

Davie County Has 640 Youths In Organized 4-H Club Work

4-H Club Work Began In Davie County In 1935

This is National 4-H Week. "Aware of the importance of this great program for rural youth, President Eisenhower addressed the following message:

"My warm greetings to all of you as you plan ahead. You and your leaders can take great pride in your achievements of the past year, and in the greater goals that you have set for yourselves for this year's accomplishments on your farms, in your homes, and your communities."

North Carolina has 2,613 organized 4-H Clubs with a total membership of 154,433 boys and girls. In Davie County this year there are eight organized 4-H Clubs with a total membership of 640.

4-H Club work in Davie County was started in 1935, with Miss Florence Mackle and R. R. Smithwick in charge of the entire extension program for youths and adults. At this time there was only one vocational home economics and agricultural department in the county. The home agent spent one entire day at each of the schools each month, taking the girls at their study periods for the project work.

Groups of boys and girls from each of the high schools met once each month for organized joint programs for training in leadership. The enrollment at this time was 112 girls and 25 boys.

In 1937, Willard Kimrey joined the Davie Extension staff. In 1937, Miss Ruby Collette, now Mrs. Cecil Leagans, was selected to put on a complete clothing exhibit at the N. C. State Fair in Raleigh. For this exhibit she won second place and and received $8.00.

The first 4-H camp was held at John's River near Lenoir in Aug., 1937. Twenty-eight boys and girls, adult leaders and cook, loaded down with camping equipment, vegetables, canned food and chickens, attended.

The first 4-H King and Queen of Health in this county were Wilburn Spillman from the Farmington Club and Lena Potts from the Advance 4-H Club.

The first 4-H County Council was organized in 1938 with 25 members. Jane Ferebee was the winner in a canning contest. Louise Eaton was the first place winner in the county 4-H dress revue and was awarded a gold medal for representing the county in the state dress revue.

The first annual 4-H achievement program was held in the fall of 1938. The program outline was as follows:

SIX DIAMOND SET, $67.50—FOSTER'S WATCH SHOP, Mocksville, N. C.

UNCLE DAVE FROM DAVIE Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

I've had a little touch of the flut and ain't been able to get further than hollering distance from home all week.

About all I know is what I've saw on television, heard on the radio, read in the papers, and picked up eavesdropping on the party line. And of course I've been getting my daily allotment of mail from the various state and federal agencies.

But I didn't get up to the country store Saturday night and until you get the low-down from the boys up there, you actually don't know nothing official.

I see where some preacher in Pittsburgh told his flock that he'd been in touch with hell for some time now. Unless he's been off in a space ship for the last few years, he ain't got nothing to brag about. All of us keeps in touch with that locality these days. All he's got to do is look around him a little.

So this preacher wants to talk about hell? I wonder if he ever stopped to think how slow a jet plane is along side how fast our inflated dollar is traveling these days. I bought my old lady a electric iron for $5 in 1935 and last week it cost me $7.50 just to get it repaired. Any feller that has any trouble communicating with hell these days is a sad case. He's lost. They say the saddest thing in this world Mister Editor, is a country dog that is lost in town and looking for his master. I'll say the next saddest thing is somebody who has got to go out of this way to get in touch with hell in 1958.

Another item in the paper that struck me as funny was a story about a street employee in London that got caught stealing manhole covers and selling them to the junk yard. Over in their country he'd run for office, got elected, and then steal the junk yard. Them English always was a little slow about things, though.

Not being able to get out and about for a week has been hard on me and the old lady both. It's just like a wife to take a lot of pot shots at her old man when he ain't able to dodge. For instance, I'm having another birthday next week and I asked my old lady how I was holding my years. "Look in the mirror," she says. I did, and all I can say is that they don't make mirrors good like they did when I was younger. Like some feller said the other day, I'm to old for rock 'n roll and too young for Geritol. My old lady says that after a man hits 50 he is mostly a maintenance problem anyhow.

Yours truly,
Uncle Dave

We ran a contest (one month) for a name. The winner was Martha Foster. The name now is the Mocksville Intermediate 4-H Club.

The Davie Academy 4-H Club was organized in 1955. With the help of Mr. Baker and Miss Warlick, the adult 4-H leaders, parents, and 4-H Club members, we have steadily progressed. Our club meetings are held on the first Monday of each month in the Davie Academy Community building. These meetings consist of business, programs, lessons, demonstrations, and recreation. Each club member selects one or more projects that he wishes to work on the following year and keeps a record of the work he does. Our first project as a club was the building of an outdoor furnace at the community building. This is used for picnics and outings by the whole community. The second club project was placing 4-H Club member signs on the mailbox of each member. In the coming years we hope to move toward the goal of accomplishment.

The present officers are as follows: Gail Koonitz, President; Sara Walker, vice president; Sylvia Walker, secretary; Sue Carter, Edgar Cartner, and Sonny Koonitz, song leaders. The adult leaders are Mrs. Claude Cartner and Mrs. Lester Walker.

Glenda Hendrix, President

Shady Grove will be honoring National 4-H Club Week during March 1-5. They will be doing this by planning and arranging new projects for next year.

The Shady Grove Junior 4-H Club officers are: Glenda Hendrix, president; vice president, Martha Kiser; secretary, Joyce Tucker; reporter, Edith Hartman; and song leaders, Dorothy Cornatzer and Carol McKinn.

The only mark some people leave in this world is on some car owner's fender.

WHAT DOES THE HOSPITAL MEAN TO DAVIE COUNTY?

By FRANK CERUZZI, Administrator

First of all let's think of the hospital in the functions that it performs through the acts of service, education, and its continuous effort to provide these services at a cost that the people can bear. It also provides employment which adds to the strength of the community. Then, too, we look at the hospital as a doctor's workshop where the patient is treated for his ailments and ultimate care is rendered.

We all know that the success of any hospital depends upon its relation with the people it serves. If statistics are a criteria to measure success then apparently we can consider ourselves to be very successful. For the three period in which reports were submitted to the Duke Endowment there has been an increase of not only in the number of meals served, but an increase in patient census and an increase in the use of X-Ray, Lab. and Operating Room.

Here are a few facts to consider for the two years that the hospital has been opened:

(a) Number of patients admitted, 2,591.

(b) Number of Newborns, 548.

(c) Number of Meals Served, 59,587.

(d) Average number of employees, 38.

(e) Employees per patient per day, 2.1.

(f) Days of care rendered, 13,035.

(g) X-ray procedures, 3842.

(h) Lab procedures, 18,835.

(i) Number of operations, 757.

(j) Percentage of occupancy, 60 per cent.

(k) Average daily census, 18.

(l) Hospital is a member of the North Carolina Hospital Association, American Hospital Assoc.

m) Has its own blood program and gave 529 transfusions.

To us in the hospital field this indicates acceptance as a hospital by the community. This is part of the support a hospital needs to survive and keep its doors open. Faith in how the institution serves those that come for care is expressed in the letters that we receive. Here are a few excerpts: "May I take this opportunity to say how fortunate we are in having a hospital in our community which is so well equipped along with the splendid service rendered the patients by the staff and nurses."

"Your hospital is the nearest hospital that I've even been in and I've had quite a few experiences." "I certainly prefer this hospital and feel that the hospital staff is considered the backbone

of the hospital organization.

Finally, the hospital is the daily beneficiary of the time and effort contributed by the women's volunteer organization or "Auxiliary" group. The women are first of all the source of funds for the many small improvements which add so much to the hospital's usefulness and efficiency. By direct and indirect contributions this group saves hundreds of dollars for the hospital every day—dollars which automatically become the property of the community, and are credited to the community health either in free care for the poor or improved facilities or accommodations.

In summarization you can truthfully say that the hospital is the community and the community is the hospital. The people have accepted it as their own with just pride.

The outlook for the future is very bright. The people can envision an addition of beds. Also, larger and more extensive laboratory. Possibly a laundry unit which will enable the hospital to do its own laundry at a reduced cost. These and many more facilities are brought about because of the increasing demands for more and better facilities to diagnose and treat the ill. From this all evolves better patient care.

Some of the most important work of the hospital is performed by people who serve without any wages, and who consider the opportunity to serve a privilege.

The first such group is the governing board. The members accept serious responsibilities. Specifically, the governing board is the hospital's policy making group, controlling its plans and funds, selecting an administrator and approving appointments to its medical staff. The board members must attend meetings; serve on committees; and lend his judgment at any time to the solution of problems vital to the entire community health. These are exacting responsibilities; yet, the reward may be only his exposure to severe criticism from an uninformed layman to whom a procedure essential to good hospital practice may appear to be unnecessary "red tape."

Another group of workers is the hospital medical staff. They spend hours each week to hospital work that brings no return. Attending staff meetings which seek to advance standards of professional care in the hospital are a small part of their program. Most important of the non-remunerative functions of the medical staff is the care given to patients from whom the doctor may expect no pay . . . the charity patient. The staff doctors offer to the best of their skill and knowledge good medical judgment. The medical staff is considered the backbone of the hospital organization.

Farm Agent Of Davie County s Well Sold On R.E.A. Phones

As we lounged in the warm office of Leo F. Williams, County Agent for Davie County, there was regular blizzards outside. With his heavy rustic clothes and his mil-leather and rubber boots he was truly a man of the soil. The father of the farmers in his county, he was today a snow man as he was dressed for the part and it was snowing outside.

"What has the R.E.A. phones meant to me in the last two years?" and he smiled a congenial smile. "In times past if I wanted to hold a meeting of 30 leading farmers at a certain location it took me three days to make the arrangements and about 300 miles of driving. Now my secretary can round up this bunch in less than 30 minutes.

"It has brought a lot more business to Mocksville too—here before a tractor operator broke a drive shaft he just figured — it isn't Mocksville anyway so I just as well go to Winston-Salem after it — now he calls two or three places in Mocksville and invariably can find it, and Davie County, gets the business and his business also.

A man has a sick cow or a hog in times past he hunted the time he time he hunted in the veterinarian and went all the expense of securing his fees it was just about as economical to take chances on the animal getting well itself. Anyway, most cases the cow has dead because the veterinarian could be located. Now all he does is phone and — pronto — the animal is "johnny on the spot." "I know they do. I of over 200 head of stock have been saved in this way this season."

