In Experimental Studies

Scientists have resorted to blowing soap bubbles in an effort to find out what makes metals strong, says Sir Lawrence Bragg of Cambridge university, England, Nobel prize winner in physics in 1915.

Soap bubbles, Sir Lawrence explained, have proved more useful than anything else tried so far in constructing a working model of the crystal structure of a metal. A cluster of bubbles, he said, behaves much like the cluster of atoms making up a metal crystal, and lasts "an hour or so," which is long enough to permit experiments.

The bubble-blowing studies were undertaken, according to Sir Lawrence, because science as yet has no satisfactory theory of metal strength, despite the enormous amount of empirical knowledge about the mechanical properties of metal which has been obtained through countless investigations of the metals and alloys so important in modern technology. "On the theoretical side, we know the way atoms are arranged in the perfect structure of metal crystals, and the theoretical physicists can tell us much about the forces of attraction and repulsion which keep these structures together," he stated. "There is no bridge, however, between theory and the empirical knowledge of mechanical properties. We cannot calculate from first principles the point at which a metal ceases to respond elastically and yields with consequent permanent deformation."

Guam's Dietary Standards Raised by Modern Bakery

Eight thousand American residents of the tiny Pacific outpost of Guam are getting fresh en-riched bread daily, plus a wide assortment of pastries, thanks to the production know-how of the American baking industry and the resourcefulness of a technician who built a modern bakery using misous equipment which weathered the Japanese invasion.

The technician is Arthur R. De-Long, well-known American bakgovernment to help restore Guam's dietary standards to a pre-war

DeLong scoured through shoulder-high vegetation last spring to salvage bakery equipment still resting where it had been placed preparatory to the invasion of Japan in 1945. To this he added machinery originally employed in plete except for certain gear levers. These, he believes, the beleaguered marines used for clubbing Japs when Guam was invaded.

Now operating at full capacity, DeLong's bakery produces each day 1,300 two-pound loaves of enriched bread, 1,000 pies, and a wide assortment of cakes and small

Carp and the Chinese

Carp have been raised in China for more than 2,000 years, much as domesticated animals are raised for food, and occupy an important place in the economy of the country. Not only have carp left their impression on the eating habits of the Chinese and Japanese nations, but over the years have assumed a leading role in the art of those countries. The carp has become predominant in the art consciousness of the oriental painter to such an extent that in their stylized prints and oils, any representation of a fish is almost certain to be a carp. The fanciful pa-per kites and floats that play a major part in the exotic motif of oriental celebrations and parades are also likely to be carp.

"In that case," said Coolidge, opening his wallet, "we can't keep this check."

Our County And Social Security

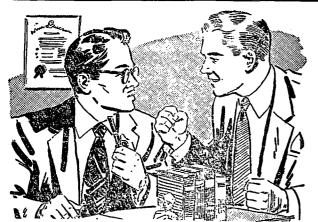

By Mrs. Ruth G. Duffy. Manager.

In a number of cases Social Security benefits have been lost be cause the worker did not know his rights. Monthly Old Age and Survivors Insurance payments are due retired wage earners who have attained 65; have worked in employment covered by the Social Security Act about one-half the time since January, 1937, and tke date age 65 is reached; and who file claim for these payments.

The last requirement, the filing of your claim, is your responsibility. The law states that payments cannot be made for more than three months before the month the claim is filed. Not long ago an elderly gentleman told me that he received unemployment compensation checks after he was laid off. He thought when these payments stopped that he had drawn out all he had paid in to Social Security, so he did not bother to visit our office. I took a record of his account number, full name. and date of birth and sent for his certified wage record. The record of his earnings showed that he was entitled to $22.50 each month. Since his wife was over 65 also. she could receive $11.25, which is one-half what her husband could get. This couple could have been receiving these monthly payments for over a year but they had lost all these payments because they had not filed their claims. There was absolutely no way whereby we could go back and pay for those lost months for the Act is specific about this.

KEEPING HEALTHY

Emotions Will Affect Circulation

By Dr. James W. Barton

When I return home from boxing bouts, notwithstanding the fact that I did some boxing when young and have examined every heavyweight boxer except Gene Tunney, I find my heart rate up to 80.

Apparently, although I remain calm, my thoughts are on every blow of the boxers and unconsciously I am delivering blows or warding them off. In other words our hearts beat faster and stronger and we pump extra blood when we are excited or upset in mind.

We have our heart or blood pressure tested or undergo a metabo-

Jesus And Critics

Lesson for May 8, 1949

DURING JESUS' last week, his enemies were firing at pointblank range. They were dead set to kill him; but they did not want to do that if they could ruin him some other way. What they tried to do was to make him out either a rascal or a fool, or both. Mark's story shows how Jesus took it.

The first question they asked Dr. Foreman sounded perfectly fair. "Where did you get your authority?" As we saw last week, Jesus had assumed simply trem-to ask him where he got it?

The trouble was that the men who asked the questions didn't to know. They only wanted to heckle Jesus.

The world is full of just such license-hunting snoopers as these. They do not like it when a man succeeds. They particularly do not like it when a man succeeds without their help.

"Who is this fellow anyway? Where did he get his start? What family does he have, where is his diplo Jesus never answered this question, because he knew why they asked it. (Mark 11:27-33.)

N JESUS TIME you could not vote either for more taxes, or less. You paid what the Roman soldier at your door said to pay, and you were thankful not to be poked in the ribs with his sword while you were fishing up the money. But no one dared to complain. The Romans had some deep dank lungeons for people who complained about high taxes. So the next question Jesus' enemies asked him was about taxes, or tribute which means the same thing. They thought they had Jesus on a spot where whatever he said would put appropriate place cards at the Easthim in the wrong. Suppose he said: "Yes, pay taxes by all means."
Then they would snarl: "Boot-licker of the Romans! Traitor to your country!" But if Jesus said, "No, don't pay taxes," then they would howl: "Treason! Police! Ar-"No, don't pay taxes," then they would howl: "Treason! Police! Arrest this man who defies the Emperor!" Jesus' answer was a masterpiece, because he not only did not dodge the hot question, he did not leave the questioners a leg to stand on. (Mark 12:17).

Paint on eyelashes and attach a paper beak at the right place. Stand a feather up the back, and you'll have a chicken are a print to the stand-up collars that hold the eggs.

Hairsplitters by Trade

THE CRITICS of Jesus were hair splitters by trade. Yet none of them had ever been able to answer another tricky question with which they now expected to floor

"Which is the greatest comor all? tion had been going the rounds for generations. The greatest minds in Jewery had wrestled with it. But it was a foolish question after all.

Which is the most important brick in a wall? What position on a volley-ball team is the most important? What is the most important link in a chain? An answer oil, one minced clove of garlic, to these questions would seem about two teaspoons marjoram, threeas easy as answering that one about fourths teaspoon powdered musthe greatest commandment. Jesus knew they were trying to show him up as a bungler, as a very poor and amateurish hairsplitter indeed. But instead, he did what no one ex-pected him to do: he answered their question, and answered it so well that it is one of the cornerstones of our religion today.

How to Take Criticism

THE READER should consum Mark for the whole story. It bristles with practical thoughts, one of the most practical being how to take criticism. All of us can take it from our friends and families: we know they mean it for our own good. But criticism that is unfair from people who want only to show us up for fools or to get us into hot water—that is hard to take. Jesus should be our example.

He did not let other people's criticisms interfere with his work. He never avoided criticism. He did not "twist the lion's tail, he did not deliberately provoke criticism. But he would not claim exemption from what every one has to stand, being looked over and rated by the people who knew him. He never broke his heart over what people said of him. He did not go around crying to himself.

Easter Plans

ONE OF THE TRADITIONAL highlights of Easter will probably be the coloring of Easter eggs. Though some adults think that coloring eggs is strictly child's play and should be left to youngsters, a large percentage of grownups doesn't agree. As a matter of fact, many people welcome Easter as a time when their artistic skill can be brought into full swing.

You may make the eggs as elaborate or as simple as you like. Perhaps a few brightly colored eggs in a gay basket as a setting for the Easter breakfast table are all you'll want. On the other hand, you may want to try out your skill faces or pencilling names on col ored eggs. With certified Easter egg colors that come with a handy writer, you'll be eggs as simple or professional as you like. Eggs will be effective and

FARM PROGRAM:

Pros & Cons

President Truman's sweeping new farm program met with mixed response on Capitol Hill. Critics claimed it would carry the nation closer to socialism and would empower the government with un-precendented farm controls and

PROPONENTS of the measure contended that consumers would be benefited because retail food prices would be allowed to seek their own

No matter which school of thought was correct, it was inescapable that the program would use taxpayers' dollars to guarantee farmers an income equal to that of a recent 10year period.

Some opposition to the plan termed it as one that might be so expensive that it would push the U. S. treasury toward bankruptcy and would thoroughly regiment the

CHARLES F. BRANNAN, secretary of agriculture, conceded that "imponderables" such as weather improved farm techniques made it impossible now to estimate the cost of the program.

He said of the program that it probably would mean a heavy drain on consumers' dollars.

He added that the government plans soon to undertake a costly new program to keep up the price of pork. If this program is approved, Brannan said, farmers would sell their pork for whatever it would bring. The government— meaning the public—then would pay the farmer the difference between the support price and the price the farmer actually received.

Depression Possible

THERE'S BEEN a lot of petty bickering between the President's council of economic advisers, but there's one unpleasant fact they all agree on. They foresee def-inite depression in 1950 or 1951 unless steps are taken to head it

The council, it will be recalled, was created by congress in 1946 to advise the White House on how to ward off depression. And although the three members differ on a lot of things, they feel that depression can be stopped—though only by the concerted cooperation of the adminstration, congress, business, farmers and labor.

