MOCKSVILLE, NORTH CAROLINA, WEDNESDAY, JULY 6, 1932

NUMBER 51

NEWS OF LONG AGO.

What Was Happening in Davie Before The Days of Automobiles and Rolled Hoes

(Davie Record, July 9, 1902.)
Several Mocksville Methodists attended District Conference at Oak Ridge last week.

Mrs. O. H. Spencer who was quite sick last week, is much better. Mrs. J. W. Etchison, Miss Maude Jones and Mrs. Henry Foote, all of Cana, are quite ill with fever.

M. R. Bailey who has been confined to his room for several days with measles, was removed to his home at Cana Sunday. He is improving.

G. W. Green received a telegram last week informing him of the death of his brother at Kingsville, Canada, on June 28th.

Mr. James H. Foote, Deputy Grant Cancellor, Knight of Pythias, Winston, spent Saturday night with Dr. F. M. Johnson.

Marion Richardson tells us that he has a bill with two muskmelon vines on it, and these two vines have 52 melons on them.

James E. Coburn, of Granitville, S. C., has been appointed superintendent of Cooleemee cotton mills.

The four rural mail routes started from Mocksville last week are moving along nicely considering the fact that we have no boxes up.

Mrs. J. F. Click, wife of the editor of Times Mercury, died Sunday at her home in Hickory. Mrs. Click was a native of Davie—the daughter of Thomas Maxwell, who lived near Liberty, in Jerusalem township.

Mr. and Mrs. James Hoyle, of Fork Church, have gone to the mountains for the summer.

Uncle Peter Huuley, colored blacksmith, dropped dead last Thursday morning at 6:30 o'clock. He was about 80 years old, and was working in his corn patch when death came.

The Union meeting of the Baptist church of the South Yadkin Association, met at Fork Church recently. This church was organized in 1793.

Mrs. B. K. Mason, of Williamston, visited relatives near Fork Church recently.

Miss Mollie Maloy, of Rickingham, who has been visiting at Fork Church for some time left Friday for the mountains where she will spend the summer.

L. B. Walker and sister, Miss Ella, of Kappa, spent Monday at Cooleemee.

Miss Mattie Stroud, of Hickory, is spending some with relatives near Kappa.

Mrs. Temple Williams, of Kappa, had a stroke of paralysis last Saturday morning which left her in a critical condition.

Mrs. Polly Daywalt, of Kappa, who was crippled in December by falling on the ice, is now able to walk about the house a little.

Rev. W. R. Ketchie went to Rowan last week to conduct the burial services of Mrs. Fink.

The Republicans of Davie county met at the court house Monday for the purpose of electing delegates to the State Convention. Hon. C. A. Reynolds, of Winston, was present and made a strong speech. Dr. Kimbrough called the convention to order. E. H. Morris was made chairman, and A. T. Grant, Jr. secretary. The delegates to the convention were instructed to vote for Hon. D. M. Furches for Chief Justice of the Supreme Court.

It is true that you can't make people good by law, but the law can fix things so that the folks the law tries to make good are not so much trouble to the folks who don't need the law to make them good.

Will Have Big Time.

J. F. Newell, of Charlotte whom some may recall as the Republican who this fall is to take on Senator Cameron Morrison or Robert Rice Reynolds, announces that he has no intention of running on the Republican national platform as regards suggested solution of the liquor problem, but will plant himself squarely on the state declaration of his party, which is unambiguously for prohibition.

For which he cannot be blamed. All of his active life he has been accustomed to seeing himself and his political companions held up to scorn as non-respectable to say the least, now the opportunity is afforded him to retaliate. Will he accept? You can bet your last dollar he will do nothing different.

One pleasing thing about Mr. Newell, anyhow is that he has always given as good as he was sent; he has never apologized for being a Republican but has bragged of it. With the traditional temperance party of North Carolina—which really turned to working against liquor because of Republican storekeepers and gaggers and old fashioned reventurers—jockeyed into the position of accepting something at least as good as a resubmission of the matter to the people at the polls, Mr. Newell is going to have a lot of fun asking the Democratic leadership how they got that way.

His opponent may expect also to hear something of those colored citizens registered so profusely for the Democrat primary at the state capital. Mr. Newell remembers when he was "Nigger! Niggered!" till he was sick and tired of it.

The senatorial campaign will not be a dull one next fall and if the Democrats think the minority party will be wholly on the defensive they have only to take note of Mr. Newell.—Greensboro News.

Liquor And Motor Cars

If liquor should ever come back, that is, if it should be easy of access to all and sundry by legal sale with the increase in consumption that might be expected when the restraint that some feel in handling the contraband product would be removed, how would it be on the highway with the automobile and drivers? It is something asked by those who view such prospect with horror. Many of these people have an abiding faith that the automobile will be an insuperable barrier to the unlimited return of John Barleycorn because it would be impossible for the two to work together. But the last report of the State highway patrol shows that 107 drinking drivers were arrested in May and for the same period 40 additional persons were arrested for being drunk on the highway. The 40 were not driving. Wherefore the opponents of prohibition, who seem to believe that there will be a wonderful change for the better in morals when and if the sale of liquor is again authorized, will no doubt contend that there would be few drinking drivers under the new system whatever it is. Certainly the number of drinking drivers now appearing—and the law doesn't get them all, of course—indicates that we are on the way to have a full test of the experiment under prohibition, especially since the courts fail and refuse impose restraints that restrain.—Statesville Daily.

Short Freedom.

Lexington, June 28—Marvin Crouse got out of jail and stayed out 11 hours but a "drunk again!" report on the police docket headed him once more for a cell. The 11 hours Crouse was at liberty marked the time between his release from a sentence after his 64th arrest and his rearrest for the 65th time.

Byerly Heads Davie Post

Cooleemee—W. O. Byerly, of this place, was elected commander of the Davie county Post American Legion at the annual election held recently.

Mr. Byerly has been an active legionaire for several years and was instrumental in helping to organize the Davie county post which alternates in its monthly meetings, one meeting being held here and the other at Mocksville.

The post now has a paid up membership of 96 which is fifteen above the goal set by the state commander.

Other officers named for the ensuing year are: First vice-commander, Noah J. Grimes; second vice commander, S. F. Tutterow, adjutant and finance officer, Paul Hendrix; guardianship and service officer, Robert S. McNeil; sergeant-at-arms, E. P. Foster; chaplain, Major I. P. Graham; historian, C. S. Anderson; athletic officer, Blaine Moore; child welfare and Americanization officer, Dr. L. P. Martin; employment officer, John P. LeGrande; membership chairman, J. E. McDaniel.

Back To The Front.

Gastonia's noted Communist uprising that ended in the tragic slaying of Chief of Police O. F. Aderholdt was the talk of the state for months, but it had almost been forgotten until word came from New York recently that two of the men sentenced for the killing were back in that city after skipping heavy bonds posted at Gastonia.

Now one of them is under arrest and no doubt will be brought back to serve from five to seven years. He is K. Y. Hendricks, a native born Red, who had been living in Kansas City under the name of John Gray and had come back to New York to become campaign manager for William Z. Foster, Communist candidate for president. The old North Carolina state prison should be all pepped up over the prospect of having a presidential campaign manager as its guest for quite a spell. Fred Erwin Beal, leader of the Communist effort in this state, an effort that got a brief response right here in Lexington, has apparently escaped again. New York police reported he had apparently "gone back to New Mexico," where he has presumably been living for some time.

Hendricks and Beal were both reported to have fled to Russia about the time the state supreme court confirmed the sentences passed in their trial. Evidently they did not find it so very difficult to sneak back into the country, if indeed they had fled.—The Dispatch.

Miniature Booze Plant In Davie.

Deputies Sheriff Baity and Harding brought in what is thought to be the smallest moonshine factory ever seen in Davie county on Monday evening. The miniature plant was of only about four-gallon capacity and used a 10 cent snuff box for a cap. The pipe line from the boiler to the condenser was made of reed joints put together with paste made from wheat bran and wrapped with rags.

The "pee wee" outfit was found near Cornalzer and had only recently been operated. A fifty gallon barrel nearby showed that amount of beer had been run.

The small outfit was the source of much comment and interest when exhibited at the courthouse here.

No trace of the operators could be discovered by the raiders.

Some people live and learn, others just live.

One Way to Make Money.

The investigation which the Senate Committee on Banking and Currency is carrying forward has developed some facts which may have a very decided political reaction before the campaign is over. The inquiry has developed many cases in which pools have been formed by the cooperation of strong financial interests, the purpose of which has been to maintain given securities at a high price over a considerable period regardless of the income producing value of said securities. During the time when the pool operated, those who were members of it unloaded the security whose price they are maintaining upon the public and when the stock had all passed into the hands of investors, the support of the pool was withdrawn; with the result in practically every case that the market price dropped to a degree ruinous to the investors. In other cases the Senate inquiry has shown that men on the directorate of certain corporations, taking advantage of their inside knowledge with resultant gain to themselves and corresponding loss to the investing public.

A conspicuous illustration of this sort of Wall Street manipulation is the case of John J. Raskob, the widely advertised owner of the mortgage on the Democratic Party who, the inquiry shows, was a participant in a short selling pool from which, he and his associates realized a net profit of $1,937,000. The securities which were placed upon the market by this pool were those of a corporation which was controlled by Mr. Raskob and the other men associated with him in the drive. In other words, he was playing with marked cards. He knew exactly the value of the stock he was offering to the public while outside investors had no information. The result was that these half dozen men were able in a few weeks to gather in a net profit of two millions, the difference between what the public paid for the securities and what the pool was able to buy the stock back for at a later date.

And this little transaction was carried on at the very time when Mr. Raskob, through the Ladies Home Journal, was advising women to buy stock even if they had to buy it on the installment plan.

George A. King.

Cooleemee, June 28—Last rites were held here on Sunday afternoon for George Albert King, age 81 years, who passed away at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Frank Cope in Lexington Saturday morning following an illness of several months.

The deceased was a native of Davie county and spent all his life in the village and community until recently. He was employed in the Erwin mill here until a few years ago when ill health and the infirmities of old age forced him to retire from active work.

Surviving relatives include three daughters, Mrs. Frank Cope and Mrs. Oscar Cope, of Lexington and Mrs. Delia Cauble, of Salisbury. Two sons, John W. King, of this place and Will King, who has not been heard of for several years.

Twenty one grandchildren also remain to mourn the passing of this grand old gentleman.

When a subscriber stops his paper in anger it is, always amusing for at least a month to see the look of surprise on his face when he passes the shop and sees that the paper is still running.

Most of the midnight oil that is being burned these days is burned in the automobile.

Let Them Pick Berries.

Posted at the court house door here are innumerable "trespass notices" bearing the names of landowners who are complying with the law in posing their law in posting their lands against objectionable visitors. The notice includes those who would "gather berries" along with those who would hunt and fish.

We have every sympathy in the world with the farmer whose lands are exploited, his crops trampled down, and such game as he has fostered, killed and scattered. His land is his own and the man who trespasses thereon without permission is in a class with the guy who robs a hen house in the middle of the night.

But we sincerely hope that no farmer in Iredell county will this year insist on enforcing the provision against berry picking. At a time when men and women are going hungry, when the government is doling out bread to them, when there is no employment for thousands upon thousands, surely we should stretch a point and not only allow, but invite those who will, to come and pick that would otherwise be wasted.

Last season a farmer approached a local magistrate begging a warrant against a woman and little girl who had trespassed in search of berries. He said to the everlasting credit of this magistrate that he disregarded the fee and refused to issue the warrant. The tale is told of another farmer who observing three little negro girls picking blackberries on his farm, allowed them to continue until their buckets were nearly filled and then approached them, poured their berries in a furrow and tramped them in the dirt. They were trespassing, ver! But what a pitiful figure, this man who would chastise them in this way after allowing them to labor thus for nothing.

Unless the landowner has plausible reason for excluding berry pickers he should aid in this conservation, rather than hinder it. It can hardly be said that berry picking is in the class with fishing and hunting. Men and women do not pick berries in a boiling hot sun just for the fun of it. Idle hands should be given something to do whenever possible and the farmer who extends this courtesy may be laying up treasure in this world as in heaven.

When times become normal again, go back to the prohibition of berry picking, but in this time of depression when other landowners are donating acres of wood to be cut, in the name of all that is good and for the sake of humanity allow any little negro that is hungry to fill his or her pail with berries for a pie—Statesville Record.

Texas Snaps Out of It

Nothing at all seems to be the matter this spring with that section of Texas devoted to the growing of vegetables and truck crops. The total Bermuda onion crop of Texas shipped to the outside markets this season and valued at 4 million dollars to growers sold for more than $2.00 a crate as compared to 70c last season. Cabbage shipments in April brought $55 and $60 a ton compared with $7 a ton last year for the same month. Carrots are selling for $1.85 to $2.00 now as against 90c this time last year.

Commenting on the marked improvement in business following these high prices, the Dallas News says that some Texas truck growers are making a larger profit this year than for several years. So maybe everybody isn't going to the demimition bow wows after all.

Optimists Get Rich.

Trade is stagnant. Stocks are lower than ever. Real estate is unsalable; rents have fallen and are not being paid. Texas has increased ruinously. The pressure is severe. God help the property owners!

That is an extract from a speech made in 1837—not in 1932. And in that very year, 1837, and the two years following, John Jacob Astor, already a heavy owner of real estate, doubled and trebled his real estate investments, laying the foundations for one of the greatest fortunes in America. Optimist get rich by buying from pessimists!

A local man was complaining yesterday about the fact that his wife had explored his pockets the night before. "What did she get?" a listener asked. "About the same as most explorers get, material for a lecture," was the reply.

Eastern Democrats Hogging The Offices.

The Democrats in the eastern section of the state have certainly hogged all the offices this year not giving their western brethren a look-in yet they will expect the western Democrats to fall in line and work and vote for the eastern crowd. To start in with Ehringhaus and foundation, one or the other which will be nominated for Governor are both from the East, Ehringhaus being from the "deep East."

A. H. Graham, the nominee for Lieutenant Governor cannot be classed as a western man, Orange being less than 50 miles from Raleigh.

Stacey Wade, the nominee for Secretary of State, a useless office, lives in Raleigh.

Baxter Durham, Auditor and A. T. Allen, superintendent of public instruction are both Raleigh citizens as is John P. Steadman the nominee for Treasurer.

Stanley Winborne, the nominee for Corporation Commissioner is from Murfreesboro Hertford county, and Dan Boney, the candidate for insurance commissioner is from Lenoir county.

The two men who are in the second primary for Commissioner of Labor both live in Raleigh, A. L. Fletcher and Clarence Matchell.

Attorney General Brummitt who is a candidate to succeed himself is from Granville county, only a few miles from Raleigh.

The western Democrats had candidates in the primary for Lieutenant Governor, Secretary of State, Auditor, Corporation Commissioner, Labor Commissioner and Attorney General, yet they were all snowed under.

Thus it will be seen that the Democrats have completely ignored that wide expanse of the state from Hillsboro west not a single man from this great section being on the ticket five are from Raleigh, two of the others are from hollowing distance almost. Wonder when, if ever, the Democrats of the western part of the state will assert themselves and demand an equal share of the office?—Union Republican.

Poor old Senator Morrison—he didn't know which side of the fence to jump. The fates were against him.

Tobacco farmers in Davie county will not fall over each other voting for men who are endorsed by big tobacco companies.

The dry democrats in the Chicago convention last week didn't have as much chance to be heard as a humming bird in a boiler factory.

Will Rogers was one of the high lights at the democratic convention. Will talked like most of the big democrats out there were drunk, but maybe he was just joking.

We have been interviewing some of the folks in these parts as to what they believe in regard to President Hoover—is he wet or dry. About three to one say he is dry.

We wonder where Senator Borah is going now? He said the Republican platform was too moist. The democrats have put in a plank ten times wetter than the Republican plank.

With the Republican and democratic conventions out of the way we believe business would pick up if that democratic Congress and Republican Senate would adjourn and go home.

The same fellows who are claiming that Hoover caused the world panic are also claiming that the Davie democrats are responsible for the state taking over the roads and schools and reducing the local tax rate.

So far as known there are no editors or farmers who are able to buy new automobiles this year. The manufacturers will have to depend on the lawyers, doctors and school teachers to keep the factories running.

Al Smith was the biggest man at the democratic convention and about the wettest. We feel sorry for Josephus Daniels, Josigh Bailey and Cam Morrison. They seem to be between the devil and the deep blue sea.

It seems to be all right for democrats to steal from Republicans, but when democrats go to stealing from each other, then trouble begins. We respectfully refer our good democratic friends to Surry county and the June primary.

Four years ago Southern democrats repudiated Al Smith because he tore the dry plank out of the democratic platform and substituted a wet plank. Now that the democratic party has put a wringing wet plank in their platform with a wet man for president, what are they going to do?

"Luke Tutterow will get the biggest vote of any man on the Republican county ticket," remarked a gentleman one day last week. "His majority will no doubt be around 800." Well, The Record is not giving majorities, but we believe Smoot, Hartman, Foster and all the boys will get a majority that will be as big a surprise to Davie democrats as the majority Bob Reynolds got over Cam Morrison in the June primary.

Talk about a dripping wet plank, but the democrats in Chicago went over the top. With Al Smith, Jimmy Walker, Juett Shouse and Senator Walsh at the steering wheel the whiskey plank should please the wettest of the wet. The Republican prohibition plank is as dry as the Sahara desert when compared to the democratic plank. To save our lives we can't see how any man who believes in the Bible and in prohibition, will be able to support such a platform.

