Davie County Hospital Auxiliary

Mrs. Wade Groce of Farmington will serve as president of the Davie County Hospital Auxiliary for 1965-66.

Others to serve include: Mrs. Sam Walker of Fork, president-elect; Mrs. Bill Flinn of Cooleemee, vice president; Mrs. Philmore Robertson of Advance, secretary; and Mrs. Gail Sanford of Mocksville, treasurer.

These officers were chosen by a steering committee named to work out the organization details to reactivate the Auxiliary.

Mrs. Groce announced that committee chairmen are now being appointed. Plans for a membership drive for the Auxiliary will be announced soon.

The Auxiliary will have as one of its most important projects the organizing of teen-age volunteers, age 16, 17, and 18, to assist in the hospital. These girls are known as "Candy Strippers" as they wear a red and white striped pinafore while on duty in the wards.

Other planned projects include: assisting in sewing and mending of various hospital items; raising of funds for the purchase of certain items of special equipment which cannot be secured through the regular budgetary channels; and others.

Paul Neil, Administrator of Davie County Hospital, said, "Not only will the hospital benefit from the Auxiliary, but the community as a whole will, especially the young people."

The North Carolinians will have an opportunity to share experiences with delegates from other states, and to visit sites of interest in the capital.

World Day
Of Prayer

Special services will be conducted at First Baptist Church Friday, March 5, at 7:30 p.m. in observance of "World Day of Prayer."

Churches from the Mocksville area and Cooleemee, Advance, Bixby, and Farmington areas will participate in the service. Mrs. James E. Hatfield is program chairman.

The theme of the service is "What Doth the Lord Require?" Emphasis will be on World Conditions and Peace in Troubled Areas.

Persons interested in worshipping in this service of prayer and commitment are invited to attend. World Day of Prayer is truly world-wide in character. Basically, the same service is used by groups in all the countries and areas of the world. This provides an extraordinary opportunity for fellowship at a deep level and the experience at a Christian unity in prayer with Christians all over the world. The service each year comes from a different part of the world.

When it is true to its original purpose and meaning, the World Day of Prayer observance has five elements:

An awareness of and a commitment to the reality and power of prayer.

A concern for the need of all peoples for the message of the Christian gospel.

Openness—a service open to all, without denominational, racial, national, or cultural distinctions.

The use of the same theme and service as the basis for planning and observing the day everywhere in the world.

Discussed For Rotary

Trends in education were discussed for members of the Mocksville Rotary Club on Tuesday by Dr. Ed Glazener, Superintendent of Instruction of the Agricultural School of N. C. State College.

Commenting on the trend to specialization, Dr. Glazener said: "We, as citizens and civic leaders, should recognize that there is more than one path to excellence and encourage the finding of paths that people may fit," said Dr. Glazener.

Dr. Glazener also said that the transfer of students from one college to another was increasing. "which indicates, especially in our case at N. C. State, that more and more students are deciding on special fields," said Dr. Glazener.

George Martin had charge of the program and introduced Dr. Glazener. President John E. Durham presided.

Special guests included Tom Lightfoot of Van Buren, Arkansas . . . who has 14 years of perfect attendance in Rotary.

Davie Soil And Water District
Reports On 1964 Activities

Davie County received its approval to operate as a separate soil and water conservation district September 4, 1963. Supervisors for the year 1964 were as follows: C. W. Phillips, chairman; B. T. Browder, vice chairman; David White, Secretary; H. F. Blackwelder, treasurer; and J. L. Smith.

This was revealed this week in the annual report of the Davie Soil and Water District.

The board held regular monthly meetings and attended two area meetings. One conservation tour for business firms of the county was held by the district.

C. W. Phillips was recognized as outstanding conservation farmer for 1964.

Other items outlined in the report show: Pine timber was hard hit in the county by the Southern Pine Beetle. Over 700 spots of infestation were spotted by the Forest Service and 400 landowners contacted. Destruction of more pine timber is forecast for 1965 by the pine beetle.

Dutchman Creek Watershed Project was delayed pending the outcome of the Yadkin River Basin study by the Corp of U. S. Army Engineers. The Junction Dam proposal, as favored by the Southwestern Power Association, would flood out the Dutchman Creek Project.

Thirty landowners in Davie County became cooperators of the Davie Soil and Water Conservation District in 1964. This brought the total to 929 landowners owning 86,162 acres. C. W. Phillips states that 65% of the landowners of Davie County are cooperators with the district.

Four hundred and four landowners in the county received service from the Soil Conservation Service during 1964. Soil and Water Conservation Plans were prepared by 44 landowners owning 5,254 acres. (A net increase of 80% over the three year average.) In addition to the District program, SCS serviced 12 referrals from the County ASCS committee under the Agricultural Conservation Program for 1964.

The new practice of Parallel Strip Cropping hit a high of 137 acres. This practice is proving popular with farmers and giving the farm a new look. Other new practices which Davie farmers liked were field border planting and sod planting. These borders seeded at end of rows varied in width from 10 to 30 feet. 8,600 feet were established. Other practices applied by the Soil Conservation Service were: 851 acres of pasture planting, 5 acres of grassed waterways, 7 farm ponds, 3,909 acres of conservation cropping systems, and 7,000 feet of drainage.

With the assistance of business firms in Davie County, 600 booklets on the "Story of the Land," were placed by the supervisors in all 6th grades in the county. Soil Stewardship materials were furnished to 4,000 church members and 25 ministers were supplied sermons on Soil Stewardship.

Other agencies' part in the 1964 soil and water conservation activities was as follows: Extension Service held 5 demonstrations, 12 news articles, 10 radio programs, 2 TV programs, 8 meetings, 50 4-H projects, and 1 course in Soil Conservation for 4-H. 500 people attended the various meetings or took part in projects. ASCS cost shared through the ACP program on the following practices: 263 acres pasture seeding, 234 acres of grass rotation, 8 acres field strip cropping, 21 acres tree planting, 3,359 acres pasture renovation, 19 acres drainage, 1 irrigation reservoir, 4 ponds and 84 acres of cover crops. 735 farmers participated in the 1964 ACP program. FHA made 5 loans to cover complete conservation treatment of land. N. C. Wildlife Commission furnished 80 units of shrub lespedeza, 56 units of sericea lespedeza, 245 units of annual seed, and 7,020 feet of shrub lespedeza to cooperators.

"The Davie Soil and Water District Board expresses appreciation to the many people who helped make it a successful year," said Clay Hunter, Chairman of the Davie Soil and Water Conservation District. "To the personnel of all agricultural agencies, including Extension Service, FHA, ASCS, SCS, N. C. Wildlife Resources Commission, and N. C. Forest Service. To the businessmen, 1964 Board of County Commissioners, Civic Clubs, ministers, board of education and other individuals who helped with the educational program. Most of all to the landowners whose good stewardship of Davie County's natural resources mean so much to the daily living of all citizens of Davie . . . farm and non-farm . . . Also thanks to Davie news and radio services to the District's conservation program," concluded the report.

New Bill Provides

For District Elections

A new bill on "non-partisan" school board elections in Davie County was introduced in the North Carolina House of Representatives Monday night by Rep. Donald W. Bingham, the county's Republican legislator.

The bill is intended to counter one introduced last week by Democratic Senator James V. Johnson which abolishes the so-called non-partisan election system adopted in the 1963 General Assembly solely for Davie County. Senator Johnson's bill provides for the Board of Education members to be appointed by the General Assembly, as is done for all except a few counties in North Carolina.

Rep. Bingham's bill would set up a special non-partisan election on the last Saturday in January, 1967, to choose six Davie County Board of Education members from new districts in the county to take office in April. This bill would have board members elected from these districts:

1. North Mocksville Precinct.
2. South Mocksville and Jerusalem Precincts.
3. Cooleemee Precinct.
4. Fulton, East Shady Grove and West Shady Grove Precincts.
5. Smith Grove and Farmington Precincts.
6. Clarksville, North Calahain and South Calahain Precincts.

Rep. Bingham's bill provides that in the event no candidate receives a majority of the votes cast in his district in said election, a run-off election shall be held four weeks after said special election in such district as required between the two candidates receiving the highest number of votes in said district.

Under this bill each candidate shall file his candidacy without any reference to any political party affiliation, with the chairman of the County Board of Elections within the time now provided for the filing of candidates for any other county office. It provides that no political affiliation shall be used by any candidate, and no political party affiliation shall be shown on the ballot.

After the first election, under Bingham's bill, the six members would draw lots at their first meeting which would select two for six-year terms, two for four-year terms, and two for two-year terms. As these terms ended, future members would be elected to six-year terms. Future elections would be held in January of each odd-numbered year.

The bill provides that the terms of the members of the Board of Education who are in office prior to the first Monday in April, 1967, shall expire on the first Monday in April, 1967, those members being G. H. C. Shutt, Mrs. Victor L. Andrews, Jr., M. H. Hoyle, Jr., L. W. West, W. J. Wilson and G. R. Madison.

Senator Johnson's bill passed the Senate last week and Monday night went to the House of Representatives where it was assigned to the Education Committee.

Girl Scout News

"What Scouting Means To Me"

The following articles were written by members of Girl Scout Troop 280, Mrs. George Schludensky and Mrs. Lester Williams, leaders, and were used as part of a recent program given in observance of "Thinking Day":

"Scouting means a lot to me. It isn't just going to a scout meeting once a week, and then going home again. It all means much more than that. You don't do things by yourself, you learn to work with others and know the comfort of companionship. Each time a Girl Scout says the Promise, she tries her best to live by it.

"What I like most about scouting is Outdoor Life. Every time I go camping, I learn new skills. When we go on cook-outs, it's fun to wonder how the food's going to taste. But, sometimes the "Going" gets a little rough when the fire keeps going out!

"I shouldn't finish, without mentioning our leaders. They sure have a lot of patience and understanding to take time out of their day to help us. I've often wondered what it would be like without them.

"Surely, we should honor Juliette Low for founding such a wonderful organization."

— Debbie Cox

"In scouts we get to go camping and learn to cook and sew. There are always so many things to do when you are a scout.

"The best things that appeal to me are camping and going on hikes. These crafts that I have learned are things that would help any girl be a better person.

"I have learned that a girl is really missing an experience of her life if she doesn't become a Girl Scout."

— Kathy Combs

"Scouting means adventure to me. When I joined the Girl Scouts I said, 'On my honor I will try to do my duty to God and my country, to help other people at all times, and to obey the Girl Scout laws.' This is what I try to do. In scouting you have the opportunity to do things, such as going on a hike, and doing other things. I'm sure glad I'm a Girl Scout.

— by Dianne McDaniel

"Scouting means camping to me. When I go camping, I have the experience of learning to cook, to put up tents, to work with and get along with other Girl Scouts.

"It means obeying orders and keeping the laws. In this manner the Girl Scout may later be able to give orders.

"A Girl Scout's duty is to be useful and to help others. This means to me that I should always give a helping hand when needed.

"A Girl Scout should be clean in thought, word and deed. I think every person should try to follow this law, even if they aren't Girl Scouts.

"I feel that by learning to live by these laws, I will be a better person, citizen, friend and Christian in anything I may undertake to do now and in the future.

"I wish every girl could have the experience of being a Girl Scout. It makes me feel very proud to wear my Girl Scout uniform to our meetings and show other people that I am a Girl Scout.

Social Security In Davie County

Many people in this area are entitled to some social security retirement payments but are not getting them, Taft McCoy, social security field representative for Davie County, said today.

"It isn't necessary to stop working completely in order to get social security retirement benefits," McCoy said. "In fact, you can earn a good deal more than $1200 and still get some checks."

Giving an example McCoy said that if a man and his wife are eligible for $150 a month in social security benefits, he could earn $2200 annually and still receive $1050 a year in social security checks.

People over 65 and still working should get in touch with the social out all the facts about the retirement test as it pertains to their particular case. The nearest social security office is located at 105 Corriher Avenue, Salisbury, N. C.

SCOPE OF SPORTS

By Woody Durham / WFMY-TV Sports Director

An ill wind was blowing last week in Charlotte, Lexington, and Greensboro. All of the top seeded teams lost out in their bid for the championship in the Southern Conference, Carolinas Conference, and CIAA Tournaments. Now the Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament opens this week, and top-seeded Duke is hoping the weatherman will keep that ill wind out of Raleigh until about midnight on Saturday.

Davidson, just as it did a year ago, lost out in the semi-final round of the Charlotte tournament. The Wildcats had their winning streak snapped at 23, but more important, they lost a possible shot at the National Championship. West Virginia was the villain, winning 74-72 in overtime. Coach George King's Mountaineers eventually won the title, just like he said they would, after having gone through their worst regular season since 1944.

High Point, ranked Number Five among the nation's small college teams, lost out to Elon, the sixth-seeded team, in the finals of the Carolinas Conference Tournament. The final was 67-60, and Jesse Branson and Company did not let the Panthers get the lead at all in the second half. Coach Tom Quinn has had his team in the finals for the past four years and each time they have come out on the short end of the score. They may still get to the NAIA Championship next week in Kansas City, but two tough District 26 games will decide whether or not they pack their bags.

The ill wind blew out of Lexington and into Greensboro just in time for A&T, the defending CIAA Champion, to drop its title to Norfolk State, 100-87, in the championship game.

Now the wind is somewhere between Greensboro and Raleigh either dying out or building up for one last big blow. If it moves into Raleigh during the latter part of the week Duke may not be around Saturday night when the ACC Championship trophy is handed out. The Blue Devils dropped their last two regular season games, but still managed to finish first, and this could have one of two results in the tournament. Either they will hitch up their belts and roar through the three days unbeaten or the other teams, realizing they can be beaten, will knock the Devils out of another NCAA trip. Anyone of three teams—Carolina, Maryland, and State — is capable of the task.

Regardless of who's in it, the ACC Championship game will be seen on Channel 2 Saturday night at 8:30.

SO THIS IS NEW YORK

By NORTH CALLAHAN

With the world longing for peace, it is heartening to find that there are some people who are trying to do something about it. Such an effort has been going on here. It was called an International Convocation To Examine the Requirements for Peace, in Observance of International Cooperation Year and was sponsored by the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions. I attended some of the sessions and was impressed by the apparent sincere dedication of the leaders of the movement. Honorary Chairman is Paul G. Hoffman, a man I have always admired and I trust he and his eminent associates succeed in this noble and difficult undertaking. He summed up the idea clearly in these words: "Peace must be waged like a war. It is easier to get a billion dollars for war than a million for peace. But it can be won."

Dr. Andrew Holt, genial and able president of the University of Tennessee, was here to address the Tennessee Society in New York, one of the finest of such organizations. Dr. Holt gave his audience humor as well as knowledge. Commenting on his hotel room, he said it was so elegant that when he entered it with his wife, he flushed a covey of quail in the thick rug.

Once in Hollywood I met Ronald Reagan when he was just starting on his acting career. Of course at the time, no one, including him, could realize how far he was to go not only in the world of films but politics as well. Now Reagan is being talked of as a possible candidate for governor of California, or even following in the footsteps of his fellow actor, George Murphy, and running for the U. S. Senate. Both will certainly add looks and youthful charm to the political arena, something obviously needed. After all, members of Congress do a lot of acting themselves, so why not add a couple of professionals to the cast?

Our old folks are certainly coming in for a lot of attention — and its about time. The American Association of Retired Persons will sponsor a whole pavilion as a service and hospitality center for older visitors. Here special consultants will provide information on how to tour the fair without overexertion. Exhibits of particular interest to older visitors will be recommended. Day-to-day advice will be given about those pavilions hard to get to and through, and help will even be afforded so that the elderly will not have to wait in the long lines before the most popular exhibits.

At a college reunion, the dumbest student in the class turned out to be the wealthiest graduate. His amazed classmates couldn't figure out how "Dumb Dave" could have amassed such a fortune while they struggled to make ends meet. They crowded around him to discover the secret of his success. "It's simple," droned Dave, appearing as dumb as ever. "I own a department store. If I buy a dress for $1, I sell it for $4. That way I always make my three per cent."

Slander is a midnight robber; the redlongued assassin of radical worth; the conservative swindler, who sells himself in a traffic by which he can gain nothing.

SOURCE of VALUES

We can get them from The Old Book—values a-plenty to make the New Year really new. Of course the months, the weeks, the hours are much like the old ones.

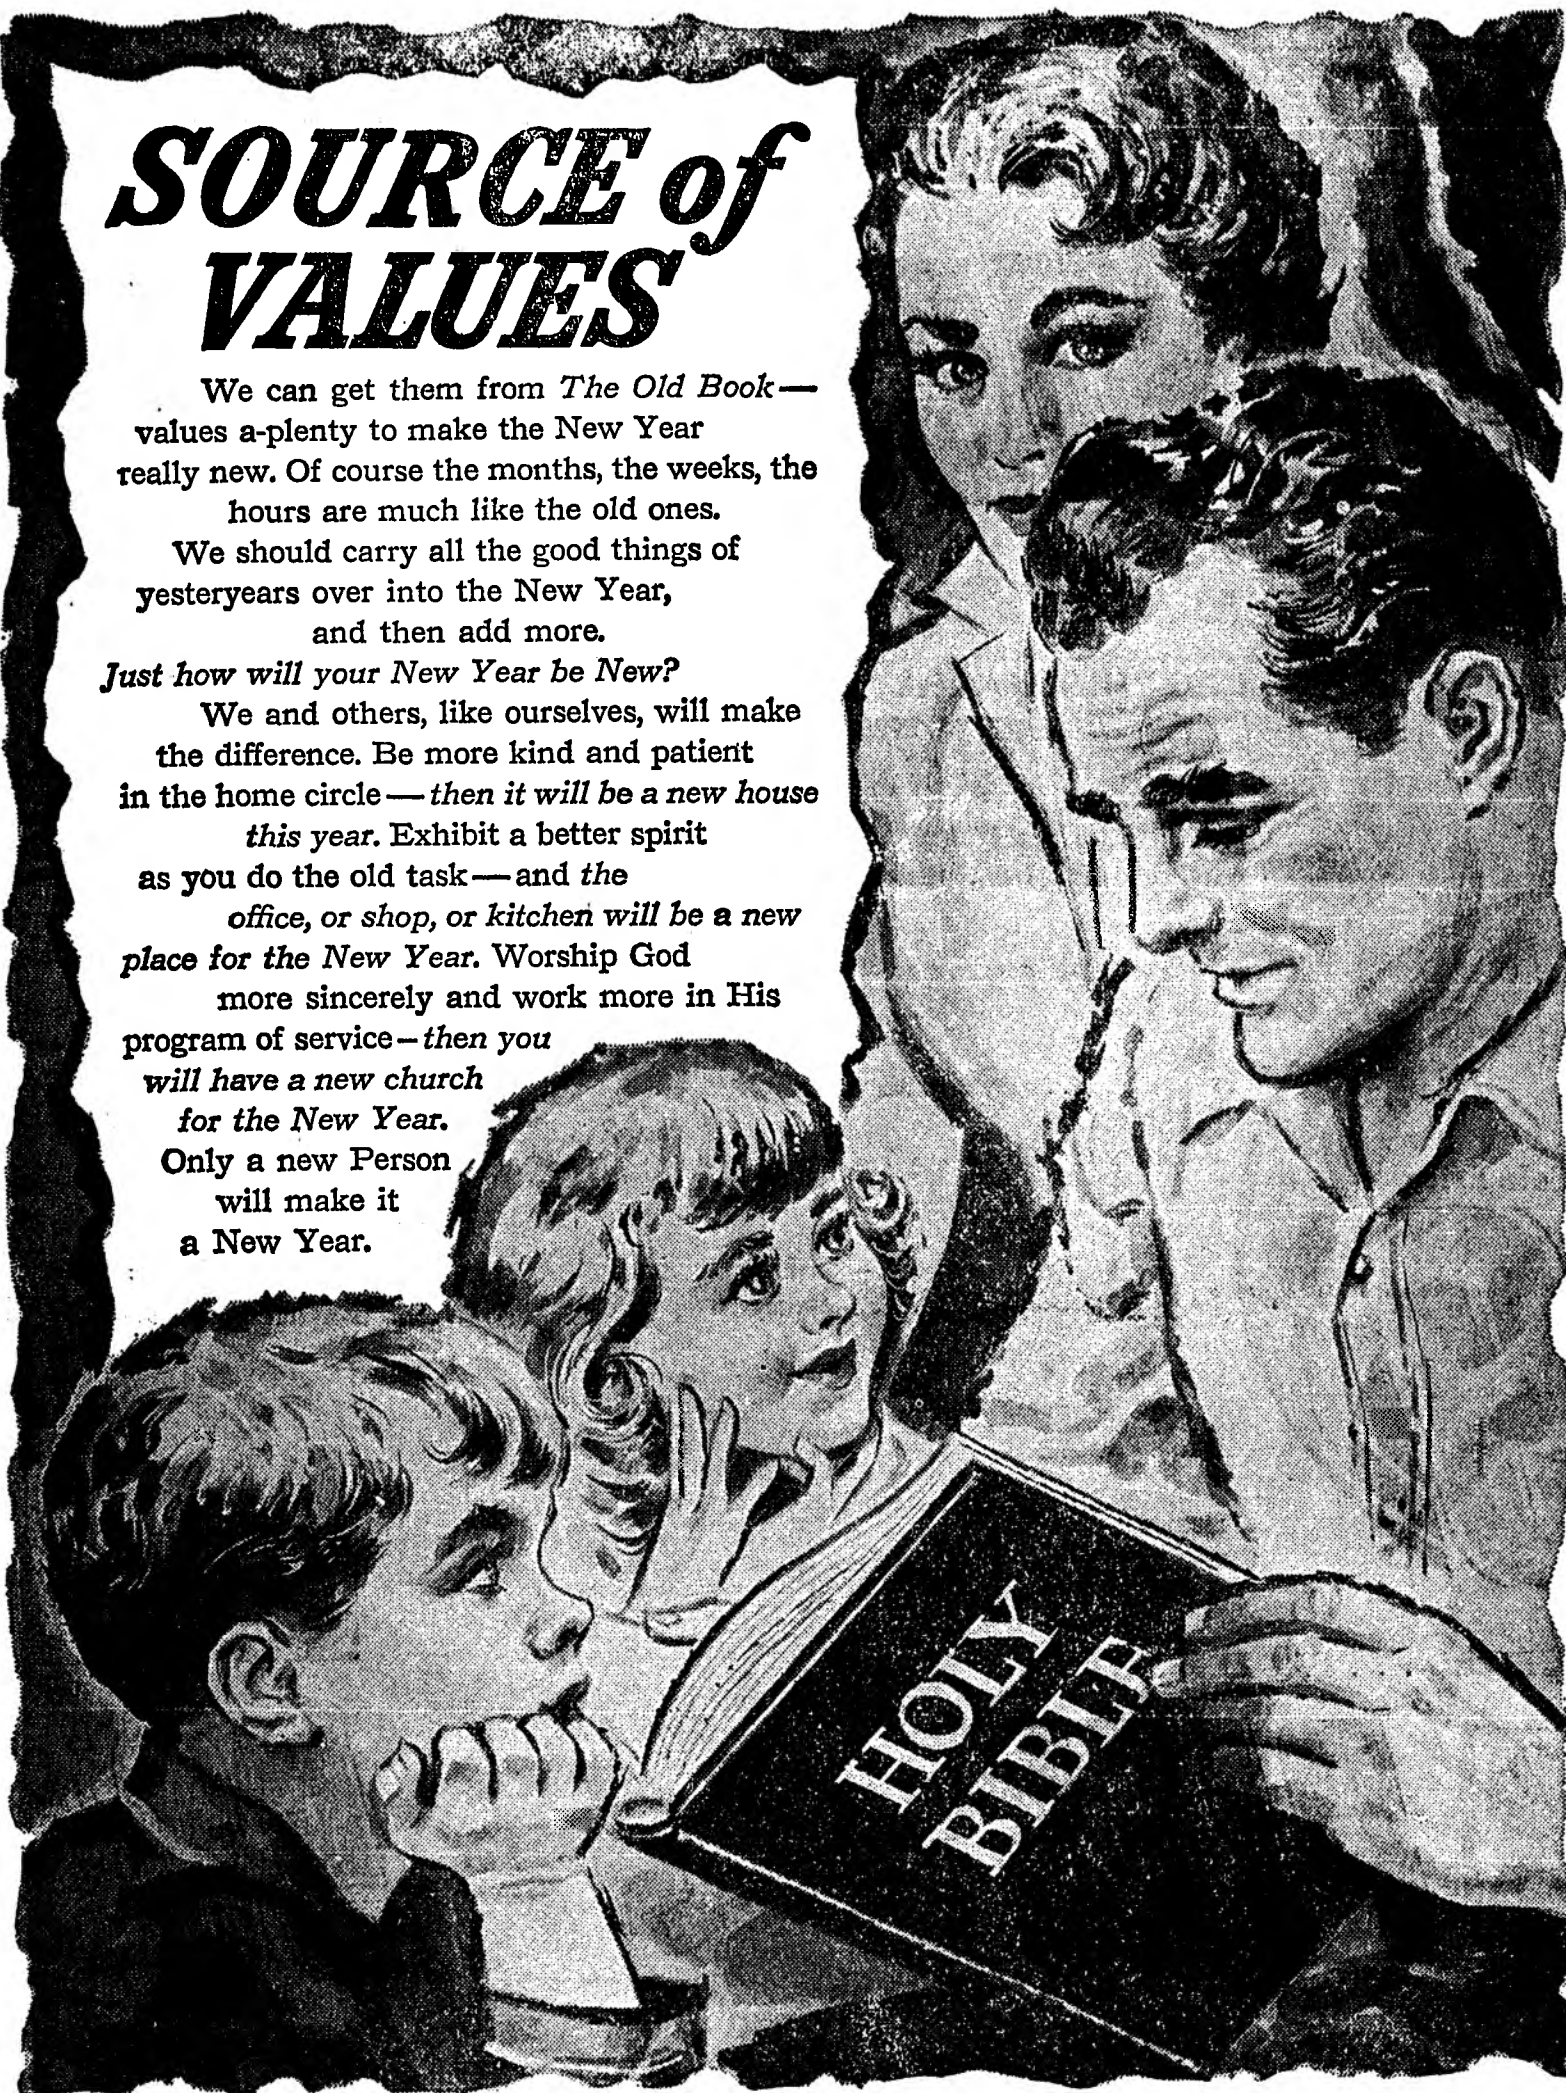

We should carry all the good things of yesteryears over into the New Year, and then add more.

