Mrs. E. F. Etchison Is Nominated For State Mother Of The Year

Home Demonstration Council's Selection

Mrs. E. F. Etchison of the Cana community has been nominated for the "State Mother of the Year."

Mrs. Etchison was nominated by the Davie County Council of Home Demonstration Clubs at their recent council meeting in Mocksville.

Designated as a happy, busy and successful mother, Mrs. Etchison has led a very active life.

As a girl, Mrs. Etchison wanted an education so much that the lack of funds could not stop her. She would work awhile and go to school awhile. After attending Woman's College in Greensboro, Mrs. Etchison taught in the rural schools of Davie County for 12 years. Not only did she teach the subject matter well, but she also inhaled in her pupils high moral standards and urged them to get a higher education.

She quit teaching to rear her family of three children.

Mrs. Etchison has been an active church member, holding offices in the various organizations of her church and teaching in the Sunday School. At present, she is the president of the Mission Society of Eatons Baptist Church.

She was a charter member of the first Home Demonstration Club in Davie County and through the years has held every local office; been on most of the committees; and at present is the Davie County Education Chairman.

She was a charter member of the Davie County Hospital Auxiliary and has served on its various committees and as chairman of the bazaar. She was active in the PTA as long as her children were in school, and served as PTA president for a number of years. She has worked untiringly for such community projects as the Farmington Volunteer Fire Department and the Farmington Medical Center. She has always helped in such drives as the March of Dimes, Heart Fund, etc.

Bookmobile Librarian When her children were grown, Mrs. Etchison went to work at the County Library and is now the Bookmobile Librarian.

In addition to working outside the home, helping with the work on the farm, growing and preserving a large amount of the family's food supply, doing church and civic work, and being a good neighbor, Mrs. Etchison has always found time to be a good wife and mother . . . to read to her children and teach them by word and example . . . dependability, honesty, loyalty, and love for fellowman.

2 Vehicles Collide In Wreck on US 601

Slight damage was done to two vehicles last Wednesday in a wreck on US 601, one mile south of Mocksville.

Trooper L. E. Woods of the State Highway Patrol, said that his investigation showed that a 1952 Pontiac, being operated by William Savannah Pierce, 37, of Coolemeec was heading South at 35-40 miles per hour behind a 1959 Chevrolet truck, being operated by Jesse James Neely, 47, of Winston-Salem. Neely, operating a Keith-Lowery Furniture truck, signaled with turn signals to make a right turn into a private driveway and had to swing close to the center line of the roadway to hit the entrance of the driveway.

Pierce mistook the motion to mean that Neely was going to pull off on the left shoulder of the road and was unable to stop when the truck turned right. The Pontiac skidded on the wet pavement and struck the truck in the right front.

Neither driver was injured. Damage to the Pontiac was estimated at $110, and to the truck, $75. There were no charges.

Revaluation Is Discussed

The revaluation of property in Davie County was discussed for members of the Mocksville Rotary Club, Tuesday.

Mrs. Eloise Stephens, Davie County Tax Supervisor and Glenn Wilson, representative of the Southern Appraisal Company doing the revaluation, explained the procedures.

Mrs. Stephens explained that an act passed by the North Carolina General Assembly made it mandatory that each county reevaluate their property every eight years. The last revaluation and equalization in the county was conducted in 1950 and was based on cost of construction in 1940.

Mrs. Stephens said that the county sought bids from appraisal firms and got recommendations as to these firms from counties in which they had work. The contract for the evaluation of property in Davie County was awarded to the Southern Appraisal Company of Greensboro.

Mr. Wilson explained the procedure by which the property would be revalued according to present day standards.

"First we compile building cost and reduce this to a square-footage price index," said Mr. Wilson. "The valuation is based on present day replacement value less depreciation. We establish what we refer to as a 'sound value,' which is usually at least 10% less than the fair market value of a building."

The land value, he explained, is based on the value of the land to the people of the county. . . . what they are willing to pay for it.

Mr. Wilson explained that plans call for the revaluation to be completed by October 1st of this year.

Claude Horn, Jr. had charge of the program and introduced the speakers. President Gordon Tomlinson presided.

Motorist Urged To Use Caution During Afternoon Rush Hours

Motorists were urged to exercise caution in driving around Mocksville during the period from 4:30 to 6 p.m. each day.

Trooper L. E. Woods of the State Highway Patrol pointed out that this was the time of the day when the plants and industry in the town are letting out or changing shifts.

"This is the time of day when most accidents occur and a fatigued or hurried motorist is not a safe driver," said Trooper Woods. Trooper Woods issued the above statement following a wreck last Friday afternoon at 4:30 p.m. on U.S. 601 near the Carolina Linenage Parking Lot.

Trooper Woods said that his investigation of this accident showed that Joyce Angell Lankford, 18, of Mocksville, Rt. 4 was operating a 1961 Chevrolet and pulled from the parking lot at Carolina Linenage. A vehicle not involved in the accident was stopped in the roadway headed north on US 601 with left turn signal on, preparing to make a U-turn into the lot. Miss Lankford pulled from the lot and in behind this vehicle. Suddenly a 1956 Ford, operated by Willie Hugh Allen, 38, of Augusta, Ga., heading north on US 601 at 35 mph was unable to stop for the Chevrolet as it pulled out in front of his vehicle and stopped quickly behind the other car waiting to turn left.

The Ford struck the Chevrolet in the rear end after skidding some 40-feet in the roadway. The other vehicle waiting to turn left was not damaged.

There were no injuries. Damage to the Chevrolet was estimated at $75 and to the Ford, $100. There were no charges.

Special guests included Hunter Poole of Raleigh; Maurice Ward, special student guest; and John Collins of Clemmons; and Mrs. Gwen Cleary.

Proceeds from the sale will go towards obtaining property for troop and day camping and for improvement and expansion to the property at Roaring Gap, the Girl Scout established camp site.

Mrs. Jack Sanford is Neighborhood Cookie chairman for Davie County. She urges everyone to purchase at least one box of cookies when contacted. There will be around 2500 boxes to be sold in the county. There are 75 registered Girl Scouts and each Girl is asked to sell 36 boxes.

Car Overturns In Wreck Last Wednesday

A brand new 1962 Ford was damaged last Wednesday when it overturned about 8-miles south of Mocksville on US 64. The accident occurred around 4:30 p.m.

Trooper L. E. Woods of the State Highway Patrol said that the new Ford, which had less than 700 miles on the speedometer, was heading west on U.S. 64 and being operated by Cecil Eugene Foster, 52, of Winston-Salem. Travelling at about 50-mph, 8-miles south of Mocksville, Mr. Foster attempted to pass a tractor-trailer rig going down hill.

The tractor-trailer failed to give way to the passing car and when oncoming traffic forced Mr. Foster to fall back behind the rig, the sudden application of brakes caused the left front brake to grab. The driver then cut the wheels sharply to the right, ran off the road, down an embankment, overturning twice and coming to rest on its wheels, pointed in the direction from which it was coming.

Mr. Foster was shaken up, but not injured. The tractor-trailer was not identified and did not stop to render aid.

Damage to the new Ford was estimated at $500. There was some damage, estimated at $10 to $15, done to the pasture of

It happened 100 YEARS ago

The oldest incorporated trade association in the country, the United States Brewers Association, was organized in 1862 . . . the same year that

IN NORTH CAROLINA the much-feared Union Ironclad Monitor, limping southward after its sea-duel with the Confederate Merrimac, sank off Cape Hatteras. As news spread throughout the South, steins of foaming beer toasted the sinking of this worthy foe.

For then, as now, beer was the traditional beverage of moderation — light, sparkling refreshment that adds a touch of Southern hospitality to any occasion. North Carolinians have always enjoyed the good fellowship that goes with every glass.

TODAY, in its centennial year, the United States Brewers Association still works constantly to assure maintenance of high standards of quality and propriety wherever beer and ale are served.

Resolutions For Mr. Blackwelder Given at Scout 'Thinking Day'

Resolutions for the late Paul Blackwelder made by local Girl Scouts were read by Miss Jane Mando, senior scout, at the annual "Thinking Day" held at the Primary School on Thursday, Feb. 22.

The following is what was read: "Whereas, God in his wisdom has seen fit to call to his heavenly home Mr. Paul Blackwelder, we, the Mocksville Neighborhood Association of the Pilot Area Girl Scouts wish to thank him for this dedicated life and for the service he was ever ready to give to the cause of scouting in this community.

Mr. Blackwelder was one of the first to devote his time and energy to raising funds for the Girl Scouts and was always in sympathy with the ideals and projects they tried to accomplish.

He saw in Girl Scouting, the opportunity that is ours to help to develop the youth of today into the responsible citizens of tomorrow.

May we ever cherish the memory of this friend of scouting and strive always to follow his example in trying to make this phase of youth work in our community a living and vital part of life for each girl who becomes a Scout."

The meeting was opened with a Flag Ceremony conducted by the following members of Troop 266: Linda McClamrock, Patricia Short, Vicki Hendricks, Caroline Sanford, Jeannie Johnson, Lisa Upshaw, and Brenda Gaither. THE RED CROSS

This is March and with it come the time for the annual fund raising drive of the American Red Cross.

The Red Cross is perhaps the one symbol most recognized and most welcomed by all mankind.

In every part of town, in every section of the nation, in every corner of the World the Red Cross stands for neighborly help wherever there is human need.

To disaster sufferers—the family burned out next door, Texans made homeless by Hurricane Carla, Burmese destituted by that nation's worst flood in a quarter-century—the Red Cross means shelter, food, clothing, medical and nursing care, and help in returning to their predisaster way of life.

To American men and women in uniform, whether serving half way around the globe or newly arrived in training camps, with personal or family troubles compounded by separation, the Red Cross means helpful counsel and, in emergencies, rapid communication and financial assistance.

To surgery patients or the chronically ill Red Cross means life-giving whole blood and its disease-fighting components—gamma globulin, serum albumin and fibrinogen.

To the traffic accident victim down the block or the innocent bystander wounded in the fighting in the Congo or some other Cold War "hot spot", the Red Cross means prompt aid that may spell the difference between life and death. With increased international tensions and greater awareness of the need for someone in every American family to be skilled in first aid and home nursing, Red Cross chapters are stepping up their health and safety programs.

Whether you are a banker, a baker or a sideshow barker, whether you are in the center of the city, on a rural road or a super highway, the chances are you will benefit from Red Cross service sometime during the coming year.

The Red Cross is able to give this help only because of the continued support by the American people during its annual campaigns for members and funds in March, traditionally designated as Red Cross Month by the President of the United States.

FACTS ABOUT ACCIDENTS

A special issue of the magazine POPULAR GOVERNMENT published by the Institute of Government of the University of North Carolina, deals with the problem of Highway Safety. One of the articles in this issue points out many facts concerning the causes of accidents that every driver should know. Some of these are as follows:

—One out of every 18 motor vehicles was involved in an accident in 1960; 2,000 of them had defective brakes; 1,000 had defective tires; 450 had defective lights; and 300 had defective steering mechanisms.

—More than half of all accidents occurred at street or highway intersections—22,000; and in driveways—6,700; 715 at bridges, overpasses or culverts; 281 at railroad crossings; 48 at alleys; and 22 at underpasses.

—One out of every 50 accidents in 1960 involved road conditions, apart from bad weather; 655, loose material on the road surface; 207, roads under construction or repair; 99, roads with defective shoulders; 85, holes, ruts, etc., on the road; 4, floods and landslides; 172, other defects.

—Most of the accidents and killings of all sorts and sizes came on clear days and on roads that are straight, level, and dry surfaced. 30,800 accidents occurred on straight and level roads, while only a 100 were listed as occurring on hillcrests, on sharp curves or turns.

—The most dangerous hours of the day for driving come between 2 o'clock in the afternoon and 8 o'clock at night. 41-percent of all the accidents occur during this period.

—The most dangerous days in the week for driving are Saturday and Sunday with 24.6-percent of the accidents occurring Saturday and 20.7-percent on Sunday. The safest days appear to be Tuesday and Thursdays, each with only 8-percent of the accident total.

—Labor Day in 1960 cost North Carolina 23 killings, Memorial Day cost us 20 killings, the Christmas holidays cost us 22 killing, Independence Day cost us 18 killings, Thanksgiving holidays cost us 17 killings, and New Year's and Easter cost us 12 killings each.

—The most dangerous months of the year for driving are September, October, November and December. The month with the fewest fatal accidents in North Carolina in 1960 was March.

THE AMERICAN WAY

Easy Come, Easy Go

Senator SAM ERVIN Says:

WASHINGTON—The successful orbit of the earth by Astronaut John Glenn will have a marked effect on the cold war. I think it has boosted the morale of the free peoples. The wonderful thing about Colonel Glenn's accomplishment was the fact the whole world was given the opportunity to witness it at a time when it was not known whether it would be a success or a failure. All Americans share in their admiration for a man who has now been added to the list of great American heroes. URBAN AFFAIRS

DEFEAT—The plan to set up a Department of Urban Affairs with a crushing defeat in the House last week by a vote of 264 to 150. Those who observed the handling of the bill felt that the political overtones of the bill may have increased the margin of its defeat. However, in my judgment, there were sound reasons for the adverse vote. These reasons might well be stated again in the face of statements by proponents that the plan will surely pass at another session of Congress. I believe that the establishment of the new Department would be unwise because the creation of such a department cannot be harmonized with the existing government system in the United States. Municipalities are created by state law. They are political subdivisions of the state. They have no powers and no obligations other than those prescribed by the laws of the states in which they are located. The central government ought not to establish a Federal department based on the theory that it should bypass the states to deal directly with political subdivisions of the state.

Second, the problems of municipalities are essentially local problems and ought to be solved at the local level. If a Federal department is established to deal with local rather than national problems, the inevitable result will be to impair, if not destroy, local initiative, self-reliance, and responsibility.

Third, the United States has a national debt which is substantially larger than the combined national debts of all other nations on earth. Congress is being asked to raise the debt limit to $308 billion at the present time. The demand for the new department is essentially promoted by the largest municipalities of the country for the purpose of transferring most of their financial problems to the Federal Treasury. The far reaching demands which will be promoted by the new department will lead to a raid on the Treasury for the benefit of our largest municipalities.

Fourth, the value of a Cabinet to the President and the country arises out of the fact that it furnishes to the President a small compact well-functioning group of advisers. If the Cabinet is converted into a convention consisting of the heads of numerous departments, the value of a Cabinet will be destroyed.

Fifth, within the bounds of constitutional government and the free enterprise system most of the problems in this field are already handled by the Housing and Home Finance Agency and by agencies of the government now in existence. The solution to problems does not depend on the creation of a new department. In my judgment it does not increase the wisdom of government

Uncle Dave From Davie Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

I see by the papers where a Congressman from Georgia says the Government has got to spend another $10 million this year to get rid of hog cholera. That's one item that won't have no trouble getting through the Congress. Them same Congressmen that voted again getting rid of ignorance with Federal aid to education will vote solid to get rid of hog cholera. Long ago they took note of the political fact that more votes is in pigs than in education.

Speaking of education, I was reading a piece in a magazine where teachers in some cities is "gravely concerned over the rising hemline" among high school girls. I reckon this is ten-dollar talk meaning high school girls is exposing too much leg. The piece said it had got so serious in some parts of the country that 37 girl was suspended from one high school in New York. I ain't acquainted with these things well enough to pass an opinion on it. When I was a boy nobody ever spoke of a girl having legs. They was referred to in a very low voice as limbs.

But I do know some changes in the attitude of women in these matters has took place down through the years. I recollect when I was a boy, fer instance, that when a windstorm come up the women folks would always grab fer their skirt. Now they always grab fer their hat.

I bring up this hemline item at the country store Saturday night and Ed Doolittle claimed hemlines has been rising now for some time among young and old alike and the matter ain't worthy of much attention. He says about all this magazine piece proves is that the high school girl is more interested in her frame than she is in her frame of mind and they ain't nothing wrong with that in these times. In fact, allowed Ed, it was right smart thinking. As long as a feller picks out his girl from looking at her hosiery instead of looking into her heart, claims Ed, the frame is the thing.

But it could be, Mister Editor, that Ed is a little too broad-minded on the subject of hemlines. Ed watches television a heap and some of them women on television can sit a feller confused about both hemlines and necklines. I would like to get an opinion from that school teacher that has been fussing about my spelling and grammar. It would be nice to get a letter with the spelling and grammar done real proper, even if her opinion was all wrong.

But getting back to them Congressmen, I see by the papers where both the Democrats and Republicans in this new session of the Congress is setting up committees to help the farmer. If I recollect right, ever Congress since George Washington has set up somepun to help the farmer. What they actual want to do is help him mark his ballot.

Yours truly,
 Uncle Dan

Theme: Honesty Is The Only Policy

TEXT: "An honest man won't become a dog for the sake of a bone" - Aesleus.

A man and a boy were walking along a quiet street when the man picked up a glove from the pavement. Placing the glove beside some rallings he said, "There is nothing like honesty".

A little farther they found another glove. The man tried it on. "Well," he exclaimed, "here's the mate to the first one, and just my size. Johnny, go back and fetch the other glove."

Too many respected people are honest when it doesn't make any difference to them. However, when they find a pair of gloves that they can use without being caught, they are not so scrupulous. Too many of us do not consider ourselves dishonest if we do not break a law.

We have the conniving industrialist who fixes prices; the executive who pads expense accounts; the labor leader who backs his private borrowing with union funds; the worker who deliberately slows production; the clerk who takes extended coffee breaks. All are dishonest, though untouched by law. They reveal a character weakness. We cannot trust them fully. We never know when they will become "dog" if they desire the "bone" that we have. No one can be a little dishonest. Don't try.

Social Security In Davie County

If you are a social security beneficiary who earned over $1200 from employment or self-employment in 1961, and you were under the age of 72 in any part of the year, you must file a report of your earnings with the Social Security Administration by April 15, 1962. Failure to report may result in a loss of benefits.

This was announced today by Robert C. Thomas, manager of the Salisbury Social Security District Office. Mr. Thomas further explained that an estimate of your earnings will also be required.

This report will enable the Social Security Administration to determine:

(1) Whether you received all benefits payable in 1961. If not, you will receive the additional benefits due for last year.

(2) If you were paid more benefits than were due in 1961, if so, you will be required to refund the amount of the overpayment.

(3) Whether any of your benefit checks for 1962 should be withheld. This will be determined on the basis of your estimate of earnings for the year.

Mr. Thomas noted that beneficiaries who received no benefits in 1961 are not required to file the report. However, they are encouraged to do so as they may be entitled to receive some benefits for the year even though their total yearly earnings greatly exceeded the $1200. Benefits can be paid to a beneficiary for any month in which he did not earn over $100 as an employee and did not render substantial services in self-employment.

The annual report form has been simplified this year and, when it is received, may be completed at home, signed, and returned in the addressed envelope that is furnished.

If you desire help in completing the form or other information concerning your social security status, you should contact your social security district office at 105 Corriher Avenue, Salisbury, N. C.

U.S. SAVINGS BONDS

ITS WORTH . . . The Optimists of North Carolina, meaning about 75 civic clubs so named, have joined Governor Terry Sanford in his campaign to cut down on school dropouts in this State. Just a lot of writing, speaking, and discussing on the problem is going on in all sections.

Earl Yarborough of Charlotte, governor of the Optimist Clubs in N. C., passed along to us last week from the U. S. Dept. of Labor a breakdown on what an education is worth in the U. S. these days. This is based on data which the department began gathering in 1958, and shows:

The average lifetime earnings, age 25 to 64, or a person with four years or more of college: $366.90. With 1-3 years of college—$269.105. With four years of high school—$215.487. With 1-3 years of high school—$175.779. With 8 years of elementary school—$149.687. With less than eight years of elementary school—$106.449.

THINK ABOUT IT . . . Most of those who failed to get much of an education think a lot about it and grieve over the lack of an education.

Those who have good formal learning—high school, college, or beyond—sometimes take it too much for granted.

Stopping a policeman on the street, an 80 year old lady said: "I want to report that a man came up and kissed me while I was standing on this corner."

"When did this happen?" asked the officer.

"Forty-five years ago today," the little old lady replied with a far away look in her eyes.

The cop smiled. "Why tell it to me now?"

"Oh," the lady sadly said, "I just like to think about it."

LAW AND POLITICS . . . What is closer than law and politics? Nothing.

This was brought to mind last week with the announcement by Dr. I. Beverly Lake that he is losing his No. 1 supporter and law partner, A. J. Fletcher. He is not losing him as a follower—and presumably still No. 1—but only as a partner . . . in law.

Mr. Fletcher, up to his neck in television (WRAL and WRAL TV), age, daily golf, and keeping young, has retired from the firm. Although a brother of Col. A. L. Fletcher (former Commissioner of Labor and head of the Employment Security Commission) . . . there their similarity ends.

ASHE . . . Both were reared in Ashe County. Their father was a well known Baptist minister of that section of the State. A. J. Fletcher has had a career in law and business. The colonel's life has been almost exclusively devoted to governmental service. Note the difference.

There is nothing wild about him, but Col. Fletcher, who lives here in retirement, is about as liberal as they come around here. A. J., via his radio and television stations, has become the "Voice of Free Enterprise" . . . Conservatism . . . in this section of the land.

Without knowing, we would say that A. J. Fletcher is a millionaire. His brother, blessed no doubt by good retirement, is well fixed.

LAW . . . So, politics makes strange bedfellows . . . but law firms, too.

There was and is no hotter Sanford supporter than Woodrow Teague, Raleigh attorney . . . tore his shirt for him. But the junior partner in the prominent law firm of Teague, Johnson and Patterson is Grady S. Patterson, Jr., nephew of Dr. I. Beverly Lake.

Well, that's law.

