The late Congress made liberal provisions to peg the price of the State's cotton this year and to make generous loans in order to stabilize the market at 12 cents and, at the Presidents's command, this action was taken by the law makers on the ground and with complete understanding that, In Exchange For This Federal Concession, The Cotton Farmers Would Be Compelled To Submit To Some Control Plan Later To Be Enacted.

Thus, we repeat, it may be that these North Carolina farmers were noved to swap the birth right of independent and self-determing action for this mess of government pottage offered to them in the form of an attractive subsidy on condition they would submit to this policical intervention and regulation.

Naming Of Black Hasty And Unwise.

The selection of Hugo L. Black for the high office of Supreme Court Justice was a hasty and unwise choice.

It was injudicious on the part of the President

Hugo L. Black had nothing to recommend him, even to the President, except that he was a personal servitor of the President, an office boy for the Administration.

If Black is a sample of the kind of men the President would appoint to the Supreme Court of these United States, then the American system of government, indeed, the Republic itself, has been saved by the band of patriotic Senators who rejected the President's plan to control that great tribunal, that powerful protector of the people's rights.

Yet the Senate itself is not without blame for the indorsement of Black.

The reason for that indorsement was entirely inadequate and in fact

Our National Bird.

AS VEGAS, NEV. — Those folks back East who're agitating to make the turkey our national bird are late. Benjamin Franklin had the same notion 150 years ago.

Old Ben pointed out that the eagle was a robber and a tyrant and was the emblem of various European monarchies, whereas the turkev was not only our largest and gamest wild bird, but a native of America. To be sure, young turkeys aren't so smart. They love to et their feet wet so they may die from Irvin S. Cobb

young turkeys have een known to jump down an artesian well 90 feet deep in order to get their feet wet. But the adult turkey is wise and wily, a noble spectacle in the woods and popular in a cooked state, owing to his mag-nificent bust development and his capacity for holding stuffing or insertion, and his superiority when worked over into turkey hash.

But if we are going to make a change in emblems, why not choose the worm—the humble, dumb, unresisting worm—as typical of most of the present populace? It could be a one-sided worm, too, which would save costs in modeling, because so many of us are the kinds of worms that never turn.

The Sucker Crop.

PARLIAMENT, next month, will pass statutes to curb stock market tricksters, fly-by-night brokers, and bucket shop operators who, it's estimated, are fleecing the British public to the tune of $25,000,000 annually.

We've tried it and it doesn't work. As Barnum stated, a sucker is born every minute - and sometimes twins. But the crooks who prey on the sucker crop, like the Dionne quintuplets, come along in batches. That breed spawn close to shore and the young all survive.

Thus is the rule of supply and demand balanced. In good times, there are just enough suckers to go around. In hard times, the suckers grow scarce, but, when one comes along, the crooks raffle him off and the winner takes all.

Anyhow, legislation won't save a sucker from himself—at least not in this country. He'll break through the law in order to prove he's a sucker in good standing in the suck ers' lodge. By the way, brother-member, how nany degrees have you taken?

Restrained Statements.

WAYFARER in Oklahoma, who claimed to have starved him-self for forty-one days, on being asked how he felt, replied that he felt sort of hungry. Investigation showed the stranger had been cheating now and then to the extent of a clandestine beef stew or a litigation which will carry their corminister, hurried from Geneva surreptitious stack of wheats, but wasn't it a magnificently restrained statement?

For underemphasis, I can think of but a single instance to match it. In my youth, we had a policeman in our town with a nervous manner ism of killing folks.

One night, I was passing Uncle Emery's saloon and snackstand for colored only. A group of subdued-looking customers fetched out the limp remains of a dark per son who had been bored thrice through the heart.

"Uncle Tom," I inquired of the roprietor, "isn't that Monkey proprietor,

"Sho' is suh."

"How did it happen?" I asked. "Well, suh," said Uncle Tom, "It seem like he musta antagonized Mr. Buck Evitts."

Smoked Glasses for Snakes.

ON THE way here, I attended this year's snake dance. The snake dance has become indeed a strange sight—for the snakes. It the tourists don't modify their wardrobes by next year, I expect to see the snakes wearing smoked glasses. Veteran snakes that have taker part during past seasons are showing signs of the strain. The bull snakes still hiss—as who could blame them?—but the rattlers no longer rattle freely, evidently fearing it might be mistaken for applause.

securities market generally have been undergoing a Bad Case of bad case of the Jitters jitters. It has been several years since those dealing in money and shares of stock have been so uncertain as to the future and this uncertainty obviously is the cause of the jitters among all people who dabble in the stock market, whether the dabbling be small or large, on margin or for cash.

It seems a proper time, there-fore, to examine the picture and try to see what lies beneath. And. let me hasten to say at the very outset that anyone who makes a posi-tive statement about the securities market these days must be either a fool or a superman—and thus far he supermen who have lived on this earth number only one.

But that fact does not destroy the value of an examination of a condition which exists as a fact. Indeed, I think a review of the various factors and influences at work now can provide a clarification of general conditions even though it may fail utterly to show why men and women act as they do with respect to stock market investments.

First, it should be said that Wall Street, as the term is commonly used, is not unanimous within itself. The violent fluctuation of market securities in the last several weeks might easily be said to be due to the war crises in Europe and in the Far East. Only, those fluctuetions are not traceable to war conditions. Rather, the war conditions are used by some individuals as an excuse—an alibi to themselves because they fail to fathom the various influences and factors now at

I said that Wall Street lacked unanimity within itself. That is true because within Wall Street there are all kinds of selfish groups operating. For example, an influence like inflation is highly pleasing to the brokers and dealers in shares while the same influence frightens bankers and likewise gives a sickening feeling to those who must buy raw products. Bankers and sound investors as well as tax payers generally would be quite happy to see the Federal Treasury's budget palanced because if that were don there would be a much greater sense of security, of safety for those investments.

A dozen other illustrations could be given to thus illustrate the point Black Case and show why Wall Street can-Involved not agree. They do not show, however, why there is so much uncertainty and why the bulls or the bears have been unable to adjust themselves to the future probabilities. The reasons, therefore, must lie deeper. It is possible that the appointment of Hugo Black of Alabama as an associate justice of the Supreme court of the United States has had more effect on the business world than any of us real ize. I have heard a number of corporation executives say that they porations before the court on which Mr. Black sits. If they entertained that fear before, undoubtedly the fear is deeper-seated and more widespread now that Mr. Justice Black has been publicly accused of holding a life membership in the Ku Klux Klan. Certainly the expose of the typhoon that is swirling around the head of the new associate justice cannot have any soothing ef-fect upon the minds of those business men who, as corporation exec utives, are trustees of vast sums of the people's money. Undoubtedly unless Mr. Black can prove that he is not affiliated with the Ku Kluz Klan, few litigants will feel safe before the Supreme court.

Then, there comes the resignation of James M. Landis as chairman of the securities and exchange commission which regulates operations of the great stock exchanges. Mr. Landis has been regarded as rather fair, rather just, in his dealings re lating to stock market operations. His retirement to return to a pro fessorship in Harvard, of course, opens up the question as to his suc-cessor. This is to say that most of the financial world is hoping and praying that the new chairman will not go off at a tangent; that he will avoid extreme radicalism and that ne will not blame the whole financial structure for the crookedness of a part of it.

Thus, it becomes easy to see how this minor factor may have weight with some individuals dealing in corporate shares and bonds. Wil-liam O. Douglas, a member of the commission, has been slated to become chairman but developments in recent weeks give considerable doubt over that result. Mr. Douglas is recorded as being a radical Bankers and investors in many parts of the country fear that if h is made chairman he will become not unlike the famous bull in a china cabinet. But, according to the undercurrent of gossip around Wash-

Washington.-Wall Street and the | ington Mr. Douglas has done some thing to offend Postmaster General Farley, and no man can draw an appointment as important as the chairmanship of a great commission without Mr. Farley's approval.

Aside from personalities, various chases of President Roosevelt's monetary policies continue to be disturbing and in addition to these there is the certainty that new taxes must be levied. That is, new taxes must be levied if we are ever going to balance the federal budget and begin paying off the gigantic national debt which now amounts to more than 38 billion. With a debt at the highest point our United States ever has known, a great many people, including bankers, have become fearful of what they might get for United States bonds that they now hold. It is obvious that this influence adds to the general uncertainty although it is difficult to measure the exact influence of this condition, or to see whether it is a major or a minor factor.

Having enumerated a few of the influences known to be at work, we come now to that Business condition which heretofore always Conditions has been basic. I refer to general business conditions New Deal press agents have tried valiantly to make it appear that ousiness is booming; that prosperity is here instead of around the corner; and that the country has noth-ing to fear. Careful examination of official figures, however, show the prosperity statements to be true only in parts. The official statistics very definitely how some lines of business are enjoying a volume of trade or production higher even than 1929. They show on the other hand a vast number of failures, an increasing number of big businesses which are barely getting by-which can continue providing their present volume of business is maintained. If the volume of business slips, however, that category of business is going into a tailspin as sure as the sun shines. If a part of the business of the country begins to sink—well, a part of it began to sink in August, 1929, and within two years the whole struc-ture had fallen like a house of cards.

I am not saying that we are confronted with another depression. I do say, however, that we are facing condition that is not at all satisfactory—a condition that can lead to a depression as easily as it can lead to sound prosperity in com-merce and industry.

Astute observers and business men in the larger centers decide their courses upon the outlook for the whole country, not for any particular line of business or any particular section. The number of in-dividuals who see the picture I have attempted to outline in the above paragraph is increasing. As that number increases obviously the wave of uncertainty expands

So, if one is compelled to make a guess why Wall Street is so concerned or so jittery, it would seem that the explanation must lie in the combination of circumstances. No one of them, except possibly the adcomplish as much doubt about the

Anyone talking with a hundred different individuals will hear these various factors and influences mer He will hear different weight given by each individual to each factor. . . .

Let us look at possible effects. It will be remem-Now, as bered how Presito Effects dent Hoover was blamed for the depression. He and the Republican party were punished on that ac-count and badly licked in the elections. It ought to be said in Mr. Hoover's behalf that the conditions which led to the depression had their beginning long before he was elected President. Indeed, they had their real beginning in the World

President Roosevelt came into office as a result. He started doing things and gaining the confidence of the country to such an extent that he was re-elected last year. Probably he was re-elected largely because of the bulk of the voters feeling he was restoring prosperity. I doubt, however, that Mr. Roose velt was any more responsible for the return of a superficial prosperity than Mr. Hoover was responsible for the depression. But we are coming to another election. If conditions should be come worse and business should de cline perceptibly again, Mr. Roose velt will be held responsible just a definitely as was Mr. Hoover. He will be charged with having made a mess of government and any at-tempt on his part to prove the condition was natural will be regarded as an alibi. The whole thing seems to be in the lap of the gods and no amount of political strategy or at tempts to amend the law of supply and demand will alter events.

Lesson for October 10 THE CHRISTIAN IN GOD'S KEEPING

LESSON TEXT—Jude 1-4, 17-25. GOLDEN TEXT—Keep yourselves in the love of God, looking for the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ unto eternal life.—Jude

PRIMARY TOPIC—Why David Sang.
JUNIOR TOPIC—In God's Keeping.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—
Safe in God's Keeping.

To be born is only to begin life. The years which stretch out before with their growth, their struggles, their joys, call for courageous living. So it is with the Christian. He is a "born one," as we saw in our lesson of last Sunday. But when he is born again he is just ready to begin the Christian life.

The Epistle of Jude sheds much light on the dangers which beset the Christian's pathway and exhorts him to holy living and sacrificial service. It opens with a description of the Christian and closes with an ascription of praise to God. It re-veals the Christian as one who is

II. Living for Christ (vv. 3, 4, 17-

As Jude began to write of the "salvation" which he had in mon" with his readers, the Holy Spirit moved him to deal with a very urgent and vital problem-the hostility of wicked men toward the gospel of Christ, and their efforts to destroy "the faith." The Christian life includes

1. Contending for the faith (vv. 3, i). "The Faith" is the body of re-4). vealed truth, the gospel, the good news of redemption in Jesus Christ. The world hates the gospel, and attacks upon it are to be expected, but the most insidious assault is that of those within the church (v. 4) who profess to believe in Christ. Against them and their destructive work Christians must "contend earnestly," at the same time praying that they may be delivered from their sin and its terrible judgment (vv. 15-16).

2. Observing the times in which they live (vv. 17-19). Some folk seem to think that being a Christian means entering into a place of se-curity and rest and promptly going sound asleep. Far from it. The Christian, knowing God's Word, is keenly alert to the dangers of this ungodly world.

3. Keeping their own souls (vv. 20.21). The best defense is a vigorous offense. The way to contend against error is to build up one's own faith by the study of God's Word, by communion with his children, but above all by prayer "in the Holy Ghost." And above all there will be an abiding in the love of God and a looking for the fulfillment of the mercy of Christ at his coming again.

4. Saving the souls of others (vv 22,23). Soul-winning is (or should be) the normal expression of the Christian's life. It is his crowning joy. It most effectively counteracts error and worldliness. It builds up the church. Why not do it?

Note that there are two types of sinners to be rescued. Some are "in doubt" (R. V.), needing tender and careful instruction. Others are in grave danger, and must be rescued by drastic reproof and decisive action. Soul-winning is urgent busi-III. Kept by Christ (vv. 24, 25).

The doxology at the close of Jude has been a haven of comfort and for God's children assurance throughout the centuries. have come the strong in faith to rejoice and praise God. Here has been found the strengthening of faith by the fearful and trembling soul who had not yet learned that he may fully trust God. These verses present two truths.

1. Assurance. Our Saviour is able to keep us from falling, yes, even from "stumbling" (R. V.), and to present us "faultless" "without blemish" (R. V.), with exceeding joy, before the glorious presence of God.

2. Worship. Such a God and Saviour is indeed worthy of the outgoing of every Christian heart in adoration and worship.

Plaids Outstanding in Fall Modes

plaid in her fall wardrobe simply is not "in it' when it comes to swank in dress. There's no doubt about it, sure to prove an inspiration to the colorful, youthful practical plaids fit into the campus, the office and the great outdoor scheme of things simply perfect. All sorts of plaids are on the au-tumn fabric list from high-tone dressy plaids of silk velvet and handsome wool weaves down to the most utilitarian, practical, washable types—the kind that go bicycling along dusty roads and then come out "fresh as a daisy" after each tubbing. Bicycling is a fad so important nowadays designers recognize they must create fashions tuned to the sport. The new sturdy washable plaids are proving most likable for outfits of this sort. The girl on the "bike" as shown in the group illus-trated is fashionably and sensibly frocked in a dependable completely shrunk washable plaid that gives this rider the look of being keenly style-minded.

The schoolgirl centered in the picture is likewise alertly fashion-conscious in that she also selects plaid for her voguish blouse, and it's safe to say she will be getting a lot of wear out of it besides enjoying that feeling of confidence it brings to be appropriately clad for brings to be appropriately clad for sure to prove an inspiration to the schoolgirl. It was shown at a recent fall style clinic held in the Merchandise Mart in Chicago.

Another way to subscribe to the plaid rage that is now featuring in every phase of fashion is to wear a true clan plaid skirt and necker-chief with your new fall sweater as shown to the right in the group.

Viewing the new fall fabrics one becomes fully convinced that plaids as a fashion "must" are definitely here. It is interesting to note that the more classic plaids are labeled each with its clan name. Also the many smart ways to wear plaids makes them all the more intriguing.

In enrolling as a plaid enthusiast we suggest that you line your jacket to match your plaid blouse, or wear a plaid dress matched to the lining of your coat, or top a pleated plaid skirt with a bright velveteen jacket, or enliven your fur coat or your fleece coat with a stunning plaid lining. They are showing in the stores daring coats in forest green; radiant autumn browns, and the very new deep sapphire blue with bold plaid linings in giddy contrast.

Plaid velvet dresses to wear unler fur coats is another outcome of the present craze for plaids. You can also find cunning jackets of plaid velveteen. Some are bolero versions with plaid belts to match. If it is just a touch of plaid you favor, buy a dozen or so of the new plaid composition buttons and let them go marching down the front of your dark velveteen dress or coat. You can get all sorts of plaid accessories. There are ensembles of beret, bag and belt. There are belt and triangle-scarf sets to be had in plaid.