Just how will your New Year be New?

We and others, like ourselves, will make the difference. Be more kind and patient in the home circle—then it will be a new house this year. Exhibit a better spirit as you do the old task—and the office, or shop, or kitchen will be a new place for the New Year. Worship God more sincerely and work more in His program of service—then you will have a new church for the New Year.

Only a new Person will make it a New Year.

National Girl Scout Week, March 7-14

Girl Scouting—A Promise In Action

Sunday, March 7th, is the beginning of Girl Scout Week. It is designated as Girl Scout Sunday for thousands of Girl Scouts of the Pilot Area Girl Scout Council and for their almost three and three-quarter million sister Scouts throughout the nation.

The first day of Girl Scout Week underscores the first part of the Girl Scout Promise . . . duty to God. Throughout the weekend, girls will attend religious services in uniform as a dramatic demonstration of that Promise. Girl Scouts are encouraged to practice their own faiths and to respect the religious convictions of others.

Supplementing the Promises are the ten Girl Scout Laws stressing loyalty, usefulness, courtesy, thrift, cleanliness, and friendship. The Promise and Laws provide Girl Scouts of all faiths and backgrounds with an easily understood ethical code which they can put into practice in their daily lives.

Monday, March 8th, is Homemaking Day for the 261 Girl Scouts of Mocksville. Homemaking is an important part of Girl Scouting. Even the youngest Girl Scout is made aware of the relationship between Girl Scouting and the home when she recites her Brownie Promise, part of which states: "I promise to do my best . . . to help other people, especially those at home."

Tuesday, March 9th, is Citizenship Day. When a girl joins Girl Scouting, she promises to do her duty to God and Country. All Girl Scout activities are designed to help her become a better adult citizen.

Wednesday, March 10th, is Health and Safety Day. The subject of health and safety is considered one of the fundamental elements of the Girl Scout program. It permeates the activities of all Girl Scouts from the 7-year-old Brownie to the 17-year-old Senior. Sound health and safety practices are emphasized in three ways: (1) By showing the girls that simple and sound health and safety practices contribute to the enjoyment of living; (2) by providing them with the understanding and skills to insure their own personal health and safety; and (3) by helping them perfect those skills so that they can help others in emergencies.

Thursday, March 11th, is International Friendship Day for the Girl Scouts. For shortly after its inception in 1912, Girl Scouts of the U. S. A. has been part of an international movement. In the Girl Scouts, girls are encouraged and helped to know people of different nationalities, races and religious backgrounds. They learn about the daily lives of girls in other countries practice everyday phrases in other languages learn the folk songs and dances of other countries; get acquainted with international cookery.

Friday, March 12th, is Arts Day . . . one of the many areas on which Girl Scout activities focus . . . visual, literary, and performing. While the Girl Scout organization recognizes that not every girl has the natural talent to become an expert painter, writer, or performer, it believes that the inner lives of all girls can be enriched by these creative art activities.

Saturday, March 13th, is Out-of-Doors Day for the Girl Scouts . . . and girl scouts have always been outdoor girls.

As the reader will note, each day of next week has a special designation for the observance of Girl Scout Week. The theme this year for this observance is "Girl Scouting—A Promise In Action."

Methods of Selecting School Boards—

Keeping In Step With Others

There is idealism . . . and then there is the art of being practical.

Idealism . . . the perfect exemplar . . . or the perfection of kind. Practicality . . . that which is such in actual use or practice.

In our humble opinion these two terms just about sum up the matter with regard to the method of selecting boards of education.

Truly it is certainly idealistic, to say the least, to dream or hope for such a thing as a "non-partisan election". Any vote or any election in itself will always take on a partisan flavor simply because of the factors involved . . . people and their beliefs. And we make no criticism, of this . . . we see nothing wrong in being partisan . . . for to be otherwise would violate the American principle. True partisanship is the accepted way of American life.

Then this brings us to our schools and partisanship . . . and, if you please, politics. For it would certainly be highly idealistic . . . if not almost unimaginable . . . to take politics out of the operation of the school . . . or for that matter the operation of any public institution. As a sage once observed:

"You cannot operate public business without politics anymore than you can sail a ship without the water."

So the hue and cry over the method of selecting the school boards simply boils down to pure political partisanship . . . of party responsibility . . . of party control.

In North Carolina we have a statewide school system . . . and Davie County should well be thankful that we do. For a large percentage of the operation costs for our schools comes in through appropriations formulated and approved by the North Carolina General Assembly and the State Board of Education. Without this state . . . and federal help . . . Davie schools could in no way compete. For us to raise all the money locally for the operation of our schools would require a tax rate too excessive of that which we now have.

Now let's be practical. North Carolina is Democratic. The State Board of Education is Democratic. The North Carolina General Assembly is overwhelmingly Democratic board of education in North Carolina is predominantly Democratic . . . with the exception of Davie County which will be split 3 and 3 . . . after April 1st. Is it in the best interests of our schools . . . again speaking practically . . . that the county board of education and school officials be politically antagonistic to the state setup with which they have to deal?

We will not argue the point that idealistically speaking perhaps people should be able to vote on the officials of any public institution . . . and such would include the trustees of the hospital . . . the library board . . . the welfare board . . . the postmaster, etc. However, the continuity of these positions and the necessity for consistent and long-range planning of operation does not lend itself to the temporary and the emotionally dependent status of the vote. And, also to be considered is the fact that members of the board of education serve with almost no remuneration as compared to that of the board of county commissioners and others charged with similar responsibility. We point this out merely to imply that it is not a position to be sought for personal gain.

Our position in the matter is simply this. If all the boards of education in the state are to be elected . . . then we want Davie's to be. If the majority . . . or practically all . . . of the boards of education in North Carolina are to be named by the General Assembly . . . then we feel that if you look to the best interests of the schools and the people of Davie . . . then we, too, should be a part of this main stream. It will gain us nothing to be at odds . . . or to be different . . . and might cost us plenty.

democratic. The makeup of each and every

We fully realize that our reasoning here will not be particularly popular to the extreme political partisan . . . nor do we mean for it to be so. However, we hope and we believe that regardless of partisan wishes and desires . . . whatever is the best for Davie County in the long-run will prove to be the best politics. In this matter, keeping in step is more sound and more practical than winning a political victory or championing a purely idealistic cause.

Washington Report

CONGRESSMAN JAMES T. BROYHILL
5TH DISTRICT OF NORTH CAROLINA

UN-AMERICAN ACTIVITIES COMMITTEE

No Congressional Committee has been the target of so much controversy and has received such a combination of strong support and strong abuse as the Un-American Activities Committee of the House of Representatives. Throughout its history it has been assailed and praised lavishly. Last week, the debate broke loose again as an effort was made to deny operating funds to the Committee for the next two years.

This Committee was established in 1938 as a special committee of the House requiring that it be reestablished every two years. However, in 1945 it was made a standing (permanent) committee by special resolution. Its status has not changed and efforts to abolish it has been roundly defeated.

The role of the Committee is essentially one of investigation into the extent, character and objects of un-American propaganda activities in this country. It is also authorized to study the diffusion within the United States of subversive propaganda by foreign governments which attack the principles of our form of government as guaranteed by the Constitution. Recommendations for legislation to increase the security of the country have been forthcoming from these studies.

For many years, the Committee has systematically followed the many shifts and turns of the Communist conspiracy in this country and has publicized the activities and purposes of the world Communist movement. It has done this through public hearings and through 500 publications dealing with a great variety of communist operations.

It is natural that any such group would draw the hostile fire of the American Communist party and all of its front groups and sympathizers. However, those opposing the Committee have also included some patriotic Americans who are in no way associated with Communist causes and who are vigorous in their rejection of Communist ideas and methods. Among these are people who believe that it is an unjustifiable invasion of privacy to inquire into the views of others. Another group takes the position that the terms "Un-American" and "subversive" are very difficult to define in a country that believes minority views and differing opinions must be respected. They feel there is a danger that a Committee such as this one can misuse its powers and trespass on the rights of private citizens. In fact, some of those holding to this view claim that the Committee has disregarded individual rights in the past.

Certainly, I respect the right of sincerely motivated Americans who may have reached such conclusion, although I disagree with them. I have supported the Committee because I believe that, on balance, it has and is performing a useful and vitally important mission for the Congress and the American people.

It seems both reasonable and proper that the Congress should investigate the continuing threat of subversion and to frame such legislation as may be required to combat it. While a vigilante mentality or self-appointed censors of political thought and expression are unsupportable, in my opinion, I do feel that the Un-American Activities Committee has taken elaborate precautions to avoid any such development.

A number of the witnesses appearing before the Committee are hostile and uncooperative, questioning the Committee's right to exist. However, this right has been challenged and upheld in the Courts. In one such decision, the Supreme Court said, "That Congress has wide power to legislate in the field of Communist activity in this country and to conduct appropriate investigations in aid, there of, is hardly debatable."

It seems to me that the ultimate definition must attempt to separate legitimate minority opinions from those fostered by those whose total allegiance is to a foreign power whose purpose it is to destroy us by any possible means.

I felt in this debate that those attempting to strip this properly constituted committee of the means to perform its mission were basically inconsistent in their argument. It would make no more sense to deny the Committee funds than it would block appropriations to a court because we do not agree with all of its decisions. The Committee was upheld by an overwhelming vote.

SENATOR
SAM ERVIN
★ SAYS ★

WASHINGTON — After more than 175 years of uncertainty about the constitutional means to be followed in Presidential succession and disability, the Senate has proposed as the 25th Amendment a resolution to deal with executive transition.

The problem is not a new concern for Congress. Over the year, it has studied the questions many times. Last year alone, the Senate considered 13 measures on the subject. One of these was sponsored by me. But, with the death of President Kennedy, and the need of round-the-clock national leadership in the Cold War, the subject has come into its full importance in the Congress and elsewhere. Presidents Eisenhower, Wilson, and Garfield, each added to the national concern about the transmittal of power to a new occupant of the White House.

On January 28, in a special message to Congress, President Johnson urged action to correct "long-recognized defects in the Constitution relating to the office of the Presidency." He cited the need for clarifying constitutional provisions relating to Presidential inability to perform official duties, continuity of the Vice Presidency, and reform of the Electoral College. The Senate has now acted upon the first two of these requests and has sent the proposal to the House.

The resolution is the product of intensive study and work by a Senate Judiciary Committee in which I participated. It represents a thorough effort to assure continuity in the executive branch of Government. It is designed to provide that the nation shall be governed by a competent President.

The Senate-passed amendment proposal deals with three Presidential questions. First, when the Vice President succeeds to the office of President, how shall a new Vice President be chosen? Until now, although there is a statutory line of Presidential succession, there is no procedure for choosing a new Vice President. Second, how shall the President be declared unable to conduct the office of the Presidency? Third, if an Acting President takes over the Presidential duties, how can a recovered-President resume his duties?

The Senate proposal provides continually when the Vice Presidential office is vacated. The President would nominate a new Vice President to fill the office. The person would become Vice President when confirmed by a majority vote of the Senate and House, acting separately.

In cases of Presidential disability the amendment states that the President may declare himself disabled and permit the Vice President to become Acting President. When a disabled President fails to do this, the Vice President with the written concurrence of the majority of the Cabinet or of such other body as Congress may designate, may determine that the Vice President shall assume the duties.

60 Second
Sermon

By FRED DODGE

TEXT: "A good memory reveals an unselfish soul." — Eph. Thomas.

Groucho Marx on his quiz show, once asked a New York model about her most exciting experience. She couldn't remember any.

"A model who can't remember any exciting experiences," mused the disappointed Groucho. "What were you modeling — clay?"

Inability to remember has caused many mistakes and failures. Yet a number of systems have been contrived for developing good memories. We will add another of only three words: "Don't be selfish."

Most of us fail to remember because we are so wrapped in our own selfish interests that we do not care to remember other things. We forget what interests us. We forget that which does not. The ardent sports fan has no trouble relating averages and percentage records made by sports figures throughout the years. However, five minutes after you state a fact in which he is not interested, he cannot remember what it was.

The one who remembers is successful for two reasons. First, he flatters others by remembering the things that interest them. Second, he adapts what he remembers toward the solving of his own problems. With a good memory so important, cultivate yours by becoming interested in others' interests. You'll be amazed how your memory improves.

NEWS AND COMMENT FROM OUR RALEIGH BUREAU
2615 Oberlin Road

UNCERTAINTY . . . Several of the legislators here have pet bills nestling snugly in their bulging vest pockets. But—there is delay. You read about the shortage of bills.

Why haven't they been introduced? Because the fond parent does not yet know how the administration will feel about the measure. He is not sure of his footing.

This, dear reader, is one of the best signs that the Mountain Man is firmly in the saddle. And is, also, one of the reasons the Legislature has not been flooded with more unnecessary items during the first month of its 1965 existence. Quiet before storm?

THE ENTRANCE . . . Terry Sanford, as Governor, was seldom on time for a meeting. As a usual thing, you were half-way through your salad and buttering your hard roll when he made his entrance. You observed a commotion at the other end of the room. Excitement. Whispers.

Then the business of chairs scraping, napkins sailing daintily to the floor, as you made it to your feet, as best you could, to cheer the Governor. Down again, finally, and back to the meal . . . but up again with his before the crowd departure. So it went.

CONTRAST . . . This was not by accident. It gave extra time for the Governor to get back to the killing grind. Gov. Sanford, young and unused to it, seemed to enjoy the adulation, too.

Gov. Dan Moore, in contrast, seems embarrassed by it. Now pushing along toward 60 and a former Superior Court judge, he has long been accustomed to people standing as the clerk tried valiantly to "save the State and this honorable Court."

FEELINGS . . . But he must learn, as Governor Sanford did, to look neither right nor left as he moves to the speaker's stand. Each glance means a handshake—or a rebuff. (The fact that Important You met the Governor at a barbecue at Lomox one night last summer—and you remember him—means that he must remember you. If he doesn't, your feelings are hurt . . . and you are immediately "down" on the administration.)

SQUARE SHOOTER . . . Approaching the head table at his Inaugural Luncheon last week, Dan Moore shook in LBJ fashion ("never stop walking") about 75 hands reaching at him from all sides. The Governor, neck-deep in his element, loved it; but there was delay.

He had to leave early, and on his way out — with Agriculture Commissioner James A. Graham presiding—diners stood for more handshaking along his path. But then the Governor stopped suddenly, smiled broadly to another little group just ahead of him, and then whispered: "Awfully sorry, folks . . . Glad to see you . . . but I must hurry out now. I'm interfering with Jim." No more handshakes.

And he moved on out into the hotel lobby. He could have hogged the show, but he didn't.

ON THE TEAM . . . At the big agricultural luncheon, attended by over 600 people, Gov. Moore and his assistants were on their toes. It was a well oiled meeting, and a good one.

A good 15 minutes before the Governor arrived, Charles Dunn, one of his administrative assistants, quietly moved to the podium with the leather folder containing the speech. Then he moved out. Standing a few feet away like the head linesman at a football game was Tom Walker, another Moore assistant.

At the entrance to the hall, studying the crowd, the reaction, the general situation were Ed Rankin, Administration Dept. head, and Joe Branch, the Governor's top man in the campaign and now his legislative advisor.

WELL SET UP . . . This session of the Legislature is well fixed with attorneys and with men of means. Let's look at the Senate:

Classed as millionaires with no argument whatever are Carl Meares, Ninth District Senator, from Fair Bluff in Columbus County; Hector MacLean of the Fourteenth District, from Lumberton, son of the former Governor; Jyles J. Coggins, a newcomer to the rank of the Sixteenth District, Raleigh; Gordon Hanes, Twenty-third District, Winston-Salem; and Irwin Belk, Twenty-fifth District, Charlotte.

Ranked among colleagues as the ablest Senator is Thomas J. White of Kinston. A comer in the ranks is Lindsey C. Warren, Jr. of Goldsboro. By reason of his long tenure—and other connections—Ralph Scott of Burlington has a tremendous amount of influence.

Oldtimers around here rank this year's State Senate as the best of many seasons. Its long experience, strength, and stability is having a steadying effect on the over-all operation this year.

MISTA SPEAK! . . . A Raleigh radio station with daily legislative broadcasts begins each program with a tape recording of a House member shouting, "Mista Speaka." He repeats it . . . and then the news begins.

Anyone who visited the House when it held sessions in the fine old State Capitol immediately recognizes the voice as that of Cousin Wayland Spruill of Bertie County and the "rippling waters of the Chowan."

One of the few retired agricultural millionaires in the State, Cousin Wayland will be 76 on April 6. The House seems lame without him.

He didn't run for the Legislature this time, but is still hale and hearty aside from some painful arthritis (Old Arthur's after me, he says) that hits him now and then. Spruill was in Raleigh last week attending farm meetings and fighting Old Arthur.

SECRET . . . He is still very, very active, loves Dan Moore. As a matter of simple fact Governor Moore owns one of the finest suits ever made. It was made-to-measure for the Governor during the heat of the campaign last summer . . . by a merchant who kept the donor's name a secret . . . on orders.

Whether Gov. Moore has learned that Wayland Spruill was the giver, we are not sure. In these fancy-dance days, it gives one new faith and courage to know that we still have a few Wayland Spruills around here and there. Meantime, that old rippling Chowan River just keeps rolling along.

NOTES . . . Warning to teenagers: The Highway Patrol, through exhaustive surveys, has learned your hang-outs about the State and is concentrating — clustering is a better word . . . in certain areas the patrolmen.

Not being an ardent basketball fan, perhaps we are not up-to-date on modern sportsmanship . . . but noted the other night that State College supporters booed lustily and long and guttily — in an obvious effort to make him miss the shot — anyone getting a free throw from the Visiting Team at the Coliseum. If this goes on at Carolina, Duke, and Wake Forest, then we repeat: Our colleges need most a course in Courtesy.

DEAR MISTER EDITOR

The fellers at the country store Saturday night was discussing how such items as Appalachia and Medicare was going to be handled in the Great Society.

Zeke Grubb reported he had wrote to his Congressman to get included in the Appalachia program. Zeke claimed when a former or rancher wanted to get a loan from the bank the bank come out and looked over his place. If the fences was all down and the mailbox looked like it was about wore out from being stuffed with them pamphlets from the Agriculture Department, he didn't get no loan. Zeke said he qualified for the no-loan program at the bank and he couldn't see why he couldn't get top priority in the Appalachia program.

Ed Doolittle, that has voted the Republican ticket straight fer 49 year, allowed as how Medicare wasn't going to work. Ed said this program would make it necessary fer doctors to keep hundreds of words and they wasn't going to find nobody that could read a doctor's writing.

Clem Webster, that is a Roosevelt Democrat and has appointed himself the official representative for the Great Society in our community, was disagreed with Ed. Clem claimed they got them computer machines now that can read anything, even a doctor's handwriting.

Furthermore, allowed Clem, Republicans was going to get passed up like a Greyhound bus passing up a tramp in the benefits department of the Great Society.

For instant, reported Clem, he was reading where a Washington column writer was explaining how Medicare would work under President Johnson.

According to this column writer, they was going to have great medical centers, maybe 10 stories high and big like the Pentagon building, scattered all over the county. If a member of the Great Society had a pain in his side he would enter one of them centers. When he got there he would find a flock of doors labeled Heart, Lungs, Stomach, Appendicitis and the like. This feller, figuring he might have appendicitis, would enter the Appendicitis door. It would open out on a hallway with two doors marked Male and Female.

To The Citizens Of Davie County:

DO YOU WANT YOUR BOARD OF EDUCATION ELECTED OR APPOINTED BY THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY?

State Senator James V. Johnson, in direct contradiction with the present law, has introduced the following bill:

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED AN ACT TO PROVIDE FOR THE APPOINTMENT OF THE BOARD OF EDUCATION OF DAVIE COUNTY.

The General Assembly of North Carolina do enact:

Section 1. The Board of Education of Davie County shall consist of six (6) members until the first Monday in April, 1967, at which time the membership of the Board shall be automatically reduced to five (5).

Sec. 2. The following named persons are hereby appointed to the Board of Education of Davie County, and shall serve for the term indicated and until their successors are appointed and qualified:

- G. H. C. Shutt for a term of 6 years;
- Mrs. Victor L. Andrews for a term of 6 years;
- M. H. Hoyle, Jr. for a term of 4 years;
- L. W. West for a term of 4 years;
- J. W. Wilson for a term of 2 years;
- G. R. Madison for a term of 2 years.

The persons herein appointed shall qualify by taking the oath of office on the first Monday in April, 1965, at which time their terms of office shall begin.

The term of office of the present members of the Board of Education shall terminate upon the qualifying of the persons herein appointed.

Sec. 3. The General Assembly shall appoint members of the Board of Education to take the place of the members whose terms next expire. The term of office of each member appointed in 1967 and thereafter shall be for six (6) years.

Sec. 4. Chapter 857 of the Session Laws of 1963 and all other laws and clauses of laws in conflict with this Act are hereby repealed.

Sec. 5. This Act shall be in full force and effect from and after its ratification.

Which bill follows American principles and is fair to all parties?

Write your State Senator and Representative what you think of these two pieces of proposed legislation. Representative Bingham says that he will request a public hearing on these measures. Attend the public hearing

Representative Donald W. Bingham, recognizing that the present law allows undue partisan politics and could likely lead to one party domination of the board, has introduced the following bill:

AN ACT TO PROVIDE FOR THE ELECTION OF THE MEMBERS OF THE BOARD OF EDUCATION OF DAVIE COUNTY

The General Assembly of North Carolina do enact:

Section 1. The Board of Education of Davie County shall, on and after the first Monday in April, 1967, consist of six members who shall be elected in the manner hereinafter provided.

Section 2. At a special election to be held on the last Saturday in January in 1967, there shall be elected six members of the Board of Education of Davie County, one each from six districts by the registered voters in each district as herein designated:

- (a) District 1 shall be comprised of the registered voters in North Mocksville precinct.
- (b) District 2 shall be comprised of the registered voters in South Mocksville and Jerusalem precincts.
- (c) District 3 shall be comprised of the registered voters in Cooleemee precinct.
- (d) District 4 shall be comprised of the registered voters in Fulton, East Shady Grove and West Shady Grove precincts.
- (e) District 5 shall be comprised of the registered voters in Smith Grove and Farmington precincts.
- (f) District 6 shall be comprised of the registered voters in Clarksville, North Calahain and South Calahain precincts.

