

John M. Stonestreet Weds In Greensboro

Miss Martha Jane McKee and John Marshall Stonestreet were united in marriage Sunday afternoon, Dec. 20, in the First Presbyterian Church of Greensboro.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Charles Gordon Price of Greensboro and the late Wilbur B. McKee. The bride's mother and stepfather entertained in the ballroom of the O. Henry Hotel following the ceremony.

Mr. Stonestreet is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Frank Marshall Stonestreet of Albemarle. He had his father as his best man. STEPFATHER ESCORTED BRIDE Escorted and given in marriage by her stepfather, the bride wore a formal gown of peau taffeta and re-embroidered alencon lace. Her empire bodice of lace had a scalloped neckline and long tapered sleeves. A self bow and cabbage rose accented the high waistline. The dome skirt extended into a gracefully full chapel train. Her bouffant veil of illusion was attached to petals of alencon lace and seed pearls.

The bride carried a bouquet of white poinsettias and English ivy centered with a white orchid.

Find the strength for your life...

Does it seem to you sometimes that the world has gotten so crowded and complex that you just don't count at all in the grand scheme of things? It's not uncommon, that feeling. We feel helpless . . . unable to alter or even really to understand ourselves and the world we live in.

Faith is missing—and because of that, spiritual strength is.

But faith and spiritual strength can be found, nourished. Then they grow within you through regular worship. This week go to your church or synagogue. Start to build a fuller, more meaningful life. Cherish your faith and keep it strong so that it may strengthen you.

MORE ABOUT SO THIS IS NEW YORK

was tired of talk and wanted action, and he wanted it in one of the most inaccessible and wild spots in the world. Lambarene was also one of the most dangerous places and was without a doctor. He married a nurse and together they made the long journey, landing in the formidable place in 1913. They found it teemed with pythons, gorillas and crocodiles. But the devoted man did not let this deter them. And today, he has over 50 years service behind him there to provide it. But does he plan to retire, now that he has reached his 90th birthday? No. Apparently only the Lord will decide that.

Instead, the morning roll call each weekday morning finds Dr. Schweitzer in the midst of African and European workmen and the day's tasks. The ringing of the multiphoned bells at his hospital symbolizes, he believes, the voice of God, a call to worship and duty. There he is pressed by constantly increasing numbers of patients and their families. Above the hubbub of these patients who cluster around the clinic, some of them cannibals waiting for examinations, reports, medicines, one hears the hammer and saw at work on new wards to house the hospital's ever-growing load of new patients. More people mean more food, more water, more laundry; all call for renewed effort and more money. Yes, even Albert Schweitzer needs that and we can help. Medicine, roads, bridges, trucks and housing are only a few of the requirements to carry on this wonderful work in the wilderness. Led by this Godly man who has given his long life that others may live, this admirable effort has caught the attention of an admiring world. But these people in that still undeveloped land, as recent events have shown, need more than medicine. They need to know humanity to men and how to get along with each other. Steps have been taken, strides have been made and progress can be reported. But there is still much to be done and no one is doing quite

We offer our apology to the Rev. Roger Powell, Waynesboro, Va., for inadvertently omitting his name from the fine unsolicited letter he wrote commending the plans for a new Davie County Public Library. His letter was run with several others in last week's column, and was appreciated.

The Coolemeec Branch Library is featuring material and a display on "Spanish Speaking Americans" for the month of January. This ties in with study being carried on in some of the churches of the county which will also be of general interest. We hope you can visit the Coolemeec Branch this month.

In the Main Library in Mocksville the displays and books featured are devoted to "Men Who Made The Nation." This covers life stories of historical figures, statesmen, military men, scientists, inventors, and other outstanding personalities.

"Reading is to the mind what exercise is to the body." You are invited to take advantage of the services of your public library. The welcome mat is out and the hours are:

Coolemeec Branch, Coolemeec Recreation Center: Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, 9:00 - 12:00 and 2:00-5:00; Saturday, 9 to 12.

The Redland 4-H Club held its meeting Dec. 10, 1964, at the Bethlehem Church. The group was served a pot luck supper, after which the president, Christa Petticoat, called the meeting to order. The club discussed the float and dog show for old business; the new business consisted of how to raise money for the treasury. Pam McCulloh had devotions, after which we played a game and sang some songs. The president and the vice-president, Twila Handlin, handed out the gifts for exchange. Everyone enjoyed their presents. The meeting was then adjourned.

of H.R. 1927, will be explained to those that may be present. H.R. 1927 was passed in the closing days of the 88th Congress and during the coming session of the 89th Congress efforts will be underway to amend the provisions of this bill for a more equitable provision as relates to the aging veterans of World War I.

E. C. Crawford, State Commander of Durham, stated that every effort will be made to amend this bill for those who so well served their country in the dark days of 1917-1918. Crawford pointed out that the average age of World War I veterans is now 71 years of age and the death rate is climbing all over the nation. The State Commander also stated that there are approximately 35,000

Another Electric Rate Reduction by Duke Power

Average cost per Kilowatt-Hour

the 5th in 6 years

We've done it again! This year's electric rate reduction (like last year's) is the result of passing on the tax cut to you. Other rate reductions resulted from increased generating efficiency, modern techniques and equipment, and vigorous sales promotion.

Duke Power's 700,000 residential customers reaped the major benefits of the previous three rate reductions. This time most of the savings will go to institutional, commercial and industrial customers.

While the savings to individual customers may be small because of the very large number of customers involved, the five reductions since January 1, 1960 alone amount to over $8 million a year. This is further evidence of Duke Power's continuing efforts to provide dependable electric service at the lowest possible cost.

LEO F. WILLIAMS
Davie County Farm Agent

Tobacco Variety Tests
Davie County Agent in cooperation with Mr. Sidney Steelman, Route No. 3, Yadkinville, conducted tobacco variety tests. Most all of the varieties performed well because of the excellent growing season that we had in 1964.

Tobacco varieties commonly grown by Davie County farmers and some new varieties that since have been released for the 1965 crop were tested. The test was conducted on soil known to contain Black Shank disease organisms. This gave interested persons watching the test an opportunity to judge Black Shank disease resistance, as well as other characteristics.

Farmers should not use results of this test as the only means for judging varieties, because other tests within the state differ from this one in many instances. However, this test does show how these varieties perform during the 1964 growing season in Davie County.

Variety	Pounds Per Acre
2326	3972
McN. 30	3336
C-124	3232
V-187	3148
C-198	3016
Sp. G-5	2928
N. C. 95	2908
C-319	2744
McN.20	2654
405	2148
Hicks	908

As tobacco farmers would expect, most of the Hicks plant died because of the Black Shank disease. This accounts for the very low yields for the Hicks variety. A summary of all tests is available at the County Agent's Office.

Chemical Weed Control in Tobacco
In 1964 Davie County tobacco growers became interested in controlling weeds with chemicals. During the past growing season many were discouraged, because after investigating the use of chemicals they found it was more expensive than expected. The cost of controlling weeds in tobacco on a per acre basis usually runs about $20.00. However, farmers may reduce this cost fifty per cent by only treating the rows and continuing normal cultivation of the middles. The cost is expected to be less for the 1965 crop.

Mr. Dale Chaffin, Route No. 1, Mocksville, cooperated with the County Agent's Office in conducting chemical weed control chemicals for tobacco in 1964. The following chemicals were tested: Dymid, Enid, Trefmid, Tillman. Trefmid appeared to do a slightly better job of controlling weeds. Dymid and Enid appeared almost as good as Trefmid.

Social Security In Davie County

"I would like to freeze my Social Security" is a request often made at the Social Security Office, according to Taft McCoy, Social Security Field Representative for Davie County.

The request is usually made by someone who has recently become unemployed or who has had a sudden reduction in earnings. The "freeze" is requested because the individual desires to maintain the highest possible average earnings in his Social Security account.

McCoy reports that all of these requests must be denied since there is no possible way to "freeze" the account of anyone unless he is disabled. There is a provision, however, which permits the exclusion of five low years of earnings in figuring the average earnings under Social Security at the time a claim is filed. The exclusion is made automatically. This provision is especially advantageous to workers whose earnings are reduced in the last few years before retirement.

Additional information may be secured by contacting the Social Security Office at 105 Corriher Avenue, Salisbury, N. C.

Special Training For Employment Available—

New 'Project Uplift' Open To Davie

Davie is one of three counties eligible to participate in the more than a quarter million dollars in federal contract awarded A and T College in Greensboro to implement President Johnson's "open war on poverty".

The $261,000 contract is to provide vocational training for a group of selected heads of families who are educationally and culturally disadvantaged. Approximately 200 such persons will receive specific training in any one of a number of fields that might prepare them for employment.

The program, open only to residents of Guilford, Stokes and Davie Counties, will aid those persons who have a regular history of under employment or unemployment, who have not gone beyond the fifth grade and who are between 22 and 50.

They will include persons who are either heads of families, white or Negro, living in urban or rural communities, or are members of farm families, with annual incomes of less than $1,200.

Those participating in the program, dubbed "Project Uplift" will receive subsistence pay to cover costs at the college, including board and lodging. The project has been authorized to last nine months.

Last Thursday H. R. Hendrix, Jr., Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners; Dr. W. T. Bird, Superintendent of Davie County Schools, and C. K. Hargraves, Principal of the Central Davie High School, attended the signing ceremonies of "Project Uplift" at A and T College in Greensboro.

Department of Health, Education, and Welfare has provided an allocation of $151,000 in support of instructional, supplies and equipment costs, and an additional grant has been awarded by the U. S. Department of Labor, Office of Manpower, Automation and Training (OMAT), in the amount of $110,000 to cover costs of supporting services.

The project provides for training of up to 200 persons, who because of educational, vocational and cultural handicaps, have a regular history of unemployment, who are currently employed less than full-time, whose educational background does not exceed a fifth grade level. Participants will include persons between the ages of 22 and 50, who are either heads of families, living in urban or rural communities, or are members of farm families, both with annual incomes of less than $1,200.

Jaycee Week Observance Set

The more than 200 Junior Chamber of Commerce chapters in North Carolina will join with the 531 Jaycee chapters in communities throughout the United States in the observance of Jaycee Week Jan. 17-23, 1965, according to Bill McDonald, President of the N. C. Jaycees. Jaycee Week, the annual anniversary observance of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, is celebrated across the United States by the some 225,000 Jaycees, including 10,000 Jaycees in North Carolina.

The purpose of the week is to focus attention on young men and the work they are doing in their communities, and to emphasize that the Jaycees have done an outstanding job in the fields of youth activities, development of communities, development of leaders for the future of the communities in the U. S., and overall general civic betterment.

During Jaycee Week in North Carolina, most of the chapters will honor their community's outstanding young man for the past 12 months by honoring him at a DSA banquet. Also, many Jaycees will attend church in groups.

The U. S. Jaycees will recognize America's Ten Outstanding Young Men of 1964 in Santa Monica, Calif., with national President, Stan Ladley making the presentations. North Carolina will honor its Three Outstanding Young Men for 1964 on Feb. 12 in Raleigh one day after the Tar Heel Jaycees have honored the Outstanding Young Farmer of the year at a banquet at New Bern.

Jaycee Week celebrates the founding of the Junior Chamber in 1915, when Henry Giesseubler saw a need for a young men's civic group and organized the first Chapter. The movement spread so fast that in 1920 the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce was formed with 24 cities represented.

Billy Ray Collins, 18, of 645 West Sixth Street, Winston-Salem, and James Johnny Spencer, 30, of Stuart, Virginia, being held at Frostburg, Maryland, were also implicated according to the Charlotte office of FBI Agent F. M. Murphy.

Warrants have been filed charging Collins, Spencer and Mayhew with stealing a car Sept. 7 at Salem Motors at 894 North Liberty Street in Winston-Salem and taking it to Frostburg, Maryland. A juvenile boy was with them but the FBI did not identify him.

The four implicated were caught by Frostburg police later Sept. 7, breaking into a coin vending machine at a laundromat. All but the juvenile were convicted on a charge growing out of that.

Mayhew paid a $250 fine and returned home. Collins and Spencer are serving time at Frostburg because they could not pay fines.

Parents of students in Davie County High School will be brought a questionnaire by their children on Thursday, Jan. 14.

The survey for which the questionnaire is to be used will enable the Davie County High School to know what the community expects from its high school and what the school officials and teachers can do to give the young people a better school program now and in the future. This information is pertinent for accreditation by the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

"Accreditation is valuable to a school because it means that the school has high standards and its graduates find it easier to gain entrance to the college of their choice or to get a good job if they do not want to go to college," said John N. Norton, Principal.

"The school and community committee urges each parent to fill out the questionnaire and return it to school by Monday, January 18," said Mr. Norton.

Public Hearing Set For January 21st In Winston-Salem

Various groups and agencies in Davie County are making plans to be represented at the public hearing on the Yadkin — Pee Dee River Basin in Winston-Salem on January 21st. The public hearing will be held at the County Agriculture Building, 537 N. Spruce Street, Winston-Salem, next Thursday at 10 a. m.

This will be one of three public hearings being held in the interest of navigation, flood control, power development, irrigation, water supply, pollution control and recreation.

About 100 persons attended a session held last Thursday night at the courthouse in Mocksville concerning the strategy to be employed in the matter. At this meeting representatives of various county organizations indicated that their organization would be represented at the hearing in Winston-Salem to be conducted by the Corps of Army Engineers.

All interested parties are invited to be present or represented at the public hearing. All attending will be afforded full opportunity to state problems and improvements desired and "the need and advisability of their execution". Any opposing interests are urged to state the reason for their opposition.

The official notice calling for the public hearings stated:

"Oral statements will be heard, but for the accuracy of record all important facts and arguments should be submitted in writing in quadruplicate, as the records of these hearings will be forwarded for consideration by the Secretary of the Army. Written statements may be handed in at the hearing or mailed to the undersigned (Col. S. Y. Coker, District Engineer, Municipal Marina, 17 Lockwood Drive, Charleston, S. C. 29402).

Interested parties in the Dutchman Creek Watershed are expected to oppose the construction of a large dam on the Yadkin River which would flood out the proposed watershed project. Plans for the Dutchman Creek Watershed development have been underway for several years. These plans, however, came to a halt several months ago when it was learned that the Army Engineers might possibly construct a dam on the Yadkin River just north of the South Yadkin River junction. If this is done it would flood out much of the proposed watershed project.

Central Davie Basketball News

By STEVE ANDERSON

"The Mighty Mohawks" of Central Davie have boosted their record to 10-1 with an impressive 84-56 win over Brown Summit last Friday night.

The Mohawks featured a polished offense that saw Odell Rhynehardt emerge as their top scorer with 14 points. This figure was well below his average but his offense dilatory was overcome by several other Mohawks. Their speedy guards, Newman Dalton and William Carter, each contributed 11 points. Elton Foote and Eugene March hit 10, and center William West added 8. George Scott also made 8 points and sophomore Clement Flemmings played one of his finer games while scoring 10 points. The Mohawks total of six players scoring in double figures enabled them to have one of their bestbalanced scoring attacks.

The girls also received their share of the limelight as they demolished the Brown Summit six by a score of 28 to 14. Carol Galtner was the scoring star with 14 points, while Connie Chunn added 10. Pealine Gregory played her usual great defensive game and Elizabeth Rivers added two points.

The next home game will be Thursday night against Landis Aggrey Memorial. Both the boys' and girls' coaches plan to start their usual lineups but will employ all their talents.

The High School Auditorium—

A Need To Be Fulfilled

More expectations and fulfillment of needs took on new light last week when the Davie County Board of Education went on record as favoring the completion of the Davie County High School plant with the bond money to be received from the state.

