James Everett Carter

James Everett Carter, 98, of Linside, W.Va. died on Friday, Dec. 21, 2012 at the Greenbrier Valley Hospital in Lewisburg, W.Va.

His parents were John Elser Carter and Sarah Kate Smith. He was born on Nov. 4, 1914 in Davie County at a place he called the "Sheek Place" at "round top hill," located off Fred Bahnson Drive near Kinderton. For five years he attended the one-room "Sheek's School House" which stood near the present Kinderton branch of Bank of America. His teacher was Miss Effie Smith, the wife of Duke Smith. Later the family inherited land and moved into an old log house which down a dirt road behind where the BBT bank is located in Bermuda Run. He said the first paid job he remembered having was carrying buckets of water from a spring at 5 cents per bucket to workers building the Mocksville to Winston Highway (US 158). He was 14 when the Great Depression hit but he said they were so poor they could not tell any difference. As a teenager he started working as a hired hand on the S. Clay Williams Farm. In 1935 he left Davie County and went to Logan County, W.Va. to work in the coal mines. When asked why he left Davie County he gave the following explanation: "My pay was 1 dollar a day working a 10 hour day on the William's Farm, and we only got about 3 days of work a week. I started shoveling coal at 40 cents per ton. I had to buy my powder, carbide and tools from the company store but I could still average about 4 dollars a day and I was able to work six days a week."

He married his wife Cleo on June 15, 1937 and she preceded him in death. They had four children: James Jr., Betty, and Gerald who survive, and Billy Ray (who preceded his mother and father in death).

He was a member of the United Mine Workers and retired in 1972 from the Island Creek Coal Co. In 1975 he bought a large farm in Monroe County, W.Va. and spent his retirement years farming, hunting, and feeding deer. He was active and hard working. When he was 95 he was on the mountain cutting wood and turned his four-wheeler over. He was pinned beneath the ATV for several hours before someone found him. He never fully recovered after this accident.

He had five brothers who preceded him in death: Frank, Clarence, Craig (Slim), Ray, and Grady. He was preceded in death by 3 sisters, Myrtle, Mary, and Lelia.

Also surviving: a sister, Alma Wafford, of Vienna Village in Pfafftown; grandchildren; great-grandchildren; nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were held on Sunday, Dec. 23 at 1 p.m. at the Krantz-McNeely Funeral Home Chapel in Man, W.Va. with the Revs. Harrison Williamson and Larry Toler officiating. Burial followed on Monday, Dec. 24 at the Highland Memory Gardens in Godby, W.Va. The family and friends served as pall bearers.

✓ Clyde Mitchell Settle

The Rev. Clyde Mitchell Settle, 88, of Cleveland, N.C., died Monday, Jan. 28, 2013, at his home.

Services are with Eaton Funeral Service of Mocksville.

✓ Phillip O. Newman

Col. Phillip O. Newman, 89, a U.S. Army Air Corps pilot who flew a B-17 in more than 50 missions during World War II, died Saturday, Jan. 6, in Winston-Salem.

Newman, who was born March 27, 1923, in Greensboro, flew most of his missions out of a base in Foggia, Italy, as the push against Germany intensified in the last years of the war. His unit was the 15th Air Force, 99th Bomb Group, 347 Bomb Squadron. After the war, he went to work for Western Auto Supply, rising to wholesale sales manager. He then created another career as owner of Cascade Communications, a distributor of electronic equipment. He remained in the Air Force Reserve until 1955. He continued visiting high schools in North Carolina and Florida, where he described the war, but lamented the lack of knowledge American youngsters have of World War II history. He was married for 59 years to Blanche Triska Newman, who died in 2003. Their son, Charles Timothy, died of complications resulting from multiple sclerosis in 2008. In 2008, he married Aurelia "Chick" Wallace, whom he had known since childhood. She died in 2010. Newman's later years were filled with interviewing World War II veterans for oral history projects, attending air shows, speaking on radio talk shows, and, especially, telling young people about the war. As a founding member of Combat Airmen of WWII, Reidsville, he could be found, at one time or another, in classrooms and cafeterias, explaining the effort that led to victory in the war. He first flew a B-17 when he was "17 and a half." He told his family that he never cottoned to the "fuss made about officers" in the Armed Forces. "The best man I had was my waist gunner," he said, "and he was a sergeant." It suited his crusty sense of humor that he was a member of the Decrepit Birdmen of World War II in Gainesville, Fla. Other organizations included Military Support Group of Alachua County, Fla.; Experimental Aircraft Assn.; Univ. of Florida Oral History Program; VFW Post 2811, Gainesville, Fla., and, more recently, VFW Post 8297, Midway-Monroeton; American Legion; Disabled American Veterans; Marine Corps League; Alachua County (Fla.) Veterans Advisory Board; Pilot Class 1944 Assoc. Newman was a member of Dublin United Methodist Church in Mocksville.