The Lake firm is now composed of Beverly, Jr., Beverly, Sr., and Eugene Boyce. A man is fortunate . . . as a rule . . . to have his son associated with him in business law medicine. One of the strongest law firms in Raleigh is composed of R. L. McMillan and sons R. L. and A. A. the latter being a member of the N. C. General Assembly and candidate for re-election.

RUNNING . . . If the trend continues . . . and it has several weeks yet to run . . . North Carolinians will have plenty of candidates to vote for come Primary Day.

Virtually all of the incumbents are running . . . plus a whole yardful of hopefuls. Down in Brunswick County last week we found nine candidates for sheriff.

Imagine our surprise when we found identically the same picture in Anson County. Eight have already filed and a ninth swears he's going to . . . run for sheriff.

JUSTICE? . . . One of North Carolina's oldest in point of service and otherwise sheriffs is Lawrence Brown of Buncombe County. They are after him again . . . but the way we get it they won't get him.

The man chosen to take his measure was Old Footballer Charlie Justice . . . who it turned out it a little less than All-American on the political field. He filed as an Independent . . . or designated himself officially in that category . . . and found too late he is playing with the Democrats come May 26 . . . not the Independents . . . got away from his blockers and was caught flat footed behind the line of scrimmage. That's what it says right here.

TURNABOUT? . . . There were signs last week that Kidd Brewer stock was done skidding . . . at least for a while. Solicitor Lester Chalmers said he wanted Brewer moved from the psychiatric ward at Duke to the State Hospital for the Insane . . . for tests. How come asked Brewer Attorney Malcolm Seawell will be ready for trial before you are. It developed Seawell was right.

He wanted the trial set for March 19. The solicitor wanted it up in June sometime. The Judge said one date too early, the other too late. The next day, Solicitor Chalmers said he would not seek re-election. The same day, State Highway Controller Ervin Dixon announced he's resigning March 31. Neither announcement had anything to do with Kidd Brewer, still watching from the sidelines.

For The People
 By BERNADETTE W. HOYLE

Mark is over forty years old and has been physically incapacitated by epilepsy since his early teens. As a young man he worked at various odd jobs in carpentry and construction work. Then he enlisted in the Navy, but was given a medical discharge after six weeks and was not recommended for re-enlistment because of his affliction.

As he grew older the epileptic seizures became worse, and he required extensive drugs to help control them. He was not capable of holding down a job, and his was a case that was found not to be feasible for training or rehabilitation. While his parents lived, they cared for him, and after their deaths he made his home with an unmarried uncle and two sisters. During one of his seizures, Mark fell into an open fireplace and was severely burned, making hospitalization necessary for several months.

Finally, the financial resources of his relatives were exhausted and application was made to the county department of public welfare for assistance for the afflicted man. The uncle, now nearly 80 years old, had given him a home for over 12 years, and the sisters, who had looked after his personal needs are now married, have young children, and family obligations which make it impossible for them to contribute to his support.

Under the program of aid to the permanently and totally disabled, Mark was eligible for a monthly grant which makes it possible for him to have the required drugs, and the necessities of daily living.

Aid to the permanently and totally disabled is one of the three financial assistance programs of public welfare. The other two are old age assistance and aid to dependent children.

Aid to the permanently and totally disabled is for needy persons between the ages of 18 and 65 who are physically or mentally unable to work. These persons must be making their home in this State; must not have the essential requirements of daily living such as food, clothing, shelter, and other necessary items.

Further information about aid to the permanently and totally disabled may be obtained from your county department of public welfare or from the State Board of Public Welfare, Raleigh.

Let's Get Rid Of Those "Profit Eaters"
National consumption of milk in 1961 dropped 2 to 3 billion pounds below consumption levels of 1960. On the other hand, milk production in 1961 increased nearly 2 billion pounds over 1960.

North Carolina Grade A production through Sept. 1961, was 10 per cent over the same period in 1960. Milk classed as surplus averaged 15 per cent. This has reduced average prices received by farmers through Sept. from 5.90 in 1960 to 5.69 cwt.

There is one thing which would help correct this situation and that is to get rid of all the unprofitable cows in the nation's dairy herd. The results would be an equitable market for milk and its products and more money to the herd owner.

Many cows on North Carolina farms could be classified as "Profit Eaters." They are profit eaters because they do not produce enough to pay for the feed they consume, the housing they require, and the hours of labor spent in taking care of them.

Now is a good time to move out some of these Profit Eaters in your herd. Beef prices are not likely to get much better. If you have doubts about your feed supply lasting until spring grazing, you will be wise to cull some and full feed the rest.

Culling is an individual herd matter. What may be an undesirable animal in one herd may or may not be in another. The important thing is that there be a culling program going on.

Production level is the starting point for culling. Generally, the lowest producers are the ones to go. This requires judgment though. First calf helpers are not expected to produce as much as mature cows.

Then there are other factors to consider in culling. Chronic mastitis, non breeders, and those that stand dry a long time deserve a place high on the list.

You are the one to set the culling rate in your herd. This would depend on your herd average, what is available for replacements, the feed supply and many other factors. The important thing is to set up a culling rate and stick to it.

It is time for the dairy farmer to take action; he cannot afford to wait for someone else to solve his problems.

Let's get rid of those "profit eaters" which will help to eliminate the surplus milk and make your dairy operation more profitable.

405-HP THUNDERBIRD V-8—Thirty years of Ford experience culminate in this startling V-8. Available in every Galaxie, it puts 405 horses under the throttle, a dazzling level of acceleration that cannot be imagined but must be felt. A super-performance option, it comes only with the four-speed gear box. But, unlike some "special" engines that require delicate tuning and modification, it puts out its potential right off the showroom floor. Even more impressive, Ford skill has made it a docile tiger; it idles smoothly, it is durable, its super capacity does not come at the expense of harshness and noise. Among expert drivers, it is praised as a true high-performance V-8 in America . . . the pace-setter for 9 other V-8's tailored to every driving need.

NEW FAIRLANE CHALLENGER "260" V-8—When the 221-cubic-inch Fairlane V-8 appeared last fall, automotive writers hailed it as a great basic advance, a compact jewel of design. Now, the "260" V-8 proves their prediction. With 164 hp, 19 more than the standard version, Fairlane gains a new brilliance of performance—but it still runs on "regular," still outsaves any standard-size Six. It has the durability of time-tested cast iron, slimmer and lightened by Ford's precision-casting technique. Created by the one maker who has built 30,000,000 V-8's since 1932, it brings the sparkle and smoothness of V-8 power well within the thrifty budget's reach, plus truly sophisticated engineering at the service of truly economical motoring.

Yadkin Valley Telephone Co-op Receives Loan Of $1,421,000

Plans Announced For New Exchange To Be At Advance

Yadkin Valley Telephone Membership Corp. has received a $1,421,000 loan. Congressman Hugh Alexander has advised James M. Parks, President, that the Rural Electrification Administration approved a loan to the local telephone cooperative March 1, 1962. The President states that Rural Electrification Administration loan funds granted to Yadkin Valley Telephone Membership Corporation including this new loan, now total $3,683,000.

The new loan will provide facilities to serve 6,294 members in Yadkin, Davie, Iredell, Wilkes, and Alexander Counties. The telephone system now serves 3,850 business and residences from five modern dial exchanges.

In Davie County this will include the addition of an exchange for the eastern edge of Davie County to be located in the vicinity of Advance. This exchange is expected to be completed and in operation in 12 months.

Mr. Parks announced that the loan includes funds to reduce 8 party multiparty lines to 5 party multiparty lines. Facilities will be included to offer one and two party service to subscribers requesting these services. Subscribers located within the base rate area of dial exchanges (one mile) will be encouraged to take either one or two party service.

Mr. Parks says "that 8 parties per line no longer provide adequate telephone service for subscribers today and the Cooperative is expanding its facilities to meet improved service standards."

G.A. Coronation Held At Advance

A special service was held in the Advance Baptist Church on Sunday morning when five girls participated in a coronation service in recognition of their memory work and service as they climb the steps in the "Queen's Court" as members of the Girl's Auxiliary of the Woman's Missionary Union.

Mrs. C. E. Crawford, president of the WMS of the Church, presided. The congregation sang the G. A. hymn, "We've a Story To Tell." Mrs. Crawford explained briefly the plan and work of the organization.

Miss Vicki Poindexter, after telling some of her work, was given the charge of a "Maiden" by Miss Lynda Crawford, the G. A. Leader. She was also given the green sash, the emblem of this step.

Miss Faye Hoots, upon being questioned about her work, was given her charge to become a "Lady-in-Waiting" and a star representing her achievement along the road of "Queenliness."

Misses Gaye Hoots and Cathy Myers, who had achieved the step of princess, were given their charge and a gold G. A. memento in honor of their program.

The queen, Miss Ann Essex, after giving several parts of her work, was charged to be a queen in the King's Court at all times and was crowned by Miss Crawford. Gail Essex, the queen's niece, was her crown bearer.

After the crowning of the queen, the traditional white Bible was presented to Miss Lynda Crawford, the leader, in honor of her approaching wedding.

The congregation stood and sang, "All Hail The Power," as the queen and her attendants left the platform. The Rev. C. E. Crawford, the pastor, closed the service with an appropriate talk.

Taking Curve Too Fast Causes Wreck

Taking a curve too fast resulted in an accident around 9:15 p.m. last Thursday for Jerry Weaver Wright, 25, of Weaversville, N. C., Route 1.

Trooper L. E. Woods of the State Highway Patrol said that his investigation showed that Wright was operating a 1960 Corvair and was heading north on N. C. 801, between Hy. 601 South and U. S. 64. When the Corvair entered a sharp left-hand curve at the Hendrix Road intersection, Wright lost control of the vehicle which crossed to the left side of N. C. 801 and ran on the shoulder for approximately 55 feet, then crossed the roadway to the right shoulder and overturned once, coming to rest on its wheels, pointed in the direction from which it was coming. From where it came back on the roadway on the left side to where it came to rest was approximately 105 feet.

Trooper Woods said that the vehicle travelled a total of 100 feet out of control.

"This curve is marked by the State Highway Commission as not to be taken at more than 35 m.p.h.," said Trooper Woods.

The driver was apparently thrown from the vehicle and was taken to the doctor's office in Coolemece and treated for cuts around the face and legs and released. Damage to the car was estimated at $450.

Wright was charged with driving too fast for conditions.

GIRL SCOUT WEEK

Sunday, March 11, will be a golden day of rededication for the Girl Scouts of the Pilot Area Girl Scout Council, of which Davie County is a part.

They will join almost 3-1/2 million girl and adult members of Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. in a week-long celebration of the organization's 50th birthday anniversary which runs from March 11-17.

Troop members of the Pilot Area Girl Scout Council will attend the churches of their choice on Sunday morning, March 11. In the afternoon, at 3:30, they will assemble at the Coliseum in Greensboro, North Carolina, for a ceremony of rededication, to which the public is invited.

Girls from the Pilot Area Girl Scout Council have been invited to participate in this ceremony with girls from the N. C. Piedmont Girl Scout Council (Greensboro area), Keyauwee Girl Scout Council (High Point-Thomaspville), and the Alamance County Girl Scout Council (Burlington). The program is under the direction of Herman Middleton, head of the Drama and Speech Department at Women's College, University of North Carolina, Greensboro. Music director is Miss Jane Davidson, Jackson Junior High School, and the director of the speaking chorus is Miss Mozelle Causey of the Drama Department at Greensboro Senior High. In this ceremony, the girls affirm the spiritual values of Girl Scouting as exemplified in the past and pledge to maintain them in the future. The event will include a flag ceremony, and a narration based on excerpts from the writings of Juliette Low, founder of Girl Scouting.

Juliette Gordon Low, a tiny woman with an outsized streak of stubbornness, on a spring day in 1912 gathered about her 12 Savannah, Ga. youngsters and thereupon founded a national institution.

This March 12 will mark the 50th anniversary of the organization, and Mrs. Low's nucleus of a dozen has grown into the 3,454,000 member Girl Scouts of the U. S. A. In the interim, more than five times that number have been helped along the tricky route to adulthood by membership in the Girl Scouts and by adherence to its code of honor and integrity, selflessness and self-reliance.

There are Girl Scout troops in every one of the 50 states and in 51 other countries as well. Modeled after Britain's Girl Guides, sister organization to the Boy Scout movement started there in 1910, U. S. Girl Scouts have international scope through membership in the World Association of Girl Guides and Girl Scouts.

When Juliette Low called her pioneer band together, the U. S. was emerging from Victorianism and women's activities were narrowly restricted. Little ladies just did not go camping.

Today's emancipated Girl Scout is an outdoors veteran. As a part of scouting, moreover, she can learn to fly, sail or mountain climb. To match youth's changed interests and capabilities, the Scout troops are divided according to age. Youngest are the Brownies (age 7-9) fledgling camp-

"The Community That Reads" Leads

NATIONAL LIBRARY WEEK APRIL 8-14, 1962

Are books and reading part of your home life? Your reading habits set the example for your children. National Library Week is a good time to make reading a family affair at your house. Your librarians will welcome the chance to recommend some books the whole family can enjoy. Why not go to the Davie County Public Library today? And take the family with you.

Father might like "The American Year" by Collins or a biography of Dag Hammarskjold by Lash.

For Mother — "The Nightingale," a romance, by Turnbull; or a new book on easy sewing — "Sew for Your Children" by Johnson.

Do your children like animal books? There are beautiful ones for all age groups — such as "Beaver Business" by Rounds; "Dash and Dart," a deer story by Buff; and "The Animal Book" by Hogner.

These are just a few — come and browse and find others you would like.

The Davie County Public Library is for you!

If you don't use your library very often, or have never visited it, you may not realize how closely related it is to all of your personal and community activities and interests.

If you are interested in the business world you can find such books as Lasser's "HOW TO RUN A SMALL BUSINESS;" Hutchinsson's "STANDARD HANDBOOK FOR SECRETARIES;" "MADISON AVENUE, U. S. A.," by Mayer, about the extraordinary business of advertising and the people who run it; and Eve Merrim's amusing book about the business of fashion, called "FIGLEAF."

The library serves the scouting programs for both boys and girls in many ways. Recently a Cub Scout Corner has been set up in the Junior Room to be filled each month with books about their subject of study for that month. This month it's "Islands."

Members of clubs will welcome "HOW TO PLAN, PRODUCE, AND PUBLICIZE SPECIAL EVENTS," Golden and Hanson, a helpful and detailed guide for planning celebrations, luncheons, parades, etc. "PUBLICITY IN ACTION," by Baus, would help them, too. Both church and club leaders can enjoy using "THE PROGRAM ENCycloPEDIA," by Duran, which offers five thousand program ideas plus many other suggestions.

One of the many satisfactions in the librarian's day is reference work, rounding up all available material on a given subject, such as for the church study courses. We have on the shelf a new copy of Gable's "ENCYCLOPEDIA FOR CHURCH GROUP LEADERS."

Do you have a hobby? Just name it and we have books on it or can get them for you.

How about collecting old coins, old silver, or other antiques? Do you like rug-making or sewing, various crafts such as leathercraft or enameling? The men and boys might be specially interested in our collection of books on guns, or information on wood-working, metal crafts, etc.

N. C. Oil Heat Council

The library was happy to set up an exhibit for the Home Demonstration Clubs' Hobby Show, and has a special section set aside in the library where they may find the books included on their reading list. Members receive reading certificates to recognize their participation in the club reading program, and these books are much in demand.

Spring is arriving, and with it renewed interest in landscaping, gardening, remodeling and decorating our homes. You'll find many interesting books on these subjects, too.

Come to see us. There's something here for you.

Law Is Cited For Passing On Right

Laws permitting passing on the right were cited this week by Trooper L. E. Woods of the State Highway Patrol following a wreck last Friday around 4:20 p.m. on U.S. 158, 3-miles East of Mocksville.

Trooper Woods said that his investigation in this wreck disclosed that Dorris McKay Lytle, 58, of Mooresville was operating a 1959 Chrysler and was heading east on US 158 at 50-55 mph. Mrs. Lytle started to pass to the right of a vehicle waiting to make a left turn into Woodward Road and had to stop suddenly when an unidentified car ahead of her, also passing on the shoulder of the roadway to the right, stopped beside the car turning off.

A 1968 Ford, operated by Woodrow Wilson Howell, 40, of Mocksville Rt. 2, traveling behind Mrs. Lytle and also passing on the shoulder, was unable to stop and skidded 60-feet on roadway and off onto the shoulder, striking the Chrysler in the rear knocking it some 20 feet.

No one was injured. Damage to the Chrysler was estimated at $75 and to the Ford at $350. Mr. Howell was charged with following too close.

Trooper Woods pointed out that both motorists involved in the wreck and the unidentified vehicle were violating GS 20-150.1, which states passing on the right side is not permitted on the shoulder of the roadway when only two driving lanes are available.

Trooper Woods pointed out that passing on the right is permitted when:

(a) When the vehicle overtaken is in a lane designated for a left turn.

(b) Upon a street or highway which has sufficient width of unobstructed pavement and has been marked for two or more lanes of moving vehicles in each direction, and no parked cars in the way.

(b) Upon a one-way street, or upon a highway on which traffic is restricted to one direction of movement and the obstruction is of sufficient width and is marked for two or more lanes of moving vehicles, and no parked cars are in the way.

(d) When driving in a lane designating a right turn on a red traffic signal light.

"Other than the four above situations, passing on the right is not permitted and doing so constitutes improper passing and makes for dangerous accident producing situations", said Trooper Woods.

Library service is a community service. Books for all ages are available at the Davie County Public Library.

Advance Elementary Basketball Teams In Undefeated Season

The Advance Elementary basketball teams have enjoyed another successful season with both the boys and the girls going undefeated.

The girls, losers of only one game in six years, were led through their season by the point-making of Jane Zimmerman. Glenda Cornatzer gave able assistance in the scoring and was fine on rebounds. Jane Jones was the play-maker of the team and in addition was a good outside shot. Judy Ellis was a capable reserve along with the other forwards: Barbara Orrell, Judy Spry, Texie Foster and Nancy Allen.

The guards were always fine on defense led by Jesse Hilton, a very aggressive and swift guard who played the front of the zone. Janice Pollock and Marsha Bailey played the back zone and rebounded very well. Helen Grubbs saw a lot of action along with the other guards: Joyce Howard, Diane Zimmerman, Linda Potts, Viola Allen and Drane Bailey.

The success of the girls' teams stems from the interest shown in basketball with only about 35 girls in the seventh and eighth grades from whom to pick a team. Everyone that came out this year made the team. Coach Vestal Potts said that this was due to the fact that practice was changed to school hours and transportation was no problem.

THE BOYS

The Advance boys, undefeated for four successive years, counted heavily on Kermit Myers, Donald Cornatzer and Tommy Cope to give them a tall and talented backline and superior board play. Kermit Myers played center and was a fine shot from close range. Donald Cornatzer was a top shot from inside and around the key. Tommy Cope was the top rebounder and chipped in with several timely baskets.

Randall Ward was the play-maker to the team and a good shot, either inside or out.

The fifth position was divided among Wayne Frye, Russell Smiley and Larry Markland. Wayne

Frye excelled in ball-handling. Russell Smiley added more height and showed aggressiveness. Larry Markland contributed much from the outside with his shooting.

Other boys who saw action in the games were Steve Bennett, Randy Bailey, Harry Andrews, Jimmy Wilson, W. G. Potts, Jerry Hendrix, J. B. Byerly, Joe Tucker, Terry Gillaspie, Tommy Brubaker, Rommie Chaffin, Eddie McDaniel, Larry Hartman and Elly Melton.

According to Coach Vestal Potts, a remarkable trait lies between the girls and boys teams. "Each player takes pride in team play and how well the team functions, rather than individual efforts. This alone is a big asset to the team," said Mr. Potts.

CHARLES ATLAS SMOOT

"To live is not to live for one's self alone; let us help one another"—Menander.

So lived Charles Atlas Smoot of Mocksville.

As a man he was interested in people and was always willing to lend a helping and friendly hand wherever he could. Interested in the government of his county, he served for years as a judge in elections and for the past six years as chairman of the board of county commissioners.

In the Town of Mocksville he was one of the most interested and active members of the Mocksville Volunteer Fire Department, serving in various capacities of leadership.

A devoted and loyal member of the Mocksville Masonic Lodge No. 134, Atlas Smoot served in practically all of the official posts of this lodge including that of Master. For many years he served as a co-chairman of the refreshment committee for the annual Masonic Picnic and was one of this institution's most loyal boosters.

His interest in his county and community carried over into other fields. He was a charter member of the Mocksville Lions Club and as far as his health would permit, rendered service through participation in various projects of this organization, and also the Mocksville Moose Lodge of which he was a charter member.

He was a member of the First Methodist Church of Mocksville and served his church in many and varied capacities.

Atlas Smoot had many friends—friends which he made by giving them sensible tokens of his love. As Socrates said:

"Get not your friends by bare compliments, but by giving them, sensible tokens of your love. It is well worth while to learn how to win the heart of a man the right way. Force is of no use to make or preserve a friend, who is an animal that is never caught-or-tamed-but-by-kindness-and-pleasure. Excite them by your civilities, and show them that you desire nothing more than their satisfaction; oblige with all your soul that friend who made you a present of his own".

That was Charles Atlas Smoot.

4-H-Partnership For Leadership

What makes a cake rise or fall? What food does your body need? Do you understand the physics of tractor operation? These are a few of the things that science-minded 4-H'ers study in their 4-H project work.

Since March 3-10 is National 4-H Club Week, 4-H friends are paying tribute to the outstanding program for youth in their locality. Their educational projects and learn-by-doing activities enable "cream of the crop" young people to make a valuable contribution today, and train for leadership tomorrow.

These 4-H'ers are learning to adjust to the changing times and prepare themselves for efficient, effective living. However, the 4-H'ers need the support of public-spirited, youth-minded men and women everywhere—volunteer local leaders, as program advisers, and as donors and sponsors of useful projects.

