A very liberal reward will be paid for the return of the last mentioned item to the Journal office.—Coolseemee Journal.

Small Parts.

Rev. W. E. Isenhour, High Point, N. C. R4
As we look upon a great building, we realize that it is composed of thousands and maybe millions of pieces. Each and every piece, whether it be stone, brick, iron, steel, wool, cement, rods, screws, etc., has its place. It is true that some pieces have a more important and prominent place in the structure than others, but it takes all to make the building complete.

We might think of a great machine in like manner. Perhaps thousands of parts, are assembled, and every piece is necessary, to make the machine. It may be the automobile you drive, or the linotype that you operate that sets the type for your newspaper, or the massive press that prints the paper or the machine or machines that make the clothes we wear, and so on. For the machine to do good work each and every part should function properly. If bolts break, screws get loose, taps come off, or some other part or parts of the machine break, or give way, or get out of order, it affects the entire structure.

As a people in a community, or a church, or even a home, each and every one of us has his place. Then we might think of it on a larger scale and say the same holds true as a nation, composed of many millions of people, but each and every one, without an exception, composes, or helps to compose, the whole. This is true. Now just as the great building, or the great machine, composed of many parts, must have each piece in its place in order to function well, so it is with people.

Entirely too many think that they are such a small part of the home, the church, the community, and especially the nation, until it doesn't make any difference how much they are out of harmony with God and their fellowmen. Certainly it makes difference. Every person who is out of his proper and rightful place in life helps to affect the whole citizenship. In order to have peace and harmony, each and every individual should fill his rightful place.

Now Time To Fight

The national congress has started work on the super duper compulsory medical insurance proposal, which is just a polite way to talk about socialized medicine.

Now is the time for the American people to fight the socialistic trend in government. The people now can put a halt to this creeping philosophy that government can take care of us better than we can take care of ourselves. It is high time, and possibly past time, that the American people assert some independence and again assume personal responsibility for their own needs. The nation is growing soft with the increasing dependence on government to supply everyday needs.

It is proposed that a payroll tax be levied to pay for socialized medicine. We already have payroll tax for social security and job insurance. In addition to these fixed taxes there is the withholding tax. Already too much of payrolls are going in taxes and it is time to halt the trend which would eventually have us all working for the government, in which event we would get what we have from government, a long with orders on how to live, where to live, at what job to work, what to wear or not to wear—in fact, government would direct our every move.

One sure way to give up liberty is to give up your pay check in taxes and receive what you have to have from the government itself. There is no way more sure and positive to lose your individual liberty.—Wilkes Journal.

ANYTHING TO PLEASE

After going about three miles the motorist who had given an old lady a lift on the country road asked: "And where did you say you were going?"

"Well," she said, "to tell you the truth, I was going in the opposite direction, only I didn't like to hurt your feelings when you were so kind as to offer me a ride."

HAD ENOUGH

The girl in the bus took her powder puff from her pocket and began powdering her face. That finished, she took out her lipstick and made up the curves of her mouth. Still not content with her appearance, she devoted her attention to her eyebrows.

This beauty treatment was too much for the conductor, who had been watching her every movement, and he called out: "Any gent here like to borrow my shaving tackle?"

GRAVE THOUGHTS

A soldier, after placing some flowers on a grave in a cemetery, noticed an old Chinaman placing a bowl of rice on a near-by grave.

"What time do you expect your friend to come up and eat the rice?" asked the soldier.

The old Chinaman replied, with a smile:

"Same time your friend come up to smell flowers."

Mistake
A rookie in the cavalry was told to report to his lieutenant.

"Private Jones," said the lieutenant, "take my horse down and have him shod."

After three hours' wait, the officer hunted up Jones and found him cleaning his gun.

"Jones," he said, "where's the horse I told you to have shod?"

The private turned pale and gasped, "Oh, did you say shod?"

Flatterer
Daughter: "I met the best-looking young officer at the dance, and he told me I was the prettiest girl he had ever seen."

Mother: "Now, my dear, don't trust any man who starts to deceive you at the very first meeting."

Ought to Know
Girl (quizzing sailor home on leave)—What would you do if your gun captain's head was blown off in the midst of a battle?

Sailor—Nothing.

Girl—Why not?

Which?
The conceited young man was even more boring than usual.

"It's a fact," he said with pride, "that people often take me for a member of the Guards."

His pretty companion wasn't impressed.

"Really," she drawled. "Shin—mud—or black?"

NOT SO WONDERFUL
The fortune-teller was gazing at her client's hand.

"I see you are to be married. You are going to marry Herbert Smith," she announced.

The girl was amazed.

"Wonderful! But how can you tell that from the lines on my hand?"

"Lines, my foot!" the fortune-teller replied. "That's the ring I returned to Herbert Smith last week!"

Who Else?

A YOUNG woman went into a large London store to buy a pair of birds. She told the salesman the variety she wished, and that she desired a male and a female. The birds were finally selected and handed to her.

She then asked the salesman how she could tell the difference between the two. He instructed her to go to another store to buy a supply of male and female worms, and told her that when she fed the worms to the birds, the male bird would always eat the female worms—while the female bird would eat the male worms. She thanked him and went on her way.

When she got to the door, she turned, and came back to the salesman and said: "I must be stupid, but how am I going to tell which are the male and which are the female worms?"

And his reply was: "Madam, I am only a bird expert; you will have to see a worm expert about that."

Saving Money

A MAN, visiting a house for the first time, found that his host was the proud father of three wild children. The latter made so much noise that the visitor found it difficult to hear a word that was said.

One child was busy ripping the upholstery out of a brand-new divan. A second lad was driving nails into an expensive table, and the third was swinging gaily from a chandelier.

The bewildered guest eyed the youngster who was driving nails into the furniture. He turned to his host.

"I say," he said, pointing to the boy with the hammer, "don't you find it rather expensive to let your children play like that?"

The host smiled proudly.

"Not at all," he replied cheerfully. "I get the nails wholesale!"

CONSISTENT

He was talking of coincidences: "The most amazing thing happened to me at the races. It was the eleventh day of the eleventh month. My boy was eleven that day. We lived in a house numbered eleven, and I arrived on the course at eleven minutes past eleven. Later in the day I found out that eleven horses were to run in the big race, so I backed the eleventh horse on the card."

"And it won?"

"No. It came in eleventh."

Increased Calcium in Diet Recommended as Investment

Getting barely enough calcium in milk or other daily food to meet the body's current need is not the best planning for good nutrition.

"When calcium is increased to a more generous level, the human body is able to put the added amount to use for long-range needs. That is, the added amount of this mineral is a good investment toward sturdy, healthy bones. It aids old people no less than young adults. In women of child-bearing age, it even extends its benefits to future generations."

That is the meaning of the new recommendations for increased calcium in diets of grown men and women of all ages, arrived at by the National Research Council. In advising more calcium for adults, the council's food and nutrition board and committee on dietary allowances reviewed scientific knowledge on calcium need, and took special note of recent laboratory findings.

Putting the new calcium recommendations in terms of daily food, the easiest way to plan regularly for calcium needs is to get plenty of milk and its products in diet. Ranking next as good sources of this mineral are dried beans and peas and certain of the leafy green vegetables such as turnip greens and kale, but it is difficult to get enough calcium without milk products and especially some liquid milk.

Famed Indian Cave Temples Still Stand in Hyderabad

Hyderabad state, which yielded to the Indian Union after five days of military action, was virtually the last of 562 princely Indian states to hold out against accession by either of the year-old dominions—India and Pakistan.

In area, population, material wealth, historical and religious importance, this landlocked state that spreads almost completely across the Deccan plateau in south central India is outstanding. Glories of earlier civilizations, centered in the cave cathedrals of Ajanta and Ellora, make it one of the world's rich regions archaeologically, notes the National Geographic society.

Ruled for 37 years by its present Nizam, Hyderabad compares roughly in area and population to Pennsylvania and Ohio combined. Six-sevenths of the 17-million population is Hindu, but the Nizam and his nobles are of the Moslem one-seventh. Almost two-fifths of the land is owned by the small ruling group.

Despite this arrangement, which finds the ruler adding cash, bullion, jewels and other property to coffers that make him a billionaire, the lot of Hyderabad's masses has been improved through the Nizam's reign. Irrigation dams have advanced farming, cottage workers in textiles have benefited from special training, and new industries have sprung up.

New Farms Have Curves

Farm units fitted to the pattern of their irrigation water supply is a new style in bringing new land into production. Electric current for pumping is proving a convenient tool for tailoring a good fit of the farm and its water, Ivan D. Wood of the U. S. department of agriculture points out. Wood, who is an irrigation engineer of the Soil Conservation service, says the unlined irrigation canal is losing out because it is so wasteful of water and has other bad features, such as carrying weed seeds to clean fields. In some new irrigation developments, the boundaries between farms or between fields in a farm are no longer the straight north-and-south and east-and-west lines of the general land office survey. "Instead, the farm units are designed to irrigate to the best advantage."

Our County And Social Security

By Mrs. Ruth G. Duffy, Manager.

Most all magazines carry some kind of test. One I noticed recently asked questions about my own State—North Carolina. I can assure you I did not know the answers to all. It did make me think, however, and find the answers to those I did not know.

How much do you know about Social Security Insurance? Do you know what it means in dollars and cents to you, personally, and to your family if you should die? So today a test, which is not actually one in the truest sense for I am not only asking the questions but answering them. The questions are ones that have been asked by persons coming to the office or writing me. Maybe another time I will only state the questions and ask you to write me your answers. Would you do this? I believe you would. Here are a few of the typical questions that are asked:

Question: Can a worker start drawing benefits as soon as he reaches 65?

Answer: He can if he has worked long enough on jobs that come under Social Security and has stopped working on these kinds of jobs.

Question: An income after I stop working sounds fine, but is Social Security really paying off?

Answer: It certainly is. Every month more than 45 million dollars in Social Security checks go out to retired workers and to the widows and children of workers who have died.

Question: Where does all the money paid out in benefits come from?

Answer: From you and millions of others like you, and from your employers. One cent of every dollar you earn up to $3,000 a year goes into a trust fund that is used to pay benefits. Every cent you put in is matched by your employer.

Question: Do benefits have to be claimed?

Answer: Yes. A claim must be filed before payments begin. This is why I urge every worker to call or write to my office when he reaches 65. This is also why the family of a worker who has died should get in touch with me.

I will be in Mocksville on Wednesday, June 22, at the court house, second floor, at 12:30 p. m. I will also be in Coolseemee on the same date at the Erwin Cotton Mills office at 11 a. m.

CAN'T BLAME ANYONE FOR HIDING . . .

They're Happy—in Their Hermit Heavens!

. . . IN CLOTHES CLOSET THESE DAYS

H. I. PHILLIPS

CLOTHES CLOSET REFUGEES

The case of the young New York man who lived in a clothes closet for 10 years and, upon his release, cried, "I want to go back in there. I don't like it outside," is not as unusual as you might think.

This department has come into possession of the fact that there are numerous such cases. Elmer Twitchell, for instance, has a nephew, Pastrami Twitchell, who has not only been in a closet for 10 years, but has resisted all efforts to entice him out. "He went in during Hitler's oratorical tirades over the mike. We nearly got him out this season, but he heard Vishinsky," Elmer explained. "Then he nailed up the door from the inside."

Other cases reported today, with statements by each follows: Thaddeus Swivelhead: "Yes, I have been living in the top drawer of an old dresser for five years. I crawled in because of the depressing war news all over the world. After a little while I heard that peace had been declared. I came out, read the newspaper headlines and leaped back in again. I'm no fool."

Asa Z. Boogle who has been living on a shelf in a basement pantry ever since 1943: "I climbed onto this shelf when the prices of everything began rising, with government controls helping very little. From time to time I peeked out and found things getting more unbearable. I am a fugitive from 75-cent cocktails, beer at 47-cents a glass, $4.50 steak dinners, 23-cent gasoline, shrimp cocktails at $1.10 a throw, 90 cents for watered soup, the $1.25 raw lamb chop delivered on the butcher's block and people who call up to know what radio program I am listening to. Come out again? Why?"

H. K. G. Stuffin, who has been residing in a filing cabinet for ever so long: "If you wish to talk to me, climb in. I refuse to come out for anybody. I consider that I am a sane, wise and highly judicious fellow. You and all others who prefer the outside world in its present shape are nuts."

"The location of my home and my place of employment was such that I had to use the subways for north and south travel and buses for east and west. Once in a while when I went to a theater I had to get a taxi. I lived in an apartment where everybody kept the radio on all night. A room across the hall was occupied by an opera star who vocalized all day. Every few weeks there was an elevator strike in the building. And in order to get to my job I had to cross nine picket lines. So I got into this filing cabinet, and mister, it seems paradise."

Jarvis P. X. Waffle, who has been living in an abandoned cello case ever since 1919: "I got in right after Woodrow Wilson announced America would make the world safe for democracy. I knew what that would mean. Now and then I get a pretty good line on what life is like outside this cello case and, boy, am I happy to be where I am! No flying saucer mysteries! No video comedians! No pop music! No radio jingles! No jackpots! They can't even get me interested in "Stop The Music."

Jottings There are so many daily changes in President Truman's cabinet that it seems to us something should be done to number the players or abolish the two platoon system in government.

Watch It!

The traffic rate clerk was teaching his wife to drive. Halfway down the hill she gave a scream of horror. "George, she cried, "the car is running away. Can't you stop it?"

"No," replied the rate clerk, "I can't reach the controls. Use your brakes. Use your brakes." "I can't," they must have failed," wailed his wife. "All right," he said sitting back, "brace yourself and try to hit something cheap."

TECHNICAL ERROR

A cowboy was enthusing about his horse.

"I got the smartest horse you ever saw," he said. "One day while riding I fell off and broke my leg."

"Wait a minute," interrupted another cowboy. "You're not going to tell me he picked you up and put you back in the saddle?" "No, but he dragged me to my bunk, then galloped five miles to get me a doctor. There was only one slip in it. He came back with a horse doctor!"

AN EYE ON DAD

Have you heard about the two cats who sat watching a tennis tournament? One of them seemed quite intent on the match, following the ball back and forth without missing a stroke. The other cat appeared quite bored and also a bit irritated at his companion's interest. "I didn't know you cared so much for tennis," he finally purred. "I don't," the other purred, "but my old man's in the racket."

High-Flier

Young husband wired home from his new job: "Made foreman. Feather in my cap." Few weeks later he wired: "Made manager. Another feather in my cap."

After some weeks of silence he wired: "Fired. Send money for train fare home."

His wife unfeelingly wired back: "Use feathers and fly home."

For Value Received

An Amazonian wife got into an argument with her little weasel husband, beat the daylight out of him, was hailed into court and fined ten dollars. Instead of handing the clerk ten dollars, she handed him twelve.

"What's this extra two dollars for?" he asked. "Amusement tax."

No Healthy Ham?

A young bride went into a butcher shop.

"Now here's a very fine ham that's been home cured," said the butcher.

"Home cured?" asked the bride. "My goodness, haven't you got one that hasn't been ill at all?"

At Long Last

"Bridget," said Mrs. Smith-Brown to her old servant on the day of the big reception, "I want you to stand at the drawing room door and call the guests' names as they arrive." Bridget's face lighted up. "With pleasure, ma'am," she said. "I've been waiting to do that to some of your friends for years."

Nobody Barred

The family had overslept, and Mrs. Smith woke with a start to the clanking of cans down the street. She remembered that the garbage had not been put out, and raced down to the front door struggling into a robe, with her hair in curlers and looking rather sleepy-eyed.

"Yoo hoo," she called, "am I too late for the garbage?" "No," shouted the collector. "Jump right in."

CHEAPER THAT WAY

A magician was raving about himself to a producer.

"I do a great act, Mr. Geckle. Out of thin air, I pick two hundred and fifty lighted cigars, I puff on them. Then swallow them."

"You mean to tell me you swallow two hundred and fifty lighted cigars? How do you do it?" "It's easy," said the magician. "I buy them wholesale."

The New House

HERE Christ shall come, and here He shall abide. Our table shall be set for our great Guest; Our lamp be lit, our hearth be warm and wide; And here He shall find shelter, food, and rest.

And He will talk with us beside our fire, And He will walk with us through every task. We can confide each hope and each desire, No question be too great or small to ask.

Because He lives with us, is one of us, We shall take care no evil thing be heard; Because His ways are kind and courteous, We shall watch our ways, our every spoken word.

This is our new house, Lord, be Thou its Head; We gladly share its simple fare with Thee. Sit at our table, break and bless our bread, And make us worthy of Thy company.

The Fiction Corner MURDER BY TWO By Richard H. Wilkinson

IT SEEMS to be universally presupposed," said Inspector Ben Odell, "that people who aren't in their own element are at a disadvantage."

"I'm thinking of the time Detective Sergeant Rod Upshur went up to Round Pond for his summer vacation. Rod was city bred and city raised. He worked on the police force of one of the country's largest cities. He didn't know a great deal about the country and country ways. But he knew human nature, and he was smart.

"Rod was staying at one of those summer camps and was having a pretty dull time, when Henry Graves, the owner, came to him with a request.

"There's been a drowning up the river a ways," he explained. "Jed Thomas, the local officer, isn't so sure but what there's foul play. I know it's out of your jurisdiction, but we'd appreciate having you lend us a hand." He smiled flatteringly. "You see, your fame as a detector of crime is far reaching."

"Jed Thomas, a farmer by trade, was congenial and willing to let Rod assume the entire burden.

"Fact is, Mr. Upshur, there's been a feud hereabouts. Between the Hallams and the Spencers.

"Well, sir, couple days back Herm and Punk Hallam come to me an' says they was bait diggin' in their lower pasture and suddenly they sees a boat with Pat Spencer in it come sweepin' around the bend. He was clear across the river, which is about 200 yards wide there, an' they claim he hit a submerged log and stuck. They claim he tried to push himself off with an oar an' the oar slipped an' it an' him fell overboard. Well, sir, Pat can't swim an' he just naturally drowned.

"Jed Thomas drove Rod out to the Hallam farm and introduced him to Herm and Punk. They were big strapping fellows, sma' g, amused.

"I see," Rod remarked to Jed. "that you recovered the oar Pat Spencer lost overboard."

"Yep," replied Jed, and not too happily. "I found it caught in some weeds along the bank about 15 yards downstream. I guess he musta lost it, just like Punk and Herm said."

"Punk and Herm laughed. "Wait a minute," Rod said easily. "Not so fast, boys. You two are smart all right. Too smart. So smart you made one awful blunder. Officer Thomas, I think you'll be safe in arresting these men and charging them with murder."

PAT'S AND HERM'S mouths fell open. In fact, so did Jed's. Jed said: "Yuh mean, you know Pat didn't drown hisself?"

"O' course he did! Punk Hallam said darkly. "Listen, city jigger, you ain't comin' up here an' gettin' away with accusin' us o' murder. You ain't scarin' us none. We got each other for witnesses."

"Fine," said Rod. "That makes the lie all the worse, because you both declare you saw Spencer fall out of the boat, first dropping his oar. No, I must confess I am a city man and the ways of the country are strange to me. However, any dumbbell would know after looking at that river and seeing that bend above here and knowing that there's a fast current, that an oar dropped overboard near the opposite bank, could never lodge in underneath along the bank on this side 15 feet from where we're standing. It would be two or three miles down stream by now."

"For a minute, there was silence. The three men stared at Rod blankly. It took quite awhile for the announcement to penetrate. Officer Thomas fortunately, recovered first. He had a gun in his pocket and he got it out, just as Punk Hallam jumped at him. He had to shoot Punk through the shoulder, and would have done the same to Herm, apparently, had one more ounce of grey matter than his brother. He quit."

Next Saturday, June 4th, is election day in North Carolina. On that day the people will vote for or against a $200,000,000 bond issue for good roads and a $25,000,000 bond issue for more and better schools. It is the duty of every qualified voter—both men and women, to go to the polls on that day and vote for what they believe will be to the best interest of the majority of the citizens of the State. Don't neglect this matter. You can't afford to stay at home on this day. Go out and vote, and get your neighbors to go along.

Enlarge Church

Members of Society Baptist Church, located 10 miles out on the Statesville Highway have built a large addition to the church. This new building is two stories and contains eight nice classrooms, four ceiled and four plastered, with electric lights and furnishings. This church is one of the oldest Baptist churches in this section, having been organized in the early part of the eighteenth century. The new addition presents an attractive appearance, and the members of the church are to be congratulated for the forward step they have taken in this good work.

Tobacco Plant Situation

There is a shortage of tobacco plants in Davie County. Only a small percentage of the crop has been set so far. We are advised each week by the Tobacco Specialists in Raleigh which counties in the State have surplus plants. At the present time I know of none being available this side of Raleigh. All tobacco growers wishing to get plants from other counties are advised to contact the county agent's office immediately. Then we will get in touch with other counties where there are surplus plants and help make arrangements whereby farmers can get them.

 County Agent.

John W. Felker

John Wesley Felker, 82, died in a Concord hospital last Wednesday night. He had been in bad health for some time. Mr. Felker was born in Davie County and spent most of his life in the Kappa section. The body was brought to St. Matthews Lutheran Church Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock, where funeral and burial took place. He had been a member of this church since early childhood. Beware, Chicken Thieves

Mrs. J. B. Wilson, of near Jericho, was in town a few days ago. Mrs. Wilson is mad, and we don't blame her: A few nights ago, for the second time recently, chicken thieves visited her poultry yard and carried away 10 fine frying-sized roosters. Mrs. Wilson has greased her old bear trap and set it, and she warns said thieves that she will not be responsible for any injured or broken bones that may result. Thieves, beware.

Gas Pipe Line Through Davie

A 30-inch natural gas pipe line slated for completion in 1951 will run through Davie and 10 other Piedmont Carolina counties, but will not supply consumers in the Carolinas. The 1,840-mile pipe line will be built by the Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line corporation. It will serve only the metropolitan New York area. Originating in Hidalgo county, Texas, the pipe line will run thru Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, South Carolina, North Carolina, Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania, and New Jersey, terminating in New York. The line will have a daily capacity of 340 million cubic feet and will be completed "on or before April 1, 1951," the deed of trust said.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Russian Motives Puzzle Diplomats
As Berlin Blockade Comes to End;
U. S. Spending Widely Criticized

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

BLOCKADE LIFT PREPARATIONS . . . Preparations to get things ready for the Russian lift of the Berlin blockade went busily ahead as agreements between the occupation powers fixed the time. Photos above show workers getting trains ready to operate under regulations fixed by the Soviets—rules which will permit 16 freight trains to operate daily into the city. Efficacy of the U.S. airlift in supplying Berlin with needed supplies despite the blockade was given major credit for the Reds' decision to end the road block.

BERLIN:

Up The Barriers

What had really impelled the Russians to lift the Berlin blockade and how would the action affect world peace?

Those were two top questions actuating western power diplomats as a semblance of peace was restored to the troubled Berlin sector of Germany and the U.S. airlift eased off.

MANY OBSERVERS professed to see in the Russian action proof that the U.S. airlift operations had shown the Soviets so decisively the futility of maintaining the blockade, that even the obtuse easterners finally had seen the light.

There were others who insisted the blockade lift decision was motivated by a hope within the Kremlin that such an action would delay formation of a German people's government. However, this did not seem a tenable theory, inasmuch as the western powers already had declared plans to go ahead with such a project.

Seekers of peace attempted to see in the decision evidence that Russia really did not mean to make war now and that some as-yet-obscure motive looking toward continuation of Red expansion without recourse to arms was really behind the move.

SINCE MOSCOW'S original announcement concerning the end to the blockade, the order was broadened. Restoration of "transport, trade and communications" services was directed.

The order permitted 16 freight trains a day to move into Berlin, restored highway traffic, waived previous Soviet claims to search Allied baggage, and demanded Soviet travel permits at certain check points. Mail service was also to be restored. Actually, the Soviet order restored the Berlin situation to what it was on March 1, 1948.

Both British and Americans moved in reinforcements for the small units at border points to check papers of travelers and hotels and rooming houses had filled with persons waiting for the barriers to be raised.

PARROT:

Pretty Smart

HE LIVES in the Stamp & Coin Shop on Times Square in New York.

A customer tried to enter the store, but found the door locked. However, as he turned away he heard Lorchen's insistent screams: "Let me out! Goodbye, goodbye."

Intrigued, the customer listened closer, heard muffled moans from inside the shop.

He SUMMONED a building superintendent who opened the door and found Gustave Moerz, 50, the parrot's owner and shop proprietor, bound in a chair by tape and wire. His mouth was taped.

Moerz told police two men broke into the shop, tied him and took $844 from a safe and $100 from his pockets.

Nuclear Scientist Gives Definition of His Kind

In Baltimore, nuclear scientist Robert D. Fowler, of Johns Hopkins University, gave this definition of a nuclear scientist at a symposium:

A man standing in a field in absolute darkness with thousands of baseballs on the ground around him. Somewhere in the field, invisible to him, is a barn with but one window and some kind of animal inside.

The man picks up a ball and throws it in any direction. If, by some chance, it goes through the barn window and hits the animal, then bounces out again so that the man can catch it in the darkness—he attempts to identify the animal by smelling the ball.

That is something like a nuclear scientist practicing nuclear science.

SPENDING:

Slash Urged

Suggestions that U.S. spending might be curtailed somewhat were coming from several quarters. Latest source was President Truman's economic advisers who held the idea that some existing tax burdens might be lightened and that the administration might scale down its call for four billion dollars in new levies.

THE COUNCIL of economic advisers, whose function is to counsel with the President on fiscal matters as they affect finance and economics, was reported to feel that current business trends justify an early check on federal spending—that is, if the budget is to be brought anywhere near to a balance.

It was the council's opinion that such levies as taxes on the transportation of goods add to the business costs and consumer prices and impede an orderly withdrawal from the postwar business boom.

The council was more than cool to any extended public works program—indicating its opinion by refraining from making any such recommendations in its report. The advisers have consistently urged that local governments prepare "shelves" of public-works blueprints for use when needed to bolster employment and public purchasing power.

BUT THE PRESENT trend of the national economy—which council chairman Edwin G. Nourse called a "healthy disinflation"—does not warrant large-scale works spending now, the council said. Such outlays would make it harder to reach the goal of lower government costs.

After a White House visit, Nourse informed newsmen that the council expects "some further easing of living costs." Prices, he said, are continuing downward, but "not on a demoralizing basis and there is no need to dig into the storm cellars."

ROAD SAFETY:

For Boys & Girls

In the year 1947—figures for last year are not yet available—National Safety Council figures showed that 7,150 persons between the ages of 15 and 24 were killed in automobile accidents on American highways. In addition 330,000 boys and girls within that age group were injured in highway accidents.

ACCIDENT REPORTS from 29 states last year disclosed that 27 per cent of all drivers involved in accidents — or nearly one out of three — were under 25 years of age.

That was an appalling toll of the nation's youths and something, it appeared, should be done about it. Now, something was being done about it. The Inter-Industry highway safety committee had come up with a program designed to enlist the aid of youth itself in cutting down highway accidents and fatalities among the nation's youth.

The program is one of education which would tend to encourage greater responsibility on the part of younger drivers when using the family car. Program material now is being distributed to national organizations which agree to help sponsor the movement. The program is centered around drivers 15 to 25 years of age.

CHIEF INTEREST-and-cooperation-getter in the program are "man-to-man" and "Dad-to-Daughter" agreement cards. The agreements are for the signature of eligible sons and daughters with their fathers, and outline eight good driving practices which the young drivers agree to observe while using the family car.

All state and local public support organizations were urged to take advantage of this opportunity to help reduce highway traffic accidents involving youngsters.

Those interested were directed to write: Inter-Industry highway safety committee, 1026 17th street, N. W., Washington 6, D. C.

WHEAT YIELD:

Near-Record Crop

With wheat surplus already training grower and governmental ingenuity in housing it, word was that the United States may approach a new crop record during the new season. Farmers, already off to a good start, were not surprised at a U.S. department of agriculture estimate of more than a billion, 21 million bushels from the winter-wheat crop. That estimate was nearly two million several weeks ago.

No official forecast was given on spring wheat, but the department said prospects point to around 300 million bushels for that type of wheat.

OFFICIALS indicated the tremendous wheat yield will create further surplus and might lead to government controls designed to cut the acreage in 1950 between 15 and 25 per cent. Controls would include planting restrictions and possibly marketing quotas for individual farmers.

No forecasts were given on other crops except rye, hay and southern peaches. But the department said reports from various parts of the country indicated progress of 1949 crops is encouraging. Rye production was estimated at 22 million bushels, second smallest acreage in 75 years. The hay crop was put at 101 million tons, a more than average yield. The peach crop in 10 southeastern states was forecast at approximately 15 million bushels, about the same as last year.

President Harry S. Truman is shown lighting the candles on a pre-birthday cake presented to him by the White House staff. Bundles in front of him represent only a portion of the birthday greetings he received. Having observed his 65th natal anniversary, the President was described as being in excellent physical condition—a veritable "iron man."

Bad Moods Will Hurt Digestion

By Lawrence Gould

Do your moods affect your digestion?

Answer: Yes, writes Dr. R. Bilz in a German medical journal. "A mood always occurs simultaneously on the physical and psychological level." Even the expression on your face may be "mimicked internally" by what a doctor discovers with a stomach-pump and X-rays, so that when your mood is tense and anxious, your "sensors" reveal the facts as clearly as your eyes do. If you want to have a good digestion, you'd better at least avoid the far too common practice of airing your grievances and worries at the dinner table.

Is having been "tight" an excuse for rudeness?

Answer: Only in the degree that the person you are asking to excuse your bad behavior will accept the fact that you have rude impulses which you are able to control when you are sober. For what you said or did was not "foreign to your nature"—it was an expression of a part of yourself which you did not wish to reveal or acknowledge under ordinary circumstances. Indeed, it was probably a wish to give this side of yourself an airing that unconsciously induced you to anesthetize your inhibitions by drinking unwisely.

Is recklessness based on fear?

Answer: Yes. Most frequently the urge to "flirt with danger" represents an effort to avoid the shame of being thought a coward, and still more of being forced to recognize how frightened you'd be if you "stopped to think about it." But again, you may be bolstering

KEEPING HEALTHY
The Liver, Most Vital to Health

By Dr. James W. Barton

BECAUSE the liver has so many different jobs to do and the liver means so much to our general health, we should all try to remember that it is the largest organ in the body and contains about 25 per cent of all the blood.

One of the jobs of the liver is manufacturing bile which breaks up fats for digestion. It is an anti-septic destroying harmful organisms and a natural purgative preventing constipation. It is, therefore, a true saying that "life depends upon the liver."

Another important job is the manufacture by the liver of a substance needed by the blood. Aside from the bile killing harmful organisms, the liver cells themselves filter out poisons from the blood, which, if not removed, would cause tiredness and weakness. In order to find whether or not the liver is doing this important job of filtering wastes and poisons from the blood, various tests are made, one of which is giving a dye by mouth or injections and seeing how long it takes the liver to remove all the dye from the blood.

Recently research workers, investigating two common ailments—gallstones and ulcer of the stomach and the first part of the small intestine (peptic ulcer)—took a tiny piece of the liver from these patients for examination under the microscope and found that in only 8 to 7 per cent was the liver in a normal, healthy condition.

