Letter From A Soldier

Rev. Walter E. Isenhour, Hiddenite, N. C.

Not long ago we wrote a message entitled, "To Our Soldiers," which was published in the Union Republican, and which, we trust, has had a large reading and is proving a great blessing. Here is a letter from a soldier at Fort Jackson, S. C., who read the message:

Dear Mr. Isenhour;—I have just finished reading your sermon to the soldiers, and I want to tell you it has made a great impression on me. It showed me a lot of things that will cause me to look on life with better and greater satisfaction. I shall look at things in a different manner. Life to me had begun to look useless. I had almost given up hope; was in a serious condition. I am a sinner and realize that I am lost without God. I am going to try to change my life, and I want the prayers of every Christian who will pray for me. Pray that I may become a better man in the sight of God, then I can feel more secure and safe. And pray for the boys in my company who are lost. There are many. So pray for me and my friends. I was once a Christian, and have listened to your sermons many times. They have helped me very much. But since I have been in the army I have drifted away from God, and I want to be restored, and make up for the eleven months I have wasted.—F. C. M.

This letter is enough to touch the heart of every Christian who reads it. Here is a dear soldier who has drifted away from God, and realizing that he needs to get back, requests our earnest, sincere prayers. No doubt this is true of many a dear soldier. O how we need to pray for them! They are getting ready for an awful fight to save our nation. The least we can do for them is to pray for them daily. Yet this means more than anything else.

We see, according to this young man's letter, that he is interested in the salvation and welfare of his friends. We are glad to say that those who have drifted away from God can get back, and those who have never been saved can be if they will but repent sincerely and put their trust in Jesus. It is a sad day in one's life when he goes away from God. There is nothing we need so much as Jesus as we journey through life. O, that every soldier would seek the Lord! These are perilous times, and we all need the mighty God of the universe to protect us. Let's read much the 21st Psalm.

Why They Do Not Buy Bonds.

We would not say anything or do anything to prevent anyone from purchasing stamps and bonds to raise money for defense, but we would suggest that the federal government curtail its non-essential, non-defense spending in order to make it appear that it really NEEDS money for defense.

A number of people have been heard to say that so long as unlimited millions are being appropriated all over the country for WPA projects that could be left till after the war, for dams that we do not need, and a lot of other things that could wait, they would have some incentive to purchase stamps and bonds.

A lot of folks who are really patriotic feel that it is unfair to ask the already burdened public to economize and sacrifice when the government itself will not set the example.

In our opinion thousands of people who are not now doing so, would aid in the government's efforts to raise money, if some of its unnecessary spending be stopped.—Jonesboro Herald & Tribune

Confidence in Government

The smoke from the treacherous attack on Pearl Harbor had hardly cleared away, before there was abundant evidence that the debacle had unified this nation. Rabin isolationists abandoned their hobby-horse and hopped the band-wagon where the war drums were beating. But like that unity following the last election—it didn't last long. Many were back at their sniping, and along with them were many recruits. Recruits too, who are quite patriotic and loyal and who would resent being classed as obstructionists in any sense of the word.

We are quoting from a neighbor paper: "There never was a time when we needed unity more, but the people are angry and are losing faith in the executive and legislative branches of the government." And then, perhaps unwittingly, almost every editorial utterance that followed had to do with the recital of some real or fancied shortcoming of the executive branch, from the activities of Eleanor to the needless spending of the NYA. None of which was calculated to increase "confidence in our government," yet all of which criticism could have been omitted without compromising the paper's obligation to its readers. But political hatred had to be served, regardless of the more important national interest.

But we are wondering if the government, which covets national unity above all else, is not largely to blame for this attitude, which while not the rule, is certainly not an exception. A blame that stems from Pearl Harbor and the lack of frankness concerning the debacle there.

The Roberts report enumerated certain losses there and sought to establish the blame. But it is significant that this investigating group stated in its report that certain details that might give information, aid and comfort to the enemy had been omitted. That left the layman wondering whether the damage done there was not much greater than had been recorded. And he is further confounded by the fact that while he has not yet been told how devastating were the losses there, the French, the Italians, the Arabs, the English and the Japs, have been given a more accurate picture of the damage.

Mr. Churchill the other day referred to the fact that but for the damage at Pearl Harbor, the situation in the Pacific would be quite different. Surely the loss of two ships and a few planes would not so change the picture as to spell Japanese dominance in the Pacific.

It is a fact that the Pearl Harbor losses were greater than reported, then our navy is being unjustly blamed for no help to Singapore and the utter lack of reinforcements to General McArthur. True, it may be good strategy not to let the enemy know of his success when it can be kept from him, but in this it is apparent that we know for certain, a great deal more than the American people are allowed to know.

It would seem a better policy would be to be frank with the people. They can take it on the chin if they have to. Whitewashing the betmen responsible for this disaster because of their carelessness and then retiring them with a pension is not calculated to help matters.

Frankness breeds confidence, and if confidence is what the government covets it should begin sweeping at its own doorstep, and thus remove the litter which unfriendly but eager newspaper editors salvage for their own putrid use.—Statesville Daily.

From The Yellow Jacket

The Democratic party may be doing its "bit" to "make the world safe for democracy," but you will not be able to find the Democratic party with a compound microscope when the war is over.

Red-headed people have been the beacons lights from Eve to Heloise. If all the red haired heroes of history were to lift their hats there would be a blaze of glory all along the line.

A young man was being asked questions by the war board and when they asked him, "Who was your mother before she was married?" he replied, "I didn't have a mother before she was married."

At least we have a right to hope that the big bosses our war works will utilize past experiences and ordinary common sense in operating our production and defense machinery.

Doing away with the Republican Party would be like throwing away the carburetor in your car just because it is running smoothly down the hill. The GOP furnishes the finances that feed the motor of industrial progress in government.

We are ready and willing to stand by President Roosevelt as our Commander-in-Chief during the war, but that doesn't bar us from continuing to believe that the GOP is the real party that must rescue this country's financial plight and political democracy.

If the bombs the Japs are using were like the electric bulbs and toys they used to send us they hit the ground.

We know of one grouch who is accustomed to passing the blame for everything he says the reason he lies is because the dentist made him a set of false teeth.

It is hard for us to believe there is any reason for a paper shortage so long as we receive dozens of packages every day, most of which is pure propaganda.

Wendell Willkie spoke a truth the other day when he remarked that FDR's war program was OK, but it couldn't be realized by his present organization methods.

It is announced from Washington that funds for work on the Blue Ridge Parkway Drive is all off till the war is over. They will salt the road, it is said, to keep it passable. The use of salt to save meat is an old one but salting the road is a new one under the New Deal.

The time has come, whether the people of Davie county believe it or not, for every American to be an American, for what it is worth and regardless of what it costs.

A Mere Coincidence?

During the last week in January a shipload of American supplies left for Vichy, France. A few days later it was learned that Vice Premier Darlan, of France, had agreed to send two shiploads of supplies weekly to Nazi General Rommel's forces in North Africa.

Our State Department ought to know the answer to this, but it needn't bother to tell. The laymen can figure out the main point at least: That we are a bunch of gullibles counted as suckers by the Vichy government.

Oh, no. It's not the same food we send to France, but it takes the place of the food France is sending to our enemy—and will somebody tell us what is the difference? No matter if it is baby food which in our magnanimity we are sending to France, or something else that can not be used to substitute for what is being sent to Rommel, the fact remains that we are lifting a part of the burden and making it easier for Vichy to meet the demands of Hitler. And we are engaging in this good neighboring in the hope that France may thus be kept on the fence, and remain out of Hitler's hands as long as possible.

And from this distance it appears that that won't be long. France may be counted permanently on the side of the Nazis. In secret Vichy has been transporting and supplying parts of Rommel's army, and one need not be surprised to learn some fine morning that the French fleet has been turned over to Hitler, lock, stock and barrel.

Will we never understand that appeasement will get us nowhere in this war. The French people may not approve but they have been sold down the river by their leaders, and are helpless to protest. It must amuse Darlan and Petain to see us play the game so stupidly, but as long as they can get a handout from us, and at the same time please their lord and master, they'll put themselves on the back and say "great goings, eh!"—Elkin Tribune.

Doughton Hits Pension Bill.

Washington.—Congressman Robert L. Doughton came out emphatically against congressional pensions and said:

"The House should take immediate action to let the members vote on this measure.

"Everybody knows that this is a bad time to increase government expenses and that this measure was put through the House in a very unfortunate way.

"The afternoon that this bill was on the consent calendar, the entire North Carolina delegation had been summoned on short notice to go to Anacostia, Md., and witness the launching of the new hospital airplane that was donated by North Carolina to the British.

"We all went to Anacostia, which is a considerable distance, and we had to rush. While we were there, this bill was called up and passed without a record vote. This goes to show that you can not leave your seat in the House a minute without something happening that is unfortunate and to which you are opposed.

Deeply Regretted

"I have always been against congressional pensions, and I am now opposed to any government expenses that are nonessential to defense and the war program and the action of Congress in voting it at this time is very unfortunate and is deeply regretted.

"I shall do everything I can to get a vote on this bill, and when it does come up, I will vote against it."

Asked if he would apply for a pension under the new law, Mr. Doughton said, "Such an idea of my applying for a pension is somewhat absurd. Even if I were to quit tomorrow and apply for a pension, I am so old now that I wouldn't be a pensionable former congressman very long.

"I am not surprised that the people over in the country are somewhat aroused over this action of the House and Senate."

Hickory Man Winner In Suit For Damages

G. L. Moser, of Hickory, was awarded damages amounting to $2,225 by a jury in Catawba Superior court at Newton last week. The suit was brought against C. C. Templeton and others of Union Grove, Iredell county. Mr. Moser was allowed the sum for a hospital bill, payment for loss of time from his work, and for permanent injuries suffered when the car in which he was struck by a vehicle owned by Mr. Templeton. The accident occurred in Iredell county about a year ago.

The Davie Record serves the public in many ways. It prints, without charge, articles that assist the schools, churches and charitable enterprises of the county and it gives publicity to governmental activities. We mention this because a few people seem not to suspect that such services cost money.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—When we got into the First World War, Hank Gowdy, the ball player, walked into a recruiting station and asked "How the hell does a man get into this war?" They said "How the hell does a man get into this war?" They said "How the hell does a man get into this war?"

This is beginning to look like a name war, as they might say on Broadway. Without disparagement to the existing celebrities of the theater, sports, and politics, one may note that many of them, innocently, no doubt, march to a fanfare of headlines and outbreaks of chevrons in rotogravure pictures. Conspicuous in contrast is Hugh Mulcahy, former Philadelphia pitcher, moving in with no chevrons and no bands.

This started out to be a piece about an actor of such eminence that we thought word of his enlistment as a private would make a story. When we telephoned him the other morning, he said: "I won't talk and I don't want you to use my name."

That sounded like big news, the same being "anything new, strange or unexpected." We can't use his name, but he was persuaded to talk and here's his story:

"The minute I made a move to enlist, my press agent was on hand to shape up a story. I couldn't get it through his head that that wasn't the big idea. This war is grim, desperate, dirty business and it isn't going to be won by hoofers, box-fighters, actors, swing-band leaders, ball players or tennis players who happen to have top-billing in their particular lines.

"They'll help win it, and more power to them, but when they get their usual professional build up, everything gets out of plumb. The big mob is going to get the idea that their favorite supermen will fix everything nicely at the end. That's one trouble with this country. We pay the price of admission and let the main cast of characters work out the plot.

"Showmanship is all right in its place, but in this case it distorts the picture, dangerously, I think. Just take a turn around the New York night spots if you want to get what I mean. They way they rate the boys by their rank, and the way the gossip columnists work, you'd think this war was being readied by Flo Ziegfeld.

"I am enlisting as a private and I expect to be overseas in a combat unit. I am dropping my stage name and using my own, so I expect to be something less than anonymous for a long time to come. If anybody fans up a story about me, it will be over my dead body. I'm no hero. I just want to help win this war."

A DISTINGUISHED landscape architect visions the post-war landscape and sees a jungle that will take a lot of landscaping if we hope to live in it. He is Charles W. Eliot, grand-son of the famous president of Harvard, director of the National Resources Planning board at Washington.

Mr. Eliot says we are not "going back to normalcy" and that the chaos following the Axis downfall may be "almost indistinguishable from war." He insists, however, that we will keep on "going forward," and that we "propose to plan ahead."

He began the practice of his profession at Boston, after his graduation from Harvard in 1920. From 1924 through 1926, he was city planner for Arlington, Mass. From 1926 to 1930, he was director of planning for Washington, D. C., and its environs, as a member of the National Park and Planning commission. He has been a member of the National Resources board since 1935.

Mr. Eliot has extended his planning to the wider outreach of social and economic design. As an observer at the League of Nations crisis in 1928, he would perhaps now admit he was standing at a false dawn when he insisted the league was putting recalcitrants in place.

The British Tommy in Kipling's poem did a lot of grousing about "trimmin' the colonel's hedges" after a war. We're in for a much tougher job of trimming, thinks Mr. Eliot—if there is to be any tidy and nicely spaced world after this war.

Red army machine gunners were photographed in the firing line as they slowly pressed the German hordes back.

I F SUBMARINES were not actually torpedoing Allied ships just off the Atlantic coast I'd suspect that the newspaper headlines and stories announcing their presence were the work of a very smart press agent for Columbia Pictures. For their new picture, "The Invaders," tells of the attempted invasion of Canada, through the Gulf of St. Lawrence, by the crew of a German sub. Made in England, it stars Raymond Massey, Laurence Olivier and Leslie Howard, before ever a hostile periscope approached our coastline.

When Director Michael Powell was casting "The Invaders," he remembered a child actress, Glynis Johns, whom he'd seen four years ago in an English picture, "South Riding." He told her then that if he ever needed a child actress the job would be hers. He needed a young lady for "The Invaders," remembered that she might be one by now—and 18-year-old Glynis got the role.

Paramount reminds us that it's just about a year since Veronica Lake was introduced to the public; reminds us also that 1941 brought us other promising young actresses, notably Gene Tierney, Alexis Smith,

VERONICA LAKE

Maria Montez, Jane Russell and Kathryn Grayson, but that Veronica practically became a national institution, thanks to the one-eyed hair-do that made her famous.

"Mr. Deeds Goes to Town" put two new words into common usage—"pixilated" and "doodling." Long before that everybody was saying "See you" after they'd seen "What Price Glory?" Paramount very much hopes that their wacky domestic comedy, "Mr. and Mrs. Cugat," will do the same for "whiffie," meaning to exaggerate flagrantly; Betty Field does it in the picture.

Pat O'Brien's contract with 20th Century-Fox has been "amicably terminated," and he's going to co-star with George Raft in Universal's "Broadway." He signed with Fox a year ago to make two pictures; the first was abandoned, but he was paid, and he objected to the second one. So Fox let him go to Universal on loan-out, to wind up his contract.

Francis White, soprano star of the telephone hour, would hardly have time to accept an honorary title, she's that busy these days; is on a singing tour of 65 army camps, has 25 concert dates in as many cities—and still does her regular broadcasts.

Tay Garnett, for years one of the best motion picture producers and directors, has entered the radio field; the Tay Garnett Radio Productions give you "Three Sheets to the Wind" Sunday evenings on the NBC-Red network. John Wayne of the movie stars, Helga Morav, English stage and screen actress, plays opposite him. The series deals with romantic adventure against a world cruise background.

Rudy Vallee saw service in the last war as a third class seaman on a destroyer; had to add a couple of years to his real age to get in. Subsequently, after he became famous, the governor of Maine gave him the honorary title of lieutenant commander; recently he was made an honorary flying cadet. But he has the satisfaction of knowing that he got into the navy the first time the hard way.

Fourteen years ago this month the CBS team of "Amos 'n' Andy," then known as "Sam 'n' Henry," made their first personal appearance tour. The following March they adopted their present names and act—and you know what's been happening since then!

ODDS AND ENDS—William Powell departs from his suave "Thin Man" characterizations for a dramatic role in "Crossroads," opposite Hedy Lamarr... Chorines on Metro's "Ship Ahoy" set conduct a daily pool—sell 75 chances on a defense bond... Now that "Joan of Paris" has been released, the public agrees with Michele Morgan... C. B. DeMille had a lot of trouble with the horses he used in "Keep the Wild Wind"; veterans of the "Hopalong Cassidy" censors, the instant they smelled gunpowder they fell down and played dead... Robert Taylor's mus-tacheless in "Her Cardboard Lover."

Watch Your Kidneys!
Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste
Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that poison the body machinery.
Symptoms may be nagging headache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.
Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

FIRST-AID to the AILING HOUSE

by Roger B. Whitman
(© Roger B. Whitman—WNU Service.)

Colored Concrete Attractive
A SUBURBAN house that was being built by a friend of mine has two concrete paths, one from the front to the back door, and the other leading to the garage. He did not like the glaring natural color of concrete and used a green less obtrusive. Everyone who comes to the house admires the effect. As a matter of fact, it is simple enough to color concrete, which can be done with only slight increase in cost, and with but little additional labor. The important point is that the coloring matter, which is in powder form, must be of a kind that is not affected by the lime in the cement, and that will not fade. Such colors are to be had from dealers in mason materials, and at well-stocked paint stores. The color is only in the top coating. It is mixed with the cement in the proportion of not more than nine pounds to the sack of cement. The color is thoroughly mixed with the dry cement before adding the sand. If the mixing is not thorough the effect is likely to be streaky.

Wall Insulation

Question: I am remodeling a large frame house and want to insulate the kitchen and dining room walls. The plaster has been removed, but not the lath. In applying insulation, should the lath be completely removed, or only enough of the lath to allow insulation to be fitted in?
Answer: Your best move will be to take off all of the lath and to put in blanket or pad insulation, which should be protected on the room side by heavy building felt that will prevent the passage of water vapor. You can get these materials in sizes to fit between the studs and with flanges by which they can be nailed on. You could use rock wool pads, but if they are not protected you should stretch waterproof paper or felt over the studs on the sides facing the rooms to prevent the entrance of water vapor. In providing insulation, do not overlook the need for protecting the windows with metal weatherstrips and storm sash.

Varnish Remover

Question: We have a great many small wood desks, tables and chairs to be refinished. They all have several coats of varnish-stain and varnish, and are chipped and rough. I want to refinish them down to the wood. Regular paint remover works, but is quite expensive. What else can I use? How can I finish them either with dark mahogany or walnut?
Answer: You can make a good varnish remover by dissolving trisodium phosphate in water in the proportion of three pounds to the gallon. The chemical can usually be had at large paint stores under its own name or under the name of beet salt. When applied boiling hot the varnish will quickly soften and can be wiped and scraped off. Follow by rinsing with clear water; traces that remain would ruin the new finish. You can get the color that you want with oil stain or water stain, followed by varnishing.

Oil-Stained Floor

Question: The cement floor of my garage is stained by oil dripping from my car. How can I clean it off?
Answer: Scatter the stain thickly with trisodium phosphate or washing soda and sprinkle with enough water to dissolve it. This strong solution will destroy the oil, which will then come off with scrubbing with scouring powder and plenty of water.

Chromium Chairs

Question: How can I prevent chromium-plated steel chairs from making black marks on linoleum? I cannot use rubber caps, for they are not the kind with legs.
Answer: The parts in contact with the floor can be wrapped with surgeon's tape, or with two or three thicknesses of Scotch tape, which is transparent. With ordinary use either wrapping will last for considerable periods.

Covering Wallpaper

Question: Plasterboard in our home is wallpapered. Could we use paint or plaster over it?
Answer: You cannot use plaster. But if the paper is on firmly, you can paint it with oil paint or casein paint. Do the job on a dry day and with plenty of ventilation, so that the quick drying of the paint liquids will check the possible softening of the wallpaper paste.

Floor Finish

Question: My kitchen floor is concrete. Would you advise painting it or laying linoleum?
Answer: I should prefer linoleum, for it is easy on the feet. Standing on a concrete floor is likely to be tiring.

Frosted Windows

Question: Three windows in my second floor bedroom get thickly covered with ice in cold weather. The windows are weatherstripped. Can you give me a remedy?
Answer: Tight storm sash should prevent the frosting by keeping the inside glass warmer.

Plasterboard Ceiling

Question: We are planning to use plasterboard for the ceiling of our basement. Is this advisable?
Answer: Yes; plasterboard is often used for basement ceilings, and is very satisfactory.

Household Hints

Who Wouldn't Come to a Dinner Like This?
(See Recipes Below)

Accent on Dinner

Dinner is the master meal of the day and as such requires the most masterful stroke the homemaker can apply. With time unlimited, this master stroke is not so hard to bring into play, but with days like these which are filled to the utmost with activity of all kinds, time-saving hints and ideas for dinner are important.

Planning a meal which can all be baked is both time and money saving. If you're pinched for silver and aluminum for cooking and serving, you can use glasswares for both the cooking and serving.

Today I'm discussing a dinner that is equally adaptable for either a family or company dinner. It's one of those meals that you won't forget because it's always bound to be successful from the point of view of appetite appeal, ease in serving and ease in cooking. Tuck these ideas where they won't gather dust, for they'll gather fame more easily.

*Lamb Roast.

(Serves 8 to 10)
5 to 6 pound leg of lamb
Garlic clove or slice of onion
Salt and pepper

Have a leg of lamb boned and tied. Wipe with a damp cloth but do not remove fell, the parchment-like covering over the meat. Rub garlic or onion (or onion salt, if you have neither of those) over the meat, then rub salt and pepper. Bake in a slow (300-degree) oven, allowing 30 to 35 minutes to the pound. If a heat resistant glass platter is used, the lamb may be served from that.

*Franconia Potatoes.