FASHION STRESSES FABRIC ELEGANCE

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Fabrics play a most important part this year, and by their richness explain the apparent simplicity of the styles which are the greatest challenge to the dressmaker. Velvets, lames, brocades, laces, tulles are all in the picture.

Lace becomes a happy medium for day dresses, almost severe in their simplicity. These may be re-lieved by rich belts, patent trimmings, etc. Lighter laces in silk or rayon are combined with a colored fabric lining for day dresses or two tones used in combination as Worth has done. Lelong takes a heavy white wool lace for a hip-length top of a dress which ends in a simple black velvet skirt, with four rows of the velvet used at the side front from the high waistline to the hip. Patou offers rosepoint collars, cuff or bodice trim with severe dresses-but real rose point. Schiaparelli makes lace of gold cord for three huge medallions on the top-per of a two-piece effect black maroeffect, fantasy goes into the head-for Chic Daytime Costume At the height of the vogue for romantic fashions, mutinous murmurs are echoing from the ranks of style leaders who favor simple garents for wear before the sun goes down.

"Sobriety of the best quality" is the formula advanced by a leading French couturiere as the prime requisite of daytime chic.

"Wear tailored suits and little sweaters," she advises, "but have them fitted by a good tailor and made of the finest wool. See that accessory is equally first grade, for one inappropriate gadget can spoil the entire costume."

BE PENCIL-SLIM

This afternoon frock of purple silk jacquard was worn in a fashion preview for the silk parade held in York which presented outstanding advance fashions created by the foremost designers of the world. To be right up to the mark your new frock must feature the pencil-slim silhouette that fashion demands this season, such as this gown so correctly defines. The handsome firm silks of quality kind that are so characteristically a product of this season's looms have been found ideal for achieving the new pencil-slim styling.

Way Back When

By JEANNE

FORMER MAYOR WAS A SONG

THERE were twelve children in our family and it was necessary to have a pretty strict rule about being reasonably quiet in the house and at the dinner table. My father repeated so often, "Children are to be seen and not heard" or "Silence is golden" that just to think of those old adages brings back the echo of his voice. I can't agree with the principle of those sayings. Chil-dren who are encouraged to join in the conversation are likely to have more self-confidence and to be more social minded. In some cases, their very talkativeness may be golden. Take Jimmy Walker for instance:

James John Walker, who later be-came mayor of New York City and was one of the most popular men ever to hold that office, was born in New York's Greenwich Village in 1881. When still a very small boy, he was nick-named "Jimmy Talker" because he could not be quiet. His father was run-for alderman at one time, and Jimmy was sent to explain that he could not be present at a political rally because of illness. The crowd called for a speech from the young boy, and he did so well that his father was elected.

Jimmy Walker went to school in New York City, and studied law; but for a while it looked as though he might be a professional song writer instead of a lawyer or a politician. He wrote several songs which were published and made a national hit by composing "Will You Love Me in December As You Did in May?" None of his other songs enjoyed the popularity of this one, however, and Jimmy decided upon a more conventional career. He went to work as a clerk for the Union Surety Guarantee com-pany and with his earnings re-turned to law school. He established a fine law practice, and be-came more and more prominent in politics. In 1925, he was elected mayor of New York City and enjoyed more mass popularity than any mayor of recent times has

He was born in Dayton, Ohio, in 1871, the youngest of five children, and as they grew up Orville and one of his older brothers, Wilbur, became insenarable. He quit school in the third year of high school and, with Wilbur, started a weekly news-paper which lasted only three months. They then turned to job printing and later started a bicycle repair shop.

At about this time, they became interested in aviation and proceeded to construct the first heavier than air machine large enough to carry a man. As in their previous activities, Orville was the creative genius, Wilbur the perfecter. Their first successful flight was at Kitty Hawk, N. C., in 1903, and the success of aviation was assured when Orville made a flight lasting 62 min-utes and 15 seconds, in 1908. ©-WNU Service

SYNOPSIS

Brooke Reyburn visits the office of Jed Blewart, a lawyer, to discuss the terms of an estate she has inherited from Mrs. Mary Amanda Dane. Unwittingly she overhears Jed talking to Mark Trent, nephew of Mrs. Dane who has been disinherited. Mrs. Dane had lived at Lookout House, a huge structure by the sea, built by her father and divided into two, for her and Mark's father. Brooke had been a fashion expert, and Mrs. Dane, a "shut-in," hearing her on the radio, had invited her to call and developed a deep affection for her. Mark discloses that Mrs. Dane had threatened to disinherit him if he married Lola, from whom he is now divorced. He says he does not trust Henri and Clotilde Jacques, Mrs. Dane's servants. He says he is not interested in an offer of Brooke's to share the estate with him. Leaving her department store job. Brooke refuses an offer to "go stepping" with Jerry Field, a carefree young man who wants to marry her. At a family conference she learns she must live at Lookout House alone, since Lucette, her younger sister who is taking her job, her brother, Sam, a young playwright, and her mother plan to stay in the city. Jed and Mark are astounded when they hear from Mrs. Gregory, a family friend, that she had witnessed a hitherto unknown will with Henri and Clotilde two weeks before Mrs. Dane died. Brooke had arrived just as she was leaving. Jed suggests that Mark open his part of Lookout House, get friendly with Brooke and try to find out about the will. Jed agrees to stay with him. Mark accepts Brooke's invitation for a family Thanksgiving dinner at Lookout. Mrs. Reyburn announces on Thanksgiving dinner Brooke tells Mark that little of Mrs. Dane's silver collection is left. Jerry Field and his sister Daphne drop in and announge they will be neighbors for the winter. Later Inspector Harrison of the local police visits Mark and is informed about the missing will and silver. As Harrison leaves, Lola arrives. She announces that she and her new husband, Bert Hunt, have started a neighborhood filling station

CHAPTER VI—Continued -12-

"Jed stopped at your house for a minute, he'll be here pronto; the other actors—so-called—have gone home. I'll say I'm here early. After they'd walked through the first act, it was a choice between dismissing the cast or shooting them. I had a sane interval and decided not to shoot. I'm giving them tomorrow

"Then I'll throw a party for the Reyburns and Fields at that new Supper club just opened in town. Give them a let-up from the play. What say, maestro?"

"Okay with me. It's darned good of you. Perhaps I have overworked them, but there is so little time be-fore the performance." Sam sat up and ran his fingers through his hair. "With that so near, wouldn't you think those dumb-bells would know their parts? I ask you! Besides that, the leading man has walked out on us."

"It's tough. Can I help, Sam?" "Can you help! I'll say you can.
"Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their party.' Take the lead." He caught Trent's arm. "Be a good scout. Help a poor, distracted playwright-produc-er, will you? With you and the Crane woman in the leads, we'll make a two-star offering of it. That girl's good.' Sam's despair had changed to exultation. Mark Trent temporized:

"How do those bozos out in Hollywood know an actor will be a wow on the screen sometimes before they give him a try-out? Something here, m'lad, something here," Sam tapped his broad brow, "tells me you'll be stopping the show."

"That same something couldn't tell you where I'm to get the time for a theatrical career, could it? All right, all right," Mark conceded in response to Sam's groan, take the part. Give me the sides and I'll try to know the lines at the next rehearsal."

Sam caught Brooke as she entered the room. He hugged her as he

Jerry Field appeared at the door beating a huge spoon against a tin pan.
"First call for the dining car!

Sam held up his hand. "Just a minute! We're all invited to dine and dance tomorrow by the Mark Trent! Sam Reyburn announcing."

"You in the play, Mark?"

"How exciting!"
"Dinner and dance in the big city! What a break!"

Jerry Field interrupted the excited comments.

"I wasn't asking Brooke to punch the time-clock. I thought I might find the gardenias for her.—I"

He stopped as Jed Stewart ap-peared on the threshold. He was tapping a gardenia against his lips. 'Run to earth, Mark. Who's the charmer who leaves a flower outside your door?"

CHAPTER VII

An hour later Jed Stewart slumped deeper into a crimson-cushioned chair in Mark Trent's library and demanded:

"How was I to know that Field had brought Brooke the gardenias? Didn't he look like a meat-axe though, when I barged into Lookout House waving that flower and giving the whole show away by telling where I picked it up? I'm the original village cut-up, I am." He lighted his pipe.

"It wasn't all my fault. I didn't know, did I, Mark, that you and she been cruising round this

"You didn't. I hadn't told you then that I had discovered Aunt Mary Amanda's silver parked in a storeroom. Decided to wait till I had the goods on someone, but I couldn't resist the temptation to show it to Brooke. You should have seen her eyes when she saw it piled on that table."

He poked the fire till orange and scarlet flames, shot with pale

The sharp ring of the phone broke

"Trent speaking.—Lola! What do you want?—Not interested. If you like selling gas, sell it, only remember that the allowance stops.—Is she? Mrs. Gregory's word goes, here. You should have made sure of that before you set up shop.— What? What sort of paper?" Mark Trent looked at Jed Stewart who lips without making a sound. He nodded understanding. "I haven't rung off.—Yes, I heard what you said. I can't imagine how any pa-per you may have will interest me, but bring it here tomorrow at five. -Sure, I'll be alone.-Yes. Good-

Mark Trent cradled the telephone. He looked up at his friend.

"Lola has a 'paper' to sell me. She suggested that I have my checkbook in hand tomorrow. What do you make of it?"

"If it is the 'paper' Mrs. Gregory witnessed, how could she get hold

"Henri?" "She said he had written to her, didn't she? She's bringing it tomorrow afternoon! There's a catch in it somewhere. It sounds too easy. You don't think she'll back out at the last minute, do you, Mark?"

"Not if there is money in it. She said also that Mrs. Gregory was putting the filling-station out of business. It was started without a license. Started for the sole purpose of chiseling money off me, I sus-

"Right as usual. What say we call this an evening? I'm due in court in the morning in my best Gentlemen of the Jury style; furthermore, we'll need our brains runthermore, we'll need our brains run-ning wide open when Lola comes at five. She has a 'paper' to sell! Won't we feel cheap about our sus-picions of Brooke if it proves to be the 'paper' we're after?"

"I stopped suspecting her some time ago. Shall we go up? We are getting provincial. If we were in town we'd be just beginning to go places. Toddle along. I'll put out the lights." Mark banked the fire before he ran up the stairs. Jed Stewart yawned as he stood at his door. "In spite of the late excitement, I'm sleepy. Nightie-night, Mark. I'll drop our problem into what the psychologists call the deep mind. Perhaps it will float to the top in the morning all nicely solved." He was whistling softly as he closed his bedroom door.

Mark crossed his dark room to the window. What a night! The sky was powdered with stars. The sparks of gold were like the lights in Brooke Reyburn's eyes when she was happy or thrilled, and she had been thrilled when she had heard of his plan to dine and dance in town.

He drew the gardenia from his pocket. Nothing beautiful about it now but the leaves. He didn't need a paper which Lola Hunt might produce to clear his mind of suspicion that Brooke had influenced his aunt in any way. He drew the flash light from his coat pocket. Lucky he had thought of it when he had taken Brooke to see the silver. "Mark! Mark!"

Jed's voice? He laid the flower on the dresser before he opened the door. With the electric torch still in his hand he crossed the hall and knocked at Jed Stewart's door. He knocked again. Why didn't he answer? He flung open the door. A coat had been hung over the back of a chair. A shoe lay on the floor. Cold air was stirring the chintz hangings. Where did it come from?

The bath-room! Mark sprinted to the door and stopped in amazement. The window was wide open, but the air was strongly scented with perfume. The shower was dripping. Shaving materials were flung about as if hastily dropped.

He thrust his head out of the window. There were two ways to escape from the little balcony under it. Drop to the terrace, or through Lookout House. Had Jed and an in-truder crashed in there? Brooke would be frightened. He'd follow them. He swung his leg over the "Stop!" He went rigid in obedience to the hoarse warning, but only for an instant. Why was he perching like a dummy with the light from the room behind making him a perfect target for the person who had grunted? He moved his leg. No response to that from the balcony. Quickly he flashed his powerful light in the direction from which the sound had That would blind the peron watching.

Held up by a bird! He slid to the balcony. Reached for Mr. Micawbalcony. Reached for Mr. Micawber, grabbed him, flung him into the room behind him. He could hear the parrot squawking with fury as he closed the window.

"That seems to be that! Now, where's Jed?'' He peered over the railing. No uprights on this balcony to slide down. The next one had iron trellises which connected it with the stone terrace. Had Jed entered Lookout House by the window? Who occupied the room of the next house which opened on it? He would in vestigate.

He tiptoed to the window, reduced the light in his torch before he flashed it over the glass. The shade was closely drawn and the sash locked. No one could have gone in there. Cracks of light were visi-ble in the two rooms beyond where French windows opened on another balcony. Had Jed entered that lig ed room? How could he get there? He was too stout to swing across.

Could he himself do it? He appraised the distance, stepped over, and swung. Cautiously stepped over the rail and ripped his hands from the frosty

From purple tree shadow to purple tree shadow he skulked. Near the garage he hid behind shrubs. The click of a lock! He held his breath as he listened. Who had been in the Lookout House garage at this time of night? Whoever it was, was leaving. He could hear cautious footsteps. An automobile starting! He strained his ears. It was speeding down the street toward the causeway. That didn't prove anything, it would be easy enough to turn into a side road and sneaked from the house driving? Had he stolen the car? Even so, he couldn't follow it, he must find out why he had entered the garage.

HE Prisoner of Zenda" ■ threatens to become everybody's favorite picture. Girls love it because it is tenderly romantic, boys are crazy about it because it is a thrilling adventure story, and the old folks like the pomp and circumstance of the court scenes. Of course, the mere fact of Ronald Colman's presence is enough to bring crowds to the box offices. He plays a dual role and the only complaint is that Madeline Carroll does not play two parts too. She is probably the most utterly charming heroine of the yearany year.

Mr. Litvak, Miss Hopkins' new groom, has just finished directing Claudette Colbert in "Tonight's Our Night," at Warner Brothers'. one over there will ever forget him. In a scene that took place in a market he insisted on having real geese, turkeys, and chickens. The hot sun got in its deadly work and players had great difficulty going through their scenes without hold-ing their noses. Finally the studio had to replace the poultry every few hours, but all attempts to use papier mache ones failed. Mr. Lit-vak detected the imitations at once and refused to work until real ones were provided.

Claudette Colbert's good humor made a host of friends for her on the Warner lot and everyone is sorry that she was loaned to them for only one picture. One afternoon almost everyone's nerves were shattered by the many repetitions of a scene. While she was talking to Charles Boyer, a dog was supposed to come in carrying a shoe in its mouth. Over and over the scene was played, but the dog never came in at just the right moment. Finally Miss Colbert, serene and fresh as an April morning, suggested that the director let the dog play the scene with Boyer and she would come in on all fours carrying a shoe in her mouth!

Ever since James Cagney walked out of the Warner studio and went to work for Grand National where he is as happy as can be, there have been battles between the studio and their players. Now Joan Blondell is on strike. She thinks she has been working too hard and refuses to start on the new picture scheduled for her. Swank 'n' Sweet.

Young and inspired is the little two piecer that just stepped into the picture at the left. The topper is one that will set a vogue in this woman's town and make you the swankiest of the whole lot of Lafa-Lots. If you're asked to picnic in the colorful Autumn woods wear this number in henna-colored wool for real satisfaction and that perfect harmony that makes picnicking a picnic.

For Kitchen Capers.
And before you go, there'll be sandwiches to make, potatoes to peel, and lemons to squeezethat's where and when the gingham gown in the center comes in Of course, its novel yoke-andsleeve-in-one construction makes it a most attractive model to sew as well as to wear. The skirt has flare enough for cutting those kitchen capers one has to when minutes are few and work plentiful. Make this simple five-piece frock in two versions and be sure of everyday chic at minimum cost.

Style Success.

While we go picnicking and places, don't think Mommy isn't going to swing out in style, too. She's certain of success when she goes to her Club; she's sure of well-groomed elegance for Sunday best in the slenderizing frock at the right. It does wonders for the figure that needs it, and it is equally becoming to sizes 18 and 20. So, Mommy, no matter what your size or the color of your hair, enough in this frock to feel like the very essence of fashion.

