JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.
AN EPISODE

Bill sat in his buzzing sliver at the front desk, awaiting re-vised orders as to what he should bring from town. After a long moment, his father's head appeared at the little farmhouse door, with "That's all, Bill—'n' be shore not to forget them pills—'n' an hurry right back."

The farmer hurried away, finally pulling up in front of the village drug store; "I want a box of the best liver pills ye got," he informed the spectated dispenser of life-savers; after some discussion as to the sort most effective, Bill took a quarter's worth of the "improved" any three of which would have probably torn through a wooden man. The dutiful boy soon gathered the rest of his items and skurried home.

John, Bill's elder brother, had been "jayed" around two days with colic in his bowels—couldn't work—needed his liver shook up—symptoms, diagnosis, treatment; Johnny took a full dose of "the best pills to be had," that night at bedtime. He put in a bad night, Johnny did; by the middle of the next day he was very much swollen in the abdomen, was in great pain and at intervals, delirious. The mother called the doctor. It didn't take ten minutes for the physician to build a few conclusions—sharp and emphatic they were. "This boy has a ruptured appendix and consequent peritonitis; you should have consulted me at the very beginning of his complaint; now it is very late, he must be rushed to the best hospital available, right now! Every split second of delay lessens our chance of saving his life!"

After a long, tedious fight, Johnny succumbed; his entire system was saturated with the infection. The "improved" pill had wrought its desolation.

If this story impress upon my reader the fact that a cathartic pill should NEVER be given to a patient with abdominal pain—then I shall feel rewarded for the effort many times. Better safe than sorry. See the doctor first.

QUALITY AND SELLING GOVERNS HOG PROFITS

Raleigh, Aug. 4.—With cold storage holdings of pork more than 63 million pounds less than they were one year ago and with the price of live hogs $2.73 lower than it was last year at this time, what is the farmer going to do, asks W. W. Shay, state extension agent at State College.

"The price he receives for good hogs is something that the farmer cannot control, but he can control the quality of pork he produces and also the time or date of selling," says Mr. Shay. "These two factors affect to a large extent the price he receives and to a much greater extent the net returns which shows the profit or loss from this farming activity."

According to Mr. Shay the average market price of live hogs during the week ending July 19th was $2.73 less than the price during the same period last year.

Mr. Shay stated that the average price shown the highest average during September with August following a close second over a five-year period; but that only twelve percent of the market hogs raised in North Carolina are sold during that time. During these months many spring pigs are now loafing in woods lots and pastures with little other feed, he says.

Another factor that the farmer can control is that of feed, says Mr. Shay. Where there is not sufficient feed on any farm shows a lack of foresight on the part of the farmer except in cases of crop failures. In many cases feed crops were planted but the yield was reduced through weather conditions or from insects. Under these circumstances Mr. Shay recommends that the herd be reduced so that the remaining hogs be full fed.

THE TREE

By Henry Drexler, Jr.

What do we plant when we plant the tree?
We plant the ship across the sea.
We plant the mast to carry the sails;
We plant the planks to withstand the gales—
The keel, the keelson, the beam, the knee;
We plant the ship which will float the tree.

What do we plant when we plant the tree?
We plant the houses for you and me.
We plant the rafters, the shingles, the floors,
We plant the studs, the joists, the doors,
The beams and siding, all parts that be;
We plant the house which will shelter the tree.

What do we plant when we plant the tree?
A thousand things that we daily see;
We plant the spire that out-towers the crag,
We plant the staff for our country's flag,
We plant the shade, from the hot sun free;
We plant all these when we plant the tree.

Raleigh, July 24.—North Carolina, with 6,228,398 spindles in place of June 30, led all the states of the union in the number of active spindles during last month, it was disclosed here by preliminary census figures made public in the bureau of the census, department of commerce.

The state's total active spindles was given as 6,519,848. South Carolina, with 5,453,684, was second for the month and Massachusetts third with 5,316,886.

The Far West states, however, came second to South Carolina in the total active spindle hours for the month. The Palmetto state's total was 12,876,938,285 and Massachusetts had 825,355,803 active spindle hours for the month.

Tennessee led in the average per spindle in place with 294. North Carolina had a 202 average, South Carolina, 227, and Massachusetts, 105.

North Carolina comes second in the number of active spindles, her total of 6,228,398 as of June 30 comparing with 7,855,656 for Massachusetts, and 6,678,678 for South Carolina.

The New England states have a total of 13,586,248 spindles in comparison with 19,123,198 for the cotton growing states, the June 30 report showed.

FIVE FIELD DAYS PLANNED FOR SUMMER

HANNAH: A GODLY MOTHER
I Samuel 1:1-28; 2:1-10

Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D.

While throngs may go into the churches only some are real worshippers. One of very devout souls was found in the tabernacle at Shiloh at the close of the period of the judges. While harvest events are taking place in war and state there is always a cottage by the side of the road from which a great leader will come forth. Thus a setting is made for the slight that greeted the eyes of aged Eli, the priest, who ministered in the portable tabernacle which had been carried during the journey from Mount Sinai to the Promised Land. There had been replacement of parts and it was still the place where God met with His children.

Hannah was bowed in prayer as could be noted by her moving lips, though no sound was heard by the seer. Eli came forward with a robe and foolishly said she was intoxicated. Bold in her assertion of innocence this woman told in part what she had been telling the Lord. She was one of the two wives in the home of Elkanah. Elkanah loved Hannah and she was still childless, and like every Hebrew wife eager to have a son. Because she had not been a mother she was taunted by Peninnah, Elkanah's second wife. Elkanah loved Hannah and was glad to give her a double portion of food to indicate his favor. This did not take away her heart hunger to become a mother. With directness she makes the matter the subject of prayer and discovered while in devotion by

This priest can speak for God at one declares that her earnest petition will be granted. Samuel is the answer to her prayer, and the babe is cared for in the arms of loving devotion. Deep affection must be lavished the earliest years for she had given him as a son of the tabernacle as soon as he was weaned, which may have been between the ages of three and five to keep her promise Hannah returns to the tabernacle at Shiloh and reminds Eli of her specific

GREENWOOD NEWS

Mr. G. A. Sheets was able to attend Church Sunday, we are happy to state.

Mr. E. B. Merrill and Mrs. W. J. Jones visited at Smith Grove Wednesday afternoon with J. M. Burton, who has been displaced for several weeks.

Mr. G. E. Merrill and Mrs. W. J. Jones visited at Smith Grove last Thursday and attended the funeral services of Mr. W. H. Hanes.

Quite a number of the women and men of this community are helping in cleaning the church and cemetery at Fork Baptist Church this week.

Miss Leona Merrill, of Salisbury visited Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Grubb the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Rice and family visited Mr. T. R. Burton's near Jerusalem last Saturday and enjoyed watermelon and fishing.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Eaton, of Fork spent last week in Samsom County visiting relatives and friends, and took in the annual family reunion. They were accompanied home by Mr. Charles Hartfield, of Wilmington.

We were glad to say with the other members of Fork Baptist Sunday School that our attendance is gradually growing even this season of vacation we have 248 enrolled and 173 visitors during the month of July.

Some of the visitors last Sunday were as follows: Mr. B. C. Teague of Farmington, Mr. Clyde Teague, James, of Norfolk, Va., and Miss Margaret Fassel, of Durham.

Mr. E. W. Turner, our pastor, preached an impressive sermon from the eighteenth Psalm his subject being, "Gods writing of His People."

Miss Vauda Merrill, primary teacher of Fork Baptist Sunday School gave her class a party Saturday afternoon. Many games were played after which ice cream, lemonade, and cake were served. The little boys present were: Foy Bailey, Nelson Bailey, Everette Richardson, James Barnard, Bill Merrill, Billy Hoots, Samuel Cope, Nelson Bailey, William Bailey and Wade Shurt.

Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Wyatt spent last Thursday night with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wyatt.

TEXTILE SCHOOL NORTH CAROLINA STATE COLLEGE

With the continued growth and diversification of the Textile Industry, especially in the South, there will be a continual call for young men who have been trained in the science and practice of textile manufacturing, such as never existed before. The demand for graduates of State College Textile School for exceeds the number of men graduated each year.

