Earning and Spending

LESSON TEXT FOR SEPTEMBER 7— Proverbs 11:24-27; 16:8; Ecclesiastes 5:10, 11; James 5:1-6. MEMORY SELECTION—Better is a little with righteousness than great revenues without right,—Proverbs 16:8.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Edu-cation; used by permission.

By WILLIAM CULBERTSON, D. D. Of The Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

As BELIEVERS in Christ we are A responsible not only for the way we earn our living, but for the way we spend what we earn.

Of course we must earn our living honestly, but if we spend foolishly that which we have earned, we shall have dissipated much of the effect of our example in earning.

Possessions are a trust from God, and we shall have to render an account of our stewardship.

Just because we have given a certain percentage of our income to Christian causes is no reason to think we shall meet with divine approbation with regard to our stewardship. If we give a tithe, well and good, but what about the other nine-tenths? Is God pleased with our stewardship there?

I. The Vanity of Wealth (Eccles. 5:10, 11).

IN ANY study of wealth, it seems necessary to begin with an understanding of its limitations. We live in a world in which men frequently lay great importance on possessions, and indeed, there are many things which wealth can purchase. On the other hand, there are some things that money cannot buy. And further, we should recognize that our possessions are not eternal, that they may suddenly fade away.

The passage here reminds us of the fact that wealth for wealth's sake is bound to be a disappointment. The man who loves silver shall not be satisfied with silver, any more than the man who loves pleasure shall be satisfied with pleasure. Augustine was right when he said that man could be satisfied with no less than God himself.

Notice how accurately the picture drawn. If we have increased wealth, we have increased responsibility (v. 11). That fact is as un-alterable as the most rigid law we know. The only advantage is, as the Preacher expresses it, the beholding of goods with the eye-not a very great advantage after all. II. The Proper Accumulation of Wealth (Prov. 16:8). IT IS just as true as when Solomon wrote it, that "Better is a little, with righteousness, than great revenues with injustice."

This statement needs no argument, needs no proof. If we would have the honor of men, self-respect, and the blessing of God, there is no alternative.

III. The Improper Accumulation of Wealth (James 5:1-6).

THE apostle James speaks of a condition that will obtain in the last days (v. 3). There are many evidences that the condition he describes has had altogether too many fulfillments in recent history.

James excoriates the rich who have defrauded their employees in order that they might fare sumptuously and live riotously. These un-scrupulous rich have taken advantage because they were not resisted (v. 6). Such wealth is corrupted.

Notice once again that the result of their sin will rise to break them. It is a serious thing to trifle with sin, to eat the bread of niquity. God has no patience with injustice in social relationships. Sooner or later judgment will

IV. The Proper Use of Wealth (Prov. 11:24-27).

IBERALITY should character-ize the child of God. It is true that the Bible condemns the attitude of imprudence, yet it also con-demns the attitude of the miser. To withhold more than is meet, also tends to want.

How blessedly true it is that there is a recompense to giving. Here we read that the one who waters shall himself be watered. Our Lord affirmed the same truth in Luke 6:38.

To have it within our power to help, and fail to do so, is to bring upon ourselves censure and condemnation. Therefore, we should seek to perform the good (v. 27). This passage concludes with the statement that one who searches after evil shall find that evil will come to him. The man who sets his heart to do wrong will not have to wait long to find the occasion to do that which is in his heart. Many are the injunctions in the New Testament regarding the proper use of wealth. For example, the Christian has a duty toward his own family (I Tim. 5:8). He is enioined to be sympathetic and generous in his giving to help others (II Cor. 8:8-15). Certainly he is to dispense his goods with the glory of

The frame is fabricated of angle iron, welded at the points of contact with a heavily coated mild steel electrode. The motor is mounted on the frame (D) and balanced two ways to minimize weight on the tractor. The motor base is extended far enough ahead to allow for the attachment of a jack shaft and pulleys (E) which reduce unit speed. The unit is ready for operation with the attachment of belts (F).

Bacteria as Plant Food Increases Grain Yield

The use of bacteria as food for plants is the basis of a new preparation known as phosphorobacteria, developed at Leningrad institute. Each gram of the preparation contains up to 200 million specially cultivated bacteria, which on reaching the soil transform complex organic matter containing phosphorus into soluble salts from which the can draw nourishment. The sat bacteria increased crop vields.

If I ever read, as some day I fear I shall, that ice-cream sodas and hot-dogs were first discovered on a pleasant afternoon by some mysterious Muscovite as he sat dreaming on his back steppes, I shall announce that bortsch and vodka are American products and that the Volga boatmen were simply a prodigal local of the CIO maritime union.

before the main stable of the United States Morgan orse farm which covers about 1,000 acres of rolling, wooded country two miles north of Middlebury, The original farm of 400 acres was presented to the United States department of agricul-ture by Joseph Battell. Colonel Battell had long been an ad-mirer and breeder of Morgan orses, and had founded the American Morgan register. The farm was established in 1907. The area was increased by an additional gift of about 35 acres by Colonel Battell in 1908, and by purchase of about 550 acres from Middlebury College in 1917. The land, underlain with limestone, is well adapted to the production of horses.

In the selection of foundation breeding stock, and in planning subsequent matings, emphasis was placed upon size and quality, and ability to perform the three gaits, walk, trot and canter. These points

The stocky stallion, original of the post-mortem effigy was named for its owner, a singing schoolmas-ter, was foaled in 1793 and died in 1821. He (I mean the stallion not the schoolmaster) had a romantic career and he is the progenitor of the breed, which as the department of agriculture says, is one of the few breeds of horses developed in the United States. Justin was a "small, active animal of great power and endurance, with the reputation of being able to outwalk outrun, and outpull any other horse in Vermont and the neighboring states. He had the power to transmit these qualities, says the department, to his three known sons and the United States government is doing its share to perpetuate the characteristics for which his ilk is "beauty, easy keeping, known: soundness, endurance, and spirit coupled with gentleness."

Rioting Flares in India; British Get Stern Rule

INDEPENDENCE:

India Riots

During the two days before fateful India became a land of free men, more than 200 died in a bloody orgy of violence and rioting in the huge northern province of Punjab.

Lahore, the capital, was the center of the disturbance, but fierce fighting also took place throughout the west and east Punjab country-side. Wide sections of Lahore were aflame.

This took place on the eve of India's independence day, just before the Indian constituent assembly sat down to function as a free governing body. According to the official descrip-tion, the breeding program there

Cause of the rioting, incited, as always, by terrorists, was the bitter disagreement arising out of the partitioning of India into two separate zones—one for Hindus, the other for Moslems.

In New Delhi, the independence day ceremonial program began with two minutes of silence for those who died in the fight for freewhich was finally achieved through amicable negotiations with the British.

Richard McFarlane, who disappeared during the first World War, leaving his wife, Julia, and two children, suddenly returns 25 years later and identifies himself as Captain Mackey, stational at the same camp as his son, Ric, serving in World War II. Ric has become involved with Sandra Calvert, a divorcee who Captain Mackey knew at one time. He threatens her, but she and Ric marry anyway, and she arrives at Julia's farm to live. She startles Julia by recognizing a picture of Richard as that of Captain Mackey. Sandra and Jill, Ric's sister, have a quarrel during which Sandra demands $10,000.

ing he is there to take Sandra to Ric. CHAPTER XIX

That night Captain Mackey arrives, say-

"Gordon? No, I don't know where he was assigned. Some flight training school, I think. He was a splendid fellow.

"I heard a plane go over a little while ago." Jill let water run to fill the ice tray, wondered if she should offer him another drink. She wasn't used to this aspect of hospitality, usually her grandfather did it, or sometimes Dave. "I thought about all of you—Spang and you, all you air men," she babbled on, a bit nervously, wondering why he had picked up that awful old wooden potato masher. Mamie had left it lying out-it was a thousand years old and all scarred where Ric had gnawed it when he was a baby. envied you," she ended, thinly.

He perched on the kitchen stool and lighted a cigarette. "Smoke these?" he asked. She shook her head. "Now and then. But Mother doesn't like it much." "Tell me a little about yourself, You're not in school?" he asked,

"Good gracious, no!" Jill laughed. "I'm practically middle-I'm almost twenty-seven years old. I was a war baby-last war. I've never seen my father. He didn't come back."

"In every war some of us don't come back," he said slowly. "But we're all vain enough to hope that we'll be remembered."

"It's the old urge for immortality, isn't it?" Jill said, sensing something in this man's mood that answered the aching thing she had kept in her heart so long, the part of her that belonged to Spang. "So, of her that belonged to Spang. you see I have to be my father's immortality. Ric and I are his fu-ture—all the future he has. In school I used to read all those weird books, all about the transmigration of souls, and metempsychosis, and all that fantastic stuff, and for a while I pretended to myself that I was my father, that perhaps he'd been killed just at the very moment I'd been born, and that his soul had gone into my body, and that really I was Richard McFarlane."

An oddly gentle smile moved over is face. "Perhaps that did happen. Perhaps his soul did go off and leave him and come to rest in your body. And if it did and if he knew I'm quite sure he wouldn't wish for anything better than to live on through some one so lovely and sweet as you!" She led him back to the livingshe led him back to the livingroom, and found an ash tray for min, and forgot for the moment that he had really come to see Sandra.

She said, when the silence had She said, when the silence had stretched a little, "Do you have a daughter, Captain Mackey?" He looked up sharply, and she saw his lip twitch a little.

Talk About a Lost Daughter

"I lost my daughter," he said, quietly.

"Oh, I'm sorry!"

"It was a very great loss," he went on. "Now that I've seen you I know how great my loss was."

Wa've both lost,

"I'm sorry. We've both lost, haven't we? A daughter needs her father terribly, and I suppose fa-thers need their daughters, too, don't they?"

"They need them very much. But sometimes they fail to realize the need until it's too late. I'm quite sure I didn't appreciate my daughter-when I had her. I-had my mind full of other things."

"But of course your daughter that you lost can be a sort of glory to you, don't you think? My father is like that to me. If my father could come back, I suspect he'd be a little embarrassed by the splendor I invested him with, and very likely your daughter would be just a nice, human girl, too-maybe she'd worry you by staying out too late and smoking and things like that. But because we don't have them we can keep them wonderful and extraordinary, can't we? And maybe it comforts them a little for being separated from us, if they know. Do you think they could know, possi-bly? People think a lot about life beyond the grave, in wartime, don't

"I wish your father could come back to live up to all the things you've built up for him in your mind, Jill McFarlane. But there's a big chance that he might be a sad disappointment."

