Service Awards Are Presented At Davie County ASCS Banquet

State Executive Officer Is Speaker

The Davie County ASCS Banquet was held last Thursday night in the cafeteria of the Davie County High School.

A. P. Hassell, Jr., State Executive Officer of the ASCS, was the featured speaker. Mr. Hassell commended local ASCS officials for the work they were doing and cited the continuing progress of agriculture.

Awards were presented to ASCS committeemen and office personnel for their service.

Miss Annie Pearl Tatum and Miss Faith Deadmon received certificates denoting 20 years of service. Mrs. Hattie Tutterow was presented with a certificate denoting 10 years of service.

Committeemen receiving certificates and pins for ten years of service included: L. W. West, Jack Boone, Claude W. Cartner, James Comer, Wade Dyson, S. C. Hutchins, and C. G. Long.

The following committeemen were recognized with certificates denoting five years of service: J. N. Smoot, Lester Ritchie, Grady Riddle, Charles Phillips, Paul Owens, John Miller, D. B. Miller, W. M. Langston, Buren Lakey, Reid Hauser, W. Cleve Allen, J. G. Crawford, R. C. Dyson, Ben Ellis, B. J. Foster, H. H. Fry, Norman Riddle and T. A. Vanzant.

Mr. Hassell told the gathering that today in America each farmer feeds himself and 25 others. "The thing that most impresses Nikita Khrushchev during his recent visit here was the efficient way in which the United States farmers produced so much food," said Mr. Hassell.

"A bushel of wheat for only 13-man hours; a bushel of corn for only 15 man-hours. This type of efficiency has resulted in good food buys for the consumer. This is noted in the fact that during the past ten years industrial pay has gone up 50% and food only 20%," he said.

Mr. Hassell called for public recognition of the interdependence of industry and agriculture.

He also cited the need of regulating production of agriculture products pointing out "that almost 4 million individual farms cannot regulate production like a few industrial giants."

Mr. Hassell was introduced by Van Johnson, ASCS Fieldman.

Ernest Inman, Office Manager of Davie County ASCS, presided. J. N. Smoot, chairman of the county committee, gave the address of welcome.

The response was given by Hubert Bailey, community committeeman. L. W. West, county committeeman, gave the invocation.

Patsy Deadmon used her skill as a ventriloquist to entertain the group.

Occupancy 102%

"This is the first time in the history of the hospital that we have averaged this much in adult occupancy," said Mr. McCluskey. "In order to take care of all the patients we had to use beds in the hallway."

Mr. McCluskey revealed that 37 patients in the 30 bed hospital was the highest occupancy during the past month. The lowest number of patients during the month was 27 on March 31.

Dutchman Creek Watershed Referendum to be May 5

The Supervisors of the Middle Yadin Soil Conservation District have ordered that a referendum and registration of voters be held among the landowners of the proposed Dutchman Creek Watershed in order to assist the supervisors in determining the feasibility of creating the proposed district.

C. W. Phillips says this will enable local landowners, to fulfill their responsibility in operation and maintenance of this project. The operation and maintenance will consist of keeping trash out of the drain tubes in the dams; keeping a good sod on the dams; keeping the stream channels cleared out; and brush controlled along the channels.

Only owners of more than three acres of land will be eligible to vote unless the owner of a smaller tract can prove that he sold more than $250 worth of agricultural products. Landowners must own land in the watershed area. This is the area that drains into Dutchman and Cedar Creeks.

The special registration period is eight days beginning at 9 a.m. on the second Saturday before the referendum, April 21, and ending at sunset on Saturday, April 28, 1962, before the referendum. Registration books will be kept open during this period but the registrars will attend the registration place at the Davie County Courthouse only between 9 a.m. and sunset on these two Saturdays.

The referendum will be held on May 5, 1962, at the Davie County Courthouse. Date and place of registration and referendum were established after consultation with the board of commissioners of Davie County.

H. R. Hendrix Heads Crusade

H. R. Hendrix, Jr., will again serve as chairman of the American Cancer Society's 1962 Cancer Crusade in Davie County, R. P. York, Jr., president of the local ACS Unit, announced today.

The Chairman said that 1962 had been designated as Cancer Progress Year by the American Cancer Society and the National Cancer Institute in recognition of the "remarkable progress made in the last 25 years against cancer in the laboratory, the hospital, the doctor's office and in the public's attitude."

The annual educational and fund raising drive began on April 1.

Twenty-five years ago, Mr. Hendrix explained, "about 160,000 persons in the United States were alive, cured of cancer. If present rates continue, there should be 1,100,000 in 1962."

The Chairman said this improvement is due to two major factors:

1. Developments in the research laboratories which have resulted in improved treatment by surgery, radiation, chemicals.

2. Public and professional education, combined with more general use of the best methods of diagnosis, treatment and prevention, has contributed much to saving lives today.

Mr. Hendrix said that over the last few years, "there has been a pronounced trend toward earlier diagnosis. Earlier diagnosis means a far better chance of cure. Some believe that more can be done against cancer through education than against any other disease."

The Chairman appealed for a record turnout of volunteers "to make sure that the progress against cancer will not only continue but be stepped up."

The Chairman added that "educational leaflets must be distributed to save lives now and funds must be raised if the American Cancer Society is to carry on its research, education, and service programs."

April has been designated as Cancer Control Month by Congressional Resolution.

Car Overtakes In Wreck Last Sat.

Four slick tires . . . plus wet pavement . . . plus driving too fast for conditions . . . combined to cause a wreck last Saturday around 1:15 p.m. on US 601, two miles south of Mocksville.

Trooper L. E. Woods of the State Highway Patrol said that his investigation showed that Clarence Odell Brown, Jr., 27, of Lexington, was operating a 1958 Mercury. Accompanied by three occupants, he was traveling south on US 601. Just after passing a work bus, he met a vehicle coming towards Mocksville. Brown swerved his car back to the right side as he completed the pass, applied brakes and went into a skid on the wet, slick pavement.

The Mercury ran off the right side of the roadway onto the shoulder, sideswiped four mail boxes and ran off down the embankment on the right side and overturned. Brown was pinned in the car for a few minutes, but was out of the car by the time the ambulance arrived.

Brown and the three passengers were taken to the Davie County Hospital for first-aid treatment.

"Another factor in this accident was the fact that all four tires were slick, giving no traction whatever when the brakes were applied on the wet, smooth, broad surface," Trooper Woods said.

Damages to the car were estimated at $420. Brown was cited for driving too fast for conditions.

Girl Suffers Cuts In Cooleemee Wreck

A seventeen-year-old girl suffered severe lacerations of the face and a broken lower jaw in a wreck last Wednesday in Cooleemee.

Martha Johnson, 17, of 1205 Spring Street, Mocksville, was taken to the Davie County Hospital with facial injuries after the car in which she was riding collided with another on Hy. 801 in Cooleemee at the intersection of the Pine Ridge Road.

Trooper G. W. Howard of the State Highway Patrol said that his investigation showed that a 1961 Ford was being operated by Homer L. Lagle, 33, of Cooleemee, and stopped at stop sign on N. C. 801. A third vehicle was turning right from the Pine Ridge Road onto NC 801, heading North. Trooper Howard said that Mr. Lagle told him that he could not see if there was anything coming because of the vehicle turning right. He just took it for granted that it was clear and pulled out. A 1961 Ford, being operated by Samuel P. Redman of 1205 Spring St., Mocksville, tried to stop but was too close—skidding 52-feet before impact. Miss Johnson was a passenger in the Redman car.

Gardner Gidley, supervisor of Tanglewood Park, will give a program on "Gardening." If the weather permits, the group will go to the gardens at Tanglewood. Films shown after the talk and visit will be shown in case of inclement weather.

Social Security In Davie County

To get social security payments for yourself and your family you must have credit for a certain amount of work under social security. Less work is now needed to qualify for social security benefits.

Under the 1961 changes to the Social Security Law, men who reach age 65 or women who become age 62 in 1962 need only 2 1/4 (11 quarters) years of work. Under the new law, they would have needed 3 1/2 (14 quarters) years of work.

Many retired workers and survivors of deceased workers may qualify for social security benefits because of this change in the law. Workers who were born after 1892, and many survivors of workers who died after 1957, will be helped by this change in the work needed to qualify for social security benefits.

At least six quarters of credit are needed to qualify. There has been no change in the amount of work required for disability benefits.

Anyone in this area who has been turned down for retirement or survivor's monthly payments within the past four years because the wage earner did not work long enough under social security, should contact the Social Security Administration.

TANGLED PROBLEM FOR THE REAs

[Reprinted from Twin City Sentinel]

Where should the power lines of rural electric cooperatives end, and the lines of the private power companies begin?

This is becoming an increasingly controversial issue as the suburban sprawl keeps rolling along in the United States. As these areas become urbanized, private power interests contend they are no longer rural and consequently should no longer be served by a rural power supplier.

The Rural Electrification Administration insists, however, that the cooperatives should not be stripped of their more densely populated areas and deprived of their right to serve the larger industrial and commercial loads that develop in their service territories. Hence the REA has drafted what it calls a model territorial integrity act which it is asking its borrowers and others interested in the cooperative power system to present to the legislatures of states which lack legal protection against the extension of private utilities lines into REA-served areas.

Only eleven states now provide a high degree of protection to existing power systems in the territories originally assigned them, according to REA authorities. They are: Arkansas, New Hampshire, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Vermont, Georgia, Kentucky, Texas and Wisconsin.

Norman M. Clapp, REA administrator, contends that rivals of cooperatives have started a new campaign to weaken and destroy the REA systems. In some cases where the cooperatives are dependent upon the private concerns for all or part of their power, the power suppliers are increasing the rates and reducing the amount of power made available to the cooperatives. But the most serious threat, Mr. Clapp says, is the effort of some private utilities to take over the more densely populated areas now served by the cooperatives. The REA act forbids the government from making loans to borrowing cooperatives for building systems to serve communities of more than 1,500 population. But apparently there is nothing in the act that requires cooperatives to quit serving once rural areas served by REA that have become urbanized.

Many of the problems involved in this fight are much more complicated than they appear on the surface. Since these problems vary from community to community and state to state, it is debatable whether a uniform territorial integrity act, as proposed by the REA, would offer a full solution, unless that act were flexible enough to meet peculiar local conditions. But certainly the REA cooperatives, which have helped to revolutionize American rural life by moving into a field considered unprofitable by the private utilities, are entitled to enough protection, territorial and otherwise, to stay in business and continue to offer adequate power service to the farm families of the nation.

THE EASTER SEAL SOCIETY

The National Society for Crippled Children and Adults sees a more acute challenge in the years immediately ahead despite progress in rehabilitation during its 40-year existence.

This prediction contained in "Perspective", the 1961 annual report of the Easter Seal Society, issued today from its headquarters in Chicago.

The North Carolina Easter Seal Society is presently in the midst of its campaign for funds to be used in the rehabilitation of their own crippled children and adults.

The report states that at the time of the National Society's founding in 1921, there were hospital beds for only 9,000 of the total of 289,919 crippled children in the United States. Treatment and rehabilitation centers were virtually nonexistent, and most crippled children were considered a stigma to their families and hidden from the world.

The National Society's care and treatment program began with one small boy, "Jimmy," in Elyria, Ohio, for whom hospital and convalescent care was paid. Today, 243,023 crippled children and adults are under direct care of 2,970 professional staff members of the Easter Seal organization in its facilities and programs.

Nevertheless, it is pointed out by Dean W. Roberts, M. D., executive director of the National Society, that the problem of crippling looms even larger today and poses a tremendous challenge for tomorrow.

He said that today we find 8,500,000 Americans with substantial disabilities. Nearly 2½ million of these want and could benefit materially from rehabilitation services and at least half of this latter group would be probable candidates for employment in competitive situations.

In North Carolina alone, over 3,000 people were helped by the Easter Seal Funds last year and many more have to be reached in 1962.

It is significant, Dr. Roberts added, that our disabled population is increased by 250,000 each year, among them more than 40,000 children who are permanently crippled by accidents. There are 253,000

Americans who must use wheel chairs; 201,000 wear foot or leg braces and 490,000 use other kinds of braces for handicapping conditions; and statistics show that 274,000 persons have lost arms or legs.

Dr. Roberts emphasized that new facilities, new treatment programs, greater funds of the Easter Seal societies worked to meet these increased demands, but still more centers and many more professionally trained persons will be needed to restore these crippled children and adults to their rightful place in our society.

In 1961, 199,263 children and 43,760 adults received treatment of various kinds in more than 1,000 Easter Seal facilities and programs. This included medical diagnosis; physical, occupational, and speech therapies; special education; recreation; psychological and social services; sheltered employment, and other care and treatment the crippled need to walk, talk, and live like others.

The 1,375 Easter Seal state and local affiliated societies in every state in the United States owned and operated facilities involving buildings, land and specialized equipment. Nationwide, the budget of Easter Seal societies reached an all time high of $18,500,000 last year, as a result of expansion of program, combined with the upward trend in all costs, including salaries of highly qualified rehabilitation specialists, scientifically designed equipment and the upkeep of plants especially constructed to accommodate safely and conveniently those who must use wheel chairs, crutches and braces.

The National Society's Easter Seal Research Foundation now sponsoring research studies operating throughout the nation seeks causes, means of prevention and alleviation of the factors involved in crippling conditions. They are being investigated at 31 major institutions and include 45 current active projects.

The Research Foundation is presently conducting research studies at North Carolina Memorial Hospital in Chapel Hill with Easter Seal funds.

The first known photograph of a living person was made in 1839, says the National Geographic Magazine. A study by Daguerre, it showed a Parisian gentleman getting a shoeshine at a street stand.

Several nations feature religious edifices on their flags, the National Geographic Magazine says. Afghanistan's black, red, and green banner shows a mosque, reflecting the nation's Islamic character. Cambodia's blue and red flag shows the great temple of Angkor Wat, symbol of Buddhism.

Judging from the feel of the air (and the date on the calendar) 'tis Spring — the time when Tarheel residents accelerate their tempo of visits to Variety Vacationland attractions with renewed vigor. Yes, the time is right so let's get on with our visiting!

We'll put the family in the car and head for the northwestern section of the State, a portion of the Piedmont Plateau that is 1000 feet above sea level. It's an area of gently rolling land just 42 miles south of the Virginia line and 50 miles from the Blue Ridge Parkway. No matter where we start from in VV, we'll find a good road to take us to our destination as this city is served by 11 highways.

The area of today's choice originally embodied two towns, merged in 1913 when the younger more commercial neighbor, Winston, joined the elder Salem just to its south. Put the two together (with a hyphen in between) and you have it, one of the Dixie Dynamo's most modern and progressive cities, Winston-Salem.

Probably the single most outstanding historical attraction in the combined city is the village of Old Salem. Founded in 1766 by the Moravians whose history was even then more than 300 years old, Salem retains 40 of the original 80 buildings erected before 1830. Meticulously authentic in every detail, the buildings and furnishings reflect life in an unusual part of the American past.