The success achieved by graduates of this School and the influence exerted by this success has been widely felt. Establishments in which those graduates are superintendants, foremen, and designers have a capitalization of over 100 million dollars and the practicality and thoroughness of the courses given at the School is demonstrated with such a record. It also indicates the high type of men who have been attached to textiles.

An extensive equipment is provided for the use of the students at the Textile School. The latest machines for the manufacture and dyeing of yarns, hosiery, and fabrics are contained in the laboratories. These machines are not working models, but such as are used by mills in turning out products for the market. The apparatus used in the research and test laboratories for research on fibers, yarns, fabrics, starches, dye stuffs, and for microphotography, provide a complete equipment for training young men for the textile industry.

The Textile School is a major division of the North Carolina State College, and being situated in an educational center, textile students have an opportunity of obtaining a broad cultural education. This, in conjunction with the thorough textile courses given, is an excellent training for young men to prepare themselves for positions of responsibility in the manufacture and distribution of cotton, rayon and silk yarns, fabrics, and knitted goods.

Four Jailbreakers at Large

Salisbury.—Late Saturday, Sheriff Ray Lyerly was reported as still shy of four of the ten prisoners who left his jail Friday night, all four being white men. The four missing are W. G. Bondfield, I. P. Roberson, alias Claud Mannus, Paul Brittain and T. W. Davis. The men made a key of a spoon to let them from the cell house, sawed a bar of a window and were gone half an hour before being missed.

Adults Contract Children's Diseases

Adults can, and do, contract many children's diseases. And, usually, they suffer from them much more than children do. For instance, many adults contract worms, an ailment usually associated with children. Sometimes they suffer intensely and take expensive medical treatments, without realizing that the cause of their troubles is in children, loss of appetite and weight, grinding teeth, and restlessness, itching of the nose and anus, and abdominal pains. And, the same medicine that cures children's worms cures the worms from adults. White's Cream Vermifuge, which you can get at ALLISON & CLEMENT

LIVE AT HOME

During the last several months Governor Gardner's "Live-At-Home" program has attracted country-wide attention. This program has been adhered to by the progressive farmers of the state, and by the successful business men as well, not necessarily because it was a product of Governor Gardner's mind, but because it represents a sound economic policy and effects a saving for all concerned. For this reason, we too, live at home. Buying practically all our raw products in a sanitary and economical manner, and selling them to the farmers from whom we originally bought. Green Milling Company has established an era of prosperity for the farmers with whom it trades.

If you, too, would share in these benefits, follow the example of the successful men of the state—Live at home. Exchange your products for our products and realize the comfortable saving so many Davie County farmers are at this time realizing.

Middle Life Suffering

THREE years ago, I was in bad health," says Mrs. B. Beas, of Kirbyville, Texas. "I was going through a critical time, and I suffered a lot.

"My back hurt almost all the time, and my legs and ankles ached. My head hurt me until sometimes I would be almost past going.

"As I had used Cardui before, and knew how much I had improved after taking it, I got a bottle and started taking it. I continued to use it for several months. After while I regained my health, and I feel that I could never have gotten through that awful time without Cardui."

MY LOVE (By James Russell Lowell) Not as all other women are Is she that to my soul is dear; Her glorious fancies come from heaven, and her heart is there. Beneath the silver evening-star, And yet her heart is ever near, Great feelings hath she of her own Which other souls may never know; God giveth them to her alone, And sweet they are as any tone Wherewith the wind may choose to blow.

Yet in herself she dwelleth not, Although no home were half so fair; No simplest duty is forgot, Life hath no dim and lowly spot That doth not in her sunshine share.

She doeth little kindnesses, Which most leave undone, or despise; For naught that sets one heart at ease, And giveth happiness or peace, Is low-esteemed in her eyes.

She hath no scorn of common things, And, though she seem of other birth, Round us her heart entwines and clings, And patiently she folds her wings To tread the humble paths of earth.

Blessing she is; God made her so, And darts of week-day holiness Fall from her noiseless as the snow, Nor hath she ever chanced to know That night were easier than to bless.

She is most fair, and thereunto Her life doth rightly harmonize; Feeling or thought that was not true Ne'er made less beautiful the blue Unclouded heaven of her eyes.

She is a woman; one in whom The spring-time of her childhood Hath never lost its fresh perfume, Though knowing well that life Hath room for many bright and many tears.

I love her with a love as still As a broad river's peaceful mill which, by high tower and lowly mill, Seems following its own wayward will, And yet doth ever flow aright.

And, on its full, deep breast serene, Like quiet isles my duties lie; It flows around me fresh and fair and green, Sweet homes wherein to live and die.

By canning a few cans of vegetables and fruits each morning, the products may be carried fresh from the vine to the can and will prevent the housewife from standing over a hot stove all day, saving her a lot of trouble.

Mr. Cecil McDaniell lost a fine calf this week. We are sorry to learn.

WHAT A REPUBLICAN THINKS

Hundreds of honest republicans of this county not in a great way responsible for the conduct of the ring leaders of the party, may think that the Enterprise has been a bit hard on the so called "boss ring." Well, we have said some pretty raw things, but we believed, and still believe that all we have said is backed up by the facts. However, with all the mean things we have uttered about the "court house bosses," and those who would dictate and dominate the party to its utter ruin, as well as the great detriment of the county and to the hurt of all the taxpayers, we have never said one half as much as was said in last week's issue of the signature of a local republican lawyer, E. H. Morris. If you want to know, friend republicans, what one of your own leaders thinks of the "boss ring" at Mocksville, just read the following which is a word for word reproduction of Mr. Morris' communication carried in our issue of last week. Most of our readers saw the article and find it, but we want every republican voter, man and woman, to be sure to know just what Mr. Morris thinks of the Davie County republican party, and that there may be none who may not, we reprint Attorney Morris' article as follows:

Editor Enterprise:

I am asking you to print these few remarks for the reason that my pocket book is too light to stand the strain should I put it in the Davie Record. It was a self evident fact demonstrated before every intelligent man and woman who attended the Republican primary election in this county has been the cohesive power of PUBLIC PLUNDER was and is the dominant and most potent power in the Boss-Cursed Republican Party of Davie County. It is also very plain to the intelligent observer, that abolishing unnecessary offices, the consolidation of others for economy sake, the reduction of salaries has no standing or place in the Davie County Republican bosses alphabet, that if one is to judge by actual occurrence as shown by the vote on July 26th, the number of candidates for the county seat at the PLE COUNTER, the Republican of Davie County are unequivocally in favor of increasing the number of offices, raising salaries provided they and their henchmen continue to march up to the polls and keep the old crowd in office. Durham does not seem a very healthy place for chain stores, according to that publication, which is making a specialty of fighting those organizations.

UNHEALTHY FOR THEM AT DURHAM

The anti-chain store fight seems to be producing results in favor of the home town merchants over at Durham. Over there the hot fight has been waged for some time now, and we know of it, and they are keeping the fight up. The result is, according to the Durham Messenger, that over two dozen chain stores have moved out in the past four months and several others are getting ready to move out. Durham does not seem a very healthy place for chain stores, according to that publication, which is making a specialty of fighting those organizations.

THE NEW PRESS PRESIDENT

The North Carolina Press Association picked out a mighty fine man for its president in the person of Editor Noel of the Roxboro Courier. Indeed we know of no other man in the state whose election to that position would have pleased us more. We have known Editor Noel for around ten years and have always found him just what one would look for in a good man. He is an able editor, a successful publicist and withal a true gentleman in every respect. It is an honor to the newspaper folks of the state to recognize such a fine man for the place to which the North Carolina Press Association elevated Editor Noel.

HOW TO REDUCE TAXES

It is refreshing to note that more and more people in this county are beginning to demand the discontinuance of useless offices of the state in view of the fact that the burden of it is believed that by curtailing every unnecessary expense in Davie County, the tax rate another year should be cut ten cents on the one hundred dollar valuation of property. Let's elect a Democratic administration and see if something can't be done to reduce the taxes of our people.