A Davie gentleman who has been voting the democratic ticket for many years told us last week that the Republicans would carry Davie by around 500 majority this fall. Some of the Republicans think the majority will go between 700 and 1,000. Well, it all depends on what kind of weather we have on election day—how many absentee votes are cast, and how many Republicans stay at home. Davie county is a Republican county. This fact was demonstrated in the June primary when the Republicans cast nearly twice as many votes as the democrats.

Friends Again.

Friend Frank Stroud, of the Davie Record, was a visitor, yesterday and called us down for crediting an editorial to his paper which never appeared there at all, as any one who knows the political record of Stroud's Record might well know. This article had this life long Republican saying, that what Davie needed was to send a Democrat to the legislature, and that is about the last thing that Frank would advocate sending a Democrat to do anything that a Republican could do. Stroud and his Davie Record are staunch defenders of the G. O. P. and the joke was too good for him to overlook.—Salisbury Post.

Name Cooleemee Teachers.

Professor E. W. Junker has been re-elected superintendent of the Jerusalem township consolidated schools for his third year, the local board of education has announced. The Jerusalem school is by far the largest in Davie county and had an enrollment last session of almost 1,000.

The full staff of 26 teachers who served last year have also been re-elected, Professor Junker stated.

They are: O. H. Coulter, athletic director and assistant principal; Mrs. C. E. Bost, Miss Thelma Moose, Mrs. T. M. Zachary, Miss Martha Saxon in the high school, Miss Rosa Tatum principal of the primary department, and the following grade teachers: Miss Mary Susan Griggs, Miss Johnnie Humphreys, Miss Lula Young, Miss Kathryn Sills, Mrs. A. D. Walters, Miss Elizabeth Mann, Miss Maude Graham, Miss Rachel Click, Miss Flora Nail, Miss Mary Hudson, Miss Priscilla Kincaid, Miss K. Lorini Langston, Mrs. I. A. Booe, Miss Mary Zachary, Miss Lucille Ward, Mrs. W. B. Wilson, Miss Emma Grimes, Miss Jane Bahnsen, Miss Thoy Templeton.

Elbert Smith Honored On Birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Rummage delightfully entertained a number of young people Wednesday evening June 22, at their home on Advance R. 1, honoring Mrs. Willie Rummage's brother, Elbert, in celebration of the anniversary of his 23rd birthday.

Interesting games were enjoyed throughout the evening. At 9:30 o'clock the guests were invited into the dining room where delicious cake, ice cream and lemonade was served. After this the guests were invited out on the lawn where they played many interesting games which were enjoyed by all. They all left wishing Elbert many more happy birthdays.

Those present were: Misses Sallie Sheets, Bernice Cornatzer, Gladys Cornatzer, Virginia Sparks, Grace Smith, Bettie Cornatzer, Alberta Sexts, Jack Sheets, Garland Sheets, Henry Barueycast, Walter Pope, Wilson Sparks, Rupert Smith, J. H. Smith, Elbert Smith the honoree and Mr. and Mrs. Willie Rummage.

County Sunday School Convention.

The annual Davie County Sunday School Convention will be held at Eaton's Baptist church on the first Sunday in July. Prominent Laymen and ministers will be on the program. The public is urged to attend this convention.

Dems Wringing Wet.

The Democratic National Convention placed the following wet plank in their platform last week:

"We favor the repeal of the 18th amendment.

To effect such repeal, we demand that the Congress immediately propose a constitutional amendment to purely representative conventions in the states called to act solely on that proposal.

We urge the enactment of such measures by the several states as will actually promote temperance, effectively prevent the return of the saloon and bring the liquor traffic into the open under complete supervision and control by the states.

We demand that the federal government effectively exercise its power to enable the states to effectually protect themselves against importation of intoxicating liquors in violation of their laws.

Pending repeal, we favor immediate modification of the Volstead act to legalize the manufacture and sale of beer and other beverages of such alcoholic content as is permissible under the constitution and to provide therefrom a proper and needed revenue."

All prohibitionists regardless of party affiliations, are prayerfully requested to compare the Democratic and Republican platforms and see what a great difference there is on this plank.

Smith May Bolt.

Chicago, July 1.—Alfred E. Smith, sitting in his hotel headquarters facing a poster of "Smith for President," heard tonight without formal comment the nomination of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

"Do you intend to support the nominee?" he was asked. "I have no comment to make," Smith replied, chewing vigorously at a cigar. Then he resumed his grim silence.

Smith's associates and political backers said they did not believe he would support the Democratic ticket in November.

Democrat Votes Twice

Winston-Salem, June.—A survey of election records in Guilford county and conferences with citizens of that county since the opening of the investigation of the June 4 primary in Surry county today revealed the fact the Columbus F. (Luan) Moore, of High Point, voted in the ninth precinct in that city and that an absentee ballot was cast for his name in the same primary in Surry county.

A check has been made of the registration books in Guilford county which shows that Moore voted in that county June 4. When seen and interviewed he declared that he had not taken oath regarding it.

In the investigation carried out several days ago at Dobson an affidavit purporting to be that of Mr. Moore was revealed and was said to have been a part of the absentee ballot requirement. Moore admitted that he was approached concerning his plans to vote sometime before the election by Talmade Dockery, of Surry county, and Sol S. White, of High Point, but that he did not apply for absentee ballot and did not take oath in any way concerning one.

Infant Sons Die.

The infant twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Boyles, of Mocksville, Ray and Gray, died Thursday afternoon when only a few hours old. The little bodies were embalmed and laid to rest Friday afternoon in Bethlehem church cemetery, near Redland. Rev. M. G. Ervin, of Farmington, conducted the funeral and burial services. Mr. and Mrs. Boyles have the sympathy of all their friends in the death of their twin babies.

Roosevelt Nominated.

Chicago Stadium, July 1.—Franklin D. Roosevelt, governor of New York, was chosen overwhelmingly tonight as the Democratic nominee for the presidency.

With the force of a real stampede, he swept through the convention as the favorite sons announced one after another their withdrawal from the race, and turned their votes into the swelling Roosevelt column.

He was declared the nominee on the fourth ballot, the first taken tonight. He received 945 votes.

Rites for Mrs. U. S. Jordan.

Salisbury, June 29.—The funeral of Mrs. U. S. Jordan was conducted today from the home on Mocksville avenue and interment was at Fulton church cemetery Davie county. Mrs. Jordan had been ill for some weeks. She is survived by her husband and one son and four daughters, Mrs. J. H. Jordan, of Detroit; Miss Grace Jordan; Mrs. C. F. Garrett, of Salisbury; Mrs. J. J. Ridenhour, of Cooleemee, and Mrs. W. O. Austin, of Padin. Deceased was a daughter of Capt. John H. Peebles, of Davie county.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Brewer, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Crofts and Henry Crofts, of Winston-Salem, visited relatives here Sunday.

William Stockton, of Red Springs, spent the week-end in town with home folks.

REYNOLDS DEFEATS MORRISON

Charlotte, July 4—An overwhelming defeat for Senator Cam Morrison at the hands of Robert Reynolds stood out today as further returns from Saturday's Democratic primary indicated also the nomination of Ehringhaus for the governorship.

The astonishing majority of Reynolds who ran for the senate nomination on a platform opposing prohibition, far exceeded in magnitude even the most optimistic preliminary claims of his lieutenants.

With 1,660 precincts reported, the vote in the gubernatorial race stood: Ehringhaus 173,640; Fountain 163,362.

Reports from 1,619 precincts give for senate: Morrison, 112,090; R. Reynolds, 211,227. For commissioner of labor, 1,594 precincts: A. L. Fletcher, 158,084; C. E. Mitchell, 101,743.

It looks like Reynolds' majority would go to 105,000 when all returns are in.

Mr. and Mrs. Hall Woodruff and daughter, of Gadsden, Ala., are spending this week in town with relatives and friends.

Young Prisoner Escaped

A young white man of 24 named Campbell, sent up from Watauga county to serve three years for breaking and entering a service station, made a successful break for freedom from the state district prison camp Monday afternoon.

M. J. Hendricks, camp superintendent, said the boy had been made a trusty 10 days ago and was serving as water boy for a road crew on the highways of the county near the Davie and Iredell line. When carrying water from a negro's house the lad discovered some old clothing in the wellhouse and after shedding his stripes and borrowing the clothing took for the tall timber.

Jonas Is In Race.

Shelby, June 29.—Charles A. Jonas, former representative, today accepted the Republican nomination for Congress in the 10th district and will oppose Maj. A. L. Bulwinkle, of Gastonia, in the general election.

Mr. Jonas made his acceptance at a meeting of the party's district executive committee. The nomination had been tendered him previously, but he had retained the right to decline.

Mr. Jonas, who until recently was district attorney for the western federal district said he favored retention for the 18th amendment.

Mrs. J. C. Giles, who spent two weeks with relatives and friends in and around Mocksville, returned to her home at Birmingham, Ala., Saturday.

To Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Fry, of near Redland, on June 26th, twins—a fine son and daughter.

To Mr. and Mrs. Paul Holton, of R. 2, on June 24th, a daughter.

To Mr. and Mrs. Tilden Angell, of near Oak Grove, on June 25th, a son.

Letter From Salem College Alumni.

Stony Point, June 28.—A letter from Mrs. Anna Barber Harris, of Stony Point, North Carolina, President of the class of 1896, of Salem College, Winston-Salem, North Carolina, sends special love and good wishes to members of her Class. She writes: I have been teaching the past eight years. Four years were spent in missionary work in New York City, but I lost my health there working in the sections of the city, which are known as the gangster district, among foreigners, especially Italians. I also worked among the middle and better class of people. My last church work in New York was a Church Missionary in what was known formerly as Tom Dixon's Church, moved from a downtown church to a very aristocratic portion of upper New York City.

My health has improved since I have been teaching.

Salem College will always have my love and best wishes. My three sisters graduated from there, Emma, Mattie, (Mrs. George Bahnsen,) and Sallie Barber, (Mrs. W. M. Ross, Fort Mill, S. C.) Emma and Mattie, (Mrs. George Bahnsen,) died long ago, and are both buried at Farmington, N. C. Mattie's son, Hal Barber Bahnsen, of Farmington, N. C. has given his life as a soldier, volunteering in 1917, when the call first came and winning distinction as the best sharp shooter of his company. He is now in California in very broken health.

MRS. ANNA BARBER HARRIS.

Twins Win Again.

The Bixby and Cornatzer Twins won over Turrentine by a score of 215. The game was a nip and tuck affair until the last inning and the score was 85 when the Twins went wild and score 13 runs. "Dan" Cornatzer was the big gun for the Twins with 4 out of 6, and Poplin, Turrentine, held the big bat for the losers. Grover Robertson pitched in fine form for the Twins striking out 9 to bring his total to 27 in the last 22 innings he has pitched.

Mrs. W. M. Richie Passes

Mrs. W. M. Richie died at her home near Cana, Friday night, following a short illness, aged about 83 years. Funeral services were held at Chestnut Grove M. E. church Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, conducted by Rev. L. H. Thompson, and the body laid to rest in the church graveyard. Mrs. Richie is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Joab Collett, and two sons, A. D. and T. D. Richie, all of the Cana section. Mrs. Richie was succeeded to the spirit land by her husband who passed away last March. She was an excellent christian lady, and her death is mourned by a host of friends.

Mrs. Barnes Passes.

Mrs. S. L. Barnes, 78, of Shady Grove, died Wednesday night, June 29th, death resulting from carcinoma. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. G. B. Ferree at Elhavlle M. P. church Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock, and the body was laid to rest in the church graveyard. Mrs. Barnes is survived her husband, one son and two daughters. Four brothers, one sister, 27 grandchildren and 23 great grandchildren also survive Mrs. Barnes was an excellent lady and her death brought sadness to the entire community in which she lived for so many years.

At Prices You Can Pay

The Calamity Howlers.

On every road and by-road you meet them, the calamity howlers who know that American industry is doomed. They expect a revolution in government, in the mode of production, in distribution, in every phase of American life. They have a most depressing and distressing influence upon the thought of the day, and make the uphill road back to normal business harder than it should be.

It is hard to see a bright side to things right now, and it is hard to combat the arguments of these calamity howlers, but common sense teaches anyone that there are in these United States 120 million people who have to be bed and clothed, housed and warmed. Who have to have recreation and amusement, who have developed certain high standards of living and comfort and that we have the resources to supply these needs and wants.

The industries that keep production costs down to a minimum, and keep faith in the future of their product will reap a rich harvest in the next few years, the calamity howlers to the contrary notwithstanding. The present situation undoubtedly offers opportunities. Business will readjust its operation and cull out its inefficiencies.

The economists offer hope. They show the progress of business cycles and that this one is following a natural course. The executive department of the Federal Government is doing a great deal to straighten out this knotty tangle, the legislative branch appears to be awakened to the necessity of co-operating, and business responds to the effort.

At all costs, whining, predicting revolutions and mourning in the market place, does no good. Faith in ourselves, in our government and in the high destiny of our race is needed; will work wonders, and add a great deal to the general comfort. —Catawba Review.

Two Chances To The Last.

Things are only half as bad as we think, and worry only blindfolds the eye that might see the good half. Listen to a story:

One negro was worrying about the chance of his being drafted for the army. The other consoled him by:

"There's just two things can happen, boy. You is either drafted or you ain't you can forget it; if you is you've got chances. You may be sent to France or you may stay here you don't need to worry; if you is sent to France you is sent to France you've got two chances. They may send you to the front and they may leave you in Paris. If you stay in Paris, your troubles are over; if you go to the front you've got two chances. You may be shot and you may not. If you're not there no reason to worry; if you are shot you've got two chances. You may die and you may get well—and even if you die you've still got two chances." —Monroe Enquirer.

Most men who get up before an audience and preface their remarks with the statement that they are not public speakers prove it before they sit down.

A few years ago and government relief was looked forward to as the thing that would save us—now economists want relief from government.

The War Wheat Price.

Human memory is short and it is worth while therefore now and then to review history, even if it is not very long in the past. And so the story of who fixed the price of wheat in the United States during the war and how it came to be fixed may again be told.

The occasion for determination of the price arose from the fact that the Allied governments had consolidated their buying agencies into one hand and through this buying power controlled the price of American wheat in 1917. They announced that they would not pay more than $1.50 a bushel, advancing the argument that abundant wheat existed in the Argentine and in Australia in prices ranging from $1.25 to $1.50 per bushel so that the only reason for purchasing American wheat was to free allied ships from long voyages to the Southern Hemisphere in order that they might carry American troops. Herbert Hoover, as Food Administrator, presented the situation to President Wilson and insisted that a committee be appointed to determine a fair price for wheat, holding that the price offered by the allied purchasing agents was not high enough to encourage farmers to raise as much wheat as would be needed. President Wilson accordingly appointed a committee made up of the following: Charles Barrett, President of the Farmers' Union; L. J. Tabor, Master of the National Grange; E. D. Funk, at that time President of the Corn Grain Association; W. J. Shorthill, Secretary of the Farmers' Co-operative Elevators Association; Dr. Taussig, the Economist; William N. Drake, then representing the Railway Brotherhood, now the Secretary of Labor, and Dr. Harry A. Garfield. This committee fixed the price at $2.20 per bushel at Chicago. Mr. Hoover took no part in the deliberations of the committee and did not at any time in any way intimate an opinion regarding that price. All he said was that $2.20 was too low.

It is to be remembered also that $2.20 was not a maximum, but a minimum price. That is to say, no wheat should be sold below $3.20, but it might be sold at as much as $6.00 at that price as the market justified. The action was taken to protect farmers from a low price, not to prevent them from getting a high price. As a matter of fact, millions of bushels were sold at a price above $2.20 but none was sold below $2.20 as long as Mr. Hoover was at the head of the Food Administration.

Says Action Promises Good.

The North Carolina Christian Advocate, a bitter foe to liquor, says in the current issue, "To one who kept his eye on the daily papers the last few days it appeared that the American people at present had but one consuming passion and that is to get liquor, more liquor, and at the earliest moment possible. With the heads of the Y. M. C. A., General Motors, and Standard Oil leading; and with 120,000,000 Americans joining in the cry for booze, there is nothing to do but let these thirsty millions have the life saving alcoholic drinks at the first moment possible. The people are not crying for bread but for booze. So the papers report and some people are deceived thereby. But hold a moment. Rome was not built in a day, nor is this nation going wet in a day, or a month, or a year. This agitation promises good. Moral questions thrive on agitation. Men can attack constitutional amendments and help abuse upon what they call dry fanatics, but they will not dare to make a speech in the open for old John Barleycorn. And you cannot get the old man back unless somebody can show that he is the friends of the home, of the schools, of legitimate business, and of the boys and girls of this country."

Boss: "You demand high wage for a man with no experience."
Applicant: "Well, you see, the work is harder when you don't know much about it."

A Lost Chord.

A newspaper dispatch from Richmond, Va., tells of the "Rebel yell which heralded the vanguard of the United Confederate Veterans."

We wish the boys—that is to say the reporters—wouldn't. There was a time well within the memory of the present generation when one occasionally heard the Rebel yell given with spirit and volume; but that time so far as the rebels themselves go is gone forever, unless they are encouraged or permitted reunions in the great beyond. The Rebel yell was a robust sort of thing, requiring strength to lung and larynx. Men of eighty-odd can't handle it satisfactorily.

It adds nothing to the reverence in which the section holds the soldiers of the southern cause to write a bunch of hoey about their reunions. So long as a Johnny Reb of them remains and is willing to be feted we are strong for these annual conventions; but it is time an end were made to the attempt to picture the few left of Jackson's and Lee's men as physically anything like what they used to be sixty-five years ago.—Greensboro News.

New Industry At Kanapolis.