The buildings and town plan, with medieval characteristics, give the area a strong Old World atmosphere. You'll see steeply pitched roofs, half-timbered construction, hooded doorways, "eyebrow-arched" windows and groupings of windows and doors for utility rather than symmetry. Of particular interest are the Moravian Church (consecrated in 1800) with its still-active congregation; the Moravian graveyard, dating from 1771 and still used; Salem Tavern (1784); the Community Store (1776); John Vogler's House (1819); the Mischke Tobacco Shop (1771). Each exhibit building is furnished largely with pieces made by the early settlers. Yes, today's visitor to Old Salem enters an 18th century village which was the craft, cultural and spiritual center of a remarkable group of early Americans. You are welcome weekdays from 9:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. and on Sundays from 2:00 p. m. to 4:30 p. m. Admission fees are nominal.

To enjoy your stay further, you will want to take your family to Tanglewood Park and Reynolds Gardens. Proclaimed by leading authorities as the South's "Finest Park," Tanglewood facilities include fine picnic areas, lakes, amusements for the children, a barnyard zoo, swimming pool and snack bar, golf, horseback riding and — for those who can linger a while — vacation cottages. Reynolds Estate, on US 421 W., contains multi-colored gardens that reach a peak of beauty in April and May when the woods are resplendent with jonquills and other spring flowers. This array of color is further heightened by the presence of many cherry trees cloaked in spring blossom finery. An ideal spot for the amateur or professional photographer armed with color film!

Another "must" while here is a visit to the Reynolds Tobacco Company where you will see famous cigarettes being made and packaged in highly automated fashion. Tours are provided free each work day, Monday through Friday. A personalized tour takes about an hour and you will be enthralled as we were. If you can't make the daytime tour reception room at corner of Main and Fourth Sts. I. you will be accommodated at night (reception room No. 12 Factory between Second and Third Sts.).

Undoubtedly, long before this you have decided to "linger a little longer" and by now have found accommodations to suit your family's taste from among the many hotels and motels in the city. From these headquarters, you can proceed in relaxed, easy fashion on a visit to the several beautiful college campuses, the Gallery of Fine Arts, the lovely residential sections or wherever your desires dictate. Please don't hurry for, if you do, you'll miss much worth seeing. And while returning home, don't hurry either — it's safer not to — and, besides, equally enjoyable excursions can be found just around the next bend in the road!

BANK NOTES by Malcolm

MORE DEMOCRATIC . . .

The Jefferson - Jackson Dinner held here in the State Fair Arena — now and then called the Cow Palace — was more Democratic small "d," or the large variety, but less prestigious than the ones we used to have in a downtown hotel.

When we used to have only 500-600 people present, you could be somebody; see and be seen. There was prestige attached to one's presence. Of course, the old dinners were nothing as money-raisers compared to the ones we have brought on here lately. $14,000 in ads, too!

And, after all, that's what the dinner's for — to make money for the Party — not to boost any Democrat for office over any other Democrat.

We thought the Party leaders were wise when they put their foot down against any organized demonstrations (Kennedy of Charlotte, running against Kilch of Wadesboro, wanted to do it). What we like about the State Fair Arena as the site for the love feast is that it provides room for all the county representatives to the Dinner (over 1,500 were planned for and expected). It was all superbly handled.

NOT SAME . . . The chief difference between the old and the new Dinners is that formerly those participating spent the night in Raleigh. Now most of them return home by chartered bus, planes, and by auto immediately after the meeting.

As late as Saturday noon all the Raleigh motels and hotels except the Sir Walter had rooms available. We checked with at least a half dozen. One of them, the Andrew Johnson (owned by the late Sen. J. W. Bailey heirs, incidentally), I said they were filling up fast for Saturday night. "The Boston Pops Symphony will be in town that night, you know," said they by way of explanation. This indicates that Raleigh can absorb big crowds now without an extra breath. But the teachers had us stretching!

INSIDE DOPE . . . We do not always find him easy reading, but nevertheless admire the writing skills and personality and background and integrity of Lynn Nisbet, who for about 20 years now has been covering the Raleigh beat for the afternoon newspapers of the State.

We were sorry to hear last week that he has cancer and sorrier still to learn it is the malignant, never give up kind. If we are not mistaken, it will find in the person of Mr. Nisbet not so easy going.

Of course, as Lynn pointed out in announcing the discovery, we all know who will win out in the end. For any cure of any thing is merely a delay of the inevitable.

It is also like the old song which became popular in World War I days "If the Camels don't get you, the Fatimas must . . . We used to play it on the Victrola in the parlor, the title being, I believe "Good Morning, Mr. Zip, Zip, Zip" . . . or words to that effect.

MORE SUICIDES . . . Since we have become ghoulish to the point of bad taste, let's stay with it for another verse. We might label this one "the good old days," which we hear so much about in these times of inflation.

Sometime back, we sat with some Pilot Life Insurance Co. personnel at a luncheon. The subject of the depression came up somehow — we forget the particulars — but somebody brought up 1932. Yet, said one of the insurance executives, he remembered that year well. That was the year that Pilot had more losses among its insured from suicides than from heart attacks. This is an actual fact.

The good old days . . . when you could buy T-bone steak for 30 cents per pound and fresh herring for two for a penny — if you had the money.

The good old days of 1930-1940 . . . when you and I were young . . . or younger.

FESTIVE! . . . In our little visits at the Sir Walter Saturday afternoon, we noted that county groups here from the Fifth Congressional District for the Jefferson - Jackson Dinner seemed all to be on the fifth floor.

As some of us walked down the hall toward the Forsyth County Headquarters, a rank odor met us before we reached the door. Well, somebody sick already, we thought, and so early in the afternoon, too.

It turned out to be delicious, imported cheese, but the stinkiest ever . . .

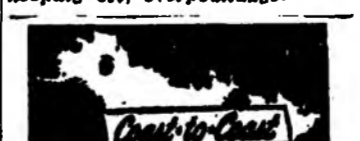

BAD PART . . . This reminds us of what happened in Raleigh recently when a couple were planning a big after-game party at their home during the Atlantic Conference tournament here. They had asked their new maid to stay late that night to help them with preparations and serving.

About 8:30, after the children were in bed, our friend went in to the kitchen to see how everything was coming on. There she found the maid carefully cutting out the blue veins from the Roquefort cheese. She explained she was sure "nobody would want to eat that old mouldy stuff."

ON DIET . . . We hear from time to time that Gov. Sanford leans heavily on metacore to keep down his weight. But just across the hall from him is another good Scotland County native, State Treasurer, Edwin Gill, and we learn that he is following another road to reduction.

If we have it right, Mr. Gill, being of literary leanings, got his inspiration from the new best seller, "Calories Don't Count." Be that as it may, he and the Governor and you and I should follow some line to keep down the avoidrups. So say insurance firms.

And, by way of passing, we would note that two other members of the Council of State, namely State Secretary Thad Eure and Agriculture Commissioner L. Y. Ballentine have lost, and are keeping off, overpoundage.

NEWSPAPERS SELL THE MOST!

UNLCE DAVE FROM DAVIE Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

I see by the papers where them stockpile officials in Washington has sold another 58,000 pounds of Chinese feathers. This feller J. G. Harlan that's in charge of stockpiling operations, told Senator Douglas they had a over abundance of Chinese feathers and was gradual gitting this item cut down. He said they took a $52,000 loss on this last sale but, very confidential, these Chinese feathers wasn't up to the latest Government specifications.

This stockpiling situation come up at the country store Saturday night and some of the fellers said they was a little hazy on the details of this whole operation.

Ed Doolittle, fer instant, said he wasn't worried about the $52,000 loss, allowed as how nothing under a billion dollars was important to them Congressmen no more. But Ed said he couldn't git to sleep at night fer worrying about what kind of feathers them Chinese, was selling us. Was we stockpiling goose feathers, chicken feathers, duck feathers, or was they some sort of rare feathers that we ain't got here at home? Ed figured if they was just plain old chicken feathers, the Government could buy a million pounds of 'em right here at home real cheap, and he was shore they would come up to the latest Government specifications.

As soon as you git a reply back, Mister Editor, let us hear from you.

Yours truly,
Uncle Dan

Clem Webster said he wasn't wasting no sleep worrying over the kind of feathers, but the thing that had him setting up at night was what the Defense Department was doing with them feathers. Was they using 'em fer pillows, fer mattresses, or was they just making swivelchair cushions out of 'em fer the stockpiling officials to set on?

It was voted, Mister Editor, fer you to git a letter off to our Congressman and see if he can clear up these little details. But the fellers don't want you to git nasty with him about the matter. Zeke Grubb pointed out that some improvements is being made already in this situation. Zeke said he was reading a piece in the papers where we had enough strategic materials stockpiled in 1959 to fight four wars, and now we got it down to three wars. Zeke allows as how this is real progress and you should give our Congressman a pat on the back fer this accomplishment. But one thing, Zeke said, was worrying him and he wished you'd ask our Congressman about it. Back in 1959 when we was stockpiled fer four wars, the storage on these items was costing us only $13 million a year, and now, when we're down to three wars, it's running $14 million.

As soon as you git a reply back, Mister Editor, let us hear from you.

Yours truly,
Uncle Dan

SENATOR SAM ERVIN SAYS:

WASHINGTON—Lawmakers, like those who visit the Nation's Capital, welcome the spring pageant that is traditionally known here as the Cherry Blossom Festival. The warmer days and the Japanese cherry trees unfold a panorama along the Potomac Basin that is inspiring to all who witness it.

GENEVA — PARLEY—North Carolinians remind me on many occasions that they have an abiding interest in the prospects for peace and the avoidance of war by this nation. To this end I am mindful of the trust imposed upon me as a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee. This year our defense expenditures will be in the neighborhood of $50 billions so that we may effectively cope with aggression directed toward our country. The President recently commented on the progress we are making toward peace. He said: "the great currents of history are carrying the world away from Communism and toward democracy and freedom." At the same time while the tide may be moving with the United States, we still find it necessary to engage in talks with the Russians at the Geneva meeting that recall by-gone days. While I am not opposed to talking with the nations of the world about effective safeguards for peace, history has demonstrated time and again that an aggressor nation has no intention of abiding by a disarmament treaty. Reports from the conference have indicated a willingness by our British friends to reduce to a minimum the standards for international inspection to safeguard disarmament. Signing a weak treaty will not make disarmament possible. We do believe that we will want to relive a period of history when ineffective treaties were unwisely hailed as the dawn of the era of peace. It is well to remind ourselves that while Soviet diplomats sit around the conference table at Geneva, Soviet actions are going on in Berlin, Vietnam, the Congo, and Cuba.

Theme: Four Most Humane Words: How Can I help?

TEXT: "To pity distress is human; to relieve it is Godlike" — Horace Mann

The hostess was instructing her maid before the party.

"Now, Matilda," she said, "I want you to show us what you can do tonight. We are having a few very special guests for a musical evening."

"Well, ma'am," said the maid, "I ain't done no singin' in years, but if it'll help, put me down for 'Rock Of Ages'."

The maid misunderstood her employer, but she showed that she did want to help. Finding a willing-to-help attitude in others makes living so warmly interesting. We do not come across it as often as we would like, but when we meet a simple, sincere "How can I help?" person, all of living takes on a satisfying glow.

The "How can I help?" person doesn't look for personal glory. He doesn't delegate the job to a committee. He shows his sincerity by removing his coat, rolling up his sleeves and quietly doing the job. He really wants to help and finds a way of helping.

Happily, too, honestly wanting to help, pays off to the "want to" person. It stimulates his growth. Try it. We need more people like that and we each can increase the number by one.

HEARING—Woodrow Wilson in his commentaries on Congress said: "Congress in committee is Congress at work." The tax revision bill has been reported for debate by the House Rules Committee, but for the most part Congress has been engaged in hearings on major pieces of legislation yet to come up for debate. House committees have been holding hearings on foreign aid for 1962 and the general farm bill. Senate committee hearings have been going on concerning public works, wiretapping, and literacy voting requirements.

VOTING TESTS—Hearings are under way before the Constitutional Rights Subcommittee in the Senate on three bills which seek to establish by federal law educational tests for voters. The fundamental concept of our government for 172 years has been that this republic rests upon the intelligent exercises of the voting privilege by the electorate. These bills expressly violate the Constitution which is specific on the rights of the States to stipulate their own tests of eligibility for voting. It is interesting to observe that the decisions of the U. S. Supreme Court have uniformly upheld reasonable requirements which exclude from voting the illiterate, the felonious criminal, and the mentally incompetent. The Court has held these voting requirements are neutral on the subject of race, creed, and color. None of the three bills before the Committee have any operative statutory provisions which refer to racial discrimination. The clear mandate of the Constitution of the United States and the court decisions to this hour has been that changes such as the proponents of these bills seek to bring about can be lawfully done only through Constitutional amendments adopted by the Congress and the States. The plain truth of the matter is that heretofore the Constitution and the Courts have reposed a constitutional trust in the states concerning the eligibility of voters. The framers of this bill would remove that trust.

Complete Wool Sales
Records Stressed

With the 1962 wool marketing year just starting, growers were reminded today of the importance of keeping complete records on their sales of wool and unshorn lambs. Wool and unshorn lambs marketed not later than March 31, 1962, are eligible for payments under the 1961 program; marketings after April 1 will be eligible for payments for the 1962 program.

A. P. Hassell, Jr., Executive Director for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation State Committee, points out that wool growers' sales documents must show the true net sales proceeds, including deductions made for freight and other marketing charges. Where false information is filed, both the producer and the buyer are subject to penalties.

Applications for payments under the 1961 program must be filed at the ASCS county office not later than April 30, 1962. The average price received by farmers for wool during the entire marketing year can then be calculated and the payment rate announced. Payments to growers under the 1961 program will be made sometime during the summer.

For the 1960 wool marketing year, 1,755 sheep growers in North Carolina received net shorn wool payments amounting to $59, 116, and $30 North Carolina lamb growers received net payments of $10,543 on unshorn lambs sold. These amounts represent payments after deductions withheld for the growers' contributions to a fund for promoting the use of lamb and wool products. Deductions were 1c per pound for wool sold and 5c per hundredweight of lambs sold. These same deductions will apply under the 1961 wool program.

Phillips Cites Benefits For Davie Landowners

"Davie County landowners will benefit from the Dutchman Creek Watershed program by flood prevention, erosion control, and stream channel improvement," says C. W. Phillips, Soil Conservation Supervisor.

"These bottoms can be cultivated at less expense than the upland and return more money per acre. Annual flood damage now is $100,000.00 per year in Davie County from Dutchman Creek," he said.

Mr. Phillips pointed out that landowners above the flood prevention dams will benefit by increased application of conservation practices. Critical or gullied areas will be treated and the highway department will assist in seeding banks to grass to help reduce silting into these ponds and stream channels. Permission to slope and seed road banks must be obtained by the local people.

Mr. Phillips pointed out that the landowners on whose property the pond is built will own the pond. The Federal Government will not own any land. The water can be used for many purposes such as livestock watering, irrigation, boating, swimming, fishing, fish and wildlife production, subject to local and state laws.

"If the landowners desire to stock ponds with fish he may secure fish free of charge through the fish and wildlife service. The landowner has complete control of hunting and fishing rights, subject to state and federal game laws. Ponds can be used for feeding areas for wild ducks. Provisions can be made to lower and raise water to permit seeding of suitable plants around edges of lowered pond area which ducks will feed. All hunting and fishing rights must be obtained from the landowner involved," said Mr. Phillips.

Channel improvement of streams in the watershed will include the removal of snags, logs and brush to allow faster movement of water in channel. The streams will carry more water, and with the ponds storing excess runoff and releasing it at a rate the streams can carry, flooding will be greatly reduced.

