Davie Woman Charged In Murder

1 Of 3 Suspects In Death Of Salisbury Dentist

A Mocksville woman is one of three people charged in the strangulation death of a Salisbury dentist last week.

Drye

Candice Jo Drye, 23, of Delano's Way, was arrested last Thursday night, hours after the body of Dr. David Boyd was found on a bed in his home, with his hands and feet tied with cord.

Police released few details of the crime.

"Ms. Drye was an acquaintance of Dr. Boyd," said Salisbury Police Chief L. Mark Wilhelm.

On Saturday night, Johnathan Alexander Barnett, 18, of Kannapolis, was charged in connection with the murder, and on

Hugh Lefler's Legacy Continues As Highway Historical Marker Unveiled

By Mike Barnhardt
Davie County Enterprise Record

After reading a Hugh Lefler history book while a student at Statesville High School, Jerry Cashion was hooked.

He was hooked on history.

"I devoured it," he said of the book.

Imagine his fear when he became a student at the University of North Carolina, where Lefler taught, a couple of years later.

He climbed the three flights of stairs, and walked down the long hallway to Lefler's office. "I got up the courage to knock on the door. I was scared to death," Cashion said.

Now Dr. Jerry Cashion is chair of the N.C. Historical Commission, and he was in town in May to help unveil a North Carolina Highway Historical Marker on NC 801 at Watts Street, and to pay tribute to Lefler at a ceremony at Liberty United Methodist Church.

Cashion went on to be Lefler's last graduate assistant at the University of North Carolina (Lefler refused to add the words "at Chapel Hill" after consolidation). "I was amazed at the amount of work he could accomplish ... typing with two fingers on an old manual typewriter, he would produce reams of work."

When Lefler lectured to as many as 100 students at a time, he made each student feel like he was talking to them alone, Cashion said.

"He would take off his glasses and lean over the lectern ... and say 'just between us,' ... and pencils would pass in mid-air. Our past was a story and he was the consummate storyteller."

Lefler believed in documenting facts, and telling the truth - which wasn't always something politicians and others wanted known. He told his students not to use "weasel words," and to distinguish between myths and folklore and true history.

Some of Lefler's books were

Boy Scout Trying To Get Bicycle Route On Cornatzer Road

William Mills is a bicyclist.

And like most people who ride bicycles on local roads, he knows there's a danger involved.

It doesn't have to be that way, and the would-be Eagle Scout took his effort to get Cornatzer Road designated as a state bicycle route to county commissioners last month.

He presented commissioners with a petition containing the names of 506 Davie residents who support his proposal. The Life Scout is working on the project en route to earning Boy Scouting's highest honor - the Eagle Scout.

Davie Communities To Celebrate Nation's Independence

Don't let the high gasoline prices spoil your Fourth of July fun.

There's plenty to do right here in Davie County. For some, it's as simple as a short walk up the street. For others, it could mean driving just a few miles.

The activities start on Thursday, when the Piedmont Antique Power Association starts its annual tractor show at the Masonic Picnic Grounds off North Main Street in Mocksville. Expect to see a hundred or more antique tractors and engines, with plenty of food available from Cornerstone Christian Church. Four bands - Crusher Run, Broke 'N Lonesome, Hard Drive and Mike Allen and band - will play bluegrass and gospel music for free, beginning at 6:30 p.m. Thursday.

The tractors will crank up on Friday morning for a parade through Downtown Mocksville that begins at 9 a.m. Anyone with an antique tractor (30 years old or older) may participate. Drivers must be at least age 16. All should be ready for the lineup by 8 a.m. Friday.

The tractors will be on display all day on Friday, with plenty of prizes and contests, including the popular kiddie tractor pull at 10:30 a.m. and an auction at 12:30 p.m.

If that isn't enough, head to Cooleemee for that town's July 4th celebration, which starts at 10 a.m. Friday with the annual lawnmower and

IN CONGRESS, JULY 4, 1776

The unanimous Declaration of the thirteen united States of America

When in the Course of human events it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. — That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, — That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shewn that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object evinces a design to reduce them under absolute Despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for their future security. — Such has been the patient sufferance of these Colonies; and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former Systems of Government. The history of the present King of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute Tyranny over these States. To prove this, let Facts be submitted to a candid world ...

(Twenty-seven offenses are listed)

He has refused his Assent to Laws, the most wholesome and necessary for the public good ...

He has forbidden his Governors to pass Laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operation till his Assent should be obtained; and when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them.

He has plundered our seas, ravaged our coasts, burnt our towns, and destroyed the lives of our people.

In every stage of these Oppressions We have Petitioned for Redress in the most humble terms: Our repeated Petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. A Prince, whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a Tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free people.

Nor have We been wanting in attentions to our British brethren. We have warned them from time to time of attempts by their legislature to extend an unwarrantable jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the circumstances of our emigration and settlement here. We have appealed to their native justice and magnanimity, and we have conjured them by the ties of our common kindred to disavow these usurpations, which would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They too have been deaf to the voice of justice and of consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the necessity, which denounces our Separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind, Enemies in War, in Peace Friends.

We, therefore, the Representatives of the united States of America, in General Congress, Assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions, do, in the Name, and by Authority of the good People of these Colonies, solemnly publish and declare, That these united Colonies are, and of Right ought to be Free and Independent States, that they are Absolved from all Allegiance to the British Crown, and that all political connection between them and the State of Great Britain, is and ought to be totally dissolved; and that as Free and Independent States, they have full Power to levy War, conclude Peace, contract Alliances, establish Commerce, and to do all other Acts and Things which Independent States may of right do. — And for the support of this Declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our Lives, our Fortunes, and our sacred Honor.

In The Mail ...

Letter About Smokeout Not True

To the editor:

This letter is in response to a letter mailed to some Davie County residents. Whoever sent this letter evidently is not too concerned, or they would have signed their name to it. The letter "Your neighbor, Your friend" contained some lies. Here is the truth.

Racing does not start until noon on Sundays. Don Plemmons did not expand the drag strip, he only improved it. Our county commissioners did not allow beer to be sold. Beer was not sold, it was brought in by the bikers. There was no temporary permit to sell beer. No one was forced to attend this event. Those who attended were there on their own free will and had to be at least 18 years old. The expense of extra law enforcement did not come from Davie County, it was furnished by the promoter of the event.

Pat and Kathy Miller provided a field for camping to keep the bikers off the roads and close to the event; 100 percent of the monies will be used to send their granddaughter, Annabelle Lakey, who has autism, to school this summer. I was working at Gunter's Country Store the three days of the Smokeout and served hundreds of the bikers. All of the bikers were well mannered, polite, waited patiently in line, did not smell of alcohol, and even left tips for a clean bathroom.

There was less conflict at the three days of the Smokeout than there has been in one event in some of our local churches. The promoter of the Smokeout offered to reimburse the local church that gave out literature and Bibles to the bikers. If a church wanted to raise money for the cause of their choice, it is some of the same bikers who were at the Smokeout who would be there to support their cause.

The biggest conflicts of the three days were with our local law enforcement. It was embarrassing to see our local law enforcement harass the bikers unnecessarily at an event of this magnitude. Our local officials who passed judgment on the event before it even started should reconsider their thought process before they pass judgment on another event that may come to Davie County. It is a shame that our county officials are so negative toward Don Plemmons when he spent hundreds of thousands of dollars to improve the drag strip, bringing increased revenue to Davie County.

In summary, a local business owner, Betty Gunter, stated, "These bikers were nicer to me than some of my regulars."

Perry Hanes, Advance

Smokeout Shouldn't Be Allowed

To the editor:

I see the people who own a business and rents or gives permission for camping for the biker rally are more in favor of the rally. The Bible says, "The love of money is the root of all evil." I hope they went to church Sunday if they thought what they did really helps the morals of Davie County.

How can you teach and tell teenagers to say no to sex, drugs and drinking when his is allowed to happen by adults who are supposed to guide them. The rally was a noisy, obnoxious thing for Davie County - expressly for the Farmington community. I agree with Laura Mathis, who writes the Farmington News, that it's not the bike show that's a problem, but the drinking, nudity, etc.

As for the topless bike(r) washing, how many bikes got washed compared to washing men? We know it was not about bikes being washed but for nudity. And, by the way, is that not wasting water when we are in a drought? If a man pulls his penis out of his pants, people will start to holler and call the law and he will be arrested for indecent exposure. But its okay and funny for females to show their boobs. Where was the law? Oh, I forgot. They were looking, too ... with their tongues hanging out. Shame on the law. Shame on the people of Davie County for letting this happen even just one time. We need to take a stand.

As for the sheriff asking people about the rally on Monday, I know of nobody I talked to who was asked. He should put a poll in the Enterprise weeks before and let all in Davie County decide.

The owners of Farmington Dragway should be ashamed for allowing the event to take place. But I forgot, he made a lot of money from the event.

The love of money is the root of all evil. God will say "enough is enough" one day.

Grubb Family Grateful

To the editor:

We want to express our deepest gratitude to everyone for the outpouring of love shown to my son and Miachel's brother during our time of sorrow.

A special thank you goes out to all for the overwhelming amount of respect shown to Mark both Monday night and Tuesday afternoon. We sincerely appreciate all the ones who came Monday night and to the ones who came and could not get in to see us. We thank you for the food, donations and flowers. Thank you to the surrounding churches and ministers in the community and a special thank you to Jerusalem Baptist Church for taking such good care of us. A very special thank you is extended to Mark's pastor, Donnie Chapman, for his spiritual guidance.

Most of all, thank you for your prayers and please continue to pray for us because we have a lot of dark days ahead. Mark was a very beloved son and brother and will be missed forever.

Family Wanted To Witness Presentation Of Plaque

To the editor:

I was disappointed to find out about the presentation of the Spurgeon James Goss plaque through the local paper. The surviving family, Perry Owen (brother), Mary Smith and Rebecca Clark (sisters) would like to tell everyone that words cannot express our appreciaton for the plaque that will hand in his remembrance.

We just wish we could have been there for the presentation.

Raleigh Report

Committee Working On Budget Differences

By Julia C. Howard
N.C. House of Representatives

The conference committee appointed to resolve differences between the House and Senate versions of the budget began meeting. The conferees from the subcommittees have submitted preliminary proposals to reconcile differences and the lead budget writers from the House and Senate are working to complete and pass a final budget with the start of the new fiscal year.

Progress is brisk in some areas, slow in others. Plans on how to fund the state's mental health needs appears to be a point of contention. There are a number of capital projects that received funding in one chamber but not the other. Which of these projects will receive funding given the limited resources available must be resolved.

The House and Senate differ sharply on how to distribute the agreed upon $50 million in tax relief. The House supports an increase in the state Earned Income Tax Credit, a homestead exemption for disabled veterans, a Star Energy sales tax holiday, and a credit for small business owners providing their employees with health insurance. The Senate favors a repeal of the gift tax, providing retroactive tax refunds to small businesses reportedly persecuted by the Department of Revenue, and reducing the tax on home heating fuels.

Of significant concern are the preliminary conference reports which indicate that less money may be appropriated to the public schools. An initial report from the committee on education states that $34 million less than the House plan and $10 million less than the Senate plan will be provided to public schools, with much of the difference being shifted to the university system. In the report, $30 million is included to provide for the increased fuel costs for school buses, but estimates have indicated the actual cost may exceed twice this amount. The education conference report funds ABC bonuses at $70 million despite the anticipated costs of $107 million. A $13 million reduction in the allotment for increased enrollments is disconcerting.

As the budget conference committees continue their deliberations and the chief budget writers consider approval of a final budget package, I am hopeful that these educational funding priorities will be better addressed. Current discussion is that the budget will be wrapped up within the first days of July.

Update on Jessica's Law

HB 933 Jessica Lunsford Act for NC was returned to the House after passage by the Senate and referred to the House Judiciary II Committee for further scrutiny. That committee's charge was to make a recommendation that the full House do concur with the Senate's changes to the bill or make a recommendation that the full House not concur with those changes and request that a conference committee of House and Senate members be appointed to resolve the differences. I and other supporters of the bill have been advocating for a recommendation for concurrence.

The House Judiciary II Committee did meet to hear HB 933. However, in light of the Senate's changes to the bill, the committee has requested a revised fiscal note to determine the impact of those changes before making a recommendation to the House. It is anticipated that the bill will receive another hearing in the Judiciary II Committee.

Passage of this bill is closer than ever since I originally introduced the legislation in 2003, and I am optimistic it will receive final approval before the adjournment of this session.

I was visited by several folks from Energy United Electric Cooperative. Kathleen Hart, Ronnie Harrison, James Horton, Roy McDonald, Alec Natt, and Wayne Wilkins dropped by the office and we had a nice visit. These folks were visiting the General Assembly as a part of the annual North Carolina Electric Cooperative Rally.

If you have any questions or would like additional information about the ongoing budget conference process or Jessica's Law, contact my office, and I'll be happy to gather any available information.

Local Bakery Sold

Ketchie Creek Bakery in Mocksville has been sold - and the founder and the new owners say customers shouldn't notice much of a change.

A letter from founder Debbie M. Koontz, and the new owners, Gerald and Renna Welborn, outlined the company's philosophy.

"For the past 25 years, our corporate mission has been to provide tastefully wonderful products and superior service to our customers. The change in ownership will not affect the company's day-to-day operations, primary vision or small family-owned business tradition, but will allow the company to continue to grow and provide for the extended community.

"Ketchie Creek Bakery will continue to be a reputable deli, cafe, and bakery located in beautiful Mocksville. Our focus on quality products and service will continue without interruption."

According to a deed transfer filed with the Davie County Register of Deeds, the Welborns, through Welborn Property Holdings, bought the Mocksville properties for $850,000.

The bakery and deli is located at 844 Valley Road, near the US 64 intersection. Call 751-9147 to learn more.

Three Funding Options Available For New School

By Beth Cassidy
Davie County Enterprise Record

At least one Davie Board of Education member, Terry Renegar, has requested a vote on reorganization no later than the September meeting.

Vice Chair Linda Barnette said the plan cannot go forward without construction of a new elementary school, "because of overcrowding," so, with that in mind, the next issue after the vote is funding.

Jim Stockert, county finance officer, doesn't like to speculate about issues that have not been presented to him, but did discuss the possibilities regarding financing a new school.

There are three funding options available, he said.

The first is a lease-purchase, which means the county enters into a lease for 10 or so years and then has the option to buy out of that lease at the end of the time for $1. That was the funding option used for Cornatzer Elementary School, Stockert said, but it is generally for amounts of $10 million or less.

However, Stockert added, the state government is considering increasing the lease amount.

Barnett said based on last year's construction costs, "our estimate for a 76,000 square foot building for 500 students was $13.5 million."

The second option is Certificates of Participation, or COPS, the same type of funding used to fund construction of Ellis Middle School. Stockert said COPS "works like a lease-purchase," with the "paperwork a combination of a bond and lease-purchase. There are one or two public hearings, then a closing. It is sold like a bond."

County Manager Terry Bralley said it is similar to a home mortgage.

Barnett said she believed the "surest way to get money for the project would be for the county commissioners to authorize a COPS. Even if the plan went to bond, I can't believe it would fail. As citizens, we have both a legal and moral obligation to educate our children. I continue to have faith in the good people of Davie County."

The last option is a bond referendum, but if the board decides to wait until September to vote, it would be too late for the referendum to be on the November ballot. There could, however, be a special bond election that can be conducted anytime, Stockert said.

All of it is speculation.

"We don't know [about funding] because we haven't seen the plan," Bralley said. "And we haven't talked about where it would be located. A lot of this is cart-before-the-horse, because we haven't seen anything as far as a plan, but those are the financial mechanisms available."

Barnett said as far as location of a new school, the Allen property in Smith Grove was the most likely place since the county owns it.

"That would be the decision of the commissioners," she said.

If the board votes against reorganization, she said, "The only other thing we might do to alleviate overcrowding would be to redistrict and not allow students to transfer from one school to another, but that would be temporary in nature."

Gone Fishing

North Carolina Waives License Requirement For A Day

Along with watching fireworks and grilling out, celebrate Independence Day by indulging in another favorite pastime, fishing - no license needed.

From midnight until 11:59 p.m. on July 4, anyone - resident or non-resident - can fish in any public water, including mountain trout waters and coastal waters, in North Carolina without a fishing license. So that anglers of all ages and skill levels have an excellent chance of catching fish, the N.C. Wildlife Resources Commission stocks a variety of fish across the state, from trout in the mountains to striped bass and channel catfish in the Piedmont and coastal regions.

"The purpose of the free fishing day is to show people how much fun fishing can be," said Kent Nelson, fisheries program manager for the Commission's Division of Inland Fisheries. "It's a great way to spend quality time with your kids outdoors and help them develop an interest in nature and conservation."

To make finding a spot to cast a line easier, the agency has on its website, www.ncwildlife.org, nearly 500 areas that are accessible to the public for fishing. Click on the Fishing link on the left side; then click the Go Fishing! icon on the fishing page.

More than 100 areas are managed by the Commission as either a Community Fishing Program (CFP) site or a Public Fishing Area (PFA), while others are managed by local parks and recreation departments, power companies, N.C. State Parks and other natural resource agencies.

PFAs provide free fishing opportunities from the banks of North Carolina's waters. The Commission clears the banks of underbrush and, in some cases, constructs universally accessible fishing piers, and installs fish attractors. CFP sites are intensively managed bodies of water receiving monthly stockings of catchable-sized channel catfish from April to September. Many sites also feature universally accessible fishing piers and solar-powered fish feeders. In addition, the Commission's Tackle Loaner Program, available at many CFP sites, lets anglers borrow rods and reels free of charge for a day.

While the fishing is free on July 4, fishing regulations, such as size and creel limits, bait and tackle restrictions, and park use fees apply. North Carolina residents age 16 and older who are interested in fishing the remaining 364 days of the year can purchase a one-year comprehensive inland fishing license, which includes public trout waters, for $20. A one-year license to fish in coastal waters is $15. To fish in inland and coastal waters, including public trout waters, a unified license is $35 and is valid for one year from purchase date.

Howard Selected For Fellowship

Rep. Julia Howard (R-Davie) is one of 40 emerging state leaders from across the nation selected for the Toll Fellowship Program sponsored by The Council of State Governments, Sept. 27-Oct. 2.

The annual week-long seminar, named in honor of Henry Toll, a Colorado senator who founded CSG in 1933, seeks to develop the next generation of branches of state government. This year's program in Lexington, Ky., focuses on trends analysis, policy development, media and constituent relations, and leadership and institutional changes. The experience gives these leaders perspectives they would not ordinarily obtain during the course of their regular governmental service.

Howard was nominated by Speaker of the North Carolina House Joe Hackney with endorsements from Texas Sen. Jeff Wentworth and Kentucky Senate President David Williams. Howard was selected by a committee of state-elected and appointed officials. This year's applicant pool included state leaders from all three branches and represented 37 states and two US territories.

Howard represents District 79 (Davie and portions of Iredell counties) in the N.C. House of Representatives. She has represented this district since 1988 and is serving her 10th term. She serves as chair of the Southern Legislative Conference (SLC), the southern regional branch of the Council of State Governments, and was appointed to the CSG Finance Committee by virtue of her leadership position within SLC.

The Council of State Governments is a multi-branch organization forecasting policy trends for the community of states, commonwealths, and territories on a national and regional basis.

The meeting is open to the public. A full copy of agenda items will be on file at the Mocksville Town Hall and the Davie County Development Services Department.

A crowd gathers at NC 801 and Watts Street for the highway historical marker unveiling ceremony commemorating the life of Hugh Lefler.

Pete Colbert talks with Lefler's sons.

banned by politicians, but that didn't deter his drive to document history. He wrote the truth with integrity, Cashion said.

The historical marker is Davie County's seventh. There are more than 1,500 statewide.

Lefler's monument contains something few others do, a bit of editorializing, said Mike Hill of the N.C. Office of Archives and History at the unveiling. The state refrains from putting words such as "famous" and "best" on the signs. Lefler's, however, calls him a "preeminent historian"

Family members from across the country attended the ceremony, as did local historians, politicians, residents and family friends.

Lefler taught North Carolina history for more than 40 years. "He not only wrote North Carolina history, he trained people who taught that history," Cashion said.

James Wall, retired Davie High School history teacher and author of the book "The History of Davie County," was among those in the audience. Retired South Davie Middle School teacher Charles Crenshaw was there, too.

"He made history so fascinating, I couldn't resist it," Cashion said. "After my own father, Hugh Lefler was the most influential person in my life."

He read from a brief biography Lefler had written about himself. Born in 1901, his family moved near Cooleemee because the mill had a school, with educated teachers. He graduated there in 1917, and went on to be the youngest recipient of a Ph.D in the country.

But he didn't brag.

That's something that his son, Charles D. Lefler, talked about.

"I never heard him brag. I later learned that he was the youngest Ph.D in the country, that he was the state champion tennis player."

He called his dad a sad, gentle person. Lefler himself said he was just a dirt farmer who loved history.

And that garden gave his father a lot of pleasure. Living in the city, Lefler always had a vegetable garden and shared the bounty with neighbors. He continued that passion into his late years, even while suffering from dementia.

His father loved sports, history and people.

"It didn't matter where you went, people knew him," Charles Lefler said. "He told me one time he could remember 30,000 people."

Lefler was color blind. "That's the way he saw history," Charles said. "Dad said history is history. You document. You don't change it."

He didn't accept dates on the flag, because they couldn't be proven. He clashed more than once with politicians who only wanted positive things remembered. Even in his personal life, Lefler didn't manifest emotions publicly. His son never remembers receiving a hug.

Lefler's grandmother called him "the busiest boy," and it didn't change. Just the titles of his publications would fill seven pages, Cashion said.

Jim Rumley, Cooleemee historian, said the lure of an education brought more than one family to the mill town. "The Dukes insisted that teachers be educated. That was very important in generating great people who came out of that school system.

"History is very important to us," Rumley said. "All historians stand on other historians' shoulders."

The idea for the marker came from Lefler's cousin, Charles Futrell, who spent many summers with Lefler on their grandparents' farm.

Davie County Commissioner Richard Poindexter said it is only fitting that a road marker be placed in Cooleemee commemorating the life of a great historian. Davie County, he said, is full of history, from the Great Wagon Road to Daniel Boone, from Cornwallis to Col. Thomas Ferebee. "It is only proper that Hugh Lefler should be known and recognized as part of our county, state and national history."

State Sen. Andrew Brock said that nowadays, history is more a study of popular culture. He looked around at the audience of family and former students. "A living marker of the lives he touched are the true historical significance," Brock said. "It's a wonderful day for a wonderful man."

Cooleemee Mayor John Chandler wasn't surprised by the crowd at the unveiling ceremony. It's what a small town is all about.

"Small towns aren't being built any more. Our goal is to preserve what we have," Chandler said. "Many things now are similar to what Lefler saw. We love each other and that's what makes this a great town. If you use your talents God has given you, you can make a difference."

Hugh Lefler did.

Bicycle Route ...

A member of Troop 732, Mills said it hasn't been easy trying to get the state department of transportation to make the designation. He cites the benefits of bicycling: using less gasoline, increasing health. Having a designated road in the county will also help promote awareness of bicycling, which Mills has been doing in several Davie schools.

> "This was met with great reviews."
> - William Mills

"This was met with great reviews," Mills said.

County Manager Terry Bralley called the request "great and honorable," and said the county would request an investigation by the state department of transportation.

Board member Johnny Frye, also a bicyclist, made a motion that passed unanimously that the county do all it can to get Cornatzer Road designated as an official bicycle route.

On Friday of this week our community and nation will commemorate the adoption of the Declaration of Independence on July 4, 1776, declaring our independence from Great Britain and giving birth to America - the land of the free and the home of the brave. We are indebted to our brave forefathers who fought the Revolutionary War that followed and to those who have defended our freedom since then.

Many folks will celebrate the holiday weekend with trips to the beach and mountains. Some will celebrate with backyard cook-outs and fireworks. However you choose to celebrate, here's hoping that you have a safe and happy time.

For those who love to join the V-Point Ruritans for breakfast the first Saturday of each month, please remember there will be no breakfast this Saturday. The next breakfast will be Saturday, Aug. 2.

Society Baptist Church will have the annual church picnic Sunday, July 6, at Camp Manna on Pine Ridge Road in Cooleemee. Activities will begin at 4 p.m. and will include softball, swimming, and games for the entire family. Everyone is asked to bring a dessert and a drink for the picnic supper. If you wish, bring a lawn chair or blanket. Church members invite others for an evening of family enjoyment.

Mildred Beck and Alice Waugh will lead the program and Carol Ann Holton and Agnes Wooten will host the event. Following the program the women will enjoy a period of refreshments and fellowship. They invite others.

Upcoming events include a vacation Bible school from 6:30-8:30 p.m. July 13-17 at Clarksbury United Methodist Church and an "Old Fashion Day" Sunday, July 13, with vacation Bible school registration followed by classes July 14-18 at Calvary Baptist Church.

Our community sends get-well wishes to Bueford Lambert, who has an infection and has had to return to Iredell Memorial Hospital. Ruth Kimmer remains in serious condition in Lexington. Please pray for the Lord's divine healing and blessings in the lives of Bueford, Ruth, and other residents who are having health problems.

A Celebration and the End of an Era

Lou Ann and Parks Jones celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Sunday, June 8, with a reception at the fellowship hall of Clarksbury United Methodist Church, hosted by their children and spouses: Jennifer and Andy White of Statesville, Malinda and Jimmy Smith of Harmony, Karen and Mark Johnson of Statesville, Sue and William Jurney of Rhode Island, and Rhoda and Todd Redmond of Harmony.

The fellowship hall was decorated with magnolias, geraniums, and ferns. A focal point was an arrangement of yellow roses given in honor of the couple by the children of the late Edward and Sadie Elam. A trip down memory lane included family pictures and news clippings through the years and the couple's wedding album highlighted by Lou Ann's wedding portrait. Relatives and friends assisted with serving.

Approximately 250 guests attended and included many out-of-town folks. All of the couple's grandchildren, except Zack Smith of South Dakota, joined the celebration.

A daughter of the late Coite and Vagie Martin Church of Olin, Lou Ann attended Harmony High School. Parks, whose parents were the late Sam and Virginia Gaither Jones of County Line, also attended Harmony. They were friends in school and shared a love for sports. Parks excelled in football and baseball and Lou Ann made Northwest All Conference in basketball. They began dating after Lou Ann's graduation in 1955.

Lou Ann and Parks were married by the Revs. Paul Lowder and Jack McCarthy June 8, 1958, at Clarksbury and honeymooned in the mountains of North Carolina. A cake-cutting was held at the nearby new V-Point Building following the wedding rehearsal.

After a 2-year tour of duty with the U.S. Army by Parks, the couple built a home on Rimrock Road. Parks returned to work in his family grocery business while Lou Ann became a homemaker and mother as their nest grew to include five daughters by 1973.

In 1979 Lou Ann and Parks took over the family grocery business after the death of his father and the subsequent retirement of his mother. Jones Grocery, which evolved from A.M. Gaither Grocery, has remained a family affair with all family members doing whatever task was needed.

In 1982 the Jones' nest on Rimrock Road began to empty as oldest daughter Jennifer married. As youngest daughter Rhoda married in 1996, Lou Ann and Parks were again empty nesters but not before making sure that each daughter was educated for life and had a strong faith in God.

Through the years fresh locally grown beef and pork became the signature of Jones Grocery as customers spread the word. Taking orders for and making the fresh sausage and livermush kept the couple and family busy getting the meat ready for sale by Wednesday afternoon as customers came from a 50-mile radius. If you have ever dined at a local church or other group breakfast, you have probably eaten Jones sausage. Jones Grocery furnished sausage to many organizations, including the V-Point Ruritans and Center, Clarksbury, Mount Bethel, Union Chapel, and Wesley Chapel Methodist churches.

As the couple celebrated 50 years of marriage, they marked over 40 years in the grocery business. This past December they decided to semi-retire and eliminated the fresh meat part of the store. Yes, that has meant no more delicious Jones sausage and livermush. It has been six months since a cake of their sausage passed my lips and slithered down my throat to my tummy, and I still haven't found any as good. Fellow County Liners, we have the end of the A.M. Gaither-Jones Grocery sausage era. Can it be true?

Life has been good for the Jones family but not without heartbreak and tragedy. In 1993, Parks had a continual rash on his forehead and was having sleeping problems. He was diagnosed with a large brain tumor and had emergency surgery. The couple was thankful it was benign but developed a deeper appreciation for one's health and how quickly it can be endangered. In 1994 they were blessed with granddaughter Jordan Jurney, who lived on this earth for only a brief time but will live in their hearts forever as their "angel unaware." Jordan was a healthy baby and her death was unexplainable and attributed to sudden infant death syndrome (SIDS). Many times they asked why; but for them, Jordan's death strengthened the importance of accepting God's divine will in their lives and keeping their faith in and eyes upon Him.

Lou Ann and Parks, congratulations from all of us in County Line upon your 50 years of successful married life. We thank you for your service to our community and others and wish you good health and happiness as you ease into retirement.

For many decades Lou Ann and Parks Jones and his parents and grandparents supplied our community and others with delicious fresh seasoned homemade sausage and liver mush and other goods.

They married June 8, 1958, at Clarksbury United Methodist Church.

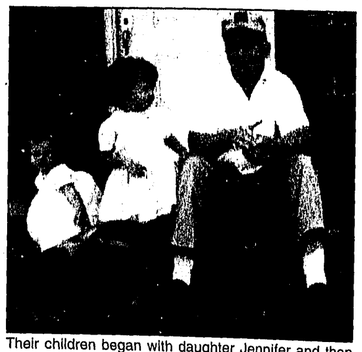

Lou Ann and Parks both excelled in sports at Harmony High School but didn't date until after Lou Ann's graduation in 1955.

Little Parks Jones began learning the grocery retail business early from his parents Sam and Virginia.

At the same time young maiden Lou Ann Church of Olin was being a good mother to her baby dolls.

Their children began with daughter Jennifer and then Malinda and by 1973 included three more daughters.

In 1982 the girls (l-r) Sue, Jennifer, Rhoda, ("Daddy Parks"), Malinda, and Karen began to flee the nest as Jennifer married Andy White at Clarksbury.

Summer camp sessions at the old Poplar Springs School resume on Monday, July 14 for rising first-sixth graders. Located on Ijames Church Road, each weekly camp will run from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. with child care available before and after camp each day for an additional charge. More information is available at the website www.poplarspringsschool.com or contact Vauda Ellis at 492-5277 or Shar Beck at 492-2305.

The William R. Davie Raiders Booster Club is gearing up for its annual fundraiser golf tournament at Pudding Ridge Golf Club Saturday, July 12. All proceeds benefit the William R. Davie Youth Football Program. Donations are welcome and corporate and individual sponsors are needed. For more information and to register, call club president, Angela Wallace at 940-5574.

Ijames Baptist Church honored its three high school graduates on , June 29 by presenting them with Bibles. They are Sarah Alexander, Justin Phillips, and Joshua Holcomb. One of the church's college students, Amanda Phillips, is on a mission trip to Russia. She left June 10 and will return July 29. She will teach children in Backyard Bible Clubs.

The Sunday service at Ijames was a patriotic celebration of our country's Independence Day. Mike Branham shared a retrospective of the Vietnam War, and talked about the similarities of the political climate then and now of our current War on Terror. He challenged everyone to get involved, stay informed, and to be an active part of the decision making process so that we may remain a strong and free nation. His message was followed by patriotic songs by the congregation and choir, plus a moving slide show and song by George Jones about the more than 50,000 names on the Vietnam memorial wall.

The Men's Fellowship of New Union United Methodist Church served up a bunch of hotdogs Saturday in the church parking lot. This will continue to be a monthly event, with the next cookout scheduled for Saturday, July 26.

The fourth annual Fall Festival sponsored by New Union UMC, will be Saturday, Sept. 20 from 10-4 p.m. Any vendors interested in a space should call Vicki Groce at 961-6929 or Brenda Bailey at 751-7567.

New Union wanted to feature one of their members in this column, and chose James O. Mattox, who is known locally as Mr. K&W, as he loves good food and eating out in restaurants. In fact, he's accused of being on a first name basis with nearly every local eating establishment. He is a member of several church committees, serves as a Lay Speaker, and also teaches Sunday School. His hobbies include working crossword puzzles, listening to big band music, and using every opportunity to not wear his hearing aid. Although he chooses not to play on the church softball team and has to endure the kidding about that, fellow members appreciate all that he does for the church.

While Jack Bailey played music with the bluegrass group Crusher Run at the Brushy Mountain Winery Saturday, his wife Brenda took off to tour the town of Elkin. As Brenda noted, car trips to local sights will probably become more popular due to the high cost of travel these days. She found that Elkin had many more things to see and do than most people probably realize, just as our town of Mocksville does. A few of the shops she visited and enjoyed were Dave's Antiques and Diana's Bookstore. At Old Times she bought her husband a pair of white gloves because he wears one on his left hand when playing the bass. In fact, he has endured some teasing by being called Michael Jackson Bailey. Brenda said she had to drag herself out of the General Store. The winery was introducing it newest wine, which happened to be a dessert wine called "Sweet Lou". That seemed fitting as her sister Sweet Lou (Mary Lou Teague) had joined her.

The Piedmont Antique Power Association festivities are July 3 and 4 at the Masonic Picnic Grounds, and several of our local residents are making final their plans to participate. Chester and Wade Reeves have taken their tractors to this event for several years. Although the two are Ford men, Wade always displays his dad's Farmall.

Continuing with the holiday events this week will be 2 Young 2 Old performing Saturday at the Sheffield Music Hall.

Lizzie Reeves began her 93rd birthday June 28 with a hotdog lunch at a picnic table under a shade tree at New Union Church. Her son, Eugene Reeves and his wife, Ritz Ann were with her, after driving up from Augusta, Ga. to spend a few days with his mother and other family members. The two had celebrated their wedding anniversary June 25. Lizzie's other children include son, Bill and a daughter, Phyllis Williams. Lizzie also has six grandchildren and six great-grandchildren. Later that afternoon, 18 family members gathered at her home to have a cookout, which was followed by birthday cake. Visitors that evening included Zelma Reavis, the mother of Lizzie's daughter-in-law, Brenda and a longtime friend of Lizzie. She too was celebrating her 93rd birthday that day. Reminiscent of the days before telephones when neighbors often hollered across the pastures to each other, a loud voice came over the road and hay field as I stood outside my house that night. As it was a call to come and get a piece of cake, I obviously could not refuse, and hurried over. It was a wonderful evening to sit outside and chat, and I especially enjoyed learning some history about our neighborhood. Lizzie is a gold mine of information, a joy to talk with, and certainly an asset to our community.

Brandi Drye's grandmother, Brenda Roberson had surgery last week. Mrs. Roberson's daughter, Cindy Beaver (Brandi's mother) is undergoing medical testing. Please keep this family on your prayer list.

Sad news arrived at column deadline that Sheffield's oldest resident, Monzy Dyson, died Sunday morning at the age of 101. He leaves behind a large family, many of whom still reside in our area, and they are certainly in our thoughts and prayers.

Community resident Henry Edgar "Ed" Allen passed away suddenly Tuesday, June 24, at age 71. Survivors include his wife Susie, two sons, Tony and Scott, and daughter, Shannon. Our condolences go out to all of them.

Sympathy is also offered to the family and friends of Lonnie Gray "L.G." Bolin, who lived for many years in Sheffield, but was most recently a resident of Lexington. Mr. Bolin, 68, lost a longtime battle with cancer June 18. Survivors include five sisters who all reside in this region, three brothers, all of Mocksville, and several local nieces and nephews.

Birthday wishes to songstress Michele Dyson on July 3; Independence Day babies Villard Beck, Wayne Dyson, and Wanda White; Linda Drye and Jody Apple on the 5th; Pam Ladd, Sammy Reavis, Jeremy Bailey, and Amanda James on the 6th; Alex Frye and Sydney Davis on the 8th; Barbara Gobble and Madeline Lupish on the 9th; and Jimmy Peel on July 10. Happy anniversary to Charlie and Sherry Keaton on July 3; Jeremy and Stephanie Barker on the Fourth of July; and neighbors Bryant and Mary McClamrock, whose wedding date is July 9th.

As we all celebrate Independence Day this year in our traditional ways, perhaps we should give some thought to the origin of the document called the Declaration of Independence which was adopted on July 4, 1776. Just being able to "Google" the document in order to read what it says is a powerful freedom. Imagine how amazed our forefathers would be with our technology. Have a wonderful Fourth and be safe.

Your news is needed for this column. Photos can be emailed to me. Please call me with any questions at 492-5836 or email jvfjordan@hotmail.com.

Lizzie Reeves begins her 93rd birthday by having a hot dog for lunch with her son, Eugene.

Farmington News

Did you go by the Farmington Community Center on Saturday expecting to see lots of fresh produce? Me, too. The word is that most of the crops are behind this year, due to the hot dry weather. The Galliher Farm, which supplies all those fresh organic vegetables, said that they had to replant everything. Others have said that they would have something to sell a little later. So here's the deal. The space will be left open until the produce is ready. I will be listing the market in the "Farmington News" when I know for sure that someone will be there to sell. So if you plan to sell, let me know a week in advance. We really want this to work for the benefit of our local farmers and our community. In days like these, people are eager to by fresh produce locally. So I'm sure there is money to be made for those who have it to sell. Fresh canned goods and homemade crafts are popular, too. We'll just have to be patient for it to all come together.

The Senior Ice Cream Social was a hit last Friday. The Farmington Community Center wanted to do a little something special for our local seniors and it turned out to be a fun event. The community center has decided to have a monthly Senior Social and do something a little different each month. The next one will be held on July 25. I'll keep you posted on the details.

Teens at the Teen Gathering Place had a great time this past Friday. They enjoyed a good water shootout with water guns. It was a great way to cool off from the hot weather. The Teen Gathering Place will not be open on July 4, but will re-open on Friday, July 11.

The Farmington Ruritans will meet Thursday, July 10 at 7:30.

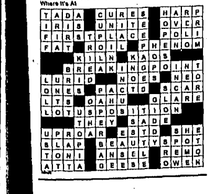

The Summer Spectacular Outrigger Island: Living God's Unshakable Truth summer program is scheduled for July 28-Aug. 1 from 6:30-8:30 nightly at Farmington Baptist Church. All are invited, from babies to rising fifth graders. There is an adult class, also. Call the church at 998-3826 for more information.

Protect Skin From Sun's Harmful Rays

With the recent string of daytime highs above 90 degrees, it's definitely summer time in Davie County.

People are spending time in their gardens, working on construction projects, swimming at a local pool and planning their annual vacations to the coast.

Summer is a great time for outdoor projects and exercise, but the beginning of summer also means an increased risk of over exposure to the sun.

UV rays are strongest during the summer, making it an important time to know the facts about sun damage. Davie County Hospital has some recommendations to help keep your family safe from the sun year-round.

Rays from the sun, sunlamps and tanning beds can cause sunburns, skin aging and wrinkling, eye problems, immune system damage and even skin cancer.

These problems can be the result of UVA and UVB radiation, and even on an overcast Carolina day, up to 80 percent of these rays can get through the clouds.

"UV rays react with the chemical melanin, which is found in most people's skin. Those with lighter natural skin color have less melanin to protect themselves and need to be especially careful in the sun," said John Levis, physician assistant at Davie County Hospital. "When the amount of UV exposure is greater than what can be protected against by the skin's melanin, a sunburn results."

Levis recommends extra precaution in the sun for children, as most people receive nearly 80 percent of their sun exposure by the age of 18. He said that sunburn can sneak up on you, resulting in severe sunburn even before you feel the initial effects of over exposure to the sun.

"Sunburn can take 6 to 48 hours to develop, so you may not realize your skin is burned until it is too late. You may not feel the full effects of a Sunday afternoon at Lake Norman until late Sunday or even Monday," added Levis. "We also see patients come back sunburned, sometimes severely, during their annual trip to Myrtle Beach. If you are always careful, the threat of sunburn and subsequent skin damage can be minimized."

Five or more sunburns can double your risk for developing melanoma, the most dangerous form of skin cancer. Nobody is immune to the harmful rays of the sun, but with these prevention tips from Davie County Hospital, you can greatly reduce your chance of developing sun-related skin damage.

• Avoid being in the sun from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. when the sun is directly overhead and its effects can be most damaging. When you can see your shadow, you should probably seek shade.

• Apply sunscreen: the use of sunscreen with SPF 15 or higher during the first 18 years of life can reduce some types of skin cancer by nearly 78 percent. This should be applied about 30 minutes before going outside and reapplied every 2 to 3 hours.

• Water, sand and even concrete reflect the sun's ray, increasing your chance of sunburn. Be extra wary when surrounded by any of these terrains.

• Covering yourself with clothing will shield skin from the sun. If you can't see your hand through the garment, UV rays will be screened out by it.

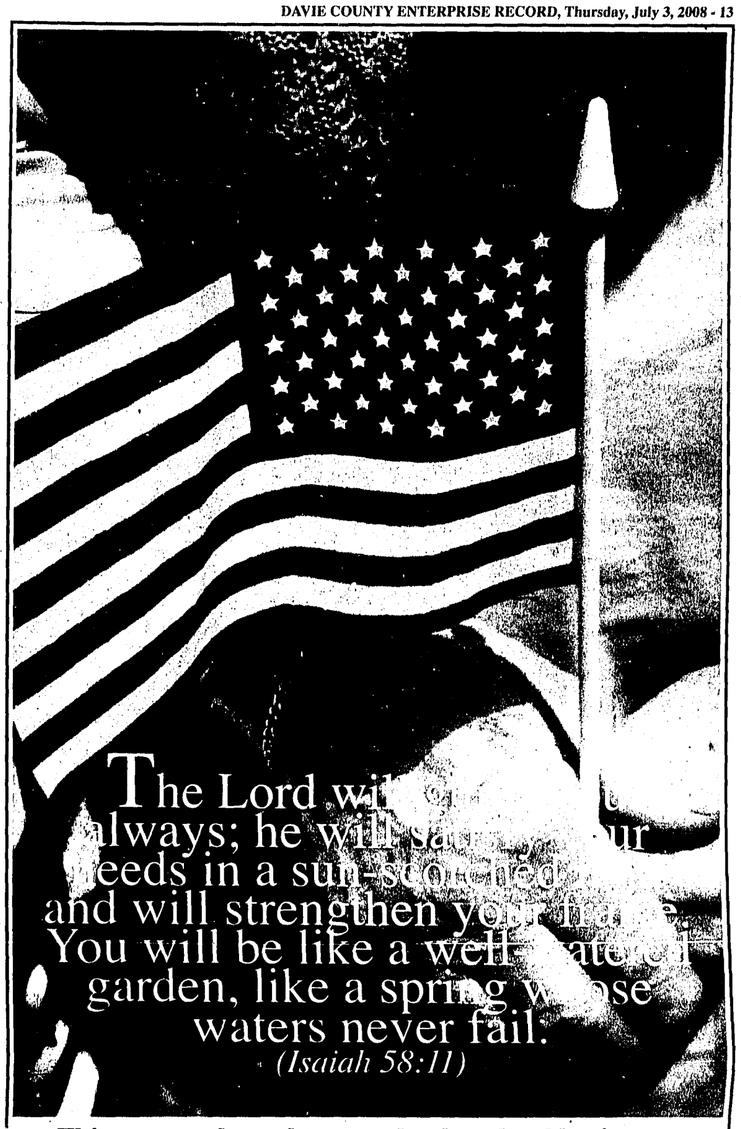

• The sun can also damage the eyes, burning the cornea in one day or even culminating in cataracts later in life. This can be prevented by purchasing sunglasses that ensure UV protection.

"One way to know more about the potential for over exposure is to check the UV Index, which was developed by the National Weather Service to indicate the strength of UV rays," Levis said. "The Weather Channel and other local weather forecasters for the Piedmont Triad provide the UV Index every day. Use the Index as a good tool to plan appropriate outdoor activities."

Levis recommends that everyone perform self-examination of their skin once a month. If you find a new or changing mole, birthmark or spot, see a dermatologist or family doctor. He said some medications, such as antibiotics, can increase sensitivity to the sun.

"If a few safety measures - and common sense - are followed, you can feel comfortable enjoying the Davie County summer sun without worrying about the harm it may be causing," Levis said.

Clutch Relief

Howell One Of Many Stars In 12-11 Win

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

The Mocksville Legion baseball team had enough regrettable moments to get it into trouble in the first and eighth innings. It had enough great performances to pull out a wacky 12-11 non-league decision at Western Forsyth on June 28.

Coach Mike Lovelace was both relieved and overjoyed after Mocksville improved its overall record to 13-11. The win came in the second-annual Erik Walker Memorial, and it was tense. As you know, it's always a grudge match when high-school players from Davie County and West Forsyth hook up.

"The last two games (including an 11-0 win over Stanly County) we've played really, really well," said Lovelace, who was on the other side of the rivalry when he starred for West Forsyth from 1989-91. "For seven innings tonight we played well. We've really been hitting it like we're capable."

A host of Mocksville players came up big, but no one made a bigger impact than Clint Howell, who picked up the win in long relief. Starter Ryan Carter walked four batters and hit two as Western bolted to a 4-0 lead in the bottom of the first. Howell came in with two outs in the first and worked through the sixth, walking one, striking out five and holding the hosts to three hits.

It was a remarkable 74-pitch outing. Consider that Howell's longest stint in '08 had been five innings in an 11-0 Davie High win over Reynolds. In his Legion appearances, he had gone one, two, one, one, three and one innings.

Lovelace beamed at the hottest pitcher on the staff. In Howell's last seven outings, which span 15 1/3 innings, he has allowed three earned runs for a 1.76 ERA.

"He was dominant," he said. "That's the most he's ever thrown. We didn't have Bryan King (who attended a wedding). That's why we threw (Brandon) Stewart out there when we were up 12-6."

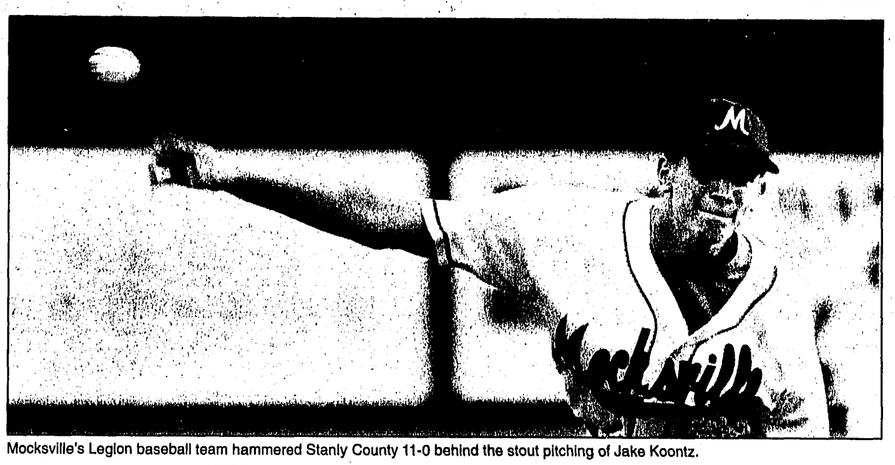

Howell's signature moment came against the 1-2-3 batters in the seventh. He struck out the first guy looking, then fanned the next two swinging. He exited with a 12-6 lead.

"That's pretty impressive," Lovelace said.

Mocksville's key rally came in a four-run fourth that produced a 7-4 lead. Hernan Bautista led off with a home run. With two outs, Kinard followed a Stewart walk with an opposite-field double. Then came a three-run homer to left by lefty Seth Miller, who has experienced phenomenal success over six games (12 for 21). The homer was his sixth of the year, and he has 31 RBIs in 24 games.

Lovelace thought about sending

Mocksville's Legion baseball team hammered Stanly County 11-0 behind the stout pitching of Jake Koontz.

Koontz Tosses Two-Hit Shutout

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

Mocksville got something at home on June 27 that it had been hungering for - a rout, a laugher, a runaway win where everybody feels great. Nobody had a better time than pitcher Jake Koontz as Mocksville trampled visiting Stanly County 11-0 in seven, mercy-rule innings.

After a slow start, Mocksville had a big offensive night. Not that Koontz needed it. He tossed a two-hitter and recorded the first shutout in 26 games, dating to last year's 1-0, 10-inning win over Concord in the first game of the first round of the playoffs. John McDaniel pitched all 10 and outdueled Cody Walker. This was also Mocksville's first complete game since McDaniel.

Thanks to Koontz, the teams were shaking hands a hour, 38 minutes after the first pitch.

"He was real efficient," coach Mike Lovelace said. "I know two or three times he threw 2-1 changeups or breaking balls and got them out."

Koontz and hitters Heath Boyd (2 for 4), Brandon Stewart (three RBIs), Chris Kinard (2-4), Clint Howell (1-1, two walks) and Zeb Cope (2-2, walk) gave

Rivers Made Epic Catch In 47-37 Shootout

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

The first in a series recalling 10 memorable football wins, starting with No. 10 and counting down to No. 1.

If this list of 10 football wins were a baseball team, you could pick the batting order out of a hat. So many Davie wins in the last 12 years have generated electricity that it was difficult to rank them.

No. 10 is 2006's 47-37 nonconference win over visiting West Rowan. It was a much-hyped showdown that lived up to its billing, and then some. It featured gut-wrenching twists, unimaginable offensive fireworks, one tide-turning play after another and a fitting finish. The highest-scoring game in Davie's 52-year history was witnessed by 4,500 fans.

When the final horn sounded, there were exhausted bodies on both sides. The 3-0 War Eagles were deliriously huppy after avenging a 17-13 loss in '05 and handing West its first regular-season loss in 18 games.

"That was a bunch of warriors in the trenches, trading punches every round," Davie coach Doug Illing said at the time. "It was punch after punch after punch."

"My guys battled and fought," West Rowan coach Scott Young said. "Their team battled and fought. They could have rolled over when we stormed back. Our kids could have rolled over at the half. I hate we had to lose, but you've got to take your hat off to them."

Davie receiver Kenny Rivers said: "That's the biggest game in my life. That's one team I wanted to beat. To score 47 points on that team, when they supposedly have the best defensive line, makes me feel good."

Davie defensive coordinator Devore Holman said: "I feel like I've been in a fight with Muhammad Ali and Joe Frazier."

Davie defensive tackle Nic O'Brien said: "That felt like a 40-round fight."

And Davie quarterback Garrett Benge said: "This is my top emotional game of all time. It was unbelievable."

Davie scored 28 of 35 points to take a 28-10 lead. West responded by scoring 20 unanswered for a 30-28 lead. There were three touchdowns in a span of 3:56. There were 40 first downs and 1,030 yards of offense.

Inspirational Comeback: Riddle Rejoins App Football

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

Billy Riddle loves to help people, loves his faith and loves challenges. He has a big challenge coming up. Can Riddle return to a complementary role on Appalachian State's dynasty football team after taking a year off to lead mission work in southern Sudan?

It's a daunting task. Riddle's stocky body and superior football conditioning were diminished while spending seven months in Sudan. But don't ever bet against the blue-collar Riddle, whose outlook on life, determination and perseverance are inspirational.

"I lost a lot of muscle, speed and conditioning in that time, and I knew there was no way I could do this on my own," said Riddle, who graduated from Davie in 2004. "When I was sitting in Sudan I wrote in my journal that I feel like David facing a giant. I know physically I can't do it on my own. It's going to be a good opportunity to glorify God and play for Him.

"The first week or two I was struggling quite a bit, but my strength is coming back. I'm running with the team, lifting with the team and getting through the workouts and doing everything fine. I'm having to push a little harder than I had to in the past. I know in a few months I'll be right back where I was."

Riddle played safety, mostly as a backup to star Corey Lynch, for the Mountaineers in 2004-06. He has national-championship rings from 2005-06. In 2006 he jumped into a starter's role late in the regular season when Lynch, one of the top players in the country, suffered a broken arm.

Coming into the '07 season, Riddle was one of the candidates to replace Jeremy Wiggins at one of the safeties. But God had another plan for Riddle. He gave up football and left in September '07 for Sudan to rebuild churches that were destroyed by Civil War. When he informed coach Jerry Moore of his decision, Moore smiled, nodded and offered his blessing. Moore assured Riddle that his scholarship would await him in '08, whether he played football or not.

"I went into his office and talked to him and he had a big smile on his face," Riddle said. "He understood and knew that's what I needed to do. He never tried to convince me to stay. He said if that's what you've got to do, I support you 100 percent. It was great to know I had him behind me."

Last summer, Riddle figured he was done with football.

"I was pretty sure I would never play again," he said. "But while I was there I missed it and I knew I was coming back to finish school. I thought about doing some student coaching just to be part of the team. But the more I thought about it I knew I wanted to play my final year. I knew there was no way I was going to be able to come back to school and not play. Plus, it's a big challenge."

Sudan is a country ravaged by Civil War and poverty. Riddle spearheaded a nonprofit organization to help people in a war-torn region of Africa.

Compared to what he faced for seven months, and what he'll face again when he returns to Sudan in the spring of '09, football is a piece of cake. It's routine to see rebels carrying guns. Riddle's day started at 8 a.m. and ended around 8 p.m. He came down with malaria.

While he was helping people with terrible needs, he was missing out on the Mountaineers' three-peat. They went 39-6 during back-to-back-to-back national-title seasons in the NCAA Division I Football Championship Series (formerly Division I-AA).

The Mountaineers should be brilliant again in '08, and Riddle hopes to help them add to the legacy. He always played in the shadows of Lynch, but he was a constant force on special teams and he held down the fort when he got time in the secondary.

At the very least, Riddle will be an unselfish role player that every team needs. Who knows? Maybe he becomes

No. 10 ...

Benge was 14 of 18 for 283 yards ... in the first half. He finished 19 of 28 for 384 yards. Rivers made seven catches for 194 yards. In a pitch-and-catch show for the ages, Benge broke his own record for passing yards in a game and Rivers established the record for receiving yards in a game.

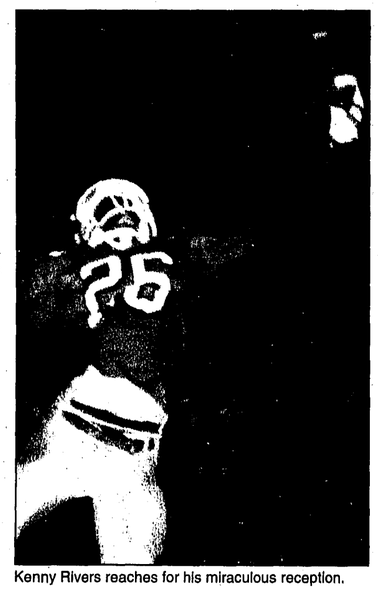

Several other War Eagles deserved credit. Kenneth Brown rushed for 105 yards. Defensive lineman Chantz Grannaman stuffed a third-and-1 with Davie clinging to a 34-30 lead. Sophomore cornerback Perry James returned an interception 40 yards with 1:47 remaining to cap the scoring. Chris Kinard had four receptions for 102 yards.

Davie took a 7-3 lead when Benge found Kinard for 78 yards. Benge was unconscious, going 5 of 5 on a drive that resulted in a 15-3 lead.