Two Kanapolis women, Mrs. Leon Smith and Mrs. Sam Kelley, have embarked on a new business for the South, the manufacture of baby bonnets. They call their concern Smith Kelly-Bonnet Co., and since they started in the work a short time ago they have manufactured more than a thousand baby bonnets which have been shipped all over North Carolina and other states of the South.

Our experience has taught us that those who claim to favor strict law enforcement really mean "enforce the law so long as it does not interfere with me or mine."

Sale of Land Under Mortgage.

Swats Whisky Party.

Chicago—Bishop James Cannon Jr., who led at 1928 southern revolt against Alfred E. Smith, said that if the southern democracy is not to be hopelessly disintegrated, "the moral forces of the south must find expressions under another leadership which will not betray them as in 1928 and 1932."

Discussing the prohibition repeal plank early today by the democratic convention, the bishop said in a formal statement that "representatives of a large majority of the people of the nation who believe and insist that the eighteenth amendment remain unchanged will shortly meet in conference and will determine what they consider to be the best method of procedure."

"The way with the traffic in intoxicating liquors is an irresponsible conflict," he said. "These are simply battles in the war, in which war there will be no retreat, no surrender, no compromise."

The democratic national convention has enunciated officially a new test of democracy. It has openly and after debate taken an action to compel democratic men and women to choose between allegiance to the dictum of the supreme party conventions on morals subjects. The issue thus raised for the first time in the democratic history is more vital than that of prohibition itself. Faced by such a test, millions of self-respecting democratic men and women will unhesitatingly and indignantly, repudiate this unprecedented effort by the national convention largely composed of hand-picked political leaders to bind the opinions and actions of the rank and file of the party on moral questions.

"They will unhesitatingly decide that the price demanded by the present dominant, intolerant party leadership is too great to pay for accredited membership in any political party and will determine their future course, not by their party platform, but by their own, conscientious judgement, both as to policies and candidates

"The southern democratic political leaders who betrayed moral forces of the south in 1928, not only by themselves supporting the wet Tammany candidate Alfred Emanuel Smith, but also by bitterly denouncing as traitors those who conscientiously refused to be joined in any with the always disreputable, besmirched, wet Tammany tiger, and whose leadership was repudiated in that campaign by a large majority of the southern people, these same party leaders have been guilty of a double betrayal in the present convention.

"Not only did they all without any public protest whatever sit quietly and vote for the resolution demanding that congress submit a resolution for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment, and that without any proposed substitute therefor, but also, with the exception of Hull of Tennessee and Pitts of Alabama, although full opportunity to speak was accorded, they all set dumbly, impotently, or indifferently in their seats, while the convention under the leadership of Smith of Tammany, New York, Walsh of Boston and Igoe of Chicago, all representatives of the same elements of population, all speaking of the same shibboleth actually voted that members of the democratic party, including their dry southern constituents, must support the repeal of the eighteenth amendment."

In the majority of instances if you look deep enough you will find that the activity of the gossip is inspired by a desire to throw out a smoke screen to blind the crowd to his own pet sin.

Mr. Hoover At His Best

Lincoln (Neb.) Star
If Mr. Hoover's appearance before the United States Senate with a special message on the budget and taxation was dramatic, the circumstances under which it was written were the most so. The President had been closeted with Secretary Mills of the treasury until after midnight. He slept but a few hours and then arose early in the morning, when the mists were still dark and impenetrable, before the rosy tints of day's awakening had driven them away.

The result was the most forceful vigorous appealing message which has come from Mr. Hoover. There was a new note in it. There was something of consecration to the task at hand, which will find ready response among the American people. One felt it incorporated something of Mr. Hoover's heart in his desire to serve his country.

It is not necessary to agree with the special method he urged as a means of putting the nation's finances on a sound basis. The President himself did not attempt to justify a manufacturer's tax, as he called it, except as an emergency measure. But the message itself was clear and filled with feeling. In effect it was an appeal for the country, divorced of politics. He asked for unity and for definite, decisive action. That was what made it different from so many appeals Mr. Hoover made. He had only one thought in mind and that was to balance the budget. He had a plan whereby it could be accomplished, but if Congress had a better one he would not object. It produced results. Within a few hours after its delivery, the Senate had passed a tax bill to do the work.

As a newspaper which had been critical of the administration, we desire to commend Mr. Hoover's message to the Senate. It embodies the finest type of leadership which the President has shown.

A Distinction.

Do not jump on the bonus marchers in Washington for trying to influence Congress. They are open and above board with their lobby efforts. Do not forget that there are hundreds and thousands of other emissaries to Washington who do their duty work in secret, in cloak rooms, in lobbies, in hotels and by innuendo and bribery.

We refer to the great army of propagandists and lobbyists which infest Washington all the time. They are just as much to be condemned, and more so, than these bonus boys. These bonus marchers are plain spoken, out and out with their demands; they are not slinking about under cover of camouflage, neither are they working insidiously and ingeniously through medium of prepared letters and telegrams from supposedly neutral agencies back home. Theirs too, is a just cause.—Gastonia Gazette.

Press on the Plank.

Des Moines Tribune
The first main fact about the Republican liquor plank is that it advances the country toward a day of redecision on prohibition. Whether it comes in four years, or eight, or ten, the day of redecision is brought within vision. It can perhaps be said that Republican plank makes it certain, eventually, but considering it (the redecision plank), by and large, those honest and intelligent advocates of a change from present conditions who are neither moved by a passion for hooch nor by doctrinaire notions, have reason to be satisfied.

Some folks have conscience, while others are only afraid of being caught.

Daniels Deserts Prohibition.

Josephus Daniels Editor of the Raleigh News and Observer and Secretary of the Navy in the Wilson Cabinet has deserted the prohibition banner but nothing more could have been expected of him for didn't he in 1928 pose as the drier of the boys even going so far as to write a letter to Mrs. Nelly Hall Root, of Long Beach Cal. in which he stated 'I think it would be a fatal mistake for the Democratic party to nominate a man with the wet record of Governor Smith, and I could not stand for any wet' and just as soon as Smith was nominated climbed a board the Smith band wagon and went up and down not only North Carolina but other states begging the people to vote for the wet Catholic candidate for the Presidency? What can be said of a man of the Daniels caliber who acted in this manner?

Daniels succeeded in getting himself elected a delegate to the National Democratic Convention at Chicago and as soon as he got there and became unguided in the maze of wet propaganda that has Chicago by the throat immediately went back on his supposedly long-time prohibition record and joined in the army of those who are demanding a re-submission of the vexing question.

Like the vote of Frank Hancock, fifth district Representative in Congress to bring up the prohibition issue, Daniels' pronouncement was hailed by the wets with great rejoicing and caused consternation in the camp of the dries who had counted on Daniels as one of their staunchest allies.

But they forgot the flip of Daniels in 1928 and they also forgot that he is a politician first and is supporting Franklin D. Roosevelt another wet, with an eye no doubt to land in his old place in the Cabinet should Roosevelt be elected or better still round out his public career with an Ambassadorship to Tinian or some other foreign seaport.—Union Republican.

Democrat Smites Bob Reynolds.

The Kinston Free Press, democratic paper, in speaking of Bob Reynolds, democratic nominee for U. S. Senator, has this to say:

"And what of the man who has been the beneficiary of this wave of hysteria, which caused not so much a rally to his banner as a groundswell against the veteran Morrison? What does he stand for and represent? Nothing that has honored or exalted North Carolina. In the first place, his campaign was made as the emissary of the organized liquor traffic and supported financially by it. His domestic life in no sense is typical of the home loving folk whose reverence for the marital ties has always been profound. His personal habits are abhorrent to the finer sensibilities of the best thought and tradition of the Old North State. In short a spendthrift and a libertine.

Yes, the Democrats of North Carolina have spoken. It remains for the whole people of the state to speak in November, and if by then the wave of hysteria has not passed and this new candidate of the Democrats is sent to Washington, it is safe to predict that when the history of these times shall be engrossed on the annals of North Carolina, the accomplishments and achievements of the vanquished Cameron Morrison will be emblazoned thereon, while the memory of the victor, Robert R. Reynolds will have faded into nothingness—an empty page."

The fellows who are always telling what a vigorous virile stand they would take if they were running a paper, when they do write something for publication touching on public matters, send it in anonymously.

Says North Carolina Is Dry.

Chairman James S. Duncan, in company with Secretary W. H. Foster, of the Republican State Executive Committee after the Chicago convention made a trip into Canada and only reached Greensboro Thursday.

"The plank in the Republican platform dealing with prohibition is dry," asserts Mr. Duncan on his return to Greensboro. "It enumerates the right which we knew we had under the constitution to repeal any amendment it embraces a specific declaration against the saloon and it also commits the party to continued federal handling of the situation with respect to liquor."

"It is true that the platform adopted by the Republican state convention at Charlotte last April is much more definite and it more accurately expresses the sentiment of the Republicans of North Carolina."

"The Republican campaign in North Carolina this year will, so far as liquor is concerned, be based upon the idea of strict enforcement of the 18th Amendment. In spite of misleading propaganda to the contrary, it is perfectly evident that North Carolina is preponderantly dry."

Cancelled Debts.

Mr. and Mrs. James Hennem operate a general store at Sloan, Iowa. Evidently the business of their mercantile establishment is, or has been, of proportions. They had accumulated on their books a total of $75,000, in amounts ranging from a few cents to $1,000. Some of the accounts had been standing 14 years. Mr. and Mrs. Hennem decided to cancel all indebtedness, and did. When some of the debtors learned their accounts had been marked off they offered to pay. The money was declined in each instance, according to the story. Mr. Hennem said he and his wife believed "in forgiving and forgetting" and since the depression had hit some of their debtors pretty hard they had declared a cancellation rather than a moratorium. To those who offered to pay it was suggested that they give the money to churches or charity, but that was optional.

Make your own comment on the action of the Hennems. But since they forgive all alike, those who pay as well as those who couldn't, and refused to modify the cancellation when offered payments, it must be admitted that they were in earnest, even if you think they went a little farther than necessary. To make sure that debtors who offered to pay gave the money to churches and charity as suggested, the Hennems might as have acted as agents in the transfer.—Statesville Daily.

Unsound Objection.

Cincinnati Enquirer.
Strangely enough, opposition to the Vice President seemed to be crystallized in the one objection—his age. Not a very sound objection in this day, when we have not outlived the memory of Gladstone, who remained a striking world figure at 83, or of Bismark, who was at the zenith of his powers when the last of the Hohenzollerns removed him from the chancellorship at the age of 75; and there were Clemenceau and Giolitti.

In our own political story we find that Thurman at the age of 75 was elected by the Democrats as Vice President on the ticket with Cleveland. Henry Gassaway Davis was Parker's running mate in 1904 at the age of 81, and lived eight years longer. Oliver Wendell Holmes was no youngling on the Supreme Bench through strenuous years.

Hindenburg continues to be a luster factor in human affairs, though rubbing shoulders with the eighties; and there is Uncle Andy Mellon, young-old, at the Court of St. James, rather creditably looking after the interests of the United States.

The Record is only $1.

Polling Raps Dems.

Dr Daniel A. Polling expressed himself in regard to what he thought of the whiskey plank in the Democratic platform. Listen to this:

"The Democratic plank declares for the unconditional repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

"The Democratic plank would destroy the Eighteenth Amendment by legalizing beer and other alcoholic liquors. In its last paragraph it invites nullification.

"The Democratic plank for the first time in the history of American politics makes the Eighteenth Amendment a party issue and support of the national prohibition repeal a test of Democracy and of party membership.

"Insofar as it is possible for a leadership so to do, the Chicago National Convention of the Democratic party would pledge the conscience of the citizen, would bind and deliver the moral freedom of conscience.

"Because of these declarations and demands, the statements in the Democratic plank against the return of the saloon; for the enactment by the several states of measures to 'effectively promote temperance,' to bring the 'liquor traffic into the open' and under 'complete supervision and control' and its pledge to protect dry territory, mean nothing and less than nothing.

"United States Senator Carter Glass of Virginia described the repeal statement of the Democratic platform as a 'barroom plank.' We agree. It is not Jefferson; it is Tammany.

"Governor Roosevelt stands squarely upon his platform. He is 'one hundred per cent' for the return of liquor plank. More, he is already squarely on record to veto a state enforcement bill should it pass the New York legislature. In our opinion that for which Governor Roosevelt stands, that which he aggressively advocates is at once repeal and 'limited nullification.'

"The Eighteenth Amendment is not the only issue before the American people. As an issue the united dries sought to keep it out of party politics.

"But in an hour when the cry for bread and for work fills the land, when lawlessness has created a national crisis, when American civilization rocks, and the whole world is impoverished, the national leaders of the Democratic party has made the return of liquor its paramount issue.

"This country cannot drink itself back to prosperity. This government cannot balance either its morals or financial budget by consenting to debauch its citizens. Millions of the rank and file of the Democratic party will repudiate this return of liquor plank.

"We have no alternative. We are against nullification. We are against making the Eighteenth Amendment a party issue and support of repeal a test of party loyalty. We are against extending comfort and giving encouragement to the lawless. We are against making the burden heavier of those who protect society from the underworld. We are against this 'barroom plank' and the leadership that stands upon it."

First Barn of North Carolina Tobacco.

The first barn of leaf tobacco to be cured of this season's crop in the state is reported from that section between Kinston and the Jones county through the name of the grower was not given. The tobacco crop in this section is of good quality and it is said will be 10 to 20 per cent smaller than last year.

Some of the democratic papers in North Carolina are busy eating crow Armand T. Daniel has served as postmaster at Mocksville for nearly fourteen months. This fact is published to keep history straight.

While the editor of The Record is not going to vote for Bob Reynolds, still, we don't believe he is half as mean as many of the democratic papers said he was before the primary.

All is not peace and harmony among North Carolina democrats. One eastern democrat comes out in his paper and calls Bob Reynolds a spendthrift and a libertine, whatever that is.

If Senator Borah comes to North Carolina to campaign for Hon. Jake Newell we will guarantee him big crowds. Borah and Newell are two of the biggest prohibitionists in the country today.

Many democrats are wondering how Reynolds defeated Morrison by over a hundred thousand majority. We don't know, but didn't Pete Murphy and Tom Jimison campaign for Morrison?

"The Happy Warrior" doesn't seem to be happy now. To get all in a good humor some of the New York democrats are offering to run him for Governor of that great state if he will swallow Franklin. Time will tell.

The blackberry crop is ripe and ready to be made into pies, but up to this good hour all the blackberry pie we have eaten this year wouldn't make an infant sick. What we need is cash to buy sugar and flour. We can pick the berries.

The official vote for Morrison and Reynolds in Davie county was: Morrison, 558; Reynolds, 503; Ehringhours, 824; Fountain, 214. Morrison carried Davie by a majority of 55. His biggest vote was at Mocksville and Farmington.

Hon. Jake Newell, Republican nominee for U. S. Senator, is a dry man, running on a dry platform. Hon. Bob Reynolds, democratic nominee for U. S. Senator, is a wet man, running on a wet platform. Take your choice, gentlemen.

We haven't heard a word from our old friend the Rev. Sid Conrad, of Charlotte, since the wet Roosevelt was nominated, and the whiskey plank was written into the democratic platform. Is Brother Conrad unable to recover from the shock.

Retribution always comes sooner or later. Cam Morrison helped to defeat Chas. Jonas, one of the best men in North Carolina, and today he is relegated to oblivion, while Jonas will grow greater and stronger in the hearts of the good people as the years pass.

"Bailey classed in favor of beer." is the big headline in our favorite daily. Bailey will support the wet Roosevelt for president, and will stand on his party platform regardless of what the Bible says in regard to "look not upon the wine when it is red." Bailey likes pie.

Prohibition democrats in various sections of North Carolina and throughout the South are telling the world that they will not vote for Roosevelt and his whiskey plank. Your attention is referred to page eight of today's Record. Turn your paper over and read what the dry democrats are saying.

Democrats and Republicans are disgusted with the absentee voters law in this state. We believe the next legislature should repeal this law. Before you vote for your senator and representative next fall find out how they stand on this question. If they are favor of keeping this law on the books, then vote for those who pledge themselves to repeal it.

Four years ago the good people of North Carolina and many other southern states voted against Al Smith because he put a wet plank in his platform and declared himself against the 18th amendment. This year the democrats nominated one of the wettest men in the United States for president, and put the wettest plank in their platform that could be written. What are the good people in the south going to do about it?

The Winston-Salem Journal seems to have gone wet in the late days of its life. The dry editor has swallowed Franklin and his liquor platform and expects all the good people in this section to do the same. But they won't. Four years ago the Journal repudiated Al Smith, who ran on a dry platform compared to the one that Roosevelt is running on this year. If ignorance were bliss, 'twould be folly to be blistered.

The editor is in receipt of a letter from Mrs. W. B. Harvey, of Knoxville, Tenn., wife of the pastor of the Bell street Baptist church in that city. Rev. Mr. Harvey sent Franklin Roosevelt a telegram on July 3rd, asking him what he meant by saying in his acceptance speech that "from this time on the 18th amendment is doomed." Mrs. Harvey writes us that her husband has not yet heard from Mr. Roosevelt, but that they have received a perfect flood of letters from distinguished citizens expressing favorable comment on the sermon and telegram.

John N. Garner, democratic nominee for vice president, filed his application several weeks ago for reelection from his Texas Congressional district. He says he has no intention of withdrawing from the race. John must have a very strong presentment that he is going to be defeated for vice president or he would not be running for two political jobs at the same time. He may and no doubt will be re-elected to Congress from the democratic state of Texas, but in our opinion his chances of being vice president are as slim as Cam Morrison's chances of being elected United States Senator from North Carolina on the Prohibition ticket this fall. Most North Carolina democratic office seekers are content to run for one office at a time but John is taking no chances.