Helping young people prepare for their future is a big goal in modern 4-H Club work. Many 4-H'ers enroll in career exploration projects. They learn to match "what they have" with "what they need" for the jobs they want. On tours, in meetings and elsewhere, they learn first hand about kinds of jobs, job requirements and job opportunities. Some gain actual experience in their chosen fields.

Plans for observing the week in local areas will include occasions where club members, 4-H alumni, and volunteer leaders will be guests and speakers. Civic and service clubs, farm organizations, schools and churches, and other groups will arrange for talks by 4-H'ers and former 4-H'ers, and others who help with 4-H work.

TAMPERING WITH THE WEATHER

Climatologists are working toward the day when they can do something about the weather.

Already it is possible to change the trend of weather in limited areas, or "microclimates," the National Geographic Society says.

Small, but measurable, effects on climate are induced by creating new lakes, changing river courses, planting forests, and artificially suppressing evaporation.

Cities are among the greatest man-made influences on micro-climates. The downtown area of a city and near-by rural areas often have startling differences in weather.

Compared with its rural neighbors, a city has 5 to 10 percent more clouds and precipitation. Temperatures average 1 to 2 degrees higher. The windspeed in a city is 20 to 30 percent less than in the surrounding country, and the relative humidity is 3 to 10 percent lower.

Changing climate on a large scale would call for grandiose measures, however. An engineer recently proposed building a dam across the Bering Strait and pumping the Arctic Ocean into the Pacific. The idea was to stimulate a warming flow from the Atlantic into the Arctic basin.

The proposal was quickly dismissed when climatologists warned that the results probably would be just the opposite of those intended. As a side effect, the Gobi Desert might creep northward.

Tampering with nature always is potentially disastrous, experts warn. If, for example, the Strait of Gibraltar were blocked, the final result might well be transformation of the Mediterranean Sea into a desert, because evaporating water would not be replaced by water flowing from the Atlantic.

Mountain ranges profoundly influence climate by blocking moisture-laden air from leeward. Thus if several passes were deepened in the Sierra Nevadas, more moist air would flow into the Nevada desert, transforming parts of it into cultivable land.

In this case, the side effect probably would be beneficial also. Decreased precipitation in the mountains would make it easier to keep the passes cleared of snow in the winter.

To create a major climate change, scientists would have to modify substantially the tremendous amount of solar energy received continually by the earth.

About a third of this solar radiation is lost by reflection from clouds and earth. Most of the remainder is absorbed and later returned to space in long waves emitted by the surface, atmosphere, and clouds. In time, the incoming and outgoing radiation balance, but local imbalances provide the energy for wind and weather systems.

To modify this radiation, a climatologist recently suggested touching off nuclear explosions in the Arctic. Theoretically, the massive ice clouds would prevent ground radiation from escaping into space and reflect it downward, raising the temperature. Like a giant greenhouse, the clouds would allow incoming solar radiation to pass through.

The results, however, would be costly, temporary, and somewhat unpredictable. Such experiments are tempting to think about, but a leading climatologist recently advised "a little more humility in the face of the overwhelming powers of nature."

As many as one million earthquakes may take place in a single year. Most are harmless, though some cause great damage and loss of life.

Senator SAM ERVIN Says:

WASHINGTON—Hearings are under way on the Food and Agriculture Bill for 1962 which was presented to the Senate by Senator Ellender on February 2. North Carolina's economy is based in large measure on a sound farm program. This bill is of utmost importance to our State and the Nation. The bill has its purpose in the improvement and protection of farm income, the reduction of costs of farm programs to the Federal Government, the reduction of the Federal Government's excessive stocks of agricultural commodities, the maintenance of reasonable and stable prices of agricultural commodities and products to consumers, and the conservation of our natural resources.

INCREASING PRODUCTIVITY—The reduction of farm surpluses is one of the most difficult problems facing the nation. Early this century when the last of the frontier lands were settled, public policy, research, and conservation of land resources were focused on increasing our agricultural productivity. Great strides have been made in agricultural productivity so that now even though we are harvesting some 40 million fewer acres than at the turn of the century, agricultural yields produce tremendous surpluses yearly. It now appears that by 1980 we will need 50 million fewer farm acres than we have in production today for a population which according to estimates will have increased by 65 million. The plight of the farmers and the government is simply that supply and demand must be brought into line. The fundamental concept of the bill endeavors to cope with this situation. The bill presented to the Senate Agricultural Committee has a number of controversial features in it, and undoubtedly it will undergo a great many changes when it is finally presented to the Senate.

SUMMARY OF BILL—When he introduced the agricultural bill, Senator Ellender made a short summary of the provisions of the 106 page bill. He said: "This bill provides for, first feed grain and marketing quotas, land diversion, and price support programs; second, a dairy allotment and price support program; third, producer allotments for milk, turkeys, and turkey hatching eggs under marketing orders; fourth, land use adjustment directed toward conservation and more economic use, including recreation and fish and wildlife protection; fifth, amendment of Public Law 480 to provide broader authority for the disposal of surplus agricultural commodities; and sixth, miscellaneous provisions dealing with marketing research and development projects for milk, loans for recreational facilities and sewers, use of the Agricultural Credit Insurance Fund for direct loan loans for immediate resale, and budgetary handling of REA loan funds."

NC FARMERS—For the first time this bill undertakes to apply virtually the same kind of program that we have had for some years in tobacco and peanut programs to the feed grain area. The bill does not change the tobacco and peanut allotment programs which have meant so much to North Carolina farmers and have worked so well in this agricultural area. In the event the bill is passed by the Congress and is enacted into law, a referendum will be put to the producers of feed grains, wheat, and dairy products. If 2/3 of those engaged in production of these commodities vote in favor of the program, then we will have marketing and acreage quotas for feed grains, wheat, and a modified form of controls for dairy products. Although I have studied the bill at some length, I do know whether or not it will be a wise bill for North Carolina dairymen. I should be glad to have the opinions of dairymen and farmers who have studied the bill in order that I may consider the bill in the light of their agricultural experience.

SIGNIFICANT ADVANCE—According to the American Foundation for the Blind, the Vocational Rehabilitation Center has been one of the most significant advances in the field of blindness in the last 20 years.

RISE OF TALKING BOOKS—Last year the American Foundation for the Blind recorded over 214 titles of talking books which were distributed free to blind people throughout the 50 states, under the sponsorship of the Library of Congress.

He Wouldn't Understand!

RIPPLES . . . Although the 1963 race for Governor is officially two long years away, two men already running for the office are:

1. Charles Jonas, of Lincoln.
2. Beverly Lake, of Raleigh and Wake Forest.

So, remember that anything said for, about, or against them is with that in mind.

True it is that Jonas is running for Congress and Lake is running his law office. But each pursuit is regarded mainly as means to an end.

Ripples on the Lake began appearing via ads in newspapers here and there about the State asking for petitions urging the Raleigh attorney to run for Governor. Given time enough—and money enough—these could develop into a tidal wave.

In Vance County where they had their beginnings, Dr. Lake won hands down in both Democratic Primary votes in 1960 and in the fall election Sanford scored a solid victory over Gavin.

WEND - STUDYING . . . But, other than Jonas and Lake, who is running for Governor? The answer is: nobody, for sure. At the present time, 1961 House Speaker Joe Hunt of Greensboro seems slightly interested. But there is shockingly little enthusiasm right now for his candidacy. Mention is made of Former Congressman Woodrow Jones of Ruthersford County . . . and of Dr. Henry Jordan . . . but it is scant mention only. Right now, every soul but Lake and Jonas seems to be studying the wind.

SOUTH CAROLINIANS? . . . Most Wake Forest people we saw were glad when Clemson took State. The Carolina people were plugging for Clemson over Duke . . . as were Wake and State followers. And the majority of State, Carolina, and Duke faithful were solidly for Clemson over Wake. Bouncing basketball. Here's to Wake Forest!

OLD HOTELS USED . . . There is hardly a town in North Carolina that does not have at least one hotel that is completely dead or just barely alive as a profitable business project.

Couple this with the fact that a lot of cities and counties are pretty well up against it financially . . . and you come up with an idea.

Little Chowan County had one of the nicest hotels in the State—the Joseph Hewes in Edenton. However, the hotels moved in. Since the hotel was off the main highway, it fell on hard times.

The county, needing more space, bought the hotel, has Houghton Ehringhaus, son of the late Governor, operating it—but is gradually moving offices into the building. Meantime, it is ideal for the Edenton Chamber of Commerce and two or three street floor businesses.

In Smithfield, the new municipal building was formerly the Gabriel Johnston Hotel. In the basement will go the police department. The hotel lobby has been made into an assembly room for commissioner meetings, zoning board meetings, and special public gatherings of this type.

The people of Smithfield seem happy with the change. Thus a fine old building remains useful to the community . . . as the Municipal Building.

Cities and towns made a mistake in letting their main downtown buildings—and this usually includes the hotel—go to the bad. In most instances, the owners of the hotel are eager to do business with the cities. A lot of towns have completely overgrown their office space.

But are the city fathers ready? Any ideas? Too often the chief difference between downtown and shopping centers is that the latter has imagination and the former argument.

THEATRES, TOO . . . A lot of little theatres—movie houses—are stumbling, too. Some of them are dead beyond recall. But in Carthage, Moore County, the merchants have taken over the theatre and are operating it as a non-profit project to attract retail trade to the town. They say it's working, too.

EARLY BIRD . . . Some time when you want to have breakfast with an interesting person . . . or one still full of vim, vigor and zest for living . . . slip into the S & W Cafeteria here some morning.

The person? State Supreme Court Justice Carlisle Higgins. The hour to meet him? Not later than 7 o'clock. He was born in 1889 . . . and was appointed to the Court by Gov. Umstead in 1954 to succeed Sam J. Ervin, who was appointed U. S. Senator to succeed Clyde R. Hoey.

NEW CARS . . . Thanks to 3 sons and a husband, I have to keep interested in cars. Here lately, I can't tell one from the other unless I'm up real close . . . but the menfolk tell me "Chevrolet is still in the lead."

And that's what the monthly sales tabulation put out by the N. C. Automobile Dealers Association says, too. In January, Chevrolet led Ford by 2,957 to 2,665.

We were glad to see that the sale of new cars in North Carolina for January came to 11,398 as against 9,062 for the same month last year. That's a good business sign. Pontiac, a beauty this year, was in third place with 754 in January. Falcon—the little Ford—was fourth with 678. Buick came next at 652. Next was Oldsmobile with 629. Rambler, seventh, 481.

Man is unjust, but God is just; and finally justice triumphs.

Theme: No Cover Is Thick Enough For Ignorance

TEXT: "Ignorance of thine ignorance is thy fiercest foe."—Sir Richard Burton.

A beautiful but brainless Holly wood starlet visited some friends who showed her through their greenhouse. Pausing before a plant she asked its name.

"Well," her host replied, "it belongs to the Begonia family."

"Oh," gushed the actress, "how nice of you to keep it for them while they're away."

Why are we ashamed to admit that we do not know? We advertise our ignorance when we try to disguise it. Will Rogers said, "Everybody is ignorant, only on different subjects." It is no disgrace to be ignorant. It is, when we stay ignorant.

When someone seeks information, no one is more offensive than a person who attempts to conceal his ignorance with a bluff. We would much prefer to have our questions answered by someone who admits, "I don't know, but I'll try to find out." Such an answer is rewarded by confidence. The bluffer is received with disbelief and contempt.

If you want people to have faith in you; to respect you, admit your ignorance when you do not know. Then take steps to end your ignorance of that subject. It was Cicero who said, "I am not ashamed to confess that I am ignorant of what I do not know."

Uncle Dave From Davie Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

I see by the papers where them science fellers is claiming that people on earth will gradual squeeze themselves to death. They figger the population of the world is increasing by 46 million a year and it's a simple matter of figgers that in due time they won't be no standing room left.

I ain't no Fort Knox on science and figgers but I recollect when me and my old lady got married the nearest neighbors we had out here lived three mile away. Right now we got two neighbors that lives less than 300 yards away and I can see how we could get squeezed to death if this trend keeps up.

We was discussing this item at the country store Saturday night and Ed Doolittle allowed as how he aimed to take shelter in the stable with his mule when the population explosion got to the squeezing point. Ed says his old mule won't let nobody but Ed in the stable and as a extra precaution against any undue squeezing from his neighbors, he'll keep the mule's heels aimed at the door.

Some of the fellers claimed the population problem had its good points if it could be stopped at the right time. Zeke Grubb reported that, according to the latest per capital figgers, his part of the national debt was now $4,165. Zeke says if they can hold off payment on the national debt till the population is about to explode, his per capital part could be reduced to around $150 and he'd give the Government a white face cow in full settlement.

Clem Webster was predicting that the time is coming when all debts will be cancelled and everybody will start over gitting in debt. Clem says Franklin Roosevelt claimed the national debt was just comepun we owed to each other. If the New Frontier will go along with his idea, allows Clem, he'll consider the matter closed on the $4,165 he owes.

Bug Hookum was lamenting how styles in worrying changes from one generation to another. For instant, Bug said when he was a boy he was always worrying about gitting run down and killed by a mule with a shuck collar on, and today Ed's got to worry about bedding down with the mule to keep from gitting squeezed to death. He claims they ain't much future to a situation where we ain't got but two choices, bomb explosion, or

Edenton was named in honor of then-Royal Governor Charles Eden who lived nearby and, as a result, became the unofficial capital of the Colony for about 40 years. Early an important port, the merchants exported pitch, tar, turpentine, lumber, tobacco, corn, salt meat and fish. Rich in history, its citizens played important parts in defying the British Parliament, assisting the Revolutionary forces and launching the new State. During the War Between the States, Edenton served as Union headquarters, after Roanoke Island fell.

Among Edenton's immortals are Joseph Hewes, signer of the Declaration of Independence, Secretary of the Naval Committee and parton of John Paul Jones; Hugh Williamson, signer of the Federal Constitution; James Iredell, Associate Justice of the first United States Supreme Court; and Samuel Johnston, early Governor and first US Senator from North Carolina. The ladies of the town made themselves heard by signing resolutions protesting British injustice to the Colonies at the famous Edenton Tea Party on October 25, 1774.

Here you are bound to sense, as my family and I did, the excitement and pride that go with our early history and you will see evidence of Edenton's early days in the many buildings, town and country homes, nationally known for their colonial authenticity and remarkably fine state of preservation. Among these are: St. Paul's Episcopal Church, erected in 1736; the Chowan County Court House, built in 1787; Sycamore Plantation, built in 1800 and reputedly the oldest house in the State; Hayes Plantation, begun in 1789, overlooking Edenton Bay and home of Samuel Johnston; The Iredell House, built in 1759 by James Iredell; The Barker House, home of Penelope Barker, who presided over the Edenton Tea Party; the Cupola House, ca. 1725, of fine Jacobean styling with library and museum, and many other landmarks. Variety Vacationlanders from most sections of the State find that a weekend provides ample time for a round trip from home and a lot of sightseeing in "Ye Towne on Queen Anne's Creek," one of the three oldest communities in North Carolina. The town sounds unfamiliar, you say? Well, I guess it should, in view of the fact that this "towne" was renamed way back in 1722, about 82 years after it was settled. Since then it has been known as Edenton.

Situated in the northeastern coastal area (at the junction of Highways US 17 and NC 92), Edenton has long been renowned for its historic charm and beauty. It is also the county seat of Variety Vacationland's smallest county, Chowan, which borders the picturesque Chowan River and Western Albemarle Sound, making this entire area a veritable "water wonderland."

Edenton was named in honor of then-Royal Governor Charles Eden who lived nearby and, as a result, became the unofficial capital of the Colony for about 40 years. MARCH EGG MONTH

Surveys have found that every- one needs from one-fourth to one third of their daily food require- ments at breakfast. About 60% of the children and adults in the United States either eat an in- adequate breakfast or start to school or work without eating anything. Nutritionists have plenty of evidence to show that well-balanced diets promote good health, but poor nutrition stands in the way of learning.

The United States is vitally concerned with the health and welfare of every citizen and especially the youth. Too many Americans are not eating the right kinds of foods. People can control to some extent how they look, how well they feel, and to some degree how long they can expect to live by eating the right kind of food. A breakfast that supplies the protein needed by the body will help maintain a high physical and mental effec- tency throughout the day. Eggs supply the body with biologically complete protein. In fact, the protein in eggs is complete and contains all the essential amino acids for building and maintaining body tissues.

All parts of our body, except bones, are made up mainly of pro- teins. Our bodies need protein to grow new cells, repair worn tis- sues, and to maintain life itself. The protein should be in the right amounts and quality. Eggs are one of our best sources of high quality protein. In fact, the protein in eggs is so near perfect that scientists use it to measure the proteins in other foods. Two eggs for breakfast will supply over half of the essential amino acids that a teenager needs every day.

Everyone should have a nutri- tional breakfast in order to stand up under the strain or workload that is expected from our bodies each day. In fact, if most people knew they had about 26 trillion cells to wake up in the morning, to feed and keep functioning throughout the day, then they would start the day right with a good breakfast. We do not expect our cars to run without gas, but too many people expect their own bodies to keep going at a normal rate without supplying the needed fuel. The most important meal of the day is breakfast. If you do physical, office, school or housework, you need a good meal at the start of the day in order to feel your best throughout the day. One of the finest breakfasts in the morning is 1 1/2 eggs cooked the way you like them. Why not start the day right and have two eggs for breakfast? Get in the habit of eating eggs every morning. Dur- ing March make this test: eat 2 eggs every morning and see if you do not feel like you are sett- ing on top of the world. When you feel good, you will be pleasant to work with. So remember, to feel your best, to look your best, and to act your best, eat EGGS FOR BREAKFAST.

The USDA states, "Ten million Americans who live in a scientific age waste 500 million dollars a year on quack diets and fake pills and junk of non-scientific medicine men . . . In an era where wonder drugs and great advances in surgery and medicine have produced true medical mir- acles, it is puzzling that so many people in all walks of life pay big money for the frauds." People should get sound advice about proper nutrition. It is easier and cheaper to eat right than to try to regain one's health after it is lost. Eggs are among the more nutritious food that protect and improve health. They are a basic part of the diet of healthy fam- ilies and are used in promoting better health among people suffer- ing from nutritional deficiencies. The importance of eggs in the diet is being stressed these days as the poultry industry ob- serves MARCH EGG MONTH.

The American people are show- ing the greatest interest that has ever been shown in weight con- trol. Low calorie food seems to be quite popular. Some low cal- orie food substitutes may not fur- nish the nutrients needed for health protection.

Consumers have one food, eggs, that are low in calories (one egg contains only 7 calories and furnishes 3.3% of the daily re- quirements). One ounce, eggs contain only about 60% of the calories found in bread and less than half of the calories in breakfast cereals. One way to keep the calorie count low when cooking eggs is to poach or boil them. Two poached eggs, a slice of dry toast, and one large orange will provide a complete meal with only about 290 calories. This is less calories than some of the so-called low calorie diets that do not supply a complete meal nutri- tionally.

Eggs are a rich source of pro- tein, vitamins, and minerals. In fact, eggs are almost a perfect food. If Vitamin C could be added, eggs would be a perfect food. Proteins are needed to (1) build and repair all tissues in the body; (2) help form antibodies to help fight infection; and (3) to supply

Army Specialist Five WILLIAM H. PATTERSON, 30, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Cain, live on Route 5, Mocksville, will play the part of the "enemy force" during the maneuver in Exercise Bristle Cone at Fort Irwin, Calif., March 7-13.

Specialist Patterson and other selected personnel of the First Infantry Division, Fort Riley, Kansas, acting as Aggressors, will play the part of the "enemy force" during the maneuver at the Army's large Armor and Desert Training Center. This "enemy force" will wear distinctive uniforms, employ different tactics and use a special language, thus adding to the realism and increasing the training value of the exercise.

Exercise Bristle Cone will train Army and Air Force units in the tactics and techniques of desert warfare and opera- tions. The training will feature long range aerial reconnaissance, airlift capabilities and offensive and defensive ground actions.

Patterson, who is a mechanic in the infantry's Headquarters Company at Ft. Riley, entered the Army in November, 1952, and completed basic training at Fort Jackson, S. C.

The specialist was graduated from Davie County Training School in 1949.

protein energy. Second to water, protein is the most plentiful sub- stance in the body. Nearly half of the dry weight of the body is protein. The blood contains sev- eral dozen different kinds of pro- tein. In fact, protein makes up about 95% of the hemoglobin molecules.

Vitamins are needed to help (1) the body stay healthy; (2) resist infection; (3) promote healing; (4) aid the cells in using oxygen; (5) keep the vision clear; (6) help build strong bones; (7) keep appetites and digestion normal; (8) keep the nervous system healthy; and (9) change food in- to energy for work and body heat.

Minerals help the protein to keep a proper balance between the acid and alkali in the blood. They combine with protein to make hemoglobin, and help the blood to clot. Minerals help build strong bones and teeth. They help the muscles and nerves to react normally. Minerals help your body to resist diseases.

Yes, eggs are a very good source of protein, vitamins, and miner- als.

als. There are 10 amino acids (all of the essential ones), 14 vitamins and 14 minerals. Since protein, vitamins, and minerals are not stored in the body in any appreci- able amount, they should be consumed each day. So for the go power that you need through- out the day, get in the habit— start right — eat eggs for break- fast.

Eggs can be served in a variety of different ways. Since "vari- ety is the spice of life," there is no need for a person to become tired of eggs. If you like eggs cooked only one way, say scrambled, you can prepare them in different ways for scrambling. You can have them just plain, scrambled in butter, whipped in whole cream and then scrambled, scrambled with cheese, cottage cheese, ham, sausage, chicken livers, etc. Regardless of the way you prepare eggs for cooking, al- ways cook with low heat. Eggs or any protein food cooked with high heat get tough and leathery. So keep the good taste and flavor in your eggs by cooking with low heat.