As the liver is really the "chief" or most important organ in the body from the health standpoint, we should all try to keep it active and healthy by two simple methods: First, cutting down on fat and rich foods; and, second, keeping the liver in an "active" condition by bending exercises, keeping the knees straight.

At McGill university, Montreal, some years ago, research workers showed that squeezing the liver by bending exercises or deep breathing caused the liver to do its various jobs completely and in less time.

HEALTH NOTES

The economic cost of heart disease is staggering in terms of loss of life, absenteeism, disability, loss of gainful employment, and care and treatment programs.

It has been found that insulin—which reduces the sugar in the blood, brings on sleep and increases the appetite—is more effective in restoring the alcoholic patient to normal than any other method.

AILING HOUSE

Building A Basement Room

Question: We have a project in mind and I am able to do the work myself if I have a little help. We want to dig out a basement under the kitchen; we have two rooms under the house already. Have you any leaflets on tiling out the drain, and footings for concrete blocks? After the basement room is completed, we plan on a kitchen sink and cupboards. Have you any leaflets on plumbing for a kitchen?

Answer: Those are all rather large subjects, and I do not have any leaflets to cover them. If there is a good public library in your town, you should find handbooks on plumbing and piping on file. Other sources of information are the publishing house of Theodore Audel & Company, 49 West 23rd St., New York; also the Popular Mechanics Magazine, 200 East Ontario St., Chicago. The Portland Cement Association, 53 West Grand Ave., Chicago, can supply bulletins on concrete work around the house.

New Gasoline Process

The nation's transportation industries, worried by the current gasoline shortage, have been assured of an abundant supply of liquid fuel at reasonable cost when sufficient plants are placed in operation to use a new synthetic process from natural gas. However, this source of supply is not expected to be widely used for several years.

"Ersatz" Food

THE AMERICAN housewife doesn't know it, but more and more of the food she buys for her family contains the same basic "ersatz" ingredients which I. G. Farben, the notorious Nazi cartel, developed for German troops and civilians in the last war. The German people lived on "ersatz" during most of the war.

The extent of this Farben-izing of American food, unbeknownst to the consumer, has been partially investigated by the food and drug administration, which has been holding hearings on the use of synthetic substitutes.

However, the whole story hasn't been told the public, chiefly because of official buck-passing. Food and drug officials writing their hands and say they have no authority under the law for a full-fledged investigation. They admit, however, that more and more chemical substitutes are being used in various foods and that they do not know what the final result will be on the health of the nation.

Meanwhile Republican Rep. Frank Keefe of Wisconsin, who has been quizzing the food and drug administration, has made some startling disclosures. He charged:

- 1—That bread can and is being chemicalized to a point where it has little if any nutritional value;
- 2—That non-nutritional chemicals, "mostly the result of the work of I. G. Farben chemists," are being palmed off on the unsuspecting public, in place of milk, fats and eggs in such foods as cake, doughnuts, cereal mixes, peanut butter, ice cream, candy, salad dressing, milk drinks, synthetic whipping cream, nuckles and food flavors;
- 3—Manufacturers and pharmaceutical houses that produce synthetic foodstuffs have not made adequate research to determine if the substitutes are poisonous. While there is no proof of toxicity in most of the substitutes, Keefe points out that seven persons died after using a substitute salt prepared for people who cannot use organic salt in their diet.

Taste Comes First

The synthetic ingredient which many bakers now use in bread is a compound of polyoxyethylene glycol and stearic acid, known as polyoxyethylene mono-o-stearate. Stearic acid is derived from animal fats, but polyoxyethylene glycol, a substance similar to purified anti-freeze for automobiles, has no nutritional value.

The American compound is produced chiefly by the Atlas powder company of Wilmington, Del., and Glyco products company of Brooklyn and is distributed in slightly different forms under the trade names "Sta-soft" and "Myrj-45." Both keep bread soft for a long period, so that a housewife who feels a loaf of bread in a grocery store thinks she is getting oven-fresh bread.

In fact, this deceptive quality—plus a pleasing taste the chemical gives the bread—is the chief selling point of its distributors. Vernon C. Usher, Inc., of Chicago, which makes a somewhat similar synthetic compound called "Top-scor," frankly states, in his literature:

"In speaking of higher quality, we mean products that not only look good, but are appealing to the sense of taste as well... bakery goods that are not overburdened with fats and other richness to the point where substantially less is eaten.

"We believe that every person—man, woman or child—eats and drinks only that which appeals to the sense of taste, with little or no thought of nutritional value; so, we emphasize again, that higher quality bakery goods, in our opinion, are attained by balancing formulas to a point where they are not overburdened with rich substances which, in the end, tend to discourage and decrease consumption."

Federal Warning

One government agency that is carefully watching on this nutritional question is the department of agriculture. The department forces not only higher support prices for surplus dairy products, costing the taxpayers millions, but a serious economic threat to dairy farming if chemicals come into wide vogue.

In a confidential report prepared for agriculture secretary Charles Brannan, Ralph Trigg, chief of the production and marketing division, points out:

"It is our opinion that the department should object to the approval of chemical softeners as acceptable ingredients in baking formulas, because of the effect on the health of the nation, since evidence indicates that the substitution of chemical softeners for fats, eggs and milk considerably reduce the food value of the product."

Farm Buying Power Still Shows Gains

Increase Well Above Cost of Living Rate

The current drop in living costs has given the average city wage-earner approximately the same buying power today that he enjoyed in June, 1946, final month of OPA.

Though the farmer's buying power has edged off with the drop in food prices it is bumping against government price supports, and still shows a gain that is well over double the increase in the cost of living, according to a chart study of our ten-year-old war boom, made by the family economics bureau of Northwestern National Life Insurance company.

Ten years ago last winter you could buy a new four-door sedan for $825, sirloin steak was 39 cents a pound, milk averaged 12½ cents a quart, and you could build a five-room modern house for around $3,000—but we had 10 million unemployed. Then European rearmament orders sparked our recovery

The above chart plots the course of the 10-year war boom. In January, 1939, America had 10 million unemployed and 44 million eggs in such foods as cake, doughnuts, cereal mixes, peanut butter, ice cream, candy, salad dressing, milk drinks, synthetic whipping cream, nuckles and food flavors;

After an even 10 years of recovery, boom, inflation, and tapering off, the score stands as follows: Net annual income per farm 300 per cent higher—it was $702 in 1939, reached $2,915 in 1948, and had sagged to an annual rate of $2,800 by January, 1949. Weekly industrial wages up 130 per cent—from $24 in January of '39 to approximately $55 in January of '49. Living costs 71 per cent higher than 10 years ago, after nearly a four-point drop in the last few months.

Wage rates show a gain of 26 and a half per cent since June, 1946, while the cost of living index now stands just 28 per cent higher than in that final month of OPA. The actual living cost increase has been somewhat less than 28 per cent, the study says, since the government index naturally makes no allowance for over-ceiling prices which were general in the latter months of OPA; thus the wage-earner's paycheck of today buys him as much or slightly more than his paycheck of June, 1946, the study finds.

Percentage increases in worker paychecks do not reflect sharp additional gains made in so-called "fringe" payments during the past decade, such as more vacations, holidays, sick-leave, pension programs, etc., the study points out.

Poultry House Cleaner

A superior poultry house cleaning method has now been found—cleaning with a high-pressure sprayer. As shown here, the high-pressure spray actually pulverizes the dirt and droppings and blasts them away. Food Machinery and Chemical Corporation developed the sprayer that is doing the cleaning. It is said to do a better and cheaper cleaning job, faster and easier.

Hormones May Limit Frost Damage in Time

American apple growers, usually hard hit financially by late spring frosts will soon be able to avoid that obstacle. A combination of tracers (radioactive atoms) and hormones may make it possible to keep apple buds closed until the cold season has passed—thus saving the industry millions of dollars lost annually through damaged fruit. A spray would be used to cover fruit and prevent freezes.

Strawberries Delight at Meal Time! (See Recipes Below)

Strawberry Parade

BRIGHT red, luscious strawberries are with us again in wonderful quantities! They're here to brighten menu plans as well as to delight the palate in numerous ways.

Versatile, too, strawberries add color and flavor to fruit cups, make glamorous salads, and even more tempting desserts. The season is short, so make the most of it with these super-special recipes.

The first on the recipe parade is an airy-fairy chiffon pie that uses strawberries in the pie mixture as well as in the garnish. It's the perfect dessert to a heavy meal, and may be made well in advance of dinner or luncheon.

Strawberry Chiffon Pie (Makes 1 9-inch pie)
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
¼ cup cold water
½ cup hot water
1 cup sugar
1 cup fresh strawberry pulp and juice
¼ teaspoon salt
2 egg whites
1 cup cream, whipped
1 baked 9-inch pie shell

Soften gelatin in cold water and dissolve in hot water. Add ¼ cup sugar, strawberry pulp and juice, and salt. Cool until mixture begins to thicken and then fold in whipped cream and the stiffly beaten egg whites to which the remaining ¼ cup of sugar has been added. Pour into a baked pie shell and chill until firm. Garnish with whipped cream and strawberries.

ANOTHER of the season's choicest fruits is combined with strawberries to make a delectable pie. Rhubarb and strawberries are a happily wedded combination both from flavor and color standpoint.

Strawberry-Rhubarb Pie (Makes 1 9-inch pie)
¼ cups sugar
¼ cup flour
1 cup fresh strawberries
2 cups rhubarb
1 recipe pastry
2 tablespoons butter

Sift sugar and flour together and combine ¾ of it with the fruit. Line pie pan with pastry, then sprinkle the remaining flour-sugar mixture over the bottom and add the filling. Dot with butter and arrange pastry strips over the top in a lattice design. Bake in a hot (425°) oven for 10 minutes. Reduce heat to moderate (350°) and bake for 30 minutes longer or until fruit is tender.

Here's a different type of strawberry pie, with sweetened condensed milk and cream cheese:

Strawberry Cheese Pie (Makes 1 9-inch pie)
1 1/3 cups sweetened, condensed milk
¼ cup lemon juice
2 egg yolks, beaten
3 ounces cream cheese
1 cup sliced strawberries
1 baked 9-inch pie shell

2 egg whites, beaten stiff
¼ cup sugar
Blend together milk and lemon juice. Add egg yolks, cheese and strawberries. Pour into pastry shell. Beat egg whites and slowly add the ¼ cup sugar, beating constantly. Pipe over the pie. Bake in a slow (325°) oven for 15 minutes. Chill pie before serving.

To make a crust for a single pie crust shell (9-inch), as called for in the above recipes, use one cup sifted flour with ¼ teaspoon salt. Crumble in 1/3 cup of lard or shortening, and use pastry blender until mixture resembles coarse meal. Add two to three tablespoons ice water, just enough to hold mixture together. Roll lightly and spread into pastry tin. Bake in a hot (450°) oven for 15 to 18 minutes.

Strawberry Cream Tarts (Makes 6 tarts)
6 baked tart shells
¼ cup milk
¼ cup sugar
1 tablespoon flour
1 egg, well beaten
¼ teaspoon vanilla
¼ cup cream, whipped
1 1/2 cups strawberries
½ cup currant jelly

Scald the milk, then mix in sugar, flour and beaten egg. Stir constantly, then cook over hot water until thick. Add vanilla; cool. Fold in whipped cream. Fill tart shells half full of this mixture. Arrange a layer of strawberries on top. Heat the currant jelly, until it melts, then spoon one tablespoon of it on top of the strawberries. Let jelly settle.

THERE'S NOTHING like short-cake, many strawberry fans, will say, so here's the recipe for an excellent one:

Strawberry Shortcake (Serves 6)
2 cups sifted flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar
1/3 cup butter
1 egg, beaten

Sift together dry ingredients. Work in butter with a fork. Add milk, mixed with egg and blend together with flour mixture to make a soft dough. Turn out on floured board and divide dough into two parts. Pat each part, roll out and shape into a buttered round tin. Or, cut with biscuit cutter to make individual cakes. Bake 12 minutes in a hot (450°) oven. To serve, split while hot, butter and spread one quart of cleaned and sweetened strawberries. Top with whipped cream or serve plain or with thick cream from a pitcher.

Here's a frozen strawberry dessert which makes a good dessert for warm evenings:

Slices of cake which have become a little stale may also be topped with sweetened berries for a simple, economical dessert.

A bowl or a basket of assorted fruits and berries makes a beautiful dessert for a porch supper or be it family or party.

Pieces of fresh pineapple, combined with fresh whole berries and sliced bananas form the basis of a nice dessert fruit cup.

Fresh currants, sugared and chilled make a nice dessert duo with fresh red raspberries.

Behold The Man!

Lesson for June 5, 1949

LAST JANUARY a man in Holland wrote to the high court of the new nation of Israel, petitioning for a review, now nearly 2,000 years afterwards, of the trial of Jesus by the court at Jerusalem in the year 30 A. D. That court may never review the case, and perhaps has no legal right to do so. But history has reviewed it, and reversed it. Jesus Dr. Foreman was tried by at least four tribunals on the early morning of the first Good Friday. But the verdict of history is that the courts were guilty, one and all, while the prisoner was innocent.

"Wonderful," says the nice old lady, "but what do you do if it's raining and you can't measure the shadow?"
"Oh," shrugged the inmate, "in that case, I have to look at my watch."

Sentence first, Verdict afterwards
BESIDES the informal hearing before the ex-high priest Annas, there was the formal trial before the High Priest Caiaphas. He presided over the Sanhedrin, the supreme court of the Jews at that time. It was a learned tribunal, venerated all over the Jewish world. As the lawyers might say, its writ ran everywhere; its decisions were regarded as precedent in Alexandria, Babylon, Spain. You might have expected it to be dignified, honorable. But not on that night, with that victim.

You might as well expect a pack of wolves, starved in mid-winter, to be dignified and honorable with a sheep in their circle. These men, and their intimate friends, had been described by the Prisoner, not long before, in words that stuck in their brains like arrowheads. "Whited sepulchres... full of all uncleanness... ye say, and do not... yet devour widows' houses... blind guides... offspring of vipers..."

If there had been any hope that he might change, Jesus would not have used such words. So they did, made up their minds: He must die. Now was their hour, while the city slept. Leader of the pack was this Caiaphas. As the farce of a trial went on and the high priest by grace of Rome faced Jesus, High Priest by the grace of God, what did he see in Jesus' eyes?

That Fox

IF CAIPHAS was a wolf, Herod was a fox. It was Jesus' nickname for him. On that April morning this fox had the surprise of his lifetime. Before he could collect his wits, he was facing the very man whom his private police force had been vainly trying to arrest—Jesus of Nazareth. Two kings faced each other in Herod's hall that morning. The one wearing a robe and crown, seated on some kind of throne, was one of the most un-kingly men who ever bore the royal title. The other, in plainest citizens' clothes, and no crown, no throne to be seen, was the one real king who has lived among men.

"Suffered Under Pontius Pilate"

PONTIUS PILATE, procurator of Judea, deputy plenipotentiary of his Imperial Majesty, sat on his judgment seat and looked at Jesus. Six times he had looked at him; six times he had made certain that this young prisoner was an innocent man, and six times he had said so, even in the face of the mob. The noises in the street confused him. He could not hear, down through the centuries, the voices of millions of men, women and children, rising up week after week and repeating the words, almost like a curse: "... and in Jesus Christ, His only Son, our Lord, who... suffered under Pontius Pilate." The voices in the street drowned the voices of the centuries.

But if, as Pontius Pilate turned Jesus over to the will of those who hated him, he had dared to look into Jesus' eyes, and what would he have seen?

To this very day, and to the end of time, in all places and among all men, this Christ whom the world holds in chains is yet the Judge of every man. Men may say of Jesus what they wish, and he will be silent still. But in his eyes in the verdict. A man is judged by his own judgement of Jesus Christ. And you, too. Facing you, he looks straight through you. What do you see in Jesus' eyes?

Why Name Calling?

The calling of names is a propaganda technique based on delusion and trickery. It has been common in politics for a long time, and has done its part to give politics a bad reputation among the people in general.

Americans are accustomed to a certain amount of this in election campaigns. But surely we have not come to the place where we expect it in the halls of Congress. In legislative sessions, when serious national problems are being discussed, it is a bit disturbing to hear so much name-calling. Any American has the right to disagree with another and to speak out his mind. But it is not necessary always to discredit those who disagree with us.

Freedom Is Fragile
The worst thing that has happened in America in the last twenty years has been the tendency to divide our people into class groups. Our country has long been known as the "melting pot," where immigrant lads and backwoods boys can become bankers and industrialists. High born or low born, rich or poor, in America it never really has mattered. The important thing in America is that a man may plan and live out his own dream.

Some folks apparently have forgotten that these freedoms of ours are fragile and perishable. Unless we attend to the keeping of each of them, it is possible to lose them all. The building of class consciousness is one of the very worst things we can do to our American life. It could be the entering wedge of all kinds of "isms," any one of which in time might well put us in chains.

Unwholesome Effect
The term "big business" is used as name-calling by unthinking persons and by those who have isms up their sleeves. Name-calling of business, big or little or any size, can have nothing but an unwholesome effect upon the American scene. A U. S. Senator was quoted in the press recently as saying: "It appears that big business would rather risk a continued inflation of prices than balance the budget through increased taxes."

You see, all the people of the nation are paying about a third of their total income in taxes. Must anyone who believes that taxes should not be raised be placed on the receiving end of a name calling campaign? One Senator on the Senate Labor Committee keeps branding as "fascist" certain of those who oppose increased taxation.

Public Opinion
Does this mean the Senators cannot make out a reasonable case for increased taxes? Does it mean that they can defend the case for higher taxes only by hanging ugly tags on those who oppose tax increases?

If we must try to turn labor against management—if we must turn the public in general against employers who are providing millions of jobs at the highest wages ever earned—then I am afraid I have reached a level that signals the end of our American way and our high standard of living.

Brake Accidents Lead

An ICC analysis of mechanical defect accidents of motor carriers during 1947 revealed that as in previous years brake defects were responsible for more accidents than any other type. Tire failures are second in number and result in the most property damage. It showed also that mechanical defect accidents are continually increasing in number but are decreasing as a percentage of all motor carrier accidents.

Everyone will have a part in the U. S. Savings Bonds great "Opportunity Drive" May 16-June 30. The armed forces are responding to the call for volunteer assistance by offering to fly a number of covered wagons to Independence, Mo., for a big ceremony marking opening of the drive. They will then transport the wagons to various States. The covered wagons typify the difference between the terrible hardships the original 49'ers went through in their search for riches and security and how easy it is for the modern 49'er to build for a secure future. Today you are given the opportunity to invest in U. S. Savings Bonds—the easy way to pile up riches. In ten short years you will receive $100 for every $75 invested.

Sylvester Says:

"100 years is a long time to wait for a house, but by building 500,000 public housing units per year it would take the government 100 years to place every "low-income" American family in government public housing."
The average earnings of families now living in public "subsidized" housing is $2,200. There are approximately 20 million American families with incomes no higher than that.
On the basis of $2,200 a year income, more than half the families in the U. S. qualify for a home in a government housing unit.
But most American families haven't learned how helpless they are, for, according to U. S. Census figures, over one-half of our families with incomes below $1,000 per year already own their own homes.

Diesel Replaces 'Iron Horse'

Approximately one-fifth of the total weight of a modern diesel electric locomotive consists of copper and copper-base alloys. This figure is many times the amount of copper and its alloys contained in a "iron horse" that has served the nation's railroads faithfully for over a century, ever since the Tom Thumb, built by Peter Cooper in 1825, was given a trial run in September of that year. Finally the "iron horse" is being turned out to green pastures as most of the major railroads of the country turn to diesel electric locomotives for freight and passenger service.

Afraid To Go To Church

Rev. W. E. Isonhour, High Point, N. C. R4

I used to know a man who was afraid to go to church, especially to a revival. In fact I never knew him to attend church in a lifetime. If he ever entered the door of a church for a service it is more than I was aware of. He never attended Sunday school and had no interest in the spiritual welfare of himself nor his community.

He died suddenly, and so far as I know without God. His life was wasted in sin. He accomplished nothing good nor worth while. How sad and even tragic: He could have been a man of God and a blessing to his country.

I have taken special notice across the years that lots of people are afraid of a church, and especially a revival. They are afraid they may get under conviction about their lost condition, or that somebody may talk to them about their soul. I wonder why. They seem to be more afraid of the people of God, and of the church, than they are of the devil and hell.

Then there is another class of people who attend church until a revival is announced. As long as the revival continues they stay away, then when it is over they start back again. Naturally there is something wrong in the heart and soul, therefore they are not willing for the Gospel and the Holy Spirit to reach them out. This is indeed pathetic.

Those who are averse to attend church and Divine services, and especially afraid of a revival of Holy Ghost religion, certainly are in a dangerous condition. They are very sick spiritually, but afraid of the Great Physician, the only Savior of the soul who can save them from eternal death and damnation. "Turn ye, turn ye, for why will you die?"

It is indeed quite a problem to win souls to Christ who are afraid of the church, afraid of Holy Ghost revivals, and afraid of conviction and repentance. O dear soul, if this is your condition, you had better flee to Jesus and call upon Him for mercy and pardon, for holiness and redemption through His precious blood! There is no time to lose.

Slipping One Over

Representative Hoffman of Michigan is peeved because a group of House members slipped through another tax-free "expense account" measure last week. Mr. Hoffman has been "laying" for the bill. "I had learned through the press such a measure was contemplated," he said, "and when the chairman of the committee walked down the well of the House I moved to the front so as to be on watch for the particular bill. Although I listened carefully, I was unable to hear enough of what was said to learn the measure I was watching for was up for consideration."

Under the bill, each member of the House would get an additional $3,000 for clerk hire and $500 for telephone and telegraph expenses. That would be on top of the $3,500 tax-free expense allowance members of Congress are already receiving.

The bill will add about a million dollars a year to cost of government—not a large sum in these days when billions go like herbs—but in view of the fact that the treasury is facing a deficit, that members of Congress are orating about governmental economy for public consumption, it is up to Congress to set a better example.—Statesville Daily.

Atom Age Structures

Modern buildings can be constructed to "resist" atomic bombs but human beings must go "underground" to be safe, a Yale faculty member declares. "It is true that structures can be designed which will remain standing after an atomic bomb explosion. No matter how carefully such buildings are constructed, however, it would not be safe for the occupants to remain in them during an attack," according to Charles T. G. Looney. Loss of life, Mr. Looney asserted, could be "greatly lessened" by well-constructed underground shelters, well placed for efficient access. "It is obvious that well-planned civilian defense in all its aspects would be essential," he said.

Colombian Archaeologists Study Lost Civilizations

A third area of great pre-Colombian civilizations—equivalent in some respects to that of the Mayas of Yucatan or the Incas of Peru but apparently only remotely related to either of them—is now being studied by Colombian archaeologists.

Hitherto, knowledge concerning these pre-Colombian civilizations has been quite fragmentary, and their existence has been known only to professional archaeologists.

Among the recent investigations are: Excavations at a great "city of the dead"—an ancient cemetery covering more than five square miles, covered with upright, grotesque stone statues of manlike forms. This is at San Augustin in southern Colombia.

Additional exploratory work at an ancient city with the stone foundations of more than 3,000 dwelling houses—one of the largest cities in the New World before the arrival of the Spaniards. This site, called Puelito, is in northern Colombia near the modern city of Santa Marta.

Study of numerous delicately wrought gold artifacts—such as crowns, pendants, earrings, and the like.

News of these finds was brought to the Smithsonian institution in Washington, D. C., by Dr. Luis Duque Gomez, director of the Colombian Government Ethnological and Archaeological institute at Bogota.

Record Spring Pig Crop Urged to Boost Supplies

Agriculture department is urging farmers to produce the largest peacetime spring pig crop on record in order to boost the meat supply.

The 1949 spring pig goal calls for 60,000,000 pigs—an increase of 17 per cent or nearly 9,000,000 more than the 1948 spring crop. This will require an increase of about 21 per cent in sows farrowing if litters are of average size.

Goal aims to help provide average meat consumption of 150 pounds per person in late 1949 and 1950, when the 1949 spring pigs will be ready for market. This will exceed average consumption of 145 pounds expected this year and will be much above prewar average intake of 126 pounds.

A hog-feed price relationship favoring hog production is expected to continue next year with average crop-producing weather in 1949.

Facts About Insulating

Ceilings of the top floor of almost any house are usually easy to insulate. Keep in mind two simple rules for the job: Try to keep the insulation as close as possible to the heated part of the house. Provide a vapor barrier between the insulation and the warm room, as well as a ventilation space above the insulation. The vapor barrier is a membrane which keeps moisture from reaching the insulation. Walls of older houses are often difficult to insulate properly. Solid masonry houses are especially difficult and costly to treat. Frame or brick veneer houses can be insulated by blowing mineral wool into the empty space between the wall studs.

Wales Hums With New Life

The valleys of Wales are throbbing once more with the noise of industry. Pitheads, rolling mills and furnaces, silent in the inter-war years of slump and unemployment, now hum to a feverish round-the-clock schedule. The Welsh, who were hard-hit by the slump of the inter-war years are now busier than ever, and building the means for an even more prosperous future. Heart of this vast industrial rebirth is at Margam on the South Wales coast. Here, from a desolate wilderness of sand dune and marsh land, a steel giant is springing to life. Margam is today the site of the biggest single steel project in the world.

Persimmon Gains Popularity

The persimmon is coming into the year-round eating picture. The small, native persimmon and the large, cultivated one both freeze well and can be used many ways. Varieties that are not stringy should be selected for freezing. They are usually frozen in the form of puree with one part of sugar added to five parts of puree. The frozen puree may be used all during the year as a flavor base for ice cream or sherbet, as a frozen dessert, as topping for various desserts, or to use in persimmon pudding. The gay color and rare flavor of the persimmon make it a popular dessert.

Business as Usual

Artificial 'Dusters'

The "wind tunnel" that has proved so helpful in airplane research while man has been learning to fly above the earth is being adapted to do just the reverse. With the "soil blowing tunnel" at Manhattan, Kans., scientists are trying to learn how to keep the earth from flying above man. It is designed to reveal the basic facts of wind erosion, so that men can prevent the return of "Dust Bowl" conditions in the High Plains. With a single portable "blower" unit—a fan driven by a gasoline engine—the investigators can work either indoors with a built-in wind tunnel of plywood and glass, or outdoors with an aluminum duct that can be moved readily from place to place. In the field they will be able to study the action of controlled and measured "blows" on soil in its natural state, and compare, for example a clean-plowed section of a field with another that is "stubble mulched."

Our County And Social Security

By Mrs. Ruth G. Duffy, Manager.

Every person in this country should know about Old-Age and Survivors Insurance. You may ask "Why should I know about this insurance if I don't have a Social Security Account Number and have only worked for myself?" The reason is that you may be able to assist a friend or relative to assist a friend or relative to receive benefits they might lose by not filing for them. Too, you may become entitled to benefits based on a relatives' or friends' Social Security Account because you pay or help pay funeral expenses.

You may also wonder why I continue to stress the importance of knowing when to get in touch with my office. I do this because many people have and, no doubt, are losing benefits because they do not know they can get them. It is also true that many people who do not know and understand the program will misinform others. Hence, my opening statement—that every person in the United States, whether they have a Social Security Account Number or not, should know about Old-Age and Survivors Insurance.

One woman who recently filed application for benefits for her four small children, lost benefits for about 11 months because she had not filed sooner. She told me that she was advised by a friend that she could not get benefits so she did not come or write to me.

Another case illustrating lack of knowledge and money lost is that of a man who had worked in a barber shop until about 1944 when he opened his own shop and began working for himself. When he became 65, he could have begun getting monthly checks if he had filed his application. He did not file until this year because he had been told he was not entitled to benefits as long as he worked. To have disqualified himself, he would have had to have continued working for someone else. He should not have accepted the advice of another, even though his friend, but should have made inquiry himself. Since this man did not come in, he lost benefits for nearly 5 years. I am glad to report that cases like these do not happen often but even one case is one too many. We can tell you if you can or cannot get benefits. Don't put off asking.

I will be in Mocksville on Wednesday, June 22, at the court house, second floor, at 12:30 p. m. I will also be in Coolemees on the same date at the Erwin Cotton Mills office at 11 a. m.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

New Roosevelt Political Dynasty Seen in FDR, Jr.'s Vote Triumph; Clay Urges Accord With Germany

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

ROOSEVELT: Old Tradition

The old tradition was running true to form: you can't beat a Roosevelt. Young Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., most like his father in looks, charm and smile, won the New York congressional seat left vacant by the death of Sol Bloom. And he won it with the national administration and Tammany allied against him.

FDR worshipers were jubilant. Those who had fought the "champ" throughout his years in the White House professed to see in the election result the creation of a new Rooseveltian political dynasty.

Already the cry of the exultant victors was "on to Albany," New York capital which Franklin D. Roosevelt, four-time President of the United States, used as a springboard to the White House.

Denied the Democratic nomination, young Roosevelt ran on the Liberal and Four Freedoms parties' tickets in a contest which kept Manhattan's west side in an uproar for months. A surprise to many Americans, who did not know such procedure was permissible, Roosevelt does not reside in the district he will represent in congress. It seems that all the while there has been no bar in the law to prevent a candidate from living in one district and representing another.

DESPITE his victory as a standard bearer for two other parties, Roosevelt declared he is still a 100 per cent Democrat.

Campaigning, he visited thousands of voters, turned on the old Roosevelt charm, mingled with the masses in their homes, attended house parties as honor guest, made street corner speeches.

One defeated candidate sounded a familiar note heard so frequently during other Rooseveltian campaigns:

"The formula in this election was a glamorous name and a quarter of a million dollars, and neither of these did we have."

BARKLEY:

No Guards

"I'm a big boy now. And besides, who would want to harm a young man like me anyway?"

Thus did Kentucky's Alben W. Barkley, Vice-President of the United States, dismiss the idea of personal guards.

BARKLEY, who will be 72 in November, goes where he wants, when he wants and flatly refuses protection of any sort.

He told newsmen that President Truman had "tried to get me to accept a few secret service men," but was turned down.

Secretary of the Treasury Snyder and top G-man J. Edgar Hoover also offered to provide bodyguards. But Barkley wanted his freedom. "I like it better that way," he said.

Barkley claims he's just a "common man, nothing fancy." In fact, he gets a kick out of people trying to figure out how to address him. "I STILL call myself senator," he says, "a habit after 22 years in congress, but the kids call me 'veep.' I like that."

He could also be called Mr. President, since that's how he's referred to in the senate over which he now presides.

RADIO:

Godfrey Tops

Carrot-thatched, gravel-throated Arthur Godfrey, radio's chief exponent of the "be yourself" type of entertainer-announcer, led the CBS network in earnings during 1948. He was paid $440,514.16 last year by the broadcasting system for which he labors.

Newscaasters didn't fare so badly, however. Lowell Thomas was a close second with $420,300. Oddly enough, the network boss, Frank Stanton garnered only a measly $109,798.80. All these figures covered income before Uncle Sam took his cut, so there was some difficulty in trying to ascertain just how much "take home" pay these gentlemen received.