Special Vote

A special registration is required for those landowners in the Dutchman Creek Watershed area. Only owners of more than three acres of land will be eligible to register and vote unless the owner of a smaller tract can prove he sold more than $250 worth of agricultural products. Landowners must own land in the watershed area... which is only land that drains into Dutchman Creek or Cedar Creek.

A special registration period will begin at 9 a.m. on Saturday, April 21, at the Davie County Courthouse, and be held again beginning at 9 a.m. on April 28. Registrars will only be at the courthouse on these two Saturdays. On the days between these two Saturdays, registration books will be kept open at the registrars' home or business from 9 a.m. to sunset.

The referendum for the Dutchman Creek Watershed Improvement District will be held May 5 at the Davie County Courthouse.

THE WATERSHED PROJECT

The Federal Government will spend around a million and a half dollars in Davie County along Dutchman Creek if the watershed referendum on May 5th receives a favorable vote.

The supervisors of the Middle Yadkin Soil Conservation District have ordered that a referendum and registration of voters be held among the landowners of the proposed Dutchman Creek Watershed. The vote will be to provide a self-assessment for the landowners to provide for the operation and maintenance of the dams, to keep the stream channels cleared out, and the brush controlled along the channels.

Only owners of more than three acres of land will be eligible to vote unless the owner of a smaller tract can prove that he sold more than $250 worth of agricultural products. Landowners must own the land in the watershed area, which is the area that drains into Dutchman and Cedar Creeks.

In creating the watershed district, the area along Dutchman Creek will be cleaned from end to the other and approximately 15 to 20 dams and lakes will be constructed from one end to the other and approximately 15 to 20 dams and lakes will be constructed to control the water in the area. This will mean much to the agricultural economy in Davie County and help prevent

PATRIOT'S DAY

The bells of Mocksville will join those of the rest of the nation on Patriot's Day, April 19, as a declaration of America's unity of purpose the Davie County Post No. 174 of the American Legion has announced.

With the cooperation of three other organizations here, The American Legion will observe Patriots' Day, April 19, with the ringing of bells for four minutes, beginning at 1 p.m.

The observance has been planned by a local committee consisting of representatives of Rotary, Lions, Jaycees, in addition to Davie County Post No. 174 and its auxiliary.

The committee asks all residents — every man, woman, and child — to pause from their daily tasks as the bells begin to ring and reflect on their many blessings as Americans. While the bells are ringing, it would indeed be appropriate to repeat our Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag of the United States.

The observance in Mocksville will coincide with those of thousands of other cities, towns, and villages throughout the nation where church bells, school bells, carillons, chimes, etc., will ring out in unison, giving a dramatic emphasis to America's declaration of national unity.

Mayor D. J. Mando has proclaimed April 19 as Patriot's Day in Mocksville, calling upon all residents to give appropriate observance to the day which commemorates the Battles of Lexington and Concord and the famous ride of Paul Revere. Mayor Mando joined with the local observance committee in asking all residents to display the American Flag on April 19.

This close cooperation and assistance given by all who have consented to participate in this patriotic endeavor gives further significance to the great spirit of unity which is America. Everyone in this community is urged to give this observance the momentary pause and reflection which will contribute not only to the success of the demonstration of our dynamic conviction of Americanism, but also will make our priceless heritage more meaningful to us.

TRAFFIC VIOLATORS

We've often said that "law breakers are accident makers," and now there's reliable proof to back it up.

In a report coming out of the State Department of Motor Vehicles there is good evidence that disregard of the traffic laws is commonplace among the state's two million licensed drivers.

In a column marked "Important circumstances and conditions," the agency's traffic experts show that 78 percent of North Carolina's 80,000 wrecks last year were caused by drivers who violated a traffic law.

The same experts have said time and again that a definite relationship exists between traffic violations and traffic accidents. This fact, we suspect, is about the only thing that will tend to convince law-breakers of the error of their ways.

An "anything goes if you can get away with it" attitude poses a grave problem to traffic safety people. It's an obvious impossibility for state troopers to patrol every mile of every road all the time. And people of this type aren't going to obey the rules when they're not being watched.

The result is that these problem children of the highways are causing traffic accidents every working day and Sunday.

What they fail to understand is that nobody gets away with highway lawlessness indefinitely. If the troopers don't catch up with them, the law of averages assuredly will. They always take just one chance too many and wind up in a wreck of their own making.

Drivers should realize that traffic laws are on their side and should know and obey them. It's a moral responsibility to do so.

Yet may otherwise substantial citizens lay aside this morality and treat traffic laws casually, even ignore them when it's inconvenient to comply.

If anyone had an easy solution to this problem, our traffic death rate would fall appreciably. So far, though, there's no prospect of anyone painlessly injecting a sense of responsibility into drivers. Instead we'll have to rely on the tried and true methods of education and enforcement.

If such drivers can be persuaded one way or the other that they are likely to suffer because of their irresponsible conduct, maybe they'll act more intelligently behind the wheel.

Editorial Briefs

WASHINGTON — Elisabethville, the capital of Katanga, has streets literally paved with copper, the National Geographic Magazine says. Pressed-slag paving blocks from near-by mines contain traces of the metal. Unlike many mining boom towns, Elisabethville followed a planned development, with neat houses, inviting shops, shady streets, and flower beds.

The first test of federal power, the Whiskey Rebellion, came while Washington was president. In 1794, reports World Book Encyclopedia, Washington sent troops to crush the uprising by Pennsylvania farmers who refused to pay a federal tax on whiskey.

George Washington sympathized with the taxpayer even as he recognized the need for taxes, according to World Book Encyclopedia. In his Farewell Address, Washington lamented, "...no taxes can be devised which are not more or less inconvenient and unpleasant..."

Washington had only seven or eight years of formal education, World Book Encyclopedia reveals, but in his Farewell Address he advised the nation to "promote institutions for the general diffusion of knowledge."

SENATOR SAM ERVIN SAYS:

WASHINGTON — A study just released by the Tobacco Division of the U. S. Department of Agriculture has important implications for North Carolina and U. S. tobacco growers. According to the March, 1962, study the new external duty rate on unmanufactured U. S. tobacco levied by the European Common Market has been increased by one third over the 1958 rate. This is a 28 percent ad valorem rate with a maximum effective rate of 17.2 cents per pound and a minimum of 13.2 cents per pound. The report states, "The rate in itself is higher than the 1958 rate and contains a bias in favor of lower priced tobaccos which was not in the specific duties of individual (EEC) member countries. The old specific rates ranged from 20¢ in France and Italy to 19.3 cents per pound in Germany. The average incidence in 1958 on tobacco from the U. S. was equivalent to 19.3 per cent ad valorem compared with about 25.8 percent under the new rate. Tobacco from member countries will have duty free access to other member countries. Tobaccos from the associated areas of Greece and Africa will also enter duty free into all Common Market countries. Europe has been a market for U. S. tobacco for about 350 years. Flue cured tobacco is by far the most important U. S. export. The United States exports about 100 million pounds of flue cured annually to the 'Six' (Germany, Netherlands, Belgium, Luxembourg, France, Italy). The crux of the problem can be summed up with the fact that under the new tariff imposed by the European Common Market, U. S. tobacco will face a duty considerably higher than it did in 1958, and tobacco from EEC member countries and associates (Greece and African areas) will have no duty to pay. The study concludes that "unless the United States is successful in negotiating further reductions (in EEC tariff), it is likely to experience a decreasing share of an increasing tobacco market."

Committee Activities

Activities before the Congressional Committees continue to command a large portion of my time and that of other Senators. The Subcommittee on Constitutional Rights has resumed its hearings on literacy requirements for voting standards. The Senate Armed Services Special Preparedness Subcommittee last week received testimony on military censorship from Army Major General Edwin A. Walker. The so-called Tax Revision Bill is currently being studied by the Senate Finance Committee. Testimony has begun before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on the provisions of the 1962 Foreign Aid Bill.

Federal Deficit

A recent study by the highly respected Senate - House Committee staff on Internal Revenue Taxation concludes that next year's Federal Budget will show a deficit of nearly $4.3 billion forecast in January by the Budget Bureau. The Congress should give careful attention to the warning of the Joint Committee as it proceeds with the appropriations bills yet to be considered.

N. C. Princess

It was my privilege on April 4 to present Miss Shirley Jane Webb, of Shelby, as a member of the Cherry Blossom Court, which included Princesses from the 50 states. She is a worthy representative of our State. She is endowed with those qualities of grace and dignity which long have been associated with the young ladies of North Carolina.

Uncle Dave From Davie Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

The fellers at the country store Saturday night was wondering if you'd get that letter off to our Congressman about them Chinese feathers. In case you ain't dispatched it yet, some of them wanted a item or two added to it.

Ed Doolittle allowed as how them bureaucrats in Washington has wore him down and brain-washed him complete on the idea we got to have one taxpayer for every tax-payer in the country. If we can just hold this one-for-one ratio, claims Ed, we can keep the national budget unbalanced till judgement day. You can't explore new frontiers, says Ed, with a balanced budget. And he says he'll go along with the one-for-one system that calls for ever officer holder to have a assistant, and for ever assistant to have a helper, and for ever helper to have a 30 hour week, post to port pay, retirement benefits at 50, a month's vacation on a year with full pay, and a "fact - finding" pleasure trip around the world from time to time.

Farthermore, says Ed, he ain't arising a finger agin that million dollar grant the tax-payers give them science fellers to study if baby monkeys loves their mothers. But Ed is pritty upset over the fact that four months has gone by and we ain't had no report on this monkey-love project. Ed claims that, fer a million dollars, the tax - eaters ought to be giving the tax-payers a report about onct a month, maybe onct a week, on this matter.

When you send that letter off to Washington, Mister Editor, see if you can git the latest news on this monkey-love project. All the fellers will appreciate it.

Clem Webster said to tell his Congressman he's strong in favor of our stockpiling program. Clem says Sampson did the biggest job of slaughtering till the A-Bomb, and he done it with the jaw bone of a ass. Somewhere between Sampson and the A-Bomb, claims Clem, you'd have to put Senator Byrd for trying to do a jaw bone job on our fine stockpiling program.

Bug Hookum was lamenting one thing about this program. He said he was reading a list of them things we was stockpiling and he was shocked over the absence of one item. Bug said according to the list, we been stockpiling everything from humming bird eggs to grandfather clocks but they ain't a frying pan on the whole list. Bug allows as how the frying pan, next to fire and the wheel, was the greatest invention ever made by man. He wants you to ask his Congressman how come we ain't stockpiling this strategic item. Bug says if war comes he'd rather have one frying pan as a carload of them Chinese feathers.

Yours truly,
Uncle Dave

SO THIS IS NEW YORK
By NORTH CALLAHAN

Harbingers of spring showed in Bryant Park as I walked through this picturesque section of natural beauty set in the midst of the big city. Here between 5th and 6th Avenues and taking up two blocks of priceless land between 40th and 42nd Streets, the pleasant park thus touches on the world's busiest corner. Yet sitting on a bench beneath the plentiful shade trees here and beside the grassy plots which flank the walkways, one can almost forget the hum and bustle of the surrounding city. This restful, valued spot which is flanked on one side by the magnificent New York Public Library is a memorable tribute to the man for whom it is named.

William Cullen Bryant departed this earth 84 years ago, yet his name and influence have played an important part in our literature and journalism for well over a century. His statue stands in Bryant Park and in looking at it, one can well imagine poetic words issuing forth in benign appreciation of this living monument to his memory. He was a New England boy with limited education, although his mother was a descendant of "Mayflower" pilgrims. It is doubted that he could have had more wisdom when he passed on, than that he expressed in his great poem, "Thanatopsis," which means "a view of death." In it he wrote,

So live, than when thy summons comes
To join the innumerable caravan
Which moves
To that mysterious realm,
Where each shall take
His chamber in the silent halls
Of death.
Thou go not, like the quarry-
slave at night,
Scourged to his dungeon; but, sustained
And soothed
By an unfaltering trust, approach
thy grave,
Like one that wraps the drapery
of his couch about him,
And lies down to pleasant dreams.

The poet was a delightful observer of external nature — the splendors of a winter daybreak over the wild waste of snow seen from our windows, the glories of the autumnal woods, the gloomy approaches of the thunderstorm, the return of spring with its flowers. He wanted to die in the month of June—to which he had written a poem — and he did. But Bryant crowded three lives into one before the ending. At 21, he set out late one afternoon to open a law office in Plainfield, Mass. Very much alone, he felt uncertain and sad. Then he remembered his Father's God as he saw His symbol outlined against the opening sky — a waterfowl. From this came his other great poem, containing the words:

He who from zone to zone
Guides through the sky thy certain flight,
In the long way that I must tread alone,
Will lead my steps aright.

Coming to this city a few years later, William Cullen Bryant became a newspaper man and eventually editor of "The Evening Post." For half a century, he helped shape public opinion, became prosperous and renowned and one of the first citizens of New York. Guided by his habit of New England thrift, he invested his newspaper earnings in real estate, and the growth of New York City made him a wealthy man. He had faith in liberty and faith in democracy and was warmly devoted to freedom of the press. Yet he was still at heart the shy poet, so he threw over this sensitive personality a coldness which caused young James Russell Lowell to write about him:

There is Bryant, as quiet and cool and dignified
As a smooth, silent iceberg,
That never is ignifed.

So it is worthy that this city's finest mid-town park should be named Bryant. He campaigned for a central park, for improved police and fire protection and against corrupt politics. His honesty, industry, good sense and moral purpose made him an eminent figure and a credit to American journalism. His dreams were expressed in his poems which speak so vividly of the after-life, and which may be said to epitomize the matchless storehouse of literature in the library within his park. But his thoughts were of this world too. He hoped that this man is moving steadily toward that great day when "love and peace shall make their paradise on earth."

COMPLETELY OUT... Short-ly after we wrote here that the Governor is staying out of the Democratic campaigns here and there about the State, he himself said in a formal statement to the press that he is playing hands off. He particularly referred to the Eighth District.

Then it was that everybody began showing how the Governor could get into a race and, at the same time, stay officially out of it. It was pointed out that almost every chief executive has said he was neutral until the chips were down in the fall between Democrat and Republican.

The slide inference was that the Governor was just talking to hear his head roar in his neutrality statement. Well, in this instance we swing along with the Governor. And, more important, so do the candidates. We happen to know a couple who have been red hot Sanfordites in times past... and he is for them now; but he isn't helping them; is neutral, just as he says; and both of them desperately need help of the kind the Governor can give.

Sanford, just as he says, is not getting into the Congressional races — for fear of hurting the party. That's good sense, too.

NO SUITS... When Francis Meekins had these headlines on a front page story in his "Coastland Times" the other day, we thought things were getting down to the ultra-finals, the bare essentials.

The headlines: "Bathing Suits Are Taken Off At Beauty Meet." It developed that the story was reporting plans for the Miss Dare County beauty contest, and this year they will parade in evening gowns. No bathing suits. And, alas, the Southern Albemarle Association is doing the same. Well, most girls do look much better in evening dresses than bathing suits... but this new Dare approach is some woman's idea. Wanna bet?

DOWN IN ALABAMA... We attach no importance to the recurring rumors that Luther Hodges might come back to North Carolina as a candidate for Governor in 1964.

Nevertheless, the report does point up this fact: We have never had a Governor to serve his full term and then at a later date offer himself as a candidate for the office again. Strange, isn't it?