Rural Song & Comment

By Arch Huneycutt

Autumn just over the hill. Her song comes to us fragrant with the breath of ripened corn, and sweet with the mellowness of matured fruit.

Summer grows old, ripening in her own spicy perfection, like old wine, or the tone of an aged violin, while the young dream of the early year approaches realization. Already we have drawn fields of cotton, the drone of the banjo and merry songs by a cozy fireside—luxury of the long peaceful evenings just ahead.

YET A WHILE
Oh you drowsy lethargy
Of the Summer weather—
Rhythmic, chant and melody,
Let us dream together.

Let us dream a world all bright
As the shadowy shimmer
Of the lazy sunset delight
Of the glint and glimmer.

Let us dream a world all free—
Free from pain and sorrow,

how to wait. Mocksville, N. C., July 28, 1930.

E. H. MORRIS. And note the writer of the above article is serving notice that the worst yet to come, so watch the columns of the Enterprise in the further remarks from Attorney Morris.

Meantime, we are wondering whether or not the honest, unselfish, republicans of this county are going to lend their support to a party which merits such remarks from one of its own members. Isn't it time for the republicans of this county who want to do the best thing for all the people to start doing a bit of serious thinking—and acting, too, for that matter?

IT IS THE WAY THAT COUNTS

Much credit is due to Governor Max Gardner for his "Live-at-Home" campaign and his leadership in the movement to buy goods, "made in North Carolina." And the people took, and are taking, to the big ideas and therein lies the real benefit to be derived from such movements. For just a few farmers to start the live at home movement and the thousands of others to continue to rock along as usual, were there could come little real benefit to the state; and business just humming with money, the principle into practice will mean a wealthier and a happier North Carolina, and for enough persons in the state to really start using goods made in this state, would soon put every idle factory and every industry busy and our farmers would prosper and grow rich.

MONEY "GROWING ON TREES"

Several years ago when the pioneers started the fruit and melon growing idea in Moore and Montgomery Counties, there may have been those who thought it visionary. But if one wants to know just what the growth of that industry has done for the fruit and melon growing section of Montgomery county let them take a trip to the little town of Candor, some Saturday along these times and see what he shall see. In this period of Hoover depression, when hundreds and thousands of such towns are dead, one will see hundreds and hundreds of trucks loaded with fruits, melons and such like, and business just humming with money, plenty floating all round. It is well worth a trip to Candor just to see how it feels to be where real business is moving along and where money is all but "growing on trees," and vines.

THE LITTLE GRAY CHURCH

A little gray house in a little gray vale. Away down the valley it stands, 'Tis faded, with sunshine and a gnawed with the rain, And above with nature's crude hands. But it houses a memory fairer than gold— A dream that no winter can chill. Childhood and hope, and the sweet story told. In that little gray church on the hill.

WHAT?

The wise man arrive to pay well for the space he monopolizes in life, but the human parasite drinks sorrow to his own soul.

PRESS COMMENT

BANKRUPTCY FRAUDS

Charlotte Observer. Fraudulent assignments under the bankruptcy laws have become so common as to have given birth to the phrase, "Saved out of the wreck." Crooked work in bankruptcy proceedings appear to have centered in New York and the cases of fraud have become so rampant as to have become President Hoover's headache. Investigation through the agency of Attorney General Mitchell, who has now set about making "exhaustive investigation" into the whole question of bankruptcy law and practice. This year after several bills had been introduced in congress, the president being determined on making those bills effective. He has been advised that proceedings now going on at the rate of $750,000,000 a year. The movement will lead to a general revision of the bankruptcy laws through establishment of essential reforms. There will be speeding up of the administration of bankrupt estates, placing the administration on a business basis, relieving the courts of business responsibility by centering it in the executive branch of the government, circumventing creditor control, and enforcing more efficiently the criminal and discharge provisions of the present act. The investigation will be conducted in ten or more cities of the nation.

WHY PERSHING WAS SENT

Senator McKellar of Tennessee tells an interesting World War incident, centering about President Wilson and General Pershing, which deals with a phase of the Wilson administration that has always been debated and discussed. Why, thousands have asked, did Wilson send Pershing to France instead of General Wood, ex-President Roosevelt, or other military leaders who appeared to be better known at the time? Many of those professing to be "on the inside" have attempted to answer that question. Many have blamed Wilson, despite Pershing's good record in the war, for not sending some other general. But no explanation, we believe, has tended to clear up the matter as does the statement of Senator McKellar. The Tennessee man was one of those who wanted Roosevelt sent to France, and had planned to ask a major generalship for the ex-president. Hearing about it, Wilson sent for McKellar and talked to him. The revelation of that talk shows that Wilson picked Pershing on his record, not his fame or popularity, and decided to stick to Pershing, despite the criticism which followed the Pershing appointment. The Wilson statement to McKellar, according to the letter, follows:

"I am not a military man. I am a civilian. My life has not been spent along military lines neither has yours. "When I went into this war I called a conference of the expert men of the United States and asked of them to recommend the man who could do this job, in Europe, effectively and well. They recommended General Pershing. I believe that their recommendation was sound. I have appointed him to be in charge of American forces in France and I am going to the mat for him. I am not a military man and I am not going to put my civilian judgment up against the judgment of those military men in whom I have confidence. In like manner I have selected the naval officer to command the naval forces of the United States, and I am going to the mat for him. I am going to stand by him."

THE BEAUTY OF OLD AGE

Montgomery Herald. In the evening, filling and flooding the western horizon to various tints and shades of gold, is the most beautiful part of the day, so old age, in the evening of life, the most beautiful part of our existence. Providing, of course, during youth and middle age, one has learned how to live. We have a friend who tells us that he has never been able to look upon a sunset without being stirred with deep emotions and filled with admiration for the power that caused it into being. And therefore, he claims that every-time he sees this phenomenon he is lifted into the realm of the beautiful and is thus made a better man.

MUST "TREE-SITTING" BE ENDURED?

Christian Science Monitor. Newspaper editors in Florida have chosen the direct and logical antidote for the farcical phenomenon of "tree-sitting," in which hundreds of boys and girls—in various towns of the United States have engaged, each undertaking to sit in a tree longer than any other boy or girl. Members of the Associated Dailies of Florida have declared by resolution that they will refrain from printing further items about these youthful seekers of "endurance" records.

EXERCUTRIX'S NOTICE

The undersigned, having this day qualified as executrix of W. H. Jones, deceased, hereby notifies all persons having claims against the estate of the said deceased to present them to her, duly verified, on or before August 6, 1931, or this notice will be pleaded in bar of their recovery. All persons indebted to said estate will please make prompt settlement.

This August 6, 1930. JUANITA ANGELL, Administratrix Robert S. McNeill, Atty. 87 G.

Other juvenile "endurance tests" reported from widely separated sections appear to be equally futile and even more harmful, while putting proportionately more serious responsibility on the parents. What can be said for parents who permit their son to ride his bicycle, with a gathering of silly sight-seers applauding him, to the extreme limit of physical exhaustion. Report comes also of other forms of endurance tests, and tells the world, among other oddities, of two small girls who had been going up and down one a seesaw seven hours before the police stopped them. One hopes, at any rate, that it was their parents who called in the police.

"Undoubtedly the craze has been fostered by—if indeed it is not entirely built up—publicity. The "endurers" like to see their names or pictures in the newspaper, and then print in the same story just such publicity in the form of pictures and glorifications of "tree-sitters."

Police intervention should not be necessary. The proper mixture of ridicule and condemnation by press and public would soon end foolish and harmful "endurance contests," where parents lack the necessary wisdom. And possibly, too, parental wit may find ways to turn youth energies into useful channels, although so far we have heard of no new "endurance records" for lawn-mowing, taking care of baby or heating the garden.

• If He Isn't the World's Oldest He Looks It •

Doctors who have examined Zar Agha, the Turkish visitor to the United States who claims to be 156 years old, say he is certainly of great age and good for many years more. He fought in 14 wars, has had 12 wives, drinks nothing stronger than milk, eats no meat, and has had three sets of teeth.

