Helicopter Evacuates Local Sailor To Army Hospital

For the second time in about a year a helicopter has been used to evacuate an injured service man from the Davie County Hospital.

On Jan. 2, a helicopter was used to evacuate a sailor who had suffered an accidental gunshot wound while home on leave on Christmas Eve.

Charles Bailey, 19, a resident of Advance, Route 2, was removed to a military hospital to recuperate from a wound in the abdomen.

The youth and a friend were "playing" with a 22-caliber pistol on Christmas Eve when the weapon accidentally discharged while in the hands of Bailey's companions.

Bailey told hospital officials that he felt a stinging sensation the moment the gun went off. He noticed holes in his clothing, and fully realized what had happened only after he removed part of his clothing.

The bullet passed through two places in the wall of his stomach and pierced his spleen. The bullet lodged inside, but was removed through surgery in an operation credited with saving the boy's life.

Bailey had been home only a few days following duty with the Navy in San Diego, California.

Arrangements for the removal to a military hospital was made between Army officials at Fort Bragg and Frank Ceruzzi, hospital administrator.

A big Sikorsky H-19D helicopter arrived at the field in back of the hospital at 2:45 p.m. on Jan. 2. The field was marked with a large cloth "X."

The evacuation, a type of which is becoming common for servicemen injured while on leave all over the country, was carried out by the 58th Medical Detachment (Helicopter Ambulance) stationed at Fort Bragg. The detachment covers Fort Bragg and surrounding areas for all emergency evacuation.

The helicopter used is one of five of its type assigned to the detachment. It has a flying range of 225 miles without refueling and is capable of carrying six litter patients.

It has a 700 horsepower engine turning at 2,400 revolutions per minute and will cruise at 86 miles per hour with a top speed of 120 miles per hour.

Mocksville P.-T.A. To Sponsor Grass Roots Opera Program

The National Grass Roots Opera Company, which will appear in the Mocksville School auditorium on Jan. 27 in a production of "The Fledermaus," has eight different states represented in its roster: New York, Texas, West Virginia, Georgia, Ohio, New Jersey, Missouri, and Louisiana.

Several of the young singers have college degrees in music and most of them have enjoyed considerable experience in opera as well as in concert and oratorio. Some have appeared in opera productions in Europe.

The National Grass Roots Opera Company, which headquarters in Raleigh, N. C., has proved to be a haven for young professional singers desiring more experience. Each season auditions are held in New York and Raleigh by this company, and from these auditions, only the outstanding voices are chosen. Each singer chosen for the roster has the opportunity of singing, in English, from 20 to 50 stage performances of several different roles during the season.

Over 100 young American singers of past seasons have found out that the experience they have gained as members of this group has been of the greatest value to their careers. Some of these have later appeared with the New York City Opera, the Wagner Opera Co., the Lemonade Opera of New York and numerous other light opera groups and musical shows throughout the country. Three former Grass Roots Opera singers have become featured performers with European Opera houses.

The founder of the Grass Roots Opera Company, A. J. Fletcher, Raleigh, N. C., attorney and businessman, has recently been awarded a citation for outstanding contribution to the cultural life of the nation by the National Federation of Music Clubs. Mr. Fletcher is now serving as chairman of Grass Roots Opera for that federation. In its ninth season now, this "dream come true" of this dedicated music lover has taken on new dimensions with each passing season, and the 1957-58 season promises to be no exception in this respect.

Now in his second season as director of the Grass Roots Opera Company is the gifted young Virginia born Frederic Popper of New York City. Well known to opera goers in New York, Boston, Cleveland and other American cities, Mr. Popper will mount two all-time favorites for the Grass Roots Opera offering this year: Johann Strauss' sparkling "Fledermaus" and Mozart's class Don Giovanni.

JEANETTE SCOVOTTI, lyric-coloratura, native of New York City. Graduate of Julliard School of Music. Private vocal study with Mme. Schey-Kux. Proficient in piano and violin. Perfect pitch. Opera roles include leading roles in Hansely, La Traviata, Boheme, Cosi Fan Tutte, Werther, and others. Appeared in Kink and I. Maggie, LIT Abner and other Broadway shows. Soloist with Erie Philharmonic, Lena Symphony. Music on the Pier, Ocean City, N. J., and with Margaret Hillis' Concert Choir. Numerous other solo appearances. With the National Grass Roots Opera she will sing the roles of Adele in The Fledermaus and Serlina in Don Giovanni.

BLOSSOM CRAFT, lyric soprano from Macon, Ga. Attendee Furman University, Julliard Opera Workshop, Mannes Opera Workshop where she appeared in various leading soprano roles. Many appearances in concert, theater and club dates. Will sing the roles of Adele in The Fledermaus and Serlina in Don Giovanni, both to be produced by the National Grass Roots Opera Co. this season.

DAIRYING
An article appeared in Plant Foods Institute Magazine that all dairymen should read. Some agriculturist in France found that putting plenty of phosphate in litter in dairy barns reduced mastitis from 50 to 90 per cent and, as you know, it will also tie up nitrogen, therefore the manure is worth more when applied to land. The article also stated that by sprinkling from one-half to one pound per head of sheep on litter would practically cut mastitis out in sheep herds.

Agriculturists experimenting with phosphate in this country discovered that many of the bacteria that caused mastitis in cows are unable to live in superphosphate. Since this is a worthwhile proposition in improving the quality of manure, it pays for that alone, but it will certainly pay if it cuts down on mastitis as his article indicates. Again, this article appeared in Plant Foods Institute Magazine.

DAIRYING
Most of the Davie County farmers on DHIA say that this is one of the harder years to get milk and many of them are feeding as good or better than before. In some years when adverse weather conditions occur during the growing season nitrate acid forms in silage, in many cases enough to cause ill effects on animals that are eating this silage.

The Farm Quarterly had an article in the last issue about this hidden enemy - nitrates in silage. They report that feeding some molasses would cure these ill effects, so if you are feeding your cows on silage and they are not producing as much as you think they should, you probably should add some molasses and see if this will increase production. This was a very good article in the Farm Quarterly, and all dairymen should try to read it.

SOIL TESTING INFORMATION

Are Davie County farmers including efficient use of lime and fertilizer in their land management program? If not, it's a good time to think about doing so. Farmers can get sound advice on efficient liming and fertilization for their cropping program through soil tests. Soil test recommendations for lime and fertilizer are designed to give profitable returns on money invested in these items for both short and long run periods.

Recommendations are made by trained agronomists who determine the nutrient elements required by soils for the profitable production of crops. The amount of plant nutrients needed for various levels of soil fertility, as determined by a soil test, is based on carefully conducted research and field experiments. Each recommendation is considered in light of all available information to that time and fertilizer may be purchased in amounts to give profitable returns. Soil testing recommendations are a means of extending the results of field experiments to individual farmers' fields. In this way all farmers receive up-to-date technical information on the needs of their crops.

The Soil Testing Division at Raleigh can provide this service to farmers in a matter of about 10 days. So there is still time for Davie County farmers to get sound advice on their lime and fertilizer needs for the coming spring crops. Don't wait Spring is right behind the door. Visit the County Agent's Office for further information.

PRANKS AND JAPES ON APRIL FIRST?

We call one who "falls for" an April Fool trick a "poor fish" perhaps because fish "bite on" anything. Few fishermen will agree with that. French, however, call a victim of clowning an poisson d'Avril or April Fish. Reason dates to reform of French calendar in 1564, when New Year's Day became Jan. 1, instead of April 1. New Year's celebration included exchange of gifts, much like Christmas. Modernists taunted those who protested calendar change, sent them mock gifts. Invited them to phony festivities on April First. Mocksville And Davie County At The Turn Of The Century

Old Newspaper Reveals Conditions 55 Years Ago

By GORDON TOMLINSON

After the Christmas issue of 1903, the Davie Record made no appearance until March 4, 1903. At that time Editor E. H. Morris announced that the price of the paper was being reduced to 75c per year and that "for 50c cash in hand we will send you the paper for one year. We are going to carry less dead heads in the future."

In the issue of March 11th, it was noted that "the new safe for the bank has arrived and has been put in place. It is a screw door and the only one of its kind in the country, and a few banks in the state have such a safe. Burglars would have a job on their hands in getting into this safe."

"Justices of the Peace in Davie County in the year 1903 were: Charles F. Anderson, J. M. Blount, W. H. Wyatt, W. H. Hobson, A. W. Eaton, A. H. McManhan, A. J. Anderson, M. C. Ijames, L. G. Walker, E. E. Hunt, A. T. Grant, Sr., A. C. Wood, Henry T. Smith, Edna, Enos S. Smith, M. W. Bowden.

The Liquor Question

The year 1903 was a year when the liquor question was an issue. The legislature during this year passed what was called the "Watts Bill." This piece of legislation made it unlawful to manufacture liquor except within the incorporated limits of a town. Apparently the Record seemed to think this a most unfair bill and had many articles and editorials opposing it.

Apparently the same problems and the same issues concerning the liquor question existed then as now. In fact, along this line, articles written concerning this issue 54 years ago, apply very well to the situation today. For example, we reprint part of one herewith:

"It is a fact alcohol is here; that it has been here from the foundation of the world; and that it will be here until all things have come to an end.

"Extremists say that alcohol is the creature of the devil, and that it ought to be abolished. Of course that is an absurdity. Alcohol was made by the same Creator who created the earth and all things therein, and without whom was not made anything that was made.

"There is no harm, per se, in alcohol. It is a good thing in itself and thousands and hundreds of thousands of people use it to their comfort. If used to their benefit, and never to their hurt, it ought not to be abolished.

"It is not wrong, per se, to take a drink of whiskey, nor is it wrong, per se, to sell whiskey. Some of the most men and women in the world take a drink of whiskey or wine occasionally, and it is absurd to say that they commit a wrong in so doing.

These statements may be denied, but they cannot be disproved. They are facts to be dealt with in considering this important subject.

"Another fact to be considered is this. That men have a perfect right to drink alcoholic liquors and they cannot under our system of government be deprived of that right by law. So long as they have the right many men will demand alcoholic liquors and where there is an extensive demand in any branch of business, the supply is sure to be forthcoming.

"We must assume, therefore, that as it was from the beginning, so it will be to the end. Alcohol will continue to exist, men will continue to sell it and use it. All this comes around at least to the question of regulating the sale in such a way to supply a popular demand with the least offense to those opposed to the traffic.

"It will be observed that we are still engaged in stating facts. We are not denying that the abuse of liquor constitutes a great evil; that it is responsible for much suffering and for much crime; nor are we denying that the greatest evil of the liquor traffic is the open saloon.

"These facts to be reckoned with in considering the liquor question. But we cannot abolish alcohol and we cannot abolish the evils of alcohol. It is therefore merely a question of how to reduce these evils to a minimum.

"For your part we do not believe in prohibition; we do not believe in the doctrine of prohibition because prohibitionists are intolerant and they are undemocratic, and too often they are fanatical. Nor do we believe in prohibition as an efficient means of getting rid of the liquor evil. It was tried in New Hampshire for generations, but recently it was abandoned in favor of high license. If it had been a remedy for the evil surely the Puritanical population of New Hampshire would never have abandoned it."

The above article was an editorial reprinted from the Richmond Times Dispatch by the Davie Record in April of 1903. In commenting on the article the editor of the Davie Record said:

"The Richmond Times-Dispatch is discussing the liquor question using logic and common sense. No great reform is ever accomplished by fanatical and intolerant methods."

However the Watts bill became law and put all the distilleries outside of incorporated towns out of business. Much discussion was also had on what economic effect it would have on Davie County.

In the issue of April 18, 1903, it was noted that T. R. Walsh became editor of "The Davie Times."

Cigarettes Forbidden
Liquor was not the only burning question of that day. The smoking of cigarettes also appeared not to have been so popular and widespread as it is today. In the issue of July 1, 1903, appeared this item:

"The great medicinal firm of J. C. Ayer and Company of Lowell, Mass., has announced that they would not employ a young man under 21 who is addicted to the cigarette habit. Among reasons given for this decision are:

- 1. It lessens the natural appetite for food and injures the digestion.
- 2. It affects the nervous system.

In the issue of Aug. 12, 1903, it was announced that J. Arthur Daniel of Ephesus had been appointed clerk in the Mocksville Post Office, taking the place of John Naylor, who resigned.

The Masonic Picnic of 1903 grosses $992.03 and netted $860.80. Another item in August, 1903, notes that "Jim Powell of Calhoun rolled his brother Ned into town Monday in an invalid's chair, 6 1/2 miles."

Crop Profit Margin
Also in this same issue appeared: "The following according to the 1903 report of the Bureau of Labor and Printing, is the cost of producing and the profit on the different products raised in Davie County for market:

- "Cost to raise a 500 pound bale of cotton, $25. Sold at $45. Profit $20.

Winning And Losing on TV

By GORDON TOMLINSON

I do not remember all the questions, but I do remember that three of the categories were "current events, science, and Shakespeare." I trusted myself on two of these and my wife on the third. We came out with enough right answers to be declared the winner for the day and have the right to challenge the previous day's winner for the $1,000 question.

The program involves answering a series of questions in various categories, competing against other couples. The winning couple on the day's program gets to challenge the top winner of the previous day for the top honors and a $1,000 award.

Many have requested that we tell all about this experience; so our story is as follows:

We arrived in New York City around noon on Dec. 26. At the hotel we found tickets to the television program, "Do You Trust Your Wife?" to be presented at the "Little Theatre Off Times Square" that afternoon at 3:30 p.m.

Those attending this show were given blanks to fill out concerning themselves. From the information supplied on these blanks, several couples were picked out and asked to remain for an interview. We were one of those.

One of the directors of the show talked to me and asked how long we would be in New York. Upon being told that we planned to leave Monday, he checked to see if we could be put on either on Friday or Monday, but these programs had already been set. He gave me an interview form and asked that I fill it out and return it for possible consideration at some later date.

After we had left the theatre, we decided that if we could get on the program, we would remain an extra day or so in New York. I went back into the theatre and found the man with whom I had been talking and told him this. He took out New York address and said he would have someone to call and set up an interview.

About an hour later, Myrtle took the call and an interview was set up for 4:30 p.m. Friday afternoon. At this interview subjects were discussed that might be of interest on the interview portion of the program that took place following the introduction of each couple. We were told that we had been scheduled for the Jan. 1 program.

This brought up other problems for us. The children had made other plans and did not want to stay any later than Monday. Also, if we were to get lucky on the program, we didn't know just how many extra days we might need to stay. On Saturday evening we decided the best thing was to let them come home. We called my mother and father, and on Sunday they met us in Danville, Va., and brought the children home. We spent the night in Richmond and went on back to New York the next day.

