Crawfords Bound Over to Superior Court On Assault-Robbery Charge

A couple held in the local jail since Oct. 14 were bound over to the next term of Davie County Superior Court on Tuesday on the charges of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill and robbery. Bond was set at $10,000 each in both cases, making a total bond of $20,000 for each.

Judge R. B. Sanford bound Woodrow Gordon Crawford and his wife, Leona Perdue Crawford, over Tuesday after presiding over a hearing on probable cause. The next term of Superior Court is set for Jan. 21, 1963.

The two Crawfords are charged with assault and robbery on the person of Ernest E. Murphy, 53, Davie County foreman with the State Highway Department, on Sunday, Oct. 14, 1962. Mr. Murphy, who required over 300 stitches in his face and head, also suffered a fractured skull. Both of the Crawfords entered a plea of not guilty.

Woodrow Crawford was represented in the hearing Tuesday by Attorney John Brock, while Attorney Claude Hicks represented Mrs. Crawford. Atty. W. E. Hall prosecuted the case, assisted by Attorney Peter W. Hairston and the law firm of Martin and Martin.

Mr. Murphy, who has not yet fully recovered from the beating he took on Oct. 14, took the stand Tuesday morning and testified he could not fully recollect the events of Oct. 14.

His testimony was that on that Sunday he left home around 8:30 a.m. and went to his mother-in-law's for a visit. From there he went to visit his mother who lives near Cooleemee, leaving there shortly before 11 a.m.

Sometime after 11 a.m. he said he drove in the dirt road off US 601 to look over some of his property. He said that he stopped by the trailer in which the Crawfords were living and talked with Mrs. Crawford when he saw her in the yard. He said he had not known them prior to this time.

Murphy said he had a "piece of a pint" of liquor from which he had had a few drinks and later offered it to the Crawfords which he said they gladly accepted.

Cross examination by Hicks brought out that Murphy carried the two Crawfords and they went and bought more liquor that day.

Murphy said that he did not

Man Bound Over In Shooting

Jack Langley was bound over to Superior Court Tuesday on the charge of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill.

Langley is charged with shooting his "friend," James Swearingin on Nov. 10 with a 12 gauge double barrel shotgun. The shot hit Swearingin in the head and right shoulder.

Tuesday in Davie County Criminal Court Swearingin testified that most of the shot had been picked out at the local hospital but some still remained.

Swearingin told the court that he and Langley were friends and that he was at Langley's home on Nov. 10 around dark. He said both had been drinking. He said that as he prepared to leave that Langley called from the doorway and asked: "Where is Mom?"

"I answered here I am and as I turned around he shot," said Swearingin.

He said Langley then turned and went back into the house and that he [Swearingin] came to Mocksville for medical attention. Judge R. B. Sanford found probable cause and bound Langley over to the next term of Superior Court under a $1,000 bond.

Cotton Referendum To Decide Important Questions

How farmers vote in the cotton marketing quota referendum to be held throughout the nation's cotton growing area on Dec. 11 will determine whether quota penalties will apply and also the level of price support for 1963 crop cotton. The referendum therefore is of vital concern to every cotton grower, says J. N. Smoot, Chairman of the Davie County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

The marketing quota program will be in operation for next year's crop, the chairman explains. If at least two-thirds of the votes cast in the referendum are in favor of the program. In that case, price support will be available to growers who comply with their farm allotments for the 1963 crop of cotton at a level between 65 and 90 percent of parity, and quota penalties will apply on any "excess" cotton. If more than one-third of the votes are against quotas, there would be no quota penalties and the price support level to eligible growers would drop to 50 percent of parity.

Chairman Smoot explains that, even though quotas are disapproved, acreage allotments will remain in effect as a means of determining eligibility for price support. All farmers who were engaged in the production of cotton in 1963 will be eligible to vote in the referendum.

The referendum will be held between the hours of 8 a.m. and 6 p.m. on Tuesday, Dec. 11, at the following polling places:

North Calahaln: Powell's Store
South Calahaln: Smoot's Store
North and South Farmington: Fiddle's Store
West Farmington: Johnson's Store
Fulton: Livengood's Store
Jerusalem: Hoover's Shell
Mocksville: County Office Building

There's Nothing Mysterious About A Routine Heart Exam

There is nothing to disturb you in a routine heart examination. Actually, says the Davie Heart Council, the procedure is entirely painless and relatively simple.

Nor is there anything mysterious about the many things your doctor does to examine your heart. The next time you visit your doctor for your regular checkup, see if this isn't so.

There are many methods, tools and tests including laboratory techniques for observing a patient's condition. The doctor uses those which are appropriate in each patient's case.

First, your doctor will talk to you. He wants to know if you have any complaints. Is there anything new in the way you feel since your previous visit? Your doctor is not making idle conversation. The information you give him is important to his estimate of your heart health status.

Then he'll feel your pulse. The rhythm of the pulse reflects the rhythm of the heartbeat.

Your doctor will then take your blood pressure. The instrument he uses actually takes two pressures. This is why a blood pressure reading resembles a fraction. For example, 130/85.

The upper figure is the "systolic" pressure. This is taken at the moment your heart contracts and drives the blood in its chambers into the arteries. The lower figure is the "diastolic" pressure. It's taken at the moment your heart is resting between beats while its pumping chambers refill.

There's another instrument your doctor will use. This is the familiar stethoscope. Through the ear pieces he hears the sounds your heart makes when it contracts and when its valves open and close. The doctor listens for the rhythm, pitch and intensity of these and other sounds. If something is wrong with the heart, there may be differences in these sounds from the way they normally sound.

Your doctor will tap your chest with his fingers to get an idea of the size and position of your heart. This is called percussion of the chest. Sometimes the doctor may shine a bright light into your eyes with a special instrument so that he can see the blood vessels at the back of your eyes. These vessels are the only ones he can observe directly for clues to the condition of your circulatory system.

The doctor may also want to check your heart under the fluoroscope. This is a special type of x-ray machine through which he observes the heart in motion, studying its size, shape and position and the way it contracts. If he wants a permanent record of what he sees he will take an x-ray film.

If the doctor suspects heart disease may be present he may take an electro-cardiogram. This is a zigzag record or tracing of the tiny electrical impulses which makes your heart beat. It does not send any electricity into your body! The test is especially useful to the doctor after a heart attack has occurred. It can often inform him where the muscle is damaged and to what extent.

If the doctor suspects heart disease he may also use laboratory tests to help complete his examination. He may want to check on the kidneys. The lungs or the blood if he suspects heart disease.

The Davie Heart Council points out that the earlier ailments are diagnosed, the more effectively they can be treated. It emphasizes that almost every heart condition can now be helped by proper treatment.

A New Family-Farm Business

The Dutchman Creek Watershed Project will offer landowners in Davie County every kind of recreation opportunity that is connected with out of doors. These opportunities range all the way from picnicking and hunting to selling of recreation land use rights on land around lakes for home or camp lots. The best projections we have indicate that in 1920 the food and fiber needs of a population of 245 million people can be met by production from 407 million acres of cropland, which is 51 million acres less than the 458 million acres we classify as cropland today. With Davie County close to population centers the conversion of cropland to recreational uses should be considered. In the 20 years from 1939 to 1959 the annual recreation expenditure in the United States increased from less than $4 billion a year to almost $20 billion. Currently it is well over $20 billion and evidence indicates that this trend will continue. The largest number of people take part in boating, fishing, camping, and hunting. With the prospect of longer nonworking week ends, shorter workdays, improved highways longer vacations and earlier retirements the demand for rural outdoor recreation will reach new heights in the years ahead.

The 16 floodwater retention dams in Dutchman Creek watershed will have approximately 550 acres of permanent water and one half of the structures are suited for waterfowl management. Recreation use of these privately owned reservoirs can include fishing, frog gassing, picnicking, camping, duck hunting, boating and water skiing. An example of a recreation enterprise is one in southeast where two farmers own and manage a 7 acre flood retaining structure. They landscaped the lake, built a road, installed electric lights and cattle guards, and built picnic tables and barbecue pits. A boat and raft were bought. These improvements cost $970. Annual club membership dues are $25 each for 25 families which makes an annual income of $625. This enterprise is handled as an addition to the farming business. As one farmer put it, "I wouldn't take $10,000 for my lake." Recreation on farm land is already a substantial business and offers many opportunities for income to the agricultural economy. A community made more attractive by desirable recreation facilities encourages new industry to come.

Interesting Historical Find On Samuel Ellis In Local Library

An interesting find has recently come to light in the form of the pension application of Samuel Ellis who served in the Revolutionary War from Rowan County. This is of special interest because it is the earliest reference yet found to Mock's Old Field, the name by which Mocksville was known until sometime in the 1820's.

The story of the way in which this was found is an interesting one in itself. In one of the notebooks kept by the late Miss Mary Heitman and given to the Davie County Public Library was a reference to the pension application of Samuel Ellis, with the military pension file number. With this as a lead, Miss Flossie Martin wrote to a former Davie County resident, Miss Pink Elizabeth Tatum, who now lives in Washington, D. C. This is the same Mrs. Pink Tatum who was alluded to in a recently written historical sketch of the town of Cooleemee as the "Virginia Dare" of Cooleemee since she was the first child whose birth was recorded in that community. Mrs. Tatum procured a photostatic copy of the application which Miss Martin presented to the library and which is now filed with the valuable historical papers there.

Samuel Ellis volunteered as a militiaman in the Revolutionary War and was immediately marched to the "Adkin River" and joined Colonel Locke's regiment. The record of his service as presented in these papers make fascinating reading to those who are familiar with the territory in which he served. One passage tells that: "The army was stationed on the Adkin River at a place called Mock's Old Field where they remained for sometime."

That is the place that was called headquarters but they were constantly kept scouting up and down the Adkin River and in the neighborhood in the effort to keep the Tories down. Many skirmishes were reported. Ellis served six months, that being the length of time for which he had volunteered. After the expiration of this time he was honorably discharged by his captain and returned home.

Sometime thereafter Ellis again entered the service of this country as a volunteer private militiaman in the company commanded by Captain Caldwell and Wilson Lent. He joined Col. Irvin's regiment and again marched on to the Adkin River and did scouting service in both North and South Carolina. In this way he served 6 months and was honorably discharged.

Again volunteering under the same captain, he was joined to the said Col. Irvin's regiment. Again he served faithfully as a private militiaman nine months and in this tour of duty was at the Battle of Cowpens in which he received a wound in the arm. Shortly after this battle he was again honorably discharged and returned home and immediately volunteered again for six months under Captain Jacob Nichols.

Again assigned to the area around the Adkin River, he scouted throughout this area and on to the Catawba River where he was in several skirmishes. Completing this service he was again honorably discharged.

In a reply to a question by his examiner Ellis said of the many times he rejoined the militia: "I was a volunteer in all my tours and services. I never was drafted or a substitute for any person. I chose to fight as a volunteer for my country."

This material will serve as a foundation for the history of Mocksville being one of the most early references. Officials of the Davie County Library report that they look forward to acquiring more such material to hand down to future generations. As one said: "William Powell of the North Carolina Room of the University of North Carolina Library was right when he reminded us that North Carolina has a proud heritage and what we know of it is handed down and preserved by our forebearers. It is up to us to preserve what we can for posterity and thus, we, too, can carry the torch."

NEW BUSINESS DISTRICT — This "L" shaped shopping center, located about midway between Cooleemee and North Cooleemee, is absorbing the business establishments moving out of the "downtown" area. The mass exodus is complete, only one business in service station) will be in the downtown area. And it may close about the first of the year. (Post Staff Photos by Miller)

Business To Be Relocated

Cooleemee's Downtown Area Will Be Wiped Out Soon

By RALPH MILLER
Salisbury Post

Slowly but surely a mass exodus is in progress in the small Davie County community of Cooleemee.

The exodus is being made by the "downtown" business establishments, located in buildings owned by Erwin Mills, Inc., the largest employer of residents of this unincorporated town.

The reason for the exodus is simple: Erwin Mills has determined that it needs the company-owned business district and property for future warehouse space and other company needs.

Consequently, the leases of the few remaining businesses still in the building are not being renewed.

The other business establishments are either completely "closing out" or moving north to a new shopping center area about mid-way between Cooleemee and North Cooleemee.

A. W. Peacock, secretary and treasurer of Erwin Mills, Inc., of Durham, said in a letter regarding the company owned buildings:

"It has become necessary for us to have more warehouse space at our Cooleemee plants and engineering studies have indicated the best location for a new warehouse to be on the site now occupied by commercial buildings on the west side of Main Street. We hope to be able to begin construction of this warehouse within the next few months. The bank and the post office and still located in these buildings and it will be necessary to relocate these activities.

"At the present time we can furnish no further details in regard to the warehouse to be constructed as these plans are in the process of development.

Shopping Center

This mass exodus goes back to about the first of the year when R. L. and Paul Foster of Cooleemee began a shopping center at the intersection of Highway 801 and Marginal St. It was the first major expansion of the town's business district in many years.

As the shopping center grew, more and more of the "downtown" business establishments moved to the shopping center. Then, Erwin Mills announced that leases of the company owned buildings could not be renewed because of the necessity of more warehouse space.

That began the exodus of the remaining businesses from the downtown area. To date, the J. N. Ledford Co. Dept. Store, which opened in 1901 and was the county's largest department store, has closed down.

Already moved to the shopping center are the office of Dr. John P. Sperry and Cooleemee Rexall Drugs, as well as "new" business establishments for the town, including Cooleemee Laundrette, 2 & N 5 & 10 cent Store, and others.

Recently ready to move to the shopping center are the Union Mill, Warner Jewelry Store, a dry goods store, a gift shop and some of the barbers presently working at Shue Barber Shop, still operating in the "downtown" district.

Still located "downtown" in buildings due to become warehouses are the Central Carolina Bank and Trust, the U. S. Post Office, Cooleemee Super Market, and the jewelry store.

The jewelry store and super market reportedly will move to the shopping center, which is possible.

Bank To Move

Charlie Bahnsen, vice president of the bank, said that the bank will re-locate at the shopping center area but will be in a building by itself and will not adjoin other business establishments.

Mr. Bahnsen said that it is hoped that the move could be made within 90 days.

William C. White, postmaster, said that the U. S. Post Office Department has advertised for bids for a new post office at Cooleemee, but that it has not yet been informed as to the results. However, the postoffice will have to vacate its present building as the lease is not to be renewed.

When the above mentioned establishments move, the lone surviving establishment in the "downtown" section will be a service station operated by Charlie Jordan and Buster Carter.

The station is located in a company-owned building, but not one of those presently headed for demolition.

Mr. Carter said, however, that the station would probably remain open until the first of the year. After that, who knows?