(Serves 8 to 10)
8 to 10 medium-sized potatoes
4 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons chopped parsley

Cook potatoes in boiling salted water for 15 minutes. Drain and place in the oven around the meat to finish roasting, about 40 minutes. Pour melted butter and chopped parsley over potatoes when done. Arrange with whole, cooked carrots on platter and serve.

A hot bread on a cool evening adds plenty of staccato to the menu, and I would advise serving it often. This one is especially appropriate for the menu today because your oven will be hot and you can bake it before you put in the meat.

Lynn Says:

Trying to tackle the winter vegetable problem? Here's a parade of suggestions that will prop up your meals:

Baked squash with small white onions baked in the hollow. A bit of cream sauce added just before serving to the onions will also perk up this dish. Sprinkle with paprika for color.

Carrots: glaze these with brown sugar and butter when baking. For cooked carrots add a bit of tartness with lemon juice.

Serve canned or cooked lima beans with this smart mustard sauce: 4 tablespoons butter mixed with ½ teaspoon sugar, 1 teaspoon ground mustard and 2 tablespoons lemon juice.

Beets like to be teamed up with a Harvard sauce. Thicken the beet liquid with cornstarch and add a bit of grated orange rind and juice for delightful variation.

Sprinkle cooked asparagus with grated Swiss cheese and brown under the broiler.

Parsnips: parboil these, then dip in egg and bread crumbs. Fry until a golden brown.

Turnips: cook and mash. Season with butter, salt and pepper and a dash of nutmeg.

This Week's Menu

- Mixed Fruit Juices
- *Lamb Roast
- *Franconia Potatoes
- Carrots
- Fruit Salad
- *Spice Bread
- Butter
- *Caramel Crumb Custard
- *Recipe Given.

*Spice Bread.

- (Makes 1 quart loaf pan)
2½ cups flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon ground cloves
¼ teaspoon ginger
1 cup currants
2 eggs
1 cup milk
¼ cup shortening

Sift flour before measuring. Then sift together flour, baking powder, salt, sugar, cinnamon, nutmeg, cloves and ginger. Wash and drain currants; mix into dry ingredients. Add well beaten eggs, milk and melted shortening to dry ingredients. Stir only until just well combined. Pour into a greased loaf pan. Bake in a moderate (350-degree) oven for about one hour.

Caramel flavoring flirts with custard in this dessert idea. But what's especially nice about this one is that you can bake it along with the bread since both require the same oven temperature. Custard's best baked in individual cups and the custard unmolded onto the dessert plates when ready to serve.

*Caramel Crumb Custard.

- (Serves 8)
½ cup sugar
¼ cup boiling water
3 eggs
1 cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
3 tablespoons melted butter
1 cup coarse dry bread crumbs (crusts removed)
¼ cup caramel syrup

Make a caramel syrup by melting ½ cup sugar in a skillet, very slowly, and allowing to cook until a golden brown. Remove from heat and add boiling water slowly. Return to heat for 10 minutes or until completely dissolved. Separate eggs and beat yolks until lemon colored. Gradually beat in 1 cup sugar, salt, syrup, milk and butter. Add bread crumbs and fold in stiffly beaten whites. Pour into eight glass custard cups. Place in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven (350-degree) about 40 minutes. Serve warm with whipped cream.

Speaking of planning menus that seem to fit both company and family dinner occasions I thought you might like a few suggestions. Here are foods that fit each other because of their flavors blending together so smoothly, because of their balance and contrast in texture and flavor. They're easy to keep in mind and fix at a few hours' notice:

Menu I.

- Consomme With Lemon Slice
- Lamb Steaks With Gravy
- Spinach Ring With Browned Potato Balls
- Apricot and Cream Cheese Salad

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

DISCOVERING WHY PEOPLE DRINK BEVERAGE ALCOHOL

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 43:34; Psalm 104:14, 15; Proverbs 31:4-7; Ecclesiastes 2:1-3, 10, 11; Isaiah 56:12; 1 Corinthians 10:4, 7.
GOLDEN TEXT—Wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging; and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise.—Proverbs 20:1.

The alcohol problem receives attention in four lessons of each year. This is the first one for 1942 and brings before us a number of scriptures not often used, in order to suggest the drinker's reasons for drinking. Other matters appear, but we shall limit ourselves to presenting these reasons, together with the Christian answer to each one.

Why do men drink?

I. To Be Sociable (Gen. 43:34).

At the banquet prepared by Joseph the allowance for Benjamin was greatly increased, and they "drank and were merry." How often that has been the plea which has led into drinking and into drunkenness. The "social glass" has often led to the drunkard's grave.

Well, surely God wants us to be sociable. Yes, He does, and the perfect provision for man's social nature is found in Christian fellowship.

II. To Be Happy (Ps. 104:14, 15).

Wine is supposed to bring happiness, and we may admit that it does bring a temporary lift which some call happiness. But who is satisfied with happiness? It depends entirely on what "happens." If the wrong thing happens we are unhappy. We need a deep abiding joy, and only a right relationship to God can give that.

III. To Evade Responsibility (Prov. 31:4, 5).

When life's burdens become too much for him the weakling seeks relief and evades his responsibilities in the deadening power of alcohol. But that doesn't solve the problem. It is still there when sobriety returns, and usually more serious than ever. What can a man do? The answer is, turn to God. He gives wisdom, grace and strength.

IV. To Forget Sorrow (Prov. 31:6).

"Down your sorrows" is the deceptive promise of liquor; but they stand right there beside man, and when his poor befuddled head begins to clear they present themselves more persistently than ever. What's the answer? The God of all comfort is ready to bear man's sorrows; or to give him grace to bear them and to lead him out into a place of peace and victory.

V. To Forget Poverty (Prov. 31:7).

Heaviness is the affliction of poverty in a world of plenty. Sometimes it is the result of carelessness or of sin, but often it is the lot of those who are innocently caught in its grip. Men have tried to forget, to "down" even this problem in drink, and have only made their poverty worse and more unbearable.

VI. To Find Satisfaction (Eccl. 2:1-3, 10, 11).

The book of Ecclesiastes gives the account of a man "under the sun," that is, apart from God's guidance and blessing; seeking to satisfy the cravings of his heart in many ways. All of them prove vain, including the effort to find it in wine and in pleasure.

Frustrated souls often seek release through intoxicants. They gain a measure of liberty and a sense of masterful power, but it is all as delusive as the dreams of grandeur of the insane. It is even worse, for it is a false condition, deliberately created and soon lost, together with lost character and decency of life. The morning after brings only the deepened despair of greater dissatisfaction.

VII. To Stimulate Hope (Isa. 56:12).

A certain fearful looking forward to the time of judgment tends to dampen the drinker's enthusiasm. So he drinks more to reawaken in his heart the "hope" that tomorrow will not bring reckoning, but will be another "good" day. The world has no real hope, in fact, the world itself has lost its true meaning and indicates only a sort of wishful thinking. Is there any real hope? Oh, yes, and the Christian has it, hope that is a confident expectation of the fulfillment of God's every promise. That kind of hope takes care of tomorrow—and all the tomorrows.

VIII. To Encourage Play (1 Cor. 10:8, 7).

Paul warns against the folly of the "eat, drink, and be merry" philosophy. That road ends in disaster.

Does not God want us to play? Indeed He does. He gave us the instinct for recreation. We need pleasant relaxation, and He has provided for us all the beauties of nature, all the pleasures of wholesome play, and all in the finest of fellowship with His people and with Himself. Thus we find real recreation—not just fun that leaves us empty and dissatisfied.

Anyway, Jonah Had Been Taken In by the Whale!

The nervous curate had arranged to preach on Jonah and the whale.

"And for three days and three nights," he began, "Jonah was in the—"

He blushed, stammered, stopped, and then started again:

"For three days and three nights Jonah was in the—"

Once more he was covered with confusion, and once more he stopped, and mopped his face, from which perspiration was literally pouring.

Then he gathered his courage in both hands, and with a mighty effort he finished triumphantly: "And for three days and three nights Jonah was in the society of the whale."

Cheer up, boys, the groundhog has only nine days to go, not counting today.

What this country needs is more men like General MacArthur, and fewer like Harold Ickes.

So far as we have been able to learn the price of eggs is the only thing that has come down since the war started.

We see by the papers that automobile dealers in Davie county can sell ten new cars during the month of March. We don't know who can buy these cars.

We are still waiting for some man to get busy and open a buggy and carriage factory in Mocksville. Better buy your horse or mule now, as prices are said to be going up.

Mrs. Roosevelt has resigned her Government job, along with Mayor LaGuardia. Now, if Madam Perkins could be prevailed upon to get out of the President's Cabinet, all would be well.

The Democrats who attended the Washington Day dinners, paid from $5 to $100 per plate for the privilege. The money didn't go to purchase victory bonds or stamps. It went to help pay the half million debt owed by the Democrats since the 1940 campaign.

We Knew It.

Rev. H. C. Sprinkle, prominent retired Methodist minister who lives on Salisbury street, has announced that he will be a candidate for the legislature from Davie county, subject to the Democratic primary to be held in May.

The Record didn't know that Rev. Mr. Sprinkle would be a candidate for this important office, but we were pretty sure that W. L. Moore, the present incumbent, wouldn't ask the people of Davie County to vote for him again. We printed this information nearly a year ago.

McMillian To Speak Here

Ray L. McMillan, of Raleigh, state commander of the American Legion, will speak at a meeting of the Davie county post, at the court house, on Monday evening, March 9th, at 8 o'clock. His address will be on national defense. Music will be furnished by the Mocksville high school band. The public is cordially invited to be present.

Of Interest To Farmers

In view of the shortage of farm labor, the request for increased production of certain farm products, and the restriction on the sale of new farm machinery, we cannot stress too much to repair and adjustment of the old farm machines, in order that they will do the job more efficiently, and last longer. With this in mind the Extension service, in cooperation with the International Harvest Company, has arranged for a machinery repair school to be held Mocksville, on March 4th, at 7:30 p. m., Eastern War Time. This school will be held on the third floor of the Sanford Building, and is sponsored jointly by our office, and C. C. Sanford Sons Company, Dealers for The International Harvester Company will conduct the repair school.
It is more important than ever that you learn to repair and adjust your farm machinery, and we wish to invite you to come and bring your neighbors to this school. Two motion picture pictures will be shown at the end of the meeting, entitled, "The Strong Shall Be Free," and "The Marines Have Landed."

A Golly-Whopper.

"It blew and snow
And then it thaw
And now, by jing
It's friz!"
The biggest snow in several years covered the ground here yesterday, measuring nearly 12 inches on the level. The fleecy flakes began falling shortly after 9 o'clock Monday morning and continued without a let up until 5:45 o'clock Monday afternoon. It was indeed a whopper. All Davie county schools were suspended yesterday on account of the heavy snow.

Yes, It Snowed

The folks who have been saying uncomplimentary things about the groundhog and declaring that he had nothing to do with the weather, have been mighty quiet since last Tuesday. On that day snow began falling about 9 o'clock in the morning and continued without a letup until 9 o'clock that evening. The snow was accompanied by brisk winds, and was the fifth and biggest snow of the winter. At seven o'clock Wednesday morning when our official weather man went out with his yard-stick the snow measured 8 inches. A number of auto accidents occurred throughout the county Tuesday. Several cars were badly damaged and at least one or two persons injured. All of the main highways were cleared of snow by early Wednesday morning. Road forces worked most of the night removing the heavy fall of snow. All county schools were closed Wednesday but resumed work Thursday.

The Fight Is On

Rev. Walter E. Isenhour, Hiddenite, N. C. For several years we have realized that some great catastrophe has been hanging over the nations of earth. Why? Because of the tremendous wickedness everywhere in evidence. When men and nations forgo God, forsake the church, reject the warnings of the Holy Bible, refuse to hear the truth, and then go in for all kinds of evil, sinful indulgences, it is quite natural to expect the judgments of God to be poured out. In other words, God allows destructions to come because of the disobedience and wickedness of humanity.

When men and nations forsake God and His righteous cause, and won't repent, there is no other alternative but to suffer for it. And sufferings come as a result of wickedness in three general ways, namely, War, famine and pestilence. The greatest war in all history is now enveloping the earth, so far as we know. If a few more nations become involved, then it will overshadow all nations. We need not blame one man, or one nation, for the war. We don't doubt but that practically all nations are to blame, since they have become ungodly and wicked. If men and nations would obey God, love and serve and worship Him truly and sincerely, they would save themselves of destruction. However, they won't do it, hence the World War that is upon us now.

The fight is on. It is titanic. Men are turning their attention to war such as we have seen before. They are converting their machinery, very largely, into war material. No doubt much of the machinery which has been used to cultivate the soil with which to feed and clothe the human family is now being made into airplanes, tanks, warships, machine guns, etc. with which to kill and slay men by millions, and tear our towns, cities, highways, railways, manufacturing plants, shops and mills to pieces. It is a sad, sad fact. Just what the outcome is going to be I cannot say. But we need not be surprised at anything that may happen as long as rulers and nations are angry at each other, and won't turn to God and repent. If rulers and men in authority would proclaim a fast, then turn to God in deep, humble repentance, and forsake their wicked ways, there would be hope of saving the world from destruction. Otherwise there is no hope.

Guernsey Calf Sale

A promotional sale of purebred Guernsey calves will be conducted at the fair grounds in Winston-Salem on April 3.

Several herds in Forsyth, Yadkin and Davie counties will be represented in the calves consigned to the sale. Aim is to make available pure bred breeding stock to cattlemen who have not yet turned to purebred stock.

S. R. Mitchiner, assistant Forsyth county farm agent, pointed out yesterday that the sale will offer an excellent opportunity for 4 H club boys to purchase purebred stock and begin herds of their own or to obtain material for show preparing purposes.

Italy Loses War

One country has certainly lost the war. That country is Italy. Late report indicate she amounts to little more than a German Province. At the present time, Italians are permitted but 3 1/2 ounces of meat a day and 2 1/2 ounces of butter a month. Even oil, basis of Italian cooking is limited, is limited to half a pint per person monthly. Mussolini's bleeding the country white of foodstuffs and other supplies.—Ex.

Feathering Their Own Nests.

Americans have never fully honored our brave Congressman: Never recognized their matchless courage. Such transcendent worth, such dauntless heroism should be at the front of battle. How General MacArthur would rejoice to have men of this caliber in his army! What other body of men would have the monumental nerve to vote themselves pensions at a time when our children are urged to give their ice cream nickels for defense stamps? It shows that in deed and truth these gentlemen fear nothing. No storm of reproach can disturb the even tenor of their way. At a time when the tide of battle goes against our armed forces and taxamounts to the high heavens, they boldly feather their nests. There is no fear of what the world may say nor that history may some day point the finger of scorn and compare them with the patriots of other days. What are the shades of Patrick Henry or the heroes of Valley Forge to them? Nothing. They can fiddle while Rome burns. Surely they are honorable men. Statesmen these! one and all, unparalleled in all the annals of history. The children will gladly forego their ice cream, the housewife her provisions, that these gentry may have their pensions. Buy bonds and keep our statesmen flying!—P. B. Watson, in Charlotte Observer.

Clergymen To Buy Automobile Tires.

T. S. Johnson, state rationing administrator at Raleigh, has officially announced that clergymen are now eligible to purchase new tires or retreads for their automobiles, if the cars are necessary for the performance of their duties.

Johnson said the rule giving priority ratings to clergymen is contained in revised regulations, covering both new tires and retreads.

Jake Newell Will Quit Chairmanship

The State Republican executive committee, at its meeting in Greensboro, heard Jake Newell, of Charlotte, announce he will not be a candidate to succeed himself as State chairman, and selected Raleigh as the place for the State convention which will be held probably some time in April. The date will be selected later.

While presiding over the annual session of the committee, which is held each year at the time of the holding of the Lincoln Day Dinner, Mr. Newell made known his desire to retire to retire from the party's chairmanship and immediately the names of several outstanding Republican leaders in various sections of the State were brought forward. The election of a new chairman will come at the meeting of the State convention.

Potential candidates, considered to be in the running for chairman, include: Sim A. DeLapp, of Lexington, Davidson county Republican chairman; Bennett Riddle, Morganton, first president of North Carolina Young Republican club; A. I. Ferree, Asheboro, Randolph Republican chairman; Worth Henderson, a Greensboro attorney and Guilford county Republican chairman, and possibly Gilliam Grissom.

The Axis powers are being mauled on one land front and the work is being done by the Red Army. This probably explains why anti-British and pro-Nazi individuals denounce the Soviet army.

The Record is only $1.00.

How Much Longer?

Fantastic as it may seem, the United States still pursues a policy of appeasement with Vichy. Another United States shipload of supplies has gone to Vichy's North African possessions.

News of the boat's sailing was withheld three days, though it could not be considered a military secret. Germany knew all about it; in fact, had guaranteed it safe passage. Could it be, as some commentators have bitterly intimated, that the sailing was kept a secret so that the State Department would not be embarrassed by the stern of protest that would inevitably follow such an announcement?

Shortly after this latest effort to appease Vichy became public knowledge, Lloyds, the British underwriters, showed in published figures that Vichy has received large amounts of food through the French Mediterranean ports, despite the British blockade. The facts are that while Vichy still protests the French people are starving, and there is other evidence that this is true, imports in several important categories, such as fruits and vegetables, coffee and cereals, France has increased its imports over 1938.

The only conclusion that can be drawn is that Vichy is systematically forwarding food supplies to Germany. From the figures published by Lloyds, it is evident that this looting is systematic and on a large scale. It could be possible only through complete co-operation with the Nazi overlords.

As if this were not enough, the State Department is reported to still be of the opinion that the Free French must be compelled to return St. Pierre to Vichy in order to prove that some day the United States will be able to clear the Germans from French soil. At least that is the story the State Department supposedly put out to one reporter. This would seem to be a new high in rationalization.

Early in February, it came to light that Vichy is building six-engine, long range airplanes, capable of flying from Aaris to New York and back with a considerable bomb load. Vichy explains they are being built for commercial purposes.

The State Department points with pride to the fact that Germany has not yet taken over what remains of the French fleet, and says that its appeasement policy has prevented this from happening. Independent investigations show that Vichy knows that French crews would revolt before they would fight for the Germans, and that the Nazis have no available crews capable of taking over the ships.

It has appeared to a great many United States citizens that, whenever this country extends the hand of friendship to Vichy, Hitler has been the one to receive the benefits. It has appeared that appeasement has not worked in this particular case, and has always brought disaster whenever and wherever this policy has been used.

Can it be that these airplanes Vichy is building for "commercial purposes" will take their place with the French fleet as an instrument to wring still further concessions from the United States.

The successful merchant advertises what he has to sell that the buying public wants to buy; there is no sense in advertising something that nobody, including the merchant himself wants.

The way to unity among the people of this country, as they face a bitter war, is through sacrifice, not fault-finding and political maneuvering.

This time next year millions of Americans will become interested in gardens for food. Wait and see.

McNary Says Get Alcohol From Corn

Senator Chas. L. McNary, the Republican candidate for vice president in 1940, has called upon Donald Nelson, war production chief to consider production of industrial alcohol from wheat and corn as one means of alleviating the sugar shortage which is caused partly by diversion of sugar to alcohol production for gunpowder use.

In a letter to Nelson, McNary said that "the much discussed sugar shows how quickly war can convert surpluses into shortage." McNary recalled that for years he had urged the department of agriculture to expand the allotment acreage to beat sugar growers but that in 1941 the allotment was reduced from approximately 1,000,000 acres to 700,000 acres.

While the department of agriculture estimated that acreage will rise again this year it will not meet the sugar problem he said. McNary pointed to several factors; including cutting off supplies from the Phillipines and commitments to ship large quantities of sugar to England and Russia as factors in the sugar shortage.

"Now let me suggest a remedy as part cure for this situation," McNary wrote. "You are probably aware that there is a large carryover of wheat and corn in the country which constitute a real surplus, a goodly portion of which is owned by the government.

"Under existing price levels it is just as cheap to convert wheat and corn, as it is to convert molasses, into alcohol, thereby permitting about one-fifth of the production of sugar for 1942 to be available for domestic consumption instead of for industrial uses."

Horse Trading May Return

Formerly a pastime mingled with business, the art of "horse-trading" seems headed to regain the status it once held among farm folks.

"Old Dobbin" is now worth from $15 to $20 more than the days when tips could be bought for his rival the "horseless carriage." The outlook that the four legged animal would regain his importance on the farms of Alleghany county, has been seen lately, however, in the fact that farmers are once talking "hoses."

Farmers have been busying themselves in recent weeks to repair their farm machinery, because they have been told no more parts or equipment will be available after the present stock is gone. But they visualize the time in the future when a good mule team will be of more value than much mechanized equipment.

Alleghany farmers think perhaps a year from now they may depend upon the horse and his relative the mule, to do the bulk of their farm work. Farms may take on the appearance of several years ago before machines outnumbered working animals.

Whether the old-time nag bartering will come back into its own will only be seen with time. "Lie and let lie," was the motto of horse traders long ago. They frequently did not tell the truth nor did they expect it from their associates, or at least, that's the way it's told to us young squirts of today.

But even today a farmer buying a horse wouldn't okay the deal until a look into the nag's mouth to see how old he is, wave something in front of his eyes to see if he is blind, look at his general appearance and detect any knots or anything unusual. Even the color of the horse or its movements may determine the purchase.

The mule seems embedded but with one ambition, and that is to keep pulling. That will make him a valuable animal when the tractor runs out of gasoline.—Ex.

Men Asked To Enlist

All Navy Recruiting Stations have been notified by the Navy Department to enlist skilled tradesmen and helpers in the newly formed "Navy Construction Regiment." Recently five "Headquarters Construction Companies" of 99 men each were formed. These have proved so successful that it is now desired to enlist and organize an additional force of skilled ratings. This force will be designated as a "Construction Regiment" and will be composed of three Battalions each of four companies of 226 men each, plus one headquarters company of 165 men.