The completion of this plant includes a much-needed auditorium unit that includes five classrooms and a music and band room. This unit is to be built on the west side of the gymnasium in the spot designated in the original plans.

With more than 1,000 students, the local high school has long needed a place of assembly for the various school functions. At the present time the only place that all the students can be gathered together in one body is the gymnasium and this is not very satisfactory for any type of speaking program.

In addition the band has been forced to utilize the agricultural shop building thus forcing a serious curtailment of that phase of the program at the local high school.

The proposed auditorium unit will almost complete the high school plan according to the original design and needs. Only some rest rooms and additional seating facilities on the athletic field will be lacking when this auditorium unit is completed.

There is no need in the school system of this county any greater than the completion of the county's consolidated high school.

Burke County Safety Idea Spreading—

Seat Belts For School Bus Drivers

A safety movement originating in Burke County gives promise of spreading throughout North Carolina.

This idea involves the installation of seat belts for drivers of school buses. State Highway Patrolman M. A. Joiner of Valdese conceived the idea, and sufficient seat belts were contributed by a motor company of that city to put one in each school bus transporting Burke students.

State Highway Patrolman in Marion liked the idea and adopted it, and the auto and supply dealers there gave the safety belts for installation in McDowell County.

Now the State Highway Patrolmen in this area are recommending this practice. There are good reasons for this safety precaution. The Department of Motor Vehicles has found that many school bus accidents could be avoided if the drivers were wearing seat belts. The seats of the driver in the school bus are usually high and awkwardly situated, in comparison with other motor vehicles. If the bus hits a rut or pothole or rolls off the pavement to the shoulder of the highway, the driver may either fall or be bounced off the seat. A belt holds the driver down on the seat and keeps him or her within reach of the controls.

There should be enough safety-minded people to see that safety belts are provided for every school bus operating in North Carolina. This is one idea that needs to be widely adopted.

Between Co-op and Power Companies—

Power Agreement Is Reached

By all appearances, the negotiators between power companies and rural electric cooperatives may have reached a fair settlement of the differences between them.

As Governor Dan K. Moore said: The settlement was in the interest of all the people of our state.

The agreement on proposed legislation to be submitted to General Assembly was worked out by four representatives of rural electric co-ops and four representatives of power companies.

The settlement provides for the passage of legislation which would determine the rights of a rural electric co-op when part so its service area is taken into a municipality.

Under the proposal, the co-op would have the right to serve the customers it was serving on the date of the annexation; and to serve all new customers within 300 feet of its lines — except that where a customer locates within 300 feet of the lines of both the co-op and the power company, the customer will have a choice of which service to take.

Also under the settlement, all co-ops except the Ocracoke and Cape Hatteras co-ops, would be required to pay all city and county ad valorem taxes and all state except state income taxes.

The agreement also provides that co-ops will not erect power generating facilities without the approval of the State Utilities Commission.

It provides that for territory more than 300 feet from the lines of both co-ops and power companies, the Utilities Commission would assign such territory among the power companies and co-ops.

The commission would have the authority to order either power company or co-op to serve any specific customer even though such a customer is in the territory assigned or within 300 feet of the other.

Co-ops would be forbidden to discriminate.

NEWS AND COMMENT FROM OUR RALEIGH BUREAU

ON THE STREET . . . The square dancing squarely in the middle of solemn old Fayetteville Street here ranked second to nothing as far as color was concerned in the inaugural ceremonies held here last Friday.

ALL HERE . . . Another observation: It seemed that ALL of Fort Bragg was in Raleigh—tanks, trucks, troops, and everything.

THE BEST . . . Well, no doubt about it, members of the Council of State and their wives will never be any better dressed than they were last Friday.

NOT SO GOOD . . . Our North Carolina governors just don't look good in those black, silky stovepipe hats. To us they look like the tin man in the "Wizard of Oz."

COMING BACK . . . With the Mansion only about 12 blocks from Memorial Auditorium—and the old Capitol about midway between the two—you have a natural layabout for the parade.

WHY THE CROWDS? . . . Ever since it was announced that the Inaugural Ball would have to be moved from Memorial Auditorium to the Reynolds Coliseum, people have been asking why the crowds have suddenly become so large for these events.

THIS TIME . . . It hasn't been written about much—for various and sundry reasons—but the main reason for the vast throngs this time was that we had thousands and thousands of people who seemed to feel that, for the first time, they had personally a big hand in electing Dan K. Moore.

Another thing. Rightly or wrongly, Western North Carolina — certainly from Asheville, and including Asheville, west—has felt "left out of things" for many long years now.

The fish-eating hawk, osprey, is found just about all over the world.

Uncle Dave From Davie Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR: I see where one of them Washington column writers says our Congressman was now the highest paid Government official in the history of the world up to the time.

Starting the first of this month, he said, they was now getting that new salary of $30,000 a year, plus all the extras. And he reported them extras was out of this world. He claimed it was the rank and file of the American people knew the true story of them extras they would holler so loud it would dry up the Mississippi River and shake Pike's Peak loose from its foundation. That was mighty strong language, Mister Editor, and I think we better take a look at some of the items he mentioned.

First off, he reported, our Senators and Congressmen has been on the medicare program for years. The Army and Navy has got two of the finest hospitals in the world in the Washington area and them and their families use both places fer about nothing flat.

They git $3,000 a year off their taxes fer living expenses on account of they was away from their legal residence back home. But they git 20 cent a mile fer ever trip they mawke home and git two "official" trips home when all expenses was paid.

Furthermore, they git $2,400 fer writing paper and envelopes and $500 a year fer stamps. And they git 333 hours of long distance phone call money and 100,000 words of telegrams free. They send all official mail free, so that $500 in stamps is fer personal mail.

Each member is entitled to office space at two locations back in his district, and he gets $1200 a year fer this, and $600 a year fer expense to run these offices. A heap of them, he said, rents offices in their own buildings, and one feller rented his own front porch fer his office. They git a Government $20,000 insurance policy fer $129.96 a year. And they git 9 clerks, with a top pay of $18,035 per clerk to help out in the Washington office and a heap of the clerks was kinfolks. And when the Congress was not in session, they take the kinfolks on vacation trips fer "business purposes" free to all points of the globe. He said some of our Congressmen didn't abuse these privileges but they was as scarce as overcoats in a nudist camp.

Also, he allowed, the Government runs 14 eating places on the Capitol grounds at a cost of $300,000 a year to the taxpayers where our Congressmen gits the best food fer about nothing. He said they was one sign of economy here, the dinner has gone up from 90 cent to $1.15 under the Johnson administration.

Yours truly,
Uncle Dave

60 Second Sermon

By FRED DODGE

TEXT: "The attention of a reasonable man makes the heart glad" — Steele.

A uniformed chauffeur stood expectantly beside a sleek limousine parked before a swank private club. Suddenly from nowhere a seedy-looking fellow arrived, nodded to the chauffeur and said patronizingly, "I won't be using the car this afternoon, Fergus, I think I'll walk." Whereupon the chauffeur touched his cap respectfully and answered, "Very good, sir."

As the seedy-type individual walked on a by-stander asked the chauffeur who the man was. "Haven't the faintest idea, sir," the chauffeur said. "He comes along like that once or twice a week. Always says the same thing. Guess it makes him feel important."

Few of us realize how important it is to make others feel important. Yet unless someone feels important and essential, he never amounts to much. Only those who feel unimportant have a "what's-the-use" attitude. People who feel important cannot resist attempting important things, and better still, accomplishing them.

Take a moment each day to make someone feel important, sincerely, honestly important. The energy for a accomplishment that you act will release will be immeasurable. And you'll prove yourself to be important, because only an important person is secure and gracious enough to make others feel important.

Senator SAM ERVIN Says:

WASHINGTON — U. S. overseas commitments may overshadow domestic issues for a good portion of this Congressional session. Crises in Vietnam, the Congo, potentially in Cyprus, and in other troubled areas may force Congress to give more time to foreign affairs than it did at the last session.

Moreover, the chief divisive issue of Congress, national elections, is out of the way. With increased demands being made to spend more Federal funds for domestic legislation and to curb excessive deficits, our overseas expenditures could get a more careful review.

Chairman Fulbright of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee has suggested as much in recent days by calling for foreign aid requests to be presented in separate bills according to function. This would give Congress more leeway to weed out charitable donations to other nations as distinguished from more essential expenditures based upon U. S. interests.

After a year in which the nation escaped both a major war and a depression, important questions arise on how to maintain American security and prestige in a world with a short memory for past favors extended. The real questions come over what we should regard as vital to our national security and what we should not. Specifically, we find ourselves losing allies in many areas, because we are often in the position of an intervener in a family tuss. As we become involved in the affairs of many small nations, more and more we incur the wrath of former allies.

Equally important is the question of whether we are overextending our economic resources. The dollar is straining under the burdens already imposed upon it. There is a real limitation in the extension of our efforts. Nations, once helpful friends, are mindful of the excuse that the U. S. will solve their problems, be they military or economic, but we must not count upon them when their self-interest is at stake.

What has been said in Congress since the mid-1950's about this drain upon our resources and its inevitable creation of greater problems becomes clearer with the passage of time. Domestic requests are pressing in upon the Congress, the dollar grows weaker, and sooner or later, a choice must be made.

Like all great problems this is one of keeping values in perspective, and using materials and resources to balance our world, national, and individual interests. Men by nature place a different emphasis on values. It is certain, however, that if the world wants peace, security, and happiness these must begin in the minds and hearts of men. The abundance of dollars conferred upon other nations cannot create of itself the necessary ingredient.

The esteemed columnist Walter Lippman summed up the problem in succinct fashion some days ago. He said: "We cannot put Africa and Asia in order according to our ideals of order . . . there is no true national support for these ventures." At least two Senate committees, Foreign Relations and Armed Services, will be weighing the wisdom of our actions in the days ahead.

WASHINGTON REPORT

By Congressman James T. Broyhill

EARLY TIMES
Congress began its work of the next two years on Jan. 4 with the usual ceremony of swearing into office all of the 435 members who will compose the House of Representatives in the nation's 89th Congress. This moment is, I am sure, most impressive to those who stand with arms raised taking an oath which tradition prescribes. Into the hands of these men is committed to such a large degree the destiny of the country and no one standing in that body would fail to be mindful of the responsibility it entails.

In quick order, the President came to Capitol Hill to present his State of the Union message to the Congress and to the very large nationwide audience hearing the address on the television networks. Apparently, the President's departure from the traditional presentation of the message at noon on a date following the opening of the session was unexpected. At least unofficially the message had been planned for noon on Jan. 7 since admission tickets to the House gallery had to be overprinted with the new date and time.

Mr. Johnson's message did not contain many surprises. Primarily, it dealt with the expansion of programs that are already on the law books or which have been under discussion for some time. The blueprint for the "Great Society," however, clearly includes the vast expansion of Federal activities and spending. The massive number of proposals, however, was not in accord with predictions from those close to the White House that the legislative program this year would be short. Consideration of these proposals will certainly take a great deal of time, particularly since disagreements about a number of them are likely to spread across political party lines.

Rapid-fire submission of other messages from the White House spelling out in detail the kind of legislation the President seeks marked the period following his more general address. These will be translated into legislative language and submitted to Congressional Committees as the first step in their consideration.

In any new session of Congress, the several opening weeks are devoted to organization so that business can be translated. This is no exception. In fact, differences of opinion within both political parties in Congress this year is occupying unusual attention. Republican members met and elected Congressman Gerald Ford of Michigan as their new party leader in the House. The vote was close and the press characterized the contest as a bitter leadership struggle. Although feelings were strong, the bitterness attributed to the question was certainly overplayed. Any challenge to existing leadership can be divisive and harmful. With this realization, both Congressman Charles Halleck and Congressman Ford pledged their full support regardless of the outcome.

Following the change, revisions in the Republican structure are being made to reflect new requirements for effective representation of the minority party in the House.

On the majority side, differences of opinion and changes were also being made although they took a different form. Two Southern members were disciplined for their failure to support the party's national ticket, control of legislative committees was tightened, and two important changes were made in the House rules. Both increased the powers of the Speaker and, in a sense, returned to practices that prevailed a half-century ago. One restores the "21-day" rule that has been tried twice before and found undesirable. This rule grants the Speaker the power to act as the sole authority on whether or not a bill should be considered when the House Rules Committee fails to report out the bill in 21 days.

The second change grants to the Speaker power to decide whether a bill should go to a House-Senate conference to consider amendments adopted by the Senate.

Such rules changes must be submitted to the full membership of the House. The changes were adopted and will surely have a hearing effect on the work the Congress does. In my opinion, granting powers of this kind to one man, regardless of his political party are not desirable no matter how responsible that man might be. The opportunity to abuse the power is an ever present temptation. There was little chance to debate the question. It was presented for a vote virtually without formal discussion.

At the time though, the ghost of another Speaker in past history rattled through the Capitol corridors. In 1910, the one-man rule of Republican Speaker Joseph Cannon of Illinois was broken in the famous "liberal purge" that curtailed the power he had wielded so tyrannically. I hope that the future course of events sees no reason for history to repeat itself.

Fair Offers $100 Plus For Heaviest Pumpkin

The year 1965 may well go down in history as the year of the big pumpkin. "This is the year," says Neil Bolton, Manager of the Dixie Classic Fair, "that we're holding our first Big Pumpkin Competition. Some N. C. pumpkin growers are going to take home cash awards for their prize entries."

Bolton explains that the new competition is to encourage North Carolinians to take pride in the agricultural products of their land. Rules of the Big Pumpkin Competition provide that any pumpkin raised in North Carolina during 1965 may be entered. Entries will be weighed on the official fair scales, with the cash prizes going to the heaviest. All pumpkins will be displayed in a special section of the Fair's agriculture building.

Three classes are provided for entering. The Grand Prize Class is open to all. In this class $100 will be awarded to the grower of the heaviest pumpkin, with an additional $50 given for each pound over 100. Two additional cash awards will be made according to the ages of the entrants. These awards will be figured at 50c a pound and will be made to heaviest pumpkins grown by the youngest entrant and by the oldest. Should either of these winners also qualify for the Grand Prize, his age prize will go to his runner-up.

Bolton has also announced that a free packet of pumpkin seeds and planting instructions will be sent to all requesting them and who agree to bring the largest pumpkin grown from these seeds to the fair. "You may grow your pumpkins from our seeds or from any others you wish to use," he explains. These free seeds are available through March 31.

They may be obtained by writing the Dixie Classic Fair office, P. O. Box 7625 Reynolda Station, Winston-Salem. Forms for entering pumpkins may also be obtained from the same address. These entry forms should be completed and returned by September 15.

Social Security In Davie County

"There has been no increase in the social security tax rate for employees, employers, and the self-employed for 1965," Taft McCoy field representative for social security in Davie County, stated today. The rate continues at 3 percent of an individual's annual earnings up to $4,800 for employer and employee alike, and 5.4 percent on net earnings up to that amount for the self-employed, he said.

McCoy explained that he was stressing this point at this time because in some sections of the country questions were being asked at social security offices about "the new tax rate for 1965," with the inquirers asserting that they had read about a change in rate in certain business publications.

"The source of many of the misconceptions has been traced to several privately produced leaflets outlining a number of proposed amendments to the social security law which were considered by Congress in 1964 but not enacted. The leaflets were sent out in sample lots to prospective bulk purchasers while the legislation was still under consideration."

"The failure of the legislation to pass the Congress should have ended all interest in those publications, and in most cases it did. However, at several widely-scattered locations those leaflets, which mentioned a proposed social security tax increase for 1965, were understood to mean he said.

IS YOUR CITY OR COUNTY SHARING IN THIS REVENUE?