WHAT'S IT ALL ABOUT?

I have a friend who, after many years of hard work in subordinate positions, found himself suddenly near the top of a big business. To his own surprise, his income jumped to more than a hundred thousand dollars a year.

A whole new world opened out before him. As if by magic all his dreams began to come true.

Did it change him? I cannot see that in any essential characteristic it changed him at all. Not long ago when we were alone he opened his heart.

"Here I am with a new house, and money in the bank, and all my five children in college, and three automobiles. And down underneath I am the same simple guy that used to get slighted dollars a week, and took three years to pay for the piano. Somehow it doesn't seem real. I have to get myself off in a corner once in a while and ask, 'what's it all about?'"

I know some other things about him that he did not tell me. I know that he has supported fifteen or twenty people who haven't had such good luck. I know that he is taking lessons on the fiddle, which has been a secret ambition for years. And I know that on Thanksgiving Day he marshals his whole family and marches them down to church.

Unintentional Suicide

Many people are slowly poisoning themselves just as surely as if they took poison every morning on their fast. They are daily absorbing the acids, or poisons, created by accumulated waste matter in their congested digestive systems. Sooner or later disease will conquer their weakened bodies.

If you have dizzy spells, headaches, coated tongue, bad breath, insomnia, no appetite, bilious attacks or pains in the back and limbs, you are probably suffering from self poisoning caused by constipation. The most pleasant relief for this condition is Herbin's, the vegetable cathartic which acts in the natural way. Get a bottle today from ALLISON & CLEMENT

BUY FARMS NOW

Marshallville Home. "When I bought my farm while a young man I didn't see how I was going to pay for it," remarked a prosperous Marshallville town-ship farmer a few days ago. "But," he continued, "when I gathered my crops in the fall I simply wouldn't spend a cent for anything else until the payment on the farm had been made and in that way I got my farm paid for and made a start." Now is the finest time in the history of the present generation for tenant farmers who are willing to deny themselves other things to buy farms and pay for them.

"We are confident that we are giving every non-landowning reader of The Progressive Farmer possible advice when we say: 'You will probably never as long as you live have so good a chance to buy land cheaply as right now—this summer and fall. Not only may you not in your lifetime have another such opportunity but your children and grandchildren may not have such another chance.'

"The tenant white population of the South comes largely of fine Anglo-Saxon stock. They are a remnant of the great potentialities, Abraham Lincoln sprang from their ranks, as other great men have done. And we would inspire hope, if we could, with new faith in themselves—and particularly just now in this matter of moving up to a new economic position.

"Here then is our message to each of these thrifty tenant families: You now have a supreme opportunity—an opportunity to get out of class of tenant-farmers and enter the group of land-owning farmers. And landowning, as Dr. Seaman A. Knapp used to say, is a title of nobility. Not only is this true, but it ought to be true. The man who owns his home as a rule is a better citizen than the man who has no material on the community's welfare.

"The Lord ain't going to be too hard on a man. That gave his life for men." My friend is rough like Bludsoe and by no means a saint. "What's it all about?" he asks, and he will never know the answer any more than the rest of us. But he has done his job with courage; he stayed simple. He gives freely. He has a humble sense of gratitude, and he has kept his heart young.

Those qualities have been enough for this world. Somehow I think they'll be enough for whatever other worlds may be.

SHOW RING CONTESTS IMPROVES LIVESTOCK

Raleigh, July 21.—Comparative judging of livestock brings out the weak as well as the strong points of the animal judged and helps the breeder to develop a better grade of stock.

This is one reason why we advise breeders of dairy cattle to exhibit their animals at the fall fairs," says John A. Arey, dairy extension specialist at State College. "The show ring is a good place for breeders of pure bred cattle to compare the merits of their animals. Added to this advertising value of a good fair exhibit, which often results in many sales of breeding stock."

Mr. Arey suggests that dairy breeders prepare for showing at least two months before the cattle are to be exhibited. This amount of time is necessary to fit and properly train the cattle, even when in good condition to start with. Each animal should be taught to lead well; to stand squarely on its feet, and hold up its head. Animals that are not usually receive low placing, though they may be good individuals.

It is not difficult to fit an animal for the ring, if it has received good care and food. Plenty of balanced grain and a mixed ration is needed for feeding. If the hair is long, the animal should be clipped all over six weeks before the first show. Washing about once a week improves the condition of both hides and hair. Next, shaped horns add much to the appearance. It is also advisable to brush and rub the animal each day. This gives a glossy appearance to the hair.

Mr. Arey further suggests that the switch be washed clean and knived the night before the show. Combed out the next morning it gives a striking, fluffy appearance.

Above all he concludes, be courteous and a good sportsman. Local Newspapers have been very courteous in handling publicity for these Courtney Grove. The members of the Grove extend their thanks to the out-

DANDELION HAS MANY ECONOMIC USES

What Some People Want to Know Is How to Get Rid of Them

By Caleb Johnson

Nobody knows how the dandelion got from Europe to America. Anyone who has seen the dandelion seeds, floating away on their feathery wings—as who has not?—might imagine that they floated across the Atlantic in the same way, were it not for the fact that the wind is always blowing the other way.

Anyway, the dandelion has been with us for two hundred years or more, and everybody who has ever tried to keep a green lawn green is painfully conscious of its presence. Not that the dandelion is not beautiful. Unlike most weeds, it has an attractive flower. It is almost as attractive when it goes to seed, its leaves are good to eat, and its roots have medicinal value. Really, after all the only thing the matter with the dandelion is that it destroys the smooth velvet effect that particular people strive for in their lawns. And that, after all, is merely a matter of fashion. If some fashionable leader should start the fashion of a dandelion lawn, everybody would be trying to grow them!

As a matter of fact, the dandelion is cultivated by many people in different parts of the world. In America as far as most of us go in economic use of the dandelion is to collect the leaves in the early spring and boil them for "greens." In France an especially large-leaved variety of dandelion is cultivated for food. The young "dandelion," in English, is French. It is a corruption of "dent-de-lion," meaning "lion's tooth," from a fancied resemblance of the leaf to a tooth.

The French also use the dandelion leaves as a salad, the slightly bitter taste being relished by many palates. The Germans, on the other hand, boil the leaves and serve them as a vegetable and in some localities harvest them for cattle fodder.

When treated as chloery, the roots will produce a winter salad very much like the "barbe de capucin." The roots are also employed instead of chicory for mixing in coffee, thereby becoming both a filler and substitute.

Enterprise may have enabled them to get the land in the first place. Thrift may have enabled them to hold it. A large degree of self-control may have been necessary to keep them from selling it for losing it through over-mortgaging when pleasures and luxuries allured others. For all these reasons the landowner is supposed to His opinion is supposed to have some what superior worth. His sons and daughters are regarded as more "eligible" in matrimonial affairs.

"So it is worth the while of any family to try to get land and keep land. And now is the time to get it. The long period of agricultural depression, followed by the recent general business depression, has forced land prices to unjustifiably low levels. Land prices, like other prices, swing up and then down, but land prices have a way of swinging one way or the other over long periods of time. Prices have almost surely reached the bottom and when the turn comes it may be a case of prices climbing steadily year after year for half a generation."

To give an idea of the seed production, a controlled plant was observed for a whole season at the New York Botanical gardens. The plant produced two hundred seeds during the season; thus from one plant 5,400 seeds were developed. From one field of dandelions, enough seeds are produced to supply many lawns with seed. The seeds develop parthenocarpically, without pollination or fertilization.

Many methods for the eradication of the weed are suggested. The commonest method used is in digging them out with a spud or knife, cutting them so that usually parts of the roots are undisturbedly left in the ground. If this method is persisted in, eventually the plants are destroyed. The roots are perennial and the food storage system, which preserves the plant over non-growing seasons. If no leaves are permitted to grow, the roots use up their storage supply, with the result that the plant starves out. But the requisite is: no leaves must be permitted to develop; otherwise, food is stored and the roots will develop a new plant.