In the event no candidate receives a majority of the votes cast in his district in said election, a run-off election shall be held four weeks after said special election in such district as required between the two candidates receiving the highest number of votes in said district.

Section 3. Each candidate shall file his candidacy without reference to any political party affiliation, with the chairman of the County Board of Elections within the time now provided for the filing of candidates for any other county office. Such election shall be non-partisan and no political party affiliation shall be used by any candidate, and no political party affiliation shall be shown on the ballot. A filing fee of five dollars ($5.00) shall be paid by each candidate. There shall be a ballot provided by the County Board of Elections with the names of the candidates printed thereon with appropriate instructions for use in the election of members of the Board of Education at said election and no political party affiliation shall be shown on said ballot. The candidate from each district receiving a majority of the votes cast in said election as provided in Section 2 shall be certified as the duly elected members of the Board of Education from said district.

Section 4. The members of the Board of Education of Davie County so elected shall be inducted into and take the oath of office on the first Monday in April, 1967. At the first meeting of the Davie County Board of Education in April, 1967, the said members so elected shall determine by lot two of said members to serve for a term of two years, two of said members to serve for a term of four years, and two of said members to serve for a term of six years from the date of their induction as herein provided. Thereafter, an election shall be held in each district on the last Saturday in January preceding the expiration of the term of the member from said district with a run-off election, if necessary, according to Section 2 above and the member so elected from each district shall serve for a term of six years. The said Board of Education shall consist of six members serving six year terms with two vacancies occurring every two years as herein provided. The terms of the members of the Board of Education of Davie County who are in office prior to the first Monday in April, 1967, shall expire on the first Monday in April, 1967, those members being G. H. C. Shutt, Mrs. Victor L. Andrews, Jr., M. H. Hoyle, Jr., L. W. West, W. J. Wilson, and G. R. Madison.

Section 5. All vacancies occurring in the membership of the Board of Education of Davie County by death, resignation or otherwise, shall be filled from the district from which the vacancy occurred for the unexpired term by the remaining members of said Board of Education.

Section 6. All elections for the members for the Board of Education of Davie County as herein provided shall be held under the laws and regulations governing candidates for county offices and as provided in Chapter 163 of the General Statutes, as amended.

Section 7. All laws and clauses of laws in conflict with the provisions of this Act are hereby repealed.

Section 8. This Act shall be in full force and effect from and after its ratification.

Library News

By MRS. I. H. HUSKE

Out of a Mocksville attic has come the most recent addition to the historical collection of The Davie County Library, thanks to Mrs. John Larew.

Mrs. Larew had in her possession the muster rolls of Co. F, Forty-second Regiment, N. C. Troops of the Confederate Army, in which her father, Calvin C. Sanford, served as Second Lieutenant. Time was taking its toll, and these records needed special care if they were to be preserved. The Larew family sure their care, and easy access offered them to the library to inform others who might be interested in them.

The N. C. Department of Archives and History was contacted and they offered to restore them by the laminating process at no expense to our county library. They, in turn,

Easter Seal Campaign To Open On March 11th

Adequate treatment services for growing numbers of crippled children and adults pose a major challenge to the people of Davie County, according to Gene Smith, chairman of the 1965 Easter Seal campaign.

"The campaign begins on March 11 and continues through Easter Sunday, April 18. There are more crippled people, but modern science has found new and better ways of rehabilitating them and returning them to normal living. These new methods, the result of medical and scientific research in the past decade, demand that we keep abreast of each new development, both with advanced professional training and skill and with the newest and most effective equipment," Mr. Smith said.

"I have accepted the chairmanship of the 1965 Easter Seal Campaign recognizing that this will be a great challenge to me, to members of the committee I will have working with me and to all the people of Davie County who want to see their crippled neighbors as useful, as independent and as much a part of the life of our community as we are."

Mr. Smith named a committee of five who will assist him during the appeal. They are: Mrs. Paul W. Hendrix, treasurer; Miss Jane McGuire, Mrs. Margaret A. LeGrand, Mrs. Bill Ward of Advance, and Kenneth Sales of Coolemeec.

Letters will be stuffed Wednesday night in the Davie County Building by a group of volunteer workers and will be mailed on Thursday, to approximately 2,000 residents in the county. Please give generously and mail your contribution early.

Withdrawal Of School Bill Asked—

Public Meeting Held At Courthouse

State Senator James V. Johnson was asked at a public meeting held Saturday at the Davie County Courthouse to withdraw his bill which would do away with Davie County's nonpartisan school board elections.

However, he gave no indication to the approximately 75-80 people at the meeting that he had developed doubts about his bill.

Senator Johnson called the public meeting at the request of Rep. Donald Bingham of Davie and other Republican leaders to hear opponents of the legislation.

He told the audience at the start that this was the purpose of the session. He said he did not want supporters of his bill to speak for it then, since he would speak for it himself.

Johnson said he did not believe a nonpartisan school board election could be held in Davie or some of the other large counties in the state. He said he personally observed the injection of partisan politics in last year's Davie school board election.

"One party politics in the schools is bad enough," he said. "But two party politics, with each party fighting the other, would result in chaos for the schools." He said his bill was introduced because he felt that to continue under the non-partisan bill would result in chaos for the Davie school system.

The request to Johnson to withdraw his bill was made by John T. Brown, Davie's Republican county attorney and solicitor of County Court, and other Republicans in the audience.

Bingham explained the bill he also has introduced in the General Assembly. It would put the school-board election on a district basis. Bingham said that, in view of Davie's political complexion, the effect would be that the board would then consist of three Republicans and three Democrats. In reply to a question from the floor, Bingham said he doubted that a nonpartisan election could be held in Davie.

Johnson told the audience that the 1963 bill which resulted in Davie's current nonpartisan election contained none of the recommendations made by a school study commission which he headed. He said that, for instance, the commission had recommended that the election be held at times other than those of primaries or general elections. However, he said, the Davie bill set the elections to coincide with primaries and general elections.

The system of selection by General Assembly appointment would be applied to 86 other counties in the state under an omnibus bill pending.

The House Education Committee last week agreed to postpone a vote on the Johnson bill until March 10th in view of Saturday's hearing.

To Comply With The 1964 Civil Rights Act—

Davie County Adopts New Pupil Assignment Method

In compliance with the 1964 Civil Rights Act, the Davie County Board of Education has adopted a new pupil assignment procedure subject to approval by the State Board of Education, the Attorney General, and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare in Washington.

This is in compliance with the Civil Rights Act by agencies receiving federal money.

Dr. W. T. Bird, Davie County School Superintendent, said that last year Davie County schools received $89,880.20 in federal money.

The new assignment plan provides for the assignment of pupils to schools in the county on the following criteria without regard to race, color or creed:

1. The preference indicated by the application of the pupil.
2. Whether the educational program of the pupil can be met by the school to which assignment is sought.
3. Capacity of the school sought to be entered.
4. The availability of space in schools.
5. The distance the pupil lives from the various schools.

6. The availability of personal or regular school bus transportation.

It also provides that all pupils who are now enrolled in the schools of the Davie County Administrative Unit shall make application for initial assignment to any school for the 1965-66 term through their parents, legal guardians, etc., on forms to be furnished by the Office of the Superintendent and available at that office and the various schools. After the 1965-66 school term, a pupil shall be automatically reassigned for the next school year to the school he attended the preceding year so long as the grade in which he is to be enrolled is taught therein and his place of residence remains the same. If the grade in which the pupil is to be enrolled for the next succeeding year is not taught in that school, the pupil shall make application for reassignment to another school through his parents, legal guardians, etc., on the proper forms to be provided by the Office of the Superintendent and available at least 30 days prior to the required filing date at the county office and various schools.

Applications for initial assignment or reassignment must be filed with the principal of any school or in the office of the superintendent of schools not later than April 15 of each year.

Pupils entering school for the first time must make application in the same manner as that prescribed above.

Transfers

Pupils who are transferring from another administrative unit and pupils who have changed their place of residence within Davie County shall make application for initial assignment or reassignment in the same manner. These applications for initial assignment or reassignment must be filed with the principal of the school or county superintendent within 30 days after the change of residence takes place.

The parents, legal guardians, etc., shall have a right to apply for reassignment of the pupil to another school for good and valid reasons on forms to be furnished by the office of the superintendent and available at that office and at the various schools. These applications for reassignment may be filed at any time.

A notice to the effect that forms for requesting initial assignment are available shall be posted on the bulletin board at each school and each pre-school clinic not later than April 1, 1965, and each year thereafter. This notice shall remain posted through April 15, 1965, and each year thereafter.

The application for initial assignment or reassignment forms shall provide for the full name of the pupil, age, grade in which expected to enroll, school last or presently attending, first, second and third preference as to school to be assigned, location of residence (giving county road number, N. C. or U. S. road number, or city street, and approximate location of this road or street), whether or not the pupil can provide his own transportation to each school given preference, any pertinent information relating to this assignment or reassignment request, and signature of one parent, legal guardian, the date and reason or reasons for requesting reassignment on the application for reassignment only.

The County Superintendent of Schools shall review the applications and recommend an assignment, based on the established criteria, to the board of education. Notice of initial assignment for the 1965-66 school year shall be made on the final report card of each pupil enrolled at the end of the 1964-65 school year. Other applicants for initial assignment or reassignment shall be notified by mail as soon as practical after the decision of the board.

Transportation

In the event that private or regular school bus transportation is not reasonably available for the pupil to a school of his preference, then the request for reassignment to a school of his preference will be denied.

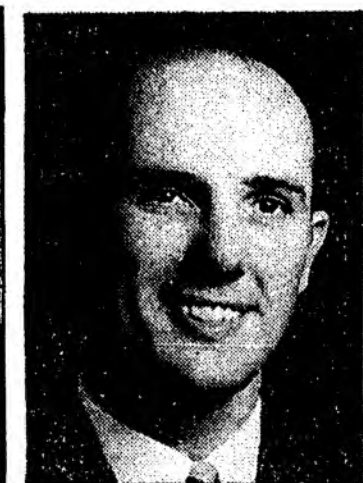

Also, requests for assignment or reassignment will be subject to the availability of physical facilities at the school to which the pupil makes a request. All such requests shall be granted until the maximum capacity of available classrooms at each school shall have been reached, with priority given those applicants whose place of residence is closer to the school of their preference than any other school. In the event a request for assignment is denied either because of transportation or lack of facilities, assignment may be requested to another school where transportation is reasonably available, and maximum capacity has not been reached.

Central Davie High School

The Central Davie Mohawks simply outclassed all others in sweeping to victory in the Piedmont District Single A Division.

In the opening round against Sumnerfield, William West led the Mohawks' five with his dominating rebounding and soft-touch jump shot. He connected for 27 points. Newman Dalton scored 12 points and Odell Rhynehardt, 10.

In the semi-final round of the District competition Yadkin-Boonville was trying to pull the upset of the year as it was a comparatively close game until Central Davie pulled away with an impressive finish. William West and Odell Rhynehardt supplied ample scoring punch with 16 and 15 points respectively. Elton Foote and 7 and Newman Dalton 5 to round out the top Mohawk scorers.

In the finals on Friday night, the Mohawks proved themselves to be superior to any single A team in this area as they manhandled Aggrey Memorial of Landis 56-44.

Odell Rhynehardt led the Mohawks' scorers with 17. His long jump shots and tricky drives completely dazzled the Landis defense. Joining Rhynehardt in double figures was Eugene March. His long bullet-like jump shots echoed over the whole gym as he scored 13 points. William West scored 11 points and Newman Dalton and Elton Foote scored 6 each.

4-H Club News

DAVIE ACADEMY
The Davie Academy 4-H Club held its regular monthly meeting March 1, 1965, at 7:00 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Claude W. Cartner.

President, Carl Dwiggs, called the meeting to order. Carl also led the club in the pledges to the 4-H flag and U. S. flag.

Devotions were led by Jolite Morrison, Secretary, Lib Turner, called the roll with eight members answering. The minutes were also read by Lib and approved as read.

Old business discussed was the 4-H Dog Show. The club congratulated Steve Turner and Bobby Koonitz who both won red ribbons. New business consisted of N. C. Development Fund. The club needs to raise $1,300.00. At the leaders' meeting in early February, it was decided to have a rummage sale on May 8, 1965, starting at 10:30 a. m. at the Mocksville Picnic Grounds. Our president and four leaders encouraged everyone to bring something to the sale.

Our program was highlighted by the attendance of Davie County's Agent, Leo Williams, and his son, Tommy. Mr. Williams gave us pamphlets on "Showing and Fitting a Calf." He emphasized the extreme importance of taking very good care of your calf from birth to the showing of it. I'm sure now that everyone in our club will understand better the importance of taking care of their calf.

After Mr. Williams' talk, a project talk was given by Mike Gaither. Mike's talk was on "Where and How to Plant Wildlife Seeds." After this, Mrs. Cartner served very enjoyable refreshments. Mike Gaither, recreation leader, led us in games after the refreshments. These games were enjoyed by everyone.

Before the games, the meeting was adjourned by president, Carl Dwiggs.

Social Security In Davie County

Timely notification of change of address by social security beneficiaries can cause considerable delay in receipt of monthly checks. T. McCay, social security field representative in Davie County, pointed out today.

The Social Security Administration processes between 17 and 19 million actions for beneficiaries each month, he pointed out. While not all these involve changes of address, a sizeable portion do.

The change of address process is quite simple if the person getting social security benefits will use the cards given him when an initial claim is filed. These can be obtained from any of the more than 600 social security district offices in the country.

"The person wishing to change his address should give his or her name, the new address and the claim number," McCay said. The latter is always found on the award letter which is furnished every person when his claim for social security benefits is approved.

Negroes Die From Carbon Monoxide—

2 Men Found Dead In Car

Two Davie County Negro men were found dead early Saturday morning in an automobile which had been backed from a driveway into a ditch. Accidental death by carbon monoxide was ruled by Dr. F. W. Slate, county coroner.

The victims were W. C. Turner, 35, and Roosevelt Cuthrell, 55, both of Mocksville.

Sheriff George Smith said Turner and Cuthrell were found about 7:15 a.m. Saturday by Knox Dillard in a car in a ditch at the driveway to his home on the Campbell Road, near Mocksville.

Sheriff Smith said Dillard told him he was awakened during the night by the men who asked him to pull the car from a ditch. Dillard reportedly told the men he did not have equipment to pull the vehicle from the ditch and went back to bed.

Sheriff Smith said Dillard told him when he got up Saturday morning he saw the automobile in the ditch and the two men seated in the car.

The car was backed from the Dillard driveway into the ditch. The exhaust pipe from the automobile was jammed into the soft mud of a bank. The men, who were drinking, apparently dozed off to sleep with the motor running and the carbon monoxide fumes seeped into the vehicle and claimed the lives of the two men.

World War I Vets To Meet Sunday Afternoon

There will be a meeting of veterans of World War I on Sunday afternoon at 2 p. m. at the Davie County Office Building.

Commander S. Bryan Smith urges all World War I Vets to be present.

Sundays. In the Moravian Church the season of Lent is a season of preparation for the Passion Week and Easter. It is also a season of sacrificial giving and serving. A time to look inward into ones own life and take a spiritual inventory. This is a glorious season of the church year and all of should make the most of it.

The Holy Communion was administered at the morning worship service on Sunday. In a Moravian congregation the communicants do not go forward to the Communion table to partake, but the bread and cup are brought to them by the officiating minister. Communicant members of other evangelical denominations are welcome to partake of the Lord's Supper with any Moravian congregation.

Visitors attending the morning service at Macedonia on Sunday were: Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Wooten, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wooten, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Allen, Philip and John Wayne Seats and Fletcher McBride.

Mrs. Nancy Brown of Winston-Salem was the week end guest of the Rev. and Mrs. J. Taylor Loflin. Mrs. Brown is the mother of Mrs. Loflin. Saturday will be work day at Macedonia Moravian Church. Workers are asked to meet at the church on Saturday at 8 a.m. The men will work on the church yard, setting out trees and shrubbery and sowing grass. The ladies will prepare and serve the noon meal as well as doing some work inside the church kitchen. All members are invited to come and help with these projects. The Rev. J. Taylor Loflin, pastor of Macedonia Moravian church will leave on Easter Monday for an eight week evangelistic tour of the Moravian Missions on the east coast of Nicaragua. During his absence the morning services will be conducted by the Rev. G. Edward Brewer, former pastor of the congregation. Mr. Brewer has been retired for several years. The evening services will be conducted by visiting ministers, while the mid-week services will be conducted by various laymen of the church. The Macedonia Community extends heartfelt sympathy to Mrs. Herman Cleary in the loss of her loved one. Linda Lee is still sick with the flu.

Annual Fund Raising Drive In Progress—

The Red Cross Needs Support

We all tend to take the Red Cross for granted.

We expect it to aid disaster victims.

We expect it to teach our kids how to swim.

We expect it to be the nation's largest collector of blood.

We expect it to help in our hospitals and in our nursing homes.

This is perhaps a high compliment, one reserved for those real institutions that mark our lives — the paper on the doorstep, Spring's first robin, church on Sunday, and baseball, to name a few.

But in all this "expecting" we tend to forget that it is our Red Cross we're talking about.

If we expect it to do all these things, we too, must be willing to do our part . . . participating fully in the annual fund raising drive which is now underway in this county.

In this context the theme for Red Cross Month 1965 — "Join Up . . . Join In" — seems particularly appropriate. For how much would you give—

. . . To help breathe life into a small boy pulled from six-foot-deep water?

. . . To aid in rushing a soldier home from Vietnam to be at the side of his critically ill mother.

. . . To share in preventing a violent smallpox vaccination reaction from permanently disfiguring the pretty face of a little girl.

. . . To have a part in the search for a practical, economical method to store blood for long periods of times.

. . . To assist a proud, retired couple who never needed help before, until a flood swept away virtually everything they had.

. . . To aid a discharged mental patient in adjustment to normal living.

. . . To help bring smiles and laughter into the long hours of life in a nursing home.

These are only a few of the things made possible through the Red Cross . . . which is made possible only through you and your help.

Extension Service Sponsors Contest—

Rural Safety Awards Program

What are you doing for rural safety in North Carolina? If you are participating in a special project or assisting a group with safety activities, you should plan to enter the rural safety contest.

Dr. Eloise Cofer, chairman of the awards program for the North Carolina Rural Council and assistant director of the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service, says the deadline date for entering the contest is April 1, 1965.

The council will recognize rural organizations as well as individuals for outstanding contributions to accident prevention in the home and on the farm.

Individuals and organizations can carry out safety programs in one or more of the following areas: farm and home pesticide safety; farm machinery safety; home safety for the elderly; and safety for the farm family.

Dr. Cofer says the awards are based on nominations and consist of plaques and certificates. All entries should be accompanied by a summary describing the accident problem, the project developed to meet it and the results. Entries will be judged on the quality and merit of the program and its relation to the community's safety problems.

The main objectives of the program are: to achieve greater safety in communities through better coordinated organization and individual effort; to improve goals, emphasis and effectiveness of accident prevention activities by volunteer organizations; and to recognize significant achievements of rural people in home and farm safety.

Further information on the safety awards program may be obtained from the county agricultural extension office.

MANY TIMES MORE . . . With Charlotte College, seen as a possible stumbling block, out of the way and the Legislature well along its second month of activity, what looms ahead to delay adjournment unofficially set for around June 5? Lack of agreement of municipalities with REA-private power agreement can cause real trouble if something isn't worked out soon. You see, several of the attorneys in the Legislature happen to be attorneys for the cities. The bit of bitterness or misunderstanding toward the power trace worked out by the Governor has these particular lawmakers on the spot. They were very much worried about it last week, too.

Unless the administration pushes hard on the gas, auto inspection—with bitter memories of 1949—can sprout weeds in adjournment's path. Nothing is more needed. However, the memory of one legislator goes back to the time when only his windshield wiper got a passing grade on the test of 15 years ago.

Then, of course, the matter of money is always a problem. There is never enough of it. Requests for funds this time—as usual—run millions and millions of dollars over the amounts available. Some of the requests have real merit; others do not. Thus it goes.

The Governor is expected to lay down a framework to follow in his money message, expected any day now. The administration and the Appropriations Committee (composed of about half the members of the Legislature) will try to arrive at a reasonably happy solution.

In addition to inspection, making College, University at State, power arguments, and money, several members of the General Assembly this time have back-breaking, worrisome, hair-splitting local troubles. As a rule this bit of knif-picking — not Statewide matters — finally makes a man decide he's had enough of Raleigh.

SAME CHOWAN . . . Wrong were we last week in giving credit for the "Mista Speaka" voice on the REA legislative news. It is that of Thad Eure, no less, rather than Cousin Wayland Spruill. Razzed were we by Secretary Eure for not recognizing his "since literally scores have spoken to me about this recording made some six or eight years ago."

Cousin Wayland was complimented on his fine "Mista Speaka" voice. Since he did not say it wasn't his, we assumed our guess was correct. But, he is into so many things that we thought we were referring to something else. Anyway, we were right about the section of the State, the broad "R", and all that. As a matter of fact, Cousin Thad was brought up not too far from Spruill and still maintains his legal residence at Winton, in Hertford County . . . even though he has lived in Raleigh nearly 30 years.

NOTES ON GOVERNOR . . . He seems to be worrying about his smoking . . . but smokes a lot . . . changes brands occasionally, preferring the milder blends, is now smoking Kents . . . The Governor does not carry his speeches with him . . . An advance man, usually Charles Dunn, is in charge of the placement of the speech on the lectern . . . in a loose-leaf, leather-bound, important looking dossier type notebook . . . Governor Moore moves easily, casually, and with little or no strain or change from opening remarks to the hard wood of the address . . . He seems to have a preference for colored shirts, light blue, light gray, etc., rather than plain white.

Although he has been a resident of Raleigh and the big Mansion for two months now, he isn't entirely used to it . . . "Welcome to Raleigh," he will tell a group gathered here, and then add . . . "but a lot of you have been here more than I have."

Gov. Moore carries himself well, erectly, has an easy smile, and does not want to stand out from the crowd . . . can never be accused of taking himself too seriously, is not at all puffed up with importance . . . has a leathery complexion, was a Phi Beta Kappa (high scholarship) at UNC . . . but does not carry the familiar key to indicate same to the world . . .

In a few off the cuff remarks to visitors at the Mansion one day last week, he said: "Glad to have you here at the Mansion . . . at YOUR Mansion . . . It is yours . . . and I a glad it is yours, frankly, when I think of the light bill, the water bill, and that heating bill . . ."

We have yet to see a photo of Mrs. Moore that did her justice. Her husband is photogenic . . . she isn't . . . at least not in the newspapers. But Mrs. Moore is away above average in looks . . . as will be seen in the color photo . . . has been intelligent . . . and will bring new prestige to her side of the office.

PEOPLE . . . G. C. (Pete) Walpole, manager of the Durham Chamber of Commerce, has resigned, effective April 1 (after about four years in the job), did not say where he was going . . . but inside information is that he will become associated with the American Retail Federation in Washington . . . and his successor in Durham has already been chosen.

—Going . . . or to be offered an opportunity to go . . . to live in Waynesville . . . and head up a new, big Haywood County School system . . . Canton, Waynesville, county schools, the whole shebang . . . is Jerome Melton of Raleigh. Melton is principal of the Josephus Daniels Junior High School . . . and has been with the Raleigh City Schools, ranked up with the best now, for about ten years . . . and all we know about this possible change . . . for Prof. Melton, is what we hear.

—Well, I had breakfast with the Governor this morning," he can say . . . or . . . "As I was saying to the Governor this morning at breakfast—" All of which is to report that your legislator . . . sooner or later, if not already . . . will have breakfast with the Governor at the Mansion. It's not a quiet, secluded rendezvous or tete-a-tete. Gov. Moore like all his predecessors, is having the solons over to eat with him . . . in droves, groups, or herds, or flocks. It isn't too expensive . . . the labor is furnished by the State . . . and it does smooth the rails over in that him . . . An advance man, usually Charles Dunn, is in charge of the

Senator Sam Ervin Says:

WASHINGTON — One of the most far-reaching legislative proposals offered to this Congress is the abandonment of the present National Origins Quota System in favor of an Eastern hemisphere-wide immigration system. The measure stems from the Jan. 13 Presidential message to abolish the 1952 McCarran-Walter Act.