'Oh, he couldn't be! He couldn't be, no matter how dull he was, or stern or irritable or anything. Because no matter what he was, he'd still be my father! Just as Ric is still my brother, even when I get furious at him for being weak and doing outrageous things, like this marriage. But I'd fight for him till we both died, if anything threatened | had a thought for anybody but himhim. Families are like that."

He rose and moved absently near ner and laid his hand for a moment on her hair. Jill took the hand and pressed it, looking up at him, ter-ribly sorry for him. He must, she was thinking, have loved that lost child very much, and no doubt the hurt of that loss had turned him in upon himself, made him bitter and misunderstood, made him the person Spang and others called Old

Jill got up, a little disturbed by the sharpness of her own emotions.
"You said you wanted to see my sister-in-law." She made an awkward effort to get back to commonplace ground. "Shall I call her now?"

"I suppose so." He seemed to pull himself back from some remoteness, with difficulty. "I came to take her event." to take her away. I'm taking her back to her husband."

"It's certainly generous of you to take the trouble," Jill remarked.
"I hope there is an answer to this problem. I know Sandra isn't hap-py here." She started for the door and then stopped, as a slippered figure came shuffling down the stairs. from Ridley Field. My grandfather, Mr. McFarlane, Captain. The captain has come to take Sandra away, Grandfather."

John I. McFarlane walked slowly toward the man in uniform.

"So you're Captain Mackey?" the old man said.

old man said.

Richard McFarlane looked at his father steadily. "I am Captain Mackey, Mr. McFarlane," he said, "How do you do, sir?" John I. seemed to wait. His breath came heavily, his nostrils and his lean throat quivered. Then with an abrupt gesture, he held out his hand

"How do you do, Captain?" he said. They clasped hands gravely, and it seemed to Jill that they were a long time about it, that they were searching each other, studying each other's face with an intentness that was odd for two people who were utter, strangers.

Father and Son Shake Hands

Then John I. said, "So you've come to take that woman away—that one young Richard married? He sent for her, did he?"

The captain waited a moment before he answered. Then his words came slowly. "I promised Richard McFarlane that I would take her away from this house, sir. It's quite important that I keep my promise to Richard McFarlane, don't you think?

John I. drew his lips in. "Give me a minute or two to get used to it." he said, dryly. "A captain it," he said, dryly. "A capt keeping a promise to a private." "Important that a captain keep any promise, Mr. McFarlane, even a promise to himself," the other man reminded him. "In a case like that, I'd say he'd better go very slow making promises to himself," John I, remarked.

"He might make a few he couldn't keep."

"A man learns by experience, don't you think, sir?"
"Might be. That would depend on his experience," John I. argued,
"Now, take a man that had never self, his experience might not be much help to him—that is unless he changed his ways a lot."

"Only fools and dead men never change," returned the captain. "Experience can teach a man a great deal. It can teach him, for instance, that there's a time for speech and a time to be silent." John I.'s black eyes sharpened and then grew sober.

"If you've learned that, sir, you've learned the most important thing in human experience," he said. "I'm an old man and I know.' "And being an old man, you'll give a younger man credit for trying?"

"I am always glad," John I. Mc-

Farlane spoke slowly, and Jill was a little impatient with him for being so pontifical and making such tiresome speeches, though Captain Mackey seemed not to be bored or amused by him at all. "I am always glad," the old man went on, "to give credit where credit is due. Good night to you, Captain."

She resented the name so much in fact, she told Judge Carl Quackenbush, that she delayed marrying her late husband for two years because she did not like the name. Moreover, she testified, ever since her marriage she has bewailed the fact that she was mistaken for an Irishwoman.

The court did not hesitate giving her back her maiden name of Elizabeth Jane Cook. The deeision may have been prompted by the fact that she already had it engraved on her tombstone.

Minister Renounces Salary To Take Job As Railroad Laborer

LANARK, ILL.-Renouncing his church salary because of a "steady decline in revenue," the Rev. Harmon H. Bro, 27, pastor of the Christian church, has taken a job as a railroad section hand to support his family.

The minister, a Harvard graduate and son of a college president, told his congregation he will continue to serve the church without salary, which was $200 a month, including parsonage rent. He is married and the father of a baby daughter.

His job as a railroad section hand cents an hour for a week, a total of $177.66 a month. In announcing his decision to take the job, Mr. Bro told his congregation:

"There are too many people in modern churches who think that the kingdom of God is just something you hire a preacher to worry about so the congregation can relax."

He explained that "only about 30" of the church's 100 members attend services regularly. Church income, he added, has been dropping regu-

LET US TELL YOU MORE ABOUT IT

The Russians Wouldn't Get It

We talk of those Russians being difficult to understand. But there are some things our totalitarian neighbors would never understand about us. They just would not get it. The way we argued and fussed over the labor bill Congress just passed, for example. Then when the bill became law, we all settled down to see if we can abide by it. This is what we call majority rule, through the elected representatives of the people. In our kind of set-up, people ar given credit for being able to think for themselves. Facts are easy to get hold of. Viewpoints may be freely expressed. We make up our minds, and our representative at the seat of government try to carry out our wishes. Things do not go like this in the totalitarian countries. Such questions would never be placed before the people in the first place. Regardless of everything else, the will of the dictator would prevail.

Labor Shows Spirit
Organized labor, in its attitude toward the Taft-Hartley Bill, ha demonstrated the manner in which the "people's mandate" is accepted in a land where laws are deter mined by the will of the majority but where all minorities are respect ed. The bill was the most con troversial legislation to come up in years. Much feeling was developed Lobbying was everywhere.

Yet, when the labor bill becam law over the President's veto, and when the President had stated that he'd sincerely enforce it and no sabotage the law, the top leaders of labor affirmed there would be no general protest strikes. Rightly they declared they would test it the courts, where laws should be tested. If the legislation is in error, time will tell. In the true Amer ican tradition of fairness and justice, we are awaiting the proving and testing of the new law.

The Way It Works

Now, I would like to say that the whole nation's economy is the direc result of this sort of thing. We may not like the decision of the majority, but we go along and make it work. We bank on the majority being right. We are willing to let the majority, through our elected representatives, write the laws.

Economics used to be a big word Now, nearly everybody understands it to mean the way we use our re sources and consume our wealth This includes production, buying, and selling. It includes the activities of labor and of management. Traditionally, in this country, we have allowed our economy to re main free of artificial barriers which would hamper its natural like that of supply and demand, for instance

The important thing is: free trading and buying and selling (that is an economy which freely belongs to the people), works best when we have a truly representative govern ment. They go hand in hand. Ty rants and dictators never let these things go free. A restricted econ omy and a non-representative gov-ernment, you'll find, are always part and parcel of the totalitarian method. This method never pays high wages. In America we have a great land. We pay the highest wages men ever earned. Let's keep it that way! And free!

CONRAD PHFUPS Exe

CONRAD PHELPS, Ext. of Alfred W Phelps, Deceased, Mocksville, Route 4. By A. T. Grant, Attorney.

He had worked late—he was tired—thoughtlessly he walked to the right along the darkened highway. Beyond the turn of the road were the lights of home.

Speeding through the early darkness, a driver urged his car along, hugging the edge of the road. A dim shape, a sudden sickening jolt — and the terrorized driver, his car careening, sped on around the curve, past the lighted cottage beside the road. And in the still of the night, a man died.

These are the ingredients of accidents and death at night. Often the victim contributes to his own death by not walking to the left, facing traffic. But far too many pay with their lives for the reckless driving of the hit-and-run car coward. To him self-preservation is more urgent than the saving of a life.

To his kind let this be a warning. Of all highway and traffic violators, the hit-and-run driver fares worst. Sooner or later, his crime leads to prison and disgrace.

The highways shall be cleared of these auto highwaymen.

While everyone will agree that fast driving on our highways is something we are all very much against unless we happen to be the one who's in a hurry, all too often accidents are caused by the driver who pokes along at 10 or 15 miles an hour on days when highways are crowded with traffic. Some minimum speed law if there isn't aiready tucked away somewhere on our ordinance books.

You'll see it happen every time you take to the road on a weekend when numerous cars are abroad. You roll along for maybe a mile or so at a lawful rate of speed but a rate fast enough to get you where you are going under ordinary conditious, you think. Then suddenly you come up on a long line of cars, maybe eight or ten or more which are crawling along at

Presidential Travel Is Major Project

Chief Executive Zealously Guarded by Secret Service

By BAUKHAGE

WASHINGTON.-When President Truman finally announced that he was going to Brazil, he was immediately asked if he contemplated any trips across continental United States. He answered in the negative.

A reporter piped up: "This year or next year?" "THIS year," the President replied.

That gave the White House press and radio conference a short inter-lude of laughter. For the reason that whenever a president is forced to drop his role of chief executive to assume the functions of candidate, it is funny. Frequently it isn't funny for the candidate, especially when he has been used to the respect spontaneously and (except in election years) almost universally tendered his office.

A presidential trip may be, in many cases, fun for the President, raid alert system was designed, Vancouver, Can-ada; Wilson suffered a stroke in his Pullman; Theodore Roosevelt was wounded while he addressed a neeting on a visit to Milwaukee.

Furthermore, it has been re-cently revealed by the head of the secret service, Mike Reilly, in his book "Reilly of the White House," that Franklin Roose velt, who disliked air travel, nearly cracked up in Malta, and might have been assassinated in a park in Miami had he not leaned out of his car to take a telegram (Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago was killed and four

Stayed Within Nation's Borders

Up to Franklin Roosevelt's time Taft was the most traveled of presi lents, and in 1901 worried all the constitutionalists (unfamiliar with the Constitution) by visiting the Canal Zone. However, he was scruoulously careful to stay on board the American warship which touched only American soil. It had been considered an unwritten law since George Washington's time (he refused to enter Rhode Island until it was admitted to the Union) that a president while in office couldn't leave the country. When Woodrow Wilson went to Paris and Vice President Thomas Marshall had to preside at cabinet meetings, the vice president made it clear he was of-ficiating only at the request of

But it is complicated routine for a whole army of people.

What these people do is little known to the public, especially the secret service. One out of every 10 of our presidents has been assassinated up to the time congress turned the job of protecting the chief executive over to the secret service. Since then no president has been assassinated.

Theirs (the secret service) is a heartbreaking job, and never have the details been so thoroughly re-vealed (to the discomfiture of some of his former colleagues) as by Mike Reilly in the book I men-tioned.

When a spotter or watcher, either civilian or military, spotted an airplane he or she was unable to identify "any place from Greenland to the Straits of Magellan," the information was radioed immediately to the army air force headquarters at Mitchell Field, N. Y.