It has been reported, but not confirmed, that the company-owned two story brick building on the east side of main street, locally known as the Union Hall building, will be demolished and the rubbish pushed into a ravine behind the present structure. The buildings on the west side of the street, which the company desires for the additional warehouse space, reportedly will be torn down and the warehouse structures erected. Surveyors were in town all day one day last week preparing for this eventuality.

An infrequent visitor to Cooleemee probably won't recognize the town within another six months at which time there probably won't be a single business establishment in the former "downtown" section. All will have moved away.

UNION HALL BUILDING — This building, on the east side of main street in downtown Cooleemee, reportedly is scheduled for demolition to make more parking facilities available. The only business still in the building is the union representative whose office is upstairs. The other businesses have moved out — or closed down.

SCHEDULED FOR DEMOLITION—These buildings on the west side of main street in downtown Cooleemee must be vacated by the few remaining businesses still located in them. In the foreground are the Post Office, a jewelry store and the bank. On the far end is a super market. The buildings reportedly will be demolished and warehouses will be erected.

Early Christmas Mailing Appreciated

Postmaster Roy H. Carter expressed his appreciation today for your excellent cooperation so far on his 1962 "Mail Early for Christmas" Campaign. He said, however, that only by stepping up all Christmas card and gift package mailings immediately, will it be possible to process and deliver your cards and gifts by Christmas Day.

The Postmaster said further, "It looks like the Christmas mail this year will set an all time record, far exceeding the 140,000 pieces of mail that were dispatched and delivered in the pre-holiday season of 1961."

The Postmaster continued, "Let's not disappoint a single friend or loved one at Christmas time by putting off our Christmas mailings to the last minutes."

He offered these good suggestions that are easy to follow — Be sure your return address and the recipients name and address is plainly typed or written on all labels and Christmas cards. Always use zone numbers. Avoid abbreviations of state and city names.

Try to bring your parcels to the postal windows before 10:00 A. M. or between 1:30 and 3:30 P. M. to avoid the noon hour rush.

Pack your Christmas gifts in strong corrugated cartons. Use plenty of stuffing material to insure safe delivery. Seal packages with heavy paper adhesive tape and tie them with good, strong cord. Be sure to ask about Parcel Post size and weight limitations when you go to the Post Office to buy stamps.

Speaking about stamps, the Postmaster said, "Use the color-

Christmas cards for out of town delivery should be sent before December 15th, and those for local addresses should be mailed at least a week before Christmas. Take your problems to Church this week — millions leave them there!

BE AS HAPPY AS YOU WANT

Happiness is quite possible of achievement and the process of securing it is not too complicated. It cannot be obtained, however, by "playing ostrich", keeping the blindfold of the uninformed over your eyes. The eyes must be opened to all that goes on about them. Keep well informed. Be prepared to face realities and personal problems with the assurance that knowledge can solve them.

To become a happy person, have a child's mind, a clean soul, eyes that see romance in common place things—a starlit night—a sunset and above all have spiritual simplicity. These may be yours with resulting happiness, by faithful and regular church attendance, for there you will gather that certainty of mind and strength of will to help fulfill these, which are your personal obligations.

With the aim of fostering that which is good in family and community spirit this message is contributed to the religious life of Davie County by the following:

THE EUROPEAN COMMON MARKET

On the patchwork quilt of the European map, a new shape suddenly looms bigger and brighter than the rest.

It is called, somewhat prosaically, the European Economic Community.

Geographically, the alliance of six nations is one-eighth the size of the United States and has nine-tenths as many people—170 million in all, the National Geographic Society says. Some economists believe it promises to be the world's greatest economic and industrial power, overshadowing even the Soviet Union and the United States.

Known less formally as the Common Market, the Community is the embryo of the "United States of Europe" urged by Sir Winston Churchill. A trade partnership founded by Belgium, France, Italy, tiny Luxembourg, the Netherlands, and West Germany, it is proving remarkably successful in tearing down trade fences, and letting goods and people move freely.

Since it was set up in 1958, the Common Market has put vacuum cleaners in the hands of peasant women, frozen food in iceboxes, shiny new cars on highways. Industrial output has risen eight percent a year.

So, like Cinderella at the ball or a mousy maiden unexpectedly overtaken by an interesting inheritance, the Common Market has eager suitors. Four nations, including the United Kingdom, have applied for membership. Other countries seek, at least, some form of hand-holding association with it.

Even the most casual wanderer in western Europe can see visible evidence of the Common Market. Cars, for instance, with EUR tags. The sign Trattoria over a German factory town. An Italian advertisement for skilled workers in a Dutch newspaper.

By American standards, Common Market distances aren't really great. It is no farther from Amsterdam to Naples than from Washington, D. C., to Miami. A French businessman can fly from Bordeaux to Bonn in less time than an American counterpart could get from New York to Chicago.

Far greater are the mental distances that had to be spanned, the barriers of national interest to be overcome, in forming the Common Market. When the six nations agreed on agricultural policy in the winter of 1962, Germany's Walter Hallstein, the chief executive officer of EEC, noted dryly that the feat took 137 hours of negotiation, the perusal of 582,000 pages of documents, and three heart attacks by participants.

Before the six nations worked out a basic tariff policy in 1958, they had to come to terms on 2,600 conflicting customs regulations. The regulations filled five immense green tin trunks, known collectively as "The Monster" as they were shipped from capital to capital for conferences.

The Common Market apposes an interesting combination of nations.

Belgium, small (11,779 square miles) and crowded (some 9,153,000 people), is a giant workshop. Forty percent of Belgians work in heavy industry. Ports, rivers, canals, and highways serve as trade arteries for the continent. Brussels is the provisional capital of the Common Market. A language line just below Brussels turns Belgium into a French-speaking south and Dutch-speaking north.

The Dutch themselves are used to just such bootstrap operations as the Common Market. They say God created all the world except the Netherlands, which they had to dredge up from the sea themselves. The latest project has turned the Zuider Zee into a shriveled lake and added a twelfth province. The Netherlands is not much bigger than Maryland. It leads the world in dairy exports, yet must import food to feed its healthy population of 11,666,000. It is Europe's most densely populated nation.

West Germany, with American aid and a national knack for hard work, achieved an economic miracle even before the Common Market clicked, the National Geographic Society points out. Within the Federal Republic (the former U. S., British, and French zones) are western Europe's most important coal deposits, also iron ore, potash, zinc, lead, oil. Forty-two percent of West Germany's 54 million people work in industry. Stretching in stair-step zones from the North Sea to the Alps, the country is about the size of Oregon.

Luxembourg's fairytale castles, green valleys, and miniature towns belie its position as the world's first-ranking steel producer per capita. Its 315,000 people are of mixed Gallo-Germanic stock. Their cozy Grand-Duchy, 51-by-35 miles, is nestled between Belgium, Germany, and France.

France, to the visitor, may seem a handsomely landscaped parkland that one crosses enjoyably to get from Paris to another charming city. Actually, its fertile northern plains make it the continent's biggest wheat producer outside Russia. France also is one of the world's leading industrial nations. It exports textiles, chemicals, steel, autos, machinery, leather and luxury goods, wines, fashions. There are almost 46 million Frenchmen; their country would fit comfortably into Texas.

Italy's antiquities provide an incomparable setting for a dazzlingly modernized nation strung with superhighways, studied with busy factories, skyscrapers, and supermarkets. The present-day paean admires sports cars just as his ancestors loved chariots. Italy is slightly larger than Arizona and contains more than 50 million people. Their industrial creativity overcomes the nation's lack of natural resources.

SNOW IS SHELTER

Snow is an insulator, a warm shelter and a vital stepladder for the world of birds and beasts and plants. So reports Jean George, well known nature writer, in a December Reader's Digest article, "Snow Is to Live With."

The fall of a foot of snow, for example, lifts wide footed rabbits who stay on top of it to a new level of twigs and stems for their food. Snow is one of the best insulators for many plants.

The most fascinating use to which snow has been put by the creatures of the wild is in its development as cities. Under the snow are millions of rooms, tunnels and roadways—drilled, packed, dug and bitten there by wintering animals, until a cross-section of a week-old snowstorm would look like a Swiss cheese.

On the rock slopes of the west and the north, the pikas or conies—mountain rabbits with short ears and no tails to get cold—live their daily lives under tons of snow. Mice, shrews, weasels and others all carve roads and rooms beneath the whiteness. The star-nosed mole makes clover-leaves and roller coasters.

Most wild animals, dogs and children love the snow. Mink and weasels play in it, lapping like darning needles in and out, diving into the snow like water. The article is condensed from National Wildlife

Like motorists, some species of ants install anti-freeze in the winter. They generate alcohol in their bodies to cope with the cold weather.

The seismometer that will be carried to the moon by the Ranger 5 spacecraft is so sensitive that it can record the air motion of a piece of typing paper waved two feet away, the National Geographic Magazine says.

THAT'S A FACT

NEEDED . . . The State can save its lawmakers a lot of time and embarrassment by calling a special session of the Legislature . . . or having a special get-together of some kind to let these legislators become acquainted with the new State House.

This learning process is not going to be as "easy as falling off a log." There are so many little offices, cubicles, and hallways that even at the last of the session, in June probably, some legislators will find themselves zigzagging when they should have zipped.

OR BUNC . . . We are indebted to Columnist Charles Craven, as good as they come in these parts, for looking at the State College name change business in the proper light.

By using the name of the city in which the University branch is situated, one comes up with a charming play on words. The State College branch at Raleigh would be "Raleigh, University of North Carolina," the one at Chapel Hill would be "Chapel Hill, University of North Carolina," and the unit in Greensboro would be "Greensboro, University of North Carolina."

But initials, due to our verbal laziness these days, are preferred. Thus the Raleigh unit would be RUNC; the Chapel Hill unit, CHUNC; and the one in Greensboro, GUNC. Then for one yell for the entire University system it would be: "Runc, Chunc, Gunc, Runc, Chunc, Gunc," and so forth. Get it? A yell like that could mean a lot to our teams—unless they are playing each other. Or, unless we happened to establish a strong branch as Shelby.

Also, it would prevent forever the establishment of a unit at Burlington. Well . . . maybe we ought to forget the whole thing.

WHY NOT VOTE? . . . There is a group in this State determined . . . and the propaganda pressure is now pushing . . . to have State College renamed to "The University of North Carolina at Raleigh." Some of the important components of this group are graduates of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Without going into the long background of making State College a unit of Greater University of North Carolina . . . with the bitterness that followed and still follows . . . why can't a vote be held among the State College alumni and members of the student body to determine the name they want? The question would be simple. They would be asked to check as their name selection one of the following: N. C. State College, University of North Carolina at Raleigh, or N. C. State University.

Then the Legislature could look at the vote and go accordingly. The students at State and the alumni of State should be in the driver's seat on this one. We doubt the vote will ever be officially held. Why? Because those wanting the name to be "The University of North Carolina at Raleigh" know this name would be at the bottom of the list in the voting. That's why. To which we say: "Bunk!" Let's have the vote.

JUSTICE CONTRAST . . . A fellow in Fayetteville City Court the other day—one John Barnett of 1324 Lacy Street, Fayetteville—got 90 days on the roads for stealing a 15 cent bottle of ketchup.

At the same session of court, Charlie Bryant of Fayetteville, Rt. 5, got 90 days for stealing a soft drink.

These 90 day sentences seem pretty stiff. "Especially so," says Governor Adams, editor of the Dunn Daily Record, "when you consider the case of two big investment and securities dealers, R. C. Kirchofer and his top sidekick, James W. (Jim) Thompson, tried just a few days earlier in U. S. District Court at New Bern.

"Kirchofer and Thompson admitted they were guilty of taking a vast sum of money—estimated from $4 to $6 million dollars—from orphans, widows and others. They claimed they gambled it away in a grandiose investment scheme which they hoped would make them richer.

Despite their admission of guilt, Kirchofer and Thompson walked out of court as free men, their punishment nothing more than a few years on probation."

In his hard hitting editorial, Adams says further: "Just a little pencil calculation will show you that if all there had been served out of the same spoon—at the rate of 90 days for every ten cents stolen—both Kirchofer and Thompson would have needed 180 million years imprisonment each. That is based on the minimum of just $4 million they got away with . . . The irony is that nobody suffered from the theft of the soft drink. Hundreds suffered—and some of them were left destitute—by the crimes of Kirchofer and Thompson."

JUST WONDERFUL! . . . Now it is just wonderful! . . . And isn't it? . . . how we voted Calt Refawn. Those Inferior Courts, don't you know? How terrible they are: when one driver is charged $13 for an offense in one county and only $11.40 for the same offense in another county. How disgraceful. Or, in other words, Barnett, Bryant, Kirchofer, and Thompson. Runc, Chunc, and Bunc!

NOTES . . . The biggest worry of farm leaders, organizations, and State leaders is Tobacco . . . if a tax had been placed on it by the 1961 Legislature, Sanford would be catching it now! The welkin will ring at the Coliseum on the State College name-change business Friday night, Dec. 7, when State College alumni of Wake County held a meeting . . . The matter of who has authority on What in State Educational Leadership at the Top may be looked into by the 1963 Legislature . . . Needed . . . A man who has visited 83 of the 100 counties since July says "Lake is the man most mentioned"

In 1948 North Carolina ranked 30th in the nation in revenue received from livestock and livestock products. By 1959 it had moved to 19th place.

SO THIS IS NEW YORK

By NORTH CALLAHAN

The late Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt was an outspoken person. I remember from meeting her once. But she did not mind criticism of herself. Once when she was speaking here, another lady in the audience listened, then sent her a note afterward. It said "Mrs. Roosevelt, your speech needs correcting." The sender was Elizabeth Von Hesse, speech teacher of Dale Carnegie and other such notables. Mrs. Roosevelt replied, asking the teacher to come and tell her what was wrong, and she complied. The result was that Mrs. Von Hesse became the speech teacher of Eleanor Roosevelt, and in later years, the verbal expression of the former First Lady changed better.

And speaking of speech, Carl Sandburg combines vocal expression with his writing more than most scribes. He was famous as a raconteur and singer, often accompanied by his guitar, long before he was known as the biographer of Lincoln, to say nothing of his stirring poems about the Middle West. Sandburg recited a long, poetic message to the accompaniment of music at Carnegie Hall one night. A young man came up to compliment him backstage, and Carl told him, "You stick around and we'll open up a keg of nails!" which seemed rather a countryfied contrast in language to the sedateness of Carnegie Hall. But we did get him to go to the apartment of Mrs. O. O. McIntyre, where Frank Warner, the folk singer and old friend, sneaked a guitar out of somewhere, and Carl was persuaded to play and sing a bit, to the delight of all present.

