5 record at No. 1 singles, and freshman Lauren Hauser is 11-3 at No. 3.

Kenneth Brown rushed for 159 yards and two TDs, Bucky Sheppard and Mark Huggins made eight tackles each, and Brandon Stewart knocked the kickoff returner's helmet off with a tackle.

Chris Jacobs, 38, and Neil Cornatzer, 26, will be inducted into the Davie High Athletic Hall of Fame Oct. 15 at halftime of Davie's home football game.

In a 47-13 win over N. Forsyth that moved Davie varsity football to 7-0, Cooter Arnold rushed for 240 yards and went 4 for 4 passing, Justin Brown rushed for 148 yards and three TDs and D.J. Rice made 12 solo tackles and five assists.

Walker, Button Lead Payback Win Over West

When West Forsyth beat Davie's tennis team for the first time in 11 matches earlier in the year, the Titans took advantage of an injury to Jackie Button. The War Eagles believed a 6-3 decision would have been theirs had it not been for the her loss at No. 2 singles and No. 1 doubles.

Walker

In last week's rematch in Clemmons, Button was healthy and Alyson Walker was on fire. And those were the keys in a payback win of 5-4. Walker won at No. 1, a reversal from the last time the teams' top players met, and Walker and Button teamed up for a commanding win at No. 1 doubles.

The pivotal Central Piedmont Conference win put Davie (9-6, 4-2 CPC) in great position for a fourth straight runner-up finish. An Oct. 6 win over visiting North Davidson, which lost the first meeting 7-2, would do it. It appears Davie and West will finish the regular season tied for second, and the second and third seeds for the state dual playoffs will be settled by a Davie-West tiebreaker match Thursday at Davie. The win also all but sealed Davie's sixth consecutive winning record.

"I told them it was really important to beat West, but I didn't want to put too much pressure on them and make them nervous," Coach Kerstin Plagemann said.

Walker played like she had a plane to catch in a 10-2 win at No. 1. To put that rout into perspective, consider that West's top player beat Walker in a tiebreaker the first time around.

Where did Walker find the extra gear? Plagemann didn't have the answer, shaking her head in amazement.

"It was the best she's played all year," the coach said. "It was supposed to be a good match. Last time Aly lost and I said: 'Why haven't you played like that all year?' She just smiled and said: 'I don't know.' Everything about her game was perfect."

No. 3 Lauren Hauser won 10-7 and No. 5 Jacquie Downing won 10-6 as the teams split singles 3-3.

Davie ended the suspense rather quickly, with Walker-Button winning 8-2 at No. 1 and Meredith Cheek-Downing winning 8-1 at No. 3.

The other doubles match went down to the wire. Jessica Overby and Hauser fell short, 9-8, in a tiebreaker.

Earlier in the week, the War Eagles thumped South Rowan 9-0. Overby won 10-0 at No. 4, Button won 10-1 at No. 2 and Downing-Cheek won 8-0 at No. 3 doubles.

Notes: Davie's lineup features seven winning records. In singles, Walker is 10-5, Hauser 11-3, Overby 8-6, Downing 8-6 and Erica Corne 5-2. In doubles Walker-Button are 6-3 and Cheek Downing are 7-5.

7th Wildcats Erupt With 35-0 Win Over Southeast

North Davie coach Ron Kirk wanted his seventh-grade football team to show what it's truly capable of doing in last week's game with visiting Southeast. He got the desired effort in the form of 35-0.

"We were long overdue to put some points on the board," he said after North bolted to a 29-0 halftime lead and coasted to 2-1-1. "We called off the dogs in the second half. We started playing everybody before halftime."

Running back John Flowers and quarterback Zach Long absolutely put the hammer to the Patriots. Flowers was on the receiving end of a 32-yard touchdown reception from Long, he rushed for TDs of 3 and 51 yards and finished with 100 yards rushing. Long returned an interception 60 yards for a TD, converted a two-point conversion with his legs and even kicked an extra point between the uprights.

They were not the only guys doing the damage. Justin Joplin broke off a 46-yard scoring run, punched in a two-point conversion, led all rushers with 108 yards and picked off a Southeast pass. For good measure, Matt Speer threw in 70 rushing yards.

Linebackers Speer, Flowers and Josh Money spearheaded the shutout.

After holding off Knox 8-6, the Wildcats lost 14-12 to unbeaten frontrunner West Rowan and tied Erwin 14-14 in triple overtime. This was the kind of game Kirk's been waiting for.

"We only lost to West by two, and that probably should have never happened. We botched a two-point conversion," he said. "And we should have beaten Erwin. We had every chance in the world to beat Erwin. That was a mess up."

Notes: Chase Sampson recovered fumble. ... North plays at home to China Grove on Oct. 12 and at South Davie Oct. 19.

South 8th Blows By CG; Sends Erwin A Message

When unbeaten Erwin had to sweat out a 42-30 win over China Grove, it raised eyebrows on South Davie's eighth-grade football team. Coach Todd Bumgarner theorized if China Grove could put 30 on the 4-0 Eagles, then his unbeaten Tigers better come to play against China Grove.

South and China Grove met last week, and all of Bumgarner's concerns were erased shortly after the coin flip. The rampaging Tigers laid waste to visiting China Grove with amazingly routine ease - 42-0 - and in the process sent a clear message to Erwin, which hosts South (5-0) in the final game in the last week of the month.

"I was nervous coming in because I keep hearing about Erwin being strong, Erwin beat (last year's runner-up) Knox, and I know Knox is strong. So we were concerned about China Grove," Bumgarner said. "But our guys have a goal, and when I told them (the Erwin-CG score) they knew what they had to do and they played with a lot of intensity."

James Mayfield and Perry James came in averaging 18.4 and 16.6 yards per carry, respectively, but their numbers against CG were modest by those standards, with James gaining 74 yards on nine carries and Mayfield 62 on six carries.

There was a good reason, however. Mayfield, James and their superior running mates - Santana Arnold (12 yards on two carries) and Shyteek Brown (35 on six) - couldn't maintain their torrid pace because South's defense didn't let China Grove breathe. The Red Devils never crossed midfield, kept giving South the ball in short walks from the end zone, and it was 28-0 at halftime.

"Our defense had them pinned inside the 30-yard line every time, and when an opponent doesn't get first downs you don't have far to go," Bumgarner said.

South's offense showed it can do more than chew up yards on the ground. It should be against the rules for quarterback Zach Illing to heap more misery on the opponent, but that's what he did in completing 2 of 2 passes for 6

North Soccer Team Beats South Davie

For the third time this season, South Davie's soccer team gave North Davie its best shot. And for the third time, North was just better.

With Michael Rowe scoring at least two goals for the sixth straight game, the Wildcats upended South 3-1 and pushed their spotless record to 9-0. Jordan Kinder scored the other goal as North put South in a 3-0 hole.

"I've been very impressed with South's play, how physical they play and how strong they play," Coach John Marshall said.

Atticus Lum set up North's first score. Rowe took the pass, flicked it over a defender's head and punched it past the keeper.

The game wasn't 10 minutes old when Anthony Capra gave the ball to Kinder, who buried a 20-yarder over the keeper and into the left corner.

The Wildcats lost their edge as the score stayed 2-0 for the rest of the half, but they went back on the attack in the second half. A Kinder-to-Rowe hookup midway through the half made it 3-0, and they had plenty of chances to pad the margin.

South avoided the shutout my blazing straight down the field for a goal.

"We played much better in the second half, we just couldn't finish," Marshall said. "Lum had a couple (scoring) chances, Rowe had a chance here and there and a couple other players had chances."

Joel Martin, Lum and Kinder were as steady as ever at midfield. Jake McKay was effective despite a sore ankle that he's ignored for several weeks. And the Capra brothers (Nicolas and Anthony) earned high marks.

"Nicolas played very well up front," Marshall said. "He created some good chances. He had three headers that just missed. He was right there. Anthony played very well. I moved him to outside midfielder because I needed him to fill a void, and he did a fantastic job."

Notes: Four games stand between North and a perfect season. The biggest obstacle appears to be a rematch with Summit, which lost 4-3 in the first meeting.

Parrish, Pratapas Help Lift King Closer To Century Mark

North Davie's volleyball team whipped Summit, Thomasville and Forsyth Country Day in every aspect of the game, and now 10th-year coach Trish King has eight wins for the 10th time.

As the Wildcats improved to 8-2 with five straight wins, King closed in on 100 wins at N. Davie. Her record entering the week was 97-28, and North has five matches until the end of the season. First Assembly is responsible for both losses, but King has seen substantial progress since the second loss to FA.

"They are improving so much," said King, who employs a starting lineup of Amber Parrish, Halie Cartner, Carly Pratapas, Samantha Maready, Susanna MacFarlane and Sarah Martin. "I look back to (1997-98) when I had Dawn Singleton, Sara Miller and all of them. That's what this group reminds me of because of the way they get along, their chemistry, and they're hard working."

In a 25-7, 25-18 win over Summit, the stars were Pratapas and Cartner, who teamed up for 21 points in game one. Pratapas was a cheerleader last year, but King is certainly glad she gave up cheering for volleyball.

"It was probably her best serving game all year," she said. "I wish she had played two years because she's got a lot of natural ability, and she's improved a whole lot. She catches on so quick."

Cianna Sampson, who made a fabulous play in a 25-17, 25-5 win over Thomasville, didn't make the team last year. But instead of quitting, she stuck with it and has come further than seemed possible.

"She has worked very, very hard," King said. "She's one of those kids that's going to do everything she can to make herself better, and she had a great heads-up play at the net. She hit the ball over and it came right back at her. It looked like there was no way she could get it, and she got it. I mean it was one of those plays where you're like: 'Man, I can't believe she did that.' "

In game two, Thomasville was victimized by the serving of Kayeee Dixon. North needed a third game in a rematch with Thomasville, but it still won without any trouble (25-16, 22-25, 15-7). And the Wildcats kept the heat on with a 25-7, 25-19 win over Forsyth Country Day.

Although the starting six has developed strong chemistry, the heart of the team is Parrish, who piled up 14 points in one of the games with FCD. She hits overhead serves with a fury that overpowers even her teammates. Andrea Paproky added productive serves.

"Parrish's power serves are so good my girls at practice don't like to receive them," King said.

North Davie Softball Gets A Dose Of Barrier, Erwin

Haley Barrier struck out 16 and pitched a two-hitter when unbeaten Erwin buried South Davie's softball team 7-0, and Barrier gave North Davie similar treatment last week.

Jordan Schultz's triple represented North's only hit as Barrier collected nine strikeouts in a 12-3 win over the Wildcats. For good measure, Barrier added two hits.

It didn't help that the Wildcats were coming off a 53-1 win (no, that's not a misprint) over one of a handful of automatic Ws in the Mid-South Conference - Knox. That ridiculously easy win had North's offensive rhythm completely out of sync, not that it would have made much difference.

"Barrier can throw nine straight strikes," Coach Jamie Lyerly said. "She didn't throw hardly any balls. We practiced hitting off the pitching machine, but I guess it's different. The girls kept striking out. They were way behind on her pitches."

At times, the Wildcats (5-3, 4-2 MSC) were their own worst enemy. Perhaps awestruck by facing the 8-0 Eagles, they made several uncharacteristic miscues with the leather.

"We made errors on routine plays," Lyerly said. "One ball went under an infielder's glove and then under an outfielder's glove. I don't know if they were nervous or scared, but ..."

The consolation was that Barrier has handcuffed everyone in the league.

"Schultz plays on her tournament team, and Barrier plays almost every weekend," Lyerly said. "She's one of the best I've seen."

Cassandra McClannon, who took over at third base after the start of play, got four grounders hit her way and made the play each time.

Some things defy explanation, such as the Wildcats' 53-1 win over Knox. It was a pretty normal game for two innings. It was 3-1 after one inning and 10-1 through two. But the floodgates opened in the third and final inning, and Knox didn't close them until 43 runs had crossed.

"We wanted to score six to get the game over with, and we scored 43," Lyerly said. "Knox did pretty good the first two innings. I don't know what happened in the third inning."

The sizzling Schultz led the parade around the bases, going 8 for 8 with three triples and a home run. Grace Loeffler had four hits and North got two from Kellie Brown, Kelsey Crisco, Katie Vanniman, Emma Gordan, Samantha Tarleton and Megan Marshall. All told North had 27 hits.

"Schultz hits it so good I was afraid she was going to hurt one of them," Lyerly said. "They enjoyed getting hits, but it wasn't a good game for us. It didn't do us any good at all for the next game."

Notes: The Wildcats entered the final week of the regular season tied for second with Southeast and South Davie. In a pivotal finish, they played Southeast and South Davie earlier this week.

Kirk Exhales As Rominger Rallies North To Much-Needed Win

The North Davie eighth-grade football team's 0-3 woes were one of the more disappointing stretches of Ron Kirk's coaching career. The Wildcats got blasted for the second time in three games by Erwin, and Kirk was running out of patience as they hosted Southeast.

The excruciating wait continued last week as Southeast took an 8-2 lead into halftime. Another bad half and North would fall to 0-4.

The difference in the second half was dramatic. The Wildcats scored all 15 points in the final 16 minutes and picked up a 17-8 win that they needed in the worst way.

"We talked at halftime and our defense came alive," Kirk said. "We started stunting a lot and held them to negative yards in the second half."

Southeast denied North points by stopping a deep drive late in the first half. The empty drive ultimately led to points, however, because North's defense tackled backed-up Southeast in the end zone.

On the first possession of the second half, Caleb Rominger came to the rescue, scoring on a 47-yard burst. With the game tied, the pressure was on Michael Rowe, the kicker who lined up an extra point. The soccer star drilled it for a 9-8 lead.

"That just blew their minds," Kirk said of Rowe's PAT. "Southeast couldn't believe he could do that. He will probably kick on Friday nights if he wants to. I think he likes it, and that's something I've been waiting for him to do all year. We let him kick at Erwin, but the line didn't block and they blocked it. This was a great confidence boost for him, and that put us ahead."

It remained 9-8 until midway through the fourth quarter, when Rominger (138 rushing yards) struck again, this time from 35 yards out. Kirk declined an extra point that, even if successful, would have kept Southeast within striking distance.

He went for the jugular and summoned Michael Wood, who drove the nail in the coffin, running it in from the swinging-gate formation. The lead was nine, Southeast was cooked and North was off the hook.

"It was long overdue," Kirk said. "I mean this game should have come at the (Sept. 15) West Rowan game. We just didn't jell until now."

North's defense terrorized the Patriots every time they snapped the ball in the second half. They probably had nightmares about Nos. 20 (Rominger), 2 (Christian O'Connor) and 16 (Vince Ciocce). That trio of linebackers got immense help from ends Chance Davis and Michael Mareaudy, cornerbacks John Lattimore and Cody Sutler and linemen Michael Lynch, Devin Trull and Josh Smith.

"We were like a buzzsaw," Kirk said. "They couldn't stop our linebackers and got frustrated. The linebackers were doing the stunting and the ends were coming through with big tackles. Smith is a big-time speedster. He knows how to get in those gaps."

Notes: The Wildcats outlasted Southeast 16-8 last year. Having lost to only one team (West Rowan) that it beat during last year's 5-3 season, they have a chance to rally for a respectable finish. They play at North Rowan Oct. 6, at home to China Grove Oct. 13 and at unbeaten South Davie Oct. 20. North won shootouts with North Rowan (30-22) and China Grove (30-28 in OT) last year.

Old School: Sports From 1987

• In the CPC opener, Davie's varsity football team beat Parkland 35-18 for a 3-1 record. Andre Frost blocked a punt for the second straight week, and Shane Fleming scored two TDs and led Davie in rushing for the third time in four games. Fleming also went 2 for 2 on halfback passes.

• North Davie's freshman football team beat Chestnut Grove 27-8 as Patrick Murphy went 8 of 11 for 158 yards. Alex Nail scored on a 55-yard pass from Murphy.

• Davie's tennis team beat West Forsyth and South Rowan by 8-1 scores. Kim Freshwater, Beth Dwiggins, Traci Wennerberg, Kelly Gantt, Mary Johnson and Flora Freuler led Davie over previously-unbeaten West, giving Davie records of 8-2 overall and 6-2 in the CPC.

CONGRATULATIONS

To last week's winners in our Football Contest

First Place = $25 to James Williams
Second Place = $5 to Reggie Jones

James (Cooter) Williams takes the top prize this week with just 7 missed games. Reggie Jones had to come closest in the tie-breaker to claim second over several others with 8 misses. A large number of entries were close behind with 9 and 10 missed games.

This week our hometown Davie War Eagles get a night off before starting the Central Piedmont Conference schedule next week with the Titans of West Forsyth coming to War Eagle Stadium.

Kick back and relax this Friday and get ready for next week all you War Eagle fans out there!!

yards, including a 48-yard catch-and-run score by Mayfield late in the first half.

"We went to the shotgun in our spread, and China Grove had two guys covering three," Bumgarner said.

The next time Illing put it in the air, he found tight end Chris Sponaugle for 15 yards.

"We should have had a touchdown on that one, but Sponaugle lost his bearings and got knocked out of bounds at the 2," Bumgarner said. "We ran play-action and Sponaugle was 10 yards behind the cornerback and safety. They were flying up to stop the run."

Despite the constant short field, South's backs averaged nearly 8 yards per carry. Michael Wainwright touched it once and went 12 yards.

Bumgarner said South does it game after game because the line and tight ends do their jobs as impressively as the ball carriers.

"To be honest, I think that's why this team is as good as it is," he said. "I know we've got the skill players, but we wear people down up front. This is the best group that I can remember (in my seven years here)."

The defense pitched a ho-hum shutout. Josh Oswell teams up with Arnold, Mayfield and James at linebacker, and on the rare occasions when someone breaks past the first two walls, they find a hungry secondary in Brandon Walls, Brown and Absher. "Absher will hit you," Bumgarner said.

Notes: The running score for the Tigers is 202-0, and they are 13-0 in two years. ... Aaron Peoples was solid at nose guard. ... South has a bye this week. It plays at Knox Oct. 13 and at home to North Davie Oct. 20.

Stewart and Justin Downs added five stops each, and four of Downs' were solos.

But it was hits by Stewart and Huggins that everyone remembered. Stewart could fill a season highlight reel with his monster licks, and he added to the collection against a kickoff returner.

"He knocked the kid's helmet off," Carter said. "You could see the helmet go 3 yards back and pieces of the helmet come out. It was unbelievable. I watched it (on film) about four times."

Later, the rugged Huggins came flying on a blitz and leveled the running back.

"He was half a second from taking the handoff," Carter said. "That might be the hardest hit we've had all year, and that's saying something."

Huggins opened the second-half scoring with a 25-yard field goal, and Floyd Collins closed the book with a TD run.

The third headhunter was Rivers, who made hay on the kickoff team.

"What he did on kickoff coverage was phenomenal. We had not seen that out of him," Carter said. "I challenged him today to get to the ball in a hurry, and he did. He laid about three bone-crushing hits."

Note: Whit Merrifield, a key component at DB and special teams, missed his second game with a pulled hamstring. He is expected back for West Forsyth.

Davie Scores At Mind-Boggling Rate

that can stop us," Vogler, a junior receiver who scored one of Davie's seven TDs, said. "I mean if we keep passing like we did tonight and get the coaches a little confidence in our passing game, we might be able to pass a little more to make us even more dangerous."

Arnold had one man to beat on the game's second play. Marvin Bohannon caught him at the North 22 to prevent a 76-yard score, but Brown powered to paydirt three plays later.

Brown needed less than a quarter to score three touchdowns. His 16-yarder put Davie up 12-7 and a 9-yarder - in which Brown bowled into L.J. Davis and dragged him into the end zone - made it 19-7.

"Brown's always been awfully good," said Oakley, the former offensive coordinator who gave Brown the ball 246 times in 2002. "I mean he rushed for 1,000 yards as a sophomore, and he's just gotten better."

Arnold made North's defense dizzy on Davie's third and fourth series. With Corriher taking the snaps and Arnold at tailback, Arnold took a pitch and sold the run. Then he looked up and found a wide-open Vogler, who completed a 34-yard score.

Five minutes later, Arnold dashed 54 yards for the halftime score, 33-13.

The perfect execution between Arnold, Vogler and Howell pumped life into a sagging passing game. It also was a nice reward for Vogler, who had provided effective blocking but had not gotten a chance to reel in balls since replacing the injured Dewayne Collins.

"We'd been setting that (halfback pass) up, and I went in like I was going to crack," Vogler said. "They thought I was cracking and the defensive back came up. It was a perfect pass. Right before I caught it I was like: 'Please, don't drop it.'

"I've tried to do the best I can to fill (Collins' shoes)."

But before Arnold's toss to Vogler, North had come right back after Davie's first and third TDs. Scott completed a 23-yard pass to give North a 7-6 lead, he completed a 14-yarder to pull North to 19-13 and he finished the half with 90 passing yards and 59 rushing yards.

"(Scott) was nice," junior cornerback Raeshon McNeil said. "He was quick. In my personal opinion, he may have been a little bit quicker than Cooter. Hey, he was good."

"Coach Oakley put in some new stuff we haven't seen and they did a great job of executing it," Illing said. "Scott's a dang good player. Give them credit."

Still, Davie's hottest defense in 25 years was irritated about giving up 13 points, or six more than it surrendered in the previous three games combined.

"I was mad," McNeil said. "Coach told us if we pitch a shutout, we wouldn't have to practice Monday and Friday (of bye week). When they scored that first one, I was furious. We hadn't seen that. We corrected it and it didn't work the next time."

Davie kept the vaunted Scott, who authored a 9-of-9 masterpiece against West Forsyth, and North's offense in check in the second half. Rice (17 tackles), Logan Buchanan (seven), Zac O'Brien (six), Chris Goode (four), ReShaun Parks (three) and Bubba Boger (three) made sure of that.

The second half fit Davie's defensive personality. North sputtered to 77 yards, including 32 passing yards and minus-10 rushing yards by Scott.

"I played them good on one side, and Cooter played good on the other and got him an interception," McNeil said of the pass defense. "They tried to run the same play that they scored on and I got my interception."

O'Brien tripped Shawn Aikens for no gain on third-and-inches, Goode decked Davis for a 4-yard loss on fourth-and-3 and Harry Brown wrecked a reverse, charging through the line and making a shoestring tackle 10 yards in the backfield.

"We'd been practicing the reverse all week, and thanks to my teammates I was there to make the play," said Brown, who rotates with star Ted Randolph at defensive tackle. "When they called reverse, I got back there."

"That could have broke a long ways," Rice said of Brown. "Harry's just as good as all of them. That's the thing: We've just got three or four good players, so they have to rotate (on the DL)."

But the beast who really hammered North into submission was Rice, who added spice to his superstar status with college recruiters in the packed-house audience. His reputation has spread all the way to the University of North Carolina.

When Rice was basking in the postgame glow, secondary coach Mike Rominger walked by and shouted: "The best linebacker in the state."

Rice blushed: "I don't know. That's a heckuva compliment. I don't know if I'm that great. The best in the state - that's pretty high caliber."

"He had something to prove tonight," Illing said. "There were a lot of eyes in the stands from colleges wanting to see what he's capable of. And he showed them. They were looking at (center Ryan Boehm) us well. Of course they're looking at Cooter, too."

SPEAKING OF COOTER, he pulled off two runs that expanded his legendary highlight-video material. On the first one, the 54-yarder in the first half, he took the snap and swooped around right end, right in front of statistician Maxie Melton. Three Vikings converged on Arnold, who somehow snaked through the maze and romped to daylight. Melton witnessed a 90-degree cut at full speed and said you had to see it to believe it.

In the third quarter, Arnold sliced through would-be tacklers for 38 yards to the North 32, where he was one-on-one with Bohannon. He put a did-you-see-that move on Bohannon and cruised the rest of the way for a 70-yard score.

Arnold, who rushed for 152 yards on 10 first-half carries, crossed the 4,000-yard mark for his career.

"And Bohannon's not a bad athlete," Oakley said. "He's probably going to be a college defensive back. But Cooter's an unbelievable athlete. I talked to the coach at Carolina today and he honestly thinks Cooter's one of the best five players in the state."

There's nothing like scoring on every possession. Vogler produced a perimeter block that helped Brown ram for 20 yards, and fullback Jamar Bratcher did the rest on Davie's seventh TD in seven possessions (if you erase the end of the first half when the clock stopped Davie).

Ced Hickman, who ran all over Davie (252 yards on 33 carries) as North spoiled Davie's 2003 homecoming 24-22, was held to 9 yards on five carries. In fairness to Hickman, a torn ACL has reduced him to a shadow of his 2003 ability.

"I take my hat off to them. They are very strong," Scott said. "Their middle linebacker (Rice) got after me all night with his speed and strength. They were very impressive speed-wise and strength-wise."

Notes: North of the Metro 4-A Conference was coming off back-to-back wins. It fell to 3-3. ... Davie has a bye this Friday. It opens Central Piedmont Conference play Oct. 15 at home against archrival West Forsyth.

Chasing 1965

Can Davie Break A Record That's Stood For 39 Years?

Davie's football team appears on a verge of a historic season. The War Eagles are thinking about going undefeated. They made a little history last week, joining the 1965 Rebels as the only teams to start 7-0.

Although it's difficult to compare teams from distinctly different eras - the '65 team featured 10 two-way players, while the current team platoons for the most part; and most athletes in the old days played three sports, while many of today's athletes pump weights in the offseason and specialize in one sport - there are striking similarities between Jack Ward's '65 bunch and Doug Illing's '04 crew. The '65 Rebels had 19 seniors. This team has 22 seniors. The Rebels led West Rowan 50-0 at halftime. This team led Statesville 38-0 at halftime. The Rebels could win with defense or offense, outscoring its first seven opponents 247-19. This team dominates on both sides, outscoring its first seven opponents 280-77.

Stars like Earl Shoaf (quarterback), Randall Ward (running back), Ronnie Foster (receiver), Ronnie Spry and Edgar Osborne and their 27 teammates finished the regular season 10-0 before losing in the first round of the playoffs.

Below are the scores of the first seven games for both teams. Now let's see if the '04 team can match 1965's 10-0 run and then set a new record for consecutive single-season wins (11).

Big Carp

Jessica Younts, with the help of her brother, Jacob, caught this 25-pound carp at Jean's Lake in a children's tournament. She won the big fish of the day prize. Jacob and Jessica, of Powhatan, Va., were visiting their grandparents, Richard and Ann Younts of the Fork community.

Usual Suspects Lead The Way For South 7th

South Davie's seventh-grade football team used a familiar combination to pound visiting China Grove 38-14 last week.

Tailback Jevin Scott and fullback Justin Miller scored two touchdowns apiece while combining to average a gaudy 15.3 yards per rushing attempt as the Tigers (4-1) ran off with their third straight win.

Scott, who was unstoppable in four years with the Mocksville Rams, endured rough spots in the transition from Youth League to middle school, but he has increasingly justified his preseason raves, reaching 100 yards for the fourth time on just seven carries. His season totals are 58 carries for 596 yards, a 10.3 average, and he's on pace for 954 yards.

"He battled through some tough times early in the year, but he has stepped it up and taken more of a leadership role," Coach Todd Bumgarner said. "Early in the year he wasn't sure what we expected out of him. He has improved not only in his play, but also in his maturity level."

And if Scott stays on his current path?

"He can be a special player," Bumgarner continued. "He's got all the tools. He's fast, he's built low to the ground, he runs with power and he's smart."

The Tigers could do nothing wrong in the first half, bullying their way to a 22-0 lead. But they watched the margin shrink to 22-14 in the third quarter. Thanks to Miller, South exploded again to finish with 12 more points than it had in any previous game.

Miller's second TD scamper returned the momentum to South's side, and he gained his 76 yards on two carries.

"If Justin will learn to play full speed every play in practice and games, he's going to be a good player," Bumgarner said. "When he goes full speed, he wreaks havoc offensively and defensively."

Miller has rushed for 156 yards on nine carries in the last two games.

"He had some fumble trouble early in the year, and we lost a little confidence in giving him the ball," he said. "But he's worked through that and become a better blocking fullback, too.

"China Grove was keying on Scott, and we exploited Miller through the middle."

Scott and Miller did their usual defensive damage at linebacker, and they were complemented by Tyreese Blackwell, Ray Sheppard, Will Marrs and Chris Hurt.

"Blackwell had an outstanding game," Bumgarner said. "Marrs had his best game. He made a bunch of tackles. And Hurt had a real good game blocking at tight end and on defense."

Other than the lapse in the third, when China Grove scored back-to-back TDs to make it interesting, South dominated. The win was iced by lineman Garrett Cookson, who picked off a wounded duck and raced to the end zone.

"We chased the quarterback back, he let it go and it hit Cookson right in the gut," Bumgarner said with a chuckle. "I was tickled for him."

Notes: South is tied for second in the nine-team Mid-South Conference, but the final three games will test its mettle. Knox (away Oct. 12), Erwin (away Oct. 14) and North Davie (home Oct. 19) are all among the top four. ... South has a bye this week.

Shady Grove Varsity Shuts Out Cooleemee

Varsity - SG 28, Cooleemee 0

Caleb Howard rushed for 127 yards, Andrew Ledford scored two touchdowns and Trevon Faulkner caught two passes for 48 yards as Shady Grove pounded Cooleemee.

Faulkner added an interception, and Shady Grove got three tackles from Howard, four from Christian McGougan, two tackles for losses from Ledford and two stops from Cole Jackson.

Varsity - Cool 28, Pinebrook 6

Pinebrook's TD came on a 47-yard run by Chris Tompson. Alex Newman, Chris Carter, Austin Doby and Jacob Reavis led Pinebrook in tackles, with Newman and Carter making seven each.

Varsity - Corn 6, WRD 0

Cornatzer scored in the closing minutes to deny William R. Davie. Jarrett Wallace led the Raiders with 69 yards on eight carries, and James Sprinkle, Tanner Bledsoe and Tyler Lee made seven tackles each. Josh Chunn and Jerrick McKnight had five each, and Matthew Dyson and Wallace had four each.

"We took an undefeated team down to the wire," WRD coach Jason Murphy said. "The defense played really strong and our offense is getting better every week. Our 0-4 record doesn't indicate how well our team is playing."

JV - Cornatzer 30, WRD 14

Rackwon Gray rushed for 270 yards and scored four TDs, and Ty Marshall had nine tackles. Tyler Correll, Brent Hill and Jonathan Tice added six tackles each for the victorious Cougars (3-1).

Jacobs, Cornatzer To Be Inducted Into Hall Oct. 15

Davie High will induct two former athletes into its hall of fame at halftime of Davie's next home game, Oct. 15 against West Forsyth. The inductees will be Chris Jacobs, 38, and Neil Cornatzer, 26.

Davie invites the 15 past members to come down to the field at halftime to be recognized before the introduction of Jacobs, Cornatzer and the 1983 golf team, which is being inducted for finishing second in the state. The hall of fame reception will be at 6:30 p.m. in the cafeteria.

The past members are Jill Amos Lindblade, Janice Markland Jackson, Dewayne Grant, John Parker, Randall Ward, Angie Browder Slubach, Jeffrey Lankford, Bill Peeler, Burt Barger, Jingles Ijames, Deanna Thomas Randolph, Sarah Gardner Shanks, Scotty Spry, Grimes Parker and Aileen Steelman.

Jacobs played football and track and graduated in 1984. After an all-state football season in 1983, he went on to play defensive tackle at North Carolina.

Cornatzer played football and wrestled. He won two state championships in wrestling and started at fullback for Appalachian State.

Bandits Enjoying Success

The Davie Bandits Junior/Senior Team 2 softball team has enjoyed success in three tournaments, sandwiching two first places around a runner-up.

In the latest tournament last weekend, Davie lost two games on Saturday, then blazed through the losers bracket and snatched first.

The infielders are shortstop Lindsey Garrett, third baseman Emma Gordan, second baseman Margaret Anderson and first baseman Rachel Goin. Katie Vanniman has been steady behind the plate. Gina Williams and Lauren Parker handle the pitching, and Sarah Daywalt, Karli Dempski, Kaley Keaton and Morgan Wishon play the outfield. Davie's biggest sticks have been Garrett, Goin, Keaton and Anderson, according to coaches John Vanniman, Mark Goin and David Gordon.

Willoughby Wins Pitching Award

Eastern Kentucky University pitcher McKenzie Willoughby has been named the 2004 Top Relief Pitcher of the New England Collegiate Baseball League, according to a vote by the league's coaches.

Willoughby, a 6-2 sophomore and 2003 Davie High graduate, went 2-0 in a team-high 20 appearances for the Vermont Mountaineers this season. The Mocksville native led the league with 11 saves and was named to the NECBL Northern Division All-Star team. He finished with a 1.35 ERA and was second on the team with 36 strikeouts. He held opponents to a team-low .138 batting average and allowed just four earned runs on 13 hits in 26 2/3 innings.

Last season as a freshman for the Eastern Kentucky Colonels, Willoughby recorded one save in seven appearances.

Peeler Charges Back Ending 2-Meet Slump

Davie's Bekah Peeler was good, but not great, in back-to-back cross country meets against three Central Piedmont Conference teams. She slumped to finishes of 14th and 12th.

Peeler

The defending CPC champion got back on track last week, finishing third in 21 minutes, 33 seconds. She was 44 seconds back of Reynolds' Ashley Samuel, who finished second to Peeler in last year's CPC championships.

"Bekah came back into form and was able to beat (fourth-place Emily Williams of West Forsyth)," Coach Daric Beiter said. "With a quarter-mile left, Bekah and Williams were together and Bekah beat her by 30 seconds, and Williams is a quality runner.

"Two girls from Reynolds beat Bekah, but I think with three weeks until the conference meet she can get back up with them and challenge for the championship."

Kelsey Steller - who had been on a roll during Peeler's slump, including a runner-up finish in the previous race - stumbled to ninth as Davie's No. 2 runner. The wear and tear of juggling competitive soccer with cross country appeared to take its toll.

"She's got a little knee problem," Beiter said. "She also does soccer and she might be suffering a little from that right now. But I expect her to be OK."

Davie's third and fourth runners were Stephanie Jarvis and Elizabeth Budd. The scores were Reynolds 30, West Forsyth 38, Davie 67 and North Davidson 103.

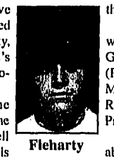
Corey Doub, as always, paced Davie's boys. He finished fifth in 19:03. But no one else finished higher than 25th as Davie finished fourth. It was West Forsyth 17, North Davidson 63, Reynolds 71 and Davie 95.

"Doub had a real strong effort, but again we can't be in the 20s," Beiter said. "Our second guy can't be behind (West's) fifth guy. We're working hard, but it's going to take more effort."

Davie hosts a meet at its Pinebrook course on Oct. 6. It goes to West Forsyth Oct. 13. The CPC championships are Oct. 20 at West Forsyth.

Things Darken For Davie Soccer Teams

Davie's varsity soccer team is still trying to turn things around. It lost last week's Central Piedmont Conference opener 5-0 to visiting West Forsyth, and Coach Jeremy Byrd couldn't find anything positive except for the determined play of Jarrett Fleharty, who is one of Davie's best players as a sophomore.



Fleharty

It was a 1-0 game through 38 minutes of the first half. Then Davie fell apart, allowing two goals in the last two minutes of the half.

Sophomore Tyler Baity, who moved up to varsity early in his freshman year, is no longer with the team. He transferred to a Christian school.

The third straight loss dropped Davie's overall record to 0-7-2.

The junior varsity suffered its third straight loss, too, including its second without sophomore Michael Sulier, who scored nine goals during a 3-4 start. Davie (3-6) hasn't scored in Sulier's absence, losing 3-0 to West Forsyth.

Still, Coach Hugh Lee saw progress in defeat.

"In the (9-0 loss to Lake Norman) the kids realized how an excellent team plays, how they spread the field and how they pass," he said. "We worked on that, trying to emulate what they do, and at times we did that very well to where we could string three, four, five passes together and move the ball down the field."

Lee found no fault with his keeper (Robert Gassett) and defenders (Ross Davidson, Adam McIlwain, Jonathon Roesch and Zach Prevette).

"I can't say enough about Gassett as a goalkeeper," he said. "He has learned that position this year, he has worked hard in practice and he has played really well. The defenders in front on him have played excellent defense.

"But it's hard to play well for 70 minutes. We can't make any defensive mistakes. We've got to find a way to score in the absence of Sulier."

Lee has also seen adequate progress from midfielders Ryan Davis, John Michael Bartelt and Irving Cisneros.

"Davis is working his tail off," he said. "Bartelt and Cisneros are doing a real good job."

Davie plays at home to Reynolds on Oct. 7, at home to Southwest Randolph (varsity only) on Oct. 11 and at North Davidson on Oct. 12.

Whitaker Looks Impressive In Defeat

Erin Whitaker performed above and beyond the call of duty last week for Davie's varsity volleyball team. Unfortunately, the senior's superlative efforts came in two losses and during a stretch in which Davie has lost five of six matches.

Davie (4-15, 1-3 Central Piedmont Conference) lost a CPC match to North Davidson in four games (20-25, 28-26, 15-22, 22-25) and a nonconference bout with Mooresville in three games (10-25, 10-25, 20-25).

Although Davie has been crippled further by a back injury to Carly Booth and a pulled leg muscle to Nicole Maready, Coach Karen Stephens said, "I don't think we should have lost in the conference."

Ashley Davidson had a big day against N. Davidson, racking up 13 kills and eight blocks. Jamie Stancliff had seven kills, Maready four blocks at less than 100 percent and Ashley Cornatzer paced the service game. Whitaker was second in serving efficiency and first in passing percentage.

Cornatzer, Davidson and Whitaker carried Davie as far as they could. Whitaker, in particular, has really come to play of late.

"Davidson's doing a really good job of holding down the front row," Stephens said. "Cornatzer is still doing a good job of leading us. All the kids have had to play different spots (due to the injuries), and Cornatzer is having to hit more because we've got two hitters down.

"Whitaker is playing the best of anybody all the way around. I bet she served eight straight points (in one match), and she's hitting and passing great. And she's even had to set the ball some as a secondary setter. Her leadership has stepped up. She's very focussed right now. She's taken some of the load of (Booth and Maready) being out and put it on her shoulders."

Stephens also recognized Grace Didenko's solid play. The highlights, however, were scare against high-octane Mooresville.

Maready led in kills and blocks with four and three, respectively, as Davie suffered its seventh three-games-to-none defeat.

Whitaker

Junior Varsity

The JV's fortunes didn't change, either. The War Eagles (6-10, 1-3) lost 16-25, 18-25 to N. Davidson and 13-25, 21-25 to Mooresville.

"We're still very, very inconsistent," Coach Becky Miller said. "I was very disappointed (vs. Mooresville) because we beat them (in three games) the last time. It's almost like we're backsliding, and it's mainly because of communication. They just beat us."

The only sparks vs. Mooresville came from players who hadn't been getting much playing time: Stacy Hendricks, Kylie Jenkins and Jordan Reavis.

"Hendricks is becoming quite a good hitter," Miller said. "Jenkins went in to set and did a real good job. And Reavis is hitting the ball real well. They're really getting their confidence."

Against N. Davidson, Tanisha Reynolds led the way in points (four ace serves) and kills (four). Laura Vanhoy had the only block.

Hendricks and Jenkins had three kills apiece against Mooresville, and Vanhoy had three stuff blocks. But they couldn't prevent an eighth two-games-to-none loss.

Davie plays at home to South Rowan on Oct. 7, at West Iredell Oct. 9 and at Reynolds Oct. 12.

If She Pre-Qualifies For A Mortgage At CCB, She Could Upgrade To A Size 12D.

You may think pre-qualifying for a mortgage quickly and without any hassles was, well, as unbelievable as an elderly woman residing in a CCB shoe. But at Central Carolina Bank, happy endings are our specialty.

Whether you're a first-time buyer or want to upgrade to a larger home, we can pre-qualify you for a loan, quickly and free of charge.

If you're into oversized boots with tiny bedrooms, that's fine with us. But you should know that we can also help you purchase a real house. With considerably more room to boot. And you'll find we offer fully competitive rates in addition to a variety of financing options. Just pre-qualify over the phone or in person and you'll be prepared up-front with all the information you need to close the loan.

So if you thought owning your dream home only existed in some sort of bizarre fairy tale, stop by your local CCB office.

Are Biological Contaminants Invading Your Home?

Do you or members of your family sneeze frequently or have nasal or respiratory problems on a regular basis?

You could have biological contaminants in your home.

Biological contaminants are microscopic organisms present in the air we breathe. The tiny particles of dust, pollen, mold and pet dander can pose serious health problems, such as asthma.

Contaminants are usually carried into the house on shoes, clothing, hair and pets, where they breed in upholstered furniture, bedding, drapes, carpeting and other areas. By securing our homes against Jack Frost or the sizzling heat of summer, we trap these dangerous contaminants inside.

What can you do to rid your home of these potentially dangerous organisms?

Start with a whole-house search for the perfect growing conditions—moist, humid areas. Bathrooms, laundry rooms and basements with poor air circulation are key places to look, as is any room with recent water damage.

As you take stock of each level of your home, look for signs that indicate the presence of biological organisms, such as dampness in the floors or foundation, black mold on walls or ceilings, musty odors, dust or recent pest problems.

Starting at the top of the house, make sure your attic is well ventilated and moisture free. Roof vents are an excellent way to circulate air in the attic. If you have an older home that was built without roof vents, consider installing an attic fan to regularly vent the space.

Next, check out the bedrooms and living rooms. Carpeting and fabric are potential problem areas. Carpeting can harbor moisture and is the perfect breeding ground for all kinds of organisms. Regular cleaning will help control the infestation, but no method short of removal will completely eradicate organisms.

Experts recommend foregoing carpeting if a family member has asthma. Hardwood floors are a safer alternative and just need a weekly mopping to stay clean.

Upholstered furniture, window coverings, bedding and stuffed animals all collect dead skin flakes, encouraging high populations of dust mites. Again, regular cleaning is ideal, but not always practical. To reduce contaminants, vacuum your upholstery and window coverings often, encase bedding with impermeable non-allergenic plastic covers and purchase only washable non-allergenic stuffed animals.

High in humidity, bathrooms and the kitchen, laundry room and basement are particularly prone to harboring biological contaminants. Install fans in your bathrooms to cut down on the moisture that clings to surfaces after a shower or bath. Add an exhaust fan above your range that vents outside to reduce humidity and eliminate irritating cooking fumes. Vent your clothes dryer outside, not into another room or crawl space. Better yet, hang clothing outside to dry whenever possible. Use a sealant on basement walls and make sure rainwater is directed away from the house to prevent moisture problems.

Maintaining a moderate humidity level in the home is important to minimize mite and mold growth. Too much humidity encourages biological growth, while too little inhibits the natural protective ability of the mucous membranes in the nasal cavity to filter out airborne particles. According to experts, you should keep the humidity level between 35 and 40 percent. When humidity levels soar or drop, you may need to use a humidifier to keep humidity within a comfortable range.

Experts recommend cleaning the house on a regular basis to control biological organisms. However, don't go overboard, or you may actually intensify the problem by raising levels of airborne contaminants. Clean the house once a week and ask family members who are highly allergic to leave or wear a dust mask.

To help facilitate the cleaning process, keep electronics, CDs, VCR tapes and books in closed cabinets. Keep collectibles and knickknacks to a bare minimum or put them in glass cabinets for display. Use a damp cloth to wipe surfaces. Never use feather dusters—they only spread dust, not collect it. Use a vacuum cleaner with HEPA certified bags. These high-efficiency particulate-arresting bags gather the most microscopic organisms. Replace the bags frequently to prohibit bacterial growth within the vacuum. Wipe blinds with a damp cloth. Vertical blinds actually accumulate less dust than horizontal blinds, so use verticals whenever possible.

In addition to keeping bathrooms well ventilated, use washable, mildew-proof paint for walls and hard surface flooring. Keep tub and sink drains free of hair and soap scum, replace missing or discolored caulking with new and wash bathroom fixtures with a bleach solution.

Treat kitchen surfaces the same as bathroom surfaces. Keep the drip tray of the refrigerator clear of standing water. Wash it periodically with a bleach solution. Cover pans whenever possible to minimize irritants.

Breathe better by following some of these guidelines to eliminate many of the biological contaminants in your home.

Make Sure Your Vehicles Are Ready For Cold Winter Weather

Spending Time Now Could Save Money During The Freeze

Cooler weather is here, and to stay safe on the road, you need to prepare your vehicle for the harsher weather ahead.

Start with the windows.

As the weather turns cold, thermal shock will set in and turn small chips and nicks into large cracks, which could cost you hundreds of dollars to repair. You might even have to get new windows.

To avoid such costs, inspect your windows often and have chips and nicks repaired.

You should also check your windshield wipers. As it gets closer to winter, you may want to replace them with a winter set, complete with a rubber boot to prevent ice and snow from freezing on the pivot points.

After you've inspected the windows, take a look at the fluids.

Continue to change your oil as recommended and keep other fluids, such as the power steering, brake and windshield washer fluids, filled.

Don't forget about the anti-freeze and engine oil. You should change the anti-freeze every two years and follow the manufacturer's winter grade oil recommendations. Winter grade oils in general are light and make starting the engine in cold weather easier.

Next, check out the engine.

The cooler the temperature, the harder it is for fuel to ignite. Get a tune-up and make sure your belts and hoses are in good condition. Cracks, soft spots and bulges are all signs that a belt or hose should be replaced.

Make sure your heater is working properly and test the battery. A weak battery may not pose a problem in the summer, but it will probably fail in the winter when you need the extra power to start a cold engine. The average battery lasts three and a half years. If yours is older than that, you may want to replace it.

In addition to the battery, you should also inspect your brakes and check your exhaust system for leaks.

Once you're done with the engine, examine your tires. Frosty weather can take its toll on tires. Inspect your tires and replace any that have bulges or bald spots. Make sure they are properly inflated and aligned and rotate them every 6,000 miles. If you live in an area with heavy snow, you may want to use snow tires.

Finally, take a look at the exterior of your vehicle. Make sure your lights are working properly and take care of any dents, scratches or nicks.

The salt and grime of winter roads can make your vehicle prone to rust and turn small mars into large unsightly patches of rust in a matter of weeks.

Winter weather can be hard on a vehicle, even one that is properly equipped.

Be prepared by carrying an emergency roadside kit. Include in your kit a good set of booster cables, a flashlight and batteries, first aid supplies, extra blankets and clothing, a battery-powered radio with extra batteries, a tool kit, bottled water and non-perishable food, highway safety flares, spare electrical fuses and a windshield ice scraper. You might also want to carry a cell phone as well as a shovel, insulated work gloves and a bag of sand in case you should get stuck.

Installing A Tub Surround With Ease

In many older homes, bathrooms were built only with a tub.

A shower may have been added later with little long-term regard for protecting the surrounding walls. Installing a tub surround is an easy way to upgrade your bath and save your walls from water damage.

For experienced do-it-yourselfers, the project can be completed in a couple of hours.

For beginners, it may take a little longer.

Home improvement stores carry a wide variety of tub surrounds in all shapes, sizes, colors and configurations.

Select the one most appropriate for your room and gather all your materials and tools before beginning the project. In addition to the tub surround, you'll need a tape measure, a pipe or hex wrench, a hole saw, a 14' x 14' piece of cardboard, a caulking gun and caulk, and some adhesive.

If you have ceramic tiles around your tub, you can install the tub surround directly over them, as long as they are in good condition. If any tiles are loose or damaged, you should remove all of the tiles and sand the wall smooth. Once the wall is dry and has been cleaned, you can get started.

First, turn off the water and remove the plumbing fixtures with a pipe or hex wrench.

Starting with the wall that contains the plumbing, measure the distance between the fixtures and transfer those measurements to the cardboard to serve as a template. Cut out the fixture locations on the template and place it against the wall for accuracy. Make any necessary adjustments.

Next, lay the template on the back of the surround panel for that wall and mark the fixture locations. Using the hole saw, cut out the fixture holes. Position the panel in place to test it for accuracy. Make any adjustments and then apply the adhesive to the back of the panel, following the manufacturer's instructions and leaving a three-inch space along the edge. Wait a few minutes to allow the adhesive to set and then apply pressure evenly over the surface of the panel.

After the first panel is up, proceed with the adjacent panel, holding it in place to test for proper alignment. Apply the adhesive as you did with the first panel and then allow it to set before applying pressure.

Once the panel is in place, seal the edges of both panels with a silicone caulk for a finished look and to prevent water seepage. Install the plumbing fixtures and step back and admire your work.

Let the tub surround sit for at least 24 hours to allow the adhesive and caulk to set. For extra bonding strength, use 2x4s to brace the panels in place.

With just a little time and patience, you can install a tub surround and have an attractive, functional tub and shower area for years to come.

The right improvements can grow in value.

Finding Space For All Those Kitchen Gadgets Can Be Challenging

Bread makers, crock-pots, mixers, juicers, slicers ... the list of timesaving and convenient products goes on.

But where do you put them all?

Finding enough storage space for all of today's modern kitchen gadgets and appliances can be a challenge.

You might be surprised to learn that women a hundred years had the same problem—limited storage space—until the advent of the Hoosier.

Do you know what a Hoosier is?

Well, yes, it is the name of that Indiana basketball team, but it is also the name of the first mass-produced kitchen cabinet almost exclusively manufactured in Indiana. A Hoosier was a tall freestanding cabinet similar to a hutch but more elaborate with many niches for storing everyday items. The upper portion consisted of enclosed shelving perfect for storing fine china and crystal, while the lower portion contained drawers and cabinets for storing pots and pans. A waist-high porcelain work surface in the middle served as a food prep center. Every possible inch of the unit was designed for storage. Even the inside of the cabinet doors held racks for lids.

The Hoosier revolutionized American kitchens.

Every woman wanted one because it had compartments for silver and spices, bins for cornmeal and flour, a breadbox and, in some models, a built-in sifter. The Hoosier taught us everything we needed to know about kitchen storage.

Today we just need to expand upon those ideas and incorporate them into our kitchens.

The first step is to evaluate your needs.

If you enjoy baking, you would probably like to have your mixer and cake pans close at hand, whereas if you're always on the go, you may need to get to your crock-pot quickly. The trick to an efficient kitchen is to find the space that allows maximum access for each item you use on a regular basis.

Choosing the right type of storage for your needs could include standard cabinets, an island or hanging racks. Standard built-in cabinets probably provide the bulk of your storage space now, but are you using them efficiently? Could you shuffle items around to better utilize the space?

Cabinet manufacturers today offer a wide assortment of rollouts to fit most any cabinet or drawer. When added to lower cabinets, rollout drawers make finding items a snap. Sometimes moving items to another location opens up a whole new area for storage. For example, you may have a small closet off the kitchen that you currently use to store cleaning products. Fitted with the appropriate shelving, that closet could be used as a pantry.

If after doing an evaluation you still need more cabinet space, consider where additional cabinets would fit and how that new location could best serve your needs. Stock cabinets can be purchased in an array of sizes, materials and finishes. Furniture that you already have may also work. Dressers can be used to store linens, placemats and flatware, while bookcases make for excellent display areas.

If you have the space, consider adding an island to your kitchen. Not only will it provide an additional prep area and readily accessible storage space, but depending upon its design, it may provide other perks as well. An island with casters, for example, can be moved from one location to another as your needs change, while a stationary island can be expanded with an eating counter.

Many cooks like to have their kitchen aides visible on hanging racks. These can be purchased in an assortment of sizes and finishes for every budget. A recent trend is to use common pegboard. Painted to coordinate with your kitchen, pegboard makes an attractive hanging rack.

No matter how much space you have, there are a few simple guidelines for maximizing the use of that space:

• Keep items near the location they are used. Hang pots and pans, for example, next to the stove.

• Store items used together in the same location. Keep the mixer with the flour and sugar, or better yet, place all of your baking pans and accessories together in one location to create a baking center.

• Utilize inexpensive storage aids. Use door racks to keep foil, bags and plastic wrap organized and shallow shelving for spices and other items that you need to view and access easily.

• Make sure counters and cabinets are at an accessible height. If you have to get out a stepstool every time you need something, you may lose the joy in cooking.

These are just some of the ways you can maximize the space in your kitchen and make it more efficient.

For other storage ideas, visit your local kitchen design center or hardware store.

Minor Wall Repairs Can Have Big Payoffs

When you are considering putting your home up for sale, sprucing up the interior is always a good idea. Buyers often look at the little things to determine whether or not a home has been well cared for, so take the time to repair those cracks or holes in the walls before you apply a new coat of paint.

Over the years, most homes acquire a wall crack or two with normal settling. These minor imperfections can be a turnoff to potential buyers. Fixing holes in plaster or drywall is an easy project you can do yourself. Follow simple steps to improve the appearance of your home and increase the chances of selling it for the price you want.

Materials and tools needed to repair a plaster wall: powdered plaster patch material, a putty knife and an empty spray bottle

Remove all loose or damaged plaster. This can usually be done with your fingers or a screwdriver. Brush off any particles or dust with a dry paintbrush.

Using the spray bottle, wet the area. This will prevent the dry surface around the edges from absorbing the moisture from the plaster compound.

Follow the manufacturer's directions for mixing the plaster compound. Make just enough for the first application. Mix the product well, so the adhesive will bond with existing plaster.

Using a putty knife, apply a smooth layer of the plaster compound not more than 1/4" thick. Scratch a crosshatch pattern into the wet plaster with the edge of the putty knife to help the second layer form a tight bond. Allow the first layer to dry before adding another one. This will prevent cracking and crumbling.

5. Mix another batch of plaster compound and apply a second layer. Continue adding layers until the crack is filled and even with the wall surface. On the final layer, spread the compound so it overlaps and blends into the existing wall plaster.

When the plaster is dry, sand it lightly to achieve a smooth surface for painting.

Materials and tools needed to patch a crack in drywall: lightweight drywall compound, a putty knife and a screwdriver

Remove all damaged materials. This can be done by slicing through the crack with a screwdriver and brushing off the bits of drywall and dust with a dry paintbrush.

Apply a layer of drywall compound to the crack with your fingers, applying pressure as needed to fill tiny holes. Smooth the surface area with a putty knife, feathering the edges onto the existing drywall for an even finish. Depending upon the crack, you may have to apply several layers of compound.

When finished, lightly sand the surface and prime and paint.

Materials and tools needed for patching a hole in drywall: self-adhesive drywall tape and drywall joint compound, a T-square or ruler, a utility knife or drywall saw, a putty knife and drywall screws

Since a hole in drywall is typically deeper than a crack, the repair process is more complicated. Draw a square area around the hole with a T-square or ruler. This will be the area you will replace with new drywall. Cut out the area with a drywall saw or utility knife. Remove enough of the old drywall to expose the studs at either end.

Measure the hole and cut a new piece of drywall that fits those dimensions. Fit the piece into place and attach it to the studs with 1-1/4" drywall screws in each corner. Leave as much space as possible between the edges of the patching drywall and the screws.

Apply self-adhesive drywall tape across the edges, overlapping existing drywall. Apply thin layers of drywall joint compound over the patch surface, smoothing with a putty knife. Allow each layer to dry.

On the last layer, add water to the compound to make it slightly thinner and easier to spread. Feather the edges to form a smooth bond with the existing drywall. Prime and paint.

Benefit Yard Sale To Benefit Family That Lost All In Fire

A benefit yard sale for a family that lost everything in a house fire will be held Saturday, Oct. 23, from 8 a.m.-5 p.m. at N.C. 801 and Farmington Road.

Haircuts will be provided for donations to the family by Appearances Salon.

The James family - parents and two sons - of Pino Road lost all of their belongings, and need clothing and household items. Clothes sizes are: boys size 3 toddler and size 4 toddler, the mother is a size 14 and the father wears 36-30 pants and a large shirt. For more information, call 998-4300.

Learn To Create A Mask At Arts Council Workshop

During October, the Davie County Arts Council will be exploring the creation of masks.

A display in the lobby of the Brock Performing Arts Center consists of masks created by Kathy Clark. Clark is a self-taught Winston-Salem artist who fell in love with mask-making through her theatre studies at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

Her repertoire includes creating commedia-style masks for the production "Hall of Mirrors," performed by the Montage Showcase Ensemble. She is working on dog and cat masks for "Furr Ball," a humane society benefit. She occupies a studio in the arts district of Winston-Salem where her masks and paintings are on display, but during October, see them at the Brock Performing Arts Center.

Then, delve into your image of the mask as a family.

The Arts Council is sponsoring a two-part workshop exploring the creation of masks. Participants will be able to create a mask unique to their own expression.

The creative process begins using plaster gauze made to fit your face only. Be the only one donning your costume this Halloween by creating your own.

Claudia Parronne, an experienced artist and educator from Davie County, will be guiding the process. With 11 years of teaching the arts under her belt, she will bring out the artist in each participant. Making of the masks will be held Oct. 9 from 9 a.m.-noon, at the Brock Performing Arts Center, and later, on Oct. 14, a session will be held for decorating the masks from 7-9 p.m. Cost of the workshop is $25 per person or $40 per family or group.

The class is designed for family entertainment. Ages 12-adult, bring a partner; age levels 3-12 must be accompanied by a parent. be prepared to get messy. Pre-register by calling Regan Jones at 751-3112 or for more information, check the website www.daviearts.org.

Christian Network For Needy To Meet Oct. 12

The Christian Network for the Needy will hold its next general meeting on Tuesday, Oct. 12 at 7 p.m. at A Storehouse for Jesus, Depot Street, Mocksville.

The network is a non-denominational outreach whose mission is to help those in need in Davie County. More than 30 churches and civic organizations with more than 120 members are active in these outreaches. CNN members sponsored children so they could attend a Christian camp last summer.

A Storehouse for Jesus is one of the main outreaches with which CNN is in constant contact - letting members know of the Storehouse needs, which, in turn, helps those less fortunate. From monthly food drives, having members volunteer at the Storehouse, sponsoring families at Thanksgiving and Christmas, to helping financially are some of the ways the ministry works in the community.

"The holidays are just around the corner, and there are families that are needing to be sponsored for Thanksgiving dinner and children/seniors who are needing sponsors for Christmas," said Vickie Whicker. "Please come to the meeting to hear from Marie Collins how we can help those less fortunate during the upcoming holiday season. God bless all that you have done in Christ's name this past year."

For more information, call Virginia Burnette at 998-2660 or Whicker at 998-5387.

Rec Department Offering One-Night Mountain Trip

A one-night trip to the North Carolina mountains is being offered by the Mocksville-Davie Recreation Department.

The rec van will leave the morning of Oct. 21, traveling through Asheville to Sylva. After checking into the hotel, the group will travel to Dillsboro to enjoy the town before boarding the train for a mystery dinner, prime rib trip.

After the three-hour excursion, the group will return to the hotel for the night. A continental breakfast the next morning will be followed by a ride south through the mountains to Dillard, Ga., stopping at the Dillard House for a family-style southern lunch. The plan is to arrive back in Davie County on Oct. 22.

The cost is $190 per person, double occupancy, which includes meals and tips. The trip is limited to 10. Call 751-2325.

Jimmy Lancaster To Lead Calahaln Revival

Calahaln Friendship Baptist Church on Calahaln Road will celebrate homecoming on Sunday, Oct. 10 with the pastor, the Rev. G. Carroll Jordan, bringing the morning message, followed by dinner in the church arbor.

Lancaster

Revival services will begin Sunday evening at 7 and continue through Wednesday, Oct. 13 with the Rev. Jimmy Lancaster, pastor of Maplewood Baptist Church in Yadkinville, as the visiting preacher. He was pastor of Jerusalem Baptist Church in Mocksville from 1994-2003.

Lancaster is a graduate of Gardner-Webb College and Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary. He has been active in community and denominational activities, serving as the moderator of the South Yadkin Baptist Association and as a member of the Davie Family YMCA board of directors.

The pastor and congregation invite the community. There will be special music each service, and a nursery will be available.

Learn About Plans For Pet Adoption Center From Humane Society

The Humane Society of Davie County will hold a business meeting Oct. 12 at the Davie County Public Library in Mocksville.

Dr. Robin Brock, veterinarian and president of the society, extends an invitation to all members and the general public. The meeting is scheduled to allow those attending to learn about the society's programs and plans, especially as the society comes closer to beginning construction of its new Animal Adoption Center in 2005.

The meeting will begin at 7 p.m. with short reports on its finances, fundraisers, membership, and adoption center. Following the reports, there will be an opportunity to ask for any additional information. The meeting will conclude at 8:30.

The society has been working with the N.C. National Guard in preparing materials for the Guard to approve the construction of the Animal Adoption Center as a training project.

If the project is chosen, there is a high probability that construction of the center could begin in the spring of 2005. Details of the adoption center will be on display for viewing prior to the meeting and the society encourages all to come and see what is planned. The site is located on Eaton Road in Mocksville and is expected to greatly increase the number of animals adopted by the community while reducing the euthanising of adoptable pets in the county.

Like many home health patients, Emma Benson requires nursing visits twice a week to check on her heart condition. Recently, however, her home health nurse brought something new – an electronic device that takes Emma's vital signs and transmits the results to our home health office.

The HomMed Health Monitoring System® is a free service from Rowan Regional Home Health, and every morning takes about three minutes to input and transmit. And even if Emma didn't speak English, the monitor can speak in several languages.

So it's no wonder that doctors like the easy-to-use HomMed System for home health patients with diabetes, cancer, pulmonary and after-surgery problems.

Emma's home health nurse still visits two days a week, but she gets daily reports of how Emma's doing between visits, which makes Emma feel much better. Also, if Emma hasn't sent her data by 11 a.m. each day, immediate contact is made by phone, which is a further comfort to her and her family.

The HomMed Health Monitoring System is offered exclusively by Rowan Regional Home Health in Rowan, Cabarrus, Davie, Stanly and Iredell counties.

Call us for more information on the HomMed Health Monitoring System. And see what all the talk's about.

Emma sends her test results to a staff member at our facility. Which means if there's any change in Emma's heartbeat, blood pressure, temperature and weight from day to day it can be detected and quickly reported to her home health nurse and her physician.

Now Emma's no electronics wizard, but that's okay, because the HomMed monitor has a friendly voice that guides her through each step to record her vital signs. The whole process

Cowgirls With A Cause To Sponsor Roping, Racing

One year ago today a young lady by the name of Debby Burgess passed away of a disease that affects one out of every four women. Breast cancer. One of Debby's favorite pastimes was riding horses and breakaway calf roping. She never complained about being sick or what she had to go through. Her conversations were about her horse, Martin, or going to a rodeo.

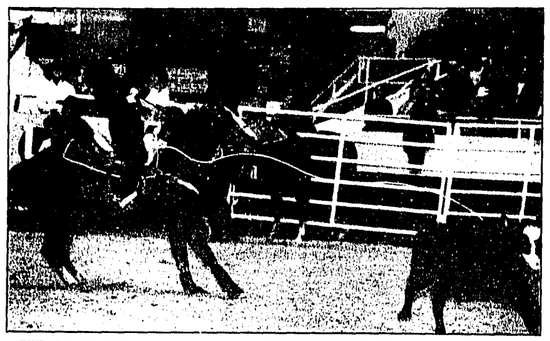
On Saturday, Oct. 23 beginning at 11 a.m., Cowgirls with a Cause is holding a benefit Cowgirls Breakaway Roping and Cowgirls 4D Barrel race in honor of Debby's memory. The contest is being held at the Diamond V Ranch arena on Sheffield Road in Harmony. All proceeds will go to the Forsyth Medical Center Breast Clinic for breast cancer research and to help other women.

A pit cooked Bar-B-Que will be served by Hidden Meadows Christian Youth Ranch. Cowgirls from three states will be competing for two beautiful trophy saddles and 14 belt buckles. The all-around winner in both events will receive free use of a horse trailer for one year. These great prizes were donated by great sponsors, and we would like to thank them all.

Gates and concessions open at 9 a.m., books open at 10, contest begins at 11. For more information about the contest, sponsorships or donations in honor of someone, or in memory of a lost loved one, call Jeff Anderson (336) 492-7857, Jennifer Dagenhart (704) 784-3587, Beth Kidd (704) 968-1162, or Roy Burgess (704) 546-3310. For directions to the event call Ricky Vaughn (704) 546-5216.

Sponsorships include banners and business signs on the arena during the contest, or logos and names on the horse trailer that will be traveling all over the state for the following year.

Barrell racing (above) and calf roping (below) will be featured at the event.



Breast Cancer Awareness Month.
Changing your body can change your life.

Curves 30-minute fitness, commonsense weight loss program can help diminish the risk of breast cancer. If you join the week of October 11th and bring in proof of a current mammogram, we'll waive the service fee.

Calvary Baptist Church wishes to thank everyone who came to the poor boy's supper and yard sale last week. Both were a great success.

On Saturday morning, Calvary will meet at the church at 8 a.m. for a trip to the North Carolina State Zoo. Anyone who wishes to go but who hasn't registered for the trip should call Peggy Carlton at 492-7114.

Piney Grove AME Zion Church will have a fall revival from Sunday morning, Oct. 10 through Friday evening, Oct. 15. The theme for the revival is "Moving to the Next Level" and is based on the text 2 Corinthians 3:17-18. At each service there will be special singing, including the Piney Grove Mass and Youth choirs, Young Y's Praise Dance team and area groups.

The Rev. Lester Fisher will bring the Sunday morning message at 11 a.m. Following the worship service, everyone will meet in the church fellowship hall for a covered dish dinner at 2 p.m. followed by a period of fellowship. Dr. Joseph L. Walton, pastor of Piney Grove AME Zion Church in Havelock, will bring the afternoon revival service at 3:30 p.m.

Revival services Monday-Friday will begin each night and will feature different speaker each night. The Rev. Johnny Ruff, pastor of Bethania AME Zion Church in Winston-Salem, will bring the message Monday, the Rev. Anthony Cannon, pastor of Bethesda AME Zion Church in Mooresville, will bring the message Tuesday; the Rev. Cassandra Fisher, associate pastor of Piney Grove, will bring the message Wednesday; the Rev. Mary Metcalf of Rhoney's Chapel AME Zion in Newton, will bring the message Thursday; the Rev. Franklin Russell of Torrence Chapel AME Zion Church in Cornelius will bring the last message on Friday evening. Everyone is invited to attend all services.

The Methodist Women of Salem United Methodist Church have been collecting school supplies for children at the Crossnore School near Boone. Crossnore is a home and school for children of broken homes. Members will meet at 8:45 a.m. Saturday morning, Oct. 9 at the church to take the supplies to Crossnore. Anyone wishing to go is invited.

Due to the Crossnore trip, the Chrismon ornament-making eclass has been canceled for that Saturday morning..

The Methodist Women will have their regular monthly meeting on Wednesday night, Oct. 13. The women will meet at the church at 6:30 p.m. and then go to Friendship United Methodist Church in Iredell to hear a missionary speak. Anyone wishing to go is invited.

The County Line VFD will host the Davie County Firefighter Supper Monday evening, Oct. 11. The supper will be at 7 p.m. at the VFD building on Ridge Road. The County Line VFD Ladies Auxiliary will be serving the meal. All ladies who can help serve should be at the building by 4:30 p.m. After serving the meal, the auxiliary will meet to plan for the barbecue supper. All ladies are urged to attend.

The V-Point Ruritan Club will sponsor a Senior Citizens Fun Day from 2-3:30 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 9 at the V-Point Building on Old Mocksville Road. All senior citizens in the community are invited to come and enjoy an afternoon of bingo and other games, good food and fellowship. There will be prizes and lots of fun for everyone.

All children in the community should mark Saturday afternoon, Oct. 23 as a special "party" day. We will have more details later.

We are glad no new hospitalizations have been reported. Harvey Beck of Clarksbury and Howard Safriet of Society are both now recuperating at their respective homes. We are very happy that senior Beulah Prater was able to enjoy a recent trip to the beach with her daughter, Marie. We give praise to the Lord for the restored good health of our residents.

The breakfast at Wesley Chapel will be again in two weeks, Oct. 16. There will also be a bake sale at this time. We're hoping for a big turnout.

Martha Warner has been sick, but is getting better. She and her mother, Marie Ball, were in church Sunday. Christie Gentry Gardner of Charlotte was also there.

Our sympathy goes out to the Leftwich family. Virginia Leftwich, wife of Roscoe Leftwich and mother of Tony Leftwich, passed away last week.

We send get-well wishes to Bob and Louise Dill, John and Inez McClannon, Calvin Trivette, Johnsie Shelton, also the Rev. Tommy Robertson and his wife, Diane Robertson.

Congratulations to Mac and Sara Eure, who will be celebrating their 52nd wedding anniversary this week, Pat and Kathy Miller also celebrate an anniversary this week.

Vernon Dull and Marie Miller are attending the Senior Tarheel Legislative meeting in Winston-Salem this week.

Paul and Joan Barsdale spent last week camping in South Carolina.

Davie Schools

Cooleemee Elementary

The increase in the number of Hispanic students impacts the school. Teachers need to teach their grades to students with limited English or even worse, with no English at all. Teachers are getting better when trying to communicate in English; however, the main task is to achieve the academic objectives with students with limited English. An ESL program helps students, teachers and parents. Students not only learn English to survive socially, but to survive academically. The program trains teachers on legal modifications for these students. They get some cultural facts, which help them understand Hispanic students. The program serves as a bridge between the school and parents. Hispanic parents receive a lot of information about the American culture. The program provides translation and interpretation when parent conferences are needed. Cooleemee Elementary School has assumed this reality and will continue making the necessary effort to serve Hispanic students.

Mrs. Kistner's class is working each week on a new color. This past week was pink. Students went on a scavenger hunt to find all the pink things in tyhe room. Last week they talked about purple, and made purple paint by mixing red and blue together. Students went on several field trips with Special Olympics in September. The class went bowling and participated in Fall Games.

Kindergarten students are finishing a study of the farm. Students will be going to the Dixie Classic Fair on Monday, Oct.4. This week students have learned about "Sammy Snake." Miss Ludwick's children made sand on Friday and and enjoyed eating this edible treat.

The first grade classes of Ms.Brown, Ms.Cornatzer, Ms. Lowery and Ms. Waters have been working on learning doubles math facts. They studied about Johnny Appleseed and have done art projects with and about apples. Students have been reading "The Bug Buth." In cluster, all the classes have been working on answering questions and re-telling books. They are getting ready to start learning about fire and burn prevention in the Risk Watch Program.

Tsunami students are riding the waves of success as the end of the first grading quarter nears. Science students have had their eyes and ears glued to the television this past month. While exploring facets of weather, Mother Nature's recent feats have proved to be a great asset. Students have charted, tracked, and kept up-to-date with 12 named storms thus far this hurricane season. Students have researched weather sites in the computer lab and have kept journals and participated in a "Weather Scavenger Hunt" in the media center. After the study of weather, students will begin a study of the body systems.

Students have been using their heads while working hard trying to get required objectives for Accelerated Math before the end of the quarter. Along with Accelerated Reader, students have completed the first two chapters of math books. In social studies class, students "participated" in the spirit of the Olympics by "adopting" an Asian, African, or Australian country to follow throughout the Olympic Games. Students prepared reports about their country and its success at the games. Students began a regional study of Africa by focusing on Southwest Asia, followed by a study of North Africa.

In communications, students are working on vocabulary, reading comprehension, narrative writing, and on an in-depth novel study. Most of the communication students are reading Wilson Rawls' novel Where the Red Fern Grows, while another group of students is studying Nancy Farmer's novel The Ear, the Eye, and the Arm.

Mrs. Tribble's new sixth grade rotation is working on database while the seventh graders are finishing up a nine-week rotation with Power Point.

Davie High Chorus Planning Competition Aboard Cruise Ship

By Mike Gunning
Davie County Enterprise Record

Some Davie County high school students are warming up their voices for a spring competition that will take them from the shores of Florida and across the Caribbean Sea.

The Vocal Ensemble, a 26 student group headed by choral director Elaine Snow, is planning fund raising efforts to allow the whole group to participate in a three day competition held on the Royal Caribbean Cruise ship, Sovereign of the Seas. Eight adults will also be making the trip as chaperones. The cost of $622 per person is hoped to be covered by candy and raffle sales.

The students are scheduled to depart Davie High School at midnight on March 25, and return late in the evening of March 28. The four day excursion will include three nights aboard the cruise liner, with one half day spent in Nassau, and a full day enjoying the beaches of CocoCay, Royal Caribean's private Island.

The ship, which anchors in Port Canaveral, holds 2276 passengers, and a crew of 808. It was launched in 1988, making it one of the oldest ships in the Royal Caribbean fleet.

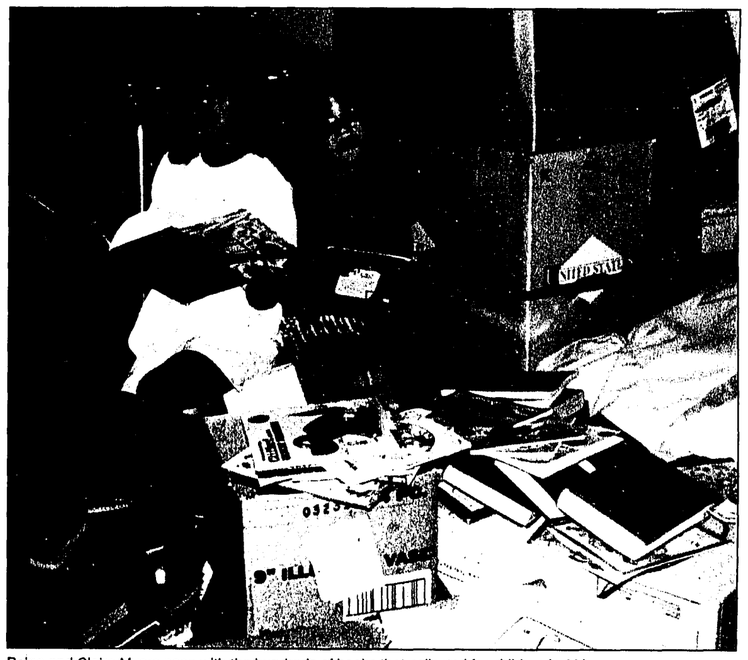
The ensemble will compete over the three day cruise with schools from around the United States.

"We're in the toughest competitive group," Snow said. "We'll be competing in the "Triple A" group, because of the size of our student body."

Snow said this was the first time Davie would be competing in an event of this scale, and that her students were excited about the sailing/competition event.

"We'll be singing festival music," Snow said. "And we're planning on performing at least one song in a foreign language."

In keeping with the spirit of an educational setting, Snow said the group will be treated to a skill development workshop after the competition.



Paige and Claire Myers pose with the hundreds of books that collected for children in Africa.

Pool Party With A Purpose

Sisters Moved By Plight Of Children In Africa; Collect Books For Storehouse

It all started when Paige Myers saw an Oprah show dealing with the plight of children in Africa.

Paige, a third grader at Pinebrook Elementary School, was so moved by their need and so inspired by Oprah's generosity in helping them that she wanted to start calling people immediately asking for donations.

Her parents, Sharon and Hank Myers, convinced her to take another approach. That's how their Aug. 20 Pool Party with a Purpose came into being.

Sharon had heard about A Storehouse for Jesus' outreach ministry in Ghana, West Africa, which includes a Books for Libraries Program. She suggested that Paige and her younger sister, Claire, who started kindergarten this year, host a pool party and ask their guests to bring "new or gently used books" to donate to the ministry.

Their invitation noted that Storehouse had designated August as the month to collect children's shoes and underwear.

The response was more than they could have imagined.

The guests at the party, held at Brookwood Pool in Clemmons, brought a total of 390 books, 10 pairs of shoes and several sets of underwear. Money was also donated for the children in Ghana.

Children attending the party included Levi Poe, Jenna Watson, Caroline Davis, Katie Cassidy, Luke and Austin Naylor, Brianna and Grace Burris, Elizabeth and Catherine Bell, Tyshel Fair, Sydney Beauchamp, Tatiana Armstrong, Molly and Erin Engstrom and Alisha Paul.

Storehouse founder Marie Collins greeted the Myers family personally when they went to deliver their donations a few weeks ago. She spent almost an hour with the sisters, showing them photographs she had taken on mission trips to Ghana and items she had brought back, including a doll made out of grass and handmade musical instruments.

Marie even gave Paige and Claire a photograph of children in Ghana along with some paper money from Africa as keepsakes. She also talked to them about how much the books they collected will mean to the children of Ghana.

"You will make so many people happy," she told them. "When we go to schools over there and libraries, most of the villages don't have any books. To have books to read at all is a big deal over there."

Even with the donations, Marie said children in Ghana can't check out books to take home. They have to go to the library every day if they want to finish a book.

Marie said she hoped the example set by Paige and Claire would inspire other children to try to help the children of Africa.

"You can make a big different, just you and you," she said, pointing to the sisters. "When your mama told me what you did, you just blessed my heart more than you will ever know because we just don't have a lot of people interested in Africa. Thank you so much."

The girls also inspired their parents, who adopted them from China when their son, Nathan, was a senior in high school, and their other daughter, Carly, was in the eighth grade.

"I'm proud of them," Hank said. "It was sort of a small thing, but small things make big things."

He said they had inspired him to do more for others. "God reaches out through little ones to impress big ones to do what we know we should do," he said.

North Davie Middle

Students and staff collected food, hygiene items, and cleaning supplies for the Storehouse. Each Tuesday and Thursday during the month, Leadership Group students pushed grocery carts to Prime Time classrooms to collect donations. Thirty-three carts full were collected.

The Stars are preparing for student-led conferences Oct. 14. This is an early release day and conferences will begin at 1. Letters have been sent home asking parents to choose a time.

The Stars will be visiting Stone Mountain Oct. 22. This is an educational trip enhancing a study of North Carolina history. Students are learning about the early settlements and how ancestors lived.

Mr. Tabat's science classes are visiting a neighborhood stream, testing the PH levels, studying the effects of water on the environment, and looking at inhabitants.