The information was immediately evaluated and conveyed by radio and land line to the secret service communication system where men were standing a 24 hour watch. This system tied together Mitchell Field, Bolling Field, the homes, offices and automobiles of various secret service agents, field offices throughout the country, all secret service mobile units, the President's train, Shangri-La, and the President's room at Hyde Park.

is only one activity. Keeping him in touch with his job is another. "Today," as Major McNally puts it, "wherever the President travels, the White House signal detachment continues its task of weaving deftly an intricate com-munications net, which enables the commander-in-chief (and he might have added, a traveling candidate) to keep himself constantly informed and in touch with the nation."

The work of weaving this "com munications net" is an exciting sto ry too long to recount here, but let me quote Major McNally brief-ly to show how continuous commu-nication was maintained when President Roosevelt made one of his fre quent trips to Hyde Park.

"A 50-watt frequency modulation station was modified and installed to the presidential train. Army vehicles, radio equipped, were spot-ted at strategically plotted points along the route between Washington and Poughkeepsie, so that the train was in constant touch with the White House all the way. Another FM radio link was installed in the old stable on the President's estate at Hyde Park. By means of a direct telephone line to Washington and frequency modulation ra dio, the White House was kept informed of the President's where abouts at all times."

The speed with which messages could be dispatched and answers received was astounding. When Winston Churchill was making his second visit to Hyde Park, he and the President who were keen competitors as well as close collaborators decided to make a speed test on the communications facilities. Each sent identical messages to Australia over the respective British and United States facilities. The President had an answer in less than two hours; the Prime Minister got his the next day.

FIST LOVER

Julia McFarlane, whose husband, Richard, disappeared in World War I, leaving her to raise two children, Ric and Jill, is startled when 25 years later, during the second war, he returns and tells her he is using the name of Captain Mackey. Ric marries Sandra Calvert, a divorces whom Richard knew to be of bad reputation. She arrives at the farm to live and recognizes a picture of Rich-ard as that of Mackey. She and Jill quarrel and she demands $10,000. That night Captain Mackey arrives, telling Jill, who does not know who he is, that he is taking Sandra to Ric. He tells Jill about the daughter he lost and she tells him about her father. Sandra refuses to leave with him.

CHAPTER XX

"All right," she snapped, harshly, "what's the payoff? There is one, I suppose? You didn't come here out of the goodness of your heart, Rod Mackey!" He looked at Jill and smiled one-sidedly.

"She doesn't trust me!" he drawled. "She thinks there's a catch in it."

"Maybe she has had some disillusioning experiences," Jill said. "It could be that she hasn't always known the right sort of people."

"Never mind the kind of people I've known!" Sandra cried, hoarsely. "At least no tricky heel has ever fooled me yet. Just tell me the gag, that's all. I hate blunder-ing into things. I suppose the Ges-tapo has been abroad, and right now is the dramatic moment to produce the fatal papers? If you'd only given me one more day, Rod Mackey! One more day, and a very elaborate military reputation might have gone crashing down in some very dirty ruins! But you knew I wouldn't have had time to prove anything, didn't you? You worked

"What on earth is she talking about?" Jill demanded of the captain, her eyes bewildered.

"She's displeased with me, Jill," he said, blandly. "I happen to know a few facts about a divorce our Sandra once got in a little smelly town called Piedras Negras, in Mexico. Back in 1927, I think, wasn't it, Sandra? Or was it '29? She bought the divorce cheap, the way you buy things in Mexico, cheap stuff you wouldn't look at in this country, and she didn't look too carefully at the divorce. And of course after she married Lieutenant Colonel Calvert, and then collected considerable alimony from him, and now that she's married into the Mc-Farlane family, she'd like to forget the divorce and never hear anything about it again."

"You mean—the divorce wasn't any good?" Jill asked. "But if it

"He doesn't know a thing about ft!" snapped Sandra. "He's bluffing. Trying to force me to do what he wants me to do."

"Unfortunately for you, my dear girl, I'm not bluffing. I have, to quote you, the fatal papers. Now, if you don't mind, I'd like to get started. I'm still in the army, I'm still under command. And it's getting late" not with you. You can take me as far as a bus station. Well, you can relax now, Jill. I'm taking my obnoxious person out of your house. You won't be degraded any more. You—you poor, blind little fool!"

She whirled away and went pounding up the stairs. Jill sat down abruptly. She was feeling weak and queer as though she had just watched something die.

"I-wish you'd stay until Mother gets here," she said, faintly. "She'll be disappointed at not seeing you.
And—is it true about Sandra's di-That it wasn't legal or something?"

"Her name happens not to be Sandra," the Captain said. "Her name was Hattie Schoeffle when she was married to a boy named Bordine, in Kearney, Nebraska. she tired of him and got into burlesque, and after that into vaudeville, and a few years ago she showed up in San Antonio and attracted a young Major Calvert, who wanted to marry her. So she got this quick divorce in Mexico and didn't bother to discover that the official who signed it hadn't taken his eath of office vet, or remember Schoeffle, and divorced as Sandra Laverne-mere legal details but quite important."

"I'm glad," Jill said. "It's a nasty thing to say, but I'm glad." "Will you give your mother a message from me, Jill?" "Of course. But they should be here any minute."

"A soldier's time is not his own, you know. But you can tell your mother not to worry about Richard. I think he'll come through this business all right. I think he has good stuff in him, in fact I'm sure of it. He's his mother's son.'

'An Old Beau

Came to Call

"I'll tell her. But what shall I tell Mother about you?

"Just give me a kind thought now and then, will you, Jill? I'll need it, where I'm going." He heard Sandra's feet on the stairs and bent down quickly and kissed Jill on the cheek. "That's for my own daughter," he said, huskily.

Captain Mackey picked up her bag and took her arm brusquely and hurried her out. At the door he turned and looked back at Jill, a long look. Then he flicked a little salute — the same gesture that Spang made-and went out.

Reunion With Spang Gordon

Jill gave a choking little cry and flung herself at the tall figure in the greasy flying jacket. "Spang!"

He caught her and held her tight. He kissed her gravely on the mouth. "Pure dumb luck!" he said. "Just a routine flight-my navigator had to get some more hours in the air, and right over this town the doggone oil line busted! Glad to see me, Jill?"

"Oh, Spang!" She shivered hap-ily. "You did come back!" pily.

"How about turning the man loose so he can wash his face?" Dave teased. "You've got grease on your chin and your nose, too, Jill."

"I know Spang must be tired and hungry," Julia said. "I'll see what can be found in the kitchen. Get some clean towels, Jill."

Jill led Spang upstairs to the bathroom.
"Sorry I'm such a mess," he said, pulling off the oil-soaked flight iacket, "but I worked an hour on jacket, that line before I gave up and de-

PORTLAND, ORE.-The lonely existence of the scattered families living in the remote fastness of Siskiyou national forest no longer will be relieved by periodic visits from the mule-driving postman.

The mule-pack postal route between the isolated towns of Illahe and Marial, near Grants Pass, has been terminated by the government because the carrier, who has a monopoly on mules, submitted too high a bid.

The action leaves only one route served the year around by mules although 12 others are served by mule and horse during the stormy winter months.

Residents of the remote mountain reas served by the mule routes do their shopping through the mail or-der catalogues and depend upon mule packs for everything—clothing, accordions, rifles, even food according to Fred H. Twohy, railroad mail district superintendent who has spent 10 years traveling the mountain regions to check on his mule postmen.

"One winter not even a horse could get through the heavy snows," Twohy recalls. "The residents were shut off from the world, and there was quite a squawk.''

Obliging postmen resorted to sleds to reach the isolated areas, Twohy adds, "and the first thing the people ordered by parcel post was several cases of beer." The Marial route was typical of the involved carrier setup required to get mail to secluded areas. Mail vent 34 miles up a river in a flatbottomed river boat from Wedderburn. Then it was transferred to mule for an additional 16-mile trip.

It was "kind of expensive," Twohy admits, costing about $400 a person to keep the route open. "The stamps don't begin to pay for it,"

"I have a hard time convincing them back in Washington that these routes are worth the expense," Two-

Atom-Born City Undergoes Boom

Taxes, Crime No Worry for Workers Who Plan to Build Great City.

RICHLAND, WASH.—Looking forward to its first postwar expansion boom, the town that the atom built expects to retain much of the individuality that makes it the unique "village" of the Pacific Northwest.

General Electric company announced an expansion in the plutonium-producing Hanford Engineer works, as well as plans for additions to this war-born community.

Richland is home to most of the workers who produce the element which was vital for the bombs that hit Nagasaki and Hiroshima two years ago.

Richland shares a common problem with other newly grown industrial communities in its need for more homes and hospital facilities.

Claims to Distinction.
These are some of this four-yearold atomic city's claims to distinc-

It never has had a death in the potentially dangerous industrial plants in which the populace works, nor has there been any recorded injury from radioactivity.

It claims the nation's highest birth rate (despite the once ugly rumors of radioactive elements might have on family life).

There is no juvenile delinquency problem

For the approximately 16,000 population, there is a lone beer tavern, one automobile dealer, one general store, four service stations, five grocery stores—and there isn't any hard liquor for sale either by the bottle or the glass. (There are stateoperated liquor stores in nearby

There are no real estate taxes. There is no mayor or elected town

No Police Court. There isn't so much as a police court or a lawyer in town. The two-cell city jail never has held a civilian prisoner. There's no worry for household-ers about what color to paint their homes; it's all done for them-without consultation on their own color

The town administrators launched a city-wide program of painting every home and building in varied blending colors (there has been some eyebrow-raising over how pea green slipped in under the guise of harmony).

For operating the town and seven atomic plants of the Hanford Engineer works, General Electric receives (in addition to all costs) a fee of $1 from the government.

Federal Tax Receipts Are

Short Billion and Half WASHINGTON.-Federal tax collections in fiscal 1947 fell $1.563,-711,000 below the previous fiscal year because of heavy loss of revenue from the repealed excess profits tax, treasury records showed.

However, the yield from income taxes reached new peaks. The excess profits tax yield slowed to a comparative trickle of milk and add other ingredients. Stir payments since last January. It was down by $4,256,310.000 for fiscal 1947, but increased collections from income and other taxes helped cushion the effect on Treasury receipts.

Total receipts of the internal revenue bureau from all sources were listed as $39,108,385,000. (From surplus property sales, customs duties and some other sources the government got supplementary receipts that boosted its total budget income to $43,037,798,000.) Income tax collections, both from individuals and corporations were up sharply to record highs, reflecting booming business and employ Individual income tax receipts reached $19,343,297,000, topping fis-cal 1946 by $638,761,000 although the rate was lowered January 1 1946, midway in the earlier year.