How CARDUI Helps Women

Cardui is a purely vegetable medicine, found by many women to ease functional pains of menstruation. It also helps to strengthen women, who have been weakened by poor nourishment, by increasing their appetite and improving their digestion. Many have reported lasting benefit from the wholesome nutritional assistance obtained by taking Cardui. If you have never taken Cardui, get a bottle of Cardui at the nearest drug store, read the directions and try it.

Sentinels of Liberty.

It was Benjamin Franklin who said: "They that give up essen tial liberty to obtain a little temporary safety deserve neither safety nor liberty "

Senator Borah, in his nation wide radio address on the Constitution on the eve of Constitution Day, re echoed those thoughtful words of a man who helped to give us our great charter of liberty in the fol lowing sentences:

"The things to be done, it is argued, are so big, so vast, that they must be done by the Government ber of the immediate family. and the citizen must yield up al! discretion, all judgment, together with most of his ancient privileges and his personal liberty. If that is true, of course, we began wrong 150 years ago. If that is true, Washington and Jefferson were wrong and Mussolini and Hitler

A rationized security for our citi zens is a legitimate function of government. But when in back of that security there creeps the shadow of a liberty destroying regimentation, then it is better to lose that secur ity rather than to feel the deadly grip of Stalinism, Hitlerism or Mus solinism around our necks.

That we have still great Americans on the watch towers of our constitutional liberties is fully evidenced by the same warning utter ed 150 years apart by two such alert sentinels of fundamental Americanism as Benjamin Franklin and Senator Borah.-Washington Her-

The Way To Settle It.

The Monroe Journal suggests that the whole court controversy and the charge that Justice Black once belonged to the Ku Klux Klan ought to the United States? which can use it most effectively. be settled in the way that Union county church conference once settled the charge against a brother for making apple brandy. Way back yonder when the sons and daughters of temperance were very active and thinking that a Baptist deacon or a Presbyterian elder ought to be chured for making a little brandy, a good old brother was reported to the church conference on account of his conference assembled and the brother was asked if he had been selling apple brandy. All around him sat his neighbors and brethren in the church. The old brother was quite meek about it. He said, yes, it was true that he had let some persons have some branuv from time to time. He then called the names of several of those present and stated how much he had let each have 'And,'' said he in conclusion addressing the preacher who was in the chair, "you remember, brother mod erator, I let you have a gallon.' Whereupon a deep silence fell upon the conference and the moderator asked what should be done about the charge. ""I move we drap it," said one of the brethren, and that was the last of the case

The huge munitions plants in the Ruhr district were visited, and the throngs of workers, given a holiday with pay, cheered the two dictators heartily. Every city and village was decorated. In Berlin there were tremendous demonstrations and elaborate festivities in honor of the visitor from Rome.

Russia Warns Japan

TOKYO officially notified Berlin that the Chinese were plotting to attack the Russian embassy in Nanking with planes disguised as Japanese aircraft, for the purpose of involving the Soviet government in the Sino-Japanese conflict. With the equivalent of "Oh, yeah?", Russia retorted with a stern warning that it would hold Japan responsible for any hombing of the embassy, intenany bomoing of the embassy, inten-tional or accidental. The Soviet of-ficials said they considered the re-ported plot a "pure prevarication showing the intention of some Japanese military powers to bombard the Soviet embassy intentionally and then try to escape responsibility."

With callous brutality Japan continued the air raids on Nanking, Canton and other large Chinese cities, the bombs slaughtering thousands of helpless civilians. The utter contempt for protests of western nations shown by Japan seemed warranted by the failure to insist on respect for the nine-power treaty guaranteeing the territorial integrity of China. For this failure Gen eralissimo Chiang Kai-shek blames especially the United States. "This war," said he, "will last as long as Japanese aggression lasts

The League of Nations advisory committee adopted a resolution condemning the Japanese aircraft for bombarding open towns, though the British tried hard to avoid mentioning Japan by name.

Leland Harrison, the American observer without vote, sat silent throughout the acrimonious debate in the committee.

A Japanese submarine sank a fleet of Chinese fishing junks off the coast of southern China, killing 300 men, women and children.

If I remember correctly, I called it a vaudeville stunt, designed by the Treasury to save its face for having made bad guesses as to tax collec-The tax collections, as evreryone knows, were much below New Deal estimates and somebody had to be the goat. So, it was nat-ural to make rich men the goat by calling them tax evaders.

At the same time I reported to you the fact that there was a difference of opinion among Treasury subordinates. Some of them wanted to make a great show of names of individuals who had resorted to practices not prohibited by law in order to reduce their taxes.

I did not know at that time how serious the disagreement was within the Treasury. It has only lately come out into the open. As a result, two important Treasury officials have quit their jobs and have gone back to private life. I refer to Morrison Shafroth and Russell I. Ryan, chief counsel and assistant chief counsel, respectively, of the bureau of internal revenue. These two men know more about tax evaders and tax avoiders than anybody else in the Treasury but they had one grievous fault. They wanted to be honest about the whole situation. That was a fault because being honest did not make possible a flamboyant display of hatred for taxpayers who had employed legitimate means to pay as little tax as the law permitted.

As far as I can ascertain, Messrs Shafroth and Ryan wanted to co-operate fully with the higherups in the Treasury in so far as a tax investigation by a joint congressional committee would point the way for improvement of the law. They knew, as many others know, that the internal revenue laws have holes in them. The smart lawyers and smart taxpavers naturally have taken advantage of these holes in the law because they are human despite the fact they are rich. So, the chief counsel and his assistant proposed to Secretary Morgenthau and Treasury General Counsel Her-man Oliphant that the investigation be made along lines of a scientific character, that close study be given to some of the methods that had been employed to avoid taxes. In other words, Shafroth and Ryan were anxious to develop legislation on the basis of the experiences which they had had and loopholes they had found to be in common use. But their fault was honesty, as government officials would not be denied the vaudeville perform ance and the columns upon columns of publicity which Mr. Morgenthau and Mr. Oliphant, not to mention President Roosevelt, desired to see.

I stayed through all of the hear-names presented to the comp liars ever seen. But they wouldn't had contributed to the Democratic stay that way; they'd rise right up and start looking for Easterners to national campaign fund a year ago. Another instance of official action that seems to indicate a bad trend in govern-ment lately has occurred. This in-Indicates Bad Trend cident was propagated by the federal power commis-sion, one of the numerous federal agencies that is supposed to be largely judicial in character but which is equipped at the same time with administrative powers.

The facts are these: There was a group of men who served as directors of the Associated Gas and Electric company. These same individuals were directors for numerous corporations that are subsidiaries of that same com-

The federal power act provides that the commission may require directors of one power company to divest themselves of connection with any other power companiesone of the strongest features of the law. The commission is empowered to make its own investigation of these interlocked directorates and then on its own motion may require such directors to appear and give the commission satisfactory rea why they are holding places on the boards of more than one corporation. This also is a sound provision of law and undoubtedly works to the benefit of all consumers of light and power.

Before I proceed further, let it be definitely understood that I have not a great deal of respect for the Associated Gas and Electric company. Its record does not warrant my respect as an observer. Undoubtedly, however, its manage-ment complies with the terms of its corporate charter but as a great public utility it has obligations to the public beyond the terms of its charter and it is my opinion that the moral obligations are such that this age demands full observation of

This brings us to the crux of the power commission action. Late in September Vice Chairman Seavey group of directors referred to above to show cause why they should not be compelled to relinquish various positions on other boards of directors. A hearing date was set. few days before the hearing date the directors in question resigned the positions to which the commission objected and then their attorney issued a statement which said in effect, that they had resigned because they were convicted in the minds of the commission before the commissioners had heard the case. He used rather strong language perhaps too strong in expressing his

Upon publication of the attorney's statement, Vice Chairman Seavey promptly ordered him to appear before the commission to give his reasons for the statement and to defend himself against disbarment from practice as a lawyer before the commission. Now, lest I be midunderstood, I do not know the attorney, Mr. Pax son: I know nothing about the merits of the case in question. But it is significant that an agency of the government suddenly decides that it can prevent a man from earning his living because he criticized members of that agency.

Occasionally, situations develop in national politics that provide a real laugh. One of them is now at hand. It results Big Laugh from the nasty controversy that swirls around the head of Hugo Black of Alabama. newly appointed associate justice of the Supreme court, who is charged with being a member of the Ku Klux Klan.

Terrible as is the charge and worse if it eventuates that Mr. Justice Black still is subject to the oath of the invisible empire, there is humor in the way a lot of senators and other government officials are running to cover. It has been almost a scramble among Democratic senators to let the public know by issuing statements that they would not have voted for Senator Black's confirmation as a member of the court if they had known he was a klansman. It makes one laugh again when one recalls how carefully the majority of the Democrats in the senate refused to hear evidence or hold any sort of a hearing concerning Mr. Black's qualifications. They did this by voting down a motion for hearings.

It is not pleasant to contemplate how the senate so many times passes on judicial appointments with the carefree abandon of a boy on his way home from school.

Somewhat apprehensive Peggy Co-Ed stepped off the train at Baton Rouge, wondering what college days held in store for her.

And at night we find her twirling about the gymnasium floor in arms of her linen-suited date, at a student "hop." This is the life!

more startling is the development of this quiet fourteen-yearold as an actress. She plays comedy, farce or tragedy with the deft assurance of a veteran. BEAUTY ON OCEAN'S BED

A Coral Garden in the South Pacific,

Sea Gardens of the Tropics Are Replete With Lovely Growths

Prepared by National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNU Service. S ONE sails over the coral reefs in the Tropics in a glass-bottomed boat and gazes down at the sea gardens, the coral castles of the reef-builders are seen to be adorned and surrounded by thickets of waving sea growths that to the uninitiated appear to be a plant vegetation of varied hue and graceful form. These are the gorgonians and, far from being plants, are in reality animal structures. Like the corals, they are colonies of polyps, but instead of building limestone habitations they have specialized in horn, or chitin, as a building material.

Descending to the ocean bottom to examine the gorgonians, you see that the fernlike plumes, the flat, lacy fronds of the sea fans, and the club-shaped branches of the sea bushes are alive with close-set ranks of tiny expanded polyps, tinted green, yellow, pink, or white. Myriads of starlike forms extend radiating arms around open mouths, hungrily sweeping in their invisible prey. The delicate, transparent columns, which are their bodies, rise from pitlike openings perforat-ing the branches of their common dwelling places. There is no ob-vious sign of activity.

Yet beneath the outer crust their bodies unite in a network which permeates the entire structure, and the microscopic cells of their tissues are ceaselessly engaged in laying down and cementing the central core of flexible and tough horn which supports the entire community.

Beautiful Patterns and Colors. Surrounding this inner skeleton, the polyps have set in a mosaic of interlocking needles of lime of most delicate workmanship and minute size, the whole forming an investment of rich color.

Yonder rises the reddish-purple, double-edged gorgonian, its two- or three-sided branches bordered with long lines of white polyps standing in single file like soldiers. If you remove a small colony of this species from its anchorage among the coral heads and carry it with you up the ladder to the boat, you can place a portion of one branch in a dish of sea water under a microscope. In a short time the polyps expand and through the magnifying power of your lenses you can see what they are really like.

At the tip of the branch several polyps are fully open. Each translucent silvery creature erects itself full length and spreads a circlet of eight tentacles, edged with tiny toothlike projections. This number of tentacles, with their ornamentation, is characteristic of gorgonian polyps, as distinguished from their cousins, the corals. The central, circular mouth leads down to the hollow interior of the creature.

The gorgonians of the West Indian waters are closely related to the famous precious coral, which oc-curs in the Mediterranean and the Sea of Japan, but is entirely lacking in American coral reefs. This species, so important in the jewelry trade, grows in small branching clusters on the sea bottom. In life the coral structure is covered with a brittle outer crust of soft reddish color, from which the delicate white polyps protrude. They are quite similar to other gorgonian polyps.

Precious Coral Is Inner Core. If the crust is removed, together with two other concentric whitish layers, the hard inner core is uncovered. This is the part that becomes the precious coral of com-merce. It varies in color from a brilliant scarlet, in some specimens, to a delicate rosy pink, or even white, in others. It is capable of taking a high polish and, as everyone knows, may be carved into beads or other ornaments.

The relative value of the different checked decaderate when the fostion ent shades depends upon the fashion of the time. A number of years ago the deep scarlet was in favor, to be supplanted later by the rose-colored coral in popular esteem.

While reef-forming corals and gorgonians are confined to tropical waters and to comparatively shallow seas, not exceeding 20 to 25 fathoms in depth, other species, which are solitary in habit, or that form small colonies, grow in deep seas, and in a few instances in more northern shallow waters.

The beautiful astrangia is found along the New England coast, encrusting rocks where the tide flows freely, in patches about the size of one's hand. Its delicate rosy tints remind one of the terrestrial arbutus. Again, those first cousins of the corals, the sea anemones, adorn tide pools and wharf piles with their colorful beauty along the entire Atlantic and Pacific coasts, while in the tropics their brilliant hues add to the glories of the coral reefs themselves.

These lowly creatures, together with other lime-forming organisms associated with them, have filled a most important place in determining the geographical and geological features of the globe. Their mas-sive reefs penetrate the surface of the tropic seas and must be recorded carefully on hydrographic charts for the safety of navigators.

Vast Effects of Tiny Creatures. Their islands dot the southern oceans, many of them the abode of men. Their huge submarine deposits, elevated by geologic changes of past ages, have been important factors in determining the outline and surface features of continents and have entered into the structure of mountain ranges. They have furished building stones for houses and marble for statuary.

Their disintegrated substance has fertilized fields and grown crops, finally washing down to the seas, be worked over again by the biquitous polyps for future ages.

Many diverse species of coral composing a reef form structures, ever growing higher and higher, crowding and becoming entangled with each other in thickets of grotesque and weird beauty. The soft colors of their outer surface run through varied hues of rose, pink, orange, tan, yellow, green, blue and purple—all the colors of the spectrum. These colors are partly due to pigments in the living tissues, which invest the surface of the coral limestone skeleton, and partly to another interesting phenomenon.

Microscopic marine plants, or al gae, live in the inner tissues of the translucent polyp wall. Each indi-vidual is a disk-shaped single cell, amber yellow in color. They multiply by millions, often completely filling the cells of the endodermal layer.

Since they are plants they use the polyp in which they live, and in the sence of sunlight transform it into food for themselves, giving forth oxygen in the process. The latter gas, so essential for animal existence, is utilized in turn by the polyp in its vital processes. Hence there is maintained a partnership between the plant and the animal of equal importance to both.

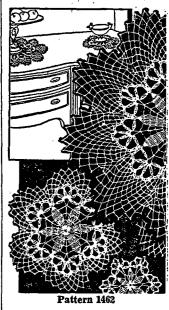

Gets Strong Colors From Algae.

If the coral colony happens to be located in strong sunlight, the algae multiply with great rapidity, giving the polyp's tissues a deep golden hue. This fact accounts for the rich tans and saffrons of the great elkhorn corals that form the extensive treelike growths in the Andros is-If the coral is growing in a submarine nook where the sunlight is weak, the algae are relatively few and the coral tissues are seen in their original pigmented color. For example, the brain coral is naturally green, due to the color of its pigment, and that is the way it ap-pears in deeper waters and shaded localities; but in moderately illu-minated areas the microscopic plant partners are more numerous along the summits of the sinuous ridges of the coral, producing a yellow color in contrast with the green in the winding valleys between them. Fi-nally, brain corals located in the brilliant sunshine of the shallows on the top of the reef are so completely impregnated with algae as to appear a deep chocolate brown.

Doilies Offer Thrifty Way to Set Table

A perfectly appointed table is the dream of every woman's heart. With the simplest of crochet you can make this dream come true. This set of doilies, in four sizes, does the trick. There are a 6, 12 and 17-inch size suitable for luncheon and buffet sets as well as doilies while the largest, a 22-inch doily, is just the thing for in-between cloth on many a table. Use string or mercerized cotton—they'll stand long usage and be decorative too. Pattern 1462 contains directions for making the doilies shown; illustrations of them and of all stitches used; material requirements.