Men between the ages of 17 and 50 who have some knowledge of a skilled trade and others who wish to be helpers may enlist and are urged to apply to the Navy Recruiting Station, Salisbury, N. C., immediately. Truck and tractor operators, concrete mixers, carpenters as well as all other mechanical tradesmen are needed.

Applicants who are accepted are required to enlist in the U. S. Naval Reserve, to serve for the duration of the war, and will be stationed outside the continental limits of the United States. Ratings will be awarded to enlistees according to their ability and knowledge of their trade or profession. Married men will be accepted only with the written consent of the wife. The wages will range from $36 to $134 per month depending on the ability and knowledge of the applicant. Clothing and subsistence will be furnished. Inability to distinguish colors will be no bar to enlistment.

Above you see a torpedo fired by an Axis sub off the island of Aruba. It missed its target and ran aground. Later the 18-foot missile exploded, killing four Dutchmen who were attempting to dismantle it. Inset: Lieut. Col. William Ratten, of the U. S. army, climbs a ladder to inspect a 4 by 6-inch dent in an oil tank on the island of Aruba following the torpedo and shelling attack of Axis subs.

Cavalry Still Potent Military Factor

It was thought for awhile the horse in war was a back number. The U. S. army never acknowledged that theory, and events in Russia, where Cossack cavalry continued to counter-attack when snow and intense cold immobilized tanks, seem to indicate that cavalry is still to be reckoned with. Above you see part of a cavalryman's training at Fort Riley, Kan. "West Point" of the cavalry area, Lieut. Col. George Caldwell is instructing student officers in the external regions of the horse.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—With all the bad news now coming through, there is reassurance in finding an intelligence officer who is really intelligent. Acts Like Man of Thought; Thinks As Man of Action. If he is both intelligent and optimistic, it's like finding a four-leaf clover. The congenial optimists this department has known in the last few years haven't been any too bright.

Everybody who knows Col. Egmont Francis Koenig, intelligence officer of the First air force, stationed at Mitchel Field, L. I., testifies that he is "smart in the head." As to his hopeful outlook, here's his current observation about plane production.

"I can assure you that were you to know the exact figures of actual bomber production your heart would swell with pride, as did mine when these figures were confided to me."

The First air force comprises 22 states of this region. As head of its G-2 section, Colonel Koenig is its eyes and ears, and its alarm clock. If he happens to be an optimist, he has to work like a pessimist, who expects the worst. Small, agile, diligent and alert, insatiably curious about many things, he is at the opposite pole of the brass-hat army tradition, easy to see, an enemy of red tape, popular with his men and a multitude of others eager to give him an earful about anything they consider important.

Colonel Koenig's mind has many facets all of which were polished up in various pursuits before he entered the first World war as an amateur soldier and rose rapidly in rank as an apt pupil in the science of arms. A native of New York, he was in Europe as correspondent of the old New York World when the war started and entered the army as a second lieutenant. Two years later, in 1918, he was a major, at the age of 26.

Back home in 1920, he entered the chemical warfare service. He was one of the founders and the first lecturer at the Army Industrial college, later an instructor at the Fort Riley Cavalry school, and then in Hawaii for two years. He was back in 1935, teaching military history and intelligence at the general staff school at Fort Leavenworth.

He attended St. Francis Xavier and took his bachelor of arts degree from Columbia in 1912.

DEAN SWIFT said he had grave misgivings about the human race as a whole but he couldn't help liking John and Peter and Paul.

Free Frenchmen In the current tragedy of "Man against himself," this department finds the highly personalized aspects of the encounter the most encouraging.

One feels that way in meeting Lieut. Gen. Louis Souques of the Free French, in New York, en route to London from French Equatorial West Africa. If you happen to think that there is too much machinery in this war and you long for a dash of the Beau Sabreur, fending off black legions with a broken blade, you instantly assign the general this role, and feel much better about the chances for a happy ending. The general's career to date is a reminder that he and the other Free French leaders are tough, realistic, hard-hitting, resourceful and experienced fighting men, who would give battle with cobblestones if they had to.

Obviously the lean, whipper general would have fought with the Alpine Chasseurs. He would wear on his tunic the Croix de Guerre and the ribbon of the Legion of Honor and other decorations.

Asked whether Hitler would be able effectively to convert and use the continental resources of labor and materials, or whether increasing sabotage might pull him down, the general replied:

"At present, Hitler is converting much of these resources, and it would be unwise to underestimate this. But his troubles are already beginning as the conversion turns from consumer goods to capital goods. Obviously, the Germans must center on heavy industry, in utilizing French plants and labor for the war, and the curve of sabotage will go right on up with this effort."

We asked whether the betrayal of France by certain highly placed politicians had been due to the infiltration of Nazi doctrine or to venality. "Most of them were just grafters," he said. "They didn't care much about political philosophies, but they loved money and they feared communism. Petain wasn't a grafter, but long before the war he had looked sympathetically on what he considered the German achievement of order and discipline. He was an honest believer in his own conception of an authoritarian state."

Star Dust

STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO
By VIRGINIA VALE
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

PRACTICALLY all motion picture and radio stars are doing everything they can to help in this time of national crisis. Dorothy Lamour sold more bonds on that recent trip of hers than anyone else in the country has so far; men like Bob Hope and Bing Crosby are giving much of their free time to playing benefits. Constance Moore was all set for a tour of army camps, singing songs from her various films, when an impacted wisdom tooth kept her home. Recovering from that, she acquired an infected toe, but went ahead anyway.

Fred Waring has succeeded in keeping his contribution to the armed forces' entertainment out of the newspapers—but if you've a man in the service who's in or near New York pass this news along to him. Twice a month Fred gives a party at the club rooms which he maintains for the men in his band. He gets his guests from the service clubs, taking the army, navy and marines in turn. Wives of the bandmen whip up marvelous refreshments, the band's camera fiends take pictures, pretty girls are on hand as dancing partners.

The other day Joel McCrea donned five different sets of makeup to make tests for five different roles which he plays in the brief prologue of "I Married a Witch," in which he appears opposite Veronica Lake. But for the main role he needs practically none!

Franchot Tone goes very, very athletic for the first time in "Highly Irregular," in which he co-stars with Joan Bennett. He has a rousing fight with a pair of Gestapo men, also hurdles over tables and benches. Result so far—one sprained tendon.

When movie folks say "See Eddie about it," they refer to Edward Arnold, the busiest actor in Hollywood. President of the Screen Actors' Guild, chairman of the Hollywood Permanent Charities committee, head of the U.S.O. for the screen industry, representative of the National Defense committee, active in Red Cross and Community Chest drives—he still finds time to do fine work in pictures.

Glady's Swarthout's radio and concert engagements for the next six months have been insured for $2,000 each by Lloyds of London, the American insurance company which sponsors those Sunday afternoon Family Hour Broadcasts can't insure its own star—American companies aren't allowed to assume this type of risk. Not that it's such a risk—Miss Swarthout has missed only one radio engagement in 10 years of broadcasting.

A year and a half ago Major Bowes introduced Walter Williams, 64-year-old singer of Irish folk tunes, on the air. In a lonely cabin in Alaska, Arthur Williams heard his brother's voice. Arthur had left home in 1907, had been declared legally dead in 1917. He packed up and started East, finally got to New York and was reunited with his brother—thanks to the major.

That popular air show, "Duffy's Tavern," will celebrate St. Patrick's day by moving to the Tuesday evening spot that's been occupied by "We, the People."

"The Aldrich Family," one of radio's youngest among top ranking shows, has been named the outstanding commercial radio program in the Annual Advertising awards recently announced—an honor that has been held in recent years by Jack Benny, Information Please and Fibber McGee and Molly. A jury composed of leading advertising men decides upon the awards.

ODDS AND ENDS—Jean Arthur's back on her home lot, Columbia, for the first time since "Arizona," to make "The Gentlemen Misbehave" with Cary Grant and Ronald Colman. Kay Kyser's lost his trumpet, Tommy Jones, who has joined the U. S. army air force. Betty Field will star in "Triumph Over Pain" as the wife of the dentist who discovered anaesthesia; Joel McCrea will portray the dentist. Charles Boyer recently and very proudly became an American citizen. Regis Toomey's screen career began in Paramount; he's back there again now, to play an important role in "The Forest Rangers."

Best Occupation

Agriculture for an honorable and high-minded man, is the best of all occupations or arts by which men procure the means of living.—Xenophon.

What's This?

It's 35 feet of intestines—5 or 6 times the length of your body, through which everything you eat must pass. Nature usually sends no help, but the wrong food, or too much of it, can cause temporary blockage (constipation) with aggravating gas, headaches, listlessness or bad breath. ADLERKA, with its 6 cathartic and 3 laxative ingredients, relieves gas quickly and gets bowel action surprisingly fast. Ask your druggist for ADLERKA.

FIRST AID to the AILING HOUSE

by Roger B. Whitman
(© Roger B. Whitman—WNU Service.)

Interior Decoration.

A CORRESPONDENT who is planning to redecorate her dining room and living room asks for suggestions on colors that would go with her Swedish modern furniture. She asks also whether the trend is towards paint or wallpaper for the walls. She adds that the trim is now finished with light varnish, and is uncertain as to whether or not paint would be better. Interior decoration is so dependent on personal likes and dislikes that it is difficult for an outsider to give an opinion, especially if he is not acquainted with the rooms; the exposure, the number of windows, and the proportions. The furnishings of the rooms must also be considered; the colors of the rugs, upholstery and draperies. Home owners should make up their own minds as to what they want; for after all, the decorations of their rooms express their own personalities. A middle-aged and gracious couple would feel more at home in a Colonial background of handsome mahogany than in a bleached and streamlined environment appropriate to the younger generation. The larger department stores specialize in interior decoration, and exhibit a variety of rooms furnished and decorated in different styles. My best advice to my correspondent is to visit the exhibits, and to discuss her problem with the expert decorators in charge. She will probably find them willing to visit her house and to study the conditions.

Construction Details

Question: I am planning to build a summer home in the northern lake country. Where can I get information on the building of a chimney and fireplace and on installing plumbing and a sewerage system?
Answer: Pamphlets on these subjects can be had from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C. Ask for Farmers' Bulletin 1649: "Chimneys and Fireplaces," and Farmers' Bulletin 1426: "Farm Plumbing." Each costs five cents, which should be sent in coin. Ask also for Price List 72: "Publications of Interest to Suburbanites and Home Builders," which will be sent without charge. It covers many subjects that should be of interest to you.

Hot Water Supply

Question: I have a hot air furnace with a coal stoker, an automatic gas water heater and a small water heater that burns rubbish. The water in winter is so cold that extra gas must be burned to heat it. To save gas, could I put a water heating coil in the furnace connected to the rubbish burner, or could I use a tempering tank?
Answer: A water heating coil in the firebox is not satisfactory, because the temperature cannot be controlled. There is likely to be trouble from steaming, and explosion is possible. It would be safer to use a tempering tank connected with the small stove, in which a low but continuous coal fire will provide enough heat to take off the chill.

Iodine Stain

Question: The bottom of our enameled bathtub has brown stains, possibly from iodine, which will not come off with bleaching. How can they be removed?
Answer: An iodine stain can be taken out with household ammonia or with a solution of photographic hypo in water, strength not being important. Neither of these will injure the enamel.

Cleaning Stainless Steel

Question: Copper clad stainless steel kettles have been badly blackened or burned in a fire. How can they be cleaned?
Answer: Rub with fine steel wool and cleaning powder. If you want to renew the original polish, your best move will be to have them cleaned at a plating shop. A garage can give you the address of one nearby.

Roots in Sewer

Question: What will destroy willow roots that have grown into the sewer pipes?
Answer: Dissolve one-half pound or more of copper sulphate (blue vitriol) in a plumbing fixture and let it drain into the sewer. This will kill the roots and the effect will last for several weeks.

Solled Tile

Question: Parts of the tile floor in the bathroom of a house we have just bought are dirty looking in places. Kerosene does not clean it. What can we use?
Answer: Floor tile can be cleaned with scouring powder rubbed on with steel wool. For some stains bleaching liquid can be used.

Solled Golf Bag

Question: How can I clean a canvas golf bag?
Answer: Get after it with soap and water and a stiff scrubbing brush.

Crumbling Foundations

Question: Bricks and concrete blocks in foundations are crumbling. How can this be stopped?
Answer: Paint with a mixture of portland cement and water to the consistency of cream. Follow with a coat of 1 part portland cement and 3 parts clean building sand, with only enough water to make a workable mixture. Before starting, the walls should be thoroughly soaked with water. For a building of any importance, the job should be done by a competent mason.

This Golden, Fluffy Omelet Captures Interest (See Recipes Below)

Lenten Meals

Eggs, cheese, fish and vegetables—these are the foods that will be popular with the market basket during the next few weeks. If you are going to form the bases for your menu from these dishes cook them just as carefully as you do the meat that you use year 'round, for you can't take chances and let mealtime become dull or unattractive. Add a dash of fish and vegetables with lemon or other attractive sauces and flavorings. Serve your egg and macaroni dishes in attractive settings, with some carefully thought out garnish. Play up fruit and dessert numbers to lend interest to meals. If you heed these simple rules, I'm sure they'll make Lent especially attractive for you and your family. Now, for some concrete help, I've chosen foods to fit the season. They're vitamin, mineral and interest-laden.

Macaroni Cheese Custard.

(Serves 6 to 8)
1 package macaroni, cooked
2 eggs, slightly beaten
2 cups grated cheese
2 tablespoons onion, chopped
2 tablespoons parsley, chopped
1 pint milk, chopped
Salt and pepper
2 cups evaporated milk
Combine ingredients and pour into a buttered baking dish. Set in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate (375-degree) oven for 45 minutes.

An appetite-satisfying omelet?

You can't believe it? Well, this one is, because it's made with a cream cheese and chive mixture that makes the omelet heartier, and also keeps it from shrinking discouragingly the moment it comes from the oven. A slow oven is essential to a fluffy, orange-gold omelet.

"Cream Cheese Omelet."

(Serves 6)
¼ pound cream cheese with chives
3 eggs
2 tablespoons milk
Salt and pepper
Soften the chive cream cheese, blend in egg yolks one at a time. Add milk and seasonings. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into a well-buttered, heavy frying pan and cook over low heat until bottom begins to brown. Then place in a moderate (325-degree) oven until the top is dry and the mixture firm. Fold and serve.

The name is goldenrod because the dish bears a close resemblance to a flower of that name.

Just combine the goldenrod eggs with a tempting green spinach ring and you have a real Lenten treat.

Spinach Ring With Goldenrod Eggs.

(Serves 8)
4 pounds spinach
¼ cup salad oil

Lynn Says:

Sauces that accent the best flavor in foods include these:
Lemon Butter: 2 parts butter to 1 part lemon juice. This is good on the leafy vegetables, cabbage, sprouts and artichokes.
Vinegar Butter: Melt ½ cup butter, add 2 tablespoons vinegar and heat thoroughly. This is good on green beans.
Mustard Butter: Add just a bit of dry mustard to melted butter before pouring on vegetables. With this, onions, greens or broccoli are indicated.
Parsley Butter: Chop 3 to 4 tablespoons parsley fine, add to ½ cup melted butter.
Tart Sauce: (also good on fish) Put in double boiler 2 egg yolks, ¼ cup cream, ½ teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons lemon juice, stick of nutmeg. Cook until thick and creamy, stirring constantly about 2 minutes. Be careful not to overcook. Stir in slowly, 2 tablespoons butter and serve at once.

¼ cup melted butter
¼ cup flour
¼ teaspoon salt
Pepper to taste
2 cups milk
4 hard-cooked eggs
Blend butter and flour, salt and pepper. Heat mixture and add milk gradually. Stir after each addition of milk to make a smooth sauce. Separate egg yolks and whites. Slice whites and add to prepared sauce. Pour sauce into unmolled spinach ring. Press yolks through a sieve to top sauce. Garnish with paprika, parsley and lemon quarters.

"Carrot, Pineapple, Raisin Salad."

Wash, scrape, and grate carrots finely, allow 2 carrots per person. Add cut pineapple, and either white or muscatel raisins and enough mayonnaise to hold mixture together.

A soufflé is a properly dramatic Lenten dish, but one which must be baked carefully if it is to come to the dining room at the peak of goodness.

Select a cheese that will cook readily and smoothly, a dish that is in good proportion to the soufflé, and cook the mixture at a very low temperature so it can rise to its height slowly.

Cheese Soufflé.

(Serves 6)
4 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons flour
1 ½ cups milk
1 teaspoon salt
Dash of cayenne
½ pound processed cheddar cheese
6 eggs
Make a sauce of the butter, flour, milk and seasonings. When thick and smooth, remove from fire and add sliced cheese. Stir until cheese is melted. Add beaten egg yolks and mix well. Cool mixture, fold in stiffly beaten whites. Pour into a 2-quart casserole, bake 1 ½ hours in a slow (300-degree) oven. Serve at once.

Cookies spell cheer to menus, especially if there's fruit to go with them.

Made in two layers, these are a delightful variation of drop and "cut-in-squares" cookies:

Cornflake Dream Bars.

(Makes 40 bars)
First part:
¼ cup butter
¼ cup brown sugar
1 cup flour
Second part:
1 cup brown sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup shredded coconut
1 cup cornflakes
1 cup chopped nuts
Blend butter and sugar thoroughly. Add flour and blend with fork or dough-blender. Press mixture evenly and firmly into bottom of a shallow pan (9 by 13-inch pan). Bake in a moderate (350-degree) oven about 15 minutes or until delicately browned.
Beat eggs well, add sugar gradually and beat until light and fluffy. Add remaining ingredients and mix well. Drop by spoonfuls on top of previously baked crust and spread evenly. Lesson for March 15

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 8:23-34.
GOLDEN TEXT—What manner of man is this, that even the winds and the sea obey him?—Matthew 8:27.

THE MIGHTY WORKS OF JESUS

The mighty works of Jesus declared Him to be the Son of God—yes, very God Himself. Unbelieving men who would discredit the Word of God and deny the Godhood of the Son are at much labor and trouble to explain away the miracles, but without any success.

In our lesson for today we have Christ showing His divine power over the forces of nature, and over the demons of the evil spirit world. We find the disciples in the storm—

I. Fearful—but Not in Danger (vv. 23-27).

The Son of God—who had become Son of man—showed His true humanity by that weariness which made Him sleep through a tempestuous storm such as often came upon Lake Galilee. "Like a general in time of war Jesus slept when He could."

As He calmly slept, fear of destruction laid its deadly grip upon the hearts of the disciples. For the moment they saw only the angry waves, the smallness of their craft, the hopelessness of their situation, apparently forgetting that with Christ in the boat they were in no danger, in spite of the fearfulness of their surroundings and circumstances.

Is this not clearly a lesson for us in this day so full of alarms and fears? If we think of circumstances and conditions round about us we shall be overcome with fear—and well we may, if we do not have Christ with us in the boat of life. But if He is there—if we are His in the kinship of regenerating grace—we are in no danger. Shall we not accept the tender rebuke, "Why are ye fearful, O ye of little faith?" (v. 26).

The majestic scene of Christ stilling the tempest, reminds us not only that He can control any force of nature, but also that there is no storm of heart or mind or life to which He cannot authoritatively say, "Peace, be still" (Mark 4:39). Will you trust Him with your problem?

On the other side of the lake Christ met another kind of need—and cared for it. He there delivered two men who were—

II. Demon-dominated, but Not Hopeless (vv. 28-34).

There is only one devil, but he has many demons who do his bidding. The evidence is clear that these demons were able to enter into the personality of a human being and take control of the life. This was not insanity or a sickness of the body, but devil domination.

These two men (Mark and Luke speak only of one—perhaps the more violent of the two) were so strong and wicked because of the demon in them, that their relatives and friends had given them up as hopeless and had sent them out to live in the wilderness.

How horrible is the power of the devil in the life of any man or woman. But let us never forget that while no man can control such a situation (Mark 5:4), God is able. "With God all things are possible" (Matt. 19:26). We have not done all we can for our devil dominated friends and relatives until we have brought them to Jesus.

Notice that the demons recognized Christ as the Son of God (v. 29). They knew that He had the power to control them and that the day was to come when He would judge them.

The men were completely cured (Mark 5:15) as the demons were permitted to enter the herd of swine. Those poor beasts, apparently not content to harbor the evil spirits, cast themselves into the sea. When the people of the land heard what had taken place they asked Jesus to leave. They evidently weighed the relative value of two men in their right mind over against a herd of swine and decided that they could not afford to have men delivered from the devil at such expense.

Perseverance

Soldiers must break step in marching over a bridge, for the vibration caused by their marching in step would shake down the most solid structure. And so it is with the spiritual obstacle you may meet: steady tramping, the plodding doing of your duty day after day, will in time tumble it over. In any task to which God sets you perseverance is all the power you need.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Discarded Kidney Action
Modern life with its hurry and worry brings habits, improper eating and drinking—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.
You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, tired, irritable, swollen feet and tingling, numbness, all warn you. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to burn off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. An occasional Doan's will keep you ever-healthy. Ask your neighbor!

With the cost of living and dying going upward weekly, seems like something will have to be done by somebody.

The scarcer auto tires get the fewer lives will be lost in auto wrecks. There is a silver lining to many dark clouds.

Jesse Jones says he is not responsible for the shortage of rubber. Who is? All we know is that most folks can't buy any automobile tires.

Davie county has many young men in the army, the Navy and the Marines. These boys will do their part in putting Hitler and the Japs out of business.