Not One Piano Tuner in

Hundred Can Play Piano DETROIT. - Five hundred piano tuners with a yen to sing had to scout through a hotel to find someone who could play.

The situation forced delegates to the convention of the American Society of Piano Technicians to bare a horrible truth:

Not one in a hundred tuners knows enough about music to put one note after another!

The society's members, who were waiting for someone to lead them in the national anthem, weren't surprised. Such things had happened

Discovery of Cancer Virus

TOKYO. - Dr. Ryoujun Kinoshita, a Japanese scientist, claimed in Tokyo the discovery of the isolation of a tiny cancer virus which, might speed the search for a complete cancer cure.

Dr. Kinoshita said he had discovered the cancer virus in mam-mals, a discovery he said which might prove that cancer was not hereditary but was transmissible. He added that if a method of suppression of the multiplication of the tiny cancer virus was found, cancer would be controllable.

There's a tendency to go along with the crowd BUDGET Vegetables

when it comes to spending money, especially on food, instead of seeing what can be done to stretch the food dollar. Getting the most out of the food dollar does not, fortunately, mean that we have to tighten our belts: t just means a bit of maneuvering

In the midst of soaring food costs, there's plenty of help for the woman who wants it, and today's recipes are designed to give you plenty of food for thought. Give your family a change of menu, and give the budget a chance to stay within its limits at the same time. There are several general rules to follow: Buy wisely; don't overbuy and let food go to waste; serve and whatever you have properly, and don't toss away good left

For main dishes you can call on good quality proteins for front line duty; they're cheaper than the ex-pensive cuts of meat and do just as much for you.

Macaroni-Cheese Souffle. (Serves 6) 1 cup cooked macaroni 1 cup sweet cream or condensed milk

½ cup butter or substitute 1 cup soft bread crumbs ½ green pepper, minced 1 medium green onion, minced 1 tablespoon chopped parsley ½ cup grated cheddar cheese Salt and pepper

4 eggs, separated Cook macaroni in boiling, salted water until tender. Drain; scald in beaten volks, then fold in stiffly beaten whites. Turn into a greased casserole and set in a pan of hot water. Bake in a moderate (350degree) oven for one hour. Serve with mushroom or pimiento cream

Eggs Foo Young. (Serves 6) eggs, beaten

1 No. 2 can bean sprouts 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper 2 cup shredded onion teaspoon salt s teaspoon pepper 4 pound mushrooms, sliced, if desired

Add salt and pepper to eggs and eat well. Add remaining ingredients. Taste and ing if desired. For each cake, measure out 1/2 for frying. Pour mixture into skillet, leveling vegetables evenly over the surface of the cake. Brown or both sides, turning once. About five minutes are required to cook each cake. Serve with soy sauce.

Rice Nests With Egg. (Serves 6) 1/4 cup butter or substitute dot with butter. Bake in a mod erate (350-degree) oven until the white of the egg is cooked but the yolk tender. This will take five to six minutes.

Among the kind - to - the - budget items is corned beef hash that comes canned and ready-toserve. It's easily dressed up in pinwheels of baking powder biscuit powder dough, and cer-tain to be a favorite with the mer of the house.

*Corned Beef Hash Rolls.

(Serves 4)
1 cup sifted flour teaspoons baking powder ½ teaspoon salt ¼ cup shortening

¼ to 1/3 cup milk 1 1-pound can corned beef hash Mix dry ingredients together and sift. Work in shortening. Add liquid gradually, mixing to a soft dough. Roll to a thickness of about onefourth inch. Spread corned beef hash on dough; roll and cut in four parts. Place on a greased cookie sheet (lifting with a pancake turner). Bake in a moderately hot (400-degree) oven for 30 minutes.

For an easy vegetable, take a car of green beans and make this:

*Sweet Sour Green Beans. (Serves 4 to 5) 1 small onion 1 No. 2 can green beans teaspoons sugar Salt and pepper

4 cup vinegar Cut the bacon in half inch pieces. Brown lightly with diced onion. Add liquid drained from green beans. Cook down to about ½ cup. Add remaining ingredients and beans. Heat and serve.

If you want to keep the budget trimmed, don't splurge on desserts. *Date-Nut Custard Pudding.

(Serves 6) 1 egg 1 cup milk 1 tablespoon sugar 1/8 teaspoon salt Dash of cinnamor

1/2 teaspoon grated lemon rind 8-ounce can date-nut bread Beat egg slightly, add milk, sug-ar and salt. Cook in a double boiler until mixture coats the spoon. Remove from hot water and stir in lemon rind and cinnamon. Cut date nut bread into pieces and combine with custard. Chill. Here's a cookie that will take care of leftover egg whites and bread crumbs. Serve it with fruit for a nice, light dessert:

Pecan Brownies. (Makes 3 dozen) 2 egg whites 1 cup brown sugar ½ teaspoon maple flavoring 1 cup pecans, chopped 1 cup fine dry bread crumbs

Beat egg whites until stiff, add sugar and flavoring. Stir well, then fold in nuts and crumbs. Shape into small balls, place on a greased baking pan and bake in a slow (325degree) oven for about 20 minutes. Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Lima beans take on new character if they are well seasoned with salt and pepper plus a crumbling of crisply fried bacon.

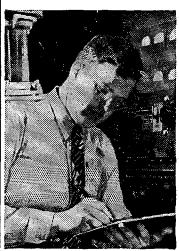

A good relish with sliced leftover meat? Mix together 1 cup of applesauce. 1/2 cup of whipped cream and ¼ cup grated or pureed horse radish.

Do up your gingerbread right by serving it with a whipped cream topping. Use two tablespoons of mo-lasses folded in 1 cup of the cream when whipped.

Cultivating Good Will

LESSON TEXT FOR SEPTEMBER 14— Proverbs 3:30, 31; 15:1, 18; 22:24, 25; 25:18, 21, 22; 26:20, 21; Matthew 5:9; James 3:17. MEMORY SELECTION—Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God.—Matthew 5:9.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Edu-cation; used by permission.

T IS true that the Christian life gives offense on occasion. When a controversy exists between men and God, the Christian has no other course of action than to align himself on God's side. As he takes his stand in such cases, he should do it in love, but nevertheless with

The Bible nowhere commends a critical spirit or a perverse attitude It rather emphasizes the necessity of firmness in the course of right, a firmness that loses nothing of its intensity through being tempered in the fires of love.

The Christian beyond all others should give himself to a life manifesting sympathy, kindness and charitableness. Thus he will open avenues of opportunity, of witness, and of service in which the Lord may be greatly magnified.

I. Contributing Factors to the Marring of Good Will (Prov. 3:30, 31; 22:24, 25; 25:18; 26:20, 21).

VARIANCE and strife mar good will (Prov. 3:30, 31). Notice that this strife is unoccasioned. When we strive with men to no purpose; when men have not harmed us, and with bitterness of spirit we turn upon them, we of course forfeit every opportunity to influence them for good.

The man of variance similarly should be passed by. We are not to emulate him; we are not to envy him; we are to choose none

A wrathful spirit also mars good will (Prov. 22:24, 25). A man of anger is not to be followed by the child of God. This passage enjoins us to have no friendship with such that we shall learn their ways and their ways will then be a snare to our souls.

Another way in which we mar good will is to be the purveyors of untruth (Prov. 25:18). The false witness is characterized as a large hammer or a sword or a sharp arrow, for he wounds his neighbor, often grievously.

The man or the woman who in gossip has maliciously wounded another loses all opportunity to influence him for God. The cultivation of good will involves the speaking of truth. Let us with all diligence, with the help of God, banish from our hearts and minds all of these attitudes which hurt and mar.

II. Contributing Factors to the Making of Good Will. IN THE first place, the soft answer of the controlled spirit will establish good will (Prov. 15:1, 18). The soft answer does turn away wrath. The man who is slow to anger appeases strife. Let us not confuse a soft answer with an unconvincing one, or with that mealy-mouthed procedure that we commonly call double talk. Happy is that man who knows how to present the truth convincingly, who can make men. despite his opposing standards, understand that he has their good at heart. Of course, there is one absolute requisite to such a testimony, and that is a life wholly lived for God. Another factor in making good will is the act of kindness (Prov. 25:21, 22). This passage, you will remember, is quoted in Romans 12. Here is the opportunity for us, in all matters of personal injury, to place our case in the hands of God rather than to seek revenge. By such acts of kindness, as we God, we shall be obeying the Lord; and who knows but that our enemies may thus be turned to him. A third contributing factor in making good will is that of making peace (Matt. 5:9). So often this business of attempting to make peace is a thankless task, but that thanklessness is only from human sources. So far as God is concerned, he has placed his seal of approval upon every child of his who seeks to lead men into peace with God and to make peace between men.

God speaks of them as being "called" sons of God. It is one thing to be a son of God; it is another thing to be acknowledged as a son of God.

III. The Source of Good Will (James 3:17).

THAT wisdom will be characterized by purity, peaceableness, gentleness, approachableness, mercy, and will be without partiality and without hypocrisy. This wisdom which is from above is guaranteed to those who know him who has been made unto us wisdom (I Cor. 1:30). Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Business Tells a Story

Time was when it was fashionable for everyone to talk about big business and count over the gross and net sins of corporations. Of course, there were mighty good stories even then about our steadily rising standards of living. But the busybodies didn't bother with those success stories, big or little.

I have said that America is now beginning to assume her task in public relations, that of selling her ways and her freedoms and her institutions to people everywhere. I should like to say that some of our groups and institutions have special respon-sibilities in this job. I think that labor does, as well as business. The task is important to agriculture, to tradesmen, to education, to the professions, and to civic minded folks in every walk. Certainly, la bor and industry are each so im portant in our economic system that they must be interested in re-awakening the people to an appreciation of America

A Report to Workers I should like to tell you about a company that is doing its part, thereby shouldering its responsibility for this kind of public re-education. Somebody sent me a copy of a report this company makes to its employees. The report answers questions employees want to know The answers are frank, fair, and simply stated. There is no doubt the report has made its readers better informed Americans. It did so

It takes $7,507 worth of capital to give a person a job in this company. Naturally, there would be no jobs for their 3,951 people if it were not for this $29,660,626. Shareholders who put up this money out of what they earn and save, hope to get "a fair rental" for their money. These folks, the report tells us, are capitalists—"and so are you!" Because we own our possessions, we are "capitalists" and this is a "capital ist" country.