Any part of the root after being cut will send up a new shoot, hence, the starvation method will finally destroy the old plants. But this method is bad. Not only is the lawn constantly disturbed and made unsightly by the holes made in it, but it entails far too much work for small results as many of us know, and it does not prevent the thousands of new seeds blown in from fields and neighboring lawns to establish themselves in the vacated places of the old plants.

One of the easiest methods of getting rid of the dandelion and other lawn weeds is by heavy grass seeding. This method checks the weeds. At the start, lawns should be given an extra heavy seeding of blue grass, using five to ten pounds of seed upon a 100-foot lot once every three months, say April, July and September. This makes a fine mat for dandelions to get a start and usually gives the lawn the desired appearance.

Weeds in general, particularly the dandelion, are sun-loving. Its young seedlings cannot tolerate the shade and the dense mat of a compact lawn. By persistent mowing of the lawn, old weeds are cut down and cannot survive as quickly as the blue grass. They are thus crowded out. If they are not destroyed, the old plants should be cut out. Thus the heavy seeding method is perhaps the best, for it not only destroys the old plants, but it prevents the entrance and the establishment of the new seedling of weeds in general.

Success sometimes is also had with the use of white clover over infested dandelion areas. The clover, under ordinary conditions, if drainage is good, withstands climate well and is capable of crowding out grass and weeds, but if something dies out due to various diseases which attack it, leaving bare spots and places for the dandelion to return.

The spray methods are often used with success. Weeds in general are easily eradicated by iron sulphate sprays if properly applied and at the right time. If the spray is fine no injury is done to the lawn, but large drops will burn the blue grass. If sprayed about once a month it kills dandelions and the pesky plantain. The general solution recipe is two pounds of sulphate to a gallon of water. Spray about two to three days after cutting and do not cut for the same length of time after spraying. Care must be taken in the use of the sulphate because it discolors clothes and stone walks.

In gravel paths and drives, a number of good methods are suggested to prevent the recurrence of weeds after hoeing. Salt can be sprayed to make a white covering of the ground. Washing soda is used, five pounds to ten gallons. Other substances used are carbolic acid, 5 to 10 per cent, copper sulphate, ammonium sulphate 4.100 and hydrochloric acid, 2 to 4 per cent.

Other methods to eradicate dandelions are the use of ammonium sulphates, acids and kerosene oils. When the dandelion is cut, a drop of the above suggested solutions is placed on the cut surface of the root. This is rather a tedious method, but it is efficient. Undoubtedly the heavy seeding method is the best, for it assures a good lawn, discourages the entrance of weeds, and entails but little effort. The presence of dandelions always indicate good soil, but once this is known, they should be destroyed unless desired.

Good pastures paid a cash return of $43 an acre through a grazing season of six months according to records kept in the Gullford-Davie Hord Improvement Association last year.

Death Claims Penn. War Mother On Trip To Son's Grave In France

Verdun, France, Aug. 14.—The first American gold medal mother of the 2883 brought to France by the United States government since the beginning of the spring to succumb in the country in which her son had his life died today. She was Mrs. Harriet Bates, of Portage, Pa.

At a states, the wife of Henry Bates, died in the Verdun hotel late today from the effects of a cerebral hemorrhage. She was unconscious for several hours before her death. Her last words were "I hope for her had been abandoned was that she would die in a country where her boy was buried."

The strength of the elderly mothers in facing the journey and the emotional strains in the visit to their sons' graves has been one of the biggest surprises which many officers counting the pilgrimages on this side have had. Since the first group arrived in May only 16 mothers have been sent to hospitals, two of them only for a short time for observation.

The oldest mother thus far to make the pilgrimage was Mrs. Elizabeth Hutchins, of Oakland, Calif., 91 years old. She returned healthy and vigorous. Most of the mothers who became ill were between 60 and 78 years of age while the octogenaries stood the emotional and physical strains.

Of the American mothers now ill, Mrs. Elizabeth Gost, of Chillicothe, Ohio, is in the American hospital with acute intestinal trouble. Mrs. Ella Paris, of Mungler, Tex., who was to have sailed with her party yesterday is slightly ill and is confined to her hotel room.

Four more groups remain to come this year.

Misses Grace, Helen, Edith and Rose Beaton, of Erlanger, returned home Sunday after spending the week with Misses Lucile and Frankie Runge.

Mrs. Irwin Bailey who has been very sick is very much improved, her many friends will be glad to know.

Mr. and Mrs. Abner Foster and two children, Mrs. Gray Sheets and Mr. Garland Foster, of Rockwell, Va., have been visiting Suffolk, Va., having been visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. A.

THINKING RIGHT

If a man thinks everyone is against him he will soon begin to treat them so they will be. He will treat them right, unconsciously, and they will soon be his friends. The man who lives his daily life according to this formula, has in his make-up a spark of sound and true philosophy that will make his life brighter. If we put into all the relations with our fellows a full measure of friendliness and good will, we are pretty sure to get it back, full and overflowing. On the other hand, if a man is suspicious of everybody, everyone will be suspicious of him. The man who goes about looking for a fight is sure to get licked some day, good and plenty.

True friendliness is founded on sincerity. And sincerity is about the only thing in the world that can't be counterfeited. The impulse toward friendliness springs from the very soul of a man.

The world needs friendliness, and kindness, and good will. Not Sundays only, but every day in the week, and every hour in the day. Think freely, thoughts, if you've got a word, don't be ashamed of it. Bring it into the office with you. For the soul is the source and fountain-head of every good and worthy impulse. Put your faith in men. Believe they are your friends, and they will be.—Exchange.

JAKE IS BROADCASTING

A good sized crowd of Davie's loyal sons met in the Democratic Township Primary at the courthouse last Saturday at 2:30 and named delegates to the county convention to be held in Mocksville on Saturday August 23.

Everything went off in a nice quiet way, and no one has any half-feelings about the meeting at all.

And there will be no hard feelings about the way things will go off Saturday, as you can't come out and rest assured that you will not be offended.

And the Democrats will name the next sheriff of Davie County on August 23rd, so you must be there and help name him.

We will also name the next representative and clerk, and register of deeds, etc., on Saturday August 23rd.

We do not know at this time just who the next sheriff of Davie county will be, but we will tell you after the convention is over Saturday.

We forgot to mail stationery to several of our correspondents last week, but we will get it to them this week, sure. You see we had to go to the picnic and naturally we had something else on our minds for the rest of the week.

Your facts and cheaper county government.—Jake.

HINTS FOR THE HOME

Sardine Canned

Prepare circular slices of toast. Have ready a paste made from olive oil, salt, and pepper. Spread this paste on the toast. This softened butter and seasoned with Worcestershire sauce and cayenne. In the center of each round of toast place a stuffed olive. Arrange a layer of olive paste around the stuffed olive and surround each canape with a border of finely chopped egg whites. In preparing canapes one should be very careful not to have them too thick. They should literally be small enough to be held daintily with the fingers, making a knife and fork unnecessary. Their purpose is to serve merely as an appetizer and, therefore, each canape is not expected to provide more than two or three mouthfuls.

Omelets

Never was any emergency dish better than an omelet. Almost always there are eggs in the house and if there are not it is not difficult to buy them at the last minute. And your omelet can be quick and made.

Once having mastered the essentials of omelet cooking it is not difficult to vary them in a great variety of ways. Moreover, there are sweet omelets as well as unsweetened omelets so that an omelet may be made to fill in the gap in any part of any meal. You can use omelets as hang-ups of inconsiderable trifles left over from yesterday's dinner. A few vegetables may be chopped and added to an omelet to give it flavor and variety. A few mushrooms go a long way in an omelet. A slice or so of canned pineapple, that could not possibly be divided among several, may be cut into the middle of an omelet before it is turned to form a delicious dessert or luncheon dish.