Down in Alabama it's like it is here: No governor can succeed himself in office. But down there, two governors in the past 35 years have come back for second terms. Bibb Graves did it; and during one of his terms the first, we believe... appointed Mrs. Graves U. S. Senator. Jim Folsom did it, and is now running for his third term. Only in 1940, when we had seven candidates running for Governor, have we approached Alabama's total of eight running this year. And, until a few days ago when one candidate fell by the wayside, they had nine. We had six (Charles M. Johnson, W. K. Scott, R. Mayne Albright, Olla Ray Boyd, Oscar Barker, and W. F. Stanley, Sr.) — candidates for the Democratic nomination in 1948 — but have never had as many as nine. Alabama often has that many.

We asked LaFayette Patterson, Raleigh resident and an uncle of the present governor of Alabama, why it is that they have so many more candidates for Governor down there than we do up here. Since he is a former Congressman (population loss cost him his District) from Alabama, he knows whereof he speaks.

"Down in Alabama," he says, "one man — even if there are six or eight running — stands about as good chance as another of being elected Governor of the State. In North Carolina, it has never been that way. Here, it has always been among three — and, mostly, between two candidates." Mr. Patterson is right. We have had our Barker's, McRae's, Grady's, Gravelly's and Albright's, but they were recognized as mere also-rans when they announced. We haven't had wide open Democracy — in our party here as they have in Alabama. But, nevertheless, much better government.

CARS... Chevrolet is first (1,081), Ford is second (1,239), Pontiac is third (1,189), and Buick is fourth (1,123) in new car sales in North Carolina since January 1.

In fifth place is Falcon (1,112).

In sixth is Oldsmobile (1,045). The next four are as follows: Rambler (835); Corvair (728); Plymouth (478), and Dodge (455).

Reports say that General Motors is not particularly pleased that it has this year such a lion's share of nationwide new car business. It would like to see Chrysler, down pitifully this season, do better. The worry? Bob Kennedy. The fear? Too big. The trouble? Too popular in 62.

LETTERS... With the Democratic Primary a scant six weeks away, it is only natural for letters to the editor (those gems of wisdom) to wax poetic on this or that candidate. To wit: "John Doe is a fine man... and we agree heartily with him when he says..."

Well, the place for such advertising is in advertisements, not in letters to the editor, so says the News-Record, published in politico conscious Madison County by the Story family. They ran an interesting article in their paper last week about the praise-letters, pointing out in no uncertain terms that the writers were fooling nobody but themselves and henceforth the compliments should be run as ads or not at all.

With some folks, the local paper is fair game for any trick going. The Story's, originally from down east, have been up west for more than a generation now and know their politics from both sides of the fence.

WEIMAR JONES... An up-and-coming after dinner speaker is Weimar Jones, editor of the Franklin Press in Macon County, and former president of the N. C. Press Association. He recently spoke to the N. Y. Press Association. Jones will be a featured speaker at the 60th annual convention of the N. C. Merchants Association in Charlotte on May 22.

Theme: Fame Does Not Come By Chance
TEXT: "True fame will never be Chance's gift."—Solon.

An author, telling his life story admitted, "It took me ten years of hard work to discover that I had absolutely no talent for writing literature."

"Then," asked his friend, "you gave up?"

"Oh, no," replied the author, "by that time I was too famous."

Whether we admit it or not, we all desire fame. That is human. We would like to go to sleep and awaken the next day—famous! The fault with this wish is that all we want to do before becoming famous is to sleep. Fame doesn't come that way. We must do some thing to gain it.

Lord Byron who said, "I awoke one morning to find myself famous" had written verses and had them published. He found himself famous because something he created had been recognized. Charles Sumner said, "No true and permanent fame can be founded except in labors who promote the happiness of mankind."

If you would achieve fame you must labor for it. Longfellow wrote, "Fame comes only when deserved, and then is as inevitable as destiny, for it is destiny."

Men simply do not awake and find themselves famous. Those who do have not been asleep. Copyright 1960 Fred Dodge

LAWNS

We have many calls during the early spring and summer months from people that are having trouble with their lawns. Probably 90 per cent of this trouble is caused by mowing the lawns too close. Most of the grasses that are recommended for lawns at the present time will not tolerate real close mowing over a period of years. Bermuda grass will stand fairly close mowing. Zoysia also is tolerant to close mowing, but at present we have very little of the Zoysia grass in the county. These two grasses can be mowed from one to two inches and, if fertilized adequately, will stay in the lawn, but it is much better to mow fescue two to four inches, and if fescue lawns are mowed closer than two inches annual grasses will take over in a very few years, and in some cases you will completely kill out fescue lawns the first year when mowing two inches and under, and also have more diseases in the lawn. All lawnmowers should be set from two to four inches. There is less danger in hitting rocks and other objects, injuring people when mowing at this height, and advantages of controlling the many lawn diseases that we have at present. The only disadvantage in mowing two to four inches is that lawns will recover from mowing quicker, and you will have to mow the lawn a couple of times more each season.

Farmers Reminded of Deadlines
April 30, 1962, is the final date for making application for a wool incentive payment for wool sold from April 1, 1961, through March 31, 1962.

The Wool Incentive Program is authorized under the National Wool Act of 1954. The program is run on an annual basis and the end of the 1961 program is March 31. However, farmers have 30 days after the end of the year to make application for incentive payments. Farmers who sold wool and unshorn lambs during the 1961 marketing year will have until the end of April to apply for payments under this program, and these payments will be made some time this summer.

The incentive program encourages farmers to grow more wool in order to increase production, and in order to be eligible for a payment the producer must present his sales documents and sign an application for payment. The sales documents must show the net sales proceeds, including deductions for freight and other marketing charges. They must also show the date of sale, complete name and address of the buyer and seller and be signed by the buyer.

April 15, 1962, is the closing date for seeding pastures and hay crops this Spring. Farmers who get the practices completed by this date are urged to report the practice as soon as possible. Farmers who did not get the seeding completed by this date because of weather conditions should stop by our office and either have the practice cancelled or extended to fall.

Davie High Latin Club

Holds Roman Banquet

By JANE MANDO
Friday, April 13, Davie County Romans attended their annual banquet in the Davie High School cafeteria. Approximately 65 first and second year students and five guests attended the banquet held in honor of Emperor Julius Caesar (Ellis Leagans) and Empress Cleopatra (Jane Mando). After the outdoor games of archery, shot-put, and discus throwing, the Romans entered the royal dining hall. The dining hall was decorated by Jane Redden and her decoration committee, with ivy and blossoming spring flowers which are typical of early court life in Rome.

When the Emperor and Empress were seated, the program began. Each subject presented himself before Caesar and Cleopatra. Then the Roman Censura or Roman feast was served by the freshman class who were slaves. Everyone enjoyed the meal of barbecue, slaw, potato salad, and the traditional Roman foods, eggs, celery, and apples. During the meal, slave dancers led by sophomore Kathy Grimes, entertained with Roman dances which included the Fire Dance, Moon Dance, and the Flea Dance. Gaye Hoos also entertained as she mingled among the tables and told fortunes by reading palms.

Following the meal, the indoor games were led by Tony Lively. During the games, both boys and girls demonstrated their skills in sword fighting and wrestling. Then Connie Gardner, Angela Andrews, Amelia Marklin, Helen Grant, and Mike Rothrock gave a resident jumbling exhibition. Costume judging was held following the games. The judges, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Leagans, and Miss Betty Zimmerman, chose Mike Wagner as best Roman man, Jane Mando as best Roman woman, and Mike Rothrock as best slave. The winners each received a silver dollar.

Special recognition was given by Ellis Leagans to Mrs. Fred Roseman, Latin teacher, and club advisor, for her hard work in preparing for the banquet, and to D. F. Stillwell for his cooperation.

The climax of the evening was the exciting slave auction. Auctioneer Steve Leary sold the freshmen to the sophomores for a nickel a day. A total of 24 slaves were sold. Following the slave auction and the saying of the Junior Classical League creed, 65 enthusiastic Romans started toward home.

Rotarians Told Of History Of Nations

The ten step history of nations was outlined to members of the Mocksville Rotary Club on Tuesday by John Piliand, District Farm Agent. These steps were as follows:

"From bondage—to spiritual faith—to courage—to liberty—to abundance—to selfishness to complacency—to apathy—to back in bondage."

Mr. Piliand said that in his opinion "this country now stands at the abundance phase. I hope that we will not fall into the final steps that will lead us back into bondage."

Mr. Piliand discussed the Land Grant College act as a way for everyone to go to school and get a real education. He pointed out that through education man had been relieved of the drudgery of making a living out of the soil—and allowed many to pursue other fields of knowledge and other professions.

Leo Williams had charge of the program and introduced Mr. Piliand. President Gordon Tomlinson presided.

Joe Patner expressed the thanks of the Mocksville Rotary Club to Jeff Caudell and the Caudell Lumber Company for a new rostrum that was made for the Rotary Hut.

Special guests included Al McCoy of Philadelphia; Wayne Smith and Bill Westbrook of Mocksville; Vic Obenshain of Tennessee; Mac McCoy of Raleigh; and Tommy Daywalt, student guest.

Mr. Rotarian

It was in April of 1945 that the Mocksville Rotary Club was chartered. One of the 29 chartered members was Phil J. Johnson.

Since that April of 17-years ago, the Mocksville Rotary Club has held more than 884 meetings. Gaining credit for attendance at all of these meetings of Rotary was Phil Johnson.

There were times when Mr. Phil had to be out of town—but he took the time and the effort to make up the attendance at a Rotary meeting where-ever he was. There were many times during this period that Mr. Phil didn't physically feel like attending Rotary—but he made the effort and was there.

As of today—Mr. Phil has the only record of perfect attendance in the Mocksville Rotary Club. During the past seventeen years he has been credited with attending each and every meeting.

This week it was feared that this string was to come to an end. Physical affliction made it necessary that Mr. Phil enter the Lynn Haven Nursing Home for treatment. Being unable to walk, it was feared that he would have to miss his first Rotary meeting.

But those who thought so did not reckon with the courage, fortitude and loyalty of Mr. Phil. At 12 o'clock noon Tuesday as the Rotarians were gathered and were preparing to send Mr. Phil a card telling him how much he was missed—in rolled Mr. Phil in a wheelchair. Sitting through all of the meeting, he kept his perfect attendance record intact.

There were tears in the eyes of many as the members of the Mocksville Rotary Club gave Mr. Phil an ovation—a compliment to a man that certainly merits his title of—MR. ROTARIAN.

The committee has requested that all residents... every man, woman, and child... pause from their daily tasks as the bells begin to ring and reflect on their many blessings as Americans. It was pointed out that while the bells are ringing it would indeed be appropriate to repeat the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag of the United States.

The observance in Mocksville will coincide with those of thousands of other cities, towns, and villages throughout the nation where church bells, school bells, carillons, chimes, etc., will ring out in unison, giving a dramatic emphasis to America's declaration of national unity.

Federal Assistance Provided Under Dutchman Watershed Plan

However, Plans Belongs Entirely To Local People

Under the Watershed and Flood Protection Act, federal assistance is provided to local communities that organize to combat their soil and water problems.

"The project belongs entirely to the local people and not to the federal or state government", says C. W. Phillips, Soil Conservation Supervisor.

"We have an informal watershed association made up of landowners in the flood plain, but the organization does not have legal powers to receive federal funds and let contracts for this work. Until the landowners setup such an organization—one through which we can legally manage such local affairs. The federal government cannot grant us money for the work", Mr. Phillips explained.

Mr. Phillips pointed out that the local people with the assistance of state and federal agencies plan number of dams, channel improvement and other control measures. The people in the watershed will decide whether the proposed plan is acceptable. The May 5th vote is not for approval of a watershed plan, as none has been developed. Landowners will have a chance to approve or disapprove this plan when it is completed. The watershed plan cannot be made until the legal organization is setup.

Mr. Phillips said that the landowners of the Dutchman Creek Watershed have been working towards a solution to the flooding since about three years ago when R. B. Cornelson of Mocksville Rt. 2 suggested that we do something about the floodwaters covering the bottomlands from hill to hill. The federal government pays all cost of building dams and doing the channel work needed to help control flood.

"We will have to provide easements for the work, contract for the work and help supervise it, and take care of it after it is established. Assessment for the maintenance will be determined by the board of trustees elected by those in the watershed if the district is approved by the voters", said Mr. Phillips.

Benefitted Lands
"Only those lands that are benefitted can be assessed to cover the cost of operation and maintenance and only to the extent they are benefitted", he stressed.

Mr. Phillips pointed out that things that must be taken into consideration are fertility of the soil, how close the land is to the creek, how wet the land is, how close the land is to dam and stream channel, how often it is damaged by floods, whether it is cropland, pasture or woodland. Assessments need not be made every year and can vary in relation to the cost maintenance. It is estimated that the total annual maintenance for this entire watershed will be from $5,000 to $6,000.

"If the landowners will keep trash out of the drain tubes in canis, keep a good grass sod the dams, keep brush control along their stream channel, the total cost would be greatly reduced", says Mr. Phillips.

With flood damages over $60,000 each year, for each dollar paid for the upkeep of the project by landowners in the flood plain they will receive a benefit of $10 each year.

Only owners of more than 3 acres of land will be eligible to vote, unless he sold more than $250 worth of agricultural products last year. Landowners must own land in the watershed area—that is land that drains into Cedar or Dutchman Creek. Mr. Phillips pointed out that landowners on the upland are just as much a part of the watershed program as those in the flood plain.

"It would be foolish to build dams and clear channels that would soon be choked with silt if erosion remains unchecked on the uplands", said Mr. Phillips.

In an approved watershed, additional technical and financial aid is furnished to treat critical eroded areas or gullies on the upland. Roadbanks are shaped and seeded. Assistance is given in applying other erosion control measures such as strip-cropping, hayland and pasture planting, terraces, ponds, tree planting and open ditch drainage. All of these measures are important to the well-balanced watershed program.

Registration for the referendum will be at the Davie County Courthouse on April 21st and 28th. The referendum will be held May 5th at the Davie County Courthouse.

Funds For Cancer Drive To Be Sought

A House to House canvass for funds for the 1962 Cancer Crusade will be held on Monday night, April 30, with local volunteers conducting the canvass.

Letters are also being sent out over the county asking for contributions. Also, coin containers have been placed in the business establishments over the area.

This year's quota is $1,000. It is hoped that this goal can be reached, according to Paul York, chairman of the Davie County Unit of the American Cancer Society.

Our deeds determine us, as much as we determine our deeds.

SO THIS IS NEW YORK

By NORTH CALLAHAN

With so many other kinds of weeks in the year, it is refreshing to note the beginning of Laughter Week on April Fool's Day. "Man is distinguished from all other creatures by the faculty of laughter", Joseph Addison wrote 2½ centuries ago. Even that gloomy philosopher, Nietzsche, admitted that "Man alone suffers so excruciatingly in the world that he was compelled to invent laughter." This was supposed to be why king's kept fools or jesters to make them laugh away their cares. The greatest writer of them all, Shakespeare, stated that "The little foolery that wise men have, makes a great show." So bring on bright April.