Why Make a Profit? "We have a 'capitalist' industry in the United States because millions . . . use part of their 'capital' to own and operate the most produc tive farms, stores, mines, and fac tories on this earth. And that is the reason why we, as a people, have the highest standard of living of any nation in the world. No other sys tem in any country, at any time by any other means has ever produced so much for so many at such little cost as our 'capitalist' busi ness does in America." The company says frankly that i made money in 1946—about sever and one-half cents on every dol lar's worth of products sold. While this record is termed a narrow mar gin that calls for economy all along the line, the report makes it plair that the company expects to keep on making money. All this, midst healthy competitors that cause them to keep putting out better products for less money. Tribute is paid to the keen competition they meet as "A company that can't make money is like a ship that can't float. Neither is safe for you and your family. A company may lose money for a short time, just as a ship may spring a leak and take in water for a short time, but if the losses and the leak can't be stopped soon, the ship sinks and the company goes out of business. Passengers on the ship that sinks and employees of the company that fails are victims of disas an effective price regulator.

Add Variety to Canned Pears

fail and may be relied upon by home canners to provide summer fruits for winter tables. To break the monotony of plain canned pears the universally used Ball Blue Book on home canning suggests some tasty variations. Orange pears may be made by using the juice and rind of one-half orange to each quart of sirup. Remove the orange rind before packing the pears into jars. To make cinnamon pears use two or three tablespoons of "Red Hots" to erch quart of sirup, or use stick cinnamon and a few drops of red coloring. Ginger pears are made by using ginger tea (water in which ginger root is boiled) instead of plain water for making sirup. Use pineapple juice instead of water for the sirup to make pineapple pears. For plum pears use tart, red plum juice instead of waters for making the sirup. These variations are sure to "hit the spot" with your family.

Canned Berries Need Little or No Sugar

Many of the berry family will go into jars without sugar at all and keep perfectly for later use. If you want to be famous for delicious blueberry or huckleberry muffins, canning without sugar is preferred. To can blueberries or huckleberries for use in muffins, place two or three quarts of cleaned herries in a square of cheesecloth. Gather up the corners of the cloth and allow the berries to dip into boiling water until spots appear on the cloth. Then dip quickly in and out of cold water. Pack into hot Ball jars. Add neither sugar nor liquid. Process 20 minutes in hot water bath.

Other berries, except strawberries and red raspberries should be heated slowly until the juice runs free before being placed in jars for pro-cessing. If sugar is short in your household, can any berries by processing 10 minutes in hot water bath after cleaning, crushing, and stew-ing them in their own juice. If you have sugar, jams will, of course, use less of your supply than preserves. When you are using corn sirup as part of the sugar required, remember to cook the jam a little longer, in small batches, and stir often.

Control of Insects Vital in Gardening

New Insecticides and Combinations Effective

Good gardeners and vegetable growers have learned that insect control is as important as good seed, weed control and water.

New insecticides, new combina-tion dusts and better "sticking" agents have made vegetable and garden dusting more popular and the under side. In the control of blights and other plant diseases complete coverage is important.

For the average garden, a hand plunger duster is adequate. This duster should have a long discharge tube with upturned end for under-leaf dusting. Larger gardeners and commercial acreages are more effi-ciently dusted with crank or knapsack dusters. Good dusting equip-ment is more efficient and effective in control of insects and plant dis-eases than make-shifts.

Potato yields have been increased 40 to 60 per cent in University of Wisconsin tests by spraying or dusting DDT at 10-day intervals. Leaf hoppers, flea beetles and po tato beetles were controlled. Bean beetles, cabbage worms and most common insects are controlled by Calf scours treatment with vitamin pills or tablets does no good. That's the latest word on the subject from Cornell university. Those in charge of the Cornell work say:

Roosevelt Family Turns to Farming

Elliott and Eleanor Begin Back-to-Land Movement

By BAUKHAGE

WASHINGTON. - Moses Smith, I understand, has retired. He is leaving the 140 acres he has been farming for 27 years. His landlord's widow and her son are going to work it from now on.

The last time I saw Moses Smith he was dressed in his Sunday clothes. We were both up in his former landlord's bedroom, with some of the neighbors. It was a sad occasion. It was the boss' birthday anniversary but he had been dead nearly two years. The room looked the same to Moses and his friends who had seen it often where they came up there to talk over farm and other business. The former occupant's dressing gown was lying on the bed, his slippers were by the couch. The boss was one of the landlords that tenants like. Moses told me that, five years before, when I visited him at his white-painted farm house

"I've rented from him for 22 @ years (that was 1941)," he told me then, "and he then, "and he has yet to find a fault. Whenever he gets a chance comes over here to say 'heland 'goodbye' but he doesn' find fault. And I've made misbody is perfect." The landlord had a pretty good opinion of the tenant, too, as I learned later. Smith knew that and vas pleased, but it didn't go to his head. He is a typical, independent, self-respecting up-state New York farmer. I remember he said to me that day, sitting on the front stoop, in 1941:—

"The President drove over here a little while back, with Princess Juliana. He told her about this house being over 100 years old and I told him about the well-water. It had gone bad. So he said go ahead and dig a new well." Smith and I walked over to the new well. It was 100 feet deep. "It will last 100 years," said Smith with the pride you find up that way in good things that last.

By this time you have guessed that Smith was a tenant on the Roosevelt estate at Hyde Park. N. Y. I take it he is a comfortably retired farmer now, living in the nearby village of the same name. And Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and her son, Elliott, have taken over. I don't know who will live in the farm house. The old Roosevelt homestead is a museum now-but the Roosevelts have other dwellings.

They are going in for commercial farming, Mrs. R. said. Elliott hadn't been interviewed since the senate lot to do with the night club-cocktail-lounge side of young Roosevelt's activities but nobody could find a hole in his war record. Even his many critics admit that.

Elliott's friends are heaving sighs of relief to hear that he is going in for something constructive. War takes a lot of courage and skill, too, but it isn't very constructive. Nei ther is night life. "This is a challenge," Mrs. Roosevelt explained in her colnumn, "which Elliott and I will enjoy." Every farmer knows she's right about the "challenge." They aren't going to try to raise wheat, corn, potatoes, or attempt to keep 14 cows, as Smith was doing when I visited him. They are going to continue raising Christmas trees, a venture which the late President started and seriously pursued for several years. Smith's 140 acres, which were devoted to general farming, are only a fraction of the more than 1,000 acres, much of which is wooded, and part of which has been devoted to a scientifically - cultivated evergreen crop, which make up the estate.

Mrs. Roosevelt explained that she and her son couldn't afford to keep the estate as a country place, as her mother-in-law had

I noticed that the New York Herald-Tribune made editorial note of Mrs. Roosevelt's plans and mentioned that a lot of acres along the Hudson "were untilled."

It mentioned that Dr. Samuel Bard, a wealthy retired physician, had a place not far from the Roosevelt estate where he carried on val uable experiments which made an important contribution to agriculture. Mrs. Roosevelt hopes to con duct similar experiments.

"If Mrs. Roosevelt," says the Herald-Tribune, "does no more than fasten remembrance on the fact that land endures . . . that stability of farming is that of a renewable world in which seedtime and harvest are still more lasting than dy nasties and dictators . . . the new farming partnership will have done much of value before the first furrows are turned."

I wonder if you feel the way I do. I think, regardless of the color of one's political senti-ments, anybody who loves the soil can offer his well wishes to this venture with the hope that the young man will do as well with his hands in the earth as he did with his plane in the

was reminiscing on the subject of the Roosevelts' new adventure in tree-growing, my neighbor in the building across the street presented me with a couple of typewritten pages containing some striking facts about tree destruction. They are apropos, I think, now, as we move toward the close (we hope) of the worst season of forest fires in a decade.

This period of holocausts began before the ink was dry on bills passed by congress making deep slashes in the interior department's appropriations for fire control. Many of the cuts later were restored, but not in time to save thousands of acres of timber in some areas of America, notably Alaska.

"The sawtimber burned in a single year in this country," says my friend's memorandum, "would be sufficient, if convert-ed to building materials, to replace every private house in the cities of New Orleans or Min-

"In terms of dollars, our annual forest fire loss amounts to 35 million dollars in payrolls lost to woodworkers and three-quarters of a billion dollars worth of wood products.

"The tragic part of all this is that 9 out of 10 forest fires could be prevented. Nine our of 10 are traceable to human causes -to incendiarists, causing more than 25 per cent of all fires; to smokers, careless debris-burners, railroads, campers and woodsworkers who are responsible in the order named."

POLE-TO-POLE:

Mutual Defense

James Monroe, fifth President of the United States, had his say, in spirit, at least, at the inter-American defense conerence at Petropolis, Brazil, in August

When the conference agreed on a mutual aid treaty for North and South America and their territorial waters, and set up a vast, North Pole-South Pole hemispheric security zone, the celebrated Monroe doctrine was developed to its log-ical conclusion 124 years after its inception.

This was the burden of the Mon-roe doctrine in 1823: "It is only when our rights are invaded or sejuries or make preparations for our defense . . . in this hemisphere . . ." Today, the Americas are making preparations for hemispheric de fense in advance of any menace or invasion of their rights. The mutual defense treaty embodies three main points:

1. In the case of armed attack from outside the hemisphere. all nations have the automatic right to meet the attack with military measures.

2. If military attack occurs inside the hemisphere, American nations may go voluntarily to the aid of the victim, with consultations to follow. 3. If attacks occur both inside the hemisphere and outside the security region, immediate consultations will be called. Thus, despite the opposition of some Latin American nations to the U. S.-espoused "Monroe doctrinism," it appeared certain that the "hands off the Americas" policy was in for a big revival in the atomnermometer-happy Americans struggling feebly in the moist clutches of a record heat wave, could take cold comfort from the fact that temperatures were being exceeded in height only by the price of corn.

With abnormally hot weather pre-vailing over most of the nation, grains continued to deferiorate from lack of moisture and prices of both corn and oats hit new record highs September corn was selling at $2.45 a bushel and September oats zoomed to $1.083/4

The grain market prices went through the roof following a depart ment of agriculture report that the country's heat-seared corn crop would produce only 2,437,000,000 bushels, a 223 million bushel drop from the August 1 estimate.

Ford Gives Up

Abandoning his laudable, if nonconforming, efforts to stabilize auto-mobile prices, Henry Ford II an-nounced that prices on "most models" of Ford passenger cars and all truck models would be boosted from $20 to $97, effective immediately.

It was an average increase of 4.2 per cent, the announcement said, the rise being dictated by "the simple necessity of keeping Ford Motor company on a sound economic

The action, following price in creases by virtually every other automotive manufacturer, marked the defeat of Ford's lonely stand against the forces of inflation.