Eggs are kind to the food shoppers budget. When buying eggs, they should be compared with other protein foods on a cost per pound basis. A dozen of large eggs weigh 1 1/2 pounds. If the price of large eggs is 50 cents per dozen, the cost is only 33c a pound. Nine eggs are equal in protein value to two quarts of milk or about three fourths pound of lean meat. Then too, eggs are easy for your body to digest and they are nearly com- pletely absorbed—99%. The low cost per pound makes eggs a real bargain in food values.

Remember — Eggs are a pro- tein food, they equal ounce for ounce with meats of all kinds. Then too, eggs are one of the most digestible of the protein foods. Eggs are high in vitamins and minerals, and nutritionally, they are outstanding. Eggs are one of our most valuable foods and so kind to the food budget.

Social Security
In Davie County

"Retirement years can be good years." That's the theme of a new booklet which goes on to spell out how retirement may be "a new life of your own."

The booklet, "Now That You Are Retiring" is available at your social security district office. Also available are booklets explaining the old-age, survivors, and disability insurance program.

Robert C. Thomas, district manager of the Salisbury Social Security office, said today that he felt this booklet would be of help to people now retired, as well as people who are beginning to make their plans for retire- ment. "It answers a lot of ques- tions we have heard time and time again from people applying for benefits," he said.

The new booklet explores such questions as "What will I do with my time?" "Will my income really be enough?" "Will my health last —and what if I get sick?" "Where can I go for help when I run into problems?"

A copy of the booklet may be obtained by writing or visiting the social security office at 105

Corrither Avenue, Salisbury, or by calling ME 3-4512.

ASCS News

Feed Grain Program
The sign-up under the 1962 Feed Grain Program is now underway, according to J. N. Smoot, chairman of the Davie County ASCS Committee. The sign-up started the 5th of February and will end March 30.

The program is similar to last year's Feed Grain Program. First the farmer has a base set up for his farm by giving in the crops grown on the farm in 1959 and 1960. Then the farmer comes into the County Office and signs up to participate in the program by diverting at least a minimum (20 per cent) of his acreage from production of corn or grain sorghum. The program is voluntary, however, corn and grain sorghum farmers must participate in order to be eligible for price support on the normal production of their 1962 corn and grain sorghum acreage. One important feature about the program is the fact that participating farmers receive some ready cash at a time when all the money on the farm is going out and none is coming in. Farmers receive approximately 60 per cent of their payment at the time they sign up.

The object of the program is to turn surplus feed grains into extra dollars in circulation and save tax payers money by stopping the wasteful pile of feed grain supplies.

Farmers interested in participating in this program are requested to contact the ASCS office prior to the closing date.

Premeasurement
Farmers who want their tobacco or cotton acreage premeasured have until March 15 to make their request. This service is being offered farmers in order that they may plant their full allotment and not be overplanted. Producers participating in this program must pay for the service at the time they make the request.

Attention Cotton Growers
If we are to keep the cotton history in Davie County then we must do something about it, according to J. N. Smoot, chairman of the Davie County ASC Committee. The following information should give us a picture of what is happening in Davie County.
1961 Cotton allotment in the County 2130 acres
No. of farms having allotments 1032

No. of farms releasing allotments	382
Acreage released	756
Acreage planted	891
Acreage not released or planted	483

Cotton acreage neither planted or released causes loss of acreage history to the farm, county, and state.

Total cotton acreage released for three years straight causes the farm to lose the allotment, but the acreage stays in the county.

A farmer can retain his history by releasing it two years and planting some cotton (at least one tenth of an acre) every third year and releasing the remainder.

Farmers who know they will not plant any cotton this year are requested to release it to the County Office in order that the acreage may be reapportioned to farmers in the county who are interested in growing cotton.

Leasing Tobacco
Tobacco farmers are reminded that in order to transfer a tobacco allotment from one farm to another they must sign a leasing agreement by the closing date of April 1. The lease must be on file in the ASCS office and must be signed by the Lessee and Lessor. Farmers having questions concerning this program should contact this office.

Attention Wheat Growers
Farmers who have planted wheat in excess of their allotment are reminded that the 1962 wheat program increases the penalty rate to 65 per cent of parity at two times the normal yield on excess acreage.

The closing date for utilizing excess acreage as green manure, hay, silage, or cover is May 15.

Price, spice and everything nice!

Who ever thought a car that saves like this could have so much sizzle? Chevrolet engineers, that's who! Liveliness and luxury for a low, low price were exactly what they had in mind to begin with. And they began from scratch with a whole carload of ingenious new ideas designed to give you more for your money. That spunky 6 with gas-sipping stinginess is just one example. Another: a new unitized Body by Fisher that's fit for a full-size family inside, easy to park outside. Still another: tough but gentle one-piece Mono-Plate rear springs that outdo many a bigger car for quiet comfort. Any wonder Chevy II won Car Life magazine's 1962 Engineering Excellence award hands down? (The wonder would be if you settled for anything less—once you get your hands on one at your Chevrolet dealer's!)

It happened 100 YEARS ago

The oldest incorporated trade association in the country, the United States Brewers Association, was organized in 1862... the same year that

IN NORTH CAROLINA 2,000 ill-equipped Confederates made a gallant defense of Roanoke Island against 15,000 Union invaders with an armada of 80 vessels.

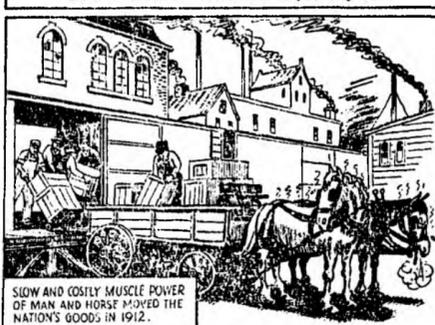

For then, as now, beer was the traditional beverage of moderation. But beer means more than enjoyment to our state. The Brewing Industry contributes more than $ million tax dollars to North Carolina each year—money that helps support our hospitals, schools, and highways.

TODAY, in its centennial year, the United States Brewers Association still works constantly to assure maintenance of high standards of quality and propriety wherever beer and ale are served.

No, you're not nosy — just curious. You believe, that most of your public servants are honest... that your police and courts are free from corruption... that the politicians aren't plotting to steal the city hall. And then you try to picture your town without a newspaper. Dimly, you recall something that Thomas Jefferson once said: "Were it left to me to decide whether we should have a government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter." Nonsense! That was long ago. It's different now. This is the electronic age. What with split atoms, split stocks and split second jet-way-of-living, we now have all sorts of checker-uppers on our civic goings-on. But have we? Let's take inventory. Whatever wonders and wizardries communication offers today, one thing remains the same: THE HEART OF THE FREE PRESS IS STILL THE GOOD REPORTER. And the good newspaper — its PRINTED words DOCUMENTING human happenings — IS STILL THE INITIAL INSTRUMENT IN THE PROTECTION OF RIGHTS AND LIBERTIES THROUGHOUT THE LAND. The fact is plain. And it's reiterated in the record: Almost every day some American newspaper — ranging in size from the mighty metropolitan daily to the small town weekly — is acclaimed for its constructive efforts in helping to build a better community... or for its vigilance in searching out and snuffing out corruption, tyranny and injustice. In this service, traditionally — yes, and INIMITABLY — the newspaper is still supreme. So, if you will keep on taking your free press for granted. But — if you value your freedom — don't let anything or anybody take your newspaper away from you.'

A SUCCESSFUL SEASON

The basketball season for the Davie County High School came to a close last Wednesday night when the Rebels bowed in the semi-finals of the conference tournament to a strong Asheboro team.

Previously, the Rebelettes had lost out in the first round of the tournament to Thomasville.

With both Davie teams winning the North Piedmont Conference championships, the 1961-62 basketball season for the local school was most successful.

The Rebels had a season record of 17 victories and only five losses. In conference play since the first of the year, their record is 14 wins and only two losses.

The Rebelettes had a season record of 17 victories and 4 losses, with a 13-2 record against conference competition.

The records posted by these teams are tributes to the coaching staff at the local high school and the fine spirit of cooperation and team play of the players involved. The coaching staff of Jack Ward,

Bob Butts, Bill Peeler and Mrs. Genene Muse are to be complimented and congratulated for a job well done.

The large crowds that turned out to follow and root for the Davie teams during final stretch in which they achieved the conference titles and entered tournament play is a testimony to the interest and support this community gives to top-notch teams. The overflow crowd for the Piedmont Tournament which was held here is also a tribute to the school and the community.

We have had a consolidated high school now for five years. The athletic teams have always given a good account of themselves and have treated several times to grab conference titles. This year the conference titles and trophies come to Davie and it is hoped that now that the ice is broken, there will be many more.

The people of Davie County take pride in their athletic teams and the way in which they perform. They are proud this year of the Rebels and Rebelettes.

THE DECLINE OF AN ART

Editor Dean Bunting of the Albion, Illinois JOURNAL-REGISTER has written the following on what he terms "the decline and passing of an ancient and honorable art". It reads as follows:

"I rise to deplore the decline and passing of the ancient and honorable art of whittling. When the whittler has at last disappeared from the contemporary scene, we shall have lost one of the few remaining bulwarks of an age more gracious and leisurely than ours.....

"The dedicated whittler could be distinguished from the common or garden variety whittler by two things. One was his pocket knife. It was always of the finest steel and always had at least two blades. One blade was for the ordinary fare of life, such as slicing off the proper-sized chunk of cut-plug. The other was for whittling. This blade was honed to a razor edge—literally. After a period of tender and careful honing, the owner would lick the back of his left forearm and try for sharpness. If it shaved, it was sharp enough. If not, more honing was necessary.

"The other thing which set the expert whittler apart was his seemingly every ready supply of whittling timber. Be it known you didn't use just any old thing for whittling. Good staright-grained white pine was the thing. Sassafras or catalpa would do in a pinch, but white pine was the whittling wood par excellence.

"What did they whittle? Why, bless your heart, they didn't whittle anything. The whole object of whittling was whittling. To make something would have spoiled the whole thing....

"O' Time! O'Change! Gone is the passenger pigeon, stomach bitters, stump pull and whittler. And it is just as well. What would we do with his whittlings with no cookstove to fire up in the morning? And what would he whittle? Pasteboard boxes? He would break his heart trying to find a decent piece of white pine whittling wood."

A SEQUEL TO COLUMBUS

The hero's welcome accorded to Astronaut John Glenn—which began in Florida—then Washington—and New York—had heartfelt participation in 50 states and around the globe, wherever there were Americans to share in their pride over an achievement, that was literally out of this world.

But, fantastic as it still seems to most of us that a human can be shot into the airless void 150 miles above the earth, circumnavigate it three times in succession and return safely to a predetermined spot, the pent-up emotion released by his return home has a deeper significance.

This is the first time in a long while that Americans as a nation have had good news to celebrate. It is the first time since the war that Americans have had the opportunity of saluting the sort of courage that presses ahead in the face of known perils and the unknown as well.

In this or any crucial time, the example of Col. Glenn could still save us. If we can individually gather strength from his strength; if we can again comprehend as our forefathers did the do-or-die philosophy that guided him; and if we can accept a personal discipline of mind and body to develop our will power and our stamina to whatever limits our individual potential may offer, our nation is secure and our future undimmed.

While men live, nothing can tarnish the exploit of Col. Glenn and the 30,000 teammates whose toll and devotion and competence backed him up. If his fellow countrymen will tune themselves to the message implicit in his devotion to duty, then, certainly his voyage will be a proud sequel to that of Columbus.

Kilts have been customary Scottish garb for centuries, says the National Geographic Magazine. The traditional style was a 15-foot length of tartan that the owner spread on the ground and pleaded. He then lay upon it and belted it around him, pinning the upper part at the shoulder. Today's kilt extends only from waist to kneecap.

Adobe brick, one of the more ancient building materials, is having a revival. Chemists have found that an emulsion of petroleum asphalt and water will waterproof or stabilize the soil from which adobe is made and prevent disintegration. The strong brick can be used for building almost anywhere.

The United States maintains one of its largest consulates in Calgary, the center of Canada's oil industry. Some 36,000 Americans live in Calgary, the National Geographic Magazine says, and 80,000 are in the area.

Bees of different species sometimes join in hoteest battle as each seeks to carry off the honey of the other. The battleground is strewn with dead and dying bees, including opponents locked together in death grips.

SO THIS IS NEW YORK
By NORTH CALLAHAN

California may be growing faster than New York, but in some ways, the Golden State still has to catch up with the Empire one. For example, there is more office space in the tall buildings south of City Hall in New York City than all such space in the City of Los Angeles. And this is only about one third of Manhattan, to say nothing of the other boroughs of Greater New York, i.e., Brooklyn, Staten Island, Queens, and the Bronx. Downtown New York is furthermore gearing for an unprecedented volume of new office construction, with many of the nation's most important corporations locating here in the modern structures built for efficiency. Some one said that good real estate has inherent value which does not fluctuate radically and is therefore a sound investment. It seems rather sad to watch a big building being torn down; but another takes its place, and as in human life, the old is soon replaced with the new.

Folks complain about the high prices charged by doctors yet when they need medical attention, demand the best. For example, a woman decided to have the shape of her nose changed and consulted a plastic surgeon as to the cost of this complicated operation. "One thousand dollars," she was told. The prospective patient exploded, "A thousand dollars! Isn't there something less expensive?" The surgeon thought for a moment. "Well," he replied, "you might try walking into a telephone pole."

A winsome little publication picturesquely called, "The Potash Kettle" is sent to me from the Green Mountain Folklore Society in Vermont. On a somber if nostalgic note, is the following from it: "Among the old customs that have passed is watching with the sick or dead. It was an expression of the strong neighborly spirit so common in farming communities in early days. Life was far simpler than now and most people had many of the same experiences, so it was easy to enter into each other's lives. There was a quick sympathy and a readiness to help each other which manifested itself in personal service. Money was scarce, trained nurses unknown, so when sickness came, neighbors did too."

Those modern critics who say the poet Longfellow was corny. In my opinion, never lived in a wholesome, American community

Theme: Are You Ready For Opportunity

TEXT: "Man must make his opportunity as oft as find it" - Francis Bacon

An old lady was celebrating her 100th birthday. As she sat rocking in her chair on the front porch, her glasses perched on her nose, a reporter said to her, "Grandma, you must have seen a lot in the last 100 years."

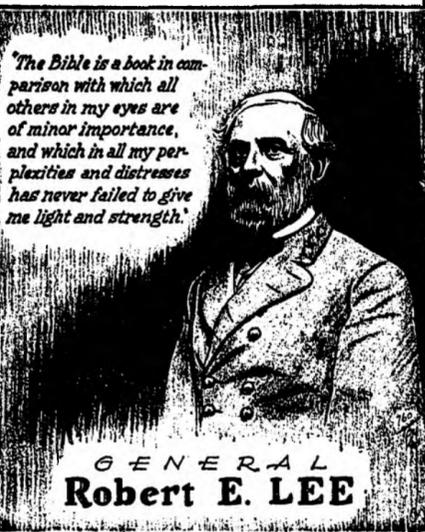

"Not much," was the sad reply. "Everything was always over by the time I found my glasses."

So many of us are not ready for opportunity. We are always looking for our glasses and opportunity passes before we can get a good look at it and decide what to do.

That real reason for missing opportunities is fuzzy thinking. We have no definite goals, no clear-cut idea of what we want in life. We do not study and strive to attain an end. We drift in an amiable fog until we hear something that sounds like we think an opportunity should. Then we paw around blindly for our glasses. By the time we find and focus them, the opportunity has passed.

The difference between success and failure is not luck, not genius. It is knowing what you want and seeking it intensely. Only then can you recognize opportunity. Only there are your glasses always in place. Opportunity is as simple to find as that.

GENERAL Robert E. LEE
The Bible—Source of Light and Strength

where life was based on simple but great values. Take the following lines, as a sample, and notice how fittingly they apply - or should apply - to the position of the United States today:

"Thou too sail on, O ship of State,
Sail on O Union, Strong and Great.
Humanity with all its fears,
With all the hopes of future years,
Is hanging breathless on thy fate."

James A. Ponce, said to be a descendant of the Spanish explorer, Ponce de Leon, was dressed in the colorful armor of a conquistador when he stepped off a plane here the other day. The idea was to advertise a certain city in behalf of its tourist trade. Brandishing his sword, he exclaimed dramatically, "I claim La Guardia for St. Augustine!"

Here and There: William Ward to Houston says that he who gives a good book gives more than cloth, paper and ink. He reveals a foreword of his thoughts, a foreword of his thoughts, a dedication of his friendship, a page of his presence, a chapter of himself, and an index of his affection—a new law specifies that "no person shall enter or attempt to enter any aircraft in flight." We intend to abide by that regulation—pilots over 40 years of age hold the best record for safety and skill, says military statistics—reckless driving make one think that most of the horse sense of the good old days was possessed by the horse—of all people who retire at 65, according to a study, only 9 per cent do so because they really want to.

[Open Letter to a New York restaurant company] That mouse I saw running around under the footboards of your soda fountain in the railroad station may be part of this space age, but I doubt it. It is true that mice are used for experiments, but so far as I know, they are not yet consumed as food in this country, nor do they make good chaperons for food-servers who are supposed to have clean, germ-infested hands. Nor does the state of mind of your cashier when I mentioned it to her help matters in general, for all she did was throw up her money-filled hands and screech.

On the other hand, maybe you have something opposite to an astronaut. That small, gray form darting under the boards toward your sandwich supplies with an eager look in his hungry eyes may be a creature of the nether regions arriving up here on a Project Rodent and needing nourishment fast. In that case, you should not have to bear the expense. Our government always does that, especially if the object of its affections has votes to spare. I could have called the attention of the government to your sly visitor, but felt that I should write you this letter before reporting you to the Sanitation Department - or should it be the National Space Agency?

Perhaps you have a Subnaut there. In which case it would be better to have this underground [Continued on Page 2]

SENATOR SAM ERVIN SAYS:

WASHINGTON—Several days ago U-2 Pilot Francis Gary Powers testified before the Senate Armed Services Committee of which I am a member. I have received a number of letters concerning Mr. Powers since his return from imprisonment by Soviet Russia. Some of these letters have been highly derogatory to Powers. I think the hearings on this matter have been very helpful to the country and to those who wish to properly appraise the obligations of this American. Powers made a very favorable impression on the Committee.

The Central Intelligence Agency has made it very plain in sessions with the Committee that these pilots were instructed as follows: "a. If evasion is not feasible and capture appears imminent pilots should surrender without resistance and adopt a cooperative attitude toward their captors. b. At all times while in the custody of their captors, pilots will conduct themselves with dignity and maintain a respectful attitude toward their superiors. c. Pilots will be instructed that they are perfectly free to tell the truth about their mission with the exception of certain specifications of the aircraft. They will be advised to represent themselves as civilians, to admit previous Air Force affiliation, and to make no attempt to deny the nature of their mission." Moreover, the testimony presented to the Committee brought out that the U-2 pilots were to use their own judgement of what they should attempt to withhold and not to subject themselves to strenuous hostile interrogation. Powers acted in accordance with his instructions.

CRITICISM OF POWERS—Most of the criticism of Powers comes over a statement which he made during his trial in Russia to the effect that "he knew what he had done was wrong." He stated upon the advice of his Russian defense attorney, that he (Powers) has a man without previous court experience, and that he had no American or English speaking attorney.

CONCLUSION OF COMMITTEE—I think that all of us on the Senate Armed Services Committee were impressed with the fact that Powers fully performed his contract and agreement with the government, and that he did fairly well under highly adverse circumstances. All the facts concerning Mr. Powers' mission, the fall of his plane, his capture, and his stay in Russia have been intensively studied. All interrogations have been unanimous in the view that Powers was truthful in his account.

POSTAL RATE INCREASE—I have received considerable mail concerning my views on the proposed increase in postage rates. In my judgment, Congress cannot permit the Post Office Department to continue to operate deeply in the red. For many years the Post Office Department has been running huge deficits. For this reason, I expect to vote for an increase in postage rates provided I am convinced that the bill increasing the rates distributes the burden fairly between the different classes of mail. The bill is presently in the Senate Committee on Post Office and Civil Service, and has not been reported to the floor of the Senate for action.

News and Comments from our Raleigh Bureau—225 Clinton Rd.

TO RUN? . . . As of this past week end it looked as if W. Z. Wood of Winston-Salem had all but definitely decided to run against Incumbent Ralph Scott of Danbury for the Fifth District seat in Congress.

Wood, who became 38 years on Feb. 15, led the ticket when he came to the Legislature in 1960. Liberals vs conservatives? State-wide interest? Regarded as leaning heavily to the liberal side of things, Wood was one of the leaders for education in the 1961 General Assembly. He was also the father of the law which laid low the sale of poison liquor; and was one of the parents of the bill of curtail retail sales on Sunday. He is a former Young Democratic National Committeeman.

A native of Yadkin County, Wood — like Scott — is an alumnus of the Wake Forest College Law School. He has been up to his neck in Forsyth County Democratic politics since beginning the practice of law there some 10 years ago.

His father, a Yadkin County farmer, died when young Wood was five; his mother when he was 17. He sweated it out in India during much of World War II. He has one wife, three children, is a Presbyterian.

If Wood decides to make the race, he will be taking on a man who has served one term in the State Legislature. Scott is a conservative became 56 last fall, and was in Wake Forest Law School with two other colleagues, Congressmen Lennon and Kitchin. Lennon is one year younger than Scott. Kitchin is three years younger.

Representative Scott is in his sixth year in Congress. His secretary is Harold Thomerson. He is a Mason, Shriner, Elk, and Baptist. Scott is about half the size of Wood, regards himself as "conservative Democrat."

The Fifth is a long district now, reaching from within 45 miles of Raleigh in Granville County to the mountains of Wilkes. In it could come on May 26 the answer to whether N. C. in 1962 is liberal or conservative. With Wood in the race with Scott there would be no middle ground.