On the day of the program, Jan. 1, we were required to be at the theatre by 1:45 p.m. We were shown where to stand; how to make our entrance on the stage; and were briefed concerning the interview by Johnny Carson.

The program went on at 3:30 p.m. and we were the first couple to appear. Following the interview Johnny Carson announced that we were now ready to play the game, "Do You Trust Your Wife?" (The reason for the name is upon being given the category of the question, the husband announces whether he will trust himself or his wife to answer the question).

"I saw part of a TV program today in which Johnny Carson queried you and your wife on "Do You Trust Your Wife?" It was an interesting show.

"Mention of the two papers you folks edit—the Enterprise-Record and the Herald—was of interest to me as I like to collect copies to keep. I'd appreciate receiving copies of your papers."

A 70 year old man from Homer, Georgia, wrote: "Just a few lines to tell you that I certainly did enjoy your program on "Can You Trust Your Wife?" "I will remember that when the announcer asked your height and you told him 5 feet and 18 inches. "And too you edit one paper

Business Growth In Davie Reflected During Past Year

Statistics released today by N. L. Dancy, manager of the Winston - Salem, N. C., office of Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., reflect the growth of business firms in Davie County during the past five years. Figures obtained from a physical count of the Dun & Bradstreet Reference Book for November, 1957, totaled 218 manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers in this area as compared to 205 listings in 1952—an increase of 6% for the period.

The Reference Book, incidentally, only lists manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers. It does not include some of the service and professional businesses such as barber and beauty shops, stock and real estate brokers. Thus the figure for businesses in Davie County would actually be higher than the 218 quoted above.

Dancy also added that the Reference Book contains approximately three million business listings for over 50,000 communities in the United States. It is published every 60 days to keep listings current. During the past 60 days nearly 63,000 new names were added and nearly 60,000 names were removed. Credit ratings were changed during this period on more than 100,000 business concerns.

As one phase in revising credit ratings and keeping them up to date, every year the credit reporting agency writes to all businesses who are listed in the Reference Book to request their year end balance sheets. Dancy says that this letter speeds up the flow and processing of some of the facts on which credit ratings are based. "More than 95 per cent of all commercial transactions in the U. S. are made on credit terms," he added. "The purpose of the Reference Book is to help businessmen in any part of the country make credit decisions to ship or sell to businessmen in any other part of the country."

The credit rating is one of the key factors in approving orders to ship or sell. The rating consists of two symbols. The first, a letter of the alphabet, indicates financial strength or tangible net worth of the business. The second symbol is a number. It reflects a composite appraisal of the background operations, financial stability, and payment record.

Each Reference Book listing, which includes the rating, is a condensed summary of the information contained in the Dun & Bradstreet credit report. The report includes a history of the business (who owns it, who runs it, and how long it has been operating); a description of what the business does and how it does it; a financial section (which usually includes the latest financial statement); and a record of how the concern pays its bills.

While credit reports are primarily used by businessmen who want to evaluate the credit risk before shipping or selling, insurance underwriters also use credit reports to review risks, rates, and coverage for fire and other types of insurance.

E. C. MORRIS, Insurance

At 50th Street and 5th Avenue where Central Park begins, the hansom cabs with their sleek, sturdy horses and chubby drivers still stand. Citizens venerable enough to remember Old New York can close their eyes and see in fond fancy those snowy days of long ago when cabs were sleighs and groups of gray swains and ladies dashed across the park in delightful excursions of festivity. Towering in the near-background is another reminder of those days, the 18-story Plaza Hotel which is celebrating its golden anniversary. It is more than a hotel; the Plaza is a landmark of the elegance which even half a century has not erased.

In 1907, this Gotham version of a French Renaissance chateau was finished and was a welcome addition to upper 5th Avenue where old brown stone mansions were giving way to new palaces of the "400" set. Mrs. Carmelita Vanderbilt, whose huge residence sat just across the street, was a prime example. Newspapers of the day printed stories about the wealthy society people who would live in the "fabulous new 12 1/2 million dollar inn." Up to that time, it was not considered proper for prominent families to live in hotels. Social life was confined to the home. Mrs. Astor's circle had even been shocked when Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, Mrs. John Drexel and Mrs. Jay Gould had dined in a public restaurant of the Waldorf.

It was with surprise then, when among the names announced as first inhabitants of the new Plaza were Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, Mrs. William Rhineclander Stewart, John "Bet-A-Million" Gates, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Hariman and the Goulds. Rental for their corner suites ranged from $10,000 to $35,000 a year—a lot of money in those days. As soon as the new tenants were settled, friends of the smart set dropped by to see them and the new restaurants including the Persian Room where in the gay 1920's, Eddie Duchin and his orchestra were to play so long; and the Grill Room where F. Scott Fitzgerald and his wife, Zelda, and Constance Bennett were to tendance below street level.

The first visitors were shocked by the new "motor taxis" outside the new hostelry, but when inside, they were charmed by the marble halls and elegant decor in general. Elinor Glyn especially liked the great tea court where celebrities gathered almost daily. House officers often had to keep the crowds moving on because so many stopped to stare at the Vanderbilts, John Drew and Ethel Barrymore, Billie Burke and such. First large function given in the hotel was for the Lord Bishop of London who had recently beaten President Theodore Roosevelt in a tennis match—something unusual. Young people flocked to the Plaza, and social highlights were the debut parties for Marjorie Gould in 1900 and Joan Whitney in 1921.

The pretty girls who gather in the Palm Court of the hotel today do not have the trouble with their smoking that Mrs. Patrick Campbell, beautiful English stage star did there 50 years ago. She almost scandalized the country, it was said, when she attempted to smoke a cigarette while having tea. She was immediately reported to the manager who requested her to put aside the cigarette or leave the premises. She bowed to his first request and stayed. But with the exception of the remodeling of some of the dining rooms, the Plaza Hotel is much the same today as it was near the turn of the century. In fact, some of its permanent residents have lived there almost from the time of its building. Elegant, well-mannered old ladies, for the most part, they can look out of their windows across Central Park on snowy twilights and in the soft aura of the lights of Manhattan, see again those gay and memorable sleighs with their young men who laughed and bowed and brought happiness to the girls beside them.

Many of us here live underground—part of the time anyway. So Sputnik, Muttalick and our own Goodnik were not enough. We had to have a subway strike. On the surface things remained pretty normal, that is if you call a few million extra people jamming and damming each other on the sidewalks, in buses and cabs, normal. It is bad enough to breast a holiday shopping crowd in New York and meantime mutter thankfully that your insurance is paid up, but for that crowd to have reinforcements enough to drive through the Battle of the Bulge is really funny. Most of us lost several yards off-tackle between the station and street. One husky woman with a Brooklyn accent stepped on a man's shin and apparently slid slowly down to his corn, and when he remonstrated, she smiled. "Aah, yer fadder's mustashel! Shit! an! Ye didn't have to come out in this molder contest. There's the Bridge. If ye don't like things, go take a flyin' leap!"

With the NATO meeting approaching, Fred Sparks says one of our biggest problems is the inability to sell ourselves abroad. "We take a Madison Avenue man in a flannel suit and send him out to sell democracy. He puts up huge color ads in Europe or Asia saying 'Buy Democracy' when a great part of the people can't read. He spends thousands of dollars on radio shows when many of the people have no radios. The Russians go about it differently: they use a door-to-door approach—sometimes with a gun in one hand."

Norman Vincent Peale said here that the report the average person uses 15 per cent of his brain power is exaggerated. Norman says it is a good deal less. But he happily adds in his Dale Carnegie-type talks at the Marble Collegiate Reformed Church on 5th Avenue that the sale of vitamins is on the increase and that children are today about two inches taller than their parents and can expect to live about 20 years longer.

A lady from the Middle West comes here each year, sees the shows, buys some clothes and generally lives it up in a systematic way. She has grown fond of a small West Side hotel and always stays there. After she has set her bags down, her first act of business is to walk down the hallway and check on the location of the fire exits. On her last visit, she was somewhat confused to notice the hotel had been partially remodeled and that there was no fire exit visible from her door. Resolutely she marched to the end of the hall and opened the last door on her left. Instantly she found herself facing an elderly gentleman sitting in a bath tub. "Pardon me!" the lady said, backing out embarrassedly. "I was looking for the fire escape." She had hardly gotten halfway back to her door when the man, dripping wet with a towel draped around him, caught up with her and anxiously asked, "Where's the fire?"

My earliest Christmas card is on the subject—of all things THAT war. It comes from Dr. Bell Irwin Wiley, professor of history at Emory University in Atlanta—but you wouldn't guess it from the card, which is on wall paper. Here 'tis: "Camp Mudville, Jackson, Tenn., 186-Deer frins:

THEY RISE OR FALL TOGETHER.

OF A TRUTH I PERCEIVE THAT GOD IS NO RESPECTER OF PERSONS' ACTS 10:34

According to a local telephone man, we haven't seen anything yet. He predicts that the time will come when each new-born baby will be given a telephone number and a little gadget with which he can talk with anyone in the world he wishes to - if he knows their number. Not only can he dial the person, but should he care to gaze upon their countenance at first hand, he can flick a little switch and their face will appear - in three dimensions. Maybe we had better all go back a century and start over again.

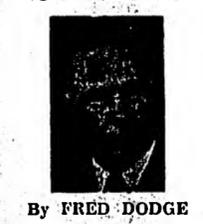

Caleb Hammond, the map man, says that contrary to reports, New York City is gaining in population. He points out that population figures quoted for London and Tokyo are for their metropolitan areas, while figures given for New York are for the city alone. Including the several counties making up greater London, the population is about 8 1/2 million; for the same kind of area around Tokyo, slightly over 8 million; while greater New York now has almost 13 million people, the authority states. Since the recent subway strike, however, I'll never believe again that there's safety in numbers.

The story is told that a Texas oil man, a New York financier and a Kentucky farmer were playing poker. The stakes got higher and higher. "I'll sweeten the pot with one oil well" challenged the Texan who claimed he had one in his front yard. "I'll raise that bet with my First National Bank, the one next to me on Wall Street," said the New Yorker. The Kentuckian tossed in his cards and pushed himself back from the table. "This game is too steep for me," he said. "I come from a poor neighborhood. All I've got in my back yard is Fort Knox."

Carl Sandburg at a recent meeting of old-time newspapermen gathered to honor him, told his secret for "working on the bosses' time." The idea, he explained, is to get a job as movie critic, see all the movies on Sunday or Monday, write the reviews for the entire week ahead, then spend the rest of the week doing your own work. This formula, Sandburg said, gave him time to do research for books while he was movie critic of the Chicago Daily News in the 1920's.

Out of towners have often remarked on the great number of people seen on New York's main streets at any time of the night. It is reported that there are from ten to twenty thousand people here who have no permanent quarters. These are the drifters, the night walkers. Most of them are anonymous and they seem to cultivate such rootlessness. Some of them work, some don't. Many work hard at not working. Sometimes you see them in expensive restaurants or in the best seats

60 Second Sermons

By FRED DODGE

TEXT: "The secret of being tireless is in telling everything." -Voltaire.

Mark Twain was guest of honor at an opera-box party given by a prominent New York socialite. His hostess had been extremely talkative during the performance, to Clemm's irritation. Toward the end of the opera she gushed, "My dear Mr. Clemmings, I do so want you to be with us next Friday. I'm sure you'll like it. The opera will be 'Tosca'."

"Charmed," replied Clemmings. "I've never heard you in that."

We talk too much. We reveal our scanty knowledge quickly. Shortly we are boring everyone, even those who secretly laugh at us. There are three possible reasons why we gabble so much.

We talk too much because we selfishly want to monopolize the conversation, or we are boastful and want people to know that we are important, or we are just plain incoherents. As one of these is praise-worthy, what can we do about it?

Obviously, only you can stop you from talking too much. Therefore, when you start a conversation remember that a half-view is more interesting than a fully satisfied vision. Pull your conversational window - shades down part way and let the other person do the pecking. You'll always have an interested audience.

at the theater or opera. O Henry knew them, as did Damon Runyon. Doubtless there will always be such drifters on the face of this earth.

Every time I pass the famous arch in Washington Square or the elegant building of the Century Association, I think of the late architect, Stanford White, who designed them. He seems best known however, for being shot by Harry K. Thaw some 50 years ago for allegedly showing too much attention to Thaw's showgirl wife. It is said that soon afterward, Wilson Mizner, a humorist of that day, passed an especially ugly new building and exclaimed, "Good heavens! Thaw shot the wrong architect."

Barney Ross, ex-boxer who overcame the dope habit, said here that the trouble with kids today is that "they grow up hen-coddled and without fairly discipline." American Airlines President C. R. Smith likes to get back to his native Texas and dine at the Cluzo Club in Dallas.

SENATOR SAM ERVIN SAYS

WASHINGTON - The prospects for much work faces the Congress at the beginning of the second session.

BUSY SESSION

In looking ahead at my schedule I foresee virtually unlimited time to be spent on such things as national defense, labor management investigations, as well as the heavy amount of legislation that always comes before the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Senator Russell has stated that the principle matter before Congress will be missiles, reflecting the importance of the defense picture. I am in agreement that no other problem is more urgent at this time.

We are awaiting the President's message on the State of the Union. This will give Mr. Eisenhower a opportunity to let Congress and the people know the facts, things that we have not been old fully. In other words, this session will afford the President and the Congress an opportunity for leadership of a high order; it ought to be forthcoming.

DEFENSE SPENDING

Just how much more serious the recession will get is the subject of considerable speculation as we move into the new year. Increased defense spending, and there seems to be almost universal agreement that it will be hiked - will provide somewhat of a shot in the economic arm of our country.

LABOR-MANAGEMENT

The trail of sordid testimony of some unions and management will require aggressive pursuit by the committee to learn what new legislation is needed in this field. I am told that there is an inordinately large amount of work to be done by the Select Committee of which I am a member.

BOTTOM RUNG

At the moment there is very little possibility of any new civil rights legislation getting the serious attention of Congress. I hope that situation exists because there is absolutely no need to waste the time and money of the people of this country on civil rights. It should be relegated to the bottom rung of the ladder of national needs, letting the people of the local communities work out these problems where they know what steps are necessary and what the true conditions are. Civil rights hearings and debates look an inordinately large amount of my time at the last session, and I want to devote my time this session to the things that protect us as a nation and things that will make our defense and national economy strong.

I am not yet prepared to render a decision on the proposed help for education. This is another matter, along with foreign aid, that cannot be rushed through. Congressman Cannon has warned the Congress and country that the gates are now

BOOSTER... Since Gov. Luther Hodges spent his Christmas vacation in Florida and since Gov. Leroy Collins of ditto will be the speaker for the Jefferson - Jackson Day Dinner here on Feb. 1, it was assumed by many last week that our Governor saw Florida's Governor during Christmas and persuaded him to come to North Carolina.