All this gave rise to a disturbing question: If the Ford dynasty is unable to hold the line against inflation, what, if anything, can?

THE SWIFT:

Oysters Lose

Oysters simply aren't fast enough to get away from predatory snails whose pace has been clocked officially at .00363005 miles an hour.

Plodding along on a treadmill at the University of Maryland fish and wildlife laboratory, a test snail covered 22 feet and ½ inch in 11 hours and 30 minutes — a pace swift enough, at least, to overtake an oyster.

Purpose of the laboratory's snailtiming experiments is to slow the little creatures up even more. As things stand now, they're doing too much damage to Chesapeake Bay's oyster crop.

Julia McFarlane, whose husband, Richard, disappeared in World War I, leaving her with two children, Ric and Jill, the second war, he returns and tells her he is using the name of Captain Mackey. Ric marries Sandra Calvert, a divorce whom Richard knew to be of bad reputation. Sandra tells Jill she wants $10,000. Captain Mackey arrives, telling Jill, who does not know who he is, that he is taking Sandra to Ric. Sandra suspects who he is but is afraid of him. Richard tells Jill to tell her mother her "last lover" came to call. Spang Gordon, whom Jill loves, is grounded near the farm and the couple is reunited.

CHAPTER XXI

"Dooley gets a daughter-in-law with no warning at all, and then loses her just as abruptly. We old people can't adjust ourselves to changes in a minute, Jill," Dave

"Could you stand the idea of getting a son-in-law in an awful hurry, Mrs. McFarlane?" Spang inquired, wistfully. "I've only got about fifteen hours-maybe not that long. Jill caught her breath with a jerk and threw back her head.

"She can't get a son-in-law unless I get a husband," she said, coolly, "and certainly no one has ever mentioned marrying me!"

"Could we be permitted to retire to some private spot while I convince this woman that I love her, Mrs.McFarlane?"

Tears brimmed in Jill's eyes. "Oh, Spang—you mean—you do? You mean you do want me? You want to get married-now-to

Dave got up and shut the door, then came back and filled his pipe again.

"A young man has asked you for hand in marriage, your daughter's hand in marriage, Dooley," Dave said presently, "or did you hear him?"

She turned then, and he saw the taut grayness begin to go out of her face, color was coming back into her lips, her eyes were not enormous and anguished any more. "He tried to save Ric, Dave," she said, "and he didn't tell Jill who he was. And Sandra knew." "Jill said that she made vague

"This isn't the end, Dave. Sometimes I think there never will be an end. There can't be, while Richard is alive. But he did try to save his son. And he didn't hurt Jill."

"If Jill marries this young chap, Gordon, she'll have other things to think about. Even if the shock comes it won't stun her. You heard her defending Richard, though she had no idea he was anything but a casual stranger."

"Yes," said Julia, hoarsely, "but if the revelation does come will she | A Bouquet defend me? Or will she be out raged because I've deceived her?

"Now is all the time they have, Dooley, remember?'

She drew a long breath, and Dave saw the rigid lines in her face soften. She hung up the dish towel and dried her fingers.

Wedding Plans For Jill

"Call them, Dave," she said. "If we're having a wedding at Buz-zard's Hill we have to make plans." "I'll have to be married in these greasy old pants," Spang Gordon sighed when they were in a huddle around the kitchen table again. didn't bring any clothes because we expected to be back at base this morning. And I can't appear out of uniform, even at my own wedding.'

"I'll wear some overalls, Spang," Jill volunteered, blithely. She was sparkling all over now, her hair was as alive as something quickened by a galvanizing current, her eyes danced, even the gilt freckles on her nose twinkled. "And a bandana around my head, and the bride will carry a bouquet of pig's knuckles tied with spinach."

"You'll do nothing of the sort," declared Julia. "You'll have a bouquet, and Dave will ransack the army store in the morning to find some things for Spang to wear, and we'll even have a wedding-cake.

"There won't be any arch of swords," Spang reminded Jill. "You won't even have a wedding swords. march. But you'll have me."

"Briefly." Jill's mouth quivered for an instant, then tightened again to the smile she had been keeping fast. She said, "I'll wear my faille and my little turban, and Grandfathen will dive me any and Tandfathen will dive me any any and the same and ther will give me away, and Dooley will weep, knowing all the time that she'll get me back again in a couple of hours and have me on her hands for the duration. You'd better get a little sleep, Spang. I'd hate to have my bridegroom pass out on me between 'Dearly beloved' and "I do.'"

"You could use a few winks your self. You want to be on the alert, you know, when I bestow all my worldly goods upon you. You want to be sure you aren't getting Julia heard it all with a little inward pang. Richard should be here to give his daughter away! Richard had seen her now, he knew what he had thrown aside, what he had lost. Whatever he had done, however he had just fied himself, Richard was having his recknning now.

Jill did not see the paper next

There was too much excitement Dave got on the telephone and wangled a forty-hour leave for Lieutenant Gordon from his commanding officer, and Julia came down from the attic, her arms full of tissue paper and wisps of stuff.

"I've planned since you were five months old to have you come down these stairs to be married, Jill," she said. "I've seen you, in my dream, reflected in the mirrors, with a veil drifting around your hair.

"Oh Spang—you mean—you do?"

I was married in a street dress, with a hobble skirt and a dreadful hat that dropped clear down over my ears, but my mother had elegance and orange blossoms. If this dress isn't too yellow and brittleif you can squeeze into it-we can press it carefully, and it isn't too Victorian, not so terribly different from some of the Godeyish things they're wearing now."

"Satin," breathed Jill, fingering the heavy folds of the sweeping "I never dreamed you'd let train. me wear this, Dooley. And real lace on the veil! Let me try it on! Oh, I'm so glad we don't have to rush things so Spang can get away. I'll be really married! Look at all the million little hooks! They certainly had patience in those days! Doo-ley, with the sash let out a little, it will meet here at the belt!

So Jill came down the McFarlane stairs in her grandmother's wed-ding gown, and Lieutenant Spencer Gordon, Army Air Corps, stood at the foot of the stairs waiting for his bride in a new pair of khaki trousers a trifle too long and a khaki skirt with sleeves a little too short, but there was worship in his face, and at the bottom Jill smiled at him

There were the few hastily assembled guests and the old, old tune played by some volunteer on the piano. They ate ice-cream and Mamie's hastily baked wedding cake, the icing still slightly drippy, they drank toasts in John I.'s champagne, and then it was over and Jill was flying down the stairs again in her faille suit, her hat in her hand, and stopping to toss her, bouquet over the rail.

John I. caught it and looked a little bewildered and embarrassed as Jill went into hysterics of laughter at'him, so he poked it abruptly at the nearest woman and fled, together.

The last guest departed, Dave be-gan putting chairs in their places her feet out of the tight, high pumps she had worn.

"World's Largest Tobacco Center" The Winston-Salem Market Opens Tuesday, Sept. 23

15 Warehouses

4 Sets of Buyers

EXPERIENCED WAREHOUSEMEN THAT ARE FRIENDS OF THE OLD BELT FARMERS

One of the World's Largest Markets, we will have this season top buyers representing all domestic and foreign companies. Competition means extra money in your pocket.

The support price announced by your Government gives the Winston Salem Market 1947 a guaranteed support price of approximately 40 cents a pound. This price on the various grades runs from a low of 8 cents to a high of 68 cents.

This support price, set before any market opened, will remain the same until the last pound is sold and promises Winston-Salem the most uniform market in history.

Prevailing prices this season are just above the pegged price. No grade of tobacco can take a substantial drop in price. In the past, we know that foreign buyers have purchased millions of pounds of Old Belt tobacco.

The foreign situation might greatly improve by the time of the opening of our market, again permitting heavy purchases on the Winston-Salem market. Quality counts in 1947! It will pay you as never before to grade carefully tobacco. Be sure to keep green, dead or red tobacco out of your cigarrette grades. This will make it qualify for the highest possible loan. Keep your tobacco dry and, by all means, remove all strings before grading it. Remember the many years that tobacco has consistently sold higher on the Winston-Salem Market.

DEVOTIONAL READING: Proverbs 16:

Guidance From Proverbs

Lesson for September 21, 1947

OUR study of Sunday's lesson centers about the idea of good-ness, which is a rather trite-sounding theme, but very vital, I assure you, and quite in teresting. The preacher of the New Testament, James, chapter 4, verse 17. Perhaps you will find the passages from Proverbs as helpful and inter-

Scripture passages and that from the very practical all found in Proverbs, save one, esting as I did. It will require but two minutes to read them—Proverbs 3:5-7; 4:23; 6:16-19; 9:10; 14:34; 15:1; 16:18; 21:3; 22:1; 27:1, 2; 28:1; 29:18. And after you have devoted two minutes to the reading of these passages, you will have something to think about for the rest of the day, the week, all your life.

. . . One Man's Experience

A VERY successful business man in Atlanta, a shoe manufacturer, was telling me his life story one day as we fished together at Homosassa, Fla. Finally, he said:

"Do you know the passage in the Bible that has meant most to me as a rule and guide for my faith and

I wondered what he would say. And then he quoted from Proverbs "Trust in the Lord with all thine heart; and lean not unto thine own understanding. In all thy ways acknowledge him, and he shall direct thy paths. Be not wise in thine own eyes: fear the Lord, and depart from evil."

The Essence of Goodness

W HAT is goodness? We talk about good men and bad men, good times and bad times, good luck and bad luck. Just what is good-

Jesus himself once said to a young

"There is none good but One, that is, God." Mark 10:18. Goodness then, permit me to suggest, is what happens when God lives in us. We can never know goodness apart from God, try as we may. The essence of goodness, therefore, is found in that heart, in will be done."

The Essence of Badness

GUIDANCE from these great Proverbs identifies the things that we are to shun as well as the things we are to do-the essence of badness as well as the essence of goodness. Here are the seven things that God hates—the seven qualities of heart that constitute the essence of badness:

"Haughty eyes, a lying tongue, hands that shed innocent blood, a heart that deliberately plans wickedness, feet which are swift in running to mischief, a false witness who utters lies, and one who sows discord among brethren."

Analyze these seven qualities of heart, and you have the explanation of the woes of the world. Many clever modern books toy with these deadly sins, trying to make them seem good, but no amount of decoration can atone for the heart that consistently entertains these canzers of hell.

The Individual and Society

LIKE the impact of these Proverbs. They begin with the individual. They fruit in society. Individuals who "trust in the Lord with all thine heart," will "exalt a nation." It is not enough to put better food in peoples' stomachs, better clothes on their bodies, better roofs over their heads. These are essential as expressing the better life; but you have got to give peo-ple something to live for as well as something to live on.