He is survived by his daughter, Phyllis Ann Newman, who was beside him as he battled through his last year, fighting cancer and associated medical problems.

A graveside service was held at Guilford Memorial Park, Greensboro, at 2 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 9. Rockingham County Honor Guard provided military honors.

Memorials: in memory of Col. Phil Newman to Wings of Dreams Aviation Museum, PO Box 357071, Gainesville, FL 32635.

✓ Mary Lee Slawter

Mary Lee Slawter died on

She was described as being strong, willful, with a passion for life who found joy from being surrounded by family and friends.

She was born in Davie County to Bick Howard and Kattie Plott Howard. At an early age she was saved at a Big Tent Revival and was a charter member at Bixby Church (where she grew up). Her faith helped her overcome challenges, including the death of her mother when she was 2. She and her sister were taken care of by their grandparents. She learned to take care of herself, and took joy in taking care of others. She worked sitting with and nursing others until her late 80s. She continued to drive until her late 90s. Many were bewildered by her strength and passion for life, and the fight she had in her that allowed her to live for 96 years. She enjoyed traveling with her DMA's (Don't Mention Age) and being with her Salem Baptist Church family. In her final hours she was able to say goodbye to her loved ones and family. Her final words were "I'm going to sleep now and waking up in heaven tomorrow".

She was preceded in death by first husband, Robert Hilton; second husband, Chester Slawter; daughter in law, Nellie Hilton; parents, Bick and Kattie Plott Howard; stepmother, Hester Bowmens Howard; grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Kelley Howard; sister, Ethel Hilton Benfield; infant brother, Floyd Howard; brother, Glenn Howard; sister, Barbara Howard.

Survivors: a son, Eugene Hilton; grandson, Ron Hilton and wife Bonnie; granddaughter, Donna Tugman and husband Glenn; 3 great-grandchildren, Holly Tugman, Aaron and Addy Hilton; siblings, Linda Scott and husband Ronnie; and a host of lifelong friends.

The funeral service was held at 2 p.m. Monday, Jan. 28 at Hayworth Miller Chapel with Dr. Howard L. Wilburn and the Rev. Floyd Boles officiating. Burial followed at Bixby Presbyterian Church in Advance. The family received friends Sunday at the funeral home. S

Memorials: Salem Baptist, 429 S. Broad St., Winston-Salem, 27101.

Mary Proctor Hendrix

Mrs. Mary Proctor Hendrix, 51, of Mocksville, died Friday, Feb. 1, 2013, at Wake Forest Baptist Medical Center in Winston-Salem.