RIGHT MAN . . . When we saw in one of the papers the other day that W. H. Belk, founder of the far-flung Belk retail empire, died ten years ago in February, we were reminded again of an incident involving him and George W. Dowdy, manager and executive vice president of the Belk Store in Charlotte. It was about 40 years ago, and Mr. Dowdy was a young employee in the Durham store. He had been working long hours, waiting on customers and in the stock room.

This was an afternoon during the middle of the week, as I recall the story, and young Dowdy took advantage of a lull in business to steal back to the rear of the store for a few moments rest. He suddenly found himself nodding.

But then his half conscious mind heard the shuffle of feet. Dowdy, in the midst of a nod, found himself looking at the floor, staring at a big pair of shoes. He knew those shoes and those big feet could belong to only one person. He looked at them for a moment closed his eyes again and gently said: "Amen."

It wasn't long after this incident that Dowdy heard he had been recommended for a promotion by Good Presbyterian Belk.

KIND OF TAX . . . I don't recall that Virginia Electric and Power Co. has seen fit as yet to reply to Governor Sanford's charge that their high rates for electricity in Northeastern North Carolina is discouraging to industry thinking of locating there.

But at least one of the papers of the area, the "Scotland Neck Commonwealth," defended VEP- CO and in so doing showed how some hard pressed municipalities of that section of the State help make ends meet.

A large number of towns in the northeastern counties buy the power from the company at wholesale rates and then retail it to local customers. The profit therefrom helps to keep city taxes down. This is not confined to the Vepco region. Our information is that it exists in varying degrees throughout the U. S. A. . . . but we have not checked to be sure about this.

All of this means that Vepco and these other light and power companies are rendering a big assist to the smaller communities — and to some not so small. They are able to secure a little revenue in this way from people who own no land and who thus contribute very little to the city government's operation. But they all use electricity.

Since few municipalities have a sales tax in the U. S. and since personal property taxes, etc., are so small, municipalities are only too glad to work with the light and power companies. That is the impression we get.

This is one answer to Governor Sanford's blast at VEP- CO. If there are others — and we would think there are — then VEP- CO should come forward with them.

NOTES . . . If there is discussion in the Democratic Party it does not seem to affect their rallies. Word around here is that the Jefferson - Jackson Dinner coming up in about three weeks is expected to be a sellout.

The Kennedy Cabinet's only Republican (once removed?) Treasury Secretary Dillon, will be the speaker for the forthcoming annual dinner of the N. C. Citizens Association here.

Uncle Dave From Davie Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

I see by the papers where one of them countries in South America called Uruguay has got a new idea for running the Government. They've done away with their President and is using nine men elected by the people. It won't work, Mister Editor. You can't git mad at nine people, and the voters like to git mad.

Democracy works pritty good in our country on account of we always got somebody to git mad at and on account of we can swap ends ever onct in a while. The Republicans had seven year to stay mad at Harry Truman, then the Democrats had eight year to stay mad at Ike. I recollect reading one time where some big newspaper editor claimed if you could keep half your readers mad and half of 'em glad, then swap ends about onct a year, you got yourself a newspaper that'll sell. I think you got to follow the same system to keep democracy selling all the time to all the people.

I figger one of the reasons folks is always complaining about the Congress is we got so many Congressmen in Washington that the people can't pick out one to git mad at. You can pick out one now and then and start long he gits lost in the shuffle and you got to git mad at all of 'em and they ain't no satisfaction for the voters in that kind of system.

We got a heap of deserving Congressmen in Washington and we got some deserving to be shot and sometimes it's hard for a voter to pick out which is which. One thing that makes it confusing for the voters is the way them Congressmen horse-trade amongst themselves. Fer instant, the Democrat Congressman from Bull Short, Georgia, will swap votes with the Republican Congressman from Hog Grunt, Utah, to git a piece of pie fer their own districts. Then the next day they'll be fighting each other along party lines on some important issue that concerns the whole country.

I reckon you'd have to say we got too many two-toned Congressmen. I'm in favor of requiring all Congressmen to git tested by the Bureau of Standards. They test everything else afore it is official, and then we could tell if a Congressman was Democrat or Republican to the bone or just skin deep, pure gold or part brass.

But they is one thing I'll have to say fer Congressmen. They is the best letter writers in the world. You can write one and ask him a question and git a two-page letter answering everything but the question. Writing your Congressman, Mister Editor, is like hollering down a well. About all you git back is the echo.

Yours truly,
Uncle Dave

SHEEP

The prospects for sheep products are brighter this year as far as price is concerned, but there are other things not quite so bright. Wool is selling stronger now than it did a year ago and most of the improvement is in the fine wool, which should help our average price. Wool buyers will bid higher on wool that is 100% tied with paper twine. Let's advise all producers of this so they may order their twine in advance.

Lambs are in a much better position than a year ago. With fewer lambs on feed there is a good prospect of a price rise on top spring lambs.

The dark cloud in the lamb picture is on the small cull lambs. The company that has handled all of our lambs in the past have closed their Boston plant and have indicated that they can handle only lambs grading good or better and weighing 70 pounds or more.

There is a possibility that we can find feeder buyers for light utility and cull lambs that have been docked and castrated. At this moment, with neither the butcher or the feeder wanting to buy low grade light, long tailed, buck lambs, the farmer that neglects these operations may find himself with no market.

In view of the above, it would seem advisable for you to notify your sheep producers the following:

1. Wool prices may be stronger. Tied wool will help get a higher price.
2. Prospects are good for top grade lambs-push growth with

Social Security
In Davie County

If your wages had stopped and your family needed money, would you disregard a source of income that might be "yours for the asking"? This may sound like a ridiculous question, but that is exactly what many families are doing, according to Robert C. Thomas, Manager of the Salisbury Social Security District Office.

Many disabled workers and their families are not receiving social security disability benefit payments because an application has not been filed by the disabled worker or by someone on his behalf. If you are totally disabled and have worked under social security for at least five years of the ten year period ending when you were disabled, you should apply for benefits. Mr. Thomas said.

If a disabled worker's claim is approved, his wife and dependent children under 18 may also get checks. A disabled son or daughter over 18 may be eligible for benefits on his or her parent's account if his or her disability began before age 18, and is so severe that he or she is unable to do a substantial job for pay.

The present law provides that disability applications filed on or before June 30, 1962, will be effective as of the date of disability began, no matter how far back that date might be. Applications filed after June 30, 1962, can be effective for only 18 months prior to the date of filing. For workers who became disabled prior to 1961, it is important to file a claim before the June 30 deadline, otherwise they stand a chance of losing all rights to present and future cash benefits for themselves and their families. Mr. Thomas urges all people in this area who feel that they might qualify to contact his office.

denizen who probably thinks we humans resemble a galaxy of upright cats eating your melted cheese sandwiches, taken out and given a Broadway parade such as that tendered to our most hep cat of all - John Glenn recently I did not see where your Sub-naut went. But if you don't use the proper scientific approach on it, the chances are that it will become hungry again soon and invade your soda fountain with predatory designs. In this case, as the creature grows bolder and can be seen more readily, I can easily imagine some hysterical women customers taking one a-gonzal look, chucking their lettuce sandwiches toward outer space and then taking off into an orbit which might end up in your vanilla ice cream capsules.

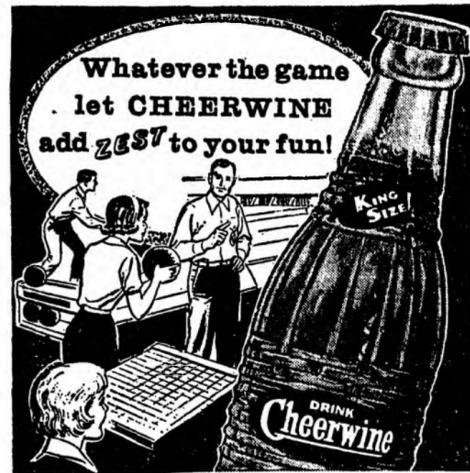

Of course this tiny, furry thing may be some one who has felt the impact of the bus strike somewhat more literally than others and in trying to squeeze into or out of the subways was reduced to less than pint size. In this case, Mike Quill will probably be around to see you soon, demanding that all rules of the Subnaut Workers Union be complied with while their member is on your premises. This could call for better nibbling conditions and less holes per cheese. Inspection of the sleeping quarters of the Subnaut might well bring on a request for nothing but the best - that is, featherbedding. After all, your soda fountain is located in a railroad station and this question is uppermost in the minds of the trainmen right now.

But despite the old expression, "of mice and men", I still think that we have here - excuse me, what YOU have THERE - is a being from another world, and I don't mean that of Walt Disney. The timely appearance of this rattus genus from another hole leads to a suggestion: now that we have launched into this big space business above the earth, we might as well go ourselves one better and in the proverbial Jules Verne manner, delve beneath the surface and see what we can come up with there. Meantime, more of us will survive if you will make sure you are harboring a Subnaut in your eatery and not a lousy, slinky rat. The next time I patronize your place

Advance Payments Available Under Feed Grain Program Producers who participate in the 1962 Feed Grain Program are entitled to payments for diverting acreage from production of corn and grain sorghums according to J. N. Smoot, Chairman of the Davie County ASC Committee. Up to half of the estimated payment to be earned may be paid in advance when the producer signs up under the program.

Smoot said this program provision should be a substantial benefit to growers who can use some extra ready cash during the spring planting season. Sign-up for the program runs through March 30.

The program offers payments to producers for diversion of feed grain cropland to approved soil conserving uses. The program is voluntary, but farmers who cooperate must divert a minimum acreage (20 per cent of the farm base) in order to be eligible for price support on the normal production of their 1962 crop corn and grain sorghum acreage.

Farmers who are interested in participating in the 1962 Feed Grain Program should get in touch with the County ASCS Office at their earliest convenience, but not later than March 30.

Cotton HI-Light Week

March 12-18 has been designated as Cotton HI-Light Week for releasing cotton acreage that will not be planted this year.

J. N. Smoot, chairman of the ASCS County Committee, expressed the hope that all cotton farmers will get a clear picture of the choice they have to make before the deadline for releasing cotton acreage. Smoot says that the deadline is March 23, 1962, but that he hopes all cotton that will not be planted will be released to the ASC County Committee before that deadline if the farmer has already decided what he intends to do.

Records show that 382 farmers released their cotton in this county in 1961, and 386 farms did not plant their cotton and did not release the acreage.

Complete release of cotton acreage which will not be planted this year could go a long way toward solving the problems of cotton farmers, ginners and processors. If Tar Heel farmers do not plant their full acreage or take advantage of the acreage release provision they will bring about a considerable cut in this State's Cotton acreage.

Releasing acreage he can't plant is the only way a farmer can retain planting history and keep from cutting his own future allotments. Farmers who cannot plant their full cotton acreage this year should by all means go by their ASCS County office and release the acreage they will not use.

Wool Programs

The 1961 Wool Marketing year ends March 31, 1962 — the end of this month. On that day we close the marketing program for the past year which began last April 1, and start on the new year.

Growers who sell wool or unshorn lambs by March 31, will have until the end of April to apply for payments under the wool program, and those payments will be received this coming summer.

Dutchman Creek Landowners Petition For Watershed

Public Hearing To Be Held March 26

Landowners in the Dutchman Creek watershed have petitioned the Soil Conservation Supervisors for the creation of a Watershed Improvement District, according to C. W. Phillips. This is a necessary step before any funds will be made available for construction work. The boundaries of the proposed watershed district are set by nature and is all the area that drains into Dutchman Creek.

The Middle Yadkin Soil Conservation Supervisors will hold a public hearing at 7:30 p.m., March 26, 1962, at the courtroom of the Davie County Courthouse and all interested parties will be heard. If the Soil Conservation Supervisors find there is enough interest they shall call for a vote from landowners in the watershed area. If the Supervisors determine the vote is favorable they will certify the organization of the Watershed Improvement District to the State Conservation Committee; State Board of Water Resources and Clerk of Superior Court.

Only owners of more than 3 acres of land will be eligible to vote unless the owner of a smaller tract can prove that he sold more than $250.00 worth of agricultural products last year. A Board of Trustees made up of 3 people who live within the boundaries of the watershed. After the District has been certified the Soil Conservation Supervisors will appoint the first three persons. At the next general election three persons will be elected by people living in the watershed. The Trustees duties will be to operate and maintain dams and stream channel work and assess only landowners whose land is specially benefitted by dams and channel work. The Watershed Improvement District together with the local people have the responsibility of maintaining the works of improvement.

Only those lands that are benefitted can be assessed to cover the cost of operation and maintenance and only to the degree that they are benefitted. Things that must be taken into consideration are fertility of the soil, how close the land is to the stream, how wet the land is, and how close the land is to the dams and stream channel, how often it is damaged by floods, whether it is in cropland, pasture or woods and other factors, says C. W. Phillips. The Trustees will determine how many acres and to what degree they are benefitted and the assessment for each land owner as funds are needed. Assessments need not be made every year and can vary in relation to the cost of maintenance. It is estimated that the total annual maintenance will be $5,000 to $6,000. These funds can only be used to maintain dams, channel work maintenance, and expenses of the Watershed Improvement District.

Chief Foster said that his investigation showed that the station wagon ran off the road on the right side and hit the power line pole, then crossed over to the left side of street into the yard of James Reavis. Damage to the power line pole was estimated at $200 and $25 damage to the yard. Damage to the station wagon was estimated at $800.

The force of the impact was so great that the car was almost broken in half and was almost completely wrapped around the tree. Moultray was thrown out upon impact.

Mocksville Jaycees To Sponsor Miss North Carolina Contestant

A "Miss Mocksville" will represent this county at the "Miss North Carolina" Pageant in Charlotte in July. It was announced this week by Jack Pennington, general chairman of the "Miss Mocksville Pageant" committee of the Mocksville Junior Chamber of Commerce which will stage the contest here. Plans for the "Miss Mocksville Pageant," to be held here on June 9th, are already underway, he added.

Winner of the "Miss North Carolina Pageant," in addition to the $1,000 scholarship, will win the right to represent the Tar Heel State in the "Miss America" Pageant in Atlantic City in September. Miss America will receive a $10,000 scholarship and an estimated $75,000 in modeling and personal appearance contracts.

Mr. Pennington said he will name chairmen of the committees which will assist in staging the "Miss Mocksville Pageant" in several days. He will appoint heads of an Entries Committee, a Staging Committee, and chairmen of the following committees: Tickets, Ushers, Publicity, Advertising, Program Book, Judges, Parade, Hostess, Finance, and Refreshment.

"The next Miss America might well be living right here in Davie County," Mr. Pennington said. "She may be a girl who teaches school, your receptionist or secretary, or perhaps one of the young ladies in the annual high school play. Or she may be one of our girls attending college in another city or state. We intend to bring her home to compete in our Pageant."

Mr. Pennington added: "You may also see her every day and never suspect that a year from now she'll be on magazine covers, touring foreign capitals, and representing American young womanhood as 'Miss America.'"

"But if she is in Davie County, we're going to find her at the local pageant on June 9, 1962," he went on. "We're going to ask every citizen of this county to help us find a girl to represent us in the 'Miss North Carolina Pageant,' and perhaps go on to Atlantic City and capture the 'Miss America' title."

Girl Scouts Work As 'Hospital Aides'

If you have been in the Davie County Hospital during the past month, you must have noticed young girls dressed in red and white pinafores walking up and down the halls - in and out of rooms - filling water pitchers - carrying trays - arranging flowers - fluffing pillows - straightening beds - speaking a cheerful word and smiling a pleasant smile while helping wherever they can. The "Peppermint Girls" is what some people call them - a troop of Girl Scouts from Mocksville is who they are; working on their Hospital Aide Bar is their project. Thirty hours of Hospital Aide work is required of these girls to be allowed to wear the Red Bar of the Hospital Aide.

During the last week of January, Miss Bullard, RN, of Davie County Hospital, started an orientation period with Misses Marlene Boger, Janet Carter, Merlie Danner, Helen Grant, Nancy Johnson, Elsie Purvis, Jayne Sanford, Nancy Sheek, Rosalee Smith and Ida Belle Yates in preparation for doing their work. The girls started their work on the 4th of February a little apprehensive, but willing to learn and do the work that had to be done. Now, there are some potential Doctors and Nurses among the troop-how many will follow these professions remains to be seen.

Through the full cooperation of Clay McClusky, Administrator of the Hospital, and the help and guidance of the Nurses and Aides, the girls are finding their work interesting and enjoyable. The only complaint from the girls? "Golly! I'm tired!" after three to five hours on their feet. The only complaint heard from the hospital personnel? "The Girl Scouts are spoiling the patients!" Should there be any complaints from the patients, please report to the girls' leader, Mrs. Jack Sanford.

Defective Steering Is Cause Of Wreck

Defective steering mechanism contributed to a wreck last Thursday on the Farmington Road, six miles east of Mocksville.

Trooper L. E. Woods of the State Highway Patrol said that his investigation showed that Guy Walls, 38, of Mocksville Rt. 4 was operating a 1955 Chevrolet truck and was traveling north on the Farmington road at approximately 35-45 miles-per-hour when drag-link in steering system broke. The truck then swerved to the right shoulder and ran for 85-feet, then into side ditch, struck bank and continued on for 90-feet in ditch, coming to rest on right side, leaning against embankment. The truck, containing frozen meats, was damaged on the right side. Damages were estimated at around $150.

Trooper Woods pointed out that according to figures in a special issue of Popular Government magazine, published by the Institute of Government, Using 1960 statistics, the article points out that one out of every 18 motor vehicles was involved in an accident in 1960; that 2,000 of them had defective brakes; 1,000 had defective tires; 450 had defective lights; and 300 had defective steering mechanisms as was the case in the accident on the Farmington Road.

"We of the N. C. State Highway Patrol hope that the above facts will help the motorists of Davie to pay a little more attention to his brakes, tires, lights, and steering gear on his vehicles during 1962 so that accidents produced by these defects may be reduced", said Trooper Woods.

Car Overtakes In Wreck On Monday

A car with five occupants overturned on the Baltimore Road on Monday around 9:45 p.m. There were no serious injuries. Damages to the car, a 1962 Tempest, were estimated at $860.00.

Trooper L. E. Woods of the State Highway Patrol, said that his investigation showed that Robert Lee Zimmerman, age 16, of Advance, Rt. 1, was driving the car and heading north on the Baltimore Road towards U. S. 158 at approximately 55-65 miles per hour. The driver lost control of the car in a sharp right-hand curve, crossed the roadway to the left side onto the edge of shoulder, swerved back across the road to right side, struck embankment and overturned once in a field coming to rest on its top, 60 feet from impact with embankment.

Trooper Howard said that another factor in addition to high speed and the curve in the accident was the apparent lack of driving experience... the driver only having had his license for a short time and had not the opportunity to take the Driver's Education course in high school.

"According to information published in support of the 'Action Program' of the President's Committee for Traffic Safety: . . . Some 30 studies indicate that high school trained drivers have significantly fewer accidents and violations than do untrained drivers. Many insurance companies now provide insurance at reduced premiums to students successfully completing state approved driver education courses," said Trooper Howard.

Red Cross Services Are Increased In Davie

According to Mrs. Jack Sanford, Chairman of the Davie County Chapter of the American Red Cross, there has been a substantial increase in the number of requests from servicemen and their families to the Home-Serviceman program of Red Cross. These servicemen and their families are seeking assistance with emergency problems created by the serviceman's separation from his family. Red Cross maintains 24 hour service through telecommunications around the world wherever servicemen are stationed. During the past six months the increase in requests to the Davie County Home-Serviceman has increased three-fold.

Pauline Jones and Mrs. Edna Hendrix as Co-Captains of the Fork Community; Mr. and Mrs. Elmer G. Hendrix are Captains of the Smith Grove Community and Redland; and Charles Jamerson is Captain of Cooleemee. Mrs. Phil S. Young has accepted the role of Captain of the Mocksville residential area. Reports from Business, Special Gifts and Industrial Chairmen have been most satisfactory - according to Mr. Cecil. He wishes to remind the citizens of Davie County once more that our Red Cross Goal has been increased considerably for the 1962 Fund Campaign Drive - $2793.00 - so that Red Cross Programs may be increased - Water Safety, First Aid, Home Nursing, Home-Serviceman, and financial assistance to both servicemen, their families and to civilians.

"If you are one of these that has received the benefit of any of these Red Cross services - remember - "Good Things Happen When You Give" and "We Can Help When You Help Your Red Cross," said Mr. Cecil.

Dr. D. C. Dearborn To Discuss World Church Unity At Local Church

DR. DONALD C. DEARBORN

The road to unity and singleness of belief among the Christian communities of the world will be discussed next Wednesday night, March 28, at a special program at the Mocksville Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Donald C. Dearborn, dean of Catawba College and who recently returned from the third assembly of the World Council of Churches at New Delhi, India, will be the speaker.

The program will replace the regularly scheduled prayer meeting. Sponsored by the Men of the Church, this special program will be open to the public. The program will begin at 7:30 p.m., following the regularly scheduled men's supper at 6:30 p.m.

Mr. Dearborn was one of 15 delegates from the United Church of Christ in the United States to attend the assembly held at New Delhi. Twenty-two churches were admitted to the World Council at this meeting, including the Russian Orthodox Church.

Dr. Dearborn said that the new council members came largely from the new countries of Africa and Asia which make up the so-called "neutral bloc" in the United States.

In addition to world church unity, Dr. Dearborn will discuss other aspects of his trip in which he encircled the globe and included among others, stops in Jerusalem, Hong Kong, and Tokyo.

In addition to serving as Dean of Catawba College, Dr. Dearborn is Professor of Mathematics and chairman of the Catawba College Administrative and Curriculum Committees. He received his A.B. degree from Hastings College, Hastings, Nebraska; his M.A. from the University of Nebraska; and his Ph.D. from Duke University.