The Falcons didn't even blink. A 54-yard punt return helped them pull to 15-10. Benge went back to work, completing two straight 33-yard spirals to Rivers, who moments later hauled in a 26-yard pass for a 28-10 lead.

There were only 43 seconds left in the half. That was enough time for West quarterback Jamel Carpenter to hit Brantley Horton for 45 yards to the Davie 4. It was 28-16 at the break.

Behind freshman sensation K.P. Parks (124 yards on 17 rushes), West punched in two TDs in less than two minutes.

Kenny Rivers reaches for his miraculous reception.

That made it 30-28 West.

Benge sent War Eagle Stadium into pandemonium when he streaked 48 yards on a keeper for a 34-30 Davie lead. Receiver Heath Boyd had a guy on skates as a downfield blocker.

With 5:45 left, Carpenter and Horton hooked up for a 37-34 West lead.

Benge was sacked on first down. When Davie faced second-and-17 from its 24, shoulders were slumped and you could sense air coming out of the Davie balloon.

What happened next is almost indescribable. Benge connected over the middle for 29 yards to Rivers, on a pass that appeared overthrown. The 6-3 Rivers reached up with his left hand, stumbled to the ground and somehow maintained possession. One of the best plays of all time, in any Davie sport, was made offbalance with one hand. It inspired identical reactions throughout the stands: Man, did you see that?

"I thought it was way overthrown," Illing said.

"How does he come down with that?" Holman said.

"You can watch any college game on Saturday or any pro game on Sunday, and you won't see a better catch than that," Davie assistant Randy Athey said.

"When something like that happens, something just unbelievable happens, you're going to score," Benge said.

"That's the best catch I've ever seen live," one of the fans, Charlie Crenshaw, said recently when asked about the moment.

Two plays later, Rivers turned a short dump off into a 43-yard gain. Brown scored from the 5, failed to get up because of cramps and was carried to the sideline. With Davie leading 41-37 and 3:09 to go, bedlam engulfed the stands.

There would not be a sixth lead change. James made sure of that with a pick-six of 40 yards that drove a stake through West's heart.

Old School

Davie Sports From July, 1987

• Terry McClannon of the Mocksville Legion baseball team ran his record to 3-0 by pitching into the eighth, and Denny Key got the save by striking out four of five batters as Mocksville defeated Statesville 12-8 for a 12-7 Southern Division record. Todd Wallace went 4 for 6 with a home run.

Earlier, Mocksville had snapped a three-game losing streak with a wild 18-17 win over Kannapolis. Mocksville got grand-slam homers from Ron Sidman and Bryan Bishop.

At this point in the season, J.C. Hendrix was first with a .378 average. The leader in hits was Bob Richardson, with 33. Danny Shore had a team-high seven steals.

• Hickory Hill held the Bill Dwiggins Memorial Golf and Tennis Tournament. The first-place team in women's tennis doubles was Frances Kimball and Lynn Laughlin. Judy McAllister and Nancy Sloss were second. In men's tennis, Ralph Cooper and Charles Mashburn were first, while Meade Atkinson and Randy Atkinson were second.

There were three divisions in the selective-shot golf tournament. In division one, the winning team was Bob Shelton, Con Shelton, Ken Shelton and G.C. Lankford. They shot a 58. In division two, the winning team (John Grouse, Ricky Potts, "Bucky Barber and Walt Shoaf) shot 60. C.A. Blackwelder, M.H. Murray, A.M. Upshaw and Donald Bingham shot 73 to claim division three.

The closest-to-the-hole winners were Mark Cannon, Tim Cook, Bobby Dwiggins and John Brincefield. The straight-drive contest winners were Marshall Southern and Brian Driggars. Cook took first in the putting contest, followed by Johnny Johnson and Barry Whittaker.

• Oldtown defeated the Hickory Hill Eels swim team 623-250. Adam Grandy was the only Eel to win more than one event. He racked up four victories. Rowan's throw to first barely gets the long strides of Joe Watson of Mocksville.

Jr. Legion Turns Up The Heat

When the Mocksville Junior Legion baseball team was 9-11 with three straight losses, it had every reason to fall apart. But it didn't and it doesn't appear that it will. Coach Charles Kurfees' club kept plugging away, and now it has pulled off a remarkable turnaround.

Mocksville entered the week with seven consecutive wins, including one by 13 runs and another by 14. If it keeps playing like it did the past two weeks, when it roared to a 16-11 record, it might find itself playing deep into July, just like the '06 and '07 teams that combined for 65 wins.

"We are rolling," Kurfees said. "We have turned up the heat. We look like the old Junior Legion teams now. They don't want to be in our bracket in the playoffs, and I love it.

"Rowan said we're the best team they've played all year."

When West Iredell came over and beat Mocksville, 8-6, for the first time in three meetings, Mocksville had three straight defeats and the 9-11 record. It hasn't lost since.

Mocksville 16, Kernersville 3

Mocksville bounced the defending state champion for the second time, and it did so emphatically. Josh Berryhill was smooth on the hill, and he had lots of offensive help.

Joe Watson went 3 for 4. Zach Long (2 for 5) blasted a three-run homer over the scoreboard at East Forsyth. Shelton Howard was 2 for 3. Jess Cartner was 2 for 4. Alex Newman and Bret Peterson were both 2 for 2.

Mocksville 6, Cherryville 5

Mocksville enjoyed the second thrilling win over Cherryville. After scoring two in the bottom of the seventh for a 9-8 win in the first meeting, it overcame a 3-1 deficit in the rematch on the road. A four-run sixth that provided a 6-3 lead propelled Mocksville.

Peterson tripled and singled. Carson Herndon matched him at 2 for 4. Three pitchers combined for an impressive win, with Watson throwing four, Herndon two for the win and Long one for the save.

Mocksville 4, Surry County 1

Brad Gaither pitched an absolute gem at home, striking out nine in a one-hitter. Cartner and Howard went 2 for 3 as Mocksville moved above .500 at 12-11.

Mocksville 7, Rowan County 3

When the rivals played at Catawba College, Mocksville handed Rowan its first Southern Division loss. It dealt loss No. 2 to Rowan at home.

Long struck out five of the first six batters and had a masterpiece cooking until he was hit on the wrist by a fourth-inning line drive.

"He was pitching a great game," Kurfees said.

Berryhill picked up where Long left off, going 2 1/3 without allowing a run. "He pounds the strike zone," Kurfees said.

Peterson closed with a hitless seventh. Cartner highlighted the offense with a 3-for-3, four-RBI outburst. He roped three doubles as Mocksville won the regular-season series 2-1.

Mocksville 6, South Rowan 4

Mocksville played sloppily on the road but still won for the fifth straight time. Watson was 3 for 3, while Jacob Barber and Dillon Byerly were 2 for 3.

"It was good to see Byerly do that because he's a dedicated player and has been with us for two years," he said.

The winning pitcher was Peterson, who worked five. Watson got a two-inning save.

Mocksville 5, Charlotte 2

This was another outstanding pitching performance by Gaither, who gave up two hits in seven innings in Charlotte. Barber's Legion debut on the mound wasn't too bad, either: six batters, six outs. Barber added three hits in five at-bats. Gaither was a dual star as well, going 3 for 4.

The defensive play of the night, and one of the best plays of the year, came from Watson in the outfield. He raced back, raced back some more and made a "Willie Mays-style catch in very deep center field, in the deepest part of the ballpark," Kurfees said.

Mocksville 17, Western Forsyth 3

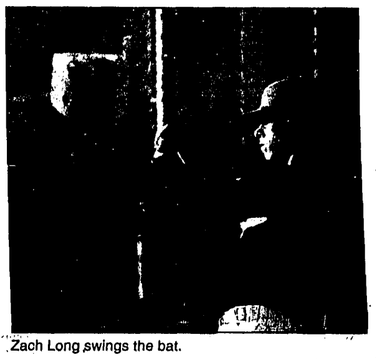

Mocksville put on a hitting clinic in the second-annual Erik Walker Memorial at West Forsyth. Peterson (3 for 4, two homers), Newman (3-4), Cartner (3-4), Watson (2-3) and Byerly (1-1, home run) pounded Western pitches all over the park. As if that wasn't enough, it got excellent six-inning pitching from Watson.

Peterson set the tone by leading off the game with a home run. He homered again to give him six on the year. Newman banged a double off the wall in the second. Byerly came in late and went deep in his only at-bat.

Notes: Mocksville, which finished 5-5 in the Southern Division, has one regular-season game to play, July 3 at home against Charlotte at 7 p.m. ... The playoffs will begin either July 6 or 7.

Legion Loses 9-7 Shootout

The Mocksville Legion baseball team was missing a killer instinct on June 25 at Kernersville, and the hosts took advantage of it, beating Mocksville 9-7 in a non-league game.

Afterward, Mocksville was kicking itself at several missed opportunities, including one in the sixth, when it turned a 4-3 deficit into a 5-4 lead. That lead could have been greater. The inning started with a walk and stolen base. Kernersville's second baseman told the Mocksville runner who had stolen second that it was a foul ball, he retreated back toward first and then was tagged out. The next four batters reached (Zeb Cope, Hernan Bautista, Heath Boyd and Chris Kinard), but Mocksville wound up with only two runs. The third out came on a deep fly to left by Justin Kidd.

"We could have busted it wide open," coach Mike Lovelace said.

Mocksville has lost enough close games in succession that it is starting to repeat itself when the outcome is up for grabs. A day earlier, a forfeit from Wilkes County, which folded its woeful team, stopped a two-game slide. But on the field, Mocksville (11-11 overall) lost for the third straight time, and the total margin was four runs.

This one had Lovelace shaking his head in disbelief. Trailing 7-6, Bautista opened the eighth with a single. Boyd tried to bunt him over, but it was popped up and turned into a double play.

"We had something started in the eighth," he said. "How many times have you ever seen (Boyd do) that?"

Kernersville moved ahead 9-6 later in the eighth on a two-run homer. Mocksville started strong in the ninth, but couldn't muster but one run after Seth Miller and Justin Kidd opened with singles and Corey Norman walked with one out. Two fly balls ended the game, including a sac fly to deep right by Zack Russell-Myers.

"We had something going again," he said.

Mocksville rallied from a 3-1 deficit in the fifth. Miller socked a ground-rule double. With two outs, Clint Howell tied the game with a single between short and third.

The shootout was fun to watch, but it was frustrating for Mocksville.

"It was a real good game," he said. "We were up again, and we lost the lead again. Bautista was a bright spot."

Notes: Bautista, a recent addition who attends West Rowan High, went 2 for 2 after starting his season 0 for 4. ... Boyd is warming up, going 6 for 14 in five games to raise his average from .286 to .310. At this point he was leading the way in runs (29), hits (26), walks/hit by pitches (16) and steals (six). ... Miller, on a 9-for-13 binge, roared to .373 by going 2 for 3. ... After failing to get an official at-bat in five games, Howell moved to 7 for 16 (.438) on the year. ... Kernersville turned the tables after getting waxed 12-1 at Mocksville. ... Tyler Howard went four innings in his first start on the mound.

Stewart on Kinard's double. He's glad he didn't.

"I could have sent him," he said. "It would have been a bang-bang play, but I knew Seth was coming up."

Mocksville, getting 17 hits in 44 at-bats, knocked around Jason Funkhouser for seven innings. There were plenty of stars, including Bautista, who went 3 for 4 with four RBIs; Kinard, who went 3 for 6 with two doubles; Corey Norman, who went 2 for 3 with a double; and Justin Kidd, who went 4 for 5 with one of Mocksville's four doubles.

"(Funkhouser) had just beaten Randolph to give them their second league loss (in the Northern Division)," Lovelace said.

Kidd was the best weapon in the Mocksville arsenal for the first 11 games, going 18 for 41 (.439). Then he went into an 11-game hibernation (9 for 43, .209). The old version of Kidd showed up in Clemmons.

"He's been working everyday (at a job), and today he didn't work. I think that had something to do with it," Lovelace said.

The visitors carried the 12-6 lead into the bottom of the eighth. With the lead cut to 12-11 and the bases loaded after an intentional walk to slugger Jeff Gonza, who had homered earlier, Mocksville needed somebody to put out the fire. Zack Russell-Myers was ready. He struck the guy out on three pitches.

The first Western batter in the ninth flew out. Russell-Myers blew away the final two on strikes. The potential disaster was averted.

"They didn't get but seven hits, but we walked eight and hit five, so we gave them 13 free passes," he said.

Russell-Myers' battery was charged for the challenge. He had only pitched eight innings in six games. "It's probably good I hadn't thrown him a lot," he said. "He looked rested and sharp."

Notes: Against Stanly and Western, Mocksville went 31 for 73 (.425). ... Heath Boyd's hitting streak reached six. ... Norman is quietly having a productive year (10 for 29, .345). ... Interestingly enough, Stewart and Kinard played four positions each. Stewart pitched, then played center, right and third. Kinard caught before playing left, first and right. Howell started in right, moved to left and returned to right. Kidd started at first, pitched and went back to first. ... This was the first meeting between Mocksville and Western. Last year's game was rained out. ... Stewart was the third of five Mocksville pitchers. How surprising was that? He never pitched for Davie High, and his only Legion experience on the mound was three innings in '06.

Late Homer Spoils Russell-Myers' Pitching

Zack Russell-Myers of the Mocksville Legion baseball team mowed through Lexington's order once and did the same thing the second time around. Russell-Myers' counterpart, Clay Watson, kept answering. Russell-Myers set Lexington down quietly in the sixth and seventh, as did Watson to the Mocksville batters. It was like that all game long, two determined and skilled pitchers trying to carry their teams to victory on June 22 at Mando Field.

Russell-Myers and Watson tangled in a classic duel, but someone had to lose. Watson slipped in the fourth but responded with four straight shutout frames. Russell-Myers carried a shutout into the eighth, but that's when he finally flinched. Alex Grubb and Jarrett Albright smacked back-to-back home runs to hand Mocksville a 2-1 loss that felt like a sucker punch to the belly.

It was the second narrow loss in as many games. Mocksville (10-10, 6-8 Southern Division) had lost 5-4 to South Rowan. The eighth-inning homers, though, didn't take any of the luster off Russell-Myers' complete game. He was outstanding against maybe the best team in the league, and you can't ask any more than that.

The righthander dazzled over and over, especially against the vaunted Zach Briggs, who went 0 for 3 with a walk.

"It's tough to get a shutout. He pitched very well," coach Mike Lovelace said. "Briggs didn't get a hit for probably the first time all year. He was hitting .440 with 13 home runs and forty-some RBIs. He's going to Appalachian."

Watson blinked first. Heath Boyd led off the Mocksville fourth with a double and Chris Kinard singled. Boyd appeared to reach home safely on Kinard's hit, but he was punched at home for the first out.

That moment was magnified as Seth Miller walked and Justin Kidd singled in the game's first run. The inning ended with Kidd getting nailed at the plate. Lovelace agreed with Kidd's out call, but not the first one.

"They never tagged Boyd," he said. "He punched him but he was safe. The guy made a perfect throw (to get Kidd)."

Russell-Myers dodged a few bullets during his seven shutout innings, Mocksville turned a beautiful double play in the fourth, and Russell-Myers retired the first two batters in the eighth.

"They had the leadoff on in almost every inning and he got out of it," Lovelace said.

But after getting the first two guys in the eighth, Russell-Myers couldn't find any more magic. Grubb rode the first pitch over the fence for a 1-1 tie. Four pitches later, Albright spoiled his bid for a third win.

Notes: Both teams finished with seven hits. ... Garrett Benge's season and seven-game hitting streak ended on the same night. He turned in his stuff because of a church mission trip. ... Lexington defeated Mocksville 6-3 earlier, and Watson, who is headed to Catawba, has both wins. ... Matt Leonard pushed his hitting streak to seven. ... Miller was hot once again to make him 7 for 10 over three games. ... Kidd matched Miller with two hits, his first multi-hit night in seven games.

Mocksville (12-11, 8-8 Southern Division) the kind of win it needed as it nears the playoffs. It had dropped three straight on the field, with a Wilkes County forfeit mixed in. "It was probably the best all-around game we've played, and it came at a crucial time," Lovelace said. "We needed a win and they beat Mooresville 4-3 a few nights ago (when Mooresville was undefeated in the division)."

Koontz wasn't a power pitcher, striking out just one. But he put on a spectacular Greg Maddux-like show in the final home game of the regular season, coaxing harmless ground balls and lazy flies with precision.

After the game's third batter roped a double, Koontz retired 10 in a row, the streak broken by a fifth-inning error. The 76-pitch masterpiece made Koontz 5-1 on the year and 10-3 in two years, and it chopped his ERA from 5.25 to 4.40.

"That was big for him to only throw 76 pitches," Lovelace said. "They had one runner reach third and two more to reach second. He can throw three pitches at any time. Like (assistant Todd Bumgarner) Bum said, he pitches like a lefthander. He can pitch backward and get people out. He locked a couple people up when it was 0-2 or 1-2. They were looking for a changeup or curveball away, and he threw fastballs under their hands."

It was 1-0 through three and a half, but Mocksville tormented Stanly in the fourth, scoring six runs. Justin Kidd and Zack Russell-Myers opened the inning with singles. Matt Leonard was beaned and Clint Howell drew a bases-loaded walk.

The game-breaking moment came with the score 2-0. With Russell-Myers taking off at third, Cope executed a suicide-squeeze bunt. The bunt was so good it resulted in a hit.

The floodgates were open.

"It's probably the first time I've done that in 10 years, and it was perfectly executed," Lovelace said. "They had just gone out to talk to their pitcher. There was no sign. I told Cope if you don't hit the first pitch, the second pitch is a suicide, and I just relayed it to Russell-Myers. They didn't have a clue. That got us going."

With one out, Stewart rapped a two-run single up the middle. Seth Miller made it 7-0 by pulling a hit to right. For good measure, Mocksville poured across four runs in the sixth.

"We had three hits with 0-2 counts," he said.

Notes: Mocksville swept Stanly, winning 12-8 on the road. ... Eleven different batters contributed hits. ... Boyd (8 for 18 in five games) and Miller (10 for 16 in five games) continued their rampages. ... Bryan King was 2 for 5 on the year before delivering a pinch-hit RBI single. Howell's 1-for-1 game made him an astonishing 8 for 17 overall (.471). ... Koontz was backed by sparkling grabs by outfielders Leonard and Kinard. "Leonard made a running catch against the wall in the first inning," he said. "Kinard made two nice catches in left."

Original Christianity

The Eternal God

Eternity is something hard for us to fathom other than to say that it is without end. We humans live in time but God inhabits eternity. (Isaiah 57:15) Or as the Psalmist said, "Even from everlasting to everlasting, thou art God." (Psalm 90:2)

The good news of Christianity is that eternity can be ours also. It is pretty certain that man was created for eternity but then sin entered and death became the lot of every man. But still there exists within the human breast a longing to live on and on. And now life and immortality have been brought to light by the gospel. (2 Timothy 1:10)

Yes, we die and along the way we groan within ourselves as we feel our bodies weaken with age until finally we are planted in the earth but for Christians it is only to wait for "the redemption of our body." (Romans 8:23) At which time not only will life be restored but it will be with an eternal, immortal vigor as we enter the portals of heaven.

BUSINESS SPOTLIGHT

Ugly Roof Stains?

American Roof-Brite can remove them

American Roof-Brite has the answer for those unsightly, if not damaging stains that appear on shingle roofs. Professional roof cleaner and American Roof-Brite owner Don Sunday is the expert behind the business. With over 30 years of roof-cleaning experience, American Roof-Brite has the knowledge and technical skill to kill roof fungus spores, the usual cause of the black or discoloring stains on asphalt and fiberglass shingles.

Don bought his American Roof-Brite dealership over four years ago, after researching the company and its product. What he likes to impress upon his customers is the method he uses to clean roofs.

The first step is to apply an environmentally safe, biodegradable cleaning compound to the roof area. This application sits on the roof for several minutes. The formula eats away at the cause of the roof stains, fungus. This is one of the steps that separates American Roof-Brite from other roof cleaners, who just spray the roof with a high-pressure wash.

The next step for Don is a low-pressure/high volume wash. Don is passionate to let his clients know that this low-pressure wash is an important difference in roof cleaning technique. Most people assume that what a roof needs is a high-pressure wash. This, Don says, could not be farther from the truth. In fact, a high-pressure wash usually causes damage to a roof, tearing up shingles from the roof, which can result in interior water damage. Not good. The low-pressure/high volume method used by American Roof-Brite has been trusted by homeowners for over 30 years.

The third, and final step that Don incorporates, is the application of a stainblocker, or sealer. This layer of protection is guaranteed to prevent fungus growth for three years.

Roof stains are not just ugly, but the fungus that causes them can damage your home. Merely washing your roof is not enough. The three-step process used by Don Sunday and American Roof-Brite is an environmentally safe, professionally proven method for killing roof fungus, and preventing it. American Roof-Brite is owned by Don Sunday. You can reach Don at (336)-785-2030.

Visual Changes congratulates Hailey Mize

When it comes to hair design, Hailey Mize, an 18 year-old senior at Davie County High School, is an original.

Innovative, creative and always stylish, Mize was an obvious choice as this year's winner of "Best Hair" at Davie High.

Hailey Mize wins "Best Hair at Davie High"

"It was part of a senior superlative contest and there were several categories in the running," Hailey mentions. "There were four girls and four guys nominated under this category and I was very excited to have been the winner."

Hailey, who has always been interested in experimenting with her own hair, plans to start cosmetology school next spring at Davie County Community College in Lexington.

"I never wear my hair the same way. I love to change the style and occasionally change the color," says Hailey.

This summer, Hailey plans to work part time at Visual Changes under the guidance of her sister-in-law, Kristina Eddinger.

"The staff and I want to congratulate Hailey for winning the best hair award at Davie High. We are very proud of her," Kristina notes.

Hailey will be getting her feet wet this summer, helping out the experienced staff and taking in all the valuable knowledge of the hair business.

Visual Changes Staff

The staff at Visual Changes includes: Jennifer Hutchins, Cindy Johnson, Amy Beck, Brenda Langford, Karen Harris and Kristina Eddinger. They specialize in cuts, dimensional color and formal styling for women, men and children and are always up to date on the newest styles and modern cuts. Seminars and classes are attended regularly by the staff.

New Hair Line and Sun Lover Facials Available

"We are also excited to announce a new hair line, "Renu" that is an anti-aging, age defying system which brings back the life in your hair and makes it feel and look more youthful," adds Kristina. "It is full of amino acids and lipids that women start losing in their forties. The hair starts to lose its shine and becomes coarse. This product rejuvenates the hair."

With summer right around the corner, you may want to begin to think about how the sun can really take a toll on your skin.

Lynn Roland, an esthetician and facial expert at Visual Changes, offers sun lover facials along with facial and body waxing and eyelash and eyebrow tinting.

Another new item in the shop is custom made jewelry by a local client which includes earrings, bracelets and necklaces.

Visual Changes is open Tuesday through Saturday at 9 am and evening appointments are available.

The shop is located at 2565 Old Glory Road in Clemmons. The phone number is 778-0604.

Fuel Costs Tapping Into Schools' Budget

Davie Putting Money Back Into Fund Balance

By Beth Cassidy
Davie County Enterprise Record

The Davie Board of Education voted unanimously last week to adopt a continuing budget resolution that will take them into the 08-09 fiscal year, awaiting the adoption of the state's budget.

Despite rising fuel and food costs, Finance Officer Deborah Smink said of the $785,000 from the fund balance appropriated to balance the local budget, only about $450,000 is needed.

"This means $335,000 will remain in fund balance. I am estimating our fund balance after our annual audit to be $1.1 million," she said.

The board drew criticism when it allowed the fund balance to drop, due to what Superintendent Dr. Robert Landry called "the perfect storm," a combination of state-mandated pay raises, increases in hospitalization and retirement benefits, and other costs.

Although the fund balance, which is like a savings account, remained within local government commission guidelines, critics chastised the board for, among other things, the continuation of a salary provided to Steve Lane, former superintendent, and construction and operational costs of Ellis Middle School.

They have recently been criticized for cutting three nursing positions.

Smink said last week, "As far as the nurses, we can't make a decision like that [bringing them back] now, not until the state has their budget in place. As soon as they pass their budget, we will have to look at, are there any areas where they didn't fund us that they did last year, or if there are big changes in the planning allotments, we'll have to address those first. It is always a possibility the money [that is going back into the fund balance] could be used for the nurses' salaries.

"While there is no word on the state budget, I don't like what I'm hearing. It's not promising, especially in regard to transportation costs."

Smink said the state had allotted about $1.4 million for transportation costs for the 07-08 fiscal year. That money covers fuel, salaries and benefits, repairs on buses, contracted transportation, and any items related to upkeep on the buses, including oil, tires and supplies.

For the 2006-07 school year, $192,010 was spent on fuel. Last year, Smink said, that number increased 38 percent, to $308,569.

A small portion of the increase was related to more buses, because of Ellis, and increased ridership, Smink said, but the biggest culprit was the drastic increase in fuel prices. Because the state allotment fell way short, the system had to use almost $90,000 in local funds to pay for fuel.

"We are looking at the same situation for next year (08-09). We have received updates, and it appears the state won't be giving enough of an allotment next year either," Smink said. "We're hearing there will be only enough to cover about 75 percent of what the fuel will cost us, so that will put us about $77,000 short next year."

Principals Moved To New Schools

Several principals and assistant principals in Davie Schools were reassigned schools at the board of education meeting Monday evening.

Five are on the elementary school level.

Carol Cozart, former principal at Cornatzer, has been moved to Cooleemee Elementary, and Cooleemee's former principal, Joy Morrison, will be the principal at Pinebrook.

Former Pinebrook principal Lynn Marrs is the new principal at Mocksville Elementary, and Gladys Scott has been moved from the principalship at Mocksville to Cornatzer.

Ali Wall, who had been an assistant principal at Davie High, will be in that same position at Mocksville Elementary.

Jennifer Custer, who had been assistant principal at Mocksville will replace Wanda Shaffner as the principal at North Davie. Assistant principal Amy Holcomb, who had been at North, will be at Davie High, and Keith Whitaker, former assistant principal at Davie High, will be in that position at North Davie.

County Asked To Enforce Rules At Dragway

Jesse "Pete" Gentry has no problems with the motorcyclists who attended the Smokeout rally at Farmington Motorsports Park.

The neighbor to the park does have a problem with promoters being allowed to repeatedly break county regulations - and state alcohol regulations.

Gentry took his plea to county commissioners Monday evening.

His name got into the mix when the rally promoter said that Gentry's future son-in-law, State Sen. Andrew Brock, had the rally's permit to sell beer revoked.

Campers Wilt In Oppressive Summer Heat

The second annual Hidden Creek father-son camp out went on as scheduled in 95-degree heat. We're real men in my neighborhood, not the kind to let a little sweat and body odor deter us from communing with nature and sleeping under the stars.

The hotdogs were wonderful. The campfire was charming. Boys squirted each other with water guns in Ralph Harding's backyard, site of the annual all-male bash. Women are only allowed to briefly deliver us good things to eat and drink before retreating from our testosterone headquarters.

Maybe 10 tents of assorted colors were erected in the suffocating heat.

After the fun, after the food, after the boys had collapsed from romping about the neighborhood, sleep proved the biggest challenge.

About midnight, I feared my Michael, 9, might actually fall asleep. Then I'd be stuck there to swelter through the night.

Hours after darkness had fallen, it was still 86 degrees.

"Want to go home?" I prodded.

"No."

Home was just across the street, 200 feet away, where the air conditioner hummed, where the mattress was soft and where I had forgotten my pillow. The longer I squirmed in the tent's oppressive heat, the more I longed for the comforts of home. Just across the street, it was cool. I could walk from hell to heaven in 30 seconds.

"How're you doing over there?" I pried.

"Okay."

"Is it too hot for you?"

"I'm okay."

Realizing that he wasn't going to cash in his chips without some serious prodding, I got more aggressive.

"Let's do this another night when it's not so hot."

I unzipped the tent, and we stumbled in the dark across the street to home.

Elizabeth wasn't surprised to see us.

Others among the ranks of the Hidden Creek He-Men surrendered to the elements that night. Only four adults stuck it out, earning the official designation as True Campers and Men of the Royal Order.

They earned their badges, but I got lots of sleep.

Disorderly Graduation?

Anyone who has attended a Davie High graduation can remember the lusty cheers some families give when their children cross the stage. Similar enthusiasm must have really bothered the principal of Fort Mill (S.C.) High School. Those attending graduation last month were warned that outbursts were strictly prohibited. A designated time for cheering would be staged at the end.

Some proud relatives couldn't contain themselves.

So they were arrested. The Charlotte Observer reported recently that six were charged with disorderly conduct. One was also charged with resisting arrest when he pulled away from the officer.

They are demanding jury trials. Expect a busy district attorney to dismiss charges.

Sometimes, you've got to let people to be people.

Teacher Input Should Be Valued

To the editor:

Currently before the Board of Education is a proposal to reorganize the grade levels in a K-6, 7-9, 10-12 configuration. While this has not been done in secret, the process certainly cannot be described as open. There has been little public discussion of the proposal at all. There is no plan to involve the teachers, parents, students, or the community in general in this decision.

What could an open discussion offer? Perhaps simply asking why does the Central Office want to reorganize the grades. You won't find that answer in their presentation Jan. 23 to the Board of Education.

What problem is this solution supposed to fix? Question 2 might be why is the Central Office now supporting a reorganization that was short on "pros" and long on "cons" in their own handout in the run up to the 2007 bond vote and given the second lowest approval rate of many possible plans in their teacher survey that year.

Question 3 might be with the existing schools in need of extra funding now, how will adding more recurring costs (ignoring the property tax increase to build the elementary school) help the financial problem we are in now.

Question 4 might be why is the Board of Education continuing to rubber-stamp what is obviously going to be another unpopular proposal from the Central Office. Question 4 bears more scrutiny. The Central Office has given us two unpopular, unsuccessful bond votes that has divided the county in many ways. They have made questionable hires in key positions. For a number of years now the Central Office has chosen to rule versus lead.

Ask teachers you know whether they feel free to speak their minds on any of these issues publicly and have no fear of retribution for doing so.

The Board of Education has a chance before it now. Call a halt to another unpopular plan put forth for its approval and give this county time to heal. The existing schools need more funding. The high school has by all accounts an excellent new principal. The teachers fought to be in on that selection process. Teachers need to continue to step forward and build back the confidence we have long had in our school system. Parents too can step forward and volunteer at their children's schools. Join the PTSA/Os. Check out what your kids are doing at school and seek answers from the school's administrators when you have questions. Be proactive.

Mr. Sparks, your appalling editorial (Teachers Hijack School Board's Alignment Fix) a few weeks back was a tremendous disservice to our teachers. Teachers in this county do not feel free to speak their minds, so imagine how badly they opposed the process the reorganization proposal was taking. We very much need our teachers' input on these issues. Who would have thought a newspaperman would be opposed to free speech.

Smokeout Opponent Must Be Living In A Glass House

To the editor:

People in glass houses.

I am responding to the letter to the Editor from the July 3rd edition, from Linda Baugus.

How dare you chastise the good folks and businesses of Davie County, not to mention talk about our sheriffs deputies the way you did. These people did nothing wrong, providing services from their businesses or renting out camping space on property they own and pay taxes on.

I talked to several of the attendees (bikers) who were there for the rally, yet I did not talk to one who was drunk or had been drinking. Everyone I came across acted in a courteous manner and was not in Mocksville to create murder and mayhem. I did not ever see any affiliation to any biker gangs - only people wanting to attend a rally and get a chance to meet with fellow bikers from around the nation.

As for the so-called nude washing of bikes and men and the sheriff's deputies looking at the women with their tongues hanging out - did you see this? If so, why were you attending an event you consider to be amoral for the residents of Davie County. Or did you just get this as hearsay and decided it was up to you to have it printed as truth.

I don't ever knock anyone's religion but as a Christian (which I gather you think you are) isn't it your responsibility to be tolerant of others?

Out of this letter I have seen so many intolerant acts on your behalf. You called the people and business owners of Davie County "evil" for making a living. You said the deputies providing security were tongue-wagging onlookers to a nude woman. You insinuated the bikers attending the show were drunk, nudists. Yet I bet you don't have one picture or one shred of evidence to prove this fact, except that Bible you are thumping so hard on that you got the saying from.

Why don't you ask the sheriff how many DUI arrests were made of bikers at the rally or arrests period at the rally. Then ask them in that same weekend how many DUI and other arrests were made of county residents away from the rally or who didn't attend the rally. I think you will be quite surprised.

As for the rally, I think it was a huge success that brought in a lot of needed dollars to our local businesses in a time when the economy is so bad.

Williams Family Says Thanks For A July 4th To Remember

To the editor:

This 4th of July will always be remembered by us for the nice people we met at the 9th Piedmont Antique Power Association in Mocksville. The participation from everyone involved made it a most memorable event for the children and family of Clark Williams. Clark was taken from us in a tragic accident in March. It is so nice to know that people care so much.

It was a thrill seeing the antique tractors and other equipment. Tatum enjoyed riding in the deputy car and Brady had fun riding on Ricky Howell's trailer. Brady won second prize on the pedal tractor. Tatum, Kassidy, Brady and Emma were thrilled to draw for the raffle tickets.

The donation was appreciated and will be used on behalf of the children. Thanks for all the hard work it took to organize and have such a remarkable event. Thanks also to the families in the association who lost loved ones this year. We feel your pain.

Special thanks to David Speer and all of the people who helped in such a generous way. We are very fortunate to have such a nice town and county in which to live.

God bless each of you.

Kristy, Tatum, Kassidy, Brady and Emma Williams

Law Enforcement Kept Smokeout Safe

To the editor:

As the respected news journalist Paul Harvey would say, "Now for the rest of the story." The complete story of the events that transpired before, during, and after the Smokeout Rally was not fully reported. A quick drive by article of the event is not a fair and balanced news report to the people who live in Davie County. Let's review a few key points:

1. Current North Carolina law states that alcohol cannot be sold in the unincorporated areas of Davie County. Alcohol sales can only occur in the towns of Cooleemee, Mocksville and Bermuda Run.

2. The law permitting one-time permits for the sale of alcohol has been abused numerous times by the dragstrip.

3. Camping on site is prohibited by the mass gathering laws secondary to health violations as well as breaking zoning codes.

The topless biker wash and wet t-shirt contests should also be in violation of Chapter 19 of the North Carolina statutes, "Offenses Against Public Morals." I feel strongly that the citizens of Davie county should make their voices heard to the county commissioners that this type of conduct is not appreciated or appropriate and should not be tolerated. The actions taken by the people who live in the Farmington and Pino community should be commended. By stopping the sale of alcohol on the premises of Farmington Motorsports Park, the local businesses/economy were able to benefit. The amount of tax collected from the sale of alcohol by Davie County businesses allowed money to remain in the county. By limiting camping, local hotels benefitted by occupancy taxes paid. One of the families that offered camping was able to raise money for a special needs family member.

A special thank you to law enforcement, their presence alone kept the events from getting out of hand. People from outside the area have criticized the actions taken by the neighbors of the dragstrip, but hindsight shows that the actions taken by the Farmington/Pino community were more beneficial to the families and citizens of Davie County.

Three Cheers For The Smokeout

To the editor:

Three cheers to Perry Hunes, Don Plemmons and anyone else in support of the Smokeout motorcycle rally. And to you, Linda Baugus, apparently you may not have a special needs child or may need to pay some bills, or as the Bible might would say, be kind to your neighbor and not judge them like you seem to be doing.

This event brought revenue into our county. It was well organized. I hope they continue to have it here with twice the crowd and investors who would build more motels here, so Davie could keep the tax monies here.

People could've went onto The Horse web page and seen that they were telling people that the law would be tripled and that they had to wear DOT approved helmets due to the new North Carolina law. No beer sales on site, which doesn't make sense in some ways.

My wife an I spoke with a bike builder from Michigan. He was nice and polite and said that he was being treated friendly by everyone so far.

That night at C's on 601 North there were some bikers there, and my granddaughter really liked this one chopper. The owner and his friends were outside and told her to sit on it. They even balanced it for her so she could put feet up on the pegs like she was actually riding it; and last, but not least, let her crank it. The folks didn't smell of alcohol and they had been at the event all day and were kind with no foul language.

So maybe next time before you call the kettle black, you need to step back and look around. I once had a placque that read "When we do right no one remembers, but when we do wrong, no one forgets."

Tractor Show A Success

To the editor:

The Piedmont Antique Power Association would like to thank everyone who supported the two-day event, including the business donations for the pedal pull, tickets for the ATV raffle, and the great support for the Clark Williams Family. A special thank you goes to Jason Keaton, the winner of the $500 who gave his winnings to the Williams family. That is what Davie County is made of - caring people.

This year, we had more than 180 entries for the July 4 parade. Downtown Mocksville was packed to see the old tractors of the past. It was an exciting event. People came on Thursday evening to socialize with friends and neighbors. Thank yous came from every corner for the event. Comments from those attending were, "It's great to come and relax with good music, good food, a family atmosphere, wholesome, with free admission." "Keep it up." "How can I support the association."

The association would like to establish a permanent agriculture museum for the people of Davie and surrounding counties. For information, call Arthur Bostic at 492-7163 or Wayne Green at 492-7180.

Thanks again for all of your support.

Raleigh Report

Annexation Moratorium Could Become Reality

By Rep. Julia C. Howard
N.C. House of Representatives

Budget writers conceded that negotiations between House and Senate conferees were not progressing well. The remaining differences between the budget packages have been referred to the Speaker of the House and President Pro Tempore of the Senate for resolution.

Another new wrinkle in finalizing a state budget was brought forward by the governor. Reportedly, the revenues being reported are below the original forecasts by approximately $70 million. As a result, in addition to resolving the differences in which programs to fund or tax credits to approve, the Speaker and Senate President Pro Tem must now agree on which cuts should be approved to accommodate this revenue shortfall.

However, if history holds true, once the Speaker and Senate President Pro Tem are brought in to resolve the remaining differences on the budget, a final agreement is near.

HB 2367 - Involuntary Annexation Moratorium: The House overwhelmingly passed a moratorium on involuntary annexations. As reported in an earlier newsletter, the bill acts to stop all pending and new involuntary annexations throughout the state. The version of the bill passed by the full House makes the moratorium effective Aug. 31, 2008-May 31, 2009.

I am hopeful that the Senate will favorably receive this bill and push for its passage quickly prior to the General Assembly's adjournment, which is expected to be within the next few weeks.

The intent of the legislation is to allow the House Select Committee on Municipal Annexation to continue its study of the existing annexation statutes. While cities must be able to annex in order to prosper, there are increasing examples of abuse by certain municipal governments. As a result, I believe that changes to our annexation statutes, which were originally enacted in the late 1950s, may be in order.

I plan to follow this bill closely and will keep you updated on this bills progress in the Senate.

If you have any questions or would like additional information about the ongoing budget conference process or the involuntary annexation moratorium, feel free to contact my office, and I'll be happy to gather any available information.

Teen Charged With Rape

By Jackie Seabolt
Davie County Enterprise Record

A Davie teen charged with statutory rape remains in jail under a $75,000 secured bond.

Joshua Lane Griffin, 18, of 2529 Cornatzer Road, Advance was arrested July 3 for felony statutory rape/sex offense.

Griffin

According to Davie Sheriff's Department Capt. J.D. Hartman, Griffin had consensual sex with a minor who was 14-years-old.

Hartman said that the act happened between Griffin and the seventh-grade girl at Griffin's home in March of this year.

"It took place at his residence and according to the victim the boy's grandmother was there," Hartman said. "According to him (Griffin) he doesn't remember who was there."

Hartman said that the mother of the victim discovered what had happened in late April and reported it to the sheriff's department.

A warrant was issued for Griffin on May 12 and he was located last Thursday.

"He doesn't deny the allegations," Hartman said. "And, he's admitted he was aware of her age."

At the time the offense occurred Griffin was on probation for charges of breaking/entering, larceny, and injury to real property.

According to Hartman, Griffin has an extensive criminal history with the sheriff's department.

Griffin is scheduled to appear in Davie District Court today.

Man Gets Suspended Sentence

By Jackie Seabolt
Davie County Enterprise Record

A Davie man charged with misdemeanor death by vehicle received a suspended sentence in court last week.

Allen Gray Groce of Yadkinville was involved in a wreck last August on NC 601 North.

According to a call log from emergency communications the wreck occurred around 7:50 a.m. on Aug. 6 when a GMC pickup driven by Groce, 23, collided with a passenger van driven by Henry Dobbins, 50, of Boonville. Groce had stated that he was coming home from work and had fallen asleep when his truck crossed left of center.

Eleven injured people were taken to either Baptist Medical Center in Winston-Salem or Hoots Memorial Hospital in Yadkinville for treatment.

A 12th victim, Norma Parker Shore, 60, of Boonville, who was in the passenger front seat of the church van, was pronounced dead at the scene.

The van was from Charity Baptist Church in Boonville and was carrying a group of young people on a youth trip to Caswell Beach.

Dobbins received treatment for a broken arm and other injuries.

Groce was taken to Baptist for treatment of several broken bones.

Groce was charged with misdemeanor death by vehicle, which was reduced to careless/reckless driving. He was sentenced to 45 days in jail, suspended 18 months, ordered to pay $100 and cost, and not be convicted of any criminal offenses. Groce was also charged with driving left of center. That charge was dismissed.

Dog Scared By Fireworks

The fireworks may be pretty for us to watch, but for a local canine and its neighbors, the display turned ugly.

Marco Tulio Calderon told Mocksville Police Officer J.D. Walker that he and his family were eating outside at a picnic table off Summit Drive when the "strange" dog came onto the yard.

They tried to "shoo" the dog away, but it wouldn't leave.

When the fireworks display started, they said the dog "went crazy," causing some $400 damage as it chewed on the door facing, door knob and siding on the house.

The dog's owner later said that thunderstorms have a similar impact on the dog's behavior.

Rally ...

Monday that says one-time permits are only allowed in jurisdictions that allow the sale of alcohol. Davie County does not.

County commissioners have known for years that beer has been sold at several events at the park, Gentry said. He said he doesn't have anything against bikers, just that the rules are not enforced for everyone.

The park owners and lessee know that camping isn't allowed, yet they advertise events where they rent camping spaces, Gentry said. He thanked Davie Sheriff Andy Stokes for the increased law enforcement he said kept the rally safe, and County Manager Terry Bralley for helping to limit the camping, which isn't allowed on the residential-agriculture zoned property.

He turned his attention to the county commissioners. "Guys, it's time to step up and hold them responsible."

Budget ...

Because of that, Landry, Todd Naylor, transportation director, and the board are looking at ways to reduce fuel consumption.

Another hit to the local and capital outlay funds was $145,000 used to support the Child Nutrition Fund.

Smink said because of rising food costs, increases in state-mandated salaries and benefits, lower meal participation, and the state forcing schools to serve healthier meals, which cost more and contribute to lower participation, they knew they wouldn't be able to balance the budget without using fund balance.

"We knew we would have to help them out. Two years ago, the salaries of the director and bookkeeper were paid from local funds, but we asked them to totally support themselves through their own revenue. But picking up those two salaries, along with the state-mandated increases in salaries and benefits has caused a financial burden for them," Smink said. "We reimbursed them for those two salaries, and they had a little more than $30,000 capital outlay purchases, and we reimbursed that. The total amount we reimbursed them was $145,000, in an effort to not have them use all of their fund balance. They've got to have something in there."

While it appeared last year that several programs were in the bulls-eye, including Central Davie Academy and driver's education, those programs remain intact.

"CDA is intact and will continue to operate with state funds. Driver's Education has gone to Blackboard to lower the number of hours an instructor must be in the classroom, thereby lowering the amount paid to the instructors, which keeps the costs to only that provided by the state," Smink said.

Two other areas being scrutinized were the ESL program, which has been decreased by one teacher, and the central office staff, which has been reduced by two clerical positions.

Candy Poplin, executive director of human resources, said, "Anybody who left the system during the year who was not a regular classroom teacher, that position was not filled. And if there were others where they could share a position or combine responsibilities, that's what we did."

Some of the positions that were not filled were a teacher's assistant, two custodians, and one instructional staff member.

By not filling those positions, and with state Medicaid payments that had been held and were finally paid out, amounting to about $172,000, it allowed fund balance money to remain intact.

Smink said she expects the state's budget to be in place sometime this month.

Rowan Curse

Mocksville Trying to Make History In 1st Round

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

Zack Russell-Myers pitched four shutout innings at Statesville.

Coach Mike Lovelace didn't need a speech to motivate his Mocksville Legion baseball team when it opened a best-of-five, first-round playoff series on July 7. All Mocksville had to do was look at the name on the jerseys on the other side of the field - Rowan County.

This is it, Mocksville. This is your chance to end a certain futility that has haunted it since its first year back in American Legion baseball in 1982. Mocksville has never beaten Rowan in a postseason series, going 0-11. That could change July 7-11, with the home site alternating each night and the "if" games on July 10-11. The series started at third-seeded Rowan. No. 6-Mocksville could be at home for game four on July 10 at 7 p.m.

Rowan's numbers against Mocksville are off the charts. (The puzzling aspect is it's not like Mocksville has been a weak team. You can count its losing seasons on one hand.) Mocksville is a woeful 6-40 against Rowan in playoff games. Eleven of Mocksville's 26 seasons have ended at the hands of Rowan, including seven of the last 13. What's more demoralizing is the fact Mocksville has never won even two games in a series.

The dubious list: four games to one in the 1982 Southern Division finals, 4-0 in the 1984 first round, 4-1 in the 1991 division finals, 4-0 in the 1992 division finals, 3-1 in the 1995 first round, 4-0 in the 1997 second round, 4-0 in the 1998 second round, 3-0 in the 1999 first round, 4-1 in the 2001 second round, 3-1 in the 2004 second round and 3-1 in the 2006 first round.

The Rowan Curse has stung four Mocksville coaches - Ron Morgan in 1982 and 1984; Dale Ijames in 1991, 1992 and 1995; George Daywalt in 1997 and 1998; and Lovelace in 1999, 2001, 2004 and 2006.

Brandon Stewart and Heath Boyd, who were regulars on the '06 team, are trying to heal wounds from two years ago.

Counting all Mocksville-Rowan games since 1994, Mocksville is a horrid 9-44. Still, Lovelace is comforted by the fact that every year is a new year and every day is a new day, and that this year's division is wide open. Rowan is a mortal 20-7, finishing behind Lexington and Mooresville. This year parity rules, as Mocksville's regular-season split with Rowan can attest.

Rowan outlasted Mocksville 15-10 at Mando Field as Mocksville allowed the most runs in 38 games. But Mocksville redeemed itself in its very next game, erasing a 6-1 deficit and winning 11-7 at Newman Park to end a four-game losing streak in the series.

In most of the 11 playoff series, Rowan simply had too much talent for Mocksville. But a few of them were stinging disappointments. Mocksville's futility against Rowan can be symbolized by what happened in 1991 and 1992.

Mocksville marched to the regular-season title in 1991, at one point reeling off 17 straight home wins and entering the division finals with a sparkling 27-6 record. In a colossal letdown, it lost 4-1 to Rowan and finished 28-10.

After lighting up scoreboards all year, Mocksville went 14 for 96 (.146) in three home playoff games against Rowan. It led in every game, yet lost four of five. Lovelace entered the series with a 7-0 pitching record, then ended his final season at 7-2.

Then-coach Ijames said in 1991: "It's frustrating. If we'd gotten beaten by good pitching, I wouldn't feel so bad.

Mayfield, James Get College Offers

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

As many as 15 former War Eagles will be playing college football this fall, and it looks like two more rising seniors at Davie will move to the next level in 2009.

Perry James and James Mayfield are headed that way after receiving scholarship offers from East Carolina University and the University of Akron (Ohio), respectively. It's the first offer for both guys.

"Mayfield has caught a lot of people's eyes," Davie coach Doug Illing said. "You'd like to think he would have gotten more offers at this stage, but I think a lot of smaller schools are thinking he'd get some offers by bigger schools. So I think you'll see a lot of smaller schools start offering."

Mayfield's combination of power and speed is the real thing. He also has reliable hands. Last year the running back churned for 1,476 yards.

"He's worked hard in the offseason, and I think he's going to have a really, really special year," Illing said. "You'll see him among the state leaders in a lot of categories - not just rushing, but passing yardage. He's put on probably 15 pounds of muscle and increased his maxes in his workouts by a bunch from last year. He's even gotten faster. With that kind of dedication, you ought to see the dividends this fall."

Mayfield weighs between 213-217 pounds.

"You don't want to be a defensive back trying to tackle him," Illing said. "They're going to take punishment."

The Akron Zips are members of the Mid-American Conference. They went 5-7 in 2006, but they edged Patrick Lowery and N.C. State 20-17 in Raleigh. They went 4-8 in 2007, but they were respectable against two traditional powers, losing 20-2 to Ohio State in Columbus and 7-0 to Miami. This year Akron will play three regular-season games on one of the ESPN networks.

"They play good football, and they supposedly have a beautiful facility," Illing said.

Everyone is jacked about James' return after missing the entire 2007 season with a shoulder injury. The cornerback/receiver/kick returner imitates lightning in the open field.

Illing thinks it might be wise for James to jump on East Carolina's offer. The Pirates are on the rise under coach Skip Holtz, the son of legendary Lou Holtz. They went 7-6 in a breakthrough 2006 and 8-5 last year, beating Boise State 41-38 in the Hawaii Bowl. They wallowed through a 3-22 stretch just before Holtz arrived, and for the second straight year they're enjoying a record-breaking sales pace that will likely result in another complete sell-out of season tickets.

"That's real good for somebody that hasn't really seen him to go out on a limb and throw an offer out there," Illing said. "They came by one spring afternoon when we were working out. That's a

Flowers Saved Davie With Magical Interception

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

The second in a series recalling 10 memorable football wins. This is No. 9 in the countdown to No. 1.

Davie has been in 24 playoff battles in the last 12 years, but there haven't been many as thrilling as this one, a 22-17 second-round win over visiting Scotland County in 2005. There were enough stunning plays that fans who packed War Eagle Stadium on a freezing night witnessed a duel that wasn't decided until the final two minutes.

The War Eagles built a 22-10 lead. But in the fourth quarter they were flailing toward a meltdown and searching for a hero. That hero stepped forward with Scotland at the Davie 29. Senior linebacker Brock Flowers made a diving interception with 73 seconds left. That secured a fourth straight quarterfinal berth and set up a date with five-time defending state champion Independence. That gave Davie six straight wins and an 11-2 record. That ended the Scots' four-game winning streak. The game's only turnover made Scotland's 120-mile ride home seem like 1,200.

Flowers had trouble putting the magical moment into words.

"I can't explain it," he said. "It's just an unexplainable feeling. I can't put into words how good it feels. The momentum was definitely on their side, and we just had to dig deep, find something and play our hearts out. I thank the Lord for this."

The Scots had toppled Jack Britt when Britt was 9-0 and ranked fourth in the 4-A state.

"Our kids hung toe to toe with a perennial winner that's from a conference that everybody says we can't play with," Davie coach Doug Illing said. "I guess we can. It's got to rank up there as one of the big ones."

Berryhill Pitches No-Hitter Against Charlotte

The Mocksville Junior Legion baseball team warmed up for the playoffs by trouncing Charlotte 8-0 last week at Mando Field. The stroll in the park was a tribute to Josh Berryhill, who pitched a no-hitter.

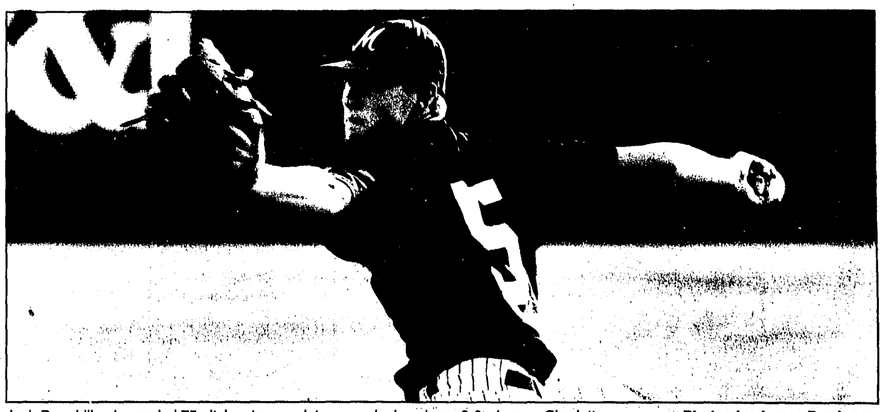

The righthander walked one, struck out four and dispatched Charlotte in 75 pitches. He just keeps getting better for a Mocksville team that closed the regular season with eight straight victories.

"He has pitched very well all year," coach Charles Kurfees said. "He pounds the strike zone. As far as command of the strike zone, he throws a lot like John McDaniel (of Pfeiffer)."

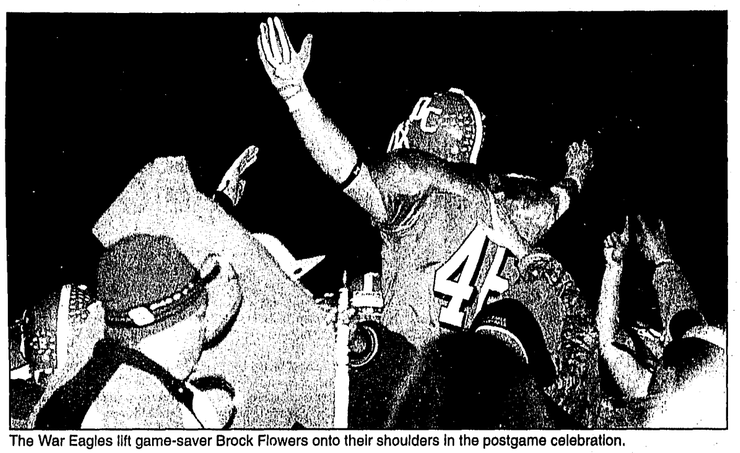

Demonstrating his customary pinpoint control, Berryhill yielded three base runners. Two of them reached via an error. There were only two balls that had any remote chance of falling for a hit.

"They hit one deep to left-center that (Brad) Gaither caught on the warning track," Kurfees said. "They hit one came on a Chris Patterson screen pass intended for Justin McLean. In the postgame's celebratory mob scene, teammates lifted Flowers onto their shoulders.

"It was the greatest feeling we could ever have," receiver Kenny Rivers said.

"This and the (2004) Crest game is the best I've ever felt in football," said center Brent Abendroth, who recovered two Davie fumbles.

Flowers bailed Davie out at less than full strength. He had walking pneumonia and missed practice on Monday and Tuesday.

"I've still got it, but I didn't even feel it tonight," Flowers said. "My chest was hurting a little bit, and I coughed up some stuff. I could barely walk after that (interception)."

"Wednesday (Flowers) was back in there at practice, and he made up opportunity period for missing those days," cornerback/receiver Raeshon McNeil said. "He had his hoodie on under his pads, and he was there practicing with us, and he came through big for us."