To understand the background of the economic council's vitally important business diagnosis, it should be recalled that for the past 100 years American economy has been riding a roller-coaster of ups and downs, inflation and deflation, of booms and busts.

In the past 50 years these ups and downs have become more severe—so severe that the polit-buro in Moscow is known to have based its global strategy on the theory that one more economic depression would wreck the entire American system.

History's Greatest Boom

Since V-J day most Americans have been enjoying the greatest wave of prosperity in history—for two reasons: 1. The public's unsatisfied demand for goods they could not buy during the war; 2. The cold war, which has caused government to pour billions into the world's economic stream.

However, the council estimates that the long pent-up demand for automobiles, refrigerators and other consumers' goods is now just about filled, while the vast expenditures in Europe in another year will begin to taper off, so that depression will come in 1950-51.

Another factor is the psychological effect of swiftly rising prices followed by dropping prices. If OPA and inflation controls had not been thrown overboard by congress and prices had not shot up so high, business dislocation might not be so bad now.

For, while falling prices at the moment may be healthy, yet a lot of business—especially small business—always gets hurt by falling prices. And the psychological efect of falling prices encourages depression; for people, waiting for lower prices, don't buy.

President's Advisers

The three members of the President's council of economic advis-

Chairman Dr. Edwin Nourse, a New Yorker, long-time member of the Bookings Institute, and genarally considered the most conservative counselor.

Leon Keyserling, a native of South Carolina, former secretary to Senator Wagner, who has had long experience in the government, chiefly in the U.S. housing authority. A liberal, Keyserling frequently disagrees with more conservative chairman Nourse.

John D. Clark, a native of Colorado and former economics professor at the University of Nebraska and the University of Denver. Clark usually lines up with liberal Keyserling.

However, the council has composed its differences to recommend a program to President Truman which it regards as absolutely essential to block depression. While all three agree, Dr. Nourse con-siders the voluntary phase of the program more important, but Keyserling and Clark, though not disagreeing, would place more emphasis on the government phase.

The program which Nourse conders most important is:

Farmers-Convince farmers to grow bigger crops and accept somewhat lower support prices, thereby reducing the consumers' food bill, but continuing a reasonable return for farmers.

Business-Sell businessmen on lower profits per item, thereby getting greater volume and continued

Labor-Persuade labor leaders not to seek wage increases that will throw the economy out of

Government Remedies

The Clark-Keyserling group, while agreeing with the above, ability to "persuade" business, ability to "persuade" business, farmers and labor. Therefore, they put more emphasis on hard-andfast government incentives which would prop up the economy regardless of persuasion. They recom-

Aime's eyes lighted, then glowed with sudden joy. "Fred! You dear! Is it really? Was your mother really a poet? Oh, why didn't you tell me before! It's just too exciting!"

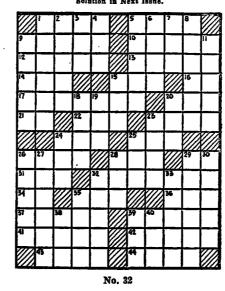

Fred grinned delightedly. Enroute to the station he began to smile. And by the time he had boarded the 8:15 the smile had developed into an occasional chuckle. Tom Cooke, who usually sat with Fred during the short run to the city, became curious. "Say what's eating you this morning? Let a man in on it if you've got something that'll fetch a laugh these dull days."

Fred laughed outright. "I'll tell you, Tom. It's too good to keep. But don't on your life breathe a word. It would kill Aime.

TOM MADE SOLEMN promises and cocked his ear, "Well," said Fred, "Aime was upset this morning because she didn't have anything to brag about at her bridge club. The other members, it seems, have artistic ancestors. It made Aime feel bad to think she married into such an uninteresting family, so I dug into an old trunk and produced a book of poems that mother published 20 years ago, and told her to brag about that."

Tom looked puzzled. "What's wrong with that? I'd say a mother-in-law poet was O.K."

Honor God

Rev. W. E. Isenhour, High Point, N. C. Re It is great to honor God. sbould be the aim, desire, plan and purpose of man. We should bonor Him because he created us. He made us in his own image and likeness. "What is man, that thou art mindful of bim; and the son of man, that thou visited him? For thon has made him a little lower than the angels, and bast crowned him with glory and honor." (Psalm 8:4.5). For the honor God has bestowed upon us we should honor Him supremely.

We should honor God for our bealth, What a great blessing health is! No doubt there are Everett Horn, who has been in millionaires who would give all health with it. They con't. Good health is a great blessing from God.

We should honor God because He gives us a sound mind. This is to be appreciated more than we realize. Just visit some sane institution and behold the mentally deranged. How pitiful! Maybe themselves physically they wrecked themselves mentally. We ought

Energetic Person Figures Mileage in Making Up Beds

How many miles does a house wife walk when making a bed? Studies show that the many trips around the bed, which the house-wife usually takes in making it, are the reason the task is longer and more tiresome than necessary. At least four miles of walking and 25 hours of time is spent a year in making just one bed by the common household method. With more than one blanket on the bed, the distance and time is greater. Multiply this by the number of beds in the house to see how this job uses time and energy! One-trip bed-making to save the long trek has been suggested. The distance can be cut from four mile a year to about a mile and a fifth and the time from 25 hours to less than 16. Briefly, the system is simply to make up one side of the bed completely, then to tuck in at the foot, and then to finish the other side, with no return trips from side to side or head to foot. If the house of tomorrow is equipped for time and labor saving, beds may be built for easier making. Studies show that a bed 40 to 76 inches, with mattress at wrist height, and no head or footboard or other projections over the mattress can be made up most rapidly.

A Profession Crop

Annual lespedeza is a crop which can be used both for forage produc-tion and soil building. Lespedeza is usually seeded into the grain in early spring. It continues to grow after the grain has been harvested and can then be cut for hay, or left for seed which may be harve late in the fall. Another alternative is to leave the entire crop on the land and turn it under in preparing the land for cotton. As a soil protection crop, lespedeza provides cover on the land during the winter months, thus retarding erosion. It adds organic matter to the soil and being a legume, it lessens the need for commercial nitrogen.

Breakfast, Important Meal

People who are careless about their breakfasts may ask whose business it is if they choose to live that way. But it does concern others. Ill nourished people are not at their best, and in this machine age they jeopardize the safety and lives of others. Children in families which start off the day with scanty or unappetizing breakfasts are off to a bad start for school or work. Thus continually deprived in their growing years, they fail to build the stamina necessary to resist disease and premature aging. There is no end to the ills of a people who cheat their stomachs at the first meal of the day.

Facts About Pole Star

The pole star changes. Owing to an effect called precession of the equinoxes the point in the sky directly over the north pole shifts in circle among the stars. The star in the little dipper which we call the Pole star is merely a transient occupant of that post. In the future we will have other pole stars. For example, the one called Alderamin in the constellation of Cepheus, will be there about 7,500 A. D., and Vega. in Lyra, about 14,000 A. D. About 23,000 A. D. Thuban, in Draco, will again be the pole star, as it was around 2,900 B. C., when some of the Egyptian pyramids were built.

Our County And Social Security

By Mrs. Ruth G. Duffy. Manager.

The Winston Salem field office of the Social Security Administration is one of more than 450 offices throughout the country, located at places most convenient for workers. In our office, as in all the others, we have persons who visit regularly towns and commu nities in the era served by the office. We in this office are here to serve you. If you have any questions about Old-Age and Survivors Insurance, get in touch with us in person or by m..il. We will be glad to answer your questions and to go into your individual case with you.

There are two times when it is IMPORTANT for you to get in touch with this office. The first is when you are 65 if you have ever worked in covered employment, and by that I mean employment where you were asked for your Social Security Account No. ard and where your employer took out 1 percent of your wages each pay day. You should do this even if you do not plan to stop work. You do not have to stop work at 65 if you don't want to, but it is to your advantage to ask about your benefit rights when you are 65. It may be that we will advise you to file your application at once even though you continue to work. We cannot advise you about it until we talk with you.

The SECOND time this office should be visited or written to is when a worker in your family dies. You should let us know about the death as soon as possible, whether or not you know the person had worked long enough in covered employment for any payments to be made. It is our business to find this out for you and to tell you who can and can not get benefits, and to help you in claiming any benefits that are payable. Before we can tell you anything we must get the wage record of the person who died. We cannot get this unless we have his or her Social Security Account us, bring the Account No. Card of the person; if you write to us, send the card which we will return to you after we get the infor-

Answer: Not to any extent we can count on. The noted authority on genius, Dr. Lewis M. Terman, has followed the histories of near-ly 1500 "gifted" children to age 35, and says 30 per cent of their offspring show superior intelli-gence, but how far this may be the result of better education and contact with brilliant adults, no one can prove. Students of heredity believe that high intelligence may be due to a fortunate combination of the "genes" inherited from many ancestors, but just having clever parents does not guarantee rganic disease In all cases, the physician, after making a thorough examination, is able to tell the patient that an ganic disease is or is not present. If not present, he is able to explain to the patient why the symptoms of organic disease are present. It is because of the nervous make up of the patient. I am speaking of the general run of patients who consult a physician.

Mervous Symptoms and 'Chronic Diseases'

It is interesting to learn of a group of patients, all of whom are "chronics"—that is, have been under the care of physicians for a long time.

Recess is Refresher

DESPITE TALK about the boys "needing a rest," real story behind the 10-day Easter recess of the house was that Speaker Sam Rayburn and majority leader John McCormack sent their charges home for a "refresher" course.

Rayburn and McCormack were chiefly concerned over another G. O. P. Dixie coalition against repeal of the Taft-Hartley labor law, and they thought some elbow-rubbing with the folks at home might be the best preventive. The strategy applies to Republicans from industrial districts as well as Democrats.
Meantime, local AFL and CIO leaders were planning to give the returning politicos a stiff workout during the 10-day "vacation."