Of course the classical example of speaking is that of Helen Keller. When I interviewed her some years ago, I was almost as touched with the skill and devotion of her beloved Polly Thompson in translating our questions to the deaf and blind woman, as I was with Keller's electrifying words, spoken in a voice as melodious as the notes of a bill, and expressed in language as elegant as a book. When Polly died, Miss Keller said that a great part of her own life was gone. Fortunately, she has a successor who now carries on such help as effectively as possible.

The movie about Helen Keller is doing much to make people realize what a great woman is still in our midst.

More famous for his memory than his voice, Jim Farley used to answer his own telephone and usually address the caller by his first name, expecting to be called "Jim" in return. I remember speaking to him about a matter, he asked me to telephone him—which I did—and what was my amazement, when on mentioning the matter to him, he asked me to refresh his memory as to what it was about! He did admit that all the stories about his recollection of so many names were exaggerated. It seems that this idea of trying to recall everyone's name you meet is exaggerated also. If one honestly does not remember another person's name, there appears to be no disgrace in simply letting this be known, not pretending to have a sincere interest in the person, when there is no such interest.

A man who lived here for many years but who never lost his pleasant Southern accent was Grantland Rice, the eminent sports writer. He was also a good poet and wrote some inspiring pieces on how young people should use good sportsmanship in everything in their lives, not just in athletics. "Granny" Rice, as his many friends called him, never became high-hat in his attitude either, although he was more successful and respected in his field than some whose measure of success went to their heads until they lost them—in one way or another. At this time of the year, with the football season just ending, many New Yorkers look back with a sigh of regret that "Granny" is gone. Somehow he made a football season more colorful, more realistic and memorable. To him it was an important part of life. And he certainly did his part to impress on those who came after him, the fine ideas of self-expression, whether on the athletic field or elsewhere in this expressive drama of our daily living.

SENATOR SAM ERVIN SAYS:

MORGANTON — As individuals we are, I think, refreshed by reviewing the faith of others. This recalls that December 11th was the birth date of one of North Carolina's most beloved men, the late Clyde Roark Hoey. Those who knew Senator Hoey were always granted a new insight into complex, difficult, and delicate problems after a conversation with him. A year before the Senator's death, May 12, 1954, Edward R. Murrow was conducting a radio program called "This I Believe." Senator Hoey was called upon at that time to put into language his faith and creed. Without hesitation, I am told by Miss Ruth Meacham, now a member of my staff, Senator Hoey dictated to her his statement for the broadcast. Because Senator Hoey's creed is a living one, I present it as an inspiration for our day:

"This I believe. I believe in faith—I have always had faith. As an adolescent, I wondered the full-orbed canopy of the far-extended skyline and believed that there was a great first cause—God. To me there was no other explanation of the universe and no other assurance of protection and guidance. When 12 years of age I was privileged to work in a printing office for long hours daily and many times far into the night. After concluding the labors of the day and night, I would walk along a dark and lonely road, through woods and uninhabited section for a long mile to my home. Scared of the dark, I was afraid, to be sure; but armed with a heavy hickory walking stick, I looked up into a starlit sky and thought of my free heritage and believed in Father God and would not admit my fears to even my collaborators. From the standpoint of the world I was unafraid. I am still unafraid.

"Growing into manhood, with manifold responsibilities, and perplexing problems, requiring all the resources of which I was capable, there was the constant and increasing need for some reservoir of power that could be tapped in periods of emergencies and hours of crises. In my faith I discovered that reservoir. "I found matrimony a happy estate. Blessed with a radiant and lovely life companion the establishment and maintenance of a home was a high adventure, and the coming of children into that home brought the full realization of the joy and happiness possible only in this most honored and ancient of earth's institutions. Ten years ago, after 42 years of happy married life, my wife and the mother of my children passed to her reward. My faith in her and her faith in God linger as a blessed heritage in the sanctuary of holy memories. Faith has been indispensable amid the sorrows and sadnesses of life, and has been exhilarating and sustaining in periods of joy and triumph. The experience gained through the years, and whatever learning of knowledge I have acquired, have not lessened, but rather increased my faith in a God who guides the destiny of nations and individuals and who even marks the falling of a sparrow.

"Conscious of my own shortcomings and sins, ashamed of my failures and omissions of duty, and fully mindful of the unfaithfulness which has marked my life, I have never doubted the wisdom and goodness, the might and the mercy of a gracious, loving Heavenly Father—God.

"I join the late great Kansas editor, William Allen White, when he said in a period of crisis, 'I am not afraid of tomorrow. I have seen yesterday. I love today, and I face tomorrow unafraid. There are many clouds on the horizon of America. I have had and shall have many dark nights, but there has never yet been a night dark enough to put out the stars—and there shall not be. This is still 'My Father's World'. And my faith abides."

Uncle Dave From Davie Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

My old lady was in town last Saturday and she brung home one of them slick magazines for women. On account of me not getting my weekly dose of fine reading material from the Department of Agriculture and them other Government agencies, I picked up this thing the other night to give it a glimpse or two.

Things is going on in this country, Mister Editor, that the men-folks don't know about. Some of the items that was in that magazine ought to be barred under the Fifth Amendment. For instance, one of them female writers allowed as how the average man could tell everything he knowed in one hour flat. Personal, I don't think it would slow down his conversation much. After that he could set in and talk about wimmen.

And another woman writer was claiming that they is a plot among men writers to give wives back in the kitchen. I think this statement was a little overdrawed and that most men would be satisfied just to git the wife back in the house. But the item that put the stopper in the jug was this piece by some woman perfesser at one of them big female colleges in New York. First off, she says gossip is good for wimmen, claims the reason wimmen live longer than men is because they relax by gossiping. If that's true, Mister Editor, we got several female characters out this way that'll live to be 187.

And she claimed a "survey" showed that wimmen was talking a heap slower than they was 20 year ago. Just how you could git a "survey" on this subject is a mystery to me. But I reckon it's possible. For instance, I was reading in one of them pamphlets from the Agriculture Department the other week where the 1901 pickle census was now complete and we had a bumper crop of 7 billion cucumbers. And so, pickles or wimmen, I reckon the situation can git "surveyed."

This woman perfesser didn't say why they was talking slower. I figger it must be on account of them running out of breath. It shore ain't because they is running out of someone to say or because they is putting more thought behind it. But this will give you a idea, Mister Editor of what's going on in them slick magazines for wimmen. I aim to tear out a few pages of this magazine and send 'em to my Congressman and ask him if he don't think it's time for a official investigation of the matter. I had half a mind to mention it to my old lady but the other half told me to keep quiet.

Theme: For Safety's Sake Use Your Brakes

TEXT: "Force without forecast is of little avail." - Thomas Fuller

Years ago this story, though funny, was considered fantastic. Today, though funny, it is no longer incredible.

It seems that two women were boarding an airliner when one of them turned to the pilot and said,

"Now young man, please don't travel faster than sound. We want to talk."

Speed! Force! Violence! These words are more commonplace than ever. We explode through life. Everything must be done "yesterday." The world is impatient. It cannot wait. Is there any wonder that destruction accompanies such speed? Should we be surprised that much that is good, valuable and revered is lost; thatangers are stirred and force clashes against force?

In nature there are two powers; one explosive, the other gentle. The volcano, hurricane and earthquake contrast with gentle breezes, soft rains and the slow productivity of the soil. These things that benefit man most are slowly and gently produced. Explosive suddenness destroys or damages much that should be preserved.

Before the birth of Christ, Emperor Caesar Augusta frequently used the phrase, "Make haste slowly." To accomplish results that build a reliable future we must use the promptness of the day and the delay of carefulness. For safety's sake, let's use our brakes.

Louis W. Keaton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis M. Keaton of R. 2, Advance, is undergoing nine weeks of basic recruit training at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

The indoctrination to Navy life consists of physical fitness drills, military drills, basic military law, customs and etiquette of the naval service, swimming and survival, first aid and basic shipboard routine.

During the training, recruits receive tests and interviews which determine future training and assignments in the Navy.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherrill Jones and daughter Anna Mae, of Harmony visited Mr. and Mrs. Kelly Smith and family Sunday afternoon.

On Friday evening Grey Matthews and son, Mitchell, discovered a strange object in a tree on their property. They retrieved it and found it to be a radioonde released by a weather station in Greensboro on Nov. 28. The radioonde is an instrument consisting of a miniature radio transmitter and instrument attached to it into the upper atmosphere in a small balloon. It then drops by a parachute to transmit recordings of temperature, pressure and humidity to ground observers. The radioonde contained directions for returning a portion to the station, minus the balloon and parachute.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Joyce attended the Saddle Club meeting Saturday night in Kernersville. Larry Joyce spent Sunday with Mitchell Matthews.

Social Security In Davie County

Did you know that you do not have to retire completely to get some social security benefits? As a matter of fact, there are a good many men and women who don't want to retire at 62 but prefer to go on working. Some may continue to work full time while others may cut down on the amount of work they do.

The social security law takes this into consideration and applies an annual test called the "Retirement Provision" or "work clause" in determining if any benefits are payable.

There are 3 parts to this test: 1. If your earnings in a calendar year are $1200 or less, you are entitled to all your social security checks.

2. If your earnings are over $1200, you are entitled to a check for each month in which you did not earn over $100 as an employee or render substantial services as a self-employed person.

3. If your earnings are over $1200, you would lose $1 in benefits for every $2 you made between $1200 and $1700, and $1 for each dollar you made over $1700.

There is an exception which applies to a very small percent of social security beneficiaries. Any one who works outside the United States 7 or more days in a month is not entitled to his check for that month, regardless of his earnings.

And, of course, at age 72 a person is entitled to his benefits no matter how much he earns.

If you would like a free booklet which describes all these points, write or phone your social security office, or drop in and ask for "21 Questions and Answers for Working People Past Retirement Age."

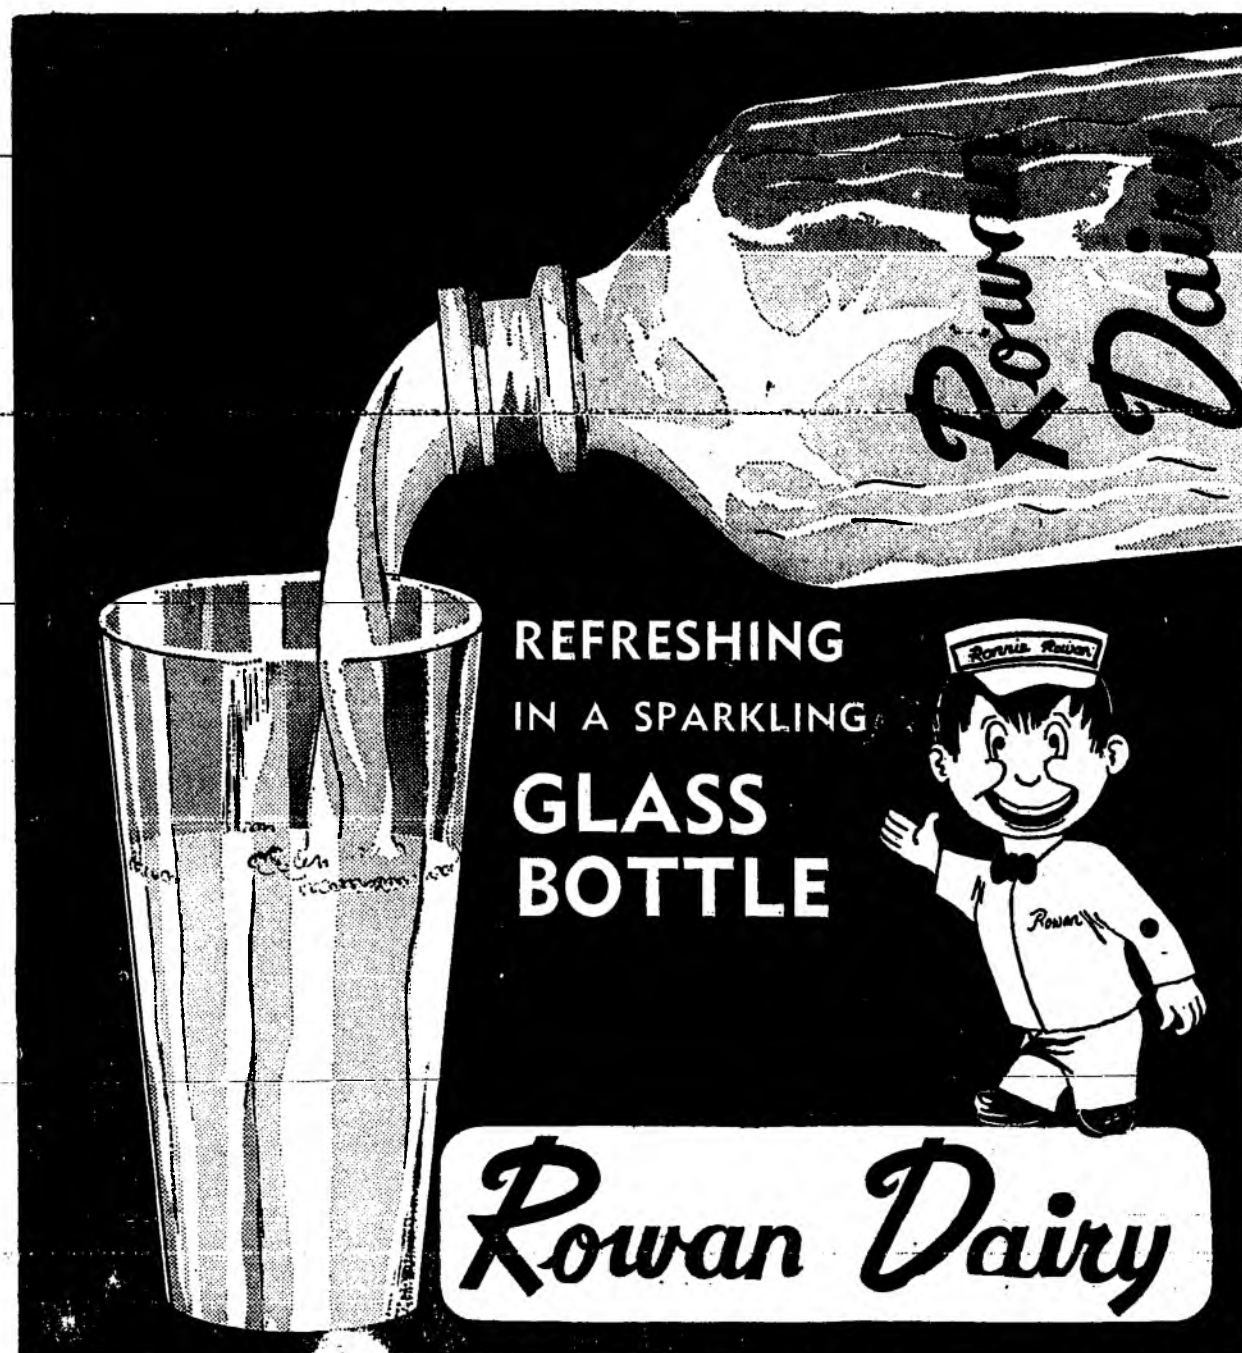

If you want to find out if it would pay you to apply for your benefits now, even though you're still working, stop in at your social security office and talk it over.