A leader in activities of the Evangelical and Reformed Church (United Church of Christ), Dr. Dearborn was a delegate from the Evangelical and Reformed Church to the World Council of Churches in 1954 and in 1961. He has been treasurer of the Southern Synod and is a member of the Executive Council of the United Church of Christ.

Officials of the Mocksville Presbyterian Church have issued a special invitation to those interested to attend this meeting.

Two Cars Collide In Passing On US 158

Two cars collided last Friday around 4:05 p.m. on US 158, six miles east of Mocksville. An estimated $350 in damages was done to a 1960 Cadillac being operated by Robert Lee Johnson, 27, of Greensboro, and damages to a 1960 Oldsmobile, being operated by Caroline Bennett Martin, 37, of Statesville were estimated at $310.

Trooper Woods of the State Highway Patrol said that his investigation showed that the Cadillac was traveling west at approximately 35-miles-per-hour with left turn-signal on, preparing to turn into a private driveway. The Oldsmobile, also going in the same direction at approximately 55-miles-per-hour, came up over the crest of a hill into a passing zone and started to pass the Cadillac. Mr. Anglin, the driver of the Cadillac, said that he heard the horn of the Oldsmobile but was already going into the left turn. The Oldsmobile skidded 57-feet on left side of US 158 and struck the Cadillac in the left side, knocking this car approximately 15-feet. The Oldsmobile traveled approximately 10-feet after impact. Mrs. Martin stated that she did not see turn signal of the Cadillac until the pass was started.

"This could be in part due to the relative position of the sun in the motorists' eyes that are traveling west on US 158 at this time of day", said Trooper Woods. No charges were made.

Local Rescue Squad Thanked for Effort

Appreciation was expressed this week to the Davie County Rescue Squadron for their efforts Sunday to recover a body in the Catawba River.

Members of the Davie County Rescue Squadron assisted Sunday in the search for the body of Muri Annas, 41, of Granite Falls, believed to have drowned in the Catawba River about four weeks ago, and to date the body has not been recovered.

The Rev. Luther Snipes, Supply Pastor of the Baton Baptist Church of Granite Falls and pastor of the family of Mr. Annas, came to Mocksville Monday to express appreciation on behalf of the family for the efforts of the local rescue squadron.

The Rev. Mr. Snipes is also the author of a book, "Love More, Live Longer." Mr. Snipes says that the purpose of this book is "to help people rediscover 'the reality in real love.'" The book draws upon many Bible sources, the personal experiences of the author, and the experience of others.

"Of the tens of thousands of disturbed patients in mental institutions, in a majority of cases, a lack of love lies at the root of their illness," said Mr. Snipes. He quotes a mental hospital psychologist as asserting that "love and reason together provide the most powerful means of resolving the Oedipus complex and its consequent emotional and social problems."

The book may be purchased either from Mr. Snipes or at the Baptist Book Store in Winston-Salem.

Woman Thrown From Car In Local Wreck

A Maryland woman was thrown from her car in a wreck last Saturday around 4:50 p.m. on US 64 East, seven miles out of Mocksville.

Mrs. William Stanley Hulfish, 26, of Rockville, Md., suffered minor injuries and was treated and released at the Davie County Hospital. Mrs. Hulfish, riding as a passenger in a 1959 Volkswagen operated by her husband, was thrown from the car when it was struck by a 1960 Oldsmobile at the intersection of Hy 801 at Fork.

Trooper L. E. Woods of the State Highway Patrol said that his investigation disclosed that Mrs. Martha Deal Cline, 37, of Hickory, N. C. was operating the Oldsmobile at 50-55 miles-per-hour. The Volkswagen, going north on N. C. 801 stopped at the intersection to consult a road map.

Mr. Hulfish, the driver of the Volkswagen, told Trooper Woods that after consulting the road map he looked to the right and then to the left on US 64 and saw no traffic. Then, without looking back to the right, pulled out of N. C. 801 to cross US 64. The Oldsmobile came over a slight hillcrest, applied brakes, and skidded 27-feet, striking the Volkswagen in the right front, knocking it 60 more feet down US 64 where it came to rest.

Mr. Hulfish was charged with failure to yield right of way. Damages to the Oldsmobile were estimated at $175. Damages to the Volkswagen were estimated at $250.

Peter W. Hairston

Qualified For The Office

Peter W. Hairston has filed his notice of candidacy for the office of Resident Judge of the 2nd Judicial District, subject to the Democratic Primary in May. In so filing Mr. Hairston has become the first Davie County candidate to seek a statewide office in many years.

We say statewide because that is what a Superior Court Judgeship actually is . . . you are nominated in the district but elected on a statewide basis.

Mr. Hairston is well qualified in every respect for the Superior Court Judgeship . . . both by training and attitude. He received his A.B. degree at the University of North Carolina in 1933 at the end of three years of study, and two years later graduated from the University of North Carolina School of Law with the LL.B. degree in 1935. At the University, he wrote for the Law Review and was elected to the Phi Beta Kappa and Phi Delta Phi honorary scholastic society. He was admitted to the Bar in 1935 and practiced law in High Point.

He has a meritorious war record that saw him enlist as a private . . . be commissioned a lieutenant . . . and promoted to a captain. Actively participating in the Normandy Invasion and subsequently all major battles in the sweep from Normandy into Germany, he was awarded the Bronze Star Medal for gallantry in the Battle of the Bulge; the Purple Heart; and five battle stars. Following the surrender of Germany, he served as the Judge Advocate for the 612th Tank Destroyer Battalion of the 2nd Infantry Division.

For two years following his discharge, 1946-1948, Mr. Hairston was associated with the Travelers Insurance Company in Washington, D. C. In 1948, he returned to Davie County to supervise the operation of the Coolemeem Plantation and shortly thereafter opened offices for the practice of law in Mocksville.

In 1954 he was elected Representative from Davie County and served in the 1955 General Assembly and the 1956 Special Session. In the Legislature, Mr. Hairston was a member of the joint Appropriations sub-committee to study the budget, the Judiciary, Agriculture, Conservation and Development, Local Government, Senatorial Districts, Engrossed Bills, and Library Committee. In 1956, he was appointed by Governor Luther Hodges to the N. C. Insurance Advisory Board and in 1959 to the N. C. Real Estate Licensing Board, of which he is still a member.

In addition to his professional training and experience, Mr. Hairston is active in civic affairs as a leader in the Boy Scouts, the Fork Civic Club, the Mocksville Rotary Club and the Episcopal Church. He is also a member of the board of directors of the North Carolina Paraplegic Association and was the president of this organization in 1959-60.

Many years ago Sir Francis Bacon, famed English philosopher, gave this description of an ideal Judge. He said:

"Judges ought to be more learned than witty, more reverent than plausible, and more advised than confident. Above all things, integrity is their portion and proper virtue."

We believe that Peter W. Hairston of Davie County notably meets the qualifications as a judge of the Superior Court.

Rural Areas Can Attract Industry

Rural areas sometimes may have the jump on cities when it comes to getting new industry.

Fred Mangum, extension economist in area development at North Carolina State College, says the advantage for rural areas may exist under the following conditions:

1. When the rural area has a transportation advantage to a nearby market.
 2. When labor costs are an important consideration to the new firm, and labor is present in the area at a lower cost or higher quality than can be found in other areas.
 3. When local raw materials are available at a lower cost or a better quality.
 4. When defense strategy considerations dictate location away from urban centers.
 5. When managerial personnel's preferences for life in a small town are strong enough to override the desire for maximum personal income.
- "Research on the reasons for location of industries in new areas shows that the most important factors are in this order:

"Labor, markets, transportation, raw materials, utilities, community facilities, and attitude, state and local legislation, taxes," says Mangum.

Thus, many communities may be putting undue emphasis on "giving free tax rides, making state laws more favorable and emphasizing community action to influence decisions concerning new locations, Mangum believes.

Some 14,000 organizations across the nation compete for industrial plants that expand or relocate each year. Estimates from the U. S. Chamber of Commerce show why.

One new industry employing 100 persons represents these growth factors: 296 more people; 112 more households; $590,000 more in annual personal incomes; $270,000 more bank deposits; 107 more cars; four more retail establishments; and $360,000 more retail sales per year.

A New Geography Of North Carolina

Volume No. III of "A New Geography of North Carolina" has recently been published by Bill Sharpe of Raleigh. This volume covers 26 counties of North Carolina, representing every section of the state — from the ocean front to the Tennessee line.

Being published in four volumes, this is the first detailed description of North Carolina by counties to be published since "Wheeler's History." It combines the intimate knowledge of Mr. Sharpe of the background of North Carolina with thorough on-the-spot reporting by him of current conditions.

As in the previous two volumes, the current edition is studded with anecdote and incident characteristics of "Down

Home" story telling. Mr. Sharpe points out that each chapter has been checked and corrected by several local authorities, and the book has a rare advantage of having been exposed, chapter by chapter, to examination and criticism by over 150,000 "State" magazine readers before being put in this form.

"A New Geography of North Carolina" will become a most valuable set of reference books for those interested in The Old North State. These books are a "must" for any student of North Carolina history or for anyone interested in ascertaining information and facts about any given area. We impatiently await the publication of Volume IV.

Editorial Briefs

Alexander Graham Bell, Scottish-born inventor of the telephone, filed for American citizenship in 1874 and later counted becoming a citizen the most glorious honor of his life. But in his excited effort to end the first telephone conversation in 1876 with a properly dramatic flourish, he thundered, "God Save the Queen!" The personal story of Dr. Bell and his wife, Mabel Hubbard, is told for the first time in the new book, "Make a Joyful Sound," by Helen M. Waite.

Undoubtedly a rather sizeable cross-section of Variety Vacationland residents have, at one time or another, visited the area that is the subject of today's column. At the same time, it is possible that few have really seen and, therefore, appreciated this section, with its abundance of historical and modern-day attractions, as have so many out-of-state visitors.

Let's really see our Capital City of Raleigh! "Where to start?" you ask. Well, just follow any of the numerous routes leading right into the heart of the city — Fayetteville Street. Head north and shortly you'll be facing Capitol Square. Let's get out of the car and take a good look at our State Capitol, completed about 122 years ago, and acclaimed one of the most stately buildings in the South.

Of Doric architecture and containing no nails, iron pillars or rafters, this edifice is a tribute to the remarkable talents of its designers, David Patton and Ithiel Towne. Step in and observe the simple, beautiful architectural lines of the interior. Here you will also see the Governor's office and those of a number of other state dignitaries. Walk up the stairway (which shows no visible means of support) leading to the Senate and House Chambers and sense the feeling of past and new history in the making. Look over the Capitol grounds with its numerous monuments that will provide you with further insight into our early history. Rest on one of the benches for a few moments and take pride in the general beauty of the Capitol grounds, the lovely shrubs, massive trees, finely manicured lawns.

Now rested, proceed across the street to the Hall of History and absorb more of our early days, made easy in the form of attractive, well-planned exhibits. From here walk a few paces north to the State Museum with its 24,000 square feet of space, containing exhibit explaining the natural history and resources of Tarheelia. Then step over to the Museum of Art where you will find a collection of over 240 works of art and paintings from eight different European schools.

From the Art Museum, cross over to Wilmington Street for a look at beautiful Christ Church, designed by Mr. Upjohn, the leading ecclesiastical architect of the mid 1840's and then treat yourself to a view of the Governor's Mansion (Burke Square) of Victorian design and completed nearly 75 years ago. The nation's architects rarely miss the opportunity to do the same whenever in the Raleigh area.

A few blocks south on Fayetteville Street, and facing the Capitol, is the Memorial Auditorium, built on the site of the old Governor's Palace. This impressive structure, with a seating capacity of 4000, is dedicated to the men who died in World War I.

From this point you will find more history and adventure by proceeding in any direction but, regardless of your route, be sure to include the birthplace of the 17th president of the U.S., Andrew Johnson (adjointing State College Campus); the Richard B. Haywood House (137 E. Eden-ton St.), built in 1854 of bricks made by family slaves; the Treasurer Haywood House (211 New Bern Avenue), built in 1794 for the State Treasurer; the Joel Lane House (700 block of W. Hargett); Wakestone, the former home of the late Hon. Josephus Daniels on Glenwood Avenue. Other "musts" include the buildings and campuses of State College (including William Neal Reynolds Coliseum), St. Mary's, Peace and Meredith Colleges. While in the vicinity of Meredith, be sure to inspect the State Fair Arena, awarded the Gold Medal by the Architectural League of New York as the outstanding engineering achievement of 1952.

Raleigh too has become increasingly known as "The City of Beautiful Homes," modern-day version. Be sure to save time for a tour of the newer residential sections. The terrain and other natural endowments of this area lend themselves well to the many styles of architecture you will enjoy.

Hotel and motel accommodations are in abundance and cannot be surpassed. The numerous restaurants, providing food of many nations, delight in catering to the tourist's every pleasure. Let's really see our beautiful Capital City — probably for the first time. But driving over and returning — please drive carefully.

Theme: Anyone Can "Live happily ever after".

TEXT: "Love begins as the notion of an emotion"—Eiff Thomas

"I broke my engagement," the girl confided to her friend. "My feelings are changed completely from when I accepted him."

"But," asked her friend, "why do you still wear his ring?"

"Oh," replied the girl in surprise, "my feelings toward the ring are just the same."

Probably more tears are shed over broken romances than over anything else. "Heart break" can be and often is, tragic. However, it need not be.

Some time ago an elderly man recalled his great "heart break". His was a mature emotion for a young lady. She married another. Despair crushed him and he considered taking his own life. Then his intelligence pushed forward. He examined his emotions. He concluded that the young lady did not marry him because she did not appreciate him. Therefore, she was not the girl he thought she was. He realized that he loved an ideal and not the girl she turned out to be. He dismissed her from his mind and continued his search for the "right" girl. He found her. His notion of an emotion developed into a rich, lifetime love. Look at your "heart break" like that and you'll live happily ever after, too.

Storm damage to North Carolina's Outer Banks dramatizes again the tremendous courage of the people who live in this area of the State. I am gratified that the Small Business Administration promptly set up offices in Manteo to aid and assist in the rebuilding of this area.

Social Security In Davie County

Farmers who had $400 or more in net earnings in 1961 have until April 15 to file a Federal tax return. The earnings should be reported for social security purposes even though no Federal income tax may be due. This reminder came today from Robert C. Thomas, District Manager of the Salisbury, N. C. office of the Social Security Administration.

Like other self-employed people, farmers get social security credit for their earnings through the reports filed with, and as a part of, their Federal income tax returns. An optional method of computing net earnings for social security, but not income tax, purposes is available to farmers whose gross earnings are $600 or more in the year.

April 15 represents also a last chance for farmers to file a return and get social security credit for 1958 earnings, where such earnings were not previously reported. Additional information is available at social security and Internal Revenue offices. Mr. Thomas said.

Senator SAM ERVIN

Says:

WASHINGTON — The House Ways and Means Committee has opened hearings on the 1962 Trade Expansion bill. The hearings reopen the oldest continuous domestic battleground, the tariff issue. Some 275 witnesses are expected to testify in the next two months before the House Committee. The European Common Market poses a very grave question for the United States. The trade solution proposed confronts business with many problems varying widely as the bill affects individual industries. I have made no hard and fast decision on the bill because by experience in matters of this sort has indicated that very often the proposed bill is changed many times before it is presented to the Senate for its consideration. This bill must first be considered by the House Committee, the House, and the Senate Finance Committee before it comes to the Senate for debate.

Disarmament Conference The 17 nation Geneva Disarmament Conference currently underway demonstrates once again the vast differences which lie in the pursuit of peace, a problem which has plagued mankind since the dawn of history. World statesmen are academically agreed that the nations of the world ought to strive for universal peace. From that point forward, however, the problem ranges the spectrum of mankind's frictions. For one thing, disarmament depends upon an inviolable agreement among nations to settle disputes without resort to war. That problem involves safeguards in the modern world not only against nuclear and space weapons, but germ warfare, poison gas, and a host of weapons that might turn nature against mankind or a nation it possessed by an unfriendly power. History records the attempts that have been made before. The czar of Russia in 1890 proposed disarmament through international agreement. The constitution of the old League of Nations contained 26 articles specifying the peace treaties drawn at the Paris Conference at the close of World War I. The present United Nations has a Security Council of which Russia is a member which theoretically has the main responsibility for maintaining world peace. Under the Security Council of the United Nations are committees which are to advise on the control of armaments and to bring about a measure of disarmament. The nations of the earth have not yet beat their "swords into plowshares" nor their "spears into pruning hooks."

The Cold War is going on unabated throughout all continents of the world. Current world conditions have not changed so much in recent days that nations will ban arms and forego war as an instrument of national policy. This is so because the free world is an armed camp only because Soviet Russia continues to be an aggressor nation. As long as Khrushchev and other Russian leaders boast that one day they will conquer the United States, disarmament talks are a vain exercise in international diplomacy.

News and Comments from our Raleigh Bureau - 205 Charles Fed.

BOND ECHO . . . It is an ill political wind that does not blow good tidings for somebody.

As pointed out here before, it was a sad day for North Carolina when it defeated the bond issues last fall. But, nevertheless, that defeat brought easy victory last week to Congressman Alton Lennon of Wilmington and U. S. Senator Sam Ervin of Morganton.

Opposition in the Democratic Primary May 26 was all but ready for each of them. In fact, Lennon did all kinds of fence-mending in his district during his vacation from Washington late last summer, and fall. He worked hard — all over the southeast.

Mighty few speeches did Sen. Sam turn down . . . anywhere. But, as it turned out, each could have gone fishing — could have taken a few days off — for the bond defeat killed dead as a doornail opposition planned by the liberals in the party. And this may be for the best — for the party.

THE CALL . . . One of the men who have done most to give Sen. Ervin a concrete-solid seat in Washington is Harry Gatton, Iredell County native who for many years was the senator's administrative assistant and the straight man on their radio show. Gatton, now doing an excellent job for the N. C. Bankers Association, was in the Board of Elections office here in the Agriculture Building last Friday, deadline for filing. When the fatal hour of high noon came and went, he eased into State Entomologist C. H. Brannon's office and placed a collect call — as prearranged — to Sen. Ervin's office and gave them the good news.

If he lives, Sen. Ervin will go into his 73rd year as U. S. Senator.

JUDICIAL . . . Sam Ervin seems as sturdy as an upland white oak — and looks a lot like one: broad-beamed with gray branches. They have a lot of respect for him in Washington, come in from the cloakrooms when he gets up to speak. He knows his law — and his colleagues know it.

He is one of the few men with this kind of background: N. C. General Assembly (three terms, '23, '26 and '31); Superior Court judge ('37 to '43); Congressman 46-47 (succeeded his brother, who died suddenly in office); State Supreme Court ('48 to '54).

Although of judicious temperament, Sen. Ervin grew restless on the State Supreme Court — too dull — and was delighted when Gov. W. B. Umstead appointed him to succeed the late Clyde R. Hoge in the U. S. Senate on June 11, 1954.

Now he may not be as liberal as some of us would like him to be, but Sen. Sam Ervin's political philosophy reflects pretty much that of his North Carolina constituents as we find it in the early spring of 1962.

OLD AGE . . . Mrs. E. B. Earnshaw, widow of the late bursar of Wake Forest College, lives virtually helpless in her home at Wake Forest. She is one of the daughters of Dr. Taylor, one time president of the Baptist School.

Mrs. Earnshaw, always gay and young in heart, has cheered thousands with her little, whimsical poems. Now she is laid low by a muscular ailment and old age, is getting looked after by an older sister. We were grieved to hear of Mrs. Earnshaw's illness and pray for her early recovery. It is difficult to imagine such a blithe spirit immobile.

NOW AT 60 . . . J. C. Penney, now about 85, will be one of the speakers at the 60th annual meeting of the N. C. Merchants Association in Charlotte on May 20-22. The Penney stores and the N. C. Merchants Association came into existence the same year 1902.

THE LAST WORD . . . A lot of emphasis these days is being placed on speed reading. Dabney White, who grew up in our old hometown of Hertford, down in Perquimans County, now teaches speed reading courses in Greensboro . . . and perhaps out of Greensboro. He's a brother of Rufus White, vice president of Pilot Life Insurance Co.

Some people we know want nothing to do with speed reading. My husband, for instance, says he will continue to read like he writes: one — word at a time. Says he gets more out of it that way. We recently heard of this fellow who has devised a plan which will enable him to keep up with the fastest of readers. The system calls for reading only the endings of books; not the last chapter, or even the final page, but just the very last sentence.

True, with this type of reading program, you do miss the descriptive passages — but you always know how it ends.

Waiting for our newspapers at the Raleigh Bus Station snack bar the other day we decided to try out the system on a half-dozen paperbacks. One, called "Cop Killer," was exciting. It ended:

"All right, Big Man," the warden said softly, "It's time to go." One touching story whose title we forgot was about a member of the Peace Corps named Johnny, and Yosika, a pretty little Japanese girl:

"Don't worry, baby. I'll return one day. You can bet your yen on that."

Later, at home, we polished off a volume of Edna St. Vincent Millay's sonnets, smoking a last cigarette:

"And the blue night stood flattened against the window, staring through."

See how it works? That, man, is speed-reading.

Uncle Dave From Davie Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

I was reading this piece yesterday by one of them Washington column writers where he was wondering about the proper way to eat corn on the cob if he was invited to the White House. He don't know if he ought to hold his head still and move the ear of corn, or move his head and hold the corn still. This proves a couple things about Washington column writers. They have run out of someone to write about and they ain't had much experience with eating corn on the cob. I ain't shore what is proper at the White House, but this feller will find that moving the head in one direction and the corn in the other at the same time is the best fer greatest speed and efficiency. It is also very proper at my house.

Incidental, it seems to me the human race is paying more attention to this eating business than ever before in my life time. About half the stuff you read in the papers and magazines these days, especial the sections fer wimmen in the big dailies, is about eating.