Star students are reading stories written by Mark Twain. The sixth period class has completed the novel, Tom Sawyer. The other classes have completed the short story, Cub Pilot on the Mississippi. All classes are starting a research unit on a favorite author of their choice.

Shady Grove Elementary

Media specialist Sue Johnson thanks everyone for supporting the book fair. The profit was approximately $3,000, plus the school received about $1,000 in paperback books for the media center. This was one of the most successful fairs. The profit will be used to purchase books and Accelerated Reader tests for the media center. Do you need reference books and magazines for your child to use for reports? Don't forget NC Wise Owl which gives you access to online encyclopedias, magazines, and newspapers for children. NC Wise Owl provides free access for your family, but you will need to stop by the media center to get the passwords. There is a link from Favorite Links on this site or you can link to Wise Owl from the Shady Grove site.

Mrs. Martin's kindergarten students are learning about seasons and seasonal changes, and about telling and re-telling stories, which is important in reading comprehension.

Mrs. Foster's class has talked about the four seasons. In work centers students made their favorite season tree, created a favorite animal out of nature collections, made musical suns, colored and decorated a winter scene, and made a sunflower. Next week they will be talking about scarecrows and owls. In Letter Land this week, they met Oscar Orange and Fireman Fred. The children did a great job learning these, and will meet two new friends next week.

Mrs. Tew's students are exploring parts of a story, comprehension and retelling. They will explore one book each day, then examine alternative versions of the story as well. In Letterland they will meet Yellow Yo-Yo Man and Golden Girl. They will continue working on a variety of skills in math. Many math concepts, as well as social studies and science competencies will be addressed through the stories and our field trip on Monday.

Mrs. Rogers' first grade students are learning about insects this week, and are beginning a study of the signs of fall. In math, the class is looking for patterns in objects, numbers, and other aspects of their environment.

Ms. Minor's first grade class is big on bugs. Students had lots of fun reading Five Little Ladybugs and doing a choral reading on tape. The students enjoyed creating clay bugs and singing a new tune. They know that ants love peanut butter because it has a high sugar content. In math they have been reviewing geometric shapes and have been doing problem solving using those shapes. Students have been doing lots of counting, writing numbers without reversals, and estimating.

Mrs. Spach's second grade students are working with apples. Apples have been integrated into their work, and the class has read and learned about Johnny Appleseed. They have worked on contractions, short vowels, and punctuation, and completed apple worksheets on each. Each student made a book about the apple story with the seed, tree, blossom, and apple. In math, they are working on graphs and tally sheets with apples. They continue to discuss communities in social studies, and in science, the class is working on clouds and the water cycle.

Janet Hill's second graders read Luka's Quilt, and are learning about the long vowel sounds. They are studying dinosaurs in science, and in math, students are learning about the ordinal numbers and greater than and less than.

Elizabeth Hill's students have read A Letter to Amy, and have learned about writing addresses. This week in math the class did more addition facts, and in science they are studying about seeds and a plant's life cycle. Students are learning about adjectives and how to use commas. They have been studying Johnny Appleseed and are doing subtraction activities to go along with the theme.

Mrs. Kauff's class is beginning practice timed tests with addition facts. The first fact sheet will be all addition doubles to the sum of 24. If your child completes this sheet in 60 seconds, his/her next goal will be to complete the doubles-plus-one facts in the same amount of time.

Mrs. Hobson's third grade students are working with calculators in problem solving, and are working on computation.

In Mrs. Baker's class, the math study included benchmark numbers, greater than and less than, and rounding. They began Charlotte's Web and are beginning a social studies unit on communities.

Mrs. Hendrix's class has learned about front end estimating and adding four digit numbers with regrouping. They took their first science test, and have learned all the lower case letters in cursive. After weeding the garden, each child planted a bulb outside. Students are working on adding three digit numbers and estimating, and writing stories that check for understanding of plot and setting. In their communities study they are learning about maps and their symbols.

The fourth grade students collected school supplies to send to children in Iraq. Schools will soon be re-opening and Iraqi students do not have basic supplies such as pencils or paper. In an effort to help the children of Iraq, Pinebrook's fourth graders collected papers, Crayons, markers, glue sticks, scissors, lunch boxes and book bags.

This year's Box Tops for Books Program has begun with classes collecting 10,982 box tops totaling $1,098 towards books for the media center. The Box Tops Winner this week is Mrs. Carothers' third grade class with 369 box tops. Those winners include: Raymond Bell, Carson Bishop, R.C. Branstetter, Kirsten Buchin, Jordan Budd, Dalton Carpenter, Courtney Doby, Ashley Ellis, Nathan Gordon, Dylan Harris, Bryan Hiles, Kyle Hottel, Jenna Hummer, Luke Martin, Kendall Medlin, Robert Moser, Jordan Murray, Amber Myers, Branson Parnell, Allison Smith, Kayla Thornsberry, and Ellen Tutterow. The students will receive stickers, bookmarks, and pencils, and Mrs. Carothers will receive a Nascar picnic cooler. Pinebrook was also awarded a certificate and poster from General Mills as a Top Performing School for the 2003-2004 school year collections.

The fifth grade classes will be going to the North Carolina Zoo Oct. 5. The students in Mrs. Dalton's social studies classes have been learning about Native Americans and early Explorers. The students worked in small groups to make a replica of an early Native American tribal village. The villages are on display in the media center. The science classes have been busy working in the fifth grade garden. There has been a lot of work to do in order to get it ready for the pansies they will be planting in the next few weeks.

The Unicycle Club practices every Tuesday and Thursday morning at 7:30. The club is open to any student in grades 2-5. Riders without unicycles may borrow one during practice.

First graders have been studying community helpers, manners, and apples. In math, they have learned "The Doubles Rap" which helps them to remember doubles plus facts.

Kindergarten classes traveled to the Dixie Classic Fair Oct. 4 to visit the many exhibits. They will visit Patterson Farms Oct. 29. Both field trips are coordinated with a unit study on the farm and fall. Upcoming conferences are scheduled for the week of Oct. 11-15. First quarter progress will be discussed.

The following news articles were written by Ms. Byrd's fourth graders: The Chinese Olympians by Sherri Parks, Ricky Wilson, Kevin Powell, Jodi Gregory, and Gibran Pino. The Chinese athletes became legends in the 2004 Summer Olympics in Greece. Some of the athletes are Funing Xia, Guomin, Lang Ping, and Deng Yapeng. These athletes won gold medals for their country.

The Stench by Kendal Tift, Kirsten Cockerham, Clayton Chilen, Will Hinsdale, Jeremiah Gomez, Zach Carrion, and Johnny Kalish. On Aug. 19, there was a bad smell from a stopped-up sink. The students in Le' Don Byrd's and Tracy Dyson's classroom had to go to different classrooms. Dyson's class went to Ms. Ireland's room. Ms. Byrd's class went to the library. Later, the plumbers cleaned out the pipes and everyone went back to their own classrooms.

The New Building by Brooke Ball, Natalie Ireland, Julia Lanzo, Katherine Turner, Taylor Weatherman, and Joey Davis. There are exciting things happening at William R. Davie Elementary School. The workmen are building a new building. The building in front of the school will be new classrooms because our population is growing so much. The work behind the school was to make our kitchen bigger and better, because it was old and needed to be improved. The kitchen is just about finished. We hope the new classrooms will be ready by Christmas.

The Summer Olympics by Sarah Anderson, Cole Blankenship, Ashlee Trivitte, Tyler Myers, Alex Espinoza, and Briana Guevara. Athletes from all around he world came to compete against each other in sports events. This year's Olympics are neat because they are being held in Athens, Greece, which is where the first Olympics were held hundreds of years ago. The athletes compete for silver, gold, and bronze medals. The Olympics were first started to bring athletes together peacefully. At this year's Olympics, Iraq was able to compete. At the end of the Olympics the United States had won more medals than any other country.

All second grade students attending water safety classes at the Davie Family YMCA recently. These classes ran Tuesday-Friday. Classes arrived each day around noon and returned to school around 2:40. Students had classroom instruction as well as swim time to try out the techniques covered. These classes were held to teach students how to be safe around water. Boating safety was included. Students were placed in appropriately levels. A few students were nonswimmers and at first were hesitant, but by the end of the week, were comfortable getting into the water. This was not a session of swim classes, but lessons on staying safe playing in or around water. Students were given certificates of completion and family passes to the YMCA. Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Etter, and Mrs. Renegar would like to thank the chaperones who accompanied the class, as well as the staff of the Davie Family YMCA.

This week in Ms. Donna's early learning class we were excited about the arrival of fall. We talked about owls, squirrels and raccoons. We found out that squirrels eat nuts and raccoons like corn. We counted raccoons and sang about squirrels. We discovered how these animals live and work in the woods. Our favorite animal sound was whoooo. Mr. Owl said whooo as he turned his head back and forth. Our color this week was gray. We found gray rocks and gray squirrels, as we went on our imaginary trip through the woods. Our student of the week is Jonathan Cabrera.

In spite of the wet weather, the children of Ms. Cheryl's pre-kindergarten class began the week in high spirits with a trip to the Mocksville Fire Department. All the children eagerly climbed upon one of the big red fire trucks and made friends with the friendly firefighters who greeted us and helped us remember fire safety rules. We even enjoyed a trip upstairs in the station to watch a fire safety video, and as we left to go back to school, the children were presented with bags full of goodies and other good fire safety information. The remainder of the week we spent getting to know Mr. H, a new letter person friend who teaches us how to stay happy and healthy. Apples are certainly healthy food, and we enjoyed having apples for snacks and making several art projects using apples for inspiration.

This week in Ms. Katie's developmental readiness class, we have been very busy with apples. Our letter of the week has been A, our color has been red, and our shape has been a circle. We have been reading books and poetry about apples, as well as creating some wonderful apple projects. Our children are learning more and more each day and having a great time doing it. We have a very special visitor, Ms. Cammie, who will be coming in this Friday to share an apple story and do a project with the students. We are very excited to have Ms. Cammie in our classroom. Our special friend for this week is Alexis. Next week, Wednesday, we will be taking a trip to the Dixie Classic Fair. The children, parents and teachers are all very excited to share the day with one another.

Ms. Lori, Mr. P and Ms. Kay's class has been having a wonderful time studying apples this month. Next week, we will make our own applesauce and talk about Johnny Appleseed. We even will make apple creatures with our special guest, Ms. Cammie. We are inviting our parents to visitor our class, meet our apple creatures and sample our homemade applesauce. We will review our letters and numbers from this month and continue working on learning to recognize the names of our friends in our class. On Monday, we will be taking a field trip to the Mocksville Fire Department to culminate our unit on fire safety and we are very excited about this trip. The color yellow has been wonderful to work with and we love to take nature walks to find yellow leaves now that they are changing color.

The students in Ms. Garner and Mrs. Russell's kindergarten class have been very busy during the month of September. The students have been busy learning their letters. In addition, they have learned all about the seasons and focused heavily on fall. Several activities were done with apples and Johnny Appleseed's birthday was celebrated with apple muffins. The students really enjoyed their field trip to Horizons in Salisbury where they learned about American Indians and a variety of animals. A huge favorite was the special lunch shared with their grandparents.

Mrs. Flynn and Mrs. Cook's first graders have been studying about fire safety and autumn. We are learning to stop, drop and roll, and to say low and get out. We have talked about a safe meeting place and read many books about firefighters. We are also looking for signs of fall. We noticed the weather was getting cooler and some of the leaves are starting to change...we even have a student named Autumn.

Mrs. Wall-Smith and Mrs. Pruitt's second grade class take an adventure into the apple orchards and pumpkin patches as they experience autumn days. Learning stations include how to make apple pie, measuring an inch worm, a tasting day with apple and pumpkin products, chlorophyll and changing leaves, pretending to be an apple falling from a tree and writing about that incident.

Mrs. Strickland's third grade class is exploring space. We have learned that the earth rotates and revolves. We also know why there are seasons and day and night. We have just finished learning the phases of the moon, as well as the different types of eclipses. Our class is working on making nouns plural by adding -s and -es. We invited our grandparents to our school for lunch on Oct. 1.

As the days fly by, we are really hitting our stride. Recently we have wrapped up a long and interesting unit on Canada. The kids were amazed to learn about our northern neighbor. This week we began our first science unit, ecosystems. We plan on doing some hands on investigations including building a terrarium. Meanwhile, in math, the children are busy multiplying and dividing. Our days are packed.

REAL ESTATE WEEKLY

By Debbie Prachel

LET A PROFESSIONAL SELL YOUR HOME

It is not unusual for homeowners to yield to the temptation to try to sell their own home. It seems easy enough–just put a sign in the front yard, place an ad in the weekend paper and wait for buyers to show up. Although it may seem simple to the uninformed, real estate sales are in fact highly complicated transactions.

The first pitfall can appear when you try to price your property realistically. It's typical for homeowners to over-value their property, setting too high an asking price then drastically slashing it when no offers are made. This gives buyers the impression that the home isn't worth what you say it is. Even if a buyer agrees to the initial asking price, there could be trouble if the buyers begin to feel that they have agreed to pay too much or if the lender's appraisal values the property at far less than the agreed-upon price. Some of our clients hired us to market their home professionally after weeks or months of trying to sell their home, or after their transaction fell through.

For professional advice on all aspects of buying and selling real estate, you can reach Debbie at Premier Carolina Properties, 336-998-7777 or 336-909-1284, or visit her website at www.pcpnc.com.

walked into my classroom. The best part about these children is that they are so excited about learning." Last week students went on their first field trip to Baa Moo Farm to see all the animals they had been discussing and learning about in class. Students had fun on a scavenger hunt at the farm, but agreed that the best part was feeding baby calves from a bottle. This month the class will be studying healthy living, including the importance of hand washing, eating the right foods and exercising.

Mrs. Bullins's second grade class has been busy learning about apples and pumpkins. They read the book Picking Apples and Pumpkins, and then moved on to learn more about apples and pumpkins at special centers in their classroom. They weighed apples and pumpkins at a measuring center and also measured the circumference of a pumpkin. At a research center they discovered many interesting pumpkin facts. At the writing center, students wrote their own stories about apples and pumpkins, and at the art center they used real apples to make apple prints. However, the tasting center was by far and away the favorite center with students. They tasted a variety of apple and pumpkin food dishes and made a class graph of their favorites. Aunt Nettie's apple cobbler was the winner. Aunt Nettie is Mrs. Bullins's great aunt and she later visited the class and shared more information about apples.

This year's ELL (English Language Learning) program is different. Mrs. Pena is teaching second, third and fifth grades; and Mrs. San Filippo has returned to work with kindergarten, first and fourth grades.

"In kindergarten, we have been studying fruits, vegetables and farms. Kindergartners went "exploring" in apples and oranges to see how many seeds they could find, and then got to eat the fruit at the end. What a treat. First graders have been learning about animals. They have read books about animals, drawn pictures of animals, learned about animal habitats, and now they are writing a store about animals that they saw at the Baa Moo Farm. The second grade group has been talking about families and their ancestors. They enjoyed reading the book Magda's Tortillas as part of this unit. Third graders have been studying rhymes, especially Mother Goose. They have also been performing plays about the different Mother Goose characters. They are beginning to work on English grammar as well. Second and third graders completed a unit on safety, too. "They have been busy," says Mrs. San Filippo.

In fourth grade, there are two groups of ELL students: one that attends class with Mrs. San Filippo and Mrs. Carter, and another that only works with Mrs. San Filippo. "The first group of fourth graders is working hard on reading and on writing correct and interesting sentences. They have also learned that nouns are people, places and things. The second group of ELL fourth graders has finished reading Get Ready for Gabi, a hilarious story about what happens when a bilingual students gets her English and Spanish confused. They asked their parents about idioms in Spanish and came up with some very funny ones. Did you know that in Puerto Rico, if a person says, "I have a fly behind my ear," it means that they feel something bad is about to happen to them?

Fifth grade students have been studying U.S. history. They are making a fascinating time line of different historical events. They are also enjoying maps, languages and geography. "In ELL class, students study so much more than just the English language," said Mrs. San Filippo.

The Developmental class of Mrs. Deadmon, Mrs. Rutledge, Mrs. Allen and Mrs. Check is off to a great start for the school year. The class has been very busy studying the alphabet, counting 1-10, and recognizing their names in shapes and colors. During the month of August the children read books about the ocean and ocean animals. During September the class focus has been on farm life and farm animals. The highlight of the farm unit was a trip to the Baa Moo Farm with the first grade classes. Mrs. Deadmon's students also enjoyed bowling with their Special Olympics friends at PlayMor Lanes in Winston-Salem on Sept. 15. Every Thursday the class visits their friends in Mrs. Ancuta's Pre-K class for Circletime, and every Friday they also join the class for Guidance time. They are enjoying getting to know their new friends.

Community Foundation President Jane Simpson with the Cadillac convertible donated to the charity. It is for sale, and can be seen at Cleary's Auto Sales on East Lexington Road in Mocksville.

Foundation Gets First Vehicle Donation

The Community Foundation of Davie County recently received a 1984 Cadillac El Dorado convertible from a community foundation donor.

"This is the first vehicle gift we have received," said Jane Simpson, president. "We are excited to be the owners of a Cadillac convertible. We have had some creative ideas for use of the vehicle until it sells."

The Cadillac will be sold with proceeds from the sale added to the donor's funds at the foundation. "This is a terrific example of the variety of assets our board may choose to accept," said Simpson. "Ultimately, the donor's fund will benefit Davie County with its annual distributions. The important thing to remember is that since the fund is endowed, it will benefit the community forever."

The Cadillac El Dorado Convertible is on display at Cleary Auto Sales at 255 E. Lexington Road (Hwy 64E) in Mocksville. For additional information about the foundation or the vehicle, contact Simpson at 753-6903.

Designated Funds Permanently Endowed

The Community Foundation of Davie County accepts funds designed to support the operation of a specific organization or non-profit in the community.

These funds, appropriately called Designated Funds, are permanently endowed funds that distribute 4 percent of the earnings annually to the organization they are designated for.

"These are important funds for our community," said Jane Simpson, foundation president. "These funds can help ensure continued operation of the designated organization when other funds fall short."

The foundation manages two designated funds - the Abe Howard Humanitarian Fund, which is designated for the Storehouse for Jesus, and the Mary and Jane McGuire Library Fund, which is designated for the Davie County Public Library. Distributions from both of these funds may be used as the respective organization sees fit.

Designated funds may be established to benefit any Davie County non-profit, church, or charity. The funds may be established in the name of an individual, family, or business or in memory or honor of a loved one or friend who cared about the designated charity. They provide important support for their designated organization because the funds exist eternally, giving the charity monies they can count on in difficult economic times.

Named designated funds may be started with a gift of $5,000. Named Acorn Funds may be established with a $1,000 gift and allowed to "grow" into a designated fund.

For more information about creating a designated fund, contact Simpson at 753-6903 or jsimpson@daviefoundation.org.

Blood Drive, Marrow Typing Oct. 16

. A Marrow Typing and Blood Drive as part of Jake Linville Celebration of Blessings is being held Saturday, Oct. 16 from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. in the Brock Gymnasium at Davie Parks & Rec. Center.

Davie resident Jake Linville was diagnosed with leukemia just hours after the birth of his little brother, Nathan.

Luckily for Jake, his new sibling was the perfect match and is helping to save his life.

Each year thousands of people, like Jake, are diagnosed with life-threatening blood diseases and many require marrow transplants. Often they must rely on an unrelated donor to find a match.

Volunteer blood donors like you can help Jake and many other marrow transplant patients survive as they are undergoing treatment.

Your generous donation is life to a patient in need.

It's quick and easy to join the National Marrow Donor Program registry. It only takes a few minutes to fill out a form and give a small amount of blood from your arm to test for a match.

If you are between 18-60 and in good health, please register.

The cost of marrow typing is $65 and your donation is appreciated.

For more information or to schedule an appointment contact Lisa Wayda at 998-4229.

NOTICE OF AVAILABILITY OF AN ENVIRONMENTAL ASSESSMENT

USDA, Rural Development (through its Rural Utilities Service) has received an application for financial assistance from the Town of Mocksville, NC. As required by the National Environmental Policy Act, the Rural Utilities Service has prepared an Environmental Assessment that evaluated the potential environmental effects and consequences for the proposed project. This notice announces the availability of the Environmental Assessment for public review and comment.

The proposed project consists primarily of installing 5,500 linear foot of force main sewer line and 1 pump station to redirect the wastewater generated by Ingersol-Rand from the Bear Creek Wastewater Treatment Plant to The Dutchman's Creek Wastewater Treatment Plant. The Dutchman's Creek Treatment Plant will be upgraded to handle the additional flow.

No significant adverse impacts to important resources were identified in the review process. Any potential adverse impacts will be mitigated as described in Section 4.0 of the Environmental Report and by incorporating best management construction practices into project plans and specifications. The other alternatives considered to the proposed project include the no action alternative and the expansion of both wastewater treatment plants.

Copies of the Environmental Assessment are available for review at the Rural Development office at 2301 W. Meadowview Road, Suite 104, Greensboro, NC 27407, phone (336) 294-7181, and at the Town Hall of Mocksville, NC. For further information, contact Larry D. Hatefield, Area Specialist at the above Rural Development office address. Any person interested in commenting on the proposed project should submit comments to the USDA Rural Development address above by November 5, 2004.

"USDA is an equal opportunity provider, employer and lender." To file a complaint of discrimination write USDA, Director, Office of Civil Rights, Room 326-W, Whitten Building, 14th an Independence Avenue, SW, Washington, DC 20250-9410 or call (202) 720-5964 (voice or TDD).

Flu Vaccine Shortage Puts Crimp In Schools' Plan

By Mike Gunning
Davie County Enterprise Record

A national shortage of the influenza vaccine may put a crimp in Davie County schools' plans to educate students, faculty and staff on the importance of early vaccination.

In response to a new state law, Davie County Schools planned on taking a frontline approach to promoting information on influenza and meningococcal disease and vaccinations available to prevent their spread. Students throughout the system will be receiving information pamphlets in English and Spanish in the coming weeks.

According to Davie County School Health Coordinator Kim Harmon, the goal of providing the information is to reduce the spread of meningitis and influenza through increased vaccination. Harmon said more children vaccinated will result in fewer absences.

Ironically, that may not be possible this year.

On July 17, Senate Bill 444, known as Garrett's Law, mandates that all school systems in the state provide the information to students in K-12. Information to college students was already mandated by law.

The bill was named after Garrett Diamant, a Myers Park High School junior who contracted the meningitis virus last year.

In March 2003, Garrett's parents took him to the emergency room at Presbyterian Hospital in Charlotte. He had a fever of 103 degrees, had vomited and had suffered intermittent headaches for several days. At first it was thought he had the flu.

Seven hours after arriving at the hospital, Garrett died. No one knows how he got meningitis.

His mother, Kathleen Yates, said she became angry that, even after working as a public school teacher herself for 17 years, she knew nothing of the disease that killed her son or of the vaccines that might have saved his life.

She started a lobbying effort in Raleigh that resulted in the passing of the law.

Health Department Has No Vaccine

The Davie County Health Department has no flu vaccine.

Health officials don't know when - or if - any will be received.

Davie Health Director Barry Bass says that due to a national shortage of the flu vaccine, the use of the vaccine is targeted only for those people who are most likely to be seriously affected by the flu.

"The number of doses of flu vaccine available nationally has been cut in half. Unfortunately for the Davie County Health Department, we ordered all of our flu vaccine from Chiron, therefore, we have none available and have no idea when we may receive any," Bass said.

"The state is working to secure vaccine for allocations to local health departments but the demand is so much greater than the supply, the task is incredibly daunting. Some local health departments ordered

Challenge Kickoff Thursday

Davie County needs to raise $1.5 million in private money for schools.

If it does that, the Mebane Foundation of Mocksville will kick in an additional $750,000.

But that's not what the Mebane Challenge is all about.

It's about getting young children off to a good start in school, and making sure Davie County students have the best in technology to compete in a fast-changing world.

The kickoff for the challenge campaign is scheduled for Thursday night at Davie High School, U.S. 601 South, Mocksville. In addition to food and speakers, there will be demonstrations on how new technology can help students.

For a schedule, please turn to page 4.

Games, Music And Food On Tap For Benefit

Brandon Miller was an organ donor.

When he died in an all-terrain vehicle accident on Aug. 2, others got a new chance in life.

This Saturday, community members are having a benefit carnival to help pay for the teen's funeral. Any extra money will go to the Victory Junction Gang, a free camp for handicapped children.

The event will be held from 10 a.m.-5 p.m. at the Masonic Picnic Grounds off North Main Street in Mocksville.

"There are so many wonderful people in Davie County and so many people who loved Brandon," said Robin Leatherman, event organizer. "The outpouring of compassion has been overwhelming."

She said the camp is a fitting place to send donations in Brandon's memory.

Two Charged With Severely Injuring Their Babies

By Mike Gunning
Davie County Enterprise Record

Two Davie men were arrested for child abuse in separate cases by Davie sheriff's detectives.

Both are charged with assaulting their infant children while babysitting. Detective Stuart Parker said both children's mothers were working out of the house at the time of the alleged assaults.

Parker placed Patterson under arrest after doctors at Baptist Medical Center discovered his infant daughter was suffering from at least 12 broken bones. The 4-month-old had bruises on the face and left arm just above the elbow.

Patterson was turned over to Kernersville police because the child's mother, Angela Lorraine Fitzpatrick, lives there and it is believed Patterson injured the child while babysitting at her home. Patterson told police he was angry and frustrated by the child's crying, and may have caused the child injuries when he picked her up by her legs.

The injuries were first discovered by the family's pediatrician who was examining the child at her regular four month visit. Police report that the doctor found what he considered unusual bruises on the body, and had the child brought to Baptist Medical Center for a complete examination.

Baptist physicians discovered the extent of the injuries, stating the girl had as many as four broken bones in both legs, including two femur fractures and fractures of her left tibia.

The femur is the leg bone from the hip to the knee, the tibia is the bone from the knee to the ankle.

Cat Stevens 'Terrorized' Dorm Room Long Ago

As evidence that we're winning the war on terror, federal agents refused to allow the singer Cat Stevens back into America a couple weeks ago.

I was personally gratified by the news.

Thirty-three years ago, Cat Stevens terrorized me every night in my college dorm room.

My freshman roommate had a large stereo. As I recall, he only had one album. Cat Stevens.

He played it in the morning. He played it in the evening. He played it all night long.

He went to sleep to the music.

I did not. I had to wait for him to fall asleep and then turn off the stereo.

Then I had to listen to his snores — only slightly better than Cat Stevens' nasal crooning.

My roommate dropped out of college after that semester — evidence, to me, of the detrimental impact of that music.

The singer has now changed his name, embraced Islam, and did something to earn a listing on the federal terrorism watch list. He was on my list a long time ago.

'Corner,' 'Hillsdale' Titles In Jeopardy?

They could drink right out in the open — on the street — without being arrested.

Talk about a change.

I missed the event, which required special approval by the Town of Mocksville's commissioners, but it apparently was well received.

Contrary to my earlier predictions, civilization has not ended with the arrival of beer in Mocksville. Drunks have not been wallowing in the gutters.

For the festival, outdoor beer drinkers had to stay within a roped off section — sort of like cattle. But the herd behaved themselves, and it might even happen again one day.

Drinking In The Street

The Corner will never be the same.

Road crews are turning the U.S. 158 and N.C. 801 intersection at Hillsdale into a multi-lane crossing with those less-than-beautiful concrete medians designed to prevent left turns. The concrete slabs have been built during the past week, and the road expansion continues.

Big changes are coming to the land once known simply as "The Corner."

Years ago, proclaimed mayor and barber Larry Campbell finally got the crossing designated with the much more sophisticated name, "Hillsdale." His old barber shop is now to be replaced with a "Hillsdale Commons" assortment of shops.

But that name may not always be fitting.

Now that Bermuda Run is incorporated, should the Hillsdale designation fade into memory? Bermuda Run may annex much of the business district. Jeff Harrison has asked for a hearing in January 2005 to have all the Food Lion shopping center property annexed. Then, it would be more correct to refer to the area as Bermuda Run.

Wrecking crews will come one day to take down old buildings in the last remaining "corner" of the intersection. The concrete medians are to be installed in three of the four lanes in the intersection — all but the east section.

Once scheduled for this month, construction of new bridges over Interstate 40 and the U.S. 158 bridge are now set for July 2005. Lots of changes are coming.

Give Bush A Chance To Finish The Job

To the editor:

I just read a letter to the editor from last week and I feel the need to respond. As one of those who "encouraged, wanted and almost demanded" a response to the terrorist attack of 9-11, I feel President Bush should be given the opportunity to complete his response to that demand by the American people. He hasn't finished the job we demanded of him. His plan is in progress, he deserves the chance to finish it.

Where are all those people who pushed for revenge? Not only is President Bush respondng to the horrible events of 9-11, he is doing what the majority of the American people wanted; he is trying to help a country reorganize with respect and help for its people. Of course his plan is probably not perfect, but it's in place and has been in the making for many months. Don't you want to see the outcome of what's been started? If so, our votes must be placed and the right blocks checked - Bush and Cheney.

As to the comment about his typical problems with the English language, sometimes it's hard to talk from your heart when you "really mean" what you are saying and say it with the eloquence of those less sincere. Many times those folks who talk so elaborately simply don't recognize this type of communication - they are always trying to impress, say what they think the other person wants to hear, and certainly many times not exactly saying what they really mean.

The American people also deserve more than John Edwards. Notice, I did not say Senator Edwards. Do you think he will do as well as vice president as he has as the senator from North Carolina? Wonder what his agency will include from the White House since campaigning has been his only agenda from North Carolina? He should do really well "selling" himself since he is so comfortable convncing folks "his" cases are right in the courtroom while collecting big bucks for his efforts. Think the White House could be another courtroom?

The American people need to look back to 9-11 and the human, yet courageous, way President Bush responded. He has followed our demands doing a very good job. No, not a perfect job, but a sincere job. Our nation needs a President who doesn't hesitate to go to prayer for guidance, a President who responds when our nation is threatened, and more time to complete the plan he has put into action.

This is my opinion, vote your heart, but remember whoever has the title of President of the United States is human and needs communication with a higher power through prayer and needs the support of the citizens of America.

Writer Endorses GOP Judicial Candidates

To the editor:

As you may know, our wonderful legislators voted to not list the Judicial candidate's party affiliation on the ballot when we vote on Nov. 2. If everyone is like me, I have a hard time knowing which judges to pick when voting, so I'm highly recommending these men and women that are Republicans: District Court, Dale Graham, Supreme Court Associate Justice, John M. Tyson, Supreme Court Associate Justice, Paul Martin Newby, Court of Appeals Judge, Bill Parker, Court of Appeals Judge, Alice C. Stubbs, Court of Appeals Judge, Barbara Jackson.

Please take this with your to the polls.

I'm also hoping that everyone will take into consideration the need to re-elect President Bush for the sake of our unborn babies and marriage between a man and woman. Please realize America is at a serious time in our history and we are losing many religious freedoms that can only be helped by getting President Bush back in office and electing judges that will uphold the laws we have instead of having judges make up their own laws as it suits them at any given time. I also want to say I didn't or won't attend the Oktoberfest as long as there is beer being served in the streets of Mocksville. We knew it would come to this when alcohol got voted in and we went from a dry town to serving alcoholic beverages in our public eating places. Now the streets - what next?

Christians, we have to wake up and take a stand against these types of things going on in our town. Vote out these rascals that let this happen.

Democratic Party A Witch's Brew Of Shady Characters

To the editor:

The Nov. 2 election is just around the corner and it is important that every citizen vote. Unfortunately, many of our citizens choose note to participate and many others who do vote don't bother to cast an informed and educated ballot. They simply cast their ballot because one candidate is more well known or looks better in a particular TV appearance; or they vote because that's the way their daddy or grandparents voted.

Students of history will know that our nation has had a number of political parties over the years (Whigs, Federalist, Ball Moore, Rep., Dem., Lib., etc.) Such parties, however, tend to morph and change over the years and often steal the ideas of other parties, and become little more than mere shells of themselves.

This is particularly true of the Democratic party. This party passes itself off as the party of the people, the working stiff so to speak. In its early days this was true, but today, nothing could be further from the truth. At the national level it consists of a hodgepodge of left wing elitist Hollywood and Washington socialist liberals who try to hide their true identity. (Ted Kennedy, Hillary Clinton, Charles Schumen, Terry McAaliffe, Michael Moore, Rosie O'Donnell, George Soros).

This witch's brew of various shady characters are opposed to almost everything that has made us such a great and powerful nation. They are anti-capitalist, anti-Second Amendment, anti-military and in some cases, just plain anti-American. If one reads between the lines and scratches beneath the surface, it becomes crystal clear that those who run and belong to the National Democratic Party are much closer to the views of Karl Marx, Vladimir Lenin, Ho Chi Min and Chairman Mao than to the views of Washington, Madison, Franklin, Adams and Lincoln.

In the 30s and early 40s, FDR, a Democrat, led the nation through a depression and a World War with great courage and resolve. Upon his death, Harry Truman, another Democrat, showed great courage and signed the order to drop the H-bombs on Hiroshima and Nagasaki. Mr. Truman was later asked if he had any regrets over his decision and he replied, "I never lost a minute's sleep. When dealing with beasts one has to act like beasts."

Today, our nation is faced with one of the most serious challenges since it was formed. Yet it is virtually impossible to pick up a newspaper, even our local paper, without reading a letter from the George Bush haters. Few, if any of these letters, have any originality and most seem to spout the line of Ted Kennedy, Terry McAaliffe, Pat Leahy... Indeed, instead of wasting their time and ink they should just send a tape recording of the Sunday morning news shoes. Unfortunately, these men are so consumed with regaining their power that they aren't interested in the welfare of the nation.

I would urge the electorate not to be fooled by political candidates who appear before them with Bo-tox enhanced, suntanned, plastic banana faces and promised them quick and painless solutions to the war on terror or other problems that face us.

Ted Kennedy and John Kerry tell us that Saddam Hussein never helped terrorists, why he was really Snow White in disguise when that mean ol' George Bush started bombing him, he was reading nursery rhymes to school children. Yet, both of these men know Iraq was a rat's den for terrorists. The headchopper Zarqawi used Iraq as a base of operation. He traveled to Afghanistan and fought alongside the Taliban. He received a leg injury and traveled via Iran into Baghdad and was operated on by Iraqi doctors, all with the full knowledge and cooperation of Saddam Hussein. Abu Nidal, the grandfather of terrorism was given safe haven in Iraq and even given Saddam's personal bodyguards for protection.

The Kennedy-Kerry crowd also whines and complains that we haven't kissed up to the Germans and French. But there is a reason they haven't helped and it has nothing to do with who the president is. The French and Germans and others (Russia) had their hands in Saddam's cookie jar and didn't want to break it. France's Chirac actually promised President Bush he would be behind us one 100 percent if we would just go the U.N. route, Chirac back stabbed the U.S. and refused to keep his words. Should our nation go before a corrupt French leader on bended knee or a swiveling little weasel such as Gerhardt Schroeder?

In reality, all the back and forth over Iraq...W.M.D.s vs no W.M.D.s...invading Iraq vs not invading Iraq are similar to arguing over a glass of spilled water. No matter how much we debate the issue the water cannot be put back. We must find more water to refill the glass and figure our how to keep it from being spilled again.

We cannot lose in Iraq. If we value freedom we cannot be misled or fooled by power hungry politicians. We cannot afford to believe that if we just get Bin Laden that we can just live happily ever after. Every day in the Arab world future Bin Ladens exit their mothers' wombs. We must seek our the terrorist no matter what rock they may be hiding under and destroy them. We must also seek ways to insure that all oppressed people will enjoy the fruits of freedom and liberty. In the end that is where the war on terror will be won.

Those who enjoy the fruits of liberty and true freedom don't have time for hatred in their hearts. Instead of finding new ways to cause murder and mayhem, they will desire to be civilized members of their societies and contribute to them. Instead of being thieves, murderers and terrorists, they will desire to be doctors, farmers, inventors, businessmen, honest contributing members of their respective societies.

Our leaders should stop whining and crying and complaining and sending mixed messages to our enemies. We should echo the words of John Paul Jones and say, 'We have just begun to fight." We will spend whatever amount of money it takes and we will never back up an inch. We will subsist off dandelion soup and branch water if it becomes necessary. We will never compromise our principles.

What is the price of freedom? What is the price of liberty? President Bush may not be the best panderer, or the slickest orator. But he certainly knows the meaning of the words freedom and liberty.

I would urge the voters to cast an informed ballot. Be careful you don't vote for someone who makes all sorts of promises, has a head full of rehearsed knowledged, but may also have a spine made of jelly. I would urge the electorate if you truly love freedom, if you cherish liberty, there is only one candidate in the presidential election that you should choose. That candidate is George W. Bush. The future of our nation depends on it.

George W. Bush A Hero

To the editor:

One of my heroes would have to be George W. Bush. I have been amazed at his courage and strength in the face of adversity. He seeks God's guidance on a daily basis. He is not out to seek popularity, but to lead by principle. He tells the truth. His smart leadership and hard work has helped to keep me and my family safe since 9/11.

Despite all the media spin and frank bias towards John Kerry, there are a lot of us out there who strongly support President Bush. He is the right leader for our country.

America Deserves John Kerry

To the editor:

America has gone from being a God-fearing nation to a God-less nation; we deserve John kerry. America that murders 1,400,000 innocent, helpless babies each year; we deserve John Kerry. America has allowed God to be taken out of our schools and courtrooms; we deserve John Kerry. America has accepted the immorality of the gay rights movement; we deserve John Kerry. If America gets what it deserves, John Kerry will be our next president.

Let's all hope and pray that God will spare us for another four years and put our God-fearing president back in the White House.

Doggie Jog A Success

To the editor:

On Sept. 11, the Humane Society held its 2nd Annual Doggie Jog. The Humane Society wishes to thank our wonderful sponsors and those providing goods and services helping us to have a successful and fun event.

Special thanks go to Officer Vickie Fields of the sheriff's department with K-9 Officer Ben and Kane Buchanan with trained bloodhound Bubba. Their support of our event as our country recognized a national day of remembrance was truly meaningful. Also, thanks to the many participants who chose to spend their morning with us on a day with so many worthwhile activities scheduled.

Our event would never have happened without the many hours and commitment of our volunteers who continuously give so we can do more to help the homeless animals in Davie County. We are getting so much closer to building the Humane Society Adoption Center. This event raised $2,500 towards that effort. This should become a reality in 2005, but greater public support is much needed.

Again we thank all those who helped with and supported this event. Your time and efforts are what move us forward to achieving our goal: The Humane Society can be contacted at 751-5214, P.O. Box 153, Mocksville. We can be found on the web at http://www.davienchumane.orgl.

Veteran Calls Kerry An Opportunist

To the editor:

There may be some reasons to vote for Senator Kerry but there are reasons to not vote for him. Sen. Kerry has based his campaign on his service as a military veteran. More specifically, he has claimed the status of military hero. In fact, Sen. Kerry has based his whole political career on his military experience and his characterization of it depending on the audience.

When running for office in Massachusetts, Sen. Kerry used his opposition to the Vietnam War as his bona fides for qualification for office. He asserted, in the past, that the Vietnam War was immoral. While not only condemning the Vietnam War, he slandered and vilified all other veterans of that war except the four or five who happened to be on his own swift boat. Today, if you are a Vietnam Veteran and are asked if you or your comrades committed atrocities (rape, murder-not killing and disfigurement of bodies) you can thank Sen. Kerry and his ilk for the question. If the question is posed perhaps by a colleague at work or perhaps in the past by a classmate in graduate school, you have significant liberty to respond with some vehemence. However, if the question is posed by a son or daughter, by a nephew or granddaughter you have another set of problems which requires significant effort to maintain your composure and the love and respect of your family members in response to the calumny perpetuated by Sen. Kerry and company.

Today, Sen. Kerry has another audience and so he has another view of the Vietnam War and his service. Today, Sen. Kerry asserts that his military service was in defense of the U.S. Constitution. There is no longer an emphasis on the Vietnam War and whether or not it was moral. Now we have the warrior who in four months time defended the U.S. Constitution and rose to the stature of Nathan Hale, Audie Murphy and Dwight Eisenhower.

But does veteran status really raise someone above the crowd and make one more qualified for the presidency? What combat experience did Franklin Roosevelt have? Dwight Eisenhower who (obviously with considerable help) literally saved Democracy from the likes of Hitler, Mussolini and Tojo, never commanded troops in combat.

If Sen. Kerry had said that he was a veteran and had served his country and was running for office nobody would have been able to effectively criticize him for that and nor should they. He, however, decided to embellish and expand upon his four months and thereby opened himself up to scrutiny. Sen. Kerry may be John F. Kerry, formerly of the U.S. Navy, but he is certainly not John Paul Jones, formerly of the U.S. Navy.

This is one veteran who sees Sen. Kerry as a conniving opportunist, the worst sort to be in public office. He criticized all but his few colleagues who served in Vietnam to start his political career. Today he is taking the same tack to run for what would be the epitome of his political career. He again attacks a war but this time he claims the troops are okay, at least for the moment.

EVALUATING THE MARKET

If you are going to sell your present home in Davie County, the market conditions will play a crucial role in determining the asking price. Market conditions change constantly, so it is essential that you get solid, up-to-date advice from a real estate professional who is familiar with your specific area.

A good Realtor will know how quickly homes in your area are selling, and will be aware of the other factors that may influence the market conditions in in Davie County. For example, nearby commercial development, which may temporarily produce traffic congestion and noise, may also create a greater demand for housing from people who will be working in the new office buildings. A new bus route that cuts commuting time could make your home more valuable, while busy highway traffic too close to your home can raise an issue with price. The economic conditions have a strong impact on the real estate market. Real estate professionals can help you consider all of the issues and assist you in setting a fair price for your home.

Health Department Has No Flu Vaccine This Season

vaccine from another pharmaceutical manufacturer but are receiving only partial shipments, only about one-fourth of their total order," says Bass.

Any provider in possession of any flu vaccine is being asked by national, state and local public health officials to provide flu shots only to those people who are most likely to be seriously affected by the flu.

The CDC released revised recommendations for influenza immunization. For the first time, the CDC is asking healthy people who do not fall in a high-risk category to forego or defer vaccination in order to allow people at highest risk of complications from influenza to get vaccinated.

The following people are recommended to get the flu vaccine:

- all children 6-23 months of age;
- people 65 years of age and older;
- people with chronic medical conditions;
- any woman who will be pregnant during the influenza season
- residents of long-term care facilities;
- children on long-term aspirin therapy;
- all health care workers involved in direct patient care; and
- caregivers and household contacts of children under 6 months of age.

"We will work diligently to acquire the vaccine and to provide it to people in the high-risk groups. Additionally, we are asking that all health care providers in our community strictly adhere to these guidelines as well," said Bass.

The Davie County Health Department will provide information to the public should the vaccine become available through public health sources. The health director encourages people who fall into the groups recommended for flu shot vaccinations to consult with their physician or health care provider about the availability of vaccine or attend any flu shot clinic that may be offered.

Lack Of Vaccine Changes Schools' Plan

The flu is a contagious respiratory illness caused by the Influenza viruses.

Symptoms include fever (usually high), headache, extreme tiredness, dry cough, sore throat, runny or stuffy nose and muscle aches. The flu can result in illness ranging in severity from mild to life-threatening. The CDC estimates 10 to 20 percent of U.S. residents get the flu each year, and an average of 114,000 Americans are hospitalized for flu-related complications annually. Some 36,000 Americans die each year from flu complications.

Jack McGowen of the Center for Disease Control (CDC) in Atlanta said that October is normally the ideal time to get flu shots, particularly for young children who may have not been exposed to the vaccine before. That may not be possible for many this flu season.

McGowen said that last winter's outbreak of the flu virus on the East Coast even caught the staff of the CDC by surprise, and it became recognized as one of the worst epidemics in recent history. Because of the sudden demand for medicine, vaccines were unavailable for many.

Flu vaccine takes months to brew, using chicken eggs, an old-fashioned method that the government hopes to modernize. Because the vaccine takes so long to produce and has a limited shelf life, any shortage in the supply stream can have devastating effects on the population.

"Last year, so many people waited until they were sick or someone they knew was sick before taking the vaccine. Doctor's and health care centers were literally running out, people were waiting for hours outside doctor's offices, clinics and hospitals when word got out they might have some vaccine coming in," McGowen said. "The pharmaceutical companies didn't make enough because the demand wasn't there until the epidemic hit. By that time, it was too late to manufacture more. Now this year we planned for the worse, and this happens."

The United States had expected a record 100 million doses this year, but on Oct. 5, British regulators unexpectedly shut down a major supplier of the vaccine.

Chiron Corp., a London based pharmaceutical company, was told to hold up the 46 million doses destined for the United States. The vaccine, quarantined at the factory in England, may have faced manufacturing problems leading to possible contamination of a portion of those doses.

Communities are canceling planned vaccination days, and hospitals that have seen their supplies suddenly cut from them are scrambling to find neighboring hospitals that are willing to share.

The CDC is asking for otherwise healthy adults to forego the vaccine this season, in order to make sure those at higher risk can be vaccinated.

Dr. Julie Gerberding, director of the CDC, said the vaccine should be reserved for babies and toddlers ages 6-23 months, people 65 or older, anyone with a chronic condition such as heart or lung disease, pregnant women, nursing home residents, children on aspirin therapy, health care workers who care for high-risk groups and anyone who cares for or lives with babies younger than 6 months.

Lynn Doss, administrator of Davie County Hospital, said that her facility ordered its supply from Aventis Pasteur, and received the whole order already. The hospital supports numerous occupational clinics in the area, as well as some public clinics.

"We have the vaccine, and just received the priority list," Doss said. "We're in the process of rethinking our distribution now."

McGowen said it's impossible to predict when an epidemic may hit, but that prevention by many helps to offset the spread of the virus, which could prevent the epidemic. School age children that are showing any symptoms of the flu should not be sent to school, he said, and visits to sick friends should be limited.

"Its like a chain," McGowen said. "If you break the chain, the virus is dead in its tracks."

According to the National Meningitis Association, Meningococcal meningitis is caused by bacteria which invade the lining surrounding the brain (the meninges). It is called meningococcal septicemia or meningococcemia when it enters the blood stream, destroying organs and tissue in a matter of hours. Often times, the symptoms present themselves much like the flu, making the disease that much more dangerous, especially in young children.

The bacteria in meningitis is spread through saliva. Kissing, sharing drinking cups and "mouthing" the spout of a water fountain are the most common ways to catch the disease.

Studies have shown a recent increase in the number of adolescent cases and deaths in the 1990's, and nearly one-third of the 2,000 to 3,000 annual cases in the United States result in fatalities. Severe disabilities such as limb amputations and organ damage are also possible.

Just like influenza, the spread of meningitis can be thwarted through early prevention. There is a vaccination available that helps to prevent four of the most common forms of meningitis, and the vaccination can protect for as many as three years.

The meningitis vaccination has not been affected by any shortage.

Two Charged With Felony Child Abuse

Bridges

Patterson

Patterson allegedly broke both the child's legs above and below her knees, they reported.

Further examinations uncovered that the infant had eight broken ribs. During questioning by Kernersville police, Patterson admitted picking up the child and squeezing her because she would not stop crying. He stated the rib injuries may have occurred a few weeks earlier while he was babysitting his daughter in his mother's home in Mocksville, where he resides, he said.

Patterson said he was angry then, too.

After posting a $5,000 bond in Forsyth County, Davie sheriff's detectives arrested him at his home and charged him with a felony for the injuries believed to have occurred in Davie County.

The child is in the protective custody of Forsyth County social services.

Patterson is being held on $30,000 secured bond. He makes his first appearance in Davie District Court today.

Bridges was arrested after doctors found his 11-week-old son to have broken bones in his leg, ankle, wrist, and fingers. The child also had 6 broken ribs and two sub-dural hematomas.

Between the inside of the skull and the brain is a membrane, the dura. It's firmly attached to the skull and, along with the fluid in which the brain is bathed, it helps protect the brain from the rigid bone of the skull. Bleeding between the brain and the dura is called a sub-dural hematoma.

According to the American Medical Association's website, almost any blow or trauma to the head is capable of causing a sub-dural hematoma. Shaking a baby violently is one of the most common causes of sub-dural hematomas in infants, the site said.

Bridges, who faced felony possession of controlled substances charges in Forsyth County in 1999, admitted to police to there may have been a few occasions in which he picked the child up too fast. He claimed to have an abundance of stress in his life because of finances and other issues. Police did not state if Bridges said the stress may have played a part in the alleged abuse.

The child is in custody of Davie County Social services. Bridges is being held in the Davie Detention Center on $10,000 secured bond.

Technology Demonstrations

7:30-9:30 p.m.
Davie High School U.S. 601 S., Mocksville

- Using three software programs, third graders at Cooleemee will present the Pledge of Allegiance in their own words, as wel as the history of the American flag and the responsibilities of American citizens.
- Students from Shady Grove will demonstate how Promethean ACTIV products can aid interactive learning.
- William R. Davie students created a multimedia DVD history of the school's past, present and future, using iLife products from Apple Computer. Learn from the students the technology skills and equipment they used to produce a movie.
- Second graders from Mocksville Elementary are creating a web page using laptop computers, which will feature samples of student work, learning games, and links to sites that enhance work in the classroom.
- Eighth grade students from North Davie designed a math curriculum that will use the Smartboard and electronic voting devices.
- Accelerated math software and Prometheans will be in use at the Pinebrook display. This software helps teachers motivate students to master math objectives. Staff will show how this technology works from assigning objectives to reporting individual results;
- Cornatzer Elementary third and fourth graders have created two electronic presentations on Animals in the Arctic, and Presidents of the United States.
- Algebra II students from the high school will learn how to graph functions using PowerPoint and a Smartboard. They will answer questions about the overall impact of using the technology in daily lessons.
- South Davie students will demonstrate various aspects of the technology Blackboard using a Smartboard and tablet PCs. Science probe technology will be demonstrated.
- Get a glimpse of the high school science class of the future as students use technology to participate in virtual reality anatomy and earth science labs.

Miller Benefit This Saturday

If we can touch the life of just one of these children through this benefit, we have accomplished a miracle in his honor," Leatherman said.

A menu of hamburgers, hotdogs, barbecued pork and chicken can be purchased. Sno-Cones, cotton candy, lemonade, arts and crafts, and homemade baked goods will be available.

Children's activities will include a moon walk, bungee run, obstacle course, giant slide, small slide for younger children, and pony rides.

Music starts at 10 with a DJ until noon, when bluegrass music will be played by Wormy Taylor and Dry & Dusty. From 1-2, southern gospel music will be performed by Southern Gospel Ministries. From 2-3:30, the karaoke stage will be open. Raffle winners will be announced at 3:30, followed by more worship music.

Tickets will be sold for a chance at a BMX bicycle, a $30 gift certificate to a vehicle service and a $100 gift certificate toward the purchase of a new vacuum cleaner.

To volunteer or offer donations, call Leatherman at 284-4954.

OCTOBER 2004

Property Revaluation In Final Stages

State law requires that counties revalue properties at least once every eight years. The last revaluation in Davie County was in 2001. Following that revaluation, Davie County opted to go to a four-year revaluation schedule, which means the County is due for revaluation in 2005.

"Before 2001, it had been seven years between revaluations," said Jackie Hall, Revaluation Coordinator, "and there was a significant increase in values. Should the County wait eight years, you're going to see another huge increase. That's one of the reasons we are doing a four-year revaluation. It distributes the increase over a four year cycle verses an eight year cycle; keeping the tax assessment closer to the current market value. Other counties that have gone to the four year schedule have found the public likes it better than having large increases less frequently."

In 2001, the county did a complete revaluation, which included an extensive field review. The entire project was outsourced. This time, the tax department is only doing the relisting with in-house staff.

"This is just a basic field review," said Mary Nell Richie, Tax Administrator. "We're not doing a complete remeasure. This time we're checking each property to see if there are buildings that have been added or removed that we don't know about. We felt the field review from 2001 was accurate."

The tax department began working on the 2005 revaluation eighteen months ago, studying neighborhoods established in 2001 and reorganizing them so they more accurately reflect their market. Currently, they're 80% complete with the field reviews of each property in the county.

One improvement that came out of the plan to have the Davie County Tax Department employees handle the revaluation was they were better able to define the neighborhoods throughout the county. "Our staff realized that the neighborhoods needed to be redefined," said Richie. "We felt our people had a better knowledge of the county, and the local sales market. If we contract with an outside firm, they must come in and learn the county. However, our staff is already very familiar with the county and its market. In the process of redefining the neighborhoods, we went from 29 neighborhoods to 64."

Why do neighborhoods matter so much? Let's say that you live on a small family farm. Twenty years ago, your farm was next to another farm and was valued in relation to the farms that surrounded it. But today, your farm is next to a large subdivision with new high-value homes on small tracts. If your property was valued in the same neighborhood as the subdivision, you may be unfairly taxed because it would be like comparing apples to oranges. However, the county is now split into neighborhoods of similar properties. Sale prices within each neighborhood are then used to determine tax values.

"People can come and see what neighborhood they're in," said Hall, although she warns that neighborhoods are subject to change until the final review. We are currently spending a lot of time in the field to finish the review process. "We are very proud of the new neighborhood maps because they correct inequities created by having larger neighborhoods."

Although, the revaluation will not be final until the notices are sent out in January, at this point, the property values have increased between 12-15% countywide. Some areas will see more of an increase and some less. Basically, if your house was valued at $100,000 in 2001, it would be valued at $115,000 at the beginning of the year (assuming the home was kept up and no improvements were made).

But how much is that in property taxes?

"There's a lot of confusion over that," said Richie. "We're setting the value of the property based on sales of similar properties within a neighborhood. We're not setting the tax rate; the county commissioners do that every June. Revaluation is a fair market estimate of what your house would be worth as of January 1, 2005, based on sales from 2003 and 2004. It can be shocking to taxpayers who may have lived in their home for fifty years and have no idea what it's value would be in today's market."

When you receive your notice in January, take a moment and review all the information. Since the staff has been reviewing property over the past eighteen months, your property may have had changes since the last field inspection.

"There is an appeal process for people who have an issue with their new tax value," said Richie. Each letter will come with an informal appeal form for those who feel their value is incorrect. Residents who have issues with their property value need to fill out the form completely. "We need the reasoning as to why the value is incorrect, and it cannot be based on the amount of taxes they will be paying. The appeal will not be processed without the owner's opinion of value and valid reasoning as to why their opinion of value is correct. Include any pertinent information with the appeal form such as copies of recent appraisals, letters from the health department on no-perk lots; things like that will speed up the appeal process."

Other than the appeal process there are exemptions available. An elderly exemption is available for those elderly residents who qualify. To be eligible, you must be at least 65 years old as of January 1, 2005, must live in the house as a permanent residence, and have annual income of no more than $19,200. If you are claiming the exemption because you are disabled, you must be totally and permanently disabled, and file a doctor's statement with the tax office. If you qualify for the exemption, it exempts $20,000 of the value of the home, or 50% of the appraised value of the home. The owner must still pay any additional taxes. Applications for the elderly/disabled exemption must be filed during the time frame of 1/1/05 through 6/1/05.

Tax Department Frequently Asked Questions

When are real estate and personal property taxes due?
September 1st

When should taxes be paid to avoid interest?
On or before January 5th

What is the interest from January 6th to January 31st?
2% interest on the balance and 3/4% interest each month thereafter

What if I don't receive a tax bill?
A bill is generated and mailed for payment each year. You are responsible for payment even if you do not receive the bill.

There are three common reasons for not receiving a bill:
1. We do not have your correct address. Please make sure that you keep your address information current.
2. Your tax bill was lost in the mail.
3. If your property was purchased after January 1st, the bill goes to the owner as of the first of the year.

When taxes are delinquent, can you make payment arrangements?
Yes, but the arrangements have to be kept in order to avoid other collection action.

When will property be advertised in the paper, and if I have made payment arrangements will the property still be advertised?
Property is advertised in March of each year and will be advertised even if you have payment arrangements. Taxes must be paid in full to avoid any advertisement.

What action is taken if I don't pay my taxes or make payment arrangements?
The following actions will be taken if your taxes are not paid:
1. Garnishment of wages
2. Bank attachment
3. Account turned over to the Sheriff
4. Foreclosure of property

What if I sold the property and still receive a tax bill?
Tax bills are mailed to the owner of record as of January 1st. You should forward the tax bill to the new owner.

What if I receive a tax bill, but my mortgage company is supposed to pay the taxes?
Forward the bill you received to your mortgage company.

Why do I pay county taxes when I live in the city?
You live in the county of Davie, so you pay county taxes. If you are within the city limits, you also pay city taxes.

How do I obtain tax receipts for my property taxes?
You may come by the tax office and obtain duplicate receipts, or you can send a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your written request for duplicate receipts of the taxes you paid to: Davie County Tax Office, 123 S. Main St., Mocksville, NC 27028. This information cannot be given to you over the phone.

What if I receive a tax bill on a vehicle I no longer own?
If the tag was turned in, the bill can be prorated. If the tag was transferred to another vehicle, you will owe this bill and will receive a bill on the new vehicle after the tag is renewed.

What information do you need to prorate taxes on a motor vehicle after it was sold?
You need to send us a receipt from the tag office showing when the tag was turned in. A copy of the bona fide bill of sale or other document clearly indicating that the vehicle has been sold or otherwise disposed of; or if you moved out of North Carolina, a copy of that state's current registration on the car.

What is a tax block on vehicles?
When taxes are not paid by the first day of the fourth month after the bill becomes due, a tax block is placed on your DMV record that prevents you from renewing your tag until the tax is paid.

If the vehicle does not run, do I still have to pay taxes?
Yes. If you do not tag the vehicle, it must be listed with the County Assessor's office.

Can I wait to pay my car taxes when I pay my real estate taxes?
No, unless it is due within that same month. Otherwise, the bill must be paid in the designated month shown on the bill to avoid a block.

Why do I have to pay fire tax on my vehicle?
Fire tax has always been charged on vehicles. In 1993, vehicle bills started being issued separately from real estate bills, making this charge more noticeable.

When should I expect my tax bill for my vehicle?
Approximately four months after you have renewed or purchased a new tag.

Can I appeal the value of my vehicle?
Yes. You have 30 days from the bill date to appeal the value. You may make a written appeal addressed to: Davie County Tax Collector, 123 S. Main St., Mocksville, NC 27028

I no longer own this vehicle; do I still owe this tax bill?
Yes. You are billed on the vehicle you had when you renewed your tag. If you have turned your tag in to the DMV, contact the Davie County Tax Collector's Office at 336-751-2749 for proration of taxes.

What is personal property?
Personal property consists of:
- Boats and motors
- Jet skis
- Mobile homes
- Aircraft (including hot air balloons and gliders)
- Trucks
- Trailers
- Campers
- Motorcycles
- Golf carts

When do I need to list personal property?
We begin listing personal property on January 2nd. The last day to list or postmark the listing form is January 31st.

If I still own the same personal property as I listed last year, do I still need to list?
Yes, personal property has to be listed each year.

When do I let you know that I have sold my personal property?
This can be reported during the listing period.

When will I receive the bill for my personal property?
Bills are usually mailed in August of each year.

How and when may I appeal the value of my personal property?
All appeals must be made in writing to the Dave County Tax Assessor, 123 S. Main St. Mocksville, NC 27028, within 30 days of the bill date.

I have started a new business in Davie County. When and where do I need to list?
All listing must be done between January 2nd and postmarked no later than January 31st. You may come by our office, which is located at 123 S. Main St. Mocksville, NC 27028 or call 336-751-3416 for more information.

May I get an extension on listing my business personal property?
Yes. You will need to write a letter between January 1st and January 31st of the tax year requesting to file your listing. Extensions may be granted until April 15th of the tax year.

When do I need to let your office know about my new construction?
You must list any changes in your real estate during the month of January. You will need to list all new buildings, improvements, and additions along with your cost and the percent complete as of January 1st. Also, you need to let us know if you have demolished or removed any improvements.

What qualifications must I meet in order to receive the tax exemption for the elderly and disabled?
You must:
- Be at least 65 years of age on January 1st or totally and permanently disabled.
- Have an income* for the preceding calendar year of not more than $19,200 and
- Reside on the property

Complete an application beginning January 1st and no later than June 1st, 2005

*Income is defined as the adjusted gross income, as defined in Section 62 of the Internal Revenue Code, plus all other monies received from every source other than gifts or inheritances received from a spouse, lineal ancestor, or lineal descendant. For married applicants residing with their spouses, the income of both spouses must be included, whether or not the property is in both names.

If I receive the elderly/disabled exemption, does that mean I am exempt from paying any taxes?
No.

What are the benefits of receiving the elderly/disabled tax exemption?
We will exempt the first $20,000 or 50%; whichever is greater, in assessed value.

Do I have to reapply every year for the elderly/disabled tax exemption?
No, but you do need to notify the Davie County Tax Assessor's Office if your income is over $19,200 or you are no longer a permanent resident of your property.

Pumpkin Faces

Carver Demonstrates Art At First Methodist

By Mike Barnhardt
Davie County Enterprise Record

The pale orange peelings fly from under Tim Trudgeon's knife, gently falling onto the leather apron he wears.

A slick, sometimes foamy substance seeps through the flesh to the top, making for a sticky job.

But within minutes, the pumpkin in Trudgeon's lap starts to take on a personality. Depending on the pumpkin, and Trudgeon's carving; it could be a happy face, or a sad face, or a scary face.

The Turkeyfoot resident was at the First United Methodist Church of Mocksville as it opened it's Pumpkin Patch last week, demonstrating the art of pumpkin carving he mastered more than 20 years ago, when his children were little.

"There was a TV show called Real People, and there was a fellow carving pumpkins with wood carving tools," he said.

Trudgeon had wood carving tools.

"One thing led to another, and here I am," he said.

Trudgeon was proud of his first carving, although it took him three and a half hours to complete. "I may not be any better, but I'm quicker."

Trudgeon regularly travels during this time of the year to fairs and festivals, showing off his art.

He's learned the types of pumpkins best for carving, to look for a field pumpkin that is hard and feels heavy for its size. Even though he doesn't cut all the way through the pumpkin, the finished product still only lasts a week or two.

"It's like building a snowman, I know it's going away," he said. Trudgeon carries photographs of past carvings to show onlookers.

He learned quickly that pumpkins stain clothes, to the point where they can't be cleaned. That's why he wears the leather apron.

He's tried the chisels and different knives, but most of his carving now is done with a fillet knife.

Tim Trudgeon: "It's like building a snowman, I know it's going away,"

Happy and sad, scary and mad ... Trudgeon displays photographs of his work.

First Methodist Pumpkin Patch Open This Weekend

He wraps tape around three fingers. "Those are the fingers I usually mutilate," he said. "I use a very sharp knife."

A handful of adults and young people gathered around Trudgeon as he started his first demonstration last Friday.

"There's a face in here somewhere," he said, mesmerizing his audience. Within minutes, there were eyebrows, then a nose then a face.

He cuts here, and there, and then there's a mouth.

"I think I'll give him some buck teeth." A few more cuts, and there are the buck teeth.

Then Trudgeon starts cutting around the face. "The only way to make something stand out when you're carving is to take away from around it," he said.

Trudgeon is a retired air traffic control specialist, and moved to Davie County from Wake Forest to be closer to his children. He sings in the choir at First Methodist.

The church's pumpkin patch is open almost daily through Oct. 22, and pumpkins will be sold and the children's playground will be open Monday-Friday from 3:30-7 p.m. and Saturday from 9 a.m.-7 p.m. Pumpkins of all shapes and sizes and varieties will be sold.

There will be a bake sale Saturday morning, and a children's carnival from 9 a.m.-2 p.m. Hotdogs will be sold at lunch, and hot cider and doughnuts will be sold that evening.

Purple Ribbons Mark Domestic Violence Month

By Martha L. McQueen
DDVS/RCC Director

Once again the purple ribbons appear on the light poles on Main Street reminding us that October is National Domestic Violence Awareness Month. In the last few weeks, this community has become painfully aware of the ultimate cost of violence in the home when it reaches its peak.

Davie Domestic Violence Services and Rape Crisis Center will host a number of events this month to bring to our attention the need to recognize the present of violence in families and the need to eradicate it. Staff members will be writing information about domestic violence for the Enterprise each week of this month.

Each of us would like to believe that domestic violence in davie County is minimal. However, DDVS/RCC has served an average of one in ten households in Davie County in the last nine year. Realizing this office does not work with all victims of domestic violence means the number of households in which domestic violence is present is higher.

What can we do? How can we be a part of stopping the violence? Where can we turn? Many times when we are caught in a domestic violence cycle within our own family, we try to minimize the effect on each family member, especially the children. There are many reasons for this, and we will discuss those at a later date. When we see unexplainable injuries on our friends or their children, we believe that it is not our business or we just do not know how to help.

What can we do? Be a good listener. Do not presume to tell another person what they should or should not do. But do listen and believe what you hear.

How can we be a part of stopping the violence. Be knowledgeable. DDVS/RCC is available for consultations or presentations. We have a 24-hour crisis line and will be happy to answer your questions or refer you to the appropriate agency that can do so.. If you have information about our Domestic Violence and Sexual Assault Agency, give it to the person who is being hurt when the abuser is not present.

Where can wet urn? Davie Domestic Violence Services and Rape Crisis Center will share with you information about domestic violence and those who are caught in the cycle of abuse. There is a support group meeting each Tuesday evening for those who have suffered from domestic violence or sexual assault. DDVS/RCC makes referrals to all agencies in Davie County working with victim issues.

If you, or someone you know is in an abuse relationship, Davie Domestic Violence Services and Rape Crisis Center is here for you. We are not here to tell you what to do with your life. We are here to offer a listening ear, and to let you know your alternatives and how to keep safe. Please give us a call. Once again, we have a 24-hour crisis line, 751-HELP (4357), answered by trained volunteers and staff members. Davie Domestic Violence Services and Rape Crisis Center is a United Way Agency.

Senate Candidate Campaigns Here

N.C. Senate candidate Larry Brown of Landis visited Mocksville on Monday as part of his campaign.

Brown

Brown, 57, an assistant principal at Bostian Elementary School in China Grove, is seeking the seat held by Sen. Andrew Brock of Davie County.

"I filed to give folks an opportunity to vote," he said. "Otherwise, it would have been decided in July just by Republicans."

Brown cited his experience in education and local government. He served two terms on the Landis town board. He is a 1969 graduate of UNC-Charlotte and received a masters degree there in 1974. He also received a six-year administration degree from UNC-Chapel Hill.

He and his wife, Zubecca, have two grown children, Sarah, a teacher, and Benjamin, a marketing specialist for Coca-Cola.

He said the No Child Left Behind program needs fine tuning. "It has some good points," he said, adding, "some of it just doesn't make good sense. There's a lot of things that need to be corrected."

Motorcycle Show Saturday At Blaise Church

Blue Heaven: Walker Makes UNC Golf Team

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

When Brittany Walker went to the YMCA twice a day to run and lift weights, she had this in mind.

When Walker asked Oak Valley teaching pro Anne Marie Goslak if they could play just nine more holes, she had this in mind.

When Walker met Tom Fleming at the golf course nearly every day for six weeks, she had this in mind.

When Walker spent three months thinking, analyzing and dissecting golf, she had this in mind: landing a spot on the University of North Carolina women's golf team.

Walker met North Carolina's coach at Wake Forest camp in early June, gained inspiration from Coach Sally Austin's encouragement that anything can happen when you blend incredible desire with talent, and decided to worship golf every waking hour. Three months later, the mission paid big dividends. Walker became the only non-scholarship player on UNC's team.

When Walker completed a three-day tryout on Sept. 6, Austin stopped her on the 18th green and delivered the news. Walker, a lifelong Tar Heels fanatic, felt like she had died and gone to heaven.

"She said: 'I want you to come to practice tomorrow. We've got to get some paper work taken care of. I want you to be apart of this team. I think you have a lot of potential,' " Walker, a sophomore from Mocksville and 2003 Davie High graduate, said. "My eyes lit up. I didn't really know what to say. It was like a dream come true, and it didn't really sink in until a couple days of practice and getting up at 6:45 in the morning to work out."

The Tar Heels began their fall season Sept. 13 and close Nov. 16. The spring season begins Feb. 28. The other seven team members are Romi Irons of Texas, Beth Marushak of Pennsylvania, Shannon Boyle of Cary, Katie Miller of Pennsylvania, Laura Cuniff of Kentucky, Ann Laney of Charlotte and Collete Lowe of California.

For walk-on Walker, this is the opportunity of a lifetime. She didn't slide onto a flailing program that needed any potential it could muster. She latched onto a national power. Carolina finished 13th in the 2002-03 NCAA Championship, and tied for 15th last season. Austin, the 12th-year coach, was a member of UNC's first team in 1974 before making the LPGA Tour in 1987.

What's remarkable about Walker's feat is she is largely her own creation.

"They are ranked nationally, there's a lot of students down there and to be able to walk on ... she's only played golf about four years," said Fleming, a close friend of father Steve Walker who watched Walker grow up. "She's never been in a lot of tournaments. She doesn't have that background, other than just playing high-school golf and at Hickory Hill. She's had limited amount of lessons and everybody's told her she has the potential to do this,' " she said. "So I got to thinking: Do I want to give this a shot? I started playing more and more. In the second week of July, I started playing everywhere and I was playing or practicing at least six days a week."

Walker hooked up with Goslak at least once a week, and under the tutelage of a player who sought her LPGA card last month, she made startling progress.

"I could keep up with her some of the time, and that really made me realize I wasn't shooting for something that was out of reach," said Walker, who can consistently drive the ball 240 yards. "She played at Wake Forest and whoever lost had to sing the other team's fight song. If she beat me, she'd make a Carolina fan your entire life and you get all this stuff, it's almost surreal.

"Practicing with some of the top golfers in the United States, that's just awesome. With the facilities we have and coaching, who knows where I could go."

Walker connected with Austin during the camp at Wake. Their conversation jumpstarted the UNC mission.

"Coach Austin told me: 'Look, you have the potential to do this,' " she said. "So I got to thinking: Do I want to give this a shot? I started playing more and more. In the second week of July, I started playing everywhere and I was playing or practicing at least six days a week."

A Brand New Day

Soccer Ends Winless Streak

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

As Davie's varsity soccer team entered game 11 last week, the possibility of going winless for the season weighed on the War Eagles' tormented minds.

They ended last year in an 0-6-1 free fall, and they went into the second Central Piedmont Conference game against South Rowan at 0-7-3, their confidence shattered by back-to-back losses of 7-1 to Lake Norman and 5-0 to West Forsyth. Darkening the outlook even more, South Rowan beat West Rowan twice. That didn't bode well since Davie and West tied twice.

With adversity running rampant, the War Eagles refused to throw in the towel. They finally got that elusive first victory in 18 games, 2-0, and suddenly it was a brand new day for Davie, which could grab the CPC's third playoff berth by beating South again and knocking off one other team.

"That was very good for us because South had beaten West Rowan two times," Coach Jeremy Byrd said. "So I

Worth Noting ...

Ashley Davidson of Davie varsity volleyball had 14 kills and 11 blocks in a 3-2 revenge win over S. Rowan.

In two games, Michael Jolly scored three of the Davie JV soccer team's four goals.

Goals by Chris Wantuch and David Stein, and 14 saves by Eddie Mitchell, keyed the Davie varsity soccer team's first win in 18 games, 2-0 over S. Rowan.

Brittany Walker of Mocksville made the UNC women's golf team as a walk on.

Justin Joplin ran for 137 yards and Zach Long threw two TD passes as N. Davie 7th football pounded North Rowan 29-14.

Jordan Kinder and Atticus Lum of N. Davie's unbeaten soccer team did the scoring in a 2-1 win over Summit. North got spectacular defense from Mitchell Boles, Josh Parks, Jake McKay and keeper Joel Stilling.

Megan Marshall pitched five shutout innings and Annelise Chesnes lifted with an over-the-fence home run as N. Davie softball battered S. Davie 16-0.

Davidson, Booth Pull War Eagle Volleyball Team Out Of Doldrums

Davie's varsity volleyball team had a dismal performance in a 3-0 loss to West Forsyth, and it was in a familiar place after three games against South Rowan. The War Eagles lost 27-25 and 25-23 in games two and three and were headed toward a seventh defeat in eight matches.

But Ashley Davidson and Carly Booth put the breaks on the tailspin, orchestrating 25-20 and 15-9 wins that lifted Davie to a 3-2 victory over South.

"It was a disappointing night (vs. West Forsyth), and we talked about it for a while afterward, and about the year as a whole," Coach Karen Stephens said. "Some of the girls took the initiative to do something about it. Even though we still made a few mistakes, we picked it up and won the last two games. That said a lot about the kids because they could have easily (quit) after losing the second and third games. But they worked hard, worked hard together and communicated a lot better than we had been."

Davidson's play was a thing of beauty. The junior's line: 14 kills and 11 blocks.

Tough Love

O-Line Thrives Under The Iron-Fisted Groover

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

The booming voice of the offensive line coach is the loudest sound at a Davie football practice. Chad Groover could stand 50 yards from a blocking drill, and his instructions would come through loud and clear. When he stands 5 yards away, sometimes the linemen want to cover their ears.

Groover, 30, doesn't look all that far removed from his Appalachian State playing days. His 6-foot-5, 290-pound frame is just a few two-a-days shy of game shape. He won All-America honors twice at ASU and fell just short of making the Cincinnati Bengals in 1997. Deflated by the final-cut spurn, he frowned on regrouping and auditioning for another NFL team and came back home to Winston-Salem, joining Davie's staff in 1999.

"He should be playing in the NFL right now," Doug Illing, Davie's seventh-year head coach, said. "But he got burned out and was ready to get on with his life. Sometimes you're satisfied: 'Well, I had the opportunity to do it and I didn't make it.' "

Groover moved from Georgia to Winston-Salem in the early 1990s and played for Reynolds High. Illing was a coach on the staff.

"He said he was a tight end," Illing recalled of Groover. "We told him: 'Well, you'll be on the line, but you won't be at tight end.' We put him at center, and man, he just dominated. His footwork was great, he was an athlete and the kid didn't mind working hard. He'd stay after practice to condition extra, and he made people around him better."

More than 10 years later, Davie's offensive linemen and tight ends must deal with an iron-fisted, lay-down-the-law coach. Not everyone is going to like Groover's demanding ways, but all of them respect him to the point that they play their guts out.

Although tight end Ted Randolph (Wake Forest) and center Ryan Boehm (Division I-AA prospect) were fabulous cornerstones to build around, uncertainty surrounded Davie's line coming into the season.

But offensive coordinator Barry Whitlock said then that Groover has a knack for turning ordinary guys into ultimate overachievers, and he appears to have succeeded again. Davie is averaging 7.5 yards per rush and 40 points, and not just because Cooter Arnold, Justin Brown and Jamar Bratcher are a backfield tandem without peers.

"They can't do it all," Boehm said. "Maybe 5 yards downfield they can."

Please See Groover's - Page B6

Turn War Eagle Stadium Orange

The crowds at the last three home football games have been the biggest anyone can remember. It's been standing-room only. The drive to 7-0 has made the stadium jump and shout. The student section rocks.

But that's not enough.

Fans can do more.

If the team is always looking for improvement, so can fans.

Here's what we can do to give Davie's 12th man an even bigger identity. Wear an orange shirt to Friday's conference opener against archrival West Forsyth. If you don't have an orange shirt, find one. If you don't have 10 extra bucks, borrow it.

Friday has been designated "Turn War Eagle Stadium Orange Night" in a collaboration between the booster club, Davie High and Sonic Restaurant. The first 1,000 fans to arrive at the game will receive a coupon for a free Sonic drink.

We're looking for more than a pocket of orange-clad supporters. We're looking for an orange sea.

With Randolph at tight end, T.A. Steele at left tackle, Jordan Grimes at left guard, Boehm at center, Zach Yokley and Michael Murphy at right guard and Dion Cody at right tackle, everything has fallen into place. They shoved North Forsyth all over the field in the last game, a 47-13 win in which Davie scored on every possession but the ones at the end of each half, and they've paved the way to four or more touchdowns in all seven games.

It's clearly apparent that Groover's tough love works. His personality has rubbed off on his pupils.

"He's tough on us, but he's made us as good as we are," Boehm said. "He pushes us to that next level. He can find a new level every week. ... Dion has improved a whole lot. T.A.'s been doing really well. Grimes has been solid throughout. Murphy and Yokley have stepped up huge. One of the biggest issues in the offseason was who's going to play that right guard? They've both been doing a phenomenal job."

"He gets the most out of you," Randolph said. "He makes you a better person and better player. I wouldn't

Lattimore Draws Raves In ND Win

Caleb Rominger earned the loudest offensive cheers in the North Davie eighth-grade football team's 18-12 win at North Rowan last week. But it was John Lattimore who made the biggest impression.

The defensive end/wide receiver reeled in two receptions, including one for a score, and made at least a half dozen tackles that drew "ooohhs" from the N. Davie sideline.

"He made six or seven tackles that helped us a lot," Coach Ron Kirk said.

"We've been moving him around all year just because of the athlete he is," assistant coach Danny Allard said of Lattimore. "He's played linebacker, end and defensive back. We had to move him back to end this week, and he was all over the field. It seemed like every time there was a tackle in the backfield, Lattimore was the one all over them."

Although the score indicates otherwise, the Wildcats possessed far superior firepower. They ran all over N. Rowan and were 1 yard from stretching an 18-6 lead to either 18 or 20 points. But Rominger fumbled before crossing the goal line, and N. Rowan responded with a 99-yard touchdown run.

The Wildcats blitzed, one of the blitzers charged through the wrong gap and N. Rowan's runner went straight up the middle and all the way. All of a sudden, it was 18-12 with three minutes to go.

"We played a good defensive game," Kirk said. "But we had a couple brain-locks and let them stay in the game. They went 99 yards just because our stunt didn't go the right way. We could have put it away. We could have coasted and not had to worry about it."