While Patterson went 17 of 31 for 182 passing yards, Davie's quarterback duo was equally impressive. Senior Brad Corriher was 13 of 20 for 147 yards, and sophomore Garrett Benge was 6 of 9 for 67 yards. McNeil played a key role, making five catches for 102 yards and throwing a touchdown to Rivers on his first career pass.

After a scoreless first quarter, McLean's 11-yard scamper gave Scotland a 7-0 lead.

Davie didn't have a single first down until it was third-and-8 at its 22. Corriher engineered an 80-yard drive highlighted by a 41-yard connection with McNeil on a post pattern. On fourth-and-3, receiver Zach Vogler went to his knees to move the chains. On the next play, Corriher swung it out to Jonathan Mayfield, who zigzagged 25 yards to the end zone. Jack Rooney's point-after try made it 7-7.

The elusive McLean returned the ensuing kickoff 77 yards to the Davie 6. That's where linebackers Mark Huggins and Dontay Rivers flexed their muscles and forced Scotland to settle for a 23-yard field goal.

Davie rolled 77 yards for a halftime lead. McNeil covered 35 yards on another post route, this time from Benge. On the play, McNeil absorbed a crunching hit, somehow held on and flipped the ball nonchalantly to the official. Abendroth and Michael Murphy created a gaping hole on a 9-yard touchdown by Kenneth Brown.

"Coach (Chad) Groover got mad enough that he got on us," Abendroth said. "Once he gets in that mood, you do what he says."

Davie faked the point-after attempt. Vogler, the holder for Rooney, fooled the entire defense by standing up and throwing a two-point pass to linebacker Logan Buchanan. The result was a 15-10 halftime lead.

"Brock and Logan were both open," Vogler said. "I ain't no quarterback, so I just threw it up and hoped somebody caught it."

Back-to-back penalties thrust Davie into a first-and-34 hole. No problem. Corriher went 6 of 6 to lead Davie to the Scotland 21.

"Well, we know we don't have to get (all 34 yards) at one time," Corriher said. "Eight yards apiece is 32."

It was third-and-9 at the Scotland 21. McNeil took a reverse handoff, fought off a blitzing linebacker and floated a lollipop to Rivers, who was wide open in the end zone. The trick play gave Davie the 22-10 lead.

"I didn't think Raeshon was going to get it off at first," Rivers said. "Man, I felt my heart pounding."

Even with the two-score lead, the end was hardly a picnic for Davie. Scotland's bread-and-butter play, the screen to McLean, cut Davie's lead to 22-17 with 4:48 to play.

One first down would have dropped the curtain on Scotland, but Corriher punted from the Davie 17 with 2:33 left. Scotland set up shop at its 40.

Patterson's fourth-and-15 pass fell incomplete, but a flag for pass interference gave the Scots new life at the Davie 45. They tightened the Davie noose by getting a first down at the Davie 29.

Then came the play that etched Flowers a permanent place in Davie lore. Patterson tried the same screen play that McLean scored on four minutes earlier, but Flowers' out-of-nowhere pick sent the home crowd into a frenzy and kicked the Scots in the gut.

"I just sat on it," Flowers said. "My adrenaline was going so much it was crazy."

lling's watch. The list of college players for 2008 is mighty impressive. The 15 names: Billy Riddle (Appalachian State), Ryan Boehm (Coastal Carolina), D.J. Rice (Coastal Carolina), Ted Randolph (Wake Forest), Cooter Arnold (North Carolina), Zac O'Brien (Lenoir-Rhyne), Nic O'Brien (walk-on at Lenoir-Rhyne), Raeshon McNeil (Notre Dame), ReShaun Parks (Brevard), Jaspen Gray (Catawba), Jonathan Mayfield (Richmond), Ben Kuhn (Lenoir-Rhyne), Kenny Rivers (Gardner-Webb), Kevin Boehm (MIT) and Garrett Benge (walk-on at Wingate).

Two From Davie Make All-State Softball Team

Two Davie softball players - junior first baseman Jordan Schultz and sophomore catcher Morgan Wyatt - were voted to the N.C. Coaches Association 4-A All-State team.

Ten girls from schools in Northwest North Carolina made the team, including five from North Davidson and two from West Forsyth.

The Davie duo led the War Eagles to a 14-10 record. Schultz paced Davie in average (.434), hits (33), doubles (seven) and RBIs (20). Wyatt, who hit .364, was first in at-bats (77), runs (25), triples (six) and walks/hit by pitches (nine).

Davie hit two home runs, one each by Schultz and Wyatt.

DAVIE COUNTY ENTERPRISE RECORD
171 S. Main St. • Mocksville

1-Run Misery Extended

The Mocksville Legion baseball team is having one of those seasons where seemingly all the breaks in close games go to the other team. A 4-3 loss at Concord on June 29 was a familiar feeling for Mocksville, which dropped to 0-3 in one-run games in the Southern Division.

• Take the third inning. Mocksville had taken a 1-0 lead on a Brandon Stewart sacrifice fly. The bases were loaded with two outs, and Justin Kidd banged a grounder toward the hole. "The second baseman goes all the way over and throws him out," coach Mike Lovelace said.

• Take the seventh inning. One of Mocksville's hottest hitters, Chris Kinard, came up with Matt Leonard and Stewart aboard with one out and the score 3-3. "Kinard hits a hard ball to third," Lovelace said. "He touches third and throws across for a double play."

• And take the ninth inning. Leonard had legged out a patented infield hit and stolen second to put the potential tying run in scoring position. Stewart fouled off five pitches. The count was full. On the 10th pitch of the at-bat, Stewart was called out. Lovelace empathized for Stewart, who had taken what he thought was clearly ball four.

"It was a battle," Lovelace said. "That would have given us first and second with Kinard up. The ump called a great game but I thought that one was a ball. He punched him out and I couldn't believe it. Brandon daggum battled. He fouled some off straight back and he fouled off curveballs. It was one of the best at-bats of the year and he got punched out. The thing about it, he had just thrown two balls that were borderline. Brandon was mad and I would have been, too."

The loss dropped Mocksville to 13-12 overall and 8-9 in the Southern Division. Concord, a 12-9 winner at Rich Park, improved to 13-11, 10-8 in its final division game.

Mocksville came in riding high, going 31 for 73 (.425) and scoring 23 runs in consecutive wins over Stanly County and Western Forsyth. But it couldn't muster but four hits off lefthander Cody Walker, the same Walker who lost a 1-0, 10-inning pitchers' duel to John McDaniel in 2007. Garrett Furr closed in the ninth.

"That was a big game," Lovelace said. "That would have put us in fifth (instead of sixth)."

While Concord seemed to make every defensive play when it mattered most, Mocksville botched a critical play in Concord's two-run fourth. That put Mocksville in a 3-1 hole.

"They shouldn't have scored but one of those," he said. "We got a double-play ground ball and threw it away at first."

Kinard's double to right-center pulled Mocksville to 3-2 in the fifth, and Zack Russell-Myers' homer over the right-center fence tied the game at 3 in the sixth.

"He hit it to the school buses," Lovelace marveled.

Furr ultimately decided the issue by hitting a tiebreaking home run in the seventh. It was his third hit of the game.

Pitcher Corey Norman went all eight for Mocksville. He slipped to 2-3 despite lowering his ERA from 4.76 to 4.46. The team's second complete game wasn't enough despite Norman's one walk and eight strikeouts. Concord challenged Norman numerous times, collecting 11 hits. But for the large part of the night, Norman recorded key outs at the right time.

Notes: Russell-Myers has been all or nothing. Four of his 11 hits are homers. ... Concord's tough pitchers cooled off Heath Boyd, who had a six-game hitting streak, and Seth Miller, who was 12 for 21 in the previous six games. ... Concord defeated Mocksville for the fifth straight time, dating to last year's playoffs.

Mocksville Drops 11-Spot On Statesville

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

After falling to 0-3 in one-run games in the division at Concord, the Mocksville Legion baseball team dusted itself off and answered with authority, scoring 11 runs in the second inning at Statesville on July 2.

After the top of the second, it looked as if Mocksville would drop twenty-some on the hosts. It settled for a 12-2 win in seven mercy-rule innings. The outcome was predictably lopsided. While Mocksville finished the regular season at 14-12 overall and 9-9 in the Southern Division, Statesville's nightmare of a season moved to 3-16, 2-15.

But psychologically, the win was big. By breaking even, Mocksville still has not had a losing division record since coach Mike Lovelace's first year as head coach in 1999 (8-10). So this marked the ninth straight .500-or-better season.

"It was a big game for us," Lovelace said. "We hadn't played since that tough (4-3) loss at Concord."

Mocksville raked Statesville across the coals in the second. Seth Miller doubled, Justin Kidd singled and Brandon Stewart singled. Then Matt Leonard laid down a bunt single, Zeb Cope walked with the bases loaded and Colby Seaford got a single on a suicide-squeeze bunt. The next wave was a two-run double down the first-base line by Corey Norman, an error on a Heath Boyd ball and a double by Chris Kinard.

Remarkably, seven of the first nine batters got hits, and Statesville didn't get the first out until the 10th batter. After back-to-back strikeouts, the merry-go-round started again. Stewart ripped an RBI hit to left, Leonard beat out another grounder and Cope laced a two-run single.

In the second inning alone, Cope had a walk, single and three RBIs, Stewart had two RBIs, and Stewart and Leonard scored two runs apiece. That's not all. Stewart and Leonard were both 2 for 2 in the inning. To add insult to injury, four of the 10 hits didn't leave the infield.

The bottom of the order flourished, with Stewart, Leonard, Cope and Seaford going 9 for 14 with six runs and seven RBIs from the 6-9 spots. Two of them have turned their averages dramatically. Leonard went 5 for 6 against Concord and Statesville, pushing his mark from .267 to .318. Cope is 5 for 9 over four games, raising his clip from .189 to .261.

Leonard's hot streak is a tribute to his wheels. He had two infield hits against both Concord and Statesville.

"His other (hit against Statesville) was a hard single to left. It was a shot," Lovelace said. "Cope had been putting it in play. He has finally gotten some breaks."

Mocksville coasted home. Its only other run came in the fourth on a leadoff home run by Miller, who went the other way and cleared West Iredell's 340 sign in left-center. After going 0 for 3 at Concord, Miller went 2 for 3, pumped his average to .370 and recorded his seventh homer, which ranks No. 2 in the last four years. Kinard went yard eight times last year.

"I took Miller out after a double and homer, but (Zack) Russell-Myers got a hit in his spot," Lovelace said.

Lovelace raved about Kinard, who doubled twice to make him 8 for 18 over four games. Kinard has 11 doubles; only seven players have more in Mocksville's 27-year history.

"Kinard is the best hitter I've seen from gap to gap," he said. "He wears it out. With two strikes he can make adjustments. He'll look bad on the first two swings, but then he knows how to bear down."

Russell-Myers (3-3) squared his record by dominating for four innings. He averaged 14.2 pitches per inning, ending his scoreless stint with a bases-loaded strikeout.

"He was sharp," he said. "I took him out because he's got the all-star game (last) Saturday and to get ready for (July 7's postseason)."

Notes: Mocksville smoked Statesville after winning only 10-7 at home. ... Kinard (catcher) and Russell-Myers (pitcher) were named to the Area III's Southern Division All-Star team. It was a second-annual event, and Kinard was voted in for the second time. Two players from each position and nine pitchers made the team. The Northern Division All-Stars beat the Southern Division 14-5 on July 5 at Catawba's Newman Park. ... The only downer from the Statesville game was Stewart re-aggravating a pulled quad muscle in the sixth. "He went down at first trying to beat out an infield hit, and it happened when it was out of reach," Lovelace said.

Curse ...

But we just couldn't adjust to the strike zone or their slow stuff. They had about six hits in this series that hit the chalk line."

Rowan and Mocksville tied for the '92 regular-season title, but Rowan swept Mocksville 4-0 in the division finals, ending an otherwise stellar season at 24-13. Mocksville's staff entered the series with a strong 3.74 ERA. Its ERA in the sweep was 9.53.

The worst part: Mocksville lost each of the first three games by one run - 8-7, 16-15 and 7-6.

So for all the success that Mocksville has had over 27 years, there's obviously a cloud that hovers over it. Maybe this is the year that Rowan gets a dose of its own medicine.

For Mocksville to turn the tables, it must find consistency for the first time all year. It has driven Lovelace crazy with its pattern - good game, bad game, good game, bad game and then something in-between. It has not won three games in a row all year; it has five two-game winning streaks. But it has not lost three straight games, stopping a two-game skid on four different occasions.

Notes: For all his Rowan heartache, Lovelace entered the playoffs with a 169-133 record in 10 years. ... At stake is Mocksville's 20th winning season in 27 years, or its 23rd non-losing season.

behind first base in the sixth that (second baseman) David Hobson caught. That's about all."

Mocksville jumped out to a 2-0 lead in the first, a quick start built around singles by Shelton Howard and Zach Long. Dillon Byerly uncorked a solo homer in the second, his second blast in as many games. Mocksville broke it wide open in a four-run fifth. Jess Cartner and Long sandwiched doubles around a Jacob Barber single.

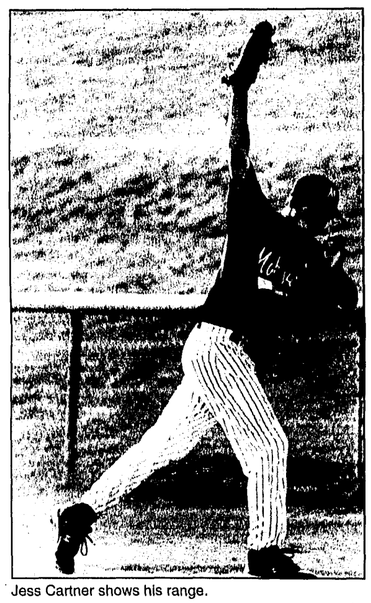

Howard, Long and Byerly, who also doubled, each went 2 for 3.

Mocksville, the No. 7 seed in Area III, entered the playoffs with a 17-11 record. It started a best-of-three series against Western Forsyth on July 7. The "if" game is July 9 at Rich Park. Should Mocksville advance, it would face Asheboro, which had a first-round bye. The playoff games begin at 7 p.m.

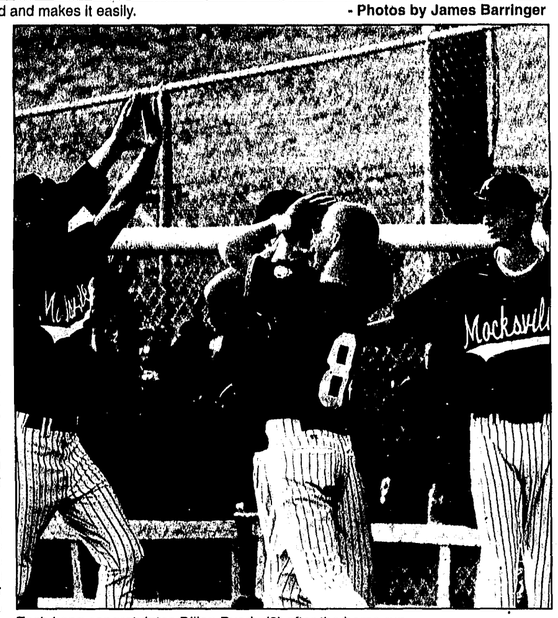

"Cherryville is the No. 1 seed in the West, and we beat them twice," Kurfees said. "Pineville is No. 2 and we beat them. The teams we lost to - Asheboro and Mooresville - are on our side of the bracket, but I think we can beat them."

BUSINESS SPOTLIGHT

Carolina Small Engine

There aren't many of us who can say they've been working in their profession since they were eight years old. Ken Beauchamp can. Thanks to his resourceful grandfather and father, he started working on lawn mowers and tractors before he could really even reach the pedals. He opened up his shop part-time in 1989. Carolina Small Engine became his full time career in May 2006.

He's been trained by all the best manufacturers: Briggs & Stratton, Kohler, Yamaha, Honda, Craftsman, Shindaiwa, Encore, Kawasaki and Dolmar. His skills and experience support his philosophy of fixing equipment right the first time by identifying the source of the problem. After Ken's repaired your power equipment, it works when you need it to work.

So when do you come see Ken? Like the name says, small engines are his specialty. A small engine is found on all outdoor power equipment that is gasoline powered. Carolina Small Engine sells and services a long list of equipment. Here is a sampling.

Great Customer Service

Before you leave the shop, your professionally assembled new equipment is running and you have been trained on how to use it and care for it. Like a good ol' Davie County boy, he'll remind you not to loan out your wife or your power equipment! Here are some of the comments his customers have made.

• Carolina Small Engine does quality work at a reasonable price.

• I had never heard of Dolmar before, but my new chain saw is the best I've ever used.

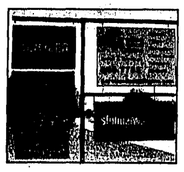

• My mower runs better now than it did when it was new.

• I brought my mower in after replacing the battery, starter, ignition switch, and safety switches. I had already spent $300 and I don't know how much time. Ken fixed it for $60 - including parts and labor

Spring Lawn Mower Maintenance Service

We all know the benefits of changing the oil in your car every 3,000 miles. Well, small engines need the same care to ensure trouble-free use and extended engine life. Manufacturers recommend maintenance service after every 25 hours of use (once a season for a small yard, twice or more for a larger yard). The following services are performed at Carolina Small Engine:

• Remove debris and pressure wash
• Perform crank case pressure test (to detect problems such as a blown head gasket)
• Change oil, oil filter, air filter, pre-filter, fuel filter, and spark plugs
• Grease fittings
• Check battery connections, fluid levels, charge if necessary, and load test
• Check and adjust tire pressure
• Sharpen and balance blades
• Perform all manufacturer recommended adjustments
• Inspect all belts for wear or cracks
•Adjust valves

The price of this important maintenance is determined by the engine size and the transmission style. Call for more information or to schedule your appointment.

For the Do It Yourself Crowd

There are a lot of things you can do to help maintain your equipment. Carolina Small Engine stocks many of the supplies you'll need to do that.

Ken's Small Engine Fuel Tips

• Use fresh quality name brand fuel
• 87 octane is fine for 4-cycle lawn mowers and lawn tractors
• 93 octane is critical for 2-cycle equipment. Spend the extra 20 cents because adding 2-cycle oil to gasoline at a 40:1 ratio lowers the octane by 6 points. If you start with 87, you end up with 81 instead. 93 ensures you still have 87.
• Spend a couple of extra dollars now to extend the life of your 2-cycle equipment. Use premier name brand oil mix with fuel stabilizers in it to help preserve your gasoline.
• Manufacturers recommend keeping gasoline for only 45 days

Tanner Junker of Mocksville, holds up the champion dolphin he caught in the Jolly Mon King Classic.

Junker shows off his trophies, and the top sea bass caught in the junior division.

Mocksville Youth Wins Two Trophies At Jolly Mon Classic

Tanner Junker, son of Deitre and Will Junker of Mocksville, won in his first fishing tournament and experienced a wild ride in a violet storm at sea. Junker participated in the annual Jolly Mon King Classic, June 20-22, held from Ocean Isle Fishing Center in Ocean Isle Beach.

He fished Friday aboard the "Miss Louise" with Captain Jeff Bowdon on his 23-foot Sea Fox center console boat. Captain Doug Illing provided the young fisherman with all the needed knowledge and equipment.

Even though the fishing was slow that day, Illing put him over the fish, and he was able to land a dolphin and a black sea bass. Of course, First Mate Jim Moore and Zach Illing (former Junior Jolly Mon Winner) provided moral support as he reeled in his catches.

Since the sea was starting to get nasty, the group headed back to port to weigh the fish before the official tournament cut-off time expired. With the choppy waves and winds, the boat arrived at the docks just in time for the weigh in. As Moore and the two young men jumped off the boat and carried the catch to the scales, no one thought they had a winner.

As Captain Brant McMullan, tournament organizer, weighed in each fish, he announced to Tanner that his sea bass and dolphin were the largest fish so far for each category. It was minutes before the scales closed for the day, so everyone hoped no large fish would come in.

After the dinner at the fishing center that evening, McMullan announced the winners of the three categories in the Junior Jolly Mon. The Mocksville crowd was proud of Tanner as he won first place in two of three events. He won first place in the dolphin category with the fish weighing 6.55 lbs., and first place in the sea bass category with the fish weighing 1.55 lbs.

Armed with two trophies and some cash, Junker was beside himself.

He also got to experience a second first on Saturday.

With an impressive 294 boats registered to compete in the 2008 Jolly Mon King Mackerel, 240 boats decided to head out to fish the tournament early Saturday morning since the weather forecast looked good. Little did anyone know that large thunderstorms would develop over the Whiteville area, which quickly intensified into a major storm as it moved eastward and out to sea.

With the Miss Louise 11 miles offshore, the crew could only ride out the storm. The wind went from light south direction to north at 40-50 knots and it began to hail and rain sideways. The seas went from 2-3 feet to over 6 feet in a matter of seconds - with the waves coming from all directions. As lightning danced around, the crew had a lot of fun for the next 45 minute or so.

Most boaters, when returning to port at the end of the day, stated that it was the worst storm they have ever seen or had been in during all their years of boating. Sadly, the fishermen learned one of the boats fishing in the same area that day took a wave over the stern and sank during. The experienced boat captain, Scott Hewett, did not survive this accident, but his two companions did and were rescued.

Tanner and the rest of the boat crew learned a valuable lesson that Saturday about the havoc that Mother Nature can whip up in a short time. Although the crew did not catch any tournament winning fish on Saturday, they did gaff a few for the dinner table. The experienced fishermen agreed that since Tanner out-fished everyone, they will all try harder during next year's tournament.

July 12 Fundraiser To Raise Money For African Trip

LaRue Marshall wants to teach the children in Ghana things that could help save their lives.

Scenes such as this one, with young boys getting drinking water from a river using an old anti-freeze jug, inspire Marshall to want to help even more.

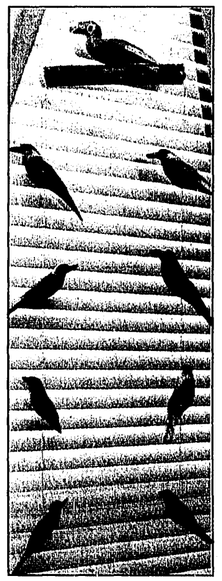

LaRue Marshall looks through books of memories from African missions.

By Beth Cassidy
Davie County Enterprise Record

When LaRue Marshall leaves Aug. 21 for a small village near Ghana, West Africa, she hopes it will be with the gift of over a thousand potentially life-saving malaria nets.

But unless people step up and open their hearts and wallets, those lives could be lost.

Marshall, the wife of pastor Dennis Marshall of Bethlehem United Methodist Church, will be participating in her sixth mission trip, this time to Asato, a small village of about 2,000, where she will head up a free medical clinic.

She is going with a Storehouse for Jesus mission team, which will include Lori West, a nurse and Bethlehem member, but Marshall will spend most of her time away from the team, in the village, attending to the medical needs of residents.

Marshall is a dialysis nurse at Forsyth Memorial Hospital, but said her real job, and her heart much of the time, is in Africa.

"I always had a dream to go to Africa. Back in about 2000, Dennis was on the board at the Storehouse, and he told me I needed to go see Marie Collins (director of the Storehouse). Shortly after that, she was putting together a team to do a free medical clinic in Ghana, and she wanted me to be the nurse coordinator. I had just graduated [from nursing school] in 1999, and I was thinking, 'I'm not qualified to be a coordinator of anything,' but I went."

Marshall said she really thought she would go that one time and be done, that it would satisfy her need to see Africa and be of help, but it only sparked a fire that had long been smoldering.

She returned for the next three years, but because of the economy, she and others did not return for a few years. But Marshall said during that time, she kept thinking she needed to do more.

The next year, the team returned, and Cynthia Baldwin, who works with the educational needs of the villagers, asked Marshall to accompany her to Asato.

"I hadn't been to Africa in a few years, and Cynthia asked me to go to Asato, and I said 'Yes,' even though I had no business being there. While Cynthia and Marie were meeting with the teachers, I went out on the steps of the school and there were all these children around, hanging out of windows, very curious about me. I gave them all a sheet of paper and Crayons and asked them to draw pictures."

Marshall thumbs through a notebook of those pictures as she talks, and her voice cracks.

"They don't have paper very often, and they don't have crayons, and you would think they would have wanted to take their pictures home to their moms, but they all lined up and gave them to me. A million dollars could not buy these pictures," she said, but adds, "well, it could because then I could use the money for medical needs."

Those needs include about 1,500 nets that are desperately needed to help prevent malaria, one of the biggest health threats, and killers, in the village. Marshall has been shopping around for the nets and estimates they will cost about $6 each.

In addition to providing them, she also wants to provide training in how to use them and the insecticide that must be applied to them.

It was shortly after that last trip that Marshall started Healthier Kids, a program that not only provides care, such as giving medicine for intestinal worms, but also education, because she knows that empowering the villagers with the knowledge of how to help themselves will serve them and their future generations.

"Usually, you go and you give them medicine and tell them, 'This is what you need and this is what you do,' but I wanted a relationship with them; I want to work with them to learn what they need," she said.

One simple step they could take to help prevent disease, said Marshall, is to boil their water before drinking it or cooking with it, but, surprisingly, many of them do not seem to know or understand the importance of that step.

Their water is provided two ways: either through underground pipes and hand pumps, turned on at a certain time of day, and the water is provided at a cost, or if they have no money, the children are sent to the river to collect water, often putting it into any type of container they can find. One of Marshall's pictures shows a child putting water into an empty anti-freeze jug.

Marshall said if there is disease up the river, such as cholera, it could find it's way into the river and downstream into the waiting containers of the children.

To help with education, Marshall is working on buying a speaker system that can be put up in the village, to broadcast news about what is going on in the village and to pass on news of any health concerns in neighboring villages. While she has the funds to buy the speaker system, getting the nets is going to be more difficult financially, so she hopes a July 12 fundraiser will help.

The fundraiser, to be held at the Masonic picnic grounds, will include a silent auction with several items, including handmade jewelry and pottery, face painting, a cakewalk, music by The Poor Man's Band, crafts, a huge yard sale put on by Marshall's Sunday School class, the Messengers, and the raffling off of a Boer goat, donated by her sister, who has a goat farm. Marshall said the yard sale will start at 7 a.m. and breakfast biscuits will be sold during that time.

Later in the day, hotdogs and baked goods will be available for sale, and Dennis has agreed to do some fly-casting demonstrations and a contest.

While the fundraiser is being held to raise money for the nets, just the cost of the trip, about $2,500, is enough to keep some people from going, but for Marshall, it is money well spent.

She and Dennis have, for years, sponsored a girl there, helping pay for her schooling, which is not free. Marshall said websites falsely claim the government pays for school for each child, about $100, but she said the government actually pays only about $1 per child.

Marshall isn't the only one who has been generous financially.

She tells the story of Joyce Rea, who went on the mission trip last year, and saw children in an orphanage sleeping on the floor. Rea was so upset, Marshall said, that she spent her own money to buy cots for the orphanage.

"All the people started calling her the Grandma of Ghana, and even though the trip was difficult for her, she's going back this year."

As for Marshall, when asked how long she will continue to make the trip, she replies, "I will continue to go as long as God calls me to do it. I can't imagine not going. I have to go. When I'm really tired, I think, 'What good is it?' but if it makes a difference in one kid, then it's worth it."

The Cooleemee Senior Citizens Club met June 9 in the fellowship hall of the First Baptist Church.

The meeting was called to order by the president, and was opened with prayer. The chaplain was in charge of the devotions, using Luke 9:23, "And He said to them all. If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross daily, and follow me." Prayer was said.

The minutes were read, as were the sunshine and treasurer's reports. The roll was called with nine members present. Activities taking place at Davie Senior Services were announced.

The program was a short play, "Supper With The Young-Uns" by four club members.

Two poems were read: "Getting Old" and "What Goes Around Comes Around."

The next meeting will be Monday, July 14 at 10 a.m. Everyone is welcome.

The thought for the day: "Don't just live and let live, live and help live."

Girl Raises Food For Pets

For her 8th birthday, Bridgett Tierney asked for dog food. She got 400 pounds, which Bridgett is giving to the Davie County Humane Society to feed animals at the Mocksville shelter. She also received gifts of cat litter, treats and several toys, leashes and collars. The daughter of Patty and Tim Tierney of Cornwallis Drive, Bridgett is a student at Pinebrook Elementary School. A friend, Amelia Correll, had a similar party earlier that benefited A Storehouse for Jesus. Bridgett dismissed thoughts of toys and games for herself to benefit the animals.

Senior Services Honors Volunteers

The Polka Dots provide entertainment for the volunteer banquet.

Volunteers and guests enjoy the program at Davie Senior Services.

Davie County Senior Services held its annual Volunteer Appreciation Dinner on June 19.

This event is Senior Services way of saying thank you to all those who volunteer at the center.

The evening started with a meal of fried chicken, mashed potatoes and green beans catered by Sagebrush of Mocksville. Senior Services provided homemade banana pudding made by staff.

Following dinner, the volunteers were entertained by the Polka Dots, a polka band from Salisbury led by Lorna Brown.

Following the entertainment the volunteers were recognized by Kim Shuskey, director of Senior Services.

"Everywhere I go people ask me how such a small county can do so many programs and services," Shuskey said. "This room full of volunteers is the only way we are able to accomplish so much."

Kelly Stellato, program and outreach coordinator stated, "The attendees enjoyed the music immensely and the feedback I have received has been positive."

More than 200 people attended. "I spent a great afternoon enjoying dinner and the wonderful music of the Polka Dots," stated volunteer Joyce Peak. Each volunteer received a gift from Senior Services.

"Volunteers are extremely important to us here at Senior Services. We value them immensely. We have programs that rely immeasurably on volunteers," said Beth Haire, administrative assistant. "For example: the homebound meal drivers. We have 85 people in Davie County on homebound meals. We must have eight drivers per day to fill the eight homebound meal routes."

Senior Services has many opportunities for those interested in volunteering.

"As a volunteer at Senior Services I enjoy working at the front desk a couple afternoons each month," said Pat Sherman. "I also enjoy talking to the people that come in to take advantage of everything the center has to offer. In addition to working at the front desk, I am a member of the Davie County Singing Seniors. We go to area nursing homes and sing for the residents. It's a good feeling to see their faces light up with joy while we sing to them."

Senior Services believes in showing appreciation to all their volunteers. Giving your time to help others is such a selfless act, Shuskey said.

To volunteer, call 753-6230 for more information.

Protect Your Pets From Summer's Heat

Here are some pet summer safety tips from the Humane Society of Davie County:

• Never leave your pet in a car. Parking in the shade and leaving the windows open is not an option. In a hot car, your pet's temperature can rise rapidly. It only takes minutes to reach dangerous levels leading to heatstroke and death.

• Always make sure your pet has cool, clean water available. Dogs, and even cats, drink more on hot days, and water warms up quickly.

• Do not force your dog into the water if he/she is frightened. Some dogs do not like to swim. If your dog likes to swim, do not leave him/her unattended. Bathe your dog afterwards to remove all sand, mud, and chlorine. Also, be sure all pool chemicals are stored safely out of reach.

• Do not allow your dog to hang out of the window of a moving car. Objects such as rocks or tree limbs could seriously injure your pet, or he/she might fall or jump out.

• Do not allow your animals to ride in the back of a pick-up truck. They could be thrown out, or they may jump out.

• Take your pets inside if there is the possibility of a thunderstorm. Loud thunder may frighten them, or lightning could strike them.

• Do not walk your dog near fireworks. Besides the obvious danger, the noise can be scary.

• Have your dog checked for heartworm, and administer a heartworm preventative.

• Check your pet daily for fleas and ticks. Talk to a veterinarian about preventing these insects.

• If your pet likes to relax in the shade of a yard or deck, watch out for yellow jackets, bees, toads, and snakes. Bite or sting symptoms are usually swelling of the face or affected areas. Once stung or bitten, the pet's skin may start to look wrinkly or bumpy. This is a first indicator and if not treated by a veterinarian could result in death due to toxins taking over and shutting down the animal's body or causing airway swelling and suffocation.

• Know the signs of heat stress. In these warm summer months it is best to be aware of the signs of heat stress by exposure to extreme temperatures. Check the animal for signs of heavy panting, glazed eyes, a rapid heartbeat, restlessness, excessive thirst, lethargy, fever, dizziness, lack of coordination, profuse salivation, vomiting, a deep red or purple tongue, and unconsciousness.

If your pet is overheating...

• Move your pet into the shade or an air-conditioned area.

• Apply ice packs or cold towels to your pet's head, neck, and chest or immerse him in cool (not cold) water.

• Let your pet drink small amounts of cool water or lick ice cubes.

• Take your pet to a veterinarian.

Rachel Dunn, the HSDC Adoption Center coordinator, asks everyone to come by the no-kill facility at 290 Eaton Road, Mocksville, to see the dogs available for adoption. It is open on Mondays by appointment only (751-5214), Tuesdays 11 a.m.-7 p.m., Wednesdays-Fridays 11 a.m.-5 p.m., Saturdays 10 a.m.-2 p.m .and closed Sundays.

Everette Glasscock and the display of flags and tractors he sets up in his yard get quite an amount of attention. Almost all are worked on his farm.

Sheffield-Calahaln News

By Janice Jordan
Sheffield-Calahaln Correspondent

While hundreds of people participated in the Piedmont Antique Power Association festivities July 3-4 at the Masonic Picnic Grounds, others in our community found their own way to commemorate our nation's birthday.

Everette Glasscock's annual display of tractors lined up in his yard with United States flags attached and waving are a community tradition. Seven Farmalls sat proudly this year on the Fourth of July, and were positioned from the smallest cub to the big model 400. An accomplished carpenter by trade, who stays busy in the community because people know his good work, Everette also can be found at Ijames Baptist Church, and is a supporter of the Center Volunteer Fire Department.

Everette's tractors are all the original red color, and he started out with an H Farmall that his father, Marshall Everette Glasscock Sr., bought new in March of 1944 from Rankin Sanford in Mocksville. However, Everette denies that he collects tractors, claiming instead that they just find their way to him. The smallest one that he has is a McCormick Farmall Cub, but it isn't the original Cub that his dad once used. That one wasn't big enough at the time, and Marshall bought the 1976 International Farmall 140 from James Truck and Tractor in Statesville. This was after horses were no longer used for their farm work. The 140 is used by Everette to mow his yard and that of his daughter, Marsha Alexander, who lives nearby, plus other yards in the neighborhood from time to time.

Everette had wanted a model 300 for quite a while, and finally found just what he was looking for over in Davidson County at Reed's Crossroads. Sitting for years without any loving attention, and full of mud daubers, the tractor was brought to Everette's home. After a good cleaning and some long overdue maintenance, it worked like a charm, and looked surprisingly good. With a three-point hitch conversion added, it is one of the workhorses that Everette uses for farm chores. In fact, out of the collection, I mean group, only the big model 400 is basically for show. All the others have to earn their keep. Well, the H isn't used so much now, and there are no plans to ever sell it, since it was his father's. Mr. Glasscock Sr. died a few years ago after more than 100 active years of life, leaving quite a legacy for his son and the rest of their family.

There were also a Super C and an M that were sitting lined up in Everette's yard with the others, and I can't say how often they see duty around the place. His wife, Brenda seems to take it all in stride, and kept a watchful eye as Everette moved each one back under cover temporarily on Friday due to the threat of storms in the area. But the tractors were back in formation on Saturday morning for a final day of viewing before they were returned to their garages. Once in a while somebody who is just passing through will stop to take a photograph and to ask questions about the tractors. Apparently people who live inside some city limits rarely see this type of Independence Day display. In the country, we like this kind of tradition and appreciate the efforts of those who take the time to add to our celebrations.

Last week Jimmy Mattox was featured. In addition to being appreciated for all the ways he participates in activities at his New Union United Methodist Church, he is kidded about his fondness for eating out in restaurants. Most dining establishment owners in Davie County know him by sight, but I have included his photo this week so that anyone who spots him when he is out for a meal will recognize him. Also, I hope he is feeling in great shape now, as he spent last Tuesday night in the hospital.

On Saturday, Dennis and Yvonne Ijames with their daughter Suzonne and son-in-law, Mike spent the day at Lake Hickory. Hosting the gathering at their home were Garrett and Beth Hinshaw, who entertained approximately 40 family members and friends. Everyone enjoyed swapping stories, and were thrilled to watch about an inch of rain come down. Reba McInnis of the Ijames Crossroads community joined in the fun.

New Union United Methodist Church honored two high school graduates from its congregation. Presented Bibles from the church were Leigh Reavis and Caleb Anderson. They received heartfelt congratulations and best wishes for their future from everyone there.

Ijames Baptist Church members Randy and Melissa Davis had an experience recently that any parent would hope to avoid. Their 14-year-old daughter Ashley had a severe headache for a few days, and ended up in the hospital for tests. The diagnosis finally was made and confirmed a bacterial infection in the brain. The doctors have no way of knowing exactly how the bacteria could have entered her body, and speculated that it may have happened a few days earlier when braces were being applied to her teeth, but that it really could have occurred in any other number of ways. As frightening as that may sound, Ashley is being medically treated, but was well enough to join her family at Sunday's church services. She is expected to recover completely. Her family would like to thank everyone for their concern.

Tammy Beck has been battling pneumonia for the last few weeks, and although she has been struggling to regain her strength, she is improving.

A host of family and friends gathered last week to pay tribute to family patriarch, Monzy Dyson, who died on June 29 at the age of 101. His children who survive him are Leroy Dyson, Jimmy Dyson, Carl Dyson, Dorothy Stokes, and Melba Feimster. Dorothy lives in eastern Davie, and the rest all still live in Sheffield. With 11 grandchildren, 18 great-grandchildren, 8 great-great-grandchildren, and many nieces and nephews, you can imagine what a magnificent family he leaves behind. Many heart-warming and sometimes comical memories were shared at the funeral services, led by grandson-in-law the Rev. Wayne Swisher and New Union's minister, Dr. David Cunha. Physically active and mentally on his game until the last few months of life, Monzy was a well-known personality to nearly everyone in the area, and he will be long remembered.

Farmington News

By Laura Mathis
Farmington Correspondent

On June 23-25, the Davie County 4-H and Master Gardeners sponsored the Junior Master Gardener Camp. The group met at the Farmington Community Center, where they enjoyed some activities, but then headed out to seek out other adventures.

They visited the Woosley Farm, a small family farm in the countryside of Forsyth County, to learn about animals, plants, and living in the 1800s.

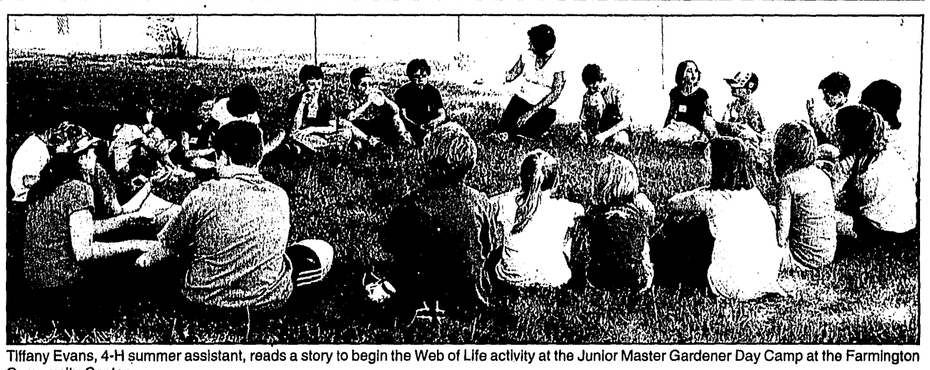

They toured Vulcan Materials and fished at Tanglewood. Some of their projects included; learning about honeybees, Insect Safari and making hats, bird houses, worm bins, tie-dye shirts and more.

The group also worked on several community service projects, some of which were at the Farmington Community Center. They pulled weeds, spruced up the senior garden with a new bird house, and planted corn and sunflowers to keep the scarecrow company.

There were 24, third-sixth graders who attended the camp. Filling the kids' week with lots of projects, field trips, and learning sessions took a lot of dedicated volunteers. The place w busy with 4-H and Master Gardener volunteers, before the kids showed up and well after they had left. We appreciate all of the hard work from these volunteers and from the staff of the Davie Cooperative Extension, to make this camp fun, educational, and available for the youth in our area.

Maria Newsome will be hosting a yard sale to raise money to go toward a new playground for the Farmington Community Center. The date will be announced soon, but get busy now, cleaning out those closets and setting things aside that can be sold at the yard sale. You can also help by dropping off your old ink cartridges and cell phones at the Farmington Beauty Shop. These can be recycled into cash that will also go toward a new playground.

What a great July 4th in Kinderton.

There were lots of homes decorated, lots of family, many friends, and most of all, the fun had at the Kinderton July 4th Bicycle Parade. The watermelon and flavored ice pops, and cookies were great. The cookies were excellent, just ask John Harrison Kiger.

We thank those who participated in the parade: Naesu Fowler, Marley Fowler, Hunter Testa, James Rhile, Sammy Rhile, Kristen Dwyer, Alec Harden, John Harrison Kiger, Ethan Price, Mia Foster, Ella Bowman, Mason Fowler, Howard Rhile, Brandon Dwyer, Caitie Anderson, Abby Hines, Nathan Hines, Maggie Bowman, Isiac Bowman, and Robert Bowman.

Kinderton residents would like to thank the volunteers on the events committee that helped organize the parade and refreshments. Also, thanks to those who attended to celebrate with us.

The Lunch Buddies gathering was great. It was held June 19 at Venezia Italian Family Restaurant with 15 in attendance. Thanks to Theresa Huddleston for organizing the meeting at another good place with lots of good food.

Great development is happening in the area. Please stay safe with the opening of the new traffic pattern on Hwy 801 near I-40 this week.

The fourth is a happy time.

Advance News

By Edith Zimmerman

There will be a covered dish dinner Sunday July 13th at the Advance United Methodist Church fellowship hall to welcome the new pastor, the Rev. Cheryl Skinner and her husband, the Rev. Kirk Tutterow. Everyone is invited to come and meet the newcomers.

Many visitors attended the worship service at church Sunday.

John Farley of Arlington, Va. spent the holiday weekend with his grandmother, Edith Zimmerman. John came home from Afghanistan and Iraq in April and will return to Iraq July 21 for his second tour of duty. He attended church with his grandmother Sunday and was wished well by many of the congregation.

Melissa Hendrix Barnum has returned from a months stay in Costa Rica where she advanced her Spanish language. She traveled with a group from Catawba College.

Mona Potts has returned from a two-week Mediterranean cruise. She went with Diane and Wiley Burns of Bermuda Run West who are directors of Sun Burst Cruise and Travel. Kathy Reed was Mona's traveling companion. The group of 40 people flew to Venice, Italy and had a two-day tour before boarding their ship 'Summit' of the Celebrity Cruise Line. Mona and Kathy were joined by Linda Robinson there who is a flight attendant for U.S. Air. The group sailed to Dubrovik, Croatia spending a day there. The old city was once walled and much of the original wall remains. Mona climbed on parts of the old wall. From there they went to Santorini, Greece where at one time all the houses were painted white with blue roofs, now only the churches have blue roofs. In Athens, Greece they saw all the ancient Greek buildings on the Acropolis on which the Parthenon was built. From Athens the group went to Naples, Italy and enjoyed a drive along the Amalfi coastline which is winding with breathtaking views. At one point between two cities they visited was 1,065 turns. Next port of call was the Vatacin, Sistine Chapel, Trevi Fountain, St. Peter's Square, and the Colosseum in Rome. In Florence, Italy they saw the Leaning Tower of Pisa and had lunch in the city plus a walking tour. Next port of call was Nice, France and from there to Monaco where they saw the Castle where Princess Grace and Prince Rainer are buried. Then on to the Monte Carlo Casino which happened to be closed at this time, much to the disappointment of everyone. Last port of call was Barcelona, Spain. Mona and Kathy left the group at this point and went on a bus tour to the mountains in northeastern Spain, 40 miles out of Barcelona, where the Montserrat Monastery is located. The rugged mountain height is 4,058 feet. The group flew out of Barcelona on their homebound trip.

Get well wishes go out to Quincy Cornatzer who was injured in a freak tractor accident last week and has undergone major surgery at Forsyth Medical Center for an intestinal puncture. He hopes to come home this week.

County Line News

By Shirley Thorne
County Line Correspondent

Our community has been blessed with recent rains; the flowers have perked up and the berries have become fuller and juicier. The afternoon and evening rains did put a slight damper on church picnics and backyard cookouts over the holiday weekend.

Despite gas prices at four dollars per gallon, many County Liners enjoyed trips to our beautiful Carolina beaches. A few folks ventured to far away places. Betty and Lawrence Cartner visited relatives in West Virginia; Danny and Julie Cartner and family visited relatives in Long Island, N.Y. Our community has been blessed in that all folks whether they traveled near or far have reportedly had safe trips.

The United Methodist Men of Salem will meet for breakfast and prayer at 7:30 a.m. Sunday, July 13, in the fellowship hall. Jack Koontz will share pictures of his recent mission trip to Alaska. The men invite others to join them for the meeting.

Salem will have a "Meet the Pastor" fellowship at 9 a.m. Sunday in the fellowship hall. Enjoy donuts and coffee while getting to know Salem's new pastor, the Rev. Robin Fitzgerald. Then stay for worship at 9:30 a.m. followed by Sunday school at 10:30 a.m.

The Youth of Society Baptist Church will sponsor a spaghetti dinner immediately following the 11 a.m. worship service Sunday, July 13, in the fellowship hall. The menu will include spaghetti, tossed salad, dessert, bread, and drink, eat in or take out. Just make a donation and eat until your tummy says, "Please, no more." All proceeds will benefit the youth summer camp trip expenses. Enjoy a delicious Sunday dinner and fellowship with friends and neighbors.

The Kappa ECA will meet at 7 p.m. Tuesday, July 15, at the Davie Academy Building on Mr. Henry Road. Sarah Koontz will host the meeting and will lead the program. Club members invite others for an informative home and family program followed by fellowship and refreshments.

Piney Grove AME Zion Church will have Vacation Bible School Wednesday, July 16-Friday, July 18. The theme of the school is "The Creation." Classes for children of all ages will begin at 6:30 p.m. each day and will include Bible study, crafts, music, games, and refreshments. All children are invited.

Upcoming community events include a "Kids' Day Out" Thursday, July 24, at Clarksbury United Methodist Church; a V-Point Ruritan country ham and sausage breakfast from 6-10 a.m. Saturday, Aug. 2, at the V-Point Building on Old Mocksville Road; and the annual community veterans' supper Monday, August 4, at the V-point Building.

The past year the College and Career Class of Clarksbury United Methodist Church has been raising money for a class mission trip to Romania. Wednesday, July 10, the class will leave for a 10-day trip to Teliu, Romania. The class will be doing building and evangelism. Those going include Bobby, Edna, and Kurt Anderson; Brenda Bell; Jason Faulkner; Laura Beth Galliher; Seth and Cheryl Hathcock; Cindy Heath; Bridgett Hutchens; Josh and Colby Lewis; and Ashton Welborn. Please pray for their safe travel to Romania and while there. Also, pray that many people will come to know the Lord Jesus Christ as their personal Savior.

We send get-well wishes to Libby Blair and Peggy Winfrey. Libby Blair, wife of the Rev. Stephen Blair, has been in the hospital for back surgery at Wake Forest University Baptist Medical Center. Peggy had to have emergency treatment after being bitten by a brown recluse spider. Bueford Lambert has improved but remains at Iredell Memorial Hospital. Ruth Kimmer remains in serious condition at Lexington. Please join us as we pray for the Lord's divine healing and blessings in the lives of Libby, Peggy, Bueford, and Ruth. Also, continue to remember in prayer those who are having outpatient treatment and those who have recently had loved ones to die.

If you have news or memories to share, please call Shirley at 492-5115 or email sdtlink@hotmail.com.

Society Receives Grant

Humane Society of Davie County was selected to receive a grant from the American Humane Association's Meacham Foundation Memorial.

The society received $2,470 to purchase durable Kuranda pet beds for use in its no-kill pet adoption center at 290 Eaton Road in Mocksville.

"The Humane Society could not have purchased these pet beds without a grant, so we are thrilled to have been awarded a Meacham grant this year," says Rachel Dunn, adoption center coordinator.

The Meacham Foundation Memorial was established in 1969, in memory of Tressa Meacham, to provide financial assistance for shelter expansion or improvements that directly impact the welfare of animals in shelters. The grants, in amounts up to $4,000, are awarded each year to several animal care agencies.

To be eligible, agencies must be nonprofit, offer adoption programs and be members of American Humane. This year American Humane received more than 200 requests for assistance from organizations across the country.

Visit the Humane Society's adoption center to find a dog or cat companion for life.

Original Christianity

Putting On Christ

We become children of God by faith in Jesus Christ but not apart from putting on Christ in baptism. The two are inseparably connected in scripture: "For ye are all the children of God by faith in Christ Jesus. For as many of you as have been baptized into Christ have put on Christ." (Galatians 3:26-27)

We must never think of baptism as a mere sign or symbol but rather as the divinely appointed ordinance in which we "put on Christ." (Galatians 3:27) Just as we clothe ourselves in appropriate garments for protection from the elements, even so in Christian baptism we are clothed with Jesus Christ and thereby become partakers of his salvation.

All who "have been baptized into Christ have put on Christ" and are "children of God by faith in Jesus Christ" thereby becoming partakers of all the benefits that are found in him.

Davie Resident Receives Her Degree, Again

By Jackie Seabolt
Davie County Enterprise Record

By the age of five Alice Riley knew she wanted to be a nurse.

When she was a little girl growing up in Winston-Salem her mother bought her a nurses pinafore and a doctors kit.

Riley said that when she was five she also prayed to God and told him she was going to write a rich movie star so she could afford to go to nursing school some day.

After a visit to her aunt's home in New Jersey following her first semester in college Riley was asked by a family there if she would work one year for them taking care of their children, cooking, and cleaning. In exchange, they would pay her way through nursing school.

Now Riley is 57 and a long time resident of Davie County.

She did reach her dream to become a nurse after graduating in the first four-year class of nursing at North Carolina Central University in 1974.

Recently, she received her second degree in paralegal technology from Davidson County Community College.

But the road through life and careers has been sometimes difficult, although Riley says she never gave up.

"This is a journey. I just didn't wake up one day and go back to college and graduate. I'm not even supposed to be alive. It had to take one thing to lead to another."

Riley was involved in a car accident that left her with severe back and neck injuries.

Her nursing career was halted when she was told she would never be able to do bedside nursing again.

The accident, coupled with multiple surgeries, including a brain surgery for a pituitary tumor, left Riley unable to work.

But during her difficult time Riley found comfort in her church and faith in God.

She received her certificate to become an evangelist in January 1999 at New Shepherd Baptist Church.

"I am a representative for Jesus everywhere I go."

Riley returned to college at DCCC through a vocational rehabilitation program and she has set her sights high for the future.

She wants to use her associates of applied science degree as a paralegal as a specialist in the field of occupational health and safety.

Riley says her nursing degree still means the most to her because it represents a dream she fulfilled.

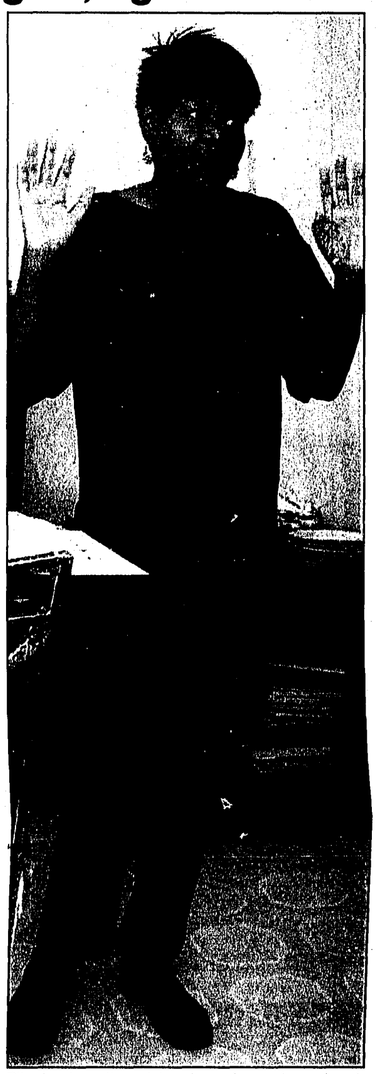

"I'm 57 and I'll be 58 in September. I have remained in Davie County because of the love everyone here shows."

Riley says she often applies scripture to her daily life and uses her faith in God to help keep her strong.

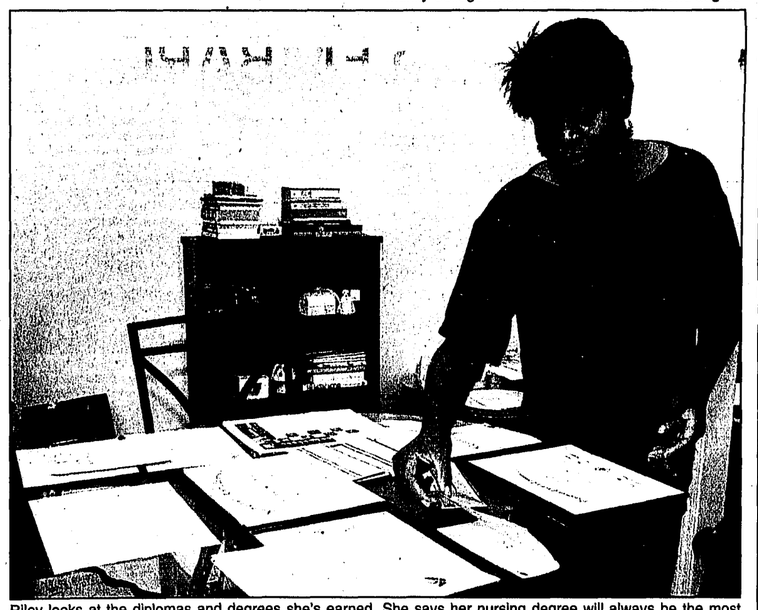

"If you can't find laughter in the insaneness of your life, it will be a sad day all day. For the sake of peace, let it pass."

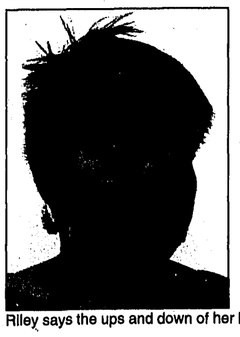

Riley smiles as she models her cap and gown she wore at the May 13 commencement at Davidson County Community College where she received her second degree.

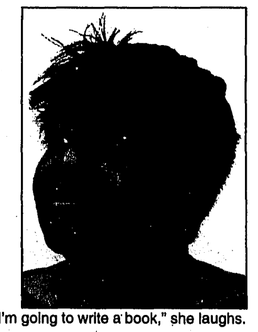

Riley has been through her share of surgeries and credits her faith in Jesus for helping her get through them.