For the ABC network, Don McNeill, emcee of the Breakfast Club, was tops with earnings of $180,229.40.

Paul Whiteman, ABC's musical director and vice-president, received $145,316.56. Again the network president ranked lower. ABC's president Mark Woods got only $75,000.

Wild West Showman Defies Georgia Law

Many a man has had a hankering to do just what Col. Zach Miller did when he ran afoul of state police on a speeding and driving without a license charge. It happened in Georgia where the colonel and his driver, James Colbert, were riding the range at 75 miles per hour. The limit is 55. Colbert, it seems had no license.

Last Man Over

Lt. Joe Russo, U.S. army aviator, is shown holding a bouquet of flowers presented to him after he landed his airplane at Tempelhof airfield to complete the last airlift flight before the lifting of the Berlin blockade.

GERMANY:

Clay Speaks Up

If Gen. Lucius D. Clay, retiring United States military governor in Germany, had his way, America's ex-foes would be permitted back into the company of democratic nations as soon as possible.

BACK in Washington where he was feted and decorated by President Truman, Clay warned that unless Germany is restored to the community of western nations, an alliance with Russia by our former enemies is inevitable.

Speaking to the house of representatives, the general declared that the German people, in spite of their recent history of aggressive war and "extreme cruelty," now had shown their preference for a government standing for the "dignity of man as an individual."

In the spirit of the residents of Berlin who survived through the airlift, Clay declared, there is a spark for German freedom that "may grow with the years." He told the senate how the people of western Germany had adopted through their parliamentary council a constitution which guarantees free elections and is "devoted to reestablishing in Germany the dignity of man."

WITHOUT referring to the Soviets by name, he charged, nevertheless, that the Russians have two objectives that were irreconcilable with the efforts made by the United States, England and France to create a four-power government in Germany based on international cooperation.

He defined these objectives of what he termed "the fourth power" as intent to exact the maximum in reparations from Germany and to set up a government that could be controlled or exploited by a police state.

COMMUNISTS:

Losing Ground

Whatever was responsible—the American airlift, a conviction that American democracy had more to offer or a general revulsion to all police states — the Communists weren't doing so well in the eastern Berlin elections.

THIS was in contrast with the confident predictions of Communist politicians in the Soviet zone of occupation of an overwhelming majority.

The vote was being taken on a "people's congress" of 2,000 members, all hand-picked by Communist-controlled organizations and put on a single ticket. However, the Communists were picking up only about a third of the votes expected.

Some voters wrote on their ballots "we won't vote for a police state and we reject Communism." Early returns from Berlin showed a majority of "no" votes—the only way the congress could be rejected since only one list of candidates was submitted.

THE "PEOPLES' congress," if it were to be set up, would be the Soviet answer to the western state being set up in the western zone.

Objective observers couldn't fail to see in the initial trend of the voting an indication that in any case where American system and ideologies may be contrasted with that of the Soviets, the latter cannot command support.

ACCIDENTS:

Three Reasons

Plain stupidity, bad manners, and liquor are the top three causes of automobile accidents, accounting for three-fourths of all fatalities, or over 24,000 deaths per year, according to a case analysis by Northwestern National Life Insurance company.

By far the top killers are the "stupid" group of driver offenses—excessive speed, ignoring traffic signs or traffic officers, passing on hills or curves, and other miscellaneous "dimwit" violations; the study finds that one or more of these offenses is involved in 40 per cent of all fatal accidents, and is the principal cause of 32 per cent.

FOOLISH ACTIONS by adult pedestrians—crossing against traffic signals, crossing intersections diagonally, crossing between intersections, coming from behind parked cars, and walking in the roadway in the same direction as traffic cause another 12 per cent of fatalities, based on experience records of 1946, 1947 and 1948, the study finds. Thus 44 per cent of our annual traffic death toll results from failures by drivers or pedestrians to use common sense.

Bad manners, such as road hogging—driving over the center line or actually on the wrong side of the road, and "barging through" when the other fellow has the right-of-way cause another 15 per cent of fatal fatalities, the records reveal.

TRAFFIC DEATHS due to alcohol are estimated by the insurance statisticians at a minimum of 15 per cent—12 per cent due to drinking by drivers and 3 per cent due to drinking by pedestrians. This is the most difficult group of cases to measure accurately, the study points out, because: Many drinking drivers try to conceal such facts in case of an accident, and an unknown number succeed; second, a considerable proportion of other violations such as reckless driving, which are directly blamed for certain accidents, would not be committed if the driver were fully sober and his judgment clear.

Summary: Of our annual traffic toll of 32,000 to 33,000 deaths, 44 per cent result from acts of folly by motorists or pedestrians, 15 per cent result from bad driving manners, and at least 15 per cent from liquor. Total: 74 per cent.

SNEEZER:

150,000 Times

Michael Hippisley had sneezed 150,000 times and was still sneezing. London doctors sought frantically to bring some relief to the 14-year old schoolboy who had sneezed once every three seconds for nine days.

THE only time the boy hadn't sneezed in the nine days was when he was knocked out by drugs or sleeping.

"I've had kerosene up my nose, drops down my ears and hundreds of tablets," Michael told reporters. "Then they cauterized me. I couldn't feel anything any more, but I kept on sneezing."

When news of Michael's plight got about, some 50 callers offered sympathy and advice. One suggested hypnosis. Another said sneeze in a paper sack. Unfortunately, all remedies had been tried. SCIENCE, making great strides with allergy controls and remedies seemed stymied on this case.

The Hippisley family doctor said that's what he thought it was—the constant "aa-chooing" was due to Michael's "abnormal sensitivity to pollen dust."

Cheats Death

Flashing a smile of victory over death, Reid C. Lewis, is shown in hospital at Santa Monica, Calif. His heart stopped after a minor operation and remained stopped, as did breathing and pulsebeat, for 12 minutes. His doctor, remembering an old Boy Scout trick which sometimes revives drowned persons by breaking a bone, snapped one of Lewis' ribs and the shock restored him to life.

PARKING:

No, Thanks

In a nation where parking space is at a premium, parkers were shunning a Great Bend, Kas., parking lot in great numbers.

Joseph Nolan, a short-time parking lot operator is authority for the reaction. Nolan opened his lot in the heart of the downtown district. In eight days his gross income was only and exactly $1.20. He tried every device he knew, even "free parking." Still they stayed away.

ROUGH GOING FOR JOCKEY . . . This is the end of the line for jockey J. Murphy and his mount, Pilgrim's Way. After taking the final jump in a steeplechase event at Pimlico, Murphy was tossed from the hurdler — and just in the right spot for newspaper photographer Jimmy Klemartin to record the jockey's distress.

SMOKE SIGNALS SIGNIFY BLOCKADE LIFTING . . . For the first time in 10 months the chimney stacks of a great electric power house belch smoke into the sky over Berlin at midday — an indication that the plant no longer has to be miserably at its coal. This plant is in the American sector. It had begun to dip into its reserve coal supply when the agreement to lift the blockade was announced. High above the stack an airlift plane is shown on the return trip to an allied zone from Berlin.

FOUR ARMS FULL OF HAPPINESS . . . One never could mistake what is on the face of 10-year old Andy Tompkins for anything but sublime happiness. He is shown swapping hugs with the mother he had not seen in many years. Last Easter Andy wrote to the editor of a Pittsburgh paper asking help in finding the mother who left him with his grandparents when he was a baby. The mother, living in a distant city, read the story and flew to Pittsburgh. Andy will live with her.

Reds Get Advice

BIGGEST QUESTION MARK in the minds of every diplomat is whether the Russians have merely got soft temporarily or have made a major policy shift toward long-term cooperation with the rest of the world.

No diplomat, to date, dares venture a definite answer. However, uncensored reports from Germany give one significant clue which may reveal part of the answer.

Recently the Russians have been getting advice from Rudolf Nadolny, former German ambassador to Russia. Nadolny is not a Communist, is a German of Hungarian extraction, and a disciple of Bismarck, who always favored close cooperation between Germany and Russia.

Nadolny's advice to Moscow has been to cut out the diplomatic bluster, and talk softly to the west, while simultaneously strengthening Russian-German ties.

If Moscow extends the olive branch to western Europe and the United States, Nadolny is reported to have advised, western opinion will be lulled and congress will not appropriate full funds for the north Atlantic pact.

German-Russian Pact?

In addition, Nadolny also met with German leaders last month and gave them significant advice that Germany's future lay with Russia. The way Nadolny sized it up was reported to be about as follows:

If there is peace, Russia can give far more to Germany than the allies for two reasons:

1. She controls Silesia and can return it.

2. Britain and the U. S. A. are hungry for markets. If there is no war this competition for markets will become keener, and Britain and the U. S. A. will keep Germany an agrarian state. Meanwhile Russia has ample markets in China and offers no competition to Germany.

If, on the other hand, there is war, Nadolny said he had positive assurance that Germany would be spared. The Red army, he promised, would advance either through Norway or Italy. Therefore close German-Russian cooperation was essential.

Result was the stiff position taken by the western German leaders at Bonn, when they first turned down Gen. Lucius Clay's proposals for a western German state. It was only after the Big Three foreign ministers granted concessions that the German charter of government finally was accepted.

Phony Telegram Lobby

Not since the holding-company fight of 1935, when the private utility lobby bombarded congress with telegrams signed with names taken from a telephone directory, has Capitol Hill been deluged with so many phony telegrams and letters as in the current drive against public housing.

One of the lobby's most ingenious schemes is being worked on California congressmen by an organization with the high-sounding name "Committee for Home Protection." Congressmen may not realize it, but this is merely a front for the powerful national association of home builders.

Its general chairman, Frederick C. Dockweiler, also happens to be general counsel of the Los Angeles home builders institute, while in the background is multimillionaire Fritz B. Burns, biggest west coast builder and former president of National Home Builders.

However, California congressmen would be even more amazed if they knew how the folks are being used by the "committee for home protection. Here is how the lobby operates:

Committee agents approach citizens on the street, give them a "facts sheet," containing 10 sample telegrams denouncing public-housing legislation, and ask them to select one, copy it on a telegram blank provided by the lobby's agent, and sign it.

When 20 such "canned" telegrams have been collected, they are sent to a member of congress. The latter assumes the telegrams are legitimate messages from the voters back home.

In addition to the "facts sheet," which lobby agents hand to the public, they also have an "instruction sheet," which they are very careful not to hand out. These confidential instructions are a dead giveaway.

"1. Select your prospect. Get a man who has absolutely no connection with the building or real-estate business. This is a 'grass roots' campaign; so look for laborers, white-collar workers, veterans, housewives, small-shop-keepers—people in the middle- and lower-income brackets.

"2. Show your prospect your facts sheet.

"3. Ask him to write his message on a telegram blank. Get him to select his favorite argument and state that in a maximum of 25 words.

■ ■ ■ Mother Can't Replace Father
By Lawrence Gould

Can mother take father's place?

Answer: No, however hard she may try, and however relieved father may be by the thought of dumping his responsibilities onto her shoulders, says Dr. Edward A. Strecker, author of "Their Mothers' Sons." For the fact remains that mother is a female, and a child must learn to grow up in a world that's male AND female. "Your son needs a man around whom he can imitate. You want him to glory in physical strength, learn to be aggressively fearless, resourceful, protective—in short, masculine. He will not learn that from his mother."

their birth certificates, and I cannot see it has made any difference to them. But to give a child a nickname that seems "cute" while he's a baby but will sound ridiculous as he grows older may make him developing a normal self-esteem needlessly hard.

Do longer hours mean getting more work done?

Answer: No, say statisticians of the U.S. Bureau of Labor, reporting a survey of 2445 male and 1060 female workers in 34 different industrial plants in this country. "Generally speaking, the study indicates that, everything else being equal, the 8-hour day and 40-hour week are best in terms of efficiency and absenteeism, and that higher levels of hours are less satisfactory." Longer hours not only mean more time lost through absence from the job, but bring about a marked rise in both the number and frequency of accidental injuries.

Are nicknames bad for children?

Answer: There is no essential difference between a nickname and a "real" one if it is the name which the child comes to recognize as meaning himself. I know two or three men who would scarcely know whom you were speaking of if you addressed them by the names that are recorded on

New Plastic Foam Used in Insulation

Material Is Called Lightest of Solids

The world's lightest solid an amazing plastic foam that swells up when baked like a cake to 100 times its original volume—has been developed by Westinghouse scientist for use as a new insulating material.

The new product is expected to find its way into many uses in appliances used in farm homes and about the farm.

Even lighter than some gases, the new material weighs from 10 to 20 times less than the fluffy meringue on a well-baked pie.

Robert F. Sterling, 29-year-old chemist, and the man chiefly responsible for the new product, said

Shown here is a refrigerator completely insulated with the new plastic foam insulation material. This is the way the refrigerator looked after the insulation job was done, but before door liner and other parts were put back in place.

It is the result of a three-year search for an effective insulating material that will fill large areas, yet weigh "next to nothing." The foam is made by heating a molasses-like synthetic resin at about 350 degrees Fahrenheit until it expands to 100 times its original volume, then solidifies. Thousands of gas bubbles entrapped in the foam "float" it up and give the plastic its lightness.

Foamed into pre-fabricated metal wall sections, a two-inch thick layer weighing only 300 pounds would be enough to insulate a complete six-room house, Sterling said.

Resistant to fire, moisture, fungus growth and insects, the foam is low enough in cost to be practical for many applications and uses, the scientist said.

Not only do imprisoned air bubbles give the new plastic great lightness, but they also provide it with its excellent insulating qualities. So-called "dead air" is one of the best insulators known among commonly available materials, Sterling said.

Cover That Cough

"Cover that cough, smother that sneeze" is not only good advice for people in public places. It has practical meaning in the cow barn, too.

Danger that coughing cattle may spread respiratory infections to their stablemates is highlighted in a research report from the American Veterinary Medical Association.

The report describes an unusual case of tuberculosis of the eye in a heifer. A tuberculous cow with a bad cough, stanchioned next to the heifer, is believed to have spread the disease.

AVMA points out that this case occurred in England, where bovine tuberculosis is widespread. Although tuberculosis has been reduced to a minimum in United States herds, coughs and sneezes are nevertheless a menace because they may spread all kinds of respiratory infections. Isolation of any animal showing respiratory symptoms is urged, therefore, to protect the rest of the herd.

Field Mice Destructive To Melon Crops, Seed

Untold damage is done each year to cucumber, cantaloupe and watermelon fields by mice destroying the seed which are planted and also the plants which are up and bearing fruit. H. A. Bowers, Clemson college crop specialist, says Bowers explained that the meadow mouse destroys the seed after they are planted, and the pine mouse cuts off the plants at the ground

Versatile Waffles Fit Any Menu! (See Recipes Below)

AS LONG as I know how to make waffles, I can get together a good breakfast, a fancy luncheon or serve a glamorous dessert," said a new bride. This young lady was indeed on the right track; she had perfected one dish, and she could be certain that any occasion would be covered simply but adequately with it.

Waffles may be varied in many different ways, and they can easily go from breakfast to luncheon to dessert for dinner or a party. No, not the same waffle, of course, but with a slight variation waffles really can do all these things.

Plain waffles with butter and syrup or honey are ideal for breakfast main dishes. Try pairing them with crisply browned sausages, crisply browned bacon strips, or ham.

For luncheon, vary the waffle, and serve with creamed eggs, chicken, tuna fish or mushrooms.

The dessert waffle is rich, and it may be plain, orange or even chocolate-flavored. Have you ever put together chocolate waffles with peppermint stick ice cream and passed the chocolate sauce? Yes, simple but very elegant! Or, how about crisp and golden brown waffles crowned with whipped cream and bananas? Yes, another favorite!

BASIC WAFFLES may be quickly and simply made from a pancake mix in the following manner:

Quick Waffles
(Makes 5 servings)
2 cups pancake ready-mix
1/2 cup melted shortening
2 eggs
2 cups milk

Place all ingredients in a medium-sized mixing bowl. Beat with a rotary egg beater until batter is fairly smooth. Pour batter into a waffle iron which has been heated. Bake until iron stops steaming.

Honey-Butter Sauce: Warm one cup liquid honey in the top part of a double boiler. Add to it 1/4 cup butter, 1/4 teaspoon of cinnamon and a dash of nutmeg. Serve warm.

Light and delicious oatmeal waffles have a nutty flavor all their own. Besides adding flavor, rolled oats make waffles high in the important B vitamins, protein and iron. They're excellent served with butter and syrup, along with crisp bacon. For a supper main dish, pair them with creamed eggs.

Oatmeal Waffles
(Makes 6 servings)
1 1/2 cups sifted enriched flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 eggs
1 1/2 cups milk
1/2 cup melted shortening
1/2 cup quick, rolled oats, uncooked

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Add eggs, milk and melted shortening.

Beat with rotary egg beater until fairly smooth. Fold in rolled oats.

LYNN SAYS:

Use these Hints For Making Waffles

Season the grids of a new waffle iron unless the manufacturer advises you otherwise. To season the iron, when it is still cold, brush with cooking oil. Heat the iron to baking temperature and allow to cool. Discard the first waffle made as it will be greasy. After this, waffles will not stick to the iron.

Don't peek into the waffle iron while it steams. This means the waffle is still baking.

Creamed Eggs
(Serves 6)
2 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
1/2 teaspoon onion juice
2 cups milk
1/2 teaspoon salt
6 hard-cooked eggs, shelled and chopped

Melt butter in top of double boiler, add flour, onion juice and salt. Add milk slowly, stirring constantly, and cook until smooth and thickened. Add the eggs and cook until heated through. Serve over waffles.

Corn Meal Waffles
(Makes 5 Servings)
1 cup sifted enriched flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
1 cup corn meal
2 eggs
1 1/2 cups milk
1/4 cup melted butter or fat

Sift together dry ingredients. Place eggs, milk, sifted dry ingredients and melted butter in a bowl. Beat with rotary beater until batter is smooth. Do not overbeat. Pour batter onto hot waffle iron and bake until iron stops steaming.

THERE ARE ANY number of variations for dessert waffles. Use them for an easy dessert, or serve them as a party snack.

Dessert Waffles
(Makes 10-12 small waffles)
1 cup sifted cake flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
3 teaspoons baking powder
3 eggs, separated
1 cup rich milk

Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt. Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon-colored. Add to milk, then blend in dry ingredients. Fold in melted butter and last, the stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into waffle iron and bake until steaming ceases.

Ice Cream and Waffles: Use dessert waffles, top with a scoop of vanilla ice cream and serve with sweetened, crushed strawberries or chocolate sauce and bananas.

Chocolate Chip Waffles: Stir into the batter, before baking, 1/2 cup semi-sweet chocolate chips.

Chocolate Waffle: Add to dessert waffle, 1/2 cup sugar sifted with dry ingredients. Fold in with butter, 1 1/2 squares, melted, unsweetened chocolate.

Orange Waffles: Fold in the dessert waffle batter, two tablespoons orange juice and 1 1/2 teaspoons grated orange rind. Serve with orange or pineapple sauce.

If batter spills on the iron, let it cook on before trying to remove it. When dry, it flicks off easily.

When brown spots appear on the iron, from spattering fat, use a fine scouring powder, rubbed gently, to remove them.

Keep waffle cords in good condition by putting them away without kinks and knots.

Leftover kernel corn, cooked rice and blueberries may be added to waffle batter. One cup of any of these food items is folded in the waffle before baking.

Causes and Treatment of Hives

By Dr. James W. Barton

WHEN HIVES (urticaria) occurs, the first thought naturally is to relieve the itching and burning but there are so many substances that can cause hives that we must try to find the cause as soon as possible.

Thus, as certain foods are often to blame, the first method of treatment is to give an emetic to induce vomiting, such as a teaspoon of mustard in half a glass of water. If the food has been in the body for some time, then a dose of castor oil or Epsom salts should be taken. The drug most commonly used to relieve symptoms is the injection of 10 to 15 minims (drops) of adrenalin under the skin.

While cleansing out the stomach and intestine and the injection of adrenalin (epinephrine) give almost immediate relief from the itching and burning, it should be remembered that the system has received a shock and needs rest in bed, with liquid food for a day or two.

When hives are over the entire body, baking soda, which is always soothing to the inflamed skin, is effective—a cupful in the regular bath or half a cup in the wash tub. After drying, touching the hives with baking soda talcum or flour prolongs the relief.

While the above treatment gives considerable relief in all cases, the cause of the hives should be sought so that chronic hives or frequent attacks of hives can be prevented by avoiding the foods, drugs and other substances found to be the cause or causes.

In addition to these causes, it is now known that just as emotional disturbances can increase the heart rate, raise the blood pressure, cause stomach upsets and diarrhoea, so they can cause hives and other eruptions of the skin.

One of the substances manufactured by the body tissues is histamine, a factor associated with allergic symptoms including hives. For this reason what are known as antihistamine drugs, such as benadryl, are used to treat hives.

HEALTH NOTES

Because tuberculosis glands in children appear to be a forerunner of tuberculous meningitis, some physicians prescribe streptomycin in such tuberculosis cases.

Insulin has kept many diabetics alive for years, enabling the great majority to attain the age they would have lived even if they had not been afflicted with diabetes.

Early symptoms of cancer of the stomach are (1) uncomfortable feeling in the stomach, increased by eating but disappearing at night, (2) belching of gas and gas pressure, (3) lost appetite for certain foods such as meat, (4) a feeling of tiredness and weakness, with loss of weight and thinning of the blood becoming evident.

Great Scott !!!

Our ball team has been playing in bad luck this season, but with some new players being added to the local team we are hoping that Mocksville will cop a few games.

Our boys journeyed to Albemarle last Tuesday evening, where they were lambasted by a 11 to 7 score.

On Thursday night Mocksville met China Grove at Rich Park, and were again on the losing end, suffering a defeat by the slim margin of 5 to 4.

On Saturday night Mocksville motored to Rockwell where they won their first game of the week by a score of 7 to 2.

Jack Sanford arrived home Friday from a business trip through the Old Dominion.

Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Hall arrived here yesterday from Chapel Hill, where Mr. Hall graduated Monday as a pharmacist. They will make their home here. Mr. Hall will be associated with his father in Hall's drug store.

Road and School Bonds Win

North Carolina voters gave a majority of nearly 50,000 for the $200,000,000 road bonds Saturday, and nearly 150,000 majority for the $25,000,000 school bonds.

The vote in Davie County, with Jerusalem precinct missing, was: For road bonds 1,430, against road bonds, 444; for school bonds, 1,410, against school bonds, 370.

Less than a third of the qualified voters in Davie went to the polls and cast their votes. Bad.

New Building

Wade W. Smith has begun the erection of a brick store building, 34x85 feet, one story and basement, on Wilkesboro street, adjoining the store building he erected several years ago, and now occupied by Hendricks & Merrell and the Davie Farm Supply Co. H. A. Cozart is the contractor.

The new store building will house the Hendricks-Merrell furniture store when completed.

The Davie Farm Supply Co., will occupy their present quarters, and also the store building now occupied by Hendrick & Merrell. Much new building has been done on Wilkesboro Street within the past few years, and the business houses on that street enjoy a good business. Our town is expanding in all directions, and it thought the census next year will show a big gain in population.

Poppy Sale Success

The sale of "Buddy" Poppies on Memorial Day was a big success. About $175 was realized in Davie for the V. F. W. fund. The Ladies Auxiliary broke their previous sales, according to Mrs. Maxalene S. Matthews, Chairman. Mrs. Beulah Williams, President of the local auxiliary, was top sales lady with $49.82 to her credit. Others assisting were Mrs. Germaine Wellman, Mrs. Dorothy Mason and Misses Germaine Wellman, Carol Miller, Josephine Miller, Deana Silverdis and Betty Jean Adams. Mrs. Williams will be awarded a Certificate of Merit by the Veterans of Foreign Wars for her outstanding sales record.

Thomas A. Alsobrook

Thomas A. Alsobrook, 70, former electrician at Erwin Cotton Mills at Cooleegee, died at his home at 3 p. m., May 30. He had lived at Cooleegee for 20 years. He was a veteran of the Spanish American War.

He is survived by his wife, three sons, two daughters, two brothers, two sisters, 13 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted at 1:30 p. m., Wednesday at the First Baptist Church at Cooleegee by Rev. Fred Shinn and Rev. G. L. Royster. Burial was in National Cemetery at Salisbury.

Walter T. Jones

Walter T. Jones, 63, of near Cornatzer, died at Davis Hospital, Statesville, Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, following an appendicitis operation.

Surviving are the wife, five sons, Joe, Clarence, Brady, Lee and George Jones, all of Route 3; three sisters, Mrs. Steve Hendricks and Mrs. Notie Jarvis, Mocksville, Mrs. John Mason, Kannapolis.

Funeral services were held at Cornatzer Methodist Church Friday at 3 o'clock, with Revs. James H. Groce and Foster Loflin officiating, and the body laid to rest in the church cemetery.

Mr. Jones was a native of Davie and spent his entire life in the county.

Nine members of the Medical Company, N. C., National Guard, of Mocksville, left last Tuesday for Fort Jackson, Columbia, S. C., where they will spend two weeks attending a cooking school. The entire company will spend two weeks in camp at Fort Jackson in August.

GOOD OR BAD, TELEVISION . . .

Video—the Great, Irresistible Force

. . . HAS FASCINATION FOR MILLIONS

H. I. PHILLIPS

LIVING-ROOM SQUAT

Television is developing a race of sitters—a vast, immovable population of living-room squatters, as it were. In all areas of the country where video has come into play, great masses of people are "set-tin'" glued around the set, absorbed and silent, neglecting small talks, books, papers and even the racing results. The decline in conversation at house parties in television belts has become alarming. Guests hardly speak to one another or to the hostess. Whole evenings are spent in which "come in" and "good night" sum up the total exchange of words.

The old man doesn't go down to the store for the papers or a cigar. Mom cuts the cinema. It isn't because television is all sheer entertainment. In fact, it has been rather trying, often downright annoying. Video is still in the baby stage. It doesn't look like an extra smart kid. But there is such a diversity of attractions on so many programs over so many channels that there is a fascination for millions in it, good or bad.

So many more thrillers, playlets, vaudeville sketches, hockey games, fights, wrestling bouts, debates, concerts, newreels, soap operas, comedians, tragedians, actors, dancers, scientists, clowns and puppets come zooming into the old homestead that the audience at least gets action. The reactions are curious. We know one addict who says, "It's so bad that it's absorbing." Another demands, with more enthusiasm, "Show me another medium through which I can get a hockey game, a ski tournament, a forum, a circus, a Broadway show, a couple of westerns, a book review and a carload of miscellaneous entertainers and celebrities without getting out of my chair!"

We have even discovered a fellow who finds some commercials attractive on television. He hated commercials on the radio, but a close-up photograph of a mince pie, a layer cake, a stack of waffles, a bubbling glass of beer or a gal whipping up a dinner on a cooking program intrigues him. He gets sore if a plate of frankfurters and beans doesn't screen well or if a display of gelatin is out of focus. His chief interest in all products seems to be their degree of screen clarity.

Men and women who could take their regular radio or let it alone have been known to go nuts over television. The business of operating the various dials to bring in the entertainment gives them the feeling of being producers, stage directors, dramatic coaches, vaudeville kibitzers and movie promoters. They are never satisfied. They are always monkeying with the dials, trying to achieve the perfect show.

The American public is getting more and more amusement-mad and it looks as if books, magazines and newspapers may have to go all out for showmanship. Man's house used to be his castle; it is now his fight arena, his ball park, his theater, his concert hall, his information bureau and his personal clambake.

The answer to "Shall we go out somewhere tonight?" is "Why?" People used to leave the apartment to kill boredom and seek some diversion. They now accomplish the same objectives with an "aerial stack" and a "booster."

Hurry up with the dinner, mom! There's a prize fight, a wrestling show, six musical revues, a tour of the nighteries, four westerns, a travelogue, a newsreel, four mystery dramas, 18 newscasts, a rodeo, a mardi gras and a sailfish tournament on the video tonight!

This 'n' That

Armour and Co. omitted its preferred dividend, saying meat prices have fallen 20 to 30 per cent . . . Steaks and chops are now worth little more, in fact, than their weight in gold.

Those Ford cars are of new design, but the strike comes in the same old shape at both ends and in any color so long as it's dark blue.

SCRIPTURE: Matthew 27:47-51; Mark 15:34-37; Luke 23:46; John 19:30. DEVOTIONAL READING: Mark 15:16-25

Why Jesus Died

Lesson for June 12, 1949

THE FACTS of Jesus' death were simple. They are told in the four Gospels without dramatics and without tears. Yet the drama is there, stark and terrible; and only the hard of heart can read it without tears.

There is a deeper question than that which happened. Why did it happen? The first Christians were forced to think about the crucifixion. They all knew it was no legend. It was so. But they were hunted, as we are, with the question, Why? Here was a person whose teaching was truth, whose touch was health, whose life was love. You would have thought the world would welcome such a man, and give him the highest honors in its power. But instead, all it had for him were nails and thorns and a cross. Why? If God, who sees all things, knew that even his Son would come to no better end than a death of shame, why did God allow Jesus to be born, much less send him into the world, the world where the cross was waiting?

Dr. Foreman

No Other End

THERE WAS, of course, "historical reasons" why Jesus was killed. If we used the words "murdered" or "lynched" it would be nearer the truth. Jesus' death, from one point of view, was both a tragedy and a crime, and the Gospel stories show this. Jesus died because Pilate was a spineless man.

Jesus died because the priests of Jerusalem saw that if this man won, they would lose, and they would commit murder rather than be defeated. Jesus died because the Pharisees had closed minds and would not listen to truth if they did not think of it first.

He died because Judas was a traitor, because his friends were cowards and even the best of them dared to show their faces only after he was dead. He died because the Jewish people had their minds set on one sort of Messiah, and when Jesus turned out to be quite another sort, they would have none of him. Being altogether the sort of person he was, in that kind of world, at that particular time and place, you could say, as Jesus himself did, that the Son of Man "had to" die (Luke 24:26). No other end was possible. There was no help for it, except to turn coward and hide; and if he had been capable of that, he would not have been the Christ we know at all.

The Plan of God

WHEN was Jesus simply a victim of circumstances? Was he no better than a fly caught in fate's dark web? Far from it. The Christian church has always believed, even before these stories of the crucifixion were ever written, that the death of Christ was in the plan of God. In fact, it is at the heart of God's plan for mankind.

It is by the death of Christ that God reconciles man and brings men back to himself. The Christian church believes and teaches that Christ died for us, that is, for you and for me. We believe that this was not simply Jesus' own idea, something God had not thought of till Jesus suggested it.

We believe that this was the intention of God "from before the foundation of the world." The God who is over all, works through all things, even very evil things, to make his love known.

"That The World . . . Might Be Saved"

MEN had long thought of God as living in far-off heaven, seated on a throne, high and lifted up. A just and mighty God, one who cannot be touched with any human weakness, a holy and infinite Lord of the universe,—such a God men knew. But on earth there walks and suffers a race of men who are slaves of sin, slaves to evil. How can such a God help such men? Not by staying on his throne and hurling down more curses. Only by doing what men would never have guessed God would dare to do—come into this world, himself as a man, translating himself into the life of man; putting his shoulder under the human load, even bearing "our sins in his own body on the tree" (I Peter 2:24).