The Wildcats' blowout plans evaporated in a strange manner, but they didn't let the bottom line get away. Rominger was a huge part of that, rushing for 104 yards. Michael Wood, who moved in from Clemmons in the second week of the season and took over at quarterback shortly thereafter, fired the TD pass to Lattimore.

And Christian O'Connor, Chris Smith and Josh Smith gave Rominger ample support, rushing for 65, 57 and 45 yards, respectively.

"Rominger does a great job of running the ball hard," Allard said. "If we can just get him to hang onto the ball ... Rominger and O'Connor could have had even more yards if they'd stayed to the inside instead of cutting it out."

Notes: The Wildcats have won two straight since opening 0-3. ... They host China Grove on Oct. 13 and go to South Davie on Oct. 20. They close the season at Corriher-Lipe.

North Clobbers South In Softball

When the North Davie and South Davie softball teams met last week in the final game of the regular season, it had the appearances of a tossup. Both teams were 6-3 and the first meeting was a defensive battle in which North jumped ahead 2-0 and held on 4-2.

With third place in the nine-team Mid-South Conference hanging in the balance, the first inning went exactly as planned (0-0). But the unthinkable unfolded the rest of the way. North scored five runs in the second inning and kept pummeling the Tigers in a 16-0, five-inning annihilation.

No one saw that coming.

"We just knew it would be close. It's always close when North and South play," North coach Jamie Lyerly said.

Three pitchers tried, but nothing could stop the Wildcats, who doubled the lead to 10-0 in the third. They weren't done, pouring across six more runs in the fifth.

North banged out 19 hits, including three from Jordan Schultz, Anneliese Chesnee, Grace Loeffler and Katie Walker. Sarah Evans, Kellie Brown and Kelsey Crisco rapped two hits and Emma Gordan added one to the onslaught.

The loudest blow came off the bat of Chesnee, who knocked one to the fence for a triple. Schultz tattooed a double and one of Loeffler's singles was a rocket. It was the continuation of a torrid assault by the Wildcats, who battered Southeast 12-5 earlier in the week to avenge a 10-9 season-opening loss to the Patriots.

"That's the hardest we've hit the ball this year," Lyerly said of the 16-0 win. "Chesnee just about hit it over the fence. They pitched three different pitchers, but it didn't matter - we just kept hitting. We couldn't do anything wrong and they couldn't do anything right. Every time they made an error, we took advantage."

South didn't have an answer for Megan Marshall, either. She pitched all five innings, recording the first shutout of the season. Marshall closed with flair, retiring South 1-2-3 in the fifth.

"Usually she goes two or three innings, and she gets tired or a little wild and I have to take her out," Lyerly said. "But she kept pitching strong.

"We never would have thought it would end that way. I know how the South Davie coaches feel. You never know which team's going to show up. It could have been my girls playing like their girls. You never know."

The Wildcats finished 6-2 in the MSC, two games behind champion Erwin and one behind West Rowan. It was their fourth straight third-place finish, and each time Erwin and West Rowan were the only teams on top of North.

Loeffler paced North in the revenge win over Southeast, collecting two singles and a double. Chesnee had two hits, and Marshall and Samantha Tarleton handled the pitching as North dropped Southeast to fifth.

Notes: The MSC Tournament started Oct. 7 and ended Oct. 12. ... Earlier last week, S. Davie beat Knox 23-9.

ND Volleyball Team Extends Win Streak

North Davie's volleyball team kept a smile on Coach Trish King's face last week.

The Wildcats didn't simply win over South Davie, Summit and Thomasville (twice). They beat them to a pulp. Only one of the matches went three games, and that one - in the first match of a doubleheader with Thomasville - was never in doubt as North took the decisive game 15-2.

That moment was significant because it marked the 100th win at North Davie for King, who is 101-28 in 10 years. The Wildcats (12-2) have made a nine-match winning streak look easy, and two of the main reasons are Halie Cartner and Samantha Maready.

"Cartner is one of those players that isn't real powerful, but she's been very consistent," King said. "She's been serving very well, and she had some great saves at the net (vs. Summit) that could have dropped in between two people without her hustle. She's been very consistent passing and she's set some for me. She's just a very well-rounded player. She does all the little things that may not stand out but you need them to win.

"When Cartner, Amber Parrish and Susanna MacFarlane go back to serve, I'm very relaxed. I can count on them."

Another reason North is one step from tying the record for most wins in its middle-school history is Maready.

"She has done a superb job all year," King said. "She has a powerful overhead serve, she's a very good setter and she passes very well."

The list goes on and on. Kaitlin Wensley stole the show against South Davie, and Parrish ruled in setting, passing and hitting in the second match with Thomasville.

"Wensley has been doing wonderful at the net," King said. "I started using her as a setter, and she has done beautifully there. She has improved so much at the net."

North Soccer Closer To Perfect Season

North Davie's soccer team showed it can win even with its top gun injured.

Summit gave the Wildcats fits in the first meeting, a 4-3 win that featured three Michael Rowe goals. But Rowe pulled his hamstring and wasn't nearly up to speed in last week's rematch. He had produced multiple goals in six consecutive games and 21 in nine games, 15 more than North's No. 2 scorer. With Rowe's performance level restricted against the strongest challenger, North's perfect record appeared in big trouble.

Would the troublesome signs wreck North's streak two steps from the finish line? The answer was a resounding NO. It's because Jordan Kinder and Atticus Lum staked North to a 2-0 halftime lead. And it's because a bevy of teammates who have complemented the scoring star all year reached down and refused to lose their dream.

"Rowe didn't play much in either half, but the team pulled themselves up by the bootstraps, dug in and played a very good game," Conch John Marshall said after North improved to 10-0. "We've got a lot of heart. They really want this (perfect season) bad."

Lum connected with Kinder to put North on the board. Lum cashed in Nicolas Capra's assist midway through the first half for a 2-0 lead. That proved to be enough, although Marshall doesn't know where North would have been without defenders Mitchell Boles, Josh Parks and Jake McKay. Every time Summit got close to keeper Joel Stiling, the trio turned the tide back to North.

"I can't say enough about Boles and Parks," he said. "Those are eighth graders that I'm going to miss next year. They've been strong in the back throughout the year, and McKay is a seventh grader who is hopefully going to lead my defense again next year. He played very strong."

Sam Moser provided defensive toughness off the bench. Stiling, who always seems to deliver, answered the bell late in the first half and again in the closing moments when Summit put together game-tying chances.

"Stiling played another brilliant game in goal," Marshall said. "He came up with two big saves right at the end of the first half after not even touching the ball at all. It was back and forth toward the end, and the defense played real well."

Summit struck early in the second half, but couldn't avoid becoming victim No. 10. North has allowed two goals in the last three games and four in the last five.

"I told them at halftime that we can't get complacent, that we have to play tough and not let up," Marshall said. "Well, right off the bat they score a goal. But the boys dug in and played really good defense."

Notes: Nicolas Capra, brother Anthony Capra and Rowe rotated at the two forward spots. "Again I can't say enough about the (Capra boys)," Marshall said. "They played very well." ... The slowed Rowe didn't score for the first time all season. ... Kinder is second with seven goals and Kurtis Keiser has six. ... The Wildcats try to complete their quest for perfection Oct. 13 at Forsyth Country Day. They should get it, considering they pummeled FCD 6-0 in the first matchup.

North's Joplin Puts A Pounding On North Rowan

North Davie's seventh-grade football team came into the season expecting big things, but it didn't deliver early in the season, barely beating Knox, losing a narrow decision to West Rowan and tying Erwin in triple overtime.

Now the Wildcats are starting to meet all of their expectations, following a 35-0 win over Southeast with a 29-14 win at North Rowan last week.

"The seventh graders have taken longer than we expected to pick up the (Wing-T) offense, but they're starting to understand what we need to do and starting to jell," assistant coach Danny Allard said. "We're starting to finally look like we know what we're doing."

N. Rowan quarterback Aaron Harrell connected with Winslow Cherry for a 55-yard score that allowed the Mavericks to stay within 14-8 in the first half. But that pass play was about all that went wrong for the Wildcats, who surged to a 29-8 lead and dropped N. Rowan to 1-4.

"The defense played real well," Coach Ron Kirk said.

"Really the only thing they did was run a good play (in which) our safety sucked in," Allard said. "The only other score they had was a (55-yard) double reverse late in the game. They have some athletes, and we were very pleased with our defense."

Wildcats quarterback Zach Long came through, just as he seemingly always has this season, tossing TD passes to Chase Sampson and Tanner Holden, hitting John Flowers with another completion and adding 47 rushing yards.

But N. Davie used all its offensive variables. Justin Joplin barged his way to 137 rushing yards, Flowers ran for 77 yards and Matt Speer contributed 68 rushing yards as the visitors improved to 3-1-1.

"Joplin is a big, strong athlete," Allard said. "He probably had 80-90 return yards. We know if we need 6 or 7 yards we can go to him. He's probably the fastest guy we've got."

Speer isn't too shabby himself.

"He's as hard a runner as we've had at fullback since (Mark) Huggins and (Josh) Miller, as far as busting it up through the gap," Allard said. "He's run the ball real hard the last two games."

N. Davie's front eight on defense gave the Mavericks all sorts of problems. Their QB, Harrell, completed 5 of 10 passes for 110 yards, but they couldn't sustain any momentum on the ground.

The linemen, ends and linebackers that controlled the game were Davin Gray, Zach Dunn, Sampson, Greg Rogers, Holden, Josh Money, Speer and Flowers.

The Wildcats play at South Davie Oct. 19, then close the season at Corriher-Lipe.

Old School

Davie Sports From October, 1966

The Davie Rebels football team tied West Rowan 0-0 at West. The third tie of the season left Davie at 2-0-3 overall and 1-0-3 in the North Piedmont Conference.

Davie scored on a 72-yard punt return by Randall Ward, but the TD was called back by a clipping penalty. Ward shook loose from several would-be tacklers before breaking free. Davie's only other scoring chance came after the opening kickoff, when the Rebels stalled at the West 11.

West drove to the Davie 38 before it was stopped by a Jerry Hendrix interception. West then picked off Davie quarterback Phil Deadmon. Davie punted nine times, West eight.

Among Davie's standouts were offensive lineman Fred Bailey and defensive tackle Ronnie Riddle.

Here Comes West Forsyth

The nonconference fun is over, and it's time to get down to business. After being idle last week, Davie's unbeaten football team is ready for the Central Piedmont Conference. You can feel the fervor. Davie vs. West Forsyth. There's nothing else like it.

Of the potholes that Davie has hit in the last seven years, none has done more damage than the one that will visit War Eagle Stadium Friday at 7:30. Since 1997, the War Eagles are 18-7 in CPC contests not involving West. By contrast, they are 2-5 against West, which has won 13 of 16 in the series since 1988. Moreover, Davie hasn't defeated West at home since 1996, when David Daye, Andy Ward, Scott Cornatzer, Matt James and J.J. Rice were the catalysts in a 7-3 upset. Patrick Lowery, Neil Rice and Davie rocked West 38-8 in 2001, but two years of frustration has built up for Friday because West won 28-11 in 2002 and 14-6 last year.

When one side dominates a rivalry like West has, it's not always considered a true rivalry. But Davie-West still belongs in the heated-rivalry department because most of the games in the last eight years have been close and rough. Last year was one of three heartbreakers that the Titans have inflicted in recent years. They edged Davie 14-6 in 1998 and 17-10 in 2000.

"In the last six years, regardless of records, it's been a great game," Davie's seventh-year coach, Doug Illing, said. "Even the years when we were down and they were up, it was a good game. Their kids are going to be sky high and our kids will be high. So it's going to be a big game."

The War Eagles (7-0) have been burning up the competition, outscoring people 280-77 and burying the last four opponents by 33, 61, 32 and 33 points. They have already been given the CPC trophy by most everyone that follows football.

The Titans (4-4, 1-0 CPC), on the other hand, were traveling in the opposite direction for six games. They opened with wins over Parkland (36-7) and Starmount (15-7), but neither was pretty. West's 104 yards of offense stood up vs. Parkland because it forced 10 turnovers. West had 146 yards against Starmount, which opened 0-3.

The Titans' offensive woes caught up to them in a 21-17 loss to Glenn, and they followed with three more losses - 20-0 to Mount Tabor, 21-12 to North Forsyth and 12-10 to Northwest Guilford. They managed 71 yards and three first downs vs. Glenn and 111 yards and three first downs vs. Tabor. One of their two TDs vs. N. Forsyth was a 107-yard INT return by L.J. Davis.

But the hype surrounding Davie-West has regained its luster, thanks to West's 21-20 win over East Forsyth and last week's 26-9 CPC win over South Rowan.

Although West seems ill-equipped to deal with the War Eagles - they drilled two common opponents that beat West (North Forsyth and NW Guilford) - Illing warned against the perils of disrespecting a team that would love nothing better than to derail Davie's perfect record.

"They've got a lot of confidence that they can beat up on Davie County," he said. "When kids have the belief, a lot of times you're already a step ahead of the game. You have to overcome that. We're playing with a lot of confidence ourselves, so I don't think what's happened in the past will be a factor. As long as our kids stay focussed, not look at who they're playing and play the game that way, things will work out the way they're supposed to. If we're playing Crest or Statesville, so far we've played the game the way it's supposed to be played."

Davie's most pressing concern is sophomore John Stamper, who was an all-CPC linebacker as a freshman. Stamper had three interceptions vs. Parkland, and he returned four kicks for TDs in the first three games.

"They're trying to utilize No. 33 as much as they can," Illing said. "I heard they moved him from free safety to linebacker. So they moved him closer to the line of scrimmage to be more involved in every play. And against North Forsyth he was at running back. He's a punt and kick returner, so he's a threat there, too.

"Just containing their athletes and not giving up big plays is going to be the key."

• Backup quarterback Rob Johnson, who replaced injured Shawn Porter, may have saved West's season against E. Forsyth. He connected with Denorris Johnson for 20 yards to tie the game with 36 seconds to go, and Marcus Mustin's PAT ended West's four-game slide.

• In West's win over South, Porter was the difference, rushing for 58 yards and throwing for 84. Fullback Jake Porter, who went to North Davie and played at Davie as a freshman, had 32 yards on 12 carries. The stats were awkward. South outgained West 213-191 and had two more first downs than West - but still lost by 17.

• Davie has lost once since last year's game at West, 27-12 to Tabor in the state 4-A quarterfinals.

• Cooter Arnold has 23 100-yard rushing games, but he hasn't scared West, which held him to 53 yards on 15 carries last year and 29 yards on 20 carries in 2002.

want it any other way. He's a heckuva coach."

"He's hard-nosed, old school and he's been in the trenches on all levels, and his mentality rubs off on those linemen and they become hard-nosed," defensive coordinator Devore Holman said. "And he's got a good rapport with the kids. If he asked them to run through a brick wall, they're going to try to do that. Is he tough? Durn right, he's tough. But every one of those kids love him because they believe in what he does."

Groover's voice at practice is unmistakable. He will tell you what's in the front lobes of his brain - there's no muffler. Samples from a recent practice:

• "Keep your legs running, Dion. Keep your legs running. Wake up!"

• "(Tyler) Hayes, you better pick it up or we're going to go again. Pick it up or we'll stay right here all day long."

• After yelling at Dion some more, Groover lowered the volume to a loud whisper: "Get you a shot of water." A minute later he raised the volume: "Let's go. Let's go on a wiggle."

• "Keep your hips together and blow his (rear end) back to the free safety!"

• "I shouldn't see your numbers. There's no reason why I should see your numbers. Stay low, T.A. Keep your hips in there."

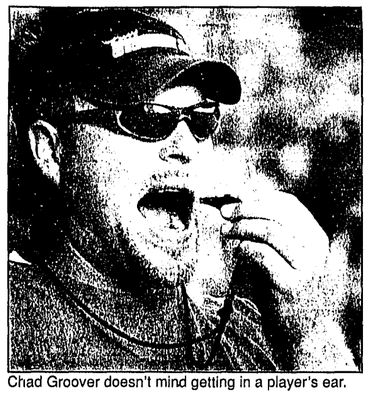
• "Stay in there, Dion. Stay in there. Don't start doing this (crap)."

• "Do that in the game. Son of a gun, why can't you do that in the game."

• "Work him, work him, work him. Make him your (rhymes with ditch)."

• "It's amazing. When you keep your head down you can block somebody. (Durnit), it ain't rocket science."

• After about 45 minutes of prowling from side to side and growling at every little mishap, Groover nodded his approval:



Chad Groover doesn't mind getting in a player's ear.

"Good job, good job. Get you a shot of water."

You get the picture? Groover's demeanor is all business. It takes some players longer than others to adjust to him, but most of them wind up revering him. Groover's signature drill is the T-board, a once-a-week routine that makes the linemen detest Tuesdays.

"The guys despise it," JV O-line coach Matt Sain said. "If Groover hasn't gotten here by the beginning of practice, they say: 'Coach Sain, just let us skip T-board. Don't make us do it. Let us miss it this one time.' But once they get over there and get in it, they get after it. Groover told them if we win a state championship, we'll have a T-board burning when we get back."

"You can see Boehm coming in doing a backflip on a day Groover's laying 80 yards of cement and not going to be here," Illing said. "They want to be pushed, but they don't mind a break every now and then."

"It's so simple in theory, but you have to do them to really know," Boehm said of the T-board. "I don't really think it's in the drill, I think it's Groover. He can make a mountain out of a molehill. And then you're doing it again and you'll keep doing it again. He's always straight forward. If it's a bad block, it's a bad block. There's never a way around it."

Illing said Groover, who will downplay any praise that comes his way, has no idea how much he means to Davie's program.

"I don't think he understands fully how valuable he is to this coaching staff and team," Illing said. "He's away from the school until 4 o'clock (laying concrete). He only does it one way. It's his way and it's the right way. He knows how to prepare kids to play at a high level, and he does it in a unique way. His job takes him away and the days that happens he's missed, I'm lucky to have him on my staff because every winter he's getting opportunities from people in Winston: 'Hey, you don't have to drive 30 minutes to school every day.' Several schools in Forsyth County have offered him jobs. So I'm blessed he's committed to be at Davie County."

Give The OL Some Love

Fans and media never fully appreciate blockers, and it's time to give them their due. Randolph and Boehm ooze confidence, dominate most everybody in their path and make those around them perform better.

"Yokley, Murphy, Grimes, Cody and Steele are constantly getting better, and Boehm and Randolph are continually pushing them to get better, better and better," Illing said. "They encourage them to get more intense, and they feed off of it. Ryan and Ted play intense, and those guys want to play to their level so they get intense. They grab them every once in a while by the shirt collar and say: 'Hey, let's go. Let's go harder.' "

Senior bookends Steele and Cody have evolved from unheralded to indispensable.

"I think T.A.'s having an outstanding year," Sain said. "He's really blossomed this year."

"From the first week to now, (Cody's) a whole new player," Randolph said.

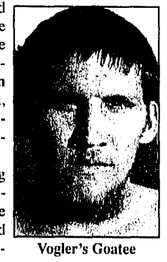
Vogler's Goatee Keeps Growing; Beiter Brags On McBride

• There are endless symbols to the Davie football team's 7-0 run. Among them are Cooter Arnold's endless greatness (1,140 yards rushing, six interceptions), the backfield's triple-threat power (Justin Brown has 743 yards in six games and Jamar Bratcher has the team's longest run at 77 yards) and linebacker D.J. Rice's 20 tackles in the opponent's backfield. Another could be the awe that Davie's senior class (which includes stalwarts Ted Randolph, Ryan Boehm, Zac O'Brien, Dustin Morgan, Chris Goode and the injured Dewayne Collins) inspires from opposing fans and neutral onlookers.

But a curious symbol to the winning streak has emerged from a junior wide receiver. Zach Vogler hasn't shaved since mid-August. His goatee has grown thick and woolly. He would fit in perfectly on the Boston Red Sox.



Vogler's Goatee

The goatee could grow for another two months. Vogler has vowed to avoid a razor until either the War Eagles lose or until they win the state championship on Dec. 11.

"I started growing it and somebody gave me the idea that it was good luck," Vogler said. "So I'm going to let it grow until we lose. So there ain't no telling how long it's going to get. It could get pretty long. I might have to start putting it in a rubber band or something."

• Vogler reminds Coach Doug Illing of Thadd Johnson, and that's not bad company. Johnson, who was very similar to Vogler's frame (5-9, 160), set records in 1999 for catches (37) and receiving yards (657). His receptions record still stands.

"He's that Johnson-type of receiver," Illing said. "Vogler's a possession receiver and he's going to bust his butt to do what he can to help the team score. We got the ball to him (vs. N. Forsyth) and he cashed in on it."

• North Forsyth coach Bill Oakley said one of the secrets to the War Eagles' success (they've won 12 of 13 games dating to last year) is their offseason regimen. They started becoming a team last winter and spring. July 28 was just the first official practice.

Oakley should know. He coached at Davie from 1999-2002.

"You could see the difference in the kids," Oakley said following Davie's 47-13 win at North on Oct. 1. "They're all bigger, faster and stronger. They went to a (defensive) scheme (of blitzing almost nonstop) that fits their kids, but I think ultimately what they're doing in strength and conditioning is obvious. Like I told my young guys, that's a credit to Davie for three or four years of it."

• What impresses Davie cross country coach Daric Beiter most about sophomore Lesley McBride can't be measured or timed. McBride doesn't have a fifth gear like Bekah Peeler, Kelsey Steller or Stephanie Jarvis, but she gives her all in every practice and every race.

After McBride was Davie's fifth runner in 25:09 in a recent meet, Beiter could not stop raving about her heart.

"She finds something and she will give you everything she has at the end of the race," he said. "If every person had a heart like she does, we'd have an excellent team. She just gives all the effort she has the last quarter-mile.

"There's a difference between the person who jogs the course and then sprints at the end. She works the whole course, and at the end if there's somebody in front of her, I can count on her to get her - guaranteed. (Devore) Holman would say the same thing. We watched her in track. It's great to watch her finish."

Wooldridge's Scholarship Safe After Sept. 12 Arrest

By Mike Gunning
Davie County Enterprise Record

Former Davie High School star and current North Carolina punter David Wooldridge appeared in district court in Durham on Tuesday to face charges of misdemeanor larceny.

Wooldridge was accused of stealing several hundred dollars' worth of computer-related equipment from Wal-Mart at New Hope Commons in Durham.

The charge stems from an incident Sept. 12, the day after UNC's 56-24 loss at Virginia and the day before Wooldridge's 21st birthday.

He was served with an arrest warrant in Chapel Hill on Sunday, Sept. 19 by Durham investigators. UNC coach John Bunting suspended Wooldridge for one game for "conduct detrimental to the team" following the arrest.

Wooldridge has been solid for UNC this season. His average of 41.5 yards on 15 punts ranks him 16th nationally and third in the ACC. He has 3.75 punts a game, just above the minimum 3.6 needed for inclusion in the NCAA statistical leaders. The redshirt sophomore from Advance has a reputation for sticking opponents deep, as evidenced by his four-punt performance against Florida State, in which three of his punts put the Seminoles inside their own 20 yard line.

Wooldridge, UNC's lone scholarship punter, has kicked 42 times in his career for an average of 44.9 yards.

Woolridge has no previous criminal record in North Carolina, and is not expected to receive jail time for the offense. According to Kevin Best, director of Football Communication at UNC, his scholarship is safe.

"We suspended David for the Louisville game," Best said. "That's as far as the team will go in this matter. His scholarship will continue."

Jacobs, Cornatzer To Be Inducted

Davie High will induct two former athletes into its hall of fame at halftime of Friday's home football game against West Forsyth. The inductees will be Chris Jacobs, 38, and Neil Cornatzer, 26.

Davie invites the 15 past members to come down to the field at halftime to be recognized before the introduction of Jacobs, Cornatzer and the 1983 golf team, which is being inducted for finishing second in the state.

The hall of fame reception will be at 6:30 p.m. in the cafeteria.

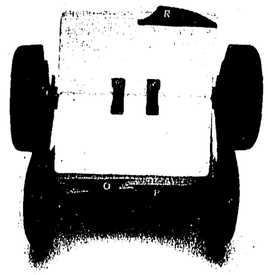
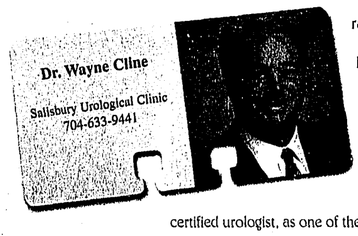
To Find The State's Best Doctors, You Can Start In Rowan County.



Each year, an independent research firm, Best Doctors, Inc. of Boston, identifies the nation's finest physicians through a unique survey that is conducted only among doctors. To find them, it asks physicians a simple question:

If you or a member of your family needed medical care, whom would you call?

In all 50 states, Best Doctors identifies the physicians of each specialty who are ranked by their peers as the "best of the best." In North Carolina, only four percent of the state's 16,000 licensed physicians make the list.



At Rowan Regional Medical Center, we're proud to salute Dr. Wayne Cline, Jr., a board certified urologist, as one of the physicians named by Best Doctors in 2004. His practice, Salisbury Urological Clinic, includes Dr. Robert A. Bertram, Dr. Lee R. Johnson, and Dr. Vance Merhoff.

A graduate of Princeton and the Bowman Gray School of Medicine, Dr. Cline exemplifies the standards of excellence maintained by all members of the medical staff in providing care for patients. And his peers have noticed.

think we're coming together, and I think some good things are happening."

Later in the week, Reynolds broke loose in the second half to beat Davie 6-1. But Byrd still viewed the outing as a huge accomplishment because Davie gave Reynolds fits in the first half. It was only 1-0 through 40 minutes.

"I think we have a good shot at getting into the playoffs," he said. "We played better against Reynolds than we played at any other time this season. I mean it was the best I've ever seen them play. With the exception of East Forsyth, Reynolds is the best team we've played. Reynolds is better than Lake Norman. If we play at that level the rest of the season ..."

Davie's chemistry changed against S. Rowan. Davie broke on top thanks to a Jarrett Fleharty-to-Chris Wantuch connection midway through the first half, and David Stein added insurance at the 63rd minute. The Josh Parrish-to-Stein play prompted a smile on Byrd's face because Stein, a two-year varsity starter at keeper, and Grimsley-transfer Eddie Mitchell switched positions and the move worked perfectly.

Stein put the game away and Mitchell bagged 14 saves.

"I put Stein on the front line because I needed some speed to exploit South's backs, and he ripped the ball from 25 or 30 yards into the upper right corner," Byrd said. "It was sweet.

"We just moved some things around. Things were working with Mitchell in goal and David up front, so we continued that."

Davie (1-8-3, 1-2 CPC) allowed four goals in a 17-minute span of the second half against Reynolds, but holding the Demons scoreless for 39 consecutive minutes and only trailing 1-0 at the break were big boosts in confidence.

The Demons (8-4, 3-0) are so good all Byrd could do was salute them.

"They've just got an incredible program," he said. "Reynolds did not expect us (to play a tight half). They were worried at halftime. They expected to score those six goals in the first half."

Parrish, Harrison Judd and Wantuch elevated their games to new heights, and sophomore Fleharty thrilled Byrd by shutting down a senior and Division I prospect in the first half.

"Parrish was more aggressive than I've ever seen him," Byrd said. "Judd played better than I've seen him play all season. He had a tremendous week. Wantuch had probably the week of his life as far as his output on the field."

Now that the first win's out of the way, and after fighting valiantly against a superior opponent, it's time for Davie to build on the revival.

"I think the guys are starting to see that there are possibilities," he said. "You see what's happening at South Davie and North Davie. We have been pulling up from JV to varsity, and as that fills in and solidifies, I think people are going to see a good program in the next few years.

"We're bonding, we're understanding what it takes and I think we can beat West Forsyth (which beat Davie 5-0 on Sept. 29)."

Notes: Placido Cruz scored vs. Reynolds with eight minutes left. ... Davie has a new forward in sophomore Neftaly Haro, who moved from Mexico. ... In the first of three games, Davie played outside the conference at North Forsyth and tied 1-1. Parrish provided a 1-0 lead and North answered in the 55th minute. "We were real close to scoring at the end. We just couldn't put anything through," Byrd said. ... The last win before last week was also against S. Rowan, in the 14th game of 2003. ... Davie plays at W. Forsyth on Oct. 19 and at S. Rowan Oct. 21.

dinks," Stephens said. "She played really smart. She knew when to drop it and when to hit it. She did real positive things."

Booth, who has been hampered by a bad back, infused the War Eagles in game four when they had their backs against the wall, and she followed up with requisite plays in the decisive fifth game. The junior finished with team-high percentages in serving and passing.

It didn't hurt that Nicole Marready put up 10 kills and six blocks, and that Erin Whitaker collected 11 kills and four blocks. The most powerful server was Vanessa Didenko (six aces).

"Booth came in the fourth and fifth games," Stephens said. "We've not had her because of the back injury, and we've been trying to gradually ease her back in. She was a little nervous about hitting because that's how she hurt her back. Once she relaxed and took a few balls, she played great."

The win improved Davie's Central Piedmont Conference record to 2-4. It is 5-16 overall. Davie plays at home against North Davidson on Oct. 14. The CPC Tournament is Oct. 19-20.

Junior Varsity

Davie's JV beat South Rowan in three games after losing to West in three. In the win, Laura Vanhoy and Samantha Judd led the way with six ace serves and four kills, respectively.

Davie (7-11, 2-4) also got four aces from Tanisha Reynolds, three from Molly Chapple and Kylie Jenkins, and three kills from Vanhoy, Reynolds and Tyara Wagner. Davie's lone block came from Wagner.

Walker's Dream Comes True

me sing the Wake Forest fight song. And I did beat her once or twice.

"My handicap dropped from 12 coming into the summer to five."

Fleming, who owns Mocksville Builders Supply and is a member at Bermuda Run Country Club, has known Walker all her life. He followed her basketball prowess and has always been captivated by her will. He told her it would be beneficial to put her game to the test in Bermuda Run's nasty rough, and that led them to countless rounds together.

"We basically either played or practiced every day for six weeks," Fleming said. "She's so competitive, she cut her handicap in half in six weeks. She was consistently shooting between 76 and 78 on both (Bermuda Run) courses."

Fleming marveled at Walker's ferocity. She has a steely focus and iron character. She has never avoided going the extra mile. With those qualities, it's no wonder she improved so much in so little time.

"We'd play with the guys and she gets right in there," Fleming said. "She grinds it out. She doesn't give up. There's no quit in her. She has a great attitude. On days she doesn't have her swing and everything's not going right, she still has the ability to shoot good scores. She's a really, really strong young lady.

"She'll help the team in a lot of ways other than golf. She'll be a good teammate. She'll make the other players better."

When Fleming learned how things magically played out at UNC's tryouts, he was overcome by emotion.

"It tickled me to death," he said. "It was just a joy to spend time with her. When you see somebody that really wants to achieve something, have a dream and then reach it, I know how much it meant to her and how hard she'd worked for it. She would go to the gym in the morning and night to work out. She did all the right things. I've never seen anybody work that hard. I've been around a lot of good athletes, but it just meant the world to her."

Walker became a Tar Heel on Sept. 6, and her week only got better. Three days later, she talked one-on-one with Dean Smith, the winningest basketball coach in Division I history. The next day she met the man with the No. 1 active winning percentage in Division I, current UNC basketball coach Roy Williams.

Walker loves to retell the stories.

"I was on the range pretty much by myself, and I heard Coach Austin talking to a man," she said. "I heard his voice but didn't really think anything about it. This man starts walking toward me and I thought, 'I better see who it is,' and it was Coach Dean Smith. And I thought: 'Oh, my goodness.' I introduced myself. He asked me where I was from and he knew where Mocksville was. We made small talk for five or 10 minutes. He was so easy to talk to. He said: 'So Brittany, how many hours have you put in today? Coach Austin says you're working pretty hard.' He congratulated me and said he would be looking for my name in the papers and would be keeping up with me. I made it a point to tell him how much of an inspiration he's been to me all my life."

The next day Walker was pinching herself in disbelief once again.

"I was standing at my car and I got to meet Roy Williams," she said. "The fact that he would stand there and carry on a conversation with me, as famous as he is, meant a lot. Dean and Roy were together and I was right there between the god of basketball and his protege. He said, 'I'm Roy Williams,' and I said, 'Oh, I know who you are.' He was asking about my golf and said: 'Promise me one thing. Promise me we'll go play in the spring.' And I said: 'You've got it.' That was like icing on the cake for the entire week."

So how did Walker impress the only person that ultimately mattered? Austin detected a raw short game, but Walker's poise, power and maturity easily trumped the aspects that need polish. She also took to Walker's enthusiasm.

"Her work ethic and how hard I knew she had worked was very impressive to me. That won me over," Austin said. "She's got a ways to go. Her short game needs work, and she needs experience playing against good players and really great players. But if she decides she wants to do it and is willing to put the time in, she can be really good.

"I was happy for her. Anybody that works that hard, I'm pulling for them."

Notes: Walker delivered a 3.5 grade-point average as a UNC freshman. ... As a Davie golfer, she was a three-time all-conference performer, winning the conference title as a senior. She was conference player of the year as a junior basketball player, but her senior year was ruined by a knee injury. She plans on majoring in Exercise and Sports Science.

Brittany Walker, a lifelong Tar Heel fan, made the UNC team after practicing just about every day last summer.

Davie Tennis Rocks West Forsyth In Fight For Playoffs

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

Davie's tennis team wrecked West Forsyth, and Davie did it in the most stunning fashion. With the second state playoff berth on the line in a tie-breaker match last week at Davie, the War Eagles played phenomenally well and drilled West 7-2.

Overby

Who would have believed that after the teams split in the regular season and tied for second in the Central Piedmont Conference? West won the first meeting 6-3, and Davie pulled out the regular-season rematch 5-4.

The win meant more than a No. 2 seed in the state dual playoffs. It ended the dual-team season for Davie's longtime archrival.

"It was beautiful," Coach Kerstin Plagemann said. "I haven't ever seen all of them play that well. The girls who have struggled pulled through and did good."

The War Eagles drained all the suspense in singles. Alyson Walker, Jackie Button, Lauren Hauser, Jessica Overby and Jacquie Downing each won by at least three games to give Davie an insurmountable 5-1 lead. Partners Hauser-Overby and Downing-Meredith Cheek padded the blowout with in doubles.

"I think there were some very unexpected wins," Plagemann said. "I know their coach was surprised. He was expecting a much closer match."

Overby hardly appeared capable of her 10-7 win at No. 4 singles. She lost to Holly Parsons 10-2 a week earlier.

"It was close the entire time," Plagemann said. "Toward the end you could see Overby was very frustrated. But she calmed down, played her game and won."

"I knew my team needed it, so I really wanted to win," Overby said. "I worked really hard to beat her. Everyone was determined. We really wanted to get No. 2 in the conference."

This day was all about unforeseen reversals. Overby teamed with Hauser for an 8-6 win at No. 1 doubles. The West pair won the earlier meeting 8-5. Button won 10-7 at No. 2 after losing 10-7 to Ashley Sawyer the week before.

"I just played calm, and usually I get real hyped up, get really excited and get frustrated when I make one mistakes, and it keeps getting worse and worse," Button said. "I played really well. We all played well. It was amazing. We've really been working hard."

The War Eagles have finished second in the CPC for four straight years, but this was one of the more satisfying triumphs. And now Davie has topped West 12 of the last 13 times.

Notes: The CPC Tournament was Oct. 12-13 at Reynolds' Hanes Park. ... Earlier last week, unbeaten Reynolds improved to 12-0 and 7-0 with an 8-1 win over Davie, which got its win from Hauser-Overby, 9-8. Davie bounced back with an 8-1 win over North Davidson. ... Davie enters next week's state duals with an 11-7 record. ... Six of nine spots in the lineup have winning records, including Walker's 12-6 clip at No. 1. Hauser is 13-4 at No. 3 and Overby and Downing are 10-7 at four and five, respectively.

Peeler Gains Momentum In Final Cross Country Tune Up

Bekah Peeler made a statement in the final tuneup for the Central Piedmont Conference championships, leading Davie's girls cross country team over three teams with a first-place performance.

It was Peeler's first win of the season after placing second and third in two of four CPC meets. Davie topped Reynolds 37-47. South Rowan had 64 and North Davidson 80.

"The only team that wasn't there was West Forsyth, so it was a good confidence booster," Coach Darie Beiter said. "But we also know that Reynolds wasn't going for everything at that meet. They really weren't running their hardest. But I still think we can challenge Reynolds and West Forsyth, and we're far above North Davidson and South Rowan."

Peeler's winning time in the 3.1 miles at Davie's home course at Pinebrook was 21:38. The senior had 22 seconds to spare. Meanwhile, Kelsey Steller finished fourth and Stephanie Jarvis ninth.

"Steller was a minute behind Peeler, and we really want them to be within 30 seconds of each other," Beiter said. "If we can get them within 30 seconds, that's a great 1-2 punch."

Davie's fourth and fifth runners were Sharon Woodward (11th) and Elizabeth Budd (12th). Hannah Thompson was sixth for Davie, and Rose Robertson and Caitlin Atkinson achieved personal-best times.

Corey Doub led Reynolds' Kenneth Brooks until the last 100 meters and wound up second in 18:57, three seconds back. Aaron Hollifield was second for Davie and 11th overall, and Andrew Minor was 17th.

The team scoring: North Davidson 35, Reynolds 45, South Rowan 73 and Davie 74.

"What the guys really have to focus on is we don't want to finish last," Beiter said. "We were within one point of South Rowan, and we can get them (one) week from now."

Notes: The CPC championships are Oct. 20 at West Forsyth. ... Beiter said the meet at Pinebrook Elementary wouldn't have been possible without the gracious efforts of the Mocksville-Davie Parks and Recreation Department, Davie County Schools Maintenance and Vulcan Materials. "We almost had to cancel the race because of the flooding from hurricanes," he said. "Without their work we wouldn't have a course there. I appreciate the work all three groups do for us. The whole conference thinks our course is the best."

Whitlock, Marrs Lead Golf Team

Ashley Whitlock emerged as Davie's hottest golfer in mid-September and she hasn't let up, following a 49 with a 47 in two recent meets.

Bailey Marrs matched Whitlock's 49 at Rolling Hills. That put them in a tie for 12th among 36 players. Marrs came through with a 51 at McCanless Golf Course as Davie finished fifth out of eight teams.

The North Piedmont Conference championships were Oct. 12 at Statesville Country Club. The regionals are Oct. 18 and the state championships Oct. 25-26.

Oktoberfest Brings A Crowd To Downtown Mocksville

The streets of Mocksville were filled with the sounds and laughter of Oktoberfest last weekend.

The festivities started Friday evening with a street dance featuring The Little German Band. The oompahs had barely settled down when the streets came alive again on Saturday morning, with all types of music, crafts and plenty of fun games for the young and old alike.

The oompahs continued Saturday night as more German music filled the streets for listening and dancing.

"We had a wonderful Oktoberfest thanks to the many people who attended," said organizer, Tami Langdon. "People came from our community, Clemmons, Winston-Salem, Kernersville, Lexington and guests from Mocksville's Days Inn and Comfort Inn.

"This event was possible due to our community sponsors, the vendors, Davie County Arts Council, Historic Downtown Mocksville, volunteers, our police department, our local paper, Joe Phillips and all the entertainers and the folks who provided the stage," she said.

Festivals require a lot of manpower and money, Langdon said.

"Thanks to all of you for making Oktoberfest a wonderful event. We have a beautiful town and need to show off its apeal to our surrounding communities."

Beaver-Parsley Couple Married

Mrs. Bradley Dale Parsley

Katie Elizabeth Beaver and Bradley Dale Parsley, both of Mocksville, were married at 2 p.m. Oct. 9 at First Presbyterian Church in Mocksville. The Rev. Kurt Johnston officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Paul and Jane Beaver of Mocksville. Her maternal grandparents are Bill Cook of Advance and the late Rachel Cook. Her paternal grandparents are Sylvia Beaver of Mocksville and the late Oscar Beaver. Her great-grandparents are the late Willie and Ethel Cook Sr. The bride is an honor graduate of Davie High School and Elon University, where she majored in journalism and corporate communications. She is a reporter with the Statesvile Record & Landmark.

The groom is the son of Dale and Donna Parsley of Mocksville. His maternal grandparents are Bob and Nell Cope of Mocksville and the late Ethel Cope. His paternal grandparents are Edward and Rachel Parsley of Mocksville. The groom is a graduate of Davie High School and North Carolina State University, where he majored in applied mathematics. He is a financial analyst with Delhaize Group.

The bride was escorted by her father. The maid of honor was Ellen Foust of Mocksville. Bridesmaids were Ashley Holmes of Mocksville, Khristen Langdon of Mocksville, Andi Petrini of Vineland, N.J., and Jennifer Guarino of Memphis, Tenn.

The best man was the groom's father. The groomsmen were Thomas Parsley of Mocksville, the groom's brother; Christopher Beaver of Mocksville, the bride's brother; Chris Jacobs of Mocksville; and P.J. Barney of Mocksville.

The wedding director was Patsy Crenshaw. Program attendant was Dana Call. The guest-register attendant was Lisa Stanley.

Wedding music was provided by Anita Long, organist.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at First Presbyterian Church fellowship hall. Guests were greeted by Emily and Don Eaton and Red and Carol Foust. Good-byes were said by Mike and Sandy Motley, Lula Cook and Gay Cook.

The rehearsal dinner, hosted by the groom's parents, was held at the Edgewood Baptist Church fellowship hall.

Friends and family members hosted several showers and parties in honor of the couple. Lula Cook, Gay Cook, great-aunts of the bride, and Ann White, cousin of the bride, hosted a bridesmaids' luncheon at the Victoria House in East Bend. The bride presented gifts to her attendants at this time.

Groomsmen were presented with their gifts at dinner hosted by the groom.

After a honeymoon to Charleston, S.C. and Savannah, Ga., the couple will live in Mocksville.

Mr. and Mrs. Jason Sanford Green

Couple Wed On Sept. 18

Misty Leigh Orrell and Jason Sanford Green of Mocksville were married at 6 p.m. on Sept. 18 in a private location on Godbey Road in Mocksville. The Rev. Dennis Marshall officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Nina S. Orrell of Lewisville and Frank Orrell of Advance. Her maternal grandparents are David and Alma Smith of Advance. Her paternal grandparents are the late John Frank and Maybelle Orrell of Advance.

The groom is the son of Tony and Barbara Green of Mocksville. His maternal grandparents are Peggy Gough and the late James Gough. His paternal grandparents are the late Jay and Marge Green of Mocksville.

The bride's attendants were carried in by horse and carriage, followed by bringing the maid of honor, bride and father by horse and carriage.

The bride was escorted by her father. She wore a white satin princess cut gown with a chapel length train. The gown was covered with elaborate bead and button detail. She carried a silk arrangement of lilies and roses made by Terry Throckmorton of Danbury.

The maid of honor was Christy Lynn Orrell of Statesville, the bride's twin sister. The bridesmaids were Paula Orrell of Mocksville, the bride's sister-in-law; Niki Blackmon of Lewisville; and Janna Douglas of Independence, Va.

The best man was Phillip Cartner of Mocksville. The groomsmen were Jonathon Orrell of Mocksville, the bride's brother; Andy Bowles of Mocksville; and Allen Livengood of Cleveland, N.C.

The guest register attendant was Melissa Stewart, a friend of the bride, and junior bridesmaid and ring bearer was Hannah and Colton Orrell, the bride's niece and nephew.

Immediately following the ceremony was a barbeque pork and chicken supper with washpit pintos, barbeque slaw and potato salad, all prepared by Tim and Todd Barnes of Advance. Guests were served from a four-tiered, four-flavored cake.

Mocksville Pediatrics Opens

Aegis Family Practice, an affiliate of Wake Forest University Baptist Hospital, opened Mocksville Pediatrics Sept. 23.

The practice, located at 113 Marketplace Drive, adjacent to Sylvan Learning Center, is staffed by Dr. Linda Steele Green, a board certified physician and two support staff.

Steele comes to Mocksville after several years in private practice in a rural community in Missouri where she cared for children of all ages. A communicator, counselor and educator, Steele is excited about the opportunity to help meet the health care needs of the children in this area.

Steele earned her bachelor's degree in zoology from the University of Missouri and completed medical school at the University of Kansas School of Medicine. She completed her pediatric internship and residency at Children's Mercy Hospital in Kansas City, Mo. She is married to a church pastor and has two grown children.

Mocksville Civitans Present Awards

The Mocksville Civitan Club Awards night was held Monday, Sept. 27 in the fellowship hall of First Presbyterian Church.

President Karen Smith welcomed members and guests. Following the Pledge of Allegiance, led by David Heafner, Jack Naylor gave the invocation for the buffet dinner.

Following the meal, the president recognized the guests, after which a moment of silence was observed for members of the Armed Forces.

The speaker of the evening was Joe Harrell, Lt. Governor Area IV-East, of Faith, who brought an inspiring message in which he stated that the balance in our lives should include work, family, spirituality and physical.

Karen Smith was in charge of the presentation of awards, Vicky Moore was presented the Rookie of the Year award. Shelia Stanley received the award for Civitan of the Year. She had organized the Jr. Davie High Civitan Club, brought in new members and worked in all the projects. James Martin was the choice for Citizen of the Year but was unable to be present to receive the award.

Betty Smith received the President's Choice Award for outstanding service.

Lena Reinsvold received a special awward for her fundraising activities, including the excellent job of organizing the Spring Fling Arts and Crafts Show.

Karen Smith, president, Edna Simmons, secretary, and Betty Smith, treasurer, received gifts for their work. Other members received Certificates of Appreciation.

Bob Rauch was presented a plaque in recognition of the club having received Honor Club status during his term as president.

The president, Karen Smith, passed the gavel to incoming president, Shelia Stanley.

Door prizes were won by members and guests.

The meeting closed with the Civitan Creed.

At the meeting on Oct. 11, Tim Stewart was presented the Humanitarian of the Year Award, and Ruth Hoyle was presented the Service Award for her many years service to the club, the community and her church.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric F. Lakey

Nelson-Lakey Couple Married At Mabry Mill

Tracie N. Nelson and Eric F. Lakey, both of Mocksville, were united in marriage at 4 p.m. Sept. 3 at Mabry Mill, on the Blue Ridge Parkway near Floyd, Va.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Don R. Holland of Union Grove, and the late U.S. Marine Major Edwin R. Newsom of Wendell. She earned a bachelor's degree in environmental health from East Carolina University, and is employed by Davie County Environmental Health.

The groom is the son of Phoebe Lakey of Mocksville and the late Cecil Lakey. He is a graduate of Davie High School and is employed by Lakey's Backhoe Service.

Bridesmaids were Tanner Paige Nelson and Taylor Brooke Nelson.

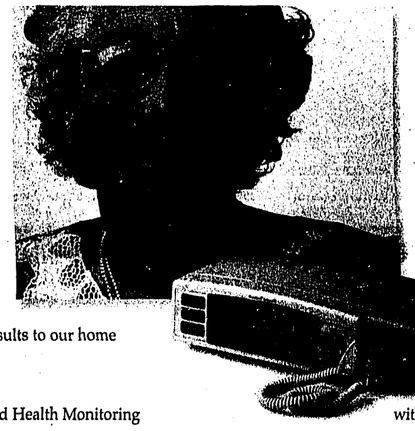
Like many home health patients, Emma Benson requires nursing visits twice a week to check on her heart condition. Recently, however, her home health nurse brought something new – an electronic device that takes Emma's vital signs and transmits the results to our home health office.



The HomMed Health Monitoring System® is a free service from Rowan Regional Home Health, and every morning takes about three minutes to input and transmit. And even if Emma didn't speak English, the monitor can speak in several languages. So it's no wonder that doctors like the easy-to-use HomMed System for home health patients with diabetes, cancer, pulmonary and after-surgery problems.

Emma's home health nurse still visits two days a week, but she gets daily reports of how Emma's doing between visits, which makes Emma feel much better. Also, if Emma hasn't sent her data by 11 a.m. each day, immediate contact is made by phone, which is a further comfort to her and her family.

Emma sends her test results to a staff member at our facility. Which means if there's any change in Emma's heartbeat, blood pressure, temperature and weight from day to day it can be detected and quickly reported to her home health nurse and her physician.

The HomMed Health Monitoring System is offered exclusively by Rowan Regional Home Health in Rowan, Cabarrus, Davie, Stanly and Iredell counties.

Now Emma's no electronics wizard, but that's okay, because the HomMed monitor has a friendly voice that guides her through each step to record her vital signs. The whole process

Call us for more information on the HomMed Health Monitoring System. And see what all the talk's about.

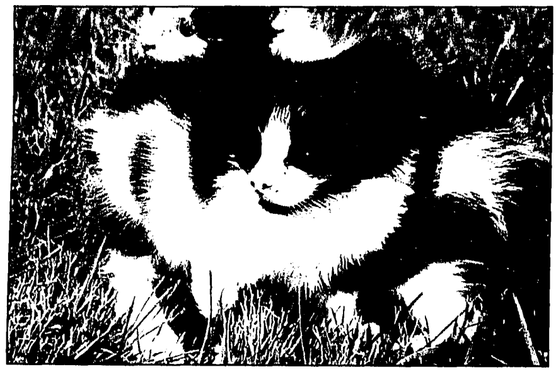
North Davie Student Wins Awards At Fair

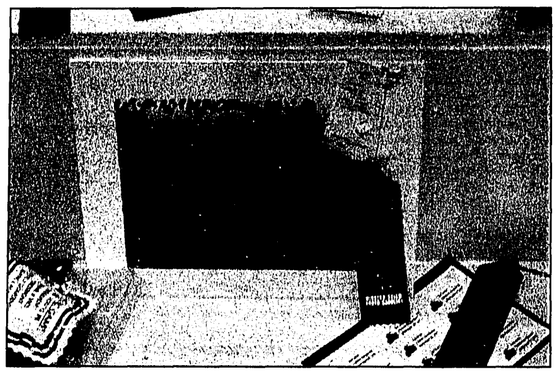
Molly Miles, a seventh grader at North Davie Middle School, won eight ribbons at the Dixie Classic Fair.

The 12 year old entered nine categories, and won five first place and three second place ribbons.

Her winning entries: commercial art, first; graphic design, first; creative technology, first; weaving, first; marker drawing, first; black and white photography, animals, second; digital photography, second; and color (other), second.

Molly enjoys photography and the arts, and has won many ribbons in the past. She worked extra hard on her entries this year.





These photographs and works of graphic arts by Molly Miles won her ribbons at the Dixie Classic Fair in Winston-Salem last week.

This is in response to a recently printed advertisement. Is your pastor a Pastor or a Pasture? What a stupid question. A man can be a Pastor. He cannot be a pasture.

1. I do not deny the doctrine of Peter, James and John. The word "unknown" is not recorded in Acts chapter two. The truth is the word "tongues" only means languages. In Verse 8 it says this. Where is the interpreter for this jaberring mess of today? 1st Corinthians 14,27 there must be one around, you cannot find one. I have preached in other countries. I spoke in English. I had to have someone to interpret my language, if not it would be unknown. So simple that stupid people are confused. In 1st Corinthians 13,8 tongues ceased.
2. As concerning James 5,14, I see people forming healing lines but never saw one healed. The verse says for the sick to call for the elders of the church. Not some T.V. called or some money taking, deceiving racketeer. I have had some sick person ask me to come by and pray for them and they would get well. I didn't ask for their money or sell them a piece of cloth or my necktie. Those people go opposite of God's word. We have more sickness today than ever before. More so-called healers than ever. If these people were real we would have a healthy world and no one would die. Why don't they put all the doctors and hospitals out of business? I will tell you why. They are the ones that are lying. Come by and raise one from our graveyard and I will change and follow them.
3. Now about the fellowship halls built with tithes and offerings. The Bible teaches us to fellowship and anytime we sit down to eat we do feed the flesh. I think this is one more stupid statement made. The fellowship together is a spiritual thing. Acts 2,42, 1st John 1,7. One of the many shortcomings of many people is no fellowship with God's people. I expect my church helps more poor people than the critical person's does. I'm sure I help more poor people than he does.
4. Now about the women preachers. I would like to know how she could be the husband of one wife, 1st Timothy 3,1 if a "man", "he" in vs2, ruleth "his" own house, In Hebrews 13,7 the one that rules is the one who has spoken the word. If a woman preaches she is to rule. She would have authority over man. Don't be stupid believe God's word. I guess this crowd that believes in same sex marriage, not knowing who the husband is would make a difference. This is another stupid thing of Satan.
5. I do not refuse to feed the sheep of God because of color. Our church just purchased 448 Bibles for a missionary. He passes these out in the prison to any one that asks for one. I do know what Acts 17,26 says. God set the bounds of habitation. The problem is people cross the boundary lines against God's will. In Isaiah 1,7 God said to Israel strangers have devoured your land. This is what has happened to our country. If people are hungry, I will feed them. It is not right for them to have to live in my home. I believe God's word, I preach God's word, and I also practice God's word. I am speaking of the King James Bible. I don't need some dumb, stupid, person to teach things that are not in God's word.

MY PASTOR MEANS A LOT TO ME

The purpose of this article is in response to an article titled: "Is your Pastor a Pastor or a pasture". I thank God I can honestly say my Pastor is a true 1611 King James bible believing, bible preaching Pastor. I thank the Lord for the knowledge he has given my Pastor. Education has nothing to do with manners and customs. In the early years of my Pastors ministry he was offered to attend bible college free of charge and he turned it down. He trusted God to lead and guide him into all truth and God has done just that. Rev. Tuggle has pastored Dutchman Creek Baptist Church for over 40 years, and many people have come to know the Lord as their Saviour under his ministry, including my husband, myself, and on June 27, 2004 my daughter Chasity was led to the Lord by Pastor Tuggle.

I would like to say to Preacher Tuggle, thank you for all the times you have helped the poor in need. If every preacher had a heart like yours this world would be a better place. It takes a special man to go to the country of Haiti numerous times to build churches for the poor and to give money out of your own pocket to the little children on the streets who were begging. Thanks be to God and our Pastor that our church sends money and bibles to countries all over the world to help other races trust Christ as their saviour. Everyone has a soul, and our church cares about other people. We as a church support and pray for our missionaries on the foreign fields.

As a mother and a wife I would like to say I love being under subjection to my husband. The bible teaches this Eph. Ch 5. vs 22-25. A husband should love his wife like Christ loved the church. This means I have no authority over my husband, that's why women are not called of God to preach.

A woman could not preach to her husband and still be under subjection to him. Some women find this hard to do, but not me I want to be in Gods will. The bible also says to let the Pastor (bishop) be the husband of one wife I Tim. Ch 3 vs 2. How can a woman have one wife? Another passage of scripture is very plain concerning this subject, I Tim. Ch 2 vs 11, 12.

Concerning healing I would like to say I believe in God healing the sick, but not a so called healer that blows in your face or hits you in the head claiming to have the power to heal the sick or raise the dead. I miss my brother (Ricky) who died at an early age of 3 8. You know, when you first get saved the first thing you want to do is tell your loved ones. I don't want my family to go to hell, most tell me they are saved but the fruits of salvation just are not evident in their lives. If people believe in laying hands on the sick and praying the prayer of faith to be healed then why did my brother die. These so called healers could of came in and healed him right there while he was laying on the hospital bed. My brother was on a life support machine but he -could hear what you were saying. My brothers legs were shaking when I went into his room. I asked the nurse was he cold? She stated no. I witnessed to my brother and I have the hope that he trusted in the Lord. After talking to him he stopped shaking and seemed to have peace although he could not respond back. He told me several years before he was saved. I'll never forget I asked him "Ricky are you saved" He said yes, I read him John 10; 9. He told me "that's how I got saved". I miss him so bad. Along with a lot of other people my church was praying for him. I just wanted to include this because my thoughts often go back to my brother Ricky, who I love so much.

I thank God I don't have any fences around me. I will stand for the Lord until the day he takes me home. I'm glad when God saved me I started tithing, I will always give God what is right not what is left. It's not mine to begin with it's his. It's like my Pastor says you can give to God in a spoon and he will give it back to you in a shovel. God has blessed our home and our church so much, and I am so thankful to Him. We have the best Spirit in our church more than ever before, we are like one big family. My pastor has always been faithful to the house of God. You might say how do you know that, because I am faithful. Are you faithful some people change churches about like they trade vehicles. Are you a Easter or a Christmas member? If this is the only time you go to church, you better check up, something is missing. Heb. Ch 10 vs 25. I don't serve God part time It's a full time commitment. Nothing should come before serving the Lord. Unless I'm sick, working, or dead I will be in Gods house as a faithful servant and soldier of the Lord Jesus Christ. I love Dutchman Creek Baptist Church and I love my Pastor with all my heart. Thank you Preacher Tuggle for all you have taught me from the King James Bible, you will never know until we stand in heaven what a blessing you have been to me.

I want my family to know I love them very much, but if I don't tell them the truth who will? The most important thing in this life is to know for sure when you take your final breath, will you be in heaven or hell?

Sincerely,
Julia H. Miller

Bermuda Mini's Self Storage

Out of storage space in your home or office? Or maybe there is some seasonal furniture or equipment that you don't want to have clutter your garage?

In any case, Bermuda Mini's, located on U.S. 158 in Advance, can help. It's the place to store all of your excess business or personal property, just call 998-9661.

With 296 storage units, including 63 that are climate-controlled, the community has excellent options when they need to store belongings.

"The business is doing very well," said Jessica Dezendorf, who owns the business along with her husband, Ladd, and Lorin Wood. "People seem to have a real need for it. We're very clean and have a secure facility. We get very positive responses from our tenants."

Bermuda Mini's are used for a wide variety of reasons. The staff has even seen neighbors join together to rent space. Christmas decorations, outdoor furniture, tools and other things that clutter a home are just a few of the reasons people obtain a rental space.

"We're very proud of our facility and we've tried to construct a place where our customers will feel safe and secure," notes Jessica.

Bermuda Mini's has double pass coded gate. Customers must enter their pass code to get in and out of the facility.

"Our computer system records the date, time and unit number for every entry into the key pad," Jessica expains.

Sandra Scholl, the manager at Bermuda Mini's Self Storage, originally came to the facility as a customer.

"We moved here from Pennsylvania and looked at all the storage facilities before renting at Bermuda Mini's," she explains.

The Scholls rented with Bermuda Mini's for seven months while their new home was being built. She was so impressed with the professional attitude and friendliness of the owners that she came on board as an employee and has now been there for eight years.

"We go out of our way to make arrangements for customers," Sandra adds.

Clients are able to use a trailer to move items into their storage unit at no cost (call for more details.) Free security round locks are given to tenants if they are staying for more than a month.

Monthly rent reminders are e-mailed to tenants. For those who do not have e-mail, a courtesy phone call is made. Convenient payment envelopes are provided for those who request them.

The newest service at Bermuda Mini's is the acceptance of credit cards. Now tenants can have their rent automatically paid on a monthly basis.

Cleanliness, attractiveness and friendly service is what you will find at Bermuda Mini's Self Storage. Empty units are cleaned and sprayed regularly. The entire area is lighted with spotlights.

So if you're tired of all that clutter stacked up in your home, call the efficient, courteous staff at Bermuda Mini's Self Storage at 998-9661 today. Better yet drop by Bermuda Mini's located at 146 Commerce Drive in Advance behind A Cleaner World and next to Bermuda Quay Shopping Center on U.S. 158.

Touring Theater To Present Historic Drama With Lesson

The importance of having the courage to speak the truth is the timeless lesson of ArtsPower National Touring Theatre's Salem Justice, a historical drama being presented by the Davie County Arts Council and Hillsdale Dental on Oct. 19 at 7 p.m. at the Brock Performing Arts Center in Mocksville.

Based on the Salem witch trials of 1692, Salem Justice vividly illustrates that "bad things happen when good people say nothing."

Seventeenth-century Puritans observed a strict set of social customs based on their religious beliefs. Women were denied education while social activities such as games, dancing and singing were considered unacceptable and even wicked. Salem Justice is the story of two strong-willed teenagers rebelling against this repressive society.

Elizabeth Parris secretly learned to read and write in order to explore the world beyond Salem through literature. Her cousin, Abigail, finds out she participates in forbidden activities and begins to blackmail Elizabeth into reading and dancing with her.

In order to avoid trouble, Abigail concocts a story that they have been cast under a spell by a witch. As hysteria and accusations consume the community, threatening innocent lives, Elizabeth cannot bear the deception. She finds the courage to speak the truth once her teacher falls under suspicion as well, and realizes that complacency in the face of evil is just as dangerous as evil itself.

"We hope you will turn off the television for the evening and join us in the theatre for a live performance that is sure to teach us all a lesson or two," said Megan White, executive director of the Davie County Arts Council. "Here is a chance for theatre to be a tool that parents can use to teach our children right and wrong in a society that sends so many mixed messages. We often overlook what a wonderful teacher theatre can be."

Interlaced with compelling musical underscoring, Salem Justice is captivating for upper elementary and middle school students who themselves are often grappling with peer pressure and the consequences of their decisions, White said.

"In order for the arts to thrive in our community, we must all do our part by participating in what's happening right around the corner," she said. "Now is the time to join us."

The performance lasts about an hour and is appropriate for third grade and up. Tickets are $10 adults, $8 students/seniors, and $6 for groups of 15 and more. For tickets or more information, contact the box office at 751-3000 Monday-Friday, noon-5 p.m. or check the website www.daviearts.org.

Harmony 1st Responders Sponsoring Horror Trail

The Harmony Volunteer Fire Department First Responders Trail of Horror will be held Oct. 15, 16, 22, 23, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29 and 30.

The scary show begins at dark each night, and ends at 10 on weekdays and midnight on weekends.

The ladies auxiliary will provide refreshments.

All proceeds will go to the first responder program.

Hi! my name is Joseph Karl Osborne, but you can call me Joey.

I turned 6 years old on August 19, and had a wonderful Winnie-the-Pooh party at the my Mom-a-ries's house.

I got lots and lots of presents from my family. My Mom-a-rie (Marie Jones), my Grandpa Wilford, my Aunt Lela and Uncle John Butero, my sister, Amanda, mommy and daddy, (Karl and Joanne, and my adorable little brother Charlie.

I also thank my neighbors who remembered my big day, and also my church family who sent cards, called on the phone to sing to me, and also sang to me in Sunday school, and for the gifts too!

Just to prove I'm really a big boy, I went to the doctor, and got three shots, and didn't cry once. My brother, Charlie, got four shots that day too, and screamed something terrible, but remember he's a baby and I'm 6!

Thanks again, everyone!

Don and Tammy Holder would like to announce the birth of their grandson, Jaydon Michael Ray Fernatt. He is the son of Asgton Fernatt and Cody Wright. Jaydon was born September 28, 2004 at 1:03 p.m. at Forsyth Medical Center. He weighed 8 lbs. 9.4 oz. and was 21 inches long.

Xander Travis Foster arrived at 1:57 a.m. Sept. 22 at Hugh Chatham Memorial Hospital in Elkin. His proud parents and grandparents are Lena Travis Foster of Ronda and Lois and Joe Price of Hayes. His equally proud patenal grandparents and aunt of Mocksville are Helen and T.G. Foster and Tracy. His adoring big sister is Gabrielle, 23 months old. His great-grandparents are Pansy Holbrook of Hayes and Edna Foster of Mocksville.

Thirty-four Methodist church members received certifcates Sunday, prior to the worship service, for perfect attendance at Sunday School during September. These certificates are redeemable for a trip to the Lazy 5 Ranch next week.

The Methodist Men will have a pancake and sausage supper on Thursday, Oct. 14 at 5:30 at the fellowship hall. Proceeds go for a new church sign.

George and Martha Harris and Martha's mother Frances Robertson and a relative Marie Robertson spent Oct. 1-3 at Myrtle Beach. They enjoyed seeing George Jones at the Alabama Theater.

Hunter LeRoy, son of Heith and Sandy LeRoy, was honored with a birthday party Saturday, Oct. 9 at 10 a.m. in Spencer with a train ride on "Thomas". Twenty-four little friends, neighbors and grandparents enjoyed the festive occasion. Maternal grandparenst are Charlie and Ruth Latham, paternal grandparents are Donnie and Laura LeRoy of Seneca, S.C. Everyone was given "Thomas the Train" bag of favors. Follwoing the train ride the group gathered at picnic tables on the railway grounds for opening gifts and a catered meal by McDonalds. The children were served "Happy Meals". Hunter's 3rd birthday was Tuesday, Oct. 12. He was honored with a party at his home by family members.

Frances Robertson spent 2 days last week visiting her sister Jessie Barney.

Medford and Nancy Shoaf and daughter Melany and friends Danny and Peggy Miller from Salisbury have returned from a week's visit to the Amish Country and the New England states. Their first tour was in Pennsylvania Amish farmlands and Hershery Chocolate World, then on to Cooperstown, N.Y. where they visited the National Baseball Hall of Fame. In Jacksonville, Vermont they toured a winery and a 'sugar house' where maple syrup is made and bottled. Driving for miles and miles of sight-seeing in the New England mountains they passed beautiful lakes and forests where the colorful fall foliage was at its peak, especially in New Hampshire. In southern Maine they stopped at a beautiful beach and collected many shells and in Rumford, Maine. They were inspired by a dam and a beautiful waterfall. They encountered many fall featival in progress throughout New England, making it difficult at times to find over-night lodging. They arrived home late Saturday.

Mary Ann Craig of Roanoke, Va. spent from Friday-Monday with her aunt, Kazie Smiley. On Sunday afternoon, Louise S. Potts had a cook-out at her home for all her brothers, sisters, neices, nephews, her mother Mrs. Smiley and special guest Mary Ann Craig. Most of the relatives were from this area, with one sister coming in from Ellenburg. Approximately 35 people enjoyed this family gettoether.

Edith Zimmerman and Erma Zimmerman visited their sister-in-law Sarah Zimmerman in the Fork Church community Saturday afternoon.

Doug and Joan Spry drove to Alexanderia, Va. last weekend where they spent three days touring Washington, D.C. They took the Metro into Washington each day.

Meredith Hendrix of Arlington, Va. and friend Adam Kerr of Warrenton, Va. spent the weekend with Meredith's mother and grandmothers, Janie Hendrix, Edith Zimmerman and Pauline Hendrix of Fork. The young couple especially enjoyed attending the fair in Winston-Salem Saturday night.

County Line News

The County Line VFD hosted the Davie County Firefighters' Supper this past Monday night. Over 100 firefighters and families attended the supper. Jason Kenton of William R. Davie VFD received the Firefighter of the Year award. Phil Crowe, chief of the Mocksville VFD, and Jim Dwiggins, County Line VFD firefighter, were elected to the Davie County Firefighters' Hall of Fame. Our community congratulates the above firefighters on their awards and thanks greatly each Davie firefighter for bravery and courage in protecting us against the dangers of fire.

Our County Line VFD is currently making plans for our fall barbecue supper on Saturday, Oct. 30. If you can help with food preparation Oct. 28-30 or can donate a dessert, please call Jack Koontz 492-7116.

Upcoming events for Clarksbury United Methodist Church include a community fall festival on Saturday, Oct. 23, and a ham and sausage breakfast (fundraiser to support mission projects) on Saturday, Oct. 30. If you enjoy hayrides, music, wiener roasts, etc., be sure to mark Oct. 23 a special fun day on your calendar. On the evening of Oct. 30, look forward to a "trick or treat."

The Chrismon ornament-making class at Salem United Methodist Church will resume this Saturday morning, Oct. 16 from 9-11 a.m. in the church fellowship hall. Libby Blair is teaching the class and invited anyone interested in learning to make Chrismons to the class.

Pastor Blair invites anyone wishing to learn more about the book of Genesis to attend the Sunday night Bible study at Salem. The discussion-type study meets at 7:30 p.m. each Sunday in the church fellowship hall.

Upcoming events for Calvary Baptist Church include a fall festival on Saturday evening, Oct. 23, and the church homecoming service on Sunday, Nov. 7. Be sure to mark these dates as an evening of fun and treats and a day of church remembrances, respectively.

Piney Grove AME Zion Church will observe Lay Sunday on Sunday, Oct. 17. Sister Doretha Nichols of Piney Grove will deliver the morning worship message at 11 a.m. A special lay person from the Statesville AME Zion District will deliver the afternoon message at 4 p.m.

The V-Point Ruritan Club reminds all children from toddler through second grade to mark Saturday afternoon, Oct. 23 as a special day of fun and treats. The club also extends a special invitation to all community residents to become a Ruritan. For more information on meetings and membership, please call Johnny Towell 492-7707 or Alice Absher 704-546-7820.

Our community extends get-well wishes to Paul Ressa and Robert Moore. Paul, a member of Calvary Baptist and County Line VFD firefighter, received many yellow jacket stings and had to receive emergency treatment. Robert, a member of the V-Point Ruritan Club, was hospitalized at Iredell Memorial Hospital last week. We pray or the Lord's divine healing and blessings in the lives of these residents.

Our community congratulations Alice Benfield Stevenson, who is the daughter of Mildred and Buck Benfield and former County Line resident. Alice married Jim Krall of Morganton on Saturday afternoon, Oct. 2 at Welcome Baptist Church in Statesville. The couple will make their home in Morganton after a honeymoon trip to Hawaii.

We welcome news, memories and photos from all residents. Just call Shirley 492-5115.

NOTICE OF AVAILABILITY OF AN ENVIRONMENTAL ASSESSMENT

USDA, Rural Development (through its Rural Utilities Service) has received an application for financial assistance from the Town of Mocksville, NC. As required by the National Environmental Policy Act, the Rural Utilities Service has prepared an Environmental Assessment that evaluated the potential environmental effects and consequences for the proposed project. This notice announces the availability of the Environmental Assessment for public review and comment.

The proposed project consists primarily of installing 5,500 linear foot of force main sewer line and 1 pump station to redirect the wastewater generated by Ingersol-Rand from the Bear Creek Wastewater Treatment Plant to The Dutchman's Creek Wastewater Treatment Plant. The Dutchman's Creek Treatment Plant will be upgraded to handle the additional flow.

No significant adverse impacts to important resources were identified in the review process. Any potential adverse impacts will be mitigated as described in Section 4.0 of the Environmental Report and by incorporating best management construction practices into project plans and specifications. The other alternatives considered to the proposed project include the no action alternative and the expansion of both wastewater treatment plants.

Copies of the Environmental Assessment are available for review at the Rural Development office at 2301 W. Meadowview Road, Suite 104, Greensboro, NC 27407, phone (336) 294-7181, and at the Town Hall of Mocksville, NC. For further information, contact Larry D. Hartsfield, Area Specialist at the above Rural Development office address. Any person interested in commenting on the proposed project should submit comments to the USDA Rural Development address above by November 5, 2004.

"USDA is an equal opportunity provider, employer and lender." To file a complaint of discrimination write USDA, Director, Office of Civil Rights, Room 326-W, Whitten Building, 14th an Independence Avenue, SW, Washington, DC 20250-9410 or call (202) 720-5964 (voice or TDD).

On Sept. 25, a group of children rode their bikes at Bixby Presbyterian Church to benefit St. Jude Children's Research Hospital.

The "Wheels for Life" bike-a-thon was coordinated by Emily Powell and raised more than $400 to support the research efforts of the hospital. St. Jude provides treatments and cures for children of catastrophic diseases at no charge.

The children solicited pledges from sponsors and then rode their bikes around the walking track at the church to earn their pledges.

Snacks and drawings for prizes followed the ride.

Justin D. Johnson Deployed To Iraq

Army Pfc. Justin D. Johnson has deployed to Iraq in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom to engage in military operations involving U.S. and coalition forces.

Operation objectives include liberating the Iraqi people, preserving Iraq as a unified state, keeping its territorial integrity intact, and helping the Iraqi people begin the process of economic and political reconstruction. Active duty, reserve, and national guard members from all branches of the U.S. armed forces are participating in the operation.

The soldier is regularly assigned to one of the camps and units (infantry, aviation, armor, artillery, engineer, command support, etc.) of the 2nd Infantry Division, Eighth U.S. Army based in South Korea. Soldiers of the 2nd Infantry Division deployed to Iraq either to augment soldiers serving in country or to replace soldiers whom had completed their tour of duty.

Johnson, a gunner, is the son of Donna and Frank Mayes of Advance. His wife, Deserae, is the daughter of Ginger Davis of Mocksville. He is a 2003 graduate of Davie High School.

Pet Of The Week

I am an approximately 14-week-old Labrador retriever mix. My shots are all up to date, and I am scheduled to be neutered this week. I am living at a foster home with my brother, Brad. We had been living in the woods with our mother and five other siblings and were helped by some neighbors who then enlisted the help of the Humane Society. I am very affectionate and love to cuddle. My brother, Brad, is black with brown markings (so it's hard to put his picture in the paper), and has already been neutered. We both love to play with other dogs, children and anybody who might come along. Brad has a head start on me at being housebroken, but I'm not far behind. We both have been crate trained and do quite well on a leash.

We look forward to finding our new homes where we will be faithful companions. If you would like to meet one, or both of us, call the Humane Society of Davie County at 751-5214.

Celebration Of Blessings

Blood Drive, Marrow Typing Saturday At The Brock

You can make a difference, and help save lives by donating blood and joining the bone marrow typing registry.

The Jake Linville Celebration of Blessings will be held Saturday, Oct. 16 from 10 a.m.-2:30 p.m. at the Brock Gymnasium, North Main Street, Mocksville.

Jake was diagnosed with leukemia hours after the birth of his little brother, Nathan. Lucky for Jake, his new sibling was a perfect match and is helping to save his life.

Each year, thousands of people like Jake are diagnosed with life-threatening blood diseases and many require marrow transplants. Often, they must relay on an unrelated donor to find a match.

To join the National Marrow Donor Program, take a few minutes to fill out a form and give a small amount of blood from your arm to test for a match. If you are between the ages of 18 and 60 and in good health, you can register. The cost of marrow typing is $65.

For more information or to schedule an appointment, call Lisa Wayda at 998-4229.

Lunch & Learn Going To Rowan Museum

Lunch & Learn programs will be sponsored by Davie Senior Services in November and December.

On Thursday, Nov. 2, the group will travel to the Rowan Museum, which showcases domestic life from the 18th Century through the 1950s. The van will leave senior services at 10 a.m. Cost: $2.50.

On Dec. 7, the trip will be to Replacements ltd. in Greensboro, a tour of the world's largest selection of old and new china, crystal, silver and collectibles. There will be time for shopping after the tour. The van will leave senior services at 9:30 a.m. Registration begins Nov. 1.

Free transportation is provided for the first 20 to register, but anyone may attend in their own vehicles or by carpooling. All participants must preregister and pay for their own lunch.

Call 751- 0611.

United Way Helping

Hurricanes in Florida, and flooding in North Carolina mountains - it's been a busy year for disaster relief teams.

The Davie County United Way board of directors voted to send $1,000 to the Northwest North Carolina chapter of the Red Cross to help with disaster relief in the mountains.

Anyone wanting to donate to that effort can do so through the Davie office.

Mary Beth Forst, executive director of the Davie County United Way, said that United Way of America is also sending donations for disaster relief.

The National Football League (NFL), through its partnership with United Way, has donated $1 million earmarked for hurricane disaster relief in Florida.

Matt Lee Selected For Young Leaders Conference Nov. 9-14

Matt Lee of Advance has been selected to participate in the National Young Leaders Conference (NYLC) in Washington, D.C. from Nov. 9-14.

NYLC is a unique leadership development program for high school students who have demonstrated leadership potential and scholastic merit. Lee will be one of approximately 400 outstanding scholars from around the country at the Conference.

The them of NYLC is The Leaders of Tomorrow Meeting the Leaders of Today. Throughout six days, Lee will interact with a variety of personnel who operated within the three branches of government, the news media and the international community.

"We often hear from members of Congress, political appointees and members of Washington's press corps that it is a privilege to meet and interact with students like Matt Lee because they are the face of our country's future," said Mike Lasday, executive director of the Congressional Youth Leadership Council, the organization that sponsors the Conference. "What these students at the National Young Leaders Conference will enable them to build coalitions with one another and exercise their own leadership skills within communities around the country."

Highlights of past conferences have included welcoming remarks from the floor of the U.S. House of Representatives and a panel discussion with prominent journalists at the National Press Club, in addition to meeting with senators and representatives or appointed staff members to discuss important issues facing the nation.

To complement the schedule of special meetings and briefings, Lee will also participate in a number of leadership skill-building activities and simulations. In one role-play activity titled If I Were President, students act as the president and cabinet member responding to an international crisis. Students also participate in Testing the Constitution, in which they examine actual Supreme Court cases. The Conference culminates with the Model Congress, in which scholars assume the roles of U.S. Representatives, and debate, amend and vote on proposed mock legislation.

CYLC is a nonprofit, nonpartisan educational organization. Founded in 1985, the Council is committed to fostering and inspiring young people to achieve their full leadership potential. More than 400 members of the U.S. Congress join this commitment by serving on the CYLC Honorary Congressional Board of Advisors. In addition, more than 40 embassies participate in the Council's Honorary Board of Embassies.

Retired School Personnel Learn Technology Needs

Dr. Regina Hauser and Clint Junker reviewed the need for updating technology in schools to the Davie County Retired School Personnel at their meeting on Thursday, Oct. 7.

"In 10 years, every job will require technological expertise," said Hauser. She stressed that schools want to do a better job of preparing students for the challenges of the new job market. The state budgets only $3.65 per child for technology, down from $37 in 1995-96.

The Mebane Foundation Challenge will provide $750,000 to be matched by $1.5 million raised by the community. The funds will be used for general school technology, wireless technology, equipment and staff training, among other things.

The retired school personnel also heard about plans for the fall health fair to be held prior to the group's Nov. 4 meeting at Bermuda Run Country Club. Those who attend will be able to get a comprehensive blood screening, blood pressure check, glaucoma screening and flu shot if they are available. The health fair and the meeting which follows at noon is open to all retired school personnel and their guests. Call Betty Griffith or Lorene Markland to sign up.