Riley looks at the diplomas and degrees she's earned. She says her nursing degree will always be the most special to her and she wants to use her new degree to continue in a field that helps people.

Riley says the ups and down of her life's story is one she wants to share. "I'm going to write a book," she laughs.

Riley spent years as a nurse until a car accident left her unable to continue the work. - Photos by Robin Snow

Camp Trains JROTC Cadets

From the obstacle course to the volleyball court, from the rappel tower to Cadet American Idol, with lots more training and fun in between, the cadets of Davie High School enjoyed an action-packed, five day Junior Cadet Leadership Challenge (JCLC) among the stately trees and gentle hills of Oak Ridge Military Academy (ORMA) June 16-20.

A cadre composed of their normal JROTC instructors, along with a group of volunteer chaperones, and 160 cadets provided a week of training, teamwork and camaraderie which the cadets will not soon forget. Cadet's Brittany Dykes, Caleb Humphrey, Katelin Starre, Samantha Ledbetter, Travis Smith, Nicholas Anders, Andrew Olson, Jenny Bruce, and Anthony Donati of Davie High school JROTC deployed to ORMA on Monday, June 16, with high expectations and visions of individual prowess during the days to come.

Tuesday morning started early with a 5:30 wake up call from the friendly TACs and a 6 a.m. physical fitness test comprising push-ups, sit-ups and a one-mile run – all before breakfast.

After a meal at ORMA's dining facility, the battalion of cadets, who were organized into standard Army companies of platoons and squads, began their training day. The organization gave opportunities for many cadets to hone their leadership skills as squad leaders, platoon sergeants, platoon leaders, company first sergeants, executive officers, commanders and, for an elite few, battalion command sergeants major, executive officers and commanders. By rotating these positions frequently, a large number of cadets got to serve and learn in leadership positions.

The training day saw the companies involved in character-building, teamwork-enhancing activities such as the aforementioned obstacle course and 60-foot rappel tower in addition to land navigation, a one-rope bridge exercise, drown proofing techniques, and basic rifle marksmanship with pellet rifles.

The day concluded with guest speakers, including Dr. Robert Landry, Davie Schools superintendent, who emphasized the importance of education, character, and enthusiasm.

Approximately 200 cadets, cadre, and chaperones attended the camp, with Colonel Terry Hales, Davie High School JROTC serving as the camp commander.

Evenings found the companies competing in volleyball, dodge ball, and a drill and ceremony knockout competition and culminating in the Cadet American Idol talent search. Cadets sang, danced, and performed step-dance routines, skits, stand up comedy and even a soccer skills demonstration for the panel of three judges.

At Friday morning's graduation ceremony, company, team and individual competition winners were announced.

DHS Cadet's Caleb Humphrey was presented a trophy for being selected as the Distinguished Honor Graduate along with Anthony Donati receiving a trophy for overall physical fitness.

"All cadets received certificates for completing JCLC, and then wound their ways home, weary from training, marching, cleaning the barracks and the inevitable push ups, but with buoyed spirits, a sense of accomplishment and valuable life lessons," Hales said.

Davie Schools superintendent, Dr. Robert Landry, talks to the cadets about the importance of education. Davie High JROTC instructor Col. Terry Hales listens.

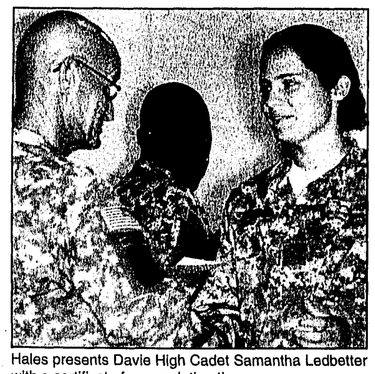

A friendly game of dodge ball keeps the cadets busy.

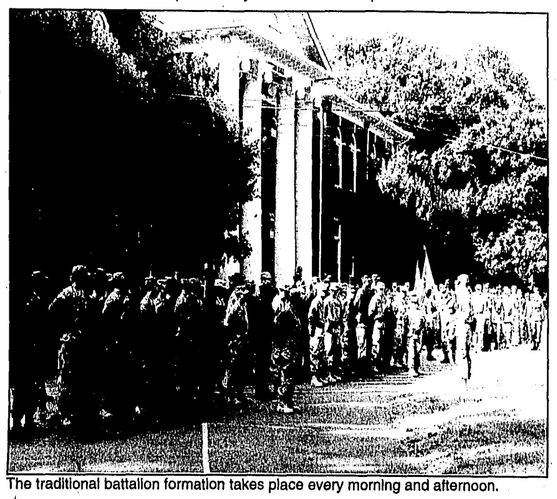

Hales presents Davie High Cadet Andrew Olson with a certificate for completing the camp.

Cadets are trained in weapons safety and marksmanship.

Hales presents Davie High Cadet Samantha Ledbetter with a certificate for completing the camp.

The traditional battalion formation takes place every morning and afternoon.

Hales presents Davie High Cadet Katelin Starre with a certificate for completing the camp.

Walkable Bermuda Run Plan Draws Criticism

By Jackie Seabolt
Davie County Enterprise Record

BERMUDA RUN - A revised plan for building sidewalks was presented at the town board's monthly meeting last week.

The plan for sidewalks, bike lanes, and shared use paths is being called a "Walkable Bermuda Run."

During the public comments portion of the meeting former resident Bill Burnette told council members that he opposes the plan. "I oppose council that is voted on inside the fence who can impose requirements on people outside the fence that can cause them financial hurt."

More than a dozen residents who live outside the gates of BR in the ETJ were present to show their opposition to the plan.

ETJ (extra territorial jurisdiction) is the one mile area beyond Bermuda Run's corporate limits in which it may enforce land use regulations including zoning, subdivision regulation, and building inspections.

Realtor Marcia Barney told the council that residents in the ETJ should be able to give more input on the plan. "My concerns are the effect to ETJ residents and developers who may want to develop. Before this plan is presented it needs to go to a committee for further study."

Some of Barney's concerns were the large size of the sidewalks and the pre-requirement of the sidewalks, buffer areas, and bike zones prior to any site plans for future development of the ETJ area; decreased land values due to increased regulations that would incur additional costs for developers; and the fact that it is a public walkable plan which still allows a major portion of the community to be an exclusionary fenced-in area not accessible to the public.

Mayor John Ferguson told those in attendance, "Don't be confused by the fence. We could annex outside the fence. I didn't make the rules. If it was up to me the ETJ would have a vote. All this council

Schools OK New Dress Code

By Beth Cassidy
Davie County Enterprise Record

The Board of Education adopted a countywide dress code for K-12 students at a meeting last week.

The new policy was adopted unanimously in an effort "to develop a more detailed dress code and procedures for violation."

In the past, most dress code policy was set by individual principals, but one parent, whose daughter was cited for a top the administration considered inappropriate, urged the board months ago to consider adopting a policy for the entire county.

For K-5 students, the code states, 'All clothing, skirts, shorts, dresses are of an appropriate length when the wearer stands with arms at his or her sides and the clothing falls lower than the wearer's fingertips. Pants, shorts, skirts must be secured at the waist, and there may be no holes in clothing above the knee."

Read the entire policy

Back to School Information

Undergarments are not to be visible, shoes must be worn at all times, and no shoes with wheels are allowed.

"Clothing must overlap at the waist at all times. A neckline is considered appropriate when it does not fall below the student's 4-closed finger horizontal hand when placed at the base of the neck. Any apparel which may be considered sexually, culturally or institutionally offensive as deemed by administration will not be allowed. Administrators may use their discretion in addressing dress code issues which go beyond the dress code articulated above but believe the dress code issue significantly violates the intent of the policy."

The dress code for middle- and high-schoolers is similar, in terms of necklines, no holes in clothing above the knee, no visible undergarments, lengths of all clothing, shoes, and apparel being deemed inappropriate.

Those students may not wear hats, bandanas, sunglasses or head coverings during the school day and may not carry them. They are not allowed to wear outwear, "such as bulky overcoats or raincoats."

Clothing for those students must overlap at the waist, and all clothing must have sleeves.

"A student who is not in compliance with this policy or school dress code shall be given a reasonable period of time to make adjustments so that he or she will be in compliance. Failure to comply shall result in the student being removed from school until his or her appearance or clothing meets school system policy or rules. The student's parent or guardian shall be notified prior to any such removal."

The policy will be posted no later than Aug. 25 on the website, www.davie.k12.nc.us under the button 2008-2009 Back to School Information for Students/Parents.

Frye Says No To Board Appointments

If you want Johnny Frye to serve on a board, at least ask him first.

The county commissioner last week turned a routine appointment of county residents to various boards into a stalemate when he asked that his name be removed from appointments to the Northwest Job Training Consortium and the Northwest Piedmont Rural Planning Organization.

"I was not asked or told by anyone," Frye said, as Commission Chair Tom Fleming tried to get passage of "consent" items on the agenda, ones that rarely cause discussion and even rarer - controversy.

When Fleming asked for volunteers for those appointments among the board members - he got none.

Frye also objected to the appointment of Chad Bomar of Oak Valley to the Davie County Social Services Board. "Why not appoint someone from this part of the county?" Frye asked.

Richard Poindexter, county commissioner and chair of the social services board, objected to Frye's reasoning. The board, he said, has members from all areas of the county - from Fork to Cooleemee, from William R. Davie to Mocksville - but none from eastern Davie.

Bomar was placed on the social services board on a 4-1 vote. Bomar unsuccessfully sought nomination for a seat on the county commission, and Frye lost his bid for re-election in primary elections earlier this year.

Proud grandpa Dwight Sparks with Cayden Delaney Sparks.

Birth Of Granddaughter Signals New Generation

We raced up Interstate 95 last week to meet our new granddaughter, all six pounds of her.

A new heiress has been born. Cayden Delaney Sparks.

I think she liked her grandpa. She even sneezed as I held her close and made introductions.

I looked into those tiny eyes and found part of myself jumping the chasm to a new generation through this tiny standard bearer of the family honor. A short 27 years ago I was in my son's role. With his generation come of age, I watched with pride as Paul changed and swaddled his newborn and kept close watch over new mother Susan. Together, they spent the sleep-deprived nights in the hospital and built their family.

The details: Born 9:05 p.m. July 8, 2008, in Anne Arundel Hospital, Annapolis, Md. Six pounds, nine ounces. Parents Paul and Susan Delaney Sparks. Maternal grandparents, Charles and Becky Delaney of Advance; paternal grandparents, Dwight and Elizabeth Sparks and the late Mary Buker Sparks.

Cayden cried with vigor and volume. She nursed hungrily, and she made us proud.

She timed her arrival with the newspaper's schedule. I finished up Tuesday well before deadline and took off.

We slid into Annapolis an hour before the birth.

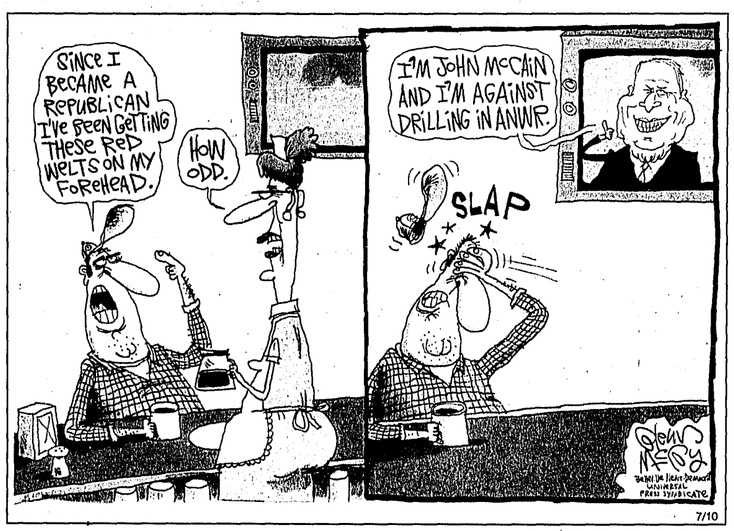

As I had often heard, grandparenthood really is a lot easier than being the parent. We lounged in the hospital lobby during the birth, oblivious to what was happening upstairs. We went in an hour later, after the action was over and Susan had drifted into a sweet repose.

Since their marriage, I have wondered what their child would look like. Cayden is beautiful, as I had always suspected.

And small.

I often forget how small newborns can be — how tiny their fingers and toes actually are.

I examined her closely, and she passed every inspection. She is an A-plus baby.

County Should Be Thankful For Dragway

To the editor:

This letter is in reference to the letters in the July 3 issue: Letter About Smokeout Not True and Smokeout Shouldn't Be Allowed. First, I'm sure the people who wrote the letters weren't even present at the event they were writing about. That being said, they had no business writing about something they didn't witness, only hearsay and gossip. As far as the owner of the dragstrip making money, he was not the only person who made money, every single person in Davie County benefited from the revenue which came in from that rally, as well as every other event ever held there. By the way, the track opened 45 years ago; that is a lot of benefit.

I don't live in Davie County any more (thank God), but I lived there a long time. I worked at Farmington Dragway in 1979, 1980 and 1981 as their public relations person and reporter. I have books and books full of the stories I wrote about the track and its racers and employees and fans, not only for the Enterprise Record, but for newspapers all across the south. I went on to publish a drag racing magazine that was sent to subscribers around the world and was privileged to have attended hundreds, maybe as many as a thousand races at Farmington, with my three daughters, including at least one motorcycle race. I have pictures of all my daughters at the dragway before they were even six months old beginning in 1963. I met Don Plemmons at the track even before I worked there and have known him all those years. If any church, children's organization, youth group or any charitable organization were to ask Don for his help, I have no doubt he would bend over backward to do anything they ask, including loaning them the use of the track and its facilities. I don't think there is anyone in the entire county with whom he wouldn't try to work.

After all, this is his business and there are a lot of people who depend on him for their very lives and the lives of their families. I am sure he would never do anything intentionally to hurt any of those people. I see the intelligence quotient of some of Davie County's residents hasn't improved much over the years - even though the physical aspects of the county itself have grown by leaps and bounds. I wouldn't doubt some of the same people who were trying to close the track in 1980 are some of the same people they're having trouble with now. You people should be very grateful to have a sports complex like Farmington Dragway in your county, especially now, with tax revenues down and people losing their jobs because of the economy. Why aren't you asking Don Plemmons (who actually has been racing at Farmington since it opened) what you can do to help keep him in business for a change instead of doing everything you can to close the track and put so many more people out of work?

If you can show me one public place which has never had any problems with people, you may have a legitimate gripe. But you can't do that. As far as the sheriff's department is concerned, sometimes you just can't hire enough good men to fill those jobs. But for the past 45 years, lots of deputies have been able to keep their jobs because they got to work extra hours at the track because it was bringing in the money it takes to pay their salaries. Someone told me a long time ago, "People may just think you're stupid until you start talking (or writing, as the case may be) but when you start, you just prove it to them." Think before you speak (or write), especially when it is something you don't really know anything about. And call Don Plemmons and tell him thanks for having a successful business in Davie County and apologize for giving him so much grief.

Becky White, Lincolnton

Newspaper Displayed Drinking, Nudity

To the editor:

Obviously, Mike Swaney doesn't read everything in the newspaper or he himself would've seen the beer flowing and the nude women on the back page of the Davie County Enterprise Record. I was not at the rally. I didn't need to be. The pictures that this really great newspaper thought they had to splay all over the back told enough. I had to turn to the back page real quick to see what my 6-year-old son was squinting so hard at to see. Couldn't whoever puts this paper together show any better judgement than to put it on the back? Nude women standing in front of men with their tongues hanging out. Some even had the beer in their hands (same picture). I'm sure some of Davie County's finest were included in that crowd and couldn't get past what they were seeing to do anything about it.

And, yes, Mike Swaney, when business owners and people in any county would rather make the money off of people getting drunk instead of any other venue not as harmful, then, yes, it is evil. Money is the root of all evil, don't you know this? It doesn't matter who you were talking to, people were drinking. And everyone is aware of the dangers of such behavior. Isn't it the start of why so many people end up in jail and breaking laws to begin with?

As for the rally, it might have been a huge success with or without the beer. It could've brought in much needed money anyway. Now, we'll never know. This society has lost the care that we once had for our brothers. "Do not cause your brother to fall..." "And the greatest commandment of all ... Love your neighbor as yourself"

Linda didn't need to show whoever you are any evidence. The paper had it all.

Missing Man Found

To the editor:

There is an update on John Wrenn Cook. Late Sunday night, July 13, we, the family of John Cook, got the news that he was found and taken to a Raleigh hospital where he is being stabilized for his health conditions. Bless God for answered prayers.

It has been a difficult, sad and trying time for all who know John and soon he will be home and reunited with my sister, Cathy. John has been missing since June 16 and his condition can best be described as a form of temporary amnesia controlled by medication. The day he went missing he was on a simple errand for his mom and expected to return home the same day. Little is known fully of disassociation disorder. The public needs to understand what it does to an individual who has it; and to the families that live with it. It takes a lot of love and courage for one not to give up on a person and to let that person live their life. In this, I commend my sister highly for allowing my nephew freedoms ,it blesses my heart; however, it does sometimes come with a cost; emotional, spiritual, and physical. Some people draw closer to God as others draw apart during life's trials. I believe we as a family during this sad, scary, trying time of not knowing where or what happen to John has brought us learning, and closer to God and closer to each other throughout the crisis. Our faith has been tested.

I want to say thank you on behalf of my entire family to the Mocksville Police department, and to all the people everywhere for your prayers, compassion, concern, and search in bringing Johnny home.

Firefighters Work Hard

To the editor:

We are writing this letter to thank all the fire departments and emergency personnel that responded to our barn fire in Lone Hickory Monday night, July 7. Thanks to the Lone Hickory, William R. Davie, Courtney, and Yadkinville fire departments and the Yadkin County Rescue Squad, EMS and sheriff's department. We are so thankful for their quick response and even though they were unable to save the barn and shop, their actions did manage to keep the fire from spreading to our home and other shed.

You never really can comprehend or appreciate how much courage these firefighters have and how hard they work until you see them in action. Words cannot adequately express our gratitude towards them and also to all the friends and neighbors that have offered help and have kept us in their thoughts and prayers. We lost a lot of history and sentimental items in that barn but thank the Lord, no one was injured and we still have our home. We appreciate all the thoughts and prayers.

Jones Family Thankful For Caring Community

To the editor:

My words cannot begin to express our gratitude to the people in Davie County. My husband was on his way to work on July 6 and was involved in a serious automobile accident. I wish I knew everyone who came out to the scene, so we could thank each one in person. But we don't know the names of everyone who came out, so instead of naming them individually we want to thank them all in this letter.

I know that my husband is very lucky to be alive today. He is recovering at home now and thank God, his injuries should heal and he will be back to normal. The whole time he was in the hospital he was worried about our daughter who has been ill with a digestive tract disorder (among other things) since January of this year. She is still being seen by doctors at Brenner's Children Hospital. So for him to be home means a lot to his family.

We want to thank everyone who was involved with the benefit lunch. We want to thank everyone who donated anything to the benefit. We also want to thank all of the people who called, sent cards, and came to the hospital and our home to visit. You are all very special to us.

You know, I have always heard that God doesn't put more on you than you can handle. Well, all I can say is He must think that we are very strong, but then again I think He knows that when our load gets too heavy, we have friends like all of you to help us stay up on our feet. I know that thee are lots of people in this county and the world, who have lots of problems, whether it be with medical issues, family matters or just making ends meet. Times are harder now then ever before. Just remember, God is always there with you, and I truly believe that He has a reason for everything that happens in your life. Please continue to pray for my husband to heal soon and for our daughter to recover. And if you have an extra second say an extra prayer for someone that you know is having a hard time, I'm sure they would be very grateful. We are very thankful for all the thoughts and prayers for our family. God bless you, and again, thank you all.

Cornatzer Parents Upset With Another New Principal

To the editor:

As Davie County citizens and parents, we would like to forward the letter below which was sent to the Davie County Board of Education so that all Davie County citizens and parents have the opportunity to hear our concerns regarding the recent principal changes not only to our school but to the other schools in the county.

We are writing this note with passionate apprehension at the thought of losing yet another member of our Cornatzer family. We feel it is important to express our disagreement with your decision to move yet another principal from our school.

While it is true that decisions are made looking at the big picture - it must be remembered that there are many pieces in that picture and all of them are highly valued. Cornatzer families are just as important as any other school in this system.

We preach consistency, stability, teamwork. Is this only true when it is valid politically? Cornatzer has endured numerous changes in its eight-year-life. The time has come to ensure the parents of this school that our administration is with us for the long haul. Our kids have not had time to permanently connect with any leader of our school. That is wrong on so many levels.

When we are pressuring our kids with EOGs and state standards, we want our leaders to know our children well enough to support them through those trying times. We want our principal to know our parents well enough to assure them when they watch their children practice a lockdown. We want our principal to make informed decisions that come from time spent with the families of this school.

Most importantly, it is our belief that the principal's job is to have the backs of the staff. We are blessed that we have so many wonderful teachers at Cornatzer. We are grateful that most of them have remained loyal through all the changes. Teachers need to know that their leader is going to back them up, understand their individual situations, and work hard to keep them happy. If the teachers aren't happy, the children aren't happy.

If there are issues in other schools that need fixing, don't break ours to do it. We have paid our dues and swallowed a lot of questions and negative comments. We as parents are putting in writing our very serious concern with your disregard for the needs of our school. You may think you know that we need - but none of us remember you asking.

We need to discuss this dilemma in detail as soon as possible

School System Not Looking As Good

To the editor:

I am a parent of two children who attend Cornatzer Elementary School. I am proud of our school and I know that we have the best teachers and staff anyone could ask for. I trust the teachers and the staff immensely and I know without question that they are the experts and they have the best interests of my kids on their hands. With news of another principal change, I have decided to raise my voice and let my opinion be known about the rate of principal turnover happening within our schools.

I am very concerned about how it affects our teachers and our children - my children. With every new principal come new programs, new rules, and new procedures. There is a long period of uncertainty and confusion as the teachers and students try to adjust to a new way of doing things and learning how the new principal handles certain issues and situations. Students need consistency and changing their leader every year is not fair. Teachers need leadership that they can depend on and a principal that they can get behind to make our school strong. Cornatzer Elementary School is not being treated fairly when it comes to our students and teachers. Think about it. A child going into third grade has seen a new principal every year of their school life. Not one leader has remained the same. Is that the example that we want to show our students?

Our teachers have made it through every principal and vice principal turnover that the school board and superintendent have thrown at them and I know they will get through this change as well. But just because our teachers can handle it does not mean that the board should continue beating them down and making these changes. How much more can we take?

I do not know the new principal coming in. I have never met her and I could not pick her out of a crowd. I do not hold any ill will towards her coming to our school. I will support her because that is what parents do - and that is what Mrs. Cozart would want us to do. This letter is not about our new principal in any way. My frustration is directed at the amount of change continuously being thrown at us and what the board is doing to our school. It isn't fair. As a parent I feel that my voice should be heard. I know they are not going to change their minds. I know that even complaining about it does no good. But I have that right to speak out. My children are not going to understand why Mrs. Cozart isn't coming back. I haven't told them yet. I guess a part of me is in denial - I don't want her to leave. I know change happens and it is something my children will have to get used to in life. But at their age, I should not have to explain this type of change every single yearWe have had enough.

One of the reasons we moved to Davie County was because the school system. We actually chose this county and we love it. We live here, work here, and worship here. It is a great community. But between the chaos with the high school situation, the new arguments over school realignment, and the continual changes being made to the elementary schools that house the youngest of all the students - the students who need consistency the most in their lives - I am wondering if our school system is really as good as everyone thinks it is. All I know is "Thank Goodness" for Cornatzer's teachers - thank goodness they remain strong and hold their ground through so many changes. Were it not for them, our students would have no one to depend on.

Shriner's Paper Crusade Saturday At Wal-Mart

To the editor:

I'd like to write to the people of Davie County today about some of the most amazing places on earth. Places where children from all round the globe with complex medical conditions can go to receive expert care in a compassionate, family-centered environment. Places children and families consider to be their second homes because of the caring and nurturing relationships they forge with their doctors, nurses and other caregivers. Places where these children receive this specialty care at no charge - Shriners Hospitals for Children. I'm proud to be associated with this incredible pediatric specialty health care system. It may be hard to grasp in this day of expensive health care, but Shriners have made the commitment to ensure children and their families have access to expert medical care at no charge.

Since 1922, Shriners Hospitals for Children have treated more than 865,000 children with orthopaedic conditions, burns, spinal cord injuries, and cleft lip and palate. Shriners Hospitals for Children is the largest pediatric specialty health care system in the world and treats more children with these conditions than anyone else. Every day, we're helping kids defy the odds and do more than others thought possible. In 2007, the 22 Shriners Hospitals provided care for more than 125,000 children. The organization's three-fold mission is patient care, research and education. The goal is to impact the lives of children everywhere through innovation and increased knowledge. Shriners Hospitals' researchers and medical staff have discovered and invented numerous techniques and treatments .

Fourteen-year-old Garrett was injured in a car accident when he was 4. He was airlifted to a trauma center. Doctors were not sure he would survive. Despite serious internal injuries and a broken neck, he clung to life. Garrett spent six months in the hospital recovering, while his family wondered what kind of a life lay ahead for Garrett, who had sustained a high-level spinal cord injury. A relative researched available care and advised the family that Shriners Hospitals for Children is a leader in pediatric spinal cord injury treatment and research. At Shriners Hospital for Children - Philadelphia, the family saw other children in similar situations and knew they were not alone. They met dedicated, caring staff, experts in handling the challenges their family was facing. "We found people who dedicate their lives to children with spinal cord injuries," said Garrett's mom. At age 6, Garrett began to lose hand function, so doctors performed two tendon transfer surgeries that now allow him to hold and grasp items with each hand. He is hoping to help other kids with spinal cord injuries, and through this participation in research studies at the Philadelphia Shriners Hospital, Garrett is contributing to a body of knowledge that will help form new treatment methods for patients.

Studies include investigations to restore hand function in children with spinal cord injuries; and the effects of stimulation cycling, using special bikes and a sophisticated computerized system that send small does of electrical current to stimulate movement. Because of the rehabilitation available at Shriners Hospitals, Garrett is living life to the fullest, hanging out with friends, participating in activities like swimming, fundraisers, and spreading the word to raise awareness of spinal cord injuries and the need for research.

There are so many brave boys and girls defying the odds every day. I could spend all day telling you stories that would inspire you to make the most of every day. Since all the expert medical care at Shriners Hospitals is provided at no charge to patients or their families, the hospitals relay on the generosity of the general public and the Shriners of North America.

Shriners Hospitals have been excellent stewards of the donations given over the years to help children and have often been ranked as one of the world's best charities in using the money on patient care and research. Many of the children we serve have conditions that require multiple years of treatment. And more children come to Shriners Hospitals every day for help and hope. In today's world of rising health care costs and competition for quality doctors and nurses, the need for support has never been greater.

I am proud to say that our philanthropy is one of the purest anywhere. By that, I mean approximately 94 percent of the entire Shriners Hospitals operating budget is spent in direct support of the tri-fold mission of patient care, research and teaching, and only about six percent is used for administrative and fundraising costs.

And Shriners Hospitals will continue doing so, as long as Shriners and our friends continue to be dedicated to our mission of helping kids. Shriners Hospitals for Children is improving the lives of thousands of children like Garrett. You can learn more about Shriners Hospital by visiting www.shrinershospitals.org. Donations to Shriners Hospitals can be made online at www.donate2shc.org, or by calling 1-800-241-GIFT. If you know a child Shriners Hospitals may be able to help, please call our toll-free patient referral numbers: 1-800-237-5055 in the United States; and 1-800-361-7256 in Canada. Please consider becoming part of Shriners Hospitals' amazing mission of helping children.

Saturday, July 19, the Shriners will be having their Second Annual Paper Crusade for the benefit of Shriners Hospitals in honor of Buster Cleary and memory of Gwen Cleary at the Wal-Mart in Mocksville. Please come out and support this worthwhile event. We will have mini-cars, antique cards, motorcycles and lots of food and fellowship. Gas might be $4 a gallon, but helping a crippled child walk is priceless.

...feels the same as I do. Our job is to try and make this community better for everyone, not just inside the fence."

Ferguson said the intent was not to impose a hardship on those living outside BRs gates.

Planning Board Chair Richard Heriot, who lives in the ETJ development of Kinderton, told council he was concerned about the lack of public say that had been received on the plan.

Two public input meetings were held on the sidewalk plan and Heriot said, "The turnout for those meeting was dismally disappointing. There was not a lot of public input."

Heriot said one of the main concerns of the plan was that it would take up too much real estate by incorporating a sidewalk, bike trail, and buffer. "We will never get a consensus from developers and real estate. This is a vision for Bermuda Run. Whether it will ever happen, I don't know."

"It's not our desire to make things complicated for you," Ferguson said. "We'll take a hard look at this. We're not going to just jump into this."

• 2.75 percent or $1,100 (whichever is greater) raise for state employees

Update On Jessica Lunsford Act for North Carolina

The House voted not to concur with the Senate's changes to HB 933. As many of you know, I was supportive of the Senate version of the bill and am disappointed with this latest roadblock. However, the conference committee appointed to resolve the differences was organized quickly and appears close to producing a final version that adequately protects North Carolina's children from sexual predators. Now more than ever, time is of the essence. With the passage of the budget, as noted above, it is anticipated that the General Assembly will adjourn within the next week (or two at the most). As always, I will keep you posted as to any further progress made.

Annexation Moratorium

After passing the House last week, it appears that a proposed moratorium on involuntary annexations across North Carolina will not be considered by the Senate this session. Senate leadership states that the bill is not

10 Hurt As Deck Collapses At Camp

By Jackie Seabolt
Davie County Enterprise Record

Several campers from a local Bible camp were taken to the hospital after a deck on one of the buildings collapsed.

According to Davie emergency communication logs a call was received shortly after noon reporting a collapsed structure at Carolina Bible Camp on 1988 Jericho Church Road.

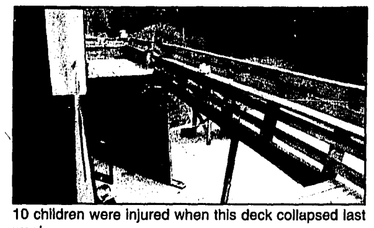

Center and Cooleemee volunteer fire departments, along with Davie Emergency Medical Services, responded.

According to EMS Supervisor Andy Lipscomb, 10 campers attending a week long session of Bible camp received minor injuries after the deck fell. "They were doing crafts on the back deck." Eight were transported to Davie County Hospital and two were taken to Baptist Medical Center.

Carolina Bible Camp Director Randal Burton said, "No one was seriously injured and all, except one who was kept overnight for observation, were released that same day from the hospital."

According to Burton, the camp has been in Davie for 18 years. He did not know the age of the craft building where the deck collapsed.

The deck has not been repaired and Burton says there hasn't been a decision made to rebuild. "Right now, we're not sure if we will rebuild, or what will be done."

10 children were injured when this deck collapsed last week.

Dogs Don't Have To Die; But They Can't Come Back Here

By Jackie Seabolt
Davie County Enterprise Record

Two dogs that were ordered destroyed by a judge in May will not have to die, but they have been banned forever from the state.

Originally, Jean Marie Mikhail pleaded guilty to two misdemeanor charges of allowing her dogs to run at night in the May 8 session of Davie District Court.

The defendants, Jonathan and Susan Cain, said that on the evening of March 18 Mikhail's two Rottweilers killed their 6-year-old Maltese, Sassy.

Jonathan said that Sassy was attacked by Mikhail's dogs on his property and even though he yelled at the dogs and stomped his feet he was unable to stop the attack.

Susan said that Sassy was their daughter's pet and was a gift following treatment for a rare form of pediatric cancer.

At that time the Cains were asking for restitution of more than $2,000 to cover vet bills and the cost of a new dog.

Mikhail was ordered to turn her dogs over to the sheriff's department to be destroyed.

She gave notice of appeal after the judgment.

In last week's superior court session the case was heard by Judge Edgar B. Gregory and Mikhail once again pleaded guilty to two charges of allowing a dog to run at night.

The Cains were present and Susan once again read a one-page statement detailing the night of the attack and the loss her daughter and the entire family had suffered.

Mikhail's attorney, Michael Parker, told Gregory that his client was very attached to her dogs. "There are no prior reports on my client's dogs. My clients have a fence for their animals. These dogs are part of the family."

As Parker spoke Mikhail's husband and children sat in the courtroom. "This is a sad situation and we wish it wouldn't have happened."

Gregory sentenced Mikhail to 18 months supervised probation. He ordered her to pay restitution of $4438.99 ($2690.15 of that to the Cains) and $800 in attorney fees. Both of Mikhail's dogs were to be shipped out of North Carolina by July 15. "If the two dogs ever return to North Carolina they will be destroyed," Gregory said.

Gregory said that Mikhail could not own any dogs while living in the neighborhood where the attack happened.

Parker said Mikhail and family plan to move to New Jersey.

eligible under the rules of the short legislative session. Senators have pledged to participate in a continuing study initiated by the House to determine what changes to the state's annexation laws may be needed. However, unless the bill is somehow considered and passed in the Senate within these waning days of session, involuntary annexations will be allowed to continue in this State. Although further action is not expected, I will update you should any further developments on this legislation occur.

If you have any questions or would like additional information about the final budget package, Jessica's Law, or the Involuntary Annexation Moratorium feel free to contact my office, and I'll be happy to gather any available information.

Davie County Hospital Gets New CT Technology

Davie County Hospital has acquired a new, advanced Computed Tomography Scanner from GE Healthcare.

The BrightSpeed offers the latest in multi-slice, CT technology along with clinical applications that will allow Davie County Hospital's physicians to quickly and accurately perform multiple diagnostic exams. These exams help diagnose disease or life-threatening illness such as chest pain, stroke and cardiovascular disease.

"With the exceptional image quality, productivity, and reliability found in GE's CT products, Davie County Hospital physicians are now able to offer quality care right in the patient's hometown," said Lynne Doss, hospital administrator.

The system was installed in June and the first patient was scanned July 1.

"Our acquisition of the scanner raises the level of care that our physicians can provide for a multitude of injuries or illnesses which may lessen the need to transfer patients to other hospitals away from their family and friends," Doss said. "This system is patient friendly and its speed of producing accurate scans will help our physicians to begin treating patients by helping them to provide the diagnosis or cause of illness in a shorter period of time than previously possible at Davie County Hospital."

The high resolution imaging capabilities of BrightSpeed lets physicians optimize dose to the patient while at the same time gathering required diagnostic information that may reduce the need for additional, and sometimes uncomfortable, procedures. With advanced data processing features, patient information can be quickly shared with referring physicians, including three-dimensional (3-D) renderings of internal organs such as the heart and coronary arteries.

"By offering this technology, Davie County Hospital is on the leading edge of providing excellent patient care that benefits patients and physicians," said Doss. "We are proud to once again raise the level of excellence in the healthcare services offered to Davie residents."

Dear Davie County Citizens

As I leave my position as a member of the Davie County Board of Education, I want to extend thanks to everyone who voted for me and supported me during my years of service. I appreciate what I have gained from this experience.

I give a special thanks to Mr. Allen Mebane and the Mebane Charitable Foundation for their generous gifts to our school system. I encourage our citizens to continue to inquire and become knowledgeable about what's happening in our schools. Our children deserve the very best education we can provide and it takes the entire community working together to achieve that goal. I have the highest respect for the employees of the school system and wish everyone success.

Soil & Water Conservation District Accepting Applications

The Davie Soil and Water Conservation District will receive its 2009 allocation for the North Carolina Agricultural Cost Share Program soon.

The district will be receiving applications until Aug. 15 for anyone wishing to apply for cost share assistance on agricultural land. These cost share funds are available to assist landowners and operators with the installation of Best Management Practices (BMPs) that reduce the amount of sediment, nitrogen, phosphorus, pesticides, animal waste and other agricultural-related pollutants from entering the streams and ground waters.

This year's priority has been set on stream protection measures (i.e. fencing livestock out of creeks, streams, and rivers). BMPs that might be included, but not limited to, are alternative watering sources, sod based crop rotation, diversions, grasses, and stock trails. All applications will be approved on a priority basis. Those sites that provided the greatest water quality benefits will be approved first (the district has a priority evaluation form to rank applicants). For more information visit the Davie Soil and Water Conservation District at 180 S. Main St., County Office Building, Room 313, Mocksville, or call 751-5011.

Two From Davie Attend Senior Legislature

Vernon Dull and Jack Koontz from Davie County attended the spring meeting of the N.C. Senior Tar Heel Legislature (STHL) in Raleigh June 10-11.

The Senior Tar Heel Legislature, established by the N.C. General Assembly in 1993, provides information and education to older adults on matters being considered by the General Assembly and makes recommendations to the General Assembly on the legislative needs of older North Carolinians.

Dull is the delegate and Koontz the alternate to the legislature.

Delegates heard a report from Dennis Streets, director of the Division of Aging and Adult Services, and Nancy Warren, adult services program administrator, Division of Aging and Adult Services.

The issues committees, including health, long-term care, crime/safety/security, general legislation, enrichment opportunities and service access met and narrowed down the resolutions submitted earlier in the year by the delegates and alternates. The October meeting will provide the legislature an opportunity to select their top five resolutions, which will constitute the legislative agenda for the long session of the General Assembly.

To find out more about the Senior Tar Heel Legislature or to discuss issues of concern about senior adults, contact Dull at 260 Macy Langston Lane, Mocksville, 492-2868.

New Board Of Education Members Sworn Into Office

Davie County Enterprise Record

Former Board of Education Chair Carl Lambert called last Monday "an emotional day," as two board members ended their six-year terms.

Carol Livengood and Regina Graham were elected to the board in September 2002. During their tenure, they helped bring about many changes, including the hiring of two superintendents (and one interim), acquisition of land for expansion of Shady Grove Elementary and construction of William Ellis Middle School, renovations of the stadium at Davie High, renovations of Shady Grove, Cooleemee, Pinebrook and Mocksville elementary schools, extensive remodeling and new construction at William R. Davie, the William R. Davie sewer project, the Mebane Challenge, the Mebane-Hill Early Literacy Project, the adoption of a tobacco-free policy, establishment of the Early College and Central Davie Academy, and the inclusion of two bond referendums on ballots, although those bond referendums subsequently failed.

Lambert called them, "two past chairs who have done an impeccable job of serving their community."

Livengood said, for her, the experience was "one of the most amazing learning experiences of my life. The highlight [of serving] has been the opportunity to travel across this county - and see the people and the love they have for this beautiful place we call home."

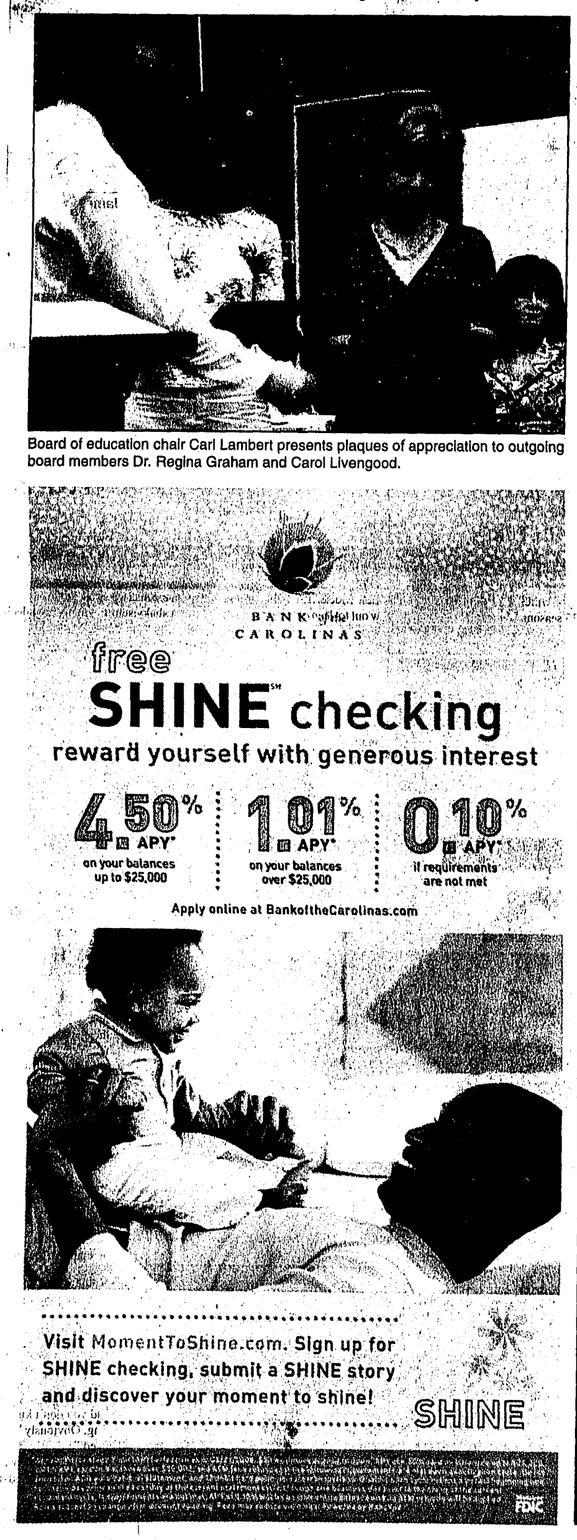

Livengood thanked her husband, four children and five grandchildren for their support, and said she credits her father, who passed away many years ago, with instilling in her the importance of "giving back in some way."

Graham, a product of Davie County schools, encouraged the board to consider changing the terms from six to four years, noting that six years is a great deal of time to devote. Graham thanked her husband and parents for their support and understanding during her tenure, saying, "I gave up a lot of family time but Rafael and I both agree the students of Davie County are worth it."

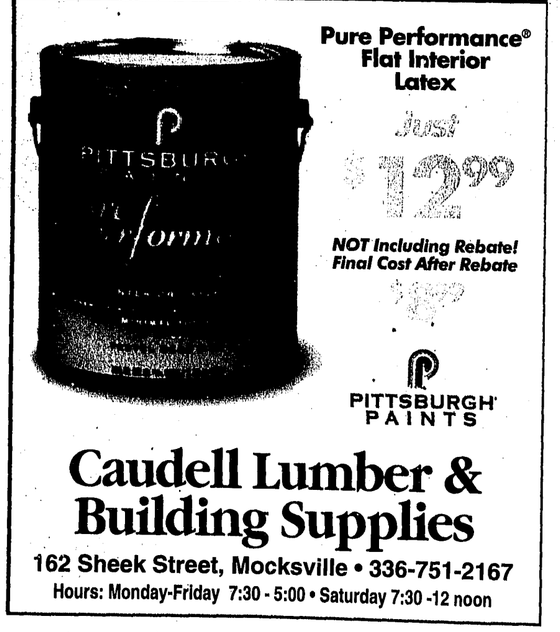

Superintendent Dr. Robert Landry said, "Each of these two outgoing board members was an active participant in these accomplishments and the many other successes of this board. Each of them sacrificed time away from both their families and their jobs. They spent countless hours over the years, commencing in 2002, planning and participating in meetings and attending conferences. They did this because they believe in education and wanted to make a difference for the children of Davie County. We are grateful for their leadership and vision."

Barbara Taylor Owens and Chad Edwin Fuller, flanked by their spouses, took the oath of office and moved into the chairs they will occupy for the next six years.

Rick Ellis assumed the position of chair and Terry Renegar will serve as vice chair.

Rowan Eliminates Mocksville, 3 Games To 0

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

Another Mocksville-Rowan County Legion baseball game, another tough loss for Mocksville.

Maybe Rowan has a psychological edge on Mocksville. It certainly seems like a plausible explanation after what Rowan did to Mocksville in the best-of-five, first-round playoff series and after what Rowan has down to Mocksville over the years.

Third-seeded Rowan swept No. 6 Mocksville three games to none by winning by three, one and three runs, including 5-2 in Game Three at Catawba's Newman Park on July 9.

Mocksville (14-15) came tantalizingly close to breaking through time and again, but Rowan (23-8) did what it always does to Mocksville - It escaped every time.

• In the second inning, with Rowan ahead 1-0, Mocksville roped three straight hard grounders. All three were gobbled up.

• In the eighth, with Rowan ahead 5-2, Mocksville put two on with nobody out. One of its most dangerous hitters was up, Chris Kinard. But Kinard popped up a changeup, and a 1-6-3 double play followed.

• Mocksville's luck against Rowan was summed up by Ryan Carter's at-bat in the ninth. Again there were two on and no outs. Carter laced a shot past a diving third baseman. It was headed for a double, definitely scoring one run and possibly two. The tying run would have been in scoring position. But the ball was foul. Just foul.

Carter and the next two guys struck out to end the game.

"You have to get at least one run in those situations, and to not score at all is unacceptable," Mocksville coach Mike Lovelace told the Salisbury Post.

Rowan's 1-0 lead grew to 4-0 when it banged out three doubles in the second. Corey Norman and Zack Russell-Myers got Mocksville back in the game with solo home runs in the sixth and seventh. It was 4-2 when Mocksville reliever Bryan King retired the first two batters in the seventh. But Rowan scratched out an insurance run anyway, walking, stealing second and singling with two strikes.

Norman's homer was his first of the season, and he went 2 for 3. Russell-Myers went 2 for 4 with his fifth homer.

Lovelace couldn't complain about Mocksville's pitching in the series, although its hottest arm, Jake Koontz, was chased in the second. Philip Miclat tormented Mocksville all series, going 3 for 4 in Game Three and 8 for 10 overall. Meanwhile, Mocksville's three lefty hitters went 0 for 8 against Rowan's lefty starter, Russell Michalec, who came in 2-2 but got the win by permitting just four hits in 6 1/3 innings.

Rowan wasn't known for its pitching, but its arms were stunningly dominant. For the series, Mocksville scored five runs and went 22 for 98 at the plate (.224).

Mocksville never led even though it only surrendered 12 runs.

"Our pitchers held down a great-hitting team the whole series, but we just didn't swing the bats," Lovelace said.

"Mocksville has a good-hitting bunch, but great pitching will always beat good hitting," said Rowan's Billy Veal, who fanned the side in the ninth for the save.

"We thought this might be a slow-pitch softball series in two small ballparks, but it turned out to be three very good games," Rowan coach Jim Gantt said.

Notes

• It seemed like every Mocksville player who was fighting for playing time capitalized on their opportunities. Norman hit .350 by going 14 for 40. Carter hit .381 by going 8 for 21. He

Mocksville Loses 1-0 In Game 2

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

Here's how bad it has become when Mocksville's Legion baseball team faces Rowan County - which ended 11 of Mocksville's 25 seasons between 1982 and 2006 - in the playoffs. Mocksville lost an epic pitchers' duel, 1-0, in Game Two of the best-of-five, first-round series on July 8 at Mando Field.

• With two on and two outs in the bottom of the sixth, Zack Russell-Myers greeted the first of four Rowan relievers with a big swing. But he flew out to deep right.

• With two on and two outs in the Mocksville seventh, Heath Boyd sent a deep fly to left. Rowan's Billy Veal drifted back, put his right hand against the fence and made the catch. A few more feet and it's 3-1 Mocksville, which squandered a two-on, no-out threat. It popped up a bunt with two on and no outs.

• The first Mocksville batter in the eighth flew out to deep center. If the ball is pulled, perhaps it's 1-1.

• Russell-Myers opened the last of the ninth with a single. But with one out, Rowan's pitcher picked off Russell-Myers. The next pitch was a called third strike.

• Mocksville lost to a pitcher who was 0-0 on the year, Zack Simpson.

• And the game's only run came off the bat of Philip Miclat, who rode a 3-1 fastball over the 310-foot fence in left in the third. The 5-7, 145-pound second baseman had never homered over the fence in a live game.

Third-seeded Rowan improved to 22-8 and grabbed a 2-0 series lead. No. 6 Mocksville dropped to 14-14.

Mocksville's frustration against Rowan reached a peak as Simpson overcame a shaky start to win his first decision of the year. Heath Boyd walked to open the bottom of the first. The count was 2-0 to the next batter, Brandon Stewart, when Rowan pitching coach Zach Snyder paid a visit to the mound.

Simpson regrouped and earned the win by working 5 2/3 innings. The young lefthander gave up just two hits, the first coming on a check-swing, infield hit by Matt Leonard with one out in the fifth.

Jr. Legion Squanders 8-1 Lead; Bows Out In Second Round

In the opening stages of Game One of the Mocksville Junior Legion baseball team's second-round playoff series against Randolph County, everything was going right for Mocksville.

Mocksville, seeded seventh in Area III, had won 10 straight, had swept Western Forsyth two games to none in the first round and had an 8-1 lead on second-seeded Randolph after two and a half innings. Mocksville seemed headed for a 1-0 lead in the best-of-three series.

However, the rest of the game was a different story. After Mocksville had scored six runs in the second and two in the third, Randolph scored the final eight runs, including three in the third, three in the fourth and two in the seventh. The game ended with a walk-off single.

Mocksville never recovered from the blown lead, scoring one run in the final 11 innings of the series and losing Game Two 7-1. It lost all four games to Randolph, including two in the regular season.

"We should have beat them (in Game One)," coach Charles Kurfees said after Mocksville closed the season with a 19-13 record. "We should have come home with a win, there's no doubt about it."

Mocksville took firm control by scoring five second-inning runs with two outs. But it could blame itself for the collapse. It committed five errors.

"(If we hold on), then we would have played the second game with confidence, being up one game," he said. "That would have been great. But it just didn't work out. It just wasn't meant to be."

After Josh Berryhill and Brad Gaither had pitched the first six innings, Kurfees brought in closer Zach Long to protect an 8-7 lead in the seventh. Randolph greeted Long with a single. Three straight walks tied the game. A single - with still no outs - clinched the heartbreaking loss.

It was a rare sight watching Long blow a save opportunity.

"Hindsight is 20-20," Kurfees said. "Maybe we should have come back with Gaither. But Long has closed most of the year, and we figured he could get it done."

Mocksville had four batters with two hits. Jess Cartner was 2 for 4 with a triple, Joe Watson was 2 for 3 with a double, and Jacob Barber and Shelton Howard were both 2 for 4.

Randolph took Mocksville to the cleaners in Game Two at Mando Field. In the top of the first, Mocksville committed a two-out error that kept the inning alive. A three-run homer followed, and that was the beginning of the end in the 7-1 defeat.

Randolph clubbed another three-run shot in the fifth, increasing Mocksville's deficit to 6-1. Mocksville could only manage five hits. Cartner and Watson were 2 for 3, with Watson hitting a pair of doubles. Long had a bunt hit.

Kurfees swallowed hard and conceded the better team moved on.

"My hat goes off to them," he said. "Their pitchers threw strikes, they hit the ball real good and they're very well

Thompson, Defense Stuff Vereen On 4th-And-1

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

The third in a series recalling 10 memorable football wins. This is No. 8 in the countdown to No. 1.

When Davie's football team traveled to North Mecklenburg for a second-round 4-AA playoff game in 2006, it found itself matched against a running back who had absolutely torched everyone in his path.

Senior Daryl Vereen was a 6-1, 190-pounder headed to the University of Tennessee. He had established the Mecklenburg-County record for season rushing yards with 2,470 on 280 carries, a frightening 8.8 average. He was averaging 225 yards per game. He had 31 touchdowns, scoring multiple TDs in 10 of his 11 games.

Vereen looked invincible ... until he met Davie's defense. Fans couldn't believe their eyes as Davie limited Vereen to one big play and no end-zone joy as the War Eagles held on for a grueling 14-11 win.

By winning for the sixth straight time and stopping the Vikings' own six-game run, the War Eagles improved to 12-1 and advanced to the quarterfinals for the fifth year in a row. The win sent them to Independence, which had won 105 straight.

Bolstered by linebackers Mark Huggins, Bucky Sheppard and James Mayfield, Davie held Vereen to a season-low 122 yards on 27 carries. He had a 49-yard run with three minutes left in the third quarter. Without that, he had 73 yards on 26 rushes, a 2.8 average.

Sheppard and tackle Chantz Grannaman sent a clear message on Vereen's first carry, a 2-yard loss.

"That's nothing but pure determination from linebackers studying film and getting coached up and pretty much knowing what was coming before the ball was snapped," Davie coach Doug Illing said.

"The first play really set the tone," Huggins said. "We really didn't give him any room to breathe."

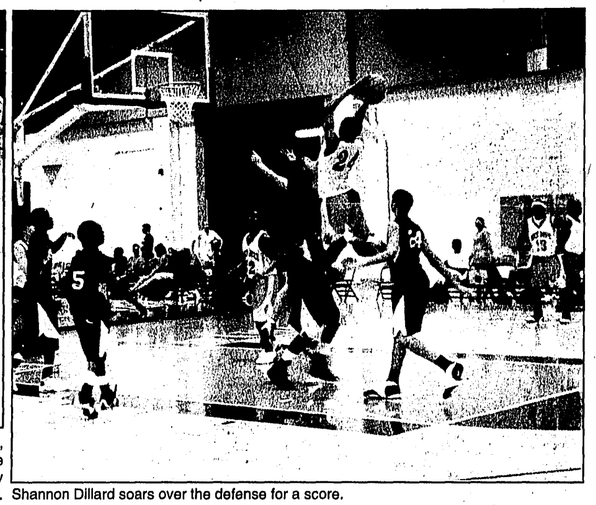

"They played a stunting, blitzing defense, and it's challenging on your offensive line, particularly your tackles and center," North Meck coach Glen Padgett said. "Because they line guys over them and you don't know where they're going. Obviously they're well coached."

The defensive slobber-knocker is remembered most for a fourth-and-1

Davie Wins Two USSSA National Basketball Titles

By Mike Gunning
Special to the Enterprise

When Davie coach Mike Absher started a developmental basketball program for middle school age players three years ago, he never dreamed one day he would be holding a USSSA National Championship trophy.

Yet that was exactly where he found himself on Monday, July 7 as the Davie Fastbreak U14 team swept the field and defeated the Trinity Bulldogs 66-57 in overtime to take the Gold Medal in the USSSA D3 National Championships in Greensboro over the July 4th weekend.

Two hours later, the U12 Fastbreak matched their older counterparts, and won the second national championship for Davie.

"Wow," Absher said. "This is just incredible. This is really exciting. It's so rewarding for all those volunteers who gave their time to this team. These coaches did a great job."

Absher holds the reigns over the program, but he leaves the daily coaching duties to Tracey Arnold and Germain Mayfield.

Arnold is the head coach of the U14 team, and often helps with the younger team. Mayfield holds court over the U12s, assisted by Josh Sell, Reggie Carson and Jeff Sessoms.

Of the two, Arnold's team took the easier road to the championship game.

An opening assignment against the Thunder of Charleston, S.C. proved to be a tight match through the first half, but Arnold installed a full court pressure defense to open the third quarter. With the Thunder shut down, guard Denzel Redmon found his touch, scoring 16 of his game high 26 points in the quarter to lead Davie to a 67-50 win.