Not so. Although Luther Hodges is responsible for Good Friend Collins' coming to North Carolina, visit was arranged early in the fall.

But Collins did not have to adapt his schedule to fit North Carolina's Jefferson - Jackson Day. It was the other way around. The Governor found when Collins would be available and our date was set - a mile early to say the least - to fit the Florida schedule.

Everybody here is going to be surprised if Florida's Leroy Collins does not give North Carolina's Gov. Luther Hodges a boost for vice presidential candidacy - on the Democratic ticket.

Stranger things have happened.

BETTER BE SURE... If you wait too late to try to get your automobile license tag, you may find yourself faced with another delay.

Although on last Thursday and Friday the State Department of Motor Vehicles found everything running much more smoothly than had been anticipated, troubles were reported from throughout the State.

These came from what is known as the "cream of the crop" since those motorists who are in the best position - financially, mentally, and otherwise - are usually the eager - beavers of the trade, buying their tags at the first opportunity. Before YOU report, be sure your yellow slip is correct. Be sure it agrees with the make of your car, the year model, and the motor number. Better be sure than sorry.

MAYFAIR... Some friends of ours had a business-trip to New York last week. So, along in December the big man of the house house airily wrote the Mark Helinger Theatre in New York for tickets to "My Fair Lady," said to be the equal of "South Pacific" and/or "Oklahoma."

He sent along a check for himself, wife, and the couple which would accompany them. The check was for $30 - four seats in the mezzanine. Not the best seats in the house, but not the worst, either.

CHECKS... By return mail, as he figured it, back came a card with all sorts of sentences on it. The theatre people wrote not a word, but checked various statements. The check was enclosed. One checked sentence said: "Every seat has been sold through April."

Another said: "Please send self addressed stamped envelope for prompt delivery." You see, our friend had made a big mistake right there. Another checked statement said: "Price desired not available until after May." The last one said: "Do not date your check."

GOT THEM... So what happened. So he knew a friend. So he went to the Pleadilly ticket place - a little old place just off Broadway at Pleadilly Circus Hotel. He paid $1.00 extra for the tickets, got them without much delay. People buy tickets, die, get sick, and turn them in for 10,000 other reasons. But don't write for tickets to "My Fair Lady."

TEN BEST... The New York Times says that the ten best motion pictures produced in 1957 were: "Love in the Afternoon," "Silk Stockings," "Twelve Angry Men," "A Hatful of Rain," "The Great Man," "The Green Man," "Les Girls," "Funny Face," "Sayonara," and "The Bridge on the River Kwai."

About half of them have been shown in Raleigh. The remainder will come later. How is it in your community?

NEW CARS... We have been hearing talk about a recession. But in November, according to figures from the N. C. Dept. of Motor Vehicles, there were 1,447 new cars sold in North Carolina as against 1,478 for the previous year.

Now watch for contested statements between Chevrolet and Ford as to the champion for 1957. Each will claim the leadership. One led in production, etc., and the other led in sales. We hate to say it, but believe these little old foreign cars are going to get a bigger bite of the market in 1958. Keep an eye on them with us. Ouch!

That's not much of a recession, now is it?

Bulek had 528 new car sales in November compared with 376 for November of 1956; Cadillac had 128 new car sales in November as compared with 51 for 1956; Chevrolet, 1,022, as compared with 2,103 in 1956 November; DeSoto, 116 and 8; Dodge, 250 and 277; Ford, 2,154 in this past November as compared with 2,304 for November of 56; Hudson, 3 and 32; Imperial, 19 and 5; Lincoln, 33 and 37; Mercury, 225 and 235; Metropolitan, 10 this November and none last; Nash, 3 and 62; Oldsmobile, 393 and 319; Packard, 4 and 25; Plymouth, 574 and 566; Pontiac, 412 and 417; Rambler, 87 and 0; Studebaker, 70 this November and 60 last; Willys, 2 and 3; Edsel, 77 and 0; and foreign, 125 and 0 in November of 1956.

Now watch for contested statements between Chevrolet and Ford as to the champion for 1957. Each will claim the leadership. One led in production, etc., and the other led in sales. We hate to say it, but believe these little old foreign cars are going to get a bigger bite of the market in 1958. Keep an eye on them with us. Ouch!

BUT LESS TOBACCO

Have you listened to all those reports about the dire things cigarette - smoking will do for you? Well, then you are different from the average American smoker.

In 1957, more cigarettes were sold than in 1956. Yes, this past year, smokers puffed, chewed, and threw away as butts or ducks (according to where you were raised - and I don't mean raised) 410 billion "cotton nills" - as they were called back in the 20's.

The big trend last year was to filter. Thirty-eight of every 100 cigarettes sold were of the filter type. In 1951, for example, filter brands accounted for only one-tenth of one per cent of total sales.

In North Carolina, the feeling is that the smoked gets no more tobacco - maybe less - in a filter than in what is known as a "regular". The change has also been made that, since the filter cuts the strength and reduces the "real old tobacco taste," stronger tobaccos are being used.

GOOD YEAR AHEAD

With people smoking more cigarettes than ever before in the history of the nation and with reduced acreage and an extremely short supply in storage, there is genuine optimism among tobacco growers throughout the State.

But - the more filtered cigarettes smoked, the more strong tobacco used. The old -eye "cigarette tobacco" as we knew it and grew it 20 years ago from Carteret County east to Alexander County west may be on the way out.

WITH THE BRANDS

In 1957, as it has for several years now, Camels outsold all other cigarettes - with nary a filter. Sales of Camels were down a little over eight per cent when compared with 1956. However, Winston's, another Reynolds product, were up nearly 18 per cent over 1956 and running fourth in total sales, so there you are.

In second place last year was Pall Mall; third, Lucky Strike; fourth, Winston; fifth, Chesterfield; sixth, Viceroy; seventh, L & M; eighth, Marlboro; ninth, Philip Morris; tenth, Ool Gold, down in regulars 22 per cent, but up in filters eight per cent; Kent, another Lorillard product, up 316 per cent and in 11th place; 12th, Kool; 13th, Salem; 14th, Tureyton; 15th, Raleigh; 16th, Hit Parade; 17th, Parliament; 18th, Cavalier; 19th, Newport; 20th, Oasis.

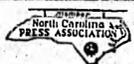

A German Shepherd dog named Rolf has made a career of finding lost objects on the Danish Island of Funen, reports the December Reader's Digest. In the past seven years, Rolf, aided by his master, Svend Anderson, has recovered almost $400,000 worth of lost watches, jewelry, tools, currency and other valuables. His master merely repeats several times the name of the thing Rolf is to find, leads him to the area and turns his loose. Anderson thinks Rolf does it by smelling out whatever does not match the other scents in the area.

Don't knock your church - it may have improved since the last time you were there.

In Revelation 11:1, John was commanded to measure the church, the worship, and the worshippers...

In the same manner we should measure the worship. Our standard, the Bible, teaches that acceptable worship must be directed to God in spirit and in truth...

Now, let us use the Bible again as the measuring reed for worshippers. First they should strive to walk in the steps of Christ...

... are measured in many ways, but somehow we like to accept the standard of achievement as evidenced by the number of fine friendships formed in our associations with the people of this area in the past.

Our New Year's wish is that we may continue to merit the goodwill of our friends who have been so loyal to us in the past.

Icy Roads Cause Wrecks

Frazzled rain Sunday night and early Monday morning turned the streets and highways in Davie County into treacherous strips of ice, causing a rash of traffic mishaps in the county.

With State Highway Patrolman T. J. Badgett enjoying a day off duty, Patrolman A. W. Cox was kept busy answering calls.

There were no serious injuries reported.

Some of the more serious accidents checked by Patrolman Cox were as follows:

7:40 a.m., Monday on Highway 601—South.

Jim Sheek James, 25, of Mocksville was driving a 1949 Plymouth, heading South, and skidded on the icy pavement on the left side of the highway.

A 1953 Ford, operated by Harriest Craven Cook, 41, of Concord, Rt. 8, heading in the direction of Mocksville, came upon the top of a hill, saw the Plymouth, and brakes were applied.

The Ford skidded, turned around and went off the road into a bank and into the Plymouth. Damage to both cars was estimated at around $800.

Around 8:15 a.m. Monday, a McLean tractor, being operated by Thomas Leake Williams, 34, of Winston-Salem, skidded on the icy pavement on Highway 158 near the Baltimore Road, went off the left side of the road and down the embankment.

Williams suffered lacerations of head and bruises. Damage to the truck was estimated at $400.

Farmer's Social Security Reports Due In January

Farmers and ranchers are reminded that the 1957 annual social security wage reports for agricultural workers are due in January, according to J. G. Leebensberger, district manager of the Salisbury social security office.

All farm or ranch workers are covered who: (1) were paid $150 or more in cash wages in 1957 by one farm employer, or (2) worked for any agricultural employer on 30 or more days during the year where the cash wages were figured on a time basis—hourly, daily, weekly, etc. It is the employer's responsibility to report the wages and remit social security tax on such wages to the Internal Revenue Service.

Any farmer or rancher who has one or more such covered employees should apply for an employer's identification number from the District Director of Internal Revenue, located at Greensboro, N. C. The Internal Revenue Service will then supply the necessary forms on which the reports are to be made. The reports call for the employer's name, social security account number, and the total cash wages paid him during the year.

The tax rate is 4 1/2% of the total wages up to $42000 in a year for each employee; 2 1/2% of this tax is withheld from the employee's pay and the other 2 1/2% is the employer's matching amount.

More detailed information may be obtained from your social security representative or your District Director of Internal Revenue.

Vernon Dull To Head Davie County Fund Drive

The quota for Davie County in the 1958 fund drive has been set at $3250, chairman Vernon Dull announced this week. Mr. Dull announced that the fund drive was now underway in each section of the county.

The March of Dimes, conducted nationally each January, is the sole support of the National Foundation and its 2,000 local county chapters. Funds contributed to the annual drive pay costs of medical care and treatment of polio victims and finances the scientific research and professional education sponsored by the National Foundation.

Mr. Dull is also chairman of the Davie County chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. Active in civic affairs, he is past-president of the Mocksville Junior Chamber of Commerce and a member of the Wesley Chapel Methodist Church.

Mr. Dull announced that the 1958 polio fund drive in the various communities would be handled by the following chairmen:

Local Firemen Are Joining Pension Plan

North Carolina firemen are losing no time taking advantage of the pension plan passed by the 1957 General Assembly. Over 1,900 members have paid $52,000 in the four months the plan has been operating. Members pay $5.00 each month until retirement in order to receive a pension of $50 each month after retirement. This fund is augmented by a levy of one per cent on fire insurance premiums paid in the area protected by the department. The one per cent rate increase was authorized by the law creating the pension plan and is paid by the policy holders.

The Mocksville Volunteer Fire Department has 11 members belonging to the plan.

All firemen belonging to departments rated class "8" or better, or rural class "A" or better are eligible for membership. This rating qualification is designed to stimulate departmental improvement in efficiency and equipment thereby improving the service rendered and lowering the accident rate among firemen. Also, insurance rates are decreased as the department's efficiency rating is improved.

Over 115 fire departments over the state are represented by the membership.

The firemen's pension will provide a supplement to social security benefits and private incomes for many firemen who have been serving their communities at considerable personal risk and expense with little or no compensation.

Schedule Given For H. D. Club Meetings

Local Sale Of License Plates Ahead Of 1957

The sale of North Carolina license plates are running slightly ahead of last year at the Mocksville office, according to an announcement this week by John E. Durham.

Mr. Durham revealed that as of Jan. 14, the sale of license plates at the local office had gone over the 1,500 mark. Last year by the Jan. 14 date, sales totaled 1,440.

The local license bureau sold a total of 8,042 of 1957 license plates last year.

The Mocksville license bureau is open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Saturday with the exception of Wednesday when the hours are from 9 a.m. to 12 noon.

Mrs. Nancy Glascock Allen, office manager of the local license bureau, urged motorists to comply with their registration card and make sure that both agree as to the motor or registration number.

Also Mrs. Allen has requested that the auto owner write the name of the county in which the car is to be registered on the top portion of the tax lister's copy of the registration card.

"The license purchaser needs only to bring two things to purchase plates," said Mrs. Allen. "These include the FS-1 or insurance certificate and the auto registration card sent out from Raleigh."

The deadline for installing 1958 license plates on motor vehicles is February 15.

WINTER WONDERLAND—Children and grown-ups alike experienced something new during the cold weather last week. The lake of J. C. Jones on the Yadkinville Highway froze over solid. At many points the ice appeared to be five or six inches thick. It was strong enough to stand up under an improvised hockey game every afternoon after school. In the above picture may be seen a few enjoying skating on the pond. These include Mrs. Dexter Byerly and children, Rita Jean and Larry; Mrs. J. C. Jones; "Pat" Sanford, Beverly Tomlinson, Everette Kelly, Donnie Jones and Gene Whitaker.

Telephone operators, as is well known, often use certain codes to speed service as they talk back and forth to each other in handling long distance calls. For example, an operator says "DA" meaning "doesn't answer" or "BY" meaning the line is "busy." An out of town reporter that an inventive operator in a town serving a rural community came up with a new code. "The number you want is OMC," she told the New York operator, who asked what OMC meant. "That means 'out milking the cows,'" was the answer.

'Let God Be True'

J. B. WHITTAKER
In Galatians 1:11, 12, we read, "But I certify you, brethren, that the gospel which was preached of me is not after man. For I neither received it of man, neither was I taught it, but by the revelation of Jesus Christ."

In a day when we are keenly aware of the virtue of certified milk, certified cottonseed, and certified public accountants, it seems the certified gospel should be welcomed by us all with open, outstretched arms — particularly since it has to do with the destiny of our never-dying souls. Jesus said: "And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." (John 8:32). Error cannot be substituted for the truth. It is to our interest, therefore, to consider the certified gospel.

The certified gospel is the original gospel. (Gal. 1:6). In order to have 'another gospel,' there had to be the original. In order to have the counterfeit, there must first be the genuine. There were "different gospels," in Paul's day and there are "different gospels" today, but it remains true that only the original can save. How may we know the difference? Any gospel that had its origin this side of the New Testament or outside of the New Testament is a human produce and is not the original gospel. Every creed written by men falls into this category, for they are necessity substitutes for the Bible.

The certified gospel is the pure gospel. (Gal. 1:7). The gospel is declared to be God's power to save. (Rom. 1:16), but power can be perverted. A perverted gospel cannot save the soul. For example: food is God's power to satisfy hunger, but a measure of poison mixed with it will destroy that power; water is the power to quench thirst, but a portion of salt mixed with it will destroy that power. Just so, the gospel is God's power to save the soul, but when human opinions and the doctrines of men are mixed with it, it becomes perverted, and, as a result, it loses its power to save. (Matt 15:9).