Rayburn and McCormack are eenly aware that the Taft-Hartley vote will be a crucial test they can't afford to lose, if they are to keep northern city Democrats in line on other administration measures. Ever since the G. O. P.-Dixie coal-ition against rent control, there has been talk of a northern "revolt," or a coalition-in-reverse, in morthern Democrats would gang up with Republicans to southern farm bills.

Rumbles of Revolt

At a dinner meeting with North and South freshmen Democrats last week, Rayburn and McCormack heard increasing rumbles of "retaliation" against southern coalitionists. This wasn't all cloakroom whispers. Quite a number of bigcity Democrats, who believe in carrying out Truman campaign promises, have spoken out openly. Among them are freshmen

Democrats Anthony Taueriello of Buffalo, N. Y., and Earl Wagner of Cincinnati, who angrily told McCormack the time had come to "stop appeasing and start hitting back" at southern opponents of the Fair Deal program.

"I've had enough," bluntly asserted Tauriello. "I was elected on the Truman program, and I believe in the whole program. I'm tired of seeing the program delayed and undermined by members of my own party. A lot of us think it's time to start retaliating."

At the dinner, Rayburn and Mc-Cormack made strong pleas for harmony. Since then the grumbling has somewhat subsided.

G.O.P. Hope

Oregon's bushy-browed Sen. Wayne Morse, considered a black sheep by old guard Republicans, nevertheless has a strong though secret following in congress.

Leaders of the Morse movement nclude such congressmen as John Phillips of California, H. R. Gross of Iowa and James Golden of Kentucky-all progressive Republicans Morse, himself, didn't learn of their support until he was invited to talk off-the-record the other day before a gathering of about 20 Republican congressmen.

With characteristic bluntness, Morse tore into the ills of the Republican party.

"I speak only of the senate," he declared, "but in the senate, we have a few who hold policy meetings. The rest of us read about it next morning in the papers and are called together at 10 o'clock to confirm it."

He accused G. O. P. leaders in congress of playing turtle during the last election.

"It wasn't Dewey's job to defend the 80th congress," said Morse. "It was up to our top leaders in congress. A lot of them suffered political laryngitis."

As for the G. O. P. stand on labor,

Morse snorted: "We've got an anti-labor label on our party, and we'll keep it until we liberalize the Taft-Hartley law.

Vice President Alben Barkley brought down the house with this story at President Truman's "harmony" dinner with freshmen congressional Democrats. Here is the

The machine shown here turned out up to 7 bales a minute during the having season of last year, add ng this tremendous output to the stockpiles of grain from which the haylift drew its supplies.

Thus the machine helped to provide the thousands of "bombs" of baled hay with which fliers saved the lives of starving cattle in a great rescue operation.

Just a few years ago operation haylift would have been impossible. It was not until this machine was introduced in the early 1940's that farmers could put their hay into twine-tied packages automatically.

The tomato is among the most versatile of vegetables to prepare for the table and returns the most for the garden space occupied. So, there must be tomatoes. Properly handled, harvesting may start July 1 and tomatoes may be had fresh until several weeks after frost, or for about 120 days. At one and onehalf servings a day, the fresh to-mato amount should be about three and one-half bushels, as a serving for five persons is that needed to can a quart, a bushel canning 17

For the remaining 245 days, the tomatoes must come from cans and allowing two servings weekly, 70 quarts are needed, or five bushels more. The total becomes eight and one-half bushels, or 510 pounds. Derby Betters' Loss Will Be Medicine's Gain

... MAY SOOTHE MANY A TROUBLED CONSCIENCE

MEDICINE AND THE DERBY

Churchill Downs, one of the old-est race tracks in the land, it is announced, is to be run for the benefit of the Louisville medical college. The Kentucky Derby has left many a man sick at the finish. but this is the first time anybody at the track thought of doing some thing about doctors.

The track is run by the famous Colonel Matt Winn, always a man in green, seldom a man in the red and now for the first time appearing as something of a Man in White

The colonel is a smart, colorful racing genius, but up to now had not been associated with a bedside manner and a stethoscope. If you saw him with a little black bag in hand you were under no illusion it held pills, capsules or oint-

It has never been recorded that he was coupled in the betting with "Dr. Kildare." Observing him as he watched the crowds pour into the Downs for the Derby, we never got the impression he was thinking about what to do for the medical profession rather than what to do for Churchill Downs.

However, it will be strictly O. K. to see horse racing advancing the cause of humanity. It will be a great conscience soother for Derby addicts. Their alibi for the long trip and the Derby hysteria can now be, "Can I help it if I want to see ambitious medical students get a chance?"

He will feel better coming back from the Derby, too. If his bangtail finishes out of the money, he will have the satisfaction of realizing that Louisville Medical college (by Matt Winn-Ballyhoo) "finished strong and will bear watching."

We can picture the wide influence of the school of medicine on the Derby, and vice versa. Churchill Downs will probably be redecorated in white enamel, with a nurse at every mutuels window and an intern in the hot dog stands. Fans will have their temperatures taken before and after photo fin-ishes, stethoscopes will be used to detect suppressed tips.

There will be special windows where fans may get a sedative. And if his inside information proves cold, there will be heat treatments

"Ladies and gentlemen," we can hear the track announcer "the horses are on their way to the nost to advance the cause of medicine and correct diagnosis. You have only five minutes in which to help a student get through college." Similarly, Louisville medical colege professors will be allotted official colors or "silks," classes will be opened with "Boots and Saddles" and on the day of exams there will be a morning line and late scratches.

Life can be wonderful! But we hope no student will be flunked for bad behavior at the gate and "quitting when challenged." And let's have no dean of the medical school thrown out of training for "popped osselet."

Noting it was the day of the signing of the Atlantic pact he selected "Dawn Atlantic pact he selected "Dawn of Peace" which won at Gulf-stream at 11 to 1, and "Silk Topper" and "Ocean Brief," winners at Jamaica, the former at $60.60. Never were hunches more perfect. (P. S.: Yes, but at the last minute Shudda Haddim got switched on all three.)

WHEN Eagle-Lion films decided to hold the premiere of "Tulsa" in Tulsa, Okla., they had no idea that Okiahomans would cooperate so magnificently. Gov. Roy Turner proclaimed a holiday and royally entertained members of the press whom Eagle-Lion flew from coasts for the occasion. Walter Wanger brought "Tulsa's" stars— Susan Hayward, Robert Preston,

Susan Hayward

Chill Wills and Jess Barker, to town; 50 mayors from all over the state were on hand to join in the festivities, which lasted for a day and a half. As for the picture, it is fine entertainment, with an oil-well fire that sets an all-time high for similar screen spectacles.

Two top Warners stars began their careers similarly, by dying. Errol Flynn did it in "The Case of the Curious Bride," has been killing other people in films ever Zachary Scott died in his first film, "The Mask of Dimitrios," has been the victim in eight out of 11 pictures since then, gets driven to suicide in his latest, "Flamingo Road."

Reuniting Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers for their 10th picture in M-G-M's "The Barkleys of Broadway" proved so successful that they will co-star another musical, as yet untitled, which is now being written for them.

Bill Conrad, the "voice" of CBS' "Escape" series, is a fine actor, but looks like something out of a grab bag; usually wears a sack-like pair of slacks, a T-shirt, sneakand an old leather jacket. He ers and an old leather jacket. He wears that array on "Suspense," also when reporting to the picture studios; he was in "The Killere," "Body and Soul," "To the Victors" "Sorry, Wrong Number."

THE TROUBLE with you," Barry said, "is that you're too analytical. Why don't you throw caution to the wind for once and marry the girl?" Hugh sighed. His face took on that look of faintly aloof indulgence that he always conjured when Barry became

Hugh gestured indifferently. "Figure it that, way, if you like. "Wouldn't it be a shock to you if you discovered yourself to be wrong. I mean, if Val married someone else right under your

"She won't." said Hugh confidently. "Girls aren't made that way." He stood up. "I haven't been studying psychology and human behavior five years for nothing.

"But is she gets tired of waiting and marries some one else in the meantime, maybe you'll regret it." "Don't be ridiculous. Val won't marry anyone else. I know what

Barry let a fortnight elapse before he again broached the subject of Val. It rankled him, and he felt better to get it off his chest. "Hate to mention it again, Hugh, but Val seems to think you've been neglecting her lately. Can't blame her much, either."

"Cut it!" Hugh looked ugly. "I think you'd better let me tend to my own affairs, Barry. The girl loves me and when I get around to it, I'll marry her. Goodness, can't ou understand that a man shouldn't

Three evenings later Hugh's phone rang. It was Barry. He sounded far away. "Can't hear you." Hugh yelled into the mouthpiece. "Talk louder."

"I say," came Barry's voice, more distinctly, "that the thing I warned you about has happened." "What thing?" said Hugh.

DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

SCRIPTURE: Mark 13; 14:3-9. DEVOTIONAL READING: I Th

Judgment Day

Lesson for May 15, 1949

FORTY DIFFERENT Christian denominations sponsor this column, although it goes without say-Christians in those denominations would agree point for point with everything that is said here. Now if the reader could interview one leading Bible expert from each of these denominations.

and ask each one Dr. Foreman the same question: "In your personal opinion, exactly what is the meaning of Mark 13? you might not get 40 different answers, but you certainly would get

There is no chapter in the Bible that has been the subject of more arguments than this one, ond no arguments have ever been more useless than

Leaving extreme views aside, let us try to discover some meanings which all 40 denominations would find in this chapter, some truths on which all reasonable Christians can agree.