Other projects being planned by the group include volunteer assistance in the schools, a scholarship to a Davie High graduate, a fund-raising project, and day trips and overnight trips for sightseeing and cultural events. All retired school personnel are welcome to attend meetings which are held at Bermuda Run Country Club at noon the first Thursday of the month (September-December and March-June).

Johnson Earns Hanson Award

Curtis Shane Johnson of Mocksville was awarded the Hanson Brick Scholarship for Industrial Technology based on his 2.5 grade point average and contribution to the construction technology program.

The $500 award will go toward his tuition as he studies construction technology at Appalachian State University.

Hanson Brick provided scholarships to students at four Southeast universities, Appalachian, Furman, Elon, and UNC-Charlotte.

5 Earn Awards

Five Mocksville students at Davidson County Community College have received scholarships.

David F. Barnes received the George Dewey Gallimore Scholarship.

Sherry J. Davis received The Venable Scholarship.

Patricia F. Frye received the William Mae Richardson Barnes and Van Waldron Richardson Memorial Scholarship.

Whitney L. Robbins received the DCCC Foundation High School Scholarship.

John R. Tucker received the Ed and Tony Wike Student Support Fund award.

Women Educators Meet

The Beta Mu Chapter of Alpha Delta Kappa International Honorary Sorority for Women Educators met Sept, 28 at North Davie Middle School.

There were 27 members in attendance. A program on safety issues pertinent to women was presented by Davie Sheriff Allen Whitaker and Highway Patrol Officer Henry Crouse of the Salisbury District office.

Club members brought books and school supplies to be donated to the district altruistic project "El Nido" Family Literacy Program. This project is designed to encourage reading in Hispanic families.

Vicki Hendricks provided fraternal education to the group, explaining the significance of ADK membership pins. President Trina Jackson presided.

Farmington Class Of 1945

The Farmington High School High Class of 1945 had their 59th year class reunion Saturday afternoon, Sept. 29 at Pier 601 in Mocksville. The invocation was given by Joe White. Two class members had died since last year, Joe Carr Harpe and James Foster. Those attending were, from left: Nellie Dull, Minnie Cornatzer, Charlene Williams, Frances Beck, Robert Rhine, Frances Gough, Ruth Short (teacher), Mark White, Joe White, John Brock and George Sain. Others attending were Sam Short, Stacy Beck, Thurmond Dull, Jack Williams, Mary Brock and Lovie Sain.

Risk Watch Expanded To Three Elementary Schools

This month, teachers in three Davie elementary schools will begin teaching Risk Watch, a comprehensive safety/injury prevention curriculum.

Last school year, students at William R. Davie Elementary participated in Risk Watch.

The program was such a success the county applied for, and received - funding from the Office of State Fire Marshal. The grant funds will allow continuation of the program at William R. Davie and expansion of Risk Watch safety education to Cooleemee and Mocksville elementary schools. The $10,000 grant has been used to purchase Risk Watch curriculum, required materials, and for training the teachers on how to use the curriculum.

The curriculum consists of eight safety topics: motor vehicle safety, fire and burn prevention, water safety, poisoning prevention, falls prevention, firearms injury prevention, bike and pedestrian safety and choking, suffocation and strangulation prevention.

Students will study one topic per month. Speakers from the community such as police officers, firefighters, and poison control representatives will visit classes to reinforce safety messages taught by the teachers.

The Davie County Risk Watch program continues to be a collaborative effort among the health department, school system, and fire and law enforcement.

Thomas F. Preston

Thomas Ferdinand Preston, a native of Rocky Mount, Va. died Sept. 26, 2004 in that city.

He attended the local schools, and after serving four years during World War II in the U.S. Army, he operated his family's farm. He later was employed at Franklin Memorial Hospital from which he retired after 32 years of service. His wife, S. Naomi Gaither Preston, preceded him in death in 1977.

Survivors: a daughter, Jonella (Jody) Cross; 2 sisters, Mary Lane and Lylonia (Andrew) Day, all of Rocky Mount; 1 niece, Lysa Day of Chesapeake, Va.; 4 sisters-in-law, Eva Turner of Statesville, Edmonia H. (Robert) Hollis of Mocksville, Nellie Ramsue of Salisbury, and Mary Holman of New York; 1 brother-in-law, Neely Frank (Lucy) Holman of Salisbury.

The funeral was held Sept. 29 at 11 a.m. in the chapel of Stanfield Mortuary Chapel in Rocky Mount, VA. Burial was in Patterson Family Cemetery.

In Loving Memory

Harold Sidney & Sherlie McEwen Renegar

We thought of you with love today, but that is nothing new. We thought about you yesterday and days before that too. We thought of you in silence, we often speak your names. Now all we have are memories and your pictures in a frame.

Nothing can be more beautiful, than the memories we have of you. To us you were so special God must have thought so, too. If we could have a lifetime wish, a dream that would come true, we would pray to God with all our hearts, for yesterday and you. A thousand words can't bring you back, we've known because we tried. And neither would a million tears. We know because we've cried.

You left behind our broken hearts and happy memories too. But we never wanted memories, we only wanted you.

We love and miss you. Janeece, Sherry, Gary and Dale

Carol Kingery

Carol Kingery of Advance died on Saturday, Sept. 25, 2004, at Forsyth Medical Center in Winston-Salem.

Survivors: her husband, James Kingery, whom she married on June 20, 1938; 2 sons and spouses, John and Joyce of Orinda, Calif., and Charles and Dianna of Kildeer, Ill.; 4 grandchildren; and 2 great-grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by her eldest son, James, formerly of Chicago, Ill.

Born Dec. 8, 1916, in Evanston, Ill., she was the daughter of William and Augustus Tugaw. She grew up in the Chicago area, where she attended New Trier High School in Winnetka, Ill., and later Ferry Hall in Lake Forest, Ill. She moved to Weston, Mass., in 1960. There she was president of the Woman's Republican Club and a member of the Weston golf and garden clubs. In 1978 her husband, James, retired, and they moved to Tryon. In her retirement years, she was an interior decorator and artist and won prizes for watercolor. In 1997, Carol and James moved to Advance.

A memorial service was held at 2 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 23, at the Bermuda Village Retirement Home in Advance.

Memorials: Multiple Sclerosis Foundation.

More Than Books: Library Services Remain Vital

A library card is like a passport to anywhere.

You can travel the universe, solve a mystery, build a house, speak many languages, fix a car, go on a diet, laugh, cry, reminisce, live in the past or the future - the list goes on and on.

You can go anywhere and be anyone through the magic of your imagination, and reading is the ticket.

It wasn't that many years ago that the future of reading books was in peril. When the Internet first was becoming widely used, librarians wondered if their role in education would become extinct.

Just recently a mother of a sixth grader said that "writing a paper" nowadays has become a "cut and paste" process whereby you find information on the Internet and copy what you need onto a separate page without hardly having to read it. You select the text with a click of a mouse. So much easier than having to look things up the old-fashioned way in textbooks and encyclopedias and write it out longhand.

As it turns out, library business has increased rather than decreased for quite a few reasons.

Public access to computers has added a new dimension to services.

Ever-changing technology adds to the demands on the library to evolve, and the staff has to keep up with the changes.

Genealogy intrigues many people to seek out historical family records organized in special collections.

Free programs offered year round for youth and adults are entertaining and educational.

In addition to books and magazines, you can check out music, games and educational CDs, videos and DVDs.

Even books come in multiple formats, not just in print. Audio books on cassette and CD allow people to "read" a book while they're doing something else, like driving to work or traveling.

Piano teacher, organist and church choir director, Anita Long of Mocksville, says audio books are "a real joy." She likes to listen to a book while she's "doing boring household things."

"My husband gets a lot better meals these days," she quips. "Reading is one of our great freedoms. It's the greatest stimulant in the world. It makes you think about why you believe what you believe. It widens your horizons."

Vivian Miller of Clemmons agrees.

Annette Robello organizes crates for weekly routes from the Davie County Public Library.

Outreach staff members Joanna Darnall, Vivian Miller and Annette Robello are ready to serve Davie residents.

"From the time you put that first word together, it makes you an equal in society. The more you read the more you contribute to your community because you're enlightened. Reading challenges your intellect, creativity, emotions; you find out you're not alone in your thoughts. It rounds you out as a person - and it's fun," she said.

Miller knows first hand how much the library means to the community. She's part of the Outreach Van crew, delivering crates of books to daycares, shut-ins and nursing homes.

"For shut-ins, it's a gift because many of our senior citizens, although they're shut-ins they still enjoy reading, and just having someone come to the door let's them know they're still part of the community."

The blessing works both ways because the outreach staff gets the opportunity to know residents they wouldn't normally get to meet, she said.

"It's a pleasure for us to be able to pick and choose for them and satisfy them. As part of the public library, service to our community is a primary goal."

If you know anyone who may benefit from this free service, call Annette Robello, coordinator at the Davie County Public Library, 751-2023.

MathCounts is a club for 6th, 7th, and 8th graders who enjoy math and are looking for a challenge. Practices are held every Thursday from 3-4:15 in Mr. Rareshide's room. After Christmas break, Mr. Rareshide will select a team of 8 students, who will practice twice a week to prepare for the regional competition in February, possibly state competition in March. To learn more, visit www.mathcounts.org.

The chess club is open to all students who like to play chess, as well as anyone who wants to learn how to play. Meetings are held every Friday on which there is not a dance, from 3-4:15 in Mr. Rareshide's room. Depending on the interest level, the club may compete against South Davie and other schools.

Students in Mrs. Delaney's science classes are learning how to use a dichotomous key to identify trees and wildflowers in environments as part of the GLOBE curriculum. They are studying tests to determine the water quality of area streams.

Mrs. Hartung's language arts classes are completing a week-long study of famous American authors. Media specialist, Mrs. Callahan, has led the students through the process of finding, identifying, classifying, and assimilating important information about these authors. Mrs. Kerr and Mrs. Hartung are enjoying reading Tom Sawyer with the AIG students. They are studying this novel in depth by participating in literature circles, where each student has a major role in developing and implementing the study tools.

Mr. Rareshide's pre-algebra students are completing a unit on writing, solving, and applying equations. Algebra students are learning to work with polynomials.

All social studies classes are finishing a unit on North Carolina in the Revolutionary War and are beginning a study of the Founding Fathers and the Constitution. Later this month they will complete a unit on the upcoming elections.

The theme for Prime Time this month is responsibility. Thank you to all who contributed toothpaste, soap, and canned vegetables for our Storehouse for Jesus collection.

Mrs. Markland's eighth grade life skills classes have been learning about the responsibilities of a babysitter, enhanced with the use of the RealCare simulator and The Baby Think It Over simulator. The students were allowed to check Baby out for a weekend. The Baby required a great deal of time and attention, plus its demands were unpredictable and had to be met promptly.

Several records were set.

Kelly Solovtzoff had a perfect score on The Think It Over Baby. The infant simulator did not record any neglects or rough handlings and she had only 4 minutes of crying the whole weekend.

Four students did an excellent job with the RealCare Babies. They are Octavia Boyd, Garrett Fulton, Stephanie Walker, and Lyndsey Garrett. Their infant simulators all reported less than 30 minutes of crying. Stephanie Walker set a new record for least crying. Her Realcare Baby reported only 19 minutes of crying all weekend.

This was the first time the teacher had ever seen a student receive a perfect score on the RealCare activity. The student was Lyndsey Garrett. The infant simulator did not report any neglects, rough handlings, shaking, wrong positions, or failures to support the baby's head.

Several students received a score of a 100. One point was given for each time the computer in the simulator reported that the student feed, burped, rocked, or changed its diaper. Additional points were given for extra things the student recorded doing in their diary. They included singing, bathing, playing with, massaging, dressing, taking on outings ... The students with 100 or more points were: Amanda Boyles, Josh Burcham, Sherrell Collins, Sarah Dinkins, Kaitlin Dodd, Brittany Dykes, Lyndsey Garrett, Gloria Gomez, Tori Harris, Jordan James, Rachel Mackintosh, Kaitlyn Mote, Christy Myers, Priscilla Norman, Lindsay Pharr, Karlyn Phipps, Kelly Solovtzoff, and Kelly Truett.

Donations were made by: Jennifer Allen, Craig Cleary, Tyeisha Chunn, Sherrell Collins, Sarah Dinkins, Kaitlin Dodd, Brittany Dykes, Gloria Gomez, Amber Harpe, Tiffany Holmes, Karlyn Phipps, Anna Smith, Kelly Solovtzoff, Octavia Boyd, Garrett Fulton, Lyndsey Garrett, Tori Harris, Melinda Jablonski, Amanda McCoy, Lauren Steele, Kristina Yourdon, Stephanie Walker, DJ Clendenin and Josh Burcham.

The students have been inviting small children from birth through 2 years of age to class to help them learn about the different stages of development. A 0-6 month old visitor was Evan Whitaker, invited by Craig Cleary. The 7-12 month old visitors were: Hunter Johnson who was invited by Tori Harris, Laci Ends, who was invited by DJ Clendenin, Heaven Chapel who was invited by Josh Burcham, and Dylan Miller who was invited by Sydney Crawford. Toddlers were Joshua Holt who was invited by Misty Stewart, plus Becky Miller's granddaughter Cadence, and Tim Kenney's daughter Madeline. The 2-year-old visitors were Brittany Holt who was invited by Misty Stewart and Austin Taylor who was invited by Christy and Chris Myers.

Last week, students were planning activities for a play school for the 3 and 4 year olds. Children attending the play school were Lloyd Junker and Victoria Sinopoli invited by Rachel Mackintosh, Dylan Clendenin, Kayla Curby, and Lexy Ends invited by DJ Clendenin, Corbin and Brooke Jefferson invited by Meghan Matthews, Lane Davis invited by Whitney Talbert, Austin Taylor invited by Christy and Chris Myers, plus Brenda Mosko's son Bobby and Mr. Todd Bumgarner's daughter Morgan. The students and teachers appreciate all the parents, grandparents, and teachers who allowed their children or grandchildren to participate in these activities.

Mrs. Markland's seventh grade career decisions classes have been learning about the world of work. They have studied the importance of benefits and money management. They have been filling out application forms, giving references, doing interviews and doing self-assessment activities. They are doing individual projects. A special thanks goes out to two seventh grade student volunteers who work after from

Students Build BBQ Pit

During September, David Crotts' Davie High School masonary class built a brick BBQ cooker for Bethlehem United Methodist Church (BUMC).

The idea for this originated when Jon Moser recognized that the BUMC Mens Fellowship had planned for several years to build a BBQ in a special area set aside when they completed a new church addition.

Moser, needing a project to complete his Eagle Scout requirements, suggested that the BBQ be his Eagle Project.

Moser mentioned the idea to his Scout Leaders, got it approved, and to his masonary class instructor, Mr. Crotts.

Crotts decided that it would be a great project for his class to do learning the art of masonary and brick laying.

Moser raised money for the masonary mix, sand, re-bar, and paver bricks and then scheduled the delivery. BUMC donated bricks, and Davie High School donated plenty of eager students who were enthusiastic about building a project like this. Several people who have seen the completed project were impressed with the scale and quality of workmanship - especially considering it was done by students.

Several of Crotts' students planned to pursue careers after high school doing masonary.

Others are planning careers in other areas, some plan to attend college.

One college-bound student stated that the skills he learned in this class "could be used to make a lot of money in the summer months paying for college expenses".

Another said simply that maybe he could use these skills later in life for simply "building projects around the house".

Masonary might not be considered a college credit class or a class necessary for college admission, but these students found qualities about this class that many have overlooked.

Steve McDowell, chair of BUMC Mens Fellowship, stated that the BBQ "was very well built and an excellent addition to the church" and that the church was going to put it to use for their BBQ fund raising projects he calls the "Good Neighborhood Fund".

Teacher David Crotts supervises the finishing of the interior of the barbecue pit.

Students mix cement and sand to create the mortar.

In the seventh grade communications, the main focus began with writing great lead-ins and endings during Test Prep and will continue until November because the seventh graders have the state writing test this year. Other focuses have been on student organization, participation, and responsibility while learning grammar. Students had their first experience at being the teacher as they reviewed the parts of speech. It was a self-teaching and class teaching exercise where students had to learn from their grammar text, do assignments, teach those same assignments, and make a corresponding manipulative. Diagramming has been introduced in the 1st quarter and will be continued in the 2nd quarter along with sentence variety and paragraphing within types of papers. Students will finish Tom Sawyer and Where the Red Fern Grows with skits and coon traps.

Will Marrs and Grace Williams received recognition for most respectful in September. Greg Nuckols ended the first quarter with the highest class average of 99. Lauren Bailey and Anna Smyers ended the quarter with a class average of 98.

Students in Ms. Salyers' general math classes have worked to complete the first two chapters of the textbook. They have also been working on mastering objectives in Accelerated Math. Congratulation to the following students for doing an exceptional job on Accelerated Math: Maleia Stevenson, Patrick Lancaster, Garrett Cookson, and Ashley Smoot.

Students in Ms. Salyers' advanced math class have worked hard on learning to work with integers. They completed their first quarter project, designing a budget based upon their chosen career. These students have been working on Accelerated Math. Congratulations to the following students for doing an excellent job on Accelerated Math: Gregory Miller, Kaylee Allison, and Patti Evans.

In social studies, students are continuing a study of culture and the themes associated with this topic. They are wrapping up a successful quarter in which students learned a lot about their values and others that make up society. A unit on Africa and Ancient Egypt will follow. The plan is to bring in many sources of content knowledge into the classroom through the study of art history and research on the internet. The students will be able to create their own presentation on Ancient Egypt through Power Point presentations. The students will have written data along with downloaded pictures accurately describing their topics of study. They will present their projects to other students while being interactive with their learning.

In science, students have worked in the atmosphere unit. They have had a busy time tracking Atlantic Hurricanes. Many completed a weather project that included current articles relating to the hurricanes and daily weather observations. Students are working with science process skills that include measurement and problem solving. Next, they will begin a unit on chemistry.

Pinebrook Elementary

Skate Night is the first Tuesday of each month through April.

Venezia Nights are every Tuesday.

Character Kids for the week of Oct. 4-8: Sam Harvey, Jacob Barnhardt, Ashley Ellis, Hunter Hendrix, Katy Cox, Hayden Wright, Nathan Harrell, Nick Tate, Ashley Hepler, Amber Minor, Luke Walker, Nick Simmons, Sherrill Gambill, Colton Horne, Isabelle Flores, Jeannie Mullies, Jesse Gunning, Brandon Blake, Sam Motley, Sam Allen, Brandon Booie, Jacob Sink, Dwayne Hunter, Josh Mullis, and Elizabeth Byrd.

The Unicycle Club practices every Tuesday and Thursday morning at 7:30. The club is open to any student in grades 2-5. Riders without unicycles may borrow one during practice.

Fourth grade students of Leigh Anne Davis, Sarah Hartman, Angela Hicks, and Ashley Everett attended Conservation Day at Rich Park. Students visited nine stations where experts explained the importance of a variety of natural resources: water, soil, trees, and the importance of taking care of them. Students saw rescued animals from the Raptor Center. They played Trash Trivia, a recycling game. Afterwards, the fourth graders had lunch in the park.

The annual fall festival was held Friday, Oct. 8 from 5:30-8:30. Students and staff celebrated with Western Day. The fall fundraiser mega event was held during P.E. classes as well as during the festival that night.

A Character Kid Luncheon will be held on Wednesday, Oct. 13 during students' regular lunch time.

Early release will be at 1 p.m. on Thursday, Oct. 14. Teacher/parent conferences are being held Thursday, Oct 13, Friday, Oct 14, and Monday, Oct 17.

October birthday lunch, sponsored by the PTA, will be on Friday, Oct. 22 during student's regular lunch time.

Muffins for Mom and Donuts for Dads will be held in the cafeteria on Tuesday, Oct 26 and Wednesday, Oct 27 from 7-8 a.m. All parents are invited.

Cooleemee Elementary

Students in Mrs. Fleming's fifth grade class are continuing a unit on weather. They are making weather instruments, cloud pictures, and doing other activities and experiments. In social studies, the students are creating state floats at home. At school, they are doing research on their states and working on an Appleworks presentation to share with classmates and parents at PTA.

Students in Mrs. Fisher's third grade class are studying about the government in social studies. They will follow up with learning about the election. They have been working on writing.

Students in first grade are continuing to study doubles facts. This week they have been studying fire prevention. They enjoyed spending time together Tuesday night for Partners in print, and are learning the short "i" sound with the help of Impy Ink.

Students in kindergarten went to the Dixie Classic Fair on Monday. They saw goats, sheep, cows, and racing pigs. They are learning about fire safety. They had a visit from the Jerusalem Fire Department and their special fire dog, Sparky. They helped the students learn about the magic number to the fire department, 911. The firemen gave them pencils that look like fire.

The school strives to produce good citizens. One way is through the Good Citizenship Program called "Cool Cooleemee Citizens." A specific character trait is focused upon each month. The classroom teachers choose one individual from each class who has exhibited that character trait throughout the month. The kindergarten, first and second grade classes have a party as a reward for achieving this honor. The Mocksville Women's club sponsors and provides the food for the party. The third, fourth and fifth grade classes receive a trip to McDonalds as a reward. The McDonalds on Yadkinville Road provides Happy Meals for these children. The character trait for September was loyalty. The following children were chosen as good citizens: Osmaydn Acevedo-Gama, Carlos Moreno-Luna, Jansen McDaniel, Karla Moreno-Luna, Aaron Dodd, Tyler Grubb, Pake Milsaps, Zack Osborne, Courtney Jones, Katie Soard, Adam Shore, Samantha Joyner, Colten Correll, Ashlie Campbell, Guillermo Fuentes, Kelly Davis, Makayla Cody, Haley Foster, Anali Gomez-Donato, Morgan Fuller, Levi Clodgo, Heather Moore, and Loren Phillips.

Shady Grove Elementary

Kindergarten

Mrs. Ellis's class is studying about the fall season and the changes occurring in nature. Take a walk with your family and use this opportunity to discuss the changes with them. You may be surprised what they notice. Kaitlin took us on a nature walk at school to collect "nature litter". Students will be learning about "nature litter" and "people litter".

Mrs. Sanders' students have been exploring the seasons. Students wrote and illustrated their own "Season" book, made a squirrel feeder, played winter games and sorted clothes into seasons. In Letterland they met Fireman Fred. Next week the theme will be fall animals. Students will discuss raccoons, crows and squirrels, and do activities with scarecrows. In Letterland they will meet Poor Peter and Kicking King.

First Grade

Mrs. Rogers' students are enjoying learning about the fall season and the things they associate with the season. They have done fall riddles, graphed leaves and apples, made apple pies, and studied leaves and trees.

Second Grade

Mrs. Spach's students are learning about pumpkins. They will be integrating pumpkins into their work, discussing Columbus Day, Halloween, and working on fall projects. The class read a story about life on a ranch, and worked on sentence structure, comprehension, and long and short vowels. They continue to discuss communities in social studies and are working on the water cycle in science.

Janet Hill's second graders read The Josephina Story Quilt, and made sandwiches to help remember that when they are writing, they need a beginning, middle, and ending.

Mrs. Kauff's class read The Lost Dinosaur, about a baby dinosaur who is looking for his mother. Each adult dinosaur explains why she is not his mother, and finally, the baby finds his mother. In science, they are studying dinosaurs, and are learning about fossils and how they are formed. They have explored dinosaurs on CD in the computer lab.

Third Grade

In Mrs. Baker's class, students are working on estimation, addition of three and four digit numbers, and rounding. They are enjoying Wilbur's adventures in Charlotte's Web, and are learning about communities.

Mrs. Harvey's class continues to use estimation and rounding in math. They are reading Little House in the Big Woods, and are mapping the travels in the story to coincide with a review of social studies skills. Students are reviewing map skills, continents, and oceans. They are beginning a study of the Oregon Trail to compare past and present families and societies.

Mrs. Johnson's third graders are beginning the Book-It program, in which students will be required to read four books at their level. This will count toward their reading grade, and in addition, they will receive coupons for Pizza Hut.

Mrs. Hendrix's class is beginning a math unit about subtraction using three or more digits with regrouping. Social studies continues with learning more about communities.

Fourth Grade

Mrs. Brown's students are reading in Accelerated Reader books each day and conclude each with taking an AR test on the book. Goals are being set related to the level of book each child is reading. If a student passes that test with a score of 80 or above, then they will move to the next level book.

Central Davie

This week in the the Early Learning class we were able to take an exciting trip to the Dixie Classic Fair. In preparation of this trip the children learned about various farm animals and their living environments. At the fair the children were surprised to see soe new animals like a camel and a zebra. All were able to feel their furs and hear the animal sounds. Many new textures were discovered and new sounds were mocked by all children. Our student of the week is Dawlton Lawson.

week was our trip to the Dixie Classic Fair on Wednesday. We had wonderful weather and enjoyed our walk through the exhibit halls with so much to see in all directions. It is hard to say which exhibit was the favorite...the animals or the huge, gigantic pumpkins. Among the animals, the children certainly liked the petting zoo and all the little goats who were eager to come up to the fence and be touched. We felt the woolly coat of a sheep and the silky fur of a rabbit. A walk through the old village (where the children were imipressed that the buildings were even older than their teacher) and a picnic lunch concluded our morning.

During the rest of our week, we have been reviewing the Letter People friends we have met so far: Mr. N, Ms. W, Ms. P and Mr. H. We have also worked on our "apple" projects creating a beautiful "apple orchard" displayed on our bulletin board and making apple print paintings.

This week in our preschool developmental readiness classroom, the children have continued to work on different apple projects and are being introduced to fall. We had a very exciting day this past Wednesday, when many of the children and their families joined our school at the Dixie Classic Fair. The children had a great time seeing, petting and even being able to feed the many different animals at the petting zoo. The exhibits were wonderful for the children as well. The children loved seeing the pumpkins of all the different shapes and sizes, the fruits and vegetables dressed up as many different animals and characters, and the honey bees in the processo f making their very own honey. Our special friend this week has been Tommy. Tommy has been a great helper and has been able to share some of his favorite toys, pictures and books with his friends in the classroom. The next few weeks are going to be very exciting in our classroom as we begin our Halloween decorating, projects and fun.

A new month in the Kindergarten Readiness class is an exciting time. This week, we have been concentrating our studies on harvests and farm animals. We have been reading many wonderful books on these topics, as well as making our very own books about scarecrows. We took a field trip to the Dixie Classic Fair on Wednesday and had an incredible time looking at the exhibits and seeing all of the animals. Our favorite experience was the petting zoo. With strong parent involvement, it was a great trip and all the children wanted to know when we were going back. We are scheduling many visits with community helpers for our "specials" program and we continue to learn our letters and numbers.

Cornatzer Elementary

We are hoping that many hands will make light work at Cornatzer School this Friday. The school's Beautification Committee has already done a great job decorating the outside of the building with fall displays, and on Friday they hope that volunteers will give their time to help out for an outside workday to make the school look even better. The committee plans to mulch some areas around the school, plant daisies, pansies and mums, and do some weeding.

All help will be much appreciated, and donations of plants and birdhouses would be welcomed.

Mrs. Michelle Moore's second graders are currently enjoying having a new teacher in their class. While Mrs. Moore enjoys some time at home with her new baby boy, Cody, her students have Mrs. Livengood teaching them. The class is studying a unit on the fall at present. Books they have enjoyed reading include Picking Apples and Pumpkins, Daniel's Duck, and Ox Cart Man. They are learning about the many things that happen during the fall such as leaves changing colors and foods being harvested. Students are also busily planning a Fall Fair to be held in their classroom. They are making fall related crafts and plan to eat lots of caramel apples.

In Mrs. Carmen Moore's fifth grad class everyone is amazed at how much they have learned since the beginning of the school year. "It is so hard to believe that we are at the end of the first quarter now," says Moore. "Responsibility is our character trait for the month of October. We are proving by our actions and by our behavior that we are responsible fifth graders.

We are currently studying all about the history of the United States in social studies. We discuss the differences between life long ago and today each day in class. It is unbelievable how advanced our world is today, mainly because of technology, which is apparent everywhere that we go.

In math, we have learned many new concepts. We are focusing on multiplication, division, fractions, percentages, decimals and problem solving skills. We are concentrating on more complex problems and working these out one step at a time.

In communications, we have read a lot of excellent literature. We have read a variety of fiction and nonfiction selections as well as poems and informational articles during the past few weeks. We have been learning about locating information by using the table of contents, dictionaries, the glossary, bibliographies and the index. We are also learning about how to use the computer, newspapers and other reading sources as valuable tooks for obtaining needed information. This knowledge will be very helpful in writing reports and doing research projects.

We also recently completed a project which required each students to come up with a problem in the school. Each student created a creative solution to this problem. We shared these with one another and discussed different solutions for the various problems.

We would like to thank our DARE teacher, Officer Campbell, for teaching us to much valuable information during the past few weeks. We have learned so much from him, and we will always remember to make the right choices as we go through life. We realize the importance of making good choices and living with the consquences of our own choices.

In Mrs. Hembree's music lessons at Cornatzer kindergartners, first and second graders are enjoying several fun games and activities to promote a love of music. They play a variety of hand-held instruments and do lots of movement.

Third, fourth and fifth graders are learning to read music from the staff, including letter names and the note names and values.

Mocksville Elementary

Student of the Month, September: Jonathan Ressa.

Mrs. Wyatt and Mrs. Fulton's class has enjoyed the recent season change to fall. We have read books, had discussions and taken a wonderful nature walk to further experience the seasonal change. Our unit on fire safety has begun and we are looking forward to our visit to the fire department. Math has also been exciting as we've begun using geoboards to create and copy many designs and shapes.

Mrs. Pristas and Mrs. Linder's first graders have had a great week learing abou the sound short e makes. We have been reading the story "Splash!" to help us practice this sound. We have also learned about spiders, how they are different from insects, and where they can be found. We know that spiders are important to the environment.

Mrs. Starnes and Mrs. Sutton's second graders have missed the hurricane discussions the recent weather provided for us, but are happy that the people in Florida seem to be getting a much needed break. Our basal story this wee, "Jamaica Tag-Along" led way to some interesting sharing and writing activities of their younger siblings or their role as the younger sibling. In math, we are discussing horizontal, vertical and oblique lines, dividing into halves, fourths and eighths, weighing, and multiples of 10.

Elizabeth Vogler and Cindy Hursey's third graders are reading the novel Muggie Maggie by Beverly Cleary. As they are reading about Maggie's struggles with cursive, they are honing their own cursive writing skills. They are also learning and using independent reading strategies and comprehension skills. Each child writes in his/her journal reflecting on ideas and concerns of third graders brought out in the book. In math they are learning about fractions and how to order and add three-digit numbers.

Mrs. Nance's fourth grade class at Mocksville Elementary has been busy wrapping up the first quarter. The students have been learning a lot about the brothers who helped make North Carolina famous, Wilbur and Orville Wright. We all stopped to image what we could do in our lifetime that students 101 years from now might read about in their classrooms.

Fifth grade classes are preparing for DARE graduation by writing essays on living a drug, alcohol and violence free life. Classes are also learning about the ballet in preparation for a visit from the North Carolina Ballet in a few weeks. Students are learning to stay safe at home by preparing Fire Prevention Plans. Classes have recently enjoyed lunch with grandparents in honor of Grandparents' Day. Students are practicing the character trait of compassion by finding ways to work together for the success of everyone.

All About Fall has been the theme in Mrs. Stokes' class. We enjoyed going on a nature walk and collecting all colors of leaves. After graphing information about our leaves, we learned everyone's favorite color was yellow. We look forward tolearning about other fall items like pumpkings and scarecrows - cool! We wish a Happy Belated Birthday to our friend, Colby Heiner.

Sabrina Etchison Passes CMA Exam

Sabrina Davon Etchison passed the AAMA CMA examination for medical assistants on June 26, earning the Certified Medical Assistant credential.

Etchison

Etchison is a graduate of the medical assisting program at Forsyth Technical Community College in Winston-Salem, and is employed by Novant Health at Forsyth Internal Medicine in Winston-Salem.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billy C. Etchison of Mt. View Drive, Mocksville.

The exam tests clinical and administrative knowledge needed for competent medical assisting practice. Although medical assistants are employed in a wide range of health career delivery settings, they are the only allied health practitioners trained specifically for the physician's office.

Students Complete Programs

Seven Davie students completed the adult high school diploma (AHS) and General Educational Development (GED) programs at Davidson County Community College during the summer session.

The AHS program is designed for adults who did not complete their high school education through the public schools. The program provides students with the means to earn their Adult High School diploma by completing course work in English, math, science and history.

Earning the AHS were: Adrian Wethington of Advance; and Heather A. Cousar, Brandon G. Oliver and Melisa Scott Phillips, all of Mocksville.

The GED program is a means for adults to obtain a high school diploma. Individuals take the GED exams to demonstrate high school level competencies in English, social science, reading and math.

Earning the GED were: Brandon Gene Anderson, Bradley Ray Scott and Danielle Wright, all of Mocksville.

Adult Classes Offered At Davie Campus

The Davie Campus of Davidson County Community College will offer the following classes beginning Oct. 17. These classes are featured in the 2004 Mid-Fall Semester Tabloid.

Julia Howard Appointed To Study Commission

Rep. Julia Howard has been appointed to the Legislative Study Commission on State Boards, Commissions, and Councils.

"It's been a while since the General Assembly last gave these groups a thorough review," Howard said. "I believe the commission's final report will put forth recommendations that will save the state time and money by reducing the number of boards that exists within state government."

The main task of the new commission will be to determine which boards, commissions, and councils can be consolidated or eliminated. To determine what can be eliminated or consolidated, the study commission will look at the productivity and effectiveness of the organizations in the past.

The commission will also consider the cost, number of members, and frequency of meetings in making its decisions.

The study commission is made up of 28 members, 14 from the House and 14 from the Senate. The final report of the commission is due at the beginning of the 2005 Session, which convenes on Jan. 26, 2005.

Apartments Win Award

The Duke Street Apartments in Mocksville received a Housing North Carolina award Oct. 5 from the N.C. Housing Finance Agency.

The awards recognize excellence in affordable housing.

The four-apartment complex provides permanent housing and support services to persons with developmental disabilities.

Davie County Group Home developed the four apartments for Phase II, on land donated by Davie County commissioners, in an established residential neighborhood.

Each of the apartments has a large great/dining room, bedroom, bath and kitchen. One unit is wheelchair accessible, and all four are equipped with washers, dryers, appliances and furnishings.

The $450 monthly rent includes individual services for residents, with staff on-site 30-40 hours per week and emergency staff available 24 hours a day. Staff assist residents with establishing bank accounts, obtaining medical services, learning housekeeping and self-help skills, and accessing recreational and social activities in the community.

Duke Street Apartments collaborates with CenterPoint Human Services for vouchers, which limit costs to 30 percent of their income.

Primary financing is a zero-interest loan from Housing Trust Fund through the N.C. Housing Finance Agency, and rent supplements from the Northwest Piedmont Council of Governments.

Domestic Violence Is All Around Us

By Martha L. McQueen
DDVS/RCC Director

Domestic Violence is all around us. We see it, we hear it, we read about it, we watch TV programs centered on it. This month we are recognizing domestic violence nationally. Why is it so important?

Statistics show that one in five women has been abused, and one in nine men. One in eight dating couples experience abuse from their partner.

Today we are going to give a list of signs of abuse as written in the book Into the Light, A Guide for Abused Women, original text by Leslie Cantrell and revised by the editors at JIST Life.

- "I am sometimes afraid of my partner.
- My children are sometimes afraid of my partner.
- I feel trapped in this relationship.
- I sometimes lie to friends and family members to cover for my partner's reaction.
- I cannot express my opinions or feelings without fearing my partner's reaction.
- I feel pressure to ask m partner for permission to see family or friends, go anywhere, or spend money on anything.
- I have to be very careful of what I say and do when I am with my partner to keep him from getting angry.
- I feel like I am walking on egg shells when I am with my partner.
- I try and try to please my partner but am criticized again and again. I feel like I can do nothing right.
- I sometimes feel like I am living with two different people or with someone like Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde.
- I feel isolated because m partner drives away my family and friends.
- I have nightmares about m partner attacking me.
- I am beginning to believ the terrible things my partner accuses me of and says about me. Sometimes I'm not sure what is real anymore."

If you find that you are living with some of these circumstances, you may be in an abusive relationship. If you would like more information, or would like someone to talk with about your circumstances, please call us. DDVS/RCC has a 24-hour crisis lic, 751-HELP (4357) answered by trained volunteers and staff members.. We are here for you.

PUBLIC NOTICES

NORTH CAROLINA
DAVIE COUNTY
CDBG
COMBINED NOTICE
NOTICE TO PUBLIC OF NO SIGNIFICANT IMPACT ON THE ENVIRONMENT
AND NOTICE TO PUBLIC OF REQUEST FOR RELEASE OF FUNDS

Date: October 14, 2004
Davie County
123 S. Main Street
Mocksville, NC 27028
336 751-5513
TO ALL INTERESTED AGENCIES, GROUPS AND PERSONS:

On or about October 29, 2004, the above named County will request the North Carolina Department of Commerce to release Federal funds under Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 (PL 93-383) for the following project:
Cycle Group, Inc. CDBG Economic Development Project

Davie County proposes to install a new rail spur to Cycle Group, Inc. located at 168 Industrial Boulevard. In addition Cycle Group, Inc. is constructing an expansion to the existing building to accommodate rail cars.
Total Project Cost=$1,541,800; Total CDBG Cost=$190,000; CDBG/ Total Cost Percent=13%
Location: Cycle Group, Inc., 168 Industrial Boulevard, Mocksville, NC

Purpose of Notice

This notice is intended to meet two separate procedural requirements of 24 CFR Part 58: (1) to provide notice to the public that the County has determined that the request for release of funds for the above named project will not have a significant impact on the environment, and (2) to provide notice to the public that the County is requesting the release of funds for the above named project.

Finding of No Significant Impact

It has been determined that such request for release of funds will not constitute an action significantly affecting the quality of the human environment and accordingly the above named County has decided not to prepare an Environmental Impact Statement under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (PL 91-190)..

The reasons for such decision not to prepare such statements are as follows:

The project presents no significant environmental impacts.

An Environmental Review Record respecting the above project has been made by the above named County which documents the environmental review of the project and more fully sets forth the reasons why such Statement is not required. This Environmental Review Record is on file at the above address and is available for public examination and copying upon request between the hours of 8:00 am and 5:00 pm.

No further environmental review of such project is proposed to be conducted prior to the request for release of Federal Funds.

Public Comments on Finding

All interested agencies, groups and persons disagreeing with this decision are invited to submit written comments for consideration by the County to the office of the County Manager. Such written comments should be received at the address above on or before October 29, 2004. All such comments so received will be considered and the County will not request the release of Federal Funds or take any administrative action on the within project prior to the date specified in the preceding sentence.

Release of Funds

Davie County will undertake the project described above with Community Development Block Grant funds from the Commerce Finance Center (CFC) under Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974. Davie County is certifying to CFC that Richard B. Poindexter, in his official capacity as the Chairman of the Board of Commissioners consents to accept the jurisdiction of the Federal courts if an action is brought to enforce responsibilities in relation to environmental reviews, decision making and action; and that these responsibilities have been satisfied. The legal effect of the certification is that upon its approval, the County may use the Block Grant funds and CFC will have satisfied its responsibilities under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969.

Objections to State Release of Funds

CFC will accept an objection to its approval only if it is on one of the following bases (a) That the certification was not in fact executed by the certifying official or other officer of the applicant approved by CFC; or (b) That the applicant's environmental review record for the project indicates omission of a required decision, finding or step applicable to the project in the environmental review process. Objections must be prepared and submitted in accordance with the required procedure (24 CFR Part 58) and may be addressed to CFC at 4318 Mail Service Center, Raleigh, North Carolina 27699-4318.

Objections to the release of funds on bases other than those stated above will not be considered by CFC. No objection received after November 16, 2004 will be considered by CFC. Comments must specify whether they concern the finding of no significant impact or the intent to request release of funds.

Objections to State Release of Funds

CFC will accept an objection to its approval only if it is on one of the following bases (a) That the certification was not in fact executed by the certifying official or other officer of the applicant approved by CFC; or (b) That the applicant's environmental review record for the project indicates omission of a required decision, finding or step applicable to the project in the environmental review process. Objections must be prepared and submitted in accordance with the required procedure (24 CFR Part 58) and may be addressed to CFC at 4318 Mail Service Center, Raleigh, North Carolina 27699-4318.

Objections to the release of funds on bases other than those stated above will not be considered by CFC. No objection received after November 16, 2004 will be considered by CFC. Comments must specify whether they concern the finding of no significant impact or the intent to request release of funds.

Ceremony To Feature Civil War Reenactment

It was 1747 when Yost Kobe and his son Johann Nicklaus immigrated to the New World from Germany, apparently fleeing because of religious differences with Emperor Frederick.

They were Mennonites, and arrived in Philadelphia.

Three years later, Johann Nicklaus moved south, settling on the banks of the Yadkin River in what is now Davie County, near what is U.S. 64 East and the Cooleemee Plantation.

And there are still relatives of Johann Nicklaus Kobe living here today. The name is most commonly spelled Cope now, and the family's history and that of their service in the Civil War will be celebrated at a ceremony Saturday afternoon at Fork Baptist Church.

The public is invited to learn about the family, to watch as Civil War re-enactors perform drill and marching demonstrations, to hear a band that plays southern patriotic music and to mark the grave of Pleasant Jacob Cope, soldier, farmer and family man.

Johann married Catherine Bostian of Kannapolis in 1750. Johann and his son John assisted or fought during the Revolutionary War, and was awarded a sizeable tract of land around his home. Phillip, an older son, and Johann were with Nathaniel Green at York Hill and Guilford Courthouse.

P.J. Cope joined the N.C. Troops (Winston-Salem) during the Civil War, but ended up in the 10th Virginia Calvalry, Company B (Davie County Rangers). This was a company of North Carolina men from Davie County recruited at the beginning of the War Between the States by Calvalry Commander Ge. J.F.B. Stuart.

He was under continuous fire for 11 months and fought in every battle in the North, including Gettysburg with Stuart's Calvary.

Records show that he was in the hospital once, for "Camp Itch."

He was with Gen. Robert E. Lee at Appomatox, but his company refused to surrender. P.J. refused to sign his parole to the day he died. He returned to Fork after the war to live as a farmer.

He was buried at Fork Baptist Church cemetery.

Saturday's ceremony will culminate several years of work by Hal Kluttz of Lincolnton.

A history and Civil War buff, Pleasant Jacob "Jake" Cope was his great-great-grandfather. Kluttz found his and Elizabeth's grave during the work.

"I had their marble grave markers acid washed and cleaned to bring them back close to their original condition," he said. "These markers were installed at the time of their deaths."

The ceremony begins at 1 p.m., when Pastor Doug Agnew of Grace Church in Charlotte will speak on the legacy and life of Pleasant Jacob Cope, and of the Cope family living in this area at that time.

At 2 p.m., Confederate re-enactors will perform drill movements and marching demonstrations.

At 3 p.m., The Dixie Boys, a quartet, will perform southern patriotic music and religious songs for about an hour.

At 4 p.m., Agnew will lead a graveside prayer, with a 21 gun salute by the re-enactors and songs by the Dixie Boys.

"This is sure to be a special day for me and a great event for the entire family," Kluttz said.

What:
Monument Dedication, Civil War re-enactment, southern patriotic music, prayer
When:
Saturday, Oct. 16
Time:
1-4 p.m.

Property Revaluation To Take Place Every 4 Years

By Mike Gunning
Davie County Enterprise Record

Davie County commissioners are moving forward with a new tax revaluation plan that will adjust property tax rates in the county every four years instead of the every seven years.

The reappraisal project is being led by Mary Nell Richie, the tax administrator. It marks the first time a revaluation assessment will be done by county employees as opposed to outside agencies.

"Doing an in-house reappraisal project has the advantage of a staff that is very knowledgeable of the local market," Richie wrote in a letter to the board.

Richie said that because the properties are on a four year cycle, residents can expect to see a lower increase in property values than in the past.

"We do not anticipate the overall increase to be anywhere near what it was in 2001," Richie said. "The market seems to be somewhat flat."

While it is true the market in most of Davie County has not experienced a substantial increase, the change from a seven-year to a four-year revaluation will likely increase the overall tax revenue to the county. While the tax rate may or may not go up, the value of the property most likely will increase.

Richie said it was the goal of her department to insure that all taxpayers are treated equally in the taxation of their property and that all property is appraised at its true value.

She added that revaluation does not always mean an increase in taxes for property owners. Property

Man Arrested After Pointing Gun At Police

By Jackie Seabolt
Davie County Enterprise Record

A man was arrested last Tuesday after pointing a shotgun at a sheriff's deputy. Brandon Lee Spencer, 28, of 608 Greenhill Road, Mocksville was charged with felonious assault on a law enforcement officer with a firearm.

According to Davie Sheriff Allen Whitaker, a call was received the afternoon of Oct. 12 reporting a man was damaging property at a Greenhill Road residence by discharging a firearm.

A second call received shortly after 9 p.m. reported a man at the same address was contemplating suicide, Whitaker reported.

When Deputy J.A. Palmer responded to the scene North Carolina Highway Patrol Trooper M.T. Dalton, who was already there, advised him there was a man with a weapon inside the residence.

Whitaker reported, Spencer emerged from his home, began cursing the officers, then lowered a shotgun and aimed it in the officers' direction.

Whitaker reported Spencer had been drinking. Other officers arrived on the scene and Spencer was surrounded and surrendered his weapon.

Spencer remains in Davie Detention Center in lieu of a $100,000 secured bond. His first court appearance is scheduled today.

Whitaker did not have a copy of Spencer's criminal history. "I can say that we're familiar with him at the detention center."

Storehouse To Break Ground On New Facility

Groundbreaking for the new 27,612 sq.. ft. building of A Storehouse For Jesus is scheduled for 3 p.m., Sunday, Oct. 24 and all area residents are invited, according to Executive Director Marie Collins, who began the Storehouse almost 12 years ago.

The building site is about a quarter-mile from where Depot Street intersects US 64 East in southeastern Mocksville.

"God has blessed us abundantly," Collins said. "Whoever would have believed that when we started in an abandoned farmhouse that the ministry for which many of us today volunteer, would have grown to be such a vital part of Davie County? But then, how many of us would have thought we would see so many changes in our area, with factory closings, many unemployed and such great need here in our own country? We pray what we are doing today will carry us well into the 21st century and prepare us for whatever work God may have for us in the days and years ahead.

"We would not be able to have

Mobile Computers Put South On Cutting Edge

By Mike Gunning
Davie County Enterprise Record

On the outside, South Davie Middle School looks pretty much the same as most schools in the county.

The single story brick building houses more than 700 students, sits back from the road, and is surrounded by green grass and athletic fields.

But once inside, it doesn't take long to realize that SDMS is more like a school of the future than a school of the present.

Dr. Robert Landry, the principal, is the architect behind the transformation. Landry said he scrimped and saved as much as possible on his budget to be able to afford to furnish his school with 30 computer tablets.

The tablets are portable PCs that offer mobile computers that feature a 12-inch screen with pen or keyboard input capabilities. The tablets have been around for years, but a recent release of Windows software that works on the tablet has caused a sharp spike in public interest.

"We are so tight for space, that having room dedicated for a computer lab just doesn't make sense," Landry said. "This gives us the capability to move the lab from room to room using one cart."

The tablets have wireless capabilities, and Landry purchased a mobile wireless router to supplement internet connectivity.

"The internet is one of the greatest educational tools we have," Landry said. "This allows us to take the lessons outside these four walls and into cyberspace."

To facilitate the extension of electronic education, Landry purchased a license to use Blackboard Software, a program that works as a virtual classroom for at home study. Blackboard allows students and parents to communicate with the school from remote locations via the internet.

The technology, which has been in development since 1997, is used mostly at the university level. Landry said South Davie Middle School is the first primary education school in the state to have it.

If a student forgets what their homework was , Blackboard is the place the child can go for the assignment. Parents can check the progress of their child's grades, and even see what their children's latest test scores were.

Students who know in advance they will not be in school can "drop off" their homework in a the teachers online mailbox, and teachers can give tests to students who are out because of extended illnesses.

For President: George W. Bush

Lines have already formed outside the early polling places across the nation. This promises to be an election when people take voting seriously. Four years ago, we all saw how important a few ballots can be.

That's why most of us are taking no chances by staying at home and leaving the decision-making responsibility to others.

We urge you to vote for the re-election of President Bush.

There are many reasons the President should be re-elected this November. Perhaps most significant is the need to show this nation's resolve in the face of these difficult times in Iraq.

To change leaders in the middle of this conflict would send the wrong message to our enemies and to our friends.

To change would send a message of retreat — that we have lost our will in the face of difficulty and that we are not resolute in the bloody task of avenging the 9/11 attack.

Some of our intelligence was wrong about Iraq's weapons stockpiles. Not all of Iraq has greeted us as liberators. We have lost precious blood and treasure in this conflict. But President Bush's ambition of planting our most precious commodity — democracy — in the Middle East remains a goal that must be allowed time to succeed. That, ultimately, is the most dangerous weapon the terrorists face.

We must see this fight to the finish.

This election season has caused us to reconsider all the decisions that have been made in our fight against the terrorists. Logical actions taken two years ago don't seem as wise with the benefit of hindsight. But we took them. We have troops in the field. The world is watching, with many nations hoping we fail.

It has been a difficult four years.

The economy turned sour. After a decade of stunning growth, many sectors of our industry went into a tailspin. President Bush work hard to do what government can to avert a severe recession through tax cuts and refunds. The corrections have been made. The tax cuts worked. We lost many manufacturing jobs in the process, but our economic future is bright again.

The next President also faces the prospect of Supreme Court nominations. We wouldn't want the most liberal member of the United States Senate to make those picks.

We also wouldn't want him to take the reigns of power as commander in chief. It's not enough to wish the enemy didn't want to kill us. It's not enough to pretend there is no conspiracy, that there is no menace. We have to respond with bullets.

President Bush correctly sensed the danger and has declared war on the enemy. War is awful by its nature. Of course, mistakes have been made. A handful of soldiers embarrassed the nation with their shameful behavior and digital cameras. But our military has been nimble and creative — adjusting to difficult battle terrain in Afghanistan and Iraq, overwhelming the enemy on the field.

But the thugs and terrorists continue to emerge. Fortunately, they are congregated in Iraq — far from our shores — where they have the choice of surrender or death.

If his plan succeeds, President Bush will be judged by history as a visionary, determined leader who acted under difficult circumstances to make the entire world safer. But he needs four more years.

Sen. John Kerry says he will be a smarter, but that is a hollow promise. He can criticize, but there is little evidence that he has the ability or a plan to improve on our circumstances in Iraq.

This is not the time to change leaders. This is not the time to grow faint and weary. The hunt is still on for Osama bin Laden. Afghanistan just had its first election in history. Iraq will have its own election in January.

Many of the terrorists who once judged us a toothless giant are now dead. For us to reject our leader before this battle is finished would cheer Saddam Hussein, embolden the terrorists and satisfy the Europeans who have condemned our unmatched power.

Sen. John Kerry has often said he would bring our old allies into the fight to lessen our part of the battle. That won't happen. The peace-at-any-price crowd has Europe in a headlock.

We were the ones attacked so brutally. The fight is ours. Great Britain, Australia, Poland and our other allies realize they could easily be next. Terrorists sent Spain into retreat with a well-timed bombing, toppling its government in the process.

We may at times be uncomfortable with the role as the world's policeman. We may not understand why old allies don't support us. We may not always see evidence of progress.

But the terrorists have. On election day, we must let them know we're coming for the rest of them.

God Must Be Sick Of Our Unthankful Attitude

To the editor:

We are constantly hearing bad news about the mess in Iraq. I'm among citizens who challenge our president and other leaders to admit that the loss of human life in that conflict is horrible.

Politicians who broadcast the bad news about Iraq won't convince me that they have a serious interest in saving human lives unless they sound a bigger alarm about 4,000 babies aborted in America every day. Have they considered all the other countries and the horrible loss of human life from abortions throughout the world?

I have a granddaughter who is engaged to a Marine serving in Iraq. I'm burdened for her and other families who have relatives and friends engaged in that conflict, and praying for families whose relatives and friends have died on the battlefield. The soldier who captured my granddaughter's heart volunteered to serve in the military knowing that he might be called for duty in a harmful place. Shouldn't we have a bigger burden for the multiplied millions of baby boys and girls who die each year in abortions that don't give them any choice in that ungodly mission?

The political media is giving us bad news about the economy, but the reports we hear are worse than the facts. Many American families want a fleet of vehicles to drive to work, church, school and recreation centers. Our deceased parents and grandparents who gave thanks for one family vehicle would think their children and grandchildren are used car dealers if they could come back for a visit today. The homes common people live in now are better than the homes of wealthy people whom my grandparents knew, and mankind's biggest imaginations 50 years ago couldn't begin to comprehend what is common stuff (computer, FAX machine and cell phones) we possess today.

The God of Heaven must be sick of our unthankful attitude and our greedy desire for more stuff. I suggest that we give less attention to politicians who promise to provide opportunities for more stuff, and listen to the Apostle Paul's warning to our unholy, unthankful, high minded and pleasure seeking generation:

"But mark this: There will be terrible times in the last days. People will be lovers of themselves, lovers of money, boastful, proud, abusive, disobedient to their parents, ungrateful, unholy, without love, unforgiving, slanderous, without self control, brutal, not lovers of the good, treacherous, rash, conceited, lovers of pleasure rather than lovers of God - having a form of godliness but denying its power. Have nothing to do with them." 2 Timothy 3:1-5.

George Bush will not be able to correct all the evil in this country and around the world if he is elected to serve as America's president for four more years, and John Kerry will have an opportunity to make things worse if he is elected to replace President Bush. We cannot trust any politicians's promise to make things better if his or her platform doesn't promote God's proclamation:

"If my people, who are called by my name, will humble themselves and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways, then will I hear from heaven and will forgive their sin and will heal their land." 2 Chronicles 7:14

Support Youth Football

To the editor:

On behalf of the Davie County Youth Football Association Board of Directors, I thank Keith Whitaker and his group of high school students who painted the football fields at the Smith Grove Community Center.

I also remind everyone that Championship Day is set for Saturday,Oct. 30 at War Eagle Stadium. There will be six games throughout the day starting at 10 a.m. Please come out and support the youth of Davie County and see the "War Eagles" of the future.

Electing Richard Burr Crucial

To the editor:

The electing of Richard Burr to the United States Senate is most crucial.

If the Nov. 2 election should result in the Democrats gaining control of the Senate, it would most likely pave the way for Ted Kennedy to be elected to the position of Majority Leader of the Senate. Therefore the voters of North Carolina should be mindful that if they vote for Erskine Bowles, they could be voting for Ted Kennedy to have the most powerful position in the U.S. Senate.

Visitor Impressed By North Teacher, Students

To the editor:

At the Davie County Arts Council, we bring artists into the schools to enrich the lives of the students and give them the opportunity to learn through the arts. This year, the seventh-graders will get the opportunity to met Mr. Tony Peacock--writer, storyteller and hollerin' champion. Our first round of classes took place at North Davie Middle School a few weeks ago and we feel the students really took something away from this experience. Well, Tony took something away, as well. He wrote the article below for the Chapel Hill News on Friday, Sept. 24, titled "Leaving Home."

Occasionally, I travel to different parts of North Carolina as a visiting writer in schools. Last week, I had the privilege of spending five days at North Davie Middle School in Davie County, which is approximately 100 miles west of Chapel Hill.

When I entered my first classroom on Monday morning, I had no idea what to expect. I've spent the last few years working mostly with third, fourth and fifth graders. These were seventh graders. I'd grown comfortable with the younger students and felt a bit anxious about working with adolescents, particularly since I knew I'd be revisiting the county for five more weeks during the school year to work with other students the same age. This was my idea of being courageous and adventurous.

Then, I met Sergeant George Newman.

Newman (Mr. Newman to his students) began teaching at North Davie Middle School in 1989. His wife, Anna, teaches music at one of the elementary schools in the county. They have twin sons, Sean and Alex, who are in sixth grade at North Davie this year. Newman teaches science and social studies in what is known as "Pharaoh's Team" with two other seventh-grade teachers. He coaches football and basketball. A monitor and mentor, he can confiscate the rubber band in the cafeteria that is about to get one student in trouble without causing a ruckus. He can also speak to every seventh-grader in the school and have their undivided attention.

Friday was Newman's last day at North Davie for at least a year and a half. As a member of Company B, 1st Battalion, 126th Aviation Regiment in the U.S. Army National Guard, Newman will be going to Iraq as a helicopter crew chief. Although his company will most likely not be leaving the states until January, he'll be training until then. He has been in the service since 1985 and was trained on the Bell UH-1 series "Huey," a utility aircraft that was popular during the Vietnam War. In 1994, he went to a transition school and was trained on a UH-60 Black Hawk, which was designed to replace the "Huey."

Newman's eyes brighten when he talks about flying and his experiences training. "I just love that feeling. You're schooled-up for it. You're excited. You're on edge." He likes the way military life makes you focus, pay attention to detail and trust in your buddies. During an assembly program on Thursday morning, he emphasized the importance of being able to trust your life to another person and have that person do the same for you.

Students listened while they saw pictures of the enormous C-5A Galaxy, one of the world's largest aircraft. They were impressed by its "kneeling" landing gear system, its cargo openings. They were especially impressed by the fact that four Black Hawk helicopters could fit inside the plane's belly. Gasps could be heard when Newman mentioned that he would be carrying an M-60 machine gun in Iraq. A quick reverence came, however, when he explained that he hoped he never had to fire the weapon.

There is a quiet dignity and selflessness about Newman that touches ones spirit. Although he realizes the risk in what he's about to do, the concerns he voices are for others. When I spoke with him after class one day, he discussed how this separation would affect his family. His sons will be in eighth grade when he gets back home. He mentioned how the entire school is still trying to cope with the loss of its guidance counselor, who was killed in a car accident just a few weeks ago. He has a father who would go to Iraq in his son's place if he could. Meanwhile, his mother's worries are compounded by memories of having lived and witnessed the horrors of occupied France as a civilian during World War II.

As he reflected on the two six-week-long training exercises he's already been through at the National Training Center in Fort Irwin, Calif., Newman admitted that even though such experiences trained him for the dessert environment of Iraq, nothing could train him for the reality of the war there.

During the week, I watched students design cards, write letters, play music, and honor a teacher they love in every artistic and heartfelt way they could before watching him go off to war. There is no doubt that with Newman's departure the war has taken on new meaning at North Davie Middle School, and many, including me, are honoring his request that we pray.

Seven years ago, when I began visiting schools, I met with a friend who said I might not know what the students needed from me until I got there. Last week, I didn't know what I needed from them until they, along with one of their teachers, showed me.

Tony Peacock is author of "Sidney Langston: Giblets of Memory." Messages for him can be sent to eloise@nando.com or left at 932-2019.

I hope you enjoyed this article.

Food For His Flock A Success

To the editor:

On Oct. 2, a Food For His Flock drive was held for A Storehouse for Jesus.

The community support was and always is awesome. We would like to thank you for your support; it could not have come at a better time. Food For His Flock says it all. When the cupboard gets low and you're getting down to your last, God will open a window and pour out a blessing.

A heartfelt thank you to everyone, especially the churches, organizations and businesses that played a pivotal role: Lowes, Food Lion, Bi-Lo, Ben Franklin, Cooleemee Supermarket, Wal-Mart, Eagle Heights Church, Bethlehem United Methodist Church, First Baptist Church of Mocksville, Macedonia Moravian Church, Redland Pentecostal Church and the Civitan clubs of Davie County. Thank you.

Myra McGonigle Wonderful

To the editor:

This is being written on behalf of a wonderful woman, Myra McGonigle. In the past year I have learned first hand that Myra McGonigle has given her all to the Humane Society of Davie County. She has not only taken in pets in her own home until placed into foster care, but she, and her spouse, Dave have given many, many hours of time and talent to the various fundraisers offered by the HSDC. My relationship began with Myra as we both volunteered to chair the 1st Annual Humane Society of Davie County Golf Tournament. With her help, we contributed at least $3,000 toward the construction of an adoption center for Davie County. I only want the Humane Society of Davie County to realize what a tremendous friend you have in Myra McGonigle.

Also, I want to thank Rep. Julia Howard for serving as honorary chair of the 1st Annual Humane Society of Davie County Golf Tournament. Representative Howard, you are a great lady with a big heart for your service community.

Vote Democratic

To the editor:

Do you wonder why we are at war with a country which did not attack us on 9-11? Do you wonder why Bin Laden is still free? Do you wonder why we have dirtier air and water during the past four years? Are you concerned at having a national debt which is unprecedented since the Great Depression while giving the largest tax breaks to the super-rich?

If you feel misled, please join us online for local voter information and a sample Davie County ballot (www.DavieCountyDemocrats.org) or at our next meeting at the Davie County Democratic Party Headquarters at 7p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 26 at 123 N. Salisbury St., Mocksville. If you can't make it for the meeting, don't forget to vote, and I mean vote Democratic.

Humane Society Thankful

To the editor:

The Humane Society of Davie County would like to thank all of Davie County including its residents and its leadership for the support they have given to our Animal Adoption Center Fundraising campaign. We have seen wonderful support from the community for our last two fundraisers, the Doggie Jog and the golf tournament. In addition, one of our county middle schools, North Davie, has supported us with donations from a major fundraiser, each of the last four years. The Davie County commissioners approved a generous donation, which puts us within reach of our needs to purchase materials required for construction. We are awaiting final approval from the National Guard in Washington, D.C. If our project is approved as a National guard training project, the funds to cover materials cost will be sufficient to allow us to complete our project. With the National Guard's help, we hope to begin construction next year.

As the start date of our project draws closer, community support becomes so much more important. We will need not only additional dollars, but as importantly, we will need volunteers to help run the facility. With our community's support,, we can build and operate a center, which will help save the lives of many Davie County animals. Thank you again to the commissioners and each of you who support this project.

Dr. Robin N. Brock - president
Humane Society of Davie County

Americans Will Have To Buy American To Help Economy

To the editor:

Many folks wonder why our balance of trade deficit is so high. As the Third World nations become more and more industrialized, it's going to happen due to lower production cost. If we were really concerned about it we could at least attempt to purchase more products produced in our own country but that doesn't seem to be the way. Everyone is more interested in lower cost than saving jobs. For every foreign car or other product that is purchased, someone comes closer to losing a job to a low cost producer country.

We don't have to become isolationist to turn it around and stop some of the loss. I just takes a little dedication to preserving what we have in this country. Demanding that stores stock the absolute lowest price clothing or other products results in them going overseas to provide it. We seem to have lost that interest in nationalism that once made this country so great.

Greed, lack of interest and profit appears to have taken over the minds of the American consumer. We have developed a mind set that many foreign products are so much better than a similar made American product. The American automobile competes well with the German or Japanese vehicles. Driving a luxury foreign vehicle seems to be a status thing that weighs heavily on the balance of debt deficit. Just because some are produced in the US doesn't stop the profits from going out of the country.

The way of life we now know is changing fast and isn't going to stop anytime soon. We have priced ourselves out of the world market and can't compete. It's not just the US that's having this problem. Industrialized countries all over the world are loosing jobs to countries like China that unfairly compete by artificially holding down currency values and subsidize their industry. Japan did it years ago and targeted many sectors of the economy. They were successful but now they are suffering from the lost production cost of others.

We can't stop it and will have to just accept the change, but it hurts. It's possible we may have to return to the economical way of life that existed 20 or 30 years ago if it continues. There just won't be enough jobs to support the 2 or 3 car driveway or the big houses we have gotten used to. I may sound like a pessimist, but reality is fast approaching if we don't try to at least support our own producers. We need to get out trade deficits in balance and there is only one way to do it.

The problem won't go away by itself and no president can change it..

Health Care

Bert Bahnson

Government funded health care is a bipartisan issue that can break America's back or at best, take resources from other needs such as defense, Social Security repayments, education, etc. The chosen irresponsibility of some should not incur more debt for the rest of society. If a person is truly needy and shows good faith to adhere to healthy habits, he should be viewed as such and helped by the more fortunate, but if that person chooses a life-style that invites poor health, he should not be added to the list of the more responsible.

At the present time there is no requirement for these people to limit their unhealthy activities. It is real easy to add the cost of junk food, cable TV, sports and entertainment events, tobacco, alcohol, cell phones and other non-essentials and get $250 per month. This would pay a large portion, if not all, of the average health insurance premium.

One solution would be to disallow the above purchases to folks that do not show proof of health insurance. This may help them get their priorities where they need to be.

Bert Bahnson, a former Davie County commissioner, will offer his views regularly in this column.

Why Doesn't Popular Vote Count?

To the editor:

I am well aware that this question has been asked to death. But for all it's asking ... answers have been less than clear. I wonder if you might know of a web site or a book or better than those a person that could explain it to us. One more time, as simple as you can make it to help us understand why.

Why, in our democratic society (as I understand democracy) does the popular vote not count? Because if it doesn't ... why exactly are we voting again?

I think the fear is that the government has some conspiracy going with this electorial thing so that the "real powers that be" can put in who they want, vs. being truly elected by a majority vote of the people of the nation.

I just don't get it. And, it is what has keep me (and a few others) from the polls. They've turned the simplest thing ... into something complicated while undermining our feeling of having our vote count as a national citizen vs. just a state citizen.

I guess we just have to chalk it up to just another issue with our government. Not like we can do anything about it. And that's the whole problem these days I think. The government of America is no longer for the people unless its an issue that is in the news. Whether important or not. They no longer represent the majority of individual persons ... they represent the majority of electorials. And even that is only as long as they're worried about elections. Otherwise ... they seem to care more about their pockets. And I guess I don't have to be the one to say that this is wearing a bit thin.

Sorry I got off the main question, which was could you possibly explain the electorial vote in your paper. Again, by someone who puts it simply and yet with explanation of why and who and is it still better than simply counting the votes of the country's citizens vs. states.

If my state is mainly for one guy to be president, does that mean my vote won't be counted in the whole if I'm for the other guy, because the others in my state overrule me? My vote should be counted with all the others of the country for a particular candidate. If my understanding is correct, that doesn't seem fair at all. Why then would I even bother to vote? If I've seen polls or whatever that my state is already a majority for one candidate, should I bother?

Lalita Rollins, Mocksville

Time To Step To A Higher Ground

To the editor:

Four score and seven years ago, our fathers brought forth on this continent, a new nation conceived in liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal. Abraham Lincoln, Gettysburg, Pa., Nov. 19, 1863

Mr. Lincoln gave us these simple but beautiful words in his effort to help heal and unite a deeply divided nation. Later on, these beliefs cost him his life, as it has thousands of Americans since then. For those of you who haven't read the Gettysburg Address, you should; and for those of you who have and don't understand Mr. Lincoln's words, let me humbly try to help.

I recently read an editorial in this paper where a person said we should put God back in the schools. Our fathers brought forth upon this continent a new nation conceived in liberty. This was done to escape tyranny and religious persecution. The minute you put your God in the schools and courts, you beg to discriminate against other people's religion. Next, we will have people hiding in their attics and basements to worship like the Jews had to do during World War II. Where do we stop, the gas chambers?

Dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal, how can a president send our children, family and friends to be killed or maimed in the name of spreading liberty and freedom and at the same time, try to change the Constitution in an effort to deny American citizens their civil rights, be they gays, blacks, Jews or Protestants? Mr. Bush, you owe President Lincoln and all the lovers of liberty and freedom in this world an apology. And all of you who claim to be on the moral right, maybe you need to re-read your Bibles and ask yourself what would Jesus do? Holy war, can you imagine Jesus' reaction to those words? And you good Christians think you are better. You claim your God demands you fight for the rights of the unborn, yet you send your children to die in order to force your politics and religion on other people. You better hope Jesus doesn't come back to earth soon. If he does, heaven will be a very empty place.

In the next to the last sentence before President Lincoln speaks of a government for the people and by the people, he says that we're here to resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain. President Lincoln, I'm sorry to say we still haven't learned. If we want to become the people and country President Lincoln dreamed of, it is time for us all to step to higher ground.

Storehouse Breaking Ground

the groundbreaking without the vital help of so many people and the many church congregations, organizations and businesses which have been so good to us, without the enormous help of the Kate B. Reynolds Charitable Trust which has given us a quarter of a million dollars, and without the assistance of the Davie County Foundation which resulted in us being given more than $100,000 from Davie County churches, and $15,000 this year from the Woodson Foundation.

"The substantial gift from the Reynolds Charitable Trust really made the scheduled groundbreaking ceremony possible.

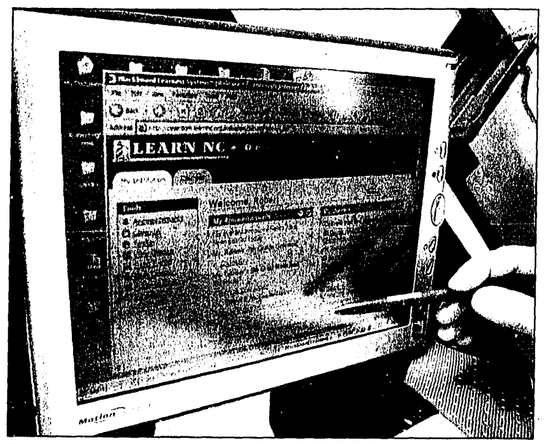
"Without it," Collins said, "our financial needs would be much greater. Without the efforts and hard work of our board members, grant writer, volunteer fundraising chair, Sarah Wood, Max Cranfill, building project manager, Architect John Fuller, and Engineer John Grey, we would not be this close to seeing the vision of a new building come true.

"With the fantastic volunteer team God has assembled over the last nearly 12 year, and with the great help of so many people, churches and organizations, we thank God for what He has done for this ministry. All this being said, if God were not with us, we would not be celebrating a groundbreaking Sunday for our new home. It is our prayer that the new work starting Sunday will be a great testament to our Lord and to the efforts of all those who have helped us."

The Rev. Dennis Marshall of Hardison United Methodist Church will be opening the groundbreaking ceremony, followed by a brief history by Collins. Providing music will be the Rev. Jim Sanders of Union Chapel United Methodist Church and Kathleen Welch. Pastor Will Pryor of Freedom Baptist Church will be closing the ceremony with a benediction.

When the building is completed next year, it will again be able to offer used furniture, which the Storehouse had to discontinue because of insufficient space about two years ago.

Meanwhile, the Storehouse will continue to operate from its current home at 464 Depot. St. in Mocksville, providing food and used clothing as well as medical and dental care and prescription drugs for qualified clients.



The technology allows students to access school work from home.

Property Values To Be Set Every 4 Years

that has not gained susbstantial value may not experience an increase unless the commissioners increase the property tax rate.

"The commissioners determine the tax rate based on the information they get from us," Richie said. "We should be able to give them our findings in late spring, maybe June. They'll determine their needs then, and decide if they need to adjust the tax rate."

Richie said the revaluation was necessary because Davie County is so diverse with many unique geographical features.

Residential areas, rural and farming communities as well as places with limited accessibility, need to be reassessed to be taxed on a more equal basis. Just as areas of the county differ from neighborhood to neighborhood, street to street, township to township, property values also vary.

In the past, the county was divided into 29 "neighborhoods" to determine tax values.

With a county that offers upscale single family homes next door to single wide manufactured housing, Richie and her staff saw a need to reduce the size of the areas being studied to accurately reflect real market values for given areas.

Commissioner Bobby Knight applauded the effort.

"By approaching the revaluation in this way, we intend to maintain a level of fairness to all our citizens," Knight said. "They have worked tremendously hard to make sure all of Davie's citizens are properly treated."

In North Carolina, all property tax matters are governed by the Machinery Act. The Machinery Act is designed to assure that all taxpayers are treated equally in the taxation of real and personal property. While local officials are allowed to take an active part in the administration of the property tax, they are limited by law as to what they can and cannot do.

The Machinery Act requires that each county reassess all of its property at least once every eight years. All property must be assessed at 100 percent of market value.

Nell said market fluctuations in property value should not affect the revaluation process.

"We will assess the properties in the county under the letter of the law," Nell said. "Whatever the property's value is on Jan. 1 of 2005 will be the value we'll use."

South Using Technology To Extend Classrooms

"Working in this environment opens discussions and changes the model of thinking of both the child and teacher," Landry said. "It's a tremendous education and communication tool."

Landry said that with Blackboard, days lost to inclement weather may not have to translate to days off from school.

"We have the technology today to run school even if the building is closed," Landry said. "Teachers can still teach, even if the students cant get here."

The largest limitation to Blackboard's overall success as an extension of the classroom is student's limited access to the internet. Landry thinks he has a plan to combat that as well.

Citing that 37 percent of students lack access to the internet, Landry has gone to the community to seek assistance.

Area ministers have been quick to respond. Several churches have offered to use their own resources to create computer labs at their locations, allowing students from neighboring areas internet access close to home.

"This program can and will work. The excuse that the dog ate my homework is pretty much gone," Landry said, "unless the computer goes down."

Robert Landry: "It's a tremendous education and communication tool."

Six Charged In March 31 Riot Have Their Day In Court

By Mike Gunning
Davie County Enterprise Record

Six Mocksville men charged with causing a riot that led to two stabbings had their day in court last week.

Felton Mayfield, Quincy Redmon, Michael Arnold, Quinton Dulin, Tracy Fortune and Michael Cline were each charged with one count of felony riot and one count of second degree trespass. Mayfield faced his charges alone, while the others were tried as a group before Judge Roland B. Hayes.

Assistant district attorney Carlton Terry charged that on March 31, the six men had engaged in trespassing and fighting on the property of Bertha Kimbrow of 379 Mountain View Drive in Mocksville. Kimbrow's son, Deamus, had been in an altercation with Fortune earlier in the day.

Kimbrow testified that she arrived home from work a few minutes after four in the afternoon and found out about the earlier fight. She said she thought things had settled down, and went inside to change into clothes to work in her yard.

A short time later, it began to rain. Kimbrow said she entered the house to get a jacket, and upon coming out, saw that two vehicles had stopped in front of her house and the occupants of the cars had surrounded her son Eric on her driveway. Kimbrow identified the six defendants as the men who were surrounding her son.

Mayfield, who's case was heard earlier, caused a disturbance in the back of the courtroom during Kimbrow's testimony, and was quickly led out in handcuffs.

Kimbrow said she was trying to get her boys in the house when one of the six pushed Eric. She said that's when the defendants started rushing across the yard. Her other sons, Dante and Deamus, responded by meeting the group and a fight ensued.

Dante Kimbrow testified that he was trying to prevent an altercation, but when he saw his brother attacked by Mayfield, he had no choice but to fight.

"I saw Felton push Eric, and I yelled don't be pushing on my brother," Dante testified. "We got into it, and that's when I stabbed Mikie."

Michael Arnold received a stab wound to the chest in the scuffle, and Mayfield was stabbed in the back of the shoulder moments later. It was not made clear who stabbed Mayfield.

When police arrived, all present at the scene were arrested.

Mocksville Police Sgt. Daniel Matthews testified that when he arrived, he found Mayfield walking slowly from the yard, and noticed a large amount of blood on his shirt.

"I stopped Mayfield and called for EMS," Matthews said. "He told me he was trying to stop a fight and he was the one who got stabbed."

Mayfield and Arnold were treated at Baptist Medical Center in Winston-Salem and released.

Mocksville Police Detective Ken Hunter testified that he interviewed the six defendants over the next few days and found several inconsistencies in their stories. Some claimed to be going fishing and had no idea they were stopping at the Kimbrow's house. Others said they were going to play basketball, and yet others claimed they never left the vehicle.

"Some of what they said corroborated, some didn't," Hunter said. "The most consistent thing is they all said they were there."

Faced with mounting testimony against them, several of the defendants took an offer from Terry to plea to second degree trespassing and have the felony riot charges dismissed.

Redmon received the harshest punishment, accepting a sentence of 49 days in jail. He was granted time served.

Roy Arnold accepted a prayer for judgement, while Mayfield and Cline both received a suspended sentence.

Michael Arnold, who defended himself, and Tracy Fortune had their charges dismissed.

Students Get Fire Prevention Materials

October is Fire Prevention Month nationwide and Davie County students in grades K-5 will again get fire safety coloring books and other materials offering fire prevention tips as well as advice on what to do in an emergency.

Firepup, the mascot of the National Fire Safety Council, is featured prominently in the fire prevention material.

This year's theme is "Fire Safety is Always in Season . . . Test Alarms Monthly." The proper number of working smoke alarms in the home can significantly increase your chances of surviving a fire. In case of fire, you should follow your practiced home escape plan and stay out. Know two ways out, go to your safe meeting place and call 9-1-1 from a neighbor's house.

Davie County Fire Marshal George Frye said the material was purchased with donations.

"I am grateful to our local businesses and civic organizations for participating in this important project. Their generous support will help make Davie more fire-safe," he said.

Frye also expressed appreciation to Davie County Schools for agreeing to present the materials to students.

"It takes a cooperative effort in the community to help our young people become aware of the potential dangers of fire and to teach them how to react in an emergency," he said.

Advance Planning Key To Fire Safety

Fire can spread rapidly through your home, leaving you as little as two minutes to escape safely.

Your ability to get out depends on advance warning from smoke alarms, and advance planning - a home fire escape plan that everyone in your family is familiar with and has practiced.

• Pull together everyone in your household and make a plan. Walk through your home and inspect all possible exits and escape routes. Households with children should consider drawing a floor plan of your home, marking two ways out of each room, including windows and doors. Mark the location of each smoke alarm. Make sure that you have at least one smoke alarm on every level of your home.

• Everyone in the household must understand the escape plan. When you walk through your plan, check to make sure the escape routes are clear and doors and windows can be opened easily.