The Gastonia Nets seemed to have Davie's number in the second game, but a fourth quarter scoring surge by Redmon, along with timely defensive plays by Nate Jones, Kentrell Ray and Dominique Dismuke kept the score close. Center Shannon Dillard swatted away a last second shot, and Davie squeaked by Gastonia 51-50 in the second game. Davie then rallied from a 21-20 halftime deficit to beat the Trinity Bulldogs 49-43 to take a 3-0 tournament record into the championship game.

Trinity then won two games to work its way back to the championship game, and came out ready to set Davie back in a physical rematch.

Davie took a quick lead in the first, but the Bulldogs pulled the game even early in the second quarter. Redmon, who averaged 19.5 points for the tournament, struggled from the floor in the first half. After a series of missed offensive opportunities and untimely turnovers pushed the Fastbreak into an 11 point hole, the versatile guard changed tactics. Often facing double teams, Redmon consistently found open teammates, forcing the Bulldogs to spread their defense.

That was all Dillard needed.

The lanky center became a force in the paint, scoring eight consecutive points from inside, mixed with four straight blocked shots on the other end. A steal and an assist to Davis Absher pulled the Fastbreak to within one point at the half.

Trinity opened the second half in a perimeter offense, and a barrage of three point shots had the Fastbreak on its heels. With his team trailing 35-46, Arnold called timeout with under four minutes to play.

"I told them the game was still going on," Arnold said. "They just needed to focus, play hard and start boxing out again, and we could take the game back."

Dillard came out of the timeout inspired.

"I just wanted to win this," Dillard said. "I knew we could beat them, but we were giving them all the game."

Dismuke scored a lay-up, and Ray followed with a defensive stop that set up a Redmon field goal. Dillard blocked three shots, then pulled a rebound and set up Jones on a break away. Another defensive stop led to an easy score, but the Bulldogs responded with five unanswered points, leaving the Fastbreak trailing 45-51 with under a minute to play.

Dillard took over.

Jones found Dillard in the paint for a quick score, and then Dillard stole the inbounds pass and made a lay-up to pull the Fastbreak to within three points. With the clock ticking away, the Bulldogs called a final timeout.

Ray said that was when he felt confident about the game's outcome.

"I told them, stay focused, we got this," Ray said. "We're like a family, and we all believe in each other. I knew we could do this."

Arnold, typical to his style, went to his bench often earlier in the contest, calling upon reserves Jesse Gunning, Joshua Cockman, and John Parker to give the Fastbreak quality minutes and rest his starters for the long haul. The strategy paid off, as the Fastbreak noticeably had the fresher legs in the latter part of the game.

The Bulldogs stalled on offense, but the Fastbreak applied pressure, forcing the Bulldogs into a shot that was blocked by Dillard, Ray took the outlet, and found Jones racing up court. Jones caught the ball and nailed a three pointer with 11 seconds on the clock to tie the game 51-51.

"That was the biggest shot of his life," Arnold said. "He nailed it."

Jones agreed.

"I felt confident when I let it go," Jones said. "Coach kept switching me in and out with Davis, so I'm glad I was in there at the right time."

A last second attempt by the Bulldogs fell short, setting up the overtime.

The win was met with bittersweet emotions for several of the players.

"Playing with these guys has been the greatest thing that ever happened in my life," Dominique Dismuke said. "I'm going to miss them, they're like my family."

Dismuke, who at one time or another played rec ball or school ball in Davie with every player on the squad, will attend Salisbury High next year.

"I'll probably never get to play with them again, but I have to go do what I have to do," Dismuke said. "Hopefully I'll do well there, and get into a good college."

For the U12 team, the road to the championships was much longer.

U12 lost its opening game by 27 points to the Statesville Bears, the biggest loss the team had all season. The U12 Fastbreak went on a tear from there.

After the loss to Statesville, the U12s dispatched the Deacs Hoops (NC) 56-39 on Saturday, then came back Sunday and beat the QCAA (NC) 52-38, YMCA Rockets (SC) 30-18, Deacs Hoops again 50-34, then beat Team Phoenix North (NC) on Monday 44-38 to set up the championship game against Statesville.

According to assistant coach Jeff Sessoms, the game was tightly contested in the first half with each team jumping ahead by 3-6 points max.

"We were up early, then Statesville came back to go up by 5," Sessoms said. "Caleb Martin hit a 3-pointer and then got fouled at the half time buzzer shooting a 3, he hit the three free throws to go up by one at half."

Sessom said the game continued to be close in the second half. "More of the same in the second half, with us controlling most of the action and building a lead," Sessoms said. "Then we started controlling the rebounding and the interior on offense and defense."

The effort paid off, and the U12 picked away for a lead, forcing the Bears to shoot low percentage three pointers as the clock wound down.

"We did this because we played as a team," Mayfield said. "These kids never hung their heads after the first loss, and the boys coming off the bench did a great job for us too."

Perkins Roofing Co. of Mocksville

He lives under just one roof, but Jesse Perkins cares about every roof. That's what makes his business so special. As owner of Perkins Roofing in Mocksville, Jesse treats each roof as if it was on his own home. If it isn't good enough for him, it will not be good enough for you.

That is the way Jesse treats each roofing job and customer. His work and integrity speak for itself.

Jesse, a Reidsville native, became interested in roofing when he was just 13 years old. At age 17, the summer before graduating from high school, he began helping his brother in his roofing business. After graduating the next year, Jesse moved to Davie County and has been here since.

After years of working for other roofers, Jesse decided it was time to go out on his own. So in the fall of 1997, he started Perkins Roofing.

"I have been roofing most of my life and that's what I love to do," Jesse explains. "I started out with a ladder, hatchet and pick-up truck."

Now, along with roofing, Jesse has added vinyl siding to his line of work.

"I work with several local contractors on new homes and do tear offs for older homes that need a new roof. I have done some repair work but we just don't have that many bad storms around here to do too much damage for roof repairs," Jesse notes.

Jesse takes a great deal of pride in his work and will work however many hours and days it takes to get the job finished and done right.

"I keep my business somewhat small. That way I can be on the job to see what goes on and make sure the job is completed like it would be for someone in my family."

Perkins Roofing also enjoys giving back to the community. They are involved in various fundraisers including the law enforcement, rescue squad youth football and Davie High School football.

So if you are need of a new roof and a good honest, dependable man for the job, give Jesse at Perkins Roofing a call for a free estimate at (336) 753-8355.

Brown Cuffs Mocksville In Game 1

The top of the order for Rowan County's baseball team made all the difference in a 6-3 Mocksville loss at Rowan on July 7 in Game One of a best-of-five, first-round playoff series.

Leadoff man Justin Roland went 2 for 4 with his 47th career double, tying Cal Hayes Jr. for the all-time Rowan lead in doubles. No. 2 batter Phillip Miclat went 3 for 3 with three runs. No. 3 batter Trey Holmes went 2 for 3, knocking a run in his first three at-bats with a single, sac fly and double.

The top three guys were so dominant they didn't need much help from the rest of the lineup. The top trio went a combined 7 for 10 while the other six spots went 5 for 20.

White third-seeded Rowan improved to 21-8, sixth-seeded Mocksville fell to 14-13. The teams had split two slugfests in the regular season, with Rowan winning 15-10 and Mocksville returning the favor 11-7.

Rowan committed three errors that led directly to the first two Mocksville runs. Mocksville played error-free defense, but Rowan's miscues didn't hurt because of pitcher Tanner Brown.

Brown's 2007 senior season at North Rowan High was ruined by a broken hand, and he went 0-5 as a 2008 freshman for Wilkes Community College. But he has become a star for Rowan, winning six of seven decisions and striking out nine Mocksville batters. He didn't issue a single walk, and both his runs were unearned.

Brown is nothing fancy. He doesn't throw hard. But you can't question is stuff, which can be summed up by one key stat: He struck out Chris Kinard four times, and Kinard is a two-time Southern Division all-star who was batting .330 and was 8 for 18 in the previous four games.

"Tanner pounded the strike zone and was able to bear down whenever we had opportunities," Mocksville coach Mike Lovelace said. "We hit a lot of fly balls and just couldn't get that big hit. We hit some balls hard. Brown wasn't throwing 81 miles per hour. But he was spotting his fastball well. We just didn't hit it well."

Mocksville had ample chances to rattle Brown, but it found ways to squelch its own momentum.

"We had second and third and no outs and only scratched one run," Lovelace said. "We had bases loaded and one out and didn't scratch but one run. We had Brown on the ropes."

Mocksville's Seth Miller went 2 for 4, raising his average to .376 and making him 16 for 31 over nine games. Justin Kidd, a former West Rowan High mainstay who knows Rowan well, went 3 for 4, raising his average to .354. Clint Howell doubled as a pinch-hitter, making him 9 for 23 (.391) on the year.

But outside of Miller and Kidd, the rest of the Mocksville attack went 5 for 29. Rowan's pitchers shut down Matt Leonard and Zeb Cope, who came in riding high. Leonard was 5 for 6 in the last two games, and Cope was 5 for 9 in the last four.

Roland, Miclat and Holmes put together consecutive singles to put Mocksville starter Zack Russell-Myers in a 2-0 hole in the first. Russell-Myers, who had pitched for the Southern Division in the all-star game against the Northern Division two days earlier, took the loss while going six innings. He wasn't bad while scattering 11 hits. Lovelace just gave credit to Rowan.

"For all of our pitchers or anyone around, it's hard to hold this Rowan team under double-figure hits," he said. "You're just going to have to outscore them. If we only give up six runs, we ought to win every game. I thought Zack threw well. We just let Brown off the hook."

Notes: Bryan King's ninth relief appearance was a good one. He gave up one hit in two scoreless innings. He dropped his ERA to 1.80.

"(Snyder) told me just to calm down because I was a little nervous out there," Simpson told the Salisbury Post. "It just took a little while to get used to that mound."

Rowan coach Jim Gantt pulled Simpson after a Seth Miller single put runners at the corners with two outs in the sixth. That's when Russell-Myers flew out to deep right.

"With his age, we just didn't want to leave (Simpson) out there and let the wheels fall off, because he had done such a good job," Gantt said.

Besides one pitch to Miclat, who accounted for the game's only extra-base hit, Mocksville pitcher Corey Norman was exceptional. He struck out seven and walked two in eight innings. The problem was he didn't get any help from his offense, and he was just a tad outweighed by five Rowan pitchers. Rowan had six hits, Mocksville four.

Norman was razor sharp for the second straight time. His complete-game work against Concord was overshadowed by a 4-3 defeat. His ERA against Concord and Rowan was 2.25. Against Rowan he chopped his ERA from 4.46 to 3.86, giving him the team's best ERA among guys who are averaging an inning per game played. But his record fell to a hard-luck 2-4.

Mocksville coach Mike Lovelace bemoaned the wasted pitching.

"We've gotten two great pitching performances against a great-hitting team," he said. "It's disappointing to waste two great efforts. I thought this was going to be a slugfest series. I guess anything can happen. That's baseball."

Seth Miller, Russell-Myers, Clint Howell and Leonard had Mocksville's four hits. After teaming up to go 5 for 9 in Game One, Miller and Justin Kidd went 1 for 8. Chris Kinard, who struck out four times and threw his bat in disgust in Game One, was benched for the start of Game Two. Tyler Howard put on the catcher's equipment and batted once before Kinard took over.

Notes: Bryan King pitched a perfect ninth for Mocksville, marking his third consecutive relief appearance in which he didn't allow a run. ... Rowan won a 1-0 game for the first time since 1996. ... Norman wiggled out of a bases-loaded, one-out jam in the first.

had not batted in five games, dating to an 11-0 win over Stanly County. He had left the team for personal reasons. Clint Howell hit .357 by going 10 for 28.

• King, who held Rowan to one run on four hits over six innings in Game Three, was superb in three relief appearances in as many days. His ERA in nine innings was 1.00. For the year, he went 2-0 with a 1.69 ERA. He had 11 relief appearances and one start.

• Koontz was outstanding except when he faced Rowan. When not facing Rowan, he was 5-0 with a 2.63 ERA. In two losses to Rowan, he had a 29.25 ERA in four innings.

• Russell-Myers only hit .227, but he was a different player down the stretch. He was 9 for 47 (.191) through 22 games. Warmed up, he went 6 for 19 (.316) in the last seven games.

• Mocksville simply doesn't know how to beat Rowan. It is winless in 12 playoff series, losing 43 of 49 games.

• Mocksville limped home in the first round for the fourth straight year. It lost three games to one to Lexington in 2005, 3-1 to Rowan in 2006 and 3-2 to Concord in 2007. Its record in first-round games the last four years is a brutal 4-12. The last time it advanced was in 2004, when it swept Concord 3-0. The standouts back then were West Forsyth's Dan Poindexter, Jess Maloney, Cody Crotts, Wesley Douglas and Nick Siega-Riz and Davie's Foo Smith and John McDaniel. Of course, Mocksville doesn't draw from West Forsyth anymore.

• Mocksville's winning tradition took a hit. At 14-15, it finished with the fewest wins in nine years. This is the first losing season in six years, dating to 16-17 in '02. And this is only the fifth losing season in the 27-year history.

• On a positive note, King's 1.69 ERA made history. Among pitchers who averaged one inning per game played, it ranks second all time behind Jon David Crider's 1.10 in '94.

Berryhill, Cartner Star In First-Round Sweep

For a most-valuable player in the Mocksville Junior Legion baseball team's 2-0 sweep over Western Forsyth in the first round of the playoffs, take your pick between slugger Jess Cartner and pitcher Josh Berryhill.

Cartner went 2-3 with a walk in a 7-3 win in Game One at Mando Field, and he went 2-3 with two runs in a 7-6 win in Game Two at West Forsyth High. While Cartner continued to kill the ball, Berryhill was money on the mound in both games. He inherited a jam in both games, and both times he earned a save.

"Cartner is expected to hit the ball," coach Charles Kurfees said after seventh-seeded Mocksville advanced to take on No. 2 Randolph County. "Maybe that puts pressure on him, but he has to get it done. If we're going to win, he's got to hit."

In Game One, Berryhill relieved Bret Peterson with the bases loaded and the tying run at the plate. He only needed two pitches, coaxing a comebacker to the mound to preserve the 7-3 win.

Berryhill had a perfect encore in Game Two. Runners were at the corners with one out and the score 7-6. He retired two straight batters to nail down a 2-0 series sweep, a 3-0 season sweep and a 10th straight win for Mocksville.

"Berryhill has been Mr. Reliable all year," Kurfees said. "He has started well, and he has come in and done well. He's done everything we've asked him to do on the mound. I'm real pleased with his season."

Mocksville built leads of 4-0 and 7-1 in Game One. The leading hitters were Zach Long (2 for 2, walk, double, RBI), Jacob Barber (2-3, two RBIs, sac bunt) and Cartner (2-3, walk). They got help from Peterson (triple), Alex Newman (1-3, walk) and Joe Watson (1-2, walk).

Peterson, the starting pitcher, was strong for six innings. Although he walked six, including four in the seventh, he offset that by holding Western to five hits.

"He got a little tired in the seventh," Kurfees said. "If Peterson keeps his composure on the mound, he can be effective. If he doesn't get a call, he can't let it bother him. Sometimes when something doesn't go his way, he takes it to the mound with him. He's got to learn he's not going to get every call. But he's done well. I can't complain too much."

There were three defining moments for Peterson and his defense. Brad Gaither raced back to make a catch at the warning track in the second, protecting Mocksville's 3-0 lead. Shortstop Alex Newman dove to his left and started a beautiful 6-4-3 double play with the score still 3-0 in the third. Mocksville was leading 4-1 in the fifth, but Western had runners at second and third with one out. Peterson responded by striking out two.

"We switched Gaither from right field to left field," Kurfees said. "We switched him to left to keep his bat in the lineup. He's not used to playing left, but he looked good out there.

"Newman has really pleased us at short. He started off playing center field. We had some guys leave and go on trips, and he stepped in and has done a tremendous job. We'd be crazy to take him off that spot and put him back in the outfield."

In the first inning of Game Two, Shelton Howard's two-run double staked Mocksville to a quick lead. Mocksville broke a 4-4 tie with three runs in the fourth. The surge was keyed by doubles from Cartner and Long.

Long's start on the mound was short-lived, exiting in the first with a sore arm. Watson and Carson Herndon worked in relief until Kurfees summoned Berryhill with Western threatening in the seventh.

coached. I have a lot of respect for their program. Our guys came ready to play. We just didn't hit the baseball. We struggled with them both times in the regular season. They were just a better team. I hate it for these guys who dedicated their whole summer to this."

Notes

• Randolph's coach offered kind words to Mocksville in the aftermath of Game Two. "They said when they started their Junior program they wanted to model it after our Junior program," Kurfees said. "That makes you feel pretty good, because Asheboro is a great baseball town. A lot of great players have come out of Asheboro. For them to say that about our Junior program makes you feel good about what we've done."

• Kurfees was disappointed about falling well short of the 2006-07 standards (30 and 35 wins, respectively), but he was proud of the effort. "I'm really proud of the way Brandon Meade came in and played," he said. "Joe Watson really showed out. He's got a great baseball future. Alex Newman and Jacob Barber do, too. Shelton Howard came on and was one of the better defensive players we had. Zach Long was disappointed. He wanted to get one of those (state-championship) rings. It just didn't happen."

• Kurfees said it's especially gratifying to coach a guy like Dillon Byerly, who was the consummate team player. "I don't think he missed a practice or a game," he said. "He became our DH at the end of the year. He was a utility guy in the outfield, and he caught some when Barber pitched. He gives it all he's got."

• Mocksville had been held to one run just once all year (3-1 loss to Mooresville).

Long Named New Football Coach At South

In the one year they've spent together at South Davie Middle School, Perry Long, the Tigers new football coach, has made quite an impression on athletic director Bobby Byerly.

"He's a class act," said Byerly, who is entering his second year at South. "He will be successful, no matter what, because of the type of person he is. He has a great rapport with kids and they respect him."

Brent Wall resigned after serving as head football coach for one year in 2007. His one year couldn't have gone much better, a 7-1 record and a co-championship with Lexington in the Davie-Davidson Conference. But Wall's son, Cooper, will start playing football this fall, and he wants to spend his evenings watching Cooper at practice. Wall will remain the South boys basketball coach.

Long has been at South six years. He was an assistant wrestling coach for two years under Howard Riddle. He took over the wrestling program in 2004, and he has carved out a strong 40-11 record in four years, including 13-2 in 2007-08. Long assisted Wall in football last year.

Long is one of the nicest guys you could ever want to meet, and Byerly is confident he can handle the head job in football. Byerly knows he will preach character. Long is dedicated, passionate and has the work ethic that a football season requires.

How dedicated is Long to South Davie? Last year he went straight from wrestling into baseball, assisting Byerly on the diamond. This year he is set to coach football, wrestling and baseball, although he may give up baseball assistant because that would be an awfully big load on anybody.

"He's one of those that's willing to learn," Byerly said. "He was at my house today, as a matter of fact, talking about what he needs to do and who he needs to talk to. He has an enormous work ethic. Anything that needs to be done at the school, he's there. He's a disciplinarian. He's going to expect the kids to do right on the field as well as in the class room. You always here that cliche that a team is a reflection of the coach. You can look at the wrestling teams he's had and see that. He's real passionate and energetic in the wrestling room, and I think you're going to see the same type of atmosphere with his football players."

Long has already starting working out his players, meeting Mondays, Wednesdays and Thursdays at the Davie High weight room. The workouts started June 27 and will continue through Aug. 18, the first day of practice.

Long was ecstatic to get the job.

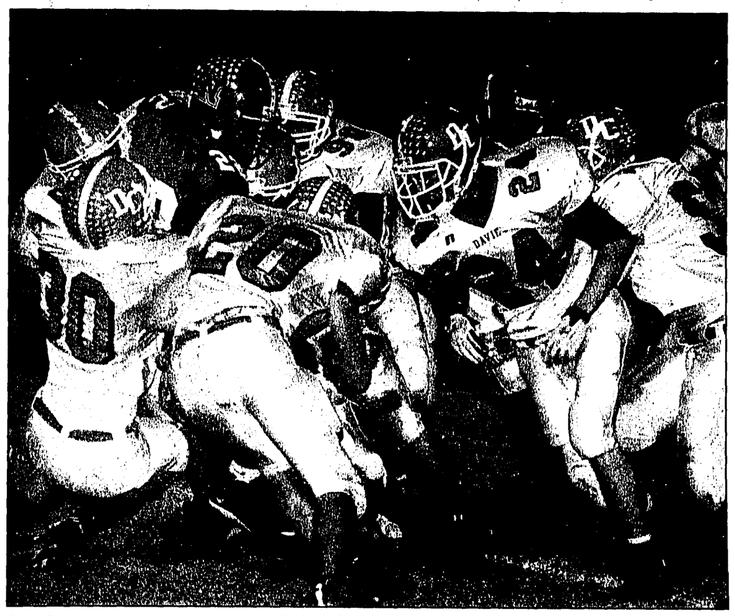

"I am real excited," he said. "I'm happy to have this opportunity. I've had opportunities to do other things, but I love South Davie and I love the sports in Davie County. Being able to communicate with kids and coach kids is what I've always wanted to do."

Long was a standout football player for Sun Valley High in the early 1990s. The fullback/linebacker moved from JV to varsity midway through his freshman season.

"I have always loved football," he said. "I started playing football before I even knew anything about wrestling."

play at the Davie 3 with 1:45 to go. The score was 14-9. One yard was usually automatic for the shifty and powerful Vereen, and he looked for the yard behind right tackle. But outside linebacker Justin Thompson and safety Matt Oswell smacked Vereen behind the line, and a jubilant end was six plays away.

"Unbelievable," Davie defensive coordinator Devore Holman said.

Davie's rabid fans watched the War Eagles' offense go from dominating to self-destructing, then watched the defense somehow hold off Vereen with its backs against the wall.

The War Eagles dashed 69 yards on their first possession. They moved 51 yards on their fourth series for a 14-0 lead. Junior quarterback Garrett Benge was picking North's defense apart, hitting Josh Eder for 22 yards, Chris Kinard for 15, Heath Boyd for 17 and Kinard again for 15, this time on a perfect throw to the end zone.

Benge was putting his uncanny accuracy on display, going 9 of 12 for 111 yards in the first half. Three North DBs came in with 18 interceptions between them. They had no interceptions against Benge.

"We were hitting their weak spots," Benge said.

Davie's offense was staggering with seven minutes to go. You could feel the 14-9 lead slipping away. Then Kinard did something you can not teach on third-and-11 at the Davie 15. He caught an out route and crossed the first-down marker by hurdling a defender.

"He knew we needed a first down, and he laid it on the line," Illing said. "He's got a lot of savvy."

After abusing three previous opponents for 323, 270 and 228 yards, Vereen went into halftime with 35 yards on 11 tries. North's offense looked bewildered as five first-half possessions resulted in five punts. But in the second half, Davie's offense slumped to two first downs and 18 yards.

"Fortunately our defense held in there," Illing said.

North lined up for a field goal with the score 14-0. But Tommy Irvin ran a fake and was tripped up for a 2-yard loss by sophomore outside linebacker Chris Sponaugle. But on North's next offensive snap, Vereen got to the corner and ripped off 49 yards, or 4 more than he had on 14 earlier carries.

"You knew it was going to happen sooner or later," Illing said.

Seven seconds into the fourth, North QB Bobby Murray found his favorite receiver, Josh Yost, in the back of the end zone. The 10-yard score chopped Davie's lead to 14-7.

Less than a minute after Yost's TD, Benge bounced a swing pass. Kenneth Brown fell on it in the end zone. Officials ruled it a lateral instead of an incompletion, and the safety cut Davie's lead to 14-9. Davie's sideline seethed at the call.

"They said we threw it behind the line," Illing said. "In the shotgun that's hard to do."

The final six minutes overflowed with drama and craziness. A Murray incompletion was erased by pass interference. So instead of third-and-12, it was first down at the Davie 27. Three plays later, another pass interference saved the Vikings from a fourth-and-7 dilemma and gave them first down at the 12. Davie was fuming at the second interference.

When Yost made a 6-yard reception on third-and-7, North had the fateful fourth-and-1 at the 3. A timeout stopped play.

"During the timeout I told them: 'Guys, one time. One time let's bow our necks. Just one time let's bow our necks,'" Holman said. "By gosh they bowed their dadgone necks."

Vereen tried the right side, tried to send Davie to the brink of defeat. But Thompson, and then Oswell, cracked the runaway truck for a loss.

"I had a feeling that was coming to my side," Thompson said. "They'd been going there all night. I was there and I hit him low."

"Thompson came off the end unblocked, made a stick and No. 22 went down," Illing said. "He had no cutback lane or anything. That's the kind of player Thompson is."

Huggins soaked in the moment.

"I'll never forget that," he said. "They would have had four more tries to get in with really no time on the clock. JT and Oswell made the hit and stopped him."

As Padgett hung his head outside a somber locker room, he said: "We missed one block. If we would have gotten that seal ... I credit their linebacker for that. (Thompson) made a great play."

Amazingly, the game was not over. In a finish that was about as crazy as it gets, the clock mysteriously stopped when Davie could have milked the remaining time. So punter Thompson took an intentional safety with 13 seconds left, making it 14-11 but giving sophomore Michael Rowe a free kick at the Davie 20.

Rowe's kick went straight to - you guessed it - Vereen, and anxiety struck the Davie crowd as Vereen broke into the clear. He was one man from going all the way. Davie's only hope, Rowe, saved the season by upending Vereen at the Davie 25.

North had a chance to force overtime, but kicker Eddie Parker missed a 42-yard field goal as the horn sounded.

"What a stop," Illing said of Rowe. "In the huddle we said we didn't want to kick it to Vereen. We wanted to squib it away from him. It scared me to death. Inexperience showed right there, but Rowe stepped up and made the tackle."

Rowe replayed Vereen's return.

"I saw him coming around the corner, and I wasn't going to let him get past me," he said. "I was going to do whatever I could to not let him get in the end zone."

Notre Dame Loses A Corner; McNeil's PT Could Increase

In late June, Notre Dame cornerback Raeshon McNeil said his coaches told him during spring practice to be ready for significant playing time as a junior.

McNeil

McNeil, a 2006 Davie graduate from Cooleemee, said: "Coach (Charlie) Weis and coach (Corwin) Brown (defensive coordinator/defensive backs coach) said I was pretty much playing at the same level as the two (projected) starters. They told me to start thinking and getting my mindset that I was going to be a starter and play like I was going to be a starter. I can't wait to get those chances, make plays out there and really become a factor on the defense."

McNeil's optimism came before last week's news that Darrin Walls, a returning starter at cornerback, will not play for the Irish in 2008. Walls will take the fall semester off for personal reasons and return home to Pittsburgh following the end of summer school, the Associated Press reported.

Now with Walls out of the picture, McNeil's chances for playing time have increased considerably.

Weis told the AP: "Fortunately cornerback is a position of strength on our team, and this will provide opportunities for increased playing time for our (other) corners."

The only three corners mentioned in the story were Terrail Lambert, a fifth-year senior; McNeil, who played in 11 of 12 games last year; and sophomore Gary Gray, who missed the entire '07 season after undergoing shoulder surgery.

Team members: Matt McKnight, Vincent Myers, Chip Young, David Abeyta, Will Blackburn, Kenny Stroud, Steven Cline, Alex Nail, Matt Moore, Ken McDaniel, Rodney Cline and Phillip Carter. The coaches were Gerald Cline, Jim Nail and Larry McDaniel.

• Davie's ace, Bart Reece, outdueled South Rowan's pitcher to win 2-0 in a Carolina Stan Musial League game at South. Reece kept South's hitters off stride all game by using an assortment of sliders, knucklers and changeups. The difference in the game was a two-run home run by Harold Latham. Jeff Brown was aboard after a single.

• Mocksville's baseball team ousted Statesville four games to two to advance in the playoffs in its first American Legion season since the 1960s. In game five, Jeff Burton hurled a three-hitter for a 1-0 win. In game six, when Mocksville exploded for 18 runs and 18 hits, pitcher Dan Riddle scattered nine hits and went the distance. Riddle added five hits and three RBIs. Barry Whitlock had three hits and four RBIs. Randy Taylor hit an inside-the-park home run.

Mocksville lost 4-3 at Rowan County in game one of the Southern Division finals. Mocksville battled a future Tar Heel in pitcher Tim Kirk. It got 11 hits off the crafty lefthander, but Kirk countered by stranding 11 runners.

Pitcher Burton was ejected in the fifth inning after protesting a controversial balk. J.J. Johnson was effective in relief.

Mmmmm Good

Girls Learn To Make Biscuits Like 'Ms. Lillie"

Katie Miller takes a bite out of a warm, fresh biscuit.

Julia Vaughn-Jones likes slapping dough.

But it's not just any dough.

It's the flour and shortening and other ingredients that Lillie Mabe uses to make her famous biscuits. The slapping gets the air bubbles out of the dough before baking.

Recently, Mabe, of Mocksville, taught her biscuit making skills to a few girls.

"Every young'un needs to know this ... and they'll never go hungry," Mabe said, in between frying country ham and checking biscuits in the oven.

Making biscuits with Lillie in her kitchen can be fun, too.

"I learned that making biscuits is fun," Julia, 8, said. "Slappin' them is fun, and getting your hands all dirty."

Sara Miller, 9, said she had no idea how to make a biscuit before spending the morning with Lillie Mabe. "I like to get in the dough and stick it in the pan," she said.

Mabe considers every child one of her own. Her most recent hobby was restoring old sewing machines, and teaching young people how to sew.

Her biscuits became famous when the Davie Family YMCA was being built. She made and sold thousands to help pay for the cost.

But biscuit making didn't come naturally. She, too, had to learn.

"The first biscuit I made, you could throw it and knock a dog out and not even break the biscuit," she said. "Roscoe (her late husband) said, 'You've got to do better than that'."

And she did. And she does.

She encouraged the girls to sell the biscuits they made that morning, and donate the money to a needy cause.

Julia Howard watches her granddaughter practice her new baking skills.

Julia Howard, Julia Vaughn-Jones and Sara Miller learn from the master - Lillie Mabe.

Lillie Mabe shares a smile with Sara Miller, Jennifer Slogick, Katie Miller and Julia Vaughn-Jones.

The best part about the morning biscuit-making class is, of course, the tasting part.

Richard Petty poses with a group from Dulin United Methodist Church on a tour of Victory Junction Gang camp.

Dulin Group Tours Victory Junction Gang Camp

A group of United Methodist Women from Dulin UMC toured Victory Junction Gang Camp on May 13, along with their Pastor, the Rev. Marilyn Weiler.

The women donated handcrafted blankets to be used by the campers. While waiting on the tram for a tour of the camp, everyone was thrilled as Richard Petty took time out to say hello and to thank everyone for coming.

Victory Junction Gang Camp opened in June of 2004 in Randleman in memory of Kyle and Pattie Petty's son, Adam. The camp provides a life-changing camping experience for children ages 7-15, with chronic medical conditions or serious illnesses. The children have a fun and exciting experience in a medically sound environment.

The camp operates on donations of corporations, organizations, and individuals including a teddy bear and a blanket like those made by the women of Dulin which they can then take home.

For next year's camp, the women plan to make teddy bears and would like to invite other women in the community to join them. They meet on the second Tuesday of each month.

Swicegood Named Rotarian Of The Year

The Rotary Club of Mocksville honored Kyle Swicegood with the Rotarian of Year Award for the 2007-2008 year, presented by President Will Dwiggins who managed to lead the local club itself to receive a "Gold Club Status" for meritorious achievements from the Rotary District during his tenure.

Dwiggins described Swicegood as "someone who best exemplifies the motto 'Service above Self,' as a well-rounded Rotarian, and as someone who transforms lives outside of Rotary.

"Swicegood is a long-time member of our club, who has been active in many roles-including president. He is a leader in our community, has represented the Rotary Club of Mocksville throughout Rotary District 7690 this past year by giving presentations about Operation Smile, and he has represented our club internationally by helping to coordinate a Rotary Foundation Matching Grant between the Rotary Club of Mocksville, the Rotary Club of Asuncion, Paraguay, and the Rotary Club of Munich, Germany," Dwiggins said.

Swicegood represented the club over the last two years in South American capital city of Paraguay, Asuncion with Operation Smile, serving and volunteering to assist indigent children who suffer with cleft lips and palettes. With the relationships made in his travels, Swicegood managed to create a joint venture with the Rotary Club of Munich, Germany and the Rotary Club of Asuncion (Paraguay) to recreate a matching grant with the Rotary International Foundation to create a sustaining lip and palette hospital for the impoverished children of this country. Together with the matching grants, over $60,000 was raised to accomplish this facility. Swicegood has been a member since 1992.

The Rotary Club of Mocksville offers scholarships annually, supports Operation Smile globally, and has been united with the Rotary International objective of ridding the world of polio with its initiative Polio Plus.

The Rotary Club of Mocksville has also been a strong supporter of Storehouse for Jesus.

Leon Carter was passed the gavel by outgoing president Will Dwiggins on July 1. Carter, community development coordinator for the town of Mocksville, will be leading the club as president.

"Our objective for the 2008/09 Rotary year is to learn more about those who are less fortunate, which will give us the opportunity to exercise our motto of 'Service Above Self'," Carter said.

Our community extends sympathy to the family of Kenneth Moore, who died Wednesday of last week at Iredell Memorial Hospital. A native of Davie County, he was a son of the late Dallas and Viola Nichols Moore. Prior to joining the U.S. Air Force, he lived with his family on Crescent Drive and attended Cool Spring High School. While in service, he met and married his wife Vonda; the couple settled in the Center community upon his retirement from the military. A graveside service was held Monday of this week at Salisbury National Cemetery.

We extend our deepest sympathy to the family of Betty Jean Koontz Freeman, who died this past Saturday night at Wake Forest University Medical Center. She was a daughter of the late Foley and Mary Cartner Koontz of Ketchie Creek Road and attended Salem United Methodist Church in her early life. A graduate of Cool Spring High School, she married Arthur Freeman in 1947; the couple settled in Mocksville. She worked at Hanes Manufacturing and was retired from Hoest-Celanese of Cleveland. A memorial service is planned for a later date.

Bueford Lambert is recuperating at home. Ruth Kimmer remains in serious condition at Lexington. Join us in prayer for the Lord's healing and blessings in the lives of Bueford, Ruth, and the families of Kenneth and Betty Jean.

Surprises and Celebrations

James Harvey knew nothing. Siblings Keith and Ann knew some things. Rosie and everyone else knew everything and were ready to celebrate. That's how it was Saturday, June 7, at the County Line VFD.

You see, James Harvey thought daughter Ann was taking him and wife Rosie to meet Keith for supper in Clemmons and they were stopping at the VFD to take some cakes for a bake sale. Keith and Ann knew Rosie was giving their dad a surprise 80th birthday dinner and Keith was inside the VFD awaiting their arrival. There were over 160 other relatives and friends waiting with him.

Now there was one last element of surprise for James Harvey, Keith, and Ann. Rosie and everyone else were there to celebrate eight years of life for Ann - Thanks to Keith. Not only was June 8, 2000, a birthday for James Harvey; it was also a gift of life from Keith to Ann.

Let's take a closer look at this family - a trip back in time to the years 1928-2000.

Nannie and Rhoid Stroud married in May 1927 and lived with his parents, Johnny and Lydia Stroud in a small log house behind Society Baptist Church. Can you imagine the excitement and joy that must have filled that home on June 8, 1928, when Dr. Harvey Nicholson delivered a bouncing baby boy, James Harvey?

In the mid-1930s Nannie, Rhoid, James Harvey, Mr. Johnny, and Mrs. Lydia all moved to a bigger home beside Society. Being an only child and one of only two grandchildren of the latter, needless to say, James Harvey was the apple of this family's eyes. Sadly, he had to grow up fast; for by 1946 he was the only man of the house. But, there was a bright spot looming around the corner. Vivacious Rosie Nicholson, daughter of Woodrow and Nina, had caught his eye and they were married in 1950 - much to the delight of Nannie and Mrs. Lydia.

After a tour of duty in the U.S. Marines by James Harvey, the couple returned to Nannie and Lydia's place and made their home in a "converted apartment." As with Rhoid, Nannie had been diagnosed with cancer and needed help. She and Mrs. Lydia died in 1956 and 1957, respectively, but not before seeing the couple blessed with a handsome baby boy Keith in 1955. The couple built a brick ranch on US 64 West in 1959 and added baby daughter Ann to their family in 1963. As Rosie lay in a hospital bed, she delivered Ann by herself. Yes, premature Ann decided she was coming out regardless of what the doctor and nurse said and out she came in Rosie's hands about midnight.

Ann and Keith a month after their liver surgeries in 2000.

The happy family - Rosie, Ann, Keith, and James Harvey at church in 1971.

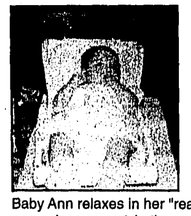

James Harvey was the apple of Grandma Lydia Stroud's eyes.

In his "disposable" carry-all, baby Keith hated peas but loved his beagle puppy.

Baby Ann relaxes in her "real" carry-all seat and at age one enjoys a romp in the yard.

What a happy family. They were an integral part of the community and were active at Society Baptist Church. Keith had graduated from Carolina and Wake Forest law school and was practicing law in Winston-Salem. Ann graduated from Western Carolina and was a successful accountant.

Now "fast forward" to 1992. As some of us know, life can change in the blink of an eye. Feeling fine, Ann went for her annual physical. Then came the bad news that, for some reason, her liver blood count was abnormally high and she was referred to a specialist in Charlotte. Doctors diagnosed her with sclerosing cholangitis, a disease whereby the bile ducts become inflamed and scarred. As the scarring increases, the ducts become blocked and the bile builds up in the liver and damages the liver cells. The remedy was to try medications until one worked, but there was the possibility that eventually medications would cease working and a liver transplant would be needed.

By 1999 that possibility became a reality when Ann was told a transplant was needed and was put on the national waiting list. The average waiting time for a donor was five years. There was one other possibility: University Memorial Hospital at Chapel Hill did partial live liver transplants. That meant finding someone willing to give Ann half of their liver, providing there was a compatible match, which required a few months of examination and testing.

The next several months proved to be trying times for the family. James Harvey prayed but worried and hurt inwardly. Rosie prayed but had constant pity parties and asked the Lord, "Why is this happening to my family?"

Ann knew the Lord and was definitely the family optimist. "I didn't really worry. The possibility of a transplant was a blessing since that was my only chance of living. I just hoped that, while waiting, other aspects of my health weren't affected."

The family and extended family including their church, relatives, and friends all prayed. Soon four people - Brenda Clanton, Keith, Alma Rogers and Rebekah Stroud - had volunteered to be tested as a possible donor. Ann's Aunt Brenda went through the 3-month qualification process but was not a match. Then Keith completed the process and was an acceptable match. The transplant surgery was set for June 8, 2000.

As Ann and Rosie traveled to Chapel Hill on June 7, Rosie again worried and had one continual pity party. Ann reminded her mother how blessed she was to have four donors, but was inwardly afraid for Keith. Rosie's faith was tested. "I had my daughter having a 6-hour risky operation by one team of doctors while another team was performing a risky one on my son. Without the Lord and tremendous prayer support, I couldn't have made it. It's amazing what doctors can do. God works miracles."

But what were the feelings of donor Keith - one who had always stayed clear of doctors' offices and had only had one physical in his entire life? Keith said, "Initially I asked myself why was this happening to such a very nice person as Ann was. Then I just felt that, with so much prayer and support from everyone, things were going to be okay. The surgery meant my taking a 3-month leave from my practice. My partners and clients were supportive and understanding. It took about a year for my liver to regenerate to the normal 95%. I count it remarkable to be able to be a live donor and would encourage anyone to do the same. I'm definitely glad I did it and that it has been successful, but I'm also glad it's over since men in white coats still scare me."

Ann must take medication daily but remains positive and optimistic. "The main thing I have realized through all of this is that you have to make the most of every day and look to the blessings that you have in life and not dwell on your condition. You will have good days and bad days. You need to try to take the most of the good days and just get through the bad ones."

What a celebration of life.

It's Finally time for the Farmington Farmers Market. I heard from enough growers this past week to open the market.

Because of the unusual weather this year, many of the crops have been delayed. Looking at the unusual pattern in the weather the past couple of years, makes you wonder what the next few years are going to be like.I t's getting harder and harder for the local farmer, with so much coming from overseas and out of state, weather changes, and now gas prices.

I think this is why we need to support our local growers as much as we can. Not only on their behalf, but ours too. It is assuring to know who grew the fruits and vegetables that you put on your table and what they put on them, when they were out in the field. It's also the best tasting produce you can find. Picked when it's ripe and ready to eat, not picked early to give the produce time to be shipped and to sit on the shelf for a while.

From the people that I talked with last week, this is what could be available at the market this Saturday: peaches, plums, blackberries, blueberries, onions and garlic, pond plants, and canned honey, relish, and jams. There is also corn, muscadines, grapes, and heirloom tomatoes that are just about ready.

Again, this is only from the people that I talked with, so I'm sure there will be other produce there that was not mentioned.

The Farmers Market will be open from 8 a.m.-1 p.m. every Saturday until the produce runs out.

Also, mark your calendars now for Aug. 9. It will be the Farmington Fun Day at the community center. This year, they are planning something a little different, the Best Homemade Ice Cream contest.Y ou've got a little time to brush up on those favorite recipes for the competition. There will be a prize, though I haven't heard what it will be yet. As usual, there will be the all favorite Cake Walk and Maria Newsome is collecting names of those who are willing to help with the baking. If you can bake something special for the event, please give her a call at 998-3271.

I want to make mention of a change in the lunches at the Senior Center. In the past, the lunches were prepared by the Davie County school system, but because of a lack of funds, the school system was not abl to renew its contract to provide lunches. The contract is now with Baptist Hospital, which brings the prepared lunches to the Senior Center. So far, the response has been great. The seniors have given the food a thumbs up and Kay Kilby says there is more than enough for them to eat, so no one leaves hungry. If you would like to sign up for the senior lunch program, which runs Monday-Friday 9-1 at the Farmington Community Center, call Kilby at 998-3730.

A local television station featured the rising numbers of coyotes in the viewing area during one of the newscasts last week, focusing on the dangers they pose in populated neighborhoods. It was only a day or two after I happened to see that program that Gary Allen and his daughter, Klaire dropped by to show me the carcass of a coyote that Gary killed in an area just off Turkeyfoot Road. Although coyotes are rarely seen during daylight hours, this one, seemingly healthy, had his eye on a groundhog hole, and wasn't about to be deterred by the sight of humans. It was his mistake, as Gary is a hunter, and like many others, is concerned about the growing numbers of this predator. Many old timers in our neighborhood will tell you that coyotes weren't found here during the last part of the 20th century, but that their population appeared suddenly in our area about that time and has grown rapidly. Not only are they carriers of disease, they prey on small livestock, pets, other wildlife, and can be dangerous to children, especially when they travel in packs. Klaire knows more than most youngsters about wildlife management and hunting seasons without having to watch television programs.

The deer population is growing nearly everywhere in North Carolina, but are fun to watch this time of year. Their offspring are usually born in May or June, and the photo of these twins near Sheffield shows that they are old enough to have some play time, although it makes their mother nervous. They, too, can be easy prey for coyotes, especially when the mother can't defend both of her youngsters at the same time or against multiple attackers.

Incidentally, as summer storms appeared Sunday evening in our neighborhood, a dog came running across our yard. I try to be careful about approaching any large-size dog I don't know, but this one seemed like he was frightened and running away from something. Although he stopped and looked at me when I whistled and called out to him, he decided that it was in his best interest to continue getting away. I concluded that it was the thunder that had upset him and sent him on his run. I only wish I had known where he lived so that I could have called his owners. I saw him again shortly thereafter, but this time he ignored me completely and continued on his trip to wherever he was trying to go. I can only hope that he found his way back home, for too many pets end up as strays. They have little chance of survival in the wild, simply because they are domesticated and are dependent upon us. Although some may join a pack, then they become a danger to humans and other domesticated animals, and their days will be numbered.

Summer camp sessions resumed this week at the old Poplar Springs School on Ijames Church Road. The final sessions will take place in the next two weeks, with adults participating in one, and each will camp will run from 10 a.m.-4 p.m., the event welcomes vendor participation. Anyone interested in a space should call Vicki Groce at 961-6929 or Brenda Bailey at 751-7567.

The William R. Davie Raiders Booster Club would like to thank everyone who participated in its annual fundraiser golf tournament July 12. Proceeds will benefit the youth football program.

Happy Birthday Dad
Eugene "Dupe" Jones Jr.
July 17, 1928 - March 1, 2007

If tears could build a stairway, and memories a lane, I would walk right up to Heaven, and bring you back again.

My heart still aches with sadness, and secret
tears still flow, What it meant to love you,
No one will ever know.

Since you'll never be forgotten, I pledge to you today, A hollowed place within my heart,
Is where you'll always stay.

We miss you so much.

Love, Cheryl

The Flags of Davie are flying over North Main Street in Mocksville. They will be sold at a benefit auction for the Davie County Arts Council on July 29.

Flags Of Davie On Display Along N. Main

The Davie County Arts Council in collaboration with the Town of Mocksville are exhibiting along North Main Street the second annual Flags of Davie, a community art project of decorated flags with the theme this year being "Salute to Summertime".

Area residents of all ages and organizations such as Big Brothers and Big Sisters, Mocksville Women's Club, Davie Community Foundation and churches purchased a flag from the Davie County Arts Council's ArtWorks Committee.

Then they created the "flying canvases."

"This has been an excellent opportunity for seasoned artists, as well as aspiring artists to take part in a fun community project, as an individual or a group, that will enable them to get their talent displayed and viewed by hundreds. Everyone driving along North Main Street can enjoy the open air art exhibit," said Sidniee Suggs, arts council executive director.

The officials of the county and town were asked to be this year's judges and they found it hard to choose between the works of art. The following is the list of those entries chosen:

• County Commissioners' - Gail Wall's Summertime Collage;

• Davie County Manager's - Elizabeth Santis' Fun in the Summertime;

• Davie County Assistant Managers' - Sheryl Beck's Red Cardinal;

• Davie County Sheriff - Big Brothers Big Sister's Summer Farm Scene;

• Davie County Chamber of Commerce -Gen Lucas' Butterfly;

• Mocksville's Mayor - Davie Community Foundation's Flowers of Summer;

• Mocksville Town Commissioners' - Sidniee Suggs' Butterfly;

• Mocksville Town Manager - Mocksville Parks and Recreation-Davie Playground 5 & 6 Year Old Program's Live, Laugh, Love in the Sun;

• Mocksville's Fire Chief's - Elizabeth Bumgarner's Tropical Paradise;

• Mocksville's Police Chief's - Susan Beeson's Sunflowers.

The exhibit over Main Street will end on Tuesday, July 22. The community is invited to purchase many of the flags at an auction on Tuesday, July 29 in front of the Brock Performing Arts Center. Proceeds will go to fund future art council projects. Best of Show, second place and third place winners will be announced at the time of the auction.

For more information about the Flags of Davie or other arts council projects, call Suggs at 751-3112.

Y Receives Food Lion Grant

The Davie Family YMCA has received a $1,000 grant from the Food Lion Charitable Foundation.

The YMCA will apply the grant to the YMCA's Partner with Youth Campaign which provides scholarships for youth, families and seniors. It funds programs such as child care, day and overnight camp, membership, teen leadership programs, adult literacy, swim lessons and senior programs.

"It helps to ensure that people can benefit from YMCA programs and services, regardless of their circumstances or ability to pay," said Jennifer Rackley, executive director of the Davie Family YMCA. "We appreciate Food Lion Charitable Foundation's gift. Their gift will allow people who would not normally have had the opportunity to enjoy our YMCA's programs and services. It means a lot to us and our community."

Doby On Army Duty At Honduras Air Base

Army Warrant Officer 1 Anthony R. Doby has arrived for duty at Soto Cano Air Base, Honduras, to serve as a member of Joint Task Force-Bravo (JTF-B).

JTF-B units conduct military-to-military training, execute counter narco-trafficking operations, human trafficking deterrence, and engagement in civil affairs activities in conjunction with U.S. interagency partners.

Doby is a BlackHawk aircraft pilot with 10 years of military service.

He is the son of Grover Doby and Melissa D. Doby, both of Mocksville. The warrant officer is a 2003 graduate of Davie High School.

Cubs Learn At Annual Day Camp

Some 84 boys from Davie and Davidson counties converged on Thousand Trails Campground last month for the annual Uwharrie District Cub Scout day camp.

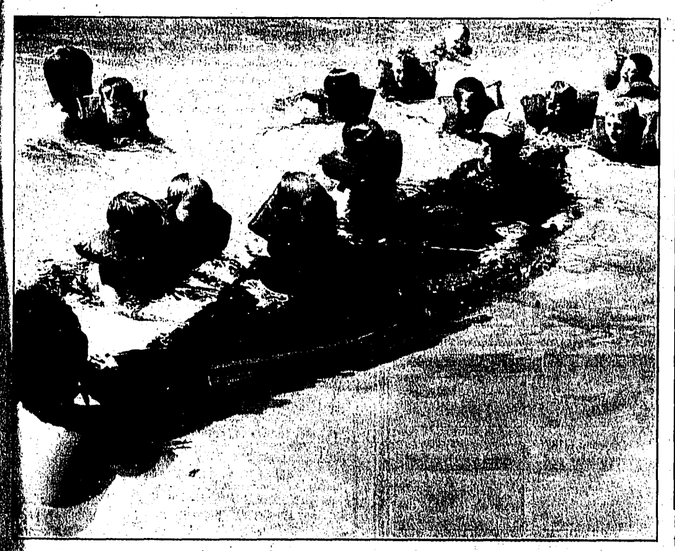

There was plenty of time for learning among the activities that included swimming, shooting BB guns, an archery range, crafts, nature walks and rodeo games - including a bicycle rodeo conducted by the N.C. Highway Patrol.

The boys went to six stations every day, and on the final day, got to complete an obstacle course, said Kim Hafer, camp director.

"A lot of them, this is the first time swimming," Hafer said. "And some of them, it's their first time shooting BBs or archery

Swimming pool activities are always a favorite.

Dave Ettman teaches the boys how to survive a canoe turnover.

Brandon Durham says the best part about the camp is getting to shoot BB guns and the archery range. "You have to be strong," he says.

Parents As Teachers

Shady Grove 4th Graders Learn From Dads

Science came to life in Kolleen Sullivan's fourth grade class at Shady Grove Elementary School during the final semester.

Two parents visited, sharing what they do on their jobs.

Callie Koeval's father, a chemistry teacher at West Forsyth High School, shared experiments. Students talked with him about liquids, solids and gases. Students especially liked it when Koeval popped a balloon containing hydrogen gas.

Jake Rycroft's father talked about insects. He works for insect terminator, Orkin. He brought pictures of termites and other bugs. Students used the SmartBoard to view the insects up close.

Rycroft brought plastic beetles and coloring books for each student.

"We had a lot of fun talking about bugs," said Mrs. Sullivan.

Mr. Rycroft talks about bugs with the students, including Hadley Hilton, Camryn Lesser, Dominick Carbone, Jake Rycroft and Grant Young.

Regional Blood Supplies At Critical Low Point

While temperatures and fuel prices continue to rise this summer, the American Red Cross reports that the blood inventory levels are so low it is unable to sufficiently meet the demand of local hospitals. While there is a constant need for all blood types, donors with type O positive, O negative, A positive and A negative are asked to take an hour to donate right away.

It is especially crucial for donors with type O blood to donate within the next few days. Type O is the most common blood type and is used extensively by hospitals. Type O blood donors are considered universal red cell donors because their blood can be given to most other blood types in emergencies when there is no time to type a patient's blood. Hospitals commonly experience an increase in traumas during the summer, making the need for type O blood even greater.

"People often forget that the need for blood never takes a vacation," says Robert F. Fechner, chief executive officer, American Red Cross Carolinas Blood Services Region. "Blood donations always decline during the summer months, but blood is used to treat area hospital patients every day, Unless donors respond immediately, hospitals may need to cancel elective or non-emergency surgeries."

In the summer, blood shortages often occur because individual donations decrease, along with the number of organizations that are able to sponsor blood drives. The absence of high school and college blood drives also contributes to this annual drop in donations because these drives account for approximately 20 percent of all donations in the Carolinas Region.

"We want to make the donation process as convenient as possible for those who take time out of their day to help save lives. In order to avoid waits at our donor centers and blood drives, we ask that donors call to make appointments to give blood," adds Fechner.

The American Red Cross Carolinas Blood Services Region needs approximately 1,600 people to donate blood and platelets each weekday to meet the needs of hospital patients. Most people who are age 17 or older and weigh at least 110 pounds are eligible to give blood every 56 days. There is no substitute for blood, and the only source is from volunteer donors.

To schedule an appointment to donate or for information on the location of blood drives, call 1-800-GIVE-LIFE (448-3543) or visit www.redcrossblood.org.

Davie Teacher Studying In Washington

Stephanie Ziglar is a recipient of the second annual "Teacher in Congress" internship.

Ziglar, a history, civics and economics teacher at Davie County Early College High School, will travel to Washington, DC for two weeks of intensive study and hands-on experience learning about American government.

"This is an exciting opportunity for Stephanie that will help make her classroom come alive," said Rep. Virginia Foxx. "These two weeks in Washington will give her new tools for teaching students about their government and role in civics. My hope is that she will come away with fresh ideas for encouraging her students to become more invested in their future civic duties."

Ziglar has been a social studies teacher at the school for one year. She is a recent graduate of UNC-Greensboro.

While in Washington, Ziglar will get a taste of the workings of Congress and the federal government while experiencing the day-to-day life of a member of Congress. The internship will consist of an introduction to the legislative process; opportunities for curriculum research; briefings with House committee staff; attending hearings, legislative meetings, floor debates and votes; attending meetings with Foxx; and tours of the U.S. Capitol, Library of Congress and Washington-area museums.

This marks the second year of Foxx's Teachers in Congress internship program. Ziglar will join Perry Alan Lloyd of Elkin for the internship. Lloyd has taught social studies at Elkin High School for more than 20 years.

Code Enforcement Officer Confused

He Says Board Gives Mixed Directions; Urges Demolition And Civil Penalties

By Jackie Seaholt
Davie County Enterprise Record

COOLEEMEE - The chief code enforcement officer said the town should begin demolishing properties or issuing civil penalties against zoning violators.

Tony Cline, the contracted zoning enforcer for the town, pointed out highlights from a report of zoning violations recently submitted to commissioners.

Several residents attended the monthly meeting last Tuesday.

"I've been faced with many challenges in Cooleemee," Cline said.

Some of the cases on the reports have been ongoing for more than a year. "A lot of towns, at this point, would adopt an ordinance to demolish, but that's not your wish."

Properties in violation on Riverside, Duke and Westview streets are top priorities, he said.

Mayor John Chandler asked Cline the amount of civil penalties.

Cline said most towns impose a $50 or $100 penalty a day.

Commissioner Earl Lester said, "For me to make a decision I need to see these properties with someone that knows buildings and see if the property actually needs to come down. I cannot make a decision without some expertise."

Cline told the commissioners there were a few properties in the town "that are pretty bad."