The certified gospel is the sufficient gospel. Gal. 1:8, 9). The certified gospel, that which Paul preached, is sufficient for all times and all peoples. A perverted gospel is not sufficient for saving souls, and the punishment for preaching such a gospel is described by the term "accursed" which means to be cut off from Christ. (Adv.)

You and Your Mail

Last week copies of this newspaper belonging to subscribers on five rural routes and one city carrier route, emanating from the Mocksville Postoffice, lay in the post-office from late Wednesday afternoon until sometime Friday morning. These newspapers carried the date of Thursday, January 9, 1958. They were scheduled for delivery by the carriers on Thursday morning.

However, Thursday morning the carriers, with the exception of one, decided that they would not deliver to their patrons the Enterprise-Record for that day. They apparently felt that they were in their right in deciding just what mail you, as a paying subscriber and taxpayer, should or should not have.

The would-be excuse offered by these employees of the United States Postal Service was that we were late getting the newspapers to the postoffice, although our delivery to the postoffice was made just prior to 6 p.m. Wednesday evening. This excuse did not hold up, however, when it was pointed out that other mail, including other newspapers, arriving at the post-office on Thursday morning was routed and delivered on schedule.

The schedule for this newspaper calls for the final press run to be made Wednesday afternoon with delivery to the post-office just as quickly as possible thereafter. In fact, we are only one of a very few non-daily newspapers that even manage to mail their newspapers during the afternoon, with most non-dailies and dailies putting the issues in the postoffice either late at night or the nearly morning of the day to be delivered.

In fact, the daily newspapers that were delivered by the carriers last Thursday did not even go to press until six hours after the Enterprise-Records were safely in the hands of all the carriers.

We had countless telephone calls from you subscribers as to why you failed to get your newspaper last Thursday. Most of you we referred to the Mocksville postoffice for your answer or excuse, because we did not have one. We feel that our responsibility towards getting you the product you pay for ends with our delivery to the postal carriers. Heretofore, we have understood that it was their sworn duty and responsibility to deliver to you your mail. We did not know that they had the right or exerted the privilege to decide just what mail they would or would not carry.

We believe it to be the duty of a mail carrier to serve the patrons of his route as courteously and efficiently as possible. We believe that you as a patron have a right to expect this type of service. We believe you have the right to expect your mail to be delivered on schedule . . . and not held up for any reason. We were shocked to learn that this holding up of mail would even take place.

The Enterprise-Record at this time wishes to notify all of its subscribers that our schedule will remain the same. We will go to press each Wednesday afternoon with our final run. Delivery will be made to the Mocksville postoffice as soon as possible thereafter. You can expect to receive your copy of the Enterprise-Record on Thursday morning deliveries. If you do not receive your copy, ask your carrier why, or contact this office.

If delivery of mail is held up again, we will seek clarification from the United States Postal Department.

Auto Liability Insurance Law

Few North Carolinians take kindly to compulsion in anything. We are a law-abiding people, on the whole, but we don't like too many laws to abide by—especially those laws which say we must do something. In that category is included North Carolina's new compulsory automobile liability insurance law which becomes effective with the purchase of our 1958 license plates.

According to this law, each of us must take out an automobile liability insurance policy before a license can be purchased. There are a few exceptions but for all intents and purposes this is a compulsory insurance law and should be recognized as such. In other words, we are compelled to buy insurance in order to use our cars. And in all probability a great many people will protest vigorously between now and the deadline of February 15.

We share this antagonism. We don't like to be forced to buy insurance, either. We also are tempted to complain against this alleged "abridgement of our rights." But as we start to complain these questions rise in the back of our mind:

What about the hundreds killed on North Carolina highways every year by financially irresponsible drivers? What about the thousands injured who never receive a penny in damages? What about the owners of millions of dollars of property destroyed, for which they have never been paid a penny?

Don't these people also have their rights?

Then we turn back the calendar a few months and re-read the statement made by Rep. Walter Jones of Pitt, the man who introduced the compulsory insurance bill in the Legislature. This is what he said:

"When a child is killed or a man maimed over the highways of North Carolina, the guilty motorist should at the very least be made to pay for the damage he has done. But as things now stand there are hundreds of thousands of drivers on our highways who can't pay, regardless of what a court may decide. That is the condition I want to remedy . . ."

Like it or not, we must admit that Mr. Jones has a strong argument. And though his law may not be perfect, up until this good day it is the best solution anyone has offered to a very real problem.

Don't we owe it to the victims to financially irresponsible drivers, and don't we owe it to ourselves, to give this new law a fair trial?

The '58 Campaign

The 1958 March of Dimes fund drive is now in progress here and throughout the nation.

This 1958 campaign opens on a note of triumph. Great achievement has been made in the long fight against infantile paralysis. Due to the Salk vaccine, the number of annual polio cases have been sharply cut. Today most adults, as well as children are protected.

With the total defeat of paralytic polio now on the horizon, everyone is deeply grateful. A curse of terrible fear gradually is being removed from our lives.

However, it would be a tragedy if, because of this coming triumph, thousands of less fortunate Americans were deprived of hope.

These thousands — people of all ages — are the ones stricken with polio this past summer and during preceding years of heartbreak epidemics. For many of them, the road back is rugged, requiring not only effort on their part by financial assistance from the rest of us.

That assistance is provided through the patient aid program of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis which has assisted almost one-third of a million polio patients since 1938. The National Foundation is also dedicated to programs of polio research and the training of urgently needed specialists in the care of the disabled. All of these vital programs must continue if we are to assist polio patients in rebuilding their lives and assuming useful places

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

This is a day of crash programs. Towns and counties that do not wake up will sure be left out.

For instance Mooresville, you read about a few days ago, found out that Charlotte had more charge accounts in their town than they had. Now Mooresville is going to take the cars off several blocks on Main Street and grade-up in the rear of their stores, and build parking lots.

The town fathers and business men of Mooresville need to start a crusade here to fix this all over.

Some of the county has already had community projects. Talk to your neighbors and get a project underway in your community. Look for real leaders and put it over county-wide. A few minutes morning and evening will change things wonderfully in less than a year. Just think each mail box dressed up, yards, roads and highways kept clear of litter will make our county very attractive.

Statesville has landed the Hunt Pen Company, which has quite a large payroll.

You can't discount Davie County people when you get them alerted to their duty of things that badly need to be done. We need to get new, wide-awake, progressive fellows to come into our town and county. They will always teach everyone something new.

The county has built several new churches. Now dress up all the others and grounds. You know we have the schools and hospital. When people are looking for a place to locate the first inquiry is about churches and schools. We have these, so if we will fix up the balance we will have the county said.

Yours truly,
J. C. DWIGGINS

WASHINGTON — Congress convened in a determined mood to repair the lagging scientific and defense posture of this nation.

JOINT SESSION

President Eisenhower came before a Joint Session of the Congress on last Thursday for his State of the Union message. I approve of the portion of the President's speech urging the strengthening of our national defense, particularly in the missile field. He recommends a program similar to that which the Senate Armed Services has been trying in vain for at least three years to induce the Defense Department to put into effect. I ap-

TEXT: "Certainty is the mother of Quietness and Responsiveness." — Coke.

A young couple sat together on their porch, appearing as miserable as any young couple could. Asked why they were so so dejected, the husband replied,

"We planted our first garden today. After thinking it over we're afraid that Sandra planted the liver pills and that she swallowed the sweet peas. However, we aren't sure and the uncertainty is killing us."

Troubles and irritations arise when we are uncertain. Year after year we worry along when, with a little effort, we could end our uncertainties. Taking time to plan; to check details; to think through problems and arrive at sound decisions, will remove uncertainty.

Financier Bernard Baruch admits that he failed in his investments until he forced himself to take the time to be certain. Certainty is not a gift to most of us. We must earn it by personal effort and sacrifice.

Once a man experiences the quietness and repose that comes with certainty, he will make every effort to be as certain as he can about everything. To be certain is one of the most peaceful and satisfying comforts that a man can draw over himself, and the most rewarding. Take time, now, to be certain.

SO THIS IS NEW YORK

By North Callahan

Probably the most conspicuous young women in New York City are the Rockettes of the Radio City Music Hall. These teen-age dancers are a marvel of precision as they swing their shapely legs in perfect unison during their arm-locked chorus dance across the great stage. Such precision does not come easy. The usual day of these days is from 7:30 a.m. to 11:30 at night — a 16 hour day with only short breaks now and then from rehearsal and performance. Recently, the ballerina of the group had to work overtime. She was supposed to "fly" across the stage, suspended from strong wires. Somehow the mechanism got stuck and she remained stationary, high in mid-air. But that was not all. She had to stay up there 18 minutes while the stage people of two unions argued over who was to bring her down.

Three huge fire engines, two hook and ladder trucks and 49 firemen — I counted 'em — converged in a loud furor on 39th Street and Lexington Avenue. These in charge hopped hurriedly off and looked around for the fire, for which an alarm had been turned in. They found it, all right. It was the blazing engine of a taxicab at the curb, which its excited driver was already plying with a hand fire extinguisher.

Ted Ellis, an interior decorator of Tampa, Fla., was walking with a friend down Broadway not long ago. Pausing in front of the old Maxine Elliott Theater, Ted remarked casually, "This is where I appeared on the stage in 1929." The friend scoffed. "The play was 'Broken Dishes,' the stars were Ette Davis and Donald Meek." Ted continued unabashed, "and O. O. McIntyre SENATOR ONLY . . . "I've always been active and I want to get back in the harness," said Lindsay Warren of Washington, N. C., last week in announcing he would be a candidate for the State Senate this year.

More than one Raleigh political soothsayer, always on the hunt, said: "Lindsay Warren may be your next Governor."

Poosh and path. Not that the people would not elect Lindsay Warren — even though he will be 70 when the Governor's race comes around again — but he demonstrated over a period of 40 years that he did not care too much about being Governor.

We would say he has been mentioned for the place more than any other living man in Eastern North Carolina. One more mention is high compliment to his vigor and to the love everybody has for him.

FIFTY-SIX . . . The man who seems to be getting around the most as candidate for speaker of the House in next year's General Assembly is Addison Hewlett of New Hanover County.

On Tuesday of last week we heard he had 54 of the 120 votes in the House lined up for him. Then, down the street Saturday, an old friend of Add's told us it had moved to 50.

That sounds good, real good but sometimes these legislators won't stay hitched. They have a way of rubbing off the bride. One or two have been known in the not too distant past to promise their votes rather carelessly. Our advice to Addison Hewlett, to Speaker Candidate Carl Venters of Onslow County, and to Speaker Candidate Tom White of Lenoir: See those who are sure to be back — see them once, twice or three times. Guess good on new men, see him before Primary, and at least twice thereafter — if he makes it.

PUBLICIST . . . O. Mac White, former Raleigh Times reporter, has been employed by the N. C. Automobile Dealers Association. Head of this organization is Mrs. L. Y. Ballentine, whose husband is now and then mentioned as a candidate for Governor in 1960.

ANOTHER SEARCH . . . As of Saturday afternoon, Jan. 11, the search began in Charlotte in search for a candidate who would offer himself against GOP Congressional Incumbent C. R. Jones.

First requirement: he must be a Democrat. He must be a man in good health. He should be prominent in party circles—with the fanatic zeal of a Stephan, a John the Baptist, a Joan of Arc, Tenth District Democrats had been hoping Jones would get one of those new traveling Federal judgeships — but that hasn't worked out.

CLARK . . . Most likely prospect to oppose C. R. Jones is David Clark, 36 year old veteran legislator (four terms) who also lives in Lincolnton. Odds are he will whip Jones in their home county — but Mecklenburg is mean. On the other hand, Clark Good Friend Luther Hodges may persuade him to return to Raleigh. The Governor will need his help in 1959.

Jones had no serious difficulty with the man who opposed him in 1952, 1954 and 1956 — and all three, Ham Jones, J. C. Sedberry and Ben Douglas — were from Mecklenburg.

SLOW . . . In the first seven days of automobile license sales this year a total of 54,537 were sold, according to the N. C. Dept. of Motor Vehicles.

In the first seven days of 1957, total sales were: 93,209. Why the difference?

NUMBERS GAME . . . You probably read about the two men in Winston-Salem whose eagerness to get the first license plate sold there led to such a rucous. Similar incidents have occurred in Raleigh several times.

One of them stayed up most of the night. You thought it was silly — and so did the millions of others who read about it throughout the United States. In the old days around Raleigh here, they had an awful time of it deciding what State official would get 9, 64, 52, 5 — and so on — and on.

Somebody said the State Supreme Court judges were not given low enough numbers — and so came the J-1, J-2, J-3. Why? The search for the Feeling of Importance — that never-ending quest.

"OLD NO." . . . At least one veteran State official who got the same number year after year was not known in his neighborhood by his name — or was never referred to by name, but as "Old Seven and Seven." That wasn't the number, but you in the know would recognize it if we gave it here.

Finally, he — thanks to the people — got a high number again. He recovered his real name in the neighborhood, the name was gone. We hear that one of the first things Kerr Scott did when he became Commissioner of Agriculture was to ask for a high license number. "I don't want 'em pointing to me as I ride along the highway," he is reported to have said.

YOU MEAN CIGARETTES? . . . One of the more able freshmen in the 1957 General Assembly was Frank Snepp, young Charlotte attorney.

He probably didn't mean to but last week got the whole tobacco industry spotlight turned on him through his statement that cancer control discussion would have a high place on the agenda of the next Legislature.

You're flirting with a whirlwind, Frank, for our tobacco people are getting sensitive as all get-out.

CONVENTIONS . . . Due to the fact that it has such good hotel facilities, Winston-Salem is one of the leading convention cities in the South. It attracts all sorts of people and professions.

We see by the papers that in February the American College of Surgeons' Twin City convention will be followed by the North Carolina Cemetery folks.

SOUTHERNER . . . This reminds us of the Hartford, Conn., socialite who told her parents she was engaged to this senator at Duke whose father was a "big Southern planter."

A little investigation by the old folks showed the boy's father operated a funeral home in Greensboro.

HOW TO . . . Speaking of meetings, one to tell you how to organize and operate a merchants association or chamber of commerce will be held at the University of North Carolina on Feb. 23-24.

Sponsored by the N. C. Merchants Association, the clinic will begin at Carolina Inn on Sunday evening Feb. 23, and continue through luncheon on Feb. 24.

One of the speakers will be Dwight Havens of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce in Washington, D. C. Another will be Charles Gaylord, president of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce-Merchants Association - Credit Bureau. This organization won the Allstate cup as the best in its population bracket last year.

Two years ago it was bankrupt — in members and money. Gaylord will tell you how they established a new industry and brought it from darkness to daylight within a few months.

WHY?