• Choose an outside meeting place (neighbor's house, a light post, mailbox, or stop sign) a safe distance in front of your home where everyone can meet after they've escaped. Make sure to mark the location of the place on your escape plan.

• Go outside to see if your street number is clearly visible from the road. If not, paint it on the curb or install house numbers to ensure that responding emergency personnel can find your home.

• Have everyone memorize the emergency phone number - 911. That way any member of the household can call from a neighbor's home or a cellular phone once safely outside.

• If there are infants, older adults or family members with mobility limitations make sure that someone is assigned to assist them in the fire drill and in the event of an emergency. Assign a backup person too, in case the designee is not home

• If windows or doors in your home have security bars, make sure the bars have quick-release mechanisms inside so they can be opened immediately in an emergency. Quick-release mechanisms won't compromise your security - but they will increase your chances of safely escaping a home fire.

• Tell guests or visitors about your family's plan. When staying overnight at other people's homes, ask about their plan. If they don't have a plan, offer to help them make one. This is important when children are permitted to attend "sleepovers" at friends' homes.

• Be fully prepared for a real fire: when a smoke alarm sounds, get out immediately. Residents of high-rise and apartment buildings may be safer "defending in place."

• Once you're out, stay out. Under no circumstances should you ever go back into a burning building. If someone is missing, inform the fire department dispatcher when you call. Firefighters have the skills and equipment to perform rescues.

Ten Fire Safety Tips

from the Davie County Fire Marshal's Office

- Matches and lighters should be kept away from children; children who find them should always give them to an adult
- Post the 911 emergency number at each phone
- Properly install smoke detectors in homes and businesses and be sure to maintain them
- Keep fire extinguishers handy and know how to use them properly
- Use and store flammable and combustible liquids properly
- Know where the exits are in a structure
- Practice emergency escape plans
- Keep electrical equipment in good operating condition
- Have heating systems checked out prior to use each year
- Keep homes and businesses clear of accumulated trash and rubbish

To learn more, call the fire marshal's office at 751-0453 or by email at george.frye@co.davie.nc.us

Woman Is Charged With Statutory Rape

Davie County Sheriff's detectives have arrested a 22-year-old Mocksville woman on one count of felony statutory rape after receiving reports she had sexual relations with a 15 year old neighbor.

Dana Crouse, of 168 Granada Drive in Advance, was arrested without incident by Detective John Stephens.

According to Stephens, police became aware of the crime after the victim bragged to his freinds. The victim is thought to be a freind of Crouse's younger brother, Stephens said.

Police were called to investigate.

"The age of consent in North Carolina is 16," Stephens said. "This victim was only 15, so consent or no consent doesn't apply."

A $25,000 unsecured bond was set, allowing Crouse to be released on her own recognizance with the orders to stay away from the victim.

Man Charged After Fight With Estranged Wife's Boyfriend

By Mike Gunning
Davie County Enterprise Record

A Mocksville man has been charged with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill or inflict bodily injury after allegedly stabbing his wife's lover several times.

Detective Robert Trotter of the Davie County Sheriff's Department reports that William Lee Alexander, 37, formerly of 139 Oak Ridge Drive, was arrested early in the morning of Oct. 15 while driving his victim to the hospital.

"A call was received at approximately 4:22 a.m. involving a stabbing," Trotter said. "Apparently the victim made the call."

Trotter said the vehicle Alexander was driving was stopped on US 64 in Mocksville, and it was immediately determined both men required medical treatment.

Alexander was taken to Davie Hospital emergency department, while his victim, Randolph Wilds, 29, of Winston-Salem, was taken by emergency transport to Baptist Medical Center. Wilds underwent emergency surgery for multiple stab wounds to the torso, back and both arms. He was listed in stable condition.

Trotter reports that Alexander admitted to causing Wilds' injuries after being treated at Davie hospital for a facial wound above the left eye that required 10 stitches.

Alexander refused to give details leading up to the altercation, but Trotter said Jeanette Teresa Alexander, the estranged wife of Alexander, claims she and Wilds were in bed when loud noises disturbed them from their sleep.

Jeanette Alexander claims that after looking around the house, she and Wilds returned to bed. She felt back to sleep but soon woke to find her estranged husband and her boyfriend in a fight in the house.

Trotter said it is unclear how Alexander gained entry.

"She (Jeanette Alexander) said the locks had been changed since her husband moved out," Trotter said. "We're looking into how he got in, because there were no signs of forced entry."

Police recovered two steak knives with blood on them from the house. Bloody sheets, blankets and curtains were also recovered, along with a blood splattered clothes iron.

Alexander was also charged with one count of domestic trespass and is being held in Davie County Detention Center under $75,000 secured bond.

COMPLAINT PROCEDURE

NAACP Plans Oct. 25 Meeting

The Davie NAACP will hold a meeting on Monday, Oct. 25, beginning at 7 p.m. at the Smith-Grace Fellowship Hall, Depot Street, Mocksville

On Sunday, Nov. 7, the Piedmont Prison Women's Choir will be in concert at the Second Presbyterian Church, Pine Street, Mocksville, sponsored by Second Presbyterian and the Davie NAACP.

Dull Attends Sr. Legislature Fall Meeting

Vernon Dull of Davie County attended the fall meeting of the N.C. Senior Tar Heel Legislature in Winston-Salem Oct. 5-6.

The Senior Legislature, established by the N.C. General Assembly in 1993, provides information and education to senior adults on matters being considered by the General Assembly and makes recommendations to the General Assembly on legislative needs of older North Carolinians.

Dull is speaker of the legislature, and the delegate from Davie County.

The delegates identified five priority issues:

- clean air, water and soil;
- home and community care block grant services;
- long-term care insurance tax credit;
- increase senior center funding; and
- support for grandparents raising grandchildren.

Dull was briefed on the State Senior Care prescription drug assistance program by Stephanie Bias, regional manager with the Seniors' Health Insurance Information Program in the N.C. Department of Insurance. This program provides $1,200 per year for senior adults with incomes less than $23,275 and older couples with incomes less than $31,225 per year.

Karen Gottovi, director of the N.C. Division on Aging and Adult Services, talked about key issues which impact seniors.

Beef Producers To Meet At Center

There will be a beef producers meeting for Davie and Yadkin counties, Tuesday, Nov. 26 at Center Community Building at 64 West and I-40, Mocksville, beginning at 6:30 p.m.

The program topic will be protein feed supplementation for beef cattle. With some of the 2004 hay crop being questionable for nutrients, due to excessive rain at the wrong times, supplementation might be a necessary part of a herd management.

"We will also discuss other management needs you might need to provide your cattle this winter. Many questions need to be answers in order to help you make a wise decision concerning supplements. Providing our cattle with the necessary nutrients is essential for efficient production," said Phil Rucker, Extension agent.

There will be a sponsored suppert and reservations are needed.

Call the Extension Center 751-6297 or 679-20-61 before Friday, Oct. 22 to make reservations or for more information.

LISTED HOMES SELL

If you are serious about selling your home, listing it with a real estate sales professional will improve your chances of selling it quickly, and for top dollar. Eight out of ten homes sold today (more in some markets) are "listed" homes.

When your home is listed, your property is placed on the local Multiple Listing Service, a computerized database to which most real estate sales professionals subscribe. The MLS contains all the pertinent information about the home, such as the sales price, the location, the number of bedrooms and baths, and any special financial information. The MLS provides your home with the widest possible exposure to the real estate marketplace, because this database lists the inventory of homes that Realtors will show their buyers.

Your listing agent will contact other real estate professionals to promote your property, in case your home is a perfect fit for another Realtor's client. Your home will also be advertised in magazines that feature current local listings. You may be able to sell your own home, but you should be aware that you will face stiff competition when it comes to attracting serious and qualified buyers.

For professional advice on all aspects of buying and selling real estate, you can reach Debbie at Premier Carolina Properties, 336-998-7777 or 336-909-1284, or visit her website at www.pcpnc.com.

Don't Get Burned!
You can be fined up to $10,000 for illegal open burning in N.C.
Smoke from open burning can cause serious health problems and pollute the air. That's why the state regulates open burning. Only leaves, branches or other plant growth can be burned.
IT'S ILLEGAL TO BURN:
- Garbage, paper and cardboard
- Tires and other rubber products
- Building materials, including lumber
- Wire, plastics and synthetic materials
- Asphalt shingles and heavy oils
- Paints, household chemicals and agricultural products

Homeowners can burn yard trimmings – excluding logs and stumps – if it's allowed under local ordinances, no public pickup is available and it doesn't cause a public nuisance. Other allowable burning includes campfires, outdoor barbecues and bonfires for festive occasions. Landowners also can open burn vegetation to clear land or rights-of-way, provided that:
- Prevailing winds are away from built up areas and roads
- Fires are at least 1,000 feet away from occupied buildings
- Burning is done between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m.

Remember, burn permits issued by the N.C. Division of Forest Resources, its agents or any local government do not excuse a person from following these state air quality rules. For more information, contact:
Winston-Salem Regional Office
Division of Air Quality
N.C. Department of Environment and Natural Resources
Phone: (336) 771-4600

Brief Explanation Given For Constitutional Amendments

When voters go to the polls on Nov. 2, they will find three North Carolina Constitutional Amendments to either voter for or against.

The following is an attempt to explain what these amendments will be.

I. This amendment would grant North Carolina local governments authority to issue bonds to pay for public improvements associated with private development projects within a defined development district created by the local government. The bonds could be used for public improvements such as streets, water and sewer service, redevelopment, land development for industrial or commercial purposes, airports, museums or parking facilities. Upon passage of this amendment, no additional voter referendum would be necessary to issue these bonds. The bonds would be repaid with the additional property tax revenues that would result from the enhanced property values on the improved property in those development districts. To ensure enough property tax revenues are generated to repay the bonds, the amendment allows the property owners within the development district to agree to a minimum value at which their property will be assessed for tax purposes.

If a majority of voters approves this amendment, it becomes effective immediately upon the certification of its passage.

II. Section 7 of Article IX of North Carolina's Constitution provides that the clear proceeds of penalties, forfeitures, and fines collected in the state shall be used exclusively for maintaining free public schools.

The North Carolina General Assembly has established a fund in which to place the civil penalties, forfeitures, and fines collected by state agencies. The proposed amendment would require this money to be distributed equitably to the counties on a per pupil basis. The counties must use the money for maintaining free public schools.

The amendment does not affect the distribution to public schools of any criminal penalties. And it does not affect the collection or distribution of civil penalties collected by local governments.

If a majority of voters approves this amendment, it will become effective Jan. 1, 2005.

III. This amendment changes the length of terms for magistrates. Currently, magistrates serve two-year terms. This amendment sets an initial term of two years. Subsequent terms will be for four years.

A magistrate is an officer of the court who is authorized to hear small claims civil disputes, issue search and arrest warrants and set criminal bonds, in addition to other duties.

If a majority of voters approve this amendment, it will become effective Jan. 1, 2005 and applies to appointments that take effect after the date.

No-Excuse Voting Available Until Oct. 30

Voters in Davie County may go to their respective polling locations on Nov. 2 to cast their ballot to select president/vice president of the United States; a US Senator; 5th Congressional District Member of Congress; Governor of NC; and other state officials; Davie Register of Deeds, and three county commissioners.

There will be non-partisan elections for Supreme Court Associate Justice; Court of Appeals Judges; District Court Judges, and a Soil & Water Conservation District Supervisor.

When going to the polls voters will find three North Carolina Constitutional Amendments to be voted on.

The deadline for registering, or for making address changes to be eligible to vote in the Nov. 2 elections was Friday, Oct. 8.

Voting by mail will be available until 5 p.m., Tuesday, Oct. 26. Requests for ballots to be mailed must be made by the voter, or on their behalf by a member of their immediate family or verifiable legal guardian. Any request made through the mail, must contain the signature of the voter. Mailed ballots must be returned to the election office by 5 p.m., Monday, Nov. 1 to be eligible for counting.

No excuse/one stop voting began in the elections office, Thursday, Oct. 14 and will be available Monday-Friday, 8 a.m.-6 p.m., through Friday, Oct. 29. The office will be open, Saturday, Oct. 23 and Saturday, Oct. 30, 8 a.m.-1 p.m.

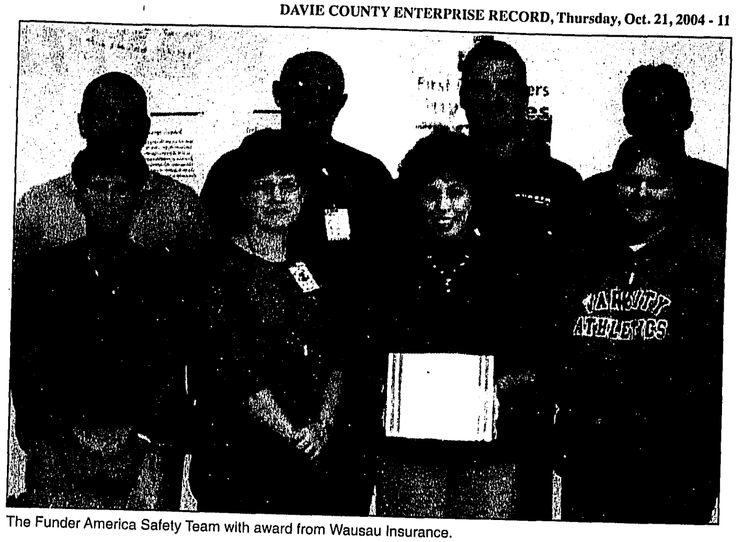
The only exception will be for sick or disabled voters who may vote until 5 p.m., Monday, Nov. 1.

QU Banquet Is Nov. 4

The Quail Unlimited annual banquet will be held Thursday, Nov. 4 at 6 p.m. at Bermuda Run Country Club.

For tickets, call Steve Myers at 751-3207.

Keeping It Safe
Funder Honored For Commitment To Employees



The Funder America Safety Team with award from Wausau Insurance.

Funder America Inc of Mocksville received Wausau Insurance's Silver Safety Award for a continuing commitment to safety.

The award was presented by Mark Irvine, Wausau Insurance Loss Prevention Service Director, to Linda Hockenberry, human resource manager, and members of the Funder America Safety Team on Oct. 12.

Funder America achieved a significant safety achievement by working 207,961 hours with a "0" lost time incident rate. The Silver Safety Award signifies that Funder America was at least 70 percent better than the published lost time incident rate for its industry.

Funder America, founded in 1973, is the premier producer of melamine panels and components. Headquartered in Mocksville, Funder operates three manufacturing facilities in North Carolina, Arkansas and North Dakota.

Sports

Flexing Muscles: Rice, Defense Overwhelm West

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

The Davie varsity football team's defense had squeezed the life out of six of seven opponents coming into Friday's Central Piedmont Conference opener against visiting West Forsyth. But what it really took for the defense to be fully appreciated was for its offense to struggle - by its standards - in a 17-3 victory.

The high-powered offense came in averaging 40 points a game. Cooter Arnold was averaging 9.8 yards per carry, Justin Brown was averaging 124 rushing yards and Davie had scored at least 28 points in seven victories. But on a night when it was missing fullback Jamar Bratcher - who had surgery to repair torn ligaments in a broken finger - the War Eagles were held to 294 yards, the first game below 394 since week three against Crest. Three other factors took some gleam off Davie's victory margin: A blown call on a blocked field goal took away one touchdown, and another blown call on a blocked punt and a fumble at the West 1 eliminated two more potential TDs.

But the War Eagles (8-0, 1-0 CPC) were more dominant than the margin suggests because they choked West's offense throughout the game. The Titans had as many punts as first downs (six), and they managed just 110 yards.

We've not seen many defenses like this one. It's given up 23 points in the last five games, an average of 10 per game and West wouldn't have scored without a 44-yard run setting up a 39-yard field goal. The run came after Davie blocked a punt and West picked it up 3 yards over the line of scrimmage. By rule, the punting team can't advance a blocked punt unless the ball's recovered behind the line of scrimmage.

"Offensively they've got some talent, but that defense is what everybody needs to start talking about over here," West coach Russell Stone said. "I know their offense is glitz, glamour and high hypo, but that defense is something."

From the start, it was apparent that it was going to be a long day for West. Logan Buchanan met Denorris Johnson 3 yards in the backfield on West's first play, D.J. Rice barreled in to clean him up, and the Titans picked up 3 yards on their first four plays.

No one has made bigger strides since last year than the linebacker who commands the spotlight every game. D.J. Rice has gone from very good to unbelievable, making 133 tackles in 14 games as a junior and entering the ninth game of his senior year with 102.

Rice's brilliance in Friday's 17-3 win over West Forsyth got the attention of Titans coach Russell Stone.

"I know nobody will put Rice in (Derek) Nicholson's class, but to me they're the same player," Stone said. Nicholson is the Mount Tabor linebacker who is being recruited by everybody in the country. "They both did the same thing against us. Rice and Nicholson are the same size and the same player. But Nicholson's got a name, (while Rice is getting modest Division I-A interest)."

Rice's linebacker buddies have been remarkable, with each having huge moments at different times for a defense that is holding opponents to 10 points a game. Besides Rice's 25 tackles for losses, Dustin Morgan has 71 tackles, Logan Buchanan 58 and Chris Goode and Jaspen Gray 47 each. You can't give them nearly enough praise.

But yet, the defensive line is overdue for some attention. Rice's double-figure tackles is what fans always remember. Goode and Buchanan's quarterback nightmares and Morgan and Gray's outside smackdowns are the only things that matter to fans. Tackles Zac O'Brien and Ted Randolph, nose guard Bubba Boger and their fierce backups (Terrell Wilson, Harry Brown and Corey Chambers) lie in the weeds while the linebackers get the attention. Meanwhile, O'Brien, Randolph and Boger perform the grunt work, the stuff that usually only gets noticed in film session.

"The reason (the linebackers) are able to make tackles is because our D-line is penetrating and causing havoc," linebacker coach/defensive coordinator Devore Holman said. "Their offensive linemen have not been able to get off to get to our linebackers because they're having to put two on one to try to stop the front guys. Our D-line is a major contributor to our linebackers being successful."

Added DL coach Tilden Carter: "It's the little things they do that really help us."

Worth Noting ...

Dylan Reynolds' second-half goal gave Davie varsity soccer a 1-0 win over SW Randolph. Chris Wantuch has had an "unbelievable two weeks," Jeremy Byrd said.

Mark Huggins made nine team-high tackles and Kenneth Brown rushed for 98 yards as Davie JV football ran its 2003-04 winning streak to 12 with a 19-6 win over W. Forsyth.

Cooter Arnold rushed for 153 yards as Davie varsity football remained spotless with a 17-3 win over W. Forsyth. D.J. Rice had 13 tackles, including five for a loss, and blocked a FG. Logan Buchanan, Chris Goode, Zac O'Brien and Dustin Morgan had between seven and 10 tackles.

Justin Joplin rushed for 157 yards and QB Zach Long and John Flowers connected on a 68-yard TD pass as N. Davie 7th football crushed China Grove 37-0.

Michael Rowe of N. Davie soccer scored the first three goals of the game in a 6-0 win over Forsyth Country Day. He had 24 goals in an 11-0 season.

Jevin Scott of S. Davie 7th football rushed for 173 yards and two TDs in an 18-12 loss to 6-2 Knox. Coach Todd Bumgarner said Justin Miller played a whale of a defensive game.

Knox was within 14-6, but Perry James (50-yard run) and Drew Absher (58-yard INT return) scored TDs less than a minute apart as the S. Davie 8th football rolled to 6-0 with a 44-14 win.

Jack Rooney of Davie JV soccer made 12 saves in a 0-0 tie with N. Davidson.

Unbeatable: North Soccer Bullies FCD

Back on Aug. 26, Atticus Lum delivered a tiebreaking goal late in the second half to give North Davie's soccer team a 4-3 win over South Davie. Little did North know that that would be its only real test of the season.

The Wildcats capped a perfect season with last week's 6-0 win over Forsyth Country Day, and they accomplished 11-0 with ridiculous ease, outscoring opponents 52-14. Seven of their victories were by at least three goals, and after the opener against S. Davie no one was in position late in the game to knock off Coach John Marshall's club.

"They wanted this really bad," he said. "They wanted to be perfect."

In the second-to-last game, Michael Rowe was hindered by a bad hamstring and went scoreless for the first time all year. After giving the hamstring five days of rest, Rowe was his customary self, notching his fifth hat trick by scoring the first three goals.

The eighth grader finished with 24 goals, or 46 percent of the team's total. His fellow eighth-grade captains, Jordan Kinder and Kurtis Keiser, were equally dazzling in their supporting roles.

"I can't say enough about my leadership from Rowe, Kinder and Keiser," Marshall said.

The other eighth graders were Austin Baity, Mitchell Boles, Sean Griffin and Josh Parks. Marshall put the seven eighth graders on the field together for the final 15 minutes, and euphoria overtook him as he watched them close the book on an unforgettable ride.

"Boles and Parks came up huge in the back," he said, "Griffin shared time with Joel Stiling at keeper, but came up with some big saves. Baity gave us a lot of good stuff throughout the year as well."

1-2 Punch: South 8th Graders Move To 6-0

The South Davie eighth-grade football highlight film could just about go on forever. Last week the unbeaten Tigers were facing a 5-1 Knox team that was trying to pull an upset and forge a first-place tie, but South's highlight film only got better.

The main ingredients in a 44-14 South bashing - the 14th win in two years, without a loss - were Perry James and Drew Absher.

James took center stage after Knox had scored to cut South's lead to 14-6. The first TD of the season against South turned out to be what a picking ticket on the windshield is to Donald Trump. With a minute left in the first half, James took a reverse handoff, rode a powerful block from fullback Santana Arnold and sped 50 yards for a 20-6 lead.

With 20 seconds left in the half, the often-forgotten member of South's fearsome lineup devastated Knox more. Absher, who had gotten beat deep as South gave up its first points since last year's game with Knox, redeemed himself with an interception and 58-yard TD return.

That made the score 28-6, and not surprisingly, the suspense was all but over at halftime.

"Absher let a guy get behind him (earlier)," Coach Todd Bumgarner said. "Instead of turning and running, he was backpedaling and he backpedaled too long. Knox has some good athletes and it went right over the free safety and Absher's hands. The guy caught it with one hand and staggered into the end zone.

"Drew probably made his mind up right there that he wasn't going to get beat again, and he came back and made a super play. The interception wasn't nearly as impressive as the return was. He made a heckuva run. He changed

Davie Puts Jacobs, Cornatzer In Hall Of Fame

Davie's unbeaten football team has some awfully good players. When it's all said and done, a few of them could go down among the best that's ever played at their positions. But one of the most hallowed football names of all time was on the field at halftime of Friday's 17-3 win over visiting West Forsyth.

Most of the people at War Eagle Stadium had never heard of Chris Jacobs, but man, could he play. Jacobs, who was enshrined in the Davie High Athletic Hall of Fame with Neil Cornatzer, played football, basketball and track, graduating in 1984 and currently coaching high-school football in Louisiana.

Jacobs, 38, was Davie's MVP in basketball and was a sectional champion in the shot put in track. But football was his calling card. As a 1983 senior, he was all-state at defensive tackle. He played in the Shrine Bowl and was an East-West All-Star. He earned a football scholarship to North Carolina, and as a redshirt freshman he won second-team All-America honors from Sporting News. On UNC's DL, he started portions of two years and all of his senior year, 1988.

Cornatzer, 26, was the face of Davie male athletics from 1994-96. In football, he was the quarterback and safety in 1995. He walked on at Appalachian State University, earned a scholarship and eventually started at fullback.

Amazingly, football wasn't his best sport. Davie has won two state championships as a team since joining the North Carolina High School Athletic Association in 1977, and Cornatzer was a driving force in both as Davie captured wrestling titles in 1994 and 1995.

Individually, Cornatzer finished second in the state in 1994, then never lost again. He went all the way in 1995 and 1996, riding into the sunset with 79 straight wins. The two-time state champ's final record was 106-4. Even more noteworthy was what he did to one particular rival, a superstar from South

SD Coach Sees Bright Side In Loss To Knox

The South Davie seventh-grade football team's bid for an upset at Knox came up short last week, but nothing short of a remarkable performance would have extended South's three-game winning streak.

Knox, which finished its season 6-2, was the better team, but the Tigers managed to keep it competitive. Having the ball last - across midfield - in an 18-12 decision was all Coach Todd Bumgarner could have hoped for.

"Knox has a good team and to have a chance to win at the end, we did a super job," he said.

South's offense leaned on tailback/quarterback Jevin Scott, and he carried the Tigers (4-2) as far as he could. After Knox struck first, Scott broke a touchdown run for a 6-6 tie.

The key juncture of the game came with Knox up 12-6 and South driving inside Knox's 30. Scott ran for a first down, but fumbled the ball away as the score remained 12-6 at halftime.

Knox turned another South fumble into points for an 18-6 bulge, but Scott answered with a long run that set up his short TD. That pulled South to 18-12.

Knox barely outlasted Scott's feisty effort - 173 rushing yards on 19 carries. South ran 26 plays, and the workhorse star had a hand in 21 of them. Scott attempted two passes and completed one, for 11 yards, to Josh Berryhill.

It was South's first loss since losing to undefeated West Rowan in game two.

"I think they've overachieved a little," Bumgarner said. "They play with a lot of heart and courage. They poured their hearts out on the field, and they were upset after the game."

Justin Miller had an efficient 34 yards on five runs, and he performed with authority on defense, making a ton of tackles and helping keep a fourth straight opponent under 20 points.

"Miller played a whale of a defensive game," said Bumgarner, who also cited the blocking of Zach Green and Chris Hurt.

South had a shot in the dying seconds, crossing midfield and letting Scott either sling deep balls or take off toward the corner. But Knox's size and speed were too much.

Notes: Now the Tigers face a tough finish. They played at Erwin in an Oct. 18 makeup game, and they host North Davie Oct. 21 at 4:30 p.m. They will have their hands full with Justin Joplin, Zach Long, John Flowers, Matt Speer and the 4-1-1 Wildcats. ... Scott, standing at 769 yards, needs to rush for 231 in the last two games to reach the 1,000 milestone.

James, Absher Allow South Eighth To Roll

directions a couple times, waited on a couple blocks, and then kicked it in gear and cross-fielded them as they were heading him off. That tickled me."

Knox answered to make it a two-score game at 28-14, but South quickly regained control and won going away. James was unstoppable, rushing for 129 yards on 10 carries and scoring two touchdowns. James Mayfield also scored two touchdowns as South averaged 7.8 yards per rushing attempt, which was actually a subpar effort.

And how about the play of quarterback Zach Illing, who went 3 of 3 for 37 yards with completions to Shyteek Brown, Mayfield and Chris Sponaugle. There's been so much talk about South's scary skill people, but Illing has progressed as much as anyone since last year.

"He's unsung," Bumgarner said. "He made a couple real good plays. One time we snapped it over his head, he ran back and picked it up, and still got a completion out of it. On a two-point conversion, he pump faked, drifted to the left and found the second option (with a crafty lob pass to James). Zach's a good field general. He probably knows what I'm thinking before I call a play."

South didn't get its seventh consecutive shutout dating to last year, but that didn't bother Bumgarner nearly as much as it did his players. Knox's first score was an amazing, offbalance catch. On the play that set up Knox's second score, defender Brandon Walls got his hand on a third-down pass, but Knox came down with it at the South 30 and drove the rest of the way.

But don't forget that Knox's output against South was 12 points better last year.

"Shutting everybody out is unrealistic, I don't care how good you are," Bumgarner said. "But they took a lot of pride in that, and they were pretty mad."

Notes: The Tigers are two wins from a repeat perfect season. They host North Davie (2-4) on Oct. 20 at 4:30, and they close at Erwin in an Oct. 25 makeup game. Erwin's only loss was 12-6 to West Rowan. ... Mayfield has 536 rushing yards, James 534.

North Softball Finishes Third For Fourth Straight Year

The North Davie softball team's long run of success is bittersweet.

For the fourth straight year, the Wildcats finished well above .500 and in third place in the nine-team Mid-South Conference.

But for the fourth straight year, they couldn't get over the Erwin-West Rowan hump.

In the MSC Tournament last week, third-seeded North cruised past No. 6 China Grove in the first round, 17-6. It was all but over in the first inning as North raced to an 8-1 lead. Jordan Schultz rapped three hits and Megan Marshall handled the pitching. Sarah Evans and Katie Walker had two hits each, and Annelise Chesnee, Kellie Brown and Kelsey Crisco added one hit.

North's hopes for a semifinal upset were quickly dashed by No. 2 West Rowan, which grabbed a 2-1 lead in the bottom of the first, took total control with a five-run second and eliminated North 11-4.

North struck out eight times and only got four hits. Two of the hits came from Schultz, who put together an amazing season and banged around the best pitchers in the league. Late in the regular season, she even got a hit off Erwin's unhittable pitcher. Evans and Walker had North's other two hits vs. W. Rowan.

The Wildcats, who went 8-4 in 2001, 9-3 in 2002 and 10-3 in 2003, finished 8-4. Three of their losses were to Erwin and West Rowan, which lost 12-2 to the 13-0 Eagles in the championship.

"We're pleased," Coach Jamie Lyerly said. "We'd like to be in first or second, but they improved throughout the season."

S. Davie Falls Early

Fourth-seeded South Davie lost to No. 5 Southeast 8-5 in the first round. Its record was 6-3 before getting blasted by N. Davie in the regular-season finale and losing to Southeast after beating the Patriots 9-5 in the first meeting.

Still, the Tigers could hold their heads up for two big reasons: They finished 6-5 after going 0-11 last year, and it was their first winning season since 1997.

"We did not meet all the goals set at the start of the season, but (assistants) Keith Handy and Mike Wyatt and I are proud of how hard they worked in bringing a winning season together for the first time in years," Coach Mike McDougall said. "We're already looking toward next year, and with six returning starters we plan on building on the foundation established this year."

Beltran, Pino South Soccer Win

South Davie's soccer team went crazy against Triad Academy last week, getting goals from seven players and winning 10-0.

"We really played like a team, and we finished our plays as well as our shots," said an elated Eric Zyglys, the first-year coach. "I was very impressed with our disciplined play and positioning on the field. All the players seem to be grasping the game as a whole."

Jose Beltran, the team's constant offensive threat, had an ho-hum day, scoring three goals. Oscar Pino, the starting goal keeper, pitched a shutout, then switched to forward and added to the offensive fun with two second-half goals.

"These two guys should be watched and will definitely be contributing next year at the high-school level," Zyglys said.

South poured it on by getting goals from Omar Granadero, Will Evans, Jorge Teran, Victor Navarro and Josh McDaniel. "The whole team deserves a big congratulations for a great game," he said.

Rowe Hat Trick Caps Perfect Season

Francisco Romero and Lum pushed North's lead to 5-0 by halftime, and Jake McKay tacked on the only goal of the second half. Lum was the chief giver all season, and this day was no different. He handed out four assists, with Kinder accounting for the other assist.

Marshall's 11 seventh graders roamed the field for the first 15 minutes of the second half, and the coach has a feeling more good things are ahead in 2005.

"I got to see what the future holds," he said. "I'm going to miss my eighth graders, but I am looking forward to next year. I'm hoping they'll be able to carry the load and continue the nice streak we've got going. We'll have a big eighth-grade core, which is something I really haven't had the luxury of having in any of the years I've been coaching."

Notes: The 11-0 record was quite a jump from last year's 5-5-1. ... Kinder was second with 7 goals. Keiser had 6, Lum 4.

Long Helps North 7th Enjoy Dominating Win

North Davie's seventh-grade football team bolsters its image a little more every game. Last week the Wildcats hammered visiting China Grove 37-0.

They've been clicking since a 14-14 triple-overtime tie with Erwin, and they attacked every way possible against the Red Devils. Justin Joplin rushed for 157 yards, and John Flowers and Matt Speer added 67 and 51 yards on the ground, respectively. All three running backs scored touchdowns, as well as quarterback Zach Long, who scampered 21 yards to the end zone on a keeper.

Long also threw for 85 yards. One of his completions was a 68-yard scoring connection with Flowers.

In their three-game winning streak, the Wildcats have outscored opponents 101-14. In the biggest game of the season, North goes to South Davie (4-2) on Oct. 21 at 4:30 p.m. North's final game is next week at Corriher-Lipe.

While the seventh Wildcats rolled, the eighth-grade team's two-game run was ruined 18-8 by China Grove. North was down 18-0 before avoiding the shutout.

The eighth-grade contest between N. Davie and S. Davie is Oct. 20 at South. North's eighth finishes next week at Corriher-Lipe.

'Cats Pick Up 14th Volleyball Triumph

The North Davie volleyball team's final match of the season went much like the previous 10. The Wildcats beat Forsyth Country Day 25-11, 20-25, 15-8 to not only close the season with an 11-match winning streak, but also set a record for wins.

Coach Trish King's 1996 and 1999 teams finished 13-1, but this one went 14-2. And with Amber Parrish, Samantha Maready, Susanna MacFarlane, Halie Cartner, Sarah Martin and Carly Pratapas displaying milk-and-cookies chemistry in the starting lineup, North captured 22 of 25 games during the winning streak.

"This has been one of my favorite teams, and it would have been even if we had a losing record," King said. "We had chemistry and I hate that it's over."

Game one was an exercise in excellence as Parrish, Pratapas, Maready, Martin and MacFarlane took turns showing their value.

"They looked like they were ready to play JV volleyball (at Davie). They were at the level I wanted at the end of the season," King said. "Parrish was doing an excellent job going to the net. We had some nice sets and hits from Pratapas, Maready and Martin. And MacFarlane played a great serving game and had some awesome saves. She saved us in some spots by diving on the floor to get it."

After losing game two, North took the decisive game easily. That was largely due to the serving of Cartner and MacFarlane, who caught heat from King and then responded with a vengeance.

"I got mad at MacFarlane for a slip-up," King said. "I kind of yelled at her one time, and I think it made her determined to do better, and she served wonderfully.

"The passes were great, the serves were great and it was a great way to end the season."

Nell Cornatzer and Chris Jacobs are the newest inductees into the Davie High athletic hall of fame.

Chris Jacobs, Neil Cornatzer In Hall

Rowan. Chris Kotish went 32-4 as a 1995-96 senior, and all four losses were administered by Cornatzer.

Cornatzer credited all his coaches at Shady Grove, North Davie and Davie, and parents Kathy and Emery.

"It's definitely a big honor being apart of that," he said. "I just feel fortunate. I had a bunch of great coaches all the way up from little league to high school - starting with people like Jerry Riddle in football (at Shady Grove), going to North Davie and playing for Sam Beck and Ron Kirk, and then at high school I had Randall Ward, Buddy Lowery and Matt Wilson. They kind of molded me, and I have good parents, too. Nothing was ever pressured. They're the best support I ever had."

Being mentioned in the same breath with Cornatzer and the other 15 hall of fame members left Jacobs humbled.

"It was a humbling experience to tell you the truth," he said. "I don't know if it's because I'm getting old, but it's really nice that years down the road something like this happens. It's definitely nothing you think about when it's going on.

"To stand there with a two-time state champion - I didn't know Neil at all but I'd heard about him - sort of put it in perspective. You're sitting there going: 'Dang, things were good.' It was some of the best times of my life."

Notes: This was Davie's fourth hall of fame class. ... After graduating from App in 2001, Cornatzer was a college assistant football coach at Rice and Richmond for three years. He is back home in Advance and plans to coach on the high-school level in the future. ... Jacobs is in his 13th year at St. Joseph Academy, a private school in Tensas, La. This is his eighth year as head football coach, and his team entered this Friday at 6-3. ... Down the road, most likely next summer, there will be profile stories - with pictures and quotes from former coaches and teammates - on the careers of Jacobs and Cornatzer.

CONGRATULATIONS

To last week's winners in our Football Contest

First Place = $25 to William Cannon
Second Place = $5 to Ronnie Robertson

It was about as close as it could be this week as both our top contestants missed 5 games each and were just 1 point apart in the tie-breaker. Congrats to William Cannon for pulling out this most narrow of victories to take first place. Second goes to Ronnie Robertson who came just a breath away from the top prize.

This week it seemed almost every entry missed 1 or 2 of the first 3 games. I was started getting a little nervous when I came to one who did not miss a game in the first 7. But alas, perfection was not in the picture for this contestant who proceeded to miss 19 of the remaining 27 games.

And just for the record, there were STILL a few unbelievers who picked against our own Davie High War Eagles. You know who you are!

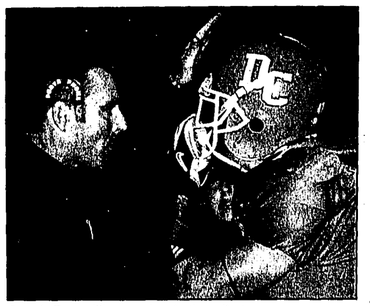
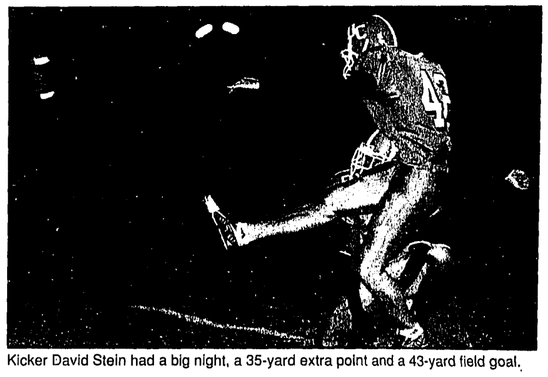
Coach Doug Illing wasn't happy about the officiating.

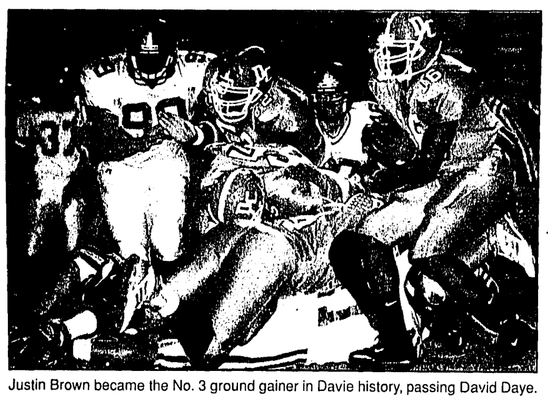


Coach Doug Illing applauds the effort.

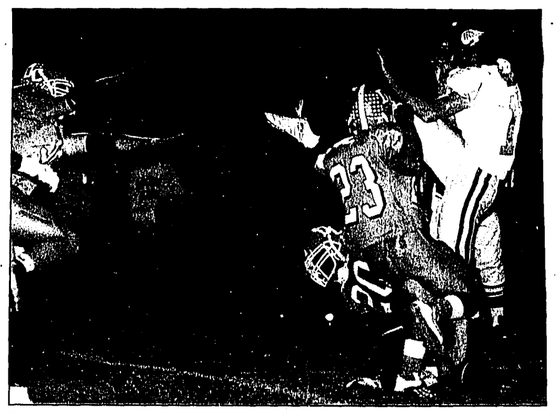
D.J. Rice throws a block for Cooter Arnold, who had a quiet 153 yards.



Kicker David Stein had a big night, a 35-yard extra point and a 43-yard field goal.



Justin Brown became the No. 3 ground gainer in Davie history, passing David Daye.



Dustin Morgan (20), ReShaun Parks (23) and Zac O'Brien (left) pressure the punter.

Just look at what Rice, the late-blooming Division I prospect, did: 13 tackles, including eight solos and five for lost yardage. If that's not enough, he had the field-goal block.

Rice was only one of several standouts. Buchanan had 10 tackles, Chris Goode and Zac O'Brien eight each, Dustin Morgan seven, Jaspen Gray six, Raeshon McNeil five and Ted Randolph four. O'Brien and Morgan had sacks and Harry Brown came off the bench to bury a Titan for minus yardage.

"The guys up front are real good, too," Stone said of Randolph, O'Brien, Bubba Boger, H. Brown, Terrell Wilson and Corey Chambers. "They overpowered us. I knew their offense was outstanding, but their defense is what impressed me the most. Their (speed) is close to (unbeaten Mount) Tabor's. Davie's more sound than Tabor. They're not quite as fast, but Davie's more sound and Davie's linebackers are comparable to Tabor's."

Davie was motivated by back-to-back losses to the Titans and three straight home losses to them since 1996. The War Eagles built a 14-0 lead, went into halftime ahead 17-3 and sat on the cushion in the second half.

All the talk afterward was about Davie's defensive stand late in the third quarter. West ran seven plays from inside Davie's 9, but got nothing because of Gray and Morgan, who forced a field-goal try with a third-down sack. That's when Rice got his block.

"Some of them wanted me to go to West this year, but I stayed at Davie and I wanted to get a little payback for the last couple years," said Goode, who moved to Clemmons last summer. "Now that I live over there I'm friends with some of them - but not in football. We rocked them."

West averaged 2 yards on the ground and went 0-for-10 on third downs. Quarterback Shawn Porter, the West backbone, was harassed into 5-of-14 passing and 12 yards on 13 rushes.

The list goes on. Jake Porter, a junior who played for Davie's JV as a freshman, ran five times for 7 yards. When Rob Johnson spelled a shaken Shawn Porter, he misfired on 4 of 5 passes. And 40 percent of West's offense came on the bizarre blocked punt.

"That's just Davie County football," shrugged Rice. "We don't expect nothing less."

Davie's offense was missing a sparkplug with Bratcher on the sideline nursing the injured hand, his loss disrupting a formula that clicked like a well-oiled machine with Arnold at quarterback and Brown and Bratcher on his wings.

Davie used that scheme when Rice went to fullback on Davie's third series. And what a series it was. Rice more than compensated for Bratcher, bulling over people for 9, 11 and 13 yards and sparking a 14-play, 80-yard drive. After back-to-back carries, Rice blocked for Arnold (153 rushing yards) and knocked a West linebacker into oblivion. On Rice's third carry, he dragged a defender to the 5. After a penalty backed Davie up, Arnold swept right, used nifty footwork on a DB and scored an 11-yard TD. David Stein added the extra point for a 7-0 lead.

"With Jamar out, we needed somebody to step in, they asked me to do it and I was all for it," Rice said. "A lot of that's credit to the offense line (Randolph, Ryan Boehm, T.A. Steele, Jordan Grimes, Dion Cody, Zach Yokley and Michael Murphy). I had big holes to run through."

The Rice move couldn't have gone more smoothly. But after Brown put Davie ahead 14-0 - he overpowered West's superstar sophomore, John Stamper, a can't-miss Division I prospect, and got a nice block from receiver Zach Vogler on a 5-yard TD run - Rice didn't play anymore offense. Illing's logic: The way Davie's defense was playing, there was no reason to use Rice both ways and risk injury.

"The players really felt a lift about him coming in the game and he gave us a big punch," Illing said of Rice. "He's been working back there all year, he just hasn't had the opportunity and we don't want to abuse it too much. But when we've got to have him, we're going to use him."

On the first play of the third quarter, West tried trickery to spark a comeback from 17-3. Shawn Porter flipped the ball to No. 2 QB Rob Johnson, who faked a run right and threw left in the flats to Shawn Porter. Kurt Bivins and Chris Goode weren't fooled, their footsteps causing an incompletion. Jake Porter caught a screen pass later in the series, but Goode came up with a monster hit at the line of scrimmage.

The pesky Titans made something happen when Travis Hixon went over the middle and hauled in a 35-yard completion to the Davie 15. They had Davie worried on first-and-goal at the 5. But with West 5 yards from making it a brand new game, Jake Porter was stuffed on first down and Shawn Porter lost 4 when Gray snowed him under from behind.

West was still in perfect position to change the game's complexion when Parks was whistled for pass interference. On first down, Morgan stuffed Stamper with a shoestring tackle. Same deal on third down as Morgan sacked Johnson, who never had a chance to elude Morgan's filthy arms.

"I was too aggressive. I was trying too hard for a hit and I should have had three sacks," said Morgan. "Coach (Keith Whitaker) was on me and I had to get smart and forget about the big hit."

West couldn't even get three points out of it because Rice blocked a 32-yard field goal on the 10th play from inside Davie's 16.

"That's defense," O'Brien said. "You know you have a good defense when you can stop a team that many times inside the freaking 5."

"We kept (S. Porter, a sophomore) on his heels," Illing said. "With his inexperience, we thought if we could get people in his face we could force him to throw the ball a lot sooner than he wanted. He never could get set."

Arnold scooped Rice's blocked field goal and waltzed 80 yards with a convoy around him. But the TD was negated by an inadvertent whistle. It was the second time that Illing was livid at officials, who also let West's 44-yard play stand after the blocked punt.

"We got an unbelievable break on whatever that call was on the blocked punt," Stone said.

"It was a mess-up by the ref," Illing said of Arnold's TD return. "And that's all he could say: 'What do you want me to do, couch?' "

While Davie's defense was brilliant again, Davie's offense was not a happy unit. Arnold (153 yards on 31 carries) finished just 10 yards below his average, but he averaged a mortal 4.9 yards per run and only broke four double-figure runs. Davie churned out 19 first downs and 294 yards, but Brown (76 yards on 17 carries) was held 48 yards below his average.

Some of that can be attributed to Stamper, a one-man wrecking crew, and a West defense that hasn't allowed more than 21 points.

"We played Davie well," Stone said. "I looked at two of their games on tape and it looked like a track meet, people running up and down the field, and that didn't happen. It probably hurt that Bratcher couldn't play and Cooter couldn't do his thing at quarterback."

"We were sloppy," Illing said. "It's tough to get back to game speed after a (bye) week."

"We were missing something on offense," cornerback McNeil said. "Because it's not like those boys to score 17 points."

Notes: Stein had a head-turning night, making one extra point from 35 yards out and putting a 43-yard FG right down the gut. "When he can step up and produce in crucial times, that's big for our team," Illing said. "The thing he's got to do now is come back (this) week and do the same." ... The downside to Davie's win was a sprained foot to Randolph, a vital presence at tight end and defensive tackle. ... Stone said the officials - there were 10 penalties on each team - didn't understand the emotions in the rivalry. "It was unfortunate so many (15-yard) penalties were called on both teams," he said. ... Brown passed David Daye for third place in career rushing yards. At 2,964 yards, he needs 133 to supplant Ricky White for second.

Arnold Deciding Between Carolina, Clemson

Auburn was Cooter Arnold's top choice until recently, but now he has narrowed his college football list to two schools - North Carolina and Clemson, according to Rivals.com.

"I like the football programs at both of those schools, and I'm comfortable with the coaches I've talked to from each place," Arnold said. "That's just where I'm at right now."

Davie's senior quarterback/tailback made an official visit to Clemson last Saturday. "I should be (visiting UNC) before too long," he said.

JV Football Beats West; Winning Streak Now At 12

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

The Davie JV offense wasn't firing on all pistons in last week's Central Piedmont Conference opener at West Forsyth, but it hardly mattered as Davie's defense continued its habit of making a mess out of the opponent's offense.

West used three completions to knot the score at 6-6 - both teams failed on their PATs - but Mark Huggins and Davie's defense didn't let anything else happen in a 19-6 victory.

"You could tell we'd been off (two weeks). We were rusty early on, and we hadn't been in that position (with the score tied) since Crest back in week two," Coach Tilden Carter said after Davie improved to 7-0. "So it was a good opportunity to see how our kids were going to respond in a tight situation. There was a lot of jawing back and forth, and we had to keep our composure. Defensively we stepped up. We started tackling better, taking better angles and held them scoreless the rest of the game."

The win pushed the War Eagles' overall winning streak to 12 and their CPC winning streak to 13: A 21-19 loss to W. Forsyth in 2001 is Davie's last CPC defeat.

Huggins (nine tackles) was in the middle of much of West's offensive trouble, but Brandon Stewart (six tackles), Wesley Turner (four), Bucky Sheppard (three), Justin Thompson (three) and Trent Brooks played prominent roles for a unit that has allowed 34 points on the season and only 21 in the last five games. Though Brooks only had two tackles, he broke up a pass to a receiver that appeared wide open and might have gone for six points.

Cornerback Whit Merrifield rose to the occasion when it was the moment of truth. Davie up 12-6, West was at the Davie 10 and it was fourth-and-goal. West called a fade in the corner of the end zone to its tall receiver, but Merrifield, who had missed the last two and a half games with a pulled hamstring, timed his leap just right and knocked the pass away.

Davie scored shortly later to put the game out of reach.

"I knew a fade was coming because they'd been throwing to (No.) 81 all night," Merrifield said. "I guess they saw that I was limping. (My hamstring) is still not 100 percent, but it's good enough to come back and try to help my team."

"To play on a leg and three-quarters, that says a lot for his competitiveness and how hard he worked to get back," Carter said.

Huggins, Sheppard and Stewart swarmed a receiver an instant after a completion, and Stewart's flying hit knocked the ball loose. On West's last possession, Quinton Faulkner came out of nowhere for an interception.

"He was playing his man, and he jumped the out route on the sideline, which was a great play by him," Carter said of Faulkner. "That really sealed the deal for us."

Still, the hit that triggered the most high-fives came from Thompson. The outside linebacker came roaring up on a running play and blasted the ball carrier.

"It was ferocious," Carter said. "It seems like somebody gets a knockout hit every game, and tonight was his."

The offensive catalyst was tailback Kenneth Brown, who rushed for 98 yards on 14 carries. He dominated the game's first scoring drive, taking a fourth-and-11 draw 37 yards and scoring from 8 yards out. He is averaging 113 yards in the last three games.

Fullback Daniel Gough was terrific in a complementary role (55 yards on eight carries), and the Garrett Benge-Josh Eder combination did its usual damage. Benge went 5 of 7, and three of the completions went to Eder, who caught all of them around the line of scrimmage. Each time he darted and stutter-stepped for nice yards.

"I guess they were lined up so deep, and whenever you're deep it's hard to cover something like that," Eder said.

Benge hasn't thrown an interception all season, and the streak spans 66 attempts. Although Davie scored the fewest points since a 14-13 win over Crest in game two, the outcome was only in doubt for a minute or so leading up to Merrifield's fourth-down play.

The significance of the win, Davie's third straight in the series, wasn't lost on the players.

"West is the biggest rivalry and it's great to win," Gough said.

"That's the biggest game by far," Thompson said. "I know a lot of them, and it feels good to beat team."

Notes: Benge's finest completion involved tight end Nic O'Brien, who went over the middle on third-and-8, covered 20 yards and set up the TD that sealed the game at 19-7. ... Linebacker Tristan Hairston was smiling from ear to ear. "We didn't come out playing Davie football, but we played Davie football in the second half," he said. ... It's Easy To Underestimate D-Line

Randolph is a future tight end for Wake Forest, but he's pretty darn good on the other side of the ball. O'Brien is one of the most underrated players on the team. Despite playing away from his natural position at outside linebacker, where he could blitz and make the 11:30 news, he's fourth in tackles (53), second in tackles for minus yards (seven) and second in sacks (four).

"He wants to be real successful, and he's real coachable," Carter said. "He calls me every Sunday and wants to know what he graded. He asks about his stats last. It's: 'What did I do wrong? What do I have to get better at?' He really strives for that.

"He was dropping back to the flats in pass coverage the other day, and I looked at (OLB coach Keith) Whitaker and said: 'He looks like a natural there, doesn't he?' He's out of position, but he makes up his size with quickness and technique."

Nearly three months after the first practice, it's evident that Boger came into his junior year as a major sleeper. He was third on the depth chart in August and didn't play much in the opener. He fought his way up to starter in week two and hasn't let up.

"He's going to get double-teamed. He's somebody that's really drawing attention," Holman said. "He wrestles so he understands leverage. It's hard to single block Bubba. If you have to use a guard and center on him, that frees Rice up."

"Bubba's a big-time gamer," Carter said.

Another huge surprise has been backup tackle Harry Brown, who has exploded as a little-known senior. He transferred from Reynolds and played JV as a sophomore, but didn't play last year.

"He gives us 15-20 quality snaps a game and lets Ted have a breather," Carter said. "We don't have that intimidating force when Harry's in there, but we don't lose anything. He shot through like a rocket (on a reverse vs. N. Forsyth). He was past the tackle before the tackle took a step."

Rice not only is rolling toward one of the finest defensive seasons in Davie history, he's become a beautiful leader. He treats football like he would a job, taking home film every week and hammering the offense's tendencies until it's as familiar as his own team's.

"He's gotten faster and stronger and he's hungrier than I've ever seen him," Holman said. "Somebody's going to get a real good one. North Carolina checked him out, and I'm pretty sure they're pleased. He's a late bloomer as far as Division I."

Rice's insatiable thirst for consistent excellence has been contagious.

"Now Goode, Buchanan and (Brock) Flowers take film and study them," Holman said. "They can almost tell you what they're going to run when they take one step."

• Morgan, Gray and cornerbacks Joe Phillips and Kurt Bivins have earned gratitude from their respective coaches.

Whitaker said of Morgan and Gray: "Gray's got a good role model in Morgan. Dusty can play. Watch him sometime. Watch Morgan get on them. He's a coach on the field.

"I think a lot of people are trying to run away from Morgan, which means they test Gray, and I think he's more than held his own. He's made tremendous strides. North Forsyth tried to go away from Morgan. Gray's athleticism and intelligence are going to allow him to get better. By the end of the year, he's going to be something."

Mike Rominger said of Bivins: "He's filling a good role because Cooter (Arnold) plays offense, and then Bivins plays when Cooter needs a break. He's doing a great job."

And John Bullins said of Phillips and Bivins: "The roles they play are so important. We hear about Cooter making (six INTs) and Mac Daddy (Raeshon McNeil) making tackles. Don't forget Bivins and Phillips. They may not make the spectacular play, but they will get the job done."

• Coastal Carolina is pursuing Rice and center Ryan Boehm. Coach David Bennett, who started Coastal from scratch two years ago, called recently shouting for Denzel Jamar. That would be D.J. Rice.

"And Bennett loves Boehm," Davie head coach Doug Illing said. "They want a package deal. James Madison called (Oct. 6). They want to get them down there soon. Catawba would love to have both of them. The Citadel is real excited about Boehm. And Wofford and Furman are talking to Boehm."

The recruiting doesn't end there. Catawba, Wingate and Coastal Carolina have expressed interest in Morgan. Division II schools like O'Brien. And big-time programs haven't stopped following Randolph despite his oral commitment to Wake.

"South Carolina said: 'We know he's committed, but that doesn't scare us. We still want to keep an interest in him because you never know,' " Illing said. "So they're still recruiting him."

• When Stone was comparing Rice to the highly-regarded Nicholson, he rambled on about how Davie in particular and the Central Piedmont Conference in general are somehow overshadowed year after year.

"CPC football gets put down all the time for some reason, and it's a little bit disgusting to me," he said. "Davie beat Crest and they steamrolled Freedom. They're two good teams in the West, and Davie just beat the livin' silly out of Freedom, and Davie's still down there at five or six (in the AP poll). That's a reflection on what everybody thinks of football here, and I guarantee you when playoff time comes these CPC teams will win some games. We all did last year. We were all alive week three. This area just needs a little more respect."

Davie Will Try To Keep It Going At South

One team is brimming with confidence, the other is wondering what else could go wrong. That's the story line of Friday's 7:30 Central Piedmont Conference game between visiting Davie (8-0, 1-0 CPC) and South Rowan (3-5, 0-2).

The Raiders have been on a downward spiral most of the year. They lost to Kannapolis (13-3) and Salisbury (26-19) before getting its first win (40-35) against an East Rowan team that lost for the 17th straight time. They trailed 30-0 at halftime in a 39-14 loss to West Rowan. They beat Mooresville (40-6), but needed a rally to win 35-24 over Phillip O. Berry Academy of Technology, which fell to 0-17 in its existence. And then they lost 26-9 to West Forsyth and 34-19 to Reynolds.

The Raiders have been reduced to a spoiler, and nobody expects them to give one of the top 4-A teams much of a challenge. On top of that, Davie has won seven of the past eight meetings.

But the War Eagles have to take South seriously. First, the Raiders topped W. Forsyth on the stat sheet, and who knows what happens without four South turnovers, all of them costly. And secondly, only two of Davie's seven wins over South since '96 have been blowouts. South is never a pushover. The War Eagles were lucky to escape 12-10 in 2002, and they needed a dramatic defensive stand to prevail 21-13 last year.

Reynolds, Davie's Oct. 29 opponent, is 2-0 in the CPC and has this week off - so slipping up is not an option if the War Eagles want an outright title for just the third time ever (1965, 1999 were the others).

South presents a challenge with its triple option. Darius Beaty rushed for 168 yards vs. Mooresville, and he picked up 189 in Friday's loss to Reynolds. Davie also has to worry about Keith Fuller, who rushed for 110 yards on seven carries vs. Mooresville.

South was beating quick-as-lightning Reynolds 13-12 with 6:38 left in the third, but three of South's seven turnovers helped the Demons score 21 points in a four-minute span.

"It's been a frustrating year, and tonight was the epitome of frustration," South coach Rick Vanhoy said.

Notes: Davie coach Doug Illing is hopeful fullback Jamar Bratcher will return after missing the last game. "He broke his pinky finger, tore all the ligaments and had to get a pin put in to reattach the ligaments," he said. "We hope the doctor releases him." ... The series was 8-8 through '95. Now Davie leads 15-9. ... TE/DT Ted Randolph, one of Davie's best players, sprained his ankle vs. W. Forsyth. He is doubtful.

Directions to S. Rowan: Take Hwy 601 South until you reach the 601 Bypass. Turn right and follow the bypass until yo get to US 29 South (you will cross US 70 and 150). Go about 7 miles until you come to the China Grove/US 29A business route. Follow it until you get to the Patterson Street exit (seafood restaurant beside it). Turn right and go two miles. The school is on the left.

Walker Suffers Upset

Alyson Walker finished second in the Central Piedmont Conference singles championship last week at Hanes Park in Winston-Salem, but the senior was not happy with runner-up. In fact, she was downright angry with herself, said Davie tennis coach Kerstin Plagemann.

"She just wasn't there mentally," Plagemann said.

Walker opened tournament play with a dominating 6-1, 6-1 win over North Davidson's Megan Compton. She reached the finals by topping West Forsyth's Ashley Sawyer 6-4, 6-4.

Walker was poised for the CPC's individual title. West Forsyth's Carolina Treadaway was the opponent, and Treadaway seemingly had no chance after losing to Walker 10-2 and 10-4 in two regular-season meetings.

But Walker hardly looked like the same player in the finals, losing 1-6, 2-6.

"Coming back the next day for just one match, she just didn't have it," Plagemann said.

Walker has a chance for redemption in the Midwest Regionals. She has been outstanding as the No. 1 seed, and she'll enter the regional with a 14-7 record.

Two doubles teams from Davie finished in the top five in the CPC and thus earned berths to the regional. Junior Jessica Overby and freshman Lauren Hauser went 1-1 and finished third. They beat a pair from North Davidson 6-0, 6-0 before losing to Reynolds' top tandem 1-6, 0-6. The overall record for Overby and Hauser is 9-8.

Jacquie Downing and Meredith Cheek sneaked into the regional by finishing fifth. They picked up wins of 10-7 and 10-2 before losing in the quarterfinals 3-6, 5-7. Their record on the year is 10-7.

N. Davidson Routs Davie For Perfect Conference Record

After blowing by Reynolds, Davie's varsity volleyball team succumbed to the Central Piedmont Conference's regular-season champion, North Davidson, in four games.

The Black Knights improved to 16-3 and 8-0 in the CPC by beating Davie 25-18, 18-25, 25-8, 25-15. Davie finished the regular season in a tie for third.

Carly Booth (eight) and Nicole Maready (six) paced Davie in kills, and Ashley Davidson had a team-high eight blocks. Jamie Stancliff and Grace Didenko led the way in serving, and Erin Whitaker was the top passer.

Davie (6-17, 3-5 CPC) had no problem dispatching a Reynolds team that fell to 3-14 and 1-6. Just like against N. Davidson, Maready and Booth led in kills and Davidson in blocks. Didenko and Whitaker were again the best in serving and passing, respectively.

Davie's junior varsity squad pulled a Jekyll and Hyde, playing splendidly in a 25-8, 25-19 win over Reynolds and unraveling in a 23-25, 8-25 loss to North Davidson.

First, the good part. Molly Chapple pounded out 13 ace serves and Tyara Wagner added four as Davie avenged an earlier loss to Reynolds. Wagner also had five kills, along with three from Laura Vanhoy and Tanisha Reynolds.

"We showed what we could do," Coach Becky Miller said. "Chapple tore it up. It was a nice win."

The momentum stayed around for the first game against N. Davidson as Davie (8-12, 3-5) played tough in a 23-25 loss. The War Eagles, however, came unhinged and did nothing right in game two. Samantha Judd had four kills, and Vanhoy had two aces and one stuff block.

Despite Davie's ninth two-games-to-none loss, Miller found a silver lining.

"North's the best JV team in the conference," she said. "If you look at our girls from day one to now, they have done what I've asked of them. They've all improved a whole lot."

Davie's varsity played ih the CPC Tournament on Oct. 19. The championship is Oct. 20, and Davie must win the tournament to reach the state 4-A playoffs.

Bailey Marrs

Marrs Shoots Best Score

Davie's golf team finished sixth of nine teams in last week's North Piedmont Conference championship meet at Rolling Hills Golf Course in Salisbury.

Bailey Marrs had her best day of the season, a 97, and was one of three War Eagles to qualify for the regionals. Playing 18 holes for the first time, Salisbury took top honors with a team score of 165. The winner was followed by Lake Norman (171), East Rowan (179), Mooresville (184), Statesville (192), Davie (201), North Iredell (212), South Iredell (220) and Kannapolis (237).

Marrs placed 12th out of 34 golfers with her 97. Annie Haftman was next for Davie at 104 (15th place), and Ashley Whitlock was 19th with a 109. Marrs, Haftman and Whitlock all advanced to the Oct. 18 regionals.

Rooney Saves JV Soccer Team Vs. North Davidson

If Davie's JV soccer team took a forward step two weeks ago, it took a major step last week. The War Eagles, in many ways, outplayed Southwest Randolph in a hard-luck 3-1 nonconference loss, and their steady signs of improvement accelerated in a 0-0 Central Piedmont Conference tie with North Davidson.

"We played really well for two games," Coach Hugh Lee said. "So the consistency I've been talking about is finally getting there."

The War Eagles had no problems getting shots against Southwest Randolph. They attempted 12 of the game's 18, but they couldn't convert but one of the chances. John Michael Bartelt tied the game midway through the first half off a corner kick from Michael Jolly. SWR was more opportunistic, however, and that trumped Davie's statistical edge.

"Sometimes the team that plays the best on the field may not win," Lee said. "They just made the most of their opportunities and we didn't. They made half their shots. That's the way the game goes sometimes."

Later in the week, Davie (5-8-1, 1-2-1 CPC) and N. Davidson slugged it out for 70 minutes. Every time Davie mounted a threat, North's defense would turn the tide. And every time North made a charge, Davie's defense would stand tall.

"It was an unbelievable game, a very even, intense game," Lee said. "It was our best effort for 70 minutes. They're a good team, a physical team, and our kids did not back down."

Most of the credit belongs to goalie Jack Rooney, who was phenomenal while facing 18 shots and collecting 12 saves.

"We had nine shots and their keeper had seven saves," Lee said. "The game went back and forth. Just when you thought we were about to give up a goal, Jack would make a save. He has a chance to be the varsity keeper next year. The kid has a future. I mean he's got great hands, great footwork and he's tall. The North Davidson coach said he was the best keeper they've faced all year."

Ross Davidson, Jonathon Roesch, Zach Privette and Robert Gassett played big defensive roles. Jolly, Bartelt, Adam McIlwain and Cass Cassidy made the offense move.

"We finally played a complete game," Lee said. "You'd like a win, but that shutout was good for us."

The War Eagles have three more games, all in the CPC. They play at South Rowan on Oct. 21, at Reynolds Oct. 26 and at home to North Davidson Oct. 28.

Soccer Team Progressing

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

Reynolds

Bowles

Davie's varsity soccer team hasn't lost hope. The War Eagles are playing more like a team. They are progressing the way Coach Jeremy Byrd hoped they would in the first half of the season.

Dylan Reynolds' goal with 23 minutes remaining provided a 1-0 nonconference win over Southwest Randolph. After starting the season 0-7-3, it was Davie's second win in three games.

Davie lost 3-0 in a Central Piedmont Conference game at North Davidson, but the score was not indicative of the game the War Eagles (2-9-3, 1-3 CPC) played. In battling North to a 0-0 tie in the first half, they showed the backbone that they used to lack. They also showed determination and spunk in a game that wasn't supposed to be close. West Forsyth beat Davie 5-0, and North beat West 2-1.

"The guys played so well," Byrd said. "Last year we scored early and they blew us away (5-1). The cool thing is North beat West Forsyth. We've really gotten up for the conference games."

The War Eagles couldn't sustain their impressive stand in the second half because a rash of injuries eventually caught up to them. Reynolds hurt his ankle five minutes into action and didn't return. Davie was already missing Mike Paoni (knee) and Danny Smith (ankle), and Harrison Judd was sick and unavailable.

Still, Davie kept North off the board for most of the way. North finally scored with 20 minutes left, then piled on a worn-out Davie.

Chris Wantuch and Jarrett Fleharty provided a lot of effort. David Stein was strong at striker, and he's only been playing the position for a few games. Michael Sutler, Jason Bowles, Brook Hinman and Nick Tucker were also recognized by the coach.

"Wantuch has had an unbelievable two weeks," Byrd said. "He has stepped up and played at a much higher level. Stein has done very well. We were looking for a finisher, and he's done a great job. Sutler is up with us (from JV) and he's done well. Hinman got a lot more playing time and had a good game. Tucker continues to get better."

In the earlier game against visiting SW Randolph, Reynolds stole the spotlight midway through the second half. With the score 0-0, the senior received the ball 35 yards out and made a couple touches before firing it into the net.

"I moved him from the back to the front line because we needed some speed," Byrd said of the decisive play.

The War Eagles have three more games, all in the CPC. They play at South Rowan on Oct. 21, at Reynolds Oct. 26 and at home to North Davidson Oct. 28.

Little League Football

JV - Corn 30, Shady Grove 6

In the first meeting between Cornatzer and Shady Grove, the Bulldogs survived a triple-overtime thriller. The rematch was a completely different story.

Raekwon Gray rushed for 240 yards and two TDs as the Cougars bursted to a 24-0 lead and won 30-6. Jonathon Wiseman added 105 yards and a touchdown as Cornatzer dominated a showdown between 4-1 teams. Ty Marshall also had a TD run. Tyler Correll and Marshall converted two-point plays.

Cornatzer's offensive line opened gaping holes all game. The unit included Corey Gordy, Tanner Junker, Austin Hill, Trent Hill, Brent Hill, Kyle Bullins, Jonathon Tice, Austin Whitaker and Jacob Karricker. Cornatzer's defense was led by Jamaal Lackey, Brent Hill and Correll.

Varsity - Pine 22, WRD 6

Alex Newman completed 6 of 7 passes, made an interception on defense and added three tackles as Pinebrook built a 22-0 lead. Joe Watson and Taylor Frank led the Trojans with five tackles, and Max Lum played great defense. The leading blockers were Jaryd Shore, Chris Carter and Dalton Hummer.

Tyler Lee put William R. Davie on the board with a short TD run, and Alex Henry led the Raiders with 94 yards on four carries. Jarrett Wallace and Tanner Bledsoe added 18 yards, Lee 16 and Clifton Bodenhamer 8 (on one carry).

Bledsoe and Lee led the WRD defense with eight tackles apiece, while Brandon Medford, Josh Chunn and Wallace had four each. Jerrick McKnight, Josh Godbey, Nathan Pearce, Zach Rogers, Derek Scherer, Mitchell Miller, Bodenhamer and Henry pitched in tackles.

"They played their hearts out," said WRD coach Jason Murphy, whose club outscored Pinebrook 6-0 in the second half.

Varsity - Mock 28, Cool 0

Mocksville got touchdown runs of 45 yards from Jared Barber and 20 yards from Dominique Dismuke and Nick Holder, and Holder tossed a 25-yard scoring pass to Darius Wilson, as the Mocksville Rams pounded Cooleemee.

Jacob Barber added an interception for Mocksville, which got successful two-point conversions from Tevin Gaither and Denzell Garmon, who caught a pass.

The offensive line did a super job, and the leading tacklers in the shutout performance were Adam "Little Man" Smith, Trey Carey, Ryan Brooks, Tevin Anthony, Braxton Grant, Aron Felder, Angelo Tyus, Jawaugn Arnold, Blake Wise, Josh Calloway, Terrell Joyner and Caleb Oswell.

Colossal Catfish

George Mack Wagner, third grade student at William R. Davie Elementary School, caught this monster catfish recently while fishing at a pond near his grandmother's house in Hamptonville. He was fishing with his dad, uncle and cousin, Joshua Wagner, who is also in the third grade at William R. Davie. Josh hooked a big one too, but it broke the line and got away.

Old School
Davie Sports From 1958

The Davie Rebels football team beat Trinity 22-0 for its second straight shutout. Joe Whitlock, who rushed for 133 yards and averaged 13.3 yards per carry, appeared to score Davie's first touchdown, but the ball was marked inches from the goal line and Davie fumbled on the next play.

That was Davie's only mistake. Mike Osborne tackled a Trinity ball carrier in the end zone for a safety, and Ramey Kemp returned the ensuing kickoff 65 yards for a TD. Tommy Graham added the extra point.

After Barry Southern got an interception, Whitlock dashed 79 yards. The extra point was converted on a Southern-to-John Grimes pass, and it was 16-0 at halftime. Graham capped a 75-yard scoring drive with a 25-yard run, and Coach Jack Ward emptied his bench in the fourth quarter.

Davie (2-3-1 record) outrushed Trinity 230-96 despite the absence of halfback Mole Spry (shoulder injury).

Golf Tourney Raises $3,000 For Davie Humane Society

The first Humane Society of Davie County "Putt and Drive to Keep Them Alive" golf tournament held at Bermuda Run Country Club West Course on Oct. 6.

The event was a captain's choice format with nine groups competing for gross and net prizes.

The winning teams received hand painted wooden boxes. The team with the best gross score was made up of Al Barnett, Ronnie Finn, Doug Masters and Ron Vanderklok.

The team of Clyde Gardner, Larry Habeggar, Joe Lawrence and Charlie Marshall won the low net award.

More than 60 supporters of the society (made up of the total number of golfers, volunteers, sponsors) witnessed attempts by each golfer at winning a $5,000 putting contest. There was no winner this year but, in a separate event where reaching the green on a par three hole in regulation entitled one to share in an award, Charlie Marshall was the winner and donated his "split the pot" winnings back to the society.

Co-chairs Myra McGonigle and Becki Vanderklok reported the total amount raised for the Humane Society was right around $3,000. These monies will be used for the construction of the Animal Adoption Center which will include housing for adoptable dogs and cats, examination facilities, education and training rooms for new pet owners, and areas to educate residents of Davie County on spay-neuter assistance programs, training, etc.

The winning ticket drawn at the tournament for the hand-painted trunk belonged to Humane Society member and volunteer, Carol Sheets. Sheets was excited when her new trunk was hand delivered to her.

Rep. Julia Howard was honorary chair.

"We could not have had such a successful event without the help of so many volunteers, as well as local businesses and patrons who so generously donated their time, talents, financial resources, as well as various items and services," McGonigle said. "Thanks to all of you."

Detailed drawings of the proposed facility, which may begin construction by early 2005 if the North Carolina National Guard is able to approve the request as a training project, were displayed for all to view and get a better understanding of the plans.

Tournament co-chairs Becki Vanderklok and Myra McGonigle.

News of this approval could be available as early as February 2005.

County Manager Terry Bralley supports the Adoption Center project, and played in one of the foursomes. Due to the success, the society will consider sponsoring another golf tournament in the spring of 2006.

The Society's mission is the prevention of cruelty to animals, the relief of suffering among animals, the rescue of adoptable cats and dogs, and the promotion of spay and neuter education.

Ahh, the women in our lives...

Our mothers... sisters...

daughters... wives and sweethearts.

You love them and want to protect them.

So, remind them that breast cancer struck 211,000 women last year... and 40,000 died. And remind them to check their breasts for abnormalities each month and to get a mammogram every year after age 40.

And keep reminding them. It's the least you can do for someone so close to your heart.

Union Chapel's minister, Jim Saunders, reads a story to the children.

The pumpkin may not be happy, but Cady Bodenhamer, 6, enjoys her time at the pumpkin patch.

Union Chapel Celebrating The Power Of Pumpkins

The Rev. Jim Saunders, book in one hand and some seeds in the other, is ready to teach children a lesson.

The book is about pumpkins, and the seeds are pumpkin seeds, and his story starts off an afternoon of enjoying one of autumn's favorite gourds at Union Chapel United Methodist Church north of Mocksville.

In addition to the story time, there are games, crafts, and a hayride for the groups of children that make an appointment to visit The Great Pumpkin Patch.

And, of course, there are plenty of pumpkins. You don't have to take part in a program to buy a pumpkin.

Sponsored by the Spiritual Servants Sunday School class, proceeds are used for church and community projects.

The patch is open through Oct. 31, from noon-8 p.m. Mondays-Saturdays and from 3-6 p.m. on Sundays. The church is located on U.S. 601 about a mile north of I-40, Mocksville.

Nathaniel Tutterow and Clifton Bodenhamer pretend to be scarecrows guarding the pumpkins.

Church member Richard Rea is ready to take visitors on a hayride.

Johnson-Browning Couple Married

Brandi Michelle Johnson and 1st Lt. James Lee Browning of Fayetteville reaffirmed their wedding vows at noon Aug. 28 at Summerall Chapel at The Citadel, Charleston, S.C. Chaplain David Golden officiated.

They were married at a private ceremony on Dec. 23, 2003 before the groom's deployment to Iraq.

The bride is the daughter of Nanette and Mike Johnson of Ivy Lane, Mocksville. Her maternal grandparents are Nan Naylor of Mocksville and the late Benny Naylor. Her paternal grandparents are Sandy and Joe Johnson of Mocksville, and Clara Summers of Statesville and the late Fred Summers. She is a graduate of Davie High School and earned a degree in business management from the College of Charleston. She is an admissions counselor at the college.

The groom is the son of Lee and Jim Browning of Arlington, Texas. His maternal grandparents are the late Lee Chun Ja and Lee Pong Pil of South Korea. His paternal grandparents are the late Virginia and Denton Browning of Waynesville. He is a graduate of James Martin High School in Arlington, and earned a degree in chemistry from The Citadel. He is an U.S. Army first lieutenant stationed with the 82nd Airborne at Fort Bragg, and has served in Afghanistan and Iraq.

Mr. and Mrs. James Lee Browning

The groom's father was best man. Ushers were 1st Lt. Gregory Merkl, 1st Lt. Brian Jantzen, Spc. Glenn Svevek and Spc. Kenneth Baxendale, all of Fayetteville.

Program attendants were Meredith Harris Wagstaff of Charlotte and Hannah Whitaker of Mocksville.

Music was provided by Nancy Lefler, organist, and Cadet Josh Collins, bagpiper.

As the newlyweds exited the chapel, they passed under the arched swords of The Citadel Honor Guard.

They went on a wedding trip to Belize.

Social Events

• The reception was held at the Lowdnes Grove Plantation off the Ashley River. After the cake cutting, the couple surprised guests with Korean wedding attire, a gift to the couple from the groom's aunt from South Korea.

• The rehearsal dinner was a low country broil at the Edisto Hall at James Island County Park. The dinner was cooked by the groom and friend, 1st Class Sgt. Byron Cousin from Fayetteville.

• The bridesmaid luncheon was hosted by the mother of the bride at the Tea Room at Charleston Place in Charleston.

• A lingerie shower was given on April 10 at the Harris cabin by Meredith Harris Wagstaff and Hannah Whitaker.

• A bridal tea shower was given on July 31 at Charleston Place by Crystal Browning.

• A bridal shower was given Aug. 7 at First Baptist Church fellowship hall by Nora Naylor, Lynn Naylor, Beth Thompson, Melanie Hendrix and June Steele.

The couple will live at 5762 Bavaria Place, Fayetteville, 28314, until December. They will transfer to Fort Benning, Ga.

Randle-Little Engagement Announced

Emily Grace Randle of Mocksville and David Goulding Little of Charlotte will be married on Nov. 27 at First United Methodist Church of Mocksville.

The bride-elect is the daughter of J.D. and Jayne Walker of Mocksville and Jan and Karen Randle of Rockvale, Tenn. She is a graduate of Gainesville (Texas) High School, and earned a bachelor's degree with honors in deaf education from the University of Tennessee-Knoxville, where she was a member of the National Society of Collegiate Scholars. She was a hearing impaired specialist for Davie County Schools.

The groom-to-be is the son of Dr. Harry and Amelia Little of Mocksville. He is a graduate of Davie High School and earned a bachelor's degree in architecture, with honors, from the University of North Carolina at Charlotte, where he was a member of Phi Kappa Phi, Golden Key, and the National Society of Collegiate Scholars. He is a designer at Freelon Group Architects in Charlotte.

Carter-Barney Engagement Announced

Ron and Kristi Carter of Reidsville announce the engagement of their daughter, Jennifer Denise Carter, to Thomas Lee Barney, the son of Thomas and Barbara Barney of Mocksville.

The bride-elect is a 2001 graduate of Davie High School and will graduate in December with a degree in nursing from Forsyth Tech. She plans on working at North Carolina Baptist Hospital as an intensive care nurse.

Barney is a 2001 graduate of Davie High School and a 2004 graduate of Forsyth Tech with a degree in information systems. He is employed as assistant manager of O'Reilly Auto Parts in Mocksville.

An Oct. 23 wedding is planned at the 1812 Hitching Post in Turnersburg.

Phipps Couple Celebrates 60th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Phipps Sr. celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary on Sunday, Oct. 17 with family and friends from across the state.