A Certain Fact

more than one.

IN JESUS' view one thing is certain: God's judgment on this world and on all persons in it. Christian churches have different ideas about what happens after death. We have different ideas about how the judgment is to be carried out, or where it will be held, or when. But that every man will have to give account of him-self before God is something Christians believe.

Your true unbeliever is not the person who goes around saying there is no God. A more subtle and dangerous form of unbelief is in the person who takes the Christian creed upon his lips but lives as if the creed

He repeats the Apostles' Creed: "From thence he shall come to judge the quick and the dead." If those words are sincerely spoken, the believer will honestly try to please God obove all others. But the unbeliever, whatever his words may say, shows that he does not believe by the fact that he tries to please, first of all, either himself or his family or his neighbors

An Uncertain Time

IT IS ONLY children who think that if something doesn't hap-pen Now, it will never happen. Now and never are not the only times on God's clock. When will the judgment be? The disciples wanted to know, but Jesus did not tell them. He did not claim to know, himself. when it would be (Mark 13:32.) What he did say was, Watch! There is a sense in which God's judgments are going on all the time. The end of your world will come in your own lifetime, whoever you are; for there is not much difference whether the world folds up and leaves you or whether you fold up and leave the world.

Death is the end of the world for every one who dies. Further, whenever a person suffers by and because of his own wrong-doing, here in this life and on this earth, God is judging him by the eternal moral .laws which are the very warp and filling of the fabric of life

There is also a sense in which God judges societies and nations. We have recently seen how terrible a judgment Germany drew down on its head. The nation that takes the sword shall perish by the sword. The nation that sets out to enslave others by force come under the same death-sentence that cut down Assyria and Rome and Japan and Germany, But not all God's judgments are on this earth. "God does not settle all his accounts in October." There is a final accounting, and no man, in this life or any other, can escape that solemn meeting with God.

The Only Judge

TWO THINGS are sure. One is that the only true judge of any man is God. The man himself is partial, his friends are partial, his enemies are prejudiced against him. Further, no one knows all the facts but God. Only God knows what a man's motives are; only God can trace to their final end oll the consequenses that flow from a

What we have had, without clearly realizing it, is a boom in government. This boom has flourished until there is danger of collapse from the very size of the superstructure itself. Our ship of state is indeed top-

Lumping all government together —federal, state, local—tax collections for the 1948 fiscal year came to 26 per cent of the national in come. Perhaps you can see it better if we should divide up that $55.2 billion of tax collections to find what was your part. It amounts to $377 for each man, woman, and child in the nation. You didn't pay that much? Brother, your share was tucked away in the price of everything you spent your money for!
Government Unlimited?

You can see how much taxes have grown, if you compare the above figures with those for 1940. Then tax collections were $14.4 billion, or 18.9 per cent of national incom The amount for each person in 1940 was only $109. In eight years, therefore, we have more than tripled our taxes. A lot of it results from the war. We're spending a lot in Europe, certainly. But let us not use that as an excuse for lack of vigi lance about the rest of it.

We are inclined to justify boom government and resulting high taxes in a number of strange ways In depression times, we call for more and more spending. That means taxes, but we put them off until later. Then in time of plenty, we think up more things that government can do "better" for us, feeling sure that we can afford it. At the same time, we ignore war-time debt and forget that we ever did any "deficit" spending! Must we dedicate ourselves to unlimited

Voters Are Taxpayers
Knowing that "power to tax is power to destroy," the founding fathers placed tax power upon Congress. This power was not meant to be abused. Citizens then were aware that government was meant to serve them, not they to serve the government. That is the viewpoint of taxpayers.

But times have changed. Nowa-days American voters (though they be taxpayers to the tune of billions) look upon themselves first as receivers of government benefits, last as payers of tax. Our federal government is now making payments direct to 15,830,899 persons. Some of these are necessary. But too many of us, far too many for the good of the nation, have a personal interest in seeing government expendi-tures continue. Will any of these 16 million bite the hand that feeds

You see, this is the way we our selves can undermine the corner-stone of freedom. Almost without knowing it, we have created a huge central government, then given it power to perpetuate itself. If big government can minimize the dangers of entrenched bureaucracy, keep public waste and extravagance out of sight, and go on taxing-then this thing will continue regardless of the party in power. When big government sells people on the idea of lavish handouts which they themselves pay for by high taxes, you can call this bribing people with their own money!

Our First Engineer The beaver is not only one of the most resourceful of small animals but also one of the most industrious, and in many respects most useful. The beaver is the world's first engineer, and as such, its industrial traits are valuable to man and beast. For their value as engineers beavers often are carried to localities where their kind once lived but disappeared. They are captured in large basket-like traps and transported to depleted lands where beaver dams are needed. No sooner than given a new job—and they like a new undertaking — these sharptoothed workers start gnawing down trees for dam building material. When spring rains swell the streams their dams prevent the washing away of valuable topsoil, preserve timber supply and aid in beautifying Laughing Gas in Atmosphere Laughing gas, an anesthetic wide ly used by dentists to put their pa-tients to sleep, has been found in the atmosphere, R. L. Slobod and Mil-ton E. Krogh of Dallas, Texas, announced at meeting Southwest of the American Chemical society. The gas, known to chemists as nitrous oxide, or N_oO, makes up only one part in two million of air, the report stated, explaining that examination of sunlight with the spectroscope had previously suggested the pres-ence of nitrous oxide in the earth's atmosphere. Laughing gas is col-orless and has a sweet odor. A whiff will make a man giggle, and more will put him to sleep.

Pointers for Baby Sitter And for Parents Outlined

Baby sitting can be a career. That is the opening statement in a circular, published by the extension service at the University of Maryland, which outlines sugges-tions for both the sitter and employing mother.

Know what time you are to arrive, only illness should cause a break in the engagement, it is a job not a date, don't raid the icebox, and know how and what to feed the baby or child, are a few of the hints offered for the sitter's consideration. Equally pointed statements are called to the parents' attention; get back on time, arrange for suitable pay, escort the sitter home, give adequate instructions, and have the home situation under control when the sitter arrives. Also featured is a baby sitting safety record chart on which the and the mother can check 20 items to be guarded against and a list of recommended reading on child care is included for the sitter's study. The bulletin summarizes some of the advantages of a baby sitting career by saying, "Besides giving the community a service, earning money and observing many practical skills in child care training, you become aware of the many tasks of the successful home-

Don't Shake Paint

Shaking of paint, varnish and lacquer products, especially var-nishes and enamels, is likely to result in minute air bubbles which may cause pin prick blisters on the finished job. Such products should be carefully and thoroughly stirred before use and then "boxed by pouring two or three times from one container to another. Finally, straining the finish through an old silk stocking or fine cloth will remove any specks or lumps which may have been missed in the stirring, if the user desires maximum assurance of a perfect finish. This procedure is especially advised when a finish has been previously opened and left standing, with possible development of a skin.

winner, his family, in most cases, is immediately left without in come. The time that passes between death and the beginning of payment of monthly benefits to the family depends upon how soon we get notice of the death and how soon the application for these benefits is received. We make every effort to assist the survivors in getting their monthly checks started promptly. To accomplish this, there must be full cooperation on the part of the survivors. One case we had recently illustrates this point. In the month the wage earner died. we received that information, the claim was promptly developed and survivors were notified what the monthly payments would be and when they would start. This was possible because the survivors followed our advice to all survivors of wage earners.

The case referred to above was one where the wage earner died suddenly leaving a widow and one child under 18. The widow not only had to file a claim for herself and child but she had to give us certified copies of her marriage certificate and hirth certificate for the child. She got these to us just as soon as they were requested. She did not have difficulty in getting them which, of course, is not always the case. When a widow culty in getting the proof required should let us know. We may be

No matter how deep the planet's faith in those men delegates ever got there was always the realization that they really didn't know how to replace a lost shirt button.

> It seems to us that the men might be called off the peace job and the women sent in. In four years the men haven't even made anybody turn around and look at them. Not a delegate has had a song written to him. There hasn't been a heartthrob in a carload.

U. N. has no glamour. For one person who can name the head of the organization 1,000 can name the oung woman who was Miss Somebody's Beer for 1948.

If the women formed a peace organization, took over U.N. and sent the men home to look after the kids, put out the cat and do other things not subject to the veto, the peace movement would imediately acquire immense affection and devotion. Maybe what the world needs is a League that can be whistled

We can see swift results. A female U.N. would get a bigger play in all the newspapers and magazines. It would probably make the cover of Life. It would even make television, which is the ultimate goal these days. Whenever interest in the organization tailed off the delegates could be photographed in beach attire or endorsing a girdle.

A woman's United Nations would solve the Gromyko problem pronto. There has never been a time when one woman could veto 1,000 other women and live.

What can men do when the world is ornery? Nothing. But in a showdown the women could get what they want merely by flashing a two-word message to all women everywhere: "Stop cooking!" And they could follow that up with an order to the girls to refuse to answer the universal question, "Where did you put the aspirin, Nellie?"

I. Paul Leonard, of Statesville, was guest speaker at the Rotary Club luncheon last Tuesday. Mr Leonard discussed the 200 million road bond issue, and the 25 million school bond issue, which is to be voted on June 4th. After reading his speech we are of the opinion that Mr. Leonard favors the school bonds, but is drastically against the road bonds. We carried an article in The Record last week from Mr. Leonard expressing his views on the road bond issue. Our columns are open to the public to express their views on this important question. Verious Angell, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Angell, of R. 2, was painfully injured about 8:15 o'clock Friday morning in front of L. M. Dwiggins Service Station just west of town on the Statesville Highway.