In the old days it took the large farmer a half day to go Mocksville to get his seed, or his man or his fertilizer. Now he can spend that time on the farm and the PCX or the seed man will deliver his order in an hour or so.

As to artificial insemination the technician now stays in his office until 10 o'clock to get all the phone calls he can and then goes out on his service calls. I could approximate that 2,000 more cows have been bred and had calves that would otherwise have been lost if it had not been for rural R.E.A. telephones. Then the technician is never lost to us in cases of emergency we can always pick him up somewhere along the line by phone."

And then, to sum the whole thing up, to sit in your office and know that you have over half of your farmer friends at your call gives you a satisfaction of contentment. It just makes you feel closer to your people than you ever have been before! All this has been made possible by the Yadkin Valley Telephone Membership Corp., and the other independent owned phones in the county.

Conservation Reserve Program

The final date for signing a 1958 Conservation Reserve Contract is April 15th. So far only 12 Davie County farmers have signed applications for a Conservation Reserve Contract. Seven of these contracts are completed and the others will be signed as soon as cropland determinations can be made.

The 12 farmers who have signed Conservation Reserve Contracts compares with over 500 that have signed acreage reserve agreements. This does not mean that the Conservation Reserve program is not adopted to Davie County. It will fit well on many farms. It offers a real opportunity for farmers to divert part of their land into long term conservation practices.

Under the Conservation Reserve Program the government pays approximately 80 per cent of the cost of establishing conservation practice. In addition to this practice payment the farmer receives

America's only car with a hideaway landing—the Ford Thunderbird shown here with the fabulous new 2-passenger Thunderbird

It's like getting back 15¢ on every gas dollar!

Here's the biggest savings story of the year. And here's why.

It all starts with Ford's new dream of a drive called Cruise-O-Matic . . . the newest, most versatile, most automatic of them all! Two new driving ranges let you choose your starts for the road conditions that exist. For example, in most of the driving you'll do, you can take off lively as a spring lamb if you wish. And on snow, ice or any slippery road surface, with the extra driving range you can get sure-footed starts that are steady and silky-smooth.

Now, team this all-new automatic with Ford's new Thunderbird-powered V-8

(with up to 300 hp) and you get as much as 15% better gas mileage, too! That's because a special gas-saving rear axle ratio is used to give you all the savings of "built-in" overdrive economy.

And based on factory suggested retail delivered prices, a Cruise-O-Matic Ford is priced lowest of the low-price three with comparable equipment.

So, with Thunderbird go . . . down-to-earth gas savings . . . plus Ford's traditionally low prices and high resale return . . . you have the best reasons in the world to make yourself a deal on a beautiful new Cruise-O-Matic Ford!

Soil Testing Information

You still have time to topdress small grains with nitrogen. It is generally recommended that nitrogen be topdressed on small grain between Feb. 15 and March 15, so time is running out. During this period small grain has not yet reached a height of 6 to 8 inches. Nitrogen should be applied before the grain gets this high. Topdressing small grains in time results in a more vigorous plant with a greater number of tillers. These plant characteristics favor the production of higher and more profitable yields. Late topdressing may increase the protein content of grain but not yield.

March and April are the months when small grain need a large portion of their nitrogen. By topdressing now nitrogen will have moved down to the root zone by the time the plant begins to need more nitrogen.

The amount of nitrogen which is recommended to the farmers of Davie County in soil test reports take into consideration the soil, the amount of organic matter in the soil, and the past cropping. Local conditions of each separate field, however, may be such that this recommendation needs some adjustment. Adjustment of the recommended nitrogen topdressing rates depend on the chances of lodging. We know that maximum yields are usually obtained when a small amount of lodging is occurring in the better areas of the field and this can be used as a further indication of nitrogen needs. If no lodging is occurring with recommended rates of nitrogen topdressing, a farmer may want to increase the nitrogen rate by 15 lbs. per acre. On the other hand if too much lodging is occurring in several spots in the field this is a sign that the recommended rates of nitrogen should be decreased by 15 lbs. per acre.

Cattle Referendum

Don't forget to vote in the Cattle Referendum to be held on March 15. Davie County polling places are: Howard Milling Company, Advance; Johnson's Grocery and Service Station, Farmington; and Foster - Turrentine Mill, Mocksville.

Visiting With The Sick

The hospital welcomes visitors who follow these simple, sensible rules.

Almost every hospital patient has visitors. Except for the few who are too ill to see anyone, "visiting hours" provide a welcome diversion to interrupt the monotony of the long day in bed.

Confined for the moment to the hospital bed which is their entire "world" for their stay, the patient appreciates thoughtfulness, which prompts members of families and friends to visit. They bring comfortable thoughts and feelings.

The hospital is glad to have visitors. However, because the results of hospital visits aren't as pleasant as the above in every instance, perhaps it would be wise to acquaint you with some of the problems visitors may create.

You understand of course the necessity for restricting visiting to certain hours of the day. The routines of medical and physical nursing care must be followed systematically if the patient is to benefit by them. Visitors can be permitted only when they won't interfere with these routines. Irregular hospital visits upset the hospital "time-table."

Even within the letter of visiting hour rules, though, there may be visiting practices which are disturbing.

When a patient is seriously ill, of course, the doctor will forbid any visitors at all, or at least any except members of the immediate family. There are always one or two, however, who think they should be permitted to go — "just for a few minutes" — and who blame the hospital for enforcing a rule which has been established solely for the patient's welfare.

A good practice for all hospital visitors to follow would be to call the hospital or the patient's family before each visit to make certain their visits will be welcome. This would not only save the hospital embarrassment of refusing admittance to a visitor who may come from many miles away, but would also save many a patient the effort of entertaining when his condition is such that visitors are permitted, but not always welcome.

Another good rule for hospital visitors would be — "to come alone." The patient may be delighted to see Sally and Jane together, but it was an effort to entertain them both. It might have been better for the patient if they had come one at a time. It might have been better for the hospital, too. To get to the patient's room, Sally and Jane had to pass the doors of many other patients, and a few of these were gravely ill. Sally and Jane were considerate, of course. They thought they were being as quiet as could be. However, even their low voices and their footsteps may have aroused one of those patients from a badly needed sleep. Perhaps you as a patient may have been aroused and can appreciate just what it means.

One more thought for a visitor is to "watch the clock." Make your visit pleasant, cheerful and brief. Do not overstay your welcome. Remember that time flies by faster than you realize and without knowing it the patient may be getting overtired and his recovery may be affected.

When you visit a hospital make it brief, come alone, and come quietly during visiting hours. The entire staff will be glad to see you, as well as the patient.

U. S. Income Tax Returns Locally $1,635,000

With the approach of Tax Day, on April 15, the question arises locally, "What will residents of Davie County have to fork up in the way of individual income taxes this year?"

The bite, according to Government expectations, will be greater than it was last year, when an estimated $1,635,000 in personal taxes was turned in.

That figure, though unofficial, is based on a breakdown that took into account the Federal data on receipts from the State of North Carolina, together with earnings and income classifications in Davie.

Local residents provide 0.33 percent of the amount collected from individuals throughout the state.

The increase expected this year is not due to any hike in tax rates. It results from bigger earnings, on the average, in 1957 than in 1956.

Preliminary reports set the rise in income locally in the last fiscal year at 4.8 percent. This means a tax payment by April 15 of about $1,710,000.

Nationally, the yield last year from individual taxes was the biggest in history, around $43 billion. Even more is contemplated.

plated in the Eisenhower budget for fiscal 1959.

It estimates that personal tax returns will be about 3.5 percent greater than at present. This would require that incomes be higher this year than last.

In Davie County, to keep pace, net earnings would have to reach $18,300,000 in 1958.

The odds are, according to the experts, that it won't materialize. Business dol-drummers, they point out, are not conducive to large tax returns.

Instead, there is more and more agitation from the grass roots for a tax cut for next year. Business firms and private citizens alike are letting Washington know their views.

What they are saying is that we need a monetary weapon in the form of a tax reduction to break the back of the slump and start an upturn.

Until recently, both the Administration and Congress have been cool to such a proposal. Sentiment, in this election year, is gradually turning, however. The controlling question at present appears to be its inflationary effect, of which many are fearful.

SENATOR SAM ERVIN SAYS

WASHINGTON — Last week was the busiest for me of the session to date.

Full Time Job In addition to the important legislation before the Senate, I spent an enormous amount of time on committee work.

The week began with the new Civil Rights Commission before the Judiciary Committee. Certain questions had to be asked of this group to determine their views for the record when their confirmation is taken up by the Senate. I told the press following my questioning of the members that they appeared not to be fanatics, and, while I opposed the commission in the vote last session, that I felt it was made up of reasonable men insofar as I could ascertain. I have great confidence in former Governor Battle of Virginia, a member. I do not know personally the other members, but their views as expressed before our Committee give me hope that they will tackle their work with reason and understanding.

On Tuesday, the Judiciary Committee again met with Assistant Attorney General White, who heads the Civil Rights Division under recess appointment. Consideration of Mr. White is of great importance to our section because he will permanently head the new Civil Rights Division of the Justice Department. Therefore he will deal with legal problems arising in this area. I feel that his views should be known and carefully documented. It was under Mr. White's direction that the legal analysis and the Presidential proclamation were prepared for the Little Rock action. It is my conviction that the use of Federal troops at Little Rock was a usurpation of Presidential authority and this view has received support from outside the South. Mr. White will later appear before the Committee for further questioning.

Labor Hearings The McClellan Committee on Labor and Management opened hearings last week on the Kohler strike, with day-long public sessions. In this strike which began in 1954 there have been charges of violence made by both management and by the UAW union. The Committee is making its investigation in order to determine what new laws are needed in the labor-management area. It is essential that the evidence in this industrial strike be considered and weighed on its merits.

The Senate was meanwhile considering the important matter of postal rates and postal pay, requiring attention to debate and numerous roll calls. I voted against increase of out of town postal rates to five cents. I gave my support to the postal pay increase, believing that postal workers have been underpaid. Congress, in my opinion, was wise to take action on this.