They were surprised with a lunch of chicken stew, chili and chowder which was prepared and served by their children and grandchildren at the home of Walter C. Phipps Jr. Decorations included many photos of the couple from the 40s to the present. A hayride pulled by an antique John Deere tractor capped the crisp fall afternoon.

The couple was married Oct. 15, 1944 in York, S.C. and are the parents of six children: Judy Lawrence, Joyce Beck, Jimmy Phipps, Walter Jr., Jayne Boger and Jeffery Phipps.

A Timeless Tale

Romeo & Juliet Oct. 25 At The Brock

A timeless tale everyone reads at some point in their life, Romeo & Juliet, must be the world's best-known Shakespearean tale.

While most students read the well-known play, rarely do they get a chance to see it on the stage the way it was meant to be experienced.

The Davie County Arts Council, in conjunction with the Davie County Enterprise Record, will present Romeo & Juliet, produced by Sail Productions and the New Vic Theatre of London, on Tuesday, Oct. 25 at the Brock Performing Arts Center in Mocksville.

Romeo & Juliet is the classic love story of a bond so strong that two lovers would be willing to die for each other. Growing up in two families that are feuding, Romeo and Juliet meet by chance at a gala and the attraction is instantaneous. This attraction is so intense that they cannot fathom the idea of being separated.

The struggle each goes through to forsake their family name and give up everything for each other is at the very heart of Shakespeare's Romeo & Juliet. To experience this tale will spur your heart to beat again.

Executive Director of the Davie County Arts Council and a theatre artist, Megan Evans White, said: "Shakespeare was an innovator with the English language. In order to truly express the depth of human emotions like the love that consumes these two young lovers, he bravely crafted new words to paint these pictures for us.

"However, he never meant for us to read these works on the page. Shakespeare constructed these words for the stage to be spoken with great passion and utter truth. To be shared with a crowd of people who often had searched for these very words but could not find them until they heard Juliet speaking her heart to her beloved Romeo. Shakespeare gave us a new way to express ourselves."

Producing a show of great quality, Sail Productions of New Jersey is working with The New Vic Theatre of London to present Shakespeare's tale of Romeo & Juliet in the true Shakespearean language and with the passion that it demands.

Bring the family to be part of this Shakespearean treasure Oct. 25 at 7 p.m. at the Brock at 622 N. Main St., Mocksville.

Tickets: adults $10; students/seniors, $8; groups of 15+ $6. For tickets, call the box office Monday-Friday, noon-5 pm at 751-3112; boxoffice@daviearts.org.

Learn To Decorate, Carve Pumpkins At Oct. 23 Workshop

Looking for a way to meet other families and groups that enjoy artistic projects and being part of the community?

The Davie County Arts Council is hosting a pumpkin carving workshop for families on Oct. 23 from 9 a.m.-noon at the Brock Performing Arts Center in Mocksville.

David Smith, architect, pastor and winner of last year's pumpkin decorating contest, will be leading this fun-filled workshop. He will teach participants how to create a pumpkin unique to their own artistic tastes. Through creative techniques, including carving, painting, and innovative use of common household items, Smith will have your family creating a masterpiece.

He will provide information on preserving your carved pumpkin to make it lasts longer than ever before.

The workshop will provide a carving kit for participants take home for their own use, but families must bring their own pumpkin. Cost of the workshop is $10 per family or group.

Pre-register by calling the Davie County Arts Council, 751-3000 or via email at info@daviearts.org.

After taking part in the pumpkin carving workshop, be sure to enter a pumpkin in the Second Annual Pumpkin Decorating Contest. The Arts Council will be accepting pumpkins from Oct. 25-29 to be judged. Winners will be announced at Boo Bash on Oct. 30.

For more information, check out www.daviearts.org.

Pino Couple Attends State Grange Meeting

Mr. and Mrs. Luther West from Pino Community Grange attended the state meeting in Charlotte on Friday and Saturday, Oct. 15-16.

The meeting was moved from Asheville in September due to the flood waters. The attendance was 150 delegates from throughout the state.

Jimmy Gentry, state president, presided at the 76th state convention. The first day was committee workshops on resolutions to be presented to N.C. State Legislation and the National Grange.

The committees are agriculture and environment, Grange law and programs, health/education/welfare, and legislative/taxation. Grange members discussed issues in each workshop.

Awards were presented to Grange man and woman, community service, legislative, program directors, Grange of the Month, family living and secretary. These winners were selected from their reports.

Friday night was youth talent show. The winner will receive an all-expense trip to the national meeting in New York. On Saturday morning, the meeting was opened by the youth by the steps they learned at youth camp this past summer. They spent the day at Discovery Place.

Two new executive committees were selected and installed. There is a new Grange opportunity for members in Grange Life Benefits. This was presented to the Grange members for the first time.

If interested, contact Luther West of the Pino Grange.

Johnson-Browning Couple Married

Brandi Michelle Johnson and 1st Lt. James Lee Browning of Fayetteville reaffirmed their wedding vows at noon Aug. 28 at Summerall Chapel at The Citadel, Charleston, S.C. Chaplain David Golden officiated.

They were married at a private ceremony on Dec. 23, 2003 before the groom's deployment to Iraq.

The bride is the daughter of Nanette and Mike Johnson of Ivy Lane, Mocksville. Her maternal grandparents are Nan Naylor of Mocksville and the late Benny Naylor. Her paternal grandparents are Sandy and Joe Johnson of Mocksville, and Clara Summers of Statesville and the late Fred Summers. She is a graduate of Davie High School and earned a degree in business management from the College of Charleston. She is an admissions counselor at the college.

The groom is the son of Lee and Jim Browning of Arlington, Texas. His maternal grandparents are the late Lee Chun Ja and Lee Pong Pil of South Korea. His paternal grandparents are the late Virginia and Denton Browning of Waynesville. He is a graduate of James Martin High School in Arlington, and earned a degree in chemistry from The Citadel. He is an U.S. Army first lieutenant stationed with the 82nd Airborne at Fort Bragg, and has served in Afghanistan and Iraq.

Mr. and Mrs. James Lee Browning

The groom's father was best man. Ushers were 1st Lt. Gregory Merkl, 1st Lt. Brian Jantzen, Spc. Glenn Svevek and Spc. Kenneth Baxendale, all of Fayetteville.

Program attendants were Meredith Harris Wagstaff of Charlotte and Hannah Whitaker of Mocksville.

Music was provided by Nancy Lefter, organist, and Cadet Josh Collins, bagpiper.

As the newlyweds exited the chapel, they passed under the arched swords of The Citadel Honor Guard.

They went on a wedding trip to Belize.

Social Events

- The reception was held at the Lowdnes Grove Plantation off the Ashley River. After the cake cutting, the couple surprised guests with Korean wedding attire, a gift to the couple from the groom's aunt from South Korea.
- The rehearsal dinner was a low country broil at the Edisto Hall at James Island County Park. The dinner was cooked by the groom and friend, 1st Class Sgt. Byron Cousin from Fayetteville.
- The bridesmaid luncheon was hosted by the mother of the bride at the Tea Room at Charleston Place in Charleston.
- A Christmas shower was given on Jan. 17 by college roommate, Callie Bailey, at the Bailey home in Advance.
- A lingerie shower was given on April 10 at the Harris cabin by Meredith Harris Wagstaff and Hannah Whitaker.
- A bridal tea shower was given on July 31 at Charleston Place by Crystal Browning.
- A bridal shower was given Aug. 7 at First Baptist Church fellowship hall by Nora Naylor, Lynn Naylor, Beth Thompson, Melanie Hendrix and June Steele.

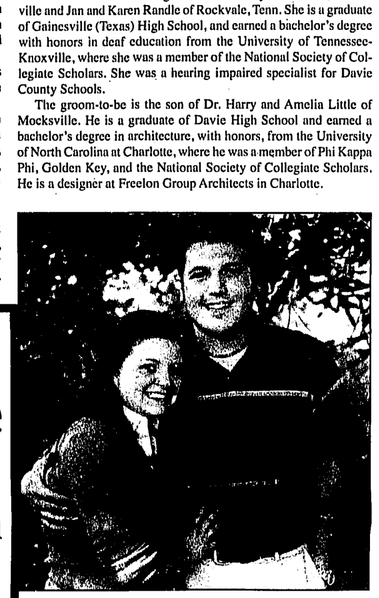
The couple will live at 5762 Bavaria Place, Fayetteville, 28314, until December. They will transfer to Fort Benning, Ga.

Randle-Little Engagement Announced

Emily Grace Randle of Mocksville and David Goulding Little of Charlotte will be married on Nov. 27 at First United Methodist Church of Mocksville.

The bride-elect is the daughter of J.D. and Jayne Walker of Mocksville and Jan and Karen Randle of Rockvale, Tenn. She is a graduate of Gainesville (Texas) High School, and earned a bachelor's degree with honors in deaf education from the University of Tennessee-Knoxville, where she was a member of the National Society of Collegiate Scholars. She was a hearing impaired specialist for Davie County Schools.

The groom-to-be is the son of Dr. Harry and Amelia Little of Mocksville. He is a graduate of Davie High School and earned a bachelor's degree in architecture, with honors, from the University of North Carolina at Charlotte, where he was a member of Phi Kappa Phi, Golden Key, and the National Society of Collegiate Scholars. He is a designer at Freelon Group Architects in Charlotte.



Carter-Barney Engagement Announced

Ron and Kristi Carter of Reidsville announce the engagement of their daughter, Jennifer Denise Carter, to Thomas Lee Barney, the son of Thomas and Barbara Barney of Mocksville.

The bride-elect is a 2001 graduate of Davie High School and will graduate in December with a degree in nursing from Forsyth Tech. She plans on working at North Carolina Baptist Hospital as an intensive care nurse.

Barney is a 2001 graduate of Davie High School and a 2004 graduate of Forsyth Tech with a degree in information systems. He is employed as assistant manager of O'Reilly Auto Parts in Mocksville.

An Oct. 23 wedding is planned at the 1812 Hitching Post in Turnersburg.

Phipps Couple Celebrates 60th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Phipps Sr. celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary on Sunday, Oct. 17 with family and friends from across the state.

They were surprised with a lunch of chicken stew, chili and chowder which was prepared and served by their children and grandchildren at the home of Walter C. Phipps Jr. Decorations included many photos of the couple from the 40s to the present. A hayride pulled by an antique John Deere tractor capped the crisp fall afternoon.

The couple was married Oct. 15, 1944 in York, S.C. and are the parents of six children: Judy Lawrence, Joyce Beck, Jimmy Phipps, Walter Jr., Jayne Boger and Jeffery Phipps.

Learn To Decorate, Carve Pumpkins At Oct. 23 Workshop

Looking for a way to meet other families and groups that enjoy artistic projects and being part of the community?

The Davie County Arts Council is hosting a pumpkin carving workshop for families on Oct. 23 from 9 a.m.-noon at the Brock Performing Arts Center in Mocksville.

David Smith, architect, pastor and winner of last year's pumpkin decorating contest, will be leading this fun-filled workshop. He will teach participants how to create a pumpkin unique to their own artistic tastes. Through creative techniques, including carving, painting, and innovative use of common household items, Smith will have your family creating a masterpiece.

He will provide information on preserving your carved pumpkin to make it lasts longer than ever before.

The workshop will provide a carving kit for participants take home for their own use, but families must bring their own pumpkin. Cost of the workshop is $10 per family or group.

Pre-register by calling the Davie County Arts Council, 751-3000 or via email at info@daviearts.org.

After taking part in the pumpkin carving workshop, be sure to enter a pumpkin in the Second Annual Pumpkin Decorating Contest. The Arts Council will be accepting pumpkins from Oct. 25-29 to be judged. Winners will be announced at Boo Bash on Oct. 30.

For more information, check out www.daviearts.org.

Pino Couple Attends State Grange Meeting

Mr. and Mrs. Luther West from Pino Community Grange attended the state meeting in Charlotte on Friday and Saturday, Oct. 15-16.

The meeting was moved from Asheville in September due to the flood waters. The attendance was 150 delegates from throughout the state.

Jimmy Gentry, state president, presided at the 76th state convention. The first day was committee workshops on resolutions to be presented to N.C. State Legislation and the National Grange.

The committees are agriculture and environment, Grange law and programs, health/education/welfare, and legislative/taxation. Grange members discussed issues in each workshop.

Awards were presented to Grange man and woman, community service, legislative, program directors, Grange of the Month, family living and secretary. These winners were selected from their reports.

Friday night was youth talent show. The winner will receive an all-expense trip to the national meeting in New York. On Saturday morning, the meeting was opened by the youth by the steps they learned at youth camp this past summer. They spent the day at Discovery Place.

Two new executive committees were selected and installed. There is a new Grange opportunity for members in Grange Life Benefits. This was presented to the Grange members for the first time.

If interested, contact Luther West of the Pino Grange.

A Timeless Tale

Romeo & Juliet Oct. 25 At The Brock

A timeless tale everyone reads at some point in their life, Romeo & Juliet, must be the world's best-known Shakespearean tale.

While most students read the well-known play, rarely do they get a chance to see it on the stage the way it was meant to be experienced.

The Davie County Arts Council, in conjunction with the Davie County Enterprise Record, will present Romeo & Juliet, produced by Sail Productions and the New Vic Theatre of London, on Tuesday, Oct. 25 at the Brock Performing Arts Center in Mocksville.

Romeo & Juliet is the classic love story of a bond so strong that two lovers would be willing to die for each other. Growing up in two families that are feuding, Romeo and Juliet meet by chance at a gala and the attraction is instantaneous. This attraction is so intense that they cannot fathom the idea of being separated.

The struggle each goes through to forsake their family name and give up everything for each other is at the very heart of Shakespeare's Romeo & Juliet. To experience this tale will spur your heart to beat again.

Executive Director of the Davie County Arts Council and a theatre artist, Megan Evans White, said: "Shakespeare was an innovator with the English language. In order to truly express the depth of human emotions like the love that consumes these two young lovers, he bravely crafted new words to paint these pictures for us.

"However, he never meant for us to read these works on the page. Shakespeare constructed these words for the stage to be spoken with great passion and utter truth. To be shared with a crowd of people who often had searched for these very words but could not find them until they heard Juliet speaking her heart to her beloved Romeo. Shakespeare gave us a new way to express ourselves."

Producing a show of great quality, Sail Productions of New Jersey is working with The New Vic Theatre of London to present Shakespeare's tale of Romeo & Juliet in the true Shakespearean language and with the passion that it demands.

Bring the family to be part of this Shakespearean treasure Oct. 25 at 7 p.m. at the Brock at 622 N. Main St., Mocksville.

Tickets: adults $10; students/seniors, $8; groups of 15+ $6. For tickets, call the box office Monday-Friday, noon-5 pm at 751-3112; boxoffice@daviearts.org.

Extension Homemakers Publish Third Edition Of Popular Cookbook Series

The Davie County Extension and Community Association recently published the third edition of its popular cookbook.

Residents of Davie County are familiar with the 1985 tan spiral-bound and 1994 blue three-ring binder cookbooks compiled by the members of the Davie County Extension Homemakers. Both of these editions are out of print and are no longer available.

The new cookbook, also in three-ringer binder format, contains 552 recipes, with almost half of the recipes being in the cakes, pies, and cookies and desserts categories. The recipes reflect the traditions of Southern cookery, and well as contemporary trends toward reduced food preparation time and a greater awareness of the nutrient content of foods.

The Davie County ECA cookbook can be purchased from any member of the organization or at the county Extension office.

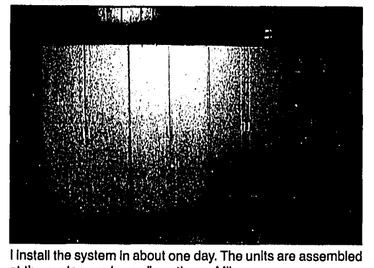
Piedmont Storage Solutions

Before: the clutter; below, after Piedmont Storage Solutions took care of it.



"What are we going to do about all this clutter in our garage? How will we ever get all this stuff organized?" Aren't you tired of asking yourself these questions and never finding a good solution?

Mike Keller understands. And as the owener of Piedmont Storage Solutions he has your answers.

Piedmont Storage Solutions is a provider and distributor of durable, economic garage storage cabinet systems called Garage Storage Cabinets.

"During the last decade the garage has become the last frontier of the home. Just as the kitchen has evolved from kitchen cupboards to built-in cabinets, the garage is evolving from a cluttered, unsightly part of the home into an attractive, useful work and storage area," notes Mike.

GSC Cabinets is an innovative, modular cabinet system which allows the homeowner to customize their storage for his/her particular needs.

Cabinet selection provides an answer to hobby, tool, wardrobe overflow and sports gear needs. Homeowners can reclaim wasted space and turn it into valuable work/hobby space and organized storage the whole family can enjoy.

"Many families use their garage entry more often than the front door as their primary entrance to their home. Having a neat garage with Garage Storage Cabinets as the first impression of the household, is an extra benefit and adds value to the home," Mike explains.

Mike, owner and operator of Piedmont Storage Solutions, is a Mocksville resident with a background in woodworking and remodeling.

"I spent 35 years in the metal industry and had always enjoyed home improvements on the side. I had always wanted to do something on my own and different from my career," Mike says.

In addition to making sure the customer gets the best installation and finished look, Piedmont Storage Solutions will evaluate your garage space and offer solutions at no charge.

"I come to the customer's home for a free consultation to determine their storage needs. At the customer's convenience, I install the system in about one day. The units are assembled at the customers home," continues Mike.

A broad selection of GSC modules are available to mix and match according to the customer's needs.

Standard utility cabinets, workbenches, wardrobe cabinets, pegboard cabinets and fishing rod/golf club storage cabinets are just a few of the options.

Piedmont Storage Solutions will be serving Davie County as well as the surrounding counties.

Give Mike a call today at (336) 998-2344 or his mobile number at (336) 817-4881 for a free consultation concerning your garage storage needs.

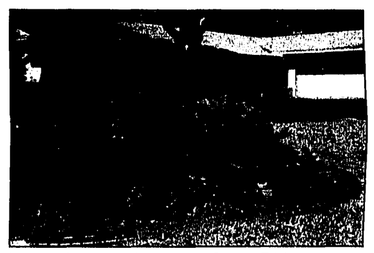
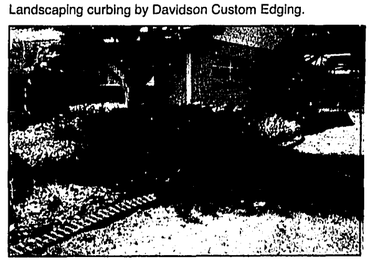
Curb Appeal: Davidson Custom Edging Adds Life To Your Landscape



Landscaping curbing by Davidson Custom Edging.



Owning a great looking lawn is a matter of simple mathematics – proper addition and subtraction always produces the right answer.

No one understands this better than the experts at Davidson Custom Edging, the "go-to" source for landscaping results. Addition? Try adding shape, color and contour to your lawn. Subtraction? Rid yourself of weeds, raking and soil replacement. All in all, Davidson Custom Edging can turn your lawn into a functional showcase.

"A wonderful garden enhancement"

"Decorative landscape edging is a wonderful garden enhancement that looks great," emphasizes Danny Sowers, the owner of Davidson Custom Edging. "It can make the average yard look spectacular."

The custom-patterned edging can enhance all gardens and landscaping, especially when the right colors are chosen. With a unique color and sealing process, the curbing will be resistant to chipping, cracking, staining and weathering.

"It's extremely easy to take care of," Sowers says. "The only maintenance required is the resealing of the colored curb every two or three years."

Involved in the lawn business for 31 years

Sowers said that he has been involved in the lawn business for 31 years, repairing lawn and garden equipment. So roughly four years ago, while working at Sears in the service deparment in Greensboro, he decided it was time to give up that long daily drive and establish a full-time business of his own.

"I started doing some research and found out about this type of landscape edging ," he explained. "It sounded great."

Great prices, custom equipment

Sowers, a native of the North Davidson area, decided it was time to make a move. He then went to school in Altamonte Springs, Florida for his equipment training.

"The actual equipment used in these jobs is designed and built in Australia. But I found a way to make the job faster and easier. I designed and built a motorized cart which is used for mixing on-site."

Sowers adds that this process cuts down on labor and creates savings. "Instead of it being a three-man job, it becomes a two-man job and the customer benefits from the savings they receive."

A host of patterns and colors to choose from

Davidson Custom Edging has many custom patterns and color options for all tastes. They provide service for residential as well as commercial properties.

Call Danny Sowers today at (336) 731-3523 or (336) 239-6214 for a free estimate or go by his shop and see for yourself how beautiful landscaping can look. He has samples of designs and colors for every taste.

Davidson Custom Edging is located at 1242 Conard Sowers Road in Lexington about one mile from Captain Steven's Restaurant on Highway 150 in Davidson County.

The Harlot Church

The harlot church known as Jezebel sits in our synagogues in the form of modernism. This modernism of today is rooted and grounded in denominational doctrines that totally deny the power of God. All over America from coast to coast we find these cold dead lifeless forms of religious ideologies offering to their congregations socialism for fellowship, entertainment for spiritual food, soothing sunshine sermons that satisfies our ears while the wrath of God is soon to be measured against these pastors that have fed themselves and left the sheep to starve. If ever there has been a time for the skirt tale of Jezebel to be torn off thus revealing the spiritual whore that she is, it is now. We can trace the origins of Jezebel back to the time of Elijah the prophet. But the fullness of the power of Jezebel didn't take its upward spiral until it had a door to hide behind. This door is now known as RELIGION. Religion as we know it is cold and dead. It has nothing to do with what is considered real Christianity. It is cold, dead, powerless and lifeless because that the spirit of God is not there to bear witness with the principles of religion. The spirit of God will never bear witness to anything that isn't of God. The reason that the spirit of God is not there is because of the fact that salvation has taken on a generic form. Salvation has been watered down because it was never sealed with the power of Pentecost. This is what the church has rejected. They have forsaken the ways of Pentecost. This forsaking took place when the Catholic church changed the foundation on which the church of Jesus Christ was built. If you carefully read your Bible you will find that Jesus asked Peter just who he thought he really was. Peter's reply was "thou art the Christ the Son of the living God". Jesus said to Peter that "thou art Peter and upon this rock I will build my church and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it". It was evident that Peter had been with Jesus for some time now and it wasn't the mighty miracles that caused Peter to bear this confession. It was the Father in heaven. Jesus told Peter that "flesh and blood hath not revealed this to you but my Father which is in heaven". It was the spirit of God that revealed this to Peter. The church of God is based on Peter's confession that Jesus Christ is the Son of God. And that confession can only be made by the Holy Ghost. The Bible says in 1A Corinthians 12:4 that "no man can say that Jesus is the Lord but by the Holy Ghost". It is the spirit of God that bears witness to the word of God. Now in the case of the Catholic church, the church of Christ is based upon Peter instead of Peter's confession. When you try to confess that Jesus is the Christ by who you are then you are actually making yourself equal to Christ. Since the Catholics believe that Jesus and God are one, and friend they are, then that makes sense as to why the Catholics call the Pope Father. Lucifer will always put just a grain of truth in every lie in order to get his prey hooked and deceived. They consider his word infallible. This makes him equal to Jesus in the sight of the Catholics. It was imperative that LUCIFER have a church based on the wrong testimony so that he could someday come in the flesh and sit in that church and present himself as God. The way was paved when Pentecost was rejected and TAKEN OUT OF THE WAY.

Land Donated To Foundation Through A Charitable Trust

The Community Foundation of Davie County received 44 acres of land recently as a gift from a donor.

The land, located on Howardtown Circle, will be sold through a bid process with bids due Tuesday, Nov. 9, at 10 a.m. Cash from the sale of the land will be used to establish Charitable Remainder Trusts (CRT) which will provide income for the donors for the remainder of their lives.

"Charitable Remainder Trusts are fast becoming one of the most popular philanthropic tools," said Jane Simpson, foundation president. "Cash, stock, or property may be donated to establish a trust which makes gifting by a donor very easy."

Once established, a Charitable Remainder Trust can pay an income for a specific number of years or for the remainder of two lifetimes. At the end of the trust, all remaining assets must go to charity selected by the donor.

"CRT's are appealing to donors who are interested in making charitable gifts to their church and other charities important to them when they no longer need their assets. The donor benefits from the income while they are living and the charity benefits from the remaining assets. This is a helpful way for some older adults to ensure a specific annual income for the rest of their lives and still be generous to their community," said Simpson.

The foundation accepts gifts of cash, stock, real estate, and other property approved by its board of directors. Donors who wish to make complicated gifts to an organization may be able to find assistance at the foundation.

"We are happy to assist donors in making complicated gifts to charitable organizations. That is one of the many benefits of a community foundation to its community. We are able to help all types of donors make permanent investments in their community's charities and non-profits."

Anyone interested in learning more about charitable gifts should contact Simpson at 753-6903 or via email at jsimpson@daviefoundation.org.

CELEBRATE RECOVERY

Grief, stress, fear, financial recovery, hurtful relationships, sexual addictions, marital problems, anger, co-dependency, chemical addictions, eating disorders, alcohol, emotional abuse, anxiety, blame, depression, divorce, bad habits, gambling, despair, physical abuse, compulsive spending, etc...

Weary of 12 steps that only lead back to the beginning of an endless journey?
Tired of going to meetings or counseling sessions and not getting relief?
Would you like a safe and confidential place to go for help?
Want freedom but you don't know how to get it?

These are all issues that seriously affect many people in our community that a secular meeting, sermon, Bible Study, or counseling session alone won't solve. There is hope and a way that the hurting can move beyond their wounds to experience the healing liberty.

Celebrate Recovery is a group ministry to help hurting people in our community. The ministry started 1991 as a way to bring God's healing power to hurting people. It has since grown to hundreds of locations nationwide and in seven different countries. We will be launching a new recovery group from Farmington Community Center on October 28th. Doors will open @ 6:30 with refreshments, the meeting will start @ 7:00 p.m. We will meet every Thursday @ 7:00 p.m.

County Line News

By Shirley Thorne
County Line correspondent

Our community continues to prepare for our upcoming VFD fall barbecue and chicken pie supper on Saturday, Oct. 30. Make this a "red letter" date on your calendar now as a day for great food and community fellowship.

All community residents are requested to bake desserts (cakes, pies and cookies) for both the supper and the bazaar table.

This Saturday, Oct. 23, our community has several fun activities for the entire family. If you have young children, take them to the children's party at the V-Point building at 2 p.m. Then enjoyed a community-wide festival beginning at 4 p.m. at Clarksbury Methodist Church and close out the day at Calvary Baptist Church.

The V-Point Ruritan Club will have a Halloween party for children in the community from 2-3:30 p.m. Saturday at the V-Point building. Children from toddler through second grade are invited to come and enjoy the fun, games and snacks. Be sure to be there if you enjoy bobbing for apples, coloring balloon faces, playing clothespin drop, etc. There will be snacks and prizes for everyone.

Clarksbury United Methodist Church will host a community-wide Fall Celebration from 4-8 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 23 on the church grounds. This is a free event offering good food, entertainment and fun activities for all ages. Activities include hayrides, s'mores, bobbing for apples, fireside sing-alongs, etc. Entertainment will feature bluegrass gospel music by the Wicker Family of Davie, who will perform between the hours of 6-8 p.m. Just bring your own lawn chair or blanket, sit around the bonfire, sip hot chocolate or cider, roast some marshmallows, and enjoy the entertainment and fellowship.

Calvary Baptist Church will have a Fall Festival from 7-9 p.m. on Saturday. The festival will include food, games and activities for all ages. Activities will include cake walks for both adults and children. Entertainment will feature a womanless beauty contest. Bring a hearty appetite and enjoy some good homemade chicken stew, hot dogs and desserts. Everyone is invited to attend.

Piney Grove AME Zion Church will have a Hallelujah Night from 6:30-8 p.m. Monday, Oct. 25. This will be a time of fun, food and fellowship for all ages. Planned activities include face painting, games and a hayride. Everyone is invited to attend and enjoy the evening.

The ladies of Pleasant View Baptist Church will have a planning meeting at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 26 in the church fellowship hall. All ladies of the church are invited to attend.

Clarksbury reminds everyone to remember the ham and sausage breakfast from 6-10 a.m. and the Trick or Treat from 5-7 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 30. We will have more details next week.

We send get-well wishes to Kathy Armstrong of Calvary. She had surgery last week at Medical Park Hospital but is now recuperating at home. Lee Cartner had pre-ops this week for a scheduled surgical procedure on Monday, Oct. 25. Join us as we continue to pray for Lee and others in our community who are having health problems and are taking outpatient treatments.

Our community extends its deepest sympathy to the fam ly of Gilbert Cartner, who passed away Saturday. Gilbert was the son of the late Vestal and Ethel Cartner of Old Mocksville Road and was also a former resident of both NC Hwy. 901 and Old Mocksville Road. Gilbert had been in declining health for several years.

We extend our sympathy to the family of Steve Barnes, who died of cancer this past week. Steve spent much of his childhood with his grandparents, Coyte and Carrie York, and helped them and other farmers.

We want to thank everyone who helped with the breakfast Saturday at Wesley Chapel. A special thanks to Andrea Gentry and Christie Gardner who came from Charlotte.Everyone worked real hard and we hope everyone who attended enjoyed it.

We are saddened by the death of Bob Dill who passed away on Sunday. He had been in declining health for some time. He will be sorely missed by us all.

Helen Latham of Monroe, Helen Jane McCaskill of Washington, D.C. and David Latham of Matthews visited Harmon and Nora Latham on Sunday.

Virginia Murray and Calvin Trivette have been in Forsyth Hospital for several days. We hope they get well soon.

James and Lelia Essic spent a few days in Caswell County last week.

Advance News

Several people from the Methodist church enjoyed a trip to the Lazy 5 Ranch near Mooresville on Sunday afternoon as a treat for perfect attendance at Sunday School.

Operation Christmas Child shoeboxes are to be turned in by Nov. 7. Some boxes are still available in the church vestibule.

Frank Markland celebrated his 83rd birthday Sunday, Oct. 17. His wife Margie had a special supper for him Sunday night. Guests were their children Dave Markland of Hickory and Janice and Robbie Jackson of this community.

Elsie Vogler and Jackie Livengood Williams were Saturday afternoon visitors of Sarah Bailey in the Cornatzer community.

Sympathy is extended to Dave Cope in the death of his brother Jake Cope. Also sympathy to Nell Burton in the death of her husband Ronnie Burton.

Jeanette Cornatzer has returned from a three-week trip to Florida. She visited her children and grandchildren Lelia and Jay Gray and their children Erin and Jack Gray in Winter Haven. During Jeanette's visit they celebrated Jack's birthday.

Robbie and Janice Jackson visited friends Tony and Nancy Dean at Carolina Beach over the weekend, returning home in time to celebrate her Dad Frank Markland's birthday supper Sunday night.

Mrs. Johnsie Shelton attended a chicken stew with Mr. and Mrs. Zeno Adams Saturday night. They were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Mock.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Potts visited Mr. and Mrs. Kenny Smith Sunday night.

Mrs. Clyde Murray is on our sick list. We are wishing her a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark White and Jessica returned home after a weekend in Chapel Hill.

Cornatzer News

By Dottie Potts
Cornatzer correspondent

Our community extends sympathy to the family of Mae Carter Laird who died Sept. 24. She is a sister to Homer Potts and Lena Wall.

Norman Smith and Weldon Allen have been sick and confined at home for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Potts and Sharon, Mr. and Mrs. Derek Harpe, Luther Potts and Doris Dillon attended the funeral of Paul Davie Potts in Waverly, Va. on Tuesday, Oct. 12. He passed away suddenly on Oct. 9.

David Barney was taken by ambulance to Forsyth Hospital recently and has returned home. More tests have been scheduled.

The family of Jarrett Bailey celebrated his birthday at a restaurant in Clemmons on Oct. 14.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hinkle of Creedmoor spent Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. Homer Potts. Everyone attended the Munday Reunion on Sunday, Oct. 17 at the fellowship hall of Liberty Methodist Church.

The Red Hat Society

Here at Cedar Rock Assisted Living we have formed our own Red Hat Society. Pictured above are three of our Charter Members, along with our Activity Director Miss Glenda, who plans our agenda. We meet monthly and have the most fun. After all, that is what a Red Hat Society is all about! We may play cards, or have high tea, or go sightseeing, we may discuss things big and important or small and trivial, you see it just doesn't matter! We are the Cedar Rock ladies of the Red Hat Society and when we meet, the main rule is to have fun! So, should you see us out and about with our big red hats on, give us a wave and join us for some fun!

Hubert Newton Buckner

Mr. Herbert Newton Buckner, 89, of Junction Road, Davie County, died on Oct. 6, 2004.

He was born Aug. 13, 1915 in Marion, Ill.

He was preceded in death by his mother, Molly Odum Bucker; 2 sisters; 3 brothers, and a baby grandson, Randy Buckner Jr.

Survivors: 2 daughters, Pamela Chavez and husband Michael of Garden City, Mich., and Gale Lauwers and husband Robert Sr. of Cooleemee; a son, Randall Buckner of Interlocken, Mich.; 2 grandsons; a step-grandson; 2 great-grandchildren; and his extended family.

A grandson, William Lauwers of Cooleemee, died on Saturday, Oct. 16 of injuries in an automobile accident.

A celebration of life for Mr. Buckner and his grandson, William Lauwers, will be held on Thursday, Oct. 21 at 7 p.m. at Davie Funeral Service Chapel with the Revs. Tom Register and Jimmy Lancaster officiating.

Bobby Howard Jordan

Mr. Bobby Howard Jordan, 72, of Pfafftown died Monday, Oct. 11, 2004.

He was born Sept. 9, 1932, in Forsyth County to Millard Henry and Lou Ella Howard Jordan. Mr. Jordan was a veteran of the U.S. Air Force, serving during the Korean conflict, which he viewed as a war that should not be forgotten. Chicken Stew To Benefit First Baptist Toy Store

Mark you calendars for Sunday, Oct. 24 at 5 p.m. for an old-fashioned chicken stew and entertainment by Who's Counting at the First Baptist Church of Mocksville, North Main Street across from the public library. Bring your lawn chairs and an appetite.

All donations will support the Christmas Toy Store, a ministry of the South Yadkin Baptist Association.

Sandy and Ron Harrison will give a brief history of the Toy Store and its witness in the community. The Toy Store is in its eighth year of providing new toys to parents who cannot afford to buy toys for their children. Counseling is provided to find out if there are other needs such as clothes and food and the plan of Salvation of Christ is always shared.

Toys are gathered by the 65 churches, and are distributed to families suggested by church and community members, schools, agencies and home health nurses. The parents get a time they can shop for their children, and pay 10 cents on the dollar if they can. All money goes to buy more toys.

To suggest a family, volunteer or for more information, contact director, Sandra Harrison, 3009 Amity Hill Road, Statesville, 28677; or by calling 704-873-2652.

Land Trust Joins Partnership To Preserve Wetlands

The LandTrust for Central North Carolina has announced a new state partnership which may result in the permanent preservation of thousands of acres of wetlands and river bottoms.

The LandTrust is working with the Ecosystem Enhancement Program (EEP), to obtain funding for interested landowners.

The EEP provides substantial funding to be paid directly to qualifying landowners who have forested river and creek bottoms, as well as intact wetlands on their property. In return for legal restrictions that will insure that the areas remain undisturbed, landowners can get up to 60-70 percent of the lands fair market value.

Landowners who participate with the EEP program retain ownership and control of their land, although they do give up the right to develop it or harvest the timber. Landowners retain personal hunting rights and the right of privacy as the EEP does not involve public access in anyway.

Andy Abramson, associate director of The LandTrust commented, "We're real hopeful about the possibilities the EEP presents. And it really is a win-win for a lot of people. I know this isn't for everyone, but there are a lot of folks out there who want to keep their wooded bottomlands as is. And now they can possibly get paid for it."

The LandTrust has been working with landowners in the Piedmont since 1995 to preserve the natural heritage and cultural identity of the region. A key component of their mission is forests, open space, wetland and farmland preservation.

To date, the organization has permanently conserved more than 9,100 acres in a 10-county service area and over 2,700 acres in Davie County alone.

The LandTrust for Central North Carolina is a non-profit land conservation organization that protects the natural areas, family farms, and wildlife habitat throughout the south-central Piedmont of North Carolina. Other counties served by The LandTrust include Anson, Cabarrus, Davidson, Iredell, Montgomery, Randolph, Richmond, Rowan, and Stanly.

For further information about the EEP and The LandTrust's programs and how you can participate in land conservation, contact the staff at (704) 647-0302 or visit www.landtrustcnc.org.

The Mebane Challenge
Community Raises Some Money; Students Show Off Technology

More than 600 members of the community converged on Davie High Thursday night to learn more about the Mebane Challenge and what it means for the future of Davie County Schools.

Vendors from major technology companies including Apple and Dell, were on hand to showcase the most latest technology available in education, and NASCAR legend Chocolate Myers attended to help launch the campaign in Davie County.

Nationally known education consultant, Dr. Barry Adams, provided the audience with a glimpse of what the classroom of tomorrow will look like and how students of today are expecting more than what yesterday's books can offer.

Superintendent W.G. Potts welcomed guests and explained the history of the Mebane Challenge. Potts was followed by Sally McGuire and Clint Junker, campaign co-chairs, who shared reasons why they are involved in the campaign.

They went on to mention where the campaign stood.

"Our goal was to raise $750,000 by today's kick-off. Well, we didn't make it - we exceeded it by raising to date, $855,000," said Junker.

As attendees applauded the success of the campaign, Junker went on to say that the campaign's lead donor is Rene-gade Tobacco of Mocksville.

Following the campaign kick-off and presentation by Dr. Barry Adams, attendees where invited to visit classrooms where students and teachers displayed technologies that would enhance the educational process in Davie County classrooms.

During the evening, nearly 40 volunteers from Wal-Mart were on hand to answer questions and direct crowds. Wal-Mart's involvement could result in a generous gift from the Wal-Mart Foundation. The gift, which go directly towards the Mebane Challenge, is one of the ways Wal-Mart awards volun-teerism in local communities.

Throughout the evening, attendees saw individuals throughout the school with RUN t-shirts. The slogan, which is based on the popular Outer Banks logo sticker, simply means "Are You In?" the Mebane Challenge. Be on the look-out for RUN stickers on vehicles, and displayed at businesses—this will indicate support of the campaign.

Mocksville Elementary students use wireless laptop computers to create their own web page.

Emperors

A recent change brought Melissa Boswell to the team to work with Mona Podunavac and Farrah Lewis. Working as a team has been the focal point to ensure that every student is successful.

Math classes have been actively engaged in learning basic and advanced math skills. They used Oreos to study volume and surface area. You can imagine the excitement when students found out that they could eat their math assignment. The Emperors can often be seen working in cooperative learning groups on problems relevant to real-life skills.

The Emperors showed their stuff with science projects. The atmospheric theme prompted a wide array of projects. From projects on "Freezing Rain" to the "Solar System," students displayed their creative side.

In communications class, students have been busy writing. Sharing these interesting pieces of writings keeps communications class animated. Along with writing, the Emperors have been studying units in grammar, spelling, and reading Where the Red Fern Grows by Wilson Rawls.

Social Studies students are enjoying Africa, especially Ancient Egypt. Taking a "virtual trip" to Egypt proved to be fun and stimulating for the students. The Ancient Egypt projects will display student comprehension and adoration for this undying piece of Africa.

The Emperor Citizen of the Month is Catherine Brake. Wh one quarter completed, the Emperors will continue working hard to ensure that this school year is a success.

Shady Grove Elementary

School picture retakes will be held Oct. 22. Also, a special thank you to all the parents and grandparents who came for lunch last week.

Kindergarten

Laurn Martin's kindergarten class has been to the Ban Moo farm this past week.

To teach sorting, counting, patterning, grouping, likenesses and differences, attributes, and a variety of other skills, the class is learning about "junk math". They need contributions of "junk", including small hair accessories, Barbie accessories, plastic bugs, pencil erasers, and number flash cards.

Mrs. Steele's class did a thematic unit on seasons. Students read books and discussed the characteristics of the seasons. In computer lab the children explored the seasons on Summy Science House. In math they continued using manipulatives to do counting activities, and worked on number writing. They will do a unit on scarecrows and garden animals.

Mrs. Tew: what fall unit would be complete without the stars of the show, leaves? They will feature prominently this week.

Mrs. Sanders' class had a week with fall animals and scarecrows. Students learned about squirrels and raccoons, made scarecrows with fabric as well as pattern blocks, and read a great scarecrow book called The Little Old Lady Who Wasn't Afraid of Anything. In Letterland, they met Poor Peter and Kicking King. Next week in Letterland they will meet Eddy Elephant.

Mrs. Foster's students took a field trip to Ban Moo Farm. The children got to milk a cow, look for eggs, feed chickens, and pet others. They went on a scavenger hunt, a wagon ride, and picked pumpkins. In Letter Land they met Eddy Elephant and reviewed several letters. They will meet the letters L and V next week. Students talked about pumpkins and did many activities. They will be talking about fire safety. Firefighters and EMS will be coming to school this week. Students will be going over bus safety, so the children will learn how to evacuate a bus if ever needed.

First Grade

Mrs. White's class this month has been focusing on fire safety, Columbus Day, pumpkins and Halloween.

Mrs. Rogers' students have been talking about firefighters and how they help. The class is looking forward to a visit from local firefighters, the fire truck, and the Smoke House.

Second Grade

Mrs. Spach's students have been reading books about Halloween, fall, and Christopher Columbus. They worked on putting words in alphabetical order, learned where the index of a book is, and how to use an index. In spelling and reading, they worked on contractions. The class completed a social studies unit on communities, and finished a science unit on weather. Students are working on addition in math, and are being introduced to timed math testing.

Elizabeth Hill's second graders have read The Best Friends Club. To help the children learn what clubs are, they formed their own clubs, wrote rules for their clubs and drew pictures of what their clubhouse might look like. They have learned about the magic "e" and that he helps vowels to make the long vowel sound. They have worked on proper nouns. In computer lab students are learning about home row keys, "word munchers" of nouns, graphing, and taking AR tests in the lab.

Third Grade

In Mrs. Baker's class, students finished estimation and rounding with addition, and began subtraction. They completed Charlotte's Web, and have learned about communities.

Mrs. Hendrix's class has worked on estimating and rounding while subtracting 3 and 4 digit numbers. Students are beginning a unit on counting money.

Fourth Grade

Mrs. Ohr's students finished a unit in science on rocks and minerals. They concluded a chapter on graphs in math. The students had a lot of fun learning about circle, bar and line graphs. They will be starting multiplication and division. In preparation for the writing test in March, the students have been responding to one prompt a week. The routine is that the prompt is given on Monday and they are to create a circle map with as many brainstorming ideas as possible. On Tuesday the students are to choose one of their ideas and expand on it by placing their idea and details into a flow map. Wednesday and Thursday involve the students writing their story from the organized map that they had created the day before. The story is due on Friday. The students usually get their stories back the following week with comments to help when writing to the next prompt.

North Davie Middle

The Knight team has been busy. Students have been participating in a variety of engaging and interesting units of study.

During Prime Time, all students have been focusing on the theme of hard work. Students have been participating in a food drive to help the needy. Another exciting part of Prime Time has been meeting with our eighth grade buddies.

In language arts, students have been studying expressive writing. They have completed two writing prompts: "My Special Gift" and "A Person I Admire". In grammar, the focus has been on nouns, pronouns, and verbs. During literature, they are studying the thematic unit "Reaching Out".

In social studies, students are studying cultures and political systems. They created maps and made the Five Themes of Geography posters. They will begin a study of the History of European cultures and will learn about the Ancient Greeks and Romans, the Middle Ages, and the Renaissance. On Nov. 13, they will take a trip to the Greek Festival in Winston-Salem. They will read Door in the Wall, a novel that will integrate with this time period in history.

In science, Mrs. Hardister's and Mrs. Owens' students are finishing up a unit on the solar system. The unit included the study of space exploration, planets, galaxies, and stars. They read The Green Book by Jill Paton Walsh. This is a novel that ties in with the space unit. In addition to this, the students each completed a PowerPoint project on the solar system. The students did a fantastic job on these projects. We enjoyed viewing each of the projects during the in-class presentations. The next unit of study will begin soon.

Ms. Hall's science class has been studying soil and the impact on the environment. Students completed a soil profile folder and completed numerous experiments in which soil samples were analyzed. The students enjoyed these hands-on activities.

Ms. Lyerly's science class has been studying ecosystems. Students created biological organizational charts. Students also drew a diagram of a leaf and learned about leaf structure. Another area of focus has been the layers of the rainforest.

In math, Knight students have been working on a variety of skills. In addition to the basic skills such as multiplication and division, they have been learning about multiples, factors, fractions, problem solving. Students learned how to correctly use a compass and protractor. The students are enjoying using these tools. The students have been working hard in math. They are reviewing the earlier lessons, in addition to practicing the new concepts.

Davie High

The Armed Services Vocational Aptitude Battery (ASVAB) was given on Oct. 14 to 10th-12th graders who signed up. The ASVAB is an assessment used in career planning for high school students across the country. Students will receive their scores within 4-6 weeks along with an Exploring Careers Workbook, which guides the students through the career development process. Students will have an opportunity to go through the workbook with Rex Hobson, career development coordinator.

Cooleemee Elementary

First graders are learning about fall and the seasons. They are observing and writing about the changes. They have learned about Christopher Columbus, his ships and travels. In math, they are memorizing doubles facts.

Mrs. Saville's class has completed a study about animals' body coverings - scales, fur, feathers, shells, and skin. It was finished with a visit by a rose breasted cockatoo.

Fifth grade students in Mrs. Wilcox's class are writing. They have taken a practice test after studying the Thinking Maps to help with organization of a story. The class is wrapping up an OPAC lesson in the computer lab. They know that finding books in the media center will be a cinch. The next unit in social studies will focus on the history of this country and its government. This will follow with the election in November. The students have been attending parent conferences so they hear what Mrs. Wilcox has to say to their parents. It is important that the teacher, parents, and students work together for the benefit of the student's education.

National Authority Speaks At The Hill Center Kickoff

As part of a kickoff event for an early literacy project that will have a positive impact on several thousand preschoolers and elementary students in Davie County, The Hill Center in Durham recently hosted nationally-recognized authority on reading development, Dr. Joseph K. Torgeson.

Torgeson, the Robert M. Gagne Professor of Psychology and Education at Florida State University in Tallahassee, spoke on Sept. 28. Approximately 50 teachers, administrators, and reading consultants attended his presentation.

In his speech, titled "Helping All Children Build a Strong Foundation for Reading: Directions From Research," Torgeson discussed recent developments in reading research. He listed the following reasons for the national emphasis on reading development and research:

• Far too many poor and minority children are being left behind when it comes to growth of proficient reading skills;

• prevention of reading problems is far more effective and humane than trying to remediate after children fail; and

• new discoveries from scientific research about reading can provide the basis for improved outcomes for all children.

Torgeson summarized extensive research in reading development with the following list:

What we know about the growth of reading skills:

1. It is important to get off to a strong start in learning to read during early elementary school.

2. It is critical that children acquire skill in use of the alphabetic principle to help accurately identify unknown words early in development of reading skill.

3. Children who are delayed in the development of alphabetic understanding and skill struggle to become fluent readers.

4. Accurate and fluent word reading skills contribute importantly to the development of reading comprehension.

5. Oral language vocabulary and other forms of verbal and conceptual knowledge also contribute importantly to the development of reading comprehension.

6. Children must develop and actively use a variety of comprehension monitoring and comprehension building strategies to reliably construct the meaning of text.

7. Motivation for learning to read is important to early reading development, and continued motivation to read is critical for reading development after basic skills are well established—growth of reading skills after third and fourth grade is heavily influenced by the amount of reading the child does.

Torgeson said teachers must be relentless in their determination that no child should escape from first grade without being proficient in phonemic decoding skills. Beginning in kindergarten, teachers need to teach vocabulary and thinking skills as intensely and robustly as possible.

In relation to emergent literacy skills during the preschool years, the basic building blocks for learning to read and write, there are three domains of skills that are related to later (conventional) reading and writing: oral language, print knowledge and phonological awareness.

Children who catch on to reading early get much more reading practice than those who catch on late. They continue to be more accurate, skillful, and motivated readers, an advantage that continues throughout their school years.

Torgeson's presentation kicked off a four-year early literacy initiative funded by the Mebane Charitable Foundation. The initiative, called the Davie County Hill Early Literacy Project or HELP, will be led by faculty of The Hill Center, a nationally-recognized school in Durham that helps K-12 students who struggle with learning differences.

The Hill Center will provide professional development training for two groups of professionals in Davie County who work with children: early childhood providers serving young children in regulated child care facilities and kindergarten through third grade teachers of exceptional children in the public schools. The HELP initiative will be implemented across 4 years and results will be evaluated by Research Triangle Institute of Research Triangle Park.

For more information about the Davie County HELP initiative or for a copy of Torgeson's presentation, contact Marcia Haney at The Hill Center at 489-7464 ext. 722.

Mrs. Linkous' class are learning about the solar system. The students have been studying the moon each night and have discussed the moon's phases. They made a moon phase booklet. In cluster this week they are reading the book Horrible Harry Goes to the Moon to learn new information about the moon. They are reading a story by Paul Globe called Dream Wolf. Students will be sharing other books by Paul Globe as well as books about wolves.

During October, students in Mrs. Stein and Mrs. Seamon's kindergarten class have been serious about a study of fire safety. They were surprised by a visit from Sparky the Fire Dog and his friend who brought them pencils and a fire safety coloring book. Children have practiced how to stop, drop and roll, and how to call 911 in case of an emergency. All kindergartners and their teachers would like to thank the Cooleemee Fire Department for their help in teaching students about the importance of staying safe. In writing, students have been using their experiences at the Dixie Classic Fair to complete several activities. They have spent their time in the computer lab to create thinking maps on Kidspiration software. These maps which featured pictures of all the things they saw at the Dixie Classic Fair were used to create a classroom big book about the field trip. Students would like to thank all the parents who accompanied them on the trip. Several more trips are being planned so parents are reminded to check book bags daily for important information.

The 3rd Annual Fall Festival is next Friday. There will be games, including a large slide, obstacle course, moon walk, basketball and baseball. Play bingo, join the cupcake walk and have your face painted. Local businesses have donated prizes and raffle tickets will be available for $1. If you're hungry, hot dogs, chips and a drink will be on sale for $1.50 or a snowcone for $1. Admission is free and game tickets are 50¢. All children must be accompanied by an adult.

Reporting for Mrs. Baisley and Mrs. Hollifield's third grade class are Jordan Lagle and Ryan Ball.

This week we've been studying about the human body and the skeletal system.

In math we're practicing adding 7 and 8 facts and we're counting quarters. We can now count by 2s, 5s, 7s, 10s, 12s, 25s, and odd numbers.

We are going to go to Horizons in Salisbury and participate in two programs. One will teach us about the moon, the other will teach us about Indians and how they used the earth.

Students in June Johnson's class are exploring the election process in the democratic society. They are analyzing the political events such as the presidential debates and examining the platforms of both candidates. Students have written essays explaining decisions they would make as president. They have also been discussing qualities of good leadership.

In the guidance department ...

• Peer groups discussing friendship, how to get along with others, and dealing with parents who are separated...a second round of groups will be offered in November.

• Gathering information for families who will need extra help this holiday season. If you are interested, please call for more information.

• Aerobics is offered to staff on Thursdays...this may change to Wednesday...also looking to incorporate other exercise options, such as yoga, strength training and relaxation.

• Beginning an Anti-Bully Campaign.

• The Guidance bulletin board offers words of wisdom (new each week), information on making referrals for counseling (can be made by filling out a referral form or just give Ms. Watkins a call).

• Suggestions, requests for advice is appreciated.

Students in Mrs. Terry's communications class are enjoying stories as they work on reading skills including cause and effect, context clues, and story elements. Students read a book about the Spanish Armada that tied into the social studies unit of study. Grammar lessons have been focusing on parts of sentences and writing complete sentences. Science terms make up the most recent spelling list.

Math students are learning units, abbreviations, and how to measure in the metric and customary systems of measurement. Students continue to work on basic operations and mental math.

European exploration and settlement in the western hemisphere during the 1500s and 1600s is the current topic in the study of the history of the United States.

Fifth graders are writing essays to summarize what they have learned in the D.A.R.E. program this year. The graduation ceremony will be held Oct. 27 with a special appearance by Miss North Carolina.

A reminder to parents: Fridays, Oct. 22 and 29, preschool hour 11:30-12:30; Thursday, Oct. 21 - Honor Roll Assembly for grades 3,4, and 5, 2 p.m.; Friday, Oct. 22 - Fall Festival 5-8 p.m., yearbooks on sale 5-6:30 p.m. in front the of the Media Center; Tuesday, Oct. 26 - Family Reading Night in the Media Center, 6:30-8 p.m.; Wednesday, Oct. 27 - DARE graduation for fifth grade; Friday, Oct. 20 - Fall Field Day.

Student of the Week, Oct. 11: Colby Heiner, Deanna Torres, Duncan Curil, Matison Keegan, Bo Rollins, John Tutterow, Autumn Stowers, Gregory Jones, Logan Kontz, Meredith Kurfees, Will Canter-Robinson, Sara Wishon, Nathan Hass, Brooke Carey, Crystal Castor, Jessica Brown, Travis Partin, J.J. Morrison.

The first graders in Mrs. Bell and Mrs. Knight's class have had a great first semester. Mrs. Bell and Mrs. Knight are pleased with the progress their students are making. Mrs. Bell is looking forward to sharing this progress with parents during conferences.

In class, the students have been reading stories in their basal reader that spoke about different animals. This gave us a chance to write stories about the different pets we have at home. In math, we have started memorizing some addition facts, which the children are practicing daily. We also did a seasonal activity in math where the students used fall and Halloween confetti to make patterns on pumpkins. These pumpkins added a nice sparkle to our pumpkin patch.

Mrs. Julie Fletcher and Mrs. Diane Sutton's second graders are learning about matter. They are learning the differences between a solid, liquid and a gas by performing various experiments. The class has also been studying about sound. They have conducted several experiments to show how sound travels and vibrates. The students have enjoyed learning about bats and echolocation sound waves. They made several art activities and created cinquains about bats.

Ms. Galliher and Mrs. Hursey's third grade class has been very busy. We just completed our science unit on the skeletal and muscular system. They really enjoyed this unit and did a lots of hands-on activities such as building a hand with pasta. In reading, we are finishing up "The Haunting of Grade 3." The kids have really enjoyed trying to solve the mystery of Blackwell Mansion. In social studies, we are busy talking about the upcoming election. We are talking about the President and the many responsibilities he has. In math, we are continuing to learn our addition facts. We are also beginning to talk about line segments. We will also be decorating pumpkins to express our creative abilities.

Our class is beginning our novel, Sadako and the Thousand Paper Cranes by Eleanor Coerr. We spent several days last week researching topics related to our novel: Japan, Hiroshima, leukemia, atomic bomb and World War II. Each group worked very well together and enjoyed presenting their findings to the class. One group of students took the actual measurements of the atomic bomb, "Little Boy," and drew a life-size picture of it. With this background knowledge, the story of Sadako should be more meaningful for every student.

As our first quarter of school comes to a close, students are using class time to complete various projects. In social studies, they are researching our country's regions. We hope to use this information to make power point presentations on the various states and regions. In science, we are wrapping up our landform unit by making a model of the landforms found in America and placing them on a map. The students are also enjoying using a stream table to learn about how water forces cause weathering, erosion and deposition. Division is our focus during math time. We are excited about our upcoming DARE graduation Oct. 26 and our school's Fall Festival Oct. 28.

Davie Winning At State Senior Games

North Carolina' Senior Games State Finals are under way and Davie County is well represented.

New this year is a women's softball team playing in the 55+ age bracket.

They went to Raleigh in September and played two games, scoring 7 runs in each game, but did not win either game. Then, Sept. 30-Oct. 2, there were 15 athletic entrants in the athletic events and four entrants in the Silver Arts area. These 15 athletes brought home 11 gold medals, 15 silver medals and 8 bronze medals.

This year in Raleigh, Davie County Senior Olympians in the women's age 60-64 brought home first, second and third place in two events. In horseshoes, it was Charlotte Miller, Aileen Steelman and Lois Green.

In shot-put, it was Aileen Steelman, Lois Green and Alice Barnette.

Medal winners are list below in their age category.

- 85-89 age group, Ruby McBride brought home the medal for spin casting with 17 points.
- In the 80-84 age group, Nancy Tutteor and Hollis Smith each brought home five medals.

Nancy Tutterow, 80-84 age group, first, basketball shooting with 8 shots, football throw with 110 points (tied with Hollis); second, running long jump with 4-4 1/2, spin casting with 11 points; and third, standing long jump with 2-10 1/4.

Hollis Smith, 80-84 age group, first, football throw with 110 points (tied with Nancy); second, basketball shooting with 7 shots, spin casting with 18 points, standing long jump with 3-3 3/4; and third, running long jump, 4-2 1/2.

George Kimberly, 70-74 agegroup, first, basketball shooting with 15 shots.

- There were three in the 65-69 age group, Sue Allen, Nancy Haynes and David Miller.

Sue Allen, 65-69 age group, second, basketball shooting with 12 points; and third, discus throw with 52-6.

David Miller, 65-69 age group, third, shuffleboard.

The largest number of participants on the local levlel and the state level are in the 60-64 age group. Representing Davie County in this age group were Alice Barnette, Mike Barnette, Loise Green, Charlotte Miller, Dave Salmon, Aileen Steelman and John Wright.

Charlotte Miller set a record for women in basketball shooting by hitting all 18 shots.

Alice Barnette, 60-64 age group, third, shot putt with 21-6.

Lois Green, 60-64 age group, first, football throw with 130 points, spin casting with 13 points; second, discus throw with 54-2, shot-put with 22-4; and third, horseshoes.

Charlotte Miller, 60-64 age group, first basketball shooting with 18 points (state record); horseshoes; shuffleboard.

Dave Salmon, 60-64 age group, second, 5K run, 21 minutes 35 seconds.

Aileen Steelman, 60-64 age group, first, discus throw 74-3, shot-put with 28-9 3/4; second, horseshoes, standing long jump with 4-10 1/4; spin casting with 12 points; football throw with 90-3 1/2; football throw with 12 points.

John Wright, 60-64 age group, second, baseball shooting with 16 points; 1500 meter race walk in 10 minutes in 10 1/2 seconds.

There were four entrants in the Silver Arts division at state finals, Daphne Slate and Juanita Sawyer in heritage arts, Marie Barnes in visual arts, and George Kimberly in literary arts.

There are state finals in golf, bocce and the basketball tournament to be played later in this month. Davie Couty has four participants in golf, nine in bocce and three basketball teams.

Davie County Senior Games is open to everyone 55 and over. To get more information on being a part of Senior Games call Mocksville-Davie Parks and Recreation. Sandra Boyette is the director of Senior Games.

Mocksville-Davie Parks and Recreation, Davie Family YMCA , Senior Services, Town of Mocksville, County of Davie, and individual donations sponsor Davie County Senior Games. The Grand Patron sponsor for all Senior Games in North Carolina is the North Carolina Division of Aging and Adult Services.

Life With An Abuser ...

By Pam Brake
Service Coordinator
DDVS/ RCC

Life with an abuser can be a dizzying way of exciting good times and painful periods of verbal, physical or sexual assault. The longer the relationship lasts, the shorter and farther apart the positive periods tend to become. If you have been involved with an abusive partner for many years, the good periods may have stopped happening altogether, so that he is an unvarying source of misery.

Periods of relative calm are followed by a few days or weeks in which the abuser becomes increasingly irritable. As his tension builds, it takes less and less to set him off on a tirade of insults. His excuses for not carrying his weight mount up, and his criticism and displeasure seem constant. Many women learn to read their partner's moods during this buildup and can sense when he is nearing a eruption. One day he finally hits his limit, often over the most trivial issue, and he bursts out with screaming, disgusting and hurtful putdowns, or frightening aggression. If he is a violent abuser, he turns himself loose to knock over chairs, hurl objects, punch holes in walls, or assault his partner directly, leaving her scared to death.

After he has purged himself, he typically acts ashamed or regretful about his cruelty or violence, at least in the early years of a relationship. Then he may enter a period when he reminds you of the man you fell in love with - charming, attentive, funny, kind. His actions have the effect of that drawing you into a repetitive traumatic cycle in which you hope each time that he is finally going to change for good. You then begin to see the signs of his next slow slide back into abuse, and your anxiety and confusion rise again.

Most of my information comes from a book titled Why Does He Do That? The Minds of Angry and Controlling Men, by Lundy Bancroft.

October is National Domestic Violence Awareness Month. If you or someone you know is in a domestic violence situation, please contact the office at 751-HELP. You are not alone. Davie Domestic Violence Services and Rape Crisis Center is a United Way agency.

NOTICE TO PUBLIC

Davie County is committed to fair housing opportunities for all of the County's residents. The County has adopted a Resolution in support of Fair Housing which finds the denial of equal housing opportunities because of religion, race, color, sex, national origin, familial or handicap status legally wrong and socially unjust. The County has established a complaint procedure by which to receive and document complaints regarding housing discrimination in Davie County. Such complaints will be referred to the North Carolina Human Relations Council for investigation, conciliation and resolution. If you have a discrimination complaint, please call the Terry Bralley, County Manager, (336) 751-5513 weekdays, between 9:00 am and 5:00 pm.

Hearing impaired persons desiring additional information or having questions regarding this subject should call the North Carolina Relay Number for the Deaf (1-800-735-8262).

Four Seek Three Spots On County Board

The landscape of Davie County is once again in full bloom with candidates' signs as election Tuesday draws near. Among the races are three open seats on the board of county commissioners.

Voters can choose three from among four candidates, Republicans, incumbent Richard Poindexter, newcomers Johnny Frye and Tom Fleming, and Democrat Tama O'Mara.

Incumbent Dan Barrett chose to not run for re-election, and commissioner Ken White placed a close fourth behind Poindexter in the July primary.

Poindexter is a life long resident and has a long history of public service in Davie. He is a former chair of the Davie Board of Health and has served on the hospital and solid waste boards, as well as the Criminal Justice Advisory and Land Use and Economic Development committees.

Poindexter said his long history with Davie led him to run for re-election.

"I have a love for the people and rural atmosphere of Davie County," Poindexter said. "I would like to preserve this for future generations."

Poindexter said there are several key issues that are facing the board, but that none stands before others in manner of importance. He said if re-elected, he will continue to work on creating jobs, reducing tax burdens, making the hospital viable, promoting the community college and helping the county find ways to fund the water and sewer development.

With revaluation every four years, Poindexter said he would use every method at his disposal to keep county taxes low.

"It has been a great honor for me to serve the people of Davie county for the past eight years," Poindexter said. "If re-elected, I will continue to work hard for you. My vote will always be for what is right, fair and good for the people of Davie County."

Frye is the former director of Davie County EMS and the top vote getter in the July primary.

Frye said he is a good communicator who has a strong understanding of state and federal issues that affect the residents of Davie. As director of EMS, he said he developed a relationship with other county leaders that translates to a beneficial position on the board.

Frye wants to look at and properly respond to issues facing the growing county.

"We, the citizens of Davie County, are faced with several issues," Frye said. "These issues need to be addressed not only for today but also for our future."

Frye said none of the issues are a quick fix, and require long term planning to reduce costs and maximize benefits. He said he is one candidate who can help move Davie County forward into a bright future.

Frye said one of his strengths that helps set him apart from some of the other candidates is his ability to bring common sense back to local government. He believes the residents of the county need to support the Davie Hospital, which he calls one of the county's greatest assets.

"When you have a good medical facility, that's an attraction that is favorable to new industry and employers looking to relocate

Boo Bash, Carnival Saturday, Sunday

There are plenty of activities for Davie residents to do this Halloween weekend, from church events to community festivals.

While Mocksville and Davie County officials made no announcements about trick or treating, Cooleemee Town Board members decided that trick or treating there should be on Saturday, Oct. 30. Several activities are planned that day, according to Town Clerk Dolly Urdanick.

Also on Saturday night is the annual Boo Bash sponsored by the Davie County Arts Council, and on Sunday, the Mocksville/Davie Recreation Department will hold a Halloween carnival.

The Boo Bash starts at 6 p.m. at the Brock Performing Arts Center on North Main Street, Mocksville, with a chili and hotdog dinner. A bonfire in the parking lot will be for roasting marshmallows.

There will be a family (including pets) costume contest, with categories including cutest, scariest, prettiest, and most creative.

A pumpkin decorating or carving contest is open to children and adults. Pumpkins should be submitted by Oct. 29.

The evening will end with a showing of the movie, "It's A Great Pumpkin, Charlie Brown."

The dinner costs $5, all other events are free. Proceeds will go to the Arts in Education program in Davie County Schools. For more information, contact Regan Jones at 751-3112.

The Halloween Carnival will be from 5:30-7:30 p.m. Sunday at the Brock Gym on North Main Street in Mocksville. Proceeds will benefit the Davie Youth Council.

There will be a variety of carnival games, with a winner every time. Games are played with one ticket, and tickets are 50 cents each or 10 for $4.

"Cool" tatoos will be available, and a "spooky maze" will be set up.

Refreshments will include hotdogs, pizza, drinks, popcorn and chips.

Fugitive Escapes After Chase From Police

By Mike Gunning
Davie County Enterprise Record

Davie County sheriff's detectives are searching for a fugitive who escaped arrest after a high speed chase that ended with two wrecked vehicles on the morning of Friday, Oct. 25.

Marcus Jerome Fortune of 145 Etchison St. in Mocksville is believed to be possibly armed and dangerous, said Detective J.D. Hartman.

Hartman said Fortune tried to evade arrest by speeding away from officers when he was spotted sitting in a vehicle in the driveway of a house believed to be vacant.

Hartman said he knew Fortune was not a licensed driver, and saw Fortune drive a vehicle belonging to Pamela Evette Alexander out of the driveway in the opposite direction

Officials Eye Leads In DHS Vandalism

Davie County sheriff detectives are working with school officials to determine who vandalized Davie High School Saturday evening by spray painting graffiti on the school and smashing decorative pumpkin displays.

An unknown number of vandals spray painted profanity on windows, doors, sidewalks, the new concession stand and football goalposts. Ten school buses were also vandalized.

Police estimate the amount of damage to exceed $11,000.

Although police have not made arrests, school resource officers are working closely with principal Larry Bridgewater on information that has been coming in.

"We've got some pretty good leads to work with," Bridgewater said. "At this point we're optimistic that we'll get to the bottom of things."

Culture Comes To Mocksville With 'Romeo'

It was a risky booking. Fortunately, the English teachers of Davie County High saved the day.

On Monday, the Shakespeare tragedy Romeo & Juliet was performed in the Brock Center in Mocksville.

A touring company with British credentials performed the play in the classic verse written by the Bard himself.

It wasn't the typical bluegrass and country music shows that have been so popular in the usual Brock and Davie Arts Council diet of performances.

This show required an acquired taste.

The Brock wasn't packed, but there was a very respectable crowd. Some English teachers offered extra credit for attendance, and there were quite a few teenage girls there with their mothers in tow.

The play was good.

I have liked Shakespeare since a college professor taught me long ago how to spot all the bawdy lines. Now the game for me is to be able to understand as much as possible, not to understand it all.

Movies of Romeo & Juliet have been popular, but a live performance requires close study. All those famous lines come out about nightingales or larks, about poisons and swords and love and despair and the question of the age: Wherefore art thou?

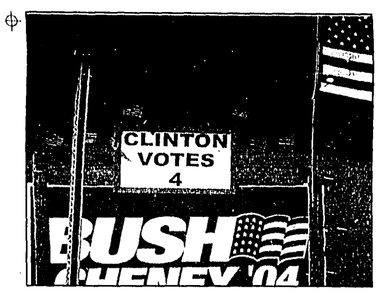
In the end, just about everyone dies in a stinking tomb. That's never a popular way of ending things, but Shakespeare obviously knew what he was doing.

The Enterprise-Record was the sponsor of the play, and I received a handful of free tickets. I had some trouble finding takers among the staff. My offers were met with squeamishness.

Needless to say, those of us at the Brock on Monday must have been the cultural elite of Davie County — sophisticated, civilized and oh-so-proper.

My son, 13, didn't have a choice about attending — nor did he get extra credit at school. Resigned with his fate, he sat back and let culture wash over him.

My complaint with the Brock performance was that Romeo was not the most handsome member of the cast. Any Juliet with proper eyesight would have fallen for Paris, who got himself killed, or Tybalt, a hothead who also took a rapier to the chest. Ironically, Paris and Tybalt were played by the same nimble actor. But neither was good enough for Juliet.



This Clinton's for Bush

Other newspapers have reported it differently, but the truth is this: Clinton is voting for Bush.

Clinton Ellis, that is.

While former President Clinton, recovering from heart surgery, stumped this week for Sen. John Kerry, Davie County's Clinton was making the opposite statement.

Ellis has planted a huge Bush-Cheney poster at his home on N.C. 801 near Farmington. Above it, he has added the words, "Clinton Votes For."

A Republican since the days of Eisenhour, Ellis' sign has attracted the eye of curious motorists.

He did attend the Clinton inauguration in 1992 to see his namesake, and he suffered many Clinton jokes during that presidency. Now it's his turn to make the joke.

President, First Lady Should Have Morals

To the editor:

There have been many letters to the editor regarding the upcoming presidential election. I am a pro-life and traditional family values voter and will always vote for the candidate who upholds these values.

I have been accused of voting for only one issue - morality. Isn't that the key issue to support all other issues?

Let's take the Social Security crisis. Obviously, there is poor financial handling in the government with this money, but has anyone ever considered this: Since Roe vs. Wade, millions of aborted babies could have helped the Social Security system if they had been allowed the right to life. These slaughtered babies could have grown up, worked, and helped pay into Social Security, which certainly would have amply provided for the preceding generations of retired people.

Let's look at the issue of traditional family values. If we legalize same-sex marriage, then eventually there may be legalized incestuous marriage, legalized polygamous marriage, etc. etc. What message will we be sending our children?

Let's look at the moral issue of supporting those brave Americans who are willing to sacrifice their lives so that we can be safe and free. Isn't it fair to assume that those Americans or candidates who are against the Iraq War, must also be against our brave American troops - either we support our brave American troops entirely, or we are not supporting them at all.

Let's look at embryonic stem cell research, which is also a moral issue. Can you, in good conscience, support killing innocent life in order to save life? We can use adult stem cells for the same purpose without killing innocent life. If we allow embryonic stem cells to be destroyed, then the next step will be human cloning, which is already being pursued abroad.

Let's look at terrorism. Can you honestly vote for someone who is endorsed by a terrorist? John Kerry has been endorsed by Yassir Arafat - leader of the Palestinian Authority, who is responsible for orchestrating suicide attacks against Israel. This alone sends a message from the terrorists that they do not want our current president in office. We need to send the terrorists a message: We will not accept your endorsemen.

How about an agenda for the First Lady that focuses on gay rights. Would you want a First Lady who supports and advocates gay rights. Teresa Heinz-Kerry has pledged to make gay tolerance a centerpiece of her First Lady duties. She quotes, "A person doesn't choose their sexuality. For the other side, there's a tinge of the suggestion of sin, of the choice of misbehavior, which is not the case at all." Excuse me, but homosexuality is not a "tinge of the suggestion of sin"; it is an "abomination" in God's own words. (Leviticus 18:22; Romans 1:26, 27; 1 Corinthians 6:9,10).

It is extremely important that we have a President and First Lady in the White House with true moral authority. There is only one candidate who supports these moral values: George W. Bush.

If you believe that morality is indeed the fundamental issue when voting in the 2004 presidential election, then I applaud your reasoning. However, if you think that morality is not the key issue in this election, then you may well see "Sodom and Gomorrah" revisited.

Many Support Library Programs

To the editor:

Once again residents of Davie County enjoyed wonderful programs presented by Dr. Elliot Engel on Oct. 14. The Davie County Public Library looks forward to providing these programs and has partial funding from the Mary and Jane McGuire Library Trust Fund. This fund also helps finance youth programs and other programs for adults during the year. Thanks to a generous grant through the Davie County Arts Council, the programs by Dr. Engel received much needed, much appreciated support from the N.C. Arts Council, an agency funded by the State of North Carolina and the National Endowment for the Arts.

The Rotary Club of Mocksville, the Mocksville Woman's Club and teachers at Davie High School helped promote the programs.

The Enterprise Record donated valuable space for a photograph and article about Dr. Engel's programs. Ongoing support from the newspaper helps make people aware of library resources. Coverage by the news is an essential part of successful programs.

The library extends a sincere thank you to all of these groups who contributed to the programs.

Don't Be Deceived By Halloween

To the editor:

I remember the good old days in the 1960s when I used to look forward to Halloween. It seemed so innocent and fun to dress up in scary costumes and go from house to house and get candy. Even though there was talk of putting razor blades in apples, and poisoning candy, I still enjoyed going trick-or-treating - even if the bag had to be checked before eating any of the contents.

In the home where I was raised, we had a Ouija board. The mystery and excitement in using it fascinated me. My siblings and I would hold a seance in an effort to contact the dead. I can remember the more daring vandals in school visiting cemeteries at midnight and damaging property.

Contrary to popular belief, Halloween is not an innocent holiday. Many people tend to explore the dark side of Halloween mostly out of curiosity. This is one of the most harmful aspects of the holiday. People tend to do things they normally wouldn't do at this time of year.

Don't be deceived like I was.

The spirit world is very real - just as real as the physical world - influential and powerful. If you aren't careful, or aware of the dangers, then I can assure you that you'll be asking for trouble. I reiterate, this is for real ... I went through some unpleasant experiences.

This nation is experiencing a pagan invasion. The practice of witchcraft, the New Age, and Satanism is done all over this country, especially on Halloween. People try to communicate with the dead by holding a seance. This is a form of witchcraft. Uninformed people are not aware that there are really demonic spirits that can be contacted whether they intentionally want to contact them or not. When you try to communicate with the "spirits", you may be inviting unwanted spirits that will torment you. Trust me on this one, it happened to me.

Satan is a master of deceit "Now the serpent was more subtle than any beast of the field which the Lord God has made." Genesis 3:1 He will let you think that there is nothing wrong with celebrating Halloween - that it's harmless and fun for the children. What's wrong with giving candy to the children, and dressing up in costumes? Nothing, but let's take a look at the origin of "Trick or Treat" and Halloween:

Halloween started in the British Isles with people called Druids (Pagans). Oct. 31 was a night of terror called "Samhaine" (pronounced "sow-en") and considered a Holy Day for Pagans. That night the Druids would go from house to house taking victims for human sacrifice (usually virgins). In exchange for the victim, they left a Jack-o-Lantern ... which was supposed to protect the home from death demons that night. Often on Oct. 31 at midnight, some religions and Satanists perform macabre ceremonies and rituals, like sacrificing animals - even people. Surprisingly, it still happens.

The Bible specifically shows how God feels about forbidden pagan practices. "Thou shalt not do so unto the Lord thy God: for every abomination to the Lord, which he hateth, have they done unto their gods; for even their sons and their daughters they have burnt in the fire to their gods." Deuteronomy 12:31.

"There shall not be found among you any one that maketh his son or his daughter to pass through the fire, or that useth divination, or an observer of times, or an enchanter, or a witch. Or a charmer, or a consulter with familiar spirits, or a wizard, or a necromancer. For all that do these things are an abomination unto the Lord and because of these abominations the Lord thy God doth drive them out from before thee." Deuteronomy 18:10-12

"And have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather reprove them. For it is a shame even to speak of those things which are done of them in secret." Ephesians 5:11-12

As a Christian, I can find ways to glorify God without celebrating the dark side of Halloween. This year I plan to attend a fall festival, illuminate a pumpkin carved with 3 crosses, and give out gospel tracts relating to Halloween.

Find other great Halloween alternative ideas.

Kerry, Edwards Have Plans

To the editor:

I was delighted to read the NY Times editorial on Oct. 19, indicating that many Republicans are starting to question President Bush's judgment and the basis for his judgments. America is a democracy, not a theocracy. We base our decisions on facts and the will of the people, not on a divinely appointed leader's intuition of what the facts should be. We are opposed to theocracies such as the Taliban, knowing full well the dangers of certainty coupled with fervor and error.

It's time for rational Republicans to embrace realism and vote for John Kerry and John Edwards who have developed thoughtful, compassionate, collaborative plans to respond sensibly to the problems facing the US and the world.

Broughton Patients Deserve Support

To the editor:

For the past approximately 35 years, the Broughton State psychiatric hospital, which serves the 37 westernmost counties in N.C. has benefitted from Davie County's generous people's support. This project was originally called Operation Santa Claus and now Broughton Hospital Cheer Fund or Operation Christmas. For most of these 35 years, the work of solicitation, gathering donated gifts and money and taking a yearly trip to the hospital for delivery, sorting and wrapping these gifts has been under the "umbrella" of the Davie County United Methodist Women. Other donations, large and small, have come from these Methodist churches as well as Extension Homemakers clubs. The last fiscal year saw 3,323 people admitted to the hospital from these 37 counties with an average of 322 patients being treated daily. Almost half of these patients are indigent, and have no income or family contact. As most of you readers are well aware, the state budget cannot meet all the personal needs of these patients.

According to records, the Cheer Fund, (mentioned above) has provided eyeglasses, clothes, shoes, Christmas gifts, Bibles and religious literature for the Chaplaincy program. This Cheer Fund is not used for administrative expenses but is used specifically for the patients' needs.