A Three Days' Cough

A Ihree Days' Cough Is Your Danger Signal

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel the germ-laden phlegm. Even if other remedies have failed, flon't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained from the very first bottle. Creomulsion is one word—not two, and it has no hyphen in it. Ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

LET'S KEEP HISTORY STRAIGHT

We read an article in a local paper a few days ago, telling how many papers should be published in the county, and which paper the people should support and take. It is not up to The Record to say how many newspapers should be published in Davie County, or who a big frost doesn't arrive soon. should take them, or which paper they should support. Just to keep history straight we are printing the following facts:

The first newspaper ever publish ed in Davie County was The Davie Times, which was organized in 1878, with Blount & Mooring, publishers and E W. Mooring editor. This paper was printed and the outfit was sold about 35 years ago and moved to another The Davie Record was established in the spring of 1899, by E. H. Morris, who was editor and owner until 1907, when the present editor and owner moved here and took it over. A new paper, The Mocksville Courier was established after The Times suspended, and was edited and owned by Col. W K. Clement This paper finally went out of business, and the Mocksville Herald was established. It changed hands several times. and finally, in the fall of 1916. a man by the name of M. L. Misenheimer came here and started the Mocksville Enterprise This paper, desk, bearing date of April 5, 1917 Volumn 1, No. 28 which shows that The Enterprise is now 21 years old. Since the present editor and owner of The Davie Record came here in 1907, the Courier, The Herald and The Enterprise, all combined, have changed hands 14 times, if we haven't lost count. The Record is the oldest newpaper in Davie County, with The Cooleemee Journal coming next, it being established 31 years ago. The Record has changed hands but once in its long life of 38 years.

It is true that Davie county is well-blessed with newspapers There are four papers printed in the county now, with a new one starting up in the near future. The Record is the only Republican paper in the county preciate the support the people of Davie, and surrounding counties and states, both business and professional, farmers, laborers, rich and poor, regardless of race, color or previous condition of servitude, have given us. We shall strive to continue to merit that support It is none of our business who runs a newspaper in Davie county, not how many papers shall be printed in the county. Misery loves com-pany, so we will welcome any other fellow who comes along and wants to start a newspaper in Davie.

This Month We Gelebrate Our 25th

Anniversary

A Quarter Century Of Merchandise Service To The People Of This Section

Twenty-five years ago, Belk Bros. of Charlotte bought out the bankrupt stock of the W. H. Allison Co., of Statesville, then located in a store next to the Merchants & Farmers bank and in a page advertisement in The Landmark heralded the opening of a new business and a sensational new merchandising policy. Belk's, the headlines declared in bold type, would "Sell It For Less," and for these 25 years Belk's has been known as "The Home of Better Values."

Age in itself may be no virtue; but age in a growing business concern is proof of service well rendered; proof of sound merchandising policy; proof of pleased customers who not only return to buy more, but recommend to others a store that gives satisfaction.

Twenty-five years ago we started in a modest way. Year after year our business grew, necessitating several moves and expansions, until today we carry the largest stock of department store merchandise in Iredell County, the largest stock of new Fall and Winter merchandise ever presented under one roof in this section.

We want our friends throughout this and adjoining counties to help us celebrate our Anniversary. Throughout the month of October we will feature special values. Watch our ads from day to day! Read the inside pages of this section. We will make it worth your while to attend our 25th Anniversary Jubilee!

He crept to a window and peered in. Dark as pitch except for a white blur. That must be the cover of Aunt Mary Amanda's old limou-sine. Why was the unused car di-rectly opposite the door? He re-membered now. Jed had told him that he had o. k.'d an offer Henri Jacques had reported for the out-ofdate machine. Probably the butler had planned to drive it off in the morning.

The man who had just made his get-away had stopped here. Why? Had he hidden loot? The silver? But the silver had been in the storeroom only a few hours ago. A few hours! Much could happen in a few hours while the occupants of the Other House had been at supper at the Reyburns'. He'd better investi-gate. Lucky he still carried the key to his aunt's garage on his ring. In the days when they had been friendly, she had insisted upon his having a key to the house as well. Soundlessly he slid back the door, squeezed in, closed and locked

With the light in his torch dimmed, he tiptoed carefully between the automobiles. Brooke's long, sleek town car. Sam's convertible coupe. The white cloth cover of the old limousine was awry as if it had been hastily adjusted Part of it lay on the floor. What was that mark? A footprint! A footprint faint but bloody!

With a childish impulse to clutch their coats and keep the men with her, Brooke Reyburn had listened to the closing of the door behind Mark Trent and Jed Stewart. They had pleaded an early morning start for the city, but she was sure that they had gone because they resented Jerry Field's sulky silence. She would have been glad to get away from his gloomy presence herself. She glanced at him as he stood before the fire. From the back of the house came the crash of dishes, a shout of laughter.

Brooke sprang to her feet. "I wonder what went then. I suspect that Lucette and Sam started rough-housing and that Daphne was drawn into the scuffle. I should have known better than to let them wash the dishes. Come on, Jerry. Let's investigate. I'd rather know the worst at once.'

Field straightened and thrust his hands hard into his pockets.

"Same here, Brooke. I want to know what you were doing in Mark Trent's house while we were at re-

"Why should you think I had been in his house?"
"Didn't Stewart find a gardenia outside his front door?" "So what? I suppose there couldn't be another woman in the world who might call on Mr. Trent wearing a flower, or did you corner the gardenia market today. Jerry?' Field's expression changed from gloom to cheer.

'There's something in that. Trent certainly is a wow with the ladies.

I hear that he could dine out three times an evening if he'd accept the invitations heaped on him. It gets me why he settled down in this burg. Don't be sore at me, sweet Wasn't it natural for me to think the flower yours when Stewart produced the gardenia that he found at Trent's front door when you weren't wearing any?" Before she could answer she heard

She drew a breath of relief as Sam and the two girls entered.
"What smashed in the kitchen Sam? I thought the chimney had "Nothing but a stack of those war ranted unbreakable plates Clotilde keeps things on in the ice-box. And did they crack up? The floor looked as if there'd been a snowstorm."

"The sound brought Henri down the back stairs in a hurry. Ever seen him in his robe de nuit,

'What a giggler you are, Lucette! Of course I haven't.

"You've missed the laugh of your life. He was something straight out of a Cruikshank edition of Dickens. Night cap with tassel: night shirt. I believe it was called back in the dark ages; thin bow legs, and flapping slippers "
"Was he embarrassed?"

"He was not. He behaved more as if he were afraid we'd miss the appeal of his costume. He ran around like this." She trotted across the floor. Lucette frowned at Field, "Can't you smile for the lady, Jerry? I'll tell you one thing. I'd rather be a giggler than a gob of gloom. Goodnight!" She dashed from the room.

Daphne ran into the hall. "Lucette, don't forget that Mark Trent is giving us a party tomorrow night at that swell new Supper Lucette hung over the mahogany rail. "Forget! Not a chance. Think I'll forget a night off from rehearsing? Nothing short of an act of God will keep me away. Sam, the old tyrant, is giving us a break. I'll be seeing you."

Jerry Field picked up his sister's

"Come on, Daph, let's go. If I'd known that we were to have a night off, I would have taken you dining and dancing, Brooke."
"Nice of you, but I think that a party will be heaps more fun."
"You would think that. I don't know why but this whole evening

has gone haywire. Come on, Daph.' Daphne Field snuggled her hand in Sam Reyburn's.

"Good-night, Sammy. Don't love me much, do you, darling?" Sam shook off her hand. "I'll love you when you learn your lines, and what's more, if you don't learn 'em, you'll be tossed off the lot."

"You mean that I'll be fired?" Daphne opened her eyes at their widest. "I, fired, after I've had gowns made to wear that will simoly stop the show? Come on, Jerry. Nobody likes us here."

From the threshold she threw a

He grinned.

"Sam, do you like Daphne?" asked Brooke. "She's good fun. Swell looker, isn't she?"

In the room she had made her boudoir, Brooke slipped out of the lace frock. If only she could shed with it the haunting sense of having said the wrong thing. She had been bitterly unkind when she had re-minded Mark Trent of his divorce. If she could apologize to him and get it off her mind, it would help. Well, she couldn't. Perhaps if she wore the hair shirt of remorse for while, it would teach her to guard her tongue.

In a heavily embroidered Chinese house-coat of vivid green, she pulled orward the chair at her desk and began writing a letter to her moth-glass, the silver-shot hanging between bedroom and boudoir filled and swung like the sail of a boat. What had set it in motion? Had a window been opened? She was too far from the bell to ring. Suppose she rang? Who would answer? Henri and Clotilde were locked in their room probably. What should she do? She stared at the mirror. low could a pers the balcony under the bath-room window? That meant that he had come through Mark Trent's house Was it the black-gloved man who had been in the attic this evening?

She swallowed her heart. She move. How still the room was! The silence of fear enveloped her like a cold mist and turned her fingertips to ice. Perhaps she was in a night-mare and could waken herself.

Glorious thought. She'd scream. Her mouth remained open as hatless man in blue denim slipped past the swaying hanging. His head vas wet and sleek as a seal's: his face below his eyes-bad eyes so thickly plastered with white as to be unrecognizable. He gave one furtive glance over his shoulder before he flitted in ghostly silence from the room. Brooke pulled out the drawer of her desk. It crashed to the floor spilling the contents. Maddening! It would do that when she was in a hurry. On her knees she scrambled after an electric torch which had rolled under a chair. She dashed to the hall. Who was the man? What was the stuff on his face? She'd never forget those wicked eyes above a smear of white. The house was dark and still. She ran toward Sam's room. Stopped. Better not start him on a man hunt. He was so impetuous. How did she that the intruder hadn't a She must go Scotland Yard herself. The hall clock told the hour. The sound echoed through the house. Only twelve? It seemed hours since she had said good-night to Sam in the living-room, and years since Mark Trent and Jed Stewart had gone home. She tiptoed to the balustrade and listened. A squeak! She put her hand hard over her heart to stop its thump-ing. Was a window being opened cautiously? If only the wind would stop for a minute.

Had the squeak come from the next room which was being used for

She tiptoed into the room and closed the door softly behind her. This must be the window that had squeaked; it was wide open. It had been closed this afternoon when she had come in to scatter green paint on the flats and to give another splash of red to the peak of roof on the backdrop.

She flashed her light around the room then on the floor over which a sheet had been spread. A can of red paint had been overturned! It was sluggishly spreading.

Tipped over recently! Slowly Brooke's light traveled. A red footprint! Uncannily like a bloody one. The man must have stepped into the thick paint. Another! One be-yond that under the window. Cau-tiously, she followed the trail. A smooch of red on the window sill. He had gone that way. Was he on the balcony? What would she see if she looked out? She must look out. She wouldn't close her eyes tonight unless she knew that the man had gone-where, she wouldn't care, if he were gone.

She leaned out cautiously. There was nothing human in sight, only a one-eyed moon was watching through a maze of branches. Cold winter moonlight turned a towering hemlock to purple, shadows to amethyst, and scattered a shimmering trail of golden topaz on the dark water of the harbor. Had one of the shadows moved down by the

It had. That meant that the man was out of the house! She cautiously closed and locked the window. Pulled the hangings across it. That was that! She curtained the other window, turned to switch on the wall light. Stopped. The door was opening! A glare of light. Had the man come back? Had he a pal? Had her heart parked in her throat forever? She couldn't see, but she could still hear:

"Well, for the love of Mike!" The wall light snapped on.

Brooke's blood, which she had thought frozen, surged through her veins. Sam was staring at her, Sam in pink and white pajamas which made him look for all the world like an animated stick of striped candy. His copper colored hair was on end; without his spectacles his eyes were big and dark and vague. He shook her arm.

"Hey! Snap out of it, Brooke! Have you got that darn scenery so on your mind that you're walking in your sleep to sling paint in here?" Brooke swallowed the lump in

"I wasn't asleep, Sam, and I wasn't slinging paint. I heard something." Her voice sounded hoarse to herself.

"A window being opened? That's what I heard. But how could you get here so soon?"

Breathlessly she told him of the man who had slipped through her room, of following him into the hall.
"You're kidding! No? Then why didn't you yell for me?"

"You're so reckless, Sam, I was afraid you might be hurt." "That's the funniest thing I ever heard. How about yourself? Beat it back to bed. Sam the boy sleuth is hot on the trail." "You mustn't go downstairs."

"Who says I mustn't. I'll sno around outside to be sure the guy has gone. Beat it." "If you go down, I go too." "Oh all right, all right. I know better than to argue with you when you use that tone, Brooke. Got a flash? We'll creep down the back stairs. Follow me. We'll get into the front of the house that way.' He switched out the wall light, opened the door and stood motionless, listening.

"Let's go!" Brooke nodded in response to his whisper. The hall seemed miles long as she tiptoed through the dark; the back stairs endless in number as she stole down, stopping at every creak, holding her breath at every sound which echoed as if amplified in the walls.

Sam stopped at the kitchen door to listen. Crept on to the front hall. Brooke controlled an hysterical urge to laugh as she stole after him. "The Reyburns go sleuthing," she thought, and chuckled.

She felt Sam's quick turn and glare, though she couldn't see it. The turn was catastrophic. He lurched into a chair. His muttered, 'Thunder!'' was submerged in a

CHAPTER VIII

The dusk about Mark in the garage went black. A bloody foot print! Had the crime horror spread to this small point of land? Brooke had anything happened to her? The possibility stopped his heart. He had been so intent upon finding Jed, upon identifying the prowler that he had not thought of danger to the occupants of Lookout House. Sam was there. Nothing could happer to his sister with that boy near Why was he letting his imagination loose? Would a man who stopper for a shave and a bath in the mids house-entering be guilty of bloody crime? Lesson for October 17 CHRISTIAN SPEECH AND CONDUCT

LESSON TEXT—James, Chapter 3.
GOLDEN TEXT—Let no corrupt communication proceed out of your mouth.—
Ephesians 4:29.
PRIMARY TOPIC—The Words I Say.
JUNIOR TOPIC—A Bridle on the Tongue.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—
Christian, Sacch. Christian Speech.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—
Christian Words and Works.

Christian speech and conduct may well be studied in the book of James, for he stresses the importance of works as demonstrating faith. There are two common erone is to attempt to be justified by good works apart from faith in the Lord Jesus Christ-the other is to talk about believing in him and then fail to live in accordance with one's profession. Some have assumed that James fell into the former error, urging works as a substitute for faith, but an intelligent reading of his epistle clearly indicates that he is in no sense contradicting the Scripture doctrine of justification by faith, but is showing that professed faith which does not result in Christian living is in reality a dead and useless thing.

I. Christian Talk (vv. 1-12). As he enters upon his searching and convicting discussion of the tongue and its misuse the writer dis-tinguishes between

1. Two kinds of talkers (vv. 1, 2). a. "Teachers" (v I.) who have a peculiar responsibility because they stand as the representatives of God at the sacred desk. It is not a place to be sought after, and the man who fills it at God's call needs divine grace and direction that he may speak the truth.

b. "We all" (v. 2). The speech of every one of us counts either for or against God, even though we may not fill the teacher's chair or stand in the pulpit. 2. A single danger (vv. 3-12). All of us have the one danger—lack of "tongue-control." Developing that thought the text first points out that a. Powerful things need control (vv. 3-5). The horse is a wild and useless animal without the directing and restraining bit. A ship without a rudder will be lost. A tongue needs direction and control, for while a little thing, it is tremendously powerful. b. An uncontrolled tongue is dangerous (vv. 6-8). How vivid is the imagery of the words before us. A fire spreading and destroying, an untamed animal running wild in all its fury, a deadly poison eating away the life-such is the uncontrolled tongue. We recognize the truth of these things. We see how vile and careless speech debases man, how words chosen for their power to destroy pour forth from the press, over the footlights, from man to man and literally "set on fire the course of nature" (v. 6).

c. An uncontrolled tongue is inconsistent (vv. 9-12). Again the figure is striking. The fountain which pours forth fresh pure water to sustain life does not at the same time bring forth the bitter brackish water. Fig trees do not bear olives, vines do not bear figs. Nature is consistent and dependable.