Star Dust STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO

By INEZ GERHARD VANESSA BROWN typifies everything that a young actress ought to be. Very pretty, with chestnut hair and blue eyes, she has managed, at 20, to complete her college course and make pictures at the same time. Asked how it happened that she was chosen for the maid of the all-star cast of Paramount's "The Heiress," she laughed and said she'd been teaching William Wyler's daughter to swim; after testing older actresses he realized that Vanessa was right for the role, her ninth. You've heard her on the air—she toured Alaska with "Vox Pop," had appeared on the Screen Guild and other important shows. She writes, too; has sold three stories to a newspaper syndicate.

Joan Fontaine in "Bed of Roses" will be back at RKO for the first time since she starred in "From This Day Forward" in 1945. A modern drama, it stars her as an iron-willed girl with an insatiable desire to have her own way. Friends who knew her and Olivia de Havilland in their school-girl days say the beautiful Joan herself always had a way of getting what she wanted.

John Miljan deserted films two years ago to devote his time to his avocado ranch at Vista, Calif., but could not resist the role of "Mr. Howard" in "Mrs. Mike," the Dick Powell-Evelyn Keyes starrer being produced for United Artists.

Five of filmland's glamour girls recognize a voice that has made love to them when they tune in Mutual's "Scattergood Baines." Wendell Holmes, who plays "Scattergood," has played the romantic lead opposite Joan Fontaine, Dorothy McGuire, Veronica Lake, Claire Trevor and Madeleine Carroll. He's also tops at impersonating Winston Churchill on the air.

The Fiction Corner NO REGRETS

VALERIA'S AFFAIR with Elliot Harvey had proved extremely gratifying. After all, Elliot was the most handsome and the most glamorous man at Newfane Lake, and the confession of his love had rather flattered her vanity. But the duration had been brief. Two months, to be exact. She had smiled a little wistfully the night she handed back his ring.

"It's been swell fun, Elliot, but it can't last. The feeling's gone on the surface. It isn't real."

"Not real?" He stared at her, unbelieving. "Good Lord, Val—" But she interrupted him with a gesture of finality. "It's no use, Elliot. You're far too glamorous and handsome to fall in love. I tried hard, but it didn't work." She patted his hand maternally. "Summer romances are fun, and this has been the best ever. No regrets."

A hurt look came into his eyes, to be replaced an instant later by exaggerated indifference. He tossed the ring, caught it, pocketed it. "O. K., sister. I guess I can stand it." His eyes held that smug, "it's-your-funeral" look that so fitted his role. She felt released, free again. When Doug Metcalf asked her to attend the Country Club ball with him she accepted without qualms of conscience. Doug was big and homely. "Thought there was no harm in asking," he grinned. "You won't find me as spectacular as Elliot."

He looked at her curiously, seemed on the point of asking a question and thought better of it. She knew that he, like everyone else, was wondering if her heart was broken. Well, let them find out for themselves. Their pity annoyed her. Who was this Elliot Harvey, a god or something?

The night of the ball, dancing with Doug Metcalf, she saw Elliot floating by with Sheelah Jackson. He was looking down into her upturned face, oblivious to everything else. Valeria felt a little pang, and impatient at herself, gave her attention to Doug. Doug was watching her and there was worship in his eyes.

SHE WAS DANCING a dreamy waltz with Doug when Elliot cut in. Surprised, she found herself in his arms scarcely before his familiar features became recognizable.

"Well, well, well. Look who's here! How's the Don Juan of Newfane?"

"Val, let's go out and get a punch." His tone was almost harsh. Valeria hesitated. "All right," she said. "I could use something like that. It's been a destructive evening. I'm worn out."

They moved into the alcove where the drinks were being served. He led her beyond and through French doors that opened onto the terrace. The place was crowded, but they found a vacant bench behind some shrubbery, and Valeria sat down. It was good to sit. Elliot bent over her.

"Listen, Val, I can't stand it! I've been crazy ever since you gave me back the ring. I'm going mad. You've got to come back to me!"

Amazed, she stared up at him. His eyes were burning coals. He stood there stripped of his pride and dignity, no longer the confident Don Juan, the breaker of women's hearts. "Elliot, your drunk!"

"I'm not! Val, don't you see I'm not! Don't you see how much I love you!" He dropped down beside her, and suddenly his head was against her breast. He wept.

Val was frightened and bewildered. So all his indifference, his casual acceptance of her decision to break their engagement, his interest in Sheelah Jackson—it had all been pretense! A sham! A mask! An attempt to maintain his Don Juan standing, to nourish his pride and vanity and conceit.

She stood up, suddenly contemptuous, ashamed of her own doubt, disgusted with his weakness. She looked down at him, without pity or compassion or regret, turned away and went eagerly back to find dependable Doug.

Discovery of Iron—was discovered by primitive man in campfire embers or in meteorites. Iron tools were used in constructing the Pyramids about 3000 B. C. The ancients produced iron in fires built on the windward side of banks, or in pits or rock furnaces, using bellows.

Weak Congress Passed Long-Range Laws

Although the congress of the United States created by the Articles of Confederation was hopelessly weak and inadequate, it set some momentous precedents which greatly influenced the cultural and territorial development of the nation.

The Land Ordinance of 1784 significantly announced that the unsettled lands of the United States were to be considered as territories being prepared for full-fledged Statehood rather than 'colonies' of the federal government — thus guaranteeing new states absolute equality with older states, which was unprecedented in governmental and judicial history. Moreover, the Land Ordinance of 1785 endowed American public schools with millions of acres of land.

Lesson from Britain

Hard times and doing without—that's still the order of life in Britain. "Austerity" is the official name for it. True, a little sacrificing is not harmful to anyone. But as a political system or way of life, British "austerity" is going to continue looking a bit drab (as a cloak for socialism), when you compare it with the private management and freedom of enterprise we know in America. Britain, in effect, is telling America what not to do.

Fact of Life

But at the moment, the British experience is helping underscore an economic fact that needs more underscoring here in America. That fact is this: increases in wages mean higher prices. Economists in our country have known for a long time that this is true, yet the popular view of it insists that the boss can go on indefinitely granting increases, year after year, without ever raising prices at all. The British know better.

It seems that Sir Stafford Cripps, who is in charge of money matters in England, is right now urging British workers (even they who own industry and run the government) to work harder without higher wages. If the Britishers do this, the reasoning goes, there will be more to export to America. Then, Britain will have more dollars with which to buy the things her people need. Shrewd enough!

Another Round?

You see, the British are driving to get into as much of the American market as possible. Sir Stafford recognizes that if British workers should demand increases in wages, prices of British goods would make it impossible to compete successfully on the American market. In other words, the British (even the labor government) know that increases in wages do mean higher prices.

Is Sir Stafford counting on prices going up in America? Well, at least he is laying plans to compete with American manufacturers—and another round of wage increases over here would do much to help him, according to his own formula. Yes, indeed. Another round of wage boosts would send up prices so high that Sir Stafford would have little trouble in getting rid of everything Britain sells, from pottery to Austin motor cars.

Forced Prices

Foreign trade is good for our nation, just like it is good for the British. It's a two way street. If we fail to get into the competition ourselves, then our goods will stop moving as fast as we know our production lines can move them.

This lesson Britain is teaching us works at home, too. The one thing we want to do is to keep production going, for we know that our people want jobs and have the capacity to consume. But if we are going to keep forcing prices upward, we may one day realize that depression is here just because we have done that very thing. We can have nothing but false prosperity that foretells depression, if we force prices too high.

Have you heard Dr. Benson and the radio drama "Last of the Free"? Check your local station for time.

Brake Accidents Lead

An ICC analysis of mechanical defect accidents of motor carriers during 1947 revealed that as in previous years brake defects were responsible for more accidents than any other type. Tire failures are second in number and result in the most property damage. It showed also that mechanical defect accidents are continually increasing in number but are decreasing as a percentage of all motor carrier accidents.

Everyone will have a part in the U. S. Savings Bonds great "Opportunity Drive" May 16-June 30. The armed forces are responding to the call for volunteer assistance by offering to fly a number of covered wagons to Independence, Mo., for a big ceremony marking opening of the drive. They will then transport the wagons to various States. The covered wagons typify the difference between the terrible hardships the original 49'ers went through in their search for riches and security and how easy it is for the modern 49'er to build for a secure future. Today you are given the opportunity to invest in U. S. Savings Bonds—the easy way to pile up riches. In ten short years you will receive $100 for every $75 invested.

NEXT WEEK: ANOTHER BIBLE LESSON

THEY CAN'T TAKE YOUR AD HOME IF IT IS ON A BILLBOARD

Sylvester Says:

"100 years is a long time to wait for a house, but by building 500,000 public housing units per year it would take the government 100 years to place every "low-income" American family in government public housing." The average earnings of families now living in public "subsidized" housing is $2,200. There are approximately 20 million American families with incomes no higher than that. On the basis of $2,200 a year income, more than half the families in the U. S. qualify for a home in a government housing unit. But most American families haven't learned how helpless they are, for, according to U. S. Census figures, over one-half of our families with incomes below $1,000 per year already own their own homes.

Diesel Replaces 'Iron Horse'

Approximately one-fifth of the total weight of a modern diesel electric locomotive consists of copper and copper-base alloys. This figure is many times the amount of copper and its alloys contained in a steam locomotive—the romantic "iron horse" that has served the nation's railroads faithfully for over a century, ever since the Tom Thumb, built by Peter Cooper in 1829, was given a trial run in September of that year. Finally the "iron horse" is being turned out to green pastures as most of the major railroads of the country turn to diesel electric locomotives for freight and passenger service.

Don't Think Its Smart

Rev. W. E. Isenhour, High Point, N. C. R4
Don't think its smart, my little lad,

To form a habit that is bad
Because it's practiced by the throng
That takes no thought for right
Or wrong;

But stop and think that what you do
Will have direct affect on you,
And out in future days and years
The wrong will bring you bitter tears.

Don't think it smart, my little lad,
To follow custom, fashion, fad,
That says it's nice to chew and smoke,

Or drink, or tell a smutty joke;
That it is fine to be a sport,
Though evil things you have to court;

But keep in mind and truly know
You'll have to reap the seed you sow.

Don't think it smart, my little lad,
To even follow your own dad
In anything that isn't right,
Although he seems a man of might;

For many a dad don't follow God,
Nor go the way good men have trod;

Therefore to follow as they lead,
Their sons could not in life succeed.

Don't think it smart, my little lad,
But quittedeplorable and sad,
To start in early life in sin,
And thus in doing so begin

The wrong career, which you'll bewail,
Somewhere along your rugged trail,

And maybe end in dark despair
Beyond the reach of God through prayer.

It's only manly to be good
And nobly live, as all men should
To cherish honesty and truth
In days of childhood and of youth;

To walk uprightly and be clean,
Nor yield to anything that's mean;

Yes, follow God in ev'ry plan
And be in life and soul a man

The $64 Question

Some government agencies are patting themselves on the back for having discovered that communists have obtained atomic research fellowships and for throwing them out.

But the big question is how did those communists get such governmental favors in the first place?

It appears that there has been something rotten much clearer than in Denmark, or that highly paid department heads have been asleep at the post.

The efficiency in discovering and weeding out the communists has been fine, but should we not have more efficiency in keeping out the communists in the first place?

All of which reminds us that it does no good to close the stable door after the horse is out—The Wilkes Journal.

It Often Happens

A DOCTOR'S telephone rang one night, awakened him from fitful slumber. It was one of his regular patients, a man in a wild state of alarm.

"My wife, doctor," he shouted. "It's her appendix. You'd better come 'round and see her at once."

The doctor sighed and told the man to go back to bed.

"Give her some bicarbonate and ginger ale, and I'll look in to-morrow," he said. "She hasn't got appendicitis."

The husband became even wilder, insisting that she did have appendicitis.

"Well, she can't have!" the doctor shouted. "I took her appendix out three years ago, and I never heard of anyone having two appendices."

"Ever heard of anybody having two wives?" the man asked, bitterly.

GOOD REASON

The old man fishing from the river bank landed a pike about two feet long, but threw it back. Later he caught a large perch. This he also threw back.

Five minutes later he caught a small perch, and put it into his bag. As he rose to go a fellow fisherman asked him why he had thrown back two beautiful fish and kept a small one.

"Well," he replied, "my frying pan's only nine inches wide."

Wrong And Right
The theatrical agent's new clerk entered the private room and said, "There's a lady to see you, sir."

"Is she good-looking?"
"Yes, sir."
"Show her in."

Ten minutes later the clerk was summoned.
"Well," said the agent, gruffly, "you're a nice judge of beauty, I must say."

"Ah, but I had to be careful, sir. For all I knew, she might have been your wife."
"Yes," said the agent, acidly, "she was."

THAT STOPPED HER

The farmer's wife was famous for miles around for her sharp tongue, but one day she had to stop nagging. A farm horse kicked her so badly that she had to go to a hospital.

During her absence there was a ceaseless stream of callers at the farm.

The farmer was touched. "It's very nice of the neighbors, especially the men, to call and ask after the missus," he remarked to the maid-of-all-work.

"Aye, sir," replied the girl, "but most of them want to know if you'll sell the horse."

He Asked for It
He was up before the orderly officer, charged with using insulting language to his sergeant.

"Please, sir," he protested, "I was only answering a question."
"What question?" snapped the officer.

"Well, sir, the sergeant said, 'What do you think I am?' And I told him."

False Alarm
A saucy farm damsel was speeding through traffic in the city. She soon found herself stopped by a policeman. "Look here," he growled, "where is the fire?"

"What are you worrying about," she countered, "you are no fire-man."

Photomicrographic Aid
A simple device, constructed from aluminum foil and a plastic slide by Roy J. Pence, principal laboratory technician of the division of entomology of the University of California at Los Angeles, has proved a valuable aid in increasing depth of focus of microscope objectives for photomicrography. Small holes, drilled close to the outer edge of the aluminum foil in graduated sizes, serve the purpose of an iris diaphragm, when the slide is moved from side to side. They provide a means of adjusting an otherwise permanent aperture.

Bottoms Up!

THE OLD lady leaned out of the carriage window, called the guard and said:

"Guard, does this train stop at Rugby?"
"Yes, madam."

"Well, will you tell me when we get to Rugby?"
"Yes, madam."

Then she turned to another traveler and said: "Will you know when we get to Rugby?"
"Yes, madam."

"Will you be sure to tell me when we get there?"
"Anything to oblige, madam."

When the train stopped at the next station she called the guard, and told him to be sure and remind her when the train reached Rugby.

This happened about every twenty minutes. In the end the train reached Rugby, and a passenger told her that she had arrived. Just on the guard rushed up and said, "This is where you get out, madam."

"Oh, no," she said. "If this is Rugby it must be twelve o'clock, and that's when I have to take my medicine."

Father of Subscription Library

Not the least important, though perhaps more indirect, contribution of Benjamin Franklin to education was his establishment of the first permanent subscription library. He always appreciated books, from the days when they were so hard for him to buy or borrow and he needed them so badly. He made many gifts of books—a library of three hundred to the town of Franklin, N. H.; others to the University of Pennsylvania, the Library company of Philadelphia, Yale college, and the Universities of Glasgow and St. Andrews; and he devised a plan for increasing and improving the library of Harvard college, himself contributing a substantial sum to the fund.

Check Storage Bins Often To Prevent Insect Damage

With one of the biggest grain crops in history now in storage it will pay farmers to check storage bins periodically for insect damage, suggests Gordon Mickle, entomologist for the Colorado A & M college extensive service.

If weevils or other granary insects are destroying your grain, you can still prevent further damage by fumigation. Although grain fumigation is most effective at air temperatures of 65 to 70 degrees, many weevils are killed at lower temperatures. Carbon disulfide is the most effective material, but since it is highly inflammable, it should not be used if it creates a fire hazard. Commercially prepared fumigants are available which are less of a fire hazard than carbon disulfide.

When fumigating Mickle says the following points should be kept in mind: (1) Make the bin as air tight as possible. (2) If carbon disulfide is used, keep all fires away. A spark from turning on an electric light may ignite the fumigant. (3) Bury burlap sacks about half way and pour on fumigant, then cover with a tarpaulin to confine the fumes. (4) Use carbon disulfide at the rate of one pound for each 25 bushels of grain. Use commercial mixtures as directed and allow bin to fumigate for 48 hours or longer.

Empty Cotton Flour Bags Make Good Dress Material

American woman's Number One hobby is home sewing. This past year, more homemakers have taken up the profitable amusement than ever before. In a recent nationwide survey, reasons given most often for the sudden boom in home sewing were to "economize on clothing expenses" and "for entertainment."

Many home sewers reveal that they use their empty cotton feed and flour bags as an inexpensive source of attractive sewing material. In recent years bag manufacturers have recognized the fact that sacks have further use after they have served as containers for commodities such as feed, flour, sugar, and salt. Today many bags are designed in gay dress prints, colorful stripes, and bright geometric patterns, as well as solid white, so that women can take advantage of the bags in creating lovely clothes and house decorations after the original contents are emptied.

The home sewing boom has given an idea to some bakers who use large quantities of flour. These bakers launder their empty bags and put them on sale in their shops, offering sewing material to their customers at minimum cost. Some of the bakers sell large quantities of the empty cotton flour bags to grocery stores, which in turn, offer them to their customers who sew.

Sylvester Says:

"Here's one key to low-cost housing—but who wants to use it?"

Even the house in front of the back-house can be easily prefabricated, if you care for outdoor plumbing. But you can't produce a lot, a foundation 6' deep, underground plumbing and water connections to the street; a paved street or a sidewalk, in a factory. In fact, you can't even factory-build the hole under the backhouse.

The modern, ordinary comforts, conveniences and land—the essential nature of any American home—account for about 1/3 of the cost of the house even though more and larger parts of the house are being factory fabricated and shipped.

Americans are no longer satisfied with 4 rooms and a path. That's why we have the highest standard of living in the world for the average citizen. In fact, 9 out of 10 of the world's bathtubs are in American homes, according to latest compiled international figures.

Our County And Social Security

By Mrs. Ruth G. Duffy, Manager.

"Hurrah! Hurrah! The Good Ole Summertime!" is being shouted by boys and girls in every nook and corner of our State as school bells cease to ring and school books are put aside. That glorious and long-awaited vacation is here. For many, vacation will not be a period of idleness, but work to help Dad in his struggle against the old man "high-cost-of-living."

This desire on the part of teenagers to contribute to the family coffer is borne out by statistics of the North Carolina Labor Department.

During the last seven years, young people generally have had little difficulty in finding jobs either full-time or part-time. The fact of greatly increased teen-age employment is evident from a glance at the annual certification totals compiled by the Department of Labor which shows that 23,718 were certified for employment in 1948.

You boys and girls who work this summer will be required to have a Social Security Account Number Card if your work is not on a farm, in a private home, for your parents, the Government, or a religious or charitable institution. If you have never had an account number card, you should apply for an Original card. You can get the application blank from your local postoffice. Completely fill it out with ink and mail to the Social Security Administration, 437 Nissen Building, Winston-Salem, for issuance of your number, which will be mailed to you. If you have had a number and have lost it, you should apply for a duplicate card. You, too, should get an application blank from your local postoffice, complete and mail to the above address. You must be sure to state on your application that you have had a number and give us the number in the space provided for it, if possible.

Since future benefits payable on your wage record will be based on wages credited to your account, be sure every employer for whom you work gets a record of your name and number as shown on your card. Take care of your card. It is valuable.

Last but not least is the wish for a happy vacation whether you work or play.

I will be in Mocksville on Wednesday, June 22, at the court house, second floor, at 12:30 p. m. I will also be in Coolemeec on the same date at the Erwin Cotton Mills office at 11 a. m.

Pig Brooders Used To Protect Litter

Are Found Valuable At Farrowing Time 'This little pig went to market' is a great first line for a nursery rhyme. But it doesn't go far enough as far as farmers are concerned. They'd rather wait until the pig grows up before sending it to market. And the growing-up process is no snap, especially during the first few weeks when the old sow may crush her precious off-spring as they crowd around her in an effort to keep warm.

Here is shown a pig brooder in operation. Ofttimes some form of supplementary heat is necessary to prevent a high mortality rate among pigs. Pig brooders such as this have been developed for this purpose.

market starts at farrowing time. In the spring some form of supplementary heat is needed to prevent a high mortality rate. Pig brooders have been developed for this purpose. Their use will save an average of one and a half pigs per litter, according to Purdue university.

Brooders are easy to build and economical to operate. Generally, they are constructed by boarding off a corner of the farrowing pen to a height of about 16 inches. A roof is placed over this rectangular enclosure and a board nailed across the front opening about 8 inches above the floor. Heat is provided by a 150 to 300-watt lamp, the size depending on weather conditions. A hole is cut in the top, and the lamp placed in a suitable reflector which is bolted securely over the opening. Pig brooders consume an average of 36 kilowatt hours of power per litter.

Meat Income High

Almost one-third of the American farmer's total cash income last year came from the sale of meat animals, according to the chart above prepared by the American Meat Institute from U.S. department of agriculture figures. The value of meat animals was more than nine and one-half billion dollars. Total cash receipts from all crops, including government payments, approached 31 and one-third billion dollars.

From their cash income, farmers and ranchers paid out large amounts for stock, feed, labor and other operating costs.

Milk By-Products Hold Infant Food Source

An infant food made from edible by-products of milk may soon open a new market for dairymen in tests now going on in Mexico continue to show favorable results. This is the conclusion drawn by Dr. Harold Macy of the University of Minnesota.

Dr. Macy and Irvine McQuarrie, pediatrics head at the university, have visited Mexico where they conferred with leading pediatricians on the tests. The new baby food will offer opportunities for use in many countries if future experiments prove satisfactory.

Calf Which 'Sits Down' Interests Veterinarians

Cattle don't sit down ordinarily, so it was news when the American Veterinary association expressed professional interest in the strange case of a Hereford calf on a farm in Tennessee. The AMV journal said the Tennessee calf often sits on the ground with her hind legs sprawled forward.

The calf usually lies down again before trying to rise to all four feet, the journal reported.

Bake a Cake Appropriate for the Bride! (See Recipes Below)

Wedding Plans

IF YOU'RE PLANNING to entertain after the wedding and make all the refreshments yourself, with just a little help, do consider a simple menu as the most effective means of doing it.

You'll probably have to cook in large quantity since many guests will be there. Time will have to be spent on the decorations. All in all, if you want everything to be perfect, it's best to have a simple menu which can be carried out more perfectly than a larger, elaborate menu.

FOR A LARGE wedding reception, a simple but effective menu goes like this: Assorted Tiny Sandwiches, Potato Chips, Stuffed Olives, Salted Nuts, Fruit Punch, Coffee, Wedding Cake, Ice Cream or Ice Cream Mold.

The cake may be made in several layers of different sizes. If you desire a smaller cake, use three or four layers of the same size. In either case, make the cake and decorate it at least 24 hours ahead of serving time so that it can be sliced easily.

Here's a good recipe for a large cake. The filling and icing recipes follow:

- Six Layer Wedding Cake (Serves 16-18) 6 cups sifted cake flour, 6 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 1/2 cups shortening, 4 cups sugar, 2 teaspoons vanilla, 1 teaspoon almond extract, 2 cups milk, 10 egg whites.

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Cream shortening with vanilla and almond extract until fluffy. Fold in sugar and blend until thoroughly mixed. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with milk, in small amounts, beating after each addition, until smooth. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry and fold in gently. Pour into greased, waxed-paper lined pans and bake in a moderate (350°) oven for 30 minutes. This recipe makes six nine-inch layers.

Lemon Filling (For 6 nine-inch layers) 2 1/4 cups sugar, 1/4 cup cornstarch, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons grated lemon rind, 1 cup lemon juice, 1 1/2 cups water, 3 eggs, beaten, 3 tablespoons butter.

Mix sugar, cornstarch and salt thoroughly. Add remaining ingredients in order given and blend thoroughly. Cook over boiling water, stirring constantly until thickened. Cool.

Ornamental Icing 2 cups sugar, 1 cup water, 3 egg whites, 1/4 tablespoon cream of tartar, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla, 1/2 teaspoon almond extract. Boil together sugar and water.

LYNN SAYS: Serve Salads to Sharpen Summer-Wilted Appetites. Tomatoes may be stuffed with seafood salad, mixed vegetables or egg salad for a salad meal that's complete.

Use this combination for fruit salad: melon balls, marinated in lime juice, white grapes, peach slices and pineapple spears.

Want a light fruit salad that's colorful to serve as dessert? Try fresh, diced pears, sliced bananas and red raspberries.

Alternate wedges of cantaloupe and honeydew melon with orange without stirring, to 242° or until a small amount, dropped from a spoon spins a thread. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry and pour on hot syrup in a thin stream while beating constantly. Add cream of tartar, vanilla and almond extract and beat until thick enough to spread. Cover cake smoothly with a part of the icing and beat remaining icing until cool and stiff enough to hold shape when forced through pastry tube.

YOU MAY TINT some of the icing forced through the pastry tube a delicate yellow or pink if you want tiny roses for decoration. Also tint part of the icing a pale green if you want leaf decorations for the roses.

For the top of the cake, you may purchase a bride and groom decoration or a pair of lovebirds.

When setting cake on a platter, place fresh flowers all around the base of the cake, for decoration.

Strawberry Punch (Makes 8 quarts) 2 quarts water, 1 cup granulated sugar, 1 cup corn syrup, 4 quarts strawberries, 1 1/2 quarts chilled orange juice, 1 pint chilled lemon juice, 2 quarts ginger ale, 2 thinly sliced limes or 2 quarts lemon sherbet.

Combine sugar, water and corn syrup. Bring to a boil. Add the washed, hulled strawberries and boil, covered, for four minutes. Remove, strain through a sieve, without pressing, and chill. Just before serving, combine with other ingredients. If using sherbet, place in scoops on top of punch in punch bowl.

Coffee (Serves 25) 1/2 pound drip grind coffee, 4 1/4 quarts boiling water. Tie the coffee loosely in a fine cheesecloth or muslin type bag. If desired, mix coffee with one egg, including the shell, to which has been added a small amount of cold water. This will make coffee clear.

Drop the bag in the water which is boiling in a large kettle. Cover the kettle and turn heat very low. Let coffee steep for 12-15 minutes. Remove bag and serve coffee as needed. This will give 25 people an average coffee cup serving.

Look into your garden for salad inspiration. Lettuce, spinach, radishes, carrot sticks and a bit of watercress, if you have it, make a delectable green salad.

Start a meal off with a salad to pep appetites; watermelon, honeydew and cantaloupe balls, pineapple cubes, red cherries and a topping of sherbet.

Lima beans left over from supper? Mix them with chopped sweet pickle, celery, sliced, stuffed olives and mayonnaise and serve for lunch.

For a picnic salad bowl that's a meal in itself, lay asparagus tips

Conquest of Death

Lesson for June 19, 1949

DOCTORS TALK about conquering death, but they never do. All they can manage is to put it off a little. In all the long sad story of mankind there is only one absolute conquest of death. It happened on the first Easter morning, and it was a turning point in the history of the world.

The few lines about the Resurrection, in our New Testament, would not cover the front page of this newspaper. We do not know all we want to know. But those few lines Dr. Foreman tell us enough to set us singing, they are a solid foundation for a soaring faith.

The Mighty Act of God WE shall be disappointed if we expect the Gospels to "explain" the Resurrection. If there is anything the stories show clearly, it is that the first persons who knew of the Resurrection were confused and shaken by it. The disciples had not expected anything like this, and they may not fully have understood what was going on.

What they were sure of, what they could not deny, was first of all that Christ rose from the dead, and also that it was God who raised him from the dead. God had beaten the one unbeatable power — death. Death, the universal conqueror, turned out for once to be the conquered.

It is only those who can believe in an all-powerful God who can fully believe in the Resurrection.

It Is The Lord

WHAT MANNER of person was Jesus, after that first Easter morning? There were some differences hard to describe, and in fact not described, only hinted at. You notice that at times it was not easy to recognize him at first. Paul refers to Christ's "glorious body" and surely there must be a glory in a person who has actually proved a way for death to hold—a glory such as even Christ, before Calvary, had not shown. And yet—and yet, it was the same Jesus they had always known.

No Ghost

BY NIGHT, in many a "seance," mediums profess to get in touch with the spirits of the dead. If you could believe the spiritists, Shakespeare and Queen Victoria and innumerable other famous people, have come back and talked from beyond the grave. But the thing that makes the Christian church more than doubtful about such performances, is that somehow the dead-and-come-back genius is never a genius any more. Neither Shakespeare nor any other famous person has said anything worth saying through a "medium." And even these feeble ghosts cannot endure the daylight. They have to come at night.

How different were the comings of Jesus! There was nothing weird or uncanny about him. Around the supper table, or on an afternoon walk, or out on the lake shore under the morning sun... never the poor mumbling ghost of a seance, never any stupid truffles from his lips, but words of truths and comfort which the church cherishes as among the best from our Lord's mind. Jesus' resurrection is not the story of the survival of a ghost, still less the mere return of a revived and walking corpse.

It is the story of a Divine Person who conquered death, and who came back from that conquest in power and majesty, yet with all the tenderness, love and brilliance he had ever shown.

Our Hope in Him

PAUL (in I Cor. 15) makes it clear that our hope of life beyond-death grows right out of Christ's resurrection. The enemies of Christ would have given their right eyes to stop the mouths of the men who told that story, and to prove it a lie.

But they could never do it. You cannot well stop people from believing what they have seen with their own eyes. So our hope of eternal life is not just a hope.

As Paul says, if that were all, we should be miserable men.

Yeah, When?

Mrs. Simpleton was being treated for eye trouble, and one day called at the office of the optician.

"Doctor," said she, "I forgot to ask you about the eye lotion you sent me."

"Well, what have you done about it?"

"Nothing yet," she replied. "Do I drop it in my eyes before or after meals?"

THAT'S TELLING HIM!

Englishman: "Is that a dray horse?"

Yankee: "No, it's a brown one—and stop that baby talk."

Sitting It Out A woman approached the ticket booth of a movie house.

"Did my little boy come in here at nine o'clock this morning?" she asked. "He had on a little green sweater, with a little green cap—and he's got kind of reddish hair."

"Yes, he's in the second row," said the ticket seller.

"Do you mind giving him this package? It's his supper."

Wait and See A doctor called on a patient for five visits without giving any satisfaction.

On the fifth visit the patient announced he'd called in another doctor.

"He said your diagnosis is all wrong."

"Is that so?" snapped the doctor. "Well, the autopsy will show who's right."

THAT STOPPED HIM

Most of the Jones' Sunday motor trip had been marred by a violent quarrel. On their homeward journey they passed a pasture field just as a donkey brayed long and loud.

"Is that a relative of yours?" he asked spitefully.

"Only by marriage, dear," she replied sweetly.

Strangers All

"Driver, go a little bit slower. This is the first time I ever rode in a taxicab."

"Lady, you've got nothing on me. This is the first time I ever drove one."

Always Alert

A woman went to a doctor. "Doctor," she said, "my husband talks in his sleep all night."

"I'll give him something to quiet him," said the doctor.

"No, I want you to give me something to keep me awake. I don't want to miss a thing."