Additionally, at the week's end, another matter of particular concern to North Carolina arose. The Department of the Interior announced a plan to impose tolls on the Blue Ridge Parkway after June 1, 1958. The State of North Carolina gave the Federal Government the right of way for the Parkway and N. C. Tennessee and private foundations and individuals gave the Smoky Mountains National Park to the Federal Government. Now the Federal Government proposes, in effect, to use such gifts as a source of revenue. Those who participated in the transactions between North Carolina and the Federal government which resulted in the creation of the Blue Ridge Parkway feel the imposition of tolls would be a breach of faith by the Federal government. I think it unfortunate for the Federal government to attempt to raise revenue by charging citizens for the privilege of looking upon the handiwork of the Almighty. I shall join Congressmen George Shuford and other members of the North Carolina delegation in an effort to persuade the Department of Interior to rescind its plan to impose such tolls.

WASHINGTON REPORT

By SENATOR W. KERR SCOTT WASHINGTON — Within the past week, the subject of Presidential disability once again has popped up in the news.

President Eisenhower has revealed that he has an agreement — a "clear understanding," as he put it — with Vice President Nixon about what should be done in case the President becomes disabled. As a result of the President's heart attack, his intestinal surgery, and his stroke there has been considerable clamor for legislation to clarify the steps to be taken in the event a President becomes disabled during his term of office.

There is no shadow of doubt about the chain of command, so to speak, in the event of a President's death. But the matter of physical or mental disability is another question altogether.

The disability question involves a lot of things, but at the core is the ticklish matter of who is to say when a President is no longer able to carry on the duties of his office.

Is he disabled when he delegates to others half, or three-quarters of his duties? Is he disabled when he has to take a week's rest or vacation, each month, or every other month? These may seem like frivolous questions, but all of them are involved.

Certainly, neither the cabinet nor Congress is qualified to say — as a matter of medical fact — when a President should be relieved of his duties because of disability. It would take a board of physicians and psychiatrists to do this.

I have thought about this matter a great deal; and in the final analysis, the President, himself, must make the decision as to when

60 Second Sermons

By FRED DODGE

TEXT: "The patient man has mastered himself." — Eph. Thomas.

An Oriental fable tells of a Chinese who wanted a needle. None could be found in his village. However, a crowbar and a file were discovered.

"Good," said the patient Chinese. "Now it is only a matter of time until I have my needle."

In this age of speed, patience is no longer considered a virtue. It is many of us feel, a barrier to progress. We don't have the time to be patient.

Actually, impatience displays a character weakness. It reveals a lack of self control and opens the door to poor judgments. The impatient man cannot evaluate situations in their true perspectives. Emotion, passion and blind partiality substitute for sound judgment.

The one trait common to the greatest scientists, physicians, inventors, and others who have influenced the world for good, has been their patience. They proved that with patience, any practical task could be accomplished. It was merely a matter of time until they filed their "crowbars" down into "needles." A man can be proud of his patience. Possessing it he shows that he has mastered himself. There is no more worthy achievement. It is the first and necessary step in mastering any task.

Copyright 1957 Fred Dodge

he is no longer able to do justice to his duties.

Should a cabinet or Congressional group — or for that matter, any group — ever be given the authority to make such a decision, very grave consequences could result if a question of Presidential disability ever arose.

Giving this authority to any group could in itself be construed as subordinating the office of President. It could have bad effects in many ways, psychological and otherwise.

I think these things ought to be considered in any steps that are taken in the way of setting up a board or commission or whatnot to keep check on a President's ability to do his job.

Aside from this, however, if the President has seen fit to make arrangements for the Vice President to take over in the event of disability he ought to be willing to let the public know the score on it. It is true that these two men must make the final decision, should the time come; but the terms of that decision are no private affair.

GLAD OF IT . . . Remember back yonder in school when the older boys tried to persuade a couple of fourth graders to fight each other? There would be taunts, yells, and shoving.

But, all to no avail. The boys just wouldn't fight — and about that time noon recess was over — so that was that.

As the older fry filed into the building, they philosophized on the fight failure thusly: "One of them was afraid; and the other one was ticked to death he was afraid."

A fight could have developed when key elements of the State Democratic Executive Committee gathered her last Saturday to alter organization plans and to plan for the Convention on May 15.

The reason on battle developed: one side was afraid; and the other was glad of it. Then, too, all were together on one point: the Republican Party is about to ruin the country.

Various factions of the Democratic Party are still disgruntled. Consensus is that Saturday's meeting did little to smooth out some of the objections — but at least no new ones developed and an all out fight was averted. But what about the power of county committees?

FAIR TRADE . . . Until last week nobody seemed to care much whether the N. C. Citizens Association had chosen the president of General Electric as its chief speaker at the annual meeting to be held here on March 19.

But last week when GE announced it was dropping fair trade prices on most of its smaller appliances, the talk coming at the Sir Walter to the Citizens assumed much importance. A large crowd is expected.

PROTECTION? . . . As we move more definitely toward a decline in revenue to the State, Raleigh is inquiring more and more: where are we going to get the money in 1959 to balance the budget? Good question.

Although sales tax collections for the calendar year 1957 — released a few days ago by the N. C. Revenue Department — showed income from this source up a slight fraction over 1956, business is off sharply now in about half the counties of the State. See "Retailer," out this week.

There is no need to whistle in the dark about it.

Meantime, our school population increases by leaps and bounds — and we have a solemn obligation — set up in 1933 when we adopted the sales tax — to support at State expense our schools: from the first grade through 12, for nine months, black, white, Indian, or Smiling, and wherever situation within the confines of North Carolina.

And what about the multi-million dollar tax sacrifices we are making this fiscal year — and will make next fiscal year — to big industry in the hope of keeping the big ones here and getting more? Will it stick? You hear in Raleigh that the State Highway Fund may be in the greatest danger of 25 years. Fearful of that, highway users are girding their loins for a battle if necessary. They say that the main thing that prompted former Highway Commissioner Emmett Winslow of Perquimans County to announce for the Senate last week is his desire to protect the Highway Fund.

ON FOOD? . . . Will a sales tax be placed back on food? This would create a fine howdy-do: take millions off big industry and put millions on food. Raise the sales tax to four or five per cent so as to hit the consumer harder? The big legislative news a year from now will be money news. That is why, every time you pick up your paper, you see about so-and-so deciding not to run.

DAVIS . . . The new public relations man for the Employment Security Commission is Ted Davis, son of the Rev. Theo B. Davis, one of the oldest living Wake Forest alumni. His mother, who died several years ago, wrote one of the finest columns anywhere in the Zebulon Record.

Ted has been newsman for Raleigh Radio Station WRAL. ESC is lucky to have him. He is a brother of Major Barrie Davis, who edits the popular and well gotten up Tar Heel Guardsman for the National Guard.

The Davis family are not only good Baptists but no mean politicians as well. The job Ted Davis now has was held most capably for a couple of decades by Mike Dunnagan, who we are glad to report seems to be holding his own health-wise after a difficult season.

GREAT GRAVITY . . . We have been taken to task a little for "writing irresponsibly" in the matter of the development of a process or electronic device for resisting gravity. No such animal, we are told.

We told about it here last week and said that a national magazine had said that the University of North Carolina — it didn't say which unit — was one of the few schools experimenting with the process.

Well, the magazine is "Business Week." The issue: Feb. 8. The page: 51.

The article begins: "If anyone had predicted 10 years ago that a cross section of the nation's top physicists, aeronautical engineers, and mathematicians would be fighting for standing room to hear the chase theory of gravity seriously challenged, he would have been labeled sun-stroked, senile, or worse. Gravity, like motion, has long been regarded as one of the fundamental facts of nature that you can't do anything about (Ed Note: the Board of Higher Education could). Like the apple that according to legend fell on Newton's head, it was always — and unquestionably there."

"If you had an apparatus to make objects fall away from the earth instead of toward it — the way a coil of wire and an electric current can make pieces of iron repel as well as attract each other — the effects on aviation and space travel are obvious."

"Backing gravity research are such companies as the Martin Co., Grumman Aircraft Engineering Corp., and Sperry Rand Corp. The U. S. government through the Army Transportation Research and Development Command has a team of scientists probing into the field. And universities — among them Princeton the University of North Carolina, and the University of California — are all angling in the problem."

Maybe Pete Ivey of Chapel Hill or Rudy Pate of State College could tell us more about it.

NOTES . . . On the day he announced as a candidate to succeed himself in the House, Pat Taylor, Jr. — one of our finest young men in the State — lost his mother and wife of former Lt. Gov. Pat Taylor — heart attack . . . Avery Higley, rambunctious senator forced out in 1959 by rotation may oppose him. Both reside in Wadesboro.

Robert Lee Humber of Greenville who did more than anybody else to bring North Carolina its million dollar art museum has announced for the State Senate . . . If we can have Humber and Lindsay Warren with us in the Legislature — plus the return of Kinston's veteran John Dawson and former Superior Court Judge Luther Hamilton the State Senate will have real stature.

Governor Hodges who was on the coast when the hurricanes opened up one of the inlets will be back at his official closing this week . . . He will spend most of the week end at Athens Ga. for the Southern Regional Conference of the Governing Boards of Higher Institutions.

WHY?

Do Cats Always Land On Their Feet?

Ability of cats to land feet first no matter how dropped is due to muscular coordination and a healthy, but not over-developed, balancing sense. Important is the quickness with which both are brought into play.

Men too could alight feet first were they quick thinking enough. Acrobats, aerialists manage because constant practice in falling makes them react nearly instinctively.

If mammoth cats were to flip men into the air, as thoughtless persons do very young kittens, results would be as scientifically interesting.

'Let God Be True'

J. B. WHITTAKER

Have you ever watched a spider trying to pull a large insect into its den? The bug was too large for the entrance, so the spider turned away to find a den with a larger entrance. This situation is comparable to people today who try to get through the straight gate and walk in the narrow way. Many try to take something with them that is wider than the road they travel. Men have their favorite practices in religion which they are very reluctant to give up. When pressed for Scriptural authority for their practices they cannot produce evidence that they please God. Many times those who tug and pull for some favorite practice are the ones who cry long and loud that the y are "broad-minded." From the spider, however, we see that it is possible to be too broad at the narrow gate.

Christ said that His Way is straight, but it is not straight. Straight means difficult. Straight means the shortest distance between two points. Everyone who comes to the straight gate must lay something down. He cannot take all he has through this gate. Repentance carries with it the meaning of leaving off something. No person can be saved just as he is. No one can enter the narrow way without repentance and baptism.