Proponent favoring the drastic revision of the McCarran-Walter Act have laid great stress upon the humanitarian image America must present to the rest of the world. This overlooks the humanitarian responsibility America has to its own citizens. There are a number of substantial objections to the bill, S. 500. In the forefront of these is the subject of employment of our citizens already here in competition with new citizens to be admitted under a revised immigration statute. Full employment has been the sponsoring principle of much legislation before the Congress. Other serious questions arise over the provisions in the new bill to give arbitrary powers over immigration to Federal administrators, and the abandonment of principles governing immigration approved in 1952 by two-thirds of both Houses of Congress.

In any discussion of immigration laws, it must be stated at the outset that no human mind can draw a restrictive immigration bill which will not work hardships and discrimination in some cases. The realities governing the supply of immigrants and the capacity of our country to absorb and assimilate immigrants pose the most difficult of questions. In a highly complex society where each citizen's welfare is an important concern this is more true today than ever before. The absorption of citizens originating in nations having other languages, cultures, and governmental systems is at best a difficult problem. Our existing immigration laws have been based upon this reality.

One of the chief virtues of the National Origins Quota System established by the McCarran-Walter Act is the fact that it places the control of quota immigration in the hands of the mathematicians rather than in the hands of the politicians. S. 500 would substitute for the present immigration rules the virtually uncontrolled will of politicians. The arbitrary will of Federal administrators subject to no limitation except the limitation that no more than 10 percent of the quota immigrants could be drawn from any one of the 89 countries in Europe, Asia, and Africa, and that the Act should be administered on a "first come-first served" basis.

Those who have had experience with laws whose administration is committed to Federal agencies know that there is no substance to any "first come-first served" system. The "first served" are always those who public relations apparatus can raise the most ballyhoo, and whose friends and supporters can put the tightest squeeze on the politicians who control the Federal agencies. The McCarran-Walter Act is not a perfect piece of legislation, but I shall not vote to abandon the National Origins Quota System formula until someone devises a better rule sufficiently strong and certain to insure that immigration to the U. S. is controlled by the rule of law and not by the caprice of men.

Letters To The Editor

Editor
Davie County Enterprise-Record
Mocksville, N. C.

Dear Sir:

I have read, with interest, your editorial "Keeping In Step With Others," having to do generally with methods of selecting School Boards and specifically with the method of selecting the Davie County School Board.

If I correctly interpret the message this editorial seeks to convey, then I am forced to conclude that its author is strongly in favor of the one party system and, therefore, also in favor of abolishing the 2-party system which has served the American people so well for so many years.

You state in your editorial and I quote: "It would certainly be highly idealistic—if not almost unimaginable—to take politics out of the operation of the school—or, for that matter, the operation of any public institution." In view of this declaration, it seems inconsistent to me that you would turn around and recommend that we have a 100% Democratic School Board to represent a county where the majority of the voters are Republicans. This same inconsistency is reflected in Senator Johnson's efforts to have the Davie County School Board appointed when, in 1963, he came out openly and 100% in favor of elected School Boards.

The reasons you give for the desirability of a 100% Democratic School Board — that the General Assembly, the State Board of Education, etc., are Democratic—are, as I see it, an accusation that the Democratic Party at the State level would not work with a Republican School Board and that having a School Board which is even partially Republican "might cost us plenty." This kind of thinking—go along with the Party in Power or else—is popular in other parts of the world but I sincerely hope it will never be acceptable here in America.

All in all, I think you have done the Democratic Party a disservice by your intimation that unless we in Davie County have a 100% Democratic School Board, we might not be treated fairly by the hierarchy in Raleigh. If this is true, then we are farther down the road toward one of the "isms" (Socialism, Communism) than I like to believe.

Yours very truly,

Will you please print the following resolution which was adopted at a meeting of the Pino Grange on March 1:

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, the education of young people is of paramount importance and all desire the best possible education for our children, and

WHEREAS, we feel that the taxpayers who pay for schools should have a voice, through their votes, in how the schools are run, and

WHEREAS, democracy is based upon the rule of the majority and the people of Davie County have shown, through their great interest in the recent election of members of the County Board of Education, that they want to select their Board members in this way, and

WHEREAS, it has been recommended to the Legislature, by a Committee appointed to study this matter, that the County Boards of Education in all of the Counties of North Carolina be elected by a vote of the people of the various counties, and

WHEREAS, the aforementioned Committee was headed by Senator Johnson of Iredell County, who now represents this County in the Senate chamber of the Legislature, and

WHEREAS, the Honorable Dan K. Moore, Governor of North Carolina, has publicly gone on record as being in favor of choosing members of the County Boards of Education by a vote of the people in all of the 100 Counties of the State, and

WHEREAS, we feel that the elective system of choosing members of the County Board of Education has appeared to work well in other Counties of the State, including our neighboring County of Forsyth, and

WHEREAS, we feel that the elective system has not been given a fair chance in Davie County, only one such election having been held under the present law, this being in a Presidential election year when political feeling was at a high pitch, and

Congressman James T. Broyhill

APPALACHIA BILL

The bill to help in the serious economic problems of Appalachia occupied the House of Representatives last week and it is regrettable that it could not have been a better bill.

There is widespread agreement that the people of the Appalachian area in North Carolina and in other parts of our eastern highlands need special attention to help them to help themselves. Some of the problems are found widely throughout the area. These would include a pattern of low income, unemployment, isolation, and lack of economic opportunity. There has been a sincere hope that legislation could be developed to meet these needs and that concepts would be fashioned around the special problems.

Anyone who has lived in the Appalachian area, including the mountains of western North Carolina, would agree that a serious need for roads exists. Roads are required to open up the mountain country, release it from its isolation, and provide access from one local area to another. Therefore, when the general outline for legislation was first proposed, its promised heavy emphasis upon roadbuilding offered a good prospect that the people of Appalachia could look forward to a responsive program. As time passed, however, the legislation never developed beyond vague outlines.

It was disappointing that the Congress did not pin down exactly what the roadbuilding program would be, what standards must be observed, and what we could reasonably expect to result from the legislation.

On this question, the superficial language of the bill differs markedly from highway legislation the Congress normally writes. For instance, 1,000 miles of access roads are authorized. Where? We do not know. Some of these roads will be used to serve recreational facilities, but there is no requirement that the facilities be publicly-owned or operated. It is possible that the funds could be used to construct private drives into country clubs, private swimming pools, etc. This prospect invites abuses that the law itself should maintain them is another important factor on which the Appalachia bill is silent. Without a clear statement of this responsibility, the access road program itself is thrown under a cloud.

The bill, which will be signed into law within the near future, includes 360 counties plus authority for the State of New York to add 13 of its southern tier counties. In other programs to assist economic development, formulas for determining which counties are eligible to receive aid have been enunciated. With the detailed information available, it can be well established which parts of the Appalachia region need outside help and which do not. Seventy-six, or 21%, of the counties eligible for aid in this program do not meet the criteria established to determine areas of chronic unemployment and economic distress. We can only assume that such a broad-brush approach can dissipate available funds and seriously diminish efforts where there is a critical economic need.

These factors and others have already given rise to the charge that the program discriminates against other regions of the country. It sets an unfortunate pattern for Ozark and Upper Great Lakes Regional legislation that will follow. If the bill is not carried out with more care than we have seen in its conception, this charge can rise to an outcry that will throw it into national disrepute. Administration of this loosely-formulated program will fall to the Appalachian Regional Development Commission composed of representatives of the 11 states involved and a Federal Chairman with veto power over projects and all decisions. This relegates State participation to an advisory role. To me, it seemed that favoritism and political payoffs were being invited by the manner this bill was put together. There are also few built-in protections to assure that it does not degenerate into a gigantic political pork-barrel from which a little bit could be doled out for everybody without doing any essential and lasting good.

All efforts to write standards and guidelines into the bill, both in the Public Works Committee and during the formal debate in the House, were rejected out of hand. Many of these amendments, in my opinion, were excellently designed. When these failed, an alternative program was offered which I supported in the belief that it was far more meaningful in the actual help it offered. This was rejected, too.

What the Appalachia program will ultimately offer, we cannot predict. There are far too many glaring blank spots now to tell. I could not support it in its present form because I felt any such program should be written with an eye fixed more on fact and less on faith. There has been a history of disillusionment following the high hopes touched off by economic-betterment legislation in the past, and I hope this program does not add to that procession.

60 Second Sermon
By FRED DODGE

TEXT: "You must be above the average to raise it."—Eli Thomas. The story is told that during his Presidential campaign, Adlai Stevenson passed the time of day with a taxi driver. Introducing himself he said,

"Some people say I talk over the heads of the average man. Do you think so?"

"Well," the cabbie said, "I understand you, Mr. Stevenson, but I'm not sure about the average man."

"Average" people are always plentiful. Too plentiful. We find them everywhere. They do not help in any way. They are simply "average." The world needs men and women, boys and girls who are above the average. Averages can only be bettered when there are more above-average people and things than there are those below the average. This places on us the responsibility to be above the average personally and in the things we do, if we are to contribute to a better world, or a better anything.

If we endeavor to do our best, which is, of course, above our average, we are certain to raise the average of which we are a part. No matter how small or insignificant we may feel our part is, we lower the average unless we do our best.

TORACCO — HOGS

The 19½ per cent cut for the tobacco acreage has caused some tobacco farmers to consider other sources of farm income. A few tobacco farmers are considering adding hogs to the farm businesses.

The top agriculture leaders in North Carolina and Davie County are recommending hog as one of the best new farming businesses to replace the money lost because of the tobacco cut. Reports show that about forty per cent of the pork consumed in North Carolina is shipped in from other states. They offer many other reasons for considering hogs: good markets, fit well on farms less than 100 acres, low investment, and easy to get in and out.

Several Davie County farmers have recently gone into the Feeder-Pig production. This is a special phase or part of producing hogs. Feeder-Pig producers produce pigs that are sold between 40-60 pounds. This is working well in Davie County and surrounding counties. Farmers using this system take advantage of the good markets and sell pigs to feed mills or large farmers growing large quantities of corn. These mills and large feeders are willing to pay good prices for good pigs if they can buy in volume, sixty or more pigs. Thus, Feeder-Pig farmers would be expected to make more clear money in Davie County than would farmers competing with feed mills in feeding out pigs from 50 — 225 pounds.

Girl Scout News

THE WORLD OF GIRL SCOUTING

There are so many worlds to explore! There is the world of yourself, partly known, but still full of mysteries and surprises. There is the world of other people, like you and unlike you, girls and boys, men and women, little children. There is the world of the out-of-doors. And there are the worlds of laughter and beauty and work and growing up to be a woman.

It was 1912 when Juliette Low came back to Savannah, Ga., and called up an old friend to say, "Come right over. I've got something for the girls of Savannah, and all America, and all the world, and we're going to start it tonight!"

It was 1912. Skirts were long, and girls and women led far more restricted lives than we do now. The idea that girls might learn how to take care of themselves out in the woods or on camping trips was startling, even shocking! But change was in the air. For a long time a few dauntless pioneers had been crusading for women's right to vote, showing in all sorts of ways what women could do. There were 12 girls at the first meeting in Savannah—12 girls a little surprised by "Daisy Low's" idea of going into the woods, clearing underbrush, gathering wood for a fire, and making tea! But how they loved it! In no time, troops were forming elsewhere. By the time of World War I, there were enough Girl Scouts here to make a real contribution to the war effort, helping to realize "Daisy's" dream of girls' learning to be active, vital citizens of their country.

Today, that first small group of Scouts has grown till there are nearly three and a half million Girl Scouts in the 50 United States. The movement has spread and grown and expanded in other countries, too. But wide and deep and varied as the movement has become, it still rests on the foundations laid by Lord Baden-Powell and set down in this country by Juliette Low. Wide and deep and varied as it is, it is organized everywhere in the democratic fashion prescribed by Baden-Powell. Its main aim is his aim, to "enlarge character by practice, not merely by precepts," to encourage in girls the "intelligence and capability to live free, prosperous, and happy lives."

Interested farmers will find information on markets, hog house plans, breeding stock and other help at the County Agent's Office.

Kite Flying Safety Urged By Power Official

The first day of March—warm, sunny, almost breezeless.

Like a lamb. Which means, according to wisdom passed along by grandpa, the last week of March will be buffeted by fierce gales as winter utters one last roar.

Great weather for kite flying. None better. And the fact that more kites will be flown during the month of March than most of the rest of the year warrants a warning to all kite launchers:

Such a simple sport as sending a kite into sky can be dangerous.

That's the reason Duke Power Company, according to Branch Manager E. E. Goodwin, has issued these timely suggestions on how to have fun with kites—safely.

Here's how:

—Always use a dry string, not wire or anything metallic to fly your kite. Some strings contain a metallic wrapping or a metallic strand that can short electric lines.

—Use wood and paper to make your kite, never any wire or metal of any description.

—Always fly your kite on days when there is no rain.

—Avoid busy streets and highways when flying our kite. That short dash needed to keep it in the air may be into the path of an automobile.

ices, not merely by precepts," to encourage in girls the "intelligence and capability to live free, prosperous, and happy lives."

—Always fly your kite away from TV and radio aerials.

—Fly your kite far from electric power lines.

—Always call the power company if your kite gets snagged in a power line. Don't yank on the string or climb power poles to free your kite. The power company has special equipment to service its lines, and that includes removing runaway wires should a kite tail, in some way, cause this to happen.

Alfalfa Weevil Control For 1965

By LEO F. WILLIAMS
Davie County Farm Agent

The program is based on spring treatments of currently recommended materials, methoxychlor and malathion. The 1965 spring program will be followed in most alfalfa areas will include:

(1) First treatment about March 10-20 using methoxychlor 25% EC at 8 quarts per acre.

(2) Second treatment, April 1-10 using methoxychlor or if daytime temperatures are in the 70's and evening lows in the 50's, malathion 57% EC at 1 quart per acre may be substituted.

(3) Third treatment, April 20-25, using methoxychlor or malathion. The insecticide of choice here will usually be malathion because of cost and effectiveness against the pea aphid which is often a pest at this time.

Important features to remember are:
—The above dates of application are for the Piedmont.
—Apply sprays when most of the plant tips begin to show injury and the field takes on a lighter appearance.

—Only two applications are usually required in the mountains and these would be made approximately three weeks later than the Piedmont dates.
—Use 20 to 30 gallons of water per acre in a boom-type sprayer with fan nozzles delivering a coarse spray. High pressures cause excessive drift.

—Complete coverage of the field is essential.
—Adhere to established safe interval from last application to harvest. This interval is 7 days for methoxychlor and 0 days for malathion.

—Be sure that malathion is used only when temperatures are relatively high.
—When a significant number of weevil larvae are present at hay cutting, it is advisable to apply a malathion stubble spray to prevent damage to the second crop. It may be worthwhile to inspect clover crops periodically for weevil infestations. Usually a single application of malathion or methoxychlor will give adequate control. Although there are other USDA-approved materials being sold for use against the alfalfa weevil, such as guthion, dimethoate, and Alifox, we are presently not recommending them. Research in North Carolina indicates that these materials are slightly less effective than methoxychlor and malathion.

Lime Now For Fall Seeded Pastures And Hay Crops

Leo F. Williams, County Extension Chairman, says about six months are needed for lime to dissolve in the soil. Therefore, fields to be used for hay and pasture should be limed now so they will be ready for seeding this fall.

Mr. Williams further states that lime well mixed with the soil reacts quicker and does a better job correcting the pH than lime broadcast on top of the ground. If row crops are limed before planting, regular cultivation practices will mix lime with the soil.

The need for lime should be determined by a soil test before any is applied. If testing indicates an acid condition the soil must be limed, especially if legumes are to be grown. Bacteria that fix nitrogen on legume roots cannot work well in acid soils. When soils are limed to the optimum pH these bacteria can soon fix enough nitrogen to pay for liming. Low calcium levels and other factors caused by an acid condition will make it almost impossible to maintain a good stand of clover or other legumes.

Proper liming increases the availability of phosphate and the capacity of your soil to hold potash. Both of these elements are necessary in large amounts if you are to get high yields. Our heavy textured soils tie-up phosphate and our thin soils do not hold much potash so liming is necessary to make the most profit from purchased fertilizer.

How much lime does your soil need? It is not too late to find out from a soil test in time to lime this spring. Get sampling supplies from the county's agent's office and send your sample to the Soil Testing Laboratory now.

Applications Open For Program For College Juniors

Sergeant Howard, local U. S. Army Recruiter for the area announced today that applications were now being accepted by the U. S. Army Recruiting Service for the WAC Summer Program for college juniors. Sergeant Howard stated that this was a program whereby a young lady in college may receive a candid provision of life as an officer in the Women's Army Corps.

"It is to help them decide whether or not to apply for officers direct commission in the Women's Army Corps after graduation. All expenses will be paid by the Army to and from the U. S. Army Corps Training Center, Fort McClellan, Ala. While training the ladies will draw the pay of a temporary corporal in the Reserves, about $122.30 for four weeks. They will wear the WAC summer uniform, which is a crisp two-piece outfit of green and white cord with matching hat. Off-duty they may wear civilian attire or the uniform," said Sgt. Howard.

To be eligible, an applicant must be 18 years of age and currently completing her junior year or the first semester of her senior year in an accredited college or university. Applicants are under no obligation and if they do not complete the summer program or if they decide not to apply for a direct commission after graduation, they are honorably discharged.

Additional information on the WAC Summer Program is available at the U. S. Army Recruiting Station at 216 West Broad Street, Statesville, North Carolina.

Silver Service Goes To N. C. Battleship

Governor and Mrs. Dan Moore, with the approval of the Council of State, will transfer the USS NORTH CAROLINA silver service from the Executive Mansion in Raleigh to a permanent display location in the new museum aboard the USS NORTH CAROLINA BATTLESHIP MEMORIAL at Wilmington.

Transfer of the silver was announced by Mrs. Moore at a luncheon meeting of woman's page editors and broadcast representatives held at the Mansion Wednesday, March 3. Hugh Morton of Wilmington, Chairman of the USS North Carolina Battleship Commission, was present to accept the silver in the name of the Battleship Commission.

Mrs. Ed Short, representing the Davie County Enterprise Record, and Mrs. Gordon Tomlinson, representing the Courier, were present at the luncheon last Wednesday.

"This beautiful, antique silver has given more than a half century of illustrious service to the United States Navy and its ships named in honor of the State of North Carolina," Governor and Mrs. Moore said. "It is fitting that this silver service be retired from active use at the Mansion and be placed in its final home aboard the USS NORTH CAROLINA Battleship which is a State memorial dedicated to the memory of all North Carolinians who have served or lost their lives in the defense of our nation. The Battleship Commission assures us that an appropriate and permanent display service in the Memorial museum location has been planned for the eum."

Chairman Morton announced that the Battleship Commission would present to the Executive Mansion a gift of contemporary silver which would replace that portion of the Battleship silver service which was actively used at the Mansion.

The General Assembly of 1967 appropriated $5,000 for the purchase of a complete silver service to be presented to the United States Navy for use aboard the naval cruiser "North Carolina". The silver first went into service aboard the cruiser in 1908.

The 120 piece set was decorated with a nautical rope border, cotton and tobacco plants, and eagles and sea shells. It consists of a combination punch bowl and centerpiece with three-branched candelabras on each side and was wired for electrical connections. On one side was an etching of the "North Carolina" and below this enameled in color were the Navy and North Carolina flags. On the reverse was the State Capitol and an etching of Johnston Blakely, first American admiral, native of North Carolina, and hero of the War of 1812. It was inscribed: "From the citizens of the State of North Carolina to the Battleship North Carolina by the Legislature, 1907." H. Mahler, Raleigh jeweler, made the service from several designs submitted.

Later the silver service was returned to the State on loan from the Navy and displayed in the Hall of History. It was used only occasionally at teas sponsored by the Daughters of the American Revolution until Governor McLean asked that it be placed in the Governor's Mansion. There it remained until 1929 when the silver service was recalled by the Navy for service aboard the cruiser "Raleigh". In 1930, at the request of Governor Gardner, the silver service was returned to the State and placed in the Mansion.

When the USS NORTH CAROLINA Battleship was launched in 1940, the Navy requested that the silver service be returned and placed aboard the new battleship. This was done in April of 1941 by Governor and Mrs. J. Melville Broughton. The NORTH CAROLINA served all through World War II, traveling some 300,000 miles and fighting in 12 major engagements. Following World War II and the decommissioning of the NORTH CAROLINA, the silver service was placed on shore duty by the Navy until Governor Hodges requested the silver service be returned again to the State of North Carolina. The silver has remained at the Mansion since May, 1958.

USS North Carolina To Be Theatrical Star

The mighty battleship U. S. S. North Carolina, heroine of World War II naval warfare, is preparing for a new career as a theatrical star.

Directors, engineers and technicians are swarming over the gallant lady in her Cape Fear River berth here to make her ready for the premiere performance in "The Immortal Showboat."

Her debut comes April 1 in a 45-minute spectacular, recreating the drama and excitement of her legendary history on the high seas. Performance will be given each evening at 8:15 p.m. to and including Labor Day. Sound and Light Productions is producing the show, under the sponsorship of the U. S. North Carolina Commission.

Stage-setting for the drama is now going on, with dredging experts making changes in the battleship's berth. A construction crew is rapidly completing a stadium overlooking the site. Unusual lighting effects, stirring dialogue, special music, and realistic sound effects are being blended to bring back to life the exploits of the U. S. S. North Carolina at sea. In addition to the regular performances, announcement will be made in advance for shows on special occasions such as Veterans Day.

There would not be so many open mouths if there were not so many open ears.

Library News

There are frequent requests in the library for college catalogues, and in the past lack of space has interfered with this service. But now, in a spirit of optimism, catalogues of North Carolina colleges are being acquired and some small cranny will be filled a little fuller, until we can spread them out properly. Anyway, we hope this will be some help to our patrons.

In addition, we have on our shelves for the perusal of schoolminded young people:

"College Entrance Counselor, with Directories and Career and Scholarship Guides," by Wechsler. "Lovejoy's Vocational School Guide."

Uncle Dave From Davie Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

The boys at the country store Saturday night was discussing hogs and farmers. The storekeeper claimed we was discussing 'em in the proper order, hogs and farmers, and allowed as how hogs and farmers fitted together pretty good. But as a general rule, us fellers don't pay no attention to the storekeeper. He never did git across the New Frontier and he thinks the Great Society is a branch of the U. S. Welfare Department.

Anyhow, Ed Doolittle reported he had saw a piece in the papers where a couple of hog experts was claiming the left ham of the hog was twice as good eating as the right ham. First off, they said a hog raises his right hind foot to scratch his right side and this exercise makes muscles in the right ham. But when he scratches his left side he always rubs it agin a tree or fence post. Furthermore, they claimed, when a hog takes his rest he always lays on his right side, making that ham tougher.

The fellers at the store was pro and con on the subject. Ed said if it turned out them two experts was right, he aimed to start charging about 10 cent a pound more fer left-handed hams. It was voted to write to our Congressman and see if he can't git the U. S. Department of Agriculture to make one of them science surveys they make on everything from the work production load of ants to the family life of mosquitos and settle this hog matter. The fellers figured the Agriculture Department could do this job fer around $10,000 and this was about $2,000 less than they spent studying the love life of the Peruvian told frogs.

Moving over from hogs to farmers, Clem Webster reported he was mighty confused and a little upset about how they was going to help the pore farmers in Great Society.

He had took note, he said, where the Economic Opportunity Act planned to aid 5,332,000 pore farmers, but the latest farm census took by the U. S. Department of Agriculture showed they ain't but '481,000 farmers, rich or pore, in the country. According to Clem, if they ain't changed the rules fer adding and subtracting in the Great Society, this leaves 1,852,000 farmers that was going to git helped from Washington when they ain't got no farms to be pore on.

Clem reckoned they might just give them 1,852,000 pore farmers that ain't farmers 50 acres and a mule and start 'em off to farming and git 'em out to the Great Society in style.

If you can throw any light on this pore farmer business, Mister Editor, the fellers at the store would shore appreciate it.

Yours truly
Uncle Dave

Twenty-Six Years In Business Here—

Jo Cooley Has Anniversary Event

By GORDON TOMLINSON
It was in 1939 that a pretty young miss came to Mocksville and established a beauty shop.

This week, this young lady (for no one is younger in spirit) and her shop observe a 26th anniversary event. During the past 26 years much has happened . . . but nothing has daunted this young lady's desire to make life more beautiful for everyone . . . both through her chosen profession in beauty culture and through personal cheerful service to others.