This year we would like to make all our readers aware of this most worthwhile project. You do not have to be affiliated with any church or organization. Just make a check in any amount to the Broughton Hospital Cheer Fund and mail it to Broughton Volunteer Services, 1000 S. Sterling St., Morganton, NC 28655 or c/o Liberty United Methodist Church, 129 Liberty Circle, Mocksville, NC 27028. If you prefer to donate specific items, call Vada Beck or Helen Foster for the patients' need's list: (Vada - 998-3140; Helen 284-4330.) If you'd like to accompany other volunteers to deliver, sort and wrap gifts on December 16, call Vada or Helen or they will pick up your gifts or give you a drop off location. Liberty's church van will provide transportation, and other vans can go if necessary. Please put this request on your Christmas "give" list this year. Everything done for these patients depends on the generosity and compassion of people like you, dear readers. Thank you in advance for your support.

Helen Foster, Mocksville

Kerry Would Reverse Morals

To the editor:

By the way, I would like to know how John Kerry became an instant authority on ESCR. The evidence is vague at the least on any kind of value that is yet to be proven as a result of stem cell research. The facts are that nothing concrete has been gained by the study of Embryonic Stem Cell Research. Even now the evidence is unclear because researchers cannot manipulate the growth of the ES cells in a cultured environment. What is clear is that the injection of ESC into mice has and can cause the growth of massive tumors in these lab rats. The evidence suggests that human use of embryonic stem cells will result in massive and life long doses of anti rejection drugs. This takes into consideration that the person is deemed an eligible candidate for the research.

The other thing what would make a person a candidate for human treatment? Money and lots of it. Talk about the ethical treatment of all people.

The bottom line is that John Kerry is playing on the sympathies of the people. Embryonic stem cell research has not been proven effective in the treatment of any disease. This would not have helped Christopher Reeve, nor will it help Michael J. Fox and if John Kerry implies anything different, it is a lie.

This leads into my next point. Kudos to Mr. Calvin Ijames for his letter to the editor this past week. Why are we so worried about all the other things when there are 4,500 babies killed per day through abortion? God is sad and He is crying for the senseless murder of our children. Which candidate that is elected as our next president is going to influence morality and decency in our country. So, with that said you choose for the man that has best upheld the Godly truths of this country when you go to the polls on Nov. 2. All the jargon that we are hearing from both sides will pale in comparison when our Lord Jesus Christ appears in all His glory. Don't let the subtle influences of John Kerry sway the moral and ethical decisions that this country must make to please God.

If elected, John Kerry will succeed in reversing any moral victory that President Bush has fought to establish. Look at Kerry's vote to not ban partial birth abortion. See exactly how John Kerry plays the choice card. No one is giving the unborn children a choice in the partial birth instance. Money this is what the election is about.

Rick Spry , Mocksville

Vote For George Bush Nov. 2

To the editor:

The TV stations along with radio broadcasts everywhere have begun to announce the tragedy of a such a vicious act against the United States. No one really thought it could happen to us, not on our own soil. The thousands of innocent people killed and the radiation spreading rapidly throughout the cities. So many bodies have been found and so many are still missing.

The mushroom clouds were said to be seen over 20 miles away and the Earth shaking for more than 100. People from all around the globe are in awe that what was once the greatest country on Earth is now on the brink of complete destruction. Many said they knew it would happen, while others say that they still had faith that somehow we would survive such a horrific mistake.

The terrorists and their supporting nations, Iran, Syria, Iraq and Afghanistan have all stepped up on live broadcasts to admit their help in the assaults on America. The new leader of the main forces against the US, Alascar Bulhamed, says this is just the beginning of the end of freedom throughout the world. His final words in a speech at the UN were from a quote by our president, John Kerry. He said, "The US did not pass the global test."

If we let this election slip through our fingers, these will be the stories that will be read by whoever are the survivors of our nation. As we will be under the authority of a person who has shown that we will not lead if he is elected, we will be led. John Kerry has proven time and time again that he will allow our country to be run by those nations that already have jealousy and hatred for us now.

Do fathers really want to have to tuck their children into bed at night by telling them, "Goodnight, and don't forget to pray." After the attack on our country today, our president, John Kerry, must go to the UN and ask permission to retaliate against the enemy before they strike us again. Pray very hard that we survive another day and that God will help us make it through these dangerous times.

Do we want the mothers of our children to have to watch over their shoulder as they take the children to the bus stop, to wonder if their children will survive another day of terror attacks on our soil since our leader would rather the enemy come to us than we confront them abroad? I don't think that is the America we want to live in. I know it is not the America that our founding fathers fought so hard to make a land of the free and home of the brave.

Do the right thing, if not for us, for our children and their children to come. Vote for George Bush on Nov. 2. Save our country and all of the lives of those who should have a right to grow up safe as we did. If you care about your country, your rights, freedom and liberty, the only choice for President is clearly George Bush.

Leash Laws

Now and then there is a dog shooting or someone runs over one and there is a big harangue by the animal idiots for more ordinances and the county's burden of implementation.

Bert Bahnson

What's wrong with looking after your own dog?

If you opt for the lazy way out and don't restrain your pet by teaching or fencing and it gets in dire straits, it's your fault, no one else's.

People with sense know that a neighbor likes his livestock more than their dog and will not tolerate a nuisance to his livelihood. They ought to be able to figure out that a dog is no match for a car, so keep it off the road.

This county does not need a leash law. It needs people who accept the responsibility of pet ownership and understand the consequences of failing to do so.

Time For Clear-Minded Thinking

To the editor:

It seems the time has come to do some clear-minded thinking, followed by correct actions, concerning the upcoming election. Most of us are very weary of all the pros and cons of candidates - local to national.

It has become the norm that mudslinging and worse is a given in every election. Listening, watching the debates, ads, interviews, columns, all fall far short in what the voting public really wants and needs to know to make the kind of decisions that are expected to be made in these serious times.

Beward of candidates who make too many promises, with no hint of a plan to bring them to fruition. Also, look back into a candidate's life to see how its been conducted before the campaigns started.

What have they accomplished so far in their lives? What ethics do they display in their work, in their personal lives? How well do they get along with others?

Think on these things and any others that are applicable, then go vote to the best of your ability. Vote, praying all the while that you have reached the right decision for this time.

Safety Fair Was A Success

To the editor:

Your Mocksville Wal-Mart had a Safety Fair, a two-day event beginning Friday, Oct. 8. There were stations set up in the store - Lyndhurst OB/GYN, Davie Domestic Violence, Davie County Hospital, and Speaking of Women's Health. There was great information on women's health, domestic violence, blood pressure checks and pamphlets.

On Saturday, Oct. 9, in the parking lot, we had the Center Fire Department, Mocksville Fire Department, Mocksville Police Department, N.C. Highway Patrol, Davie EMS, Davie Social Services, the Pepsi clown, Hidden Meadows Christian Youth Ranch and Mocksville Civitans offering everything from fingerprinting to car safety seat checks, balloon animals, tours of fire trucks, Dunk-A-Cop and going through a smoke-filled simulator.

What a wealth of information to share with our community.

We would like to say thank you. Sometimes, when you start calling names, you forget some unintentionally, so we would like to thank each group or person a thousand times over for everything you did to make our safety fair fun, informative and successful.

Alicia Moore, safety leader

Time For Alcohol Sales In Davie

To the editor:

I grew up in Davie County for the first 24 years of my life. My friends, along with everyone else who drank, went to Cooleemee or Clemmons to get beer, which made little sense to me at the time, and even less now.

We could all argue our particular side of the issue, while in the meantime our neighbors are collecting our money. I operate a successful restaurant/bar in Charlotte. I would love nothing more than to bring an upscale establishment, such as mine, to Mocksville. I think Davie County deserves and will soon be ready for a place that you can actually have a dining experience. Along with jobs and tax revenue I feel that an upscale restaurant, yes, one that serves alcohol, would be something for the community to be proud to have. It's time to accept the fact that it's going to happen. So why not make the transition under the watchful eye of city and county leaders with the most knowledge as opposed to waiting until someone else does it for you?

3 Republicans, 1 Democrat Seek Seat On County Board or build in this area," Frye said. "We need to work and communicate together to make the hospital continue to work."

Fleming is the owner of Mocksville Builders Supply, and formerly served on the Mocksville Town Board. A resident of Bermuda Run, Fleming said he is familiar with the water issues facing the county. He believes a joint effort between Mocksville and the county would relieve much of the problem.

"We need to get the town to reach out to the areas they can touch," Fleming said. "I don't think we're spending enough on water, we need water for economic development."

Fleming said the board needs a member who can help manage the growth. He said his business experience makes him a top candidate to handle that chore.

"Along with (managing growth) comes the opportunity to continue to recruit economic development," Fleming said. "This will grow our tax base, create jobs, and allow us to continue quality development."

Fleming believes it to be a wise investment to use resources to upgrade the county's water system. He said infrastructure improvements would pay large dividends in the future.

"Our water system is extremely important for safety, growth, land values and a better quality of life," Fleming said. "This infrastructure is the basis for the roadmap of the future."

O'Mara said she knew when she decided to run for county commissioner that she had the cards stacked against her. As the sole Democrat, O'mara hopes her conservative, common sense approach to government will carry enough favor with the voters to give her one of the three available seats.

"My theory is this country was built on a two-party system," O'Mara said. "I want the people of the county to know they have a choice."

Although O'Mara may not share all the political views of the other candidates, she said she knows them well. As a lifelong resident of the county, the 66 year old former small business accountant calls the members of the board her friends.

"I know all of them," O'Mara said. "I believe I would be able to work quite well with them."

O'Mara said her accounting background gives her an advantage, particularly in the area of fiscal responcibilty and reading financial statements. She is the treasurer of the county Democratic Party, as well as the treasurer of Advance United Methodist Church.

O'Mara said she was pleased to see the commissioners start a water program, and said she would like to see the plan carried out. O'Mara, who lives in Advance, said she knows the immediate water needs of the western part of the county out weigh the desire of residents on the eastern part of the county who want sewer service.

"I went to a meeting in Advance recently, and someone asked me if I would push for them to get sewer," O'Mara said. "I told them, I know thats important to you, but there are people in the western part of the county who don't even have county water yet. We need to take care of them first."

O'Mara said she is an advocate for the EMS, social services and law enforcement agencies, and said she will work hard to see they are properly funded.

"We need to make sure they have the equipment to do what they need to do," O'Mara said. "What they do is too important a service to the county not to take care of them."

O'Mara said unemployment in the county is too high, and believes Davie is a prime location for clean industry expansion. But she also said she feels that giving big businesses incentives to move to the area are like swallowing a large pill.

"I'm willing to bite the bullet on giving incentives to businesses to move into the area," O'Mara said. "As long as they give Davie County a long term committment."

O'Mara said the type of business that Davie should seek is clean industry that offers good wage opportunities with benefits. She said while most efforts are tied up in bringing large companies to the triad, she believes small and midsize companies that employ 25 to 50 people would be ideal.

REAL ESTATE WEEKLY

WHEN THE LIGHT FIXTURES DON'T CONVEY

Before you list your home for sale, take a careful look around. Are there some valued items that you want to take with you? You may not wish to part with the dining room chandelier that has been in your family for three generations, the ceiling fan in the master bedroom, or the built-in custom bookcases in your home office.

Normally all fixtures are conveyed to the new owners when a house is sold. This includes anything that is attached to walls or ceilings and, in some areas, all major appliances that are installed in the house. If you have fixtures that you don't want to convey, tell your agent what you want excluded from the agreement at the time you list your property for sale. It is best to remove any light fixtures or ceiling fans that you plan to take with you and replace them before the property is shown. List all items that are not being sold with the house on your home fact sheet to ensure that they will not become an issue when a buyer makes an offer.

Andrew Brock Enjoys Mingling With Constituents

By Mike Gunning
Davie County Enterprise Record

State Sen. Andrew Brock has spent much of the last few weeks meeting constituents.

Unlike many politicians, however, Brock is not greeting his constituents at the typical fund raising dinner or "meet and greet" functions so many politicians do at re-election time.

Brock, a lifelong resident of Davie (and at 30 the youngest member of the Senate), meets his constituents doing the same thing he's been doing for the last four years.

"I go to a lot of meetings to hear and understand whats going on in my district," Brock said. "Sometimes when I go I'm in jeans and a t-shirt, I blend in with the crowd. It allows me the opportunity to really see what the concerns of people in Davie and Rowan county are."

Brock, a conservative Republican, said he looks at all sides of an issue before he tries to act. He said his district, which covers Rowan and Davie counties, has a lot of issues that need his attention, and that leaves him little time to spend working on new votes.

"I got my work ethic from my father, no job is done until it's done," Brock said. "If I'm fortunate enough to be re-elected, I'll continue to work on key issues that are not completed."

Brock said he believes the state can run more efficiently, and he gets frustrated by government agencies that don't take a fiscally responsible approach to managing budgets.

"We need to run more like private industry does," Brock said. "I get critical of government agencies when I hear people giving a sigh of relief because they passed an audit, it gets me angry. It shouldn't be a victory, it's what their supposed to do."

Brock said he understands why businesses are given incentives to move into an area, but he doesn't agree with it. He said there is too much inequity when it comes to offering financial incentives, and that puts additional tax burdens on the community trying to attract the business.

"Why not give the break to everybody?" Brock said. "There are a lot of mom and pop businesses that should enjoy the same breaks and opportunities as bigger businesses. We need to take care of our small and midsize business owners too."

Brock said the loss of jobs that have stormed the area have had a devastating affect on the triad, and particularly the district he represents.

"Earlier this year a senator from the coast wanted money to help his constituents that were damaged by the hurricane that blew through the area. I argued that we had a hurricane too, it's called unemployment."

As the only senator in the state on both the appropriations and finance committee, Brock said he is in the position to know where money is wasted and can be put to better use.

"I know where its coming from and going to," Brock said. "People are getting to know how fiscally conservative I am. If you can find a way to save money, why not do it?"

Brock said he knew at an early age that he was destined to be involved in some type of public service, and he sought the advise of his late father about politics.

"My dad told me, It's not about you, or the titles," Brock said. "It's the ideals you stand for. If you stand up for those, you've won."

Atlanta Woman Tries To Give Officer A Car

An Atlanta, Ga. woman was involuntarily committed to Broughton psychiatric hospital after she was found barefoot and wandering on a Mocksville street Saturday night.

Mocksville Police Officer John Coley first talked to the woman just after 9 p.m. when he saw a red Chrysler LXI at Depot and Railroad streets with a woman standing beside the car.

The woman told Coley she was fine, and handed him the keys and said she didn't want the car any more, that her husband would buy her another.

She then walked off, Coley reported.

The officer then checked the woman's identification, and found she wasn't wanted and didn't have a criminal record.

"I'm not crazy. The car is yours," she told Coley.

The woman walked off, and when Coley called Sgt. Daniel Matthews to the scene, they couldn't locate her.

Keys were in the ignition of the car, as was what appeared to be expensive jewelry. Coley locked the car and took the keys.

Officers found the name of a woman in Atlanta who told them that the woman, Rebecca Azlee, had worked for a large law firm in Atlanta and was a woman of means who owned a large amount of rental property.

Azlee was found nearby, at Depot and Bailey streets, Sunday afternoon. She was barefoot, cold and wet. She did not know her name and finally gave Officer Danny Chandler her passport.

"I asked her where she was from; she pointed up," Chandler reported.

She agreed to go to the police station with officers, and began "talking out of her head," the officer reported. She became combative when they suggested she go to the hospital.

Officers put handcuffs and leg irons on the woman and took her to Davie County Hospital, where she was sent to Broughton Hospital for 96 hours of observation.

No charges were filed after a Davie man was involved in an accident on Oct. 22. Larry Laverne Earle of 475 Farmington Road, Mocksville was driving his 1993 Ford vehicle east on I-40 when the vehicle was driven off the left side of the road. Earle's vehicle collided with a median cable, Trooper M.T. Dalton reported the accident occurred at approximately 12:30 a.m.

Driver Flees Scene Of Wreck

A Davie man was charged with DWI, obstructing, delaying, no seatbelt, and reckless driving after an accident on Oct. 23.

Brian Scott Birdsong of 190 Tall Timbers Drive, Mocksville was driving his 1999 GMC pickup north on Georgia Road when he drove the truck across the centerline, Birdsong's vehicle came back onto the road in a side skid, ran off the road to the right, collided with a ditch, and overturned. After impact Birdsong and a passenger left the scene and were later taken into custody after a K-9 search in the area.

Trooper M.T. Dalton reported the accident occurred at approximately 2:19 a.m. and there were no injuries.

Accident On N.C. 801

A Davie man was charged with DWI, no insurance, no operators license, and misdemeanor child abuse after an accident on Oct. 23. Jason Bryce Miller of 155 Alamosa Drive, Advance was driving his 1993 Toyota vehicle north on N.C. 801 when he drove the vehicle off the right side of the road. Miller's vehicle collided with a ditchbank on the northbound shoulder. Trooper F.C. Ferguson reported the accident occurred at approximately 9:15 a.m. Miller and two passengers, ages 12 and 6 months, were taken to Forsyth Medical Center in Winston-Salem.

of sheriff's detectives. Alexander is believed to be Fortune's girlfriend.

Fortune

Hartman turned his vehicle around, and saw Fortune drive the car to another driveway. He said that's when Fortune noticed them.

"When we turned our vehicle around, he took off," Hartman said.

Hartman said Fortune sped down US 158 and turned onto Country Lane at a high rate of speed. With Hartman in pursuit, Fortune tried to make a hard left on Campbell Road and struck the rear passenger side of a vehicle driven by Lonnie Serfass of Mocksville. Serfass was not injured.

Fortune continued to drive down the shoulder of Campbell Road when Hartman saw him throw a bag of what appeared to be marijuana out the window.

Police later recovered close to an ounce of marijuana at that location.

"We had pulled along side of him, and he made a move to ram us," Hartman said. "He got back on the road and made it as far as Etchison Road."

It was there that Fortune drove the vehicle off an embankment and into a deep ditch. He escaped on foot.

Hartman said Fortune was known to be violent, and was a danger to anyone trying to stop him.

"If anyone sees him, they should not try to apprehend him. They should call us," Hartman said. "Knowing Marcus, he is possibly armed. He is a real danger to the police."

Fortune is facing multiple felony charges, including hit and run, reckless driving with wanton disregard, possession with intent to distribute, resisting arrest, assault on a public official, and other misdemeanor charges.

Fortune is familiar with Davie's court system. According to records, Fortune has appeared in court no less than 10 times to face as many as 35 felony and misdemeanor counts over a 12-year period.

Hartman said Fortune is believed to be hiding in the area, and said it was only a matter of time before he surfaced.

Veteran's Day Observance Planned For Armory

A Veteran's Day observance will be held just prior to 11 a.m. on Thursday, Nov. 11.

The JROTC at Davie High School will provide the colors, and the school's band will play patriotic music. Ron Cox, retired chief of health administration at the Salisbury VA Medical Center, currently district service officer of the N.C. Division of Veterans Affairs, will be the speaker.

In conjunction with the observance, poster and essay contests for Davie students will be held. The deadline for entries is Friday, Nov. 5 at Mocksville Town Hall. A box in the lobby will be labled for the contest entries.

The poster contest is geared for students in grades kindergarten through fifth grade. The essay contest is geared for students in grades six through 12.

The topic for both: "Ways We Can Show Support for Our Armed Forces Troops." Winners will receive Savings Bonds.

The posters will be displayed at the Nov. 11 observance, and the top three essay winners will be asked to read their work that day. The top three poster winners will explain their work.

For poster entries, put your name, age, grade, school and telephone number on the back of the poster.

Essays must be typewritten, double-spaced, and no more than 1,000 words long. The author's name, age, grade, school and telephone number should be on the back of the essay.

Local Veterans To Be Honored At Nov. 9 Appreciation Dinner

A veteran's appreciation dinner will be held at 5:30 p.m. Nov. 9 at the First Methodist Family Life Center.

If you are a veteran or active military personnel, you and a guest are invited to dinner in your honor. There will be a short program to follow dinner.

Call 751-0611 to register.

Former Vietnam POW To Speak Here On Nov. 10

Former Vietnam War POW, Col. Ed Hubbard, will speak at the Brock Performing Arts Center, 622 N. Main St., Mocksville, at 11 a.m. Wednesday, Nov. 10.

As a survivor of six and a half years of captivity in North Vietnam from 1966-1973, Hubbard's story has been called compelling and inspirational.

Hubbard joined the Air Force Reserve at age 17 and , in 1962, entered active duty. Since his release from captivity, Hubbard went on to achieve success in his military career and as an author and motivational speaker.

He considers his greatest accomplishment to be sharing his lessons of survival with others. As a motivational speaker, and president of Positive Vectors, Hubbard encourages others to overcome adversity and reach beyond their goal by developing a positive, focused state of mind.

Hubbard's uniform bears more than 60 commendations and service medals, including the Silver Star for combat service, the Legion of Merit for sustained exemplary service, the Distinguished Flying Cross for exemplary aerial combat, the Bronze Star for valor, the Air Medal, and the Purple Heart for being wounded by an enemy force in combat.

In 1985, Hubbard began motivational speaking and, following his retirement from the Air Force in 1990, he formed Positive Vectors. Since then, he has recounted his story and the lessons he learned for thousands of members of corporate America, government agencies and non-profit groups.

Hubbard speaks to civic groups and at public events nationwide under the sponsorship of the financial services firm, Edward Jones.

In addition to his professional speaking, Hubbard is an acknowledged artist and author. His book, "Escape from the Box: The Wonder of Human Potential," was published in 1994.

Low Income Energy Assistance Program Applications Available

The Davie County Department of Social Services will begin taking applications for the Low Income Energy Assistance Program on Nov. 1.

Applications will be taken at the Food Stamp Office at 256 Hospital St., Mocksville, Monday-Friday, 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m. The last day to apply is Nov. 12. The office will be closed Nov. 11 in observance of Veterans Day.

Eligibility for the program is based on income, resources and the household's heating source. The household must be vulnerable (subject to the rising energy costs).

Some Food Stamp households will automatically be eligible. Those households should have received a notice informing them of their eligibility. Food Stamp households that are required to apply in person will receive a notice telling them to apply at the Food Stamp Office at the Department of Social Services.

Verification of the total household income and resources for October will be required. All those who apply during the designated time who are eligible will receive a one-time payment to help with heating billls. Those eligible for this assistance will receive payments around Feb. 1.

Don't Get Burned!
You can be fined up to $10,000 for illegal open burning in N.C.

Smoke from open burning can cause serious health problems and pollute the air. That's why the state regulates open burning. Only leaves, branches or other plant growth can be burned.

IT'S ILLEGAL TO BURN:
- Garbage, paper and cardboard
- Tires and other rubber products
- Building materials, including lumber
- Wire, plastics and synthetic materials
- Asphalt shingles and heavy oils
- Paints, household chemicals and agricultural products

Homeowners can burn yard trimmings – excluding logs and stumps – if it's allowed under local ordinances, no public pickup is available and it doesn't cause a public nuisance. Other allowable burning includes campfires, outdoor barbecues and bonfires for festive occasions. Landowners also can open burn vegetation to clear land or rights-of-way, provided that:
- Prevailing winds are away from built up areas and roads
- Fires are at least 1,000 feet away from occupied buildings
- Burning is done between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m.

Remember, burn permits issued by the N.C. Division of Forest Resources, its agents or any local government do not excuse a person from following these state air quality rules. For more information, contact:
Winston-Salem Regional Office
Division of Air Quality

Do you remember the Cleaver family from the 50's?
Where lives seemed simpler, families were united, marriages were honored, and children were treasured.

Guess what? The Cleaver's don't live here anymore.
In a day when the home has come under assault, when marriages are ending at a alarming rate, and our children are being left to pick up the pieces. It is time we do something about it. Sunday, October 31 we start a new sermon series called "Home Improvement" to help give some practical help to the problems at hand. Come and join us at Farmington Baptist Church as we get back to the basics.

Judge Encourages Autism Training For Law Officers

Kim Taylor, Superior Court Judge for Iredell, Alexander, Davie and Davidson counties, spoke before the N.C. Academy of Justice, Basic Law Enforcement Training (BLET) Revision Committee, at the Cary Police Department on Sept. 16.

Taylor, the parent of a teenage son with autism, urged the BLET Revision Committee to include mandatory, appropriate autism education and training methodist in the BLET curriculum.

"A 44-year-old severely autistic man in Statesville died recently while in law enforcement custody. He could easily have been by 17-year-old autistic son, Jarrett," she said.

Taylor presented the committee with autism education and training materials contributed by Gary Mesibov, Ph.D., director and professor at the University of North Carolina, Department of Psychiatry, Division TEACCH (The Treatment and Education of Autistic and other Communication Handicapped Children), Chapel Hill. Betsy Thompson, director of advocacy services for the Autism Society of North Carolina, presented the committee with a Law Enforcement and Autism training video.

Following Taylor's presentation, the BLET Revision Committee took the following actions:

- approved the replacement of the present language in BLET with that which Mesibov proposed for autism instruction;
- approved the insertion of an instructor note alerting all school directors and instructors that a network of autism information resources are available across the state to assist in the instruction of this topic:
- tabled until the next meeting any action on the addition of practical exercises to review the exercises as well as the accompanying video wince this could require additional hours in BLET, and such a recommendation would have to be made to the commission for a rule-making hearing;
- agreed to communicate its favorable reaction to Taylor's presentation to the In-Service Committee of the Criminal Justice Standards Commission and suggest that this topic be considered for in-service training for all serving law enforcement officers.

Autism is a developmental disability that affects a person's ability to understand what they see, hear and otherwise sense.

Autism primarily affects communication. People with autism typically have difficulty understanding verbal and nonverbal communications and learning appropriate ways of relating to people, and objects and events.

Autism spectrum disorders are the third most common developmental disability following mental retardation and epilepsy. Autism occurs in all races and socioeconomic classes. Family income, lifestyle or education do not affect whether or not a child will be born with autism.

For more information about the diagnosis of autism, contact the Autism Society of North Carolina, 1-800-442-2762.

People Need To Quit Depending On Government For Needs

To the editor:

I wish to make a few comment about the general election on Nov. 2.

Social Security as decided by the US Supreme Court: on May 24, 1937: "The scheme of 'Federal Old-age Benefits' set up by Title II of the Social Security Act does not contravene the limitations of the Tenth Amendment. It creates an 'Old-age Reserve Account' in the treasury and authorizes future appropriations to provide for the required old-age payments, but in itself neither appropriates money nor brings any money into the treasury. Title VIII imposes an 'Excise' tax on employers, to be paid 'with respect to having individuals in their employ,' measured on the wages. These are true taxes, their purpose being simply to raise revenue. No compliance with any scheme of federal regulation is involved. The proceeds are paid unrestricted into the treasury as Internal Revenue collections, available for the general support of the government."

These taxes can be spent by the US government as it pleases. The excess money taken is converted into US Treasury Bonds, and at a low interest rate. President Bush's idea is to give a part of the money to used to gain a better rate of return on the principle, as directed by each individual.

The Electoral College is part of the US Constitution, as follows: "The executive Power shall be vested in a president of the United States of America. He shall hold his office during the term of four years, and, together with the vice president, chosen for the same term, be elected, as follows: Each state shall appoint, in such manner as the legislature thereof may direct, a Number of Electors, equal to the whole number of senators and representatives to which the state may be entitled in the Congress: but no senator or representative, or person holding an office of trust or profit under the United States, shall be appointed an elector. The electors shall meet in their respective states, and vote by ballot for two persons, of whom one at least shall not be an inhabitant of the same state with themselves. And they shall make a list of all the persons voted for, and of the number of votes for each; which list they shall sign and certify, and transmit sealed to the seat of the government of the United States, directed to the president of the Senate. The president of the Senate shall, in the presence of the Senate and House of Representatives, open all the certificates, and the votes shall then be counted. The person having the greatest number of votes shall be the president, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed; and if there be more than one who have such majority, and have an equal number of votes, then the House of Representatives shall immediately choose by ballot one of them for president; and if no person have a majority, then from the five highest on the list the said House shall in like manner choose the president. But in choosing the president, the votes shall be taken by states, the representation from each state having one vote; a quorum for this purpose shall consist of a member or members from two thirds of the states, and a majority of all the states shall be necessary to a choice. In every case, after the choice of the president, the person having the greatest number of votes of the electors shall be the vice president. But if there should remain two or more who have equal votes, the Senate shall choose from them by ballot the vice president."

It would take a constitutional amendment to change this and I personally believe that should not happen.

President's oath of office is: "Before he enter on the execution of his office, he shall take the following oath or affirmation: 'I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will faithfully execute the office of President of the United States, and will to the best of my ability, preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States."

Sen. John Kerry's idea to reverse the tax cut for any one making over $200,000 could lead to people not getting jobs, pay raises or bonuses. Most of the jobs come from small and large businesses making over $200,000 each year.

Also raising the minimum wage just leads to prices being raised to cover the cost.

People, quit depending on government to provide for everything that is not specially required by government.

I would like the every one who is registered to vote, go vote, because every vote counts.

Kerry Just Another Clinton

To the editor:

In 1993, the North Twin Tower was bombed in the basement, it was the second one hit, but the first one to fall in the 9-11 incident. What did Clinton do? He dropped a couple of bombs in Afghanistan, not much damage, if any. He didn't tighten up security at the airports or security in America, giving them plenty of time to set up the 9-11 attacks.

In the year 2000 in Yemen, the SS Cole was attacked, 17 sailors were killed, Clinton dropped two bombs, not much damage, if any. Clinton was too busy with Monica.

Do we need another Clinton in office, afraid to go and get the enemy? A Kerry, Clinton we don't need.

President Should Have A Heart For The Poor People

To the editor:

In reply to Mr. Butero's views concerning my letter, it is evident he knows little, if any, about living through a depression. If he ever does, I know he will never forget it. No way.

I am not ashamed to be a Democrat. One reason, I have received a monthly check from Social Security for more than 40 years and now it pays my bills here in the nursing home. It was made possible for the older generations to have a life they deserve and need. Millions more receive it, Democrats and Republicans. I would like for this gentleman to please give me the scripture where God said to tithe 10 percent, regardless of incomes, or if anyone can tell me, I am anxious to know.

As to who will be our next president, I stand by my wish for the poor and needy. If that means being religious, I am happy to be one. He might do well to read the article, "Land poor ..."

I would hope the news media would keep the war news off television. These families at home are having it hard as it is and their loved ones on the battlefield don't need, want it nor deserve it.

It is a disgrace for our nation that has been so wonderfully blessed as ours, that are having such a problem to find a candidate for president. What will it take to choose a president? I don't think I'm too far off the mark to wish as I said earlier, one with a heart for the poor and needy. Nothing is ever hidden from God.

An Endorsement For George W. Bush

To the editor:

Even if all the things John Kerry says about George W. Bush were true. Even if we elected John Kerry and he could do all the things he says he could do. Even if there never was WMD even though anything could be buried in the sand. We found 30 jet fighters buried in the sand. Even if I could forget about the phony way Kerry got his Purple Hearts. Even if I could discount John Kerry's senate record as the most liberal senator. Even if I could forget he has no senate record. He never did anything for anyone except himself. Even if I could forget about his stand on abortion and given all the things i know wrong with George W. Bush. Even though I believe Bush has made some mistakes. Even I am not dim-witted enough to believe George W. Bush is perfect.

I will vote for George W. Bush and I urge everyone else to vote for him too.

The real question for me is Kerry's military record that we don't know about. There are too many unanswered questions about his military service. The only things we really know about his service is what he told us and the lies he told the Senate about his fellow vets. Kerry will not release any of his military records. All his military service is based on lies meant to help his career. That certainly leads me to believe there is a much larger problem with them, that he has something to hide. I believe that if he released all his records we would find big problems with the way he got the honorable discharge along with a lot of other less than honorable things he did while on duty. The things he said, the things he did, and the meetings he had with the representatives of North Vietnam while on Navy duty should have landed him in jail. As anyone who has been in the service knows, one has to really screw up to get a less than honorable discharge. I believe that's what he really wants to hide. I believe what we don't know about him is much more serious than what we already know, and he should be in a military jail for what we already know. I believe this man's whole life is a lie and one of deceit. His sole purpose is to reach his goals and he will do anything or say anything to achieve them. Using past history as an example, we would not be the first country led down the path of destruction by a person like John Kerry.

I believe this is the most important election of my lifetime and it may be for my children and grandchildren. As a Vietnam era veteran with children and family in the military, I believe John Kerry was a traitor then and a liar now. He would lead this country to destruction. As a registered Democrat for over 40 years, it's hard for me to believe this party would run such a dishonorable man. It's hard for me to believe so many good people would be led down this path of deceit.

322 Yards: Arnold Stomps All Over South Rowan

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

CHINA GROVE - Cooter Arnold was motivated and challenged before Friday's varsity football game at South Rowan, and you won't believe what the Davie senior did.

Or maybe you will since we're talking about a running back who is capable of doing things 99 percent of others cannot fathom. His motivation came from a South Rowan lady who was in an upset-minded mood at Thursday's JV game. She chanted "Bring on Cooter" (isn't that a hoot?). His challenge came from assistant coach Devore Holman, who stoked Arnold's fire by telling him 300 rushing yards was out of his reach.

An out-for-blood Arnold responded with 322 and five touchdowns in a 43-17 win that kept Davie unbeaten at 9-0 overall and 2-0 in the Central Piedmont 4-A Conference.

"I walked up to him and said: 'Man, I hear about Toney 'The Touchdown Maker' Baker (of Ragsdale) and all those guys. Baker's had 250, 275 yards but I haven't heard anything about him running for 300 yards. You can't do it. It can't be done.' He said: 'Well, if (play-caller Barry Whitlock) gives me the ball enough, I'll do it.' "

Time and again the Raiders appeared to have Arnold in their grasp, including several occasions in the backfield. But Arnold is a Corvette, a machine bound for the ACC, and he kept bouncing off them like a pinball bouncing off a bumper at warp speed. With nine runs that registered between 11 and 82 yards, he stampeded to what has to be the greatest game a Davie ball carrier has ever played.

"He ran with a purpose," Coach Doug Illing said. "Again that's him doing what he's supposed to do. After he got through the first level, he broke a lot of arm tackles."

Jamar Bratcher added 71 yards on 11 carries, and Brad Corriher completed 3 of 4 passes for 67 yards as the War Eagles put up 19 first downs, 480 yards and converted seven of eight third downs. They didn't punt for the second time in three games.

Bratcher was also very determined after undergoing surgery to repair a broken finger and missing the West Forsyth game.

"I give my line props," said Bratcher, who rebounded beautifully from a slow start. "They told me I needed to cut certain ways. They're in front of me, so I've got to listen to what they say."

South's offense got a large dose of Logan Buchanan (13 tackles, three for losses), D.J. Rice (12 tackles, two pass deflections, caused fumble) and Dustin Morgan (10 tackles, five for losses). Overall it was a less-than-great effort as the War Eagles gave up the most yards since the 35-28 Crest win. But they were still good enough to hold a sixth straight opponent under 20 points.

"Against trips, when they had us outnumbered, Morgan made three plays for losses," outside linebacker coach Keith

Tackle Goes From Fs To As, Making A Name For Himself

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

Dion Cody is a supreme example that anyone can go from F to A if they're hungry enough, that anyone can do a U-turn - on and off the field - if they have enough heart.

Cody

Cody, a 6-4, 295-pound senior for Davie's 9-0 football team, is a great story. He's the starter at right tackle, he's excelling in his books and he's ultra-popular among classmates. It sounds too good to be true. For only two years ago, Cody was the biggest water boy in the state because he drove teachers nuts and stayed in the principal's hair.

Although mother Deanna Cody went to Davie, Cody grew up in Rowan County. Listen to today's redefined Cody talk about his old self.

"My grades weren't too good (at North Rowan Middle and N. Rowan High)," he said. "I failed three out of eight classes in ninth grade. I was sort of a troublemaker in middle school. I didn't care. As a matter of fact, my principal was Mr. (Julius) Suiter (who is retired after being a teacher and principal in Davie County for 30 years) and I used to get spanked like every day. I would fight. I would back-talk teachers, anything. Basically I was a class clown. I would do anything to make somebody laugh.

"My mom thought it was best that we move (to Mocksville) to better my education. She wanted me to graduate from the school she went to."

When Cody joined Davie's football workouts the summer before his sophomore year, he worked furiously to catch coaches' attention and win a starting position. But after punching in all those hours and pouring out all that sweat, he learned a painful lesson: He was ineligible, and that was downright devastating to a guy who thinks about football all the time.

"He worked out the whole summer, only to find out he wasn't eligible to play," assistant coach Devore Holman said. "Anybody else would have probably just given up. He stuck right with it and did anything you asked him to do. What he did most of all was he got busy in the classroom."

"At North Rowan I was benching 185, and I moved my bench up to 245 as a sophomore. My squat came up from 225 to 315, and I had lost 15-20 pounds," Cody said. "Then when I heard I couldn't play football, that's what changed me. I was heartbroken. I didn't know what I was going to do. I was like: 'Man, school is more important than goofing off.' I had to buckle down, and coach asked me to be a manager so I could be involved in football."

Since that fateful moment, things have changed dramatically. Look at Cody's report card from the first quarter of this school year: two Bs and a C.

Jevin Scott of S. Davie 7th football rushed for 166 yards in a 24-8 loss to N. Davie to finish with 1,069 yards, the sixth Tiger to reach 1,000. Matt Speer and Justin Joplin combined for 131 yards on 12 carries, and Zach Long made a key interception for the victorious Wildcats.

Shyteek Brown carried seven times for 96 yards as S. Davie 8th football moved to 7-0 with a 30-6 win over N. Davie. Teammate Drew Absher got his fourth INT.

North's Deep Backfield Spoils Scott's Gem

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

A handful of kings beat an ace in the North Davie-South Davie seventh-grade football game last week. Jevin Scott of host S. Davie dominated just as he had in the previous five games, rushing for 166 yards and joining the school's exclusive 1,000-yard club.

N. Davie couldn't match Scott in an individual showdown, but South's sharp top couldn't overcome North's talent-rich backfield and that's what North's 24-8 win boiled down to. Zach Long ripped off the game's best run, threw a touchdown pass and made a game-changing interception, and he got plenty of help from Matt Speer, Justin Joplin and John Flowers.

"We have the luxury where we haven't had to rely on one person," North assistant coach Danny Allard said. "One week it will be Joplin, the next week it will be Flowers, the next week it will be Speer. Long just runs the show and lets the running backs do their job."

Scott got South off to a rousing start, scoring a 61-yard touchdown five plays into the game. Long was the only defender close to Scott, and his diving attempt wasn't enough. Justin Miller tacked on the two-point conversion as South grabbed an 8-0 lead.

South's edge didn't last long, however. Speer blew up the middle four plays later for a 48-yard touchdown, and Long's run tied the game at 8. Scott answered by picking up a first down at midfield, but on the next play Long intercepted Tyler Seaford at the North 48.

Long's game-changing presence didn't stop there. After a holding penalty put North in a second-and-20 hole, he faked a handoff to the right and bootlegged left for 25 yards. Four plays later, Long ran a play-action pass and connected with Joplin for 25 yards and a touchdown. Long fired another completion on the two-point conversion, this

South's Brown Can Deliver Highlights, Too

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

Every game is a win, and every win is a blowout. Last week was a familiar script for South Davie's eighth-grade football team, which took visiting North Davie to the woodshed and gave the Wildcats a 30-6 beating.

The running of James Mayfield and Perry James and the powerful blocking of Santana Arnold have gotten most of the publicity in South's 15-0 run over two years, but this was Shyteek "The Freak" Brown's day to show off his electrifying ability. None of the Big Three carried the ball after South ran off to a 24-0 halftime lead, and Brown responded by doing the major rushing damage for the first time all season.

The shake-and-bake wizard turned seven carries into 96 yards, a breakout performance that allowed South to average more than 10 yards per play.

"I've said it before and I'll say it

Long's Interception Turns The Tide In North's 24-8 Win

time to Tanner Holden, for a 16-8 lead, and North was on its way to three TDs on three possessions and 24 unanswered points.

Scott did all he could to keep South in the game, but North's balance was simply too much. Speer had 83 yards on eight carries, Long 61 on six carries, Joplin 48 on four carries and Flowers 39 on nine carries as the Wildcats enjoyed a statement victory. They haven't been denied since a 14-14 triple-overtime tie with Erwin, and the other margins in their winning streak were 35, 15 and 37 points.

"Long gets all over the field," Allard said of the linebacker/safety/cornerback. "We've moved him around - because he's so athletic - to put him where he can make plays. We've needed him to run people down, and the last few games he's done that. He's fast and strong, and I think his interception turned things around. They were driving, luckily he was able to pick that pass off and we marched right down the field. That was the big turning point."

South coach Todd Bumgarner agreed. "Long gave us trouble on the bootleg run," he said. "He is good."

But the difference was a number of Wildcats posed problems as North delivered 256 yards and 11 first downs. By contrast, Scott accounted for all but 15 of South's 181 yards.

"We were real pleased with Joplin because he was sick all morning," Allard said. "He was running a temperature at 100 degrees, and we didn't know how much we were going to get out of him. And every time we called on him he did the job."

After the half ended with North up 16-8, Long prevented a 65-yard touchdown by bringing Scott down at the North 42. South's drive ended when Seaford's pass hit a receiver in the hands and fell to the turf.

Then Joplin got South's throat, stiff-arming a defender to the ground on a 27-yard run and bursting 17 yards to the end zone on the next play. Joplin added the two points for a 24-8 lead.

Scott broke a 48-yarder on third-and-9, and that TD would have made things interesting with a successful two-point play. But the play was negated by a block in the back, and South didn't threaten again.

Scott came in needing 97 yards to become the sixth 1,000-yard rusher in South's 12-year middle-school history, and he got that and more (117) in the first half. But after scoring on their first series, the Tigers didn't cross midfield again until it was 24-8.

Among the defensive standouts for North, according to head coach Ron Kirk, were Speer, Flowers, Zach Dunn and Joplin. Greg Brill, Dunn and Chase Sampson overmatched South at the line of scrimmage, with Dunn making the game's loudest hit on a between-the-tackles run by Scott.

"After the first series, they stacked the outside up and we didn't have any way to get them to spread out," Bumgarner said. "When you can't even make them guard your wideouts, you're in trouble."

North closed its season with a Monday makeup game at Corriher-Lipe. The Wildcats entered with a 5-1-1 record, easily notching its fourth straight winning record. It's lone loss was a 14-12 decision in the second game against West Rowan, which finished with an 8-0 record.

"If we'd been playing like we are now, there's no telling how the West Rowan and Erwin games would have turned out," Allard said.

The Tigers had three daunting games in a week's span. They lost the first one 18-12 to Knox, but the second test went much better, a 20-8 win over the Erwin team that tied North in triple OT.

Scott provided a 6-0 halftime lead. After Erwin opened the second half with a go-ahead surge, Scott raced 40 yards for a 14-8 lead. On South's next series, Scott - who else? - sealed the win with his third TD.

Scott finished with 134 yards on 14 rushes, and Miller came up big with nine carries for 71 yards. Bumgarner was proud of South's 5-3 finish, noting that the whole exceeded the sum of the parts.

"We ended the season a much better team than when we started," he said. "We lost two of our last three, but that was a tough stretch. We have nothing to be ashamed about."

South's offense put everything on Scott, but Bumgarner saw several others grow into reliable assets as the seventh Tigers pulled some surprises and posted a winning record for the ninth consecutive year. His list included fullback/linebacker Miller, H-back/tight end/defensive end Will Marrs, defensive back Matt Garretson, DB Josh Berryhill and center Zach Green.

"Miller had another excellent defensive game (vs. N. Davie)," he said. "Marrs played very well in this three-game stretch. He's one player who has absolutely turned it up. He took it to another level. He's been a phenomenal blocker, and his defense got a lot better. I look for big things out of him next year.

"Garretson had an excellent year at defensive back, and Berryhill made some big plays throughout the year. Green is probably the most underestimated player on the team. He's not real big, but I don't remember any fumbled snaps in a game. He's been tremendous. He showed a lot of toughness and grit."

Notes: Scott joined Neil Rice, Billy Riddle, J.J. Rice, Ricky White and Perry James in the 1,000 club. "He matured a lot as a player, and that's a nice accomplishment," Bumgarner said. ... Long is not only fast and athletic, he has a cannon for an arm. Late in the game on fourth-and-24, he rolled left and uncorked a pass - against his body - that traveled about 42 yards. The incompletion hit a receiver in the hands in the back of the end zone.

Degree Completion Program
B.S. in Elementary Education at the Yadkin Center of Surry Community College

Appalachian State University is proposing a degree-completion program leading to a bachelor's degree in Elementary Education. The program would begin Fall 2005 and classes would be offered at the Yadkin Center of Surry Community College. Interested individuals are encouraged to attend an information session on:

Tuesday, November 9, 2004, 6:30 pm
Room 204, at the Yadkin Center of Surry Community College
(Located in Yadkinville on Hwy. 601, approximately 3 mi. north of Hwy. 421)

Appalachian faculty and administrative staff members will discuss how a college transfer student with the freshman and sophomore years of coursework (included in an Associate of Arts or Associate of Science degree offerings) may complete the junior and senior years leading to the B.S. degree in Elementary Education at the Yadkin Center of Surry Community College. Courses in Appalachian's off-campus programs are typically taught two nights per week (an average of 6 semester hours per term), and the off-campus undergraduate tuition/fees rate for the 2004-05 year is $65.50 per credit hour for an in-state student.

Little League Football

Varsity - Mocksville 28, Shady Grove 6

The Mocksville Rams went undefeated in the regular season, and will play Pinebrook for the championship Saturday at 6 p.m. at Davie High.

In the win over the Shady Grove Bulldogs, Jared Barber had TD runs of 65 and 25 yards, Darius Wilson caught a 12-yard pass from Nick Holder for a TD, and Holder scored on a 15-yard keeper. Also, Jacob Allred and Dominique Dismuke got interceptions, Adam "Little Man" Smith completed a 10-yard pass to Denzell Garman and Aaron Felder had a sack.

Adding contributions to the win were Alex Costner, Javan Phillips, Matthew Busbee, Lindsay Peterson, Austin Moody, Tevin Gaither, Kenayatta Brand, Tanner Koontz, Marvin Quijada, Jake Seaford, Hunter Stone, Landon Hurt, Zachary Byrne, Brian Gomeze, Alex Norman and Matthew Carter.

Varsity - Pinebrook 22, Cornatzer 0

Joe Watson rushed for 129 yards as the Pinebrook Trojans shut out Cornatzer. Alex Newman had six tackles and 61 rushing yards, Jordan Farmer had 10 tackles and Austin Doby six.

The Trojans also got solid performances from Paul Beauchamp, Max Lum, Dalton Hummer and Chris Carter.

JV - Cornatzer 14, Pinebrook 12

Rackwon Gray caught a 50-yard pass and then ran 48 yards for Cornatzer's touchdowns. Ty Marshall delivered the pass on the game's first score, and Gray's second big play pushed the Cougars' lead to 14-6.

The winning effort was aided by Kyle Bullins, Austin Hill, Brent Hill, Jamaal Lackey, Tanner Junker, Josh Barney and Jonathon Tice.

Cornatzer won the regular season with a 6-1 record. It handed co-champ Cooleemee (6-1) its only loss, 16-6, and the two will meet for the title Saturday at 4 p.m. at Davie High.

Varsity - Cooleemee 16, William R. Davie 8

The William R. Davie Raiders came less than a yard from potential overtime as Cooleemee made a clutch goal-line stand with less than a minute to play.

For the Raiders, Tanner Bledsoe scored on a 4-yard plunge in the second quarter, and Jarrett Wallace added the two-point conversion. Alex Henry rushed for 39 yards, Bledsoe 26, Tyler Lee 23 and Brandon Medford had a 7-yard run on his only try, a play that gave WRD a first down on its scoring drive. Lee completed two of three passes, both going to Bledsoe for a total of 58 yards.

Lee, Bledsoe, Matthew Dyson and Josh Godbey led the WRD defense with five tackles each. Others making tackles were Wallace, Medford, Henry, Josh Chunn and Nathan Pearce.

Clifton Bodenhamer had a great game blocking, and Jerrick McKnight had three tackles and two INTs. Mitchell Miller had a TD-saving interception that he returned 48 yards.

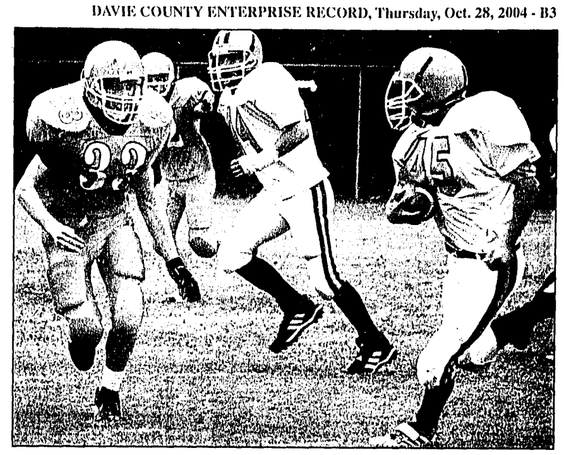
James Mayfield storms through a hole as Josh Smith of North (44) reaches for him.



Josh Oswell of South chases N. Davie running back Chris Smith.

Brown Does The Damage

again - he could be a starting running back for most teams," Coach Todd Bumgarner said. "He could be the man. It's just unfortunate for Shyteek that we've got a lot of talent at running back."

North fumbled the opening kickoff, but South turned around and coughed it up at the North 7. All was forgiven two and a half minutes later as Mayfield rumbled 6 yards for a touchdown. Zach Illing's two-point pass to tight end Chris Sponaugle put South ahead 8-0.

South didn't have far to go for the first of four TDs because Vince Cioce's fourth-down pass from the North 6 fell incomplete.

North's Chris Smith got the call on fourth-and-3 from the North 46, and Josh Oswell ruined it, catching him 4 yards in the backfield and setting up a 50-yard touchdown for James, who took a pitch and smoked down the left sideline. Arnold added the two-point conversion for a 16-0 margin.

That was one of two carries for James, who atoned for a minus-1 mishap. Mayfield picked up 38 yards on five carries, and South averaged 9.9 yards on the ground - just another day at the office for the 7-0 Tigers. North, on the other hand, stumbled to 2-5.

"We probably don't run sweep as much as we should," Bumgarner said of James' 50-yarder. "They had about nine in the box, so we had to work pretty hard to open holes. They put the linebackers up in the gaps and brought them all, and sometimes I get caught up in trying to run up the middle. I'm kind of bull-headed, but we run the sweep to keep teams honest."

The Tigers' ruthless defense - they came in with five shutouts and 14 points allowed - didn't need more offensive help, but they received some anyway from QB Illing, who fired a 23-yard spiral to James at the North 2. Arnold capped the four-play march, and Mayfield added the two points for the 24-0 halftime score.

That drive was set in motion by a James hit that threw Cioce back 6 yards on a fourth-down roll-out.

The Smith brothers (Chris and Josh) moved the chains as North drove from its 44 to the South 25. North tried a first-down pass to John Lattimore, but Drew Absher thwarted the play with an interception at the South 9. It was Absher's fourth pick of the year.

"He has a knack for the big play," Bumgarner said. "Absher's a heckuva athlete, and he's going to be a good player (at Davie). He's fun to watch."

Bumgarner summoned Brown in the third quarter, and even though he's the No. 3 tailback, the Tigers still operated in their cool, efficient manner. He roared 37 yards around the end, and then churned for 11, 8 and 9 yards, the latter a TD for a 30-0 lead.

Michael Wainwright mixed in a 16-yarder.

"We don't really miss a lot with any of them in the game," Bumgarner said of his backs. "Brown is an excellent team player, and I was tickled pink for him to have that type of day."

The Wildcats were on the verge of becoming South's sixth shutout victim, but they came up with a 15-play, 64-yard drive to erase the zero. Josh Smith ran for three first downs, Christian O'Connor moved the sticks and Caleb Rominger exploited a gaping hole on the right side to reach the end zone from 9 yards out.

Though North only averaged 3.4 yards on 29 rushing attempts, Josh Smith did deliver as a fill-in starter at fullback, gaining a solid 50 yards on nine carries.

"We knew North would play hard and they played well," Bumgarner said. "They (also) moved the ball on us pretty good in the second quarter. They came in with a game plan and executed it well.

"Their fullback (J. Smith) ran the ball extremely well. I was impressed with him."

North assistant coach Danny Allard didn't take much solace in the late touchdown. He said the Wildcats had hopes of putting a scare into South, and they didn't follow their blueprint.

"We could have played better in the first half and made it closer than what it was," he said. "We're disappointed with the loss, but the guys did play hard and gave it all they had. We did a decent job of handling their running backs, because we don't have speed demons."

Notes: Bumgarner said the O-line and tight ends deserve a ton of credit for South's superiority. The linemen are Tanis Jefferies, Josh Burcham, Zach Shoemaker, Lewis Farve and Stacy Saunders, and the TEs are Sponaugle and Absher. ... North played its final game Tuesday at Corriher-Lipe. ... South's bid for back-to-back 8-0 seasons concluded Monday at Erwin.

CONGRATULATIONS

To last week's winners in our Football Contest

First Place = $25 to Teresa Sprinkle
Second Place = $5 to Preston James

It was a rough week for our contest players. The top prize goes to Teresa Sprinkle who missed 9 games to claim the top spot. She narrowly beat out Preston James who also missed 9 games but was a couple points off in the tie-breaker to take home the consolation prize.

I hope everyone will come out for the final scheduled home game and support the Davie War Eagles this Friday night as they take on RJ Reynolds.

If you can't make it to the game here's a tip. Find someone who will be there and give them a call on their cell phone during the game for an update. A friend and I have done this the past couple of games as he was at the coast one week & I was at the mountains the next. If you do it right it's almost like hearing the game on the radio!

ALL CONTEST ENTRIES MUST INCLUDE A FULL MAILING ADDRESS AND PHONE NUMBER.
WE WILL NOW BE MAILING ALL CHECKS TO THE WINNERS. THANKS!

Dion Cody Turns Life Around

He missed the honor roll by one point.

"His grades are impressive when you look at where he came from," assistant coach Tilden Carter said. "He worked hard in the fall (of 2002) and got eligible so he could run track. Two Bs and a C is coming from one D and three Fs when he came here."

Coaches and teachers learned a great deal about Cody when he stood at that 2002 crossroads. He has beaten the odds, even though they were stacked heavily against him.

This is a feel-good story about a kid who lacks the finer things in life, but is filthy rich in the qualities that really matter. The senior rides a bus to school. Fellow linemen T.A. Steele and Ryan Boehm frequently give him rides. You see him all the time walking from his Campbell Road home to the Brock Gym or YMCA. His world is simple. He has a loving mother, two sisters, his friends and football.

What's inside of Cody separates him from folks who face similar uphill climbs and never make that journey from nobody to somebody.

"Ninety percent of the kids in his situation wouldn't have made it. I've seen them come and go," Holman said. "He's a walking testimony that if you put your mind to something and want it bad enough, you can achieve that goal. He goes to all our JV away games and films. That's the kind of kid he is. He films for (basketball coach Mike) Absher. You love to see those types of stories, a kid that really turns it around. And he's a big part of our success. He's a pretty good offensive lineman.

"I get chill bumps when I think about where he's come from."

Head coach Doug Illing knew something was wrong when Cody missed the first two weight-lifting sessions last summer. Once the transportation issue was resolved, he didn't miss another one. He, too, admires Cody for battling to get where he is.

"He's a guy that's come so far and worked so hard, and he's so proud of what he has, and he's really appreciative of the people who have helped him along the way," Illing said. "He got here and got around people that had high aspirations, and that became contagious to him."

Cody has a magnetic personality. He's a yes sir, no sir type of guy. You'd have to make an effort not to like him.

"He's the type of kid you'd want your son to grow up and be like," Illing said. "He's very respectful to adults. You just don't have anything bad you can say about the kid."

Although anyone who meets Cody becomes a fast fan, he's got a nasty streak. He knows how to change his demeanor into football mode.

"He gets his intensity flowing and by gosh he gets after it," Illing said. "You'd never know it when his helmet's off. He's a big teddy bear with his helmet off, but when he straps it on he's a different person."

Whatever happens the rest of the season, no matter how his football future turns out (he would be willing to hunker down for anybody, anywhere, with Winston-Salem State ranking at the top of his wish list), Cody has come a long ways. In 2003, his first season at Davie, he shared time at tackle but often looked like a deer in headlights.

"The first day Dion came out, he was so out of shape he couldn't run," offensive line coach Matt Sain said. "He was struggling just to make it one sprint. He hung around as a water boy and saw what we did, but we didn't know what his mentality would be. To actually go through it was a different thing. He was struggling and I really wondered if he would stick with it. And to see him progress through last year and to the point where he is now is a tribute to his hard work. He does fine (now). He pushes himself. He used to have to have an inhaler all the time (due to asthma). Now he hardly ever uses his inhaler."

Now Cody is totally at ease and extremely confident. What a great success story, going from a fast track to nowhere to a key ingredient on a state powerhouse.

"Last year I knew none of the plays," he said. "I had to ask (guard Matt) Markland every play what to do. But this year is a different thing. I feel like I'm the most dominant player at the position."

Cody's huge progress is evident during one-on-one confrontations with defensive tackle Zac O'Brien, a third-year starter and Division I-AA prospect.

"Zac has made Dion better on pass rush, and Dion has made Zac work 100 percent harder than he would if you put Zac against somebody else that he could dominate," Carter said. "And they're pretty much 50-50. It's the equivalent of watching Ted (Randolph) and Zac go at it."

"He's gotten so much better in the last year and a half it's unbelievable," O'Brien said. "I mean he can go and play at some college if he gets the grades. He's pretty quick for a big boy."

"He was thinking and then going," Randolph said. "But now he's doing it like he's been doing it forever. When I go with defense, he'll block me and I might beat him two or three times out of 10."

While Cody's most positive influence has been his mother, he also gives credit to O-line coach Chad Groover, Randolph, Boehm and English teacher Lynn Ray.

"My mom has raised me my whole life. Sometimes when I play I can hear my mom's voice in my head," he said. "Coach Groover and Ted have helped a lot. They've pushed me every single day. Ted is just somebody I relate to. Boehm is a good role model, too. Coach Groover has to make me mad to make me aggressive because I'm not an aggressive person. But I get aggressive. I like Ted because he knows I've accomplished a lot. Ms. Ray tutored me my 10th-grade year. She was a good influence."

If you've never met Cody, find him and tell him hello. He'll instantly win your affection. Randolph is sure glad football has allowed him to share in Cody's remarkable success story.

"If he didn't play football, we wouldn't hang out because he doesn't hang out with the same people I do," he said. "Now all of us hang out together, and Dion comes up with the most random things to say. He's just funny. I don't think a lot of people actually know his personality and stuff, and he's just awesome to hang around with."

First On The Line Friday At Davie

Davie's football team is trying to go where only one other team has ventured - 10-0. It is also aiming for the driver's seat to an outright conference title for just the third time ever, Davie last pulled that off in 1999, and the 1965 team that went 10-0 in the regular season is the other one to do it.

Reynolds has won both its Central Piedmont Conference games. When Davie and Reynolds collide Friday night at 7:30 at War Eagle Stadium, there will be a lot at stake.

"We talked about it at the end (of the 43-17 win at S. Rowan): 'Let's do something that only one other team's done - go 10-0 and beyond," Coach Doug Illing said. "Matching that record is going to be very important, but it's not the record that we're going to be thinking about. It's beating Reynolds. Now is the next biggest game of the year."

"I'll be honest, this is the biggest game in my three years at Reynolds," Demons coach Mike Propst said. "We've got a chance to not just play against Davie County, but a chance to compete and a chance to win. Whoever wins is in first place. I've had three or four players call me today (Sunday), wanting to know about film and that kind of thing. We're chomping at the bit."

The 6-3 Demons have defeated Grimsley (14-12), North Forsyth (28-12), East Forsyth (16-14) and Page (40-7) in non-conference play, and North Davidson (16-10) and South Rowan (34-19) in the CPC. They have lost to Carver (35-16), Mount Tabor (28-0) and Northwest Guilford (21-17).

Although their record pales in comparison to Davie's, two of their setbacks came against elite competition. Carver is 8-2 and Tabor is 9-0.

"They've done everything we've asked of them," Propst said as the Demons have bounced back from a dismal 2003. "I'm real pleased with where we're at."

Much of the spotlight will be on do-it-all Anthony Levine, a senior who has returned four kicks for touchdowns. He caught a 66-yard TD vs. Grimsley. In the 16-14 win over E. Forsyth, he blocked a punt for a safety, then returned the ensuing kickoff 65 yards for another score. With time running out vs. N. Davidson, he caught an 80-yard flea-flicker from quarterback Mack Cross, giving Reynolds the 16-10 win. And vs. S. Rowan, he made an interception, returned a kickoff 95 yards and helped Reynolds score three TDs in a four-minute span. That flurry turned a 13-12 deficit into a blowout.

"He's special," Propst said. "You see him in warmups and say: 'Well, he's not too fast.' But he's real deceptive. He has a couple ACC offers. He could be a really great I-AA player and a good Division I-A player. He's very versatile, a lot like (Cooter Arnold). He can play quarterback, tailback, wide receiver, slot back, linebacker, defensive back. And he returns kicks and punts."

Reynolds has speed galore. There is Archie Barrow with 809 rushing yards despite missing the last three games with an injury. There is Sherman Brown, who filled Barrow's backfield shoes in Reynolds' last game vs. S. Rowan and rose to the occasion with 107 yards and four TDs. And there is QB Cross, who rushed for 80 yards last year vs. Davie.

Davie could be making a grave mistake if it takes the Demons lightly. Offensive coordinator Barry Whitlock said he hopes they won't look anything like what he's seen on film.

"They've got a lot of speed," Illing said. "They're very athletic and they're going to test our speed."

Reynolds leads the series 10-9, and the last two years have mirrored the teams' entertaining history. Two years ago at Davie, Reynolds outlasted the War Eagles 32-24. Last year Davie escaped 22-19 on Arnold's 30-yard TD with 90 seconds on the clock.

Although it could walk into a hornets' nest, Propst said his team always looks forward to playing before Davie's packed house, and the stakes of this year's showdown make it all the more meaningful.

"Davie is so good," he said. "They're good in every position, everywhere across the board. They're 9-0 for a reason, but we're going to come down there and play hard. Coming there is always fun for our kids because we don't always get that here in Winston. You've got eight high schools in an urban area. You come there to a community, so it's a lot of fun to play there.

"Last year Cooter made that great play and scored to go ahead 21-19. Two years ago we won at Davie, so we're excited and confident."

Notes: Though it likely won't be the last home game, this is Davie's Senior Night. ... Last year Justin Brown tore through Reynolds (147 yards on 15 carries). Arnold rushed 12 times for 75 yards. Jamar Bratcher had 51 yards on eight carries.

Arnold Takes Holman's Challenge With 322-Yard Rampage

Whitaker said. "Where he was flanked out and they had leverage on him, he made three of the best plays I've seen him make. They had two to block him and he still kept outside contain and made the tackle. He's that type of player."

Brock Flowers is a junior linebacker with starter qualities. The problem is he's stuck behind three stalwarts - Rice, Chris Goode and Buchanan. Goode missed the game while attending a youth academic summit in Washington, D.C., Flowers got his shot and he capitalized with eight tackles. Bubba Boger and ReShaun Parks added five each.

"I had to fill some big shoes," Flowers said. "I was pretty nervous, but I got it done. I got to play and show everybody that I can do the same thing."

"He learned the speed of Friday night, and he handled it real well," Illing said. "He stepped up and did exactly what I think Chris would have done. There was no letdown right there."

Parks whet Davie's appetite right off the bat, jetting 51 yards on the opening kickoff. On first down, Arnold sprinted 33 yards untouched and David Stein's PAT gave Davie a 7-0 lead 15 seconds into the game.

After South charged right back with an 81-yard drive that lasted 13 plays and ended with a 26-yard field goal, Corriher went deep to Howell, who beat Chris McKiver and hauled in a 44-yard pass. That led to Stein's field goal, from 34 yards, for a 10-3 lead.

South tried a halfback pass, with Keith Fuller taking a pitch and looking downfield. Rice jumped all over Fuller, a fumble-causing sack that Flowers recovered and returned 24 yards. Arnold scored two plays later, following Ryan Boehm, Jordan Grimes and T.A. Steele for 14 yards and putting Davie up 17-3 late in the first quarter.

The 44-yarder from Corriher to Howell was the longest pass play of the season. Corriher found Howell again underneath, along with a 17-yarder to Zach Vogler. Corriher's only blemish was an interception in the end zone that helped South pull within seven.

"He was throwing it away, he just didn't throw it away enough," Illing said. "We tried to get happy and get the passing game going. We've just got to throw it in the stands."

After Heath Houston returned the pick 47 yards, Fuller immediately motored 37 yards to dent Davie's vaunted defense and make it 17-10.

South's fullback, junior Darius Beaty, rumbled for 142 yards to surpass 1,000 on the season, and South courageously managed 16 first downs and 294 yards with its fast option runners.

That's never good for a defense with Davie's expertise. But South didn't bother Davie through the air, with quarterback Michael Gore going 3 of 11 for 29 yards.

"They had too many yards," Morgan said. "They big-played us a bunch. It was hard to read because the quarterback was tucking it so close you couldn't really see who had the ball. But we still should have shut it down."

"That's a hard offense to simulate in practice, and it takes a series or two to really get used to it," Illing said. "It's a tough scheme to stop."

After it became 17-10, Davie rolled the rest of the night.

Two plays into the third quarter, Raeshon McNeil thwarted a bomb with a sliding interception at the South 43. Rice and Morgan buried Beaty 7 yards behind the line before Flowers made key plays on back-to-back snaps, blitzing and belting Gore before he knew what hit him and then preventing a substantial gain by upending Beaty with a shoestring tackle.

"We answered the call," Illing said. "We've just got to quit hurting ourselves with turnovers. Otherwise it would have been 37-10 at halftime."

"They're a great team from top to bottom," South coach Rick Vanhoy said after losing to Davie for the eighth time in nine years. "They're going to go a long way. We had to have some breaks. If they would have helped us by putting it on the ground a few more times, that would have certainly helped."

Whitlock went to Arnold's well 28 times and found it overflowing. A South defender crashed into him with the score 10-3, but Arnold never broke stride on his 14-yard TD. From the shotgun formation, he bobbled a high snap and still raced around the end for 20 yards. He reached 100 yards with 8:10 left in the first half, and he returned a punt 63 yards for six points - only to see that magic erased by a block-in-the-back penalty.

Two encounters with Matt Linton, a 6-4, 260-pound defensive lineman typified Arnold's night. When he took a pitch on third down from the Davie 41, Linton banged into him at the Davie 38. Arnold brushed him off and gained 29. When Arnold faked a pitch to Bratcher on third down at the South 7, Linton met him at the 10. Arnold left him frustrated again, shaking free and ending up in the end zone.

"I think the first half a good deal of (Arnold's 150 yards) were his," center Boehm said. "In the second half maybe we'll take a little credit."

"As long as I keep my feet moving, it's going to be hard to get me down - at least for one person," Arnold said.

When Arnold pulled his second Houdini act at Linton's expense - he was sprawling at the South 10 and beating the ground with his fist - he was just warming up. Late in the third he did something else stunning, faking to backup tailback Julian Johnson and hitting the right sideline. Defensive back Brandon Bowden came into the picture from the left and had the perfect angle. But Arnold shifted gears and dusted him for 82 yards and a 36-10 lead.

On first down at the South 7, defensive end Perry Minton had Arnold cornered at the line of scrimmage. But he sliced left and scored TD number five with 10 minutes remaining.

He had 295 yards going into the fourth. The Raiders played inspired and looked considerably better than their record (3-6, 0-2 CPC), but they never had a chance because of Arnold's lethal combination of power and finesse.

"He ain't being recruited by Auburn and everybody else in the country for no reason," Vanhoy said. "We were at the point of attack, where we needed to be, and his athletic ability just kicked in."

"My OL did their job," Arnold said. "If it weren't for them, I wouldn't have got nowhere."

Notes: Besides Goode, Davie also played without tight end/defensive tackle Ted Randolph, who was nursing a sprained ankle. Junior Tyler Hayes replaced him at TE, and Harry Brown and Terrell Wilson filled in at DT. ... Morgan said he should have had two INTs. "I'm going to be working on passes all week," he said. ... Flowers smelled the end zone on his fumble return. "Terrell tripped me or something. I was going to score," he said. ... Ragsdale's Baker entered Friday with 1,797 yards and 21 TDs on 162 carries.

Notes & Quotes

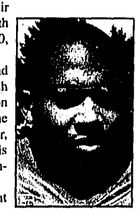
Davie One Of The Few Remaining Unbeatens

• Davie's football team is one of eight unbeatens in Class 4-A. The other spotless marks belong to East Burke, East Wake, Independence, Mount Tabor, Richmond County, Rocky Mount and South View.

• Davie's 35-28 win over Crest on Sept. 3 looks better every week. The Chargers (7-1) have conquered everybody in their path since that epic night, beating Shelby 38-35, South Point 35-21, Hickory 34-17, Kings Mountain 54-0, St. Stephens 63-3 and Fred T. Foard 52-0.

"Davie is a unique combination of size, speed and power. Especially power," said Mooresville coach Barclay Marsh, whose club lost to Davie 40-7 on Sept. 10. "Both their lines are incredibly strong, the tight end (Ted Randolph) is a devastating blocker, the linebacker (D.J. Rice) is great, Cooter Arnold is extremely talented, their special teams are just tremendous and they are exceptionally well-coached.

"I don't know (if Davie will win the state title), but I would hate to see the team that can beat them."



Steele

• Against South Rowan, David Stein went 4 of 5 on extra points and made a field goal for the second straight week. Going into South, the first-year senior was seventh in the state among kickers in scoring.

"We keep on scoring and that's how I'm getting up," he said. "It's also Ted and Cooter for snapping and holding."

• Offensive line coach Chad Groover was underwhelmed by his boys in the first half at South. After absorbing a good chewing, Davie's offense played a perfect second half, scoring on all three possessions.

"I wasn't too pleased myself," left tackle T.A. Steele said. "We had trouble adjusting to their shift, and we weren't aggressive. But in the second half we adjusted and were aggressive."

• The War Eagles' hearts jumped into their throats when senior right tackle Dion Cody went down in a heap and grabbed his right leg late in the third quarter. Everybody initially pointed to a cheap-shot hit, but further review confirmed a Davie player blocked a Raider into Cody's blindside.

Cody was under the impression that it was a cheap shot, so he came back one play later with smoke rolling out his ears. He immediately knocked a guy on his funny.

• Arnold Soloman, the publisher of ncpreps.com and the state's renowned football guru, checked out Friday's game and came away gushing at Arnold's legendary 322 rushing yards. He broke his own school record.

"He is the real deal," Arnold said. "Some players are fast, some are quick and some are deceptive. Cooter is all three."

This represented Arnold's fifth 200-yard game. Earlier this year he had 207 vs. NW Guilford, 273 vs. West Rowan and 240 vs. North Forsyth. Wake Forest jumped on the bandwagon last week, adding a third team to Arnold's list of college destinations. North Carolina and Clemson are the other finalists.

"(A decision) might be sometime shortly," he said. "Clemson's fans are real supportive and it's a great atmosphere to be in. North Carolina's got good facilities, and mainly there you get a good education."

Wake's recent offer has reportedly made Arnold's impending decision all the tougher.

• The War Eagles are 14-1 since last year's loss at West Forsyth. The only setback during the second-best run in history was a 27-12 state-quarterfinal loss to Mount Tabor.

Collins Plans On Returning For Playoffs

Davie's football team is two wins from the longest single-season winning streak ever, and it is going to be even better in the coming weeks. That's because one of its most prized possessions, Dewayne Collins, is optimistic that he'll be back on the field either against North Davidson on Nov. 5 or in the first round of the playoffs on Nov. 12.

Collins

Collins broke his tibia on the Monday following the biggest win of Davie's 9-0 run, a 35-28 comeback over Crest. The senior is a major weapon at receiver, linebacker and special teams. He has seven catches for 104 yards and three touchdowns. He's first in TD catches (three) and second in receptions. And that's while missing the last six games. He has three of Davie's five TD grabs.

"I can come back either North Davidson or the first round of the playoffs. It depends on how I do at rehab, (which he started Oct. 25)," said Collins, who had his cast removed Oct. 20. "I was worried about (the doctor) saying that I couldn't come back. I've got some making up to do."

Coach Doug Illing said: "That will be a big boost at a critical time. I think we'll know more when they see him at (Brandon) Rehab. You don't know how strong (the leg) is."

The good news about Collins sent a wave of euphoria through Davie's locker room. The last seven weeks have been agonizing for Collins, and it saddened teammates to watch him hobble to practice on crutches and stand on the sideline thinking about the dynamic senior season that was derailed by fate.

"I'm happy for him because we've been playing for so long together, and we've been missing him out there," said fellow senior and outside linebacker Dustin Morgan. "I hate to see somebody that had a good year going end like that, and it'll make us better. Even though we're doing pretty good now, we'll be complete with him."

Doub, Steller Make All-Conference Team

Corey Doub and Kelsey Steller of Davie's cross country teams earned all-conference spots in last week's Central Piedmont Conference championships at West Forsyth.

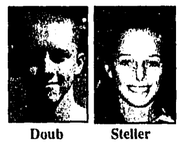
The top 12 runners made all-conference, and Doub finished ninth in the boys race, completing 3.1 miles in 18 minutes, 23 seconds. The winner, Drew Felts of West Forsyth, had a 16:29.

"His senior year came out the way it should," Coach Darie Beiter said. "Doub has a great attitude about running and work ethic, and it paid off for him."

Stellar, a sophomore transfer from Hibriten, was 10th in 21:44 for Davie's girls. The individual title went to Reynolds' Ashley Samuel (20:01).

"For a sophomore, that's good," Beiter said. "Kelsey's worked hard and she's been there all season for us."

While Beiter was excited for Doub and Steller, he was hurting for Bekah Peeler, who placed 15th and missed all-CPC. The senior finished eighth as a freshman and first as a junior, when she ran a 19:59. She was sick during the big meet as a sophomore and finished 24th. Peeler was under the weather at the worst time again this year, running a 22:18.



Doub Steller

"Peeler didn't have her day, and we wanted her to get all-conference," he said. "A half-mile in she was fourth. But when she came out of the woods she was hurting. She's been sick and she struggled through the last mile. She came from 18th or 19th, so she came back a little in the third mile.

"It's unfortunate that all-conference awards go to one meet. If you have a down day or you're sick, you don't get it, and it was rough not seeing Bekah get all-conference. She had the same situation her sophomore year."

The team results were familiar. The order in the girls was West Forsyth (34), Reynolds (36), Davie (89), South Rowan (93) and North Davidson (124). The boys' standings were West Forsyth (24), Reynolds (48), North Davidson (73), South Rowan (115) and Davie (118).

Since nine of Davie's girls turned in personal-best times, Beiter couldn't complain. Davie edged out South Rowan because of a huge lift from Elizabeth Budd, Hannah Thompson, Lesley McBride and Sharon Woodward, who placed between 20th and 24th.

"We challenged the girls who were running 24 minutes consistently to get into the 23s," he said. "If they wouldn't have we would have been fourth. We finished where we should have."

Six of the boys came through with personal-best times, but it was all for naught as S. Rowan kept Davie in last place.

"It hurt knowing South was three points away from us," Beiter said. "Our guys gave it their best effort. I can't blame anybody. They passed who was right in front of them."

The Midwest Regional is Oct. 30, and the state meet is Nov. 6 at Tanglewood in Clemmons.

Volleyball Team Season Ends With A Whimper

The Davie volleyball team's season went from bad to worse in last week's Central Piedmont Conference Tournament.

The War Eagles had plenty of disappointment in the regular season, but they did have two wins over Reynolds, three games to two in the first meeting and three games to none in the second match.

Davie finished the regular season tied for third, but the tiebreaker dropped it to the No. 4 seed. Reynolds was last place and the fifth seed. They met in a CPC Tournament play-in match, and Reynolds did something totally unexpected, winning in three games to close the War Eagles' year at 6-18. The win lifted Reynolds to 4-19.

No. 3 South Rowan upset No. 1 North Davidson (18-4, 8-0 CPC regular season) in the championship, 25-16, 25-21, 18-25, 17-25, 15-7. The win raised South above .500 (10-9), gave the Raiders the No. 2 state-playoff berth and bumped West Forsyth out.

Davie's .333 winning percentage is the worst in its 28-year history.

Vanessa Didenko sets ball.

Whitlock Posts Davie's Best Score

Davie junior golfer Ashley Whitlock shot a team-best 103 in last week's 4-A Western Regional at Rock Barn Country Club in Hickory. The low 26 scores qualified for the state meet, and Whitlock was good for a tie for 26th.

But Whitlock was one of the first to finish, left and had no idea she could be involved in a playoff. Five players who tied at 103 fought for two state spots.

Virginia Mayer of Myers Park won the individual title with a two-under 70. The winning team was Northwest Guilford, which scored a 158.

Mighty Jordan Pounds Davie Tennis In The First Round

Davie's tennis team lost 8-1 twice to Central Piedmont Conference champion Reynolds, but the team that Davie met in the first round of the state 4-A playoffs last week was a lot scarier than Reynolds.

Durham Jordan beat visiting Davie 9-0. Although Jordan has lost once in 17 matches, it appears invincible to Davie coach Kerstin Plagemann.

"There's no comparison to them (and anyone Davie's played)," she said after Davie finished 11-8. "They're a phenomenal team."

Jordan's No. 1 player, senior Neils Barringer, is ranked 25th in the country. What's truly amazing is Barringer missed her sophomore and junior years because of a heart condition. Davie's only senior, Alyson Walker, who came in with a commendable 14-7 record, got to see Barringer's relentless skills firsthand. Walker did manage to take one game in a 6-0, 6-1 defeat.