Do We Call It "CHICAGO?"

Indians called the area Chekagou meaning "place of skunk smells," because wild onions and skunk cabbage grew on the spot. In view of later stockyard odors, they were only mildly prophetic. First spelling "Chekagou" appeared in 1884 on a map published in Quebec.

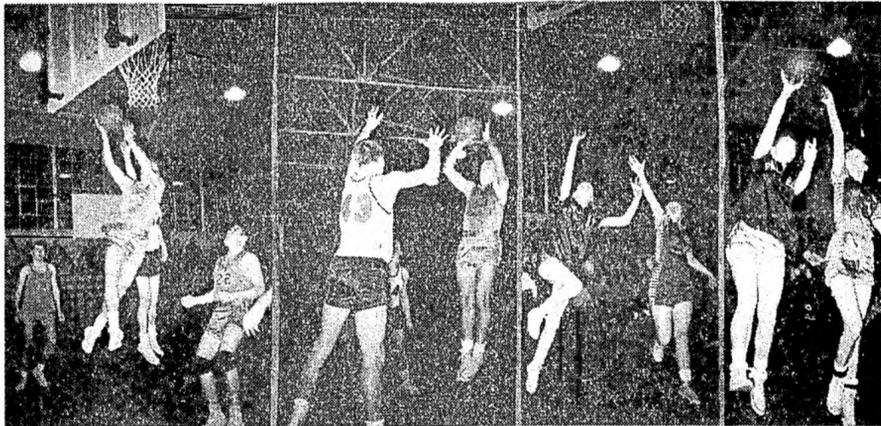

Oljwas recognized Shekagou as a natural cross roads, a great portage place. So of course did shipping companies and railroads; and ever since people have been carrying their bags from station to another in Chicago.

Indians were removed from the area in 1833. Union Stockyards opened in 1865.

WHILE CAR PRICES WENT UP THROUGHOUT THE INDUSTRY, THE PRICE OF THIS CAR WENT DOWN

Here's good news: Ford has priced many of its '58 models lower than corresponding 1957 models! Ford Custom 300's are priced as much as $50 lower than last year. This is based on a comparison of manufacturers' suggested retail delivered prices.

Who'd ever guess it's the lowest priced of the low-price three

In case you haven't yet gotten around to pricing this elegantly styled '58 Ford Custom 300, put your mind at ease. When you compare manufacturers' suggested retail delivered prices, you'll find that this Ford is priced lower than any sedan in its field. And Ford has the lowest-priced station wagon and convertible, too!

But price isn't everything. The '58 Ford was the first car ever to use the "who's world" as its test track! This meant taking the all-new Interceptor V-8, combining it with new Cruise-O-Matic Drive, and tackling some of the roughest roads we could find on three continents. In The Battle Against Polio GIVE GENEROUSLY

FREEDOM TO BREATHE—A 30-YEAR EPIC OF SCIENCE

In 1928, the iron lung was invented. It was a grim device, but for many it meant the difference between life and death. A campaign to better the bare existence of iron lung survival started in 1938 with the formation of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. Here, in pictures, is the story of progress supported by the March of Dimes.

1 The traditional iron lung used over the years and still needed in severe cases. Here, obviously, there is no freedom of movement.

2 The chest respirator developed in 1949 represented a long deep breath toward a more normal life for polio sufferers.

3 Eight years later came the "breathing bell". It compresses and expands patient's diaphragm, offers still more freedom.

4 The most recent development of all, the 1957 "peace pipe," is merely a small plastic tube through which air is pumped.

Rebels Play Lexington Here Friday

Davie County High School basketball teams will meet the strong Lexington teams here Friday night. The girls' game will get underway at 7 p.m.

Davie teams have been idle since playing Children's Home here last Friday night.

The Rebels, playing minus their star forward, Edith Smith, bowed to the Home lassies, 50-32.

The boys, however, bested the Children's Home 46-37 to get out of the North Piedmont cellar.

Davie boys held a 21-16 lead at halftime and then increased it to 37-24 after three periods. The Methodist won the fourth quarter by scoring 11 points to Davie's nine, but couldn't catch up.

Moody Hepler, Clarence Driver and Duffy Daniel tessed in 12 points each for Davie.

The Children's Home took a 27-14 halftime lead and then outscored Davie, 23-18, in the second half to post its second win against three losses. The Rebels' net now have a 3-3 record.

Lorraine McDaniel was the big gun for the Rebels with 17 points.

Postal Receipts Set New Record

Postal receipts for 1957 at the Mocksville postoffice set an all time high. Worth Hendricks, acting postmaster, revealed this week.

Postal receipts for 1957 showed a 22 per cent increase over the calendar year of 1956. Receipts for 1957 totalled $53,125.33, which was $9,654.04 more than the 1956 total of $43,471.19.

Money orders issued during 1957 also showed a gain over 1956. In 1957 money orders were issued in the amount of $358,719.47 at the Mocksville postoffice, as compared to $335,818.66 in 1956. Money order fees for 1957 totalled $4,594.55 as compared to $3,980.35 for 1956.

It was estimated at least 85 per cent of the increase in postal receipts was accomplished through bulk letter, or first class mail.

The Mocksville postmaster pointed out the large increase in mail volume was handled without any increase in postal employees.

He expressed his appreciation to the post office patrons for their cooperation in mailing early and at normally slow periods for the local office during the heavy Christmas rush period.

The office handled the increased December mail with the same extra help which it has utilized the past several years. Mr. Hendricks said.

Jaycees Seeking Outstanding Young Farmer For Davie County

Mail Box On Square

A mail collection box was placed on the square at the corner of the Bank of Davie, Tuesday afternoon.

Worth Hendricks, acting postmaster, announced that this box was being placed there for the convenience of the town's business establishments. He urged that mail for this box be posted early and often.

All mail put in this box by 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday, will go out on the last dispatch of the day. The complete schedule of pickups from this box is as follows:

8:45 a.m. each morning and 1:15 p.m. each afternoon, Monday through Friday. On Saturday the mail will be picked up from this box at 8:45 a.m. and 5 p.m., and on Sunday there will be only one pickup, 6:30 a.m.

Any person in the county knowing of an outstanding young farmer was asked this week by the Mocksville Junior Chamber of Commerce to nominate him for possible awards and recognition as the Jaycee - sponsored Outstanding Young Farmer project got underway.

According to Sheek Bowden, Jr., project chairman, nomination forms are now available from Jaycee officers and at the Davie County Farm Agent's office and the Davie Tractor and Implement Company.

The "farmer" search is aimed at honoring the community's agriculturalists who have made exceptional career progress without neglecting good conservation practices or responsible roles in community life. Jaycees also hope that a better understanding of the farmer and his problems will result — and that more young people will become interested in farming as a lifetime career.

All farmers aged 21-30, not becoming 30 during 1957, are eligible for nomination. Nominees may be land owners or renters. The local search is part of a nation wide effort now taking place in some 1,500 American communities, sponsored nationally by the American Petroleum Institute, committee on agriculture, and the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce.

After community judging, Jaycees will enter Davie County's winner in the state finals. He will be eligible to represent the state in national competition and may win an all-expense trip to Indianapolis, Indiana, next April for the national awards program. There, America's Four Outstanding Young Farmers of 1957 will be selected and honored.

Deadline for local nominations is Feb. 15, 1958, according to Mr. Bowden, and he added: "We hope to be deluged with nominations for Davie County certainly has its share of exceptional farmers."

The public is invited to attend. Refreshments will be served.

Mayor Durham Seeks Kitten

By GORDON TOMLINSON

If anyone sees Mayor John E. Durham walking about and calling: "Come kitty . . . kitty . . . kitty!" there is a reason.

The reason came in the form of a letter from Asheville to the mayor of Mocksville asking for his assistance in helping find a lost kitty. The letter appears as follows, with my taking the personal liberty to inject what may have been the mayor's thoughts as he read this epistle. These projected thoughts appear in parentheses.

Mr. Mayor, Dear Sir:

I hope you are a kind and understanding man (mm, mm, mm—I wonder what this person wants?) because I want to ask a favor of you that most men would consider too trivial to be bothered with. (Yea, here it comes. Problem: I want to borrow $5 or have me fix a parking ticket).

I live in the country near Asheville, and in route to Winston-Salem I lost my kitten, nearly grown, in your town on Dec. 5th. (Frightened people to be dumping stray dogs around here but now they've started losing cats).

If you would be so good as to advise me as to whom I could appeal to for help in finding it, I would never cease to be grateful to you. (Well, that's pretty nice. Maybe I could get the policeman or some of the town employees help look for the cat).

I live alone and it was a dear companion and pet. The loss has grieved me so that I guess I am doing an unheard of thing writing to you for help, but I don't even know if you have a humane society or newspaper. (Wonder if she thought her cat got lost in a hick town. Of course we've got a newspaper and the town board could probably be considered a humane society).

The kitten is a female, part Persian, gold in color, with white feet, breast and face. (Mmm . . . must be quite a kitten. Wonder how it purrs).

If you know of anyone who has seen her or any agency or person who could help me, would you take time to send the information to me? (Well, I guess I can tell her we're looking for her cat).

It would make my Christmas the best time of the year, as it has always been, if I could have her back. (I sure hope I can find the cat. I have a good notion advertising that anyone finding

Acreege Reserve Sign-Up For '58 Now Underway

The sign-up period for placing cotton and tobacco in the 1958 Acreege Reserve Program began on Jan. 13, 1958. Through the first week 140 tobacco agreements had been signed placing 104,99 acres in the Acreege Reserve. During this time 291 cotton agreements had been signed placing 744.8 acres of cotton in the Acreege Reserve.

At the present time no more cotton agreements are being taken. The sign-up was heavy in most areas and no more agreements will be taken until we are notified by the State AEC Office. Farmers who wish to place cotton in the Acreege Reserve should come by the A.S.C. Office and put in their requests. If funds become available for cotton they will be notified to come in and sign agreements. Agreements are still being taken on tobacco.

The initial sign-up period for requesting conservation practices is being held in the Davie A.S.C. Office at the present time. The sign-up period will continue through Jan. 31. Any farmer who plans on carrying out a conservation practice this spring should come by the A.S.C. Office and put in their request. All requests will be considered and approvals given as soon as the sign-up period closes.

Premeasurement of Crops Official premeasurement of tobacco and cotton acreage is available to Davie County farmers. The cost to the farmer will be the larger of $8 per farm or $1 per acre. Requests for premeasurement will be taken between Jan. 27 and Feb. 7. Any farmer who wishes to get his cotton or tobacco premeasured should put up their deposit during this period.

FACES A CHALLENGING FUTURE

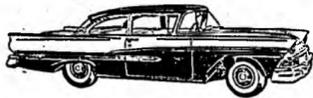

North Carolina State Ports at Morehead City and Wilmington are opening a new door to opportunity and to the outside world. They are becoming a growing factor in our overall industrial development, as well as an economic advantage for fast efficient service to all shippers in the State. North Carolina is now a regular port-of-call for freighters. Even ocean cruises are originating from N. C. ports. Their future has but one way to go—up!

Both Morehead City and Wilmington are hospitable cities, with the enlightened viewpoint typical of their surrounding areas which subscribe to the "legal control" system for the sale of beer and ale—a system that has proven to be in the best interests of all the people.

Grass Roots Opera Here on Jan. 27

The Nationally known Grass Roots Opera Company will appear Monday, Jan. 27, at 1 p.m. and at 8 p.m. under the sponsorship of the Mocksville PTA at the school auditorium. Mesdames Jack Sanford and Ed Short announced that they may be contacted for tickets or tickets may be secured at the door. The performance will be sung in English, and the translation of the libretto will be a recent one.

You will not want to miss this delightful Viennese operetta. Enjoy the fun when the romantic husband finds out that the beautiful woman he pursued at the party was really his OWN wife in disguise. See how his friend outdoes him in the practical joke department when the Fledermaus of "The Bat" seeks his revenge. Get out your waltzing shoes now. You're sure to need them for toe tapping to the tunes when you see The Fledermaus.

The visual appeal of opera has always been one of its greatest attractions. The visual appeal of the current season's offering, Johann Strauss' Fledermaus, will rate very high.

To begin with, the singers themselves will be quite attractive. Remember - this is not grand opera of the buxom foreign prima donna in her forties (age and dress size) with her two stiff gestures as she sings a love song to the rotund tenor in his platform shoes and three inch heels; this is intimate, fresh, and alive "grass roots" opera sung in English by handsome young professional American singers who can make the characters real not only with their music, but also with their appearance onstage. Twenty-six is the average age of the ten young troupers on the roster of the Grass Roots Opera Company for the 1957-1958 season. Only one of the six men is under six feet tall, and he just misses the mark by an inch. The four women of the Company are on the smallest side, both in height and weight.

The costumes they will wear in Fledermaus have been designed and executed by Margaret Carney of Texas who has done all the costumes for the operas taken on national tour by the Company the past two seasons. These were Clara's Secret Marriage, Mozart's Cost Fan Tutte, and Rossini's Barber of Seville. In Waco, Texas, where she is General Director of the local Grass Roots Opera Group and Musical Director-Designer for the Music Theatre, Mrs. Carney has recently done costumes for Menotti's Amahl and the Night Visitors and for the musical, Carousel, and was costume consultant for the assembling of authentic Japanese costumes for the Baylor School of Music's production of Puccini's Madame Butterfly. She holds the Master of Arts degree from Baylor University where she has taught Opera Literature, and has studied costume and set design with Virgil Beavers of the famous Baylor Experimental Theater and with Elwell of New York, designer for CBS. Mrs. Carney, who has sung in opera, studies the music carefully before designing her costumes. Her Fledermaus costume designs were created from the music of this sparkling operetta and from the colors found in the names of some of the most famous Strauss Waltzes.

The sets for this Grass Roots Opera production of Fledermaus, designed and built by two North Carolinians, Margot Gladding and James Hall of Kinston, also reflect the gay music of Johann Strauss and will add much to the visual enjoyment of the opera. These colorful and ingenious sets solve the problems of quick mounting and easy transportation for this touring company without sacrificing any of the illusion of this make-believe world of good live stage entertainment.

When all of this and the "Champagne Music" of Johann Strauss' Fledermaus is put together by the brilliant young Vienna born director pianist, Frederick Popper of New York, the result certainly should fulfill the aim of the National Grass Roots Opera Company. That aim, as stated by its founder, A. J. Fletcher, Raleigh, attorney and businessman and National Chairman of Grass Roots Opera for the National Federation of Music Clubs, is to bring "opera in English as Good Entertainment For Everybody."

Safety Idea of The Century

We have listened for many years—as the traffic fatalities mounted—to the pious statement that highway safety is just a matter of education.

But now, at long last, and for the first time in the history of the automobile, comes a practical, workable proposal for effective, nation-wide driver-training.