But the tongue—ah, that is an-other matter! How sadly do we confess our failure, for here do we "offend all" (v. 2). We bless God, and defile and destroy man, with the same lips. "These things ought not so to be" (v. 10).

II. Christian Walk (vv. 13-18). The word "conversation" in v. 13 is an English word which now means "talk" but which formerly meant "manner of living."

1. Words and works must agree

(vv. 13,14). It is only right that those who speak of following Christ should prove it in their manner of living. Talk may be smooth and living. Talk may be smooth and broad in its claims, but the demon-stration of its reality and honesty is in the daily walk. This calls for wisdom which is divine—earthly wisdom will not suffice.

2. Earthly wisdom is false (vv. 15,16). There is a wisdom apart from God. Men of the world are brilliant and able, but scrutinize their wisdom and you will find that it is "sensual"—that is, of the senses—or natural as distinguished from spiritual. All too often it is downright "devilish" (v. 16).

3. True wisdom is from above (vv. 17,18). Undefiled, unselfish, uncom promising, but not quarrelsome or stubborn, impartial and sincere— and "full of mercy and good fruits" —such is God's wisdom for the Christian's life.

Strength Unto Strength The strength of a man consists ir finding out the way in which Go is going, and going in that way too Henry Ward Beecher.

Physical and Spiritual Growth We develop physically by acquiring for ourselves; but spiritually w develop by giving to others.—Ru ledge.

Opportunities A wise man will make more o portunities than he finds.—Bacon.

WHEN you have those awful cramps; when your nerves are all on edge—don't take it out on the man you love.

Your husband can't possibly know how you feel for the simple reason that he is a man.

A three-quarter wife may be no wife at all if the negs hes hushand seven days out of every month.

For three-generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus is seening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for metaerhood. 3. Appreaching "middle age."

Don't be a three-quarter wife, take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and Go "Smiling Through."

He dropped to his knees and touched it. Sticky! He flashed his light on it. Sniffed. Turpentine? He sank down on his heels and choked back a shout of laughter. He had been fooled by red paint. How had it come here? What was that dark heap hevend it? Over-that dark heap beyond it? Over-alls! Blue denim overalls still warm from the wearer's body. The driver of the car he had heard a few moments ago must have shed them before he left the garage. Why had he worn them?

Mark projected and rejected explanations with lightning speed. The man who had shinnied from the balcony had come from the room where the scenery was being paint-ed. Wasn't the roof of the cottage on the backdrop red? Why the shower? Why the shave? Was it he who had removed the key from the door of the storeroom tonight? But that man had disappeared via the con-necting door, presumably into Lookout House.

He flashed a dim light over the white cover. More red! A clumsy X. "Make X on cover when--"

The words on the scrap of paper in the storeroom were explained. "X marks the spot where the body was found."

The sentence flashed into Mark's mind as if set in electric lights. Body! Jed was missing! Perhaps his body had been dumped inside the

He set his heel on the thought. He would imagine a horror like that. That infernal cross probably meant nothing, but he'd take a look-see so that he wouldn't ask himself later, "Why didn't I?"

Soundlessly he reached the other side of the limousine. The disarranged cover which left the door arranged cover which left the door exposed revealed also a license plate. All set to go! He flashed his light inside. Something long, some-thing rounded on the rear seat was covered with an automobile robe.

Dread paralyzed Mark's hand for what seemed to him hours: then with a muttered imprecation he thrust it under the robe. The silver! Nothing but the silver! That X on the white cover was a sign that it had been moved from his house. Who had moved it? That was easy. It had been removed while he and Jed had been at the Reyburns by the man who had driven away. Sure of plenty of time he had stopped for a shower and shave. Moving the loot to the ga-rage had been his share of the job. Would a pal appear to drive the stuff off?

"He will, and here he is!" Mark muttered, as the frosty gravel out-side the garage crunched faintly.

A key in the lock! Not a minute to waste. Where should he go? In-side Brooke's town car! The breaks were with him. It wasn't locked.

The garage door was sliding back. Mark saw a patch of sky. He banged his forehead as he plunged headfirst into the sedan, and saw's million stars. His head spun as he crouched in the space left by the turned back seat and drew the door shut without latching it. He held it in place as barely breathing he listened. Footsteps on the cement floor Cautious footsteps. A light on the ceiling! Suppose it should flash into the town car? It had stopped. Whoever it was, was taking his time. An engine turning over! Was some darn fool starting a car with the garage door closed? Mark raised his head turtle-fashion. No, the door was open. He might have known it. Was it likely that the bandit would allow himself to be bumped off by carbon monoxide? Not that bad boy. He had too much at stake. He must follow. How? He couldn't trail in another car. He would be heard. Could he hang on to the empty trunk-rack? That was an He would follow the limousine out of the garage, slip into the shadow of a shrub when the man went back to close the door, then grab the trunk-rack when the car started again. A stunt, but he'd make a stab at it. If he were to hold the man now he would learn nothing of his destination.

He cautiously tiptoed after the limousine. He was safe behind the shrubs when the driver returned and noiselessly closed the garage door. A soft hat was drawn low over his eyes, but Mark knew him.

Henri. He was behind the wheel again! The limousine was coasting down the incline! Mark crouched as he ran after it. As the engine started he drew himself carefully to the trunk-rack. He barely breathed. Had the driver felt a jar? Evidently not. He was increasing speed. He was not headed for the causeway. He was going in the opposite direction. What did that mean?

After spinning past old landmarks, the car slowed down and stopped. Mark saw the white cottage. The filling-station. He must not be seen here. Surely the driver would make contact with someone inside before he left the limousine Henri stepped out of the car. He stopped as if to make sure he was not observed. Mark slipped off the trunk-rack. He was cramped and stiff. He hobbled rather than walked into a deep purple shadow cast by a pine. He could see the cottage. He held his breath as Henri gently turned the knob of the front door and entered. What would he do next? Come back to the limousine? What a chance to grab him.

What was he doing inside the house? He was taking his time. The door was opening again! Mark hardly breathed. A man slipped out. His hat was pulled down over his eyes. He slunk along in the shadows. Reached the shore road. Ran on the dried grass which bor-dered it as if pursued by furies.

Had that been Henri? Had he delivered his message? Had he been warned to beat it? Couldn't have been a fight inside. No loud voices. Had the limousine with the silver been left for someone else to drive

Someone else! What a break! What a break! He would drive it back and park it in his garage—no, that wouldn't do, he would leave it with Mike Cassidy. Mike was as dependable as the sun.

He stole from the shadow of the With every faint scrunch of his feet on the frosty ground his blood stopped running. Could he reach the limousine before someone came? Only a few feet more. He was behind the wheel. With a hand stiff from cold he touched the self-trate. starter. Hang it! Wouldn't you know the motor would back-fire! A light! In the front dormer! He had wak-ened someone! He hadn't a moment

With his ears strained to detect pursuit, with his eyes roaming from side to side, Mark shot the car ahead. He went in an opposite direction from that taken by Henri if the man who had burned up the road making his getaway from the white cottage had been Henri—he wouldn't run the chance of overtaking him. It seemed years before he reached Mike Cassidy's garage at the entrance to the causeway, hours before he could rouse the man, before he partially opened the door.

"Let me in quick, Mike," he whis-pered to the blinking, cursing pro-prietor, who was gripping something that gleamed dark and blue and ugly in a hairy, ham-bone fist.
"It's only you, Mr. Mark! Thought it might be a hold-up."

Cassidy's lower jaw swung like a gate on loose hinges. He slipped the automatic into his pocket before he rolled back the garage door. "Where can I hide this?"

Cassidy pointed. Not until the limousine was stowed behind a motley collection of broken-down cars did Mark Trent explain. "I've just rescued the family silver, Mike. The yarn I have to tell will beat any of the thrillers you get over the radio. Not afraid to keep the car here, are you?' Cassidy's red-rimmed eyes grew moist. He wiped his nose on a shabby coat sleeve.

"I ain't afraid to do nothing for you, Mr. Mark. You an' your family give me my start; sometimes you've kept me goin' when I didn't know where the next meal was com-in' from. I felt mean when I let my Maggie go to work for Mrs. Hunt who treated you so bad, but we needed the money somethin' terri ble, so she took the job, though it was at that new fillin' station that's tryin' to put me out of business.

A telephone rang. The two men stared at one another. Mark's blood turned to ice. Cassidy whispered "Holy mackerel! Who's callin this time of night? Have they traced you and the silver this quick? Perhaps there's a gang after you!"

Mark nodded toward the telephone. "Answer!" His muscles tensed as he listened.

"Cassidy's garage—You, Maggie! What t'h'll—Stop blubberin'—What! Who?—I can't hear, you're cryin' so — Something terrible? — Never mind, never mind. I'll call police headquarters—You've got to stathere, girl, till I get Bill Harrison If anyone comes, don't talk. Don't talk!—Sure, I'll come, just as soon

"Mike! What's happened?" Cassidy's face was ashen as he shook Mark's hand from his arm.

"Wait!" He dialled. He spoke into the transmitter.

"Don't move! I've got you covered!" In obedience to the hoarse warning, Sam and Brooke Reyburn stood as if turned to stone in the dark hall of Lookout House.

Lights flared. Brooke stared incredulously. Was that Jed Stewart with his hand on the switch glaring at them with wide dilated eyes, with his mouth open as if he had just swallowed a salt wave? That was a flashlight he was pointing at them, not a pistol. It was Jed Stewart without his coat, with his black bow tie under one ear, with only one shoe on.
"For the love of Mike, Jed Stewart, perhaps you'll tell me why you're holding us up in our own house? Why this Public Enemy No. 1 touch?" Sam demanded.

Stewart blinked.
"What are you two doing wandering round this house half dressed at this time of night?"

"Stop shouting, Jed. You'll have Lucette down here," Sam said. "Come into the living room and tell us what you're doing in this house,

"Let's go to the kitchen instead, more likely to stabilize our emo-tions," Brooke suggested. "I'll make cocoa and we'll scramble eggs. Jed must need food after the late ex-excitement — he's fairly twitching with it—and I feel hollow to my toes. Come on, Sam."
"Sounds okay to me. I'm a grow-and get a couple of bathrobes. Take these, Jed." He kicked off his slip-pers. "I'll put on shoes upstairs." Sam followed her into the kitchen.

"Sam can be speedy when he wants to be." she admitted, as her brother entered with a lurid bathobe over his pajamas and another all red and green stripes which he flung at Stewart.

Brooke slipped off the apron and vaited until Sam had served steaming hot cocoa with a little melting white island floating in each cup and helped himself lavishly to scrambled eggs and bacon, before, with elbows on the porcelain table, chin on her clasped hands, she suggest-

"Now that the shock of discover ing us roaming round in our own house has somewhat worn off, perhaps you'll tell us how you got in and why, Jed?"

Stewart leaned back in his chair with the air of a man whose appetite has been abundantly satisfied. (TO BE CONTINUED)

Snakes Have Quick Tongues Garter snakes are among the commonest of our native reptiles. The quick, darting forked red tongue gathers many insects for food, which together with frogs, toads, salamanders and worms, forms its principal diet. It is perectly harmless and of great economic value. It hibernates below the frost line in soft mud or sand and emerges in early spring after being awakened by warming suns.

STAR DUST

Movie · Radio Ā★★By VIRGINIA VALE★★★

A N ANNIVERSARY celebra-tion that meant much to motion-picture and radio folk, took place a short time ago at Loew's State, one of the few remaining vaudeville houses in New York. On its sixteenth birthday, players who got their start or revived their careers there sent telegrams and encouraged the manager to keep vaudeville alive.

Among the many famous names who graduated from this theater are the radio pets Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy, Martha Raye, James Cagney, Walter Huston who played a dramatic sketch fifteen years ago, and Joe E. Brown, who was one of a team of acro-bats who called themselves artists.

Screen stars too numerous to mention have played personal appear-ances there, and it was during an engagement of Buddy Rogers and his band that his romance with Mary Pickford first became widely Tex Ritter's musical Westerns made for Grand National are becoming so popular he is looming up as a real rival for Gene Autrey, who is currently the screen's num-ber one attraction. No drug store cowboy is Tex Ritter-he really comes from Texas, and every so often he bolts from his stage, screen, and radio successes to go back to ranching. The first time he was lured away from ranching, it was for a role in "Green Grow the Lilacs," the Theater guild play Lilacs," the Theater guild play which also launched a young actor by the name of Franchot Tone. The next time he came East to appear at the Madison Square rodeo, the radio moguls grabbed him.

Gordon Miller, who threatens to become a matinee idol, reached pictures by the hitch-hike route. He is slated for the very important role opposite Deanna Durbin in her next picture, "Mad About Music." He hitch-hiked from his home in Flint, Michigan, to New Orleans, where he went to the Plantation night club and offered to sing for his supper. He sang himself into a steady job. Universal picture's talent scouts heard him and signed him up.

The same men who picked Tyrone Power and Don Ameche out of obscurity and guided them to film fame think that they have a new matinee idol in the person of Dick Baldwin, whom you will see in the Ritz Brothers' new picture, "Life Be-gins at College." Baldwin was just about to leave Hollywood, discouraged over his failure to get parts, when he was called to the Twen tieth Century-Fox studios for a test. A day later he was given a contract.

Eleanor Holm Jarrott, the beautiful swimming star, who has be thrilling the customers at the Great Lakes Exposition since early sum mer, is going to be Tarzan's mate in motion pictures this winter. She will play opposite Glen Morris, world decathlon champion. Eleanor was in pictures for a short time two years ago.

Barbara Stanwyck surprised even her closest friends when she got on a boat headed for the Panama canal and the Pacific coast instead of one going to London where Robert Taylor is. She said she has no idea when she and Bob will meet again. It has been raining so continuously in England that door scenes of his picture have been Stanwyck delayed and his almost-daily cablegrams sound pretty blue over the prospect of a long ab-sence from Hollywood. She won't go over to see him, though, partly be-cause she is all signed up to make lot of pictures in Hollywood.

ODDS AND ENDS—May Robson, who is playing Aunt Polly in "The Adventures of Tom Sawyer," celebrated her fifty-fourth anniversary as an actress recently at the David Selznick studios . . . Katherine Hepburn in "Bringing Up Baby"... If Hollywood moguls really want to lure Irene Rich away from radio and back to the screen, she says that they will let her play a giddy siren. She won't play any more neglected wives ... So strenuous is the dance that Eleanore Whitney will do in Paramount's "Thrill of a Lifetime," doctors have prescribed a six-week health routine that includes five meals a day and ten hours' sleep a night as preparation. as preparation.

Black Joined Klan; Quit

"I DID join the Ku Klux Klan. I later resigned. I never reioined."

Thus Hugo L. Black, now Associate Justice Black of the Supreme court, admitted to an immense radio audience that the charges against him were true.

Black asserted that since he quit the Klan he has had nothing whatever to do with it.

He cited his record in the senate and in private life to back up his assertion that he was entirely free from religious or race prejudices. While he apparently repudiated the principles of the Klan, he did not explain why, on receiving a life pass card after his election to the senate, he said to a gathering of

"I realize that I was elected by men who believe in the principles that I have sought to advocate and which are the principles of this organization."

Black emphatically declared his devotion to the principles of the Constitution and the Bill of Rights, and said that he was of "that group of liberal senators who have consistently fought for the civil, economic and religious rights of all Americans, without regard to race or creed." Some of his best friends, he added, were Catholics and Jews, and members of the colored race.

At the outset of his address Black undertook to turn the tables on his accusers by asserting that the "campaign" to discredit him "fans the flames of prejudice and is calculated to create racial and re-ligious prejudice."

"When this statement is ended," he concluded, "my discussion of the question is closed."

There was a definite note of defiance in Black's address, but it is fair to assume that the American public was not satisfied with his explanation. From all parts of the came renewed protests against his presence on the Supreme court bench, and various large associations "resoluted" about it. Many of the senators who voted to cor firm his appointment because they accepted the assertion of his friends that he was not a Kluxer are resentful at the deception practiced them-but what can they do about it now?