The State of North Carolina's 1964 tax bill on the sale of beer was $11,292,974.98

$3,781,269.45 went back to the counties listed below. Counties and municipalities having legal sale and control of beer divided over $3-1/2 million in tax revenue last year. They also gained revenue at the local level through license fees and franchise taxes paid by North Carolina beer wholesalers and retailers. Obviously, communities and counties not permitting legal sale and control of beer did not share in this revenue. Yet their citizens doubtlessly contributed thousands of dollars to the revenue of neighboring counties permitting legal sale and control. Look the list over for your city or county. If you don't find it, remember this advertisement next time your taxes go up.

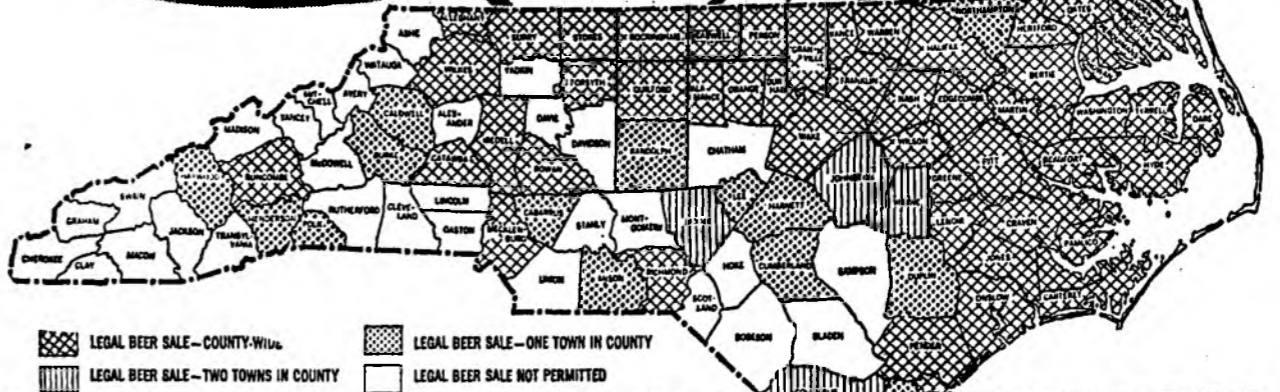

Table with columns: COUNTY, AMOUNT, COUNTY, AMOUNT, COUNTY, AMOUNT, COUNTY, AMOUNT. Lists revenue from beer excise tax for various counties and municipalities.

(discover the difference) Find out what 350 hp feels like in America's favorite intermediate size car

Next time you're feeling low, come on in and plunk yourself down in the bucket seat of a Chevelle Malibu Super Sport. Flick the ignition—bring that special-order 350-hp power plant to life. Then go find a road and try not to smile. We think it's the greatest pep pill since weekends—and that goes for the other Chevelle V8's too. The 195-hp. And the 250- and 300-hp jobs we can order for you. And of course if power doesn't sell you right off, maybe Chevelle's short turning radius and overall handling ease will. Or its Full Coil suspension ride. Or its all-vinyl, carpeted interior. Or maybe it's just plain old Chevelle value.

The More You Tell the Quicker You Sell! Does your offer sound attractive? When you have written your ad for the Enterprise-Record ask yourself this question: "Would I answer it myself in preference to other ads?" Best results are obtained by giving a full description of what you are selling. If it is something mechanical it is best to give mechanical details. Remember, the more you tell the quicker you sell.

Book Available On Planting For Game

Farmers who would like to cash in on the increased game birds they are now producing in connection with the conservation plan on their farms can read about how to plan a shooting field in the USDA Soil Conservation Service's latest publication on the subject.

This publication tells how to plan these shooting fields so that birds are released within the field and have little chance to escape to other areas. It explains how to provide a pleasant landscape and safe shooting without too much effort.

If you are a landowner or operator and want to know about the business boom in recreation, you should ask the local Soil Conservation Service office also for a copy of the publication "Rural Recreation Enterprises for Profit." This publication lists and describes the many ways you can get started in the recreation business, including picnic and sport areas, fishing waters, camping, shooting preserves, and recreation sites. Many areas in Davie County are well suited for this new business. Plans and assistance are available from the Soil Conservation Service and the Davie Soil and Water Conservation District.

Library News

The element of surprise is always present in library work, and that's half the fun! The questions are numerous and varied — like the one from a young man who wanted to start a little zoo at home and was anxious to learn the habits of several unfamiliar animals. What if they were unsuited to our climate? We all had a good time with that one, even calling on the state library for help.

And then there are those little poems people remember from their childhood days and want to find again. "I think the first line was — No, I don't remember who wrote it. I just remember hearing my grandmother say it —." So the search begins! Thank goodness we have poetry indexes which give first lines, authors and titles of many poems. Most of the time we find the answers, and we're as happy about it as our patrons are.

When someone comes in and wants to know in three minutes what color the liberty bell is, or why a star twinkles or where the Continental shelf is located, the reference work goes into high gear! Once we had a dilly! What lady wrote cook-books about a hundred years ago in this country, our clue being that she had a son who wrote dog stories? After a little detective work we came up with the answer, Albert Payson Terhune's mother, who was herself a well known journalist.

And once there was — well, that story will have to wait. A patron wants to know something about "chemical kinetics." Let's get busy!

Postal Receipts Up In Davie County

Postal receipts increased in Davie County during 1964. Postmaster Roy Cartner reported that the totals for 1964 were $94,217.31 as compared to $91,704.22 in 1963.

This increase came about with no rate increases to materially affect the totals, Mr. Cartner said.

The heavier volume of mail in December was distributed over a period of several days. Many patrons mailed earlier in December and this enabled the post office staff to handle the larger volume without delays. Also, the December volume of mail was handled by the regular post office staff with no outside help.

Davie Beats West Rowan

Davie High School cagers took a double conference victory over West Rowan Tuesday night.

Friday night Davie will play Children's Home here in two games with the girls' game getting underway at 7 p.m. On Tuesday night they will play at Monroe.

John Parker was the big gun for Davie. It was he, along with Randall Ward, who kept the Rebels out in front in the first half. Recalls First Customer Purchased Napkins—

George Hendricks Operated Store Since Jan. 1936

Many are often accused of still having the first dime they ever made . . . but George Hendricks literally does . . . and he also probably has the last dime he ever made in the retail mercantile business. His final act last Wednesday night as the proprietor of the Mocksville Cash Store was to remove the receipts from the cash drawer and turn over the key.

Thursday morning the store opened as the Mocksville Department Store under the new ownership of Lester Blackwelder and Clyde Hendricks. Mr. Blackwelder, the former manager of B. C. Moore and Sons Co. in Mocksville, will manage and operate the Mocksville Department Store.

George Hendricks entered into the mercantile business back in the early days of the depression. He along with Grover Hendricks, R. P. and Dewey Martin, and John Daniel formed a company that bought-up bankrupt stock and operated a retail outlet in the old building now occupied by S. W. Brown Wholesale Company at the Depot.

In the early thirties, this group moved their retail outlet into the building now occupied by the Western Auto Store. Shortly thereafter, around 1934 or 1935, the group sold out this retail outlet to Dave Pardue who continued to operate it as a store. Mr. Hendricks worked for Mr. Pardue in this business for about a year.

On January 26, 1936, George Hendricks and his wife went into business for themselves as THE MOCKSVILLE CASH STORE. This business was located in what is now the Daniel Furniture Store building at the overhead bridge. Recalling their first customer, Mr. Hendricks said:

"Our first customer on that day was Charlie Carter of Coleeemeet who operated a service station across the street. He came in and bought a ten-cent package of paper napkins. We still have that dime at home in an envelope as it was the first dime ever spent with us," said Mr. Hendricks.

This building at that time was owned by the late E. P. Foster who in a few years sold it to Armond Daniel for use as a furniture store. The Mocksville Cash Store then moved from that location into a building on the square (now a part of the Davie Furniture Store) which had just been vacated by J. Frank Hendrix.

Mr. Hendricks purchased the lot on which the present store now stands and around 1940 built a new building. Later he and Mac Kimbrough purchased the adjoining lot and built the building now occupied by the Firestone Store.

Operating the Mocksville Cash Store at the present site during the past 25 years, Mr. and Mrs. George Hendricks have kept pace with the times. For many years it was a general store type of operation but in later years it has been converted into a department store.

"What are Mr. Hendricks' plan for the future. "I plan to devote most of my time to my farm and the producing of beef cattle . . . breeding up my herd to purebred Carolinas and Santa Gertrudis cattle," said Mr. Hendricks.

Davie Basketball Is Discussed For Rotary

The basketball program at the Davie County High School was discussed for members of the Mocksville Rotary Club Tuesday by Roger Snow, coach of the boys' team.

Coach Snow outlined the objectives of the athletic program as follows:

. . . Development of good sportsmanship in which the participants learn how both to accept a win or a loss.

. . . Development of leadership. . . The development of interest that will help to keep kids in school.

Coach Snow revealed that sixty-nine boys and around 50 girls reported for basketball practice at the start of the season and that a total of five coaches were working with the basketball program that included varsity boys, varsity girls, Jayvee boys, Jayvee girls, and freshmen boys.

Concerning his present team, Coach Snow said that the present record of 3 wins and five losses was not discouraging inasmuch as three of best teams to be met the entire season . . . South Rowan . . . Albemarle . . . and Thomasville . . . were played.

"In our only conference loss to date . . . against Mooresville . . . they shot a phenomenal 65% in the second half and we shot only 38% . . . for the victory", said Coach Snow.

John Norton was in charge of the program and introduced Mr. Snow President John Durham presided.

Special guests included Bill Tucker of Greensboro, W. P. Biggerstaff of Shelby; Richard Culbertson of Winston-Salem.

Davie Officers Find Liquor Hid In Sawdust

The Davie County Sheriff's Department uncovered a cache of non-taxpaid white liquor recently in a sawdust pile in the Fork Church Community.

Deputy Sheriff Joe Smith charged Charles Bridges, 37 a Negro now of Fork but until recently of Statesville, with illegal possession for the purpose of sale. He is scheduled to be tried in Davie County Criminal Court on January 28th.

Deputy Smith, assisted by Deputy Bill Marion and Deputy "Pats" Hellard found one case of 12-quarts of non-taxpaid white liquor in the sawdust pile at Bridges residence.

The heaviest snowfall in almost four years buried this area last Saturday . . . paralyzing traffic . . . and causing postponement of school, church and other activities over the weekend.

Bright sunshine Sunday helped work crews clear most of the streets and highways of the area Sunday and Monday. Schools were closed all the first part of the week.

The snowfall, part of a huge storm that covered most of the Eastern United States began at midnight Friday and did not stop completely until 7:21 a.m. Sunday after more than nine inches had fallen.

This was the heaviest snow since March 9, 1960, when 10.9 inches was recorded.

Icy conditions of the roads and highways caused a rash of minor mishaps and stalls.

Cold Canadian air which swept into the area Monday night and froze sheets of ice over many roads covered with melted snow and slush. A number of bad slick spots were reported on various roads of the county.

With schools closed, kids resorted to sledding. Streets were blocked off and the youngsters of the area spent the days and early evenings on sleds.

The bride's parents gave a reception following the ceremony. The refreshment table was covered with a white linen cloth and decorated with an arrangement of white roses flanked by white tapers in crystal candelabra. A crystal punch bowl was at one end of the table and a three-tiered wedding cake with a miniature bride and bridegroom was at the other end.

After a short wedding trip, the couple will make their home on Gladstone Road, Cooleemee.

AOM HONORS... A2C Larry W. Payne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Payne of Rt. 5, who is assigned to the records management branch of the Director of Administrative Service, was selected as the DAS Airman of the Month for Nov. Airman Payne was cited by the Base Records Officer for "his professionalism, alrmanship, appearance and devotion to duty."

Kitchen Carb The best way to dress up a kitchen is to use a finely grained western softwood for walls and cabinets. The walls should be tongue-and-groove. The cabinets will develop well because western woods are so easy to install and finish.

Markham Recalls Road Building Days

Recalling his early days as a road builder and maintenance supervisor with various county and state highway departments . . . brings a noticeable twinkle to the eyes of John Henry Markham. But let us tell the story from the beginning.

John Henry Markham was born in 1893 in Bedford County, Virginia. At the age of 13 he went to work for his father, who was in charge of the County Road Commission, for $15 per month . . . working for 18 men.

"At that time we were building roads with prisoners and 'Georgia Buggies' . . . or wheel barrows," said Mr. Markham.

At the age of 17 he took over 200 miles of road for building and maintenance purposes. He and four men did everything . . . with the aid of prison labor.

"We fixed mud holes with rock and brush and most anything we could pile in them," he said.

In 1914 he went to work as a guard for the Virginia Penitentiary. He worked there for six months and then went to Mecklenburg County, Virginia, as a road foreman . . . "building sand clay roads for $40 per month," he said.

With the outbreak of World War I, he enlisted and was soon with the A.E.F. in France. In the crucial battle of the Argonne Forest he was hit in the left side and for sometime was believed to have been mortally wounded. Even today he still carries more than 20 pieces of shrapnel in his body. On April 5, 1919, he was honorably discharged with 75 per cent disability from his wounds.

Following his discharge he went back to the building of roads and built the road from Portsmouth to Suffolk, Virginia. In the latter part of 1919, he came to Pitt County, N. C., and built a concrete bridge. He then went to Clarendon County, S. C., where he constructed the road from Manning to Turbeyville.

It was back to North Carolina in 1921 to work at Kinston with the State Highway Commission maintenance division. He continued with the state until his retirement in 1953. During this time he served in Elkin from 1932 to 1938.

Around 1938 he moved his family to Mocksville and at that time worked in Rowan County. In 1944 he worked in Montgomery County, staying there until his retirement in 1948.

On January 9, 1918, he married Mertie Bernice Toombs of Mecklenburg County, Virginia. They had two children: Miss Hilda Markham of Mocksville and Mrs. H. S. Anderson of South Carolina.

Jerry W. Miller Serving With Navy

Storekeeper Seaman Apprentice Jerry W. Miller, USN, son of Mrs. Helen Ham of 747 Salisbury St., Mocksville, N. C., participated Jan. 6-15 in an amphibious landing operation called MEDLANDEX 1-65 while serving aboard the attack transport ship USS Cambria.

The exercise, which took place on the beaches of Porto Scudo and Cape Teulada, Sardinia, was conducted to give both Marine and fleet units training in conducting full scale amphibious operations.

During the live firing exercise, Marines landed from ships and helicopters. In the helicopter landing phase, called vertical envelopment, Marines are flown over and behind enemy lines to cut off enemy supplies and reinforcements.

Training operations of this type are conducted periodically by units of the Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean to insure the combat readiness of all elements of the Navy-Marine Corps team.

ON A HORSE NAMED "JOHN" . . . J. H. Markham is shown above in his younger days as a maintenance supervisor for the Highway Department. Mr. Markham rode this horse as he supervised the building and maintenance of roads throughout North Carolina and Virginia.

Local Students To Take Part in Discard Collection For Goodwill

The students of the following schools will participate in a discard collection on January 18 through January 20th. The schools participating are William R. Davie, Cooleemee, Farmington, Mocksville, Shady Grove, Smith Grove, Central Davie (Mocksville), North Cooleemee, Davie County (Mocksville)

The purpose of the program is to collect donations of used and discard clothing, rags, shoes, toys and small appliances for the handicapped working and training at Goodwill Rehabilitation Center in Winston-Salem.

The discards make available vocational training and jobs for 170 handicapped persons from many counties of North Carolina. The discards are cleaned and repaired and then sold in six Goodwill stores. Articles gathering dust in the homes of citizens of this area will be much appreciated.

Students from the above listed schools will be glad to receive the donation from parents and neighbors to help fill their Goodwill bag. All donations of discards will be helping a disabled person to get a new lease on life by giving him a means of vocational therapy.