Here are some suggestions for omelets that are a little unusual:

Danish Omelet

A Danish omelet has a foundation cream sauce of three or four spoons of butter, three of flour and two cups of milk. In the meantime break macaroni on rich lengths and boil it in salted water until it is tender. Then drain it. When the cream sauce is not thick add six eggs, two at a time, beating the mixture five minutes after each yolk addition. Beat six egg whites stiff, fold them into the yolk mixture, sprinkle with pepper and salt and pour the omelet over the macaroni, which has been arranged in the bottom of a buttered baking dish. Bake the omelet in a steady hot oven for thirty minutes and serve at once. Battered butter is used in Denmark with this omelet, which is simply butter creamed with a fork or spoon and blended with a taste of sugar.

JONATHAN AND DAVID—A NOBLE FRIENDSHIP

1 Samuel 18:1-4; 20:14-17, 32-34, 41, 42; II Samuel 1:25-27

Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D.

Great stories are recorded in the Bible and the record of the friendship that existed between David and Jonathan is in that class. The indicated Scripture readings give only a part of the high points. For the very interesting details read from chapter 18 through the first chapter of II Samuel.

Young people, with their rich idealism, will particularly enjoy such acquaintance with two men who were rivals for the throne in Israel. Those who delight in hero worship, and that is a feature to decide, which was the greater—David or Jonathan. The narrative begins when David was crowned King of Health. His score was 95.5 percent. Among the girls Miss Nancy Evelyn Neely of Mocksville County was made the highest score and was crowned Queen of Health. Her score was 98 percent. Only minor defects were found in each case and examining physicians state that it were both as near perfect as is found.

Health champions are also found among the new officers as Boyce Brooks the president was crowned King of Health in the 1929 contest, and Marjorie Guffey was health champion for the girls in the mountain district this year.

SAVE THE COUPONS

The makers of Octagon Soap Products are publishing a new premium offer for which unprecedented demand is anticipated. Announcements of this latest Octagon premium are appearing in the Enterprise.

Octagon coupons have become increasingly popular in recent years. Housewives who prefer this famous brand of soap products because of their high quality find an additional incentive to thrift in the valuable Octagon coupons. By saving them the housewife finds herself from time to time able to obtain a handsome and useful article of household equipment.

Not only are all sorts of household utensils such as aluminum and enamel ware, china, percolators and other useful articles produced by the manufacturers of Octagon Soap Products, but in addition, a large number of these articles are being used by churches, clubs and other institutions to secure larger pieces of equipment.

In one institution recently, for example, an electric refrigerator was obtained by a group of women who banded together and listed the aid of their friends. Several Ford cars have been secured by the Octagon coupon club plan, according to Octagon headquarters. Churches obtain silver, linen, communion sets, ranges and other needed equipment by the clubbing method.

The plan followed is to organize the various church groups into teams just as if a financial center were organized. The aid of progress as well as of the general public is secured. The popularity of the Octagon line of soap products makes it an easy matter for canvassers to induce new families to use this brand of soap. People who find it difficult to contribute money to a cause in which they are interested readily agree to purchase Octagon Soap Products and contribute the coupons. Dealers find these Octagon "drives" a stimulus to trade and have been quick to encourage them.

Octagon coupons are redeemed at Octagon Premium Stores and authorized Octagon agents. Both have the current Octagon premium in stock for immediate delivery. The company maintains its premium department, headquarters at 17 Sussex Street, Jersey City, N. J. A premium catalog listing hundreds of valuable premiums is sent out on request from this office.

DOCTORS DIAGNOSE

When children are irritable and peevish, grind their teeth and sleep restlessly, have digestive pains and burning, lack of appetite, and have itching eyes, nose and fingers, doctors will not always agree that they are suffering from worms. Many mothers, too, will not believe that tickle carefully brought up children can have worms. The fact remains that these symptoms will yield, in a great majority of cases, to a few doses of White Cream Vermifuge, the sure expellant of round and pin worms. Your child has any signs of these symptoms, try this little, old-fashioned remedy, which you can get at 35c per bottle from ALLISON & CLEMENT.

WISE MEN

We do about that.

And he added, "You are not to suppose that you understand things because you call them names."

He proceeded to talk about the mysterious properties of "empty space," and he concluded with his paragraph.

"If you, we find, as I think we are beginning to find, that life and mind need not be associated with matter but can inhabit empty space, then life will not be subject to the troubles of a material organism and existence will be perpetual."

As contrasted with many of our smartest wisecrackers who know everything, these wise men of science admitted that we are only on the furthermost horizon of knowledge. And that anything is possible—even eternal life.

THE LETTER "E"

Someone has advanced the opinion that the letter "e" is the most important character in the English alphabet because it is always out of cash, forever in debt, never out of danger, and in hell all the time.

But we call his attention to the fact that "e" is never in war and always in peace. It is the beginning of existence, the commencement of ease, and the end of trouble. Without it there would be no meat, no life and no heaven. It is the center of honesty, makes love perfect, and without it there would be no editors, devils or news.

The beginning of eternity

The end of time and place

The beginning of every end

And the end of every place.

WHY WE GROW

Discussing the reasons why this state has such a healthy growth during the past 100 years, the University News Letter has this to say:

The population of North Carolina for 1930 is considerably larger than was generally expected. The ten year growth was exceeded, the hopes of the most optimistic. There is no particular point in size, but growth such as experienced by this state is evidence of the attractiveness of the state and the ability of the state to provide a living for a large and rapidly increasing population.

Our excellent state highway system on which we have spent around one hundred and seventy-five million dollars during the last ten years. Along with this goes the large expenditure on state institutions.

The industrial development and expansion of the state. North Carolina is the best equipped state in the South, leading in every phase of industry.

The ability of the state to grow the two best cash crops—cotton and tobacco. The boll weevil has been a great enemy of the cotton grower, but the improvement in public education, especially in our rural schools.

The development of North Carolina as a resort center. The growth of city population in the piedmont has stimulated agricultural development in the hill country.

Our large investments in public health and in public welfare. Honest and efficient state government and vastly improved county and municipal government have given the state a good reputation.

While the Blue Jay has a checkered life, he has a name that is energy. An' the world 'all his for keepin' An' 'twas jolly so to be. But I hear the people murmur How his hard times are An' I just can't help a thinkin' His 's the essence of a sin.

Do we want to much of leisure An' too little bit of work? Do we sit an' drink an' many newspapers, periodicals and public speakers. Indeed, our per cent gain during the period from 1920 to 1930 headed all other southern states.

DAVID SHOWED UP WELL

David County did not have quite as great a growth in population as some of the counties of the state during the period from 1920 to 1930, but we did make the grade as an average county.

Carol's desire to be crowned King of Rumania with all the pomp and circumstance received another setback when it was announced the date had been postponed until the spring of 1931.

REUNION PASSING WITH SUMMER

Our good friend John T. Perkins, editor of the Lincoln County News, bewails the passing of summer, principally because with the passing of the summer will go also the reunions, and somehow we cannot help but feel about the same way.

Family reunions, to our mind, are the greatest things in our lives from a kinfolk point of view. We have relatives, we know some of them, see some of them occasionally, but we do not know them as intimately as we should. These reunions bring us all together.

It is a very encouraging thing to note that with each succeeding summer more and more family reunions are held. With each summer in this county some family which has never held a reunion starts an organization, and as a rule once a family starts the reunion custom the meetings become annual affairs.

Editor Eugene Ashcraft of the Monroe Enquirer says that Union County will produce at least forty thousand bales of cotton this year, after giving the boll weevil from ten to fifteen thousand bales.

Rural Song & Comment

By Arch Huneycutt

Now hit's Summer time, I reckon Nifty as has ever bin, An' fer folks to growl an' grumble

Is approachin' of a sin, 'Cause the Lord He rules the weather, An' I guess He rung his right, An' there's joy in the mornin' An' there's joy in the night.

With the sunshine on the meadows, An' the blue up in the sky, An' the green in field an' forest, For delightin' of the eye.

Thar's the dry fly in the orchard Chantlin' like he'll never tire, An' the Robin Redbreast singin' Like his soul is in his fire.

Do we want to much of leisure An' too little bit of work? Do we sit an' drink an' many newspapers, periodicals and public speakers.