Peace, happiness and prosperity will never be brought back to this country by legalizing the sale of wine, beer and corn liquor. We had the wine, beer and liquor in 1893 and 1894, when practically every factory in the United States was either closed down or running on short time. When Coxe marched to Washington at the head of his starving army, North Carolina had hundreds of distilleries and saloons in all the large cities and many of the smaller towns. But peace, happiness and prosperity didn't reign throughout the land. Poverty and want stalked abroad through the land like a pestilence. The editor of The Record was in the newspaper business during this period. Our office was in a stone's throw of two or three saloons, but prosperity didn't smile upon the land. Money was scarcer then than now.

Who Killed Reynolds?

A coroner's jury was still busy Monday afternoon trying to find out who is responsible for the death of Smith Reynolds, which occurred at the Reynolds mansion near the Twin City last Wednesday morning. The inquest has been held behind locked doors. Mrs. Reynolds, the actor wife, has been held under guard at the home, while Albert Walker, Reynolds' secretary, has been confined in the county jail. Reynolds was supposed to have shot himself, but many seem to think otherwise. Reynolds is said to have been worth about $25,000,000. He was the son of R. J. Reynolds, big tobacco magnate who died 16 years ago.

Absentee Law Should Go

If one may judge by the editorial expressions found in North Carolina newspapers, sentiment is growing steadily stronger in favor of repeal of the absentee voters law, or at least its modification to limit its application strictly to those known to be temporarily absent on the day of the primary. This law, which was enacted in war times for the benefit of tens of thousands of eligible and qualified voters who were absent in the service of the Nation, long ago served its day of usefulness and has become the instrument of more evil than good through abuse on the part of over-zealous or not unscrupulous partisans. Regardless of what is done or not done with the State primary law, the Legislature of 1933 should either repeal the absentee ballot statute or revise it so as to eliminate the abuses which have brought it into disrepute.—Charlotte Observer.

The difficulty with co-operating with some folks is that you have to do all the co-operating.

Field Day July 21st.

The 28th annual Field Day at the Piedmont Experiment Station, two miles west of Statesville, will be held on Thursday, July 21st. The program opens at 10 a. m., and continues until 4:30 p. m. Many prominent speakers are on the program including Prof. R. H. Raffner, R. W. Graber, O. M. Mull, Hon. W. A. Graham, F. E. Miller, Miss Virginia H. Sloan and others. J. Wade Hendricks, an old Davie boy, is assistant director in charge, and hopes to see many Davie county people present for this big day. A special feature of the afternoon will be tours to experimental fields. Those who care to carry picnic baskets, as there are plenty of tables in the grove to spread dinner. Those who do carry dinner can buy lunches from "Uncle Watt Thompson's" Barbecue stand. Go up and enjoy this big day.

W. F. Nail Passes.
William F. Nail, 66, died at a Statesville hospital Sunday morning at 2 o'clock death resulting from Bright's disease and complications. Mr. Nail was carried to the hospital Saturday afternoon. Funeral services were held at Oak Grove Methodist church Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock conducted by his pastor, Rev. J. O. Banks, and the body was laid to rest in the church graveyard. Mr. Nail is survived by his widow and seven children, three sons and four daughters. Mr. Nail had been a resident of Mocksville all his life. While he had been in bad health for some time his death was unexpected and was a severe shock to his loved ones and many friends throughout this community. The wife and children have the sympathy of a host of friends.

Home Coming at New Union Church.
The public is invited to attend the Home Coming at New Union Church on Saturday Aug. 20th, beginning at 10:15. At this time this church will celebrate its 152 anniversary. The beginning of this organization dates back to the organization of the historic Beal's Meeting House built in 1780. A complete history of this church and community is being written by Miss Elma Richardson and Latta B. Ratledge and will be read at the Home Coming.

J. W. Beck Dead.

J. W. Beck, aged 67, died at his home at Faith Wednesday morning at 2:30 o'clock. The funeral took place Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Faith Baptist church, conducted by Rev. R. N. Honeycutt, of Trading Ford Baptist church, and interment followed in the Faith church cemetery.

Surviving is the wife, and the following sons and daughters: Roy and Nathan Beck of Coolemeec; Fletcher Beck, of Winston Salem; Guy Beck, at home; Mrs. Bessie Earnhardt, of Granite Quarry; Mrs. Amanda Vickers, of Coolemeec, and Misses Mattie and Pearl Beck, at home. Six brothers and two sisters also survive, these being Frank Beck, of Salisbury, Albert Beck, of Mocksville; Hatch Beck, of Charlotte; Houston, Jesse and David Beck, of Davie county, and Mrs. Bettie Hamilton and Mrs. Mollie Aaron, both of Davie county.

The deceased was a native of Davie county but had been living in Rowan about 25 years. He was well known in the Faith community, where he had many friends - Salisbury Post.

Lewis Hendrix Dead.

Lewis Hendrix, 81 year old, prominent farmer of Fulton township, died Saturday morning after an illness of some time. Death came while at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. F. Potts, of Fulton township, with whom he had lived for some time. He was the son of Henry Hendrix and had spent his life in that section where he had been a successful and prominent farmer. His wife, nee Miss Louise Young, died some years ago.

Funeral services were held from No. 1000 Creek Primitive Baptist church Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock with the Rev. S. H. Redd, and T. L. Caudell in charge.

Three sons and five daughters, 51 grand children, 34 great grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild survive him. One son, D. L. Hendrix, lives in Rowan county, while the others live in Davie and Forsyth counties.

Edgar Rader Dead.

Edgar F. Rader, 33, of Newton, died in a Statesville Hospital early Saturday, following an illness of some time. Funeral took place at Newton Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the First Baptist church. Mr. Rader is survived by his wife and one child. Mr. Rader had many friends in Mocksville who were saddened by the news of his death. He had been located here at different times looking after high way construction work for George Martin, and was looking after work on the Mocksville Fork road when he became ill several weeks ago.

Annual Picnic.

The Advance Ladies Aid held its annual picnic Saturday, June 25th, on the grounds at the community building.

Quite a number of members and visitors were present. Old time out-door games were played and were enjoyed by everyone.

A regular picnic spread was enjoyed, when baskets full of delicious food were eaten in the good old picnic way.

Baptists Want Roosevelt To Explain.

Knoxville, Tenn.—A Baptist congregation of 1,000 people voted Sunday night to wire Governor Franklin Roosevelt of New York, Democratic presidential nominee, to explain his statement to the convention at Chicago on Saturday, when he said in his acceptance speech that "from this date on the Eighteenth Amendment is doomed."

The telegram, adopted by the Bell Avenue Baptist Church, following an attack by Rev. W. B. Harvey, Democratic pastor of the church, read:

"Will you please favor us with a statement of your reasons in full for wanting repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and just what you propose to substitute in its stead."

Harvey charged the Democratic party with being the "back horse" of the liquor interests and declared "dry Southern Democrats will repudiate the party to uphold prohibition."

Roosevelt And South.

Editor of The Daily News:

Roosevelt is nominated. Your political writer Stewart says that there will be no opposition in the south. He little understands the make up of true hearted southerners. The delegate from Alabama in addressing the convention on Wednesday night really understood the south-land when he said the Democratic party was tearing itself asunder again. Despite all they may say, the majority of southerners who refused to support the national Democratic ticket in 1928 are not prejudiced and are not bigots. They will show this to be true in the coming campaign.

Religious intolerance is not in the makeup of these good people, but devotion to morality and decency in politics they will demand. They will not support Roosevelt with his dripping wet platform and Tammany dominated organization.

OBSERVER.
Greensboro, N. C.

He Is Disgusted.

Disgusted, in Greensboro News.

Yesterday over the radio I heard Andy say "I'm disgusted!" I wished I could shout back that many of us felt that way. I have been listening to both conventions and I say again "I'm disgusted!" I was brought up a Democrat and would like to continue to vote that way but I am done so far as the national ticket is concerned unless there is a change. The delegates at this convention are crying for alcohol while the people they represent are wanting and needing bread. Was there ever such a spectacle? I am sick at heart.

He Can't Wait.

M. S. Smyre, in Greensboro News.

The Democrats are praying for a Moses to lead them out of the wilderness. It took him 40 years to lead the Hebrew children out. He never did get out. It will take the Democrats more than 40 years to get out of the wilderness. I do not want to wait that long.

P. S. Wilderness: disturbed mind, illusion, delusion.

A Stand-Patter.

Editor Charlotte Observer:

I have always been a Democrat and voted for my party in the last presidential election, but I refuse to vote for any party which has a wet plank in its platform.

If it means that we cast our vote for the prohibition party, we believe that there is a big crowd of Americans who will vote solidly for prohibition with us.

Mrs. Margaret Boyce.
Polkton, N. C.

The Wet Parade.

In recent months the country has become familiar with what has been called "the beer parade," an institution inaugurated by the illustrious mayor of New York, but it remained for the National Convention of the Democratic party to stage a "wet parade," one of uproarious and hilarious acclaim for not only beer and wine, but for liquor. The delegations had been apprised of what was to be called for in the platform and had a reception in readiness. No sooner had the wetness been pronounced when the parade began. Delegation after delegation joined in the march and it was apparent that the advocates of the midler plank would have no sort of a showing in the convention. Speakers for repeal were loudly applauded; speakers for the minority proposition were hooted down, and all hands were prepared for the outcome when the roll call was started.

Cordell Hull was the first to speak in champion of the milder plank and he had a hard time of it, as did other minority advocates who followed. The crowd was impatient for something and that something developed later when Alfred Emmanuel Smith was announced by the chairman, with the unnecessary addition that he was going to speak in behalf of the majority report. Then the convention scenes of Houston were repeated, but with a hundred fold intensity, for the ovation that greeted Smith was the event of the night. Roars and shoutings intermingled with brass band music continued until the crowd had tired itself out, having broke out anew every time the chairman undertook to present Smith. Finally the Happy Warrior got a chance to talk, having been assured that the time allotted to him was not to be subtracted from the time that had been consumed on demonstrations. There is no doubt about the fact that Smith is a smart man when it comes to making a speech. He has manner and style that catches the crowd, and if one ovation could be regarded as overshadowing another, it came when Smith proclaimed that he had been simply four years in advance of the times—and for that just think of what happened to him. Cordell Hull was chief minority leader and he had feeble support from Senator Bailey, but the best Bailey could develop. It was what they call a "hectic" night and long belong the ballots was begun, everybody in the hall knew how the vote was would go. The Democratic convention was not only wet, but enthusiastically and dominantly so.

Adoption of repeal makes that the issue, of the campaign and so strong his sentiment developed in that there is likely to be a breaking of party lines, with the wets of the Nation flocking, not to the Democratic, but to the wet standard. Possibly the dregs may be planning a third party, or coalition with the Republicans under the Hooverized platform, but certain it is, the issue between the wets and the dregs was never before more distinctly defined. The issue of the National campaign is wet or dry.—Charlotte Observer.

We've often wondered what it is a rooster finds to crow about at three o'clock in the morning

The Ohio man who shot himself the other day when the stork brought him his seventh baby, doubtless reached the real source of his trouble.

Surry Disgrace.

It has been charged for several years that the election laws were flagrantly violated in Surry county but the Republicans being in the minority could do nothing but when the Democrats undertook to pull some of their sharp practices on each other there was a rather rude awakening and Surry county Democratic officials have received some very unsavory notoriety throughout the state.

At first when a prominent Democratic lawyer of Lee county went to Dobson and demanded to see the registration books, the poll books and the list of absentee ballots cast in the county in the June primary the Democratic clerk of the court attempted to laugh him out of court. The books so it is reported were shifted back and forth from one office to another and getting no satisfaction the Lee county lawyer appealed to Attorney General Dennis Brummitt and this brought results.

At the hearing at Dobson, the past week, the evidence presented was shocking and we cannot believe that the honest Democrats of Surry endorse and condone such methods as it was shown have been in vogue in Surry county. She whole affair is a disgrace to the county and some one should be punished severely for the slipshod manner in which elections have been conducted in Surry.

Even the chairman of the board of elections acknowledges that he did not furnish the registrars of the several townships with a copy of the election laws and some of these men admitted that they were ignorant of the law.

One of the Democratic registrars whom it seems always manages to be registrars when elections are held in his township and against whom complaint has been made before, in addition to his duties as registrars acted as a magistrate in attesting quite a number of absentee ballots for other townships than his own and it is charged by a defeated Democratic candidate that the said registrar was paid a sum of money to manage his campaign in Surry.

In another instance a local judge is charged and he did not deny it of acting as a marker in which he did not reside.

It would appear that only the surface has been scratched in this investigation but already a good coat of whitewash appears in the offing. Solicitor Higgins has let out a wait that he can do nothing unless a presentment is made to the grand jury. Then it is up to you Mr. Brummitt to see that a presentment is made and some one is punished for this disgraceful affair.—Union Republican.

The best asset a town possesses is a tireless, unquenchable 365 day booster. A little cross roads town in which every citizen is a booster will get further and do more for itself in the community it serves than its larger sister town that has reached a fair size and has settled back to enjoy its achievement and knock on everything that smacks of progress and improvements. There will always be a place in the world for a booster.

Sale of Land Under Mortgage.

Won't Support Franklin Roosevelt.

So long as alcohol makes fools of good men and demons of bad men and creates for itself an ever increasing appetite, I am unalterably against it, because it is an enemy to God and man. No party bond, no tie of human friendship, no financial interest of mine shall ever weigh in atom against my duty to my country and my God. I know not what course others may choose to follow but as for me I will never vote for any man who espouses the wet cause and, like him, be a traitor to the poor, the imberbe and the defenseless woman and children of alcoholic slaves.—W. L. Spoon, Greensboro.

Born Fifty Years Too Soon.

Over across town from where we live, there are three big husky lads who divide their time between the golf links, the tennis court, and the soda fountain. Except at meal times you can find them at one of these three places. And just as certainly once each week a negro is employed to push a lawn mower over their parents lawn. Curious how the Old Man failed to overlook us thataway! —Ben Sronce, Statesville Record.

One fellow plans to light the world with the power obtained from an atom. It is already possible to light up an individual with the power obtained from a small amount of corn.

NEWS OF LONG AGO.

What Was Happening in Davie Before The Days of Automobiles and Rolled Hoses

(Davie Record, July 23, 1902) Sullivan Booe, of Walkertown, is visiting relatives in town.

M. R. Chaffin showed us an almanac last week published in 1839 53 years ago.

Miss Lizzie Crump, of Salisbury, who has been visiting Miss Laura Sanford, has returned home.

The Baptist Orphanage picnic will be held at the arbor in North Mocksville on Thursday, July 31st.

The town has widened the street leading out to the poor house and it improves the looks of things very much.

James Calls, who lives near Mocksville, was in town Saturday with 15 turtles. He says he caught 40 in three days.

Chief Justice D. M. Furches spent a portion of Tuesday in town on his return home, after a visit of several days among relatives near Farmington.

Children's day exercises will be held at Oak Grove next Sunday.

C. C. Williams, of Redland, was in town Saturday.

Miss Myrtle Wilson, of Winston, is visiting friends here.

Collector Harkins has recommended the appointment of G. W. Sheek of this place, for braudyauger.

J. F. Kurfees and wife, of Louisville, Ky., who have been visiting relatives in the county, left Monday for their home.

Miss Jessie Loyd, of Virginia, Miss Annie Hobson, of Jerusalem, and Miss Kate Hobson, of Cleveland, spent Friday here with Mrs. E. H. Morris.

The foundation has been laid for the splendid school building at Cooleemee. The managers are to be congratulated for the interest taken in the education of the children.

Marse Glenn Williams made an assault on Hon. A. E. Holton in Winston last week. Marse Glenn has a reputation for fighting.

The Masonic picnic will be held in Mocksville on Thursday, Aug. 14th. Prof. Chas. H. Mebane will deliver the address and Gen. Julian S. Carr will speak to the old soldiers.

The Republican Senatorial Convention will meet at Yadkinville on Monday, Aug. 4th, to nominate a senator for Davie, Yadkin and Wilkes.

Geo. M. Johnson, of Atlanta, Ga., is visiting his mother at Farmington.

Mrs. Lou Fulford died at her home near Farmington Monday.

Chas. Miller, of Farmington, happened to a bad accident Monday. His foot slipped and a wagon with 1800 pounds of meal passed over his ankle dislocating it. Dr. Griffin dressed the limb.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Clement spent Saturday and Sunday with friends at Farmington.

J. F. Kurfees and wife and Miss Maggie Stonestreet spent several days at Germantown recently.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Stonestreet, of Concord, came up Saturday to visit his parents. He returned home Sunday, but his wife will spend some time near Jericho.

Misses Mamie and Mattie Kurfees, of Rowan county, visited relatives near Jericho Sunday.

Revised Version.

Greenville News.
Suggested campaign song for the Democrats: "When You Drink a Julep and I wear a Big Red Nose."

Phillip Braswell of Nash County is feeding 70 Duroc pigs under the Shay plan of full feeding on pasture for sale this fall.

Favors Republicans.

Democrats may learn with some regret, or satisfaction, depending on the viewpoint, that Bishop Cannon is under the painful necessity of a gain departing the party. The bishop put out the word in a Fourth of July address at Ocean Grove N. J., that the Republicans will win in November. Announcing himself an anti Smith and anti-Chicago platform Democrat—which means that notwithstanding Smith is out the bishop refuses to abide the platform—his reverence went on to say:

The 1932 prohibition plank of the Republican party pledges enforcement of the law and opposes nullification. The Democrats in adopting an outright repeal plank have assured the party of no support from the many organizations anxious to see the rightful continuance of the greatest social enactment made by any nation in any age.