LUCKY MAN

Two Negroes who had not seen each other in five years discovered each had been married during this time.

"What kinda woman did you all get, Mose?" asked Rastus.

"She's an angel, Rastus, dat's what she is."

"Boy, you is lucky. Mine's still livin'," Rastus muttered sorrowfully.

Father: "Well, son, what did you learn in school today?"

Son (proudly): "I learned to say 'Yes, sir,' and 'No, sir,' and 'Yes ma'am' and 'No, ma'am.'"

Father: "You did, eh?"

Son: "Yeah!"

Never So Bad

A man pinned underneath his car after an auto accident was being questioned by a policeman.

"Married?"

"No," said the man, "this is the worst fix I was ever in."

Protecting Silver from Tarnish

Question: Is there any way to prevent silverware from tarnishing? Isn't there a preparation to apply on the silverware as a thin coating to prevent tarnish?

Answer: Dealers in jewelers' supplies usually sell a lacquer for this purpose, but firms of this kind are only found in large cities. If you cannot get it, a clear lacquer, sold at a well-stocked paint store, can be used instead. After polishing the silver, wipe it with benzine and then apply the lacquer.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Russians Urge West German State Be Wiped Out; Ask 4-Power Rule; Congress Curtails 'Must' Legislation

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

GERMANY:

A Sour Note

The Big Four conference in Paris was underway. For the first time in the cold war between East and West there was real hope that harmony would be forthcoming.

In fact, Secretary of State Dean Acheson had been warned by Senator Vandenberg, senate foreign affairs committee chairman, not to be too aggressive with the Russians, but rather to keep open, if possible, the door to lasting peace.

WITH the Russian blockade of Berlin lifted and the Soviets apparently ready to sing a new tune in world cooperation, the theme of the conference was to be harmony.

But the delegates hardly had time to warm the seats of their chairs before the Russians were at it again. Russian Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky blandly proposed that the council of foreign ministers wipe out the new west German state and return German affairs, including direction of the Ruhr, to four-power control machinery.

MANY had expected this course by the Soviets. They had predicted that lifting of the Berlin blockade was done to soften up the ministers for this very proposal. But it didn't work. All three western powers immediately rejected the proposition.

The Soviet foreign minister showed little tact. He led up to his proposal with a long tirade denouncing the U.S., Britain and France for what he termed "violations" of the Potsdam agreements.

SOVIET ideology could not tolerate a separate German state with autonomous powers and there was little question that the Kremlin would stand firm in this position. On the other hand there was no possibility that the western powers would recede from their intention to return government of Germany to the German people. Thus it would seem the impasse was clearly established.

For the U. S., Dean Acheson delivered himself of what might well be the decade's masterpiece of understatement when he called the Russian suggestions, "disappointing."

But then he summed up the world's reaction when he added: "My hopes are distinctly chilled."

CONGRESS:

Let's Wait

A lot of "trouble for nothing" might be an apt phrase to describe all the national agitation against President Truman's health insurance and civil rights proposals—for his own leaders in congress erased the issues by taking both hotly-contested items of legislation off the "must" list.

ALSO slated for further delay was the administration's four-billion-dollar tax increase plan, the equally controversial Brannan farm program and the foreign-arms proposal.

This left only three measure bills for top priority action. They were: 1. Extension of the reciprocal trade program which has passed the house but is stalled in the senate.

2. Repeal of the Taft-Hartley labor act. 3. Ratification of the North Atlantic security treaty which requires only a two-thirds majority vote in the senate.

SENATE MAJORITY LEADER Scott Lucas indicated action might be sought before adjournment on minimum-wage boosts, the international wheat agreement, and a pay raise for top government executives and military personnel.

Speculation was that decision to abandon for the time the compulsory health insurance program stemmed from mounting congressional clamor for sharp cuts in government spending, with the civil rights legislation delay believed motivated by fear of a southern filibuster. Congress wants to adjourn by August, and consideration of any of the "powder keg" legislation might make that impossible.

LUCAS said he thought President Truman was "definitely satisfied" with the progress being made.

That surprised some legislators, for unless congress repeals the Taft-Hartley law, the President will be unable to point to accomplishment of any of his campaign pledges when congress adjourns.

STAND-IN IN DOGHOUSE

Goose on Loose Perturbs Gold Rush Fete

Genevieve the goose was on the loose and her successor was in the doghouse.

Genevieve the first was a plump young bird bought from a farmer to play the role of the goose that laid the golden egg for the Women's Medical college '49 Gold Rush fete in Philadelphia. An important role which the ladies were determined to see done right.

Potent Vote

POTENT VOTE . . . This lone woman voter, to whom a pair of shoes would be a Godsend, is shown as she cast her ballot in the elections held in the Russian zone of Germany. The Russians had hoped to make a big propaganda gun of the election—a gun that would be used in the "Big Four" conference beginning May 23. But the Soviets had to admit that one-third of the valid ballots cast voted against the all-Communist slate.

FORRESTAL:

"Better to Die . . ."

"Comfortless, nameless, hopeless, save in the dark prospect of the yawning grave . . . better to die, and sleep the never-waking sleep than linger on . . ."

With the import of these lines from Sophocles' "Chorus From Ajax" so obviously goading his consciousness, James V. Forrestal, former U. S. defense secretary, plunged to his death from the 16th floor of national naval medical center in Washington.

FORRESTAL had been under treatment for "operational fatigue" since April 2. Attendant physicians said he had been considering suicide, that the nature of his malady indicated this mental condition as an inescapable adjunct to it. But they felt he was getting better; in fact they had hoped to release him from the hospital in 30 days.

As secretary of defense, Forrestal labored under a burden such as few national servants have carried. His was the job of directing the gigantic naval program during the war, as well as the almost hopeless task of attempting unification of the armed forces. The strain was great and a sympathetic people could understand why it might have broken a strong man.

President Truman took full cognizance of Forrestal's worth when he declared the former defense secretary was "as much a casualty of war as if he had died on the firing line."

BUT there was an added burden weighing on Forrestal. That was a burden of attack and vilification from two of the nation's top radio newscaster-columnists. After his shocking death, the press of the nation began to reevaluate the impact of its effect and that of the radio.

Some nationally-syndicated observers charged that the attacks upon Forrestal via radio and in print had added to his load of desperation. They advanced the premise that unless some check was put upon this type of journalism it might discourage many able men from entering government service.

There is possibly no agony of mankind comparable to that which must go on in the mind of the man about to take his own life. It is wholly foreign to the concept of the normal, every-day mind. Certainly it flies in the face of the very first natural law—self preservation. Weighing all this, it is difficult to understand how there could be anything but sympathy for Forrestal, and an honest effort to understand something of the torturous mental suffering which drove him to leap to his death.

JOB OUTLOOK:

Better for Grads

With starting salaries holding firm at last year's record high levels, signs of a last-minute pickup in jobs for the mammoth 1949 class of college graduates were showing up, according to an annual employment survey by the family economics bureau of Northwestern National Life Insurance Company.

Although two-thirds of the 133 colleges and universities covered to date find their total employment calls all the way from slightly to "disappointingly" below 1948, schools reporting in the final week of the survey have shown a much better ratio, the summary says. Approximately half of the late responses report their record of job offers to date as equal to or slightly above 1948 experience.

DARTMOUTH college's school of business administration observes, for example, "We were disturbed by the February-March slump, but the later pick-up has 'wiped out our losses.'" St. Louis university also reports that demand faded in February and March, but "as of the past six weeks it has begun to develop beautifully." University of Nebraska's college of business administration notes a stronger employment demand in the last ten days. But Duquesne university at Pittsburgh reports, "Calls in general are less than in 1948 except those for sales personnel which have increased."

Boston university says job offers are 7 per cent fewer than last year; Ohio State finds about the same number of employers represented on the campus this spring, but each firm taking fewer men. Yale university has recorded more employment calls than as of a year ago.

FIVE out of every six schools listed in the survey report starting salaries to be as high or higher than last year. Prevailing range of offers is from $200 to $275 per month for business administration and liberal arts seniors, and from $225 to $325 for engineering grads, with exceptional men getting still higher offers. Illinois Institute of Technology reports: "The class of 375 engineers graduating January 29, 1949, averaged $280 per month for a basic 40-hour week; this is the highest average salary of any class in its history."

TOURISTS:

More Cultured

The American tourist these days was coming in for a new type of treatment from his overseas hosts. For instance, in Capetown, South Africa, according to merchants, the new tourist is not the "vulgar type which used to invade Europe in hordes, wearing horn-rimmed glasses and loud clothes."

"THIS new American is well bred, quiet, wealthy, but has the familiar souvenir mania," said one curio dealer. "One bought everything I showed him. 'Is it genuine Zulu?' he kept asking." Then, the dealer added, "he took all my shields, assegais and beadwork. I had to call a ricksha to get the stuff down to the ship. And when he saw the ricksha, he wanted to buy that."

AMERICANS no doubt will palpitate with pride at this new evaluation of their cultural level by those abroad who profit most from tourist business—but most will console themselves with the fact that so long as he has any money, the American tourist will manage to get along quite well wherever he may be in Europe or elsewhere.

Victims

Mrs. Ralph J. Fugatt holds Mark Richard, 7 weeks, at their Springfield home. Her husband has never seen his son because he is in Rutland, Vermont jail under an early 1800 law which demands payment of court judgment or paupers oath.

CRIME:

Penalty Apropos

A Midland, Mich., judge sagely fitted the punishment to the crime in a case in municipal court. Two youths, 21 and 18, were brought in on a charge of crashing a wedding party and running away with the wedding cake. They said they did it on a dare.

After pondering a moment, the judge ordered the culprits to buy a wedding present and give it to the newlyweds.

MIRROR Of Your MIND

Guilt Causes Renunciation

By Lawrence Gould

Will a man "renounce" a girl he really loves?

Answer: Yes, if he has an exaggerated sense of guilt which drives him to deprive himself of happiness. Under such conditions, the stronger his love, the surer he will be to find some plausible excuse for giving her up, since what he fears most of all is what he thinks will make him happy. But the average man who tells his sweetheart that he cannot marry her because he is "unworthy of her" is more often trying to deceive her—or himself. He really is afraid she represents a standard which he is unwilling to try to live up to.

Could children grow up without homes?

Answer: No, writes Kate Friedlander, British welfare worker, in the Journal of Mental Science. For a child's conscience develops out of his relations with his mother, and he must have constant contact with her during the first six years of his life if he is to learn to transform his primitive instincts into useful and effective patterns of behavior. "The development of an ethical code that will be strong enough to govern the individual's future actions is dependent on the existence of family life," and nothing else can replace it.

Does seeking "perfection" prove high standards?

Answer: No. It shows that you are morbidly afraid of being criticized, either by others or by yourself. What makes your standards high—and so rigid—is that you don't dare to leave the tiniest loophole in your defense against largely imaginary accusations. The woman who cannot bear to see a speck of dust in her house does not really love cleanliness; she's afraid of being called a "bad housekeeper." And the man who cannot finish a job because he "can never get it done to satisfy him" is the victim of a similar fear.

FROM AN OLD POEM—

KEEPING HEALTHY Today's Most Amazing Medicine

By Dr. James W. Barton

AS YOUR PHYSICIAN thinks over the past 10 years, you would naturally believe he would have in mind the wonderful work of saving lives now being done by penicillin and the sulfa drugs. Diseases that were practically all fatal and others in which but a small percentage recovered, are now successfully battled by these antibiotics, as they are called, because they kill the organisms which formerly caused death. Two other antibiotics, streptomycin and aureomycin, have been recently added to man's defenses.

It may come as a surprise to many to learn that your physician is thinking more about the blood coursing through your blood vessels as he realizes—as he did not realize just 10 years ago—that blood is today's most amazing medicine. "It has become more of a miracle worker than penicillin."

In a pamphlet, "Blood's Magic For All," issued by the Public Affairs Committee Inc., a non-profit, educational organization in New York City, Alton L. Blakeslee states that blood already does more lifesaving jobs than any one of our wonderful drugs. If, on a single day, you looked in upon the hospitals in one large city, you might see the following:

A surgeon, in a brain operation, packs a soft, white spongy mass into a wound. It quickly stops the bleeding and he leaves it there. The body will gradually absorb this sponge—fibrin foam—because it is made from human blood. He covers the exposed brain with transparent plastic film. This film, made from blood, stays safely till the body manufactures a new covering.

In the accident ward, a quick injection of a clear liquid, human serum albumin, made from blood, saves a dying man from shock.

In the delivery room a new-born baby is being given a complete new blood supply to halt a possibly fatal battle caused by Rh antibodies in his veins.

A boy who is a "bleeder" is given an injection of a blood product that enables him to have diseased teeth removed.

From April to November of 1947 a total of 72 patients with tuberculous meningitis were treated at the University of Athens. All nine patients who didn't receive streptomycin died, whereas of the 63 who received injections of the drug, 29 survived. The earlier the treatment the greater were the chances of recovery. "Early," in this case, means within the first 10 days following the onset of the attack.

No one is born a neurotic. It is more our surrounding "culture," our personal environment, which drive us to neuroses. A neurosis begins in disturbances in close human relationships.

Notwithstanding all that has been learned about the rheumatic disturbance, it still causes more disability than any other ailment except perhaps the common cold.

U. N. Shuns Spain

INSIDE REASON why the American delegation to the United Nations abstained from voting on Spain was because Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt threatened to denounce the state department publicly if it voted for Franco.

Warren Austin, the U.S. delegate, was all set to vote for sending ambassadors back to Spain when Mrs. Roosevelt found out about it. Immediately she telephoned secretary of state Acheson and gave him her very blunt views on getting cozy with a dictator who had played ball with Hitler and Mussolini during the war.

Acheson seemed impressed with Mrs. Roosevelt's argument and suggested as a compromise that the American delegation abstain when the vote came up. He further promised to issue a statement blasting Franco as a dictator created with the help of Hitler and Mussolini, which he later did. This satisfied Mrs. Roosevelt and she has said nothing more about the matter.

Senatorial Triangle

The two women who are fighting over Sen. Harry Cain, Republican of Washington actually came face to face the other day.

Mrs. Cain, who was put on notice by her husband in a public press conference that he was divorcing her, nevertheless turned the other cheek and went to the hospital to visit the sick senator.

While there, Miss Mary Hall, a senate secretary who may marry Senator Cain after the divorce, also arrived for a visit.

The sudden meeting was too much for Mrs. Cain and she lashed out at Miss Hall for stealing the senator's affections. "You may have the game," she sizzled, "but you'll never get the name."

Later both women cooled off and walked out of the hospital together.

The Cain divorce is supposed to become final on June 14. The lawyer who is handling the matter for Senator Cain in Tacoma, Wash., is Ed Eisenhower, Ike's brother.

Rent Control Battle

The legislators of Alabama, Texas, Nebraska and Florida now are considering bills introduced by real estate interests to abandon rent control.

One of the public-opinion gimmicks put out by some of the real estate boys is that a state can temporarily get rid of rent control, then later restore it—under the rent act recently passed by Congress.

However, this is not the case. The rent-control act passed by Congress categorically and definitely bars any reinstatement of federal rent control if a state or city once votes to decontrol. In other words, if a state or city once breaks away from the rent-control program it can never come back again.

Atomic Contracts

Fainstaking, persevering Sen. Joe O'Mahoney of Wyoming has been applying the scourge to big monopolies for years. Now he has come up with revealing information on the way big corporations handle big contracts with the government.

In 1948 the atomic energy commission signed a contract with General Electric for atomic energy work at Hanford, Wash., and Schenectady, N. Y., under which G. E. was paid all its costs plus a fixed fee of $1. The total amount obligated under this contract was 370 million dollars, of which seven million was paid to General Electric for salaries, training of personnel, etc.

Meanwhile, Senator O'Mahoney points out that it has become a common practice of the atomic energy commission to get around congressional appropriations by authorizing blanket contracts in such a way that Congress cannot judge their validity.

In the current year, for instance, the commission has contract appropriations of 600 million dollars and congress has no way of knowing what it's all about.

British Compromise

American Ambassador Leighton Stuart in China is mad as a hornet at the British for trying to make a deal with the Chinese Communists behind his back.

Without telling Stuart a word, British representatives talked with the Chinese Communists twice. By accident Stuart has discovered that what the British have proposed is this: If the Chinese Communists let the British keep Hong Kong, the British government then will be willing to recognize the Reds.

AS BABY-SITTERS, FOOTBALL PLAYERS . . .

Gridders, Says Lou Little, Make Good Sitters

. . . WOULD MAKE JUNIOR STAY IN LINE

By H. I. PHILLIPS

GRIDDERS ARE SITTERS

Lou Little, famous Columbia football coach, has appealed for jobs for football players as baby sitters. "It is no gag," he says. "I will personally guarantee that any of my players will prove 100 per cent dependable."

So there, Junior! Behave yourself while momsy and popsy are at the theater tonight or else develop some fast off-tackle plays.

Reactions to football players as baby sitters have been varied. At first thought, many parents had difficulty associating "Rock-a-bye Baby" and "Sleep, Pretty One, Sleep" with "Block that kick!" and "Hit that line hard!" They found it hard to think of a husky fullback as the best person to handle kids who made up their own rules as the evening went along.

Even in a home where the kiddies are sure to get rambunctious a crack gridiron man can detect the signals, sense the trick plays and stop the formations. Unless, of course, he is in one of those homes where there are so many children they use the double platoon system.

These days in the video belts where baseball games and horse races are broadcast the same afternoon are proving pretty hectic to sports fans. Trying to follow both is doing the American nervous system no good. We found ourselves shouting, "Slide ya big bum!" at a horse the other day and yelling, "Stop pullin' his head off," at a ballplayer.

Why Fans Go Mad

It is all quite confusing. To see both sports, a video addict has to be pretty fast on the switches. In a stirring ball game it is quite a trick tuning out at the proper moment to catch the horses all set in the starting gate. And in an especially important horse race split-second judgment is necessary in deciding when to tune out of the horse oval and into the ball park.

He liked a horse on which Arcaro was announced as the jockey. "Arcaro!" he exclaimed. "That's poor judgment. They pitched him yesterday."

Then while the race track announcer was chatting on generalities, Elmer dove back into the baseball channel. The home team had a man on second, one out and a big hitter up. It added to his pulse beat and general confusion. "Come on!" he yelled, "Don't go wide on the turns. Ya can't lose at the weights!"

Back to the ponies he switched, just in time. The horses broke as one. Elmer liked something called Mike's Pride. "Atta baby," he cried, "You got your stuff today!"

It did not seem to mother that when she asked, "Do you think the baby is all right?" she would find comfort in father's answer, "Yes, my dear. Remember that our baby sitter for tonight booted the longest punt in the 1948 season!"

But on more sober reflection most people decided that, children being the problems they are when mom and pop are out, it might be reassuring to know that they are in the hands of a baby sitter coached in a rugged school and with a good record for victory, on fields wet or dry.

Kids are quick to recognize authority. They know when they are up against heavy odds. In the manner and actions of a university grid star, they sense power, speed, determination and the old "do or die" spirit.

Few children will try to sit up until midnight listening to the radio if the baby sitter is all-American material.

Baby is not going to whip out the argun around 9:30 and take some pot shots at the old woman across the courtyard, knowing that a great broken field runner is on watch.

No kid is going to howl for a cookie if it can see in the eyes of the baby sitter the never-yield-an-inch spirit of a football man around whose end no opponent made any progress in two seasons.

All in all, parents should feel easy with a football star as a baby

SHUT-IN

Grace Noll Crowell

I WAKED to a day of darkness and cold rain, I said, "Would that the hours were past and the day gone."

The wet boughs in the wild wind lashed the pane, The flowers were sodden splashes upon the lawn. "Would that the night were here and the hours through!"

Restless, my heart cried out, and then there came A sudden shaft of sun and a stain of blue, Catching the curtained darkness like a flame.

And there was firelight dancing upon the hearth; There was a small book weighted with golden lore; A song rode in on the wind-waves of the earth; A neighbor breasted the storm to reach my door. A beloved voice came to me over the wire, And there was a letter from many a mile away. Shut-in? My heart was ashamed of its desire; It would have missed so much had it missed today.

Now a writer and producer of radio shows—"My Friend Irma," "Life with Luigi," and a new one, "The Private Lives of Eddie and Anne"—he is also an associate director, producer and writer of motion pictures. "My Friend Irma" is his first one. "Marie Wilson steals the show," he assured me; but a moment later, "John Lund is wonderful; steals the show." He said the same of Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis—but didn't mention that he plays the voice of "Joe," heard only on the phone. CBS and Paramount are lucky to have him under contract.

With M-G-M shooting sequences for "Adam's Rib" all around New York pretty girls wearing dark glasses learned to avoid crowds; the interested spectators suspected them of being movie actresses. Judy Holliday, one of the principals, kept right on in her play. "Born Yesterday," during the shooting. Tom Ewell, just through with a play, is now back in Hollywood.

Another Metro picture, the musical "On the Town," has been shooting in New York. All six principals—Gene Kelly, Frank Sinatra, Jules Munshin, Ann Miller, Vera-Ellen and Betty Garrett, worked two days at the Brooklyn navy yard.

Cast in a minor role in "Riding High," Dorothy Barrett sang a song for members of the cast during a break; Director Frank Capra heard her and chose her to sing with Bing. She has appeared in several Broadway productions and was vocalist for Vaughn Monroe's band for six months before entering films. Her next step up is a featured role in "Copper Canyon," Technicolor western.

SMILING LOSER

By Richard H. Wilkinson

KIRBY FOUND the girl seated on an upturned box behind the stables crying. He hesitated, feeling awkward, then said:

"Hello. Anything wrong?" She looked up quickly, appraisingly. "No, please go away."

Instead, Kirby squatted on his heels. "You must have lost some money on that last race. Black Fox fooled every one by not coming in. I lost too."

"I suppose I'm a baby to cry, but I couldn't help it. I—my father and I staked everything on Black Fox. Then that terrible I'm-a-Runnin', who nobody thought had a chance, had to win."

She hesitated, dabbing at her eyes. He seemed like a nice young man. And she did so want company and to talk . . .

He discovered her name was Polly Hayden. The next day he called at her house and met her father, a jolly faced old gentleman with white walrus moustaches.

"We really shouldn't feel so badly," Polly told her father after the introductions were over. "Kirby lost a lot more than we and he isn't complaining at all." That night Polly and Kirby had dinner at a little inn out on the Tamiami trail.

He knew she was wondering when and how he was going to pay his racing debts, and where he was going to get the money to establish himself in the law business. You just can't hang out a shingle in Miami and expect business at once. But he didn't offer the information. The next day he hired an office on Flagler street, then called up Col. Stratton and asked that racing enthusiast to meet him at Hialeah. "Colonel," he said over a sandwich and coffee an hour later, "I'm going to take you up on the offer you made me for I'm-a-Runnin'. He's yours for $50,000."

The colonel stared, "Now wait a minute, Kirby. Has the horse died or broken a leg or something?"

"Nothing of the sort," Kirby laughed. "I'm quitting racing for good. It's no business for an energetic young lawyer to be wasting his time at. I hired an office this morning."

They went out to the stables and looked at I'm-a-Runnin'. The colonel couldn't understand it, but he wrote his check for $50,000 and the papers were passed. Conscious of a queer sensation in the pit of his stomach, Kirby headed back for the stables for a last farewell. Outside I'm-a-Runnin's stall he stopped dead still at sight of Polly Hayden talking with his stable boy.

HER EYES blazed at him. "So! The good loser. The man who can lose everything, who will have to spend the rest of his life paying his racing debts and still smile! Oh, what a fool I've been!"

"Wait a minute! Listen!" He caught at her arm but she jerked away. He followed her out to her car. "You've got to listen," he said desperately, getting in beside her. "I only did it because I thought it would make you feel better. And it worked. I meant it when I said I was through with racing. I've sold I'm-a-Runnin' to Colonel Stratton. Look!" He held out the bill of sale and the check.

She stared at him round-eyed, frightened. "Oh, you shouldn't have! Kirby, you shouldn't! You'll never be able—I mean, you love horses. Any one can see that. You loved I'm-a-Runnin'."

"Not half as much as I love you," he told her soberly. He put his arm around her. "You believe that, don't you? You must believe it. "Darling, of course I do. And—I am glad that you're going to be a respectable lawyer, only—only—"

"Well, sometime, after we've been respectable for a good long while, we'll buy another horse, won't we? A horse as great as I'm-a-Runnin'? Because—we both love horses, don't we?"

"We do," Kirby agreed joyfully.

Children Will Adore This Sturdy Playhouse

IF YOU'VE made up your mind to build a playhouse (it happens to every father) give some thought to its use in later years. If you make it too small, your children will outgrow it. If you make it too large they won't feel it was built exclusively for their use. The playhouse illustrated is the happy medium—it measures 12 feet by 8 feet. It's a little house with possibilities for a long and useful life. It is one every child will never forget. The front can be left open to the floor, or storm windows may be used to close it in during bad weather. Later, as the child grows, it can be furnished as a clubhouse for the neighborhood youngsters.

How's Britain Now?

Current news reports suggest that the British are still having a tough time, though things seem a little better with them lately. Actually, it is high time for signs of recovery. How much better off England would be right now—how much sooner she would have come out of the kinks if she had kept safe her traditional freedoms—that no one knows. But if the English mind and spirit come out of these dangerous experiences unscathed, it will surely be a miracle. (There are those who will give more credit for improvements to the Marshall Plan and to the generosity of the American taxpayer than they will to Britain's labor government.) The sad thing about it is that the Englishman is still the worse off, having given up much of his heritage of freedom and liberty.

Mess of Pottage

The swap has netted a poor mess of pottage indeed. England's experience is the lesson of the century for America. There was the dentist, for example, who took his own life because he found it impossible to operate his office as the government ordered. His suicide note cited too many forms to be filled out for the government and declared he could not do his work and the red-tape too.

What about small business? Take filling stations (petrol there). From a London newspaper: "After two years of deliberations, a committee of 13 men has reported to the government on the technical considerations which should govern the number, capacity, and distribution of petrol stations." Imagine! That is the result, when people hand over their individual initiative to government.

How to Make Tea

Under the heading "First Warm the Teapot," an item in a British newspaper advises that the food ministry is sending out an expert who will visit restaurants in Tottenham and educate the restaurant staffs on the subject of how to make tea! As if by now, the English people have not learned to make tea.

Some of these seem a bit ridiculous. They are. Like the report of demands for "free" wigs having risen under socialized medicine to more than 200 a week—at a cost of more than $4,000,000 yearly. It is reported also that "Application Order No. 2" will entitle hairless men and women to the nationalized wig cleaning and dressing service, once every two months. From cradle to grave, indeed!

Liberty in Flight

In Froxfield, England, K. J. Kilford was building a house. He wanted a round hall window in his new home. But the "area planning committee" said no; the window must be rectangular. "A round window would be out of place in a rural area," the panel declared. Commented Kilford: "There is no individual liberty today." That happened in England.

The whole British story of snarling bureaucracy may remind readers of wartime experiences in America. It indicates, too, that government control clashes with individual freedom. Shall we in America be able to keep our freedom?

Have you heard Dr. Benson and the radio drama "Land of the Free"? Check your local station for time.

Brake Accidents Lead

An ICC analysis of mechanical defect accidents of motor carriers during 1947 revealed that as in previous years brake defects were responsible for more accidents than any other type. Tire failures are second in number and result in the most property damage. It showed also that mechanical defect accidents are continually increasing in number but are decreasing as a percentage of all motor carrier accidents.

Sylvester Says:

"100 years is a long time to wait for a house, but by building 500,000 public housing units per year it would take the government 100 years to place every "low-income" American family in government public housing."

The average earnings of families now living in public "subsidized" housing is $2,200. There are approximately 20 million American families with incomes no higher than that.

On the basis of $2,200 a year income, more than half the families in the U. S. qualify for a home in a government housing unit.

But most American families haven't learned how helpless they are, for, according to U. S. Census figures, over one-half of our families with incomes below $1,000 per year already own their own homes.

Diesel Replaces Iron Horses

Approximately one-fifth of the total weight of a modern diesel electric locomotive consists of copper and copper-base alloys. This figure is many times the amount of copper and its alloys contained in a steam locomotive—the romantic "iron horse" that has served the nation's railroads faithfully for over a century, ever since the Tom Thumb, built by Peter Cooper in 1829, was given a trial run in September of that year. Finally the "iron horse" is being turned out to green pastures as most of the major railroads of the country turn to diesel electric locomotives for freight and passenger service.

What Was Happening In Davie Before Parking Meters And Abbreviated Skirts.

(Davie Record, June 18, 1924)
Lint cotton is 29.20.

C. L. Thompson made a business trip to High Point Wednesday.

F. L. Foster, of Spencer, was in town Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Mildred Mooney, of Davidson, spent the week-end in town with relatives.

Miss Willie Click, of Hickory, spent last and part of this week in town, the guest of her sister, Mrs. C. F. Stroud.

Miss Flossie Martin, who has been teaching in the Winston-Salem high school, returned home last week.

Misses Rachel, Clara and Dorothy Honeycutt, of Albemarle, were guests of Miss Katherine Minor last week.

D. G. Grubbs has moved his family from Wilkesboro street to his new home near the graded school building.

R. C. Foster, of Fork, who has been a student at Wake Forest College, has returned there to take a special summer course.

Mrs. Bruce Craven, of Trinity, and Mrs. A. M. McGlamervy, of Greensboro, are guests of their father, M. R. Chaffin.

Misses Grace, Elizabeth, Margaret and Master Charles Eaton, of Winston-Salem, are guests of their aunt, Miss Blanche Eaton.

John Koontz, of Route 1, who has been very ill for some time, is much better and was able to come to town Monday.

Rufus G. Koontz, of Few York, is spending several days with some folks near Kappa. Mr. Koontz is an old Davie boy who has made good as an electrical engineer.

Mr. and Mrs. Travis E. McDaniel and little son, of Washington, D. C., are spending three weeks with relatives and friends on Route 3. Mr. McDaniel is in the U. S. mail service between Washington and Hamlet.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Moore returned last Sunday from Rochester, Minn., where Mrs. Moore spent the past month taking treatment at the Mayo hospital. Her friends wish for her a complete recovery.

Work on the hard-surface road between this city and Winston-Salem, is progressing rapidly. The concrete has been laid for about two miles extending from near the Smith Grove consolidated school building, almost to Cedar Creek bridge. There is about six miles of road to build, which will be finished some time this fall, giving us a hard-surface road to the Twin-City.

A marriage, uniting two families of prominence, was solemnized last evening at the home of the bride in Waukeetown, when Miss Elizabeth Booe became the bride of John H. Clement, of Winston-Salem. The wedding was one of impressive and elegant simplicity, only the intimate friends and relatives of the two families being present. Mr. Clement is a former citizen of this city, and has many friends here who will be interested to learn of his marriage.

Mrs. C. A. Hall, 75, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Felix Hege, near Clemmons, on Tuesday morning, following a ten days illness of pneumonia. Mrs. Hall was born at Advance, on Feb. 6, 1848, and was married to Mr. Hall in 1870. Her husband's death occurred in 1904. Three children survive, two sons and one daughter. Funeral services were held on Thursday morning in the school dormitory at Clemmons, and burial followed in Salem cemetery.