This idea of the century comes from Bill France, founder and president of NASCAR, the National Association for Stock Car Racing, who journeyed to Washington at the close of the year to lay before the President's Committee for Traffic Safety a program for licensing automobile drivers as realistically as airplane pilots.

Specifically, Mr. France urged the use of the nearly 2,000 race courses over the nation by local authorities as off-the-highway testing centers. He also submitted plans that have been drawn up for a special NASCAR driver safety test area which could be established at any of these courses with a minimum of effort and expense. He pointed out that there is practically no community in the United States that is not within driving distance of one of these courses.

Mr. France says his goal is to make highway travel as safe as a ride on a merry-go-round and points out the folly of testing drivers on quiet streets at 25 mph and expecting that his could qualify them for handling cars under present highway conditions and at speeds of 40 to 55 mph or more.

Mr. France also told the President's Committee that it is reported that there are over two and a half million licensed drivers on the roads who have never undergone tests of any kind.

Instead of the present unrealistic testing or lack of it, Mr. France believes ordinary drivers should be able to demonstrate their ability to cope with emergency conditions. Such demonstrations and tests could be carried on in safety on the race courses.

Included in this free offer to the nation's traffic authorities and people at large would be the use of NASCAR's own world-famous track at Daytona Beach, Fla. And, by way of demonstrating the sort of driver-training and testing that is possible on tracks designed for stock car racing, two special events—typical of highway driving—are being added to the International Safety and Performance Trials to be held Feb. 9-23.

Traffic and safety officials in every community in the nation, we think, will be eager for the use of such facilities which afford, at last, some fool-proof means of driver testing that can give new meaning to a license and new safety to our highways.

Studies on Smoking

Scientists who have been studying the possible relationship between lung cancer and cigarette smoking, and who profess to have found a statistical association, now have reason to question the reliability of their statistical method.

The confusion in the scholarly ranks arises from the ten-year studies of thousands of workers in the nine plants of The American Tobacco Company who have been found to smoke more and live longer than the rest of us—with average or lower-than-average death rates for cancer, lung cancer and heart disease.

R. H. Rigdon, M.D., Professor of Pathology at the University of Texas and author of scientific papers on cancer pathology and statistical studies of cancer incidence, advises the researchers on cigarette smoking that the company study by H. B. Haag, M.D., Professor of Pharmacology, Medical College of Virginia and H. R. Hamner, Research Director of the company, is "very difficult to refute."

Dr. Rigdon says of the Haag - Hamner report:

"I have had an opportunity to review the data of the smoking histories in which this study was made. It is my opinion that his survey is the best that has been published. The techniques used to establish the amount smoked (nearly twice the U. S.

average) emphasizes the uncertainty of the data obtained by others, even including myself."

Smoking habits of the group studied were measured by the Institute of Statistics of the University of North Carolina. Morality data for 1946-1952 were calculated and published by Dr. Harold F. Dorn, and Dr. William S. Baum of the U. S. Public Health Service, and extended for 1953-1956 by Haag and Hamner.

"The existence of such a population," concludes the Haag-Hamner study, "makes it evident that cigarette smoking per se is not necessarily or invariably associated with a higher risk of lung cancer or cardiovascular disease or with diminished longevity."

No one has yet proved, of course, that making cigarettes is a healthier occupation than cutting timber, drilling oil wells, or keeping books. Nor should we deduce that the way to more robust health is to smoke more cigarettes. However, this new evidence does suggest that there may have been something wrong with the population "sampling" methods used by other investigators.

The study of all the people in a given population should provide more accurate answers than a here-and-there sampling method.

American Science

With the widespread clamor we hear these days to the effect that Sputnik emphasizes the inadequacy of American scientific research and development, the average man in the street might well imagine that the Russian advantage extends to all areas of science. This is not so.

Whatever temporary advantage Mr. Krushchev's scientists may have in the matter of missiles and earth satellites is dramatized by their death-dealing implications. However, we can be heartened by news, delivered without fanfare and international repercussions, of a breakthrough scored by American scientists in the area of life extension and preservation.

This captured no headlines, although well it might.

The American Sterilizer Company of Erie, Pennsylvania, quietly announced it was manufacturing equipment for raising animals, rats, mice, hamsters, guinea pigs, under absolutely perfect conditions . . . in short, GERM FREE LIFE!

Their equipment permits the animal to pass from the parent breeding it into an extended life in which the atmosphere and complete environment are sterile. No contamination or infection interferes with the normal growth and development of the creature.

This roughly approximates in scientific significance the splitting of the atom. It is a notable break through.

It's application is already foreordained in a score of ways. Laboratories using animals that are born and nurtured under germ-free conditions can eliminate several variable factors in their tests. This will result in an economy in the use of such animals since some laboratories use thousands a month. The time span for many experiments can be reduced from years to months, or even weeks.

It has vast implications in the field of organic culture, experiments in controlled environment, dust and smoke control. Not least significant is the fact that breakthroughs such as this make it possible for other discoveries to make our way of life better and better.

Don't sell American science short!

In Spain's southern provinces entire communities live below ground in natural caves, the National Geographic Magazine says. Their homes vary just as houses do; some have only a single room, others as many as 20 chambers with tiled floors and whitewashed walls. Grandpa's caverns, a center of flamenco art, have sheltered many of Spain's finest singers and dancers.

WASHINGTON REPORT

By SENATOR W. KERR SCOTT

WASHINGTON — There were very few surprises in the testimony of Secretary of Agriculture Benson last Friday before the Senate Agriculture Committee, but everyone in North Carolina should be concerned with the recommendations he made on tobacco.

His ideas on tobacco—as well as other crops — were no surprise because he has advertised them rather extensively during the past few months.

In brief, he wants authority to set price support level for all basic crops, including tobacco, as he sees fit anywhere between 80 and 90 per cent of parity. In addition to this, he wants authority to set, with certain limitations, acreage allotments. There are other parts of his proposals that are far-reaching, but these seem to be the most revolutionary and certainly the most important to our economy in North Carolina.

At the outset, I'd like to say that I don't think Congress will dignify his recommendations with very much consideration. I think any fair-minded person would agree that to do what he proposes would destroy farming and rural life as we know it. His recommendations would spell the doom of family size farms and turn over our entire farm economy to big farm operators.

In a part of his presentation, the Secretary singled out tobacco for some extremely unfair criticism. He accused the tobacco farmers of making too much money. He strongly feels that the price of tobacco is about twice as high as it ought to be.

I thought his criticism of tobacco was grossly unfair because he failed to take into account—or mention as such — the drastic acreage cuts tobacco farmers have taken to keep supply and demand as nearly in line as possible. He also failed to give the tobacco program any credit for operating in the black and without losses to the taxpayers.

He gave strong implications that if given the authority, he would almost immediately make drastic reductions in tobacco price supports.

I imagine some additional quantities of tobacco could be moved in the export markets if we cut our prices, but there are compelling reasons for not making such cuts. If we cut the prices of our tobacco to the place where it would compete — price-wise — with other nation's flue-cured tobacco, the price would be so low that our farmers — regardless of size — would lose money. Rhodesian tobacco sells for about 35 cents per pound.

We could go after the same markets as Rhodesia, that is true, but we would lose money on every pound of tobacco we sold at 35 cents. This seems to be a major point that Secretary Benson can't understand.

Generally speaking, I think he has reached the point where it is impossible for him to understand the problems of tobacco. He has always been opposed to it. I am certain, and would favor doing away with the tobacco program entirely.

His latest attempt to destroy it will fail, however, because I am certain Congress will not hear of

Letters To The Editor

Salisbury, N. C. Jan. 15, 1958

Dear Mr. Editor:

As I am no longer connected with the Rowan - Davie Heart Association as executive secretary, I would like to express to the citizens of Mocksville and Davie County my appreciation for their many volunteer services.

The cooperation of the public and their endeavors to promote better health determine the progress of the health agency.

During the time I have served Davie County it has been my aim as secretary to help inform people of the aspects of heart association work and to stand ready to help locate and make use of treatment facilities.

It has been gratifying to have had a part in the development of the Rowan - Davie Heart Association.

Sincerely,
MRS. MILDRED BYRD

adopting his recommendations. I think the same is true of most of the proposals he made last week.

is a question over which great debate will be required; there are so many high pressure generalities about foreign aid that the issue is wholly confused. I oppose it as a permanent instrument of foreign policy.

Unless the economy can carry the tax burden, already heavy, we cannot support the enormous expenditures asked by the President. The Administration presently estimates that the Federal Government will conclude this fiscal year with a deficit of $400 million. In view of the business and farm decline the President's prediction of a balanced budget for fiscal 1959 without tax increase seems highly optimistic.

Our national debt now stands at around $271 billion. This means the equal of $1,469.44 for each individual. Congress is asked to increase the statutory debt limit now $275 billion, by another $5 billion. The argument is to give a better operating procedure as the debt is now too close to the limit for fiscal comfort.

POSTAGE INCREASE

I am asked whether or not the first class letter postage rate will be raised to five cents as advocated by President Eisenhower. I do not believe it will. While I am not a member of that committee, my guess is that the rate may be increased to four cents and that the White House is using this as a horse-trade approach.

NEW CONSTITUTION . . . We are having a lot of Newness around here — such as the motor pool, the Governor's parlor, the Department of Administration, and the "new concept," whatever that is — but there may be a slight delay in the new State Constitution.

Despite instructions to the Constitution Commission to report to the Governor with its recommendations by November 16, there is little chance that the 1959 Legislature will take any action.

It is difficult for any Governor to come up with far-reaching changes during his second Legislative session.

FEAR . . . You won't get one of them to admit it, but there is real fear of losing their jobs among some of the "uneducated" teachers at the new Wake Forest College.

As for us, we'd rather have — at Duke our alma mater, or Wake Forest — a straight AB or MA man who knows the school and its people than one of these traveling doctors from Tlumbuktu.

There are those at Wake Forest who would trade tradition, spirit, warmth, love, and the other fine old feelings that built it for doctors who know nothing of its past and care little for its future.

Colleges, like human beings, can't become too immaculate. When they do, the Soul of the School is gone, finished, dead, and done. We happen to know some influential Wake Forest alumni — supporters of Dr. Harold Tribble, too — who are ready to go to the defense of some of the "uneducated" at Wake — if need be. More on this later.

BEER, WINE, AND WHISKEY . . . It's getting so that alcoholic beverages stay in the papers almost as much as the Baptists. It's Glenmore, Tom Allen, Willard Cole and no more free liquor for special dinners of Democrats.

OUT . . . Bill Johnson is out as executive secretary of the N. C. Association of Beer Distributors. This was not Bill's fault, exactly. In other words he could have stayed if he'd wanted to. But he has made good political connections, is a brother in law to Secretary of State Thad Eure (they married sisters — and is making good money as special emissary for the State's outstanding insurance company.

Tom Allen is out with the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board and in with the veterans — if they will leave him alone.

COLE . . . Willard Cole lost out last week as public relations man with U. S. Brewers Foundation, Cole, native of Wilkes County and to Raleigh via a Pulitzer Prize in Whiteville, was reported in the hospital a few days ago.

But nobody said — at least not for publication — that he was turned out because of bad health. Head man for U. S. Brewers in North Carolina, personable Ray Galloway, said he and Cole parted the best of friends. Cole said the same thing. Ray, well connected, is solid as a rock.

WINE . . . So, the beer per se, some situation is unsettled; the whiskey setup seems unstable; and nothing is heard from the wine industry. But they are having their troubles, too, of a different kind. There is no more lovable figure in public life in North Carolina than Capers White. He is one of these old men who never grows old. Living with his wife in a Carolina hotel apartment, Capers White is an old pitcher who knows his way around. Difficulty in the wine business is laxity in credit. They sell to almost anybody. The supermarkets are good pay; some of the other outlets are terrible; and so there you are. All got troubles.

THE SUBS . . . When Governor Luther Hodges is out of town, pinch-hitting duties are said to be divided among Assistant Ed Rankin, Treasurer Edwin Gill, C & D Head Harold Makepeace, Paroles Chief George Randall, and Assistant Paul Johnson. When he is gone, see one of these.

MORE JOY . . . Although State College has found a new Joy in football, its biggest kicks still come with its basketball team. We were around when State look Carolina in that 100 degree climate last September. Of course we were there when State tied Duke last fall on the gridiron.

But we could say that the joy among students and alumni from these victories was small compared with that welling up over the State College campus last week when State took Carolina on the basketball court.

The din was terrific in West Raleigh for a few hours late that night.

BIG FAMILY . . . You people who have big families don't despise their making good. Luther Hodges, our Governor, comes from a big family. He lost a sister last week. Mrs. Blanche Hodges Crews, 71, of Roanoke, Va. He still has living five sisters and two brothers, all citizens of Leaksville or Draper, two important segments of Tri-City in Rockingham County.

NOTES . . . We have heard special broadcasts on NBC's Monitor from North Carolina within the past six months: Tabor City's Sweet Potato Festival, Benson's Mule Day, the three robberies reported from Angier, Bank, and the full report on the Indians and Ku Klux Klan from Maxton. That's publicly you just can't buy.

Sports Illustrated has a great big one page picture of North Carolina's Old Sportsman Luther Hodges this week. . . He won't call it that, but if Raleigh Attorney and YDC Bigwig John R. Jordan runs for the State Senate from Wake County, it's going to be anti - Hodges. He will be taking on Jimmy Poyner, Hodges' good friend, and Tom Ellis, law partner of J. C. B. Ehringhaus, Jr. . . It looks now as if Jordan, if he runs, will have the support of the Raleigh News and Observer and most of the thousands of State employees here.

News from down in sprawling Halifax County is that former Sen. Julian Allsbrook may try to unseat his successor, W. Lunsford Crew, who has beaten Allsbrook and served three regular terms. Allsbrook has not been too active in local politics in recent years.

We hear from Winston - Salem that studious, erudite Winfield Blackwell is considering trying to unseat New Fifth District Congressman Ralph J. Scott, who bent out Thurmond Chatham two years ago. . . Winfield Blackwell will have a hard time beating Scott. SBI Director Walter Anderson, former police chief in Charlotte and Winston - Salem, has helped organize a total of 37 Methodist Churches in North Carolina.

TEXT: "Selfishness is the greatest curse of the human race — Gladstone"

A six year old child visited her cousin overnight. After she had gone to bed her mother heard her sobbing with heartbreak.

"What's the trouble, dear?" her mother asked.

"Janet won't give me any of her peanuts," cried the child.

"But Janet hasn't any peanuts."

"I know," sobbed the little child, "but she said if she did have any peanuts she wouldn't give me any."

Selfishness is a human trait. Most of us like to keep what we have; to protect what we hope to have. We are unconsciously, selfish. We find it difficult to know where necessary conservation ends and selfishness begins.