Goodwill Rehabilitation Center is a non-profit agency.

Church Activities

FIRST BAPTIST

The Lenora Dodd Circle met Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 13, at the church with six members present.

The program was given by Mrs. Victor L. Andrews, Sr., who used the topic "Identifying the Issues."

Due to inclement weather, circles did not meet this week as scheduled. Reports from Circles 1, 3, and 4 were to the effect that they would meet next week as per schedule, weather permitting.

have practiced a secret Judo art which, during the past decade, has been generally known in the Western world as "closed chest cardiac resuscitation."

This technique, used to revive victims of sudden death, involves manually-applied pressure on the chest in conjunction with mouth-to-mouth or mouth-to-nose "expired air" respiration. Sudden death, or heart-lung arrest, is usually caused by heart attack, electric shock, suffocation, drowning, or drug reaction. The procedure must be applied within four to six minutes after clinical death before irreversible cell damage occurs in the brain.

Since its introduction during the past ten years, the "new" reversible-death techniques have brought back to life hundreds of patients who, for all practical purposes, had died, that is, whose hearts had stopped beating and who had ceased to breathe.

The North Carolina Heart Association's Community Service and Education Committee, under the chairmanship of Dr. Henry Miller, of Bowman Gray School of Medicine, last year set up a special committee on cardiac resuscitation in order to stimulate training of North Carolina physicians in this lifesaving procedure. A comprehensive short course at Duke University Medical Center is being planned by the state heart group for early next Spring, according to Dr. Young.

The closed chest cardiac resuscitation technique, developed and refined by Dr. James Jude and others at Johns Hopkins School of Medicine, has already "raised" some 100 Tar Heels "from the dead," according to a recent survey conducted by the North Carolina Heart News Bureau.

Dr. Jude was a key participant in the North Carolina Heart Association's 15th Annual Scientific Sessions in Charlotte last May. Dr. Young suggests, "Maybe Dr. Jude should change his name to Dr. Judo."

Social Security in Davie County

"Criminal violation of laws affecting entitlement to social security payments can result in imprisonment or heavy fines," Taft McCoy Field Representative of the Social Security Administration in Davie County warned today.

People are returning to the city. That fabled rush to the suburbs seems, in many ways, to be reversing itself.

A favorite actor is Finlay Currie who arrived here recently for a Broadway assignment. Now this would not be so unusual except for the fact that he is 87 years old.

This being examinations time in schools, it may be well to recall the honesty pledges which students are often asked to give regarding whether or not have received help on the tests.

Reports from Colonial Williamsburg state that the holiday season there in the gay Virginia setting was one of the cheeriest and most colorful ever.

Dropped into the Sleep Shop of Norman Dine, who, as one national magazine put it, "cares more than anyone else in the world how people sleep."

A good way to make a break screen to shield your entrance door from the street is to build a framework of ordinary western lumber to your desired height and then fill in the panels with the new and long wearing plastic panels.

Plans Will Be Vital To This Area—

The Hearing On The Yadkin Basin

This county is expected to be well represented Thursday when the development of water resources in the Yadkin River basin, including the possibility of dams at Styers Ferry and Donnaha, will be discussed in Winston-Salem.

The public hearing on these plans will be conducted at 10 a. m. Thursday in the Forsyth County Agricultural Building under the direction of the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers. The purpose of the hearing is to review the 1944 proposals for developing the basin and other reports that have been prepared in recent years by the corps.

The growth of the economy in the Yadkin River basin will ultimately require maximum development of water resources but it is vital that all interested parties record their comments, requirements and aspirations at this hearing.

Presumably, the Corps of Engineers will use the data and information compiled at this and other hearings to help determine recommendations on development. It is being urged that all interested parties provide concrete facts at the hearing rather than generalities, regarding water requirements, flood damages and irrigation plans.

Plans take into consideration flood control, low-flow regulation, irrigation, pollution, abatement, water supply, fish and wildlife conservation and recreation. Also included will be the needs and status of various watershed programs in the area . . . including the Dutchman Creek Watershed project of Davie.

Death Rate Is Four Times State Average—

The I-40 Gap Concerns Governor

Governor Dan K. Moore last week expressed interest in the highway accident figures piled up in 1964 over "Death Alley" . . . the 33-mile gap in Interstate 40 through Davie County.

It was reported that a story by Sid Bost of the Twin City Sentinel on the high accident rate of this gap was forwarded to the State Highway Commission in the governor's name. During his campaign for Governor last fall, Governor Moore during a stop in Mocksville also then expressed concern over the high fatality rate on this stretch of road.

During the year 1964 the accident total on this 33-mile stretch was 17 killed and 150 injured.

Plans call for this gap of highway to be completed in 1969. Right of way is now being required and some sections of it will probably be completed before then.

In his inaugural address last week, the governor mentioned the highway accident rate as one of the major crises facing North Carolina. He said the toll of death, injuries and property destruction left no alternative but to recommend to the legislature action to cope with the problem. However, he did not outline what he might have in mind.

The Department of Motor Vehicles said the death rate on the 33-mile break in the superhighway is running about four times the North Carolina average.

For example, the Department of Motor Vehicles pointed out that if people had been killed at the same rate on all the state's highways last year, more than 6,000 fatalities would have been recorded. As it was, the figure was 1,565, an all-time high.

More Than 700,000 Meals Served Daily—

School Lunch Is A Big Bargain

School lunch is served in North Carolina to nearly 700,000 school children each day. And these 2,070 school lunchrooms are serving the biggest bargain anywhere.

"A bargain in more ways than one. The school lunch program provides a nutritious, well-balanced hot meal for our growing youngsters inexpensively, as well as giving an outlet for many agricultural commodities that our farm abundance provides," James A. Graham, Commissioner of Agriculture, pointed out.

The commodity distribution program carried out in the state by the N. C. Department of Agriculture markets division handles and distributes 30 different food items to the schools participating.

For those who realize their children do get good meals at school for the bargain price, but are not familiar with the workings of the program, Commissioner Graham points to the part played by Commodity distribution in handling the nucleus items for the lunches served school children.

The program encourages local trade in meats and produce, for, with every dollar value of commodities supplied schools by the U. S. Department of Agriculture through commodity distribution, three dollars are spent locally in purchases to complete the menus the children enjoy. "There is no reason for any child in North Carolina to go thru the school day hungry," Graham said.

In a recent report by J. D. Davis, head of the NCDA distribution section, 32,087,000 pounds of the various items went to schools for the school lunch program during the 1963-64 fiscal year.

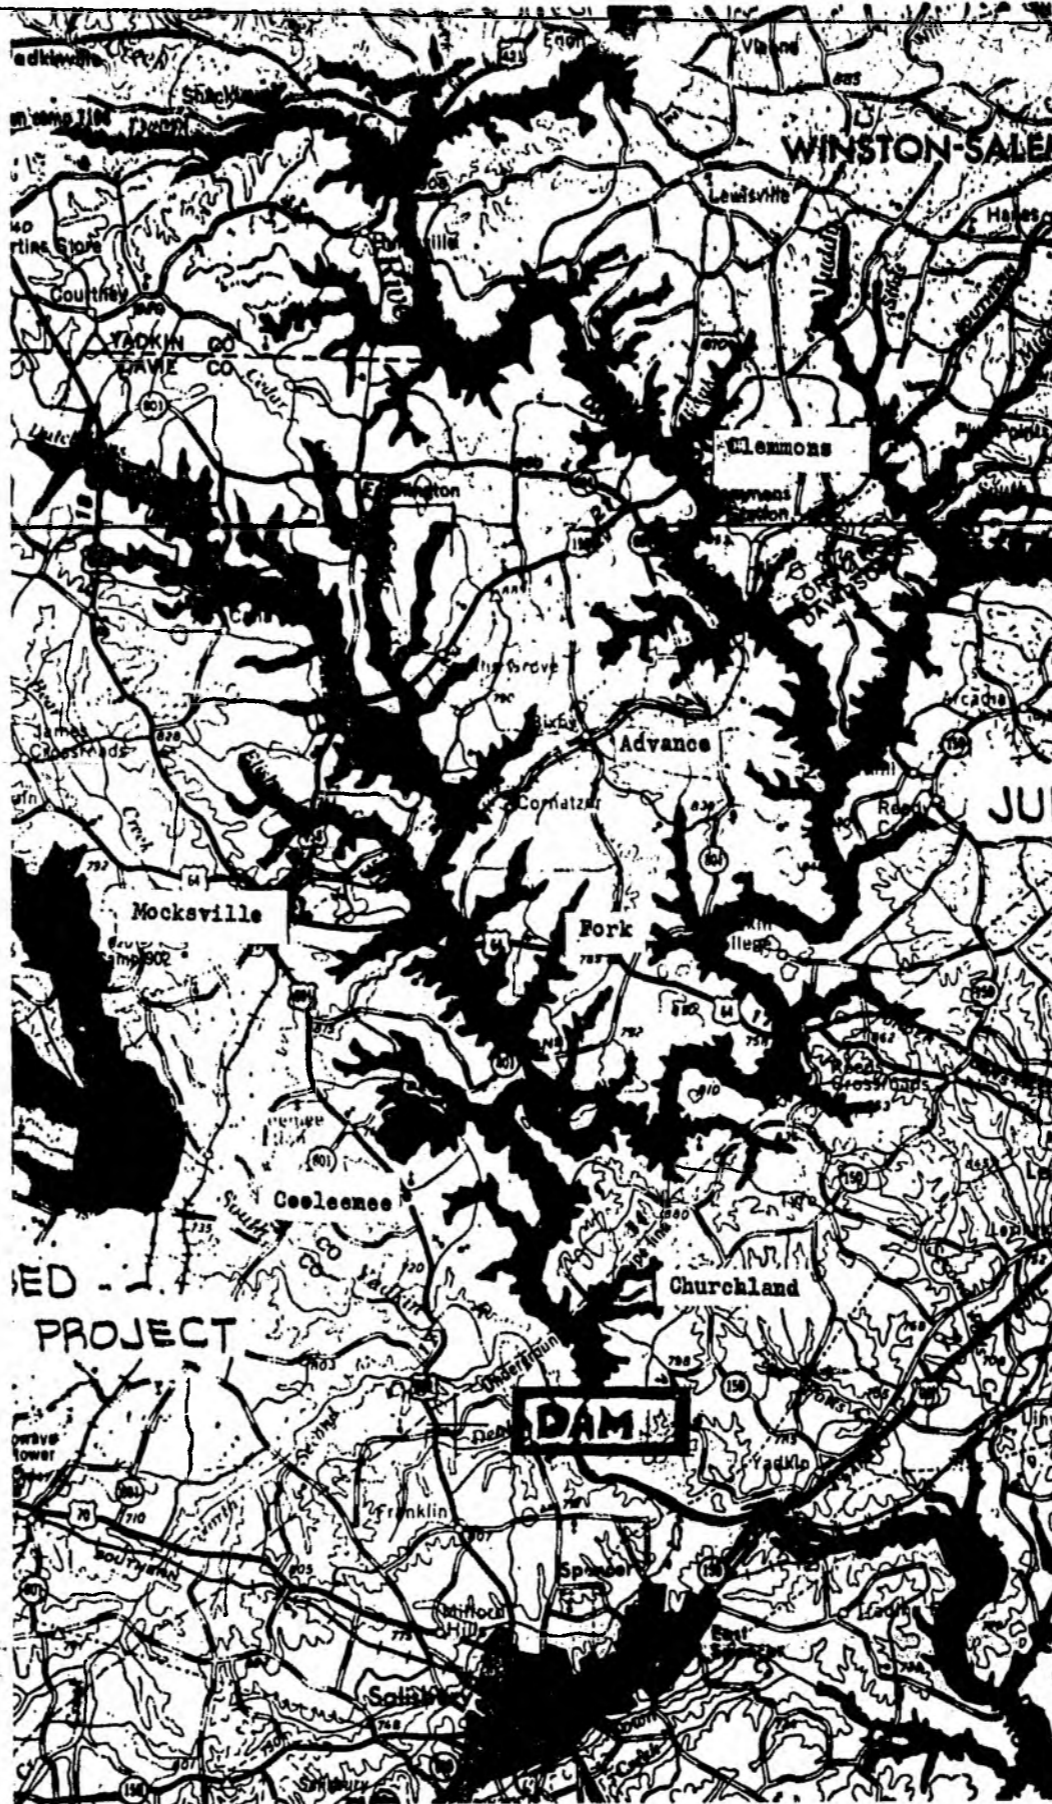

Not only does Davis' section handle and distribute these food items to schools, but many go to charitable institutions, needy persons and summer camps. The primary objectives of the distribution program are to furnish balanced diets to school children and train them to eat unfamiliar foods and to aid the USDA in its surplus removal and price support programs by providing outlets for agricultural commodities purchased. In addition it furnishes county agencies meals for needy families, thus raising their health level. Close cooperation with county commissioners has brought 52 counties into this phase of the program.

Foods distributed to institutions ran well over 3,259,000 pounds, distribution to needy persons amounted to 32,383,000 pounds, summer camps received 263,000 pounds of surplus foods distributed during the last fiscal year.

Davis anticipates that the more than 2,000 Tar Heel schools participating in the National Program in the State will serve more than three-quarters of a million meals each day of the school year.

Advertising is the sparkplug of our economy. It helps make mass distribution possible; that in turns calls for mass production. Mass production and mass distribution give most of us jobs and generate the prosperity upon which all of us depend.

A New Lake For This Area?

One of the hottest controversies of this decade is centering around a proposal by the Army Engineers that a dam be built on the north fork of the Yadkin River . . . known as the Junction Project. This map shows how the dam would back up water to the north Forsyth County. Under this proposal for a high dam the dam would create a reservoir area of 53,000 acres and would have a kilowatt capacity of 91,900. It would serve a drainage area of 2,430 square miles. A discussion of this proposal is to be held Thursday at the Agriculture Building in Winston-Salem at the official hearing conducted by the Army Corps of Engineers. Many from this area are expected to attend.

NEWS AND COMMENT FROM OUR RALEIGH BUREAU
2615 Oberlin Road

NOT LEGISLATORS . . . The legislators swarming around Raleigh Jan. 7-8 for the inauguration of Governor Dan K. Moore and to begin plans for the 1965 session reminded one that Governors of North Carolina, by and large, are not legislators.

As a matter of fact, a large number of members in the forthcoming N. C. General Assembly have served individually more terms as lawmakers than all our top men combined within the past 20 years.

Gov. Moore was in the House for one term. His predecessor, Terry Sanford—now a Fayetteville attorney—was in the Senate for one term. Our only other living ex-Governor was never elected to House or Senate.

The same holds true for Governors William B. Umstead and W. Kerr Scott.

It all goes to show you that you do not have to possess legislative experience in order to be a great Governor.

And of the three candidates for Governor, four including Bob Gavin, the past year, Only Gov. Moore had made the legislative sacrifice. Neither Beverly Lake nor Richardson Preyer had ever officially darkened the doors of legislative halls.

THE CHAMP . . . R. Gregg Cherry, who served as Governor from Jan., 1945 to Jan., 1949—he and his successor, W. Kerr Scott—made a cigar smoking pair when they rode in that inaugural parade 16 years ago this month, served more terms in the Legislature than any other Governor we have had in the 20th century.

Gov. Cherry served seven terms, House and Senate, and was Speaker of the House.

DEAN UZZELL . . . From Rowan County comes the dean of the Legislature. Oldest by far in point of service is George Uzzell, who will be working on his 15th term as a member of the General Assembly.

Since he is only 61 years old, you can see how—including special sessions—Uzzell has spent more than half his years as a Raleigh solon.

This seems to be some kind of record.