She was born May 19, 1961, in Fort Worth, Texas to Drs. Launita Eye Proctor and Dan W. Proctor. She moved to Shelby in 1969 with family, where she attended Poplar Springs Baptist Church. She graduated valedictorian from Crest High School in 1979. She attended the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and graduated from Gardner-Webb University in 1983. She taught high school biology in Conover, marking the beginning of her passion for teaching. In 1984, she married Chris Hendrix, moved to Mocksville, and started a family. As a long-time member of First United Methodist Church, he was involved in children's and youth ministries. For years, he taught Sunday School, played in the handbell choir, and assisted with children's choir. She taught preschool at First Methodist. After more than a decade of teaching preschool, she decided to continue her education at Appalachian State University, taking classes for her master's degree while working at Cooleemee Elementary School in 2000, where she taught Title I reading. In 2002, she received a master's in reading education. She was recognized as a National Board Certified Teacher, a member of Alpha Delta Kappa (international honorary sorority for women educators), the International Reading Association, American Reading Forum, and Society for the Scientific Studies of Reading. In 2009, she was inducted into Gardner-Webb University's Gallery of Distinguished Graduates. When Appalachian created a doctoral program in reading education, her professors invited her to enroll. She accepted the challenge, and her research focused on fluency, a crucial area of reading development in children. After a few years, she began teaching undergraduate and graduate students at Appalachian. She loved this phase of her career because she and her students shared the same passion for teaching. She was heavily involved in a reading clinic that Appalachian conducts each summer in Davie County. She directed this clinic from 2008-2011.

Survivors: her husband, Robert Christopher "Chris" Hendrix of the home; 2 daughters, Maggie Hendrix Foster (Derrick) of Fleetwood and Mary Rebecca Hendrix of Mocksville; her parents of Shelby; a sister, Becky Greene (John) of Milford, Pa.; 2 brothers, Dr. Steve Proctor (Rita Smith) of Concord and Dan Proctor (Kim) of Cherryville; several nieces and nephews; her mother-in-law, Paulette Hendrix; father-in-law, Jerry Hendrix; sister-in-law, Angie Jordan of Mocksville; and numerous friends and former students.

A memorial service was conducted at 2 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 3, at First United Methodist Church of Mocksville. The Rev. Joe Collins, D. Min., officiated, Darrell Morris, Ed.D., delivered her eulogy, and Shirley Cottle shared a message. Donald Lindsay Snyder

Donald Lindsay Snyder died Jan. 24, 2013. He was a resident of English Manor Assisted Living, in Christianburg, Va. for the past four years.

He was born in Archdale to the late Edward Lindsay Snyder and Bess Morgan Snyder on April 25, 1927. Upon graduating from Trinity High School, he served in the U.S. Army, where he earned a Bronze Star as a military policeman during the Korean War. Following his discharge from service, he spent the rest of his life in the horse business. He operated the stable at Tanglewood Park, in Clemmons for several years. In 1961 he moved the business to Farmington, and established Trotwood Stables. For more than 35 years, he marketed many breeds of horses to clients all over the southeast. He had a talent for finding good horses and matching them with people to form harmonious partnerships. He was active in equine organizations and was a founding member of the Forsyth Saddle Club. Known to be the jokester, he often entered pony harness classes with his trotting mule, "Trotwood Kate". The contact and freedom offered by a gentle horse to a special needs child is something he championed. He always believed in Winston Churchill's saying, "There is something about the outside of a horse that is good for the inside of a man."

Preceding him in death are his wife, Bernice Shirey Snyder of Cumming, Ga.; his brother, Richard Snyder of High Point, and a sister, Evelyn Travis of New Orleans, La.

Survivors: 2 children, Julia Lynne Snyder McCann and husband Mark of Newport, Va. and Donald Lindsay Snyder Jr. of Mocksville; 2 grandsons, Joshua Clay McCann and wife Jennifer of Bryan, Texas and Zachary Morgan McCann of Newport, a sister, Janet Dugger of High Point; a brother, Charles Ray Snyder of College Grove, Tenn., and several nieces and nephews.

A graveside service was held Sunday, Jan. 27 at Floral Garden Memorial Park in High Point.

Tax-deductible donations may be sent to the Riverwood Therapeutic Riding Center, 6825 Rollingview Drive, Tobaccoville, 27050.

✓ Sadie Bell Barnhardt

Mrs. Sadie Bell Shoaf Barnhardt, 90, of Mocksville, died Feb. 22, 2013.