The Republicans of Davie county will name a man to represent this district in the State Senate, in the spring primary. Yackin named the man two years, and Wilkes furnished the Senator four years ago. Up to this time no candidate has announced for this office. We imagine the boys are waiting for the weather to warm up a little. The man who gets the nomination will no doubt be elected by a good majority, as Wilkes and Yackin give a big Republican majority, with Davie very close.

This is no time to sit down and wait for business to come to you. It is true that there is a war going on, the worst in the history of the world, but people have to be fed and clothed. Mills and factories have to keep operating to manufacture the necessities of life. Business must go on if the country is to survive. The farmers cannot quit farming because overalls are scarce and plant bed canvas high. The farmer, the mechanic, the factory worker, the editor, the lawyer, doctor and preacher must carry on. The war will be over one of these days. Get busy and keep busy.

Davie Boy Promoted

Sergeant Robert W. Richie, of Hq Co., 1st Bn. 32nd Armored Regiment, of the 3rd Armored (Bayon Blitz) Division, stationed at Camp Polk, La., has been promoted to Staff Sergeant. It was announced by Colonel W. H. Jones, Jr., commanding officer of the 32nd Armored Regiment.

Staff Sergeant Richie is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Richie, of Cana.

The 3rd Armored Division, one Uncle Sam's panzer units, is commanded by Major General Walton H. Walker.

The Record is glad to congratulate Robert. He has been in the Army for several years, and is making good. We hope that some day he will be a Colonel or General.

To Selective Service Men

The War Department has announced that in the near future Selective Service registrants who have been deferred solely because of dependency will be given an opportunity to qualify as officer candidates by volunteering for induction through Selective Service. It is stated today by General J. Van B. Metts, State Director of Selective Service.

This policy will make it possible for registrants who have dependents to obtain commissions, if they can qualify themselves for commissions, and thereby enable them to serve in the armed forces of the nation in this hour of grave emergency, and at the same time take care of their dependents, the Director stated.

Pending the formulation of procedure with respect to this matter, registrants desiring information regarding their opportunity to volunteer for this purpose were advised by the Director to file their names and addresses with their local boards. Full information will be furnished as soon as it is available.

Cross Bearing

By Rev. Robert M. Hardee, Mocksville.

"Take up your cross and follow me."

This morning I stood here in this little town among the mothers, fathers, brothers, sisters, wives and sweethearts of twenty-six young men from Davie county as they said farewell to their loved ones who were leaving for camp.

I remembered seeing the mothers tell their boys goodbye in the other war, and watching the old train leave our little home town with mothers in tears and hearts aching for their boys.

When Jesus lived here on earth He said to his followers, "Take up your cross and follow me." Life is not always easy—we have our trials, our sorrows, our disappointments, our heartaches, and our dark days, but we have the assurance of a Savior who experienced far more than we have been called on to endure. Jesus suffered. He knew that death on the cross awaited Him, yet he was unafraid. He had courage and faith.

He was not trusting in Himself but in his Heavenly Father. We are called on to trust in this same God. You parents who have said goodbye to your boys are bearing your cross. Jesus bore his cross. You may have still a heavier cross to bear, but you are not afraid; you are brave and you have faith. We do not understand all of the mysteries of life and the suffering that we have to bear, but we know that Jesus bore His cross and made out of it a symbol of our faith. We can make out of our cross, out of our suffering and out of our sorrows a triumphant spirit of victory and faith that cannot be conquered. Our faith and courage is challenged. Let us bear our crosses remembering that others all around the world in every nation, mothers and loved ones of our so-called enemies are going through the same experience that we are now suffering. Jesus did not go to the cross in vain. He did not bear His cross that an would one day be victorious in the world. He bore his cross and suffered on the cross in order to make an atonement for the sin of the world. One day out yonder in the future, there will be no more wars and the spirit of brotherhood and peace will reign in the hearts of all men. This is God's promise.

From A Davie Soldier.

Dear Mr. Stroud:—This being my first letter to you and The Record, I take great pleasure in telling you I haven't forgotten you or my many friends back home. Neither will I ever forget good old Davie county, a place that has meant so much to me, if I be near or far from it.

I have been here in Florida since last July. There are a lot of the boys here. I left with Boger, Peacock, Haines Yates, Kermit Smith, Charlie Hege. These last boys came from a Georgia camp about two months ago. I like it fine, though it's not a place of "Sunshine and Flowers," as often we've heard, for there has been some cold weather, although it never snows.

Mr. Stroud, it will soon be a year since you gave me that good luck handshake while I was waiting for the bus to take me for a year's training in the service. As we all know, there has been a great change in our national situation since then. I'm willing to stay and do my part towards victory for all of us. We must all face these things as they come about us.

As you know, Mr. Stroud, my mother has three sons in the service. I know she will be glad to see the day all of us can be together again. I am the oldest, but not the first to go. Write me if you like, and if you ever come to Florida be sure and visit me. I'll show you what I know of it. Here's wishing you many years of success.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Elkins, of Greensboro, spent Sunday in this section.

Mrs. D. L. Richardson, who has been on the sick list, is improving. Her many friends will be glad to know.

Bob Cleary, of Ft. Bragg, spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Cleary.

The subject at the Gossip Club Saturday night was about the groundhog and the big snow. The old timer who said some time ago that there were two things he didn't have any confidence in, the groundhog and the New Deal, says he has changed his mind about the weather hog, but not about the New Deal.

Fire Does Little Damage

The fire department was called to put out a roof fire at the home of J. N. James in North Mocksville Monday afternoon at 1:45 o'clock. It is thought a spark blew out of the chimney under the eaves. The damage was slight.

Letter From A Marine.

Dear Mr. Stroud:—Just a few lines to let you know how a Marine lives down on Paris Island. I like it fine. You have been getting a lot of letters from draftees in the army, but I haven't noticed seeing a letter from a Marine in The Record, so I will tell you kinder how we live. We get up at five o'clock in the morning and get ready forchow. Then we start drilling for the day. Sometimes we have it pretty hard, then again it's not so hard. We have to be in bed at 10 o'clock.

I sure do enjoy getting The Record ever, week I enjoy reading the news from my home town.

I hear that several of my friends have been drafted in the army since I joined the Marines. Hope they like it as well as I do. I think the Marine life is swell, and I do not believe any boy would go wrong if he enlisted in the Marines.

Again I want to say I enjoy The Record every week. Keep up the good work, and I am sure all the boys in service will enjoy reading it. If you folks back home back us up, I am sure we will go over the top, waving the Red, White and Blue.

Attention, Citizens!
Practice Blackout Warning--Please Read Carefully

On Tuesday evening, March 17, 1942, at eight o'clock, the City of Mocksville will have a practice blackout of fifteen minutes duration.

Promptly at eight o'clock the air raid signal, which is a long wailing blast of two minutes duration will sound. Two minutes later a regular fire alarm signal will be sounded. Your air raid wardens request that the citizens be particularly attentive to these two signals so that they will not be confused when used in real service.

All citizens are urged to comply with the blackout regulations by extinguishing all lights that might be visible from outside the building and stay inside. All local motorists are asked to pull to the curb and put out their lights. Through traffic will not be stopped, but will be asked to dim lights and drive slowly.

The fire trucks will be on quiet observation patrol during the blackout so do not become alarmed if they are seen passing.

Those who have certificates and who volunteered for first aid service will hold themselves in readiness to report to Dr. Long's Hospital if called by Dr. Long who is in charge of this organization.

When the "All clear" signals sound, lights will come on and everything will return to normal.

Remember that while this is only a practice blackout, it may be instrumental in saving of lives and property later. Let's all cooperate and make it 100 per cent. efficient, thereby adding to the confusion of our enemies.

Chief Warden.

Smith Grove Gets New Curtains For Stage

Smith Grove School has recently conducted an advertising campaign and thereby secured new curtains for the stage. Many friends in Mocksville and in Winston, besides the local people co-operated and helped to make this possible. The curtains were put up on Monday, March 2. The printing on the advertising curtain is very readable. The other curtain is maroon in color, with a gold trim. It is made of Piedmont Velour.

The Smith Grove lunchroom also comes in for something new, but it was secured in quite another way. On February, 26, a new Westinghouse refrigerator was bought and installed there. This is a much needed improvement and those in charge think the lunchroom very lucky to be able to get it just now.

Household Hints

Salt meat requires longer boiling than fresh. Put it into cold water, quickly bring it to a boil, then let it simmer.

When using a double boiler, the food will cook more quickly if the water in the outer vessel is salted in the proportion of a fourth of a cup of salt to one quart of water.

Always keep perfume in a dark place. Daylight will affect every odor differently, according to its formula. In extreme cases perfume turns bright red as soon as it has been exposed to the sun.

To bring out the full flavor of raisins, dates, currants or figs, soak them in a little boiling water for five minutes. Two tablespoons of boiling water for each half cup of fruit will be satisfactory.

Keep your furnace, flues and chimney clean. Dirt and soot cut down furnace efficiency. Cleaning once a year should be enough, but if you burn a high-soot coal, your furnace may need cleaning twice a season.

THE FABRUS 2 DROP HEAD COOL THE AIR. USE 2 DROPS OF COOLING, SOOTHING PENETRO NOSE DROPS.

SHE LOVED A SPY

by SYLVIA TAYLOR

THE STORY SO FAR: Joan Leland, secretary, is discharged by her employer, Arthur Mulford, importer, who refuses any explanation for the act. She takes a secretarial position with Karl Miller, handsome proprietor of a night club. She is fascinated by him and when he gets her sister Sybil, a new job and takes her into his arms, her joy knows no end. She meets his club manager, Paul Sherman, who warns her about working for Karl, but refuses to give his reasons. Then Karl introduces her to his partner, Eric Strom, and she refuses his secret invitation to dinner. During a ride with Karl they board a freighter ship and when Karl asks her if he can show her the world she melts into his arms with an affirmative answer. Sybil notices that he never mentions marriage to Joan, but Joan defends him. Eric Strom seizes an opportunity to try to make love to her, when Paul Sherman walks in and knocks him out with one blow. Karl sends Joan with a package to the freighter captain. Paul follows. He takes her to a hotel grill.

CHAPTER VII

"Listen to me, Joan!" Paul said in a low voice. "You were right. I have been following you but only for your own protection. You don't know what you're getting into. I've tried to warn you but you won't listen."

"You have never said anything except that I wasn't the type to work in a night club." In spite of her annoyance, she felt compelled to listen.

"There are some things I can't tell you, but you must trust me. Do you think I'd be risking my own position this way if I didn't feel that it was terribly important?"

Silently she stared at him.

"I know you think you're in love with Karl," Paul went on quickly. "But if he is sincere, Joan, why doesn't he ask you to marry him? Isn't that proof enough that there's something wrong with the picture?"

His steady brown eyes gazed into hers. She twisted her hands nervously. Paul's words had quickened the doubt in her own heart but she said calmly, "I don't see that it's any of your business."

He smiled wryly. "I'm only using that as an example to prove to you that Karl Miller is not on the level. Believe me, I don't go around meddling in other people's affairs without reason."

The sincerity in his voice was unmistakable as he continued, "I can't tell you now what that reason is. All I can do is to warn you that Karl Miller will never marry you."

Her voice was ragged with alarm. "How do you know? What right have you to say that?"

"You poor kid! You're really in love with him, aren't you?"

A lump rose in her throat. "He's wrong about Karl," she thought. "He must be. Karl loves me!"

Paul went on. "There's no use kidding yourself, Joan! If you don't believe me, why don't you ask him and find out for yourself?"

Joan raised challenging green eyes to his. "All right! Maybe I will!"

Paul Sherman's warning had disturbed Joan. Paul had said that Karl would never marry her. Why? Paul had even challenged her to find out for herself whether or not Karl was sincere.

She was awake early the next morning. Lazily she watched Sybil dress to leave for the beauty shop.

When Sybil had gone Joan tried to sleep but it was useless. At nine o'clock she rose, dressed, and drank a glass of orange juice and a cup of coffee.

Shortly before ten she left the apartment and went downtown. To satisfy her curiosity she walked past the shop where she had been employed formerly by Arthur Mulford. It was vacant and a For Rent sign hung in the window.

"Karl didn't lie about that then!" she told herself, recalling that he had said Mulford had quit the importing business.

Why was she doubting him? Was it really because of Paul's warning? Or because of her own small doubts that she had concealed so carefully the last few weeks?

As she walked down Grant avenue, deep in her own thoughts, a voice surprised her. "Hello, Joan! What are you doing out so early?"

She looked up into the smiling face of Karl Miller.

"What's the matter, liebchen? You look surprised."

It was impossible to doubt him when she was with him. His magnetism banished her fears.

"I am surprised to see you," she admitted.

He took her arm and they walked slowly up Grant avenue past the shops, into the crowded narrow streets of Chinatown. Karl stopped at a sidewalk flower stand to purchase three waxen gardenias.

"We'll have lunch together," he promised, "and take a drive. Would you like that?"

As they sat eating lunch, served by a bland, unsmiling Oriental, Joan felt a thrill of pride. The thought of losing him aroused a fierce emotion in her heart. Would he ever transfer the tenderness he had given her to another woman? How could she be sure unless... But Paul's words rang in her ears! "He'll never marry you. Ask him and see..."

"You are worrying about something," Karl said. "What troubles you?"

What would he think if he really

Paul Sherman's warning had disturbed Joan. Paul had said that Karl would never marry her.

denied. "I just wondered, that's all."

Joan could not worry about Sybil's meaning now. She could not worry about anything. Karl wanted to marry her! His ring gleamed or her white hand! She could scarcely wait to see Paul Sherman and tell him the good news, but Paul did not appear at the Club Elite that night or for several nights to come.

The days passed rapidly, magically for Joan.

"You'll have to get a new secretary," she told Karl. "My mind is definitely not on my work."

He smiled at her. "There's plenty of time for that later."

And then one night, as Joan sat alone in the office typing, Paul Sherman made an appearance. He was as good-looking, as debonair and cheerful as ever.

"Did you miss me?" he inquired, grinning at Joan. "Karl sent me out of town."

Joan smiled. She was going to enjoy telling Paul. He had been so sure about Karl, so prejudiced. "Not much," she informed him airily. "A lot has happened while you were gone."

"Such as what?"

"Karl and I are going to be married," she said proudly.

Paul's expression changed. He advanced towards Joan's desk repeating incredulously, "Do you mean that Karl Miller has asked you to marry him?"

There was something in his face that took the joy out of her announcement but she said calmly, "Yes! You were wrong about Karl."

"I was wrong all right," he agreed savagely. "I suppose nothing I can say now will make any difference."

Joan smiled. "That's right."

"When is the happy event taking place?"

"In about two or three months. We're going away on a long honeymoon."

"Is that so?"

Joan was really annoyed with him now. The least he could do was admit he had been wrong.

"Well, it's your funeral, my girl!" Paul said, and jamming his hat down on his head he bolted out of the office.

Joan smiled as she turned back to her work. Perhaps Sybil had been right. Maybe Paul was in love with her. But he certainly had a peculiar way of showing it.

Sybil seldom mentioned her sister's approaching marriage. She was behaving strangely these days, saying little, staring into space for long periods.

And so life moved on triumphantly until the week before Christmas. It was a rainy, windy winter day and San Franciscans thronged the shops armed with umbrellas and golashes. The stores were open at night now and Joan found herself elbowing her way through the crowd. She had dined downtown preparatory to buying Karl's Christmas present.

"Ten past eight!" Joan exclaimed, glancing at the clock on the corner. "I'll have to come back tomorrow."

She took a taxi to the Club Elite and arrived breathlessly in Karl's private office.

He laughed at her excitement. "Does Christmas always affect you this way?"

"Only this one, darling! This one is special."

"There was no doubt in her heart as his lips touched hers. No premonition of disaster. She was completely sure, completely happy."

It was nine-thirty when the office door opened to admit Eric Strom.

"Ah!" Karl said, and Joan noticed that his voice was annoyed. "You come early."

Eric shrugged indifferent shoulders. "You wanted to see me?"

"Ja!" Karl said, rising.

Eric went to the cleverly concealed little bar, opened it and reached for a bottle.

Karl glanced at Joan. "Go to the dining room. I'll send for you in about ten minutes."

Joan obeyed but she was worried. She did not like the way Eric had looked at Karl. Evidently there was bad feeling between them.

"Not a thing in the world," Sybil

Benefits to Our Readers

THE PUBLIC nature of advertising benefits everyone it touches. It benefits the public by describing exactly the products that are offered. It benefits employees, because the advertiser must be more fair and just than the employer who has no obligation to the public. These benefits of advertising are quite apart from the obvious benefits which advertising confers—the lower prices, the higher quality, the better service that go with advertised goods and firms.

NEWS OF LONG AGO.

What Was Happening In Davie Before The New Deal Used Up The Alphabet, Drowned The Hogs and Plowed Up The Cotton and Corn.

(Davie Record, March 17, 1920)

Goodbye old groundhog and may your shadow never be seen again.

Robah Smith, of Hall's Ferry, was in town Monday on business.

Miss Viola Yrown, of Charlotte, spent the past week in town with her parents.

Miss Mary Meroney who teaches in the Albemarle schools, spent the week-end here with her parents.

W. S. Chappel is preparing to move his family to Statesville the first of the month.

Miss Pauline Casey left Monday for Durham to enter Watts Hospital to take training as a nurse.

Miss Daisy Turner spent Monday in Winston Salem purchasing her line of Spring millinery.

H. S. Stroud, of Statesville, visited his son, the editor, a day or two last week.

Mrs. J. T. Baily and Miss Pauline Horn spent Wednesday in Winston Salem shopping.

Dr. E. P. Crawford, H. C. Meroney and P. G. Browa motored to Winston-Salem Friday evening.

Revs. W. L. Sherrill and C. J. Edwards returned Thursday from Charlotte where they attended the Inter-Church Convention.

C. C. Young, the Coolemece undertaker, has purchased a Buick auto hearse, the only one in the county. It is a thing of beauty, but none of our citizens want to take a ride in it.

Mrs. C. M. Carter, of Salisbury, was in town Thursday on her way to be at the bedside of her mother, on R. 4, who is quite ill. Mrs. Foster died Sunday and was buried Monday.

W. R. Clement is building an addition to the Auto Repair Co., garage, on Salisbury street. The Howard shop is being moved to make room for the new building.

John L. Foster, of County Line, was in town Thursday for the first time in many weeks. Mr. Foster has been laid up for the past month or two with bronchial trouble.

Dr. Fassitt, of Durham, was called to the bedside of his brother-in-law, Ben Teague, near Farmington, last week. Mr. Teague is critically ill with pneumonia, following flu.

Winston-Salem was visited by a $160,000 fire Thursday morning. The S. H. Kress store lost $145,000, and the Vernon Grocery Co., Gordon Bros., three cafes and a barber shop were damaged by water. The fire started in the basement of the Kress building. The firemen fought for four hours to save other nearby property.

Mrs. C. S. Mossy died at her home in this city Friday afternoon following an illness of three weeks with influenza pneumonia, aged 35 years. The funeral services were held Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock by her pastor, Rev. C. J. Edwards, assisted by Revs. Holloway and Peury, and the body laid to rest in Bethel church cemetery. The husband and three children survive.

The young people of Pino surprised Vernon Miller Friday night, it being his 16th birthday. Many games were played. Those present were Misses Blanche Dull, Toby McMahan, Mattie Latham, Virginia Edwards, Nellie Dull, Minnie Latham, Laura Ward, Lucy Edwards, Eloise Ward, Eva Lee and Margaret Miller, Messrs. Luther Dull, Dwight Davis, Roland Cranfill, Fletcher Swing, Claud Ward, Harmon McMahan, Fred Swing, Grady Latham and Bryan Ward.

Time For Serious Thought

Rev. Walter E. Isenhour, Hiddenite, N. C.

With the greater part of the nations at war today, ours included, and others getting ready to fight, it is time for serious thought. People have indulged in foolishness and nonsense long enough. They have gone after amusement and entertainment, and sought to gratify the lusts of the flesh, the lust of the eyes and the pride of life until there is such a moral and spiritual decay throughout the earth that it is startling, if we were startled. Such decay will wreck and defeat any nation. When the morality and spirituality of a country gives way to all kinds of sin and wickedness it is only a question of time until destructiveness comes. Hence the most dreadful war of all history.

Indeed it is time for serious thought. The careless and thoughtless need to wake up and come to themselves. The self-indulgent need to consider their ways and turn to God. The proud and haughty need to humble themselves in the very dust. The money-lovers ought to realize that they shall perish with their money unless they turn to God and let Him come into their lives. Money can't save the lives of men if God is left out, neither can it save a nation. We have piddled about and let some of the most precious, priceless, golden opportunities of life go by, as a nation, and as individuals. But while there are still other opportunities offered us by Almighty God we had better awake, rise up and seize them ere it is eternally too late.

It is time for men and nations to come to their knees. We are running swiftly to kill and slay, shed blood, wreck and destroy property, enlarge hell, make nations of orphans and widows, impoverish humanity, bring on famine, disease and awful pestilence. Why isn't it time for serious thought? If such times do not bring men and nations to their senses, and to their knees, pray tell us what will. God has dealt with men in mercy across the centuries, but when they spurn His mercy, reject His love, heed not His warnings, accept not His salvation, then He allows destruction to come. Surely it is coming now. Man, pray; women, pray! Young people, stop on your wild and reckless career and think what the outcome is going to be. Stop! Let God and common sense speak to you.

Bigger Jail or Better Folks.

The Davie county jail is small. Something will have to be done—either enlarge the jail or put the fear of the Lord in the hearts of the liquor and beer drinkers. Sheriff Bowden tells us that on a recent Saturday night he entertained seventeen prisoners—most of them charged with drunkenness, and on Sunday night he had thirteen inmates in the jail. The Mocksville jail was built some thirty years ago, before the days of the beer and wine saloons, and was large enough to accommodate the few folks who occasionally took on too much mountain juice. Today things are different. The beer and wine drinkers have no trouble in securing enough of these drinks to get gloriously drunk. It would be a good idea to reduce the drinking during the duration of the war, as it is hard to secure building material to enlarge the jail.