Two engineers from the Movie Tone factory in Boston arrived here Wednesday and finished up the installation of our talking picture equipment, which is now running good. But we expect it to get better with the lumbering up of the new sound heads. This outfit is equipped with the well known "Samson" Amplifiers, Wright DeCoster speakers, and Western electric tubes and runs sound on film only. No graphophone records can be used. Engineers say our house is well adapted for good sound. However some pictures have poor recording and naturally the sound will be poor in any theatre.

Race Drivers DEMAND the TIRES WE SELL! THE Indianapolis 500 Mile Endurance Race is famous as an endurance test and battle of tires for no driver can win this race who has tire trouble. For eleven consecutive years Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires have been on the winning cars. FOR years the winner of the hazardous race of Pike's Peak climb—where a slip meant death—used Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires. THESE drivers do not simply choose Firestone Tires. They demand them. They know by experience that this tire never fails. It never fails because it is built not to fail by the special Firestone processes of tire building. (a) Every fibre of cotton thread going into the making of the cord fabric, which is the foundation of the tire, is coated and encased in rubber by the Firestone patented Gum-Dipping process. (b) Under the tread is the Firestone patented Six-Banded Bead Cord Breaker, which means not only two extra plies where most needed, but also sets the Firestone Tire apart as an all cord tire, while others are woven fabric and cord. (c) Firestone Super High Speed Tires now have 32% more rubber in the tread, giving deeper grooves that will give you over 50% more non-slip wear before the tire is smooth. THESE are not just features. They are basic differences in the building proved by service on every kind of road and track. YOU may never intend to race. You may never intend even to speed. You may never climb Pike's Peak. But, every day—whether you know it or not—your life depends upon your tires. WE HAVE these Super High Speed Gum-Dipped Balloons for sale today. They are the same tires that the racing drivers demand—the premier tires of the world. Their first cost is low. Their cost per mile of service makes them cheaper today than even cheap tires. They are inexpensive, not only because the price of rubber is low, but because we have joined with Firestone to bring into the sale of tires the same degree of efficiency which goes into their manufacture. The benefit of all this is in the price to you. DRIVE IN TODAY. We will examine your tires and make you an allowance for your unneeded mileage. We can equip your car with new Firestone Super High Speed Tires at a much lower cost than you ever expected. They will give you unequalled service and satisfaction. TRADE IN YOUR USED TIRES TODAY! WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Alone in New York, remembering nothing save that she had seen her own name and with nothing about her which was connected with her, she had been told that she was a girl named Miss Nobody from Nowhere. She had been told that she was a girl named Miss Nobody from Nowhere. She had been told that she was a girl named Miss Nobody from Nowhere.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

"Yes," she said, "I don't think I want to stay here. I don't think I want to stay here. I don't think I want to stay here. I don't think I want to stay here. I don't think I want to stay here."

"It's rather late in the season for me, full-voiced, far-carrying, cutting, to be of these ladies. She spoke with a great effort, keeping her eyes away from the water. "I don't think I want to stay here. I don't think I want to stay here. I don't think I want to stay here. I don't think I want to stay here."

Yielding to something as definite as the push of powerful hands, she had kicked off her hat on the sand, and was running into the water.

FORESTERS TO DEMONSTRATE MILLING AND LUMBER GRADING

The annual meeting of the North Carolina Forestry Association at North Wilkesboro will have a lot of action mixed with address and discussions of forestry and land problems. On Tuesday afternoon, September 23rd, a demonstration in better methods of saw milling and lumber grading will be staged at the Wilkes County Fair Grounds. A general invitation is being sent to mill operators and lumbermen through out the State by R. W. Grueber, Extension Forester at State College. Mr. Grueber is also Secretary of the Forestry Association.

Present Conditions Favor Live Stock And Dairying In South, Says Turner

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 18.—"Drouth conditions in many of the principal dairying and live stock growing sections of the country favor a rapid growth of these industries in the South," says Roland Turner, general agricultural agent of the Southern Railway System. "In this section, especially in the lower South, the production of forage and grain has not been reduced as in other sections."

"It is well known that when herds of either beef or dairy stock are depleted because of reduced crop production and poor pastures, years are required to work the industry back to normal conditions. In other sections should encourage southern farmers to expand their live stock and dairying operations by purchasing breeding animals and especially by conserving their young females. The same is true with respect to sheep and hogs."

"Rising prices seem in prospect a year hence and southern beef cattle, hog and sheep growers will probably find a favorable market for stock they will be able to offer as a result of steps taken now to increase production. Dairy products will probably also be in greater demand at higher prices."

Thin, Pale, Weak

"I HAD been through a bad spell of sickness which left me very weak," says Mrs. Virginia Spruce, of Stapleton, Va. "I was pale and felt listless, and my strength did not return."

"Someone asked me why I did not try Gardui because I felt so weak, so I thought I would see what it would do for me. It was really remarkable how I came out. My strength returned, and my health was better than it had been in years. I gained in weight about ten pounds. My color was good and I ceased to suffer from headaches. I have told my friends about Gardui because it has done so much for me."

THE FAMILY DOCTOR

BY JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

ARTHROITIS

The term itself strikes terror to the patient and physician alike. The latter knows, when he comes in contact with the disease that he is "up against it" for a chronic case.

Literally, any inflammation of a joint is "arthritis." Acute inflammatory rheumatism should not be difficult to manage, though it is typical arthritis. In this letter, I refer to that chronic form, that too often sends its victims to the rolling chair for years, if not for life.

We do not know its cause—after years of study of its symptomatology. Some think it due to an obscure internal infection; others believe it to be a disease of the blood, not yet understood. So far as my experience at first hand is concerned, I feel sure it will some day be found to be of nervous origin—but that remains to be seen.

The question of relief is one of supreme importance. Of course, every unit of the body must be kept functioning as perfectly as possible. I have seen patients almost killed by futile efforts to destroy the disease—with little attention being paid to maintaining the patient's reserve forces. I permit every good, nourishing food to be taken, regardless of the theory. You must have strength to help our remedies combat a dread enemy.

RURAL SCHOOLS DECREASING 200 PER YEAR

Raleigh, Aug. 18.—The number of rural schools taught in North Carolina has been decreasing at the rate of about 200 a year since 1919-20, when the peak in number of schools taught was reached. It is learned from a statement made by the chief of the State Department of Public Instruction.

GOVERNOR TELLS 'EM TO GO ON—USE IT

Just Like An Ostrich

A medical authority says that a person who tries to cover up skin blemishes and pimples with toilet creams and powders is just as foolish as an ostrich that buries its head in the sand to avoid danger. Skin eruptions are nature's warning that contamination is throwing poisons into your bloodstream and weakening your whole constitution. Remove the contaminated and you will strengthen your system against disease and clear up your disfigured skin. The best way to do this is with a course of Herbol, the vegetable medicine that acts naturally and gently, which you can get at ALLISON & CLEMENT.

Conditions Seen By Bailey As Ripe For Democratic Victory

Franklin, Aug. 16.—"Never again will the republican party be heard to boast of its capacity for prosperity; never again will the American people confide in its rosy promises," Josiah W. Bailey, democratic nominee for United States senate, declared in an address here today before a crowd of 6,000 people.

"In times of prosperity the principles of the democratic party have not been highly prized," Dr. L. P. Martin of Oxford, declared, "but in times of difficulty the people return to them. The present situation predicates the election of a democratic congress in November and a democratic president in 1933."

"The object of an election is to submit the government to the people. This is a government by the people in the sense that every two years the government is submitted to them. They approve or disapprove."

"The republican party has been in control of the government 10 successive years. It must now submit itself to the people for approval or disapproval. It must stand or fall on its record. It cannot hope to avoid judgment upon its record of attacking the democratic party. It must stand or fall upon its own record and its record is not sufficient to justify a vote of confidence."

Hon. W. C. Hammer Opens Davie County Campaign With A Forceful Speech

Democrats Name Ticket. Democrats from ten of the eleven precincts in Davie County met at the courthouse in Mocksville at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon after hearing a forty-minute speech from Hon. W. C. Hammer, Democratic Congressman from this district, and candidate to succeed himself, nominated a ticket to be voted on in November.