The average person spends about $91 per year for meat.

LEO F. WILLIAMS County Farm Agent

TOB. CO GROWERS
Davie County tobacco growers can now get detailed information on varieties available for their 1963 crop from their county extension office.

Agricultural Agent Leo F. Williams, reports that he has received results of the 1962 Official Tobacco variety tests conducted annually by North Carolina State College.

Included in the tests were eight of the most commonly planted flue cured varieties, plus 9 new varieties that will be offered for planting for the first time in 1963.

"Results of these tests are not to be taken as official recommendations," Williams said. "But we do believe they can serve as useful guides in helping farmers pick a variety for 1963."

Included in the tests this year were Hicks Broadleaf, NC 95, Coker 316, McNair 10, McNair 12, Coker 80 F, Speight G-3, and Speight G-10. In addition there were nine new varieties: Bell 29, Coker 319, Coker 111, McNair 20, McNair 30, Reams 61, Reams 266, Speight G-5 and Speight G-19.

Since most farmers have not had an opportunity to observe these new varieties, Williams passed along the following descriptions prepared by research and extension workers at State College:

Speight G-5 — developed from a cross of Coker 139 x Hicks — produced a high yield with lemon to orange color, rather thin body, particularly at bottom of plant. Texture was fair. Nicotine percentage was medium low and nitrogen to nicotine ratio was medium high. Field appearance was similar to the old line type. Plants were medium in height, and had long, pointed, broad leaves. Plants had a medium number of leaves, and a low number of ground and leaf axil suckers. Speight G-5 flowered late. It was moderately resistant to black shank and Fusarium wilt, and susceptible to Granville wilt.

Speight G-19 — developed from a cross of Coker 187 x Speight 31 — produced a medium high yield with lemon color, rather thin body and fair texture. Nicotine percentage and nitrogen to nicotine ratio were medium. Plants were light green in color. They were of medium height, with medium broad, long and blunt leaves in lower part of plant, getting shorter and more pointed at top. Plants had a high number of leaves along with a high ground and leaf axil sucker number. Speight G-19 flowered medium late and had some variation in plant type. It was moderately resistant to black shank and Fusarium wilt, and susceptible to Granville wilt.

McNair 20 — developed from cross of (244G x White Gold) x Hicks — produced a moderately low yield of lemon to orange color, medium body and fairly good texture. Nicotine percentage was medium high with a low nitrogen to nicotine ratio. Field appearance was similar to old line types.

Plants were medium in height and even in color. Leaves were fairly long and medium narrow at bottom of plant, becoming more narrow and pointed at top. Leaf number was medium. McNair 20 flowered medium early. It had a low number of ground suckers and a high number of leaf axil suckers. It was highly resistant to black shank, susceptible to Granville wilt and moderately resistant to Fusarium wilt.

McNair 30 — developed from cross of (224G x White Gold) x Hicks — produced a high yield with orange color, medium body and fair texture. Nicotine percentage was medium high with a medium nitrogen to nicotine ratio. Field appearance was similar to old line type. Plants were medium in height, green in color, with fairly long, medium broad leaves at bottom, becoming more narrow and pointed in the top. Leaf number was medium. McNair 30 had medium flowering date. It produced a low number of ground suckers and medium number of leaf axil suckers. It had moderate resistance to black shank, low resistance to Granville wilt and high resistance to Fusarium wilt.

Reams 61 — selection from field planted to a commercial variety — produced a high yield with lemon to pale lemon color, fairly thin and papery leaves, especially toward bottom of plant, and poor to fair texture. Nicotine percentage was medium low with a medium nitrogen to nicotine ratio. Plants were tall, light green in color with medium broad and medium length leaves, especially near bottom of plant. Leaves were shorter near top of plant. Leaf number was medium high. Plants flowered fairly late, and produced high number of ground and moderately high number of leaf axil suckers. Reams 61 was moderately resistant to black shank and Granville wilt. It had low resistance to Fusarium wilt.

Reams 266 — developed from cross of Coker 187 x White Gold — produced a medium low yield with orange color and fair texture. Nicotine percentage was medium high with a low nitrogen to nicotine ratio. Field appearance was similar to old line types.

medium with nitrogen to nicotine ratio medium high. Plants were medium in height, moderately green in color, with medium length, broad leaves carrying the width well to the top of the plant. Reams 266 flowered medium late, had a medium number of leaves, and produced a very high number of ground suckers and moderate number of leaf axil suckers. It was rated moderately resistant to black shank and highly resistant to Granville wilt. Its resistance to Fusarium wilt was low.

Coker 319 — developed from cross of Coker 139 x Hicks — produced a high yield with orange color, fair texture, thin to chaffy body at bottom of plant, becoming thin to medium near top. Nicotine percentage was medium and the nitrogen to nicotine ratio medium high. Field appearance was similar to old line type. Plants were medium in height, green in color, with medium narrow leaves at the bottom becoming narrow and pointed in the top. Plants had medium high leaf numbers, and produced a medium number of ground suckers, and a high number of leaf axil suckers. Coker 319 flowered medium late. It was moderately resistant to black shank and Granville wilt and highly resistant to Fusarium wilt.

Coker 111 — sister selection to Coker 128 — produced a medium yield with orange color, medium body and fair to good texture. Nicotine percentage was medium high and nitrogen to nicotine ratio was medium. Field appearance was similar to old line type. Plants were medium high, green in color with narrow, medium along, pointed leaves, especially in top of plant. Plants flowered medium late, had medium high leaf numbers and low number of ground and leaf axil suckers. Coker 111 was highly resistant to black shank, susceptible to Granville wilt and had low resistance to Fusarium wilt.

Bell 29 — sister selection to Bell 16 — produced a high yield with fairly rich, orange color, thin to medium body and reasonably good texture. Nicotine percentage was medium low and nitrogen to nicotine ratio was medium high. Field appearance was similar to old line type. Plants were medium in height, green in color with broad leaves, were long, especially at bottom of plant, becoming shorter and more pointed at top. Bell 29 flowered late. It had a medium low number of leaves, and low number of suckers. It was rated highly resistant to black shank and Fusarium wilt and moderately resistant to Granville wilt.

Roy R. Bennett extension tobacco specialist at State College, said the large number of disease resistant varieties now available gives growers their best opportunity in years to distribute their acreage among a number of varieties.

"This should be the objective of tobacco farmers," he added, "if they want to grow tobacco with quality characteristics suitable to all segments of the trade."

Bennett also pointed out that limited information is available on the new varieties.

"If you are satisfied with your present variety stay with it until you have had a chance to gain experience with the new tobacco," Bennett suggests. "It is better to grow a small acreage of new tobacco the first year than to go into large scale production immediately."

Sunday was the first Sunday in the season of Advent. The Advent wreath with the four candles, three purple and one pink was used in the morning service at Macedonia Moravian Church. The Advent wreath is made from live evergreens and stands for the eternity of God. The candles symbolize the Light that is come into the world in the person of the Lord Jesus Christ. The lighted candles, one for the first Sunday, two for the second, three for the third and four for the fourth Sunday remind us of the words of the Saviour when He said, "I am the light of the world." Later he told His disciples, "Ye are the light of the world." The first Sunday in Advent sounds the key note for the entire season — Preparation to welcome the coming of our Lord. The second Sunday, the emphasis is on the Holy Scriptures which tell of His coming. His incarnation and its meaning for us. The third Sunday stresses the responsibility of minister to preach to mankind God's plan of salvation through Jesus Christ. The fourth Sunday urges us to show humility, confess our sins, and accept the grace and mercy of Jesus Christ our Lord in view of His approaching visitation.

We share our sympathy with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Myers in the loss of Frank's father, Earl Myers.

Season's Greetings

FROM

THE DAVIE COUNTY

MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION

As we once again approach the celebration of the birth of the Christ Child, we appeal to the people of Davie County to observe the Sundays of Advent in a manner appropriate to the Lord's Day and to this sacred season. We trust that, in the spirit of the ancient commandment, this will include the cessation of unnecessary labors and of commercial pursuits so that all may have an opportunity to rest and consider the deeper meaning of life in the light of this significant event. Certainly, in a time of such accelerated pace and heightened activity, one day in seven is not too much to ask for such special observance.

Sincerely,

THE DAVIE COUNTY

Do you have a green thumb? If not, maybe this information on how to plant trees and shrubs will help you develop one.

If you buy ball and burlapped plants, handle them with the ball only — not with the top. If your plants cannot be planted immediately when they arrive, keep them cool and moist until they can be put back into the soil.

Before doing any planting, remove all Bermuda grass, if it is present. You can remove it by hand or you can do it much easier by waiting until next spring and use chemicals such as Dalapon, Alacide or TCA. Once the grass is removed it can be kept from reentering the bed by spraying around the edges with one of the above chemicals.

If you are spacing your plants less than six feet apart it will probably pay you to prepare the entire bed rather than individual holes. This is especially true with plants like azaleas and roses. In preparing your beds for azaleas, roses and other shallow rooted plants, I work into the soil three to four inches of peat moss, leaf-mold, well rotted sawdust, manure, or other forms of organic matters. At the same time I'm working this in, I work in about three pints of 8-8-8 fertilizer to each 100 square feet. This means the entire bed is prepared so digging holes is no problem.

If you do not prepare the entire bed, dig each hole at least 12 inches wider on all sides and six inches deeper than necessary to accommodate the ball of soil or root system. Set the plant so it will stand the same depth that it grew originally. In case of camellias, dogwoods, azaleas, and boxwoods set them slightly higher to allow for settling. These plants will not grow if planted even one or two inches too deep.

Leave the burlap on plants that have been wrapped this way. Place bare-rooted plants in the hole so the roots are in their normal position. Fill in under the plant with good soil and pack thoroughly to prevent the plant from settling.

If you do not have good top soil, mix with your soil some of organic matter such as peatmoss. Fill in around the plant and pack thoroughly. Then water thoroughly. Make a ring of soil two or three inches high around plant to retain water when it is added in the future. When the plant starts growing in the spring fertilize with an 8-8-8 fertilizer at the rate of about three pints to each 10 by 10 (100 square feet). Mulch with three to four inches of pine straw or other coarse material.

The last and most important thing is to "time" the plant back. Unless you are using a container-grown plant, remove from one-third to one-half of the top to balance it with the loss of roots.

An outstanding job was done by Recland 4-H Community Club in building a float for the Mocksville Christmas Parade held Dec. 8. The 4-H Club members are: Deborah Lynn Cook, Carol Jean Sparks, Nancy Karen Cook, Treva Smith, Carolyn Ann Lankford, Mitchell Matthews, Darrell Smith, Arnold Robertson, Rayford G. Hendrix, David Hendrix, Michael Longworth, Elmer Hendrix, Steve Foster, Danny Robertson, Maurice Platt, Trudy Smith, Marsha Platt, Donald Sparks and Ray Foster.

These members made carnations from Kleenex tissues and sprayed these carnations to give the beautiful array of green and white, our 4-H colors.

Working with these 4-H Club members were the 4-H adult leaders: Mr. and Mrs. Gray Matthews, Mrs. Virgie Smith, Mrs. J. C. Cook and Mrs. J. Roy Foster.

Social Security In Davie County

Students, housewives, and others who plan to make extra cash by working during the pre-Christmas rush were advised to avoid possible delay by getting a social security account number now.

Robert C. Thomas, district manager of the Salisbury Social Security Office, reminded students who have never had a social security number to apply for one without delay at their nearest social security office.

Housewives should check their social security cards to make sure that the account is in their married name. If the card is still in the maiden name, application should be made to change it, Mr. Thomas suggested.

The key to the benefits which are paid to workers who retire, die, or become disabled is the number on your social security card. Any person who cannot locate his or her card should take immediate steps to make application for a new one by obtaining a form for this purpose at the nearest social security or post office. The new social security card will have the same number originally assigned to the worker.

The competition for Christmas jobs is always hectic, Mr. Thomas said. Having your social security available will make finding cash-producing Christmas employment easier.

Proposed Bill To Tighten Requirements For

TEEN AGE DRIVING LICENSES

North Carolina teenagers would have a tougher time obtaining a driver's license and keeping it, under a bill which will be introduced in the 1963 General Assembly.

The Governor's Coordinating Committee on Traffic Safety, which is preparing the state's attack on traffic accidents, has released details of a bill aimed at two objectives — to make completion of a driver education course a requirement for all new drivers between the ages of 16 and 19, and to tighten the reins on violation-prone drivers up to the age of 20.

In 1961 drivers under 20 made 7.7 percent of the driving population but represented 15.5 percent of drivers involved in all accidents and 14.5 percent of drivers in all fatal accidents.

Under the bill, youngsters between 16 and 19 would have to complete a high school driver education course, or its equivalent, before applying for a driver's license or learner's permit.

Drivers up to age 20 would be known as "provisional licensees," and the accumulation of moving violations (as opposed to parking and technical infractions) would bring mandatory suspension of the provisional license in this way:

For conviction of the second moving violation — 60 days; for the third conviction — six months; for the fourth or subsequent conviction — one year.

Suspension for 60 days could result from the first conviction if property damage or personal injury were involved.

The squeeze felt by young violators under the proposed law would come from two directions. First, suspension would come more quickly; and second, any two moving violations would be grounds for suspension purposes regardless of the weight they might carry under other provisions of the law.

Under existing law the Department of Motor Vehicles can suspend a license for two convictions of speeding over 55 mph or reckless driving, if they occur within 12 months of each other. And under the point system several violations other than speeding and reckless driving are necessary to warrant suspension.

North Carolina's privately-endowed Traffic Safety Council has voiced its support of the legislation.

"The bill is not a crackdown on all young drivers, but seeks only to penalize the few dangerous youngsters who are responsible for the alarming accident experience among young people," Executive Director Phil Ellis said.

"It is a fact that some young people — and adults — seem to be more concerned about the possible loss of their licenses than the loss of their lives. Therefore, the best way to save their lives, and the lives of others, is to threaten the loss of their licenses," he said.

The Department of Public Instruction says all county and city school systems in the state are in a position to offer driving instruction at all high schools for students of beginning driver's age.