There are only two roads in life for men to travel. One is narrow. The other is broad. One leads to life, and the other leads to destruction. Some broad men try to walk in the narrow way, but they make a failure.

The broad way has several attractions for those who esteem themselves broad-minded. It is smooth, wide, and constantly downward. There are no hills to climb. All that one has to do is to put himself in neutral, and drift the downward way. The person who is neutral has no convictions. He agrees with everybody. He discusses no subject of controversy.

Many think they are in the narrow way just because they are religious. However, there is a lot of religion in the broad way. Those who travel this way think they can modify God's will to suit their own convenience.

We must keep our feet out of the broad way. Study the Bible. Obey God. (Adv.)

'Youth For Christ' Organization Now Functioning In Davie County

Programs And Rallies
Set For This Weekend
By GORDON TOMLINSON

In 1944 a group of people were holding evangelical youth rallies in scattered cities in the United States to try and combat juvenile delinquency. Torrey Johnson, pastor of the Midwest Bible Church in Chicago saw the need for a fellowship to better organize and further their work. This led to the organization of the "Youth For Christ" organization that has now spread all over the nation.

The first, paid employee for the Youth For Christ was Billy Graham, the famed evangelist. Mr. Graham devoted the next four years of his life to the spreading of the youth movement.

Last November, initial steps were taken in Davie County for the organization of a Youth For Christ chapter.

C. B. Borer, 30, an employee of the Western Electric Company, invited YFC leaders from Winston-Salem over to speak to a group of young people at the Oak Grove Methodist Church. Following this meeting a tentative working organization in the county was set up and has been active ever since.

The Davie County Youth For Christ is an interdenominational, non-profit organization. The theme is "Telling Teens Today, Christ, The Only Way." The slogan is "Anchored To The Rock, Keared To The Times." It presents Christianity in a lively fashion, which youth can appreciate and as one of the youngsters said: "that it is not just for old maids and sissies."

Laymen of the various denominations are in charge of directing the Youth For Christ activities. In Davie County, C. B. Borer and Mr. and Mrs. Ron Thomson are the leaders. They have the endorsement and support of the Davie County Ministerial Association.

The overall program of the YFC is carried out in numerous ways.

a. There are Saturday night rallies.

b. Five quiz teams compete against one another on Saturday night. These teams, one representing each grade, 8-12, answer questions on various chapters in the Bible. Twenty points are given for each correct answer and ten points are deducted for each wrong answer. Five correct answers in one month may one played gives a bonus of ten points. All players wear numbers and the first to jump to their feet upon hearing the question gets to answer it. The present standings in the quiz league is as follows:

Medical Bargains Described For Rotary

Rotarians heard medical treatments described as "The Greatest Bargains of Your Life," Tuesday.

Frank Derrigo, Field Supervisor for the Parke Davis Company, described the advances constantly being made by medical science. "Due to the constant advances in medical science and the development of more potent drugs, a stage of sickness costs a person less today than ever before in history," said Mr. Derrigo.

"Twenty years ago, for example, hospital patients stayed an average of 14 days, as compared with nine days average now. An appendicitis operation used to mean a hospital stay of three weeks—now it's usually five days. Hernia cases were usually hospitalized 21 days—now they are often home in a week."

"A case of pneumonia in 1920 often required hospitalization for around five weeks at a cost of around $65, plus a convalescent period. Today, a case of pneumonia is usually cured in round two weeks at home at an approximate cost of around $25."

"Any way you look at it—the terms of saving days of hospital time, the fewer visits needed from your doctor, or your return to income producing work sooner . . . the money you spend for prompt and proper medical care can well turn out to be one of the really big bargains of your life," said the speaker.

S. B. Hall had charge of the program. Curtis Price introduced Mr. Derrigo. President F. J. Johnson presided.

Special guests included J. C. Stokes, Roy Holder, Bob George, Jane Rowland, Z. N. Anderson, Junior Rotarian; and Jane Rowland, pianist.

Publisher Sees Complex 'Brain'

Eugene S. Bowman, publisher of the Enterprise, was among a group of North Carolina newspapermen invited by the 810th Aircraft Control and Warning Squadron of Winston-Salem to a breakfast last Wednesday, and a tour of their defense system base located near Thomasville.

Later in the day, these men were flown in Air Force military planes to Richmond, from where the Army carried them in cars to Fort Lee at Petersburg. Here they were shown through the gigantic five-story, bomb-proof, structure housing the $55 million dollar SAGE air defense sector for the Washington area. Briefing officers showed the writers through this defense control operation, and explained with the use of a huge map of the Eastern States, divided into zones, how enemy aircraft would be detected in an attack on the Carolina coast.

Our country has all types of radar stations, ships and planes, arounds corps, weather stations. Until this time the operators had to pass information verbally on their immediate area, to a central point in their sector, which consumed too much time with the possibility of human error. However, at Fort Lee, there are two gigantic digital computers which takes all information from radar stations in its section, and gives a complete picture of the entire air pattern. If any enemy plane is sighted the computers will tell the center operators the best way to destroy this aircraft, with interceptors or missiles. At this point, all the center officer will have to do is to order the most effective way to get rid of the enemy plane, all of which can be done in a matter of seconds.

One entire floor in this windowless, air conditioned building houses only this complex, fabulous "brain." The plant has its own power supply and has over 500 fast, direct telephones lines to all radar stations in the Eastern sea-board, or enough lines to supply the city of Washington.

The computers used here were built by the International Business Machines Corporation, and other firms.

Contest Offers Colored Extension Phones Free

The Yadkin Valley Telephone Membership Corporation has launched a sales campaign in the three county area served by the co-op.

A primary objective of the sales program is to promote extension telephones for members already using telephone service. There will also be an effort to sign up new members.

A W. McDonald manager of the Yadkin Valley Telephone Corporation, said:

"There are many homes, farms, and businesses in the area served by the Yadkin Valley Telephone Co-op that do not have telephones. Today, telephone service is not a luxury . . . it is a vital part of everyday life. Industry searching for new plant locations are concerned with adequate communications. To modern industry, telephone service is just as essential as adequate supplies of electric power, labor, water, and raw materials."

"Modern farming and dairying has become mechanized to the extent that time saved by adequate communication with markets and with farm services quite often means the difference between profit and loss on farm operations. To be ready to meet the needs of our rapidly expanding economy in Davie, Yadkin and Iredell counties, the telephone industry must plan facilities adequate to provide for expansion. A telephone system with just one telephone would be of little value because there would be no other phones to be called. For the same reason, the value of each telephone increases every time a new telephone is installed."

"We are in business to provide telephone service." We believe that many of our existing members need more than one telephone to provide them with telephone service. In the early days of electrification we were proud of a single light bulb hanging from the ceiling in each room. Today our homes and businesses are equipped with electricity at every location where it may be used. We believe that extension telephones located to save time and steps will easily repay the few pennies that they cost per day. We believe that our active sales campaign will give us an opportunity to help our members plan telephone service that will be adequate for their needs."

Mr. McDonald also announced that effective April 17, the co-op would install as a prize one inside colored extension telephone with monthly charges free for six months. Members of the co-op may enter the contest by submitting an application blank and completing in 25 words or less the statement: "An extension telephone is necessary because . . ." The blank must be mailed to the Yadkin Valley Telephone Membership Corporation not later than April 15. The neatness of the entry will not be judged. Application blanks have been mailed to co-op members.

'Let God Be True'

J. B. WHITAKER

In II Cor. 3:2 we read, "Ye are our epistle written in our hearts, known and read of all men." We are known and read by others. Many do not read anything else in the religious sphere other than the lives of those who are Christians.

Each person, Christian or non-Christian, has influence. Many find it hard to realize this fact. We have the privilege of making many choices but we cannot choose whether or not we will have an influence. When people observe us they read a message.

People read a good message or a bad message when they observe you. Jesus says there is no middle ground (Matt. 12:30). We are either for or against Him. Those who do not have a good influence have a bad one. People sometimes speak of someone "losing his influence." Such a statement is a misnomer. You might lose your good influence, but you automatically have a bad one. You might lose yourself in a large city, flee to the mountains and live the life of a hermit, but your influence still affects others.

We read by others without knowing it. Our actions sometimes influence others to not. This fact should cause us to be exceedingly careful. No right-thinking person can say, "I do not care what people think." I Cor. 8 is a wonderful chapter on the attitude we should have with reference to influencing others. Paul declared there that he would eat no more meat so long as the world stood if doing so would cause a brother to offend.

In what ways are we read? In our speech. This is normally the first thing folk notice. Do you talk in such way that when people leave they feel that they have read a cheap, ten-cent piece of trashy literature? Watch your words! We are also read in our daily lives. A steady, consistent life leads people to the Lord (I Peter 3:1). We also influence others by our attitude toward the church. The church must mean everything to me if I convince others that it means anything to them. Influence is immortal. (Heb. 11:4 and Mark 14:9). On-

Davie Farmers Are Losing S.S. Benefits

Davie County farmers are losing money. Whose fault is it? Social Security benefits to farmers and their families are available to eligible farmers. What are these eligibility requirements?

For Male Farmers:

1. Attained age 65 before April 1, 1958. (For women same except attain age 62).
2. Farmed for at least 2 years out of 3 years — 1955, 1956, 1957, and netted $400 or grossed $600. (For 1955, grossed $800).
3. Filed tax returns and paid social security tax.
4. Filed application.

There are many farmers that meet requirements 1 and 2 and many of these need to do only 3 and 4 to get benefits. It is those persons who meet test 1 and 2 and who have not filed their tax returns nor filed an application, that are losing money.

S. W. Miller, Social Security representative for Davie County, advises that one day in this past February, out of 8 farmers who made application, 6 of these had lost 10 months benefits for himself, his wife and children. As minimum family benefit is $45, this was at least $2,700 lost forever to Davie County.

If you are 65 and farmed in 1955, 1956 and 1957, or any two of these years, and netted $400 in these years or grossed $800 in 1955, or $600 in 1956 and 1957, contact your Social Security Office in Salisbury, located at 100 Corblier Ave., immediately. Their telephone number is 7041 or 7042. Mr. Miller is at the Court House in Mocksville on the first and third Fridays of each month.

Don't you be one of the losers. Don't let your wife and family suffer want or need because you just couldn't find time to see about your Social Security.