After a recent storm which took its windy toll of parsnips, I stopped in, patriotically enough it seems, at the Uncle Sam Umbrella Shop in Manhattan to have my own repaired. It is one of the most interesting little stores in town. There Norman Simon, 45-year-old descendant of four generations of Old World craftsmen, holds forth in a sort of half-humorous, tolerant way. Not only does his shop repair umbrellas, but he has a collection which includes one that belonged to George Washington, duly authenticated, which he values at $2,000. It is a large, black umbrella like that in the Smithsonian Museum, and of course by now is in a rather fragile condition. A cane of the same vintage has a wooden face of Washington, carved by a disgruntled trooper at Valley Forge, showing the commander-in-chief in a bilious frowning mood, rather funny at that. Norman also has swordsticks containing sharp, business-like blades, and some such in the past have had guns concealed within them. He has an umbrella with a built-in music box which plays "How Dry I Am." Norman believes every man should carry a cane. "It makes walking easier," he says, "because you can't put your hands in your pockets. If you carry a cane, you can never become round-shouldered." Another item in stock is cat-o-nine-tails, those almost legendary whips. A lively business in these fairs has developed and one man comes in every week to buy one. Still another customer brought in a swordstick with a broken blackjack attached, to be repaired. Asked about the use of these bizarre items, Norman replied that he simply is in this business and never asks questions.

American folk music is riding the crest of a great wave of urban popularity. Singers of folk songs pack small night spots such as the New City and Vanguard clubs here and the Gate of Horn in Chicago. The ardent, young members of the audience not only listen, they join in and pick and sing. From these groups grow individual entertainers who blossom out into other centers of this simple but tuneful music.

Not only are the Americans popular, but those from Europe, especially the Scotch, seem to catch on with a remarkable welcome, a number of them composing their own songs, spontaneously at times, as in the olden days of the balladeers and minneingers. The songs range from religious to ribaldous, some of the better ones of them like those my mother sang to me all too many years ago. Sweet and sad, happy and tragic, they apparently are a resurgence of the musical voice of a people, ringing out in rapid expression of their varied cycle of life.

son out into other centers of this simple but tuneful music. Not only are the Americans popular, but those from Europe, especially the Scotch, seem to catch on with a remarkable welcome, a number of them composing their own songs, spontaneously at times, as in the olden days of the balladeers and minneingers. The songs range from religious to ribaldous, some of the better ones of them like those my mother sang to me all too many years ago. Sweet and sad, happy and tragic, they apparently are a resurgence of the musical voice of a people, ringing out in rapid expression of their varied cycle of life.

After a recent storm which took its windy toll of parsnips, I stopped in, patriotically enough it seems, at the Uncle Sam Umbrella Shop in Manhattan to have my own repaired. It is one of the most interesting little stores in town. There Norman Simon, 45-year-old descendant of four generations of Old World craftsmen, holds forth in a sort of half-humorous, tolerant way. Not only does his shop repair umbrellas, but he has a collection which includes one that belonged to George Washington, duly authenticated, which he values at $2,000. It is a large, black umbrella like that in the Smithsonian Museum, and of course by now is in a rather fragile condition. A cane of the same vintage has a wooden face of Washington, carved by a disgruntled trooper at Valley Forge, showing the commander-in-chief in a bilious frowning mood, rather funny at that. Norman also has swordsticks containing sharp, business-like blades, and some such in the past have had guns concealed within them. He has an umbrella with a built-in music box which plays "How Dry I Am." Norman believes every man should carry a cane. MUST 2,000 CHILDREN BE SENTENCED TO DEATH EACH YEAR?

Leukemia is a great child-killer. Yet scientists insist this disease must be conquerable.

When sixty die of cancer, one is a child. Because leukemia is so grimly fatal, the American Cancer Society diverts one out of six of its research dollars to a search for a cure or preventive for this dread malady.

Will anyone say this is wrong?

Out of research supported by the American Cancer Society
Your dollars help make this possible. Send them now to Miss Cornelia Hendricks, Treasurer, Box 344, Mocksville. American Cancer Society

Society have come temporary arresters for leukemia. Some scientists are hopeful that a vaccine against this disease will be developed.

If a tiny victim can be kept alive for just a little bit longer, the "insulin" for this cancer of the blood-forming tissues may yet be developed.

J. C. Jones Urges The Support of-

THE DUTCHMAN CREEK WATERSHED

(Editor's Note—J. C. Jones is the manager of the Davie Electric Membership Corporation and a life-long resident of Davie County. He has written the following article concerning the proposed Dutchman's Creek Watershed project).

Water! Water! Water!

I believe that one must see parts of Arabia, North Africa, Mexico, and our own southwest to really appreciate what water means. Without water no life exists.

We here in Davie County are blessed with a bountiful supply of water at present but with no guarantee that it will always be that way. The South Yadkin River on the west and south, the North Yadkin River on the east. Three sides of our county bounded by rather large rivers. Flowing from the north to the southeast completely through our county: Hunting Creek, Bear Creek, and Dutchman's Creek with all their tributaries. Bountiful supply, yes! In fact so bountiful that it is a problem or at least it's uncontrolled movement is a problem.

It is a problem that we have long recognized but up until now have done nothing about. Why? Simply because as individuals there was nothing that we could do, and up until now we have neglected for various reasons, mainly financial, to do anything collectively. Now we have an opportunity, a golden opportunity, in my judgment to do something to at least make a start—a start toward a goal; that goal being the complete control of our precious water. The complete control of the erosion of our beautiful rolling land enabling us to completely utilize these second and third of our greatest natural resources.

We, the people, were first and then even now dependent upon our water and our land. We have seen in just twenty (20) short years the almost complete passing from our economy the small family size farm and that trend is going to move ahead at an accelerated pace in my opinion. We are fast becoming an industrialized area. Our people are going to the surrounding industries for their livelihood. When will the industries come to them? Soon, sooner than we think. With them will come people, people, and more people.

Are we ready for them? No, we are not, and it is high time that we started getting ready. We can build larger schools, larger hospitals, etc. upon short notice, but control our water and our land is a time consuming undertaking.

Dutchman's Creek Watershed Improvement District—What does that mean to you?

From some of the talk that I have heard around here, I am afraid that it doesn't mean near enough. Dutchman's Creek flows completely through our county and its tributaries lie thousands and thousands of acres of fertile land. The people who own this land even in its present condition report that the uncontrolled movement of water causes yearly damages and losses of hundreds of thousands of dollars. Add these losses to the gains that would be made by the controlled flow of this water and you come up with something in which everyone is interested.

I travel through Yadkin, Davidson, Rowan and Iredell counties. I see land comparable to what lies along Dutchman Creek and its tributaries that is producing 125 bushels of corn per acre or the most luscious growth of pasture grass that was only a few short years ago producing nothing but button bushes and bull rush. I have asked myself on many occasions: Why? Why can't we do that over in Davie County? Now we can, and I want you to know that we should not let this opportunity get away from us. We should grasp it now. I do not know enough myself to go into detail as to procedure with you. You go see your Soil Conservation Agent or your County Farm Agent. They will be glad to go into it in detail with you.

I do know that everyone who owns as much as three (3) acres of land upon which the rain falls and runs off into Dutchman Creek is eligible to cast a vote upon this matter. Just where is that? You figure that out. The rain which falls on the Depot side of the stop light on the square in Mocksville runs into Dutchman Creek and what falls on the Sanford Store side runs into Bear Creek. Think about that. The Dutchman's Creek Watershed is the very heart of Davie County.

In my opinion, there is one thousand or more land owners in that watershed. Let me beg you to go to the Courthouse in Mocksville on Saturday, April 21st or Saturday, April 28th, and I understand that you will be able to register at other places during the week; however, I do not know where, anyway you get registered, and then on Saturday, May 5th, go vote in favor of forming the Dutchman's Creek Watershed Improvement District. You may never have the $1,500,000 offered to you for this work again.

Just what is my interest? I have been working for your rural people in this county since you plowed your cotton on 1933. I served upon your County Committee for both cotton and tobacco up until the end of 1938...all through the hectic A.A.A. days. I have never and will never hesitate to get into any controversy where I think the general welfare of this county and its people are concerned. I may not always be on the winning side, but I'll be there. I now work for the Davie Electric Membership Corporation (REA) that serves almost all the rural sections in the Dutchman's Creek Watershed...and what's good for those members is good for this business and it's good for everyone else in Davie County.

Get behind it, please. We simply cannot afford to lose this one.

CANCER PROGRESS YEAR

The American Cancer Society and the National Cancer Institute have designated 1962 as Cancer Progress Year in an effort to point up the advances made against cancer in the last 25 years.

While they cannot offer anything as spectacular as the man in space science has given us, they can show, in human terms, dramatic and remarkable results. Twenty-five years ago about 160,000 persons were alive, cured of cancer. Today there are more than 1,100,000. The number is increasing each day.

The cure rate for cancer climbed from one out of seven, in the late 1930's to one out of three in the late 1950's. Today, according to the Society, it could be one out of two if all cancers were diagnosed early and treated promptly.

While the final conquest of cancer is not in sight, the Society and the Institute can take great satisfaction in their uphill struggle. In 1962 some 42,000 men, women and children will be saved from cancer who would have died had they developed the disease 10 years ago. This is indeed compelling reason for all to join in observing Cancer Progress Year.

Among the goals of Cancer Progress Year are, "to intensify the efforts being made to persuade the public to act for its own protection, to improve the care of the cancer patient, and to step up all programs to speed the final victory over cancer." Final victory will come from the laboratory, and while today we are in the midst of the most massive research attack ever launched against a disease, there is still great need for expanding the cancer research effort.

These are worthy goals. The best way to observe Cancer Progress Year is to have a health checkup and to make a contribution to the American Cancer Society's April Crusade.

WHAT DO YOU SAY TO A KID WHO CAN'T WALK?

For her, learning to walk is hard, hard work. Sometimes she cries.

Usually you can josh her along. But words don't always help. So you love her—until she gets her fight back. Then she's ready to try again.

Love is one of three things that help a crippled child walk. The other two are skill and money.

We've found people with love and skill to give, like the Easter Seal therapist in the picture.

We're looking to you for the money. Not a lot—just enough to put one kid one day closer to walking.

SENATOR SAM ERVIN SAYS:

WASHINGTON—This is the season when everyone is very cognizant of taxes. The Internal Revenue Code of 1954, 1012 pages in length, contains the federal tax laws. The Senate Finance Committee is considering the tax revision bill (HR 10650) which contains some 240 pages amending the 1954 Internal Revenue Code. Earlier this year I stopped in Edenton and was reminded that the independence of our country arose out of the question of taxation. Rarely does a change in tax law produce agreement on what is an equitable tax provision. The proposed changes are no exception. A steady stream of witnesses is appearing daily before the Senate Finance Committee to give testimony on the tax amendments. As passed by the House on March 28, the major provision of HR 10650 grants a seven percent investment tax credit to business enterprises. At the same time other provisions have been drafted to offset this revenue loss. These provide stricter regulations for taxing overseas earnings, modify existing tax deductions for entertainment expenses, increase taxation of mutual insurance companies, cooperatives, and various savings institutions, provide for the withholding of twenty percent of dividends and most forms of interest at their source with certain exemptions for persons anticipating no tax liability, and provide tax deductions for costs of lobbying before the government which directly affect a taxpayer's business.

TAX POLICY—There are large considerations and judgments which will soon have to be made in the field of appropriations and taxation at the Federal level. My view on this subject might be summed up in this way. I think we are going to have to have two things occur before this country can get its financial house in order. First, is that the people of the country are going to have to exercise some restraint in demanding that the federal government make so many grants to the states and embark on so many federal programs. Second, I think that Congress itself is going to have to begin to exercise restraint in this field. I am not aware of any present power that will restrain Congress except either a demand by the people that Congress exercise prudence, or that a Constitutional amendment be enacted which will require the federal government to live within its revenues. The unpleasant alternative is that of oppressive taxation for the generations yet unborn.

(Editor's Note . . . This is one of a series of articles on bad drivers of North Carolina. The following is a summarized case history of a North Carolina driver. Other cases will follow.)

(Case History 823) North Carolina male, age 23. Since 1959 twelve known Motor Vehicle Department regulation violations, including speeding five times, violation of stop sign or light four times, one accident and improper passing. License suspended twice for 60 days each. Violations occurred two in 1959, six in 1960, three in 1961 and already one conviction in 1962. The insured is considered a bad risk as his record indicates, but an insurance company is required to carry the individual and pay claims which other drivers and policyholders must help pay for under North Carolina insurance statutes. Watch out - this may be the next driver you approach.

Uncle Dave From Davie Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

I see by the papers where President Kennedy and our lawmakers are engaged in the usual parring contest over a number of bills up for debate. I been thinking for a long time we ought to quit calling it our Capitol and refer to it as our Bowling Alley On The Potomac. In ever administration as long back as I can recollect, the President has been setting 'em up at one end and them Congressmen has been trying to knock 'em down at the other.

Ed Doolittle says the way the President and the Congress tries to sneak up on each other with certain legislation reminds him of a feller gitting ready to throw a brick at a cat. The feller makes like he don't see the cat, the cat makes but the feller is watching the cat like a hawk watching a chicken, and the cat watching the feller like Zeke Grubb's preacher watching the collection plate.

With all this hauling and pulling going on, it's no wonder the voters back home has a hard time separating the statesmen from the politicians along the Potomac. Somebody said once the difference between a statesman and a politician was the statesman tries to make history and the politician tries to rewrite it. It seems to me what we been gitting lately is mostly a rewrite job.

For instant, I was reading last week where one Senator told the Congress taxes has gone as high in this country as it's safe for them to go. Now I'd call that Senator a statesman. If he can't see taxes p'rmnent at any level, he has made history. But, for overcausing such treason, he'll git thrown in the dog house by the politicians afore Congress adjourns.

We was discussing these matters at the country store Saturday night and the fellers was all agreed that television has spoiled our politicians. Clem Webster allowed as how, when he as a boy, a politician would git up at the meeting and give you some old fashioned, long-tail oratory, put on a spell-binder for two or three hours. Like the hoop skirt of them days, says Clem, his speech covered everything and touched nothing. But now-a-days, he claims, they git up and give you 10 minutes between soap commercials. And the speech still don't touch nothing, says Clem.

Well, Mister Editor, I see where things has got so big in the Pentagon building that the Government Printing Office has had to put out a special telephone directory for that one building. The piece said the directory had 200 pages and listed over 10,000 telephones. And I'll bet they ain't a party line in the house.

Yours truly,
Uncle Dan

It pays to advertise

VITAL VITTLES . . . Bob Gavin, the Lee County gentleman who did so well in 1960 as the Republican candidate for Governor, is at it again.

This time his opponent will not be Terry Sanford, but one very close to the State Administration. Gavin has decided to run against the winner in the Democratic Primary May 28 . . . for the Lee House seat.

Harvey Faulk is opposing Shelton Wicker in the Primary — and Gavin has filed as the Republican candidate for the fall election. In all probability it will be Wicker vs Gavin. The interesting thing about it is that Wicker was chairman of the House Finance Committee in the 1961 Legislature. He carried the ball for the Governor on the food tax.

Sanford has said publicly he will go to bat if necessary this fall for candidates who have trouble with the tax on food. So you may see Sanford and Gavin going at each other again in Lee County late this year as they did statewide two years ago.

P.S. Lee County usually goes Democratic by about four to one. If it does much worse than that this time put down victuals' taxes as the prime reason. Gavin is sure to push hard on this pedal . . . with big help.