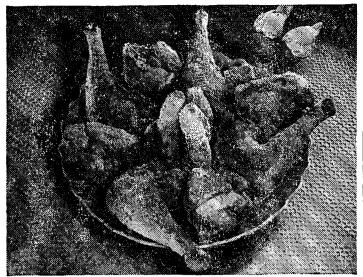

Good business depends upon good business men. Good inter-national relations depend upon good nations. Good race relations depend upon good races.

We have been greatly enheartened by the establishment of United Nations as a world idea and ideal. Will it succeed? The answer is found not in dollars and bullets, but in hearts that always "trust in the "Except the Lord build the house. They labor in vain that build it; Except the Lord keep the city, The watchman waketh but in vain. —Psalm 127:1

Serve Chicken for Economy's Sake

Chicken Cookery

According to the Commodity Index, which records the rise and fall of wholesale prices, poultry today is selling at prices we were paying in 1926. Needless to say, this means that at a time when other foods have soared, poultry is at a low level. With a favorable supply and price, you can plan to use a lot of poultry now, and give your family something of a treat with unusually prepared chicken dishes. Chicken should be cooked to "fork tenderness." There is little excuse for underdone or overdone chicken if you follow the recipes given today, with particular care to temperatures and time for the cookery. A moderate temperature is best to use for chieken so as not to shrink it too much, make it dry or tough.

Most people who like chicken say there's no better way to cook it than to fry it. The generally accepted method is as follows:

1. Rub seasoned flour into pieces. For each pound of chicken, blend 1/4 cup flour, 1 teaspoon paprika, 1/2 teaspoon salt, and scant 1/8 teaspoon pepper. Save left-over flour for gravy.

2. Heat enough fat in a heavy skillet to give a depth of about 1/2 that life, that sincerely prays, "Thy inch, using any desired fat. A drop of water should sizzle when temperature of fat is just hot enough.

3. Start meaty pieces first, slipping less meaty pieces in between as chicken browns. Avoid crowding; use two skillets if necessary.

4. As soon as chicken begins to brown, about 10 minutes, reduce heat, and cook slowly until tender 30 to 60 minutes, depending on size of pieces. Cover tightly as soon as it is a light, uniform tan. 5. Turn 2 or 3 times with 2 spoons or fork and spoon to brown and cook evenly. Avoid piercing with fork.

6. Add 1 or 2 tablespoons water before covering, especially recom-mended if pan cannot be covered tightly, or if bird is heavier than 3

7. Uncover last 15 minutes to recrisp skin if desired. The liver and precooked heart, gizzard, and neck may be floured and browned with chicken the last 15 minutes. 8. Lift fried chicken to hot platter. Prepare gravy in pan drip-

LYNN SAYS: Know Cookery Terms

For All Recipes To bake means to cook in an oven at a required temperature. Use an oven regulator or an oven thermometer if you have no other control.

To blanch means to dip in boiling water, usually for the purpose of loosening the skins.

To fricassee means to fry in a small amount of fat and to serve with a sauce.

1 scant cup chicken stock or water 1/4 to 1/2 pound mushrooms 1 cup sour cream tablespoons flour

4 tablespoons water or stock 2 tablespoons soy sauce 3 cups boiled rice or fried noodle's Cook onion in fat until light yellow. Add carrot, celery, green pep-pepper, salt, and the 1 cup water. Cook until vegetables are barely tender and liquid is fairly well absorbed, about 15 minutes. Add m u s h r o o m s (sliced or whole), sour cream and chicken pieces and bring to a boil. Blend flour and 4 tablespoons water and stir into mixture. Cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Season to taste. Add soy sauce or serve it at table. Serve "bubbly-hot" with hot rice or fried noodles. Barbecued Chicken (Serves 2 to 4) 1 young chicken, 1½ to 2½ pounds cut in half

Giblets and neck

Barbecue Sauce 1 teaspoon salt

14 teaspoon garlic salt 1/2 teaspoon pepper tablespoon paprika 1 tablespoon sugar 1 medium onion, finely chopped cup catsup 1/4 cup fat

½ cup giblet stock or water
½ cup lemon juice or vinegar 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce

Clean and cook giblets by simmering in seasoned water for 1 to 2 hours or until tender. Prepare Barbecue Sauce by blending salt, pepper, paprika, and sugar in saucepan. Add onion, catsup, fat, and water. Heat to boiling. Remove from heat. Add lemon juice and Worcestershire sauce. For basting during cooking, blend 1/2 cup sauce and 1/3 cup giblet stock. Set aside remaining sauce for serving with cooked chicken.

Place neck and halves of chicken in skillet or Dutch oven. Baste both tightly and bake diluted sauce and continue cooking uncovered until chicken is tender and browned, about 1 hour. Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Publicity Stunt Stirs Up Press and Packs Theater

At the premiere of the film Trilby in New York in 1923, the press agent employed an actress to sit in the audience and feign a trance, at the end of the first showing, in which he found her and called several physicians, according to Collier's. Not know ing the girl had run around the block a few minutes before, the doctors were baffled by her pulse and respiration, making the case more mysterious.

So for weeks, the press published interviews with psychologists on the possibility of a person in the audience being hypnotized by a screen character such as Trilby's Svengali, and the curious packed the theater to see what effect he might have on them.

On the Bus Jop

As the crowded bus came to a standstill a stout, middle-aged man descended the stairs carrying a small girl. Tenderly placing his burden on the curb, he ascended the stairs again and shortly returned carrying a tiny dog. Placing the dog beside the child, he returned upstairs and again descended bearing a second child, which he stood beside the first. Once more he ascended the stairs and again returned carrying a third youngster. These evolutions were eagerly observed by a passenger seated inside the bus who, as father proceeded to dismount with his third offspring, exclaimed: "He must have a nest up there!"

Mocksville Store Celebrates Eightieth Anniversary

C. C. Sanford Sons' Co., Department Store is celebrating its eightieth anniverversary. This store was established in 1867, and for more than three quarters of a century has served the people of Davie and adjoining counties with dependable merchandise. Since the death of the founder, Calvin Cowles Sanford, his son, Rufus Brown Sanford has been head of this firm. Nearly everybody in this entire section knows "Rufe" Sanford. He numbers his friends by the thousands.

This store is one of the most modern and up-to-date department stores between Winston-Salem and Asheville, and serves thousands of people from this and adjoining counties and states. The Sanford Store and The Davie Record are the two oldest business houses in Mocksville, and have seen the town grow from a sleepy little village to a live, progressive town of some 2,500 population.

Uncle Sam Says

Millions of my young nieces and nephews are returning to school to learn from their teacher, school-mates and books a way of life. Besides grammar, history, arithmetic, home economics and a variety of other courses, they will come face to face with sportsmenship, honesty, self-reliance and the habit of thrift. Facts crammed into the heads of Willie and Jane will come in haudy, but thrift is something which will be vital to their well-being every day of their lives. Of course the habit of thrift may be acquired in many ways, but a sure way is the participation of my young nieces and nephews in the United States Treasury Department's School Savings Program.

U.S. Treasury Department

Millions of my nieces and nephews are increasing their take-home pay by the simple, automatic Payroll Savings Plan. Let's take one example. Suppose you tell your employer that you want to take $6.25 of your weekly pay in Bonds. In three weeks the accumulation of $18.75 will buy one $25 Savings Bond. Merely by holding these bonds to maturity in 10 years you are raising your take-home income $2.08 every week. It is obvious that the so-called deduction for Savings Bonds is not a deduction but a way for you to store up and increase your earnings for your future use. Millions of my nieces and nephews

So it's entirely up to you to establish your own system of rationing, setting aside a certain amount from each individual's allotment for putting up home-canned foods.

Home-Canned Pickled Beets Are Good Appetizers

Small pickled beets add a colorful and appetizing note to meals the year 'round. Your home canning schedule should include them. Here is an excellent recipe taken from the famous Ball Blue Book on home canning:
1 gallon small beets

2 cups sugar, or 1 cup sugar and

1 cup corn sirup

1 long stick clanamon 1 tablespoon allspice 5½ cups vinegar

1% cups water Cook and skin beets. Add sugar and spices to vinegar and water. Simmer 15 minutes. Add bects. Boil five minutes. Pack heets into hot jars. Cover with boiling sirup. If not enough sirup to cover, add more vinegar. Process five minutes in hot, out sugar, although it's advisable to use a little sugar, if possible, with light colored fruits in order to preserve color. They learned, too, that a combination of corn sirup and granulated sugar gives excellent results. Those who enjoy the taste of honey learned to use it as a sugar extender. Use of saccharin is barred of course because it has a tendency to produce an unpleasant taste.

Home canners have also learned that they can use brown sugar, maple sugar and sirup in butters, jams and spreads, although these are not satisfactory for other canning Putting up some amount of fruit without sugar is a good idea because you then have it on hand to make into jans and jellies as needed.

> Those Sun-Cooked Preserves Make Delicious Treats

Firm-ripe cherries, currents, red raspherries or strawberries may be used for sun-cooked preserves. Cherries should be washed and seeded: currants washed and stemmed strawberries washed and capped Drain and weight the fruit. Work with small batches, using equal amounts of sugar and fruit. Place fruit and sugar in alternate layers in a broad pan. Let stand overnight. Heat slowly to boiling and boil six minutes. Spread in shallow trays and cover with window glass. Allow air space on all sides. Let the mix-ture stand in the sun for three days, or until the sirup begins to jell and the fruit is plump. Stir gently two or three times daily. Do not keep the mixture out of doors overnight. Pack into hot Ball jars and process 15 minutes at simmering.

Canned Berries Need Little or No Sugar

Many of the berry family will go into jars without sugar at all and keep perfectly for later use. If you to be famous for delicious blueberry or huckleberry muffins, canning without sugar is preferred. To can blueberries or huckleberries for use in muffins, place two or three quarts of cleaned berries in a square of cheesecloth, Gather up the corners of the cloth and allow the berries to dip into boiling water until spots appear on the cloth. Then dip in and out of cold water Pack into het Bell jars. Add neither utes in hot water bath. Other berries, except strawberries and red raspberries should be heated slowly until the juice runs free before being placed in jars for pro-cessing. If sugar is short in your household, can any berries by pro-cessing 10 minutes in hot water bath after cleaning, crushing, and stew-ing them in their own juice. If you have sugar, jams will. of course, use less of your supply than preserves. When you are using corn sirup as part of the sugar required, remember to cook the jam a little longer, in small batches, and stir often.

Stealing Watermeions

This newspaper has received a long letter from a Wilkes farmer asking that we write something from his watermelon patch.