The REA Phone And What It Means To The Schools

By CURTIS PRICE
Supt. Davie County Schools.

The schools of Davie County are located in widely separated sections of the county. Many times during the week it is necessary to contact these schools for smooth running of lunch rooms, school buses, and for the many items of business in connection with the schools. One principal may want to call the office for clearing a question. Another may have a broken water line, water pump, or there may be a sick pupil needing medical attention before being removed from the school. A quick call over the telephone can bring a ready response and within minutes or an hour or two, things will be moving forward as usual. Without REA telephones many of these important items connected with the smooth running of a school would take up the time of someone, and it may be the next day or several days plus a lot of expensive digging before things could be brought to normal.

To make an announcement known before we had REA telephones, it was necessary for someone, usually the superintendent or one of the staff, to drive from school to school to inform the principals of matters that would immediately affect all the schools. REA telephones have helped greatly to eliminate stress and strain in the running of schools in the county.

Davie County has many parents, one or both of whom work in Winston-Salem, Lexington, Salisbury, or in other nearby towns. These people have reason many times to contact the schools regarding their pupils and changes in the home schedule. Telephones in the schools and in the homes have made it practical to call and have understandings in minutes instead of having to wait for hours.

Calls to the local hospital makes for quick admittance for people who have acute or rush cases. Many times tractors in the fields can be running within an hour after a breakdown; without telephones it would take a day or two.

I feel that the installation of REA telephones in Davie County has made the entire people of the county a more contented and happier people. It has saved lives, had mad schools run smoother, and has contributed to a happier home life.

MRS. J. FRANK CLEMENT

"WAKE UP AND READ"
How about your public library? Is your public library all it should be? Is it up to standard? And who says what is "standard?"

Your public library can be a vital part of your community life. It should have everything people need for information, research, recreation—such as plenty of books, pamphlets, magazines, and maps. It should be an open door to knowledge and a fuller life for everyone: student, homemaker, businessman, sportsman, gardener, music lover, for a child learning how to live and for older ones learning how to enjoy life longer. Does your public library really serve all the people?

Every American should have a good library service close at hand, whether in a city or county library, branch or bookmobile.

Is your public library designed for service?

Your public library should be easily accessible, clearly identified, comfortable, and efficient. The central library should be within short driving distance, and bookmobile stops located so that older youngsters can go there on foot.

Is your public library well staffed?

Every library system should have professionally trained librarians, and at least one full-time worker for each 2,500 population in area served.

How about your public library? Is Davie County Public Library all it should be? Is it up to the above standard? And who says what is "standard?"

In the over-all picture we know that our library, while we are proud of its growth and development, has much room for improvement. However, it does help the morale of the Library Board, who make the policies, and the librarians who try to carry out these policies, to get works of appreciation from patrons. The following quotes from some of our citizens who really appreciate the Davie County Public Library and the Bookmobile service.

From a college student: "Education is not a mere collection of hundreds of facts, figures, and formulas. It is the ability to find the answer to the many perplexing problems of life. One of the most valuable assets in a community for this, is the library. I discovered this when I had to write some research papers in college and to my amazement, I was able to secure almost all of my information from the Davie County Public Library. Surely, if this library can run competition with a large college library, it can furnish you with a lot of good reading. I have found it to be a great help to me and I urge you to get into the habit of reading and patronizing our library." James L. Roberts.

What the Davie County Public Library means to a rural community, in this instance, Farmington: "Our appreciation for the pleasure, inspiration, and information which has been made possible for me through the facilities of the county library, can not be expressed in mere printed words." Mrs. Mildred P. Johnson.

"Long before the advent of the bookmobile and the enormous growth of our library, some of us were taking books from the old brick store, these collections being made available from the main library." Mrs. R. D. Shore.

"A discriminating staff, alert, and ever interested in the tastes of its various readers is giving us the best." Mrs. Frank Bahusson.

"Come bookmobile day, and be is said we have been waiting that day, shuffling along, arms loaded, bags full, an occasional child's wagon called into service, we meet for a visit with friends. The thrill of a new book, an old familiar one to be re-read—such wealth, such happiness! Thanks to our sponsors: Federal, State, County and Town!" Mrs. J. Frank Johnson.

"What would I ever have done without this privilege?" Mrs. Marion Johnson.

"I feel that this is a public service, with which I could not now dispense. I am not a traveler, even a limited one, but I do travel as far as a book can take me, and by mind can reach. Nothing in the way of cultural advantages can excel the opportunities the Davie County Public Library affords its rural readers." Miss Blanche Brock.

"To paraphrase a commercial 'For the best in pleasure, enlarge your horizon on any subject. Join the many satisfied customers of the Davie County Public Library.'" Mrs. B. R. Bennett.

What the Davie County public library means to a busy housewife in the county:

"The library means several things to me. One, of course, being the excellent sources of information, that the library has

Farm Records Needed For Social Security Claim

"A number of social security claims based on farm earnings have been turned down in Davie County because the claimants did not keep records and were not able to prove that they had the income reported," J. David Bryan, field representative of the Salisbury Social Security Office, reported today.

"It is a well-known saying that 'ignorance of the law is no excuse,'" Mr. Bryan said, "and that applies to keeping records and filing social security tax returns on time. Social security benefits cannot be based on guess-work, and estimates of income won't do. While there is an optional reporting system which permits farmers to pay social security taxes on two thirds of their gross income instead of the actual net profit, the taxpayer who had not kept a current record of expenses would not be able to tell at the end of the year which method was better for him."

Mr. Bryan expressed concern that some younger farmers may not be keeping up with their tax reports. Failure to do that will make it difficult, if not impossible, for the widow and children to collect benefits, he said, in the event of the farmer's death, and benefits might not be payable at all because he has not been under social security long enough.

to offer. "But, I think that the word that expresses the greatest thing that it means to me is pleasure—just pure, straight, pleasure. Since I read every spare moment that I have, I am always going to the library, and there I find the new books, the books on the best seller lists. It also means a lot to me, to be able to borrow the old favorites that we love to read and re-read over and over again. I, for one, would be completely lost without the country library." Mrs. Wade Furches.

From a mother who is as much interested in her children's mental health as their physical development: "As a mother, the Public Library is almost as essential as the grocery store. The wonderful, varied and numerous stock of books on the library shelves is free mental food for my children." Mrs. Joseph C. Jones.

From a teacher: "The Davie County Public Library with its distribution of books by the bookmobile, has meant a lot of our school and to the members of our community as well as surrounding communities. We find that the pupils enjoy having a wider selection of books that can be afforded from our school library. They look forward each month to the exchange of books; many check out books for the older members of their family. If a certain book is not on the bookmobile, Mrs. Etchison takes a note of the request and presto! the book is soon on hand, this is done with a cheerfulness that shows her eagerness to cooperate. We certainly want the Davie Library to continue serving us." Mrs. Lucille Cornatzer, Shady Grove School, Advance.

High School girls show their appreciation: "Reading is my favorite pastime, therefore, the library means much to me. I like to go to the library, look over the stacks, select a few good books, check them out and read to my heart's content. The library offers a chance to visit different countries of the world and to see how other people live and the wonderful world of science, art, music, fiction. Books can offer great hours of enchantment to any teenager." Freddy Murphy.

"To me, the library means a place where I find quietness and am able to concentrate. It is a place where I spend my free time, and gain valuable information about many things that help me. Through the library I am able to gain new materials for themes and other school papers. I can always find enjoyable books to read just for fun and pleasure. Without the library I certainly could have had the opportunity of knowing the wealth of world literature which is to be found there. I think that it is necessary for everyone to be a frequent visitor and user of our public library." Diane Smith.

And from a minister comes the following: "I want to thank you for your list of Great Books to be had in our library. I thought so much of it that I posted it on the bulletin board of my church." Mr. Byerly, pastor of Macedonia Moravian Church.

Get in your answers to the Book Quiz. The first, most complete list will be awarded a prize the afternoon of the library open house, which will be held in the main library on the afternoon of March 21 from 3-5, will be the culmination of National Library Week.

Build a stronger, richer life...

WORSHIP TOGETHER EVERY WEEK!

You know the hymn—"How firm a Foundation?" Of course you do. But it's more than a hymn. To many it is a way of life.

The foundation is faith. Faith that gives every day a shining new quality. Faith that provides a strong shelter in time of need. Faith that sustains you in sickness and trouble, that makes life a great adventure, truly worth living.

One does not find faith in a vacuum. You find it as a member of a family, as a member of a community. Worshiping together every week, with those you love, with others who believe as you do—gives you a closeness, a strength to carry you through with hope and courage.

You can build a stronger, richer life—on a firm foundation of faith. Worship together this week . . . every week!

Retail Spending Remains High Locally

A comprehensive survey of consumer buying in the nation's retail stores in the twelve months preceding the business setback shows that the Davie County market was a vigorous one in the period.

With local incomes at a high level, consumers spent freely for goods and services. The buying surge was in evidence, for the most part, in stores selling non-durables, which attracted the biggest part of the household dollar.

The retail spending picture is revealed in the annual report of the Standard Rate and Data Service for the fiscal year ending July 1, 1957.

In Davie County stores, it shows, consumer spending reached a total of $9,542,000 in the year.

Not all of this retail strength can be credited, however, to increased buying on the part of the public. The creeping rise in the cost of living had much to do with boosting the dollar volume. Nevertheless, the higher costs were more than counterbalanced by the better incomes that prevailed.

Locally, per household, the amount available for spending, after taxes, averaged $4,200, an increase over the previous year's $4,120.

How did Davie County residents apportion their expenditures in the year? The answer is to be seen in the gross volume reported for the various kinds of retail business. Included are:

Food stores, whose sales came to $3,053,000, equivalent to 32 per cent of the total retail outlay.

Places selling automobiles and other automotive equipment, $2,021,000, equal to 21 per cent.

Stores selling general merchandise, $883,000, amounting to 9 per cent.

Apparel stores, $144,000, or nearly two per cent.

Home furnishings establishments, $547,000, equivalent to six per cent.

The consuming public proved to be the bulwark of the economy, continuing to buy at a high level despite the talk of a forthcoming recession. Even now, in the midst of a broad decline, the confidence persists that a resumption of good times cannot be too far off. This is evidenced by January retail sales volume, which was four per cent above that of January, 1957.