Jo Cooley came to Mocksville in 1938 and took over the Mayfair Beauty Shop. She was born in Galax, Virginia, but her family soon moved to North Carolina and she graduated from the High Point High School.

Four years after beginning her career as a beautician, Jo was involved in an automobile accident and sustained a back injury which resulted in paraplegia. She spent seven months in the hospital and then went home to remain in bed most of the time for 18 months. She was told she would never sit up again.

However, Jo refused to give up or sell the beauty shop. She managed the shop from her bed and in addition, began to set hair from an ambulance cot, which she used as a "mobile bed."

Progressing gradually, Jo soon began shampooing hair as well as setting it, and found that she could do as good a job as any operator. From that time on, she resumed her role as chief operator in her shop.

In this business venture, Jo sought and found more efficient ways of getting around. She began using the folding wheel chair and in 1946 learned to drive her own car.

On one of her many trips to hospitals, Jo had been a patient at the Baptist Hospital in Winston-Salem. There she met Dr. Eben Alexander, chief neurosurgeon. In 1952, at the invitation of Dr. Alexander, Jo and four other paraplegics met at the Baptist Hospital to form an organization for the paraplegics in North Carolina.

In June of 1953, Jo arranged a meeting in her apartment in Mocksville. She wrote personal letters to paraplegics and quadriplegics throughout the state asking them to come and to bring friends. Seventy people responded . . . 35 in wheelchairs. It was at this meeting that the North Carolina Paraplegia Association was born. Jo was elected its first president, and the group has been growing ever since.

In observance this week of the 26th anniversary of the Mayfair Beauty Shop, Jo issued the following statement:

"We are celebrating our 26th year in business in Mocksville. We want to invite all of our friends and customers to come in Thursday, Friday or Saturday to see our remodeled shop. Refreshments will be served. Our shop is now as modern as any in the state.

"We started out 26 years ago with one shampoo booth and we now have four. We have grown with this great town of Mocksville.

"We use only nationally advertised supplies and our work is unconditionally guaranteed.

"We greatly appreciate you wonderful people for your loyal support for the past 26 years."

In addition to Miss Cooley, the staff of the Mayfair Beauty Shop today consists of Nancy Allen, Sue Crofts and Lessie York.

REV. GILBERT PIERCE

Revival Services will begin at the Fork Baptist Church Sunday, March 21, at 7:30 p.m. The Rev. Gilbert Pierce will be the evangelist. Rev. Mr. Pierce is pastor of the Shadybrook Baptist Church in Kannapolis.

Before going to Kannapolis, Rev. Pierce was a pastor of the Quaker Gap Baptist Church in Stokes County. While serving in the Air Force, Rev. Pierce received his call to the pastoral ministry.

He is married to the former Jeanette Brown of Greensboro. Mr. and Mrs. Pierce have three children.

The Pastor of Fork Baptist Church, Rev. Del Suggs, announced that services will begin each night at 7:30 throughout the week ending on Sunday, March 28 at the 11:00 o'clock worship hour. "With our building program completed and spring weather approaching, we are looking forward to very good attendance," Rev. Suggs stated.

Senate Bill 34 Wins Approval

The so-called "nonpartisan" school board election system in Davie County was officially discontinued last Friday when the North Carolina House of Representatives approved SB-34 providing that the Davie board be appointed by the General Assembly.

Senator James V. Johnson's bill sailed through the final House votes without discussion or debate. Rep. Donald Bingham of Davie was one of only a few voting against it.

Davie's first and only non-partisan election was held last November. Both sides agreed that it became hotly partisan. Johnson, the Iredell County senator whose district includes Davie, asked that the system be repealed.

A 1963 act authorized the non-partisan vote. It was passed for the traditionally Republican County at the request of the county's Democratic Rep. Lester P. Martin Jr. Bingham defeated Martin in the November general election.

Bingham attempted to counter Johnson's proposal with a bill to retain the nonpartisan system but to make changes aimed at assuring representation on the board for both parties. His plan was killed Wednesday by the House Education Committee.

Johnson's bill already had passed the Senate. Bingham did not speak against it when the final vote came on the House floor yesterday.

The measure will reappoint all the school board members elected last November — including two Republicans — to staggered terms. The 1967 legislature will reduce the board's size from six to five.

A Total of $93,979.10 Raised In Fund Drive—

Davie Library Fund Drive Goes Over Top

The fund raising drive spearheaded by Knox Johnstone for new Davie County Library facilities has gone over the top.

Mr. Johnstone announced this week that $93,979.10 had been raised. This is almost $4,000 more than the $90,000 quota set when the drive got underway last November.

Davie County was required to put up around $90,000 and this will be augmented by $68,000 in state and federal funds to construct new library facilities on the Dodd property on North Main Street.

Mr. Johnstone revealed that around $20,000 in donations came in during the past two weeks from "friends of Davie County". Some of these donations he listed as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Borden Hanes, $1,000 and Mr. and Mrs. Meade Willis, Jr., $1,000, Winston-Salem; R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company of Winston-Salem, $7,500; John W. and Anna Hanes Foundation, $5,000; P. H. Hanes Knitting Co., $5,000.

Serving with Mr. Johnstone on this fund raising committee were Mrs. P. M. Johnson and H. R. Hendrix, Jr. This committee expressed appreciation for the cooperation they had received from the many workers and for work and generosity of the many citizens.

The committee revealed that a total of 1953 donations were made to this fund. This was broken down as follows:

- 317 contributed less than $1.00
- 960 contributed $1 to $5.
- 358 made contributions of from $5 to $10.
- 280 made contributions of $10 to $50.
- 16 made contributions of $50 to $100.
- 80 made contributions of $100 to $500.
- 29 made contributions of $500 to $1,000.
- And 13 made contributions ranging from $1500 to 17,000.

The Building
Advertisement for construction bids on the new library is expected to be made within the next week or two, with construction started later this spring.

The new library, which will house over 40,000 books, will be located on North Main Street on property formerly occupied by the Dodd house and the old Baptist parsonage. There will be a tree covered entrance easily accessible from the street and parking facilities and a drive-in book return window will be provided on the site.

The new building will contain a general reading area, an area for young adults, and a reference area. Just inside the door will be a magazine and new book area.

The new building will not only serve the community as a library but as a cultural center as well. The library is being planned so that a central children's room will serve the young and provide a place for consultation with parents and teachers on the children's needs.

There will be a special history room that will preserve records of local history. Any book, pamphlet that will help tell the story of Davie County and North Carolina hundreds of years ago will be preserved in this room. History groups in the community will have excellent opportunities for special projects for this room.

Meeting rooms within the library will serve many purposes. Community groups will be provided meeting room space adjacent to the informational and educational resources of the library. One room will be equipped for conversion into a story-hour room for the children, but will be available as a multipurpose meeting room. Audio-visual materials will be projected as a service to the groups meeting in the rooms, and special library sponsored showings of educational films will be conducted. Adjacent to the meeting room will be provided a small kitchenette for limited use during community functions.

Fifteen residents of Davie County are currently participating in "Project Uplift". This is the federal program that provides vocational training for a group of elected heads of families that are educationally and culturally disadvantaged.

Taiwan Missionaries To Visit Presbyterian

Since January of 1960 the First Presbyterian Church of Mocksville has had a share in paying the salary of Dr. and Mrs. William Junkin, Jr., missionaries from the Presbyterian Church to Taiwan. They will visit the First Presbyterian Church for the first time on Sunday, March 21st and will speak at Sunday School. Dr. Junkin will be the preacher for the morning service, and at 6:30 PM the congregation will have a Family Night Supper after which the Junkins will present a program.

Dr. William Junkin, Jr. was born in China and after his college and seminary training he married Miss Jessie McElroy of Richmond, Virginia. In 1940 they returned to China as missionaries. When World War II began they were studying in the Philippines and were interned by the Japanese and spent more than three years in prison. After their release, and while regaining their health, Dr. Junkin served as pastor of several churches in Virginia. In 1953 they sailed for Taiwan where he is the American Chaplain for Tunghai University.

A missionary, like a mother, is seldom on vacation, and Mrs. Jessie Junkin can certainly verify that statement. As she serves with Dr. Junkin in Taichung, Taiwan, her duties include working with the Women of the Church, preparing Sunday School materials, training Sunday School teachers, teaching music, orchestra, and choir at the University, and substitute teaching in the School for Missionaries' Children.

Their son, William III, was born in the Japanese Concentration Camp. He visited Mocksville in 1960 and is now a graduate student at M. I. T. in Cambridge, Mass. The Junkins have two daughters. Alice is a freshman at Maryville College in Tennessee, and Sarah is a freshman at John Marshall High School in Richmond.

Dr. and Mrs. Junkin are spending their furlough year at Mission College in Richmond and plan to return to Taiwan in September 1965.

JUNIORS' OUTING

Junior Girl Scout Troops No. 286 and No. 29 went skating Saturday, March 20th in Lexington. The scout leaders, Mrs. George Schladersky, Mrs. Lester Williams and Mrs. John Ginther, and several of the mothers enjoyed the outing with the scouts. There were seven cars in the caravan.

What Scouting Means To Me.

The following are more articles written by girls from Troop 286 on the subject "What Scouting Means To Me."

Scouting means adventures, fun, cooking, camping, and hiking. It means going places, and having fun, and adventures with your troop. It also means learning. What would the Girl Scouts do if Juliette Gordon Low wouldn't have founded this wonderful organization. Girl Scouting is helping you in the future years. Girl Scouting is not all play. It means working and helping others. When we became Girl Scouts we said "On My Honor I will try to do my duty to God." etc. I hope to do this.

Peggy McCoy Girl Scouting means a lot to me. It means going on hikes. It means sharing our ideas with others. We learn to care for ourselves and be useful to our mother and father. We learn how to cook, sew and do many other things around the house. Sometimes we go skating, and that's a lot of fun. We learn about animals and how to care for them. We learn to get along with others and become better citizens.

Amy Marsh Girl Scouting is like a club that almost every girl loves. A place to meet and go on hikes, camping trips and many others. A place to learn such things as sewing and cooking. There you can tell your leader or assistant what you have learned in school, church school and other places.

Sonya Jonson Scouting isn't just wearing my uniform every Wednesday and going to our Scout Room just for Girl Scouts. It is something special. I am proud to wear my uniform, and to wear the Girl Scout emblems. I try to be trusted. I try to be clean in thought, word and deed. In law number 4, it says "A Girl Scout is a friend to all and a sister to every other Girl Scout." I hope I do this. In badges I am earning, I am learning many new things. Some of these are how to cook, how to care for my home and how to care for my pets. These skills will help me in many ways when I have my own home.

Susan Williams Scouting means adventure. It teaches you what you can apply in the future. I like the check-ups we have. I like my badges. It is more fun when we go skating in troops together. I think it is very nice to sew the pictures and pillows we made for Christmas for our mothers. I like the hikes we have, but best of all the things we have and do, I like my uniform, and it makes me proud that I am able to be a Girl Scout. I wish all girls could be in Girl Scouts.

DR. SAMUEL ASBURY HARDING

... Practiced medicine for 41 years ...

Practicing Physician Here 1926-1951—

Dr. Samuel Asbury Harding

By GORDON TOMLINSON

The medical annals of Davie County could never be complete without relating the story of Dr. Samuel Asbury Harding. In the past we have carried the story of other doctors of Davie ... and this week we present the story of Dr. Harding.

Born on October 6, 1884 near Huntsville in Yadkin County, Samuel Asbury Harding was the oldest of ten children to be born to Greening.

bury and Elizabeth Steelman Harding. His early education was received at Huntsville. In 1900 his parents moved to Davie County and his education was continued at the school in Farmington. He attended the Clemmons Academy where he excelled in mathematics receiving a gold medal for outstanding mathematical achievements.

Graduating from the Clemmons Academy High School in 1905, he entered the North Carolina Medical College where he obtained his B. S. degree. While at the medical college he served as a waiter in the dining hall and did barge work for his fellow classmates to earn part of his tuition. He was secretary and treasurer of his graduating class.

Following his graduation from the University, as it is now known, he attended the Medical College of Charlotte, graduating in 1910.

Dr. Harding began his practice of medicine in his native Yadkin County. In 1911, he married Sarah Josephine Wilkins, daughter of Dr. George and Jennette Reavis Wilkins of Dallas, Texas and Courtney, N. C. They had one son, George Felix Harding.

Dr. Harding continued his practice of medicine around Courtney until 1926.

His first calls were made on horseback and by horse and buggy. He purchased one of the first Model T automobiles in the county.

In 1926 he moved his family to Mocksville and established offices in the Sanford building on the square. The office of the late Dr. J. W. Rodwell was housed in the same building, and they became close friends.

He remained at this location until 1936, when he and the late J. M. (Marsh) Horn constructed a building on the east side of the square in Mocksville ... still known today as the Harding-Horn Building. He practiced at this location until his retirement in 1950. However, declining health had forced him to go into semi-retirement by 1949.

In January 1931, Dr. Harding was named physician for the State Prison Camp in Davie County and served in this capacity until his semi-retirement in 1949.

During World War II he was Service Examiner for the Selective Service. During part of this time he was the only practicing physician in Mocksville and worked long hours making those examinations. For this work he was given a medal by the Congress of the United States.

Dr. Harding served as president of the Bank of Davie from 1934 to 1937, after which he served on the board of directors of the bank for a great number of years.

He was a charter member of the Mocksville Rotary Club which was organized in 1945. He was also a member of the Patriotic Order Sons of America (P. O. S. of A.) and the Lions Club. He was a member of the Mocksville Masonic Lodge No. 134, as well as the Rowan-Davie Medical Association, the North Carolina Medical Society, and the American Medical Association.

He was an active member of the First Baptist Church in Mocksville for many years and as chairman of and served as a trustee for a number of the finance committee.

An avid sportsman, he enjoyed hunting fox, coon, bird and deer. He had extensive farming interests, owning a dairy farm near Farmington for many years and operating several tobacco farms.

Someone once observed of Dr. Harding:

"He was a man who gave unselfishly of his time and talents in the practice of medicine, especially during World War II when he was subjected to long hours in devoting himself to the well-being of others. His love of his fellowmen was manifested many times by his kindness to all who called on him."

Dr. Harding died August 22, 1959 and was buried in the Cross Roads Baptist Church Cemetery in Yadkin County.

The highest of distinctions is service to others. — George V.

LEO F. WILLIAMS
County Farm Agent

EXPECTED YIELDS AND SOIL TESTS

The question is often asked, "What kind of yields can I expect if I follow the suggestions on the soil test report?" This is a very difficult question to answer says Leo F. Williams, County Extension Chairman. It is difficult because crop yields depend on many factors other than soil fertility, although fertility is one of the most important. Factors such as weather, soil adaptability and the level of management also greatly influence crop yields.

On the back of the first sheet of the soil test report form, expected yield ranges under different weather conditions and management levels are given for most crops. These expected yields are given as ranges because it is impossible to predict an exact yield with so many factors influencing the growth of the crop.

One should also remember that a soil test is most useful when used as a guide, reminds Mr. Williams. The suggested fertilizer practices given on the soil test report should be adapted by the farmer to the conditions existing on each particular farm or area. They may be raised or lowered depending on the yield desired; however, merely increasing the amount of fertilizer used will not insure a higher yield unless other production factors are favorable and good management practices are followed.

So remember, just having your soil tested and stopping there will not increase your yields; but following your soil test report suggestions should certainly help. Using your soil test report as a guide and following the best management practices will greatly increase your chances of making top yields and top profits.

Don't leave success to chance. While success can seldom be guaranteed it's wise to do everything in your power to favor it.

QUALITY PIG PRICES

According to B. G. Westbrook, Associate Agricultural Agent, Mocksville, quality pigs are selling for the highest price in several years.

One eastern North Carolina auction market recently sold pigs averaging about 45 pounds for $15.70 per head, or 55¢ per pound. This market, other eastern North Carolina auction markets, and big hog feeders evidently

TV Series Shows, How to Landscape Your Home

Watch "Landscaping Your Home," with Tarheel Gardener John Harris, on Sundays March 21-May 2; 1:00-1:30 p. m., Channel 12 on WJSJ-TV, Winston-Salem if you want to know more about landscaping your front and back yard.

That's the date and time for the next presentation of the "Landscaping Your Home" television series produced by the North Carolina Agricultural Extension Service, according to Leo F. Williams, County Extension Chairman.

And along with that show is another show the following week that continues the same basic thread of ideas entitled "Fitting Flowers to Your Plan" that you may want to watch also, Williams says.

These two shows are part of a series of 7 TV presentations on home landscaping. Host on these programs is John Harris, Tar Heel Gardener, Agricultural Extension Service, Raleigh.

The information in the shows is put together for the use of all homeowners, whether they live in the country or in town, Williams points out. Harris and his guests use a cartoon character to introduce each topic and plenty of pictures and models to show you what goes into a well-designed landscape.

If you have not yet seen one of these shows, you may want to make a special reminder to watch the next in the series.

Most Non-Partisan Board In State—

Davie's Non-Partisan School Board

The North Carolina General Assembly last week officially adopted SB-34 which provided for the appointment of members of the Davie County Board of Education by the N. C. General Assembly in a manner similar to that which is done for 87 other counties in the state.

In the hue and cry that surrounded the introduction and passage of this measure was lost a fact that is most significant . . . and that is . . . as the result of the persons named to the board by this bill . . . Davie County for the next two years will have the most non-partisan school board in the state. With a 3 and 3 breakdown . . . three Democrats and three Republicans . . . we cannot see how you can be any more non-partisan.

The eyes of the entire state will be on Davie County and its schools the next years to see if a non-partisan school board does work. If the members of this board demonstrate that they can put their party politics behind and cooperate and work together for the good and progress of the school system, then there can be a strong argument for the continuation of a non-partisan board not only in this county, but in other counties in the state.

We believe that the people of Davie County are more concerned with having a non-partisan board of education than they are in having a false non-partisan election. Senator James V. Johnson faced reality when he foresaw that another vote in this so-called non-partisan school board election would give Davie County the most partisan board ever created.

Now we have what most everyone has professed to want . . . a non-partisan school board. It will be up to them . . . it will be up to us . . . to see if it works and how it works. It is a challenge to be faced by Davie County with the rest of the state having more than a passing interest.

Our Willingness To Accept Changes—

The New Pupil Assignment Plan

There is much merit in the new pupil assignment method adopted by Davie County. This new procedure, adopted in an effort to comply with the 1964 Civil Rights Act, does away with district school lines and insofar as practical, gives the choice of school to the individual.

The new assignment plan provides for the assignment of pupils to schools in the county on the following criteria without regard to race, color or creed:

1. The preference indicated by the application of the pupil.
2. Whether the educational program of the pupil can be met by the school to which assignment is sought.
3. Capacity of the school sought to be entered.

4. The availability of space in schools.
5. The distance the pupil lives from the various schools.
6. The availability of personal or regular school bus transportation.

The aim and objective of this program is to give personal individual choice of the school to attend insofar as practical. However, this choice must be in conformance with criteria enumerated above, and not be a purely, selfish, individualistic choice.

The manner in which this method will workout depends on the people of this county . . . our willingness to give as well as our willingness to accept whatever changes may be required.

Founded March 15-17 In Paris, France—

American Legion Is 64 Years Old

During the month of March, The American Legion is observing its 46th anniversary. The Legion was founded March 15-17, 1919, during a caucus, attended by representatives of the various outfits of the American Expeditionary Force in Paris, France.

As these war weary delegates assembled for the Paris meeting, they brought with them the raw materials with which to build an association of veterans dedicated to a continuation of their service as civilians wherever needed through an expressed devotion to God and Country.

Today, The American Legion — made up of the men and women who served in the uniform of this nation during World War I, World War II, and the Korean War — continues its service of distinction to community, state and nation.

From its very beginning, the Legion has endeavored to develop a dynamic conviction of Americanism in order that the people of this great nation shall never lose sight of their precious heritage and future citizens shall be well instructed in their civic responsibilities.

The American Legion's program of national security is based on the premise that this nation's military strength shall be maintained at a level necessary to Champion the cause of peace and freedom against the challenge of would-be aggressors.

On this 46th anniversary of The American Legion we salute this organization and their millions of Legionnaires throughout the nation in their continued endeavors dedicated to God and Country.

NEWS AND COMMENT FROM OUR RALEIGH BUREAU
2615 Oberlin Road

NO REDUCTION? . . . Plans to bring along some relief from North Carolina's heavy income taxes may lie buried under the heavy requests the Moore administration is receiving for more and more money.

This fear was being expressed by many a legislator last week as the Governor finished work on his money message. That certain groups were in for some sore disappointments was indicated in advance gossip on the budget speech.

So, now you can add money to court reform as a definite legislative headache.

AILING . . . One of the grand old men of the Third House (the lobbyists), Fred Bowman of the bottlers and Chapel Hill, lies ill in New York recovering from the same kind of operation the Duke of Windsor recently underwent in a Texas hospital.

We would say that nobody has more friends among the legislators than Fred Bowman. He had hoped, of course, to get through the session without an operation; but on those ballooning blood vessels — a main artery, at that — there is no waiting. Since he is in one of the nation's best hospitals under one of the best doctors (his son), everybody expects and hopes for a fast recovery for Bottler Bowman.

OLD AGE . . . We note that Carl Goerch, alas, has reached the age of 73. In noting this recently, State Editor Bill Sharpe recalled that a friend says:

"A man is young when a woman can make him feel both happy and unhappy. He is middle-aged when she can make him happy but not unhappy. He is old when she can make him neither happy nor unhappy."

Sharpe remarked that a person is old when he pays close attention to the ages of people who have died. Another good sign of old age: when the obituary column is the newest section of the paper.

SETTLED AT LAST? . . . Do you recall all the hurrah of a couple of years back when the Democratic Party, was, with great fanfare apparently, going to move its offices from the Hotel Sir Walter to "somewhere else?"

Nobody knew where, of course, but move they were going to—and there was much speculation about the new place, etc. Well, now we come to complete circle. The Democrats have moved, all right, just as they said. How far? About 40 feet. And they had the official opening with prayer and ceremonies, open house, and all that, last week in the Hotel Sir Walter.

The corner they moved out of has now been named the North Hills Room, after one of Raleigh's beautiful shopping centers owned by one of the new owners of the Sir Walter and overseen so ably by Mrs. Roy Wilder, former society editor of the Charlotte Observer.

INTEGRATED PATROL . . . They aren't saying much about it, but as the State Highway Patrol moves gradually into its expanded program it is taking applications for Negro patrolmen.

Most cities in the State now have colored policemen performing their duties in a highly creditable manner. Their work in some areas of the South—and even more so in the North—as at time kept down racial strife.

Our knowledge, however, as of March 15 there is not a single Negro patrolman working the highways of North Carolina.

THE DIFFERENCE . . . And, speaking of highways, it has become popular for safety people to point to Connecticut as an example of what can be done to reduce deaths and injuries from automobiles.

Connecticut leads the field; and people in the know give you at least one good reason of why this is so: In Connecticut, the Governor appoints the judges and through them he can come up with highway safety standards and consistency as to sentences, etc.

The Governor of Connecticut can build a Statewide Highway Safety Program.

In North Carolina, and most other states, the judge of the district—sometimes elected, sometimes appointed and later elected — is a little king unto himself. It is frequently the case that the longer he is in, the more of a little caesar he becomes.

Thus you find in Tarheelia one judge tossing out the highly scientific and hard come by drunkometer test as no good and another leaning heavily upon it as the one best bit of evidence available.

Perhaps this is something the legislative lawyers might study as they sweat over that bit of legal myopia or utopia sometimes known as "Court Reform."

GREAT STATE . . . The man who laid the foundation for the 300 million dollar road bond program was W. Kerr Scott, who was Governor in 1949-53.

Gov. Dan Moore joined hands with the late Mr. Scott to bring to North Carolina a road building program the like of which we have not seen in more than ten years.

How did a man long dead have such a strong part in this new road project? Why was there not more resistance to the multi-million-dollar Moore Plan?

In 1949, when we voted on Kerr Scott's plan, a cent tax was put on each gallon of gas to retire the loan. There was a bitter fight against this increase in gas costs (and N. C. still ranks among the highest on gas taxes), but the road and school (a portion of the 1949 item went for schoolhouse construction) advocates won out.