We thought that women could spread gossip and rumor but the war produces new talent along this line.

Little Stingers.

From The Yellow Jacket

We believe the President would get farther in solving these defense problems if he were to talk to the union leaders like he talks to Hitler.

Walter Wenchell writes: "The wife of one of our mightiest government officials participates in Communist front meetings using her maiden name." Why not name the "wife." Walter, and quit throwing out hints?

Every time there is a strike in defense industry it delays production and raises the cost of producing defense material. The American taxpayer is paying the bill so that defense strikes are really blows at his pocketbook. May there be no more strikes.

A mountaineer who swallowed a live lizard was informed by the doctor that it wasn't dangerous, and that many university students have swallowed them. But he said to the doctor, "It haint that; I'm afraid the lizard will spoil the taste of the pint of licker I drank as a chaser."

The question of finances is of first importance in the present emergency. To win the war, we must have guns, tanks, planes and bombs. And it must be financed, and financed in such a way as not to crack our whole domestic economy. The spree of domestic spending must be curtailed. The joyride must come to an end. Every dollar spent must produce a dollar's worth of defense. That is the way to win and the only way we can win.

Old men for counsel, young men for war, so the adage runs. But it was Osler who advocated chloroforming a hombie when he arrived at sixty, and even President Roosevelt hinted that when a man reached sixty he just about had no sense or words to that effect. Yet it is well to remember that Joshua was eighty years old when he became the leader of his people.

Robt. Quillin, the Dixie columnist, throws out this pertinent remark: "History will ask why, in view of the fact that Axis strategy and Jap perfidy were well known and the further fact that almost everybody suspected the Jap envoys were stalling for time—why our forces were not kept on a 24-hour alert, ready to begin shooting or take to the air in a few seconds."

One Jim Rollick, of Colorado Springs, Colorado, writes Colliers to say, "If there is anything more dismal than the sight of a politician trying to be an industrialist it is an industrialist trying to be a politician." About right, Mr. Rollick. They display about as much similarity of purpose as the stripes on a barber's pole resemble the rings on the planet Saturn.

The American people have differed sharply on many questions of national policy, but when that swarm of oriental hyenas poured down on the soil of Uncle Sam, America became as one man and one voice and that voice, "Remember Pearl Harbor, and to hell with the 'Rising Sun'."

Hitler's desperate act of taking off the head of his Commander-in-chief and himself taking his place won't change the picture. Why don't he take the head of that old Devil Joe Stalin? He's the guy that is responsible for the Hun headaches, hell aches and heart-aches, plus hell-takers.

Why shouldn't war cause an increase in marriages; doesn't war develop bravery?

What has become of the politician who maintained for many years that no nation would dare attack the United States?

The President And Pensions

The following article appeared in The Charlotte Observer on March 4th:

To The Observer:

Mrs. Una Taylor, in her letter appearing in your Open Forum today, February 26, said:

"A great hullabaloo was raised over that pension bill passed by Congress for the benefit of its members; the members of the President's Cabinet, and the President. Congress caught the backwash. But Mr. Roosevelt was undoubtedly consulted in advance about that bill. He favored it and signed it without delay. It benefitted him as much as it did the members of Congress. Couldn't he foresee the devastating psychological effect it would have on the country at this time?"

The above quotation is not complete without the following editorial, appearing in one of your South Carolina contemporaries Wednesday, February 25:

AUTHORSHIP OF PENSION ACT.

In respect of the bill by which congressmen extended to themselves pension privileges, which the two Houses passed and the President approved, making it a law, Mr. John L. McMillan, representative in Congress from the Florence district of South Carolina, wrote to the Darlington News and Press a statement which was printed in The News and Courier last Monday, containing this:

"For your personal information, the President of the United States and the Civil Service Commission wrote the recent Retirement Act and presented it to Congressman Ramspeck to have enacted into law."

Letter From Soldier Boy

Dear Mr. Stroud:—Wonder how you and all the good people of Davie county are? I'm in the hills of Pennsylvania enjoying life.

I have been getting The Record each week, and Harvey Smith and I enjoy it very much.

There are two more Davie boys at this camp, John Bowles and Robert Evans. We have been lucky to stay together this long.

I have been seeing a lot of the country for the past week. I had never been out of North Carolina until I came to the army, and I was in nine states last week.

I am now in Pennsylvania, near the mountains. It snowed the first night I got here, and it has been pretty cold. I came in a truck and I was pretty well used to the weather when we got here.

Your friend,

Pvt. CHARLES WALKER.

It is only proper, therefore, that the words of a distinguished Democrat be repeated. The outstanding citizens in mind is James A. Farley, former Chairman of the Democratic National Committee and one of the leaders best loved by the workers of his party. In a recent address to the Clover Club in Philadelphia, Mr. Farley is quoted as saying that "I have no sympathy for those who would do away with the two-party system and call bi-partisan elections. . . . We live in a democracy and there is no reason why we should have a blackout on honest, just and well intended criticism. It is the duty, of course, for Senators and Representatives to give President Roosevelt, commander in chief of our army and navy, wholehearted support. But it is their duty also to speak up if anything goes wrong."

Here is another forthright statement "for the record." Application of the two-party system is not being neglected, even since the treacherous Japanese attack at Pearl Harbor plunged us into war. Two congressional elections have been held to name representatives to fill vacancies in two districts. There were Republicans and Democratic candidates in each district, and as an indication that the two-party system has not been abandoned, it may be said that in each instance the Republican candidate won. Furthermore, there are two congressional vacancies in Pennsylvania which are to be filled by bi-partisan election in the near future.

The Republican leaders are extracting a great deal of cheer from the fact that in both of these special elections the Republicans carried a district which had been Democratic for several years—one in Colorado and one in Connecticut. They feel this is an indication of what is going to happen in November. Most observers believe, however with good reason, that the foundation for a November victory is still to be laid so far as either party is concerned. If the Republicans in Congress continue their present course of supporting the nation's war effort insisting on the application of sound rules of economics and offering constructive criticism and advice where they deem it necessary, then they will strengthen their case for November. On the other hand, if the administration leaders in Congress insist on efficient war efforts based on sound principles, and if they refuse to follow a line of narrow partisanship in the conduct of various activities related to the war, then they too will strengthen their case with the public between now and November. November's result is still in making. The most that can be said now is that our two-party system of government will be maintained.

Let's not forget our duty to make Mocksville fit for the families that live here.

A few bombs, judiciously dropped in the United States, might persuade some people that war is going on and that this nation can be attacked.

Getting Rid of Red Tape

Our nation is at war. Some of us apparently still fail to realize this fact. They also fail to realize the seriousness of the situation.

Not only is our country at war, but at times it seems that the various governmental bureaus are also at war. Unfortunately, however, instead of being at war with Germany, Italy and Japan, they are at war with one another.

Red, white and blue are three grand and glorious colors when regarded in the light of their true significance. But, judging from some of the developments and happenings in Washington, there are bureaus and agencies in the national capital that are all wrapped up in red tape, that seems to be walking in a white white fog and that are making the public very, very blue.

Let's forget party lines.

Let's forget politicians who feel that they merit recognition as bureau-heads just because they are politicians.

Let's place in important office only the ablest men that we can find.

Let's do away with the many unnecessary agencies that are now flooding the country, treading on one another's toes and running up large expense bills. The armed forces can readily absorb the NYA and the CCC. The heads of the NYA, for example, would make excellent YMCA secretaries and they could still retain their alphabetical affiliation.

We have in this country the greatest reservoir of inventive, engineering and productive ability in the world. Probably as great as the rest of the world combined. If we put those men to work and if we put the old-time politicians in the discard, we'll begin making the kind of headway that should be made in carrying on this war.

And we'll also cut out a lot of the red tape that has been and still is slowing up the works.—The State.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—The cost-plus issue, stirring again, makes this World war seem a bit more like the first one. Maj. Gen. Eugene Reybold, chief of the United States army engineers, defends the cost-plus system in wartime construction. He tells the Associated Contractors, meeting at Indianapolis, that the big idea when there is a war on is to get things done, and that the contractors "have fulfilled their responsibilities satisfactorily."

General Reybold is the famous flood battler, who has won more decisions over rampaging rivers than any man in or out of uniform. Getting a half-nelson on the Mississippi, in 1937, he didn't figure the cost, plus or minus, but he licked the flood. His system always has been to beat the river to the punch, by a spillway, blowing up a dam, flooding lowlands or by any possible device or stratagem in his lore of flood-fighting. He knows them all.

In these encounters, particularly in 1937, he met difficulties comparable to those of the "scorched earth" tactics of modern warfare. Farmers and planters frequently opposed his drastic measures, but he carried on tactfully and won their co-operation.

He became chief of the engineers in September of last year, succeeding Maj. Gen. Julian L. Schley. He knows rivers and river towns like an old time steamboat captain, also lakes and harbors, and any old settlers in Memphis, Little Rock or Buffalo is apt to know all about him. From 1927 to 1932, he was stationed in Buffalo as assistant and district engineer on river, harbor and dredge operations. He was the U. S. representative on the International Niagara River Control board from 1925 to 1932, later district engineer at Wilmington, N. C., and was engaged in river control work at Memphis when he was chosen to lead the engineers.

AS AN air force officer, sounding sharp warnings against a day of doom and begging for bigger and better planes, Maj. Gen. Frank M. Andrews gained distinction as the man who never was afraid to stick out his neck. There is a hopeful augury in the fact that Lieutenant General Andrews, which he has since become, is supreme commander of the Caribbean defenses.

The Caribbean command, one of the most critical of defense areas because of the Panama canal, was assigned to General Andrews last July. Two months later, the general made a survey of the entire area and thereafter there were reports that he had insisted on a completely consolidated army and navy authority. This authority was established late last month, as a result of the Roberts report on Pearl Harbor, according to guarded reports from Washington. It might have been assumed, in the light of past performance, that the general would not accept divided authority.

The general did not fly with the A.E.F. in the First World War, but was in the air over Germany, from 1920 to 1923, and in the succeeding years gained army fame by a series of brilliant aerial exploits. In 1934, riding a Martin B-12 bombardment plane, he established a world record for 1,000 kilometers.

Becoming commander of the general headquarters air force in 1935, he vehemently urged a technological shakeup in plane design and equipment and campaigned for many innovations which later came through. He was one of the first to urge airplane cannons and also one of the first to prophesy that planes soon would be useless without armor plate, and to demand this protection. He also was out early demanding large scale civilian training for the air forces. He was born in Nashville, Tenn., and graduated from West Point in 1906.

He threw away canned speeches which had been prepared for him and said his own say so effectively that he became known as one of the best talkers in the army—always talking up intelligent and co-ordinated defense. He fought with the cavalry on the Mexican border before he found his wings, in 1917. He frequently has been called "the hand-somest man in the army," although he is a bit on the rough-and-ready side and his somewhat unco-ordinated hair is never slicked down. If there is a swivel-chair officer in the army, he isn't the man.

With Our Boys 'Somewhere in Northern Ireland'

Generals Learn How to Keep 'Em Rolling

Brig. Gen. T. E. Marchant (left), and Brig. Gen. J. C. Hutchinson get into overalls at motor transport school, Holabird, Md., where, for the first time in history, high ranking officers are taking a two-weeks' course with a view to giving the officers first-hand information on driving convoys in difficult terrain. War Bonnet for 'Big Joe' Stalin

The head of the Russian Reds has been named honorary chief of the Red Indians, as outstanding warrior for 1941, although the Indians associated with the Indian Confederation admit that Gen. Douglas MacArthur is a sure candidate for honors in 1942. A fine war bonnet, which will go to Stalin, is being presented to Edward Carter, president of the Russian war relief, by Chief Falling Trees at the Indian Confederation pow wew in New York.

Paraski Troops Ready for Action

After a hard training grind, ski troopers of the 503rd parachute battalion are now seasoned paraski soldiers. A group of the jumping snowbirds are pictured inside their transport plane en route to their jump-off place near Alta, Utah. Their kits and other equipment will be dropped to them by large parachutes after they have leaped.

Star Dust

By VIRGINIA VALE
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

IN "HAPPY Go Lucky" Mary Martin will have a new hairdress that's the result of a suggestion from Jack Beddington, of the English Ministry of Information. He cabled David Rose, Paramount's managing director in Great Britain (then in this country). "Medical authorities here consider it highly desirable in the interests of hygiene and safety that factory girls and other war workers should wear hair as short as possible on the back of the neck. Urge you to persuade Hollywood star to adopt similar style to encourage them to do so."

Chris-Pin Martin made actors out of his six grandchildren the other day. Told to select half a dozen youngsters between the ages of four and ten to be his family in "Across the Border," the new Hopalong Cassidy film, he just went home and got them.

That well-known book, "The Moon and Sixpence," has been a headache to most of the movie companies; it's been owned or held under option by Paramount, Warner Bros.,

GEORGE SANDERS

RKO and Metro. The trouble was getting a script that would pass the censors. Now we hear that it's to be done for United Artists, with George Sanders as the hero who abandoned his wife and his business to be a painter in the South Seas.

"Woman of the Year" lives up to all the enthusiastic predictions that Metro made for it. Almost 300,000 persons paid to see it during the first two weeks of its run at New York's Radio City Music Hall—and a lot of them stood in line plenty long for the opportunity! It's one of the best of the year, certainly; also one of the best that Katharine Hepburn and Spencer Tracy have ever given us.

If you like gangster melodramas "Johnny Eager" should suit you right down to the ground. Robert Taylor is fine as the tough hero. Lana Turner lovely as the pretty daughter of the District Attorney. Nothing novel about the plot, but plenty of excitement.

Hours are spent checking the questions and answers on the Phil Baker "Take It Or Leave It" program (Sundays over CBS); the research bureau has to be sure of getting the only correct answer. Yet the public frequently thinks they're wrong. Recently hundreds of Persians objected to the statement that the Mazda lamp wasn't named for an individual—they said that Mazda was an ancient Persian god, and they felt that he was entitled to recognition. But the researchers classed him with Zeus and Apollo and ruled him out as a mere man.

"The Sweetheart of Sigma Chi" will always be the most romantic song in the world to Mrs. Chester Lauck and Mrs. Norris Goff, whose husbands are Lum and Abner of the radio, and the movies. Both men were members of the fraternity at the University of Arkansas, and wooed their home-town sweethearts with the song—Goff did it on the saxophone, Lauck put his proposal campaign on with the drums!

The Aldrich Family of the air waves has given many a young actress a boost toward bigger things. Between Henry's sister and his many sweethearts a lot of girls are needed for it. Betty Field's a graduate of the program; so are Mary Mason, of the air's "Maudie's Diary" and the stage, Patricia Ryan, of "Claudia," and Patricia Pearson, star of the Broadway hit, "Junior Miss," which Shirley Temple takes over for radio.

ODDS AND ENDS—Ransom Sherman, proprietor of radio's zaniest hotel, Crestfallen Manor, was appointed "Lobby Bobby" of the International Hotel Greeters association. Judy Garland's next film will be "The Big Time," a story of vaudeville. . . . Mikhail Ruzhynsky, the very funny Mexican garage mechanic in "Hold Back the Dawn," is cast as the gypsy in "For Whom the Bell Tolls." . . . Josephine, the most famous monkey in pictures, celebrated her 15th year as an actress on the set of Columbia's "Canal Zone"—also her 30th birthday. . . . Cary Grant maintains that in "The Gentlemen Misbehaved" he's the screen's worst-dressed man.

SPILLS

America Can Be Licked:
 That's not a slogan thought up by this hysterical alarmist. It's a quote from Adm. William M. Standley, new ambassador to Russia. It makes him an hysterical alarmist, too, which ought to make him a useful man to the gov't. New York had to have the war dumped on the doorstep before it realized the shooting had started. The burning of the Normandie woke the New Yorkers up. They let out the usual yell for scalps, but that was better than no yelling at all. They began to wonder what was going on. Well, what was? Lethargy's another of our crimes, Admiral Standley warns. Have a look at the country away from the coasts and you'll agree. The big idea there is, "The bombers can't reach us." To them, the only part of the U.S.A. at war is the part in danger of invasion. What makes those ostriches think the Nazis or Japs will hug the beaches? They love to travel.

The fault-finders who keep hollering that we don't know enough about Pearl Harbor don't even listen when you mention what the navy did later at the Gilbert and Marshall Islands, Macassar strait and Java. That isn't the kind of news they like to monger.

Man About New York:
 The United States did not create the pioneer spirit; the pioneer spirit created the United States. That spirit has never failed our people. It was in the gun-pits at Gettysburg, it was in the trenches in France, and it is in the foxholes of the Philippines.

 The world picture is black today, but it was black in 1776, when Philadelphia and New York were in the hands of an enemy. It was blacker still when the capital was burned in 1814.

There were only 5,000,000 Americans then. But they taught Europe that though it could invade American territory it could never invade the American Spirit; that their artillery could crack an American fort, but never the unity of the Republic. The American people have won every war because they have continued to fight the enemy, not to question their own leadership. Five million Americans stood off the world because deep defeat could not divide them.

That tradition is worth more than all the gold in Fort Knox. Our schools can truthfully teach that there were no boarders at Valley Forge—and the captain of the U. S. S. Constitution never had to ration Loyalty.

Today the tides of Manila Bay are ebbing and flowing, but not the patriotism of the surrounded Americans. Tokyo hopes they will soon run out of ammunition. Because even Tokyo admits that MacArthur's men will never run out of courage.

 The stiletto mob didn't waste a second hopping on the R.A.F. when the Nazi ships slid through Dover strait. All right, it was a blow that hurt. Hitler got his ships home. But who tied them up for months? The R.A.F. . . . Who fought off the invasion of England, and changed Germany's whole plan of the war? The Hunns are on the Russian front today, taking a bloody beating, because the R.A.F. sent them there. But one setback is supposed to rub out all their glories. The toughest outfit of the war, with a record full of glory, is being crucified for losing one skirmish. The idea is not being promoted here, however, that everybody has to shut up. Blunders must not be excused, or inefficiency and plundering concealed. The chief thing is to notice who's doing the loudest yelling, and check back on his record. Lots of the mouthpieces aren't speaking in America's interest. You don't have to be slant-eyed to be a good Jap, or to have an accent to deliver a message from Berlin. Sure, America can be licked. But fevvensakes, don't let's lick ourselves.

This little anecdote about a prime minister and a reporter tells more about the stupid, short-sighted thinking that was almost fatal to democracies than all the intellectual essays ever written . . . Stanley Baldwin told a reporter: "I want it to be said of me that I never sent a single Englishman to die on a foreign battlefield" . . . "But, Prime Minister," he was reminded, "don't you see you are piling up trouble that will kill a million Englishmen in the next war?" . . . "That," said Baldwin calmly, "is a problem for my successor."

Toast for St. Patrick's Day . . . Pineapple Frosties!
 (See Recipes Below)

Shamrock Fare

Take your cue from good luck day and let your menu wear green! Bring out your best Pat and Mike jokes and touch up your food for the day with a dash of imagination by applying a green brush stroke, for these are the things which put a halo on your head.

There's a hint of spring in the green touches and in the lightness of this season's menus, so whisk these two elements into your food to give it exciting personality.

With simplicity your keynote and economy your guide, here are some menus for small entertaining on St. Patrick's day.

Menu I.
 Afternoon or Evening Snack
 Pineapple Frosties
 Finger Sandwiches
 Pop Corn Nougat

Menu II.
 Bridge Refreshments
 Shamrock Salad
 Prune Bread With Cream Cheese Spread

Coffee or Tea
 Cornflake Chews
 A drink with plenty of tang and vitamins is this one called a Pineapple Frosty. Its vitamins B1 and C will boost your energy quota and at the same time give your teeth and bones a new lease for spring.

Pineapple Frosties.
 For each serving use a six-ounce glass of unsweetened pineapple juice and a generous scoop of sherbet. Chill a large beating bowl, add well-chilled pineapple juice. When the sherbet begins to soften, beat the ingredients until they are well-blended and frothy. A jar or shaker or automatic beater may be used to blend these together.

Pop Corn Nougat.
 1 1/2 cups corn syrup
 1 1/2 cups sugar
 1/2 cup warm water
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 3 tablespoons honey
 2 egg whites
 1 cup chopped pop corn
 2 tablespoons candied cherries, cut fine
 Cook syrup, sugar, water and salt until brittle when tried in cold water. Put honey in a large bowl, place over pan containing hot water to keep honey warm. While candy is cooking, beat egg whites stiff and fold through honey. When syrup is cooked to the proper stage, pour it slowly over the honey and egg, beating hard with wooden spoon. Beat until the surface has a satiny appearance. Fold in pop corn and cherries, press into buttered pan.
 Ever so good, ever so simple, and very pretty describes this light green salad in today's column. The grapefruit and lime flavored gelatin are a spirited combination that work the right kind of magic.

Lynn Says:

As fish gains prominence in menus, are you wondering how you can make it appetite-tempting? Here is a guide:
 Nice to dip in egg and bread crumbs and fry in shallow fat: perch, pike, haddock, halibut, cod, sole, lake trout, salmon, in steak or fillet form.
 Good for baking with or without a stuffing: the large fish, like whitefish, haddock, halibut, wall-eyed pike, salmon steaks, lake trout.

First class for deep-fat frying: oysters, shrimp, scallops. Dip these in beaten egg and crumbs and fry in deep, hot fat.