From which it is gathered that the bishop will again support Hoover. Denying the common assertion of the wets that drinking has increased and that 'the best of American citizens' are violating the law, the bishop retorted: "How can a man be one of our best citizens and flout the constitution?" That brings on more talk. It may be answered that one who willfully and continuously violates the law, constitutional or statutory, can't qualify as a good citizen in the first requirement, no matter how many other qualities he may have that would put him in that class. But if one begins to draw distinctions the issue becomes troublesome. Some who can claim a place in the "good citizen" class cheat and defraud, are guilty of various sharp practices in business relations that are condemned by statute, legal and moral. Certainly there are many people who believe that patronizing a bucket shop, for instance—a la Cannon—is morally wrong although it may be legally permissible. And that brings on dispute about the relative wrong of various violations of statutory and moral laws. It is a never-ending dispute because this and that sort of violator, while admitting that he may not be exactly straight, will contend that he is no worse than others who are guilty of something similar.

Which is mentioned only as an passing interest as to the Cann of attitude and without concern as to what he may do politically.—Statesville Daily.

The Farmer's Ride Back

What a rise in the market price of almost any commodity may mean to the farmer is illustrated in the case of hogs and cattle. Statement comes from Omaha that during June the value of these two commodities on Nebraska farms, alone, increased $58,256,000. The total increase in value of hogs and cattle in the five States of Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri and South Dakota was $289,250,000, and best of all, the increase is continuing. This has given rise to the "slogan" that "the farmer is coming back riding on a hog." The advance on hogs was from $2.90 to $4.50, and on cattle from $6.75 to $8.10. The hog raisers appraise the price of hogs by the price of corn, the ratio being 10 bushels of corn to 100 pounds hog. Corn is selling around 25 cents the bushel, so, with hogs selling at $4.50 the farmers are making big money—"lots of money in fact."—Charlotte Observer.

Mendenhall Brothers of High Point harvested 8,250 pounds of alfalfa hay at the first cutting from a field of only 2½ acres. They have 30 acres to alfalfa which averaged better than a ton of hay per acre throughout at the first cutting, they report.

Nickel is Back Again.

Surveys of the cost of living throughout the United States reveal the nickel has come back, apparently to stay.

One five-cent piece now will buy a large slice of pie in most of the principal cities for the first time since 1918. Other "good buys" for a nickel include an egg sandwich, shoe shine, and large loaf of bread, and in a couple of large cities you can see a complete motion picture show for five cents.

A Boston barber advertised a free shave and shine, or massage and shine, with each haircut, but a New Haven competitor went him one better and came out with "a shave and a haircut for one dime."

Food and clothing lead the dash for new low marks. One big Chicago clothier "liquidated" topper men's suits for $1. Many others followed with two suits for the price of one, the average cost of a suit of clothes in Chicago being $22.50, as against $45 four years ago.

Ghain and independent restaurants alike in Chicago and New York offer ham and egg sandwiches for five cents, a plate of ham and eggs, buttered toast, and coffee for 15 cents, and a large plate of beans for a nickel. Even the bootleggers have come have come to terms. Five-cent beer has come back, and whiskey is selling for 10 and 15 cents in many large cities.—Ex.

Devil Attends Conventions.

The first government on earth was a prohibition one. The devil got into it, and by lying and deception, defeated it. In so doing he used the best woman in the world. He is still trying it. But he can't use the good women now. They are now "clothed and in their right mind."

He was in the recent Republican convention in Chicago, and tried to defeat the prohibition plank, but failed in that. But he did succeed in getting the convention to sort of agree to leave it to him and his tools. And they may play hell with it.

He will be in the Democratic convention, and that to deceive and lead astray, and he may do it. He says "The 19th amendment should be repealed because it is not enforced." That is bad logic. All laws are violated more or less; why not repeal all of them? God's laws are not kept by a majority of the people; and he does not repeal His laws to suit the criminals.—Goods Box Whittier, Catawba News Enterprise.

Boy Life.

(From The Stanly News and Press)
Eugene Ashcraft says in his column in the Monroe Enquirer that "thirty years ago a boy would get sore when he was asked to walk a mile to buy a pound of sugar; now he gets just as sore when he is asked to answer the telephone." And we've observed that they be come particularly bitter if they are not allowed to take the car to ride three-quarters of a mile to ride to a tennis court where they plan to spend the day knocking balls across the net.

We read with interest of the trickery and deceit and duplicity of Jacob against his brother Esau. Times have not changed much. The world is still full of Esaus and Jacobs and if possession of property is a guide, the Lord is prospering the Jacobs as He did in the days of old.

Reports from county farm agents in the grain growing section of Piedmont Carolina indicate that the crop this season is not up to standard. Excellent yields of clover hay are being harvested, however.

Suggesting A Slogan.

There is a faint recollection in these parts that many years ago redshirts got a boom in this state and redshirts flourished long enough to do a great injustice to many intelligent worthy negroes who for the sake of peace refrained from attempting to vote on election day. That formidable array of redshirts was enough to drive timid negroes into congnition fits. Nor is it forgotten here who boasted of a prominent part in that ugly performance.

In the recent primaries many so-called "niggers" who had been registered as Democrats helped to choose candidates for office on the Democratic ticket. It is not hard to guess how they voted when they came to choosing a United States senator. Reynolds was too young to have had the privilege of cavorting about in a redshirt.

Again this writer recalls more vividly the famous Democratic slogan hurled in dramatic fashion against the Republicans more than 30 years ago, "Butler, booze and bonds." It sounds today like a voice from the dead come back to plague the party that put it in vogue. With scarcely a scintilla of truth in it and less of honest purpose the Democrats made most effective use of this slogan in wronging a great man and his party. Happily Mr. Butler is still living and permitted to see the laws of retribution steadily eliminating the perpetrators of these wrongs.

Great Caesar's ghost, what a change has come about, "Butler, booze and bonds" fades out of the picture to make room for "Booze bonds and Bincombe." The Democratic party is saturated in booze and plastered over with bonds and immersed in Bincombe. It would be hard to find a more fitting slogan to be hurled against the Democrats in this state than "Booze, Bonds and Bincombe," each word capitalized.—Aristocrat, in Greensboro News.

Back With The Black Sheep.

Although the Honorable Richard Tillman Fountain, who trailed J. C. B. Ehringhaus by approximately 13,000 on the basis of Associated Press compilations, has declined to issue a formal statement upon the outcome of the balloting pending an official canvass of the vote next Monday, he has confided to newspapermen that he "absolutely will back the Democratic ticket 100 per cent in November."

"I am a strict party man," Raleigh dispatches quote the lieutenant governor as having said "I expect to help in the coming campaign and see the Democratic ticket victorious."

And that is most magnanimous on Mr. Fountain's part, considering what he said in these last few weeks about the Democratic party, its recognized leaders and its functioning in North Carolina. Its titular head, the governor, and most of the major acts of the administration which he office were subject to seathing attacks. North Carolina Democracy, and there is Mr. Fountain's reiterated word for it, is controlled by an all powerful, corruption ridden machine. Not only that but it tolerates and practices election irregularities in order that its favorites may be sure of victory. Did not a Fountain spokesman assert that 25,000 votes were cast illegally in the territory west of Raleigh in the first primary?

It is difficult to imagine how such a lily-white crusader can so quickly and completely reverse his stand for spotlessness and become part and parcel of the blackened enemy which he sought so vigorously to confound.

Of course, it may be that the lieutenant governor still hopes to work reformation from within—Greensboro News.

We've often wondered what the fellow who consistently opposes good roads thinks, when he tries to take a ride and breaks a spring, in a chuck hole on the main highway.

We don't know who originated it, whether the banks or some of their patrons, but a way has been found to beat the government tax of two cents on bank checks by having the customer sign a receipt for his money instead of writing a check. The banks and their customers are in "caboots" in the evasion. The banks won't come off the banks but it imposes a lot of bookkeeping in requiring the bank to charge the customer's account with two cents for each check. Under the evasion method a receipt is signed and handled as a check against the customer's account, and that's all there is to it.

It is our own private opinion, put-licly expressed, that the system won't stand the test of the courts. But of course the banks are operating under what is believed to be competent legal advice and theirs is the risk. If the department of justice seizes a bunch of the bankers by the heels and they are found guilty of being haled into court, they are the losers. They will not only have to pay court costs and maybe a fine, or serve a term in jail, if they loose, but they will have to make good to the government two cents on every receipt they handled. The customer gets his money and goes on his way. It's the bank's business to collect the two cents and the bank will be held responsible. Naturally the customer will use the receipt when it is offered. It saves him two cents on each withdrawal of money and since the bank is taking the responsibility it is not the customer's worry.

If and when it should appear, if it does, that the method of evasion is legally sound, the strict constructionist will agree there is a moral responsibility. Erquestionably Congress intends to tax each two cents. The tax is expected to contribute quite a large sum to the revenue necessary to balancing the budget. The business interests of the country were vociferous in their demands on Congress to balance the budget, and when "business interests" are mentioned the banks head the list. They handle the money. That it is a prime essential of business to maintain a balanced budget—not to spend more than is taken in—goes without argument. Any business man worthy the name knows that the concern that spends more than it takes in for any length of time is headed for the rocks. Congress responded to the call for a balanced budget in so far as levying the taxes is concerned—the increased and new levies being expected to produce more than a billion dollars. Congress didn't live up to its part of the program in reducing expenditures as promised and expected. But while the business interests, the banks coming first, were yelling for a balanced budget they didn't expect Congress to assign to them so much of the balancing. They would let Georgia find the money. But Congress was compelled to assess those who have as well as some who have not, and now the business interests are whining about the new levies being a nuisance and a burden. With that they look into a way to evade. The banks are saving their customers the two cents on each check and saving themselves a lot of extra work because some legal shark found that the law as written does not include "receipts" for the withdrawal of money.

It may be legally sound, as has been said, to evade the bank check tax. While the moral obligation remains, who is expected to pay taxes as a matter of morals? It is the common custom to evade them, sometimes by tricking and fraud, and the citizens who declines to profit by his opportunities is simply penalized for his honesty. A few may pay as a matter of conscientious scruples, but only a few; and the conscientious may be checked when they remember that others—the great majority—are following the detour. With that conscience may not be so keen. It's the way of the world. It's not the business of this newspaper to preach about these matters. Nobody would pay any attention to it if it did. But as a matter of passing interest it is mentioning things as they are.—Statesville Daily.

The Smith Reynolds tragedy hasn't been solved, and may not be for years, but it has been said of old that "murder will out."

It all depends on whose ox is gored. Democrats can get by with lots of things in North Carolina that would put a Republican in jail or on the chain gang.

Bob Reynolds says he will defeat Jake Newell in November by 150,000 majority. The Hon. Jake Newell says he will defeat Bob Reynolds in November. Take your choice, gentlemen.

S. F. Conrad says there are fifty million church members in the evangelical churches; 2,180,000 officers and teachers in these churches, and that Franklin Roosevelt will hear from these folks at voting time. He is right.

It seems that Bob Reynolds wants to name the democratic state chairman, and it also seems that Blucher Ehringhaus also wants to name said chairman. The scrap over this office has been postponed until August. Weather is too hot to be fighting over politics now.

James A. Farley, the Chairman of the National Democratic Executive Committee, is a member of the Knights of Columbus, which means of course that he is a member of the Catholic church. And it is said that our friend Governor Max Gardner voted for him. Well, such is life.

Leaders in the Baptist, Methodist and Presbyterian churches have expressed themselves as to what they think of the Democratic whisky plank and the gentleman who is running for president on the said plank. This country may be dripping wet but we won't believe it until all the votes are counted on Nov. 8th.

Hon. Lee Wright, prominent democratic lawyer in Salisbury, has come out openly and denounced the democratic wet platform, together with the wet Roosevelt, who heads the ticket. Mr. Wright would not support Al Smith four years ago on account of his wetness. OUR THIRTY-FOURTH YEAR.

With this issue The Record starts its 34th year, having begun publication in 1899. For the past 25 years The Record has been under the ownership and management of the present editor. We have made many mistakes in the past 25 years, but have done all we could to help build up our town and county. We have many loyal friends who have stood by us during all these years; and we want to thank them for their patronage and loyalty. We shall strive to do better in the future than we have in the past, and ask for the continued support of this entire section.

Mrs. J. K. Meroney and Miss Margaret Bell spent Wednesday with relatives and friends at Laurinburg. They were accompanied home by Mrs. John, who will spend some time with Miss Margaret Bell.

Miss Effie E. Boone, Mrs. W. M. Crofts, Mr. and Mrs. R. Braxton Boone spent the day Wednesday visiting friends and relatives in Winston-Salem and King.

Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Walker and children, of Cherryville, were in town a short while Monday.

Ten Prisoners Escape From Camp.

Boring a hole through the floor and dropping to the basement, where they used a pick to pry off the bars of a window, 10 convicts scaled a 10-foot wall and disappeared Saturday night.

The men are believed to have been led by Clark York who was sent up for 30 years for the murder last March of Jim Burrus, Mt. Airy taxicab driver. A state highway truck of Craige Foster, foreman of highway 80, was stolen and the convicts were seen early Sunday morning aboard it on highway 10 a few miles west of Statesville headed toward the mountains.

The escape was effected by the use of a brace and bit to bore a hole through the floor, the men dropping thru to the basement which was the storage room for tools. A pick was then used to pry off the bars of the basement window and escape was then easy over the 10-foot wall and into the woods.

The escapees were: Clark York, Olin Ferguson, Rome William, Ralph Lyerly, M. McCurry, Groger King, William Burns, William Grant, T. B. Oghurn, Joe McLeod, Maxie Seaford and W. A. Sain, guards on duty Saturday night, stated the break must have been made between 8 and 9 o'clock.

There is some mystery as to how 10 men could cut through the floor and escape under the eyes of two guards stationed at either end of the cell block without being discovered, as the lights burn all night and the two guards are supposed to be able to see all sections of the cell block.

The truck was found Monday morning two miles this side of Salisbury Monday morning, just off the highway, near Grant's Creek.

The prison camp is located two miles west of Mocksville. A number of men have escaped since the camp was built last winter. M. J. Hendricks is superintendent. A good deal of talk is being heard on the streets about the escape, and how such a thing could happen. We withhold any comment at this time.

County Sunday School Convention July 31st.

Officers of Davie County Sunday School Association announce that the Annual County Sunday School Convention will be held on July 31st, with the Eaton Baptist church, Cona N. C. Helping in the convention will be Rev. Shuford Peeler, Salisbury, General Secretary of the North Carolina Sunday School Association and Rev. W. I. Howell.

The convention is interdenominational and workers from all Sunday Schools of the county are invited to participate in the work.

In charge of the arrangements of the convention are Latta B. Ratledge and Mrs. J. S. Holland, President and Secretary of the County Sunday School Association. These officers are requesting the co-operation of all pastors and superintendents as well as other Sunday School leaders, in their effort to make the convention a success.

The officers have announced that instead of giving a pennant this year, as was the name of the Sunday School having the largest delegation, based on miles traveled, twelve years ago and over will be placed on the Honor Roll will be displayed in all the conventions held throughout the state during the summer and autumn. If the school has 50 percent of its teachers and officers present, a star will be placed by the name on the roll.

Funeral Service For Mr. Stewart.

Final rites were held at Smith Grove Methodist church Wednesday afternoon for Frank Stewart, 68, who died in High Point Tuesday.

The deceased was a native of Davie county and spent all his life here until two years ago. He was twice married, his first wife being Miss Emma Carter of this place, who died many years ago. Two sons remain from this union; Glenn Stewart, of Crewe, Va., and Phillip Stewart, of Alabama. A third son was killed in action in France during the world war.

The second wife, who survives was a Miss Taylor also of Mocksville and leaves one son and three daughters.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Ashe, of Mayodan, spent the week end in town guests of Mrs. Ashe's parents Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Brown. They were accompanied home by little Miss Sue Brown.

Mrs. R. A. Neely Dead.

Mrs. Robert A. Neely, 65 of near Holman's X Roads, died Thursday afternoon, following a year's illness, death resulting from paralysis and complications. Funeral services were conducted at Union Chapel M. P. church Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock by the pastor, Rev. G. B. Ferree, and the body was laid to rest in the church graveyard. Mrs. Neely is survived by her husband and one son. One brother, R. E. L. Pope, of Galeville, Texas, also survives.

Mrs. J. E. Horn, 71, died at her home in Newton Friday, following an illness of some time. Mrs. Horn is survived by her husband and six children. Mr. Horn is a native of Mocksville, having left Davie about 40 years ago, and locating at Newton, where he has been engaged in the roofing and metal business.

Delightful Picnic Supper

About thirty friends of H. C. Meroney, veteran rural letter carrier, met at Rich Park Friday evening to help him celebrate his 30 years in the service of Uncle Sam. Mr. Meroney entered the carrier service on July 2, 1902, as a substitute carrier for J. A. Current, on Route 2. When Route 5 was established a little later, Mr. Meroney was appointed carrier on this route, where he has faithfully carried the U. S. mails for the past 30 years, making his daily trips thru sleet and snow, hot weather and freezing temperatures. He has circled the globe a number of times if the mileage he has covered during these 30 years were tallied up. For the first twelve or fifteen years he used faithful old "Dobbin" and the reliable old buggy, but later took to the horseless carriage, otherwise Ford. He has lived to see many changes since starting to work for Uncle Sam, especially in the construction of good roads and bridges that can be used daily despite bad weather and high water. Mr. Meroney made his last round with the mail on July 9th, having reached the retiring age of 65 years on July 4th. All rural and city carriers are retired at the age of 65 years, with sufficient pay to enable them to spend their remaining years without having to want for the necessities of life. The following friends were invited to help him celebrate at the Park Friday evening:

B. O. and E. H. Morris, A. T. Daniel, M. B. Stonestreet, S. R. Latham, C. S. Anderson, F. A. Foster, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Daniel, L. S. Kurfrees, Harley Graves, Jake Meroney, Misses Daisy Holthouser and Mamie Hendrix, Mrs. Arthur Baker, Mrs. Era Atkinson, Rev. R. C. Golphor, Mr. and Mrs. Z. N. Anderson and daughter Miss Mary Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Holthouser and daughter Miss Helen Fave, Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Brown and daughter Miss Sue. Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Meroney, Mrs. M. B. Stonestreet and daughter Miss Mary Elizabeth Mrs. A. T. Daniel, W. F. Stonestreet and the editor of The Record.