In the 1961-62 school year all the of the 173 county and city school units provided elective driver education courses for 47,000 of the some 74,000 students who arrived at their 16th birthday during the school year. Approximately 25,000 Tar-Heel youngsters quit school at the age of 16 each year.

The present annual revenue from the $1.00 tax on the driver's license for driver education is about equal to the cost of the program at the present level. In most schools this includes the cost of automobiles and other equipment, as well as teacher salaries.

Nationwide studies recently completed show that it costs more in insurance premiums to be without driver education than the cost per pupil of a standard course, the Traffic Safety Council said.

SELECTING SAFE TOYS

Christmas is a happy time for American families, a time for families to get together and enjoy each other...and to exchange gifts.

Already Santa's helpers (mothers and dads and grandparents and aunts and uncles) are visiting the toys shops in anticipation of making it a big Christmas for the small fry.

The toys this season are infinite in variety and ingenuity. Most of them are completely safe for small children, but some of them may have inherent built-in dangers to the health and safety of the youngsters.

The American Medical Association has offered the following shopping hints that may help you insure that Christmas in your household is unmarred by a preventable accident or illness originating from toys or decorations...

.....Avoid toys made of lead or colored with lead-based paints. Small children sometimes chew off the lead paint and swallow it, and serious illness could result.

.....Be careful about small toys that can be swallowed, flammable toys and toys with rough or sharp edges.

.....Baby's toys should be too large to put in the mouth, washable, lightweight and non-brittle.

.....Electric toys can be a special hazard. Look for the UL (Underwriters Laboratory) label on the cord and the toy itself.

.....Missile-throwing toys, from sling shots to air rifles, are dangerous, particularly to the eyes. Toy archery sets also are hazardous. If your child receives a toy that propels BB shot or arrows, by all means establish ground rules for safe use and see that they are enforced.

Christmas tree ornaments, particularly strings of small lights, are another potential holiday hazard. Children will sometimes chew up and even swallow a small bulb with obvious results. Tree lights of flimsy wiring or old strands that have been reused for years, sometimes can be fire hazards.

Glass tree ornaments often shatter easily and sprinkle shivers around the room. Handle ornaments and lights with care and keep the extras and the discarded bulbs out of reach of the tots.

The blue nilgai, India's largest antelope, are running wild in Texas, the National Geographic Society says. A herd of 16, imported 20 years ago by the King Ranch, has multiplied to 3,000. Standing 4½ feet at the shoulder, the swift nilgai once provided sport for India's Mogul emperors. Today, cowboys hunt the dark, blue-gray animal across Texas prairies.

Early American painters wielded their brushes in a variety of ways, the National Geographic Magazine says. A typical newspaper advertisement of the early 19th century reads: "Bronzing, oil gilding and varnishing, enameling on glass, painting with water colors and crayons, portraits, miniatures and military standard painting, also drawings of machineries of every description."

Brazil shares a common border with all other South American countries except Chile and Ecuador, the National Geographic Magazine says. Only Russia, Canada, China, and the United States exceed it in size.

A STOCKING WITH SOMETHING FOR EVERYONE

CONSERVATIVE... There was a lot of up-sleeves laughing in these parts the other day when Gov. Sanford straight faced said he regards his administration as "conservative."

No trouble to find thousands — yea, tens of thousands — who will disagree... as to the first two years. But as to the two years coming up it looks as if the Sanford administration, tax wise if not otherwise, will be contentedly conservative.

1. The Governor said last week he does not think there is "sufficient demand" for a highway bond issue. There had been hints one would be asked for in the Legislature.

2. The Democratic Party, of which the Governor is titular head, went on record last spring against any type of "new taxes." So, when Terry Sanford used the term "conservative" in speaking of his term of office, he might have been looking unconsciously to the future rather than unconsciously to the past.

BIG FAMILY... A few days after the long reference here to the late Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, I was reminded that her children may have already set something of a record — and with many years still ahead of them.

We have not been able to check on it carefully, and could be in error on the plus or minus side. If memory serves correctly, however, Anna Roosevelt has had 3 husbands; James Roosevelt, three wives; Elliott Roosevelt four wives; John Roosevelt, one wife; and Franklin, Jr. two wives.

That adds up to 13 mates for the five survivors of Mrs. Roosevelt. Only one — John and the lone Republican of the crowd — has with him the one he was first married to. But, somehow despite this, Mrs. Roosevelt will be recorded as one of the greatest women America ever produced.

TOGETHER... A wrong guess by one of the Kress Stores founders about 15 years ago has resulted in a unique development which could prove most beneficial to North Carolina. Nothing like the Kress art collection of course, but good.

In Raleigh once on a visit, the Kress brother observed near the Capitol a nice bit of real estate for sale. It ran completely through the block from Fayetteville Street to Salisbury. It was purchased and a handsome Kress store was established there. But it never paid off, never made money. So in time the new building was put up for sale. Retailers were not interested, for the location was "No State. No traffic. All dignity."

Now it has been taken over by the City of Raleigh for the fine old Olivia Raney Library, which now has 80,000 volumes. With the help of Raleigh Optimists move to the new building was completed last week.

Thus Raleigh's spanking new Olivia Raney Public Library finds itself cheek to cheek with the huge State Library housed in the old Supreme Court Building which also quarters the State Utilities Commission.

For an expense of $1,000 to $1,500, more or less the City of Raleigh and the State of North Carolina can have under one roof — only the cutting of a door is necessary — one of the most valuable libraries in the United States.

Uncle Dave From Davie Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

I see by the papers where the U. S. Department of Labor is taking a few tips from them Pentagon boys on how to unloose the taxpayers from some of their money. They come up with a rule here awhile back that Mexicans working on American farms was "prohibited" from driving tractors.

Well, this piece in the papers reports that a few Mexicans have been sneaking behind the steering wheel and the Labor folks has set up $247,000 to hire 25 more inspectors to catch 'em.

This brings up another problem. Who was going to drive the tractors? They was a big shortage, for instance, of tractor drivers in the Yazoo delta in Mississippi and crops for storage was wasting away in the fields. The Department of Labor, working on the theory that it was better for the crops to rot in storage than in the fields, appropriated $482,056 for training tractor drivers in the Yazoo delta area.

Just why workers that know how to drive tractors can't drive 'em, and why the taxpayers has got to spend $729,056 on this situation is somepun I can't explain for you, Mister Editor. I reckon it's like Franklin Roosevelt, father of the New Deal and God-father of the New Frontier, explained these matters once to the voters, "We planned it that way."

And while we're trying to nab Mexican tractor drivers here at home, we're having a little problem with television sets over in the Congo. The Congress appropriated $250,000 to distribute TV sets in parts of the Congo that ain't got no electricity.

Congressman John Dowdy of Texas was complaining about this matter to the State Department, and them boys in the striped pants explained to Congressman Dowdy that the TV sets was going to be operated by batteries and that the batteries going to be recharged by a generator run by a treadmill contraption sorter like a kid's merry-go-round. They said small animals, maybe squirrels, could be used to turn the treadmill.

I don't know, Mister Editor, how the supply of squirrels is holding out in the Congo, but it looks like we're getting a over-supply of squirrels in Washington.

I was reading the other day where ole Kruschef said the United States was a "nation of nuts." As usual, ole K'rushy ain't 100 per cent correct, but he ain't 100 per cent wrong neither. And furthermore, he forgot to state that we got enough squirrels along the Potomac to take care of any nut surplus that might come up.

Yours truly,
Uncle Dave

Theme: There Is Such A Place A Doubter's Prison

TEXT: "He that doubteth is damned." - Romans 14:23

A man accused of horse-stealing was saved from conviction by the powerful plea of his lawyer. After his acquittal by the jury the lawyer took him aside and asked,

"Honorable bright, Bill, you did steal that horse, didn't you?" "Now, look-a-here, Judge," was the reply, "I allers did think I stole that horse but since I hear'n your speech to that jury, I'll be doggoned if I ain't got my doubts about it."

The world is full of doubters. Some doubters honestly seek knowledge. That is good. Others doubt so habitually that doubting becomes a way of life. Everything is negative to them.

Fenelon, the French writer who died in 1715, turned a bright light on one reason for doubting. He wrote, "Many exaggerate their doubts to excuse themselves from action." This is particularly noticeable in children, but it carries over into adults too. We express doubts to excuse our laziness.

SO THIS IS NEW YORK

By NORTH CALLAHAN

Are we just playing footsie with the Russians, or are they giving us the well-known run-around and laughing up their furlined sleeves at us? That is what many conscientious Americans are asking. No one as yet has the answers. Yet President Kennedy recently commented that since in Russia people are reading American writers like Jack London and Ernest Hemingway, "art knows no national boundaries." His general observation is doubtless true, but it seems unfortunate that London and Hemingway are singled out as being typical. Both were fine writers but failures as men! Both were heavy drinkers, loose livers, fatalistic thinkers, apparently doubted the existence of God and both ended up in what appeared to be suicides. There are many American writers with more wholesome qualities who could better be cited as examples.

If you can't think of an appropriate gift for your favorite person at Christmas and funds are no problem, then drop around to ole Gotham. There is a diamond at Tiffany's, 128½ carats, for a mere $512,000. By mail you can probably order a pair of those His and Her airplanes from a Dallas store for around the same amount. At a local toy store there is a doll's mink coat for $400, and a mechanical magician who makes a doll disappear, for $3,500. A store also features a sterling silver frying pan for $320, a far cry from the iron skillet of my early days. Of passing but challenging interest is an 18-carat gold letter knife, its coral handle paved with diamonds, sapphires, emeralds and turquoise, for only $3,300. Keep the change.

As the winter season comes on and New York takes on the appearance of a gigantic fairyland, Central Park with snow and twinkling lights stands out enchantingly. At its lower eastern end is the elegant old Plaza Hotel, a landmark for hansom cabs and mellow memories. Recently it has announced something that makes sense: special rates for professors and their students. Clergymen have long been favored with discounts. But here is a hotel which recognizes that the lowly pedagogue deserves consideration of his moderate compensation too.

A young king said to a wise man, "In adversity I become half-hearted about myself and behave weakly. On the other hand, when I have success I am so filled with self-confidence that I become careless and make silly mistakes. Write me a book which will cure me of these faults and I will read it every day." The wise one answered, "There is no need for a book. Give me that ring you are wearing and I will comfort you in adversity and temper you at a time of success." He scratched on the ring: "It will pass."

It seems that on about every other corner in the city, a new building is going up. I stopped by one of these construction jobs and found that pamphlets were being given out, explaining how the steel parts are used. I said that Charles Charles Schwab was the first steelmaker who dared to roll steel columns in the shape of an "H." Of course the idea was a great success, and now such columns are commonplace. They support whole skyscrapers, like the legs of a table. It is fascinating to watch those steel workers walk around 50 stories above the sidewalk, as confidently, or more so than we on the ground. Soon they have a modern, efficient and comfortable building ready for use.

Here and There: the two comedians, Smith and Dale, are 78 and 81 years old, respectively, and still active and funny. They claim the first time they ran into each other was on bicycles...R. C. Montague states after a visit to a local army post, that the new combat ratings are acceptable — for several days, not longer...local laundry workers had a dispute with bosses over working conditions but they all got together and "ironed out their differences"...a woman who was charged with having too many kittens in her house, appropriately had a lawyer named Jacques J. Katz...M. K. Wisheart has written a new and intriguing biography of that renowned Tennessee-Texan, Sam Houston.

Senator SAM ERVIN Says:

MORGANTON — The 88th Congress will convene in a few weeks. From opening day until adjournment, the nation's 535 lawmakers will be engaged in the introduction of bills, daily committee meetings, and debate and action by the Congress. The pattern of prior legislative sessions indicates that it is almost certain that rules changes by the two Houses of Congress will be matters of concern during the forthcoming session. Senate Rule 22, which governs debate in that body, is expected to produce a battle over whether the Senate should allow less than two-thirds of those present and voting to cut-off debate on an item of legislation. The House may renew its discussion over the makeup of the 15 member House Rules Committee. After the determination of these procedural matters, as well as the appointment of committees Congress will begin its consideration of legislation.

Certain to be of primary concern at this session will be national security. Our recent firm action with respect to Cuba has lifted our prestige in the eyes of the world. However, I see no basic evidence that the Soviet bloc has relented in its purpose to rule the free world. For this reason, it will be necessary for our nation to maintain an unassailable military position for the foreseeable future. Discussion among the Soviets and Red Chinese over Communist policies has not altered our need for strong military forces and armaments.

Taxation is almost certain to provoke more discussion at this session than any other single issue. Prior to the opening of Congress he President is scheduled to outline his views on economic matters confronting our nation. Already there are highly conflicting views of how tax cuts, tax reforms, and spending programs should be brought into agreement with anticipated revenues.

Since World War II mounting farm surpluses have created the 20th century farm problem in the United States. Vast strides in farm technology have created a vastly different farm situation in this nation from that faced in Soviet Russia and Red China. Our farm problem is overproduction for the U. S. and world markets while their concerns a growing underproduction. Wheat, feed grains, and cotton programs appear to be the main items on the farm calendar. American agricultural interests are so divergent that there are no ready solutions.

Renewed fights for federal aid to education, medical care for social security, mass transit systems, Urban Affairs and a host of other issues that have been fought over for several sessions, will constitute other principal issues. All in all the 88th Congress promises to be a lively one.

Social Security In Davie County

Many maids, cooks, and other workers in private homes are not getting credit under social security, according to Robert C. Thomas, district manager of the Salisbury, N. C. social security office.

If you work for someone in their private home make sure you get social security credit for your work by following these simple rules: If your work is in a non-farm home and you receive $50 or more in cash wages during any calendar quarter from any one employer, insist that the employer report your earnings and pay the social security tax. Also be sure your employer copies your name and social security number from your card.

When you reach age 62 you may receive monthly old-age benefits, but only if a certain number of quarters of work have been reported for you. The number you need ranges from 6 to 40, depending on your age. For example, a woman who reached age 62 in 1957 or earlier needs only 6 quarters. If she is 62 this year she needs 10, or if she will reach 62 in 1970 she will need 19 quarters of work.

Workers who become unable to work any time before age 65 may receive disability benefits if they have enough quarters of work. If a worker dies at any age, benefits may be paid to her survivors. Make sure your earnings are reported — it's very important to you.

HOW SOIL TESTS CAN HELP YOU

Have crops on your farm been making top yields asks Leo F. Williams, County Extension Chairman? If not, you will want to examine your entire production program and see where improvements can be made. Top yields require the right kind and amounts of fertilizer - and may be lime. Since it is not possible to look at a soil and see what deficiencies exist soil tests provide information useful in deciding if fertilization practices have been adequate and what changes are needed.