She was born March 31, 1922, to the late Gerome and Lydia Shoaf. She was a lifetime member of Jerusalem Baptist Church, where she served as church secretary for many years. It was her desire to see the new building paid for. She was an active member of the Women's Support Group and the Prayers and Squares ministry, where she used her seamstress skills to make numerous prayer quilts. She loved crafts of all kinds and made Santas and angels from Reader's Digests, Raggedy Ann and Andy dolls, sock monkeys and baby quilts for friends and family. She loved her collection of dolls and had a bedroom designated for their display. She made many unusual costumes for her grandson, Tommy. She and "T" loved to spend time fishing at Kure Beach each fall. She was a master weaver at Erwin/Burlington Industries Cotton Mill, where she worked and taught weaving until it closed. She later worked at the American Cafe in Mocksville, serving as manager for years. She made countless friends there, especially the coffee bunch, as she called them, who came in each morning to catch up and tell stories before starting their day.

She was also preceded in death by her husband, James Turner Barnhardt; an infant daughter, Phyllis Elaine Barnhardt; a sister, Alene Jones; and 2 brothers, Samuel Shoaf and Harold Shoaf.

Survivors: a daughter and son-in-law, Carolyn and Tom Beaver of Mocksville; grandson and granddaughter-in-law, Tommy and Kellie Beaver; a great-grandson, Jake Beaver, all of Greensboro; a sister, Ruby Motley; and brothers James (Helen) Shoaf, Kermit (Marie) Shoaf and Theodore (Bobbie) Shoaf.

A celebration of her life was conducted at 3 p.m., Sunday, Feb. 24 at Jerusalem Baptist Church. The family received family and friends at the church one hour prior to the service. Burial followed in the church cemetery.

Memorials: Jerusalem Baptist Building Fund, c/o Melanie Hunter, 3203 US 601 S., Mocksville.

✓ Angie Browder Slabach

Angie Browder Slabach, 46, of Advance, died surrounded by family on May 8, 2013 following a three-year battle with breast cancer.

She was born June 18, 1966 to Benjamin T. and Ann Orrell Browder. She grew up in Davie County and spent her life there with the exception of college years. She graduated from Davie County High School in 1984 and was a highly-followed athlete who excelled in all sports, especially basketball. It was easy to see her love for the game from a young age as she played in the gym at Shady Grove or wherever there happened to be a goal. If there was a pick-up game, she was there. She was twice voted Central Piedmont Conference Basketball Player of the Year and followed a successful career at Davie to High Point University. Following graduation in 1988, she returned to her high school alma mater as a math teacher and head coach of the girls basketball team. Success followed her throughout her teaching and coaching years with many wins on the basketball court and in the classroom. She was a member of the inaugural class inducted into the Davie County Sports Hall of Fame in 2004. She married the love of her life and best friend, Gary Slabach in 1992 and began the union that would produce four children, affectionately known to her as "her babies." As her family grew, she retired early from teaching and directed her attention to raising her family which she did with the balance of a strict hand of guidance and the deep love she felt for each. She was a founding member of Hillsdale United Methodist Church where she filled many rolls, most effectively as a teacher and Bible study leader. Her unflinching love for Jesus and encouragement to others to that end will be one of her many legacies. She never met a stranger and touched many lives in positive ways. She could regularly be found at school functions, ball fields and courts of all kinds as she cheered on her children or others she knew. She enjoyed sitting on her front porch, tending her garden, sitting by a fire, walking on the railroad tracks, meeting friends at the store and spending time at Ocean Isle Beach.

She was preceded in death by grandparents Tom and Jessie Browder and Walter Orrell.

In addition to her parents and husband, she is survived by: her four babies, Lake, Allie, Heath and Emma; grandmother Lucille Orrell; sister LuAnn Parker (Greg); brother, Tommy Browder (Deana); mother and father-in-law, Dean and Martha Slabach; brother and sister-in-law, Greg and Shelley Carlton; and several nieces and nephews.

The family received friends on Friday, May 10 at Hillsdale United Methodist Church. A memorial service led by the Rev. Jerry Webb was held at the church on Saturday, May 11 at 2 p.m. A private burial service for family followed.

Memorials: Davie Community Foundation, PO Box 546, for the Angie Slabach Memorial Scholarship which will provide financial aid to deserving students from Davie County.