Wilkes County gave the Scott bonds the largest percentage vote of any county in North Carolina, now has a tremendous water resort on the Yadkin named after W. Kerr Scott. Thus it is quite appropriate that Wilkes County roads — if promises and projections hold true—will get the largest single slice of the Moore bonds.

The extra gas tax added in 1949 will now be used to pay off the new highway indebtedness. Unlike Virginia, we pay as we ride. Up there, they pay; then ride. Our 1949 road-and-schools battle smoothed the way for the 1965 victory.

BONDS OVER TAXES . . . As of this past week end, it looked as if Gov. Moore might recommend more bonds—in lieu of new taxes—to provide new buildings needed by our institutions.

Through its technical publications and scientific meetings, teaching institutes, technical motion pictures, and other audio-visual aids, the American Heart Association and its affiliates transmit throughout the year a stream of new cardiovascular information to the nation's physicians and related professional personnel.

SENATOR SAM ERVIN SAYS

WASHINGTON — On February 20, 1967, Congress enacted a statute which created an Immigration Commission with directions that such Commission make a full inquiry into the subject of immigration and make such recommendations as in its judgment seemed proper. At that time, virtually all aliens desiring admission to the United States were accepted.

After a full inquiry into this subject, the Immigration Commission made a report to the Congress in which it suggested substantial restrictions upon immigration and recommended the passage of laws confining immigration to those immigrants who could be most readily assimilated into our way of life.

If it was desirable or necessary to restrict immigration in 1911, it is even more so today. This is true because the earth's population now totals 3 billion persons and is expected to double that number in 40 years. The population of the United States today is approximately 195 million and the Census Bureau predicts that it will rise to approximately 280 million by 1986. At the present moment, 4.2 million Americans are seeking in vain for jobs in which they might earn daily bread for themselves and their families and 7 million Americans are on public welfare.

Since much criticism is directed to the National Origins Quota System embodied in the McCarran-Walter Act, I wish to discuss briefly the provisions of this Act, which show that such criticism is unjustified. The National Origins Quota System has its germ in the report of the Immigration Commission in 1911, was first embodied in the law in 1924, and is designed to restrict immigration to those most readily assimilable by the United States.

It is designed to do these four things: (1) To limit the annual number of quota immigrants who can come to the United States. (2) To determine the nationalities of those who come so as to maintain the historic population pattern of the United States. (3) To put all quota nations on an equal footing. (4) To keep the immigration problem beyond the reach of politicians and pressure groups.

The McCarran-Walter Act restricts immigration. It puts the immigration problem under the control of the mathematicians rather than the politicians. It puts all nations to which it applies, which are the nations of the Eastern Hemisphere, upon an equal footing. It does this by providing that each nation in the Eastern Hemisphere shall have an annual immigration quota of 1/6 of 1 percent of the number of our people who trace their national origin to such country.

Any restriction upon immigration will be charged with being discriminatory against those who desire to come to America as immigrants and are denied the privilege to do so. If the United States is to have restricted immigration, it is going to have to admit some aliens and exclude others.

No fairer, workable formula has been devised than the National Origins Quota System of the McCarran-Walter Act, which assigns immigration quotas to countries on the basis of their respective contributions to the population of America.

To be sure, anyone is justified in condemning the National Origins Quota System if he believes in unrestricted immigration or if he dis-

Uncle Dave From Davie Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Seems like a heap of folks out our way was sick with colds and the Flu these days. I reckon this is the time of year fer it, with everybody wore down after a hard winter. Ed Doolittle, fer instance, has been in bed two days with a bad cold. I went by to see how he was getting along and his old lady said he had a "virus" but Ed told me confidentially it wasn't nothing but a old fashioned cold, said his old lady was just putting on airs with that "virus" stuff. As a general rule, country folks has to be pritty sick when they take to their bed. They can't afford it.

On account of Ed ain't felt like reading the papers, I brung him up to date on the state of the nation. When I got through with my report Ed said his cold was a heap worse.

Actual, Mister Editor, things ain't been too good in the papers all week. Even here at home matters got off to a bad start Sunday. Our preacher told the congregation they wasn't no money in heaven and they wasn't none in hell and he was wondering what them folks that was trying to save up so much of it aimed to do with it. Up to now I ain't been able to figger out the answer. Maybe it ain't got none.

And then I see where the Mayor of some town in Florida has issued a official proclamation asking the parents to teach the Ten Commandments to their younguns. This will be a mighty good chance fer the parents to learn 'em, too. And while we was discussing religious items in the news, I think I have come up with the answer with what's wrong with General DeGaulle. This piece in the papers says they was completing a survey made in Paris and it showed they had one fortune teller fer ever 120 citizens, a doctor fer ever 514 and a preacher fer ever 5,240 people. It looks like the General has been listening to too many fortune tellers and not enough preachers.

A couple items was in the papers from behind the Iron Curtain that was mighty interesting. A Washington column writer reported they had raised all the retail prices double in Shekolavium (If I ain't got it spelt right, Mister Editor, just sneeze) "to aid the workman." I reckon they figger harder work fer less money should speed up the end of their worldly troubles. That's the true Red philosophy.

And this piece said a Russia newspaper was claiming all American kids was hungry. That's about the only true statement I have ever saw from a newspaper in Russia.

All in all, Mister Editor, the news was mostly bad this week.

Yours truly,
Uncle Dave

60 Second Sermon

By FRED DODGE

TEXT: "Live within thyself and discover how small a stock there is" — Persius.

The story is told of the woman who visited her psychiatrist to talk about her troubles.

"Doctors," she said, "all of a sudden I stopped worrying and it worries me."

Personal anxiety builds passing incidents into problems because we live too much within ourselves. An out-going, out-giving person never has time to build an incident into a problem.

We like the receipt for being miserable printed in "Friendly Chats". It is guaranteed to be 100% infallible. "Think about yourself. Talk about yourself. Use 'I' as much as possible. Mirror yourself continually in the opinion of others. Listen greedily to what people say about you. Expect to be appreciated. Be on the lookout for a good time for yourself. Shirk your duties if you can. Do as little as possible for others. Love yourself supremely. Be selfish."

Practice that for even a brief period of time and the little package that is you, alone, is guaranteed to make you miserable.

WASHINGTON REPORT

Congressman James T. Broyhill

FAST-MOVING LEGISLATIVE PACE

During the last month, this session of Congress has hit its stride with scores of bills being guided through the Committees toward final floor debate. The pace is considerably faster than in recent Congresses and by mid-April, it looks now as though there will be many bills in mid-air to be juggled simultaneously.

Last week, my Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce saw its first major bill clear the House of Representatives. The legislation which I discussed in this column several weeks ago is intended to prevent the present illegal distribution and use of barbiturates, amphetamines, and other drugs affecting the central nervous system. Popularly known as "goof balls" and "pep pills", these chemical depressants and stimulants are being counterfeited and widely misused, often with shocking and tragic results. This needed legislation was approved by the impressive vote of 402-0 and now moves on to the Senate which agreed to a modified bill on this issue last year.

In the meantime, the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee is now considering important public health bills that may be ready for floor action soon.

ELDERCARE vs MEDICARE

Most Congressional offices are receiving a large volume of mail on the question of medicare care for the aged. My office is no exception as I receive scores of letters each day debating the merits of two plans that have become known as "medicare" and "eldercare." The "medicare" program is also known as the King-Anderson bill and would provide hospital and nursing home care benefits for the elderly financed through the Social Security system. It is the plan endorsed by the President. "Eldercare", or the Curtis-Herlong bill, would offer broader benefits by expanding the present Kerr-Mills program financed jointly by the Federal government and the States, with final details and administration left to the States. Both of these plans have strong support and strong opposition.

A large number of the letters I am receiving ask for information about what is contained in these plans and how they would apply in specific cases. A brief resume comparing these and two other proposals that have been offered is available and I will be pleased to furnish this information upon request.

With the debate of these two plans occupying so much public attention, the legislative situation developing behind the closed doors of the House Ways and Means Committee may add a new element to the debate. Actually, the Committee is considering a Social Security bill which, in many respects, may be similar to the bill passed by the House and Senate last year. This proposal floundered when the Senate attempted to add "medicare." The main change in the Social Security program that has met general agreement involved an increase for those now receiving benefits in order to make up for some of the increases in the cost of living since benefits were raised several years ago.

A new bill of this kind will be offered by the Ways and Means Committee. However, it will also include some provision for medicare care for the aged. All four of the principal medical care plans are under the jurisdiction of this Committee and they are being actively discussed in the Committee as it writes its omnibus bill in final form.

From what we can hear, the final result is likely to be a combination of elements from all or several of the plans. Key to what the Committee seems to be doing, however, is the so-called "Brynes bill," offered by the ranking minority member of the Committee. This plan presented early this year would establish a voluntary program of private health insurance for the elderly paid for by the Federal government and the individual to be insured.

It is still too early to predict what the Committee will do although it is possible that we will have a "layer cake" approach which will combine some form of a compulsory prepayment plan under Social Security plus a voluntary private health insurance plan. Liberalization of the present Kerr-Mills program with elements of "Eldercare" plan also seem likely.

Late this week or next, the Committee will finish its work and make its final decisions known. Whatever these decisions are, the picture has changed. The medical care for the aged recommendations will be far broader and more inclusive than seemed likely only a short time ago.

Slander is the revenge of a coward, and dissimulation his defence.

Library News

The story of Jugtown is almost a legend in North Carolina history. It is the tale of a Raleigh couple, Juliana and Jacques Busbee, who gave up their professions and went to the backwoods of Moore County to revive the dying pottery industry. It is the success story of a folkcraft which has brought business to the State and fame, dignity, and refinement to North Carolina pottery.

The Davie County Public Library is now featuring authentic Jugtown in the display case. You will find, also, books on pottery-making, with pictures of all kinds of interesting ceramic work. And if you want to identify any pieces of your own, you might find your answer in Kovell's Dictionary of Marks — Pottery and Porcelain. Come in and enjoy our latest display.

The Red Clay Reader

Whisnant, Ed.
This is the first issue of a new library magazine which is planned to give contemporary Southern writers, particularly those in North Carolina, an outlet for their work.

Charleen Whisnant, who edits the Red Clay Reader, is a poet and a teacher of creative writing at Queen's College. She has given an interesting account of her reasons for planning the magazine as she has. She wants it to be significant in terms of content and the number of readers it reaches. It will contain poetry, stories, essays and criticism along with art and photography. Approximately sixty per cent of the work will come from North Carolina writers, twenty to thirty per cent from other Southern writers and the remainder from the rest of the country. And isn't the Red Clay Reader the perfect name for a periodical devoted primarily to Southern writers?

This project will encourage our young writers in their efforts. It welcomes new and experimental work from all over the country. Says Mrs. Whisnant: "We believe that creative communication is possible, that it is crucial, that it is happening. We made the Red Clay Reader to gather and circulate this work."

The Red Clay Reader is waiting for you at your Davie County Public Library!

MACEDONIA

By MRS. C. W. LEE

Saturday was work day at Macedonia Moravian Church. The men gathered early in the morning to work on the church yard. More than 50 cedar trees were planted to make an outline for the church yard. Other men were busy cultivating the yard and sowing grass seed. While this was in progress the ladies of the church were busy preparing the noon meal for the men. At noon the group assembled in the fellowship hall and enjoyed a bountiful meal together. These work days turn out to be a real time of fellowship for the people and much work is also accomplished.

The following are on the sick list at the present time: J. H. Platt, Jr., is a patient at the Davie Hospital; Mrs. Bertha Todd is a patient in the Forsyth Memorial Hospital, she suffered a major stroke last week and is in critical condition; Mrs. Betty Fry is a patient in the Forsyth Memorial Hospital. Betty underwent surgery on Monday of this week; Mrs. Lola Douthit continues to be a shut-in at her home. Mrs. Douthit has shown great improvement in the past few days. In addition to these many of the people in the community have the flu and colds.

Attendance was good at Macedonia on Sunday. The people are enjoying the wonderful weather that we had over the week end. Plans are in full swing for Easter and the Graveyard service. The band has been practicing for several weeks in preparation for Easter and the graveyard service. Several visitors were present at Macedonia on Sunday. Visitors are always welcome and they are invited to return often and to make Macedonia their church home.

Mr. and Mrs. John Sparks visited Mr. and Mrs. Jim Ward recently.

The Rev. George Bruner was the luncheon guest Thursday of Mr. and Mrs. John Sparks.

The Rev. J. Taylor Loftin, Mrs. John Sparks, Mrs. Nan Ellis and Mrs. Kate Riddle attended the day of prayer Wednesday at the Christ Moravian Church. They visited Mrs. Lola Douthit afterwards. She is feeling better.

Billy Graham Film To Be Shown At The Cooleemee Baptist

is based on the story of two young people who actually visited the Fair during the first season of its operation. Pamela Baird, a Walt Disney national talent contest winner, whose career has included feature roles in a number of major studio productions and numerous top-ranking television productions, plays the role of a graduate nurse from Montana. Jean Luc Ray, making his acting debut, portrays a Swiss-French exchange student who is enrolled as an architect major at a New York University. The encounter of these two young people and their growing friendship during a day at the Fair, is the vehicle through which film viewers are at once entertained, informed and inspired.

The culture and heritage of many of the world's communities are emphasized by visits to a number of the colorful international pavilions and exhibition areas. Particularly noteworthy is a sequence filmed in the Belgian Village, one of the more recently completed Fair areas which preserves the charm and "old world" atmosphere of the European Continent. Another unusual sequence was filmed in the Spanish Pavilion where the Ballet Lorca from Barcelona staged a special routine for the World Wide Pictures' cameras.

The United States Pavilion with its Hall of Challenges and the Illinois Pavilion's treatment of the life and times of Abraham Lincoln are featured settings in the development of the contrasting backgrounds of Dorothy, the American girl from Ouster, Montana, and Eric, the Swiss student from Geneva.

The story climax takes place in the Billy Graham Pavilion where the wide-screen motion picture, "MAN IN THE 5th DIMENSION", makes its impact on the film's principals. This is the TODD-AO and Technicolor subject which has been playing to capacity audience that visit the Pavilion throughout the day. The young couple's impressions of the unusual cinema presentation become a symbol of the actual response by thousands who have found spiritual meaning and purpose to life amid the glitter and excitement of the New York World's Fair.

"WORLD'S FAIR ENCOUNTER" will be shown at First Baptist Church in Cooleemee on the Sunday Night of March 21 at 7:30 P. M.

BUY GIRL SCOUT COOKIES

COOKIES ANYONE?

Girl Scout Cookies — 372 cartons — 4404 boxes — arrived in Mocksville on Wednesday, 17 March. We have four kinds of Cookies to sell again this year — the favorite Chocolate Mint; the original Chocolate and Vanilla Cream Filled; the delicious—with-coffee Shortbread; the new child-appealing Peanut Butter Filled.

Why so many Cookies to sell this year? Because the Davie Neighborhood of Girl Scouts has grown so much! This year there will be five Troops from Cooleemee, Farmington and Mocksville and 167 Girl Scouts participating in the sale. Parents have been requested to sign permission slips allowing their daughters to take part in the Cookie Sale. Per usual, Brownies do not sell Cookies.

Cookies will go on sale Friday, 19 March and continue through 29 March. They cost 50c per box — regardless of kind. However, the "bonus" received by individual Troops will be higher this year — 10% per carton — 80c per carton or 3c per box. When all Cookies are sold, we will have $2,232.00 in the Bank. Of this, 223.20 will come back to the Girl Scouts in Davie County.

We are asking the good people of Davie County to purchase Girl Scout Cookies from the Girl Scouts during the ten day sale — whether from the individual Scout who comes to your door or from one of the Cookie Stations that will be in operation on Saturdays. Davie has the reputation of selling more Cookies per capita than any of the other neighborhoods in the Pilot Area Council. Help us keep up this good record.

Remember — "Cookie Sales Blazes Camping Trails" and that is where the money from the Cookie Sale goes — toward purchasing and developing new property and doing major or improvements on our property at Roaring Gap. Our Goal this year is 65,000 boxes of Cookies and $32,500.00 for Pilot Area Girl Scout Council. That's a lot of money — but Davie Girl Scouts can and will do their share! Mrs. Jack Sanford, Cookie Chairman.

The water you cook it in boils faster on an electric range.

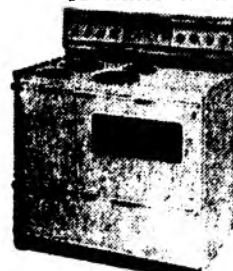

So supper's on sooner!

You can't even begin cooking until the water boils. But with a new high-speed surface unit you can actually bring two full quarts of water to a rolling boil in less than six minutes — faster than any other way!

The reason is simple enough: more efficiency. Since there's direct contact between the cooking utensil and surface unit, heat goes directly to pots and pans, not around them into the kitchen air.

Visit your favorite electric appliance dealer or Duke Power and find out how you can cook faster and cleaner the electric way.

Social Security In Davie County

Self-employed people have a dual responsibility when it comes to filing their 1964 Federal income tax returns, according to Taft McCoy, social security field representative in Davie County. They must not only complete Form 1040, but must also complete either Schedule "c" or Schedule "F" to figure the amount of net earnings from their trades or businesses to be reported for social security purposes. The deadline for filing the tax returns is April 15.

McCoy stated that self-employed businessmen and farmers are required by law to report net earnings from the operation of businesses and pay the social security tax if net earnings amount to $400 or more for the year.

McCoy emphasized the importance of completing all appropriate items on the Form 1040 as well as the Schedule "C" or "F". Prompt and accurate reporting is essential to assure social security protection for self-employed people and their dependents. Earnings are not correctly reported, potential benefits may be reduced or lost entirely.

McCoy also pointed out that if for some reason a self-employed person failed to report self-employment income for 1961, he has until April 15, 1965, to make the report. After that date, no credit can be given for that year.

As a final reminder, McCoy stated that the self-employed person should be sure to show his correct social security account number on the tax return to assure himself that he will receive full credit for his earnings.

For more information regarding taxes and tax return forms, get in touch with your Internal Revenue office. For information about social security benefits, visit your social security office at 105 Corriher Avenue, Salisbury, N. C.

New Economic Opportunity Program—

Opportunity Loans to Finance Co-op

Rural cooperatives financed through the new nationwide Economic Opportunity Program may prove to be the key to higher living standards for some Davie County families.

Clarence Sink, Farmers Home Administration county supervisor, said today that processing, marketing, purchasing and servicing cooperatives made up mostly of farm and other rural families with limited incomes in Davie County may be eligible for financial assistance.

Farmers Home Administration, a credit agency of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, now has authority to finance local cooperatives of rural families with limited incomes that furnish such services as:

1. Marketing of fruits and vegetables produced on family farms, handicraft and other home-produced goods.
2. Processing services including canning, freezing, grading, washing, and packing.
3. Purchasing equipment and services, including machinery and equipment for improvement of agricultural land, breeding services, and other supplies and services essential for farm and home needs.

Loans are repayable over periods up to 30 years. They carry an interest rate of 4% percent.

MORE ABOUT Senator Ervin Says:

approves of the kind of people now living in the United States.

Despite the restrictions placed upon immigration by the McCarran-Walter Act, 10.8 percent of the new additions to our population each year are immigrants admitted under the provisions of the Act and certain other special legislation. It is obvious that the assimilation of such immigrants is necessary to our unity as a nation and that immigrants are most readily assimilated if their cultural backgrounds are similar to those of the large components of our population.

Two prominent leaders of the Pino-Farmington community were honored last Saturday night for their outstanding work in community improvement.

Mrs. J. H. Montgomery and James E. Essic were honored by the Pino-Farmington community for their outstanding contributions to the community during the past years. Both were awarded loving cups and their names will be engraved on a community-center plaque to which the names of future award winners will be added.

This is the third annual award with previous winners being Mrs. Queen Bess Kennen and Wade Groce in 1963; and Miss Vada Johnson and C. Harmon McMahan in 1964. Miss Johnson and Mr. McMahan presented the awards at the banquet held last Saturday night in the Farmington School cafeteria. Attending were the participants in the Farmington Community Development program and many special guests.

Robert Newsom, director of rural development of the Northwest, was the featured speaker. Mr. Newsom spoke on "Getting New Industry In Rural Communities".

Eddie Newsome, President of the Farmington-Pino Community Development Association, presided over the program.

In presenting Mrs. Montgomery as the winner, Miss Johnson called her the "Florence Nightingale" of the Farmington community and cited her many areas of service.

Mr. Essic was cited by Mr. McMahan for his work with the Pino Grange, the Farmington Volunteer Fire Department, in obtaining the medical center and other phases of community development work.

Officers of the Pino-Farmington Community Development Association were re-elected in a brief business session. Eddie Newsome was re-elected president; Batry Smith, vice-president; and Mrs. Eddie Newsome, secretary-treasurer.

First '65 Highway Fatality Occurs Monday

Davie Man Killed in Wreck

Davie's first highway fatality of 1965 occurred around 8:25 a.m. Monday in a collision between a 1955 Mercury and a tractor-trailer on U.S. 64, two miles east of Mocksville.

Bennie Joseph Morris, 42, of Rt. 4, Mocksville, was killed when he was thrown from the car and believed run-over by the tractor-trailer as it went down the embankment. Morris' body was mutilated almost beyond recognition.

State Highway Patrolman K. N. Bolick said that his investigation disclosed the following: Morris was operating the 1955 Mercury and was heading West on U.S. 64 to his work at Heritage Furniture Company in Mocksville. The tractor-trailer (a 1962 White owned by the Newton Transportation Company of Lenoir) was heading east being operated by Wilson Icehour, 37, of Lenoir, Rt. 1.

Patrolman Bolick said that Morris was traveling behind another car. This car slowed down to avoid pieces of wood in the roadway and Morris, apparently in the effort to slow down his vehicle, slid sideways into the left lane into the path of the tractor-trailer which hit the Mercury broadside on the right side. The collision occurred in the east-bound traffic lane. The car was knocked backward some 50 feet across the road to the west side and down an embankment. The tractor-trailer continued off the right shoulder and turned over down an embankment.

Ark Motel Re-opens Under New Management

The Ark Motel, located just outside of Mocksville on US 601 North, has reopened under new management.

Taylor Campbell of Winston-Salem announced this week that he had leased the Ark Motel with the option to buy from its present owner, L. R. Harkey. Mr. Campbell is now operating the motel and plans to open the restaurant in the near future.

Mr. Campbell has been associated with the motel and restaurant business for the past eleven years.

"We are completely remodeling the Ark Motel . . . installing wall-to-wall carpeting . . . repainting, etc.," said Mr. Campbell.

Legion Post Tops Membership Drive

Information received here from Department Headquarters of The American Legion in Raleigh indicates that Mocksville Post No. 174 has conducted a highly successful membership drive.

E. L. Short, Commander of the Post, has received a letter from Department Adjutant Nash McKee reporting that Post No. 174 has exceeded its Legion Membership incentive goal for 1965. The Legion Adjutant expressed congratulations and thanks to the Post leaders and membership workers for their effort.

A statement of high praise for the local Post was issued by Leroy S. Lakey, of Charlotte, North Carolina Department Commander of The American Legion.

Commander Lakey said, "The membership of every Legionnaire makes it possible for The American Legion to maintain service for the sick and disabled in hospitals. Memberships make possible all the Legion programs; such as care for needy children, baseball, Boys' State, Boy Scout Troop, Oratorical Contests, Community Service and all the others. I am proud to congratulate Post No. 184 upon this notable achievement."

Post Commander Short explained that the "Roll Call" theme of this year's drive was to remind all war veterans of their service to their country which makes them eligible to become Legionnaires.

"We are accepting dues payments now from Legionnaires and eligible veterans whose membership is essential if the local organization is to continue its service programs," Commander Short stated. Also, he reported that the Post is planning to expand its local programs and activities, depending on the final results of the 1965 membership drive.

Contracts To Be Awarded April 13th— Library Construction Bids Sought

An advertisement for sealed bids on the construction of the new Davie County Public Library appears in this issue of the Enterprise. It is provided that these sealed bids be received by the Davie County Commissioners in the assembly room of the Davie County Office Building at 3 p.m. on April 13, 1965.

Charles Morrison Grier, architect of Charlotte, have supplied complete plans and specifications. These are open for inspection in the Charlotte and Greensboro Associated General Contractors of America; in the Charlotte and Greensboro Plan Rooms of the F. W. Dodge Corporation; or may be obtained from the office of Chas. Morrison Grier, 1408½ Morehead St. in Charlotte by qualified bidders.