The Center Fire Department

The Center Community appears to be well on its way towards having a volunteer fire department.

At the present time they have an organization that is functioning. They have raised a considerable amount of money and are making plans to raise more. They have already purchased a 2,000 gallon tanker to haul water. And recently the announcement was made that a modern equipped fire truck would soon be purchased.

The Center Volunteer Fire Department will mean much to each and every citizen of that area. It will mean much to the farm and home owner to know that there is a fire department in his area capable of saving his property. The training will mean much to the individual volunteer fireman as he learns more about fire, how to prevent it and how to extinguish various types of blazes. This training alone, when carried back into the farms and homes of the various members, means much.

However, one of the foremost assets to a community of a rural fire department is the pride and cooperative spirit it engenders among all the people. It brings together people of varying religious and political faiths, as well as varying personalities. It brings them together in the spirit of striving to help others should the need arise.

The purchase of a new truck by the Center VFD will be the beginning of a new era for that community. It will give an added meaning and purpose to the organization that now exists. However, it will require the support of the people of the community. Such support will give deeper appreciation and a feeling of greater pride to the individual, everytime the Volunteer Fire Department renders a service.

World Is Getting Warmer

Over the last 40 or 50 years the earth has been getting warmer, the National Geographic Society reports.

The change is gradual and there have been short-term reverses, but science has proved grandfather correct: Today's winters are not as cold as those he knew as a boy.

Warmer weather has both advantages and disadvantages.

A New Yorker who awakes to the liquid cadences of the mockingbird, once the avian symbol of the south, or the Canadian wheat grower who finds farming possible 50 miles north of the former limit may be delighted.

A different view may be taken by a New England waterman who finds tropical green crabs threatening his clam beds, or the skier who is forced to go farther and higher to find snow.

All forms of wildlife have been affected. Turkey vultures soar in western Massachusetts, where they were not seen 15 years ago. White egrets stalk the Middle Atlantic marshes. In South Dakota and Minnesota, the cardinal clashes at ever more northerly points.

Reports indicate that the moose and the polar bear, as well as the common opossum, are finding haunts well north of their former ranges.

Ocean dwellers are changing their feeding grounds. Warm-water fish have been moving up the California coast. Dolphin were taken last year as far north as Oregon.

Weather patterns have been disrupted. Last year, for the first time in history, a hurricane struck Hawaii. At Point Barrow, the northernmost part of Alaska, the ice went out earlier in 1957 than ever before.

Changes have also taken place on the Atlantic. The life of the Greenland Eskimo has been revolutionized. Seals provided meat, skins for clothing and shelter, and oil for lamps.

When warmer weather drove the seals north, the economy was wrecked. But codfish moved north, too, and became plentiful near Greenland. The Eskimos turned to fishing which offered income, but not all the uses of the seals. They were forced to convert to a money-based economy.

As the world's icecaps melt and glaciers become smaller, more water is released to the oceans. The sea level has been rising an eighth of an inch a year. If it continues, some coastal cities eventually may have to build dikes.

Climatologists differ on the cause of the warming. Some see the change as part of the Ice Age cycle, with the ice retreating as it has several times before.

Possibly, climatologists hold, gradual clearing from the atmosphere of the dust thrown up by huge volcanic eruptions of the past, such as Krakatau (1883) and Katmai (1912), has allowed more of the sun's heat to strike the earth. Other theories tie the change to sunspot cycles, or to an increase in carbon dioxide in the air caused by man's burning of fuels.

Will the trend continue? Again there is dispute. Some scientists forecast a century of warmer weather. Others, noting increases in the sizes of certain glaciers, believe the cycle may have reached its warmest point, and is about to reverse itself.

Hawaii's Moun Waialeale is probably the world's rainiest spot, the National Geographic Magazine says. Waialeale's annual rainfall averages 489 inches. In a recent year, 624 inches poured down. Strangely, only 20 inches a year fall on Waimanalo, a coastal town just 15 miles away.

Dahlias, though named after Swedish botanist Andreas Dahl, were first used as food by ancient Mexicans. The tubers contain a healthful starchy substance, inulin, according to "The World in Your Garden," a new book published by the National Geographic Society.

SENATOR SAM ERVIN ★ SAYS ★

WASHINGTON — As further evidence of the Senate's concern with the economic situation, two concurrent resolutions were proposed last week by Lyndon Johnson, Democratic Majority Leader. I was glad to join in as co-sponsor of the resolutions along with many other Senate members.

Relieve Economic Distress. The resolutions seek to spur action on present military and civilian construction projects in order to relieve unemployment. Funds have already been appropriated for these varied and widely scattered projects, but it is felt that actual work on these should be speeded up.

Support by both Democrats and Republicans show unwillingness by Congress to accept the Administration viewpoint of waiting longer before taking action of this sort.

One resolution deals with civilian construction and the other with military projects. Except for the designation of civil and military, the wording of the two is identical. They read as follows:

"Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That since there is substantial and growing unemployment in many areas of the country; since many of the productive facilities of our economy are either idle or only partially occupied; since there is a clear danger involved in permitting an economic downturn to continue unchecked until it becomes unmanageable and unresponsive to even a maximum effort to take corrective action; and since there are many authorized and urgently needed civil (and military) construction projects for which substantial appropriations have already been made;

"It is hereby declared to be the sense of the Congress that all such construction programs for which funds have been appropriated should be accelerated to the greatest practicable extent so as to achieve the desirable objectives of reducing unemployment, putting our productive facilities to fuller use, and moving forward the date of completion of these projects which will contribute greatly to enhanced national productivity and continued economic growth and prosperity."

Expression of Congress. As Senator Johnson said in introducing the Resolutions, Congress is not the action arm of the Government in this matter. He pointed out that while we can grant authority and make appropriations, Congress cannot administer the laws nor can we actually construct the projects that will put people to work.

He underscored the importance of the Resolutions when he said that Congress can and should express our feeling that the action arm of the Government, the executive, should accelerate the projects.

TEXT: "Quick believers need broad shoulders." — George Herbert.

An angry man stormed into the newspaper editor's office, shouting, "My name is Arthur Jones! You printed in today's paper that I am dead!"

"There obviously is some mistake," assured the editor. "I'm very sorry it happened."

"Very sorry," sneered Jones. "Did you realize what a fix I'd be in if I believed everything I read in the paper?"

It's good to have beliefs, but Ovid advised, "Do not believe hastily." Quick believers are swept into regrettable blunders. Unfortunately our quick beliefs are not the result of honest understanding and frank appraisal. We believe emotionally. We are lazy and indifferent. We do not work out our beliefs for ourselves. We are satisfied to have others tell us. We believe the one who tells us most vigorously and most often.

Think for a moment about your regrets. You'll find that most of them occurred because you believed someone or something too quickly. You didn't have the knowledge and didn't make the effort to establish a defensible belief. If you had, there would be no regrets. By all means — believe! To quote Ovid again, "No storm harms the man who believes." However, do not believe hastily. Understand what you believe and why. Copyright 1957 Fred Dodge.

WASHINGTON REPORT

By SENATOR W. KERR SCOTT

WASHINGTON — "If my critics are saying we are doing too much for farmers, I must take issue."

Believe it or not, but the person who made that statement was Secretary of Agriculture Benson. I don't think anybody will disagree with what the befuddled Benson said in this particular instance, but it has taken him a long time to see the light.

The statement was made in an attempt to refute charges that Benson has unnecessarily run up the cost of operating the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Of course the Secretary got indignant when such a thing was suggested. I suppose he figured he's rise up on his hind legs and lit the world know that more ought to be done for farmers.

On the other hand, considering what he has done—and deliberately — to destroy the farm program, it is hard to believe he would make such a statement.

In fact, the whole purpose of the Benson farm plan is to give less and less assistance to farmers.

In order to help stop the Benson plan for lower and lower farm prices, the Senate Agriculture Committee last week voted overwhelmingly to turn down, in effect, the new Benson — Eisenhower farm price program. Benson and the President have asked Congress to give the Secretary of Agriculture authority to make additional sharp reductions in the price support level.

It is obvious that there is very little support for such proposals in Congress. When the Senate committee voted last week, only three committee members — of a total of 15 members — voted against a resolution that would freeze all price supports at the 1957 level for this crop year.

Until this year, the Senate Agriculture Committee has been almost evenly divided on the Benson farm price program. The fact that only three members of the committee are still willing to go along with the Administration on its farm price support proposals is evidence enough that Benson and his policies are steadily losing favor.

There is no way of knowing how long the Secretary and the President will refuse to fact facts about their policies, but Congress does not seem to be in any mood to listen to their proposals any more.

Instead, Congress is going about its own business of writing a new farm price support program. Whether or not it will be the answer, there is no way of knowing. But one thing is sure: it will be an improvement over what we have now.

SOFT SOAP

Beware of the man who is always shaking your hand — he may shake your confidence later.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

THE PROPOSAL . . .

When he was in Raleigh to address the 11th annual meeting of Tobacco Associates, Congressman Harold D. Cooley — ever the excellent speaker and good story teller, related an event he said occurred when President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon were laying out their now famous agreement in the event Ike should become unable to carry on his official duties.

Cooley said the story in Washington is that the arrangement was set up at the White House about a year ago when the President was desperately ill. As he lay there under the oxygen tent, he called in Hagerly and Adams and asked them to have Nixon come over for the assignment of official duties of President as a guide for him in case it became necessary for him to take over.

In came the Vice President. And as he lay there under the tent, the President went over the important items. When he had finished, he told Nixon that his assistant would fill him in with further details.

The Vice President, deeply touched by this sudden display of confidence in him, stood erect, looked firmly at Ike and said: "Mr. President, you have done so much for me here. Now what can I do for you?"

"Well," said the President, "first of all, Nick, I'd thank you to take your foot off that oxygen tent tube."

There will be five special awards of $100 each.

ESSAY CONTEST . . . High school students in grades from nine through 12 are eligible to enter the First Citizens Bank and Trust Co.'s $1,500 essay contest which runs until midnight, May 15. First prize, $500; second prize, $300; third prize, $200, etc. and to enter they should write to Free Enterprise Contest, POB 2845, Raleigh.

SCHOOL FIRES . . . The recent tragedy in Kentucky involving school children brings to our attention the fact that fires plague our schools in North Carolina.