But, to our knowledge, Attorney Uzzell has never sought Statewide office.

JIM VOGLER . . . The man who used to be head of the N. C. Food Dealers Association, James B. Vogler of Charlotte, is coming back to Raleigh for his 11th term in the Legislature.

The only time he has missed being here when the legislative roll for swearing-in was called came on two occasions when he ran in vain for the State Senate from Mecklenburg.

Vogler, like Uzzell, is a mild-mannered man. In a quiet way, Vogler has had a hand in many, many important pieces of legislation. He is several years the senior of Uzzell.

IN THE SENATE . . . The dean of the State Senate this time, as he was in 1963, will be Claude Currie of Durham.

And, at 74—he attained that age this past December—San. Currie will likely be the oldest in either house in years.

He was in the State Senate first in 1927—from the 18th Senatorial District. He came back in 1945 representing the 14th District. Currie, head of Security Savings & Loan Association in Durham, has ten terms to his credit in the State Senate.

NOT INTERESTED . . . But our chief executives of North Carolina, generally speaking, just haven't cared for more than a term or two in the Legislature.

It may be attributed to strong leadership qualities, latent personal ambition, or impatience with the long grind of compromise necessary in most legislative endeavor.

Let's go back about 50 years to see how legislative services—despite all the friendships made, loving contacts, etc.—had little to do, excluding Gov. Cherry, with attaining executive status.

Gov. William Blicket, elected in 1916, served one term in the Legislature.

Gov. Cameron Morrison apparently served only one time—and that for only a short while in a special session. He was elected in 1920.

Gov. A. W. McLean, father of our budget system (still in use), was never a member of the Legislature.

Gov. O. Max Gardner served three terms and was also Lt. Gov. before making it to the top post in 1928.

Gov. J. C. B. Ehringhaus had two terms in the Legislature.

Clyde R. Hoey, who became Governor in 1936, had served three terms in the Legislature (one of them before the turn of the century) 35 years before being elevated to the top position.

Gov. J. Melville Broughton served two terms in the Legislature, over in the Senate. He became Governor over a field of seven men in 1940.

Then came Gregg Cherry. And after him, came Scott, Umstead, and Hodges with no Raleigh legislative experience. However, W. B. Umstead did have long and honorable tenure as U. S. Representative and Senator.

SHOULD BE GREAT . . . This may be that one-termer Dan K. Moore will become one of our great Governors. We wish for him the best.

SENATOR SAM ERVIN SAYS:

WASHINGTON—The State of the Union Message given by the President has set the major guidelines for this session of Congress. The Chief Executive ably stated our national goals: ". . . to keep the economy growing, to open for all Americans the opportunities now enjoyed by most Americans, to improve the quality of life for all".

With these laudable objectives, few would quarrel. How to achieve them brings differing views.

Since this opening message to Congress, a swift succession of other special messages have come to Capitol Hill outlining Administration views on health education, immigration, and foreign aid. Later the Budget Message is expected to set the price tag for the entire program.

Most pre-State of the Union thinking was that the President would center his remarks on a handful of proposals and permit Congress to work toward adjournment by mid-summer. But like many recent State of the Union messages, this one turned out to be broad with few promises left unmentioned. This could turn an otherwise quiet session into a series of legislative battles requiring Congress to resume its recent pattern of virtually year long sessions.

The second Johnson State of the Union Message had much to commend it. I was encouraged by statements that we are going to remain militarily strong to the extent that it would be folly for anyone to attack us. I was impressed by the emphasis on conservation of natural resources.

On the other hand, the Message and the above-mentioned amplifying special messages are certain to provoke a number of legislative battles. This is particularly true in respect to requests regarding education, Taft-Hartley Act amendments, and foreign aid.

The requests for aid to education renew a long-standing dispute by ecclesiastics over whether the State should implement church revenue sources. Many believe that the proposed aid to parochial schools is a violation of the First Amendment, which prohibits the use of tax monies for the support of religious institutions. Many others think that the proposed parochial school aid is unwise.

The Message also raises the long controversial question of revision of Section 14 b of the Taft-Hartley Act. A repeal of Section 14 b would invalidate "right-to-work" laws in twenty states, including North Carolina, and make mandatory "union shop" rules legal in every state. Under the "union shop" a person must join a union within a specified time after employment or employment ceases.

Any revision of the Taft-Hartley Act would trigger a legislative battle whereby both management and labor would seek to improve provisions according to their respective views.

Foreign aid requests may again renew a torrid battle over that program's policies and funds. Aid policy reforms promised over the years have been minimal. Many of those have not materialized. The foreign aid program chronically suffers from the same old defects—too much idealism, too little practicality for the world in which we live, too costly, and too difficult to adjust to changing world conditions.

With so many legislative items on the menu, Congress may exercise its ancient prerogative on the controversial ones: "The President proposes, Congress disposes."

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

My regular pamphlet from the U. S. Department of Agriculture came last Friday morning and I ain't been able to help my old lady get no chores done around the house on account of reading about the farm situation around the country. My old lady says the worst enemy in the world today a farm wife has got is them pamphlets from the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

First off, some woman that lists herself as head of the Market Division of the Department allowed as how she wanted to say a few words in defense of the grocery stores of America. Just what this has got to do with agriculture, I ain't shore, and she stretched her few words into the second chapter of the Gospel according to Jeremiah, but she had a good point.

She claimed American wimen was complaining the food bill was getting higher and higher. She says it ain't so, that wimmen was spending more and more at supermarkets and making the mistake of blaming it on food. They was a heap of difference, she claimed between the supermarket bill and the food bill. In 1963, for instance, she reported about half the tooth paste, light bulbs, razor blades, cigarettes, dishes and toilet articles sold in America was bought at supermarkets. Furthermore, she claimed, a heap of socks, shirts, towels and such items was going on the supermarket bill.

I was discussing this matter with my old lady and she figured, come to think about it, the woman was right, that nowadays supermarkets sold just about everything and wimmen was lumping the bill together and calling it groceries. How the so ever, allowed my old lady, if you bumped into a bunch of auto tires and lawn mowers you was in the wrong place. You was probable in a drug store.

Washington Report

BY CONGRESSMAN JAMES T. BROYHILL
7TH DISTRICT OF NORTH CAROLINA

PREPARATIONS

As this is written, the last feverish preparations are being made for the Inauguration of President Lyndon Johnson on Wednesday of this week. Everywhere in the nation's Capital, there is an air of expectation for the country's greatest pageant which accompanies the solemn swearing-in ceremonies for American Presidents.

For months carpenters have been transforming the steps of the Capitol building to provide a suitable stand for the impressive swearing-in ceremonies. The broad plaza in front of the Capitol is a sea of wooden seats to permit guests of the President, Vice President, and the Congress to be present for the event and hear the President's inaugural address in which he advises the country and the world of his hopes and goals for the next four years. These seats are not sold and during the last several weeks have become the most eagerly sought-after tickets in the world.

Hotels in Washington are bulging to capacity throughout the week as tens of thousands of visitors converge upon the city. Weeks ago virtually every room in the hundreds of hotels and motels here had been reserved.

Surely no event in our time will have been more completely reported. All of our news media are poised to provide the most detailed glimpses of all the events. In and around the Capitol building alone are the microphones, television cameras, and miles of cable to meet the needs of electronic journalism. Out of this great quadrilateral spectacle with its parades, receptions, gala balls, and social events, the deeper meanings of an inauguration are clear. To those who observe us from abroad, one of the great bulwarks of the American system will be in full view. The orderly transition of power and the process of our democracy renewing itself are an equally impressive spectacle in a world where governments are too often constituted through violence and conspiracy.

BEGINNINGS

As the public view of the Inauguration takes place, the wheels of organization are turning on Capitol Hill as Congress prepares the mechanism through which legislation will be processed during the next two years. The final assignment of all members to legislative committees is still a few days away. Since I am a member of the Republican Committee on Committees, deliberations of this group have occupied much of my time this month.

Since President Johnson's Administration represents a continuation of his previous 14 months in office, the White House has been busily submitting detailed messages to the new Congress. These messages fill out recommendations the President made in his State of the Union message on Jan. 4. Among the first of these detailed messages was one involving what the President called "a national goal of Full Educational Opportunity." This massive plan includes Federal assistance to education from the pre-school to the graduate level. It involves new expenditures of approximately $1.5 billion for both private and public schools.

In another message, the President asks for legislation to change the immigration laws. A principal difference between the present law and the proposal of the President is the abandonment of the "national quota" system on which our immigration policies have been based since 1924. A similar recommendation founded in the Congress during the last four years.

Turning to the foreign aid program, Mr. Johnson requested $3.4 billion to be spent abroad. This message raised immediate questions about continuing assistance for Communist bloc countries and others

TOBACCO MEETING

A good number of tobacco farmers attended the county-wide tobacco meeting January 13. Mr. Roy Bennett, a tobacco specialist of North Carolina State College, reviewed the latest recommendations for the production of flue-cured tobacco. Some of the new things discussed were the new sucker control chemical, Penar, the four new varieties of tobacco just released, and chemicals for controlling weeds. Tobacco farmers that were unable to attend this meeting may pick up a bulletin at the county agent's office containing most of the facts covered at the meeting.

WATERSHED DEVELOPMENT

A few years ago interested farmers and agricultural agencies in Davie County started working on the Dutchman Creek Watershed. With the help of farmers living in the watershed, plans were made to build a series of dams on the smaller creeks to prevent flooding of about six or seven thousand acres of bottom land along Dutchman Creek. The plan was submitted to Washington for Federal assistance. It appeared that the plan would be approved, but at the last minute the Corps of Army Engineers held the plan up because of the possibility of building a large dam on the Yadkin River near the Rowan-Davie County line.

At the present time it is not certain which program will be developed, or whether either on will be; however, there is a meeting scheduled by the Corps of Army Engineers in the agricultural building in Winston-Salem, January 21, where both of these projects will be discussed. People interested in these projects are welcome to attend.

A map showing the proposed lake to be built on the Yadkin River is displayed in the Davie County Agricultural Building.

Swine Meeting

North Carolina State College scheduled a series of conferences on the different livestock enterprises each year. Recently a group of Davie County people attended the swine conference. At this conference reports on research done during the year were presented. The research reports are always of interest to swine producers, because they usually give results showing how to cut costs, increase profits and improve the efficiency of swine operations.

Those attending the last swine conference report that some valuable information was presented on selecting meat type hogs and how to increase profits on feeder pig farms.

Dr. O. W. Robison presented some information showing the importance of selecting hogs with the desirable amount of back fat thickness. It was easy to see, from the figures presented on back fat thickness, that more emphasis should be placed on this characteristic, because it had a direct relationship to daily gains, feed efficiency and percent of lean cuts. It is a simple technique to measure the back fat thickness of live animals, and perhaps we should use this technique in Davie County.

Dr. E. L. Lasley, of Farmers Hybrid Companies, Inc., Hampton, Iowa, reported that the weaning of one extra pig per litter would effect the profit in a feeder pig operation more than anything else.

Davie County swine producers can get the latest information on swine production by attending the conference next year. The conference is usually held during January.

Should Wet Soils Be Sampled?

According to Leo F. Williams, County Extension Chairman, for Davie County, it is best and easier to sample soils when they are dry enough for tillage operations. However, reliable samples can be collected from wet soil if additional care is taken. It should be pointed out though that excess water from recent rains should have sufficient time to drain out of the plow layer. The amount of time required is dependent upon the texture of the soils, sandy soils requiring less time for drainage than silt or clay textured soils.

Mr. Williams states that the best tool for sampling wet soils is a soil tube. These can frequently be borrowed locally, or if you wish to buy one, write the Soil Testing Division, N. C. Department of Agriculture, Raleigh, N. C. for a list of the manufacturers that make sampling tools.

The procedure for sampling wet soils is generally the same as that for sampling soils with normal moisture content with one or two modifications. Fifteen cores to plow depth should be taken from each area to be represented by one sample. The soil cores collected should be placed in a clean plastic bag (or collect in a clean bucket and then transfer to a plastic bag or other suitable container). If sampling a number of fields or areas, an easy to carry container may be needed for carrying the plastic bags of soil collected from the different areas of fields.

The next step in collecting wet samples is to empty each bag of soil onto a sheet of waxed paper to dry. Then mix the soil thoroughly and transfer a portion to a soil test carton. Your samples are then ready to send to the soil testing laboratory along with a properly filled out information sheet.

Mr. Williams hopes that everybody will collect samples when soil and weather conditions are favorable. However, samples can be collected even though the soil is wet.

Gentlemen:
We are most pleased that we switched our home to flameless electric comfort heating. It was installed at a very economical cost for the complete installation. Since living in our electric home for the past winter we would not want to heat with anything else. Our total electric cost for winter months was most reasonable and averaged $28.74 per month.
We like the room to room temperature which it affords. A thermostat in each room lets us select the temperature we want. We would certainly recommend electric comfort heating to anyone who wants cleanliness, convenience, safety, comfort and economy.

Cooleemee Plant To Construct Waste System

The Cooleemee Division of Erwin Mills soon begin construction of a waste treatment plant involving an investment of $735,000. J. A. Boyce, division manager, has announced. Completion of the facility, probably in late 1965, will represent more than 10 years of research and planning, Mr. Boyce stated.

Contract for construction of the plant along the South Yadkin River is expected to be awarded in the next few weeks, with work on the project getting under way immediately. It is estimated that the construction will take several months to complete.

The new disposal system will treat industrial waste from the Cooleemee plants and also domestic sewage from the community. The project will involve piping of waste from four outfalls to a collection point on the east side of the South Yadkin. A pumping station will convey the sewage across the river to aeration and settling tanks. After treatment for a two-day period, the treated water will be returned to the South Yadkin.

In announcing the new project, Mr. Boyce called attention to the assistance Erwin Mills had received from the State Stream Sanitation Committee of the North Carolina Department of Water Resources in development of plans for the disposal system. "Their help was invaluable," he said, "in working out a versatile operation which can be adopted to handle any type discharge of waste." The new plant also will be large enough, he pointed out, to facilitate any future expansion of the textile plants' production. The plants now discharge an average of approximately 1 1/2 million gallons each 24 hours. The new system will be capable of handling a discharge of 3 million gallons, or about twice the current capacity.

Erection of the treatment plant will end years of study and effort by the textile plants' personnel to reduce the discharge of dyestuffs and chemicals into the South Yadkin. The Cooleemee Division of Erwin in August, 1954, initiated an investigation into the problem of disposal of inorganic chemical waste, principally dyes and caustic soda used in the dyeing and finishing of fabrics.

Sampling points were set up for a distance of several miles to check both the contents and amount of flow of the water, while constantly taking steps to lower the amount of waste going into the river. Some of the means employed to make the water purer included paying half the cost of operation by the state of a gauging station at Cooleemee, employment of a chemist whose function was to work on waste disposal problems, construction of a caustic soda recovery system, more efficient control of dyestuffs and chemicals used in production formulas, construction of a waste treatment lagoon, and the hiring of a consulting engineering firm to help devise plans for a long-range system.

Throughout the several years of study and planning, Edwin's director of chemical research and development, C. Norris Rabold, and others worked closely with representatives of the State Stream Sanitation Committee in developing the new system. In a letter to Mr. Rabold from W. E. Long, Jr., chief of the pollution control section of the state committee, Mr. Long praised the work of Erwin personnel and the plans for the new disposal system. He said, "This represents a lot of hard work and the expenditure of much money and time. It is an excellent piece of work, and I congratulate you and your staff for a job well done. You have the answers now to most of these problems which defied a solution just a few years ago. We are happy to have had a part in reaching this goal."

whose aims seem to have aggressive designs on their neighbors. Direct reference to this problem was not made in the message beyond the statement that countries receiving aid should "avoid spending their resources on unnecessary armaments and foreign adventures"

Still another message dealt with the question of hospital expenses for the aged which will no doubt be among the first of the major issues the leadership will bring before the Congress.