Baked in loaves or timbales: haddock, salmon, tuna, cod.
 Stuffings that go well with baked fish: bread stuffing (the same kind you make for your fowl); celery stuffing, or rice stuffing (try this with pike!). For rice stuffing, combine 1 cup cooked rice with 1/2 pound sauteed mushrooms, 2 tablespoons of chopped onion, 2 beaten eggs, 1/4 cup celery, all cooked with 1/4 cup butter. This makes enough for a 3 to 4-pound fish.

This Week's Menu:

Baked Haddock *Tartar Sauce
 Lyonnaise Potatoes
 *Orange Squash
 *Shamrock Salad
 *Prune Bread Butter and Honey
 Chilled Pears Cornflake Chews
 *Recipes Given.

Shamrock Salad.
 (Serves 6)

1 package lime flavored gelatin
 1 cup hot water
 1/2 cup cold water
 1/4 cup grapefruit juice
 1/4 cup grapefruit sections
 1/4 cup finely chopped celery
 Pimientos
 Pour hot water over gelatin. Add cold water and grapefruit juice. Chill until mixture thickens, add grapefruit and celery. Arrange pimientos cut into shamrock shapes around sides of a mold or at the bottom. Pour mixture into mold, chill until firm, unmold and garnish with grapefruit sections and greens.

A favorite breakfast cereal and prunes are a healthy merger for this home-made bread. The fruit and cereal are food affinities. The result, an excellent bread that stays moist for days, is good sliced when fresh or when toasted.

Prune Bread.
 (Makes 1 loaf)
 2 cups bran cereal
 1/2 cup juice from cooked prunes
 1/2 cup chopped, cooked prunes
 1/2 cup buttermilk
 1/4 cup sugar
 1 tablespoon shortening
 1 egg
 1 1/2 cups flour
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1 1/2 teaspoons soda
 1/2 cup chopped nuts, if desired
 Soak cereal in prune juice. Add buttermilk. Cream sugar and shortening thoroughly, add egg and beat well. Add bran cereal mixture. Sift dry ingredients, add to prunes and nuts. Add to first mixture and stir only until flour disappears. Bake in a greased loaf pan in a moderate (325-degree) oven, 1 hour and 20 minutes.

The orange flavoring gives a delightful touch to the squash which is colorful served in orange cups.
Orange Squash.
 (Serves 6)
 3 cups cooked Hubbard squash
 1/2 cup orange juice
 3 tablespoons butter
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 Pepper
 1/4 cup chopped almonds
 Bake or steam squash until tender (1 1/2 to 2 hours). Mash or rice. Add orange juice, butter, salt and pepper. Fill 6 orange shells with squash mixture, piling it in lightly. Top with chopped almonds. Bake until lightly browned in a hot (450-degree) oven. For best results use oranges that have clean, smooth skins which separate from the orange easily.

Tartar Sauce.
 Popular and fitting accompaniment to fish is this sauce: Combine 1 cup mayonnaise, 1/2 teaspoon onion juice or 1 tablespoon chopped chives, 2 tablespoons chopped sweet pickle, or green relish, lemon juice to thin to desired consistency.

While you're busy this season rolling bandages for the Red Cross, knitting for the soldiers, or baking for the boys at camp, you'll want to plan menus and dishes that take little time for preparation. With this in mind, I'm including a recipe for an excellent casserole that fills these requirements:

Shrimp Vegetable Casserole.
 (Serves 6)
 2 medium onions, sliced
 1 green pepper, cut in rings
 1 cup cooked peas
 1 cup coarsely broken, wide noodles, uncooked
 3 cups canned tomatoes
 2 No. 1 cans shrimp, cleaned
 3 tablespoons butter
 Salt and pepper
 Place alternate layers of ingredients in greased casserole. Dot with butter and season with salt and pepper. Cover and bake in a moderate (350-degree) oven for 1 hour.

JESUS THE MESSIAH FORETELLS HIS DEATH

LESSON TEXT—Mark 8:27-37.
GOLDEN TEXT—For whosoever will save his life shall lose it; but whosoever shall lose his life for my sake and the gospel's, the same shall save it.—Mark 8:35.

Jesus came into the world as the Redeemer of men—and that means He came to die. The prophets who wrote centuries before His coming presented Him as both the suffering and the reigning Messiah. However, to the minds of the Jewish people only the idea of His glory and kingship was acceptable, not of His suffering and death.

Apparently His own disciples had this same impression and it therefore became necessary for Jesus as He came to the last months of His earthly ministry to speak plainly to them about these matters.

I. Recognition of Christ by Faith (vv. 27-30).

As a foundation for right thinking on any spiritual question there must be recognition of Christ's deity. He drew forth such a confession from the disciples by asking who men said that He was. Notice that while there was difference of opinion, all had a high opinion of Him, calling Him John the Baptist, Elijah, or one of the prophets. They knew that a great man was in their midst, and had to admit it, even though they hated and opposed Him. But it is not enough to accept Christ as a great man, as a teacher, a prophet, or an example. Nor is it enough to tell what others think of Him. The question quickly becomes: "Whom say ye that I am?" Have you answered that question? What will you do with Jesus Christ?

Peter responded with a straightforward, heaven-born confession of Christ as the Son of the living God (cf. Matt. 16:16-18) upon which Christ established His church.

II. Rejection and Crucifixion (Prophecies (vv. 31, 32).

The foundation of faith in Him having been laid, Christ plainly laid before the disciples the fact of His coming rejection and death. Notice the word "must" in verse 31. "There was an imperative necessity for these things. But why must He die? This question is fully answered elsewhere in the Bible (John 3:14; Heb. 9:22; Isa. 53:4-8; II Cor. 5:21; Gal. 3:13; I Pet. 2:24). There could have been no salvation for any sinner if He had not died (Gal. 3:10, 13; II Cor. 5:21; Rom. 3:20-26) (John 11:49-50).

THE TRUTH SIMPLY TOLD

Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of world-wide use, surely must be accepted as evidence of satisfactory use. And favorable public opinion, supported by the able physicians who test the value of Doan's under exacting laboratory conditions.

These physicians, too, approve every word of advertising you read, the objective of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for disorder of the kidney function and for relief of the pain and worry it causes.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warn of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging back-ache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out.

Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!

DOAN'S PILLS

SHE LOVED A SPY

by SYLVIA TAYLOR

THE STORY SO FAR: Joan Leland, secretary to importer Arthur Melford, is discharged by him and refused any explanation. She takes a similar post with handsome Karl Miller, proprietor of a night club who pays her generously for unusual late hours of work. He gets her sister Sybil a new job and Joan falls in love with him. His club manager, Paul Sherman, warns her about Karl, but refuses to give any reason, and later rescues her from the unwanted love-making of Eric Strom, Karl's business partner. Sybil suspects Karl's motives but Joan defends him. They board a freighter-ship, apparently as a lark, and as they leave, Joan notices that Paul Sherman had followed them. She remains silent about this. Later Karl sends Joan with a package to the freighter captain. Paul follows, again warns her. One night before Christmas Eric arrives suddenly and Karl asks Joan to leave the office.

Now continue with the story.

CHAPTER VIII

The club was crowded with a gay holiday group. Joan went into the bar and took her place on a tall stool.

"Something to drink, Miss Leland?" one of the attendants asked.

"No, thank you," Joan said, "I'm waiting for Mr. Miller." She looked at her watch. Exactly ten o'clock. She hoped Karl would not be long. She was jealous of each moment he spent with anyone else.

She was so deep in her own thoughts that she did not hear Paul Sherman until he spoke a second time.

"Fancy finding you here," he was saying as he caught her attention.

"I'm waiting for Karl."

Paul smiled ruefully, "I might have known it."

"Are we going through this again?" Joan asked. "It's Christmas time, Paul. I'm happy and I won't want to quarrel with anyone."

Paul's brown eyes twinkled.

"Even me?"

"Even you," she said firmly, "Let's call a truce, shall we?"

"It's a deal. And to prove it, how about a dance with me?"

She hesitated, but Paul pulled her to her feet.

"I won't take no for an answer. Even Karl can't begrudge me one dance."

Paul was an excellent dancer and Joan was relieved that he seemed resigned to the situation. She really wanted to be friends with everyone, to share her happiness with the whole world.

There was pity in Paul Sherman's brown eyes but Joan did not see it. As light as a feather, she danced in his arms. Over her head Paul's serious face belied his gay attempt at bantering conversation.

"You have the cutest turned-up nose," he informed her. "But it doesn't suit the rest of you."

"That's a dubious compliment," Joan smiled.

"Your nose gives you away for just what you are, a cute kid! Paul laughed and so did she. Cute kid! Karl called her beautiful, glamorous, exciting. Paul Sherman thought she was just a cute kid. It proved how much more sophisticated Karl was. Yet if she had never met Karl she would have been fond of Paul. He was young, good-looking and intelligent. Karl, however, had so much more to offer. He had lived. He was experienced. There was a mystery about him that set him apart from all others. There was even a subtle fascination about his guttural accent. Karl represented power and strength. Karl . . .

"Sorry," Joan admitted. "I'd almost forgotten."

The orchestra filed out for an intermission.

"I think I'll go back to the office," Joan said. "Karl said he'd send for me in ten minutes and it's been much longer than that. Eric Strom is here."

"Eric Strom?"

"That's right. And Karl didn't seem too pleased about it."

"I wouldn't advise you to go back then," Paul said, frowning.

"I'm worried," she confessed, "about Karl."

"Karl can take care of himself," Paul said, lighting a cigarette.

But Joan felt a sudden inner compulsion. "I'm going anyway," she told Paul. He made a step as if to detain her, then apparently reversing his decision, walked to the bar.

Joan hurried down the long corridor exactly as she had done so many times before. But fear hastened her footsteps, fear for Karl. She did not trust Eric Strom. She had been alarmed by his expression.

"If anything happens to Karl . . ."

she thought.

As she reached the door she heard the two men arguing violently. Then there was a shot followed by a crash.

"Karl!" Joan screamed, flinging open the door.

But it was Eric Strom who lay upon the floor. There was a gun beside his hand.

Her eyes sought Karl's fearfully. "He killed himself?" she faltered.

Shuddering, Joan obeyed, placing it upon the desk.

"Karl!" She ran to him, seizing his arm, staring into his face, which had no glint of emotion in it. "Darling, you didn't kill him?"

But it was Eric Strom who lay upon the floor. There was a gun beside his hand.

Her green eyes were pleading from a chalk-white face. "Karl! Karl! Answer me! You didn't . . . You couldn't . . . Why that would be . . . Murder!"

Karl Miller smiled grimly as he took a cigarette from the silver box on his desk. "Some people might call it that," he said without a trace of excitement.

Joan leaned weakly against the desk. She was beyond fear, beyond tears. There was a terrible silence in the office, a heavy dreadful silence. A silence intensified by Karl Miller's face, narrowed eyes, hard mouth. A silence made more tense by the stillness of Eric Strom's body upon the floor. Joan's mind slowly tried to put together the pieces of this horrible picture. Karl had shot Eric—killed him. Beyond that she knew nothing.

Her hand reached for the telephone. "I'm going to call the police!"

Karl seized her arm with a violence that almost jerked it from its socket. "You will do nothing of the kind!"

She stared at him. Was this the Karl Miller she knew? Was this hard-faced man the one who had held her tenderly and murmured "liebchen"?

Someone was pounding at the office door. Karl had locked it. Paul Sherman's voice came distinctly through the opaque glass panel. "Joan! What's going on in there? Let me in!"

Karl walked to the door and opened it. "There has been an unfortunate accident," he said calmly. Paul's expression did not change.

"What happened?"

Karl Miller smiled a little as he regarded his white-faced manager.

"Joan was perfectly justified. Eric has tried to annoy her before. You can testify to that yourself."

"Just what are you driving at?" Paul demanded.

Joan tried to speak but her lips would not move. What was Karl saying? What did he mean?

"Joan shot Eric," Karl Miller stated.

His words were like an electric shock. "I didn't! Karl, you know I didn't! You did it yourself! You shot him!"

She ran to Paul and clutched his arm. "Paul, you believe me, don't you?"

Paul Sherman did not answer. He did not even look at her.

"Your fingerprints are on the gun," Karl said.

"But you told me to pick it up."

She could not believe her ears. Karl, the man she loved and trusted, had turned against her, accusing her of a murder he had committed. It was like some fantastic nightmare.

"I have no wish to turn you over to the police, Joan. We will forget about this little matter. No one need know what has happened."

Rage blazed in her green eyes. "But I haven't done anything. I'm not afraid to go to the police! And I'm going to tell them the whole story."

She was not speaking to the Karl Miller she had loved. This man was a stranger.

"You will not go to the police!" His voice cut like a whip.

Paul Sherman stared straight ahead of him, seeming to see or hear nothing.

Karl's powerful arm stopped her and forced her roughly into a chair.

"There are two reasons why you will not. The first—if you do I will testify that you shot Eric, and Paul will back me up."

Her pleading eyes turned to Paul. He would not fail her.

But he said coolly, "I'm afraid that's right."

"But you can't! It isn't true! Karl, why are you doing this? Paul! Help me! I don't understand."

"Eric," Karl went on, "tried to double-cross me. You may observe for yourself what has happened to him. That is the second reason that you will do nothing."

Joan clutched the arms of her chair for support. She compressed her lips in a desperate attempt to control her emotions.

Karl Miller advanced towards her. "And if you double-cross me, you know what to expect. Now do you understand?"

"You wouldn't dare!" Joan said but the sightless eyes of Eric Strom refuted the statement.

She covered her face with her hands and wept.

It couldn't be true. That wasn't Karl, her Karl! He must be driven by desperation to turn against her. It was some horrible mistake. In a moment it would be over. He would explain everything and hold her in his arms again.

But Karl was saying, "You know nothing! You will tell no one what has occurred here tonight. We will go on as if nothing has happened."

She wanted to laugh wildly, hysterically. "Go on as if nothing had happened?"

Karl wrapped the pistol in a handkerchief, put it in the safe, then motioned to Paul. "Give me a hand. Together they carried the lifeless Eric Strom from the office. Joan could hear them descending the fire escape, outside the back of the building. What would they do with Eric? The noise from the orchestra must have prevented the sound of the shot from disturbing the Club guests.

Joan stared at the telephone. She was alone. It would be easy to call the police—but she was afraid. She was afraid of the look in Karl Miller's eyes. There had been ruthless determination in those eyes. And in the safe lay the gun that had killed Eric. A gun bearing her fingerprints. Paul had said he would testify in support of Karl. What chance would Joan Leland have? The evidence was conclusively against her. What was behind this murder? Why Karl's attitude, Paul's sudden change of front?

She had no idea how long it was before Karl returned. He was alone.

"Let us understand each other," he said, sitting down at his desk. "It would be most unfortunate if I were to become involved with the police, I am not an American citizen."

"You are a German?" Joan asked dully.

"Naturally, as is everyone else associated with me here at the club."

"Of course, Paul, too," Karl Miller smiled as he leaned towards her. "You see we are engaged in certain activities which are necessarily very private."

Then at last Joan knew the truth. This was a spy ring. It must be. That explained everything—the mysterious letters to Mexico, Karl's reticence. The Club Elite was only a blind. But why was Karl telling her this?

"I trust you now," Karl said with a wry smile. "You are in much too deep to get out. Not only would you be held for murder, but you are implicated just as much as the rest of us. You recall the portfolio you delivered to the freighter?"

She stared at him without answering.

"That envelope contained very valuable information. Information enough to convict you on many counts. You were seen delivering that envelope by several people. One of them happened to be Paul Sherman."

Little by little Joan Leland's confused brain began to see the picture. And she knew that what Karl said was true. She was in too deep to get out. But she must get out. She could not, would not continue to have anything to do with Karl Miller now that she knew the truth. A spy! So this was the mysterious romantic and attractive! She looked at him now with loathing.

But Karl put a hand over hers. "Be sensible, Joan. You're hysterical at the moment but you'll be all right. You have nothing to worry about. I'm very fond of you. Is there any reason we should not go on?"

The girl leaped to her feet. "I hate you, Karl Miller! And no matter what you say, I'm not afraid of you!"

His hands were on her shoulders. "You don't mean that, liebchen!"

'Seaworthiness'

"Seaworthiness" covers not only a ship's condition but many other factors, including the quality of officers and crew. Seamen have won judgments for injuries received on "unseaworthy" ships, in one case because the mate was brutal and in another because the Chinese crew could not understand orders without an interpreter.

Shall We Frolic?

Rev. Walter E. Ienhour, Hiddente, N. C.

As a country and nation we have been doing lots of dancing and frolicking, and engaging in many things that are evil, sinful and wicked. We must admit this as the truth, though we should be ashamed to name it. No doubt the Lord brought us to our present predicament very largely, with the outcome worse is to follow. Now that we are actually engaged in the World War again, are we going to frolic right on? Are we going to keep up drinking and gambling, carousing, dancing and committing adultery, and sowing to the flesh and the devil? If so, how in the name of common sense can we expect to win this war? God tells us in His holy Word that we reap what we sow, therefore it looks like we are facing an awful harvest. Our only hope as a country and nation is to repent of our wickedness quit our carousing, drinking, gambling and frolicking and go to serving and worshipping the Lord Jesus Christ in sincerity and truth.

It is time to quit serving the devil and go to God in earnest prayer and seek forgiveness and Divine protection. If we leave God out of our individual and national life, then we shall have to abide by the consequences, and they will be deplorable. Multitudes of church members have quit the church, the Sunday school, the prayer meeting, and the service and worship of Almighty God, and have conformed to the world. They mix and mingle with the world until we can't tell the morality of church members from the outside world of wickedness. It is indeed heartrending. People are going to cry and call upon God, it is true, but we fear that it is going to be too late. They wait until destruction comes, and then it is hard to reach God. Better pray and repent now.

It is high time to quit dancing and frolicking and drinking and go to seeking God. It looks like the vast multitudes of people could see just what such evil, ungodliness is bringing us to and get disgusted with the whole thing, then try something far better. An awful scourging is awaiting the nations of earth, to say the best of it, and if people have any aim and desire to flee to God, they had better put it into effect. There is no time to lose.

This Wouldn't Be The Start.

Last week The Charlotte Observer carried an editorial commending Governor Broughton for the stand he took before the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives "in opposition to the request of the President for $300,000,000 with which to take care of workers who are temporarily thrown out the jobs because of plant conversions incident to the war program."

We, too, wish to join in commending the Governor for that stand.

Further along in this same editorial, the Observer says: "If the Federal government begins this sort of paternalism, where will it stop?"

We'd like to call attention to the fact that the passage of this $300,000,000 would not mark the beginning of "this sort of paternalism." It would merely be the continuation of the same kind of paternalism that has been in effect for the last eight or nine years.—The State.

No, Geraldine, there is no truth in the report that Congressmen, who voted against the two-ocean navy, have volunteered for immediate service.

Hanes Attacks Government Spending.

"All the financial resources of the United States—every dollar if necessary—should go into the war effort, but not one penny should be wasted," the Winston-Salem Board of Realtors was told by Robert M. Hanes, president of the Wachovia Bank and Trust Company.

Citing instance after instance of what he termed "reckless spending" of federal funds for nonessential purposes, Hanes urged the real estate men, as members of "the great middle class of America," to organize in opposition to waste in government.

Warning of the gravity of the war situation, Hanes said, "I do not believe America has faced more serious times since the landing of the Pilgrims on our shores. The ability of the Japanese has been greatly underestimated. Winning this war is going to be a long, tough and tiresome job. Every resource of the country—moral, physical and financial—must be put into the conflict if we are to win."

The speaker read a letter from Chairman Robert L. Doughton of the House ways and means committee expressing alarm at "lavish and unnecessary" expenditures by the federal government and fear of "national bankruptcy" unless waste is curbed.

Hanes described examples of loose federal spending which he said came from congressmen's files. He told of stenographers in Washington who "spend their time writing to their boys, friends" and who had been employed for weeks without having to type a single letter. Not all defense money is being spent prudently, he declared, reporting an instance of a former Negro laborer now making $11 a day as a skilled defense worker, and of a former minister whose salary was $125 a month now getting $700 a month in a defense job. He also attacked the spending rivers and harbor bill, which he said would provide almost a billion dollars for the Florida Ship Canal, St. Lawrence Seaway and similar projects.

"All this doesn't make sense," he said. "You and I are going to pay the bill eventually. The middle class of 30, 40 or 50 million people with slowly rising salaries and incomes, is caught between the millstones of the labor and farm minority blocs who accomplish what they want by exerting pressure. The middle class is inarticulate. I think the time has come when it should organize and get something done. Every citizen is a taxpayer, and he should be interested in seeing that the government gets some kind of return for his money."

Following Hanes' address, the realtors passed a motion instructing directors and officers to assist the local taxpayers' organization in achieving its objectives.—Winston-Salem Journal.

Judge Hayes Conquers Boy.

Rockingham — Federal Judge Johnson J. Hayes of North Carolina's central district will be remembered a long time by Richmond county spectators at his court as a humanitarian who tempers justice with mercy.

The district probation officer had brought a 16-year-old youth charged with automobile theft before the judge and quoted the lad as saying he never would return to school.

After gentle questioning, the judge inquired:

"Why did you run away from home, son?"

"Just stubbornness, I guess," the boy replied.

"I think I see something good in this boy," Judge Hayes commented, and then asked him, "Do you ever read the Bible?"

"Yes, sir."

"Have you ever read the story of the Prodigal Son?"

No, sir."

Judge Hayes threw off the robe of judicial dignity, came down from the bench and sat down beside the boy. He picked up a nearby bible and asked, Does anyone in this courtroom know where I can find the story of the Prodigal Son?"

For several moments there was no answer from the crowd which filled the room. Then came the voice of an aged Negro man, timidly, yassuh, judge, I know where tis—the fiftenth chapter of Luke."

Judge Hayes turned to the place as he commented, "now, I want all of you to reflect upon this. The only person here familiar enough with the Bible to find this story was this old darkey. I want you to meditate upon this for a while."