NO FOOD FIGHT . . . But with the exception of Lee County, Stanley County, and about four other spots in the State — not more than a half dozen in all — the sales tax on food will not be an issue this spring.

The legislative filing date came and went April 13 at noon . . . and a goodly sprinkling of the 1961 General Assembly members who led in finding food as the best all around, dependable tax source for better schools have no opposition whatever this spring or fall.

Unless it raises its head mightily in the fall elections, the food tax is here to stay and, as such, as a dodo as campaign fodder.

BONDS FAILURES . . . Citizens who plan to represent the voters in Raleigh or Washington next year would do well to keep in mind the outcome of bond issues taken to the people in recent months.

The first big awakening came in the fall when they turned a vigorous thumbs down on the Statewide issues. Since then, numerous local issues for a wide assortment of improvements (mostly schools) have failed.

Out of three voted on in the past three weeks — Rockingham, Lumberton and Johnston County — two were voted down; and it now looks as if a legal ruling may tip the Lumberton victory (a one vote margin).

Beer and wine elections win; whiskey is voted in; but we vote down borrowing to have better schools, more hospitals and other good works. Why are we so sorry? The answer seems to be that we feel "taxed to death" and are becoming "fed up with it."

The bond issues rank in third place in the tax ladder . . . or possibly fourth . . . and little support is left for them. First comes the vast Federal taxes; then the tremendously increased State taxes; then the county and municipal taxes; and then, at the last, the bond issues to raise these latter taxes. Uncle S. may be justly responsible for bond failures.

Let's tell thousands of North Carolinians (ask your banker) have to borrow money with which to pay their income taxes.

JUST TREES . . . This young physician in a new-by city bought a country estate last year. A very confident fellow with more dollars than sense, he wanted to have a showplace. He did his own landscaping, decided what he needed in the way of shrubbery, perennials, and what have you.

In early January he bought for $5 each ($4 for tree, $1 for planting) 200 balsams neatly balled for setting out. In two or three weeks he noticed a few turning brown, then others. He dug up one, two, three, a dozen. They were all old, neatly balled, left over Christmas trees. As of last week neither the truck, the salesman, nor the nursery could be located.

NOTES . . . There seems to be a real fight developing in the Fifth Congressional District between Wake Forest Alumnus Ralph Scott, incumbent, and Wake Alumnus William Z. Wood.

the dark horse from Winston-Salem who led the ticket in Forsyth County balloting in the 1960 Primary.

The deal on a recently purchased radio station in N. C. may be called off by the Federal Communications Commission . . . BECAUSE the day the new owners took over they played the SAME TUNE all day long. Now the FCC is wondering if the new owners are capable of operating the station so that it might prove beneficial to the community.

Good Times Note: For January-February - March, money paid out to unemployed persons in the State was down three million seven hundred thousand dollars from the same period a year ago . . . Money saved.

GOP Joke: J. F. K. means jobs for Kinfolks.

GOP Joke: Yes, the Kennedy's did a lot in their own way to reduce unemployment in 1961. They added $5,000 to the Federal payroll.

One of the most personable beauties in the Miss Raleigh pageant was Donna Dawson, daughter of Dr. A. C. Dawson, head of the N. C. Education Association . . . We had this recalled to us last week as Pres. Kennedy called the hand of U. S. Steel (and made it stick). "True statesmanship is the art of changing a nation from what it is into what it ought to be . . ."

Theme: Be Angry "With," Not "At"

TEXT: "A sharp tongue will cut your own throat" -M. A. Bursten.

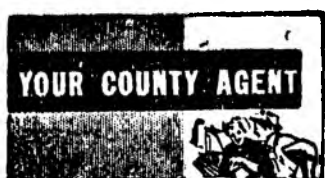

Sister Elizabeth Kenny, the famous Australian nurse, was asked how she managed to remain so cheerful at all times. "I suppose," said a friend, "you were born calm and smiling." "No," laughed Sister Kenny, "as a girl I often lost my temper. One day, when I became angry with a friend over a trivial matter, my mother gave me advice that I have remembered ever since. She said, 'Elizabeth, anyone who angers you, conquers you.'"

Anger has its place. The man who becomes angry at injustice, oppression, tyranny, cruelty, crime and foul-play, gains strength to combat wickedness. Properly channeled, anger moves even ordinary men to over-throw deeply entrenched evil.

However, the man whose anger is directed only at people, Archibald MacLish said, "is sick." He is the victim of his own temper. Instead of accomplishing good, he is ruined by all. He has "cut his own throat."

By all means become angry at the right time and place and for the right reasons. You will accomplish much. Don't fall into the habit of being angry only with people who disagree with you. Remember, it is said, "Nothing cooks a man's goods quicker than a red-hot temper."

According to Robert Slawson, Consultant in Community Planning of the American Foundation for the Blind, many more cities are undertaking studies with the aim of improving services to the blind people of their communities.

1. The wool marketing year end ed March 31. All applications of incentive payments must be filed with the local ASC office by April 30.

2. Early lamb prices look best—push lambs by creep feeding.

3. Contrary to popular opinion, lambs will do better on finely ground feed than on coarse feed, according to three year tests by Dr. Goode. 80 lbs of ground yellow corn and 20 lbs. of soybean oil meal is the best creep feed.

4. We may not have a market for utility and cull buck lambs weighing under 70 lbs. To insure a market be sure that you have no bucks. A knife is recommended.

5. Only good producing ewes will pay. Mark the non-lambers to be sold after shearing.

6. Wait until we have two weeks of warm weather before shearing sheep. Wool tied with a paper twine will help get a higher price for all producers.

BEEF CATTLE

1. Castrate, dehorn, and vaccinate calves before turning on pasture.

2. Keep cow herd on feed until pastures get a good start will help both pasture and cows.

3. Give yearlings a worm treatment before turning on pasture. Liquid or powdered phenothiazine (ultra-fine) is best.

4. One of the best times to sell a cull cow is when her calf is veal size (150-200 lbs). The price on old cows favors heavy culling.

5. April is the month to buy and sell stockers. Try one of the four sales sponsored by the Cattlemen's Association.

6. The spread between good and choice slaughter steers favors feeding on to the choice grade if the quality is there.

WATERSHED

The books will be in the Court House on Saturday, April 21, and Saturday, April 28 from 9 a.m. until sunset, for people to register that live in the Dutchman Creek Watershed. Odell Boger, Rt. 2 Mocksville will have the registration books at his home during the week if anyone is unable to register on either of these days. Anyone that lives in the watershed is eligible to register and vote. All people in Davie County will profit from this program and it is up to all individuals in the county to see that this program is carried out.

Cancer Crusade Has New Theme

The American Cancer Society opened its annual Crusade here April 11 on a hopeful note.

"By the end of the year, about 1,163,000 Americans will be able to say they have been cured of cancer," said R. P. York, Jr., chairman of the Davie County Unit of the ACS. "This is nearly seven times as many people as were cured of the disease in 1937."

"That's the bright side of the cancer problem," said Mr. York. "On the other hand, there are many thousands who die of cancer needlessly. About 87,000 men, women, and children will probably die in 1962 who might have been saved by earlier and better treatment. A much greater effort must be made to urge people to see their doctors in time."

To emphasize this point, Mr. York announced that the familiar slogan of the American Cancer Society, "Fight Cancer With A Checkup and A Check," will have a companion slogan in 1962—"To Cure More, Give More."

"To cure more," Mr. York said, "more funds are needed to give people life saving facts about cancer and to keep physicians in formed of latest methods of diagnosing and treating cancer."

"To cure more, more funds are needed to support scientists in their search for cures and, let's hope, preventives for all types of cancer, including leukemia."

"To cure more, more money is needed for broadening the Society's service program to ease the burden of cancer patients and their families."

Pointing out that the public support of the Society's attack on cancer has grown from $800,000 in 1944 to more than $26,000,000 in 1961, Mr. York urged all residents of Davie County to give generously to the Crusade to make it the best in history.

"The progress made in cancer control depends on the amount of money invested in the program to fight it," said Mr. York. "Your contribution is one of the greatest investments in the world—to eliminate a disease which at present rates will strike 45 million Americans now living. Let us give more to cure more."

SO THIS IS NEW YORK

By NORTH CALLAHAN

Passing the Empire State Building, I was reminded of the change of ownership which took place some weeks ago and which was really a big deal. The 102-story building was sold for $55 million dollars and the transaction required 100 attorneys handling a 400-page contract, the sale taking four hours to complete. So complex was the closing that 34 participants sat around a 37-foot teakwood table in the board room of an insurance company, following the proceedings with a 28-page agenda. In order to minimize the confusion, some of the specialists involved conducted eight "dress rehearsals" during the two weeks preceding the sale.

William Allen White, one-time dean of non-metropolitan newspapermen in America, was awarded an honorary degree by Columbia University here. At the commencement exercises in which the ceremony took place, a quiet, unassuming man stood next to me in the colorful academic procession, also awaiting such a degree. Mr. White turned to the man and remarked in a friendly manner, "We ought to know each other. I'm a small-town editor from Emporia, Kansas. My name is White." Whereupon the man replied, "I'm a small-town doctor from Rochester, Minnesota. My name is Mayo."

A local psychologist says that fear is the strongest emotion and that our greatest fear is that of aging and death. As a consequence, we pursue a never-ending fantasy that the good American life is one of youth and gaiety and that tomorrow will be even more so. As examples, he points out that advertising agencies depict the typical American woman as a perennial size 12, modishly garbed at all times, with her hair dyed. The typical male is size 36, crew cut, and tweedy with a cigarette in hand at all times. Perhaps it would be better, the authority believes, if we tried harder to grow old gracefully and as the Orientals do, honor those who have achieved the distinction of living to an advanced age.

When he was visiting in this country not long ago, President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan, impressed our people by his vigor and apparent sincerity. As time and events have gone on, he and his country have continued their image as probably the best friends the United States has in the Far East. One thing we like about Pakistan in contrast to India is its emphasis upon liberty. For example, President Ayub said "Freedom of thought is an inalienable right of man. The printed word enjoys a certain prestige just because it is printed. In countries where the majority of people have long been on such familiarity with the printed word as to have lost their awe of it, the printed word cannot get away with nonsense, inaccuracy or untruthfulness, merely on the strength of its being printed. Most readers would demand a great deal more from it. The discretion of the reading public can be trusted to bring about standards of responsibility among those who produce the printed words. On the other hand, in countries where most of the people are strangers to the written word, anything that is printed acquires authority merely by getting printed. Those who read it in print are impressed, simply because what they read was in print. They tell others are equally impressed when they are told that it was in print."

Here and There: down near Astor Place, the venerable Cooper-Union college building, erected in 1854, was the first wrought-iron supported building. Just across from it, now an office structure, was the first big department store here, Wanamakers, now moved to the suburbs, in keeping with the modern trend—if you think spring clothes are high, consider the cost of the new special space suit ordered by the Air Force, priced at only $200,000...In Brazil a collection agency dresses its collectors in flaming red from hat to shoes. When one of these red men calls, neighbors can see that one of them is a delinquent debtor—and the collector almost always gets his money—because the victim doesn't want that man to ring twice.

Battleship Dedication To Be Held April 29

Admiral Arleigh A. Burke, colorful and respected Naval leader, will be principal speaker at dedication ceremonies of the U. S. S. North Carolina Battleship Memorial on April 29, Gov. Terry Sanford has advised the Battleship Commission.

Admiral Burke, who earned the nickname "31 knot Burke" for his lightning thrusts at the Japanese Navy during World War II, is former Chief of Naval Operations, serving as head of the Navy from 1955 until his retirement in 1961. He was instrumental in helping North Carolinians save the famous ship named for their State.

Gov. Sanford said it is significant that both the U. S. S. North Carolina and Admiral Burke took part in every major offensive engagement in the Pacific Theatre during World War II.

Admiral Burke, a native of Colorado, graduated from the Naval Academy in 1923, and during World War II commanded various destroyer forces under Admiral William Halsey. Later he served as Chief of Staff on the famous Task Force 68 under Admiral Marc Mitscher, and attained the flag rank of Commodore. He was aboard both the USS Enterprise and the USS Bunker Hill when those carriers were struck by Japanese suicide planes.

Gov. Sanford said that he had invited Secretary of Commerce Luther Hodges to introduce Admiral Burke at the dedication ceremonies and that Hodges had accepted. The move to save the Battleship from the scrap heap was begun during Secretary Hodges' administration as Governor in North Carolina, and was carried through to completion by the Battleship Commission appointed by Sanford.

Dedication of the U.S.S. North Carolina Battleship Memorial is set for Sunday, April 29, at 3 p.m. at the Battleship site on the Cape Fear River across from downtown Wilmington.

Social Security In Davie County

Men! If you are 62 or older, you may be entitled to social security benefits now.

This reminder comes from Mr. Robert C. Thomas, Manager of the Salisbury, N. C. district office who explained that, as a result of the 1961 changes in the social security law, it is now possible for men as well as women to draw reduced benefit at age 62. The effective date of this change was August 1961.

When asked if all men should file for benefits at 62 Mr. Thomas pointed out that most men who are over 62 and still working for high earnings would be better off to wait until they are 65 to file for full benefits. He explained that high earnings would prevent payment of reduced benefits.

The primary purpose of this new provision, he stated, was to enable workers who retire between 62 and 65 or workers in this age group whose earnings are low for any number of reasons to start receiving benefits immediately. This is in line with basic social security philosophy which is to partially replace lost income as a result of retirement or disability.

Mr. Thomas went on to say that once a man elects reduced payments his benefit rate will remain reduced even after he reaches age 65. However, for most men it will be many years before they would lose money by filing early. Most men feel that the immediate income outweighs any possible loss of benefits in the distant future.

Each man has to make his own choice either to file early or to wait until he is 65. Mr. Thomas said that the staff at the Salisbury office will be able to give each man detailed information on the amount of benefits he would be able to receive and give other facts to assist men in making their decision. He urged all men under 65 who feel that they may qualify for reduced benefits to come to the office. There he can discuss his individual case with an experienced member of the social security staff.

ASCS News

1961 WOOL PROGRAM

All wool growers are reminded that they have until the end of April to file their applications for payments earned under the 1961 wool program. Any grower who sold shorn wool during the marketing year which ended March 31, or any grower who owned lambs for at least 30 days and sold them unshorn during the marketing year is eligible for a payment under this program.

In order to receive a payment the producer must file an application form at the ASCS office by April 30th and present marketing records covering the transactions during the year.

The payment should be made some time this summer. The rate depends on the national average price received by growers for wool sold during the marketing year.

Wool is one of the major agricultural commodities of which this country imports more than it produces. Rather than having a surplus, as we do of some farm products, we need to produce more. So through the wool program the Government provides an incentive to encourage increased production of wool.

Farmers are again reminded that April 30, 1962, is the closing date for signing an application for payment.

1962 Feed Grain and Wheat Stabilization Program

Farmers who are participating in the Feed Grain or Wheat Stabilization Programs are reminded of the following:

1. The diverted acreage must be seeded to a conservation use if the land is not already in an approved cover. The land must have been tilled one year out of the past three.

2. The permitted acreage cannot be exceeded for the farm.

3. The reporter will measure the acreage designated by the farmer. He is not expected to determine the exact acreage that it will take to make up the diverted acreage.

4. The closing date for requesting double cropping on the farm is May 1, 1962.

5. No crop can be harvested or grazed from the designated acreage unless a double cropping form is on file in the county office and approved by the county committee.