In succeeding weeks, many more of these messages will flow to Capitol Hill and they will become the basis for much that is said and done in Congress this year. The process of sifting through the details of the proposals is about to begin and next winter's snows may well find Congress still in Washington debating them.

Grain Carryovers To Be Down
Carryovers of feed grains and wheat combined will be down 32.3 percent from the 1960-61 marketing year at the end of the 1964-65 marketing year, according to A. P. Hassell, Jr., Executive Director for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Mr. Hassell said USDA estimates show feed grain carryover will be only 58 million tons at the end of the present marketing year. The carryover in 1961 was 84.7 million tons.

Wheat carryover will be about 900 million bushels as compared with 1.4 billion bushels in 1961. The reduction in wheat stocks will be 35.7 percent.

Corn carryover will be about 1.225 billion bushels at the end of the marketing year as compared to 2.008 billion bushels in 1961, a reduction of 39 percent.

Grain sorghum carryover will be about 580 million bushels as compared with 702 million bushels, a reduction of about 17 percent.

Barley stocks will be 125 million bushels as compared with 153 million bushels, down 18 percent.

Oats carryover will be 280 million bushels, down 14 percent.

Mr. Hassell said the anticipated reduction of stocks in the grains is evidence that the volunteer wheat and feed grain programs are effective in reducing surpluses and costs to the taxpayers. The voluntary grain programs include provisions for diverting acreage from production of grain to conserving uses. The sign-up period for the 1965 feed grain program will be held from February 8 through March 26.

At Winston-Salem Hearing— Davie Opposes Junction Dam

A delegation of between 70 and 80 Davie County citizens attended the public hearing last Thursday in Winston-Salem on the possible development of water resources in the Yadkin River Basin. Approximately 425 persons attended the hearing which was moved to the Ballroom of the Hotel Robert E. Lee after it became apparent that there would not be enough room at the Agriculture Building where the hearing was originally scheduled. Conflicting points of view were presented during a five-hour session conducted by Col. S. Y. Coker, district engineer, U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, Charleston, S. C., district. The hearing was the result of 1962 congressional action calling for a study on updating plans for best development and maximum utilization of the Yadkin River main stem and tributaries below the Kerr Scott Dam in Wilkes County. A 1944 study recommended the Wilkes facility, which was subsequently constructed, and also envisioned future hydroelectric and flood control facilities at Styers Ferry near Clemmons and at Donaha near the Forsyth-Yadkin-Surry line. With Styers Ferry preferred at that time. Also suggested was a similar construction at the junction of the Yadkin River and South Yadkin River just above High Rock Lake. The new studies and recommendations are scheduled for completion in early 1967. John Brock, attorney for Davie County and the Dutchman's Creek Watershed, told the gathering that a dam at the junction site would "wash out" the watershed project, which was ready for the bulldozers in July 1964 when Congress withheld funds because of the new Yadkin Basin Study. He explained that the watershed project, organized three years ago, involved great effort on the part of Davie Citizens. He said a dam at the junction site would reduce the Davie tax base 12 to 15 percent, bring visitors who would expect services the county was not able to afford, through the count's highest population density and force some of the most successful farmers off the best land. Others Speak Cecil Leagans, board chairman of the Dutchman Creek Watershed trustees, said the board unanimously opposed a dam and recommended completion of the watershed project, which would keep plans in production He asked for an immediate decision. H. R. Hendrix, Jr., chairman of the Davie County Board of Commissioners, read a resolution of the board opposing the junction dam project. Clay Hunter, chairman of the Davie Soil and Water District, opposed construction of a large dam on the basis it would destroy Davie dairy farmers. Donald Bingham, Davie state representative, said a hydroelectric dam and reservoir would be fatal to the economic, social and political progress of the county. He added that he thinks atomic power will be available "in the next few years" and will make water-power obsolete. "Human Factor" William E. Hall, Mocksville attorney, said, "I don't know how an engineer can take the human factor into consideration, but I hope you can. It (the dam) would go into the heart of Davie. It would kill all our efforts." Luther West of the Pino Grange, Davie County, argued the reservoir would be a health hazard, cover farm-to-market roads, and be an inconvenience. Rep. Clyde Harriss of Rowan County said he approved of flood controls along the Yadkin, but that he felt a series of small watershed projects would suffice. Commenting on the population explosion, Harriss said, "We cannot afford to take our good soil and cover it up with great big dams when the same results can be achieved with a series of small dams. . . I don't want a big hydroelectric dam."

The Styers Ferry site, suggested as early as 1944, would inundate bottomlands in Yadkin County. Opposing such action, Rep. Charles Reavis argued that Yadkin would be affected worse than any other county in the entire plan should the Styers Ferry dam be constructed because so much land would be put under water. Against "Pond" Explaining that he spoke as a Yadkin resident of 72 years and a former sheriff who knew the land, Reavis said, "I'm not for a big pond of water on the Yadkin River to cover up Yadkin County."

Sen. F. D. B. Harding submitted a list of questions for answers before he would take a position. Joe Kuykendall of Raleigh, state soil conservationist with the U. S. Department of Agriculture, said the new study of proposed dams will hold up watershed projects which would reduce flood and sediment damages. Landowners will suffer in the meantime, he said. Walter E. Fuller, director of the N. C. Department of Water Resources, favored a comprehensive study to determine the greatest benefits available in all areas, ranging from agricultural irrigation to wildlife. A strong proponent for basin development was James MacLamroc, state highway commissioner from Greensboro. He said a large water supply will be necessary if High Point, Greensboro and Winston-Salem are to prosper. Populous Area The Piedmont, he continued, forms the most populous, wealthiest and most industrial area in the state, and "we need water."

He said Yadkin County would have attracted new industry had a water storage facility been erected at Styers Ferry, but that one a "little above Donaha" would be more beneficial. He expressed hope that study would cover the advisability of diverting water from the Yadkin to the smaller stream which supplies Greensboro. "The North Piedmont area has got to have more water," he said, "and the most abundant source is the Yadkin River." Lawrence G. Pfefferkorn of Winston-Salem, board chairman of the High Rock Lake Association, strongly favored the basin development. "Two essentials of growth," said Pfefferkorn, "are water and recreational facilities. Economists consider the Golden Triangle one of the growth areas of the country."

Attract Industries He said the water recreational facilities would enable the area to attract industries with high-salaried employees who think about their spare time activities. Pfefferkorn said the government is doing so much for parasites, delinquents, problem people and the useless that it is not unreasonable for the government to do something for hardworking, job-holding, responsible people who like water recreation. Opposition again came from the Salisbury - Rowan County Chamber of Commerce through Henry H. Palmer, executive director. He recommended completion of the Dutchman's Creek Watershed project, which would reduce sediment deposit in High Rock Lake by an estimated 123,000 tons per year. He also recommended eliminating the Junction Dam from further study, saying, "We feel that our need for boating and water-skiing facilities and for power projection is not sufficient to justify the loss of the land which this lake would cover."

Parkway Area He suggested development of a recreational parkway area a half-mile wide on both sides of the Yadkin River from Salisbury to Donaha. Wilkes County leaders repeatedly emphasized the values Wilkes has (CONTINUED ON PAGE TWO)

Grand Jury Has Report

A report of the Grand Jury from the January term of Superior Court held last week is as follows: To the Honorable Frank M. Armstrong, presiding judge: Number of bills passed on, 15; number of true bills, 10; number of not true bills, 4; number continued for lack of evidence, 4.

A committee was appointed to visit the County Jail for the purpose of ascertaining as to whether the repairs recommended at the November term had been made. The committee reports that the plaster is still falling, the light fixture upstairs has not been replaced, and no closets have been built.

The committee further noted that the recommendations of the August term Grand Jury have not been complied with, particularly as to the rest rooms. The men's rest room is still in a deplorable condition. Also, the purchase of cars for the Sheriff's Department has not been made.

The committee commended the judge for the fair and impartial manner in which he conducted the Court, and for his instructive charge to the Jury.

The report was signed by M. H. Groce, foreman; and Edith J. Barnard, secretary.

Sunday Fire Damages Home on Neely Street

Fire did an estimated $3,000 damage to the home of John Dulin on Neely Street in Mocksville, Sunday night. Mocksville Fire Chief Andrew Lagle said that the living room, part of the kitchen, and most of the contents of the house were destroyed by fire.

Chief Lagle said that the fire was caused by the explosion of an oil heater. No one was at home at the time the fire broke out around 8:30 p.m. and spread rapidly through the house.

Action by the Mocksville Fire Department prevented the fire from spreading to the neighboring houses.

Truck Overtakes Spilling Tomatoes

A two ton truck loaded with tomatoes overturned on Tuesday around 12 noon, spilling most of the load in the yard of Tom Beaver on Route 4.

Patrolman Larry Woods, who investigated the accident, reported the accident as follows: Anthony Allen Spradling, 50, of Charleston, West Virginia, was operating a two ton Ford truck loaded with tomatoes going north on 601 towards Mocksville. The left front tire blew causing the truck to travel 180 feet from the right side of the road over to the left side, and then proceed 250 feet out through the driveway and yard at the Beaver home. The truck turned all the way over and came to rest on the right side.

A passenger in the truck, Abbie M. Asbury, 50, also of Charleston, was not hurt. Neither was the driver. There was approximately $25 to $35 damage to the yard. There were no charges.

Junior Deputies

There will be a meeting of the Davie County Junior Deputy Sheriffs in the courtroom of the Davie County Courthouse on Friday night, January 29, at 7:30 p. m. Sheriff George Smith urged all members to be present. A safety film will be shown.

Dedicate Building

The Redland Pentecostal Holiness Church will dedicate a $12,000 new educational addition to the church in special services on Sunday, Jan. 31.

The Rev. E. T. Hoyle, treasurer of the Western North Carolina Conference, will be the guest speaker at the service. This church was organized 20 years ago in January. It is located on Highway 153 at Baltimore Road. Rev. C. C. Carpenter, pastor of the church, extends a cordial welcome to the public to attend this special service. Also all former pastors have been invited to attend.

FOUR WERE INJURED . . . in this two-car accident last week at the intersection of U. S. 601 South and the Deadman Road. The 1959 Plymouth Station Wagon shown at the left was operated by Mrs. Lexie Alexander Bailey and pulled out of the Deadman Road into the path of the 1958 Pontiac at the right driven by Bobby Ray Boles of Mocksville, Route 2. Three occupants of the station wagon and the driver of the Pontiac were injured in the accident.

The Rebels bowed 53 to 68 and have a conference record of three wins and two losses.

Friday night Davie will play at North Rowan and on Tuesday night Troutman will play here.

Dorothy Seaford had 12 points to lead the effort for the Rebellets; Wagner had 6 and Bailey 6.

For the Rebels: Parker had 16; Bailey, 14; Ward, 14; Boger, 5; and Eaton, 4.

Prayer For Judgment Continued— Marshall Guilty of Manslaughter

The Superior Court jury returned a verdict of guilty Friday in the case charging Franklin Glenn Marshall, 32, of Mocksville, Route 3, with manslaughter in one of the cases growing out of an accident in which five people were killed last Feb. 2.

Judge Frank M. Armstrong continued prayer for judgment in the case until the April term of Criminal Court. However, he left a note in his judgment calling the attention of the April term's presiding judge to the fact he would have sentenced Marshall to 5 to 10 years in state prison had he imposed sentence.

Armstrong ordered Marshall's bond increased to $2,500 from $1,500. He also ordered four other manslaughter cases and a charge of operating a car intoxicated placed on the calendar for trial as the April term.

The sentencing of Marshall was continued because he is receiving extensive plastic surgery at the Baptist Hospital in Winston-Salem. His face was extensively damaged in the accident in which he was seriously injured. His jaws were fractured and his nose and mouth were also damaged and the roof of his mouth was badly fractured.

Marshall was convicted of manslaughter in the death of Samuel Leon Annas, 24, of Hudson, Route 2, driver of a Volkswagen which was struck by a 1956 Ford driven by Marshall. Four other people were killed in the accident which occurred on U. S. 158 about 12 miles east of Mocksville.

The others killed were Annas' brother, Gareth Edwin Annas, 27, Garth Annas' wife, Mrs. Katherine Warren Annas, 25; and their five-month-old daughter, Lila Leeaine, all of Raleigh, R. I.; and Mrs. Florence Sullivan Annas, 51, of Hudson, R. I., mother of the Annas brothers.

Dr. Francis W. Slate, Davie County Coroner, testified all five were dead on arrival at the Davie County Hospital. He also testified that is his opinion Marshall was intoxicated when he was examined at the hospital shortly after the accident.

Marshall testified that he was not intoxicated. He said he had two beers about an hour and a half before the accident. He said he knew nothing of the accident. He claimed he had "blacked out" before the two cars collided.

Nine persons were injured in three unrelated automobile accidents in Davie County last week.

Four persons were injured last Wednesday (Jan. 20th) when two cars collided around 2.55 p. m. on U. S. 601, about one mile south of Mocksville at the intersection of Deadman Road.

State Highway Patrolman L. E. Woods said that a 1959 Plymouth station wagon driven by Mrs. Lexie Alexander Bailey, 42, of Mocksville, Rt. 4, was headed west on the Deadman Road and pulled out on US 601 into the path of a 1958 Pontiac driven by Bobby Ray Boles, 32, of Mocksville, Rt. 2, heading north on U. S. 601.

Patrolman Woods said that Boles told him that he didn't have time to apply his brake; before crashing into the left front of the Bailey car. The Patrolman said that Mrs. Bailey told him that she stopped at the intersection but couldn't see for the cars parked around the fruit stand.

Mrs. Bailey was taken to the Davie County Hospital suffering with head and chest injuries. Mr. Boles suffered head and chest injuries and was taken to the Davie County Hospital.

Miss Ruby Mae Alexander, 46, of Mocksville Rt. 4, a passenger in the Bailey car, suffered a possible fractured skull and was taken to the Baptist Hospital in Winston-Salem.

Knox Johnstone, County Volunteer Chairman, said that bonds sales for the year in the county totaled $253,204, which is 118.1 per cent of its last year's goal of $214,400.

Mr. Johnstone said that the 1964 U. S. Savings Bonds program in North Carolina achieved its best all-around peacetime performance in its 24-year history.

For the second consecutive year North Carolina exceeded its annual dollar quota. Total sales of Series E and H Bonds for the year amounted to $31,759,451, which is 103.5 per cent of the 1964 goal of $30,700,000, the largest volume of sales recorded for any year since 1955.

Other children received injuries around 4 p. m. last Friday afternoon when a school bus skidded on a slick sand-clay road and overturned on the Peoples Creek Road, 2-miles east of Advance.

Those injured were Cathy L. Myers, 16; Dale L. Myers, 11; and Marcia L. Myers, 9, and Shirley L. Myers, 7, all of Advance Rt. 2. They were taken to a local doctor for treatment.

State Highway Patrolman Larry Woods said that the bus, from Shady Grove Elementary School, was going east on the Peoples Creek Road with 15 aboard being driven by John Rolins Crawford, 17, of Advance Rt. 1.

As the bus went into a sharp left hand curve at approximately 15-miles-per-hour, it hit a slick spot caused by the ground thawing. The bus skidded off on the right side of the road and turned over on it's right side in a field. Damage to the bus was estimated at $150.

Patrolman Woods said that the driver was in no way at fault.

Car Overturns

David Ray Miller, 27, of Mocksville Rt. 4, was hospitalized with injuries when the car in which he was a passenger overturned early last Friday morning (around 12:30 a. m.) near the Fork Recreation Center on US 64 East. Miller suffered severe head and chest injuries & was taken to the Davie County Hospital.