President Roosevelt, up to the time of writing, had maintained si-lence. One of his aides explained that the President decided some time ago that there was no course of action open to him in the Black

When Justice Black took his seat. the chamber of the Supreme court crowded to capacity. Albert Levitt, an attorney, was on hand to ask permission to file a suit seeking to force Justice Black to show cause why he should not be declared ineligible to sit. The court deferred action on the request. Another mo-tion to the same effect was filed by Patrick H. Kelly, a Boston lawyer.

Special Session

ON HIS way from the West President Roosevelt made a speech at Grand Forks, N. D., in which he declared his intention of continuing his fight to "reform" the Supreme court. He also announced attempts to pass crop control and labor legislation would be made at a special session of congress which probably will be called about November 15.

Rail Strike Averted

THERE will not be a nationwide strike of railway workers. Such a disaster was averted when the five operating railroad brotherhoods accepted an offer of the companies of a flat raise of 44 cents a day. They and the fifteen "non-operating" unions had demanded a 20 per cent wage increase. The latter al-ready had agreed to a raise of 40 think they may make their tempo-rary home at "Wakefield manor," near Front Royal, Va., possibly arcents a day.

Thinks about

Minding Your Business. SANTA MONICA, CALIF.—A society is forming in England for the defense of the former Edward VIII, now the duke of Windsor and honorary citizen of all places in this country named for the Simpson family.

This society does not hope to restore the duke to the throne. That would not only anof Canterbury, he al-ready having things to annoy him, such as Americans, but would seriously up-set Mr. Stanley Baldwin, who upsets so easily that it seems strange the British never have thought of calling him Reversible Stan.

Irvin S. Cobb

Besides, the throne would be quite crowded if the duke tried to snuggle in there along with the present occupants.

What some of us over here thinkand that goes for many Canadians, too-is that England has a crying need for a society dedicated to the broad general principle of minding its own business and suffering the duke and his wife to mind theirs We have a rough idea that both of them can better endure long-distance snubs than officious meddling in their private affairs. Just being an ex-king is a hard enough jobeven if you can get it to do.

Political Afterthoughts.

M ASTER ROLLO, aged seven, and city raised, was visiting relatives in the country. On his first morning he came in wearing a worried cast of countenance.
"Mother," he said, "I've been out under the mulberry trees.

"Mother, do mulberries have hard backs and six legs and crawl around on the ground?

"Why, certainly not."
"Then, Mother," said Rollo in stricken tones, "I feel I have made a dreadful mistake."

What's the point? Oh nothing, only I got to imagining what the brood-ing regrets of some members of the administration and a majority of the members of the senate must be when they recall the alacrity with which they moved to fill a certain recent vacancy in a certain very high court-in fact, the highest one we've got.

Hirsute Virility.

PARISIAN boulevardiers believe a dense arboreal effect of whiskers is proof that the wearer is indeed a man, without, in all cases, being absolutely convincing about it.

We haven't gone that far yet, but I would like to know whence comes this notion of appraising masculine vigor by the amount of hair along the breast-bone? Morbid, I calls it.

Two distinguished authors battle when one intimates the other is scantily adorned in that regard, forgetting that, in the immature summer peltage of his kind, an author has but a scanty growth as com-pared with the richer winter coat. And then prying reporters ask the new glamor prince of the movies whether he has any fleece at all upon his chest, their tone indicating they rather expected to find trailing arbutus there, or at least some shy

Miss America-1937.

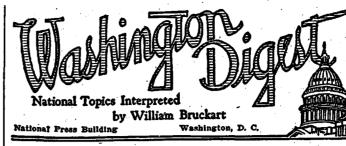

A T LAST some rational excuse— in moral values, anyhow—has been found for a so-called national beauty contest. The seventeen-year-old New Jer sey girl chosen as "Miss America of 1937" is not going into vaudeville is not going to make any personal appearances, is not coming to Holly wood for a screen test, is not going to accept a radio contract, is no even going to write her life story for publication. Washington.—It may be, as I have frequently been told, that the average person—Mr John Q. Public— -Mr. Federal Reserve has very little interest in the dongs of the federal reserve system. It may be true that the average citizen accepts the federal reserv banks as a thing apart and of little or no concern to him because they are so far removed and, further because they indulge in what the demagogues used to call "high fi-

Whether my information is cor-rect and regardless of the public concept of the federal reserve sys tem, I am devoting some space this week to a discussion of certain de-velopments in the federal reserve banking structure in an attempt to show the trend of money conditions in this country at the moment.

Lately, the federal reserve board of governors announced a revision of its regulations governing dis counts and advances by federal reserve banks. Now, it may be said that these regulations affect only the banks that are members of the re-serve system. That is true but it is not the whole truth because everything that the federal reserve board of governors and the federal reserve banks do affects you and me and everyone else whether we are little fellows and, therefore, un important individually, or whether we are trustees of great sums of money such as is the case with corporation presidents.

The board of governors, in the revision of its regulations, has made it possible—if not obligatory for the reserve banks to take almost any kind of paper that is an evidence of debt. That is, the reserve banks are now empowered to receive from the member banks that paper upon which you and I borrow, any paper that shows that a citizen owes the bank money, and to give that bank money in exchange for the evidence of that debt.

Everyone, of course, is familiar with a note or a mortgage on a piece of real estate. Most people understand about installment paper which is simply a note providing for payment of the amount due over a period of months. But there are many other kinds of evidence of debt that is in frequent use among business men from the smallest storekeeper in a rural village to the greatest banker in the world. Under the regulations now operative in the federal reserve system there seems to be almost no paper which the local banker cannot send to the federal reserve bank and receive cash in exchange. Of course, that obligation must be paid off some time and the arrangement simply permits the federal reserve banks to carry the debt until its maturity.

All of this obviously sounds as though the federal reserve system is at last to be helpful to us little fellows. That is true. It is going to be helpful in increasing the number of us little fellows who get our selves in debt. It is going to do that because it makes getting into debt easier. I think no one should object to the reserve board regulations in all details. There must be credit given where credit is needed; that is to where credit is needed; that is to say when you prohibit borrowing money you choke off eighty-five per cent of all of the business done in the United States. Yet, credit is dangerous, a double-edged sword and must be handled with extreme caution by the borrowers as well as by the lenders. As we have seen from the inglorious debacle of 1929. there can be too much credit extended, and when I say that, I refer not only to loans by banks but the sale of goods, wares and merchan-dise that enter into everyday life. And, going a bit further on that line, there can be too much cred-it extended by the manufacturer and jobber to retail merchandising establishments just as easily as there can be too much credit tended by the retail merchants to you or to me. One can get into debt over his head just as easily by purchasing at retail or wholesale as by buying more land than we can afford to own or a home larger than we need.

So, a discussion of what the board of governors of the federal reserve system has done can lead in this instance only to a conclusion that danger flags are waving.

I do not want to exaggerate present conditions or signs as I see them.

This is no time to Don't Get become excited. There are, how-ever, boundaries Excited beyond which we cannot go in the matter of credit without facing anthat is the thing I fear may result from an accumulation of federal policies of which the late action by the federal reserve board is only

It is perfectly human and natural for each one of us to aspire to better things, to have more of this world's goods for our enjoyment and to equip ourselves by way of greater resources for the future. We will do those things sometimes when we ought not to do them simply because the instruments are available and we do not stop to count the ultimate cost. To the extent, then, that the federal reserve board probably has made borrowing easier it has tempted a certain percentage of citizens, or will tempt them in the future. The condition of easier debt that is now presented is, as I have said, only one of many temptations and in-ducements for getting into debt that has been offered by the Roosevelt policies. It is unnecessary to re-count here how many pieces of legislation, how many executive and administrative rules have been made to permit citizens to use money that is not their own. They are almost numberless. The result has been, is, and will continue to be the creation of a lot of debt that will hang over us all for years to come.

The federal government itself has taken the lead in getting into debt. The latest Treasury statement shows that the United States government owes more than thirty-seven billion dollars. That amounts to $281.63 for every man, woman and child in the United States. Compare that with the national debt as of 1932 when it stood at $19,500,000,000 or a debt of $155.93 for every living person in the United States.

I do not know when, if ever, this gigantic national debt will be paid off. I think prob-Pay Off ably the American people with tradi-tional tenacity will Sometime stick by the job and get it done some time, but I must refer to the job as a very slow process. It required twelve years after the World war debt reached its peak of twenty-six billion to reduce it by ten millions That reduction was more rapid than had ever been known before in any nation and it was made possible because of the prosperity which we enjoyed during those twelve years.

It would seem, therefore, that we must consider not only a slowing down of individual debt making, but a sharp curtailment of national debt making as well. If we do not, a vawning cavern of unsounded depths awaits us.

Some weeks ago Mr. Roosevelt sent instructions to the various agencies of the government to save ten per cent out of the operations for the current fiscal year to help in balancing the budget. There were no ifs, nor ands, nor buts about President Roosevelt's instructions The spending agencies were told simply to lay aside that ten per cent which, in the aggregate, would amount to around four hundred million dollars. The President said during a speech at the great Columbia river dam the other day that he hoped to balance the budget in the next fiscal year. Most other people hope that the President's hope is realized because Mr. Roosevelt has stated several times that the budget will be balanced "next year" and some of us are beginning to wonder whether his budget balancing state ments are not like the statements which President Hoover made at the beginning of the depression He said, you will remember, a number of times that "prosperity is just around the corner," that still seems to be next year.

But Mr. Roosevelt must be com-mended and criticized at the same time for his budg-Budget et balancing ideas Mind you, no criti-Balancing cism can possibly be attached to the objective—a balanced budget. But commendation must give way to criticism on some of the things that are happening under the flat order for a reduction in spending.

Take this case for example: The National Park service, like other agencies, laid away ten per cent of its operations. This impounding of money happened to coincide with the greatest flock of visitors ever to enter the gates of the country's national play grounds. It costs money to police and protect the parks; it requires funds to provide for the comfort of the throngs of visitors to national parks. The result, in the case of several parks, was that they were forced to close their gates to visitors from a week to a month earlier than they usually do in the fall. Their money had run out.

Well, say you, what harm does that do? Simply this: Visitors to national parks, such as Yellowstone for example, pay much more for entrance fees and the things they must buy while in the parks than it costs the government to maintain the parks.

But that is the crux in this situetion. The National Park service does not keep the money that is paid in by park visitors. Those funds are turned directly into the treasury as general revenue. The books of the National Park service, therefore, show only outgo.

The condition is one, therefore, it seems to me, that almost warrants a statement that the policy is "pen ny wise and pound foolish."

Jews Are Fighting for a Homeland

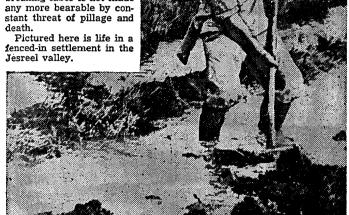

Ready at any moment to defend the strip which he is trying to convert to fertility is the Jewish settler of the Jesreel valley.

FIVE or six million Jews, uprooted by dictatorships and tossed about by economic storms, may have to depend upon the development of the Holy Land, under British mandate, as a solution to their difficulties. But they face the hostility of the Arabs living there, whose economic and religious interests conflict with theirs.

In North Palestine the Jews fence themselves in armed settlements as a pro-tection against marauding Arab bands, while they try to work the poor land. With Britain anxious to get rid of her mandate, and with enemies in nearly every cor-ner of the world, these "people without a country" are in a sorry plight.

Lesson for October 24 CHRISTIAN RENEWAL

LESSON TEXT—Titus 3:1-11.
GOLDEN TEXT—For the grace of God that bringeth salvation hath appeared to all men.—Titus 2:11.
PRIMARY TOPIC—The Good Shepherd.
JUNIOR TOPIC—In His Likeness.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A New Life in Christ.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Renewed Life Through Christ.

The pastoral epistles, of which Titus is one, were written by Paul to his young brethren in the faith who had been called to the ministry of the gospel to instruct them concerning three important matters—(1) Church order and organization, (2) sound doctrine and (3) holy living.

The third chapter of Titus, our lesson for today, deals with the life of believers in Christ in their relation to unbelievers. The great un-derlying reason why Christians should conduct themselves in meekness and humility toward others is that except for God's grace we who bear the name of Christ would be, and indeed were before our regeneration, just like the unbeliever.

We shall best study our lesson therefore, by considering first of all v. 3 which indicates the lost condition of man by nature, then follow him through the miracle of redeeming grace, vv. 4 to 7, and finally see him as a living testimony in vv. 1, 2. and 8 to 11.

I. Lost—by Nature (v. 3).

It is not a pleasant picture that is painted in the graphic words of this verse, but, remember, it is God's picture of the unbeliever. He is said to be "foolish"—that is, irrational and senseless in his course of living. He is "disobedient" to the law of God. He is "deceived," literally "out of the way." misled by erally "out of the way," misled by Satan. He thinks his pleasures and lusts are serving him, but alas, he is only a slave in bondage to and serving them. Such a life can only result in a man's becoming hateful to his fellowmen. They in turn are hateful to him, and so he hates them. Thus the whole world be-comes a hateful place where men are "living in malice and envy."

How we thank God that we need not stop at this point. Man is by nature lost in sin-but he may be

II. Saved-by Grace (vv. 4-7). How sweet are these three words grace, not works, and made heirs of eternal life.

1. "Not by works" (v. 5). Someone has said that man is determined by one means or another to claim salvation by his good works. To do so may flatter the flesh, but it surely finds no support whatever in Scripture. We are to work for Christ because we are saved, and after we are saved, but no man can be saved by works.

2. "By his grace" (v. 7). God shows his unspeakable kindness and love toward man—saving him by grace, through Jesus Christ. Grace as well been defined as "unmerited favor." We deserve but the just condemnation of our sin, and God in his mercy saves us, through faith

3. "Made heirs" (v. 7). Saved now? Yes, thank God! Satisfied? Yes, praise his name! But there is more yet to come. We who de-served only God's judgment are now made heirs of an eternal hope. 'Tis indeed no small thing to be a child of God. Now-we are ready to approach in the right spirit the admonition to live out our salvation as a daily testimony to others.

III. Witnessing, by Holy Living

(vv. 1, 2, 8-11). The young preacher Titus is told to "put them in mind" to be

1. Subject to rulers (v. 1). True patriotism (and we did not spell it "pay-triotism") stands very close to godly living. National leaders would do well to recognize that the decay of our national life will follow the decadence of spiritual life. A man who is right with God will be right with his fellowmen, and a noble and useful citizen.

2. Meek and kind to all men (v. 2). Meekness is not weakness. Gentleness is the attribute of strong men and women.

3. Maintaining good, avoiding evil (vv. 8-11). It is the tendency of man to divorce morals from reli-gion, to profess a faith which does not touch his daily life. Let us affirm "constantly" and "confidently" (as the R. V. has it) that those who believe in God should "be careful to maintain good works"—yes, and at the same time to "avoid" that which is "foolish," contentious, 'unprofitable and vain."

The Harvesting.

A ride into the rural districts will reveal more than a few fields of cotton that have not been picked at all. If there are any empty bolls they are made so by the family ound chasing rabbits down the rows.

Certainly there must be good and the necessary labor, unforseen illness in the family, or other circumstances over which the farmers has no control. It is plain that the farmer is not lazy-not many of them, and while the price is noth ing to rejoice over, it is high enough to warrant more than a pass is it a fact than on many farms cotton is left in the fields to the detriment of its own quality.

Stain in cotton affects its grade, and of course determines the price. Sometimes the classification in grades is reduced several points by stain, which not infrequently reduces the farmer's income by as much as ten to twelve dollars a bale. Remaining in the field contributes to this hazard.

It would seem then, that at plant ing time the cotton farmer should be thinking also of the harvest and charting his course accordingly. picking cotton is serious, backbreaking businss at the best, and if in April there seems little likelihood that pickers will be available at harvest time, a few acres cut from the farm program, would save a lot of work in between.

Also there is another thing that should be considered at planting time: It is said that adding one thirty-second of an inch to the aver age lengths of cotton staple would mean something like eight million dollars more to the cotton growers. Planning and scheming to this end, then ought to prove profitable employment.

But above all, right now when we are taking a census of the unemployed the listing should not in clude loafers who thus indicate that they are not able to find workwhen the cotton fields beckon so desperately.- Statesville Daily.