For instant, I see in the paper today where a child expert says if you have company and ain't got room fer everybody to eat at once, to feed the younguns afore the adults eat. That's a heap different from the way I was raised. When we had company to eat, which was about all the time, the younguns had to wait till the grown-ups got their fill afore we got a mouthful. That's why I was 16 year old afore I knowed a chicken had anything but neck and feet.

And I was reading a magazine piece the other day where them science fellers with the National Institute of Health has come up with a food made out of coal, aid and water that is so concentrated a small factory can produce enough of it to feed millions of people. They claim it contains everything the human body needs to keep healthy.

I got a hunch it don't taste none too good and ain't liable to put the farmer and rancher out of business, but I was thinking we might use it to put them Communists out of business. The people with empty stomachs is the ones most apt to swallow the doctrine of Communism. We could set up these factories in countries where folks is starving to death and feel all the hungry at a small cost. It would be a hard blow to Communism in countries like China, fer instant. But on account of me not going to Harvard, I ain't on the President's board of advisers and it would be a heap better fer my Congressman — and he didn't go to Harvard neither — to write Bobby Kennedy a letter. Well, Mister Editor, I got to quit now and go see what my old lady is cooking fer supper.

Yours truly,
Uncle Dave

SO THIS IS NEW YORK

By NORTH CALLAHAN

5th Avenue has not seen such halcyon days in half a century. There are no buses on it. Of course there have been strikes before but none with such dim prospects for settlement and such indications of such permanency. Many people are glad there is a strike. Not for reasons concerning the dispute between labor and management but because there is now room on the famed Avenue to drive a car or even walk across it at times. The buses themselves tended to travel in packs, six at a time close together, then no bus appearing for perhaps ten to 15 minutes. The drivers showed a callous disregard for the public, being often discourteous to the point of seeming to enjoy starting up suddenly and throwing old idios down in the aisle before they got seated. Anyway, there are other means of transportation which are being used satisfactorily; so let the buses stay struck; the city is better off.

Reverend George C. Desmond tells of the little girl who was overheard saying the Lord's Prayer with the words, "And lead us not to Penn Station." A boy was also quoted as saying in it "Alfred be thy name." And still another youngster who blithely asked in opening the prayer, "Our Father who art in heaven. How did you know my name?"

If you're old enough to remember the one-time movie actress, Leatrice Joy, you probably are reluctant to admit it. But she has reminded a group of us that she is still around, now a suburban grandmother and still pretty and slender. Silent movies of the 1920's were her vehicle and she said they were a form of art which launched the modern picture dramas on their way. In those days, Miss Joy stated, real not imitation jewels were worn by actresses on the screen, she in one film being adorned with $185,000 worth of diamonds. She said Irene Rich invented false eye lashes. Still filled with fond memories, Leatrice, now 72, some times sits by the fireside with winter at the window and relives her old love scenes. "It's much more fun than playing cards, you know," she says.

William Faulkner, the well-known writer, lives in Virginia, partly because, it is understood, his daughter is married to the city attorney of the county seat where he resides, the lawyer being named Summers. Two young girls there were sitting in a drug-store sipping soda when one of them looked out and saw the famous writer walking down the street. She pointed him out, but the other girl did not know who he was. "Do you mean to tell me you don't know who Mr. Faulkner is?" she asked. "No," the other girl said. "Why," the other explained, "He's Jill Summer's father, of course."

My barber, Louis, was cutting my hair and I asked him how long he had been at this particular barber shop. "Thirty-two years," he replied casually. "Ever since it has been in the Chrysler Building, and two years before that, up the street." My reply was that I thought it was a compliment both to him and the fact that he would be there for long a time. In his day, Louis who is an expert barber, has the hair of famous men. They include the Rockefellers, Gold and Al Smith, he modestly admitted. And once a long time ago a man by the name of Senator Warren G. Harding used to come into the shop — that was before he had such work done in White House.

Heart Fund Dance Is Big Success

The Masland Duralather Plant was the center of attraction on March 10th when the Mocksville Moose Lodge No. 1949 sponsored a Heart Fund Benefit Dance. A large room in the plant was decorated in red and white Heart Fund balloons where approximately 75 people gathered to dance to the music of Richard Hendrix and his Riverside Playboys Band. The Band played round and square dance music and, at the request of several dancers, they played music for the more agile "Twisters." Charlie Lakey called the square dances.

husband, are two daughters, Nola Gay and Regina Carol Harris, both of the home; her parents of Mocksville; and a brother, Walter Warren of Winston-Salem.

A fountain serving soft drinks and sandwiches was set up and operated by wives of the Moose members and Senior Girl Scouts. Misses Helen Grant and Jayne Sanford. During the evening a game of "50-50" was played. $50 was collected—half went to the Heart Fund—the other half went to the lucky person holding the winning ticket. A Television chair donated by the Hendricks and Myrell Furniture Company was the door prize won by Shirley Lamb of Route 4, Mocksville. So far, $157.00 has been reported collected for the dance.

The Davie County Heart Council extends thanks to the Mocksville Moose Lodge and their wives for their hard work and determination in making this dance a success.

"We also wish to thank Mr. Charles McCoy for allowing the dance to be held at the Masland Plant and for supplying the machinery and manpower, Mistrs Judd Bailey, George Smith, R. E. Hanks, and Ernest Frye in helping to put up the decorations and getting ready for the comfort of all attendees. Our sincere thanks to Richard Hendrix and his Riverside Playboys for their unsurpassed music for Square Dancing and Round Dancing—we recommend them highly. And to Mr. Charlie Lakey for donating his time and talent in calling the dances, many thanks. To all who purchased tickets and did not attend and to those who did attend, our thanks in helping to make the dance successful and bringing the 1962 Heart Fund Campaign to a close—the most successful campaign in the history of Davie County," said Mrs. Jack Sanford, Davie Heart Fund chairman.

Week after week carefully tabulated figures published in "Automotive Market Reports" show that Chevrolet trucks are worth more in resale value.

why?

If you were a professional used truck buyer, why would you pay more for one make than another?
There may be several reasons, but among them would be:
1. A greater demand for the product

2. A more desirable product for resale
So if used Chevrolet trucks consistently bring higher prices at auctions all over the country, it means that their quality features pay off for you not only as long as you own them but also when you are ready to trade them—double-wall cabs, doors and side panels, roof insulation, select wood floors, reliable and economical engines, real rugged tailgates, a suspension system that helps prolong truck life.

Woods of the State Highway Patrol said that his investigation showed that McDaniel was operating the Chevrolet and was traveling west on the County Home Road at approximately 65-75 miles per hour. The driver lost control of the car in a sharp left hand curve, ran off the roadway on the right side and travelled 120 feet on the right shoulder, swerved back on the roadway and crossed the center line to the left side for approximately 110 feet, cut back over to the right side and into side ditch and turned over on right side, approximately 135 feet from where the car recrossed center line. Seat Belts To Be Sold By Jaycees

Plans for the Mocksville Junior Chamber of Commerce to join the statewide sale of safety belts to car owners in Mocksville were announced Thursday night by Vic Andrews, President of the local club.

A committee of three was appointed to supervise the local project. Members of this committee include: Henry Blair, chairman, William Graves, and Wayne Smith.

The belts will go on sale Saturday, March 31, in a booth on the square. The belts will be offered at a specially reduced price and may be bought from any Jaycee until April 14, 1962.

The belts are available in a variety of colors to match automobile interiors. They have been approved by various testing services and the Department of Motor Vehicles. The Jaycees will realize no profit from the sale of the belts. The project is being carried out in cooperation with the North Carolina Safety Council, Inc.

It was announced that many of the local garages and service stations have been contacted and have agreed to install the seat belts for a small fee.

Research has proven that seat belts reduce fatalities and injuries by one-half. It was pointed out that they also provide other advantages: as holding children securely, allowing drivers to concentrate on the road and hold you in a comfortable position.

"The North Carolina Traffic Safety Council, Inc., along with the Jaycees, urge you to take advantage of this opportunity to protect your own lives and the lives of your loved ones," said Dr. Andrews, President of the Mocksville Jaycees.

Two Cars Collide Saturday on US 601

A 66 year old man of Route 4, Mocksville, was charged with reckless driving following a head-on collision with another car last Saturday night around 8 p.m. at the intersection of US 601 and the Gladstone Road.

Elias K. Robbins of Route 4, Mocksville, was cited by Trooper L. E. Woods after the 1967 Ford which he was driving collided with a 1958 Pontiac being operated by Clara Elvira Heple, age 26, of Route 4, Mocksville.

Trooper Woods said that the Pontiac was stopped for a stop sign at the intersection of Hy. 601, prior to coming out of the Gladstone Road. Robbins was traveling south on US 601 at a high rate of speed and swerved without signaling into the Gladstone Road, leaving approximately 80 feet of friction skid marks before colliding with the Pontiac. The point of impact was marked with dirt and glass from the two vehicles on the Pontiac's side of the road. The Pontiac was knocked approximately 25 feet backwards after the impact. The driver and passenger and two small children in the front seat were shaken up but not seriously injured. The Ford travelled 20 feet after the impact. The passenger in the right front seat nor the driver were seriously injured.

Trooper Woods said that due to high speed, no signal and driving on wrong side of roadway, Robbins was charged with reckless driving.

Penny Sells for $80

What can you buy with a penny?

Well perhaps more than you first think... that is if it is the right kind of a penny.

Recently a penny was sold in Mocksville for $50. A short time later it was put up for auction at the regular meeting of the Abe Lincoln Coin Club and a man from Yadkin County paid $80 for it.

This penny was a "1908s V. D. B." penny, minted in California... and not too many were minted. Irvin Hepler purchased it locally from a man for $50 and then turned around and sold it for $80 at the auction.

Mr. Hepler is president of the Abe Lincoln Coin Club of Mocksville which meets the first Tuesday night in each month. This club now has 40 members. During each meeting old coins are auctioned off.

In addition to Mr. Hepler, other officers of this organization include: Moody Chaffin, vice-president and Gilmer Brewer, secretary-treasurer.

Unanimously Approved After Public Hearing

Soil Conservation Supervisors have approved the creation of a Dutchman Creek Watershed Improvement District.

The creation of this district was approved Monday night following a public hearing in the county courthouse at which the creation of this district was unanimously approved.

The creation of this watershed improvement district provides for the receiving and handling of funds, and the control and operation of dams and stream channel work that will provide the greatest benefit for lands along Dutchman Creek. The boundaries of the proposed watershed district are set by nature and all the area that drains into Dutchman Creek.

Trustees, to be elected by people living in the watershed, will be responsible for the operation of the watershed.

The trustees duties will be to operate and maintain dams and stream channel work and assess only landowners whose land is specially benefitted by dams and channel work. The Watershed Improvement District, together with the local people, have the responsibility of maintaining the works of improvement.

Only those lands that are benefitted can be assessed to cover the cost of operation and maintenance and only to the degree that they are benefitted. Things that must be taken into consideration are fertility of the soil, how close the land is to the stream, how wet the land is, and how close the land is to the dams, and stream channel, how often it is damaged by floods, whether it is in cropland, pasture or woods and other factors, says C. W. Phillips. The trustees will determine how many acres and to whom degree they are benefitted and the assessment for each landowner as funds are needed. Assessments need not be made every year and can vary in relation to the cost of maintenance. It is estimated that the total annual maintenance will be $5,000 to $6,000. These funds can only be used to maintain dams, channel work maintenance, and expenses of the Watershed Improvement District.

No opposition to the creation of the watershed was voiced Monday night and many arose to speak in favor of the proposal. The hearing was held by the Soil Conservation Supervisors of the Middle Yadkin Soil Conservation District that includes the counties of Davie, Davidson, Iredell, and Rowan. Jim Graham of Cleveland, President of the Middle Yadkin District, presided. Those speaking in favor of the Dutchman Creek Watershed included: Ed Walker, Bill Johnson, Wilburn Spillman, Robert Lee Seaford, Kenneth Mintz, Cecil Leagans, Clayton Groce, Frank Brown, John Frank Garwood, Wade Groce, Ralph Cornelison.

Bill Evans Named To Northwest Team

Bill Evans

Bill Evans, star forward on the Davie County High School basketball team, was one of sixteen players named to the Journal and Sentinel All-Northwest Basketball Team for 1962.

In discussing Evans the article said:

"Like many other outstanding basketball players, Bill Evans of Davie County was also great on the gridiron. In fact, Evans, a 6-3, 200-pound end, has signed a grant-in-aid with Wake Forest for football. He scored 13-points per game in leading Davie County to the North Piedmont Conference championship. He loves to shoot from the corner, and also drives well. He was all-tournament and all-conference this season. In the classroom he's a straight "A" student."

Others named to the team included Ronnie Stone of Kernersville; George Daywait of Cool Springs; Rex Shumate of North Wilkes; Junior Gordon of Pinnacle; Jerry Finner of Jonesville; Tom Neely of Statesville; Doug Wilson of North Surry; Frank Hobson of Boonville; Calvin Lawson of Mineral Springs; Monroe Whitt of Glenn; Guy Flynt of Northwest; Johnny Yokley of Mount Airy; Eddie Nester of Mt. April Claimed Cancer Month

The following is a statement from Gov. Terry Sanford regarding the proclaiming of the month of April as Cancer Control Month:

"The President of the United States, by direction of an Act of Congress has proclaimed April as Cancer Control Month.

"1962 has been designated CANCER PROGRESS YEAR, by the American Cancer Society and the National Cancer Institute, honoring the 25th anniversary of the enactment of the National Cancer Institute Act, and the launching of the American Cancer Society's first intensive nationwide public education program.

"Cancer Progress Year serves to dramatize the notable progress in cancer control in the past 25 years, evidenced by the fact that in 1962 more than 1,100,000 Americans are alive and well five years after cancer; while in 1937 the figure stood at 160,000.

"To speed the final victory over cancer, the American Cancer Society must intensify its efforts to bring life-saving facts to the public, to improve the care of the cancer patient, and to accelerate its research program.

"Therefore, I am happy to designate April as 'Cancer Control Month in North Carolina,' and to urge all citizens to give increased support of the American Cancer Society and to learn the facts about cancer that are vital to personal protection from this disease."

Local Bible Marking Sessions Continuing

"We find that hundreds truly long to understand the Bible better. Many yearn to be able to turn quickly and confidently in the Bible and read the answers to their questions," declared Bible-marking Instructor, H. R. Veach who is conducting the Bible marking program being held in the Mocksville Rotary Hut.

"Many questions like: 'What does it mean to be converted?'

'How Are Men Saved?'; 'How can we be sure we are born again?'; 'What and where is Heaven?'; 'What is the soul?'; 'Will Christ come in our day?'; 'Can we expect a reign of peace?'. These and many other questions will be answered with 'Bible Marked Texts' during the Bible marking sessions," said Mr. Veach.

Mr. Veach said that the sessions are open to anyone, 10 years of age or older.

"Free Bibles are given, with no strings attached, to all who attend three out of four nights," said Mr. Veach. The sessions are held in the Rotary Hut each Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights.

Former Davie Native Utilizes Automatic Potato Harvester

George W. Smith and sons are growers and shipper of "Sunshine Brand" potatoes in Homestead, Florida. Mr. Smith is a former native of the Redland section of Davie County.

George Ledford, Smith's son-in-law, and a brother of Mrs. D. J. Mando of Mocksville, is the sales manager of George W. Smith and Sons.

The acquisition by Mr. Smith of a mechanical potato harvester was featured in a recent issue of "THE NEWS LEADER" of Homestead, Florida. The article read as follows:

"Automation has invaded the South Dade potato fields in the form of a two - unit harvester which requires 10 hands and operators, where formerly 30 hand-pickers and overseers were necessary.

"Several of the $10,000 harvesters are in operation during the present harvest season, and users are extremely satisfied with the results. They say potatoes reach the packing house free of vines and clods of earth and with less marring than those picked by hand, sacked and tossed from field to truck and from truck to loading platform.

"The rig consists of a harvester unit equipped with an ingenious series of digger bars, shakers to rid the potatoes of loose dirt, and conveyor belts which lead the potatoes through two machines which sever and discard the vines, and sent them in front of several workers who toss out the large clumps of earth and rocks.

"The potatoes are carried across a downward slanting ramp and into the second part of the unit, a truck with a specially equipped body which travels beside the digging unit.

"Most growers using the new harvester have several hopper trucks, so that as soon as one is filled, each holds 220 bushels of potatoes and can be loaded to capacity within 30 minutes) another can be pulled up to take its place while the first heads for the packing house.

"There, a telescoping conveyor belt at the bottom of the truck hopper is extended, and potatoes are carried to the first sorting step in the packing operation.

"George W. Smith, who began harvesting his 400 acres February 28, is reaping more than 3,500 bushels of potatoes daily, with field labor costs out from $11,000 last year to $5,500 this year. "In two years I'll have my harvester paid for in labor and cost savings, Smith was quoted as saying. He also pointed out that his potatoes are grading higher because less handling has kept the quality more like the way they came out of the ground."

In this operation, Mr. Smith and associates have their own packing house where they wash, size, grade and pack the potatoes in 50-lb bags under the brand name of "Sunshine Brand". Shipment is made in carload lots to Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, New York, and Chicago. Shipment is made by truck into the states of Kentucky, Tennessee, Arkansas, Alabama, North Carolina and South Carolina.

The potatoes are planted in November and December, and are harvested in March and April. Mr. Smith reports this year's crop as one of the best.

Car Overtakes In Wreck On Saturday

A sixteen-year-old youth was the driver of a 1953 Mercury that overturned last Saturday on the Mud Mill Road, 4-miles east of Mocksville.

Trooper L. E. Woods of the State Highway Patrol said that his investigation showed that Ridge was heading west on the Mud Mill Road on the unpaved portion. Just past the Dulin Road intersection, traveling at approximately 30-miles-per-hour, he lost control of the vehicle in a sharp left hand curve, crossed over the left side of the roadway and struck embankment, traveled 30-feet down side of bank on left side and over turned in roadway, with the car coming to rest on it's top, 30-feet from the point of impact with the bank.

Trooper Woods pointed out that the driver only had his license since March, 1961, and was was inexperienced as far as driving on dirt roads was concerned. Also, one of the rear tires on the car was slick and might have been a contributing factor in the accident.

Neither the driver nor the occupants of the car were injured. Damages to the car were estimated at $250. Ridge was charged with driving on the wrong side of the road.

MECHANICAL POTATO HARVESTING . . . In Dade County, Florida, by George W. Smith and Sons. Processing two rows at a time, George Smith's mechanical potato harvester digs, de-vines, cleans and carries potatoes to hopper truck (on right), which carries them directly to the first sorting operation in Smith's packing house. Labor saving this year will amount to some $5,500, Smith says. Riding the digger unit are Eddie O'Hare, president of the Champion Corp., which manufactures the harvesters; George W. Smith, former native of the Redland section of Davie County and now large grower and shipper of potatoes in Homestead, Florida; Fred Snyder, also with Champion; George Ledford, Smith's son-in-law and sales manager; Wade Smith, field supervisor, and two farm hands.

James Wilson Elected Head Of YRC Unit

James Wilson, of Smith Grove, was elected president of the Davie County Young Republicans Club organized at a meeting held on Tuesday night, March 20, at the Davie County Court House.

Other officers to serve until 1963 include: Joe Cuthrell of Coolemeec, vice president; Betsy Owens Beck of Coolemeec, secretary; and Robert Powell of Mocksville, treasurer.

The two main speakers were James T. Broyhill of Lenoir and Leslie Burdick of China Grove, candidates for the GOP nomination for Congress in the Ninth District.

Rep. T. E. Storey of Wilkes County, GOP candidate for nomination for the State Senate for the 24th District (Wilkes, Davie and Yadkin Counties) also spoke.

GOP Growing

Broyhill said the GOP is growing in North Carolina, and there is a definite trend toward two-party government in the state.

"Voters by the thousands," he said, "have shown a willingness to cross party lines at the polls in order to break the one-party monopoly in the state."

Broyhill also maintained that there is a definite conservative trend in the Ninth District that will favor the man the Republicans nominate for Congress.

"The people of the district need and deserve sound, aggressive leadership in Congress," he concluded.

Burdick stressed the need for hard work in the campaign if the Republicans are to defeat incumbent Rep. Hugh Q. Alexander of Kannapolis.

"Our winning majority must come from the great middle class of voters," he said. These voters outnumber white collar and executive workers by 10 to 1."

Inclusive

This group, Burdick said, includes rural people, farmers, laborers in various lines of work, all kinds of factory and textile workers—and others.

"Within this vast group," he added, "is located the great bulk of our non registered and non-voting people."

Rep. Storey is running for the Senate seat now held by Sen. B. C. Brock of Mocksville, who has been ill recently.

He called for continued support of public education in North Carolina, a pattern established in the district by Brock several years ago.

All Republican candidates for Davie County offices were introduced. About 250 people attended the organizational meeting and rally in the courtroom.

Woman's Missionary Meeting

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Society Baptist Church met last Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Omen Griffith, for the March meeting. It was opened with the hymn "I am Thine, Oh Lord". Mrs. Henry Lewis read the devotions, followed with the Lord's Prayer by the group.

An interesting program on Home Mission Work was given by several members. A total of $53 was given to the Anne Armstrong offering.

Sandwiches, cake, potatoe chips, pickles and iced tea were served to the 12 members present and one visitor.

Easter Pageant At Morehead Planetarium

Commemorating the triumph of life over death, Easter The Awakening opened at the Morehead Planetarium in Chapel Hill last week for the 13th consecutive season. I will be offered every day in the week, including Palm and Easter Sundays, through April 30.

While in the world's churches during Lent the Biblical story of the last days of Christ on Earth is being told in the Planetarium an inspiring Easter pageant is annually offered in complement, following a scientific explanation of the wandering Easter date.

The visual pageant of the betrayal, Crucifixion and Resurrection of Christ portrays the Scriptures, and is narrated by Earl Wynn, Director of the University of North Carolina's Communications Center.