Chandler asked if more detailed reports and pictures of properties in violation could be obtained before the board took any action.

Chandler also asked Cline is he tried to contact violators before taking any action.

"I try," Cline replied. "Cooleemee has been different for me. I've done this for 11 years. The board has done some pushing and pulling."

Chandler told Cline it was not the board's intention to confuse him. "If it's a clear violation I don't think there's anyone on this board that doesn't want it enforced."

Cancer Diagnosis Not The End Of The World

Many years ago, on a quiet street in Mocksville, there lived a young man with his life stretched out before him like a blacktop in July.

He was 21, with a pretty, energetic wife and one-year-old son named after him.

He had a good job, and in his spare time, he played baseball, softball and basketball. If there was a game going on somewhere, chances are, he was there.

He was in the best shape of his life.

And then, one day, he noticed a lump on the side of his neck. The joints in his hands were red. He went to a local doctor, who said he had inflammatory arthritis and put him on steroids. But the lump kept getting bigger, and something told him there was more going on inside his body than arthritis.

He went to a second doctor, who diagnosed a vascular infection.

Another lump popped up on the same side, so the young man went to see a relatively new county doctor, Francis Slate, who took one look at him and said, 'Go in my office and sit down.'

Dr. Slate's diagnosis was either lymphoma or leukemia, but he felt sure it was some type of cancer and told him he wanted him to go to the hospital.

Criterium Here Tuesday

It's billed as NASCAR on two wheels.

And for those who attended last year's inaugural Historic Mocksville Criterium, they know that dozens of bicyclists from across the nation traveling at break-neck speeds on the half-mile course on town streets can be exciting.

The racing starts at 6:15 p.m. on Tuesday, July 29. The Mocksville stop is the fourth of nine days of racing, starting in Taylorsville on Friday, going to Lenoir and Morganton before hitting Mocksville's streets, then traveling to Concord, Salisbury, Statesville, Harrisburg and Winston-Salem.

There will be plenty of food and games for the children on the square in Downtown Mocksville. The races will take place on Main Street to Water Street, to Salisbury Street to Gaither Street and back to Main Street.

Those streets will be closed to vehicle traffic beginning at 5 p.m. Tuesday.

Races start at 6:15 with the amateur category, ending at 8:45 with the hour-long professional race. In between, there will be fun "trike" races for teens, fire, rescue and police units, and county officials, as well as master's and intermediate races.

Proceeds will benefit the Davie County United Way.

Ryan Hamilton Helps Train Iraqi Forces

CAMP STRIKER– Iraqi Army Soldiers conducted a cordon, search and patrol of the Fetoah area June 18 to disrupt enemy operations and detain any insurgents in the area.

Soldiers from the 3rd Battalion, 22nd Brigade, 6th Iraqi Army Division were assisted by Rakkasan Soldiers from 3rd platoon, Company B, 1st Bn., 35th Armored Division. The combined effort gained intelligence about the area and demonstrated the capabilities of IA to the local populace.

"The people in the houses we visited today were very calm and collected and wanting to help the IA find what they were looking for," said Cpl. Raymond W. Miller, 1st squad A, Co. B, 1-35 Armd. Div. team leader.

The IA actively participates in every phase of the planning process for these missions, said Sgt. Ryan Hamilton, 1st squad leader, Co. B, 1-35 Armd. Div.

"The number one thing (the IA) did today was they listened. They performed everything that we expected of them and really gave 110 percent," said Hamilton, a native of Mocksville.

"I think they are capable of doing these types of missions and completing these types of missions with flying colors."

The structure of the IA is different than that of the Coalition forces, said 1st Lt. Thomas J. Woodard, 3rd Plt., Co. B,, 1-35 Armd. Div. platoon leader.

"Sometimes it is less about trying to bring them to the way we do things and more just understanding the way they do it," said Woodard, an Albuquerque, N.M., native.

The importance of the mission in the Fetoah area, about 15 kilometers southwest of Baghdad, was to get the IA talking to the people, letting them know they were there and can do their job. This illustrates to the populace they do not have to be afraid because their national army is capable, said Miller, a McConnellsburgh, Pa., native.

"We support each other. We are here for the same cause so we all put forth the effort so we can do what needs to be done," Miller said.

Male Driver Finally Asked For Directions

He was filling up his truck at the Farmington Exxon last Wednesday as I was checking a newspaper rack.

Lost drivers always assume a newspaper guy knows where things are. Usually, I'm quizzed about how to get to Caudell Lumber, Autumn Care, one of the factories or the motels.

"How do I get to Roxboro?" this man asked.

Do you spell that R-o-x-b-o-r-o?

He nodded.

You can't get there from here. You have to go somewhere else to start, I told him.

He didn't seem to get my joke.

Roxboro's back east, I told him. Where are you coming from?

"Fayetteville."

It is not correct that men never ask for directions. They're merely slow about doing so.

I once knew the editor of the Roxboro newspaper, but I've never actually been there. It is north of Chapel Hill in Person County.

The lost driver had missed it by at least 150 miles. He had driven until he ran out of gas. Only then did he asked for directions.

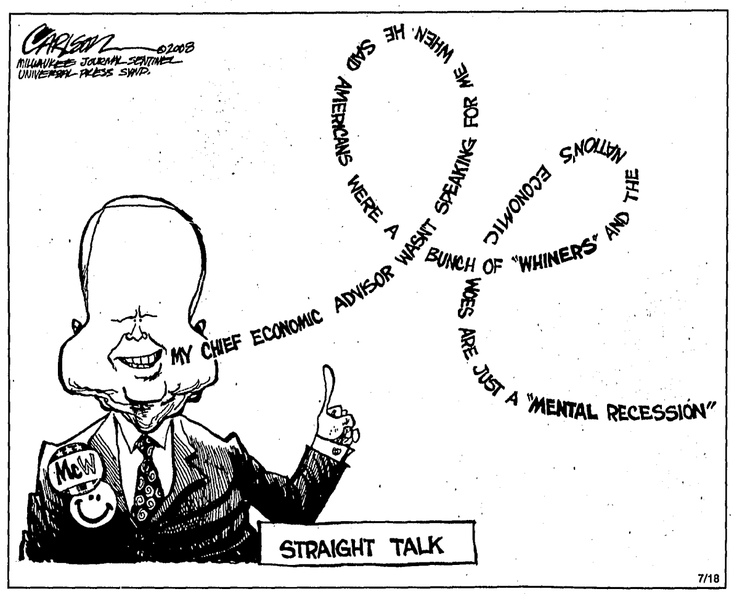

I sent him inside the store to buy a map. Person County is on the Virginia line between Caswell and Granville counties and north of Durham County.

Map reading skills will soon be as uncommon as the horse and carriage. With the emergence of in-car GPS systems and the ever-popular MapQuest, the new generation will never know how to re-fold a road map. (No generation has actually been able to accomplish that feat).

Geography's days are numbered. We will become prisoners of computer-generated directions, unable to tell east from west.

Person County's population is about 37,000. The City of Roxboro's website includes a section of frequently asked questions. The first one: "Why does my water look like milk?"

I didn't ask the lost man why he was going to Roxboro, but he was not driving a milk truck.

'Smoke Out' Prompts Topless Question

It would be easier to be upset with the recent "Smoke Out" at the Farmington Dragway if the patrons hadn't been so cordial and spent so much money. For stores, restaurants and motels, the Smoke Out was a weekend bonanza. For law enforcement, the Smoke Out was smoother than the average Davie High football game. There were no arrests. The motorcyclists weren't the young toughs, ruffians and outlaws that had been feared. Most were regular, mature folks who ride motorcycles for weekend pleasure.

For people who don't like the noisy dragstrip, their opinions probably didn't change, but the dragstrip has been a fixture in Farmington for more than four decades.

The Clemmons village board praised the event, and there is talk about a possible return next year. The mayor of Winston-Salem, impressed with the revenue, is trying to lure it to the Dixie Classic Fairgrounds. Next year's up in the air, but some issues linger.

"Did the reporter really say that it is not illegal for a woman to go topless in public in NC? In other words, could a woman stand topless in the town square of downtown Mocksville and not be arrested?"

The answer is yes. And no. Don't expect emboldened women to throw off their blouses. A creative policemen does have other options in his ticket book: Disturbing the peace. Drunk and disruptive. Speeding to elude arrest ...

We've made it this far without topless women being a problem on the court square. Expect that condition to continue.

School Decision Should Go To Voters

To the editor:

I have attended every Davie County School System public workshop and/or school board meeting at which a PowerPoint presentation offered pro's and con's concerning the proposed Davie County school reorganization plan. I commend Dr. Landry, Dr. Bost, staff and school board members for their attempt to make sure everyone had a chance to understand the process. Whether you like the reorganization plan or not, Dr. Landry and the school board made it perfectly clear from the beginning that their goal was to reduce the total student count at Davie High School by approximately 500 students, which is the approximate number of ninth grade students. They have been extremely open and honest with their intent and anyone interested in this process should have that clear understanding.

Many of us have felt that a freshman academy was a better, more economical solution. Building a freshman academy on the Davie High School campus certainly would allow an opportunity to remove all mobile classrooms, which would clear up some congestion; and would create better isolation of ninth grade students, which qualified results prove to lower the high school drop-out rate. The economics of a freshman academy are extremely good, because the total cost would be less than $6 million with little recurring cost. The bottom line on the freshman academy is that it did not meet the school board's goal of reducing numbers on the Davie High School premises.

We elected the BOE to make good decisions and we must be willing to accept their decisions. Many citizens have felt that a second high school was the best solution for Davie County. The voters felt differently by voting "No" to defeat two bond referendums. The voters have spoken and their decision must be respected.

That brings us back to reorganization and the process of realigning the grades. I feel strongly that Dr. Landry was hired to his position because of his leadership and academic skills. That being said, I firmly believe that he has the right and even the obligation to bring forward the program he feels is best for the total educational opportunity for all students of Davie County with the understanding that the plan must meet the goal of reducing the numbers at Davie High School by approximately 500 students. I feel that the school board should give him a vote of confidence with their support to make his request to the board of county commissioners. The commissioners then should allow the citizens of Davie County to vote "Yes" or "No" on a scheduled bond referendum. It will be important to have total buy-in for the plan from the whole county society. A positive vote should assure success of the realignment process.

As I and others have discussed with Dr. Landry and the school board, realignment of the grades has tremendous merit, but it is extremely costly. That is why it must be approved by the voters, not by COPs or any other innovative form of financing. All facts must be brought forth to the public and everyone must have complete understanding of the cost impact of realignment of grades. Building a new elementary school for the program will only represent less than half the total cost. A new elementary school will cost 13 to 15 million dollars. That alone, will equal a 3-cent property tax increase. The other cost involved comes when the new school is completed. In her PowerPoint presentation Dr. Bost has identified a yearly recurring cost of approximately $1.3 million to staff and to operate this new school and to implement the realignment plan. This $1.3 million will equal an additional 3 to 4-cent property tax increase. I personally think it would be 4-cents by the time the process is accomplished. This total cost is my reason for saying that all facts must be put on the table and everyone must have an absolute understanding of the total cost impact of realignment of grades throughout the school system. I would recommend that Dr. Landry and the school board make their recommendation to the county commissioners by requesting a bond referendum up front. It will be important that the voters have their say, because we are not just talking about a 3-cent tax increase to build a new elementary school; we are talking about a 7-cent tax increase to accomplish the realignment process, which would include the new school. This is important to know, because a 7-cent property tax increase equals an amount greater than the cost to satisfy all accumulated school debt Davie County has today.

In closing, please allow me to go on record asking all organized groups to stay neutral, if the realignment plan goes forward. Allow the voting citizens to gather their own facts, to ask their own questions and to do their own analysis to arrive at their voting decision. I really believe the citizens of Davie County will know when the right plan has been presented, and will vote accordingly. I feel confident that Dr. Landry and the school board accept their responsibility and will request only what they think is best for Davie County.

Soil & Water District Seeks Continued Support From Davie

To the editor:

On behalf of the Davie Soil and Water Conservation District Board of Supervisors and the office staff, I would like to express our appreciation for your support and participation in our efforts to conserve soil, water and all natural resources.

The Davie Soil & Water Conservation District began sponsoring the Awards/Appreciation Banquet in the fall of 1972. For the last 36 years, this annual event was a special way to recognize farmers, farm families, educators, students, government officials, communicators, and other outstanding volunteers. In addition, this event also provided information, updates and education to the community.

Due to a shortage in funding the Davie Soil and Water Conservation District has decided not to sponsor this event this year. We ask for your continued support in our endeavors of conserving the natural resources in Davie County.

If we can be of service to you please contact us at 751-5011 or email us at dswcd@mocksville.com.

We would like to thank all the people who came out to help us after the May 8 tornado. Just minutes after the storm cleared, the Advance Fire Department was knocking on doors in our neighborhood to make sure everyone was safe and unhurt. Remember that these people are volunteers - not paid personnel. They perform these services from the heart because they care. They deserve our utmost support in order to be there when we need them.

Our home was one of the three homes destroyed in Davie County. We were in a state of shock and confusion and so many people showed up to help clear destruction that we can't name everyone.

A special thanks to the Red Cross; to the people who furnished food for the family and the many workers; to the people who stopped by just to offer their services; Freedom Baptist Church for their prayers and support; and anyone else we may have overlooked.

A special thanks goes out to our pastor, Will Pryor, for being by our side. Other than our faith in God, he was a huge comfort during this time of disaster.

Raleigh Report: Jessica's Law A Step Forward

By Julia C. Howard
N.C. House of Representatives

On Friday, the General Assembly adjourned its 2008 short legislative session. The House and Senate will not reconvene until next January, following the impending elections, when the new 2009 General Assembly will begin.

A final version of House Bill 933, Jessica Lunsford Act for North Carolina, passed both chambers of the Legislature by nearly unanimous margins. The bill now heads to the governor, who is expected to sign it into law.

As a primary sponsor of this legislation, I believe North Carolina has taken a major step forward in protecting our children from sexual predators. After years of perseverance in seeing this legislation passed, I am most pleased with the results and am so thankful to the many individuals and groups that offered continual support during this bills long debate.

Under the final version of the bill, a rape or sexual offense committed against a child by a person 18 years of age or older is punishable with a minimum active sentence of 25 years. The court may sentence the defendant to a term in prison beyond the normal sentencing guidelines (up to and including life without parole) due to the nature of the offense and the gravity of the harm inflicted on the victim. Any term of imprisonment will be followed by lifetime satellite based monitoring.

The bill makes it a felony for a registered sex offender to be on premises primarily intended for the use, care, or supervision of minors such as schools, playgrounds, childrens museums, etc., (with some very limited exceptions). It prohibits offenders from being within 300 feet of such places when they are not on premises that are intended primarily for minors (e.g., a youth day care located in a shopping center with other stores). The time period for a registered sex offender to make registry changes is also shortened under the bill from 10 days to three business days (e.g., a change of address, work or school related changes).

A number of other states are considering or have passed Jessicas Law. In North Carolina, House Bill 933 was named in memory of Jessica Lunsford, a 9-year-old girl and North Carolina native who was kidnapped, raped, and murdered by a sexual predator in Florida in February of 2005. The perpetrator lived with his sister in the same neighborhood as Lunsford and police had lost track of him.

As a mother of two and grandmother of six, I believe this bill is one of the most important pieces of legislation the North Carolina General Assembly has passed in my 20 years of service in the House. Truly, I wish such measures weren't necessary, but I hope parents will find comfort in knowing that the state is doing all it can to ensure the safety of their children.

That's all the news from Raleigh for this legislative session. As always, if I may be of service to you, contact me. I'm available and here to help with any issue involving your North Carolina State Government.

Why do I need periodic eye exams after LASIK?

The good news is that most laser vision patients still return for annual health checks and value the reassurance and consultation of their primary eye doctor. While many surgery centers require good post-operative and routine eye care to qualify for future enhancements, the number one reason that patients return is because they want to protect the precious gift of sight. Maybe it is because having known poor vision makes good vision that much more valuable.

Most eye disease can be more successfully treated and vision loss prevented if it is diagnosed and treated early. For millions of Americans at risk for macular degeneration, glaucoma, retinal disorders and other eye disease, the best way to deal with these risks is to seek regular eye health and vision examinations.

Third Generation Starts At Sheriff's Department

By Jackie Seabolt
Davie County Enterprise Record

Cody Stephens, 22, was sworn in as a deputy on July 1.

He is a third-generation employee of the Davie Sheriff's Department.

Cody completed his basic law enforcement training at Davidson Community College and is a five-year veteran of the National Guard Reserves who has served in Iraq.

Cody is beginning his career as a patrol officer and says he hopes to carry on a long tradition of law enforcement service in Davie County.

"I've always wanted to follow in my father's footsteps," Cody said.

Cody's father and grandfather were also sworn officers in Davie.

John Stephens, 60, spent 24 of his 25 with the sheriff's department as a detective.

John retired in 2005 and when he reflects back on his time as an officer he remembers his time there fondly. "I enjoyed it. In some aspects it's very rewarding and in other aspects it can be depressing. It is a job that has to be done."

John says he's proud of Cody and he knows that he'll make a good officer.

When John was asked if he had any words of wisdom to pass on to Cody he said, "I'd tell him to listen and treat people the way you'd want to be treated. Davie County has been good to me."

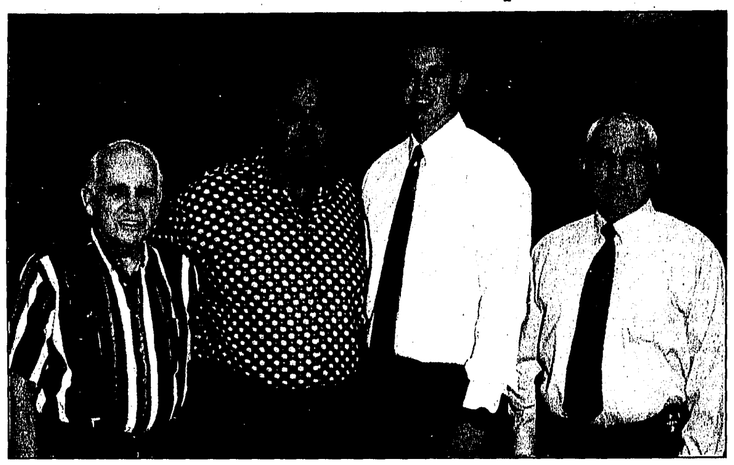

John is married to Dianna and also has a daughter, Courtney, 19.

Buster Smith, 73, began his career with the sheriff's department in 1980.

He was the chief jailer at Davie Detention Center until he retired in 2000.

When asked if working in the law enforcement field was always something he wanted to do Buster laughs, "I never thought I'd ever go there. I told them when I came here I'd give them two weeks, and I stayed for 20 years. I had good people to work with."

Buster has seen many changes in his time working. "When I first started, five jailers were all we had. There have been times there wouldn't be anybody there but me."

Buster worked under three different sheriffs and calls his time there "an experience."

Buster says Cody has always talked about working in law enforcement and he hopes his grandson will make a career of it.

He worked part-time right after he retired, but now Buster spends most of his days at home with his Carrie, his wife of 55 years.

Cooleemee Eyes Growth

By Jackie Seabolt
Davie County Enterprise Record

COOLEEMEE - Board members in Cooleemee want their small town to grow and they've taken the first steps to help the process along.

A six-month strategic growth plan for the town was unanimously approved at this month's commissioners meeting.

According to commissioner Earl Lester, "We are contracting with Benchmark to put together a plan for growth and maintenance of what we have."

Benchmark, based out of Kannapolis, was formed in 1982 and is a strategic community development company.

According to the agreement, the town of Cooleemee will pay Benchmark $8,100 over a six-month period.

Beginning next month Benchmark will hold a meeting with town staff and review census data.

In September a steering committee will be formed made up of town board members, planning board members, business leaders, residents, and representatives of community organizations.

A public workshop and survey will be conducted by October.

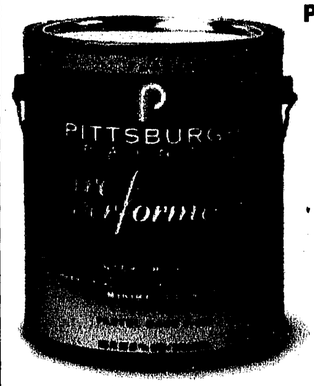

That committee will conduct a workshop in December where a vision, goals, objectives and implementations will be drafted.

"I'm well pleased with what they've (Benchmark) put together and anxious to get started," Lester said.

Marion ...

As if it was yesterday, the young man remembers going home, getting his pajamas packed, and then throwing up, out of fear, because he'd never been in the hospital before.

The next day, May 27, the lump was tested, and an additional biopsy of bone marrow, through a needle plunged into the chest wall, was done. That Thursday night, in his room at the Davie County Hospital, the young man, his sister, Vivian, his wife, Gigi, and her family waited for the diagnosis.

Dr. Slate entered the room and told them it was Hodgkin's lymphoma.

The young man was relieved, and said to Dr. Slate, "Whew. For a minute there I thought you were gonna tell me I had cancer."

Vivian, Gigi and Dr. Slate stepped into the hall, realizing the young man did not know that Hodgkin's lymphoma is cancer of the lymph system, and Dr. Slate, with tears in his eyes, told Vivian he could not go back in and deliver the news again.

Vivian, a nurse, did.

"Dan, you have cancer, and it is terminal."

That was the moment that changed Dan Marion's life forever. The moment the blacktop faded, but just for a moment.

Dan arrived soon after at North Carolina Baptist Hospital, where he underwent four days of tests, and the results showed that his cancer was in the third – almost fourth – stage. With Hodgkin's, there were five stages, with the fifth stage the worst. The doctor told Dan his cancer was terminal, that they were going to try to make him as comfortable as possible, but that he needed to get things in order to prepare for his death.

That was June 10, 1968.

Fast forward to July 10, 2008.

Dan is sitting in his living room, with his dog, Molly, on his lap and the love of his life, his wife, Gigi, sitting beside him. His three grandchildren, Kristen Neely, 12, Davy Marion, 6, and his sister, Rose, 4, just left the spot Molly is now in. (His other granddaughter, Sarah Marion, 18, is away at college.)

Dan is comfortable, laughing, smiling. Alive. Wonderfully, graciously, miraculously, alive.

Oh sure, life isn't always a picnic. He takes 12 pills a day, chews tobacco constantly to make saliva, because his treatments burned out his salivary glands, and his sense of taste isn't what it was. His lung capacity is decreased.

But he's in his living room, a place he never expected to be, at the age of 61, telling his story publicly for the first time.

After the diagnosis, Dan was told that although his cancer would take his life in a matter of months, there was an experimental program going on for people with Hodgkin's.

"The doctor said, 'We'd like you to enter the program. It's strictly voluntary, and if you want to do it, we might learn something that will help someone else.' But helping someone else wasn't really on my mind right then," Dan said, laughing.

"There are a couple of stages of cancer, with the first being 'why.' Then there's denial, then depression, then 'oh, pity me,' but I just took a different approach. They let me come home right after that, and I put on my tennis shoes and ran three miles.

"I had a one-year-old son and a wife – I had an obligation. So I went back to work, and I started looking at my life in terms of days. If I got up, I was happy to just be able to get up. I looked at each day, not tomorrow."

Dan returned to his job at Ingersoll-Rand, the company he went to work for when he was 18, (and is still not completely retired from) and it was a good job, making $1.35 an hour, more than enough to support the young family and pay the rent on their house on Poplar Street.

He continued to play ball when he could, and then, one day, he returned to NCBH, to enter the experimental program – the administration of cobalt radiation.

Forty years later, Dan can still remember the room, even the smell of the room, where he received what was then a new, relatively unknown, treatment.

He also remembers the machine.

"Oh, it was crude. I'll tell you how crude it was. I'd go in this room, and the machine was four posts and some chicken wire, and I had to lay under the chicken wire, and they didn't know how much to give or what the effects of it would be, that's how new it was."

Dan and four others who had also been diagnosed with Hodgkin's received massive amounts of radiation, 22 treatments in 32 days. The four others had their spleens removed, but Dan had not.

After his first and second treatments, Dan went home and played basketball.

After the sixth treatment, during a pick-up game, Dan called a time out, went to the side of the court, and threw up blood.

His hair fell out, and he lost 30 pounds.

"But I never quit," he said. "I was a member of the Jaycees, and I helped with the picnic that August, and I was still playing softball."

At this point, Gigi intervenes. "Oh, he's making light of it, but he was sick. He was sick as a dog."

Dan replies, "Yes, I was sick, but I was gonna be sick if I stayed in bed. I knew it was terminal, but you can't spend all day on that. You've gotta get over that. So I was at the point, I was trying to figure out what I was gonna do with what I had left. They told me if I made it to age 30, I'd be lucky."

Three months later, the experimental group returned for a follow-up, and at that appointment, they were all there.

At the next visit, only four were there. Nine months after the program began, there were only three, and by the one-year anniversary, Dan was the sole survivor.

He had already beaten the odds, but it wouldn't be the last time.

It wasn't long after that their first child, Danny, was joined by a brother, Matt, and then, later, a sister, Jenny, and always the constant, always by his side, there was Gigi.

With a quick smile, rambunctious laugh, and a gift for seeing the good in bad, Gigi provided much of the glue that held Dan's life together.

During a time when many couples would have been torn apart by the raw emotions that made up their lives, they persevered, with Dan's stubbornness and Gigi's outlook.

Gigi said, "I told him one day, because he kept throwing up in the sink, 'Dan, if you throw up in the sink where I have to wash dishes one more time ... and he said, 'But I'm sick,' and I told him, 'Oh boo hoo, so what. Don't throw up in my sink.' "

Dan replies, "I told her, 'I'm gonna live. I'm gonna live just to spite you, and she said, 'Bring it on.' "

So he did.

Many times.

One of the pieces of advice Dan held onto came from his doctor, Donald Hayes, during his radiation treatments.

"He told me, 'You've gotta look at it this way. You could be killed in your automobile on the way here. The odds of you getting killed in an automobile accident are greater than dying from this treatment.'"

During his subsequent checkups, and after being diagnosed with skin cancer and having 17 operations to have those cancers removed, Dan held onto that advice.

And on May 5, 2005, he needed it again.

With his Hodgkin's in remission, Dan was traveling quite a bit with work, having taken over the Southeast region for corporate sales, but during the spring, in March and April, he wasn't feeling well.

This time, he visited Dr. Evans, who suggested a CT scan. The scan took place on a Tuesday, and on Thursday, Dr. Evans called Dan and told him he was coming to his house.

By the time he arrived, Matt was coming up the driveway, crying. Dan said even the doctor was crying, when he delivered the news that Dan had renal cell (kidney) cancer. "Then, he said, 'And it's big,'" Dan remembers.

The cancer was huge and perched on top of one of his kidneys, entangled with an artery, making surgery especially dangerous, because of the odds of bleeding to death, but the morning Dan was being wheeled into the operating room for his estimated eight to nine hour surgery, he still managed to crack a few jokes.

"We were in the room with all those bright lights and everyone standing around, and I said, 'Good morning. I want to clear the air. If anybody here went out last night and overdid it, you are excused.'

"Right after that, the anesthesiologist said, 'Where are you from?' and I told him Davie County and asked him where he was from. He said, 'About two miles south of Greasy Corner.' We lived within two miles of each other," Dan said, with a smile.

Gigi interjects, "You talk about divine intervention again."

About 50 people gathered in the waiting room, and when, after two hours, the doors opened and Dan was being wheeled out of the OR, Vivian, and Dan's other two sisters, who are also nurses, said that was not a good sign, that the cancer must have been too massive to remove.

But they were wrong.

The doctors were able to remove it in record time and with great success.

"My doctor, Morris Friedman, told me he'd done a thousand of those same operations and that was the only one with that outcome. I didn't even have to get any blood during the operation," Dan said.

Gigi remembers Dr. Friedman talking with them after the surgery, and she said

Please See Life - Page 7

Gardening is one of many hobbies that keep Dan and Gigi Marion busy - and happy - at their home in rural Davie County.

Life ...

he seemed perplexed by how successful it was, but Gigi wasn't surprised, because she knew Dan was, once again, being watched over.

And she couldn't have known it at the time, but someone else in the family would soon need that same watchful eye.

Just five months after his surgery, Dan got a call late night on Oct. 28, 2005, that Matt had been in a horrific accident. The call actually came from Matt, who was in shock but driving himself to the hospital, suffering from burns he received when the Bobcat he was operating fell into a pit of burning tree limbs.

Matt somehow managed to free himself and drive to Davie County Hospital.

When Dan arrived at the hospital three minutes after Matt, he reached into Matt's truck to turn it off and noticed Matt's skin hanging from the steering wheel.

For 12 days, Matt lingered in a coma in the burn unit at NCBH, with Dan at his side.

"Those 12 days standing over his bed in that burn unit were worse than what I went through," Dan said.

The boy who once wowed a county with his baseball playing prowess was balanced, precariously, between life and death, with that same county in seemingly constant prayer.

Miraculously, he lived.

And that still wasn't the last miracle in Dan's life.

On Nov. 17, 2007, Dan had just returned from a pheasant-hunting trip to South Dakota with Matt. Late that night, he woke up, in pain.

"I woke Gigi up and told her we needed to go to the hospital."

Gigi picks up the story there. "I was driving, and we were heading for Iredell, and we had just about gotten to the Davis Hospital exit when Dan started gurgling. He said, 'Well, that's something different,' and went into full congestive heart failure."

Somehow, Gigi managed to keep driving, reaching Iredell, where a deputy came out and helped Dan into a wheelchair. Doctors started working on him immediately, got him stabilized, and then his heart stopped again. A trauma team was called in to transport him to a hospital in Charlotte.

At this point in the story, Dan stops, smiles, and says, "But other than that, I'm OK.

"When I put my foot on the floor every morning, I say, 'Thank you.' I have every reason to sit here and sorry for myself and feel depressed, but it's just like that doctor told me - I could get killed in an automobile accident.

"I can't quit. I can't give up. I didn't pick cancer. It picked me. I'm still dealing with the effects of that radiation, but when people come up to me and say, 'How you doin'? How's your health?' I say, 'Good, probably as good as yours.'"

When asked if he would change anything about his life, Dan thinks for a minute, starts to say something, and then says, "No, I wouldn't change a thing. I have a wife, children, grandchildren, I love to hunt and fish, and now I love it even more because I get to do it with my son and grandson.

"My life changed when I met Gigi in seventh grade. She made me better than I was. So, would I change anything? No. And this is what I want people to know if they're dealing with this. You can sit down or you can get up and do something. You might die doing it, but you've still gotta get up and do it."

And then Dan, cowboy hat on his head, walks out to enjoy a few minutes of an unexpected afternoon rain, looks at his garden, and smiles. He's already planning next year's garden.

It has a new location and a new energy. And for the first time, a major music act will be part of the Davie County Relay for Life. The relay starts at 6:20 p.m. Friday at the Davie Family YMCA track on Cemetery Street in Mocksville, followed by the opening ceremony - including the recognition of cancer survivors in Davie County.

Country music star Kevin Sharp will perform a free concert beginning at 8 p.m.

The all-night event will include more music and dancing, and there will be plenty of food, including tenderloin sandwiches, sub sandwiches, hotdogs, fruit and vegetables, desserts, grilled chicken, ice cream and more. There will be games for children and adults, and plenty of chances to bid on raffle items.

All money will go to help fight cancer and support cancer victims.

Shuttles to the site will run every 15 minutes from 5:30-7:30 p.m. from the Davie County Public Library/First Baptist Church, and on the hour from 8-10 p.m.

We Helped Michelle Walk to the Altar

The walk to the altar was not an easy one for Michelle Eudy of Statesville. A year and a half ago an accident broke her back, crushed her pelvis and left her paralyzed below the waist.

Many doubted she would walk again. But not Michelle.

Following surgery, she began her inpatient recovery at Forsyth Medical Center's Whitaker Rehabilitation Center. During her time at Whitaker she became engaged and set a goal to be able to walk to the altar and stand on her own.

Michelle continued her recovery at Forsyth's Martinat Outpatient Rehabilitation Center in Mocksville. Her therapists there, Shannon Kimel and Angelia Wood, used their skills and training to advance her healing. They also became her friends, attending her recent wedding.

Michelle Eudy's walk to the altar is a story of triumph over adversity. And it is just one of the more than 850 remarkable stories of patients who trusted Forsyth Medical Center for their rehabilitation care last year.

Howard Delighted With State's New Jessica's Law

RALEIGH - A final version of House Bill 933, Jessica Lunsford Act for North Carolina, passed the North Carolina House and Senate by nearly unanimous margins. The bill now heads to the governor, who is expected to sign the bill into law.

"North Carolina took a major step forward today in protecting our children from sexual predators," said Rep. Julia Howard (R-Davie) a primary sponsor of the bill. "After years of perseverance in seeing this legislation passed, I am pleased with the results and am so thankful to the many individuals and groups that offered continual support during this bill's long debate."

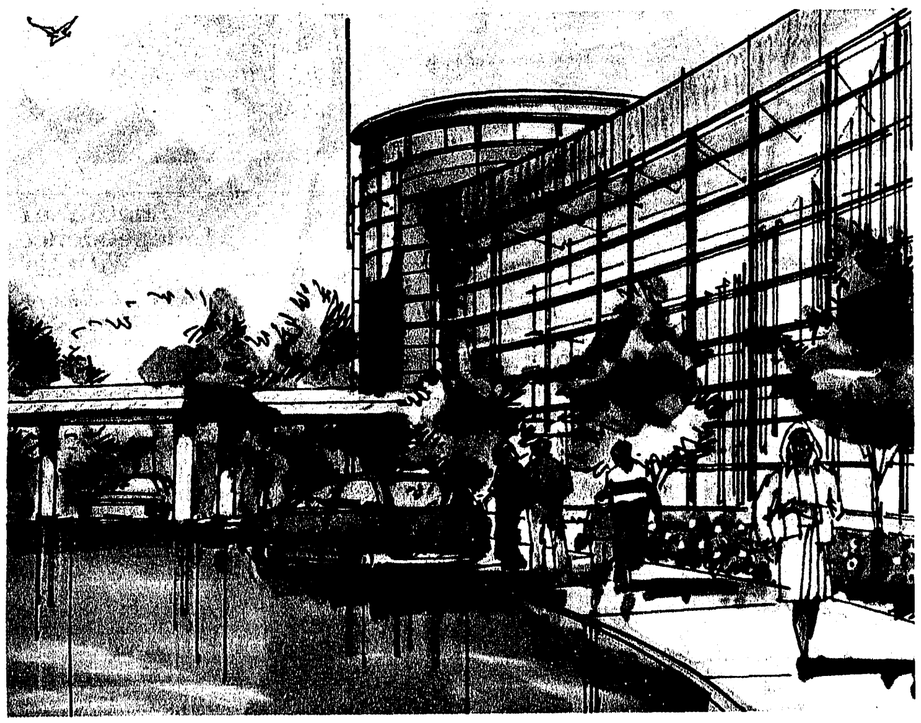

Under the final version of the bill, a rape or sexual offense committed against a child by a person 18 years of age or older is punishable with a minimum active sentence of 25 years. The court may sentence the defendant to a term in prison beyond the normal sentencing guidelines (up to and including life without parole) due to the nature of the offense and the gravity of the harm inflicted on the victim. Any term of imprisonment will be followed by lifetime satellite based monitoring.

House Bill 933 makes it a felony for a registered sex offender to be on premises primarily intended for the use, care, or supervision of minors such as schools, playgrounds, children's museums, etc., (with some limited exceptions). It prohibits offenders from being within 300 feet of such places when they are not on "premises" that are intended primarily for minors (e.g., a youth day care located in a shopping center with other stores). The time period for a registered sex offender to make registry changes is shortened under the bill from 10 days to three business days (e.g., a change of address, work or school related changes).

A number of other states are considering or have passed Jessica's Law. In North Carolina, House Bill 933 was named in memory of Jessica Lunsford, a 9-year-old girl and North Carolina native who was kidnapped, raped, and murdered by a sexual predator in Florida in February of 2005. The perpetrator lived with his sister in the same neighborhood as Lunsford and police had lost track of him.

"As a mother of two and grandmother of six, I believe this bill is one of the most important pieces of legislation the North Carolina General Assembly has passed in my 20 years of service in the House," stated Howard. "I wish such measures weren't necessary, but I believe parents will find comfort in knowing that the state is doing all it can to ensure the safety of their children."

For more information, please contact Howard at her office in Raleigh at (919) 733-5904 or Mocksville at 751-8567.

We're doing our best, because Davie County deserves the best.

While filing and applying for a Certificate of Need with the State is a complicated—and often lengthy—process, residents of Davie County should know that Davie County Hospital and Wake Forest University Baptist Medical Center are still working hard to make a modern hospital in Davie County a reality.

We filed another CON application on July 16, because:

- We believe that Davie County residents deserve obstetrical services.
- We know that Davie County needs a modern hospital.
- We made a commitment to do everything within our power to secure a new hospital for Davie County, and we will continue to fight for what the community needs.

We appreciate your continued support of our applications to make Davie County Hospital one that reflects the strength and potential of the County.

Please know that because you asked for it, we'll keep fighting for it.

Hall Of Famer

End Of Bubba Era Coincided With End Of 3-Sport Athlete

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

First in a two-part series on Davie High hall of famer Bubba Coleman.

Bubba Coleman was the athlete we all would like to be. The top dog of his era and one of the most decorated athletes in Davie's 52-year history, Bubba could play anything, and Bubba didn't need a last name. When you mentioned "Bubba" in 1992-93, everyone knew you were talking about the mighty mite who was all-Central Piedmont Conference in football, basketball and baseball. Better yet, he played the premier position in each sport - quarterback, point guard and shortstop.

Jesse Eugene Coleman was inducted into the Davie County High School Athletic Hall of Fame in fall 2005. He and wife Heather live in Advance. They have a young son, Braddock.

When he was growing up in Cooleemee, no one ever called him Jesse. He got his nickname from twin sister Jami.

"When I was little, Jami was always trying to say 'brother,'" Bubba said in '93. "It wasn't coming out clearly. She mumbled something and it came out 'Bubba.' That's what it's been ever since."

What made Bubba unusual is he established impeccable hall-of-fame credentials despite a 5-foot-7, 150-pound frame. He was listed at 150, which means he was probably closer to 140. But he proved there are no such things as an undersized quarterback or point guard.

He was named all-CPC in five straight seasons, including twice in basketball and baseball. He made the all-state team in baseball. Davie's end-of-year athletic banquet in '93 belonged to Bubba: Male Athlete of the Year, Golden Helmet award in football, most valuable player in basketball and MVP in baseball. He was the only CPC baseball player named to the Greensboro News & Record all-state first team.

From the first day of football practice through Davie's final baseball game, Bubba's picture was in the sports section 35 times. Not only was he one of the best all-around athletes ever, he was one of the most-loved players of all time.

But through all the accolades and publicity, few stars have ever deflected praise as quickly as Bubba. He couldn't have cared less if he made headlines. All he wanted to do was play ball and have fun, and he carried an enthusiastic personality that was infectious.

"He has an air about him," the baseball coach, Dave Hunt, said in '93. "He doesn't strut, but he has that flash. I looked over and saw him signing an autograph for a little kid. Bubba has that charisma. He's of small stature and is smiling and outgoing. Kids flock to that."

"I know the people of Davie County are sad about him leaving," the Reynolds basketball coach, Howard West, said in '93. "But I'm glad to see him go."

Though it's only been 15 years since Bubba's senior year, things were a lot different in his day. When Bubba left the sports pages at the conclusion of the '93 American Legion baseball season, little did anyone know he represented a dying breed. Bubba was the traditional three-sport athlete. In his day, many of the top athletes played three sports. In his day, kids lived outside - unsupervised - used their imaginations and

Defense Overcomes Noble's Record-Setting Night

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

The fourth in a series recalling 10 memorable football wins. This is No. 7 in the countdown to No. 1.

From one chapter to another during the 2002 football season, Davie would inspire hope and then follow it with disappointment. The final chapter of the regular season, on the other hand, was scrapbook material.

Despite having shown little capability of surviving an offensive shootout, the War Eagles turned six North Davidson turnovers into 23 points, weathered 462 passing yards by Daniel Light and 292 receiving yards by Chris Noble and upset the heavily-favored Black Knights 26-24 in Welcome.

Davie spoiled a historic night for Light (21 of 41 for 462 yards) and Noble (nine catches, 292 yards). Noble set a state record for receiving yards in a game, and the record still stands today. Light's passing yards ranked fourth in state history at the time and ranks fifth today.

While North's offense moved the ball at ease between the 20s, Davie's defense showed the guts of a burglar and defied logic. North had 19 first downs to Davie's 13. North more than doubled Davie in passing yards, 462 to 208. North had 506 total yards to Davie's 293. North rolled into Davie territory on 10 of 15 possessions and only punted twice. Davie, by contrast, punted eight times. What's more, North came in with an 8-2 record, while Davie was 4-6.

But this is why you play the game. Davie trumped North's huge edge in statistics by converting nine of 17 third- and fourth-down plays.

"We killed ourself," Light said. "We kind of came into the game big-headed and it hurt us. We just overlooked them because we thought we would be able to beat them with no trouble. Davie really deserved to win that game. They played a heckuva game."

The War Eagles had spent a year stewing over the 2001 regular-season finale at home against North. They folded in the fourth quarter and lost 20-13, forcing a three-way tie for first in the Central Piedmont Conference. Then their season was wrecked - despite a 9-2 record - by a drawing for two state-playoff berths.

With battered body parts everywhere and a handful of sophomores and one freshman holding starting jobs, frustrations of losing every other game had mounted on Davie. A two-game skid and a fifth straight loss to

Former Pitching Star Named Ellis Coach

In the 12-year history of fastpitch, Davie softball hasn't seen a better pitcher than Shannon (Handy) Wood. She led Davie to four Central Piedmont Conference championships in three years (1999-01), to a 39-8 record in 2000-01 and to back-to-back appearances in the state quarterfinals.

Softball still runs in Wood's veins, and now she's going to try her skills at head coaching. Wood, who married Brian Wood in April, assisted Janice Jackson on Davie's varsity team in 2008, when Wood was a teacher assistant at the high school. This fall she's going to coach Ellis Middle School's softball team. She replaced Dana Keeney, who coached Ellis' first team in 2007. Wood will remain Jackson's assistant at Davie.

"When I was in high school I always said my dream job would be a PE teacher and softball coach," Wood said. "And after getting the opportunity at Ellis, I would be crazy not to take it. (Assisting Jackson) gave me a chance to get my foot in the door."

As a 2000 junior, Wood was 12-4 with an 0.79 ERA. She was nearly an invincible force in 2001, going 15-1 with an 0.59 ERA as Davie went 20-2. Her only loss came from Alexander Central in the quarterfinals.

Wood holds the one and two spots in season wins, at 15 and 12. She holds Davie career records in wins (40), innings pitched (347 1/3) and strikeouts (341).

Wood and sister Stacey Handy, who played shortstop on the 20-2 Davie team, played softball together at Catawba College. The youngest of three sisters, Sara Handy, is a rising junior at Davie.

DCCC Bound

Darius Hall To Play Basketball For Community College Team

Eric Lowery (Pfeiffer) is not the only Davie boys basketball player who will play at the college level in 2008-09. Darius Hall has signed with Davidson County Community College.

It's not hard to root for a guy like Hall. His future looked uncertain for a while, but he pushed on, persevered and gave himself a chance to play at the next level.

"There were a lot of hurdles to clear," Davie coach Mike Absher said. "It's a great story because he kept battling through different things. This is an opportunity for him to further his education and continue to play basketball. He's put himself in position to make the rest of his life successful."

As a senior, the 6-5 center helped Davie to 13-13 overall and 5-5 in the Central Piedmont Conference by leading the War Eagles in rebounding and blocks. He was the second-leading scorer, averaging 11.7 points, 7.9 rebounds and 2.8 blocks.

At DCCC, Hall will play for a coach (Matt Ridge) who inspired a red-hot start in the Storm's inaugural season in 2007-08. Playing Junior College Division III as part of the National Junior College Athletic Association (NJCAA), the Storm came out smoking, tying for first in the Tarheel Conference and ranking as high as ninth in the nation among NJCAA teams. The Storm led the nation in scoring (108 points per game) and free-throw shooting (74.9 percent).

"Darius was sitting there as a senior not sure about his future," Absher said. "With some work on the court and off the court, he put himself in position where he's got an opportunity now. You're looking for the right fit for kids. Pfeiffer is a great fit for Eric academically and athletically, and I think this one is, too, because Matt Ridge is a great coach. He cares about his players on the court and off the court, and Darius couldn't be going to a better place for him."

Ridge was an assistant coach at Guilford College in 2006-07. DCCC offers two sports, the other being women's volleyball.

Dixon Helps Lady Magic In National Tournament

Janna Dixon's Bond Lady Magic basketball team reached the bracket championship game by finishing third in pool play in the 13-under AAU Division II national tournament in Kingsport, Tenn.

Even though the Division II tournament didn't have the quality of teams as the Division I tournament, it was still a nice accomplishment for a first-year team. The Magic placed in the regional and state tournaments to earn the right to play in the national tournament.

"The coach of the Lady Magic, Lacardo Means, deserves a lot of the credit because of the way he has worked and prepared his team," Janna's father, Howard Dixon, said. "He truly is a great coach, mentor and friend to these girls and their families."

The Lady Magic went 2-2 in pool play, finishing in a three-way tie for second with Staten Island and Tennessee Storm. The point spread served as the tiebreaker, and the Magic got third.

In the double-elimination Classic Bracket, the Lady Magic went 8-1, including a 65-59 overtime win over the Indiana Ice in the championship game.

The Lady Magic played 13 games, more than anyone else in the tournament.

Dixon is a rising freshman at Davie High.

Gold medal soccer winners include Katie Freeman, Savannah Goodin, Brooklyn Berry, Erin Blevin, Skyler Prillaman and Coach Joe Freeman.

3V3 Soccer Team Does Well

A local 8 year old girl's soccer team did well July 12-13 at the Dick's Sporting Goods Kick It 3v3 Live Soccer Tournament in Statesville.

On the second day of competition, the "Knock-outs" defeated "England 99" in the 2000 Girls Championship Game to bring home the gold.

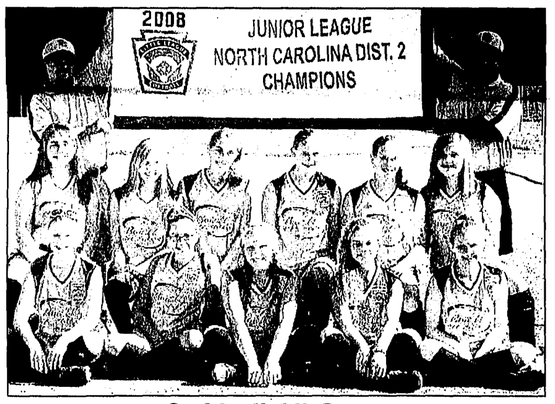

It was a physical game with a final score of 3-2. England 99 finished last year No. 5 in the nation for the U7 age group, so these girls coming out on top was a formidable task. The "Knock-Outs" team is a U8 girls soccer team: Katie Freeman (of Advance), Savannah Goodin, Brooklyn Berry, Erin Blevin, and Skyler Prillamanof Ridgeway, Va.), coached by Joe Freeman of Advance.

This is the second year the team has participated in the event. Last year they lost to England 99 and won the silver.

Bubba ...

played pickup games until they were told it was time for dinner.

The traditional three-sport athletes have been few and far between since Bubba. When Bubba left, a new age was emerging. AAU basketball/baseball was on the verge of taking over. The greatest increase ever in organized sports was on the horizon, and a major shift in our culture was unfolding. Nowadays, many of the top athletes drop a sport and concentrate on one or two. Some drop two sports and specialize in one.

Bubba grew up on Duke Street at the home of his grandmother, the late Nanny Pat Jordan. His home included mother Jan Coleman, twin sister Jami (Coleman) Lawhon and older sister Julie (Coleman) Phelps. Bubba had a father figure in Grimes Parker, who lived next door.

"There wasn't a man around, just his mom and grandmother," Parker said in '93. "Sometimes he'd get down on himself and I'd say: 'OK, Bubba. Come on over to the house and we'll talk.' It'd be just us two. I'd tell him about the facts of life."

Thinking back to those years brought back a lot of fond memories for Andy Everhart, who grew up on Watt Street, a pitching wedge from Bubba's house. In Cooleemee it was always easy to round up players for a backyard game. Bubba, Andy, Steven Parker, Gary Blalock and Todd Bumgarner were always around. The list goes on: Britt Osborne, Michael McDaniel, Jason Garwood, Brent Wall, Chad Correll ...

"We'd tell (our parents) we were going to the pool and we'd go to the Bullhole," Everhart said. "We'd ride the rapids and climb up the water fall and swing off the rope (into the Yadkin River). We'd go over to Sidney King's house to get on his trampoline. He was older than us. Sidney never really played with us, but we'd always go over to his house and jump on his trampoline because he was the only one in Cooleemee that had one. We'd have a slip-'n-slide in the yard and Bum (Bumgarner) would be the coach. We'd all try to make the team, and we'd all have names. We had the slip-'n-slide set up at second so you could slide into second. You'd have a catcher and a pitcher and Bum would be the umpire. We'd get a ladder and put a camera on the ladder to film us on the trampoline. We'd go inside and watch the real big hits in slow-mo."

While the boys played on their own - for hours and hours, day after day - Bubba was one of those short guys the bigger kids beat around. They picked on each other, goaded each other, relentlessly - all in fun, of course. Bubba was too short to get his shot off, too small to hit the tennis ball or whiffle ball with any authority.

But Bubba was going to prove you wrong - in due time. Steven Parker talked about the way things were back then.

"When we were growing up, Bubba was always the last one to get picked," he said. "Because he was so tiny out there. Charles Clement, Honey Bun Fowler and some of those boys that my dad (Grimes) had in school at Cooleemee, they were all nice to us at the Cooleemee rec center, and they'd let Bubba run every now and then. Like every fifth game he'd get in the game. They'd pass it to him and let him shoot, and kind of took him under their wing. That's how he got better. He was just playing with everybody older and bigger all those years. Now he's the first one to get picked."

"We played football on our knees at Bubba's house, and he'd get sandwiched and go in and cry," Everhart said. "On the trampoline over at Garwood's, he'd get knocked off."

"I remember him crying all the time," Blalock said. "Bubba was always the last choice. He was pretty good, but he just wasn't as big as we were. Most of the time he ended up getting hurt at some point and he'd cry. But you knew he was going to be good. The thing we always said: 'Well, there's no wonder he's good. He was always playing with us bigger boys.' And we'd like to think that we weren't half-bad."

As Bubba was enduring the rough play, a star was being born. The backyard battles is where he honed the skills that led to two years on the North Carolina Tar Heels' JV basketball team. Bubba started as a Tar Heel sophomore for coach Dave Hanners, now the assistant coach for the Charlotte Bobcats.

"He had to learn at a young age how to be tough, or he wouldn't be able to play with us," Bumgarner said. "He learned to do some things, especially in basketball. He learned to do a lot of those running shots and floaters. When we played in the neighborhood he was always short and little and he had to use those kind of shots to get them off. That's where he perfected those runners and leaners and things like that.

"We were rough on him and he'd keep coming. He was a tough little dude. He'd get hurt and go inside. Minutes later he was back and he'd want some more. He'd just keep coming. I mean you couldn't keep him down long.

"We could go out anytime on a Saturday or Sunday and get eight or 10 guys and play anything we wanted to play. We played a lot of baseball with a tennis ball. Bubba saw a lot of pitching from older kids that could throw it a lot harder than somebody his age. So he had to learn to hit fast pitching at a younger age."

Over the last 15 years, there's been a virtual disappearance of outdoor games in an unstructured environment.

"Bubba was sort of the last one of all of us, and so he got all the best of everything," Blalock said. "He was like the youngest son, and he gets the benefit of being around and playing with all the older kids. He was bound to be the best one out of the bunch."

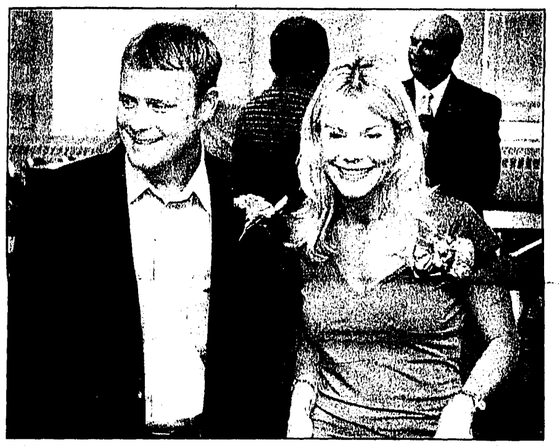

It was years later before Bubba realized those backyard lessons had paid off. As he got older, everything seemed to come easy.

"Older guys were bigger, better and faster. The expense for me was physically and sometimes emotionally," Bubba said last week. "Those were the guys that attributed to me growing (athletically) the way that I did. Andy, Gary, Steve and all those boys used to make me cry on a weekly basis. When I got into college, having played against older and bigger guys all my life, that's when I finally realized it made me a better player in any sport that I played."

Next week: The second in a two-part series on Bubba Coleman.

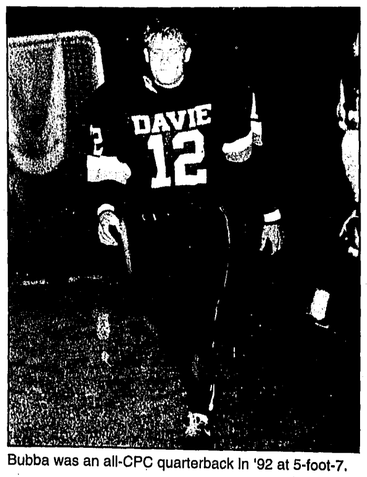

Bubba Coleman juggled three sports at Davie - football, basketball and baseball.

Bubba Coleman and wife Heather enjoy the ceremony on hall-of-fame night in fall '05.

Coach Charles Crenshaw presents the plaque to Bubba.

North would have left Davie with a demoralizing four seed from the CPC.

Light and Noble came in as the marquee players, but Davie quarterback Andrew McClannon and receiver Brian Hunter stole the show. McClannon enjoyed a remarkable breakout, sophomore Dewayne Collins became an unlikely hero and Davie's head-hanging agony from a series of losses was replaced by nonstop shouting in the postgame.

The upset tied Davie for second with North Davidson and Reynolds with 3-2 CPC records. Davie first-year assistant Barry Whitlock plucked the two seed in the drawing to give Davie a home game in the first round.

"It's about time we beat those suckers," said Davie coach Doug Illing, who was 0-4 against North. "We didn't back down. We stood toe-to-toe like a heavyweight bout and slugged it out, back and forth. It was a special moment and a sweet victory."

"This makes up for all of it," senior outside linebacker Timmy Redmond said. "We had big play after big play, so we can give our home crowd something to cheer about. We just started putting pads on (Light), and after we hit him a couple times he started getting up slower and slower. We started hitting (Noble) and they weren't wanting it anymore."