The supper, consisting of fried chicken, barbecue, deviled eggs, sandwiches, cheese straws, potato chips, pickles, biscuits, cakes, chess pies, iced tea, etc. was an event that will not soon be forgotten by those present. All wish for Mr. Meroney many more years of usefulness, and trust that the happiest and most peaceful days of his life are yet before him.

Mr. Meroney was presented a handsome white gold Elgin watch, the gift of the Federal postal employees with whom he labored for so many years.

Miss Gladys Helper.

Coolemees, July 13.—Funeral and burial services were held here yesterday afternoon for Miss Gladys Helper, 16, one of the most popular young women of the village who succumbed at the residence of her father, C. B. Helper on Duke street Monday following an illness of about 18 months.

Miss Helper contracted a bone disease about 18 months ago, after spending sometime in a Gastonia hospital had one leg amputated at the knee and returned home in apparently much improved health. A relapse recently though proved fatal and she passed away on Monday.

Surviving relatives include the father, C. B. Helper, the step mother, two brothers, three sisters and one half brother.

Interment was in the local cemetery with Rev. A. T. Stouendmire and Rev. J. W. Foster, local pastors officiating.

Advance Man Dies.

Harvey B. Tucker, formerly of the Advance community, died at 1 o'clock Friday morning at a Chicago hospital following an operation. He had lived in Chicago for the past six months, being a farmer in Davie county prior to that time. He was a member of Advance Methodist Episcopal church.

Survivors include the father, Z. V. Tucker, three sisters, Mrs. Rosie Foster and Josie Bailey, of the Fork Church community, and Mrs. Ethel Charles, of Yadkin College; four brothers, George Tucker, Ben Tucker and Junie Tucker, all of Advance, and J. F. Tucker, of Winston-Salem.

Mrs. James McDaniel.

Mrs. James McDaniel, 52, who lived near Center, died in a Statesville hospital Saturday, following a double operation. Funeral services were held at Center Methodist church Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock, conducted by Rev. A. G. Loftin, of Glen Alpine, and the body laid to rest in the church graveyard. Mrs. McDaniel is survived by her husband two children, one brother and two sisters.

Miss Ella Daniels Dead

Coolemees, July 13.—Last sad rites were held at Concord Methodist church near here Tuesday afternoon for Miss Ella Daniels, 55, who succumbed at the home of a brother, Wade H. Daniels on Watts street here Monday following an illness of about three weeks.

Miss Daniels was a native of Jerusalem township and spent her entire life in the community.

The Young People's Society of Liberty Holiness church will meet next Sunday, July 24th, at 7:30 p. m. Attorney B. C. Brock will be present and deliver a short address. Every body invited.

Miss Eva Call went to Brevard Sunday where she will spend two weeks attending a Vacation Bible School at the First Baptist Church in that city.

It Handles Easier . . . Rakes Cleaner . . . Lasts Longer

THE NEW IMPROVED JOHN DEERE SELF-DUMP SULKY RAKE

The new John Deere Self-Dump Sulky is the rake you want for your farm. It is built extra strong to give long service. It handles easier. It rakes cleaner.

No more valuable hay going to waste because of skips in raking when you have a John Deere—it rakes clean when working in light hay or heavy; when raking into windrows or bunching.

You'll like the improved foot-lever control that makes it easy to hold teeth up when bunching from windrow or turning at end of field.

New positive tripping mechanism gives complete control over dumping and tripping. When raking, dump rods are positively locked out of wheel ratchets—dumping or tripping is impossible until operator presses on trip lever.

There are other features we want you to see, too. Call on us at your first opportunity.

Want A Dry Man.

S. F. Conrad, in Winston Journal.

Is not Gov. Roosevelt a heretic on the moral degradation and corruption of the liquor business. The changed conditions of the times with the hard surfaced roads, bus travel, trucks for freight and the bus loads of children for schools all combine to make the liquor business a menace to public safety.

Then, besides, we want a man for president of this country who stands above the liquor business. Our newly-nominated senator says the liquor business is God's worst enemy, and the devil's best friend. He denounces the saloon and declares against the return, yet he favors legalizing this soul damning stuff for revenue. Al Smith is now openly claiming that the platform of the Democratic party is after his own dictation. So we have the spectacle of Roosevelt on Al's platform; and the devil its best friend to make it go. There are 50 million church members in the evangelical churches; 159,000 superintendents in their Sunday schools, and 2,180,000 officers and teachers in them. Mr Roosevelt will hear from these folks at voting time.

How He'll Vote.

I read with interest the ideas of "Observer" and "Answer" in your columns. I am an anti-Smith Democrat, a Hoovercrat or whatever designation may be given to a Democrat who voted for Hoover as a matter of principle. I will admit that having voted that way in 1928 that I would be a bigot, a hypocrite and religiously intolerant if I voted for Roosevelt in 1932. I have no apology for my 1928 vote and since the Democratic party and the Republican party have candidates so definitely different this time, the Republicans standing in this state for prohibition like I stand for it I am not only going to vote for Hoover this time but I further expect to vote for those two real gentlemen, Clifford Frazier and Jake Newell—M. C. R., in Greensboro News.

Second Primary Must Go

The result of the July 2 primary in North Carolina in a large measure proves that the people of the Commonwealth have made up their minds that they are disgusted with the idea of holding a second primary just to see if the fellow running behind may not overcome the lead of their opponent and receive the nomination.

Under the law governing the primary it has been legal and customary in the past for the second highest candidate to ask for one if he so desired, regardless of the cost the sum of $104,000, it has been estimated.

The Democratic party should go on record against holding the second primary, and the present law should be changed at the next session of the General Assembly. It will save time and money, and in our opinion the candidates running second from a defeat worse than that received in the first race.

The people of North Carolina would do well to rise up and demand the abolition of the second primary, thereby letting the high man take the nomination in every instance.—Wilkes Journal.

One trouble with the country today is that too many leaders are trying to follow the crowd.

Drys Organize in Texas.

Dallas, Texas July 9.—The Texas League of Dry Democrats was formed at a statewide mass meeting here today by approximately 250 men and women who plainly indicated the bone-dry element of Texas plans to bolt the democratic liquor repeal plank and the Roosevelt-Garner ticket.

Alvin Moody, of Houston, who called the meeting, was elected permanent chairman.

The league adopted a resolution introduced by former state Senator Thomas E. Love, which declared: "We are democrats devoted to the principles and traditions of the democratic party to the utmost limits of conscience and good faith."

Church Board Flays Roosevelt.

Lake Junaluska, N. C., July 11.—The Democratic party's plank advocating repeal of the 18th amendment is vigorously denounced in the annual report of the board of temperance and social service of the Methodist Episcopal Church south, made public here tonight.

After asserting the plank on prohibition is as binding as any other part of the platform, the report declares "any attempt by any party platform declaration to bind the members of that party on a moral issue is a distinct invasion of the moral realm and is, therefore not only an indefensible infringement of the rights of conscience but a gross insult to independent citizenship.

"Such action will be repudiated by conscientious men and women throughout the country and this entirely apart from prohibition."

The report urges that "our people should vote for men and women who believe that prohibition ought to be the law" in all elections "from constable to president."

The report was written by Bishop James Cannon Jr., president of the board.

The Republican party's plank on prohibition was said to pledge the party to "efficient law enforcement opposes any form of attempted nullification, sets forth the futility of so-called referendum, emphasizes that prohibition is not a party political issue, and that no public official, which includes president, vice president, senators, congressmen, state legislators, nor any members of the Republican are bound by the convention action on this question, declares that the progress and the gains which have already been made in dealing with the evils inherent with the liquor traffic must be preserved, and the evils eliminated and declares that the convention does not favor submission of the question of retention or repeal of the 18th amendment without a substitute therefor.

Editor Wins.

A reader of this column brought us the following clipping. We publish it as a sort of warning: In case you ever have a grudge against an editor, restrain your ire, remembering that the editor has the last word. This is the way one editor told it, as reported in an Iowa paper: "There was a blow, somebody fell. We got up. Turning upon our antagonist, we succeeded in winding his arms around our waist, and by a quick maneuver threw him on top of us, bring our back, at the same time, in contact with the solid bed of the printing press. Then, inserting our nose between his teeth, and cleverly entangling his hands in our hair, we had him."—Exchange.

The most helpless person these days at the Social Circle meeting is the woman who has never had an operation.

Sale of Land Under Mortgage.

By virtue of the powers contained in a certain mortgage deed executed by S. L. Drake to the undersigned, and default having been made in the payment of same, I, as mortgagee, will sell at the court house door in Davie county, on Monday, August the 1st, 1932, at 12 o'clock, m. for cash, to the highest bidder, the lands described below, adjoining the lands of John Wyatt, W. M. Drake, Sallie Green and others, and bounded as follows, viz: Beginning at a stone, Hanes corner. S with Hanes line 7.45 chains to a stone, Brinegar's corner; thence S with Brinegar's line 57.3 degs. E. 14 chains to a stone, G. A. Carter's corner; thence N 3 degs. E. 25.95 chains with Carter D. Wyatt's line to a stone, Sallie Green's corner; thence W. 4 degs. N. with Sallie Green's line 11.98 chains to a stone, W. M. Drake's corner; thence S 5 degs. with W. M. Drake's line 18.70 chains; thence West with W. M. Drake's line to the beginning, containing 33 acres more or less. This land is being sold to satisfy the debt secured by the mortgage. 'An' He Ain't By Hissself In Dat.

Churchman.

An editor, in commenting upon the fact that newspapers sometimes make mistakes in their columns, says he made some in his issue and a good subscriber told him all about it. He goes on to relate that the same day there was a letter in his postoffice box that did not belong to him; he called for No 98 on the phone and got 198; he asked for a spool of number 50 thread and got number 60; he got his milk bill and there was a mistake of ten cents in his favor; he felt sick and the doctor said he was eating too much meat when he hadn't tasted meat for two months; the garage man said the jitney was missing because it needed a new timer and he cleaned a spark-plug and it has run fine ever since. Yes, newspapers make mistakes—and so do other people.

A reader of this column brought us the following clipping. We publish it as a sort of warning: In case you ever have a grudge against an editor, restrain your ire, remembering that the editor has the last word. This is the way one editor told it, as reported in an Iowa paper: "There was a blow, somebody fell. We got up. Turning upon our antagonist, we succeeded in winding his arms around our waist, and by a quick maneuver threw him on top of us, bring our back, at the same time, in contact with the solid bed of the printing press. Then, inserting our nose between his teeth, and cleverly entangling his hands in our hair, we had him."—Exchange.

VOLUME XXXIV.

NUMBER 2

NEWS OF LONG AGO.

What Was Happening in Davie Before The Days of Automobiles and Rolled Hoses.

(Davie Record, July 30, 1902)

The Farmington Sunday School Convention met at Macedonian Moravian church July 20th. There are 12 Sunday schools in Farmington, with 845 scholars and teachers. A. W. Ellis was elected president. Ben Teague, Secretary.

James Call left Monday evening for Corsicana, Texas.

J. S. Leonard and son Ralph, of Statesville, are visiting relatives here.

Sullivan Booe has returned to his home at Walkertown.

Will Call, of Selma, visited his parents here last week.

J. V. Davis, of Fork, Church, has returned from a trip to the mountains, where he has been advertising his show.

Miss Annie Smith, of Fork Church, has returned home from a visit to her sister in Salisbury.

Mrs. Frank Johnston and Mrs. Stewart spent one day last week with Mrs. W. H. LeGrand, near Ephesus.

Mrs. Cora Lefler and Mrs. Ananda Wall of Ephesus, spent several days last week with relatives and friends in Statesville.

Arthur Daniel visited friends at Woodleaf recently and reports a pleasant time.

Misses Ada and Sallie Grant spent Friday with their sister, Mrs. Cohen Daniel, at Ephesus.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Lauier and children, of Troutman, visited Mrs. W. R. Ketchie, at Kappa, Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Ellen Smith, of Kappa, died last Monday night. The remains were laid to rest at Hickory Grove Tuesday afternoon.

The birthday celebration of Mr. Daniel Safriet, near County Line, was very much enjoyed last Sunday. Plenty of good things to eat.

Miss Myrtle Willson, of Winston, spent last week with Mrs. J. Lee Kurfess, at Jericho.

Mrs. P. M. Bailey and son June, are visiting friends in town. Mrs. Bailey will soon begin housekeeping in Salisbury.

Geo Sheek has been appointed Deputy Collector, with headquarters in A. C. Patterson's office at Greensboro.

W. A. Weant is bragging on his Cuban painter. Says he can take one color of paint and make your house have a variegated appearance.

Chas. McCulloch's baby died last Monday and the remains were laid to rest in the family burial ground. Rev. S. D. Swaim conducted the funeral services.

T. M. Bailey, former postoffice clerk in the Mocksville postoffice, has been promoted to baggage master with the Southern.

The Masonic picnic will be held in Mocksville Thursday, Aug. 14th. Prof. Chas. H. Mebane will deliver the annual address, and Gen. J. S. Carr will speak to the old soldiers.

An artesian well is being bored at Cooleemee; and before long we expect to see the earth giving up her liquid fluid in a continual stream through high into the air.

Mrs. Jackson, of Cooleemee, aged 82 years, had the misfortune to break her arm a few days ago.

Cooleemee is soon to have a complete system of electric street lights.

Too Strong Even for Raskob.

The extent to which the Democratic Convention in Chicago was stampeded by the wets is strikingly illustrated by the fact that even Chairman John J. Raskob objects to the liquor plank as going too far. A little more than a year ago Mr. Raskob almost started a riot in the Democratic National Committee when he proposed that it should make a frank stand for a wet plank. But now he says:

"I am sorry the majority has taken this course. I am not in favor of that extreme position. It would have been sufficient for the party to ask its members of Congress to submit the questions of repeal to the states. I do not think it wise to put the Democratic party itself on record for or against repeal. We must remember that we have had two parties within one party—that in the North and that in the South. I want repeat that I believe we'll never accomplish it by making the South mad. I argued with Governor Smith, last night on that very point. To have the fanatical wets put the screws on the party now, just as they objected to the fanatical drys doing the same thing hitherto is not going to help the question before the people."

That is strange talk indeed from a leader who for four years has been anathema among dry Democrats all over the country because of his extreme position on the wet side of this controversy. Now the convention itself has gone so far beyond him that he feels he must enter his protest. If that is the attitude of Mr. Raskob what must be the feeling of the dry Democrats throughout the country?

"Farmer Benner's Forecast Shows Tide Has Turned.

Tom Golden, Hickory insurance man, comes forward with an optimistic declaration—that the tide has turned and that the nation is now on its long and tedious climb back to normal times. Mr. Golden has discovered an old-time chart which has endured the test of time for more than sixty years. The Hickory man says this chart is known as "Farmer Benner's Forecast," and was first published in 1871, showing what business conditions be for the succeeding 98 years. Two-thirds of that time has elapsed and it is pointed out that the forecast has proved correct in practically every important detail. The chart very accurately showed that there was to be a severe panic in 1929 and foretold the era of unprecedented high prices in 1918.

According to the chart, prices will gradually continue to rise from now on until 1955 when we will have normal times again. Then will come another reversal, and in 1942 the chart predicts another panic. Again will come the unfeeling rise, and in 1947 the world will see another era of abnormally high prices similar to those that prevailed a few years ago. Of these, good times run periods of eight, nine and ten years. Of these, good times run periods of eight, nine and ten years, and hard-times cover periods of nine, seven and eleven years.

There is a general belief among men who have made a careful study of the financial history of the world, that the cycle theory is basic. Farmer Benner's chart certainly seems to have proven itself reliable over a long enough period to give promise of being correct in the present instances where it holds hope of early recovery from our present economic plight.

Anyway, it is never bad for one to pin his hope to a promising prediction so long as the evidence at hand tends to support it.

The Indians are no longer dangerous—if you can keep out of the way of their motor cars.

Just a Little Giggle.

Ft. Wayne News-Sentinel.

We cannot avoid a little giggle at Senator Barkley's remarks on the tariff. He declares that "the country did not expect, demand, or want an increase in tariff rates." And yet the "Keynote" himself has very recently escaped by narrow inches the fate of being reed out of his party because he wisely enough, voted for an increase of the tariff to protect Kentucky's coal mines against disastrous foreign competition.

Senator Barkley now pledges his party to a reduction of the tariff all along the line. This is apt to be the outstanding issue in November—whether the American market shall be preserved for Americans, or whether the Democracy, serving as ever the international bankers, will wreck the protective tariff barriers, out of deference to the wishes of foreign powers.

Finally, the gentleman from Kentucky would have been smarter to omit mention of the Democratic Congress elected in 1930. He declares that "we joined with our opponents in rendering a common service to our common country." That is too much—even for a key note!

How the Canadian System Works.