Lease And Transfer of Tobacco Allotments for 1962

April 1, 1962, was the deadline for leasing and transferring tobacco allotments for 1962. The following is a report of the agreements made in this County:

1. 206 farms from which allotments were transferred.

2. 133 farms to which allotments were transferred.

3. 203.53 acres transferred prior to adjustment because of normal yield differences.

4. 164.00 acres transferred after adjustment because of normal yield differences.

Farmers whose leasing agreements have been signed and approved by the County Committee are being notified this week of the actual acreage they can plant on their farm. The notice will include the acreage leased or transferred and will be in effect for 1962 only.

Farmers who did not lease their allotment are urged to plan it this year in order to protect the history for the farm.

Wheat Quotas Affect More Growers In 1962
Wheat growers are reminded that the 15 acre marketing quota exemption does not apply to the 1962 wheat crop.

Under the 1962 program farms subject to marketing quotas are those on which the acreage of wheat exceeds the smaller of (a) 13.5 acres, or (b) the highest acreage the farm had for harvest in the 3-year period 1959, 1960, and 1961.

Wheat farmers may therefore avoid marketing quota penalties on their 1962 crop wheat by complying with (1) their farm wheat allotment or (2) their wheat quota exemption (if this is larger).

For 1962, the penalty will be 65 per cent of parity as of May 1, 1962. The amount of wheat subject to penalty will be twice the farm's normal yield on all of the acres in excess of the wheat allotment for the wheat quota exemption if this is larger than the wheat allotment).

The date for utilizing excess wheat as green manure, hay, pasture, or silage has been extended to May 31. The date had previously been set as May 15.

Shriners To Parade In Mocksville On Saturday Morning, May 5th

Parade To Take Place
At 9:45 A.M. In Town

"The Shrine is coming to Mocksville on Saturday, May 5, Rufus Sanford Jr., a local Shrine member announced today. Mr. Sanford is serving as the chairman of the Mocksville phase of an excursion to this area by the uniform units of Oasis Temple of Shrine.

"The parade will take place at 9:45 a.m. in downtown Mocksville and will feature bands, trick vehicles, clowns, and a large group of uniformed Nobles of the Mystic Shrine. These parade units are made up of men from Charlotte, Asheville, Greensboro, and other places in the state. Parades will also take place in Mt. Airy, Madison, and Winston-Salem, in addition to the mid morning parade in Mocksville," stated Noble Sanford.

"Plans for this visit to this area have been in the making for several months, and it promises to be a colorful affair. Our local committee has been working with the Oasis Temple officials for several weeks in the details planning."

Noble Sanford in releasing the announcement quoted John M. Hartman of Winston-Salem, potentate of Oasis Temple as saying, "the purpose of these parade-visitations is to bring the Oasis Temple program to its members. In these visits to the home towns of the members we share our fun with our members as well as with the public."

"We like to think of it as fun with a purpose, for there is a very real purpose back of this great fraternity. The Shriners support 17 hospitals for underprivileged crippled children throughout North America. We just want to share our good times and acquaint you with the hospital program."

Potentate Hartman, the Oasis Divan, and the leaders of the uniformed units, G. Cliff Wingate of Charlotte will head up the caravan of Oasis Nobles in this visit.

Oasis Shrine Temple

Oasis Shrine Temple is one of 166 Shrine Temples located throughout North America. The Shrine movement started in New York shortly after the Civil War and has grown along with its Masonic background to become one of the largest fraternal systems in the world. Each of the more than 850,000 Nobles of the Ancient Arabic Order of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine in North America is also a Master Mason and a York and/or Scottish Rite Mason.

Oasis Temple was chartered by the Imperial Shrine of North America in 1895 and at one time was the only Shrine Temple in the Carolinas. Since that date there have been three sister Temples chartered, Sudan in New Bern, N. C. and two South Carolina Temples, Hejaz in Greenville and Omar in Charleston. Oasis Temple presently has a jurisdictional area covering the western part of North Carolina and the current membership numbers 7500 Nobles.

The Temple's activities include the staging of three Ceremonials each year, the Winter Ceremonial held in Charlotte in January, the Spring Ceremonial in June - usually held in Greensboro, and the Fall Ceremonial in October - usually held in Asheville. Included in the Ceremonial program is the initiation of new Nobles. Another endeavor of the Temple each year is the promotion of Parade-Visitations to various parts of the jurisdiction, such as the visit on May 5 to Mocksville, Mount Airy, Madison and Winston-Salem. During a three or four year period similar such visitations have been made in over twenty-five cities and towns in Western North Carolina.

In addition to the program of fraternal fun and fellowship, each Noble of the Mystic Shrine participates in the sponsoring of the Crippled Childrens Hospitals, a chain of 17 hospitals specializing in orthopedics. Dedicated to the mending of crippled children without regard to race or creed or color, this philanthropy is reserved for children whose parents cannot afford expensive hospital attention. Any Noble of Oasis Temple will be glad to investigate and arrange for a crippled child's examination if the difficulty is of orthopedic nature. Any child 15 years or under is eligible for treatment.

Chester Davis Is Rotary Speaker

Chester Davis told members of the Mocksville Rotary Club on Tuesday that:

"As far as hunting and fishing are concerned-We've never had it so good!"-and then went on to prove it.

Mr. Davis, a feature writer for the Winston-Salem Journal and Sentinel and a member of the North Carolina Wildlife Commission, pointed out to the Rotarians "we have better conditions for hunting and fishing today than we had in 1900 and that we can have better in 2,000 than today if we have proper management."

To support this argument, Mr. Davis pointed out that hunting in 1900 consisted of going into the woods nearby and shooting whatever one came across and in fishing in dropping a worm on a line in a muddy stream.

"Today, however, due to improved transportation and other facilities we are hunting deer and bear in the mountains-and Grouse and Marsh Hens on the coast. Also, with a shorter work week we also have more opportunities for hunting," Mr. Davis said.

Mr. Davis also pointed out that today we are rebuilding the deer herd in this section and that bear hunting was better than it has been in the past.

George Martin had charge of the program and introduced Mr. Davis. President Gordon Tomlinson presided.

Fred Barnes, pastor of the First Baptist Church, was inducted into the club as a new member by Dave Rankin, membership chairman.

Special guests included: E. S. Hedrick of Washington, D. C.; George King of Salisbury; Judge J. C. Pittman of Sanford; W. T. Rhyme and W. C. Phillips of the Wildlife Commission; and Sheriff Ben Boyles.

Special Program

The Brown Family of Walker-town will be at Ijames Baptist Church on Sunday, April 29, at 7 p.m. to give a special program. The public is invited to attend this song service, according to the pastor, the Rev. John H. McDaniel, Jr.

Dog Causes Wreck On The Cana Road

A 1959 Volkswagen ran into a pack of dogs last Wednesday on the Cana Road, killing two large dogs and damaging the car around $150.

Trooper L. E. Woods of the State Highway Patrol said that his investigation disclosed that James El. Cothren, 22, of Route 4, Mocksville, was operating the Volks and traveling north on the Cana Road at approximately 50-55 mph. Just past the intersection of the Angel Road, four large dogs ran into the path of the vehicle. The driver was unable to stop and struck and killed two dogs. The front of the Volkswagen and the muffler and underside of the vehicle was damaged on the impact. The driver was not hurt.

"Citizens who own pets should not allow them to run loose at this time of the year, due to the wildlife breeding season," said Trooper Woods. "Also in an accident of this type, the owner could possibly be liable for damages done to the vehicle and perhaps civil action if personal injury is the case."

No charges were preferred.

SOFTBALL

Managers of prospective softball teams for the Mocksville Recreation League are asked to meet Friday evening, April 27, at 7 p.m. at the Mocksville elementary gymnasium.

Final plans and arrangements will be made for this summer's play which will feature "slow-pitch" competition. Play is expected to get underway around the middle of May.

It was pointed out that participants in this league must either live or work in Mocksville.

Watershed Deadline

Saturday at 6 p.m. is the deadline for registering to vote in the referendum on the Dutchman Creek Watershed.

With the books open one week, around 110 had registered to vote in the special referendum on May 5th.

Only owners of more than three acres of land will be eligible to vote, unless he sold more than $250 worth of agricultural products last year. Landowners must own land in the watershed area—that is, land that drains into Cedar or Dutchman Creek.

Those eligible to do so and have not, are urged to register prior to 6 p.m. Saturday.

C. W. Phillips, Soil Conservation Supervisor, said that some misunderstanding had arisen concerning possible assessment of land owners.

"Only those lands that are benefited can be assessed to cover the cost of operation and maintenance and only to the extent they are benefited," he stressed. "It is estimated that total annual maintenance for the entire watershed will be only from $5,000 to $6,000."

Winners Listed In 4-H Talent Show

Unconscious

Mr. Davis received 17 pellets, most of them in his right side. Massey pulled him back into the outboard - powered 12 foot aluminum boat and took him to the Forsyth side. Davis fell unconscious after he was helped back into the boat. People on the shore helped Massey take him out of the boat and an ambulance was called.

Massey went with Forsyth Deputies George Fontaine and E. G. Baker and Davie Deputies Ray Sowers and Paul Dwiggins to the home of Potts about one mile from Idol's Dam.

Potts arrived shortly after the deputies. They said he had been drinking. Potts at first wouldn't admit shooting Davis but later said he was only shooting at the water.

Potts was reported to have admitted shooting at the boat and said that he had seen Davis and Massey in that area earlier and had warned them to stay away because he had some fishing traps there.

Fishing Group

Massey said they had seen Potts shoot at a fishing and picnic party earlier. Members of this party ran away leaving their fishing gear and picnic food and drinks. This group is believed to have been Wesley and Jake Cave and their two sons of Dobson, Rt. 1.

Davie County Sheriff Ben Boyles said Potts was a carpenter who was working on a construction project in Winston-Salem.

Hits Clemmons Man

The shotgun blast at Davis and Massey also stuck Paul Smith of Clemmons who was on the bank fishing. He was grazed by a pellet but the skin was not broken.

The incident occurred about 2 p.m. Some 30 fishermen were reported in the area at that time. Massey and Davis had caught about six small fish and were proceeding past the spot where Potts stood "when the first thing we knew there was a shotgun aimed at us," Massey said he heard some of the shots strike the aluminum boat "and then John fell in the water."

The Mocksville Lions Club will conduct a door-to-door broom sale on Friday evening in the Mocksville community. Members of the local club will participate in this door-to-door canvass beginning at 7 p.m. Proceeds from the broom sale will go to benefit the Lions project for the blind.

THE DUTCHMAN CREEK WATERSHED

Much to Gain—or Much to Lose!

Saturday will be the final day for registering to vote in the referendum on the Dutchman Creek Watershed proposal. Stripped down to the bare essentials, the proposed program is this:

Under the Watershed and Flood Protection Act, federal assistance is provided to local communities that organize to combat their soil and water problems. A definite soil and water problem exists along Dutchman Creek in Davie County where flood damages each year destroys crops, erodes the land, and makes much of the land of little economic value. The Federal assistance has been offered this area to the tune of $1,500,000 to help solve the water problem and turn the water into constructive uses. This money from the federal government will be used to pay all the cost of building dams and doing the channel work needed to help control flood.

However, realizing that it would be foolish to build dams and clear channels without some plan for continuing maintenance, the Federal Government requires that the area organize and provide ways and means for such maintenance. This makes necessary the referendum whereby the residents of the area register their agreement to do their part to provide for the upkeep and maintenance of this watershed area.

It cannot be overly stressed that the project belongs entirely to the local people and not to the federal or state government. Also, only those lands that are benefitted can be assessed to cover the cost of operation and maintenance and only to the extent they are benefitted. Assessments need not be made every year and can vary in relation to the cost of maintenance. It is estimated that the total annual maintenance cost for the entire watershed will be only from $5,000 to $6,000 which pro-rated among the benefitted landowners will amount to only a few dollars per year.

As J. C. Jones pointed out in an article in this newspaper last week: It would be most foolish and a backward step for Davie County to reject this plan of salvaging some much needed land and improving land facilities along Dutchman Creek in the heart of the county. This offer for help does not come along every day...and when such an offer will provide for such permanent improvements as the control of water, the preventing of erosion our land, and the creation of facilities that will make the entire area a better place to live, work and play...it certainly deserves the wholehearted support of each and every citizen in any way that such assistance can be presented. It certainly seems to be another case of much to gain by establishing the watershed...and much to lose if we don't.

Three Davie Churches Featured

Colonial Churches in North Carolina

J. K. Rouse, a former native of Davie County who now resides in Kannapolis, is the author of a new book entitled "Some Interesting Colonial Churches in North Carolina".

This book is a pictorial and historical study of thirty-six churches that were established in North Carolina during the Colonial period.

All of the churches presented in this book were established during the Colonial period with the exception of the Hebron Methodist Church in the Forks of the Yadkin (Fulton) in Davie County. Special recognition is given Hebron Methodist Church to honor Davie County where the writer was born.

In addition to the Hebron Methodist Church, two other Davie County churches are included in this volume: Eaton's Baptist Church and the First Presbyterian Church of Mocksville. The volume features nice pictures of the churches and a history of each.

The churches featured in the book included:

St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Edenton; St. Thomas' Episcopal Church in Bath; Christ Episcopal Church, New Bern; St. James' Episcopal Church, Wilmington; St. John's Episcopal Church, Williamsboro; St. Luke's Episcopal Church, Salisbury; Shiloh Baptist Church, Shiloh; Meherrin Baptist Church, Murfreesboro; Sandy Run Baptist Church, Roxobel; Grassy Creek Baptist Church, Granville County; Jersey Baptist Church, Linwood; Sandy Creek Baptist Church, Randolph County; Abott's Creek Primitive Baptist Church, Davidson County; Eaton's (Dutchman Creek) Baptist Church, Davie County; Organ Evangelical Lutheran Church, Rowan County; St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Cabarrus County; St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Salisbury; Grace (Lower Stone) Evangelical and Reformed Church, Rockwell; Pilgrim (Leonards) Evangelical and Reformed Church, Davidson County; Thyatira Presbyterian Church, Rowan

County; Center Presbyterian Church, Cabarrus County; Poplar Tent Presbyterian Church, Cabarrus County; First Presbyterian Church (Old Fourth Creek) Statesville; Coddle Creek Associate Reformed Presbyterian Church, Iredell County; Hawfield Presbyterian Church, Alamance County; Sugaw Creek Presbyterian Church, Charlotte; Buffalo Presbyterian Church, Greensboro; Barbours Presbyterian Church, Harnett County; First Presbyterian Church, Mocksville; New Garden Meeting House, Guilford College; Deep River Meeting House, Guilford County; Springfield Friends Meeting House, High Point; Bethabara Moravian Church, Bethania; Bethania Moravian Church, Bethania; Home Moravian Church, Winston-Salem; Hebron (Fulton) Methodist Church, Davie County.

The book is on sale at several book stores or may be purchased directly from J. K. Rouse in Kannapolis.

Let's Cut That Toll in Half!