W. F. Stonestreet was driving out into the highway from the service station, when the Angell car came down the highway, col hding with the Stonestreet car, a Plymouth sedan. The Angell car, a 1940 Chevrolet coach, left the highway and turned over before coming to rest against an embankment. The Chevrolet is a total loss. Mr. Stonestreet escaped unhurt and his car wasn't damaged much. Mr. Angell was thrown out of his car and fell on the highway. He was rushed to Rowan Memorial Hospital. He sustained no broken bones and is getting along nicely.

icans in Shanghai, the entire U. S. fleet fled suddenly from Shanghai, evidently having abandoned then current plans for evacuation of American nationals from the scene

THE GOVERNMENT was sending some marines to Chinese troubled spots, but these were to do only sentry duty.

United States action came despite admittedly great provocation. The Chinese Communists, in their triumphant surge across China to Shanghai, had invaded the home of U.S. Envoy J. Leighton Stuart in Nanking and hinted he was to be held in custody.

Meanwhile, the Chinese Reds broadcast a demand for American and British officials to evacuate all "aggressive forces" China.

Already British warships had been fired upon and it was assumed American fleet elements had fled Shanghai in order to avoid any such predicament as was experienced by the British vessels.

THE COMMUNIST threat to Shanghai was increasing hourly and despite Nationalist decision to battle to the end, it appeared the city's plight was hopeless.

Communist victory in China would put all the western nations in a ticklish position. For, with the Reds in control of all China, those who opposed communism would be helpless and hopeless in event of a western-powers move to ap-ply economic sanctions, if such a step should be taken. If this procedure were not to be followed, the western powers would be put in the paradoxical position of recognizing and trading with proponents of an ideology with which they were struggling in a cold war.

AUTO LABOR:

Flareup Looms

The nation's coal mines didn't present the only likely flareup in labor-employe relations as bargaining time rolled around in various industries. Those who were in position to know held the opinion that hung over the automobile industry.

UNION FLAREUPS had been quelled at the Packard and Ford motor companies and a temporary work stoppage had halted body production at the Briggs manufacturing company's plant.

The future of labor relations in the industry was as confused as it was uneasy. Recent action by manufacturers in cutting prices of automobiles had brought accusations from labor that the reductions were only "token" cuts, and did not represent a fair action on the part of the manufacturers.

However, with prices of other commodities beginning to spiral downward and easement of installment buying widened, it began to appear that labor would be in a vulnerable position by the time contract-signing time rolled around.

WHILE there was little in the press about the intentions of dynamic Walter Reuther, head of the United Automobile Workers' union, there was slight doubt that the ficry redhead would be in there pitching for his union members when the time came to sit down at the bargaining table.

Would labor attempt to overreach quite understand it either, or if he itself in bargaining or would it did, it was a new conception. Now, recognize the trend of the times the secretary was saying, the plan and be content to hold present wasn't meant as a consumer subgains? That was the question whose answer would be anxiously awaited farm price support measure, aimed by the citizen who is always in the at giving the farmer a "fair remiddle in such struggles—the aver- turn" on his investment and his

age American consumer. SPRING COMES TO ENGLAND

CREDIT CONTROLS:

Are Eased Again

Developments were shoving President Truman's demands for price control power further and further into the realm of absurdity.

THE FEDERAL reserve board after looking the situation over, decided that installment buying controls could be lowered again safely. And this it did. It set out that on household appliances such as refrigerators, radios, electric washers etc., the down payment would have to be only 10 per cent of the cost of the item, instead of the previous 15 per cent. On automobiles, the down payment remained at 30 per cent; but on autos and household appliances, too, the time of payment was extended from 21 to 24 months.
THIS ACTION brought both commendation and criticism. That element in the federal government which would recoup all the war-time controls for the President, was aghast at the action, terming it dangerous. Others who had watched prices continue their downward spiral—especially mer-chants who were facing a buyers' market and difficulty in moving goods off sales floors—saw the action as a boon to business.

Italy Wants Colonies

PRESIDENT TRUMAN was sympathetic, but noncommittal, when five Italian-American con-gressmen braced him about the re-turn of Italy's war-lost colonies in Africa. Led by forthright freshman Rep. Anthony Tauriello of New York, the White House callers contended that Italy's joining the Atlantic pact demonstrated her right to the colonies.

Rep. Anthony Cavalcante of Pennsylvania enlivened the proceedings with a charge that Great Britwas deliberately blocking a settlement of the issue.

"It will mean less Marshall plan spending in Italy if the colonies are returned, for the Italian govern-ment then will have an outlet for its surplus population, including 250,000 refugees who left Africa for Italy during the war," argued Tauriello.

"These people, many of whom are on relief, will be able to support themselves by farming in the col-onies," he argued. "Also, Italian opposition to communism will be stiffened if the colony question is settled. As you know, before the Italian election last year, Russia favored the return of the colonies, but since then Russia has opposed their return under a United Nations trusteeship or otherwise."

"I will do anything I can to help the Italian people," re-plied Truman. "But I cannot commit myself on this question. It is a world problem and the decision will have to be made by the United Nations."

Representative Tauriello and his colleagues — Peter Rodino (N. J.), Hugh Addonizio (N. J.), Gary Clements (N. Y.) and Cavalcante— all agreed that Truman couldn't dictate to the U. N.

"We understand your position," said the outspoken Cavalcante, a down-the-line battler for Truman domestic policies. "It's too bad Great Britain doesn't also live up to United Nations principles. Britain has been blocking the return of these colonies because she wants them for herself.

"If the United Nations government lets Britain get away with it, then all I can say is that we are not pursuing the international policy of moral right to all nations, great and small, on which the U. N. was

Truman's Old Haunts

Seldom has President Truman had such a gay time as when he visited his old haunts in the senate on the anniversary of Roosevelt's death. He led a procession of senators and secret service men on to the senate floor. On the way, he ducked into the Vice-President's office and signed the register under Vice-President Barkley was out of town, Truman also scribbled a note to him on a scratch pad.

"Dear Mr. VP," he scrawled, "called to see you to get some advice—HST." In the senate cloak room, the President took a squint at the news "They didn't have these here in my day," he remarked.

Then, referring to Washington's newspaper strike, he added mischievously: "I'm not getting my newspaper at home. I'll have to read your ticker."

The President marched out of the senate chamber and peeked into Senate Secretary Les Biffle's office. Biffle was recuperating from the grippe at Bethesda naval hospital, so the President sat down and scribbled another note.

"Les," he wrote, "I wish you were here. I tried to see the VPhe was gone. Now you are out. What shall I do? Looks as if I'll have to consult with the senate-HST." Not satisfied with just leaving a note, the President picked up the phone and called Biffle at the hospital.

"Hello, Les," he chirped. "I'm sitting at your desk, so I thought I would call you up."

The President chatted about Biffle's health, then hung up. At that moment, a call came into the office and Truman thought it would be a good joke to answer it. But he couldn't find the right button. When a secretary beat him to it, he pulled a wry face.

From Biffle's office, the Presi dent returned to the senate floor and took his former seat. There Florida's Sen. Claude Pepper placed a hand on his shoulder and joked: "Well, I hope you're going to vote for the program of our President."

"I sure would," chuckled Truman, "if I had a vote."

White Mice Serving In Chemical Tests

Insecticide Shower Evaluates Formulae

An old-style phonograph rigged up to give a revolving shower bath to a white mouse is helping test new chemicals for effectiveness in stable fly control. The mice are pinch-hitting for dairy cows in making the tests, says the U.S. department of agriculture.

The old phonograph was one that played wax cylinder records. The test mouse is confined in a screen cage that replaces the old record holder. The mouse is rolled around several times under a sprayed solution of the new chemical, and then is rolled under an air stream until dry. The test comes the next day in another cage with 20 stable day in another cage with 20 stable flies. If as many as four of the flies succeed in attacking the mouse without being driven off or poisoned, the chemical is not regarded as worth a full scale test on a cow. This is the first time white mice have been used in just this kind of experimental work.

Federal entomologists are searching actively for a spray that will protect animals from attack by stable flies and other blood-sucking flies and mosquitoes. Recent experience has proved abundantly how profitable it is for farmers to protect cattle from the torment of "fly time" and thus avoid the summer slump in milk production and gains in weight of animals or pasture.

This search calls for trials of hundreds of chemicals. Many of these are new synthetics.

Soil Protection

Pelting rains may be a soil de stroyer rather than a farm blessing unless your land has a protective 'umbrella" over cover crops

Beating rains on bare land break the surface soil into small particles. These particles quickly fill the pores of the surface soil. The surface forms a hard crust. Water cannot soak in. Instead, it runs over the surface. The farm land then suffers a double loss. It loses needed moisture for crops and it loses valuable top-soil.

The Middle West soil improve ment committee suggests these steps for protecting your soil and giving your crops better use of the rains you get:

1. Use a cropping system that gives your soil as continuous cover as possible throughout the year. 2. Thick - growing grasses and deep-rooted legumes give the best

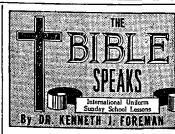

3. Small grains following corr help keep the land protected. 4. If winter wheat or rve is no feasible, a good covering can be had by mashing down corn stalks or soybean tops. Legumes like alfalfa and sweet clover prevent washing away soil. Their prying taproots open the soil so rain soaks in and is held for crops. Legumes well fed with phosphate and potash fertilizer add life-giving organic matter.

Land Should Be Turned Under for New Legumes

When corn is to follow first year sweetclover, it is advisable to get the ground turned under before the new growth of the legume removes too much moisture from the soil. This tip comes from D. L. Gross Nebraska university extension agronomist. He advises, however, not to plow under the clover before new crown shoots get to a length of four to six inches. Earlier plowing may not kill the legume.