The construction of the new library facilities received the "go ahead" last week with the formal approval of the various state agencies.

Construction on the new facilities is expected to begin shortly after the awarding of bids on April 13, 1965.

The new facilities, expecting to cost around $160,000, will be constructed on North Main Street in Mocksville on what was formerly the Dodd property. More than $93,979 was raised in a fund drive by Davie County and this will be augmented by $68,000 in state and federal funds.

Machines have had a profound effect on farm output. Only one man is needed now to do the farm work that four did in 1930.

Civil Defense Program Presented By Specialist

Ernest Stallings, Extension Specialist of Rural Civil Defense at North Carolina State College in Raleigh, gave Davie residents a most timely and interesting program last week. His topic, "Radioactive Fall-out Is Of Importance To Every Individual."

Leaders from the various communities and representatives from local volunteer fire departments were present to hear Mr. Stallings define nuclear fall-out and explain the dangerous effect upon human beings as well as livestock.

Open discussion followed the talk with slides by Mr. Stallings. Those present were interested in what county residents could do to be prepared for any type of radioactive fall-out emergency.

Facts About Easter Seals

PURPOSE: The National Society for Grippled Children and Adults, oldest and largest voluntary agency serving the crippled in the United States, attacks the problem of crippling with a nation-wide program of direct care and treatment, research and education.

PROGRAM: Specialized treatment of the crippled is given through facilities and programs of 1426 state and county affiliates in the 50 states, District of Columbia and Puerto Rico. Service are adapted to specific community needs and include rehabilitation and treatment centers, residential centers, sheltered workshops, resident and day camps, itinerant, mobile and home therapy, equipment loan, and home employment programs. Treatment is given only by qualified professional persons. The Easter Seal Society with some 3,700 employees, is the largest employer of therapists in the nation, with the exception of federal government agencies. A national Professional Advisory Council and many state and local councils made up of distinguished medical and rehabilitation authorities counsel in the conduct of service programs. Care and treatment is given each year to nearly a quarter of a million crippled children and adults regardless of cause of crippling, age, race, or religion.

FINANCING: Cost of the nationwide program is nearly $22 million, financed mainly by the annual Easter Seal Campaign, to which some six million Americans voluntarily contribute. Legacies and special gifts also constitute a substantial share. Approximately 90 per cent of all funds are retained within the state where raised, to support direct care of crippled children and adults. Davie County residents are asked to please send in their contributions to help in this great cause.

The new addition is being constructed by the J. L. Wilson Construction Company. The building is completely closed-in, the floors and ceilings finished, and the workmen are now engaged in installing the room partitions.

Mr. Neil announced that the new kitchen would probably be put into use within the next two months.

New Addition To Be Completed By August—

Davie Hospital Seeks Bids on Equipment

The Davie County Hospital is seeking bids on approximately $107,000 worth of equipment to be utilized when the hospital expands into its new facilities early this fall.

The advertisement for the sealed proposals and the equipment list appears elsewhere in this issue. The bids will be open by the hospital board of trustees at 2 p. m. on Tuesday, April 30th in the assembly room of the Davie County Office Building.

Paul E. Neil, Jr., Davie Hospital Administrator, said that the new addition should be completed by the middle of August and if so would be in use by September.

"The new addition will give us a total of 50 beds . . . 29 more than we now have," said Mr. Neil.

Mr. Neil also revealed that the operation of the Davie Hospital with the increase in facilities would require a staff of around 100, necessitating the addition of around 36 more personnel.

The new addition is being constructed by the J. L. Wilson Construction Company. The building is completely closed-in, the floors and ceilings finished, and the workmen are now engaged in installing the room partitions.

Four Vehicles Involved In Wreck Sunday Afternoon

An estimated total of $3,150 in damages resulted from a wreck involving four vehicles Sunday afternoon two miles west of Mocksville on U. S. 64. The accident occurred around 1:55 p.m.

Involved was a 1964 International tractor-trailer, operated by John Ervin Carswell, 27, of Baltimore, Md., which was damaged around $2,000; a 1951 Ford operated by Paul Dale Carpenter, 16, of Statesville, Route 6, damaged around $200; a 1964 Ford Station Wagon operated by Carroll Hayes Lance, 25, of West Asheville which was damaged around $600; and a 1965 Pontiac operated by Edwin Ostwalt, 40, of Wavercross Drive, Winston-Salem, which was damaged around $350.

State Highway Patrolman K. N. Bolick said that the tractor-trailer was heading east on U.S. 64 traveling behind the 1951 Ford. Carswell said he applied brakes to stop for the Ford and the tractor skidded into the left lane forcing the Pontiac, which was heading west, into a ditch striking a culvert. The tractor-trailer then sideswiped the '64 Ford Station Wagon in the left lane and forced it into a ditch. Then the tractor-trailer jack-knifed and struck a bank on the right side. The trailer broke loose and the top left corner of the trailer fell on the trunk lid of the '51 Ford as the trailer toppled on its left side in the highway.

There were no serious injuries. Carswell was charged with exceeding safe speed.

Sponsored By Ministerial Association—

Chaplain Program At Hospital

A voluntary chaplaincy program is now in operation at the Davie County Hospital.

Sponsored by the Davie County Ministerial Association, this program began on March 15th. Under this program the ministers volunteer for this work and are scheduled to serve one week at a time. The hospital administration, the medical staff, the board of trustees, and other hospital personnel are cooperating with the ministers in this program.

Del Suggs, pastor of the Fork Baptist Church, has been elected chaplain supervisor.

Mr. Suggs pointed out that months of preparation have gone into the chaplaincy program. Local ministers attended clinics in the pastoral care at the N. C. Baptist Hospital. Plans and policies were agreed upon in ministerial workshops, and the hospital administrator met with the ministers in establishing a working relationship within the hospital.

The ministers in the Davie County Ministerial Association who volunteer and who meet the association's adopted standard of training, are scheduled to serve on a weekly basis. During this week of service, the chaplain is on call 24-hours a day to meet emergency situations. In addition, the chaplains for the week spend about two hours a day at the hospital.

During the first week the program went into effect the chaplains made over ninety visits.

Also as a part of this program, the chaplains notify local churches when their members are hospitalized. Patients without local church connections are attended by chaplains.

Paul Neil, Davie County Hospital administrator, termed the voluntary chaplain program as a definite asset to the hospital and it's patients.

"There is a definite need for the chaplain in every hospital and we are most fortunate to have ministers in Davie County who are willing to give their time and efforts to the patients and families at the Davie County Hospital. I sincerely hope that every patient and their family will take advantage of this program should they desire to do so," said Mr. Neil.

EATON'S BAPTIST

Sunday, March 21, was Youth Sunday for Eaton's Baptist Church.

Young People took the places of the church officers and Sunday School teachers. Those taking these positions were: Youth Week Speakers, Johnny Rummage, Richard Carter, Lindsay Merrell, Jimmy Eaton and Eddie Leagans; Choirister, Eddie Merrell; Pianists, Sharon Howell, Sarah Merrell and Sallie Richie; Sunday School Superintendent, Darrell Dyson; Sunday School teachers, Sallie Richie, Harold Latham, Elizabeth Eaton, Patricia Latham, Nancy Randall, Donnie Davis, Larry Richie, Mrs. Lennie Sheets and Eddie Merrell; Training Union Director, Charles Eaton.

"The church is proud of its young people and desires to encourage their spiritual growth as well as physical and mental. The world needs spiritually minded young people as never before," said the pastor.

Accepting only volunteers enables the Air Force to be more selective in its recruiting function. This selectively allows the Air Force to choose the highly qualified young men needed to man the complex technological skill levels required to operate the modern air arm, Sgt. Bunn concluded.

Air Force Continues Under Volunteer Plan

The Air Force will continue to be an all volunteer force according to MSgt. Clement H. Bunn, local Air Force Recruiter.

Sgt. Bunn denied rumors that the Air Force plans to participate in the draft. The Air Force has historically been a volunteer force and has experienced no difficulty in obtaining between 80,000 and 100,000 volunteers annually to fill its ranks.

The Air Force is convinced that long term personnel objectives are better served with a volunteer force. Retention rates, morale, and incentive factors are higher with volunteers than with draftees.

Accepting only volunteers enables the Air Force to be more selective in its recruiting function. This selectively allows the Air Force to choose the highly qualified young men needed to man the complex technological skill levels required to operate the modern air arm, Sgt. Bunn concluded.

Davie Students Attending N.C. Advancement School

Davie County will have seven among the 350 eighth grade students attending the North Carolina Advancement School in Winston-Salem during the next three months.

In addition, James Edward McBride, teacher of advanced science at the Davie County High School, will also become a member of the faculty at this special school.

The students from Davie participating in this school are:

George Randall McDaniel, son of Mrs. Dorothy Hellard of Mocksville, Route 3, of the Shady Grove Elementary School.

Henry Lee Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Jones, of the Mocksville Elementary School.

Chris Spry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Grady F. Spry, Jr., of Coolee Elementary School.

Frankie Garwood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold F. Garwood, of Coolee Elementary School.

Michael Anthony Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Gene Miller, of the Farmington Elementary School.

Samuel Lee Rose, son of Mr. and Mrs. Artis Lee Rose, of the Central Davie Elementary School.

Richard Harvey McCuiston, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. McCuiston, of the Smith Grove Elementary School.

The North Carolina Advancement School is an experimental residential school for students of average or better potential who are achieving at below grade level according to standardized achievement tests. The school aims at development such as basic skills as reading, writing, arithmetic and studying, as well as the promotion of attitudes which lead to effective performance.

The 350 eighth grade students at the school are joined by 50 classroom teachers to assist the permanent staff with the preparation and evaluation of the instructional program in the school. The visiting faculty are both teachers and learners in that an important part of their work will be an in-service program designed to increase their classroom effectiveness.

The general objectives of the project are:

(1) To determine specifically what recently developed materials and techniques will help to alleviate educational disadvantages in the eighth grade with emphasis on students of average or better potential who are achieving from one to three grades below national norm.

(2) To develop new materials and techniques to raise further the achievement levels and aspirations of these students.

(3) To work with classroom teachers in arranging suitable curricular materials so that these materials can be used easily in selecting local schools.

The school is supported by grants from the U. S. Office of Education, the State of North Carolina and the Carnegie Corporation of New York City.

Fine Arts Festival To Be Revived At UNC In Chapel Hill

This April the University of North Carolina will revive the custom of having a Festival of Fine Arts, which was begun originally by Professor Richard Adler in 1944. Plans are being made to establish the festival on a permanent biennial basis, so that it will alternate with the presentations of the Carolina Symposium.

The festival is a concerted effort of the University and the entire educational community of Chapel Hill to bring to the campus for a series of lectures, panels, and performances, outstanding speakers and entertainers in the various fields of fine arts.

The theme of the festival is "Encounter: Arts and the University," and the purpose of the 1965 Carolina Festival is twofold. During this week such renowned artists as Peter Nero, Jacques Barzun, and William Schumann will perform and speak in collaboration with the University's own productions of a William Schumann symphony and the play "Billy Budd." In addition, a group of distinguished scholars and critics will discuss some of the problems arising out of the new position of the university in the fine arts.

WHAT POTASH LEVELS SHOULD YOU MAINTAIN IN YOUR SOILS?

Many of the soils of North Carolina are inherently low in potash according to Dr. Preston Reid, Head of the N. C. Department of Agriculture's Soil Testing Division. Fertilizers which contain a high proportion of potash must be used on these soils to produce good yields of quality crops.

The heavier soils of the Piedmont and Mountains can be raised to higher levels than can the sandy soils of the Coastal Plain. Long time experiments have shown that very large potash applications are needed to maintain the sandy soils at a high level. From a practical viewpoint it appears most sandy soils should be maintained at a medium level whereas the heavier textured soils should be maintained at medium to high levels. Most crops appear to grow nearby as well at the medium level as at the high level. Generally, soils can be maintained at the medium level by moderate maintenance applications applied yearly.

Applications of potash to build the level of the soil should be looked upon as an investment in the future productivity of the land. Dr. Reid continued. Building the fertility of the soil to a medium level of potash has resulted in higher yields of better quality crops than has small yearly applications to meet the requirements of each individual crop.

The only way you can tell if you have adequate potash levels in your soil is by having the soil tested. If the soil is low in potash, more potash will be suggested than is needed by the crop to build the level in the soil. If the soil tests medium or high, only the amounts needed to maintain the medium level will be suggested.

Soil fertility levels can be built more easily by applying the increased amounts of potash to crops such as corn or cotton where large amounts of plant materials are returned to the soil. Crops such as silage corn and hay, in which most of the plant material is removed from the land, will remove very large amounts of potash. Very little improvement can be expected in soil levels of potash where these crops

Local Doctors To Study Serious Lung Infections

The care of patients with two serious lung infections will be discussed by a Philadelphia chest specialist at an 11 county meeting of Piedmont North Carolina physicians in Asheville on Thursday, March 25.

Dr. E. Wayne Marshall, Jr., of the University of Pennsylvania Medical School will discuss the importance of recognizing chronic bronchitis at 5:30 p.m. and will stress the diagnosis and treatment of unresolved pneumonia at 7:30 p.m.

Chronic bronchitis is a common but often unrecognized disease of modern civilization. Complications of the disease are serious and may be fatal.

Unresolved pneumonia is a lung infection which fails to respond to ordinary drug treatment. It may be caused by drug-resistant bacteria.

Both medical sessions will be held at the Asheville Country Club, with dinner scheduled at 8:45 p.m.

This is the fourth of a six-session postgraduate course in medicine sponsored by the Randolph County Medical Society, the University of North Carolina School of Medicine and the UNC Extension Division. The two final sessions are set for April 8 and April 15.

The series of Asheville meetings is for physicians from the 11-county area of Alexander, Cabarrus, Davidson, Davie, Forsyth, Guilford, Iredell, Montgomery, Randolph, Rowan and Stanly.

Dr. Marshall is head of the Department of Chest Diseases at Pennsylvania Hospital in Philadelphia and Bryn Mawr Hospital in Bryn Mawr, Pa., and is chief of diseases of the chest of Philadelphia General Hospital. He is associated in the practice of internal medicine and diseases of the chest with Dr. David A. Cooper, a North Carolinian.

Scope of Sports

By Woody Durham

Except for a few remaining All-Star games (East-West game on Channel 2, Saturday at 2:00 p.m.) the basketball season is all over. U.C.L.A. and St. John's walked off with the major college championships. The Bruins won the NCAA title at Portland, Oregon, and the Red-men captured the NIT crown in New York.

With this year's play barely over, I already have a prediction about next season. The Player of the Year will be Cazzie Russell of Michigan. This six-six junior from Chicago, a second year All-American, led the Wolverines to the Big Ten title, the Number One national ranking and runner-up honors to the national championship. Cazzie is one of the game's greatest pressure players. He won the Wichita contest during the regular season with a last second basket, and in the Mid-East Regionals at Lexington, Kentucky, it was his late surge that lifted Michigan over stubborn Vanderbilt 87-85. No question about Princeton's Bill Bradley getting the honor this year, but next season, barring unforeseen injuries and the like, this distinction will go to Michigan's Cazzie Russell.

The close of the roundball campaign is cause to ponder and reflect on some of the memorable things witnessed during the past three and one-half months. Without a doubt, the best college player in North Carolina this year was Davidson's Fred Hetzel. If he gets the right kind of deal watch for him to make it big in the pros. He's got all the abilities. Fayetteville's Rusty Clark gets my vote as the state's best high school player. It took quite a bit of thought before I picked the six-ten Bulldog stalwart over Pete Maravich of Raleigh, the son of State Coach Press Maravich. Clark is headed to Carolina on a Morehead scholarship, and Maravich will prep a year at Edwards Military Institute before returning to help Dad out.

Out of all the games I saw this year the best one was the State-Duke battle in the finals of the ACC Tournament. Seems the better games are always deciding championships. The Wolfpack won it, 91-85, simply because they wanted it more than the Blue Devils. State was also involved in the worst game of the year, and that was the loss to Princeton in the NCAA Eastern Regionals. It's hard to believe any team could hit only 25 per cent of its shots from the field, but it happened to State as only 17 of 66 shots found their mark. On the other hand, the hottest shooting performance was turned in by Carolina in its game against NYU at the Greensboro Coliseum. The Tar Heels shot 70 per cent for the game including a "red hot" 80 per cent in the second half which almost burnt the net off the rim. That game lifted Carolina out of the doldrums and put the heels on a seven game winning streak, but Wake Forest popped the bubble in the opening round of the ACC Tournament.

So another season has come to an end, and as usual there were the normal surprises and disappointments. Before you know it, however, Oct. 15 will be here and those stored basketballs will be coming out of mothballs for the start of practice. Until then, that little man in the blue suit with the bird cage on his face is hollering, "play ball."

The United States is the world's largest exporter of farm products. In 1962 when the U. S. supplied one-fifth of the total world exports, an average of 12 shiploads of farm commodities were shipped from this country every day of the year.

This is to acknowledge with a sincere "thank you", your contribution to the Davie County LIBRARY BUILDING FUND.

Appealing new books for young people, now on your library shelves: "Black Hearts in Battersea" by Aiken.

A wild and woolly mystery, this free-wheeling adventure has vitality and humor and a distinctive charm which will delight the young and old, and everyone in between. Young Simon survives an unexpected sea voyage, and encounter with wolves and wild balloon ride over the English countryside.

"Sea Fever," by Peyton.

Only a writer who is also a sailor intimately acquainted with the hazards of North Sea waters could have written this shattering dramatic and realistically told story of a young boy living a dangerous life with men of skill and courage who "live by permission of the sea."

"Marco Polo's Adventures in China," by Rugoff.

A truly beautiful book with an interesting text and numerous illustrations, many of them reproductions of ancient art and maps, shown in beautiful muted colors. Anyone who sees this will wish he could have shared those adventures! "The Shinty Boys," by MacPherson.

A remarkably fine story about boys who have adventures with their favorite game, shinty, (somewhat like hockey) on the Isle of Skye. The author, who lives there herself, gives a vivid picture of life on the island.

If you are a social security beneficiary and you are under 72, you must report to the Social Security Administration if you are returning to work and expect your earnings for the year to exceed $1200.

explains how today's planes, ships, and missiles are safely guided along predetermined courses.

Students will also see the Exploding Wire Phenomenon. Using the principle of stored energy, a 10-watt power supply furnishes over 30-million watts in an instant to demonstrate the electrical disintegration of a fine wire. This phenomenon may someday propel space vehicles.

Other Previews demonstrations include examples of the wonder of modern chemistry and a capsule history of jet propulsion traced from 200 B. C. to futuristic gas turbine power.

Previews of Progress has already been seen by more than 32 million American students and adults. The demonstrations, constantly updated to keep pace with recent technological advances and presented in easy to understand non-technical language, have proved to be a big hit with students around the globe. Nearly seven million persons in Latin America, Europe, Africa, Australia, and New Zealand have seen the show.

At the request of the U. S. Department of Commerce, GM recently equipped and trained special units of the show for appearances at five International Trade Fairs in South America and the Near East.

One of the highlights of the show is a fuel cell, a device that converts chemical energy into electrical power. Potentially one of the most significant scientific developments of the century, the fuel cell manufactures electricity with much greater efficiency than is now obtained from conventional power plants.

In the show, a few drops of "liquid sunshine" added to the cells provide enough energy to operate a portable radio.

Another example of solar energy, the amazing Sunmobile, will be demonstrated. The 15 inch model car depends on eight photoelectric cells for its operation. The button-like cells on the hood of the car convert light rays into electricity which drives a small electrical motor inside the car. A 300-watt lamp is used to simulate the sun's rays in the show. As the light strikes the cells, the Sunmobile moves smoothly across a table.

In addition to sun power, the Previews audience will see an air bearing platform in operation. This small platform, supported by three large circular pads, is designed to slide over any flat surface on a thin layer of air.

The operation of the Previews platform is simple. A small blower forces air through the three pads, creating a thin layer of air between the pads and the floor. The air eliminates nearly all sliding friction, enabling easy mobility of the platform.

Another Previews sequence illustrates principles used in modern guidance systems. A student volunteer will manipulate a suitcase with "a mind of its own" as the lecturer

The demonstrations, constantly updated to keep pace with recent technological advances and presented in easy to understand non-technical language, have proved to be a big hit with students around the globe. Nearly seven million persons in Latin America, Europe, Africa, Australia, and New Zealand have seen the show.

At the request of the U. S. Department of Commerce, GM recently equipped and trained special units of the show for appearances at five International Trade Fairs in South America and the Near East.

One of the highlights of the show is a fuel cell, a device that converts chemical energy into electrical power. Potentially one of the most significant scientific developments of the century, the fuel cell manufactures electricity with much greater efficiency than is now obtained from conventional power plants.

In the show, a few drops of "liquid sunshine" added to the cells provide enough energy to operate a portable radio.

Another example of solar energy, the amazing Sunmobile, will be demonstrated. The 15 inch model car depends on eight photoelectric cells for its operation. The button-like cells on the hood of the car convert light rays into electricity which drives a small electrical motor inside the car. A 300-watt lamp is used to simulate the sun's rays in the show. As the light strikes the cells, the Sunmobile moves smoothly across a table.

In addition to sun power, the Previews audience will see an air bearing platform in operation. This small platform, supported by three large circular pads, is designed to slide over any flat surface on a thin layer of air.

The operation of the Previews platform is simple. A small blower forces air through the three pads, creating a thin layer of air between the pads and the floor. The air eliminates nearly all sliding friction, enabling easy mobility of the platform.

Another Previews sequence illustrates principles used in modern guidance systems. A student volunteer will manipulate a suitcase with "a mind of its own" as the lecturer explains how today's planes, ships, and missiles are safely guided along predetermined courses.

The Successful Library Fund Drive—

Pride In Accomplishment

Citizens of Davie County can take great pride in both their efforts and results relating the drive to secure funds for new county library facilities.

The announcement last week that a total of $93,979.10 had been raised by Davie County and its friends brought with it not only a sense of elation but also that deep inner satisfaction that can come only with the accomplishment of a goal.

Davie actually needed around $89,000 as its part on the new library facilities. The goal was logically set at the round figure of $90,000. And actually raised was almost $4,000 more than this goal.

Much credit for the success of this drive goes to Knox Johnstone, who served as chairman, and his committee composed of Mrs. P. M. Johnson and H. R. Hendrix, Jr. The organization, the planning and the personal effort put forth resulted in confidence, desire and determination on the part of their co-workers . . . citizens of the county . . . and our friends now living elsewhere.

It is always a tribute to a country when those now living elsewhere reach back to lend a helping hand . . . and this was done by quite a few in the recent library drive. To these friends Davie County will always be indebted and challenged to continually look ahead and put its best foot forward.

Everyone Is Responsible For Safety—

Obedience Of Law Through Choice

It's a lovely afternoon. The car windows are down, the radio softly playing songs of spring and you're merrily cruising along the highway.

Suddenly you see a familiar sight — a highway patrol car. Does that slow you down? Do you only give serious thought to careful driving when you see a trooper, or when you're in a vicinity where you think one might be?

If so, and we say it frankly, you probably were not operating within the law.

If you are a good driver you'll be within the law and safe driving limits at all times.

Safety legislation is high on the agenda of our lawmakers currently in session. Yet it is stranger indeed that even with effective safety laws on the books so many drivers disregard them "if I can get away with it."

The very opposite, of course, should be true. Every driver should obey the laws no matter who's looking. In other words everyone should, must is a better word, be his own policeman.

Some believe that a few miles over the speed limit or battling for the right of way are just "little violations." But such people don't realize that it's just a short step from law breaker to life taker. That's why safety officials want our citizens to stop this so-called "Little Law breaking" because such actions contribute heavily to our annual death toll of 1500 traffic victims.

It's been said that when laws are obeyed deaths go down. And while there's nothing that will improve a man's driving like having a patrol car follow him, a better objective is to get drivers to observe laws voluntarily.

Everyone who drives should realize his responsibility for safety and to obey the traffic laws because he wants to — not because he's afraid of getting a ticket.

Thus far and sadly there seem to be too few of the latter specie.

THE CHOWAN ROOM, furnishings circa 1725. The authenticity of the 15 rooms seen in the Museum of Early Southern Decorative Arts is reflected here in a room reproduced from an Eastern North Carolina home of the period. Note the unpainted paneling, unusual in a time that preferred to paint decorative wood. The window treatment, however, was in high style, as you can see in the Austrian blinds, made from an antique bourette. The furnishings, all crafted by Southern cabinetmakers, are of the William and Mary period.