There is a simple question that provides a good gauge for measuring selfishness. To decide whether or not we are being selfish, ask, "Suppose everyone did it?"

Suppose everyone did what we are thinking of doing. What would happen? If it would be unfair for everyone to do, then it is unfair for the individual to do that. That rule is nearly 100 per cent perfect. You can use it continually to good advantage. Try it. The next time you get for your own advantage, stop. Ask yourself, "Suppose everyone did it?" What then? That's worth thinking about.

'Let God Be True' Close-Ups On Channel 12

Remember the story of the blind men from Hindustan who examined the elephant. One felt only of the coil-like trunk and said, "The elephant is like a snake." Another felt only of the ear and said, "The elephant is like a fan." Still another felt only of the massive side and said, "The elephant is like a wall." And yet another, feeling only of the tail, said, "The elephant is like a rope." A man who could see stood by and beholding the elephant as a whole said, "All are partly in the right, but all are in the wrong."

Many people examine the Bible in the same manner in which the blind men examined the elephant. Many will fall upon Ephesians 2:8 and declare "that the grace of God is the only thing involved in man's salvation. No one making any pretense of believing in God would deny that we are saved by the grace of God. That is not the issue. The issue is: are we saved by that grace alone? A clear examination of the text itself will show the error in such a position. "For by grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves: it is the gift of God: not of works, lest any man should boast." All are agreed "by grace" is God's part. It is indeed the gift of God: not of works, nor of ourselves, lest any man should boast. But whose part is "through faith?" Surely no one would say that is God's part, too. No, that is man's part. Let's consider another scripture, as the blind men should have examined other parts of the elephant, and get the picture. "... without faith it is impossible to please God: for he that cometh to God must believe that he is." Heb. 11:6. Hence, through faith which moves man to cometo God, he appropriates the Father's grace.

Many other people, like the blind men, will fall upon and isolate other such passages and teach that we are saved by faith only. Many doctrines of men which tickle men's ears are built around one such isolated passage of scripture.

None of the elephant's parts are antagonistic to other parts. All of his parts function in perfect harmony. Just so, we read in the scriptures that "God is not the author of confusion." I Cor. 14:33. God's word is in perfect harmony in all its parts. (Adv.) Jericho church of Christ

Are you a "litterbug?" Shame on you! It cost $250,000.00 a year to clean up the trash we throw along our North Carolina roadsides. Therefore throwing trash in our streets, highways, and parks is not only poor manners, but poor business as well. It doesn't make sense for us to throw out trash and then hire some one to pick it up.

The trouble is it's a habit. A bad habit, and hard to break. If we can't remember, the state highway patrol and other law enforcement officers have been told to help us remember. How? By arresting violators and if convicted the fine is up to $50.

From Kentucky comes this story. A Kentucky sheriff traced a local trash dumper through an intact, addressed envelope. He made an arrest, got a conviction with a $25 fine. The envelope, opened in court, turned out to be a bill (overdue and unpaid) from a trash collection contractor for $6.25.

Can you imagine anything more unneighborly than dumping trash on another person's property? Not many of us would do that, yet a lot of us are "litterbugs" to a lesser degree. Without thinking many of us roll the car window down and throw out Kleenex, bottles, paper cups, and even newspapers. The next time you start to do this just remember somebody will have to clean it up, either the highway folks or the folks in the community who are trying to keep the roadsides attractive for you to enjoy.

Why not keep a paper bag or other container in the car for trash. Then, when convenient, stop and empty it into one of the trash cans along the road provided by the highway folks. Let's all resolve to "Keep North Carolina Beautiful."

Here are some things we can do around our homes to make them look better as well as our roadsides:

1. Clean up junked machinery and trash heaps.
2. Screen necessary but unattractive things with a hedge or fence.
3. Paint or whitewash buildings.
4. Plant a lawn around your house and keep it mowed.
5. Repair or put up a new mailbox support.
6. Remove advertising signs tacked on your barns, hung on your fences and tacked on your trees.

POULTRY SUGGESTIONS
JANUARY, 1958

- 1958 Resolutions:
1. One of the main enemies of egg quality is heat. Cool quickly and keep 'em cool.
 2. Nine weeks or less should grow a three-pound broiler with 2 1/2 or less pounds of feed per pound of meat.
 3. Five eggs in seven to eight days or 240 eggs per bird housed is a good goal.
 4. Eight to nine pounds of feed should produce each one and two-thirds dozen eggs or more.
 5. Resolve to have an efficient poultry enterprise in 1958.
 6. Eggs are a protective, delicious, and nutritious food. Eat two each day.
 7. Small or large poultry farms can succeed or fail because of good or poor management.
 8. Outlook: Egg prices for first six months will average 5 cents a dozen higher than for same period in 1957. Broilers in 1958 will average around 18 to 19 cents a pound.
 9. Long - range planning can pay dividends. Get the facts before making decisions.
 10. Until cash or credit runs out, a producer may not know he is losing money. Keep records - Know - Don't guess.
 11. Time to adjust the ventilation to make birds comfortable is up to you. Avoid drafts.
 12. It's the little things that count, so pay attention to details. Small savings add up.
 13. One way to prevent disease is by following a good prevention and vaccination program.
 14. Now is the time to work together cooperatively or as a group for better markets.
 15. Set up good goals to produce quality broilers and eggs efficiently.

GRASSLAND

1. The time to wish all our perennial pasture a prosperous and prolific New Year is drawing near. This can best be done by giving them an ample application of fertilizer as topdressing. No plant, just as no animal, can perform at top or most efficient production unless it is properly fed and managed. Now is the time to make farmers aware of this fact so they will have time to get the job done.

a. Cool season perennial plants (Ladino clover - orchard grass or tall fescue, alfalfa, tall fescue, trefoil, red clover, white clover - bluegrass) do not give the best response unless they are topdressed before the period of lush growth in the spring. Since this is usually one of the busiest times of the year, it is generally conceded that topdressing should be put on just before growth starts in late winter. Soil test recommendations are preferred in suggesting amounts per acre, but some topdressing usually should be applied if the soil test is not available.

(1) Alfalfa - 400 - 800 pounds 0-10-20, or 0-9-27 with 10-25 lbs. borax per acre.

(2) Ladino grass - 400-700 lbs. 0-10-20, 0-9-27, or 0-14-14 per acre.

(3) Tall fescue - 300 - 600 lbs. 0-10-20 plus 100 lbs. N. topdressing per acre.

(4) White clover - bluegrass - 500 lbs. 0-20-0 per acre every 3 years. (On accessible slopes a topdressing of about 300 lbs. per acre of 0-10-20 should be applied each year.)

(5) Red Clover - 300 lbs. 0-20-20 per acre.

(6) Trefoil - 300 - 500 lbs. 0-14-14, 0-10-20 or 0-9-27 per acre.

b. Warm season perennial plants Coastal Bermuda grass, sericea lespedeza, kudzu) should be topdressed just before growth starts in the spring.

(1) Coastal Bermuda grass - pure stand 250-500 lbs. 0-14-14 or 0-10-20 per acre plus 50-100 lbs. N. (With Crimson Clover 250-500 lbs. 0-10-20 in fall).

(2) Sericea lespedeza - 400-800 lbs. 0-14-14 or 0-10-20 per acre.

(3) Kudzu - 300 lbs. 0-14-14 per acre.

c. Winter annual plants (Crimson clover, small grains).

(1) Crimson Clover alone - no topdressing.

(2) Small grain alone - 30 lbs. N. per acre in late February or early March.

(3) Small grain - Crimson Clover - 30 lbs. N. per acre in late February or early March.

2. Plan now to make use of some of the summer annual plants that do well in your area. There are essentially none of the basic permanent type pasture mixtures that will consistently provide good grazing during the summer months in this State. These plants just don't grow during those months, as a rule. Some of the plants that will usually grow in summer are:

a. Pearl or Starr Millet - Seed April 15 - July 1 with 6-10 lbs. per acre in rows or 20-25 lbs. per acre of 8-8-8 or 10-10-10 at planting, and topdress with 25-50 lbs. N. per acre when 6 inches high and again after first grazing period.

b. Sudangrass - Same as millet, except use 10-15 lbs. per acre of seed in row or 30-40 lbs. broadcast. Use Sweet or Tift varieties.

c. Annual lespedeza - Seed in February or March at 20-40 lbs. per acre. Fertilize with 300-400 lbs. 0-14-14 or 0-10-20 when not grown in small grain. Use Rowan lespedeza on nematode infested soils.

d. Soybeans - Seed in late April to July 1 at one-half to one bushel in rows or two bushels broadcast. Fertilize with 300-400 lbs. 0-10-20 per acre. Use varieties that are used for seed or hay in this area.

MAYOR DURHAM
The letter was signed and then came a P.S.:

P.S.: When I mentioned the possibility that you might have heard of a strange kitten, I was thinking how it might have been in front of your home or your neighbor's where she dashed from the car into the night. As that kitten I hear purring outside, No it couldn't be... the blamed stray dogs around here probably would have it chased into another county or state by this time.

Maybe I should forward the letter on to Mayor Marshall Kurfies in Winston-Salem. Well, that is the reason why Mayor John E. Durham is taking a good look today at any kitten he sees on the street.

Three Are Tried For School Non-Attendance

A hearing was held in Juvenile Court for three boys, all 15-year-olds, on the charge of non-attendance at school. They were charged with unexcused absences from school of one-third to one-half the time.

The three boys were remanded to the supervision of the Davie County Department of Welfare as to their regular attendance at school.

Mrs. C. C. Smoot, Davie County Welfare Superintendent, said that North Carolina law required all children between ages of 6-16 to attend school regularly. "The Superintendent of Welfare is designated as school attendance officer. Mrs. Smoot said that the schools reported all unexcused absences to the Welfare Department and a check is made. Either the child, parents, or both may be convicted on the charge of non-attendance. Conviction may bring sentences to a training school for the child, or a fine or imprisonment of the parents should they be found guilty.

"We will not tolerate this staying out of school," said Mrs. Smoot. "We are investigating all reports of unexcused absences and where warranted, charges will be preferred."

MAYOR DURHAM AND "TAMMY"

Mayor Durham Locates Kitten

Lost Cat Found At Home Of W. F. Robinson
by GORDON TOMLINSON

"Tammy" has been found!

"Tammy" is the cat that disappeared in Mocksville just before Christmas. She was the subject of a search by Mayor John E. Durham of Mocksville and Mayor Marshall Kurfrees of Winston-Salem, and the featured character in a story appearing in this newspaper last week. But let's begin at the beginning.

"Tammy" belonged to a Miss Peggy Miller, who lives alone near Asheville. She lives in a little house in the woods, with only "Tammy," her radio and record player to keep her company.

Last December she and Tammy were going to visit her brother in Winston-Salem. At a stop near Mocksville, the cat, which had been snoozing, got out and wandered away in the darkness. A search was made then, but she was not found.

Miss Miller wrote a letter to Mayor Durham asking his assistance in helping her locate the cat. This letter was carried last week in the story appearing in this newspaper. As it had been over a month since the cat had disappeared, little hope was felt that the cat would be found.

Only a few hours after the newspaper was off the press, W. F. Robinson of North Main St., began to read his copy. He read the story of "Mayor Durham Seeks Kitten," and immediately decided that a cat which his daughter, Jane, had befriended must be the missing kitten. Comparing this cat with the description listed in the story, he was certain and called Mayor Durham.

In the meantime, a radio station in Winston-Salem picked up the story and contacted Mayor Marshall Kurfrees. Mayor Kurfrees issued the announcement that he would assist Mayor Durham in the search for the kitten as far as the Yadkin River. Many others called Mayor Durham to report on cats they had seen.

Mayor Durham attempted to telephone Miss Miller about her cat, but Miss Miller had no telephone. A letter was dispatched. Her reply is reprinted herewith:

"Mr. John E. Durham, Mocksville, Dear Sir:
I received your letter of Jan. 23 and it made me so happy to know that my kitten is alive and cared for.

"I had tortured my mind with visions of her, frightened, lost, starving and freezing in that terribly cold weather we had.
"She had been cared for and sheltered so well all her life that I was afraid she couldn't survive such weather if someone didn't take her in, and I know there are people who do not like cats, and would set their dogs on her to chase her off.
"But by your kindness, and that of your neighbors, I am again reminded that my belief in the goodness in people has not been misplaced.
"It is beyond my ability to express in words how much I appreciate your kindness and help in finding her, but I must say that it will never be forgotten. I guess I'll never pass through your town again without thinking about what nice people live there.
"I have called my brother in Winston-Salem and he will call you or drive to Mocksville to contact you this week.
"I'm sure he will thank Mr. and Mrs. Robinson for taking care of my kitten and repay them for the food they have given her, but when you see them please tell them that I appreciate what they have done more than I can say.
"I had lived in Detroit for nearly 30 years when I came here a year and a half ago and built me a little house in the woods. It has been grand living here among the wonders of nature, my kitten, Tammy, and my radio and record player to keep me from being lonely.
"Now anticipation lifts my heart when I think that Tammy will again add to the joy I have in living here.
"Thank you again for your help. Sincerely yours, Peggy Miller."

On Monday of this week, Miss Miller's brother came and picked up "Tammy," expressing thanks and appreciation to the Robinsons for the care given the kitten.

Mayor Durham, happy for a few days with the joy that can only come to a person when he realizes that his efforts on someone's behalf is being appreciated, is now back in the old rut of the life as Mayor... that of listening to complaints about sewer, water, parking tickets, and other town services.

However, he still smiles when he remembers "Tammy."

Seal Sale Nets $930 To Date; More Is Needed

The sale of Christmas seals of Davie County Tuberculosis Association amounts to $930.60 to date, Miss Jane McGuire, treasurer, reported today.

The sale of Christmas Seals is conducted only through the mail. The association does not sell seals from house to house or in the schools. It does not receive any contributions from the Community Service Association, nor is the TB Assn. a member agency of the Community Chest.

Proceeds of the Christmas Seal Sale will support chest X-ray programs, education, rehabilitation, interim patient aid and medical and social research.

Emphasis has changed in a half century sale of Christmas Seals from merely keeping the TB victims alive. Today we work to find TB early when it is easiest to cure, to teach people how to protect themselves from TB and to help ex-TB patients to become useful members of society.

If you have not already sent in your dollars, do so today.

the Statesville police around 3:15 a.m. Saturday.

Frizzell, stationed at Fort Eustis, Va., told officers he picked up two young men who were hitchhiking west of Mocksville. He said that near the South Yadkin River bridge, just inside the Iredell County line, one of the youths drew a gun on him and forced him to stop the car.

Frizzell said the men forced him to give them his pocketbook and drove off in his 1951 Buick. Penniless and without transportation, Frizzell started walking toward Statesville.