We appreciate his belief in the power of the press, but it is doubtful that any message we might write would be read by those who take away his melons

Stealing watermelons has long been looked upon too lightly. Watermellons are property, and have a value, and stealing watermelons is larceny just the same as taking cash, hecause watermelons are exchangeable for cash.

The farmer who toils long and hard to produce melons deserves to have the benefit of them, and he is righteously angered when loafing boys who are "too trifling" to work go in under cover of darkness and eat and destroy what be has worked so long to grow. Teach your boys that taking watermelons is stealing, and not fun-Wilkes Tournal

Flood-Proof Fence Used in Australia

Lays Flat While Drift Wood and Water Pass

A fence which bows before the onrush of flood waters and lies flat while water and drift-wood pass over is being used in Australia. The posts are 33 feet apart and two wooden droppers are placed between the posts and another alongside each post. The posts are bored with holes 4 inches from the ground and 11/2 inches from the edge of the post, and another 3 inches from the edge. These posts are 6 feet long, B feet 6 inches above ground.

The droppers are bored 4 inches from the bottom and then 6 inches, allowing the top barbed wire to rest on the side of the dropper, to which it is tied through the hole with tie wire. The droppers are 3 feet 10 inches long. The bottom wire is reeved through the droppers and then through the posts. Each dropper near a post has a piece of wire passed around the top of the post, then around the dropper so that it will give way in flood time and allow the fence of droppers to collapse. The bottom wire, 4 inches from the ground, holds the fence to

After the flood has subsided, all that is necessary is to stand the fence of droppers upright again and attach it to the posts as before.

How to Prevent Date With Big Farm Fire

Thirty-five hundred farmers who lived happily on their farms a year ago are dead, largely victims of their own carelessness. They de-cided to "live" with fire hazards and lost. With them went almost 100 million dollars in farm property. Management In one year 18,000 fires started in newspapers, magazines and other rubbish. Flammable liquids, improperly stored or handled, caused 26,000 fires. Electric cords and fires. Electric cords and other defective electrical equip-ment caused 31,000 fires. Dirty stoves, lamps and lanterns caused 18,000 fires. Some 39,000 fires started on flammable wood shingle roofs. Dirty chimneys were responsible for 40,000 fires, and 50,000 fires originated in dirty and defective heating plants.

The cures suggest themselves. If the farmers will clean up the outbuildings, farm machinery and the fields, and be careful with matches and smoking, there is little reason for worry about fire.

Cutting Protein Loss

Will Slash Feed Cost Dairymen can reduce the size of next winter's protein-feed bill considerably by saving a greater per-centage of the protein in their home-grown forage crops, say dairy specialists of the USDA. One way to reduce the protein losses and thereby actually put more of the home-grown protein in the cows' manure next winter, is to make silage from forage crops instead of curing in the field for hay.

Old Age Need Hold No Terrors

Finding Useful Work Is Formula for Happiness

By BAUKHAGE

, WASHINGTON.-Latest figures from the census bureau have revealed that the postwar period has produced a record baby crop —3,260,000 estimated for 1946, almost a million more than were born in 1940.

But it will take more than this belated burst of rejuvenation to keep the United States from becoming an "old" nation. Old in the sense that the average age will be high, with a heavy proportion of oldsters. There are two reasons for this: Nowadays people live much longer, thanks to medical science. And the size of the American family has shrunk.

In 1860 when the population was about 31.5 millions, 860,000 persons were over 65. In 1945 when the population approached 140 millions, 9,920,000 persons were over 65.

By 1970 there will be 16 million over that age, out of an estimated opulation of more than 151 millions!

This situation poses a number of problems for the nation, and also emphasizes the personal problem: The problem of growing old.

Like many of our troubles, real or imagined, the best cure is to bring this one out into the light, give it a good shaking. The result in many cases will be that it disappears or that it shrinks to unimpor tance (if that weren't so, psychiatry wouldn't be such a highly rewarded profession).

Wise men have known this for a long time and lived to a happy old age. Others (who didn't know it) have worried their friends and themselves early deaths, by sitting down and weeping over their lost youth instead of getting up, learning to take old age in their stride and Recently I read a very up-to-date

Avocations Help To Retain Youth

Anybody can develop an avocation of some kind. In many cases these avocations have turned into paying vocations after retirement In any case they are literally life-savers when it comes to making life livable.

Various skills permit varying periods of activity.

Many farmers are self-supporting at 70 or 75. Perhaps this is partly because of their environment-mental and physical. Cicero says farmers "are not hindered to any extent by old age, and seem to me to approach the ideal wise man's life."

Most jobs are of such a character that ability to perform them de-clines with the years. "When You Grow Older" cites as an example "speed work"—like the assembly line. Youth excels in this type of work. But age does almost as well as youth in the type classified as ver" work, the kind of job where skill is important.

There is not space here to develop the theme of "When You Grow Oldas its authors do so compactly in their 30 pages. They discuss the questions, personal and political, of old age security. They offer a host of other specific examples to illustrate the statements, some of which I have quoted here. I have attempted to review rather than a summary, moved to comment partly because of the valuable suggestions offered, and also, partly because memories. I remembered that a gentleman who considerably predated Browning had said the same thing in his essay Old Age," written in the year 44 B. C. I refer to Marcus Tullius Cicero. He said (among other pertinent things) "qui autem omnia a se ipsi petunt, eis ni-hil potest videri, quod naturae necessitas adferat." Which, if you'll pardon my freedom with the text, means that those who seek their happiness from within can never regard nature's inevitabilities as bad.

Cicero wrote that essay when he was 63 years old and I have no doubt he would have lived what he preached for another decade or two if his vigorous old age had not produced the resounding "Phillip-pics" against Anthony which resulted in his being "purged" (Roman style) while still hale and hearty at Old age comes with a shock because we haven't prepared for it. Maybe we are ready for the "last day at the office" or at work bench or when we sell the farm and move to the village or city, or in other ways break a lifetime's routine. But we may have failed to recognize "the need to feel important," a need which we must satisfy one way or another. Not "important" in the sense that we have somebody kow-tow to us, but necessary to somebody or some thing, some business, some undertaking, maybe not a big cog, but something that helps the wheels of life go round.

these pertinent paragraphs of "When You Grow Older" offer a perfect example of how modern ence and experience confirm the verities expressed by poets and philosophers of the past.

It is still the habit of many critics to praise the style of Cicero's "De Senectute" but to toss its message aside as wishful thinking. Even Montaigne, who said frankly that reading the essay "made one long to grow old," pessimistically lim-ited what he considered a useful lifespan to a mere 50 years and thought it wrong to contemplate further existence.

Cicero's physical world was bounded by the frontiers conquered by Rome's plodding legions but his view was long in time. Today the men of our scientific age echo the request in the last paragraph of the great statesman's immortal essay when he prayed: "... that you put my words to practical test."

Farmers' Income Zooms; New Crisis Hits Europe

FARM INCOME:

Great Gain

Latest round in a heavy barrage of statistics apparently destined to make the American farmer feel that he is an unbelievably fortunate man was an agriculture department report that the nation's farm owners are taking in more money than ever before.

It was estimated that total farm cash receipts during the first eight months of 1947 were 17.4 billion dollars, a 21 per cent gain over the same period of 1946, itself a record year.

The report said that the average farm operator realized a net income of $2,541 from agriculture and government payments in 1946, and this year farm income skyrocketed still higher as a result of continuing unprecedented demands for produce.

"An increase of 24 per cent in prices," was singled out by the re-port as the chief reason for the booming income.

But the picture has another side that of farm expenses. Operating costs continue to increase and, although no estimate was made for 1947, the farmer's expenses went up 9 per cent in 1946. Nevertheless, if the agriculture department's estimates are accurate, the increase in farm income greatly outweighs the simultaneous rise in expenses.

CRISIS AGAIN:

Transfusion?

Life these days, Secretary of State George Marshall has discovered, is bounded on all sides by one crisis after another.

No sooner had he returned to the U. S. from Brazil with the mutual American defense treaty tucked safely under his belt than he was beset with calls for succor from debilitated Europe, which, apparently, was sliding swiftly down the ways toward utter ruin.

Insiders said the European situation really was desperate. Undersecretary of State Robert Lovett had sounded the first alarm shortly before Marshall's return when he said that Europe's economic structure was cracking up faster than anyone had expected.

from Europe intensified. Precari-ously balanced Britain remained at the heart of the trouble, but more grief was added by the news that bad weather had struck hard crops in many European countries this year. Most nations had been forced to use their meager produce for domestic consumption rather than for export. There was no profit in that, they said.

BONDED Vets Cash In

convert their hard-won bonds into coin of the realm. Millions of former Joes stuffed millions of dollars into their pockets.

What would they do with the newly acquired money? A few put it back into savings accounts; others bought clothes, furniture and similar necessities; much of it was squandered immediately. But one surprising fact developed: A great many ex-G.I.s—family men now—were using the store of cash to get out from under worrisome debts. For them it was a case of "dire need."

U. S. Offer

Radioactive isotopes-products of American atomic research—have been offered in limited amounts to all foreign nations for use in mankind's world-wide and unending fight against disease.

The gesture, marking the first sharing of the fruits of U. S. atomic ovens, loomed more significantly on the uncertain frontier of global peace than any loan or economic aid so far conceived.

Sauer kraut may also be made by mixing one scant tablespoon salt with one quart shredded cabbage and packing directly into Ball jars. Do not seal the jars yet. Remove the scum as it forms. When cured, then process 30 minutes in hot water bath. Seal the jars according to the manufacturer's instructions.

Bulk-cured kraut is superior in flavor, texture and keeping qualities to that cured in jars.

Canned Berries Need Little or No Sugar

Many of the berry family will go into jars without sugar at all and keep perfectly for later use. If you want to be famous for delicious blueberry or huckleberry muffins, canning without sugar is preferred. To can blueberries or huckleberries for use in muffins, place two or three quarts of cleaned berries in a square of cheesecloth, Gather up the cornection of the state of ers of the cloth and allow the berries to dip into boiling water until spots appear on the cloth. Then dip quickly in and out of cold water. Pack into hot Ball jars. Add neither sugar nor liquid. Process 20 minutes in hot water bath. Other berries, except strawberries and red raspberries should be heated slowly until the juice runs free be-fore being placed in jars for pro-cessing. If sugar is short in your household, can any berries by pro-cessing 10 minutes in hot water bath after cleaning, crushing, and stewing them in their own juice. If you have sugar, jams will, of course, use less of your supply than preserves. When you are using corn sirup as part of the sugar required, remember to cook the jam a little longer, in small batches, and stir often.