Light came out hotter than a two-dollar pistol, throwing lightning bolts to three receivers as the Black Knights thundered 60 yards in 10 plays. They looked unstoppable before stalling at the Davie 20 and missing a 37-yard field goal. They fumbled at the Davie 20 on their second possession.

Davie's offense - which came to life in a loss to Reynolds but had been exasperated for the first nine games - drove 80 yards in six plays. Sophomore James "Cooter" Arnold, who rotated between tailback and quarterback, rolled right, planted and reversed direction to gain 20 yards. McClannon hit a streaking Hunter for 38 yards. Arnold returned under center and lofted an 18-yard moon ball to Larry Hudson for a 7-0 lead.

"McClannon and Arnold interchanged at quarterback and executed perfectly," Illing said.

North's dynamic duo answered. Light and Noble connected for 70 yards as Noble made an unbelievable one-handed catch to set up a field goal. Less than two minutes later, Noble used a brilliant stop-and-go move for a 31-yard touchdown and 10-7 North lead.

"Noble's an amazing player," North coach Mark Holcomb said. "He does some stuff that you just sit there and gosh, you don't know what to say."

Meanwhile, McClannon came in with modest stats (11 of 28 for 98 yards). The junior had little flash, but he delivered plenty of results at North. With Davie's running game shut down, McClannon went 9 of 14 for 148 yards and wasn't intercepted.

"At the start of the year, you would have never guessed McClannon would lead this team to victory against North Davidson," Illing said. "With his attitude and character, there's not enough good things you can say about him as a person. And this shows what can happen to good people."

McClannon pumped and found Hudson, who beat Noble over the middle and caught a deflection off a linebacker's fingers. The 33-yard play gave Davie a 14-10 halftime lead.

The second half was a mind-numbing exchange of big plays.

Davie freshman cornerback Raeshon McNeil deflected a pass, only to watch Noble grab it and gallop 77 yards. Hunter's 44-yard punt return to the North 14 set up a game-tying field goal by Kevin Winters. A North fumble resulted in a short TD run by Arnold. Hunter hauled in a 30-yarder from McClannon, and another Winters field goal gave Davie a 26-17 lead.

Hunter torched North with five catches for 133 yards.

"(Hunter and Hudson) made me look good," McClannon said. "And we couldn't do it without the offensive line (Justin Lanning, Zach Jakob, Justin Norsworthy, Matt Markland, Trent Young and tight ends Ted Randolph and Cody Stephens)."

Davie held on by a thread. Each time the game seemed to be slipping away, a courageous Davie defender would come to the rescue.

• When the Black Knights had first down at the Davie 20, Gareth White, Sam Stovall and D.J. Rice turned them back.

• When Davie was leading 7-0, North reached the Davie 5. But defensive backs Billy Riddle and Derek Cornatzer forced them to settle for a 23-yard field goal.

• Collins busted Light on an option, Brandon Pane recovered the lost pitch and Davie scored three plays later for the 14-10 lead.

• Collins blocked a 34-yard field goal at the end of the half.

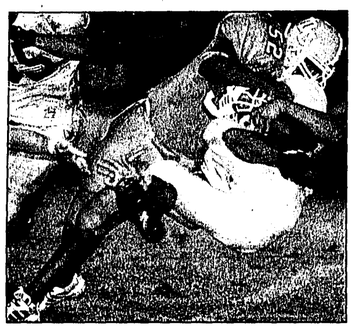

• With Davie clinging to a 23-17 lead, Light went for Noble. But White picked it off.

• North was in business at the Davie 23. With the War Eagles' hearts in their throats, North faked a reverse and sent running back Braxton Dubose around the end. Defensive tackle Jeremy West dropped Dubose for a 4-yard loss. On fourth down Redmond leaped and knocked down a pass.

"Dewayne told me it's time for him to start stepping up, and I've got to throw my hat off to him," Redmond said. "And Raeshon's first interception came at the right time."

McNeil intercepted Light with two minutes left. If that wasn't the exclamation mark, this was: Winters, who made two pressure-packed field goals, pinned a punt at the North 1 with 1:12 to go.

"It's a sweet win because for four years against this team it seemed like the games were decided in the last series," Illing said. "We got a victory in their last home game. After the ups and downs of this year, our kids just keep bouncing back."

Davie Sports From July, 1997

• Victory's church softball team rode Jason McCray and Britt Osborne to an 11-10 win over New Union in the tournament final. McCray, the leadoff batter, went 4-4 with four runs, and Osborne went 3-4 with two homers and five RBIs as Victory claimed its second straight championship. Osborne's only out was a rocket over the fence when Victory had used its two homers. Osborne was forgiven because he had cranked a three-run homer in the first and a two-run shot in the third. With Victory leading 5-2 in the bottom of the fourth, pitcher Andy Everhart walked five of six batters to help New Union creep back. With the bases loaded, two outs and the score 5-4, New Union's Jerry McDaniel hit a grounder in the hole. Victory shortstop Steven Parker gobbled it up and threw offbalance to second for the third out. Victory was the seventh seed. It defeated No. 10 Concord, No. 2 Blaise and No. 3 Turrentine. No. 5 New Union went through No. 12 Jerusalem, No. 4 Green Meadows and No. 8 First Methodist. The regular-season champ, Redland, was upset by First Methodist in the first round.

• The Bar-B-Que House collected its third championship in three years by beating Village Cue and Pub 15-11 in the men's open final. The Bar-B-Que House poured across eight runs in the fourth to turn a 6-4 deficit into a 12-6 lead. There were two outs in the fourth when the Bar-B-Que House went to work. Frank Dotson, Jeff Beane, Jack Fowler and Tracey Arnold had consecutive singles before Tyrone Martin stroked an opposite-field homer to right. Two batters later, Jesse Dalton, blasted a two-run homer. Shane Dyson followed with an RBI double off the right-center fence. Fowler paced the Bar-B-Que House, going 4 for 4 with two triples. Among Village Cue's highlights were William Armsworthy's two triples and Brent Wall's two-run, inside-the-park home run.

• Johnny Miller defeated Pete Amore 1-up in 20 holes to capture the championship flight of the Hickory Hill Match Play championships. There were six flights. Ken Thornes beat Bob Vandiver 1-up in first flight. Harvey Miller beat Jim Heath 1-up in the second flight. Gene Kizer beat Joe McGowan 1-up in the third flight. Ted Bigenho beat Ken Sales 3-2 in the fourth flight. Al Tkach beat Dave Anderson 1-up in the fifth flight. And Donnie Goodin beat M.J. Randall 2-1 in the sixth flight.

• At age 86, Dave Springer shot an 11-over 83 at Hickory Hill. Springer's playing partner was G.B. Smith.

"The middle-school level is different than the high-school level, and I'm anxious to see how it's going to be," Wood said. "I've never worked with girls that young on a team, so I'm excited for the opportunity. They are always so eager to learn at that age, so it's going to be an exciting experience.

"Our first game could possibly be the week after school starts. It depends on if Thomasville and Lexington have a team. I still don't know for sure when our first game is going to be."

Wood will never have to look far for coaching help. She can always call on her sisters. Her father, Keith Handy, coached his girls growing up, and he was an assistant at Catawba.

"Sara said she wants to come and help," Wood said. "Mrs. Jackson said a couple other Davie players want to help me some. It should be good for those (Ellis) girls to play with high-school players."

JV Girls 8-0 At Winthrop Camp

Davie's JV girls basketball team went 8-0 at the Winthrop Lady Eagle camp. Coach Mike Garner's War Eagles defeated South Pointe (S.C.), Northwestern (S.C.), Elkin, Reagan, LMA (S.C.) and York (S.C.). They defeated Elkin and York twice each, including a win over York in the championship game.

The team members included Janna Dixon, Cara Hendricks, Carmen Grubb, Brittani Stewart, Alex Keiser, Myshia Turner, Hailey Miller, Liz Hartman and Jasmine Gunning.

"Some of these girls possibly will be varsity (in the 2008-09 Davie season)," Garner said. "They played very good and the competition was comparable. It's nice since we're going to have Reagan in our conference (in 2009-10) to see where they're at.

"This summer we've had more participation in different camps, and we're hoping to build on the girls program."

Pyth Harkey tries to match a name with the writing on the marker.

Discovering History

Students Learn From, And Document Joppa Cemetery

By Mike Barnhardt
Davie County Enterprise Record

Pyth Harkey gently brushes an aging grave marker at Joppa Cemetery in Mocksville.

He checks the name with a list he and other history students from Lenoir-Rhyne College had formed through research. He carefully marks the name with a plat of the cemetery, just off Yadkinville Road in Mocksville.

Harkey hopes to take his enthusiasm for history to the classroom. He can now tell his younger students about the people buried at Joppa. Almost all of the students taking part in the Joppa project are training to be teachers.

The brainchild of Lenoir-Rhyne professor Mark Hager, students have spent the summer semester and beyond finding out more about Joppa Cemetery - the final burial place for Squire and Sarah Boone - Daniel Boone's parents.

What they have found has amazed all. Infants - scores of infants are buried there. With a cemetery dating back into the 1700s, they realized that prenatal care wasn't available.

The work is painstakingly long. They spent hour upon hour researching the people at the Davie and Rowan Register of Deeds offices, at libraries, with the N.C. State Archives and on the internet.

That was before they got to go to the cemetery, where they used gentle sprays of water and soft brushes to try to glean names from gravestones.

Professional engravers weren't around back then, either. Many of the stones were hand carved, and letters were sometimes left out because of space - or possibly because the engraver couldn't spell, or broke a tool, or had another more important job to get to.

"I think I can take this to the classroom and keep the students interested," Harkey said.

That's exactly what Hager had in mind. And it doesn't hurt that the students' work - to be followed in the fall by student and state archaeological studies - will help identify families whose ancestors are still around today.

While an effort to get the cemetery on the National Register of Historic Places failed in the 1970s, the added information should help with a new application, Hager said. The 1970s application was based mostly on the fact that Daniel Boone's parents were buried there, and cemeteries are difficult to get on the registry. But Boone's father, Squire, was prominent in his own right, leading the community, helping build the first Rowan County Courthouse (Davie was a part of Rowan County in the mid-1700s). Other prominent families have relations there, such as the founder of the Brown & Williamson Tobacco Co. and the man who designed and built the first Davie County Jail.

And there's the other people - average, everyday people just trying to make a living for their families.

They're coming up with more than just a grave is here, another there. The students are contacting family members and researching records to find out about the people. What did they do for a living? What did they do for fun? How many lived in a house, and how big was that house? They're writing down every ounce of information they can find.

"Before we can do any preservation, we want to find everybody who was buried in this cemetery," Hager said. "We're trying to find out about these people. Many of these people in here were just like us ... they face problems just like we do. These people were trying to do the best they could do for their families."

The skills Daniel Boone became famous for were honed in Davie County, and those same skills are the ones people buried in the cemetery had. Some names have changed over the years, Hager said, such as Marz to March to Martin.

The students found stones that had been reported missing since the 1800s. They're careful not to disturb the grounds, and understand that some stones (and wooden markers) have deteriorated or may have sunken under the ground.

"These people will not be lost," Hager said. "When someone comes here to connect with their ancestors, they will know which part of the cemetery to go."

"If they're not taken care of, they'll just disappear," student Kierry Christmas said of the graves. She studied the Brown family that had seven children. Six had died at age 1 year or younger. "The infant mortality rate was high back then."

Kelly Jankowski said she has found connections between families buried in the cemetery.

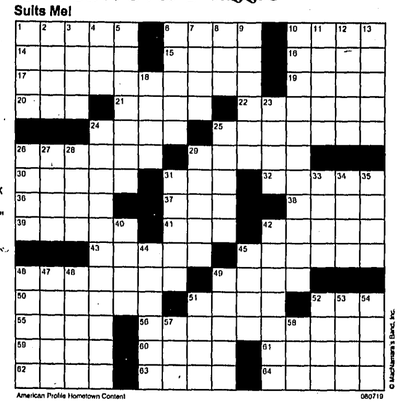

And they found a child's tombstone with no parents listed. Of the 143 documented graves, more than 30 are children under age 10. Several Revolutionary War soldiers are buried there.

"The kids are excited about this project," Hager said. "They enjoyed meeting with the families. Some are excited enough to continue with the research."

If they teach history the way Hager does, it won't be the boring subject many remember.

Saturday, July 19, was a good day for the Farmington Farmers Market.

Thank-you to all who came out to buy. We couldn't believe how many people came out looking for fresh produce. For those of you who said that you would have some produce ready for picking soon, bring it as soon as it comes in. Carol Head was there with her great collection of relishes, jelly and jams. She even had sweet potato butter. She had also brought tomatoes, peppers, and cucumbers. She sold out and had her husband to bring more. It, too, was gone in no time.

Patty Howell did well also. She brought sweet onions and garlic and sold most of what she had. All of the produce there last Saturday was organically grown and fresh and sold at a good price. There was a couple of people who came by who said that they were going to bring vegetables next week, so we are looking for a good turn-out this Saturday.

We had several people coming by who were looking for local honey, green beans, peaches, and cantaloupe so if you have some available, bring it on out. I think the best thing about the event is how appreciative people are for the community center taking the effort to open up the Farmington Farmers Market. It's a great place to sell produce with the covered picnic shelter, bathrooms available, and a safe place for families to bring their children. It's safer than selling along the roadside and it allows produce to be sold in one place, making it easier for those who are wanting to buy local produce.

The Farmers Market is open Saturdays from 8 a.m.-1 p.m. or until the produce sales out.

The Farmington Community Center will be hosting another Senior Social Friday, July 25 from 1-3 p.m. All local seniors are invited. There will be games and summer desserts and of course, good fellowship and fun. Desserts are provided for you to enjoy, but if you have a favorite recipe and want to bring something, that will be just fine. It would be nice if some of you fellows would bring along your guitars and play a little. There's nothing like having some string music to top off the afternoon.

On July 31, Farmington will be visited by Ann Swallow, National Register coordinator for the State Historic Preservation office. She will be meeting with me and Beth McCashin, who is heading up our Farmington Preservation Society. We will be discussing the process of filing the Historical Registry application and look over some improvements made in the community. If you live in one of the historical homes along Farmington Road, between Queen Bess' old home and through the crossroads to the end of the historical homes there, please make sure that your yards have been nicely groomed if able. Though I'm sure that she will be most interested in the old structures, it is helpful to have the landscape looking nice.

Vacation Bible Schools are going strong, with Center United Methodist Church finishing last week, and New Union UMC's scheduled for Sunday, Aug. 3-Thursday, Aug. 7 each evening from 6-9. That's also the wedding anniversary for Sherrill and Teresa Johnson. Stacey Johnson and Eugene Reeves have July 27th birthdays. Sherry Keaton, Tyson Wilson, Morgan Cunha, and Ernestine Cleary all have birthdays July 28. Clark Gobble and Corey R. Dyson were born July 29, the same day as Ed and Amber Thutt's anniversary. Brenda Beck's birthday is July 30.

Summer camp sessions are nearly over at the Poplar Springs School on Ijames Church Road. Whether or not you have an interest in the camp, you might want to read about the school at, www.poplarspringsschool.com since the building is part of the history of Davie County.

Fourteen-year-old Ashleigh Davis was in the hospital last week for a biopsy of a growth in her brain. She and her parents, Randy and Melissa Davis, await test results that will determine the course of treatment. Regarding our story last week about the Strouds' celebration of life and Ann Stroud's liver transplant, technically it took only six months for Keith's liver to regenerate to 95% but took one year for him to recover from the surgery.

My mother and I like to watch Jim Cramer's "Mad Money" TV show on CNBC. Mother is glad he no longer throws the stools. We were excited when we were among 80 or so selected to attend the taping of his NBC Sunday night special, "The American Dream," which aired nationally July 13. The program was taped Memorial Day weekend under a big tent on the infield of the Lowes Motor Speedway. When I took the picture of my mother and President Clinton, publisher Dwight Sparks said the picture was good but it would have been better if we had the newspaper with us. So, this time my mother and I made our national TV debut with the newspaper at our side on the front row next to Kyle Busch's race car. Kyle and Carl Edwards were Jim's special guests. After the taping, I told Jim about Dwight and the newspaper and he gladly posed with us and the paper. Yes, the Davie County Enterprise Record definitely gets around as it made national TV two weeks ago on NBC.

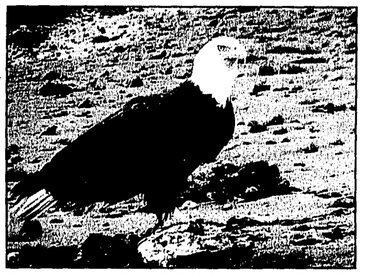

If you took a special trip this summer or had an exciting experience, please share your adventure with us. Just call Shirley at 492-5115 or email sdtlink@hotmail.com.

During a recent Methodist building mission trip to Alaska, Jack Koontz took these pictures of the lone eagle. In the picture on the left, he was about 20 feet from the eagle, which was eating its supper on the beach at Anchor Point and was not about to fly away.

Shirley and Pauline Thorne attended the taping of "The American Dream with Jim Cramer," an NBC Sunday night special that aired nationally July 13. Colorful Chairs

Works Of Art To Be Sold At Relay For Life Auction

Daniel Furniture, Relay for Life and the Davie County Arts Council teamed up to sponsor a contest benefiting the American Cancer Society.

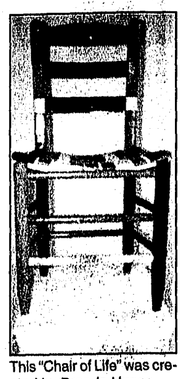

"The response has been amazing," said Sidniee Suggs, executive director of the Davie County Arts Council.

Each entrant received a chair, and on the night of the Relay for Life each participant will receive an American flag and a hat. All entrants started out with the same unfinished Troutman wooden chair manufactured in nearby Troutman. The finished chairs were judged July 11 by two of Piedmont's professional artists, Daphne Chipman and John Reidy.

"The chairs that were entered show a variety of creative and very original designs," Suggs said. "They include a chair turned into an outdoor grill titled, Chairbroiled, a Davie High School Spirit Chair, Zebra Chair, Girlie Chair, Cat in the Garden, Chair of Life and lots more. Each chair is truly a work of art and could be used as accent pieces throughout in anyone's home or office."

They are on display in the Brock Performing Arts Center Gallery until Friday, July 25.

Many of the chairs will then be sold at a silent auction during the Relay for Life event July 25. The first place winner will receive a $100 savings bond. There will also be awards given to second and third place winners. Judges selected three honorable mention winners. The names of those who were selected will be announced at the Relay for Life. All proceeds from the auction will be donated to the Relay for Life to benefit the American Cancer Society.

This "Chair of Life" was created by Brenda Hanes.

Buses Available For Summer Breakfast, Lunch Programs

Davie County Schools Summer Food Service Program is being offered this year at three locations: Central Davie Academy, Cooleemee Elementary and Mocksville Elementary.

This program will provide a free breakfast and lunch at all locations this summer to students from the ages of 3-18. The program will run this summer Monday-Friday until Aug. 15.

Three bus routes have been established for students participating in the program at Cooleemee. The student pick-ups started Monday, July 14.

The bus will stop at the end of Hobson Road at 8 a.m. for breakfast, and 11 a.m. for lunch; at the end of Swicegood Street at 8:10-8:15 and 11:10-11:15; and at Junction and Docs roads at 8:25 and 11:25.

Students participating at Cooleemee, whether or not they ride a bus, will enter into the cafeteria from the side entrance door that is off of the parking lot nearest the fire department. Breakfast is served from 8:30-9:30 a.m. Lunch is served from 11:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m.

While transportation has not been established for the other two locations, students are encouraged to participate in the program at either of the locations in Mocksville. Students participating at Central Davie Academy will enter into the cafeteria from side entrance nearest the upper parking lot and picnic tables. Breakfast is served from 8-8:30 a.m. Lunch is served from noon-12:30 p.m.

Students participating at Mocksville Elementary will enter through designated door between the cafeteria dining room glass doors and the dumpster (main parking lot). Breakfast is served from 8-8:30 a.m. Lunch is served from 11:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m.

There is no charge for a student breakfast or lunch as long as they are under 18 (or of disability status). Adults can purchase items, but their meal is not free. Construction on additions and renovations at the Davidson County Community College Davie Campus should be complete this fall.

Davie Campus Construction About 75% Complete

Students returning for fall classes on the Davie Campus of Davidson County Community College Aug. 18 will see that construction projects are well under way and that the campus looks much different than when they left for summer break.

A major addition to the Laboratory Building is proceeding on schedule as the conversion of the first floor of the Community Building to a new library.

Construction of the Laboratory Building addition and the renovation of the Community Building are approximately 75 percent complete. Both projects are under roof with electric, plumbing and mechanical work ongoing.

"We anticipate a completion date of November 2008, which will give us a month to move in before students begin in the new facilities when spring semester opens in January 2009," said Dr. Mary Rittling, DCCC president.

The front of the new Laboratory Building will become the new face of the campus. The addition will feature a new student services area, bookstore and convenience store, large classroom, conference room and kitchen.

Both projects represent a total of 11,000 square feet of new and renovated space. The first floor of the Community Building will be transformed to a modern new library, featuring a curved history wall that will become the focal point of the facility. The wall will offer a visual history of the Davie Campus in a prominent place as library patrons check out books, videos, DVDs, books on tape, and other resource materials.

Glass walls along the rear of the Community Building will provide a bright, spacious gathering spot for students at tables both indoors and outdoors. A new patio area will allow students additional space to enjoy a sunny day. This area, as well as the library, will offer wireless Internet connections.

Registration for fall classes on the Davie Campus of DCCC will continue on Monday, July 28 and Monday, Aug. 4 between 9 a.m. and noon and 2-6 p.m.

Try These Tips To Save Energy During Hot Weather

As the dog days of summer arrive, it's important to remember that it's always a good time to save energy.

Here are some tips from EnergyUnited to help keep energy bills low no matter how hot it gets outside.

• Make sure central air conditioning systems or window units are properly sized for the space it is intended to cool. Improperly sized units use more energy than necessary.

• Window air conditioning units generally are not designed to cool more than one room. Clean or replace window unit or central air conditioning system filters monthly. Dirty filters cause air conditioners to work harder and use more energy.

• Check weather stripping around doors and caulking around windows. Properly sealed doors and windows help prevent warm outside air from entering the home.

• Close blinds, shades or drapes during the day.

• Make sure an outside air conditioning unit or heat pump is not blocked by shrubbery, leaves or other objects.

• Set the thermostat on the highest comfortable setting. Raising the temperature just 2 degrees can reduce cooling costs by as much as 5 percent.

• Place heat-producing appliances such as lamps and televisions away from the air conditioning thermostat to prevent inaccurate temperature readings.

• Make sure the attic is properly ventilated to relieve excess summer heat.

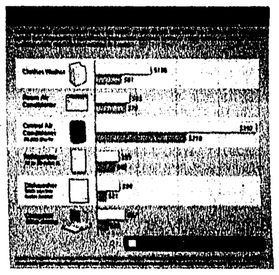

• For homes without air conditioning systems, use fans to draw cooler air inside during the night and to circulate air throughout the home during the day. Fan blades should rotate clockwise in the summer.

• Save jobs that produce moisture - like mopping, dishwashing and washing clothes - for early morning or nighttime hours. The humidity from these activities can make homes uncomfortable.

• On hot days, cook outdoors, use a microwave oven or prepare cold meals to avoid excess heat in the kitchen.

• If it's time to replace appliances, try to purchase a new appliance with the highest Energy Star rating.

For even more tips, and applications to see the money-saving effects of simple home changes, visit the website www.energyunited.com and click on the "Home Energy Saver" button.

Baptist, Forsyth Submit New Hospital Plans

Obstetrics Are Back In Davie Plans

By Mike Barnhardt
Davie County Enterprise Record

Pack up the buses and head to Raleigh.

That's a suggestion from Bermuda Run Mayor John Ferguson - as the state is receiving a third request from Baptist Medical Center to build a replacement facility for Davie County Hospital.

The state's certificate of need (CON) section also received a second application from Forsyth Medical Center to build a hospital three miles away at Harper Road and I-40.

Sound familiar?

It is.

The state hospital licensing agency in February denied similar plans by Baptist and Forsyth, mainly because the proposals were "competing." It is expected to rule later this month on Baptist's second application.

Ferguson's comments came during a brainstorming session hosted by county and Baptist officials in Mocksville. He said he could guarantee two bus loads to head to Raleigh to let the officials making the decision know that Davie residents want a hospital.

"That would make an impression. That would get their attention," Ferguson said.

Most all at the meeting said it is hard to understand why the state won't allow a replacement to Davie County Hospital to be built. Even though it would be located in Hillsdale, the hospital would be accessible to residents - and has support from residents across the county, said Donny Lambeth, Baptist interim president and chief operating officer.

"The logic of it is unbelievably straightforward ... yet there's something political obstructing it," said Don Yeager, a member of a committee trying to get approval of the new hospital.

Baptist officials said they're doing everything possible to get a new hospital in Davie County. The first application included beds for obstetrics. The second did not. The third does.

"We're playing by the rules," said Lambeth. "I don't see how in the world, if the state follows its rules, they can deny this application. Davie County is a growing county. We're going to be more aggressive in moving our services out into the region. We're excited. Davie County is an extremely important county to the medical center. We want the state to have every option possible to approve a hospital."

The hospital is building a primary and urgent care center at Country Lane and US 601 North in Mocksville that should open later this year, with urgent care services, physician offices and occupational medicine.

Lambeth said he understands the confusion and frustration people have with the CON process.

Lynne Doss, Davie County Hospital administrator, said employees remain upbeat and appreciate the

Math Scores Increase

6 Of 10 Schools Meet AYP Goals

By Beth Cassidy
Davie County Enterprise Record

Preliminary Adequate Yearly Progress (AYP) results show a slight increase in math scores for the county's students, with six of the 10 schools, or 60 percent, making AYP, up from 55.6 percent last year.

Two of the schools, Cornatzer and Mocksville elementary, met AYP for at least the last three years.

According to NC Public Schools, AYP is a defined as a series of performance targets that states, school districts, and schools must achieve each year to meet the requirements of No Child Left Behind (NCLB). Each school has target goals and must meet 100 percent of those goals in order to make AYP.

The scores come from end of grade tests given in grades 3-12.

AYP is usually given for reading and math, but because reading tests were changed, those scores will not be available until November or December, according to Ann Graham, director of testing and accountability for the Davie system.

Graham said one school, South Davie Middle, had more target goals, 21, than any other school, and met 100 percent of those goals. The reason they had more target goals, Graham said, is because they have more subgroups.

There are 10 defined subgroups in each public school and district in NC.

They are School as a Whole, American Indian, Asian, Black, Hispanic, Multi-racial, White, Economically Disadvantaged (Free and Reduced Lunch), Limited English Proficient (LEP), and Students with Disabilities (SWD). Each subgroup must have 40 students, with the exception of School as a Whole if there are no subgroups.

Don't Panic: New Flood Plain Maps On The Way

By Mike Barnhardt
Davie County Enterprise Record

Don't panic.

That's the advice from Davie County Planner Andrew Meadwell, as his office is getting ready to send out some 6,000 letters to property owners saying there will be a hearing concerning the flood plain.

The flood plain maps are changing. That's federally mandated if anyone in Davie wants to be included in the flood insurance program.

And because flood plains are a zoning overlay map in Davie County, those with property in the flood plain - as well as those with adjoining properties - will be notified by letter of the hearings by governing boards in Bermuda Run, Mocksville and Davie County.

"Most people will be happily surprised," said County Manager Terry Bralley. The area considered to be in the 100-year flood zone overall has been reduced.

William Whaley, who heads the county's development services department, said the new maps should

Davie Could Get Dialysis Center

By Mike Barnhardt
Davie County Enterprise Record

Wake Forest University Health Sciences wants to build a kidney dialysis center in Davie County.

Expect dialysis center provider DaVita to want to do the same, maybe even others.

The state hospital licensing agency, the certificate of need (CON) section, will decide what company will provide the service here.

Marshia Coe, regional administrator for WFU Health Sciences (WFUHS), said Davie is becoming eligible for a center because 32 patients are needed before a 10-station unit could be approved.

"We really want your support," she told a group of county and town officials at the Davie EMS headquarters recently. "It's the community that makes a difference. It needs to have strong support. Make letters personal," she said.

The process is similar to the one hospitals must go through to add beds. Companies apply, and the state awards the service.

Coe said WFUHS has broad support from physicians in the areas it serves - from most hospitals and related companies. It's run by local people for local communities.

"The dialysis patient needs to stay close to home," she said.

Betty Howell, whose late granddaughter Tara went through dialysis, was pleased with WFUHS services.

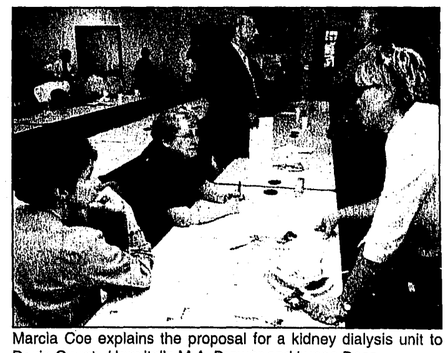

"They were kind and professional in everything they did," Howell said. She was impressed with the way the company trains patients and their families to perform the blood-cleansing process at home.

"Tara learned and one time she wouldn't let a nurse in a hospital do it because she hadn't followed procedures," she said.

William McDonald said it's important to employ local people - with local access to administration - because the dialysis patient often spends more time with the employees at the center than with their own families.

"The dialysis patient needs to stay close to home," he said. "The bottom line is how the patients are treated."

Laurel Ridge Camp Cookie Goes Low-Fat

My youngest, 9, returned from camp a couple weeks ago, not entirely sure he had had a good time. The days were good. Falling to sleep in a primitive cabin on a mountain with a bunch of other boys proved difficult.

The food, the games, the crafts were fun. But the cot was hard, the night sounds could be frightening and the surroundings were strange for a little boy from Advance.

It was his first time at camp — the Moravian Church's wonderful Laurel Ridge. All my boys have gone there. The older boys went every chance they got. I steered them there, partly because I never went to church camp.

Instead, I opted for basketball camp. Sure of my prospects for a career with the Boston Celtics, I opted out of fun and games at church camp for the torture of basketball camp. The coaches ran us from dawn to dusk. We did pushups and deep-knee bends. And I quickly assessed my skills were nothing more than mediocre among the hundreds of others who also figured to be the next basketball phenom.

At Farmington Elementary, I was good. But my jump shot had trouble finding its mark, and my height was just average. The Celtics never called.

I would have had much more fun at church camp.

My little sister, Alethea Sparks Segal of High Point, has also sent her children to Laurel Ridge, and she has perfected the camp's notable cookie. I had sent her the recipe for the camp cookie a decade ago. It called for a pound of butter and a cup of oil. Little wonder the cookie was tasty.

A nutritionist, my sister decided to refine the recipe without clogging anyone's arteries. Here's her new and improved recipe:

Laurel Ridge Cookies

1 cup butter, softened
1 cup packed brown sugar
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
3 1/2 cups all purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
3/4 teaspoon salt
2 cups cornflakes, crushed
1 cup old-fashioned oats
1 cup shredded coconut
1/2 cup chopped walnuts or pecans
Vegetable cooking spray

Combine butter, brown sugar and sugar in a mixing bowl: beat until creamy. Add eggs and vanilla extract; beat well, scraping sides of bowl occasionally.

Combine flour, soda and salt; gradually add to creamed mixture, beating well. Stir in crushed cornflakes, oats, coconut and walnuts. Drop large dollops (at least 2 tablespoons) of batter onto cookie sheet coated with cooking spray. Bake at 350 degrees for 10 to 12 minutes or until golden.

Note: I prefer cookies that are the size of the palm of your hand. If made this large the recipe yields about 2 dozen cookies. Otherwise you can expect a yield of about 6 dozen small cookies.

Rains Revive Area Lawns

Recent rains have caused my lawn to grow a little. I mowed last week for the first time in five or six weeks. I wasn't sure the lawnmower would crank. The grass had actually turned green.

The success of corn crops in the area seem varied. Some fields look pretty good. Others are severely stunted.

Farmers made an amazing crop of hay in early summer, but lack of rain has dried up the pastures.

'I'm A Man And I'm Asking For Directions'

To the editor:

I decided long ago not to be so male as to not ask for directions, especially now with the price of gas. If I am in an area I am not familiar with I go into a convenience store and say 'You're not going to believe this, but I'm a man and I'm asking for directions.' I get a laugh and directions.

Julia Howard, if you really, really want to help the people of North Carolina, introduce and get a law introduced to require a vote on annexation. If two-thirds of the residents of the area vote yes, then let it happen. If not, then the city must learn how to cut costs instead of forcing people to help pay for their costs. Taxation Without Representation is what I call it. As citizens, we need support from those people we elect.

JROTC Helps Guide Young Man's Life

To the editor:

My husband and I just left our son, Michael, in Charlotte. This morning Mike was sworn into the United States Navy. He has started a new chapter in his adult life.

When we moved our family, which consists of ourselves and three children, here to Davie County, Mike was going into the ninth grade. It was hard leaving friends and family and moving so far away. We went to the high school and met with Mr. Hobson to get everything in order for him. Mr. Hobson gave Mike a list of all the classes he could take. It didn't take him long to figure out that JROTC was for him. At the time, I didn't even know what that was. We didn't have anything like that in the school system we had moved from, up in Ohio. Needless to say, I now know and I also know what a wonderful program JROTC is and have seen firsthand how the kids can thrive from being a part of it.

Mike worked his way up through the ranks and when he graduated, he was the Battalion Commander. Col. Hales and ISG Wolfe helped shape Mike into the good guy, or should I say man, he has become. Throughout the years there were some rough spots, but on June 6, when his name was announced as a graduate, it was one of the happiest days of my life.

Anyhow, today Mike left for boot camp at the Great Lakes Naval Base in Illinois. After his eight weeks there, he'll head across country to train for Special Forces. He'll be SWCC, training and working with the elite Navy Seals.

Our family is extremely proud of our son, Seaman Michael Starre. We already miss his smiling face and humor. In our hearts and in our prayers, we wish him nothing but happiness, health and success.

We love you, Mike.

Davie County Connection

JULY 2008

EMS Station Brings Balance to Services

In June, Davie County EMS answered 448 calls throughout the county. That's an average of 15 calls a day. "Mocksville has the largest percentage of calls," said Mark Hancock, Director, EMS. "The next largest percentage comes from the Smith Grove/Advance area. The third largest, 18%, comes from the Jerusalem and Greasy Corner area, so it made sense to put the third station there to bring balance to the system."

The county broke ground on the new EMS station on May 21, and at the current rate, Hancock anticipates the building on US 601 South will be completed by mid-August, and open for business sometime in September. The 2,000 square-foot station will include two bays for emergency vehicles as well as storage space and living quarters for the two-man teams that will be on call twenty-four hours a day.

Currently, there are three staffed ambulances in the county: two in Mocksville and one in Hillsdale. There are also three backup ambulances that can be manned by off-duty staff when needed. "These are dedicated people who drop what they're doing and go when they get the call," said Hancock of his staff when they're off-duty.

When the new station opens, one of the teams will be moved from Mocksville. The spare ambulances will remain at Hillsdale and Mocksville. "Right now, the response time to the Jerusalem area is 8-10 minutes. By having a team in that area, we can knock off four minutes from that response time. That's big when you're talking about a major medical emergency. There are a lot of life threatening situations where there could be a huge difference in the outcome because of the time saved."

Opening the new station doesn't mean that coverage will lack anywhere else in the county. Rescue districts are being redrawn to include the new station so that each station covers the area closest to it and response teams are evenly spaced throughout the county.

Keeping response time is key because about 70% of all the EMS calls will result in someone being taken to a hospital, and many times that hospital is out of Davie County. "We take them to the nearest hospital that can handle that type of injury or illness," Hancock said. Since that can mean an ambulance could be on a call for an hour or more, the other stations have to be ready to deploy outside of their service area if needed.

Construction on EMS Station 3 will be complete in August.

Did you know that Davie Emergency Services is responsible for more than emergency medical care? Emergency Medical Services is a bit of a misnomer, as Emergency Management – managing a major crisis, whether it be tornado destruction or an overturned truck carrying hazardous waste on I-40 – is another of their responsibilities. In addition to the full paramedic service this county office provides, they are also responsible for the county's Medical Examiner service when there is a death under questionable circumstances. The fire investigator over arson cases also works in the Emergency Services office.

Mark Hancock, EMS director, stresses that it takes the work of both the county government and strong community support to provide these services effectively and thanks everyone who is involved in making it happen.

In fact, if both Mocksville ambulances are in use, the Hillsdale ambulance team moves to a central part of the county – Farmington Road – so they can respond faster to an incident in any part of the county, until a Mocksville team returns. When the new station opens, that will continue to be the case, although the central point will be adjusted based on all three stations. When there is a large accident, it's possible that all three ambulances will be called to respond, regardless of where the accident occurs.

While there are lines on a map that are their primary response areas, Hancock stressed, "If there's an event somewhere else in the county and one of these trucks are needed, we deploy it. When a life is at stake, the station district lines don't matter. We send the closest team, but if that team is already on a call, we're sending the next closest team and so on."

Hancock humbly says the service system in Davie is "pretty effective. We have a great pre-hospital program here." That's a bit of an understatement. If you continue to press him, he'll admit that Davie County EMS is a Model EMS System. To become one, counties must go beyond the minimum requirements for EMS, participating in state compliance checks and records review. They must also have tightly integrated systems in place with the other emergency medical services in the county.

"Davie EMS is one of only 13 Model Systems in the state," he said. "We're the smallest and most rural county to have achieved this classification."

Hancock and his staff are planning an open house for the community to come and visit the new station once it is open, giving people a chance to see the facility and the equipment, and get to know some of the team members in a relaxed environment. "We really hope you'll only meet us at the open house and not have to meet us because of an emergency. But if you do have to call us, we'd like you to see a friendly face you may already know when we arrive."

Caudell Celebrating 75th Year Of Family Ownership

Sheek and Louise Bowden walk from the family-owned Caudell Lumber off North Main Street in Mocksville.

Caudell Lumber Company has come a long way.

Walk in the door now, and you'll find solar yard lights and hose guides.

If you had walked into it some 75 years ago, you would have found Jeff Caudell - if he wasn't out delivering lumber from Davie County sawmills.

Celebrating its 75th anniversary this week, Caudell Lumber now employees 14 people, and they still cater to the home-owner and the contractor. There's the lumber and related products, and the paint and flooring. There's gardening needs and lighting. Expect to find a unique item here and there.

The company is still owned by the same family. Jeff Caudell founded the company in 1933. He and wife Margaret had two daughters - Eleanor and Louise.

Now, Louise Bowden's son Jeff Bowden and her daughter, Linda Bowden Hale, are in charge. Jeff's daughter, Alyse Bowden, works the register in the front of the store.

It helps to have good employees, Jeff Bowden said. Dean Foster has been on the job there since 1976, Carla Barneycastle for 25 years. The list goes on.

Saturday will be customer appreciation day, with cake, door prizes and music from The Hobson Family from 10 a.m.-noon.

Jeff Caudell said in an interview 25 years ago that he had to start his business in 1933, during the Great Depression. There was nowhere to go but up.

In 1948, his son-in-law, Bill Daniel (Eleanor's husband), joined the staff. It was incorporated four years later with T. Jeff Caudell as president, Margaret Fisher Caudell as vice president, Bill Daniel as secretary-treasurer, Louise Caudell Bowden and Eleanor Caudell Daniel as stockholders and directors.

"My daddy is up there clapping his hands," Louise said.

support from Baptist. "They understand the fight ... and understand that it may get worse," she said.

Even if a remodeling was attempted at the 50-plus year old facility in Mocksville, the state would still have to grant a CON because of the magnitude of the remodeling, Lambeth said.

Forsyth Medical Center's newest application is closer to I-40 and Harper Road, and further away from the Waterford neighborhood where opposition formed. It also includes more green space, bike trails and enough acreage for an elementary school.

Forsyth media spokesman Mike Horn said plans follow details in Clemmons' new transportation plans being developed. "We read their missions and goals, and this lines up perfectly with what they are advocating," he said.

The newest application would draw beds from Forsyth Medical Center, while the first one was proposed as a replacement for Medical Park Hospital.

"We have shifted the proposed location so that it is closer to the interstate to help keep hospital related traffic and activity even further away from private homes," said Sallye Liner, chief operating officer of Forsyth Medical Center.

Don't expect the folks in Davie County to take Forsyth's proposal lying down.

Novant, Forsyth's parent company, once managed Davie County Hospital, and left on less than cordial terms. Baptist came in and kept the hospital open, and has committed to keeping the hospital open until a replacement is built.

Lambeth said that while Baptist appreciates the support from Davie officials and residents - that support needs to continue.

Friday is the beginning of the public comment period for the latest applications.

Baptist's plans again include obstetrical services.

"We listened to the people of Davie County," Lambeth said. "Many told us that they felt they had the right to have their babies born in Davie County.

"We are leaving no stone unturned in our effort to get permission to build a hospital, and we must abide by the rules set by the state."

He called support for the latest application "essential." Support can be shown by visiting www.daviehospital.net and clicking on show your support on the left column. Or write to Lambeth at Medical Center Blvd., Winston-Salem, 27157.

A public hearing is scheduled for Sept. 18 at River Oaks Community Church on Lewisville-Clemmons Road. "It is likely that the state will not approve both applications, so it is important to have many supporters from Davie County at the hearing," Lambeth said.

He said if Novant's application were approved, Forsyth would have five modern hospitals. Davie would have none.

The newest Davie application would be for a $104 million facility with 46 acute care and four obstetric beds, a 10-bed observation unit, two operating rooms, physical and respiratory therapy, endoscopy, lab and diagnostic imaging services including mammography, and 24-hour emergency services.

To learn more about Davie's application, contact Doss at 751-8304.

Bermuda Run Mayor John Ferguson says it's time to do what it takes to get the state's attention.

128th Annual Masonic Picnic Is Next Week

Get your stomachs ready, and get ready to honor a hero.

The 128th annual Masonic Picnic takes place Monday-Friday at the grounds off North Main Street in Mocksville. The famous picnic dinner will be spread at noon Thursday.

Carnival rides will be open every night, and there will be entertainment under the arbor.

be more accurate because of modern technology. Some of the maps haven't been updated since the 1970s.

To learn more, call 753-6050, or visit www.ncfloodmaps.com or www.floodsmart.gov.

Davie County and towns here, in order for residents to be allowed the chance to purchase flood insurance, must participate in the program. That means the county must follow federal guidelines.

Even on properties not in a mapped flood zone, flood insurance would not be possible without county participation.

The purpose of the guidelines is to preserve and maintain the flood plain is an undisturbed vegetative state to hold floods, control stormwater, improve water quality and conserve plant and animal habitat. It is also designed to promote public health and prevent losses to floods.

AYP ...

Two different measures are used to determine AYP: participation and proficiency.

Last year, five out of nine schools met AYP. Graham said while there has been a slight increase over the previous year, there is still work to be done.

"We are never comfortable with the AYP results because any time you miss one target subgroup, you want to improve on that. We always look at the results with wanting to improve areas where we did not make our targets," she said.

The 2003-04 school year was the only one in the last five years in which all schools, except Davie High, met AYP. In 2005-06, only four schools met AYP.

Graham cautions against making comparisons, however, because each year, it is a different group of students being tested.

Schools that do not make AYP for two years in a row face sanctions, and Graham said those sanctions are tougher in Title I schools, but none of Davie's Title I schools, Cooleemee, Cornatzer, Mocksville and William R. Davie, failed to meet AYP for the last two years.

The only two schools that have not met AYP for two straight years are the high school and North Davie Middle.

The county's newest school, William Ellis, did not make AYP this year.

As a comparison with other districts, Davie's scores were the third highest of eight surrounding districts. The lowest was Yadkin County, where 18.2 percent of schools made AYP, and the highest was Surry County, where 82.4 percent of schools made AYP, according to the Department of Public Instruction's website.

Graham said Davie also met 88.6 percent of federal NCLB goals, up from 82.7 the previous year.

"Other than the high school, our schools only missed their targets by one or two, which I think is pretty good," Graham said.

Dialysis ...

Dr. John Burkhart, WFUHS medical director, said the company embraces the philosophy of a patient's choice for types of dialysis, home or at the center.

"Dialysis patients, in some cases, are about restrictions ... so we try to set it up for individuals. We are able to work with patients as individuals," Burkhart said.

He said it's important the center is a local organization with minimal bureaucracy. Any qualified doctor can refer patients to the unit, he said.

Coe said the center could be open as early as the summer of 2010. The location would be decided by looking at the residences of those using the services, and matching that with available property, which normally is 2.5-3 acres.

She urged those at the meeting to make letters personal, including the need for the service to be provided locally. Talk about patients and employees. If there's a public hearing, show up for that, too, Coe said.

"If you want us, please write the letter," she said.

Contact Coe at 336-748-0575, 721-4603, or via email at mcoe@wfapd.com. The address is 605 Cotton St., Suite 200, Winston-Salem, 27101.

WFUHS just opened a new center in Yadkinville, and also operates units in Winston-Salem, Elkin, High Point, King, Mooresville, Lexington, Mt. Airy, Statesville and Thomasville.

We're doing our best, because Davie County deserves the best.

While filing and applying for a Certificate of Need with the State is a complicated—and often lengthy—process, residents of Davie County should know that Davie County Hospital and Wake Forest University Baptist Medical Center are still working hard to make a modern hospital in Davie County a reality.

We filed another CON application on July 16, because:

- We believe that Davie County residents deserve obstetrical services.
- We know that Davie County needs a modern hospital.
- We made a commitment to do everything within our power to secure a new hospital for Davie County, and we will continue to fight for what the community needs.

We appreciate your continued support of our applications to make Davie County Hospital one that reflects the strength and potential of the County.

Please know that because you asked for it, we'll keep fighting for it.

New Soccer Coach Set Records At North Wilkes

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

Davie's new principal, Jeff Wallace, searched for a boys soccer coach to transform a long-suffering program, and he found a young man - Lance Everette - who authored an improbable success story at North Wilkes High.

From 1997, the first year North Wilkes fielded a boys soccer team, through 2005, the Vikings were dreadful, never winning more than four games. Everette grabbed the reins in 2006, and the 2-A Vikings promptly won six games. It was no fluke. They went 11-7-1 in 2007.

Now Everette, age 25 and single, takes over a Davie team that has enjoyed one winning season in 20 years. Everette is a personable guy who brings energy that is infectious.

"He went to a school where there was not a real emphasis on soccer, and he ended up being conference coach of the year one year and county coach of the year two years," said Wallace, who coached Everette when he played basketball at Forbush High. "Seeing the excitement I saw in those kids he coached at North Wilkes is one reason I really like him. I've known him since he was a little boy. I know who he is, he knows who I am and he's known me in many capacities. And he knows he needs to come here to build a program. We have had long conversations about this job, and he has had long conversations with other people about this job before we both decided to go this route."

Davie athletic director Mike Absher added: "I'm real excited. I think we got a really good coach with a lot of enthusiasm. He understands what it takes to build a program. He's still young but he's got some experience, and he's had success turning a program around. He's just a quality guy, and he comes highly recommended."

Everette has been a resident of Yadkin County his whole life. He played varsity soccer at Forbush for four years, making the all-conference team as a junior and senior. He scored 60 career goals, including 27 as a 2001 senior.

Everette was equally strong in basketball, moving up to varsity late in his freshman year and earning all-conference honors in 2001 and 2002.

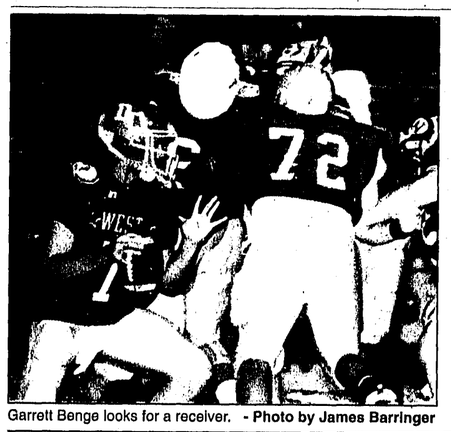

Everette earned an academic scholarship to Ferrum College in Virginia, where he played basketball for two years. The point guard started every game as a sophomore, leading the USA South Conference in assists. He transferred to Pfeiffer University and was on two conference champions. He got his first teaching position at North Wilkes.

Coaches for Davie boys soccer has been a revolving door, with Everette replacing Joe Westfall and becoming the eighth coach in 21 years. David Hayes (one year), Jim Lightle (one), Pete Gustafson (nine), Sean Garnett (three), Jim Caudill (one), Jeremy Byrd (four) and Westfall (one) were the first seven coaches. But Wallace has plenty of reasons to feel good about Everette.

"When he played basketball for me, we would be there breaking down tape until 1 or 2 o'clock in the morning, and I'd have to run him out of the gym at that time," Wallace said. "And it wasn't play time. I mean you'd go in there two hours after the game and he's wringing wet with sweat. I also had him in the class room and things just didn't fall in place for him. He had to work his rear end off, and he's made himself what he is."

When Everette showed up at North Wilkes' first soccer practice in 2006, the

Benge, Absher Participate In East-West All-Star Games

Garrett Benge's legendary prep football career was capped by an appearance in last week's East-West All-Star Football Game at Greensboro Grimsley. Benge set more passing records than you can count over three years at Davie, but his arm for the West was a non-factor in the West's 27-3 loss to the East. The same can be said for A.L. Brown's Jonathan Efird, who rotated every series with Benge.

West coach David Diamont loves to run the ball right up the gut, so the West employed the I-formation and kept the ball on the ground. The only offense that Benge knew at Davie was the spread that has become increasingly popular in high-school football.

Benge attempted two passes, completing one to West Forsyth's Andrew Bodenheimer. Efird was 5 of 11 for 32 yards. The statistics were not pretty for either side, with the East outgaining the West 89-65 in total yards from scrimmage.

Davie assistant coach Barry Whitlock said: "He completed a pass to Bodenheimer across the middle for 8 yards. He ran a bootleg for 13 yards and ran another one for 6.

In practice Benge felt right at home when he ran the East offense - the spread - against the West defense.

"I'm an old-fashioned, smash-mouth, run-it-at-you kind of guy," Diamont, the coach at East Surry, told the Salisbury Post. "A lot of people like the spread because they like to sell tickets, but that's not me. (Benge and Efird) are good athletes. But in my system they weren't necessarily going to get a chance to show how good. They were going to spend a lot of time handing off."

Efird is walking on at Western Carolina. Benge, a 6-0, 195-pounder, is walking on at Wingate. Diamont said both have what it takes to succeed on the college level.

"Watching tape we knew these two guys were quarterbacks we wanted because they were going to be in shape

Win At West Laid Foundation For Titles

By Brian Pitts
Davie County Enterprise Record

The fifth in a series recalling 10 memorable football wins. This is No. 6 in the countdown to No. 1.

In 1998 West Forsyth's football team defeated Davie for the 10th time in 11 years. West added insult to injury by punctuating a 14-6 win at Davie with a celebration at midfield.

When the War Eagles visited West in 1999, they wanted to give the Titans a dose of their own medicine, and they did. When a skin-crawling 28-21 overtime victory was in the books, Davie coaches hugged, fans streamed onto the field and players stomped and pounded their chests at midfield.

The showdown was the Central Piedmont Conference opener for both teams. With the CPC only getting two state-playoff berths, it was a pivotal moment. Davie improved to 6-2 overall, while West dropped to 3-4-1.

The '99 War Eagles didn't lose again until the second round of the playoffs, notching the first conference title in 15 years and laying the foundation for seven CPC crowns in nine years.

Senior quarterback Drew Ridenhour recalled the aftermath of '98 against West.

"They did that crap to us last year at our field, stomping on our War Eagle," Ridenhour said. "We weren't going to take that. We remember stuff like that and we were going to show them. We came to their house and did it. The seniors had been wanting it for four years, and we weren't going to be denied. I love it."

Davie got its act together just in time, after losing back-to-back nonconference games to North Davidson and Central Davidson.

"Man, I'm excited," Davie coach Doug Illing said. "This is the greatest victory I've been in in 10 years of coaching. I'm excited for the kids, I'm excited for the program and it's a big confidence boost for the boys. Nobody believed in us after two losses. Nobody was giving us a chance, but we believed in what we could do. I felt like this was the first step to making a statement that we can play with Forsyth County schools and be conference champions."

The prove-'em-wrong triumph was a dream come true for senior Bradford Ivey, the bully defensive end, and assistant coach Devore Holman.

"It's a long-lived dream of mine," Ivey said. "We really needed this to make up for what happened the last two weeks."

"It means more than words can explain," Holman said. "I saw the focus in their eyes. We weren't focussed (against Central Davidson). I told them: 'Look, I'm not going to ask you to win. I'm not saying we might win. We're going out there to win.'"

After Davie had blown a 13-0 lead and found itself down 21-13, Ridenhour and his receivers fueled a dramatic drive in the fourth. Ridenhour unraveled West's defense by converting a pair of third-and-10s. The third-down completions went to junior Rod Tenor, who enjoyed a career night with eight catches for 110 yards, and senior Thadd Johnson, who made five catches for 91 yards. A 15-yarder to Johnson set up senior tailback Ricky White, who plunged in from the 1 to cut the deficit to 21-19 with 9:55 to go.

"I had great protection and Thadd and Rod caught the ball," Ridenhour said. "You've got to give them the credit because they did stuff after they caught it."

Despite playing on a torn ACL in his right knee, Ridenhour went 14 of 27 for 202 yards.

"I thought Drew was absolutely fantastic," West coach Russell Stone said. "I mean Drew on two good legs must be outstanding."

With championship hopes for both teams quite possibly hinging on a two

Second in a two-part story on Davie High hall of famer Bubba Coleman.

In 1992-93 Bubba Coleman put together one of the most compelling three-sport years Davie has ever seen. He played quarterback and safety in football, point guard in basketball and shortstop in baseball. He made all-Central Piedmont Conference in each, made all-state in baseball, led Davie baseball to a then-record 23 wins and led Mocksville Legion baseball to 28 wins, which remains the second most in its 27-year history.

Bubba was a little wonderboy who used his lack of height for constant motivation.

"When I look back at everybody who has played at Davie, I'd say Bubba is right up there at the top of the list," Grimes Parker, a fellow Davie High Hall of Famer who coached Bubba at South Davie, said in '93.

Even when Bubba was off the field and away from the court, he kept a playground mindset at all times. He epitomized the phrase "Boys will be boys."

East Meck Forfeit Means Little To Davie's '07 Season

It's a little late to make a difference in the Davie football team's 2007 playoff fate, but East Mecklenburg has forfeited the entire 2007 season after district officials found East guilty of recruiting three players and in violation of the rule banning Sunday practices, The Charlotte Observer reported on July 24.

East knocked Davie out of the first round 20-17 last November. East went on to lose a close second-round game at Richmond County.

The Observer reported that an East Meck athletic director has been demoted, two coaches suspended and that a volunteer coach was involved in recruiting three players. That volunteer coach has been dismissed. Head coach Greg Hill has been suspended for five weeks. And an assistant coach has been suspended for two seasons.