NEWS AND COMMENT FROM OUR RALEIGH BUREAU
2615 Oberlin Road

GAVE UP . . . Like students on a math exam, members of the House and State Senate had paper-and-pencil ready when their Governor appeared on the scene to give his budget message.

Prize Pupils Edwin Gill and Ed Rankin sat nearby, Gill merely looking on and Rankin, armed with a copy of the message, following every dot and title.

Pencils were flying all over the place at first. But as Dan K. Moore waded on in—deeper and deeper—the legislators soon gave up the chase.

"The millions rolled, and the solons folded their arms and sat back in silent meditation. He gave them a lot of sugar to help the medicine go down."

AT FRONT . . . Raleigh likes the teamwork of Gov. and Mrs. Dan K. Moore. He seems at his best when she's around; and vice versa.

Nobody, and this includes the chairmen of the House and Senate Finance Committees, gave the Governor more rapt attention than Mrs. Moore as he spoke of his spending plans. She and her secretary preceded him into the Hall of the House (Governors' addresses are always given in the House, more chairs there, etc.) and sat only a few feet away.

Members of the Senate, being visitors, had to take the chairs set up for them. They were of the folding type and were as hard as the Moore figures.

CREDIT . . . Like many another agency and individual these days, our State is worried about its credit rating. It does not want to overextend itself.

We do not want to overdo our ability to buy or to borrow.

This is the main reason Gov. Dan K. Moore, at the bitter last, resisted the temptation to ask for another bond issue for new buildings, etc., at institutions throughout the State. He didn't come right out and say so—but hinted broadly at it in his financial message.

If everything goes well, we will add $300,000,000 to our indebtedness within the next eight months. Moreover, cities and towns all over Tarheelia are borrowing money, are in debt.

But despite all this—and thanks to our reputation to the effect that "good government is a habit in North Carolina," we run triple-A, strictly top drawer, in our Wall Street credit ratings.

This means: 1. Reader lenders, 2. Low interest rates.

Letters To The Editor

Mr. Gordon Tomlinson

Editor
Davie County Enterprise-Record
Mocksville, North Carolina

Dear Gordon:

I want you to know that I enjoy reading your newspaper — particularly, the editorials.

The people of Davie County are indeed fortunate in having such an informative and entertaining newspaper available to them. I know they appreciate it.

Thanks very much for keeping the Savings Bonds Program on your complimentary mailing list; and by the way, we are grateful for your use of Savings Bonds material, too.

Sincerely,

WALTER P. JOHNSON
State Director

MATURITY . . . Looking around casually while the Governor plowed along with his figures, we noted the close attention his talk was receiving from Bob Scott, Lieutenant-Governor and the man some say will succeed him.

The No. 2 official sat just in back of the Governor.

As we watched young Bob Scott, here came a messenger bringing a note. The solemnity of the occasion, the importance of the speech, is never so great but that some notewriter does not have to have delivered in the middle of it, a message. This goes through the usual routine of going, hand to hand, to the proper person. It never fails.

And, we say in all reverence, that even if our Lord were to appear in North Carolina on his Second Arrival —and particularly among legislators —his utterances would run into competition from note-passers.

As Lt. Gov. Scott leaned over we noticed that he has a big bald spot coming right there on the back of his noggin. At first, frankly, we were shocked but then quietly pleased to feel that the late Kerr Scott's son, alas is no longer a child, but a full-blown, balding, man.

TOO FAST . . . The Governor's friends say he feels there has been too much whoop-to-do — and not enough solid planning—in the establishment of community colleges.

Questions being asked about community colleges:

1. Why are their presidents receiving bigger salaries (up to $18,000 per year) than some of other State-owned colleges who have been faithful servants through the years?

2. Why are some community colleges being planned for areas in which fine old church schools are faced already with serious financial problems?

3. Will the community colleges follow the liberal arts road—with emphasis on English, history, music, social and political science, etc.—are go the industrial and technical route?

Within about five years we have built, are building, or plan to build, 12 community colleges in North Carolina. The able head of Community Colleges in N. C. is Dr. I. E. Ready . . . and with the way these colleges have grown and prospered under his direction, there is a feeling his second initial should be M . . . with an exclamation point at the end of his name.

It may be that the Governor is placing a question mark there.

STILL STANDS . . . Consensus following Gov. Moore's budget talk was that June 1 . . . or June 5 . . . along there, still stands as the most likely adjournment date for the 1965 Legislature.

As of this date, say oldtimers, it ranks as one of the strongest Legislatures — men, methods, approach, sincerity, experience — in many, many years.

This session of your General Assembly is about as free of foolishness and outside influence as any we have seen.

A widow getting social security benefits based on her deceased husband's earnings record will usually lose these benefits if she remarries. There are occasions when it is possible for the benefits to continue, however. Any widow who is getting widow's benefits and contemplating remarriage should check with her nearest social security office.

Uncle Dave From Davie Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

I see by the papers where a feller in Florida has poured himself a concrete front yard and painted it green. A heap of folks will figger he's crazy but he could be crazy like a fox. Back when I was a boy folks always had their front yard under a heavy grove of oak trees and they had no grass to mow, just let the hogs eat the acorns off in the fall. Sometimes, when the preacher was coming to take Sunday dinner, they would git the broom and sweep it off nice and neat. That feller in Florida has got plenty of sense, and the next time you got a little concrete felt over, Mister Editor, just pour it in the front yard.

Incidental, I was reading where a feller in Wisconsin was lamenting that, with all the wonders we've done in science and agriculture, we ain't never come up with a lawn grass that'll grow to a height of 2 inches and stop. I figger the U. S. Department of Agriculture has just overlooked this little item and now that it's been called to their attention they'll git on it pronto, or just as soon as the Congress appropriates $25,000 for the project.

And I see where one of them Washington column writers says Secretary of Defense McNamara is still fighting that Battle of the Belt Buckle. He has saved a billion dollars by closing down shipyards, Government hospitals, air bases, and Army camps but he can't git the Marines to wear a 10-cent belt buckle that is now uniform with the Navy, Army, and Air Force. They been working on this project now for three years and the Leathernecks was still holding out fer their special 35-buckle. According to this Washington column writer, McNamara was so mad about the matter he has got some clothes designer working on a uniform fer the Marines that'll have pants that don't need no belt.

The papers didn't give it no play, but I figger the top news item of the week was where some organization was trying to git Billy Graham to put on another crusade in Washington. I wish him well, but I don't think one man can do Washington any good. When Billy was there that other time he averaged about 100 converts a night, and I figgered that if he kept it up he could convert the nation's capital in 19 years and four months. Washington was built fer scheming, conniving and pleasure and it's got past where one man can dent the situation.

And a Goldwater Republican was asking Congressman J. J. Pickle of Texas and Congressman Claude Pepper of Florida to introduce a joint bill, any bill, in the Congress, claiming what the Great Society needed was a Pickle-Pepper bill.

Yours truly,

Uncle Dave

WASHINGTON REPORT

By
Congressman James T. Broyhill

VOTING RIGHTS

The routine working sessions of the House were interrupted last week by the unusual night joint session to permit the President to deliver his message on voting rights legislation. On the face of it, this was a message to the Congress, although the President appeared to be pointing his remarks beyond those assembled in the Chamber to the people of the country.

It was not until mid-week that the text of the President's bill became known. Hearings were begun immediately by the House Judiciary Committee and the predictions are that legislation in some form will be ready for debate within the next month. The proposal is sweeping in its provisions taking away State authority over elections in areas where the Attorney General and the Director of the Census Bureau believe discrimination is practiced. This results from the chaotic and tragic events of recent weeks.

Certainly, we can agree that the right to vote is the most precious and basic of all civil rights and must be guaranteed to all. If those voting rights are denied because of race or color, the Constitution plainly empowers the Congress to enact laws to assure that the purposes of the 15th Amendment will be carried out. The Constitution also reserves to the States the power to determine the qualifications for voters. It is on this balance that legislation must be considered, in my opinion, with important Constitutional questions cutting both ways.

CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICTING

Voting, Congressional representation, and the organization of State legislatures occupied much of the time of the House last week. Legislation was agreed to without significant opposition to set up general guidelines for the drawing of boundaries for Congressional districts. The guidelines are not binding, in themselves, since the power to determine how a State will be divided into Congressional districts rests with each State legislature. Nevertheless, the importance of this bill is two-fold. First, it states a Congressional policy that will guide the 50 legislatures. Perhaps more importantly, it is intended to be an aid to the Federal courts when challenges appear there.

The Constitution provides that the members of the House of Representatives will be chosen on the basis of population. Ideally, this is interpreted to mean that one person's vote carries the same weight in a Congressional district as the vote of another American in another district. As things stand, there are some notable distortions of this principle. Some members of Congress represent a million people while others come from districts of less than one-quarter of that figure. Suits are already pending in seven States on the question of whether the present division of their Congressional districts ought to be invalidated.

Under the new legislation, a system similar to a Congressional policy that prevailed from 1911 to 1929 would be restored. The first of the guidelines provide for Congressional districts to be created so that there is not more than a 15% deviation in population from the average for all districts in the State. In North Carolina, several of the present districts could not meet this test because they contain either more or fewer people than the formula would allow.

The bill also calls for the creation of geographically compact districts to avoid gerrymandering — the process of drawing the boundaries in an unnatural way for the advantage of one political party. Gerrymandering has been practiced at some time or other in every State and North Carolina is no exception. This new legislation would also prevent representatives-at-large and would rule out redistricting a State more than once every ten years.

With respect to State legislatures themselves, the Supreme Court has already decreed that both houses of a bicameral legislature must be elected by population alone. This "one man, one vote" theory has caused great confusion casting shadows of illegality over most of the 50 legislatures. Frankly, I feel that the people of a State should be allowed to decide for themselves if they wish to consider factors other than population in constituting one of the two houses of their legislature. If the present confusion is to be put to rest and if the people of each State are to make their own decisions in this question, a Constitutional amendment is needed. I have joined a number of my colleagues in pressing for Congressional action to start the process for such an amendment.

Average educational level of farm laborers has not improved over the last 20 years. In the South, hired farm workers have completed an average of seven years of school, compared with an average of almost nine years completed by workers outside the South.

Senator SAM ERVIN

Says:

WASHINGTON — The most typical scene on Capitol Hill almost any day last week was the hearing room filled with spectators while witnesses stated their views on legislation to a panel of Senators or Congressmen. At the 12th week, most of the major bills were moving at an accelerated pace on the committee level.

Even so, most of the traditionally controversial pieces of legislation were still controversial. Medical care for the aged was undergoing study in executive sessions before the House Ways and Means Committee. Federal aid to elementary and secondary schools was in House Rules Committee. Federal aid to elementary and secondary schools was in House Rules Committee hearings. Foreign aid, which appears to be a little more unpopular than heretofore was in the hearing stage before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Chairman Fulbright of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee recently criticized the approach of sending one package foreign aid bills to the Congress. Immigration had a week of intensive hearings. At these I attempted to point out again some of the basic defects in the proposed amendment to the McCarran-Walter Act.

Five of the major appropriation bills are in various stages of hearings by the Senate Appropriations Committee. These appropriation bills relate to funds for the Departments of Interior, Agriculture, Defense, Labor-Health, Education and Welfare, and Post Office. Hearings on our balance of payments problems relating to the protection of the dollar are being conducted by the Senate Banking Committee. Government witnesses have stated the nature of the problem and have outlined the Administration measures being taken to deal with it. Unanswered by the testimony is how well the new measures, will, in fact, protect the dollar.

In another vital field, the Senate Constitutional Amendments Subcommittee is conducting hearings on proposed amendments to the Constitution which would deal with legislative reapportionment. An intensive effort by state legislatures has emphasized the importance of the subject. Twenty-one of the necessary 34 state legislatures have requested that Congress call a Constitutional Convention to draft an amendment to deal with the Supreme Court's authority to determine state legislative apportionment.

The Armed Services Preparedness Subcommittee has been examining the Defense Department's proposed reorganization of the Army National Guard and the Army Reserve Forces. At issue are different judgments over defense policy and commitments, budgetary considerations, and the functioning of the two army services.

The recent closings of six national banks has prompted hearings by the Senate Subcommittee on Investigations into Federal supervision of national banks and banking practices and standards.

The introduction of a new civil rights bill could influence the pace of legislation in the weeks ahead. One thing is certain however. Up to this point, legislation has been moving rapidly.

60 Second Sermon

By FRED DODGE

TEXT: "Carefulness, though often wasted, is a good risk to take" — Unknown.

"No, Johnnie, 'his mother called to her small son, 'you cannot have the hammer to play with. You'll hit your fingers.'"

"No, I won't, Mummie," replied Johnnie. "Sarah is going to hold the nails."

Johnnie was being careful — of himself. Carefulness is a trait that always pays big dividends, but caution is often a wastrel. You have seen individuals so cautious that their talents waste away. They are never put to use. A careful person is growing and developing, building himself for greater responsibility.

Carefulness, attention to detail, taking pains to be right, is a trait that gains high rewards in business and personal contacts. In fact, there is no easier way for a person with modest talents to attain success. There is so little carelessness in evidence today that any careful person stands out brilliantly.

The rare person who is careful is sought eagerly and rewarded generously. If you would be marked as an individual of depth and reliability, someone who is marked for success, take time to be careful. It pays.

It's All A Part Of Life—

The Acceptance Of Criticism

Most people that deal with the so-called public come in for plenty of criticism . . . both for what they do and what they should have done. Being the editor of a newspaper certainly makes one very vulnerable to all types of critics.

However, there is an article by Dr. Herbert Spangh on this subject which sets the entire matter of criticism in its proper perspective. Written many years ago it was entitled: "When Criticism Comes" . . . and reads thusly:

"No one kicks a dead horse, and by like token no one kicks a dead man. If someone is kicking about you or at you, you have the consolation of knowing that you are alive and doing something, even if it is the wrong thing.

"No one likes criticism, but it is a part of life. We all get it, if we are active. The important thing is to learn how to take it and use it profitably.

"This motto hangs on the walls of a cannery. 'Don't gripe if I criticize you. I don't waste time cutting specks out of rotten apples.'"

"The party system of government grows and thrives on criticism. It is in a dictatorship that there is no place for criticism.

"I once heard of a civic club which regularly appointed from its board of directors an "objector". His job was to object to everything which was advocated for adoption.

"It is not a bad idea to have an objector. Most groups have one or more self-appointed objectors. They produce good results, if the objections are examined and studied.

"We should be thankful for criticism. It indicates at least that someone is interested in us and in what we do.

"In business it is by criticism that faulty practices are discovered and corrected. In the home circle, criticism is equally important for by it the family learns to live together in unity and cooperation.

"Constructive criticism is the best and easiest to take.

"When criticism comes the important thing to do is to examine it first before we get on the defensive, become irritated, or even angry. Irritation and anger warp good judgment.

"It takes self-discipline to take criticism, either constructive or destructive, but it is worth it. So the next time someone criticizes you, put your hand over your mouth and think a minute. If it is true, you should be grateful and do something about it. If it isn't true, then don't worry too much about it, but thank the critic and go about your business.

"The secret of successfully accepting criticism is to receive it graciously instead of belligerently. It takes largeness of spirit to do that, but it is worth cultivating."

Science Fair Winners Given

The annual Davie County High School Science Fair was held in the school's activity room on Wednesday, March 10. It was viewed by the public between the hours of 6:30 and 9:30 p.m.

There were a total of 47 projects entered in this year's fair. These 47 projects were then divided into two groups, biological and physical. Winners were chosen for each of the two groups plus an overall winner. In each case a ribbon was given to the winners. The overall winner and the two first place winners will enter their projects in the District Science Fair at Wake Forest. Judges of the projects were Frank Cox, Dr. Vic Andrews and Ed Goodwin.

The Overall Grand Prize was given to Larry Boyer for his project, "Circuit for the Specific Use of Phototransistors." Larry explains his project as being "an electronic device which by the use of Phototransistors (a resistance type cell which permits a flow of electricity when effected by illumination) can detect one of three geometric figures."

Three prizes were granted to the top three in the biological group. First was given to Randy Boyer for his project, "Effects of Soil on Growth of Tomatoes." Second was Peggy Wallace, "Four Germination Stages of Corn." Third was Michael Seamon, "Why Do Teeth Decay?" The physical group also had three top winners in its area. First place was given to Gerald Baker for his project, "Telsa Volts Master." Second was won by the team of Earl Groce and Kenneth Harper for their project, "The Fuel Cell." Third was won by Neal Essie with "Bubble Chamber."

Mrs. Newsome, who was in charge of this year's fair said, "The public felt it was good considering the number participating in it and the other activities in which many of the students were taking part. We hope that next year many more will become interested in it and take part by entering good projects."

Mrs. Calvin Petticoard and Mrs. R. C. COLORED NEWS

The world is sympathetic; the statement none can doubt. When A's in trouble, don't we think B should help him out? Of course we haven't time ourselves to care for any one. But yet we hope that other folks will see that it is done. We want the grief and penury of earth to be relieved. We'd have the battles grandly fought, the victories achieved; We do not care to take the lead, and stand the brush and brunt; At lifting we're a failure, but we're splendid on the grunt.

The Union of Churches held its monthly meeting Sunday evening at the Second Presbyterian Church. The Rev. V. S. Hall, pastor of St. John's Methodist Church, delivered the message. His topic was, "Who have Fled for Refuge?"

The local branch of the N. A. A. C. P. held its monthly meeting at Friendship Baptist Church in Coker, N.C. on Tuesday at 8 p. m.

Chevelle Malibu Sport Coupe

No matter how you look at it, this car makes a lot of sense.

If you're interested in value (and who isn't), the eleven features above give you a good idea why more intermediate-size car buyers are thinking Chevelle.

If you're looking for a wide power choice, Chevelle starts out with a standard 120-hp Six, an ideal city performer. After that you may order from a variety of engines that turn it into an even greater highway performer.

Room? Large door openings. Wide curved side windows for extra shoulder room. Great front and rear leg room. Those four, five or six passengers have it made. And so do you. Chevelle may seat like a big car but it handles like a smaller car.

Comfort? Thick wall-to-wall carpeting in Malibu models. Foam-cushioned seats. Easy-to-read instrument panel. The whole interior looks like those in cars costing far more.

Come on down to our showroom and take a drive soon. Chevelle begins to make even more sense after you've gone a couple of miles.

'Easter The Awakening' At Morehead Planetarium

CHAPEL HILL — A panoramic view of modern Jerusalem is featured in the 1965 version of "Easter the Awakening" which premiered at the Morehead Planetarium here this week.

The panorama, a surprise addition to this year's program, was composed from photographs taken last summer in Jerusalem. Roy K. Patterson, a Planetarium staff narrator climbed to the top of the Antonia, a fortress built by Herod the Great and one of the highest points in the city, to take the sequential photographs that make up the 360-degree view. Most of the points mentioned in the biblical narratives of the first Easter are visible in the color panorama.

The basic script for "Easter the Awakening" was re-written in 1962, but it has received major revisions each subsequent year. "The new panorama of Jerusalem is worth a trip to Chapel Hill, even if you have seen the spring program before," commented Planetarium Director A. F. Jenzano. "It appears twice in the program; once when the narrator points out and describes the buildings and sites of historical interest, and again to open the program pageant, when it is cross-faded with the panorama of Jerusalem as it may have appeared 2000 years ago.

The presentation embodies the coming of spring and the Easter story in their scientific and biblical context. Astronomical excerpts are drawn from the books of Genesis, Job, Psalms, Jeremiah, and the gospels. The sun, moon, and stars move across the Planetarium sky in accordance with the ordinances described at the earliest beginnings of the Judeo-Christian tradition.

The opening of the 1965 "Easter the Awakening" was described by premiere narrator Harvey W. Daniell as "the best we have ever had, and the opening night audience reactions prove it." Besides his regular duties as Planetarium narrator and UNC Lecturer in Astronomy, Daniell is chief instructor in the U. S. Astronauts' training programs at the Morehead Planetarium.

School officials may arrange for classes to attend programs at 11, 1 or 4, Mondays through Saturdays by advance reservation.

Public presentations of "Easter the Awakening" are at 8:30 p. m. on weekdays; at 11 a. m., 1, 3, 4 and 8:30 p. m. on Saturdays; and at 2, 3, 4 and 8:30 p. m. on Sundays.

The Morehead Planetarium will remain open on Good Friday, Palm Sunday, Easter Sunday, and Easter Monday, according to Jenzano, the director. Matinees will be scheduled throughout the Holy weekend to accommodate expected overflow crowds. Last year, the program was witnessed by nearly 20,000 persons.

Today's average farmer uses about 70 per cent of his gross farm income for the goods, materials and services for farm production, compared with 60 per cent in 1952.

Davie County Native Has A Large Potato Operation In Florida

The huge potato farm operation of George W. Smith in Homestead, Fla., was visited recently by Mr. and Mrs. George Hendricks and Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Sell of Mocksville.

Mr. Smith is a native of Davie County and formerly lived at Redland. He moved to Florida many years ago and established a large truck farming operation and now has extensive real estate holdings. He is a brother of Robert L. Smith of Mocksville. His son-in-law, who assists him in this operation, is a brother of Mrs. D. J. Mando of Mocksville.

The visitors report that Mr. Smith has 400 acres of Irish potatoes. Modern machines dig these potatoes and convey them onto trucks. They are carried to the processing plants where the potatoes are run off the truck on chain conveyors, and are washed and dried. The potatoes are never touched by human hands except by the girls that pick out the culls.

During the digging season approximately five carloads a day are shipped from this farm. They are bagged and sold under the name of "Sunshine Potatoes."

In addition to his potato enterprise, Mr. Smith has a block of modern homes which he rents, plus other rental apartment houses and dwellings.

Mr. Smith used to grow tomatoes but in recent years has gone solely into the potato business.

The day that the Mocksville group visited Mr. and Mrs. Smith and family was the event of his 72nd birthday.

MACEDONIA

By MRS. C. W. LEE

Sunday will be the fourth Sunday in the season of Lent. This indicates to us that Easter Day is only a few weeks away. We are now living in a season of preparation. This is also a season of sacrifice and introspection. To meet the challenge of the season one must take a personal inventory. It behooves each of us to take this inventory in all honesty and sincerity. Have we been closer to Christ in the past than we are today? If we have, then we need to rededicate our lives to His service.

We still have several sick people in our community. J. H. Plot, Jr., has returned home from the hospital. Mrs. Betty Fry has also returned home from the hospital. Earnest Cope was a patient in the Davie Hospital for a few days the last of last week. Mrs. Bertha Todd has returned home from the hospital in Winston-Salem. Mrs. Lola Douthit continues about the same at her home.

The name quilt, made by the Young Adult Class No. 1 of Macedonia Sunday School, was sold last week for $50. The money will be used towards the Building program of the church. This class, taught by Willie Cope, has been faithful in working on this and other projects.

A large group of Women of Macedonia gathered at the parsonage for a general meeting and pot-luck supper last Friday evening. An auction sale was also held and it was very successful. Mrs. Mitza Sapp, president of the Women of the Church, and Mrs. J. Taylor Loflin were the hostesses.

Mr. and Mrs. Travis Riddle and family have returned from a trip to Homestead, Fla., where they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. Bryan Cook.

Bulah Sheek, a student at Bob Jones University in Greenville, S. C., was at home for the week end.

Mrs. Nan Ellis celebrated her birthday last Sunday with a dinner. All of her children were present: Ben, Gilmore, Louise Bennett, Luther, Aubson, Ruth, Nancy Dinkins, W. A. Gene, Francis Reid, Betty and Patsy.

Mrs. John Cook's sister, Mrs. R. C. Bell, is staying with her since the death of Mrs. Cook's husband.

Mrs. Paul Foster of this community and her sister, Mrs. C. D. Liven-good of Winston-Salem have returned from a trip touring the Southern States. They went on one of the Moore tours. They toured many of the beautiful antebellum homes in New Orleans. Many of the lovely flowers were in bloom.

The teachers of the Primary Department of Macedonia Moravian Church met March 11. One of the things decided upon was to have an Easter Egg Hunt for the Primary children April 10; so that the teachers would have Saturday, April 17, to work on the graves of their loved ones. Each child is asked to bring three eggs.

Monday evening the Rev. and Mrs. J. Taylor Loflin and Janice ate