The Lord's Supper

Lesson for May 22, 1949

LET US CLEAR UP some very common misunderstandings of hat the Christian religion is. Some (both enemies and friends) think it consists in turning one's back on the world, liv-ing in a sort of happy wonderland where the evil of the world is alto-gether shut out and forgotten. Another notion is that Christianity pre sents an angry God Dr. Foreman (or one who can very easily be made angry) laying down the law to mankind. Another is that Christianity is a purely in-dividual affair. And still another is that Christian religion consists of the teachings of Jesus and that is all it is. Every one of these misunderstandings vanishes in the light that shines around the Lord's

Supper. Betrayal

PEOPLE SOMETIMES think that religion shuts men's eyes to the ugly realities of life. Some re-ligions try to do so; but not the religion of Christ. He knew the kind of world this is; he never let his disciples forget it.

On that last night, dark forces were abroad. Jesus' enemies were closing in on him. One of his own circle would betray him. Yet it was in that sort of atmosphere, heavy with betrayal and hatred, that Jesus began this sacrament of faith, hope and love.

The true Christian does not live in a fool's paradise, he does not imagine that everything is lovely in the nicest possible words. The sacrament which is the heart of his worship is itself a reminder of the ugliness of the world which man's sin creates.

"AND HE BLESSED the bread if Christianity consisted mainly of condemning wickedness and denouncing sinners, then at the center of our worship we would have some symbol of dread and awe, like fire and brimstone, a consuming flame. But no-at the heart of our worship is a thing as simple, plain and friendly as a loaf of bread, bread on which the bless ing of God has been asked. Blessing, not cursing; invita-tion, not threatening, is at the heart of our religion.

Whenever you see some one whose chief idea of being a "good Christian" is going around proclaiming the meanness of the world, cawing at everybody and everything.

Breaking

"AND BROKE IT, and gave " Artists have tried in a single picture to express the mean ing of Christianity. Some of the pictures are beautiful, but many of them miss an important truth. What shall it be? A picture of a ship-wrecked woman clinging to a rock? Of a saint praying in a long solitary vigil? These leave out something vital. For Christianity is a fellowship. No Christian is complete by himself.

At the heart of our religion is Communion. Few if any Protestant churches allow any one even a minister, to give the Holy Communion to himself, by himself.

The true Christian never finds himself, his true self, alone; only in fellowship. A Christian belongs with other Christians as much as one coal in a bed of coals belongs with all the rest.

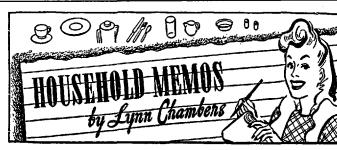

Blood

TESUS TEACHINGS are so important, so full of wisdom and of living power, that often some one will say that Jesus was a teacher and only a teacher, and that following his teachings is all that Christianity is. Jesus did not think of it in this way.

True, his teaching is of the utmost importance: but that was not and is not all. As Middleton Murry said years ago, Jesus was the only teacher who has died for his teaching. But he did more than that: he died for those he taught.

The cup at the Holy Communion reminds every one who partakes of it that Christ was not only a teacher, he was a sacrifice.

Spring Meal Salads Should Be Kept Crisp, Always Look Delectable

HAVE YOU ever eaten salads that looked as though they had been pawed over too thoroughly in originally may have been, if it suffers from either of these faults, no one

The salad should be crisp and neat. Garnish it, yes, but don't over-do it or the salad will lose its much desired freshness.

The ingredients for a salad as well as the plate, bowl or platter on which it's served should be given a thorough chilling in the refrigerator. Save the salad's finishing touches for the very last preparation before serving the meal.

For the heavy meals, your best choice is a cold, crisp tossed salad. This may be made entirely of greens. You may add any of the following ingredients to a simple green salad: sliced or quartered tomatoes; cucumbers, sliced very thin; radishes; green onions; or grapefruit or orange sections.

. . . GREENS WHICH ARE often used in a salad may consist of ten-der hearts of lettuce, endive, chicory, romaine, celery and water cress. Toss these together with a well-seasoned French dressing made as follows:

TOO BAD

A man hunting an apartment came across a rather nice place. He located the building superintendent and said: "I think this apartment will suit me very well, but what are all those stains on the wall?" The superintendent explained that the last occupant had been a professor who was always experiment ing with new chemicals.

"Oh, I see," said the man, "then those are the marks made by the chemicals." "No," said the superintendent, "they're the professor."

Integrity and Contracts

One of the qualities in human be ings that our civilization today needs so desperately is integrity. What is integrity? The word comes from a Latin term which meant "untouched" or "whole." That's about the way it is today. A man who has integrity is so morally sound that he is not to be touched —in a way that will affect his honesty and uprightness. Many labor-management disagree ments would disappear, if we estly would undertake to solve them with each side of the conference ta ble keeping its integrity. If each party to an agreement keeps his word—that is integrity. It used to be said of a neighbor I had: "His word is his bond." That's the kind of neighbor this world needs. It will require integrity from each one of us, if this world is to become a better place.

An Example

Let me illustrate—with a labor-management example. Less than a year ago, the General Motors "cost of living" wage agreement with United Automobile Workers was acclaimed as a solution to the frequent wage battles that upset our industrial communities.

Under terms of the contract GM can raise or lower wages according to government statistics. As living costs rise or fall in reports of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the company can adjust wages accordingly. While the formula did not rule out wage increases for other reasons, it was an honest attempt to solve the cost-of-living problem.

Pay Cut Due

Last year under the contract GM employees got a flat 6-cent hourly raise, plus a "cost of living" increase of 5 cents. What are the prospects this year? Employees are in line for an increase not related in line for an increase not related to living costs, but under the formu la will get a pay cut of 2 cents be-cause the Bureau of Labor Statistics index of living costs has gone down. The effect would be to hold wages at about the same levels as last

Employees still would have the advantage of the decline in living costs. However, according to a re-cent Associated Press dispatch, a GM local in Cleveland wants to reopen the contract, which has more than a year to run. This local of 2,500 workers wants UAW headquarters to block the carrying out of the contract. According to the AP story the local's president said that workers' living conditions "ought to be of greater meaning than the sacredness of a contract."

Moral Issues

Moral issues are involved when you talk about breaking contracts. As against a pay increase of two or three cents, a contract should have plenty of sacredness. What is in-volved is integrity. The contract was made in good faith. It has more than a year to run. If it does not meet the needs of the UAW, the parties will have determined this by the time for expiration. There are few human relationships that have greater meaning than do contracts. The courts of the land expect contracts to be kept. Good neighbors are made by men who keep their word. This applies to groups as well. Good citizenship re-quires integrity.

Question of Corn Drying Answered by Scientists

Portable frost has enabled U. S. department of agriculture scientists to settle a corn drying question on which farmers have disagreed. Most farmers believed that corn which had been frosted in the field dried more slowly than it would have if it had not frozen. Others disagreed. It was not possible to set-tle the question, since frost when it struck, covered a whole field.

Engineers of the bureau of plant industry, soils, and agricultural engineering developed a simple device for spotting a frost in a corn field. This consisted of a movable hood large enough to cover ten feet of corn row. Air within the hood was cooled by dry ice. In two seasons of testing, the engineers have caused artificial frosts by chilling groups of corn plants to 20 to 25 degrees for about half an hour. This had the same killing effect as a natural frost. Then it was simple to gather sample ears from the frozen rows and from rows on either side that had not been frozen. Comparing these two lots of ears it was clear each year that the frosted ears dried more rapidly than ear that had not been frozen. A light freeze speeds up drying.

This applies to corn that is reasonably well ripened and mature Corn that is frozen while still high in moisture content may have a test weight lower than if allowed to mature without freezing, says the

Study in Metals Reveals

How and Why They Break New theories as to why and how metals break, which have a bear ing on a longer life for cut flowers and the height of giant California redwoods, have been advanced.

Investigations by scientists of the General Electric research labora tory show that the fracture of met begins with extremely small cracks, nuclei which grow into large split when enough tennic is applied. Prior to this invest gation, it was usually assume that the break in the metal oc curred instantaneously throughou the sample, the scientists explained

The metals study was begun with esearch into how a column of fluid breaks. It soon became apparen that bubbles, which break a water column, have much in commo

If a pull is applied to a column of fluid or a bar of metal. the col-umn or bar will hold together if the tension is not great enough to do the work of making the nuclei (bubbles or cracks) grow into a break. For every tension there is a when a certain tension is applied. there are nuclei of the critical size or larger, they will grow rapidly, causing the sample to break.

Fire Extinguishers Needed It is desirable for every home to have at least one dependable fire extinguisher. The familiar water pail is probably the oldest type of "fire extinguisher." Water pails are handy for so many uses and so often used for other things, even when set aside for fire use, that "extinguishers" were invented else, are more likely to be available when wanted for the emergency of a fire. Always seek the advice of your fire chief before purchasing fire extinguishers. These devices are not uniform in effectiveness. Some are designed for special situations only and for certain classes

Deer Hunting in Pennsylvania A million deer hunters comb Pennsylvania's woodlands each fall. Since 1941 they've driven away with 273,446 dead deer. Despite this, 60, 000 Pennsylvania deer probably will starve this winter. This is not unusual, nor exclusive with Pennsylvania. Michigan loses 10 per cent to 70 per cent of its fawn crop this way annually. And-though a hunter may spend all day in the woods without seeing a deer-a 1947 survey by three outstanding biologists showed 30 of the 48 states are bothered by deer-crowding.