This 1962 Easter story is devoted to an explanation of why Easter comes so late in the season this year (April 22) when last year it was on April 2nd and in 1959 on March 29th.

The events in both parts are terrestrial and celestial and are depicted in both natural color and black and white.

300,000 persons have seen Easter The Awakening versions of previous years, and in order that more people may experience the inspirational story this year, additional presentations have been added to the regular Planetarium Schedule.

In addition to the nightly 8:30 o'clock performances, there are three matinees on Saturdays at 11 a.m., 3 and 4 p.m.; and on Sundays, including Palm and Easter Sundays, at 2, 3, and 4 p.m. No reservations are necessary for these public programs.

Programs for school children, which are offered daily at 11 a.m., 1 and 4 p.m., do require reservations. Additional programs will be opened at other times by request for 75 or more persons. At all school, or special presentations, the public is admitted after all reservations are accommodated.

Clergymen are admitted free to the Planetarium at all times, and one school official is admitted free with every ten student admissions. On request, the Planetarium will arrange, for High School Students only, a tour of another University of North Carolina department before or after the Planetarium programs.

Patrons and children may examine the Morehead Planetarium art and science exhibits without charge. The building is open daily for that purpose from 2 -

5 p.m. and from 7:30 to 10 p.m., on Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. and on Sundays from 1 to 10 p.m.

TEEN-AGE DRIVER TRAINING

The N. C. State Motor Club has called upon Governor Sanford to ask the 1963 General Assembly to tighten up driver license eligibility requirements for teenagers.

In a letter to the Governor, Thomas B. Watkins, president of the motor club, said, "As you are aware, this motor club has for years championed the cause of driver education courses in our high schools and strongly feels that satisfactory completion of such training should be a prerequisite to licensing between the ages of 16 and 18 years."

Sanford has indicated that his coordinating committee on traffic safety, now considering ways to reduce the number of accidents involving youngsters, is studying the possibility of issuing licenses to persons under 21 on a probationary basis or after driver training or a combination of both.

Emphasizing the seriousness of the teenage driving problem, Watkins said, is the fact that of 87 million licensed drivers in the nation, the age groups under 20 provide only 7.2 per cent of the drivers, but account for 11.7 per cent of the fatal accidents and 14.1 per cent of all accidents.

He pointed out that North Carolina has gained national recognition as having one of the few top-ranking high school driver education programs in the United States and has received national awards for progress, performance and achievement for each of the three years since 1958, when state financing began with funds obtained from the $1 additional tax on automobile license plates.

During the 1960-61 school year, all of the state's 173 school units provided driver education courses for 43,920 of 69,393 students who reached their sixteenth birthday during the school year. Courses were offered at 793 of 818 high schools which include the tenth grade, the level at which most students reach driving status. In 1948-49, the first year of the program, driver instruction was offered to only 1,900 students in 44 high schools.

Approximately 105,000 North Carolinians reach beginning driver age each year, and of this number, about 70,000 are enrolled in schools.

Watkins highly commended John C. Noe, supervisor of safety and driver education in the Department of Public Instruction, for the "remarkable expansion of the driver education program in the schools during the last three years."

Noe said at present all county and city school systems in the state are in a position to offer driving instruction at all high schools for students of beginning driver's age, but since this is an elective program, the increase in student participation depends upon the number electing to take the course. He urged parents to find out when the course will be offered in the local schools and to encourage their children and others to enroll.

VETERANS AND THE RED CROSS

Reprinted From National AMVET

There is a generation of Red Cross defamers in existence in the U.S. whose hard core center is the returned World War II overseas veteran.

Not all of them, mind you, but enough of them in each community to cost the American Red Cross perhaps hundreds of thousands of dollars annually in withheld contributions.

For regardless of the million that the Red Cross has given on behalf of the people to disaster victims and for emergency needs, regardless of the homes it has built and repaired and people it has brought together, lives it has saved, the returned veteran remembers only, with branded, dyed-in-the-mind anger, the fact that he had to pay for Red Cross coffee and doughnuts while overseas.

The real tragedy here is NOT that it ISN'T true that the Red Cross sold coffee and doughnuts overseas, but that the veteran does not know that the Red Cross was FORCED, against its wishes, by the then War Department to require American soldiers to pay for meals and lodging.

It seems to me that the Department of the Army has today the precious opportunity and indeed the moral obligation to perform and outstanding service to the nation by using its excellent communication system and extensive personnel records to acquaint each individual soldier and veteran with the truth of this matter which is doing so much damage to the strength and the well-being of our nation.

And I don't mean by posting another piece of paper on the bulletin board.

That's what happened in the first place.

A copy of the War Department letter asking the Red Cross to make the charges was posted on many overseas Red Cross club bulletin boards, but I haven't found a veteran yet who said he had read it.

President Eisenhower, when he was Chief of Staff, issued the following statement to the press on April 10, 1946:

"During the current Red Cross fund campaign vast numbers of patriotic Americans have responded generously to the cause. Already the majority of chapters have reached or exceeded their local goals. In some communities, however, I understand the campaign is lagging, and I am surprised to learn that one of the reasons given is that complaints are being leveled at the organization's overseas operation by returning servicemen. For the most part these criticisms have grown out of a Red Cross policy of making nominal charges to our forces for food and lodgings in fixed Red Cross installations abroad. These complaints are distressing to me since this particular Red Cross policy was adopted at the request of the Army, so as to insure an equitable distribution among all service personnel of Red Cross resources."

And this is the War Department letter as reproduced in that Red Cross pamphlet.

May 20, 1942

Mr. Norman H. Davis, Chairman, American National Red Cross, Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. Davis:

United States military authorities in Great Britain have requested the Red Cross to establish clubs in certain cities in that area with a view to providing, as circumstances dictate, sleeping, accommodations and meals in addition to the usual recreational facilities. The provision of food and lodging for enlisted personnel while on furlough, and at prices within their means, is a most important recreational facility, as many soldiers cannot otherwise avail themselves of leave privileges. The Red Cross officials appear to be reluctant to provide these accommodations, except on a basis of no charge to servicemen....

The War Department appreciates the motive of the Red Cross with respect to this matter and its established policy of free service, but under the circumstances it is believed impractical, unnecessary and undesirable that food and lodging be furnished free...It is believed advisable that American soldiers be required to pay at least the actual costs of meals and lodging furnished for their convenience and benefits while on furlough. Such procedure is considered a sound business arrangement and conforms to local practice. It is therefore believed that such procedure should be adopted because of its merit rather than because the local military commander requests that charges be made for the proposed services.

The War Department recommends that the Red Cross authorities in the British Isles be authorized to provide these services at such cost as they deem appropriate.

Sincerely yours,
HENRY L. STIMPSON
Secretary of War

THE AMERICAN WAY

The Big Take

HANDS OFF . . . Although there are several rather important races developing among Democrats in the State this spring, the State Administration is privately . . . and maybe publicly . . . praying that they will not interfere further with party organization.

In, out, and around Raleigh (hey do say that Gov. Terry Sanford is playing strictly "hands off" in the Democratic Primary. If he has favorites, as he no doubt has, he is keeping them strictly to himself. Good sense.

AS YOU WISH . . . When Sanford Good Friend, Kerr Scott, brother of State Sen. Ralph Scott of Burlington (who by the way has just announced for reelection), was running for Governor in 1948, he was called to come to the Governor's office. The man who was calling was Gov. R. Gregg Cherry.

The story goes that Gov. Cherry knew that his popularity had slipped some (partly because of some unwarranted personal attacks in the party) . . . so he told Kerr Scott he was for him for Governor.

"Kerr," he is supposed to have said as each sat chewing and spitting, "I'll make a speech or two for you . . . and that may help you a little since I am still Governor and ain't been shot at yet. I'll go on the radio and say I'm agin you . . . and that's sure to get you a lot of votes in certain quarters. Or I'll remain neutral."

Kerr Scott chuckled, said he would take the matter under advisement.

In the end, it was agreed Gov. Cherry should remain neutral. Nevertheless, the feeling around most sections of the State was that the incumbent was solidly for the gentleman from Alabama.

No doubt Gov. Sanford knows that speeches made by him praising a candidate would cut both ways. He would not consider such a thing - even if it did not . . . for he has nearly three years left in office whereas Gov. Cherry had less than nine months. Sanford stock seems on the way up.

TWO CHURCHES . . . There are two First Baptist Churches in Raleigh. The first First Baptist, white, is on the northwest corner of the State Capitol. The other, colored, on the southeast corner.

Each church is observing its 150th birthday this year. They were established in 1812, when the U. S. was on the sunny side of 40. And how was that? How was it that they happened along the same year.

Well, the answer is that both were one . . . until 1860.

BORN AND BRED . . . In a school not too far from Chapel Hill, one of the Southern seats of learning, and not too far from Raleigh, N. C., seat of government and progress, this school principal has recently had this speck of trouble. It isn't as unusual as you might think it is . . .

The 17 year old boy was on the verge of flunking out of high school. He was rough and tough, but the principal wanted him to graduate. However, the boy insisted on using profanity before young children, adults, and anybody else who happened to be around him at school.

He was warned and warned. Finally, the principal told him that if he used profanity one more time, he would be sent home for a few days or would have to take a paddling in the principal's office. The very next day he was swearing again.

Called to the principal's office, he was given his choice of the suspension for a few days or the paddling. One would hurt his grades, the other his behind. He took the latter, and the principal laid it on.

That afternoon the boy's mother called and said she was coming to school to whip the headmaster out of him. A few moments later the boy's father, obviously at his job, called on the telephone, said the principal was a g-d-s-o-b. A half hour later the father called again - same thing.

This went on until about 11 o'clock that night when the principal let his wife answer the telephone: "Tell you husband that I said . . ." and he repeated the loving. For two days and far into the night these calls continued. Meantime, the 17 year old was still in school, is still in school, and will probably line up bright and pretty and march to the heavy beat of "Pomp and Circumstance" on graduation night . . . thanks to patient, tolerant principal. This is a true story . . . and not a great rarity.

Two questions: 1. Want to be a school man? 2. Wonder where that boy learned all that profanity?

Uncle Dave From Davie Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:
Zeke Grubb's preacher come by the country store Saturday night, announced he was plum wore out from working on his report. Preachers in his Church, he explained, has to fill out an annual report by the end of March ever year telling all of things they done during the past year. He says if they keep adding pages to it, pritty soon the only thing he'll have to report is that he has been busy filling out reports.

But the good Parson allowed as how his report was bringing to light some mighty interesting things. Fer instance, he said, it showed they had 309 Committee meetings last year and he is hoping they will get a certificate for this achievement. He figured them 309 Committee meetings come to around 1,342 man-hours and the Bishop might even award the congregation a bronze plack.

Another thing his report showed, he told the fellers, was how pore most of the folks is in his community. He said the Good Book orders us to give according to how much the Lord has prospered us and, according to his church records, they had one of the worst depressions last year since Noah and the flood. Fact is, he said, he was thinking about taking food baskets to some of his members. A bunch of families in his congregation didn't give a cent during the year, so he figures they must be in bad shape.

Fer instance, he said one member of his Choir ain't give a nickel to the church in three year. The good Parson said he drove by this feller's house the other night to ask if he could help him out a little till he got on his feet, but he didn't stop because he saw in the driveway where somebody else had done been by and give him a new car.

He told the fellers they was a chancet the Bishop might promote him to a bigger church on account of his fine annual report. He said his report showed he had not only preached 104 sermons, and attended 309 Committee meetings, but he was serving as Athletic Director of the Sunday School and was head coach of the horseshoe and pingpong teams.

Country preachers, he allowed, don't have to worry this time of year about their income tax report. Fer that, he said, he was thankful. He claims he takes the report ever year, signs it at the proper places, and writes a note at the top saying he's a country preacher. In case that ain't enough, he puts down how much salary he was pledged, puts right under it how much he got, and subtracts. He says he's showed a loss fer 30 year straight, ever since he took up preaching.

SENATOR SAM ERVIN SAYS:

WASHINGTON - Public hearings on the general farm bill for 1962 have been concluded by the Committees on Agriculture in the Senate and the House. The Senate Agriculture and Forestry Committee is expected to complete its work on the bill soon. Since the farm bill will be of great interest to North Carolina farmers when it is reported out of these committees, a brief analysis of the farm program as it has affected North Carolina agriculture in recent years should be a matter of similar interest. The tremendous part agriculture plays in North Carolina's economy is magnified once again by the latest figures released by the North Carolina Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. These statistics show that 307,722 Tar Heel farms with 1,452,022 acres participated in the wheat, peanut, cotton, and tobacco programs. For the fiscal year 1961-62 our farmers are earning more than $30 million from the feed grains program, the wheat stabilization program and the agricultural conservation program.

ACP

One of the soundest farm programs on the statutes is the Agricultural Conservation Program which is known as the ACP. Under this program farmers receive assistance for about one half the cost of carrying out soil, water, woodland and wildlife conserving practices. The annual ACP allocation for North Carolina farmers amounts to about $6 1/2 million. The greatest benefit of the program, aside from the monetary aid to farmers, is portrayed in greener forests, more fertile fields, and purer water supplies for our cities. I can remember when gullied hillsides, worn-out fields, and abandoned farms were common-place in North Carolina. Now as I visit around the state the landscape is dotted with cultivated fields, terraced pastures, and new woodlands. However, the program is not complete. A large percentage of our farmlands still need conservation treatment. The use of fertilizers, terracing, drain age, and conservation practices have contributed to a quiet revolution which has taken place in North Carolina farming since the inception of the ACP. Twenty-five years ago North Carolina planted thousands of sub-marginal acres in row crops. The more acres that the farmer planted in these areas the more money he lost. A change then began. From 1936 to 1960 under ACP our farmers converted 1 1/2 million acres of land into pasture. Today North Carolina ranks high among the Southeastern States in dairy and beef production. It was interesting to be to learn that during this 25 year period, North Carolina farmers through the ACP applied 8,600,00 tons of lime and a tremendous quantity of fertilizer to our pasture land; planted 24 million acres of cover crops; put in 48,000 miles of terracing, and drained 1.3 million acres of land in carrying out conservation practices under the program.

In contrast to our potential enemy the Soviets, our agricultural problems are concerned with the surpluses rather than shortages. The productivity of the soil is a rich heritage which is a trust for all future generations of North Carolinians and Americans. The ACP is dedicated to the worthwhile program of preserving this productivity through wise conservation of our natural resources for the unborn generations of tomorrow. Today, however, our agricultural abundance is one of the great bulwarks of the nation in the Cold War struggle.

Social Security In Davie County

If you are self-employed, you are responsible for the correctness of your own social security account, explained Robert C. Thomas, District Manager of the Salisbury Office of the Social Security Administration. Filing complete and correct tax returns will assure you of receiving correct social security benefits.

Mr. Thomas emphasized four easy steps for a self-employed individual to take in order to keep his social security account straight. He should make sure his social security number is shown in item 4 of Form SE (Attachment to Schedule C or Schedule F). He should file his tax returns on time. He should keep accurate records of his business income and expenses. He should check his social security account once every three years.

Mr. Thomas stated that any social security office will furnish a postal card to be mailed to their accounting office in Baltimore. A statement of the earnings credited to the individual's account will be sent. If it is not correct, the individual should notify the social security office immediately.

SO THIS IS NEW YORK . . .

By NORTH CALLAHAN

Sitting alongside a friend of Colonel John Glenn at a luncheon, I was surprised and amused to find that his last name had a similarity-in-reverse to my first one. He was Brigadier General Hamilton D. South, Marine Corps, Retired, now a genial official of a bank in Albany. He has known the astronaut for years, he said, and corresponded with him right up to the time of his flight preparation. "A fine gentleman and a credit all around", was General South's comment on Glenn. After the historic orbit, the general wrote to his friend saying, "How mundane must now seem to you, a mere trip to the Commissary."

After watching the parade for Colonel Glenn, I stopped in at the oldest public building on Manhattan Island. It is St. Paul's Chapel, its original structure still intact, and it was built some 200 years ago. When the city was burned in 1776, Trinity Church down the street a few blocks was destroyed by the flames, but not St. Paul's. Most of the ornamentation of this tall-steepled, stone, English-Style chapel was done by Major Pierre L'Enfant, the French-American officer who laid the plans for the city of Washington. Inside the venerable structure at Broadway and Fulton Streets, is a scene out of the past indeed. Time-worn benches in two wide rows extend up to the graceful altar, a slender, tall little edifice itself, having above it part of the coat of arms of the Prince of Wales. Cut-glass chandeliers dangle from above, and around the interior are flags, special niches and pews. One of these individual compartments - the finest and biggest one of course - is that occupied by George Washington, above it the flag of the Continental Army. Here Washington worshipped for almost two years, having gone to this church immediately after he was inaugurated our first President a few blocks away on April 30, 1789. He was accompanied by his cabinet, Jefferson, Hamilton, Randolph and Knox, the latter being organizer of the Society of the Cincinnati, the local chapter of which still meets here. Others who worshipped at this historic shrine included Lord Cornwallis, Sir Guy Carleton, Lord Howe, Lafayette, and the ill-fated Major John Andre.

With talk of high prices for Broadway shows and even with these, old-model rough seats and small, out-dated theaters to house the productions, it is interesting to note that Harry Brandt, movie chain executive plans to build a huge legitimate theater in New York. It will cost about five million dollars, will seat 2,000 instead of the usual 500 people and is expected to be ready for the 1963 season. Plans call for an underground parking garage and lounge theater seats which are supposed to be cheaper than present ones.

At 47th Street and 8th Avenue (this last is officially the Avenue of the Americas, but few people call it that) there is a large collection of large diamonds, in fact, it is said to be the largest such collection in the world. These stones are from the mines, and not yet ready for the engaged girls' hand. According to those in charge, there is not a big market for big diamonds. Recently, this dealer had a 480-carat diamond. It required six weeks for it to be sawed up properly - but evidently it was worth it!

A distressing statistic shows that of the 2 1/2 million young American men examined for the armed forces within the past eight years, over one million or 40 per cent were found mentally or physically unacceptable. This is a sad commentary on our society which is supposed to have found so many fine ways of improving health and outlook. Such "decay from within" might land our country right in the lap of an enemy without his having to fight very much.

Here and There: Dilbert's "Foods of All Nations" held a Puerto Rican Food Festival recently at which such items as quince paste and banana chips were given away - ad in local newspaper: "Pales Doggy Eye-lashes, devastatingly curly for the female Huckleberry Hound."

Theme: Hypocrisy Is An Unworthy Judgment
TEXT: "Judge not, that ye be not judged" - New Testament. The Church-goer was being patronized by the millionaire. "I never go to Church," the millionaire said. "I suppose you've noticed."

"Yes, I've noticed," said the church-goer, gravely.

"Well, the reason I don't go is because there are so many hypocrites there."

"Oh, don't let that keep you away," was the reply. "There is always room for one more."

There is no excuse for hypocrisy. It is base deceit calculated to gain unfair advantage. But who is to say that one is a hypocrite and another is not? Who has the right to point the finger of accusation? Does any one of us know the truth that is buried in another? Does any mortal have the depth of discernment to stand over a fellow-man and denounce him as a hypocrite? When we term another person "hypocrite", we set ourselves up as judges. What power gives us this right? Are we not hypocrites ourselves, when we pass judgment on another?

Hypocrites are to be scorned. However, before we accuse another of hypocrisy, let us be certain that we have not assumed a posture that does not belong to us. That, too, is hypocrisy. Should the "pot call the kettle black?"

Should the "pot call the kettle black?"

Charles E. Hill Discusses Wildlife

Over 100 people heard Charles E. Hill, Mocksville, wildlife biologist with the North Carolina Wildlife Resources Commission, and saw two movies on wildlife Tuesday at an open meeting of the Iredell Fish and Game Club. The meeting was held in the Iredell County Courthouse. Howard J. Doyle, Statesville, forester with the Furniture, Plywood and Veneer Council and chairman for the celebration of National Wildlife Week in the Statesville area presided.

The movie, "Wood Duck Ways" showed a close-up of the life history of the wood duck from nesting through adulthood. Hill pointed out that in the past 11 years we have lost over one million acres of waterfowl nesting grounds, which he classified as "duck factories." He discussed the need for erecting nesting boxes for wood ducks. This is especially important where large hardwood trees have been removed thus eliminating natural nesting holes for the ducks. He recommended the erection of these houses as a project for the club and any others interested. The supply of plans for the boxes were eagerly received by those present. Additional copies of the plans are available from the N. C. Wildlife Commission, P. O. Box 2918, Raleigh. He stated that in Wake County during the 1961 season, 30 boxes produced 27 hatches resulting in 387 ducklings. Hunting Creek and South Yadkin River in Iredell County are known to be inhabited by the wood duck. The establishment and management of duck fields was also described. Federal assistance is available for this practice through ASCP in other counties, but, so far, has not been adopted in Iredell County.

A second movie, "Land of the Prairie Ducks," showed the relative dependence of the nation for its waterfowl supply on the pothole region extending from Alberta in Canada into Minnesota. In this area 500 ducks may be produced per square mile each year. Outside this area, square mile production for ducks runs only 1 to 5 yearly. It is in this critical pothole region that much needless drainage is taking place. Such drainage is not only robbing waterfowl of their vital nesting areas but is also adding to the already aggravated farm surplus problem.

Doyle presented a resolution calling on "public officials at all levels of government to study this problem carefully and immediately take whatever steps are necessary, both in this country and with other country and with other countries, to insure that an adequate supply of wetland area be maintained which will support migratory waterfowl." The resolution also urged "the elimination of such inconsistencies by the federal government whereby one agency is promoting subsidized drainage of wetlands to continue and create more agricultural land at a time when crop surpluses pose a major national problem—while another federal agency is seeking to acquire such lands to help conserve waterfowl."

Drainage also affects fur-bearing animals and, by changing the site conditions, will drastically affect trees and their growth.