East Meck is the fourth Charlotte-Mecklenburg football team to forfeit the '07 season because of eligibility violations. East Meck was tagged with stiffer penalties than the others because school officials were involved in the violations, the Observer reported. East must play the North Carolina High School Athletic Association over $7,000 in fines and gate receipts.

The forfeit turned Davie's 7-5 record in '07 to 8-4. Coach Doug Illing's record is now 90-39 (.697) in 10 years. Before falling short in a hard-fought battle with East, Davie had advanced to at least the third-round quarterfinals five straight years.

Hunter Education Training Course Starts Next Week

A North Carolina hunter's education training course will be taught Monday, Wednesday, and Thursday, Aug. 4, 6 and 7 from 8 a.m.-noon at the Davie County Law Enforcement Training Center at 370 Dalton Road, Mocksville.

This is a state-mandated training class for any hunter age 16 and older who has not had a prior North Carolina hunting license or other recognized hunter safety training.

To reach the center, take US 64 east from Mocksville toward Lexington for approximately 3.2 miles. Turn right onto Dalton Road. Travel .7 of a mile, and turn right into the entrance of the Davie County Landfill. Drive straight for 150 yards to the driveway to the left.

The first two days will be indoor classroom work, and part of the final day will be on the range firing shotguns.

when they got here, and they had no egos," he said. "If you're going to play in college, you must be competitive and hungry, and you have to really want it. Those two kids look like they do."

Benge's incomparable Davie career saw him rack up one record after another. He holds the 1-2 spots in season completions (203, 161) and passing yards (3,071 and 2,068). He holds the season record for TD passes (34). He holds the 1-2 spots for single-game passing yards (384, 297). He owns career records for pass attempts (732), completions (443), passing yards (6,392) and TD passes (57). And he's responsible for three of the six games in which a QB threw four TD passes.

Absher

Most important, Davie won 31 of 40 games during Benge's three-year varsity career.

Davie was also represented during East-West All-Star week by boys basketball coach Mike Absher, who was the assistant of the West boys. The East won an exciting game 99-93 at the Greensboro Coliseum.

"It was truly an honor," Absher said. "I enjoyed every minute of it. It was neat working with guys you competed against like (East Rowan's) Justin Vanderford. He was making 3s for us instead of me watching him make them against us. It was definitely a highlight in my career."

The West head coach was Ashbrook's Marty Hatchell. Absher has been a varsity basketball head coach for 15 years, including six at Davie.

The all-star game was the crowning moment for Benge's prep career.

point conversion, Davie offensive coordinator Bill Oakley made a shrewd call: a screen pass to White, who eluded a tackler deep in the backfield and tied the game at 21-21.

"We knew they'd be sending the house and we had to fake it," Illing said. "We hoped nobody would tackle Ricky. We had to drop it off to him, and we knew he could get it. That was a good call by Oakley."

In overtime Davie got first shot from the 10. White burned West for 9 yards on first down, shaking Bryan Bradshaw in the backfield. White scored on second down and David Wooldridge's point-after kick made it 28-21.

White, who rushed for 104 yards on 24 carries, became the second rusher since '81 to pick up 1,000 yards in two different seasons. The other was David Daye.

"I've been playing for four years and had never beat West Forsyth," White said. "My senior year, I felt like I had to put it in there for the team. I felt like I owed it to them. I believe everybody doubted us. It doesn't get any better. I just want to thank the O-line for this game because they really picked it up."

Senior safety Jeremy Shoffner deserved a postgame fudge sundae. In West's overtime try on offense, Shoffner blitzed on fourth down from the 3, grabbed a shoestring and upended Anthony Butler. Quarterback Josh McGee had completed a first-down pass to the 4, and Davie's interior brutes had stuffed Butler on second and third down.

On fourth down, Shoffner closed the door and opened the emotional floodgates. Butler, a workhorse coming off 268 yards in a win over Northwest Guilford, put up 213 yards on 37 carries.

"That's the thing we've been talking to Jeremy about the last three weeks, coming up, making a play on a tailback and keeping containment," Illing said. "We talked about our seniors stepping up and making plays, and that's what Jeremy did."

Ridenhour, setting his greatest performance in motion, orchestrated a 12-play, 75-yard march out of the gate. He hit Tenor for 25 yards and Johnson for 21, and Davie had a 7-0 lead.

"We just tried to step it up because we know Drew's in his last year," Tenor said. "We beat West for all the seniors. We're very happy, especially after what they did to us last year, jumping on our DC like that."

Matt Hind's 14-yard punt for West and Ridenhour's 40-yard connection to Johnson set up two Wooldridge field goals as Davie's stunning lead increased to 13-0. Wooldridge tied Jerry Riddle for the most field goals in a season (nine) since '81.

The 13-0 lead appeared to have crushed West, but it didn't. Butler ruled the last five minutes of the first half and all of the third quarter, the slippery runner dashing for three TDs in a span of 6:30. The result was a 21-13 Davie deficit.

But for the first time since 1987, Davie ended up with the last laugh.

"(Butler) gassed us, but we came back and stopped him at the end," Ivey said. "I was proud of how we stepped up."

"We had some adversity at times," Holman said. "But you know what, when it counted we bowed our backs and shut the water off - because we believed."

Stone saluted the upstart War Eagles.

"Davie was a little stronger than us," he said. "I've told our guys that's a wakeup call because we've always been stronger than these guys. We need to get our butts back in the steel business."

BUSINESS SPOTLIGHT

Visual Changes' Brenda Langford

Listening is one of Brenda Langford's strongest virtues - especially when she is discussing a client's hairstyle. Brenda, who recently joined the talented staff at Visual Changes, says that she learns a lot from her customers just by simply listening to them.

Listening to her customers is paramount

"I like to listen to my customers so we both get the same picture on what's best for their hair," Brenda notes. "My clients teach me to be the best hairdresser that I can be for them."

And with 16 years experience in the hair business, Brenda understands how important relating and listening to her clients is.

Short cuts are Brenda's forte

A native of Virginia Beach, Virginia, Brenda received some of her education in Ft. Walton Beach, Florida before moving to Winston-Salem about 20 years ago. She continued her education at Leon's Beauty School in Greensboro and received a cosmetology degree.

"I enjoy doing all kinds of hair but short hair cuts are my forte," Brenda adds. "When I was a young girl, whenever we played house, I was the one who did everyone's make-up and hair. It's just something I have enjoyed doing my whole life."

When Brenda is not cutting hair, she enjoys acrylic painting and other artistic endeavors, as well as traveling.

"Cutting and coloring hair is another art form for me," Brenda says. "My love of artistry comes in handy in my career."

Brenda uses three different color lines at the shop - Wella, Goldwell and Joico. She frequently attends hair shows to stay up with the latest haircuts and styles.

"I love people and I knew at an early age that I wanted to work with the public," Brenda says with a smile. "I always aim to please."

DAVID BROWN 970-7407

Bubba Coleman looks downfield during the '92 Davie football season. At right, shortstop Coleman leaps for a throw during a playoff win. Davie made the 4-A final four in '93.

Bubba ...

Parker found footprints all over his garden. The footprints were courtesy of Bubba. The late Nanny Pat Jordan found shattered glass in her car. The shattered glass was courtesy of Bubba's BB gun. When mother Jan or cheerleading sisters Julie and Jami couldn't find Bubba, the first place they looked was the Bullhole, before it became RiverPark. Coach Dale Ijames' powerful Legion team played just about every night. Instead of staying inside, out of the hot sun and resting up for the game, Bubba would slip off on weekends and play in men's softball tournaments with his older buddies.

Ijames presumably never noticed that Bubba had played two or three softball games before showing up at the park for batting practice. After all, he led '92 Mocksville (24-13) in at-bats (152), was second in runs (43), hits (49), RBIs (32) and steals (19), hit .322, and only struck out 13 times. He hit .343 for a 28-10 Mocksville squad in '93, leading the team in runs (45), walks (37) and steals (17) and striking out seven times in 105 at-bats.

"He's playing softball with us, and then having to leave to go play Legion ball," Todd Bumgarner said. "You'd think somebody that had seen slowpitch softball all day wouldn't be worth a nickel in a baseball game that night. It didn't even bother him. We were just hoping he didn't get hurt."

Bubba said in '93 that he dreamed of "being 6-2, 190 pounds and getting a full ride to (North) Carolina." Even though he was seven inches and 40 pounds short of his dream stature, he turned heads during '92 football.

Davie trailed West Rowan 14-7 in the season opener. Bubba threw an 18-yard pass to Jon Ward in the corner of the end zone with 19 seconds left, and Hamilton Cuthrell's two-point run gave Davie a 15-14 win.

Coach Randall Ward summoned Bubba to the secondary for the first time in the fourth game, and he responded with a diving interception, Davie's first pick of the year.

Davie was 0-3 against Dudley before pulling off a spirited 25-16 CPC upset on the road. Bubba rushed 12 times for 97 yards and passed for 76 yards. In a 28-0 win over South Rowan, Bubba returned a punt 46 yards and picked off a pass.

Davie was 0-3 against Grimsley, losing by a combined 66-7 in '90 and '91. But Davie stunned Grimsley in the season finale, 17-6, to knock the Whirlies out of the playoff picture. Davie's 5-5 mark was its first non-losing record in five years, and it went a commendable 4-3 in the demanding CPC. Bubba broke Grimsley's back with 1:50 left, faking a dive, zigzagging 37 yards on an option keeper and sliding into the end zone.

"I saw him do that against Dudley for a touchdown," Grimsley coach Jeff Smouse said in '92. "He's a gamer. He's a competitor."

Bubba hit Gerald Roberts for 72 yards and a 7-0 lead. He added 74 rushing yards on 10 carries.

"My mom played high-school and college basketball," Bubba said of his athletic bloodlines in '93. "My great-uncle was Baxter Jordan, who played major-league baseball."

During the early part of his senior basketball season, Bubba was messing around in a men's league at the YMCA, turned his ankle and missed a couple games. He dominated in his first game back - 20 points, eight steals and five assists in a win over North Rowan. That was a preview of things to come for a crossover dribbling ankle-breaker who often carried the low-voltage War Eagles all by himself.

He had 11 points and 11 assists in a loss to West Rowan. He had 18 points, six rebounds, six steals and five assists in a 71-62 loss to Mount Tabor.

"I wish I had him," West Forsyth coach Denny Key said in '93.

Davie lost 73-60 at Grimsley, despite 18 points, six steals and five assists from Bubba, who drained three 3s from NBA range.

"He could have had 10 assists if we hadn't missed so many layups," coach Charles Crenshaw said then.

Bubba had 15 points, seven assists and five steals in a 75-73 loss to Dudley. "They're bumping him all the way upcourt, and he still beats the press," Crenshaw said afterward. "And when he beats it, what's he doing? He's giving it up to someone for a layup. There can't be many people with as many steals as Bubba has."

Davie went 2-12 in the CPC. When seventh-seeded Davie traveled to No. 2 Reynolds in the first round of the tournament, Davie pulled off the biggest upset in CPC history. Bubba - you'll be shocked to hear this - scored the last five points in a 64-59 win over coach Howard West's Demons, who came in 17-5 to Davie's 7-16. Reynolds and its 6-11 center, Jiri Formanek, had throttled Davie by 30 and 24 points, but Bubba stole the show with 17 points, seven assists and four steals. Davie wouldn't beat Reynolds again until seven years later in 2000.

"Nobody in this gym thought we could win but us," Crenshaw said then. "We played our hearts out."

It was 59-59 in the final minute. Crenshaw ordered the weave. Bubba drove past Linwood Skinner, used the glass, was fouled and completed the three-point play.

"Bubba showed he can play with anybody," Crenshaw said then. "I wish there were college scouts here."

Davie finished 8-17, the most wins in five years. This was Crenshaw's fourth and final year as coach, and Davie's only all-CPC player in that span was Bubba in '92 and '93. Bubba averaged almost as many points as Davie's 2-3 scorers combined.

"He's so tough," Crenshaw said. "You can't rattle him."

In the spring of '93, the War Eagles delivered one of the biggest chapters in the Davie baseball history books. They went 23-5, which ranked No. 1 until a 24-4 finish in '06. They won 14 straight, bagged the sixth CPC championship in seven years, won the CPC Tournament and advanced to the 4-A final four.

Davie obliterated West Forsyth 22-1 behind a 16-run fourth, but it slumped to 3-3 in the CPC and was fourth in the standings. Then came a remarkable run, with eight straight wins vaulting Davie to sole possession of first. Much of Davie's success revolved around two crafty lefty pitchers, Brock Keene (12-1, 1.63) and Marcus King (5-3, 2.54). Among the key ingredients were Brad Mecham (.338), Brad Chapman (.337) and King (.333). Bubba was a machine as usual, leading Davie in average (.415), hits (34), triples (two) and doubles (11). He was second in homers (three), RBIs (21) and runs (26).

A wonderful story unfolded in the playoffs. Davie rallied past McDowell 2-1. Davie's only hit was Chad Helton's two-strike, two-run, game-winning double in the bottom of the seventh. Davie squeezed past A.C. Reynolds 1-0 in the second round, scoring in the bottom of the seventh. Amid throngs of fans, Davie kept finding ways to win, beating East Forsyth 2-1 with two runs in the bottom of the sixth.

Davie hosted Alexander Central for the Western North Carolina championship. They were one win from facing shortstop Trot Nixon and New Hanover in the state-title series. Nixon was the No. 7 pick in the Major League Draft. Davie lost an epic, 10-inning clash 7-3. UNC recruit A.Y. Yoder, a 6-2, 195-pound lefty, pitched all 10 for AC and improved to 12-1.

The War Eagles came tantalizingly close, stranding a runner at third three times and getting thrown out at third and home. It was 3-3 after two and a half. The next seven innings were scoreless.

Yoder couldn't get Bubba out, going 2 for 2 with three walks. But the curtain closed on eight senior starters.

Bubba's final Davie County sports season was '93 Legion, and the sparkplug helped Mocksville claim the Southern Division. It hasn't won the division since that summer.

While Bubba received some small-college offers in all three sports, most colleges shunned the 5-7, 150-pounder. But what Bubba did at North Carolina was the cherry on the sundae. He had always bled Carolina blue, and he tried out for the Tar Heels' JV basketball team as a freshman. Seventy-five prospects showed up at the Dean Dome. You can imagine how big a step that was for Bubba. Cooleemee's population was 900, and the Dean Dome holds 22,000.

"The first couple of days I had sweaty palms," Bubba said in '93. "It's going pretty good, but there are five or six other point guards out there."

But when the final cut was announced by coach Dave Hanners, Bubba was one of 19 still standing. In the opener against Methodist College, Bubba's only playing time was the last two minutes. The second game, a win over Richard Bland College, was vintage Bubba: 10 points, four assists and three steals. The Tar Heels finished 10-4. Bubba shared time with three other point guards and averaged between 10-15 minutes a game.

Dean Smith, the legendary Carolina coach who retired in 1997, started the JV program, the only one in the ACC, when freshman eligibility for varsity began in 1972.

"I can't remember another 'Bubba' playing at Carolina," Hanners, currently an assistant for the Charlotte Bobcats, said then. "I asked him if his name was Jesse, and he let me know right off the bat that he wanted to be called Bubba. He's really been good for us. Bubba's a great shooter. He somehow gets to the basket, gets them up and they go in. I don't know how he does it. I wish he would shoot more. But he's unselfish and enjoys getting his teammates the ball."

Among the perks for playing on the JV were two free pair of Nike shoes and sitting on the front row - directly behind the Carolina bench - for every varsity home game.

"I'm so close to coach Smith that I find myself just sitting there staring at him," Bubba said then. "He's like a god here."

As a sophomore in 1994-95, Bubba started at point guard, played 25 minutes a game and averaged 10 points. His peak performances: 17 points in one game and five 3-pointers in another game. One teammate was Greg Ellis, a 6-6, 270-pound defensive end who has been with the Dallas Cowboys for 11 years. Another was Octavus Barnes, who set football records as a Tar Heels receiver.

"You wouldn't believe how strong (Ellis) was," Bubba said last week. "He would rip a goal down. He couldn't shoot worth a (durn), but he was pretty nimble."

Pearce Landry went from JV to varsity in 1993-94. David Neal made the jump from JV to varsity in 1994-95. Hanners told Bubba his chances of making the Carolina varsity in 1995-96 were slim to none, so he didn't try out. The decision still gnaws at him. The heartbreaking part is Webb Tyndall made the varsity. Tyndall was a 5-10, 156-pound point guard who played behind Bubba in 1994-95.

"I was wrestling with the idea, but I had classes and then decided at the last minute not to," Bubba said last week. "It was a bad, bad mistake. The guy that played behind me made it. That's what hurt the worst, that somebody that played behind me made the team. It still (hurts today). I don't really like talking about it."

Still, Bubba has more than his share of fond memories from Carolina. There were daily battles, heated grudge matches, in old Woollen Gym. He played pickup games with and against well-known Tar Heels like Jerry Stackhouse, Rasheed Wallace, Jeff McInnis, Antwan Jamison and Shammond Williams.

"My dorm was right across from Woollen Gym, and it had eight courts," he said last week. "My freshman year I was a little runt, so I had to get in the early games because I never got picked up. Nobody ever wanted to play with me, so if I lost a game I'd kind of wander around those courts. Not until late in my freshman year did I really get recognized for being able to play. I had to guard McInnis during some games. My sophomore year I became a little more known, so I'd be able to pick up with some of the better players. I played a lot against Scott Cherry. I played several times against Rasheed, Stackhouse and Jamison. I played against Shammond Williams. Actually I played against Shammond when I was a freshman and he was at Fork Union. I played with Stackhouse, but a lot of times they came in together."

Nowadays you can find Bubba playing in a men's basketball league at the Brock Gym and church-league softball at Rich Park. Though he's not as quick as he once was, you better not leave him open.

"He could put you on his shoulders - and still can," Bumgarner said last week. "He scored, what, 45 points in a basketball game (last spring)? He hit 10 or 11 3-pointers. And he's 33 years old."

Bubba Coleman and wife Heather enjoy the ceremony on hall-of-fame night in fall '05.

Catawba's Gray Moves To Safety

Jaspen Gray of Catawba has moved from outside linebacker to safety, and Indians football coach Chip Hester likes what he sees.

Gray, a rising junior, was a strong special teams player last year, when Catawba went 11-2 and 5-1, tying Carson-Newman for the South Atlantic Conference championship.

"His biggest impact has been on special teams," Hester said. "We've put a big, big emphasis on special teams, and he'll be one of our candidates - of course, we'll vote on it - for our special teams captain."

But after playing a backup role for two years, Gray could be a factor at safety. He could be a perfect fit for run support. The only issue is his pass defense, but that should get better with reps.

"I think he's finally found his home at safety," Hester said. "This coming year is a big opportunity for him to get in that starting mix. We're pretty excited about what he brings to the table. He's fast and he's not afraid to hit. Those are two good things when you're looking at a safety. When you make that transition (from outside linebacker to safety) what you worry about is pass coverage. That's what he's going to have to continue to work on and get more consistent in. He makes great plays. He's that safety we feel great about in run situations.

"But he's becoming a complete safety and learning that position. I'm pretty excited about what he might be able to pull off this year."

Gray is a 2006 graduate from Davie. The Advance resident started at outside linebacker on 14-1 and 11-3 Davie teams in 2004 and 2005, respectively.

circumstances could not have been more dire. There were 12 players. The Vikings were perennial cellar dwellers. Then came a 6-12 season that broke the record for wins and gave Everette the Wilkes County Coach of the Year award.

"Nobody expected us to do anything my first year," Everette said. "In a lot of people's eyes six wins is not a lot, but in my eyes, knowing what I had to deal with and what I had to work with, it was a good stepping stone. They had been used to getting beat by 12 or 13 goals."

The turnaround became a fairy tale story in Everette's second year. The Vikings started 8-0, beating defending conference champ Starmount in overtime. They knocked off a 4-A opponent. They settled for 11-7-1 largely because the foremost player missed four games with an injury. North lost all four, making Everette wonder what might have been.

"My best player got hurt in the overtime win against Starmount," he said. "He was out for four important games."

The Vikings still made the state playoffs, another unprecedented accomplishment for the school. Everette was named Wilkes County Coach of the Year for the second time, as well as Conference Coach of the Year.

"It was a total change in morale," he said. "I had a lot of people coming up to me and asking: 'What are you doing that's getting these guys to work for you?' I said it's them believing in themselves and believing in me."

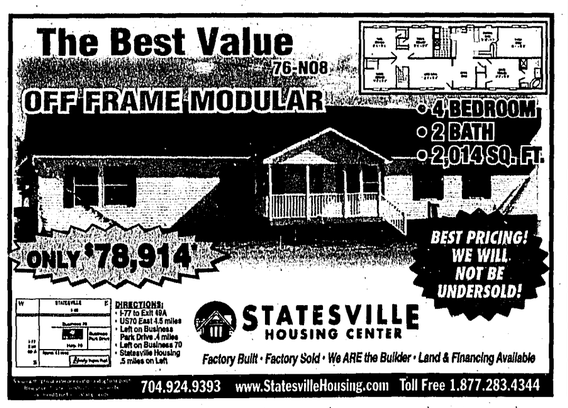

Everette is fully aware he's taking on a daunting task at Davie. The War Eagles are 120-230-28 all time, including a 31-84-3 mark in the Central Piedmont Conference since 1996. There are three problematic foes in Davie's way. It is 0-31 against Mount Tabor, 2-36 against West Forsyth and 4-31-1 against Reynolds. Last year the War Eagles finished 2-14-1 and 0-9-1. Their only winning season was 9-7-2 in '96. They've never finished above .500 in the CPC.

But the thing about sports is there's always a new season, always another chance. Plus, Michael Rowe, Matt Colner and Jordan Kinder will provide a good foundation this season.

"If they see you excited, they're going to be excited," Everette said. "I'm a young guy. I can get out there and mix it up with them. I'm going to bust my butt. They will see somebody willing to sweat just like they are and not just somebody yelling at them."

Can Davie do big things in '08? Everette doesn't have a crystal ball. What he does have is a fearless attitude, a dogged determination and a belief that anything is possible with enough blood, sweat, tears and battle scars.

"I'm not real worried about (past) records," he said. "That's the past. I know what kind of conference Davie's in. It's very demanding, very challenging. I can promise you this: You're going to get everything from me. I'm hoping I'm going to have guys ready to jump on board and go at it. Because that's the way I am."

Christopher Watson Completes Infantry Training

Army Pvt. Christopher L. Watson has graduated from the Infantryman One Station Unit Training at Fort Benning, Columbus, Ga. The training consists of Basic Infantry Training and Advanced Individual Training.

During the nine weeks of basic combat training, the soldier received training in drill and ceremonies, weapons employment, map reading, tactics, military courtesy, military justice, physical fitness, first aid skills, and Army history, core values and traditions. Additional training included development of basic combat skills and battlefield operations and tactics, and experienced use of various weapons and weapons defenses available to the infantry crewman.

The Advanced Individual Training course is designed to train infantry soldiers to perform reconnaissance operations; employ, fire and recover anti-personnel and anti-tank mines; locate and neutralize land mines and operate target and sight equipment; operate and maintain communications equipment and radio networks; construct field firing aids for infantry weapons; and perform infantry combat exercises and dismounted battle drills, which includes survival procedures in a nuclear, biological or chemical contaminated area.

Watson is the son of Michelle Watson of Gulliher Road, Harmony.

Ryan Myers turns 5 - On Thursday, June 26, I celebrated my 5th birthday. I started out my morning by having breakfast at I-Hop, then my Paw Paw took me to my favorite place, Chuck E. Cheese. I had a great time but my favorite part was when Chucky came over and gave me a stuffed animal that looked just like him. Later on that afternoon my family celebrated with cake and ice cream. Then it was off to Vacation Bible School where I celebrated with all of my church friends. Mom brought Krispy Kreme doughnuts for me to share with everyone.

On Sunday, June 29, I had a party at my Granny's house. My friends and family were served lunch, then we all enjoyed my Batman cake and ice cream. I would like to thank everyone for all the great gifts that I received.

My dad and mom are Cliff "Brad" and Michelle Myers, my big brother is CJ Myers of Smith Grove. My maternal grandparents are Lindsey and Joyce Fishel of Cornatzer. My paternal grandmother is Faye Myers of Smith Grove. My great aunt is Carolyn Atwood of Cornatzer.

A special thanks to my dad for making my Batman cake, it was delicious. Love, Ryan.

Summer Sutherland celebrated her 13th birthday on Friday, July 18. Her dad, Chad Sutherland, took her to Emerald Point on Thursday and she had a pool party at her Aunt Cindy and Uncle Larry's house on Friday with family and friends. Her cake was decorated with a picture of her and her Jr. Dragster on it which she races at Farmington Dragway. Happy 13th birthday, Summer. Love, Dad and all the Sutherland family.

Alex Myers takes his turn to lead the singing at Hunters Helping Kids.

Jordan Myers is the first girl to reach the top of the rock wall.

There was rejoicing in western Davie County on Friday as word spread throughout several of our communities that the lab report for Ashleigh Davis was back and that the news was good. The small brain tumor that had caused Ashleigh's headaches and created so much concern is benign. Rather than continue with possible side effects from its location and the chance that it could enlarge, Ashleigh has decided to have it removed. We all pray that the worst is indeed behind her, and everyone hopes that she can get back to being a normal teenager.

The second annual Hunters Helping Kids at the Smoot Farm on Calahaln Road was held Saturday, July 19. Headed up by Jim and Margie Roberson and son, Dale Roberson and his wife, Pam, with help from other family members and support from the community, the event attracted more than 100 children from ages 5-16. I don't know the names of every volunteer who made the whole thing possible, but I am certain that they all dedicated many hours of their time and worked hard to give every child a first class experience with the many types of outdoor activities.

Each child was registered by a parent or guardian before being divided into age groups with an adult leader assigned to each section. Then they spread out to rotate through each display. The varied attractions included a rock climbing wall; an opportunity to shoot a bow and arrow; a fishing contest, where catching even the smallest fish could win a prize; a shotgun shoot; a BB gun shoot sponsored by North Carolina Wildlife; an exhibit of arrowheads; a rubber duck race set up in a fire department drop tank and directed by Mocksville Police Chief Robert Cook; law enforcement's DARE car exhibited and finger printing for identification purposes for each kid; a demonstration of hunting dogs used in a waterfowl hunt; a tour of Center VFD's smokehouse that is used to teach youngsters how to get out of a smoke-filled house; and two of Sheffield-Calahaln's fire trucks set up on display with members showing the children the equipment that is stored on the trucks and how it is used, as well as a chance to try on actual fire fighter turnout gear, including a helmet. Sheffield also had EMT's on hand and its tent with cool misters set up just in case anyone overheated from all the excitement on that wonderfully sunny day.

A banquet had been held earlier in the year to raise funds for the day, and many corporate sponsors came through with donations of money for prizes.

Joseph Spry won a BB gun for having the best shotgun target closest to the bull's eye. Jordan Myers was the first girl to reach the top of the climbing wall, where she rang the bell. The shortest fish caught award went to Trent Hill, and smallest was won by Grayson Keaton. Largest fish of the day, at 12.5 inches long was caught by Davis Byers. Sam Collins, Peyton Kelly, and Logan Lester caught the most fish. Stephen Lewis won the bow contest. And the list goes on.

Even if a child did not win a particular event, a drawing was held at the end of the day for the dozens of prizes still available, and everyone got to go to the table to pick out their choice. The air horn blew about every 30 minutes to signify the switch to another event, but when the horn sounded at 11:30, a line quickly formed so everyone could get a choice of a wonderful grilled hamburger, hotdog, chicken tenders, with chips, watermelon, cantaloupe, and of course, cake for dessert. Before the end of the day, each child received a goodie bag containing treats, pencils, coloring books, a tee-shirt, and a big gift – a brand new fishing rod and reel.

Having spent the day there volunteering with the fire department, I was able to see the children's enthusiasm first hand. What struck me most was their general behavior, which I can only describe as well-mannered competition. Everyone knows that kids can and should be kids, but no one acted out, whined, or cried, and although they were competing, they also cheered and supported each other. Most of these children have had good role models to teach them, and should be able to carry that forward throughout their lives. It's unfortunate that more urban children don't have such wonderful opportunities to find that there are many outdoor activities outside of slick fantasy amusement parks. Learning to enjoy what nature offers in the country can give young people more appreciation for the world they will inherit and a desire to keep it in the best condition they can. My hat is off to the fine Roberson family and all the people who helped put together this worthwhile event.

Richard and Tracey Hunt and Sam and Bonnie Lambert's wedding anniversaries are on the fifth. The sixth is Matt Wise's birthday and an anniversary for Jamie and Wendi White. Thursday, Aug. 7 is the birth date of Annie Wright, Andrew Reavis, and Robin Gatton.

Game Night is scheduled for Friday, Aug. 22 at the Sheffield-Calahaln Community Center. Proceeds will fund improvements to the center.

Tuesday afternoon, July 22 we finally had a chance for a good summer rain. Those of you watching the television or the radar on your computer screen saw green and yellow areas start to form in areas around Davie County. The wind was our first notice that maybe the rain wouldn't bypass us this time, and shortly after it began, the fire alarm sounded. Dispatched to the Gaither home just off County Line Road, we found that a huge old Hickory tree had given up to a strong burst of wind and had toppled. Ed Gaither had just walked outside to take care of some chores before the rains came, and as timing would sometimes have it, was in the appropriate place at just that moment to witness the fall of that tree that had stood for numerous years in his yard. The bad news was that it did not entirely miss his house, and from his vantage point in the yard, Ed was unable to determine just how much of his roof, windows, and doors had taking the brunt of the tree.

Sheffield-Calahaln VFD members watch the awards presentation.

There was no obvious collapse of any part of the structure, and nothing could be seen protruding from inside the house, but there was tremendous weight resting on parts of the roof which shouldn't be there. Firefighters with chainsaws went right to work to begin cutting through the maze to lessen the load on the structure. It didn't take long to see that good luck had come along with the bad. A few feet further alongside the path the tree fell would have resulted in an unwelcome guest in the middle of the den and kitchen. The worst actual damage, in addition to some shattered nerves, was some holes in the roof. Those were covered with temporary shingles to keep out any rain. And it did indeed finally rain shortly thereafter accompanied by thunder and lightning. This time Sheffield got an allotment, and it was a truly welcome event.

This week is the last camp session for the summer at the Poplar Springs School on Ijames Church Road. Last week the campers got a jump on Christmas, by designing and making all kinds of ornaments and a few gifts that might appear under the tree in December. By the time Friday rolled around, it took armloads of boxes to haul their creations out to cars for the trip home. Shar Beck is a talented instructor and with Vauda Ellis, the two of them have brought a real taste of art to children and adults alike at the former school building. Get more information about this community treasure at www.poplarspringsschool.com.

Saturday, July 26 was the New Union Men's Fellowship Hot Dog Lunch. This time strategically placed signs on Sheffield Road directed drivers to the church parking lot, and let them know, too, if they had missed the dogs. Picnic tables were heavily used in the great weather, and diners lingered to catch up on area news. Although many Sheffield residents were on beach vacations, there was still a larger than usual crowd that showed up for an outdoor lunch. The men would like to thank everyone who came out. Homecoming at the church will be Sunday, Aug. 10, with revival beginning that day and continuing through Wednesday, Aug. 13.

The fourth annual New Union UMC Fall Festival is scheduled for Saturday, Sept. 20 from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. Vendor participation is welcome, so anyone who is interested in a space should call Vicki Groce at 336-961-6929 or Brenda Bailey at 751-7567.

Family members attend the memorial service at Mt. Pleasant Church.

On Saturday, July 26, family members of Major General George Johnson gathered at his home on Farmington Road to enjoy dinner prepared by Wink Hendrix of Mocksville, and to catch up on family news.

The following Sunday morning, July 27, they joined other members of the Johnson Clan for the 55th Annual Johnson Family Reunion at Tanglewood Park. They began with a morning worship service at the Mt. Pleasant Church led by the Rev. Thomas H. Johnson. The service was followed by a Memorial Prayer and Benediction in the Mt. Pleasant Cemetery. Flowers were laid on the graves of the William Johnson family and names of family members, who had passed on this past year, where called out and acknowledged.

The group then gathered at the Pavilion 3 shelter for a Reunion Dinner. Prizes were given out to James E. Johnson of Clemmons, who was the oldest to attend at age 83, and Sidney William Johnson, son of James and Kelly McGrew of Mocksville, as the youngest. Elizabeth Martin of Vancouver, Canada, who came with her grandparents Lester and Elizabeth Martin of Mocksville, won a prize for coming from the greatest distance - 1,200 miles. There was a door prize, a Family Bible, which was awarded to Ann Johnson of Clemmons.

The Johnson Family history dates back to 1757, when William Johnson, a immigrant from Wales, purchased 640 acres of land for $192. On that land, he built his home and a log fort to protect his family and neighbors from attack by the Indians. That land is known as Tanglewood Park.

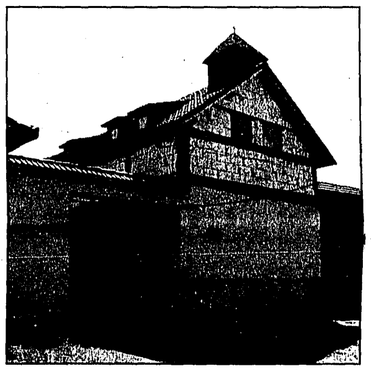

George Wesley Johnson, son of William Johnson, came out to what was called at the time, Little Currituck, in 1837 and built a general store in which he called Farmington. Later, he built his home and another store in which held a post office and at one time, the only telephone in town. George Wesley Johnson was responsible for the building of a Blacksmith Shop, a Brick Yard and Tannery Yard, a Tin Shop, and a Furniture Manufacturing Shop. He farmed, planted vineyards, made wine and vinegar, and is credited for building the "Fair Grounds House", located north of the Farmington Methodist Church. He gave land for a local church and school and renamed the area, Farmington, after the store which he had built when he first settled here.

There are still around 90 descendants of William Johnson in the area, and several others who come in from other states. We are blessed to have so much history here in Farmington, to share with our children, and history that continues to live on in the Johnson Family and within the historical structures of our community.

I am happy to report that last Saturday's Farmers Market was successful. We had vendors that sold fresh green beans, cucumbers, tomatoes, carrots, squash, cantaloupe, watermelon and more. There also was canned jams, jellies, relishes and local honey and some wonderful fresh baked goods. All were sold at great prices. There was even ostrich eggs for sale. They are sanitized and ready to use for crafts or for holiday decorations. We are expecting more this Saturday so spread the word. The market is from 8:30 a.m.-1 p.m.

The members of the College and Career Class of Clarksbury who went on a mission trip to Teliu, Romania, returned home last week safe and sound. Those who went were Bobby and Edna Anderson, Kirt Anderson, Brenda Bell, Laura Beth Galliher, Seth and Cheryl Hathcock, Bridgett Hutchens, Colby Lewis, Josh Lewis, Cindy Heath, Asheton Welborn, and Jason Falkner. The group was joined by eight people from the Asheville area.

Upon arrival in Bucharest, they traveled by bus for seven hours to the village of Teliu. They stayed in the homes of host families and worked on a church that began three years ago. The team renovated the sanctuary and parsonage and completed renovations to a youth retreat. Many villagers wondered why Americans would travel so far and work for free. The pastor visited many homes to witness and explain that Christians help each other.

The team experienced many cultural differences. Meals always included goat cheese and sometimes included raw fat meat. The children loved the candy and chips brought from North Carolina. Housing was interesting in that all of the houses were behind gates. During communist rule, the gates were for protection but have since become a cultural custom. Livestock customs were amazing. Each morning the people open their gates for the cows to walk out freely down the road to an open field to graze and return home around 7:30 p.m. Driving a vehicle was unusual as gas was $8 per gallon and there were no driving laws. Drivers drive the speed they want and pass whenever they want.

During the past year the College and Career Class had many fundraising events to benefit the trip. The events and the trip were rewarding. The class appreciates greatly the support of all contributors.

Ruth Kimmer has returned to the Lexington Healthcare Center. She remains in serious condition and needs our prayers for the Lord's divine healing and comfort. Also, please remember in prayer those residents who are facing difficult times.

Beuter Completes Navy Training

Navy Reserve Seaman Mark R. Beuter, son of Lynn M. and Richard L. Beuter of Mocksville, recently completed U.S. Navy basic training at Recruit Training Command, Great Lakes, Ill.

During the eight-week program, Beuter completed training which included classroom study and practical instruction on naval customs, first aid, firefighting, water safety and survival, and shipboard and aircraft safety. An emphasis was placed on physical fitness.

The capstone event of boot camp is "Battle Stations". This exercise gives recruits the skills and confidence they need to succeed in the fleet. "Battle Stations" is designed to galvanize the basic warrior attributes of sacrifice, dedication, teamwork and endurance in each recruit through the practical application of basic Navy skills and the core values of Honor, Courage and Commitment. Its distinctly "Navy" flavor was designed to take into account what it means to be a Sailor.

Beuter is a 1995 graduate of Davie High School of Mocksville. He is a 2000 graduate of North Carolina State University, with a bachelor's degree.

Camp Changes Lives

By Mike Barnhardt
Davie County Enterprise Record

Everywhere you turn at Carolina Bible Camp in Mocksville, there's a chance to encounter Jesus.

All you have to do is watch and listen to the more than thousand children who spend a week at the camp every summer. Watch how they care for one another, how they focus on each other and their relationship with Christ.

"It's a place where you can come and encounter Jesus," said Matt Hudson, interim pastor at Journey of Faith Church of Christ in Hillsdale. "The staff works to provide an environment where that can happen. We try to inspire young people to live for something more important than themselves - Jesus."

A former camper, Hudson was teaching Bible classes last week.

Dr. Bonnie Grigsby of Mocksville has volunteered at the camp for 15 years.

"The spirit of the kids teaches me more about Christianity than any adult has ever taught me," she said. "They support each other no matter what. This is my boost for the year.

"Being used by God in the kids' lives, you feel like you're making a difference in the kids' future."

Talk to counselors and campers, and you hear those themes keep recurring.

Last week's camp director, Dennis Conner, has been attending the camp for 46 straight years. The Mocksville location - its first permanent site - opened in 1992.

"The objective is to provide a place for Christians to enjoy some recreation," Conner said. "We have a strong spiritual focus to help young people grow in their faith."

Campers start their day - after breakfast, of course - with two Bible classes. Then they take a singing class. The afternoons are free time for volleyball, basketball, softball, swimming in the camp pool, making crafts - or just hanging out with friends. At night, there's a worship service and late-night devotional.

Danae Casteel especially enjoys the singing. She said the camp-wide sings on Friday night are her highlights for the year. "Carolina Bible Camp changed my life," she said.

Paul Constantine of Raleigh said the camp is a nice get-away from the modern world. "I just love the uplifting and encouragement you get from everybody," he said. "It's a supportive environment, and it helps me find my role in Christ."

Conner is also a Church of Christ minister, and said the camp led him to the pulpit. "I would not be preaching today if it were not for Carolina Bible Camp. It's a magnificent thing to see how lives are changed."

Geoff Sikes has been at the camp for 45 straight years, and said that friends made there become friends for life.

Carolina Bible Camp is open to children from all denominations. Learn more at www.carolinabiblecamp.org.

The campers are housed in air-conditioned cabins.

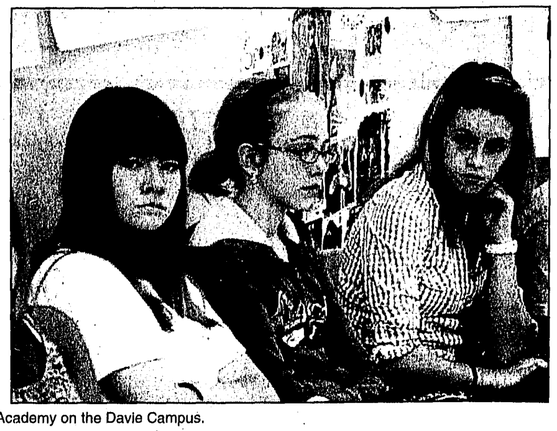

Young people find a shady spot to watch the daily camper-counselor softball game.

Students take part in the Davidson County Community College Student Leadership Academy on the Davie Campus.

41 Davie Middle School Students Learn To Be Leaders

Interest in the second Davidson County Community College Davie Student Leadership Academy was high this summer with twice as many Davie middle school students participating this year compared to the first academy in 2007.

A total of 41 Davie County students in grades seven through nine completed the 2008 Davie Student Leadership Academy held in Mocksville on the Davie Campus of DCCC June 16-20.

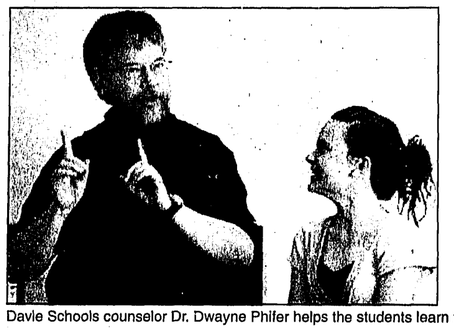

Students apply to participate in the Davie County Student Leadership Academy that promotes leadership and responsibility in the classroom and community. They must have recommendations from a school teacher, counselor or principal.

Academy experiences this year included speakers, seminars, team building exercises, and a service learning activity at Tanglewood Park. Dr. Dwaine Phifer returned as the academy's facilitator, assisted by counselors Candice Sotriffer and Brittany Wharton.

"Judging from the evaluation we received from our academy graduates, I feel really good about the academy and its success," said Scott Gantt, program director of Workforce Development and Continuing Education at DCCC. "I honestly believe the students developed an enormous amount of self-awareness and took in some valuable messages," he added. "I believe it will continue to develop and remain a think-tank for creating the leaders of tomorrow."

Students practiced their leadership skills in several hands-on activities and a new service learning project at Tanglewood Park. "I feel the students were able to actually connect with and practice leadership through the hands-on community service project," Gantt said. "They were proud to see the before and after photos of the mulched area they created, and they were proud of accomplishing something tangible."

Guest speakers included local leaders such as N.C. Rep. Julia Howard; Pat Elmore of Emburq; Wilda Spalding of Bermuda Run; Davie Sheriff Andy Stokes; Jane Simpson of the Community Foundation of Davie; Beth Dirks, assistant Davie County Manager; Mary Beth Stanley of the Davie County United Way; Toby Royston, DCCC Small Business Director; and Teresa Kines, associate dean of the Davie Campus of DCCC.

Davie Schools counselor Dr. Dwayne Phifer helps the students learn to strive to reach their potential.

"Leadership is a personal choice, and you can develop skills to increase your leadership potential," counselor Brittany Wharton told the group. During their final group discussion, academy students said they learned a lot about themselves and others during the week-long growth opportunity.

"I learned to have an open mind about things," one student said. Another said, "I learned how to work better with people and have more teamwork." Others said the academy helped them have more self-confidence, think out of the box, show more respect for others, trust other people, and listen to ideas unlike their own.

Academy students practiced their technological skills on the last day of camp when they participated in a real-time video conference with students in the Bernard Thomas Leadership Academy on the Davidson Campus of DCCC.

Freshman Orientation	5:30 – 7:30 pm

*6th Grade Orientation Wednesday, Aug. 20, 5:30-7:30 .pm.

Due to the new immunization law that goes into effect on Aug. 1 stating that all students entering sixth grade have proof of a Tdap vaccination or a Td within the last 5 years on the first day of school, arrangements have been made with the Davie County Health Department to provide a public health nurse to be at each middle school on the night of sixth grade open house to provide the parents and students an opportunity to meet this requirement that evening at school. A parent/legal guardian will be required to sign for the student to receive the vaccine.

Education Center Now Open For DCCC Registration

Davidson County Community College now offers registration, enrollment, and financial aid counseling, and career advising at the Davie Education Center in Advance.

Rita Matthews, coordinator of student services, is available to speak to anyone interested in taking classes at DCCC. Potential students may be individuals in high school, those considering a career change, students pursuing a two- or four-year degree, or adults who want to engage in personal development.

"It is always a good time to ask questions and collect information about your education options, and Matthews is the best place to begin," said Leanne Beauchamp, center director.

Matthews will be at the Davie Education Center every other Thursday from 3-5 or by appointment. Her next scheduled date is Aug. 7. She can be reached at 751-2885, ext. 6130 or by email at rlmathe@davidsoncce.edu.

"Many people are surprised to find out that they can earn a certificate in an area of specialization by taking only five classes," Beauchamp said. "Davidson County Community College offers certificates, diplomas (1 year of certificate and core college classes), associate degrees (2 years) and college transfer programs for those seeking a four-year degree after their time at DCCC. There are also two free programs for students to earn college credits while they are still in high school. In addition, all credit courses (does not including continuing education courses) are free to adults 65 years old or more."

The application is free to all part-time and full-time students. The process is simple and Matthews assists students in correctly submitting their application. A diploma is not required to apply. Examples of areas of study include: accounting, air conditioning, heating and refrigeration, business administration, computer programming, criminal justice, emergency medical sciences, medical assisting, nursing, welding, and many more. Fall semester courses begin the week of Aug. 18.

The Davie Education Center is located at 120 Kinderton Blvd., Suite 120. It is off US 158 across from the main entrance to Bermuda Run. The phone number is 998-3220.

'Tools For Schools' Kicks Off

The 2008 "Tools for Schools" campaign will kick off this week in Davie County.

During August, parents, principals, school administrators, teachers, staff and partners of the schools will volunteer at Mocksville Super Wal-Mart to collect school supplies for children in need.

The campaign is asking community members to donate school supplies for students in Davie County. Supplies needed include notebook paper, three-ring binders, pencils, glue, rulers, CDs/DVDs, calculators and copier paper that students often use to print out reports and projects.

According to the N.C. Department of Revenue's website, the dates for this year's Sales Tax Holiday are Friday, Aug. 1-Sunday, Aug. 3. Clothing, footwear, and school supplies of $100 or less per item; school instructional materials of $300 or less per item; sports and recreation equipment of $50 or less per item, computers of $3,500 or less per item; and computer supplies of $250 or less per item will be exempt.

This is the 13th year WFMY News 2 has coordinated a school supply drive with the school systems and Wal-Mart stores in its market area.

Davie High Class Of '88 Planning Reunion

The Davie High School Class of 1988 reunion planning committee has been meeting since October 2007 to plan for the upcoming 20-year reunion.

They've put together a weekend of activities beginning with the Davie High Homecoming game against Mt. Tabor on Oct. 17. Postcards were mailed earlier this summer announcing the following plans.

Friday, Oct. 17 at 5 p.m., the classmates will bring their families and meet for a special tailgate party. Afterwards, they will attend the homecoming game.

Saturday, Oct. 18, from 7 p.m.-midnight, they will host a "Mystery Party" as their 20-year reunion main event at the Village Inn Golf and Conference Center in Clemmons. Guests will have the opportunity to reunite with old friends as they are challenged to solve mysteries involving former classmates.

The reunion committee has set up a website for the Class of 1988. At www.daviehigh88.com you can learn more about this reunion weekend, register for any of the events, update personal information (whether you attend the reunion or not), and pay for reunion weekend tickets on-line or send by mail. Early birds can register and save money if their event tickets are purchased before July 31.

The committee is interested in finding classmates who they've lost touch with. Those classmates who have not received a postcard by mail are on the unable to locate list. Anyone who has information about class of 1988 graduates can e-mail names and addresses to daviehigh88@yahoo.com or contact Melinda Phillips at 284-4682.

Tanner Holden Serves As Page In NC House

Tanner Holden, a student at Forsyth Country Day School, recently served as a Page for the N.C. House of Representatives.

He is the son of Chris and Luanne Holden of Advance and was sponsored by Rep. George Holmes (R-Yadkin).

For decades, the House has relied on the service of Pages, who help deliver bills and amendments for representatives during daily House sessions and committee meetings, offer assistance in individual representatives' offices, and run errands around the Legislature. Pages spend a week at the General Assembly assisting members and their staff and learning about the structure of North Carolina government.

Win A Cruise By Supporting Scholarship Fund

The Davie High Class of 1976 is working on a scholarship fund through the Davie Community Foundation.

More than $2,000 has been raised; $5,000 is needed to establish a yearly $200 scholarship to a deserving Davie High senior.

Members of the class are planning a 50th birthday celebration for Saturday, Sept. 6 at Shelter 5 in Rich Park from 4-8 p.m. Classmates who donate $50 or more to the fund will be eligible for a drawing for the following items: a round trip cruise for two to Nassau Bahamas, a Nordic Track elliptical machine, and a $100 gift certificate to Lowes Home Improvement. Class members do not have to be present to win.

Mail checks to: Davie Community Foundation, PO Box 546, Mocksville before Sept. 6.

Democratic Women Hear From Candidates

The Democratic Women of Davie County met at the Pier 601 Seafood Restaurant Tuesday, July 15.

Chair Sue Nokovich welcomed everyone. "It's so good to see so many new faces." Attendance at the meetings has increased. "The prospect of electing Democrats to the NC State Senate, the US Senate, the US House of Representatives and the White House is arousing the interest of Democrats throughout the county," she said.

The brief business meeting included making plans for the ice cream social Aug. 23 at Rich Park in Mocksville. Attendees will be eating ice cream, meeting Democratic candidates, and participating in a silent auction. Rosalyn fielding, chair of the Hillsdale precinct, is organizing the silent auction. Gracia Littauer will set up a booth to register new voters during the Cooleemee Heritage Day event on Sept. 27.

The Democratic Women and invited guests heard from Daniel Stroud, who is working with Bill Burnette's campaign; from Lorette Batiste, who is working for the NC Democrat Party and from Roy Carter, who is running for Congress representing the 5th District. The speakers told about their vision of victory and how to achieve it by making sweeping changes throughout the county, state and country.

Stroud, speaking on behalf of Burnette, who is running for the State Senate, told the audience about the need to have representation for the people of the 34th District which includes Davie and Rowan counties. He pointed out the ineffectiveness of the incumbent, noting that progress within the 34th District in the areas of education, healthcare, and the economy must be achieved by getting all the benefit's from the state that the deserving citizens need and are entitled to get.

Batiste, who is working for the NC Democrat Party, briefly outlined the state strategy of coordinating all the Democratic campaigns within the county and district to ensure victory for all Democrats in November. She is the leader of the Obama Volunteers in the area and in that capacity, she will help organize canvassing committees, phone banking committees and voter registration drives.

Carter has been to several Democratic events in the county since beginning his campaign on Labor Day of last year, and will attend the ice cream social in August.

Carter told several humorous stories about his experiences on the campaign trail. Laughter and the pleasure he gets from meeting new, people is what makes the campaign fun, he said. Seeing the needs of the people within the 5th District is what encourages him to keep working.

Carter is a retired high school football coach. Many people still refer to him as "Coach Carter." Having worked with youngsters most of his life, he still feels deeply the need to work to ensure that children have the benefits of healthcare, education, and a healthy environment in which to live.

Recently, Carter was in Washington D.C. meeting with other Democratic Congressmen from the state. The message he received from them was that the incumbent was dead set on partisan voting, and would not even discuss bills with them.

Carter said he has and will continue to reveal the voting record of the incumbent at every stop along the campaign trail. Many residents in the county will be enlightened by knowing just what bills the incumbent has voted for or against, he said.

Carter said that everywhere he traveled throughout the 5th District, he met people who were without medical insurance and people who were having a difficult time making ends meet due to the high price of gasoline and food. Carter said the high price of gas is due to the "Enron Loophole," which allows investors to bet on the future price of oil. Drilling offshore and in pristine areas of the US is not the answer to ending our dependence on foreign oil, he said. Big oil companies, whose profits have soared would still be the benefactors of the small amount of oil here, selling always to the highest bidder. No legislation is in place or has even been considered that would guarantee that the oil drilled here would be sold only to American users within the United States.

He closed his speech by telling everyone that the road to victory would not be an easy one and he asked for the support from all. After the speech, Carter answered questions from the audience.

Davie High Class Of '08 Grows By 18 Students

Central Davie Academy has provided high school summer school for students falling short of earning credit in core courses during the 2007-2008 school year.

Summer school began on July 7 and will be wrapping up by July 31.

This summer school opportunity allowed 18 seniors to earn credit towards graduation this summer. Of those, eight students chose to participate in a small graduation ceremony in the auditorium at Central Davie Academy on July 28.

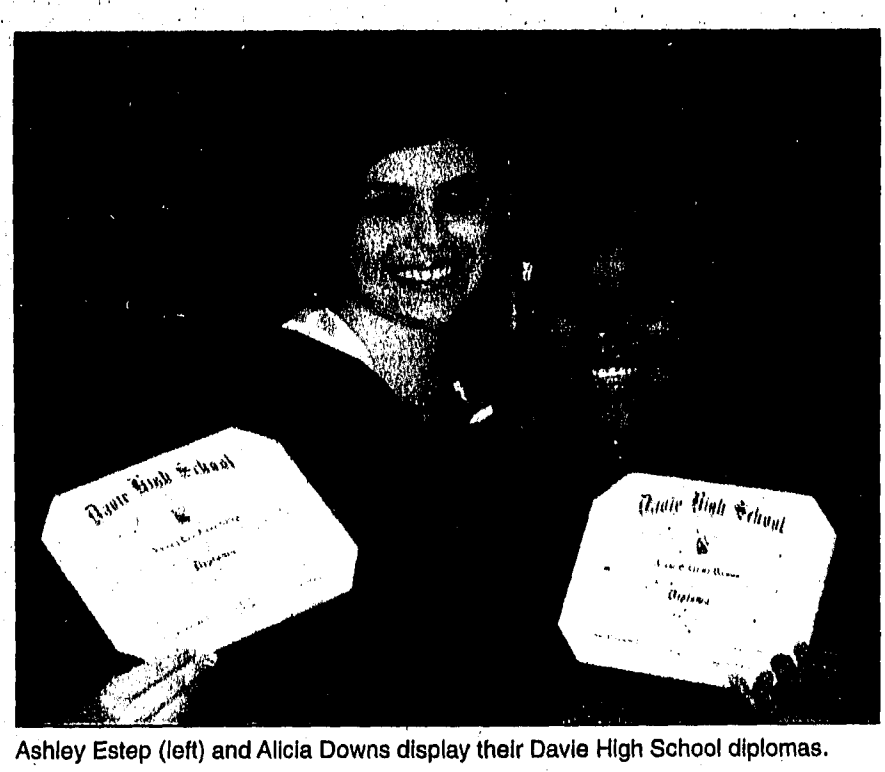

Summer school principal, Ali Wall, led the processional of graduates to the stage and each received their diploma from superintendent, Dr. Robert Landry. More than 40 guests watched as the summer school staff honored graduates. As of July 28, students in grades 9-12 have earned more than 200 credits this summer.

"Summer school instruction will positively impact the district graduation rate, retention rate, and drop out rate," said Beth Weatherman, Central Davie principal. "Since Central Davie Academy opened in 2006, over 1000 students have participated in one of our opportunities for academic success."