Then he read the story of the young man who left his home, spent his substance in riotous living and returned, penitent, and was received with joy by his father.

Later, Judge Hayes notified the boy's parents to come for him.

The lad remarked that "never before have I realized so clearly the difference between right and wrong. My parents will have no more trouble from me."

Why Should God Spare Us?

The following is part of a statement made by a minister in Bournemouth, England. His words are so applicable to people in our own country that substituting America for the British would be justified when the word "we" is read.

"We have made Sunday the day for going to the beach, and other motor travel. Now there is no motor fuel and the beaches are barred to secure them from invasion.

"We have left the churches half empty, now many of them are in ruins. We have ignored the ringing of church bells, now they can not be rung except to warn us of mortal danger.

"The food for which we forgot to give thanks is now strictly rationed. The service we refused to God is now conscripted for the country. The money we would not consecrate is now taken from us in advanced prices, and taxes. The nights we would not spend in prayer are now spent huddled in air raid shelters.

"False gods of wealth and pleasure are crumbling all over the earth today. They cannot save. They themselves go down at the touch of adversity. This year will show how sensible was the Saviour's bidding, 'Seek ye first the Kingdom of God'."

What with all the cooking schools and home economics courses we might expect better cooking some day in the future.

Little Stingers.

From The Yellow Jacket

We don't say that Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt is a Communist, but if we were a Communist we'd sue her for trespassing on our privileges.

Some folks who boast that Evolution proves that their ancestors were monkeys spoil it all by making asses of themselves.

People who say there should be but one political party in this country and then say they believe in a democracy ought to be bored for simples.

New Deal Congressmen do a lot of fool things, but the limit was when one of them recommended a political favorite for a job by endorsing a legless man to teach soldiers-running.

Fair play will win the day. With fair play between employer and employee, between government and industry, between farm and city, between all the elements of society, we will come nearer to uniting the people than all the fine spun economic theories the smart boys can think up.

True American patriots haven't any patience with this union clamor about an open or a closed shop or higher wages. He's a sorry man who would stop to argue about such matters when there are millions of our boys who are giving their time and perhaps their lives for twenty-one dollars a month.

You never can tell by the way i looks. For instance, a man who was run over by an automobile said the driver was running too fast, and the driver said it all happened because the man was running out of the way too slow.

Germany, we are told, has been compelled to resort to the expedient of wooden clothes, wooden pies and wooded shoes. B'gosh that's nothing, because she will have to resort to wooden men before this country gets thru with her.

The force of world events is shaping the world for the ushering in of government ownership or control of all public utilities. Socializing such things in time of war means that they must remain Socialized in time of peace.

A man may be a patriot without being able to repeat all the words of The Star Spangled Banner. In fact, few people know the full text of the Declaration of Independence or the Constitution of the United States. The test of patriotism is not a capacity for memorizing.

Song Is Written About New Time

We hear every day of wars, and rumors of wars, famine, pestilence and many other awful things of the world from end to end, including high taxes, income tax reports, etc., and as if that is not enough we must begin advancing ourselves to a new time. To show what he thought of it a man of the mountains has written a song, which runs something like this:

From the mountains around Murphy

To the shores of Kitty Hawk, We'll fight our country's battles, Pay the tax and never squeak. We're very pa-tri-o-tic

And we'll shell out our last dime; To win we'll do most anything

But to hell with daylight time.

To Deferred Registrants

Selective Service registrants who have been deferred by reason of dependency only, but wish to volunteer to compete for selection as an Officer Candidate must make application through their local board, General Van B. Metts, State Director of Selective Service, announced today.

All such volunteers, Director Metts declared, must be American citizens and be eligible, aside from their dependency claims, for Classification in Class I-A. In addition, the "Application to Volunteer and Waiver of Dependency," filed with the local board, must be signed by his dependents over 18 years of age, as well as by the registrant, and any volunteer under 21 years of age must obtain the written consent of his parents or guardians.

Volunteers who are found by the Army to be initially qualified will be inducted among quotas sent to the Army by their local boards and given four months training in the ranks to determine if they are potential prospects for commissions as second lieutenants. Any not recommended for an Officer Candidate school at the end of this training period may request to be transferred to the Enlisted Reserve, which means that he will return to civilian life and not be subject to call for active service unless registrants having similar dependency claims are being called. Those who fail to complete the Officer Candidate course or who are not recommended for commission, likewise may request transfer to the Enlisted Reserve, or elect to be reassigned as an enlisted man on active duty.

Citing a memorandum from Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, Director of Selective Service, the following procedure for a Class III-A registrant, desiring to volunteer to compete for selection as an Officer Candidate was outlined by the State Director:

1. The registrant must file with the local board an "Application to Volunteer and Waiver of Dependency," which also must be signed by his dependents over the age of 18 years. The form for this application is obtained from local board.
2. After the local board has checked his application, together with his citizenship and as to whether or not he should be deferred as a "necessary man" in his civilian occupation, the registrant is given a preliminary physical examination by a local board examining physician.
3. If the registrant passes this physical test, he is advised that the next step is to present himself at an Army Reception Center or Army Replacement Center, which will have been designated by the Army Corps Area Commander, for qualification examination. All expenses incident to travel to and from the reception or replacement center, including meals and lodging, must be paid by the registrant.
4. Following the qualification examination, the registrant returns to his home, regardless of whether or not he has been found acceptable, and presents the Army report to his local board.
5. If the Army has found the registrant to have initial qualification the local board places him in Class I-A and he will be ordered to report for induction as a volunteer for Officer Candidate Training at the next call for delivery of men by his local board. If the registrant is found not qualified by the Army, his application to volunteer is denied by his local board and he is retained in Class III-A.

It is estimated by the War Department that the entire training period for a volunteer seeking a commission, including the four months' service in the ranks, normally will require a minimum of six months.

TEACHING A CHILD VALUE OF PENNIES

A child of a wise mother will be taught from early childhood to become a regular reader of the advertisements. In that way better perhaps than in any other can the child be taught the great value of pennies and the permanent benefit which comes from making every penny count.

SHE LOVED A SPY

by SYLVIA TAYLOR

THE STORY SO FAR: Joan Leland is discharged and refused an explanation by her employer, Arthur Mulford. She accepts another secretarial post from handsome Karl Miller, owner of a night club. Fascinated, she permits his love-making, though her sister Sybil, with whom she shares an apartment, suspects Karl's motives. Paul Sherman, Karl's manager, warns Joan against Karl but refuses to give any reason. She delivers, at Karl's request, a mysterious message to a tramp steamer late at night, discovering that Paul is following her. She detests Karl blindly. Paul rescues her from Eric Strom, Karl's partner, who attempted to kiss her. Hearing a struggle, Joan later enters Karl's office in time to see him shoot and kill Eric. He asks her to pick up the gun from the floor, then threatens her with blame for the murder unless she remains quiet. Paul enters and Joan is dumfounded when he backs up Karl, regarding her fingerprints on the gun. The men carry the body out and Joan wonders what will now be Karl's attitude toward her.

Now continue with the story.

CHAPTER IX

Karl seemed amused at her outburst. Once she had cherished that tender look. Now it was loathsome to her. With the madness of despair, she struck him full in the mouth.

Karl stepped back and his face was white with rage. "You little fool! Do you think it's as easy as that? Don't you know you'll be followed from the moment you leave this office? You will be driven to work every day by Paul Sherman. If you make a false move you will meet with an unfortunate accident. Shall we call it that?"

Silence. "There must be some way," Joan thought, "but what?" She would tell Sybil! Sybil would know what to do. Until then it would be best to pretend to Karl that he had won. He must believe that she was frightened.

"It seems that all the cards are in your hands," she admitted. "Very clever of you to realize it."

Joan wondered if she could really deceive Karl. Even if she were followed home, he would have no way of knowing what she told Sybil. She could tell Sybil to go to the police—yet Karl might have them both followed. Joan could not believe that Karl would take any chances.

"I'm going home," she said wearily, "straight home. You needn't worry about my going to the police tonight."

"I am not in the least worried," Karl said calmly. "You are young and beautiful, and I am sure that you are not yet ready to die."

She looked at him and for a moment she longed to see that other Karl—the Karl she had loved. Tears stung in her eyes. How could she have been so blind? A reckless, adventure-loving girl, laughing at Fate, moving blithely towards her own destruction. She had held open, eager arms to life, welcomed anything that was "exciting and different." But Sybil had been the wise one.

"You can't trust any man," Joan thought bitterly. Even Paul Sherman, who had warned her about Karl, was involved in the spy ring. He had warned her about Karl but he was no better.

"You didn't have to go so far, did you, Karl?" Joan asked now. "You didn't have to pretend to love me, did you?"

"You are very charming," Karl said, bowing.

"And you are very clever, but if you hadn't asked me to marry you . . ."

"That proved my sincerity?"

"Yes. Although I'm ashamed to admit it."

"Perhaps it would interest you to know that I already have a wife . . . then he added smoothly, "in my own country."

This was the final blow. Karl's announcement that he had a wife in Germany came as a complete shock to Joan Leland. She had attached so much importance to his desire to marry her that it had never occurred to her he should be insincere.

"If you are ready to go home," Karl suggested, "I will drive you."

"Very well," Joan answered expressionlessly.

"There must be some way," Joan thought desperately as she sat silently by Karl Miller's side. She could telephone the police from her apartment. Karl would have no way of knowing about that—until it was too late. Sybil could go to the authorities. Surely there was no way that Karl could follow both girls day and night, trace every phone call. Comforted by the thought of Sybil's wise advice, Joan felt more confidence in the situation.

"I will see you tomorrow as usual," Karl was saying. "Paul will drive you to work after this. You understand?"

"I understand perfectly."

For a moment they stared at each other. Sweethearts an hour ago. Now enemies forever. Swiftly Joan turned and ran up the steps.

In the living room she was greeted with darkness and silence. She switched on one small lamp and called, "Sybil, where are you?"

But only her own voice sounded in the high-ceilinged rooms. Strange that Sybil should not be home yet. Apparently she had not returned from work. Joan ran into the bedroom. It was undisturbed. In the kitchen there were no signs that Sybil had eaten her dinner. And then on the kitchen table Joan saw an envelope. Tearing it open, she found a note in Sybil's handwriting. "I'll be back soon. Something terrible has happened . . ."

A cold chill of premonition swept Joan. Instantly her mind leaped to Karl Miller. Had he suspected her plan of enlisting Sybil's aid? But how could he? And why would Sybil say, "I'll be back soon"? Surely it could not be so "terrible."

"I'm just nervous," Joan told herself.

She tried to light the fire but it refused to burn and smouldered out, leaving the room in dismal silence. Clapping her hands, Joan walked around the room. "I've got to talk to someone," she thought hysterically. "I can't stand this any longer."

But as she drew back the window curtain she saw Karl Miller's car still in front of the apartment. If she left, he would surely follow her. The telephone! She ran across the room and seized it from its place on the table. With a trembling finger she dialed the operator. The silence of a completely dead wire was too obvious to be mistaken.

She was seized then by absolute panic. She must get out of here—how?

There was a fire escape on the side of the building that opened off the kitchen.

"Karl couldn't see me there," Joan said aloud, and the sound of her own voice frightened her.

It was then that she heard something, like the creaking of a board. It seemed to come from the kitchen. Joan stood still. She was afraid to move.

Her hand felt for the switch and the living room was flooded with light.

"That's better," she thought, and went into the bedroom to put on her hat and coat. Against the window-pane slow rain had begun to fall. Joan looked out a front window again. Karl was still there! The fire escape was her only chance. The apartment was on the second floor and there was a good drop to the ground, but a small garden made it safe to jump.

"I can make it," Joan said. "I must!"

She reached the kitchen where Sybil's note still lay upon the table. The shade was drawn over the kitchen window. Joan advanced towards it and stretched out her hand when another sound came from without—the unmistakable sound of footsteps upon the iron staircase.

There was a soft tapping upon the window. With a frightened gesture, Joan touched the shade and it flew to the top. She looked out but could see no one. Then she heard a voice: "Joan! Open the window."

It was Paul Sherman! Joan drew back and as she did so Paul's head appeared. Had Karl sent him to get her? She shrank against the wall of the kitchen, watching his pleading gestures for admittance. Then she saw that the window was unlocked. Paul could easily open it himself. He saw the change of expression on her face, and caught its meaning.

A moment later he was in the kitchen with the window locked behind him.

Paul looked sharply at her. "Sit down," he ordered. "You look like a ghost. Have you any whiskey?"

"There's some brandy in the kitchen," Joan said. Her teeth were chattering. She was shaking so she could scarcely talk.

Paul found the bottle and returned with it to the living room. He held a small glass to her lips. "Drink this!" he commanded.

The sweet liquor burned her throat but it warmed her.

Paul was bending over the fireplace stirring the logs, adding paper and kindling until the fire glowed with a bright blaze.

She watched him in silence until he had finished.

"Now listen to me, Joan and listen carefully."

Her green eyes regarded him with loathing. "Spies! But you can't get away with it. You can't keep me from going to the police! You're very clever, aren't you? Talking against Karl while you're just as bad!"

Her voice had risen hysterically. "Be quiet!" Paul ordered. "Do you want Karl to come in here?"

"What do I care?" Tears streamed down the white face and she buried her face in her hands.

"Will you listen to me for one minute?" Paul Sherman said in a low voice.

She did not reply. "My name is not Paul Sherman."

She sobbed, "What's that to me?" He took her nervous hands and held them tightly in his own. "It's true I speak German. My grandfather was German. But I am Paul O'Malley of the Federal Bureau of Investigation—the FBI."

Silence. The fire crackled and the rain poured against the windows. "The FBI?" Joan repeated.

"That's right. We've suspected Karl Miller of subversive activities for a long time but we haven't been able to get conclusive evidence. I still haven't got enough to convict him. He's too clever for that, though I believe he trusts me. One reason is that I speak his language."

"But why didn't you tell me? Why didn't you warn me?"

He smiled ruefully. "This is government business, Joan. I'm risking my neck by revealing my identity to you. If Karl finds out who I am, you know what will happen. I had to pretend to agree with him tonight."

"You mean pretend to believe that I shot Eric?"

"That's it. Now Karl will be sure of me. He doesn't know that I am here now. I came ahead of you from the club and I've been waiting for you to come home."

Joan wiped her eyes. "I tried to telephone the police. The phone is disconnected."

Paul lit a cigarette. "I know. I did it myself. Karl's orders."

Joan shuddered and fresh tears filled her eyes. "Oh, what a fool I've been! But I loved him so much! I didn't know things like this really happened. I thought all the spy talk was just propaganda. What shall I do now? What can I do?"

"Do you know about Karl's wife?"

Color flooded her pale cheeks. "Yes. He told me tonight after you left the club. He seemed very amused by the whole situation."

"I wanted to tell you, Joan, but I didn't dare take the chance of Karl's finding out that I'd double-crossed him. You understand. This business is more important than either of us."

Suddenly Joan rose crying, "And Sybil! Paul, Sybil's not here! She left a note saying that something terrible had happened . . . I'm afraid! Karl . . ."

Paul glanced at his watch. "Almost one o'clock."

"Paul!" She seized his arm. "Do you think that Karl would . . ."

He shook his head. "I don't know. I don't honestly know. But I have a plan. Listen carefully . . ."

Joan and Paul sat quietly together on the couch before the blazing fire and she listened as Paul told about the spy ring and the part he wanted her to play in the future.

"I want you to stick it out, Joan, to go on working for Karl. Let him think you're afraid to go to the authorities. He must have confidence in his own power if we are ever going to get at the bottom of this."

The girl was silent.

"It's our only chance," Paul said kindly. "I know how difficult it will be for you but if you went to the authorities now, nothing could be proved. I haven't any conclusive evidence against Karl yet. And he'd certainly involve you in Eric's murder."

"All right, Paul," she said with sudden decision. "I'll do it."

He patted her arm. "Good girl! Karl's sure to give himself away especially since he now thinks that he can trust me. Of course you understand you are not to reveal my identity to anyone, even your sister."

"Sybil! Paul, what are we going to do about Sybil?"

"I don't know. But I can't see what Karl would have against her. It doesn't add up."

BY HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D. The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for March 29

THE TRANSFIGURED CHRIST MEETS HUMAN NEED

LESSON TEXT—Luke 9:28-33. GOLDEN TEXT— And they were all amazed at the mighty power of God.— Luke 9:43.

Glory and grace go together. Spirituality finds meaning in service. Holiness is faith in action. Every fine emotion should be translated into conduct.

This is the message of our lesson as it presents the transfigured Christ and the disciples, moved beyond intelligent words by His transcendent glory, going forth into the valley to meet the need of demon-ridden humanity.

I. Amazing Glory (vv. 28-36).

To three of the disciples came the privilege of seeing in the mount the outshining of the deity of Christ through the humanity of His flesh in such amazing glory that Peter could think of nothing more wonderful than to prolong the experience by tarrying in the mount.

One could wish that it were possible in presenting this lesson to get over into the thinking of those who read or hear, a proper conception of the glory of our Christ, but words seem to be such weak and insufficient instruments. One would cry out—"Look at Him—the Son of God with the transfigured face—and the light of heavenly glory shining forth in a dazzling whiteness" (literally, like lightning).

If men would only look upon Him, they would see how untrue are those who take from Him His deity, who speak of Him as only a good man or a great teacher. He, our Saviour, who took upon Himself the limitation of our flesh, was and is eternally God.

Significant it is to note that with Him on the mount were Moses and Elijah. The former had died (Deut. 34:5, 6) and the latter had been translated without death (II Kings 2:11), but both were alive; recognizable, intelligent, interested in the redemptive work which Christ was to work out on the cross (v. 31). This definitely denies such false theories as soul-sleep or annihilation at death.

But the vision of glory becomes a means of blessing as we see

II. Amazing Grace (vv. 37-43a).

Like Peter, there are many folk who think that the thing to do is to remain on the mountaintop, just enjoying the vision of glory and the delightful fellowship of Christ and the redeemed. They do not learn such things from Christ or from the Word of God. The next day (v. 37) He and the disciples met the cry of an anguished father whose boy was possessed of a demon and who had found no help (v. 40). Look then upon the one whose unspeakable glory has just been revealed in the mount, who has just had the approval of God the Father (v. 35), who now in amazing grace meets the need of this humble child! There is the grace of God, manifest in the One whom we as Christians profess to follow. Let us like Him bring the glory of God and (in His name) the power of God to bear upon the need of men.

It seems to the writer of these notes that God is waiting to do a new thing in the midst of human suffering and sorrow—working through His disciples. We need first of all to know Him ourselves, as our own Saviour and Lord. Then we need a vision of His glory, flooding our souls and transforming our lives (Rom. 12:1, 2). Then, we must put that glory and that power to work through our lives. The one who follows Christ cannot be satisfied to rejoice in his own salvation and not reach out to win others. He cannot rest in the peace of soul which Christ gives and not put forth his hand to those who struggle in "life's wild restless sea." He must (as Matt. 5:16 puts it) let his light so shine in the darkness that men may find their way to the Father's house and thus glorify the name of God.

God does His work in the world through redeemed men and women. He is always seeking those who, having seen the glory of Christ and ready to be used of the Holy Spirit for His glory. "What the church needs today is not more machinery or better, not new organizations or more novel methods, but men who the Holy Ghost can use—men of prayer, men mighty in prayer. The Holy Ghost does not flow through methods but through men. He does not come on machinery, but on men. He does not anoint plans, but men" (E. M. Bounds).

Need Compassion

I do not know how any Christian service is to be fruitful if the servant is not primarily baptized in the spirit of a suffering compassion. We can never heal the needs we do not feel. Tearless hearts can never be the heralds of the Passion. We must pity if we would redeem. We must bleed if we would be the ministers of the saving blood.—J. H. Jowett.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Don't run lamp cords under the rug. They wear out more quickly from being walked on, and present a fire hazard.

Silver should always be polished following the shape of the object—flatware lengthwise and hollowware with a large circular motion.

If you wish to serve your guests individual cakes, bake your cake in a loaf. When baked, cut it in squares, frost them on four sides and decorate the tops with walnuts.

Spiced beet slices or pickled carrots make piquant garnishes for the cold-meat platter. A few of each will do, along with a few sprigs of parsley.

Avoid handling electrical apparatus with wet hands. Always turn off the main switch before trying to repair outlets or lights. Disconnect cords before working on them.

Thickening for gravies or soups may be made quickly by beating equal amounts of flour and water into a small, deep bowl with an egg-beater until a smooth mixture is formed.

Shabby leather upholstery may be revived by washing with a cloth wrung out in warm water, to which a little vinegar has been added. Polish can be restored after washing by rubbing with a mixture of the whites of two eggs beaten up with a dash of turpentine.

From A Davie Soldier Will take the pleasure to write you, since I see and read The Record every week and find that the other boys write you. There's no county like good old Davie, yet I have been through or in eight different states in the past year.

On March 17th, General Hester, General Wing and General Griswell inspected my kitchen and congratulated me on the work of the kitchen, which makes me feel that I'm doing my part.

I'm in Mississippi now. I left Florida about five weeks ago, and I'd really like to go back to Florida, if we stay in the United States, for it's really a swell place to be. In Mississippi there's no place to go for amusement, but I stay in camp the most of the time anyway. Well I'll ring off for this time.

Report of Childrey Death Unfounded.

Thomasville -- Louis Childrey, formerly of the Oxford Orphanage and well known here, is not dead, according to definite information received here yesterday. Childrey, employed as a linotype operator at the Thomasville Tribune for several months, was semi-officially reported several weeks ago to have been killed in the initial attack by the Japanese on Pearl Harbor December 7.

Childrey is not in the navy, as reported, but is attached to company "C" of the 24th armored engineer battalion at Pine Camp.