Miller was a passenger in a 1964 Plymouth being driven by Johnny Lee Hellard, 20, of Mocksville Rt. 3.

State Highway Patrolman Larry E. Woods said that the car was heading west when Hellard lost control on a right hand curve. The car went off the right edge of the road, traveled 18-feet back across the road to the left side, and then overturned rolling 240-feet across fence to the recreation area.

Patrolman Woods said that Hellard told him that he met a car and the lights blinded him.

Hellard was charged with reckless driving.

Other Accidents A 1963 Corvair was damaged around $150 in a wreck around 6 p. m. Saturday, 4-miles south of Mocksville on US 601 near Greasy Corner.

Samuel Cable, 56, of Mocksville Rt. 4 told State Highway Patrolman Larry E. Woods that he was heading south and met a car with bright lights, he swerved to the left and went off the road into a bank.

Cable had left the scene of the accident before Patrolman Woods arrived. He was arrested around 45-minutes later by State Highway Patrolman Randall Beane walking on US 601 back towards Greasy Corner and was charged with public drunkenness.

In another accident around 8:50 p. m. Saturday night, a Hickory man reported that a car forced him off the road and that he sideswiped a sign causing around $200 damage to his 1961 Chevrolet.

Frank Filmore Correll, 52, of Hickory told State Highway Patrolman Larry Woods that the incident occurred just outside of Mocksville on US 158. He said that on a curve he met a car that came over on his side of the road and to avoid a collision he ran off on the right shoulder and sideswiped a sign.

Davie Opposes Junction Dam

received from the two-year-old Kerr Scott Dam, which was strongly opposed by some residents. They also requested construction of a dam for flood control and water supply on the Reddles River 1.8 miles above North Wilkesboro.
Wilkes speakers included Judge Johnson J. Hayes; Mayor J. M. Anderson; Ronald J. Knouse, Chamber of Commerce executive director; and Jame; E. Spicer, Wilkes county commission chairman.
Knouse said a dam on the Reddles would prevent a potential property damage of $6 million below the dam.
The N. C. Electric Membership Corp., which would be a preferred customer for power at lower rates from any federal hydroelectric project, strongly favored power development in the Yadkin basin.
William T. Crisp, Raleigh attorney for the cooperative, said, "We shall be happy to buy every kilowatt, every kilowatt-hour, that is generated."
He said the organization serves nearly a million people with 44,000 miles of lines in the state, with consumer demand doubling every five to seven years.
The cooperative now buys its power from federal projects in Virginia and South Carolina, plus other needed power from private companies such as Duke Power Co.
"It is the higher-cost, power company source of supply on which we are totally dependent for the ever-larger supplemental quantities of power we must have . . . The power companies want for themselves, privately, the use of our streams."
He said the power companies have been opposing full, multiple - purpose development of N. C. river systems by the federal government.
Would Slow Growth
B. B. Parker of Charlotte, vice president of Duke Power Co., argued that the company has met all power requirements in its service area and has demonstrated its ability to do so in the future.
Parker said Duke Power believed the new study would show "they cannot be justified economically for power or for other needs at this time."
Development of power projects now in an area where there is already an ample supply of power at favorable rates, said Parker, would slow further industrialization and growth of the area.
"The power generated by these plans," he said, "would not go to Duke customers, but by federal law to preference customers, primarily public bodies and cooperatives."
In contrast, power from Duke's generating plants goes to all customers in its service area, including those who are directly served by municipalities or rural cooperatives.
Supplies Available
"Duke Power customers would help pay for such federal projects (1) when they pay their electric power bill, since our taxes are part of the bill, and (2) when they pay their federal income taxes."
Parker said Duke Power makes municipal water supplies available from its reservoirs at no cost to the cities, including Winston-Salem's supply from Idol's Reservoir.
He enumerated Duke - promoted recreational facilities which he described as adequate.
Free-flowing streams must be left, said Parker, for industries who can't locate on still water of reservoirs. Any federal project to produce power will not serve all people of the area, he added, but those of preference customers.

Belk Foundation Offers Additional Scholarships

Ed Cox, manager of Belk's Dept. Store, announced today that The Belk Foundation has increased to 36 the number of college scholarships it will award to deserving high school students in 1965. Last year 30 scholarships worth $500 each were given. The growing importance of college education, both for the individual and for his community, was cited by Mr. Cox as the reason The Belk Foundation offers the six additional scholarships. He stated that the Belk group of department stores, which operate under an unusual plan of local control, take great interest in the citizens and area surrounding each store. Since each store is a dominant part of the business life in which it participates, it feels a responsibility to contribute towards the betterment of local people. To accomplish this, The Belk Foundation was established as a memorial to Dr. John M. Belk and W. H. Belk, founders of the Belk mercantile organization. Many churches, colleges, hospitals and other institutions have been assisted by it. In 1958 The Belk Foundation began its scholarship program as an additional means of providing better opportunities in life, and the number of annual awards has consistently increased. The scholarships, paying $500 to the college chosen by each winner, are available to high school graduates in the 18-state area served by the Belk, Leggett and Efrid department stores. All persons who were graduated from high schools since January 1, 1959 may apply, provided they ranked scholastically in the upper one-third of their graduating class and will be entering college as freshmen during 1965. Winners of The Belk Foundation scholarships will be selected on the basis of each applicant's scholastic rating, school and community activities, financial need, character and interests, and potentialities for success in college and adult life. Each winner will make his own choice of college and courses of study. All local high school seniors who are interested in applying for one of The Belk Foundation scholarships should contact Mr. Cox at Belk's Dept. Store for additional details and obtain an official application form. More than 100-thousand plants are dependent on bees.

Needs Of The Present And The Future—

The Yadkin Projects and Davie

"We are simply here to gather information for a two-year study of the Yadkin River Basin . . . and we are looking for needs 25 to 50 years in the future", said Col S. Y. Coker of the Army Engineers who presided over the hearing.

"The North Carolina Water Resources Commission favors a comprehensive study of the situation so that the best possible use may be made of our water resources", said Walter Fuller, Chairman of the State Water Resources Commission.

"We should make the fullest use of our natural resources including our water power even if it means building large dams and flooding certain areas", said representatives of the Tar Heel Electric Membership Corporation and High Rock Lake group and others.

"We do not want large areas covered up with water . . . flooding out valuable areas of land . . . when the objective can just as well be accomplished with smaller projects", said the representatives of Davie County, Rowan County, Yadkin County, and others.

In our opinion the above just sums up the various divergent opinions offered at the public hearing on the possible development of water resources of the Yadkin River basin held in Winston-Salem last Thursday. All had valid arguments which will be taken into consideration as the study is made over the next two years.

We certainly espouse the present stand of Davie County in opposing the Junction Project which would flood out much of the county by backing water up and out of the banks of Dutchman Creek. Looking at this in the light of today, it would certainly appear that the development of this basin could just as well or better be carried out with a series of small dams and watershed projects rather than this big one.

However, trying to look ahead fifty years is a different matter entirely . . . for certainly fifty years from now the needs . . . the wants . . . and the problems will be entirely different from those of today. We say this in the effort to point up what we consider to be the real crux of the matter . . . that this is a diligent search in the effort to foresee and provide the needs of this area around the year 2,000 and after.

The position for the small projects in lieu of the large one was well presented at the hearing and we feel sure that in the study all angles will be considered. We believe that the occasion required the presentation of this position and perhaps continuing study and presentation on the part of our county.

However, we also feel that perhaps the threat of having the county flooded with a large body of water has been overly emphasized and has created in many fear and undue concern not warranted at the present. For simple arithmetic in the timetable would indicate that this project . . . now in its embryonic stage . . . will not affect many of us in any future that at this time we can clearly foresee.

The study of the project will take two years . . . with the report being submitted in 1967. Following the submission of this report . . . be it in favor of the small dams or the large one . . . there is certain to be a lengthy fight both for and against the proposal submitted prior to final adoption . . . the money appropriated . . . and actual construction begun. And then . . . projects of this magnitude are not completed overnight . . . there will be years spent in actual construction . . . and even when completed (Should it be the large dam) it would take a number of years for the reservoir to fill to the point that today is causing so much concern.

We point out the above because we believe that the efforts of the people of Davie County should not be directed against facets of a study that will consider our future needs. Our efforts instead should be directed towards achieving more immediate needs that we are capable of comprehending along the lines of the Dutchman Creek Watershed.

It has been indicated due to the fact this Yadkin River Basin project is so far into the future it is still possible that our Dutchman Creek Watershed Project can become a reality. This is what we need to work for . . . this is what we need to seek . . . and if it is obtained would certainly offer a much stronger and more tangible argument against the big dam than all the personal and emotional reasons that can be generated among our individuals.

Training To Commence On February 8—

Project Uplift Applicants Are Sought

Davie County is seeking eligible participants in "Project Uplift". This project is sponsored by the U. S. Government and A & T College to train unemployed workers and place them on jobs.

The project will train 200 persons at A & T College in Greensboro for a maximum of 20 weeks in one of the following occupations: Auto body repairman, auto mechanic, carpenter, cook, janitor, nurse's aide, and waiter-waitress.

Trainees will be given training allowance travel allowances while training. Trainees will be placed in jobs after completing training.

Any unemployed person, man or woman, residing in this county (or in Stokes or Guilford), who has worked two years, is head of family or household, is between 22 and 50-years-old, and is in need of basic education, and who has earned $1200 or less last year, may apply.

Applications in Davie County Welfare Department; Mrs. Ostine West, Davie Home Agent; or Professor Carl Hargraves at the Central Davie High School.

Applications are now being accepted by these people and training will start on February 8 to $34 weekly, and subsistence or ruary 8th.

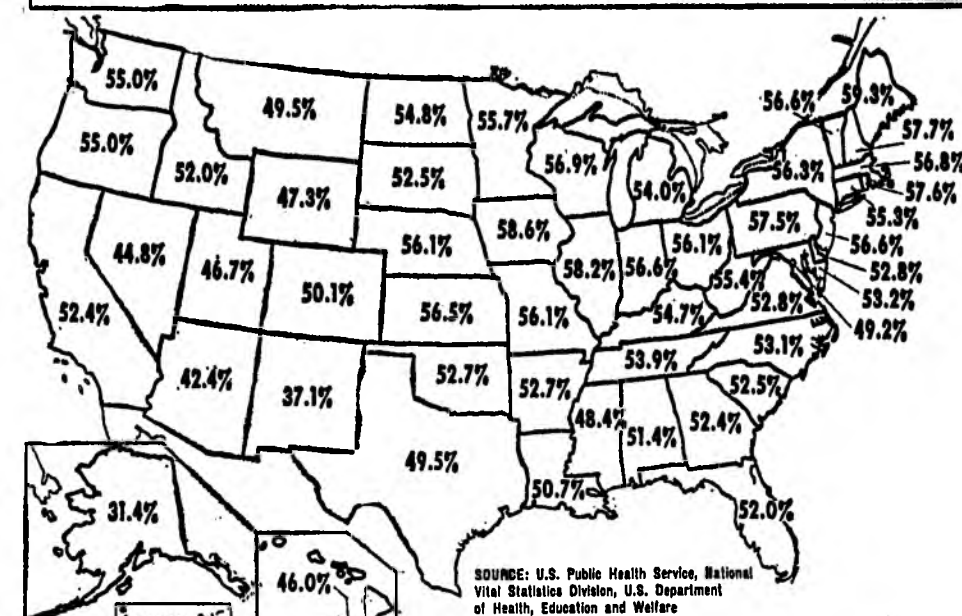

This "Project Uplift" . . . as it's name indicates . . . is designed to lift the standard of living of our untrained citizens by training them in certain skills. Anyone knowing of someone that this project might benefit should contact one of the persons listed above so that arrangements can be made to offer them this opportunity.

PERCENTAGE OF ALL DEATHS FROM HEART AND BLOOD VESSEL DISEASES, BY STATES

HEART AND BLOOD VESSEL DISEASE are the leading cause of death in each of the 50 states, as shown in map. In the nation as a whole they are responsible for 54 per cent of all deaths. Differences among states can be explained to some extent by such factors as age, sex and ethnic composition of their populations. The nationwide attack against these diseases is spearheaded by your Heart Association, supported by your contributions to the 1965 Heart Fund. The month-long campaign reaches its high point on the weekend of Heart Sunday, February 21, when more than 1,750,000 volunteers will visit their neighbors to distribute heart-guarding information and to receive Heart Fund contributions.

NEWS AND COMMENT FROM OUR RALEIGH BUREAU 2615 Oberlin Road

PLANS. . . Although there is some disagreement about the best way to go about it, legislators—Republicans and Democrats alike—seem to be unanimous in the desire to end the session on Saturday, June 5.

If they can accomplish this, they will have to spend only about four months in Raleigh. And they may be able to beat that.

Convening on Feb. 3, members of the 1965 General Assembly plan to keep the length of time here as close to the 120 days (time for which they are paid) as possible. June 5 would about do it.

The last few sessions of the Legislature have seemed to many—legislators themselves included—unnecessarily long.

LODGING. . . As usual, the big majority of the senators and representatives will be staying at the Hotel Sir Walter.

But be that as it may; and whether they stay there or not: that hotel will be the hangout for the members.

Now that the Legislature no longer meets in the Capitol—and with State offices all over the place—there is hardly a central meeting place any more.

Holiday Inn has a tremendous plot of land on the southeast corner across from the Legislative Building—or, if you prefer, the State House. Plans call for a big, beautiful motor hotel there. The State, claiming this is hallowed ground—it's been much, much less than that for 50 years—wants to block Holiday. If the Inn gets there with what it has in mind, kiss the Sir Walter goodbye as "The Hangout."

Although a magnificent motor hotel across the street from their business would prove most convenient (the Sir Walter is five long blocks away) to the legislators, they are already being lobbied to keep the land for rapidly expanding State Government.

A bill to do this very thing is already written, we understand, and ready for introduction.

Cost of rooms for members of the Legislature this time will run from about $45 to $80 per week.

GOT IT RIGHT. . . There was general complaint in Raleigh last week as citizens heard that Gov. Dan Moore, and then President JBJ himself, had been laid low by the frigid inaugural weather.

Wholly without intending to, a man pushing his grocery cart alongside ours at the grocery store last Saturday remarked to his wife: "The physical year ought to be changed or something. If they could change the physical year to later in the spring—when the weather was nice—you wouldn't have everybody getting sick from sitting outdoors?"

Yes, sometimes—in fact frequently—physical is more important than fiscal.

HOW'S THAT AGAIN? . . . And, speaking of words, the physical, etc., a national magazine for February refers to this sign spotted on a downtown office building in Greensboro: "M. C. Johnson—Justice of the Peace — Marriages Consumed—Room 3."

regarded nobelly." Wonder if Diet Rite Cola came up with that one? Well, it's a noble thought, anyway.

NO HURRY. . . Gov Dan Moore seems in no big rush to make appointments for positions outside his immediate office.

It was pointed out by an aide last week that the only reason he moved so swiftly in the Revenue and Conservation and Development Departments was that he was faced with vacancies at the top rung. Sneed High had stepped down as Revenue Commissioner and Robert Stallings as director of C and D. But Gov. Moore is playing it cautiously —

Even then he stayed right in the middle of the road by naming capable Assistant Commissioner—L. Clayton to Revenue and former C and D Head Bill Saunders to the post. Since these are political plums from the topmost branches, only time will tell whether they will be permanent. They may be of the "interim" variety. Both men are top-flight.

CHEVY UP. . . Whether due to strike or what, we wouldn't know, but Chevrolet in December sold 4,540 new cars in North Carolina compared to the N. C. Dept. of Motor Vehicles figure of 1,900 in November.