After walking approximately a mile, Frizzell found his car abandoned in a ditch, he said. He caught a ride to Statesville and reported the incident.

Frizzell described the gunman as about 21 years old and wearing a green uniform without collar insignias.

The other youth was about 14 years old and wearing a three-quarter length coat and dark pants, the victim reported.

Outstanding Young Farmers

Who is the county's most outstanding young farmer?

That's the question that has been raised by a new Junior Chamber of Commerce project that is now underway.

Very soon, a community-wide search will begin with the public asked to nominate any farmer aged 21 through 35 who is making outstanding progress in his agriculture career, is practicing soil and natural resource conservation, and who maintains a constant contributory role in community improvement and affairs.

The purpose of this search is to increase public understanding of the farmer and his problems, and to create through example, more youth interest in farming as a profitable and satisfying career. Numerous awards will be made to the county winner and runners-up. The winner will be entered in the state judging and may win an all-expense trip to the national awards program in Indianapolis, Indiana, next April. There, during a three-day awards program, America's Four Outstanding Young Farmers of 1957 will be selected and honored.

Davie County has many young farmers meeting the qualifications and deserving of the honor. All of these young men should be nominated and their efforts applauded. Although, only one will be declared the top winner, the recognition afforded to the farming efforts of our young men should prove beneficial to the entire county.

There Is A Way Out

There is no better publicized "mess" in Washington today than the Post Office, Chairman Olin D. Johnston, of the Senate Committee on Post Office and Civil Service, calls it "staggering," estimates the postal deficit at two millions dollars a day.

But, despite his 13 years on this unpopular committee—seven as chairman—the Senator is still optimistic. Writing in the February issue of Reader's Digest, he outlines a four step program by which "in a few years we can get out of this postal mess and have the best mail service in the world."

First, Senator Johnston would "establish a basic postal policy," separating postal costs that should be paid by users of the mails from non-postal costs that should be borne by the Government as public services. The author listed eleven examples of extraneous post office services—such as the sale of "duck" stamps to water-fowl hunters, sale and redemption of Government savings bonds and stamps, registry of aliens, counting deer and grouse, handling donations for a dozen nation-wide charity drives a year and helping the families of deceased veterans procure funeral flags.

Next, with policy firmly established, it would be possible to "raise postal rates rationally."

The third step, a truly colossal one, would be "a long-range, big-scale modernization program for the construction of efficient buildings, streamlining of facilities, development of advanced mechanical devices." To pay for this, the Senator has already proposed that Congress authorize the Postmaster General to borrow two billion dollars from the Federal Employees' Retirement Fund at 3½ per cent. This would make the Fund members happy since their money, invested in Treasury bonds, presently earns only 2½ per cent, and still be a break for the Post Office which is now paying 4 per cent on its limited borrowings.

Finally, Senator Johnston would "increase employee efficiency" by paying more money—enough more, for instance, that a postal worker wouldn't have to get an extra job (as many now do) to make ends meet.

It is pretty certain at this writing that postal rates will be increased (to four cents, not five, on first class mail) and that postal workers will get an across the board wage hike. But to take steps two and four without the vital first and third will be worse than useless. Only a basic reorientation and a complete modernization program such as Senator Johnston outlines can clean up the "Mess" — and make it possible for us to get better service when we pay more for our stamps.

Small Towns

Have you heard that the planners are dreaming up ways of breaking up the big cities into small towns?

This question is asked of Bob Taylor, editor of the U. S. Press Association, in an article received this week. He goes on to say:

This is no gag. You can see for yourself in a recent technical bulletin of the Urban Institute of Washington, D. C., in which James W. Rouse of Baltimore, governor of the Mortgage Bankers' Association of America, says the city is out of scale with the human being and is beyond his scope and his capacity.

He says we must use the new highways to divide up the big cities into "communities which are in the human scale — communities of which the individual can feel a part and for the life of which he can feel a sense of participation and responsibility. This means a city of neighborhoods, not neighborhoods drawn on a map and labeled in a planning office, but neighborhoods in fact; neighborhoods which are given shape and definition by natural boundaries, such as parks, playgrounds, schools, hospitals, public buildings of all kinds, and, most of all, by our highways."

Most of us, who are inhabitants of a small town, agree that Mr. Rouse is a pretty smart man—whether or not he gets very far in his effort to divide up the gargantuan cities into man-sized communities. We may also feel a little smug about our own long-established preference for the smaller town and appreciation and understanding of its fundamental human values.

No one can question the need of a normal human being to feel that he is a responsible, active part of his neighborhood, village, town or city—or the need of the community for this feeling on the part of its citizens. Keeping this spirit alive, alert and directed into worthwhile channels is now—as it always has been—the most challenging and most rewarding job of the small weekly newspaper.

SPEAK YOUR PIECE! You people who are member of the N. C. Farm Bureau should make definite plans to come to Raleigh on Feb. 9 for the annual meeting at the Hotel Sir Walter.

Far-reaching declarations of policy may be forthcoming at this convention — the first one in more than a decade that has not had the guidance of Fluke Shaw, Those Farm Bureau members who do attend this annual meeting will find they still have able leadership in Alonzo Edwards, executive vice president; Randolph Eagles, president; and Will Rogers, membership man.

NEWSPAPERS . . . Some of our Sunday newspapers in North Carolina are getting pretty bulky, we happened to notice in looking over a few of them on Jan. 26.

Biggest ones were observed on the local newsstands were the Charlotte Observer with 80 pages, the Greensboro Daily with 52, the Raleigh News and Observer with 48, and the Winston - Salem Journal and Sentinel with 48.

We are not including in pages the comics, or, as with the Charlotte Observer, the magazine insert. Including all those, that paper had 120 pages and felt like a streamlined version of the New York Times.

STILL IN NEWS . . . Alcoholic beverages, as we pointed out here last week, get their share of the news in North Carolina. Look for some more very soon . . . from two or three different directions.

Meantime, Beer Attorney Lew Wallace of Winston, veteran legislator, has announced severance of ties with the brewers; Tom Allen, ex-ABC head, has decided not to go with the veterans; and Catawba County has voted decisively to continue the legal sale of wine and beer.

IN DEMAND . . . There is a long list of good male speakers in North Carolina available for civic club programs, hog killings, and family reunions.

But we learned the other day that it is difficult to find capable — by capable we mean interesting — women talkers. Among those most in demand are: Dr. Ellen Winston, N. C. Dept. of Welfare head; Judge Susie Sharpe of Reidsville; and Mrs. Grace Rodenbough of Danbury, only female member of the General Assembly. Mrs. Rodenbough lists Danbury as her address, because that is the county seat of Stokes. However, if you want to get in touch with her without delay, write her at her ancestral estate, "Corington," at Walnut Cove.

We heard the other day that Mrs. Rodenbough has ambitions as yet not fulfilled.

NO MENTION . . . The one man who last week had the best gentleman from Arkansas, who could have some vice presidential ambitions himself . . . it says here.

The Rev. Martin King, the gentleman of Alabama whom some of you have seen on television as leader of his race on bus matters, etc., in that State, will speak here soon in the Institute of Religion series sponsored annually by the United Church . . . but King won't speak in the church — they figure the regular meeting place would not hold the crowd — so King will be presented in the auditorium of Needham Broughton High School . . . Should prove interesting, too . . . and helpful.

TEXT: "Security is mostly a superstition." — Helen Keller.

Two caterpillars once felt the urge to crawl out on a twig and spin cocoons. As they prepared for the sleep which would precede their transformations, a butterfly fluttered by. One caterpillar, watching the butterfly soar and dip in uncertain flight, called to the other,

"I'm glad I'm fastened to this tree. You'll never catch me going up in one of those things."

Most of us want the snug, snug security of the caterpillar. We would like everything to be comfortable forever. Yet, with the caterpillar, we eventually find that security is most superstition. Helen Keller added, "Security does not exist in nature nor do the children of men as a whole experience it."

Striving for security, however, is necessary. Without it there would be no achievement. Yet we are most secure when we accept the fact that security is a mirage. When we admit that change is always with us; that today's security can be tomorrow's insecurity, we build a resilience that makes us secure. Change does not surprise, shock nor devastate us. We expect it. Then we are as close to security as this wonderful, growing world will permit.

SENATOR SAM ERVIN SAYS

WASHINGTON — During the past week I had the pleasant opportunity of talking to the Rurlan Club at Williamston and then going to Chapel Hill and Durham for the annual mid - winter meeting of the North Carolina Press Association. Mr. Henry Dennis of Henderson is now head of the Association, following a long line of other distinguished presidents. I always look forward to this meeting and the opportunity to get the personal views of newspaper publishers, editors and their associates, and to assimilate some of the enthusiasm for their work which they possess in abundance.

CAPABLE NEWSMEN

One cannot escape the conclusion that we are blessed with very capable people in the newspaper field. They are not confined to the large dailies. On the contrary, non-dailies provide a very accomplished group of newsmen and news-women.

The University of North Carolina and Duke University provide a very helpful and appropriate setting for the mid-winter meetings. I am impressed each year with the quality of the program and discussion groups. This year's speaker was Congressman Brooks Hays of Arkansas, a distinguished statesman and religious leader.

Those of us in public life in North Carolina owe a great deal to the press. They keep our service records exposed to public view and help us in getting the views of our constituents and the needs facing our people. I am fortunate in that the times in my public career that editors have disagreed with my position on a matter our relationship has been cordial. That is typical of North Carolina journalism.

The rising cost of doing business has hit the large publisher as well as the small. It is a discouraging thought that the toll of these unfortunate circumstances might be the death of any newspaper in our State. They are truly a part of all us and the very sinew of an informed people.

PRESS ETHICS

In my home town I have witnessed the work of one of the prominent publishers of North Carolina. Of course, I refer to Miss Beatrice Cobb of Morganton whose life has been devoted to the community and section she serves by the type of journalism that is generally recognized as conveying her strong ethical convictions while standing firm on her editorial beliefs.

SOURCE OF HISTORY

I have had a life-long interest in local history. This being so, I have often found it necessary to check the musty files of old newspapers as one of the best sources of recorded history. Perhaps there are today many newspaper writers who do not fully appreciate the contribution they are making to future generations by carefully putting down today's history factually without bias, leaving the editorial page as the place for opinion and personal convictions.

Realizing the privilege that is mine to give a report of my doings in the Senate of the United States, I have been very careful to devote considerable effort to my weekly newspaper column so as to make it worthy of space in the press. There has been no effort to withhold my views on important matters, believing as I do that the right of the people to know is a vital part of our freedom.

Perhaps these words will suffice to tell you why I always enjoy the opportunity to be with the press of North Carolina and why I always sorrow whenever I learn of the death of a member of its able corps.

Without our newspapers North Carolina's future would be bleak and beyond comprehension.

so THIS is NEW YORK

Bernard Baruch is probably the most read-about private citizen of this country, there being two current biographies of him. One he did himself, the other he authorized, then changed his mind and cut off all his files from Margaret Coit, the author, when he disagreed with something she wrote. I have known Mr. Baruch for years, and when Winston Churchill was here last, was invited with others to the Baruch 5th Avenue home to meet the great Englishman. However, Winnie unfortunately became ill and the visit had to be cancelled. I asked Mr. Baruch if I could come when Mr. Churchill was there next. He replied with characteristic kindness, "When Winston Churchill visits me again, you knock on my door."

Names not only make news but gain entry, Dick Crandall tells me. He is press relations director of the Greater New York Fund and a fellow Sigma Delta Chi, and the other day, his secretary came in and told him that the Vice President of the Guaranty Trust Company was outside and wanted to see him — at least that's what Dick understood her to say. Since this is one of the largest banking institutions in New York, Dick quickly said for her to show the gentleman in. A man entered, sat down, smiled, and said, "Well, it worked again." He handed Dick his card which read, "Vice president, Guaranty Trust Company of New York."

Believed to be the longest commuting railroad line in this section is the 66.6 mile run of the Pennsylvania Railroad along the coast between Bay Head Junction, New Jersey, and New York City. The trip averages more than two hours each way, yet about 7,000 commuters make it daily into New York and back. Incidentally, the last steam locomotive, No. G12, to be used in the New York area made its final run over this line a few weeks ago. Passengers on the train hauled by Old G12 did not even know that that was the last trip of the veteran steam engine. Diesels have now taken over completely hereabouts, where the electrified portions of the railroads end.

WHAT PRICE FAME?

Check the foundation of the ladder of fame—the risk may not warrant the climb.

ALONG WITH SPICE—

The main ingredient in the recipe for successful after dinner speaking is shortening.

WHY?

Do We Say "HELLO" and "GOODBYE?"

Once we greeted only important persons of the community—the chief, lord, priest or squire—with a highly respectful "Hail to you!" When we began the custom of greeting each other frequently, we slurred and shortened the salutation to "hello."

When someone left us we said "Go With God," or "God be with you." This last in common usage became God W'lye the "good bye."

'Let God Be True'

J. B. WHITTAKER
Many times we are asked, "Have there been undenominational Christians in all ages?" We can only answer this question in the positive.

God's Word was preached by Christ and His apostles. That produced Christians who were not members of any particular denomination. They were all one in the great family of God.

When Christ established his church he promised that even the gates of hell would not prevail against it. If such a mighty force cannot prevail against the church, we must believe that all religious error and sin in this world will not take the seed of the Word of God from the hearts of all.

the kingdom of Christ remains and increases with such momentum that it will ultimately become a great mountain to fill the entire earth.

It is possible today for you to be a simple Christian without being a part of or affiliated with any denomination. Obedience to the Bible — the Seed — the Word — will make you a Christian. Obey God. "We ought to obey God rather than men." (Acts 5:29)

Farm Folks Look At Year's Work

A number of farm families in Davie County are taking a second look at their farm and home records, getting ready to analyze the past year's operations and work out plans for the coming year.

He explained that help with year-end analysis is a basis for next year's planning is part of the farm management help that goes with most Farmers Home Administration loans.

The county supervisor supplies each family with a simple farm and home record book as part of the farm management aid. When necessary, he shows the family how to keep track of income, costs, results of specific operations, debt payments and other items that are parts of the business of farming.

At the end of the farming year, the farmer and his wife find out how their farming operations matched up with the plans they had made. To help do this they set a definite date to meet with the FHA county supervisor, and go over their farm and home plans and their filled in record book.

With the county supervisor's help, they analyze the progress, successes, and mistakes. For example, if their records show that a certain livestock or crop enterprise failed to work out satisfactorily, they look for reasons such as improper feeding or breeding practices, inadequate pasture or housing, seed selection, or fertilization.

Mr. Slink said approximately 40 families in Davie County will take part in the year-end review of operations. The first meetings were held in December. Much of the county supervisor's time until February will be devoted to this part of the agency's farm management service.