What Are You Living For?

Rev. W. E. Izenhour, High Point, N. C. R4

We are not responsible for coming into this world, but are responsible for the way we live and how we go out. This responsibility is great and solemn. How are we treating it? What are you living for? As for my part I am living for God and my fellowmen.

Every person should have a purpose that is good, great and worthwhile. No one should live for the wrong purpose. When one's life is given to God fully we know that he aims high, plans well and has a purpose that is worthy to live by and die by.

Are you living merely to merely exist? Do you aim higher than just the temporal things of life? Does your heart and soul, mind and spirit rise heavenward and Godward, or do you confine yourself only to the things of time and of life this world? What are you living for?

Many people seem to live only for themselves. They want everything that is earthly to come their way. They desire to take in, but have no interest in giving out. Deep-rooted selfishness never makes for greatness, nor for peace, joy and happiness. It never makes for blessing others, nor for the glory of God, nor for heaven.

Men who thirst for money and riches, or for the things of this world, often do so by making the lives of others hard. They seek to feather their nest by making the nests of those about them thorny. They live to gratify the carnal desires of the flesh. Their interests center only in this world, not heaven. He who does not think nor prepare for anything beyond the shores of time certainly lives in a low, his course is downward. The end will be outer darkness forever.

Can't Take It

The Economy drive in Congress that started bravely to cut five per cent from every appropriation bill is flooring ring on the same old rock that has wrecked every attempt to reduce Federal expenses.

The very senators who were loudest in their demands for economy and most vicious in their promises that expenses would be cut have yielded to the old local pressures to promote projects in their own states, and then by trading votes with other senators have contrived to kill almost every effort to reduce the budget.

The House in passing the nine regular appropriation bills had cut about $1 billion from the totals, but in the Senate many of these cuts were restored, and even in the House authority was granted to various agencies to enter into more contracts, so that the net result was a reduction of less than a half a billion in a total of more than $3.5 billion.

The particular bills on which Senators asked for increases for projects in their states were for rivers and harbors and reclamation funds.

In determining these funds, the House committee first decides the gross amount to be appropriated. Then the Army corps of engineers invites the Senators to speak for projects in their own state.

When these two funds were under discussion this year, 70 Senators, or more than seven out of ten asked for increases for projects in their own states. Many of these were men who had argued most vehemently for cutting appropriations.—Charlotte Observer.

Proof Wanted

AN AMERICAN film producer was selecting a chief for his scenario staff. The producer insisted that the successful applicant must be a college graduate. He looked with favour upon one applicant, and asked if he had had a college education. The answer was in the affirmative. "Show me your diploma," demanded the producer. The applicant tried to explain that it was not customary for college graduates to carry diplomas around with them. "Well, then," demanded the producer with a slight sneer, "say me a big word."

EXPOSED

An actress on tour became tired of paying railway fares for her small dog, so she bought a basket with ventilation holes.

On the first occasion when she attempted to use it, the ticket collector at the station barrier asked what was in the basket.

"Hat," replied the actress, and went on to the platform.

Before she had proceeded many yards, she was recalled by the grinning ticket collector, who, pointing to a stump of fuzzy tail which wagged joyously from one of the ventilation holes, remarked: "You'll have to pay for that one with the feathers."

"Enjoy it, my little visit," he hesitated. "You are new in town, aren't you?"

"Comparatively," I said. "It's a mighty nice town. Folks are all like yourself. Ready and willing to lend a hand when help is needed."

I smiled happily. "The fact that I know your name, Prince Alexander, proves a little theory of my own."

FAIR ENOUGH

The class was having a general knowledge lesson. The master turned to Jenkins, noted for the ease with which he wriggled out of tight corners.

"What is ratio?"

"Ratio," replied Jenkins, "is proportion."

"But what is proportion?"

"Why, sir, proportion is ratio."

"Well, what are ratio and proportion?"

"I can only answer one question at a time, sir," replied Jenkins, with cold dignity.

COULDN'T LOSE

When a company's ace salesman was transferred from New York to Chicago, his boss sent along a letter explaining that while he was the company's best salesman, he had one serious vice—gambling.

When he arrived, his new boss said, "Young man, I'm sorry to hear that you like to gamble. What do you bet on?"

"Anything," answered the salesman. "For instance, I'll bet you $25 that you have a mole on your right shoulder."

"I'll take that bet," said the salesman manager and peeled off his coat and shirt. The salesman paid off, and his new boss wrote New York about the incident boasting that he had already taught the young man a lesson.

In a few days he received this reply: "He wins again. Before he left he bet me $200 that he would have the shirt off your back five minutes after he met you."

Sixty-Two Cities Collect 7 Million in Parking Fees

Parking meter incomes in 62 large cities averaged more than $74 per machine last year according to the Municipal Finance Officers association.

Citing a recent survey of cities over 100,000 population with parking meters, by the Chicago department of purchases and the National Institute of Governmental Purchasing, Inc., the association notes that the 62 municipalities reported receipt of 7.1 million dollars from 95,466 meters last year. Cost per meter in 1,000 lots, delivered and installed, ranged from $58 to $76.50—an average cost of less than the average annual income.

Minneapolis' average receipt from its 2,100 meters was $166.67 while neighboring St. Paul realized an average of $113.12 from each of its 1,340 machines. Dayton averaged $108.92 per meter, Long Beach Cal.—$107.31 and South Bend, Ind.—$106.67.

Maintenance cost, including labor, repairs and collections, averaged $6.99 per year for each machine. Only 33 of the 68 reporting cities gave comparable answers to this query.

Glogging by foreign matter was the chief cause of parking meter trouble listed by the cities. Bent coins, slugs and vandalism also took their toll of the machines.

In total collections, Oakland, Cal., ranked first with $380,000 from 4,351 meters. Runner-up in collections were Minneapolis—$350,000, Denver—$327,897 from 6,057 meters, and San Diego—$323,000 from 4,450 meters.

Tick-Free Sheep Pay Off; Eat Less, Bring More Cash

More lambs, heavier lambs, more and better quality wool, as well as the need for less feed, are the reasons expressed by Colorado sheepmen who adopted a sheep tick control program last year, reports Dr. A. A. Goodman, extension veterinarian, Colorado A & M college.

Colorado sheep producers who sprayed or dipped their sheep with a suspension of DDT last year report they saw a marked improvement in the condition of their sheep. Also, at shearing time this year they found a material reduction in the tick population compared to that of a year ago.

They are repeating the application of DDT again this year in order to further reduce the tick infestation in their flocks, adds Goodman. "Ticks, says the veterinarian, are the costly pest for Colorado sheepmen. They lower the vitality of animals, retard gains, and lower the quality and quantity of wool.

When ewes are sheared, ticks lose their protective covering and practically all of the ticks migrate to lambs. When lambing has been completed a practical tick control program is to dip or spray the lambs with DDT suspension about 10 days or two weeks after shearing. When dipping is practiced, four pounds of wettable 50 per cent DDT powder to 100 gallons of water is recommended.

Refinishing Furniture

Refinishing furniture is one job that calls for plenty of work space and ventilation. Solvents to remove paint and varnish may be made at home or bought ready-mixed. Commercial removers are generally recommended, as they are more efficient. They can be purchased in paint stores or departments. If the remover is liquid, shake the container well. "Lay" it on the furniture with a brush but do not brush it in. Let stand only until the old finish wrinkles or is soft; then lift off the gummy substance with a putty knife. Work with the grain of the wood and be careful not to injure it. To remove the softened finish from carvings and turned surfaces, use a softwood stick.

Pintail Flies Atlantic

A trans-Atlantic record for wild waterfowl may have been set by a young pintail banded at Hamilton inlet, Labrador, by A. J. Reeve of the Wildlife Management institute's northeastern wildlife station. Instead of joining other pintails banded in the same trap, this adventurous individual headed east and was shot only 21 days later on the River Dart between Dartmouth and Totnes in South Devon, England. Its trap-mates were recovered along the Mississippi flyway. Ornithologists cannot say whether this bird was a European pintail breeding in Labrador or an American pintail wintering in Europe since only the band was recovered from the hunter. At any rate, the incident provides a terse commentary on the amount of energy wrapped in the feathers of a wild duck.

REASON ENOUGH

"I see you farmers raise hogs almost exclusively here. Do you find they pay better than corn or potatoes?"

"Well, no, but you see, stranger, hawgs don't evah require no hoein'."

Leads in Community Forests

Wisconsin has more land in "community" forests than all the rest of the nation put together, according to a recent report of the U. S. forest service. Community forests, in Forest service terminology, include county forests, although Wisconsin practice usually is to place the two in separate categories. It is Wisconsin's vast acreage of county forests which puts it far in the lead. According to the report, Wisconsin has 2,387,416 acres in community forests compared with 2,028,534 for the rest of the nation, or a total of 4,415,950 for the United States. As to numbers of community forests, without regard to area, Wisconsin has 309 of the 3,113 in the nation.

That Got Him

A bumptious fellow was giving evidence in a police court.

"You say you stood up?" asked the magistrate.

"I said," retorted the conceited one, "that I stood. If one stands one must stand up. There's no other way of standing."

"Oh, isn't there?" replied the magistrate. "Pay two pounds for contempt of court—and stand down!"

Uncle Sam Says

Flag Day, June 14, holds significance for every American. Under the waving Stars and Stripes each citizen knows that he still possesses the most cherished of all ambitions—freedom and opportunity. He also knows he can retain these just so long as our country is economically sound, and he knows too that one of the most effective methods ever devised to keep it strong is an investment in U. S. Savings Bonds. Your purchase of Savings Bonds strengthens not only your own economy but your country's as well. If you are not now enrolled for the Payroll Savings Plan where you work or, if self-employed, the Bond-a-Month Plan at your bank, now is your BIG CHANCE to start.

Our County And Social Security

By Mrs. Ruth G. Duffy, Manager.

One question asked frequently at any Social Security Field Office is this one: "Does everyone who has a Social Security Card get benefits?"

Simply owning a Social Security Card does not in itself guarantee that you will get retirement benefits at 65 or later, or that your family will receive benefits if you die, whatever your age. Any benefits paid to you or to your survivors depend on how long you have worked on jobs that are covered by the Social Security Act.

As you know all kinds of work are not covered. It is easy to see that many persons who have account number cards, will have worked at least some time on jobs covered by the Act, yet won't get benefits because they worked most of the time on jobs that are not covered.

Let's look at the occupations not covered by Social Security. All types of farm work are left out of this Old Age and Survivors Insurance; domestic work in private homes is left out; work for city, county, State or Federal Government is passed over; the self-employed are not under this insurance system; employees of non-profit institutions and organizations solely for religious or educational purposes are barred.

In our country, no one is forced to continue in the same employment. And, as he changes jobs, he may come under Social Security only to leave that coverage when he takes another job which is not covered. Sometimes he's in and sometimes he's out; therefore, sometimes he can get benefits when he is 65 and retires and sometimes he cannot, which is all so true of survivors.

The Social Security Administration, as required by law, makes recommendations for improving Old-Age and Survivors Insurance. The chief recommendation for the past several years has been to extend the protection of Old Age and Survivors Insurance to all gainfully employed persons and to increase this protection against the loss of income from old age or death.

I will be in Mocksville on Wednesday, June 22, at the court house, second floor, at 12:30 p. m. I will also be in Cooleemee on the same date at the Erwin Cotton Mills office at 11 a. m.

Two Big Questions

BEFORE Secretary of State Acheson left for Paris, he stopped by Capitol Hill for some last-minute parting advice...

Two big questions came up during the hour-long, closed-door conference:

- 1. How far should we go in conciliating Russia?
2. Where should we draw the line on German recovery?

Senator Vandenberg of Michigan cautioned the secretary of state against taking too stern a stand with the Russians...

Acheson assured not, but Thomas kept hammering this point home. He warned that Germany, when she gets her strength back, might side with Russia...

To Watch Germans

Senator Lodge of Massachusetts argued that we should strengthen Germany's economy without building up her war-making capacity...

The secretary promised this would be done. He added that Russia would have nothing to say about the Ruhr...

Central European countries, now behind the iron curtain, he added, always did a big business with the Ruhr...

Acheson and Vandenberg also engaged in a brief dispute over whether the right-of-way to Berlin definitely had been spelled out in the Potsdam agreement...

FDR, Jr., "On Way"

No one fought the election of Franklin Roosevelt, Jr., harder than Vito Marcantonio, sole American Labor representative in congress...

But after it was all over and the votes showed young Roosevelt to be the overwhelming victor, Congressman Marcantonio met Congressman Cheat Hollifield of California on the floor of the House...

Note—Young Roosevelt's victory in New York will be a big psychological boost to his elder brother in California where Jimmie plans to run for governor.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS Administration Asks Vast Powers In New Agriculture Support Plan; Labor Legislation Gets Priority

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.

FARM PLAN:

More Curbs Asked

Critics and supporters alike of Agriculture Secretary Charles Brannan's 1949 farm support program were surprised when Brannan asked sweeping new powers to control the nation's agricultural production.

THE latest Brannan proposals were contained in the full draft of the administration's farm program which was laid before congress.

In that program, the powers requested would mark the first time in the history of the nation—not excepting wartime—when farmers and their activities would be so completely under federal control.

For example, Brannan asked that rigid marketing quotas, now usable on only six major crops, be applied on the great bulk of farm products, including meat animals, milk, poultry, eggs, fruits and vegetables.

It was a bold stroke on the part of the administration and one that was gambling with farmer good will over the nation.

For it was quickly discernible that, if enacted, this program would put the American farmer under federal control from the moment he arose to feed the chickens and other stock in the morning...

The big question was: Would the farmers stand for that, even if congress did enact the law? Farmers would be given a choice because under the Brannan proposal, they would have to vote adoption of the program by a two-thirds vote of all producers.

Brannan envisions a condition where prices would be allowed to move freely in the market with farmers getting a payment covering the difference if and when market prices fell below a predetermined "fair" return.

LABOR LAW:

Gets Priority

With domestic issues having been given the green light over foreign affairs, the U. S. senate was committed to wrestle out a new labor law—or repeal Taft-Hartley—before adjournment.

The importance of the labor question to the administration was indicated in the senate's shelving discussion of the North Atlantic security pact until the troublesome labor issue has been disposed of.

THE reason was rather obvious. Organized labor, worried by an apparent disinclination of congress to go along with the President in repealing Taft-Hartley and fearing further delay, was pushing the administration to get going.

There was constant reminder behind the scenes of the President's campaign pledges to scrap the present over-all labor law and labor wanted action. The 1950 congressional races weren't too far off and the administration evidently felt it had better deliver or face labor's antagonism at the polls next year.

It was estimated some three weeks of debate would be necessary before the administration's bill came to a showdown vote.

MAJORITY LEADER Scott Lucas declared that if all major legislation were not disposed of by July 31, "we shall extend the length of the session until we have dealt with the most urgent proposals."

Baldness "Cure"

Buried on inside pages of most newspapers was a story which, if true, would have rated banner headlines in the eyes of those it concerned.

FOR, from Een, Holland, there came a claim that Meinheer J. Van Rooyen, a bewildered little barber, could cure baldness—no fooling.

The news leaked out, and the little barber shop was thronged with visitors. Letters poured in by the thousands.

The meinheer started it all himself by trying to stop his own thinning hair from growing thinner, experimenting with various lotions and use of infra-red rays.

ACCORDING to reports, he finally hit upon a combination that made his hair grow. Tried on others, it succeeded. Now he is treating 160 people, working 13 hours a day.

U. S. JOBS:

Could Be Cut

A contention that the government cut its civilian employ rolls by 10 per cent and "accomplish exactly the same purposes" was made in Washington by former President Herbert Hoover. Declaring that this could be done if the government were organized properly...

MR. HOOVER'S statement has carried some weight, there were only an optimistic who believed anything might be done along the lines he pointed out.

The former President was speaking with authority because a commission of which he had been named the head—a fact-finding body to uncover just such things as he had uncovered—had exhaustively studied government functions and processes and had reported its findings.

A 200,000 cut in federal personnel would require no wholesale firings, he said. He added it could be accomplished through normal turnover, which now runs about 500,000 a year.

BERLIN:

New Issues

The meeting of the big four council of foreign ministers had developed one fact—discussion of German unity under current conditions was futile. So, it appeared attention would be turned to Berlin where some major problems yet remained unsolved.

Berlin presented concrete issues which many hoped could be resolved or, at least, discussed more profitably. The western powers were understood as ready to insist upon written agreements concerning rights in Berlin to replace oral understandings that alone have given them any rights in the immediate past.

It was also believed they would urge a single elected city council and retention of occupation status for their zone. It was believed inevitable that the question of four-power authority—which led to a deadlock over the veto right when the whole of Germany was discussed—will arise again in relation to a Berlin regime.

LIDICE:

Nothing at All

It was hard to tell where possible Communist machinations began and truth left off, but if the charges of a Czech official that not one dollar of five million raised in the U. S. to rebuild Lidice was used, then the American people and humanitarianism generally had taken the worst rocking in years.

JAN VODICKA, secretary-general of the union of fighters for freedom in Czechoslovakia, said the collection to rebuild the city razed by the Nazis had been made "among our compatriots in the United States and the rest of the American public, and the union has information that of the five million dollars collected, 30 per cent was taken by the collectors and nearly 70 per cent by the administration."

There was a quick denial. In New York, Dr. Jan Papanek, resigned Czech U. N. delegate, said the Lidice memorial committee collected "$5,000 at the maximum" from Americans and never got a chance to apply any money to Lidice.

LIDICE, as too few probably will remember, was the village near Prague which was completely destroyed by the Nazis in retribution for the assassination of the German "hangman" Reinhardt Heydrich. All the men of the village were killed and its women and children dispersed.

CHILD LABOR:

Law Is Strict

Summer vacations were coming up and there would be hordes of youngsters seeking work during the long holiday. But if the wage and hour and public contracts division of the U. S. department of labor had its way, all child labor would be done strictly according to law.

FROM Cleveland, the director, William S. Singley, issued a reminder to all employees of school boys and girls under 18 that age and employment certificates for such workers must be on file.

He pointed out that these certificates "are considered as proof of age and serve to protect employers from unwitting violations of federal laws regulating the employment of children."

Under the fair labor standards act, the minimum age for most jobs is 16, but in occupations declared to be especially hazardous for young workers, the minimum age is 18.

MINE SAFETY:

Lewis Wants Law

Attacking state regulation of mine safety codes, John L. Lewis, leader of the United Mine Workers, demanded a federal safety law to "prevent coal miners from being maimed, mangled and killed."

CHARGING that the "nation's coal is stained with blood," Lewis produced figures to show 1.75 million tons of coal were produced in 1939.

Control is exercised by the states and there is no way to implement federal suggestions and recommendations. Lewis contended that states are falling down badly.

LEWIS' testimony chiefly carried the theme that the states have failed to enforce safety regulations and that the mine operators are not going to pay any heed to safety unless forced to do so.

Owners of the 55,000 horses and mules on Maryland farms have been urged to "check intake valves, remove carbon from the cylinders, and adjust the carburetor."

Those terms aren't as mixed as one might think. Joseph M. Vial, extension animal husbandman, explained that a horse's mouth and teeth may be compared to intake valves on a tractor. The teeth need to be floated (just as the intake valve needs to be properly seated) if they are to meet evenly and let the horse chew his feed properly.

Just as tractors are troubled with carbon in the cylinders, horses may have trouble with internal parasites. These may be removed by any competent veterinarian and the horse will be a better worker during the coming summer.

The carburetor on the tractor adjusts fuel supply to the work load. For horses, this is accomplished by getting them in proper condition before the heavy work load comes. Vial recommends this be done by "feeding the horse a handful of oil meal with his grain at this time of year to keep him in good condition and by giving him as many jobs to do as possible; such as spreading manure or hauling logs."

Other recommendations include: "Keep water in his cooling system, keep his tires in good condition by having him properly shod and see that his harness fits."

"It's easier to keep up than to catch up," advises Clara Leopold, extension home management specialist at the University of Nebraska, to the home and farm account recordkeeper. Another hint, she says, is to keep a pencil attached to the account records.

According to Mrs. Leopold, a certain time each day should be set aside to jot down the daily transactions.

Farm Record Keepers Told of "Short Cut"

For farmers who grow tobacco, the take was just about half as much as Uncle Sam collects in taxes from the product. This admission came from the U. S. department of agriculture itself.

IN a review of the tobacco situation, the department estimated that combined U. S. and state tax receipts from tobacco would approximate 1.75 billion dollars during the fiscal year, which would be a record.

Good Clean Pasture Helps Poultry Men

Home Grown Feeds Cut Operating Cost

Good clean pasture and plenty of home grown feeds for your pullet crop pays dividends in more eggs, lower production costs and bigger poultry profits. The use of range shelters, range feeders and barrel waterers makes such a program easily possible.

Missouri university tests show that pullets on well-fertilized alfalfa pasture consumed 17 per cent less feed than birds on bare range. The pasture-fed pullets needed less feed for each pound of gain. Birds on clean pasture were healthier and more energetic. Mortality rate was lower and there were fewer culls. Out of 100 pullets at four weeks of age, 94 of the alfalfa-raised birds later went into the laying house, compared to 70 of those raised on bare ground.

Purdue university tests showed that ladino clover with corn and small grains provided a complete ration for laying flocks.

Getting good pasture and a cheap and plentiful supply of grain is a matter of putting farm soil in shape to produce bigger yields per acre. For this you need a rotation in which deep-rooted legumes and grasses are keystone. You need to build up the organic matter supply via plowed-under legumes, crop residues and manure. You need to feed the soil a good ration of plant nutrients, so it, in turn, can feed the crops. In such a program, fertilizer is an important member of the soil-building team.

At current prices, eggs will buy nearly twice as much fertilizer as 10 years ago. It takes only 90 dozen eggs to buy a ton of 3-12-12 fertilizer today, whereas it took 170 dozen back in 1939.

Just as tractors are troubled with carbon in the cylinders, horses may have trouble with internal parasites. These may be removed by any competent veterinarian and the horse will be a better worker during the coming summer.

The carburetor on the tractor adjusts fuel supply to the work load. For horses, this is accomplished by getting them in proper condition before the heavy work load comes. Vial recommends this be done by "feeding the horse a handful of oil meal with his grain at this time of year to keep him in good condition and by giving him as many jobs to do as possible; such as spreading manure or hauling logs."

Other recommendations include: "Keep water in his cooling system, keep his tires in good condition by having him properly shod and see that his harness fits."

Farm Record Keepers Told of "Short Cut"

For farmers who grow tobacco, the take was just about half as much as Uncle Sam collects in taxes from the product. This admission came from the U. S. department of agriculture itself.

IN a review of the tobacco situation, the department estimated that combined U. S. and state tax receipts from tobacco would approximate 1.75 billion dollars during the fiscal year, which would be a record.

Remember Him? How many will remember the gentleman shown above? Well, the question is hardly a fair one for his public always saw him in flight trucks, not street togs. He is former heavyweight fighter Buddy Baer, whose engagement to Hollywood columnist May Mann, put him in the news.

Meeting Closes

A 10 day revival meeting at the First Baptist Church came to a close last Wednesday evening. Large crowds attended the evening services, and much good was accomplished by the strong gospel sermons delivered by Rev. Wendell Davis, of Statesville who assisted the pastor. As a result of the meetings, a number of reclamations and conversions took place, and a number of persons united with the church. The town and community is better by having had this revival.

Enjoyable Evening

The "Tacky Party" and chicken fry held by the Veterans of Foreign Wars at the Club House on Thursday night was a distinct success in spite of the heavy rainfall, which cut the attendance considerably. Geo. Mason, Post Sr., V. Commander, was committee Chm. with Bill LeGrand supervising the cooking.

Post Commander Richard Beeding called the meeting to order and then turned the gavel over to Fred R. Leagans, who acted as master of ceremonies.

First prize for the most tacky dressed man went to Fred Leagans, with Hanes Holman as runner up. First prize for the most tacky dressed lady went to Miss Kay Matthews, with Mrs. Maralene Matthews runner up. Top honors for the most tacky dressed couple went to Mrs. Matthews and Mr. Holman, with Mrs. Dorothy Mason and Mr. Leagans runnerup. The judges were Mayor-elect John Durham, Dr. Lester Martin and D. M. Swayngim.

Distinguished guests from out of town were: Jr. V-State Commander Russel Burcham and Mrs. Burcham; Dist. Comdr. Carl Hinson and Mrs. Hinson, of Elkin; State Service Officer of V. F. W., D. M. Swayngim and Mrs. Swayngim, of Winston-Salem.

The Post is sponsoring a "Donkey Ball Game and Rodeo" to be held at the Mocksville Hi School building on Wednesday evening, June 29th.

Angell Reunion

The second annual meeting of the Angell Association was held at Center arbor, Sunday, June 12.

For the past 15 to 20 years the family of the late Wymouth Brady Angell met at his home for a picnic dinner on the Sunday nearest his birthday. From this the Association was formed.

Dinner was spread on a long table near the arbor, for more than a hundred Angells and relatives. Nearly every county in Piedmont North Carolina, was represented. After eating too much country fried chicken, ham, cake, pies, ice cream and cold drinks, everyone was called to their seats under the arbor by music from a string band.

The business session was called to order by Chairman B. L. Angell, of Winston-Salem. A very interesting history of the Angell family was prepared and read by the Secretary and Assistant, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Angell, of Kannapolis. The association asks that any names and addresses, or any information on the Angell history be sent to W. D. Angell, Kannapolis, N. C.

The entertainment committee had an assorted musical program. The officers elected for the coming year were: B. L. Angell, chairman; W. D. Angell, secretary; Mrs. W. D. Angell, assist. secretary, and Wiley Angell, treas. Miss Thelma Angell was elected chairman of the program committee.

Everyone extends their thanks to the former officers for their hard work in making this meeting such a success.

Start Making Your Stocks Of Jams, Jelly Goodies Early as Supply Fades

MOST JAM and jelly cupboard are a sad sight to behold about this time of year because long months of use have depleted them pretty thoroughly. Most homemakers will find it a joy to start stocking them now with bright, jewel-like glasses of delectable jellies.

Even for those of us who like a good store of jam and jelly, the job need not seem an unsurmountable task. Make small batches and you'll have better results in both flavor and color retention. Neither will you get tired that you never want to see another jelly glass again.

Organize your work properly by getting out jars or replacing them. Wash them in sudsy water; rinse carefully and they will be all ready to place in cold water and started to sterilizing before you get ready for the fruit and berries. Many women like to get the glass washing chore out of the way the day before, and this is an excellent idea.

Utensils for working as well as the paraffin and sugar may also be laid out the evening before jelly-making day. Plan to make your batch first thing in the morning before the sun warms things up too much and makes you weary.

HERE'S AN EASY guide for a favorite rhubarb and strawberry jam:

Rhubarb-Strawberry Jam
(Makes 10 6-ounce glasses)
4 cups prepared fruit
7 cups sugar
½ bottle fruit pectin

To prepare fruit: slice thin or chop, but do not peel, about one pound of rhubarb. Crush thoroughly about one quart fully ripe strawberries. Combine fruits and measure four cups into a large saucepan.

To make the jam: add sugar to fruit in saucepan and mix well. Place over high heat, bring to a full, rolling boil and boil hard one minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and at once stir in bottled fruit pectin. Then stir and skim by turns for five minutes to cool slightly, and to prevent floating fruit. Ladle quickly into glasses. Paraffin at once.

Currents are rich in their own pectin and may be combined with other fruits not as rich in the substance to make fine jelly.

Cherries in Currant Jelly
2 quarts currant jelly
8 pounds sugar
2 quarts pitted cherries

Wash, mash and cook slowly enough currants, with stems, to make two quarts of strained juice. Let currant juice come to a boil, then add sugar. Skim. Add cherries

Strawberries and early rhubarb make one of the most delightful and colorful jam combinations known in modern cookery. Young fry who like to work in the kitchen can be a great help to mother in preparing ingredients fruit is to be prepared.

and cook slowly and steadily for 10 to 15 minutes. Pour into jelly glasses, paraffin at once and set in a cool, dry place.

LYNN SAYS: Jelly-Making Tips Will Help You

Assemble your equipment for jelly and jam making ahead of time. You will need a large mixing bowl, colander, a 6-quart saucepan, a small saucepan for paraffin, standard measuring cups, jelly glasses with covers and a utility tray.

When melting paraffin for sealing jellies and jams, use a low flame or the wax will start to smoke.

Raspberries, either by themselves or in combination with other fruits make delightful jams or jellies. Prepare the jelly glasses by sterilization before starting the jam or jelly so they will be ready when the juice or fruit is to be prepared.

LYNN CHAMBERS' MENU
Potato Salad Fried Onions
Sliced Tomatoes and Cucumbers
Biscuits Red Raspberry Jam
Sliced Cantaloupe Beverage
Recipe Given

Black Raspberry-Currant Jelly
2 quarts black raspberries
2 cups water
1 quart currants
Sugar

Cook raspberries, currants and water for 20 minutes. Strain the juice and measure. Add an equal amount of sugar. Cook until a small amount of the juice dropped on a saucer jells. Ladle into jelly glasses and cover with paraffin at once.

Raspberries do not have much pectin and for this reason they need pectin added to make them into acceptable jam. Use them alone or combined with strawberries.

Raspberry Jam
(Makes 8 6-ounce glasses)
4½ cups prepared fruit
6 cups sugar
1 box powdered fruit pectin

To prepare fruit: crush thoroughly about two quarts fully ripe, red raspberries. If desired, sieve half of pulp to remove some of the seeds. Measure 4½ cups into a large saucepan.

To make jam: measure sugar and set aside. Place saucepan holding the fruit over high heat. Add powdered fruit pectin and stir until mixture reaches a hard boil. Bring to a full, rolling boil and boil hard one minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Skim, ladle quick into glasses. Paraffin at once.

Cherry Preserves
5 pounds cherries
5 pounds sugar

Wash, pick and stone cherries. Place in a preserving kettle, alternating layers of fruit and sugar. Let stand overnight. Bring slowly to a boil and then boil rapidly until thick and clear. Pour into sterilized glasses and seal at once with paraffin.

Gooseberry Conserve
3 pounds gooseberries
3 pounds sugar
1 pound seeded raisins
3 large oranges

Grate the rind of the oranges and extract the juice. Mix together the orange rind and juice, gooseberries, raisins and sugar. Cook slowly until thick. Pour into sterile jars and seal at once.

Pineapple-Pear Preserves
1 pound pears
1 No. 2 can sliced pineapple
1½ cups sugar
¾ cup boiling water

Dissolve sugar in water and let come to a boil. Cut pears in halves lengthwise, removing skin and cores. Cut pineapple into pieces and add both fruits to hot syrup. Cook until tender and clear. Seal in sterilized jars.

To prevent excessive "weeping" on jellies and jams, leave a half inch of space at the top when filling the glass. Paraffin, cover tightly and store in a cool, dry place.

Fruits and berries used for jams, jellies, preserves and conserves should not be allowed to stand in water as they become water-logged and will have to be cooked longer, to get rid of water. This results in flavor and color loss.

Use a lipped saucepan for pouring paraffin to make this job easier.