Congressman W. C. Hammer, who was convention keynote for Davie County Democrats at Mocksville last Saturday. He is candidate to succeed himself as Congressman from the Seventh North Carolina District.

Never was candidate or a party event so much at lost for an issue as Mr. Pritchard and his party in North Carolina this year. The State has been rocking along under Democratic rule for more than a century and a half.

There were three active candidates for sheriff, W. R. Craver, L. M. Graves and Floyd McGowan. Mr. Craver was nominated by a unanimous vote by acclamation.

Mr. Pritchard and the Republican leaders in North Carolina have made a mistake in their judgment of following the usual Republican course of more than a quarter of a century of appealing to prejudice.

The Way of Life

BRUCE BARTON

WHERE TO START

One morning a very unhappy young man lay in bed, his head on his hand.

He is twenty-two years old, and an idealist. The men in the plant where he works use coarse language, their crudeness grates on him. Also, his job is dull.

"I read biographies," he said. "Great men have all had an aim. I seem to be headed nowhere. I haven't found myself."

Reader, what would you have said to that boy?

I said that most of the men whom we read about in biographies did not have any great purpose. A few, such as musicians and painters, had a talent, that could not be mistaken. The great majority, of whom Lincoln is the classic example, were just encouraged in youth as my youth friend. They did not know where they were going, but they did not quit. They simply plugged ahead and, usually to their own surprise, won out.

I said, in the second place, that all are crude and all men are wonderful. The purest saint has secrets in his heart that make him blush, the best man has moments of splendor.

Man is the noblest of all the creatures, and the most tragic a little higher than the angels. With all his crudeness, he does his work, sacrifices for his young, and faces blind fate with courage. "Don't criticize men or judge them," I said to the lad. "Like

AMOS, A HERDSMAN CALLED OF GOD TO BE A PROPHET. Amos 1:1; 2:10; 2:11; 2:12. Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D.

This study in biography presents the progress in history. The Jewish nation had three kings in the united national life. Then came the split, following the death of Solomon and ten tribes formed the Kingdom of Israel, while the other portion was known as the Kingdom of Judah. The Northern section started out wrong, for Jeroboam proposed that two calves be set up, in Bethel and Dan, that the people might make their centers of worship rather than follow the command of Jehovah and go up to Jerusalem for the prescribed solemn feasts. It was long before Israel did more than worship thus.

It will be remembered that when there was speaking of Palestine had been entered that God raised up a series of judges who helped the people out of each emergency. Something of the same method is seen in the study of Old Testament history, and in the division of the kingdom. New prophets are called into service that they may tell the people of their sins and promise forgiveness if they will only sincerely repent. Amos is a prophet called into a high office as spokesman of God. This prophet is of humble origin. He was just a plain herdsman of Tgion, located about 12 miles below Jerusalem. Part of his work was to plow open the growing, scumore, for otherwise it would not ripen.

At first the message had been directed against the surrounding nations for they were grossly wicked. To such a degree that the Israelites listened with reverence, for it is always interesting to hear another criticized. Then Amos went about 22 miles northward to Bethel that he might see what was in that city. It was not natural that he should look about to see how Israel was progressing at this center of calf worship. What he noted was shocking in the extreme. God seemed to have been forgotten in the present program of living. Self-will was the standard and the righteousness of Jehovah was not even contemplated. Then Amos, at the further commission of God, set forth the facts to his kindred. Their exact sins were declared in no uncertain language. They were made to see that things which had been adopted as a routine in their lives were positively wrong in the sight of God, Right and worthwhile ways were indicated and promises of forgiveness were made if they would only sincerely repent.

It was expected that the people would take exception but Amos was the more amazed when Amaziah the priest, sought to silence him, though he declared that he was God's messenger in righteousness. Amaziah appealed to King Jeroboam II, but the prophet continued to deliver his denunciations. This God-sent man would not be stopped, for he had

JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

"PROGRESS" VS LONG LIFE

There is no doubting that this century has resigned for the occupancy of man and for the love of animals, and everything needed for health and long life was placed within their reach and for their benefit.

"Civilization" has brought with it many diseases unknown to the cave-dweller, the primitive man. The oldest man I ever saw was 101; he had lived next to nature all his long life; he had not tried to turn night into day, and had lived in the way God intended him to live; long life was his reward. It was no accident, no freak of nature that he did this; he simply obeyed nature's laws.

I saw a man this very day, tubed and togged in the very latest in his way to the golf links. Appoplexy was written all over him. He wore a flannel suit, soft cap, knee breeches, flat shoes, and was smoking furiously to keep his internal machinery "chugging on all six." He had probably never had his toes or fingers in the dirt in his life—nor had he likely ever done a lick of manual labor.

Here he was seeking health breathing like a porpoise. He wore, doubtless worth plenty of money, man's goal these days, it seems. But a careful observer wouldn't insure his LIFE for five dollars! He was apparently between fifty and sixty years of age—the time when a man should be at his best dear reader, would you be in his condition for what he has accumulated?

With Mr. and Mrs. Ham Everhardt.

Constipation Trouble

"I HAVE used Black-Draught as a mild medicine for good many years," says Mrs. Sallie Levan, of Hunteville, N. C. "I have found its excellent relief for constipation and trouble in the bowels. I have used frequently for gas pains, and when I have had a cold, I have found that it has done me good. I give Black-Draught to the children when they are constipated, and it is none until they are running again."

Thousands of others report good results from the use of this purely vegetable medicine. Insist on the name "Black-Draught" for constipation, indigestion, biliousness.

Hoover Is Disappointed

"The President has not met the expectations of the friends of temperance and prohibition by his daily dallying methods in prohibiting enforcement. Prohibition is not a scientific inquiry and his appointment of a commission and his long delay in the accomplishment of the promise which he made have turned many 'wets' and 'drys' against him.

When we compare the first year of the Hoover administration with that of Woodrow Wilson, the contrast shows that Wilson gave the country a sound tariff measure, the Federal Reserve System and thirteen arbitration treaties were adopted for the settlement of international disputes. These are only a few of the post-Woodrow Wilson administration.

During the first year of Mr. Hoover's administration the liabilities of bank failing totaled only a small amount of being as large as all banks that failed in the entire country during the eight years of the Wilson administration.

In 1923 the Republican campaign pledges and their earnestness were so great that the people of the country believed this great engineer was also a great statesman in Bennett's administration. After his election there was considerable depression throughout the country. He and Secretary Mellon issued statements after stating that the apparent slump in business was only slight and was only temporary and would be over within a few fortnights.

Conditions grew worse within a few months there was the most serious unemployment situation that the country had known for years, with from five to ten million men and women, who must earn their living by their own efforts, walking the streets and highways seeking jobs that were not to be found at any price.

During the first year of administration there was an enormous increase in the amount of banking and business failures. Of the seventy railroads during January of this year the earnings of fifty-

Gastonia—Ralph Carlin, of the Ocoala mill community and C. G. Bush of the Flint mill, two of 20 Gastonia men and boys, escorted out of Dhanville, Va., Friday, when they were charged with desertion.

Hoover Is Disappointed

"The President has not met the expectations of the friends of temperance and prohibition by his daily dallying methods in prohibiting enforcement. Prohibition is not a scientific inquiry and his appointment of a commission and his long delay in the accomplishment of the promise which he made have turned many 'wets' and 'drys' against him.

When we compare the first year of the Hoover administration with that of Woodrow Wilson, the contrast shows that Wilson gave the country a sound tariff measure, the Federal Reserve System and thirteen arbitration treaties were adopted for the settlement of international disputes. These are only a few of the post-Woodrow Wilson administration.

During the first year of Mr. Hoover's administration the liabilities of bank failing totaled only a small amount of being as large as all banks that failed in the entire country during the eight years of the Wilson administration.

In 1923 the Republican campaign pledges and their earnestness were so great that the people of the country believed this great engineer was also a great statesman in Bennett's administration. After his election there was considerable depression throughout the country. He and Secretary Mellon issued statements after stating that the apparent slump in business was only slight and was only temporary and would be over within a few fortnights.