IN MEMORIAM

The Davie County Bar Association passed the following resolutions on May 15th, 1941:

Whereas; death, an agency over which mortal man has no control, has taken from us one of the youngest and most esteemed members of this Bar, and

Whereas; it is the purpose of this resolution to record the sorrow this Association over the loss of one of its most deserving members, and

Whereas; John Brewster Grant was an ornament to this Bar, having adorned it by his learning, intellect, sincerity of purpose and scrupulous fidelity to every trust, during his brief period of service, and

Whereas; by his rare ability as a practitioner, his courteous, brave and courageous conduct as a citizen, he endeared himself to all who knew him, and particularly to the members of this Association;

Now, Therefore, be it Resolved, by Davie County Bar Association, in regular meeting assembled, that this organization deplores and mourns deeply the death of John Brewster Grant, whose untimely passing has removed one of its ablest and most influential members.

Be it Further Resolved, that a copy of this resolution be spread upon the minutes of this Association; that a copy there of be transmitted to the family of the deceased; that a copy of the same be delivered to the Clerk of the Superior Court of Davie County to be by him enrolled in the records of his office, and that additional copies be furnished the several newspapers published in the county to the end that the sentiments herein expressed may be presented to the public at large.

Done at Mocksville, North Carolina, this 15th day of May, 1941, Anno Domini. DAVIE COUNTY BAR ASSOCIATION. By Jacob Stewart, President. Attest: Robert S. McNeill, Secretary.

Former Davie Sailor Missing

The Record is in receipt of a letter from Mrs. S. K. Smith, of Dudley, N. C., reading as follows:

Dear Mr Stroud:—Thought maybe you would be interested in knowing that we have been informed that Stacy Hugh Smith, Seaman Second Class, U. S. Navy, is missing, following action in the performance of his duty and in the service of his country. He was on the U. S. S. Pope, a destroyer.

Stacy Smith is a son of Mr. and Mrs. S. K. Smith, former residents of the Smith Grove section, but who are now living at Dudley. Stacy K. Smith the father, was a veteran of the world War No. 1, and was the first American soldier to land on French soil in 1917. The Record is sorry to hear this sad news.

Republicans Nominate Barber

The Eighth Congressional District Republican Convention met at Lexington on March 18th. S. A. DeLapp, of Lexington, was elected Chairman, and Walter Zachary, of Yadkinville, was elected Secretary to serve for the ensuing two years. The following executive committee was named:

- B. C. Brock, Chairman, Davie. Wilkes—H. C. Kelly, Miss Frances Somers. Yadkin—W. E. Rutledge. Davie—C. F. Stroud. Montgomery—M. A. Nicholson. Davidson—J. B. Payne, J. T. Jackson. Moore—Calvin G. Spencer. Rockingham—A. M. Snider. Lee—C. R. Hall.

The Convention nominated Dr. A. D. Barber, of Sanford, for Congress. Dr. Barber is one of the State's leading Republicans, and will make the race against W. O. Burgin, the Democratic incumbent from Lexington. This district needs a live, progressive man to represent them in the halls of Congress—a man who has opinions and a will of his own, and who will not be dictated to by any man. Here's hoping that Dr. Barber will be our next Congressman.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK—There was a skinny boy over on Coney Island who in one day spent $100 popping off ducks and clay pipes on the shooting gallery conveyor belts. He didn't go to college and if he had he probably would have been voted the least likely to succeed.

But, with young people, you can't be too sure what is monkey business or what isn't. This boy, as above, really had his mind on his work when he was hanging away in the shooting gallery. He got himself a work bench and brought through the Garand rifle, which has increased our army small-arm firing power by two-fold, and which has brought to the 53-year-old John C. Garand special commendation from General MacArthur.

Mr. Garand is still a gunsmith at the Springfield armory, earning around $5,000 a year. He has had big commercial offers for his gun, but has refused them and has waited patiently for the army to make up its mind, during the years of controversy and many rigorous tests.

He is an erect, lean featured, mop-haired man, with alert, bespectacled blue eyes which focus sharply at about the distance of a gun-sight. He seems rather absent-minded about the medals he has won and the money he might have made and is puzzled that anyone should suggest that he ever had any thought other than handing his gun to the government. It was in 1923 that he offered the first rough model of his gun. The bureau of standards backed him, grooved him into the Springfield armory, and it was in 1933 that the war department provided funds for the manufacture of the rifle.

He was born in Montreal, was a sweeper in a textile mill in a small Connecticut town at the age of 12 and was working part time in a machine shop when he found his laboratory in the Coney Island shooting galleries.

ONE defect of a non-authoritarian society is that people usually don't consult authorities before making up their minds. We have heard in many expressions of Our Draft Army based Best Under Any alarm based Flag, Dr. Winslow on something "right out of the feed-box," about the supposed general physical unfitness of our new army. It's just a cream-puff army if you listen to these croakers.

None of them took the trouble to telephone the man who knows—Dr. C. E. A. Winslow of Yale university. He has studied the physical fitness of our recruits, after a lifetime as a specialist in such matters. He says: "Our draft army is probably the most physically and mentally competent large body of young men ever gathered together under any flag." Dr. Winslow's succinct finding is reported in the "Fitness-for-Freedom" issue of the Survey-Graphic magazine.

Since 1915, Dr. Winslow has been lauder professor of public health at the New York Museum of Natural History, as director of the division of public health education in the New York state department of public health and has been associated with the Rockefeller foundation in public health research and education. He has written a wide shelf of books on subjects in his field, conducted innumerable surveys, contributed to countless forums and conferences.

Dr. Winslow was the founder of the American Hygiene movement. A 64-year-old Bostonian, he schooled for his life-long battle against physical unfitness at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Yale and New York university.

He has furthered wider participation among college students in health-building sports and he has been a pioneer in both "positive health" and preventive medicine.

This department has noted a swelling tide of misinformation about the British stalling, the Russians getting ready for a fast double-cross, our war production a mess and our army a push-over. It is possible that somebody who doesn't like us is channeling this into dinner-table talk. It might be a good idea if every American newspaper would run a standing "get it straight" box, giving the names and addresses of trusted authorities in each field of war effort, and urging talkative citizens to hook up with headquarters or else keep still.

Johnson of Colorado is shown surrounded by soldiers who are expressing their appreciation to the senator for his sponsorship of the measure, approved by the senate military affairs committee, calling for a 100 per cent increase in pay for enlisted men in the army, boosting it from $21 a month to $42 a month. Armored Cars Meet Jap Invader in Java

Wounded by Japs

Gen. Pat Hurley, secretary of war in the Hoover administration, who was reported wounded at Port Darwin while en route to his new post as U. S. minister to New Zealand. Flying from Java, his army bomber was attacked by a swarm of Jap bombers. Later his quarters at Port Darwin were shelled and Hurley was slightly injured.

Torpedoed 4 Times

Thirty-nine survivors who saw an Axis submarine wolf pack sink their ship, the S. S. Maror, landed safely at Norfolk, Va. No one was lost. Among the survivors was Charles Troisen, 62, shown above. Seeing a ship fall prey to a torpedo is an old story to him. He had three vessels shot from under him in World War I.

STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO
BY VIRGINIA VALE
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

FOUR soldiers from the middle west got the thrill of a lifetime recently. Claire Trevor, who'd been working late at Paramount on "The Black Curtain," was driving to a Hollywood cafe for dinner when she saw them trying to thumb a ride. She stopped and asked them if they'd have dinner with her. There were no introductions. In the middle of the meal one of them suddenly exclaimed, "Gosh, I know you—you're Claire Trevor!" Resultant casualties, one glass of water, spilled; two cups of coffee, dropped. Cause, amazement of fellow guests.

Claudette Colbert's slated to play another of those beautiful, brisk newspaper women that we see so often on the screen and so rarely in real life. She'll do it in "No Time for Love." Fred McMurray, the hero, plays a sand hog, who works on a tunnel project under the Hudson.

We're told officially that Jean Parker, now playing in "Hello Annapolis," has just planted the largest one-girl victory garden in Hollywood—half an acre, all vegetables, which she's taking care of entirely by herself. Anybody who's ever taken care of a vegetable garden knows that either her screen career or the tomatoes and beans is going to be sadly neglected.

"Klondike Kate," who's in Hollywood to select an actress to portray her in the Columbia story based on her life, gave the same final test to all candidates, including Evelyn Keyes, Jinx Falkenburg and Shirley Patterson—had each roll a cigarette.

Jonathan Hale, who plays a bit in "Joe Smith, American," is a great-grand-nephew of Nathan Hale—plays the part of a foreign agent who beats up a man who's inspired by Nathan Hale's words, "I regret that I have but one life to give for my country."

Joan Fontaine better get ready for the biggest year of her screen career, now that she's won the Academy award for her work in "Suspicion," whether she really wants to go on making pictures or not. She was sure that one of the other nominees, her sister, Olivia de Havilland, Bette Davis, Greer Garson and Barbara Stanwyck, would get it.

"On-the-air" habits of radio folk—Fred Allen chews gum, swing organist Mill Herth chews candle wax; the Andrews Sisters squeeze each others' hands, Phil Baker squeezes the golf ball that he always carries in his pocket, Tallulah Bankhead grips her script so hard that afterward it shows the marks of her finger nails on every page.

Sixteen-year-old Linda Ware postponed her Paramount commitments because her doctor said she'd have to take a rest, preferably out of town. She went to New York. A week later she'd accepted a singing engagement at a swank night club, was discussing the lead in a musical show opposite Ray Bolger, and had four offers for guest shots on the air. They say the doctor's threatened with apoplexy.

Bob Hawk's Friday evening radio program, "How'm I Doin'?" is one of Uncle Sam's heaviest buyers of defense stamps. The program authorities keep a $2,000 reserve on hand at all times.

Two men are responsible for keeping actress Ann Thomas in New York, when she had an opportunity to join Shirley Temple in the radio version of "Junior Miss"; they're Mr. Ace of radio's "Easy Aces," (she's his stenographer in the air show,) and Mr. Meek of "Meet Mr. Meek."

ODDS AND ENDS—Since Fred Allen moved his broadcasts to Sunday evenings he's right back where he was nearly ten years ago, with "Fred Allen's Bath Club Revue." Kate Smith autographed almost 1,000 sailors' caps when she appeared at the Great Lakes U. S. naval training station. Norma Jean Wayne was only 14 days old when she made her screen debut as the new baby of the screen's "Blondie" series. Warner Bros. has to find new leading men for "The Hard Way" and "The Widow Winkler" because Jeffrey Lynn's in the army now. Metro's bought "Dragon Seed" by Pearl S. Buck, and will make a picture of it.

U. S. Gardeners
Aid in Nation's 'Victory' Drive

Increased Number of Gardeners This Year Vital For Balanced Diets.

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)
Uncle Sam's wartime food needs have put the all-but-forgotten family vegetable garden back on the map. Millions of Americans are now poring over Seed catalogs, checking tools and eyeing likely planting sites.

Once the frost is gone, an army of gardeners recruited from farms, small towns and big cities will prepare the earth with spades and fertilizers. Then will come seeding, weeding and cultivating in a vast effort to produce plenty of fresh vegetables, F. O. B., the kitchen door.

This effort is part of a great national Victory Garden program. In the weeks since Pearl Harbor, officials of the U. S. department of agriculture have been consulting with gardening experts from every state. Organizations everywhere have pledged their aid—garden clubs, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Campfire Girls, 4-H clubs. As the program develops, activities will follow two major lines:

- 1. Farmers and their families throughout the United States will co-operate by planting 5,760,000 vegetable gardens.
- 2. Small town and big city dwellers will sponsor community and school gardens, and wherever possible individual family Victory gardens.

This newest move in the war on the Axis is reminiscent in many ways of the stirring days of World War No. 1, when back-yard gardeners did their bit to make good the slogan: "Food Will Win the War." But there are wide differences, too, and it is hoped that many of the mistakes of the 1917-18 war garden program will be avoided this time. The last war demonstrated that home gardening can contribute importantly to the food supply. In 1917 alone, 1,150,000 acres of city and town land were under cultivation. By 1918 there were 5,000,000 gardens

From industrial centers and other defense localities now working at top speed for the nation's Victory program, the excellent business conditions found there are overflowing into the more rural sections of the United States as the above map shows. As farm crops and rural production increases better business conditions will show in the "fair" areas of the U. S.

American Farmers Now Making Wartime Plans
Faced with the biggest demand for agricultural products in the history of the nation, American farmers today are planning—preparing—and working toward the single end of producing the crops, livestock, dairy products, fibers and other raw materials to meet wartime needs, writes L. G. Elliott, president of the LaSalle Extension university.
More food will be required by our military forces. Demand from our allies is constantly growing.

Fresh Vegetables for the Family

Red beets . . . beans . . . lettuce . . . carrots . . . tomatoes . . . are just a few of the vegetables this young lady, busy in her garden, can look forward to during the coming months. During those months the family will not only have fresh vegetables that will keep them healthy and strong, but there will be plenty left over to can and preserve for consumption during the following winter.

But there was waste and unnecessary sacrifice, too. Many a hopeful big city garden yielded nothing but blisters and backaches. In some public recreation areas were plowed up and planted to potatoes. Ornamental plantings in private grounds were sacrificed; flowers were forgotten to make room for vegetables; and gardens were attempted in congested big city locations where success was obviously impossible.

Today an abundance of land is available for Victory Gardens without sacrificing landscape beauty or the growing of flowers which are just as important to morale, as vegetables are to physical well-being. This is particularly true in small towns and in the suburban areas of big cities.

Nutrition is Watchword.
Nutrition is the watchword of the present program. First of all, our soldiers must be well nourished. So must defense workers in fields and factories. Britain, Russia and our other allies must be kept supplied with food. But the program goes beyond that. A battle is being waged on the home front against malnutrition. Regardless of how long the World war lasts, the nutrition battle at home will go on until every American is receiving enough of the right kinds of food.

In considering the two main phases of the Victory Garden program, the farm effort will of course be the backbone. Every farmer who can possibly do so will have a garden where he can produce fresh vegetables and fruits for home use and have some surplus to market. Secretary of Agriculture Wickard summed up the movement's philosophy when he told delegates attending a recent conference in Washington:

"This situation is different from 1917. Then the effort was to save food so there would be plenty for our troops in France. Now the need is for a balanced diet. When the farm family grows its own vegetables, it eats more and thus improves the family's health. We hope for an increase of 1,300,000 farm vegetable gardens in 1942. The goal we have set is 5,760,000.

"Growing vegetables on the farm puts the food right where it is to be used; it doesn't take any freight cars or trucks to move food to those families. Home vegetable gardens release more commercial vegetables for other purposes. Commercially canned vegetables are packed in tin—and we are short of tin."

As a reinforcement to the farm garden movement, the work of small town and big city gardens will help swell Uncle Sam's food output.

In communities large and small every family that has access to a favorably situated plot for producing part of its food supply is being asked to join a Victory Garden club.

The three fertilizer elements most needed for plant growth are nitrogen, phosphorus and potash. These elements are mentioned in this order in the analysis of commercial fertilizer.

"For effective gardening use," said one authority, "it has been found advisable to apply the fertilizer before planting time, mixing it in thoroughly with the soil when the first spading or plowing is done. The quantity to apply will vary with the soil type, but the Victory Gardener will be safe in using 5 pounds of a mixture such as 5-10-5 to each 100 square feet of garden.
Once having undertaken its gardening project, the average family will reap dividends far exceeding the crop of vegetables at harvest time. Of prime importance in wartime is the morale factor. Gardening is a morale builder without equal anywhere. There is no better antidote for war "blues" than a session with a hoe. Gardening provides a release from the worries and nervous tension of long hours spent at a desk or in the machine shop of a munitions factory. It gives the housewife a change of pace from the routine of domestic duties.

These town and city gardeners are being cautioned that their gardens must be economical; that every seed, every pound of fertilizer and every implement counts; that there must be no waste. The members of these garden clubs will meet and discuss their problems together and obtain guidance from experts. Provisions are being made in many cities by the Civilian Defense organization for the establishment of community gardens in which plots are assigned to families that do not have fertile garden soil of their own. Schools and organizations are promoting the program.

How big a job is it to put in a garden and make it produce successfully?

Simple to Garden.
It's relatively simple, according to gardening experts. They point out that with modern knowledge of soils, plant foods, new tools and the improved vegetable varieties developed by plant breeders, it is possible to grow fresh vegetables for the family in a favorable location with only a few hours' light exercise each week.

The secret of effective gardening lies in the size of the plot. Too big a garden is likely to be neglected. One just large enough, producing the vegetables a family needs and no more, in balanced proportions can be kept well without hard work. Another secret is in not trying to grow too large a variety. One authority suggests six different vegetables as a basis—tomatoes, snap beans, carrots, cabbage, lettuce and greens. All are high in food and vitamin value. Moreover, tomatoes, beans, carrots and greens can be easily canned.

These gardening experts will tell you one more thing—that you've got to feed the soil if you expect it to produce for you. This means providing it with plant food. And this is just as true if you garden on the farm or in town. The average farmer knows by experience with field crops that fertilizer will enhance the size of his crop, increase its resistance to disease, improve the quality and promote all-around hardiness. He will apply that knowledge in making his Victory garden contribute to the national defense. The city gardener can profit by the farmer's experience.

The three fertilizer elements most needed for plant growth are nitrogen, phosphorus and potash. These elements are mentioned in this order in the analysis of commercial fertilizer.

"For effective gardening use," said one authority, "it has been found advisable to apply the fertilizer before planting time, mixing it in thoroughly with the soil when the first spading or plowing is done. LINING CHIMNEY FLUES FOR GAS

A HOME owner who is considering putting in a gas burning furnace has been advised by the gas company to put a lining in his chimney flue. He is told that if he does not go to this expense of $40, the chimney brickwork may be injured, and he will be required to sign a waiver by which he accepts the responsibility. He asks about the necessity for a lining. There is a real necessity for it, because of probable damage to the mortar joints. In burning, gas forms vapors that will condense against the cool masonry. These vapors contain sulphur, and in combining with the water vapor that is present, a mild form of sulphuric acid results. In time, this will eat into the mortar joints and lead to destruction. A chimney that is properly built, with a fireclay flue lining, will not be harmed. But bare mortar joints will suffer. To protect them, a pipe can be inserted in the flue made of a material that is not affected by acid. It was evidently this that was suggested by the gas company. Another treatment is to spray the inside of the flue with a form of liquid asphalt, using being made of a special spraying outfit that can be let down the chimney. I have heard of so many cases of the deterioration of chimneys in burning gas that I strongly recommend that my correspondent go to the expense of lining the chimney.

Chimney Creosote.
Question: My old house, originally for one family, has been made over into three apartments. It has a peak roof with an inside chimney. Each apartment has a kitchen stove, burning range oil. In the top apartment a black liquid drips down the pipe on the stove and floor. How can this be stopped?

Answer: Apparently, the three kitchen stoves are connected to the same flue, which makes the draft poor for each one of them. If the top of the chimney is not at least two feet higher than the highest point of the peak roof, this also will affect the draft. As a result of poor draft, the vapors from the burning oil condense in the cool part of the chimney above the roof, and the liquid which forms runs into the smokepipe of the top apartment. Rebuilding the upper part of the chimney with thicker walls would help the situation, because that part of the chimney would be warmer then, and there would be less condensation. The chimney cap should be the full size of the flue; if it is smaller, it will reduce the draft.

Uneven Door Sill.
Question: My basement door is cut through an opening in a stone foundation. The lower stone surface is uneven, so that there is a space under the door as much as an inch in places. This makes the basement cold. How can this space be filled?

Answer: Your best result would be to cut the sill smooth and level with a cold chisel. One way to fill the space would be with concrete, provided you leave the surface of the stone sufficiently rough for the concrete to form a bond. Another method would be to screw a strip of wood to the bottom edge of the door.

Basement Wall Finish.
Question: Basement walls are of cut stone, and were finished on the inside with cement. Much of this has fallen off and I plan to put on a new surface. Would you suggest cement, or something else?

Answer: Cement paint, which is intended for masonry, would be better than straight cement, for it contains a binder. It comes in white as well as in colors. Get it at a paint store. Directions on the label should be carefully followed.

Leaking Roof.
Question: A dormer roof is covered with cedar shingles, and as it has little pitch, it develops many leaks. I do not want to remove the shingles because of the expense. What can I cover them with?

Answer: You can use composition shingles over heavy roofing felt.

Mildew Spots.
Question: What will remove mildew spots from broadcloth shirts?

Answer: Javelle water or similar liquid bleach will take them out. Use a weak solution and alternate with clear water, for long exposure may damage the fibers. Repeated launderings will usually do the trick.

Making a Lawn.
Question: How can I grow a lawn on sandy soil around my house?

Answer: For best results, you should cover the sand with about a foot of top soil. Get the advice of a good seed store, where the local conditions are known.

CROCHET one of all of these accessories for baby. They go quickly in Shetland Floss in this lacy stitch. Be sure to put on the cute tassels that will catch everyone's eye. Use a color with white.

Don't run---walk. Don't crowd into public places. If a raid starts while you are away from home, lie down under shelter. If at home, go to your refuge room and close the door. If bombs fall near you lie down under a table, a bed or a strong couch turned upside down.

If driving a motor vehicle, pull to the curb and turn out lights if they are burning. Then seek shelter or stay in the car. Streets must be kept open for police, fire and other emergency vehicles.

Observe Directions Of Your Air Raid Warden. He's A Public Official And Interested Only In Helping Protect You Learn His Name And Give Him Every Cooperation.

Above All, Be A Good Citizen Yourself.

STAY QUIET indoors or under shelter until the ALL-CLEAR signal sounds. Keep your head, avoid confusion and panics. Study your instruction sheet and KNOW what to do in any emergency.