The N. C. Dept. of Public Instruction finds that about 35 per cent of school fires come from electrical systems — from overloading or short circuit wiring. Heating and cooking equipment accounts for about 18 per cent. Other causes: incendiary, 12 per cent; smoking and matches, 11 per cent; rags and mops, 5 per cent; gas explosions, 3 per cent; light bulbs and candles, one per cent; sparks on roof, one per cent, etc.

The worst school fires in North Carolina in 1957 came in Surry County; at Flat Rock and at another school also just west from Mt. Airy.

Greatest loss of life from school fires reported for North Carolina by the National Fire Protection Association was on Nov. 16, 1917, when seven children were burned to death in an elementary school in Asheville. They had escaped, but returned to get their clothing and were trapped in the flames.

PROMOTION? . . . C. V. Henkel, Jr., was one of the most outspoken critics of the Hodges administration in the last session of the General Assembly.

This big, heavy fellow from Iredell has a foghorn voice and a full-blown personality. Well, he has unexpected opposition in C. B. Winbery of Statesville, judge of recorder's court there for 26 years.

When he announced for the State Senate against Henkel last week, the Statesville Record and Landmark gave Judge Winbery 26 column inches of type. That's good. But something better awaits him should he beat out Henkel: a superior Court judgeship from a grateful Governor.

IN PENCIL . . . A few months ago an outstanding Congressman from North Carolina told us he paid more attention to a post card received from a constituent than he did to a telegram. Said he: "The telegrams sound too much alike, as a rule. You can see the sender has not put any thought into it — and in fact frequently does not know himself what he is writing about. Why can't our people take the time to write a card or a letter in their own words any more? You'd think if they really deeply cared about something, they could take the time and trouble to write. But no. All we get is wires. They come in like maple leaves in October."

The other day we read that House Speaker Sam Rayburn, in sorting out his mail, gives his personal attention to letters or post cards written in pencil.

"I figure," he was quoted as saying, "that if a man writes me with a pencil, his problem is pretty important to him."

Makes sense?

IN THE CABINET . . . What will Gov. Luther Hodges do when he vacates the Governor's Office? What are his ambitions?

Everybody when Kerr Scott would run for the U. S. Senate, had William B. Umstead lived, he would have returned to law practice as did R. Oran Cherry and J. C. B. Ehringhaus before him. Clyde R. Hoey went to the U. S. Senate, and so did J. M. Broughton.

But Luther Hodges had retired even before he became Governor. He is not an attorney. The word here is that he has finally and definitely given up the idea of opposing Kerr Scott for U. S. Senate.

But he is keeping his hand in the Vice Presidency talk. He seems to be casting his lot with Senator Kennedy. So, don't be too much surprised if he lands a place in the cabinet — if Kennedy is the man.

THE HONEST D.A.R.'S . . . About the only thing left you don't have to register to attend is the church.

We were reminded of this last week when Daughters of the American Revolution were holding a meeting in Raleigh. On the mezzanine of the Hotel Sir Walter, they had lined up before tables unattended, efficient looking ladies. Before they lay the usual note pads and other accoutrements of the registration desk.

On the same day, Tobacco Associates — all men — were holding their half-day meeting at the Sir Walter. And, each man had to go by, or near, the D.A.R. registration desk to get into the morning program.

"We could have collected $5,000 — and no questions asked," said out Mrs. Emory B. Denny, one of the registrars and wife of the State Supreme Court Justice. We stood and watched for a moment. Sure enough, as each man came up the steps toward the ballroom where Tobacco Associates Head J. B. Hudson and others were holding forth, he would slide over to that D.A.R. registration desk, meantime reaching for his pocketbook. "How much is it please?" he would ask.

Finally in desperation the D.A.R.'s honest people that they are, put up a little sign reading: "D.A.R. REGISTRATION - DESK." After that, everything went all right until one visiting farmer came by and said he was through with tobacco farming and wanted to "join up with the Soil Bank."

THE BOUT . . . Although the Atlantic Coast Conference Basketball Tournament, held here last week was a great success, they could have attracted a crowd of 50,000 any day they had wanted to by putting gloves on Carolina Coach Frank McGuire, Duke Football Coach Bill Murray, with Carolina Grid Coach Big Jim Tatum in there as referee.

We think Tatum would have been an impartial official.

WHY?

Do We Have Chorus Girls?

Theatre in any form we know is bjan with the dramas of ancient Greece. Earliest of these were the Dionysian "Revels" in which the principal attraction was a singing and dancing chorus of fifty men, impersonating satyr followers of the wine god Bacchus, prancing about half-clad in goatskin.

In our musical revues — various follies, frolics, sendals, and vanities whose kinship to "Revels" is obvious — as many chorus girls prance on stage considerably less than half-clad in baretin.

Where lower rate of Nitrogen is used, reduce rate of applied phosphorus and/or potash by one-third.

March Egg Month

March has again been declared nationally as Egg Month. The North Carolina Poultry Council is cooperating in this consumer education program. The March Egg Month program is designed to feature eggs. Theme for this year's program is "Eggs are Right — Morning, Noon, and Night."

The poultry industry is big business in North Carolina, being the second largest source of income. Eggs are available and they are nutritious. Consumers need to know how to buy eggs to get the most in food value and money value. Eggs aren't new — they have been around for centuries.

North Carolinians consumed about 350 eggs per person in 1957. This was about one dozen less than the number consumed by the average American. Storage eggs do not necessarily indicate eggs of inferior quality. Eggs containing bloodspots are edible. Objection is on the basis of appearance rather than wholesomeness. Dark colored yolks do not signify poor quality but indicate that the producing hen has been fed lots of greens and yellow corn. About two-thirds of the food matter in an egg is water. Eggs transported from other areas can easily be of equal quality to local eggs. Grade A eggs kept at temperatures of 55 to 100 degrees for one day usually are lowered in quality to Grade B. There's a season of the year when each size of egg is in plentiful supply. Buy the size most hens are laying at the time you purchase.

Shell color may vary from white to deep brown. Color is a breed characteristic. Shell color does not affect the flavor, the nutritive value or cooking performance. Neither is it a guide to yolk color. There is no advantage to the consumer to pay more for brown or white eggs of the same quality and size.

High nutritional value, versatility in cooking, mild, delicate flavor and ready availability characterize the eggs as unique among foods. The egg deserves the attention of the homemaker who plans and prepares family meals as well as the individual who dines out.

Proper refrigeration helps to maintain the original quality of eggs. Eggs may be stored commercially for several months at temperatures as low as 32 degrees F. In the home, egg quality is maintained by storage in the refrigerator. Whenever possible buy eggs that have been kept under refrigeration.

Eggs are graded on the basis of outside appearance, weight and interior quality. The grade shown on the carton clearly indicates the quality. Some eggs are candled to determine the grade. Grade tells both inside and outside quality. Inside — the condition of the yolk and the white, and gives a clue to flavor quality. Outside — whether shells are clean, well-shaped and unbroken.

U. S. Grade AA and A: Table eggs especially for cooking in shell, poaching or frying.

U. S. Grade B: Table eggs, also for baking and other cooking.

U. S. Grade C: For baking and other cooking.

Eggs are sold by the dozen, yet consumers should know what weight they are, to get their money's worth. Each weight class designates size according to U. S. Standards. How much do eggs weigh per dozen?

Large, 1½ pounds to 1 pound 10 ounces.

Medium: 1 pound five ounces to 1 pound 7 ounces

Small: 1 pound 2 ounces to 1 pound 4 ounces

Small eggs are usually more plentiful in the late summer and fall months. The size does not affect the quality but does affect price. The various quantities of eggs may be found in all sizes. Weight for weight the nutritive value and the cooking performance of small eggs is equal to that of large eggs of the same quality.

Poultry Suggestions

March, 1958

From time to time, this question arises — which type of feeder or trough is better for feeding chickens? With good management and plenty of feeds there would be little if any difference in results secured from using either type of feeder. The Maine Experiment Station ran a test on broilers using the tube type of feeder and the floor trough type. The results showed very little difference from the second week to the tenth week for these two types of feeders in average weight, feed efficiency, feed cost per pound of meat and per cent mortality. They listed the following advantages for the hanging tube feeder: (1) easier to keep the feed clean in hoppers as it was easy to change the height of the hanging feeders; (2) only one type of hopper was necessary from start to finish; (3) easier to get good hopper distribution in the pens; (4) less tendency to fill hoppers too full; and (5) tube hoppers took up one-third of floor space that trough hoppers required. They listed the following advantages for the floor trough feeders: (1) more durable; (2) no moving parts to get out of adjustment which sometimes happened with tube feeders and allowed too much or too little feed for the birds; (3) easier to store; (4) no bridging over of mash feeds as sometimes happens with hanging feeders.

In the 8th California Random Sample Egg Laying Test, entries were tested on the floor and in cages. In the floor pens the 3150 birds averaged 268 eggs per pullet while the 1780 individual caged birds averaged 242 eggs each on ten-day basis. The average mortality was heavier for floor birds (14.5 per cent) than for cage layers (10 per cent). The interior quality, shell thickness, egg weight and egg sizes ran about the same for both cage and floor layers. The cage hens had a little higher per cent blood and meat spots for the average bird entered that the floor birds. Future tests of floor and cage birds should show interesting results. A one-year test is not sufficient data to draw final conclusions. The choice of keeping hens in cages or on the floor is up to the individual poultryman.

JEFFERSON STANDARD REPORTS TO POLICYHOLDERS

This 51st Annual Report reflects another successful year of operations for Jefferson Standard.

Life insurance sales for 1957 were $229,822,210, an increase over 1956 of nearly $6,000,000. Total insurance in force as of December 31 amounted to $1,708,566,863, an increase of 7.8% for the year.

At the end of the year, Company assets amounted to $496,805,341, an increase of $33,870,398 during 1957.

Payments to policyholders and beneficiaries in 1957 amounted to $23,292,416, 63% of which went to living policyholders. During the half century of Company service just closed, the basic purpose of life insurance has been served by the payment of more than $321,921,296 to our policyholders and beneficiaries.