Program for Winter Driving Although traffic is relatively light during winter months, compensation must be made for decreased visibility and icy road conditions. To offset these hazards the follow ing program is suggested: (1) Early starts to insure completion of trips before dusk and to minimize the temptation to drive at speeds high for winter road conditions, (2) Moderate speeds at all times and sharp reductions of speeds at intersections, to compensate for the poorer tractions and visibility for both pedestrians and cars. Our County And Social Security

By Mrs. Ruth G. Duffy. Manager. Sunday, May 8th, was Mother's Day. All over our land tribute was paid to mothers by visits of children, by speeches over radio, and by various remembrances sent to mothers by children too far away from home to visit them.

I am glad my work brings me in close contact with so many mothers—the young and the old ones. Today families are scattered all over the world. The main reason for this is that we have become a highly industralized nation and m mbers of a family go where jobs can be found. Our security now is in our jobs and anything that affects our jobs challenges our security. To help the people meet the hazards of unemployment, old age and death, the Congress passek the Social Security Act in '35. Old Age and Survivors Insurance is one provision of the Act. How are women-mothers-benefitted by this program?

First, a wife 65 gets monthly payments if her husband is also 65 and receiving payments. Se condly, a widow 65 receives monthly payments if her husband had worked long enough in covered employment. Thirdly, a widow at any age, it she has children under 18 and was living with her husband at his death, receives monthly payments not only for herself but for the children, Fourthly, a mother 65 receives monthly pavments if her deceased child had worked long enough to be insured and she was chiefly dependent upon him or her for her support. And lastly, a single woman 65 gets benefits on her own wage re cord if she had worked long enough in covered employment.

The most of the money being paid to bencficiaries under the Old-Age and Survivors Insurance program goes to wives, widows 65, and young widows with children. The day-to-day living of many in each of these classes has been made easier and happier by the Having qualified as Executrix of ments give them. Many of those

Atlantic Pact 'Combed

TERSE, urgent questions affecting our hopes for peace came hind closed doors of the senate foreign relations committee. Answering them, the men who must implement the North Atlantic pact in Berlin, was relieved of his were kept under steady fire for post as military commander in 41/2 hours.

Big, bull-voiced Senator Vandenberg set the pace, but each senator got a load of questions off his chest. They combed the pact's fine print for pitfalls and loopholes, and searched for hidden meanings between the lines. As a result, many tough problems were plowed up.

The chief targets in this verbal shooting gallery were Secretary of State Acheson, Secretary of Defense Johnson and ECA Ambassador Harriman. They talked brilliantly, but not quite enough to please the senators.

"I can't be offhand and free about information that involves other countries." Acheson retorted impatiently, when pressed for de-

Johnson also buttoned up during a barrage of questions on atomic energy from Senator McMahon of Connecticut. The queries were based on secret information which McMahon had learned at the Pentagon, and Johnson objected to going into detail in front of committee clerks. This caused McMahon to declare that he wouldn't support the pact if he couldn't get the information he

"If the price of the senator's vote," bristled Johnson, "is my vio-lation of what I consider the security of the nation, then we may have to forego the senator's vote.'

Senate Stairs Steep

To add to the turmoil, the meeting was interrupted 13 times by roll-call votes on the senate floor. This kept the senators straggling up and down stairs to the senate floor until 71-year-old Sen. George of Georgia finally snorted in dis-

"By God, I can't go up and down those stairs any more!"
And he quit the meeting.

Another problem was how much to tell the press. Vandenberg was against issuing any release until the secretary of state formally presented the military program to congress. The Michigan Republican warned, however, that "Drew Pearson has a dictaphone hidden

Later, chairman Tom Connally stamped angrily into the meeting after a trip upstairs to vote.

"Somebody has already leaked the amount (of the proposed military aid)," he thundered. "Some newspapermen told me the figure and asked if that was correct."

Following this incident, it was agreed to release an outline of the one billion, 130 million dollar plan to help rearm the north Atlantic treaty nations. Here are other highlights of the meeting.

clarify the important question of whether the pact was just another old-fashioned military alliance or a genuine instrument of collective security. He pointed out that the U. N. charter recognizes the right of nations to "collective self-defense" in case of attack.

The charter, however, adds in rticle 51: "Measures taken by members (of the U. N.) in the exshall be immediately reported to happier under the new formula, a the security council." happier under the new formula, a surprised murmur of laughter report their secret defense plans to the security council-where Russia has easy access? This was conference with New York's Mayor something none of them wanted to do, but Senator Pepper of Florida ised to abide by the N. U. charter. Secretary Acheson explained, however, that the only "measures we are obliged to report to the security council are whatever measures may be taken jointly-after an armed attack occurs.

Only Arms to Europe?

"What I want to know," chimed in Utah's scholarly Sen. Elbert Thomas, "is what do you mean by the rearmament of Europe? One thing Europe knows how to do is arm. The idea of supplying arms seems archaic unless we give them our best bombs and techniques. But if we do that, I am against the whole program.

"The aim of the Atlantic pact is to bring about an atmosphere to make arms unnecessary. If we are not going to teach the processes of peace, we may as well quit now."

Another question, raised by sevnish Europe with American-made arms or help the treaty nations manufacture their own arms. If the United States tries to produce all the armament needed for the allied world, the production and logistic problem, it was argued, would be terrific. But, on the other hand, plants built in Europe would be easy prey to the Russians and their symptoms alleviated." had a ready answer for this sober question.

Clay's leaving would open the way for appointment of the first civilian high commissioner for Germany, something the army has been wanting for a long time.

PRESIDENT TRUMAN, in makng the announcement Clay was to leave, said the general deserved the thanks of the American people for his execution "of one of the toughest tasks and accomplishments of American history.

It was no secret that the President and Dean Acheson, secretary of state, were trying to persuade John J. McCloy to take the assignment in Berlin. McCloy is now head of the international bank for reconstruction and development, a position which carries a $30,000, tax-free annual salary.

HOUSING:

Nobody Pleased

The government, it appeared, couldn't please anyone in its efforts to implement the newlyenacted rent control bill.

Scores of landlords and tenants in New York turned out in angry confusion after Federal Housing Chief Tighe Woods announced a program for putting the new law into operation. Woods had come up with a plan which he hoped would provide owners of rental property with a "fair net operating income." This was one thing the new law said should be done.

BUT WOODS, in a personal appearance in the nation's largest city, stepped personally into a hot-bed of landlord's inquiries.

Landlords assailed the Woods formula as giving inadequate relief to hard-pressed property

The formula was confusing because it contained so many indeterminate factors. It was intended income on some 14 million dwellings throughout the nation still under federal rent control.

As Woods expressed belief both ercise of this right of self-defense landlords and tenants would be Does this mean, Vandenberg swept the audience which over-asked, that the treaty nations must flowed the 869-seat hall. Woods dashed from the meeting, where he answered some 50 questions, to a

William O'Dwyer. WOODS SAID the new formula "goes right down the middle, pro-tecting landlords against rents that would deny them a fair profit and protecting tenants against being charged a higher rent than the fair net operating income allows.'

Meanwhile both property owners and tenants seethed, each fearing they were being put upon by the Woods formula; landlords obviously resentful that specific rent increases were not allowed, tenants bitter because of a "mixed-up" formula which they feared held nothing but bad news for them-

GRANDMAS:

Enough's Enough

Grandma was getting fed up. Enough was enough. And she was becoming vocal about it. Mrs. Lyn Greene, president of the

New York chapter of the National Grandmothers' club, was the spokesman for the grandmas, the spearhead of a drive to make grandma a respected member of every

MRS. GREENE and all the other grandmas were up in arms against all the corny gags about grandmas and mother-in-law, too. They were in a crusade to ban such alleged humor from the face of the earth forever. And they held some powerful weapons in their arsenal.

For instance, if the jokes aren't banned, the grandmas said, there would be no more baby-sitting, no more crocheting, no more cookies and cakes. That was the grandmas' ultimatum.

Also knitting needles would stop, not one lullaby would be hummed and daughters "going home to mother" after a tiff with their hus-bands would have to find hotel rooms, instead.

THE GRANNIES were tired of being made to appear as jabbering, ridiculous troublemakers. But the grandmas were fair about the whole thing. In return for a new status as a "sweet, lovable old dear" they would agree to mind their own knitting.

Mrs. Greene, a professional artist, philanthropist, mother of two sons and grandmother of four small children, believes she is just the person to take the giggles out of references to grandmas.

"THERE ARE STILL a few rocking-chair grandmas, bridge-table grandmas, and drudge grandmas who need to be reformed," she said. but contends this reformation will never come about through silly radio and movie jokes and sillier cartoens.

Eventually Mrs. Greene and the thousands of other grannies in the national organization hope to win so much respect that October 10 will be proclaimed as national Grandmothers' day.

Birthday Ideas

ANYBODY CAN HAVE a birthday cake, and usually does. Maybe that's be cause no one ever thinks having a birth-day pie. However, as you can see from the picture, a birthday pie is both at licious, and is appropriate carrying birthday greetings. for

Have you ever noticed how someone's birthday creeps up on you sort of unexpectedly, too? You may have planned a pie or just fruit and cookies for dessert. These, too, can be decorated to suit the occasion.