Since 1933, federal funds used for the CWA, the FERA and the WPA programs in North Carolina amounted to $77,500 000 up to June 30 1937 In addition to this sufficient reasons for this. Lack of sum, we must consider the Public Works grants and loans, the exact amount of which is not known Furthermore, we must also consider the ental and benefit payments made to farmers and the loans by the Reconstruction Finance Corpo ration, as well as expenditures for miscellaneous activities sush as Ru ing interest in the crop now that it ral Resettlement, Federal Housing, is made and ready for harvest. A staggering figure! It represents $80 for every man, woman and child . $320 for every family. Instead of paying taxes, taxes were paid to them in advance. And you will also observe that in the above figures there has not been included payment of the Soldiers Certificates, amounting to more than $50,000,000.

Altogether, therefore, it is safe to say that since June 30, 1933, the Federal Government has expended in North Carolina better than $300.000,000.

This money has come to us with out effort. It was borrowed money. It cost us nothing at the time, aud, of course, it has greatly stimulated business activity in the State.

*Well, it was like this. I had said good-night to Mark and gone into my room. I had pulled off my coat, had yanked off one shoe when I began to smiff." He reddened. "Perhaps it's effeminate but I like a lot of 4711 in my tub, and I asked myself, 'Who's been using my bath crystals?' I heard sounds in the bathroom. It sort of took my breath for a minute and my brain whirled like a pin-wheel. Then I grabbed up my flash from the table beside the bed and tiptoed to the door. I banged it open. Water was gurgling out of the tub, dripping from the shower, my shaving things were scattered everywhere, and—a shoe was going out of the window." Stewed out a handkerchief and mopped his red, moist face.

"A shoe!" Brooke and Sam exclaimed in unison.

"I presume there was a foot in it. For an instant amazement paralyzed me. I made a strategic er-ror. Instead of beating it after that shoe, I poked around. The razor was gone. That fact gave me a nervous chill. 'Why would a man take that? Who could it have been? Kowa?' I asked myself. 'But he has his own bath; why should he use mine?' Then I came to and realized I was wasting time."

"I'll say you were and you're fairly spilling it now. Keep going! You did go after him, didn't you?"

"I did, Sam, but first I shouted for Mark. I hadn't much hope that he would hear me but I didn't dare wait to make sure. I squeezed my boyish figure through that window and wriggled to the balcony. I listened. I could hear only the pound of the surf and the crack of frost in the trees. Cautiously I peered over. Nothing moving. A sound! After this I'll never doubt that hair can rise. Mine felt like that green stuff you see growing up straight on one of those terra cotta heads. I listened. Sounded like a curtain flapping. Then I noticed that the window next to mine was open. Had the man gone in instead of over?

"I knew that it was a Lookout House window, Brooke, but I didn't know whose room. I couldn't be fussy about that. All the horrors I'd ever heard rushed through my mind as I thought of the missing razor and of what might be happen ing to you and Lucette and Sam." He ran his fingers under his col-

"It chokes me even to think of it. Where was I? Oh, yes, I squeezed through and dropped softly to the floor. I stopped to lock the window and draw the shade-my late visitor might have a pal, I reasoned-before I tiptoed into the adjoining room. It was a bedroom unlighted. Behind a hanging I reconnoitered. A mirror over a desk in the next room reflected a boudoir with flower panels; then I knew that the room was Brooke's. All the lights were on. No one there. I crept in. A desk drawer was on the floor, its contents scattered in all directions. A chair was overturned. I lived years crossing that room. What could I see? What would I find on the other side of that door? The hall was dark. The man-

"Call him the Bath-Crystal Ban-dit and be done with it, but get him out of this house. Brooke's eyes will pop out of her head in a minute."
"Don't interrupt, Sam. Go on, Jed. Did you see anyone?"

"Couldn't see anything. Didn't be spotted. I figured that the man had heard me enter my room, had beat it to the balcony, had seen the open window of this house, had crawled in planning to make his get-away from the lower floor. I gumshoed down holding my breath at every creak of a stair board, expecting every minute that I'd be sniped at.

"In the hall I stopped to listen. Sounds upstairs. Faint sounds. I hunted for the light switch. Found it. It seemed years that I waited in the dark with my finger itching to press that button. The house was so still I could hear my brain working. Stairs creaked! Back stairs! A door swung! He was coming! A chair crashed! I had him! I shouted:

"'Don't move! I've got you cov ered!' Snapped on the hall light. When I saw you two blinking and staring like owls, you could have knocked me over with a toothpick. That's the end of my installment of the serial. Now, perhaps you'll explain why you were prowling round this house?"

With her arms in the big green mandarin sleeves crossed on the white porcelain table, her eyes deep shining pools of excitement, Brooke leaned forward and told him. Stewart's lips and cheeks puffed and deflated at second intervals as he listened. Suddenly, Sam raised his hand in earning. "Listen, folks! Footsteps! warning. "Listen, folks! Footsteps! Stealthy! Outside! Who's coming?" Jed Stewart sprang up. He caught his chair before it could crash, and swung it experimentally as Sam pressed the light switch and plunged the room into ghostly gloom.

The back door opened softly. Brooke held her throat tight in one hand to stifle an exclamation.

The light flashed on. She closed her eyes. Opened them. Was that Henri, Henri standing in the middle of the floor, with the blinking green blood to ice. Sam laugh parrot making queer noises under sheer nervous tension. Je his arm, or was this more night lashed at him furiously:

mare? She was awake. Sam was real, as he stood with his finger on the switch. Jed Stewart was real, as he puffed his lips in time to the swing of the chair he clutched. Henri's ghastly face, distended eyes, and the savage invectives which gritted through his chattering teeth, were real.

"Cut that line!" Sam took a step toward the butler. "You should appreciate this little surprise party in-stead of acting as if you'd stepped into a nest of scorpions. It wasn't but a couple of hours ago I saw you in this very kitchen dressed—or undressed—for bed. Why did you go out?"

Henri made a desperate attempt to steady his quivering mouth. He looked like an innocent prisoner haled before an accusing judge; his expression was incredibly grieved as he huddled the parrot under his arm and twisted hi hat in one hand. He appealed to Brooke.

"I don't know why your brother should speak to me as if I was a criminal, Miss. Haven't I the right to go out at night, even if I had started for bed?" He attempted to inject the virus of defiance into his uneven voice.

"Of course you have, Henri, but the papers are so full of burglaries and hold-ups that when we heard you stealing in we didn't know but what it was our turn. Where did you find Mr. Micawber?"

"That's why I went out, Miss. Couldn't go to sleep, had him on my mind. Queer where I found him. Everything's queer tonight." Henri shuddered. "Nothing strange has been happening in this house, has it?'

"Nothing at all, Henri, nothing at all," Sam assured quickly. "We sat up talking and got hungry again." "I'm glad of that, Mr. Sam, that nothing strange happened, I mean,

"Don't stop even to explain, Hen-Can't you see that we are frightfully excited? Perhaps something more than the car has been stolen. Did you find Mr. Trent?"

Chilled and exhausted by his foray into the outside world, the parrot huddled within the curve of Henri's arm making sounds in his throat like a tribal dialect. Mark Trent answered from the doorway. Brooke's heart stopped, raced on. What had made that deep welt across his forehead? His face vas colorless.

Henri's thin quavery voice broke "Have you been hunting for the parrot too, Mr. Mark?"

Mark Trent's hand was unsteady as he held a lighter to his ciga-rette. His eyes reflected the flame as he looked at the butler.
"Not for the parrot, Henri. I'm hunting now for the man who killed Mrs. Hunt. CHAPTER X

Mark Trent flinched as he ap-proached the white cottage. It seemed days since he had driven away from this very house in the limousine filled with his aunt's silver; days since the message had come to Cassidy's garage from the police that Mrs. Hunt was dead and he had left there in a flivver with Mike at the wheel. They stopped at Lookout House to make sure that the Reyburns were safe before they had burned up the road to get here. But it hadn't been days, not much more than an hour had passed. No use waiting, he must go in.

As he entered a small livingroom, Inspector Harrison was kneeling by the fireplace. His piercing eyes glittered as he looked up and nodded to Mark.

"They got her all right."
Mark Trent stepped forward, blindly for an instant. He sunk his teeth deep in his lips to steady them before he looked down.

Lola, the woman who had been his wife, lay on the floor. She was dressed for the street—had she been about to drive away the limousing full of silver? The question flashed through his mind only to be instantly submerged in a flood of pity. She looked so young, so shabby, so hapless. Her shabbiness hurt him most, she had been so exquisite. He was glad that he had made her that allowance. Her hat had fallen off. A current of air stirred a lock of her dark hair. Her hands were still now. One gripped an open bag, the fingers of the other were He dropped to his knee beside the inspector.

"Can't something be done? Can't we move her to a couch? "No! No, not until the coroner comes.' "What happened?"

"They got her rings. She had rings, hadn't she?" "She had when I saw her-a few days ago. Valuable rings. Other jewels too."

Then I guess we got the motive. Better come away, boy, you can't do anything," Inspector Harrison suggested in his persuasive voice.

"Life hasn't seemed as smooth as a trotting park to me to date, Bill, but tonight it seems a terrifying, horrible thing."

"I know, boy, I know. Bring her in, Tim." The inspector spoke to the policeman with ears like clinging are. Maggie!" The hint of joviality in his soft voice missed its mark, for the six-teen-year-old girl, who entered the room as if dragged by unseen hands, regarded him with terrified Irish blue eyes.

The inspector placed a chair with its back to the still figure on the floor.
"Sit here, Maggie."
down,

As she sat down, Mike Cassidy laid his heavy ham-bone hand on her shoulder. The inspector cleared his throat.

"Now, don't be frightened, Maggie. Ain't I just the same Bill Har-rison who's been chumming round with your dad ever since you was a little girl, and ain't I got kids of my own? All you got to do is to tell me what happened in this house to-

"Course, I ain't afraid of you, Inspector," the girl replied, more at ease. "I'll tell what I know. I sleep in the attic, it's got a dormer back and front. I was dead beat when I went to bed, what with the housework an' havin' to run out to fill tanks. The boss was sick till afternoon an'--"

"Drunk, wasn't he? Tell it straight, Maggie."

"All right, Inspector, he was. don't know what time it was when I was woke up by a car stopping at the garage; sounded like a classy car. We don't have much late trade -an' the boss told me today that the crowned heads here, that's what he said, 'crowned heads,' had put him out of business—so I got up and looked out to see what 'twas all 'crowned heads,' had put about. I can see into the garage from my back window."
"Check up on that, Tim."

"Yes, Inspector." The policemar with the ears vanished into the ball (TO BE CONTINUED)

WHILE all the important motion-picture producers were trying to interest Ronald Colman in big, serious dramas, he slipped over to the Hal Roach studio and agreed to star in a goofy comedy called "Fancy Free." No one else even suspected that Ronnie wanted to join the parade of serious players who have scored in light offerings.

His best friend, Bill Powell, is suspected of selling him the idea. Bill has such fun making comedies, and so do Myrna Loy and Carole Lombard, and the newest recruit, Constance Bennett. I would not be at all surprised if Constance were to play the lead opposite Colman.

Now that Bill Powell is wandering around Europe, Myrna Loy is going to stray over to the Twentieth Century-Fox studio to make a picture with Warner Baxter, her sec-ond - best leading "Career in C Maabout a woman with a not-so-good voice who is absolutely determined to get into grand opera. Her husband views Baxter the whole project with distaste, until he finds that his barber-shop chord barytone is just what the op-era scouts have been looking for.

Just as soon as a radio performer makes an outstanding hit, the mo-tion picture scouts grab him, so now it is Professor Quiz who is going to step before the camera. He and James Wallington, the everpopular announcer, are going to be in Columbia Pictures' "Freshman Follies."

The tremendous popularity of "The Prisoner of Zenda" has revived nterest in swashbuckling mythical kingdom romances, so Sam Gold wyn has decided it is high time to film "Graustark" again. It has been made twice before, but not in the gorgeous way that Sam will make it. He plans to have Merle Oberon play the beautiful princess and Gary Cooper the American newspaper man who rescues and marries her.

Since he subbed for Don Ameche on the Charlie-McCarthy-Nelson Edprogram, Herbert Marshall is the most-sought-after actor in Hollywood for radio programs. If any sponsor could persuade him and Claudette Colbert to appear regularly together, the program's popular-ity rating would be sure to start near the top. But just wait until you hear Brian Aherne's voice in the Warner Brother's picture, "The Great Garrick." He is going to give

Mr. Marshall some competition. "It's the Cassidy girl," he explained to Mark. "Kinder tough to bring her into this room, but there don't seem to be any other place. We've waited till her father. all worked hard, finished the film on schedule and went home satisfied that they had done their best. But the studio called up next day to protest that a man's voice could be heard in the midst of the all-feminine chorus. Spitalny went to hear the sound-track played, pretty in-dignant that their work had been spoiled. Only to find that it was his own voice on the film.

Wool Is Going Places

Smart women thing in wool? everywhere are clamoring for wool. They're wearing it to work in, to play in, to date in, to go to church in. Yes, wool is going places! Sew-Your-Own is here today (and will be here tomorrow) three ultra-smooth new models for you to choose fromjust to make sure you won't be a poor little lady without "something n wool" for Fall.

Needs Slim Lines. That "something in wool" might well and easily be the handsome model at the left above. Especially does a weightier fabric need slim lines and here you have them pared down to hairline precision. The zipper from throat to hemline gives this frock additional chic. and the far-reaching collar takes care of that all-important need for contrast. French wine, black, duck green, and gendarme blue are the popular colors. Compliment to Youth. Youth and the blouse 'n' skirt have always gone sporting to-gether. That's a compliment to youth and real flattery for the twopiecer above, center. This engaging combination has a waist-coatish topper and a simply cut, flaring skirt. A singular asset is its size range: 14 to 42. And because it is figure flattering every size is benefited. Acetate crepe is lovely for the blouse; velvet or thin wool is smart for the skirt. For a Busy Body. If you're a busy body or a lady of legion labors, you'll thank Sew-Your-Own for the charming new frock at the right. Now is the time to cut two versions: one in gingham for housework, another as your "something in wool" in the long sleeve style for all occasions. Remember then, double your chances for day-in, day-out chic with this one becoming model and save one-third on time and onehalf on the price of your new Fall

Pattern 1375 is designed for sizes 12 to 20 (30 to 40 bust). Size 14 requires 2½ yards of 54-inch mate-terial. With short sleeves, 3½ yards of 39-inch material. Collar and cuffs in contrast take fiveeighths of a yard.

Pattern 1302 is designed for sizes 14 to 20 (32 to 42 bust). Size 16 requires 4% yards of 39-inch mate Pattern 1382 is designed for sizes

34 to 48. Size 36 requires 21/2 yards of 54-inch material with sleeves; 3% yards of 39-inch material with short sleeves. Send your order to The Sewing

That Hang On

May Meet in Brussels

H OW far President Roosevelt is willing to go in the effort to stop Japan in China is what other powers, especially Great Britain, are eager to know. The people of the United States also would like to be informed in that matter. The British statesmen wish America to take the lead, and also they would like the suggested conference of the nine-power treaty signatories to be held in Washington. This latter suggestion is definitely opposed in our capital, and so it was believed Brussels might be selected as the meeting place. Cities in Switzerland also were considered.

Mr. Roosevelt, who conferred with Secretary of State Hull, Undersecretary Sumner Welles and Norman Davis, his roving ambassador, was represented as being strongly averse to taking a solitary lead in the action to check the Japanese. Apparently he preferred that the "quarantining" of nations guilty of "international lawlessness" which he proposed in his Chicago speech should be limited to a united international moral stand.

The National Council for Prevention of War, representing a part of the extreme peace sentiment in the United States, announced that its annual meeting had declared for immediate invocation of the neutrality law which the President has not seen fit to put in operation. The council was strongly against a boycott on Japanese goods, believing this would only aggravate the situ-

Japan Denies Violations

IN A formal reply to the charges of treaty violation the Tokyo foreign office flatly denied responsibility for the Sino-Japanese conflict and asserted that China, not Japan, had violated the treaties. The anti-Japese attitude and th e mobilizing of Chinese troops, said the statement, forced Japan to take military action, entirely in self-defense. Japan disclaimed any desire to annex parts of Chinese territory, and de-clared the accusing nations misunderstand the situation.