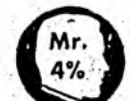

Jefferson Standard, now guaranteeing 2½% on policies currently issued, has never paid less than 4% interest on dividend accumulations and on policy proceeds left with the Company to provide income. 4% is the highest rate paid by any major life insurance company in the United States. This means extra income to policyholders and beneficiaries.

DAVIE COUNTY ELEMENTARY BASKETBALL TEAMS

This year a new program was instituted in the elementary schools of Davie County—basketball.

Last fall Superintendent Curtis Price met with the principals of five elementary schools and outlined plans for elementary basketball play during the year. At that time many felt that it was on an experimental basis—that it might be a question mark as to support and acceptance by the public. Last week the final games of the 1957-58 season were played and there is no longer any doubt about its acceptance by the public.

Probably just about everyone looking at this page saw one or more games between these elementary teams during the past year. To anyone having seen even one of these games, no explanation is necessary as to the enthusiasm of the fans and players alike. It would be the understatement of the year to say that the program was enthusiastically accepted and liked by all.

The Cooleemee boys team and the Advance girls team went through the season undefeated. The Mocksville boys and the Cooleemee girls lost only two games each and were runners-up. However, more important than the season record is what it did for the players themselves, the students of the school and their parents.

This elementary basketball play will do much to help the high school varsity in years to come. A good athlete has to begin young. The program enabled approximately 260 boys and girls of the county to actively participate in basketball. Of course not all will go on to play high school basketball, but many will and the others will never forget their experience on these teams.

To the students of the individual schools, the basketball games were inspirations for school spirit. Such school spirit was always manifested at the games, regardless of whether their teams were winning or losing.

Also, a very important aspect of the program was the training of the parents in the know-how of basketball and getting their interest. The attendance of a youngster at this age usually requires that the parents accompany. This brought out many parents who would ordinarily not go to a ball game and probably established an interest in the sport that will continue on for sometime.

In addition to Supt. Curtis Price, appreciation for making the program such a success should be expressed to the principals of the five elementary schools involved: S. G. Wallace of Farmington; J. M. Smith of Advance; Roy Marsh of Mocksville; V. G. Prim of Cooleemee; and Leonard Crotts of Smith Grove.

The coaches of the teams were as follows: Cooleemee boys and girls, Tom Ridenohur; Mocksville boys, D. C. Redmond, and Mocksville girls, Mrs. Flake Hayes. Advance boys and girls, Vestal Potts; Farmington boys and girls, S. G. Wallace; Smith Grove girls, Mrs. Frances Ellis, Smith Grove boys, "Shorty" Ellis and Darwin Allen.

UNCLE DAVE FROM DAVIE Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Great handiwork was falling fast in the nation last week.

Smith Brothers cough drops went from a nickel to a dime. That was the last stronghold of the American nickel. The year gold was discovered in California these brothers put their heads together and set the price of their new cough remedy at a nickel.

Buffalo roamed the prairies, the Civil War came and went, railroads was built, Dan McGrew was shot, more and bigger wars came and went, telephones, television, jots, electric razors, but the Smith Brothers held fast, last week up in upstate New York the directors had a meeting and decided it couldn't go on forever. It was a sad day.

About the same time, in downstate New York, Sophie Tucker, known everywhere as "the last of the red hot mamas," announced her retirement. Another old landmark had fell.

Then in Washington, President Ike stated again he was holding steady for that five-cent postage stamp on mail out of town. Congressmen Barrett of Illinois suggested that the first series of these new stamps ought to carry a picture of two pirates. I would suggest that the second series have a picture of Jessie James with his horse and gun.

But while things seemed to be falling apart everywhere, there

Registration Cards

The State Highway Patrol has called attention to the fact that North Carolina law requires that the motor vehicle registration card must be always in possession of the operator of that vehicle.

State Highway Patrolman A. W. Cox said that checks in this area revealed that the operator of motor vehicles were not carrying these registration cards, and therefore were in violation of the law.

Catawba Man Heads District School Boards

Dr. L. M. Caldwell of Newton-Connor was elected president of District 13, North Carolina School Board Association, Thursday night at a meeting at the Mocksville School.

The new president is chairman of the Newton-Connor City School Board. He replaces J. H. Harrellson of Salisbury.

Other new officers are J. B. Cain, chairman of the Davie County Board of Education, and Harry Arndt, superintendent of the Catawba County Schools.

About 150 representatives from Alexander, Catawba, Davie, Iredell and Rowan counties attended the panel meeting and dinner.

Panel discussions were held on curriculum study, guidance, special education, teaching personnel and financing the public schools.

Prof. Fred T. Hollis of Pfeiffer Junior College at Misenheimer spoke on the study that has been made on curriculum at North Rowan Consolidated High School.

The 1959 meeting of the group will be held at Newton-Connor.

A barbecued chicken dinner was served by the home economics department of the Davie County High School.

Supt. Curtis Price welcomed the group to Mocksville. The high school glee club under the direction of Paul Reichle rendered two numbers.

REPUBLICAN MEETING

There will be a meeting of the Republicans of Davie County at the court house on Friday night, March 28, at 7:30. The purpose of this meeting is to organize a Young Republican Club for Davie County. Jerry K. Green, State chairman of the YRC will be the main speaker and help in organizing the club. It is urged that all Republican women and men of Davie County be present for this meeting.

was one ray of hope. Up in West Sank Lake, N. Y., the West Sand Lake Association for Protection Against Horse Thieves held its 109th annual meeting. Now there's a group of fellows that's got the proper determination. If we had more like 'em Smith Bros. cough drops would still be a nickel and Sophie Tucker would be announcing her plans for 1970.

Well, I set down when Congress convened and wrote my Congressman a letter. I told him, in a nutshell, that I wanted more farm relief and less taxes. I finally got a letter back from him yesterday. It was a masterpiece in business, fitness, and however, he promised a little tax reduction but mixed the promise in with a little business, and the fitness and howeverness completely outweighed the less taxness. Then fellows can write more and say less than anybody this side of eternity or on the other side of infinity.

But I think the soil bank program is safe for another two years. I see where Ike got $2,000,000 for not farming 46 acres on his Gettysburg plantation. That's the first time Ike's ever got his hands on some good farm relief money, and it's a mighty catching disease.

Yours truly,
Uncle Dave

Five Boys Fined For Trespassing

They called him all types of abusive names, followed him to his home, and dared him to come outside. His mother, Mrs. Martha Williams, grabbed a shotgun and lined the boys up against the barn and kept the gun on them until the officers arrived.

The trouble allegedly grew out of the Williams boy cooperating with officers in Davidson County in illegally purchasing beer.

Twenty-Six Members Meet Each Week For Study And Training

By GORDON TOMLINSON

A blue panel truck pulled into the parking area of the local school. Out jumped several youngsters clad in khaki coveralls and a blue flight cap. In a manner of minutes they had assembled a radio control station and were talking to points in an adjoining county.

The above serves merely as an introduction to the Mocksville Flight of the Civil Air Patrol that is now active in this area. It is composed of 26 members and meets each Monday night in the basement of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Partin on Hardison St. Lt. Harvey L. Beck is the Commanding Officer.

The Civil Air Patrol is the official civilian auxiliary of the U. S. Air Force by act of Congress of the United States. It is also chartered by the Congress to act as a non-profit corporation dedicated to the advancement of aviation.

The CAP has more than 92,000 volunteer members including approximately 52,000 cadets. The cadets are young men and young women, 14 years or older, who are engaged in an intensive aviation education program. The more than 40,000 adult members are pilots, observers, radio operators, first aid specialists, instructors, and technical specialists.

The CAP maintains a nationwide radio network of more than 10,500 fixed, mobile and airborne facilities. They operate on both medium and very high frequencies assigned by the Air Force and blanket the 48 states.

The Mocksville Flight of the CAP is mostly concerned with an educational and training program for cadets. This training program takes the form of learning the basic Army drills and training in aircraft spotting and identification, electronics, radio, radio operation, aircraft tracking, etc.

The Mocksville Flight is a part of the Salisbury Composite Squadron. This squadron was reactivated in the fall of 1955 with Captain Charles Lineback as commanding officer, Captain Lineback, a long time member of the CAP in Salisbury, is still with the squadron but is on inactive duty.

Construction will begin this spring on the squadron's own building on land adjoining the Salisbury Airport.

Last fall several youngsters in Davie County became interested in CAP work. Each week they made the trip to Salisbury to meet with the Squadron. They grew in number and soon had enough members to form the Mocksville Flight with Lt. Beck being named the commanding officer.

Lt. Harvey Beck has been active in Civil Air Patrol work for ten years. Prior to January of this year, he was personnel officer in the Charlotte Composite Squadron. He holds private license as a pilot and has long been interested in the field of aviation. (Continued on Page 5)

All who are acquainted with the course of events for the past several decades know that there has been a growing laxity in society. Many of God's ancient landmarks of moral and spiritual safety have been removed. Things which were considered wrong by most everyone just a few years ago are now engaged in by the masses quite freely. One of the things to which we are referring is dancing. Many who used to oppose dancing are now sponsoring it. Many parents, teachers, and preachers used to raise their voices in protest to the evils of dancing. Now many of them are as silent as the tombs because the cry of our age is for freedom, license, and popularity. Sin is being winked at in so many instances.

Is dancing morally safe, and is it religiously right? Consider the following evidence in the light of reason and Divine revelation. God, through Paul, lists for us in Gal. 5:19-21 the works of the flesh, "Now the works of the flesh are manifest, which are these: Adultery, fornication, uncleanness, lasciviousness." Paul lists other sins and concludes by saying, "They that practice such things shall not inherit the kingdom of God."

The word lasciviousness is defined, "Lewd; wanton; lustful. Tending to produce lewd emotions." Lewd is defined thus: "Given to indulgence of lust. Sulting or proceeding from unlawful sexual desire." Any activity that tends to produce lewd emotions, create filthy thoughts, or excite unlawful sexual desire would be classified as lascivious. NORTH CAROLINA

FACES A CHALLENGING FUTURE

North Carolina has a larger farm population than any other state (1.4 million), and ranks 2nd in actual number of farms. It is within this area of our population and land that there lies a very great potential for future development through not only better farming methods, but through industrial growth and local food processing activities.

It is also an interesting fact that in those counties where both farming and industry are most successful, the people subscribe to the "legal control" system of the sale of beer and ale because it has proven to be in the best interests of enlightened and law-abiding communities.