The plant food requirements of a crop can be supplied by fertilizer broadcast before planting, at planting and topdressed or sidedressed after the crop is established. For example, soils low in phosphorus may need broadcast applications of phosphates in addition to normal fertilization, if top yields are to be produced. Similar conditions may be encountered with potassium. But, sidedressing or topdressing the potassium fertilizer near the time when the crop has its highest requirement for the nutrient may be desirable, especially on sandy soils. These soils usually have a low capacity to hold potassium against leaching.

Most soils are low in nitrogen unless planted to a legume crop. The average soil also has a low capacity to hold nitrogen against leaching. Therefore, the accepted practice is to have some nitrogen in the fertilizer used at planting time and to apply the remainder needed in one or more applications. However, potassium and nitrogen applied ahead of planting have been satisfactory on soils medium to high in clay. Soil test information provides a guide for adjusting fertilization practices to insure that the crop has an adequate supply of available plant foods at a time when they are needed. A condition essential for top yields say Williams.

For more information about soil tests and the procedure for having samples tested Williams invites you to visit his office or see one of the other county agricultural workers.

CHEVROLET...on the road every day!

ITS RELIABILITY COMES FROM ITS QUALITY

A nutshell description of Chevrolet trucks could be "Trucks That Work". It's not exactly earthshaking but it says a mouthful. It's what Chevrolet trucks are best known for—their reliability. Ready to work, day after day, whenever you are.

You can't build trucks that perform like this if you don't put quality into engine, chassis and body. Chevrolet does: double-wall construction, insulated cab, select-wood body floor, chain-supported tailgate, ladder-type frame, the careful attention to upholstery and finish. It's this kind of quality that makes any Chevrolet truck—from pickup to heavyweight tandem—worth more on the average at trade-in!

Local Youth For Christ To Attend Convention

Missionaries still in their teens will tell of their experiences to 12,000 of their contemporaries at Capital Teen Convention in Washington, D. C., Dec. 27, 28, and 29. The Convention is sponsored by Youth for Christ International, the organization that sent out the "Teen Team" young people to 24 nations.

A dozen young people who served on Teen Teams for periods of four to six months in 18 nations on two continents will sing, play instruments, and speak to the convention meeting in the National Guard Armory.

One team of seven young people will return from Europe just in time for their appearance at the Convention. They were featured in assemblies in 40 West Berlin high schools, in addition to appearances in Portugal and West Germany.

Other teams represented at the convention ministered in Scandinavia, the Near East and several European countries.

The Teen Team members will be featured in Capital Teen Convention as part of the World Challenge session on the closing day when the theme is "The Horizon of the Teen-Ager."

Rev. Wendell Collins of West Chicago, Ill., Director of Teen Teams, is the speaker at the session. He said recently, "These Teen Teams have proved that properly trained, talented young people can make an impact on their own age group in overseas situations in almost any country. There is a freedom of expression between the American teen and the foreign young person that has made it possible to bring the Gospel message to thousands of teen-agers. We believe that many of the delegates at Capital Teen Convention will be considered for future Teen Team service."

There will be around 60 young people from Capital Teen Convention from Winston-Salem and Mocksville.

About This Question

"A home under construction burned to the ground from a short circuit in temporary wiring. Another home had its walls blown down in a strong wind. Several others were damaged or destroyed by youngsters. Can builders get insurance to cover homes under construction against all such losses?"

For the answer to this, and all your insurance questions, consult the Morris - Larew Insurance Agency, Inc.

Cancer Clinic Held Each Friday In Guilford

"One of every seven women examined for uterine cancer falls into a special 'high-risk' group and should have more frequent check-ups than other women, preferably twice a year. These findings appear in the preliminary report of a study of 79,763 women over 30 years of age in Lucas County, Ohio. The report was read at a recent meeting of the American Society of Clinical Pathologists; the study is part of a long term program financed in part by the American Cancer Society.

The study shows that women examined and given a Papanicolaou smear test could be classified as either "high" or "low" risk. The women in the high risk group, over a period of 7 1/2 years, had a uterine cancer rate of 29.5 per 1,000; the low risk group had an incidence of cancer of 5.2 per 1,000 women.

The Papanicolaou smear test is a highly accurate detection technique which has played an important part in reducing the death rate from uterine cancer from 26,000 in 1937 to 14,000 in 1961. The majority of the deaths last year could have been prevented according to the American Cancer Society, if the cancers had been detected early by "Pap" smears.

"Women in this area are especially fortunate in being able to have 'Pap' smears done by their private physicians or at the free Cancer Detection Clinic at the Guilford County Health Department in Greensboro," Mrs. Walter McKelvey, executive secretary of the Guilford County Unit of the American Cancer Society stated. "This is not the case in all parts of the United States. Many lives would be saved and much suffering avoided if all women would assume their personal responsibility in the control of uterine cancer."

Ten Commandments For Living With Your Heart

There's no such thing as a guarantee against getting heart disease, and any hard-and-fast blueprint for a way of living that furnishes such a guarantee is a long way off, says the Davie Heart Council.

But you can increase your chances of preventing heart trouble by living with moderation—the essence of the North Carolina Heart Association's "Ten Commandments for Living With Your Heart."

1. Find a doctor you respect, obey him, and cling to him as though he were your most precious possession—which he is. (It's important to you to build a continuing relationship with a doctor who is familiar with your condition. When you find one in whom you have confidence, stop shopping.)

2. Tell your doctor the truth at all times and encourage him to call you in for periodic check-ups.

3. When you kid the doctor, you simply kid yourself. He's there to help you, not to pass judgment on you.

4. Pity the fat man; the statistician numbers his days.

5. When you cut down on your food, you don't lose anything.

doctors believe you will eat as much in the long run by living longer.)

6. If your brain earns your living, be moderate as a weekend athlete or laborer.

7. But do get as much regular exercise as possible.

8. When the snowdrifts are high, let some younger fellow shovel out the drive-way.

9. Unless you're accustomed to regular physical exercise and are in top shape.

10. Avoid self-dosing—"He who doctors himself has a fool for a physician."

(Your doctor wouldn't try to do your job—don't try to do his.)

11. Fortunate is the man who has a mild heart condition and knowing, it, learns to live with his heart.

A touch of heart disease can be a valuable warning signal leading you to live in such a way that you can still be active and add years to—rather than subtract them from your life.)

12. Plan to take time out—daily, weekly, yearly—for rest. When you rest, your heart rests.

13. [Automobile batteries need recharging. So do yours.]

14. Don't worry. Health is more than the absence of disease. If you have cause to worry, do all you can to remedy the cause—and stop worrying.

15. [Excess tension can overwork your heart. You will be happier if you live positively.]

16. Be your age.

17. Every age has its riches. Enjoy them as they come to you.

Valuable Book

Mr. Lou Hines of Cana, has recently donated a valuable book, which is now out of print and obtainable only with difficulty, to the Davie County Public Library. It is the first of two volumes written by Dr. George Washington Paschal, former faculty member of Wake Forest College, and the title is "History of North Carolina Baptists."

In 1926 the Baptist State Convention of North Carolina published the preparation and publication of a comprehensive history of North Carolina Baptists. In 1939 Volume I was published, covering the period from 1633 to 1865.

"The library counts itself most fortunate to have a patron who is interested and generous enough to make such a gift to its collection," said Mrs. Paul Flackwelder, county librarian. The library also owns Volume II of Dr. Paschal's work, and both volumes will be available to anyone wishing to use them as reference material in the library. Volume II brings the history up to about 1955.

Farmington Scouts Receive The Coveted God & Country Award

The 12th point of the Scout

LAW TEARS:
"A Scout is reverent. He is reverent towards God. He is faithful in his religious duties and respects the convictions of others in matters of customs and religion."

Two of the Scouts of the Farmington Baptist Church, Earl Groce and Jimmy Groce, have spent more than a year in service and learning of the church. During that time these two young men deepened their faith and understanding of the nature and purpose of the church. They grew spiritually through the reading of their Bibles daily for at least 3 months. They memorized and interpreted several passages of scripture and they learned the location of the books of the Bible. In addition, these two young men read a book on missions and a book on the nature and purpose of the church. They also became familiar with the location of Baptist missions around the world. Part college and institutions in North Carolina, and the Baptist doctrine and history. They also served their local church by maintaining its yards for three months, cleaning the church for three months, and by painting a sign identifying the Farmington Baptist Church and the hours of its worship.

For this effort, Earl and Jimmy were awarded the highest religious honor which a scout may receive — The God and Country Award.

Wedding Festivities Fete Bridal Couple

REHEARSAL DINNER
Miss Edith Morris and Claude R. Horn, Jr., who were married Saturday evening in the First Presbyterian Church, were fete with a whirl of pre-wedding festivities.

A rehearsal dinner was given honoring the bridal party Friday evening in the Manor House at Tanglewood Park. Hosts were Mr. Horn's parents and his sister, Mrs. E. P. Ellis, and Dr. Ellis of Anderson, S. C. The bridal table overlaid with a white linen cloth, was centered with a long arrangement of white gladioli, chrysanthemums and silver bells. Also featured in the room were Madonna and angel arrangements with white and gold flowers. Numerous white lighted candles cast a soft glow over the scene. Thirty-five members of the wedding party, families and out of town guests attended the four-course dinner.

AFTER-REHEARSAL PARTY
An after-rehearsal party was given by the bride-elect's aunt, Miss Sarah Galtner, at her home.

White lilies, mums, and snapdragons were used in attractive arrangements throughout the spacious home. Pink carnations were used in the living room.

Mrs. Harford Sims of Decatur, Ga., served the four-tiered wedding cake and Mrs. L. G. Sanford served molded ices. Fruit cake, nuts, mints and cheese biscuits were also served. Mrs. C. R. Horn poured coffee in the library while a cheery open fire burned. Fifty guests were present.

WEDDING BREAKFAST

Fifty guests attended a wedding breakfast Saturday at the Manor House at Tanglewood. Host and hostess were Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Murray of Morehead City. The breakfast was given in honor of Mrs. Murray's niece, Miss Morris, and her fiancé, Mr. Horn.

The bride's table held a long arrangement of white roses, snapdragons, and snowflakes. The smaller tables for the guests were centered with cupid composites and accessories were served to the 20 people present for the occasion.

STOCKING...

THERE'S A MULTI-MILLION-DOLLAR "present" missing from your Christmas stocking this year, but it is not our fault. We tried to put it there.

More than a year ago we asked permission, as present laws require, to make a deep reduction in the prices we charge for hauling grain into and within the South. These lower prices would have saved you—the people of the South—some $37 million in transportation costs this year, and every future year. This is money that belongs to you.

Despite this great saving to the families of the South—to everyone who eats bread, meat, poultry, eggs—our request to lower freight charges on grain has yet to be granted. A few selfish interests (largely waterway barge operators) who profit—at your expense—seek to keep railroad freight rates high. They have done and are doing everything possible to block us because our lower prices would reduce their high profits. But we have a duty to serve you well at the lowest possible cost and we will not shirk that duty. We will continue our efforts until these rates are put into effect.

We're not Santa Claus. Our lower prices will save you money—they will make money for our railroad, too. In the public interest, it is high time that we be allowed to stuff your stockings with these enormous savings in transportation costs—not just at Christmas time, but the year around!

AT THE OVERHEAD BRIDGE

MOCKSVILLE, N. C.

SEATS . . . Secretary of State Thad Eure and Bankers Association Director Harry Gatton could have an interesting discussion on seating and offices for members of the N. C. General Assembly and of Congress, respectively. Where, and how, you sit . . . and hang out . . . is important!

Gatton, having spent many years in Washington as administrative assistant to U. S. Senators, knows the problems there. In Raleigh, Thad has his own . . . particularly now that a new State House is aborning.

TOGETHER . . . In Raleigh, most Republicans live together—usually in the Andrew Johnson Hotel . . . and sit together . . . in the back rows of the House or Senate. But they don't have to. And, as a matter of fact, old legislative hands in the GOP have an occasion occupied front row seats.

If a seat becomes vacant and an old codger, tops in seniority, wants it, he can get it. But, as a usual thing, this seniority is not exercised and Thad Eure can assign as he pleases. So Republicans . . . if they wanted to—could find themselves seated here and there over the House or Senate.

BACK ROW . . . Since he has no instructions otherwise Secretary of State Eure assigns the Republican portion of the House to the back row. Due to the fact that the other party occupies seats here and there all over the chamber the rear is probably the only place the Republicans can sit in a body. It has its advantages . . . if they care to use it.

This time, the 21 Republican members of the House can, at a given signal, control all close votes. They will occupy the two back rows. Of the 10 two-term Republicans, only two asked for special seats. They have aisle seats on the two back rows. Each row of legislative seats in the new State House will consist of 12—with an aisle between—in your city hall or courthouse.

THE SCRAMBLE . . . "How office space in the new State House in Raleigh is going to be assigned to legislators in February has not been the subject of inquiry by me," writes Bankers Director Gatton, "but I hope that it is not as confusing as office space in the Senate and House in Washington."

So, you see this matter of space is not exactly confined to the Venus Rocket. This is, indeed, a Space Age. We all want just the right kind . . . and, always, more of it.

"Up there," writes Gatton, meaning no doubt the rarefied atmosphere of the Nation's Capitol, "an office is not only a place for carrying on business—but to many it is a point of status, prestige, and seniority."

Word has trickled down that the scramble is on by some of the Congressmen of the 88th Congress for the pace vacated by their colleague and predecessors who did not seek re-election or were inordinately retired by the voters."

MAHOGANY BOX . . . And old hand at writing interestingly—you have heard him countless times interviewing Sen. Sam Ervin on the radio and have read after him in the papers—Gatton continues: "Office space in Washington is assigned on the basis of seniority, varying between the Senate and House. In the event of equal seniority, on the Senate side 11 Senators were elected at the same time, etc.) their previous office-holding record is studied. If one had served previously in the Senate, he'd be given the nod; after that comes governorships, mayoralties, the size of states, etc. But it is often a matter of a Senator liking his present office space and not desiring to claim more elaborate quarters as his seniority increases."

"On the House side, where change is more frequent due to two year terms the practice is different. This year 67 freshmen members of the House will compete for the available office space . . . more or less even seniority."

"How is this problem solved? No complicated machines involved—they pull numbers out of a mahogany box in the Speaker's office, round after round, continuing until all the spaces are drawn and the latter freshmen get that which is left by the more senior of the people's representatives."

et that which is left by the "S. O. B." . . . Gatton admits a certain nostalgia as he recalls "the office furniture piled high in the corridors while the grand shuffle is going on. Just remember that when one Congressman moves, a chain reaction is in that endeth one knows not when. In the meantime the hired hands around the building, including the painters who swarm in and out of office suites with great haste, go nuts trying to keep track of seniority."