How does the Canadian system of liquor control work? This is the way it works in Manitoba, according to Attorney General Craig:

"Retail bootlegging has increased due to the removal of the first main difficulty of anyone promising to deal in liquor, namely the obtaining of supplies, a condition intensified by the fact that in addition to all former avenues of supply, such unlawful trafficker can now lawfully purchase liquor (from the government) which he intends for resale, particularly in districts where obtaining liquor previously was always difficult and frequently impossible."

The Vancouver, British Columbia, World says that liquor "control" there has created a "Bootleggers' Paradise!"

"Has not the time arrived to put an end to the unenviable position which British Columbia has achieved as headquarters of the bootlegging business, rumrunners, gunmen, thugs and all of the parasites who thrive in the mission of the underworld of the Pacific Coast are fostered by the policy now in force . . ."

Much more testimony emanating from similar authorities could be cited, the burden of all which would be that the Canadian system does not eliminate the bootlegging and other evils which foes of prohibition in the United States cite in their attacks on the system which is now in force in this country.—Winston Sentinel.

"Old Gray Mule" Goes On Rampage.

Kinston.—Jerry Adams' old gray mare mule ain't what she used to be—a docile creature as gentle as a lamb in season and out.

Yesterday Gertrude, called Gertie for short, walked into the kitchen of the negro farm tenant's home. There was only one step to the back door, making it easy for Gertie to step in. Adams' wife was surprised but not alarmed. She told Gertie to clear out. Gertie apparently meant to but she took the wrong door.

She walked into the bedroom. Adams believes she meant to sit down on the bed, but his wife thinks she stumbled and fell. Anyway, she smashed the only bed in the house, and smashed it beyond repair.

Getting up she reeled against the chiffonier and contributed more splinters to the family kindling pile.

She was trying to get out of a window when Adams got a hold on her ears and led her out through the kitchen.

The Amendment Plank

When Postmaster General Brown gave out a statement a few days before the meeting of the Republican National Convention that the plank on the liquor problem would be framed which would be "satisfactory to everybody," the statement met with pretty universal jeers, especially among the bright newspaper paragraphs who were unanimous in insisting that the thing just couldn't be done.

But that is just about what seems to have been done, the jeers to the contrary notwithstanding. Effort are being made, to be sure, to create the impression that the liquor plank in the Republican National Platform is a straddle and that it is unintelligible. But these efforts are as unconvincing as they are laborious. Here are certain facts with which those who framed this plank had to deal when they began their deliberations.

- (1) Conditions under prohibition are unsatisfactory.
- (2) Conditions before prohibition were unsatisfactory.
- (3) Some plan must be devised which will deal with the liquor problem in such a way as to minimize the evils which have grown up under prohibition without a return to the worst evils which prevailed before prohibition was adopted.
- (4) Any particular states which choose to remain dry must be protected from wet invasion must not return to either wet or dry states.

The longer it is studied the more it must be admitted by the fair minded that the Republican liquor plank met those problems fairly, frankly and effectively.

This plank asserts that the people should have an opportunity to pass upon a proposed amendment of the 18th Amendment which by its terms "shall allow the states to deal with the (liquor) problem as their citizens may determine. But subject always to the power of the Federal Government to protect states where prohibition may exist and safeguard our citizens everywhere from the return of the saloon and attendant abuses." Certainly there is nothing unintelligible about that, nothing hazy or confused. It means precisely what it says.

To the extent that national prohibition has failed, the failure is due largely to the refusal of the states to accept their responsibility in its enforcement. When the amendment was adopted concurrent power powers were given to the Federal Government and to the states with the exception that the Federal Government would take care of the enforcement of the law to the extent of guarding interstate transportation and protecting the country from the importation of liquors. It was expected that the states would police their own territory, protecting their people against the violation of this as of other laws. But the states have not lived up to this implied compact. Several of them, notably the great state of New York, have actually repealed such laws as they had on their statute books under which violations of the prohibitory law might have been prevented or punished, leaving to the Federal Government the entire responsibility of the local enforcement. Of course that is flatly impossible. The Federal Government can not police the entire territory of the United States.

And so the proposal embodied in the Republican liquor plank is that the state shall resume their responsibilities in the matter of controlling the liquor traffic while the Federal Government returns to its original and appropriate field. If the proposed change is made the states will deal with the problems as their citizens may determine, making their own laws with relation to and enforcing them; but the Federal Government will see to it that those laws are so framed that the old saloon can not return. In other words, the Federal Government holds the veto power to the extent of annulling state legislation which might result in the return of the saloon, while not concerning itself with the police enforcement of any state law.

This is not a "straddle" in any such sense as that term is used in political slang. It is no more a straddle than are a score of the provisions of the Federal Constitution which were adopted only through a compromise of extreme views. On this question there were some who maintained that the 18th Amendment should be unqualifiedly endorsed and any departure from it or modification of it denied. There were others who held that the 18th Amendment should be repealed flatly and unconditionally, thus restoring conditions that prevailed before it was adopted—except that the evils that attended the liquor traffic prior to the Volstead Act would be immeasurably worse now than they were then. The Republican plank adopted neither of those extremes. It recognized the fact that conditions under the 18th Amendment are not satisfactory and it pointed out a method by which it is believed those conditions can be vastly ameliorated without involving any risk of losing the ground that has been gained, or bringing again into existence the abuse that prevailed under the old system.

It is so sensible and moderate a proposal and it promises such satisfactory results as almost to justify the boast of the Postmaster General that a formula had been found which would satisfy everybody.

Repudiating Its Own.

Washington Post.

One may search the Democratic platform in vain for approval of the achievements of the House of Representatives which has been under domination of that party during the present session. It is obvious that the Democratic party does not intend to stand upon the record it has made in the House. In effect, the platform asks the public to forget the blunders of the Democrats in action and listen to the sweet music of future promises.

In several instances the platform indorses the action of President Hoover and by inference condemns the action taken by the Democratic House. For example, the opening paragraph denounces the "indefensible expansion and contraction of credit for private profit at the expense of the public." Over the opposition of Republican leaders, the House passed the Goldborough bill, instructing the Federal Reserve Board to manipulate credit and currency with a view to raising prices to the 1926 level. The platform condemns what the Democratic House sought to accomplish.

The Democratic platform favors "expansion of the federal program of necessary and useful construction affected with a public interest." It would be difficult indeed to construe this language as other than a slap at Speaker Garner's pork-barrel bill for the erection of hundreds of post-offices and other extravagant projects that are entirely unnecessary. No Democrat who stands upon the platform demanding a saving of not less than 25 per cent in the cost of the Federal Government can honestly defend the Garner pork-barrel grab.

More complaint of damage by the bud worm and horn worm of tobacco has been reported by eastern growers this season than in many years past.

A good many business men retire from business with an A rating in finance, but are bankrupt in health.

A Wet Evangelist.

(From The Charlotte Observer.)

Recently Evangelist McKendree Long of Statesville, Iredell county, and Evangelist McLendon, more familiarly known as "Cyclone Mack," were conducting revival meetings in Asheville. Mr. Long had strong suspicions as to Mack's stand on prohibition and endeavored, but unavailingly, to draw statement from him. Cyclone Mack, however, has now removed all doubts, coming out as the wettest of the wets. His declaration is of a sort to amaze. His first proposition is that "prohibition has turned the village drunkard into the drinking village." Therefore, he would not only have repeal but something more. He would have repeal of "all laws" except the law against public drunkenness "allowing everybody to make their own liquor, tax free." Statement of that kind from a man who is classed as "a noted Southern evangelist," is calculated to bring his credentials under more or less criticism.

A Complete Flop.

In the 1928 campaign the Winston-Salem Journal opposed Al Smith for President on the grounds that he was a candidate of the liquor interests. Day after day the brilliant editor of the Journal stuck a knife into the vitals of the Democratic candidate and never one time let up in his fight on Smith and his man Friday, John J. Raskob. As one of the results of the anti-Smith campaign of the Journal Hoover carried Forsyth county by 6,619 majority and Hoover likewise carried North Carolina by 62,696.

Imagine the surprise of the dry advocates when on Sunday morning the Journal in a double-barreled editorial announced in thundering tones:

"That not since 1916 have we supported a candidate for President with such confidence and wholehearted enthusiasm as we shall support Franklin D. Roosevelt."

And friends it must be remembered that Franklin D. Roosevelt is even wetter than Al Smith. The Democratic platform adopted at the Chicago convention is dripping wet, it calls for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment which would mean opening up the saloons and big distilleries and breweries in all of the larger states. It would mean that whisky could be shipped into North Carolina by the train or truck load, it would mean a return to the "good old days" when drunken men would be seen reeling along the streets and drunk drivers would be found on our highways at the steering wheels of their cars. Franklin D. Roosevelt endorses this platform 100 per cent and the Journal enthusiastically endorses Franklin D. Roosevelt 100 per cent. There has been no change in President Hoover since 1928. He is the same man whom the Journal supported then but a complete reversal by the Baptist deacon finds him standing among the dripping wets.

Why the flop? Why the change? From the way the Democrats are "cutting up" in this state and nation it would seem that they care nothing about the economic condition of the masses. The people are asking for bread and they are being handed the promise of a jug of liquor.

The Southern Baptist Convention in session in May at St. Petersburg, Fla., passed a resolution pledging the members of that great denomination to refuse to support any "wet" candidate for office. We are wondering how the editor of the Journal who is a great Baptist and a teacher of a men's Bible class in his church will reconcile the resolutions of his church and his stand for a dripping wet for President? Of course if the Journal supports Roosevelt it will likewise have to climb a-stride the whisky barrel along with Bob Reynolds and whoop it up for the Asheville wet who is being opposed by a dry churchman and high-toned citizen. Jake F. Newell, Union Republican.

Hon. Jake Newell is going to let Bob Reynolds know he has some opposition before the campaign is over.

The blackberry crop is about to fade out, and up to this good hour we have eaten only three blackberry pies.

The Record is glad indeed that the superintendent of the Davie prison camp is a democrat and ditto as to the guards.

The gentleman who predicted that we wouldn't have any hot weather this summer must be hiding out in the mountains around Boone.

Our old friend Frank Grist is silent in ten languages since the late primary. We are wondering if Frank is going to stomp the state for Bob this fall.

It doesn't seem to be any more trouble for a prisoner to make his escape from the county prison camp than it is for the democratic party to issue bonds in this state.

If the next legislature wants to go on record as being sane and sensible they will pass two laws as soon as they assemble. Repeal the absentee voters law and abolish the state highway patrol.

Some folks are wondering if all the prison guards in North Carolina voted for Cam Morrison and Ehringhaus. We have heard of people losing their jobs on account of the way they voted.

President Hoover has cut his salary $15,000 per year. Up to this writing we haven't heard of any Davie county democratic officer cutting his salary. If such a thing happens, please advise us at once.

If the democratic voters in North Carolina will vote like the Winston-Salem Journal begs them to do, Jake Newell and Franklin Roosevelt will carry North Carolina this fall. The Journal is begging the boys to vote for a wet president and dry congressmen and senators. To save our lives we can't figure out how an editor can be half-fish and half dry land terrapin.

Al Smith wasn't as wet as Franklin Roosevelt, and the 1928 democratic platform was as dry as the Sahara desert as compared to the 1932 democratic platform. The Winston-Salem Journal did everything possible to defeat Al Smith, and is now supporting a wetter man with a dripping wet platform. We are almost persuaded that it wasn't Al's wetness that defeated him in North Carolina, but his church affiliations.

It is only two weeks until the 54th Annual Masonic picnic. Despite the depression we believe that the crowd this year will be as large as last. All Davie county people, together with all former Davie citizens, and their friends and relatives throughout North Carolina and all other states, are given a special invitation to come to Mocksville on Thursday, August 17th and help us enjoy the day. An interesting program is being arranged for this big picnic and home-coming. A day here renewing old acquaintances and greeting relatives and friends will be worth much to you. Come and spend the day with us and have the biggest time of your life.

"We must elect a wet democrat for president, but we must make every honorable effort to elect dry Senators and Congressmen." The above article, or words to that effect, has appeared in several newspapers since the democratic national convention. To save our lives we can't figure out how a good prohibitionist can support a wet president and a dry Congressman or Senator. If we were in favor of the repeal of the 18th Amendment and the modification of the Volstead law we would vote for the wettest bunch of men we could find that were running. If we were in favor of prohibition and against repeal and modification then we would vote for the driest men we could find. "Ye cannot serve both God and mammon."

The Record desires to ask Mr. John P. LeGrand and Attorney B. C. Brock, democratic and Republican nominee for the Legislature, a few pertinent questions that the voters and taxpayers would like to have answered before casting their ballots this fall. 1. Are you in favor of abolishing the absentee voter's law? 2. Are you in favor of abolishing the state highway patrol? 3. Do you favor the state wide primary? 4. Do you believe that all counties should be given the privilege of electing their superintendents of public instruction? These questions are very important and we will gladly donate space in our columns for these gentlemen to tell the voters just where they stand on these questions. The people have a right to know what stand their law makers are going to take on important questions.

Ten Men Gone

One-eighth of the inmates of a cell block in a camp near Mocksville escaped Saturday night. Reports fix the break at "between 8 and 9 o'clock," but the camp guards claim they knew nothing about it until 5 o'clock Sunday morning. And it was a prisoner who told them about it then.

However, even after discovering that ten of their charges had gained freedom, the camp officials did not notify the county sheriff or other authorities until about three hours later, according to reports.

The camp superintendent is quoted as saying he had ordered a bed check at 9:15 o'clock Saturday night. The subordinate charged with the duty says he made the check, but the superintendent doubts it, because he is confident the absence of the ten men would have been discovered if the survey had taken place. Two other guards were on duty throughout the night, but they neither heard nor saw "anything out of the ordinary," it is declared.

The convicts escaped by cutting a hole in the floor of their prison rooms. After getting out, via the basement, they stole a camp truck and drove away. They were seen on the highways two or three times Saturday night before they hid the truck in some woods.

There is an investigation due in this case. We can readily appreciate the fact prison guards are on only human and cannot possible "keep an eye" on every man under their care. We can understand how it is possible for an occasional prisoner to slip away. But it does seem to ask a considerable stretch of the imagination to think that ten grown men could depart while guards supposedly were wide awake and keeping watch.

According to reports from the camp, electric lights burn all night, either in or around the cell block. It is said that a person within the room could read a newspaper at any time during the night, so great is the brilliancy of electricity. Surely a guard, or two guards, spotted within the enclosure, could detect ten men leaving the room.

Recent sessions of Forsyth superior court have proved that it is a difficult matter to convict a defendant, even when the evidence seems overwhelmingly against him. And it seems that a conviction means only that the prisoner will be retained until he decides he has been confined long enough.

French leaves from North Carolina prison camps are apparently easy matters. -Twin City Sentinel.

North Mocksville Wins.

The North Mocksville baseball team won over Dulin in a forfeit game Saturday by the score of 9-0. Dulin gained a 1 run lead in the eighth and quit as their pitcher was rapidly giving out.

Congress Has Quit.

Congress has quit and all and sundry, it is believed, are satisfied—satisfied with the quitting, that is. The satisfaction with the congressional performance, if any is to develop as the accomplishment turns out. Whether what has been done is more for good than ill we will know later. In one conspicuous particular Congress failed miserably—in the reduction of government expense. In other respects Congress labored to supply money and credits, as demanded, looking to the lifting of the depression. Never before in this country's history was government aid in the way of loans, from money to buy fertilizers for crops on up to hundreds of millions to banks and railroads and the like, so liberally provided. Congress has labored sincerely in an effort to shake the depression. Whether the depression is to be shaken that way we are yet to see.

But whether one thinks it didn't do enough or did too much, it is good for all of us that Congress has quit until December 1st next. So long as the body remained in session the attention of a large portion of the country was turned to Congress, in the hope and belief that Congress might do the miracle and create prosperity by legislative act. Congress tried to do that. Now maybe we will all get busy, since Congress has quit, use the means at hand and do something for ourselves. -Statesville Daily.

Wadesboro Man Gets Filled Up For Once.

The following yarn of a gluttonous man is related by the Wadesboro Messenger and Intelligencer concerning the payment of an election bet:

Before the primary Saturday Chief of Police Veonon Smith and Lester Faulkner made an agreement that if Huntley won for sheriff Faulkner would set Smith up to a dinner, and if Gaddy won Smith would set Faulkner up. When it became apparent that Gaddy had won Saturday night, Faulkner called on Smith to make good, and the chief took him to the American cafe and told Tom Costas to feed him.

Faulkner's capacity probably was greater than Smith had figured on, for he ate a total of $4.05 worth and called for a fifth T bone steak, but Costas had run out of steaks. He ate four steaks, two orders of French fried potatoes, two orders of sliced tomatoes, a whole peach pie, and drank seven cups of coffee and four coca-colas and as stated, still had room for more. Faulkner says he regretted that Tom ran out of steaks as he certainly was a good cook. Smith paid the bill.

Two Other Davie Men Arrested.

Two additional Davie county men charged with taking part in the manufacture of liquor in Eagle Mills township a few days ago when Raymond Shoaf was overpowered and captured by Deputy Sheriff Furches Allen, have been apprehended, it was learned today.

Peaches Bringing Good Prices.

Peach growers in the Sand Hills are enthusiastic over the fancy prices being received for their fruit so far this season. Hileys are being shipped from Aberdeen in car load lots and are bringing $1.75 and up per bushel in the orchards with culls selling at $1.40.

The dry hot weather has aided materially in the successful marketing of the fruit and has brought out in full its coloring and flavor.

After the shipment of the Hileys, the Camerons will be thrown on the market followed by the Elbertas, the Sandhills' best bet for a money crop, and the Georgia Belle.