Japs Win Big Battle

D ISPATCHES from Shanghai said the Japanese forces in north China had won a big victory in Hopei province, breaking through the Chinese lines at Shichiachuang a vital railway after three days of fierce fighting. However, the Chinese claimed to have strengthened their positions in that region and it was reported the communist eighth route army was heavily attacking the rear and flank of the Japanese columns in Shansi province.

Neutral observers thought the Japanese conquest of North China would soon be complete.

French Slickers.

DOLICE are still trying to round up the slickers who, in one day, raided twenty-nine banks scattered all over France. This reminds a fellow of 1931, when the bank examiners were coroners simultaneously sitting on the mortal remains of an even larger number of American banks, the main difference be ing that these French banks were looted by outside parties.

According to dispatches, this job was accomplished through fraudu-lent credentials for strangers presenting forged drafts. But I beg leave to doubt that part, remem-bering when I turned up at various outlying points over there with proper identifications and a perfectly good letter of credit. What excitement then on the part of the cashier (spade beard) and what deep distress for the president (trellis whiskers) and what stifled moans from the board of directors (assort ed beavers) when, finally, they had to fork over. Washington Digest National Topics Interpreted By WILLIAM BRUCKART Gerinold Reco people at large than questions or Policy actions relating to foreign policy. It is easy to understand why this is so. American foreign policy, like the foreign policy of every other nation, is closely akin to patchwork. It cannot be otherwise because of the ery nature of the matters to be dealt with officially. Foreign policy, indeed, is one thing to which President Roosevelt's oft-quoted statement about his decisions resembling those of a football quarterback can be most properly applied. It is a day-to-day treatment with new deions as changes come in the international play.

This brings us to the President's

Chicago speech and the announcement by the State department of American conclusions that Japan is the aggressor in China. Of course, all persons who have read anything about the Sino-Japanese war knew long ago that the Japs were con-ducting a raid on China. Officials of the government knew it also, but there is a difference and must be a difference in the methods employed by individuals as distinct from those employed by a nation which represents all of its individual citizens. Time had to elapse, therefore, be-fore our government or any other could say definitely and publicly that Japan was seeking to acquire new territory by theft and seizure. Many observers and many individuals have indicated their surprise at the President's speech which, by the way, was the most distinct pronouncement of any that he has ever made. There was likewise surprise when the secretary of state, Mr. Hull, gave the press his statement condemning Japanese aggression even though the statement should have been anticipated after Mr. Roosevelt's Chicago speech and after word had come from Geneva that the League of Nations appeared unanimous in the same conclusion.

The reason that I say there should have been no surprise concerning the final position which our government has taken traces back to the administration of President Hoover and Henry L. Stimson, then secretary of state. It was at that time that a fundamental change took place in our foreign policy but it was not a change that appeared to be sensational at the moment. In other words, the position which Mr. Hoover and Mr. Stimson took at that time was overlooked because there was no real crisis to attract attention to American policy.

What that change in policy did is plain now. It was the beginning of the end of the isolationist program which followed the bitter controversy over President Wilson's pro-posal that the United States affiliate with the League of Nations and adhere to all phases of the program embodied in the league covenant. The reaction against Mr. Wilson's plan was violent and carried us to for a number of years we were a lone wolf among nations in fact as well as in name. The one thing that really represents an important change of policy that Mr. Roosevelt enunciated at Chicago is his view of neutrality. Without making any particular reference to the neutrality statute enacted last winter under the sponsorship of Senator Pittman of Nevada, Mr. Roosevelt announced without equivocation that the United States will do everything it can, short of military force, to curb the Japanese course in China. That is to say. and I believe it is accurate, we will not invoke the neutrality laws if such a course will do harm to the Chinese. Rather, the American policy for the time being at least involves working hand in hand with other nations that may be striving o maintain international order and morality in matters in which we are directly concerned.

I have been asked several times ecently concerning the possibility that the United
Keep Out of States may en-Far East War gage in actual war in the Far East. I hink that eventuality is very far removed. Possibilities always exist for a nation to get tangled up internationally under conditions such as obtain throughout the world today, yet I do not believe that the United States ever will do more in the Far East than exert moral pressure upon the Japs. It must not be overlooked cwever, that the bulk of Ameri can sympathy is with the Chinese. One cannot tell how far that may lead us as a nation. Nor is it possible to forecast the weight of this sympathy in an economic way. mean by that, no one can foretell what such a thing as a boycott of Japanese goods may mean even-

From all of this it must be plain that our national course in the next few months will have to be deter-

Washington.—I doubt that there is any phase or function of government that is less understood by the United States will go in punitive action against Japan is likely to be determined, first, by the reaction of our own citizens to Japanese bar-barism and, second, the moves by other dominant nations of the world. Mr. Roosevelt was returning from an 8,000-mile trip when he delivered his Chicago speech. That trip was announced in advance as being for the purpose of an inspection—to see how the country was taking the New Deal. That, however, was not the whole truth. Mr. Roosevelt wanted to feel the public pulse politically on the Supreme court packing proposition and its related questions: he wanted to find out how the country felt concerning those Democrats who had opposed the court packing; he needed information about the de mand for an extra session of congress to enact crop control legislation and, in addition, he wanted to see what the general feeling was about the Sino-Japanese war

The trip was timed admirably. It took Mr. Roosevelt away from Washington and, further, away from the red-hot cauldron resulting from the fact that Associate Justice Hugo L. Black of Alabama was a mem ber of the Ku Klux Klan.

The information that filters back from observers aboard the President's train presents something of a paradox. Almost unanimously, the observers found that Mr. Roose velt was still immensely popular personally. Concerning his various programs, including crop control legislation, the observers report that they found conditions ranging from violent opposition to plain apathy or complete lack of interest.

It is a most confusing situation from a political standpoint. I have found few individuals able or willing to attempt an analysis of it. Gen erally speaking, lack of enthusiasm for a program sooner or later wil kill off politically the individual who sponsors the program. Yet, no one will say at this time at least that such a result can be expected in Mr. Roosevelt's case

But the political effect of his Chi-cago speech must not be minimized. Whether Mr. Roosevelt so intended or not, his speech demanding that Japan respect treaties and observe the rights of other nations and his pointed criticism of policies such as those employed by Mussolini, Hitler and Stalin, have the effect of rallying the people behind him.

Some persons who are opposed to the New Deal have been mean enough to say that Black Mr. Roosevelt took Klan Affair his trip West in order to get away from Washington until the inciden involving Associate Justice Black had blown over. I do not know whether the exposure that Mr. Justice Black had been a member of the Ku Klux Klan alone prompted Mr. Roosevelt to leave. I repeat only what is being said.

Mr. Justice Black has now take his seat as a member of the court. He told the country in a radio speech before assuming the office that he had resigned from the Klan and that, as far as he was concerned, the incident was closed. He stooped somewhat, I think, when he tried to dodge the issue by charg ing that those who had exposed his Klan connections were trying to dis credit Mr. Roosevelt. Black is now a member of the court and I do not see what anybody can do in the way of unseating him.

the Black Klan affair is to make a prediction. That prediction is: as long as Mr. Black sits as a member of the Supreme court of the United States he will receive repercussions of the case. I will wager now that regardless of what position Mr. Black takes in deciding any future litigation, there will be those who will point to him and remark that "he was once a member of the Ku Klux Klan." Likewise, regardless of the views or arguments he advances in any decisions rendered by the court, Mr. Black will be re-ferred to continuously as "the Klan member" or as "the Roosevelt liberal."

Take it any way you like—the appointment and the confirmation of Hugo Black as a member of the Sepreme court under the circum stances now known and affirmed by Mr. Black himself constitutes one of the worst situations yet recorded on the appointive power of the Presi approve presidential nominations. But laying aside all of these things, there is a real tragedy re-sulting from the circumstance. If there is one branch or agency of our government in which it is necessary for the people as a whole to have faith, it is in the judiciary. I think I can foresee that the Black ap-pointment and its attendant features will shake the faith of many indi viduals in courts.

RESH fruit pies are always good, but fresh grape pies are worthy of superlatives in description. The thickening may be cornstarch, eggs, flour or tapioca, de-pending upon preference. Tapioca is suggested in this recipe.

Grape Pic.
31½ cups prepared grapes
21½ tablespoons quick-cooking taploca
1½ teaspoon salt
11½ cups sugar

Wash and stem the grapes. Press the pulp from the skins with the fingers. Simmer pulp slowly until soft, then press through sieve to remove the seeds. Combine 3½ cups of pulp and skins together with salt, sugar and taploca and let stand for 15 minutes. Place rolled pastry in pie pan. Fill pan with grape mixture. Moisten edge of pastry and fold inward, even with the edge of the pan. Moisten edge again and place top pastry on pie. Press edges together with a fork and trim off surplus crust. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees) for fifteen minutes. Decrease heat to 350 degrees, moderate heat, and bake about twenty-five minutes longer.

CARRY YOUR WITH YOU

The fastest way to "alkalize" is to carry your alkalizer with you. That's what thousands do now that genuine Phillips' comes in tiny, peppermint flavored tablets—in a flat tin for pocket or purse. Then you are always ready.

Then you are always ready.

Use it this way. Take 2 Phillips' tablets—equal in "alkalizing" effect to 2 teaspoonfuls of liquid Phillips' from the bottle. At once you feel "gas," nausea, "overcrowding" from hyper-acidity begin to ease. "Acid headaches." "acid breath," over-acid stomach are corrected at the source. This is the quick way to ease your own distress—avoid offense to others.

In THE not-so-dim-and-distant past the mask was accepted as a symbol of evil, the hiding of the face being regarded as sufficient proof that the owner of the face was a person bent on a guilty mission.

Once the court gallants of Elizabeth's time wore masks when they kept illicit love trysts. Statesmen, too, while engaged in intrigue, resorted to this camouflage. Today a steel worker wears a mask to protect him from the glare and super-heat of an oxy-acetylene torch.

Lesson for October 31 THE MORAL ISSUE IN THE DRINK PROBLEM

LESSON TEXT—Romans 13:12-14; I Corinthians 6:9-11; Galatians 5:16-24. GOLDEN TEXT—Walk in the Spirit, and ye shall not fulfil the lust of the flesh.—Galatians 5:16.

erages?
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC
The Moral Issue in the Drink Problem.

The title for our lesson is well-chosen—"The Moral Issue in the Drink Problem." First, let it be clear that there is an issue. Those who have business, social, or political connections with the liquor traffic would like to have us believe that the repeal of prohibition settled the matter once for all. But let us be sure of this factthe liquor problem is at our very door, and it must be met.

In the second place, many would have us think that the matter of drunkenness is a social, political, or even a physical problem, without any moral implications whatever. But those who are informed know that even the supposedly innocent beer is inextricably tied up with vice and crime. A prisoner in a fed-eral penitentiary writing before prohibition was repealed said, "Criminals hail with delight . . . the return of liquor via the beer route and the greater license that the return of the saloon will inevitably bring. With the return of beer will come open prostitution and gambling." His words were true.

I. Drunkenness Is a Work of Darkness (Rom. 13:12-14).

Just as there are darkness and daylight in the physical universe, so there are two contrasting spiritual realms, of darkness and light.

Men "loved darkness rather than Men "loved darkness rather than light because their deeds were evil," according to the Lord Jesus. (See John 3:19. This spiritual realm of darkness is directed by "rulers of the darkness of this world" (Eph. 6:12), and their purpose is "spiritual wickedness." With the "works of darkness" the believer is to "have of followship" (Eph. 5:11), but is no fellowship" (Eph. 5:11), but is to "reprove them" and bring them into the light where their true nature is made manifest (Eph. 5:13). "God is light, and in him is no darkness at all," and those who have fellowship with him "walk in the light." (See I John 1:5-7.)

Drunkenness is a work of darkness. It separates man from God and makes him fear the glorious light of his countenance. The solution for that awful condition is revealed in v. 14. "Put ye on the Lord Jesus Christ."

II. Drunkenness Is a Work of Unrighteousness (I Cor. 6:9-11).

No drunkard "shall inherit the kingdom of God" (v. 10), and the man who takes his first drink has put his foot on the path that leads to the drunkard's grave. Of course no man plans to go that far, but the fact is that such is the tragic conclusion for hundreds of thousands of men and women—damned for time and eternity by drink.

Again in this passage we have the answer to our problem. Not refor-mation, not education, not culture (desirable and useful though recognize these things to be), but being "washed," "sanctified," and "justified" in "the name of the Lord Jesus and in the Spirit of God." Try that on your town drunkard. Thank God, it works!

III. Drunkenness Is a Work of the Flesh (Gal. 5:16-24).

The flesh-that is our bodies ruled over by self-will as opposed to God's will—is revealed in the Scriptures to be thoroughly bad, and in opposition to God. Consider the appalling list of the works of the flesh in verses 19 and 20. And note that in the midst of them stands drunken

It is the lowest in man that responds to intoxicants. Little won-der that the Brewers' Journal came out right after the election, of 1932 with the statement that tenth of one-per cent of American youths know the taste of real beer. We must educate them." In other words the normal taste of an intelligent person would revolt at the stuff, but once give it a chance to stir the lusts of "the flesh" and the victim is caught.

Once again, note the antidote live in the power of the Holy Spirit, and the flesh with its lusts is crucified (v. 24). How shall we have the Holy Spirit and his power in our lives? By taking the Lord Jesus Christ as personal Saviour.

Be Chic This Fall in Handsome Lace

memoranda as many times as you wish and then add a postscript in favor of lace; for lace reaches a new high this season in the matter of importance. Yes, indeed, if you are seeking style distinction, the sooner you turn laceward the better.

What the style creators of our day and generation are doing with lace in the way of daring and ingenious handling leaves nothing to the imagination. For instance, there are the stunning lace trimmed black sheer wool dresses that bear the Paris stamp and carry that "something different" look which we all covet Perhaps it is the sleeves banded with insertions of fine black Chantilly that bespeak a new lace story, or it may be that befrilled edgings of Val edging (black or white) impart a charming and youthful air to a simple black wool frock for practical daytime wear. The way Val lace is used for neckline finishings and for outlining decorative little pockets likewise for trimming the new blouses is most enchanting.

Another adaptation of lace is in insets and appliques of individual motifs. These are positioned anywhere on the dress much after the manner that gay print motifs were used on monotone fabric during the past summer. While these insets, which are apt to be bowknot or bouquet cutouts, adorn evening gowns for the most part yet some design-ers are working discreetly and most attractively into daytime wools and other fabrics. This furore over lace nas also resulted in the revival of the dress with a deep lace yoke and sleeves. Leading couturiers are showing some lovely models of this type.

The biggest thrill, however, comes a fabric way. The idea, to be sure, is not new for its practicality has been demonstrated without guestion during the last several seasons. Nor has the advent of fall and prospect of winter retarded the movement to use lace as one would any material for the making of practical day dresses and the blouse to wear with your smart autumn wool suit. On the contrary we have come to realize and appreciate that a handsome lace dress tailored to utmost simplicity is not only good looking and practical but being lace it flatters and "does something" for you as none other but lace can do.

You'll love a dress like the one shown to the right in the illustration to wear this fall and winter under your furred cloth or all-fur coat Just try out the idea and see how practically and logically this theory of lace for the daytime frock works out. This tailored frock of black lace over a black slip fits ideally in to the mood for simple elegance that dominates the new fashions It is an almost classic style accent ing the slenderizing lines that are a fashion "must" this season. The zipper fastening from neckline to hemline is the piece de resistance giving the gold touch that glorifies black this season throughout the mode. Speaking of this fastening, most everything, dress, coat, blouse, bag and girdle, is decoratively, at the same time practically and conveniently zippered this season.

If in doubt as to the new blouse to wear with your autumn suit, let lace, either handsome wool lace or the now-so-modish macrame or some equally as sturdy type, solve your problem. In a noted Paris collection showing new clothes for fall, Martial et Armand presented the black crepe suit with silver fox which we are showing to the left in the picture. The most outstanding thing about the ensemble is the combination of lace with crepe. Lace is also being combined with many other fabrics in the fall showings of eminent French designers. case the blouse is of china-blue lace with interesting neck treatment.