Then, again, if you are rushed for time, there may be some simple dessert which will take less time than the layer cake and its elaborate topping. Look through the tips I'm giving you today if you want unusual ways to celebrate birth-

A GLAMOROUS birthday party dessert may be swished out of prepared chocolate pudding, like this:

Chocolate Coconut Birthday Pie

1 package prepared chocolate pudding 2 cups milk

½ cup shredded coconut 1 baked 8-inch pie shell 2 egg whites

4 tablespoons sugar 14 cup shredded coconut

Prepare chocolate pudding as di rected on package with the milk.

fourths cups if a thicker filling is desired.) Cool, stirring occasionally. Add one half cup coconut. Turn into pie shell. Beat egg whites until foamy throughout. Add sugar, one table spoon at a time, beating after each addition until sugar is blended Then continue beating until mixture stands in peaks. Pile lightly on tor of filling. Bake in a moderate (350°) oven for 10 minutes. Sprinkle with one-fourth cup coconut and continue baking five minutes longer, or until delicately browned. Candles are easily arranged on the pie if you simply melt a drop of wax on the plate and stick the candle in it. Another idea uses marshmallows for candles. In this case, candles must be small, of course, to avoid top heaviness. Here's another idea for pie, if you want to carry out the same treatment suggested above for candle arrangement. This is a light, airy chiffon pie, butterscotch in

Prayer in Pain

Lesson for May 29, 1949

THE SHADOW over Gethsemane is deep. We can scarcely see the tortured figure under the moonlit olive trees. If Jesus' closest friends, in that hour, were strangers to his soul, we cannot dare to penetrate all the secrets of that fateful hour. Yet while we cannot know all, we can know enough; enough to support us in our own time of dark- Dr. Foreman ness and of pain. Mark uses very strong language to describe the state of Jesus' mind in Gethsemane. The two Greek words he uses, translated in the King James version "sore amazed" and "very heavy," are translated by the Revised Standard Version "greatly distressed and troubled;" by Goodspeed, "distress and dread;" by Moffatt, "appalled and agitated." As our hymn says,

"We know not how, we can-What pains He had to bear."

Still, we do know of some of the burdens which weighed so terribly on Jesus' mind and heart that

Peter, James and John were comfortably asleep, evidently continuing to beat until stiff. without the slightest notion of what Fold into cooked custard, then pour he was suffering. But there was into pie shell. Decorate with worse than lack of sympathy, somewhere in the dark city one of supposed friends, the man ANOTHER EASY WAY to take called Judas, was even then slinkcare of a birthday is to serve a ing through the alleys with murder delicious bow1 of scoops of de-lightful, refresh-ing ice. Jesus well knew what was in store for him. He knew the San-hedrin would call him a blasphemer, he knew what the Romans would do with him, once they got their hands on him. Worse than this must have been the tragic sense of

"I would, but ye would not," he had said in tears to this very city; a city full of enemies who should have been his friends, of unbelievers who should have believed, a city he loved, but which had nothing for him but thorns and a cross. All this was on Jesus' heart that night-and as many Christians be-lieve, far more. One of the most profound Christian thinkers has suggested that the heaviest, most painful shadow on Jesus' soul was the sense of guilt, not his own but for the sins of the world.

serve place scoops in a large bowl. JESUS PRAYED. Even in the S cool spring night his forehead was covered with sweat, falling to the rocky ground like drippling blood. Never rose prayer from a more tortured heart. And what came of it? In one sense, the prayer was not answered. The cup did not pass from him, he must drink it to the last bitter dregs. The prayer did not remove the pain. Yet in a deeper sense, the prayer of Christ was fully answered. "Not as I will, but as Thou wilt," he breathed. The prayer that sets one's own will in line with the will of God, whatever His will may be, is the prayer that always finds answer. At the end, there was not release, but power. "An angel came and strengthened him."

What Prayer Can Do

TESÚS "LEARNED obedience by the things which he suffered." (Heb. 5:8.) We can share his lesion. The hour of pain is not the hour to begin praying; those who have not learned prayer before, will scarcely know how to pray in a time of agony. Yet the time of pain is not the time to give up praying. When the dark hour comes. Jesus did not throw aside his faith, he prayed more intensely than ever before. Prayer does not explain pain, much less explain it away.

Prayer does not always get rid of pain, even though in many cases the prayer of works cures where doctors fail. What true prayer does always is to set the one who prays in tune with the will of God even when that will is follows an ancient and well loved trade-that of the itinerant knight of the fiddle. But with variations. He travels not only with his violins but with his violin workshop. He has a touring violin hospital.

Most of his patients are violins owned by students in graded and high schools and colleges. He fixes their fiddles, gives them shop talk and pep talk, and does a bit of fiddle trading with them and their teachers to keep the Stoffel pot aboiling.

It was 20 years ago that Stoffel changed over from fiddles as a hobby to fiddles as a business. He established his portable shop and smile in hundreds of schools in Wisconsin and the rest of the

Playing at 8

All his life Stoffel has been a fiddle fan. He comes from Racine , where his father, Jacob Stoffel, Jr., was a merchant and banker, and organizer of the Racine . It was a musical family and William Peter took up violin play-ing at 8 under the well known Mil-waukee teacher Albert Fink, a puoil of the great European virtu oso Joseph Joachim, But William only fiddled for fun in those days. He attended grade and high schools and business college in Racine, and went to work for the real estate department of the old Bloodgood, Kemper & Bloodgood

But business never interrupted too much with his fiddling proclivities. Even as a youth, with his father's assistance, he took up collecting, with no thought of profit, and assembled a dozen violins from the French, German and Italian schools. He had a discriminating touch even then, he avows. In 1927 he went to Europe and picked up a few more in Czecho-Slovakia, France and England.

"Over there violin making is still a home craft, and you have to visit the little towns and the shops in the homes to pick up the authentic national product," he explains. "When you find specimens from good English and Italian and Bohemian makers, you are proving that you know your stuff.

"Madison, Wis., aims to be an intellectual and cultural town," he mused. So to Madison he went, took a hotel suite and advertised: "Come and see my string instruments." He staved there a couple of months, did some business, and then moved on to the University of Iowa, which has a music school outstanding in orchestra and string playing.

"Let me set up shop here," he cians."

thing like that," the dean replied. But at last he permitted Stoffel to take over a room in the music school if Stoffel agreed to make sales on the university's property

"I stayed at Iowa university off and on for a couple of years, even though there was no profit in it,' he recalls. "Students have little had a lot of fun, and placed a few ter instruments.

Paralysis

On March 14, at the direction of one man, our nation's coal produc-tion was choked off. More than 400, 000 coal miners were asked to leave their jobs for two weeks to be fol lowed by 67,000 railway employees whose jobs depended upon transport-

The cause for this paralysis to large section of our economy was any grievance about working conditions, pay, pensions, or vaca tions. It appears, however, to result from personal dislike of one man for another. In response to the President's appointment of Dr. James Boyd as director of the U.S. Bureau of Mines, John L. Lewis ordered his United Mine Workers on a two-weeks

Excessive Power?
Within his field, John L. Lewis possesses the nearest approach to dictatorial powers of anyone to appear on the American scene. He has de-fied Presidents and Congresses, crippled production in the face of economic crises, and flouted the war effort by strikes in wartime. By di-rectly controlling the output of a basic industry, he holds power to strangle our entire economy with a prolonged strike.

With this "spite" strike Lewis has encroached upon two basic fundamentals of our democratic progress: (1) The right of government to make appointments free of pressure, and (2) Freedom to work.

Warning Sign
This action presents a real danger signal to the American public. It shows what can happen when irresponsible leadership of a great body of influence—American labor—goes on a rampage. The implications are alarming. If any one individual were powerful enough to dictate govern-mental appointments with threats of strikes, a new era of demagogues would indeed be at hand. Such power would be potentially disastrous

The weapon of indiscriminate strikes is one which labor leaders alone control. Neither government nor management possesses such a power. The rank and file of labor, too, because of their organization, are subject to the orders of those leaders. Many labor leaders recognize this situation and act in a far-sighted manner. However, the sel-fish actions of any one leader casts unfavorable reflections on the whole

National Responsibility No more loyal group of American citizens exists than the miners them-selves. It is sad irony these people should suffer the brunt of the strike. According to the Associated Press, they will lose about $68 million in wages during the two week layoff. This means $68 million in food, clothing, and other essentials must be forfeited to the whims of one leader who was elected by workers to safeguard their interests. This points up sharply the need for adequate labor legislation. Without violating the rights of labor, we must draw clearly the line where those rights end and national re-sponsibility begins. The average worker has everything to gain in such legislation. Labor must be accorded complete protection from irresponsibility-found within its own leadership, or elsewhere,

Flies' Resistance to DD1

Tested by Entomologists

In many localities of California, house flies have developed such a resistance to DDT that 50 times the normal amount is required to kill 95 per cent of them. That was indicated by experiments carried out by the University of Califor-nia college of agriculture in a search for an explanation as to why DDT no longer gives satisfactory control over flies

Dr. James R. Douglas of the division of entomology and parasit-ology, compared DDT's effective ness on a strein of flies from a DDT transfel dairy near Fresno with a stroin of files which for two and a half years had been reared in the laboratory. The laboratory insects alone diad cuickly when tested, proving that the fault does not lie with the chemical, but simply that the other insects developed a resistance, as had been observed previously with other insects. Dr. Douglas is now studying the use of other chemicals for control of flies. Because of possible varia-tions in resistance of these chemicals it is not yet possible to say which of them will give best control in a particular locality.

Our First Engineer

The beaver is not only one of the most resourceful of small animals but also one of the most industrious and in many respects most useful The beaver is the world's first engineer, and as such, its industrial traits are valuable to man and beast. For their value as engineers, beavers often are carried to localities where their kind once lived but disappeared. They are captured in large basket-like traps and transported to depleted lands where beaver dams are needed. No sooner than given a new job—and they like a new undertaking — these sharptoothed workers start gnawing down trees for dam building material. When spring rains swell the streams their dams prevent the washing timber supply and aid in beautifying the landscape.

Sylvester Says:

"Excuse me! But someone iust took a quarter out of your pocket." In fact, Uncle Sam (national income and tax tables show) takes more than quarter out of your pocket every time you earn a dollar. If the government spends new billions for public housing; more billions for public medical care; additional billions for the unemployed; more billions for maintaining farm product prices; and other millions to subsidize education in public schools—then, will the hand in your pocket take 75¢ in taxes each dollar you earn?