The State Federal crop report issued at Raleigh says of the peach crops of July 1:

"North Carolina has a considerable shortage in all kinds of fruits. The exception to this is in the Sandhill area where the commercial peach crop is good. With the exception of hail damage, the shipments from this area will probably be more than last year. The condition of the State's crop of peaches is 58 percent as compared with 80 last year. The commercial crop will probably average above 70 percent."—Ex.

No Sunday Baseball.

An effort has been made to legalize Sunday baseball in North Carolina but it is doomed to defeat. Two Sundays ago a baseball game was played at Durham between the Raleigh and Durham professional clubs and it was hailed with great glee by the ungodly that 8,000 people turned out to see the game and this meant that the people wanted Sunday baseball for all the cities of the state.

But it turns out that no admittance was charged for the game but a hat collection was taken and when the money was counted just $575 had been taken in, less than an average of 10 cents per person. Give some people something for nothing and they will break their necks to see it but if 50 cents had been charged there would not have been 800 there.

Sunday games had been arranged for Wilmington and Winston-Salem at the seaside city for the past Sunday but the fans there objected to it and it was called off. The management of the Greensboro club states emphatically that there will be no Sunday baseball in that city and in Winston-Salem already religious organizations are taking the lead to nip the thing in the bud if it raises its head here. Charlotte and Durham played a game in the Queen City Sunday over the protests of the ministerial association and we are of the opinion that it will be the last Sunday game to be played there.

Most of North Carolina cities have attempted in a way to have a closed Sunday and we are of the opinion that it will be a long time before legalized baseball is permitted in this state.

While not necessarily approving his attitude toward the laws of the land, Ye Paragapher is inclined to sympathize with Tom Seamon, of Cooleemee who went to a ball game and returned home to find that officers had used his own potato digger to turn up several gallons of liquor in the garden. -Greensboro News.

Two Convicts Surrender

Two convicts who escaped with eight others from a prison camp here Saturday were back in custody, led into the arms of police by their sisters' regard for law and order.

William Burns, 23, surrendered at Hickory and Grover King gave himself up here.

Burns said he surrendered because his mother and sister asked him to. Kinä walked into the camp near here with his father and two sisters and announced he had terminated his flight from justice.

Meanwhile, two guards who were on duty when the convicts cut a hole in their barracks and escaped, were dismissed. They are Charlie Godwin of Raleigh acting corporal of the guard when the escape was effected, and W. A. Sain, one of the two men on guard at the barracks.

An Appreciated Letter.

Mr. H. C. Meroney, who recently retired as a rural letter carrier, after being in the service for 30 years, received the following letter from the Postmaster General a few days ago:

OFFICE POSTMASTER GENERAL, Washington, D. C. July 22, 1932

Hilary C. Meroney, E. q., Rural Carrier, Mocksville, North Carolina. My Dear Mr. Meroney: Your long and creditable record in the postal service has been brought to my attention as you close your career as rural carrier at Mocksville, N. C., and retire with annuity as provided in Section 1 of the Act of May 29, 1930.

It is shown by the official record that you were appointed in 1906 and served 26 years, 3 months and 9 days. I congratulate you on the loyal and efficient service which you have given and which must afford you abundant satisfaction. In your future years I hope that happiness, contentment and well-being may attend you.

Very truly yours, WALTER F. BROWN. Mr. Meroney served as a substitute on Route 2, from July 2, 1902, until April 2, 1906, when he was appointed rural carrier on R. 5. Mr. Meroney is very proud of this nice letter from the head of the U. S. Postoffice Department.

CAUDELL, Chairman. MATT. TYSINGER, Sec.

Asheville Police Capture Convicts.

Asheville, July 20. - William Grant, 22, and Romy Williams, of Asheville, two of the 10 state convict camp prisoners who escaped Saturday night from a camp near Mocksville, were captured here today by members of the Sheriff's department.

Grant was taken in a cornfield on Jefferson Drive in the West End section. Williams was captured in a house on the lower end of Pearson Drive.

Grant when seen in his cell today by newspapermen, denied the men left the Mocksville camp in a truck. He said they left on foot. Grant said he separated from the others shortly after leaving. He denied he was a member of the gang who broke into a store at Hickory and stole some clothing. When asked when he got the clothes he was wearing, he said a negro gave them to him.

Both prisoners will be turned over to the state prison officials tomorrow. The two were sentenced from this county recently for larceny of automobiles, officers said.

Mr. T. L. Jones Passes.

Mr. T. L. Jones, 84, died at his home near Cornater Saturday morning, following a six months illness. Funeral services were conducted at the home Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock by his pastor, Rev. G. B. Ferree, and the body laid to rest in the family graveyard. Mr. Jones is survived by four children, viz: Mrs. W. S. Hendrix, of Mocksville; Mrs. John Mason, of Kannapolis; Miss Notie Jones and Mrs. Walter Jones, of near Cornater. Eighteen grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren survive. Mr. Jones was a member of Dulin's M. P. church. He was a Confederate Veteran, joining the army while living in South Carolina. He came to Davie shortly after the war, where he was made his home for more than 60 years. He was a good man and will be missed in his community.

Demand The Bonus.

The annual convention of the North Carolina American Legion held in Asheville last week voted to demand immediate payment of the bonus amounting to something over two billion dollars, by Uncle Sam. Bryce Beard, of Salisbury, was elected commander for the new term and Wilmington was selected as the meeting place of the Legion for 1933.

All persons interested in Smith Grove cemetery, are requested to meet here on Saturday, July 30th, and assist in cleaning off same.

with her mother, who has been very ill. She was accompanied home by little Misses Marjorie and Mildred Minter, who will spend some time here.

Mrs. Denny Angell and babe, of Kannapolis, received painful cuts and bruises Friday afternoon when their car turned over on Lisha Creek hill near town and threw them out.
The car was driven by Mr. Angell.
It is thought one of the wheels locked, causing the accident. Mr. Angell and Mrs. L. M. McClamroch, aged mother of Mr. C. L. McClamroch, escaped from the wreck unhurt. The car was damaged right much.

Stonestreet, of Landis, Harry Barringer, of Mt. Pleasant.

Severe Electric Storm.

One of the worst electric storms in years visited Mocksville about 11 o'clock Sunday night. A number of trees and wires were struck by lightning and the town remained in darkness during the remainder of the night. More than one inch of rain fell during the storm. Several people reported being shocked by lightning but no one was hurt.

Little Miss Frances Stonestreet is spending a while in Clemmons visiting relatives.

Miss Rebecca Binkley is spending the week in Thomasville N. C. visiting friends and relatives.

spent one day last week in Winston-Salem.

Wildcats Win.

The Maine Wildcats took an even game from the Smith Grove Red Caps by a score of 15 to 14. Ec Sain and McCulloh were on the mound for the winners while T. Hepler and J. Smith did the hit work for the losers. The game was tied most all the way through, but the Wildcats were just too much for the Red Caps.

Home Coming.

Children's Day and Home Coming at Concord Church, July 31st. Children's program begins at 10 o'clock. Sunday school

State of North Carolina

Department of State.

Certificate of Dissolution.

To All to Whom These Presents
May Come—Greeting:
Whereas, It appears to my satisfaction, by duly authenticated record of the proceedings for the voluntary dissolution thereof by the unanimous consent of all the stockholders, deposited in my office, that the Davie Supply Company, a corporation of this State, whose principal office is situated in the town of Mocksville,
County of Davie, State of North Carolina, (J. S. Daniel being the agent therein and in charge thereof, upon whom process may be served),
has complied with the requirements of Chapter 22, Consolidated Statutes, entitled "Corporations," preliminary to the issuing of this Certificate of Dissolution.

Now Therefore, I, J. A. Hartness,
Secretary of State of the State of North Carolina, do hereby certify that the said corporation did, on the 18th day of July, 1932, file in my office a duly executed and attested cor-sent in writing to the dissolution of said corporation, executed by all the stockholders thereof, which said consent and the record of the proceedings at said are now on file in my said office as provided by law.

In Testimony Whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed my official seal at Raleigh, this 18th day of July, A. D., 1932.
J. A. HARTNESS,
Secretary of State.

Davie Represented

Wake Forest, July 25.—Davie
County is represented at the Wake Forest College summer school by G. F. Harding and F. M. Stonestreet, both of Mocksville.

Wake Forest has a record-breaking enrollment with a 30 per cent increase in attendance over the past summer session. Director Daniel B.
Byan reported. There are representatives from 30 different counties, to states, China, Japan, Cuba and 87 North Carolina counties.

Dean Bryan attributes this phenomenal growth to a moratorium on some fees which students have been allowed to defer to suit their convenience.

Courses of instruction are offered which lead to all North Carolina teachers' certificates and the Bachelor's and Master's degrees. There is a total of 34 professors, and some 90 different courses.

Meeting at Society.

A series of meetings are being held at Society Baptist church, near County Line, this week. The pastor is being assisted by Rev. Earl Bradley of Spencer. Services are held at 10:30 a. m., and 8 p. m. The public is invited to attend all the services. Rev. W. L. McSwain is pastor present for the Sunday services.

Mrs. Sallie Spry Dies.

Mrs. Sallie Spry, 67, died at the home of her son, William Spry, at Smith Grove, early Sunday morning, death resulting from paralysis. Fur-eral services were held at Smith
Grove Methodist church Monday afternoon at two o'clock, conducted by her pastor, Rev. M. C. Ervin, and the body laid to rest in the church graveyard. Mrs. Spry is survived by two sons, William Spry, of Smith Grove, and Frank Spry, of Lexington. One sister, Mrs. Tom Call, of Mocksville, survives. Mrs. Spry was a good woman, and will be missed in her community.

Mrs. B. H. Boatner, of Columbus, Ga., and Mrs. E. E. Logan, of Lakeland, Fla., were week end guests of their mother, Mrs. G. E.
Horn, and sister, Mrs. A. M. Kim-brough.

The Second Democratic Primary.

It has been claimed over and over again that the primaries and elections in North Carolina were honest-conducted, the ballots counted as cast and not illegal absentee ballots voted. In the past it was the Republicans that suffered by these one-sided election officials but now the Democrats have got to cheating and defrauding each other.

An expose has already been made of the disgraceful conduct of election officials in Surry county in the first primary. Despite the protestation of the Mount Airy News that no wrong was committed the evidence shows otherwise and it would be well for the Democratic election officials in Surry to give the Republicans a fair deal in Surry in the general election or they might not get off as light as they did in the first round.

And then there is the buying of votes in addition to threats, coercion and intimidation. David Sink, Democrat associate editor of the Davidson Dispatch has the following to say about his own county: "Prices of votes ranged, I have heard tell, Saturday from a drink of caw to a dollar or so. Nothing like the general election prices." How is that for good old Davidson? And it was in a Democrat primary, too. No Republicans were running in the second primary.

And then there is the last race for Governor between Ehringhaus and Fountain. Many there are that believe that there was considerable "counting" going on for Ehringhaus and if all the votes that were intended for Fountain had been counted for the Rocky Mount man he would have beaten Ehringhaus, the Gardner heir to the succession. Take the 27th Senatorial district, the home county of Max Gardner which he once represented in the state Senate. In these five counties, Cleveland, Henderson, McDowell, Polk and Rutherford, Ehringhaus was given 14,961 votes and Fountain 4,925 an Ehringhaus majority of 10,035. Does any one believe that these people who never saw or heard of Ehringhaus until he was selected by the Gardner machine to run for Governor would have given an utter stranger such a lead? And then take the four counties of Burke, Catawba, Gaston and Lincoln immediately surrounding the Shelby area an Ehringhaus received 6,425 majority over Fountain giving the Gardner machine a total majority in these nine "Gardner" counties of 16,461 or 3,000 more than the majority he is supposed to have received in the entire state. And we venture the assertion that there are source of people in the mountain of McDowell, Burke, Rutherford, Henderson and Polk that did not know now that such a man as Ehringhaus ever existed and their children in the sixth grade at school could not spell the name if their lives depends on it. Mr. Ehringhaus can thank Max Gardner and his Cleveland machine for putting him over and the nine counties above named did the work. Why in Cleveland county there were 402 more votes in the Governor's box than there were making a second race for recorder. Can anyone explain this?

After the first primary Fountain charged fraud in the western Carolina counties which was replied to by Ehringhaus' manager as "a leaf from a Republican ledger" but it looks to a layman like there was some basis for the Fountain charge.

And it the eastern section of the state comes charges of fraud in the conducted of the Democratic primaries. It has already been noted in these columns of the fact of more ballots recorded as cast in Camden county than there were registered voters. In Craven county the greatest irregularities are charged and so many election officials were employed that the cost is declared excessive and the commissioners are kicking on paying the bill. It is charged that it cost the taxpayers of Craven county 30 cents for every vote that was cast.

In Balden county defeated candidates are charging irregularities. In one township 470 names appeared on the registration books while 380 votes were counted. U. S. Page, the defeated candidate for the senate by 61 votes had demanded a recount but one "cannot go behind the returns" according to this infernal election law on the statute books of North Carolina and Page is out of luck.

Sampson county is also having her troubles and Attorney General Brummitt after hearing the complaint has notified the Sampson county board of elections that they may order a recount of the ballots. It is said that ballots were thrown out in some instances by the wholesale being classed as "incorrect." And as the result some one got beat out of a nomination.

We again repeat that if the Democratic cheat and defraud each other as has been shown, was the case in their Democratic primary in several instances what may they Republicans expect in the general election when they are in a hopeless minority when it comes to holding election?—Union Republican.

The Democratic plank declares in its first sentence:

"We favor repeal of the 18th Amendment."

The Republican plank says—

"We believe that the people should have an opportunity to pass upon a proposed amendment, the provisions of which while retaining in the Federal Government power to preserve the gains already made in dealing with the evils inherent in the liquor traffic, shall allow states to deal with the problem as their citizens may determine, but subject always to the power of the Federal Government to protect those states where prohibition may exist and safeguard our citizens everywhere from the return of the saloon and attendant abuses."

The Democratic platform calls for the direct and immediate repeal of the 18th Amendment with no qualifying proposals by way of a substitute. The Republican platform declares: "We do not favor a submission limited to the issue of retention or repeal," and insists that in the event of repeal there shall be written into the Constitution as a substitute provisions protecting the dry states and effectually preventing the return of the saloon to any states, wet or dry.

The nearest approach to this safeguard against the saloon on the part of the Democrats is their statement: "We urge the enactment of such measures by the several states as will actually promote temperance, effectively prevent the return of the saloon and bring the liquor traffic into the open under complete supervision and control by the states."

Pending the repeal of the 18th Amendment, in case it may be repealed, the Republican plank declares the law must be enforced as it stands and pledges its nominees to that course.

The Democratic plank makes no demand for enforcement of the present law but frankly encourages its violation by declaring: "Pending repeal, we favor immediate modification of the Volstead Act to legalize the manufacture and sale of beer and other beverages of such alcoholic content as is permissible under the Constitution."

The Republican plank explicitly declares that "public official or member of the party should be pledged or forced to choose between his party affiliations and his honest convictions upon this question."

The Democratic plank, demanding the repeal of the amendment, makes the acceptance of that demand a test of the party loyalty of all its members. That is the construction that was put upon it with great emphasis by such leaders as Al Smith, Governor Ritchie and Senator Walsh in the debate that preceded the adoption of the platform. A Republican may still be a Republican in good standing whatever his views on the question of prohibition, because the platform does not make this question a party issue. A Democrat in order to be in good standing in his party must advocate the immediate and unconditional repeal of the 18th Amendment, and must support the proposal to modify the Volstead Act by permitting the manufacture, transportation and sale of beer and other alcoholic beverages.

Such, in substance, are the differences between the two liquor planks, so-called, in the platforms of the two great parties.

Nineteen steers on 14 acres of carpet grass and lespedeza pasture on the farm of E. E. Bell in Jones County made gains of 1,633 pounds from May 11 to June 8, a period of 28 days.

With the cooperation of Roland Baldwin of Tabor, approximately 300 high grade cows have been placed by the county farm agent in Columbus County during the past two years.

What Creates Payrolls. Wisconsin has been receiving considerable publicity through the newspapers on the political and taxation policies which it has established and which are evidently discouraging normal industrial growth in that state.

A lot of people seem to be awakening to the fact that it takes industries, investments and payrolls to create and maintain employment and that taxation and legislative policies, which discourage normal activity, strike directly at the dinner bucket brigade and the taxpayer's pocket-book.—Ex.

The Drift to Hoover. New York Herald-Tribune.

"The tide has been unmistakable. Chiefly his own achievements, his staunchness in every national crisis, the swift organization of defense against each attack upon the country's credit, his steady upholding of sound finance—all these have gained increasing hold upon the public imagination."

"His quiet courage has stood out strikingly against the confusion of his opponents in Congress. Each test has left him stronger, his critics weaker."

Too Much Land. There was once a man who came from an European country to the United States. He began working for a farmer in Oklahoma and worked for one year. At the end of the year he took as payment for the year's work 20 acres of very rocky land that was considered almost worthless by the people of that community.

Now this same man is declared to be one of America's best farmers. He still is the owner of the 20 acres of land and no more. He says that he made one mistake in his agricultural career—he bought 20 acres of land instead of 10.

The logic to be gained by this is that if a man treats a piece of God's land in the right manner that it will take care of him. Take care of the land and it will take care of you.

In Wilkes county farmers have some of the best foundation for farms that the Maker ever created. We have the soil and the climate and it is up to us to improve that which we have. There are great possibilities in a piece of ground. It can be made to pay dividends or it can be a liability because we have to pay tax on it.

No man makes a mistake by buying a piece of land if he intends to use it properly.—Wilkes Journal.