"Barringer's a brilliant player," Plagemann said. "Unfortunately she won't be able to go to regionals because she could take the state. She hasn't decided yet (on a college). Their coach said she's got no problem getting a full ride, she just hasn't decided."

Jordan also defeated Jackie Button, Lauren Hauser, Jessica Overby, Jacquie Downing and Erica Corne. Jordan didn't slow down in doubles, either.

"Their No. 4 player was 15-0," Plagemann said. "I told them if we can get a couple games, hey, that's great. The girls played hard and had fun."

Notes: Jordan went 8-0 in the Pac-6 Conference. ... The War Eagles have six straight winning records and a string of four runner-ups in the CPC. But they are now 1-4 in state-playoff matches. Last year they lost in the first round, 6-0, to Grimsley.

JV Football Dazzles In 13th Straight Win

The future of Davie football continues to look dazzling bright.

The War Eagles' weapons were all on display in last week's 34-17 win over visiting South Rowan. Kenneth Brown rushed for 125 yards on three touchdowns, quarterback Garrett Benge went 7 of 10 for 127 yards, including a momentum-turning TD to Josh Eder, and Brandon Stewart racked up 15 tackles as Davie ran its records to 8-0 and 2-0 in the Central Piedmont Conference.

Davie took a quick 12-0 lead before South responded with two scores to climb within 12-10 late in the first half. But Brown, Benge and two receivers (Nic O'Brien and Eder) gave the momentum right back to Davie.

Brown returned a kickoff to the South 46, nearly going all the way. There were only 30 seconds on the clock.

No matter. Benge hit O'Brien, a freshman tight end and the brother of varsity standout Zac O'Brien, over the middle for 32 yards. On the next play from the South 14, Benge whipped a touchdown to Eder, who went down and secured the ball from his knees with a defender on his back. That's the type of series that has people excited about Davie's future, a future that must overcome the loss of 22 seniors.

"The design was to get behind the linebackers, in front of the safety and to get it over them and in between them," Benge said of his scoring strike to Eder, which gave Davie an 18-10 halftime lead. "I told Eder before the play that it was going to have to be low and he's going to have to make a good catch - and he did."

Eder has about half of Benge's completions, catching three for 75 yards vs. South and pushing his totals to 21 receptions for 493 yards, a whopping 23.5 average. Benge is now 43 of 76 for 853 yards, a marvelous .566 completion rate. The freshman needs 147 yards in the last two games to reach the 1,000-yard plateau.

"He can throw it on a rope or he can loft it in," Coach Tilden Carter said.

"All the guys executed," Benge said. "We had great patterns that made it easier to throw."

Davie's offensive has been incredibly balanced, and this was more of the same. Brown walked all over South's defense, averaging 11.4 yards on 11 carries. The sophomore tailback has run for a 127-yard clip in the last three games, making it hard to believe he's the same guy who sputtered to 29 yards in a shutout win over Statesville on Sept. 16.

"His kickoff return was big because they had scored and we needed some momentum," Carter said. "He's gotten consistent. He's good for 100 yards."

As happy as Carter was about Brown, Benge and Eder, he made it a point to mention linemen Kevin Boehm, Jesse Crotts, Adam Ridenhour, Abe Drechsler, Haaken Krey and Tony Steele and tight end O'Brien. Fullback Daniel Gough, who gained 43 yards on eight carries, and Eder also had a lot to do with Brown's rushing.

"Brown can't do it by himself," Carter said. "He got blocking from Gough, and Eder threw some killer blocks on the corner. And those guys up front, I can't say enough about what they do and the way Coach (Matt) Sain has those guys blowing off the ball."

Davie's defense was far from its best in the first half, giving up 10 unanswered points to South's option. But the D helped Davie pound out 22 straight points for a 34-10 lead.

"Our defense was kind of struggling mentally. They went up and down the field in the first half," Carter said. "But our kids responded well. I was really impressed with Wesley Turner and the adjustments we made with him. He started stepping on that fullback and creating things for us. That was big."

Stewart was a huge part of Davie's 13th win in a row, as usual. His 15 tackles only added to a resume that includes two interceptions vs. West Rowan, a blocked PAT in a 14-13 win over Crest, 15 tackles vs. Mooresville and 13 vs. Freedom.

With South marching on the game's first series, Stewart picked off a pass inside the Davie 10.

Justin Downs was second with eight tackles, and Mark Huggins had seven. Turner (five), Tristan Huirston (five), Nathan Budd (four) and Bucky Sheppard (four) contributed nicely. Huggins and Turner had sacks, and nose guard D.J. Holman caused a fumble.

Whit Merrifield, still slowed by a bad hamstring, leaped up for an interception, then flipped the ball back to Stewart.

Notes: After suffering drops earlier in the year, O'Brien has come through of late. "He had a big catch at West Forsyth on third down, and tonight he got us down there (for Eder's TD)," Carter said. ... Ryan Hutchinson matched O'Brien with two catches. "Ryan's a freshman and doesn't get to play a lot," Carter said. "When he's in he's making strides." ... On top of Benge's eye-popping completion percentage, he doesn't have a single INT. Carter can only recall one near-pick. "Their guy made a great break on it, and Eder went up and took it out of his hands," he said. "That's the closest he's come to throwing one." Benge said of the streak: "I try not to think about that. I don't want to jinx myself." ... Davie plays at Reynolds Thursday at 6 p.m.

War Eagle Soccer Team Stays In Playoff Hunt

Davie's varsity soccer team could have easily thrown in the towel at midseason. But the War Eagles won't give up.

After opening with an 0-7-3 mark, they are 3-3 in the last six games. Last week Davie lost 2-1 at West Forsyth and won 1-0 at South Rowan, a Central Piedmont Conference split that moved Davie's records to 3-10-3 and 2-4. Coach Jeremy Byrd has seen enough good things to give him hope that the corner to turn is just ahead. If his boys don't reach the next level in the final week of the regular season, he is confident 2005 will be a breakthrough year.

"I'm really proud of the kids," he said.

Hinman Cruz

The War Eagles seldom stand a chance against West Forsyth, falling to 2-29 in the series in a 5-0 home loss on Sept. 29. But they held their own in every way in Clemmons - except for the final score. West scored two minutes into the game, but it was still 1-0 until the 70th minute.

Down 2-0, Davie gave itself a last-gasp chance when Josh Parrish delivered a beautiful pass to Brook Hinman, who pulled Davie within one despite West's 15-3 advantage in shots.

"They played their hearts out. They did everything they could," Byrd said. "Hinman is improving like crazy. He was an outside midfielder (on the score), which means he was exactly where he needed to be."

Chris Wantuch found Placido Cruz, and Cruz's header 10 minutes into the game at South put Davie on the board. The 1-0 lead held up amid a heated exchange of back-and-forth action.

Wantuch suffered a mild concussion when South's keeper clocked him from behind. Yellow cards came flying out of officials' pockets, and even the laidback Byrd had a hard time restraining himself. Two minutes after Wantuch went down, Cruz was pushed down in the box. Davie wanted a penalty kick and a potential 2-0 lead, but there was no call. Byrd yelled to get the game under control, but he regained his composure.

Though tempers were running hot, there was sheer delight on the Davie side when the final whistle blew. Wantuch, David McIlwain, Harrison Judd and Dylan Reynolds played significant parts in the victory.

"Reynolds had some good runs up the side of the field, and he kept opening things up for us," Byrd said. "He was real aggressive."

Lucas Boger also deserves some credit.

"He has shown me he wants to play," he said. "He's getting more and more playing time because he's been very aggressive defensively."

Notes: The War Eagles played Reynolds on Oct. 26. Their final regular-season game is at home vs. North Davidson on Oct. 28. They can finish no lower than fourth, and they're still in contention for the third state-playoff berth. They need to beat North Davidson - the first game was a 3-0 loss - and they need West to beat North.

JV Soccer Gaining Ground

Not too long ago, things looked bleak for Davie's JV soccer team. The War Eagles, at one point, were 3-6 with one goal over three games.

They are 100 percent better now than they were then. Last week Davie lost 1-0 to West Forsyth when the Titans scored in the 72nd minute, and it beat South Rowan 2-0 for a Central Piedmont Conference record of 2-3-1.

Put an asterisk beside the West loss. A JV game is 70 minutes. The referee lost track, allowed a West goal two minutes after regulation should have ended and apologized to Coach Hugh Lee afterward. Lee handled the blunder gracefully.

"We have put together basically three shutouts in a row," he said. "I just could not be happier with these kids over the last two weeks."

West ripped Davie 3-0 in the first meeting, and that made such drama in the rematch at West seem unlikely. It was a thrilling battle between the defenses, and in a sense this was more impressive than some of Davie's wins.

"It was one of the most exciting games a coach or player could participate in," Lee said.

Goalie Jack Rooney stopped 10 of West's 28 shots, including a handful of saves that qualified as spectacular. But the real story behind Davie shutting down West for 71 minutes was the defense of Ross Davidson, Robert Gassett, Jonathon Roesch and Zach Privette.

"We were outstanding on defense," Lee said. "Most of their shots were high and wide because we were playing tough defense."

Two minutes after the official let the end of regulation sneak by, West scored as a ball deflected off Rooney's hands, hit the post and spun into the net. The official blew his whistle right after the ensuing kickoff.

"It was a very unfortunate way to lose, but I was extremely proud of the kids because that team had only lost to Reynolds and we played them 0-0 for 71 minutes," Lee said.

Davie got off 10 shots. Adam McIlwain, Michael Jolly and John Michael Bartelt tried in vain to solve West's super keeper.

Despite the jarring loss, the War Eagles maintained their energy, enthusiasm and kept plugging away against South Rowan. With the game scoreless in the second half, Bartelt broke the ice with a header. His goal was set up by a Jolly corner kick.

Jolly helped Davie produce a 2-0 cushion, knocking a corner kick to McIlwain, who flushed it into the goal.

Notes: Davie is 6-9-1 overall. ... It played at Reynolds Oct. 26. Davie's final game is at home against North Davidson Oct. 28.

8 Year Old Places In BMX Races

Cameron Coleman

Cameron Coleman of Mocksville competed in the NBL-BMX Fall Classic Nationals and regional championship races Oct. 23-24 in Albany, Ga.

Racing for Schanewolf's Cycle Sports, Cameron, in Saturday's regional championship race, placed fourth in his first moto, first in his second moto, but went down hard in a crash in his main race, giving him an eighth place trophy.

Cameron placed 10th in the Southeastern region for the 8-year-old novice group for the 2004 season.

For Sunday's nationals race, Cameron crashed in his first moto, but recovered to pick up fifth place. In his second moto, he placed third, which qualified him for the main race, where he came home with a sixth place trophy.

Cameron's dad, Ron Coleman, made his main race during Saturday's national race and placed sixth overall.

Bass Beats Vanderbilt

Joey Bass, a senior co-captain on Davidson College's soccer team, won all-tournament honors in the UNCG/Adidas Classic recently. The 2001 Davie High graduate scored Davidson's goal in a 1-1 tie with Coastal Carolina. During his all-tournament performance, Bass scored the game-winning goal against Vanderbilt and had the winning assist in a 1-0 overtime win over UAB. He was also named all-tournament in the Santa Clara/Adidas Classic in Santa Clara, California.

Old School

Davie Sports From 1962

Fullback Ronnie McClamrock of Davie's football team rushed for 159 yards on 13 carries as the Rebels improved to 4-1 in the North Piedmont Conference with a 21-0 homecoming win over Children's Home, which had not lost.

With the game scoreless late in the first half, Grimes Parker completed a touchdown pass to Norman Woodward, who stole the ball from a defender and glided to the end zone. Parker doubled Davie's lead with a 33-yard strike to Jim Sheek. Then Sheek iced the win with a 43-yard touchdown play on defense. He busted into the opposing team's backfield, scooped up a fumble and took off toward the end zone.

War Eagle Faithful

Davie High's undefeated and fifth ranked football team in the state has War Eagle fans on the move. Friday night, many made the trip to China Grove, and along with the marching band members shown at right, provided plenty of noise for their team as it beat South Rowan.

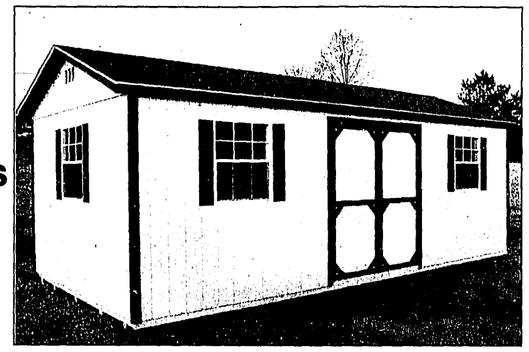
Spotlight on Business

Mast Woodworks Storage Buildings



The setting is picturesque. The finished product is impeccable.

Conveniently situated between Interstate 77 and Highway 421 in Yadkin County is a storage building construction business that provides a rare commodity these days—the highest quality craftsmanship at extremely affordable prices.

And as the owner of Mast Woodworks, Alvin Mast Jr. wouldn't have it any other way.

"If you are going to be in business there are three simple rules that I tell my boys. Satisfy the customer, do the best you can and do better than the competition," explains Mast.

A sole proprietor who insists on delivering work of the highest caliber, Mast is truly a "hands-on" type of guy.

"My boys and I personally build each storage unit from the ground up," he notes.

He says that the two items that make his business stand out from the rest are quality work and reliable service.

"I have been building storage buildings since 1989 and I know what it takes to build a good quality building," Mast says.

Top grade materials, turn-key custom work

The craftsmen at Mast Woodworks start each project with T-111 fur siding and top grade lumber. They then build virtually any size and style of storage building you could want, from 8' x 8' all the way up to 14' x 40'. Metal roofing is also available. "We can even do garages if that's what you're looking for," Alvin says.

Mast emphasizes that his company is fully capable of handling custom work. "We can customize any part of the building, from lofts to work benches to extra doors and so on. We can also handle the electrical work and on-site delivery. All the customer needs to do is provide the leveling material and we can haul, deliver and level up the building when we get there."

All deliveries are made by Hall's Delivery Service. Mast Woodworks has been working with Dale Hall for four years now and has been extremely happy with his work.

"Dale has done a wonderful job for us. We have not had one customer complaint," Mast comments.

'Handyman Special' features workshop and storage area

One popular style of building Mast Woodworks currently features is the Handyman Special. It features a storage area on one end and a workshop on the other.

Owner has spent his career in construction business

Mast, who has been in construction all of his life, says he got interested in building storage units so he could have a business close to home.

"I wanted to get off the road and stay home. Sometimes in construction I would have to travel 75 to 100 miles away. I was tired of morning and evening travel," explains Mast.

Free estimates available

"We are happy to give anyone free estimates and provide pictures of our work," he adds. "And we always encourage people to stop by and see one of our buildings in person."

Mast Woodworks is located 10 miles west of Yadkinville and six miles north of Union Grove at 5328 St. Paul Church Road in Hamptonville (Windsors Crossroads District.) For the convenience of their Clemmons customers, Mast Woodworks has opened a lot to showcase their buildings on the corner of 1-58 and Harper Road. They can be reached at 468-1194 Monday through Saturday 7 a.m. to 5 p.m.

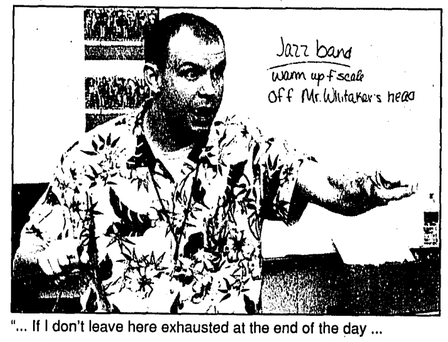
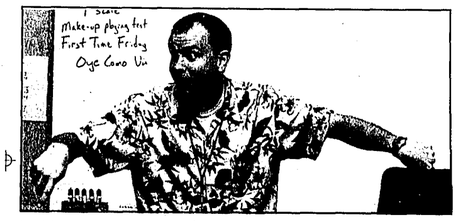
Jason Whitaker: "I draw so much energy from these kids.



"... If I don't leave here exhausted at the end of the day ...



"... I feel like I didn't do my job."

Davie's Teacher Of The Year Loves Challenge Of Relating To Students

By Mike Gunning
Davie County Enterprise Record

"Respect Everything, Support Everyone, and Care about What You Do."

So goes the mantra of Davie County Teacher of the Year Jason Whitaker of North Davie Middle School. Whitaker, now in his fourth year as band teacher, brings an enthusiasm to his classroom that vice principal Wanda Schaffner says is unparalleled.

"Jason is the most energetic, enthusiastic, entertaining middle school teacher I have ever met," Schaffner said. "He's like an entertainer on stage in front of those students, and the kids love it."

Schaffner credits Whitaker with doubling the amount of students who participate in band since his arrival four years ago as a recent graduate of Appalachian State University.

At the time, Whitaker still had some uncertainties about what direction his life calling was to be. A devout Baptist, Whitaker had thoughts about the ministry, but a lifelong love for music and working with children were enough to move him towards teaching.

It took little time in the classroom for Whitaker to realize he had made the right decision.

"I love doing this," Whitaker said. "I get to expose these kids to something they normally wouldn't see, and they respond to it in this unbelievable way."

Whitaker didn't find it difficult to gain the students respect. His versatility has been met with amusement and amazement by the fifth graders of the elementary schools that feed into North Davie. He visits those schools several times a year to introduce students to the band program that will be available when they move up to sixth grade.

"He can play every instrument we have," said Michael Lynch, an eighth grader who has studied under Whitaker for two years. "And he's pretty good at them too."

Whitaker's success in the classroom can be traced to his willingness to take a non traditional approach to teaching music. He breaks the subject down, teaching music in steps of rhythms and notes. He's known to clap and stomp his feet as he leads his students in counting rhythms, and creating his own vocabulary to get his point across is not above him either. Whitaker invented the term "uni-rhythm" to get his point across to a group of eighth graders that were working on rythm exercises recently.

"There are so many layers to music," he said. "If I can teach them to recognize rhythms and beats, the rest kind of falls into place."

Whitaker grew up in the Stokes County school system, where his mother Wanda has been a teacher for 32 years.

"She's my greatest inspiration when it comes to teaching," he said. "I hope that I can have the impact on as many children who come through my classroom that my mother has had on those that she's taught. I think I get the love for doing what I do from her, because she loves what she does so much. She's an amazing person."

Wanda Whitaker said she feels the same way about her son.

"Jason has always been this gift from heaven," Wanda said. "To be his peer now, and to see him do so well is such an honor for his father and I. We're so proud of him."

Wanda said seeing her son go into teaching never really came as a surprise.

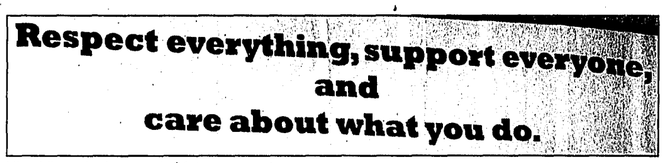
"He was always so enthusiastic, even as a little boy," she said. "We knew music was a strength, and he gets along so well with kids, teaching was just a natural thing for him to fall into."

Whitaker said he always believed that doing what one wants to do is more important than bringing home a big paycheck.

"I know I'll never be rich," he said. "But I'll trade the riches for the fun I have in doing what I do."

He said he gets his positive attitude and enthusiasm from his strong faith in God and the reactions he gets from his students.

"I draw so much energy from these kids," Whitaker said. "If I don't leave here exhausted at the end of the day, I feel like I didn't do my job."



His philosophy is on a sign for everyone to see.

Jason Whitaker isn't afraid to use unconventional methods to get the attention of students.

Seamon-Buchanan Couple Married At Concord Methodist

Sara Brooke Seamon of Mocksville and Michael Steven Buchanan of Winston-Salem were married at 5 p.m. Aug. 21 at Concord United Methodist Church in Mocksville. The Rev. Dr. John Andrews and the Rev. Dr. Mark Evans officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Seamon of Mocksville. Her maternal grandparents are the late Mr. and Mrs. Raymer Patterson of Mocksville. Her paternal grandparents are Mildred Seamon and the late Harold Seamon of Mocksville. The bride graduated with a doctor of pharmacy degree from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill School of Pharmacy, and is a pharmacist at CVS Pharmacy in Advance.

The groom is the son of Linda Ripley of Covington, Ga. and Joey Buchanan of Rutherfordton. His maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hodge of Rutherfordton. His paternal grandparents are Dorothy Buchanan and the late Earl Buchanan of Rutherfordton. The groom graduated with a bachelor's of business administration degree from the University of North Carolina at Greensboro and is pursuing a master's of business administration degree from Gardner-Webb University. He is a real estate agent with Coldwell Banker Triad Realtors.

The bride wore an elegant formal gown by Mon Cheri. The strapless bodice of Lux satin featured an asymmetrical pleated design which lead to a full shirred skirt of satin with a French tulle overlay. The hem of the skirt and cathedral length train were edged with a wide row of embroidered lace encrusted with hand beading. Her headpiece was a single veil of illusion on a comb edged with satin cording.

The bride was escorted by her father. The maid of honor was Stacy Seamon of Mocksville, the bride's sister. The matron of honor was Missy Lee of Knoxville, Tenn. The bridesmaids were Mindy Seamon of Sylva, sister of the bride; Alison Buchanan of Rutherfordton, sister of the groom; Brooke Johnson of Durham; Tracey McCrary of Charlotte; Rebekah Ruggles of Boone; and Elizabeth Smiley of Advance.

The best man was the groom's father. The groomsmen were Matthew Buchanan of Wilmington, the groom's brother; Brian Lail of Rutherfordton, the groom's cousin; Cary Lail of Raleigh, the groom's cousin; and Jason Yeatts of Winston-Salem.

The flower girl was Katy Buchanan of Rutherfordton, the groom's sister. The ring bearer was Owen Buchanan of Rutherfordton, the groom's nephew.

The program attendants were the bride's cousins, Emily and Jennifer Williams of Mocksville.

The guest register attendant was Gennie Cox of Mocksville.

Mr. and Mrs. Forest Koone and Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Hammond welcomed guests to the reception.

Wedding music was provided by a trio from the North Carolina School of the Arts, soloist Janie Buchanan, and organist Donna Lanier.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Red Barn at Tanglewood Park in Clemmons.

The groom's parents hosted a barbeque rehearsal dinner at Walnut Hall in Tanglewood Park.

Like many home health patients, Emma Benson requires nursing visits twice a week to check on her heart condition. Recently, however, her home health nurse brought something new – an electronic device that takes Emma's vital signs and transmits the results to our home health office.

The HomMed Health Monitoring System® is a free service from Rowan Regional Home Health, and every morning takes about three minutes to input and transmit. And even if Emma didn't speak English, the monitor can speak in several languages. So it's no wonder that doctors like the easy-to-use HomMed System for home health patients with diabetes, cancer, pulmonary and after-surgery problems.

Heart patient Emma Benson loves her HomMed Health Monitor because it speaks to her needs... in a clear, friendly voice.

Emma's home health nurse still visits two days a week, but she gets daily reports of how Emma's doing between visits, which makes Emma feel much better. Also, if Emma hasn't sent her data by 11 a.m. each day, immediate contact is made by phone, which is a further comfort to her and her family.

Emma sends her test results to a staff member at our facility. Which means if there's any change in Emma's heartbeat, blood pressure, temperature and weight from day to day it can be detected and quickly reported to her home health nurse and her physician.

The HomMed Health Monitoring System is offered exclusively by Rowan Regional Home Health in Rowan, Cabarrus, Davie, Stanly and Iredell counties.

Now Emma's no electronics wizard, but that's okay, because the HomMed monitor has a friendly voice that guides her through each step to record her vital signs. The whole process

Call us for more information on the HomMed Health Monitoring System. And see what all the talk's about.

Bluegrass At The Brock

Ronnie Bowman Shows His Versatility

By Ellen Newman
Special to the Enterprise

If it's bluegrass, it's at the Brock.

If you're like most people, you think of bluegrass music as featuring a loud ringing banjo, high-pitched harmonies and a foot stomping beat.

A Review

But bluegrass can be mellow or kicked into warp speed, depending on the song and the musician's style.

Surry County native Ronnie Bowman – former member of popular Lonesome River Band, and an acclaimed solo artist – performed at the Brock Performing Arts Center in Mocksville recently with his new band, The Committee. It was the season opener for the Bluegrass Pass concert series presented by the Davie County Arts Council.

Bowman's style is a subtle shade of bluegrass; the centerpiece is his voice and the words and story of the heartfelt ballad he sings. With a voice described as tender and moving, he's a three-time winner of the International Bluegrass Music Association's Male Vocalist of the Year award.

The show wasn't a sell out, but it was bluegrass at its best.

Bowman's band includes Wyatt Rice on lead guitar, younger brother of flat-pick guitarist Tony Rice and a stand-out on his own merit. Garnet Iams Bowman, his wife of two years, was on stage most of the time and sang harmony vocals and a beautiful solo.

The Committee does Bluegrass without the banjo. Instead, the fiddle and dobro are featured along with the mandolin, stand-up bass and guitars.

Because bluegrass isn't limited to a specific sound or instruments, it's adaptable to any type of music, even rock n' roll. Bluegrass is more an expression of what the musician feels than an image he's trying to project or live up to. It's basic but can become intricate, depending on the individuals and their interpretation of the song.

Blues and bluegrass easily blend. Harmonicas can be added to enhance or change the sound. Local recording artists Mel Jones and His Bag O' Bones are a perfect example of that combination.

The soundtrack to the movie "O Brother Where Art Thou" won over new fans and increased interest in bluegrass, its history and pioneers of the music.

At festivals, picking parlors and jams everywhere, young people have been welcomed and encouraged to learn and perform bluegrass, to carry on the tradition and culture as much as the music itself.

Some of the younger musicians have adapted and morphed the music into more of a contemporary jazz or new age sound as demonstrated by the band Nickel Creek.

Other young bands, like King Wilkie, are playing traditional bluegrass with a fresh new energy on stage that adds excitement and fun to the performance.

Davidson County native Abe Spear plays the banjo for King Wilkie, and they have been enjoying a lot of attention lately. They were featured recently in a story called "Bluegrass: The Next Generation" in Country Weekly magazine. They will open for Rhonda Vincent and The Rage at the Brock on Nov. 6.

Rhonda Vincent stands out in the small crowd of notable female musicians and performers on tour today. This show will probably be a sell-out.

The Brock is noted for its close-up and personal setting. It puts the pressure on the performers to interact more with the audience, but that wasn't a problem for Bowman, whose parents and other family members sat on the front row. He dedicated their favorite song to them, a gospel tune called "The Lord is My Life."

His personality on and off stage is warm and humble. He referred to his fellow players as his "best friends" and went out of his way to share the spotlight with each one. He said that being a songwriter, he likes to tell people who wrote the songs he performs, acknowledging their talent and contribution to his success.

After an encore, he ended by saying, "We love you all, 'till next time, see you later."

A movie star smile and modern tour bus might lead one to assume that Ronnie Bowman has let hitting the big time go to his head. But like so many North Carolinians who go out into the world and make a name for themselves, he hasn't strayed far from his Christian upbringing and Southern roots.

For more about Bowman and updates on his latest project with The Committee on the Sugar Hill Record label out of Durham, go to www.ronniebowman.com on the web. The Arts Council website is www.daviearts.org, 751-3112.

Pet Of The Week

Hello, my name is Lucy VanderKlok.

My brother, Binks, and I were taken to the Davie County pound by our owner in August. I am not sure why, but I sure am glad that I was able to find a home with Ron, Becki and Emmy Lou VanderKlok. Emmy Lou is an 11-month-old Yorkshire terrier who needed a friend to play with.

Diana, an employee in Dr. James Beeson's vet office, visits the pound frequently and found my brother and me. She took us to Dr. Beeson's office where we were given a bath and cleaned up. My Mama Becki had been looking for a playmate for her Yorkie puppy, Emmy Lou. Diana called Mama Becki to see if she was willing to take in a friend for Emmy Lou. Becki came to see me, fell in love and..."Whew!" Was I ever more lucky (as I was about to be sent to "doggie heaven" the next day by the Davie pound). What a friend we have in Diana, Jerri and Dr. Beeson at Village Way Vet.

The minute I was taken into their home, I knew I was in a safe haven. Emmy Lou welcomed me with open "paws" and within three minutes I knew that this was where I wanted to be. They play with me, love me, feed me well, and even let me sleep with them. Also, I get to go on really nice trips with them, too. I just made by first journey to Raleigh to visit my nephew, Ziggy, who is an 80-lb. Chocolate Lab and even he loved me and I wasn't afraid of him. My new mom and dad took me in order for me to know that crating isn't so scary. After being in a pound, I needed to know that crates or cages aren't necessarily bad and that I would have a chance to regain my taught freedom when I returned home. Do you know they have even bought me toys and "bones" that are play toys as well. What a life.

Please remember, before you buy a pet, check out the Davie County pound. Most important, however, please don't buy a pet unless you know the responsibilities that come along with taking care of us. There are so many cute, lovable and appreciative pets that are looking for good homes. I am one of the lucky ones.

By the way, my Shih Tzu brother found a good home, too. Later, for now. Love, Miss Lucy.

See my picture with this story and also my new found sister, Emmy Lou, the Yorkie.

VIRGINIA FOXX FOR CONGRESS
Real Leadership, Real Results

"As your Congresswoman, I will have many priorities that are important to you. However, none are more important than these three. -- Senator Virginia Foxx

1. I pledge a 100 percent effort to winning the war on terror, protecting our borders, stopping illegal aliens, and bringing home our troops as victorious champions of democracy.

2. I want to make healthcare affordable to every American through much needed reform rather than a government-sponsored program.

3. As I have done in the past, I will be an unquestionable advocate for family values: pro-life, traditional marriage, and God in our teachings and traditions.

Lions Club Sponsoring Free Diabetes Screening Friday

Free diabetesscreening and blood pressure checks, sponsored by the Mocksville Lions Club, will take placethis Friday, Oct. 29 from 9 a.m.-noon at FosterDrug, 495 Valley Road in Mocksville.

These free screenings are held every last Friday of the month.

Medical staff and trained volunteers will obtain a drop of blood by finger stick and it will be tested in a glucometer. If requested, blood pressure will be given. The results of the test(s) will be given at that time.

All test(s) and results are kept confidential. Report results to your family physician.

The club or volunteers are not responsible for diagnosis and treatment. These are voluntary screenings. Fast 6 to 8 hours before checks if possible.

"Everyone is invited to come out to these free checks to lower the incidences of new diabetes cases," said Jonathan Wishon.

The Lions Diabetes Awareness Program was introduced in 1984. Lions became involved in diabetes education because diabetic retinopathy is the leading cause of blindness among people between the ages of 20 to 74.

To learn more about diabetic retinopathy, eye disease and information about a community-need program, click here to access the Lion Eye Health Program (LEHP).

Lions remain active in educating the public about the importance of preventing diabetes by: eating properly; avoiding obesity; and exercising.

During November, all Lions clubs, districts, and multiple districts are encouraged to implement diabetes awareness projects.

Lions clubs appoint one member to serve as their diabetes awareness chair. On the district level, a Lion is appointed as the district diabetes awareness chair.

Club and district-level chairpersons develop diabetes awareness service projects. Before implementing a project, Lions should contact local government and private diabetes foundations. This can eliminate the duplication of services.

Floral Designer To Be At Garden Club Meeting

Price Davis of Price Davis Florist, Winston-Salem, will present Holiday Arrangements at the Mocksville Garden Club monthly meeting, Thursday, Nov. 4 at 7 p.m.

The club will meet at Jericho Church of Christ and visitors are welcome. For questions, call Evelyn Stroupe at 751-7730.

Nov. 6 BBQ To Benefit Youth Livestock Teams

A pork barbecue will be held with all proceeds going to help support some of our local youth Saturday, Nov. 6 at the William R. Davie Fire Department.

Meals are take-out only from 4:30-7 p.m. for $6.

All proceeds will go to support local youth educational livestock projects ranging from livestock judging teams, skillathon contests, teaching clinics, as well as animal projects.

"Livestock projects are excellent avenues to teach youth life skills, such as sportsmanship, responsibility, patience, decision making and public speaking," said Extension Agent Phil Rucker. "These projects are a great way to spend a little family time."

The barbecue is sponsored by the Yadkin-Davie 4-H Livestock Association and friends of local youth. For more information or to purchase tickets, contact the Cooperative Extension office at 751-6297. Walk-ins are welcome.

"Come out Nov. 6, get a great deal on a great meal and help our local youth to have a brighter future," Rucker said.

Sponsors Needed For The Holidays

This year's Christmas sponsorship for needy, disabled and elderly adults will be located at A Storehouse for Jesus on 464 Depot St., Mocksville, rather than at the Mocksville Town Hall.

In previous years, the Davie Department of Social Services has referred the names of needy disabled and older adults to town hall.

Anyone wishing to help an adult at Christmas needs to contact A Storehouse at 751-1060.

Historical Tours

Book On Civil War Sites To Be Discussed

Touring the Carolinas' Civil War sites, will be presented by Clint Johnson at 7 p.m. on Thursday, Nov. 4 at the Davie County Public Library, 371 N. Main St., Mocksville.

This slide show presentation includes 19 point-to-point driving tours of Civil War sites in North Carolina (12) and South Carolina (7). It includes sites often overlooked by the casual historian. Included are famous sites such as Fort Sumter, and the little-visited such as Plymouth, N.C., where the CSS Albemarle, the South's most successful ironclad, was docked.

All major, and most minor battlefields, are covered, as well as important houses and cemeteries in the photo-rich book. The graves of all but two of the 38 generals buried in the two states are visited.

The program is free and open to the public. Call 751-2023.

Davie County Public Library To Celebrate Children's Book Week

The 85th Annual Children's Book Week will be observed at the Davie County Public Library Nov. 15-21.

This weeklong tribute to children's literature begins with a puppet show and ends with a party.

Throughout November, nominate your favorites for the "Davie County Picks" list. There are forms at the library to choose your favorite book, character, funniest scene, worst book ever, etc. Categories will include picture books, juvenile non-fiction, juvenile fiction, and young adult. The list will be compiled and revealed over cookies and punch at the Children's Book Week Party on Friday, Nov. 19 from 4-5 p.m.

The purpose of Children's Book Week is to recognize and honor the high quality of literature being published for children and teens. It is sponsored by the Children's Book Council.

To kick off this special week the staff of the children's room will present a puppet show version of the classic tale Strega Nona, by Tomie dePaola. Strega Nona, or Grandma Witch, lives in old Italy and makes life much easier for those around her with her magic potions and good advice. Trouble brews when Big Anthony tries his own hand at a bit of magic that he doesn't really understand.

Kids of all ages are welcome to this special library performance: Monday, Nov. 15 at 7 p.m.; and Tuesday, Nov. 16 at 10 a.m.

Watch for the library's float in the Mocksville Christmas Parade on Saturday, Dec. 4.

County Line News

By Shirley Thorne
County Line correspondent

Our County Line Volunteer Fire Department will have its fall pork barbecue and chicken pie supper Saturday, Oct. 30. The supper will include a buffet of barbecue, chicken pie, assorted vegetables and desserts and coffee and tea. Serving lines for the supper will begin at 4 p.m. Take-out plates will also be available.

Beginning at 9 a.m. Saturday, barbecue sandwiches will be available. Whole chicken pies will also be sold on a first-come, first-served basis.

Please come and enjoy an evening of great food and fellowship at the County Line Volunteer Fire Department located on Ridge Road one-tenth mile from U.S. 64 West. All proceeds will benefit the continued education, operations and maintenance of the fire department.

On Saturday morning, Oct. 30, Clarksbury United Methodist Church will have a ham and sausage breakfast from 6-10 a.m. The menu will include country ham, "Jones Grocery" sausage, eggs, grits, red-eye gravy, sawmill gravy, baked apples, biscuits and drinks. Eat all you want and make a donation. Proceeds will benefit the mission needs of Josh and Gwen Mullins on the campus of UNC-Greensboro.

Clarksbury will have a "Trunk or Treat" from 5-7 p.m. Saturday. Church members will have their cars parked in the church parking lot and will have trunks open for children to "trick or select a treat." All children are invited.

On Sunday, Oct. 31, the Clarksbury Methodist Women will sponsor a prayer breakfast at 8:15 a.m. in the church fellowship hall. The special speaker will be John Tilley, a graduate of Western Carolina University and a member of Campus Outreach. Everyone is invited.

Pleasant View Baptist Church will have a southern gospel singing at 7 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 30. The singing group, Inheritons, will be the featured singers. A love offering will be taken. After the singing, everyone is invited to the church fellowship hall for a period of refreshments and fellowship.

Society Baptist Church will have southern gospel singing at 6 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 31. The singing group, Gateway of Mocksville, will be the featured singers. A love offering will be taken.

David and Nancy Sneed of Society will host a chicken stew for the young people at their home on Hayes Road. The event will begin at 6 p.m. Friday, Oct. 29. Activities will include a hayride at 7 p.m.

Salem United Methodist Church will host the annual Davie Charge conference at 3:30 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 31. Dr. Michael Leatherwood, the Lexington District Superintendent, will be presiding at the meeting. The church program for 2005 will be determined. The program will include finances, church officers, church goals. This will be important and all church members are urged to attend.

Upcoming events include a V-Point breakfast on Saturday, Nov. 6, and Calvary Baptist Homecoming on Sunday, Nov. 7.

Our community sends get-well wishes to Lee Cartner, Carol W. Holton and Bueford Lambert. Lee had a surgeal procedure at the V.A. Hospital in Salisbury on Monday of this week. Carol will have major surgery at Medical Park Hospital on Friday of this week. Bueford was hospitalized for congestive heart failure at Iredell Memorial Hospital on Wednesday of last week. He is to have bypass surgery at Wake Forest University Medical Center at a later date. Join us as we pray for the Lord's divine healing and blessings in the lives of these residents.

We welcome news, photos or memories to share from all residents. If you have something to contribute, call Shirley at 492-5115.

Good Neighbor BBQ Coming November 5

Neighbor Helping Neighbor - that's the reason for the Bethlehem United Methodist Church Good Neighbor Fund. The fund, helping Bethlehem's neighbors since 1990, is used to support those in need in Davie county. The Good Neighbor Fund has paid electric bills, filled oil tanks, repaired cars, paid rent to prevent eviction, purchased medical equipment, and met a variety of other special needs.

You can help replenish the Good Neighbor Fund for 2005. It's easy to help – all you have to do is eat. Yes, that's right; eat, at the Good Neighbor BBQ on Friday, Nov. 5, from 5-7 p.m. at Bethlehem United Methodist Church, 321 Redland Road (998-5083). A dinner of pork barbecue and Port-A-Pit chicken will be available from for $7 per plate. Port-A-Pit Chicken lunches will be available from 10:30 a.m.-3 p.m. Delivery will be provided to locations with orders of five or more lunches. Advance tickets must be purchased for Port-A-Pit Chicken.

Requests for Good Neighbor dollars were higher than ever before in 2004. With a $500 limit per person/need, funds are quickly being depleted. All profits from the Good Neighbor BBQ and Port-A-Pit will benefit the Good Neighbor Fund and be available to help neighbors in 2005.

For more information, or to purchase a ticket, contact the church office at 998-5083 or ask a church member.

Spaghetti Supper Nov. 3 At Elbaville Methodist

On Nov. 3, Elbaville United Methodist Church, 2595 NC 801 S., Advance, will sponsor a spaghetti supper from 5-7 p.m. Funds will be used for the church's fourth annual Christmas Angel project. Underprivileged children from local elementary schools will be carried shopping for clothing, shoes and a few toys in December by church members.

Plates will be available to eat-in or take-out, and donations will be accepted.

Pleasant View To Host Inheritons

A gospel singing featuring The Inheritons will be held at Pleasant View Baptist Church, 1263 E. Memorial Hwy. (NC 901), Harmony, at 7 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 30. Pastor Bobby Jones and the congregation invite the public. Call 704-880-5677.

Trunk Or Treat Sunday At Eatons Baptist Church

Eatons Baptist Church is sponsoring an alternative to trick or treat on Sunday, Oct. 31 from 6-7 p.m. All children are invited to turnk or treat in a safe, protected, Christian environment.

Parents are asked to park in the lower, east parking lot to avoid the areas children will be trunk or treating. The church is located at Eatons Church and Richie roads. For more information, call the pastor at 998-6149.

CALLING ALL KIDS Ages 0 – 101
Join Us @ DULIN United Methodist Church
This Sunday, October 31st @ 4:00-6:30 for our 4th Annual Halloween Alternative!
On Sunday, October the 31st, from 4:00 to 6:30 pm, Dulin UMC will hold its 4th annual Halloween Alternative at 897 Dulin Road (1 mile east of Farmington Road and 158)
Don't get tricked this year, give your family the ultimate Halloween treat. You and your family will have a blast making "Face Masks" and playing numerous Carnival games for candy and prizes; you can cruise through the masquerade of Trunk-or-Treating or Participate in a "Coke Walk" and then relax on a hayset hay ride while warming yourselves with a cup of hot chocolate.
There will be hot dogs and hamburgers, cookies and cakes and drinks available. We will also have some live music playing. All food and activities are FREE!
David Smith, the Pastor at Dulin is looking forward to this annual event. "Dulin's Halloween Alternative offers three significant opportunities for the community. 1) It is an AWESOME thing for children and their families to have a safe fun filled evening. 2) It's time for the community of faith to reclaim All Hallow's Eve. And 3) there's opportunity for a new WORSHIP Experience @ 6:45 called KALEIDOSCOPE. So join us for a great evening." For more information contact Rev. David Smith at Dulin UMC (998-5409).
And @ 6:35 pm Join the Dulin Church Community for:
KALEIDOSCOPE - A New WORSHIP Experience!
W/Live Music, Drama, Testimony, Prayer, all wrapped in GOD'S WORD.
Come to Kaleidoscope: A New WORSHIP Experience! It is a community-based WORSHIP celebration giving us a whole new way to think about worship!
(Children all le parade)

HAVE A SAFE AND HAPPY HALLOWEEN

Trick or Treat Safety Tips

- Face Paint is preferable to a mask.
- Make sure masks have adequate holes for respiration and vision.
- Be visible – Wear some sort of reflective clothing, carry a bright orange bag and carry a flashlight or glowstick.
- When walking stay on the sidewalk or on the left side of the road facing traffic.
- Young children should always be accompanied by an adult.
- Never let the child go down a street by themselves.
- Walk with the children to each house and wait in the driveway or by the door until the children return.
- Older children should travel in pairs or in groups and should never venture down a dark, empty side street.
- Dark, unlighted houses should be avoided.
- Save all candy until returning home, then inspect it carefully.
- Throw away all unwrapped or suspicious looking goodies.
- If a child becomes sick, try to remember what he or she ate and where it came from. Call the doctor or hospital ER immediately and save all wrappers.

Farmington Fire Dept. Celebrating 50th Anniversary Saturday

By Dwight Sparks
Davie County Enterprise Record

FARMINGTON - Fifty years ago, Farmington Volunteer Fire Department opened for business with a collection of 29 firemen — none with any experience.

"I had the distinction of being a fire chief who had never fought a fire," said Wade Groce, who served as chief for 21 years.

That quickly changed.

On Saturday, the fire department will observe its anniversary with a display of its trucks at a chicken stew at the Farmington community center grounds. Visitors will be able to see some of the history of the firemen. The department is always looking for a new volunteer, too.

Music by The Knotts Family and Tommy Drifter and The Lost Travelers will start at 3 p.m. The stew will be served at 5 p.m. The event will close at 8 p.m. There will be desserts, hayrides and candy for the kids. At 5 p.m., firefighters will make a presentation. Donations will be taken for the community center.

The Farmington crew was one of the early departments in the county. There are now 12. Groce said it was the growing popularity of the telephone that made fire fighting possible.

With the telephone, firemen actually had a chance to get to a fire before everything was consumed.

Farmington now averages 250 calls a year.

"We've saved a lot of property over the years," said current chief Todd Naylor. "We've lost some, but it wasn't for lack of trying."

Farmington's territory back in 1954 stretched from the Yadkin River on the Forsyth County line west to the Iredell County line.

The first truck, a 1954 GMC, cost $5,500.

"Within the first two months, we had a fire and saved a house that was worth more than the truck cost," said John Caudle, a charter member of the fire department and still a board member.

With contributions, barbecues, a womanless wedding and other fund raisers, the fire department got its start.

Groce recalled helping convince the county commissioners to let Eaton's Funereal Home serve as the first dispatcher for the fire departments.

Back then, many of the volunteer firemen were full time farmers who lived close and were able to respond. Now, many of the firemen work out of the community.

"Day time people are hard to come by," Caudle said. Fire departments regularly share their people who are able to go to day time calls.

Naylor said business and industry owners and managers help the firemen in a way that's often overlooked. "Businesses that let their people go to fires are a tremendous asset."

Many of those early fires involved homes with faulty wiring, Groce said. Because homes only had a few electrical outlets, they were often overloaded.

With home construction much better now, Naylor said the firemen more commonly respond to outbuilding and barn fires. Traffic accidents also generate a lot of calls.

There is another major change over the years: the cost of equipment.

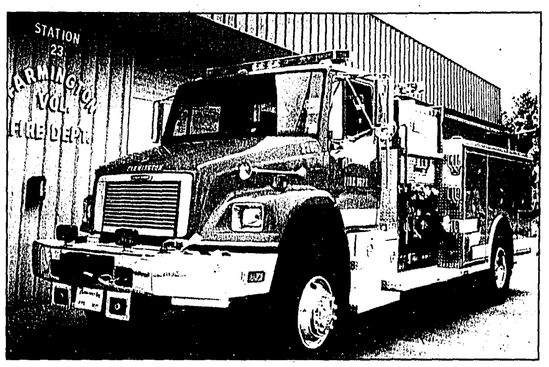
Two air packs now worn by firemen cost almost as much as the original fire truck. The department's last truck cost $178,000.

In addition to Groce and Naylor, two others have served as chief — Danny Smith and Charles Pilcher.

James E. Essic Jr. serves as chairman of the department. He has served on the board since the beginning. The recent death of Joe Carr Harpe recently claimed another of the original firemen.

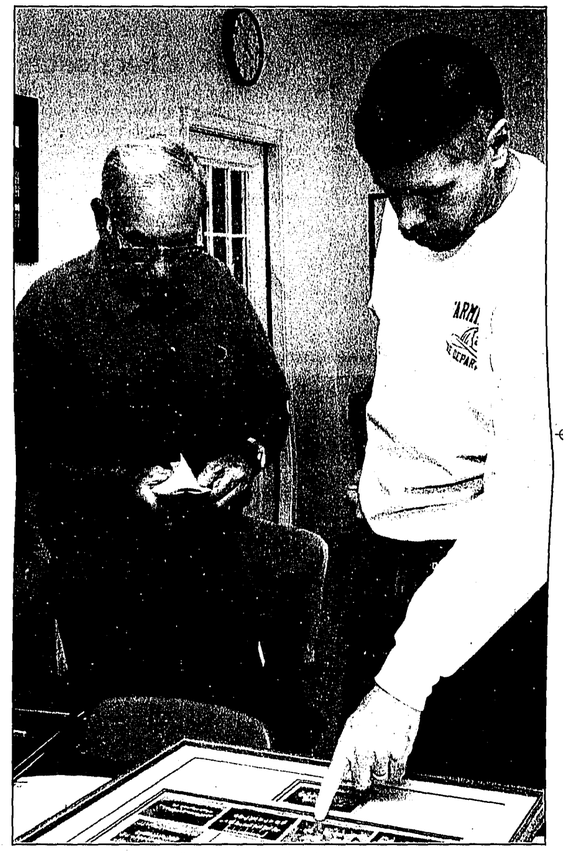
Current firemen include assistant chief Charles Pilcher, assistant chief Robert Caudle, captain Marshall Spillman, lieutenants Randy Newsom, Kevin Benfield and Scott Spillman; firemen Scott Clemo, Daniel Miller, Terry Spillman, David Hutchins, Paul Spillman, Dustin Spillman, Tim Doby, Richard Staley, Dean Miller, Mark Nichols, Phillip Pilcher, Jonathan Pilcher, Brian Spach, Terry Myers, Donnie Seats, Vernon Hendrix, Zakare Whicker, Brad Parks, Todd Myers and Kane Buchanan.

"It takes a special kind of person to do it," Naylor said.

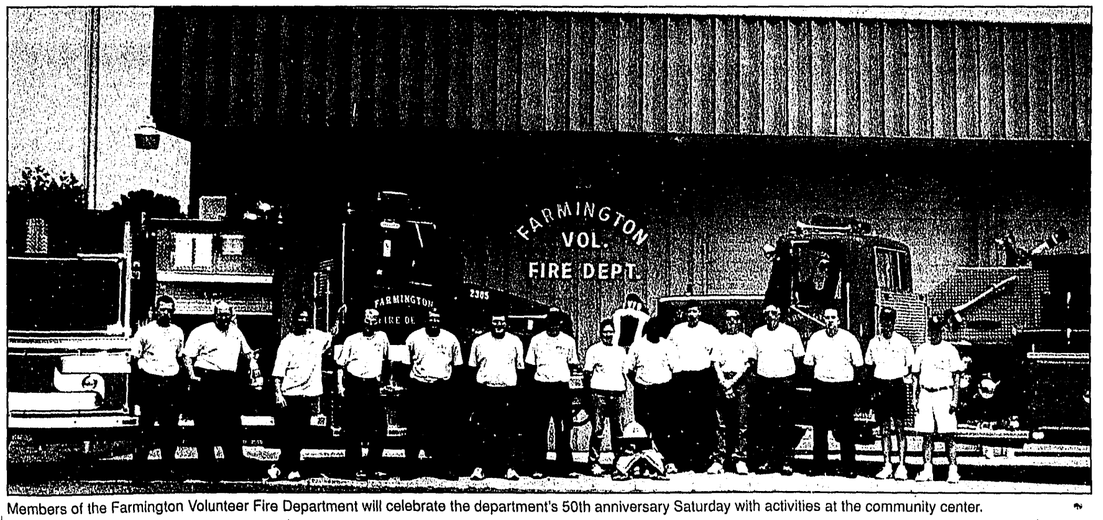


Firefighting equipment is much more advanced - and expensive - than it was 50 years ago. - Photos by Robin Fergusson

Wade Groce said he became a fire chief who had never fought a fire.



Board member John Caudle and Fire Chief Todd Naylor look over some old photographs as they prepare for the 50th anniversary celebration Saturday.



Members of the Farmington Volunteer Fire Department will celebrate the department's 50th anniversary Saturday with activities at the community center.

Davie Schools

Competition Cheerleaders

The South Davie eighth grade cheerleaders placed fourth out of six teams in a competition at Carowinds on Oct. 9. "To score higher than the other squads that have more tumbling ability is a great accomplishment," said Coach Michelle Reynolds. "We have one tumbler and the other teams we competed against had at least four to six per team. South Davie did a great job. Thanks for all your hard work, and I'm very proud of all of you."

William R. Davie Elementary

The book fair was a success. Everyone enjoyed seeing new books to read and remembering old favorites.

The September reading party for students in kindergarten through second grades was held Oct. 12. The following students read at least 32 books for the month: Jordan Baity, Alexu Brooks, Sebastian Casper, Summer Lawson, Jonathan Miller, Jesse Carter, Jay Davis, Shawn Keenan, Isabella Mabe, Nicholas Shell, Amber Adkins, Dakota Deskins, Magan Gardiner, Cory Hawkins, Matt Nesbit, Matthew Binkley, Brianna Cranfill, Cyrena Lyons, Reilly Meagher, K'Lea Parks, Brandon Waller, Kayla Wicker, Jacob Baity, Cady Bodenhamer, Jordan Brittain, Taylen Dancy, Paul Davenport, Heather Davidson, Brian Espinoza, Tyler Foster, Kaytlen Greenlee, Tessa Ivester, Goldie Killian, Megan Mohat, Natalie Moore, Kassady Turner, Michael Walker, Timothy Baker, Lindsey Custer, Carley Eddleman, Lee Ferebee, Jordan McDaniel, Triston McEwen, Christian Reavis, Melanie Santos, Zachary Shaver, Peyton Brooks, Conner Carpenter, Francisco Chame, John Garcia, Cody Henry, Spencer Kelly, Tyler McLamb, Jordan Myers, Taylor O'Neal, Brian Shrewsbury, Jacob Beauchamp, Craig Moore, Colton Primm, Jared Waller, Makala Caudle, Christina Grannaman, Justin Roberson, Katy Alexander, Isela Beiza, Summer Bivins, Levi Boger, Hannah Brown, Sarah Buie, Zachary Hinkle, Hunter McDaniel, Daniel Ramsey, Dakota Ritchie, Bobby Vandiver, Sydney White, Michaellynn Drennan, Joshua Hill, and Johnna Sale.

The fifth grade students of Jen Meagher and Diane Ireland have been estimating, rounding, and graphing. They will continue Accelerated Math, Superstars, and Keeping Skills Sharp throughout the year. In science, they have concluded a unit on weather. Students are reading novels in literature circles. The students in Ms. Ireland's class will present projects on the books. Students are awaiting the "train whistle" daily. When they hear the whistle, they Drop Everything and Read (DEAR). This is in connection with the anticipation of the school premiere of the movie, "Polar Express". In social studies, students are starting a unit on government and elections. The students are reading about the presidential and vice presidential debates in the Winston-Salem Journal. This week the fifth graders will begin a short study of ballet in connection with a performance from "Carolina Ballet" on Oct. 19.

For National School Lunch Week, the fifth grade students thank the outstanding cafeteria workers. These women have worked hard for everybody. Students love the new kitchen.

Next week students will begin "Risk Watch." The first unit of study will be fire and burn safety. On Friday, Oct. 22, the WRD Fire Department will have activities for the students to participate in and learn from.

Citizens of the week for Oct. 8: Hunter Kelly, Magdalena Serrano, Cyrena Lyons, Alex Higgins, Joshua Calloway, Judith Carbajal, Sydney White, Mary Cloyce Collins, Uriel Gamez, Emily Guevarra, Trey Lagle, Ryan Macy, Johnny Hernandez, Alex Gobble, Ketherine Turner, Cruz Keller, Mary Ferebee, and Brittany Anderson.

The PTO sold almost $20,000 worth of cookie dough, pizza, and pretzels, bringing in close to $8,000 profit to go toward expenses in the budget. The Spring Basket Raffles should provide funds for new computers. Thank you to everyone who sold, purchased, and has helped in any way.

Vehicle magnets that read, "William R. Davie Kids First", are for sale for $5 each. Purchase magnets through your child's classroom teacher. Send money in an envelope with the child's name, classroom teacher, and number of magnets written on the outside. Also for sale are tie-dyed William R. Davie t-shirts, $10 each for all sizes except 2X, which is $12. They will be available Grandparents' Day, Oct. 28.

The team has begun its' Community Based Instruction with discussion of employment skills. Students have begun a hands-on experience by volunteering at A Storehouse for Jesus.

In social studies, students are becoming familiar with the 50 states. Each student is responsible for gathering information about two states. Students are researching and writing letters to states to complete an informational packet. They will present findings to the rest of the class.

Eighth graders are reading Where the Lilies Bloom. They participated in the annual eighth grade trip to the mountains.

In life skills, the class has been reviewing kitchen safety rules,appliances and utensils. They are planning for their "Soup, Sandwich, and Stories" luncheon. Students have invited faculty members to a luncheon they will prepare and provide storytelling during the lunch.

Mountaineers

The Mountaineer team completed a study of the Revolutionary War and are studying the U.S. Constitution. The students are working on a project involving the 2004 Presidential election. The social studies classes are planning a trip to the Reynolda House on Nov. 12. They are studying a history of R.J. Reynolds Tobacco.

The communications classes are reading nonfiction. They have written a personal memoir about a humorous event in their lives. The students study vocabulary and grammar each week and work toward achieving their AR points.

The science and math classes are studying volcanoes and dividing integers.

Each week, they have been preparing for the state computer test. The eighth grade teams on Oct. 19 and 21 went to Linville Caverns and Grandfather Mountain. The week of Oct. 19-22 was Spirit Week. The Mountaineers helped sell Super Saver cards, which sell for $5 and offer discounts at 25 local retailers and restaurants.

The following were recognized as Mountaineers of the Week for their display of good citizenship and good efforts in the classroom: Erica Beck, Jesse Blackwelder, Kelsey Taylor, Michael Lucas, Tina Williams, Alexis Alvarado, Marcus Gadson, Perry James, Robert Olive, Mark Eizenga, Shyteek Brown, Trampas Wood, Oscu Flores, Michael Jones, Brittany Knight, Nick Boger, Jessica Tulbert, Moises Cruz, Sabrina Murray and Tomorrow Vaughters. They were rewarded with several prizes.

Shady Grove Elementary

Kindergarten

In Mrs. Sanders's' class during fire safety week, students discussed fire safety rules, practiced "stop, drop and roll" and "fall and crawl". They had a fireman talk to them and they got to walk through the fire safety house. Two paramedics paid us a visit and they walked through the EMS truck. In Letterland, students met Lucy Lamp Lady and Vase of Violets. This week the theme has been "Halloween". It will include bats, creepy crawlers, monsters, jack-o-lanterns, and more. On Friday they will have a special Halloween snack and craft.

Mrs. Foster's class talked about fire and bus safety. They were visited by EMS personnel and the children got a chance to walk through an ambulance. They were visited by firefighters and had a chance to look at a fire truck and for the firefighters to take them through the fire house. The students thanked the firefighters and EMS personnel for all the work they do to keep them safe, and to the bus drivers who drive them to and from school and keep us safe. Next week we will be talking about spiders and ,creepy crawly things, and getting ready for Halloween.

First Grade

Mrs. Marion's first graders visited Patterson Farm last week and had a great time learning about the animals and will be taking pumpkins home. The class is not taking home spelling homework since they are reviewing and doing activities with spelling units in the classroom. In math, they are graphing Halloween candy, weighing and measuring pumpkins, and estimating and counting seeds. They are working on patterns in the environment. In writing, students will use a field trip to the pumpkin patch as a catalyst for writing a story in a sequence. Science has students learning about the life cycle of a pumpkin, and where pumpkins come from. They are enjoying all sorts of Halloween activities.

Mrs. Rogers' students have been learning about Christopher Columbus by reading, singing,

Marty Cooper from Code Blue Careers talks to Davie High students about job opportunities in the health care field (left). At right, students go over printed materials.

Davie High Students Learn About Health Careers

Davie High School freshmen and sophomores show off their Code Blue t-shirts.

Recently, many freshmen and sophomores heard about preparing for careers in health care and how competitive it is to get accepted into many of these programs.

Marty Cooper from Cole Blue Careers gave a presentation on the good employment outlook for health care careers and available resources. She gave away several Code Blue t-shirts in a random drawing, along with Code Blue pamphlets and bookmarks for everyone.

Paula Allen, allied health science teacher, discussed the importance of taking Allied Health Sciences I and II and the requirements expected for getting into AHS II. She also explained that students who satisfactorily complete AHS II and pass the Certified Nurses Assistant (CNA) exam could work as a CNA I. AHS II students do a 90-hour clinical rotation in health care facilities.

After completed AHS I, seniors also have the option of taking Medical Sciences II by doing a 65-hour mentorship with a health care professional. Students were informed about Camp Med, which is a summer program at Davie High School for rising sophomores interested in a medical field. They spent four days learning about health care careers and touring local health care facilities.

Rex Hobson, career development coordinator, explained about other courses that are helpful in a medical career and how important it is for students to plan their course selection for their remaining years at Davie High School. Discussion was also focused on shadowing and career internships; participation in these work-based learning opportunities can be beneficial to students in determining which medical career best suits them.

Students were informed of the resources that are available from Mr. Hobson in the student services office and about Eagle Echoes, the guidance internet newsletter, which contains the latest information on college and career planning for parents and students.

Because of the limitation of students into certain health career majors and the strong competition for these limited spaces, students were encouraged to make good grades and learn course content in order to continue their education at a community college and/or a four-year college.

Students were given a packet of information with many handouts on college and career planning, and one on "Important info for students going into a Health Care Career." Students who are interested in a health care career and were unable to attend the meeting can still pick up a packet of information from Mr. Hobson.

and pretending to be explorers. The class is learning about pumpkins and went on a field trip to Patterson Farm in Mooresville.

Second Grade

Mrs. Kauff's students are reading The Best Vacation Ever, a story about a girl named Amanda who was going across country on a vacation. It tells of all the sights she saw along the way. In social studies, the class learned how Christopher Columbus sailed the ocean and made discoveries. They learned about his three ships, the Nina, Pinta, and the Santa Maria, and the children designed their own ships. In science, they studied how animals are alike and different, and how they grow and change.

Elizabeth Hill's second graders are learning about bats. Students read books and drew pictures of them.

Third Grade

Mrs. Harvey's students have been working on a small group project which coincides with the book they are reading, Little House in the Big Woods. Each group is pretending to travel from N.C. to Wisconsin, and had to calculate the amount of weight they are carrying on their covered wagons. Students will work cooperatively to calculate the distance traveled each day. It is a comparison of what life was like for the Ingalls family traveling versus how we move today. The class completed capital letters in cursive handwriting and will use the new ability while doing classwork.

In Mrs. Baker's class, students are working with subtraction. In social studies, the lesson on communities has involved the study of landforms, climate, and various maps.

Mrs. Hendrix's class is reading Charlotte's Web. They have begun a new math unit on counting money in which students are practicing making change. The class is going to hold a mock presidential election due to the level of interest in learning about the process.

Fifth Grade

The fifth grade students have all finished the DARE program this week by writing essays. The winners will read their essays during the DARE graduation.

Cornatzer Elementary

The third annual fall festival last Friday was a success. Earlier in the day students who had met Accelerated Reading points goal for the quarter were rewarded with a "Mega Event" in the gym.

Fifth grade DARE essay winners: Angel Bradford, Tracie Thomas, Charity Ingram, Gabriel Ruan-Cruz, Karen Boger, Kaitlyn Cheek, Brittany Reynolds, Kelsea Vaughan, and Brandon Hatcher. The first place winners from each class will read their essays at the DARE graduation Oct. 27.

Mrs. Lumley's first grade class has been getting ready for fall. "We have been learning about the changes in the seasons and spent some time in the pumpkin patch at Bau Moo Farm. A delivery man made a special delivery to the school and gave students a pumpkin. Students are using them to practice estimation and mea-surement," said Mrs Lumley. "We spent some time learning about eating healthy foods. We studied the food pyramid and are able to identify healthy and unhealthy foods. At the end of our study we ate some healthy foods from cultures around the world. We tasted sushi, hummus, Brie and provolone cheese, and couscous. It was a lot of fun to taste food from different countries. We are learning about bats and spiders and can't wait until Halloween."

Second grade students in Mrs. Robinson's class have been busy during October. They completed a study of the Au-tumn season. They read the books Picking Apples and Pumpkins, Daniel's Duck, and Ox-Cart Man. On Oct. 8 they held a class fair. The activities included a caramel apple booth, game booths, and crafts such as quilling, mosaics, tin punch, quilting, and good luck charms. Thank you to all the parents and grandparents who came to help. They visited the popcorn factory in Yadkin County Oct. 13. They made pumpkin and apple glyphs and guessed which glyph was made by each of their class-mates. They participated in the school Mega Event Oct. 22 and are looking forward to field day Oct. 29. They are studying economics and learning about the jobs people have.

In Mrs. Doss' fourth grade class, students are working on their second at-home project this year. The first was for social studies; the students had to create a map of North Carolina using three-dimensional materials. The posters are displayed in the fourth grade hallway. Students are working on a science poster for a contest sponsored by the Davie Soil and Water Department. Mrs. Doss is waiting to see the finished products of her creative students.

In language arts, students are reading the book, Owls in the Family, by Farley Mowat. They are integrating this novel with an upcoming science unit on animals. The students will be able to enjoy dissecting owl pellets on the Internet. Students are working hard on writing skills to prepare for the North Carolina Writing Test in March.

In math, students are practicing computation skills by doing facts tests each day. The students learned how to find the area of a figure and the square root of a number. Mrs. Doss is proud of her students for coming to class and working hard each day.

In Spanish lessons third, fourth and fifth grade students have done a great job first quarter, reports Senora Woodruff. "They finished up their numbers unit. The classes are beginning to learn about the seasons and weather. Did you know that in Argentina in January it can be 32 degrees, and that is hot? Many students were surprised to learn that the seasons are the opposite in the Southern Hemisphere. They practiced with the difference between Fahrenheit and the centigrade (or Celcius) tempera-ture scale used in Spanish-speaking countries. The students are bringing home "Que pasa" the quarterly Spanish news-letter. It has a complete list of the vocabulary students have studied this quarter and student work samples are attached. It is a great idea to practice these words and phrases together.

Friday, Oct. 29 – Pre-school hour 11:30 – 12:30; Wednesday, Oct. 27, DARE graduation for fifth grade; Friday, Oct. 29, Fall Field Day.

Cooleemee Elementary

Students in grades 1-5 participated in the Presidential Physical Test. Students achieving the Presidential level include Cole Allen, Garrett Beck, Dustin Bulatko, D.J. Holtzapple, and Joseph Spry in the first grade; Erykah Fowler and Quameak Lewis in the second grade; Wesley Bowles, Cody Ebright, Nicholas Endicott, Caleb Martin, Cody Martin, Treacy Redmon, and Corbin West in the third grade; in the fourth grade, Venecia Acevedo, Blair Carson, Tionna Cleveland, Desirae Downs, Brianna Farris, Tyler Grubb, Quameshia James, Rebecca Michalowski, Justin Spry, and Jennifer West; and fifth grade, Whitney Correll, Mariah Dobbins, Jansen McDaniel, and Kaytlyn Shoemaker. Students achieving the National level were first graders Hayley Bartlett, Bethany Burger, Allison Carter, Reyna Castillo, Amber Collins, Theodore Fisher, Haley Foster, Brittany Hager, Jared Hembree, Lilly Ingram, Keziah Martin, Kelly Martinez, Justice Mayfield, Madison Meade, Brooke Moore, Tristan Poos, Sydney Rusher, Austin Thies, Dalton Trawitz, and Logan West; second graders - Courtland Cardinale, Delton Coleman, Cameron Coleman, Taylor Cranfill, Jacob Crews, Bobby Dobbins, Sier Ferrell, Victor Gutierrez, Courtney Magallanes, Humberto Marcial, Travis McDaniel, David Michalski, Devonte Mitchell, Heather Moore, Aspen Phillips, Tania Rodriguez, Taylor Sheets, Dustin Shields, Ny'Asia Stockton, Sam Swink, Jordain Taylor, and Daniel Wilson; third grade - Chelsea Bulutko, Jose Carillo, Monika Daye, Michele Diehl, Mikal Gadson, Jessica Guerrero, Ceferino Hernandez, Rasaun Martin, Caleb Martin, David Mayhew, Pake Millsaps, Zach Osborne, Josh Peters, Dustin Potts, Carlos Rodriguez, David Taylor, and Emma West; fourth grade - Russell Anthony, Austin Blaskierich, Amelia Boger, Melanie Brannock, Will Cartner, Karina Gutierrez, Colleen Hembree, Jessica Lancaster, Michelle Michalowski, Kristn Miller, Andrew Montgomery, Patience Peglow, Kenyon Redmon, Selena Rodriguez, Kaitlyn Smith, Shelby Stephens, Kiyomi Taylor, and Nathan Williams; and fifth grade - Tyler Bush, Becca Clendenin, Tony Deese, Nicole Ebright, Sierra Ferrell, Jamie Houston, Nathan Jones, and Franki Thompson. Volunteer Arnold Broadway assisted in administering the fitness test.

Students in Mrs. Culler's fourth grade class have begun a science unit on electricity and magnetism. They are finding the lessons to be "attractive."

Mrs. Jones' fourth grade is practicing dictionary skills. They are studying the government and the Nov. 2 election.

Miss Ward's fourth grade students have begun focusing on government and the upcoming election. They have just started the "Riskwatch" training program dealing with fire and burn prevention. Students have been practicing their "stop, drop, roll, cool and call" techniques in the event of a fire. The kindergarten classes are off to busy start this nine weeks. They are learning all about fall. The classes are doing many pumpkin and apple activities.

Mrs. Robinson's class tasted apples and graphed their favorite kinds. They observed a star shape inside the apples. For phonics, the children met Naughty Nick "N" and learned he can be nice except when he hammers and makes lots of noise. The class made Fruit Loop necklaces for a study of the letter "Nn".

Amy Stokes' class had a surprise party to celebrate her return to work. Students continue to work on short vowel sounds - "a", "i", and "o". In math, they are learning to sort, graph, and weigh objects.

Mrs. Cornatzer's class is researching bats; while Mrs. Lowery's class is learning about spiders.

Miss Brown's class is studying pumpkins and will have a parent volunteer, Mr. Hembree, carve one for the class.

Third grade students have learned about the history of Cooleemee with the help of the Cooleemee Historical Society. Students participated in a map lesson looking at maps of the Yadkin and South Yadkin areas from more than 100 years ago up to the present. Students learned how the mill town sprung up near the spot where the South Yadkin drops 18 feet creating a natural falls area. Students visited the Zachary House to learn about life in early Cooleemee. Students were surprised to learn that they could have been working in the mill as young as 8 years old. The third grade staff thanks to the volunteers from the CHS for an entertaining and informative look at the community - past and present.

Fifth grade students in Mrs. Carter's class are beginning to learn about the elections. They are studying each candidate and the process of how the president is elected. The students are learning about the two major political parties that each candidate represents.

Second grade classes are using the program Letterland. This is a continuation of what they did in first grade. Letterland is a phonics program that helps students learn to read and spell. They are seeing positive results.

Mrs. Kistner's class is learning more about colors. This week they are talking about brown. They had the children collect leaves and bring them in. With the leaves they are going to sort them and then do leaf rubbings. They talked more about fire safety.

Central Davie

This week in developmental readiness, we have been having a wonderful time celebrating the month of October and all of the fun activities that go along with the fall season and the celebration of Halloween. Our color of the week has been orange, our letter person has been Mr. M, and our theme has been the fall season. We have been very busy making ghosts out of our own footprints, bats out of our handprints, and lots of different projects with pumpkins. We have been discussing the letter M with our favorite chocolate candy, M&Ms. Our special friend this week has been Cindy. As always, Cindy has been a great friend to her classmates and a wonderful helper. With each new day we are learning more and more, and we are all so proud of the children in our classroom.

This week in the early learning class we were able to take an exciting nature walk. We saw leaves that were changing from green to yellow, orange and red. We had fun trying to catch them as they fell off the trees. Many new textures were discovered as we caught the leaves. We saw animals working hard as they prepared for winter gathering nuts and acorns. Our student of the week is Dakota Warner.

Ms. Cheryl's pre-kindergarten class welcomed a new letter friend to the classroom this week. Mr. M and his "munchy mouth" arrived to introduce us to his favorite color (orange) and some of his favorite m-foods (macaroni and marshmallows). The children enjoyed making magnificent macaroni bracelets and outlining upper and lower case Ms with marvelous mini-marshmallows (munching a few in the process). We also began to learn about our five senses in such fun activities as: tasting marshmallows, listening to music; feeling shiny, wet fingerpaint; watching the leaves begin to turn colors on the trees; and smelling fresh apples for snack.

This week in developmental readiness, our class has been very busy learning about fall and creating many different art projects. The children have done a wonderful job making pumpkin masks, spider webs, ghost windsocks, and fall collages. Our class continues to work daily on our letters, colors and shapes. Our special friend this week has been Hunter. Hunter has done a wonderful job this week. Hunter brought in many different Halloween books and a movie, which he was excited to share with the class. The new few weeks will be based around fall and the celebration of our new season. The children will be very busy preparing many different surprises to share with the community at our fall festival, which will be held at Central Davie on Friday, Oct. 29.

Davie Graduates In Armed Services Sought

Davie High School graduates who joined the Air Force, Navy or Coast Guard are sought for two programs on Nov. 13 at the school.

Principal Larry Bridgewater said that the two assemblies - at 9:15 and 10:30 a.m. - will honor all branches of military service, and he wants Davie High graduates to be a part of the ceremony. Veterans groups are also being invited. For more information, contact Bridgewater.

Tickets will be 2 for $1, 20 for $10 and 40 for $20.

Sixteen themed baskets to be sold by raffle will be on display.

Crowley On President's List

Jason Crowley was named to the president's list for the summer semester at Forsyth Technical Community College.

Majoring in radiology, he has maintained a 4.0 grade point average and is a member of Phi Theta Kappa honor society. He is employed by Novant Health at Forsyth Medical Center in the radiology department.

Crowley is a 2002 graduate of Davie High School and is a member of Davie Baptist Church, where he is the Sunday School superintendent. He is the son of John and Kim Crowley of Mocksville and the grandson of Marcia Peace of Tampa, Fla., and Daniel Lipscomb of Lancaster, Calif.

Students In Mock Election

Students and teachers at Salem Academy conducted a mock election Oct. 25-28 in a mock election sponsored by the Youth Leadership Initiative (YLI), a national civic education program based at the University of Virginia Center for Politics.

With more than 1 million students expected to vote online, the YLI Mock Election is the largest secure online mock election in the country.

Salem Academy student Tiffany Wooten of Advance says, "Some people call teens rebellious, but I would say we're responsible. We're trying to understand our world and our country. This mock election gives us the opportunity to start the process."

According to Ken Stroupe at the University of Virginia's Center for Politics, "the apathy of today's generation toward politics is a symptom of society's neglect of civic education."

Programs like the YLI Mock Election actively involve students in the election process, which encourages their life-long interest in governance.

Mocksville High Class Of '51 Has Reunion

The Mocksville High School Class of 1951 held its 53rd year reunion on Saturday, Aug.14 in the fellowship hall of First Baptist Church, Mocksville.

Twenty class members and their guests gathered to renew old friendships and reminisce about school days.

Special guest was Helen Crenshaw, the senior class sponsor. First time attendees were Bill Sofleyof Maryland and Edith Salmons Methot of Hamptonville.

A social was held from 3-6 p.m., when a dinner was served by Melanie Willis and her grandmother.

Bill Benson presided, while Lawrence Ray Carter conducted the memorial service for the deceased classmates: Jo Ann Allen Carter, Mary Frye Cope, Maxine Griffith Frazier, Jane McBride Knott, Jimmy Powell, Willie Mae Peoples Knight, Roger Whitaker, Lois Collins Whitaker, Glenn Cornell Allen, Mary Elizabeth Smith Allen and Nancy Stroud Colbert.

Maxine Smith Boger, who was the prophet of the class, read the class prophecy. Everyone got a good laugh listening, since it was written 53 years ago.

A committee headed by Jane Click and assisted by Nan Naylor, Lawrence Ray Carter, Dorothy Horn, Nancy and Bill Benson planned the evening.

The next reunion will be on the second Saturday of August, 2007.

Pre-requisite: Windows Introduction or equivalent experience. TRCs: 1.0 per 10 hours attended. All classes are held on Friday from 8 a.m.-1 p.m.

Module VI: PowerPoint

This course will teach the student how to enhance presentations commonly used in businesses. A presentation program lets you design your meeting so you can enhance the visual effects. Using the OLE feature, you can import documents, spreadsheets or any part of the database into your presentation without redoing any work. 10 hours, Nov. 12 & 19.

MS Word Introduction

This introductory word processing course teaches document creation (letters, memos, tables, charts, reports), and formatting and editing functions (centering, underlining, fonts, pagination, spell/grammar check, margins, spacing). Participants should have some keyboarding experience and familiarity with Windows. Students need to bring a 3.5" high-density disk. This is a self-supporting course and fees will be charged to all students. $55, Oct. 20-Nov. 17, W., 9 a.m.-noon, 15 hours, Instructor: Valerie Slogick.

Felting With Yarn

This course is designed for beginners to intermediate participants with basic knitting experience. Participants will make either a tote bag or a purse. Projects are knitted and the finished project will look like a boiled wool item. Participants can purchase the pattern and yarn from the instructor. Participants will need to purchase their own needles. $30, Nov. 3-10, W., 6-8:30 p.m., 5 hours, Instructor: Staff.

Stained Glass: Let's Make a Picture Frame

This creative, hands-on course will introduce you to glass cutting, foiling, and soldering of decorative glass. You will receive expert instruction as you create your own unique picture frame. Most supplies are included. Students will need to bring safety glasses, scissors, and an exacto knife or utility knife. This is a self-supporting course, and fees will be charged to all participants. Nov. 13, 8:30-4:30 p.m., 7.5 hours, Sat., Instructor: Jan Litkens, $40, Insurance 1.25.

DAVIE COUNTY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE CHAMBER FOCUS

DAVIDSON
Electric & Plumbing
Wholesale Supply, Inc.
653 Wilkesboro St., Mocksville
336-936-0123 fax: 336-936-0130
OPEN TO THE PUBLIC

EVERY VOTE COUNTS!

Early (No-Excuse) Voting is available in the Board of Elections office in the basement of Mocksville Town Hall (across the street from the Chamber).

Open 8:00am - 6:00pm Wednesday - Friday - Oct. 27-29
Open 8:00am - 1:00 pm Saturday - Oct. 30

Larger Voter Turnout Expected

According to Davie County Director of Elections, Margaret Shew –

"As of 9:30 a.m. on October 25 – 2,185 voters have taken advantage of voting early, and approximately 500 absentee ballots have been forwarded."

(Note – The early-voting figure already doubles the 2000 election numbers for early voting).

It's all about JOBS ... JOBS ... JOBS

VOTE YES to Amendment One for Self-Financing Bonds!

The Davie County Chamber Board unanimously approved support for passage of Amendment One ... to authorize the use of self-financing bonds, a powerful tool for jobs and opportunities without tax hikes.

Self-financing bonds will be used to pay for public improvements that spur private development in designated districts, depressed or underdeveloped areas.

Help support passing of Amendment One for North Carolina to have this economic development advantage as 48 other states already have!

For more information, call the Chamber @ 751.3304.