Every Time

A goof was watching a house painter at work. "Gee," he said, "you mixed the paints. Why did you do that?" "I wanted green paint. If you mix yellow and blue together you get green," explained the painter. "That's nothing," exclaimed the goof. "If you mix milk and pickles you get green, too."

STILL WANTED TO KNOW

Englishman: "What's that bloom-in' noise I 'ear this time of night?"
American: "Why, that's an owl."
Englishman: "Of course it is, but 'o's 'owling?"

IMAGINE!

Dear old lady: My grandson is in the navy, too. Do you know him? His name is Joe Smith.
Sailor: What ship is he on, lady?
Dear old lady: What ship? Oh, do you mean there are two ships?

Much Too Busy

Three girls went into a restaurant. "I'd like a chicken sandwich on white bread," said one girl. "Why do you take a chicken sandwich?" asked the waiter. "Take corned beef. It's more tasty. And besides, why do you want white bread? Take rye bread. It's got more vitamins."

"All right," said the girl. "Corned beef sandwich on rye bread." "I'd like some Danish pastry toasted," said the second girl. "Why do you want Danish pastry toasted?" said the waiter. "It just came from the oven. Hot pastry ain't good for you!"

"All right," said the second girl. "Danish pastry plain with a cup of coffee."

"What do you want to take coffee for? It will only keep you awake. Take milk."

"All right," she said. "I'll take Danish pastry plain and a glass of milk."

With that the third girl asked, "What would you suggest for me?" "Suggest?" said the waiter. "Who's got time for suggestions?"

Late Arrival

A woman consulted a medium. "I'd like to talk to my husband." The medium tried to get the ghost of the husband, but nothing happened.

"I don't seem to get him," she said. "What time is it?" "Eight o'clock."

"Eight o'clock? Oh, he never comes in till four."

Really A Bargain

The family had returned from church and was seated around the dinner table. Discussing the morning service, Father commented, "Frankly, I don't believe the sermon this morning was as good as usual."

Mother added, "The choir didn't sing as well as they might have. The anthem wasn't very good."

Sis said, "The church needs new hymnals. I wish they would get some."

The youngest member of the family pondered a bit, then observed, "Well, I thought it was pretty good for only a nickel apiece."

BLUFFING

"Pa," said the subscriber's little daughter, "I know why the editors call themselves 'we'."

"Why?" "So the fellow who doesn't like what's printed will think that there are too many for him to lick."

Send A Boat

A bath was running over in a hotel room and the water was coming down into the room below. "Hey up there! Hey up there!" called the occupant of the downstairs room. "Cut off that water!"

"What's the matter?" "What do you think I've got down there? The water is running into my room, you idiot!" And with that he started to call the man upstairs all kinds of names. "Wait a minute. Don't talk like that. I've got a lady up here." Here—a duck?

Aid for the Women
A method designed to increase the attractiveness of woman's hair, by causing it to wave and also to curl and thus reflect light in greater degree is covered by a patent issued to a New York woman, according to National Patent Council. An inexpensive wave curler of non-metallic materials is used in the process; the inventor suggests the pinna, or leaflets of the pinnated date-palm leaf. The patent reveals a method of treating and preserving the pinna and describes each step to be used in producing the proper waves and curls.

AROUND THE HOUSE

The quickest way to determine if a plant needs water is by touching the soil surface—if it is moist, water the plant.

Save your orange peels in the spring and fall, and when they have dried toss them into the fireplace on coolish nights: they kindle quickly and burn with a pleasant aroma.

To avoid stirring up dust when sweeping a rug, sprinkle rug with bits of dampened newspapers: papers will absorb the dust preventing it from flying around the room.

Dip a cloth in household ammonia and place over the rusted spot in the boiler of your range; close the range door for a few minutes and chances are you will be able to wash spot off easily.

Dust pictures thoroughly, front, back, and frame, at least once a month: dust the wall behind them, too, to prevent black outlines from forming on the wall.

If lower part of a window shade is soiled, shade can be reversed to bring clean part into prominence: untack shade from roller; reverse; cut off any damaged edges near the pull-cord and tack back onto roller. Then stitch a new hem, slip stick through this hem and reinsure the pull-cord.

Worker's Dilemma
 Whether to ask for another raise in 1949 is a question now vexing our unions. Shall they go on through this year without asking for another raise? Some unions are saying it will be bad business for the nation's workers to insist on another round of increases. Others, recalling that raises have been obtained three years in a row, insist that labor keep it up and demand another raise.

How's the way to answer this $64 question, so that the American workman may have the $64—and much more? Because it makes sense that any sound gain made by American workers will be a gain for the entire nation, I favor whatever will have the greatest long range benefit for American workers.

Consider the Facts
 People who have their facts straight know that any substantial rise in wages must be followed by a jump in prices. This is elementary fact-and-figure economics. If we could have another wage boost with the rise in prices it would bring—and the nation would keep on buying—that would be one thing. But there are strong indications that won't work again.

Pipelines of supply to consumers are beginning to fill up. The public is refusing to buy as it has for five years. Consumers are getting more price conscious. Many manufacturers are even now finding it hard to market what they produce. Some are already compelled either to decrease hours of operation or lay off workers.

Danger Signal
 If a wage boost now would result in more unemployment and lower wages in the long run, would labor unions demand the increase? No, they would not. Yet that is exactly what would happen, if we should crowd the entire economy toward a depression. There are certain serious danger signals.

Here is a sample. On January 29 a Cleveland utility company awarded a contract for two generators to a Swiss firm. They cost $1,140,000 which was nearly $500,000 less than bids of three American firms. The Cleveland company had to accept the foreign bid, despite protests by American companies and by American workers.

The Safe Way
 Now that Europe is beginning to get into the market, it will be seen that America has no monopoly on manufactured goods in the world markets. Competition there is just beginning, and it will get tough plenty. Wage increases that push up prices, besides making more trouble just now in the home market, would make it hard for America to compete in foreign markets. Foreign production will also continue to invade our home markets.

Since living costs are already definitely going down, and since a wage increase would be very bad for the industries we work for, and would endanger our jobs, I'd say let it go by. If we can keep present wage levels, and let prices come down, that will mean a real raise for everybody. That way, not only union members, but everybody will have their standard of living raised a full notch.

Brake Accidents Lead
 An ICC analysis of mechanical defect accidents of motor carriers during 1947 revealed that as in previous years brake defects were responsible for more accidents than any other type. Tire failures are second in number and result in the most property damage. It showed also that mechanical defect accidents are continually increasing in number but are decreasing as a percentage of all motor carrier accidents.

Sylvester Says:

"100 years is a long time to wait for a house, but by building 500,000 public housing units per year it would take the government 100 years to place every "low-income" American family in government public housing."

The average earnings of families now living in public "subsidized" housing is $2,200. There are approximately 20 million American families with incomes no higher than that.

On the basis of $2,200 a year income, more than half the families in the U. S. qualify for a home in a government housing unit.

But most American families haven't learned how helpless they are, for, according to U. S. Census figures, over one-half of our families with incomes below $1,000 per year already own their own homes.

Diesel Replaces 'Iron Horse'

Approximately one-fifth of the total weight of a modern diesel electric locomotive consists of copper and copper-base alloys. This figure is many times the amount of copper and its alloys contained in a steam locomotive—the romantic "iron horse" that has served the nation's railroads faithfully for over a century, ever since the Tom Thumb, built by Peter Cooper in 1825, was given a trial run in September of that year. Finally the "iron horse" is being turned out to green pastures as most of the major railroads of the country turn to diesel electric locomotives for freight and passenger service.

A Departed Sister

Rev. W. E. Isenhour, High Point, N. C. R4
In His mercy, grace and kindness.

In His wisdom and His love
Jesus calls His faithful children
To a blessed home above,
Where the shining saints and angels.

In their robes of lily-white,
Dwell in peace and joy forever,
For beyond the shades of night.

There the soul of this dear sister
Rests from all her toll and care.
Joining with the saints of glory
In God's praises grand and rare,
Maybe singing with the angels
Songs that mortals cannot sing,
And in testimony crowning
Jesus Christ as heaven's King.

She was humble, kind and gentle
As she dwelt upon the earth,
Proving that life of goodness
Is the only life of worth
Hence we knew her as a Christian,
With a shining, smiling face,
Faithful to her Lord and Master
As she ran life's rugged race.

Many times her testimonies,
And the earnest prayers she Prayed,
Helped to strengthen faith in others
And to make them unafraid,
As they stood for Christ our Savior,
And His cause amid the throng,
Giving grace and giving courage
For the right against the wrong.

To her home and to her loved ones,
And the church she loved so well
She was always true and faithful,
Which we now delight to tell;

"I'm sorry to hear that your husband is still in bed," Mrs. Jones said to Mrs. Smith.

"Oh, there's no need to worry," Mrs. Smith replied cheerfully; "he's quite all right!"

"Well, it's like this," Mrs. Smith explained. "When the doctor called about two months ago he told my husband not to get up until he visited him again, and we rather think he's joined the Army."

Sense of Values

THE TOWN'S wealthiest man, and its most stingy, had just been rescued from the water of a lake where he had been fishing from a boat. His rescuer was the leading doctor of the town. After the long, hard work of resuscitation by the doctor and the first aid treatments, the miser pulled out a dollar and handed it to the doctor, saying: "Well, doctor, I'm much obliged to you for savin' my life just now. Here's a dollar . . . all I have got on me."

The doctor handed it back, saying: "Oh, keep your money!"

"Not at all! Not at all!" said the miser. "It would have been lost anyway if ye hadn't saved me!"

NO CONTEST

Daddy: "And what did you say?"

Junior: "Nothing. He's bigger than me."

Doctor Develops Technique Of Value to Heart Patient

A San Francisco doctor has developed a technique which it is believed will make possible for the first time photographs of the coronary arteries of the living human heart, in order to determine their condition in the early stages of coronary disease.

Dr. Meyer Friedman reported his method at the third annual meeting of the Medical Advisory Council of the American Foundation for High Blood Pressure at Cleveland, Ohio. He described how he and his associates, working at the Harold Brunn institute, of which he is the head, have perfected a delicate operation which has been successfully performed on the heart of a living animal with no apparent disturbance of normal heart function. He exhibited an x-ray photograph which showed clearly the condition of the coronary arteries.

"The next step," he said, "is to use the same technique on human subjects. The diagnostic aid which this method could give could be of inestimable value."

Dr. Friedman also reported a new method, which he and his associates have developed, for taking the blood pressure of rats. It utilizes a "collar" and a specially adapted microphone applied to the rat's tail, which makes possible a true reading. Because it is simple and inexpensive the equipment has permitted studies of hypertension which otherwise would have been extremely difficult, he explained.

Indians' Living Standards Advanced by Better Roads

Better roads as an important means of stepping up current government efforts to enhance living standards on Indian reservations are urged by Charles M. Upham, engineer-director of the American Road Builders' association.

Citing the 1948 report of the department of interior as an indication that a start in this direction already has been made, Upham points out that much remains to be done to provide America's original inhabitants with adequate roads vital to better living. The rate of progress in this important function should be accelerated, he said.

Up to 1933, reservation roads were merely trails, he cites the report as showing. Actual roads were non-existent, streams had to be forded and heavy rains washed out routes which might be used by vehicles. The Indian could not get his products to market nor his children to school, due to this lack of communication facilities. In the 15-year period to 1948, congress appropriated $37,000,000 for improvements of roads and bridges and maintenance. To-day, with 20,548 miles of reservation roads, only 8,000 miles are graded and drained, and only 200 miles actually paved.

"The federal highway aid act of 1948 authorized $6,000,000 for reservation roads, but has appropriated only sufficient to do a maintenance operation," says Upham.

Common Rose Diseases

The commonest rose diseases are blackspot and mildew, both of which are easily recognized. Mildew is heralded by tired-looking foliage and a grayish film on some of the leaves. Blackspot is exactly what the name implies. Both of these fungus diseases, along with the principal insect pests such as aphids, Japanese beetles, red spider, thrips and rose bugs can be effectively controlled by a regular weekly spraying program. Spraying or dusting with appropriate materials must cover the leaves on both sides. Use an insecticide to combat insects and a fungicide to control plant diseases. During hot weather, the interval between sprayings should be extended to ten days or two weeks to avoid the possibility of burning foliage. With the advent of cooler fall weather, the weekly schedule can be resumed.

Samanella Pullorum

One of the most common troubles with baby chicks is the poultry industry's old enemy Samanella Pullorum, reports O. C. Ufford, poultry specialist for the Colorado A & M extension service. This is the bug which makes life unhappy for thousands of poultry raisers every year. We can't lick pullorum with medicines—we just have to outwit this disease, he adds. The organisms develop in the organs of both the adult male and female chicken and eggs laid by an infected hen also carry the organisms. Ufford points out that chicks hatched from infected eggs readily develop the disease, and heavy death losses usually result.

PAGE WHISTLER

Having been married 20 years, a couple decided to celebrate by taking a little trip. While talking over their plans one evening, the husband now and then glanced into the next room where a little old lady sat knitting. "The only thing," he finally said in a hushed voice, "is that for once I'd like to be by ourselves. I'd like to take this trip without your mother."

"My mother!" exclaimed the wife. "I thought she was your mother!"

WISE GUY

The woman had been trying to the shop assistant, whose temper was beginning to get a little uncertain.

"I think you had better fetch the manager," sniffed the customer. "Perhaps he'll have a little more sense than you seem to possess."

"Oh, he has, madam," was the tired reply. "He went out as you came in."

One Look Enough

On his appointment, the new manager of a bank was given much publicity, and photographs of him were reproduced in local newspapers. All were not printed attractively.

A depositor wandered in, walked up to the manager, produced one of the photographic reproductions, and asked, "Is this your picture?"

The manager assured him that it was.

"And are you the manager of this bank?"

The other admitted that he was.

"Well, give me my money!" ordered the depositor.

Our County And Social Security

By Mrs. Ruth G. Duffy, Manager.

Employment, to most of us, means work in a store, mill, garage, beauty parlor, office, or other place of business where the worker receives his or her pay in cash weekly or monthly. I have in mind another job for which no cash is received, hours are not limited to 8 hours a day but is a 24-hour job in most cases. "Well," you say, "who in high heaven would have such a job?" The one may be your mother or your wife whose job is classified as that of a housewife.

Recently a minister talking to a group, said that the housewife holds the job which yields the greatest amount of influence in modern life. Comparing the variety of work which women are doing away from home with the job of a housewife, this speaker pointed out that "the home is where the man and woman take hold of the social situation of the world. It is a handle, so to speak, of our social structure. In the home we have a better chance than any place to put into operation the ideals of the Kingdom of God."

After reading this profound statement, I asked myself, "How does our Social Security program help in promoting high ideals and in keeping a family together?" (1) It contributes by paying monthly benefits to the wife, if she is 65, and her husband is receiving monthly payments, and to their children if under 18. (2) It contributes by paying monthly payments to widows left with young children in their care, whatever the age of the widow, and to the young children. These monthly payments will continue until each child is 18 unless the child marries before 18. This protection alone has kept many young widows from having to work outside of the home, put their young children in orphanages, home of relatives, foster homes, or actually giving them up through adoption by another financially able to care for them. (3) It contributes by paying a monthly payment to a widow who is 65 as long as she lives and does not remarry if her husband had worked a sufficient length of time. If the widow is not 65 upon her husband's death and there are no young children, she gets one payment at that time and is told that she will get monthly payments when she is 65 and the amount she will get. She has something definite to count on in her old age and does not approach that time of life with the fear that she will be dependent on others.

I will be in Mocksville on Wednesday, July 27, at the court house, second floor, at 12:30 p. m. I will also be in Cooleemee on the same date at the Erwin Cotton Mills office at 11 a. m.

Forrestal's Death

MR. WESTBROOK PEGLER has issued an array of charges aimed to make his readers believe that my criticism of the late James Forrestal largely contributed to his death.

But for more intelligent people who may have read the Pegler columns, I should like to set forth the following facts:

1. AFTER I reported on Mr. Forrestal's mental illness, there was little other reference to him by me either in the press or on the radio. I did compliment him on his cooperation with secretary of defense Johnson and I also suggested that he be given a long vacation at government expense.

2. AT THE TIME of my radio references to Mr. Forrestal's illness, he was under sedatives; was not permitted to listen to any radio programs or read the newspapers.

3. THE NAVY immediately issued a statement which had the effect of denying Mr. Forrestal's illness. If the navy, on the other hand, had taken proper precautions instead of minimizing the facts, Jim Forrestal would be alive today.

They also knew that every other medical institution in the country puts patients with suicidal tendencies on the ground floor. Unfortunately, navy doctors in Miami gave psychiatric treatment, which may have been why they called Mr. Forrestal's illness "nervous exhaustion" and put him on the 16th floor of the hospital tower.

4. CAPT. George Raines, the navy doctor in charge, has since made the following amazing statement: "I recognized the well-known psychiatric fact that the next 30 days would constitute the most dangerous period of the illness as far as suicide was concerned. . . . I felt that the assumption of responsibility must rest on my shoulders and not be shared with the family or other naval authorities."

And after admitting that this was the most dangerous period, the man who assumed responsibility departed for Canada.

Forrestal's Friends

5. IN THE END it may be found that Mr. Forrestal's friends had more to do with his death than his critics. For those close to him now admit privately that he had been sick for some time, suffered embarrassing lapses too painful to be mentioned here.

Illness such as Jim Forrestal experienced does not come all of a sudden, like a fall from a horse. It begins months in advance. And such an illness cannot be pushed aside or overlooked. It must be treated. Yet during most of last winter, when Jim Forrestal was under heavy responsibilities and definitely not a well man, the little coteries of newspapermen who now insinuate Jim was killed by his critics encouraged him to stay on. This got to be almost an obsession both on their part and his, until Mr. Truman's final request for his resignation undoubtedly worsened the illness.

6. THE REAL FACT is that Jim Forrestal had a relatively good press. All one need do is examine the newspaper files to see that his press was far better than that of some of his old associates.

Secretary of Labor Perkins, for instance, was one of the most criticized cabinet members of the last decade. She took it with a smile and is still working for her country. Winston Churchill had bitter criticism heaped upon his head and suffered one of the most crushing political blows in recent history. However, he still remains an active force in British politics. Herbert Hoover retired from office one of the most criticized and beaten-up political figures of recent years. Yet he has come back as a definite force for good government.

FBI Probe

7. IT IS TRUE that when Jim Forrestal retired, the justice department was in the process of investigating the Arabian oil purchases made by the navy during his administration. I feel sure this did not involve him personally, though he was known to be dreadfully upset by it.

8. IF WE ARE to withhold criticism of a man because of possible illness or danger to his life, then congressional investigations, a free press, and our entire system of government by checks and balances becomes difficult.

For instance, when the FBI cross-examined the late Lawrence Duggan of the state department during last summer's un-American activities committee probe, they had no idea he would thereafter plunge to his death from a New York office building.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Issue Is Joined on Labor Measure; Senate Group Okays Atlantic Pact; Unemployment Increasing in Nation

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

LABOR BILL: Issue Is Joined

The long-awaited fight on repeal of the Taft-Hartley labor law had begun. Debate had started in the senate with Chairman Elbert D. Thomas (D., Utah) of the labor committee opening for the administration. Government forces were committed to an attempt for outright repeal of the measure, but all indications pointed to a compromise or nothing.

Meanwhile, John L. Lewis declared that the AFL and CIO had betrayed organized labor's cause by reportedly agreeing to a compromise.

Urging adoption of the administration bill, Thomas said the voters last November "decided the Taft-Hartley law was a mistake." The administration seeks to replace it with a modified version of the New Deal Wagner act. Thomas called for quick repeal of the Taft-Hartley law.

In telegrams to all 96 senators, Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers union, said he had heard AFL and CIO leaders had agreed to accept four "oppressive amendments" to the administration bill.

An AFL official pooh-poohed Lewis' charges of a secret deal. As a matter of fact, he said, the AFL convention in Cleveland recently agreed to accept the four amendments that "horrified" Lewis.

These four amendments called for:

1. Power for the federal government to seize plants involved in national-emergency strikes.

2. The filing of financial returns by unions.

3. The filing of non-Communist and non-Fascist affidavits by workers and employers alike.

4. A guarantee of free speech in labor relations.

ARTICLE 5: What Import?

The senate foreign relations committee, in reporting favorably the North Atlantic pact, had almost bogged down on Article 5. That is the proviso in the pact which binds signatories to the rule that an attack on one pact member would be an attack upon all, and binds each to take such action as is deemed necessary, "including the use of armed forces" to restore and maintain the security of the area.

THE WORDING of Article 5 created in some minds a fear that its effect would nullify the right of congress to declare war and might put this power arbitrarily into the hands of the President.

Senator George (D., Ga.) who had expressed concern about the interpretation of Article 5, finally said that he was satisfied that under it the President could not declare war nor "employ troops to enforce any particular action aimed at certain European countries without congressional approval."

Senator Pepper (D., Fla.) took the same tack. He said the provision neither adds to nor subtracts from the war powers of the President as commander-in-chief.

EVEN SO, it was a difficult point. The extent to which a President might go toward involvement in war was dramatically disclosed in the Roosevelt administration when the commander-in-chief admittedly committed the nation to "everything short of war" in what was purported to be an attempt to avoid war. Under such a policy actions may go so far as the chief executive level that there would be nothing left for the congress to do but declare war in a situation in which it had no authority and no voice.

NEW WEAPON: Top Secret

What is being produced at the plutonium plant at Hanford, Washington?

NO ONE would say, but Carleton Shugg, deputy general manager of the atomic energy commission, said the plant was handling a "product that needs a better name than 'deadly poison.'"

Was it the weird "atomic fog" about which there had been so much speculation? Shugg wouldn't say. He said, instead, that he was merely discussing certain phases in the production of plutonium—one of two fissionable materials used in making atom bombs. The other is uranium-235.

SHUGG's statement was made during his testimony before a senate appropriations subcommittee during the congressional investigation of the atomic program.

AMA GAGS FISHBEIN

Famed Doctor-Editor's Authority Clipped

The red-hot issue between the American Medical Association and the administration over the President's proposed compulsory health plan was coming to a boil. The AMA, obviously wishing to retain its own identity in matters of policy statements, clapped a gag on Dr. Morris Fishbein, one of medicine's most famous figures. The board ordered him to stop writing or

Barred

Steve Trumbull, Miami Herald reporter, was barred from the Florida state senate chamber after he questioned the manner in which a bill was brought before the senate. It was reported his cheekbone was fractured when he was struck by a senator.

UNEMPLOYMENT: Sudden Increase

Whatever its significance, many economists were expressing concern over a sudden upswing in the number of unemployed in the nation.

BETWEEN April and May, the number of U.S. jobless had increased by 273,000 to bring the total unemployed to a probable postwar high of more than 3.25 million. These figures were released by the federal bureau of the census.

The rise in the unemployment figure at a time when it usually drops might be attributed, the bureau said, to the sudden rush of students for summer or permanent jobs. The bureau did say that two-thirds of the increase in unemployment could be traced to "young persons of high school and college age."

AT THE same time, the bureau reported, total unemployment was rising, principally as a result of seasonal activity on farms.

Despite the conflicting reports, there were some among the country's industrial and economic leaders who feared the unemployment situation might grow worse before getting any better.

SOVIETS: Appraise Guests

In Moscow the Literary Gazette sought to evaluate for its readers the Russian appraisal of foreign diplomats and newspapermen who live in the Soviet Union.

THE Gazette printed a poem written by Sergei Mikhailov, children's poet, playwright and co-author of the Soviet national anthem.

Translated freely, Sergei's poem went this way: "We met them, you and I. 'These friends who aren't friends. 'The jackal, wolf and swine, 'And journalistic snake. 'In other words, those who are being sent here. 'We know them all and can recognize them. 'Even if we aren't doctors.'"

NATURALLY, there will be no comment from the pilloried—not while they're still in Russia.

HEART STUDY: Artificially Used

Emphasis in heart study now rests in the development of artificial hearts. Dr. Alfred Blalock of Baltimore, widely-known blue-baby specialist, was the authority for the statement.

SPEAKING at a general scientific session of the American Medical Association, Blalock said: "The most interesting thing in surgery, but still in the experimental stage, is the development of mechanical devices as substitutes for the heart."

He reported that he considered as most promising a pump developed by Dr. John Gibbon at the Jefferson school of Philadelphia.

"Dr. Gibbon's pump will pump blood as the heart does," Dr. Blalock explained. "He is working on an artificial lung to aerate the blood."

BLALOCK said Dr. Gibbon's pump replaced the heart of a dog for 48 minutes and the dog recovered.

"If one can substitute for the heart for 30 to 45 minutes, one can open it and see what one is working at," he said. "With a heart substitute we can do more things inside the heart."

AMA GAGS FISHBEIN

speaking on anything except medicine. That meant he could not talk publicly on state medicine nor on the political issues boiling up in the AMA's campaign against the Truman national health insurance plan. Dr. Fishbein is editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association. He held no official position beyond that.

ARMY BOSS: Was Buck Private

The cinderella story would take on new interest for the GI's in Uncle Sam's army.

And there was a particular reason. Gordon Gray, a one-time buck private in the army, was nominated by President Truman to be secretary of the army.

GRAY, now undersecretary, is 40 years old, a North Carolina publisher and lawyer. He has been acting secretary since the resignation of Kenneth C. Royall on April 27.

Gray, born in Baltimore, is not an army career man. But he served three years in the army, enlisting as a buck private in 1942. But he had something on the ball then, and rose to captain with the 12th army group in Europe.

THE new secretary would be the government's youngest head of an executive department. For the past 16 months Gray has been the army official responsible for the industrial mobilization and procurement official of his department.

JOHN L. LEWIS: A Severe Blow

A federal district court of appeals dealt a heavy blow at John L. Lewis and his United Mine Workers. Lewis and his union, found guilty of contempt of court for failing to call off the 1948 coal strike, had been fined $1,420,000.

THEY appealed. The higher court upheld the finding and indications were that Lewis and his attorneys would lose no time appealing to the United States supreme court for a final decision.

THE CASE grew out of Lewis' defiance of the Taft-Hartley law last year for ignoring a court order issued under the law that directed the miners to call off a month-old strike in the soft coal fields.

The district appeals court ruling made it clear that the decision was based on the fact that Lewis and the miners waited until the demands were met before finally calling off the strike when they had been previously directed by the court to do so.

Justice E. Barrett Prettyman said on behalf of the court: "THE SUPREME COURT (has) held . . . involving these same appellants, that he who fails to obey a court order . . . is punishable for criminal contempt. That decision governs us here."

The supreme court already had upheld the conviction of Lewis and his miners for defying a similar court order in the 1946 coal strike. It was that ruling to which Judge Prettyman referred.

NAZI "WITCH": Not Through Yet

Ise Koch, called the "witch" of Buchenwald, infamous German prison camp of World War II, definitely was to face a German court on charges of mistreating Germans at the concentration camp.

ONCE sentenced to life imprisonment by American occupation force verdict on charges of unspeakable cruelties to prisoners, Ise had her term commuted to only four years by U.S. Gen. Lucius D. Clay on grounds of insufficient evidence.

Among other charges she faced was one of having made lampshades out of human skin.

The announcement that Ise would have to stand trial again was made in Munich by an official of the Bavarian ministry of justice.

THE U.S. authorities have turned over to German officials the records of the case in order that they might determine whether she could be tried by the Germans for mistreating their own citizens at Buchenwald, where she was the wife of the Nazi commandant.

The United States air force was proud of its newest jet fighter—the Lockheed F-90, which had successfully completed its flight tests at the Muroc flight test base in California.

There was an air of secrecy about the plane's performance. Some facts which did emerge were: The plane weighs 26,000 pounds, climbed 16,000 feet in 10 minutes, but that wasn't its maximum, the pilot said.

New Selling System Aids Hog Producers

Price Agreed Upon Right in The Pen

Under a new system of selling hogs, buyers and salesmen at the markets agree on the price right in the pen before the hogs are weighed. Thus the old weight-schedule is being replaced by a pen-to-pen system of marketing. The buyer is given a chance to recognize quality and pay a premium for good hogs.

The quality of this Chester White sow and litter is apparent even to the casual observer; but under the old weight-schedule of selling hogs, breeders who produce such quality stock would receive nothing extra for the added time and care they had expended to bring their hogs to such a degree of excellence.

The reason advanced for increased interest in marketing is that the weight-schedule system fails to recognize the difference between hogs. It also fails to pay for true quality.

Under the old schedule-selling, salesmen and buyers at a market would agree in the morning how many hogs each buyer would get. A schedule of process was set up according to weight. "Hogs was hogs" and the scales determined the price.

But that system is gradually being abandoned. Under the old method, farmers judged probable market prices by estimating the weight of their hogs. A premium of 50 cents per hundredweight was considered unusual at the market although the real value of hogs of the same weight varies as much as $5 or $8 per animal. Such premiums offered poor pay to the expert producer who raises top-quality hogs worth more money.

Another reason for the new system is the fear that a better job of selling isn't done, hogs may be sold on a dressed-carcase basis. This method of marketing (which is used in Canada) is being explored by many farmers, cooperatives, agricultural experiment stations and studies under the federal research and marketing act. Many public market operators also are worried about the decline in volume of hogs arriving for sale at terminal markets.

Pillsbury judging for best United States wheat raised in 1948. The grain competed with 37 samples from 20 other states when the judging was held in Minneapolis.

The Rasmussens rotate their wheat crop on 4,000 acres of unirrigated land. They are the sons of Philip H. Rasmussen, who won the state and national Pillsbury award in 1946.

Soil Check May Answer Slow Tile Drain Puzzle

If tile-drained land is slow in drying, check the organic matter content of your soils before blaming the tile system. Many tile lines that worked well when originally laid are now hampered because the water can't get through the soil to the tile. You open your soil and improve drainage when you grow well-fertilized deep-rooted legumes in the rotation and put back straw, cornstalks and manure.

$1,530,942.52 was the figure that Mr. DeKwickrich estimated as his fortune. He had come by it through many years of industrious labor and now was enjoying the fruits of his uphill struggle. He and his wife traveled all over the world and stayed at the finest hotels. There was always one thing he insisted upon at those hotels and that was a swimming pool. His wife was an excellent swimmer and enjoyed her morning dip.

One morning a lackey rushed up to Mr. DeKwickrich to inform him that his wife had had an accident in the pool and had nearly drowned.

"They are applying artificial respiration now," the attendant assured him, "and the doctor thinks she will come around all right."

Mr. DeKwickrich seemed somewhat put out. "You run back there," he said, "and tell them I can afford the real thing. Artificial respiration, indeed!"

Child Victims
Of Jealousy

By Lawrence Gould

Can a boy be jealous of his mother?

Answer: Certainly. No one can help being jealous of a person who appears to come between him and someone else he loves, and a boy who gives all his devotion to his father may be very jealous of his mother's "claims" upon him. But many boys begin by being jealous of their fathers' relationship with their mothers (the "Oedipus complex") and the average small boy would be likely to develop an intense attachment to his father either to conceal repressed hostility toward him or because he felt "rejected" by his mother.

old Stone and Mr. Irving Simos report that a "follow-up" of cases in which they had given advice on job seeking and self-confidence showed personal interviews to have been more effective.