"But the visitor to the Senate Office Building is often shocked by all the furniture in the corridors, each place carefully labeled 'S. O. B.' There is a chatter of indignity until the poor souls discover that the letters mean simply Senate Office Building. Such are the ways of Washington."

NOTES . . . A former long time team of Wake Forest College will spend his second consecutive Christmas . . . all but helpless—at Dorothea Dix Hospital here—and a few doors away from him in this particular hall is a former high official of a Winston-Salem financial institution, with outlets throughout N. C. Gaddy Real Estate Co. here has for sale within a block of the State House a piece of land of 32,000 square feet. The price: $160,000. Handling the sale is Charles W. Gaddy, only son of Claude Gaddy, leading Baptist layman and no mean real estate dabbler himself.

Uncle Dave From Davie Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

The fellers at the county store Saturday night was paying their respects to this new 5-cent stamp they got to put on letters come January 7. Ed Doolittle said his neighbor was showing him a item in Time Magazine where France was putting out stamps now with mint-flavored glue. Ed allowed as how they ought to put a little flavoring in the glue for this new 5-center we got coming up, claimed it might take some of the bad taste out of the public's mouth.

Clem Webster said he couldn't get too excited over Ed's suggestion. He figured it would take them Congressmen 5 years to agree on a flavor. But Clem did admit it wouldn't hurt nothing for the Congress to get started on this idea at the next session. Zeke Grubb reported he was reading a piece in the papers where the Post Office officials was estimating they would be 4 billion Christmas cards mailed this year, that they would weigh 80,000 tons and the postage would come to around $123 million. As a general thing, Mister Editor, I always send a 10-center to my Congressman at Christmas time, but on account of not knowing how he voted in this postage hike I'm leaving him off this year. That'll cut the estimate down a hair.

Bug Hookum was lamenting that we got another Christmas just around the corner and that things ain't no better maybe worse, than they was last Christmas. Bug claimed that all this welfare business and deficit financing has sprung up in the last 25 years. He told the fellers he figured it gets started down in the public schools. He says the teachers is afraid of the principals and the principals is afraid of the superintendents and the superintendents is afraid of the school boards and the school boards is afraid of the parents and the parents is afraid of the children and the children ain't afraid of God Almighty. Bug allowed as how it was time the schools give more courses in hard work and less courses in how to get along in a welfare state. He said he was in favor of teaching kids in the first grade that a feller ain't got equal rights in this country unless he pull a equal part of the load.

That was the longest speech, Mister Editor, I ever heard Bug make in all the years I been sitting in on the meetings at the country store. But the fellers liked it pretty good and Ed Doolittle even made a motion that we run Bug for the next big school job come the next election. Everybody, including me, voted for the motion.

Yours truly,
Uncle Dave

A MERRY CHRISTMAS AND HAPPY NEW YEAR... TO YOU AND YOUR FAMILY!

In extending our best wishes for happiness during Christmas and the New Year, may we take this opportunity to urge you to join with us again in a "Drive for a Safe Holiday!" program.

We hope you will bring the following safe driving tips to the attention of your family and your motoring friends. If enough of us follow these suggestions we will help assure a happier and safer season for all.

- PLAN A SAFE DRIVE . . . . . Allow plenty of time for your holiday travel. On long trips make frequent stops. Arrive relaxed.
- BE ALERT TO HOLIDAY HAZARDS . . . . . Drive in keeping with road, weather, and traffic conditions. Remember, most holiday accidents involve drinking and speed too fast for conditions.
- WATCH OUT FOR OTHERS . . . . . Make allowances for unpredictable driver and pedestrian actions. Give yourself and others an extra margin of safety.
- USE COURTESY ABUNDANTLY . . . . . Resolve to "Make Courtesy Your Code Of The Road." It Pays!
- BE SURE YOUR CAR IS SAFE . . . . . Drive with good tires—properly adjusted brakes—lights and turn signal working—windshield wipers and defrosters functioning properly.
- USE SEAT BELTS . . . . . Fasten them when you enter the car. Seat Belts are "Circles of Safety" for you and your family.

Full enjoyment of the Holiday Season is something to which all of us look forward. With this enjoyment, however—and we know you agree—comes individual responsibility to protect your family, and your community. LET'S ALL DRIVE FOR A SAFE HOLIDAY!

Social Security In Davie County

Both soil bank payments and farm rental income can affect the amount of social security benefits payable to a farmer and his family. It makes no difference if the farmer be landlord, tenant, or sharecropper so long as his farming arrangements meets certain requirements of the law, according to Mr. Robert C. Thomas, district office manager of the Salisbury, N. C. Social Security office.

Soil bank payments must be reported as self-employment income for social security purposes if all the land is placed in the soil bank by all the parties farming it.

If the farmer and his tenant place only a part of the land in soil bank and farm the rest, then owner or landlord must "materially participate" in the production of the growing crop, Mr. Thomas said.

Farm rental income must also be included as self-employment income if the owner or landlord "materially participates" in the production of a growing crop.

Mr. Thomas said that a free pamphlet for farm people was available at this time, and could be obtained by writing his office, 105 Corriher Avenue Salisbury, N. C. or calling phone number 633-4512, and asking for "The Social Security Retirement Test for Farm People", OAS-25E.

DISCOUNT VARIETIES OF FLUE-CURED TOBACCO
Flue-cured tobacco counties have been advised that the discount variety program will be in effect again for 1963.

In addition to Coker 139, Coker 140, Dixie Bright 244 and Coker 187 Golden Wilt, the Department announced that Reams 64 and Coker 316 and any other unreleased tobacco breeding types or strains having characteristics of Coker 139, Coker 140, Dixie Bright 244, Coker 316 and Reams 64 will be supported at one-half of the support rates for comparable grades of acceptable varieties. Tobacco growers are encouraged to produce quality tobacco by selecting good varieties, and using production practices which tend to produce ripe, grainy tobacco with full body, flavor and aroma.

If you are over 65 and still working, write today for social security leaflet 23c — you may be eligible for some social security benefits.

'Tobacco Bowl' Race To Have The World's Fastest Animal As Guest

The world's fastest land animal, an African cheetah will be a special guest at Bowman Gray Stadium Dec. 29 when NASCAR's fastest race cars compete in the ninth annual "Tobacco Bowl."

Stadium race director Alvin Hawkins said that officials of the Charlotte Motor Speedway, which recently adopted the big leopard-like cat as a mascot, have accepted an invitation to bring the animal to the holiday event for its first public appearance at a race track.

"I understand," said Hawkins, tongue in cheek, "that they want to give the cat some short track experience before putting him on that big track at Charlotte." The Charlotte track is a mile and a half, as compared with the quarter-mile course in the stadium.

The cheetah can run at a speed of about 70 miles per hour — which is considerably faster than a race car can travel on the tight, difficult stadium track.

Charlotte Speedway official Duke Ellington said the cat — which arrived from Africa last month — is tame and easily managed by people with whom it is familiar. Ellington handles it unleashed, and the cheetah has spent a night in Ellington's bedroom.

However, Ellington said, because the animal has not yet become accustomed to the big crowds and the loud engine noises at the stadium race, it probably will not be permitted to run unleashed at the stadium race.

The Saturday afternoon "Tobacco Bowl" races will be open to the modified-sportsman and hobby (amateur) divisions of sanctioning NASCAR. The feature event will be a 100-lap modified-sportsman race, with hobbyists competing in a 20-lap feature. Two 10-lap heats will be staged for each.

The $2,500 meet is scheduled to start with practice runs and qualifying trials at 12:30 p. m. on Dec. 29. The first race is slated for 2 p. m.

The top four drivers in national modifier standings and the national sportsman champion are expected to be among the entries. Ed Flemke of New Britain, Conn., who finished second to Ed Crouse of Glen Allen, Va., in modified standings, is the defending champion in the bowl event.

Carl Burris of Leakeville, N. C., a regular in weekly summer races here, and Dennis Zimmerman of Glastonbury, Conn., finished third and fourth in the national modified rankings in that order. Rene Charland of Agawam, Mass., 1962 national sportsman champ, finished third in this event last year.

LEO F. WILLIAMS
County Farm Agent

COLLECT SOIL SAMPLES NOW

What information are you planning to use as a basis for deciding how to fertilize next year's crops, asks Leo F. Williams, County Extension Chairman for Davie County. It is not too soon to study your production programs and plan how to increase next year's profits. One of the first questions to ask yourself is, have crop yields been as high as the soils on my farm are capable of producing? If not, an analysis of production practices may indicate what can be done. High per acre yields are needed for efficient production and good profits.

If the yields of some crops have been low you will want to look at your liming and fertilization practices. Soil tests are a good place to start. They will show the present lime status and fertility levels of soil in each field. Where the soil test results were low there is a good chance that past fertilization has only been adequate for yields you have been making and changes would be needed to produce top yields.

Soil tests should be a regular part of any crop production program. Lime and fertilizers are added and plant nutrients removed in harvested crops. Soil tests serve as a report of what is accumulating or disappearing from the soil. This is comparable to your bank statement. You wouldn't think of maintaining a bank account without a regular report showing your "balance". This gives you the information you need to decide whether or not you can buy a new car and how much more you will need to buy a late model. The same applies to fertilization. You can't make the top yield without an adequate supply of plant nutrients.

Plan now to use soil tests, urges Williams. Don't put it off! Collect samples and send them to the Soil Testing Laboratory. The county extension chairman's office will be glad to furnish you boxes and instructions for sampling.

WHY TEST SOILS?
Farmers in Davie County keep asking "Why test soils?" says Leo F. Williams, County Extension Chairman. Being a practical man he tries to use something on the farm to make a comparison, take a tractor for example. How could you operate a tractor without the oil and gas gauges? Well, soil tests are gauges to show the fertility level and lime status of each field sampled. How can you be sure that the lime and fertilizer you apply is adequate for top yields if you don't first take a reading from the gauges?

A man doesn't pour oil into the crankcase without first checking to see if any is needed and how much. He knows that the tractor won't operate at full power if the oil gets below a given level. The same goes for lime says Williams. The pH, which is the main gauge for lime needs, regulates many reactions that take place in the soil just like oil lubricates the moving parts of the tractor engine. But you can't go far if you let the oil get too low. Neither can top yields be realized in soils that are too acid.

Now compare the gas gauge to soil tests for phosphorus or potash. It takes more gas to fill an empty tank than one which is only half empty. The same applies to fertilization. It takes more fertilizer, containing phosphorus or potash, to supply what a crop needs if the soil tests low than if the soil is medium or higher. Since you have been asking questions Williams says he would like to ask one. How do you gauge your liming and fertilization? If you have not been reading your gauges and would like to know more about soil tests, come by my office and let's talk about them.

ONE SOLITARY LIFE

HERE IS A YOUNG MAN who was born in an obscure village, the child of a peasant woman. He grew up in another village. He worked in a carpenter shop until he was thirty, and then for three years he was an itinerant preacher. He never wrote a book. He never held an office. He never owned a home. He never had a family. He never went to college. He never put his foot inside a city. He never traveled two hundred miles from the place where he was born. He never did one of the things that usually accompany greatness. He had no credentials but himself.

While he was still a young man, the tide of public opinion turned against him. His friends ran away. He was turned over to his enemies. He went through the mockery of a trial. He was nailed to a cross between two thieves. While he was dying, his executioners gambled for the only piece of property he had on earth, and that was his coat. When he was dead, he was laid in a borrowed grave through the pity of a friend.

Nineteen wide centuries have come and gone, and today he is the central figure of the human race and the leader of the column of progress. I am far within the mark when I say that all the armies that ever marched, and all the navies that were ever built, and all the parliaments that ever sat, and all the kings that ever reigned, put together, have not affected the life of man upon this earth as has that One Solitary Life.—Anonymous

Yes, Virginia

"Yes, indeed!"

"Virginia, your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age—they do not believe except what they see—they think that nothing can be which is not comprehensible to their little minds.

"All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or children's, are little.

"In this great universe of ours, man is a mere insect, an ant, in his intellect, as compared with the boundless world about him, as measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole truth and knowledge.

"Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus.

"He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas! how dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Claus! It would be as dreary as if there were no Virginias. There would be no childlike faith then, no poetry, no romance to make tolerable this existence. We should have no enjoyment, except in sense and sight. The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished.

"Not believe in Santa Claus! You might as well not believe in fairies!

"You might get your papa to hire men to watch in all the chimneys on Christmas Eve to catch Santa Claus, but even if they did not see Santa Claus coming down, what would that prove? Nobody sees Santa Claus, but that is no sign that there is no Santa Claus—the most real things in the world are those neither children nor men can see.

"Did you ever see fairies dancing on the lawn? Of course not, but that's no proof that they are not there—nobody can conceive or imagine all the wonders that are unseen and unseeable in the world.

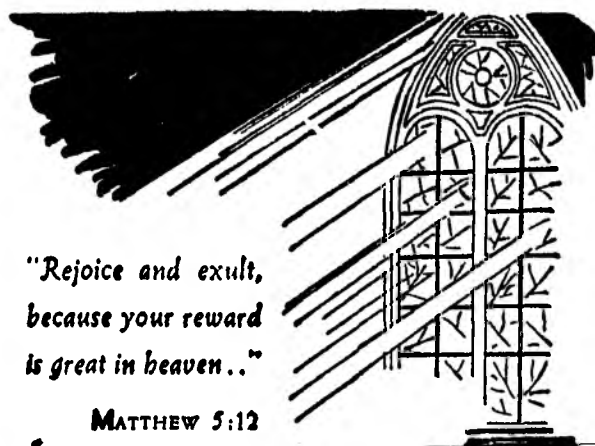

"You tear apart the baby's rattle and see what makes the noise inside, but there is a veil covering the unseen world which not the strongest man, or even the united strength of all the strongest men, that ever lived, could tear apart. Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance, can push aside the curtain and view and picture the supernal beauty of all glory beyond.

"Is it all real?—ah, Virginia, in all this world there is nothing else real and abiding.

"No Santa Claus! Thank God! he lives, and he lives forever—a thousand years, from now, Virginia, nay, ten thousand years from now, he will continue to make glad the hearts of childhood."

The Christmas Dinner

Dorothy Boys Killian
YOUNG Mrs. Frank Sanderson hung up the telephone receiver and stared bleakly at the beautifully set dining table. The Santa Claus sleigh centerpiece filled with red and white striped candy canes,
the sprig of holly at each place setting, the gleaming silver—was it all to be for nothing?