This put Chevrolet in front of Ford, 4,540 to 3,557, for December.

Figures released by Motor Vehicles on January 22 gave total new car sales for December at 15,956 as compared with 15,716 for the same month a year earlier. In December, 1959 — five years ago — sales were less than half that at only 6,564.

Truck sales in December were 2,404 — less than the 2,765 for December of 1963, but far above the 1,521 for December of 1959.

New car sales in December went like this: Buick, 887-Cadillac, 199-Chrysler, 261; Dodge, 715-Imperial, 23 Lincoln, 42-Mercury, 594-Olds, 767; Plymouth, 1,267-Pontiac, 1,388-Rambler, 760-Studebaker, 20-Willys, 10; Foreign, 910 (617 of these were Volkswagens), and miscellaneous, 16.

Pass-Through Trick

Handsome way to handle a pass-through between kitchen and dining room is to panel the wall in finely grained western softwood, then make a matching pull-down door to close off the opening when not in use. Door should fit exactly into paneling so joints don't show, push up inside wall when pass-through is needed.

Tinted Wood

Like the look of colored wood Try tinting an accent wall pastel blue, mustard gold, or soft sage green. With interior type stains, texture and grain patterns of western woods like ponderosa pine, Engelmann spruce, Douglas fir are captured while color is added.

Senator Sam Ervin Says:

WASHINGTON — The Inauguration of President Johnson gave an insight into the purposes of the new Administration. It was also a time for redemption by the Nation to the principles of democratic government. The oath-taking ceremony, a solemn rite conducted on the East Plaza of the Capitol, renewed the vows which the President took 14 months ago to "faithfully execute the duties" of his office. The Inaugural Message spelled out the Administration's national goals. The parade and Inaugural festivities celebrated the gala occasion and the hopes for the Nation in the months ahead.

Comparisons with the Inaugural four years ago were many. The weather was mild by that standard. The Johnson mood was directed toward unity, consensus of opinion, and domestic affairs. As such it was a plea for reason. The Kennedy Inaugural, by way of contrast, was directed toward "getting the country moving" and to foreign affairs. That was the challenge of that day. Times change rapidly and the role of the Presidency does too. No forebodings seemed to press down the confidence of the new President. All in all, there was a change of direction. President Johnson some days before dawn upon this in these words: "No longer are we called upon to get America moving. No longer do we doubt our strength and resolution. We are strong and we have proven our resolve."

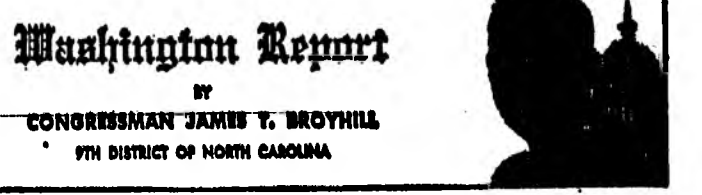

The thousands of people in front of the East front of the Capitol, as well as the more than a million spectators along Washington's avenues, seemed to sense the change. In four years, belief in our ability to keep the peace in vital world areas has grown. Alliance and world problems have modified a great deal. There is a feeling of need for re-assessment in our commitments and our needs at home and abroad. The President said as much in his address.

This was the fourth Presidential Inaugural I have attended. There was the second Eisenhower Inaugural, the Kennedy Inaugural, but the first was on March 4, 1913, when I came to Washington to see Woodrow Wilson inaugurated. I still have vivid recollections of Wilson and Taft riding along the avenues to the Capitol.

Environmental Health Center The selection of the North Carolina Research Triangle as the site for a National Center for Environmental Sciences adds much to the effectiveness of the fast growing medical and scientific complex. It is expected that construction of the new center will cost about $25 million. The new facility will house approximately 1,000 persons.

Selection of the North Carolina site followed the review of some 40 localities. Establishment of the center was first proposed in 1961 with location scheduled for the Washington, D. C. area. Plans were changed after persuasion came from North Carolina leaders at the Congressional and State government level. Just before Christmas, Governor Sanford, Senator Jordan, and I visited President Johnson seeking his endorsement of the Research Triangle Park for the Center. I am pleased that it will now be located in North Carolina.

Appalachia Bill Congress is scheduled to begin priority action on the Appalachia bill. While he was in Washington recently, Governor Moore endorsed the proposal before a Congressional Committee. I think the program is meritorious. There is every indication of early enactment.

COMMITTEES This month, Congress has been putting together its complex organizational structure and receiving the outlines of President Johnson's program at the same time. From the State of the Union address, the 1965 Budget proposals, special Presidential messages and the President's Inaugural remarks, the general shape of the White House program is coming clear.

Although the President's remarks at the Inauguration were general, he outlined goals with which few Americans would disagree. Education, full employment, progress in health research, and the elimination of strife among various groups of Americans are ends toward which we have always strived because they are the basis for the progress one generation bequeaths to its successor. As a nation, we need to continue to press forward. The disagreements in these next two years will largely be centered upon method, particularly as methods apply to the responsibility and authority of the Federal government and the cost to be borne by the American taxpayer.

As these general recommendations are being submitted, the Congress is preparing to assume its role in considering the ideas that are being presented. Much of what has been accomplished has been done behind the scenes. Leadership questions in both parties were resolved first and the often difficult mechanics of legislative operations are almost completed so that the switch can be turned on soon.

This is all a part of making our intricate system work. Many people ask why all this takes so long. Certainly, the answer is plain enough if we consider what would happen if the 435 members of the House of Representatives plunged immediately into formal debate on any of the more than 3,000 proposals for new laws that have been made so far. The Congress would be bogged down, short circuited in its operations, and almost surely the results would be harmful to the country.

Laws enacted under a system of this kind would lack the careful deliberation that any new law deserves. Congress must act only after it is fully aware of all the aspects of an issue and the information necessary must be gathered systematically and thoroughly.

Fortunately, when this nation was established nearly 200 years ago, there was already broad experience on the handling of legislation. The colony of Virginia had developed, at Williamsburg, the committee system. It was the business of the committees to consider all sides of proposals and come to some agreement after analyzing all of the information. Only then would it be understood if there was a public need for a new law and how it would affect all the people. We have retained this system and we have highly refined it through generations of experience.

These early weeks of the new Congress have been largely devoted to setting up the committees and preparing them for operation. Each political party has responsibility for assigning its members to the various committees. It has been my privilege to serve as a member of the Committee on Committees for my party in the House. This process is far more than the naming of members to fill such vacancies as have occurred on the various committees. To the degree possible, personal preferences have been respected. Members of legislative committees must be or must become experts in given fields so it is essential that the education and special experience men bring to Congress be fully utilized. Geographic representation on the committees is also desirable to assure that each committee will contain to the degree possible spokesmen for special regional problems and interests. It is these considerations which have guided the committee selections that were recently completed.

In my own case, I will continue my service on the important Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee to which I was assigned two years ago. This year my seniority on the Committee has risen to eighth place among the members of my party. We will soon be involved with the broad responsibilities this committee has been given. Included is responsibility for legislation affecting commerce, civil aeronautics, radio television, communication, securities and exchanges, inland waterways, railroad labor and retirement, public health and other national questions.

Congress is ready to start the legislative process and the flow of bills to the floor can now commence.

Uncle Dave From Davie Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR: The fellers at the county store Saturday night was paying their annual respects to the Internal Revenue boys in Washington. Ed Doolittle had it figured out this department was operating on a sort of sublease plan. Ed says they git experts to make up the forms and they fix 'em so's it takes other tax experts to fill 'em out. It's like a doctor running a funeral parlor, claims Ed, the house can't lose.

What brung up the subject was Zeke Grubb reporting he had saw the new tax forms fer farmers and ranchers and they got 72 questions a feller has got to answer. Zeke said he had saw in the papers where the forms was going to be more "simplified" this year on account of they was fixing 'em so's they would work in them computer contraptions. Zeke allowed as how if they "simplified" 'em about one more year they would write 'em in Greek and put on a 25 per cent penalty fer using the dictionary.

Clem Webster was taking up a little fer the tax boys, claimed all they been doing ever year is closing up more loop holes. Fer instant, he said had a neighbor onct that returned his horse as a dependant. The tax form fer that year didn't ask the name of kinship of a dependant. Just whether they was male or female. This neighbor said the horse was eating his oats, corn and hay and was costing him more'n ary kid he had, so he just listed him in the male column and took the proper deduction.

The feller that runs the store had an encouraging note. He reported he had saw in the papers where the city of New York was aiming to put on a payroll tax and some of our Congressmen was leaning in the direction of a Federal sales tax. He predicted the day was coming when the Governments at all levels would git together and take over everything, then give ever family 50 acres and a jeep and tell 'em to root hog or die. A good many of the fellers, Mister Editor, was of the opinion this might be the best plan. It would be interesting to git your opinion on this matter.

Josh Clothopper was hoping things might bit better, said he was reading where Secretary McNamara was fixing to cut another billion dollars off the military spending and matters was gitting (o) heavy in that department.

Personal, Mister Editor, I ain't got much faith in that direction. I recollect reading when I was a boy that when the United States founded our Navy in 1775 we started with 2 ships and 4 Admirals. By 1885 we had got up to 8 ships and 9 Admirals. They ain't been a time in our history when the military ain't been top heavy, never will be.

Yours truly, Uncle Dave

60 Second Sermon By FRED DODGE

TEXT: "Be prepared." - Boy Scout Motto.

One rainy night a young woman laden with packages and a small baby entered a crowded downtown bus. She indicated to the driver that she would return and pay her fare. Then she pushed her way back in the bus. Looking around she plunked her baby in a man's lap. Surprised, he asked, "Why pick on me, lady?"

With a broad smile the young woman replied, "You're the only person wearing a raincoat."

The young woman recognized that this one man was prepared to hold her baby. "One of the trade-marks of a true professional," said Ken Bement, "is preparedness." No professional in any field, looks to Lady Luck for more than occasional, unsolicited favors. The professional plans ahead. He leaves little, if anything, to chance. Eddie Cantor, asked for advice on getting ahead in show business, replied, "Prepare."

Opportunity comes many times in many ways to all. We do not recognize it because we are not prepared. Life is so full of unforeseen emergencies that we cannot afford to go unprepared in attempting anything. Even prepared, there are more than enough stumbling blocks to cause failure. Why do chances of failing by being unprepared for every known responsibility? "Be prepared."

Auto Liability Rates Hit 1 Car Families

One car families will have to bear most of the cost of North Carolina's 9.9 per cent increase in automobile liability insurance.

The owner of a single car will have to pay about 10 per cent more for insurance, under one example cited, while an owner of two or more cars in some cases will have virtually no increase.

W. Hollingsworth Williams, Lewisville insurance man, led a protest to Insurance Commissioner Edwin S. Lanier over what he termed discrimination against the man who owns only one automobile.

The new rates give multi-car owners a discount of 20 per cent for each car, instead of the old discount of 25 per cent for the second car. The insurance commissioner's office confirmed that one car owner were being hit harder by the insurance increase, but contended it was justified by loss experience.

Williams said he was assured that the insurance commissioner would look into the matter. But there was little indication of any immediate change.

The office reported that the rate increase which went into effect this month had been argued through several hearings and court litigation since May, 1963, and the present rate schedule was the one finally approved.

The relative reduction for two or more cars is similar to a rule which has been in effect in most parts of the United States, an insurance office spokesman said.

Signup Nears For 1965 Feed Grain Program

Farmers will have an opportunity to sign up in the 1965 feed grain program early in February, according to A. P. Hassell, Jr., Executive Director for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. The signup period will be for seven weeks, from Feb. 8 through March 28.

During the signup period, winter wheat producers who signed up in the wheat program last fall may change their intentions, except that in winter wheat areas growers may not overproduce wheat and store it under bond unless they stated their intentions to do this at the time of the signup last fall.

As in previous years, Hassell explained, the feed grain program will be voluntary and each operator of farms covering one of the three feed grains covered by the program will make his own decision about whether to take part. The program is available for corn, grain sorghums, and barley.

Farmers who participate in the program will be eligible for diversion and price-support payments, and for price-support loans on their entire 1965 production of the three grains.

The price-support payments will be made to participants whether the feed grain produced in 1965 is fed on the farm, sold, or placed under a price-support loan.

To take part in the feed grain program, the farmer will agree to take out of production and devote to an approved conservation use at least 20 per cent of the total feed grain base. Maximum diversion is 50 per cent.

Scoop of Sports

By Woody Durham

The current basketball campaign is just now beginning to warm up for what I am certain will be a "red-hot" stretch drive during February.

A real tug of war is shaping up in the Atlantic Coast Conference between Duke, Wake Forest, and N. C. State. By the way, Duke plays Wake Forest this Saturday at two o'clock on Channel Two. Should be a good one. High Point's unbeaten Panthers are dominating the Carolinas Conference, but they're keeping a close eye on the three or four teams right behind them. Davidson is head and shoulders above the rest of the field in the Southern Conference, but the Wildcats, just like teams in the other two leagues, have to win the post-season conference tournament in order to reign as true conference champion.

In the midst of all the current activity, a couple of other stories have developed. One deals with a proposal for a play off game following the ACC Tournament, and the other is the growing support for the reactivation of the Dixie Classic.

Duke's Vic Bubas is the voice behind the suggestion for an ACC playoff game. He feels such a game is definitely in order only if there is an undisputed regular season champion, and then some other team comes along to win the three-day conference tournament. Of the eleven tournaments played since the ACC was formed in 1953, four have been won by teams other than the regular season winner. This would correct what the Blue Devil mentor describes as the "regular season mockery." Such a game could be played on the Monday after the Saturday night finals as long as the conference owns a bye in the quarter-finals of the NCAA Tournament. This proposal has been presented and vetoed before, but now an energetic force is behind it, and the other coaches are in agreement.

The Dixie Classic, played annually in Raleigh since 1949, was cancelled by the Consolidated University of North Carolina in 1961 after the eruption of the basketball scandals involving several University players. Governor Dan Moore recently told his first news conference he is in favor of reviving the defunct holiday tournament. Since then the support has been growing by leaps and bounds. The new Tar Heel Chief Executive said he opposes gambling, but people can gamble on any game, so why single out the classic. Various members of the General Assembly and other influential groups are in agreement, and if such support keeps growing the possibility exists that the Classic might be back in operation by the end of 1966. If for no other reason, it would be fitting to see the nation's finest holiday basketball event revived as a tribute to the man who fostered the idea of the tournament . . . former N. C. State Coach Everett Case. See you weeknights at 8:20 and 11:20 on Channel Two.

Library News

By MRS. I. H. HUSKE

Mrs. Bonce Sheets (Recie to her friends) Key Worker at Bixby for the library fund campaign, enjoyed immensely the kickoff dinners, hosted by Knox Johnstone, chairman for the drive. In fact, they inspired her to add a little extra touch to her enthusiastic efforts as a worker.

Said Mrs. Sheets, "When I sent my workers out, I promised them a good old fashioned chicken pie supper, with all the trimmings, after they had finished their canvass. And I did even better than that! I offered to invite anyone who gave them as much as twenty-five dollars. Well, I planned it for Saturday night, Jan. 16. And did it snow that night? But we had our supper, even if a few couldn't come, and Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Wallace and Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Robertson were special guests because of their $25 donations.

Of course, this chicken pie idea was my own. Key workers had not been asked to do any thing like this. But it was a lot of fun, and they all seemed to have a good time. If I do say so myself, that was good chicken pie! They all seemed to think so, too."

Others included in Mrs. Sheets' guest list were: Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Cornatzer, Mrs. Kate Barney, Mrs. Doris Dillon, Mrs. Minnie Cornatzer and Elgin Williams.