Senator SAM ERVIN Says:

WASHINGTON — Congress which opened a little more than three and a half months ago with hopes of early adjournment appears headed for another long session. Under the Reorganization Act of 1946 Congressional adjournment is technically set for no later than July 31. Rarely has it been able to do so. This year the Senate Finance Committee and the House Ways and Means Committee are swamped with bills embracing tax revision, trade expansion, health for the aged, and a number of other revenue bills. None of these can be "marked up" for consideration in either House without hearings requiring scores of witnesses. Currently the Senate Finance Committee is beginning hearings on the tax revision bill (HR 10650) while the House Ways and Means Committee is starting its consideration of the trade expansion (HR 9900).

Since all these tax and revenue measures must first be considered by the House of Representatives by Constitutional mandate, the Senate Finance Committee already faces a veritable legislative logjam. Moreover, the Sugar Act and Corporate and Excise taxes expire on June 30. Any legislation on these must be considered by these Senate and House committees. A House passed revision of the public welfare program also awaits consideration by the Senate Finance Committee. Both committees have an unemployment compensation bill that lies within their jurisdiction for hearings. (Health care for the aged hearings have not begun in either the House or Senate committee. Perhaps this may explain why even the admired Shah of Iran found it difficult to command a quorum in his address to a Joint Session of Congress on April 12. That day found Congressional committees and subcommittees holding 28 separate meetings and hearings.)

Hearings concerning so-called "pocket book" issues are continually packed with witnesses and spectators. There appears to be no public or Congressional apathy on revenue measures. It all adds up to the conclusion that at this stage Congressional committees are very busy, and that there is little likelihood that Congress will wind-up its affairs soon.

Law Classification

The Senate Subcommittee on Revision and Codification of the Laws, of which I am Chairman, has several bills before it to codify laws relating to military law, pay, and allowances; improvement of the postal service code; and a 964 page codification of the Canal Zone laws. The enactment of such a classification of the laws into a code is a major project. Inasmuch as many of the general laws of the United States which go into the United States code are inconsistent or out of date, there has been initiated a continuous project of revising and enacting the Code, consisting of 50 titles, and thousands of sections, into law, title by title. A codification is limited to the revision of the existing law only. It does not embrace any change in the statutes under discussion as they now exist. The enactments also serve to continuously modernize the permanent laws of the nation.

Uncle Dave From Davie Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Zeke Grubb's preacher come by the country store Saturday night, said things have been real jumping at his church all week. Rufe Zinder's wife caught a couple young'uns from his congregation dancing this new-fangled Twist and the good Parson allowed as how the lid has blown off.

He told the fellers a delegation if wimmen come to him Friday morning and asked him to preach a sermon Sunday morning agin the Twist. He said he turned 'em down, told 'em he thought this new fad was already gitting enough adverting without him giving it some more. The Parson said he had took notice that eve: time a minister preached agin a certain movie, the fellow that runs the picture show has to put in extra seats and sell standing room. He pointed out to these wimmen, he said, that one of the fine things about his church was the fact that about half the congregation was always backsliding and then gitting back as good as new. He promised 'em he would talk to them two young'uns that was backsliding with the Twist.

He said he'd been watching this new dance step on television and, sin or no sin, it was giving the young'uns more exercise in 10 minutes than they'll git plowing all day. He allowed as how he wouldn't be surprised if it wasn't a trick by the New Frontier to git youth enrolled in President Kennedy's physical fitness program. According to the Parson, the New Frontier is going to have more trouble breaking this trail than Dan'l Boone did his.

Ed Doolittle reported he had saw a piece in the papers where some of the big city schools was putting elevators in buildings more'n one story high on account of the kids saying they wasn't climbing no more stairs. The Parson said this fit in exact with his theory that the Twist was put off on the kids as a dance so's they'd git some exercise.

Clem Webster figured the U. S. Department of Health might come up a little later with another trick, the "Jumping Down The Road Dance." He said if they called it the "Walking To School Dance" the young'uns wouldn't touch it with a 10-foot pole. But the Parson allowed as how, no matter what they called it, his congregation would probably be agin it, and if enough parents was agin it, the young'uns would do it. It was a great pity, he allowed, that Rufe Zinder's wife couldn't cooperate with the New Frontier no better.

In a nutshell, said the Parson, them was his views on the Twist. He said he had to leave a little early on account of him having a appointment with his doctor, reported he was having a little trouble with his back lately.

Yours truly,
Uncle Dave

SO THIS IS NEW YORK
By NORTH CALLAHAN

With the recent election of Henry David Thoreau to the Hall of Fame of New York University, public attention is again called to this shrine of the famous - and some not so famous - which is located in the Bronx. Thoreau, the outspoken writer and philosopher who lived beside Walden Pond near Concord, Mass., died just a hundred years ago. He is the 87th person to be so honored by election to the Hall of Fame and it has been said that it is more difficult to be elected to this shrine than it is to be elected President of the United States. In fact, so far only twelve Presidents have made this steep grade, Washington, John Adams, Thomas Jefferson, James Madison, James Monroe, John Quincy Adams, Andrew Jackson, Abraham Lincoln, Ulysses Grant, Grover Cleveland, Theodore Roosevelt and Woodrow Wilson.

The Hall of Fame is not limited to statesmen. In the sweeping colonnade of bronze busts overlooking the lordly Hudson River are included scientists, artists, authors, military leaders, poets, physicians, soldiers, poets, physicians, humanitarians, educators and ministers. Elections to the shrine are held every five years and are made by a College of Electors consisting of 150 prominent men and women, at least one of which must be from every state and the District of Columbia. A maximum of seven persons who have made significant contributions to the nation's culture and history can be chosen each time. A majority of the votes, 76, is necessary to win, and numerous candidates do not receive this number of votes. The candidates must have been American citizens, have made their homes in this country, and have been dead for at least 25 years, so that their reputations can be tested by the passing of time.

Many who might be considered deserving of this honor have not been elected. For example the man who founded the Hall of Fame, Dr. Henry MacCracken, one-time chancellor of New York University, has never even come close to election. He founded the shrine 62 years ago after traveling through Europe and seeing many monuments there to great figures. "It will teach youth," he said in 1900 about the Hall of Fame, "that leaders in science and scholarship may be as great as military leaders and naval heroes." An editorial writer the same year observed in this regard "that fame means more than the applause of the populace or the temporary attention and interest of the nation at large." Any American citizen can place a candidate in nomination.

"Stonewall" Jackson was elected to the NYU Hall of Fame not long ago, Robert E. Lee already being a member. Recently, Jefferson Davis was nominated. There are other figures which some might feel represented different points of view, but George Washington was the only one ever to be elected to this honor unanimously. In fact, the site of the shrine was a British fort in the American Revolution, ironically from which they launched their successful attack on Fort Washington. Dr. MacCracken commented, "Lost to the invaders in 1776, this summit is now retaken by the goodly troops of Great Americans, General Washington their leader. They enter into possession of these Heights and are destined to hold them, we trust forever." A visitor to the Hall is greeted by these words carved on the entrance gate, "Enter with Joy that those within have lived."

In 1955, a New York newspaper conducted a poll at a suburban high school and found that only Washington, John Adams, Lincoln, Alexander Graham Bell and U.S. Grant of all those in the Hall of Fame could be identified by every student. The structure was designed by Stanford White. Only occupant with his hat on is William Penn who said he only removed it in the presence of God. Another newspaper writer said of the shrine, "If it has not a place for every great name, it at least has a great name for every place."

Lake Kariba in Africa's Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland will be the largest man-made lake in the Western World by 1963. Created by a dam across the Zambezi River, Kariba will cover 2,000 square miles and hold four times as much water as Lake Mead, the United States' largest artificial body of water.

BACKWOODS

... Republican Chairman Bill Cobb was not completely off-base a few days ago in his criticism of the inavailability of the voting records of members of the N. C. General Assembly. We need to modernize some of our legislative machinery.

He said he "suspected" the voting records of 1961 action were being withheld to keep people from knowing how various members voted on the food tax. Bill is wrong there, for the voting records on all hot issues — how each man and woman in House and Senate voted — are published in the newspapers. If the argument is sharp enough, the Associated Press and the United Press International carry the ayes and noes to every corner of North Carolina. The record is solidly recorded: no hiding whatever.

Of course, it is in Raleigh as it is in Washington and throughout the states of the union: 95 per cent of the voting is not on an individual basis — but in union.

Now Mr. Cobb, who has served in the State Senate, knows that Rule 6 of that body reads in part as follows:

"All questions for a vote shall be put as follows: 'Those in favor say 'Aye.' After which the Presiding vote is expressed — 'Opposed 'No.' After which the President will announce the result.'"

Now if a member of the State Senate hollers "Division," the President has to have those for to stand... and then those opposed to stand. By looking closely you can see how each man voted. This so-called division is usually called for when a leader of one of the sides of the argument... leaders of both sides... see it is impossible to tell by voice just how the vote went.

Now, likewise, if somebody wants the ayes and noes and if his request is upheld by one-fifth of the members present, then you come up with the real thing: who votes yes and who voted no. This is covered in Rule 7. COOP Chairman Cobb knows it well.

But if you live outside Raleigh... and it's several months after the Legislature... it is not the easiest thing in the world to find out how each man voted. We are backwoods in this voting record business. Let's face it. And Sect. of State Thad Eure says the Journals this time are the latest he's known them to be.

NERVES... After keeping the even tenor of her way for more than three months, while all about her seemed to be falling apart, Mrs. Frances Brewer finally crumbled under the strain a few days ago and was sent to Duke Hospital with what is described as a "nervous breakdown."

Nerves — and not a sense of guilt — was what caused her husband, Kidd, to attempt suicide back in the winter, he maintains. Mrs. Brewer, a leading church worker here, but ever away in the background on Kidd's business dealings, was the stabilizing factor when her husband was undecided whether he wanted to live or die.

She led the way in pulling him back to stronger mental health. Mrs. Brewer had their minister visit Kidd in the sick room the first minute he was able to receive visitors. Now she is the patient.

Meantime, the highway signs case, first in the headlines back in January, is there again, has multiplied into a dozen different judgments; and to this date not a word of trial testimony has been spoken. But the storm clouds seem to be gathering.

Mrs. Brewer is a former school teacher. She was a Linney before marriage to Kidd Brewer, who at that time was coaching at Appalachian. There is no finer family in North Carolina than the Linney's and few finer ladies anywhere than Mrs. Brewer.

CORN STALKS... Did you get those beans planted by Good Friday — as they say you are supposed to? Other tips: your spring onions, Irish potatoes, and garden peas, radishes, and greens should be well along by now. Also rake the leaves out of the spring box. Hint: time to move grape cuttings.

Also, time to dream — of other Aprils.

My husband said he heard the other day that before 40 it is wine, women and song; after 40 — metrical, same old gal, and sing along with Mitch.

Since most Tarheels now buy their vegetables in the super markets, they have learned to eat stuff like Brussels sprouts, broccoli, cauliflower, and other items foreign to the average North Carolina garden.

A lot of us knew only six or eight basic vegetables in our youth — and have learned only with great effort to like the others.

Claude Blevins, who lives back in the Brushies about half way between North Wilkesboro and Roaring Gap, was telling us last winter how his family about 30 years ago became acquainted withokra. His father had been working in town and this fine lady he was working for gave them some to plant in their garden.

The seeds were planted, came up fine, and here came along in midsummer the okra pods. But Claude Blevins' father was not in favor of eating anything until it was ripe. He waited a few weeks, the okra continuing to grow, podwise and otherwise. Finally one day just before frost he asked his wife to pull and cook some of the "ripest." Claude recalls they were about the color of bright copper. Mrs. Blevins knew nothing about okra, so she followed her husband's instructions. She sliced them — with some effort — rolled them in flour and fried them.

Mr. Blevins, busy with night chores, came in hungry. One of the vegetables he put on his plate — and the first to go to his mouth — was the okra. His son says that a funny, far-away look "come on Pappy's face." But he chewed determinedly for a while. Finally he gave up in disgust, went to the nearby window a spit it out.

His only comment for the rest of the meal was: "I just soon eat corn stalks." That was the last of okra in the Blevins household.

GOOD IDEA!... Carroll V. Singleton, former mayor of Henderson who has done such a good job as industrial development director for Asheboro, will open offices in a couple of weeks here in Raleigh. His firm will assist communities all over N. C. who can't afford a full time man to attract new industry. Sounds like a wonderful idea to us... for all communities.

Theme: Meddlers Are Dictators At Heart

TEXT: "Never thrust your sickle into another's corn."—Psalms 125.

"Everyone is talking about the Jones' quarrel," remarked a wife to her husband. "Some are taking his part and some are taking hers."

"And," interrupted her husband, "I suppose there are a few eccentric individuals who are minding their own business."

There are too many meddlers in this world. There are crude ones who have an insatiable curiosity about others' affairs. Only death can cure their disease. Then there are "do-gooders." They are meddlers with a dictator's complex. They are certain that they know better than we do. Because we fail to see they they would pass laws to force us to enjoy what they think is best for us. Each of us has reasons for liking what we like and doing what we do, that the cleverest "do-gooder" cannot fathom.

The "do-gooder" doesn't see himself as the meddler he is. He tells himself, and others, that he serves man-kind. Our founding fathers emerged from ages of slavery to set up a nation of free men, dedicated to individual liberty. Let's not exchange legalized slavery dictated by "do-gooders" for our hard-earned liberty in personal affairs.

CONTROL OF FLIES, LICE, AND GRUBS ON DAIRY ANIMALS

George D. Jones, In Charge of

Effective control of flies on the dairy farm requires both the elimination of fly breeding areas and the use of insecticides. For the safe use of all chemicals always do the following:

1. Read the label.
2. Use the insecticide only where it is recommended.
3. Use exactly the amount recommended.
4. Use it only at the time recommended.
5. Observe all cautions on the label.

The following materials, if the above directions are followed, can be used safely on the dairy farm:

4. Malathion—as dry bait.
5. *DDT—as wettable powder or emulsifiable concentrate.
6. Lindane—as wettable powder or emulsifiable concentrate.
7. *Chlordane—as wettable powder.

* In many areas houseflies are resistant to these materials.

C. Inside the Milk Room.

1. Pyrethrin—synergist (space spray)

II. TO CONTROL HORNFLY - APPLY DIRECTLY TO COWS GIVING MILK.

1. Methoxychlor—only as 50% wettable powder applied as a dust in small quantities at about 3-week intervals.
2. Malathion—only as a 5% dust, at least 5 hours before milking. Applied in small quantities at about 3-week intervals.
3. Pyrethrin synergist in oil—as a mist over animal. Daily application.

III. TO CONTROL FACE FLY.

1. DDVP in sugar bait—brush on forehead daily and as needed.

IV. FOR CONTROL OF GRUBS IN MILKING COWS, DRY COWS, AND HEIFERS.

1. Rotenone—as a dust or spray.

V. FOR CONTROL OF LICE ON MILKING COWS, DRY COWS, AND HEIFERS.

1. Rotenone—as a dust.

Take your problems to Church this week — millions leave them there!

OLD TIMER INDEED! He's One Of The Boys

How does he do it? He keeps "fit as a fiddle" and a living repudiation of the belief some hold, "that retired men must fold up and quit." He plays softball with the youngsters and radiates enthusiasm. When he is around he is their leader. They love and are willing to follow him.

Churches need his kind to lead youth along the right road of life, to create responsibility and help curb delinquency, to furnish the kind of leadership that will make noble men out of impressionable boys.

It follows that dynamic people, people with energy and enthusiasm, need and can serve the Church. The Church of their choice will bring to them faith, faith that will enable them to render a greater service to God and humanity.