"I'm so terribly sorry," her mother had just said over the phone. "We simply aren't going to be able to make it for Christmas dinner. The roads are just a sheet of ice..."

"Oh, Mother!" Eva had exclaimed. "It won't seem like Christmas at all without you here.
And Frank and I were so excited about it being our first time to have the family..."

"I knew how disappointed you'd be, Eva," Mother answered. "But Dad says it's just impossible."
"Oh, Frank!" Eva was close to tears. "It's going to seem so queer without Mom and Dad..."

"I know how you feel, honey,"
Frank put an arm around her comfortingly. "And what's more,

"I know how you feel, honey,"
Frank put an arm around her comfortingly.

what about all that food sitting around in the kitchen?"

"We'll just have to find somebody to eat with us," Eva wiped her eyes and looked thoughtful.
"Let's see, can you think of any of our friends here in town who hadn't planned anything special for today?"

"Well," Frank said, "the Spring-ers are eating with his folks,
the Albrights left by train yesterday for Detroit, the McCalls—oh, you know as well as I do that everybody's dated up. You just don't leave Christmas dinner to chance."

"Frank! What about the Aarongaards? You know that fisherman and his family who live in the cottage down by the docks?"
"You mean that tall, quiet guy with three or four tow-headed kids?"

"Yes; and I heard someone in the post office yesterday saying they've been having a struggle lately—the river's been so ice-blocked that he can't get his boat out to the lake, and there's nothing coming in for them."

"Honey, that's a swell idea!"
Frank agreed heartily. "But what'll we tell them?"

"Why, just the plain truth, that our folks couldn't make it at the last minute and we'd be so glad if they'd substitute for them."

"Maybe they won't believe it," Frank said. "They've got their pride you know, people like that don't want charity."

"Just try anyway, Frank," Eva pleaded. "Go ahead and phone him right now."

"O.K., here goes." And Frank went to the phone.

A minute or two later Frank hung up the receiver and shook his head. "Just what I was afraid of," he sighed. "When I first started to talk, and wished him Merry Christmas he seemed tickled to death that we'd thought of them, but the minute I mentioned the invitation he froze up and said very politely that they had their own plans. He just didn't believe the story."

Eva looked crestfallen. But after a moment's silence she suddenly said, "Let me have that phone," and hastily dialed a number.

"Mr. Aarongaard, this is Mrs.
Sanderson. We're so sorry you can't come to dinner here. It would have meant a lot to us. But I'm calling this time to ask a favor of you."

"I understand that you go inland to Brinkville every week or so to deliver some fish orders. I just wonder if, the next time you go, you'd be kind enough to take my family's gifts to them—their farm is right on your way."

"Yes, all their things are under the tree here. We naturally expected them to pick them up when they came to dinner, but—"

Eva began to smile as she listened, and then said cordially,
"Oh, fine, we'll expect all of you at about three o'clock. Good-bye
'til then." And she hung up the receiver.

"They guess they'll come after all, if we don't mind their changing their minds," she reported happily.

"You're a smart little wife if I do say it myself," Frank grinned.
"Come on, let's shove that bird in the oven."

Choose Holiday Tree Wisely if You Hope To Transplant Later

Are you buying this year's Christmas tree with the idea of planting it on the home grounds
after the holidays?

If so, be sure that you locate it properly. Chances are your earthballed and burlapped evergreens will have to suffer through the excessive heat of your home for a week or ten days. If it survives this hurdle there is still the problem of selecting a sunny, well-drained site where it won't drown before spring.

Poor planting sites plus midwinter planting are certain to cause a high mortality rate among these double-duty trees.

Sandy or gravelly soils drain naturally and present no special problem. Planting in heavy clay is another matter and may require the installation of drainage tiles.

Don't be alarmed if your living tree sheds some of its needles indoors. Go ahead and plant it anyway. Ensconced on a suitable site, the evergreen probably will begin sporting new greenery next growing season. Even if the tree looks a bit skeletalized in early spring, have patience. Don't remove it!
Give it a chance to recuperate from its indoor ordeal and the shock of transplanting. It will probably come through with the desired needles.

One thing to remember: Such living trees as Norway spruce, Scotch pine and Douglas fir grow to proportions that make them undesirable as foundation plantings.
After planting where the evergreen can achieve majestic majority, mulch with peat moss, hay or straw to prevent root freeze.

Holiday Centerpieces Easy, Fun to Arrange

A little bit of imagination and work can transpose common articles into elaborate and effective holiday centerpieces.

Try setting up a mound of stairs
with white plastic foam blocks.
Then set tall red candles on each step and insert sprigs of holly or pine in the base for extra trimming.

Desserts can be as decorative as your centerpiece. Make white snowball cakes with a small red candle set in each one, and place them on a holly tray.

Individual place decorations are easy and fun to make. Cut out cardboard stars and glue a 1/4-inch strip of cardboard around the star outline. Paint or cover them with folk. Set candle in the middle of each star and fill the rest with peppermint mints or tiny metallic balls or similar things.

Many Christmas legends and customs are part of the folklore of our ancestors in all parts of the world. Many of them, too, are a mixture of early Christian and pagan observances which time and Christianity have given new meaning.

Santa Claus, our American giver of gifts, is little known elsewhere in the world. In Eastern and Southern Europe, it is the Wise Men who arrive bringing gifts. In Hungary the gifts come from the Angels. In Poland from the stars, in Greece, St. Basil is the gift-bearing patron saint.

Popular tradition has it that the candle we place in our windows at Christmas is a custom originated by early Christians to whom the candle represented the star that guided the Wise Men to the stable at Bethlehem. One interesting legend tells of a shoemaker who, though poor, always placed a candle in his window at night to guide weary travelers, and so inspired the villagers that, soon, each window contained a lighted candle.

The holly bush, long associated with Christmas, and with many legends was once called the holy-bush, because in its natural state the berries ripen at Christmas time.

The Wassail bowl, which today is Christmas punch, is said to have come to us from the ancient Saxons. Wassail was a word of greeting which meant literally, "What Hails?" or "How fare you?"

At Christmas time, traditions of the Old World live again. Pinatitas, doves and festive straw chains from South Europe; wheat sheaves, paper and carved wood from Scandinavian countries; angels, stars, Czechoslovakian bells and gold German stars are all bits of Old World charm that we re-create in our homes.

AN UNPLANNED CHRISTMAS

BY Dorothy Boys Kilian

THE white drifts were already so deep that Mr. Milbank had to guess where the curb was as he parked the long black Cadillac in front of the little grey house with a "Rooms for Tourists" sign over the door.

"We simply don't dare go a mile further, Ora," he said to the middle-aged, fur-clad woman beside him.

"But it's only fifty miles more to Minneapolis," Mrs. Milbank protested. "And what a place to spend Christmas Eve!" She peered distastefully through the still-falling snow out on the village street.

"Better to stay here than be stalled overnight somewhere and freeze to death in the car. Do you realize it's taken us an hour to come only fifteen miles since dinner?"

"Well, if we must," Mrs. Milbank sighed. "I suppose we'd be too late for the Randall's cocktail party anyway."

"The snow looks so white and clean here," Mr. Milbank remarked as they trudged up the walk. "In the city, it seems like it gets all grimy and slushy the minute it hits the ground."

Please don't go sentimental on me, Roger," his wife begged. "I can just see this place," she muttered grimly. "Iron bedstead, bathroom with clawfooted tub—"

A few minutes later as Mrs.

"Better to stay here than be stalled overnight somewhere and freeze to death in the car."

Johnson closed the door behind them. Mrs. Milbank groaned. "There's the iron bed, just as I predicted. I wonder if it will even hold us both?"

"It kind of reminds me of that bed we had when we were first married," Mr. Milbank smiled. "Only we painted it white to match the second-hand chest, remember?"

"Yes," Mrs. Milbank stared at the bed. Her voice had lost some of its coldness.

"We planned to use that white furniture in the nursery when the first child came," her husband continued softly.

"But it never came," Mrs. Milbank's voice was crisp again. Quickly she turned towards the bags standing near the dresser. "Did you bring up everything?"

"Everything but those gifts for the Randall children."

Being Thankful

"That's the one thing we have to be thankful for in all this mess," Mrs. Milbank said. "It really won't matter whether they get those things for Christmas or not. Their playroom is undoubtedly crammed with toys already."

"Come in," Mr. Milbank cut in in answer to a tap on the door.

Mrs. Johnson, a woman of about their age, wearing a crisp blue cotton dress, stepped into the room. "I wonder—I don't know—" she said hesitantly. "If you wouldn't like to come downstairs for some coffee and cake. It does seem a shame to spend Christmas Eve alone in a strange room."

"We mustn't intrude—" Mr. Milbank began.

"Intrude!" Mrs. Johnson exclaimed. "If Christmas isn't the time to welcome strangers to one's board, I don't know when!"

They had reached the living room now. Mrs. Milbank sat down on the sofa and looked searchingly at Mrs. Johnson. "You really mean that, don't you?" she said slowly.

Need Cheering

"Of course I do. And—I suppose I shouldn't say this—but when you people came in tonight you looked so lonely and unhappy. I just felt sorry for you. You seemed to need cheering up as much as the folks next door."

"You have no children of your own?" Mrs. Milbank asked and her husband sensed the intensity of her question.

"No," Mrs. Johnson sighed. Then she smiled. "But you can always scare up some substitutes if you look around you. I'm lucky to find some right next store." She glanced ruefully towards the tree. "I only wish I had more to give them."

Mr. Milbank looked quickly at Mrs. Milbank, who nodded vigorously. "Excuse me a moment. I have some things to bring in from the car," he said.

Christmas Card Idea Originated By Englishman

Christmas cards are so much a part of the modern Yule season that one seldom stops to wonder how the idea originated and by whom.

This simple idea of wishing your friends a Merry Christmas brought honor and knighthood to the originator, Henry Cole, a middle-class Englishman.

Cole mailed his cards on a December day in 1846. The cards depicted a Victorian family assembled at the festive board and the traditional Christmas custom of giving to the poor. They also bore the now-classic greeting: "A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to you."

He had a thousand of the cards struck off by a lithograph. They were such a success that plain Henry Cole subsequently became Sir Henry Cole.

The cards we send today, however, a far cry from those mailed by Cole. The cards you send and receive this year will be designed by famous names in contemporary art.

An American shopping for cards this year may select scenes painted by such famous people as Winston Churchill, Britain's prime minister and famed amateur artist, and Grandma Moses, one of America's most famous artists.

The demand for cards is so great that many companies spend their entire time in designing and producing them for the holiday season.

Cagey's Christmas Break

BY D. L. ALEXANDER

HE WAS known as 61,653 by the prison officials; but his fellow prisoners gave him the name of Cagey Wilson because of his concentration on all the angles of any problem or proposition that came up for consideration.

Cagey was known as a model prisoner. He had only broken the rules once, and with deliberation. He had heard others talk of "The Hole," until he was curious to see what it was like. He smoked while lying on his bunk, which was against the rules, but instead of being sent to The Hole he only received a severe reprimand from the guard who caught him.

The admonition to "keep your eyes and ears open and your mouth shut" won the respect of the others and kept him out of trouble and he enjoyed the confidence they reposed in him.

Where men have little but future devility to occupy their minds every insignificant occurrence becomes momentous. Some of them caused Cagey much speculation; like the time the dormitory night guard had him stand before him for the purpose of memorizing his face and figure, an unusual proceeding.

"You have your own time to serve, and no one else can serve it for you," he had also been told. It had strengthened his resolution to shorten that time if he possibly could.

Instead of being sent to "the Hole" he only received a severe reprimand.

Christmas was approaching, but it had little meaning for any of them. They sneered at the promised turkey dinner with an apple for dessert. It did not appeal to them when their thoughts and talk revolved about merrier Christmas's they had enjoyed outside the walls. It filled them with restlessness and resentment.

Cagey easily fell into the prevailing mood. He thought of the old folks and friends at home, and the cheer that the season brought with it. He found it hard to fight off the fits of depression that came, and was in a receptive humor the day Big John Mallory slyly remarked there might be a break for freedom. And when Big John proposed later on that he join them he agreed to give it careful consideration.

Great Temptation

He pondered over the possibilities. The temptation was great, but to find himself without shelter in winter, without food or a safe refuge was not attractive. He could not return home, for that would be the first place they would look for him. To go into hiding would necessitate his dependence on doubtful loyalty of friends. His prison uniform would betray him wherever he went. He reluctantly gave up all thought of leaving.

The attempted break came the day before Christmas. The conspirators seemed to be favored with good luck. It was foggy, and their movements went undetected at first. They reached the roof of the prison and made their way to an outside corner, where they fastened an improvised rope.

A guard, coming on duty early, discovered the dangling rope. He called the guard on the roof by telephone and apprised him of the situation. When the would-be escapees returned to the roof they were fired upon by the guard and easily captured.

Time for Gladness

Cagey heard of the fiasco immediately and was thankful he had been cagey about the affair. He was more thankful after dinner when a runner came to summon him to the warden's office.

"Cagey," the official began, "you have been a good prisoner, obeyed the rules and made it easier for those who have had to look after you and the others. You have been conscientious about your duties, and have a clean record."

"The Governor asked me to make up a list of worthy men recently, and I included your name. The runner will take you to the commissary where you will be fitted out with citizen's clothes. You will then return here, and it will give me great pleasure to hand you a full and unconditional pardon, signed by the Governor."

"The Governor and I both wish you a happy future as well as a Merry Christmas."

Christmas Candles Are Traditional For Many Peoples

"To learn your luck for the year they say,
Burn a bayberry dip on Christmas day.
If the flame burns bright and the light shines clear,
Good luck will be yours through the year."

This old verse is believed in many lands around the world and is said to be one of the reasons that candles in homes are traditional around the world.

The custom is believed to have started in Ireland. As the Irish put it: "Who knows, on some Christmas Eve, Jesus and Mary and Joseph may come again, not to Palestine, but to the Holy Isle on the farthest edge of Europe." And it is the custom that the candle can only be snuffed by one named Mary.

Their first use for Christmas is not recorded in the annals of any nation, but that the "Christ Child Candle," burned in the window on Christmas Eve is, according to an old legend, placed there to light His way if He makes an earthly visitation and in atonement for the night of His birth when there was no room for Him.

There has never been a year when these words: "MERRY CHRISTMAS" had more significance than they do now. Although Santa is surprising two little early risers, even he must be aware that there aren't many lands where this year there will be celebrated a truly "MERRY CHRISTMAS."

Among the more tangible gifts he will be bringing down chimneys, scattering at firesides, and hanging on Christmas trees — there is that very tangible but precious gift which was long ago given to American children. It's the heritage of tolerance, the valuable privilege of living in one land which people of all lands are happiest to call their home.