Is "advice by mail" effective?

Answer: Doubtless it is, but since most people find it so much easier to evade their actual problems or give only one side of a story when writing a letter than when talking to a trained observer that I, for one, don't try to give advice that way. In the Journal of Applied Psychology, Dr. C. Harlowitz says that "advice by mail" is an individual matter, depending on the "association" high winds happen to have for each person, but I think that living where strong gales blow most of the time would be "wearing" to most men and women. Moving about outdoors in a strong wind takes more muscular exertion, and the noise might be hard to shut out of your mind when you're indoors. However, a normal human being can adjust—or as we say, "get used"—to many things which at first seem intolerable, and wind may be no exception.

The Challenge of Heart Disease

By Dr. James W. Barton

IT IS A NATURAL feeling of sympathy that we have for the blind, for the victims of infantile paralysis and for those who are crippled—particularly crippled children. What many of us fail to realize, however, is that there is a dread foe of humanity that takes away the young and old, yet we do nothing about it, thinking of it perhaps as just an act of Nature. I have in mind that deadly human enemy, heart disease.

In a pamphlet, "The Challenge of Heart Disease," the American Heart Association presents some startling facts that should make us all do our part in preventing the death of loved and valuable citizens.

"Heart disease has been increasing rapidly. Today it is the leading cause of death. One of every three deaths is due to diseases of the heart and blood vessels. Heart disease takes a greater toll than the next five leading causes of death combined."

The death rate from diseases of the heart and blood vessels is three times as high as tuberculosis. The unfortunate fact about heart disease is that it takes the greatest number of lives between ages of 40 and 60, the age of most productivity and the age of greatest opportunity for helpfulness to fellow men.

"The economic cost of heart disease is staggering in terms of loss of life, absenteeism, disability, loss of gainful employment, and care and treatment programs."

"What can you and I do to help fight this terrible enemy of mankind?"

We can join our local branch of the American Heart Association and help research physicians who are doing advanced work and investigation of the causes and treatment of heart disease. We can help employ or place men and women with heart disease so that they can do gainful work and retain their morale.

HEALTH NOTES

It's a standing joke among medical students that some men become skin specialists because skin patients never die, never get well, the disease comes on from time to time and they never call the physicians during the night. As a matter of fact, very few physicians become skin specialists as they prefer general medicine and surgery.

When angina pectoris (breast pang) occurs, the patient should remember just what he is doing at the time, as this helps the physician determine whether or not true or organic heart disease is present. The fact that emotional upsets can bring on such pain helps to reassure the patient.

Songs for All Hearts

Lesson for July 3, 1949

THE greatest hymn-book in the world is to be our study for three months. Not the oldest; that honor belongs to the Vedic Hymns of ancient India. Not the largest; the hymnal of your own church may easily be twice as large. But the greatest hymn-book in the world is the book of Psalms. This collection of religious poems was used as the hymn-book of the temple which was built when the Jewish exiles returned to Babylon. It was the hymn-book of Herod's temple, and we know our Lord used and loved it. It is indeed the song-book of the Bible. It was the only hymnal which the first Christians used, for some time. Indeed the book of Psalms is probably the only hymn-book honored and used by three separate religions—Judaism, Mohammedanism and Christianity.

Dr. Foreman

How It Grew
LIKE all hymnals, this book of Psalms grew by degrees. It was not written all at one time or by one person. David wrote some of the Psalms, how many we do not know. The "titles" of the Psalms were added by later Hebrew editors, are no part of the original Psalms, and are often inaccurate.

It is very likely that as much as a thousand years went by between the first of the Psalms to be written, and the last. Every modern hymnal that is any good is in part a collection of the best of the old hymnals.

So our book of Psalms, as it finally took shape, came from older collections. A glance through it in the American standard version will show that in its present form it is made up of five smaller books, ending with Psalms 41, 72, 89, 106 and 150. Each book ends with a doxology and book V ends with a magnificent series of them. Sometimes the editors left in duplicates. Reading Psalm 14 side by side with Psalm 53 will show that these two are exactly the same, only using different names for God. At least one of the Psalms is made up of "clippings" from earlier Psalms: thus Psalm 108 is made up from Psalm 57:7-11 and Psalm 60:5-12. The Psalms were cherished and preserved generation after generation because of their heart-appeal. Our Psalm book has gone through centuries of sifting; many were dropped out and forgotten, but the best were saved and sung; and what we have is the cream of the best of the singers of Israel.

Mirror of Man
JOHN CALVIN called the Psalms the "mirror of the soul." All the varied moods of man—hope, despair, triumph, envy, doubt, aspiration, loneliness, hatred, fear, irritation, patriotism, joy, bitterness, weariness, amazement, anguish, rapture—almost every emotion that can be felt toward God or man breathes somewhere or other in these Psalms.

Since not one of the authors of the Psalms was a Christian, of course, we should not be surprised to find, here and there, expressions (for example) of hatred which are out of harmony with the spirit and teaching of Jesus. The wonder is that there is so little of that kind of thing.

For every Psalm in which the poet says something cruel or hateful (e. g. Psalm 137:9 or 109:6:14), there are scores that breathe a spirit of gentleness and grace. For every note of despair (Psalm 88 is the only completely gloomy one in the whole collection), there are many hallelujahs of hope and gladness.

Message of God
IF the Psalms are so human, how can they be also God's Word? Yet they are, truly, a message of God. For they not only cast a divine light on the state of man's heart, but they show what the life of man is when God becomes real. For God was real to each poet who contributed to this great book. In latter weeks this summer we shall be looking at the Psalms from various special angles. This week it will be helpful to sit quietly with the three typical Psalms, 1, 67 and 100, and as you ponder over each one in turn, ask yourself: What does this show me about God? What does this show about life when it turns to God?

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS... by Lynn Chambers

Cook a Savory Main Dish in a Skillet (See Recipes Below)

Skillet Dinners

WHEN YOU WANT to cook a really appetizing dinner for your family, do it in a skillet. Veal chops, pork chops, curries and chicken, all can be cooked to mouth-watering tenderness in a skillet after browning, by covering the skillet and turning down the heat. Mushrooms, green peppers, onions and all sorts of other seasonings can be added to make the food savory. Pork chops are a real favorite, especially if they are prepared in this manner with tomatoes, green pepper, celery and rice.

Pork Chop Skillet Meal (Serves 4)

- 4 tablespoons fat
- 4 pork chops, 1" thick
- 4 slices Bermuda onion, 1/4" thick
- 3 cups canned tomatoes
- 4 rings green pepper, 1/4" thick
- 4 tablespoons uncooked rice
- 1 cup celery diced

Heat four tablespoons of fat in skillet on high heat. Turn switch to medium and brown pork chops until well browned on both sides, approximately 15 minutes. Place a slice of onion and one pepper ring on each chop. Place one tablespoon of rice in each ring. Pour tomatoes around meat and add celery. Place cover on skillet. When steaming (about eight minutes), switch to simmer and allow to cook for one hour.

Skillet Chicken (Serves 3-4)

- 2 cups cooked chicken
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 3 cups chicken stock or water
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- Dash of pepper
- 2 bay leaves
- 1 sprig thyme
- 2 small sprigs parsley
- 8 small onions
- 1/2 pound mushrooms
- 1 tablespoon chopped parsley

Melt butter in a saucepan. Stir in flour. Add stock slowly, stirring constantly, until sauce is thickened. Then add bay leaves, thyme and sprigs of parsley which have been tied together. Add salt, pepper, onions and mushrooms which have been cleaned and stemmed. Simmer on low heat for 45 minutes. Add the chicken which may be in large pieces, if desired. Heat chicken, but do not allow mixture to boil. Remove bay leaves, thyme and parsley which were tied together. Serve very hot, over biscuits or cooked rice, sprinkled with chopped parsley.

Skillet Veal Chops (Serves 4)

- 6 loin veal chops
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 5 tablespoons fat
- 1 cup sliced onions
- 1 cup canned tomatoes
- 1/2 cup hot water
- 1 bay leaf
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch
- 1/2 cup cold water

LYNN SAYS:

Try These Seasonings For Vegetables
Bake carrots if you want to try something new and different. Sprinkle small scraped carrots with 1/2 cup of butter which is creamed with 1/2 cup sugar, one teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon and 1/2 cup boiling water. Garden-fresh green beans, slivered and buttered, will be even more tasty if you add some chopped mint leaves to them just before finishing the cooking.

Dredge the chops in flour which has been mixed with salt and pepper. Sauté onions in two tablespoons of fat until brown.

Place chops on top of onions, and add tomatoes, water and bay leaf. Cover and simmer on top of range for 45 to 60 minutes, until tender. Remove chops to a hot platter. Make a smooth paste of cornstarch and cold water and add to liquid in skillet. Stir and cook until thickened, then pour over chops.

Veal in Sour Cream (Serves 4)

- 2 pounds boned veal shoulder, cut in 1" cubes
- 2 ounces salt pork, cut fine
- 1/2 cup minced onion
- 1/2 clove garlic, minced fine, if desired
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1 tablespoon paprika
- 1 1/2 cups boiling water
- 1/2 cup soured cream
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1/4 cup cold water

Saute salt pork, onion, garlic and veal until meat is browned well on all sides. Add seasonings and water. Cook, covered over low heat until veal is tender, about one hour. Remove veal to hot platter and keep warm. Add sour cream to pan drippings. Stir flour and water together until smooth and add to ingredients in saucepan.

Lamb Kidney Sauté (Serves 4)

- 8 lamb kidneys, split
- 2 tablespoons fat
- 1 tablespoon flour
- 1 tablespoon chopped parsley
- 1/2 cup beef stock
- 1/2 cup canned tomato juice
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
- 4 slices toast

Saute cleaned kidneys in fat in a skillet for 15 to 20 minutes or until tender, turning frequently. Reduce heat and sprinkle flour over kidneys. Blend flour with fat while turning. Add parsley, stock, tomato juice, salt and sauce. Cook over low heat until sauce is thickened. Serve on toast.

Curried Lamb (Serves 4)

- 1 cup uncooked rice
- 3/4 cup sliced onions
- 1/2 cup diced celery
- 2 tablespoons fat
- 1 1/2 cups cubed, cooked lamb
- 1 teaspoon curry powder
- 2 cups lamb stock or gravy
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1/4 cold water

Cook rice until tender and keep hot. In the meantime, saute onions, celery in fat in a skillet until lightly browned. Add lamb, curry powder, stock and salt. Cover and simmer 30 minutes. If desired, thicken liquid in pan with flour blended with cold water. Serve over rice.

Add chopped pimiento and green pepper to corn cut from the cob before serving. This adds flavor as well as color. If you're fond of radishes, slice and fry them in butter. Season with salt and pepper and serve. Chopped mint and parsley may be added to peas during the last few minutes of cooking to give them garden flavor. Interest in cauliflower will hit a new high if you brown bread crumbs in butter and pour over the vegetable just before serving.

Marriage, Divorce Rates Show Noticeable Decline

Throughout the civilized world in 1948, there was a noticeable decline in marriage and divorce rates.

With improved economic conditions, there were indications in 1948 that family life was slowly returning to normalcy. Many countries, notably England, Finland, Japan, Poland, and Sweden, instituted or broadened provisions designed to make family life more secure.

In the United States, about 1,800,000 marriages were performed, a decrease of 10 per cent from the provisional total of 1,992,354 in 1947, and a drop of more than 20 per cent from the final figure of 2,291,045 in 1946. The rate of divorce was approaching the pre-war trend, with the number of divorces believed not to exceed 420,000—a decrease of 10 per cent from 1947, and a 30 per cent decrease from 1946.

Certain notable efforts to improve family life were made in the United States in 1948, according to the article. The National Conference on Family Life, authorized by President Truman, convened at the White House in May to explore the factual background of U. S. families, dynamics of family interaction, economic welfare, and related topics. Institutes on family relations were held at the universities of California, Chicago, Indiana, and Southern California, and the American Institute of Family Relations sponsored workshops at several colleges. The University of Florida extension division conducted seven regional family life institutes.

Kidneys Must Work Well-

For You To Feel Well
24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste matter from the blood. If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove surplus fluid, excess acids and other waste matter that cannot stay in the blood, without injury to health, there would be a better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fail to function properly. Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warns that something is wrong. You may suffer nagging backache, headaches, dizziness, rheumatic pains, getting up at night, swelling. Why not try Doan's Pills? You will be using a medicine recommended the country over. Doan's stimulates the function of the kidneys and help them to flush out poisonous waste from the blood. They contain nothing harmful. Get Doan's today. Use with confidence. At all drug stores.

The Democrats opened their 1950 campaign in Des Moines, Iowa, last week by promising the farmers in the mid-west to give them the world on a silver platter if they would vote the Democratic ticket in 1950. Promises are like pie crusts, easily broken. As farm prices go up so does the cost of living go up by leaps and bounds.

Our old friend Sanford Martin, editor of the Winston Salem Journal, has announced in a signed editorial in the Journal, that he is opposed to liquor stores for Winston-Salem. The Journal and Sentinel have both come out in favor of liquor stores for Winston-Salem. Martin says he has never heard of a city drinking itself out of debt. He is right.

Hoyle-McMahan

In a beautiful ceremony, Saturday afternoon, June 18th, at 5:30 o'clock at the Farmington Methodist church, Miss Mary Lee McMahan became the bride of Edgar Dixon Hoyle. Rev. J. W. Vestal and Rev. John Oakley officiated, using the double ring ceremony.

A program of wedding music was rendered by Mrs. LaVerne Shore, pianist, and Miss Nellie Runyans, soloist.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Miss Betty McMahan was her sister's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Misses Nancy Furches, Mildred Ingram, Ann Dixon and Martha Miller. M. H. Hoyle, Jr., was his brother's best man. Ushers were Robert Hoye, Gene Miller, Joseph Dixon and Norman Ridenhour.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of Mrs. F. R. McMahan, after which the bride and groom left for a short wedding trip. Upon their return the couple will be at home in Chapel Hill.

Mrs. Hoyle is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harmon McMahan, of Mocksville, Rt. 2. She is a graduate of Woman's College Greensboro, and for the past three years has been a vocational home economics teacher in Coolemeec High School.

Mr. Hoyle is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Hudson Hoyle, of Coolemeec. He is a senior in the school of pharmacy at the University of N. C., at Chapel Hill, where he is a member of the Phi Delta Chi fraternity. He served in the Marine Corps for two years.

Silver Anniversary

On the evening of May 28 at 7:30 o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cheek, of Eastonia, entertained at their home about 70 guests honoring their 25th wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Lawrence Paige, oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cheek, pinned a corsage of green spray and silver bells on each guest as they entered the room.

Mrs. Edward Anderson, second daughter, received the gifts, assisted by the youngest daughter, Mrs. Roy Grubb. Tal magde and Bobby Cheek, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Cheek, assisted in seating the guests and lighting the candles. The home was decorated in lovely flowers and evergreens with white candles. Magnolia blossoms were used as the anniversary flower.

Mr. and Mrs. Cheek were dressed in their bridal colors. Her dress was a lovely aqua with lattice yolk and draped skirt, duplicating her wedding dress. Her only ornament was a string of pearls and earrings to match, a gift of her husband on their 15th anniversary. Her corsage of white carnations, worn with silver bells, was given her by Mr. Cheek. Mrs. Cheek wore a beautiful ring of aqua color in place of her diamond.

Mrs. Roma Gregory acted as master of ceremonies and had charge of the program. Miss Annie Pearl Tatum rendered wedding music, and sacred songs were sung by the guests.

The gifts were placed on a table in front of Mr. and Mrs. Cheek, who were seated together, by Mrs. Roma Gregory and their three daughters. After looking at the many beautiful silver gifts, the host and hostess made brief remarks on their happiness together during the past 25 years.

All then entered the candle-lit dining room, where a three tier silver decorated cake, with a lovely bride and groom mounted on top, awaited them. Rev. Jesse Hill gave the blessing. After Mr. and Mrs. Cheek cut their slices of cake, Mrs. Frank Rinegar, youngest sister of the hostess, cut and served the cake. Others who assisted with serving were Misses Dorothy Anderson, Gladys Hill, Dorothy Shore and Mesdames Lawrence Paige, Edward Anderson and Roy Grubb. After the serving music was rendered by Mrs. Bill Rice. As the party came to a close, Robert Munday and Miss Lois Spry sang, "Near to the Heart of God."

Mr. and Mrs. Cheek are very proud of the many lovely gifts they received.

Closing Date Set

August 1st, 1949, has been set as the closing date for taking applications for "New" grower Wheat Allotments, according to D. B. Miller, Chairmam, Davie County PMA Committee.

Farmers who did not grow any wheat for harvest in any of the years, 1947, 1948 or 1949 but plan to grow wheat for harvest in 1950 must come to the county office and file request for a new grower allotment.

Mr. Miller pointed out that even though a farmer filled out a form showing the wheat history on his farm he will get an allotment on the farm if he did not grow any wheat from 1947-1948 unless he requests an allotment.

The Horn Bible Class, of the Mocksville Baptist church, together with their families, enjoyed a delightful picnic supper at Mirrow Lake, near Salisbury, last Wednesday evening.

Tax Rate Higher

Davie County Commissioners met recently and raised the tax rate from 82 to 92 cents on the $100 valuation. Had the recent $25,000,000 school bond issue been defeated the rate would have been higher. Davie County will get $250,000 for schools from this bond issue.

PSYCHOLOGY THAT BLAMES BAD DRIVING . . .

Twitchell Scores 'Accident-Prone' Theory

. . . ON CHILDHOOD BEHAVIOR IS DEBUNKED

By H. I. PHILLIPS

ON ROAD MENACES

A speaker at a convention of psychiatrists declares that accident-prone auto drivers are people who, at the wheel of a car, behave just as they have behaved from childhood. It is the folks who have been inconsiderate, intolerant of authority and generally anti-social from infancy up who drive carelessly, he says. "If a man's personal life is marked by caution and consideration, his driving will be marked by it. If his life is marked by contrary characteristics his driving will be so marked," the speaker insisted.

Elmer Twitchell, the eminent student of human behavior, disagrees. And hotly. "The delicatessen dealers have a name for it," he said today. "Any theory that autoists behave the way they do because they threw their rattle at the nurse in infancy, resented the schoolteacher's authority and robbed birds' nests is the bunk. The plain inescapable fact is that the minute a human being finds himself at the wheel of an auto he becomes a different personality.

"A fellow who takes off his hat in elevators, helps old ladies across streets and writes books on politeness will chase his fellow man up an alley, yell at school children and cuss out pedestrians for getting in his way, once he is in a flivver. The kindest gentleman in the community, known for his warm smile, takes on the instincts of a gorilla the minute he finds himself tooling the sedan down Main street.

"I will lay you 50 to 1 that the psychiatrist who made that speech at the convention is a refined, well-bred gent whose heart bleeds for his fellowmen when afoot, but who leers at red lights, barks at fellow creatures and snaps at policemen when hurrying through town in the old boiler.

"It's one of the mysteries of life and it has nothing to do with childhood, generally speaking. I can stand on any street in America and point out college professors, lawyers, school principals, gardenia growers, lecturers on good manners and men of Chesterfieldian backgrounds roaring by and snarling at slow-gaited pedestrians with the ferocity displayed by gangsters, fugitives from chain gangs and all around heels.

"I'm no exception, more's the pity. On my feet I am sweet as they come. I am a model of good behavior in any company. I open doors for ladies, show the aged every consideration and try to be gracious on a broad scale. But it's a quick switch from Dr. Jekyll to Mr. Hyde when I take the wheel of the old jalopy. And so do you, and you and you! There's something about an automobile that changes human character. "Early childhood tendencies my eye!"

Here are some interesting case histories on "accident-prone" drivers, offered as subjects for psychiatric study:

CASE 1.—Jephtha Finchbutt, 32, truck driver. Mr. Finchbutt habitually drives a 15-ton trailer recklessly, ignoring all speed signs, takes turns at 60 per hour and has never been known to heed a stop light. Report: As a baby Jephtha was allowed to pound on highchair with bottle; mother had nine children and was too busy to restrain his early instinct to spear live goldfish with fork; early schooling was under teachers who failed to send all other pupils home and just concentrate on Jephtha.

CASE 2.—Geoffrey Tuffit, 46, oil truck operator and chronic weaver through dense traffic. Geoffrey has a batting average of one bad accident per month, but always seems to get out of it through indifference of authorities. He particularly loves coasting downhill through school zones. Report: His inclinations are all due to a selfish mother who used to wheel Geoffrey around in a baby carriage unequipped with brakes and horn. The father never read Emily Post.

CASE 3.—Twiggsby Cropper, 19, college freshman. Twiggsby feels unnecessarily curbed if asked to do less than 55 per hour in city centers and 70 in suburbs, loves to drive "no-hands" across city playgrounds. Report: From age of six months to year and a half he was allowed to scream at nurse; from age of 3 to 5 instinct to pour hot porridge on the cat uncurbed. Father bought him a velocipede too early and failed to read him the laws on rules of road each night before putting him to bed.

CASE 4.—Mrs. Arabella Priggstone, 29. This woman backs up without signals, makes U-turns on impulses, never bothers to have brakes tightened and frequently forgets to put on lights at night.

PROMISES

THE year will keep its promises to me:
Unfailingly the days will come and go;
Rivers will take their sure course to the sea;
Seedtime and harvest, these will come, I know.
The stars will go their quiet silver way;
There will be sun and rain and wind and dew;
There will be breathless beauty in each day;
There will be old loved tasks for me to do.

And I have made my promise to the year
(God help me keep it through the hours ahead):
I shall be braver, I shall banish fear;
I shall not leave a kindly word unsaid;
I shall have faith that this, my ancient grief,
Will yield at last to laughter and to song;
I shall have hope that there will be relief
For the old hurts the world has borne so long.

The year will keep its promise. O my heart,
We must not, dare not fail to do our part.

Star Dust
STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO

By INEZ GERHARD

SHIRLEY TEMPLE'S ability as a mimic did a lot toward making her a child star, and she is still using it as a help in learning the various dialects she's had to master. She has a southern drawl and a Scandinavian accent down pat, but had a bit of trouble with the Irish brogue needed for Warners' "Always Sweethearts."

SHIRLEY TEMPLE

More than once she has confused her mother-in-law by using one of the three when answering the phone; even her own mother can't tell sometimes whether a new southern maid, a Scandinavian one or an Irish colleen is on the other end of the wire when she calls her daughter.

John Dall and the King brothers are discussing rights to Jonathan Latimer's novels featuring detective Bill Crane. They would allow Dall to continue his screen life of crime, but on the side of law and order.

The picnic staged recently by the American Federation of Radio Artists was quite a shindig; raised $3,000 for its relief fund. Lum and Abner ran the bingo tables and organized square dances. Frank Nelson, of "Blondie," auctioned off supporting roles on such shows as "Sam Spade" and "Philip Marlowe" to ambitious newcomers who bid high for them.

Jane Wyman reports from London that she had her first comfortable voyage; usually gets seasick even when canoeing on a smooth lake. This time, on her way to star in "Stage Fright" for Alfred Hitchcock, she had some new anti-seasickness pills, developed by Canada's medical corps—evidently they were effective in her case at least.

The Fiction TERRY, THE FOX

By Richard H. Wilkinson

"YOU CAN'T FOOL an old fox like Terry Oakes," Anse Aetell was saying. "Not even if you're the smartest bank robber and gangster in the country." He chuckled, reflecting on the story he was about to tell.

"Glenville was pretty well wrought up that summer. In June government agents came through, warning all the small town banks in the countryside to be on the lookout, and advising what to do. Duke Insabato and a couple of his henchmen, driven from their haunts in the large cities by a concentrated effort of local and federal agents who were dead set on bringing an end to the current wave of crime, were hiding out in the sticks and whiling the time away by staging spectacular daylight hold-ups of small town banks.

"The trouble was that no one knew where the varmints would strike next. Duke Insabato was smart. He understood small towns because he was brought up in one and, he chose as the object of his pilfering banks that were pretty well isolated and unprotected.

"June passed and part of July. Gradually the fear of Glenville citizens began to subside. Only one other small town bank had been held up, and that more than 150 miles away. The depositors who had withdrawn their accounts re-established them.

"Terry Oakes, the trust company president, didn't gloat. He was an old-timer at the game and he understood human nature. Early in June he'd had some signs printed and hung around the lobby of the bank. Such things as 'Save for Your Old Age,' 'Deposit with Us and Your Money Will Be Safe.' The citizens smiled a little. Terry was trying to reassure them. One other sign was printed and inserted behind the glass in the front door. This too, amused them, but it didn't annoy them any.

"On July 15 the quietude of Glenville's main street was abruptly and harshly interrupted. A high-powered black sedan suddenly appeared at the town's south entrance, roared down on the bank and came to an abrupt halt. Loungers in front of the General Store jerked erect. Three men had leaped from the car. Two of them, one carrying a machine gun, ran toward the bank. The third stayed on the curb, a second machine gun nestling in his arm.

"The loungers, pop-eyed and frightened, watched in stupid fascination. To their utter astonishment they saw the two bandits turn at the bank door without entering, rush back to the car, pile into it and drive away.

"IT ALL happened within seconds. For a moment or two the loungers sat transfixed. Then of one accord they leaped up, raced across the street and entered the bank. Terry Oakes was talking on the telephone. He hung up and smiled at them.

"Two to one," he said calmly. "Sheriff Irons picks up Duke and his gang at Jepson Corners. I just phoned him." He looked from one pop-eyed citizen to another. "No harm done, boys. They didn't even get in."

"But why didn't they? What happened?"

"Terry grinned broadly. "Duke Insabato knows small towns. He's a small-town boy himself. That's why he picked this hour to do his hold-upping. Right after lunch."

"That's where I fooled him," Terry paused to chuckle and glance toward the front door. "It's lucky Duke knows small towns. Otherwise he might not have taken any stock in my sign."

"The bewildered citizens turned toward it and read. They were a little dazed, and not quick to understand. "The sign read: 'Bank Closed. Out to Lunch. Return in One Hour.'"

YOU CAN BUILD this outdoor fireplace in a very professional manner by following the step-by-step directions outlined in the pattern now available. However, before building or even buying the materials the pattern specifies, inquire whether local fire laws permit using outdoor fireplaces.

If you are permitted to build, be sure to locate the fireplace at a point on your property where the smoke or sparks will not annoy or destroy your neighbors. Care should be taken in placing the fireplace away from trees and shrubs that might be damaged by the heat. The fireplace should face prevailing winds to keep smoke out of your eyes.

U.S. Agriculture Makes Fabulous Record in 1948

For United States agriculture, 1948 will go down in history as a fabulous year, according to the 1949 Britannica Book of the Year. "It was a year without a crop scare, with numerous record and near record yields achieved; the corn crop was more than 10 per cent above the previous record and fully 50 per cent above the previous year; the wheat crop was the second largest on record and the fifth consecutive crop of more than a billion bushels, one of the five largest wheat crops the country had ever produced; the cotton crop was one-fourth larger than in the previous year."
Prices, too, reached a record level in January, 1948, though they then broke sharply and continued to decline as 1948 crops were harvested, the new Britannica year-book records.
"In spite of the break in prices, the volume of agricultural marketings was such as to provide a gross income to farmers of almost 35 billion dollars slightly exceeding the 1947 record," the publication continues. "However, because of higher costs of production the realized net income had been declining since 1947."

A Task for Truman

President Truman has before him one of the greatest opportunities that any president has had during the first half of our century. Oddly enough, this chance of the century comes to the President through the foresight and statesmanship of the 80th Congress that last year absorbed so much punishment, politically, from Mr. Truman. It was the 80th Congress that set up the Hoover Commission on government reorganization.

Nobody's Fault

Our only living ex-president gladly accepted the job of guiding the "task force" of experts through some 19 months of detailed investigation. Mr. Hoover has played well the role of public servant in past crises. This time he accepted the task as chairman of the Commission, believing it to be his last opportunity for important public service. At this writing, 18 "task force" reports have been sent to Congress. Only the final summary report remains to be made.

The work of the Commission is so important that it must be placed above all politics. Like Mr. Hoover says, it's nobody's fault that our government has got itself all tied up in knots, with inefficiency the general rule. Government "just grows" that way, Topsy-like. It is definitely not a political, not a party, question.

Support Needed

Every one of us will be to blame, though, if we fail to get squarely behind both President Truman and the Congress and stay there pushing until this job of reorganization is done.

The tendency, naturally, is to let it go. Yet, right now, when the nation is faced with such tremendous expenditures of public money at home and abroad, it is downright foolish not to practice economy. Estimates show that recommendations of the Hoover Commission would mean a yearly saving to taxpayers of more than 3 billion dollars. I feel confident the savings could be larger than that. If real efficiency and economy is to become the rule of the federal government, the people will have to support it.

Way to Survival

Time is running short. Our sprawling bureaucracy will not of itself change its habits. Instead, if left alone to grow, expand, and mushroom as it will, our financial burdens will never cease. The latest report of the Hoover Commission deals with government agencies that are engaged in business enterprise. It catalogs more than 100 concerns of substantial size that are owned or controlled by the government. Large sums could be saved, according to the Commission, by cutting this number by almost one-third.

It is evident that unless we do put our government house in order, there is no way for this republic to survive. As burdens of supporting huge and wasteful government grow in magnitude, we endanger the whole financial structure of the nation. Moreover, with continued growth of big government, we can arrive at state socialism some day without ever having voted for it. It's hard to believe, but already one of every six adult Americans receives regular checks from Uncle Sam!

Leads in Community Forests

Wisconsin has more land in "community" forests than all the rest of the nation put together, according to a recent report of the U. S. forest service. Community forests, in Forest service terminology, include county forests, although Wisconsin practice usually is to place the two in separate categories. It is Wisconsin's vast acreage of county forests which puts it far in the lead. According to the report, Wisconsin has 2,387,416 acres in community forests compared with 2,026,534 for the rest of the nation, or a total of 4,413,950 for the United States. As to numbers of community forests, without regard to area, Wisconsin has 309 of the 3,113 in the nation.

REASON ENOUGH

"I see you farmers raise hogs almost exclusively here. Do you find they pay better than corn or potatoes?"
"Well, no, but you see, stranger, hawgs don't evah require no hoein'."

Sylvester Says:

"100 years is a long time to wait for a house, but by building 500,000 public housing units per year it would take the government 100 years to place every "low-income" American family in government public housing."

The average earnings of families now living in public "subsidized" housing is $2,200. There are approximately 20 million American families with incomes no higher than that.

On the basis of $2,200 a year income, more than half the families in the U. S. qualify for a home in a government housing unit.

But most American families haven't learned how helpless they are, for, according to U. S. Census figures, over one-half of our families with incomes below $1,000 per year already own their own homes.

Diesel Replaces 'Iron Horse'

Approximately one-fifth of the total weight of a modern diesel electric locomotive consists of copper and copper-base alloys. This figure is many times the amount of copper and its alloys contained in a steam locomotive—the romantic "iron horse" that has served the nation's railroads faithfully for over a century, ever since the Tom Thumb, built by Peter Cooper in 1829, was given a trial run in September of that year. Finally the "iron horse" is being turned out to green pastures as most of the major railroads of the country turn to diesel electric locomotives for both freight and passenger service.
